syn, and profane God's ordinance, to baptize any other. Simon Magus when he was baptized, it is testified that he believed, Act. 8. 13. so by the ordinance of Christ, he was to be baptized, Mat. 28. 19. neither knew they him to be an hypocrite when he was baptized, til afterward. Thus are we bound by the rule of love, to believe that all rightly baptized in the Christian church, have the seal of forgiveness of sins, and are buried with Christ by baptism, and that by one spirit, we are all baptized into one body, Rom. 6. 3. 4. 1 Cor. 12. 13. And so mine opposite believing the church of Rome to be Christ's true church, and to have his true baptism, was bound also to believe them all to be of one body and one spirit with himself, til they manifest to him the contrary: which seeing they have not done by all their idolatries, heresies & impieties; it is not to be thought that ever people which will call themselves Christians, could do it. As for us, we know the covenant of Christ is not with Antichrist, or his whoreish church; though therein God hath many elect: but we know that his covenant is with the true Christian church, and all the members of it, although therein be many hypocrites and reprobates; both which are manifested in time by their fruits. We walk by the rules reviled to us of God: secret things are not for us to judge of, until they be manifested.

Where he concludeth, that thus the relation of the sacraments should depend wholly upon man, and not upon the Lord at all: it is a calumination without all color of proof. The relation is by mutual consent, the Lord offering his son Christ for salvation to all repentant believing sinners: we by grace having obtained faith, do thereby apprehend Christ for our savior, as in the word, so in the sacraments.

His next demand about ourselves and our baptism had in Rome; is a thing again and again answered, without running into Anabaptistry, whither he would so sayn drive us.

12. These men, err not a little, when they say that (popish) baptism hath not the relation of a sacrament to them, but is a vain idol and nothing, becausethey say of it, that it quite taketh away sins. Shall men's erroneous sayings and opinions make a nullity of God's ordinances, signs and seals? Can not God be true, though they be liars? &c.

Answ. Here is another repetition of that which he forealleged in his 6. reason or error; which I there refuted. Men's erroneous sayings, opinions, and doings, do disannul to themselves all God's promises, signs and seals: which are only conditional, if men repent, believe and obey; which grace God giveth to all that are Christ's. And if men believe not nor obey, and so be damned: their damnation impeacheth not God's truth at all, but confirmeth it; for he hath said of such, that they shall be damned. Mar. 16. 16. Joh. 3. 36.

Obj. Besides the relation in a sacrament, there is also to be regarded the commandment of God, who hath appointed it to be observed in the church. As Christ who was without syn &c, yet in obedience to the Law, was circumcised and baptized. &c. Therefore it should be syn in the church of Rome, if they should reject baptism and not keep it. Which doth plainly evince, that it is not a vain idol and nothing, (for then it were not syn but their duty to cast it away; and not to keep it at all) but that it is the Lord's ordinance &c.

Answ. The first is true, for without the word and commandment of God, it could be no seal of his covenant, or have any relation at all thereto. The second is a deceytful reason, concluding from the holy commandment of God, to the unholy keeping of it in Rome. It should be syn in them to reject baptism & the Lord's supper professedly: it is syn in them, to keep them as they do profanely. It were better for a man never to be baptized or eat the Lord's supper all his life, then to communicate with the church of Rome in either of these, as they profane them: for we may not do evil that good may come thereof, Rom. 3. 8. So his plain eviction that it is not a vain idol in their abuse of it, is but a plain fallacy: let him apply it to the other Sacrament, and it will appear. Antichrist hath transformed the Lord's supper, into an abominable massing sacrifice, and therein worshippeth a wafer cake for his maker and redeemer: this he durst not deny to be a notorious idol. But his reason (if it be good) will prove it no idol: thus. It should be syn in the church of Rome if they should reject the Lord's supper and not keep it. Which doth plainly evince that the Lord's supper in Rome (though changed by them into a wicked Mass) is not an idol, for then it were not syn, but their duty to reject it. The refutation hereof is this; Rome and all nations syn, that do not believe aright in Christ, and keep all his ordinances. The more that they openly renounce Christ or any of his ordinances, the more they shall add unto their syn. Yet in that they keep them not aright▪ but have changed the truth of God into a lie, and his holy ordinances into idols; they are also great sinners, for which if God give them not repentance, they are under wrath and damnation, 2 Thes. 2. 10. 11. 12. Of this point, I have spoken before, in answer to his 6. reason for the church of Rome.

His 13. and last error, is but a repetition of former matters, about the brazen serpent, God's ordinances and creatures considered in themselves &c, to which I have before answered; showing that it helpeth the Papists no more to clear them of idolatry herein, then the heathens of old, who made idols of creatures and ordinances, which in their own nature and first institution, were good and holy. And hitherto of his errors wrongfully imputed unto us.

To these, by his figure of repetition and multiplication, he hath added from the former grounds, Contradictions, Abuse of scriptures, Uaine distinctions and Anabaptistical assertions: all which being but the same things turned and repeated, and by me before cleared; I count it needless labor to make the same answers again, to his empty calumniation.

Of Circumcision in Israel.

THE reason why we repeat not the outward work of baptising with water again, such as have been baptized in false churches; is the example of the Israelites: who after their falling from God and from the Church, and after the Lord had given them the bill of divorce, when they repented and turned to the Lord, were admitted to the Passover, without any new cutting or circumcising in the flesh: 2 Chron. 30. Ezz. 6. And because I denied them in such estate to have true circumcision (which is the sign and seal of the righteousness of faith, Rom. 4. 11.) mine opposite as his manner is, chargeth me with very erroneous and ungodly assertions, and maketh a longsome discourse of the state of Israel, and of words and phrases used concerning them. And unto ten lines of mine, (in Animadv. pag. 70.) he giveth an answer of above 30. pages (in his Christian plea pag. 65. to pag. 96.) to blind his reader with many words. I will briefly show the insufficiency of his answers.

And first, that Israel after they departed from the Lord, his Temple, altars, sacrificers, and church; and made new Temples, altars, sacrificers, signs and a new church of their own divising; that Israel I say, from that time was not a true church, I have before shown my reasons in handling the state of the church of Rome.

Mine opposites first colorable reason, is from such scriptures as still name them the Lord's people, and the Lord to be their God, and to remember the covenant of their fathers Abraham &c, 2 King. 9. 6. &c. and 13. 22. 23.

Answ. I have heretofore answered, that this Argument, They are called the Lord's people, therefore they are his true church; is not to be granted. For 1. *Things are named in scripture sometimes, as they have been before, though they be not so still: as Abigail is called the wife of Nabal, though he were then dead, and she married to David, 1 Sam. 30. 5. Solomon was begotten of Uriah's wife, whereas she was then David's, Mat. 1. 6. Jesus was in the house of Simon the Leper, Mat. 26. 6. so named, because he had been a Leper &c. 2. They were so called in respect of their profession, that they would be so esteemed and named: though in deed they were without the true God, 2 Chron. 15. 3. as, O thou that art named the house of Jakob &c. Mic. 2. 7. 8. Thirdly, in respect of their calling unto him, and his covenant afterward, though for the present they were none of his: as, In that day, J will marie thee (Israel) unto me forever &c. Hos. 2. 18. 19. 20. 23. Thus the Gentiles were called Christ's sheep, because they should after be brought into his fold, John. 10. 16. and God had much people in Corinth an heathenish city, Act. 18. 10. 1 Cor. 12. 2. And the Jews to this day are God's people, and beloved, not for their present state which is cursed, but for the promise that they shall hereafter be graffed again into Christ, Rom. 11. 11. 20. 23. 25. 26. & 9. 4. with Esa. 59. 20. 21. Ezek. 34. 23.—30. Hos. 3. 5. Fourthly, in comparison with the Philistines and other heathens, they were called the people of the Lord; because they never renounced their God in name and professedly, but pretended the contrary. Fifthly, that God did not presently cast them off, in respect of calling them to repentance, and of their dwelling in the land, or as the scripture saith (in 2 King. 14. 27.) of putting out the name of Israel from under heaven. For his covenant was to punish them by degrees (Levite. 26. 16. 18. 21. 24. 28. 33.) and at last if they repented not, to scatter them among the heathens, til their uncircumcised harts should be humbled▪ and they rued their former syn▪ and then he would 〈…〉 his first covenant, and so receive them again to grace in Christ. Unto which I now add this sixth, that God called himself the God of Israel, and them his people, because of many among them that were in deed his; both such as yielded not to Jereboam's idolatry, but went to Jerusalem to sacrifice, 2 Chron. 11. 16. and seven thousand in Israel, which bowed not the knee to Baal, 1 King. 19. 18. and such also, as erring at first in simplicity, were by the Prophets brought to repentance: though the general state of the land never repented, but went on in their syn, til the Lord cast them out of his sight, as is testified in 2 King. 17.*

His next chief ground is the comparison of Judah, who likewise for sook the Lord, and sometime became more corrupt then Israel: so that if Israel were not in truth God's people and church, then Judah was not.

Answ. I have shown how Israel might be called God's people still: and why I judge them not to be God's true Church. For Judah, they changed not the constitution wherein they were set of God, made no new face of a Church, no new Temples, priests &c as did Israel. Therefore they did wickedly in the true Church, as often times greater impiety is committed in the Church, then among the heathens: yet the state of the church & of the heathens may not be compared; though the punishment of such as transgress in the Church, and repent not, shall be worse then the heathens, Mat. 11. 20.—24. Secondly, the defection of Judah was not general like Israel's, (though sometime the scriptures speak generally, when many are corrupted,) but even then when for their sins they were carried into Babylon, there was a godly company, compared to a basket of good figs, Jer. 24. 2. 5. 6. 7. which had cried out for all the abominations, & were marked and reserved of God, Ezek. 9. 4. &c. Thirdly, the state of Judah was often times reformed by many good Kings, as Josiah, Hezekiah, Jehoshaphat and others; the people brought to repentance, and the covenant renewed: but never so in Israel, by any king that there reigned, from their first apostasy, to the captivity. 2 King. 17. Fourthly, for the wicked troupes in Judah, that refused admonition, persecuted their brethren, killed the Prophets, maintained idolatry; for which the godly left their sinful communion; I hold them not God's true Church, or in his covenant of grace. Because the covenant was always conditional, (if men repent and believe) as I have before proved, and mine opposite himself hath granted. This may suffice, to his often repeated reasons, which are deduced and varied from the grounds aforesaid.

Touching 2 Chron. 15. 3.

IShewed from the Prophet Azariahs speech to Asa and all Judah; that Israel was without the true God, without teaching Priest, and without Law, 2 Chron. 15. 1. 2. 3. and therefore could not in that estate be judged to be in the covenant of grace.

Mine opposite laboreth to bring Judah itself also within this estate: but that hath no color with it. The distinction of names, Judah and Israel; the state of Judah under Solomon, Roboam, Abijah, and Asa, (though corruptions were come in,) plainly showeth it otherwise; and I leave it to the readers judgment. 2. he granteth, it may well be understood of the 10. tribes, and showeth good reasons for it: how then doth he take away the weight of the reason, that Israel being without the true God, without a teaching Priest, (God's true ministry) and without Law, could not in that estate be God's true church, in his covenant of grace▪ or have the true seals thereof unto them? He fayrly denieth the conclusion, It will not prove (saith he) that circumcision or the other ordinances of God had in Israel or in Judah, were false and deceitful signs &c. If it would, then it might be urged against Judah also; and where then was circumcision? &c. I answer; If there were no circumcision but among them that were without the true God, without his ministry, and without his Law: then was there no true circumcision in the world. For if we consider the first institution of circumcision, Gen. 17. and the Apostles doctrine of it, in Rom. 2. 25. 28. 29. & 4. 11. and the doctrine of Christian baptism now, answerable to circumcision of old: it is impossible that that people should have the true seal of righteousness and salvation from God in Christ, that are without God, and without Christ. No colorable excuses or distinctions will here avail▪ except men can prove an absolute promise of salvation whether men repent & believe or no: whether they be in God and Christ or no: Which is contrary to all the scriptures. Wherefore this one testimony is enough to overthrow all his long plea for Israel; as if they in this sinful stare, unrepentant, continued still actually in the covenant of grace and state of salvation. And what color maketh he, against this plain scripture? He first speaketh of forsaking God, what it meaneth, and how it is spoken of the Jews in the Prophets: namely of forsaking his Law, Temple, Worship, and service: and not simply of so dealing with the Lord himself, as the bare words and letter itself. might seem to imply.▪ For even in the defection of Israel, when Jeroboam set up the calves, yet still they intended to worship the Lord that brought them out of the land of Egypt &c. 1 King. 12. 28.

Answ. First observe, how here he would not have the bare words and letter▪ of the scripture to be insisted upon: yet is it his continual practice, and only colorable reasons. For the Temple of God, 2. Thes. 2. and the people of God, are his main grounds for the church of Rome, and of apostate Israel. 2. He omitteth the words which I cited, that Israel was without the true God &c: and speaketh of another phrase, of their forsaking the Lord; to ease his burden, which he found too heavy. 3. It is granted him, that by forsaking the Lord, is meant the forsaking of his Law, Temple, Worship and service: and not that they did professedly renounce God, but still pretended and intended to serve the true God: what would he infer hereupon? This maketh the more against his plea for them. The scripture saith, they were without the true God, without teaching Priest, without Law: this was true, either in their own account, or in God's; not in their own account, for they thought they still retained the true God, (even as the heathens of old, heretics, Antichristians and Jews at this day, persuade themselves that they serve the true God;) therefore they were such in God's account. Now God's judgment is always according to truth, when man's judgment erreth, and deceiveth himself. Thus then, though Israel thought themselves the true church, and to have the true God (as mine opposite also thinketh and pleadeth for them;) yet in the Lord's account, which is truth, they were without the true God, and without Law. So mine opposite hath the Israelites own erroneous judgment to help him; I have the Lord's judgment & his Prophets, against both him and them.

He then referreth us to his former book, where he shown diverse respects, how on their part they brake the covenant, but the Lord brake it not on his part, but called them to repentance &c. To which book of his I gave answer, and have in this also before shown, how he yieldeth me the main ground; namely that the covenant of grace is conditional only, if men repent and believe▪ Which seeing the scripture witnesseth that Israel did not, 2 King. 17. 13. 14. 15. 16. c they remained still without the true God, without teaching Priest, and without Law; til the Lord cast them out of the land, and scattered them among the heathens, which were without God and without Law, before them. And now what could their circumcision, Passover, sacrifices &c avail them; but seal up their further judgment, who had rejected the true God, but falsely retained and abused the signs of his favor, to their condemnatió.

Touching Ier. 3. 8.

GOD testifieth of adulterous Israel, J put her away, and gave her • bill of divorce, Ier. 3. 8. Then was she no longer his wife, nor he her husband: but the covenant of her spiritual marriage was disanulled even on God's part also. Yet the Israelites kept circumcision the sign and seal of his covenant, but by usurpation, not by right: so it was in their abuse of it, no true sign or sacrament unto them.

To this he answereth, that the Prophet sp•k• this in Josiahs days, at which time Israel was carried captive into Assyria. So this place is not to the point of the question, of their state from Jereboam's time, all the while they abode in the land.

Answ. First he takes it for granted, that by the bill of divorce is meant their putting out of the land: which though I should grant him (as I will not deny it, but leave it to further consideration,) yet it is to the question in hand touching their circumcision which they still retained, and were upon repentance received to the Passover, without any new circumcising in the flesh, Ezr. 6. 21. and he himself urgeth this very place of Ezr. 6. against the Anabaptists, to prove they need not baptize again: the same by as good right, do I urge against him. Yea and suppose that I erred in judging of their estate while they were in the land: yet this their estate after, is enough to prove my cause; namely that Circumcision, and so baptism usurped by false churches, or by them that are no church (as Israel now were no people,) need not be repeated. Whereas he pleadeth if Rome be not the true church, & have not the true baptism, we are to be baptized again. Now that in Ezr. 6. was many years after Israel's captivity, or divorce; for it was after Judah's captivity, and return after 70. years. When Gyrus, to whom the Lord God of heaven had given all the kingdoms of the earth, proclaimed the people's return throughout all his kingdom. At what time, as those that had been carried to Babylon, returned, Ezr. 2. to the number of 42. thousand and moe: so after in Darius days Ezr. 6. when the children of Israel which were come out of captivity, kept the Passover with joy, for that the Lord had turned the heart of the King of Assyria unto them, all such as had separated themselves unto them, from the filthyne of the heathen of the land, to seek the Lord God of Israel, did eat with them: Ezr. 6. 21. So they of Israel that had been captived in Assyria, and returned to the Lord, were received without any new circumcising, as they were also before in Hezekiah days, 2 Chron. 30. Which example being in the days of Ezra and other prophets, & written in the scriptures for our instruction: is a sufficient ground for us now to do the like, whom the Lord hath brought out of the Antichristian Babylon and Assyria, that we may eat the Lord's supper, and enjoy other his ordinances, without any new baptising with water.

The bill of divorce, he expoundeth to be the putting of them out of the land of Canaan, as out of the Lord's house or presence; from Hos. 9. 3. 15. 17. 2 King. 13. 23. A woman divorced, is termed (he saith) one that is cast out, or thrust forth out of her husbands house, Ezek. 44. 22. Thus some think excommunicats to have a bill of divorce &c. and then also, they are not to be esteemed as put out of the covenant of the Lord, but from his house and family, til they repent. So as upon their repentance, they ought to be received again into the Lord's house, without any new baptising of them again, which yet should be, if they had been put out of the covenant of the Lord. For baptism is the sign of our entrance thereinto: &c.

Answ. By this it appeareth, he takes the bill of divorce, for no putting out of the covenant; but out of the house, out of the land of Canaan only. Which if it be so, then the marriage of Israel, was no taking into the covenant but into the land of Canaan. And this agreeth well with the Anabaptists, who hold that Israel's covenant, was not the covenant of grace, but a carnal covenant & promise of the land of Canaan. It is known, that the bill of divorce, disannulleth the covenant of marriage, as appeareth in the Law in Deut. 24. First by the name C•rithuth that is Cutting-off, secondly by the lib•ty thereupon following, that she may marry another man; thirdly by the just cause thereof which is whoredom, Math. 19. 9. fourthly, by the consequent thereof, that a man having so put away his wife for whoredom, he also may without danger of adultery marie another woman; which cannot be unless the covenant of marriage be disannulled; Mat. 19. 5.—9. Fifthly it is confirmed by the copy of the bill of divorce used in the common wealth of Israel, as appeareth by their ancient records, in these words; Jn such a day of the week &c, J• N. the son of N. have voluntarily &c, dismissed & left and put away thee, even thee N. the daughter of N. &c. which hast been my wife heretofore, but now J dismiss thee, and leave thee, and put thee away, that thou mayst be free, and have power over thine own soul, to go away, to be married to any man whom thou wilt &c. Sixthly, it is testified by the Apostle writing to the Israelites, the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia &c, 1 Pet. 1. 1. and saying to them. Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy, 1 Pet. 2. 10. Whereby it is evidently proved, that their divorce was from the Lord, and from being his people, or partakers of his mercy in Christ.

Now whereas he gathereth from Ezek. 44. 22. that a divorced woman is called Gerusha, that is Cast out, or thrust forth, which he expoundeth from her husbands house: he might have seen better in the Law of Moses, (to which the Prophet there hath reference) where the like commandment is given, in Levite. 21. 14. which a little before, in verse. 7. is explained by God himself, Gerusha meishshah, that is, cast out or put away from her husband; according to which Law, and phrase, Israel was divorced and cast out, not only from the Lord's house and land, but from the Lord himself. Moreover he might have seen, in Deut. 24. 1. the bill of divorce in the woman's hand, and her sending out of her husbands house, to be distinct things, one following upon another. Again, a woman may of herself go out of her husbands house, & play the whore in another man's house, yet is she not thereby divorced: as for example Michal David's wife, was by her father Saul, adulterously given to Phalti, 1 Sam. 25. 44. so she was out of David's house, and had another husband in whose house she remained: yet David that had not given her a divorce, required her as his wife, and she was taken by Abner from her second husband, 2 Sam. 3. 14. 15. 16. Wherefore the bill of divorce or of cutting off is not from the house only, but disannulleth quite the covenant of marriage; so as they cannot without a new marriage be reunited. And the Lord, (as if he purposely would prevent all such vain pleas for Israel) useth in Ier. 3. 8. both the word put how away, and the word divorce, and this also in the form plural, thus, and I gave unto her, the bill of her divorces (or, of her cuttings-off;) as if he would teach us, that whatsoever divorce or cutting off belonged to such an adulterous wife, he had given unto her; and so not from the land but from the Lord also she was divorced. As yet further appeareth by Hos. 2. 2. plead with your Mother, plead; for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband; but if he had only put her out of the land, he was her husband still, contrary to that which the Prophet teacheth. And contrary to the Apostle, who writing to the dispersed of Israel, which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy, 1 Pet. 2. 10. hath reference to that Prophet, who promised, I will have mercy on her that had not obtained mercy; and I will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, thou art my God: Hos. 2. 23.

His applying this divorce to excommunication, is as strange. Excommunicates he will have to be as put out of the house and church, but not out of the covenant. Whereas excommunicates are (by our Savior's doctrine) as heathens and publicans, Mat. 18. 17. and heathens are not in the covenant. Again by Paul's doctrine, excommunication is the delivering to Satan, 1 Cor. 5. 5. 1 Tim. 1. 20. what that meaneth, we may learn by the contrary, in Act. 26. 17. 18. I send thee, to open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins &c. Wher the power of the Gospel is shown, in turning men from Satan to God, whereupon they repenting and believing, receive forgiveness of sins: so on the contrary, when men syn, and join obstinacy with it, and will not repent; they are by the power of Christ delivered from God unto Satan again, that is, are of the world where Satan is prince; and in that estate, deprived of the promise of the forgiveness of their sins, til they turn again unto the Lord.

Where he saith, upon their repentance they may and ought to be received, it is true, so ought the Turks and heathens: for God as he never made absolute covenant but conditional; so he never gave absolute bill of divorce, but conditional; for who so repenteth and believeth in Christ shall be saved. And whereas he saith, if they had been put out of the covenant of the Lord, they should be baptized again: it is marvel how he could not see himself herein, to be a very Anabaptist, or that which is worse. For if a man be baptized in the true church, as was Simon Magus, and fall from the faith of Christ, to become a Jew, or a Turk, or a paynim; and for his obstinacle & blasphemy be justly excommunicated: this man he thinketh, doth continue still in the covenant of grace; for he is but cast out of the church or house, not out of the covenant. Who ever heard such doctrine, that the covenant of grace should be continued to most wicked sinners, excommunicated for turning to Judaism or Paganism? Much lesser syn it were to err with the Anabaptists and baptize again, then to hold such an heresy. If he hold it not, but would grant that such are out of the covenant: then he saith, they should be baptized again, when they return; and so he that hath so busily set a snare to catch us in Anabaptistry, is fallen himself into it, or into a worse.

Now to deliver our souls from both these extremities, we are to observe the difference between the reviled covenant made with every particular visible church, and the unreveiled estate which is in God's secret counsel touching all the members of the catholic church the company of those that are predestinated unto life: for many are out of the covenant reviled, which yet are God's elect. As the Ephesians whiles they were heathens, dead in sins, were to all men's judgment, without Christ, without God in the world, and strangers from the covenants of promise, Eph. 2. 1. 12. who after they were called to repentance and faith, were no more strangers and forreyners, but fellow-citizens with the Saints, and of the household of God, Ephes. 2. 13.—19. in which estate they were in God's counsel before, being chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world, Ephes. 1. 4. On the contrary many reprobates enter into the covenant of the church visible, and as Simon Magus, do believe and are baptized, Act. 8. 13. they believe for a while, and in time of temptation, fall away, Luke 8. 13. Hereupon it cometh to pass, that the church not knowing certainly who are elect, and who not, but judging every tree by the fruits that appear; receiveth into the covenant and baptizeth all that profess to repent and believe in Christ unfeynedly: yet afterward seeing them to break the covenant and forsake Christ and will not be reclaimed, casteth them out, and delivereth them to Satan: in which estate, they cannot be said to continue in the covenant, or in the state of salvatiō; though the election of some of them standeth sure with God. Who when he of his grace giveth them repentance, they are restored again to the church; and then it appeareth that they fell for a time, but are raised again of God. And because when they were first baptized, they were not baptized into that particular church only, but are counted baptized into the catholic church, and into Christ, his death and burial, Rom. 6. 3. 4. therefore though they renew the covenant, yet their baptism is not renewed; for then it is manifested to the judgment of man, that the seed of God (though for the time it was not seen) remained in them, and therefore their syn was not unto death, 1 Joh. 3. 9. And this the Apostle teacheth us from God, saying. This is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins. As concerning the Gospel, they are enemies for your sake: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the fathers. For the gifts and calling of God, are without repentance, Rom. 11. 27. 28. 29. Where we see, that while men's sins are not (by promise of God) taken away, they are not in his covenant, (as is confirmed also by Heb. 8. 10. 12.) And in that God's gifts and calling (concerning his elect) are without repentance; they are to be restored into the covenant, when they turn unto the Lord, without any repeating of their outward baptism.

Where he addeth this reason, For baptism is the sign of our entrance into (the covenant) and the Lord's seal of his so receiving and admitting of us: as circumcision was unto the Jews; Though it may in some sense be admitted which he saith: yet not as he intendeth and urgeth it. For first, Abraham was in the covenant of grace, and justified by faith in Christ, before he received circumcision, Gen. 15. 6. Rom. 4. 3. And after that, he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised, Genes. 17. Rom. 4. 10. 11. Secondly the children of Abraham were borne in the covenant, and holy, 1 Cor. 7. 14. Ezz. 9. 2. and borne unto the Lord, Ezek. 16. 20. but were not circumcised til the eight day, Levite. 12. and such infants as died before the eight day, died not out of the covenant: not to speak of the women in Israel, which were in the covenant without circumcision in the flesh. Thirdly, Moses said to men women and children, ye stand this day all of you before the Lord your God, &c. that thou shouldst enter (or pass) into covenant with the Lord thy God; Dent. 29. 10. 11. 12. 13. Yet all which had been borne within 40. years before, were uncircumcised, and so continued till Moses was dead, Ios. 5. 2.—7. By all which it appeareth that men may otherwise enter into the Lord's covenant, then by Circumcision, or by baptism now come in stead thereof. How much more then, if they have been baptized before, and fallen from the covenant; may they enter into it again, without a new baptising with water? His other tautologies, I omit: being before answered.

But he thinks to have help from Jer. 3. 12. 13. 14. where God calleth Israel to return unto him, and he will not cause his anger to fall upon them; and saith, Turn o backsliding children, for I am married unto you; and I will take you one of a city, and two of a family and will bring you to Zion. Where amongst many observations, these are the chief, 1. That God dealt otherwise herein then a man doth with his wife whom he putteth away, and she become another man's; as he shown in Jer. 3. 1. 2 That these words The Lord thy God, are words of the covenant, Genes. 17. 7. 3<sup>lie</sup>. That he saith, I am married unto you; which the bestwriters expound to be the covenant of grace. 4. That he would take them one of a city, and two of a family, teaching that they should not stay one for another; & though the body of the people should remain obstinate, yet if a few returned he would receive them: which showeth the stability and eternity of his covenant, as Gen. 17. 7. which he performeth, if but a few be made partakers of that grace, as Rom. 11. 1.—5.

Answ. He erreth himself, and causeth to err, in not observing the scope of this scripture; nor the conditions propounded: and in not distinguishing the times, past, present, and to come; nor the covenant of the Law, and the covenant of grace.

The scope of this scripture Jer. 3. 6. &c. is to show 1. the transgressions of Israel and Judah; under the covenant of the Law: 2. the punishments inflicted for the same; 3. and a promise of another covenant of grace which God would make with them in Christ. Israel played the harlot, Ier. 3. v. 6. God called her to repent, but she repented not, v. 7. then God put her away, and gave her a bill of divorces, v. 8. yet Judah her sister, feared not but played the harlot also, and dissembled, so that Israel justified herself more then Judah, v. 8. 9. 10. 11. Then God seeing them both to be covenant breakers, promiseth of his grace, a new covenant to be made with them in Christ; which he proclaimeth first to Israel, if they repent, acknowledge their sins, and turn unto him, v. 12. 13. and so speaketh of his marriage with them, to weat with the remnant of them, one of a city and two of a family, whom he would bring to Zion, v. 14. unto whom he would give faithful pastors. v. 15. not as under the Law, and rudiments thereof, for the most excellent signs thereof, even the Ark of the covenant of the Lord, should not be remembered or visited anymore, v. 16. But Jerusalem, the Lord's throne (the Christian Church) should be for the Gentiles of all nations, v. 17. and for the Jews, and for the Israelites walking together, v. 18. Then showeth he the signs and fruits of his grace in them, manifested by their calling upon God, as their Father in Christ, v. 19. their weeping and supplication for their former sins, v. 20. 21. the Lord's promise of mercy to them that return, and their acceptation of his mercy offered, v. 22. shown by their humble confession of their sins, and just punishments, v. 23. 24. 25.

The same argument is in Jer. 31. both touching Israel & Judah, where after many promises, he speaketh of a new Covenant with Israel and Judah, not like the covenant made with their fathers, when he brought them out of Egypt, which they brake, though the Lord was an husband unto them: but a covenant, that he would write his Law in their harts, and forgive their iniquity; which Paul expoundeth to be the new Covenant or Testament now confirmed by Christ, Heb. 8. 8. &c.

Now to apply these promises which concerned future times & graces in Christ, to that present time whē they were in their sins, unrepentant, unbelieving, unforgiven; under the bill of divorce, and put away from the Lord: is quite to mysse of the mark which the prophet aimeth at. For though he speaketh to Israel as a body or corporation which continueth through many ages: yet not those persons then living, but their posterity are meant▪ for they perished in their sins (save some few that turned to the Lord) but their after generations found mercy. Neither can we deny (if we rightly observe the Apostles doctrine in Rom. 11.) but those and the like promises made by the prophets, do belong to the Jews even at this day (though for the present they are without the covenant in their own persons:) for when the fullness of the Gentiles is come in, all Israel shall be saved (saith he) as it is written▪ There shall come out of Zion, the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodlynes from Jacob. And this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins. As concerning the Gospel, they are enemies for your sakes, but as touching the election, beloved for the fathers.

The conditions propounded he observeth not, namely, Returnthou backsliding Israel, and J will not cause mine anger to fall upon you:Only acknowledge thine iniquity &c. But pleadeth as if they in that rebellious estate, were still in their persons, in the covenant of grace visibly; though God, because they returned not, had given them the bill of divorce. Contrary to the gospel, which saith, If we say that we have fellowship with (God), and walk in darkness; we lie, and do not the truth. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us &c. If we say, that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us. 1. John. 1. 6. 9. 10. Now this was Israel's state, they walked in darkness, and sins; and left all the Commandments of the Lord their God, they would not turn from their evil ways, nor hear the Lord's prophets, nor believe in the Lord their God; but walked in all the sins of Jeroboam, they departed not from them, until the Lord removed Israel out of his sight. And if any of them after their dispersion, returned to the Lord, they were then received: so also were the Gentiles that turned to him, and so the Jews at this day, that come unto Christ.

He distinguisheth not the times. For their marriage with the Lord, which he saith thebest writers expound of the covenant of grace: if he refer it to the future time of Christ; is true; but then it will nothing help those unrepentant sinners divorced from the Lord: for by the bill of divorce, the marriage is dissolved, as before is proved. If he refer it to former times, it agreeth not with the scope of the prophesy, as I shown: but if that be granted him, then his best writers will hardly prove it to mean the covenant of grace; for better then they, do show it to be the covenant of the Law, even Jeremiah himself and Paul his expositor. For Jeremiah in chap. 31. v. 32. useth the same word Baalti, J was married to them: when he speaketh of the old covenant made when they came out of Egypt, which was the covenant of works, not of grace; though they were then also in the covenant of grace, as they were in the faith of Christ. And Paul expoundeth that word Baalti, (according to the Greek version) J regarded them not, Heb. 8. 9. which is quite contrary to mine opposites purpose. But it is usual in the Prophets, to speak of things to come, as already done; as Isaiah prophesying of Christ saith, Unto us a child is borne, Isaiah. 9. 6. who was not borne til many years after. And so here the Greek version (so much approved in the New Testament) expoundeth this word Baalti, J am (or was) married; futurely thus; For J will rule over you; and will take youone of a city and two of a family, and bring you into Zion: so it is a prophesy of a future marriage with Christ: and accordeth to the Apostles writing unto that people, saying, ye are an holy nation, a peculiar people, &c: which in time pass, were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy. 1 Pet. 2. 9. 10. When was the time that Israel were no people, nor obtained mercy; unless when Lo-ammi, and Lo-ruhamah were borne, Hos. 1. 6. 9. and Ephraim was so broken, that it was not a people, Isaiah. 7. 8. Thus Peter testifying they were no people, (by which name Moses calleth the Gentiles when they were estranged from God, Deut. 32. 21.) and Paul saying that God regarded them not, or cared not for them, because of their breach of covenant, Heb. 8. 9. do overthrow all my opposites plea for them, in their most sinful and unrepentant estate.

That which he saith from Jer. 3. 1. that God dealt otherwise herein, then a man doth with his wife whom he putteth away &c: helpeth him not. First, he should say, then a man might do with his wife, for it was syn for such a man to return to his wife, it polluted the land, Jer. 3. 1. the reason whereof was, the man by unjust divorce, had caused his wife to be defiled, as the law closely teacheth, Deut. 24. 1.—4▪ which fault cannot be imputed to the Lord. Secondly, the Lord dealeth likewise with the Gentiles, when they turn from their adulteries, he receiveth them according to his former covenant and spiritual marriage with Noah and his seed, Genes. 9. 9.—16. Isaiah. 54. 1. 4. 5. 9. 10. So the promise being conditional, benefited not them that would not return unto him.

The last point, of the stablenes of God's promise, though but a few are made partakers of it, Rom. 11. 1.—5. is true: and concerneth as well the Gentiles as the Jews; for in all ages, God brought some of the Gentiles into his grace, as the whole history of the scripture showeth. Wherefore it is marvel how he could so insist upon the promise made to the Jews, & to their children in Act. 2. 39. whereas the promise of grace in Christ pertained also to the Gentiles as is testified by all the Prophets: Deut. 32. 43. Psal. 117. Esa. 19. 24. 2•. & 49. 1. 6. Ezek. 4•. 22

And whereas next he digresseth to speak of Judah, and from Esa. 54. 4. compared with Ier. 51. 5. would show how in one respect they were forsaken, and bare the reproach of widowhood, (to weet by their captivity in Babylon) and in another respect, they were not forsaken as a widow of the Lord, who yet remembered his covenant to show them mercy; he followeth his own wisdom in expounding the scriptures, & regardeth not the wisdom of God who elsewhere hath opened that prophesy, after a heavenly manner. The prophet Isaiah in chapt. 53. foretold of Christ and of his sufferings; and in chap. 54. he prophesieth of the Christian church: and beginneth, Sing joyfully ô barren (woman) thou that didst not bear c for moe are the children of the desolate, then the children of the married wife, saith the Lord. This argument he goeth on to enlarge, showing the former shame and reproach, which this barren desolate woman had, for her widowhood; & the contrary comforts that she should receive from her maker her husband the Lord of hosts. Here are two women intimated, one that hath an husband and children, another barren, desolate and in widowhood: whose estates God would change, as Anna prophesied, The barren hath borne seven, and she that had many children is waxed febl•• 1 Sam. 2. 5. This barren woman, Paul interpreteth to be, Jerusalem which is above, the mother of all us Christians; For it is written (saith he) Rejoice thou barren &c. Gal. 4. 26. 27. the fruitful woman was the earthly Jerusalem, the church under the Law, (answerable to Agar the bondwoman,) in bondage with her children, verse 25. For the Jews church was (in their legal policy) under the Law, as an husband: til being made dead to the Law, by the body of Christ, they were married to another, that they might bring forth fruit unto God, as the same Apostle teacheth, Rom. 7. 1. - 4. Now this heavenly Jerusalem consisteth as well of Gentiles as of Jews; and this woman bringeth forth children conceived by the immortal seed of the word, the gospel: whereas before the church under the Law, brought forth many Ismaels, children of Agar, servants, not free borne, to be cast out with their mother, Gal. 4. 30. Whether now is it safer to take this man's exposition of the earthly Jerusalem, the mother of the Jews; or to follow the Apostle, expounding it of the high Jerusalem, the mother of us all? But it would require a volume, to go through his many allegations out of the Prophets: where he worketh upon advantage of words and phrases, neglecting yea contrarying the main doctrines of the gospel, whiles he pleadeth for open obstinate and unrepentant idolaters, yea and such as were divorced from the Lord, that they continued notwithstanding in the covenant of grace in that estate.

Touching Hos. 2. 2.

WHeras the Lord testifieth of Israel, that she was not his wife, nor he her husband: and willeth her therefore to put away her whoredoms, left he stripped her naked &c. Hos. 2. 2. 3. Mine opposite laboreth by comparing the prophesies before, in ch. 1. and after in ch. 3. &c, to prove that this was not meant til Israel was put out of the land. And yet that putting out of the land, he maketh to be the stripping of her naked; which was an effect and reward of her former estate. And mixing the several prophesies together, (whereas in the 23. verse of the 2. chapter, the Lord speaketh of the days under the Gospel,) he giveth this conclusiō, Thus now she is a wife, and not a wife: she is a wife, but a wife of whoredoms, Hos. 1. 2. she is not a wife, that doth demean herself loyally as she should, but hath her adulteries between her breasts: Hos. 2. 2. And after a longer discourse, he inferreth, But what is this to the point of the question in hand, which is not touching the condition afterward, but concerning their circumcison and estate, from the time of Jereboam's apostasy, whiles they were yet in the land. &c.

Answ. He keepeth his wont, to pretend the question otherwise then it is. The point was indefinite about the circumcison of Israel in their Apostasy. These were his own words, The baptism of the church of Rome, is true baptism, as the circumcison in Israel's apostasy was true circumcison, and not to be repeated again. And if it be not a true baptism, it is a false baptism &c. He referred us not by any scripture, to their apostasy before or after they were put out of the land. I answered him in a few lines, and shown him from 2 Chron. 30. & Ezz. 6. 21. that there was no repeating of circumcison, therefore not of baptism. Those two scriptures he himself also now urgeth against the Anabaptists: the latter whereof speaketh of a time long after their captivity. Then I briefly referred him to 2 Chron. 15. 3. Ier. 3. 8. Hos. 2. 2. & 13. 1. to show their sinful estate to be such, as that the ordinances of God which they in show retained, could not be unto them the signs and seals of forgiveness, and of life eternal; and therefore were in their use of them false and deceitful. Thus neither he nor I, put any difference of their estate; though now he pleads it for advantage. But it is sufficient for to end our controversy, if the things I speak of, be after their captivity: for then returning with repentance, they were not recircumcised: so we, if we be baptized in false churches, need not be rebaptised. So he hath written many leaves to plead for the whore Israel; but where shall we find this soundly concluded, which I denied, that when they were not the Lord's wife, nor he their husband; then in that estate (were it before or after their captivity, let him take his choice,) their circumcison sealed unto them forgiveness of sins, and life eternal. This not being proved, he hath led his reader into a wood, where it would weary any man to follow him in his windings: and yet in the end, he shall not find that which his soul thirsteth after, touching their circūcison, when they were no longer the Lord wife. Now to his distinction, she is a wife, and she is not a wife: take it at the best, she is a wife of whoredoms, a wife threatened to be stripped naked &c. Where is the promise of forgiveness of her sins, unless she repented? And where is the testimony of her repentance? No where, (til Christ made the remnants of their posterity his wife, and his people, after they had been no people, 1 Pet. 2. 9. 10.) but whiles they were in the land, they grew more hard, unbelieving and unrepentant, 2 King. 17. 13. 14. 15. &c. But when she had the bill of divorce, Ier. 3. and was indeed not his wife, nor he her husband, but he had stripped her naked, and sent her among the heathens her companiōs: where now was the seal of the forgiveness of her sins, she abiding unrepentant? This is the thing that should be shown, which is not to be seen in all his large discourse.

And what help findeth he at the hands of the Chaldee paraphrase which he citeth thus, Rebuke the congregation of Israel, and say unto her, that she submitteth not herself to my worship, therefore neither doth my Word accept of her prayers: until she shall remove her evil works &c. Will this prove true circumcision among them? First it appeareth that the Paraphrast understood this of them whiles they were in the land, otherwise then he, which referreth it to their after state. Secondly, in that sinful estate whiles they worshiped or served not the Lord, but Idols (as after the Chaldee speaketh,) the Word of God, that is Christ (as himself expoundeth it) accepted not their prayers. And could they then offer any true sacrifice or administer true sacrament, when God testified that Christ was not their mediator, to accept their prayers? Seeing it is certain, that no man cometh to the Father but by him, Joh. 14. 6. Thus men may be overseen sometimes, to cite authors on their side, which either say nothing, or look quite another way.

Touching Hos. 13. 1.

THE last place which here I cited was Hos. 13. 1. where Ephraim offended (or sinned) in Baal, and died: whence I judged their estate to be dead in syn.

To this mine opposite saith, the same term and phrase is used by Christ, of the church of Sardis. Thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead, Rev. 3. 1. Should we now infer hereupon, that therefore baptism and the other ordinances of God, in the church of Sardis, were but in show retained therein, and could not be unto them the signs & seals of the forgiveness of sins and of life eternal: and therefore were in their use of them false and deceyefull, as were the ordinances of God, retained among the Gentiles? Would any man of heart and understanding, endure such blasphemy? Sayth not the Scripture, that the church of Sardis, was one of the seven golden candlesticks? &c.

Ans. A man of understanding, will discern things that differ, and be carried by judgment, not by affection. The syn of Sardis, was secret hypocrisy, the syn of Ephraim was open idolatry: the death of Sardis was discerned of Christ, (who searcheth the heart & reins;) the death of Ephraim, was discerned of men, who can judge but by the works. Sardis had a name among the churches, to be alive: when for the most part they were dead before God; though some things remained which are but ready to die, verse. 2. and a few among them, were worthy ones, and undefiled, verse. 4. Ephraim was openly known to be fallen from God to Baal, by the Prophets, and by the church of Judah. Hypocrites in all true churches, are dead before God, though alive before men. So Simon Magus was alive in the judgment of the Apostolic church, and baptized therein, Act. 8. when before God he was dead. His baptism was true baptism so far as men could judge: though to himself before God, he received judgment thereby, not being a worthy partaker. But had he been an open worshiper of Baal, and baptized or circumcised among the Baalists; it could not by men have been judged a true sign and seal of the forgiveness of his sins, he remaining unrepentant. They that should so affirm, should themselves not be far from blasphemy, before men of understanding, that know upon what conditions the covenant of grace is made between God and men. They in Sardis that were dead, that is without true faith, (for by saith, the just doth live,) could not by the sacraments or by any ordinance in the church be partakers of Christ, of his death or resurrection before God: so their baptism was to them no baptism. And had they been so discerned of men, their baptism should so have been judged by men. As the Canaanites in Shechem, their circumcision was uncircumcision, before men; and not the sign and seal of the righteousness of faith, when they had no faith: for the unbeliever remaineth in the state of damnation, Mar. 16. 16. and the baptism that saveth, is not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience towards God, as the Apostle saith; 1 Pet. 3. 21.

That which he further annexeth, that I say their reasons from Israel, might well serve for the times wherein John lived, when the true churches were many of them apostate: whereupon he noteth, my contradicting of myself &c. was a mistaking, that I distinguished not the state of Judah, which was a true church corrupted, from Israel a false church: and so the true churches apostate in the Apostles time, Revel. 2. & 3. from the false churches also in those times, 1. John. 2. 19. Into which oversight I fell, by their citing undistinctly, Jer. 3. and Isaiah 50. the one speaking of Israel, the other of Judah; as is to be seen in their Advertisement pag. 107. whereto I gave answer, in Animadversion. p. 103.

Secondly, he pleadeth, if Hose. 13. 1. be understood of death in syn, yet let it be well considered, whither it will therefore follow, that Circumcision now in Israel was not the Lord's sign and seal of his forgiveness of syn, but a false and deceitful sign in their use thereof, and no better then the ordinances of the heathen. For Christ said, Let the dead bury their dead &c. Luke 9. 60. was circumcision then among the Jews, a false and deceitful sign in their life thereof &c.

Answ. He runneth into his former error: the Jewish church in Christ's time was a true church, and Christ communicated in their Temple and sacrifices: Israel when they served Baal, was a false church: and no man might awfully communicate with their Temple and sacrifices. Christ speaketh not of the Church generally, but of such as he knew to be hypocrites and dead, though seeming alive: we speak of Ephraim generally, open offenders, serving Baal, and dead in the judgment of the Saints. The same I answer to his next instance of the church of Ephesus, which then when Paul wrote, was not the house of Baal, but of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth, 1 Tim. 3. 15. Moreover he citeth not my words sincerely▪ I spake of the seal of forgiveness of sins 〈◇〉 them: neither did I say, no better then the ordinances of the heathen, which the reader may understand, the ordinances devised by the heathens themselves; but I said, in their use of them false and deceitful; 〈◇〉 were also the ordinances of God, retained in other nations; as altars, sacrifices &c. touching whose estate I have spoken of before.

Thirdly he excepteth, that Baals worship was first instituted by Ahab, about 60. years after Jeroboam, and great difference was between Jereboam's calves, and Baals idolatry &c.

Answ. It is not material to our question, who spake of Israel's circumcision in their apostasy in general, before and after they were out of the land; as before I have manifested. 2. I acknowledge Ahab's syn was greater then Jereboam's, and false churches may grow worse and worse: yet Jereboam's calves, were also Devils, as the holy Ghost calleth them, 2. Chron. 11. 15.

Fourthly he instanceth, the 7000 in Israel, that bowed not the knee to Baal: 1. King. 19. 18. asking, what we shall say to these? were they not circumcised? or had they not the circumcision that was then in Israel? or was it not to them the Lord's seal of forgiveness of sins? &c.

Answ. The instance is good, to clear the controversy, by the help of other scriptures. In Rom. 11. Paul speaking of the rejection of the Jews, saith, Hath God cast away his people? Far be it: For I also am an Israelite &c. God hath not cast away his people which he foreknew. Then speaking of Elias prayer against Israel▪ and God's answer, I have reserved to myself 7000. men, who have not bowed the knee to (the image of) Baal. Even so then (saith he) at this present time also there is a remnant, according to the election of grace: &c. By this we are taught, 1. That if a few, or any one of a people be reserved of God, though the multitude be cast away; yet it cannot be said absolutely, that God hath cast away his people. And this may lead us to understand, why God called Israel his people in their apostasy; because some he kept from falling into it, some he brought out of it by repentance. 2. That those are in deed God's people, whom he foreknew: the rest are cast off. Now those which are foreknown of God, are described thus, that he also did predestinate them to be conformed to the image of his sonto▪ them he also called; them he also justified▪ them he also glorified▪ Rom. 8. 2▪ (ϕ) ▪ Thus are we led to judge who are God's people, when we see their calling▪ justifying▪ and gloryfying▪ that is their sanctification▪ ▪ Cor. 3▪ ▪8. by which i▪ charity we are to judge of their predestination, and estate in grace. 3. That as the remnant of the Jews, which embraced the gospel, were the election of grace, that is the people whom in charity we should judge to be elected of God according to his grace; and the others are blinded, hardened, cast off, til God give them repentance: so in Israel, they that kept themselves from the common idolatry of Baal, inwardly and outwardly, and retained the true service of God, were his election of grace, and to be judged his true people; the others that sinned in Baal, were dead; til God gave them repentance unto life. Thus the Apostles exposition and application of those 7000. in Israel; may help us to judge of their estate aright. And not because circumcision was unto them the seal of grace and of forgiveness of sins; to conclude, that therefore it was likewise to them that served Baal: for so we should prostitute God's grace and the seals thereof, to such as God condemneth and rejecteth.

Fifthly he instanceth the worship of Baal by Judah, Ier. 7. Judge. 2. &c. Wherto I answer (as before) that Judah in her constitution remained a true church, though corrupted: Israel being a false church, as hath been manifested. Neither was the defection universal and open as in Israel. As for such in Judah as so fell from God, and would not be brought to repentance, the Prophet telleth them they trusted in lying words, when they said, The Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord &c. Ier. 7. 4. 8. the Lord threateneth to cast them out of his sight, and forbad his Prophet to pray for them, Jer. 7. 15. 16. So their circumcision became unto them uncircumcision, Rom. 2. 25.

To this he objecteth, Though man's idolatry &c may make God's sacraments unprofitable to himself; yet can they not make them lying and deceitful signs, but that in the Lord's ordinance they are unto all and therefore also unto them, his true signs and faithful seals (on his part) of forgiveness of sins and life eternal. For, shall the infidelity of man, turn the truth of God into a lie? God forbid.

Answ. I have before answered, that all God's ordinances are in them selves, and on his part, holy faithful and true. They are true seals of forgiveness of sins, but to such as are worthy partakers of them, in faith; otherwise they seal judgment unto men: 1 Cor. 11. 27. 28 29. And it is not his ordinance, that open and obstinate idolaters and wicked men, should administer or receive them, Ezek. 44. 9. Numb. 15. 30. 31. Levite. 7. 20. Psalm.  $\langle \hat{\phi} \rangle$  . 1. 17. That men may turn the truth of God into a lie. the Apostle plainly teacheth, Rom. 1. 25. so may they the truth of his ordinances, into lies. But the truth of God, as it is in himself, or his faithfulness, is unchangeable: & if men believe not, or sanctify him not, they perish by the judgment of God, which is according to truth; and his faithfulness suffereth him not to save such, unless he make them first new creatures and believers; Joh. 3. 36. 1. Joh. 5. 10. 12.

Sixthly, he expoundeth Israel's death in Hos. 13. 1. to be (by the exposition of sundry writers) not death in syn, but slain for their sins; or their estate overthrown, or near utter destruction. &c.

Answ. Both may be true; that first they were dead in syn, and after destroyed civilly for their syn. God's judgmēts are according to men's deserts; he destroyed not the Amorites, Egyptians, and other nations, til their iniquity was full. Gen. 15. 16. Wherefore to condemn the exposition which I gave, because another consequent followed upon it, as the ruin of Ahab's house, or the like; is no fitme argument. And to his many expositors whom he citeth, I oppose one greater then all, even the Apostle in Rom. 11. before spoken of: who showeth the election of grace to be in the 7000 that worshiped not Baal: and not in the multitude of the Baalists. And if they were not of the election of grace, then were they dead in syn, though he and many say the contrary.

Finally he allegeth the sayings of the Prophet before and after, The Lord found Jacob in Bethel, and there he spake with us, &c, Therefore turn thou to thy God &c. Hos. 12. 4. 5. 6. 9. And, yet am J the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me. I did know thee in the wilderness &c. Hose. 13. 4. 5.

Answ. I have before shown, that the prophets speak to Israel, as a corporation or body, which after a sort continueth one and the same through many generations; when yet, as touching their particular persons or generations, they are different & contrary; as godly fathers in the state of grace and life, may beget wicked children without grace, and in state of death. Ezek. 18. 9. 10. 13. 14. 17. 18. &c. So the King of Tyre had been in Eden the garden of God, (a proselyte in the Church) Ezek. 28. 13. not that heathen king then living, but his predecessor Hiram, long before. 1. King. 5. So Paul speaketh of the Jews cast away of God, as the same people, till their last calling, Rom. 11. And I doubt not, but a man preaching to convert them at this day, might apply unto them the like sayings, I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, thou shalt know no God but me: J led thee in the wilderness &c. But always in such general phrases, the promises of grace belong only to such as believe and turn to the Lord: the others that remain hardened, shall perish.

And hitherto of his exceptions against the scriptures which I cited: although (as I shown) if they had continued God's true church in the land; yet whē they were for obstinacy in their sins cast out of it, had the bill of divorce, were not the people or wife of the Lord: their circumcision could be no seal from God unto them of forgiveness of sins, & eternal life, in that estate.

That which after he prosequuteth touching the heathens state, I have answered before. And as for his other exceptions or repetitions touching Israel; they are such as are before answered; and it is not a thing so necessary to be insisted upon, touching their estate before they were cast out of the land; seeing their circumcisiō in the ages following, (when the Apostle testifieth they were not a people, or partakers of God's mercy, 1. Pet. 2. and when all do acknowledge they had the bill of divorce, Ier. 3.) was not repeated when they came again to the Lord, Ezr. 6. 21. Here therefore I will end; and leave the things that have been controverted, to the discreet censure of the judicious reader.

THat it may appear how it is no new thing that we teach touching the Sacraments, and the falsehood of them in the church of Rome: I will here annex a few things, out of the Theses of Zach. Ursinus Doctor of Theology in Heidelberg: which are added at the end of his Catechism set forth by D. Pareus; among the Miscellanea Catechetica.

Of the Sacraments, Theses publicly disputed at Heidelberg, the 23. of August, anno 1567.

1. God from the beginning, hath adjoined signs or rites unto the promise of grace: which in the Church, are usually named Sacraments.
2. And Sacraments are signs of the eternal covenant between God and believers; that is to say, they are rites commanded of God unto the church, and added unto the promise of grace, that by them as by visible and sure testimonies, God may signify and testify, that unto them that use these symbols in true faith, he communicateth Christ and all his benefits, according to the promise of the gospel; and so may confirm in them, the confidence of the promise; and that the church may by these visible notes, be discerned from all other sects &c. Gen. 17. 11. Exod. 20. 10. & 31. 14. Ezek. 20. 12. Deut. 30▪ 6. Col. 2. 2. 11▪ 1 Cor. 5. 7. John.▪ 19. Heb. 8. 9. 10. Mar. 16. 16. &c.

3. Rites which are not commanded of God, or not instituted to this end, for to be signs of the promises; are no Sacraments.

8. The lawful use of the sacraments is, when they that are converted (to the Lord) do keep those rites which God commanded, to those ends for which they were instituted sacraments of God. Proof. That only is the lawful use, which agreeth with the divine institution. And the institution comprehendeth these circumstances of persons, rites, and ends. If these therefore be violated, the signs are abused, Isaiah. 1. Jer. 7. Psal. 50.

9. In this use, the things signified, are always received together with the signs: Mark. 16. 16.

10. But out of the use instituted of God, which is not without conversion (unto him); the ceremonies have no respect of a sacrament, neither are God's benefits (signified by them,) received with the signs. Proof. The signs of the covenant, confirm nothing to them which keep not the covenant, or which substitute other things in their place; or which refer them to another end. But Sacraments are signs of the covenant, whereby God bindeth himself to give us forgiveness of sins and life eternal freely for Christ's sake: and bindeth us to show forth faith & new obedience. Therefore they confirm not God's grace to those which use them without faith and repentance, or that use other rites, or to another end then God hath instituted. Moreover it is superstitious and idolatrous, to attribute the testimony of God's grace, either to the outward work without the promise, or to a work devised of men. Therefore this abuse of the Sacraments, hath not▪ God's grace joined with it, neither confirmeth it to any▪ as it is said, in Rom. 2. 25. Circumcision profiteth if thou keep the Law: but if thou be a transgressor of the Law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

11. The godly, do receive the signs unto salvation; the wicked, unto condemnation: but the things signified, can only the godly receive unto salvation. 1 Pet. 3. 21. 1 Cor. 10. 16. Esa. 66. 3. 1 Cor. 11. 17.

12. Yet in the elect, though they have received the sacrament unworthily, the fruit followeth at length after they are converted. Proof. The promise, and the signs of the promise which hath the condition of faith added to it, are confirmed, whensoever the condition is performed. And such is the promise, which is signified and confirmed by the sacraments. Therefore whether faith (which believeth the promise and signs) cometh either in the use, or after the use; the promise and things signified are received. Ezek. 16. 69.

Objections against the Theses of the Sacraments and the solutions of them, by D. Zach. Vrsinus: in public disputation Anno. 1567.

Object. 4. against part of the tenth position. The papists sacraments are done without regeneration. And yet they are Sacraments. Therefore they may be without (men's) conversion (to God.)

Answ. The second proposition may be denied, touching them that are not converted. For to such, the sacraments are no sacraments, that is, signs of grace; especially seeing they turn them into mere idols. But they are made sacraments unto them, that is, signs of grace, when (the Papists) are converted. And if they never be converted, they never become sacraments unto them.

Instance to an absurdity. They that deprave the words and the form of the institution, they overthrow the substance of baptism. The Papists do the first, therefore also the latter. Wherupon their baptism is no baptism; and we which were baptized in the papacy, must be baptized again.

Answ. For the first, they do overthrow the substance of baptism, namely to themselves, and to those which ⟨◇⟩ unto ⟨◇⟩ and are not converted but not unto those, which acknowledging their errors are converted, and do join themselves unto the Church of Christ.

Object. 6. against the twelfth position. That which brings condemnation▪ brings no fruit▪ The unworthy▪ usurpation of the sacrament brings condemnation▪ by the 11▪ position. Therefore it brings no fruit.

Answ. I grant all, before conversion: but after it, the unworthy usurpation, becometh worthy.

Instance. Condemnation followeth not conversion. The fruit of the sacrament received unworthily, is condemnation, by position 11. Therefore the fruit followeth not those that are converted.

Answ. We grant it, touching condemnation. But we speak here of the fruit of the sacrament unworthily received, which before conversion was condemnation, because of the unworthy receiving: but after conversion, it is changed into a good and saving fruit.

Hitherto Ursinus. Whereunto I will add this saying of Mr. Calvin, in his 111. Sermon upon Deuteronomy, (on Deut. 18. 22.) And what (saith he) is to be said of their sacraments? It is evident that they be mere witcheries in the Popedom, so as Jesus Christ is driven a great way off by them: and men make idols of the visible signs and lifeless creatures, and Sa•a• hath so imbrued the wretched world with his illusions, that men▪ are become stark beasts.

To all that desire to fear, to love, & to obey our Lord Jesus Christ, grace, wisdom and understanding.

THou canst not lightly be ignorant (gentle Reader) what evils and afflictions / for our profession and saith towards God we have sustcined at the hands of our own Nation: How bytterly we have been / an yet are / accused / reproached and persecuted wich such mortal hatred / as if we were the most notorious obstinate heretics / and disloyal subjects to our gracious Queen Elizabeth / that are this day to be found in all the Land. And therefore / besides the daily ignominy wet susteine at the hands of the Preachers and Prophers of our time / who have given their tongnes the rems to speake despitefully of us / we have been further miserably entreated by the Prelates and cheef of the Clergy: some of us cast into most vile and noisome prisons and dungcons / laden with irons / and there / without all piti• / detained many years / no man remembering our affaction: until our God released some of us out of their cruel bands by death / as the Cities of Londō / Norwich / G•oicester / Bury / and many other places if the land can testify. Yet here the malice of Satan stayed not itself / but raised up against us a more grievous persecution / even unto the violent death of some / and lamentable exile of us all; causing heavy decrees to come forth against us / that we should forswear our own Contrey & depart / or else be slain therein. This have our adversaries used / as their last and best argument against us / (when all other failed) followinge the steps of their bloody Prodecessors / the popish Priests and Prelates. Now therefore that the true cause of this their hostility & hard usage of us may appecre unto all men; we have at length amyds our many doubles / through God's favor / obtained to publish unto the view of the world / 〈◇〉 confession of our faith & hope in Christ / and loyal harts / to wards our Prince / the rather to stop the mouths of impious and unreasonable men / who have not ceased some of them / both openly in their Sermons & printed pamphlets / notoriously to accuse and defame us / as also by all indirect means secretly to suggest the malice of their own evil harts / thereby inveigling our sovereign Prince and Ru•s against us: that when the true state of the controversy between them and us shall be manifested / the Christian (or but indifficent) Reader may iuge whether our adversaries have not followed the way of Cain and a Balaam / to kill and curse us God's sernants without cause. For if in this our Confession appear no matter •orthie such mortal immitie and persecution / then we protest (good Reader) that / to our knowledge / they neither have cause nor color of cause so to entreat us / the nayneand entire difference betwixt their Synagogs and us / being in these Ar•cles fully & wholly comprised.

An other motive inducing us to the publication of this our testimony / is / the ru••• estate of our poor Contrymen / who remain yet fast locked in Egypt / that •ous of servants / in slavish subjection to strange LLs. & laws / enforced to bear the burdens and intolerable yoke of their popish canons & decrees / being subject every day they rise to 38. antichristian ecclesiastical offices / and many mot Romish statutes and traditions / almost without number: besides their high transgression daily in their vain will worship of God / by reading over a few prescribed prayers and collects / which they have translated verbatim out of the Mass-book / and which are yet taynted with man•• popish heretical errors and superstions / instead of true spiratuall invocation upon the name of the Lord.

These and many other grievous enormities are amongst them / not suffered only but with a high hand mainterned / and God's servants / which by the pour of his word and Spirit witness against & condemn such abominations / are both they & their testimony / rejected / persecuted & plasphemed. What a woeful plight then are such people in / how great is their iniquity / how fearful judgments do ab•• them? we have therefore / for their sakes / manifested this our Confession of 〈◇〉 vowed obedience unto that Faith which was once given unto the Daincts / whereby they may be drawn (God showing mercy unto them) unto the same faith and obedience with us / that they perish not in their sins. For how could we behold so many souls of our dear Contr•inen to die before our eyes & we ho•• our peace? And whereas they have been hecrtofore greatly abused by their tymeserving Priests / being givē to understand that we were a dangerous people / holding many errors / renting ourselves from the tue Church / because of some m••mities in men / some falts in their worship / Ministry / Church gouvernment / ••. that we were Donatists / Anabaptists / Brownists / Schismatics / &c. these few leaves (we trust) shall now clear us of these and such like criminations / and satisfy any godly heart / yea every reasonable man / that will but with an indifferent ear hear our cause. For we have always protested / and do by these presents testify vn to all mē / that we neither ourselves do / neither accompt it lawful for others to seprate frō any true church of Crist / for infirmities falts or errors whatsoever except their iniquity be come to such an heith / that for obstinatie they cease to be a true visible Church / and be refused and forsaken of God. And for this their renowned Church of England / we <sup>a</sup> have both by word and writing / proved it unto them to be false and counterfeit / deceyving hir children with va• titles of the word / Sacraments / Ministry &c. having indeed none of these in the ordinance and pour of Christ amongst them. They have been shown / that the people in Their Parish-assemblies / neither were nor are meet stones for God's house / meet members for Christ's glorious body / until they be begotten by the seed of his word unto faith / and renewed by repentance. Their general irreligious profanne• ignorance / Atheism and Machevelisine on the one side / & public Idolitrie / usual blasphemy / swearing / lying / kylling / stealing / whoring / an• all manner of imptetie on the other side / utterly disableth them from being Citizens in the new Jerusalem / sons of God & heirs with Christ and his Saints / until they become new creatures. Their slavish bondage unto the antichristian• tyrannous Prelates / whom they celibrate and honor as their Lord's & rever•n Fathers spiritual / accepting their popish Canons and Injunctions for laws 〈◊〉 their Church / their marcked Priests / Preachers / Parsons / •ars &c. unlewe of Christ's true Pastors and Teachers / running to their Courts and Confisterits at every summons &c. do manifest whose servants they are / & to whom they yield their obedience. Their learned Ministry even from the highest Arch-prelat to the lowest Vicare & half-Priest th•th been•by the pour of our Lord Jesus Christ-cast down into the smoky furnace of that pyt of bottomless diepth from whence they arose / revealed by the light of his word / to be strange / false / popish & antichristian / the very same / and no other then we•e hatched and advanced in their Metropolitan Sinagoge of Rome / from whence they have feched the very pattern and •old of their Church / Ministry / Service & Regiment / even the very express Character and image of that first wild beast of Italy / as all in whom an• sp•rk of true light is / may easily discern. With mese and many other like weighty arguments have we pleaded against that our whorish mother / hir Priests and Pre•te / which as a heavy mylstone presseth hir down to hell: for the vyalls of God's wrathful judgments are poured upon them / which maketh them so to storm rage and curse / gna•ing their tongues for sorrow & pain of these wounds / and not yet finding grace to repent of and turn from their sins. For when we have proclaimed this our testimony against them / how have they behaved themselves / but as savage beasts renting and tearing us with their teeth / never daring to come unto the trial of the word of God / either by free writing or conference / but greedily hunting after Christ's poor lambes / and so many as they could get into their paws / misvsing their bodies with all exqvisite tyranny in long and lamentable emprisonment / bedsies despite and reproaches without measure. So that through their barbarous cruelty 24. souls have penshed in their prisons / with in the City of London only / (besides other places of the Land) & that of late years. Manie also have they / by their immantie / caused to blaspheme and forsake the hath of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ / and many mo they terrify and keep from the same. For all this / yet were not these savage men satisfied / though blood in abonndance ran out of their wyde mouths / but they procured certain of us (after name years emprisonment) to be indighted / arrayned / condemned and hanged as scious / (how unjustly / thou Lord just and true knowest) Henry Barrow / John Greenwood (and John Penry) whose particular examinations / araignments and manner of execution / with the circumstances about them / if thou didst trully understand (gentle Reader) it would make thy heart to bleed / considering their vnchristi•and unnatural usage. About the same time they executed also one william Deus / at Thetford in Northfolke / and long before they killed two men / at Bury in •uffol• / Coppyn and Elias / for the like testimony. Others they deteyne in their •ysons to this day / who look for the like measure at their mercesse hands / if God in mercy release them not before. Our God (we trust) will one day raise by another John For / to gather and compile the Acts and Monuments of his later Martyrs / for the vew of posterity / though yet they seem to be buried in obli•ion / and sleep in the dust. Then will this last infernal Cergie also appear in their proper colors / and befound nothing inferior to their bloody predecessors •poisoned mal•ce and and tyranny but rather even to exceed them / in regard of the time. Alas for our poor Contreye / that it should be so again defiled with the blood of the sciens / which crieth loud from under the Altar / and speaketh no leter things for it / then did the blood of Habel. Needs must the righteous Lord referue a scarfull vengeance for such a Land / and make it an example to all Natons / if speedely they •urge not thewselnes by notable repentance. But oh how far are they from this / which harden their •arts against us / as did the Egyptians / and cease not to add unto their formor iniquities / still pursuing us with their accusio•ed hatred / who seek the welfare of their souls / & Offer them the things which concern t•eir peace / which they refuse. Thy peace o England hat hoorought thy •oe / and thy long prosperity / thy ruin / thou hast been fat•thou hast waxed gross / thy heart is covered / thow hast forsaken the God that made thee•and despised the rock of thy falvation / thy sins have reached up to Heaven / & God hath remembered thine iniquities to give unto thee according to thy worcks. Behold / the tempest of the Lord is gone forth with wrath / the wirle wind that hangeth over ••ll light upon the heads of the wicked / the indignation of the Lord's wrath shall not return until he hane doon / and until he hane performed the intents of his heart: In the later days thow shait understand it. ' Our God show mercy to them that are his in thee / and hastely draw them out of the fire / that they perish not •••...hy sins. And most af all we are sorry for our dread sovereign Queen / whom •...ee have alwayed loved / reverenced and obeyed in the Lord that she should so be •...awn by the subtle suggestion of the Prelates to smyte hir faithfullest subieers having hir finger so deep in the blood of God's children / whereby she hath not only befiled hir precious soul in the eyes of hir God / but also brought an evil name upon h•r meck and peaceable Government here on Earth / in all Nations rown about hir who do with greef behold that Land to persecute and waste true Christians now which was erewhiles an harbor and refuge for Christians perse•ted in other places. But as we are verily persuaded that hir Ma•s. clemenc• hath been much abused by the wretched vnconcionable false reports and instiga•ons of the Priests / so will we not cease (though we be exiled hir Dommions) with fervent harts to desier hir Nighnesse prosperity & pray that hir sins ma• be forgiven hir / lamenting that God's benefits / and great d••yverances / should 〈◇〉 foone of hir be for gotten / & so ill requited / by this hard usage of his poor servants for his fave. And if she proceed in this course / alas how shall she ever be able t• behold the face of hir God with comfort? wherefor our souls shall weep in secret for hir / and we will not ce•se to pray the Lord to show hir mercy / and open hir eyes before she die. And lykewuse for those honorable Peers hir grave Counselors / who also have consented to this our hard measure / although our innocence hath been sufficiently manifested unto the cōsciēces of some of the chiefest of thē / our humble request is / that they in the scare of God may weigh their proceedings against us / & remember their accompt that they shall shortly make unto the Judge of he•• and earth / where Christ will reckon unto them all the tribulations of his poor despised members on earth / as if they had been inflicted upon his own glorious person / and will render reward accordingly. The Lord give them true wisdom / th•• they may learn / at last / to kiss the Soone before he be angry / and they prrish in the way. As for the Priests and Preachers of the land / they / of all other me• / have bewrayed their notable hypocrisy / that standing erewhile against the English Romish hierarchie / and their popish abominations / have now so redely submytted themselves to the Beast and are not only content to yield their canonical obedience unto him / and receive his mark but in most hostile manner oppose and s•t themselves against us / not ceasing to add unto our afflictions / scorning and reviling us / and alienating the minds of many (◊) •pic hearted people / who are (we doubt not) iuchnable enough unto the truth / were it not that these their lying Proph•s did strengthen their hands / that they may not return from their wicked ways / by promising them life and peace / where no peace to. These have long busic• themselves in seeking out new shifts and cavils to turn away the truth / which presseth them so sore and hauc at last been dryven to palpable & gross absurdity• / seeking to daub up that ruinous antichristian muddy Wall / which themselves d•• once craftily under mine. And herein we report us to the learned discourses of Do. Robert Some / and Mr. Gistard who have so refereed their writings with reproaches / slanderous untruths / and false collections on the one side / and manifest digressions / shiftings & turnings from the state of the question in hand / on the other side / as we think the like presidents can hardly be shown in any writings of controversy in these t••es and specially Mr. Gistards last answer / which (◊) secmeth) he did in haste: wherein (◊) boys play / in skipping over many whole leaves of ••s adversaries book / (leaving thē both unanswered & untouched) he hath so wisely carried hunself in those tuings winch he professeth to answer as a man afraid once to come neers the battle and main coutroversie in hand / run••ing our into vain and frutlesse excursions / never approving by the word of God t•• places and offices of his Lord's the Prelates / with their retinue / Courts / Ci••n &c. neither the public (◊) ministry or people of this their Church of England. Fro be knew well (◊) adve••aries were fast locked & wa•hed in pry•o•from writing anymore / and their books intercepted / so that few men could ame to the brew of them: He might therefore deal as he lysted himself for as own best ad vantage / and be are the people in hand that he had confuted his Brownists and Donatists / for the prynt was as free for him / as the close prison or them. But God (we trust) will give means one day / that some things / •...ch as yet are hid / shall come to light. In the mean time / thow for thy satis•...ing (Christian Reader) examine the man's writings / and see how he hath an•...ered unto these criminations / or purged his Church of them. A TRVE CONFESSON OF THE FAITH, AND HVMBLE ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF THE ALEgeance, which we hir Majesty's Subjects, falsely called Browniste, do hold towards God, and yield to hir Majesty and all other that are over us in the Lord. Set down in Articles or Positions, for the better & more easy understanding of those that shall read yt: And published for the clearing of our selves from those unchristian slanders of heresy, schism, pride, obstinacy, disloyalty, sedicion, &c. which by our adversaries are in all places given out against us.

We believe with our hearts & confess with our mouths.

[Art. 1] THat there is but one God, one Christ, one Spirit, one Church, one truth, one Faith, one Rule of obedience to all Christians, in all places.

2 [Art. 2] That God is a Spirit, whose being is of himself, and giveth being moving, and preservation to all other things being himself eternal, most holy, every way infinite, in greatness, wildome, pour, goodness, justice, truth, &c. And that in this Godhead there be three distinct persons coeternal, coequal, & coessential, being everyone of thē one & the same God, & therefore not divided but distinguished one frō another by their several & peculiar property: The Father of none, the Son begotten of the Father from everlasting, the holy Gost proceeding from the Father and the Son before all beginnings.

3 [Art. 3] That God hath decreed in himself from everlasting touching all things, and the very least circumstances of everything, effectually to work and dispose thē according to the counsel of his own will, to the praise and glory of his great name. And touching his chiefest Creatures that God hath in Christ before the foundation of the world, according to the good pleasure of his will, ordained some men and Angels, to eternal life to be accomplished through Jesus Christ, to the praise of the glory of his grace. And on the other hand hath likewise before of old according to his just purpose ordained other both Angels and men toe, ternall condemnation, to be; accomplished through their own corruption to the praise of his justice.

4 [Art. 4] That in the beginning God made all things of nothing very good: and created man after his own image and lykenes in righteousness and holiness of truth. That straight ways after by the subtlety of the Serpent which Satan used as his instrument himself with his Angels having sinned before and not kept their first estate, but left their own babitation; first Eva, then Adam by hir means, did wittingly & willingly fall into disobedience & transgression of the commadement of God. For the which death reigneth over all: yea even yea even over infants also, which have not sinned, after the like manner of the transgression of Adam, that is, a tually: Yet are, all since the fall of Adam begotten in his own likeness after his image, being conceived and borne in iniquity, and so by nature the children of wrath and servants of sin, and subject to death, and all other calamities due unto sin in this world and forever.

5 [Art. 5] That all mankind being thus fallen and become altogether dead in sin, & subject to the eternal wrath of God both by original and actual corruption: The elect are redeemed, quickened, raised up and saved again, not of themselves, neither by works, lest a nie man should boast himself; but wholly and only by God of his free grace and mercy through faith in Christ Jesus, who of Good is made unto us wisdom, & righteousness, & sanctificatiō, & redemption, that according as it is written, He that rejoiceth let him rejoice in the Lord.

6 [Art 6] That this therefore only is life eternal to know the only true God, ⟨◇⟩ whom he hath sent into the world Jesus Crist. And that on the contrary the Lord will rēder vengeance in flaming fire unto them that know not God, & which obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 [Art. 7] That the rule of this knowledge faith & obedience, concerning the worship & service of God & all other christiā duties, is not the opinionis, devises, laws, or constitutions of mē, but the written word of the everlyving God, contained in the canonical books of the old and New Testament.

8 [Art. 8] That in thus word Jesus Christ hath reveled whatsoever his father thought needful for us to know, believe & obey as touching his person & Offices, in whom all the promises of God are yea, & in whom they are Amen to the praise of God through us.

9 [Art. 9] That touching his person, the Lord Jesus, of whō Moses & the Prophets wrote, & whō the Apostles preached, is the everlasting Son of God, by eternal generation, the brightness of his Fathers glory, & the engraven form of his Person; coessential, coequal, & coeternal, god with him & with the holy Gost, by whō he hath made the worlds, by whom he upholdeth and governeth all the works he hath made; who also when the fullness of time was come, was made man of a woman, of the Tribe of Judah, of the •seed of David & Abraham, to wyt of Mary that blessed Virgin, by the holy Ghost coming upon hir, & the pour of the most high ouershadowing hir; & was also in all things like unto us, sin only excepted.

10 [Art. 10] That touching his Office, he only is made the Mediator of the New Testament, even of the everlasting Covenant of grace between God & man, to be perfectly & fully the Prophet, Priest & King of the Church of God for evermore.

11 [Art. 11] That he was frō everlasting, by the just & sufficient authority of the father, & in respect of his manhood frō the womb, called & separated heervnto, & anointed also most fully & abundantly with all necessary gifts, as it is written; God hath not measured out the Spirit unto him.

12 [Art. 12] That this Office, to be Mediator, that is, Prophet, Priest and King of the Church of God, is so proper to him, as neither in the whole, nor in any part thereof, it can be transferred from him to any other.

13 [Art. 13] That touching his Prophecy, Christ hath perfectly revealed out of the bosom of his father, the whole word & will of God, that is needful for his servants, either jointly or severally to know, believe & obey: That he hath spoken & doth speak to his Church in his own ordinance, by his own ministers and instruments only, and not by any false ministry at any time.

14 [Art. 14] That touching his Priesthood, being consecrated, he hath appeared once to put away sin, by offering & sacrificing of himself; and to this end hath fully performed and suffered all those things, by which God through the blood of that his cross, in an acceptable sacrifice, might be reconciled to his elect; & having broken down the partition wall, & there with finished & removed all those legal rites, shadows, & ceremonies, is now entered within the veil into the holy of Holies to the very heaven, and presence of God, where he forever liveth, and sitteth at the right hand of Majesty appearing before the face of his Father, to make intercession for such as come unto the Throne of grace by that new & living way And not that only, but maketh his people a spiritual house, a... holy Priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God through him. Neither doth the Father accept, or Christ offer any... other sacrifice, worship, or worshippers

15 [Art. 15] That touching his Kingdom, being risen, ascended, entered... into glory, set at the right hand of God, all pour in Heaven and... earth given unto him; with pour he now exerciseth over <...> Angels and men, good and bad, to the preservation and salvation of... the elect, to the overruling and destruction of the reprobate; communicating and applying the benefits, virtue and fruits of his prophecy and Priesthood unto his elect, namely to the remission, subduing, and taking away of their sins, to their justification, adoption-of-sons, regeneration, sanctification, preservation & strengthening in all their spiritual conflicts against Satan, the world & the... flesh & continually dwelling in, governing & keeping their heart in his true faith and fear by his holy spirit, which having once given it, he never taketh away from them, but by it still beget... and nourisheth in them repentance, faith, love, obedience, comfort... peace, joy, hope, and all Christian virtues, unto immortality, notwithstanding that it be sometimes through sin and temptation, interrupted, smothered, and as it were overwhelmed for the time. Again on the contrary, ruling in the world over his enemies, Satan, and all the vessels of wrath; limiting, using, restraining the... by his mighty power, as seemeth good in his divine wisdom and justice, to the execution of his determinate counsel, to wit to their seduction, hardening & condemnation, delivering them up to a reprobate mind, to be kept in darkness, sin and sensuality unto judgment.

16 [Art. 16] That this Kingdom shall be then fully perfected when he shall the second time come in glory with his mighty Angels unto judgment, to abolish all rule, authority and power, to put all his... enemies under his feet, to separate and free all his chosen from then forever, to punish the wicked with everlasting perdition from his... presence, to gather, join, and carry the godly with himself into endless glory, and then to deliver up the Kingdom to God, even th... Father, that so the glory of the father may be full and perfect in th... Son, the glory of the Son in all his members, and God be a in all.

17 [Art. 17] That in the mean time, bisides his absolute rule in the world, Christ hath here in earth a spiritual Kingdom and a canonical regiment in his Church over his servants, which Church he hath purchased and redeemed to himself, as a peculiar inheritance (notwithstanding many hypocrites do for the time lurk emongst thē) calling and winning them by the pour of his word unto the faith, separating them from emongst unbelievers, from idolitrie, false worship, superstition, vanity, dissolute life, & works of darkness, c making them a royal Priesthood, an holy Nation, a people set at liberty to show forth the virtues of him that hath called them out of darkness into his meruelous light, gathering and uniting thē together as members of one body in his faith, love and holy order, unto all general and mutual duties, instructing & governing thē by such officers and laws as he hath prescribed in his word; by which Officers and laws he governeth his Church, and by none other.

18 [Art. 18] That to this Church he hath made the promises, and given the seals of his Covenant, presence, ⟨◇⟩ blessing and protection: Here are the holy Oracles as in the ⟨◇⟩ of the Ark, s•e•lie kept & puerly taught. Here are all the ⟨...⟩ and sp...s of his grace continually replenished and flowing forth. Here is he lysted up to all Nations, hither he inviteth all mē to his supper, his marriage seast: hither ought all men of all estates and degrees that acknowledge him their Prophet, Priest and King to repair, to be enrolled •mongst his household servants, to be under his heavenly conduct and government, to lead their lives in his walled sheepfold, & watered orchard, to have communion here with the Saints, that they may be made meet to be partakers of their inheritance in the kingdom of God.

19 [Art. 19] That as all his servants and subjects are called hither, to present their bodies and souls, and to bring the guyfts God hath given them; so being come, they are here by himself bestowed in their several order, peculiar place, due use, being fitly compact and knit together by every joint of help, according to the effectual work in the measure of every parte, unto the edification of yt self in love; whereunto whē he ascended up on high he gave gifts unto men, that he might fill all these things, and hath distributed these gifts, unto several functions in his Church, having instituted and ratified to continue unto the worlds end, only this public ordinary Ministry of Pastors, Teachers, Elders, Deacons, Helpers to the instruction, government, and service of his Church.

20 [Art. 20] That this ministry is exactlye described, described, distinguished, limited, concerning their office, their calling to their office, there administration of their office, and their maintenance in their office, by most perfect and plain laws in God's word, which laws it is not lawful for these Ministers, or for the wholl Church wittinly to neglect, transgress, or violate in any parte; nor yet to receive any other laws brought into the Church by any person whatsoever.

- 21 [Art. 21] That none may usurp or execute a ministry but such as are rightly called by the Church whereof they stand ministers; and that such so called ought to gyve all diligence to fulfill there ministry, to be found faithful and unblameable in all things.
22. [Art. 22] That this ministry is alyke given to every Christian congregation, with like power and commission to have and enjoy the same, as God offereth fit men and means, the same rules given to all for the election and execution thereof in all places.
- 23 [Art. 23] That as every Christian Congregation hath power and commandment to elect and ordain their own ministry according to the rules prescribed, and whilst they shall faithfully execute their office, to have them in superabundant love for their work sake, to provide for them, to honor them and reverence them, according to the dignity of the office they execute. So have they also power and commandment when any such default, either in their life, Doctrine, or administration breaketh out, as by the rule of the word debarreth them from, or depriveth them of their ministry, by due order to depose them from the ministry they exercised; yea if the case so require, and they remain obstinate and impenitent, orderly to cut them off by excommunication.
- 24 [Art. 24] That Christ hath given this power to receive in or to cut off any member, to the wholl body together of every Christian Congregation, and not to any one member aparte, or to moe members sequestered from the wholl, or to any other Congregation to do it for thē: yet that ech Congregation ought to use the best help they can here unto, and the most meet member they have to pronounce the same in their public assembly.
- 25 [Art. 25] That every member of ech Christian Congregation, how excellent, great, or learned soever, ought to be subject to this censure & judgment of Christ; Yet ought not the Church without great care & due advise to proceed against such public persons.
- 26 [Art. 26] That for the keeping of this Church in holy & orderly communion, as Christ hath placed some special men over the Church, who by their office are to govern, oversee, visit, watch &c. So likewise for the better keeping thereof in all places, by all the members, he hath given authority & laid duty upon thē all to watch one over another.
- 27 [Art. 27] That whilst the Ministers and people thus remain together in this holy order and Christian communion, ech one endeavoring to do the will of God in their calling, & thus to walk in the obedience of faith Christ hath promised to be present with them, to bless & defend them against all adversary power, & that the gates of Hell shall not prevail against them.
- 28 [Art. 28] But when & where this holy order & diligent watch was intermitted, neglected, violated. Antichrist that man of sin corrupted & altered the holy ordinances, offices, & administratiōs of the church brought in & erected a strange new forged ministry, leitourgie and government & the Nations Kingdoms & inhabitants of the earth, were made drunken with this cup of fornications & abominations, & all people enforced to receive the Beasts mark and worship his image & so brought into confusion & babilonish bondage.

29 [Art. 29] That the present ministry retained & used in England of Arch. b<sup>bb</sup>. Deans, Prebendaries, Canons, Peti-Canons, Arch-Deacons, Chancellors, Commissaries, Priests, Deacons, Parsons, Vicars Curats, Hireling roving Preachers, Church-wardens, Parish-clerkes their Doctors, Proctors, & wholl rabble of those Courts with all from & under them set over these Cathedral & Parishonal Assemblies in this confusion, are a strange & Antichristian ministry & offices; & are not that ministry above named instituted in Christ's Testament, or allowed in or over his Church.

30 [Art. 30] That their Offices, Entrance, Administration and maintenance, with their names, titles, privileges, & perogatives they usurp over and in these Ecclesiasticall assemblies over the wholl ministry, wholl ministrations and affairs thereof, yea one over another by their making Priests, citing, suspending, silencing, deposing, absolving, excommunicating, &c. Their confounding of Ecclesiasticall and Civile jurisdiction, causes & proceedings in these persons, courts, commissions, Visitations, the rest of less rule, taking their ministry from and exercising it under them by their prescription and limitation, swearing Canonical obedience unto them, administering by their devised imposed, stunted popish Liturgie, &c. are sufficient proofs of the former assertion, the particulars therein being duly examined by and compared to the Rules of Christ's Testament.

31 [Art. 31] That these Ecclesiasticall Assemblies, remaining in confusion and bondage under this Antichristian Ministry, Courts, Canons, worship, Ordinances. &c. without freedom or power to redress any enormitie, have not in this confusion and subjection, Christ their Prophet, Priest, and King, neither can be in this estate, (whilst we judge them by the rules of God's word) esteemed the true, orderly gathered, or constituted churches of Christ, whereof the faithful ought to become or stand Members, or to have any Spiritual communion with them in their public worship and Administration.

32 [Art. 32] That by God's Commandment all that will be saved, must with speed come forth of this Antichristian estate, leaving the suppression of it unto the Magistrate to whom it belongeth. And that both all such as have received or exercised any of these false Offices or any pretended function or Ministry in or to this false and Antichristian constitution, are willingly in God's fear, to give over and leave those unlawful Offices, and no longer to minister in this manner to these Assemblies in this estate And that none also, of what sort or condition soever, do give any part of their Goods, Lands, Money, or money worth to the maintenance of this false Ministry and worship upon any Commandment, or under any color whatsoever.

33 [Art. 33] That being come forth of this antichristian estate unto the freedom and true profession of Christ, besides the instructing and well guiding of their own Families, they are willingly to join together in Christian communion and orderly covenant, and by confession of Faith and obedience of Christ, to unite themselves into peculiar Congregatiōs; wherein, as members of one body whereof Christ is the only head, they are to worship and serve God according to his word, remembering to keep holy the Lord's day.

34 [Art. 34] That such as God hath given gifts to enterpret the Scriptures, tried in the exercise of Prophecy, giving attendance to study and learning, may and ought by the appointment of the Congregation, to teach publicly the word, until the people be meet for, and God manifest men with able gifts and fitness to such Office or Offices as Christ hath appointed to the public ministry of his church; but no Sacraments to be administered until the Pastors or Teachers be chosen and ordained into their Office.

35 [Art. 35] That whereas there shall be a people fit, and men furnished with meet and necessary gifts, they do not only still continue the exercise of Prophecy aforesaid, but do also upon due trial, proceed unto choice and ordination of Officers for the ministry and servise of the Church, according to the rule of God's word; And that soe they hold on still to walk forward in the ways of Christ for their mutual edification and comfort, as it shall please God to give knowledge and grace thereunto. And perticularly, that such as be of the seed, or under the government of any of the Church, be even in their infancy received to Baptism, and made partakers of the sign of God's Covenant made with the saithfull and their seed throughout all Generations. And that all of the Church that are of years, and able to examine themselves, do communicate also in the Lord's Supper both men and women, and in both kinds bread and wyne in which Elements, as also in the water of baptism, even after their are consecrate, there is neither transubstantiation into, nor Consubstantiation with the body and blood of Jesus Christ; whom the Heavens must contain; until the time that all things be restored. But they are in the ordinance of God signs and seals of God's everlasting covenant representing and offering to all the receivers, but exhibiting only to the true believers the Lord Jesus Christ and all his benefits unto righteousness, sanctification and eternal life, through faith in his name to the glory and praise of God.

36 [Art. 36] That thus being rightly gathered, established, and still proceeding in Christian communion & obedience of the Gospel of Christ, none is to separate for falts and corruptions which may and so long as the Church consisteth of mortal men, will fall out & arise emong them, even in a true constituted Church, but by due order to seek redress thereof.

37 [Art. 37] That such as yet see not the truth, may hear the public doctrine and prayers of the church, and with all meekness are to be sought by all means: Yet none who are grown in years to be received into their communion as members, but such as do make confession of their faith, publicly desiring to be received as members, and promising to walk in the obedience of Christ. Neither any <sup>i</sup> Infants, but such as are the seed of the faithful by one of the parents, or under their education and government. And further not any from one Congregation to be received members in another, without bringing certificate of their former estate and present purpose.

38 [Art. 38] That though Congregations be thus distinct and several bodies, everyone as a compact City in itself, yet are they all to walk by one and the same rule, & by all means convenient to have the counsel and help one of another in all needful affairs of the Church, as members of one body in the common Faith, under Christ their head.

39 [Art. 39] That it is the Office and duty of Princes and Magestrates, who by the ordinance of God are supreme Governors under him over all persons and causes within their Realms and Dominions, to suppress and root out by their authority all false ministries, voluntary Relligions and counterfeit worship of God, to abolish and destroy the Idol Temples, Images, Altares, Vestments, and all other monuments of Idolatry and superstition and to take and convert to their own civile uses not only the benefit of all such idolitrous buyldings & monuments, but also the Revenues, Demeanes, Lordships, Possessions, Gleabes and maintenance of any false, ministries and unlawful Ecclesiastical functions whatsoever within their Dominions. And on the other hand to establish & maintain by their laws every part of God's word his pure Relligion and true ministry to cherish and protect all such as are careful to worship God according to his word, and to lead a godly life in all peace and loyalltie; yea to enforce all their Subjects whether Ecclesiastical or civile, to do their duties to God and men, protecting & mainteyning the good, punishing and restraining the evil according as God hath commanded, whose Lieuetenants they are here on earth.

40 [Art. 40] That therefore the protection & commandment of the Princes and Magistrates maketh it much more peaceable, though no whit at all more lawful, to walk in the ways and ordinances of Jesus Christ which he hath commanded his church to keep without spot and unrebukable until his appeering in the end of the world. And that in this behalf the brethren thus minded and proceeding as is beforesaid, do both contynually supplicate to God, and as they may, to their Princes and Governors that thus and under them they may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

41. [Art. 41] That if God incline the Magistrates hearts to the allowance & protection of them therein they account it a happy blessing of God who granteth such nourcing Fathers and nourcing Mothers to his Church, & be careful to walk worthy so great a mercy of God in all thankfulness and obedience.

42 [Art. 42] That if God withhold the Magistrates allowance and furtherāce herein, they yet proceed together in Christian covenant & communion thus to walk in the obedience of Christ evē through the midst of all trials and afflictions, not accompting their goods, Lands Wives, Children, Fathers, Mothers, brethren, Sisters, no nor their own lives dear unto thē, so as they may finish their course with joy, remembering always that we ought to obey God rather thē mā, & grounding upon the commandment, commission and promise of our Savior Christ, who as he hath all pour in heauē & in earth, so hath also promised if they keep his commandments which he hath givē without limitatiō of time, place, Magistrates allowance or disallowance, to be with them unto the end of the world and when they have finished their course and kept the faith, to •iue them the crown of righteousness which is laid up for all them that love his appeering.

43 [Art. 43] That they do also willingly and orderly pay and perform all manner of lawful and accustomed duties unto all men, submitting in the Lord themselves, their bodies, Lands, Goods and lyves to the Magistrates pleasure. And that every way they acknowledge, reverence and obey them according to godliness, not because of wrath only but also for conscience sake.

44 And thus do we the Subjects of God and hir Ma<sup>tie</sup>. falsely called Brownists labor to give unto God that which is God's, & unto Caesar that which is Caesar's, endeavoring our selves to have always a clear conscience towards God and towards men: And if any take this to be heresy, then do we with the Apostle freely confess that after the way which they call heresy we worship God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; believing all things that are written in the Law, and in the Prophets & Apostostles: And whatsoever is according to this word of truth published by this State or holden by any reformed churches abroad in the world.

45 Finally, whereas we are much slandered, as if we denied o<sup>r</sup> misliked that form of prayer commonly called the Lord's Prayes we thought it needful here also concerning it to make known that we believe and acknowledge it to be a most absolute & most excellent form of prayer such as no men or Angels can set down the like And that it was taught & appointed by our Lord Jesus Christ, not that we should be tied to the use of those very words, but that we should according to that rule make all our requests & thanksgyuing unto God, forasmuch as it is a perfect form and pattern containing in it plain & sufficient directions of prayer for all occasions and necessities that have been, are, or shall be to the church of God, or any member thereof to the end of the world.

Now unto him that is able to keep us that we fall not, & to present us faltlesse before the presence of his glory with joy; that is to God only wise our Savior, be glory, & Majesty & dominion, & pour both now & forever. Amen.

The Preface, to the Christian reader.

OF all sorrows that do befall the people of God, there are none so grievous as intestine troubles, which Satan raiseth among themselves. With these, above others, we have been often afflicted, the Lord so chastening our sins, humbling us, and exercising our faith and patience: whiles many among us, at sundry times, have turned aside from the way of truth, and holy commandment which God gave unto them. And not contented to stray themselves alone; they have sought by all means to draw others after them: if they follow not, they make war against them. What challenges & provocations we have had by others, the world hath seen heretofore by works published: what now is further come upon us, they may see in part, though not as we have felt. Our adverse brethrē, (although themselves have not answered the things formerly published against their present errors, yet) have not ceased to urge us with boastful speeches, private letters, and public treatises, to come into this field: and whiles we were otherwise employed, they have much insulted against us; and now, rather then we should be quiet, they take our private letters & print them: so restless is error in itself, so troublesome unto others. And whereas Ch. Lawn and others, first declined to these our Opposites faction, and afterwards fell from evil to worse, and have set out a lewd pamphlet, to the disgrace of the truth and of sundry men's persons: Mr Clyfton (who hath printed my letter with M. Johnson's answer,) entitleth his treatise, An Advertisement concerning Ch. Lawns book: but taking occasion by Articles therein printed, the most that he advertiseth, is against me. It was my desire and purpose to have left controversies, & have exercised myself in more quiet and comfortable meditations: but it pleaseth not God as yet, to grant my request therein. My prayer therefore is, that his gracious spirit may guide me in this conflict for his truth, and gyrd me with strength unto this battle. A few things I will here briefly note, touching our present controversy.

1. The power of Christ which he left with his Church, hath been continually assailed by Satan and his instruments. Diotrephes began the love of preeminence, in the Apostles time: Bishops have prosecuted the same, in all ages sithence: but the high Priest of Rome did get the victory, and wears the triple crown. Two pillars there are, which do most underprop the tower of Antichrist: 1. a proportion drawn from the government in Israel, 2. and a pretended privilege from Peters keys. Pope Innocent the 3. from Deut. 17.8.12. bolstreth his canon law, for exercising his jurisdiction over all causes & persons, proportionable to the high court and Synedrion of Israel. Pighius writing for his Lord's hierarchy, and Dorman (our countryman) his disciple, laboring to prove the same, plead from the Jews state, how God provided to take away schisms that might arise, by appointing a place and Judge to flee unto in all such doubts, Deut 17. and would have us think that God hath provided as well for his church now, which hath no less need then they. And because they had the same God, the same Christ, the same faith, the same covenant &c, that we, & the law contained a shadow of the good things to come, they think their proofs impregnable, concluding from the high Priests court in Israel, to their high Prelates consistorie in Christendom. Bellarmino and other popish writers (as this treatise after manifesteth,) allege the like arguments. Our opposites now, do plead against us, from the very same grounds: wresting a proportion from the Princes of Israel to the Ministers of the gospel, & telling us we may not be strangers from the polity of Israel, whereof see after in this treatise pag. 13.14. &c. neither of them observing, how the Angel foretold that Christ should destroy the City and the Sanctuary of the Jews, Dan. 9, 26. and so abolish Moses polity, & bring another into his house, wherein he should be found as faithful as Moses, Heb. 3, 2, 5, 6. And he hath forbidden his ministers to exorcise princelike authority, or dominion over his heritage; Mat. 20, 25, 26 1. Pet. 5, 1.3.

2. The Papists seek shifts & distinctions, to turn away the reasons that disprove their errors. Bellarmino being pressed, with judgments used heretofore in the Churches, would ease himself thus. There is a double judgment (saith he) public and private. Publik, is that which is uttered by a public judge with authority, so as others are bound to rest in that judgment. Private, is the sentence which everyone chooseth as true, but it bindeth no man. Public judgment in the cause of faith, is never given to the people, but private judgment sometimes is given them &c. In like manner these our opposites, who themselves heretofore reasoned well for the churches judging of sinners from 1. Cor. 5.4 — 12. do now seek to solute their own arguments, with the same distinction. There is also (say they) a public judgment and a private, &c. The public judgment cometh out frō the Lord and from his ministers, for him and the church or common wealth, whose public officers they are. The private judgment is to every particular person, touching their discerning, assenting or dissenting to or from the things spokē &c, as everyone is persuaded. If this their judgment agree with the public, it is already signified by the officers, and so is the same with the public. If some disagree, it is the dissent of such particular persons judgment frō the public, of what sex or conditiō soever they be, that so are diversely minded, & is to be regarded as there shall be cause. Alleging for this private judgment, 1 Cor. 6.2.3. Act. 26.10. with 22.20. & 21.25. with 15.6.22. & 16.4. with 1. Cor. 5.12.13. 1. Cor. 10.15. & 11.13. Now although these men quote scriptures, which the Cardinal doth not: yet are the places but for a show; they yield no sound proof of the question. For none of them do manifest, that in the Churches judging of sinners, Paul intended the Elders only should have a public judgment, and all the people beside, but a private: nay the contrary doth appear, by the whole argument of that chapter: to omit things which may be pressed against their distinction, from Act. 15.22.25.28. and other places. As, when he mentioneth sorrowing, 1. Cor. 5.2. he meant not that the Elders sorrow should be public, and the people's private. When he willeth that the wicked man, by the power of Christ should be delivered to Satan, and cast out frō among them, verse 4.5.13. he did not purpose that the Elders should deliver and cast him out publicly, & the people privately▪ all being gathered together for that business. When he would have them purge out the old leaven, that they might keep the passover with unleavened bread; verse 7.8, he meant not that the Ministers should purge the leaven, and keep the feast publicly, & the church privately: neither did the type of the Passover in Israel, teach them such a thing. No nor the judging of malefactors in Israel: for when the Magistrates gave sentence of death, and the people stoned wicked persons at the gates of the cities: the rulers fact was not then public, and the people's private; the scripture teacheth us not thus to distinguish, nor reason itself: but that the execution was a part of the public judgment. The Apostle writeth in 1. Cor. 5. to all the Church, blaming their neglect of the Censure, even as in 1. Cor. 11. he writeth to all, reproving their abuse in the Lord's supper. Wherefore, if mē will, they may misapply this distinctiō to all church actions, as to Sacraments, prayers, election of officers, and the like, making them public in the Elders, and private in the church or people: and so, as the Papists do also in other cases, give all lay men but a private spirit (as they use to speak,) and the ministers only a public. We find not that Christian people are more excluded from being public members of the body, and actors with their ministers in the Kingdom of Christ, then they are in the Priesthood and prophesy. And we know no reason, why the Pastor himself, if he consent not with the Church in casting out such an incestuous person, may not be said to have a private judgment, as well as another man. But by such popish distinctions, the clergy were severed from the laitie, and so the people by degrees, turned out of all. And what now do these our Opposits allow the people, if they see their Elders to corrupt judgment, & therefore do dissent frō thē; they make it but the dissent of particular persons judgment from the public, of what sex or condition soever they be, (the Christian Magistrate, when he is a member of the Church, not excepted, touching ecclesiastical proceedings,) and it is to be regarded (they say) as there shall be cause: they mean, I trow, as the Elders themselves shall see cause. And so if a church have 3. or 4. officers, and they corrupted with heresy or other vice, the whole congregation of people, of what condition soever any persons be, can pass no public ecclesiastical judgment upon them, by this doctrine: as for their private judgment or censure, the Elders themselves will regard it as there shall be cause. If this be not a Prelacie which the Elders would usurp, I know not what is. But of these things, see after in this Treatise, pag. 22, 23.

3. Come we to reproaches & disgracings of the truth and way of God; and we shall see among the Papists, how they disdeyn that the people should medle in matters of religion and judging of controversies. They complain of them for their ignorance, unrulynes, disobedience unto government: they say the Protestants reason as Chore Dathan and Abyram did, Nū. 16. when they rebelled against Moses & Aaron the Ministers of God; saying that there needeth here in the Church no head to govern it, because Christ is always with it. And did not those wicked men (saith the Papist) in their rebelliō against Moses & Arō, use the same reasō, when they told thē to their face, let it suffice you that all the multitude is holy, & they have God present with thē. And why then take you upō yourselves, the rule over the people of our Lord? As who would say, having no need of any other ruler, God being with them &c. The very same reproaches do our Opposites now, cast upon us, advancing the Elders, disgracing the people, by intimating their simplicity & error; charging us as oppugners of government; and abusing against us the example of Corah Dathā and Abiram, (as we have often heard with grief,) telling us, we go upon their grounds, and the like. For which we wish they may find repentance and mercy with the Lord, least he turn the evil upon their own heads, as Moses then did upon the Levites. For unto them it seemed a small thing that the God of Israel had separated them from the multitude of Israel, to take them near unto himself, to do the service of the Tabernacle, & to stand before the Congregatiō, and to minister unto them, but they sought the office of the Priest also: so these our opposers are not contēt with their office, to be separated unto the gospel of God, to stand and minister before and unto the Congregation, but will needs be the Congregation itself, and take more authority then is given them from heaven: whereof see after in this book, pag. 17.21.22.23. &c.

4. What enmity and persecution the Papists have raised against the withstanders of their heresies, I need not speak: all nations have felt of their cruelty. Neither would I here mention our opposite brethren's hard measure to us, but that themselves have printed, and seek to defend it, & cease not still to prosecute their purposes against us. Although themselves have lately professed, practiced, & publicly maintained the truths, which now they oppugn and persecute: and bringing innovation into the Church, would needs obtrude their errors upon our consciences, either in judgment or in practice, or in both. Yea breaking the peace which themselves had devised, agreed unto and confirmed; because their brethren would not agree to the undoing of themselves and their families, for the satisfying of their wills, as is after manifested in this treatise, pag. 123, &c. If the Lord should reward them according to their works herein towards us, their account will be heavy: but my prayer shall be against their evils.

5. Whereas many Treatises have been written in defense of the truths we maintain: these our Opposers answer them not; neither yet are they silent, nor will give rest unto others, but urge and provoke more writing still. For the Churches power now in controversy, our Apology bringeth nine reasons: these have answered only one of them, which is the sixth, drawn from Mat. 18.17. all the other they let stand. And yet what clamours have we heard, because their exceptions against that one, are not by us refuted! So in our other articles of differences, the scriptures and reasons set down in our Apology and other books, they pass by without answer. If they can make any colorable exception, they spare it not: otherwise, for want of argument, they fall to asking of questions, seeking if they can to ensnare us. Of which things the reader may see after in this book, pag. 45, &c. & 51. &c. & 59, &c. & 23, &c. The reasons pressed by our common adversaries, Mr Some, Mr Giffard, Mr Bernard and others, touching the baptism and church of Rome, & other like matters, these men now take up against us. The answers published by Mr. Barrow, and Mr Robinson, they pass by, as if they knew them not: yea their own former answers and writings, they take not away; and yet (which is most strange,) they ceass not to press us with the same things. I might well have stayed my pen upon these considerations, at least until our Opposers had given themselves further answer, and manifested what of their former profession they will still abide by: but their importunacie will not suffer me to be silent. Wherefore, (humbly craving the Lord's assistance,) for the defense of the faith once given to the Saints, & for my brethren's good (if it may be,) who are thus fallen into error and evil, I have written this answer to their ADVERTISEMENT, (so far as it concerneth me,) laboring by the word of God, to reduce them again into the right way. Their straying from it, is a reproach to the world, a scandal to the weak, dangerous to their own souls, and to me most dolorous, and my soul shall weep in secret for them, remembering our former amity & concord in the truth. And I shall yet labor for their good, both by prayer unto God, and by the utmost of my poor indevours otherwise, so long and so far as I may.

An Animadversion to Mr Richard Clyftons Advertisement.

Of the occasion of publishing this controversy▪ and of the state thereof.

AS they that styrr up wars and strife, impute the cause unto others, which lieth on them selves: so these our opposers, which will needs bid us battle, yet begin it as occasioned by us thereunto. They object 1. our private letters, and 2. printed Articles, as reasons moving them to print against us. But how weighty motives these are on their part; let the discreet reader judge, by these our answers.

1. I wrote no such letters to any, til they had printed their first book, and so possessed the world with the strife. 2. Mine were private, to friends & brethren; theirs public, even to enemies also. 3. They did it of their own proper will and motion; I was provoked sundry ways, by letters from abroad, and friends at home. For example, one writeth to me thus: Because it is doubted by some, not only whither [Mr Jo.] his practice with you, be answerable to his writing: but also whither in his writing there be not a discoherence, he being so intricate that many cannot apprehend his meaning: my earnest desire is, and the desire of many others among us, that you would afford us this favor, to signify to us by your letter, the certaynty &c. Another writeth to my friend thus, we not knowing well to send a letter unto M. A. thought good to write unto you to entreat him to write unto us concerning the differences that be amongst you &c. Those that come over of M. J. his side, say they hold no more concerning the Eldership, then M. A. hath written against M. Smyth: others say to the contrary; we do therefore entreat M. A. to certify us of the truth &c. Upon these and the like motives there and here by some that went over to their friends, I have written as I was necessarily occasioned privately, of the differences between us; making account my letters would come to our opposites hand, as is fallen out: for w<sup>ch</sup> I am not sorry, save so far as hereby they occasion their own evils to be further manifested, which I had rather (if so it pleased God) they were hid and buried by repentance. 4. Themselves have doon the like, and even this Advertiser well knows, who wrote to a friend in Engl. persuading against us that saying of the Apostle, Receiv him not to house neither bid him God speed: 2. Joh. 10. which letter (if we would have sought occasion as they have,) we might ere this have printed, with the answer. By this all may see, how partial these men are, which advertise the world of our writing coversly; when themselves (if it be a fault) are guilty of the same.

2. Touching the printed Articles, so often spoken of in their Advertisement; as we had no hand in, or knowledge of the publishing of them: so must we now show the reason, of giving them out, as we did, being even against our wills forced thereunto, by the frowardness of these our Opposers.

First, for the Scornful that printed those articles, they bear the world in hand, as if the Congregation whereof I am, and myself had sued others at the law, for the meeting house: whereas the contrary was publicly agreed in our Church, that we would rather bear the wrong, than trouble the Magistrate with our controversy: neither have we ever commenced such a suit. 2. But whereas two of our brethren and a widow, were chief owners of the building, they sought first in private friendly manner to come to agreement with their opposite brethren, but could not; then they desired to put it to the arbitrement of indifferent citizens, but the other party refused: whereupon our brethren signified to us, that they must seek help of the Magistrate, for the estate of some of them was such as they could not bear the loss and dāmage. And asked us, if the churches right were called in question▪ (for our adversaries plea was the church the church,) what should be answered before the magistrate? We, with signification as before, that we would rather suffer wrong, then sue at law; yet could not hinder them of seeking for their particular right: & if in so doing the churches right were called in question, that then some certain appointed, should answer for the same. 3. Those our brethren (before they went to the Judges,) entreated the help of the Burgemasters, the chief of the City: who labored by persuasion with our Opposites, to put the matter to the arbitrement of good men chosen by both sides, but they still peremptorily refused. 4. When it was brought before the Judges, they also at first both persuaded unto, and nominated two indifferent men to hear the case: but when our opposers came before them, they refused to stand to their arbitrement. The Judges the second time appointed them, with a mulct or forfeit upō those that refused their arbitrement: but our adverse party, persisted in their refusal as before: and urged sentence of the Magistrates, and pleaded that they which build on another man's ground, are by law to loose their building; which plea they made, because the assurance of the ground was made in the name of one man only, (now among them,) whose name was used but in trust, for any other might have had the same as well as he, as was proved before the Magistrate by sufficient witness. Now unto these Arbiters appointed, did our brethren willingly refer the cause, and to them (inquiring of the differences) were those Articles exhibited: which it seemeth those Libellers, or their Scribe, by some means that we know not of, procured a copy of, and so printed them. What cause now have these our opposers, to find such fault with our giving out those articles, which we were constrained by them selves to do, unless we should have suffered the truth to have been trodden down? They rather have cause to acknowledge their own stiff & refractory carriage, who would not yield to any good counsel given them, by our brethren, by Arbiters, or by Magistrates; til law forced them thereunto: and so have occasioned many ways, our common adversaries to rejoice.

3. But we have not (saith the Advertisement) as we ought, handled and justified the causes for which we separated; which were annexed at the end of the Treatise on Mat. 18.17. but have gone about also to possess the world with other matters. So after they urge again this point, that we leave the Treatise unanswered, which was purposely written upon that occasion and argument. I answer. 1. We handled and justified the causes for which we separated, by word of mouth in much disputing, before we left them: and this for them was as we ought, and sufficient, according to the Apostles practice, Act. 1•8.9. And now we are by their importunacie, called to handle and justify them before the world in writing: which whither we do as we ought, the sequel shall show, to the judicious reader. 2. It is not we, but they which have gone about to possess the world with other matters: for the things we charge them with, themselves in effect acknowledge; and as well as they can do defend them. But their declaration against us in the Treat. on Mat. 18. is defective; and the 7. points they article now against us, are superfluous; and injuriously wrested against us, as our answers to them shall manifest. The controversy in deed began upon the exposition of Mat. 18.17. but so as we have heard in times past Anabaptists begin controversy upon Mat. 28.19. who have reasoned both from that and all other scriptures, against the baptising of infants: so these opposites from Mat 18.17. and all other scriptures that we could bring, reasoned against the power of the people in judging syn & sinners. We formerly professing the Church there to be Elders and people jointly: they now striving that it is not so, but the Elders only, we knew it must be either the name or the power of the church, that they would have. And we never thought them so vain, as to make such a styrr for a name or title: we held therefore to the power which Christ hath given to his church for judging of them that are within, 1. Cor. 5.4.12.13. Of this when we pressed them, they first gave this answer, that the Elders had the rightful power to excommunicate though without and against the consent of all the people, but not the able power: even as David had rightful power to put Joab to death, but was not able, because others were too hard for him: 2. Sam. 3.39. To which we answered; in matters of this life, which are external, men may be hindered by outward force: but in the spiritual administration of the Church not so: God's word (by which they administer) is not in bonds, 2 Tim. 2.9. But if one man only have the power from Christ, he may use it, against all the world. So upon better consideration, a week after, they affirmed the Elders to have both rightful power, and able power, to excommunicate, though without and against the consent of all the people. And thus was full power put in the Elders hands: & of the people they said, their power and right was as in Israel, and in the primitive churches. But being asked what that was? answer was made, it was to be inquired. So the poor people are left to seek their right where they can find it: the Elders have enough, they have found that they sought for.

As Paul to dissuade the Corinthians from their error in denying the resurrection, shown them the dangerous consequences of the same, as that if there be no resurrection of the dead, then Christ is not risen, then the Apostles preaching was vain, then the Churches faith was also vain, &c. so I held it my duty to show the people the consequences of the former error, which though at first it may seem small, yet is it as a strong fort in the mouth of a country, which if the enemy win, the whole land is soon lost. For if all the power of receiving in and casting out, were given to the Elders: then our Church which was first gathered and constituted, did receive in and cast out members without Elders, was not planted by the power of Christ; neither had they authority to set up Elders if they could not again upon desert depose them, and if they had not power to judge their brethren, much less could they judge their Elders. And here came in the gathering of the church by virtue of popish baptism, and of receiving the ministry from Rome, as well as the baptism, and the like, which our opposites were and must necessarily be driven unto, for defense of their error. And as for the first gathering of this church, they said an error in the doing, overthroweth not the action: for Isaac erred in blessing Jacob in stead of Esau, yet the action did stand. To which we answered, that it was doon by a person who had power from God to give the blessing, and the action was also confirmed by the evidence of God's spirit afterward: but this people (upon our opposites doctrine) had no authority from God, to do as they did, neither could they show any confirmation of the work by God, if our former grounds fail us.

The sentence given in the end by the Elders that leaned to the Pastors error, was, not that discourse they speak of at the end of the Treatise on Mat. 18. (for that was privately penned afterward by the Pastor himself,) but a brief and yet large approbation of the things which the Pastor had shown, to be the truth; and a promise that by the grace of God they would so practice. Upon which sentence giving, we on the contrary approved our former profession published, and shown sundry reasons (which hereafter shall be set down) why we could not yield to their new vowed practice.

And because they always sought to extenuate the controversy, as if it were but a strife about words, or about the meaning of Mat. 18.17. We purposely prevented it, signifying expressly, before we parted, that we would bear with them in their understanding of Mat. 18.17. so as they would yield the point in controversy, (which was about the Churches power,) from other scriptures, showing it also by another case, that if we had to deal upon John. 1. with an Arian that denies the godhead of Christ, if he would plainly and sincerely yield to the truth of that doctrine, though he thought it not proved by John. 1. (where yet it is evidently proved,) we would bear with him therein. And this we still offer unfeignedly to these our opposite brethren, let them yet directly and plainly renounce the error itself touching the power of the church now engrossed into the Elders hands, and the other errors that necessarily flow from the same: and we will bear with their judgment concerning Mat. 18.17. though we think of it otherwise that do they.

Moreover seeing we offered much more, (which concerneth not only Mat. 18.17. but all other scriptures,) that we would notwithstanding our difference of judgment, have continued together, if our former practice might have been retained; and themselves in their Advertisement cannot deny this: how do they then bear the world in hand, that the breach among us was for the understanding of Math. 18.17?

Touching their Treatise on Mat. 18.17. the causes why I have not answered it are. 1. When others heretofore (as namely Mr. Smyth) wrote against the truth w<sup>ch</sup> they formerly professed: we all thought best not to answer, til the second and third time we were exceedingly provoked: for we considered how the common adversary would rejoice at our intestine troubles. The same I minded here▪ and these men should (if they were not partial) have doon the like. 2. I had experience, in former dealing with M. Smyth, of his unstayednes, that would not stand to the things which himself had written: I mind the like in these Opposites, who are not settled for the constitution of their Church and Ministry, upon any ground that I know of, unless it be popish succession. Their former writings about the Church and ministry, and their present estate, will not stand together. Seeing those books are unanswered by others, they should answer them (if they can) themselves; and show us by God's word what is allowable, what disallowable in them. Till they do this, who would willingly deal with them? 3. Ther are 9. reasons in that our Apology to confirm the power of the Church now in question: the foresaid Treatise dealeth but against one of them, leaving the rest there, and whatsoever is written of that argument in other our books, unanswered: what reason have they to cal so upon others to write, when so much is already written? If they yield us the cause, upon the other reasons, we will not strive about the meaning of one scripture, as before we shown.

4. The meaning of Mat. 18.17. is handled by Mr. Robinson against Mr Bernard (whose book, our opposites so much respected,) and the false gloses upon that text, sufficiently refuted: why do not these men answer the things there written, but cal still for more; as if all men must leave other studies, to follow them in their hunting for preeminence. 5. I have had intelligence of Mr. Robinson's further purpose to answer in particular that their treatise, as occasion shall be given. And in deed, I for the love and respect that I have always had to these now opposite brethren; have desired their conviction rather by others than by myself; who are both better able to perform it, and are likely to be more regarded than I, and to do it with less public scandal to the world: who desire nothing more, than to see us, that were so nearly joined, to sharpen our pens one against another. Thus have I been stayed hitherto, though now as the things in that Treatise are repeated in this their Advertisement, I shall discover also the insufficiency of their reasons there alleged.

Now as the Advertiser showeth by examples of troubles in churches heretofore, that the godly wise should not be offended at these dissensions: accordingly do I desire all sincere hearted for to walk. And further that he himself with others, would look into the 3. particulars that he allegeth. 1. For the troubles in Corinth, the Apostle composeth by showing the Church their place in Christ above their ministers, 1. Cor. 3.21.22.23. which might also if it were well observed, end the strife that is now among us.

2. The contention about Easter, as it was evil in itself, being about men's traditions: so was it as ill carried. For they learned not to redress things as Paul before taught, 1. Cor. 3. but contrariwise as Jerome after telleth us by setting up one Elder about others, that the seeds of schisms might be taken away. Which human wisdom furthering the mystery of Antichrist so far prevailed, that about this their Easter strife, Victor Bishop of Rome, determined to have excommunicated the East churches, and had doon it, but that Irenaeus blamed him and stayed it. Thus ambition having wrung the power first out of the whole Churches hands into the Elders only, and then out of the Elders hands jointly, into ones alone: began to work factions and styrrs in the churches, worse then ever before.

3. The troubles which they speak of, in the English church at Frankford in Q. Mary's days, is even a picture of our present calamities, and worthy of perpetual remembrance. For there when M. Horn the pastor with his fellow Elders usurped authority above the church; they were well withstood by the body of the congregation, among whom were sundry men of wisdom and learning. And to appease that strife, by the Magistrates counsel they agreed upon articles, which directly overthrow the errors so stood for by these our opposers. For thus the printed Discourse of the troubles of that church saith.

The Discipline reformed and confirmed by the authority of the church and magistrate.

Art. 38. The ministers and seniors severally and jointly, shall have no authority to make any manner of decrees, or ordinances to bind the congregation or any member thereof: but shall execute such ordinances and decrees as shall be made by the congregation and to them delivered.

44. The ministers and seniors elect, have authority as the principal members of the congregation, to govern the said congregation according to God's word, and the discipline of the church: and also to call together and assemble the said congregation for causes and at times, as shall to them seem expedient. Provided always, that if any dissention shall happen between the ministers and seniors, or the more part of them, and the body of the congregation, or the more part of it: and that the said ministers and seniors in such controversy, being desired thereto, will not assemble the congregation; that then the congregation may of itself come together, and consult and determine as concerning the said controversy or controversies, and the said assembly to be a lawful congregation, and that which they, or the more part of them so assembling, shall judge or decree, the same to be a lawful decree and ordinance, of sufficient force to bind the whole congregation, and every member of the same.

46. Item in case some do depart [out of the said congregation] that yet not withstanding, those which still remain, (if they be the greater part) to be a lawful congregation: and that which they or the more part of them shall decree, to be a lawful decree, of force to bind the whole body, ministers, seniors, deacons, and every other member or members thereof without exception.

53. If any of the congregation be offensive &c. to any of the brethren, so that the offense be private, he is first brotherly to admonish him alone. If that do not prevail, to call one or 2. witnesses. If that also do not prevail, then to declare it to the ministers and Elders, to whom the Congregation hath given authority to take order in such cases, according to the discipline of the Church.

54. There be 3. degrees of ecclesiastical discipline: first, that the offender acknowledge his fault, and show himself penitent before the ministers and seniors. The 2. that if he will not so do, as well his original crime, as also his contempt of the ministers &c. be openly declared by one of the ministers, before the whole congregation &c. The 3. that if he remain still obstinate before the whole congregation, after a time to him by the whole congregation limited to repent in, he then shall be openly denounced excommunicate: which excommunicatiō, seeing it is the uttermost penalty of ecclesiastical power, shall not therefore be executed until the matter be heard by the whole Church, or such as it shall specially appoint there unto.

62. If all the ministers and seniors [which have authority to hear and determine &c.] be suspected, or found parties, or if any appeal be made from them: that then such appeal be made to the body of the congregation, the ministers, seniors, and parties excepted: and that the body of the congregation may appoint so many of the congregation to hear & determine the said matter or matters, as it shall seem good to the Congregation.

65. That the Ministers and Seniors, and every of them, be subject to ecclesiastical discipline, and correction, as other private members of the Church be.

67. If any controversy be upon the doubtful meaning of any word or words in the discipline; that first it be referred to the ministers & seniors. And if they cannot agree thereupon, then the thing to be brought and referred to the whole congregation.

These and the like things were agreed of by that church, to suppress the exorbitant power which the ministers then challenged: whereby the reader may see, 1. what the learned and most conscionable of the church of England held heretofore: which if they had continued in, would have freed them of all antichristian prelacy, the bane of so many churches. 2. That this opinion of the churches power above the Elders, is not new, or first professed by us, as some do reproach us. 3. And that these Advertisers, which now oppose against us, if they had looked upon the examples which themselves allege, might have seen their errors resisted by others, against which the Lord hath now called us also to witness. He vouchsafe to be with us in this business; and guide my heart and hand, to defend his truth.

Of the Letter by M. Johnson answered and published, and by H. Ainsworth now defended. Wherein the Articles of difference between both parties, are set down and discussed.

THree things are to be treated of. 1. The points wherein they are gone frō their former profession. 2. The points wherein they now charge us to differ from our former profession. 3. The conditions of peace, which they refused.

For an entrance into this controversy, M. Johnson gives 5. observations. First, that we left them upon two particular matters, (concerning the Churches government▪ and the exposition of Mat. 18, 17.) & do not directly keep to them as we ought, nor answer the things printed. I answer: this their beginning is ambiguous and fraudulent. The churches government, is sometime taken largely; sometime strictly: sometime it is spoken of Christ, upon whose shoulders the government is; and hereof there was no controversy. Sometime it is spoken of the ministerial ruling and governing the church by Elders: neither of this do we make any question; but hold (as heretofore) that Christ governeth his church outwardly by their ministration. Sometime men use it generally for the whole outward polity, power, and (as many cal it) discipline of the Church: and about this in part our controversy was. But I will manifest the fraud. We in our published writings, distinguish the government, and the power: acknowledging government to be by the officers; but power in the whole body of the Church. And for this point of power, are 9. reasons set down, whereof one is drawn from Christ's speech, Mat. 18.17. tell the Church. Apol. pag. 62.63.

Between these two is the matter so conveyed, as while we plead for the churches right and power, we are said to oppugn government: and when we yield the Elders to govern, they thereby would inclose the whole power in their hands; as in the further handling of these things shall appear. But if a church have one minister only, he is to teach and govern them by the word of God: yet is not any one man a Church, neither hath the power of a Church. Yea this distinction is in one particular, by themselves acknowledged, in the same book: it is (they say) undeniable, that to give voices in election is not a part of government, or a duty peculiar to the governors of the church, but an interest, power, right and liberty, that the saints and people out of office have. Very well said; whereupon we infer also, that to give voices in deciding of controversies, and judging of sinners, is not a part of government, but a power and right that the saints out of office have. The Elders are to teach direct and govern the church in election of officers; they are to do the like in judging & excommunicating wicked persons, and in all other public affairs. Of the exposition of Mat. 18.17. and why their Treatise was not particularly answered, I have spoken before: & the special things therein, are in this treatise repeated, and so shall be here answered.

2. Their second observation I like well, & yield unto; that men may change and redress, according to God's word, things that are amys: but withal, I would have them, 1. plainly to acknowledge wherein they erred, and what they stablish for truth; and 2. to take away by God's word, the reasons whereupon they built before. Which wither these our opposers have doon as they ought; I leave it for the discreet reader to judge by their writings, compared with those which were published heretofore to the contrary.

3. The third, for the churches government by the officers, is that which we always have and still do yield to, as even now I shown. As for our former practice altered, and as he saith, by me acknowledged: touching the order and manner of the practice in one particular, I grant it; but for the power of the Church, whereof we treat, I deny it. There never was such a practice in my days, as whereby the Elders should be esteemed the Church, and to have the power of the same.

4. The 4. observation is that our exceptions are such as the Anabaptists would object in much like manner. Yet doth he not show this so to be: and I know, for their successive Ministry, they are nearer the Anabaptists than we: & both for it and other points, they build upon the very grounds of popery, as after shall be manifested. But what do we except? is it not from our former Articles, and Apology confirmed by scriptures, from which these are departed: in penning also whereof these that thus write, had a principal hand? So they do hereby not only join with our common adversaries, who intwite us with Anabaptistry: but impute weakness to their own former writings and cause, wherein more strength of truth hath appeared then ever they shall be able to pul down, howsoever they may assayl it.

The 5. observation is a mist cast before the readers eyes, a collection of 7. things wherein they would make men believe, we are gone from that we held heretofore. The error whereof I will show hereafter when (as order requireth,) I have examined the answers that they make for themselves, to these our Articles, which now next follow.

The first point of difference: in the Letter.

1. Whereas we had learned and professed, that Christ hath given the power to receive in or to cut off any member, to the whole body together of every Congregation, and not to any one, or moe members sequestered from the whole: now we have been lately taught, that the Church which Christ sendeth to, for the redress of sins Mat. 18.17. is not to be understood of the whole body of the Congregation, but of the Church of Elders. And it being granted of all, that with the Church is the power, the Elders being the Church, have the power, and so not the whole body of the congregation together.

And in the copy which Lawne printed.

The 24. Article [of the Confession of our faith,] (confirmed in our Apology, pag. 60.62.63.) professeth that the power to receive in, or to cut off any member, is given to the whole body together of every Christian Congregation, Mat. 18.17. &c. These have pleaded for the Eldership to be the Church, Mat. 18. and to have both rightful power and able power to excommunicate, though without & against the consent of the body of the Congregation.

The scriptures to confirm our former doctrine and practice, are in our Confession, Psal. 122.3. Act. 2.47. Rom. 16.2. Mat. 18.17. 1. Cor. 5.4. 2. Cor. 2.6.7.8. Levite. 20.4.5. & 24. 14. Num. 5▪ 2.3. Deut. 13.9.

The reasons in our Apology are nine, the first referring to proofs of former positions, the other 8, confirmed by sundry arguments doctrines & practices gathered from the Prophetical and Apostolical scriptures.

For answer hereunto, their Advertisement telleth us many things. First of their Treatise published on Mat. 18.17. touching which, I also have spoken before. Neither is this point of the Churches power therein plainly handled, but closely carried: neither is there anything at all said, to take away the other 8. reasons, in our Apology. Let the reader compare the writings, and judge. There be also things formerly written both by others and by them selves, touching this of Mat. 18. and things lately published against M. Bernard about it: to these they give no answer at all, yet cal they upon us to write more.

2. Secondly they carp at this phrase, the Church of Elders; and would have it the Congregation or Assemble of Elders: saying that so men might sooner perceive the vanity of our error. And that I myself elsewhere show the word is sometime used for an Assemblie of Elders. I answer; 1. If they will rase the word Church, out of the Bible, as unfit, they may do so in Mat. 18. and in this controversy: or else they must give us leave, to keep wonted known words, which help men to discern the truth of matters. 2. Neither show they any one scripture for the phrase they would have, the Congregation of Elders: neither did I ever show or could see the word Church so to mean in all the New Testament: but in the old (which now is changed,) I have observed it in some few places. 3. But be it Church or Congregation, I will not much contend: yet I know their eyes will dazel that look hereby to discern in our doctrine either vanity or error. Albeit I confess these our opposites, have the Papists on their side; for so Card▪

Bellarmino expoundeth this Tel the Church, that is the Prelate, or the Congregation of Prelates; & Stapleton interpreteth the Church, Mat. 18. to be the Ministers. 3. Thirdly, they observe that the scriptures of the old testament are quoted for our 24. Article, as directly carrying us for this matter to the Church of Israel; which now we would not be brought unto. &c. I answer; the first is true, for the scriptures cited do show that the people were interested in those public actions with their magistrates: and therefore there is no reason that now there ministers should claim the whole power to themselves. The latter is untrue; for we did consider and decide the matter between us, by the scriptures of the Old Testament, compared with the new, and so are still ready to do. But always with observing the differences between the state of the church then & now; which are many, as the Apostles do teach us. Heb. 8. & 9. & 10. chapters. Gal. 4.1.2.3. &c. Heb. 12.1▪.—28.

4. Their last observation hath two branches: the 1. that the power of receiving in & cutting off in Israel, was to be performed according to order; and not to weaken but to stablish thhe Elders authority. This we willingly grant: neither ever doubted of. But we observe withal, a deceit which they couch under this name Elders: which usually in the Old Testament, is given to Magistrates▪ which are also called in respect of their authority Lord's, Princes, Judges, yea and God's, 1. Sam. 23.12. Num. 21.18. & 22.7.8. Deut. 19.17.18. Exod. 21.6. Psal. 8 2. and by the Apostles they are called •owers (or Autorities) and Glories, (or Dignities;) Tit. 3.1. 2. Pet. 2.10. But the name Elders, now in the Church of Christ is given to the Ministers, 1. Pet. 5.1. who are forbidden to exercise authority, or to be as Lord's over God's heritage, or to be called by such stately titles, Mat. 20.25.26. 1. Pet. 5.1. Luk. 22.25.26. They streyn therefore too far, which will proportion the authority and power of the Elders that should stand and minister to the Church (as did the Priests and Levites;) with the authority of the Elders the Magistrates, that late and judged in the gates. 2. The second branch of their observation is, that we must not be strangers from the policy of Israel; Ephe. 2.12. &c. I answer, by polity, they mean not, I hope, the inward faith which Israel had: but the outward order of administering in that Church: otherwise they reason neither properly nor to the question in hand. Yea in this very place the Apostle distinguisheth the polity, from the covenants of promise. And so I deny that we are bound now to keep the polity of Israel; neither doth the Apostle mean any such thing. For he putteth the Ephesians in mind of their estate being paynims, when they were uncircumcised, without Christ, without Israel's polity, without covenants of promise, without hope, without God. But now in Christ they were united & brought near; but whereunto, to circumcision? nay, he saith elsewhere, if they were circumcised Christ should profit them nothing? or, to the ordinances of worship in the Temple? nay, for he saith we have an alter, whereof they have no authority to eat, which serv in the tabernacle. Or were they now to go up, as did the Tribes to the earthly Jerusalem, where thrones of judgment were set, thrones for the house of David? nothing so, for Christ was to destroy both City & Sanctuary; so to force the Jews to an end of their polity. But now the Ephesians were come unto the Father, by one Spirit, and unto Christ, who abrogated through his flesh the hatred, that is, the law of commandments, which stood in ordinances; and was faithful, as Moses, in all his house: and to be citizens with the Saints and howshold of God; which are built, not upon Moses polity that is doon away, but upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, that is the doctrine which they taught of Christ and of the ordinances of his Testament, which is a kingdom that cannot be shakē, as was the common-wealth of Israel according to the flesh. Look therefore what polity the Apostles have taught and taken from the Law; or Moses & the Prophets foretold should continue under the Gospel, so much will we retain, the rest we leave to Jews & Iewishly affected. And these are the things which they have answered to the first objection in the Letter: which whither they have proved the Elders now under the Gospel to be the Church which is to judge of syn and sinners, and to have power as the Church, in their own hands; let all indifferent men judge: as also what cause they had to conclude that we oppose against Israel, Moses and the Prophets, and to cry out against us as they do, that such is our error, and so great is our transgression and iniquity. But because of the printed copy, they set upon us afresh, with many observations, and questions, and by matters, with longsomnes enough: whereas a few sound arguments, would much better have cleared the controversy, and contented the reader. They observe 1. that the scriptures of the Old Testament are quoted in our Article, as well as of the new. 2. That Mat. 18. is to agree with the other scriptures cited. 3. That it must be understood with proportion to the manner in Israel. 4. That therefore their understanding is according to the ancient faith; and not ours, who would make them strangers from Israel, and would persuade them that Christ's doctrine in Mat. 18.17. is a new rule &c.

I answer; these are in effect the things we heard before, and which in my answers I have partly granted, partly refuted. 1. The proportion they speak of, is a disproportion concluding from Magistrates authority in the Common•wealth▪ to Ministers in the Church; which is against Christ's doctrine Mat. 20.25.26. And if they will not learn it of Christ, they may learn it of Cato, an alien from the common wealth both of Israel and of Christ, who yet said to such Jt becomes yow to be mindful of your condition, that yow are not Magistrates but Ministers. 2. It is a main pillar of Popery, to proportion the Church now, in the outward polity to Israel. The Rhemists would have the the see of Rome, in the new law, to be answerable to the chair of Moses. Cardinal Bellarmine maketh his first argument for the Popes judging of controversies, from the Priest & Judge that was appointed in the Law, Deut. 17. And as Moses sate as Prince of the Church, and gave answer to all doubts arising about the Law of God, Exod. 18. so by proportion he will have now in the papacy. And in deed, for show, the papists proportion to have one supreme court above all, to end weighty causes and appeals; more resembleth Israel, then doth these men's Eldership in every particular Church. 3. It is an argument that others (except papists) have disclaymed. D. Bilson, (whose learning and goodwill hath holpen the prelacy as much as any man's, and whose understanding of Mat. 18.17. these our opposites in some points do now follow,) he confesseth that to reason from the Magistrate to the minister, from the sword to the word, from the law to the Gospel &c. the leap is so great, that cartropes will not tie the conclusion to the premisses. D. Whitaker's, D. Junius, and others, refuting the Papists, disallow the reasons drawn from the law, and magistracy of Israel; which these our opposers make their chiefest bulwark. M. Cartwright answering D. Whitgift, saith the argument is not good from civil government to ecclesiastical. When Bellarmine allegeth the civil Monarchies to justify the ecclesiastical: Junius answereth, the exāple is altogether unlike, of temporal empire and spiritual ministry: between these, there is not, neither ought, neither can a proportion or comparison be rightly made. 4. It is an argument that is yet hid, and by our opposites themselves unmanifested how the proportion they speak of, shall be shaped. For in Israel there were Magistrates in the cities, & Priests and Levites, in the Tabernacle, and Ministers in the Synagogues. Let them show us who now are proportionable to the Magistrates, who to the Priests; and who to the Ministers in the synagogues. The Magistrates also were of sundry sorts, as Elders, Heads, Judges, & Officers. The Judges again differing both in number and power. In all the cities throughout the tribes, were Judges, (which the Jew•doctors call the lesser Sanhedrin or Session, and say it consisted of 23. Judges,) and Officers which they say were weaponed, and executed the Judges sentences. In the chief City Jerusalem were also Judges and Priests, for the weightiest and hard causes: this they called the great Sanhedrin, or Session, and it had 71. Judges, of whom first Moses was chief, and successively, one called Nasi the Prince, next whom they place A•beth di•, the Father of the judgment hall, besides other officers as two Scribes to write the causes of the condemned & the absolved: Sh•lc•h •th din, the Messenger (or Angel) of the Court, even as there was also in other cases Shelia•h •sibbur, the Messenger or Angel of the Church or Congregation, in the synagogues: whereunto it may be thought that in Rev. 2.1. &c. hath allusion. Again they make another court of three, for lesser strifes and money matters▪ called d•ies m••monoth: the lower Synedrion of 23. judged matters of life and death di•i nephashoth: & the high Senate of 71. judged weightiest matters of state, of wars, of a Tribe, of a False prophet, of appeals brought

&c. Also among the Priests and Levites, there were divers orders and functions, some chief, some inferior, some ministering in the sanctuary by course, some overseers and judges, some Musicians, some Tresurers, some Porters &c. In the synagogues there were always lecturers and preachers of the law and prophets, in every city, and in Jerusalem itself were many synagogues, besides the Temple there. Now they that would proportion their power with Israel, should show whither they mean all these fore-spokē, or but some. They should tell us to whō the Pastor is proportionable, to whom the Teacher, to whom the ruling Elders. And seeing they will have that rule in Mat. 18. to be as it was in Israel, they should tell us to which of those Synedrions, or Priests, or Rulers, Christ sendeth. Whiles these things are not cleared, but we are told generally of a p•oportion with Israel, we are led as in the clouds; and know not into what errors we may fall.

5. They refer us in the beginning of their Treatise on Mat. 18.17. to a place in Mat. 5.22.23. &c▪ where Christ (they say) teacheth the offending brother how to carry himself, as in Mat. 18.15. &c. he doth the brother offended: & that in both places Christ showeth to whom the offender may be brought, viz, to the Church or Congregation Mat. 18.17. to the Synedrion or sitting of Elders, Mat. 5.22. which must be either all one with the other, or ells how should his hearers then understand him, or these things then be observed, or these two places be reconciled?

I answer; Christ might far better be understood then, then our opposites may now: his words are clear, but not to the purpose that they cite them. Christ there speaketh not of men judging on earth, but of God's judging in heaven. For men had not power to condemn to hell fire, there spoken of: neither could they by Moses law, condemn a man to death for unadvised anger, as Christ there God would do: neither was every mā, that called his brother Raka, to be brought to the Synedrion at Jerusalem, the lesser courts in the cities, could hear and end such matters. The Jew Doctors say, that such as bring an evil same on their neighbors, were to be judged, by the Court of 3. or by that of the 23. but for the high Synedrion, both they and Moses law show it was for the more weighty and difficult cases. Our savior in Mat. 5. interprets the law otherwise then did the scribes. They said, whosoever killeth shall be culpable of judgment, that is, he should die by God's law: and further then outward actual murder they went not. But Christ showeth 3. kinds of kylling otherwise then with the hand: the least whereof, even unadvised anger, should be punished with death by God; and as it did increase and show itself in evil speeches, so should their punishment be increased in hell: which he setteth down by allusion to the sundry civil judgments in Israel. And so he proceedeth to teach men the true keeping of the law, by love and reconciliation; without which they should be cast into the prison of hell: how ever such sins were not punishable by men. But in Mat. 18. Christ speaketh of judgments on earth, in this life; and that not of the civil punishments by the Magistrates sword; but of binding and loosing by the word of God, to be performed by the Church, that is, (as Paul showeth) the ecclesiastical assembly gathered in Christ's name. Wherefore the church in Mat. 18•17. is not the Synedrion in Mat. 5.22. as these would have it. Or if it be, then is it meant of the Magistrates, and not of the church ministers, unto whom these would now draw it. For, were the Ministers and preachers of the law in the synagogues; judges in the synedrion? Sheliach Isibbur, Angelus ecclesiae, the messenger of the Congregation, was he the chief of the synedrion, as the Pastor (who they say is Angelus ecclesiae) is now chief in the Eldership? If Christ must needs speak to the understanding of the Jews, and order his Church like their common wealth; there must be more then one court or Synedrion; and he could not give that to 2. or 3. gathered anywhere in his name, which belonged to the Senate of the Realm.

6. So whereas they say we would persuade them Christ's doctrine in Mat. 18.17. is a new rule which Israel had not: I think it will be good for them to yield unto this persuasion. For the Elders in Israel, to whom they refer us, by Psal. 82. Josh. 0.4.5.6. Num. 35, 12.24.25. 29. Deut. 19.11.12.16.17. and other like places, being Magistrates, that had power of life and death; if Christ sendeth unto such, the Ministers of the Church, I hope will not intrude into their places. Wherefore either let them acknowledge the New Testament, to have new rules and ordinances: and that the kingdom being changed as well as the Priesthood, there must needs be a change of the law thereof also: or else, let them leave it to the Magistrate, unto whom it belongeth.

Next this, they give us a distinction between the sentence of excommunication, and between the execution thereof. As in Israel, the Elders, & Priests, had a rightful power to give out the sentence of death & of leprosy according to the law, without asking the people's consent, yea though it should have been without and against it; Deut. 1.16. & 17.8.12. & 24.8. with 2. Chrō. 26.16.20. Levite. 13. &c. and then it was for the people to perform the execution accordingly: so the Elders now may by office give out the sentence of excommunication according to the law of God, & the people should accordingly put it in execution, by avoiding the excommunicate persons til they repent. I answer; this comparison is faulty many ways. First, it speaketh only of a rightful power, whereas the thing they should answer to, is both rightful and able power, as themselves once distinguished: or let them say, whether the Church that Christ sendeth to for redress of syn, hath not able power to excommunicate. 2. Secondly it matcheth the power of the Ministers in spiritual things, with the power of the Magistrates in civil things: which what is it, but to make the one Lord's spiritual, as the other are Lord's temporal; according to the Popish hierarchy? 3. Thirdly it misseth in the proportion of the Priests judging leprosy; for God's law in Lev. 13.2. is, that the suspected person should be brought to Aarō the Priest or to one of his sons the Priests; and the Priest should look, and pronounce him unclean, or clean, as he discerned it. The proportion hereto now, is one Bishop or Minister, rather than a Church of Ministers: for if one Priest might judge then, why may not one Minister judge now? Do not the Papists, which allege this very example, and apply it to one Priest: make a fitter proportiō, then they that deny this power unto one, and yet apply it unto many? 4. Fourthly, thus far I grant this proportion, that as every Priest then might according to the law, declare what was leprosy: so every Minister now, may and ought by the law to declare what is syn and heresy; and this though it be without and against the consent of the Church & of all the world. Ezek. 3.17,— 21.2. Tim. 4.1.2. Tit. 1.9. But as then, not the priest only, but the children of Israel, put every leper out of the host: so now, not the minister only, but the childrē of Christ, the church, are to put the wicked out frō among them, as the Apostle showeth. 5. Fifthly, if the Elders the Magistrates, might (as these men say) give sentence of death against a man, though without and against the people's consent; & then it was for the people to perform the execution: then that people, I say, were in great subjection and servitude to their Elders, that must execute that man, to whose death they cōsented not: and to shape the Ministers power now accordingly, is to make them Lord's, and the Church their subjects and servants: yea the Pope himself never had men in greater slavery. I know, when God's law condemned a man, if it were shown by all or any one of the Judges, or Priests, or Prophets, yea or Israelites; the people should in order have executed him: but oft times the heads of the people judged for rewards, the Princes as Lions, the Judges as Wolves devoured them, the Priests polluted the sanctuary, and wrested the law. And then the people of the land, whose duty also it was to look to open wickedness, were neither to follow the many nor mighty in evil. And that the Judges had power to put any man to death, whom the people judged innocent, I find not, but would see it proved. I find how in Naboth's case (though it were a wicked fact,) there was a solemn fast and assembly of the people with the governors: how in Jeremiah's case, he was accused to the Princes and people, made his defense to princes and people, and was acquitted by princes and people. When King Saul sware that Jonathan should die; the people sware the contrary, & saved him from death: when the high priests & scribes would have killed Christ, they feared the people, Luk. 20.19. & 22.2. and the people as well as the rulers, were called before Pilate about Christ's death, Luk. 23.13. and by their voices prevailed, Mat. 27.20.22.25.26. Luk 23.23. So that to prove the Ministers sole power now, for to cut off a man from the Church, by the Magistrates power then to cut off a man from Israel, neither is the proportion just, if it were so, neither yet is it manifested that so it was in Israel. 6. Sixthly, the proportion which they here make, is so misshapen; that I marvel wise men would ever bring it forth to the view of the world. For they make the avoiding of the excommunicated person by the people, to be the executing of the sentence of excommunication; whereas this censure is properly executed by him that in the name of Christ and with consent of the Church, delivereth the wicked man to Satan, as the Apostle willeth, 1. Cor. 5. which being doon, the man is certainly excommunicated, whither the people avoid his company or not. And if they otherwise here understand the word execution; they do but deceive the reader with an equivocation.

This their other example of the sentence of death, and the execution thereof, will plainly manifest. For Pilate gave sentence of death upon Christ; the souldjers that killed him with nails and spear, they executed the sentence of death, as we commonly speak and understand. Then Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus, embaulmed him with myrrh, wound him in a sheet, and laid him in grave: shall we say that these two now were the executioners of Christ; because they carried themselves towards him as towards a dead man? Or if any refrained from touching a dead man that had been hanged, least by him they should be polluted: did they here by execute him? No more do they properly execute the sentence of excommunication, which avoid the company of one excommunicated. 7. But because all the weight of their wrested proportion frō Israel, is couched herein: let us look upon it a little more. In their Treatise on Mat. 18. there they say: in Israel, such as would not hearken to the Priests and Judges, were to die by the hands of the people, Deut. 17. Again they say, delivering to Satan, in 1. Cor. 5. is in stead of death in Israel. Levite. 20.11. By this, one would think, that the people now should deliver a wicked man to Satan, when the Elders have judged him worthy: otherwise, how stands the proportion? But they mean nothing less: for a little after, they tell us, in the Churches excommunication, there is the giving of a sentence judicarie, which pertaineth to government and authority; there is also in particular, a delivering to Satan, by the power of our Lord Jesus Christ &c. which likewise implieth authority; & that it is proportionably answerable to the taking away by death &c, that it is a special use of the keys given by Christ to the Apostles; that the force hereof is such, as thereby a man is not only cast out of that particular Church whereof he was a member, but is cut off & excluded from all churches upon earth: as on the contrary by baptism, we are entered into communion with all Churches of Christ in the world. By these things compared together, we may observe: 1. that the church elders may by their sole authority give judicarie sentence, that a man shall be excommunicated: answerable to the Magistrates in Israel, that gave sentence a man should be put to death. 2. That the Elders may also by authority in particular deliver a man to Satan by the power of Christ; which is proportionably answerable to the taking away by death: which in Israel, themselves grant, was to be doon by the hands of the people. Thus do the Elders now challenge by proportion in the Church, that which belonged both to Magistrates and people in the common wealth. But because they fear the people, they shape them this deceitful proportion, that their avoiding the excommunicate person, is the executing (or putting in execution, as they ambiguously speak) of the sentence: answerable to the people's stoning of a malefactor in Israel; how fitly, let all that have understanding judge. For whether the people avoid him or not, the man is judged and delivered to Satan, and so cut off from the church: as on the contrary, when one is baptized by the minister, whether the people keep company with him or not, he is made a member of the church: and as a man beheaded in Israel, was surely dead, whether the people refrained from touching him or no. 2. Again they give no more to the people of that Church whereof he is a member, then to the people of all other churches, that are bound to avoid the excommunicated person, as well as they. 3. Yea they give hereby their people no more power, then the Pope doth to his marked servants; for he also will have the people avoid such as he doth excommunicate: and if this be the boasted right and liberty of the people, they had as much in the greatest bondage of popery, as now when they are carried thus blindfold by propertions. But they tell the people, that if any can except against the Elders proceedings they shall be heard. I answer, First before whom and unto whom, shall any man except against the Elders: is it not before and unto the Elders themselves? And is it meet that they should be judges in their own cases? In Israel when any complained of wrong in the Synagogues or Cities, there was an higher Court to control unruly Elders, and to help the oppressed. But now 2. or 3. Elders in a Church, bearing themselves upon their forged authority from Mat. 18.17.20. may be lawless; and who shall let them in their proceedings? Secondly, how should the people except, when by these men's doctrine, they are not bound to be present at the hearing and deciding of the controversy: will it not be a just blame upon them, if they except against a matter, which they have not heard discussed? Thirdly, when the party accused shall except against the Elders proceedings, (as commonly he will do, for if he acknowledged himself to have sinned, he should not need to be excommunicated:) may the people now require to hear the case debated between the Elders and him? nay, they plead in their Treatise on Math. 18. saying, But where hath the Lord appointed a rule of further proceeding, beyond that of the Elders & governors, for hearing the brethren's causes, and judging between a man and his brother? &c. And again, the Elders also are the Churches officers, &c. so as when they have heard, examined, admonished, and judged according to the word of God, it is to be esteemed as doon by the Lord and the Church &c. Thus let the mā except what he will, the judgm<sup>t</sup> is at an end, the Lo: hath doon it, the Church hath doon it, because the Elders have doon it: and it must be presupposed, that they have doon it according to the word of God, though the man except never so much: and though the scriptures foreshow of judges that were wolves not sparing the flock, and latter days abundantly confirm the same. And thus when a Naboth is condemned by wicked Elders, if any except on his behalf, they will take him in a snare that reproveth in the gate: perhaps he shall hear it said, by what authority do you speak? &, are you one of the Church spoken of in the 1<sup>o</sup>. of Matthew? for the Elders have power to deal with him also that shall except, and can easily bring him within the compass of a contentious person, or an oppugner of government, and cast him likewise out of the Church; that a man sometime were as good take a Lion by the paw, as except against the Elders proceedings.

Next follow their many questions; and other matters imputed unto us: wherein we observe how when arguments fail them for their own cause, they seek to darken the truth, by casting clouds before the readers eyes. 1. First they ask, whither in Israel the Lord abridged the people of their right and liberty &c. I answer, No: but these men that by wrested proportions, give the ministers of the church, the power that Magistrates, Priests and people had in Israel; do abridge the people of their right, as before is manifested.

And for the further clearing of it, seeing there were diverse governors in Israel, as the Priests and Levites in the Temple; the ministers in the synagogues; the Elders or Magistrates at the gates of the cities, and these also divers and of unequal power, as before is shown: I ask of them again, whither now the Eldership of every church, be proportionable in power and government, unto all those governors: and if not unto all, unto which of them?

2. Secondly they ask, whither the people have anymore right and authority in the churches government now, then the people of Israel had in those days. I answer, they should not seek to entangle by ambiguity of terms. First, we give not to the people government, as before I have shown, but a right and power to observe and do all the commandments of Christ, touching his propheticall priestly and kingly office, by the Elders teaching guiding and governing of them in the Lord. 2. The govern<sup>t</sup> in Israel was diverse, by Magistrates in the gate, by Priests in the sanctuary, by ministers in the synagogues. To the Magistracy, all Christians are to be subject now, as they were then: for it is an human ordinance, tending to civil peace, and concerneth all men whither within the church or without, indifferently. The external Priesthood of Israel, is accomplished in Christ and now abolished, Heb. 7. yet in David's Kingdom, and Levies priesthood, there was a figure also of the kingdom and priesthood that Christ bestoweth on the saints. Who have as much more power and liberty in the Gospel now, than the Jews had; as the heyr when he is of years, hath more then in his childhood; Gal 4.1.2.3. yet always in order, and with submission to the ministerial government of their Leaders. And I ask of these again, whither the Christian Magistrates now, are not to have their voices with the ministers of the church whereof they are, in the admonishing & censuring of sinners ecclesiastically, and in other public questions and controversies of religion.

3. Thirdly they ask, Whether the people of Israel were not Kings and Priests &c. as well as the Christian people are now, Exod. 19.5. Psal. 149.1. &c. with 1. Pet. 2.9.10. Rev. 1.6. I answer, first as touching the cōmunication of their external kingdom and priesthood, it is evident, that the Israelites were not so the natural seed of David & of Levi, as Christians now are the spiritual seed of them in Christ, Jer. 33, 22. Secondly, for communication with the spiritual kingdom and priesthood of Christ by them shadowed, the Israelites were Kings and Priests as well as we, but with differences. For Israel's state and ours, are not simply opposed, yet do they differ in manner & degree. They were Kings and Priests as they were Christians, and partakers of the Anoynting, and that is, as they were under the New Testament. But they were not so under it as we are: neither are we so under the Old Testament as were they. They were heirs of the heavenly things, but as children, and so (as Paul saith) under tutors and governors, & in servitude under the rudiments of the world, until the time appointed of the Father, that is until Christ's coming. The scriptures which they quote, do confirm this. For the promise in Exodus 19.5.6. is legal, if they kept God's covenant; as in another place if they did his statutes, they should live by them, which Paul showeth to be a speech of the law, not of the gospel. Now that condition, Israel kept not, neither could: therefore not the law, but Christ hath made us Kings and Priests, Rev. 1.5.6. and until Christ came, Israel was kept under the law, as under a scholemaster, & had an external priesthood, which could give them no perfection, and therefore is abolished, and our state much bettered, as is shown at large, Heb. 12.18, 19, 20.21, 22. &c. as the prophets also foretold, Jsa. 61, 5, 6. Jer. 33, 15.—22. Mal. 3.3.4. & of this estate under the gospel, is the 149. psalm a prophesy, (though in their measure they then also fulfilled it,) and the place of Peter confirmeth it. Whereunto we may add the testimony of the Jews Rabbies touching their estate, under that scholemaster of the law. With three crowns (say they) was Israel crowned: with the the crown of the law, and the crown of the priesthood, and the crown of the kingdom. The crown of the priesthood was bestowed upon Aaron and his seed, Num. 25.13. The crown of the kingdom, was bestowed on David and his seed, Ps. 89.36. The crown of the law, loe it is appointed stablished and confirmed unto all Israel, as it is written, Moses commanded us a law, the inheritance of the congregation of Ja•kob. In that they all had the law to use so freely, & were so restrained frō the kingdom & Priesthood; it argueth their childhood: yet might they see by faith their inheritance in those types: how all Christians should by participation of Christ's anointing, be that seed of David and of Levi, promised Jer. 33.22. Rev. 5.9.10. & 20, 6. And here I also ask of our opposers, whither the Ministers of the Gospel, be Kings and Priests now, by their office of ministry in the Church.

4. Fourthly they ask, whether the Churches power be not a ministerial power only. I answer, the power itself is Christ's; and so royal or kingly: but all that the Church doth, is only to administer that power, under Christ. And I ask of them again, whether they think the Elders have the whole power, which Christ hath given to his Church.

5. Fifthly they ask, whether the Elders power be not ministerial, under the Lord, in and for the Church. &c. I answer, an ambiguous question cannot be answered til it be cleared. First this word power is large, and they must show how they limit it: for by comparing this question with the former, they seem to put all the Churches power into the ministers hand; which I deny. They have also misshapen the proportion of their power from the Magistrates of Israel, as before we have heard; contrary to Christ's commandment, Mat. 20, 25, 26. 1. Pet. 5.3. Secondly the word ministerial is also diversely used: in a special sense, the Officers only are called Ministers; in a general sense the whole Church are Ministers, and do administer and dispose the manifold graces of God: & the word Cohen, Priest, given to all saints, doth properly signify a Minister. Thirdly for the Elders function, I grant it to be ministerial under the Lord, in and for the Church; but also unto, yea and under the Church secondarily, as the spouse of Christ, in that sense that Paul speaketh, the spirits of the Prophets are subject to the Prophets, 1. Cor. 14, 32. And I ask of them again, whether the Ministers of the Christian synagogues now, have anymore authority, then had the Ministers in the Jews synagogues, or then they to whom it was said, Serv the Lord your God, & his people Israel. 2. Chron. 35, 3. Ezek. 44.11. But here (before they have our answer) they conclude, that therefore there is no weight in our objections about the Elders power, as if it were not the churches &c. I answer, first they conclude not the question set down in the article, but because it was too heavy, they leave it and turn to other matters. Secondly they conclude with an equivocation in this word power, which is not in the same sense to be applied to the Elders, as it is to the body of the Church. Thirdly the Jesuits do in this wise conclude also for the Pope. For the power & government which they dispute for, is not absolute, but such (they say) as may be in ministers and stewards, 1. Cor. 4, 1. And that the power which the Pope and prelates execute, should be the Churches power, it is the thing that they would have. So whereas our opposites tell us of the Elders power that in deed it is the Churches; the papists also tell us the same: but the more is their syn that deprive the Church of it, by ingrossing it into their own hands alone; thus did the Pope clime by steps unto his primacy. And it is (say they) to be ministered by the Officers: but not (say I) by them only; therein is the deceit. The whole Church is akingdom of Priests, that is of ministers: who are to be guided and governed by their Officers, (called also ministers in more special manner,) for the holy and orderly practice of the power. And thus the Prophets foretold the state of the Christian Church, saying, strangers shall stand and feed your sheep, and the sons of strangers shall be your plowmen and dressers of your vines; but ye shall be named the Priests of the Lord, & men shall say unto you, The Ministers of our God. Where the Officers of the Church are compared to pastors & husbandmen, (as the new testament also cōfirmeth,) which should be of the converted Gentiles: and the Church itself, is the Lord's priesthood, and his Ministers.

Sixthly they ask, whither we in the Churches government, as the Anabaptists in the sacraments would not make them aliens from the common wealth of Israel, &c. I answer, this was in their fourth observation before, and there is by me answered, I trust without absurdity, or ungodlynes, errors or evils, all which they here insinuate against us, for to fill up their measure. But here again the reason deceiveth the reader, for in stead of common-wealth or polity, they bring in one body, one Lord, one faith of theirs and ours: &c. Ephe. 2. &c. Al this we grant: but the outward polity & government, we deny to be the same, it being changed by Christ both for City & Sanctuary, Dan. 9.26. There was always one Lord & faith of the Church: but not always one polity. The kingdom and priesthood were first executed by one person, as in Melchizedek: afterward these functions were divided, & Kings might not do the Priests work. Also the civil government in Israel was changeable, sometime without a King, sometime with one: yea sometime by hethen Kings, as Nebuchadnezzar, Cyrus, &c, to whom the Israelites were bound to be subject, but not so in their sacraments: that there is no just consequence to be drawn frō the one of these to the other. We rather may ask of our opposites, whether they as the Papists would not draw us frō the testament of Christ, (who was faithful as Moses in all his house,) to the Jewish polity now abolished. And let them tell us whether there may be now Archbishops, over other Bishops and Ministers, as in Israel there were Archpreists over other Priests and Levites; or a superior court to hear the appeals from particular synagogues & cities now, as was then: and whether the ministers of the Church, now, may be captayns of politik armies, as Benajah son of Iehojada the chief Priest, was general of the field in Joab's room? Such orders have been heretofore in Israel.

Seventhly they ask, why we speak not of ourselves, what we pleaded to be the church spoken of Mat. 18, 17. &c. I answer, because our plea is already set forth in sundry books, as the Discovery, the Revitation of M. Gifford, the Apology, the Treatise of the Ministry against M. Hildersh the Answer to White &c. And I ask of them again, why they answer not the things already published in so many treatises, but fish for more matter by subtle questions, as if men had nothing ells to do, but answer all things that they write and demand: and to let them range at will, without orderly answering as is meet.

They say, some of us taught it to be the whole church, alleging to that end Num. 15.33. & 27.2. and 35.12. I answer, first, we taught then no otherwise then as them selves taught heretofore with us. Secondly we alleged many other scriptures and reasons both from the Prophets and Apostles, though it please them to omit those, and cull out these against which they think they have more color to contend. For hereupon they thus argue, 1 If this rule be found in the book of Numbers &c. then it is not a new rule first given in Mat. 18.17. I answer, they wrong us, and would deceive the reader: we alleged not those scriptures to prove the rule to be the same then and now; but to give light unto the question, by showing what was the people's right then, under the law, and under the Magistrate: which may be more, but cannot be less now under the gospel, where the church ministry, hath not the power of Magistracy over God's heritage. The Apostle applieth many things from Aaron's priesthood to Christ: yet he maketh Christ's priesthood not to be after Aaron's order but Melchisedeks: should men now thus carp at his allegations?

Then they say, those scriptures speak of civil government, which we except about the Elders, but they suppose we will not give to the people civil authority. I answer, first them selves grant that the people have as much right and power now as they had in Israel: but we deny, & they can never prove that the ministers now have as much authority over the people, as had the Princes of Israel: so our reasoning is good, though theirs be naught. Secondly for civil authority as we never challenged it: so neither should it be objected to them, but that they will have it to be no new rule. Then say we, it must be left to the Magistrate, and ministers may not intrude into their place. And seeing they thus urge it, let them, if they please, clear them selves, whither they think not that the Elders of the church, may have civil authority also, as had the Elders in Israel.

Thirdly they say, that by these and the like scriptures it is certain, sinners in Israel were brought before the congregation of Elders. I answer, if they mean Elders only, (as they must if they reason to the matter in hand,) I deny it: and there is no weight in their proof. For, it is also certain that Paul imposed hands on Timothy, 2. Tim. 1.6. but elsewhere it appeareth, others also imposed hands as well as he. 1. Tim. 4.14. So, the Apostles and Elders came together about a controversy, Act. 15.6. but the whole Church came together also, verse 22.23. Titus was left to ordain Elders, Tit. 1.5. but was he to do it, himself alone? The keys were promised to Peter, Mat. 16.19. but were they meant to him only? In Rev. 2.1. John wrote to the Angel (or Messenger) of the church: but by Rev. 1.11. & 2.7. it is plain the whole church was intended. So in Israel, the law saith in a case of marriage, let her go up to the gate to the Elders: Deut. 25.7.8.9. but the practice of this showeth, that the people were also interested with the Elders, Ruth. 4.2.7.9.11. Jn Exod. 5.1. Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh, but by Exod. 3.18. we may gather that the Elders of Israel went with them also. So in the place cited Num. 15.33. they brought him to Moses and to Aaron, and to all the Congregation; the people are here meant with the Magistrates, for God then said, let all the congregation stone him; and all the Congregation brought him without the host and stoned him. Now by M. Johnson's own grant, they whom the Judges condemned, did die by the hands of the people: who is it then that cannot see, the Congregation here to mean both Elders and people? So in the other place, Num. 27.2. when they stood before Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and before the Princes, and all the Congregation, this distribution of the persons, together with the place, the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation; may show that the Elders only were not meant: besides in the same chapter, Joshua being there ordained over the Congregation &c. it cannot with any color be gathered, that the Elders only were the congregation, Num. 27.16.17.19.20. &c. Wherefore when one scripture mentioneth the Elders, Jos. 20.4. and another the Congregation Num 32.12. Jos. 20.6. we should not restrain it to the lesser, but let the scripture have the largest sense, unless apparent reason do urge a restreynt, which is not here, but the contrary. For if they were to die by the hands of the people, conscience required the people, to hear their cause tried also, seeing the law charged everyone, thou shalt not slay the innocent and the righteous: and it was not safe for them to trust their Judges, which so often and so many ways corrupted judgment as all the prophets do complain. It is therefore an evil argument to say, in Israel by one scripture men were sent to the Elders, & by another to the Congregation, therefore it was the congregation of Elders, and not of the people also. For by such wrested reasons, one might prove that the Elders only were bound to keep the passover, because in one place it is said, speak to all the Congregation of Israel, that every man take to him a Lamb, Exod. 12, 3. and in another place it is said, Moses called all the Elders of Israel, saying choose out & take for every of your howsholds a Lamb; Exod. 12, 21. therefore it was meant of the Congregation of Elders, and so the other people were not bound to this service. Again, it was commanded, Exod. 19, 3, 5. tell the children of Israel, if ye will hear my voice and keep my covenant, ye shall be my chief treasure &c. afterwards it is said, Moses caledfor the Elders of the people, and proposed unto them all these things: shall we now conclude, therefore the covenant was made with the Elders only? Who seeth not the weakness of such consequents: and that it is usual in scripture, to name but the principal of a company, and yet to include others with them? Notwithstanding between Israel and us, there were two main differences, the one, that Church ministers now, have not such ecclesiastical authority over the people, as is proportionable to the Magistrates authority then: for this is forbidden, Mat. 20, 25. where Christ saith, the rulers of the nations have domination over them, and they that are great exercise authority over them: but it shall not be so among you. And 1. Pet. 5.2, 3. Feed the flock of God &c. not as having domination over (his) heritage. The other is, that they were a national Church, & the Magistrates in the gates of Jerusalem, the Priests in the Temple, being for the whole Realm; it could not be that all the people should be present at the daily judgments of the Magistrates, or sacrifices of the Priests. And therefore it was not required so of them; as now it is of us, who are but particular Churches, to be present at all public administration of Christ's kingdom and priesthood. Yea even in their most solemn assemblies, they could not do, as we are bound to do. For they did eat the passover in their private houses, because all the thousands of Israel could not eat it in one room: but we are bound to eat the passover now (I mean the Lord's supper) in the public Church, and not elsewhere.

Whereas therefore they next except, that the people were 600. thousand men, and would we have them to think that they came together to hear examine and judge the cases of syn &c. I answer, no: neither all the Elders. For I have before shown, there were divers officers, for several causes. And Boaz took but ten of the Elders of Bethlehē to hear his cause. The Elders also did meet by themselves as there was occasion: and so are they to do now. Secondly for this exception of so many thousands in the wilderness, that could not come to hear and judge: they should mind how the same lieth against the execution. When God said of the blasphemer, let all the Congregation stone him: will they say six hundred thousand men came together to do it? yet themselves grant this was to be doon by the people. It was as easy for them to come to hear his cause tried, as to come and stone him: and care of equity taught them to do the first, as well as the last, as before is shown.

Next they except against our expounding the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. 18.1. &c. to be the church under the gospel, since Christ: this they say is not sound, because the same phrase is spoken of the church of the Jews, Mat. 22.2. &c. I answer; this their reason is insufficient, for I could so except against the exposition almost of any scripture, by showing a diverse use and meaning of the words. When the Apostle proveth Christ's excellency above the Angels, because of his name, the Son of God: the Jews might allege, that the Angels are also called Sonns of God, yea holy men have the like title: but were this a sufficient answer? Well, I will not strive with them, about the phrase (although in some places they may see the Kingdom of Heaven opposed to the state of the Jews church, as Mat. 11.11) but as the prophets tell us of new heavens under the Gospel, so will I distinguish and call the Jewish church the old heaven, (as that which is shaken and removed,) and the Christian church the new heaven; of which the Gospel usually speaketh, as Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand, Mat. 3.2. & 4.17. Now when the disciples asked Jesus, who is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven? there might be reason of their demand touching the Christian church then to be planted: but to ask such a thing about the Jewish church; I see little reason. They knew already the state of it, and who was chief therein. Secondly Christ's answer leadeth us hereto: for there being great expectation of that Kingdom, and an erroneous persuasion that it should be a glorious worldly state, Christ tells them the contrary, that it was for the converted and humble souls to enter into: that many scandals and offenses should arise herein, both from the world, and from men's corruption in them selves, and from their brethren. Against all which he armeth his disciples, and teacheth the orderly way to redress them. And that his rules should not be despised, he assureth them that their censures executed on earth, shall be ratified in heaven: the ground whereof is his name wherein they should be gathered together, and his presence in the mids of them. And this phrase of Christ's name, leadeth us also evidently unto the church under the gospel: for it meaneth the clear manifestation of Christ with the power and profession of him, as Act. 2, 38. & 3, 16 & 4, 12, 17. 2 Tim. 2, 19. In respect whereof, Christ said to his disciples, hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name, Joh. 16, 24. These rules therefore, do most properly serve for the Church since Christ's coming: & therefore he sendeth not his disciples to the Jews synedriōs, much less to the hethen magistrates, for redress of the sins that should arise in his kingdom. But our opposites do except, what is here taught that the Jews should not observe as well as we? should not they be humble, harmless, &c. I answer, that which the gospel teacheth touching faith, repentance, humility &c, the Jews were also bound unto; though these and the like things are otherwise opened and urged now under the gospel, Rom. 16.25.26. but there was to be another form and order of the Christian church, than of the Jewish: and in that respect, Moses polity must give place. Ye▪ they proceed and infer, that the offender if he repent not should be brought to the Congregation of Elders. This I deny in their understanding, who make this to be one with the Synedrion or Council of Magistrates, in Mat. 5.22. (which place I have also treated of before,) and I affirm it to be the Christian Church or Congregation of faithful people, the spouse and bride of Christ, with whom his power is left to judge all sinners within the same; their Elders guiding and governing them in their judgments. For the outward form of the Jewish Church was abolished by Christ; the common wealth of Israel dissolved, and given up to the Romans, whose Caesar they preferred before Christ. The Temple ruined, the ministry also changed, and the ordinances, though in many things proportionable with Israel: but for Ministers authority over his people, to govern them Magistrate like, it is forbidden Mat. 20.25, 26. Luk. 22, 25. 1. Pet. 5, 3. 1. Cor. 3, 22, 23. and for any church of Elders, the whole New Testament knoweth it not; nor any such practice as these would bring in: but that the same church which came together to the word and sacraments, came also together to judge and cast out obstinate sinners, and were all blamed for the neglect of this duty, as for any other. And for deciding controversies, the Apostles, Elders, and brethren did come together with one accord. And such order continued in Churches some years after the Apostles, for Tertullian relateth the manner of Christian assemblies in his time, how they came together into a congregation, for to pray unto God, and for to rehearse the divine scriptures, and with holy words to nourish faith, styrr up hope, and fasten confidence. How there also were exhortations, reproofs and divine censures; and judgment given with great deliberation: the approved Seniors being presidents in the assemblies. And Cyprian Bishop of Carthage showeth how with him men's causes were handled not only before the Elders but the whole multitude: without whose consent also, nothing was doon.

Next followeth their exception about women and children; asking if they should in a controversy be the greater part, whither then they be the church spoken of? Also, whither in the congregation and presence of the Elders, the women and children have authority by virtue of that rule Mat. 18.17. to examine, rebuke, admonish their husbands, parents &c. for, they that are of the church there spoken of, may examine &c. I answer; first they omit what heretofore we answered them, when they fished about this matter: namely that the whole church of men women & children are to be present at ecclesiastical judgments, as at all other public administrations of the church, where whatsoever is performed, is doon by prayer and the ministration of the word, that all may receive instruction by the word there ministered, and as is written all Israel may hear and fear and do no more any such wickedness. But no other to have voices or suffrages in excommunications &c. then they that have voices in election or deposition of officers. And they know well, it was never our judgment or practice, that in Elections women or children should give their voices, the Apostle and nature itself requiring women to be silent in the church: they also themselves have thus professed and practiced with us many years. Secondly they have seen Mr. Robinson's answer to M. Bernard (cavilling likewise about women and children,) to the same effect. Yet will they take no notice of his answer, or of ours; nor make any reply, but thus trouble the world, and us in special, to answer again and again whatsoever they please to demand. For after in pag. 43. of their book, they are twice up again with these questions of women and children, as if we had naught ells to do, but to answer and answer their tautologies. Thirdly seeing they thus deal, to make the truth seem odious, and to set the more color upon their prelacy, imitating the papists and popish affected, they shall have the like things demanded of them, not by us, but by others. Themselves as yet allow popular election of officers, because they say to give voices in election is not a part of government, but a power right and liberty that the saints and people out of office have and should use. Now those of the prelates faction which deny this power of the people, say thus unto them; By this reckoning men women and children (for all the faithful be interested) shall have voices in election of their ministers; if any dissent, all must be dashed. It had been very requisite that our author for the appointing of these Democratical elections the better unto us, should with proof out of scripture for every particular have shown whether women or children of some reasonable discretion, should have voices in election of their Minister? whether he should be chosen by all, by the greater part, or by the better part? whether the wives voice should be accounted several, or but one with her husband, or whether she might dissent from her husband, or the father from the son? &c. They that compare these two writers, may see how they wrote by one spirit, and almost with one pen. Yet because in this point of popular election they do differ: we leave it for our opposites to answer these demands to the Prelates; and then if need be, they shall hear further of us, touching popular excommunication. Fourthly, if some would thus cavil against Moses law, which requireth the hands of all the people to stone a wicked man; and ask, whether women also and children must be present & cast stones: he might have as good color for his question as have these, if not better. For these say, in Israel, such as would not hearken to the Priests & judges, were to die by the hands of the people: and the proportion that they cast for the people now, is that they shall put the sentence in execution, by avoiding the excommunicated persons. Now, I think, they will have women yea and children also, to avoid excommunicated persons; so then by proportion, women & children in Israel must cast stones at malefactors. Yea this may be further urged against them, by reason of a pregnant note which they give in their Treatise on Mat. 18 that that is such a church, as where women may speak & are to be heard in their cases and pleas as well as men, but, it is not permitted to women to speak in the Churches of the saints, &c. where either they equivocates with this word speak, using it in divers senses, (a common practice of such as would deceive,) or they must permit women to have voices and suffrages as well as men, in all their churches of Elders: and so, by their proportion, women were to cast stones in Israel. For if women are to do execution now, why not then also?

5. Now whereas they intimate to the reader, as if we would have all men examine, rebuke, admonish in the presence of the Elders; they do but labor the disgrace of the holy order in the church: where the Minister as the mouth of the congregation, propoundeth examineth and carrieth matters: and then the people if there be defect or default, may speak in due order, but if in matter or manner they transgress, they are to bear their rebuke. All things in the public judgments of the church being carried holily, peaceably and by the government of the Elders, even as in elections of officers, in prophesy, or any other thing wherein men have liberty for to speak. And when the Ministers carry things well, we commonly find it as in Act. 15.12. that all the multitude keepeth silence: otherwise strife (and sometime disorder) doth often arise, by the evil dealing of the Elders. 6. It is also to be observed how these our opposites will require by their proportion from Israel, children to stone their parents, wives their husbands, and servants their maysters, by avoiding their communion: yet will they not have thē to be of that church which is to hear, examine & judge of the causes why their parents, &c. should be stoned and excommunicated; not bound to be present at the trial of their case? Did ever any common wealth in the world require such execution at the hands of wives children and servants; and yet teach them so little to honor and regard their parents, as not to think themselves bound to hear their case tried, but upon the Elders report, to stone their own fathers, husbands, masters, which do take it on their death that they are innocent?

Against 1. Cor. 12.21.—26. which was by some alleged, they except, 1. that the Apostles purpose is not to speak of cases and pleas about syn, and of the manner of dealing therein: but of the diversity of gifts and functions, given for the help and service of all, to the building up of the body of Christ. I answer; 1. the Apostle speaketh generally of the diversities of gifts, Ministries, and operations in the church, as they are given to to every man to profit with all; and nameth in particular the gifts, operations and ministries, and among the rest the governors or governments: and there is no church action, which the Apostle purposeth not in that his dispute to comprehend: their first exception therefore is not true. 2. Neither doth it agree with itself: for if he speak (as they confess) of the diversity of gifts and functions given for the help and service of all, to the building up of the body of Christ: then can he not but speak of cases and pleas about syn: seeing they are to be judged by the gifts and functions of the church; they are for the help and service of all; they help to build up the body of Christ. Unless they would have us think, that the Elders prelacy which they strive for, is none of those gifts or functions, nor for the help and service of all, nor for the building up of Christ's body but of Antichrists: this we will grant them to be true.

2. Secondly they except, the Apostle showeth it by the similitude of the natural body and faculties; and applieth it to the feeblest members, even the youngest children newly baptized, verse. 13••22. to whom he appointeth not the cases of syn to be brought to judgment and censure, as we hereupon would infer. I answer; in thus speaking they injury us, and the truth itself. Would we infer, that the judgment of syn should be brought to infants newly baptized; because we say, not the Elders only but the church is to judge, as Paul teacheth? And would the Apostle also infer (think they) that infants should rebuke and judge unbelievers, because he saith, when the whole church is come together in one, if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, he is rebuked of all, & is judged of all. And did Joshua also mean, that the youngest children newly circumcised threw stones at Achan, because he saith, all Israel stoned him? we had not thought wise men would ever have made such inferences. And what weight is in their reasoning from infants? that if other besides Elders may judge sinners, then infants: if not infants, then no other but Elders. Might not men thus elude all Paul's arguments? As when he saith the manifestation of the spirit is given to everyone to profit withal; they to conclude, therefore the youngest children newly baptized can manifest the spirit to the profit of others. We have beneall made to drink into one spirit: therefore infants also were partakers of the Lord's supper. If one member be had in honor, all the members rejoice with it: therefore even the sucking babes▪ for they also are members. But did not these men think to find babes of us, that they have given such an answer to our allegations?

3. Thirdly they except that this similitude, might likewise be applied to Israel: which we grant. Also we acknowledge that it may not either then or now pervert God's ordinance about the Elders hearing &c. They say, the governors are set in the Church for that use: I answer, not the governors only: this is that which they should prove. They are to govern the Church in all actions, but not to do them alone. Also they say, all members have not fit gifts for examining of persons, deciding of questions &c. I answer, that is true, for infants (as they excepted,) have not. But that only the Elders have fit gifts for such purposes, is untrue: the scripture, and daily experience tells us the contrary: yea some other members may have fitter gifts than the Elders. And they themselves that now are officers, had they not gifts fit to examine judge decide &c. before they were chosē into office: or did their election give them gifts, which had none fit before?

4. Fourthly, they will have this scripture direct against us; in that it showeth how some have a more chief place than others, as the head and eyes & hands in the body. This is not against us at all, for we grant so much. But they say we little regard it, who in cases of controversy will look where the greatest number of people is, (though they may be of the most simple) and will have them to be the church, and to have the power &c. as if the multitude should still be followed, and that there were no difference of gifts, of office, or other respect at all to be had. I answer, 1. they keep their wont, in abusing us before the world: we look not in any case to the greatest number, either of people or Elders: but in all cases we look to God's law and testimony as we are commanded; which when it is shown by whom soever, all ought to yield unto. We know neither the multitude, neither yet the mighty or Rabbies are still to be followed; there are differences of gifts and offices in the church, yet no man's gift or office (no not though he were an Angel from heaven,) may carry us from the written word, by which the Godly people tried even the Apostles doctrine, and were commended. Although therefore the Church hath that liberty which all societies (that have none to exercise dominion or authority over them) have, namely that the greater number overswayeth the lesser, when all accord not: yet the faithful are not so to look unto or follow the greater number, as to decline from the least of God's commandments. This we may see in the 12. tribes of Israel, where the greater number, even ten of the tribes fell to false worship, and they carried away with them, not only the tribute of two hundred thousand lambs and ramms, which were due yerely from Moab to the Kings of Judah, & were wrongfully challenged and taken by the Kings of Samaria: but carried away also the title of the Church, being usually even by all the Prophets named Israel, whereas Judah and Benjamin were Israel as well as Ephraim and the rest, yea in deed they were the only Israel of God, as the scripture counteth Israel. Yet did not the faithful respect this greater number, but left them with their title, and usurpation, and went to the lesser part which was the better.

2. But is it not strange that these our opposites will object these things to us; when in some things they do the same, and in their new established hierarchy much worse? For in their popular election of officers (which they still allow, if it may continue,) must not the greater number of voices carry the thing? And yet there is no action of the church, that needeth more wisdom, government or circumspection then this. And therefore many precepts are left for the careful and holy performance of it, 1. Tim. 3. & 5. Tit. 1. And will not the Papists now cast the reproaches on their own faces, as they that would have the multitude still followed, as if there were no difference of gifts &c.

3. And touching their hierarchy the Eldership they will not I think deny, but the greater number of voices among them must prevail. Now that being so, a Church having a Pastor, and a Teacher that are learned, and 3. or 4. ruling Elders, which are as unlearned as the other of the people, taken of trades men and the like: these 3. or 4. Rulers (whose power they have proportioned with the Princes of Israel,) shall by their number of voices carry matters, though it be against Pastor, Teacher, and 500 brethren. Yea these may excommunicate or depose the Pastor and Teacher, and cast out of the brethren: but none can excommunicate them, or depose them jointly from their offices. The utmost that we can find these men to allow the Church in these exigence, is when they have doon all they can, to separate from them: and this power any man hath in the church of Rome. But I hope everyone that •avoureth the things of God aright, will abhor such an unruly prelacy. For if these Elders prove such as Paul foretold of, grievous wolves not sparing the flock, but speaking perverse things to draw disciples after thē; & as the Church hath had woeful experience of, now so many hundred years: what havoc & misery will not they bring upon God's people? And if we add unto this their other opiniō of God's covenant to continue with a Church, though they fall into so many horrible sins, idolatries & blasphemies as the Romish synagogue hath doon, which now they plead for to be still the true church of Christ: what will not a presumptuous Eldership do, and yet bear out themselves with this that they are the true church, and all that leave them (for what cause soever) are schismatics.

4. Let the reader also observe their manner of pleading, when they speak of the Elders proceedings, they annex, according to the Law of God: but speaking of the people, they annex, though in error, and though never so erroneously carried, and though they be of the most simple: as if they would persuade men, that the Elders usually through their wisdom and godliness walked aright, and the people through simplicity and error went astray. Whereas if either the scriptures be searched, or human histories, or the present state of churches be looked upon, we shall see the greatest errors, heresies, schisms and evils to have both arisen and been continued by the Elders, priests and learned Rabbin's in all ages: even Christ himself found no greater enemies then the high priests, scribes and rulers of the people, which turned to his reproach then, (whereof his church now is made partaker,) so that they said, doth any of the Rulers or of the Pharisees believe in him? but this people which know not the Law, are cursed. John. 7.48.49.

5. Neither (if it were true) doth their supposition that the Elders will judge according to the law, bear out their supremacy, which Christ hath forbidden. For (besides that one man may judge according to law,) both the princes of Israel, and the princes of other nations, were bound to the laws prescribed: yet may not the ministers now by proportion have princelike authority, 1. Pet. 5.3. The philosopher could say They that bid the Law bear rule, do bid God to bear rule by his own voice: but they that bid man bear rule (meaning without law) do bid a beast to bear rule.

6. Here also they do violence to the Apostles similitude of a body, and say, when a part of the body is hurt, the hand is not used nor sought unto to see withal, nor the foot to hear, neither doth the head take them to consult and determine what to do, but when the head itself hath considered and determined, then it useth the help of the hand or foot &c. as there is need and occasion. I answer, 1. first much abuse may be offered to all parables, by wresting them beyond their general scope, as is here to this. For by this manner of reasoning the Elders as the head, have all the wit, and the people as the hands and feet, have none at all. The Elders as the eyes, see all things: but the people see no more then the ears. For if the people have some understanding and insight into matters as well as the Elders, why should they not be used also in consulting and determining public things which concern all. Unless the Elders now have such abundance of wisdom, as they can afford enough to all, and need supply from none. But the scripture tells the contrary, saying, who is sufficient for these things? 2. Cor. 2.16. And what meant the Apostles and Elders of Jerusalem, to have all the people with them at their consultation & determination of a controversy, Act. 15.2.—22, 23. And why did the Apostles being the eyes, speak to the multitude, (which it seemeth saw no more then do the hands and feet,) to look out men of wisdom, for office among them? Act. 6.2.3. But what if there be of the people that see more then all their Elders, being illuminated as was David by God's precepts: & what if the Elders be blind guides as Christ calleth some, & without understanding, as the prophet cōplayneth? Then men must leave the blind Eldership, and go to the prudent brethren, and they must consult and determine, yea without the Elders, if these men say true. Do not these things manifest how they have wrested the similitude? 2. Secondly, it is direct against the Apostles meaning: who because of dissensions in the church of Corinth, showeth by that similitude of a body, that the chiefest members have need of the inferior, and the head cannot say to the feet I have no need of you: but now the Elders can say to the people, we need not your help to judge and determine questions and controversies, this gift and duty is ours; neither are you bound to be present to hear and decide public causes; but when we have judged, you shall execute our judgments. And if the people again should say to the Elders when they are about choice of officers, we need not your help, or counsel: you are not bound to be present when we do this business; the feet have no more need of the eyes to go, then the eyes have of the feet to see. Were not this to make a division in the body, which the Apostle there condemneth. 3. Moreover, it is vain to think that any officer or brother in the Church should so be one special member of the body, as that he cannot be another. The Prophets in Israel were Seers, and so in stead of eyes in the head: but when they looked out vain things, then as the Lord saith, the Prophet that taught lies, was the tail▪ Jsa. 9.15. The Elders, by directing the church in the right way, are as eyes to the body; by administering the sacraments and censures, they are as hands; when they are sent on the Churches message, they are as feet; when they reprove sins, they are as the mouth, when they are reprov'd for their sins, they should be as ears; and so other Christians in their places and employments. And as God hath bestowed his graces upon any, so is he to be regarded of all, without respect of person: neither should the Elders be minded like Achitophel and take it ill, if at any time their counsel be not followed. A man may see that in the Church, which Solomō saw in the besieged city, a poor wise man, that delivered the city by his wisdom: though both he and his wisdom were despised. A woman in Abel when it was in danger to be spoiled, persuaded all the people with her wisdom to cut off Shebaes head; and so preserved the city. Was she in this action, a part of the foot, or of the heart and head in that body, may we think? 4. Finally, this their reasoning is one with the Jesuits, that exclude the people frō church affairs. The Church (saith Bellarmine) bindeth and looseth, but by their Prelates, not by whomsoever: even as the body speaketh, but by the tongue, not by the hand. Thus doth the Cardinal answer M. Luther's argument, and thus do these men answer ours.

6. Yet have they not said enough, but they will make it Antichristian servitude, to have the people bound to come to the public ecclesiastical judgments; unless perhaps when the Elders call them together to execute their sentence, for then I trow they are bound to come. And is not this again to divide the body, when the head must be present, and the shoulders with the other parts and members may be absent? The Apostle writing to the Church of Corinth, how to do when they came together for the Lord's supper, writeth also to them how when they were gathered together, they should deliver the wicked unto Satan. We find no difference, but they were bound to come to the one as to the other. And if they answer, they are bound to assemble for to excommunicate him, but not to hear him by the word convinced in the trial of his cause; they may as well teach the people they are bound to come to eat the bread and wine in the Lord's supper, but not bound to hear the word teaching and preparing them here unto. We do so understand God's law, that when it commandeth us anything, it doth also command us to use all means for the right and holy performance of it: and all will be little enough. The people therefore that were bound to stone an idolater in Israel, were bound by that law thow shalt not slay the innocent, to look that he were duly convicted of the crime: and now by this law, be not partaker of other men's sins, keep thyself pure, every sowl that is bound to cast out a man condemned for heresy or other syn, is also bound to see him convicted, least Diotrephes cause to cast out faithful brethren. He that stands out to excommunication, will commonly plead his cause to be just; and complain that the Elders have perverted judgment: with what comfort of heart can the people now excommunicate him, if they have not heard the proceedings against him, and yet must execute the Elders sentence upon him? Let wise men judge whither this be not spiritual tyranny which the Elders would bring upon the consciences of the Church.

But they allege further, the Elders are to have maintenance for the doing of it and of the other duties &c. I answer, let them then excommunicate alone, as well as try the case alone: seeing they have maintenance for both, and let the people be bound to come to neither: no nor to the Pastors ministering of the word and sacraments (if this reason be good,) because he is more worthy maintenāce than the ruling Elders, as the Apostle showeth. But then, they say, men must leave their trades, women their families, children their schools, servants their work, and come to hear and judge cases that fall out between brother & brother. I answer, 1. First they restrain things too much, when they say between brother & brother: for what if it be a public case of heresy or idolatry, as that mentioned Deut. 13, 12, 13, 14. &c. will they say women children and servants were then, or are now bound to leave their callings, & come together to try out the matter? 2. Secondly many cōtroversies between neighbors, are for civil things of this life: such are not church matters, nor there to be heard, but by Magistrates, or arbiters chosen. 3. Thirdly for doubtful cases ecclesiastical, people are to inquire the law at the Priests mouth, and to ask counsel of their Elders severally or jointly, who are to have their meetings apart for such and other like ends: so many things may be composed without trouble of the Church. 4. Fourthly, when apparent sinners so convicted by witnesses, are to be judged by the Church: there is no time more fit then the Sabbath day; wherein all men are bound to leave their own works, & tend to the Lord's, of which sort this is. Or if that day suffice not, they may take any other for them convenient: for unto public affairs the Church is to be assembled, 1. Cor. 5.4. Act. 14.27. & 15.4, 30. & 21.18.— 22.

Against this I know, they except saying, who can show such an ordinance of God? find we such a course used in Israel on the Sabbath days? Did they not meet on the Sabbath, in the temple and synagogues for God's worship &c. and the Elders sit in the gates on the week days to hear controversies &c.

I answer; for this later point they bring not any one scripture to confirm it: yet will I not strive there about, for I think it is true▪ Sure I am, the Jews canon laws so declare; It is not lawful (they say) to judge on the Sabbath, or on a festival day: yea further, that matters of life and death may not be judged on the evening of the Sabbath, or on the evening of a festival day, least [the accused] be found guilty, and it be impossible to kyl him on the morrow. I account civil controversies, of things pertaining to this life (as Paul calleth them,) to be of our own works, which by the law, are to be doon in the six days: and therefore think it not lawful for Magistrates to keep courts or Assizes, to judge and execute malefactors on the Sabbath. And this, among other things, showeth a main difference between the Eldership of the Church, and the Magistracy of Israel. But for ecclesiastical works by priests or people, they were to be doon on the sabbaths, as circumcision, kyling, slaying, cutting and burning of sacrifices, which was very laborious work, and even a breach of the Sabbath in outward show, but that the different nature of the action made it blameless. Now the church judgments are the Lord's works, not ours, and therefore fittest to be doon on the Lord's day: they belong to Christ's kingly office, and therefore are holy, as the works of his prophetic and priestly office. These our opposites themselves compare the casting out by excommunication, with the contrary receiving in by baptism. Al churches baptize on the Sabbath, and also excommunicate on the Sabbath: why should not the cause be heard, as well as the judgment executed on that day? We find, ecclesiastical controversies were disputed on the Sabbath days in Israel, as the Apostles practice showeth, Act. 13.44.45.46. & 17.2.3. & 18.4. It was lawful on the Sabbath to heal the body: and is it unlawful to heal the sowl? It was lawful to save a sheep from dying in a ditch: and is it not lawful to save a sowl from death, and cover a multitude of sins? Seeing therefore the Sabbath is to be sanctified by the word of God, and prayer: and all that the church ministers are to do, belongeth unto these, as the Apostles teach us, Act. 6.4. we think it is too Pharisee like to carp at church judgments on the Sabbath: and then servants (which are the Lord's freemen) and all other, resting from their own works, may attend to the Lord's, without such inconveniences as these would cast in their way. And hitherto of the first point in controversy.

The second point of difference: in the Letter.

2. WE had learned, that every true Church of Christ, hath this power to cast out obstinate sinners from amongst them, & this not only when it hath officers, but also when it wanteth them: but now we were taught, that a people without officers have not power to cast out obstinate sinners. Which doctrine amongst other evils, overthroweth the constitution of the Church that so taught; for it was gathered and constituted by Christians without officers, receiving in the repentant, and casting out the disobedient, whereas by this opinion, they had power from Christ to do neither; for they that cannot cast out, cannot receive in, one power is for both.

With this they join out of the printed copy.

6. The 33. article [in our Confession] which our Apology also confirmeth, pag. 45. professeth that people being come forth of the Antichristian estate &c. are willingly to join together in Christian communion and orderly covenant, and to unite themselves into peculiar and visible congregations &c. These have pleaded, that all are bound to communion by virtue of their baptism received in the Church of Rome, or other Antichristian assemblies.

These things are confirmed by Mat. 18.17.—20. with 28.20. 1. Cor. 5.4.5. and 12.27. & 1.2. Rom. 12.5. Heb. 12.22.28. Mat. 5.14. Phil. 1.1.5- Act. 2.41.42.47. & 17.4. The latter is also confirmed with sundry scriptures and reasons expressed in our foresaid Apology.

Against this their former profession, these men now thus write.

1. Where find we in the scriptures, that God hath thus laid upon the people without officers to excommunicate? where is the precept for it? which be the examples of it? or what are the grounds requiring & bearing it out?

I answer, 1. First as their manner is, they would put others to prove, that which by others and themselves hath been proved and approved; and is not as yet by them or any taken away. It is easy for any to dispute and trouble men after this manner. 2. Secondly in that place of their Treatise on Mat. 18. they quote Mat. 2.20. as alleged for a ground: yet they give not any answer to that scripture, but still call upon us to answer their questions, & write more. Whereas Christ there encōmendeth to his disciples of all nations to the worlds end the observing of all things whatsoever he commanded the Apostles. And excommunication was one of those things commanded, Mat. 18. 1. Cor. 5. Therefore to be observed by a Christian people though they want officers, unless these men can show some prohibition. Christ requireth to observe all things; these men say, nay, not excommunication: it lieth now, on them to show where Christ or his Apostles have excepted excommunication. But from that place, and by the very same reasons, do the Anabaptists deny baptism of Children, calling for scripture, example, precept, & ground to warrant it, as these do now in this case.

3. Thirdly, besides all things heretofore written, they have a ground in the article itself, which they neither do nor can take away; which is the power that the church always hath to receive in members: and therefore consequently to cast them out again if they deserve it. Which ground if they deny, they in effect deny that there can be any church without Elders, contrary to the express scripture Act. 14.23. 1. Cor. 12.28. Tit. 1.5. Yea or that there can be any visible Christians without Elders: for how can they be Christians without union with Christ? And if men cannot be united with his members and body, because there wanteth Elders, how should they be united with him the head? 4. They have it proved a point of false doctrine by Mr Johnson himself, to teach that the Church of Christ hath not always power to receive in and to cast out by the keys of the kingdom. Answer to M. Jacob, pag. 159.160.

2. They secondly allege sundry examples & grounds that it hath been doon by the Lord himself and by his officers, &c. This we never doubted of, but a Church having officers may excommunicate. Though yet the proof for the Elders will be excepted against by the Prelates and such like. For, th'examples of Abraham, of Paul, of Titus, of Timothy, and of the Priest judging a leper, make rather in show for one Bishop, then for a Church of Elders: and so are alleged by Papists, for the Prelacie. The other scriptures do none of them show the Elders power to excommunicate, but to watch, take heed, reprove, admonish &c, all which the Prelates grant to their inferior Priests: whom yet they will not suffer to excommunicate, without the Bishop or his Official, as these will not the Church, without an Eldership. The examples of excommunicating by the Rulers of Israel, I will turn against them thus: If the Magistrates and people of Israel might not only punish civilly with death, but also execute a spiritual censure of excommunication upon the consciences of evil doers, though they had wanted ministers of the Temple, and synagogues: then a Christian magistrate and people may do so now, though they want ministers ecclesiastical. And if the Church may excommunicate having a magistrate, it may also do it wanting one: seeing the power of spiritual censure dependeth not upon the civil magistracy, as the state of the Churches in the Apostles days showeth.

3, Thirdly they will have us to consider how a people can challenge the ministration of excommunication, more then of the sacraments &c. This we have considered, and find that if the reason be good, the ruling Elders may not excommunicate, anymore then minister the sacraments: which whither they hold or no, let them tell us in their next. For they know well, the Prelates object these things against the ruling Elders, as themselves do now against the people.

4. Fourthly they say, they cannot find in scripture but when the church is called the body of Christ, or compared to a body, house, city or kingdom: it is spoken either of particular Churches having officers, or of the catholic church, in respect of Christ the head &c. I answer, it appeareth then plainly, they have lost that which they had found; and let them take heed least for not keeping it, God deprive them of finding it anymore. But I will help them, if it may be by their own writing, where this same author saith, A company of faithful people, (though considered a part by themselves, they be private men, yet) being gathered together in the name of Christ, and joined together in fellowship of his gospel, they are a publick body, a church, a city, a kingdom, and that of Jesus Christ, who is present among them to guide bless and confirm what they do on earth in his name, and by his power. So that like as in a city the citizens considered a part, are commonly private members, yet jointly together are the corporation and public body of that town: so is it also in the church of Christ, whither it consist of moe or of fewer, yea though they be but 2. or 3. so as they be joined together in the communion of the gospel, and gathered together in the name of Jesus Christ as before is said. These things they have acknowledged: though now it seemeth they have forgot them, or (which is worse,) do dissemble them. Unto these I will add the Apostles testimony, concerning a house; Christ, is the chief corner stone: and Christians that come unto him, as lively stones are made a spiritual house, an holy Priesthood to offer up spiritual sacrifices. Men come unto Christ by belief, and are joined unto him and one to another by mutual covenant. The ministers of Christ are as builders of this house, by preaching the gospel, laying first the foundation Christ, then upon him Christian people, God's building. But if (as often cometh to pass,) the builders do refuse, yet the Lord without them putteth Christ for head of the corner, and causeth the faithful to come unto him, and maketh them his spiritual house to dwell in them, whose house they continue to be, not by having officers always among them, but by holding fast their confidence and rejoicing of hope unto the end. Wherefore these men that can find no house of God without Elders, must prove that men cannot come unto, nor continue in Christ, unless it be by ecclesiastical officers, (which they shall never be able to manifest:) or all may see, how they are beguiled with error, that they cannot find things so apparent, and heretofore acknowledged by themselves. Their opinion is injurious not only to Christians, but to Christ himself; whiles they will not grant him being the corner stone, the head, the king; and the faithful, the living stones his members and subjects, to make a house, body or kingdom; if the Elders want or refuse: though he as is written, walketh among his Churches and is with them all days to the worlds end.

5. Fifthly they say, our controversy was about a Church established with officers: & things concerning people without officers, are left to further consideration. I answer, true it is, they sought always to hide their errors, and to put off things which pressed them, to further consideration, and the Elders having gott the Churches power into their hands, they lysted not to scan the people's right. But we were necessarily drawn to controvert this point two ways: first because their error did eat out the very constitution of the Church whereof they were, as shall after be manifested. Secondly because it was by themselves acknowledged that whatsoever power the people hav before; is not to be takē away by their officers; this therefore was an argument that manifested the evil which lurketh in their new doctrine. And who can soundly discuss any question, if they look not to the foundation; as Christ said to the Pharisees, from the beginning it was not so.

6. Finally, whereas we shown how their doctrine overthroweth the constitution of their Church; as being without power from Christ, they say, First it were worth the knowing by whom the first man or two men of this church were received in, and by what power. I answer, it is true they say; and pray them therefore to show by what power their church began, if they would have men acknowledge it for true, and planted by the power of Christ Otherwise they must renounce their estate, and begin a new. As for ours, it is shown in our published writings, which if they can, let them disprove; as, in Treat. of the ministry, against M. Hildersh. p. 73.74. Apology, p. 44.45.46.47.

2. Secondly they say, by our baptism, as also by accord in the truth, we ar bound to communion in anything lawful, as God giveth occasion and opportunity. I answer; 1. they here turn from the question: we speak of constitution of a particular church, they tell us of communion by baptism and accord in the truth; which extendeth to all churches in the world, and to Saints that ar not gathered and constituted into any particular church. We speak of a church with power to receive in and cast out, though it have no officers: they touch not this point, unless they closely grant us the question, to the overthrow of their opinion. For if they yield such power and practice, to be a lawful thing in the communion of all such as ar baptized, or do accord in the truth; they refute themselves: if not, all men may see how they seek to divert from the matter in hand. 2. Secondly by their baptism, they mean not only the true baptism in Christ's church, but the false baptism in Antichrists, as the article expresseth, and after we ar to scan: which if it be according to the scriptures which they cite, the one baptism, that by one spirit baptizeth all into one body; then are they returned into the cōmmunion and body of Antichrists synagogue, (if the church of Rome be it,) & are bound to communicate even with Friers and Jesuits in anything lawful as God giveth occasion, and that is, I suppose, to hear them when they preach nothing but the truth, or to pray with them, when they in spirit pray to God in Christ &c. I would be loath to wrong them, their own words lead me to this, if I gather amyss let them pardon me, & show their meaning plainly: for, he that doth truth, cometh to the light. 3. Thirdly, without baptism there may be a Church entered into covenant with God & one with another: as all Israel passed into the covenant renewed by Moses; when all the men under 40. years old, were uncirsed: besides all the women.

3. They thirdly say, it is plain and undeniable that to choose or give voices in election, is not a part of government &c. but an interest power, right and liberty, that the Saints out of office have and should use &c. I answer,

1. First this is plain and undeniable, so long as it pleaseth them not to deny it: but if they change their mind in this point tomorrow, as they have doon in the former about the people's power to excommunicate, then we shall hear, as we did before, where find we in the scriptures that God hath thus laid on the people without officers to make electiō? where is the precept for it? which be the examples of it? &c. They tell us it is plain; but not one scripture is brought to show it: yet is it needful, seeing they know the Papists and other Prelates deny such elections without officers. The Prelates will show them sundry examples, where it was doon by the counsel, direction and government of officers, as Act. 1.15.21, 22. & 6.2, 3. & 14, 23, 1. Tim. 3, 1.— 14.15. Tit. 1.5. but not one place where a people without officers attempted such a work. Wherefore we wish our opposites not to deal so slenderly, as to tell men it is plain and undeniable, & so to leave it: for we make no doubt, but the sound proof of this point, will disprove their former error. 2. Secondly, we have upon their bare word, that to give voices in election of officers is no part of government: we pray them in their next to show, whether then to give voices for deposition of unworthy officers, be a part of government; as also how they prove that to give voices for the reciving in, and putting out of members in the Church, is a part of government, more than the other. 3. Thirdly the reader may observe their covert carriage of this point, whiles they speak but of giving voices in election: but what say they about giving power of administration to the ministers: who must do that? or how had these men that, but by the people? And if the people have power in the name of Christ, to say to the elected Pastor, Take thou authority to preach the word &c. or in any other terms to give him pastoral office which had none before; I hope they will not deny but if that Pastor afterward prove a Wolf, the same people may put him out of all his pastoral office: and if they have that power, why also may they not put him quite out of the fold and Church by the power of Christ, that is, excommunicate him? And if it be not lawful for a people to give authority of Ministry unto a man: how then do these administer, which renounced some of them their former office and priesthood given by the Prelates, and as private men received a new calling and ordination: others from private estate, were constituted Elders by the people. Is this Ministry now from heaven, or from men?

4. Lastly they say, seeing their doctrine overthroweth not the constitution of the Church of Israel, nor of the primitive Churches, it cannot therefore overthrow the constitution of their church, or of any that is accordingly built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets &c. I answer, this in deed is the surest argument of all: save that it is a fayr begging of the question. For the thing they should prove, is, that their constitution is according to Israel, or Apostolic. For, if Israel or the primitive Churches before they had officers, did or might receive in and cast out members, and if the people might set up, and depose officers by power from God: then are these men's errors overthrown. If not, but that the thing is unlawful for any then or now so to do, then is the constitution of their Church overthrown, as that w<sup>ch</sup> did grow up to such estate without power from heaven, and they are to let it fall, and be rooted up, and come to a better (if they can find it) according to the scriptures. Whether therefore our exception, or their defense be more vain & frivolous, (as they speak) let the prudent judge.

The 3. point of difference: in the Letter.

1. WE had learned, that every Christian congregation hath power and commandment to elect and ordain their own Ministry, according to the rules of God's word: and upon such default in life doctrine or administration, as by the rule of the word depriveth them of the ministry, by due order to depose them from the ministry they exercised, yea if the case so require, orderly to cut them off by excommunication. But now it is by some maintained, that the Congregation can neither put into office, nor put out of office unless they have officers to do both: and can neither for heresy or other wickedness excommunicate or depose their Eldership.

With this they join the first out of the printed copy: which is as the former.

These things are confirmed in our Articles, by Act. 6.3.5.6. & 14.23. & 15.2.3.22.23. 2. Cor. 8.19. 1. Tim. 3.10. & 4.14. & 5.22. Num. 8.9.10. 1. Cor. 16.3. Tit. 1.5. &c. Eph. 4.11.12. 1. Cor. 12.7.8.14.15.28. Levite. 8. ch. Rom. 16.17. Phil. 3.2. 1. Tim. 6.3.5. Ezek. 44.12.13. Mat. 18.16. And in our Apology by 7. reasons deduced frō the Scriptures.

Hereunto they say 1. That the church may excommunicate an officer as well as any other member. I answer, they yet touch not the point; We speak of the churches ministry or Eldership in general; they tell us of one in particular: who because there ar other ministers, he may be censured by them. Bur if a church have only one minister, and he prove a wolf: they can neither put him out of office, nor excommunicate him, by their doctrine. 2. Secondly they say, if all the officers jointly transgress and so persist: then the church which did choose thē, may also depose and refuse them from being their officers any longer, and may separate themselves from them. But that the people may excommunicate all their officers, they desire to see it shown from the word. I answer, though they cannot deny the Article, yet they seek covertly to carry the reader aside. The article speaketh of choosing and ordaining, and so putting into office: they answer only of choosing: the other they pass by. But let them show ever any church, where men were chosen, and not also ordained and put into office: or that God committed the beginning of such a work to any people, and not the ending also. And why will they sever the things God hath joined? In the law; the church had authority to make them (that is as the Greek version showeth constitute or ordain, which word Paul useth Tit. 1.5.) Judges and officers in all their cities: and not to elect them only. 2. The article speaketh of deposing from ministry and putting out of office: they answer only of deposing and refusing from being their officers any longer: That is to say, as men that have left the church of Rome, have deposed the Pope: for in separating from him, he is their officer no longer. But is he not, trow we, a Pope still▪ And shall not an Eldership, when the people have doon all this that they speak of, retain a ministry still?

The separation which they tell us of, is thus opened by their own comment, that it implieth the power we have over ourselves, whereas excommunication implieth power and authority over others. Thus they allow not the body of the Church power and authority over their heretical Eldership, (though it be but 2. or 3. wicked men,) to cast them out of the Church in Christ's name and power, or to depose them from office, but from being their officers. Even thus they themselves have deposed all the Bishops of England long ago. But whether this be not to equivocate with the word depose, let wise men judge: for a little after they ask whether it can be shown by any scripture, that any did ordain or depose officers, but Governors. Now whereas our ⟨◇⟩ & Apology is confirmed by many scriptures & reasons deduced from them, they answer them not, as is meet they should, seeing they will abrogate their former profession, and bring in a new: neither do they (as they then wrote must be doon) show some other manner of entrance [into the ministry] ordained by Christ; but thus they labor to confute themselves. 1. The particulars of the 23. Article of our Confession being found true in the churches of Israel, and of the Gentiles since Christ: the exception made hereabout cannot be of weight against this or any other Church established according to the word of God, as those were, but must be also against those Churches withal. What to make of this their answer, as yet I cannot tell: my slendernes comprehendeth not the depth of it. That the *particulars of that 23. article, were found true in the Churches of God; I doubt not of it: that is the thing we stand for. That exception should be made by us hereabout, against this or any Church, established according to the word of God as these were: is far from our thought. What is it then that they have said: but an ostentation of the name of Israel, their main colorable argument, which yet is against them, not for them at all, as our Cōfession and Apology showeth. In Israel the whole Congregation was assembled at the ordination of their ministers, and the childrē of Israel imposed hands upon them. This rule we follow: but these our opposites will not allow churches (unless they have ministers before,) to do thus: they will rather have their ministry from the great Antichrist of Rome, (as after shall be manifested,) for which they have no show in the scriptures. For did Israel ever take Egyptian or Babylonian priests to minister in their sanctuary? or did the primitive churches ever take any Bishop of the Antichrists that were in there time, & set them by virtue of their Antichristian ordination over the flock of Christ? why then do these men so often tell us of Israel and the primitive churches, unless they think their very names would make us afraid?*

But they except against Num. 8.9.10. saying, by the children of Israel &c. are the Elders of Israel often meant. I answer, 1. First this being granted, it disprooveth not our argument; for it may be often so used elsewhere, and yet not here. When we reason from Heb. 1.8. O God thy throne is forever, to prove Christ's Godhead: the Arians object, that Princes and Magistrates are often called God's, Psal. 82. Exod. 21.6. but is that a sufficient answer? 2. Secondly that which these say, is here true, but not the whole truth. ⟨◇⟩ Elders, are meant as principals, but not they to be all the congregation: which I thus manifest. The Levites now to be ordained Ministers, were taken instead of all the firstborn of Israel, and not instead of the firstborn of the Elders only: Num. 3.40.41. The Levites were now to be offered before the Lord, as a shake offering of the children of Israel, Num. 8.11. being freely given as a gift of theirs unto the Lord, to do the service of the Tabernacle of the congregation, Num. 18.6. & 8.16. All offerings were by those that offered them, to be presented at the door of the Tabernacle, with imposition of hands, Levite. 1. verse. 2.3.4. &c. For as much therefore as these Levites were offered by all the Congregation (and not the Elders or officers only,) in stead of their own firstborn: it is evident that not the Officers only, but the other people also are here meant, Num. 8.10. the rather also for that before verse. 9. and after verse 11. others besides Elders are intended. 2. Secondly they object, how should so many hundred thousand of Israel, either at once hear, or do the things there spoken of? I answer, as well as they heard and did other public affairs in the Tabernacle: unless they think, that all the people never heard or did anything there. When the whole Congregation of Israel sinned, all the Congregation was to bring a sacrifice, Num. 15.24, 25, 26. will they ask how so many 100000. could do it? By this reason, nothing at all should ever be doon in Israel by the multitude, either for word, prayers, sacrifices &c. And so by their proportion of the Church now, let the people be exempted from word, prayers, sacraments, as well as from ordination of officers, and censuring of sinners: and let the Eldership be all in all.

3. Thirdly they except, if it be said some did it for the rest: first, who were those some, but the Elders! secondly, under whom did they it, but under the Lord, who set them over the people to minister and govern in his stead? I answer, first the multitude & not the Elders only were assembled. Secondly the multitude and not the Elders only, gave these Levites to the Lord: both these are before proved. Thirdly for the order and manner of giving, Moses governed the action, to him it was said, thou shalt sprinkle water, thou shalt bring them before the Lord &c. and then the children of Israel imposed hands: this I understand, not of every particular man, but of some of the chief for the rest: as the Elders, heads of tribes, chief fathers of families &c. as when the multitude brought an oblation for their syn, the Elders put their hands on the head of the sacrifice, Lev. 4.14.15. Accordingly have we practiced in our ordination of officers (as these our opposites well know,) some of the chief of the Church, the ancientest, and fathers of families, imposed hands in name of the rest. Now to their second questiō I answer, they did it under the Lord, and for the other people. But this will not satisfy them, for they say they were over the people to minister and govern in God's stead, Exod. 20.12. Num. 11.16.—30. Deut. 1.9.—18. & 16.18. & 17.12. & 19.12, 17. &c. I answer, admit that all they which imposed hands were governors, (though that cannot be proved, neither doth honor thy father & mother Exod. 20, 12. I am sure, show any such thing:) yet they did not this thing as a work peculiar to their office of government, neither do any of the scriptures alleged, show so much, but the contrary may be manifested. For if they did it as governors, then was it either as governors ecclesiastical and ministers in the sanctuary: but so were not they, for Aaron and his sons had peculiarly that charge, Levite. 8. Or they did it as governors civil, & Magistrates of the common wealth. Which if it be affirmed, then first, Christian Magistrates now (which have civil authority equal with the Magistrates of Israel;) may ordain and impose hands on church ministers: and so men need not run to Rome to borrow a Ministry from Antichrist, as many now do fancy. Secondly if civil Magistrates may impose hands on Ministers: it will follow, that the Church wanting Magistrates, may also by the Fathers of families, or other fittest members impose hands. For it is not properly a work tied to the magistrates office: 1. because then the churches in the Apostles times wanting Magistrates, could not have had Ministers: but they had, and yet never intruded into the Magistrates office. 2. Because the Magistrates sword and office is not subordinate to Christ as he is mediator and head of the Church, (for so there should be no lawful magistrates but Christians & members of the church:) but Magistrates have their office next under God, to be heads of the Common weales (whether they be members of the church or not,) as Christ hath his office under God to be head of the Church: and these two governments are so distinct, as they neither may be confounded, neither do one take in hand the work peculiarly belonging to another. Christ professed his kingdom not to be of this world, neither meddled 〈◊〉 with the outward sword, nor civil controversies: neither on the other side, might the Kings of Israel meddle with the Priests work, to burn incense, or the like. 3. Because the works of the civil Magistrates office in Israel, might be performed by hethēs when they ruled over that nation: as appointing of officers, judging of controversies, punishment of malefactors &c. So Nebuchadnezzar the Babylonian lawfully (as concerning God,) reigned over the Jews, and did set over them a governor, and put some of them to death for adultery & other evils. And the Jews were bound to obey him and his substitutes, and to pray for his common wealth. But to the Babylonian Priests they might not be subject. Neither do I think that our opposites will say, Nebuchadnezzar and his Princes might give office of Ministry, or impose hands on the Levites in the sanctuary. Wherefore I conclude that the chief fathers of Israel imposed hands on the Levites, not because of their office of magistracy (if they had such an office,) as if it could not ells have been performed: but because they were the principallest members of the Church, & therefore by order to do it before all other, and in the name of all other, which for the multitude of them could not perform it: which order all churches now are bound to keep forever. And this which I have said, the words of the text in their natural sense do confirm, the sons of Israel shall put their hands upon the Levites: showing that they did it not by title of Magistracy, but as Israelites. So also in the other case, when the Elders imposed hands on the syn offering, Levite. 4, 14, 15. it was not a work peculiar to the ecclesiastical Elders: for afterward King Hezekiah with the Congregation laid their hands upon the sacrifices. Which thing also he did not by peculiar right of his kingly office, but as he was principal of the Church of Israel; for when they had no King, the Church might do it, by the next chief members; & an unbelieving King reigning over them might not do it. Also if any people returning from captivity, had wanted Magistrates; they were not deprived thereby of offering sacrifice for their public syn. For if every private man might impose hands on his own sacrifice, as Levite. 1.3.4. how can we think that the whole company synning, the chief fathers might not have imposed hands, according to that rule, Lev. 4.15. Yea the word Elders doth not always (though often) mean Magistrates or ministers by office, but sometime ancient in years.

The other things which they allege, about the variety of phrase, as they do not disprove the thing forespoken: so make they nothing for them. They say such as are called Elders, Lev. 9.1. are called children of Israel, Lev. 9, 3. this is true: for whoever doubted but the Elders were sons of Israel as well as the other people. But if they bring it to prove the Elders or Officers only to be there intended, I deny it: the whole chapter after manifesteth the public church to be meant. For when Aaron had offered his own syn-offering, and burnt-offering; then offered he the people's syn-offering, and their burnt-offering, and their peace offerings: and after lifted up his hands to the people and blessed them. This was one of the most public assemblies, and who would ever dream that the Elders only were here expiated by sacrifice, and blessed of the Priest? they might even as well say, the Elders only did keep and eat the passover; cōparing Exod. 12.3. with Exod. 12.21. where one verse saith all the congregation, and another, all the Elders.

The next exception of the Septuagint's translating the sons of Israel in Greek the Eldership: is not of weight, though the translators should have minded as do their Commenters. But they purposed not hereby to exclude the people, anymore then in 1. Sam 8.4. they would exclude the Elders: where when the original text saith, the Elders of Israel came to Samuel, they translate it in Greek, the men of Israel. So the Elders of Jabesh, 1. Sam. 11, 3. the Greek calleth the men of Jabesh. Of like weight are their observations about the word Church or Congregation, which being but once turned in Greek the synedrion, they skore it up, as making for their Eldership: but though it be once, twice and thrice turned laos, plethos, ochlos, that is, the people, and multitude; they can let them places pass, and say never a word. Moreover touching this place in hand, Num. 8, 10. the Greek version as well as the Hebrew itself saith, the children of Israel, shall impose their hands upon the Levites: so that their exception here standeth them in no stead.

Finally they observe the clauses in the article, according to the rules in God's word, and by due order &c. which as they bind them to show by scriptures, that the people not being in office may choose their officers, as is proved there & in Apol. p. 46.47. so they bind us to show like rules practice or warrant of ordination, deposition and excommunication. I answer; first if a man would except as they do, he might ask them how they prove that people without officers may by due order choose any into office: for in the scriptures which they stand upon, all things were doon by the counsel, ordering and government of the officers, even the election itself, Act. 6.2.3. & 1.15.—22. & 14.23. &c. Secondly their new devise of having their ordination successively frō Rome, is neither according to the rules in God's word, nor by due order, nor by any example in Israel; no though Rome were as true a church as they now plead her to be. For that the ministers of one particular church should ordain officers for another church, is more unorderly then when every church ordeyneth them in itself: the Apostles and Evangelists had their offices in all churches, so have not Pastors. Magistrates are limited within their own precincts: and the Major or Bailive of one corporation, hath no jurisdiction in another. So should all ministers be bounded within their own charges, and not challenge catholic authority in all churches, as doth the lawless usurping man of syn, Antichrist. Thirdly, the scriptures and reasons in our Articles and Apology, serv also for the ordination and deposition of ministers; though it please these men to pass them over in silēce, because they are too heavy for them to lift. In our Apology pag. 43. there are 6. arguments, and in pag. 47. six other arguments confirmed by scriptures, as the reader may see: til our opposites answer thē, we think it needless to set down more.

Fourthly, we hold it necessary that all church actions be orderly carried, either by the officers if there be any, or by the Magistrates as in Israel, or by the Fathers of families, or the most excellent in gifts requested thereunto by the congregation: this we firmly maintain, against all popular confusion and disorder whatsoever. And M. Johnson himself hath expressly defended this truth heretofore against M. Jacob, that where people first come to the order of Christ, imposition of hands is to be doon by the fittest among them, being thereunto appointed by the rest of the church, alleging Num. 8.10. though now he useth for defense of his contrary error, the Jesuits answers. For even so doth Bellarmine turn away the reasons of the protestantes, saying, the people did never ordain nor create ministers, nor give them any power, but only named and designed them. Act. 1. & 6.

The 4. point of difference: in the Letter.

4. WE had learned that none may execute a ministry but such as are rightly called by the Church whereof they stand Ministers, unto such offices and in such manner as God hath prescribed in his word. But now these will execute a ministry, which have not rightly been called by the Church whereof they stand ministers, according to their own account and doctrine: which hold (as before) that a people without officers have no warrant from God, to make or depose Ministers.

With this they join, out of the printed copy.

3. The 29. article (of our Confession, as also our Apology pag. 51.52.) professeth that the hierarchy of Archbishops, Lord bishops, Priests &c. are a strange and Antichristian Ministry and officers, not instituted in Christ's Testament, nor placed in or over his church. These have placed over them, one that was made Priest by a Lord bishops ordination, so as because of it, they did not ordain or impose hands on him, when at the same time they ordained and imposed hands on others, whom together with him they set over the Church.

5. The 32. article (whereto our Apology agreeth pag. 52.53.54.) testifieth that all such as have received any of those false offices (of Lord bishops Priests &c.) are to give over and leave them: and so hath it been practiced here before by all such Priests as came to our faith and Church. Now one is Minister over thē, ordained Priest by the Prelates, as is before said.

The Confirmation of these points in our Apology (besides the scriptures quoted in our Confession,) is of the one by 8. of the other by 12. reasons deduced from many scriptures.

Hereunto they make these answers. First, that this point is of like nature with the 2. & 3. here before, where therefore see the answers. And there also let the reader see our replies. But they would blind their reader with show of answer, where none is. For the first point was of every Churches power to cast out obstinate sinners: the second of their power to elect and ordain officers. Now what are these to justify any unlawful ministry, either set up by a people without the power of Christ, or received by the tradition of Antichrist? It had been their part, seeing they deny their former grounds, to have shown us some better by the scripture: which how they have doon either there or here, let their writings being viewed manifest.

Secondly, they say if we would here imply a particular matter concerning one of their Ministers, about imposition of hands, that is a point also left to further consideration, &c. I answer, no, we mean others of them that were Ministers before, and such as have had (some of them,) imposition of hands twice: and this they could not but see plainly to be our intent in that 4. article: though they wink and will not see it, and are mute, and will not defend it, but wind away to other things not there intended. Let them therefore in their next, bring a plain defense of their Ministry, which by their new doctrine is overthrown: and use no more such tergiversation.

Unto the other thing objected in the 3. & 5. articles by Lawn printed: First they signify that their testimony against the antichristian hierarchy treated of in the Confession, is not by them reversed or weakened any way &c. I answer, these are but words: in deed and truth, the contrary will appear. For as heretofore they proved Antichrists baptism to be not a true but a false sacrament; but now they plead for it to be the one true baptism of Christ: so having heretofore witnessed against the whole Antichristian hierarchy of prelates Priests &c. their offices, entrance and administration: they now compare the popish ordination with the baptism. Also they bring to warrant this, the Priests and Levites which were called of God; as after is to be seen: and yet they would be thought, not to reverse their testimony. Secondly they tell us how they were combred with the Anabaptists, and occasioned to think of their ministry; as 1st That imposition of hands is of God, and not an invention of Antichrists &c. I answer, thus also they shall be occasioned to think of the Popes excommunication, for that is God's ordinance as well as their sacrament of orders: and of the Romish Mass or supper, for that is God's ordinance also; though by them abused to idolatry. Yea thus the Jews that fell to paganism, might take occasion to think of the hethē sacrifices, for they also were God's ordinances in their first institutiō, as well as Antichrists sacraments. But as for the Anabaptists, themselves long since so refuted them, without this their new plea: that there needed no fear of their strength at all. Finally, the impositiō of hands by an Antichristian prelate, upon that ministry which is not of Christ but of Antichrists apostasy, I deny that such imposition of hands is of God: and that such the whole ministry of Rome is, is proved at large by many scriptures, in M. Johnson's Reasons and Arguments against spiritual communion with the M<sup>n</sup>ist pag. 17.18. &c,

- Their second observation is, that baptism and imposition of hands, are joined together among the principles, Heb. 6, 2. I answer, so are baptism & the Lord's supper (now of Antichristians called the Mass) joined in 1. Cor. 10.2.3. & 12.13. that if this reason be good, their next thoughts must be, about the lawfulness of the Mass.

3. Thirdly they allege that imposition of hands is in Rome still given to the office of ministry, and in the name of the Lord. I answer, so also the Popes bulls of excommunication go forth from the office of Ministry, and in the name of the Lord: but so all mischief began, and gave occasion to the proverb, in nomine Domini incipit omne malum. But let us take a view, how imposition of hands is used now in Rome, as they say in the name of the Lord. Ordination of ministers there is a sacrament, the outward sign or rite whereof, is imposition of hands: the thing signified, is the promise of grace. They have seven orders, Priests, (or Sacrificers,) Deacons, Subdeacons, Acoluthes, Exorcists, Readers and Ostiaries (or keepers of the door.) They are made Priests, when by the Bishop, (who only can give this order) it is said, Receiv power to offer sacrifice unto God, and to celebrate Masses, both for the living and for the dead, in the name of the Lord. The Bishop saith with all, Receiv the holy Ghost: the Priests are also shaved on their crowns, and anointed with oil on their hands; that by that unction, and the Bishops blessting those hands may be consecrated and sanctified of God. A stole of innocence is put upon the Priest, and he promiseth to the Bishop and his successors, reverence, and obedience; and the Bishop gives him again the blessing of God the Fa<sup>t</sup>ther, & the †Son and the holy†Ghost that he may be blessed in his priestly order, and may offer placable hosts (or sacrifices) to God for the sins of the people. This ordination hath a double effect, 1. a perpetual spiritual power; in sign whereof a character (or mark indelible) is imprinted on them; and 2. grace making them acceptable, whereby they are enabled to execute their office. So this Bishoply ordination conferreth grace; and if any shall say, that the holy Ghost is not given hereby, let him (saith the Council of Trent) be accursed. This is that holy ordination (or rather, that abominable Idol, and mark of the beast,) so commended unto us by these men, as doon in the name of the Lord. And as for the Office of ministry, to which they say now it is given. M. Johnson himself ha•h set down heretofore 33. reasons and differences proving by many scriptures, that the popish priests office, is not the Christian Pastors office. Yea he affirmed the hierarchy of Antichrist, to be the most detestable anarchie of Satan that ever was: and what now will imposition of sacrilegious hands in the name of the Lord, do good unto such a detestable ministry?

4. Fourthly they say, they find not precept, example or ground in scripture, binding them to the repetition of [that ordination.] I answer, it is very true; no scripture bindeth men to repete or do again such abominations. And we pray them show us where is there precept, example or ground to keep the priesthood and indelible character of Antichrist? But be it as they say; what then will become of their own Ministry, for some of them have both received, & given unto others, reordination: are they not in as evil case (by their own grounds) as the Anabaptists with their rebaptisation? They unjustly insinuate Anabaptistry against us very often: but themselves are in like actual transgression with the Anabaptists (if their doctrine be true), and yet manifest not their repentance, nor tell us by virtue of which ordination, they do now administer.

5. Fifthly they say, the Priests and Levites in Israel, being cleansed of their uncleanness, retained still their places, and their children after them, did minister without a new anointing or new imposition of hands &c. I answer, then belike the Romish priests must keep their Antichristian priesthood still; for so the Priests in Israel did theirs. Otherwise if they must have a new office; how can they do it by their old ordination? Even in Rome itself, when a Priest is promoted to a Bishops office, he is new anointed, both hands & head; the holy Ghost again given him, the pastoral staff, the ring, the Gospel is also given him, to go preach to the people committed to him &c. and he hath a new imposition of hands besides that he had before.

2. If the Priests children called of God, did in Israel minister without imposition of hands upon them at all, as they suppose: yet this will make nothing for Antichrists hierarchy, called of the Devil, with greasing, shaving, & imposing of hands, to sacrifice blasphemously for the quick and dead; that they should now minister by virtue of this office and calling in the Church of Christ. Neither might Baals Priests or Chemarims, administer in God's temple. Their reason therefore from the Lord's own Ministry, is altogether unfit; the hethenish Flamins or Druides, are fitter matches for Belials clergy. And this M. Johnson himself acknowledged, when he wrote against M. Hilderdersh. thus, If Jupiters Priest, Act. 14.13. or if Mahumets Priests now in Turkye, should by the laws of their nations be enjoined, and thereupon should execute the Ministry of God's word, sacraments and censures: would it follow therefore that such Priests had the substance of the Pastors office? And why then should this Priesthood of Antichrist have more privilege then those, seeing the word of God hath laid this duty no more upon it then upon the other, but hath left them all, with their followers and adherents under the curse. Psal. 119, 21, 128. Rev. 9, 3. & 14.9, 10, 11. Thus he then wrote, but now we find another manner of plea.

6. Sixthly they say, That they find in scripture some officers admitted with it, some without it. This I find not. They allege Act. 13.1.2.3. where Paul and Barnabas had it. It is true: yea Paul had imposition of hands twice, Act. 9.17. & 13.3. but where is the scripture that saith some had it not? They say, we read not that the other Apostles had. what then? doth this prove they had it not? So we may also conclude the other Apostles were never baptized, for we read not that they were. We read not (say the Anabaptists) that children were baptized in the Apostles days: will these men now conclude, therefore they were not baptized. But do not they know, that arguments thus drawn negatively from scripture, are generally blamed for insufficient?

7. Seventhly they say, that some churches hold it not of necessity to be had &c. I answer: that is nothing to such as hold it, and have Elders to do it. But they diminish the state of the question; for when the Apostle speaketh of Imposition of hands Heb. 6.2. doth he mean the outward ceremony only, or the doctrine of the ministry, calling, & ordination signified by the sign? I hope the reformed churches deny no principle of religion, such as that is. So in this case spoken of, were it only the outward sign, I would not contend. But they compare the baptism of Rome and the Ministry of Rome together: no new baptising into the church, therefore no new ordaining unto the ministry: but as all come out of the Apostasy baptized Christians, so some do come ordained ministers. Wherefore if these be alike, they bring with them in their account, the substance of a true office and of a true calling. Otherwise if a new office and calling be given them, I assure myself they that say Receiv the Teachers office &c. may impose hands: even as they that say: I baptize thee into the name of the Father &c, may put on water. Now these men's testimony heretofore hath been strong against the Office or ministry itself, with the calling, administration &c. And now let them show by the word, that a new calling into a new office which men had not before, may be by the ordination or imposition of hands given by Antichrist unto a false office with a false calling.

8. Thus (say they) we show our keeping of communion with all other churches &c. I answer, this reason is good, if communion be kept in the light not in darkness: let God's word therefore try the case. Yet let these men say, whither they know not, that the ministers made in these reformed churches, are not admitted in Engl. without a new ordination by the Prelates. And that all Scholars admitted into Geneva, must expressly detest the Popish hierarchy so called, as a Divilish confusion: which hierarchy consisteth of Bishops, Priests and Ministers, and they that say it is not by divine ordination are by the Council of Trent, accursed. Is not here good communion? Yea let me further tell them, how the learned and better sort in England, have disclaymed communion with that Romish clergy. D. Fulk, in the Answ. of a true Christian to a counterfeit catholic, saith, Although all godly men wish more severity of discipline to be used, in receiving them that come out of heresies to serv in the Church, then is commonly practiced in England: yet you are highly deceived if you think we esteem your offices of Bishops, Priests, Deacons, any better then the state of lay men, but far worse: for we judge them to be nothing ells but Antichristianitie, heresy and blasphemy. And therefore we receive none of them to minister in our church, except they forswear your religion: and so their admission is not an allowing of your ordering, but a new calling unto the Ministry. Thus wrote M. Fulk: but now these our opposites, to show how they would keep communion with Rome, allow of their ordering, as of their baptising, which they plead to be true baptism, as after shall appear. Yet let them show us whither all the hierarchy of Antichrist, as Popes, Cardinals, Archbishops, Bishops, Friars, Monks, Jesuits, Seminaries, Priests, Parsons, Vicars, with the rest of that crew, be all of them to be admitted true Ministers into a Christian church, by virtue of the Imposition of hands, had in that kingdom of the Beast: and if not all, which of them must be reordeyned, and which not. Themselves have acknowledged that the Ministers of Antichrist, are the spirits of Devils, Rev. 16, 13.14. let them now if they can, manifest them to be the Ministers of Christ.

9. We thought best (say they) to stay and consider further &c. if we find it ought to be doon, we can do it at any time, &c. Then (say I) they should have stayed the practice of admitting such a teacher to administer, til they had been resolved whither his office and ordination had been of God or no. But first they let him administer, then they inquire of the lawfulness: the Godly heretofore did not so in a case of doubt, but stayed the administration of some priests, til they had assurance from God. Ezr. 2.62.63.

10. The church (say they) did choose him into office, and we by prayer commended him to God for his grace and assistance in the ministraton thereof. Which we did without imposition of hands at that time; as both ourselves had before doon, at our first growing into order: and as the French and Dutch churches also did &c. I answer, things are darkly set down: by saying first the church did, then, and we; they occasion us to ask what church they mean, their own particular, or some other. If their own, whether they chose him to an office that had none before: or chose him from a false office to a true: or chose him being already a true officer, to be theirs, as they admit the members of another Church to be a member of theirs by prayer. If the last were not, how stands their comparison between baptism & ordination? If they did so: then they abuse the reader with the example of their own ordination before. For they had renounced their former Ministry as false; and received a new, by the election and ordination of the people (though at the first without that sign spokē of,) who gave them a ministry which they never had. The outward sign at that time was not used, only because there were not Elders before: now there were Elders which imposed hands at the same time on others. It is a known fallacy, to pretend that for a cause w<sup>ch</sup> is not the cause. Moreover let them say whither their Teachers former election were not as holy as his ordination: and why then they rep<sup>te</sup> one and not another?

11. Observ (say they) how these and their partakers can hold that the people having no office may excommunicate, and some of them that they may also minister the sacraments: and yet can except against such as are in office, if they do but make question of a ceremony &c. I answer; the first we hold but as themselves heretofore did: & upon what ground they have left it, is before discussed. The second as touching us, (so far as I know) is a slander, a mere untruth. I know not one among us, that holdeth men without office, may minister the sacraments. The third, if it be as they say a question but of a ceremony, and not of the very substance of the ministry, to be retained as their baptism, I will profess to cease striving thereabout, (though I think they err in it,) yea and repent that I have striven so far. But if it be in deed more then a ceremony, as I suppose the things forespoken will manifest; let these men take heed how they so dissemble, for Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord. Of the Anabaptists objections we have spoken before. And now let him that readeth, consider, what weight there is in their later thoughts, compared with their former judgments confirmed by so many reasons, as the public writings show. Let him also note, how for this later point which they count but a ceremony, they say many things as we have heard: but for the former, their own ministry, which is a matter of substance and most nearly concerns them, they say nothing, but turn aside as if they saw it not. And for this also, let the reader observe Mr Johnson's own words, in answer to Mr Hildershā, who can bring aclean thing out of filthyneſe? Is it possible that a lawful ordination, should be had from the ministers & Apostasy of Antichrist? Mat. 7.16. 2. Cor. 6, 14, 15, 16. with 2. Theſ. 2.3. And if he be loath to stand to his former assertions: let him yet show what comfort or assurance any can have of the ordination in the Papacie, that it is frō heavē; considering the Priests have their authority from the Bishops, the Bishops from the Pope: the Popes (as their own writers & Chroniclers do record,) have been divided by schisms, 2, or 3, Popes at once, one cursing and condemning another, and among the successors, one repealing the acts of another. And among the rest, one she Pope John an harlot. And among many schisms one (which was the 22.) dured forty years, wherein the Antipopes so rent their Babel-church into factions, that the chiefest and learnedest of the clergy, could not discern which of them was the true successor of Peter, (as they use to speak) but some clave to one Pope, some to another. Had these no power from Christ to make ministers in his church? or are not they strangely carried, that had rather derive their Ministry by uncertayn succession frō such beasts than from the Lord's true Church and people? And may we think that when God bring the Jews again to the faith (as he hath promised,) that they will go to Antichrists throne for to erect a ministry for them? These and the like things considered, may show what soundness is in their doctrine and practice, that fetch their ordination from Rome, as they do their baptism.

Finally let me admonish the reader, that The man of syn, who boasteth himself to be the Bishop of the whole world, as also to have the Princedom (or soveraygntie) of all the world; and may not only order and degrade priests, but set up and depose Princes, so exalting himself above all that is called God; is for thus doing, to be accounted a traitor against Christ and all Princes of the world. And as the days have been when he challenged both church and crown of England (as in King John's time,) to have the Prince his vassal, as well as the Priests his subjects: so is his will to do always and in all places. But this being tyranny and usurpation in him both over church and common wealth, he hath always had as good authority to make a Lord Major in London, as to make a Bishop there, and to create a Prince as well as a Priest or prelate: the one is injurious to the State, the other to the Church. And for men to hold or derive the priesthood or ministry from that Usurper, hath no more warrant that I know of, then if one would hold or derive a magistracy from him; for as God hath given every common wealth power next under himself, to cal & set up Magistrates, according to the laws of Realms; so Christ hath given every church power next under himself, to call and constitute ministers according to his word: and not to derive their spiritual functions from his professed Adversarie, whom he hath promised to consume with the spirit of his mouth, & to abolish with the brightness of his coming.

The 5. point of difference: in the Letter.

1. WEe had learned that it was gross error, and notorious absurdity, either to hold the Popish Church to be a true Church, having a true Ministry and true sacraments, or ells that men must admit of rebaptising. But now we have heard, that the baptism of the Popish church is true baptism (by which we are bound to communion,) or ells that men must be rebaptised: and that the church of Rome is the Church of God, because Antichrist should sit in the Temple of God.

With this they join the 4. & 8. out of the printed copy.

4. The 31. Article of our Confession, (and also our Apology, p. 109.) professeth that such ecclesiastical assemblies as remain so in confusion and bondage under that Antichristian ministry, courts, canons, &c. cannot be esteemed true visible churches &c. These now plead, not only for thē, but for Rome itself, to be the true church of God.

8. The 8. is as the 5. before expressed.

These things are confirmed by sundry scriptures and reasons in the places quoted, as the reader may there see.

Against these their former testimonies they now thus dispute. 1: It is true baptism: as the circumcision in Israels Apostasy was true circumcision. I answer, these are their own assertions: but we would hear, Thus saith the Lord. True circumcision was the seal of the righteousnes of faith: Rom. 4.11. Israel in their Apostasy were fallen from the faith, Hos. 11, 12. they were without the true God, & without priest to teach, and without law, 2. Chron. 15.3. and how then could they have the true circumcision, the seal of the righteousness of faith, and forgiveness of their sins, in that sinful estate? 2. The matching of Popish baptism and Israel's circumcision, though in this they agree that they are both false sacraments & lying signs: yet is baptism ten times more defiled in Rome, then circumcision was in Israel. Let us take a view thereof, as it is at the best, and now refined by the Jesuits. When any man comes to be baptized in Popery, after some quaestions praemised, 1. He hath the sign of the Cross made on his forehead and breast; which holy sign among other good properties, hath power to drive away devils, 2. Then followeth Exorcisme that is, adjuration of the Devils to go frō the man that is to be baptized. 3. After that comes Exsufflatiō or blowing of the Devils away, & an afflation of the good spirit in their stead. 4. Next followeth the tasting of salt, which is unto them in stead of the Eucharist. 5. Then the touching of the nostrills and ears with spittle, and saying Ephata, that is, be opened. 6. After that the priest gives him imposition of hands, and his blessing. 7. And then he is anointed with blessed oil on his breast and showlders. 8. When he is thus sanctified, a name is given unto him. 9. He must have Godfathers or Godmothers, to instruct him in time to come. 10. Then folowes consecration of the water, 11. And a dipping three times into the water, in the name of the Father of the Son & of the holy Ghost. 12. After comes the kyss of peace, in sign that the brother is baptized. 13. And an Unction of the Chrism, on the crown of his head. 14. Then is a wax candle lighted given him, for a sign of faith and grace received, & that he is translated out of darkness into light. 15. And a white garment is put upō him, which he weareth for a certain time. These pageants are played in Babels language, an unknown tongue: & this baptism ex opere operato, by the work wrought (for here is a great deal more doon then Christ ever would,) doth confer grace, and in very deed taketh away all sins, so as they are not only not imputed, but there is not anything that can be imputed for a blame unto him. And if any shall say, that grace is not conferred by the work doon, the Fathers of the Council of Trent have decreed, Let him be accursed. And although this baptism be of itself so gracious, yet any graceless person may baptize in time of need, be it man or woman, be it Christian, Jew, Turk or Pagan: baptism hath his effect, & conferreth popish grace, and washeth away sins notwithstanding. This is the baptism about which we contend: now let us proceed with our opposites arguments. If • be not a true baptism ( say they ) it is a false: and false baptism is not God's baptism. &c. A true baptism we are bound to have, when we have the means, wherefor they that hold it not to be true baptism, must be rebaptised. I answer, we doubt not but it is a false baptism, and a lying sign, wherewith Antichrist deceiveth his subjects, under a show of Christianity: 1. because it is not possible for any work of a mere man (much less of a sacrilegious priest) to give grace, or to take away sins, for this is peculiar to Christ God and man, and to his most precious blood, which only cleanseth us from all syn. 2. because true baptism being a sign of the washing away of sins, and a seal of the righteousness of faith, of our engrafting into Christ, his death, burial & resurrection: it cannot be that Antichrist the man of syn, and his worshippers, which are by the sentence of God devote unto damnation, should have from God such a sign and seal; but they falsely usurp the same, as many other things to their just judgment. Yet need not men that discern and forsake those lies and impostures, to have any new washing: because the Idolaters heretofore repenting & forsaking their false synagogues and lying signs in thē usurped, needed not a new outward cutting or circumcising, as is shown at large in our former writings, Discoverie, p. 116.—120. Apology p. 110.—113. For though the degree of syn in Rome be greater by far then that of Apostate Israel, (as elsewhere is also manifested:) yet seeing they then were fallen from God and from his church, and so were divorced from the Lord, and were not his wife, but dead in their sins: the ordinances of God which they in show retained, could not be unto them the signs and seals of forgiveness of sins, and of life eternal, and therefore were in their use of them, false and deceitful; as were also the ordinances of God retained in other nations, as Altars, Sacrifices, Priests, tithes, firstfruits, incense, meat offerings, drink offerings, feasts, baptisms or washings, anoyntings, excōmunications, prayers, vows, & many the like, whereof all histories do bear record, that the Gentiles did retain them.

2. They proceed secondly and say, If the baptism had in the church of Rome be not true baptism, then it is not the Lord's baptism: and then they which have no other but it, should get the Lord's baptism, afore they come to the Lord's table, to eat the Lord's supper &c. I answer, this reason is the same in effect with the former, and there answered, as also long ago objected by the enemies of the truth, and refuted by M. Barrow. We have gotten the Lord's baptism by coming to the Lord in true faith and repentance, who baptizeth us with the wholly Ghost and with fire. As for the outward washing which we had, it need not be repeated; as before is shown: and we may as lawfully eat the Lord's supper without a new washing, as the Idolatrous Israelites turning to the Lord, might eat the passover without a new cutting or circumcising. 2. Chron. 30.1.5.11.18.19.20.21.25. Ezra. 6.21. So whereas they charge us with profaning the Lord's table, it is turned upon their own heads: for they have these many years professed the Romish baptism to be not a true but a false Sacrament, whiles yet without a new washing they did partake of the Lord's supper. If this be to pollute and profane it, as now they press us, why do they not first repent themselves of such profanation; why cal they not in, their former writings, and refute them?

3. Again (they dispute) there is but one baptism, Eph. 4.5. Baptism in the church of Rome, either is that one baptism or is not it. If it be that one: then is it true baptism: if not, then they which have no other but it, have not that one baptism, and therefore must get it &c. I answer, 1. This again is the same argument with the former, and before answered.

2. This ground from Eph. 4.5. was that which Cyprian built on, who taught rebaptising of such as had been baptized by heretics: whose arguments seeing our Adversaries thus urge, we pray them tell us, whither they be of Cyprians mind for rebaptising; and if they be, wherein they differ in that point from Anabaptists? If they be not, then it seemeth they hold that all such as are baptized by heretics, Antichrists, excommunicates, schismatiks, and other like, have that one true baptism of God, Eph. 4.5. and so have the seal from God of forgiveness of sins, and are one body with themselves. And if not, then they reason but for fashion sake, to trouble us and the world with questions.

4. Furthermore (they argue) such baptism is either a seal of God's covenant or not. If it be, then sure it is true baptism. If not, then 1. they which have no other baptism, must with the Anabaptists get another, that they may be assured they have the seal of God's covenant &c. 2. then that there neither have been nor shall be in Babylō any of God's people &c. Rev. 18.4. 3. then, baptism now had in Apostate churches is not answerable to the circumcision had in the Apostasy of Israel: for that was true circumcision &c. I answer, they may by a little varying of words make an 100. such reasons, alone and the same; all begging the question, and proving nothing. What one scripture or reason frō thence, is here brought to prove Antichrists baptism, true baptism? Let any mā define by the word, true Christiā baptism, & then compare therewith the blasphemous Christening before set out from Bellarmine, and he shall see what accord is between them. And whereas the burden of these men's song, is, we must ells baptize again: this is no proof at all; for (besides that which is before answered,) what if it be our error that we baptize not again? where be then all their proofs, are they not vanished into smoke? Verily I should much rather incline to Cyprians error (though I am far from it) for a new washing: then approve the sacrilegious washing used by that man of syn with most high dishonor to the blood of Christ, to be that one true Christian baptism; the seal of God's covenant. For that of Rev. 18.4. because God calleth his people out of Babylon, therefore Babylon's baptism is true baptism, is without all color of reason. As if one should argue thus, God by Jeremiah called his people out of Babylon, Ier. 51, 45. therefore Babylon's sacrifices, and sacraments, were true. Who would not rather conclude hereby the contrary: God calleth his people out of her, therefore she with all her counfeyt service, sacraments & apish imitation of God's holy things, are detestable and cursed. Again, a people may be God's, though unbaptised: as the uncircumcised Israelites were God's people, Deut. 29.10,—13. with Josh. 5, 4, 5. The 3. point of Israel's circumcision to be true, is but barely by them affirmed, without proof; and is before disproved. And if they shall continue thus to say all things, and prove nothing: I will never trouble myself more to answer their discourses.

5. Finally (they reason) if baptism in Rome be not true baptism, then (as we also said) it is an idol; bearing show and image of that which it is not in truth. And jdols ar things of naught &c. and so baptism in Rome, is a thing of naught; and to be esteemed as nothing in the world, as filth, or dounge &c. I answer, idols are of two sorts; some merely devised by men, as Jereboam's calves: some perverted by men from holy signs to Idols, as the brazen Serpent. Both these kinds are in popish baptism. For their crosses, exorcismes, greasings &c. are Idols of the first sort, worse then Jereboam's bullocks: their washing with water in nomine patris &c. is of the second sort, that is, God's ordinance turned into an Idol as was the brazen Serpent. Thus is there a mixture in Antichrists Christening, of both sorts of abominations. Therefore have we renounced that Romish baptism, as an impure idol in their abuse, standing up in the place of Christ and his precious blood, which it is not; pretending to give grace, and wash away sins, which it doth not; but it is a lie in the right hand of all that so receive it: and the saying of the Apostle is verified in it, an idol is nothing in the world. 1 Cor. 8.4. Yet, I hope, they think not that the Apostle is contrary to the Prophet, who saith their idols are silver and gold, the work of men's hands, Psal. 115.4. an idol then for the matter and workmanship is something, but for the relation unto God, or divine grace, it is nothing: and thus the Apostle meaneth as his next words show, there is no other God but one. So Popish baptism, as touching the material thing is somewhat, the salt, the water, the oil, are God creatures: the outward action is the work of the hands of an idolatrous Priest; and this work remaineth as did the work of the Idolaters circumcising in Israel: but as touching the relation, (which is the main thing in a sacrament,) that it should seal up unto them the forgiveness of sins, and (as they blasphemously say) quite take away sins, and confer grace; so it is a vain idol and nothing: for neither do the true Sacraments in Christ's church work any such effect to God's own people: and as for that Antichristian synagogue, it is not appointed to salvation, but to condemnation by the just sentence of God. Rev. 17.11. & 18.8.20.21. 2. Thes. 2.11.12. Therefore it will not help them to say, that baptism in itself considered, is Christ's ordinance: for the brazen Serpent was in itself God's ordinance at first, and a sacramental sign of their redemption by Christ, yet they that burnt incense to it, made it an Idol, and therefore as Nehushtan, (a piece of brass,) it was destroyed. Yea this is acknowledged of the popish baptism, by the most learned and conscionable of our own Land. M. Perkins saith, and proveth it, The Church of Rome transformeth the sacraments to Idols, by teaching that they confer grace ex opere operato, by the work doon &c. To this effect (saith he) thePreist is appointed to pray, that the nature of waters might conceive the virtue of sanctification: that God would make the water fruitful by the secret admixtiō of his godhead, that having cōceived sanctification, a new creature may spring out of the immaculate womb of the divine fountayn, that it may be living water &c. Yea further he showeth that God himself, & Christ, being worshiped in, at, or before an image, is presently transformed into an idol. But what need I insist upon other men; even Mr Johnson himself, hath pleaded the Prelates and Priests (which administer baptism) to be Jdol shepherds, the sacraments to be not true but false; and citeth against them their own testimonies to prove that Christ himself is made an idol among thē. Yet loe how he now inveigheth against us, for saying that the baptism in Antichrists synagogue is an Idol.

But now as Satan hath begun to persuade Antichrists christening to be Christ's true baptism, (although the scripture plainly saith, what concord hath Christ with Belial?) so he will not cease there, but justify the cursed Mass, by like reason, to be the blessed Supper of our Lord. For it is the same church that enjoyeth these 2. sacram<sup>ts</sup>, the same priests minister them, both in the same Babylonish unknown language, both of thē having Christ's institutiō abused by the man of syn: and as water is in their baptism, so bread and wine is in their mass: as in baptism they use the name of the Father the Son & the holy Ghost, so in the Mass, they use Take eat this is my body &c. Now why should one of these sacraments be true, and not another? Al that are not Antichrists bondmen, detest his Mass as a monstrous idol: let them that liest, honor his baptism. Again, excommunication is God's ordinance as well as baptism: and these our opposites say, that by it a man is cut off from communion with all churches of Christ upon earth, having his sins also bound in heaven; as on the contrary by baptism we are entered into communion with all churches of Christ in the world. This Excommunication the church of Rome useth as well as baptism, and hath power from Christ to do it, as well as to baptize: whereupon it will follow, if we be bound to communion with them that they baptize, we are also bound to avoid the communion of them that they excommunicate. Now for as much as these our Opposites themselves (besides all other) that have separated from the church and doctrines of Rome, have many curses and Anathemaes laid upon them by the council of Trent and Popes Bulls: what ar they the better for being baptized in their infancy, now that they are excommunicated in their man's age.

They told us before, (and said, we have not yet learned it as we should,) that by our baptism we ar bound to communion: and now let them also teach us, whither by their excommunication, we ar not bound to shun their communion. Or if they will not answer us, let them answer the Papists, who plead that their Apostate priests being divided and cut of from the church, and excommunicate, may not lawfully minister the sacraments. And whereas M. Jewel complained, we have been cast out by these men, being cursed of them (as they use to say) with b•l book and candle: Harding answereth; To be excommunicate, ye have deserved &c. neither were ye by excommunication put from us, til ye had by contumacie severed yourselves from the Church, and shown yourselves desperate and incorrigible. And what will they say to the Synedrion, the representative church of England, whose excōmunications ipso facto, if they be of the Lord, do forbid all Christians to communicate with these men, that thus plead for Antichrists baptism: yea they will tell M. Johnson in his own words, that it is a fearful syn, (their Church being a true Church) to contemn their excommunication. If they answer, their excōmunications are unjust, therefore they are of no weight: this will not salve the sore. For 1. all excommunicated, will say they are cast out unjustly: shall their own sayings be accepted? if not, then neither these men's; til their particular causes be cleared. In the mean time, men will more regard the church, then him that is cast out of the Church: and according both to Christ's doctrine, & the doctrine of the Church of England, he should be esteemed an hethen and publican. 2. Again many have been cast out for contemptuous refusing to come unto the Bishops synedrion, & they have left those Bishops, Ministers, Consistories & Churches, as being all false and Antichristian, unto whom no church duty of admonition &c. did belong. And now that these men have changed their mind, and count it a true Church and Ministry, (though with corruptions): how will they be able to bear out such as are excommunicated, for so great contempt and error? 3. Thirdly, as Antichristians do excommunicate such as they should not: so do they baptize such as they ought not, even open impenitent Idolaters and their seed, the generation of Vipers which John the Baptist would refuse. Yea Mr Johnson himself hath said of a better estate then Rome's, that God's covenant is sacrilegiously violated, whiles it is said to the open wicked (in delivering them the seals of God's covenant) Thou art righteous. Therefore if the Popes excōmunicatorie bulls, are but bubbles because they are unjustly executed: his baptism also will be found but a fiction, & no true seal of salvation to such as receive it of him.

Finally touching circumcison, I think it cannot be manifested that any people's fallen from God and his Church, using it colourable for a religious action, (as all Antichristians and heretics do baptism at this day,) did or were bound to cut their foreskin the second time, if they came unto the truth of God: as for example, the Colchians, Egyptians and Ethiopians, whom histories mentiō to be circumcised; or the Samaritans, whom Mr Johnson acknowledgeth to have still used circumcison. Hereunto we may add out of the Jewish records, how they hold, that Al have leave to circumcise, yea though it be an uncircumcised person, or a servant, or a woman, or a child, circumcising in the place where there is no man. But an hethen may not circumcise at all: yet if he do circumcise, there is no need to return & circumcise the second time. If this rule stand, we shall not need to repeat our outward washing in baptism, though given us by Antichrist, or any other aliens from the church & covenant of promise.

Of the Church of Rome.

The Church of Rome being acknowledged by all that fear God, to be the throne of Antichrist, & Mr Johnson himself having professed, that the hierarchie and Church-constitution of Antichrist, is the most detestable anarchie of Satan that ever was: yet imitating now M. Gifford, M. Bernard▪ and other professed enemies of the truth, he pleads for that Church after this manner. The Apostle expressly teacheth, that Antichrist should sit in the Temple of God, 2. Thes. 2, 4.▪ And by the Temple understanding the Church of God, it will follow that Antichrist should sit in the Church of God, and is there to be sought and found, and not among Jews, Turks, Pagans &c. neither that Antichrist takes away wholly the church of God, and every truth and ordinance of the Lord &c. I answer, truth & error are closely couched together in this their plea: for the discerning whereof, we are to consider, first how Antichrists church is described in God's word; secondly what the state of the church of Rome is at this day. The Antichristian synagogue is by the holy Ghost called a Beast, which signifieth a kingdom: it is named also a great city, which noteth the largeness of that polity and kingdom. It cometh up out of the earth, as being of this world, (which Christ's kingdom that cometh down from heaven is not:) and therefore is called a man of syn, and a great whore: whose head is Abaddon or Apollyon, the destroyer of others, and himself the son of perdition; and they that follow him, are the children of damnation. This wicked generation warreth against the Lamb Christ, and against the saints; blasphemeth God's name & tabernacle and them that dwell in heaven, that is the true Church, whose conversation is heavenly. Yet do they all this mischief under show of Christian religion: & therefore this beast hath horns like the Lamb Christ, this whore is arrayed with purple & scarlet, gilded with gold, precious stones and pearls; as if she were the Queen and spouse of Christ: she hath peace offerings & Vowes, as if she were devowt in God's service: bread and waters, as ready to refresh the weary sowl. Her doctrines sweet & amiable lie spoken in hypocrisy: but yet confirmed with signs and miracles, as if they came from heaven: her power and efficacy great, prevailing over the many and the mighty, the Kings & Princes of world, deceiving all nations with her enchantments, and if it were possible, God's very elect: her continuance and outward prosperity long: her end miserable, consumed with the spirit of the Lord's mouth, and abolished with the brightness of his coming: and for her destruction the heavens shall rejoice and sing praises to God.

Now for to find the accomplishment of these things, we are directed by the now Romish religion, to a Catholik or Universal church, one part whereof lives on earth, another under the earth, and a third part in heaven. 1. On earth, is the whole multitude of such as are named Christians through the world, united as a catholic body under one visible head the Pope, who with his 2 horns like the Lamb, pretendeth to be Christ's Vicar in the Kingdom & Priesthood; and is professed of his vassals, to be that tri•d precious corner stone, that sure foundation in Zion, Jsa. 28.16. and it is declared, defined and pronounced, that it is of necessity to salvation, for all men to be subject unto him. Under this Captain are three bands of soldiers, the first clergy men, as Bishops, Priests, Deacons, Subdeacons and the rest of those shavelings; the second Lay men, as Kings, Pinces, Nobles,, Citizens, and Commons of all sorts and vocations; the third sort is both of the Clergy and Laity, called Monks or Regulars. 2. Under the earth, or in Purgatory fire, are the souls (they say) of all such as die with venial sins, whose payns are to be holpen by prayers, and masses, said for them by such as are alive on earth. 3. In heaven, are the sowl of men departed in the popish faith, and delivered from purgatory: some of which, the Pope canonizeth for Saints, whom the people on earth are religiously to honor and pray unto, as their mediators with God. This church on earth, cannot err in things which it commandeth men to believe o• do, whither they be expressed in scripture or not: therefore men must believe in her, and trust her in all things; for the truth of the faith as touching us, relieth upon her authority: and she hath power to make laws which do bind and constreyn men's consciences.

These things premised, I come to our Opposites arguments. Their first reason from 2. Thes. 2.4. is unperfectly alleged, for the text there saith of the man of syn, that he doth sit as God in the Tēple of God: whereupon their conclusion must be, that Antichrist sitteth as God in the church of God. And if they can prove that he is the true God, I will yield that his temple is the true temple, & his Church the true church. Otherwise, if he be but an Idol and not God: his Temple church and body, will prove but an Idol like himself, and his blasphemy is worse then theirs which said they were Jews and were not, but did lie, and were the synagogue of Satan.

Secondly, they take it for granted, that by the Temple is meant the church: and so go on in obscurity. Whereas the Temple did primarily figure out Christ, Joh. 2.19.21. and in the heavenly Jerusalem, (the true church), there was no other temple seen, but the Lord God almighty and the Lamb (Christ) which are the Temple of it, Rev. 21.22. If in this sense we understand that speech of Paul touching Antichrist, then must we translate the words, (as some ancient Doctors have doon) eis ton Naon, for the Temple, or, as if he himself were the Temple: and so in deed Antichrist taketh upon him the person and office of Christ, (under pretence of his Vicarship,) showing himself that he is God, proclaiming himself to be the brydegroom of the Church, which is the office of Christ, yea taking a title above him, for whereas Christ is called Pontifex magnus, the Great high Priest: the Pope is usually entitled Pontifex maximus the Greatest high-priest; and reason there is for it, because in the Pope there is power above all powers, as well of heaven as of earth, as in a public Council it was spoken of this Beast. Now that these things should be true of the man of syn, otherwise then by lies spoken in hypocrisy, none of grace, I know, will affirm.

Secondarily the Temple figured the Church, but first the catholic or universal church Eph. 2, 21. then every particular church by proportion, 1 Cor. 3, 16, 17. Which of these two, our opposites do intend, they show not. If they mean a particular church; it will not agree with the prophesies of Antichrist, whose City or church is so great, as people's, kindreds, tongues & nations, do dwell in the streets thereof. Neither is that answerable to the Temple in Israel, which was not for one synagogue, but for the whole natiō of the Jews, and for the Gentiles that came to the faith, through the world. If they mean the catholic or universal church, (which indeed Antichrist claymeth for his Temple,) then we are to be taught of them, how that whoorish company that worship the Beast and Dragon; can possibly be the true catholic church and spouse of Christ, otherwise then by counterfeysance and lying ostentation, even as the Devil himself is an Angel of light.

And the very word Temple, leadeth us to understand Antichrists church to be but a counterfeit. For what was the Temple or Tabernacle in Israel? Not the Church or congregation of God's people properly, for they were the worshipers of God in the Tēple: but it was a sacramental sign of God's dwelling with his people, as it is written, they shall make me a sanctuary, that J may dwell among them. So Solomon built the Temple that God might dwell therein:: and for the times under the gospel, God promised, J will set my sanctuary among them forever, & my Tabernacle shall be with them, & J will be their God, & they shall be my people: and the fulfilling hereof is set down Rev. 21, 3. behold the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people. So in Revelat. 11.1. the Tēple is distinguished frō thē that worship therein, which is the people. The Temple then, was an outward sign of God's presence with his people, and of his inward dwelling in their harts by faith and by his Spirit unto their salvation: so Antichrists Temple is an outward show of his presence with that seduced people, in whose harts he dwelleth by Popish faith and by his Spirit of error carrying them to damnation. But as Antichrist shall not professedly deny the true God or Christ, though in deed and truth he falsely showeth himself that he is God: so shall he not professedly deny the Temple or church of God, but falsely vaunt his adulterous synagogue to be the same. God's true temple and tabernacle is in mount Zion, in heaven, where God sitteth on a throne and dwelleth among his people; where is the ark of his covenant, and from thence lightnings, voices, thunderings, earthquake and hayl, come forth against the Antichristians his enemies, and vials of his wrath poured out upon the throne of the beast, and on the men that have his mark. On the contrary, the Beast, which is the kingdom of Antichrist, ascendeth from beneath out of the bottomless pit, and blasphemeth this heavenly tabernacle, and sitteth in Babylon upon the Dragons throne, and fighteth against the Lamb, and against the Saints, treading underfoot the holy City, and casting down the place of Christ's sanctuary. When the Apostle therefore telleth us, that Antichrist sitteth as God in the Temple of God, it is to be understood first of their invading and destroying of God's church and people, as the heathens of old dealt with Ierusalē & dwellers therein; secōdly of their own vain ostentatiō, whiles they will have it called the Christian catholic church, and the Pope the head of the same.

The next point that Antichrist is to be sought there, and not among the Jews Turks & Pagans; is a fallacy from an insufficient division; for all out of the true Church are not Jews, or Turks, or Pagans, there is a fourth to make up the mease, even popish Antichristians, and among these is the Man of syn to be found, though with a visar on his face, and a sheepskin on his back. In the true Church he hath sometimes been found raunging as a wolf, but not reigning as a God, which in his own Temple he doth: where he is acknowledged Our Lord God the Pope, and <sup>h</sup> Thou art another God on earth; and To believe that our Lord God the Pope might not decree as he hath decreed, it were a matter of heresy; and, O thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us; with other like intolerable blasphemies.

Thirdly they say, Antichrist takes not away wholly the church of God, and every truth and ordinance of the Lord. I answer, neither did the Devil take away wholly every truth and ordinance of God from among the heathens: but they retained many rites of God's worship received from their fathers, as before is noted. Yet in very deed, so much as in them lay, and us stood with the safety of their deceitful kingdom, the Devil of old, and Antichrist his son of late, have sought wholly to take away the church & truth of God; and to put lies in the place. But God hath nourished the woman (his church) in the wilderness, from the presence of the Serpent, Rev. 12.14. And for further answer hereof, let us hear what M. Johnson himself wrote heretofore against M. Jacob, J would know of yow (saith he) who are so deep a clerk, how Antichrists church and religion should justly be accounted a mystery of iniquity, and truly be said to speak lies in hypocrisy, also privily to bring in damnable heresies, and to have a show of Godliness, if they did so absolutely and wholly depart from the faith, and not only from some points thereof &c.

Fourthly they allege Rev. 18.4. Go out of her my people &c. which words (they say) imply the covenant of God continued among them. I answer, these very words are taken from Jer. 51.45. My people, go out of the midst of her: where by my people, the Church of Babylon is not meant, but the Israelites, God's lost sheep scattered there upon the mountains and hills, whom first the King of Ashur had devoured, & lastly Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel had broken their bones, having burned Jerusalem and the Temple with fire, broken down the city walls, imprisoned their King in Babylon, captived the Princes & people, and carried the vessels of the Lord's house into Babylon: so that now Israel was without Temple, without kingdom, without polity or common wealth of their own; (only the Lord himself was a Sanctuary or Temple to the faithful there dispersed,) and their holy vessels were carried into the Temple and treasury of Nebuchadnezzar's God. And these Israelites figuring God's elect, are called out of Babylon, which God would utterly destroy & make desolate forever. And thus from Antichrist's church, which is Babylon, Egypt, & Sodom, are God's elect called out: a most evident proof that she is none of God's church, (whatsoever she pretendeth,) anymore than the idolatrous heathens, whom she matcheth in filthiness of whoredoms, and multitude of abominations. God's covenant of grace is not therefore with her at all, for she is appointed to damnation: but the elect that obey God's voice calling them out of her, them he will receive into covenant, he will be a Father unto them, and they shall be his sons and daughters; as he hath promised.

Fifthly they add, And so Israel is often called the Lord's people, in the time of their Apostasy: 2. King. 9.6. & 13.23. 2. Chron. 30.6.—9. &c. I answer; they prove not the Question: for first the Antichristian church is Babylon, and out of her, that is Babylon, are God's people called. Now to prove her God's church, they flee to Israel: whereas the Gentiles were her true types as elsewhere I have manifested; though all the wickedness & hypocrisy of Apostate Israel, is also found in this Romish Babel.

2. Neither yet is their argument for Israel good: to say they are called the Lord's people, therefore they are his true church; I deny the consequent. For things are named in scripture sometime as they have been before, though they be not so still: as Abigail is called the wife of Nabal, though he were then dead, and she married to David; Solomon was begotten of Uriah's wife, whereas she was then David's: so Jesus was in the house of Simon the Leper, so named because he had been a leper. Thus Israel were called God's people, for that he had been their first husband though in their apostasy they were not his people, nor his wife. Secondly they were so called, in respect of their profession, that they would be so esteemed and named; though in deed they were without the true God. As ô thou that art named the house of Jaakob &c. but he that was yesterday my people, is risen up for an enemy. Thirdly they were called God's people in respect of their calling again unto him and his covenant afterward, though for the present they were none of his: as In that day, J will marry thee (Israel) unto me forever, J will even marry thee unto me in faith, and thou shalt know the Lord: and J will have pity on her that was not pitied, and will say to them which were not my people, thou art my people, and they shall say, thou art my God. And thus the Gentiles were called Christ's sheep, because they should after be brought into his fold, Joh. 10, 16. & God had much people in Corinth a heathenish city, Act. 18.10. 1. Cor. 12, 2. and the Jews to this day are God's people & beloved, not for their present state which is cursed, but for the promise that they shall hereafter be grafted again into Christ. Rom. 11, 11, 20, 23, 25, 26. & 9.4. with Jsa. 59, 20, 21. Ezek. 34, 23.—30. Hos. 3, 5. As for this false church and state of Israel (which compassed the Lord with lies and with deceit,) it also may show us how to understand that Temple of God forespoken of, wherein Antichrist should sitt as God. For was there any true Temple anywhere but in Jerusalem? yet when Israel forgot his maker, he built Temples. These howsoever they pretended the God that brought them out of Egypt, yet were in deed built for the worship of Devils, to whom they sacrificed, and not to God. Therefore the Lord by names distinguisheth these two churches, calling Samaria Aholah, that is, Her own Tabernacle, & Jerusalem Aholibah, that is, My-tabernacle in her: but if God's tabernacle had been also in Samaria; the difference had not been such. The Idol temples then which Jeroboam and his successors built, were none of God's temples, otherwise then by lying pretenses: much less then was Bels temple in Babylon, God's temple: and if the figure were not his, neither can the figured thing be his, I mean this spiritual Babylon, the mother of whores, the habitation of Devils. For as Christ surmounteth in grace and holiness, all types & figures that went before of him: so Antichrist surpasseth in wickedness, all the types and figures of him. Therefore the holy Ghost contenteth not himself with one name, but calleth Antichrists church, Babylon, and Sodom, & Egypt, and where our Lord was crucified, meaning hethenish Rome, by whose policy Christ was killed, when he was delivered to Pilate the Roman deputy, and to the Gentiles (the Roman souldjers) to be mocked scourged & crucified. So that look what idolatry, fornication, persecution and wickedness hath been read of among those hethen people's, the same may be proved upon the synagogue of Antichrist, (though mixed with profession of the name of Christ, the more easily to deceive:) as whensoever any will bring them to be compared, shall soon be manifested.

6. But they proceed, and plead, that this clause partake not in her sins, Rev. 18, 4. showeth what we are to leave and renounce, namely their sins, and not whatsoever is had or retained by them. I answer, first the text saith Go out of her: meaning this whore, this Babylon, that is, this Church: and so from the golden cup in her hand, as well as frō the filthy potion that is in it; & frō the Beasts counterfeit Lambs horns, as well as from his Lions mouth and Bears paws. We may not in the truest Church in the world partake with their sins: yet is not every true Church that sinneth, Babylon. Secondly, she being in this forlorn estate, she is but a lump of syn, a man of syn, a child of perdition: the Beast is not one person, but the whole kingdom: & M. Johnson himself hath acknowledged more then once, that the man of syn, is the false Church (& religion) of Antichrist, compared to the body of a man, and consisting of all the parts together. Now to the defiled and unbelieving, nothing is pure; their sacrifices are abominable, their prayers are turned to syn. We acknowledge therefore no good or holy thing in Antichrists synagogue, as touching her use of it. Thirdly we renounce not any good thing, because that harlot doth challenge & abuse it: but we practice God's ordinances as he hath commanded, condemning utterly the profanation of them by Antichrist.

7. They further allege, that the Church of Rome was at the first set in the way of God: since which time she is fallen into great apostasy as Israel did: in which estate she hath kept sundry truths and ordinances of God, as Israel also did. Which causeth a twofold consideration of her estate, 1. in respect of the ordinances of God still retained among them, 2. and of the mixture of their own abominations. In regard of the one to acknowledge the truth and church of God there; in regard of the other to observe their apostasy, and confusion against Antichrist: and for this mixture, to separate from them, and to practice every ordinance of God, which was and is in that church: leaving only their corruptions lest we fall into Anabaptistry and other evils. I answer, they do but roll the first stone, saying the same things; comparing Antichrists church with Israel, whereas the holy Ghost compareth it with the gentiles, even the most vile, the Sodomites, Egyptians, Babylonians, and hethen Romans, as before I have shown. In all which nations, there were many truths & ordinances of God retained & abused; which truths made them no true Church, unless we will say, all the world was God's true Church. But I will follow their particulars. The Church of Rome (they say) was at first set in the way of God: I answer, there was at Rome such a Church in Paul's time; but the Romish Church now, is a Beast since that time sprung out of the bottomless pit; a Catholik monster, dispersed (as they feign) through earth, heaven, and purgatory, as before I shown: such a Church Paul never saw, but by the spirit of prophesy foretold of it. That Church then was Saints, & worshiped God: this Church now is an habitation of Devils, and worshipping Devils.

Since that time (say they) she is fallen into Apostasy. True, say I, even soon after Paul's time, for then the mystery of iniquity did work, and many Antichrists were gone out, whiles the Apostles lived. For which their Apostasy (like Israel's) when they would not repent, (as Christ threatened some that were new fallen into such sins,) the candlestick (the Church) was removed, the Church of Rome as Paul forewarned, for unbelief was cut off among others: and for a punishment of their Apostasy, God delivered the East Churches into the hands of Mahomet, and the West Churches into the hands of that false-horned beast Antichrist: even as Israel and Judah of old, for their like sins, were delivered into the hands of the Assyrians and Babylonians. And this Paul prophesied, that there should be a departing frō the faith, before that Man of syn should be disclosed: and because they received not thelove of the truth that they might be saved, therefore God would send upon them that Adversarie, with Satan's power and strong delusion to believe lies, that they might be damned. Thus Mahomet & Antichrist, were God's 2 plagues, to bring not only the death of body, but of sowl, upō thē that loved not the truth, but departed frō it. For when the great mountain (which is the kingdom of Babylon, Antichrists monarchy,) burning with the fire of ambition and strife, was cast into the sea, that is, among people's and nations: then the living creatures that were in the third part of the sea so corrupted and bloody, died: & lived not again for a thousand years, as did the godly which worshiped not the beast. Although therefore we may truly call the state of Mahometisme and Antichristianism, apostasy: yet we are taught of God, to understand such apostasy as was among the heathens, in Sodom, Egypt and Babylon; and so Rome is called, not only figuratively, (as sometimes the Jews are called people of Gomorrah, but spiritually, that is in deed and effectually: for the spirit and life (so to speak) of all their abominations, are in her most powrful and apparent. So their comparison with Israel, falleth too short in measure: though Israel also when they forsook God and his Church, and built new Temples were not God's true Temple or Church, as before is proved. Their cōsideratiō in respect of God's ordinances to acknowledge the church of God there: is a speculatiō of their own, not of God. For the stealing & abusing God's ordinances & mixing thē with their own inventiōs, maketh not a people God's people or Ch.; anymore thē a true man's money in a theefs purse, maketh the thief an honest mā. If it were so, then the heathens when they sacrificed swine, were to be condemned▪ but when they sacrificed bullocks and sheep, were to be approved as God's Church, for they kept God's ordinance as well as Rome with their sacrifice of the Mass. When they worshiped idols, they were to be condemned; but when they worshiped the true God in their ignorant manner, they were to be justified as his people: so when they kept the feasts of new moons, they were to be praised as God's Church, for it was an ordinance of his: but when they kept their Bacchanalia, to be disclaimed for heretics. And what will this come unto at the last; but to justify the Devil as he is a creature of God, and transformed into an Angel of light; but to condemn him as he is a black Devil, and Apostate from his original. Their fear least they should fall into Anabaptistry, is before defrayed: but as some mariners to avoid Charybdis have falln into Scylla, so these to shun the shelves of Anabaptistry, have run their ship upon the rocks of Popery.

8. Their next double consideration, is about the covenant of God made with his people. For oftēn, the people on their part break the covenant when the Lord doth not so on his part; but still counts them his people, calls thē to repentance, folowes them sometime with judgm<sup>t</sup>, sometime with mercy, Lev. 26, 15—45. Ezek. 16, 59,—62. Jud. 2.1—20. Thus in Israel they fell to Idolatrie & transgressed the covenant on their part, Exo. 32. Jud. 2. & 3. with Ps. 78.56.58. 1. Sam. 7.3, 4. 1 King. 12, 28, 33. & 14.22, 23, 24. with 2. Chron. 12. & 13. & 1. King. 19, 10. Hos. 6.7. & 8, 1. yet the Lord breaks it not on his part, but spareth and destroyeth not, nor presently gives them a byl of divorce, but in his mercy as a loving husband calls them to repentance, sendeth Prophets, calls them still his people, helps them and casts them not off. Adjoyning also punishments, both for avenging the quarrel of his covenant, and procuring their conversiō. Exo. 33, & 34. &c. Lev. 26, 14, 15—25—42, 44, 45. Jud. 2, 1, &c. Ps. 78. 1. Kin. 13, & 16. & 18. 2. King. 5, 8, 15, 17. Jer. 51.5. Ezek. 16, 59.60 &c. Hosea's, Amos &c. In these two divers respects, Israel considered in themselves and their idolatrous estate are said to be without God, without Priest, without law: to forsake and break the covenant, not to be the Lord's wife but an harlot &c. having children of whoredoms, and that the Lord is not with Israel, or with any of Ephraim, 2. Chrō. 15.3. 1. King. 12, 28.33. & 15, 34. & 16, 13, 26, 31, 33. & 19, 14. Hos. 2, 1,—5. & 5, 3, 4. & 8, 1. & 9, 1. with Psal. 106, 29.39. Ezek. 16. and 23, ch. 2 Chron. 25, 7. But again in respect of the Lord and his covenant into which they were received, & which he breaks not on his part, he calls them to repentance, is called their God, and they the people of the Lord, and their children born to the Lord, and Israel not to have been a widow forsaken of God, but the Lord pitied them, & respected them for his covenant with Abraham, and would not cast them off as yet. And thus Israel continued long, respected of the Lord notwithstanding her apostasy, Jud. 2, 1. 1. King. 18.36. 2 King. 9, 6. Hos. 4, 6, 12. & 5.4. & 7.10. & 8, 2. & 9, 1. & 14, 1, 2. Amos 7, 15, with Psal. 89, 30.—34. Eze. 16.20.60. Jer. 51, 5. 2. King. 13, 23. Yet in these times, the Prophets taught the people to plead with their mother, & separate themselves. &c. Hos. 2, 1—5. & 4, 12, 14, 15. Amos 4.4, 5. & 5.4.5. Al these are writ for our learning, & to be applied to the the churches estate in Apostasy since Christ, Rom. 15, 4. 1. Cor. 10.11. I answer, these things are very obscurely and confusedly by them set down: so that the error is couched in darkness. 1. They show not how the covenant between God and men stood: 2. there is an equivocation in this word breaking of the covenant, which they clear not: thirdly they shuffle together the estates of Israel when they were one body, & when they were rent in two, 4. so also the churches in Apostasy since Christ, they distinguish not, from the kingdom of Antichrist: but confound Zion (when she sinneth,) with Babylon.

1. The covenant between God and men, was always conditional; by the law, if they did his commandments, they should live by them; and if they continued not in all things written in the book of the law to do them, they were cursed. By the gospel, he that believeth in the son [of God] hath everlasting life, and he that obeyeth not the son shall not see life, but the wrath of God, abideth on him. And all the figurative covenants that Israel had, were also conditional, blessings promised to the obedient, and curses to the transgressors.

2. The breaking of the covenant on man's part, is always by syn: in which sense it cannot be said that God ever breaketh covenant at any time. But in another sense by punishing, and putting from him the rebellious people, in just judgment; we may say God breaketh or disannulleth the covenant. Whensoever a people by syn forsaketh God, and refuseth his word calling them to repentance: they cannot have themselves, neither can other men have concerning them any assurance of their salvation, or that they abide in the covenant of his grace. For whosoever abideth in him (as saith the scripture) he sinneth not: whosoever sinneth, hath not seen him, neither known him. Be it man or woman, or family or tribe, which turn their heart from the Lord, to serve other God's, though they bless themselves in their harts, saying we shall have peace &c. the Lord will not be merciful unto them. As for God's patience, who presently punisheth not, but sometime forbeareth long; and inviteth them to repentance: this doth not assure any that they are under his covenant of grace, unless by repentance and faith they turn unto the Lord. The long suffering of God abode in the days of Noah, 120. years, whiles he preached to the old world which perished in the flood: so his bountifulness to many other people's should have led them to repentance, when they after their hardness and impenitent harts, heaped unto themselves wrath against the day of wrath. And the judgments upon God's professant people, come often times more speedily, then upon the open infidels. Let us look upon the typical estate of Israel, our ensamples: It was a covenant between God and them, that he would give them the land of Canaan, a figure of the heavenly inheritance: and he led them through the wilderness, to the borders of the countrye, and said, Loe the land is before yow, go up and possess it: but they were afraid and would not go up, through their unbelief. Then the Lord presently was wroth and swore, that not one of those transgressors should see that good land; yea though they after were sorry, and offered themselves to go up, yet the Lord forbad them, slew some of them by the sword, and turned all the rest back to wander and perish in the wilderness. Again, it was a condition of the covenant on God's part, that he would cast out the Amorites, Canaanites &c. from before the Israelites; and on their parts, that they should make no compact with the inhabitants of the land &c. But when they brake with him, and rooted not out the people, but agreed with them for tribute; the Lord also presently brake with them, saying, J said J will never break my covenant with yow &c. but ye have not obeyed my voice, wherefor J say also, J will not cast them out before you; and again because this people hath transgressed my covenant, therefore will I no more cast out before them any of the nations; and so they were left as a whip on their sides, and thorns in their eyes.

The like may be seen by comparing all other particulars, and those threatings in Levite. 26.15.16. &c. with their histories in the books of the Judges and Kings of Israel: according to that saying of God to Moses, they will forsake me &c. and J will forsake them. And as for that which is cited from Levite. 26.45. it was a promise of the Gospel, upon their unfeigned repentance; and pertaineth to the Jews also at this day, as Paul showeth us Rom.

11. for this rule is general, he that confesseth and forsaketh his sins, shall have mercy. Although therefore God useth sometime more forbearance of evil men than at other time, and often giveth space to repent: yet if they repent not, they shall assuredly perish, and their boasting of the covenant shall not save them.

3. Touching their application of things to Israel, not putting difference between their state when it was one, and when it was rent asunder: therein also they fail. Whiles Israel were one, they continued God's Church: for though they often sinned, yet by his word & afflictions he soon brought them to repentance, as is noted, Judge. 2.4, 5. and 3.8, 9.15. and 4.1.2, 3. &c. But when after many other sins, ten tribes fell from the Lord, and rent themselves from the Kingdom of David, and Priesthood of Levi, both which were sacramental types of Christ and his Church; when they left the other testimonies of God's presence, the Temple and Altar at Zion, where God had said he would dwell forever; and built them new Temples and Altars to syn, forgetting their maker; when they set up Calves and Devils to worship God by; then presently God sent his Prophet to them with a denunciation of judgment, which being done, he was to avoid them as Hethens & Publicans; not eating or drinking in the city: which because he did (though drawn in by the lie of another Prophet,) the Lord slew him with a Lion. And all that feared God, both Priests & people, left the country and went to Judah: and the rest wer still called upon by the Prophets to forsake them, as not being God's wife, that is, his Church: and their estate shown to be without the true God, and without Priest, and without law: and they were unto God as the Ethiopians. Now whereas our Opposites allege, God did not presently cast them off; it is true, in respect of calling them to repentance, and of their dwelling in the land, or, as the scripture saith, of putting out the name of Israel from under heaven: for his covenant was to punish them by degrees, & at last if they repented not, to scatter them among the Hethens, til their uncircumcised harts should be humbled, and they rewed their former syn; and then would he remember his first covenant, & so receive them again to grace in Christ. And as for not casting them presently out of the land, the Lord dealt with them, as he had before dealt with the Hethen Canaanits which were spared therein for a time, because their wickedness was not yet full, Gen. 15.16. If this patience towards them, will not prove them a true Church; no more will God's like patience towards apostate Israel. And how they in their impenitent estate, hardening their necks daily more & more, could be said to be the true Church of God, (though they cōpassed him with lies,) and in the covenant of his grace unto salvation; I leave for them to judge that are wise in heart. As for these men's double respects, they are not all of them sincere. They would have it said in respect of the Israelites, (and not of the Lord) that they were without God, without Priest, without law, none of his wife, having children of whoredoms, and the Lord is not with Israel &c. & again in respect of the Lord (and not of themselves) that he is called their God, and they his people, and their children borne to him, and Israel not to have been a widow forsaken &c. I answer, whatsoever was syn, was wholly their own, and whatsoever was grace, was wholly God's: & this is true in the best Churches in the world. But whatsoever was a reproof and punishment for their syn, respected both God's justice, and their demerit: and whatsoever acceptation of grace was in them, respected both God's mercy in Christ, and their faith. If therefore they were in any sense a true Church at that time actually, it must needs be by mutual referēce to the covenant on both parts, God offering, they taking his grace offered; through his holy Spirit working in them: otherwise it is a mere fiction in religion, to make difference where none is. Now let them show that they accepted the grace of God, calling them to repentance: we show the contrary by the Lord's own testimony, who for their unbelief and stubborn disobedience did put them out of his sight in wrath. And if men accept not the grace of God: his calling upon them to repent, makes them no more his Church, then the Hethens unto whom he doth the like.

Again, it is not sound to say that in respect of themselves only, it was spoken by the Prophet the Lord is not with Israel, with any of the children of Aephrain. For he there dissuadeth Amaziah from having the army of Israel to help him: his reason is, the Lord is not with Israel: this most directly respecteth the Lord and his withdrawing of his presence from that people. Even as Moses said, Got not up [to war] for the Lord is not among you: did not the event show (when they fled before their enemies) that it was meant in respect of God's presence and help now withdrawn from them? Also when it is said in other scriptures the Lord was with the Judge: and the Lord is with me, I will not fear: and I am with yow all days, & many the like: whoever would dream that these things could be spoken in respect of the men only, and not of God and Christ? Finally the Prophets speech to the Jews, the Lord is with yow, while yow be with him, but if ye forsake him, he will forsake yow, doth evince manifestly, that it is an evil gloss, when the text saith the Lord is not with Israel, to turn it by respects, as if nothing were meant but Israel is not with the Lord. So in the other speech Israel hath been without the true God; the words following but had he turned to the Lord God of Israel; and sought him, he would have been found of them; these manifest, that it was in respect of God's forsaking them also, and not only of their forsaking him.

No better (if it be not worse) is their citing of Hos. 2.2. she is not my wife, that this respected Israel in themselves: be it so, but what followeth? neither am I her husband: and if the former branch respected Israel, then this respecteth the Lord, especially seeing he testified by Jeremiah, I cast her away, and gave her a byll of divorcement: unless they will say this also was not spoken in respect of the Lord. They do not well therefore to cite one branch of the text, and conceal another, deceiving the reader. How and in what sense God called them his people, I have shown before: their former state, their present pretense to be the Lord's, and the future mercy that they should and yet shall receive, might well and did occasion such speeches: but in deed and truth it was as God said to them you are not my people, therefore will not I be yours. And as for God remembering his covenant, it is true even to this day, for they are beloved for their fathers sakes, and shall again have the benefit of their first covenant, and so may still becaled God's people, as the Prophets foretelling their return, do entitle them: yet I hope our opposites will not hereupon conclude, that the Jews now (whiles they continue unrepentant) are God's true visible church. That of Israel and Judah being no widow, Jer. 51.5. is a prophesy of their return out of Babylon, and restoring of their common wealth, as the whole argument there manifesteth. They should repent and seek the Lord with tears, and renew the covenant on their part, and God would forgive them all their sins. This therefore is not spoken in respect of God only, but of them also turning by repentance to the Lord in their affliction, and the Lord turning to them; as the first performance of this prophecy showeth, Nehem. 9.1.2.—32.—38. Moreover, it proveth not that Israel was always before, God's wife or Church; for it is plain to the contrary, Hos. 2.2. and she was divorced, Ier. 3, 8. & dead in syn, Hos. 13.1. but now was to be fulfilled in such as returned, that which was prophesied, on Israel's part, J will go and return to my first husband; and on God's part, J will marry the unto me in faith.

Their applying of these things to our times, is not in all points aright. For though in this, Antichrists synagogue and Israel's do agree, that neither be God's true Church: yet the perfect type of Rome, as God describeth it, is Babylon: and we should not be wiser then God. And if they cannot prove Babylon then to be God's church, which was not more deep in syn thē now Antichrist is, and which city had promise and performance of mercy in Christ at the end: they shall never prove this synagogue of Satan to be God's true Church, which hath no promise of recovery or mercy, but prophesies and threatenings of assured destruction.

They proceed further to a double regard of apostate Churches, in comparison with other people's; as Israel compared with the Philistines &c, is called and counted God's people, having the only true God for their God: 2 King. 5, 8.15.17. & 9, 6. but being compared with Judah, is an harlot and not God's wife. Hos. 2.2.5. & 4.15. &c. So the church of Rome in apostasy, compared with Jews, Turks & Pagans, ought to be counted Christians, and the Temple of God, the Church of God brought to the faith of Christ, 2 Thes. 2.4. with Ezek. 43, 7, 8. Zach. 6, 12, 13. Eph. 2, 11. — 13, 19, 21. 2. Cor. 6, 16. Rev. 11.19. but again cōmpared with the ancient church of Rome, & such as now are faithful churches, she is to be esteemed the great whore, believing & speaking lies in hypocrisy &c, Rev. 17.1.5. 1. Tim. 4, 1, 2, 3. 2 Thes. 2, 3, 10, 12. And thus in a double consideration, it may be said of Rome in one respect, there is a true Church there, and in another respect there is a false church there.

I answer; first to the double regard of Israel; if they mean that only in respect of Judah, and not also of God, Israel was called none of God's wife; it is untrue, and before by me disproved. If they mean, that not only in respect of God, but of Judah also, Israel was an harlot, and not God's wife, it is true, and maketh so much the more against their estate, but nothing at all, (no not in show) for it. And how Judah respected Israel, (besides all former testimonies of the Prophets alleged,) their continual wars both with word and sword do manifest, as when after reproof of their falling from God, they killed five hundred thousand chosen men of Israel at one battle: besides their continual combats after, excepting some few Kings which made amity with them, for which they were reprov'd: as the Prophet said to K. Jehoshaphat for joining with the King of Israel against the Aramites, wouldest thou help the wicked, and love thē that hate the Lord? therefore for this thing, wrath from the Lord is upon thee. But had the Israelites been their brethren in the faith, and covenant of Christ, Judah had sinned greatly in so destroying them. And how the Jews afterward also esteemed of their faith and godliness, their Rabbin's testimonies in the Talmud showeth, where they say of the ten tribes, Aein lahem chelek leolam haba: that is, they have no part in the world to come, in life eternal; and that the Lord did put them from upon their land in this world, and will send them into another land in the world to come. Did they now (may we think) esteem them within the holy covenant, and to have true circumcision, the seal of the righteousness which is by faith? As for comparison with the Philistines and other heathens, it is true they were called the people of the Lord; because they never renounced their God in name and professedly: but pretended the contrary. Yet seeing they did but compass the Lord with lies and deceit: this their vain profession did naught avail them, with God or his Saints. And so at this day, the Jews professing the God of Israel, and praying to him, & reading his law and prophets daily in their synagogues, may be called God's people in comparison of pagans which know not God or his scriptures at all: but worship the Sun and Moon, and some of them the Devil, by open profession. Yet none I think will say, that the Jews now being without Christ, are actually in the covenant of grace. Again, the Turks that profess One immutable, living, true, most wise & high God; and do acknowledge Christ to be sent of God with his gospel, and call him Ruchella, that is the Breath (or Spirit) of God: these men in comparison of Julian the Apostate, and other like wretches, and Atheists, may be called the people of God, and Christians: though in deed, they be far from being either.

Secondly for their double regard of the Church of Rome, I say as before of Israel, that in comparison with Turks and paynims, they may be called Christians, but are in deed false Christians, such as in name and show pretend to be Christ's; but are Antichrists & worship the Dragon, and the Beast, and him that sitteth as God in the Temple of God; so to them the scripture may be applied, they say they are Christians and are not, but do lie, and are the synagogue of Satan: and if this will help them, let them make the most of it. It is sufficient for the matter in hand, if in respect of Christ and his covenant, and in comparison with Christ's true Churches, that synagogue be condemned, as the great whore, the beast that came up from, and shall again go down into the bottomless pit. vertheless (but that comparisons are odious) it might easily be proved, that though Antichrists Church pretend to be Christ's, & so in name is better than Turks and Pagans: yet in deed, those miscreants are in some things to be justified, in comparison of them. For Jews and Turks, are not so gross as to worship the Queen of heaven, and Images of Wood and of stone, as do the Antichristians.

The Jews are not so vain as to pray to Abraham and the Prophets, though they be in deed saints in heaven: whereas the popish Church prayeth daily to S. Nicolas, S. Martin, S. Sylvester, S. Benedict, S. Dommik, S. Antonie, and all other their own canonized and deified Saints, of whom they know not but many may be Devils in hell. And Bp. Bale observeth, that they have doon as their old predecessors the idolatrous priests did by the ancient Romās, they have set us up a sort of lecherous God's to be worshiped in our temples, to be our advocats, and to help us in our needs. Yea the Hethens would marvel (as Tullie telleth us) that any should be so mad, as to believe that that thing which he eateth is his God: yet Antichristians believe that they eat their God and maker, when they eat their blasphemous Sacrament of the altar, which before they eat, they worship with divine honor. At Canterbury were kept the clowts that Thomas Becket did occupy to wipe of his sweat and to blow his nose on: which were kissed as holy relics, and thought to be wholesome for sick folks. Was there ever, may we think, more foolish idolatry, among any paynims? Wherefore they are in many respects worse than the very Hethens: and it is true which a learned man hath said, that their Church is like their Transubstantiatiō, accidents without the true and proper subject.

Their allegation of 2 Thes. 2.4. that the Man of syn should sit as God in the Temple of God, is before answered; and is but the misunderstanding of a phrase, that if they would contend, they might as well prove, the Devil which appeared to the Witch of Endor, was Samuel; because the scripture phrase saith that Samuel said to Saul &c. 1 Sam. 28 14.15 &c. Neither is Ezek. 43.7.8. fitly joined with 2 Thes. 2. they should set the type from Bels Temple in Babylon, where the vessels of God's true Temple were holden captive: or from the Samaritans Temple built by Sanballat on moūt Garizim, whither the Apostate and wicked Jews used to flee. And whereas they cite Zach. 6-12.13. it is direct against them, for it showeth not that the Branch (Christ) should build the Temple of the Lord, and then leave it for the man of syn to be worshiped there as God; but that Christ himself should also carry the glory, and sit and rule upon his throne, and be a Priest upon it; and this we see accomplished in the Christian Church warring against the Beast: for out of the true temple, and from God's throne there, do come plagues upon the Beasts throne, and upon all his worshipers; and God contineweth still in his temple, which the beast blasphemeth. And of this temple speaketh Paul in Eph. 2, 11. where the true God dwelleth by his spirit, verse 12. So 2 Cor. 6, 16. confirmeth this, saying; what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? but these would make agreement, which will have the Adversarie the idol shepherd, there to sit, where also he is worshipped as God. And in the words next before, what concord hath Christ with Belial? 2 Cor. 6, 15. by Belial, we may understand Satan or his eldest son Antichrist, the Hebrew word being taking from 2. Sam. 23.6. where Belial, the company of wicked ones is opposed to David's house, the father and type of Christ: & Sibylla prophesying of Antichrist calleth him Belial, (in the Greek termination Belias). Now that which Paul doth most vehemently deny, these would affirm, in making such concord, that where Belial sitteth as God, and is so worshipped; there Christ also sitteth & blesseth him and his worshipers, with the one true baptism, sealing up unto them the forgiveness of sins, and life eternal. For so we have heard it pleaded, that the baptism which the Antichristians have and use in Rome, is the true, the one baptism spoken of Eph. 4, 5. How fitly may we put Mr Johnson here, in mind of his own words cited from a Commenter on Dan. 11.34.35. of the wily whelps that seek how to agree Belial with Christ, Idols and the true worship in spirit; thrusting the Pope and Christ both together into one poke.

Whereas they end their divers respects, with a true church there, and a false Church there: they conclude not the question, but closely turn it away. They should prove her, that is the whore, to be Christ's true spouse and Church; if so they could. For, there there may be a true Church, though she be none of it: even as God had his people in Babylon, and there he was a Sanctuary or Temple unto them: but the Babylonians were not the men: neither was Bels temple, the Lord's. But it may be they mean herself, by there: for presently they prove it as Paul said of one and the same womā, she is dead & alive in divers respects, 1. Tim. 5, 6. A fit comparison: for Paul meaneth that she was alive in this natural life, but dead as touching spiritual life in God: and this is very true in Antichrists synagogue: for she liveth in pleasure, and saith in heart, J sit being a Queen &c. but as touching life with God, she is dead, and appointed to damnation. We acknowledge therefore with them, that things are often in the scriptures spoken in divers respects, without observing whereof, men shall err infinitely: but it is evil for men to make other respects then God maketh; the scriptures may easily be misapplied; as a little after, they bring us the respect of Abraham unrighteous in himself, but righteous by faith, Rom. 4.3.5. I hope they will not apply this to that son of perdition, in 2 Thes. 2. for that were a most wicked comparisō. Yet thus they have shuffled together many scriptures (whereby the simple may be deceived,) for to show things diversely spokē, which none doubteth off: but how soundly they have proved Antichrists Church to be Christ's, let the judicious Reader give setēce. And let all that fear God mind, whither such doctrines will not beat the path for all licenciousnes. For although the scripture saith, he that committeth syn is of the Devil: and, we know that whosoever is borne of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God, keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not: notwithstanding, men may be as profane as Esau, as filthy in life as Sodom, as idolatrous and sinful as the Egyptians and Babylonians, and yet if they will but cal themselves Christians, and be outwardly baptized, they may be blamed in words, and separated from by men: but yet justified as God's true Church, they and their seed in his covenant of grace, & sealed with baptism, which is to remission of sins: and what need they care for more? Who will fear his estate, or amend his life, for the doctrine of such men, as pul down with the left hand, & build up with the right? Is not this rather to strengthen the hands of the wicked, that he should not return from his wickedness, by promising him life? Moreover this acknowledging all that profess Christ and are baptized, to be true Churches having the true baptism of God: will necessarily draw unto a general communion with all such societies, where men think actually no evil is committed, as may fall out ofteñ in the sermons of Friers, Jesuits, and other false Prophets; for with true visible Churches and members of Christ, who may not communicate, so it be not in evil? And thus Christians may come to that vanity & cōfusiō which was among the Hethens, of whom an ancient Doctor noteth, that though they had infinite and contrary opinions about the God's and their religion: yet all of them kept communion together in their Temples and sacrifices.

Whereas Mr. John. referreth us to his first writings, in answer to M. Jacob, pag. 7. & 13. and 47. as having then written somewhat tending this way, which now he pleads for: the Reader may see (by comparing them) how far they differ. There, touching England, he distinguisheth between their Church estate, in respect whereof he is persuaded they cannot be judged true Christians, and the personal estate of some considered apart from their Church constitution, that they may well be thought in regard of God's election to be heyr's of salvation, and in that respect true Christians: so in pag. 13. & 47. touching the Church of Rome, and some God's elect in it. Although in pag. 146 he is persuaded, whosoever lives & dyes a Papist and member of that Church of Antichrist, in the knowledge, profession, and maintenance of that religion in the parts thereof, cannot of us be esteemed to live and die in the estate of salvation. Now what is that to his present plea, for the Church & baptism of Rome, but rather the contrary. And for us, we never disputed with any touching God's elect, which we leave unto himself who only knoweth those that are his. We deny not but there may be of the elect in all false Churches: even as Satan hath his reprobates in the true Churches. I hold it presumption for any to limit God, by how small means, or measure of faith and knowledge he will save a man. Who dares deny but God had many elect among the Hethens, after he had separated Israel from them? Yea God expressly said, wen he made Israel his peculiar people, that yet all the earth was his, which are the words of the covenant generally. Wherefore we leave God's secret counsels to himself as he willeth us; and do consider only the visible state of Churches, by the rules of God's Law and promises. Finally in that very book which he mentioneth, how sharply doth M. John's. inveigh against his opposers, and against M. Hooker (that pleaded for the Church of Rome because of some truths there retained;) & saith, that what by the Prelates and their Proctours on the one hand, and the Pharisical daubing reformists on the other, all may justly fear, least the end of that Church will be to look back not only in part, but even wholly to the Romish Egypt and Sodom, and to wollow again in the same mire, from which they would seem all this time to have been washed. When the Prelates and Reformists shall see what the same man now writeth himself, for that Romish Egypt: what will they say, but that even he also is come to dawb with them for company; and fear a further fall.

Of their judgment of the Church of Rome: translated out of M. Junius.

To countenance their cause the more, they set it out with the name and judgment of a learned man, now deceased. Against whō themselves wrote heretofore; when they would have been loath to stand to his judgment. But what will not men do, for help in time of need? The thing borrowed from him is in deed his own judgment, rather than proof of argument: I shall therefore the more briefly touch it, yet not meddling with the author (who I hope is at rest in the Lord) but with these his translators.

The Church of Rome (whereof they treat) is properly (they say) the company which is at Rome, as Paul wrote Rom. 1. abusively, it is all the Churches on earth cleaving to it and the doctrine & constitution thereof. They treat of the first, but would have men by proportion understand the same of the later. I answer; A Church there was at Rome in Paul's time, beloved of God, called Saints, whose faith was published through the whole world. A Church (or piece rather of a Church) there is at Rome now, loathed of God, called Devils: whose whoredoms & abominations are famous through all the earth. In deed and truth there is a great City spiritually called Sodom, & Egypt and Babylon, Rev. 11.8. & 16.19. dispersed over the world under the name of a Christian Catholik Church, whose chief place & throne is Rome. As for the congregation of Saints that was there in Paul's time, it is gone long since, and the Man of syn with his worshipers, come in the place. Between these two, there is no just proportion: for what concord hath Christ with Belial? 2 Cor. 6.15.

The Church of Rome considered as a subject, (they say) hath 2. parts, Pastors and the flock of Christ, for which Church the Apostle of old gave thanks to God, Rom. 1, 8. Neither do we deny this subject to be at Rome evē at this day, because we trust there is God calling, persons called, & the calling itself yet in her, which together in one, giveth being to a Church. I answer, First, I deny that God is there calling as in his Church, but the man of syn sitts there as God, calling all to worship him, and his calling is by the working of Satan, and in all deceivableness of unrighteousness among them that perish: and the persons called, are deluded to believe lies. 2 Thes. 2.9, 10, 11. Al these together, give being to Antichrists church, but not to Christ's. And we are sure God calleth out of her, such as shall be saved, Rev. 18, 4. Their starr (or Bishop) is long since fallen from heaven: and in stead of Peters keys, he received the key of the bottomless pit, which he opened, and brought up a smoke of heresies, and darkened all truth and means thereof, and sent abroad his clergy the Locusts to sting and poison men's souls: by calling them from God, to worship Devils: And these things Mr Junius himself, hath applied to the popish hierarchy.

Touching the papacy, (say they) or papal hierarchy called ecclesiastical, we say not that it is the church properly so called, but an accident growing to the church, and which covertly worketh against the life and health of the church. For the papacy is an order, human and naught; the church is an assembly divine, &c. And after they say, The papacy is in the church as the order of apostasy in the house of God 2 Thes. 2. the man of syn sitteth in the temple of God, with his whole order or rank of Apostates: and the Temple of God consisteth not in that order and number of Apostates, which is a thing most strange and furthest off. And again, the papacy is a poison in the Church, which must needs be vomitted out if it will be preserved, or ells the Church will be extinguished by it, if it suffer that poison to prevail and possess all the veyns of the body. I answer, true it is, and I agree with them, that the rank of Apostates, is far from being God's temple: whereupon I assume, the whole popish church, priests and people are a rank of Apostates; because they worship the Beast, who showeth himself there for God, where the Pope is acknowledged to be the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, the Savior and deliverer: they worship Devils and Idols of silver and gold, Rev. 9.20. and their belief is in lies 2 Thes. 2.11, 12. therefore the whole popish Church being a rank of Apostates, is a Temple of Antichrist, but not of Christ. Secondly, (to take that which they grant,) the papal Hierarchy ecclesiastical, if it be no part of the body of the Church, but an accident, a poison, a gangrene, an ulcer eating the body: what shall we think of all the actions of that ecclesiastical hierarchy, their ministration of sacraments, their making of ministers, and the whole Church administration, by that rank of Apostates, they cannot possibly be the actions of the body, of the Church, neither of Christ. Can a scab or gangrene perform any action of a natural body or member? And now what is become of their true baptism, and ordination of Ministers before pleaded for? these will be but as the operation of the poison or fretting of the gangrene, for they that did them, being the popish ecclesiastical hierarchy, were no parts of the Church, but accidents, as the gangrene or pocks upon the whores body, which consume life and grace, but give none at all. Thirdly, seeing the popish ecclesiastical hierarchy, (which consisteth of Bishops, Priests & Ministers,) are the poison and botches in the body of the Church, and no parts of the same: how doth God cal in that Church, as before they reasoned? For his ministry is not among them; as for his word, the people have it not so much as to read; and the service of their God's, is in a tongue that they understand not: what now is the means of their calling? Fourthly, compare this with their former plea for the Eldership and Ministry, whē they could not find the Church to be called the body of Christ, house, city, or Kingdom, unless it had officers &c. Now for Rome they will have it the body of Christ, house & Temple of God, ministering true baptism, &c. and yet the ecclesiastical hierarchy are no parts or members, but scabs on the body. But the truth is, these Egyptian boils, the hierarchy, ar the chiefest parts of the body of that Antichrist: which in some respect may be likened to the Image that Nebuchadnezzar saw, Dan. 2.31. &c. The Pope with his triple crown, who is proclaimed for a Vice-God, the invincible Monarch of the Christian common wealth, and vehement conserver of the popish omnipotency: he is the head of Gold. The Cardinals and prelates are next him as breast & arms of silver; the other belly-God Clergy, is the strong brazen paunch, and the Lay people, are as the legs and feet of iron and clay, which carry and bear up the bulk: and the unclean Spirit of Satan giveth life and effectual operation to this Beast. For to be a member of this their body and Church, the papists themselves profess that there is not any inward virtue required: so then there is no need of the spirit of God, to join these limbs of the Beast together.

But they proceed and say, that On God's behalf it is altogether a Church, wheresoever there is found a company called of God with his calling by the spirit and the holy scripture, and the ministry of persons ordained for holy things and divine actions. And a little after, After this manner do we esteem of the Church in which the papacy is, God calleth her with his calling by his spirit and word, and public record of that holy marriage, the scripture, & the ministry and things & holy actions, which before we have briefly reckoned up. I answer; if men's eyes did not dazel with looking on the bewtie of the harlot, I marvel how they could so esteem of that Church, which hath for her hierarchy (as even now they confessed) a rank of Apostates, no members but ulcers of the body. And are they now with another breath, become an holy ministry of God? Most strange it is that men should publish their own esteemings, without any word of God to warrant them. But let us bring them to the trial. They say, God calleth her by his spirit and word: but Paul saith, God shall send them strong delusion that they should believe lies, 2 Thes. 2.11. and this we see verified, by the manifold heresies, idolatries, blasphemies wherewith the whole body of that Church is poisoned. They say God calleth her with his spirit: the Apostle saith, strong is the Lord God which will condemn her, Rev. 18, 8. and with the spirit of his mouth, he will consume that lawless one, 2. Thes. 2, 8. And whereas they cal the scripture, the public record of that holy marriage between God & her: the scripture shows no such marriage, but doth defye her as an harlot: where is the record that Christ was ever married to the Beast that came up from the bottomless pit? If her having the book of holy scripture in an unknown tongue, wickedly abused to maintain her whoredoms and abominations, & subjected to the interpretation of her Lord God the Pope, be a record of that holy marriage; the Jews which have Moses and the Prophets red and expounded in their mother tongue, have better records; and so they, and all heretical assemblies in the world, among whom the Bible is, must be judged God's true Churches. Let us add hereunto the testimony of men, and touching our own county. D. Fulk answereth the Papists thus, you taught the people nothing ells but to pronounce and that full ylfavouredly like popingeyes, certain Latin words which they understood no more then stocks or stones. So that the people had no instruction from you, no not of the name of God in many places, but that they received by vncertayn talk of their parents, as it were from hand to hand. For how many thousand parishes are here in England, that within these 60. years would declare that they never heard sermon in their life. As for that they heard of their service, they learned as much of it, as of the ringing of their bells, which was a sound without understanding. These things being so, what calling had the poor seduced people more then among the heathens.

We will make the matter plain (say they) by a similitude from Ier. 3. A wife being filthy with adulteries, if her husband will pardon her, and consent to receive her, she abideth still his wife &c. So a church overflowing with adulteries &c. I answer, God (if it were granted that he is the husband of this whore,) hath promised her no pardon, but delivered her to Satan, to be seduced, deluded, damned 2 Thes. 2.9, 11, 12. Secondly I deny that this harlot was ever Christ's spouse, otherwise then all the world was, by our first parents Adam and Noah. For this is not she unto whom Paul wrote Rom. 1. but another of whom he prophesied, 2 Thes. 2. She succeedeth in the same place, as the night succeedeth the day. The Church in Paul's time, came from heaven, Rev. 21.2. and is long since gone to God: this came up from the bottomless pit; Rev. 17, 8. and thither she must return. She is of another religion, the daughter of a strange God. But they allege, touching the election (as is said of the Jews, Rom. 11.28.) she is beloved for her fathers sakes. I answer, first then this proveth rather the Jews at this day a church; for still they are loved for their fathers sakes: and shall be called again, as the Apostle there showeth. Secondly, if the Jews are beloved for their good fathers sakes: then Rome may well be hated for her evil fathers sakes. For who were her fathers, but the Gentiles, Sodomites and Egyptians; Rev. 11, 2, 8, 18. not the saints in Rome; for she is not of their faith and sanctity. But you will say, she is the natural posterity of them. Nay, there is not so much as likelihood thereof, much less any certainty. For besides the bloody persecutions in those times, that did cut off the godly; there were after that, many changes of the Roman state, & great cōmotions, that heavens departed away as a scrol when it is rolled, every mountayn & ile were moved out of their places, Kings, Captayns and all sorts of men sled and hid themselves; Rev. 6, 14, 15, so great were the troubles of those times. And for particulars, Alaricus with his Goths above a thousand years ago, did take, spoil and burn Rome, in the yere of Christ 414. After that again within 44. years, Gensericus with his Vandals took and spoiled it, and Rome for a time remained without any inhabitant. A few years after, did Odoacer with another company, invade Italy and conquer Rome, put the Emperor to flight, made himself King, and did much spoil. Then Theodoricus and the Ostrogothes took it; and after him again Bellisarius with his army, wann it: But above all, Totilas King of the Goths, in the yere of our Lord, 546. after all the former invasions, did overthrow Rome quite, cast down the walls, burn the houses, and made it so desolate, that there remained in it neither man nor woman. These turmoiles in Rome, within the space of a few years, being observed, and the possessing of that land by those forreyners the Goths, who mixed them selves with the people, and degenerated into the name of Italians, and other plagues afterwards by the Saracens that killed innumerable sowls in Rome & Italy: these & the like may teach us, how unpossible it is to show that the present church of Rome, is so much as the natural posterity of the Saints in Paul's time: though if they were, yet would it help them no more in this estate, then the Ishmaelites & Aedomites which were the natural seed of Abraham. And Adonisedek with his Amorites and Jebusites in Jerusalem, (Josh 10, 1. &c.) may as well be justified to be God's true Church, because of Melchizedek King & Priest of God, who with his faithful company dwelled there 5. or 6. hundred years before: Gen. 14, 18. &c. as the popish Beast with his Jesuits and marked slaves at this day, may be pleaded for, because of the godly that lived in Rome 15, or 16. hundred years agone. And thus their reasons from Israel, are also impertinent to this estate: they might well serve for the times wherein John lived, when the true Churches were many of them apostate: but the Egyptians and Babylonians are shadows of our Antichristians, among whom their hethenish abominations are spiritually accomplished. Rev. 11.▪

But they plead still, Jn that the Church of Rome hath all the divine things in the scriptures, it is of God & a Church: in that it hath them all corrupt, that is of itself, and it is a corrupt Church. The Church is not taken away by corruption, unless it be total &c. I answer still they take for granted, that which they should prove; and which I have before again and again disproved. It is not properly the old Church of Rome corrupted; but a new church arisen out of the bottomless pit, carrying the show and titles of the old. It is not the woman fled into the wilderness: but another woman or city, reigning over the Kings of the earth. The Lamb Christ is not there, as on mount Zion with his 144. thousand, having his fathers name written on their foreheads: Rev. 14, 1. but the Wolf Antichrist with his sheep's skyn & lambs horns, is there with his army of Canaanites as on moūt Maggedon. At first those Gentiles invaded the courts of God's temple, and trode down the holy city, Rev. 11.2. as the Babylonians of old dealt with God's sanctuary: Ps. 79.1. &c. Ier. 51.1.3. &c. Lam. 1.10. If that army of infidels were God's true Church: so is the synagogue of Antichristians. And the Hethens in their altars, temples, sacrifices &c. had the divine things of God among them, as well, if not better, then hath the man of syn and his worshipers, in their sacrifice of the Mass, and other manifold idolatries. The duty of those that are in the popish Church and see their corruptions, is (they say) such as of those children that dwell with their adulterous mother: that is, to abhor her syn, with speech and sign to cal her back from evil, & abstain themselves from it, and in all things cleav to their father, & betake themselves into his closet &c. I answer, thus it appeareth, that these our opposites are returned to acknowledge the whore of Rome to be their mother: whom they feign to be as woman whichlyeth in a deadly sort swollen with waters of the dropsy, or with poison, which had long ago given up the ghost, if God by the imposition of his grace &c. had not nourished and kept her warm. Now to leave their mother thus on her sick bed, as they have doon (disclaiming all Christian duty unto her which is due to a true Church in corruption,) is but the part of unnatural children. Whiles God doth nourish & keep her warm, will they quite abandon her? let them return and cherish her also, and all her members, and see if there be any baulm to heal her wounds, and to comfort her. As for us, we have been taught of God, that in respect of him she is dead long ago in her sins; (Rev. 20.5. with Ephes. 2.1.) having been the marked whore & worshiper of the Beast, from which death she is not risen to live & reign with Christ. Although to this world, she liveth and reigneth in pleasure, til at one day death otherwise also come upon her, & she be burnt with fire, Rev. 18.7.8. And then shall we be so far from mourning at her funeral, as we shall rejoice with the heavenly multitude, and sing Hallelujah, when God hath given Sodom's judgment on her, and we see her smoke rise up for evermore, Rev. 19, 1.2.3.

Finally, to back M. Junius judgment, they cite Amandus Polanus, & Bart. Keckerman, who said that Antichrist shall sit in the temple of God, not Jewish but Christian, &c. and as a rotten apple is an apple but corrupt; so that Church is corrupt &c. I answer, they may I confess cite diverse men, that were mistaken, in judging of that rotten church, which will help these our opposites nothing, who have seen and acknowledged better, & now go back. Bernard was a learned man in his time, and is counted a Saint, and he plainly reprov'd many Romish abominations, and said, the beast in the Revelation, which hath a mouth speaking blasphemies, occupieth Peters chair: yet himself doted overmuch upō the beauty of that harlot, when he wrote thus at another time to her Leman the Pope, Thou art the great sacrificer, the chief Priest, thou art Prince of Bishops, heyr of the Apostles; thou art in primacy Abel, in government Noah, in patriarchship Abraham, in order Melchizedek, in dignity Aaron, in authority Moses, in judgship Samuel, in power

Peter, in anointing Christ. It is not therefore to be marveiled at, though wise & godly men be mistaken; for in many things we syn all. Jam. 3, 2. But I have shown how the scriptures do judge of this sorceress; and could also allege many learned men's judgments; but I will go no further then our own country. Mr Cartwright speaking of the baptising of children saith, If both (parents) be Papists, or condemned heretics &c. their children cannot be received [to baptism] because they are not in the covenant &c. And again, If the corruption be such as destroyeth the foundations, as in the Arians which overthrow the person of Christ, as in the Papists which overthrow the office of Christ, they being no Church, ought to have no privilege of the church. Mr Perkins, writeth thus, As for th'Assemblies of Papists, understanding companies of men holding the Pope for their head, and believing the doctrine of the council of Trent; in name they ar called Churches, but in deed they are no true or sound members of the catholic church; for both in their doctrine, & in their worship of God, they rase the very foūdatiō of religiō. And again; Jt is no more a church in deed, then the carkes of a dead man, that wareth a living man's garment, is a living man, though he look never so like him. And again; he hath a treatise and Assertion, that A reprobate may in truth be made partaker of all that is contained in the religion of the church of Rome, and a Papist by his religion cannot go beyond a reprobate: and bringeth 4. arguments for proof hereof, and endeth with this Corolarie, that A man being endued with no more grace then that which he may obtain by the religion of the Church of Rome, is still in the state of damnation. D. Fulk, answering the counterfeit Catholik saith Jt is evident that the true Church decayed immediately after the Apostles times: and telleth the Papist yow cry the Catholik Church, the Catholik Church, when yow have nothing in deed, but the Synagogue of Satan. Again The Church of Antichrist is founded upon 7 hills, Rev. 17. upon the traditions, dreams, fantasies and devises of men &c. Therefore (saith he) in no wise may she be called the city of God, but Babylon the mother of fornication, Sodom, & Egypt, where our Lord is daily crucified in his members. D. Willet answering Bellarmino saith We deny utterly that they are a true visible Church of Christ, but an Antichristian Church, and an assembly of Heretiks, & enemies to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Again he saith 2. Thes. 2. he shall sit in the temple of God, that is, the visible Church, that which sometime was the true visible Church, as the Church of Rome, and after should be so take•n, reputed and challenged, as it is at this day by the Papists &c. He shall sit in the Temple of God, that is, take upon him the name & title of the Church, and yet an adversary unto it. And again, The Turk is out of the Church, and so in truth is the Pope, but yet he challengeth to him and his, the name of the Church. M. Bale compareth the Pope and Turk together, thus, So glorious are the pretenses of Romish Pope & Mahomet, that they seem unto them which regard not these warnings, the very Angels of light, and their Churches most holy congregations, being very devils, with the very dregs of darkness. The Pope in his Church hath ceremonies without number, none end is there of their babbling prayers, their portases, bedes, temples, altars, songs, howrs, bells, images, organs, ornaments, Jewels. lights, oilings, shavings &c. that a man would think they were proctours of paradise. On the other side Mahomet in his Church is plenteous also in holy observations, they wash themselves oft, frequent their temples, pray 5. times in the day, they reverently incline, they lie prostrate on the ground, they fervently cal to God, they abstain from wine, they abhor idols &c. But unto what end this holiness leadeth, the sequel declareth. Daniel maketh these two but one, because they are both of one wicked spirit &c. The Pope maketh his boast, that he is the High Priest, he is of equal power with Peter, he cannot err, he is head and spouse of the Church &c. Mahomet braggeth also that he is that great Prophet, the promised Messias, the Apostle of both testaments &c. He is well contented that Christ be an holy Prophet, and a most worthy creature, yea the word of God, the sowl of God, and the spirit of God, conceived of the Holy Ghost, but he will in no case grant him to be the Son of God, nor that he died here for man's redemption. Both these two mainteyners of mischief allow Moses law, the Psalter, the Prophets, and the Gospel, yea they commend them, advance them, sing them, read them, honor them &c. yet will they have their own filthy laws preferred above them, the Pope his execrable decrees, and Mahomet his wicked Alkoran: ells will they murder men without measure. Thus though they outwardly appear very virtuous, yet are they the malignant Ministers of Satan, denying the Lord which hath redeemed them. By these may we measure their inferior Merchants, having their livery & mark. I might allege many moe, especially of the Martyrs in England, which died in this testimony against that false whore; but it is enough that God's word doth condemn her, as before is manifested.

The 6. point of difference: in the letter.

WE had learned that all particular congregations are by all [ VI] means convenient to have the counsel and help one of another, in all needful affairs of the Church, as members of one body in the common faith: yet here when differences had arisen about our common faith, and could not amongst ourselves be cōposed, they would not desire nor consent to have desired, the help of our sister Church at Leyden, although it were instantly urged by many members that their assistance should be had.

With this they join the 9. out of the printed copy, to the effect of the former.

Against this they except, 1. that though for some reasons they abstained from desiring it, or sending for them, or giving their consent so to do: yet they were content to permit it: which was not a denying of the practice of it, as the printed copy objecteth &c 1 Cor. 7.6. Deut. 24.1. I answer; the scriptures on which we grounded that article, being Act. 15. chap. 1. Cor. 14.33.36. show another manner of duty, then a permission. For when dissention had arisen in the church of Antioch, they ordeyned that some should go up to Jerusalem, unto the Apostles & Elders about the question. And the messengers were sent forth of the Church, and were received by the Church at Jerusalem, & the Apostles and Elders, who came together with one accord, & after discussing and agreement, wrote to the Church of Antioch, what had seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to them. And Paul showeth a reason of such mutual intercourse, when he saith, Came the word of God out from you either came it unto yow only? 1 Cor. 14.36. Wherefore seeing the word of God, was come unto the Church of Leyden, as unto us; and considering the practice that was in the APOSTOLIKE Churches heretofore, and our profession to walk according; it is but a sory answer to say they would permit of it, if others did it; as Moses permitted the bill of divorce, for the hardness of men's harts; and as Paul spake a thing by permission, not by commandment. For we think those Apostolical practices, Act. 15. to be in stead of commandments unto us, Philip. 3.17. And our Confession noteth it as a duty, even by all means convenient. By this all may see, how weak a defense they make, for their proceedings.

Their reasons follow; 1. that the other Church & we were in peace together: & if by this occasiō the peace should be brokē, they should not say, they sēt for thē. I answer, this exceptiō will lie against all Churches in the world that are at peace: and might have been objected by the contentious at Antiochia; Act. 15. and will be color to cut off all use of that practice, and of our former profession. 2. That the Church of Leyden was in the same error with us who desired their help. I answer; this also might the troublers of the Church in Antioch, have objected as colourably against the Church of Jerusalem, Act. 15. & it is a bar to cut of all help from other Churches. Yea if any heresy be raised by the officers in a Church, contrary to their former faith: they may thus except against all Churches, unless they will fall into the same errors with them.

3 Thirdly they allege former experience with others. I answer, we never had experience of the like: M. Smyth in deed leaving the truth, and broaching his heresy against the translated scripture, would needs publish it in our Church. It is one thing to raise up a new error, as did he: another thing to maintain the ancient faith, as did the Church of Leyden with us. So that which they fourthly allege, is but a pretence that all will make, be their errors never so new; & they that urged circumcision Act. 15. could plead the anciēt practice in Israel, far better then these our opposites can do for the power of their Eldership.

4 Their next exception about a letter written by some to that church, a copy whereof was desired, but not granted &c. is an occasion taken by that accident. But they know, that before that letter was written, they signified their unwillingness to entreat their help: and now were glad, that they had gotten a show to hold them off. 2. For the Letter mentioned, I did think it was meet they should have sent it, and so I wish they had: though they shown reasons of their not doing it for the present, but have since that time sent thē a copy.

5. They next object, my own subscribing of those letters to Leyden &c & ask whether I denied the practice of that article &c. I answer; first I had sundry times signified in public my mind, that their help should be desired in the end, if we could not agree, but we would first use all means among ourselves: & so I never was of their mind, who refused absolutely to desire their help; & this they well know. Secondly, I subscribed those Letters, because I thought it meet that a copy of the foresaid letter should have been sent, as before I signified. Thirdly for the last letter (which to my remembrance I consented to,) they know I refused to subscribe it, til some words which implied an absolute denial of requesting their help, were put out and changed. Fourthly, when no means among ourselves could end the strife, they know, how I both entreated them to consent they might be sent for: & when they would not, myself went and obtained their coming. In deed I was loath to trouble them without urgent cause; & with my brethren now opposite, I sought to nourish peace, & it may be more then I should; which now they thus return upon me: and I therefore shall bear, and make use of it for hereafter.

6. Of their reasoning with them when they came from Leyden, it is not to the point in hand. Yet how unwilling they were even to admit of it, all present then did see: and the Elders of the church of Leyden, as occasion is can testify. But I forbear to insist upon particulars: which are not so profitable for the readers.

7. Finally they ask why we did not desire the counsel and help of the Dutch & French churches? I answer, first these our opposites with us, had before dealt with them against their errors in this and other points, so far as we could, and ended with them. What reason had we now to call for them to defend that error which our whole church had condemned? Secondly, they could not discuss the controversy in our English tongue, to the understanding of our Congregation now troubled: no nor of all our Elders. Thirdly, these that thus object, did not (to my remembrance) desire any such thing: if they had, I should not for my part have refused so absolutely as did they. But thus have they turned every stone, to see if they could find any color, for withstanding the help of the Church of Leyden: with what weight and equity, let the prudent judge.

Of the 7. articles which they object unto us; as contrary to our former profession.

They pretend more sound and better observations that they could send and spread out against us. Let us bring them to the trial.

1. WHeras (say they) we had learned and professed, that Christ was the only King and Lord of his Church, and had left unto it among men but a ministerial government, and that all the multitude of the members the saints, ought to obey & submit to the Eldership in every Church: Now we have lately been taught, that the people as Kings have power one over another: and that the saints being Kings are superior to their officers, because the order of Kings is the highest order or estate in the Church, and so an order superior unto, and above the order of the officers or Eldership. Also that the church may in relation to the officers, being servants therein, be called a Lord &c.

I answer; first our former profession touching Christ the only King and Lord, we hold it firm in all points as before; and never had so much as a thought to reason against it. Secondly for the ministerial government of the Church by the Officers, we never disputed against it: but do still acknowledge the whole Church and every member is to submit unto their ministration in the Lord. Our controversy was about the Churches power, as we have before manifested. Thirdly, for the people being Kings, we neither taught nor do teach otherwise then as we always professed; namely that they are aroyal Priesthood, made by Christ unto God, both Kings and Priests, and that reign on the earth: not one over another, as they speak, but one with another, in the fellowship of the faith of Christ. That every Christian is a King and Priest unto God, to spy out, censure, and cut down syn as it ariseth, with that two edged sword that proceedeth out of Christ's mouth. These things heretofore both we and they professed: which now they would injuriously turn to be against Christ the only King, and against the ministerial government of his officers: such collections, as we think our common adversaries (that make conscience of their words•) would be ashamed for to make. Touching Mr. Robinson's book which they allege, I have desired himself to answer, which he was willing to do, and hath written as followeth.

Mr Robinson's answer.

Because Mr Johnson hath in his Answer touching the division expressly taxed my book against M. Bernard, I think it meet to insert a brief answer to his exceptions, as followeth. He there writeth thus.

Whereas we had learned, and professed that Christ was the only King, and Lord of his Church, and had left unto it among men, but a ministerial government, and that all the multitude of the members, the saints ought to obey, and submit to the Eldership in every Church: Now we have lately been taught, that the people as Kings have power one over another: and that the saints being Kings are superior to their officers, because the order of Kings is the highest order in the Church &c. Also that the Church may in relation to the officers being servants therein, be called a Lord, &c. And for this he quoteth my book, p. 217 225. adding that I advance the people one above another as Kings, entitle them with kingly and lordly power in the outward policy and affairs of the church, by which as the Prelates on the one hand, so the people on the other hand become idols.

Acknowledging the former and latter part of that he saith we have formerly professed, I except against the middle clause of the sentence, in sundry respects. First, in that he draws the question, which is about the power of Christ in the Church (common to all) to the government and guydance of the Church in the use of this power, which is peculiar to the officers: which may also more clearly appear to him that reads the places he quotes in the margent, wherein he concludeth (though more covertly) a double untruth: the one, that, because the government of the Officers is only ministerial and not Kingly, therefore there is no Kingly power left unto the Church, or communicated with the Saynts for the suppressing of sin: the other that, because the Officers are the only governors of the Church, and so by us acknowledged, therefore they only have the power of Christ. And thus he would closely wrap up the Churches power, in the officers government, and not be seen in it. For the clearing then of the difference between government, and power; it must be considered, that by government may either be understood the whole.....ensation of Christ's Kingly office, whither inward, or outward, whither by himself or up others: and so this power, we speak of, is comprehended under it as a part thereof. Or it is taken more strictly for the guidance, and ordering of the Church in her Public affairs, and the administration, and exequution of them: and so it apperteyneth to the Officers and is clean another thing then the power in question. For the proving of this difference. The Apostle Paul writes to the whole Church of Corinth to excommunicate the incestuous man, by the power of the Lord Jesus Christ. This Power he would have the whole Church to use; but yet would not have the whole Church to become governors, nor to take upon them government, but the officers only: by which it appeareth that government, and power, are divers things. I do further add, what if the whole Eldership should be charged by 2. or 3. witnesses, with heresy, blasphemy, or the like crime, and complaynt thereof be made to the Church? Mr. Johnson in this his Answer cōfesseth that the Church (he would be asked whither womē and childrē or no,) may depose all her officers jointly, persisting in transgression, though in the same place he mince the matter too small, in saying they may depose, or refuse them, & separate from thē, and again, refuse them. Whereas to depose, and to separate from, or refuse, are very divers, For 1. to separate from the Eldership requires no power, but liberty, and therefore may be doon by one man, or woman, upon just occasion: so cannot deposition be, upon any occasion, but by the Church: for which deposition of all the officers of the kingdom of Christ, the church; a man would think the power of Christ were needful, and that by it such a judgment should pass out. Besides, the Church in deposing her officers, doth not separate herself from them, (to speak properly) but them from her. Well, to take the least liberty he will give the people. If they may separate from all their officers persisting in transgression, then they must receive the complaynt of sin, which is orderly brought, and by sufficient witnesses, against them, and must examine, and judge the matter. Now if it argue power to receive a complaynt of sin against one brother, and to examine, and judge it, and so to censure him by excommunication, if there because; doth it not also argue power to receav a complaynt of sin against all the officers, to examine, and judge it, and so to censure them, as their is cause, by deposition? But what now shall the Elders do accounting themselves innocent, and wrougfully accused, whilst the Church thus examineth things, and judgeth of them? Shall they sur•ease their government, and fail the Church in so great a •eed? and would M. Johnson so practice? or are they not now to do a special work of their government, not only in preserving order, but in directing, instructing, and guiding the Church by the wod of God in her whole procedings. By which it appeareth, that judging of sin, and power to suppress it, is one thing, and government for the right use, and ordering of the same, another thing. The officers which are judged do govern, and the bod• of the Church which judgeth them, is governed by them. We may yet further see this difference even in the Lordly governments of this world, and that both in Peace and War.

In the civile government of our own land, (then the which none in the world in the right use of it is more excellent,) when a malefactor comes to be arraigned at the Assizes, or Sessions, he is to be tried by his country, (a competent company, where all cannot possibly pass upon him) which they cal the Jury, whose power and sentence is of such force, as that the Lord Cheif justice himself, and all the Bench with him cannot proceed against it, either for the quitting or cōdemning of the person: and yet the Bench governeth the whole action, and the Jury is by them, according to law, to be governed. I wish the Elders with whō we have to do, would allow the body of the church the like liberty, at their Sitting, as they call it, that is, at their spiritual Sessions: or rather that they would better consider, that they are as Ministers to stand, and serve, and not as Lord's to sit, and judge.

Lastly when an army is sent against the Kings and their own enemies, the government is in the Captains, and Officers, but so is not all the power for fighting with, and subduing of their, and their kings enemies. Neither is all the power of the church, which is an army with banners, in the officers alone, for the the subduing of Christ's, and their enemies, sin, and Satan, though the government be. Thus may the difference plainly be seen betwixt power, and government: in the opening of which I have been the longer, because 1. I think it a main ground of our controversy. 2. Our opposites do much insult over us, as speaking contradictions, when we yield the officers all the government, and yet deny thē all the power.) 3. The weaker sort ar much misled, and carried away thorough want of discerning this difference.

I proceed to a second thing, and affirm, that Christ hath not left to the church among men only a ministerial power (which he confusedly calleth government) as he saith. He hath left the word of God, and gospel in the church, which is lively, and mighty in operation, piercing even to the dividing asunder of the soul, and spirit &c. ruling, and reigning in, and over the very hearts, and lives of men; binding their consciences: and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ. I know men can only minister this power, whither in doctrine, or discipline, as they speak. But it is one thing to say the power is only ministerial, and another thing, that men can only minister it. For men may be the ministers only of that power, which is kingly, and Lordly in itself, and so over men, as this is. So the saints can only minister their kingly power by participatiō of Christ's anointing, as one special grace they have received: of which more hereafter.

Now in laying down the things, wherewith he chargeth me, he alters my words, misinterprets my meaning, and conceals that which I have writ, and he read, in my book, for the explaining of the same.

And first he saith I have taught that the people are as Kings one over another; that I advance them one over another, as Kings, and above their governors intitling thē with Kingly, & Lordly power, (that is government, as he explains himself) in the outward policy of the Church.

I do not in these places, or any other, advance the people one over another, much less over their officers, in the outward policy of the Church, that is (as he explains his meaning) in the government of it. I do everywhere profess the Officers the governors, and the people the governed by them.

Neither do I anywhere affirm, that the people ar Kings, or as kings one over another, as he chargeth me. I say in one place, that the saints are not Kings for themselves alone, but for their brethren also, as they are not Priests only for themselves, but for their brethren. And in another place, that everyone of the faithful is a King, not only to himself, but to every other member, as he is a Priest, and a Prophet &c. Here is a King one for another, and one to another, but not one over another, (much less over the officers) for government, in the external policy of the Church. The plain and simple truth then is; whatsoever men either mistake of ignorance, or suggest of an evil mind, that we do not cal the saints Kings in respec• of outward order, and government, as though they were to order, and govern the Church in her public affairs, which is the work of the Officers: but as they are partakers of Christ's kingly anointing, by his spirit, common to the head, and the members, and so Kings by participation, and endowed with kingly power, for the cōquering and subduing of the power of sin, and Satan, not only in themselves, but in their brethren also, by the sword of the spirit, the word of God, which they are to minister unto them, as all other graces in their order.

And this meaning being held, it may safely be taught that they are over one another, that is, to watch one over another, and so as kings to conquer their spiritual enemies one in another mutually. But I will rather insist v̄pō mine own words, for, or to one another, as being most fit to show that cōmuniō of the saints in this grace, as in the rest; which he also in all equity should have done. And thus I will prove this royal communion of the saints. And for them that make themselves merry herewith, let them suffer me to speak, and when I have spoken, let them mock on.

And first it must be observed that the place and scriptures which M. Johnson notes in our Confession to prove Christ the only King of his Church, prove him as well, (and that truly) to be the only Priest & Prophet of his Church. And if notwithstanding his sole prophecy, and priesthood peculiar to him, as the head, the saints may be Prophets and Priests as members, by cōmunication, they may also be Kings by cōmunication notwithstanding his peculiar imperial power. And so the scriptures testify that he hath made us kings, and priests unto God even his Father, and so our Father.

But it will be answered, that Christ hath made us Kings to resist, subdue, and conquer our spiritual enemies, Sin, Satan, this world, and our worldly lusts, by the sword of the spirit, the word of God, and the work of the spirit, in and by the same. I grant it, and thereupon conclude, that since God's people are also by the same weapons, and means to resist and subdue the power of sin in their brethren, they are also kings in the same respect, unto them.

The saints are Christians: and that for, and in respect one of another, as members under Christ, one of another: and therefore Kings. For to be a Christian for another, is nothing else but by participation of Christ's anointing, to be a Priest, Prophet, and King for another. Ad unto this, that whatsoever grace any member of the body hath received, it is for the use, and edification of the rest, and so in order to be administered by him as a good disposer of the grace of God. And must this royal grace then, which the saints have received, find no time nor place for the dispensation of it, unto others?

When a brother comes to subdue, and make conquest of some spiritual enemy, or sin, appearing in his brother, either privately, or publicly, in his place and order he doth this as a fellow member, and Christian, and so by one of his three states, and endowments, of priest, prophet, or king (for he hath no office, wherein he administereth:) but by neither of the two former, therefore by the latter, and as a king, and so made by Christ.

Lastly, the people are by M. Johnson's own grant, to choose their officers, as also upon just occasion to depose them. And this, as the former, they do not as Priests, or Prophets, and therefore by their kingly indowment from, and under Christ.

And thus much to prove the saints in their communion (as Priests to offer up the prayers one of another, and Prophets to instruct one another, so also) partakers of the kingly dignity of Christ, as his members, for the suppressing, and conquering of sin appearing, one in another, in that order which Christ hath left. And where do I in all this, as is imputed to me, advance the people, as others do the Prelates, and make them Idols? Do I give them power to prescribe and appoint other forms of God's worship, offices of Ministry, canons, ceremonies, or holy days, then Christ hath prescribed, and appointed? to bind the conscience by urging subscription ex animo, to their own inventions, or to loose conscience by dispensations to sin, as of pluralities, non residencies, and the like? or that one man should set up, and pul down ministers and excommunicate, and absolve both ministers, and people by his sole authority? If another man should thus have charged Mr Johnsō when he maintained the same liberty of the brethren (if nor greater) which I now do, though it may be not under the same terms, he would have pronounced it blasphemy in him. B passing by his terms of provocatiō, and reproach, I come to another exception: which is, that I make the order of saints superior unto the order of officers; to wit, in itself, as I there explayne my meaning, and not in respect of government, as he traduceth me. I know that he which guideth, ordereth, and directeth another, is in that his art, and work, superior unto him that is so guided, ordered, and directed. So is the Pilote in guiding the ship, superior, and above all the passengers in it, though the King, and his Council: so is the Physician in ordering the kings body; as is also the meanest guide in leading, and directing him, and his army Royal in unknown places. So are the officers superior to the Church in their art, or work of government▪ which is the opening and applying of the scriptures to the use, and direction of the Church: but as this is done by them, in an order of service, and not of Lordship, so I judge, and call them inferior. And so in my book, I make them equal in their persons, as saints: superior in the word they minister, and in the place of God: not so in their order of servants, wherein they minister, but inferior.

My reasons there brought to prove mine affirmation, because he here meddles not with, I also forbear in this place to confirm; only a few words of one of them, upon which the next, and last exception dependeth. Which is, that the order of Church-officers is inferior to the order of the saints, because their order is an order of service, and servants unto the saints the Church. I know Kings may be said to serve their people, and so to become their servants, but this is only in respect of their love towards them, and care for them; but not in respect of their order, which is a Lordship, and Kingship, by which they reign over their people, as their servants, and subjects. The like may be said of Christ himself, as that he served his disciples, and became as a servant, &c. And for that it must be considered, that as in the things wherein he did thus serve, and become as a servant, he did in his love make himself inferior to his disciples, and preferred thē before himself: as ingiving his life a ransom for many: in being as he that serveth at the table wherat his disciples sate, (in which respect he expressly teacheth thē to be greater thē himself:) and in washing their feet as they sate at supper; so was not his order an ord of service in itself, but of headship, and kingship: which if our Ch:officers could prove their order to be, we would then acknowledge it in deed superior to the order of saints. But their order being merely an order of servants, me thinks common sense should serve to judge the same inferior to the order of the Church, whose servants under Christ they are.

I ad in my book, pag. 225. that, the officers being by their order, servants, the Church may in that relation be called a Lord: not for the governing of them, in the outward policy, and affairs in the church, as he injuriously collects: but as they are for the Churches use, and service; which he conceals: though I expressly so note in the same place; as also that the same Church-servants are Church-governors: the gogovernment of the Church being a mere service. And for the thing If the officers be to be called servants to the Church, what is the Church to be called to the officers? A servant is a relative, and must have a correlative: and I would know by what name he would call it, if not by the name of Lord, Mayster, Mistress, or the like. And if he deny this, he takes away from men the use of common reason, and understanding. Let the servants know, yea though stewards, as are the Church-officers, add so betruisted with the government in a special manner, that the wife of their Lord, and Mayster, is a degree above thē, and so to be acknowledged by them: least they not only wrong her, but provoke him to wrath.

Lastly, because he imputes new doctrine to me, I will note down the doctrine of some few others, both more ancient, and more worthy of respect than myself.

Musculus in his Cōmentaries upon 1. Cor. 3, 22, 23, 24. Let no man glory in men, for all are yours &c. saith thus. Is it not absurd that the greater (to wit the Church) should glory in the less, (to wit the officers) the Lord or master in the servant? And in this sense (saith he further) the perverseness of the false Apostles is noted, who when they were servants of the Church, did make of a Mistress, or dame, a servant, and of servants, Lord's. And again the foolishness of the Church is taxed, who when they were Lords of their Ministers, gloried in their servants.

Bullinger upon the same place, verse. 21. saith thus. So great is the dignity of them that believe, that God hath subjected all things unto thē. It is therefore great folly if the Lord of things subject himself to the things &c.

Pareus professor of Heidelberg in his Cōmentaries, upon the same scripture, reproving the churches glorying in Paul, C̄phas, &c. and quoting 2 Cor. 4.5. we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and ourselves your servants, for Jesus sake, saith thus. It is not meet that the Lord should glory in his servant: we are your servants, Therefore &c.

All these, and many more, call the Church expressly a Lord, in the very same relation with me: and yet I suppose, never man challenged them for making an Idol of it, or setting up a Lordly government: neither would Mr. Johnson me, had he not been immoderately jealous for the officers dignity.

John Robinson.

The 2 Article objected.

We professed heretofore, that Christ gave the power of receiving in & cutting off, to the whole body together of every Christian congregation, & not to any one or more members sequestered from the whole &c. Now we have been taught that in cases of question and controversy, the greater part of the people are the Church; though all the Elders and other brethren be against them, &c. and so have the power to receive in & cut off &c.

I answer, there is no contradiction in these things; we hold still in all points according to the article alleged: neither ever taught we the people only to be the Church sequestered from their officers; but the officers governing, and the people governed, to be the Church which hath the power, to use in holy order. But if these officers fall into heresy or wickedness themselves, or to abett wickedness in others, and will not be reclaimed by any holy means the Church can use, then may they by the Church which chose them, be deposed, as unworthy of their places, yea and excommunicated, and so all other impenitent sinners. and this by the voices of the most of the congregation, if all consent not; as well as members or officers are received in by the voices of the most, if some do dissent: for there is one power for them both. And these our opposites must either manifest, that if one or 2 officers or members do dissent in a controversy, there is a sequestration of them from the whole, and the Church then hath not the power of Christ to receive in and cut off: or else all may see, that this is a colorable accusation of theirs, & no contradiction of ours. For if the consent of all & everyone, be not necessarily to be had, they dissenting through their ignorance, forwardness, or the like: thē the most voices must prevail. But how far their new doctrine (that the Elders are the Church,) is, both from our former professiō and from equity, I have before shown.

The 3 Article.

We wrote heretofore, that the Elders have the reins of government committed to them: now we are taught that the governmēt of the church is not Aristocratical, yea the people as Kings have the power &c.

I answer; we differ not from our former profession, but they deceive the reader, by turning government into power, which we in our public profession heretofore distinguished, and so do still: giving the government of the whole Church, and all the actions of it, unto the officers: the power to the whole body; and so to the officers with the people, as jointly Kings and Priests: of which things we have spoken before. We never held the Church to be a mere Aristocratie, as they speak, intending that the cratos or power should be in the hands of a few: neither shall these men ever prove it. And in the book which they cite, in the very same place (though they dissemble it,) we show the Church (not the Elders only) to have Christspower to judge all within the same; and that the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven are committed to the whole Church, as the Protestants have heretofore testified against the Papists. That these men do but feign contradiction, and would blind the reader, by confounding the Churches power and government, as one.

The 4. article.

We professed heretofore, that no sacraments should be ministered, until the Pastors or Teachers were chosē & ordained into their office: now it is held by some, that seeing all the holy things of God are the churches, & people without officers are a church, therefore they may without officers have the use of the sacraments and all the holy things of God, and consequently may receive in by baptism, confirm by the Lord's supper, cast out by excommunication &c. And in this writing sent unto yow, it may be observed, how they infer that people without officers may cast out, and therefore may receive in, there being one power for both.

I answer; they wrong us, and abuse their readers. 1. There is not to my knowledge (as before I testified) any one man among us, that held or holdeth that people without officers may have the use of the sacraments; but we all continue in the same profession that we made before. 2. It is fraud, and abuse of the reader, and injury to me, when they first speak of receiving in by baptism, and then allege from my letter, that the people without officers may receive in: as if they would bear the world in hand, I therefore hold, they may baptize. Whereas first the scripture showeth that persons uncircūcised (and consequently unbaptised), may pass into the Church-covenant of the Lord, Deut. 29.10.11.12.13. compared with Jos. 5.2.5.

Secondly the children of the faithful, are born members of the Church, and are in the covenant before they are baptized. Thirdly a man excommunicated, may be received into the Church, yet not by baptising of him. And 4. we heretofore in our Confession when we denied the sacraments in a Church without officers, yet professed they had then power to receive in members. Wherein now are we contrary to our former faith? Doo not these things rather show, how they seek to make strife, where none is.

The 5. article

We had learned, that none may usurp or execute a ministry, but such as are rightly called by the Church whereof they stand ministers, unto such offices, and in such manner as God hath prescribed in his word: now it is held by some that people out of office may execute all the works & duties of the ministry, for baptism, Lord's supper, censures &c. And these men in their second exceptiō here write, there is one power for receiving in and casting out, and that people without officers may do both, as is observed before.

I answer; their fraud and wrongful dealing is also observed before; and here to make their syn the more remarkable, they proclaym it the second time. Of ministering the sacraments, and of receiving in and casting out of members, and against usurping or executing a ministry without due calling, we hold as always heretofore: they repete the same things, but to their own further blame; for our professed enemies, do not ordinarily more wrest our words.

The 6. article

6. We learned and used heretofore to apply to our estate and use, the things that the scriptures teach concerning the governors and people in Israel. Now we ar excepted and opposed against, if we do so, with these exceptions and the like, that they had civil authority and government, which the church hath not; that they could not in Israel forgive one an others syn, as we can now: that the people now have more power then in Israel, because now we follow Christ into heaven, whereas the people might not follow the high Priest into the most holy place &c.

I answer; the right applying of our estate to Israel, we always have and still do approve: but these men's wrested proportions, and making the Church in Mat. 18. to be the same with the Jews Synedrion or Sessions of civil Magistrates, we do reprove, and so have doon in our more ancient writings, Refut. of M. Giff. pag. 76. &c. so that no new thing is doon by us.

2. That private men forgave not sins in Israel, so absolutely touching the Church order or polity, as Christians do now, is evident by the Law, which bound the offender not only unto repentance and faith in Christ, as also to confess his syn and satisfy his neighbor offended; but withal to bring a trespass offering to the Priest, (the minister of the Church,) that so the Priest making an atonement for him before the Lord, it should be forgiven him, Levite. 6.2.5.6.7. Now under the Gospel, the Law is, if thy brother trespass against thee rebuke him, and if he repent forgive him: Luk. 17.3. neither is such a man bound to go to a minister that he may pray for, or forgive him; as the Papists by proportion do gather. 3. That the Apostle also showeth a difference of our Church estate from the Jews polity, Heb. 9.7.8.9. &c. & 10.19.20. compared with Gal. 4.1.2.3. &c. is manifest: neither can our opposites deny it; only they cast stonbling blocks in the readers way: saying thus, 1. what if any other would say, that Elders and Kings now should have more power then they had in Israel, because they now follow Christ into Heaven &c. To omit their ill framing of the reason, for their most advantage, I answer, they that would so say, should show their ignorance, or a worse humor, Because Christ's Kingdom is not of this world, neither meddled he with Magistrates power, but left it as it was, authorized of God his Father, and not subordinate to his Mediatorship; as before is shown: and therefore Magistracy hath neither more nor less by him now, then in Israel and former ages. But his Church, and so the Magistrates therein as they are Christians, are advanced to a further degree of grace, then they were in, under the rudiments of the Law, Gal. 4.3.4. &c.

2. The Second block is a marginal note, that yet the people were typically carried in by the high Priest, in the precious stones on his shoulders and breast, as the most holy place itself was a type of Heaven. I answer, this is true, and confirmeth that which I said: for if into the earthly sanctuary the people could not freely enter, in their own persons, at any time, but figuratively, although they had so much as by faith in Christ did save them: then is our estate now, as touching the outward Church order and polity, better then theirs, which are not restrained from any place whither the ministers of the Gospel may them selves enter, but we are the Priests of God and of Christ, and may be bold to enter into the holy place, into the type whereof only the high Priest under the Law might enter sometimes and the people not at all personally. And in every place we may offer incense unto the name of God, and a pure oblation, Mal. 1.11. and are freed frō those legal prohibitions, touch not, taste not, handle not, and other worldly rudiments under which Israel in their child's estate were in bondage, Gal 4.3. Therefore the Apostle, which showeth their estate and ours to be one in substance concerning faith in Christ unto salvation, H•b. 11. showeth also great differences between their condition and ours touching the clear manifestation of God's grace, and the outward polity of the Church; Heb. 9. & 10. & 12. Gal. 4.

Finally these things we never intended or extended to any further rights or liberties of the people now, then we find evidently taught us by the doctrine and practice of the Apostles: that if in anything we miss (as easily we may,) in the application of those legal types, yet the doctrine confirmed by other plain scriptures, remaineth sound and good. And such differences between Israel and us, we also have put, in our more ancient writings: Discover. pag. 40. & 60.

Their last note is in effect one with the first: showing how Christ and the Apostles reasoned well, from the civil state of Israel, which we grant. Yet I hope they will not deny, but it is possible for other men to reason amyss, and to make ill proportions from the common wealth of Israel, as do the Papists, and as before is manifested that these our opposites have doon.

The 7. article

7. We held that the baptism of Rome, was as true baptism, as circūcision in the Apostasy of Israel was true circumcision, and needed not to be renounced and repeated: Now we were taught that the baptism aforesaid is an Idol; and we know all Idols &c, are to be renounced and rejected, Isa. 30.22. and an Idol is nothing in the world, 1. Cor. 8.4. so then such baptism is nothing.

I answer; our former profession and writing hath been, that circumcision in the Apostasy of Israel, could be no true sacrament, no true seal of the covenant of God's favor unto them: also that baptism delivered in the false church is no true seal of God's covenant, or true sacrament. Mr. Johnson himself hath defended this very same, that in that estate of their Apostasy it could not be a true Sacrament, and so for the baptism in Rome; not a true but a false sacrament. So the contrariety must be thus, heretofore we held it to be a false sacrament, but now we were taught it is an Idol. Between these I hope all men of judgment, which know what an Idol meaneth, will think there is no contradiction. But is not this good conveyance, for them to say; as true baptism, as circumcision in the Apostasy of Israel was true circumcision: whereas we professed of that baptism (as also of that circumcision) that it could not be a true sacrament unto them, but a false? Will not the judicious reader see, that they cast a myst before men's eyes, to disgrace the truth which themselves formerly professed? As for the consequences, I have before answered them; and shown how though the Idol be put away, there need no repeting again of the outward washing: and have proved that Antichrist hath turned the Lord's baptism into an Idol, as the Jews did the brazen serpēt, by burning incense to it: and that the most conscionable in our own nation have so professed, and the University of Cambridge printed, that the church of Rome transformeth the sacraments (yea even Christ, and God himself) into Idols. But these our opposites are gone from the truth and from themselves herein, into the tents of our common adversaries, M. Gifford and others, who would have concluded hereupon a new outward washing: but were refuted by Mr Barrow. And Mr Johnson once professed that he thought he should never have seen anymore absurd writing then M. Giffards; though now he reasoneth like him. He also told the Oxford Doctors, that to hold the popish church to be a true church, having a true ministry and true sacraments, or else that they are unbaptised, and must admit of the Anabaptists rebaptisation, are naught else, but gross errors and notorious absurdities. Yet loe how he now presseth us with the same things: and passeth over our reasons rendered heretofore, without answering them as is meet.

Of the conditions of peace, by our Opposites refused, and broken.

Hitherto we have heard the particulars wherein they are gone from their former profession; & again the articles which they have insinuated against us. Now followeth, the peace which notwithstanding the former things, we desired to retain with them.

The first.

1. Before our parting, we offered, that notwithstanding our differences of judgment, we would continue together, if our former practice might be retained: but this was refused.

Their answer hereto is.

Which is, as if they should say, they would have continued with us, if we would have continued in error and evil, so found and acknowledged by us: suffering the ordinance of God, touching the Eldership to be trodden underfoot; the Elders to be despised and abused by the people, and the whole Church to be continually subject to contentions and scandals.

Our reply.

Here first observe, how they cannot deny, but thus we offered them: and yet they would bear the world in hand, we left them for their understanding and exposition of Mat. 18, 17. They might have kept their understanding both of that, and other scriptures, if the Churches practice had not been altered. Secondly, how do their people yet bear themselves & others in hand, that their practice is not changed; but all things continue with them in that respect as before. Either their Elders dissemble with them, or they with others; according to the Philosophers doctrine, that, in such changes, it behooveth men to feign and counterfeit the contrary. Thirdly, the answer is evil & injurious to the truth & people of God: for his ordinance touching the Eldership is not trodden under foot, the Elders despised, &c. by the holy order of the Church judging sinners as the Apostle teacheth, and governed in all actions, by the officers, which was our former practice. These are but contumelies, such as Papists and lovers of Prelacie, have laid upon the saints heretofore: and upon such pretenses have excluded the people from choosing their ministers, for avoiding such tumults and uprores, as the primitive Church (they say) was afflicted with. Fourthly what if some persons have miscarried themselves, as cannot be denied: have not some of the Elders also doon the like? And shall the Church, because of the abuses, tyrannies, heresies which their Elders have in all ages brought in: refuse to have any more Elders? no more may the Elders refuse to have the people to hear and judge causes of public syn with them, because of the disorder and unrulynes of some; whom the people have been as willing to reprove and censure as the Elders themselves. As for the Church subject continually to contentions and scandals &c. it is most true by the Elders means: for (to let pass what we have seen among ourselves,) let all histories be looked, & it will appear the Church hath never more abounded with contentions and scandals, then when all power was in the Ministers hands, and the people excluded. Yea even in the Elders most solemn assemblies and Councils; as Gr. Nazianzen in his time complained, being himself an Elder or Bishop. I am minded (saith he) to shun all assemblies of Bishops, because I never saw a good event in any Council, that did not rather increase then diminish our evils. Their contention & ambitio, passeth my speech.

Secondly, they speak of their offer to bear with us in our difference of judgment, if we would be content to walk peaceably with the Church in that our difference: but this was refused. I answer; they might also (if they had pleased) have shown the reasons of our refusal, which more then once we gave them: as, 1. Because we are willed to observe all things whatsoever Christ commanded his disciples, Math. 28.20. and therefore his ordinances must not be left in practice, and holden in judgment only.

2. Because touching the ministry it is said, a man can receive nothing except it be given him from heaven, John. 3, 27. now to the Ministers it is given to feed guide and govern the Church, but not themselves to be the Church, and to challenge the power of the same in things pertaining to the kingdom of Christ.

3. Because touching the people it is said Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage, Gal. 5.1. but this was a part of the people's Christian liberty, recovered out of Antichristian bondage, viz. to judge sinners that are within, 1. Cor. 5. and to decide public causes with their ministers, Act. 15.23.—28. as parts of the same Church and body, 1. Cor. 12.27.28. therefore to be held fast, not only in judgment but in practice.

4. Because such giving place to the usurpation of the ministers, was the mean of Antichrists beginning and climbing to his preeminence; which had the people resisted at first, and practiced the Gospel in the order set by Christ, he could not so have prevailed. And now also we should look, that Antichrist being expelled, do not again set in his foot.

5. Because if we holding otherwise in judgment, should let the true practice of the Gospel go; posterity after us, being brought into bondage, might justly blame and curse us, that would not stand for the right of the people, in that which we acknowledged to be their due. These things considered, we desired them then, and still do, to show us how we could let go our ancient practice, until our judgment were by the word of God changed.

The 2. thing by us offered.

2. We desired, that then we might have a peaceable parting; and to be two distinct congregations, each practicing as they were persuaded, yet nourishing brotherly love and unity. This also they would not agree to, unless we would leave this city.

Their answer is;

A peaceable parting we grant they desired in word, but in deed stayed not with us, but departed whiles we were considering whither it could lawfully be effected or not. &c.

Our reply.

We desired it in word and deed instantly: alleging the parting of Paul and Barnabas, Act. 15.39. the doctrine of the Apostle, Phil. 3.15.16. the practice of Abram and Lot (though in a civil case) parting to avoid strife, Gen. 13.8.9. the avoiding of public reproach in the world &c. But whatsoever we could say, persuaded them not, but they withstood us. We stayed long, and had we followed their delays, we might have tarried to this day, and have had no other answer at their hands. How long have they been considering about their Teachers ordination, and still it dependeth.

We are not ignorant of their pretenses, to put off the thing they like not, with a consideration. But in deed we had their refusals often, before we parted. Which was much in them that had changed their former profession, and innovated the practice, that they should so refuse. Had we been the men that had made such innovation, and they continued as before: we had surely been excommunicated long ere that time of our departing. Of our business with the Church of Leyden, it fell out after; and is now to be spoken of, in the third place.

The third thing.

3. We procured, though without their consent, the help of the English church at Leyden, who labored our peace: a way of peace by these themselves propounded, and by the Church of Leyden and us agreed to, these after reversed, and stood not unto, unless we would go dwell out of this city. And although in the treaty of the agreement, it was testified by the Elders of that Church, that unless it were to the apparent undoing of us and of our families, we should not be dismissed again to dwell here: yet because we would not absolutely promise to leave this city, they would not stand to the agreement which themselves had made.

Their answers, & our replies.

Here they seek to wind out themselves from blame, by sundry pretexts, and long narrations. I will briefly touch the principal, being sorry to weary the reader with our strifes.

1. First for the thing by them propounded, (of men's going frō the one Church and Pastor to the other) & by us agreed unto; it was not because we desired or liked such a course: but earnestly desiring peace upō any tolerable cōditions, & seeing for the present no unlawful thing in it, we assented; though the thing would have been much to our detriment. For all of us must have made a journey to Leyden and back again, with charge and trouble, it being then midwinter: and such as could have had means of livelihood there, must there have remained; which perhaps would have been the one half of us, and so our congregation had been greatly diminished, which was one main thing that our adverse brethren plotted, as the events did manifest. The Church at Leyden also, as we, must have suffered continually their & our members, to go when they would, into the practice of those errors with our opposite brethrē: a thing which we will carefully take heed of, how ever we yield to the like again.

2. That the officers of the Church of Leyden did at the first cōceive that we all must remain with them: we cannot say. Sure we are, we did not so conceive; but M. Johnson so propounded it, as we all even by his words understood it otherwise, and himself being after pressed, could not deny it.

3. That the thing was agreed of, and the second time by them absolutely concluded, & that three were sent with the message after the brethren of Leyden to signify it, as they write: is true, and past denial.

4. That after they made new motion of another course, is true also; but they omit the public breaking of the former agreement: whē they signifying that forasmuch as they perceived our purpose was to return and live again in this city, they did plainly reverse it.

5. The motion which they made of a double practice, as it was disliked by the Church of Leyden (as they signify:) so we also shown like reason of our dislike, it being both unlawful for us to practice syn as it were with the right hand, and righteousness with the left; & no likelihood of our peace, but of grief and daily dissensions.

6. Touching the motion made by the Church of Leyden, for coming first to the Elders as Church governors &c. and for admonition being carried according to the alteration practiced and agreed upon; whereupon these our opposites now observe against us, for not yielding thereto, how greatly we oppugned the ordinance of God touching the Elders hearing and judging of causes &c. this rightly weighed, will show how greatly we are by them abused. For first, it was such a course as neither the Church at Leyden would bind themselves to walk in, neither did these our opposites, or we, think it to be according to the order of God. Secondly they tell us not, (wherefor we desire them in their next to tell us,) whither themselves would sincerely have practiced these things according to the true intendment of the Church of Leyden that motioned them. Thirdly, for the carriage of admonition spoken of; it was found out, and by M. Johnson himself publicly acknowledged that the controversy between us, was therein closely implied and yielded unto them, when upon despising the admonition of the Elders, the parties were to be excommunicated. This being thus manifested, with what conscience could we yield to practice error privily brought in under hand: and deny to practice the same thing publicly professed? Would not all men, and even they themselves have blamed us for such dissimulation? Fourthly for coming to the Elders first as governors, we did then and do now yield it the brethren's duty, in doubts so to come for counsel & advise: but for to bind all men in most manifest sins which the Church should judge, to come first to the Elders only, and so to lay it on the brethren as for not doing it, they should be excommunicated; and yet both sides acknowledge it is not the order of God: we told them this would be to deal worse then the Pharisees, when none of us walked in that which we professed to be the right way, but leaving that, would stablish our own traditions and cast out men for not observing them. These weighty reasons they overpass, and bear the world in hand how greatly we oppugned God's ordinance touching the Elders: whē we but oppugned the Elders traditiōs, least they should be advanced above the ordinance of God.

Next follow their reasons why they would not stand to their former agreement with us, nor have spiritual fellowship (as they write) with us in such estate & walking. 1. Because they could not find warrant for it in the word of God. I answer, if they acknowledge no warrant found for our peaceable parting here, nor dismissing to another Church: what remained, but either we must yield to their errors, which for the reasons foreshowed we might not; or ells part from them as we did; the causes of the division being in them, both by broaching error, and refusing peace.

2. Their second reason is, because we refused (as they say,) disobeyed and spake evil of the truth and way of God. I answer; first this is to take that for granted, which is the question between us. Secondly if this reason be good, and the truth be with us, (as we doubt not of it:) then they grant us that we had just cause to leave spiritual fellowship with them, which departed from, and spake evil of, and persecuted the truth and way of God, wherein themselves once walked with us. Howbeit, if we would have lived at Leyden, all had been peace: is it more lawful, trow we, to speak evil of, and disobey the truth there, then at Amsterdam?

3. Their third reason is, because we refused to continue communion with them, though we might be suffered to walk in peace with protestation in our difference of judgment. I answer, this having been first offered by us to them, and they refusing it, as before they grant; it cometh upon their own heads, if any weight be in it. Secondly, we have shown sundry reasons from scripture, why we might not so walk: & have never yet heard from them, any like reasons to warrant us, to protest against a sinful practice, and yet to practice it daily. If our own harts and mouths condemn us, God is greater.

4. Their 4. reason is, because some of us professed we would not deal in causes by way of protestation, neither when we were with them nor from them. I answer; first the different mind of some few, is not of weight to break the agreement with us all. Secondly, this might have fallen out also occasionally, if we had lived at Leyden; where they would have had peace with us. So it is our living in this city, that was in deed the only true cause why they stood not to their agreement, the other are but pretenses.

5. Their 5. reason is, because we went not from one Church & Pastor to another, so to live and remain, but purposed when we had joined unto them, presently to return and live here in this town apart from them. I answer; this was in deed that which troubled them; they could not endure us in the same city by thē. Yet they cannot deny but it was promised, we all should live and remain there, unless it were to the apparent undoing of us and our families. And were not these loving brethren, that had rather we and our families should be undoon, then they would want of their wills▪ For what reason (much less necessity) can they show why we must go from one church and pastor to another, and may not continue in the place and state wherein God had called us, with as many officers already among ourselves, as the Church of Leyden had; and one a Teacher of the word. They tell us afterward, that the very naming of going to another Church & Pastor, caryeth weight of reason with it: belike because he is a Pastor that saith it: for word of God show they none, that binds men to go to another Church where there is a Pastor and no Teacher; but forbids them to remain in their own communion and church, where there is a Teacher and no Pastor. Especially when without the apparent undoing of men & their families, they cannot remove their habitation.

6. Their 6. reason is, because by such walking of ours, great reproach would come upon us all, with much dishonour to God &c. I answer, it cannot be avoided but offenses will come, but woe unto them by whō they come. Yet greater reproach (as we always feared) is come by their refusing peace with us, (unless it were upon unlawful & unreasonable conditions,) then would have been by our peaceable parting, which we often and instantly desired.

7. Their last reason is, because they thought there should always be somewhat in such cases used, as whereby the Lord might work upon our consciences, to consider our estate, and to repent and yield to the truth and way of God which we had refused & oppugned. I answer, first this manifesteth their minds to be far from peace with us, whatsoever they pretended; unless we would yield to their innovation and prelacy. Secondly this reason, if it be good, serveth as well for them that should live at Leyden, as at Amsterdam: unless they would permit us there to oppugn the truth and way of God, as they entitle their errors.

Thirdly, this evil being found in themselves, that they do not only refuse & oppugn the truth offered; but forsake, speak evil of, and persecute the truth and way of God which they had long embraced & walked in: the judgment which they give upon us, is most just upon their own heads; by the sentence of our Savior. And we could do no less with these our merciless brethren, that would nourish no peace with us, unless either we made shipwreck of a good conscience, or would consent to the undoing of our estates and families; but leave them as we did, by the Apostles warrant, for causing division and offenses, contrary to the doctrine which we had learned Rom. 16.17. If their new doctrines be good, I shall acknowledge we have greatly sinned: but if they be the high way to Antichristian promotion, and a bereaving of the Church of her right & power, as we are verily persuaded, and do trust we have so proved it; then have they given sentence against themselves, and except they repent, their condemnation shall be just.

Notwithstanding all their former reasons, they after allege, that they reversed not their agreement concerning such as would go and live with the Church at Leyden, but only about such as purposed to return and live here &c. I answer, by this all may judge whither the fear of God, or fleshly policy did more prevail in them. For such of us as would have lived at Leyden, they pretend they could find warrant for it in God's word, but show none: they would let them there, refuse & speak evil of their pretended way of God, without leaving anything to work upon their consciences, &c. and yet have peace with them as Christian brethren. Only at Amsterdam these things might not be suffered. The Pope himself permitteth Jews which never received his religion, to live in the same city with him, where he is Prince: but these our adverse brethren, would not endure that we, (though we never received their innovations,) should live in one city with them, where they were but strangers. What should we have found, if they had been Princes of the State? Secondly, they plainly reversed the agreement, as before was shown, & when some of our brethren desired their testimonial, for to go to Leyden, they refused to give it. And we could not tell before we came thither & tried, whether there would be means found for our living there or no. But strange and unheard of cruelty was in these men, that would bind us there to remain, though we and our families should be undone; & being but strangers themselves in this city with us, would take upon them so imperiously to banish us the town, which the Lord's of the city never offered. I wish they may find more mercy with the Lord at the day of Christ, then they have shown unto us.

And whereas they object, that when we left them, we went not to Leyden, to join ourselves to that Church according to the agreement &c. I answer, there never was such agreement, that of ourselves we should go, but that by them we should be dismissed, and this they refused to do, yea and publicly reversed the covenant that themselves had devised and twice confirmed: besides, that we of our own mind did never desire, but only for peace sake consented to that agreement, as before I shown. Neither was it ever agreed, that such only as would remain there, should go: but it was general for us all. But these their carriages show, what dominion such Elders would exercise over God's heritage; and how impossible it was for us to have peace with them, that would thus turn and wind, say and unsay, agree of a thing today, and break it tomorrow. Our souls were wearied, with their turnings of devises.

Finally for our not remaining with them, til there was an answer of their Letter from Leyden, I answer, we tarried with them a good while after their foresaid letter, whereas we might upon their breaking of their own solemn agreement, added to all their former evils, justly have forsaken them. Neither could the Church of Leyden (as it seemeth) tell what to advise us, and therefore gave no answer to their Letters, or to ours: and because they would have no hand in the breach between us, thought better to be silent; seeing unto what extremity things were brought. And the agreement between the Churches being disannulled, articles of war and discord being proclaimed to us, and written of to them; delays only sought to work our dissipation: we know no word of God, that bindeth us to suffer ourselves to come into such bondage, with men that daily in their public doctrines and prayers, inveighed against the truth they formerly professed, wounded the consciences of the brethren, and sought all occasions to draw men from the right way and practice of the Gospel. What should we do, but shake off the dust of our feet against such authors of errors, and peace breakers? Albeit in these our great troubles and straits, we doubt not but many things through our ignorance and frailty might be doon amys; for which we have, and do always humbly ask mercy of God, that even our secret sins may be forgiven us. And touching the Church of Leyden, whose help they refused to desire, or consent to have desired, though now for their advantage (as they think) they speak of them, and have printed some of the passages between them: I have desired their Elders testimony upon this occasion, that the ages present and to come, may have true information of these matters; which is as followeth.

The testimony of the Elders of the Church at Leyden.

Though we much rather desired to have been mediators of the peace of our brethren, then witnesses of their strife: yet may we not, because that which we desired, could not be effected by us, with draw from that, which both may, and ought by us to be doon. We therefore being desired thereunto by Mr. Ainsworth, and occasioned by that which both Mr Johnson and he have writ, and taking the evils which have befallen others, as matter both of humbling, and warning to ourselves, do signify, what we know, and have found in our dealings thereabout.

And first, Our special calling to intermedle in this uncomfortable business, was a letter sent unto us by some 30. of the brethren there. In which, mentioning in the beginning of it, their long, and grievous controversy, they signified how they had oft desired of the Church to request our help therein, and that the Elders would no way approve thereof: but would only permit our coming, either of ourselves, or at their request. Wherein they also certified us, how some of them had charged the exposition of these words Tell the Church, Mat. 18, 17. Tell the Elders, with some other particulars thereupon depending, to be error: and so were to prove their charge: and therefore earnestly requested us to help in that great business, that the truth might be maintained, and not by their weakness injured, and the innocent condemned: and that we would help the Lord against the mighty &c.

And the reason why they thus earnestly requested our help was, because M. Ainsworth was so sparing in opposing of Mr Johnson's new doctrine (though always misliking it) as they scarce knew how he was minded in the things: so loath was he to come to any professed, and public opposition with him, whom he rather hoped to pacify by moderation, then by opposition to stop in his intended course. Besides he was careful not to give any encouragement to the too violent oppositions of some brethren, though minded as they were, in the things themselves.

This their letter, and earnest request in it notwithstanding, we went not, but wrote to the Church and shown them what the substance of the letter was; desiring by thē to be informed how things stood with them: and signifying withal, our unwillingness to interpose, but upon a dew, and necessary calling; and that also as much as might be, under the conditions of best hope of good issue.

They, as before, denied to approve of our coming, and would only permit it, and that under the terms of jealousy, and advantage, as appears by that which themselves have published: and did oft, and earnestly require of us a cobby of the letter before mentioned, with the names of the persons subscribed unto it. Which though we judged, and still do, an hard, and extreme impositiō in itself, considering they themselves had permitted them to send unto us, and knew from us whereabout they wrote, and had not laid it upon them to show them their letter before they sent it; yet had we given way to their desires herein, had it not been for one phrase in the end of the letter, which being borrowed from Deborahs speech against Sisera, Judge. 5, 23. and applied as it was, might give offense, and minister occasion of further strife, which phrase also we reproved in the writers of the letter, and they acknowledged amiss; professing notwithstanding they had no evil meaning in it, but only a desire to provoke us the more effectually to supply their inability against those with whom they had to deal. Now for our withholding the cobby of the letter (though since that time, for their importunity we sent it them) as also for our purpose of coming unto them, and the ends thereof, we will here insert what we wrote unto them in two several letters thereabout,

For the former thus. If the letter whereof you desire a cobby, might further your common peace, or procure good to any, we should easily answer your desire: but if, on the contrary, there were the least evil in it, we should hold it our duties to deal with the parties offending, ourselves, and not to discover their sin. And loath would we be either to minister matter of further scanning amongst you, or that any register of unkindness should come unto you from our hands. And the fear of this was in truth the only cause, why we refused to send this letter, as they required. Wherein if we failed, (as we see no cause so to think) yet was it the error of our love, and great desire of their peace.

About our coming we thus wrote. Our purpose therefore is, according to the request of the brethren which have moved us, and our duty; to send, or come unto you; not to oppose any person, or to maintain any charge of error, but by all other brotherly means to help forward your holy peace (if so the Lord's will be:) which how precious it is unto us, we hope to manifest to the consciences of all men: then which we know nothing in this world we have more cause to endeavor, both with God, and yourselves. Of which our coming we pray you to accept, and to appoint us some such time, as seems to you most convenient. Wherealso we shall satisfy you to the utmost, both touching the letter, and other particulars in all equity, yea so far as we can without apparent sin.

These things notwithstanding, they would not approve, but only permit of our coming, as men use to permit of that which is evil, and which in deed they could not hinder. And so we came unto them: first of ourselves, and afterwards at the request of M. Ainsworth, and them with him, being sent by the Church, whereof we are: and so inform ourselves upon them for the delivering of the Churches message, did reprove what we judged evil in them, and that we confess with some vehemency. And in that regard it was, that (upon the motion made by Mr. Johnson for the free dismissal of such members with them, unto us, as could not there walk with peace of conscience,, there lying no other cause against them; which should also be mutually performed on our part) we signified (as he writeth) that we little thought they had been so inclinable to peace; & that if we had so thought, we would have carried ourselves otherwise towards them, then we did. And good cause had we so to speak. For neither is the same carriage to be used towards men, prosecuting their purposes and persuasions, with all violence and extremity; and towards them, which manifest Christian moderation in the same: neither had we before, or have we since found the like peaceable inclination in them, to that which they then manifested. Which how great grief it hath been unto us, and how it hath even wounded our very hearts, he only knoweth, which seeth the sorrows of the hearts of his servants, and putteth their tears in his bottel.

But to pass by these things, and to proceed. The motion made by Mr Johnson for a peaceable dismissal, was by the Church there received with general assent; unto which the Church also at Leyden condescended: and so sent back the Officers for the further ratification of it, and for some other purposes tending to the establishing of peace amongst them. Wherupon it was also the second time by thē confirmed: always in deed with submissiō to the word of God, as was meet: and that if either they, or we minded otherwise, we should so signify. Which notwithstanding they did not: but reversed the agreement of themselves, without acquainting us with the change of their mind or reasons thereof.

Afterwards indeed, they gave us knowledge of their purpose, as appears in their former letter by themselves published, desiring the continuance of our consideration about it, as if the thing which was fully agreed upon, as is aforesaid, and that oftener then once had been only in consideration: and in their second letter (as also appeareth) they gave us certain Reasons of their dislike.

Unto which reasons of theirs we gave no answer (as they both write) before their parting. And the causes were. 1. For that they continued not long together after they came to our hands. 2. We had upon occasion of the motion made for a double practice, propounded another course (both more fit, and warrantable, as we thought, then that) for the bringing of things first to the Elders, as appears in our letter. Unto which course though we do not bind our brethren, yet may we safely say (so far as we remember) that there never came complaynt of sin to the Church, since we were officers, but we took knowledge of it before: either by mutual consent on both sides, or at least by the party accused: with whose Christian modesty, and wisdom we think it well sorteth, that being condemned by two, or three brethrē, he should not trouble the Church, or hazard a public rebuke upon himself; without counseling with them who ar set over him, and who either are, or should be best able to advise him.

Thirdly, and which was the chief cause, we were without all hope of doing good, when they once misliked the motion, which made it. Whilest they liked it, we had hope, though it were with hard measure to the other, and so did further it, to the utmost of our power: but when they laid it down, we knew all our labor would be lost in endeavoring their second listing of it.

Lastly where Mr Johnson affirmeth, that at the first treating of the matter, we conceived that those by them dismissed should remain at Leydē with us, notwithstanding their want of means of living, it may well be as he saith, though we well remember it not. And therein all men may see, how we were even overcaryed with a vehement desire of peace with them, and amongst themselves, and how far we were from being partial towards them with whom we agreed in the things in controversy. Yea the truth is, we were boldest with thē, both because we would prevent all jealousy in the other, and preserve in them all the interest we could for the common peace: and also because we were well assured of Mr Ainsworths great moderation, upō whom the rest did much depend.

But howsoever we conceived at the first, it is certain that both they, and we conceived otherwise in the agreement. And therefore when one amongst them made exception, that we should not dismiss thē back, which came unto us, to live a distinct congregation in the same city with them, it was presently answered both by Mr Johnson, and Mr Studley, that that concerned not them, but that they would leave it unto us: though that appeared afterwards to be the only thing for which they broke off their purpose, and promise. And here the work of God's providence is to be observed, that they who would have no peace with their brethren abiding in the same city with them, are about to leave it themselves, and to settle their abode else where. Which thing, that it might well come to pass in short time, they were by us put in mind of before hand, if God gave them not again to reunite, which by a peaceable parting, might hav been furthered. Which how much better had it been they had admitted of, (all things considered) then, thorough extreme streytnes in themselves (not to medle with the main cause) thus to have made their brethren their adversaries, and themselves, yea and us all, a by-word to the whole world?

- John Robinson.

This is the record of our brethren of Leyden, touching our troubles. Whereas our opposites object unto us, that we refused to try if by writing among ourselves, we could have come to better accord &c. I answer, first we had by a twelv months dispute tried if we could have come to accord; but were further off in the end, then at the beginning Secondly things were brought to that pass, that the practice of their errors was established; the truth in public doctrines inveighed against; the opposers of their errors, compared to Korah Dathan and Abiram; the Lord's supper of a long time not administered among us; occasions sought against sundry persons to cast them out of the Church; peace by us offered, by them refused; peace by themselves propounded and confirmed, and by them again broken; open war proclaimed against us, as against men that refused disobeyed and spake evil of the way and truth of God &c. was this an estate for us to continue in together, and go to writing, which would prove we knew not how many months or years work? For loe to a letter of mine of 3. pages, they have given an answer of 70. and if they continue thus to multiply, what volumes shall we have in the end: and when shall we have an end? It is rather to be feared that we suffered things to depend too long: for when the Apostles found Christians liberty to be endangered, and bondage to be brought upon them, though privily, they gave not place by subjection for an howr, that the truth of the Gospel might continue with them, Gal. 2.4.5. Thirdly it was a way which they always mislyked: and in our former troubles, when heretofore M. Smyth and others, having debated their causes in conference, proffered writings: then M. Johnson himself, with the rest, withstood and refused that course. But now, that which they blamed in others, they commend in themselves: so partial are they in all things. When they like of a thing, it must be good: when they dislike, it must be evil. We wish they would show more sincerity. And now, as we desire the Christian reader, not to be offended at the truth, because of our infirmities who cannot walk in it as we ought; nor to stumble for the troubles and dissensions which Satan raiseth among God's people: so we desire these our opposite brethren, to return into the right way, from which they are estrayed, and putting away all love of preeminence, and of their own aberrations, to receive again the love of the truth, and of brotherly concord: that the name of God, be no more evil spoken of by the wicked, and that the harts which ar wounded by these dissensions, may be healed and refreshed. The Lord look upon the afflictions of Zion, wipe away her tears, forgive her iniquities, take away her reproach; restore her joy, and comfort her, according to the days that she hath seen evil. Amen.

AN ARROW AGAINST IDOLATRIE.

CHAPTER I.

Of the Beginning and Nature of Idolatry.

THE old Serpent, called the Devil and Satan, hath frō the beginning sought to draw men from the service of God, to the service of himself: and this he hath done, as by other sins, so chiefly by idolatry, which therefore above all other, is called, and counted, the worship and service of Devils.

2 To bring men hereunto, he hath first labored to separate them from the true Church. For that being the house of the living God; the place where his honor dwelleth; the pillar and ground of truth: it is a mean to conserv men in the true service of God, and preserv them from Idolatry. And from the Church, Satan hath separated men, either by causing thē to be cast out for sin, as Cain was and his seed: or to with-draw and schism themselves for some pretended cause or quarrel; as did the Israelites, and others after them: or to forsake the fellowship of the Saints for love of the world, fear of affliction, or the like; as Nahor and his house accompanied Abram, from Vr, of the Chaldees unto Charran, and no further; but dwelling there, gave himself to idolatry, from which Abram, and all that would go with him, were called.

3 Again, the divill takes a contrary course to draw men to this sin; by commingling and uniting his children and synagogue, with the Church and People of God; whereby even they also may be made flesh, drawn by examples and allurements, to partake with idolatrous worship: as Israel and others, were mixed with the Heathens, and learned their works, and served their idols; which were their ruin.

4 Idolatry is performed, either by mixing men's own inventions with the ordinances of God in the service of him: or by using and applying the rites and services of the Lord, or other human devices; unto the honor and service of some creature, in heaven, earth, or under the earth: which is with neglect and dishonor of the Creator, who is blessed forever, Amen.

5 Again, as the service of God is outward and inward; outward, by observing and doing the external things commanded, of assembling together, bowing down, vocal praying, and preaching, administering and partaking of the sacrifices, sacraments, and other holy things; inward, by fear, faith, hope and love: so is the service of idols or Devils, outward and inward, performed with body or with spirit, or with both; for whatsoever is due unto God, Satan seeketh to defraud him of, and apply unto himself, by idolatry.

6 Idolatry is a Greek word, compounded of Idol, which signifieth any similitude, image, likeness, form, shape or representation, exhibited either to the body or mind; and latrie which signifieth service. Wherupon Idol-latrie, or Service-of-similitudes, is the performance of any religious duty to that which hath a supposed similitude of God, but is not God indeed: or the performance of that unto the true God, which hath a similitude, show and resemblance of his service, but is not so in deed; because he requireth it not at our hands, and therefore is but a will-worship, or voluntary Religion; a thing devised and done, according to our own understanding. And these two sorts of Idolatry, God hath forbidden in the first and second commandments.

7 The first commandment bindeth us to have Jehovah the living and true God, for our God, and none other: and forbiddeth generally these four things. 1 The having of strange gods, and not the true; as had the heathens. 2 The having of strange God's with the true, as had the Samaritans. 3 The having of no God at all, as foolish Atheists. 4 The not having of the true God aright, but in hypocrisy only; not in truth and sincerity. These, with all causes, occasions, provocations, &c. that any way move draw or persuade unto these or any of them; yea, every appearance of them, are to be shunned and abhorred.

8 The second commandment bindeth to the true worship of the true God, which is, only, as himself commandeth, and by the means, rites and services that he ordaineth: and it forbiddeth. 1 All inventions of our own to worship God by; voluntary religion, opinions and doctrines of men. 2 All imitations of Heathens or Antichristians in their God-services, to do the like unto the Lord our God. 3 All imitation or counterfeiting of God's own ordinances and institutions; as to make Temples, like his Temple, Feasts like his Feasts, Altars like his, Ministers like his: which was the sin of Israel. 4 All neglect of God's services, or of the means and instruments by him ordained; all irreligious profaneness or hypocrisy. Together with all communion with such kind of idolatry, all causes, occasions, and provocations thereunto.

9 And that Idols, are not only false resemblances of things which are not; and Idol-latrie, not only the giving of divine honor to a creature, as unto God; (as Antichrists champions do pretend:) but that all religious images, or similitudes, made by man himself, are Idols; and that all religious use and service of them is idolatry, appeareth by the words of the Law. For every man is forbidden to make unto himself, anyform, shape, or resemblance, of things in the heavens, earth or waters, of anysimilitude, show, or likeness; any frame, figure, edifice or structure, of man or beast, fowl or fish, or any creeping thing; any Image, type, or shadowed representation▪ any imagined picture, fabric, or shape; any statue, erected-monument or pillar; finally, anything graven or carved, or molten; drawn-out, painted or poutrahed: So that it is not possible, for the wit or hand of man, to devise or make any image, or representation whatsoever, which cometh not within the compass of the words and things fore-warned of God.

10 The latrie, or service of Idols forbidden, is also as large, under these words, thou shalt not worship them, neither shalt thou serv them. For man being charged to worship the Lord his God, and serv him only; is bound to give him all manner of religious honor, and none at all unto images, or creatures. Worship is any reverend submissiue gesture, as bowing-down, kneeling, prostrating, with all other like lowly & lovely behavior, as kissing, lifting up of the eyes, and all that appertain or lead unto this worship, as observing the time, coming to the place, and other the like. And hereby is meant, not external worship only: but as God is a Spirit, and must be worshipped in spirit; so spiritual worship may be given to no idols: as in heart to love, reverence or regard them; for God will not give his glory to another, nor his praise to graven images.

11 Service, is the practice or observing of any religious ordinance of what sort soever, inward or outward; and hereunto pertaineth, all Ministry, Priesthood, ministration, about Temple, Altar, Sacrifices, &c: all gifts and oblations of things living or dead, as cattle, silver, gold, vessels, instruments, &c. all purifications, cleansings, preparations of things for God's worship; administering of Sacraments, and partaking with them; eating of the sacrifices; building, repairing, fortifying of any holy City, Temple, Altar, or other like, belonging to religion; with all manner work, labor, industry of body or mind, to help forward such things; paying of tithes, offerings, contributions, of what creature soever, for the maintenance of the Ministers, ministration, or worship. Finally, whatsoever tendeth to the furtherance and upholding of any worship or religion, it is comprehended in this word service: that vain is the distinction that Idolaters make between the service latria, and the service dulia; giving this to Saints and Images, the other not; when God by one word Ghnaabad forbiddeth both; and bindeth us to give dulia, as well as latria, unto God only.

12 Many sorts of idolaters have always been in the world, which have defiled themselves with innumerable idols; whose vanity and filthiness, God manifesteth by titles and names giving unto them. For Idols are called Aelilim, that is, things of naught; because they have nothing of that which fools think they have, that is, of the divine power and Godhead, or of true Religion: and so can neither help those that honor them, nor hurt those that abhor them; neither sanctify any creature, nor pollute the same, to him that hath knowledge: in effect they are nothing, they can neither do good nor evil. Wherupon the Apostle saith, an Idol is nothing in the world: and therefore nothing to be esteemed.

13 They are called also Gillulim, as it were filths, dung, or excrements, because they are loathsome and abominable to God, and do defile the consciences of men; proceeding as dung and excrements out of man's corrupt heart, and vain invention: and in other plain terms are named Shikutsim, that is, loathsome things, or detestable, and Toghneboth, that is, abominations.

14 And for the labor and misery that cometh by their means, they be called Ghnatsabim, that is, Sorrows; because with much labor, care and curiosity, they are invented, framed, erected; and yet bring nothing to man, but sorrow and misery. Briefly, as they are in every respect false, vile, vain, and worthless: so carry they the titles of Vanities, lies, unprofitable, false-vanities, leasings; and Aven, that is, vain-iniquity.

15 Though this be the nature and condition of idols with God; yet men love to vanish in their own vanities, robbing him of his honor, and deceiving themselves; ascribing to idols a false conceited holiness, more or less, according to the folly of the institutor, or worshipper. For all true holiness is frō God alone, who as he is most holy, so halloweth he, or sanctifieth his people and his worship, with all the Rites and Ordinances of the same. He by his Word and presence, giveth holiness to persons, to places, to altars, to statues, to sacrifices, to means and instruments of all sorts, wherewith his service is performed: and in the right use of these holy things, God is hallowed and honored of us; which right use he manifesteth in his Word. But Satan, who seeketh the possession of God's throne and glory, giveth or ascribeth to his own ministers temples, altars, images, instruments and ceremonies, a counterfeit holiness, which is in deed most deadly contagious filthiness, as the evil spirit frō whom it proceedeth, is most filthy and impure: and in the use of these execrable things, the Devil is hallowed and honored as a God.

16 And the more to deceive, this serpent maketh man himself his instrument, to frame and set up his religion and service, which bringeth to perdition. For the wisdom and prudence of the natural man, which is very foolishness and enmity unto God, the Devil doth abuse to devise and establish a carnal worship and politick religion; which exceedingly pleaseth the naturals: for highly do they esteem of themselves, and of all their own inventions. And Satan to confirm them, addeth lying signs and wonders, as fire from heaven to consume the sacrifices on the altar erected to his honor, who is Prince of this world, whom worldly men adore. Thus steppeth up Idolatry with her blind devotion; a work of the flesh, and of the Devil.

17 And this sin, so bewitcheth men given over thereunto: as (through God's just judgment,) it shutteth their eyes that they cannot see, their hearts that they cannot understand. They have no knowledge or discretion to argue, that if they cannot give life or sense or motion to a dead image; nor any natural power thereunto, to do good or evil: how much less can they give it spiritual life, or any religious power, virtue or operation? For example: a man maketh images of silver and gold, and buildeth for them a court or palace. One image he setteth on a throne, and calleth it his King: others he nameth Lord's of the Council, Judges and Justices of the Common-wealth. Unto a Judge he cometh and saith; Good my Lord hear the cause of your suppliant, and do me right from the violence of my adversary: another while he supplicateth to the golden King, falling down and saying, deliver me, for thou art my Le•ge. Would not this man be derided of all for his folly, and counted as witless as the image it self that he sueth unto? No less is their madness, that make images of Saints for religious use, building for them Churches and Chapels. One idol they name Christ, another S. Peter; and the rest, as they please to call them. And though they be altogether false representations, (as it the lot of images to be teachers of lies;) so that the picture of Christ, be in deed like Caiaphas, and S. Peters, like Iscariot; resembling no more the true visage of Christ, and of Peter, then K. Henry the S, his picture, is like the image of Julius Caesar; neither is there anymore holiness in these statues, by any relation or reference, then the Devil can give them, (for word of God to sanctify them, there is none:) yet fall the fools down before these their fictions, and say, O Christ help me: S. Peter pray for me. But these stony Saints have eyes and see not, have ears and hear not: like them be they that make them, and whosoever trusteth in them.

18 Nor is there less impiety, in idols of other nature and esteem. For when among men, one is set up as Head of the Church, another as Patriarch, another as Primate, Arch-bishop, Metropolitan, &c. all of them as very good Lord's spiritual; and these without calling and appointment from God: these be idol Shepherds, not true Pastors of the flock; and the indignity and dishonor which they do unto Christ, is more then if disloyal subjects should choose, and set up from among themselves, without public Authority, one to be Lord President, another Lord Chief Justice, and others in their several rooms and offices, for to rule the realm, and to judge all the causes and occurrence of the same.

19 So is it in all other religious ordinances of human invention: as when Antichristians set forth new Sacraments to seal up God's grace and remission of sins; what is it, but as if some falser should make conveyances of crown land, seal them with a signet of his own counterfeit making, and call it by the name of the Kings privy seal. When they make a new form or frame of Churches, as to be Provincial, National, Ecumenical, with Arch-priests and Prelates to over-awe them: mought they not with as good right alter the form of the Common-wealth, making new Ditions and Jurisdictions, with Curions, Decurions, and other new Magistrates to control them? When they make solemn days of assembly, and call them holy; when they make new books, canons, constitutions, ceremonies, and call them Ecclesiastical, sacred, laudable; constraining men to keep and do them: they deal with Christ and his Kingdom, as they that in a civil State should take upon them, without commission, to appoint new Terms, Sessions & Assizes; to forge new Laws, Statutes, Court-rolls, evidences &c, and compel men to credit and obey them. Now therefore ô Kings be wise; be learned ye Judges of the earth, serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling; and purge your Realms of all idolatries, the human ordinances of religion, which are after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For you would none of you suffer such innovation or alteration in your Civil Polities, lest your Honors should be impeached: much less should ye suffer it, in the Politie Ecclesiastic, to provoke God to wrath. For he is a jealous God, and will visit this iniquity on Princes and on Subjects; on fathers and on children: blessed are they that watch, and keep their garments from pollution of the world herein.

CHAP. II.

How fast the sin of Idolatry cleaveth to all flesh.

THE service of idols, or of God by them, although it be a sin more reprehended in God's word, more punished in his works, then other vices: yet is it most common and familiar with the sons of Adam, easily compassing them about, and hanging fast upon them. As may appear by three demonstrations; first, how the best men in the world do easily fall into it; secondly, after, what pleasure they take in it; thirdly, and then, how hardly they are drawn from it. Of all these, the Scriptures give testimonies many.

2 When God had renewed the face of the world, after the sin-flood, and Noah's three sons Sem, Ham, and Japheth had multiplied on the earth: our father Abram, with his father Terah, were foul of this sin, and served strange God's, till the true God called him from that impiety. In his days, idolatry was spread over all, but men would not be reclaimed from it, either by Abraham's word or sword; though Kings were given as dust unto it, and as scattered stubble unto his bow. The Nations in deed saw this great work of God, and were afraid; yet turned they not unto him from Idols, but strengthened one another in their false religion; and made them moe images, to save them from destruction.

3 When Abram would provide a wife for his son, of the best that he could find, (for the Canaanites he abhorred:) he sent to his kindred of Nahors house, who yet was not free from this leaven of idolatry, neither he nor his posterity. Into Jaakobs house did this canker creep, and his retinue also were polluted with strange God's, which Jacob did his best for to do away.

4. But when he came with his family into Egypt, (a land full of Idols;) having prepared his house as a pure virgin for the Lord: after his decease, the Egyptians infected his children with idolatry, even in her youth laid they with this virgin Israel, bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured their whoredoms upon her: Then was God wroth with idolatrous Egypt, and lifted up his hand to bring his people from among them, and to execute judgment, both upon their God's, and upon their first born, that ministered unto them: and unto Israel he said, Defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt, I am the Lord your God: but Israel would not hear, nor leave her abominations; or idols which she had loved. Yet God respecting his own name, brought them out of Egypt into the wilderness, where he gave them his statutes, and declared his judgments unto them; severely and often charging them to keep themselves from idolatry.

5 In those days notwithstanding, they made them God's of gold, and worshipped the work of their own hands, even a molten calf: and stayed not there, but were given over, unto further evil, even to serve the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the Prophets, O house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices, forty years in the wilderness? nay, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, the figures which ye made to worship them. Also they joined themselves to Baal-peor, and did eat the sacrifices of the dead, such was the great fall of the people whom God had chosen from among all people's of the earth, for to be his; they sacrificed to devils after whom they went a whoring, as Moses told them.

6 When notwithstanding all this, God brought them in mercy to Canaan, a land flowing with milk and honey, and most pleasant of all Countries; and cast out the Heathens before their faces, and warned them to beware of their idols: yet there also they did wickedly, served Baalim, and forsook the Lord God of their fathers, and followed the gods of the people's round about them; serving their idols, and sacrificing their sons and their daughters unto devils, and shedding the innocent blood of their children whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan. And thus they did from age to age, whiles the Judges ruled them; till God was wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel, and forsook the habitation of Shilo, the tabernacle where he dwelt among men, and delivered his power (the Ark of the covenant) into captivity, and his beauty into the enemies hand.

7 Yet after this again in Samuel's days, they were defiled with their idols; and in the days of the Kings, they increased wrath. Solomon himself, the wisestman on earth fell into this folly of serving idols, even the abomination of the Heathens; although God had appeared unto him twice, and given him a charge concerning this thing. And Rehoboam his son, though for his fathers sin he lost the most part of his Kingdom, yet gave himself to idolatry, he forsook the Law of the Lord, and all Israel with him. Then Judah wrought wickedness in the sight of the Lord; and provoked him more with their sins which they committed, then all that which their fathers had done; for they built them high Places, and statues (or pillars) and strange altars, and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree. And Rehoboam made Gillullim, filthy idols, and Chammanim idols, or images of the Sun, and Maacah his wife made Miphletseth an idol of terror, in a grove. And Abijam his son, walked in all his fathers sins, neither was his heart perfect with the Lord his God; although he despised Ierobams calves, and boasted that God was with him.

8 Idolatry being thus fastened upon Judah, could hardly ever be weeded out again: for though Asa the next King, did his best, with an upright heart, to abolish all the idols that his fathers had brought in, yet were the high places not taken away, but remained till Jehoshaphat his son was King, who took away many both groves & high places, howbeit not all; for the people had not yet prepared their harts unto the God of their fathers, but offered still, and burnt incense in the high places. And when Jehoshaphat was dead, his wicked son Joram walked in the ways of the most idolatrous Kings of Israel, even of Ahab's house, whose daughter he married; and he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and caused and compelled Jerusalem and Judah to commit fornication, that is, idolatry. And Ahaziah his son, continued his wicked way, counseled also thereto by his ungracious mother Athaliah; who after her sons death, broke up the house of God, and all the things that were dedicated for the house of the Lord, were bestowed upon Baalim. Thus Baal was honored of the people of God, had a house, and altars, and images, and a Priest to minister unto him.

9 The Lord abhorring this great impiety, sent this wicked King and his mother both soon unto hell; and set Joash his young son upon his throne; who had for his Tutor and Patron, the good high Priest Iehojadah: by whose advice, the people destroyed Baal and his house, and God's true worship was restored; albeit not brought as yet to the primitive sincerity, for the people offered still, and burnt incense in the high places untaken away. But so soon as this aged father the Priest was dead; the Princes of Judah fawning on the King, turned him away to the former superstition; and again they left the house of the Lord God of their fathers, and served groves and grievous idols; and the high Priests son, (the Kings cosin) who prophesied against their sins, they stoned him to death (by the unthankful Kings cōmandment,) in the court of the Lord's house, even between the temple and the altar.

10 When Joash was taken away by a bloody death, Amaziah his son succeeded like his father; did uprightly in the eyes of the Lord, but not with a perfect heart; for idolatry still continued in Judah, and the people burnt incense in the high places. And the King himself (to add unto all his fathers sins) brought the God's of the Aedomites, and set them up to be his God's, and worshipped them, and burned incense unto them, which turned to his ruin. But Uzziah his son, sought God and did uprightly, yet according to all that his father Amaziah did; for the high places stood still for offerings and incense, and Iothan his son trode the very same steps. But Achaz son of Jotham marred all again, and made it worse then before; for he walked in the way of the Kings of Israel; yea, and made his son to pass through the fire, after the abominations of the Heathen; and made an altar in the Lord's house like to the idolatrous altar which he saw in Damascus; and brake down the work in the temple of God; and made molten images for Baalim; yea being afflicted for his sins, he trespassed the more against the the Lord, sacrificing to the God's of Damascus which had plagued him; breaking the vessels, and shutting up the doors of the Lord's house, making altars in every corner of Jerusalem, and high places in every city of Judah, to burn incense unto other God's. And thus Jerusalem Aholibah, marred her self with inordinate love, and with her fornications, more then her idolatrous sister Aholah, or Samaria: for Judah forsook the Lord, & turned their faces from his tabernacle, shut the doors of his house, quenched his lamps, and neither burnt incense, nor offered burnt offerings in the sanctuary unto the God of Israel, but sacrificed to Devils, new God's whom they knew not, nor their fathers, and burnt incense to Nehushtan, the serpent of brass.

11 Then God raised them up the good King Hezekiah, who did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that David his father had done. He opened the doors of the house of the Lord, brought in the Priests and Levites; cleansed the Temple, altar, and instruments of God's service; sacrificed unto God for their sins; restored the true worship; sought the conversion of all Israel; caused them to break the images, cut down the groves, break down the high places and altars through all his Dominions; and, brake in pieces the brazen serpent that Moses had made, and Israel polluted. Thus dealt he well and uprightly, and truly, before the Lord his God, even with all his heart, and departed not from him. But when he was laid down in peace, Manasseh his son, repeated all the former evils, and added more unto them, if ought mought be. For he went back, and built the high places which his father had broke down; and set up altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worshipped all the host of heaven, and served them, and built altars to them in the Lord's house; & made strange God's, and caused his sons to pass through the fire; and gave himself to witchcraft, and charming, and sorcery, and used them that had familiar spirits; and shed innocent blood exceeding much, till he filled Jerusalem from corner to corner; and made Judah and Jerusalem to err, to do worse then the heathen whom the Lord had destroyed before them. The children gathered wood, and the fathers kindled the fire, and the women kneaded the dough, to make cakes to the Queen of heaven, and to power out drink offerings unto other God's, that they mought provoke the Lord to anger: they set their abominations in the house whereupon his name was called, to pollute it: they built the hie places of Baal, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Baal and unto Molech. By which abominations they so provoked the Lord, as he forbad his Prophets to pray anymore to do the people good; for they had kindled a fire in his anger, which should burn forever.

12 And although Manasseh rewed all before his death, and repented heartily when he lay fettered in Babel, and being restored to his Kingdom, took away the strange God's, and altars and images that he had made, and restored in Judah God's true religion, save only that the people sacrificed in the high places: yet Amon his son would not be warned by his fathers evils; but turned again from God, made idols, and images, and altars of Baalim, high places, and groves; and sacrificed to all the images which his father had made, and served them, & humbled not himself as his father Manasseh had done: wherefore he was soon rooted out of the land of the living, and laid in dust.

13 Josiah his son abolished all these former idolatries & monuments of them; & did uprightly in the sight of God, as David had done, and trembled at his law & judgments: but the people would not hear the words of the Prophets, calling them from their idolatry, they sought not the Lord, many of them, but worshiped the host of heaven, on the house tops; remaining frozen in their dregs; and shown themselves to be a Nation not worthy to be loved. So when Josiah was dead, Jehoahaz his son, did as evil as all his fathers, for the time which he reigned, which was but 3 months: and Iehojakim his successor dealt as badly; and killed the Prophets which called them to repentance, and burned their writings. And after him Iehojachim proved no better; though in these days death came up into their windows, and God's wrath was in pouring out upon Jerusalem. And Zedekiah the last King, did still evil in the Lord's eyes; neither he nor his servants, nor the people of the land, would obey the words of the Lord; therefore the wrath of the Lord, was against Jerusalem and Judah, until he cast them out of his sight. For it was not the Kings only, that did all these evils, but also their wives, and the Princes of the land, the Priests and the Prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, even the chief of the people trespassed wonderfully, according to all the abominations of the Heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord, which he had sanctified in Jerusalem, and mocked the messengers of God, despised his words, and misused his Prophets, until the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, and till there was no remedy. For that City Jerusalem had been unto him a provocation of his anger, and of his wrath; from the day they built it, even unto the day that he should remove it out of his sight: they had whorish hearts, and their eyes went a whoring after their idols: and with them they committed adultery, till being wexen old in adulteries God said, Now shall she and her fornications come to an end.

14 And as it was with Judah, so was it also with the ten tribes of Israel; who sucked the milk of Idol superstition in the days of Jeroboam son of Nebat, whereunto they were addicted always after, so long as their Common-wealth did stand; even throughout the reign of nineteen Kings, who added unto their forefathers sins, and drew the people to most horrible impieties, for which the land did spew them out, and Heathens came to dwell in their stead. As these are ensamples to us, to the intent that we should not be idolaters like them; & are written to admonish us, upon whom the ends of the world are come: so do they plainly manifest the strength of this bewitching sin of idolatry, which as a harlot stealeth away the heart of man; and the proneness of all flesh, (not of such only as are aliens from the Church, but even of God's own called people,) to fall into this vice, if God restrain them not by his special grace.

15 Now for the pleasure that men take in this sin; it may be conjectured, by the readiness of all sorts of people (as we have seen) to fall thereinto; and by the cause of the same, which is the flesh, (one of the works whereof it is,) and therefore must needs delight the fleshly: and that so much the more as it proceedeth from the chiefest part of the flesh, namely conscience, wisdom, reason, knowledge, judgment, prudence, policy, and whatsoever is most excellent in the natural man. It may also further be shown by examples & similitudes which the Scripture setteth down.

16 The Prophet Isaiah calleth men's idols their delectable things; because of their desire that is towards them, & their pleasure in them. Ezekiel compareth the idolaters of Israel, to a woman inflamed with love towards some goodly young man, on whom she hath cast her eyes, and fixed her affections: and forgetting all modesty, she sendeth messengers for him, and bringeth him to her into the bed of love, so discovering her fornication and disclosing her shame. Teaching us by this similitude, that idolatry is as sweet to the corrupted conscience and mind of man, as lust and fornication, is to any wanton body.

17 The objects also of this vice, are very pleasurefull and alluring: for the doctrines, rites, ceremonies and observances of false religion, with the gifts and learning of the Teachers thereof; are like unto the goodly proportion, comely stature and glorious apparel, which set forth and adorn the persons of men, making them seem like Captains and Princes▪ and pleasant choice-youths, clothed in silks, and all kind of Gentleman-like apparel, whereby the woman's heart, as soon as she sees them, becomes enamored. The external pomp and show that idolatry carrieth with it, in temples and altars, and images of gold, in copes and vestiments, in organs & melody, in peaceable visions, sweet prophesies, and lying divinations; in diligent sacrificing, tithing, thanksgiving, and proclaiming free offerings, with other like devotions: these give content to the worshippers conscience, and please the mind no less then a feast with peace offerings, and after it a sweet perfumed bed, decked with quilts & curtains most fine and costly, & courteous entertainment of a paramour, with fill of love, and pleasure of dalliance all the night, is to a loose and lustful young man, given over to the fleshly and sensual sin of whoredom.

18 Agreeable to these similitudes, are the things foretold of the idolatry of Antichrist, whose false Church is resembled by a whore; the doctrines, superstitions, rites, ceremonies of the same, as the wine of her fornication; making drunk the kings & inhabitants of the earth. And the more to allure them thereunto, her cup (wherein are the abominations, and filthiness of her fornication:) is of gold; her self is arrayed with purple and scarlet, and gilded with gold and precious stones and pearls; counterfeiting hereby the habit & ornaments of the true Church, the Spouse of Christ, whose shining is like to gold and stones most clear and precious; her lips like scarlet, and her love much better than wine. The pleasantness of that false religion, enamouring so many fools, is noted by the abundance of her pleasures, whereby her merchants waxed rich; the luxurious life and fornication of Kings with her, the apples that her soul lusted after, and all things that were fat and excellent; the music and melody that there was heard; and is signified further by the sorrow and lament which all her lovers make for her desolation. Now when the Holy Ghost taketh the most pleasant delightful things in the world, and by them noteth out that counterfeit religion; what would he but teach us and warn us hereby of the sweetness of this deceit, which lulleth men in security; having their wits bewitched with the whors enchanting song; Who so is simple let him come hither; stolen waters are sweet, and hid bread is pleasant.

19. But if the enticing words of others, do so far prevail with men, that they follow straightway, as oxen that go to the slaughter, and as fools to the stocks for correction, till a dart strike through their liver; what may we think is the strength of a man's own heart, when he goeth a whoring with his own inventions; how easily will it prevail against him? Every man naturally pleaseth himself, and liketh well of his own designs; loving the fruit of his wit, as the child of his body: that when he hath conceived mischief, and brought forth (an idol, that is) iniquity; it groweth up with him, and delighteth him, and he rejoiceth in his own invention; persuading himself that now the Lord will be good unto him, seeing he hath found out a truth, or right manner of worshipping God. For this his devise, (specially if it be painted with some color of holy scriptures,) he esteemeth as an image come down from Jupiter, a doctrine from heaven itself. And henceforward, all the blessings that he enjoyeth do flow from this, that he burneth incense to the Queen of heaven, the idol that he hath made according to his own understanding. wherefore he will loose his life, rather than his religion, which he defends with tooth & nail, lest the magnificence of his Diana should be destroyed; he will preach, and dispute, and write for the same, against whomsoever; and persecute (if it be in his power) all that contradict it. And whatsoever is said from the word of the Lord against it, he will not hear; being as hardly induced to think it no truth, which his own wit hath discovered, as were the Ephesians to think them no God's, which were made with hands; for his idol invention hath bereft him of sound judgment, a seduced heart hath deceived him, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say. Is there not a lie in my right hand?

20 So in his blind devotion he continueth, blessing himself in his evil, feigning that he is high in God's favor, and shall have peace, although he walk in the wrest and obstinacy of his own heart; and that because he is guiltless, surely God's wrath shall turn from him: For he followeth no idols, (whatsoever men say,) but he swears, the Lord liveth; and will show by his works, the zeal that he hath for the Lord against idolaters. He bringeth his sacrifices and his tithes, offereth thanksgiving, proclaimeth free offerings; yea willing he is to please the Lord, though it cost him thousands of rams, or ten thousand rivers of oil; and to give his first-born, the fruit of his body, for the sin of his soul: and though he burn incense to Baal, yet will he come and stand before God in the house whereupon his name is called, and say, I am delivered; he will lean upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord with me? No evil can come upon me; neither shall the plague come unto me, neither shall I see sword nor famine.

21 Finally, the Lord, to teach us how fast this sin cleaveth unto us, saith by his Prophet of the idolatry of Judah (his own professant people,) that it was written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a Diamond graven upon the table of their heart; showing that the inmost affections are most deeply and continually infected with this vice, and addicted unto it; from which, no kind persuasion, no earnest dehortation, nor dreadful threatening will turn them. For when Jerusalem had given themselves to this iniquity; the Lord sent unto them all his servants the Prophets, rising up early and sending them, saying; return now every man from his evil way, and amend your works, and go not after other gods to serv them, and ye shall dwell in the land which I have given unto you and to your fathers; oh do not this abominable thing that I hate: but they would not hear, nor incline their ear, to turn from their wickedness, and to burn no more incense unto other God's. And now are we come to the last demonstration, how hardly this sin is left, when once men have tasted the bitter sweetness of the same. Which may be seen by the willful and stiff persisting herein, notwithstanding all judgments threatened, all punishments inflicted therefore. And hereof let Israel be our pattern.

22 After that they had forsaken the Lord, to follow their idols, he (to reclaim them from the iniquity) denounced, and brought upon them many heavy judgments. King Jeroboam son of Nebat, the author of sin to the people, was rebuked by a Prophet, heard the destruction of his religion threatened; felt his own arm miraculously withered and recured▪ saw the altar rent before his eyes: yet could he not perceive the impiety of his trespass. He had again another Prophets reproof, heard the horrible ruin of his house menaced, that his posterity should be swept away as dung, and eaten of dogs and fowls of the aier; and by the death of his son Abijah, was deterred, if it mought have been, from proceeding in his idolatry: but all this prevailed nothing. He lost in one battle that he fought with Judah, five hundred thousand chosen men; and some of his cities: and yet had no heart to return unto the Lord; till he was plagued of God and died. And the yere after, Nadab his son walking in his fathers sin, was murdered, and all Jereboam's house, (none left alive) destroyed, according to the word of the Lord.

23 Baasha, whose hands had executed God's wrath on Jereboam's house, yet had no grace to forsake his sin; no not though he were threatened for it by a Prophet, to have like vengeance brought upon his own posterity; but continued in that Idolatry to his dying day; and Elah his son, in the second year of his reign, felt the reward of his fathers sins, and of his own, was killed by a conspiracy, and all that family rooted out, none left unto Baasha, either of his kinsfolks, or his friends. Neither yet would Zimri, who rooted out Bashaes house be warned himself, but walked still in Jereboam's sin, wherefor reigning but seven days, God hastened wrath upon his head, and he burned himself in his distress.

24 All this notwithstanding the people of Israel, and Kings that succeeded, left not Jereboam's sins, but added moe unto them, and did worse then he. And although wrath was increased upon the Nation, by sword and by famine, that women did eat their own children for hunger, and the Prophets did weep to think of the plagues before they came upon them: yet could they not be persuaded to leave their idolatry. The Lord gave them cleanness of teeth, and scarceness of bread in all their cities, yet turned they not unto him. He withheld rain from them, and made them wander about to seek water to drink; yet turned they not unto the Lord. He smote them with blasting and mel dew, and kanker worms did consume their fruits; yet turned they not unto the Lord. Pestilence he sent among them after the manner of Egypt, and killed their young men with the sword; yet turned they not unto the Lord. He overthrew them, as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and they were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning; yet turned they not unto the Lord. And though the Lord testified unto them by all the Prophets, and by all the Seers, saying; Turn from your evil ways, and keep my commandments: yet would they not hear, but followed vanity, and became vain in their idolatry, till the land did spew them out, as it had spewed out the Heathens that dwelt before them, & they were spoiled by the Assyrians, and carried captives among the Heathens, and Hethens came and dwelt in their stead.

25 In like manner fared it with the Kingdom of Judah; many plagues did they feel for their idol service, and many moe were threatened: yet would they not turn from this iniquity. Presently upon Rehoboams apostasy they were set upon by the King of Egypt, their strong cities taken; the treasures of the Lord's house, and of the Kings, were lost▪ and the men themselves made servants to Shishak.

27 The idolatrous Kings after, augmented sin and wrath, but could not be brought to amendment. Jehoram lost Aedom; had his house and children robbed and carried away by the Philistines and Arabians, and himself after two years sore sickness, had his guts fall out, and so died. Amaziah was taken by the King of Israel, the wall of Jerusalem was broken, and the temple robbed. Achaz was sold into the hands of the Kings of Aram & of Israel; and six score thousand valiant men of Judah were killed in one day; ( because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers,) and two hundred thousand taken prisoners; besides other miseries that came upon the Countrie. But these and other plagues many which God laid upon them, till the whole head was sick, and the whole heart heavy, from the sole of the foot unto the head, there was nothing whole therein, but wounds and swelling and putrefied sores; the land wasted, the cities burnt with fire, and the daughter Zion remained like a cottage in a vineyard: yet the more they were smitten, the more they fell away; all labor was spent in vain upon them, the bellows were burnt, the lead consumed in the fire, the founder melted in vain, they were called reprobate silver, because the Lord had rejected thē. For though he threatened to make Jerusalem a heap, and a den of Dragons, and to make the cities of Judah wast without an inhabitant, and sent unto them saying, Behold I prepare a plague for you, and purpose a thing against you, turn you therefore everyone from his evil way; yet they said desperately, surely we will walk after our own imaginations, and do every man after the speculation of his wicked heart.

27 Moreover, when God had brought upon them the desolation threatened, that Jerusalem was broken up by the Babylonians, the temple burned, the people killed, and the rest carried prisoners into Babel; some poor men only left to till the land; yet that remnant afterward fled into Egypt, both small and great; and there committed idolatry again with the works of their hands, burning incense unto other God's in the land of Egypt, that they might bring destruction unto themselves, and be a curse, and a reproach among all Nations of the earth.

28 Behold in this mirror (whosoever thou art that readest,) the readiness of all flesh to fall away from God; the pleasure that men take in their own vain inventions; and the difficulty to draw them from following after Satan. Behold the madness, and blindness, and astonishment of heart wherewith they are stricken that be given to idolatry; and how this gangrene did spread the whole body over, in the Church of Israel; whose history is left written for example and warning to us, who all are subject to fall into like sin, are liable to like plagues, and of like obstinacy in evil. For though God have scourged Christendom with fire, & smoke, and brimstone, out of the horses mouths and horsemen, conducted by the Angels of destruction: yet the remnant of men not killed by these plagues, have not repented of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold and silver, and of brass, and of stone, and of wood, which neither can see, neither hear, nor go; men have blasphemed the God of heaven, for their pains and for their sores, and repented not of their works. All the world wondreth and followeth the beast, admireth the glory and magnificence of the whore, and without God's special grace, none can keep himself from her, for she sitteth in the high places of the city, calling them that pass by the way; and her lips drop the honey comb liquor, and her mouth is softer then oil; though her end be bitter as wormwood, & sharp as a two-edged sword. She taketh her fair jewels of God's gold and silver, the holy Scripture and treasures therein; and with them she maketh her images and heresies; and covereth them with broidered garments, as wrought by God's own spirit; and setteth his oil and perfume before them. She washeth herself, as if she were clean from all iniquity; and painteth her eyes, as if she had the very visage of true faith; and decketh her with ornaments, as wanting no gifts of knowledge, or utterance, or other furniture of the spirit; and she sitteth upon a costly bed, as being seated and constituted in the best perfection. Her table is furnished with God's incense and oil; for the word, prayers, sacraments, are the diet of devotion wherewith she feedeth her lovers; and a voice of a multitude being at ease, is with her; for many fools follow her, because of her worldly prosperity, she allureth and intertaineth all comers. Thus with her great craft she causeth men to yield, and felleth down many wounded; great is the number of all that are killed by her; for her heart is nets and snares, and her hands bands; he that is good before God shall be delivered from her, but the sinner shall be taken by her.

CHAP. III.

Of Jeroboams Idolatry that infected Israel; and of the pretenses that he mought make for his sin.

THat the allurements of this whore Idolatry, with her deceits and snares, may be further manifested, and people be warned to avoid her destruction: I will yet prosecute this argument against her, to uncover her skirts and disclose her iniquity; hunting her steps, as they are traced in the Scriptures, and left to be seen as a perpetual type in Israel.

2 The common-wealth of Israel did never enjoy such peace and happiness, as in the days of Solomon son of David, who reigned forty years. Him the Lord loved (whereupon he was named Jedidjah;) and chose him from among many sons, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the Lord over Israel, and to build his house and courts, and to be his son, and he would be his father. He gave unto him wisdom and knowledge, and riches and treasures and honor, so as there was no King like him before or after. But Solomon loved many strange women, who withdrew him from the love of God, that he followed the abominations and idolatries of the Hea•hen. Then God was angry, because he had turned his heart from him, who had appeared unto him twice, and given him a charge concerning this thing, that he should not follow other God's, but he kept not that which the Lord had commanded him. Therefore God rent the Kingdom from him, and gave it to his servant Jeroboam son of Nebat, a man of the tribe of Ephraim; with this certification, that if he would hearken to all that God commanded him, and walk in his ways, and do the right in his eyes; he would be with him, and build him a sure house, and give Israel unto him. Now when Solomon was dead, all this came to pass; for Rehoboam his son, lost the most part of his realm, and ten Tribes declined after Jeroboam, and chose him their King.

3 But he (though otherwise a man wise and politick,) wanting heavenly wisdom, relied not in faith on the promise of God, but went and consulted with flesh and blood, how he mought confirm the Kingdom to himself. And thinking in his heart, that if the people should (as they were wont) go up to Jerusalem to worship God there; their hearts would turn from him to Solomon's son, who reigned in that place, and so they would kill him. Being fraught with this fear, and void of faith; he thought to prevent these evils, by setting up a place of God's public worship, in his own dominions. And knowing that the people would not easily be drawn to a new religion, he retained a show still of the old, not altering any article of the faith, nor yet many of the external rites; but as in Jerusalem there was a Temple, and Altar, and other outward signs of God's habitation with his Church; so would Jeroboam in Israel, make Temples, and Altars, and signs of God's presence, that his people mought serv him there. Then made he two calves or oxen of gold, and set one at Bethel, another at Dan, with houses and altars, and other like furniture, and said to the people, It is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem, behold thy God's (ô Israel,) which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

4 The changes and corruptions which he brought into God's worship, were chiefly these. First of the place, which God had chosen to be at Jerusalem: but Jeroboam would have at Dan and Bethel. Secondly, of the signs or testimonies of the divine presence; which at Jerusalem was by God's own ordinance, the ark of the covenant, with the glorious golden Cherubims whereon he •ate, and from which his voice had been heard: but at Bethel and Dan, by Jereboam's device, were bullocks or calves of gold. Thirdly, of the time; for the feast of Tabernacles appointed of God to be kept the 15 day of the seventh month; Jeroboam put off until the 15 day of the eighth month. Fourthly, of the persons administering the holy things; which by God's authority were Aaron's sons, and their brethren the Levites: but by Jereboam's dispensation, were of other parts and lowest of the people. These things being consulted of, and agreed upon by the King and State, the people of Israel yielded unto; and practiced accordingly; showing their prompt obedience and devotion in going, because of the one, even to Dan, a city in the utmost part of all the land. Thus sinned Jereboam, & made Israel to sin; and it turned to sin unto his house, even to root it out and destroy it from the face of the earth.

5 Against this innovation, there were some that presently rose up, refusing to follow the religion of the King; especially the Priests and Levites, (according to the charge they had to teach Jankob God's judgments, and Israel his law,) resisted the superstition, and put the people in mind of their duty; which Jereboam perceiving, put them from their office, and drove them out of his realm. Some also there were of all the Tribes of Israel, that hearkening to the wholesome doctrine of their Ministers, and following their good example, left their own Country; and resorted to Jerusalem, so strengthening the kingdom of Judah. Thus was there a controversy among the people, about these (the Kings) ceremonies; some counting them novelties, and profane superstition; others (and they the many,) esteeming them laudable, and well-fitting their State. But the men of Judah reproached them for this, as having forsaken God, and made them golden calves for God's, and done many like abominations. The Lord also used other means to draw the King and people to repentance, by the admonition of a Prophet, confirmed by miracle; by striking dead Jereboam's arm, and healing it again; and by taking away his beloved son Abijah. These things, though they could not but trouble both King and people, yet could they not prevail to bring them to repentance; for Jereboam had many things to say for himself, and much could he color his new coynd religion, answering the objections that were made against them, by th's, or the like apology.

6 I See my course, (ô men of Israel,) to be much suspected, if not wholly misliked of many▪ some thinking my ceremonies to savor too rankly of Heathen superstition; some charging me plainly with flat apostasy and forsaking of God. But how far off I am from all such impiety (how ever it please men to mistake my meaning, and pervert my actions) I hope to manifest unto all indifferent persons. Chiefly since that I have neither spoken nor done against any article of the ancient faith, nor changed any fundamental ordinance of religion, given us by Moses; but worship with reverence the God of my fathers, and love him (as I am taught) with all my heart, and with all my soul, cleaving unto him alone who is my life, and the length of my days. Other God's of the nations I utterly abhor, with all their impure rites and services; and if any shall now or hereafter decline to such abomination, I trust we shall show the zeal that we have for the Lord our God, against all their impiety. The alteration that I have made, is in matters of circumstance, things merely ceremonial; whereof there is no express, certain or permanent law given us of God; and which are variable, as time, place, and person give occasion; and such as good Kings have changed before me; and have been blameless.

7 And first for the place where God is to be worshipped, which many now would have at Jerusalem only; I find the practice of our Patriarch Abraham, and the fathers following, to be far otherwise. They sacrificed to God, as occasion was offered, in every place they came; in Shechem, and in this Bethel; in the plain of Mamre; and in Beersheba: so this superstition of tying God to one place was not hatched in their days. After this, when our fathers came out of Egypt, they offered sacrifices in the wilderness, and being come into this land, in how sundry places of it have they served God? At Shilo the Tabernacle & Ark was many days, and all Israel sacrificed there. Again at Kirjath-jearim the Ark had abiding twenty years, and there men sought the Lord: and after that, in other places many. But when David was King, he removed the Ark to Jerusalem; and the Tabernacle which Moses had made, he left in a high place at Gibeon: and thus were there two places of public worship at one time; and Solomon sacrificed in them both. And shall we now grow so superstitious, as to bind God to any one place. Nay, this all is the Lord's land, and his eyes are in every part of the same: and it is not so material where we do worship, as whom we worship, and with what affection; for our God is near in all times and places, to all that call upon him in truth.

8 But it will be said, that Jerusalem is the place which God hath chosen; promising unto Solomon to put his name in the Temple there forever, and that his eyes and heart should be there perpetually. I answer, the promise and covenant was conditional, if God's statutes and judgments were observed: for if they should turn away, and serve other God's, God said he would cast out of his sight, that house which he had hallowed for his name; and it should be an astonishment & a hissing to all that pass thereby. And see we not how Solomon forfeited his bond? His wives turned his heart after other God's: he followed Ashteroth, and Milcom, Chemosh, and Molech; and other abominations of the Gentiles, and built them high places: for which his wickedness God was angry, and hath rent his Kingdom from his son, and given it to me. Look to God's place which was in Shilo, where he set his name at the beginning; and see what he did to it for the iniquity of Israel: even so will the Lord do to that house in Jerusalem whereupon his name is called, wherein also they trust. Example see in the rent of the Kingdom▪ for at the same time when promise was made to dwell in that house forever, God promised also to stablish that throne of Solomon's forever: howbeit already the throne is thrown down, and most of the Realm committed to me. As is the one, doubtless so is the other; no sanctity remaineth in the place so polluted with idolatry: the holiness is gone.

9 And now that this Bethel where I build a house to our God, is the place which he hath chosen to dwell therein; we may boldly say; for it is most renowned, the chief and supereminent place in the land. They boast in Jerusalem, how their Temple standeth upon mount Morijah, where Abraham our father offered his son Isaac (a type of the Messiah) for a sacrifice to God: we also can glory, how Jaakob our Patriarch saw in this our place, a ladder that reached from earth to heaven, by which the Angels of God went up and down; a type also doubtless of our Messiah to come; by whom, as by a ladder we shall get up to heaven, whom all the Angels of God shall worship when he cometh, and shall be seen to ascend and descend upon him. Here God appeared to our father Jaakob, promising him the land, and heirs to possess it. He then acknowledged how the Lord was in this reverend place, that it was no other but the house of God, & the very gate of heaven; & thereupon gave it a new name

Bethel, God's house; whereas at first it was called Luz: yea Jaakob vowed that at his safe return, the stone which here he had set up for a pillar, should be God's house. And this his devotion was approved of God, who expressly commanded him to dwell in Bethel, and make him an Altar here; which he performing, God graciously accepted, & appeared again with new promises in this place, whereupon the name was again confirmed to be God's house or Bethel. Thus having so venerable antiquity on our side; can any man doubt but it is more safe to worship here at Bethel, a place sanctified of old, and so long continuing; then at Zion, of late so foully polluted by Solomon's gross idolatry.

10 And me thinks the remembrance of that late impiety, should keep men from doting so on that place; for it is much to be feared Rehoboam will set up ere long his fathers religion, who followed strange God's; seeing he walketh already in his evil way of oppressing the people, and could not be brought to ease them at all of any tax or burden, wherewith his father loded them. As he followeth his father in sinning against the people, so is he like to do in sinning against God. For loe the hie places which Solomon built for Ashteroth and Chemosh and Milcom, the idols of the Heathen, are left standing still, even before Jerusalem, and on the right hand of the mount of corruption, and are like there to continue. Which wherefor is it, but for a snare to the people, that they may fall again to the former sin?

11 I now being King, do hold it my duty to keep all my subjects from such danger of idolatry; and to look that the true God be served in my Kingdom, lest men either grow profane, or turn unto vanities. For to go to Jerusalem it may prove perilous; sure it is overmuch for the people that dwell a far off, and seemeth to me altogether unreasonable. For may and ought not every Prince and people to serve God in their own country? Was there any before me, that mought not do it; and am I more in bondage then all? Besides, who knoweth not the grudge that Rehoboam hath against us, whom of late he would have warred with, if God had not stayed him? Why, he counteth me and my people rebels; and if he can get me within his dominion, he will surely cut off my head, and the heads of many more. And doth God, (who desireth mercy rather then sacrifice) require of men thus for to run upon the swords point, and endanger their lives without cause, and only for a circumstance of place? I am not so weak of judgment, as to think it; neither will I be so unwise as to hearken to these Levites, who kindle the fire of contention among my subjects, and teach that we all must go up to Jerusalem, or else we may offer no sacrifice to God. Beleeve them that list; I have otherwise learned the truth of the Law; and trust we shall so serve the Lord at home, as will please him well enough.

12 For the worship that here we perform unto God, is (for the substance) the same that himself commanded by Moses. We serve the same God that brought us up out of the land of Egypt: and this is the first and the great commandment on which all other do depend; the keeping whereof, hath the promise of reward. We offer the sacrifices of beeves and sheep, we burn incense, pay first fruits and tithes of all we possess; we observe all the ordinances that our fathers have kept since the world began, and God hath confirmed in his written law forever. We hold the main article of our Messiah to come, and of redemption from our sins by him; by which faith our ancestors have pleased God: and unto this he leadeth us in his Law.

In this faith offer we according to the Law, bullocks for atonement and forgiveness of our sins; a shadow unto us of our Messiah, who shall be led as an ox to the slaughter, and purge our iniquity by his own blood. In testimony of this true & catholic faith, I have made these bullocks of gold (similitudes of the greatest sacrifices,) as representations of that our true sacrifice, the promised Savior whom we expect.

13 If here it be said, we do against God, in making these golden figures; because he forbiddeth graven images to be made: the answer is easy, God's meaning is not to forbid all images simply, but only idols that have divine worship done unto them. Such as was that Calf which our fathers made in the wilderness: for they worshipped the molten image itself (not God by the image,) but made them God's of gold, which was against the express words of the Law; yea, they were so gross, as they turned him their glory, into the similitude of a bullock that eateth grass; and forgot God their Savior, which had done great things in Egypt for them. But God forbid, and far be it from us (good people) that we should thus do. We worship not the images of our bullocks here, anymore then we worshipped the images of the Cherubims, and other resemblances, in Solomon's Temple: but we worship God, and him only do we serve, even the God that brought us out of Egypt, not any other.

14 Yet some are so hardly prejudiced against me, as they spare not to say, I have made you these golden calves for God's, and think that I give the honor to them, that is due to the eternal and blessed God himself; because (forsooth) I said, Behold thy God's ô Israel. But were I so minded; I should be indeed more brutish then a calf myself. What, should I deny the Creator of the world; the God of all our fathers; the wonders wrought for us in Egypt, and other places; and turn to these images which are made with men's hands, and think them very God's? Far be such a gross conceit, from every true Israelite. Nay, if I should have attempted any such thing, would you not have stoned me? And as for my speech in calling them God's, who is there so simple that knows it not to be figurative, and very familiar to every man's ears? I am not the first, that thus hath spoken, our fathers before me used often such phrases. When the Angel of God appeared unto Abraham, he called the place Jehovahjireh, that is, The Lord seeth. Jaakob built an Altar, and called the place, The God of Bethel: Moses himself made an Altar in the desert, & named it Jehovah Nissi, that is, The Lord my banner. Yet none of us, I trow, do think that they esteemed these places or altars, to be properly God's. The Ark is called the glory of Israel; the strength of God; the King of glory; and (what can be said more) the holy Lord God. The Lamb is called, the Lord's Passover; and many such like Sacramental speeches, have we and our ancestors been accustomed unto. What if I should call the pascall Lamb, our Messiah; because it is a type of him: or the Manna which our fathers did eat, and water which they drank out of the rock; the body and blood of our Messiah: should I for this be suspected of Idolatry? My enemies mought be ashamed thus to cavil, and calumniate my honest actions, who have made these visible signs, for to serv the true God by; and to be but as testimonies of his presence here.

15 And that this is lawful, the Law it self will show: which intendeth not the prohibition of all images, but the abuse of them as idols; for so it is written, Thou shalt not bow down to them, nor serv them; whereby God explaneth his mind, which is, that we should make no graven images for to worship them; but to worship God by them, where is that forbidden? Nay the contrary is evident; for have we not worshipped God in Jerusalem, and other places, by images; What are the golden winged Cherubims upon the Ark, but images, by which both we and our fathers have honored God. And if any object, that those were made by Moses at God's command; but none else may be made by any other: let him look into Solomon's Temple built but the other day, and there he shall find two new Cherubims of great and high stature, whose wings reach from one end of the holy place to another; and besides these, all the walls of the Temple are full of such figures. Perhaps some will say, it is tolerable to have the shape of Cherubims, as being figures of Angels; but any other forms, especially of beasts is utterly unlawful. Well, however the Law forbiddeth to make the likeness of things in heaven, as of things in earth, and so the Angels may no more be pourtrahed then beasts or birds: yet to take away scruple, I refer you to Solomon's twelve oxen, or bulls of brass, which bear up that molten sea, which standeth at the door of the Temple for the Priests to wash in: also to the Lions, Bulls and Cherubims wrought upon the ten brazen bases of the cauldrons, wherein the work of the burnt offerings is washed and cleansed every day. If Solomon in his Temple might make bulls of brass, is it a sin for me to make such of gold? Tush, these are but the cavils of these Puritan Priests and Levites, that of a stomach and refractory mind will not be conformable to my ceremonies; whom therefore I mean to drive out of my country, that they trouble my people no more.

16 Yet will I do my best, to satisfy them ere they go, in whatsoever they can say against me. To proceed therefore to the time, (another circumstance which they object, for want of more weighty matter;) they think it much that I have prologed the feast of Tabernacles, until the 15 day of the 8 month; because it is appointed by Moses to be kept the 15 day of the 7 month. Herein they still do but strain out a gnat: for so the thing it self be observed, what skilleth it for the change of the month? The feasts were made for men, not men for the feasts; and if we keep them in any meet and commodious time, it pleaseth God well enough: which I will further show by the Law it self. When our fathers came out of Egypt, they kept by God's commandment the Paschal feast upon the 14 day of the first month; and this was enacted to be an ordinance forever. After, it fell out, when a Passover was kept in the wilderness, that certain men defiled by a dead man, could not keep it by reason of their uncleanness, and came unto Moses to know what they should do. He could not tell, till he had asked the Lord. Then God spake and said, If any of you, or your posterity, be unclean, or in a journey, let him keep the Pascha in the 14 day of the second month. Behold here how God explaineth his own law, showing that he respecteth not the month, as though there were any holiness in it; but if the feast were kept, though a month after, (upon just occasion,) it should be acceptable: Forasmuch then as we have so pregnant an example of occasional changing the time, without any sin: me thinks these men are too too precise; that condemn me, who upon just occasion, and advice with others, have deferred this feast, a month longer then ordinary.

17 It may be these men, make question of my authority, and think me not the lawful supreme Governor, under God, of the Church; or that my primacy bears me not out to alter ceremonies or circumstances in religion: but this I can sufficiently clear. For I have my kingly office from God the King of kings; he appointed me hereunto by his Prophet, and chose me by his people. I am not inferior to any Prince that hath been before me. What though I be not born of kingly blood? neither was David. And what though Solomon and Rehoboam his son, were possessed of the crown before me? So was Saul and Ishbosheth his son possessed of it before king David. But God for Saul's sin, gave the kingdom to David his servant, and no man doubteth of his lawful title: so God for Solomon's sin, hath given this kingdom to me his servant; and my title is just. Neither go I beyond my line; I am content with my ten Tribes, let Rehoboam have the rest. Now being your lawful Prince, ô Israel, it lieth me upon to see the Church ordered, as well as the Common-wealth; to make Laws (no contrary to the laws of God,) for the holy and peaceable government of you; to take heed you fall not to Solomon's idolatry, or follow other God's. Things substantial and fundamental; I will in no wise change: circumstances of things, and ceremonies I may freely change, for they are not permanent or perpetual.

18 And herein I can assure myself and others, by example of DAVID the beloved of GOD, commended to me for his holy walking and upright administration. He ordered many things in the service of God, otherwise then he had express warrant for, in the written Law. He removed the Ark, from Kirjathjearim to Jerusalem. He appointed instruments of music, cimbals, and vials, and harps, &c. whereof there is no mention in Moses Law. He distributed the Levites into their orders and offices, making some singers, some porters, some assistants to the Priests: yea, and the sacrifices he set in 24 classes or courses; and where shall we find these things warranted in the Law? If David then our worthy Predecessor, did thus order the Church, and alter the ceremonies, by his regal authority: may not I, which have equal power in my dominions do the like? And Solomon his son, before he fell from the true God to idols, did many things otherwise then is written in Moses; and God did allow them. In his famous Temple he had ten golden candlesticks, and ten tables; whereas God by Moses, ordained of each but one. In stead of one laver that Moses made to wash in, Solomon made ten cauldrons; besides that other vessel, which for the hugeness of it, is called a sea: with many other differences, which who so compareth his works with Moses writings may easily perceive. These Priests of Levi are much to be pitied, that urge so the letter of the Law, which I think they understand not. They say it is written, Ye shall put nothing to the word that I command you, nor take ought therefrom; but they mind not how this intendeth matters of faith, and doctrines fundamental, which I willingly grant may in no wise be corrupted: but ceremonies are variable, and circumstances may be changed upon every just occasion, as before I have proved, and the practice of my godly predecessors doth approve. Accordingly mean I to retain my liberty, and maintain my prerogative royal.

19 It resteth to be scanned how we shall do for Ministers, if the Priests of Levi be put away. And for this I am reproached as violating the Law; whereas necessity constraineth me to take other order. I know that Aaron's sons are appointed by Law to do the Priests office: but the power is in the Church, of whom they had their authority; and might still administer if they were not so scrupulous. It is then their own fault that they are deposed, and be it upon them: for we will serv God as did our fathers, before these Aaronites enjoyed the Priesthood. I find that of old, the Patriarchs Abraham, Isaac and Jaakob, offered sacrifices themselves, even then when Melchizedek the Priest of the most high God lived in the land. I find again how Moses did send young men of the children of Israel to offer burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. How ever therefore for order sake, this work was committed to the sons of Aaron, yet hold I it not to be of necessity to salvation, or of the essence and being of a true sacrifice, that an Aaronite must offer it. But seeing all the Lord's people are holy, yea, a kingdom of Priests, as the Lord calleth them in his Law: they may (no doubt) being duly sanctified and consecrate thereto, offer acceptable sacrifices unto God. And hereof will I have care, that none shall administer but such as are consecrate; but I will not debar any, be he of what Tribe soever, if he be fit otherwise. As for these refractarie Ministers, the Levites, I will revenge me of them, for they are the troublers of the State, the boutefeus that set on fire all the country. For loe, how many people of all the Tribes of Israel, are ready to leave the land, and run to Rehoboam in Jerusalem. These men are the cause of all this stur, and faction: their doctrine impeacheth my supremacy, and disturbeth the peace of the Church. Wherefore as Solomon cast out Abiathar from being Priest unto the Lord, because his hand was with Adonijah: I also by like right, will cast out these Priests of Levi, whose hands are with my enemy Rehoboam. So rest and peace shall be unto myself, and to my people.

20 Yet a few words more of the events that are happened; which in their simplicity many do mistake and abuse against me. The Prophet that came out of Judah to Bethel, and gave there a sign; made some for to think, I had sinned in deed. My self, I confess, was somewhat moved when I felt my arm withered: but seriously weighing things after, as they were, I stayed my thoughts. For first, he came but as any false Prophet, (if God so permit,) may come at all times; I mean, with sign and wonder, but without word of truth, to convince the conscience. He cried against the altar: but shown no law of the Lord to condemn it. He threatened destruction; but who knows when the day shall come; for no time was set down; that men may be held with continual expectation. I find in the Law, that a Prophet may arise, giving a sign or wonder, which shall come to pass: and yet his doctrine may be abominable, and God thereby proveth the hearts of his people. The enchanters of Egypt could also do miracles even like unto Moses: yet were they no Ministers of the Lord. What then though this falser had power to do great things, and thereupon was hired by the King of Judah to come preach against me, and seduce my people; no wise man will rest on counterfeit miracles, but will settle his heart on the Law of God; which that Prophet could not convince me with all (for then I had yielded,) but sought to get credit by abusing that power, which God did permit him to have for my trial. The abuse of God's name cannot go long unpunished, for it is a great sin: neither scaped this Prophet due vengeance for his crime; but as he went homeward, he was slain by a Lyon. Well worthy end, for such as dissemble the message of the most High. How ever therefore some think of this matter, I am not persuaded he was a man of God, that came to so fearful a death.

21 But the death of mine own son Abijah, sate nearer me, and made me look narrowly into mine actions, till I found indeed whereof to resolve. I sent mine own wife to Ahijah the Prophet for counsel about him: but the choleric old man would not suffer her to speak, but breaking out into heat and menaces, gave her an answer before she asked. It is easy to see his partial affection; he leaneth towards Judah, and speaketh with bitterness against me, that never did him hurt. And were it indeed that I had offended; my fault might be shown me in love and meekness: which would better beseeem the Prophets of God, then this their distempered carriage. And what was the cause, why he did so threaten me? even the common calumny that the Jews do give out, for he said, J had made me other God's: but how false this is I have shown before; and it became not his gray head to believe such reports, and condemn me unheard: I have not forsaken the Lord my God, but the thing is mistaken by the blind Prophet, who discerneth no better my actions, then he can do colors. My son is dead and gone, for his day was come: if he were cut off before the time, it was rather for his vice then for his virtue. The Prophet said there was some goodness found in my son, towards the Lord God of Israel; and therefore he must die. But doth the Lord use so to reward them that are good before him? It is said in the Scripture of wicked men, that they shall not live out half their days: yet now this young man's death is brought as an argument to prove he was godly. Ahijah, I perceive, is too old to be a Seer any longer; else could he not have been so much overseen in this his new doctrine. God's law biddeth children to honor their parents, that their days may be long in the land: but this my child had his days shortened; doubtless for disobedience. My other sons consented to that which I did about religion; and they live and prosper: he only would be more precise then his brethren, and his honor is laid in the dust. Thus see I in my house the proverb fulfilled, The fear of the Lord increaseth the days: but the years of the wicked shall be diminished. For which I lament, through fatherly affection, but am nothing moved to leave my religion; nay rather these judgments confirm me therein, for I see how they that speak against it are cut off. Yea, God himself hath been my Protectour, and withheld by his Prophet, my enemies of Judah from fighting against me. On him will I lean, and trust in his name; being fully resolved not to alter my course, but I and my people to continue as we are, until we lie down in peace.

CHAP. IIII.

A Conviction of Jereboam's impiety.

THEse, and the like pretences many, Jeroboam could allege for to justify his cause; wherein was only show, but no weight of truth. Yet such is man's corruption, as he will admit of any color, rather then leave the sin that he affecteth: and being in high transgression of the Law, will bear himself upon the Law, as if it made for him in his iniquity. But as David prayed God, that he would not incline his heart to word of evil, to set himself to pretend pretences (or forge excuses) in wickedness, with men that work iniquity: so need we all continually to ask of God this grace; for as of Adam we have learned to sin, so also for to hide and cloke our sin, and cover our nakedness, though it be but with fig-leaves. That may be seen in Jeroboam here.

2 For he not having faith in God, nor resting on his promise, (who would be with him, and build him a sure house as had built for David, if he did that which was right in his eyes:) gave himself to policy, and followed the wisdom of this world, (which is foolishness with God;) whereby he fell into vanity, altered and innovated the ordinances of religion, to the ruin of his house and of his people.

3 The plea how he retained the grounds of true religion, and varied but in ceremonies; came out of Satan's school, where God's commands are wont to be extenuate. The Lord required of his people, entire obedience to all and every of his ordinances, among which nothing was to be neglected, nothing to be counted light or little: for who so breaketh one of the least of his precepts and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the Kingdom of heaven. The lightest matters in man's account, and circumstances that he presumes to violate; have in God's administration procured heavy doom. As, for the place of public worship, it was enacted, that whosoever brought not his sacrifice to the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, but offered it other where, blood should be imputed to that man, & he should be cut off from among his people▪ yea such oblations were esteemed of God, as offered unto Devils. Likewise for the time; though the Lord dispensed with the unclean and travellers, for keeping the Passover: yet if any were clean and not in journey, and neglected to keep the feast in the 14 of the first month; that person was to be cut off from among his people, because he brought not the offering of the Lord in his due season. And for the persons that should administer before God; if any that was not a Levite, and of Aaron's line, did minister at the altar▪ he was to be slain. Therefore Korah (though a principal Levite) was killed of God, and all that took his part: for presuming to do the Priests office, whereunto he was not called. Such was the severity of God against the sins, that Jeroboam and his followers, have made so light of.

4 Nadab and Abihu the sons of Aaron, being newly entered into the Priests office, (whereto a many particular observances were annexed,) failed but in one point, taking strange or common fire to burn incense, in stead of hallowed fire from the Altar; and behold a fire went out from the Lord, and devoured them. When the Ark of God was in transporting to Jerusalem, upon a cart, and the oxen shaking it, endangered the overthrow thereof: Uzzah a Levite that guided the cart, of a good intent to help the Ark, put forth his hand to hold it; but the wrath of the Lord was kindled against him, and he smote him that he died there, because he laid his hand upon the Ark, which was not lawful for him to do; God having charged the Levites, not to touch the holy things, lest they died. The men of Bethshes'esh, (a city of the Priests) when the Ark of God came home unto them out of the Philistines land, because they looked into the Ark, (which by the Law they mought not do;) the Lord slew of the people of that city, fifty thousand men & three score and ten. So jealous hath God been for the transgression of every rite and circumstance of his Law: that all mought learn to dread him, and have care of his commandments. Here was no place found for those distinctions of mortal sins and venial; fundamental and accidental, and other like quirks which the Serpent and his Seed have invented, to beguile man's heart. The soul that sinneth shall die: and sin is every transgression of the Law; the person that doth any sin with a high hand, blasphemeth the Lord, & must be cut off from among his people; for cursed is every man that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the Law to do them; and all the people must say, Amen.

5 The innovation then which Jeroboam brought in by his Kingly power, what colors soever could be set upon it, was loathsome idolatry. His assembling of Israel unto Dan and Bethel, was a double sin: a departure from God, and a schism from his people. From God they departed, by leaving Zion where he loved to dwell, and which should be his rest forever. There was his face and presence, there was his name; there was his heart and eyes perpetually. There was the holy and most holy sanctuary, with the Ark of God's strength, the Tables of the Testament; the memorials of ancient benefits▪ the tokens of his love and mercy, and mystery of salvation; in the pot of Manna; the rod of Aaron; the book of the Law; the Mercy-seat; the glorious Cherubims, and other like resemblances of heavenly things, not made by wit of man, by direction and pattern from God himself. So the leaving of these, was the leaving of God: wherefore Israel now, is said for to be without the true God. Jereboam's calves, made to worship God by, were teachers of lies: being called God's, as resembling his presence, who was not there; and signifying his favor, which was far away: as hallowing the place, where Satan had his throne; and sanctifying the worshippers, polluted by apostasy. So Ephraim was fed with the wind, and followed after the east wind; for the golden God's which Jeroboam made them, were Devils unto God, and so esteemed of his Saints.

6 The schism from their brethren, was a breach of that brotherhood and unity in faith and love, wherein God had set the twelve Tribes of Israel, to grow up together as branches of one tree, and members of one body; whose abiding together, was both good and pleasant; but the renting asunder, was a withdrawing to perdition, because God's soul had no pleasure in them, that forsook the mutual gathering together of themselves. As in the former, Jeroboam shown his foolishness, not knowing the way into the City of the Lord: so in this later he added to his sin, doing that which the Lord did abhor.

7 The pollution of the Temple, is but a pretence: and the sanctity of Bethel, rather in conceit, then indeed and truth. Solomon's idolatry defiled himself, and all the partakers; but not the Temple, wherein it never came. Or if it had come there, yet might it have been purged, as it was in days following. Or if it had not been purged, yet could no other place be hallowed without the word of God: For who could put his name there, and cause him there to dwell; but himself? It was not Solomon's sin, that gave Jeroboam right to the Kingdom; but the word of the Lord, in the mouth of the Prophet: neither was it the pollution of the Temple, (if defiled,) that could warrant the King to build him another; for God was to appoint both place, and person: and without his word, nothing is lawful in his service. So sanctity in Bethel there was none at all; but it was Bethaven the house of iniquity. The holiness which had been there of old, was only by relation unto God that appeared, and his Word which appointed an altar there; when his presence departed, and commandment ceased; it was as common as any other place. For this, God ordained an Altar of earth to be made unto him, in the wilderness, and all places where he should cause his name to be remembered; that at their departure it might be defaced, not left for superstition.

8 Jereboam's supremacy in the Kingdom of Israel, could not bear him out in altering the ordinances of the service of God. For he was a subject unto God, bound to his fear, and to keep all the words of his Law, as another man. He that bears rule over men, must be just (saith the Scripture,) and rule in the fear of God: his heart may not be lifted up above his brethren, nor he turn from the commandment to the right hand, or to the left. If he were in a straight, and saw himself in danger, he should seek counsel of God▪ and not of his own heart, (as Saul did of a Witch▪) for the heart of man is deceitfull above all things; and it is a double evil, to forsake the Lord, the fountain of living waters, and to dig himself pits that can hold no water. If he would worship God, he should ask of him how: for man is ignorant (if the Lord inform him not) what will please him. He left not to the discretion of Moses or Solomon, (though wise and godly Governors,) any part or implement of the Tabernacle or Temple, or any of the services in them used. To Moses he told on the mountain, the laws and judgments which Israel should observe; he shown him a pattern of the Tabernacle and things therein, giving him this straight charge, look that you make these things, (even all things,) after their fashion that was shown thee in the mount; and according to every point that the Lord had commanded, so provided he the work to be made, disposed of, and ordered, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

9 David, with the other Prophets that assisted him in ordering the Ecclesiastical estate, and providing for the Temple; had their commandments also by the hand of the Lord; and he gave to Solomon his son, (when he charged him to build the Temple) a pattern of the porch and of the houses, closets, galleries and chambers thereof, (and the pattern of all that he had by the spirit) and for the courses of the Priests and Levites, and for all the work for the service of the house of the Lord, and for all the vessels of ministration; the weight also of gold for the candlesticks, tables, and other instruments; all by writing sent unto him, by the hand of the Lord. Thus was there nothing left to their own will or wisdom: both matter and form of all things about God's service, was set down by God himself. Yea and at first, when it was in David's heart to build him a house; he durst not attempt it, without consent of the Prophet: and being forbidden of God, he desisted.

10 But Jeroboam would do things out of his own heart; & that was his sin. He took counsel, but it was of men, not of God, nor of his testimonies, which had been David's counsellors: therefore shame did take Ephraim, and ashamed was Israel of his own counsel. He made house of high places; but spake the Lord any one word unto about this matter? Nay Israel, (as the Prophet saith) forgot their Maker when they built temples: therefore their temples were destroyed. He appointed places for public worship at Bethel and Dan; but did the Lord chose them (as Moses saith) to put his name there, and there to dwell? Nay, they provoked God with their high places, therefore their blood was poured upon them: they went with their sheep and with their bullocks to seek the Lord, but they found him not, he withdrew himself from them. He made altars, but they were unto sin. He made pourtratures of bullocks; but gave God him any pattern or precept, as he gave unto Solomon? Wherefore their bullocks did cast them off; God's anger was kindled against them. He made a feast; but in the month which he had forged of his own heart: therefore God hated and abhorred their feast days, and would not smell in their solemn Assemblies; but turned their feasts into mourning, and all their songs into lamentation. He ordained them Priests; but their rods had never budded, neither had they Vrim and Thummim in their breasts. Himself went up to the Altar to burn incense; but it was with Nadabs fire. He offered sacrifices to the God that brought them up out of Egypt; but God spake not to their fathers, when he brought them out thence concerning burnt offerings or sacrifices: but commanded them this, obey my voice and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people, and walk ye in all the ways which I have commanded you, that it may be well with you. This God, did Jeroboam cast behind his back; therefore evil came upon his house. He pretended ease to the people, that they should not go so far as to Jerusalem; but they went even to Dan, a city remote, in the furthest part of the land. So turned they their backs upon the holy City, where the Tabernacle of God, and his dwelling was; and sought to the possession of the handmaids child, polluted of old by public idolatry therein erected, and long continued: whose Idol, Jeroboam now reneweth, doing evil above all that were before him. Thus Ephraim is become a harlot, Israel is defiled.

11 And although God sent his Prophets with the word of power, to reprove Jereboam's iniquity; yet hardened he his heart as did Pharaoh▪ no threatening dismayed him; no sign or miracle drew him to repentance. But he scorned the Prophets, eluded God's judgments, perverted his actions, and pleased himself in his evil way, because of his outward peace: not minding how oft times the righteous are taken away from the evil to come, when wicked men are kept unto the day of destruction, and shall be brought forth to the day of wrath. Yet could not this King be established by wickedness; his idolatry was his overthrow; for as a harlot it flattered him with words, and drew him to forget the covenant of his God; so went he unto her and returned not again, neither took hold of the ways of life; but dying without instruction, and going astray through his great folly, when the Lord plagued him and he was dead, Nadab his son was soon killed in conspiracy, and after him, all Jereboam's house, the remnant whereof, was swept away as dung, till all was gone; the dogs eating him that died in the city, and the fowls of the air, him that died in the field: for the Lord had said it.

CHAP. V.

Of the Idolatry of these times, far exceeding Jereboam's.

IT is the manner of men to be more equal and indifferent judges of other times than of their own: the sins & sinners that are past and gone, we readily blame; but though the like or worse be in our days, we have not either skill to discern, or courage to condemn them. We can easily say, as did the Pharisees; If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partners with them in the blood of the Prophets: and yet upon every occasion we also are ready to fulfil the measure of our fathers, walking in their sins, resisting, blaspheming, persecuting all that speak against us for so doing. Example hereof see in the Christian Church, after the idolatry and overthrow of Israel: for so far have we been from taking heed by their evils, as we have added unto all their sins; and it was but a little which they then did, in respect of the huge mass of abominations that hath since been heaped up, even unto heaven.

2 And first the frame and constitution of the Church, hath quite been changed from the pattern given of God, confirmed by Christ's blood, and erected by his Apostles in all Nations. For loe the man of sin hath joined together many Parishes into one Diocese, and many Diocecess into a Provincional, and many Provincional into one National; and many national into one Oecumenical or Catholic Church; of which he himself will be the most holy Father, the Bridegroom, Lord, Pastor, Rector, and Rock. Of which Catholic society so combined, we find no record in the holy Apostles Writ, where every Congregation of the Saints, is shown in every City to be complete in it self, a Church and body of Christ, furnished with his power and presence; everyone under the guidance of many Bishops; and not all under the government of one: joined altogether in brotherhood, through faith, love and obedience of the spirit, but not in one visible catholic Church, with a visible Head or Vicar, Lord, Papa, Patriarch or Archpastor; but only Christ himself walking among them, overseeing their ways and works, and approving or reproofing them.

3 This pseudocatholike Church, or false Ecclesiastical Monarchy, is an idol or beast, bred in the bottomless pit, surpassing all the abominations that ever stood up in the land of the living: and had for the parent of it, the Dragon or Devil, that old Serpent, who used his most utmost skil, cunning & craft, to beget and bring forth this his foulest child. It had also of the gravest and learnedst Divines in their ages, to nurse it with the milk of human superstition; and the Princes of the earth to endow and adorn it, with the riches and jewels of all worldly glory: that when this Jezebel shown her self on the stage of the world; she made all men astonied at her majesty, enamored the Nations with her beauty, bewitched them with her sorceries, and made them drunken with the wine of her fornications. The forest of Rome was the high place, where this Miphletseth, or idol of horror, should have her seat; for there grew many fair trees, whose shadow was good to burn incense under: and there before time had other beasts been hatched and honored, whose image in this place must have reverence still.

4 And here the mystery of iniquity wrought contrary to Jereboam's, prevailed more, and continued longer: For he in policy to settle his Kingdom, schismed or rent the Church in twain, which God had conjoined in one: but Abaddon, the king and patron of this our idol, will have his false Church resemble the polity of Israel in monarchical unity, to allure and gather all people hereunto. But as Jereboam's counsel was devilish to divide without God: so is Rome's doctrine Satanean, to conjoin without Christ. The Church then was confined within one little land, whose assembly was annual in the earthly Jerusalem, where the high Priest remained to reconcile them to God: but now the Church Catholic is disspread over all, Jerusalem our mother is above, and Christ our high Priest is in the very heaven, there interceding for us unto God. And for any one City to be as Jerusalem, the place of resort for all Saints on earth: or for any Arch-priest, or Vicar of Christ, to be his vicegerent, and rule in his stead: he never appointed, neither entered it into his heart; but it is the excrements of the Popes wit, whereby in policy he would maintain the pomp and magnificence of his Diana; and in her, his own pontificality.

5 And that this Lady might be made of perfect beauty, her friends have devised to paint her face with this vermilion, that the goddess, theCHARCH absolutely cannot err, either in things absolutely necessary, or in other things which she proposeth to be believed or done of us, whether they be found expressly in Scriptures, or not. Hereupon she trusting in her own beauty, takes a pride and power, to make Laws Ecclesiastical, to bind and constrain men's consciences; charging and obliging us, to believe and trust her in all things. So this Idol of indignation, (being crept into God's throne, to be Judge and Law-giver;) surmounteth far Jereboam's dumb calves, which had mouths and spake not: for this image can speak, because she hath a spirit; and exacteth worship of the inhabitants of the earth, that all should adore her, as mother, and mistress of all the Churches; receive, believe and obey her word, constitutions, canons, commandments, doctrines and decrees, without contradiction; because the truth of the faith as touching us, relieth upon the Churches authority, and whatsoever the Church alloweth is true, whatsoever she disalloweth, is false: and her word, is not altogether man's word, that is to say subject to error, but after a sort the word of God. Out of this smoky furnace, have come the many heresies and whoorish doctrines of Free will, merit of works, limbus, purgatory, pardons, indulgences, vows, prayer to and for the dead, penance, pilgrimages, auricular confession, and extreme unction, with sundry other like; which by this Churches supreme authority, have been concluded Catholic, Orthodox and Authentical. Who seeth not now that Jereboam's Church, was but a Babe to this Beldam; for she had no such sovereignty over men's souls, taught no such doctrines, neither made she any decrees till Omri was King (whose praise in the Scripture is this, that he did worse then all that were before him;) and he indeed made statutes which were observed in Israel; though nothing so many or so imperious as the mistress of Rome hath made.

6 This Queen being thus set aloft on the high places of the earth, is far taller then the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar set up in the plain of Dura; for her hand and scepter reacheth up unto heaven, where she ruleth among the canonized Saints; and the very tail of her beast whereon she rideth, can draw down the stars unto the earth. This is the woman whom John saw in the wilderness, arrayed in purple and scarlet, and gilded with gold and precious stones and pearls, with a golden cup in her hand, full of the filthiness of her fornication; even the great city (Rome) then reigning over the Kings of the earth. From this common mother, (as her children do entitle her,) came all the bastard idols into the Christian world: for she being a whore, sitting upon many waters, that is, people's, multitudes, nations and tongues; she was set on fire with her lovers the neighbor nations; that came to her into the bed of love, and defiled her with their fornication; (for they went in unto her as they go to a common harlot;) and she learned their works, and served their idols, which will be her ruin.

7 Of the Jews she hath received one high Priest, (not Jesus Christ the true High Priest entered into the heavens, but a supposed vicar of his, having two horns like the Lamb;) to be the chief Governor and Monarch Ecclesiastical: and he entereth once a year into the most holy of the Popish Church, as the other did into the most holy of the Jewish Tabernacle. From the glorious attire of Aaron and his sons, as Ephod, Robes, Girdles, &c. she hath learned to deck her Priests with cops, surplices, stoles, girdles, amices, all's, and other like ornaments. She imitateth their Ark, which had the Tables of the covenant; with her ark or tabernacle the Pix, which hath the Sacrament of the Eucharist: their candlestick and seven burning lamps; with her candles, torches, tapers: their sprinkling water of purification; with her holy water: and in many other particulars, of Temple, Altar, Oil, Laver, Fire, &c. she followeth her footsteps, and Iudaizeth more then did the false Teachers in the Apostles days. Which things in Israel had their holy use and end, until Christ came in the flesh: but since are dead and abolished, as beggarly worldly rudiments; though this whore-mother of Rome reviveth them by her Art, and for her fleshly pleasure; whiles herself and her friends go a whoring after these Jewish ceremonies.

8 But she had not her fill, by defiling her self with Jews: therefore she sought to take her pleasure of the Gentiles round about her, far and near; and decked her bed with all their abominations. And first she fell in love with Egypt; where Israel of old committed fornication▪ and had the breasts of her virginity bruised. For whereas the Egyptians commingled the Kingdom and Priesthood; the Civil Magistracy, and the Ecclesiastical Ministry in one person; and would have all their Kings to be also Priests, as Writers do record: with this goodly invention, the whore of Rome is enamored, and joineth, or confoundeth the Magistracy and Ministry, Princedom and Priesthood, in the persons of her Popes, Cardinals, Bishops and other Church Princes. And although God in the Law distinguished the office of the King and Priest, constituting one in the Tribe of Judah, the other in Levi; so as one mought not intermeddle with that which belonged to another: and Christ in the Gospel hath plainly forbidden his Ministers to have the authority or titles of pol•tick Princes▪ yet pleadeth this Babylonish Queen, that it is not against God's word for one man to be a Prince Ecclesiastical and Political together; and so she and her daughters practice to this day. In which point, she is more abominable and polluted now professing Christianity, then she was of old when she professed Paganism; for the hethen Priests or Flamins in Rome, were not permitted to have any Migistracie; because (as the Philosopher by light of reason reasoneth,) it could not be, (the actions of these offices being so divers and different,) that one man should perform both at one time; but needs it must fall out, when both duties were to be done together, that one should be omitted; and so sometimes God not to be duly served, sometimes the Civil state should suffer damage.

9 Again this Romish Babylon doreth on the ordinances of Babel in Chaldea▪ for as there they had images of silver and gold, wood and stone, to which they bowed and worshipped; and which were representations of the God's and Saints whom they adored, to weet of Bel (which was Jupiter,) and Nebo, and Succothben•th, and other the like: even so hath idolatrous Rome ordained to have in her temples, images of Christ, of the virgin Mary, and of other Saints, which idols must have their due honor and worship, because the honor which is given to them, is referred to the prototypes whom they do represent. And these abominations she kisseth, as idolaters of old, were wont to kiss the calves; lighteth Tapers before them, as the Babylonians did candles before their images; censeth them, as the Heathen Romans were wont to do their statues; kneeleth, falleth down, and prayeth before them, saying Our Father, &c. as idolaters of old, said to a tree thou art my father, and to a stone, thou hast begotten me. Teaching her children further, that these images are to be worshipped, not only by accident or improperly, but also by themselves and properly; so as they do terminate or end the worship, as they are considered in themselves, and not only as they bear the part of the examplar or person represented: yea saying of an image, This is Christ; as paynims said of theirs, Thou art my God. But woe unto them (from the Lord) that say to the wood awake; to the dumb stone, rise up. Herein this Catholic Church exceedeth the devotion of Jeroboam son of N•bat, who worshipped by the Calves, •he God which had brought them out of Egypt, and not any other Saints, much less the images themselves. Yea in this kind, she passeth sundry of the Heathens, and her own Predecessors; for Licurgus the Lawgiver of Lacedemonia, and institutor of many ceremonies; ordained no images in his Religion; but forbad the forms of men, or other living creatures to be given to the God's. Apollonius a Philosopher, found fault with the foolish and absurd images in many places, and thought it more honorable if the God's had no images at all. The Persians had no images, for they thought it a madness to worship God by such. The Germans in their paynisme held it unlawful to paint their God's on walls: or express them in any human shape. And Numa, the King of the antique Romans forbad them to think that the image of God, had the shape of a man, or form of other living creature. Yet Rome that now is, alloweth the image of God the Father, in form of an old man; and of the Holy Ghost in form of a dove. Though the holy Prophet inveighing against this vanity, demandeth, To whom will ye liken God, or what similitude will ye set up unto him? And though the learned Heathen by light of nature, approved the practice of ancient Rome worshipping the God's without any images almost two hundred years; and blamed those that first brought in images, as authors of error, and causes of impiety: yet such is the love of this whorish Church to these teachers of lies, the counterfeits of God; as she adoreth thē, or the divill in them, to fulfill that which is written of her, that men would not repent of the works of their hands, and of the worship of devils, and idols of gold and of silver, and of brass and of stone, and of wood, which neither can see, neither hear nor go.

10 In another point also, hath our Babylon's zeal, surpassed Jeroboams, to weet, in her Clergy, and multitude of Church officers. For Jeroboam had none but simple Priests, to say and do the Divine service in his high places: But our Jezebel hath founded Priests and Arch-priests, Lord Bishops and Arch-bishops, Deans and Arch-deacons, Suffragans, Cardinals▪ Patriarch▪, and Popes; Abbots, Friars, Monks, Seminaries, Jesuits, and a number moe Chemarims, her Ecclesiastical senate, to guard her throne, to fight her battles, to retail her wares, and to satisfy by them her superstitious lust, which hath been even insatiable, as was the whores of Israel. And Priapus the Pope is bridegroom of this spouse, and hath preeminence over all, to pour out his fornications upon her, by his doctrines, canons, rites, ceremonies, decrees and decretals: for he is head of this Church, and Prince of the Priests, Father and Doctor of all Christians, and Bishop universal: who when he teacheth the whole Church in things pertaining to faith, cannot err by any hap or chance; and not only in matters of faith, but in precepts of manners also, prescribed to the whole Church, he cannot err: and his wife the catholic church hath always believed, that he is a true Ecclesiastical Prince in the whole Church, who can of his own authority, without consent of the people or counsel of the Priests, make laws which bind the conscience, can judge in causes ecclesiastical, as other judges do, and punish also the disobedient. And his lawyers have born men in hand, that this Pope may dispense against the Law of God, and against the law of nature; even with the Precepts of the old and New Testament; (Summ. Angel. in dict. Pap.) that his bare will must be holden for a law; and whatsoever he doth, no man may say to him, why do you this? And whosoever obeyeth not his precepts, incurreth the sin of idolatry. Finally, to lift up their blasphemy to the highest, they honor him with this title, our Lord God the Pope. And although this Romish Synagogue hath received some of her jolly Church Prelates, with their exorbitant power, by imitation of her Heathenish Predecessors Romulus and Numa Pompilius, who made Flamins, Arch-flamins, and a Pontifex

Maximus to sacrifice unto the God's; and some of their ceremonies from other Infidels, as the shaving of Priests crowns, like the Priests of Isis & Scrapis in Egypt: yet neither, antique Rome, nor Egypt, nor Babylon, nor any nation in the world, ever founded such a pompous Hierarchy, such store and variety of Divines, Friers, Priests, Prelates, and religious persons, as this latter Babylon; whose clergy flieth about like a cloud of Locusts, to molest the world; and came out from the deep of the bottomless pit.

11 As be her deep Divines, so is her divine service, above all that ever superstition hatched in any age. For as it is in Babels language, an unknown tongue, so is it an idol wholly made (as the Scripture speaketh) according to her own understanding, and is all the work of the craftsmen, the Prelates and Popes, the lovers of this whore, who have patched together in their several ages, the limms of this deformed monster, the Mass and Canon thereof, (a sacrifice for the sins of the quick and the dead,) with the Letanie and Collects, Anthems and Responds, hymns and songs; some of the canonical Scriptures, and some of apocryphall writings of men; and in this Liturgy God and his Angels, and Apostles, and Martyrs, and Confessors, and he Saints, and she Saints, (and some that had Satan's sanctity,) are wrapped up together in a longsome stage-like worship, with organs and music to make them all merry; as Nebuchadnezzar with melody celebrated the dedication of his golden image. Which portesse and Missal, these artizens have framed, not by example of God in the Law, who prescribed no such leitourgie by Moses or the Prophets; nor of Christ in the Gospel; nor of Jeroboam and Israel of old, for they forged no such idol; nor of the Turks at this day, who have no such written worship; nor of the Heathens of old, that I ever heard of: but it is their own device and forgery, provoking God most high to jealousy and wrath.

12 But above all these sins, and beyond all wickedness that ever was invented in any age; this catholic mother (woe woe unto her saith the Lord God) hath made her a God, not of gold and silver, but of a wafer cake, by a charm of five Latin words: and this transubstantiated idol, she falleth down before, and adoreth as her Maker▪ anathematizing and cursing all that shall deny this idol of indignation to be adored with the highest degree of worship, which is proper to God himself; for it is her God, as she singeth in her Roman missal,

Plagas sicut Thomas non intueor:

Deum tamen meum te confiteor.

Wounds as Thomas did, I do not see:

Yet do I confess thee my God to be.

And this breaden God, her children eat, even flesh, blood and bones, (more vile then Cannibals,) and devour their maker, (even their Lord and their God,) in their own carnal conceit; vanishing in their vanity more then the Hethens, who thought none was so witless as to believe, that that which he eateth is a God.

13 And further to manifest her madness unto all men, this insatiable whore doteth on and adoreth the Devils own engin, the Cross or Gibbet whereby he killed Christ the Savior of the world. For the curse of the Law, was to be done away by a cursed death upon a tree, on which, who so was hanged, the curse of God was upon him. This death the innocent Lamb CHRIST JESUS suffered for our sakes at the hands of wicked sinners, Pilate and the Jews, the children of the divill; who used all exquisite tormēt to make his death miserable, crowning him with thorns, piercing his hands, feet and side▪ with nails and spear, and hanging him on a tree, to do him die. And this tree, these thorns, nails, yea other counterfeits of them, are for killing of Christ, honored of these Babylonians, with as good a ground and devotion, as the Ophites, or Serpentaries, are said to honor the Serpent, the devils instrument for to bring man to the knowledge of good and evil. And that all the world mought take notice that Rome is the city where our Lord was crucified, the Romanists do proclaim, that the cross was the Altar, whereon the great sacrifice Christ was offered: whereas the Scripture teacheth that the bodies of those beasts whose blood was brought to make reconciliation in the holy place, were burnt without the host of Israel; (and not on the Altar, which stood "before the door of the Tabernacle;) according to which figure, Jesus also (that he mought sanctify the people with his own blood,) suffered without the gate of Jerusalem, which was a reproach. Yet will these God-eaters, and crucifiers of our Lord, make the cursed cross to be the altar most holy, and so greater then Christ the sacrifice, as being that which sanctified him, for the Altar sanctified the offering. And hereupon they call the cross blessed, and ascribe unto it worthiness to bear the talent of the world; they account it among the most precious relics, and not only the whole, but every piece thereof; they adore it, salute it, pray unto it, and trust therein for salvation, crying; Haylō cross our only hope, increase thou to the godly righteousness, and unto sinners give pardon; Save thou the company, gathered together in thy praises. Yea, the very sign of this idol made in the aier, upon the forehead, or over any other thing, is sacred and venerable, hath force to drive away Devils, and do many like feats. Wherefore this abomination hath prevailed above other, and is like Beelzebub Prince of the Devils, the badge of the beast and character of Antichrist, imprinted in Churches, Chapels, Altars, houses and high-ways; in books and writings, in word, prayers, sacraments, in garments, bodies and souls of men, both quick and dead, and other creatures: nothing is well hallowed without it, no Sacrament perfect without it. This great honor hath the cross, because the Devil killed our Savior by it: so that marvel it is, how Judas lips scaped honor, seeing he also was Satan's instrument to betray Christ with a kiss. Wherefore this spiritual Egypt, the pseudocatholick church, deserveth more to be branded by some Satirist, for worshipping monsters, then the first Egypt, whose less impiety a heathen Poet did deride.

14 Moreover, to fill up her cup with abominations, this Witch hath learned of the old idolaters to worship the Queen of heaven. For by her power fetched out of the bottomless pit, she deifieth, or rather defileth the blessed Virgin Mary, with unsufferable blasphemies; intitling her Lady, Queen and Goddess; hayling her for Queen of heaven, Lady of Angels, mother of grace and mercy; life, sweetness, hope, and what not: and together with her, she invocateth the Angels, Apostles, Martyrs, Confessors, Popes, Bishops, Virgins, &c. and prayeth God, that by the merits and prayers of her Popes, she may be delivered from the fire of hell.

15 And as the Heathens had their God's and Goddesses of divers ranks, supreme, inferior, and middle ones called Daemones, by whom as by mediators and intercessors, they thought men's desires and merits did come unto God: so hath this synagogue of Satan Div's and Divas, Saints of all sorts, whom she hath canonized, to be called upon in her public prayers; to have temples, altars, feast days, dedicated and kept unto their memory, and many other honors; acknowledging them to be mediators between God and men; and hath dealt with these Divi, as the ethnicks did with their Dij and Daemones. For as each country and city among them had their special God's or Goddesses to protect them; as for Ephesus, Diana; for Athens, Minerva; for Paphos, Venus; for Delphos, Apollo; for Rome, Remus and Romulus; for Babel, Bel; for Egypt, Isis and Osyris; and the rest in like manner: so the mother of Rome, instead of tutelar gods, hath got her self Peter & Paul, hath procured & appointed S. George for England, S. Andrew for Scotland, S. Patrik for Ireland, S. Denys for France, S. James for Spain, S. Martin for Germany, (instead of Mars their antiqu patron;) the three Kings for Colen; & so for others. Moreover she hath Iodicus & Vrbanus for corn & wine, as the Heathens had Ceres & Bacchus. Her Mariners now have S. Nicol. & S. Christop. to be their Pilots, as the ancient Pagans had Castor and Pullux. Her Scholars now have S. Gregory and S. Katherine to sharpen their wits, as Poets of old, had Apollo and Minerva. Physicians and Chirurgicalians now are aided by Cosmas & Damian, as of old by Aesculapius. S. Wendlin wardeth the sheep, as Pan the shepherds God was wont: and other artizens have their special Patrons to pray and trust unto; and beasts their several guardians: not so much but the very whores have Mary Magdalene and Afra to sacrifice unto, if they will, as alder days had Venus and Flora: and almost every disease, hath a special Saint appointed for Surgeon. And thus is fulfilled that which is written, They followed the Heathens that were round about them, concerning whom the Lord had charged them that they should not do like them. Yea the Heathens do come short in their count of tutelar God's, with this catholic whore; and she exceedeth those of whom it is written, according to the number of thy Cities are thy God's ô Judah, and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem, have ye set up altars of confusion.

16 As for Jeroboam, he dares not show his face before this beast his successor; for his inventions compared with hers, are not one to a thousand. What were his two Calves to the infinite images of this strumpet? Nay her Lambs of wax, are more worth then his kowes of gold: for every immaculate Agnus Dei, or Lamb of God, that this Witch maketh of Virgin wax and holy water, hath the same virtue against all divilish wiles and guiles of the malignant spirit; that the innocent Lamb Jesus Christ, delivered our first father Adam with, from the power of the Devil. But Jeroboam doubtless had no skill at all, to make such idols of proof. Again he forged but one feast out of his own heart, to make merry with his images once in a year: whereas this our purple Queen, hath made many moe holy days then there be months (that I say not weeks) of the year, in honor of her Lady & all her Saints: and these, some of them, correspondent to the Paynim festivities: as Christmas, Candlemas, Fasgon or Shrouetide, according to the times and customs of the Gentiles Saturnall, Februal and Bacchus feasts. For unless it be, she would imitate Heathens; she can hardly show any cause at all, why she celebrateth her Christmas in the end of December, and her feasts at answerable times: seeing in all likelihood Christ was born in September rather then in December; but herein the Churches authority which cannot err, must bear out all lies and forgeries. Unto these she hath added fair temples, high altars, and other devotions moe then can be told, much more effectual then were Jereboam's. For his chappels and high places were simply to worship God in: but wheresoever any of our Izebels Churches be, it is surely no other then the house of God and gate of heaven. And needs must it so be, seeing it is hallowed with exorcised or conjured salt, water, ashes, and wine, which have virtue so to consecrate that Church, as that it may drive away all the Devils temptations; every fancy, wile and wickedness of divilish fraud, every unclean spirit, and power of the enemy, and to root out the Feind himself with his apostatical Angels: and also by the merit of the Virgin Mary and N. the Saint unto whose honor and name the Church is founded, and of all other Saints, God is entreated to visit that place, and by infusion of his grace to purify it from all pollution, and to conserv it being purified, and that spiritual wickednesses may flee from thence. Which being granted, (as cannot, I think, but be by so many Saints intercessions) it is impossible now that any idolatry should be committed in such a Sanctuary; whose first stone is laid by a Bishop, in the faith of Jesus Christ, that the true faith and fear of God and brotherly love, may there flourish. Such powerful works as these, none of Jereboam's Bishops could turn their hands unto: for they were but novices in Satan's school, and had never well learned the art of exorcism or conjuration, which the sorceresse of Rome, by long practice & experience hath attained; being grown as cunning in these feats, as she that was mistress of her art, and sold the nations through her Witchcrafts.

17 For by these and innumerable moe enchantments of Idolatry, (which the day would not be enough to reckon up,) this Circe, the Lady of the pseudocatholicks hath intoxicate the earth, that the inhabitants are drunken with the wine of her fornication; doting upon her reverend clergy, her devout service, her sacred ceremonies, her hallowed Churches, her Saints relics, and other like amatory potions; wherein Christianity, Judaism and Paganism are tempered and mixed together, in the golden Babylonish cup of her abominations.

18 Hence is it, that the relics of this Romish idolatry, are so fast retained among some which yet hate the whore, and eat her flesh, and burn her with fire. Of her have they received their Diocesan, Provincial and National Churches. Of her have they learned to make portesses or Leitourgies, reading and singing their prayers upon a book with organs and melody. Of her institution have they their solemn festivities of Christ's, Angels and Saints days, with their fasting Eves. Of her hand have they taken their Archbishops, Lordbishops, Suffragans, Archdeacons, Parsons, Vicars, and a great many moe of her royal retinue. From her have they had their Churches, Chapels, Minsters, baptized bells, hallowed fonts, and holy Churchyards; though some of those high places are of more antiquity, as having been built and dedicated to the Heathen Devils. Finally, from her have been received lands, livings, tithes, offerings, garments, signs, gestures, ceremonies, courts, canons, customs, and many moe abominations, wherewith have been enriched the merchants of the whore, and all that sail with ships in her sea. Thus with all the evils before mentioned, and others moe then can be told, which are very Gillulim the loathsome idols and excrements of the Queen of Sodom, and the filthiness of her fornication; hath she dishonored and blasphemed the God of heaven, and all that therein dwell; with them she defileth the consciences of men; with them she delighteth and solaces her self in fleshly ease and pleasure: till in one hour, she and all her riches, pleasures, wares, merchandise shall perish; and that be again fulfilled, which was said by the Prophet▪Now shall she and her fornications come to an end.

CHAP. VI.

A Conclusion Dehortary from this sin.

THE wares of idolatry being so common and universally spread by the merchants of the whore, and conveyed into all nations: it cometh to pass that many are interested in this Mart, buy and sell, partake and communicate with these evils, not being aware of the danger they come into hereby. To warn them therefore of the mischief ere they fall into it, or to help them out if they be fallen, have I penned this Treatise: and add, to the things fore written, these few advertisements.

2 This sin is direct against the Majesty of God, whose honor is to be regarded above our own lives; above the peace or tranquility of nations. The sin provoketh the anger of God, as adultery provoketh the rage of a man injured in his private bed. As he will not spare in the day of vengeance, and cannot bear the sight of any ransom: so the Lord is a jealous God, and visiteth the sin of the fathers upon the children, even to the third and fourth generation of those that hate him.

3 Idolaters, as they are shut out of the city of the Lord, the Church of Christ, the heavenly Jerusalem; so have they further this doom against them, they shall not inherit the kingdom of God. The cōmunicating with idols, depriveth men of communion with God; for there is no fellowship of righteousness with unrightousnes, no agreement betwixt the Temple of God and idols. The partakers therefore in this evil, (though perhaps not authors, inventors; nor open maintainers of the same,) shall come unto shame and confusion before God; for all that are of the fellowship thereof, shall be confounded.

4 Folly is a blot and shame unto men, which they fain would shun: but wisdom is man's honor, and maketh his face to shine. Of all foolishness, idolatry is the greatest; depriving men of sound judgment in the best & heavenly things, and possessing their minds with habitual vanity. Therefore is this vice resembled by a foolish woman, ignorant, & knowing nothing; yet troublesome and talkative, & loud in her babbling: of a smooth and flattering tongue, and her mouth more soft then oil; yet cruel also and malicious, hunting for the precious life of a man; bringing him to beggary, death and hell. But true religion, or the fear of the Lord, is resembled by wisdom, which uttereth her voice to the children of men, & speaketh of excellent things; the words of her mouth are all righteous & plain, her instructions better then fine gold, and all her pleasures are not to be compared unto her. Blessed is the man that heareth her, watching daily at her gates, and giving attendance at the posts of her doors: for he that findeth her, findeth life, and shall obtain favor of the Lord, but he that sinneth against her, hateth his own soul; all that hate her, love death.

5 To worship and serv the Devil▪ is a thing horrible in religion, and even in nature; worthy of vengeance from the hand of God. Though all manner sin pertaineth to the Devils service: yet idolatry above all is counted and called the worship of Devils, and so shall be punished. The Heathens albeit they had some knowledge of the true God, and worshipped him ignorantly; yet their worship is reckoned to Satan, for the things which they sacrificed they sacrificed to Devils, and not unto God. Jeroboam made account he served the true God, even the God that had brought Israel out of Egypt land: notwithstanding the Lord hath thus testified of him, that they were Devils which he made, when he made his calves, for to worship God by. And Israel before him made a calf for like use; but Moses doth blame them as having offered unto Devils, and gone a whoring after them: and prophesieth that their children would also run into like blot. Antichristians would seem to be worshippers of God; yet the Holy Ghost chargeth them to worship the Devils, when they think to serv God by idols. Forasmuch then as all idols are Devils, though fools count them Saints: to partake with them, is to forsake God, and to bring our selves into satans damnation: for the Spirit hath protested, that we cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils; we cannot be partakers of the Lord's Table, and of the table of devils.

6 Many fearful judgments are threatened of God, against this sort of sinners, and have come upon them. By Moses he denounced hasty, fearful, and consuming plagues, aches, and botches, and incurable sicknesses, sore diseases and of long durance; which punishment he brought even upon the Kings for their idolatry. He threatened famine and drought, making heaven as iron, and earth as brass, that the land should not give her increase, nor trees their fruit: as came to pass in the days of wicked Ahab, when heaven was shut, three years and six months, that it sent down neither rain nor dew, whereby great famine was throughout all the land, because they had forsaken the Lord, and followed Baalim. Wilde beasts he menaced to send upon them, which should spoil them and their cattle, and make their high ways desolate; of which plague they tasted in Samaria, when the Lord, whom they feared not, sent Lions among them which slew them. He said he would send the sword upon them, which should avenge the quarrel of his covenant: and this plague the Israelites often felt, because they forsook the Lord God of their fathers. Hunger and misery was prophesied unto them, that they should eat and not be satisfied, that men and women should eat their own children, and after births, and every man eat the flesh of his friend, fathers should eat their sons, and sons their fathers, when all things should lack in the seige and streightnes wherein their enemies should inclose them: which extremities God brought upon Israel in K. Ieroms days, and after, when children & sucklings swooned in the streets, & gave up the ghost in their mothers bosom, for want of bread and drink; and the hands of the pitiful women sod their own children for their meat; and did eat their fruit, even children of a span long. The Lord threatened destruction of their high places and images, and to cast their carcasses on the bodies of their idols; & that his soul should abhor them▪ he would make their cities desolate, and bring their sanctuary to naught, & would not smell the savor of their sweet odors, but scattered them among the Hethens, & draw the sword out after them: all which, with other like calamities came upon the idolaters, whose dead bones were taken out of their graves & burned upon their polluted altars; and the idolatrous Priests sacrificed upon them. Jerusalem the holy city, was broken up, and all the men of war, fled; the house of the Lord, & all great houses burnt with fire; Kings captived in chains, Princes & nobles killed; the Lord trode underfoot, all the valiant men; Zion mourned, and there was none to comfort her; the beauty of Israel was cast down from heaven to earth, God cut off all the horn thereof in his fierce wrath, which he poured out like fire; causing the feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and despising in the indignation of his wrath, both King and Priest; forsaking his Altar, and abhorring his Sanctuary; so that people's eyes failed with tears, their bowels swelled, their liver was poured upon the earth; for the Lord performed that which he had purposed, and fulfilled his word determined of old; doing that to Jerusalem which he never did before, neither would do anymore the like, because of all their abominations; and death was desired rather than life, of all the residue of that wicked family; for the Lord had rejected and forsaken the generation of his wrath.

7 All these, and whatsoever else God threatened unto, or brought upon Israel, for their idolatries; are examples written for us upon whom the ends of the world are come: that we should not sin like them, lest we be partakers of like punishments. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. For if we sin willingly, after that we have received the knowledge of the truth; there is left no more sacrifice for sins: but a fearful looking for of judgment, and a violent-heat of fire which shall devour the adversaries.

8 Wherefore, unto the children of men, thus saith the wisdom of God; O ye foolish, how long will ye love foolishness, and scorners take pleasure in scorning, and fools hate knowledge? Turn you at my correction, loe I pour out my mind unto you: cause your ears to hearken unto Wisdom, incline your hearts to understanding; seek her as silver, and search for her as for treasures, then shall you understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God, which will deliver you from the evil way, from the flattery of the tongue of the strange woman. Desire not her beauty in your heart, neither let her take you with her ey-lids: keep your way far from her, and come not near the door of house; lest you give your honor unto others, and your years to the cruel; and mourn at your end, when you have consumed your flesh and your body. For surely her house tendeth to death, her paths unto the dead; all they that go unto her, return not again, neither take they hold of the ways of life. Children keep,yourselves from Idols. Amen.

P-HA-7. An epistle sent unto tuuo daughters of Warwick from H.N., the oldest father of the Family of Love ; with a refutation of the errors that are therein, by H.A. - Ainsworth, Henry, 1571-1622?, Niclaes, Hendrik, 1502?-1580? Epistle sent unto two daughters of Warwick.

AN EPISTLE SENT VNTO TWO daughters of Warwick from H. N. THE OLDEST Father of the Family of Love.

With a refutation of the errors that are therein; by H. A.

Rescue me (Lord), and deliver me from the hand of strangers: whose mouth talketh vanity; and their right-hand is a right-hand of falsehood.

Psal. 144. 11.

Imprinted at Amsterdam by Giles Thorp. 1608.

To the Christian reader, wisdom & grace.

AS there are many enemies of the truth of the gospel, and many that write to broach and spread their errors: so is it needful that some write against them, least trodden truth be quite forsaken; and silly souls be wrapped in error, unto perdition. It is not easy for all men to espy Satan's subtleties, nor the deceitful sophisms of his ministers: both he & they, can trāsforme themselves like Angels of light. Such therefore as discern them through the grace of God, should give warning unto others; that as the foolish womā is troublesome, babbling & loud, inviting her guests to the depth of hell: so the maidens of wisdom, may lift up also their voice; and make their cry be heard, on the highest places of the city.

What wormwood and bitterness & even deadly poison, is sparsed abroad in Henry Nicholas his writings, (who calleth himself the Father of the Family of Love;) the children of wisdom that do read the same, may by the light of God's law soon perceive: yet with fair and flattering speeches, he hath beguiled many unstable souls; & such as have had no love to the truth, have been givē over unto his lies. And never had Satan a fitter time to work his malicious will on the sons of Adam: then in these last evil days, when Atheism and iniquity, do so much abound. Never had he a fitter religion for Atheists and carnal hypocrites, then that which H. N. out of his corrupt and fleshly heart hath set abroad. It taketh away the cross of Christ, & persecution for righteousness sake: and teacheth men to communicate with all religions, services and ceremonies; so as they cleave in heart to his feigned service of the Love; It maketh them pure and without all syn, in their own foolish imaginations; yea (more then which the Serpent himself did never teach,) it deifieth them with God. In a word, it bringeth a fretting leprosy upon all religion, & overthroweth the grounds of faith laid in holy scriptures, which H. N. by foolish allegories, perverteth to the destruction of himself and his Family. And for the principles of theology, he hath written more blasphemously and absurdly then ever did Mahomet in his Alcoran. For this cause, in answering this his letter, (as I was requested by some that heard how much it was boasted of, among the Nicholaitans;) I have touched by the way some of the impious heresies that are in his other writings, without knowledge whereof, his fraud in this Epistle cannot easily be perceived. For as a child of darkness, he laboreth to be obscure in his words, y<sup>t</sup> men may admire the deepness of Satan by which he speaketh; and himself when he is followed, & can no other way escape, may have this for his last refuge, that men understand him not. But all things when they are reprov'd of the light, are manifest: for the light is that which maketh all things manifest. Now the word of the Lord is a lantern, & his Law a light; by it therefore have I assayed to discover the snares of this seducer: not doubting but God, who causeth the Morning to know his place, that it may take hold of the corners of the earth, & that the wicked may be shaken out of it; will, notwithstanding all the dark delphick speeches, and glozing allegories of these falsers, declare their works and manifest their impieties, and will turn the night, (in the darkness whereof they think to be shrowded) and they shall be destroyed.

Let therefore the prudent reader, make trial of that which on both sides is said, by the word of truth: least, as the serpent beguiled Evah through his subtlety, so their harts be withdrawn from the sincerity of Christ. And the Lord give them understanding in all things; and preserve them from this generation forever; for the wicked walk on every side, whiles vileness is extolled among the sons of Adam.

Henry Ainsworth.

The preface, made by some of H. N. his disciples.

THis Epistle was written by the author unto two maidens that were before purposed out of zeal to have suffered death for the confession sake of the Christiā ceremonies, which as he saith in divers places of his works, are no more but outward means set forth by God & his ministers to direct people to the inward righteous life of Christ in the spirit;) supposing therein that they should rightly have obeyed & fulfilled the cōmandemēt of Christ, who willeth us to forsake our own lives for his sake. But upon better consideration thereof, through the grace of God, and these distinct godly testimonies and reasons, (both touching that point and divers others) herein contained; their minds as it hath been reported by some of that followship wer altered herein to another understanding of the matter, and they did willingly endeavor themselves afterwards, to follow his good counsel.

Answer.

THE drift of this Epistle / being (at the best) to dissuade from the patient and cōstant witnessing of the truth of Christ / especially in the outward ordinances of the gospel and open profession of the same, Under a color of inward and spiritual confession / and service of God in the holy Ghost it shall not be amiss to look a little into the sleights of Satan / whereby (as it seemeth) he hath deceived / and would still deceive the simple; and to show the weakness and insufficiency of the reasons alleged in this Letter: as also to manifest / how the outward obedience of the body / must be conjoined with the inward of the mind and spirit; and the external ordinances of Christ's testament professed and practiced; if we would have the spirit and life which is of God. And howsoever H. N. accounteth the ordinances of the gospel but ceremonies; yet in that he confesseth them to be outward means set forth by God, to direct people to the inward righteous life of Christ in the spirit, he manifesteth himself to be but a seducer / in persuading the two maidens not to suffer death for the confession sake of them: seeing the outward means of man's salvation and of the righteous Christian life / is to be stood for unto the death / as in handling the particulars shall by God's grace appear. And if by the authors counsel / those daughters were drawn (as here is insinuated) from their outward confession & suffering affliction for the ordinances of Christ / against the Romish Antichristian doctrines & ceremonies; their faith was but weak / they forsook the inward righteous life of Christ in the spirit / and their minds were perverted to a very evil understanding. If also they assented to other points of H. Ns. heresies / and followed his corrupt counsel: then were they led captive / (as the Apostle saith / ) being simple women / laden with sins and led with divers lusts. From which estate / God keep all his people / & direct their feet in the ways of life & peace.

AN EPISTLE. Sent unto two daughters of Warwick.

From H. N.

THE wisdom of the Father, through the Love of Christ in the power of the holy Ghost, in the second birth out of the new life, of the heavenly being, be unto everyone which with an vnpartial heart seeketh the godliness in Jesus Christ, to a hearty salvation. Because that everyone which seeketh God with heart, mought know the right diversity betwixt the heavenly and the earthly, betwixt the spirit & the flesh, betwixt the light and the darkness, betwixt the death & the life, and betwixt the righteousness of the spirit, and the righteousness of the elementish things; and then to love the same. That grant us the Almighty God through his love, Amen.

1. Because ye mought through the spirit of Christ inherit the same gift and mere affection or goodwillings to the godly life: I do bear or carry the same gift, (God is my witness) before all men. But now am I compelled through the love of Christ, severally to open the same gift unto two young daughters of a certain place named Warwick. The Lord give his prosperity and grace thereunto; for that his righteousness which is wrought through the Spirit of Christ, mought be known of them, and that the life of Christ which by many is sought after the flesh, might be known and inherited of them according to the spirit, even like as God which is blessed is a Spirit. John. 4. 2 Cor. 3.

H. A.

OUR savior Christ / thewisdome of the Father / hath warned us to beware of false prophets / which come unto us in sheep's clothing / but inwardly are ravening wolves. The Apostles / through the love of Christ in the power of the holy Ghost, have foretold us / that in the latter times / some should depart from the faith / and give heed unto spirits of error and doctrines of Devils, speaking lies through hypocrisy / and having their consciences burned-with-a-hot-iron; and therefore counseled us / not to believe every spirit / but to try the spirits whither they ar of God / because many false prophets / were even then gone out into the world. The evil that they should enterprise / isprivilie to bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that hath bought them: the manner of their carriage should be to use feigned words, fayr, flattering and good speech, swelling words of vanity promises of liberty, and the like. The effect of their doctrine should be / deceiving of the harts of the simple, even of many / yea / if it were possible / of the very elect; and by those many that follow their damnable ways / the way of truth should be blasphemed. The end of all which (touching themselves) is / that because such reprobates / receive not the love of the truth / that they mought be saved; therefore God sendeth them strong delusion / that they should believe lies / and they all may be damned / which believe not the truth / but hav pleasure in unrighteousness. These things considered / it standeth us upon / to look well to ourselves / least we be carried away with the error of the wicked. This author H. N. beginneth (as was foretold) not only with fayr and flattering speech / but also with swelling words of the second birth, out of the new life of the heavenly being, and sundry the like. He boasteth of the gift / of the godly life / which he beareth before all men / and here severally openeth unto two young daughters: and of this he taketh God to witness: He telleth them / (in the 2. section following / ) that the Christ of God was not yet declared unto them according to the heavenly truth. Thus promiseth he great matters / and seemeth to be a setter forth of a new Christ / and consequently of a new God. Very needful therefore it is / to attend unto his doctrine / and if it be true / for to receive it; if false / for to abhor it / and to hold the author thereof accursed. And hereunto the Lord enable and guide us by his grace.

1. First where he vaunteth of the gift borne before all men / (in his other writings / ) opened to these daughters / (in this Epistle;) let us bring it to the trial / by the word of God, who (he saith) is his witness. For we read of some / that have given gifts unto their lovers / that they might come unto them on every side for fornication: and whither this writing / and other pamphlets of H. N. be not gifts sent abroad for such evil purpose / let the godly reader judge. If his gift have witness of God / it hath witness of his written word / as the prophet saith / to the Law, and to the Testimony, if they speak not according to this word, it is, because there is no light in them. Is H. N. willing to come to this trial? it seemeth far otherwise; for in all his writings he much inveigheth against scripture-learning; contrary to the true prophets and Apostles / who highly commended this / as being able to make men wise unto salvation / and profitable to teach / to improve / to correct / to instruct in righteousness: and never did any of them entwite the learning or knowledge of the scriptures; as the reader may see H. N. to do in this Epistle and his other pamphlets. Our savior Christ / willed all men / even his adversaries / to serch the scriptures / for they testified of him. If they testified likewise of H. N. and his doctrine; doubtless he would not despise (as his manner is) the scripture-learning of others; especially whiles he will seem to rely upon the testimonies of the same for himself. But if we may not learn the truth of religion / out of holy writ; how then may we attain it? H. N. telleth us in his First exhortation to his children, thus My beloved children, like as the true Communiality of holy ones, and Elders of the house of Love, confess, under the obedience of the Love, the belief in Jesus Christ, and the Christian baptism; and like as I express the same here unto you, and confess or acknowledge it before all men to be the true faith, and the upright baptism; even so ground with fast belief, your harts likewise therein. So then the doctrine of H. N. and his followers must be the ground of our faith: as they confess and believe / so must we. And herein the Familists religion accordeth well with the Turks, whose great prophet Mahomet in his law or Alchoran / to draw disciples after him saith thus; They that worship God, let them if they be good, believe his Messenger (Mahomet:) and again; O ye good men, be followers of God and of his messenger, & never wittingly depart from them. But may we not ourselves / by the light and grace that God giveth us / make trial of H. N. his religion by the word of the Lord? No: for in his First exhortation he saith; no man can rightly according to the truth of the holy scriptures nor according to the spiritual understanding of the godly wisdom, deal in, or use the true God-services, nor the services of the holy word, (it becometh not likewise, that any man should take in hand to busy himself thereabout,) but only the illuminated Elders in the godly wisdom, which walk in the house of Love. But what if H. N. with his coelders / be but deceivers of men's souls / seduced themselves and seducing others? for be they not men as others are / and subject to error? He telleth us no / for they have received the word of life, through the power of the most highest, out of his holy heaven, from the living God, and are even so through the same word, Godded with God. Therefore in another place of that book / he saith menought to beware that they distrust not the Eldest in the Family of Love, nor suspect any manner of evil or unwisdom by him: nor yet also in anywise persuade themselves y<sup>t</sup> the exercises, documents & instructions which ar taught or set forth before them, by the Father of the Family of Love, or oldest elder, are too slight, too childish, or too unwise for them to follow after or to obey. But with perfect harts, humbly and single-mindedly, even as good willing children unto the Obedience; to receive the same instructions, proceeding out of the wisdom and counsel of the Eldest. And must we needs put out our own eyes / that H. N. may lead us? may we trust him that he himself is not a blind guide / and false prophet / such as Christ foretold should come in this last time? For this matter he hath given us his warrant thus / My loving children, and thou Family of Love, give ear to me your Father, and live according to my doctrine, that it may go well with you: For the Lord will have the Father honored of the children, and what the mother biddeth or commandeth the children to do, that will he have kept. Take heed to my doctrine; and all what I out of Love, do set forth, teach, and exhort you unto, that print to a seal of life, or a witness of the truth, in your harts. For it is your life. By this we may see what a good ground H. N. hath laid for himself and his cause: that men should receive his word and doctrines / for Oracles of God. He saw that his brother / the Antichrist of Rome / had much prevailed in the foolish world / by making men believe / that he and his church could not err: he minded also (perhaps) the glory that Mahomet hath among Turks / by persuading them / that the Alchoran (his law-book) is without all falsehood; therefore H. N. will sail by that compass; and make that the foundation of his work. And coming as an enemy to war against Christians / he is much more malicious then Nachash the Ammonite / who would have thrust out but one ey of the Israelites / whereas this tyrann would thrust out both; and that not of the body / (as Nachash would) but of the mind and understanding; that having bereft men of their wits / he might keep them prisoners under his heresies. For in his Crying voice, he hath proclaimed saying / Let yourselves now in all your Being, nature, mind, and disposition, become renewed through the Love, in her service; and give all your understanding captive, under the obedience of the Love. Thus H. N. will be gaoler and keep in captivity the minds of all men; til they bow unto him and say / as he hath taught his children (or rather his s<sup>l</sup>aves) in his First exhortation, O my father in the Love, I submit myself, and all mine understanding, under the wisdom of thy doctrine. And when he hath gotten men's minds this captived; he may lead them whither he liest / though it be into the deepest dungeon of hell. We find in Christ's Testament the Bereans commended / that tried the Apostles doctrines by the scriptures daily; Act. 17. 11. and other Christians also / that took heed to the most sure word of the Prophets / as to a light shining in a dark place; 2

Pet. 1, 19. Howsoever therefore H. N. would extinguish the seven lamps of the golden candlestick of God's law / that men might see by the smoke of the fire which he hath kindled: we mean not to trust his pretended light / but to bring to the trial both his spirit and his gift. For the serpent by his subtlety / brought Evah unto death / while he took away God's plain word / and set his own in the place: like may be our end / if we submit ourselves / and all our understanding / under the foolishness of this man's doctrine.

H. N.

2. See my beloved in the Love of Christ, I must speak unto you even like as Paul spake unto the fleshly Israelites, where he saith, I bear Israel witness that they stand fervently minded towards the lov of God, but not according to knowledge; for they seek to set up their own righteousness. Rom. 10. So is now the witness of God in our spirit with the holy Paul towards you, that ye likewise stand fervently minded towards the love of God, but not according to knowledge, because that the Christ of God is not yet declared unto you according to the heavenly truth, but well according to man's wisdom or industry, which to the literal scripture, add their own prudency, and even so go forth withal, or occupy their own righteousness without the spirit of Christ, which is a miserable doctrine, being taught without the spirit of Christ.

H. A.

Solomon warneth us of an heretic under the figure of a foolish woman / that calleth unto her / them that pass by the way: yea such as go right on their way / saying / who so is simple let him come hither. And in this her cal / she counterfeiteth Wisdomes words / for even so had her maidens spokē: before to the sons of men / that went astray. The Apostle Paul / found fault with the Israelites / that for want of knowledge did seek to set by their own righteousness / by the works of the Law: neglecting the righteousness of God / which is by the faith of Jesus Christ. H. N. here cometh / like the troblesom woman / and calleth these two daughters / which went right on their way / even in the true path beaten by Paul and the other Apostles. And the more to allure them / he useth Paul's words / and pretends his affection: but his drift is to draw them quite awry / from the true way of righteousness / which Paul did preach / unto a false righteousness by the works of the law / a miserable doctrine which H. N. in his writings hath taught without the spirit of Christ. These two daughters of Warwick, did (as I have heard) so know and believe in Christ and in God / and seek the true righteousness / which is by faith; as other true Christians of our English nation have done and do. But the Christ of God was not yet declared unto them, (as H. N. saith) according to the heavenly truth. Whereas that which he meaneth by heavenly truth / will be found indeed to be hellish error; he teaching such things of God, and of Christ, and of man's righteousness; as the prophets and Apostles have every where condemned: which anon will appear.

H. N.

3. Because that the same miserable doctrine and false wisdom of the flesh which gendreth her own righteousness, mought be made known, and even so then to be forsaken, therefore hath God now in the same last day showed his grace & mercifulnes on us poor & wretched ones, and hath declared unto us through his holy spirit, his service of Love, for to declare unto all good willing ones through the self same service, which is the true way to the everlasting life. Therefore let everyone now through the same service of love be warned that he look well hereto, that he boast not himself in any of the works of righteousness, or take on the same to salvation neither to condemnation, before that he in the spirit of Christ through the love of the Father be renewed in all righteousness of life. Not that I mean in the elementish ceremonial righteousness, which the man setteth forth or occupieth out of his own prudency, but I mean in that righteousness which according to the heavenly truth is in the being of Christ, and is set forth through the spirit of God. For the Father is not honored but through the Son, that is, no man may know, either serve God, but that he must be born out of the spirit of Christ, even like as there standeth written; Ther availeth before God neither circumcision nor uncircumcision, but only a new creature in Christ Jesus wrought through the Love, Gal. 6. Therefore shall Christ in the day of judgments, accuse and find faulty a flesh in their righteousness, even like as he saith, I shall reprove or rebuke the world of their righteousness. John. 16. That this is all what the man out of his first birth, hath set up for a righteousness, which is an enemy unto God, even like as he saith, John. 10. They are all thieves and murderers which are come before me: that is, whosoever letteth himself think, that he is a Christian before the spirit of Christ be born in him, that same is a thief and a murderer. For whosoever hath not the spirit of Christ, the same belongeth not unto him. Rom. 8. Even like as Paul hath witnessed where he saith, I durst not speak any word, unless that Christ had spoken the same in me, or through me. Rom. 15. yea no man (saith he in another place) can name Jesus to be the Lord, but through the holy Ghost. 1 Cor. 12. A natural man (saith he) testeth not the spirit of God. 1 Corinth. 2. My children (saith Paul to the Galatians) with whom I travel again in birth, until that Christ be fashioned in you. 1 Gal. 4. Here may we mark that without the Spirit of Christ, there is no knowledge of God, And where God is not known, there can there not any doctrine be occupied to the man's salvation. It is very true.

H. A.

THE author pretending to deal against that / which he would faynest establish / to weet / the miserable doctrine and false wisdom of the flesh, which gendreth her own righteousness: first draweth the readers to himself and his family / and the service of Love; as being the declarers of the true way to the everlasting life, now in the same last day. But this is like the carriage of the whorish woman who caught the young man and kyssed him / and with an impudent face said unto him / I have peace offerings, this day have I paid my vows: therefore came I forth to meet thee. &c. and H. N. hath no better warrant then his predecessor Mahomet, who (before him) boasted himself to be the Teacher of the nations. That the reader may discern the fraud of this falser / I will first briefly show what doctrine he hath taught concerning God and Christ; And then I will proceed in answering this his Letter. The God which H. N. treacheth to the world / is not as the scriptures declare the true God unto us / One eternal / everliving / infinite / incomprehensible / almighty / unsearchable and unchangeable Being / who only hath immortality / and dwelleth in the light that none can attayn unto / whom never man saw / neither can see / unto whom be honor and power everlasting Amen. 1 Tim. 6. 16 Exod. 3. 14.

Rev. 1. 4. Job. 11. 7. 8. 9. & 36. 26. Psal. 90. 2. & 93. 2. & 102. 26. 27. & 145. 3. Act. 17. 25. I am. 1. 17. But H. N. telleth us of a God / that was in the beginning as a light of life, of one substance with the manly creatures. For as he saith after in this letter, God had created the man, that he should be of one life, one Being, one Spirit, and of one nature with God. Now the manly creature we know was finite / comprehensible / not from eternity / but had his beginning in the sixth day of this world / and soon was changed from his estate and became like to the beasts that perish. How then can it without highest blasphemy / and dishonor of God / be said or thought / that God was of one substance with the man? yet H. N. to bring his blasphemy to a higher degree / if he may; hath further manifested his mind thus: See and mark ye beloved, in the beginning, when God made all things well, then was the Lord one Lord of his kingdom, & one God of his works; there was also no more but one God and one man, and they were one, and had in all one order, being and nature, for God was all that the man was, and man was all that God was. The Devil when he had the Serpent for his instrument / (the subtlest beast of the field) durst not utter such abomination unto Evah / as to say she should be of one substance with God, or all that God was; but only that she should be like unto God, knowing good and evil: but here having gotten a new instrument H. N. (which mystical letters may rightly be read Ha Nachash, that is / The Serpent, who now is wren more old in evil / more bold in falsehood / ) he shameth not to teach / that God and man were one substance and being: God all that man; and man, all that God was. By this doctrine H. N. leadeth men at once from God to the Devil / and deifieth the Serpent. For the Serpent was too subtle for the manly creature: the Devil deceived and overcame the man / with all that he was: his body soul and spirit. Now seeing God the creator / and man the creature / had all one substance and being, and the one was all that the other was; it will follow upon this blasphemers doctrine / that the man had as much power / wisdom / will and ability every way to withstand the Devil / as God himself had: but the Devil was too strong and too wise for the man; therefore also he was too strong and too wise for *H. N.*s. God / who had no more of anything then the mā. Now he that is most mighty / most wise &c. must needs / (even in any Pagans judgment) be esteemed for God. The Devil could not prevail with Christ / though he proffered him all the kingdoms of the earth / to fall down and worship him: but he hath gottē this honor and much more from H. N. for far less preferment / that he will not only worship him / himself; but draw all the world / if he can to do the like / by his Serpentlike doctrine.

But a man would think / that upon consideration of Adams fall / and all his children's misery; H. N. would change his more then beastly judgment / of God and man to be one substance. No it is far otherwise. For as he hath feigned such a God as never was; so hath he begotten and brought us forth a Christ/to weet / a Lovely Being; or rather a lothsome Idol in his own heart / as after shall be shown; which Christ, (he saith) maketh of two that they be one, namely the Godhead and the manhood. By means of this mediator / is God the Father one substance, or manned with us through Christ, and is all in all. Herevpon H. N. (which hath written the world a new Gospel / and beginneth it with his own praise / as the holy Evangelists begin theirs with Christ's / ) telleth us of himself / that he is Godded with God in the spirit of his Love. And least men should neglect to worship this beast / and give him his Divine honor; he every where urgeth his godhead and authority; one example whereof I will set down. The God of heaven, as the Father himself, is come down, and he bringeth in the service of his Love, himself with his Christ and his holy Ghost, & with all that which with him is God's: unto his obedient mā H. N. & Godding the same wth him, he hath Manned him with the same; and his will is, that now in the last time, through his service of Love, all people or generations of men, which are good willing to his righteousness, should assemble them unto him & his Godded man, & even so likewise with them, all that which is manly; to the end that they all should become of one Being with him and his godded man, & so be all named God's, and children of the most highest. For even so in the same conjoined coming and conformity of being; namely God with all what is God's, and the man with all what is manly; it all, what is not God's nor manly, becometh through God and the man utterly condemned. Was there ever any trump of Satan / that durst proclaym such Atheism to the world under color of religion as this man doeth? Mahomet was never so gross or wicked to think thus of God / or of himself: He in his Alchoran everywhere speaketh rightly of God / that he is One, immutable, most wise, most high, incomprehensible, omnipotent &c. He was willed (he saith) to say, Nothing is enjoined me, but to worship God alone, and not to esteem any his fellow (or partner.) and again That thou (Mahomet) mayst be proved true, cal thyself but a messenger only. But H. N. will be Godded with God, and have all that is God's, (as himself saith:) then is he doubtless God's fellow: and hath the eternal power and godhead, which the Apostle saith, ar seen by the creation of the world &c. Now what can H. N. or any of his ylluminated Elders, answer to that which the true God propounded unto Job; where wast thou when I laid the foundation of the earth? declare if thou hast understanding &c. Hast thou an arm like God? or dost thou thunder with a voice like him? deck thyself now with majesty & excellency, & array thyself with beauty and glory. Cast abroad the indignation of thy wrath, and behold everyone that is proud, and abale him &c. Then will I confess unto thee also, that thy right hand can save thee. We know the true God can do all things / and that there is no thought hid from him. Let H. N. with his new God's / show forth their Godhead in their powerful works. Let them (as the prophet Isaiah saith) show things that ar to come hereafter, that we may know that they ar God's. Isa. 41. 23. Christ said to the Jews / If I should bear witness of myself, my witness wer not true. John. 5. 31. But H. N. beareth witness of himself / and hath no testimony from God / nor his scriptures / more then had Theudas or Judas of Galilee. or Mahomet. Christ did confirm his authority by signs and wonders. He alleged his works for witnesses that the Father had sent him. But blessed be God / who though he hath suffered these idols of indignation (the Familists) to utter the pride of their arrogant harts / yet hath he not permitted Satan to give them power to work any miracles / for to seduce the world withal: that such as do follow them / may show them selves deprived of wisdom and human reason / in crediting such an impostor / that hath nothing but foolish words to bewitch their minds withal. The prophet Isaiah teacheth / that Al nations before God are as nothing / and they are counted to him / less then nothing and vanity. To whom then will ye liken God? To whom now will ye liken me / that I should be like him? saith the Holy one. H. N. answereth / that himself is not only like God / but hath one substance with him / and all that is God's. But as the prophet mocked those wooden idols / that were half burnt in the fire / and the other half worshipped as a God: so may all men deride these earthen idols / that cannot save their bodies out of the dust or fire? For go they not down to the grave as other men / and perish like their dounge? Is not H. N. rooted out of the land of the living / and doth not his name rott with him? Can any of his Godded men save themselves from fire or sword / and scape out of the hand of the hangman? And then may we speak to them as did the Lord to the king of Tyrus; wilt thou say before him that slayeth thee, I am a God? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slayeth thee. The Apostle Paul showeth the folly and blindness of the Gentiles that turned the glory of the incorruptible God, into the similitude of the image of a corruptible man; and is not H. Ns. foolish heart more full of darkness then theirs; that after so great light of the scriptures / turneth the glory and Being of the incorruptible God / into (not the image only but) the very Being of a corruptible man? Doubtless God hath delivered him up into a reprobate mind; that his madness may be manifest unto all men; which thus hath turned the truth of God into a lie / magnified and honored the creature, to the dishonor and blasphemy of the creator / who is blessed forever / Amen. To all then that H. N. can say for his own Godhead/or his disciples / let all true Christians answer / as Jeremy taught the Jews to answer the men of Babel; The God's that have not made the heavens and the earth, shall perish from the earth and from under these heavens, Ier. 10. 11. By this the reader may perceive / what a poisoned religion this Nachash H. N. hath brought into the world / concerning God.

Now for his Christ, H. N. teacheth us not according to the scriptures / of one particular man / of the stock and generation of the Jews / born about xvi. hundred years ago in Bethlehem; who himself alone (being God equal with the Father before the world was / and in that fullness of time took unto him our human nature) bare in his own body the sins of all his elect / and by that once offering of himself upon the cross / hath purged them all / from all their sins &c. No, H. N regardeth not (as after in this Letter sect. 11. he showeth) this knowledge / that in times past there was one Christ in Israel which was born amongst his own &c. but telleth us of a Lovely being/and a holy life: this is his Christ. For in his First exhortation he saith / walk with your spirit in the Lovely and virtuous Being: Fasten your mind thereto, and build your righteousness thereon. For that is an eternal and fast standing foundation, whereon all God's prophets and holy ones have built, and is Christ himself. Again / in the same book he saith / After a little time of your distress and anguish, or heaviness, the Lord will bring his Christ, (that is his best beloved and most holy being) in power and glory unto you. In this his Epistle to the two daughters, he expoundeth Paul's words 1 Cor. 13. though I had all faith, &c. if I had not love, it were nothing; that is (saith H. N.) whosoever hath not Christ, he is with u• God: th•rf•re also in another place / he calleth Love, the upright Being of Christ himself; And because this Lovely life and being / appeareth daily fresh and new / in those that come to the family of Love / therefore they profess to believe / not that Christ was, but that he I••••eived of the holy Ghost, through the power of the most highest, & born of the H. virgin Mary. And whereas the scriptures teach that Christ suffered for us/and for our sins; H. N. <...> Christ beareth in us our sins. The scriptures teach / that by the obedience of one (meaning Christ) many are made righteous: he hath washed us from our sins in his blood / he was once offered to take away the sins of many / and with one offering hath he consecrated forever them that are sanctified: H. N. teacheth us that Christ / under the obedience of the Love of his Father, is gone before us therein, for that we should, in like manner follow after him, under the obedience of his Love, in his death of the cross, to the safemaking of us from our sins. Thus must we save ourselves by our own sufferings / and Christ (set forth unto us in the scriptures) is but an example / to teach us what we must do.

But what should I stand longer upon this point; for the Familists hold and profess / that an obedient and godly life is Christ Jesus; and so their doctrine of Christ, agreeth with their former doctrine of God: both being wretched and blasphemous. Having thus opened the groundwork of H. Ns. religion, it shall be the easier to discern his fraud in this Letter / which I now will particularly answer.

Let everyone now, through the same service of Love (saith this author) be warned, that he boast not himself in any of the works of righteousness, or take on the same to salvation neither to condemnation, before that he in the spirit of Christ, though the love of the Father be renewed in all righteousness of life. In that H. N. saith / before he be renewed, he plainly intimateth that his deadly error / that after men are renewed / they may boast in and take on their works to salvation; contrary to Paul's doctrine / who showeth that not only the uncircumcision, (the unrenewed Gentiles / ) but also the circumcision (the renewed Jews) should be justified of God by faith, which faith excludeth man's rejoicing or boasting; and all works of the Law. He confirmeth it also by Abraham's example / who though he were renewed in righteousness of life / had nothing to rejoice of with God; but was justified by faith alone; and as he / so we all / shall have faith (not works) imputed to us for righteousness. But H. N. speaking of the 10. commandments given on mount Sina / calleth that law / God's eternal, true, & living righteousness; that he would have to be erected through his people Israel, upon the earth, and wherein all the children of men, generations and heathen, should live. Wherein his doctrine is quite contrary unto Paul's / who saith / if there had been a law given, which could have given life, suerly righteousness should have been by the Law; but the scripture hath concluded all under syn, that the promise by the faith of Jesus Christ, should be given to them that believe. Now the way of life / the Apostle had before shown / in the same chapter / saying / it is evident that no man is justified by the Law in the sight of God, forth just shall live by faith; and the Law is not of faith, but the man that shall do though'e things shall live in them. H. N. therefore teaching contrary to the Apostle (as we have seen,) even a miserable doctrine / and false wisdom of the flesh / which gendreth her own righteousness / is by th' Apostles commandment to be holden accursed. Gal. 1. 8. And this gift of his / hath no witness of the holy prophets or Apostles to confirm the same; but by his predecessor Mahomet is well approved; for evē so did he teach the Turks That the Law of God is not impossible and intolerable: (howsoever the Apostles say the contrary (Rom. 8. 3. Act. 15. 10.) and that they which keep the the Law are joined with God & saved.

After this H. N. showeth that he means not the elemetish & ceremonial righteousness, but that which according to the heavenly truth is in the Being of Christ, (for this we had heard is his heavenly truth, that every man should have the Being of Christ / or be Christ himself.) His proof hereof is, The Father is not honored but through the Son; that is (saith H. N.) no man may know or serve God, but that he must be born out of the spirit of Christ. And thus he leadeth the daughters by degrees / to their own new birth / for their righteousness and salvation: and to maintain this heresy / he corrupteth and abuseth the scripture Gal. 6. 15. where Paul saith (against such as urged Christians to be circumcised / that they might avoid persecution) that in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature; meaning that such as were graffed into Christ by faith / unto salvation from their sins; they need not care in this estate for having or wanting the outward Jewish sign of circumcision / but labor for that which it signified / namely to become new creatures / dying daily unto syn / and living unto righteousness / which fruits are undoubted testimonies that they are in Christ. But H. N. corrupteth the words / first saying Ther availeth before God, and then adding, in Christ Jesus wrought in the Love, meaning / that a new creature / in Christ (which Christ is) wrought in the Love / (for so he thinketh Christ to be the Lovely Being in us / as before is shown;) this new creature availeth before God / for righteousness / and safe-making from our sins; as his words elsewhere are. Thus careth he not / how he wrest / or what he add unto the scriptures / so as they may seem to serve his turn. That the reader may see his deceit / I will show what is his vein and manner of reasoning. Two things are given us of God through Christ. 1.justification, and 2.sanctification. Justification is by the forgiveness of our sins for Christ's sake / and for the death that he once suffered for us himself alone on the cross; whereupon followeth our blessedness and salvation; and this justification we apprehend by faith alone. After which followeth the work of Christ in us / by sanctifying our bodies souls and spirits / and making us conformable to his death burial and resurrection / and furnishing us with fruits and graces of the Spirit: which being fruits of faith in Christ / following the same; are no cause of our justification or blessedness / for that we have freely before given us of grace. Now cometh H. N. and he taketh this latter point of Sanctification, and all such scriptures as speak thereof / and putteth it in place of the former / to weat / our justification, making this our new birth / and these fruits of faith / to be the very cause of our happiness / righteousness itself / yea and Christ himself. Which deceitful reasoning of his / may further be manifested / by a type and shadow of our redemption / shown to our fathers / traveling towards their outward rest in Canaan; as we do now travel towards our eternal rest in heaven. They in their journey were stung by fiery serpents / and many of them died. To save them from this death / a serpent of brass was set up / on which who so looked / was (without any other salves or medicines / ) healed of his deadly wound. Then being thus healed, they went forward on their way / fought against the Amorites and other enemies, and won the promised land; and this they were to do / before they could have possession of the same. If H. N. had then lived / and should have persuaded the people / that not the looking up to the brazen serpent / but their after journeys / and battles against the Amorites / did heal them of their stings; should he not have belied the work of God's grace / who without any work or war of theirs / did heal them freely? even so doth he in this. The venom of Synn / by the fiery serpents the Devils / tormenteth men, and bringeth them to death. Jesus Christ is lifted up unto us / as was the Serpent in the wilderness / unto whom we looking up by faith / are thoroughly healed. After this God unemployeth us in a holy life / and Christian warfare / to subdue our lusts and affections / and bring forth fruits of the spirit in sanctification. Now cometh H. N. and telleth us / this holy life / this Christian warfare / is our righteousness / our safemaking from our sins / and is Christ himself. Thus is he an enemy unto the grace of God / and hinderer of man's salvation; seeking to procure it by the works of the law / by which no flesh shall be saved; and instead of Christ / would give us an idol of his own fiction.

After this / as vnsavourily and to as little purpose / he alledgeth / another scripture / where Christ (as he saith) in the day of judgemēt, shall find faulty all flesh in their righteousness, as he saith I shall rebuke the world of their righteousness. John. 16. First it is to be observed that Christ spake these words of the Comforter (the Holy Ghost) which he / being gone away would send to his Apostles / John 16. 7. (as after came to pass / Act. 2. 33.) and saith / when he is come he will reprove the world &c. but H. N. allegeth this / that Christ himself should do it / and falsifyeth our Lord's words / putting I, for He, the reason whereof seemeth to be for that H. N. holdeth not a distinctiō of the three persons in the Godhead / as we profess according to the scriptures; but ignorantly shuffleth and confoundeth all. Secondly / he addeth to the scripture / saying their righteousness; whereas Christ saith only that the Holy Ghost should convince the world of righteousness; which may as well / (if not better) be understood of Christ's righteousness / then of the worlds; especially seeing the reason thereof is rendered thus / Of righteousness, because I go to my Father. Now though one may understand it otherwise / of the worlds feigned righteousness / yet is it overmuch boldness in H. N. to put his own understanding in stead of the text itself: for this is the means to corrupt God's pure word / even as the man's heart is most corrupt. Thirdly, he referreth this to the day of judgments, which is far from Christ's meaning; for he promiseth the efficacy and power of the Holy Ghost in his servants / whiles he is absent from them / before the day of judgemēt; as the text showeth to any wise heart. But wherefor doth H. N. put in this, may we think? Doubtless to draw men unto himself / for he is the Comforter promised / yea he is Christ himself; and this day and time of his preaching / is the day of judgments. This is evident by his own words elsewhere. For in his First Exhortation, he thus writeth; According to all the testimonies of the holy spirit of Love, this gracious word, and his service of Love, is the Light, and the day of the true judgment, wherewith God with his holy ones accomplisheth, and wherewith also he will accomplish, his judgment upon the earth, according to the truth. In the Gospel of H. N. it is also thus written; For behold in this present day, the glorious coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, with the many thowsāds of his Saints, becometh manifested, which hath set himself now upon the seat of his majesty, for to judge in this same day, which the Lord hath ordained or appointed, the whole world with equity and with faithfulness and truth according to his righteousness. And again in the same book. Behold and consider my beloved, how wonderfully God worketh in his holy ones, and how that now, in this day or light of the Love, the judgment seat of Christ is revealed and declared unto us out of heaven, to a righteous judgment upon earth, from the right hand of God, and how that on the same judgment seat of Christ, (that the scripture mought be fulfilled) there sitteth one now, in truth in the habitation of David, which judgeth uprightly, thinketh upon equity and requireth righteousness. By this the reader may see / what this man aimeth at in all his writings / even to draw all men unto himself / as judge of the world sitting on the throne of Christ / and spareth not to apply the promises of Christ's coming / to this day of his preaching / being a more shameless and presumptuous blasphemer then ever was Mahomet / or any arch-heretic that Satan sent to bewitch the world. As he hath abused this 16. of John, so doth he afterwards the 10. of John. They are all thieves and murderers which are come before me: that is (saith H. N.) whosoever letteth himself think that he is a Christian before the spirit of Christ be born in him, that same is a thief and a murderer. Wher again he intimateth Christ and a Christian to be all one: and if the Spirit of Christ be borne in a man / then though he make himself Christ / the door / the shepherd &c. he is no thief / no murderer. Thus H. N. showeth himself to be sold unto syn / and given over to an heretical and reprobate mind / perverting all scripture unto his destruction. It is very true.

H. N.

4. See my beloved in the love of Christ, even thus standeth the foūdatiō of y<sup>e</sup> Christianity, & in such manner of wise hav•th Apostles taught the salvation in Christ, even like as Paul saith to the Corinthes. 13. although I givc all my goods to the poor, and that I suffer my body to be burned, and although I had faith (saith he) that I could remove mountayns, if I had not love, it were not anything unto me: that is, whosoever hath not Christ, he is without God, and without righteousness in this world. I mean the being like Christ, which is received through the power of the holy Ghost, and not any ceremonial Christ, which one man speaketh of or promiseth to another, through the ceremonial service, which he out of his prudency according to his fleshly mind hath set up. O no, The work and begetting or procreating of the children of God, cometh not so slenderly to pass, as men now at this time teach each other: out of their unregenerate spirit, which never proceedeth from God.

H. A.

UUHat a sandy foundation of Christianity H. N. hath laid / we hav seē before by his doctrine of God and of Christ / and of man's righteousness. Here / (to build hay on his rotten ground / ) he perverteth an another scripture / and would father his error on the Apostle Paul / who most of all other did set against it. For the teaching the salvation in Christ to be by Faith, as before is shown: H. N. will have him say it is by Love, the Love that is in us; which Love he expoundeth (as his manner is) to be Christ himself; so wresting the word / (as did the old serpent / ) unto men's destruction.

The Love treated of by the Apostle / 1 Cor. 13. is a quality in the Saints / wrought in them by the spirit of God; as it is written / The fruit of the spirit is Love, &c. Now this Love which is in us / (whither it be towards God or our brethren / ) is not the foundatiō or cause of our happiness / but an effect thereof / as we may learn by the Apostle / that saith / Herein is Love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, & sent his son, to be a reconciliation for our sins. Which Love / when we perceive by faith; then we again do love the Lord; as it after followeth / We love him, because he loved us first. Then from the Love of God / floweth also the Love of our brethren / as is further added / And this commandment have we of him, that he which loveth God, should love his brother also. And that these graces come not of ourselves / (and consequently ar not meritorious in us / nor causes of our salvation.) Moses taught his people / when he said / The Lord thy God will circumcise thy heart & the heart of thy seed, that thou mayst Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart & with all thy fowl, that thou mayst live. As for the cause of our salvation / that it is only God's Love and grace towards us / the Apostle Paul showeth saying God which is rich in mercy, through his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead by sins, hath quickened us together in Christ; (so) by grace ye are saved. This Grace we apprehend by faith; which faith / if it be alive / stirreth itself / and worketh by love. And thus the Saints do show their faith by their Love and good works; but in case of justification before God / and man's salvation / all works are excluded / as the same Apostle proveth saying / David declareth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth justice without works. This being so / what labor they for / but our curse and wretchedness / which would have us rely upon our Love, or any good works / for the saving of our souls.

His next inference is more mischeevous / when he expoundeth those words / if I have not Love, thus: That is (saith H. N.) whosoever hath not Christ is without God. Thus maketh he Love in us to be Christ; and so the plain doctrines of the Gospel concerning our Savior shall be but a fable. And that this is his meaning / he showeth elsewhere more plainly / when he saith / If ye will not that the wrath of God should come or fall upon you, so deal faithfully before God & his holy ones, & walk with your Spirit, in the Lovely and verteous Being, fasten your mind thereto, & build your righteousness thereon, for that is an eternal fast standing foundation, whereon all God's prophets & holy ones have built, and is Christ himself. Here men may see what a miserable foundation he hath laid / for to build our righteousness on / evē our own walking in the lovely & verteous being, and this with him is Christ. Whereby he proclameth himself to be Antichrist: for the Apostle John saith / Every spirit which confesseth not Jesus Christ comen in the flesh, is not of God, but this is (the spirit) of Antichrist. Now to say that Love (which is an affection of the mind / ) is Christ; is to deny him comen in the flesh / out of the loins of David and Abraham / of the virgin Mary / in the days of Herod the King / as the scriptures plainly teach. And by as good reason may H. N. deny that ever there was any such man as Adam, any such beast as the Serpent, any such creation of the world / as Moses describeth / Gen. 1. or any God: and so by his allegories / overturn all religion / and bring Atheism in the place; which in deed he hath done / with most high abomination / in deifying himself and blaspheming God. By Christ, or righteousness, H. N. saith he meaneth the being like Christ, not any ceremonial Christ: so he seemeth to esteem the plain doctrines of the gospel / to be but ceremonial, that whereas we read there of one Jesus to be crucified for our sins &c. this he coūteth but a ceremony / shadow or figure / such (it may be) as was the ram that Abraham offered / or the beasts that Aaron killed / or (perhaps) the parable that Jotham told: for the true Christ that saveth men / is the Lovely being that is in the Familists themselves: this idol hath their god H. N. out of his prudency according to his fleshly mind set up. And this is a great secret / or mystery of iniquity.

H. N.

5. Herevpon my beloved mought ye or some other say, we learn not, or there is not anything taught unto us, then out of the clear scripture, which may not lie. Yea my beloved the scripture lieth not, but all those which ar not instructed through the spirit of Christ, they lie & are beguiled, & signify or expound the scripture which is spokē through the holy Ghost, & shown out in the spirit of life John. 6. upon an earthy or elementish foundation, wherthrough the man cannot obtain or get any renewing of the heart. Even like as in the witnessing of the scripture there is witnessed sufficiently to those that can understand the same. Who is there without the word of the Lord which is spirit & life, John 6. that hath atteyned unto the salvation, or who hath I beseech you in any world, brought forth any true witness, unless that he through the Spirit of the Lord, which is his word, become altogether born anew•

H. A.

UUE are sure the sacred scripture l••th not / but H. N. which abus•th and falsifieth the scripture / and denieth Jesus to be the Christ / making Love and the Lovely Being in himself and his family / to be Christ, (as we have heard:) is by the Apostle condemned for a Liar and an Antichrist, 1 John. 2. 22. and he not being instructed through the Spirit of Christ, hath taught an earthly and rotten foundation / to the ruin of true religion.

The scripture cannot rightly be understood or opened but by the Holy Ghost, that is the gifts of the holy Ghost. But some have the gifts of the Spirit / which yet are not themselves altogether born anew: as had Balaam / the Scribes and Pharisees / Caiaphas / Judas the traitor and others many / which as the Apostle saith / Heb. 6. 4. were once lightened & have tasted of the heavenly gift, & were made partakers of the holy Ghost. Therefore it is false which H. H. writeth / that none in any world, brought forth any true witness, unless that he became altogether born anew. Again he here brocheth another error / in expounding the Spirit of the Lord, to be his word; which H. N. in his gross understanding perversely gathereth from Christ's words John. 6. 63. the words that I speak unto you are spirit, whereby our Lord meaneth that his words were spiritual, not that they were the Holy Spirit itself. For he useth the like phrase of a spiritual and regenerated man saying / Except a man be born of water and of the spirit / he cannot enter into the kingdom of God; and / that which is born of the spirit is spirit. John. 3. 5. 6 Now seeing H. N. describing his Communialty of the Love / saith / Whosoever cometh into this good city, he becometh altogether born anew in the spirit, he may by like reason conclude that himself and his Nicholaitans / are also the holy Spirit, and so be a blasphemmer against the Holy Ghost, as he is against the Father and the Son. The Scriptures teach us plainly to distinguish between the word and the Spirit of the Lord / this latter being cause and author of the former / as it is written / 2 Sam. 23. 2. The Spirit of the Lord spake in me & his word was in my tongue: and of all the prophets it is witnessed / that they spake as they were moved by the holy Spirit. 2 Pet. 1 21. The Apostle saith / this is the word which is preached among you; and how they preached it / another showeth / when he saith / that by the spirit of God they knew the things given them of God, and spake those things not in words which man's wisdom teacheth but which the holy Spirit teacheth. that all men may see how ignorantly (if not worse) H. N. hath confounded the word and the Spirit of the Lord / as if they were one thing.

H. N.

6. Note well, or consider of fellowship, the estate or manner of the Apostles, how that they, although they went about so long time with Christ, & wer always with him, whiles the power of God was wrought through him, understood not what the mind of the Lord was, concerning the godly causes, before that the day of Pentecost or Whitsontide, when that they received the holy Ghost, was come unto them. Even like as there standeth written, how that they said at the time when Christ was crucified among them, we had hoped or supposed, that he should have delivered Israel, and it is now the third day, and there cometh nothing of it, we will go a fishing. For they supposed that Christ should have set up a fleshly kingdom.

H. A.

HEre H. N. to magnify himself / as a spiritual and godded man, spareth not to wrong the holy Apostles; as if they before Pentecost, (Acts. 2.) understood not the scriptures / nor preached the word truly; whereas it is evident that they were sent and had preached the word long before / Luk. 9. 1. 2. which word Christ had given them and they received / John. 17. 8. 14. and were made clean by it / John. 15. 3. and he had opened their understanding to understand the scriptures Luk. 24. 45. though afterward at Pentecost, they received more plentiful graces of the spirit / when Christ was gone from them. Act. 2. 1. 2. 4. &c.

Again H. N. as if he delited to falsify the scripture / saith there standeth written, how that they said when Christ was crucified, we hoped that he should hav delivered Israel &c. whereas these words were spoken by Cleopas and another disciple which were none of the Apostles / as appeareth Luk. 24. verse. 18. 21 33. and to make up his patcherie / he addeth that they said / it is now the third day, & there cometh nothing of it, we will go a fishing Whereas those two spake not at all of going a fishing, but other men at another time, John. 21. 3. By this the reader may mind what credit is to be given to H. N. his allegations of scripture / who careth not to profane the holy word / for maintenance of his lies / and setteth things down as they come in his idle head. But why say I so of this godded man; seeing menought not to distrust him, nor suspect any manner of evil or unwisdom by this Oldest Father; whose eysight (as himself saith) was clearer then Chrystal, & his understanding brighter then the Sun.

H. N.

7. The whiles then that the Apostles which daily went about with Christ, and had the word of the Father daily among them, understood not the Spirit of the Lord: how should then the multitude of these, (which now say that they are Christians, & yet neither have nor know spirit nor word, but go on with their fleshly prudency in the literal scripture, and set forth the same with their fleshly harts before the simple people, as it seemeth best unto them, and say even so very stowtly, we have the word of the Lord, whereas it is but their own word, wherein that they through their own prudency are gendred or begotten,) feel either perceive the same.

H. A.

THE application of this invective / belongeth to H. N. himself and his Nicholaitans / who out of his fleshly heart as seemeth best unto him / though against the literal scripture / setteth forth his forgeries to the simple people; yet boasteth very stowtly / that he isanointed with the holy ghost, in the old age of the holy understanding of Jesus Christ, godded with God in the spirit of his Love, made heyr with Christ in the heavenly goods of the riches of God; illuminated with the spirit in the heavenly truth, the true light of the perfect being: elected to a minister of the gracious word &c. so that in him and his sect / the prophesy is fulfilled / which foretold how in the last days / men should be lovers of them selves, boasters, proud, cursed speakers &c. 2 Tim. 3. 1. 2. But if the Apostles (as he saith) understood not the spirit of the Lord; how should then he / (that is sold into syn / and given over unto heresies which are works of the flesh / ) feel or perceive the same?

H. N.

8. It is true they have the scripture, and the same giveth witness of the Lord and of the word, but is not the word itself John. 5. neither yet may any man understand the witnessing of the same, unless that he hath first inherited the spirit of the Lord in the second birth.

H. A.

ONE evil and heresy draweth on another / where God restreyneth not men by his grace. Here H. N. denieth the scripture to be the word of the Lord / saying that it giveth witness of the Lord and of the word. Which he would gather from Christ's speech John. 5. 39. Serch the scriptures for they testify of me; but he abuseth the scripture and concludeth amiss / as if because it giveth witness of the Lord Jesus, therefore it is not the word; the contrary whereof is true / it giveth witness of him, therefore it is his word. For Christ plainly calleth that which is written in the Law / the word, John 15, 25. and so doth Paul / Rom. 9. 9. 1 Cor. 15. 54. and Peter 2 Pet. 1. 19. The scriptures (for we speak not here of the essential word of the Father / which is Christ himself) are the word of the Lord written, even as the lively preaching of the prophets and Apostles / was the word of the Lord spoken. The beginning of their books showeth this; as Hos. 1. 1. The word of the Lord that came to Hosea; Joel. 1. 1. The word of the Lord that came to Joel; and many the like. It is said Exod. 20. 1. God spake all these words; and in Exod. 24. 4. it is said Moses wrote all the words of the Lord. If then that be God's word which is spoken / that also is his word which is written; and H. N. is but an instrument of Satan / to teach otherwise / that he may bring his own word in the place. If the scripture be not God's word, because it is a witness: then the Holy Spirit, which H. N. made the word (before in sect. 5.) is not so / seeing that is a witness also; 1 John 5. 6. yea Christ is a witness Rev. 1. 5. God the Father is a witness, 1 John 5. 9. 10. the Apostles also were witnesses, Luk. 24. 48. If then that which is a witness, is not the word, then none of these / but H. N. and his dreams must be the word, to weet / of the Serpent; and he indeed is no witness of God / neither do his writings bear testimony to the truth / but seek to destroy it.

H. N.

6. Oh my beloved look into the same a little with me, what vncertayn witnessings that we out of an earthly or a natural Being, have followed after, even until this day. We may well say with the Prophet, it is altogether lies what the scripture learned preach either teach for as much as they do reject the word of the Lord Ier. 8. Here giveth the prophet a distinction or diversity, betwixt the word of the Lord, & the witnessing of an unregenerated man, which he bringeth forth out of the Letter of the scripture.

H. A.

THE more we look / the more indeed we see what vncertayn witnessings you H. N. out of an earthly Being, have followed after, even until this day. This still more and more appeareth in your abusing of the prophets and Apostles. Here you would father a distinction upon Jeremy / as if the word of the Lord, and that which is written in the scripture / were not one and the same; the Prophet teacheth no such thing; but blameth the Jews for rejecting the word in truth and deed / whiles they boasted to be wise / and to have the law with them Ier. 8. 8. 9. He denieth not the written law to be the word; (for I have before proved / that it was God's word Exod. 20. 1. & 14. 4.) but showeth how unregenerate men will abuse it / and yet boast of it; as yourself H. N. are found to falsify the word / and yet vaunt yourself to be a godded man, and minister of the gracious word. Every jod and title / and consequently every Letter word and sentence of the scripture / is God's undoubted word / though yow and all Devils should deny it; the false glosses / and heresies that yow and other unregenerated men gather from it / are the word of Satan; which the scripture itself / by help of God's spirit / evidently doth disprove / and so the word of the Lord endureth forever; and that is the word which the Apostles preached / 1 Pet. 1. 25. and what they did preach / is recorded in their writings.

H. N.

10. Oh if these men, which now so boldly or freemindedly do say that they are Christians, and will always confess Christ with the mouth; had eyes to see, & the right spirit for to understand: then should they surely cease or leave off, for to walk in the strange or erring ways.

11. There is read in the scripture, that Christ should be confessed or acknowledged; which is a very true witness: but the mind or meaning of the Lord therein do very few understand. And many suppose (whiles they have read in the scripture of one Christ, & likewise through their industry or prudency, they know that in times past there was one Christ in Israel, which was born amongst his own,) that the same when they know it, & confess it with their mouth, is the right confessing of Christ, whereof the scripture speaketh. No my beloved, no, the confession of Christ must stand in greater force or effect, then to be confessed with the mouth, in the ceremonical service, which is a baptising with water, or another elementish confession.

H. A.

HEre H. N. openeth his evil mind more plainly to the two daughters; Whom hitherto he hath boarded with feigned flattering speeches. First he is offended that m•n will so boldly say they are Christians: But we have no cause to be afraid or ashamed of this name / which is warranted in the word of God / Act. 11. 26. 1 Pet. 4. 16. But to be called The family of Love, is a name that H. N. hath invented and taken to himself and his sectaries. Secondly he speaketh of erring ways; when he hath not yet shown any one error / that we walk in; but pratled against us (as the Apostle said of Diotrephes) with malicious words.

Then coming to speak of confessing Christ he denieth not the thing; but stands upon the meaning. He inveigheth against the knowing & confessing with the mouth of one Christ, (whom they read of in the scripture) that in times past was born in Israel &c. Wherein he teacheth open Antichristianity; for our Savior speaking of his own person that was born in Israel / said / except ye believe that I am He, (meaning the redeemer of the world which was promised;) ye shall die in your sins. and again praying to his Father he saith / this is life eternal that they know thee the only very God, & whom thou hast sent Jesus Christ. The Apostles preached this one man and no other / who was born among his own / of David's seed after the flesh / according to the scriptures; they require a confession of this Christ with the mouth / as well as belief in him with the heart; and did themselves confess him with the mouth / as ensamples unto us. Act. 2. 22. 23. &c. & 3. 13. &c.

But H. N. liketh not of this Christ, nor of this manner confessing with the mouth; he would persuade another Christ bred and borne in his own fancy and corrupt imagination / as before hath been shown; and another manner confession doth he require: which what it is / let us now examine.

H. N.

12. Mark well what I write, No man can confess Christ among all those that will confess him, unless that he in his like being, have his fashion or shape in him; not according to the elementish ceremonies, wherewith the one maketh another wise with the historical scriptures: O no, but according to the true being, or flowing out of the Christian-like nature. Through which Christian-like nature, there is subdued or brought under foot, among all those where the same is born, out of grace, the death, Devil & hell.

H. A.

UUE mark well that H. N. writeth for truth / his own errors and deceits / out of his corrupt heart. No man (saith he) can confess Christ, unless that he in his like being have his fashion in him. This is an untruth of H. Ns. fiction; he writeth thus / but in the holy scriptures it is not so written. For to confess Christ, is one thing / to hav his fashion in us, is another thing: the first may be / where the latter is not; as the Apostle telleth us of some that confess that they know God / but in works do deny him, Tit. 1. 16. The confessing of Christ is with the mouth; Rom. 10. 10. the having of Christ's shape in us / is by faith; Eph. 3. 17. Phil. 3. 8. 9. which faith is in the heart; and (as the Apostle showeth Rom. 10. 10.) these both / (confession with the mouth / and belief with the heart) are needful to salvation. It is possible for hypocrites to make a good and true confession of Christ with the mouth / and yet in their harts not be partakers of the Christian or godly nature; as Judas Iscariot, Simon Magus, and others that were baptized and made Christ's disciples by a true outward confession: but it is impossible that any should have the Christian like nature in him in deed and truth / but he will also confess Christ with his mouth; or weep bitterly with Peter / if through fraylty of the flesh he do deny him. Whereas therefore God's word requireth both these in Christians; and H. N. would draw these two daughters from the one (namely from outward confessing with the mouth / ) under pretense and color of the other / (namely of having Christ's shape within them:) he dealeth deceitfully / and not according to truth. It is / as if he should allure them to fornication; and when they alleged against him God's Law / Heb. 12. 16. Let there be no fornicator &c. he should answer / true, but the meaning you understand not; many suppose that the chastity of body, is the right chastity; no my beloved no, the godly chastity must stand in greater force & effect then to be in the outward or elementish body, for so the Pharisees understood the Law of old; but Christ applieth it against the lusts of the heart. Mat. 5. 27. 28. If this reasoning be naught / so is H. Ns. about confessing Christ. For as God's word requiring chastity / intendeth it both of the body and of the mind: so when it requireth confessing of Christ / it meaneth both with mouth and heart / as is plainly set down Rom. 10. 10.

Other deadly poison hath H. N. here touched / as where he saith Christ in his like Being must have his shape in the man; whereby he meaneth such a kind of trāsustātatiō / as that Christ and the man, should be one substance one being; yea the Lovely virtuous being in man / that is his Christ / as before I have shown. This opinion is not possible to be warranted by holy writ / but is the mere invention of this Antichristian. Christ our redeemer / is in his own substance and person / in heaven at God's right hand / Mark. 16. 19. Act. 3. 21. but we are on earth / and Christ dwelleth not otherwise in us thē by faith / Ephe. 3. 17. which faith purifieth the heart / Act. 15. 9. and worketh by Love Gal. 5. 6. and faith / which is the evidence of things not seen / apprehendeth God's great and precious promises / which are given unto us that by them we should be partakers of the godly nature / in that we flee the corruption which is in the world through lust / (not by having the very substance and Being of God and of Christ / as H. N. grossly imagineth / ) and wait with patience for the second coming of our Lord in the clouds of heaven / at what time both the dead in Christ / and those that are alive / shabe caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air / and so shall we ever be with the Lord / as the Apostle saith 2 Thes. 4. 17.

An other damnable error / H. N. here hath / saying that through the Christian-like nature, there is subdued among all those where the same is born out of grace, the death Devil and hell. Whereby he would teach us to be our own saviors / we ourselves must conquer the death devil and hell; for as we have heard our own Lovely Being / that is H. Ns. Christ. And whereas the Apostles teach us / that forgiveness of sins is by God's imputation of Christ's righteousness and death / and not imputing our sins unto us / and that our faith in Christ is imputed unto us for justice; Rom. 4. 6. 8. 24. 25. 2 Cor. 5. 19. H. N. hath put imitation instead of imputation / saying / that through the daily God-service and offering in the Holy, in the taking up of our cross, in the Imitation of Christ in his death, we obtain the remission of sins. Therefore he willeth us to follow after Christ in his suffering, for those are the days of affliction heaviness and death, wherein Christ hath gone before us in the Holy, for to prepare us throuh the same death of the cross, the everlasting forgiveness and redemption of sins. Again in his book called The spiritual land of peace, he telleth us of an Instrument wherewith all enemies be overcome. This instrument of victory is the cross of Christ; (not that which Christ / of whom we read in the scriptures / died himself on / and triumphed in the same over the principalities and powers / Col. 2. 15. but that which we bear in imitation of Christ / ) & it is named patience or sufferance / (such as is mentioned Heb. 12. 1. 1 am. 5. 7.) and it (saith H. N.) is the true altar in the Holy, upon the which the true meat offering is, that is given to the faithful believing travellers to eat, and also the true drink offering that is given them to drink, which meat offering is named the flesh or body of Jesus Christ, and the drink offering is named the blood of Jesus Christ. And the same body and blood of Jesus Christ, is unto the constant & faithful traveler in the proceeding on in his pilgrimage, a true mediator to lay away the syn in the flesh, & to establish the promises with him that are made to the Fathers. Thus the things which are spoken of Christ and his oblation of himself / and of our partaking thereof by faith; this man perversely applieth to our own patient sufferings; and maketh Patience to be our victory, contrary to the evident doctrine of the Apostle / who saith that it is Faith, 1 John 5. 4 5. Again, the scriptures teach not that our Christianlike nature / but that Christ himself in his own person for us by death destroyed him that had the power of death which is the Devil / and so delivered all us his children which for fear of death wer all our life time subject to bondage / Heb. 2. 14. 15. but H. N. teacheth that Christ's death / is our like suffering / as appeareth by his First exhortation where he saith that the man ought in his yongnes, to learn to take up his cross on him, to follow after Christ, his Savior, in his like suffering and death of the cross, and to show forth patience with Christ, against all the assaulting, until that all the enemies or adversaries of the Lovely life, through the death of Christ, (that is, in manner of suffering,) be utterly vanquished. By these words / and the scriptures which he quoteth / it is plain / that he meaneth our own sufferings in imitation of Christ / to be our vanquishing the enemies / and our salvation: which heresy he everywhere out of his own carnal wisdom urgeth and persuadeth / to the dishonor of our Lord Jesus / and magnifying men's own sufferings and merits.

And if we look further what H. N. meaneth by his Death, Devil, and Hel; we shall find these also to be idols and fictions of his own; that in deed his victory / is like his Christ; even erroneous fabulous and blasphemous. The holy scriptures teach us of a death in syn, (when men are wholly given over thereunto / ) Ephe, 2. 1. contrary to which is a death to syn / by sanctification of life Rom. 6. 2. They teach us also of a death for syn, (that is a reward of eternal punishment in hell.) Rom. 6. 23. Gen. 2. 17. I am. 1. 14. called the second death, Rev. 2. 21. & 20. 14. Unto which the Devils and all reprobate men shall be condemned forever and ever for their sins at Christ's appearing; Mat. 25. 41. 46. Now H. N. (playing the part of the old Serpent / which persuade▪ Evah that she should not die / ) persuadeth his disciples that here in this present world and life / is death and hell; so the judgment / the fire / the condemnation threatened in the scriptures; he maketh fantastical imaginations or human affections. For as with him / the Love / and to walk in the Lovely & virtuous Being / is Christ himself: so on the other hand inveighing against them that speak evil by the service of Love / and the minister of the same; he saith / their false Being is the Devil, the Antichrist, the wicked Spirit, the kingdom of Hel, and the Majesty of the Devil himself. Now the punishment for this / is the Sentence which H. N. (who as we have heard / vaunteth that he sits on the throne of Christ to judge the world) pronounceth: his condemnation of the false Being / is eternal death and hell fire / as appeareth by his Crying voice, where he calleth all men to himself / to Come all and confess their sins / and make known vncoveredly the inwardnes of their harts / to the end that they may become justified or purged from all their sins, and received into the holy Communialty of the Love / when as now in thissame day the wicked world becometh judged with the Lord's mighty hand. Which wicked world (saith he) is reserved or kept in store til unto this same day of the Love, to the fire of hell, for to be condemned in the self same day of the Love, for evermore, to her eternal cursing & judgment of the fyers cruel vehemency. And a little after he addeth, Verily, now in thissame day, when as now all ungodly, and all selfwise, with all unrepentant persons, and false harts of the scripture-learned &c. inherit with much smart and grief in the vehement cruelty of the fire of hell, the terrible condemnation: then shall the people of God / namely, the whole communialty of the Love of Jesus Christ &c. rejoice them in all Love &c.: And that this their joy / is like Epicures in this present world and life / and in their counterfeit regeneration and godded estate: he elsewhere plainly confirmeth / saying that in their city of Peace there is a watchman on the wall thereof / that hath a trumpet named After-this-time-no-time-more; and that the watchmā fōudeath out of the same last time / as out of the last trumpet, the sound of the everlasting life, after the which there is no life more to be waited for, for the same life continueth for evermore. Therefore in the conclusion of his Crying voice when he had bidden all Come now hither to the Love and her service; he addeth / Come now all hither to the Paradise of your Lord and God &c. Come in now all hither to the Paradise of the Love, and pluck in her garden the tender Olives; Become drunken with the wine of her soon-ripe grapes, and embrace her to all concordable friendlynes. Thus like an harlot, he allureth men to his religion / and imitateth the whore of Babylon which made the inhabitants of the earth drunken with the wine of her fornications. For his vain conceyted Lovely Being, with the toys and pleasures that men imagine in that estate / is a fools paradise, where men become drunken and besotted in syn / and drowned in perdition. This is H. Ns. heaven; and they that are not here / he thinks they are in hell; yea plainly saith / (in his new gospel / ) that the second death is come and beareth dominion over the world, and all unbelievers. By this the discreet reader may see / what a Christ and salvation H. N. doth teach, and what a Death Devil and Hel / the Nicholaitans or Familists do subdue. This wretched man seemeth to have written his books in scorn of all true religiō, that Atheism and Epicureanism / under show of religiō mought reign in the earth.

H. N.

13. Herevpon mought some men say, ye would have the man perfect. No, my beloved, no; I speak not of the perfection of the man, but I speak of the perfectness which Christ ought to have with the man, before he can be confessed or acknowledged. The man in his unregenerated spirit is imperfect, I speak not thereof, but what he is, that is he out of grace, without cause of boasting.

14. Therefore let everyone look well unto it that he be not self-minded in his vncertayn forecasts or preconceiving: but that he take heed, or be well advised, whither he be worthy to receive the same grace of God.

H. A.

THat which David saith of the wicked man / that this mouth is full of deceit and fraud, under his tongue is mischief and iniquity: is verified of H. N. in his deceitful writings. He seemeth here at first / as if he would not have the man perfect; no, my beloved, (crieth he at it) no; but presently from under his tongue floweth out mischief and iniquity; when he speaks of the perfectness which Christ ought to have with the man, before he can be confessed▪ This is a depth of Satan / to bring men into misery under color of perfection; and to abolish them from Christ / whiles they may imagine / he is perfectly with them. Though Christ (I mean the true Christ whom we profess / not the idol which H. N. feigneth of the Lovely Being / ) be in himself perfect / yea perfectiō itself; and though the work that he hath done for us / be also perfect; because with one offering he hath consecrated forever them that are sanctified / and his blood hath cleansed us from all syn: yet his work in us is yet imperfect even in the best men that ever confessed Christ whiles they lived on earth; who therefore were taught every day to pray that their sins might be forgiven them: and the Apostle Paul / after he had long confessed and preached Christ truly / saith of himself / Not as though I were already perfect, and again, I do not the good thing which I would, but the evil which I would not that do I; and again / we know in part, and we prophesy in part, but when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part, shall be abolished; now we see through a glass darkly, but then (shall we see) face to face &c. But H. N. by another spirit which persuadeth him: that he is like God / yea Godded with God; writeth of his city or communitie and those that are come unto it / thatas then there is no more evil, nor evil suspicion, nor yet sight of evil in them; for within the same, one doth neither see nor think anything else, but all good, joy, rest and peace, in the everlasting life. Such a society hath yet never been heard of on earth since Adams fall / neither doth the history of the bible show us any such church; only it telleth us / there is a generatiō y<sup>t</sup> at pure in their own eyes, which yet ar not washed from their filthiness, Pro. 30 12. If the Familists be this generation, they may rejoice in the sparks of the fire that they hav kindled / til they shall lie down in sorrow. As for us / we have learned of a better teacher / that there is no man just in the earth that doeth good and sinneth not, but in many things we syn all, for syn yet dwelleth in us / and if we should say we have no syn / we should but deceive ourselves / and the truth were not in us. Yet know we that our confession of Christ / is acceptable unto him / because he pardoneth all our iniquities / and healeth all our infirmities / hath washed us from our sins in his blood / and will not impute them unto us.

Whereas H. N. to help the matter / saith The man in his unregenerated spirit is imperfect / he followeth but his wonted course to deceive the readers; for none are so gross as to think the unregenerated man is perfect; neither is this the question between him and us; but whither the regenerated be perfect or no / which H. N. erroneously holdeth but cannot prove; we contrarywise have proved that the Apostles and other Christians were regenerated / but not perfect / whiles they lived here on earth among men / Phil. 3. Rom. 7. 1 Cor. 13. I am. 3.

H. N.

15. Now mought ye say, we incline or endeavor ourselves thereafter, so much as we may, for we have given ourselves to the Christian-like baptismey and supper of the Lord.

16. Oh my beloved, that were very well, if it were even so in the truth; for there ar many that boast themselves of the baptismey of Christ, and they have not known him in any world. For were they baptized in Christ, then should they have put on Christ, even like as Paul saith to the Galatians 3. so many of you as are baptized have put on Christ.

17. I would gladly now ask of all those which say they have received the Christianlike baptismey, how or after what manner Christ hath a shape or fashion in them. I am very sure, that they all for the most part should be deceived, and should find themselves vnmighty or weak in that Being of Christ, wherein many should make manifest themselves, that they have not received the baptismey of Christ, but their own baptismey.

18 Everie one therefore that is upright of heart, and seeketh the truth in Christ vnpartially, let him prove himself how he hath put on Christ, according to the spirit. And if he then find not the stirring of the holy spirit of Christ in him, then let him advisedly look sharply yea sharply hereunto, that he boast not himself of the Christianity, but let him humble himself before the might of the Lord, and trust upon his grace.

H. A.

THE Christian baptism / consisteth of an outward washing with water by Christ's Minister; and of an inward washing with the holy Ghost / by Christ himself. John. 1. 33. Act. 8. 38. and 10. 47. The outward washing of the flesh / without the inward cleansing of the heart, is not available to salvation. 1 Pet. 3. 21. Yet may not the outward action be despised or neglected. For as the true circumcision was of the heart in the spirit; yet if any had not circumcision also in his flesh, he was to be cut off from his people / as having broken God's covenant; so is it likewise for baptism come in place of circumcision. Act. 2. 38. Colos. 2. 11. 12.

The outward baptism many do rightly receive / which have not the inward; as did Simon Magus, Act. 18. 13. 20. 21. The inward none have in deed and truth / that do despise the outward; we teach that these both must be joined together according to the scriptures; and labor for both. The Familists therefore which boast of their inward baptism / and administer not the outward among themselves / but present their children to be baptized of Papists or any other Antichristians / so offering their children unto Molech, and persuading others to do the like; show themselves to be far from true Christian baptism / which defile their bodies and souls with such hypocrisy and idolatry. And H. N. which laboreth here to dissuade these two daughters from suffering and witnessing against Popery / bewrayeth himself not to have known Christ in any world; nor can he show Christ's shape to be in him / whiles vnderhand he teacheth gross impiety; pretending inward baptism and spiritual regeneration. But the drift of this man is / by his invective against others / to allure men to himself; for when he concludeth with his exhortation that everyone should humble himself before the might of the Lord, and trust upon his grace; his meaning is / as elsewhere he explaneth himself, Let yourselves now in all your being, nature, mind, and disposition, become renewed through the Love, in her service: and give all your understanding captive under the obedience of the Love, and humble yourselves even so under her service; to the end that ye all may become washed in the Love, with the pure water of the Love. For to become washed in the Love with her pure water, is the upright washing, and the true Font of the regeneration or new birth▪ Now seeing thus harlot-like he allureth all men to his stolen waters within his lovely Family; for th'upright washing; let us see what manner of washing and baptism that is / which he so boasteth of. In this Letter he coucheth his heresy in a word, namely that Being of Christ; whereby the meaneth that the man / or the lovely Being in the man baptized / is Christ himself / as before is manifested / and after shall further appear. This error he would ground on the Apostles words Gal. 3. 27. For all ye that are baptized into Christ, have put on Christ; which place this author thus allegeth / so many of you as are baptized have put on Christ. Where first (as his manner is) he corrupteth the text itself / by taking away those words into Christ / and saying only baptized/whereby he would intimate / that none are rightly baptized / but such as have put on Christ; contrary to the scriptures which show that Simon Magus and many others were rightly baptized / as touching the Ministry of man / which yet had not put on Christ / because they were not baptized into Christ as the Apostle here addeth / but H. N. omitteth. Again / he gathereth that which the Apostle strowed not / namely that to put on Christ is to have the Being of Christ in us: but this H. N. fancieth to himself; for the spirit of God speaketh not so; yea the Apostle meant far otherwise; as his former words show / where he said / for ye all are the sons of God, by faith in Christ Jesus. So Christ is put on by faith, as also elsewhere he is said to dwell in us by faith, not by a real or essential Being, such as the Familists feign to themselves by the spirit of error. Now to Believe in Christ, and to have the Being of Christ, that is / to be Christ himself: are far differing things / as all men know. And as well might the Familists plead / that Abraham was God / because he believed in God; and that the multitude of Israel were the Lord because they believed in him; as that men are Christ or have the Being of Christ / because they believe in him / and by belief have put him on. Neither can our imitation or following of God or of Christ in the likeness of his death and resurrection / make the Being of God or of Christ to be in us; anymore then our following of the Apostles / (which also we are exhorted unto;) can make us of one Being with them. How absurd these things are / any reasonable man may see: Yet such absurdities many / are the groundly documents of this oldest Father H. N. touching Baptism and other mysteries of religion; as is more plainly to be seen in his First exhortation; For there treating of Baptism / and having described God to be a might Spirig, a perfect clear Light, and a true Being; he addeth that the same Being, is God the Fathers name, (meaning that Name of the Father into which we are baptized / ) and his Love itself. No word of God telleth him this / but he forgeth it out of his fleshly heart. The Being of God (as we may learn by the Scriptures) is such a thing / as neither men nor Angels can know or comprehend: how then should they Be the same? 1 Tim. 6. 16. Isa. 6. 2. Psal. 145. 3. Job. 11. 7. 8. and 36. 26. But the Name of God is that whereby in some sort he hath made known and manifested himself in his word and works; Exod. 3. 15. and 6. 3. & 33. 19. Deut. 12. 8. 11. Psal. 9. 11.

After this having discoursed of the Fathers plucking us to the Love of Christ / and so baptising us into the name of the Father / and this by the Familists / in the administration of the holy word under the obedience of the Love / with the Law of the Lord and with his correction; &c. H. N. telleth us that God the Father with the discipline of his Law, manneth himself with us, and we become likewise Godded with him, to the end that we through his own Being, should bear as men of God, his holy Name, under the obedience of his Law &c. Wherein this heretic uttereth double blasphemy; first that God the Father manneth himself with us; by which doctrine Ath•an like he spoileth God of his true Being, his simplicity / immutability / infinitenes and the like / which the scriptures show to be in God; Deut. 6. 4. I am. 1, 17. 1 King. 8. 27 Secondly in saying / that men become Godded with him / he wretchedly extolleth corruptible man into the throne of the incorruptible God; confounding heaven and earth / the creator and the creatures / between whose Being there is no comparison. Which things if he would not learn of the H. scriptures / (because he scorneth scripture learning / ) yet might he have learned of Philosophers and heathen men / who have said / that though by certain demonstration it is manifest that a divine artizen hath procreated us, yet by no reason or wit can we perceive what his essence (or being) is. That God is One alone separated from all, who cannot be explained nor perceived, that he is the first simplicity, incomprehensible, incomparable, vniform; that he cannot be known or found out, yea that it is neither possible to find him out, nor lawful to serch him out. And many like speeches have the Pagans spokē of God / more divinely soundly and religiously a great deal / then this Epicure H. N. (the God of the Familists) hath written in his blasphemous pamphlets.

After he hath thus described the upright Christian Baptism (as he saith) or washing in the name of the Father; he proceedeth with his Baptism / in the Name of the Son; of whom he saith that he is conceived of the holy Ghost, and born of the holy Virgin Mary. And that this same Son of God beareth in us our sins &c. and that he under the obedience of the Love of his Father, is gone before us therein, for that we should in like manner follow after him under the obedience of his Love, in his death of the cross, to the safemaking of us from our sins: become incorporated to him with his like death, and baptized or washed under the obedience of the Beleaf in his Name or safemaking, and bury even so through the belief the old man &c. to the forgiving and releasing of our sins through his name or safemaking, to the end that we might even so through Jesus Christ, obtain the renewing of our spirit and mind, in an upright life and resurrection from the dead with Christ in the appearing of his Majesty. And that this is the upright Christian Baptism in the name of the Son, and is the true forgiveness and purging of our sins through Jesus Christ. And all that thus follow not Christ are no Christians, nor yet baptized in the name or salvation of the Son.

Here is another puddle of heresy for men to be washed in / in the name of H. Ns Christ. Of whom he first telleth us / that he is conceived and born; whereas we believe in that Christ which was conceived and borne now many years ago. But the Nicholaitans have a Christ in them / to weet / their Lovely Being, as before is shown; Neither is their faith settled on one Jesus borne heretofore in Israel, but they themselves are born of the virgin Mary / as their Father H. N. teacheth them in his Gospel / saying / the upright children of the belief, which had their descent out of the seed of the faith of Abraham, and the pure virgin Mary, as also from the holy Ghost, were known to be the true seed of Abraham, because the same seed, was the seed of the promise of God the Father, & was likewise in his mind, according to the spirit, the likeness of God his Father; also spirit & spiritual, of the godly nature & being, & according to the will of God, wholly minded wth God. These upright children of the belief / ar the Familists themselves / (if we will believe them / ) they are born of the holy Ghost / and of the pure virgin Mary / and are not only their own saviors / but / as a little before in the same place he writeth / the seed out of the faith of Abraham, & out of the pure Virgin Mary, is the true seed of promise, to the blessing of all generations of the earth. Thus do these caytiffs take to themselves the honor of Christ; and though the Prophet telleth us but of one child that is born unto us / which should be prince of peace / should order and stablish the kingdom of David forever: yet these tell us of many children of the pure virgin Mary / as being that seed of promise in whom all generations of the earth should be blessed. How they have this strange birth / we may gather by H. N. his learned interpretation of the name Mary / which he saith signifieth a Doctresse; for the doctrine of H. N. is that whereby his disciples are born anew; as elsewhere he expoūde that to be born of the virgin Mary out of the seed of David after the flesh / is of the pure doctrine out of the seed of Lov. Now Mary called in Greek Mariam / in Hebrew Mirjam, I find in the scripture to signify their rebellion; Nehem. 9. 17. which name very fitly agreeth to the Familists Doctrine: but how or in what tongue it signifieth a Doctresse / themselves I suppose can hardly show / unless upon H. Ns authority / who as he hath given them a new gospel / so also a new language / (far differing from the language of Canaan / ) whereby they may make what meaning and gather what allegories they liest from words; and none must suspect any unwisdom to be in them.

Secondly H. N. saith that thissame Son of God beareth in them their sins; whereas that Son of God / in whom the scriptures teach us to believe / hath washed us from our sins in his own blood / and put thē away by the sacrifice of himself: for he was wounded for our transgressions; his own self bare our sins in his body on the tree / and died for us. How erroneously then doth H. N. persuade / that Christ beareth in us our sins?

Thirdly he saith that Christ is gone before us / for that we should in like manner follow after him under the obedience of his Love, in his death of the cross / to the safemaking of us from our sins: so teaching us to save ourselves by imitation of Christ; this being all the benefit we have by his death / that it is an example unto us how to do likewise. Wherein H. N. showeth himself to be a greater enemy to Christianity then was Caiaphas / who said it was expedient that One man should die for the people / and that the whole nation perished not; so prophesying that Christ should die for the nation; whereas H. N. would have men die themselves for their own salvation / that so they might all perish forever. But we have otherwise learned the true Christ / who was delivered to death for our sins / and is risen again for our justification. That as by one man / (the first Adam) syn entered into the world, and death by syn / and so death went over all men; so by one man / (the second Adam Christ) we might reign in life / and as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners / so by the obedience of one / many might he made righteous.

Fourthly H. N. teacheth that men are baptized under the obedience of the belief in his name or safemaking, and bury even so through the Beleef, the old man &c. to the forgiving and releasing of their sins. Where again he perversely applieth that to obedience and mortification / which is due unto faith. For when the Eunuch would be baptized / Philip required nothing of him but to believe; and Paul saith / to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness. Although therefore obedience to the faith must be given by all true Christians / and they which are baptized into I. Christ / are baptized into his death and burial; yet is not this done / to the forgiving and releasing of their sins, as H. N. Pharisaically inferreth; but to show forth the fruit and force of faith / whereby the just do live / and lay hold on Christ / whom God hath set forth for a reconciliation though faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness by the forgiveness of sins that ar passed through the patience of God.

Whereas therefore H. N. doth gather from the premisses that this (which he hath set down) is the upright Christiā baptism in the name of the Son, & is the true forgiveness & purging of our sins through Jesus Christ; he is found a false witness against God and Christ / and would give us a sinful sink of error / even a vain persuasion of our own obedience righteousness and sanctification / to wash ourselves in; and hath royled with his feet / the pure fountayn of Christ's blood / which cleanseth all believers from all syn. That upon himself his own words may justly be retorted / he boasteth himself of the baptismey of Christ, and he hath not known him in any world.

Of like leaven / is *H. N.*s baptism in the name of the holy Ghost; which he maketh to be also the second birth out of the holy Ghost, the true love of God & Christ. And this (even as the former of baptising in the name of the Father and of the Son / ) we must not understand / of any outward action by the minister of Christ / washing with water as did John the Baptist / nor yet to be done at one and the same time with the former: but as H. N. saith / in the oldnes of time, when the days of the patience of Christ, in the obedience of the holy and gracious word, & his service of Love are fulfilled, (that is / when men have walked long enough in the Familists religion) that then the holy Ghost becometh poured forth through Jesus Christ (understanding / *H. N.*s Christ / to weat / the Lovely being;) over them all that have followed Christ in his death of the cross obediently, (that is / which have saved themselves from their sins / by their own fantastical sufferings / ) and have kept his doctrine, with the word of his patience even unto the end. Thus hath this deceiver of minds / drawn all God's ordinance of Baptism / (which with men is outward / and was by the Apostles administred with material water / ) unto a blasphemous imagined Being and conformity with God / or regenerated estate: and the holy doctrine of Justification / by forgiveness of sins through the blood of Christ shed for us / and sealed unto us in baptism; he hath wiped away under color of Sanctification or deification by our own following of Christ. Which things he teacheth by the same spirit that the Serpent taught Evah not to fear the outward eating of the forbidden fruit, seeing she should be like unto God / knowing good and evil.

19. After such a like manner witnesseth Paul of the supper of Christ where he saith, so many of you as have eaten of one bread, are become partakers of one body. Hath any man now rightly used the supper of Christ, the same is then become partaker of the body of Christ, according to the mentioning of the scripture.

20. Therefore see unto it, yea see unto it, everyone which saith, that he hath fulfilled the service of Christ, or would be a disciple of Christ. For those services and ceremonies which are ministered through the commandment of the holy Ghost, out of a Christianlike Being; they have the promises whiles they are rightly obeyed, that should receive the pledge of the godly inheritance, which is the holy Ghost. And where that cometh not to pass, unto them there is not the Christian service ministered; let them make them then so like fashioned to the scripture as they will. For whatsoever is served without the spirit of Christ, it is an abomination before God; therein may everyone think freely.

H. A.

That which is here said of the supper of Christ / if an honest faithful mā had written the same; might well be yielded unto / for in the words there would lurk no fraud. But coming from this old seducer / H. N. and being affixed to his former heresies / I deny that after such a like manner (as H. N. before treated of Bapisme) Paul witnesseth of the supper of Christ. For Paul saith not that we ar one Being with Christ / but that we are the body of Christ / and that the bread which we break / is the communion of his body; which body we eat and have communion with / by faith / not really and essentially as fleshly men imagine; and we ar called the body of Christ, not properly but figuratively / by way of similitude / and in great mystery; for as a man joined to a woman / is one flesh, so he that is joined unto the Lord is one Spirit. But as the woman / notwithstanding her conjunction / is not the man / neither hath the Being of the man; so the church notwithstanding her conjunction / is not Christ / neither hath the Being of Christ but by faith is coupled unto him / as he saith by the prophet / I will marry the unto me in faith.

Now that H. N. hath the like gross understanding of the Lord's supper / as he shown before of Baptism; appeareth not only by his entrance saying After such a like manner &c: but also by his words in his Gospel where speaking of the Passover, he saith Christ gav his disciples to drink out of the cup, (which is his passion,) his true blood, which is his holy life of the New Testament. Thus applieth he all things about Christ / to a holy life; even then and there / where it is plainly spoken of death. For though blood whiles it is in the body / is the life of the same: yet when it is shed out of the body / (as Christ there saith his was / ) it signifieth death & not the life of the party; as also the Apostle testifieth / so oft as ye eat this bread / and drink this cup ye show the Lord's death til he come. And as David would not drink the water that came out of the well of Bethlehē / because it was the blood of the men that fetched it / that is / because they jeoparded their lives unto the death to fetch it; so we when we drink the wine out of the cup in the Lord's supper / do drink the blood of Christ, that is his death which for our sins he did undergo. But H. N. by the spirit of error that possessed him / he takes Christ's death for us / to be a holy life in us; as before is more largely shown.

Vnsound it is / and savoring of a fāstical spirit / that he opposeth in the end / the services and ceremonies which ar ministered through the comandement of the holy Ghost out of a Christian like being, unto the service fashioned like to the scripture. For there is no service commanded by the holy Ghost, but it is fashioned like to the scripture, and hath the ground and warrant therfrom; otherwise it cometh from the Spirit of Satan / and not from God. For God's Spirit leadeth men into all truth / John. 16. 13. and it is God's word which is the truth. John. 17. 17. The three that bear witness in heaven / The Father, the Word, and the holy Ghost, as they ar in Being / so are they also in their testimony one. 1. John. 5. 7. As the doctrine of Christ was not his own / but the Fathers that sent him: so neither is the doctrine of the holy Ghost his own / but the sons that sent him / as Christ witnesseth saying he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear he shall speak; and again he shall glorify me, for he shall receive of mine, and shall show it unto yow. Now seeing the holy Ghost teacheth no other doctrine then Christ / nor Christ then the Father; and seeing Christ himself sendeth all men to serch the scriptures / as they which testify of him; and his Apostle hath taught us / that the knowledge of the scriptures is able to make us wise unto salvation through the faith which is in Christ Jesus: we may veryly deem it to be a delusion of Satan / whatsoever any would teach us touching God's service / that is not warranted by the scriptures; and that those are spirits of error / which so disdeyn and scoff at scripture-learning, and boast of illumination by the holy Ghost.

Vnsound also it is / and contrary to the scriptures / that H. N. here would persuade us / that where it cometh not to pass, that the holy Ghost which is the pledge of the godly inheritance, is not received: unto them there is not the Christian service ministered. For the Apostle showeth / that Israel had the true Christian service ministered to them / when they did all eat the same spiritual meat / and drink of the spiritual Rock which followed them / which Rock was Christ: yet received they not the Godly inheritance which is the holy Ghost; for with many of them God was not pleased / they were overthrown in the wilderness / and could not enter into the Rest of God / because of their unbelief. The Christian service was rightly administered to Simon Magus, whē he was baptized: yet was not his heart right in the sight of God; also unto Judas, when he did sit and eat with the other Apostles; yet even then Satan / (and not the holy Ghost / ) entered into him. Even so with us / the true Christian service in the administration of the word / seals / and censures / is set forth and practiced: though many receive it into evil harts and unfaithful / to their greater condemnation. But the elect of God / are edified / comforted and confirmed in his grace hereby: though these are not many; for many be called but few elected. Mat. 20. 16

Again / H. N. hath here set down that which overthroweth the whole scope of his writing; when he saith / Those services & ceremonies which are ministered through the commandment of the holy Ghost, out of a Christian-like Being; they have the promises, whiles they are rightly obeyed &c. If thus it be; then ought all Christians to labor and seek for those services and ceremonies / (as he calleth them) that so they may obtain the promises: then also must they shun and refrain from all false and human ceremonies or services / which have no promise / and are but the profaning of God's name. And this is our cause / faith and practice / which witness against and abstain from the Antichristian services and ceremonies of Popery / for which doing / the world hateth and persecuteth us: from which profession / practice / and patient suffering / this writer would dissuade / and allure to communion with wickedness / by the vain pretenses set forth in this Letter: as after more plainly followeth.

H. N.

21. Oh, how well should they do, which do now extol themselves before the simple, and say that they are preachers of Christ, if they would first learn to know Christ, before they made themselves ministers of him. They will preach the word of Christ, and yet they have not according to the Spirit, seen the fashion or shape of Christ, or heard of the same in any world. They say the scripture witnesseth unto us, that we for Christ's cause should forsake our lives, the which according to the truth, is very true: but the most part which speaks so much thereof, they themselves understand not the mind or meaning of God, in that which the scripture saith: namely, how that we must hate and forsake our own life, or else we cannot be the disciples of Christ. Therefore mark well thereupon; & not only upon that, but also upon all the witnessings of the scripture.

22, Oh understand advisedly what I do write, of the forsaking of our own life. When God had created the man, then was the man in subjection to the life of God, and not to his own life: for thereunto God had created the man, that he should be of one life, one being, one Spirit, and of one nature with God. But when the man desired in his heart, to love some other thing beside the life of God, (namely the concupiscence of the syn,) then went he into his own life, and contentation, and forsook the life of God, and lived even so his own life, and the life of the Devil.

23. The whiles now that the office of Christ hath his ministration, for to bring the man again unto God the Father: so cannot Christ bring the man to the Father, unless that the man forsake his own life, which he hath lived so long to the Devil and to himself, which is all that same wherein he hath sought, loved & lived to himself.

24. Is not this now a great overshooting or misunderstanding that the children of men, can say and teach, that Christ meant hereby, the natural or elementish man?

H. A.

IT had been well in deed if H. N. who so extolleth himself before the simple, & saith that he is a preacher of Christ, (yea Godded with God / ) would first have learned to know Christ, before he had made himself a minister of him. For now being ignorant of the principles of religion / and a mere stranger from the life of God; he hath perverted all things to his own and there men's perdition. Witnes this his corrupt doctrine about the forsaking of our own life. Wherein he first and generally seeketh to color his iniquity with deceit and fraud. For / to persuade that we need not give our lives / our natural & elementish lives, for Christ's cause / at any time; which is a doctrine of the serpent: he maketh a discourse of our spiritual life in synn / and the old man corrupted with vices / that we ought to lay down and forsake; which we all acknowledge to be a truth. And from this he gathereth a great overshooting and misunderstanding, of such as say Christ meant the natural or elementish man; which is a false and deceitful conclusion. We know that these both are required at our hands; the one (which is the mortifying of lusts and sinful affections / ) of all men / if they would be saved: the other (which is a suffering of natural death for Christ's sake / ) of so many as God calleth thereunto / in times of persecution. But H. N. urgeth the one / that he might abolish the other; with as good reason / as if one should persuade us not to serv or worship God with body, because Christ saith / we must worship him in spirit; or as if to defend fleshly filthynes / he should reason in this manner. The wordome which God condemneth, is the whoring with men's own inventions, Psal. 106. 39. the fornication, with stones and stocks, Ier. 3. 9. the going a whoring after other God's. Deut. 31. 16. Is not this then a great overshooting or misunderstanding, that the children of mē can say & teach of that commandment, Thou shalt not comit whoredom, Deut. 5. 18. that God meant hereby fleshly whoredom, done by the natural or elemētish man? Loe this is the mould of H. Ns argument / and may as truly be alleged for defense of carnal fornication / as he allegeth it for defēce of carnal idolatry / which he would persuade these two daughters to commit with the man of syn, rather then to suffer bands or death for the witness of Christ's truth. Neither is it to be thought but he thus understandeth in deed the 7. commandment; who so erroneously understandeth / and expoundeth the second / for the maintenance of his fleshly ease. But Oh he would have us understand advisedly what he doth write of the forsaking of our own life. God (saith H. N.) had created the man, that he should be of one Life, one Being, one spirit, and of one nature with God; this he meaneth / as before we have seen / to be godded with God, and that the man should be all that God was. Which blasphemous error / I have before by the scriptures refuted. Neither doth H. N. confirm his cursed doctrine here by any scripture; because in deed he cannot. For all that the scripture saith is / that God created man in his own image and likeness, Gen. 1 26. & 5. 2. but that the man should be of one

*Being with him; it saith not / but H. N. hath forged it out of his arrogant mind / who would thrust himself into God's throne. The image of God, is expounded by the Apostle to be inknowledge, righteousness and true holiness: and H. N. addeth / to be of one Being. which if it had been true / then could not man have fallen anymore then God himself; and if he had had the same life essentially with God; then should he have ben immortal / and incorruptible / death could never hav seised on him / 1. Tim. 6. 16. So H. N. must either deny the fall and corruption of man / whereof not only the word of God / but nature itself and daily experience will convince him / and himself yieldeh: or else / he must hold a God subject to corruption and mortality. Which if he do / then is he a monster among men / and a wonderment to the very hethen. For whereas the Stoicks of old / esteemed their God's subject to all human changes and corruption; a hethen man writing against them saith; It may be one may meet with some barbarous and savage men, that think there is no god: but there hath not been any one man found, who thought their was a God, and yet the same not free from corruption, and eternal. Let this error therefore (which draweth such hethenish and blasphemous consequences after it / ) return into H. Ns. bosom where first the Serpent hatched it.*

The next deceit wherewith he would beguile his reader / lieth in this word Life; whereby he meaneth man's carriage or conversation / according as the Apostle speaketh of walking in newness of Life, Rom. 6. 4.: whereas the Life which Christ telleth us we must be ready to lay down for his sake / is another thing / both for Name and signification; For the Name, is Psuche, the sowl, Luk. 17. 33. & 9. 23. 24. which word howsoever we may translate Life, because the sowl is the life of the body; yet can we not take it for a Life or conversation, which the Apostle in Rom. 6. calleth Zoe, Whereas therefore H. N. speaketh of the Life of God, and then of man's own life, and life of the Devil; (as if Christ spake or meant of it / when he speaketh and meaneth of the Sowl and natural life;) herein he useth fraud / and not Christian simplicity; or ells / bewrayeth gross ignorance. Which may yet further be thus proved. Our savior speaketh of such a Life as himself laid-down for us / saying / I lay down my life for my sheep; now let H. N. say what life that was; whither it were not his very natural and elementish life; (as he calleth it) for I hope he will not be so wretched as to say that Christ had any wicked sinful life or life of the Devil in him / to lay down; seeing we know that in Christ there never was synn; or if he should be so absurd as to say it / yet Christ himself will convince him saying I lay down my life, that I might take it again; for was he to take again a sinful life? far be it from Christian thoughts. Now from this example of Christ the Apostle reasoneth thus / Hereby have we perceived love, that he laid down his Life for us: therefore we ought also to lay down our lives for the brethren. So then what Life or Sowl Christ laid down for us; the like ar we to lay down for our brethren; and for Christ himself / (as Peter said he would;) but that was no sinful life or conversation / but the natural life which he did lay down; therefore ours must be the like. Again this is further confirmed by Christ's words saying / hethat looseth his life (or sowl) for my sake shall find it; meaning in the world or life to come; but I hope we shall there find no sinful life, such as H. N. fancieth Christ here to mean. Again the words following make it more plain / Christ saying For what should it profit a man though he should win the whole world, if he loose his own life (or sowl.) But it is our greatest profit / to loose our sinful life. Of that therefore Christ speaketh not / as any reasonable man may perceive. So the Psyche sowl or life, which we must be ready at God's pleasure to lay down for Christ's cause / is not only the sinful life, but also the natural life of the natural or elementish man; and H. N. is but a carnal worldling to love his elementish life more then Christ / and teach men so; under color of forsaking our own wicked life and life of the Devil.

If the prophets and Apostles had known this deep understanding which H. N. conceiveth, and had not thought they were also bound to lay down the natural and elementish man, they would never have endured such things in their flesh as is witnessed of them. What needed Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, to have changed the kings commandment / and yielded their bodies to the fire / rather then they would serv or worship his image; or Daniel have jeoparded his life among the Lions; or Stephen have been stoned to death for confessing of Christ; or others to have been racked / scourged / prisoned / hewn asunder / slain with the sword &c? or what meant the Apostles / to show us these patterns / and will us to take the prophets for an example of suffering adversity? Was is not (thinketh H. N.) a great overshooting or misunderstanding in all these / to teach both by word and practice / that afflictions should be suffered in the natural or elementish man? Or rather had not all these holy martyrs / first laid down the spiritual sinful life, and then gave up the natural life also? How contrary then is this H. N. to all holy men that ever were or wrote / that thus dissuadeth frō the outward cross / under pretence of inward holiness? Therefore let us all y<sup>t</sup> lov the Lord Jesus / say Anathema to such false prophets / as thus teach doctrine contrary to the scriptures / for to favor the flesh / & avoid afflictiō / as is best pleasing to their sēsual minds. Let the same mind be in us that was in Christ Jesus / who (besides the troubles and anguishes in his heart) humbled himself and became obedient unto the death / evē the death of the cross. And he which suffered these things for us / hath left us an ensample (as saith the Apostle) that we should follow his steps; who his own self bare our sins in his body on the tree. And let us learn with Paul, to take pleasures in infirmities / in reproaches / in necessities / in persecutions / in scipes and prisonment / in hunger and thirst / in cold and nakedness / and all other anguish for Christ's sake; for when we are weak / then are we strong; and this is a part of our mortification and denial of ourselves: unto which when true faith and obedience in the spirit is adjoined / God's work goeth forward in us towards perfection / the end whereof will be everlasting life.

H. N.

25. Oh comprehend I beseech yow, the understanding. We ourselves have not made the natural mā: wherefor he cannot belong unto us. For the heaven with the earth and all that is therein, belongeth unto God; and it is God's pleasure and will; that all shaped creatures, so well the manly creature as any other of all those which God hath created, should live, and that it mought go well with them.

26. What shall the man then forsake, that he mought be reconciled to God? not anything else but his own life, that is the man of syn, which hath so long lien hidd in the heart of man, which is the temple of God, and hath said that he was God. 2. Thes. 2.

H. A.

IT is hard to comprehend any good understanding in anything which H. N. doth write / he is so ledd with the spirit of error in all his ways. yet may we comprehend that his first reason here is against himself; we have not made the natural man; wherefor he cannot belong unto us. Very true; but God hath made it; therefore it belongs to him. If he made it / and it be his; then may he require it when he will / and we must not deny him his own. Now he requireth it / when for witness of his truth men will shed our blood; though they do it unjustly / yet his requiring is just; and we may not deny him or his truth / for the saving of our lives; as before is proved. Of this reason therefore which H. N. bringeth / we may say with the prophet / his sword hath entered into his own heart.

His next reason is a depth of iniquity; for seeming to plead for God / he seeketh to draw men from God. God's will is (saith he) that all shaped creatures, so well the manly creature as any other, should live & that it might go well with thē. So then to save their natural lives / y<sup>e</sup> Familists think they may deny & forswear Christ & all true religion; & may communicate with all idolatry & worship of devils / if Princes vpō payn of death / shall so cōmand. This was the intendement of this present Letter / sent to two maidens / that refused (as it seemeth) the idolatrous Mass and subjectiō to the Romish Antichrist / with hazard of their lives. This is the daily practice of the Nicolaitans H. Ns disciples / who rather then they will suffer imprisonment / banishment / death or the like / for their religion; will join with Papists / Protestants / Arians / Anabaptists / or any religion / if the magistrate authorize and command it. For though they hold that their God of Love (as they cal him) is the true living God, and besides him there is no God more; and his God's-service of Love, which they minister under the obedience of his Love, is the true safe-making God's-service, and besides the same there is not any God's-service more, neither in heaven nor yet in earth: yet will they partake with any of the Gods-services used in the world / though they be contrary one to another. For H. N. in his new Gospel complaineth that many have vnorderly rejected and blasphemed the services and ceremonies of the catholic church of Rome, rented the concord & nurturable sustentation of the same, & turned them away therfrom, & even so out of their knowledge which they took out of the scripture, brought in certain services & ceremonies in another wise or order &c. But his disciples in England / which land hath rejected / and departed from the catholic church of Rome / (as many other nations have / ) do pretend / in their late supplicatiō to the King, y<sup>t</sup> they ar his true faithful loyal and obedient subjects, to all his laws and ordinances spiritual & temporal, and do deny that they vary or swerve frō the now established religion in this land, either in services, ceremonies, sermons or sacraments. Thus either H. N. or these his followers / or both / must needs be hypocrites / that so do write and profess of two adverse churches and religions; when in deed they approve of neither, but think as H. Ns Co-elder avoucheth / that they which remain without them and their Communalitie, and without the Requiring of the gracious Word, and his Service of Love, or withdraw them selves therfrō: have no living God, nor yet true God-service; but are without God, and without God's-service, in this world. yet notwithstanding this their judge meant and profession, rather then the manly creature should die / they will fall down before idols / will deny their God of Love, and will worship the Papists God of bread in the Mass / yea will confess or deny any point of doctrine / and submit unto any God's-service or religion. And if they will thus do / in things concerning God; how much more may we think they will so do / in things concerning men. That if any Prince should be so wicked as to forbid all marriage on payn of death / and command or permit a community of womē / or whoredom; these mē rather thē y<sup>e</sup> manlie creature should perish / would not spare to defile their bodies (as well as their souls) in all manner filthynes. Yet syn they not (as they perhaps think) if their God of Love have their heart in hold / and they be obedient to the requiring of the service of the Love; for as H. N. saith They know not of any other religion or godservice, then of the service of Love.

But let us further see / if we can comprehend what H. Ns. position here doth imply. If it be God's will that the manly creature should live; and this be absolute and without restraynt; then may not the Magistrate put any to death for any crime; or make war upon any occasion; for H. N. will tell the magistrate / he made not the natural man, wherefor he cannot belong unto him; but unto God, & his will is, that all shaped creatures should live, and that it mought go well with them. This Anabaptistical error / is built on H. Ns. rotten ground; and that the Familists do indeed deny the use of the sword unto the Magistrate (contrary to Paul's doctrine Rom. 13.) and all use of wars / may appear by H. Ns. words elsewhere / complaing of the Land of ignorance (which is everywhere / but in his Family) that they make there many swords, halberds, spears, bows & arrows, guns, pellets, powder, armor or harness &c. for that the tyrannical oppressors and those that have a pleasure in destroying, should use war & battle therewithal one against another. And because the taking away of the sword / is the frustrating of the magistrates office / (for wherefor serveth he / if not as for the wealth of the good / so to take vengeance on them that do evil?) therefore it followeth necessarily / that they condemn all magistracy in the church / as do also the Anabaptists; for H. N. saith of his lovely city / that no man reigneth over another, and that pleaseth God well, namely that the one man of God reigneth not over the other. Thus under a color that God's creatures all should live / he would abolish God's ordinances / (who hath commanded that some malefactors should die and not live) and bring confusion upon civil polities / as he hath upon Christian religion.

Again / in that he saith all shaped creatures should live / and then the manly creature, so well as any other; will it not follow also hereupon that Beasts must live / & may not be killed for the food of man. For they are shaped creatures / and made by God / not by us; and so by H. Ns. learning / cannot belong unto us; and therefore may not be killed for our sustenance; though God do plainly permit it in his law / Gen. 9. 3. Deut. 12. 20. 21. 22. And so here is another doctrine of Devils, (as the holy Ghost calleth it) comprehended in this Oldest Fathers deep head / whiles by consequence he commandeth to abstain from meats; or else his ey-sight failed him / when he set down this reason. But the Apostle gathereth quite contrary to this man; as namely because / The earth is the Lord's and the plenty thereof / therefore we may eat all flesh / 1 Cor. 10. 25. 26. Accordingly / should H. N. (if he had savoured the things of God) have reasoned and concluded; The Lord made our bodies and our souls / therefore it belongeth unto us / to look that with both we glorify him. The body is for the Lord / therefore not for fornicatiō: the body is the temple of the holy Ghost; therefore it may not be prostrate before idols; for what agreement hath the temple of God with idols; the body is the Lord's / therefore it may not sit at the table of Devils; and whatsoever the heathens or Antichristians offer / they offer unto Devils / and we cannot drink the cup of the Lord / and the cup of Devils. Thus should H. N. if any Christian wisdom or grace had been in him / have collected and inferred; and not as now he doeth / persuade the two daughters to communion with the church of Rome / (which the holy Ghost calleth the habitation of Devils) because their bodies or lives are the Lord's; and it belongs not unto them / to lay down their natural lives for the testimony of Jesus at any time.

But if H. N. had known in any world what the true life meaneth; he would not so have dissuaded from suffering temporary death for the Gospels sake. This present life (which he so much esteemeth) is adying daily, as the Apostle teacheth: the true life is / when the body having been sown in dishonor / shall be raised in glory. Of which raising up / this Sadducee H. N. is utterly ignorant / as after shall be shown; and in his ignorance perverteth all religion / and even reason itself / for to maintain a momentary natural life / though it be to the / perpetual damnation of body and sowl in hell.

His conclusiō what the man must forsake, that he may be reconciled to God? not anything else but his own life, that is the man of syn &c. is like his premisses / full of guile and error; and what truth is in it / is against himself. Erroneous it is / to say or to insinuate / that we may be reconciled to God, by anything that we can forsake / be it syn or what else. For our reconciliatiō to God is wrought by Christ alone / not by ourselves when we forsake synn; of which point we have before spoken. Guileful it is to say or insinuate / that Christ in willing us to forsake our lives for his sake / meant that by so doing / we should be reconciled to God, or that we do so esteem of any martyrs death. The man doth by it / (as Christ signified of Peters death) glorify God; unto whom he was before by Christ's death reconciled. False it is to say a man must not forsake anything else but his own sinful life; for Christ telleth us further offorsaking houses, brethren, sisters, father, mother, wife, children, lands for his names sake; and these I trow are not also the Man of syn that lieth hid in man's heart. But it was far from H. Ns heart / to forsake any of these for Christ; he loved his sensual life so well.

Erroneous it is / that our sinful life is that man of synn spoken of 2 Thes. 2. of which point / is to be spoken in the next place.

And this only truth / that we should forsake our own sinful life, overthroweth H. Ns doctrine / and his disciples practice. For syn it is and a continual sinful life / to frequent idolatrous assemblies / hear mass / worship a God of bread / and the beast Antichrist; observe his wicked ceremonies / and profess his heretical doctrines; as the Nicolaitans will do / and H. N. would persuade these daughters unto; whiles yet he pretends to have them leave syn. Dissimulation and hypocrisy / is a hateful syn both to God and man; wherein they that live / are altogether strangers from the life of God: and this is the trade of life and religion among the Familists, who hating all religions but their own; yet will profess counterfeit and walk in any religion / save their own; for that they do only in secret / because their works are evil; but God in his time / will give them their due reward / even openly.

27. Oh how grossly then do they comprehend this, which signify or apply this same unto us upon the Pope of Rome, & say that the Pope is the Antichrist. Oh, oh, no: the Antichrist is nearer unto us, were it well known. The wisdom of the flesh, wherewithal the man will judge the godly causes, is verily the right Antichrist; I say, the wicked nature of the Devil, (wherewith the man is of one mind; so long as he in the renewing of his spirit, is not incorporated with Christ,) is verily that same right Antichrist. Oh understand it rightly, with an vnpartial heart.

H. A.

HEre H. N. crieth out of their gross comprehension, that say / the Pope of Rome is the man of syn, the Antichrist; in the meā time / he showeth himself to be most gross / and carnal in his comprehension / that expoundeth that man of syn spoken of 2 Thes. 2. to be The wisdom of the flesh; the wicked nature of the Devil &c. The vanity and falsehood whereof / every babe in Christ / that looketh into that scripture / may easily perceive. For the Apostle speaking there of the day of Christ's coming, teacheth them not to expect that / until the departing (from the faith) were first come, and the man of syn, the Son of perdition were first disclosed. But the wisdom of the flesh and wicked nature of the Devil, was come already / for Adam and his children had brought it forth and nourished it in the world / even from the beginning Gen 3. Rom. 5. 12. 14. 17. 18. &c. and it was disclosed both by the Law / Rom. 3. 20. and by the Gospel already preached / 1 Cor. 1. 18. 19. 21. 27. and 2. 6. 7. &c. 1 John 3. 8. &c. Wherefore it is but deceiving of men's souls / to teach them to wait and look for that thing to come / which is already come; and H. N. showeth how far he is from understanding the scriptures / which yet so insolently vaunteth himself over all men. As for us / we have learned of the Apostles / to understand generally every false prophet to be an Antichrist, 1 John. 2. 18 19. 22. But specially one great Antichrist to come after the Apostles times / whose mystery began even then to work whiles they lived; but something there was which then withheld his reveling / (namely the hethen monarchy of the Roman empire / ) which at that time withheld and hindered (the doctrine of the Gospel) by open tyranny and persecution; and should let the working and disclosing of that great Antichrist in the Papacie / until himself (that hethen Empire) were taken out of the way. Then after him should arise another Beast or Monarchy / with horns like the Lamb (Christ / ) pretending his faith and Religion / (as do the Papists / ) though his speech be like the Dragons / in all damnable doctrines and idolatries. And this Antichrist, should seat himself in the Temple or house of God / (which is the Church;) and in the consciences of men / by his errors wherewith he should deceive men's souls. A large and lively description of which Beast and great whore / that reigneth in the city built on 7. hills / we have in the book of Revelation / the light whereof H. N. would darken by the fogs and mists / of his own fleshly and allegorical interpretations.

Now that the reader may see how good a proctor H. N. is for the Pope / and wherefor he is so nearly affected to him / and denieth him to be Antichrist; it shall not be amiss / to show what pains he hath taken / to compare himself and his society with the Pope / and his clergy: that all mē may discern them to be both sworn brothers against Christ.

In his new Gospel / called Evangelium regni, H. N. hath thus applied things / This same foregoing (saith he) of the Elders of the holy understanding, and their anointing of the holy Ghost, to Priests Elders and Fathers, hath the catholic church of Rome, til unto this day, ministered and observed in figures, as is abovesaid. For to a token of remembrance of the holy anointing of Christ with the holy spirit, they have used the anointing with oil, & it is a sacrament of the holy church of Christ, which signifieth unto us the anointing of the Priests or Elders, with the holy Ghost.

5. Of which anointed Elders or foregoers of the cōminality of the catholic church of Rome, the chiefest anointed is named Papa, & signifieth unto us an old Father in the holy understanding: also the chief Bishop or high priest which hath his being or conversation in the most holy of the true and perfect sanctuary, & ministereth his office of the holy word therout, and for that cause is also named The most holy Father. &c.

Those now that are next to the forenamed Papa, are named Cardinals, which signify unto us the principallest, which are nearest in the most holy understanding of the godliness, unto the Eldest or holiest Father; and have their communion with him in the most holy of the true and perfect being &c.

After this he proceedeth to show how the Bishops signified the pastors of the sheep and lambs of Christ; The Parish priests or curats, signified Levitical priests, or adjoined Pastors and elders of the holy understanding &c. The Deacons, signified ministers or helpers of the parish priests in the holy Godservices; The Sextons, signified conservers or keepers of the holy things. The many manner of orders, wherthrough many anointed ones and zealous people sought the righteousness and holiness, which are named Monks, signified such as dwell alone, & are through the love of the righteousness Sanctified, & for that cause also separated from the world, and from all what is worldly and fleshly &c. And, Next unto all these forenamed anointed ones, are the common people, which believe and cleave unto the services religions and ceremonies of the Anoynted, and which also humble them to the requiring of those same, &c.

Thus hath H. N. fetched the mystery of his Family of Love / from the Popes forge; that all men may see it is no marvel that he denieth the Pope to be Antichrist; for H. N. (the oldest Father of this Family / ) will be the Papa and great Antichrist himself / and the Pope of Rome / was but his shadow and figure. Howbeit / herein he was overseen to gather his pedigree frō the Papacie / which he enought much better have fetched frō the holy scriptures; (but that he is an enemy to scripture learning: as he ofteñ bewrayeth.) For H. N. the greatest in the Family / who is (as himself saith) Godded with God in the spirit of his Love; Because The God of heaven as the Father himself, is come down, & bringeth in the service of his Love, himself with his Christ, & his holy Ghost, & with all that which with him is God's, unto his obedient man H. N. & Godding the same with him, he hath manned him with the same; This new God of the Nicolaitans is described in scripture thus; They have a king over them which is the Angel of the bottomless pit, (for so also H. N. saith / he was raised up from the death;) whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, and in Greek he is named Apollyon, [in all languages / The destroyer.] The doctrine taught by this H. N. corrupting and darkening all the holy scriptures / was figured out by the smoke of the botomlesse pit, which darkened sun and aier. And the ylluminated Elders of this Family / ar pourtrahed out by Locusts that came out of the smoke of H. N. his heresies / with stings in their tayls like scorpions / to wound men's consciences by their deceivable doctrines. This had ben a directer and playner pourtrature of the Familists / then that figure fetched frō the Papists. And thus we may perceive / it was not without cause that H. N. cried out / Oh, oh, no, the Antichrist is nearer unto us, wer it well known; when in deed so great a monster of Antichristianity was hatched in his own bosom / who thus hath Deified himself and blasphemed God? Neither is he a friend to Popery only / and a Lover of the whore of Babylon; but of Judaism also / that he may appear to be quite abolished from Christ. Paul in his Epistle to the Hebrews / proveth at large the abrogating of the Levitical Priesthood and sacrifices / by the coming of our high priest Christ Jesus / and sacrifice of his own body / (according as was prophesied of him / that he should cause sacrifice and; oblation to cease;) and for the Jews / that would still continue their figurative worship / he showeth them to have no part in Christ / when he saith We have an altar, whereof they have no authority to eat which serv in the Tabernacle. But H. N. teacheth us that the services of Aarōs priesthood are yet necessary for some; in these words / Oh alas, how grossly hav then certain wise of the world, and scripture-learned overreached them herein, which have without diversity forsakē the law & the service of the Elders Testament, and of the Priests office after the ordinance of Aaron, and set back the same as a thing vnnedful: not once distincting unto whom the service after the ordinance of Aaron, is yet necessary, nor yet with whom the same at th'appointed time ceaseth or leaveth off. Thus H. N. showeth how good a friend he is to Jews and Papists; But his enmity against Christ and his Gospel / cannot easily be opened / it is in so many particulars. He thrusteth himself into Christ's throne / and maketh himself the Judge of all the world; For behold (saith he) in this present day, the glorious coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with his many thousands of his saints, which hath set himself now upon the seat of his Majesty, for to judge in this same day which the Lord hath ordained or appointed, the whole world with equity &c. with many like speeches (as before is shown) wherein the scriptures which foretell of Christ's coming to judgment at the worlds end / H, N. applieth to himself; and so the plain doctrines of the gospel / are made but fabulous / by this blasphemers allegory: and he showeth himself to be the Father of those mockers that wer foretold should come in the last days / which walking after their lusts / should say where is the promise of his coming? &c. Now because at Christ's coming / must be the resurrection of the dead / therefore that one error / necessarily draweth on another / namely that the resurrectiō is past already, which was the kanker whereby Hymenaeus and Philetus in the Apostles days / destroyed the faith. This heresy hath H. N. published in his Gospel; saying / Behold in this present day is this scripture fulfilled and according to the testimony of the scripture, the raising up & the resurrection of the Lord's dead cometh also to pass presently in this same day, through the appearing of the cōing of Christ in his majesty. Which resurrection of the dead, seeing that the same is come unto us from God's grace, we do likewise in this present day, to an Evangelie or joyful message of the kingdom of God & Christ, publish in all the world, under the obedience of the Love. In which resurrection of the dead God showeth unto us, that the time is now fulfilled that his dead, or the dead which ar fallen a sleep in the Lord, rise up in this day of his judgment, & appear unto us in Godly glory, which shall also from henceforth live in us everlastingly with Christ, and reign upon the earth. Thus hath this Sadducee overturned that main ground and principle of Christian religion / without which our faith were but vain / and we were of all men the most miserable; And that his religion might be even a sink of sinful errors / he hath taught / that in their Lovely society / they do not vow or bind themselves in the matrimony of men, nor yet suffer themselves to be bound therein, but are like the Angels of heaven: to verify the Apostles words / that in the latter times some should teach and give heed unto doctrines of Devils / forbidding to marry &c. Now seeing he saith in another place / that they commit not any adultery, for they are honest & chaste of life, and clean or pure of heart; what may we think is among them / but a cōmunity of all men and women / yet without syn (as they suppose / ) so long as it is not with them of the World / especially seeing he saith also further / There is no man that claimeth anything to be his own, as to possess the same to his own private use. For no man (& that out of every ones good disposition) can desire anything to be his own, or yet to make anything proper to himself from another, but also whatsoever is there is free, & is there left free in his upright form. Ther is also no man denied to use anything in freedom, of all what is profitable and needful for him; for they stand all in the equity as one in the Love; and again / That they know not of any other religion or God-service, then of the service of Love, and to love one another, and so to keep themselves pure and unspotted of the world; Which writing of H. N. may give all wise men occasion to suppose / that he teacheth in secret commune filthynes; even the doctrine of the old Nicolaitans, which God doth hate. In secret / I say / for his loathsome carnal abominations he will not openly publish / (though he hath published too much / ) either to the world or to his young disciples; but this caveat he hath given to his fautors / ye shall not talk of your secrets, either yet utter your mysteries openly or nakedly in the hearing of your young children and disciples: but spare not the same in the ears or hearing of the Elders which can understand the same, and are able to bear or away with the sound thereof. For it is given to the Elders to understand the privy mysteries of the wise, and to expound their parables. This is the counsel of H. N. touching the secrets of his religion; quite contrary to the counsel and practice of Christ / his prophets and Apostles; for Christ said to his Disciples / what I tell yow in darkness, that speak ye in light, and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the houses; and when the Prophets opened their mouths in parables / and declared high sentences of old / they would not hide them from their children / but show thē that posterity might know it / and children which should be born / might declare unto their children &c. But the deep mysteries of H. N. must not be disclosed / because as it is writ / every mā that doth evil hateth the light, and / the morning, is to thē as the shadow of death: wherefor his doctrine is like the foolish woman's which said / Stollen waters are sweet, & hid bread is pleasant; but let all God's people know / that the dead are there / and that her guests are in the depth of hell.

Now though he will not let his young-anes know his secrets; yet he will be so bold as to know their secrets; and hath taught them to shrive them unto him / with far greater spiritual slavery / then the Antichrist of Some hath done. For H. N. in his First exhortation (after he had warned his children not to distrust the Eldest in the Family of Love, nor suspect any manner of evil or un wisdom by him) saith; Fourthly it is expedient, that they should make manifest their whole heart, with all their counsels, minds, wills and thoughts, together with all their doings dealings & exercises, naked and bare before the Eldest in the Family of Love, and not cover or hide anything, (be it what it is,) before him. Also all whereunto their inclination, kind, and nature draweth them, and all wherewith they become tempted or assaulted in their harts. The Pope requireth but confession of mortal, not of venial sins; But this tyrann H. N. will know all / be it what it is; yea even men's natural inclinatiōs. Now be it his wisdom was much overseē to make such a law: for this may cal his Godhead into questiō / & make mē think / he is but a Liar / whiles he would be a God▪ for our Lord Jesus knew the thoughts of men / and had no need that any should testify of man / for he knew what was in man. If H. N. be godded with God / what needeth he that men should thus make known their inclinations and actions unto him. But his disciples are well enough served; that whereas the Romish priests did whip thē with rods / these their Godded Priests should scourge them with scorpions.

*Finally this H. N. teacheth almost everywhere in his abominable books / the doctrine of that old Serpent / ye shall be as God's: saying that his people have their inhabiting in God's understanding, & stand cōprehended in the light of life, being united in God's true being: that they are one being with ech other, namely God & his people of peace: that God the Father through his only born son Christ, is become of one substance again with the manly creatures; and to that end also, because that all manly creatures should through Christ be one substance with God the Father, is Christ preached; that when as we are renewed in Jesus Christ through faith / also come to the same age of the man Christ / so is God the Father thē likewise one substance or manned with us through Christ, & is all in all: that it is God's will, that now in the last time, through his service of love, all people or generations of men, which are goodwill to his righteousness, should assemble them unto him and his godded man (H. N.) and even so likewise with them all that which is manly, to the end that they all should become of one being with him and his godded man, and so be all named God's, and children of the most highest. These and many the like blasphemies (whereby he quite overthroweth the Being of God / as before is proved /) ar often to be found in his writings. For which also / (that he might the more imitate the first serpent / which said God doth know,) he allegeth and corrupteth the holy scriptures; that if he be Antichrist, which should sit in the temple of God / showing himself that he is God / (as Paul warneth:) this H. N. may be known to be a great Antichrist; and all the world may see / Caiaphas prophesied not righter of Christ and of his death for the nation; then H. N. hath spoken / when he cried out of the Antichrist to be so near unto him. It is very true.*

H. N.

28. Oh, what a slight and earthly understanding is this, that God should be appeased with an elementish body: even like as though that God were fleshly, even as an unregenerate man.

29. I say on God's behalf, that God is not in that manner of sort with the man; but rather the ungodly being or nature, which all unregenerated men do carry in their harts, wherout all wickedness is engendered and brought forth. Read Mark. 7. Mat. 23. and in more other places in the scriptures, where the same is rcited or mentioned.

30. Therefore my beloved, this is the counsel of God towards yow both, that yow should not boast yourselves in such an vncertayn confessing; but for the love of Christ's sake, take it for the best, which I hav here witnessed unto yow; namely that yow have not confessed Christ according to the truth, but the elementish ceremonies, even as they out of the darkness, without the Spirit of Christ, wer taught unto yow. Not that I therein do accuse or blame any man, as one that doth evil of a set purpose. O no; for they know not any other, then that they do use the doctrine of Christ. But my hearty desire is towards everyone, which say that they seek Christ, that they mought seek and find him aright.

H. A.

OH what a slight and serpentlike subtlety is this / that H. N. should abuse and deprave the words and actions of God's servants in this manner; as if by their meek and patient sufferings for Christ's sake / they thought to appease God wth an elementish body. It is far from the hearts of all the faithful / to imagine that anything which themselves can either do or suffer / in body or sowl / is able to appease God. They have otherwise learned to know the guilt and wages of syn / the infinitenes of God's majesty who is angry with the world for their misdeeds / the weakness and unworthiness of all men's works and sufferings. To that therefore which H. N. pretendeth to say on God's behalf; I answer with Job / and ask him / if he will speak wickedly for God; or talk deceitfully for his cause? For we esteem our sufferings nothing / and all our righteousness as dung. It is the body of our Lord Jesus that was hanged on the tree / which is the only sacrifice for our sins / and appeaseth the wrath of his Father: and the things that we do or suffer / benefit not him but ourselves: for the chastisements of God / whither on our bodies or souls / are (as the Apostle teacheth us / ) for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness. Wherefore H. N. hath conceived mischief and brought forth a lie / whiles laboring to abolish the outward confessing and suffering of Christians / he falsely imputeth unto thē this error / to believe they appease God with an elementish body, yea the fraud of this falser is manifestly discovered / as the reader may observe; for the error which he would lay upon others / is found to be in himself / whose doctrine is such as teacheth men to be their own saviors. By the Apostles Gospel / we have our redemption and forgiveness of sins through the blood of Christ once offered; to him also give all the prophets witness / that through his name / all that believe in him shall receive remission of sins / (saith Peter:) but by H. Ns. Gospel / we obtain it by our own imitation of Christ in his death / and taking up of our cross. And many such like deadly venomous doctrines are sparsed in his writings / to disannul the true Christ / with his sufferings and merits / and to set up a false and imaginary Christ bred / and born in his corrupt heart / as I have before proved. Now though we hold not God to be appeased with our sufferings / as this man cavilleth; yet hold we upon ground frō the scriptures / that we must serve and glorify God both with our bodies and with our spirits / because both ar God's; and therefore are we willed to give up our bodies / a living sacrifice / holy and acceptable unto God / which is our reasonable serving of God. And if by bonds and prisonment / by racking / scourging / stoning / hewing asundex; or other the like torments of body / as others before us have suffered / God also try us: we ought with patience to bear them / and not to go from the confessing of Christ and his truth / for avoiding them / as this deceiver would persuade us. His conclusion therefore / which he maketh against these two daughters / namely / that they have not confessed Christ according to the truth, &c. is yet to be proved / for as much as he hath not by any ground from God's word / overthrowen their faith or confessiō in any point / but only sought to undermine it / by falsehood and deceit; abusing the readers / and perverting the holy scriptures; his desire being to draw others into the same destruction with himself; who in stead of confessing Christ according to the truth, hath like an Antichristian overthrowen the whole Gospel of Christ / denied him to be come in the flesh / and set up an Idol in his place / even the Lovely Being out of his own fleshly heart.

31. God is my witness, that it is true which I here write unto you; & the occasion of my writing is chanced, for that I bear a sorrowful heart with you both. But this is my hope over you, that ye will take it at my hands, as out of the Love of Christ, and not to be in any case obstinate in yourselves, for to wind away yourselves from the reading of these Letters with humble harts.

32. And when ye have deliberately read the same witnesses, and the Lord added his wisdom thereto, whereby the eyes of your harts mought be a little opened: then spare me not to be your servant, and give me to understand by the bring thereof, & there shall yet more be brought unto yow, then that which yow have presently.

33. And if yow cannot acknowledge this for the truth, yet look well always hereto, that ye do not blaspheme the same which ye know not. And I likewise shall not blame yow, although that yow cannot comprehend the same. For the godly gifts cannot be brought to any one by violence or compulsion, for they are the gifts of God.

34. Herewith I salute yow both, (whose names I know not,) very heartily through the love of Christ; & wish unto yow, out of the ground of my sowl, the knowledge of the very true Spirit of Christ, that ye mought learn to know aright, your calling in Christ. That grant us the Almighty God, through his Love, Amen.

IF God were witness, that it is true which H. N. here hath written; the scriptures / which are God's witnesses or testimonies would approve of the same; but by holy writ / his errors are disproved; and the evils which he unjustly layeth upon others / are justly returned upon his own head; and found to be in himself and his bewitched followers / whom I leave to the doon of him which hath said / I will come near to yow to judgment, and I will be a swift witness against sorcerers, & against adulterers, and against false swearers. &c. And for all that shall read these writings / as they ought to be far from blaspheming the truth which they know not; so should they be far also from approving or hearkening to a known deceiver and blasphemer of God; such as this Henry Nicolas by this Epistle and his other ungodly writings is proved for to be. His fawning words and submissive carriage / with promise of more matters after; are but the behavior of the Lewd woman / that useth to entice with flattering lips; when her house is the way unto the grave / which goeth down to the chambers of death. What thank or reward then remains for H. N. for all his pains and proffered kindness / but that which the wise man hath appointed saying / *He that blesseth his friend with a loud voice, rising early in the morning, it shall be counted to him as a curse. A Preface concerning Moses writings, and these Annotations upon them.

MOSES the man of GOD, and first writer of holy Scripture; was an Hebrew borne in Egypt, about 2432. years after the creation of the World: and before our Savior Christ's coming into the flesh, 1496. years. He was the son of Amram, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham our father, in the seventh generation; as Enoch was the seventh from Adam. When he was borne, he had a divine beauty upon him: he was marveilously saved from death, being drawn out of the water, and thereof had his name; he was nourished by K. Pharaohs daughter for her own son; learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds. Forty years he lived in Pharaohs court; which then he left, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, then to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season, esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches then the treasures of Egypt. Forty years he was a stranger and shepherd in the land of Madian; from whence God called him, to feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance. Which thing he also did with all fidelity forty years, being in the Church in the wilderness with the Angel, which spake to him in the mount Sinai, and with our fathers; where he received the lively oracles to give unto us; and he commanded us a law, which is the Inheritance of the Church of Jacob. Of all the Prophets that arose in Israel, there was none like unto Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face: and dying 120. years old, (but his natural strength not abated,) he was buried of God, no man knowing of his sepulcher unto this day.

He wrote the law, in five books; containing a brief history of things past; a covenant between God and his Church then present; and a prophesy of further grace to come, which now is exhibited by Jesus Christ. In his first book; he wrote the generations of the heavens and the earth, and of mankind: which we therefore (of the Greek word) call Genesis, that is, Generation. In the second, he set down the Departure of Israel out of Egypt, with the Covenant which God plighted with them, the same year that they went out: which book thereupon is named Exodus. In the third, he describeth the sacrifices and service of God, under the Levitical priesthood; called accordingly Leviticus. In the fourth, he reckoned the Numbers of the tribes, and, of their journeys from Egypt to Canaan, with the order wherein God settled that Common-wealth of Israel, whiles they were travelling towards their Rest: which book is therefore called Numbers. In the fifth, he wrote a repetition of the Law, and covenant which God had given unto Israel, and the confirmation of the same: whereof it is named, (according to the Greek,) Deuteronomy. In the propounding of all these things, Moses hath a veil drawn over his bright and glorious face: for in the histories, are implied Allegories, and in the laws are types & shadows of good things that were to come; the body whereof, is of Christ. In Genesis, (which history endeth with the going down of Israel into Egypt,) we have the Image of a natural man, fallen from God into the bondage of sin. In Exodus, is the type of our regeneration, and state renewed by Jesus Christ. In Leviticus, the shadow of our mortification, whiles we are made sacrifices unto God. In Numbers, the figure of our spiritual war-fare; whereunto we are mustered and armed to fight the good fight of faith. In Deuteronomy, the doctrine of our sanctification, and preparation to enter into our heavenly Canaan, (after Moses death) by the conduct of Jesus the son of God.

The things which Moses wrote, were not his own: but the Law of the Lord by his hand: to him the Prophets after, bare witness. Our Savior also approveth of Moses, and of all that he spake and wrote: what he said, was the commandment of God; and what God spake unto him, the same is spoken unto us: him therefore we are willed to hear, which who so doth not, will not be persuaded, though one rose from the dead: Luk. 16. 29. 31. But because his writings were the Old Testament, under which the New was veiled; and which many reading, even to this day have a veil laid upon their heart, so that they cannot fasten their eyes upon the end of that which is abolished: therefore God sent the Prophets following, yea his own Son, and his Apostles, to open and explain the mysteries, which Moses had closely, and briefly penned: that now by their help, & through the Spirit of the Lord, we may all with unveiled face behold as in a glass, the glory of the Lord; and perceive how the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth is come by Jesus Christ.

The literal sense of Moses Hebrew, (which is the tongue wherein he wrote the Law,) is the ground of all interpretation; and that language hath figures and propeties of speech, different from ours: those therefore in the first place are to be opened; that the natural meaning of the scripture being known, the mysteries of godliness therein implied, may the better be discerned. This may be attained in a great measure, by the scriptures themselves; which being compared, do open one another. For dark and figurative speeches, are often explained; as, When God saith, I live: Num. 14. 21. 28, this we are to understand as an oath: for elsewhere he saith, I have sworn by myself, Esa. 45. 23. and to express this, Paul alledgeth it, I live, saith the Lord, Rom. 14. 11. Also when he saith, I am the Lord that healeth thee, Exod. 15. 26. hereby he intendeth the pardoning of our sins: for where other scriptures speak of healing his people, Esa. 6. 10. Mat. 13. 15. elsewhere it is interpreted, the forgiving of their sins, Mark. 4. 12. So, he rolled himself on the Lord, Psal. 22. 9. is in plainer speech, he trusted, Math. 27. 43. and Christ who should be an ensign of the people's, Esa. 11. 10. is under that phrase prophesied, to rule over the nations, Rom. 15. 12. When Moses saith, God smote the Sodomites with blindnesses, Gen. 19. 11. he meaneth very great or extreme blindness, noted by that word in the plural number: as where the Prophet mentioneth weeping of bitteruesses: Ier. 31. 15, the Apostle expoundeth it, weeping and great mourning, Mat. 2. 18. So when he teacheth us to swear by the name of the Lord, Deut. 6. 13. under it, he implieth the confession of his name and truth: as when another Prophet speaketh in like sort of swearing, Esa. 45. 23. Paul expoundeth it, Confessing unto God, Rom. 14. 11.

Oft times we shall see in Moses and the Prophets, a defect of words, which reason teacheth are to be supplied; as Adam begat in his likeness, Gen. 5. 3. that is, begat a son. The Scripture showeth us to supply such wants: as, I the God of thy father, Exod. 3. 6 that is, I am the God, Mat. 22. 32. Samuel saith, Uzzah put forth to the Ark, 2 Sam. 6. 6. another doth explain it, Uzzah put forth his hand to the Ark, 1 Chron. 13. 9. One Prophet writeth briefly, I with scorpions, 2 Chron. 10. 11. another morefully, I will chastise you with scorpions, 1 King. 12. 11. One saith no more, but in the ninth of the month, 2 King. 25. 3. another supplieth the want thus, In the fourth month, in the ninth of the month, Ierem. 52. 6. So, thy servant hath found to pray, 1 Chro. 17. 25. that is, hath found in his heart to pray, 2 Sam. 7. 17. and many the like. Here men may see the reason, why translators do sometime add words (which are to be discerned by the different letter;) for the original tongue affecteth brevity; but we desire and need plainness of speech. Yea this may help in weighty controversies: as, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake, Matth. 26. 26. here some imagining a tranfubstantiation of the bread, blame those that translate, he brake it, as adding to the scripture: whereas such additions are necessarily understood, many a hundred time in the Bible; and the same Apostle else-where saith, Christ blessed and brake, Matth. 14. 19. when another writeth, he blessed them and brake, Luk. 9. 16. which a third Evangelist explaineth, he blessed and brake the loaves (or bread) Mark. 6. 41. again he saith, a man shall leave father and mother, Matth. 19. 5. when Moses plainly saith, his father and his mother, Gen. 2. 24. But such usual defects, all of any judgment, will soon understand.

On the other hand, but more seldom, there is an abundance of words, (though not in vain,) which in other languages, may be made fewer; and the holy Ghost approveth it. As where Moses writeth, a man a prince, Exod. 2. 14. Stephen saith only a prince, omitting the word man, Act. 7. 27. So one Prophet saith, men shooters, 1 Sam. 31. 3. another saith but shooters, 1 Chron. 10. 3. Isaiah saith, a man of his counsel, Esa. 40. 13. Paul abridgeth it, his counsellor. 1 Cor. 2. 16. And, one said saying on this manner, 2 Chron. 18. 19. or, one said on this manner, 1 King. 22. 20. with sundry other of like sort.

But the change of names, words, and letters; as also of number, time, person, and the like; is very frequent, and needful to be observed. As Moses calleth a man, Job, Gen. 46. 13. elsewhere he nameth him Iashub, Num. 26. 24. Ashbel, Gen. 46. 21. is by another Prophet named Iediael, 1 Chron 7. 6. Nebuchad nezer, 2 King. 25. 1. is also Nebuchad-rezar, Ier. 52. 4. Iether an Ismaelite (by nature) 1 Chro. 2. 17. is Iithra an Israelite (by grace) 2 Sam. 17. 25. Hoshea is called also Iehoshua, Numb. 13. 16. and Ieshua, Ezra 3. 2. in Greck Jesus, Act. 7. 45. So enemy, 1 King, 8. 37. 44. is written enemies, 2 Chron. 6. 28. 34, iniquity, Ier. 31. 34. is iniquities, Heb. 8. 12. And contrariwise, Matthew saith they brought the Ass and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and set Jesus upon them, Matth. 21. 7. which Mark showeth to be meant of the Colt only, and that Jesus sare upon him, M•k. 11. 7. So, the thieves are said to revile Christ, Matth. 27. 44. when one of them did it, Luk. 23. 39. Likewise, hear ye, but understand not, Esa, 6. 9. or, ye shall hear, but shall not understand, Act. 28. 26. and the way before me, Mal. 3, 1. or, the way before thee, Matth. 11. 10. Smite thou the shepherd, Zach. 13. 7. which Christ citeth thus, I will smite the shepherd, Matth. 26. 31. and I took the thirty pieces of silver, Zach. 11. 13. or, they took them, Matth. 27. 9. Of which changes there are many, and of great use, throughout the Scriptures.

Questions, are as in other languages, so in the holy tongue, used for earnest affirmations, deprecations, denials, forbiddings, wishes, and the like: as when the people said, Why should we die? Deut. 5. 25. it was both an asseveration that they should die, and a prayer against it. The Scripture openeth it self: as, why doth he speak blasphemies? Mark. 7. 2. which another Evangelist writeth, this man blasphemeth, Math. 9. 3. And, art thou come to torment us? Mat. 8. 29. wherein was implied, I pray thee torment me not, Luk. 8. 28. So, are they not written? 2 King. 20. 20. is affirmed, behold they are written, 2 Chro. 32. 32. and that which the Prophet averreth, All these my hand hath made, Esa. 66. 1. is turned into a question; hath not my hand made all these? Act. 7. 49. Again, when God said to David; shalt thou build me an house? 2 Sam. 7. 5. he meant, thou shalt not build, 1 Chron. 17. 4. when Christ saith, how shall Satan's kingdom stand? Mat. 12. 26. he meaneth, it cannot stand, Mark. 3. 26. and think ye that I am come to give peace? Luk. 12. 51. is as if he had said, think it not, Matth. 10. 34.

I will pass on to a few more observations. When speech is of many, where one is principal; the scripture setteth it down, either as of one, or of many indifferently. As, hear thou the word, 1 King. 22. 19. or, hear ye the word, 2 Chron. 18. 18. And they killed, 2 King. 25. 6. or, the king of Babel killed; Ier. 52. 10. David offered, 2 Sam. 6. 17. or, they offered, 1 Chron. 16. 1. They made peace with David, and served him; 1 Chron. 19. 19. or, they made peace with Israel, and served them, 2 Sam. 10. 19. So, Peter said unto Christ, Mat. 15. 15. whereas another Evangelist saith, his disciples asked him; Mar. 7. 17. And, couldest not thou (Peter) watch? Mar. 14. 37. or, could not ye (my disciples) watch? Mat. 26. 40. By this, we may gather the reason, why Christ at other times spake to Peter singularly, that which was intended also to the rest, in Matth. 16. 17. 19. compared with John. 20. 22. 23. which some not observing, would restrain the keys of the kingdom unto Peter only.

But oft times, there is a force in words, whereby other persons or things are excluded: as when Moses saith, they shall be one flesh, Gen. 2. 24. he meaneth, they two (not more) shall be one flesh, Mat. 19. 5. and saying of God, him thou shalt serve, Deut. 6. 13. he intendeth him only, Mat. 4. 10. It was not lawful to eat the Shew bread, but for the Priests, Mar. 2. 26. that is, but for the Priests only, Mat. 12. 4. and, the fig tree had nothing but leaves, Mark. 11. 13. that is, nothing but leaves only, Mat. 21. 19. Accordingly Paul saith, a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, Gal. 2. 16. whereby is meant, by faith only.

In expounding the Oracles of God, we are taught to take absolute and indefinite speeches in the largest sense unless there be some special reason of restraint. As, when he said to Moses, See, and make thou them, according to their pattern, Exod. 25. 40. the meaning is, See thou make all things, according to the pattern, Heb. 8. 5. And in saying, Cursed be he that confirmeth not the words of this law, Deut. 27. 26. it extendeth thus far, Cursed be everyone that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law, Gal. 3. 10. When he promiseth Christ, to put his enemies for his footstool, Psal. 110. 1. he meaneth all his enemies, 1 Cor. 15. 25. So other such precepts and promises, are in like manner, to be understood.

But sometime general words are used, which scripture and reason teacheth to restrain: as, all Israel went up with David to Baalah, 1 Chron. 13. 6. meaning, all the people that were with him, as another Prophet explaineth it, 2 Sam. 6. 2. So Christ healed all that were sick, Mat. 8.

16. that is, all the sick that were brought unto him; or, as another Evangelist saith, Many that were sick: Mark. 1. 34. Thus all, is used for very many, Mat. 21. 26. Luk. 21. 17. Phil. 2. 21. Gen. 41. 57. none, for very few, Ier. 8. 6. 1 Cor. 2. 8. nothing, for very little, John. 18. 20. Act. 27. 33. Or, with other special restraint; as, of his fullness, have we all received, John. 1. 16. that is, all we which believe, and the like.

It is not the least help in opening the scriptures, to observe words & speeches that differ in sound, but accord in sense; & set down the same thing in sundry terms, one of w<sup>ch</sup> do often give light unto another. As, the word of the Lord came, 2 Sam. 24. 11. or, the Lord spake, 1 Chro. 21. 9. There fell, 1 Chro. 21. 14. or, there died, 2 Sam. 24. 15. To sit on his throne, 1 King. 3. 6. or, to reign in his stead, 2 Chro. 1. 8. They fast not, Mat. 9. 14. or, they eat and drink, Luk. 5. 33. The time of temptation, Luk. 8. 13. or, of affliction and persecution, Mark. 4. 17. To enter into life, Mat. 18. 9. or, into God's kingdom, Mar. 9. 47. To take away the key of knowledge, Luk. 11. 52. or, to shut up the kingdom of heaven, Matth. 23. 13. Thus they that are in one place called Hypocrites, Matth. 24. 51. are in another called infidels, Luk. 12. 46. and they that walk not according to any law, Mark. 7. 5. are said to transgress the same, Mat. 17. 2. And the Wicked one, Mat. 13. 19. the Devil, Luk. 8. 12. and Satan, Mark. 4. 15. are all one. By comparing the holy writers thus, even mysteries in words and phrases are manifested, and difficulties may be cleared. As in 2 Sam. 7. 23. halecu Elohim, that is, God they went; this soundeth to a paynim, as if there were many God's: but the same thing written by another Prophet, halac Elohim, God he went, 1 Chro. 17. 21. refuteth the plurality of God's, though closely teaching the trinity of persons in the Godhead. So when David saith, for thy words sake, 2 Sam. 7. 21. or, (as another recordeth his speech,) for thy servants sake, 1 Chron. 17. 19. these two compared, show that David meant for thy Christ's sake, for Christ is both the word, John. 1. 1. and the Servant of God, Mat. 12. 18.—21. When David's sons are called by one Prophet Cohanim, (that word which we English Princes, or, Priests,) 2 Sam. 8. 18. and by another are named the First (or Chief) at the kings hand, 1 Chron. 18. 17. we may hereby learn the office of Christ our Cohen, both Prince and Priest, who now sitteth at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty (of God) in the heavens, Heb. 8. 1. So for other material things in Israel, which we are not acquainted with; scriptures compared, do explain them. As when Solomon put three pound of gold to one shield, 1 King. 10. 17. and another Prophet saith, three hundred (shekels) of gold went to one shield, 2 Chro. 9. 16. we may certainly gather, that the Maneh or Pound in Israel, was a hundred shekels. When K. Achaz made his son to pass through the fire, 2 King. 16. 3. if any know not what this meaneth; another scripture telleth us, he hurnt his sons in the fire, 2 Chron. 28. 3. So the (Debir or) Oracle in Solomon's temple, 1 King. 6. 23. is shown to be the Holy of holies, or most holy place in that house, 2 Chron. 3. 10. When Christ teacheth us to pray, Forgive us our debts, Mat. 6. 12. thereby is meant, our sins, Luk. 11. 4. with many other like, of profitable use, in letters, words and phrases, throughout the Bible. And the more to excite men, to search and confer the scriptures, I will note a few moe, not unlike the former. The name of God, and of Christ, how often is it mentioned in the holy book? yet not always understood. How be it, the Prophets and Apostles, open themselves; one saying, he shall build an house to my name, 2 Sam. 7. 13. another, he shall build an house to me, 1 Chro. 17. 12. so Christ saith, for my name, Mat. 19. 29. that is, for me and the Gospel, Mark. 10. 29. for my name sake, Luk. 21. 12. that is, for my sake. Mark. 13. 9. So things spoken by the Prophets in the Lord's name, 1 Chro. 21. 19. were the Lord's commandments, 2 Sam. 24. 19. accordingly James saith of the Prophets, they have spoken in the name of the Lord, I am. 5. 10. and where the Prophet saith, the Iles shall wait for (Christ's) law, Esa. 42. 4. the Apostle expoundeth it, the Gentiles shall trust in his Name, Mat. 12. 21. When David saith, he prayed before the Lord, 1 Chro. 17. 25. and the like is spoken of Hezekiah, 2 King. 19. 15. the meaning is, that they prayed unto the Lord, as is expressed in 2 Sam. 7. 27. and Esa. 37. 15. Like wise the kneeling before Christ. Math. 27. 29, is called the worshipping of him, Mark. 15. 19. and when the Devil would have had Christ done worship before him, Luk. 4. 7. he knew that in so doing, he should worship him, Matth. 4 9. yet many at this day, though they pray and do worship before images and idols; they will not be a known that they pray or do worship unto them.

It is needful for us to understand, that as the scriptures are of God, so whatsoever is written in them, is written unto all of us: this will increase our faith, and our obedience. If any doubt hereof, the Evangelists <1 page duplicate> <1 page duplicate> clear it: for when one writeth, God spake unto Moses, Mark. 12. 26. another saith, it was spoken unto you by God, Matth. 22. 31. Again, Moses said, Matth. 22. 24. is as much as, Moses wrote unto us, Mark. 12. 19. So Christ's blood shed for many, Mat. 26. 28. is applied in particular, shed for you, Luk. 22. 20. If men would thus mind all the precepts and promises in the Bible, it would greatly further them in godliness now, the Lord complaineth of the contrary, I have written unto them the great things of my law, but they are counted as a strange thing, Hos. 8. 12.

For these causes, I have chiefly labored in these annotations upon Moses, to explain his words and speeches, by conference with himself, and the other Prophets and Appostles, all which are commenters upon his laws, and do open unto us the mysteries which were covered under his veil: for by a true and sound literal explication, the spiritual meaning may the better be discerned. And the exquisite scanning of words and phrases, which to some may seem needless, will be found, (as painful to the writer) profitable to the reader. Our Savior hath confirmed the Law, unto every jote and tittle, Matth. 5. 18. that we should not think any word or sentence to be used in vain. On the contrary, the mistaking of phrases, oft times occasioneth error: as from Jacob's speech, in Genesis 48. 16. let my name be called on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac: some would gather the doctrine of prayer unto the dead, or saints departed: whereas the phrase there, meaneth not prayer at all, but to be named of them, as their children, as by other scriptures compared, may be seen: Dan. 9. 19. Isaiah 4. 1.

Next this main help of the scriptures themselves. I compare the Greek & Chaldee versions, the first of them being in the world before Christ's coming in the flesh; the other, soon after: both of great authority, especially the Greek, honored even by the Apostles, in their so often following not only the words, but even the Theological exposition. Of many, I will produce these few examples. In Isaiah 11. 10. Christ is promised for an ensign of the people's: this the Greek version explaineth, to rule over the nations, and so doth Paul allege it, in Rom. 15. 12. In Prov. 3. 34. God scorneth the scornors, the Greek translateth, he resisteth the proud, and James followeth their very words, I am. 4. 6. In Prov. 11. 31. the righteous is recompensed in the earth; the Greek saith, he is scarcely saved; and Peter saith the same, 1 Pet. 4. 18. In Isaiah 42. 4. the yles wait for Christ's Law: the Greek interpreteth it, the Gentiles shall trust in his name, and the holy Ghost approveth this, in Matth. 12. 21. When Moses saith of man and wife, they shall be one flesh, Gen. 2. 24. the Greek addeth, they two, and so the words are cited in Mat. 19. 5. Mar. 10. 8. Eph. 5. 31. 1 Cor. 6. 16. Where Christ saith (in David) my ears thou hast digged, (or opened) Psal. 7. the Greek expoundeth it, a body thou hast fitted me; and the same words Paul bringeth as Scripture, in Heb. 10. 5. So many Greek words are found in the Apostles writings, according to the Greek version of the Prophets; as Aretas, praises, in 1 Pet. 2. 9. from Isaiah 42. 12. and 43. 21. and 63. 7. Thaumázontes prosopa, in Jude verse. 16. are such as regard, accept, or honor the persons of men; from Deut. 10. 17. Prov. 18. 5. Job 22. 8. Kuberneses, Counsellors (that is, Counsellors) in 1 Cor. 12. 28. from Prov. 11. 14. and 20. 18. and 24. 6 Mamona tes adikias, in Luk. 16. 9. is false (or deceitful) riches, opposed (in v. 11. (to the true, as the Hebrew Sheker, is often turned Adikia: Psal. 119. 29. 69. 104. 163. Wherefore as occasion is offered, I observe sundry things from the Greek translatiō, which serve for the better understanding of Moses text: & other scriptures that have referēce to th same.

Concerning the Chaldee paraphrast, and other Heberew doctors of the ancients sort, and some later of best esteem for learning, as Maimonides, or Rabbi Moses ben Maimon, (who abridged the Talmuds,) & others; I allege their expositions for two causes: the one one, to give light to the ordinances of Moses touching the external practice of them in the common wealth of Israel, which the Rabbin's did record, and without whose help, many of those legal rites (especially in Exodus and Leviticus) will not easily be understood. By their records also, many particulars about the Passover which Christ kept, Matt. 26. the Phylacteries which the Pharisees wore, Mat. 23. & other things mentioned in the Evangelists, will much be cleared: whereof see the annotations on Exod. 12. and Exod. 13. 19. As for the theological exposition, therein the later Rabbin's are for the most part blind; but we are enlightened by the Apostles of Christ, whose writings, (specially Paul's) do unfold the mysteries of the law. Another reason why I cite the Rabbin's, is to show how in many words, phrases, and points of doctrine, they approve the New Testament; though sometime to the condemning of themselves: and so the testimony of the adversary against himself, helpeth our faith. Examples may be seen in the annotations themselves; some few I will here touch. The day of judgment, or Judgment of the great day, Jude verse. 6. was used of the godly Jews, against the opinion of the Sadducees, as Iom dinarabba, in the Chaldee on Psal. 50. 3. and many other places. So Paradise for heaven, Geenna, for hell; as Christ useth them, are common in all the Rabbin's; and the Second death, Revel. 20. 8. is used by Jonathan (a Rabbin of the Apostles age,) on Esa. 65. 6 15. where he damneth his own people to the second death. Christ is called the Word, John. 1. 1. so by the Chaldee paraphrast on Ps. 110. 1. and many a time beside. The Devil is called the Accuser, Revel. 12. 10. so R. Menachem on Levite. 25. speaketh of the Serpent the Accuser. Paul nameth Abraham the heir of the world, Rom. 4. 13. So doth. R. Bochai, fol. 23. The Apostle calleth Circumcision, a seal, Rom. 4. 11. so do the Jews in their prayer which they use at circumcision, Maimonides treat of Circumcis. chap. 3. And whereas they that deny the baptising of Infants, plead that circumcision was a carnal sign of carnal promises to a carnal seed: the Jews own testimonies do abundantly refute this error, as is shown after, on Gen. 17. Christ baptizeth with the holy Ghost, and with fire, Matth. 3. 11. It is said by our Rabbin's of happy memory, that the holy blessed (God) baptized with fire, saith R. Menachem on Levite. 6. Christ our high Priest is on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, Heb. 8. 1. and by the Rabbin's doctrine, Michael is the great Priest that is above, and offereth the souls of just men. R. Menachem on Levite. 1. and 6. chap. Maimonides (in Misneh, in Biath hamikdash, chap. 6. sect. 11.) showeth how the great Synedrion were wont to sit in a chamber of the Temple, to judge and try the Priests, both for their genealogies, and for their blemishes. What Priest soever was sound dissallowable by his genealogy, he was clothed in black, and so went out of the Priests court in the Temple; and who so was found perfect and fit, he was clothed in white, and went in and ministered with his brethren. This giveth light to that saying of (Christ in Rev. 3. 4.) they shall walk with me in white, for they are worthy. So the names of Iannes and Jambres, the sorcerers of Egypt, cited by Paul, in 2 Tim. 3. 8. are recorded in the Talmud, and other Jewish writers, as is noted on Exodus 7. 11. Wherefore the evidence brought from the learned Jews, will help both to understand some scriptures, and to end some controversies. But Jewish forbidden fables, of which there are too many, them I pass over as unprofitable: some things also I note from them, not as approving them myself absolutely, but leaving them to further consideration of the prudent.

The Christian Fathers and Doctors, because they are usually cited by other expositors abundantly; I thought needless to repeat: and the rather for brevity, which is requisite in annotations.

The testimony of heathen writers, I allege more sparingly also; as of whom we have least need. Yet Paul had occasion sometime to cite them: and we likewise may have use of their sayings; both for ancient histories, and religious exercises, and for the witness which they bear unto the truth of God.

Finally, in all this labor, I desire the furtherance and stirring up of people in the study and understanding of God's law. Wherein though some things are brief, some things dark and hard to be understood, yet many things are by a little direction, made easy to the prudent. And let not the variety of phrase, or sundry interpretations trouble any, but let discretion choose out the best. Behold, the holy Ghost translateth one Hebrew word, by many Greek, to teach us both the ample wisdom comprised in that mother tongue; and that any words may be used, which express the true meaning of the text unto our understanding. The Minchah or Meat-offering, (as we English it,) in the law, is turned into Greek, Thusia, Sacrifice, Acts 7. 42. from Amos 5. and Prophora, Oblation. Heb. 10. 5. from Psal. 40. The Hebrew word Pinnah, Esa. 40. 3. is Euthuno, to Make-straight, John. 1. 23. Hetoimazo, to Prepare, Matth. 3. 3. and Kataskevaso, to Make ready, Matth. 11. 10. That one phrase of Moses in Deut. 25. 5. (uben aeinlo) and he have no son; is by three Evangelists translated three ways, all good; having no children, Matth. 22. 24. and leave no children, Mark. 12. 19. and he die childless, Luk. 20. 28. Yea one Hebrew word Sorer, in Esa. 65. 2. is expressed of Paul by two Greek words together, Apeithounta, and Antilegont, that is, Disobedient (or unperswaded) and gainsaying, Rom. 10. 21. the one noting the rebelliousnesse of the heart; the other of the mouth and carriage. By which, with many other of like sort, we may see the copiousnesse of matter, which the original tongue containeth in few words: and that the noting of such varieties may be profitable unto us. The Hebrew Doctors have a saying, that the Law hath seventy faces, (that is, 70. manner of ways to be opened and applied) and all of them truth: R. Menachem on Gen. 29. and Exod. 21.

But forasmuch as my portion is small, in the knowledge of holy things; let the godly reader try what I set down, and not accept it, because I say it: and let the learned be provoked unto more large & fruitful labors in this kind. The Lord open all our eyes, that we may see the marvelous things of his Law.

THE FIRST BOOKE OF MOSES CALLED GENESIS.

CHAPTER I.

1 The Heavens and the Earth are created, and the Light; in the first day. 6. In the second, the firmament is spread, and the waters divided. 9. In the third, the earth is made dry land, and fruitful: the waters are gathered to be seas. 14. The Sun, Moon and Stars, are created for Lights, the fourth day, 20. Fish and Fowls are brought forth, and blessed in the fifth. 24. In the sixth, Beasts are made out of the Earth. 26. Man is created in the image of God, 28. he is blessed, and hath dominion of the world. 29 Food is appointed for Man and beast. 31. God's works are all good.

IN THE BEGINNING, GOD created the Heavens and the earth. And the earth was empty and void; and darkness, was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God, moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light, that it was good: and God separated between the light and the darkness. And God called the light Day; and the darkness he called Night: and the evening was, and the morning was, the first day.

And God said; Let there be an Out-spread firmament, in the midst of the waters: and let it separate, between waters and waters. And God made the Outspred-firmament; and separated between the waters which were under the outspred-firmament, and the waters which were above the outspread-firmament: and it was so. And God called the outspread-firmament, Heavens: and the evening was, and the morning was, the second day.

And God said; Let the waters under the heavens be gathered-together, unto one place; and let the dry-land appear: and it was so. And God called the dry land, Earth: and the gathering together of the waters, he called Seas: and God saw, that it was good. And God said; Let the earth bud-forth the budding-grass, the herb seeding-seed, the fruit-tree yielding-fruit after his kind, whose seed is in it self, upon the earth: and it was so. And the earth brought-forth budding-grass, the herb seeding-seed, after his kind; and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in it self, after his kind: and God saw, that it was good. And the evening was, and the morning was, the third day.

And God said; Let there be lights in the outspread-firmament of the heavens, to separate between the day and the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons; and for days, and years. And let them be for lights in the outspread-firmament of the heavens, to give light upon the earth: and it was so: And God made the two great Lights: the greater light, for the rule of the day; and the lesser light, for the rule of the night; also the stars. And God set them in the outspread-firmament of the heavens; to give light upon the earth. And to rule over the day and over the night; and to separate between the light and the darkness: and God saw that it was good. And the evening was, and the morning was, the fourth day.

And GOD said; Let the waters bring forth abundantly, the moving-thing, the living soul: and fowl, that may fly above the earth, on the face of the outspread-firmament of the heavens. And God created the great Whales: and every living creeping soul, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind; and God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saying; be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let the fowl multiply in the earth. And the evening was, and the morning was, the fifth day.

And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living soul, after his kind; cattle and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so. And God made the beast of the earth, after his kind, and the cattle, after their kind, and every creeping thing of the earth, after his kind: and God saw that it was good. And God said, Let us make Man in our image, according to our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heavens, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing, that creepeth upon the earth. And God created Man in his image, in the image of God created he him: male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them: Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heavens, and over every living thing that creepeth on the earth. And God said, Behold I have given to you every herb seeding seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree seeding seed: to you it shall be, for meat. And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the heavens, and to every creeping thing upon the earth, which hath in it a living soul: every green herb, for meat: and it was so. And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good: and the evening was, and the morning was, the sixth day.

Annotations.

BOoke of Moses.] so it is entitled, in Mark. 12. 26. called elsewhere the book of the law of Moses, 2. King 14. 6. Luke 2. 22. being indeed the book of the Law of the Lord by the hand of Moses, 2. Chro. 34. 14. Of this Moses his birth, education, authority and death, see Exod. 2. and 4. &c. Numb. 12. Deut 34. He was forty years a Philosopher in King Pharaohs Court in Egypt: Forty years a shepherd in the land of Madian; and forty years a King and Law-giver of Israel, leading them through the wilderness of Arabia; and dying an hundred and twenty years old, he was buried of God: Act. 7. 22. 23. 29. 30. 35. 36. Deut. 3• 4•. and 34. 5. 6. 7. His writings are approved of, by the Prophets after him, by the testimony of Christ and his Apostles; and by the Church of God, in all ages, Nehem. 8. 1, 2, 3. Dan. 9. 11. 13. Mal. 4. 4. Luke 16. 29. 31. and 24. 27. 44. Acts 15. 21. Rev. 15. 3. Genesis,] that is, Generation: so the Greek version calleth this book, because it setteth forth the generations of the heavens and earth, and of Adam, or mankind, Gen. 2. 4. and 5. 1. Howbeit, in Hebrew, the five books of Moses, have no names but by the first words of them: as this book is called Breshith, that is, In the beginning.

Vers. 1. In the beginning,] namely, of the Creature which God created; as our Savior expoundeth it, Mark. 13. 19. the whole frame whereof, is called the World, Mat. 24. 21. Beginning therefore is here extraordinary and supernatural, of the Creature or Creation; and so, of time. The Chaldee paraphrase called Yerushalmi, translateth it, In wisdom: so sundry Hebrews apply this mystically to the wisdom of God whereby the world was created, as it is written, The Lord by wisdom founded the earth, Prov. 3. 19. and, in wisdom hast thou made them all, Psal. 104. 24. R.

Menachem on Gen. 1. Many Christian writers also, apply it unto Christ, the wisdom of God, by whom he made the world, 1. Cor. 1. 24. Heb. 1. 2. Prov. 8. 27. 30. God,] in Hebrew Elohim, which signifieth the Almighty's, or Almighty-powers: his name is most used in this form plural, but joined with a word singular, he created, because God is but one, Deut. 6. 4. although in power infinite; in person or manner of being, there are three which bear witness in heaven, the Father, and the Word, and the holy Spirit, and these three are one, 1 John. 5. 7. The Father is this Creator, as is shown in Eph. 3. 9. The Word (or Son) is the Creator, Heb. 1. 8. 10. Col. 1. 16. so is the Holy spirit, as is here in the second verse, and in Psal. 33. 6. and 104. 30. Job 26. 13. and 33. 4. Hereupon Solomon saith, Remember thy Creators, Eccles. 12. 1. and God saith, Let us make man, Gen. 1. 26. The Apostles apply the general name God, to the persons severally; unto the Father, Heb. 1. 1, 2. unto the Son, Acts 20. 28. Rom. 9. 5. and unto the Holy Ghost. Acts 5. 3. 4. The Hebrew Doctors have left records of this mystery, though at this day that nation understands it not: Come and see the mystery of the word [Elohim:] there are three degrees, and every degree by it self alone, (that is, distinct), and yet notwithstanding they all are one, and joined together in one, and are not divided one from another, saith R. Simeon ben Iochai, in Zoar, upon the sixth section of Leviticus. Sometime this word is used singularly, Aeloab, the Almighty, Job 12. 4. and in a shorter form, Ael, Mighty, Gen. 14. 18. And Aeloah hath affinity with Alah, he adjured: for by oath and execration, men entered covenant with God, Deut. 29. 12, 14, 19. Nehem. 10. 29. Eccles. 8. 2. Angels and Magistrates are sometimes called Elohim, God's; Psal. 8. 6. Heb. 2. 7. Psal. 82. 1. 6. but in this work, Jehovah Elohim, was the Creator only, Gen. 2. 4. Isaiah 44. 24. and Angels were his creatures, Psal. 148. 2, 5. Col. 1. 16. The Apostles writing in Greek, use it always singularly, Theos, God: so in our and other languages, which cannot attain the grace and propriety of the Hebrew speech. Created,] that is, excellently and perfectly made of nothing at all, or of that which is as good as nothing, as man's body of the dust, Gen. 2. 7. and 1. 27. Therefore creation is a work of God alone, to be understood of us by faith, Heb. 11. 3. although the eternal power and godhead of the Creator, are seen by his works, to make all men without excuse, Rom. 1. 20. wherefore no heathen writer almost, but hath acknowledged the world to be the workmanship of God; whereby his wisdom, power and goodness is manifested. the heavens and the earth.] The world, and all things that are therein, Act. 17. 24. things visible and invisible, Col. 1. 16. The Hebrew articles eth and ha, seem also to imply so much: eth, having the first and last letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, and so being of general comprehension; and ha, of plain demonstration. This creation of heavens and earth, the Scriptures do apply to the new and spiritual estate of the Church in Christ, Isaiah 51. 16. and 65. 17. and 43. 7. Eph. 2. 10. Rev. 21. 11. The Hebrew Doctors say; All whatsoever the holy blessed (God) hath created in (this) his world, is parted into three parts. Some creatures compounded of matter and form, and are generated and corrupted continually, as the bodies of men and beasts, and plants, and minerals. Other some are compounded of matter and form, but are not changed from body to body, and from form to form, like the former: and they are the (heavenly) spheres and stars in them. And their matter is not like other matters, nor their form like other forms. And some creatures have form without matter, and they are the Angels: for the Angels have nobody, nor corporal substance, but forms disparted one from another. Maimonides in Misn. in Iesudei hatorah, chap. 2. S. 3.

Vers. 2. empty,] Hebr. emptiness: a thing empty; without inhabitants, and void without ornaments, a deformed wilderness, and a wast: and so unfit for use, not being separated from the waters, not having light, herbs, trees, beasts, birds, or people to adorn and inhabit it, Gen. 2. 5. This sense the Chaldee paraphrase also yieldeth; and the Prophet confirmeth it saying, He created it not to be empty, he formed it to be inhabited, Isaiah 45. 18. and when extreme emptiness and desolation of a place is meant, it is expressed by (Tehu and Bohu) the words here used, Isaiah 34. 11. Ier. 4. 23. or by one of them, as Psal. 107. 40. Deut. 32. 10. Darkness was:] It is not said God created darkness, for it was but the want or privation of light, and so mere nothing. This darkness is mystically applied to man's corrupt state, destitute of heavenly light. Eph. 5. 8. and 4. 18. Sometime it signifieth affliction, and then God is said to create it, Isaiah 45. 7. The word was, and such like, are in the original tongues often understood, but not expressed; though in translations we usually set them down, for plainness sake: which the scripture warranteth, for in repeating matters, it many times expresseth words wanting: as 2. Chron. 9. 5. true the word, for which in 1. King. 10. 6. is written, true was the word. So in 2. Sam. 23. 18. he chief among the three; for which in 1. Chron. 11. 20. is said, he was chief. And the Greek translation adding such words, the holy Ghost alloweth it, as in Psal. 2. 7. thou my son, in Greek, thou art my son; and so the Apostle alledgeth it, Acts 13. 33. The like is in many other places. Compare Mat. 22. 32. with Exod. 3. 6. Mark 12. 29. with Deut. 6. 4. John. 10. 34. with Psal. 82. 6. Acts 2. 25. with Psal. 16. 8. Heb. 1. 12. with Psal. 102. 28. Rom. 3. 12. with Psal. 14. 3. face of the deep:] face is used for the upmost part, or outside of anything: the Greek version omitteth it, saying, upon the deep: and the Hebrew text sometime doth the like, as in 1 King 9. 7. from on the face of the land: which elsewhere is written, from on the land, 2. Chron. 7. 20. By the deep, or abyss, is meant the deep of waters, which as a garment covered the earth, and stood above the mountains. Psal. 104. 6. Hereupon the Apostle saith, the earth consisted out of the water, and in the water, by the word of God, 2 Pet. 3. 5. Spirit.] The Hebrew Ruach, is generally any Spirit, Ghost, breath or wind: here it is, (as the work thereof showeth) no created spirit, but the creator and cherisher of all; as Psal. 104 30. thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created. So Psal. 33. 6. Isaiah 40. 12, 13. Later Jews (whom some Christians follow) expound this a wind of God, or a mighty wind: but the wind (which is the moving of the air) was not created till the second day, that the firmament was spread, and air made. The ancient Rabbin's spake better, as Targum Ierusamely here saith, the spirit of mercies from before the Lord; and R. Menachem on this place interprets it, the spirit of wisdom, called the spirit of the living God: and the author of the Zoar, Col. 83. calleth it, the spirit of the Messias. (or of Christ.) moved] or, was moving. The Hebrew Rachaph, signifieth generally a waving or moving, Ier. 23. 9. and in special, such a moving and fluttering as Eagles use over their young, cherishing and stirring them up, Deu. 32. 11. So it is used here for the effectual comfortable motion, whereby God's Spirit sustained, and as it were stirred up the wast creature. Here again, moving is used for moved; as, the Queen of Sheba hearing, 1. King. 10. 1. for, the Queen of Sheba heard, 2. Chron. 9. 1. warring, 1 Sam. 31. 1. for warred, 1 Chron. 10. 1. Or we may understand, was moving; as, the Cherubims spreading the wings, 1 King. 8. 7. for, they were spreading. 2. Chron. 5. 8.

Vers. 3. God said:] This showeth how God created things by his word; saying, and it was; commanding, and it was created, Psal. 33. 6. 9. and 148. 5. light,] the first ornament of the world, wherewith the Lord decked it as with a garment, Psal. 104. 2. This glorious work, Paul applieth to our regeneration, thus, God who said that out of darkness light should shine, he hath shined in our hearts, &c. 2. Cor. 4. 6. that we which were once darkness, are now light in the Lord, Ephes. 5. 8. yea, God himself, and Christ, is called Light: for the brightness of his glory, and graces given unto us, 1. John. 1. 5. 7. John. 1. 4, 5. Psal. 27. 1. and 118. 27. And as God made light in the first day; so Christ rose from death in the same day, the first of the week, Mark. 16. 1, 2. & he is the true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world, John. 1. 9. No man perfectly knoweth the nature of this excellent creature, as Job 38. 19. where is the way where light dwelleth? &c. how much less of the Creator, who dwelleth in the light that no man can approach unto, 1. Tim. 6. 16.

Vers. 4. it was good] that is, agreeable to the will of God, and so, as it might draw the liking of the creatures thereto. Absolutely there is none good but God, Mark. 10. 18. who is good of himself, without dependence on others, and without limitation. But every creature so far as in the being thereof it agreeth with the will of the Creator, is also good by participation of God's goodness, Gen. 1. 31. 1. Tim. 4. 4. And the Hebrew word is largely extended also to that which is goodly, fair, sweet, pleasing, profitable or commodious, and causing joy: 1. Sam. 9. 2. Gen. 24. 16. Song. 1. 2. and 4. 10. Deut. 6. 11. 18. Hest. 1. 10. So that which one Evangelist calleth good, Mark. 9. 42. another calleth profitable, Luke 17. 2. and goodness of heart is opposed to sorrow, Isaiah 65. 14. And of light in special, Solomon saith it is sweet, Eccles. 11. 7. and light is used for comfort and joy: Ester 8. 16. Psal. 97. 11. and 112. 4. separated between.] that is, divided the light from the darkness, that always naturally, the one expelleth the other, and in course of day and night do succeed each other: as is shown in 2. Cor. 6. 14. Psal. 104. 20. 22. Gen. 8. 22. Ier. 33. 20. The Hebrew phrase is, he separated between the light and between the darkness. So after usually.

V. 5. Light, Day:] Hereupon, one of these words is put for another, the day shall declare it, 1 Cor. 3. 13. that is, the light, Eph. 5. 13. So the Apostle applying this to our spiritual estate, calleth us both children of the light, & of the day, not of the night, nor of darkness. 1. Thes. 5. 5. The names which God gave in Hebrew, are now in other languages changed: as that which he called Iom, we english Day, and Lajlah, we call Night: yea the reason of these names is not always understood; so great punishment do we sustain by that confusion of tongues, Gen. 11. Howbeit, by affinity with other words, it seemeth the Day was named Iom, of the tumult, stir, and business in it: and the Night, Lajlah, of the yelling or howling of wild beasts therein. Experience also confirmeth this, and the Scripture accordeth, Psal. 104. 20. 21. 22. 23. the evening was and the morning:] The evening, which is the beginning of the Night, and the morning, which is the beginning of the Day, are here used for the whole time of the light and darkness in one succeeding course; which is with us, the space of 24 hours, which also in a more large sense, is here called a Day; as the time while light shineth, is the Day strictly taken, in which sense Christ saith, there are twelve hours in the day; John 1. 9. From the phrase here used, a large day is called •hner•-boker; that is, an evening-morning. Dan. 1. 14. and Paul in Greek calleth it N•• the meron, a Night-day, that is, a day comprehending the night also, 2 Cor. 11. 25. And because darkness was in time before the light, therefore is the evening set before the morning, and so among the Jews, they began their large day at evening; as Lev. 23. 32. from evening to evening, you shall rest your Sabbath. At the same time, the Athenians also began the day: but the Chaldeans counted the beginning at Sun rising; the Egyptians at noon; and the Romans, at midnight. This later, our western nations follow: counting from midnight, one of the clock in the morning; and so forward. first day] Hebr. one day: whereupon the Hebrews often say one, for first: Gen. 8. 5. Num. 29. 1. Dan. 9. 1. which phrase the Apostles use also in Greek. Mat. 28. 1. John. 20. 1. 19 1 Cor. 16. 2.

Vers. 6. Outspred firmament,] This name is of the Hebrew Rakiagh, which signifieth a thing spread abroad, and of the Greek stereoma, which signifieth a firmament, or fast thing: for the heavens are stretched out as a curtain, and spread out as a tent to dwell in, Psal. 104. 2. Esa. 40. 22. the skies are also firm and fast, & as a molten looking-glass, Job 37. 18 Prov. 8. 28. These, tell God's glory, and show his handy work, Psal. 19. 2. for, in the heavens he buildeth his stories (or spheres,) Amos 9. 6. and planchereth his lofts in the waters, Psal. 104. 3. and stretcheth out the North, over the empty place, Job. 26. 7. and in visions of God's glory, the firmament is mentioned, Ezek. 1. and 10. And as his power is shown in making the earth, so is his prudence in stretching out the heavens, Ier. 10. 12. Psal. 136. 5. And under the name firmament is comprehended the air, and all that is to be seen above the earth: for the fowls fly, and the Sun, Moon, and Stars, are set in the firmament of the heavens, Gen. 1. 16. 17. 20. in the midst of the waters,] namely, of the Deepe forementioned; part whereof was lifted up into the air, spread abroad into thin vapors, Psal. 135. 7. bound up in thick clouds, and the cloud is not rent under them, Job 26. 8. the other part was gathered into one place, the Sea, Gen. 1. 9. separate,] or, let it be separating, that is, let it continually separate, or divide. A like phrase is in Isaiah 59. 2.

V. 7. and the waters,] Hebr. and between the waters. which were above] to weat, in the air, above the lowest region whereof, the waters are. So elsewhere they are said to be above the heavens, Psal. 148. 4. meaning those heavens, and that firmament, wherein the birds fly: for, above that, are the watery clouds. As every part of the water, is called water: so every part of the heaven and firmament, is called by the name of the whole.

V. 8. Heavens] in Hebrew, Shamajim: so called, as is thought, of Sham, There, and Majim, waters, which are removed, or heaved up from us. And so the whole, hath the name of a part thereof. The word Heavens, is put for the air, wherein winds, clouds, and fowls do fly: Dan. 7. 2. 13. Psal. 8. 9. and for the upper firmament, where the Sun, Moon, and Stars are set, Gen. 1. 16. 17. and for the high places, where Angels dwell. Mat. 22. 30. Hereupon Paul mentioneth the third heaven. 2 Cor. 12. 2. And Heaven is called God's throne, Esa. 66. 1. & sometime put for God himself, Dan. 4. 26. and the kingdom of heaven is expounded the kingdom of God, Matth. 11. 11. and 13. 11. with Luk. 7. 28. and 8. 10. And the Evangelists express it in Greek, Heaven, or Heavens, indifferently, Luk. 6. 23. with Mat. 5. 12.

V. 9. be gathered,] or flow together, as with intent, to an expected place. This Hebrew word, is used only for the gathering together of men, and of waters. to one place:] which is, the Ocean, or main sea, from which many arms of seas are derived. Or, each to his several place. Hereby all the face of the earth is no longer covered with waters, as till this third day it was, the waters standing above the mountains, Psal. 104. 6. So now, all rivers go into the Sea, their common receptacle, Eccles. 1. 7. it was so.] At God's rebuke, the waters fled, at the voice of his thunder, they hasted away, to the place which he had founded for them, Psal. 104. 7. 8. And he put the deeps into treasuries, Psal. 33. 7. (as appeareth by the waters springs, that come out of the bowels of the earth, Job 28. 4. 10.) and he shut up the sea with doors, and set bars, and said, hitherto shalt thou come, but no further: Job 38. 8. 10. 11. and so the earth is founded upon the seas, and stablished upon the rivers, Psalm. 24. 2. the waters which were above, are put beneath; and men are said to go down (not up) to the sea in ships, Psal. 107. 23.

V. 10. Earth:] so named of the Hebrew, Aerets: which implieth a thing trod and run upon by the creatures on it, and heavenly orbs about it. The same word, spoken of particular places, we English, land: as the land (or earth) of Canaan, Gen. 12. 5. The earth is the midst or center of the world, and round in form, as a globe or circle, Esa. 40. 22. It is said to be founded on her bases, (even strong foundations, Mic. 6. 2.) that it shall never be moved, Psal. 104. 5. and yet it hangeth upon nothing, Job 26. 7. Seas:] that is, each place where waters are gathered together, is called a Sea. Wherefore not only the main Ocean, but other lakes and pools, yea and greater vessels that hold waters, are called seas: as the brazen sea which Solomon made for the Priests to wash in, containing 3000. bathes of water, 2. Chro. 4. 2. 5. 6. So that which one Evangelist calleth a lake, Luk. 8. 33. another calleth a sea, Matth. 8. 32. And seas, (in Hebrew, Iamim) are named of Majim, waters, and of the tumultuous noise which they make. Whereupon the Prophets apply the name of waters, and seas, to troubles, and troublesome people's: Ier. 51. 42. Rev. 17. 15. Esa. 57. 20. Psal. 65. 8.

V. 11. yielding:] Hebr. making: that is, bearing and bringing forth. From this fruitfulness of the earth, are many arguments of God's praise, in Psal. 104. 14. 15. 16. The holy Ghost compareth man's nature hereunto, Heb. 6. 7. and men are likened to trees, their words and works, to fruits; Ier. 17. 7. 8. Math. 3. 10. after his kind:] so that men do not gather figs of thorns, nor grapes of the bramble, Luke 6. 44. This also noteth the great variety of herbs, weeds, trees of sundry sorts, and different qualities. The like, is after, concerning beasts. whose seed is,] or, which hath it seed in it self: whereby it is continued, and yearly renewed. For by seed sown, the herbs and trees spring up again, 1. Cor. 15. 37. 38. And from this work of God in nature, the Apostle showeth his work in grace, when the seed of God remaineth in us, 1 John. 3. 9. and from the springing up of seed, after it is dead in the earth, a similitude is taken of the fruit of Christ's death, & of our bodies resurrectiō: John. 12. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 36. 37.

V. 14. Lights,] or Lighters, that is, lightsome bodies, or instruments that show light. This name Paul applieth to the saints, that shine in the world; Phil. 2. 15. for signs,] to signify things, both natural and ordinary; and extraordinary for mercy or judgment, Luke 21. 25. Act. 2. 19. 20. Psal 65. 9. seasons,] or, set times; as summer, winter, spring, and autumn; Gen. 8. 22. which come by the course of the Sun: the Moon also, is for appointed times, Psal. 104. 19. so be the Stars and constellations, Job 38. 31. 32. In Israel also the set times of God's service were by them, as new moons, and festivities, Numb. 28. Of the stars Job saith, God maketh Arcturus, (which riseth in September, and beginneth Autumn;) and Orion, (which ariseth in December, and beginneth Winter;) and Pleiades, (which arise in the Spring;) and the chambers of the South (that is, the southern stars, which are for the most part hidden from us as in chambers, but some arise to us in Summer; as the dog-star, and the like) Job 9. 9. days,] both large days, of 24. hours, from sun setting to sun setting; and strict, of 12. hours, from sun rising to sun setting, as is observed before on verse 5. a special use whereof, is shown in Psal. 104. 19.—23. and years:] that is, and for years, as the Greek translateth it. A propriety of speech, when a word oft before expressed, is in the last branch omitted for brevity. The like is in Hose. 3. 4. Eph. 4. 11. Gal. 3. 28. A year, hath the name in Hebrew, of Changing, or iteration, which is by the revolutions of the sun, moon and stars. For in saying years, he may comprehend not only the period or circuit of the sun, (which is in 365. days, and 6. hours) but of the other planets also. The Hebrew Doctors say; The months of the year, they are the months of the moon; and the years that we count, they are the years of the Sun. The days of the year of the moon, are 354. The year of the Sun, hath 365. days and a quarter, which is six hours. Maimonides in Misn. in Kiddush hachodesh, ch. 1. S. 1. &c. 8. S. 3. &c. 9. S. 1.

V. 16. the greater,] or, the great light, meaning the Sun, Ps. 136. 8. which is called in Hebrew, sometime Chammah, the warm-sun, Isaiah. 30. 26. because none is hid from his heat, Psal. 19. 7. sometime Cheres, the glistening-sun; Job 9. 7. but usually it is named Shemesh, that is, a Minister or servant, because by it GOD ministereth light, heat, and precious fruits, to all people under heaven: Deut. 4. 19. and 33. 14. The Sun is in the midst of the planets as principal; and when he riseth, he is glorious, like a Bridegroom coming forth out of his chamber, Psalm. 19. 6. and he is the greatest of all the heavenly lights. By the accompt of our Astronomers, the Sun is 166. times greater, and by the Hebrew Doctors reckoning, about 170. times greater-than the earth: Maimonides in Iesudei hatorah, chap. 3. sect. 8. The name of the Sun, is spiritually applied unto Christ; Mal. 4. 2. whose face appeared like the Sun shining in his strength; Rev. 1. 16. ac whose death, this created Sun was darkened at noon day, for the space of three hours, Amos

8. 9. Mar. 27. 45. with him, this spiritual Sun, his Church is clothed, Revel. 12. 1. and shall shine also as the Sun, in the kingdom of heaven. Mat. 13. 43. lesser,] or, little light, that is, the Moon; called in Hebrew, of her fair whiteness, Lebanah; Song. 6. 9. and of refreshing the earth with her cool influences, Iaroach, Deut. 33. 14. stars.] which also are, for to rule the night, Psal. 136. 6. called stars of light, Psal. 148. 3. Of these, some are fixed, other some, wandering stars, (or planets) whereunto unstable men are compared; Jude verse 13. The stars differ one from another in glory, 1 Cor. 15. 41. and are not for man to number, Genes. 15. 5. but GOD counts their number, and calleth them all by names, Psalm. 147. 4. and with them, he hath by his spirit, garnished the heavens: Job 26. 13. Some of the stars or constellations, have names in holy scripture, as Ash, Cosil, Cimah, and Mazzaroth, (or Mazzaloth.) Job 9. 9. and 38. 31. Amos 5. 8. 2 King. 23. 5. which we call by other names, Arcturus, Orion, Pleides, Planets, and Signs in the Zodiake. They might well be Englished, water-stars, winter-stars, Thunder-stars, and the like: for by their rifting and influences, storms, tempests, fair and pleasant weather, &c. do proceed by the disposition of God. Consider those places, Job 38. Am. 5.

Verse 17. set.] Hebr. gave them; which word is often used, for setting or putting: as, I have given my spirit, Esa. 42. 1. that is, I have put it, Math. 12. 18. It signifieth also a firm settling: as, thou hast given thy people, 1 Chr. 17. 22. for which in 2 Sam. 7. 24. is written, thou hast confirmed thy people. Accordingly David saith, that God hath firmly constituted the Moon & Stars, Psal. 8. 4. Of the Stars, with their orbs and spheres, the Hebrew Doctors write thus; The spheres are called Heavens, and the Out-spread firmament, &c. and there are nine spheres; that which is nearest unto us is called the sphere of the Moon: and the next above it, is the sphere wherein is the Star called Cocab, (or Mercury.) And the third sphere is that wherein Nogah (or Venus) is. The fourth sphere hath in it the Sun: the fifth Maadim (or Mars:) the sixth hath in it the star Tsedek (or Jupiter:) the seventh Shabthat (or, Saturn:) and the eighth sphere hath in it all the other stars that are seen in the firmament. The ninth sphere, is that which turneth about every day, from the east to the west; and it compasseth all round about, &c. The stars that are all in that one (  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  ) sphere, although they be one above another, yet because the spheres are pure and clear as crystal, and as Sapphire, therefore the stars in the eighth sphere are seen underneath the first sphere, &c. None of the spheres, are either light or heavy, or coloured red or black, or of any other color: and whereas we see them of a blew color, it is only to the appearance of the eye, by reason of the height of the air. Also they have neither taste nor smell; because these accidents have no place, but in bodies that are beneath them, Maimonides in Misn. treat. Iesudei hatorah, chapt. 3. sect. 1. 3.

V. 18. over the day:] or, as the Greek translatheth, to rule the day: for, by their successive courses, the light is dispensed of God, unto the world, by day and by night: Ier. 31. 35.

Vers. 20. the moving thing:] or, as the Greek translatheth, creeping things. But the Hebrew, Sherets, is more large then that which we call the creeping thing, for it containeth, things moving swiftly in the waters, as swimming fishes, &c. Lev. 11. 10. and on the earth, as running weasels, mice, &c. Lev. 11. 29. and fowls also flying in the air, Levite. 11. 29. Moving things in the waters there are innumerable; one argument of God's praise, in Psalm. 104. 25. Soul,] named in Hebrew, nephesh, of breathing: and the scriptures apply this word not only to mankind, but to all creatures that live; and the breath of them, as here, and in Job 41. 21. The Hebrews say, The soul of all flesh is the form thereof, which God hath given thereunto: Maimonides in Iesudei hatorah, chap. 4. sect. 8.

V. 21. Whales,] or Dragons: the Hebrew Tannin, is used for both. These are the greatest creatures in the waters; one kind of them called Levjathan, is described in Job 41. In the belly of a Whale Jonah lived three days and three nights, Ion. 1. 17. And human writers testify, that into the river of Arabia, there have come Whales, 600. foot long, and 360. foot broad; Pliny hist. b. 32. chap. 1. that they are not without cause called great Whales. These Whales and Dragons, are used in Scripture to signify great Princes, Psal. 74. 13. Ezek. 29. 3. creeping,] The Hebrew, remes, which hath the name of treading, is also largely used, for things creeping on the earth, or swimming in the waters: Levite. 11. 44. 46. Gen. 1. 25.

V. 22. Blessed:] that is, gave power to conserve their kind by generation, and to increase unto many: for so the word blessing, is often applied unto multiplication, Gen. 24. 60. Ps. 128. 3. 4. This word is also largely used, for God's gracious giving of all good things earthly or heavenly, Gen. 24. 35. Deut. 28. Eph. 1. 3. And when men give thanks therefore unto God, that is called blessing also: see Gen. 14. 19. 20.

V. 24. cattle.] in Greek it is translated, fourfooted beasts. The Hebrew, Behemah, is generally all beasts of the greater sort; whereof the Elephant is called Behemoth, Job 40. 15. The Apostle once translateth it in Greek, Therion, which properly is wild beast: Heb. 12. 20. from Exod. 19. 13. beast:] or, wild-beast: named in Hebrew, of life, or liveliness, which is most seen in the wild beasts. In Perkei R. Eliezer, chap. 11. the Jew Doctors say, These that were created out of the earth, their souls and their bodies were of the earth; and when they die, they return to the place where they were created, as it is said (in Psal. 104. 29.) thou takest away their spirit, they die and another Scripture saith, (Eccles. 3. 21.) and the spirit of the beast, that goeth downward to the earth.

Vers. 26. Let us:] This is meant of the three in heaven the Father, the Word, and the holy Spirit, which three are one, 1 John 5. 7. Hereupon he is called God our makers, Job 35. 10. Psal. 149. 2. After the world was made and garnished, the holy Trinity mentioneth the making of man, the excellentest creature under heaven: he is fearfully and marvelously made, Psal. 139. 14. Man,] or earthly man; in Hebrew, Adam: so called of Adamah, that is, red-mould or earth; because, of it his body was created, Gen. 2. 7. It was the name of the woman also, Gen. 5. 2. and so of all mankind, usually called Adam, and Adams sons, Gen. 9. 6. Psal. 11. 4. our image,] the image of the holy Trinity: whereby man in nature, knowledge, righteousness, holiness, glory, &c. resembled God his makers. See Gen. 9. 6. I am. 3. 9. Colos. 3. 10. Ephes. 4. 24. 1 Cor. 11. 7. 2 Cor. 3. 18. The Hebrew Doctors say; The excellent knowledge (or reason) that is found in the soul of man, it is the form of man: and for this form, it is said, Let us make man in our image, &c. R. Mos. Maimonides in Misn. treat. Iesudei. hatorah. chap 4. sect. 8. Also this Image and likeness is said to be in man, for the understanding mind which is in him, such as is not in other living creatures, R. Menachem Rakanat. on Gen. 1. The Heathens opinion agreed hereunto, as Proclus saith, The mind that is in us, is an image of the first mind, that is, of God. Man is also called of the Hebrews Olam Hakaton, of the Greeks Microcosmos, that is, A little world: for the hath in him the beauty of thing without life, even the chiefest, as of the Sun, Moon, and Stars, &c. Eccles. 12. 2. Gen. 37. 8. 9. Ezek. 28. 13. 14. he hath growth as plants, Gen. 38. 11.

and 49. 22. sense and sensible properties, with beasts, Gen. 49. 9. 17. 2 Sam. 23. 20. reason and wisdom with Angels, 1 Sam. 14. 20. But the image of God in him, excelleth all. Let them have,] that is, man and woman, with their posterity: for if the root be holy, so are the branches, Rom. 11. 16. Adam had God's image and glory, for him and his, if he had stood in his integrity: but falling, he lost them from him and his, Rom. 5. 12. 17. 18. 19. Howbeit, in the dominion and glory of man and woman, there is inequality, 1 Cor. 11. 7. 8. 9. 1 Timoth. 2. 12. 13.

Vers. 27. Created:] By reason of the excellency of man above all earthly things, and of God's image in him: the name Creature is appropriated unto him, as often in the Hebrew Doctors writings, so by Christ's and his Apostles; every creature, that is, every man: Mar. 16. 15. Coloss. 1. 23. So, all living; for all men, Gen. 3. 20. because the most excellent life is in man. male:] or, a male and a female, meaning one and not moe females for a male. This beginning of man's creation, Christ alledgeth against unlawful divorces, and taking moe wives then one, Mar. 10. 6. See also Malac. 2. 15. And when a thing is set down thus singularly, it is often to be restrained unto one. This the Scripture showeth in repeating matters: as, a loase of bread and a flagon of wine, 1 Chron. 16. 3. which another Prophet writeth thus, one cake of bread, and one flagon of wine, 2 Sam. 6. 19. So the Law, him shalt thou serve, Deut. 6. 13. Christ restraineth to him only: Mat. 4. 10.

Vers. 28. subdue it:] or keep it in subjection: the Greek translateth, exercise dominion over it. Subduing, meaneth such a prevailing and possessing, as a master hath over servants, Jer. 34. 11. 16. 2 Chr. 28. 10. Neh. 5. 5. For this state of man, made a little lower then the Angels, but crowned with glory and honor, and set over the works of God's hands, David laudeth the Lord, in Psal. 8.

Vers. 31. everything:] or, as the Greek translateth, all things, very good:] or, vehemently good; and so pleasing and profitable: see before in verse. 4. This showeth that sin and evil was not of God, or by the work of his hands: but came in after, by the creature it self, falling from God, Eccles. 7. 31. the sixth day,] According to this number of days in the creation of the world, the Hebrew Doctors have guessed at the number of years, that the world should continue: they say it is a tradition of Rabbi Elias; Six thousand years shall the world be, and then it shall be destroyed. Two thousand, empty; (that is, before the promise unto Abraham) two thousand, the Law, (the time of Circumcision,) and, two thousand the days of Christ: and for our iniquities, (say they) which are many, they that are past of them, are past; (that is, the years are past, and the Christ is not come:) Thalmudin Sanhedrin, chapt, Chelek. This conjecture some do the more regard, both because it is a testimony, that the Christ is long since come, even by the Jews own tradition; and because it is written, one day is with the Lord, as a thousand years; and a thousand years as one day, 2. Pet. 3. 8. We may compare with these six days, the six ages of the world, as they are manifestly distinguished in Scripture. The first from Adam, to Noes flood, which was often generations: this is called the old world 2 Pet. 2. 5. The second, from the Flood, unto Abraham: which was also of ten generations: at him the New Testament beginneth the genealogy of Christ, Mat. 1. 1. 2. The third, from Abraham to David, fourteen generations. The-fourth, from David unto the captivity of Babylon, fourteen generations. The fifth, from the captivity of Babylon unto Christ; fourteen generations; all which are so reckoned by the Holy Ghost, in Mat. 1. 17. The sixth, is the age after Christ, called the last days, Heb. 1. 2. the last time, 1 Pet. 1. 20. 1. John. 2. 18. after which, remaineth the Rest (or Sabbatism) for the people of God; to begin at our Lord's second coming, and to continue forever: 1 Thessal. 4. 16. 17.

CHAPT. II.

The seventh day is sanctified for a Sabbath. 4, The manner of the Creation. 8, The planting of the Garden of Eden, 10, and the River thereof, 17, The tree of knowledge only forbidden. 19, Adam nameth the creatures. 21, The making of Woman, and institution of marriage.

AND the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. And in the seventh day, God had finished his work, which he had made: and he rested in the seventh day, from all his work which he had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because in it he had rested, from all his work, which God had created and made.

These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth, when they were created: in the day that Jehovah God made the earth and the heavens. And every plant of the field, before it was in the earth; and every herb of the field, before it grew-up: for Jehovah God had not caused-it-to-rain upon the earth; and there was not a man, to till the ground. And a myst went-up from the earth; and watered the whole face of the earth. And Jehovah God formed man, dust of the earth; and inspired his nostrils, with the breath of life: and man was a living soul. And Jehovah God planted a garden in Eden, eastward: and there he put the man whom he had formed. And Jehovah God made to grow-up out of the ground, every tree desirable for sight, and good for meat: and the tree of life, in the midst of the garden; & the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. And a river, went-out of Eden, to water the garden: and from thence it was parted, and was to four heads. The name of the one, Pison: the same is it that compasseth, the whole land of Havilah; where there is gold. And the gold of that land, is good: there is Bdelium, and the Beryl stone. And the name of the second river, •i•on: the same is it that compasseth, the whole land of Cush. And the name of the third river, Hiddekel: the same is it that goeth, to the east of Assyria: and the fourth river, is Euphrates. And Jehovah God, took the man: and put him in the garden of Eden; to till it, and to keep it. And Jehovah God, commanded the man, saying: of every tree of the garden, eating thou mayest eat. But of the tree, of the knowledge of good and evil, thou mayest not eat of it: for, in the day thou eatest of it, dying thou shalt die. And Jehovah God said, It is not good the man should be, himself alone: I will make for him an help, as before him. And Jehovah God had, formed out of the ground, every beast of the field, and every fowl of the heavens; and brought them unto Adam, to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called each living soul, that was the name thereof. And Adam called names, to all cattle, and to the fowl of the heavens, and to every beast of the field: but for Adam, he found not an help, as before him. And Jehovah God, caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed-up the flesh in the stead thereof. And Jehovah God, built the rib, which he had taken from Adam, to a woman: and he brought her, unto Adam. And Adam said; This now, is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother: and he shall cleave to his wife, and they shall be one flesh. And they were both of them naked, Adam and his wife: and they were not ashamed-of-themselves.

Annotations.

Finished:] or, all-done, perfected. host:] or, army; called in Hebrew Saba, which meaneth, an army standing in order, or battle ray. The Greek here translatheth it, garnishing, or furniture. Hereby is meant all creatures in the earth and heavens, which stand as an army, servants to the Lord, Psal. 119. 91. and by him commanded, Isaiah 45. 12. The Angels are of this army, 1 King. 22. 19. and are called the multitude of the heavenly host, Luke 2. 13. 15. and they were (by likelihood) created with the heavens, in the first day, because those morning stars and sons of God, did sing and shout, when God laid and fastened the foundations of the earth, Job 38. 4. 6. 7. The stars, and furniture of the visible heavens, are also God's host, Isaiah 34. 4. Deut. 4. 19. and the stars in their courses, fought against Sisera, Judge. 5. 20. The Israelites coming out of Egypt, are called the Lord's hosts, Exodus 12. 41. Hereupon he is often named the Lord of hosts, or of Sabaoth: and the Apostles in Greek sometime keep the Hebrew name, Lord of Sabaoth, Rom. 9. 29. I am. 5. 4. sometime they translate it, Lord God Almighty, Revel. 4. 8. from Esa. 6. 3.

Vers. 2. seventh day:] The Hebrew shebang, (from which the German word, sieben, and English seven, are derived,) hath the signification of fullness; and is a perfect and complete number, after which we begin again with the first day of the week. Therefore seven, is used for many or a full number, Gen. 33. 3. Lev. 4. 6. 1 Sam. 2. 5. Ier. 15. 9. Prov. 26. 25. And many mysteries are throughout the Scripture, set forth by the number of seven, as in the feasts and sacrifices of Israel, Deut. 16. 3. 8. 9. 15. Num. 28. 19. and 29. 12. 32. especially in the book of the Revelation. See also Gen. 21. 31. The Greek interpreters, translated the sixth day, for the seventh, lest the heathens should think, (mistaking the phrase,) that God wrought upon the Sabbath. rested:] or, sabbathised, that is, kept Sabbath: for of this Hebrew shebath, it is called the Sabbath (or Rest) day. God rested (or ceased) from making more creatures, Exod. 20. 11. Heb. 4. 3. though as touching the preserving, ordering, governing of the world, the Father worketh hitherto, and Christ worketh, John. 5. 17. God's Sabbath, was also his rejoicing in his works, Psal. 104. 31. and this the Chaldee paraphrast observed here; saying, and God delighted the seventh day in his work which he had made, and rested. This resting, is spoken of God, after the manner of men; and implieth not any weariness in him; for the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary, Esa. 40. 28. work:] generally put for works; as the Apostle expounds it, in Heb. 4. 4.

Vers. 3. And God blessed:] in Exod. 20. 11. it is said, Therefore God blessed, that is, because he him-self rested in the seventh day, therefore he blessed and sanctified it unto man; whereupon the Apostle reasoneth, he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his; Heb. 4. 10. and he blessed the seventh day by giving it this singular privilege, to be a day of rest and holiness, of delight and of feasting unto the world; Exod. 20. 10. 11. Nehem. 9. 14. Isaiah. 58. 13. Levite. 23. 2. 3. Wherefore this day is not described by evening and morning, as were the other six, which consisted of light and darkness: but this is all day (or light;) figuring out our perpetual joys; Esa. 60. 20. Zach. 14. 6. 7. Revel. 21. 25. And so the Hebrew Doctors understand it of the world to come: for in Breshith rabbah they say; The blessing of the Lord it maketh rich, (Prov. 10. 22.) this is the Sabbath day, as it is written, And God blessed the seventh day, (Gen. 2. 3.) he calleth the Sabbath, the Blessing of the Lord, because it is received from the Blessing that is on high: therefore he saith, it maketh rich, because it is the abundant wealth of the world, &c, And if we expound the seventh day, of the seventh thousand of years, which is the world to come, the exposition is, and he blessed, because in the seventh thousand, all souls shall be bound in the bundell of life; for there shall be there, the augmentation of the Holy Ghost, wherein we shall delight ourselves: and so our Rabbin's of blessed memory, have said in their Commentary; God blessed the seventh day, the holy God blessed the world to come, which beginneth in the seventh thousand (of years.) Compare the last note on Gen. 1. 31. sanctified:] or, hallowed: that is, separated it from common use and work, unto his own service alone: that it might be a sign unto men that they should enter into his Rest (or Sabbatism) Heb. 4. 9. and that the Lord their God doth sanctify them, Ezek. 20. 12. and thus the Sabbath was made for man, Mar. 2. 27. and made] Heb. to make: that is, to exist & be, and that perfectly and gloriously, as by divine power of creation. Or rather created and made, perfectly and excellently: for so the Hebrew phrase may be explained, as in 1 Chro. 13. 9. Uzzah put forth his hand to hold the Ark, for which in 1 Sam. 6. 6. is said, and held it: So in Exod. 17. 10. Making also is often used for perfecting, polishing, magnifying, Exod. 36. 2. Ezek. 41. 18. 19. 1 Sam. 12. 6. Psalm 118. 24. The Greek translateth, which GOD had begun to make.

V. 4. the generations:] the Greek turneth it, the book (or story) of the generation, that is, of the procreation or making of the world, and of the accidents that fell out in time after. So other scriptures speak of the begetting and gendering of the dew and frost, Job 38. 28. 29. of the bearing and bringing forth of the earth, Psal. 90. 2. and of that which a day may bring forth, Prov. 27. 1. the day:] that is, the time: so day is used for the time wherein anything is done; as the day of salvation, 2 Cor. 6. 2. this thy day, Luk. 19. 42. and sundry the like. Jehovah:] This is God's proper name, Exod. 15. 3. the force whereof is opened in Rev. 1. 4. 8. & 11. 17. & 16. 5. by He that is, that was, and that will be, (or, is to come.) It cometh of Havah, he was: and by the first letter I, it signifieth, he will be, and by the second Ho, it signifieth he is. This the Hebrew Doctors acknowledge, for R. Bechai, (on Exodus, fol. 65) saith, that these three times, past, present, and to come, are comprehended in this proper name [Jehovah,] as is known unto all. It implieth also, that God hath his being or existence, of him-self, before the world was, Esa. 44. 6. that he giveth being unto all things: for in him, they both are and consist, Act. 17. 25. that he giveth being to his word, effecting whatsoever he speaketh, Exod. 6. 3. Esa. 45. 2. 3. Ezek. 5. 17. And thus it differeth from Adonai Lord, which is God's name, of his sustentation and dominion: whereas Jehovah is his name of existing or being, to which agreeth that name Ehjah, I am, (or Will be) Exod. 3. 14. and Jehovah, Gen. 15. 2. and Yah, Exod. 15. 2. Howbeit the Greek version, turneth Jehovah Lord, as well as Adonai: and the New Testament often followeth the same: as, the Lord said to my lord, Math. 22. 44. for that which is in Hebrew, Jehovah said to my lord, Psal. 110. 1. and many the like, Which is to be observed in the Apostles writings, for the understanding of sundry speeches: as Ro. 10. 9. if thou shalt confess that Jesus is the Lord: that is, Jehovah (as he is named in Ier. 23. 6.) So in 1 Cor. 12. 3 no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, (that is, Jehovah) but by the holy Ghost. Many times they use God, instead of this name Jehovah, as 2 Sam. 7. 3. Jehovah is with thee: for which in 1 Chron. 17. 2. is written, God is with thee: 2 King. 11. 10. the house of Jehovah: for which, in 2 Chron. 23. 9. is, the house of God. So, the mouth of Jehovah, Deut. 8. 3. is interpreted, the mouth of God, Math. 4. 4. and belief in Jehovah, Gen. 15. 6. is belief in God, Rom. 4. 3. I am. 2. 23. Jehovah hath given me, Esa, 8. 18. is, God hath given me, Heb. 2. 13. And this is the name not only of God the Father, but also of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, as in John. 12. 40. 41. Acts 28. 25. 26. compared with Isaiah. 6. The Jews at this day, hold it unlawful to be pronounced so as it is written: but read Adonai Lord, for it. But in the sanctuary they grant it was pronounced, when the Priest blessed the people, according to the law in Num. 6. 23.—27. Talmud in Sotah, ch. 7. fol. 37.

Verse 5. plant:] or tree, as the Chaldee interprets it. A general word, therefore the Greek translatheth it green thing. before it was] or, which was not yet: neither should have been, had not God made them by his word: who still causeth such things to grow, Psal. 104. 14. caused it to rain:] which rain, is the ordinary means to make the earth fruitful: Job 38. 26. 27. Heb. 6. 7. And this is spoken of God, because none but he, can give rain, Ier. 14. 22.

Verse 6. And a mist:] or, vapor: the Chaldee calleth it a cloud: the Greek, a fountain. As being the original matter of the rain: for by vapors ascending from the earth and sea, rain is engendered, and poured out on the earth, Psalm 135. 7. Amos 5. 8. 1 King. 18. 44.

V. 7. formed man] or, the earthly man, Adam. Hereupon it is said: we are the clay, and thou (Lord) our former, (or potter:) Esa. 64. 8. dust:] or, mould: that is, of the dust, as Eccles. 3. 20. but the speech is forcible, noting man's base original, whereof he was after put in mind, Gen. 3. 19. and we all, Eccles. 12. 7. Hereupon Paul saith, the first man was of the earth, dustie, 1 Cor. 15. 47. and we are said to  dwell in houses of clay, and to have our  foundation in the dust, Job 4. 19. inspired:] or, blew. This showeth man's spirit not to be of the earth as his body; but of nothing, by the insufflation of God: and so differing from the spirit of beasts, as Solomon observeth, Eccles. 3. 21. This word is used also, when Christ (for to make men new creatures by the preaching of the Gospel,) inspired his Apostles, with the holy Ghost, John. 20. 22. The Rabbin's say: The form of the soul (of man) is not compounded of the elements, &c. but is of the Lord from heaven. Therefore when the material body, which is compounded of the elements, is separated, and the breath perisheth because it is not found but with the body, and is needful for the body in all the actions thereof; this (essential) form is not destroyed, &c. but continueth forever, even forever and ever. This is that which Solomon by his wisdom said, (in Eccles. 12. 7.) and dust shall return unto the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God, who gave it. Maimonides in Misn. in Iesudei hatorah, ch. 4. s. 9. breath of life:] or, spirit of lives: whereby is intimated one spirit or soul to be in man, which hath sundry faculties and operations. The breath here is in Hebrew, Neshamah, which hath affinity with Shamajim heavens: usually it signifieth either the breath of God or of men, not of other things: and so it is put for man's mind, or reasonable soul: and the Latin word Men's, mind, is of the same consonant letters that the Hebrew, and of it derived. And this Mind is the Lord's candle, searching all the toward rooms of the belly, Prov. 20. 27. The Hebrew lives, is by the holy Ghost translated in Greek, life, Act. 2. 28. from Psal. 16. 11. and it is so ⟨∅⟩ in the form plural, because in life, there are ma ⟨...⟩ operations, changes, occurrences, &c. that do fall out. and men:] or Adam: which Paul openeth thus, the first man

Adam: 1 Cor. 15. 45 was,] or, was to, that is, become a living soul. The word to, as it is often expressed, so is it sometime omitted in the Hebrew text as  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  Chron. 18. 21. I will be to (or for) a lying spirit: which in 1 King. 22. 22. is written, I will be a lying spirit: unto this living soul, Paul opposeth the second Adam, Christ, who is a livemaking spirit, 1 Cor. 15. 45. where he compareth living or quick, with livemaking, or quicken; & soul, with spirit: as also the souly (or natural) body, with the spiritual, verse 44. 46. So by living soul, here is meant, the natural estate of life in this world, where men do eat and drink, procreate children, &c. which in the world to come, shall be otherwise, when this animalitie, or souly state, shall be changed into spiritualtie. As for the term of this our souly, or natural life, it dureth while our breath is in us, and the spirit of God in our nostrils, Job 27. 3. for the breath of the Almighty, giveth us life, Job 33. 4. And here, for a living soul, the Chaldee translatheth speaking, that is, reasonable, because man hath a soul reasonable, whereby he speaketh: so differing from dumb beasts, Psal. 32. 9. 2 Pet. 2. 16. The Hebrew Doctors say, the form of the inferior Adam, mystically signified the form of the superior Adam: R. Menachem on Gen. 5. 1. The mystery is opened by the Apostle thus, The first man, is of the earth, earthly: the second man, is of the Lord from heaven: 1 Cor. 15. 47.

V. 8. a garden:] called hereupon, the garden of Jehovah, Gen. 13. 10. the Greek translatheth it a paradise, which name is borrowed from the Hebrew, pardese, that signifieth an orchard, Song. 4. 13. Eccles. 2. 5. This place for the pleasantness of it, is made a figure of heaven, named, paradise, in Luk. 23. 43. 2 Cor. 12. 4. It is also applied to the Church of Christ, Revel. 21. & 22. So the Hebrew Doctors gathered from Song. 4. 12. that this garden signified the Church of Israel: R. Menachem, on Gen. 2. 8. in Eden:] a country in the upper part of Chaldea, mentioned in Esa. 35. 12. Ezek. 27. 23. and other where. Eden signifieth Pleasure, (of it, the Greeks name Pleasure, Hedone.) and the name showeth it to be the pleasantest part of the world: wherefore comparisons are made by it, Esa. 51. 3. Ezek. 31. 16. 18.

Vers. 9. desireable:] that is, goodly, pleasant, tall, excellent: as Cedars and the like. See Ezek. 31. 8. 9. 18. tree of life:] which was continually flourishing and fruitful: unto which the scripture seemeth to have reference, in describing the spiritual Paradise under the Gospel, mentioning the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month, and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations, Rev. 22. 2. This was unto Adam a symbolical tree, a sign not only of a blessed natural life in Paradise for a time, but of a spiritual life after in Heaven forever, if he continued in obedience to his Creator. For as the bread of life, is that which giveth life eternal to them that eat of it, John. 6. 48. 50. 51. so this tree of life signified the like, as God himself after showeth, Gen. 3. 22. Compare also Prov. 13. 12. midst of the garden:] the Greek saith, of the paradise: which the Holy Ghost followeth in Rev. 2. 7. saying, to him that overcometh, I will give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God. The word midst often signifieth no more then within; as in Gen. 41. 48 amidst the same City, that is, within the same. So, in the midst of thorns, Luke 8. 7. is, among (or into the) thorns, Mat. 4. 7. And the tree of knowledge is said also to be in the midst of the garden, that is, within it, Gen. 3. 3. the knowledge of good and evil:] so named, because of God's law which forbad man to eat of this tree, should teach what is good and evil; be a rule of obedience, showing man's goodness and righteousness if he did obey, (as Deut. 6. 25.) or his evil, if he did transgress: for the knowledge of sin, is by the law, Rom. 3. 20. Also knowledge is used for sense, or experience, Gen. 12. 12 Song 6. 11. Isaiah 59. 8. and sometime for most near union and conjunction, Gen. 4. 1. and this tree might so have the name of the event, because Adam by eating of it, brought evil into the world, was commingled and defiled with it, and felt the misery of it in his own conscience & experience, Gen. 3. 6. 7. The Greek translatheth, a tree to know that which may be known, of good and evil: and the Chaldee thus, a tree of whose fruit they that eat, shall know the difference between good and evil. So in Targum Yerushalmi likewise.

Vers. 10. to water] From this river, and the use of it in Paradise, the Scripture speaketh of God's spirit, and graces in his Church: as, the pure river of the water of life, Rev. 22. 1. the river of God full of waters, Psal. 65. 10. the river, whose streams make glad the city of God, Psal. 46. 5. See John 7. 38. 39. was to,] that is, became into four heads, meaning four beginnings of other rivers.

Vers. 11. Pison:] or, as in the Greek, Phison: it is so called of the multitude or increase of waters. The Scripture elsewhere speaketh not of it. compasseth:] This word is sometime used for turning and passing along by, though not round about; as in Ios. 15. 3. and 16. 6. where the Greek translatheth it perieleusetai, pass by: and so it may be taked here. Havilah:] in Greek, Evilat. This was the name of two men, one the son of Cush, the son of Cham, the son of Noah, Gen. 10. 7. the country where he dwelt, was called by his name, and that is it here mentioned, and after in Gen. 25. 18. 1 Sam. 15. 7. Another Havilah was the son of Ioktan, the son of Heber, of the race of Sem, son of Noah, Gen. 10. 29. His country befell him in the East Indies.

Vers. 12. good:] that is, fine, precious: so in 2 Chr. 3. 5. Bdelium:] the name of a tree, and of a sweet gum that runneth from it. The Hebrew name is Bedólach: and some think it to be a kind of Pearl: the Manna was like unto it, and the color white, Num. 11. 7. Exod. 16. 31. Beryl:] a precious stone, called in Hebrew Shoham: which the Greek in Exod. 28. 20. translatheth a Beryl; the Chaldee calleth it Burla, and the Arabic all Belor. On two of these stones, the names of the twelve Tribes were graven, and borne on the high Priests shoulders, Exod. 28. 9. 10. see the notes there.

Vers. 13. Gihon:] in Greek, Geon: a river about the land of Cush. There was also another river Gihon in Canaan, near Jerusalem, whereof see 2 Chron. 32. 30. Cush:] the son of Cham, the son of Noah, Gen. 10. 6. whose posterity in these parts of the world are called Ethiopians: and so the Greek here translatheth Ethiopia.

Vers. 14. Hiddekel:] The signification of this [unspec \2] word is of sharpness and lightness: for it was a swift running river. The Greek translatheth it Tigris, the Tigre, which is the name of a beast very light of foot, as Pliny showeth, in b. 8. chap. 18. Tigris also in the Medes and Persian tongue, signifieth an arrow, saith Pliny, b. 6. ch. 27. and Q. Curtius b. 4. speaking of this violent River. By it, Daniel saw visions of God, Dan. 10. 4. The Chaldee calleth it Diglat: whereupon the Latins also named it Diglato; Pliny in b. 6. ch. 27. Assyria:] in Hebrew Assur: he was the son of Sem, the son of Noah, Gen. 10. 22. of whom, his country was called Assyria, famous through all the Scripture; which usually nameth countries and posterities, by the names of the first inhabitants and parents. See the notes on Gen. 12. 10. and 19. 37. is Euphrates:] Hebr. it is Phrath; which river the New Testament calleth Euphrates, Rev. 9. 14. It hath the name of Encrease: for the waters thereof wax mighty, by snow melting from the mounts of Armenia, and do make the country fruitful. This is called the great river, Deut. 1. 7. and 11. 24. Rev. 9. 14.

Vers. 15. garden:] in Greek, paradise. to till:] or, dress: the Greek saith, to labor it. The Hebrew Doctors apply this mystically to Adams labor in, and keeping of God's law: Pirke R. Eliezer chap. 12. And that the moral law, and work thereof, was written in his heart, is manifest: seeing the same yet remaineth in the corrupted harts of men, Rom. 2. 14. 15.

Vers. 16. commanded:] Besides the law of nature, graven on Adams heart, whereby he was bound to love, honor and obey his Creator: God here giveth him (for a trial of his love,) a significative law, concerning a thing of it self indifferent, but at the pleasure of God made unlawful and evil for man to do; that by observing this outward rite, he might testify his willing obedience unto the Lord. See 1 Sam. 15. 22. 23. eating thou mayest eat:] that is, mayest (or shalt) freely eat: thus God first showeth his love and liberality, before he makes any restraint. The doubling of words is often used in Scripture, for more earnestness and assurance, and in things to come, for to signify speedy performance, Gen. 41. 32. Sometime God altereth this manner of speaking, into other the like; as 2 King. 14. 10. smiting thou hast smitten; for which in 2 Chron. 25. 19. is written, thou sayest, loe I have smitten. So, Building I have built, 1 King. 8. 13. or, as in 2 Chron. 6. 2. and I, I have built. Sometime the doubling of the word is omitted; as, hath any delivering delivered? 2 King. 18. 33. which another Prophet writeth thus, hath any delivered? Isaiah 36. 18. In translating also, God useth sometimes the phrase which we follow here; as in Heb. 6. 14. blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee: translated into Greek from Gen. 22. 16. Seeing I have seen, Act. 7. 34. from Exod. 3. 7. Sometime otherwise; as, shot through with darts, Heb. 12. 20. for that which is in Hebrew shooting shot through, Exod. 19. 13.

Vers. 17. But of:] Heb. And of: and▪ is often used for but: so translated in the Greek version, Isaiah 10. 20. and by the holy Ghost in the New Testament; as 1 Pet. 1. 25. from Isaiah 40. 8. Heb. 1. 11. 12 from Psal. 102. 27. 28. So here again, in verse. 20. and in Gen. 3. 3. and 42. 10. and in many other places. 〈◊〉 thou mayest not,] or thou shalt not eat. This law was given both to the man and woman; which were both called Adam, Gen. 5. 2. and the woman confesseth so much, Gen. 3. 3. and the Greek version here manifesteth it, saying, ye shall not eat. dying thou shalt die:] that is, shalt surely and soon die; or, as the Greek translateth, ye shall die the death. Under the name of Death, the Scripture comprehendeth, deadly plagues, as the punishment of Egypt with Locusts, is called a death, Exodus 10. 17. Also, inward astonishments, fears, &c. as Nabal's heart died in him, 1 Sam. 25. 37. Likewise outward deadly dangers, and miseries; as Paul was in deaths oft, 2 Cor. 11. 23. It is also used for death in sin, when men are alienated from the life of God, Ephes. 2. 1. and 4. 18. And for the dissolution of man's soul and body, which we commonly call death, when the soul (or spirit) goeth out of the man, Gen. 35. 18. Psal. 146. 4. And finally, death is the perdition of body and soul in hell, which is eternal perdition from the presence of the Lord; and called, the second death, Mat. 10. 28. 2 Thessal. 1. 9. Rev. 20. 6. 14. These, and whatsoever else mortality, misery, death, the Scriptures mention: are implied in this judgment here threatened upon disobedience, Rom.

5. 12. beside miserable bondage under him which hath the power of death, that is the devil, Heb. 2. 14. 15. On the contrary, here is implied upon condition of his obedience, the promise of eternal life, whereof the tree of life was a sign, Gen. 3. 22. So Paul opposeth death, as the wages of sin: and eternal life, as the gift of God: which now since man's fall, is only by Christ, who giveth us to eat of the tree of life: Rom. 6. 23. Rev. 2. 7. The Hebrew Doctors also say, After the opinion of our Rabbin's of blessed memory, if [Adam] had not sinned, he had never died; but the breath which he was inspired with, of the most high blessed God, should have given him life forever, and the good will of God, which he had in the time of his creation, had cleaved unto him continually, and kept him alive forever, R. Menachem, on Gen. 2. 17.

Vers. 18. himself alone:] or, alone, as the Greek translatheth it: so 1 King. 19. 10. I am left myself alone: for which Paul saith, I am left alone, Rom. 11. 3 God who made other creatures male and female together, did not so in mankind: which Paul observeth, saying, Adam was first formed, then Eve, 1 Tim. 2. 13. making it one reason of the woman's subjection. as before him.] the Greek here translatheth it, according to him; and in the 20. verse, like unto him meaning, one that should be as his second self, like him in nature, knit unto him in love, needful for procreation of seed, helpful in all duties, present always with him, and so very meet and commodious for him. The Apostle hence gathereth another reason of the woman's subjection, in that the man was not created for the woman, but the woman for the man, 1 Cor. 11. 9.

V. 19. them unto Adam:] or, unto the man: but the Greek version keepeth the Hebrew name Adam, & addeth the word them, for to make the sense plain. So the holy Ghost sometime doth, in repeating matters; as, he blessed and brake, Mat. 14. 19. that is, and brake them, Luke 9. 16. Shew to the Priest, Mar. 1. 44. that is, show thyself, Mat. 8. 4. See also Gen. 31. 42. would call them:] or, call it, that is, every of them. This showeth God's bounty, in giving man dominion over all earthly creatures, Psal. 8. for the giving of names, is a sign of sovereignty, Numb. 32. 38. 41. Gen. 35. 18. and 26. 18. It manifesteth also Adams wisdom, in naming things presently according to their natures; as the Hebrew names by which he called them, do declare.

Vers. 20. he found not,] that is, the man found not a meet help for himself, among all the creatures; therefore the woman when she was made, was the more acceptable. Or, as the Greek translatheth, there was not found an helper like unto him. So in Gen. 15. 6. he imputed it, is translated, it was imputed, Rom. 4. 3. See also Gen 6. 20. and 16. 14.

Vers. 21. a dead fleepe:] This the Greek calleth an ecstasy, or trance; which the Scriptures show to have fallen also on men, when they did see visions of God, as Gen. 15. 12. Act. 10. 10. In such deep-sleep, the senses are all bound up, as 1 Sam. 26. 12.

V. 22. built:] To build the rib to a woman, is to make, or create a woman of it, as with a special care, or art, and fit proportion. Hereupon our bodies are called houses, Job 4. 19. 2 Cor. 5. 1. And although by building, is meant making; (as the Lord will build thee an house, 1 Chron. 17. 10. is the same that he will make thee an house, 2 Sam. 7. 11.) yet by the many words used in the generation of man-kind, as creating, Gen. 1. 27. making, Gen. 1. 26. forming, and inspiring, Gen. 2. 7. and now building: Moses would set forth this wondrous workmanship, which the Psalmist so laudeth God for, Psal. 139. 14. he brought:] God her builder, was also her bringer, and so her conjoyner in marriage with the man, Mat. 19. 6. and the Scripture noteth a wife, to be a special favor of the Lord, Pro. 18. 22. and 19. 14. He also blessed them together, as Gen. 1. 28. whereby may be seen, how Moses changeth the order in this Chapter; enlarging things here, which before he had touched briefly.

Vers. 23. This now:] or, this time: this once. flesh, &c.] Hereby Adam shown, both his thankfulness to God, and love to his wife: and from hence Paul teacheth, that men ought to love their wives as their own bodies, for no man ever hated his own flesh, Ephes. 5. 28. 29. The like speeches are used of persons near a kin, that they are their bone and their flesh, Gen. 29. 14. Judge. 9. 2. So the Apostle by this, setteth forth Christ's mystical union with his Church, that we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones, Ephes. 5. 30. woman:] or, Mannesse, of Man: as in Hebrew she is called Ishah, of Ish: which word Ish, hath the signification of strength and valor: so that the Scripture useth this word, show yourselves men, for, be ye strong, or courageous, Isaiah 46. 8. 1 Cor. 16. 13. And it hath affinity with Esh, which in Hebrew is fire: for heat in man, causeth strength and courage. Therefore as Adam is used for base men, borne of adamah, the earth: so Ish is used for noblemen, Psal. 49. 3. Also Ish, is used both for man and husband: and Ishah, both for woman, and wife: as in the verses following. out of man:] The Greek translatheth, out of her man; and the Chaldee, out of her husband. Hence is a third reason of women's subjection, because the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man, as Paul saith, 1 Cor. 11. 8.

Vers. 24. leave his father, &c.] This is a perpetu<sup>a</sup> all law, given of God, as Christ showeth, Mat. 19. 4. 5. and teacheth that the band of marriage, is the nearest conjunction in the world, and all societies rather to be left, then this between man and wife, who may not depart one from another, 1 Cor. 7. 10. 11. as they do depart from their parents, Gen. 24. 58. 59. and 31. 14. Lev. 22. 12. 13. The like is observed in the spiritual marriage, between Christ and his Church, Psal. 45. 11. 12. The Chaldee translatheth it, he shall leave the bed of his father and mother. And the Hebrew Doctors gathered from hence a law unto all Adams sons, against unjust carnal copulations, and incestuous marriages, with a man's fathers wife, or mother in law; and with his own mother; as after, by he shall cleave to his wife, (they say) is forbidden any other man's wife; and all pollution with the male, and likewise with beasts, Maimonides in Misn. book 14. treat of Kings: chap. 9. ⟨◇⟩ . 5. to his wife:] or, to his woman: for it is the same word Ishah, used before in verse 23. and by his woman, he showeth there is no lawful conjunction for a man but with one, and she a wife, become his by marriage. Wherefore all other women, are in this respect called strangers to him, Prov. 5. 3. 18. 20. And for shall cleave, the Greek saith, shall be glued: which word is also in Mar. 10. 7. & maketh against all unjust divorces. they shall be:] the Greek translatheth, they two shall be one flesh: and so it is alleged in the New Testament, Mat. 19. 5. that hereby a man is restrained from more wives then one: which is to be observed in other speeches of Scripture, wherein like restraint is implied: as, him thou shalt serve, Deut. 6. 13. that is, as Christ alledgeth it, him only, Mat. 4. 10. Luke 4. 8. So, but for the Priests, Mar. 3. 26. which another Evangelist writeth, but for the Priests only, Mat. 12. 4. Of like force is that saying, a man is not justified by the works of the Law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ; that is, by faith only, Gal. 2. 16. one:] or, to one flesh: See verse. 7. This is meant in special, by generation of children: wherefore Paul doth by proportion apply these words even against unlawful fleshly copulation, 1 Cor. 6. 16. adding a further mystery of our union with Christ, he that is joined to the Lord is one spirit, verse. 17.

Vers. 25. not ashamed:] thought not themselves in any shameful plight: as a Chaldee paraphrase saith, they knew not what shame was. For they being innocent, and adorned with the image and glory of God, had nothing in soul or body, that was defective, miserable, or shameful: but now by sin, nakedness in us, is a want, a filthy thing, and a shame, Deut. 28. 48. Rev. 3. 18. For shame or confusion is the fruit of sin, Rom. 6. 21. the opposite of joy, Isaiah 65. 13. and companion of destruction, Ier. 48. 20.

CHAP. III.

1, The Serpent deceiveth Eve. 6, Man falleth, 9, God arraigneth them. 14, The Serpent is cursed. 15, A seed promised that should bruise his head. 16, Mankind is chastised. 21, God clotheth them, 22, and drives them out of Paradise.

NOW the Serpent was subtle, more than any beast of the field, which Jehovah God had made: and he said unto the woman; yea because God hath said, ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden. And the woman said, unto the serpent; of the fruit of the trees of the garden, we may eat. But of the fruit of the tree, which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it: lest ye die. And the serpent said unto the woman: ye shall not dying die. For God doth know, that in the day that ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened: and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And the woman saw that the tree was good for meat, and that it was a desire to the eyes, and a tree to be coveted to make one wise; and she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat: and she gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked: and they sewed-together fig leaves, and made themselves aprons. And they heard the voice of Jehovah God, walking in the garden; in the wind of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the face of Jehovah God, amongst the trees of the garden. And Jehovah God called unto Adam: and said unto him, where art thou? And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I feared, because I am naked, and I hid myself. And he said, who told thee that thou art naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, which I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat of it? And Adam said; the woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And Jehovah God said unto the woman, what is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, the Serpent beguiled me, and I did eat. And Jehovah God said unto the serpent; Because thou hast done this, cursed art thou above all cattle, and above every beast of the field: upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life. And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed: He, shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

Unto the woman he said, multiplying I will multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children: and thy desire shall be to thy husband; and he shall rule over thee.

And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, which I commanded thee, saying, thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. And thorns and thistles shall it bring-forth to thee: and thou shalt eat the herb of the field. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread; till thou return unto the ground, for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return. And Adam called his wives name Eve: because she was the mother of all living. And Jehovah God made to Adam and to his wife, coats of skin, and clothed them.

And Jehovah God said, Behold the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: And now left he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever. And Jehovah God sent him forth, from the garden of Eden: to till the ground, from whence he was taken. And he drove out the man: and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden, Cherubims; and the flame of a sword, which turned-it-self; to keep the way of the tree of life.

Annotations.

Vers. SE•int:] named in English, of creeping on [unspec] the earth; but in Hebrew, nachash, of subtle observation, searching, & finding out by experience, Gen. 30. 27. and 44. 5. The greater serpents are called dragons: and nachash is sometimes turned in Greek a dragon: Job 26. 13. Amos 9. 3. and for it in Hebrew, is put Tannin, a dragon, Exod. 7. 10. with 4. 3. And in the New Testament, the same thing is called both a dragon; and a serpent, Rev. 20. 2. subtle▪] that is, prudent and crafty: prudent to save and help it self, whereupon it is said, be prudent as serpents, Mat. 10. 16. crafty, to deceive others, as Paul saith, the serpent by his craftiness beguiled Eve, 2 Cor. 11. 3. by which two words, the Scriptures do express the Hebrew here used: which often is taken in the good part, opposed to simplicity and folly, Prov. 1. 4. and 8. 5. and 14. 15. 18. and 22. 3. more than:] the word more is usually omitted in the Hebrew, as easy to be understood: yet sometimes is expressed, as in Est. 6. 6. And the holy Ghost setteth it down in Greek, when it wanteth in Hebrew, as in Gal. 4. 27. from Isaiah 54. 1. many are the children of the desolate, more than of the married: in Isaiah 54. 1. the word more is not written. So the Greek version in this place addeth it: though sometime the Greek also wanteth it, as Gen. 38. 26. Luke 18. 14. He said:] Whereas beasts are known in nature to be speechless (and the Scripture confirmeth it, 2 Pet. 2. 16) because they want reason or understanding, Psal. 32. 9. Iud. v. 10. Moses under the name of the serpents speaking, closely meaneth Satan, who opened the serpents mouth, and caused it to speak with man's voice, as the Lord by an Angel opened the mouth of Balaam's Ass, Num. 22. 22. 28. 2 Peter 2. 16. And so the Hebrew Doctors write, that the unclean spirit Sammael (the devil) was united with the serpent: R. Menachem on Gen. 3. And, as a man possessed with an evil spirit, all the works that he doth, and all the words that he speaketh, are not but by the reason of the evil spirit that is in him: so the serpent, all the works that he did, and all the words that he spake, he spake not, neither did, but by the reason of the Devil, Pirke R. Eliezer, chap. 13. The Angels (of whose creation we spake before, on Gen. 2. 1.) being spirits, and a flaming fire, Psal. 104. 4. excellent in wisdom, and mighty in strength, 2 Sam. 14. 20 Psal. 103. 20. they many of them, (having one for principal,) did sin against God, Mar. 5. 9. Mat. 25. 41. 2 Pet. 2. 4. by not abiding in the truth, nor keeping their first estate, but leaving their own habitation, John 8. 44. Jude 6. and are now still called, of their cunning and knowledge, Daemons, Mar. 5. 12. of their mighty strength, principalities and powers, Col. 2. 15. of their calumniation and enmity to God and his creatures, they are named the malicious, the Devil, and Satan, 1 John 2. 13. 1 Pet. 5. 8. Mat. 4. 8. 10. And the Devil speaking by this Serpent, is therefore called the great dragon, that old Serpent, which deceiveth all the world, Rev. 12. 9. And as him-self stood not in the truth, but sinned from the beginning, 1 John. 3. 8. so soon upon man's creation he overthrew him; and is therefore said to be a mankiller from the beginning, John. 8. 44. And man's fall and misery, is here immediately joined to his creation, and seating in Paradise. Also the Hebrew Doctors hold; that nothing here mentioned was done after the six days of the creation: all our wisemen do agree, that this whole matter was done the sixth day, saith Maimonides, in Moreh. Nebuchim, chel. 2. per. 30. the woman:] the weaker vessel, 1 Pet. 3. 7. whom Satan thought the more easily to deceive, and so did: as Paul observeth, Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived, was in the transgression, 1 Timoth. 2. 14. 2 Corinth. 11. 3. So the Serpent set upon Christ, in his hunger and infirmity, Matthew. 4. 2. 3. Yea:] or, Moreover: it is a word proceeding from an earnest mind; and usually it is an addition to something spoken before. So it is likely the Serpent had uttered words against God, the sum whereof is in this speech. A like phrase is in 1 Sam. 14. 30. because God hath:] or, hath God indeed said? So the Chaldee paraphrase translatheth, in truth, (that is, Is it true) that God hath said? and the Greek, why is it that God hath said? In this understanding, Satan beginneth with a question, as when by his servants, he sought to have taken Christ in his talk, Luke 20. 20. 21. 23. The temptation is directly against God's word; which as it was that whereby the world was made and existed Psal. 33. 6. 2 Pet. 3. 4. so by it all things are upholden, or carried, Heb. 1. 3. and if God's word had abidden in Eve, she had overcome the wicked one, 1 John. 2. 14. So Satan began the assault upon Christ, taking occasion at the word of God, (this is my son, Mat. 3. 17) saying, If thou be the Son of God, Mat. 4. 3. of every tree:] or, of all trees: but the Hebrew word for all, is sometime used for everyone, sometime for any one, as Psal. 143. 2. so the Serpents speech was doubtful, and bent to deceive. And as here he assailed the woman about food, so he began with Christ, Mat. 4. 3.

Vers. 2. Trees:] in Hebrew, tree: so in verse. 7. leaf, for leaves. This the Scripture openeth, as parable, Psal. 78. 2. is expounded parables, Mat. 13. 35. heart, Psal. 95. 8. for hearts, Heb. 3. 8. work, Psal. 95. 9. for works, Heb. 3. 9. And in the Hebrew text it self; as, spear, 2 King. 11. 10. for spears, 2 Chron. 23. 9. ship, 1 King. 10. 22. for ships, 2 Chr. 9. 21. See also Gen. 4. 20.

Vers. 3. lest ye die:] or, (as the Greek translatheth) that ye die not. This manner of speech doth not always show doubt, but speaks of danger, and to prevent evil: as Psal. 2. 12. lest he be angry: Gen. 24. 6. lest thou bring, for, that thou bring not. So Mar. 14. 2. lest there be an uproar, for, that there be not an uproar, Mat. 26. 5. Yea sometime it rather affirmeth a thing, lest Hezekiah deceive, Esa. 36. 18. for which in 2 King. 18. 3. is written, for he deceiveth you. So, lest they faint in the way, Mat. 15. 32. that is, they will faint, Mark. 8. 3.

Vers. 4. not dying die:] that is, not surely die: the Greek translatheth, not die the death. Here he impugneth the certainty of God's word, which had threatened assured death, Gen. 2. 17. And thus the Devil was a liar, and the father thereof, John. 8. 44.

Vers. 5. in the day:] that is, presently: so he opposeth present good, unto the present evil threatened of God. Whom he also calumniateth, as of ill will, he had forbidden them this tree. then your eyes, &c.] By an ambiguous deceitful promise, he draweth her into sin: for by opening of eyes, she understood a further degree of wisdom, as the like speech importeth, Acts 26. 18. Eph. 1. 18. but he meant, a seeing of their nakedness, and confusion of conscience, as fell out immediately, Gen. 3. 7. 10. The Hebrew phrase is, and your eyes: but and, is often used for then; as Mark 14. 34. And he saith: which another Evangelist writeth, Then saith he; Mat. 26. 38. so Mark 15. 27. and they crucify, Mat. 27. 38. then were crucified: and many the like. as God's] This the woman understood of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, as appeareth by the words of God himself in v. 22. but the tempter might mean it also of the Angels, which had sinned, (for Angels are called God's, Psal. 8. 6.) who of their knowledge are named Daemons, and have woeful experience of the good which they have lost, and the evil wherein they lie. The Chaldee saith, as princes: and Devils are also called principalities and powers, Col. 2. 15. Another Chaldee paraphrase, which goeth under the name of Jonathan, for God's, translatheth Angels knowing, &c.] the name before given to this tree, Gen. 2. 17. the serpent here wresteth to a wrong sense: as if to know good and evil, were to be like God himself, & that the eating of the fruit, would work such an effect: whereas the tree was so called for another cause. See Gen. 2. 9.

Vers. 6. saw:] that is, looked upon with affectation. So Achan saw and coveted, and took, Ios. 7. 21. a desire:] or a lust, that is, most pleasant, and to be desired. to make one wise:] or, to get prudency, and so prosperity and good success thereby; as the Hebrew word often signifieth. According to these three things which the woman (by false suggestion) saw in the tree, for meat, for the eyes, and for prudency: the Apostle reduceth all that is in the world (and not of the father,) to the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, 1 John 2. 16. With which we may also compare the three temptations of Christ, Luke 4. she gave:] together with words to move and persuade him: for he is said to have hearkened to her voice, verse. 17. he did eat:] so the sin was accomplished that brought death into the world, as God threatened, Gen. 2. 17. and the death is gone over all men, for that all have sinned; and by the disobedience of one, the many are made sinners, Rom. 5. 12. 19. By eating, the Scripture elsewhere signifieth the committing of sin, Prov. 30. 20. Again, by eating, sin and death are done away, and life restored in Christ, John. 6. 50.—54. whom Satan sought to have drawn into sin also by eating, but was defeated, Mar. 4. 2. 3. 4. This first sin of man, is called in respect of himself an offense or fall; because by it, he fell from his good estate: in respect of God, it was disobedience; as unto whom hereby he denied subjection, and renounced obedience, Roman. 5. 18. 19. Neither was it his own sin only, but the common sin of us all his posterity, which were then in his loins; for by this one man's disobedience many were made sinners, Rom. 5. 19. and in Adam all die, 1 Cor. 15. 22.

V. 7. naked:] both in body and soul, which were bereaved of the image of God, deprived of his glory, & subjected to inordinate lusts, and thereupon to shame: of which nakedness the Scriptures often speak, as Ex. 32. 25. Ezek. 16. 22. Rev. 3. 17. & 16. 15 Hos. 2. 3. 2 Cor. 5. 3. Sewed:] that is, fastened together, by twisting and plating the leaves and twigs, for to gird about them. fig leaves:] in Heb. leaf, or branch, as we english the word in Neh 8. 15. and as the Greek translatheth it in Ier. 17. 8. This was to cover, not to cure their filthy nakedness: therefore in v. 10. they nevertheless do hide themselves for shame. The like natural hypocrisy, is elsewhere compared to the Spiders web, Isaiah 59. 5. 6. And the figtree which had leaves & no fruit, was cursed of Christ, and withered, Mat. 21. 19. aprons:] named in Hebrew of girding about the loins. So Peter when he was naked, girded a garment on him, John. 21. 7. And those parts of the body which serve for generation, were then, and still are most shameful, and studiously covered; because sin is become natural, and derived by generation, Psalm. 51. 7. Gen 5. 3. Therefore circumcision (the sign of regeneration,) was also on that part of man's body, Gen. 17. 11.

Vers. 8. the voice of Jehovah:] this sometime signifieth any noise or sound, Ezek. 1. 24. sometime the thunder, Exod. 9. 28. 29. sometime God's distinct voice like thunder, as John. 12. 27. 28. 29. walking:] this by the Greek is referred to God walking: it may also be meant of the voice, which is said to walk, or go on, when it increaseth more and more, Exod. 19. 19. the wind:] by the Greek version, this was the eventide▪ So in the evening of the world, at the last day, the Lord shall descend from heaven, with a showt, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trumpet of God, &c. 1 Thes. 4. 16. hid themselves:] through conscience and feeling of their sin and misery, and for fear of God's Majesty, verse. 10. Howbeit, there is no darkness, nor shadow of death, where the works of iniquity may hide themselves: Job 34. 22. Amos 9. 3. Psalm. 139. 7. 8. 9. Prov. 15. 3. Ier. 23. 24. from the face:] or, the presence, that is, for fear of the Lord's coming.

Vers. 10. feared:] or, was afraid: this fear was a terror through feeling of God's wrath for sin; as Israel also felt in themselves, when they heard the voice of God at mount Sinai, Ex. 20. 18. 19. 20. It was such as had torment with it, which who so feareth, is not perfect in love, 1 John 4. 18. and proceeded from the spirit of bondage, Rom. 8. 15. Otherwise, there is also a fear, which proceedeth from the spirit of adoption, and accordeth well with love and comfort, 1 Pet. 1. 1. 17. Psalm. 2. 11. and 147. 11. Ier. 32. 39. 40. Prov. 19. 23. This fear, if Adam had kept, he had eschewed evil, Prov. 16. 6 am naked:] he dissembleth the main cause, which was his sin: pure nakedness was God's creature, and he was naked before, without fear or shame, Gen. 2▪ 25.

Vers. 12. thou gavest:] Adams confession is mixed with excuses; and further evils: asking no mercy, but charging the woman, and God himself, with the cause of his fall. The foolishness of man, perverteth his way, and his heart fretteth against the Lord: Prov. 19. 3.

Vers. 13. what is this:] or, For what? that is, Why hast thou done this▪ [unspec 13]

Vers. 14. unto the serpent:] unto the beast and the devil; which together were the means to draw into sin, verse. 1. and therefore are joined as one here <...> the punishment. cursed:] this is contrary to blessed, Deut. 28. 3. 16. and as to bless, is to say well <◇> my; so to curse▪ is to say evil: so expounded by the holy Ghost: as, thou shalt not curse the Ruler, Exod. 22. 28. which Paul citeth thus, thou shalt not speak evil of the Ruler, Act. 23. 5. And as God's word is one with his deed; so his curse is the pouring out of evils upon the creatures for sin, unto their perdition, Deut. 28. 20. &c. So the fig-tree being cursed, withered, Mark. 11. 21. the children cursed, were torn of beasts, 2 King. 2. 24. And that the devil was implied under this curse, the Hebrew Doctors have acknowledged, saying of God, that he brought those three, and decreed against them the decrees of judgment, and did •ast Sammael (the Devil) & his company, out of his holy place, out of heaven, and cut off the feet of the serpent, and cursed him, &c. Pirke R. Eliezer, ch. 14. So Peter saith, God spared not the Angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, &c. 2 Pet. 2. 4. And in Rev. 12. 7. 8. 9. speaking of a spiritual combat with the Devil in the Church, it is said, the Dragon fought, and his Angels; but they prevailed not, neither was their place found anymore in heaven; and that great Dragon, that old serpent, called the Devil and Satan, was cast out, &c. As the Devil is cursed above all creatures, Mat. 25. 41. so the cursed serpent is in Scripture a similitude of the most hurtful venomous and hateful beasts, as Deut. 8. 15. Ier. 8. 17. Ps. 58. 5. Mat. 23. 33. thy belly:] or, thy breast: as the Greek hath a twofold translation, upon thy breast and belly: meaning with great pain and difficulty. For other creatures also go on the belly, Lev. 11. 42. but as Adams labor, and Eves conception, had pain and sorrow added to them, (verse. 16. 17) so the serpents gate. dust:] that is, vile and unclean meats: noting also hereby baseness of condition, Mic. 7. 17. and hunger and penury, which this beast should suffer above others, which eat the herbs of the field: Gen. 1. 30. This eating of dust, is again remembered in Isaiah 65. 25▪ where speech is of our Redemption from Satan by Christ: which showeth that these outward curses, implied further mysteries.

V. 15. enmity:] this is opposed to the amity and familiarity which had been between the woman and the Serpent, which God would break. And here beginneth the first promise of grace and life, to Evah and mankind now dead in sin, and enemies to God, Col. 2. 13. and 1. 21. For the amity of this world, is enmity of God, I am. 4. 4. thy seed and her seed:] that is, thy posterity and hers. Seed, is often used for children: by the Serpents seed, are meant not only those venomous beasts, which have enmity with mankind: but also wicked men, called serpents, generations of vipers, and children of the Devil, Matth. 23. 33. 1 John 3. 10. By the woman's seed, is meant (in respect of Satan) chiefly Christ, who being God over all, blessed forever, should come of David and Abraham, and so of Eve, according to the flesh, for she was the mother of all living, Roman. 1. 3. and 9. 5. And with Christ all Christians, who are Eves seed both in nature and in faith, as all Christians are called Abraham's seed: Gal. 3. 29. He:] or, it; that is, the Seed. This is first to be understood of Christ, who was made of a woman, Gal. 4. 4. the fruit of the womb of the Virgin Mary, Luke 1. 42. He through death, hath destroyed him that had the power of death, that is the Devil, Hebrews 2. 14. Secondly, it implieth Christians (the children of Christ, Heb. 2. 13) who resisting the Devil steadfastly in faith, the God of peace bruise Satan under their feet; 1 Pet. 5. 9. Rom. 16. 20. When promise is made concerning the seed, the faithful parents are also included, and so on the contrary: as when Moses saith, I will multiply thy seed, Gen. 22. 17. Paul alledgeth it thus, I will multiply thee, Heb. 6. 14. Again, where Moses saith, All families shall be blessed in thee, Gen. 12. 3. Peter alledgeth it, they shall be blessed in thy seed, Act. 3. 25. Also this word seed, is used either for a multitude, as Gen. 15. 5. or for one particular person, as Gen. 21. 13. and 4. 25. so here it meaneth one special seed Christ, Gal. 3. 16. This the ancient Hebrew Doctors also acknowledged, for in Targum Yerushalmi, the fulfilling of this promise is expressly referred to the last days, the days of the King Messias. And the mystery of original sin, and thereby death over all, and of deliverance by Christ, R. Menachem on Lev. 25. noteth from the profound Cabbalists, in these words; So long as the spirit of uncleanness is not taken away out of the world, the souls that come down into the world, must needs die, for to root out the power of uncleanness out of the world, and to consume the same. And all this is, because of the decree which was decreed for the uncleanness and filthiness which the Serpent brought upon Eve. And if it be so, all the souls that are created & become unclean by that filthiness, must needs die before the coming of the Messias, &c. and at the coming of the Messias, all souls shall be consummate thenceforth. bruise,] or, pierce, crush: the Hebrew word is of rare use, only here, and in Job 9. 17. thy head:] or, thee on the head. Hereby is meant Satan's overthrow & destruction in respect of his power and works, John. 12. 31. 1 John. 3. 8. for the head being bruised, strength and life is perished. So in Targum Yerushalmi it is expounded thus, The woman's children shall be cured; but thou ô Serpent, shalt not be cured. And he saith thee, (rather than thy seed,) because Christ was to vanquish that old serpent, which overcame our first parents: who being destroyed, his seed perish with him, Revel. 12. 9. John. 14. 30. and 12. 31. 32. his heel:] or, his foot sole: for the Hebrew and Greek here used, signify not only the heel, but the whole foot sole, and sometime the foot step, or print of the foot. By the heel, or foot bruised, is meant Christ's ways, which Satan should seek to suppress by afflictions, and death for our sins, here foretold; as appeareth by the reference which other Scriptures make to this prophesy, Psal. 56. 7. and 89. 52. and 49. 6. and 22. 17. He was crucified through infirmity, and put to death concerning the flesh, but was quickened by the spirit, & liveth through the power of God, 2 Cor. 13. 4. 1 Pet. 3. 18. and so his foot, not his head was bruised by the Serpent. Who yet brought upon him a death that was shameful, and painful, and cursed, because he was hanged on a tree, Gal. 3. 13. for it is probable, that partly in remembrance of this first sin, by eating of the tree of knowledge, (which tree was a sign of curse and death if man transgressed:) God's law after accounteth such as die on a tree, to have in more special manner, the sign of curse upon them, Deut. 21. 23. But Christ swallowed up death in victory, Isaiah 25. 8. through whom, God also giveth us the victory, 1 Cor. 15. 57 unto which promise the Prophet hath reference, saying, Why should I fear, in the days of evil: when the iniquity of my heels shall compass me about? God will redeem my soul, from the hand of Hell, Psalm. 49. 6. 16.

Vers. 16. multiply I will multiply:] that is, I will much and assuredly multiply: see this phrase opened, on Gen. 2. 16. Here are annexed not curses, but chastisements for Eve and Adam: that their faith in the promised seed, might continually be stirred up, and their sinful nature subdued and mortified, Heb. 12. 6. Psal. 119. 71. conception:] meaning painful conception; and this word is used for the whole space that the child is in the mothers body, until the birth: and so here implieth all the griefs and cumberances which women do endure that time. The Greek translatheth it groaning. The reason of this chastisement, is, because sin is from Adam derived by propagation to all his posterity, Psalm 51. 7. Roman. 5. children:] Heb. sons: which implieth daughters also; therefore the Greek translatheth it children: so for son, and sons; the Holy Ghost saith in Greek, children, as in Mat. 22. 24. from Deut. 25. 5. Gal. 4. 27. from Isaiah 54. 1. By bringing forth, is also meant bringing up after the birth, as Gen. 50. 23. Unto the sorrows of childbirth, the Scripture often hath reference, in cases of great affliction in body or mind, Psalm. 48. 7. Mich. 4. 9. 10. 1 Thess. 5. 3. John. 16. 21. Rev. 12. 2. Howbeit this chastisement hindereth not a woman's salvation with God, for nevertheless she shall be saved in childbearing, if they [women] continue in faith, and love, and holiness, with sobriety: 1 Tim. 2. 15. desire:] The Greek translatheth it, thy turning, (or conversion;) the word implieth a desirous affection, as appeareth by Song. 7. 10. And that this should be to her husband, it noteth subjection, as in Gen. 4. 7. Elsewhere this word is not used: the Apostle seemeth to have reference unto it, in 1 Thess. 2. 8. rule:] So Paul saith, I permit not the woman to usurp authority over the man, 1 Tim. 2. 12. And Peter, Wives be in subjection to your own husbands, 1 Pet. 3. 1. And this being here a chastisement for sin, implieth a further rule, then man had over her by creation, and with more grief unto womankind.

Vers. 17. the ground:] or, the earth: whereby is implied all this visible world, made for man, Psal. 115. 16. 2 Pet. 3. 7. So all hope of blessedness on earth, is hereby cut off, for all things under the Sun, are vanity and vexation of spirit, from man's birth to his dying day, Ecclesiastes 1. 2. 3. 14. and 12. 7. 8. and an heavenly heritage is to be sought for, immortal, and which fadeth not, 2 Peter 1. 4. Of ground cursed, there followeth barrenness, or unprofitable fruits, and desolation, Genesis 4. 12. and 3. 18. Isaiah 24. 6. and the end is to be burned, Hebrews 6. 8. So the earth, and the works therein, shall be burnt up. 2 Pet. 3. 10. And as for man's sake this world is cursed, and the creature made subject to vanity; so it earnestly expecteth the manifestation of the sons of God, that it may be delivered from the bondage of corruption, Rom. 8. 19. 20. 21. in sorrow:] with painful labor, as Prov. 5. 10. Hereupon the Scripture mentioneth our bread of sorrows, Psal. 127. 2. Adam was to have labored in his innocence, Gen. 2. 15. but without sorrow; being under the Lord's blessing, which maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it, Prov. 10. 22. Concerning this sorrow (or toil) of our hands, Noah (the figure of Christ) was a comforter, Gen. 5. 29.

Vers. 18. thorns:] Heb. the thorn. Hereby is meant harmful weeds, instead of wholesome fruits, Job 31 40. Ier. 12. 13. for men of thistles do not gather figs, Mat. 7. 16. Thorns do choke the good corn, as Mat. 13. 7. And spiritually, these signify evil fruits, which wicked earthly men bring forth, Heb. 6. 8. of the field:] and so, no longer the pleasant fruits of Paradise, Gen. 2. 9. 16. But as Nebuchadnezzar, when he had a beasts heart, was driven out among beasts, to eat grass as the oxen, Dan. 4. 13. 22. so man, not lodging a night in honor, nor understanding, but becoming like beasts that perish, is to eat herbs with them, Psal. 49. 13. 21. but by the labor of his hands, his diet is bettered.

Vers. 19. sweat:] with much labor, which Adam and all his posterity was condemned unto; that this is a general rule, if any will not work neither should he eat, 2 Thess. 3. 10. The sweat of the face, though it is to be distinguished from the care of the <...> d, which Christ forbiddeth, Mat. 6. 25. 34. yet it doth imply all lawful labors, and industry of body and mind, for the good of both, Eph. 4. 28. Mat. 10. 10. 1 Cor. 9. 14. so that the giving of the heart also, to seek and search our things by wisdom, is a sore occupation, which God hath given to the sons of Adam, to be occupied therein, and humbled thereby: Eccles. 1. 13. bread:] that is, all food; whereof bread is the principal, as that which upholds the heart of man, Psal. 104. 15. Therefore that which one Evangelist calleth bread, Mar. 6. 36 another calleth victuals, or meats, Mat. 14. 15. the ground:] or, the earth; (called elsewhere our earth, Psal. 146. 4. and our dust, Psal. 104. 28.) meaning till man return to the dust of death, the grave: and there, the wearied be at rest from their labors, Job 3. 17. Rev. 14. 13. dust thou art:] or, thou wast, to weet, concerning the body, as Gen. 2. 7. not the spirit, which being immortal, goeth unto God for eternal joys or torments, Luke 16. 22. 23. and 23. 43. This difference Solomon teacheth, And dust return to the earth, as it was, and the spirit return to God that gave it, Eccles. 12. 7. Here God condemneth mankind to death, which is the wages of sin, Rom. 6 23. and to the grave, the house appointed for all living, Job 30. 23. where they must wait, till their change come, Job 14. 14. for it is appointed to men once to die, and after this, is the judgment, Hebr. 4. 27. Otherwise the life eternal could not be obtained: for flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, neither doth corruption inherit incorruption; therefore we must all either die, or be changed; and this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality: and then shall Death be swallowed up in victory, 1 Cor. 15. 50. 51. 53. 54. So the Hebrew Rabbin's also taught, saying, that unto this world there cleaveth the secret filthiness of the Serpent which came upon Eve, and because of that filthiness, Death is come upon Adam and his seed. For when God saw how uncleanness cleaved, and spread it self abroad in the world continually, he intended to consume it, and to root out the power of it; and therefore the bodies do consume and corrupt; and have no continued life. But when the filthiness is consumed, and the spirit of uncleanness taken out of the earth; behold God will renew his world, without any other filthiness, and will wake up by his power, those that dwell in the dust, &c. and the Lord will rejoice in his works, as the intendment of the creation was at the first: R. Menachem on Gen. 3. The Greek Philosophers have observed, that some dead men putrefied, turn to Serpents; Plutarch in vita Cleomenis. If so, it is a notable memorial of man's first poisoning by the Serpent.

Vers. 20. Eve:] in Hebrew Chavah: which is by interpretation Life, (as the Greek also translatheth it,) or Living; Adam first called her Woman, Gen. 2. 23. God called her Adam, Gen. 5. 2. and now the man calleth her Eve, Life: by which new name, he testifieth his faith in, and thankfulness for God's former promise, in verse. 15. In which he also trained up his children, teaching them to sacrifice, and serve the Lord. Gen. 4. 3. 4. So the Hebrew Doctors reckon Adam as a repentant sinner: and by Wisdom, (that is, faith in Christ) brought out of his fall: Joseph. Antiq. b. 1. c. 4. and the Author of the Book of Wisdom, c. 10. v. 1. all living:] that is, as the Chaldee paraphraseth, of all the sons of man: meaning this both naturally, of all men in the world, (and so of Christ the promised seed:) and spiritually of all that live by faith: in which sense, Sarah is also counted the Mother of the faithful, 1 Pet. 3. 6. Gal. 4. 22. 28. 31.

V. 21. coats:] to cover the body from shame and harm, and for a memorial of man's sin, & a further sign of those garments of justice and salvation, which men have of God, that their filthy nakedness do not appear, Rev. 3. 18. & 19. 8. 2 Cor. 5. 2. 3. 4. The Chaldee calleth these here, garments of honor. of skin:] that is, in likelihood, of the skins of beasts, which God taught him to kill for sacrifice. Which offerings were even from the beginning of the Gospel preached, as appeareth Gen. 4. 3. 4. & 8. 20. And after by the Law, the Skines of the sacrifices were given to the Priests, Lev. 7. 8. And the sacrifices being all figures of Christ, (Heb. 10. 5. 10) the Skins were fit to resemble man's mortification, (as the girdle of skin which John the Baptist wore, Mat. 3. 4.) and new life, by putting on the Lord Jesus Christ Rom. 13. 13. 14. and the garments of salvation, wherewith God clotheth his Church, Isaiah 61 10.

Vers. 22. is become as one,] to weat, of us three, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit, 1 John. 5. 7 See before in Gen. 1. 26. Thus God upbraided Satan's lying speech, used in v. 5. and would leave an impression in Adams heart, of his pride and folly in believing the Serpents deceitful promises: that so long as he lived an exile here on earth, he might have continual motives of repentance and humiliation. The Hebrew phrase, is as one; meaneth, is made, or become as one: as, this is, Psal. 118. 23. the Evangelist translateth, this is done, Mat. 21. 42. lest he put:] An imperfect speech; where we may understand by that which followeth, he must be driven out, lest he be put. &c. Such phrases are usual, as Gen. 38. 11. & 42. 4. Mat. 25. 9. and eat and live: or, that he may eat and live. And, is often used for That, and noteth the end and purpose of an act: as here, so in 2 Sam. 21. 3. 2 King. 3. 11. Lam. 1. 19. Because the tree of life, and the eating of it, was at first a sign of eternal life to man, if he had obeyed his creator, (as is noted on Gen. 2. 9.) it might not now in the justice of God, be so continued to man fallen into disobedience. Neither was the new covenant between God and man, of obedience again by the works of the Law, unto life: but of faith in Christ the woman's seed, unto forgiveness of sins, Gen. 3. 15. 20. God therefore in driving the man from this tree, would drive him from all confidence in himself and his own works, (and so from abuse of this tree also, which might turn to his further judgment,) that he might seek the life in heaven, which is hid with Christ in God, Col. 3. 1. 2. 3. who will give to such as by faith do overcome the world, to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God; Rev. 2. 7.

V. 23. to till:] tillage, hath the name in Hebrew, of servile-work, for all, even Kings, are as servants to the field, Eccles. 5. 8. And this hard labor, was a continual remembrance of sin, and doctrine of humiliation and repentance. Wherefore God after in the Law, freed every seventh (or Sabbath) year, from this tillage in his land, when they did all alike eat of that which grew of it own accord, Lev. 25. 4. 6. to remember their former ease, lost by sin, but to be restored spiritually by Christ, when he should preach the acceptable year of the Lord: Isaiah 61. 2. 2 Cor. 6. 2.

Vers. 24. drove out:] or, expulsed, not to return thither again; but that he might seek admission into the heavenly paradise, whereunto Christ giveth entrance, Luke 23. 43. minding himself an exile and pilgrime here on earth, 1 Pet. 2. 11. 2 Cor. 5. 1. 4. The Hebrews say (in Bresith ketanna on this place,) Adam was driven out of paradise in this world, but in the world to come, he shalnot be driven out, The remembrance of this future mercy, was kept afterward among the Gentiles; for it is one of the Chaldean oracles, Seek paradise, the glorious country of the soul. Cherubims:] or Cherubs. These were living creatures with wings, as may be gathered by comparing, Ezek. 1. 5. and 10. 1. 15. the figures of such were wrought in the Tabernacle, Exod. 25. 18. and 26. 1. See the annotations there. Moses here seemeth to mean Angels, by this name: for they have appeared sometime with wings flying, Dan. 9. 21. and with sword, 1 Chron. 21, 16. and as fiery chariots, 2 King. 6. 17. as here they have the flame of a sword, (that is, a flaming sword, as the Greek translateth it,) to keep man out of paradise. Of Angels, see the notes on Gen. 16. 7. By these also, God further might signify, the Angels or Ministers in his spiritual paradise the Church, and the sharp two edged sword of his Word, wherewith they are armed, against all the disobedient, 2 Cor. 10. 4. 5. 6. But the twelve Angels at the twelve gates of that paradise, direct from all quarters of the world, to enter thereinto by the gates which are never shut, such as are written in the lambs book of life; where the tree of life groweth and giveth fruit, wherein they have right, that do the commandments of God, Rev. 21. 12. 25. 27. and 22. 2. 14. turned it self:] to weet, every way, for more terror, that man should not there attempt re-entrance. Such spiritually is the use of the Law and doctrine thereof, which terrifieth the conscience, and by the works whereof, no flesh can be justified, Rom. 3. 20. but it serveth to drive men unto Christ, that they may be made righteous by faith, Gal. 3. 24. The ancient Jews had an expectation of recovery of this loss by Christ, though now they are ignorant of him: for they write of seven things which the King Christ shall show unto Israel; two of which are, the garden of Eden; and the tree of life. R. Elias ben Mosis, in Sepher reshith choemah, fol. 4. 12. Also expounding that in Song. 1. 4. the King hath brought me into his chambers: Our Doctors of blessed memory, have said, that these are the chambers of the garden of Eden. And again, There are also that say of the tree of life that it was not created in vain, but the men of the resurrection (that are raised from the dead) shall eat thereof and live forever, R. Menachem, on Gen. 3. And by the garden of Eden, (or Paradise,) it seems they understood the kingdom of heaven: for the Chaldee paraphrast on Song 4. 12. saith, as the garden of Eden, into which no man hath power to enter, but the just; whose souls are sent thither by the hands of Angels. According to these speeches, familiar in old time among the Jews, the Holy Ghost also speaketh, of carriage by Angels, into Abraham's bosom, Luke 16. 22. of being with Christ in paradise, Luke 23. 43. and of eating of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God, Rev. 2. 7. And that the Jews understood not these things carnally, appeareth by these words of theirs. In the world to come, there is no eating or drinking, nor any other of the things which the bodies of the sons of Adam, have need of in this world; as sitting, and standing, and sleep, and death, and sorrow, and mi•th, and the like: So our ancient wise men have said. In the world to come there is no eating nor drinking; nor use of marriage, but the just do sit with their crowns upon their heads, and have the fruition of the glory of the Majesty of God. Maimonides in Misn. treat. of Repentance, ch. 8. S. 2.

CHAPT. III.

1. The birth, trade, and religion of Kaine and Abel. 8. Kaine killeth Abel. 9. for it he is examined of God, 11. and cursed: 13. he despaireth. 16. and departeth from God's presence. 17. Kaine buildeth the city Enoch, and hath children to the seventh generati•d▪ amongst whom▪ 19. Lame•h taketh two wi•es; 20. Iabel is a chief shepherd, 21. 〈∞〉 . •2. Tubal-kain a smith. 25. Ad•• bege••eth Seth, who is in Abel's stead: 26▪ and Seth, Enos.

ANd Adam, knew Eve his wife: and she conceived, and bare Kain; and said, I have gotten a man, of Jehovah, And she again bare, his brother Abel: and Abel was a feeder of sheep, and Kain was a tiller of the ground. And it was, at the end of days; that Kain brought of the fruit of the ground, in offering unto Jehovah. And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock, and of the fat of them: and Jehovah had respect unto Abel, and unto his offering. But unto Kain and unto his offering, he had not respect: and Kain was vehemently grieved, and his countenance fell. And Jehovah said unto Kain: why art thou grieved, and why is thy countenance fallen? If thou do well, is there not forgiveness? and if thou dost not well, sin lieth at the door: and unto thee shall be his desire; and thou shalt rule over him. And Kain spake unto Abel his brother: 〈∞〉 and it was when they were in the field, that Kain rose-up against Abel his brother, and killed him. And Jehovah said unto Kain: Where is Abel thy brother? and he said, I know not; am I my brothers keeper? And he said, what hast thou done? the voice of thy brothers bloods cry unto me from the earth. And now, Cursed art thou: from the earth, which hath opened her mouth, to receive thy brothers bloods, from thy hand. When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield her strength unto thee: a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth. And Kain said unto Jehovah: my iniquity is greater then may be forgiven. Behold, thou hast driven me out this day, from the face of the earth; and from thy face, shall I be hid: and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall be, that whosoever findeth me, will kill me. And Jehovah said unto him; Therefore, whosoever killeth Kain; vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold: and Jehovah set a sign upon Kain; lest any finding him, should •lay him. And Kain went out from the presence of Jehovah: and dwelt in the land of Nod, ⟨◇⟩ the east of Eden. And Kain-knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare Enoch: and he was building a city, and he called the name of the city, as the name of his son Enoch. And unto Enoch, was borne Irad; and Irad begat Mehujael: and Mehujael, begat Methusael; and Methusael, begat Lamech. And Lamech took unto him, two wives: the name of the one, was Adah; and the name of the second, Zillah. And Adah bare Iabel: he was the father of them that dwell in Tents, and that have Cattle. And his brothers name was Iubal• he was the father of all that handle the harp and organ. And Zillah she also bare Tubal-kain; an instructor of every artificer in brass and iron: and the sister of Tubal-kain, was Naamah. And Lamech said un to his wives; Adah and Zillah, hear ye my voice; ye wives of Lamech, hearken to my speech: for I have killed a man, to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt. If Kain shall be avenged sevenfold: then Lamech, seventy and seven fold.

And Adam knew his wife again, and she bare a son: and she called his name Seth: for God hath set unto me, another seed instead of Abel; because Kain killed him. And to Seth also himself, there was borne a son; and he called his name, Enos: then began men profanely, to call on the name of Jehovah.

Annotations.

KNew:] by lying with her; as this phrase is explained in Numb. 31. 17. A modest manner of speech, used again in verse 17. and 25. and throughout the Scriptures, Mat. 1. 25. Luk. 1. 34. Kain:] by interpretation, Gotten, or, a Possession; the reason followeth, I have gotten (Kanithi) a man of Jehovah: or, with Jehovah, that is, with his favor, and of his good will. The Greek translateth it, by God. Thus shown she her thankfulness to the Lord, whose heritage children are, Psal. 127. 3. and her hope of good in that first born son: howbeit her expectation failed her; for Kain was of the wicked one Satan; 1 John. 3. 12. The Hebrew Doctors also lay, Kain was borne of the filth and seed that the serpent had conveyed into Eve: R. Menachem on Gen. 4. herein Kain was a figure of all reprobates, the children of the Devil: John. 8, 44. 1 John. 3. 10.

Vers. 2. again bare:] in Hebrew, she added, to bear. From this phrase of her adding to bear, without mention of any other conception, some of the Jew Doctors gather, that Kain and Abel were twins: Pirkei R. Eliezer, chap. 21. Abel:] so the Greek, and the Evangelists write him, Math. 23. 35. The Hebrew name is Hebel, which signifieth Uanitie, or a soon-vanishing vapor: such is every man's life, I am. 4. 14. and so was Abe•• in special, being soon killed by his brother. And David saith that every man is Uanitie [Abel] though settled, as men may think, Psal. 39. 6. feeder:] or shepherd, Pastor and Governor of a flock: which flock (in the original) comprehendeth both sheep and goats, as is explained in Lev. 1. 10. The New Testament translatheth it into Greek, sometime sheep, as Rom. 8. 36. from Psal. 44. 23. sometime flock, as 1 Cor. 9. 7. and sometime both together, as, the sheep of the flock, Mat. 26. 31. from Zach. 13. 7. for which in Mar. 14. 27. is written only, the sheep. Abel in sheperdy, as in sacrificing and martyrdom, was a figure of Christ; John. 10. 11. Of this trade also were the Patriarchs of Israel, Gen. 46. 32. 34. and Moses, David, and many other men of note: Exod. 3. 1. Psal. 78. 70. 71.

Vers. 3. at the end of days:] that is, at the end of the year. Some understand it to mean, after many days, that is, in process of time. But a full year, is called a year of days, Gen. 41. 1. 2 Sam. 14. 28. because of certain days that are in the year, besides the months. And for shortness of speech (which the Hebrew tongue affecteth), days, are used for a year of days, that is, a whole year: as in Lev. 25. 29. days, is in verse. 30. expounded to be a perfect (or full) year: and the revolution of days, 1 Sam. 1. 20. is that which Moses calleth the revolution of the year, Exod. 34. 22. And in Numb. 9. 22. or two days, or a month, or days, that is, a year. And in Amos 4. 4. after three days, meaneth three years, Deut 14. 28. and in Exod. 13. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. from days to days; is, from year to year: and the sacrifice of days, 1 Sam. 2. 19. was the yearly sacrifice. Whereupon in prophesies, often times, days are used for years, Rev. 11. 2. 11. At the years end, men were wont in most solemn manner to sacrifice unto God, with thanks for his blessings, having gathered in their fruits: so the law of Moses did command. Exod. 23. 16. which order (as by this appeareth) the Fathers observed from the beginning: and it was so accustomed among the Gentiles; for the ancient sacrifices, and assemblies unto that end, were after the gathering in of the fruits, for (an oblation of) the first fruits; saith Aristotle, in Ethics, book 8. brought:] in Greek, offered. It is likely, that the sons brought their offerings unto God, by Adam their Father, who was high Priest, (as after, all the first borne in families were Priests, Exod. 19. 22.) and upon an Altar he offered their gifts. The Hebrew Doctors say; It is a tradition by the hand of all, that the place wherein David and Solomon built an Altar, in the floor of Araunah, (1 Chron. 21. 22. 26. and 22. 1. 2 Chron. 3. 1.) was the place where Abraham built an Altar, and bound Isaac upon it, (Gen. 22. 9) and that was the place where Noah built, after he came out of the Ark, (Gen. 8. 20.) and that was the Altar upon which Kain and Abel offered: and on it, Adam the first man offered an offering after he was created, and out of that place he was created. Our wise men have said, Adam was created out of the place of his Atonement. Maimonides, in Misn. book 8. treat. of the Temple, chap. 2. S. 2. an offering.] or, oblation, called in Hebrew, a Minchah, by which name the Meat offering is called in the Law, Lev. 2. which commonly was of wheat flower. Although the word is sometime used generally for any gift or present, Gen. 32. 13. But Kain brought of the fruit of the ground, which custom continued; so that in Israel men might eat neither bread nor corn, till they had brought an offering unto God, Lev. 23. 14. Among the Greeks also they used to sacrifice the fruits of the earth, Homer Iliad. 1. and Numa ordained the like among the Romans, who tasted not new corn or wine, before the Priests had sacrificed the first fruits, saith Pliny in book 18. chap. 2. and in the Roman laws of the twelve Tables, the same oblation of corn is commanded: Derelig. tit. 1. lex. 4. The like was for sacrificing of beasts, as Abel did: which was used of Israel, and of all Nations till the coming of Christ: see Lev. 1.

Vers. 4. the fat of them:] As the first fruits of the earth, of beasts, of men, were given in thankfulness to the Lord, that all the rest might be sanctified and blessed, Exod. 22. 29. 30. and 23. 19. so God challenged the fat of all sacrifices peculiarly to himself, Lev. 3. 16. 17. and 7. 25. which fat, sometime figured man's unbelief, hardness of hear•, and want of sense, Psal. 119. 70. Acts 28. 27. which was to be consumed by the fire of God's spirit: sometime it signified the best of all things, Numb. 18. 12. in which sense it seemeth to be spoken here of Abel. From whose example, the Hebrew Doctors teach, that a man should enlarge his hand, and bring his offering of the fairest and most laudable amongst those kind of things whereof he bringeth. Behold it is written in the law, And Abel he also brought of the firstlings of his flock, and of the fat of them. And this is a common law, in everything which is for the name of the good God, that it be of the goodliest and best. If one build a house of prayer, let it be fairer then his own dwelling house: if he feed the hungry, let him feed him with the best and sweetest that is on his Table: If he clothe the naked, let it be with the fairest of his clothes; if he sanctify anything, let him sanctify of the fairest of his goods; and so he saith, (Lev. 3. 16.) All the fat is the Lord's. Maimonides in Misn. rom. 3. in Asurei mizbeach, chap. 7. S. 11. By the sacrifices of old, there was (besides a thankfulness to God,) a yearly remembrance also of their sins, Heb. 10. 3. and hope of the forgiveness of them by Christ to come, Heb. 10. 1. 10. 14. And seeing the godly offered in faith, Heb. 11. 14. and faith is by hearing the word of God, Rom. 10. 17. Abel and the rest were taught of God thus for to worship him: for all will-worship devised by men, is vain: Mat. 15. 9. Col. 2. 22. 23. had respect:] to weet, with delight, as the Hebrew word implieth; (and so one Greek version translateth it, was delighted:) and with favorable acceptation, as the Chaldee paraphrase explaineth it. So GOD commanded every man to offer sacrifice for his favorable acceptation, Lev. 1. 3. that he and it, might be accepted of the Lord. This gracious respect unto Abel, was seen of Kain, for which he was grieved; and the Apostle noteth it to be a testification of Abel's justice by faith, Heb. 11. 4. It is likely therefore, that God shown it by some visible sign, as by fire from heaven consuming the sacrifice, for so he, used to do in such cases after, as Lev. 9. 24. 1 Chron. 21. 26. 2 Chron. 7. 1. 1 King. 18. 38. and the burning of the sacrifices to ashes, was a sign of his favorable acceptance, Psal. 20. 4. and Theodotio (a Greek interpreter,) translateth it here, he set on fire. By this God's acceptance, Abel's faith was confirmed touching life & salvation in Christ: otherwise God would not have received an offering at his hands; as Judge. 13. 23, unto Abel:] for his faith in Christ, whereby he was just, and by which he offered a greater sacrifice then Kain, Heb. 11. 4. And so the sacrifice was respected for the man, not the man for the sacrifice, Prov. 12. 2. and 15. 8.

Vers. 5. grieved:] or, displeased: very wroth. The Hebrew word signifieth to burn or be inflamed, either with anger, or grief: the Greek here translateth, he was grieved; and in sundry other places, as Ion. 4. 1. 9. where both the Greek version, and all the circumstances show it to mean grief. So in 1 Sam. 15. 11. Samuel was grieved, and David, 1 Chron. 13. 11. and Nehemiah, Neh. 5. 6. and many the like. countenance:] or, his face fell; that is, he shown himself ashamed, grieved, and discontented. This is else-where expressed by the falling of the light of the countenance, Job 29. 24. contrary to which, is the lifting up of the face, for a sign of comfort and joy, Job 11. 15. See also Gen. 19. 21.

Vers. 7. do well:] or, do good. Hereby God teacheth, that well-doing consisted not in the outward offerings which Kain brought: but in faith, which he wanted, Heb. 11. 4. John. 6. 29. And the Apostle hence concludeth, that Kains works were evil, 1 John. 3. 12. forgiveness:] or, acceptation. The Hebrew word, which properly signifieth elevation or lifting up, when it is spoken of sin, (as the words following show here it is,) meaneth forgiveness at God's hand, who lifteth up, and so easeth us of the burden of it; as Rom. 4. 7. from Psal. 32. 1. And one end of sacrificing, was the forgiveness of sin, Lev. 6. 2. 6. 7. So the Chaldee here explaineth it, If thou do thy works well, shalt thou not have forgiveness? Otherwise it may be expounded, is there not a lifting up, to weet, of thy countenance which now is fallen, that is, an acceptation of thy face and petition, and consequently of thy offering, in Gen. 19. 21. lifting up (or, accepting) the face, signifieth favorable acceptation with God; and in Job 11. 15. it signifieth comfortable bold carriage. Or, is there not a bearing (or carrying away) of blessing and reward, as Psal. 24. 5. A question thus asked, is an earnest affirmation that so it shall be: as, are they not written? 2 King. 20. 20. is expounded, Loe they are written, 2 Chro. 32. 32. and is not the life more then meat? Mat. 6. 25. that is, the life is more, Luke 12. 23. Also the holy Ghost turneth into a question, hath not my hand made all these? Act. 7. 49. that which the Prophet affirmeth plainly, all these my hand hath made, Isaiah 66. 1. So Gen. 13. 9. and many the like. sin:] or, the misdeed, error. By sin and iniquity the punishment for it is often meant, as in Gen. 19. 15. Lev. 20. 20. 2 King. 7. 9. Zach. 14. 19. And sin is the erring or missing as of the mark aimed at, Judge. 20. 16. God's law is our mark, and way to walk in: therefore sin is defined to be swerving from, or transgression of the Law, (anomie or enormitie,) 1 John. 3. 4. In Hebrew it is called Chattaah, whereupon the Greeks framed the name, Atee, that is, Hurt or Dammage; and their Poets feigned that it was a woman cast out of heaven, pernicious Atee, that (aatai) hurteth all men, Homer Iliad. 19. lieth:] or, coucheth, is couching: a word usually spoken of beasts, applied here to Sin, as a hurtful beast ready to devour. For to lie at the door, is to be near at hand, Mark. 13. 9. and in Deut. 29. 20. the curses are said to couch (or lie) upon the sinner, whom the Lord will not be merciful unto. The Chaldee referreth it to the last judgment, saying, thy sin is kept to the day of judgment, in which vengeance shall be taken on thee, if thou convert not. And other Rabbin's thus; Sin couching at the door, meaneth at the gates of justice; for from thence judgment cometh forever, upon them that are in transgression, for from thence the Angel of death hath his power, R. Menachem on Gen. 4. his desire:] that is, Abel's; who being the younger brother is subject unto thee. For Kain being the first-borne, had great privileges by nature over his brethren, as is shown on Gen. 25. 31. and 27. 19. Or, the desire of it, (that is, of Sin) is unto thee, but thou shalt rule over it; that is, (as Paul speaketh) let not sin reign in thy mortal body, that thou shouldest obey it in the lusts thereof, Rom. 6. 12. The Targum Yerushalmi thus referreth it, to the subduing of sin: although the Hebrew differeth in gender from Sin, as the word lieth doth likewise. But such differences may often be observed, and sometime in the very Hebrew text, as jabo, and jehi, 1 Chron. 18. 2. 5. 6. and 21. 5. for which else-where is tabo, and tehi, 2 Sam. 8. 2. 5. 6. and 24. 9. lahem, and bahem, 1 King. 22. 17. and 1 Chro. 10. 7▪ which also is written lahen, and bahen, 2 Chro. 18. 16. 1 Sam. 31. 7. See also Exod. 1. 21.

Vers. 8. spake:] or, said unto Abel his brother, but what he said, is not set down. The Hebrew text hath here a pause extraordinary, implying further matter. The Greek version addeth, let us go out into the field: and Targum Yerushalmi addeth the same and much more, how Kain (when they were in the field) should say, there was no judgment, nor judge, nor other world to come, nor good reward for justice, nor vengeance for wickedness, &c. all which Abel gain-said, and then his brother slew him. It seemeth to imply a dissimulation of Kains hatred, in that he conversed friendly with his brother, till he found opportunity to kill him: as others in their hatred, are observed to speak (of the matter of their grief,) neither good nor bad: 2 Sam. 13, 22. killed him.] And wherefore killed he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brothers good. 1 John. 3. 12. Hereupon the Scripture giveth them these titles, Abel the just, Mat. 23. 35. and Kain of that wicked done, 1 John. 3. 12. that is, of the Devil: for he was a murderer from the beginning, John. 8. 44.

Verse 9. Where is Abel?] Here God showeth himself to be the seeker-out of bloods, Psal. 9. 13. So Zechariah when he was murdered, said, The Lord look upon it and require it, 2 Chron. 24. 22. Hereupon these two martyrs are mentioned by our Savior, (whose bloods with all the rest,) should come upon the Jews, Mat. 23. 35. 36.

Vers. 10. bloods:] This word in the plural number, usually signifieth murder, and the guilt following it: and such as gave themselves to this sin, are called men of bloods, Psal. 5. 7. Sometime bloods meaneth man's natural generation, John. 1. 13. To this latter, the Chaldee Paraphrases have reference, translating it, The voice of the bloods of the generations, (the multitudes of just men,) which should have proceeded from thy brother. cry] or, are crying. This word hath reference in number, to the bloods fore-mentioned; as if many were spilled and cried. From hence the Apostle noteth the effect of Abel's faith, how by it, being dead he yet speaketh, Heb. 11. 4. This crying, was unto God for vengeance: wherefore Christ's blood is preferred before this, as speaking better things than Abel, Heb. 12. 24. Compare also Rev. 6. 10. In this first death which fell out in the world, God manifested the immortality of man's soul, the forgiveness of sins to the faithful, with the contrary concerning hypocrites; and the resurrection of the body: as Christ gathereth from another like Scripture, Math. 22. 31. 32.

Vers. 11. Cursed] As God's blessing implieth among other good things, the light of his face, and favor towards men, Psal. 67. 2. so his curse bringeth with other evils, the hiding of his face, and withdrawing of his favor; as Kain after complaineth, v. 14. By this sentence Kain is cast out from God's presence and Church, and is the first cursed man in the world.

Vers. 12. not henceforth] Hebr. not add to yield: that is, not yield anymore her strength, meaning the natural fruit, which otherwise, through God's blessing it could, Joel 2. 22. For as the cursed fig-tree, lost the vigor, and withered: Mark. 11. 21. so the fruitful land is made barren, when it is cursed for the sin of the inhabitants, Lev. 26, 20. Psal. 107. 34. Here the former curse laid upon the earth, Gen. 3. 17. is increased for Kains sake; and the destruction of the world hastened: see Gen. 5. 29. A contrary blessing is promised to them that fear the Lord, Lev. 26. 4. Ezek. 34. 26. 27. fugitive] or, wanderer: a curse which David wished to his enemies, Psal. 59. 12. and 109. 10. contrary to the safe and settled estate of God's people; Psal. 112. 6. 7. Mich. 4. 4. The word is sometime used for the fearful moving of the heart, as in Isaiah 7. 2. so the Greek here translateth, Sighing and trembling shalt thou be on the earth.

Vers. 13. my iniquity] or, my punishment for iniquity: see the annotations on verse. 7. and Gen. 19. 15. then may be forgiven] or, then thou mayest forgive. Or, referring it to the punishment, greater then I can bear. In this sense, Kain murmureth against God's justice: in the former, he despaireth of his mercy. So the Greek translath, my fault is greater then may be forgiven me: and the Chaldee paraphrase maketh the same exposition. Here in Kain is fulfilled that saying, he believeth not to return out of darkness, and he is waited for of the sword: Job 15. 22. And in him may be seen seven abominations, (so many as are in the heart of him that hateth his brother, Prov. 26. 25.) for, first, he sacrificed without faith; secondly, was displeased that God respected him not; thirdly, hearkened not to God's admonition; fourthly, spake dissemblingly to his brother; fifthly, killed him in the field; sixthly, denied that he knew where he was; seventhly, asketh not, nor hopeth for mercy of God, but despaireth, and so falleth into the condemnation of the Devil.

Vers. 14. shall I be hid] or, be absent: as Gen. 31. [unspec \2] 49. This meaneth a fearful banishment from the face or presence of God in his Church; as after followeth in verse. 16. Contrary to which, is the appearing before God's face, in the place of his public worship, Exod. 23. 17. Psal. 42. 3. Job professeth his faith in this respect, opposite to Kains despair, Job 13. 20. &c. whosoever:] or, everyone that findeth (or meeteth) me. This showeth his terror in conscience, fearing just recompense, and fleeing where none doth pursue: as Lev. 26. 17. 36. Job 15. 20. 21. Prov. 28. 1. Amongst the ancient Romans, when a man was cursed for any wicked fact, whosoever would, might freely kill him: Dionys. Halicarnass. l. 2. And of old, among the Galles (or French-men) such as obeyed not their Priests the Druides, were forbidden the sacrifices, (their divine worship:) and those so forbidden, were reputed amongst the most wicked; all men shunned them, and would not converse or talk with them, fearing to be defiled even by light communication with them, no benefit of law was allowed them, nor any honor done unto them: Caesar Comment. de bello Gall. l. 6. A like severe censure was also among the Greeks, as K. Oedipus his words show, in Sophocles, in Oedip. Tyr.

Vers. 15. sevenfold:] that is, he shall have much greater punishment: for seven, meaneth much or many: Prov. 26. 25. Job 5. 19. Psal. 12. 7. The Chaldee here understands it of punishment to the seventh generation. Hereby God repressed further bloodshed, which men else might rush into; for soon after, the earth was filled with violence, Gen. 6. 11. He let Kain live miserably, for a warning to others, as David (having reference hereto) saith, Slay them not; lest my people forget: make them wander abroad (as fugitives) by thy power: Psal. 59. 12. Thus also he provided for the increase of the world at the beginning: wherefore Kains posterity is after reckoned, to the seventh generation. upon Kain:] or, unto Kain, to secure him from his fear. Upon him, to keep others from killing him: as in another case, in Ezek. 9. 4. 5. 6. they that had God's mark set upon them, were not slain. lest any:] or, that not any. slay:] or smite, that is, kill him The full speech is to smite him in soul, as Gen. 37. 21. and where one Prophet saith, he smote, 2 King. 14. 5. another expounds it, he killed: 2 Chron. 25. 3.

Verse 16. from the presence:] or, from before the face of Jehovah: that is, from the place of God's word and public worship, which in likelihood was held by Adam the father, who being a Prophet, had taught his children how to sacrifice, and serve the Lord. So on the contrary, to come into God's presence (or before him) 1 Chron. 16. 29. is explained in Psal. 96. 8. to be the coming into his courts. God's face, or presence is man's greatest joy in this life, and in that which is to come, Exod. 33. 14, 15. 16. Psal. 17. 15. Of which Kain was now deprived: for, the evil shall not sojourn with God, nor fools shall stand before his eyes, Psal. 5. 5. 6. Otherwise, as God's face signifieth his all-seeing providence and government, none can flee from it, Psal. 139. 7. 12. Ier. 23. 24. Of Jonah, it is likewise said, he rose up to flee from the presence of the Lord; Ion. 1. 3. dwelt:] or, sate: that is, seated himself. Sitting, is used for dwelling, as after in verse. 10. and often in the Scriptures. Nod:] in Greek, Naid; so named, because Kaine was there. Nad, that is, a vagabond, as God threateneth before, in verse. 12.

Vers. 17. knew his wife:] that is, lay with her, as v. 1. This was one of Adams daughters, spoken of in Gen. 5. 4. to whom it seemeth he was married before. And here follow seven generations of Kain reckoned: for God letteth the wicked prosper in this world, Psal. 17. 14. he increaseth nations, and (afterward) destroyeth them, Job. 12. 23. Enoch:] in Hebrew Chanoch: by interpretation, Catechised, Instructed, or Dedicated. It was the name also of that godly man mentioned in Gen. 5. 18. 22. was building:] this manner of speech (which the Greek translation also keepeth,) may imply a beginning of the work, though perhaps not finished, as after in the building of Babel, Gen. 11. And Kains building of a city, seemeth to be for his better security from his fears, and to denote his worldly affection, otherwise then Abraham had, who looked for a city that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God: Heb. 12. 10. the name of his son: so proclaiming his name on the city, as David showeth vain worldly men do on lands, Psal. 49. 12. As Kains name signified Possession, so had he possessions of children, city, riches, arts, &c. in this world: all which Abel wanted, whose inheritance was in heaven.

Vers. 18. Irad:] or Ghirad, in Greek, Gaidad: for the Hebrew letters R. and D. are one much like another, and often put one for another by the Greek translators; and in the Hebrew text it self: as Riphath, Gen. 10. 3. is Diphath, 1 Chron. 1. 6. Ch ⟨...⟩ dan, Gen. 36. 26. is Chamran, 1 Chron. 1. 41. Hadar, Gen. 36. 30. is Hadad, 1 Chron. 1. 50. Hadarezer, 1 Chron. 18. 3. is Hadadezer, 2 Sam. 8. 3. and sundry the like: which show that the Hebrew letters had the same form and figure of old, which they have at this day. Mehujael:] or, Mechujael; written immediately after, Mechijael; in Greek, M•delaal, according to the name of Kains son, in Gen. 5. 12. Methusael:] in Greek Mathousala; as also they write Ehochs son, Gen: 5. 21. L ⟨...⟩ ] or, Lem•••, so Gen. 5. 21. Kains posterity, accord in name with Seths.

Vers. 19. two wives:] so violating the law of marriage, which by God's ordinance was to be but with one wife, Gen. 2. 18. 24. Adah:] by interpretation an Ornament: as Zillah (or Sella) signified her Shadow.

Vers. 20. Iabal:] in Greek, Jobel. father:] that is, master, as the Chaldee expoundeth it. Every crafts-master that either first inventeth, or perfecteth and teachech any art, is called a Father. So in the verse following. dwelt in tents:] that is, used Shepherdy: for shepherds used tents, to remove from place to place, where best pasture was to be found: Esa. 38. 12. Song. 1. 8. Ier. 6. 3. and 49. 29. The Hebrew phrase, him that dwelleth, is meant of many, as the Greek also translateth it, them that dwell. So dweller, 2 Sam. 5. 6. is expounded dwellers, 1 Chron. 1. 4.

enemy, 1 King. 8. 37. 44. is enemies, 2 Chron. 6. 28. 34. and many the like. See also Gen. 3. 2. cattle:] Hebr. possession: understanding the word cattle, as it explained in Gen. 26. 14. he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds. So the Greek here translateth, feeders of cattle. The supply of such words is often made in the text it self: as a thousand, 2 Sam. 8. 4. that is, a thousand chariots, 1 Chron. 18. 4. Uzzah put forth to the ark, 2 Sam. 6. 6. that is, he put forth his hand to the ark, 1 Chro. 13. 9. See also Gen. 5. 3.

Vers. 21. handle:] that is, play upon: as the Chaldee paraphraseth, he was master of all that play on the Psaltery, and knew music, which the Greek translateth, this was he that shown the Psaltery, and the Harp, organ:] it hath the name in Hebrew, of loveliness and delight; and it was an instrument of joy, Job 21. 12. so was the Harp, called therefore the pleasant Harp, Psal. 81. 3. Thus God gave the Kainites skill to invent things profitable and delightful to the flesh: yet were they irreligious, as is written; they said unto God depart from us: and what should the Almighty do for them? For he filled their houses with good things: Job. 22. 17. 18.

Vers. 22. instructor:] Hebr. a whetter (or, sharpner:) which the Chaldee expoundeth also a master. He sharply and wittily taught Smiths craft, and instruments of war. The Heathens after feigned Vulcan, (which name seemeth to be borrowed from this Tubal-cain,) to be the god of Smiths. Naamah:] she hath her name of Pleasance. Thus with profits and pleasures, they of the old world passed their time, eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that the flood came, and took them all away: Math. 24. 38. 39. The Hebrew Doctors (in Midras Ruth, and Zohar) say of this Naamah, that all the world wandered (in love) after her; yea even the sons of God, (as in Gen. 6. 2. & that of her, there were born evil spirits into the world

Vers. 23. I have killed &c.] or, I would kill a man in my wound, yea a young man in my hurt. The Hebrew is of the time past, as speaking of murder committed; (and so the Greek translateth, I have killed a man:) but it may also be interpreted, as a boastfull threat for time to come; that if any did wound or hurt him, he should surely die for it. And it may be, that for violating the law of marriage by taking two wives, God vexed him with a disquiet life between them, that they lived in discontent and emulation one with another, (as there is an example in 1 Sam. 1. 6. 7.) and both of them with their husband: so in his wrath he uttered these words unto them, to repress their strife. Or he thus boasteth of his valor, for some other cause. The Chaldee Paraphrast understood this in a contrary sense; as if it were a question, for have I killed, &c. that is, I have not: and expoundeth it thus, For I have not killed a man, that I should bear sin for him; nor destroyed a young man, that my seed should be consumed for him. to my hurt] or, for my stripe: the original word signifieth a wayl, or mark of a stripe, or wound in the flesh.

Vers. 24. seventy and seven fold:] that is, if he that killeth Kain, shall be punished seven fold; then he that killeth me, shall be seventy seven fold. It seemeth to be an insolent contempt of God's judgment, and abusing of his patience towards Kain, v. 15. Because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the hearts of the sons of men, is full in them to do evil, Eccles. 8. 11.

Vers. 25. Seth] Heb. Sheth: that is, Set or Appointed, to weet, in Abelsroome. He was not borne till 130 years after the creation, Gen. 5. 3. It might be, Adam had other sons and daughters before, Gen. 5. 4. but none, in whom such expectation of good was: for Seths posterity only remained at the Flood, when all the world perished, Gen. 7. seed] that is, another son: that as Abraham's seed was called in Isaac, (Ishmael being excluded,) Gen. 21. 12. so Eves seed should be in Seth; and not in any other of her children. Seed, is usually put for children: as, they left no seed, Mar. 12. 22. is expounded, they left no children, Luke 20. 31. stead of Abel] Eve showeth a reason of her sons name, also her faith grounded on God's appointment & settling of his mercy concerning this seed, who should be faithful as Abel; and a father of the world, who are all called the sons of Seth, Num. 24. 17. and the father of our Lord Jesus after the flesh, Luke 3. So in Ezek. 37, dead bones revive again; and in Revel. 11. 11. the witnesses killed, have the spirit of life from God, entering into them.

Vers. 26. also himself] or, to him also: when he was 105, years old, Gen. 5 6. and the world 235. Enos] so he is written in Greek, Luke 3. 38. in Hebrew Aenosh; that is by interpretation, sorrowful, grievously-sick, miserable. So named, (as seemeth) for the sorrowful state of those days, wherein great corruption grew in the Church, Gen. 6. 2. 3. 5. Therefore this name is in Scripture usually given to all men, as being Enos, or sons of Enos, full of sorrow and misery, Psal. 8. 5. and 144. 3. And to abate men's pride, David saith, let the nations know, that they be Enos, (or woeful men:) Psal. 9. 21. began men profanely to call] or, profaneness began in calling, (or, for calling) on the name of Jehovah. The Hebrew word may be translated, men began, or men profaned: but is commonly understood <...> ere, of the learned Hebrews, to mean profaneness; and some translating it began, yet take it thus, men began to call (their idols) by the name of the Lord: as images and representations of God, were called God's, Exod. 32. 4. The sorrows of this age were great, as the very name of Enos testifieth, and the history following in Gen. 6. confirmeth: for impiety crept into the Church, by unlawful marriages with Kains seed; and religion and manners were much corrupted, Gen. 6. 2. 11. The Hebrew Doctors describe it thus: In the days of Enos, the sons of Adam erred with great error, and the counsel of the wisemen of that age became brutish; and Enos him-self was (one) of them that erred: and their error was this; They said, for as much as God hath created these stars and spheres to govern the world, and set them on high, and imparted honor unto them, and they are ministers that minister before him: it is meet that men should land and glorify and give them honor. For this is the will of God, that we magnify and honor, whomsoever he magnifieth and honoreth: even as a King would have them honored that stand before him, and this is the honor of the King himself. When this thing was come up into their heart, they began to build Temples unto stars, and to offer sacrifice unto them, and to laud and glorify them with words, and to worship before them, that they might in their evil opinion, obtain favor of the Creator. And this was the root of Idolatry, &c. And in process of time, there stood up false Prophets among the sons of Adam, which said that God had commanded & said unto them, worship such a star, or all the stars, and do sacrifice unto them thus and thus; and build a Temple for it, and make an image of it, that all the people, women, and children may worship it; & he shown them the image which he had feigned out of his own heart, and said, it was the image of such a star, which was made known unto him by prophesy: and they began after this manner, to make images in Temples, and under trees, and on tops of mountains, and hills, and assembled together, and worshipped them, &c. And this thing was spread through all the world, to serve images with services different one from another, and to sacrifice unto, and worship them. So in tract of time, the glorious and fearful name (of God) was forgotten out of the mouth of all living, and out of their knowledge, and they acknowledged him not. And there was found no people of the earth, that knew ought, save images of wood and stone, and Temples of stone, which they had been trained up from their childhood, to worship and to serve, and to swear by their names. And the wise men that were among them, as the Priests, and such like, thought there was no God, save the stars, and sphaers, for whose sake, and in whose likeness they had made these images: but as for the Rock everlasting, there was no man that acknowledged him, or knew him, save a few persons in the world, is Enoch, Mathusala, Noah, Sem, and Eber. And in this way did the world walk and converse, till the pillar of the world, to weet, Abraham our father was born: Maim. in Misn. tom. 1. treat. of Idolatry c. 1. S. 1. 2. 3. That the heavens and stars were of old worshipped, both Moses and the Prophets after him show, Deut. 4. 19. Am. 5. 26. 2. Kin. 21. 3. 5. And as the heathen Philosophers counted the heaven a living body (Arist. de c<sup>o</sup>l. l. 2 c. 2) so did the wisest of the Hebrew Rabbins: All the stars and all the sphaers have souls, & knowledge, & understanding & are living things, and stand & acknowledge him who said, and the world was, everyone according to his greatness, and according to his dignity, lauding and glorifying him that formed them, even as the Angels. And as they know the holy God▪ so they know themselves, and know the Angels which are above them: and the knowledge that the Stars and Sphaeres have, is less then the knowledge of the Angels, and greater then the knowledge of the sons of men, saith Maimonides in Iesudei hatorah. chap. 3. S. 9. Upon this persuasion men might the easier be drawn to the worship of them. If we understand Moses here otherwise; Then began men to call upon the name of the Lord; then it may be meant of more public worship now erected then before: or, of public preaching in the name of the Lord, to call the wicked to repentance: or of calling themselves by the name of the Lord, as in Gen. 6. 2. the faithful are called the sons of God. Onkelos the Chaldee Paraphrast, translateth, then began men to pray: But the Chaldee in the Masorites bible saith, Then in his days the sons of men left off from praying, (or became profane, so that they prayed not) in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. V.

1, The genealogy of the ten first Patriarchs of the world. 3, Of Adam, 6, Seth, 9, Enos, 12, Kainan, 15, Maleleel, 18, Jared, 21, Enoch, (who walked with God, & was taken away without death;) 25, Mathusala, 28, Lamech, 32, and Noah.

THIS is the book of the generations of Adam: in the day God created Adam, in the likeness of God made he him. Male and female created he them: and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day they were created. And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years; and begat (a son) in his likeness; in his image: and called his name Seth. And the days of Adam were, after he had begotten Seth, eight hundred years, and he begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Adam which he lived, were nine hundred years, and thirty years: and he died.

And Seth lived a hundred years, and five years: and begat Enos. And Seth lived after he begat Enos, eight hundred years, and seven years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Seth were nine hundred years, and twelve years: and he died.

And Enos lived ninety years: and begat Kainan. And Enos lived, after he begat Kainan, eight hundred years, and fifteen years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Enos, were nine hundred years, and five years: and he died.

And Kainan lived seventy years; and begat Maleleel. And Kainan lived after he begat Maleleel, eight hundred years, and forty years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Kainan were nine hundred years, and ten years: and he died.

And Maleleel lived sixty years, and five years: and begat Jared. And Maleleel lived after he begat Jared, eight hundred years, and thirty years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Maleleel were eight hundred years, and ninety and five years: and he died.

And Jared lived a hundred years, and sixty and two years: & begat Enoch. And Jared lived, after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Jared were nine hundred years, & sixty and two years: and he died.

And Enoch lived sixty and five years: and begat Methusala. And Enoch walked with God, after he begat Methusala, three hundred years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Enoch, were three hundred years, and sixty and five years. And Enoch walked with God: and he was not: for God took him.

And Mathusala lived a hundred years, and eighty and seven years: and begat Lamech. And Mathusala lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred years, and eighty and two years: and begat sons and daughters. And all the days of Mathusala were nine hundred years, and sixty and nine years: and he died.

And Lamech lived a hundred years, and eighty and two years; and begat a son. And called his name Noah, saying: This shall comfort us from our work, and from the sorrow of our hands, because of the earth the which Jehovah hath cursed. And Lamech lived, after he begat Noah, five hundred years, and ninety and five years: and begat sons & daughters. And all the days of Lamech were seven hundred years, and seventy and seven years: and he died.

And Noah was five hundred years old: and Noah begat Sem, Cham, and Japheth.

Annotations.

The book:] that is, the narration, or rehearsal. generations of Adam:] the Greek translatheth, generation of men, it meaneth both the children which Adam begat, and the events that did befall them; as the word generation, is used for all accidents in times and ages, whatsoever the day may bring forth, (as Solomon speaketh, Proverb. 27. 1.) So Genesis 2. 4. and 6. 9. and 25. 19. And here are ten generations reckoned from Adam to Noah; the chief end whereof, is to show the genealogy of Christ the promised seed according to the flesh, and so of his Church, Luk. 3. 23. 38. 1 Chron. 1. 1. &c. likeness of God:] See Gen. 1. 26.

Vers. 2. their name:] so Adam was the common name of man and woman, (which were one flesh, Gen. 2. 23. 24) and of all their posterity, Gen. 9. 6. for we are all of one blood, Act. 17. 26.

Vers. 3. and begat] to weet, a son, as the sequel showeth. The Scripture often omitteth such words, and sometime showeth they must be understood: as David put in Syria, 1 Chron. 18. 6. that is, he put garisons in Syria, 2 Sam. 8. 6. See before the note on Gen. 4. 20. in his likeness:] namely, that which he now had in his sinful state: for the first likeness and image of God in him was by sin corrupted, Gen. 3. whereupon all men now are conceived in sin, Psal. 51. 7. and are by nature children of wrath, Eph. 2. 3. Seth:] that is, Set or Appointed instead of Abel: see Gen. 4. 25. only his posterity were reserved, when all the world was drowned. And from him the genealogy is reckoned both in the Old and New Testament, 1 Chr. 1. 1. &c. Luke 3. 38.

Vers. 6. years:] Hebr. year: sometime the Original useth indifferently one for another; as, eight years, 2 Chron. 34. 1. for which in 2 King. 22. 1. is written eight year. It is also the property of the Hebrew, to set the least number for most, as here, Seth lived five years, and an hundred year; and so after: which because it differeth from our manner, and in the order there is no special weight, is changed according to our speaking: because the Hebrew it self, in repeating matters, doth often change the order of words: as, 2 Chron. 23. 7. when he cometh in, & when he goeth out: which in 2 Kin. 11. 8. is, when he goeth out, and when he cometh in. So, great and small, 2 Chron. 34. 30. or, small and great, 2 King. 23. 2. And in translating, the holy Ghost often also changeth the order of words: as Joel 2. 28. your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions: which in Act. 2. 17. is placed thus, your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams. So in 1 King. 19. 10. they have broke down thy Altars, and killed thy Prophets: which Paul rehearseth thus, they have killed thy Prophets, and broke down thy Altars, Rom. 11. 3. and sundry the like. Enos:] or, as the Hebrew pronounceth it, Enoch: but because our language and custom rather followeth the Greek, which is more easy, the names are expressed as the New Testament doth in Luke 3. lest the Reader should mistake, and think them diverse persons.

Verse 9. Kainan] so Luke 3. 37. in Hebrew Kenan.

Verse 12. Maleleel] Hebr. Mahalalel. [unspec 18]

Vers. 15. Iared] Hebr. Iered.

Vers. 18. Enoch] in Hebrew Chanoch, that is, Dedicated, or Catechised: he is said to be the seventh from Adam, and a prophesier of God's judgment upon wicked men for their impious deeds, and hard speeches against God, Jude ver. 14. 15. So he is distinguished from Enoch the Kainite, the third from Adam, Gen. 4. 17. and seven being the number of the Sabbath, the seventh generation implied the mystery of rest in Christ. Accordingly the number of all the generations here, may be observed; which are ten from Adam to Noah: as before in Gen. 4. there are seven generations of Kain, so Abram the Hebrew was the seventh from Eber; Moses the seventh from Abram: and in Mat. 1. twice seven generations are reckoned from Abram to David, and so many from David to the Captivity of Babylon, and again so many from that captivity, to Christ, Mat. 1. 17. The estate of times for these ten Patriarchs, may thus be viewed:

- 1. Adam being 130. years old, begat Seth.

- 2. Seth, 105. years old, begat Enos. In the year of the World, 235.
- 3. Enos, 90. year old, begat Kainan: in the year of the World, 325.
- 4. Kainan, 70. year old, begat Maleleel: in the year of the World, 395.
- 5. Maleleel, 65. year old, begat Iared: in the yere of the World, 460.
- 6. Iared, 162. year old, begat Enoch: in the yere of the World, 622.
- 7. Enoch, 65. year old, begat Mathusala: in the year of the World, 687.
- 8. Mathusala, 187. year old, begat Lamech: in the year of the World, 874.
- 9. Lamech, 182. year old, begat Noah: in the year of the World, 1056.
- 10. Noah, 500. years old, begat Japheth: in the year of the World, 1556.

The lives of these Patriarchs are also to be noted.

- 1. Adam lived 930. years.
- 2. Seth lived 912. y.
- 3. Enos lived 905.
- 4. Kainan lived 910. y.
- 5. Malaleel lived 895. y.
- 6. Iared lived 962. y.
- 7. Enoch lived on earth, 365. years. The shortest liver.
- 8. Mathusala lived 969. y. The longest liver.
- 9. Lamech lived 777. y.
- 10. Noah lived 950. y. Gen. 9. 29.

By this computation it appeareth, that Adam lived to see Lamech the ninth generation, in the 56 year of whose life he died, first of all these Patriarchs. That Enoch the 7 from Adam, (after he had lived on earth, so many years as there be days in the year of the Sun,) was taken away into Paradise, next after Adams death, seven Patriarchs remaining witnesses of his translation. That all the first nine Patriarchs were taken out of this world, before it was drowned by the Flood that came in the 600. year of Noes life. That Mathusala lived till the very year wherein the Flood came, as his name signified that he should: with sundry other things, worthy to be observed in the brief History of these ten Fathers.

Vers. 21. Mathusala:] so in Luke 3. 37. in Hebrew Methushelach, which is by interpretation, He dieth, and the emission (or dart) meaning the flood, cometh. Enoch being a Prophet, foretold in his sons name, of the flood to come in the year that Mathusala died: as came to pass. Compare Jude verse. 14. 15.

Vers. 22. walked with God:] that is, led his life and administered before God, holily, justly, and faithfully, and so pleasing to God, as Gen. 6. 9. Wherefore the Apostle (following the Greek version) saith, he pleased God, (which without faith it is impossible to do,) Heb. 11. 5. 6. The Chaldee translath, he walked in the fear of the Lord: and the Ierusalemite Targum saith, he served (or labored) in the truth before the Lord. And by comparing the like speech unto Eli, 1 Sam. 2. 30. 35. it seemeth to imply a pleasing or acceptable ministration of office before the Lord. Wherefore Enoch is noted to be a Prophet, Jude 14. And Noah who also walked with God, Gen. 6. 9. was a Preacher of justice, 2 Pet. 2. 5. Of Eli, it is spoken touching the Priesthood, 1 Sam. 2. 30. 35. and of David in the Kingdom, Psal. 56. 14. and 116. 9. See also Gen. 17. 1. Thus Enoch was a special figure of Christ.

Vers. 24. he was not] to weat, not found, as the Apostle (according to the Greek) saith, Heb. 11. 5. and the Chaldee addeth, he appeared not, and yet the Lord killed him not. The like speech is also used of them that are taken away by death, Ier. 31. 15. which the Evangelist alleging, addeth the word are (or were) that wanted in the Hebrew, as in this place it is wanting also God took him,] that is, translated him, (saith the Apostle) that he should not see death, Heb. 11. 5. where the Arabic version addeth, he was translated into Paradise: meaning the heavenly Paradise, mentioned Luke 23. 43. 2 Cor. 12. 2. 4. So Elias was taken up into heaven, 2 King. 2. and the Hebrew Doctors say, that Enoch was taken up in a whilewind as Elias was; and that he was disarayd of the foundation corporal, and clothed with the foundation spiritual. Also that God shown him all the high treasures, and shown him the tree of life, in the midst of the garden, &c. R. Menachem on Gen 5. and the Zohar on the same. By this translating of Enoch, God assured all the faithful, of their resurrection and eternal life: therefore they after applied the like work of God to themselves after death, as in Psal. 49. 16. And the Apostle teacheth, we shall all be changed, and shall have spiritual bodies, and a building of God, an house not made with hand, eternal in the heavens, with which house we desire to be clothed-upon, &c. 1 Cor. 15. 51. 44. and 2 Cor. 5. 1. 2. Ben Sirach saith, Enoch translated, was an example of repentance to all generations, Ecclesiasticus 44. 16.

Vers. 25. Lamech] Hebr. Lemec. [unspec 29]

Vers. 29. Noah:] so written in Luke 3. 36. 1 Pet. 3. 20. The Hebrew soundeth Noach, which signifieth rest, which proceedeth from comfort, as the words following show; his name having affinity with Nachum. comfort us from our work:] that is, comfort us with rest from our work: as the Greek translath, he shall give us rest from our works. This prophesy his father uttered of him, as he that should be a figure of Christ, in his building the Ark, and offering of sacrifice, whereby God smelled a savor of rest, and said, he would not curse the ground anymore for man's sake, Gen. 8. 21. Of we may read it, comfort us concerning our work, &c. from the earth:] understand again, which cometh from the earth: for the earth being cursed, bare not fruits without great labor and sorrow, Gen. 3. 17. 18. hath cursed:] Hebr. hath cursed it: but this phrase our Tongue useth not: for it, I therefore say before, the (or that) which. And the Hebrew text sometime omits it as superfluous, 2 Chron. 28. 3. with 2 King. 16. 3.

Vers. 32. 500. years old:] Hebr. son of 500. years: that is, going in his 500. year. An usual speech in the Hebrew Scripture of men's age, or of beasts: Gen. 17. 1. Exod. 12. 5. But sometime it is not meant of natural age properly, as appeareth 2 Chron. 22. 2. compared with 2 King. 8. 26. where Ahaziah is son of 22. years, for his own life: but son of 42. years, for the state of his kingdom. And by being old, (or son of) 500. year, is not meant that year full ended; but while he was living in that year: As appeareth by Gen. 7. 6. where Noah is 600 yere old: which in v. 11. is explained to be, In the year of the 600. year of his life. Accordingly, must we understand the ages of men, and beasts, spoken of in Scripture: as when a Levite entered upon his Ministry, being a son of 30. years, Num. 4. 3. it is meant, going in the 30. yere of his life. Therefore Christ fulfilling that and all other figures, entered upon his Ministry, when he began to be of 30. years, as is expressed, Luk. 3. 23. And for the sacrifices in the Law, which were to be of any yeerling beast, (after the Hebrew phrase, son of a year, Exod. 12. 5.) the Jews have left recorded, that it must be strictly within the first yere of the life; and if it be but an hour older then a year, it is not allowable for an oblation to God: Maimonides, 8. book in Magnaseh Korbanoth, chap. 1. S. 13. Noah begat,] that is, began to beget; for all his three sons were not borne in a year, but Shem was borne two years after, when his father was 502 years old: as may be gathered by Gen. 11. 10. where two years after the flood, he was but an hundred years old: and then was Noah his father 602. by Gen. 7. 6. See the like of Thara, Gen. 11. 26. Sem, Cham, and Japheth,] sounded in Hebrew; Shem, Cham, and Iepheth: of which Japheth was the eldest, Sem the next, and Cham the youngest; as is evident both by the former note of Shem age, and by Gen. 10. 21. and 9. 24. But because Sem was in dignity preferred of God before his brethren, Gen. 9. 26. 27 therefore he is first named. The like is in the history of Abram and his brethren, Gen. 11. 26. So Jacob is named before Esau his elder, Gen. 28. 5. and Ephraim before Manasseh, Gen. 48. 20.

CHAPT VI.

1, The sons of God, marry with the daughters of men: 4, so Giants are bred: 5, wickedness increaseth; 6, God repenteth that he made Man; 7, and will destroy them: 8, Noah findeth grace, 13, and is forewarned of the Flood; 14, The Ark (with matter and form thereof) is commanded to be made, 18, for the saving of Noes house, 19, and some of all living things; 21, with provision of food. 22, Noah doth all that God commanded.

AND it was when men began to multiply on the face of the earth: and daughters were borne unto them. That the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were fair: and they took unto them wives, of all which they chose. And Jehovah said; My spirit shall not strive with man, forever; for that he also is flesh: and his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. There were Giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God went in unto the daughters of men; and they bare children to them: they were mighty men; which were of old, men of name.

And Jehovah saw, that the wickedness of man was much in the earth; and every imagination of the thoughts of his heart, was only evil every day. And it repented Jehovah, that he had made man on the earth: & it grieved him at his heart. And Jehovah said; I will blot-out man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth; from man unto beast, unto the creeping-thing, and unto the fowl of the heavens; for it repenteth me that I have made them. But Noah found grace in the eyes of Jehovah.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

THESE are THE GENERATIONS OF NOE; Noah was a just man, perfect in his generations: Noah walked with God. And Noah begat three sons: Sem, Cham, and Japheth. And the earth was corrupt before God: and the earth was filled with violent-wrong. And God saw the earth, and loe it was corrupt: for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

And God said unto Noah; An end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violent wrong, from the face of them: and behold I destroy them with the earth. Make for thee an Ark of Gopher trees; nests shalt thou make in the Ark: and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. And this (the fashion) which thou shalt make it of: three hundred cubits the length of the Ark; fifty cubits the breadth of it; and thirty cubits the height of it. A clearelight shalt thou make to the Ark; and in a cubit shalt thou finish it from above; and the door of the Ark shalt thou set in the side thereof: with lower, second and third stories shalt thou make it. And I, behold I do bring the Flood of waters upon the earth; to destroy all flesh, which hath in it the spirit of life; from under the heavens: every-thing that is in the earth, shall give-up the ghost. But I will stablish my covenant with thee: and thou shalt enter into the Ark; thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons wives, with thee. And of every living thing, of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the Ark, to keep alive with thee: they shall be male and female. Of the fowl, after his kind; and of the beast, after his kind; of every creeping thing of the earth, after his kind: two of every sort, shall come unto thee, to keep (them) alive. And take thou unto thee, of all meat, that is eaten; and thou shalt gather it to thee: and it shall be for thee, and for them, for meat. And Noah did: according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

Annotations.

MEn:] Hebr. Adam: put generally for men, as the Greek translateth, and the last words of this verse do confirm: so the Chaldee saith, the sons of man. The posterity of Kain is hereby meant, who increased faster then Seths did: and sought so to do by taking moe wives, Gen. 4. 19.

Vers. 2. the sons of God:] the men of the Church of God; for unto such Moses saith, ye are the sons of Jehovah your God, Deut. 14. 1. so 1 John. 3. 1. The name God, in Hebrew Elohim, is in the form plural, and sometime Princes are so named, Exod. 21. 6. Psal. 82. so the Chaldee here translateth, the sons of Princes: understanding (as I think) Seth, and the other Patriarchs. daughters of men:] meaning of Kains posterity, that were out of God's Church, Gen. 4. 14. and because they were not borne again of God, by the immortal seed of his word, (1 John. 3. 9. 10. 1 Pet. 1. 23.) they continued children of the old Adam, and natural man still. So Paul saith, 1 Cor. 3. 3. walk ye not as men? that is, as unregenerate men. fair:] or goodly: Hebr. good, to weat, of countenance, as is expressed, Gen. 24. 16. the Chaldee translateth it fair. took unto them:] that is, took to themselves, and regarded not the counsel of their godly parents, (who should by right take wives for their children) nor the will of God, whose law after forbad such profane marriages, Deut. 7. 3. 4. The like is noted of Esau, Gen. 26. 34. 35. and 28. 8. 9. Thus corruption grew in families. which they chose:] that is, which they loved and liked, following their own affections. So, my chosen, Isaiah 42. 1. is interpreted, my beloved, Mat. 12. 18. and choosing is often used for liking or delighting, Ps. 25. 12. and 119. 173. Isaiah. 1. 2. and so the Chaldee translatheth it here. Into this sin, Solomon also saith, King. 11. 1. 2.

Vers. 3. my spirit:] This is that holy spirit of Christ by which he preached in the Patriarchs, and especially in Noah, to the disobedient spirits of the old world, 1 Pet. 3. 18. 19. 20. 2 Pet. 2. 5. not strive] or, not judge, that is, not contend in judgment for so this word is elsewhere also used, Eccles. 6. 10. and may here import, both contending by preaching, disputing, convincing in the mouths of the Patriarchs, (as Nehem. 9. 30.) and by inward motions and checks of conscience which his spirit gave them for their sins; against which they that struggle, fall into the sin against the holy Ghost, despising the spirit of grace, Heb. 10. 29. So the Spirit of God is said to be tempted, resisted, grieved, Acts 5. 9. and 7. 51. Isaiah 63. 10. Ephes. 4. 30. with man] or, in man, implying both the contending of the Prophets outward, and of God's spirit inwardly; as before is observed. Here the Church declined, is called man (or Adam) to note their corrupt estate. The Greek translatheth it, my Spirit shall not continue in these men. The Chaldee paraphraseth, This evil generation shall not continue before me forever: understanding (as it seemeth) by the Spirit, man's natural soul and life, which God would take away by the Flood. he also] that is, these also, which are my peculiar professant people. is flesh] that is, is fleshly, not having the spirit, but walking after their own lusts; as Jude verse. 19. 16. The flesh and the Spirit, are also thus opposed, Rom. 7. 5. 6. and 8. 8. 9. Gal. 5. 16. 17. So the Chaldee here saith, For that they are flesh, and their works evil. And this is the state of all men in their first birth: for that which is borne of the flesh, is flesh, John. 3. 6. 120. years:] meaning, that so long time by Noes preaching, and building the Ark, they should have space given them to repent, or else then to perish. This long-sufferance of God, the Apostle mentioneth, in 1 Pet. 3. 19. 20. 2 Pet. 2. 5. and showeth the sum and end of his preaching to be, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit. 1 Pet. 4. 6. that is, they repenting and turning unto Christ, the body might be dead because of sin; but the spirit be life, because of righteousness, Rom. 8. 10. So the Chaldee here saith, A term shall be given them of 120 years, if they will convert: So many were the years of Moses life, Deut 34. 7.

Vers. 4. Giants] in Hebrew, Nephilim, which hath the signification of falling, as being Apostates, fallen from God: and being fierce and cruel to men, falling on them (as Job. 1. 15.) and whom they made by fear and force, to fall before them: Such were men of great stature, that other men were as grasshoppers in respect of them, Num. 13. 33. The Chaldee calleth them Gibbaraja, that is, mighty men; (and so Nimrod was Gibbor, that is, mighty on the earth, Gen. 10. 8.) the Greek nameth them Gigancies, whereof our English is derived, and the Greek Poets feigned them to be borne of the earth, noting them to be earthly minded, not caring for heaven: and borne also of such parents. after that] that is, as before; so after God had threatened their destruction, that they were not bettered, or brought to repentance. went in] namely, into the chamber, as is expressed, Judge. 15. 1. and consequently, companyed with them: in like sense as knowing is used before, Gen. 4. 1. So David went in to Bathsheba, Psal. 51. 2. Abram to Agar, Genes. 16. 2. Jacob to his wife, Gen. 29. 21. a modest phrase they bare] to weet, the women last mentioned: or, they (the men) begat children to themselves. The Hebrew implieth both. mighty men] the Greek translatheth this also Giants; and it seemeth to be an explanation of their former name. men of name] that is, of renowm: famous and renowned. Contrary hereto is, men without name, Job 30. 8.

Vers. 5. wickedness,] or malice, evil. every imagination,] or, the whole fiction; the word is general, for all and everything that the heart first imagineth, formeth, purposeth, 1 Chron. 28. 9. and 29. 18. Luke 1. 51. every day,] or, all the day: that is, continually. The Greek translatheth thus, and everyone mindeth in his heart carefully for evils, all days.

Vers. 6. it repented Iohovah,] This is spoken not properly, for God repenteth not, 1 Sam. 15. 29. but after the manner of men; for God changing his deed, and dealing otherwise then before, doth as men do when they repent. So 1 Sam. 15. 11. the earth] hereby teaching, that there was none on earth whom God respected. So that but for the second man (Christ) the Lord from heaven, (1 Cor. 15. 47.) whom Noah believed in; the world had now been consumed. So the Hebrew Doctors, as the Zohan upon this place saith, man on the earth, to except the man above, (or the superior Adam) who was not on the earth, it grieved him:] The Scripture giveth to God, joy, grief, anger, &c. not as any passions, or contrary affections, for he is most simple and unchangeable, I am. 1. 17. but by a kind of proportion, because he doth of his immutable nature and will, such things, as men do with those passions and changes of affections. So heart, hands, eyes, and other parts are attributed to him, for effecting such things, as men cannot do but by such members. God is said to be grieved for the corruption of his creatures: contrariwise, when he restoreth them by his grace, he rejoiceth in them, Isaiah 65. 19. Psal. 104. 31. Of these phrases spoken concerning God, the Hebrew Doctors write thus: Forasmuch as it is clear, that (God) is no corporal or bodily thing; it is also clear, that not any corporal accident (or occurrence) doth befall unto him: neither composition, nor division, nor place, nor measure, nor going up, nor coming down, nor right hand, nor left hand, nor face, nor back-parts, nor sitting, nor standing: neither beginning nor ending, nor number of years; neither is he chāgeable, for nothing can cause him to change. Neither is there in him death, or life, as the life of a corporal living thing: nor folly, nor wisdom, according to human wisdom; nor sleep, nor waking, nor anger, nor laughter, nor joy, nor grief, nor silence, nor speech, as the sons of Adam speak, &c. but all these, and the like things spoken of him in the Law and Prophets, are parabolicall and figurative. As when it is said, He that sitteth in the heaven, doth laugh, (Psalm. 2.) and the like: of all such our wise men have said, The Law speaketh according to the language of the sons of Adam. And so he saith, Do they provoke me to anger? (Ier. 7. 19.) again he saith, I am the Lord, I change not. (Mal. 3. 6.) and if he be sometime angry, and sometime joyful, then is he changeable: But all these things are not found, save in persons obscure and base, that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust: but he the blessed (God) is blessed and exalted above all these. Maimonides in Iesud. hatorah chap. 1. S. 11. 12.

Vers. 7. blot-out:] that is, destroy and abolish. from man:] that is, both men and beasts. For as the beasts were made for man, Gen. 1. 28. so they became subject to vanity and destruction, through man's iniquity, Gen. 3. 17. Rom. 8. 20.

Vers. 8. found grace:] that is, obtained favor, or mercies, (as the Chaldee translatheth it.) So this phrase is interpreted in Greek, sometime finding grace, Heb. 4. 16. sometime finding mercy, 2.

Tim. 1. 18. and grace is opposed unto works, and unto debt, Rom. 11. 6. and 4. 4. And it is a special title of God, that he is named Gracious, Exod. 34. 6. and a special prerogative of his people, that they find grace in his eyes, as after of Lot. Gen. 19. 19. of Moses, Exod. 33. 12. of David, Act. 7. 45. of Marie, Luke 1. 30. And the letters of Noes name, are the letters of Grace in Hebrew, the order being changed.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 These three letters in the Hebrew Bibles, do signify the Parasha, or great Section of Moses law, which was a Lecture on the Sabbath day, read in the Jews Synagogues, as is observed, Act. 15. 21. to which was added a Lecture out of the Prophets, Act. 13. 15. And the first Paragraph or Section (which is from the creation hitherto) they call Breshith, that is, In the beginning; this second, which reacheth to the twelvth Chapter, they call Noah; and so the rest: There are in all 54. Sections in the Law, which they read in the 52 Sabbaths, joining two of the shortest twice together, that the whole might be finished in a years space. Hereof the Hebrew Doctors write thus: It is a common custom throughout all Israel, that they finish wholly the (reading of the) law, in one year; beginning in the Sabbath which is after the feast of Tabernacles, at the first section of Genesis: in the second (Sabbath) at These are the generations of Noah: in the third, at The Lord said unto Abraham, (Gen. 12. 1.) so they read and go on in this order, till they have ended the Law, at the feast of Tabernacles: Maimonides in Misn. treat. of Prayer, chap. 13. S. 1.

Vers. 9. generations:] that is, offspring, and things that did befall him and them: so Gen. 25. 19. and 37. 2. and 2. 4. and 5. 2. just,] or, righteous: Noah is the first in the world that hath this title of just; and as generally the just liveth by faith, Rom. 1. 17. so of Noah the Apostle witnesseth, he was made heir of the justice which is by faith, Heb. 11. 7. perfect] or, entire, sincere, of a simple, plain, and upright carriage: as justice usually respecteth faith, so perfectness respecteth life and conversation, in the heart of man, Isaiah 38. 3. and in his ways, Psalm. 119. 1. This is not meant of perfection in measure or degrees, as being without all sin, Eccles. 7. 22. James 3. 2. 1. John. 1. 8. but when men by the grace of God, keep themselves from their iniquity, Psalm. 18. 33. 24. and sin hath not dominion in them, Psal. 19. 14. The perfect man is opposed to the perverse and restless wicked, Job 9. 20. 22. in his generations,] that is, among the men of the ages wherein he lived. So generation, Mat. 11. 16. and 12. 42. is expounded, the men of that generation, Luk. 7. 31. and 11. 31. walked with God:] that is, by faith pleased and acceptably served God: see the like before of Enoc, Gen. 5. 22. The word may imply also administration in the office whereunto God had called him, which was to be a preacher of justice, 2 Pet. 2. 5. So the Hebrew Doctors say, he preached to the old world, and said, Turn ye from your ways, and from your evil works, that the waters of the flood come not upon you, and cut off the whole seed of the sons of Adam. Pirke. R. Eliezer, ch. 22.

Vers. 11. the earth was corrupt:] that is, the inhabitants of the earth: (see Gen. 11. 1.) and so the earth it self for and through them; as is shown after in verse. 12. 13. therefore both were destroyed together. Corrupting is in special applied to idolatry, and depraving of God's true service, Exod. 32. 7. Deut. 32. 5. Judge. 2. 19. as, the people are said to do corruptly, 2 Chron. 27. 2. when they sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, 2 King. 15. 35. So idolatry was their chief corruption here, as may also be gathered by Gen. 4. 26. see the annotations there.

before God:] that is, openly and boldly in God's sight, as Gen. 10. 9. and in respect of his worship and law: see Gen. 17. 1. violent wrong] injurious and cruel dealing, which seemeth to be chiefly meant of violating the duties towards men; as the former word noted corruption of religion, Gen. 49. 5. Joel 3. 19. Obad. 1. 10. The Chaldee turneth it rapines, (or robberies.) Or, by violent wrong, violent and cruel men may be understood: as, pride, is used for proud men, Ier. 50. 31. 32. sin, for sinful men, Prov. 13. 6. poverty, for poor men, 2 King. 24. 14. and many the like. Thus corruption increased in the ecclesiastical and political estate, as it began in the domestical.

Vers. 12. all flesh:] that is, all men, who are called flesh, both for their frailty, Psal. 71. 39. and corrupt unregenerate estate, Gen. 6. 3. So flesh is expounded to be men, and people Psal. 56. 5. 12. Isaiah 40. 5. 6. their way:] that is, both their religion, or faith; (for so a way often signifieth, Act. 18. 25. 26. and 22. 4. 2 Pet. 2. 2.) and their manners, works, or course of life; as elsewhere is mentioned the way of Kain, for maliciousness, Jude verse. 11. the way of Balaam for covetousness, 2 Pet. 2. 15. and sundry the like. And of this way of the old world, wherein wicked men did walk, it is noted, that God had filled their houses with good things, but they said unto him, depart from us: they did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the Ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all: Job 22. 15. 17. 18. Luke 17. 27. Vers. 13. An end is come:] that is, the time of de 〈...〉 struction is at hand: so Amos 8. 2. Ier. 51. 13. Ezek. 〈◇〉 . 2. 3. 6. from the face] that is, because, or through them. destroy] or, 〈◇〉 corrupting, that is, ready to corrupt, or destroy. Before, the word was used for corrupting by sin; here, for corrupting with punishment, due for their sin: that is, destroying. So Gen. 18. 28. and 19. 13. and often in the Scriptures. with the earth] the Greek saith, and the earth: which being given for a possession to the some of Adam, was also destroyed with them; as in other particular judgments, men's goods perished with them, Gen. 19. Num. 16. 32. Ios. 7. 15. 24.

Vers. 14. an Ark] or Chest, Coffin: called in Hebrew Tebah: and differeth from the Ark or Coffer which Moses made for God's Sanctuary, which was called Aron, Exod. 25. 10. and served to keep the Tables of God's law, Deut. 10. 2. 5. but this Ark Tebah, was to keep men, and live things from the water; as a ship, used only in this history, and in Exod. 2. 3 The holy Ghost in Greek expresseth them both by one word Kibotos, an Ark Heb. 11. 7. and 9. 4. Heathen writers also make mention of this Ark, but by another name Larnax, that likewise is an Ark: Plutarch. de industr. animal. This Ark was a figure of Christ's Church, where into they that enter by saith, are saved from the stood of God's wrath; of which grace, Baptism (the answerable type) is a sign and seal. See. 1 Pet. 3. 20. 21. Gopher trees] The Chaldee paraphrafts make them a kind of Cedars: the Scripture mentioneth not this word any other where. But Gophrith is after used for sulphur, or brimstone, Gen. 19. 24. whereupon some think these to be Turpentine trees, which bear sulphury b 〈...〉 yes, and the wood is known to be fit for such an use. nests,] that is, little rooms or mansions, (as the Chaldee translateth) for men, beasts, birds, &c. to be in severally. So a nest, is for a mansion; Num. 24. 21. Obad. 4. pitch] or plaster: the Hebrew Copher, which elsewhere is often used for covering and propit••ting of sin, making atonement, and the like; is only here used for pitch or plaster, there being two other proper words for such stuff, Exod. 2. 3. It figured the atonement made for the Church by Christ, wherewith we being by faith covered and plastered, the waters of God's wrath, enter not upon us.

Vers. 15. cubits:] or ells: a cubit is the measure from the elbow to the fingers end, containing six hand bredths, or a foot and a half: so 300 cubits make 450 foot. height,] or stature. By these measures here set down, the Ark was by proportion like in shape rod Coffin for a man's body, six times so long as it was broad, and ten times so long as it was high: which was commodious for swimming, and steddinesse against winds: fit also to figure out Christ's death, and burial, and ours with him, by mortification of the old man: as the Apostle apply eth this type to baptism, 1 Pet. 3. 20. 21. whereby we are become dead and buried with Christ, Rom. 6. 3. 4. 6.

Vers. 16. A  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  *light:] whether by one, or by many windows, is uncertain: after there is mention of a window that was in the Ark, Gen. 8. 6 The Hebrew Zohar (which the Chaldee translath, Neh•r, Light,) is not found in the Scripture but here: of it Zaherajim is used for the noon day light. Some Hebrew Doctors say it was a precious stone, hanged in the Ark, which gave light to all creatures which were therein: Pirk R. Eliezar, chap. 23. This clear-light signified the enlightening of the Church, by the holy Ghost, as the door signified faith in Christ, Ephes. 1. 17. 18. John. 10. 9. in a cubit:] or, unto a cubit. it from above:] by it, seemeth the Ark to be meant; (rather then the light or window,) which Ark had the roof arched or bowed but a cubit, that it might be almost flat; yet so as the water might easily slide off. third stories] or, third nests, that is, rooms; as v. 14. So many distinct stories, there are also within man's body. And Paul maketh three parts of man, body, soul, and spirit, 1 Thess. 5. 23. Likewise in Moses Tabernacle, and in Solomon's Temple, were three rooms; the Courtyard, the Holy place, and the Most holy, Exod. 25. and 27. 1 King. 6. The Church also (figured by the Ark) hath three states, before the Law, under the Law, and under Christ, Rom. 5. 13. 14. John. 1. 27.*

Vers. 17. I do bring:] or, am bringing: the Lord hereupon is said to sit at the flood: Psal. 29. 10. as being the judge from whom this wrath proceeded, and moderator in mercy to Noah. the flood,] or, deluge: the Hebrew mabbul, is a peculiar name to this flood, which drowned the world, and made all things fade and die on earth, whereof it hath the name. In Greek the holy Ghost calleth it Kataclysmos, of the abundant shedding and inundation of the waters. Mat. 24. 38.

Vers. 18. I will establish:] that is, make sure and stable, and faithfully keep my covenant. For so the word importeth, and other Scriptures open it, as, establish thou, 2 Sam. 7. 25. is expounded, let it be faithful (or sure.) 1 Chron. 17. 23. and to stablish the words of a covenant, 2 King. 23. 3. is to do (or perform) them, 2 Chron. 34. 31. and to continue in doing them, Gal. 3. 10. with Deut. 27. 26. my covenant,] or, testament; a disposition of good things faithfully declared: which God here usually calleth his, as arising from his grace towards Noah, (verse. 8.) and all men; but implying also conditions on man's part, and therefore is elsewhere named our covenant, Zach. 9. 11. The Apostles call it Diathekee, that is, a Testament or Disposition; and it is mixed of properties both of covenant and of testament, as the Apostle showeth in Heb. 9. 16. 17. &c. and of both may be named a testamentall covenant, or a covenanting testament: whereby the disposing of God's favors and good things to us his children, is declared. and thou shalt enter, &c] This explaineth the Covenant made; on God's part, that he would save Noah and his household from death by the Ark; and on Noes part, that he should in faith and obedience make, and enter into the Ark, so committing himself to God's preservation, Heb. 11. 7. And under this, the covenant or testament of eternal salvarion by Christ, was also implied; the Apostle testifying, that the (antitype) or like figure hereunto, even Baptism doth also now save us, 1 Pet. 3. 21. which baptism is a seal of our salvation, Mar. 16. 16. wives] Hereupon the Apostle observeth, how in the Ark, a few, that is, eight souls, were saved by water, 1 Pet. 3. 20.

Vers. 19. two] or, by twoes, that is, by paires: which is after explained to be seven of every clean, and two of every unclean beast, Gen. 7. 2. Thus God showeth himself to be the saver of man and beast, Psal. 36. 7. to keep alive, that is, that thou mayest keep alive: (as the Greek explaineth it, that thou mayest nourish.) Observe how verbs indefinite, do often times include (though not express) a certain person, especially such as was spoken of before: as Eccles. 4. 17. (or 5. 1.) they know not to do evil; that is, they know not that they do evil. Zach. 12. 10. they shall mourn, and to be bitterness; that is, and they shall be in bitterness This the Hebrew text it self sometime manifesteth: as Esa. 37. 18. 19. they have laid wast: and to cast their gods, &c. that is, and they have cast their gods: as is written 2 King. 1<sup>o</sup>. 18. So in 1 Chron. 17. 4. build me an house to dwell in: for which in 2 Sam. 7. 5. is written, build me an house for me to dwell in. Likewise in the Greek, as, Suzetein, to question, that is, they questioned, Mar. 1. 17. for which another Evangelist saith, Sunelaloun, they spake together, Luke 4. 36. not lawful to eat, Luke 6. 4. that is, for him to eat, Mat. 12. 4. not to enter, Luke 22. 40. or, that ye enter not, Mat. 26. 41. Also the holy Ghost so translateth; as, to be my salvation, Isaiah 49. 6. which Paul citing, saith, that thou mayest be my salvation, Act. 13. 47. So in Gen. 19. 20. and 23. 8. Exod. 9. 16. and often through-out the Scriptures.

Vers. 20. shall come to thee:] to weet, of their own accord, by my instinct. Signifying hereby, that Noah should not need to hunt for them. So it was before with Adam, in Gen. 2. 19. to keep alive:] that is, that thou mayest keep them alive: as before in verse. 19. Or, to be kept alive: as the Greek here translateth, to be nourished with thee. For a verb indefinite active, is often to be understood passively; as, a time to bear, Eccles. 3. 2. that is, to be borne. What to do? Est. 6. 6. that is, what shall be done? So, for to declare my name, Ex. 9. 16. is by the Apostles authority translated, that my name may be declared, Rom. 9. 17. See Gen. 2. 20. and 4. 13.

Vers. 22. And Noah did it] This commendeth Noes singular faith and obedience, in undertaking and performing so great a work, full of infinite doubts, fears, troubles, charges, &c. wherefore he hath of the holy Ghost this good report; By faith Noah being spoken to of God, of things not seen as yet, moved with reverence, (or using carefulness) prepared an Ark, to the saving of his house: by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of the justice which is by faith, Heb. 11. 7. did] or made it: namely, the Ark, and all things appointed him of God. Wherefore the Greek so translateth; Noah did (or made) all things: and oftentimes a thing set down thus generally, is to be understood of all and every particular, the holy Ghost so expounding: as (in a like case) Exod. 25. 40. look and make them after their pattern: that is, look thou make all things after the pattern, Heb. 8. 5. So Deut. 27. 26. Cursed be he that confirmeth not the words of this law: that is, Cursed be everyone that continueth not in all things written in the book of the Law, Gal. 3. 10. and sundry the like. according to all] so not only the things themselves, but the manner of doing them, was according to the commandment of God. Like praise was for the work of the Tabernacle, Exod. 39. 43. and 40. 16.

CHAP. VII.

1, God commandeth Noah and his house, to enter into the Ark, with beasts and fowls. 7, Noah and they go in. 12, It raineth forty days and forty nights: 17, the waters bear up the Ark, 18, and drown the earth. 21, All that were on the dry land died, 23, save Noah, and those with him. 24, The waters prevail an hundred and fifty days.

ANd Jehovah said unto Noah, Enter thou and all thy house into the Ark: for thee have I seen just before me, in this generation. Of every clean beast, thou shalt take to thee, seven and seven, the male and his female: and of the beast which is not clean, two, the male and his female. Also of the fowl of the heavens, seven and seven, the male and the female: to keep alive seed upon the face of all the earth. For seven days hence I will cause-it-to rain upon the earth, forty days, and forty nights: and will blot-out every living substance that I have made, from upon the face of the earth. And Noah did: according to all that Jehovah commanded him. And Noah was six hundred years old: and the Flood was; waters upon the earth. And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons wives with him, into the Ark: because of the waters of the Flood. Of the clean beast, and of the beast which was not clean: and of the fowl, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth. Two and two went in unto Noah, into the Ark, the male and the female: even as God had commanded Noah. And it was at the seventh of the days; that the waters of the Flood were upon the earth. In the year, the six hundred year, of the life of Noah, in the second month; in the seventeenth day of the month: in the same day, all the fountains of the great deep were broken-up; and the windows of the heavens were opened. And the rain was upon the earth: forty days, and forty nights. In this self same day, entered Noah, and Sem, and Cham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah: and the wife of Noah, and the three wives of his sons, with them, into the Ark. They, and every beast after his kind; and all the cattle after their kind; and every creeping-thing that creepeth upon the earth, after his kind; and every fowl after his kind; every bird of every wing. And they went in unto Noah, into the Ark: two and two of all flesh which had in it the spirit of life. And they that went in, went in male and female of all flesh, even as God had commanded him: and Jehovah shut him in. And the Flood was forty days upon the earth: and the waters increased, and bare-up the ark, and it was lift-up from the earth. And the waters prevailed, and were increased greatly upon the earth: and the ark went upon the face of the waters. And the waters prevailed most exceedingly upon the earth: and all the high mountains that are under all the heavens, were covered. Fifteene cubits upwards did the waters prevail: and the mountains were covered. And all flesh that moved upon the earth, gave up the ghost; of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast; and of every creeping-thing, that creepeth upon the earth: and every man. All which had the breath of the spirit of life in his nostrils; of all which was in the dry land, they died. And every living substance was blotted out, which was upon the face of the earth; from man unto cattle, unto the creeping thing, and unto the fowl of the heavens; and they were blotted out from the earth: and Noah only remained, and they that were with him in the ark. And the waters prevailed upon the earth: a hundred and fifty days.

Annotations.

ENter thou] that is, Betake thyself unto my tuition and providence, who will save thee and thine from the wrath that cometh upon the world, 2 Pet. 2. 5. A like speech is made unto the godly, in Esa. 26. 20. just before me] that is, sincerely just, by faith, and so heir of the justice which is by faith, Heb. 11. 7. for no flesh is just before God, by the works of the Law, Rom. 3. 20. Noc is also named a preacher of justice, 2 Pet. 2. 5. The just before God, are opposed to hypocrites, which justify themselves before men, Luke 16. 15. Rom. 2. 29. in this generation] that is, among the men of this age: which are called the world of ungodly ones, 2 Pet. 2. 5. See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 2. of every cle••e beast] Of these there were after by Moses law, two sorts; some clean for men to eat in common use, such as were all that parted the 〈...〉 two, and chewed the cudd, Lev. 11. 3. &c. all other were unclean. And some that were clean for sacrifice to God, which were either beeves, or sheep, or goats, Lev. 1. 2. 10. So of fowls, many were counted clean for man's meat, Lev. 11. 13. 21. &c. but for sacrifice to the Lord, only tur•le doves and pigeons, Lev. 1. 14. And all these sacrifices Abram offered, Gen. 15. 9. and of every clean beast and clean fowl, Noah offered a burnt offering after he came out of the Ark, Gen. 8. 20. wherefore by clean beasts here, such only seem to be meant, as were sanctified of God for sacrifice: which ordinances (as appeareth) were revealed of God to the Fathers from the beginning, as divers others, after written by Moses; as cleansing of men's persons, and garments, Gen. 35. 2. paying of tithes to the Priests, Gen. 14. 20. offering of first fruits, Gen. 4. 3. 4. and the like. As for civil use, all beasts seem to be clean to the sons of Noah, for meat, by that law in Gen. 9. 3. see the notes there. By nature all God's creatures are good, Gen. 1. 31. and there is nothing unclean of it self, Rom. 14. 14. but only by the institution of God, to teach men holiness and obedience, Act. 10. 15. Lev. 11. 44. 45. and seven,] Hebr. seven, seven, that is, by sevens, or seven of each sort: so after, two two, verse. 9. that is, two of each. This number of seven was after much used in sacrificing, as Job 42. 8. 1 Chron. 15. 26. Num. 23. 1. 14▪ 29. male and his female] the Hebrew is, man and his wife: which the Greek and Chaldee translateth, male and female, and so the Hebrew it self is in the next verse for the fowls. It is the manner of the Hebrew tongue, to call all living creatures by the name of man and wife, and their young ones sons, Lev. 1. 5. and things also without life, woman and sister, Exod. 26. 3. The mystery of things may by such names the better be discerned: for beasts clean and unclean, figured out men; as the vision shown to Peter, manifesteth, Act. 10. 11. 20. 28. two] the Greek explaineth it, two two, that is, by twoes; as before by sevens: and in the 9. verse following, the word two is doubled.

Vers. 3. seven] to weet, of the clean, and two of the unclean, as was before of beasts. And so the Greek expresseth it.

Vers. 4. seven days hence] Hebr. to yet seven days, that is, the seventh day after this, as verse. 10. So, yet three days, 2 Chron. 10. verse. 5. is in verse. 12. shown to be in the third day: So in Gen. 40. 13. The Hebrew to, is sometime used for after, as Exod. 16. 1 Psal. 19. 3. Num. 33. 38. Ier. 41. 4. Ezr. 3. 8. I will cause] Hebr. I causing: it is spoken as if it were then in doing, for the more certainty. So, thou heaping coles, Prov. 25. 22. is translated, thou shalt heap, Rom. 12▪ 20. forty days] This time of vengeance is after used for the time of humiliation: as Moses, Elias, and Christ our Lord, fasted forty days, and forty nights, Deut. 9. 9. 11. 1 King. 19. 8. Mat. 4. 2. And forty days respite was given to Nineveh, Ion. 3. 4. as thrice 40. (that is 120.) years to the old world before it was drowned, Gen. 6. 3. blot out] or, wipe out: that is, destroy, and abolish. This the Hebrew Doctors expound to be out of the land of the world to come, the land of the living: R. Menachem. on Gen. 7. and the Apostle placeth their spirits in prison, 1 Pet. 3. 19. living substance] everything that standeth up, or subsisteth. This word is also used Deuteron. 11. 6. and Job. 22. 20.

Vers. 6. 600 year old] Hebr. a son of 600. years: that is, going in his 600 year. See Gen. 5. 32. and hereafter in verse. 11. waters] or, as the Greek hath, the Flood of water.

Vers. 7. his sons wives] Thus but a few, that is, eight souls were saved by water: as the Apostle observeth, 1 Pet. 3. 20. And here again, Noes rare faith and obedience is set forth, Heb. 11. 7. because] or, for fear of: Hebr. from the face.

Vers. 9. and two] that is, by twoes: as v. 2.

Vers. 10. at the seventh] or, as the Greek saith, after seven days: see before v. 4.

Vers. 11. the 600 year] or, In the year of 600 years; that is, while Noah was living, in the 600 year of his life: which was from the creation of the world the 1656 year, and this was the beginning of that year of his life, for he continued a year in the Ark, Gen. 8. 13. and lived 350 year after the flood, and died 950 year old, Gen. 9. 28. 29. the second month] to weet, of the year: agreeable in part to that we now call October: for the end, and revolution of the year, was about the month which we call September, Exod. 23. 16. and 34. 22. and so the new year then began: this was after called the month of Ethanim, 1 King. 8. 2. where the Chaldee paraphraseth, that they called it of old, the first month, but now (saith he) it is the seventh month. For the year changed the beginning of it ecclesiastically, upon the coming of Israel out of Egypt: see Exod. 12. 2. and Lev. 23. 39. compared with Exod. 23. 16. Some take it here to be meant of the second month, according to the Jews ecclesiastical account, that is, April. of the great deep,] that is, of the waters, which had by the providence of God been put into treasuries (or store-houses) under the earth, Job 28. 4. 10▪ Psal. 33. 7. Deut. 8. 7. As also of the Ocean sea, which sometime is called the Deepe, Job 38. 16. 30. and 41. 31. Psal. 106. 9. the windows] or sluices, flood-gates of heaven: that is, of the air; as is noted on Gen. 1. 7. So Isaiah 24. 18. This denoteth the extraordinary violent falling of the waters from above; as the former did their springing up from beneath. Hereupon waters, deeps, floods, and the like, are used for great afflictions, whereby the life is endangered, Psal. 69. 2. 3. 15. 16.

Vers. 12. the rain] or shower, that is, vehement rain. After this manner the Israelites were baptized in the cloud and sea; when the clouds streamed down waters, 1 Cor. 10. 1. 2. Psal. 77. 18. Exod. 14. 24. 25. And now was Noah saved in the ark in the midst of the waters, and was spiritually baptized into Christ's death by faith, 1 Pet. 3. 20. 21. Heb. 11. 7.

Vers. 13. In this self same] Hebr. In the strength (or body) of this day. So Gen. 17. 23. Levite. 23. 14. Ios. 10. 27.

Vers. 14. every beast,] that is, some of every sort, two of the unclean; as before, v. 2. every wing] that is, of every sort; for some are winged with feathers, others with skin, as Batts. Therefore the Greek translateth here, as before, according to his kind.

Vers. 15. went in] of their own accord, miraculously, God so moving them: that they seemed beforehand to know the wrath of God that should come on the world.

Vers. 16. shut him in] or, shut (the door) upon him, or after him: the Greek saith, shut the Ark on the outside of him. And this was to keep him safe, and (as the Chaldee translateth) protect him, from the violence of the rain: also that no other should come in: for so the like speech seemeth to import, in 2 King. 4. 4. 5. The record of this grace to Noah, is found in sundry heathen Writers; they say Deucalion (when waters drowned all the rest) was with his wife preserved in a ship or ark, Ovid. Metamorph. l. 1. Lucian. de Dea Syriae. Noah was of the Greeks called Deucalion, (as Justin Martyr Apol. 1. testifieth) and the name implieth so much, it being made of the wet and of the sea.

Vers. 17. 40 days] that is, large days, comprehending nights also: as v. 4. and so the Greek expresseth it, forty days, and forty nights. See the notes of Gen. 1. 5. from] or from upon: but the Greek saith, from the earth: and the Hebrew meghnal, from upon, is sometime only from: as Exod. 10. 28. Therefore that which in 2 Chron. 33. 8. is written from upon the Land, in 2 King. 21. 8. is but from the land. So from by me, Gen. 13. 9.

Vers. 18. went upon the face] that is, as the Greek translateth, was carried upon the waters: So ships are said to go (or walk,) Psal. 104. 26. Thus Noah in the Ark escaped the waters of God's wrath, wherein the world perished: as Israel after this, passed safe through the waters of the sea, wherein the Egyptians were drowned, Exod. 14. Hebr. 11. 29. Noah was baptized into Christ's death, and buried, (in the Ark) with him into his death, but raised up again with him also, God giving him victory through faith in Christ, Rom. 6. 3. 4. 1 Pet. 3. 20. 21

Vers. 19. most exceedingly] or, most vehemently: the Hebrew phrase (as also the Greek) doubleth the word, vehemently vehemently. So Gen. 17. 2. and 30. 43. and often.

Vers. 20. Fifteene cubits] that is, 22 foot and an half. God weigheth the waters by measure, Job 28. 25 prevail] that is, as the Greek explaineth, were lifted up, higher then all mountains: To this Job hath reference, saying; he sendeth out (the waters) and they overturn the earth, Job 12. 15. this judgment was admirable, seeing there are mountains, as Atlas, Olympus, Causacus, Athos, and other such, that are so high, as their tops are above the clouds, and winds; as Historiographers do report. And the mountains of Ararat so high, that the Ark rested upon them long before the face of the earth was discovered, Gen. 8. 4. 5. &c.

Vers. 21. every man] the flood came and destroyed them all, Luke 17. 27. they were wrinkled before their time; a flood was poured upon their foundations, Job. 22. 16.

Vers. 23. Noah only] or, but Noah. To this the Scripture after hath reference, Ezek. 14. 14. though Noah, Daniel, and Job were among them, they should deliver but their own souls. So, a few were saved, 1 Pet. 3. 20. and 2. 5. And heathen stories give testimony unto this truth, that at the deluge of all men Deucalion only was left alive, (that is, Noah;) by going with his wife and children into a certain great Ark which he had, &c. Lucian. l. de Dea Syriae.

CHAP. VIII.

1, The waters of the flood asswage. 4, The Ark resteth on Ararat. 7, Noah sends forth the Raven and the Dove. 15, God biddeth, Noah go forth of the Ark, 18, and he goeth. 20, He buildeth an Altar, and offereth sacrifice; 21, which God accepteth, and promiseth to curse the earth so no more.

AND God remembered Noah, and every beast, and all the cattle that was with him in the Ark: and God made a wind to pass over the earth; and the waters asswaged. And the fountains of the Deep, and the windows of the heavens were stopped: and the rain from heavens was restrained. And the waters returned from off the earth, going and returning: and the waters abated at the end of the hundred and fifty days. And the ark rested in the seventh month, in the seventeenth day of the month: upon the mountains of Ararat. And the waters were going and abating, until the tenth month: in the tenth (month) in the first of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen. And it was at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made. And he sent forth a Raven: and it went-forth goingforth, and returning: until the waters were dried from off the earth. And he sent forth a Dove from him: to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground. And the Dove found not rest for the sole of her foot; and she returned unto him into the ark; for the waters were on the face of all the earth: and he put-forth his hand, and took her; and caused her to come unto him into the ark. And he waited yet other seven days: and did again send forth the Dove out of the ark. And the Dove came in to him at eventide; and loe an olive leaf plucked off, was in her mouth: and Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth. And he waited yet other seven days: and sent-forth the Dove; and she did not again return unto him anymore. And it was in the six hundred and one year; in the first (month) in the first of the month; the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark; and he saw, and behold the face of the ground was dry. And in the second month, in the seven and twentieth day of the month; the earth was dried.

And God spake unto Noah, saying. Go-forth out of the ark: thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons wives with thee. Every beast which is with thee, of all flesh; of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, bring thou forth with thee; that they may breed abundantly in the earth; and be fruitful and multiply upon the earth. And Noah went forth: and his sons, and his wife, and his sons wives with him. Every beast, every creeping-thing, and every fowl; all that creepeth upon the earth: after their families, went forth out of the ark. And Noah built an Altar unto Jehovah: and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered-up burnt offerings on the altar. And Jehovah smelled a smell of rest: and Jehovah said in his heart; I will not again curse anymore the ground for man's sake; for the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth: and I will not again anymore smite every living thing, as I have done. Henceforth all days of the earth; seed-time, and harvest, and cold, and heat, and summer, and winter, and day, and night, shall not cease.

Annotations.

God remembered] that is, shown himself to have care of Noah, and helped him out of his troubles. Things are often spoken of God, after the manner of men: as Gen. 6. 6. So after Gen. 30. 22. every beast] or, every living thing; the Greek translateth, all wild beasts, and addeth all fowls and all creeping things. a wind:] The Hebrew name Ruach, signifieth generally any spirit, or wind; and all winds are brought forth of God out of his treasures, Psal. 135. 7. and we know not whence they come, or whither they go, John. 3. 8. but God maketh the weight for them, Job 28. 25. and raised this wind extraordinarily, in mercy. asswaged] or, were stilled, quieted. This word is applied also to the asswaging of anger, Est. 2. 1. and of murmurings, Num. 17. 5. Wherefore this wind, (which seemeth to be extraordinary,) had a miraculous effect in asswaging the waters, whereas usually wind maketh them rage, Psal. 107. 25. Ion. 1. 4. Therefore one Chaldee paraphrase calleth it a wind, (or spirit) of mercies.

Vers. 2. of the deep] the water gulfs within the earth, which before were broken up: see Gen. 7. 11. stopped] thus God shown himself to be he that can stay the bottles of heaven, Job 38. 37.

Vers. 3. going and returning] that is, continually returning, to weet, into their channels and treasures within the earth, Psal. 33. 7. Eccles. 1. 7. So after in verse. 5. going and abating, that is, continually abating, more and more. So going, is elsewhere used for continuing, and increasing, Exod. 19. 19. The like is in Gen. 12. 9. at the end] or after: as the Greek translateth it here, and in v. 6.

Vers. 4. of Ararat] that is, of Armenia: a country near Assyria and Mesopotamia, mentioned also in 2 King. 19. 37. Isaiah 37. 38. Ier. 51. 27. The Greek here calleth them as the Hebrew Ararat, but in Isaiah 37. 38. it translateth it Armenia. Also the Chaldee here calleth them mounts of Kardu, which many Writers witness to be hills in Armenia. And the name Ararat seemeth to be turned into Armenia, of Aram, (that is Syria) and Minni, (whereof see Ier. 51. 27) or of Ararat & Minni compounded.

Vers. 5. tops] Hebr. the heads.

Vers. 6. that Noah opened] Hebr. and Noah opened: we may leave the word and, as doth the Greek, and our English speech also beareth: which the Hebrew it self elsewhere showeth may be done, as 2 King. 14. 10. and why shouldst thou meddle? but in 2 Chron. 25. 19. and is left out: so in 2 Chron. 18. 12. and is set down, which in 2 King. 22. 13. is left out. So it may be in many other places, as Gen. 22. 4.

Vers. 7. a Raven] an unclean fowl, Deut. 14. 14 sent forth forty days after the tops of the mounts appeared, to see if the waters were abated, as the Greek addeth, and as the next verse showeth of the dove. For the Raven would have fed on the dead karkasses, if any had appeared, Prov. 30. 17. returning] that is, flying to and fro, returning to the ark, but not into the same, which the Dove after did, verse. 9. whereupon the Greek interpreters (as it seemeth) translated it returned not. Noah had no tidings of the waters abating, brought by this messenger, therefore he sendeth another, the Dove: which returning with an Olive leaf or branch; verse. 11. signified the glad tidings of peace, by the ministry of the Gospel, and of the Spirit, (which the Dove represented Mat. 3. 16.) but the ministry of the Law & letter (which the Raven seemeth here to figure out,) giveth the heart of man no evidence, that the waters of God's wrath for sin, are any whit abated.

Vers. 8. a Dove from him] the Greek saith, after him, meaning the Raven. This Dove seemeth to be sent out seven days after the Raven, as may be gathered by the 10. verse, where is mentioned Noes waiting other seven days. Of the sending forth of this Dove, and of her returning unto Noah, (whom heathens name Deucalion) there is express mention in human Writers, Plutarch. dialogue. de industr. animal. abated] Hebr. lightened: that is, decreased: so in v. 11.

Vers. 10. he waited] or, patiently abode: so in v. 12. did again send] or, added to send: so in v. 12. did not add to return: and verse 21. I will not add to curse; that is, not curse anymore.

Vers. 11. leaf] or branch: as it is elsewhere englished, Nehem. 8. 15. a sign that the waters were low: and spiritually a token of grace and peace in Jesus Christ, brought in the mouth, that is, the word and doctrine of the Ministers of the Gospel, compared unto Doves, Mat. 10. 15. Isaiah 60. 8. Romans 10. 15. which came unto the Church in the evening of times, in these last days, Heb. 1. 1.

Vers. 13. the 601 year] to weer, of Noes life: as the Greek expresseth. in the first] to weet, the first month, as the Greek addeth; and the Hebrew before in v. 4. and after in v. 14. plainly speaketh; but affecting brevity, such words are often omitted. So after: the first of the month, that is, the first day, as the first of the feast, Mat. 26. 17. is expounded by the holy Ghost, the first day of the feast, Mark 14. 12.

Vers. 14. the 27 day of the month] By this it appeareth that Noah was in the ark a full year (or year of days) containing 365 days, according to the course of the Sun. For he entered the ark, the 17 day of the second month, in the 600 year of his life, Gen. 7. 11. 13. and there he continued till the 27 day of the second month in the 601 year of his life, as the 13 and 14 verses of this 8th Chapter show. Now the twelve months of the Hebrews had 354 days, (for six months had each of them thirty days, and the other six months had each 29 days, which make 354:) to which add 11 days, (till the 27 of the 2 month full ended) and there are days 365.

Vers. 19. after their families] that is, the male with his female, not confusedly rushing out all together, but in order, and after their kind, as the Greek translatheth. Families are here attributed to the brute creatures, as before, man and wife, Gen. 7. 2.

Vers. 20. built an Altar] of earth, as is probable by the Law after given in Exod. 20. 24. an Altar of earth shalt thou make unto me. And such the Nations after used, mentioning Altars of grass, and of turfe, Uirgil. Aeneid. 12. Horat. l. 1. od 19. An Altar is called in Hebrew, Mizbeach, that is, a sacrificatory, or place of slaying the sacrifice, for the sacrifices were killed, upon it, or by it, Gen.

22. 9. 10. Lev. 1. 11. It was a holy place, and sanctified the offering. Mat. 23. 19. Exod. 29. 37. and so was a figure of Christ, by whom we offer the sacrifice of praise always to God, Heb. 13. 10.—15. And it is a tradition of the Jews, that the place where Noah built this altar, was the place where Abraham afterward built an Altar to offer Isaac, Gen. 22. 2. and where Kain and Abel offered before. See the notes on Gen. 4. 3. every clean beast] of the bullocks, sheep, and goats: see the notes on Gen. 7. 2. So in Pirke R. Eliezer, chap. 23. it is said, Noah brought of the kind of clean beasts, a bull, a sheep, and a goat, and of the kind of clean fowls, turtle doves and young Pigeons, and built an Altar, and offered, &c. burnt offerings:] named in Hebrew gnoloth, that is, ascensions, for that they went up in fire to the Lord, all (except the skin) upon the altar, as Moses showeth, saying, It is the burnt-offering, because of the burning upon the altar all the night, unto the morning, Leviticus 6. 9. Therefore the Holy Ghost in Greek calleth them holocaustomata, that is, whole burntofferings, and showeth how they figured Christ's body offered up unto God for us, Hebrews 10. 6. 10. and our reasonable service of God by him, whiles we present our bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God, Rom. 12. 1. External burnt offerings were in use in the Church, before the Law given at mount Sinai, as appeareth by this, and Exod. 10. •5. and 18. 12.

Vers. 21. the smell] or, the odour savor: It hath the name originally of respiration, and it signified God's gracious acceptance of the sacrifice offered; as 1 Sam. •6. 19▪ let him smell an offering: Lev. 26. 31 I will not smell the smell of your sweet odors: So in Amos 5. •1. Wherefore the Chaldee translatheth, the Lord accepted with favor his oblation. The Scripture speaketh of God, after the manner of men, who are delighted with sweet odors, Isaiah 3. 24. Song 1. 〈...〉 of rest] that is, of sweetness, or of sweet savor, which refresheth, comforteth, and quieteth the sense. The Hebrew word is of the same root that Noes name was of, which signified rest and comfort, Gen. 5. 29. The Greek here, and usually, turneth it eu•di•s, of sweet-savor: which the Apostle followeth, saying; Christ hath given himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God, for a smell of sweet savor, Ephesians 5. 2. where this sacrifice of Noah, and all other in the Law, are shown to have their accomplishment in Christ's death: for otherwise, as it was unpossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins, Heb. 10. 4. so was it unpossible that the smoke of such flesh burned, should be a sweet odour to God. in his heart] or, unto his heart, that is, heartily, minding and purposing this thing which followeth. Some understand it, unto Noes heart, as spoken to his comfort: but the Hebrew (el) unto, is often used for in: as Gen. 6. 6. 1 Sam. 27. 1. and the Greek explaineth it in the former sense. The Chaldee translatheth in (or by) his word: which may be understood as an oath; as not only the Hebrew Doctors say, that God stretched out his right hand, and swar•, &c. (Pirke R. Eliezer, chap. 23.) but the Prophet also witnesseth, I have sworn that the waters of Noah▪ shall no more go over the earth, Es. 54. 9. not again curse] or, not add to curse: This taking away of the curse (notwithstanding man's corrupt heart remaining) is a notable testimony of God's rich mercy in Christ, by whom we are freed from the curse, Gal. 3. 13. Rev. 22. 3. Zach. 14. 11. For the covenant now made concerning the waters with Noah▪ was a figure of that spiritual and eternal covenant of peace with us in Christ, as is shown in Isaiah 54. 8. 9. 10. for man's sake] the Greek saith, for men's works. for the imagination] or, though the fiction: See Gen. 6. 5. where from men's merits, the contrary is concluded to that which here God in mercy promiseth. youth] or child-hood: so that it meaneth not only man's age, but infancy or child's age, as the word whence youth here is derived, is spoken of Moses when he was a babe, Exod. 2. 6. and we all are transgressors from the womb, Isaiah 48. 8. Psal. 51. 7. and 58. 4. In Breshith rabba (an Hebrew commentary upon this place) a Rabbine is said to be asked, When is the evil imagination put into m•n? And he answered, From the ׀ that he is formed. as I have done] to weet, universally with water: howbeit, fire shall consume the remnant, Job 22. 20. for the heavens and the earth now, are by God's word kept-in-store, reserved unto fire, against the day of judgment; and perdition of ungodly men: 2 Pet. 3. 7.

Vers. 22. Henceforth, all days of the earth] that is, Hereafter, so long is the earth endureth. It is a promise to conserve the orderly course and state of the world through all ages, unto the end: under which also the promise of stability of grace in Christ, is spiritually covenanted unto the faithful: as Jer. 33. 20. 21.

CHAPT. IX.

1. God blesseth Noah and his sons. 4, Flesh with the blood, and murder, are forbidden. 9. God's covenant to drown the earth no more, 13, signified by the Rainbow. 18, Noah replenisheth the world, 20, planteth a vineyard, 21, is drunken, and mocked of his son: 25, Curseth Canaan; 26, Blesseth Sem, 27, prayeth for Japheth, 28, and dieth 950 years old.

And God blessed Noah and his sons: and said unto them; Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth. And the fear of you, and the dread of you, shall be upon every beast of the earth: and upon every fowl of the heavens: on all that moveth upon the ground, and on all the fishes of the sea; into your hand are they given. Every moving thing that is living, to you shall it be for meat: as the green herb, have I given to you all things. But flesh, with the soul thereof, the blood thereof, ye shall not eat. And surely, your blood of your souls, will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it: and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother, will I require the soul of man. He that sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God, made he man. And you, be ye fruitful and multiply; bring-forth-abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

And God said unto Noah, and unto his sons with him, saying. And I, behold I establish my covenant with you: and with your seed after you. And with every living soul, that is with you; of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth, with you: from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth. And I will establish my covenant with you; and all flesh shall not be cut off, anymore, by the waters of a Flood: and there shall not be anymore, a Flood, to destroy the earth. And God said; This is the sign of the covenant, which I do give between me and you; and every living soul that is with you: to eternal generations. My Bow I have given in the cloud: and it shall be for a sign of the covenant between me and the earth. And it shall be when I make-cloudy the cloud over the earth: that the bow shall be seen in the cloud. And I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you, and every living soul, of all flesh: and there shall not be anymore the waters, to a flood; to destroy all flesh. And the Bow shall be in the cloud: and I will see it, to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living soul; of all flesh, that is upon the earth. And God said unto Noah; This is the sign of the covenant which I have established, between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.

And the sons of Noah that went-out of the ark, were Sem, and Cham, and Japheth: and Cham, he is the father of Canaan. These three were the sons of Noah: and of these all the earth was over-spread. And Noah began to be an husbandman: and he planted a vineyard. And he drank of the wine, and was drunken: and he uncovered himself, within his tent. And Cham the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father: and told his two brethren, without. And Sem and Japheth took a garment; and they laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward and covered the nakedness of their father: and their faces were backward; and they saw not their fathers nakedness. And Noah awoke from his wine: and he knew that which his younger son had done unto him. And he said, Cursed be Canaan: a servant of servants shall he be to his brethren. And he said, Blessed be Jehovah, the God of Sem: and Canaan shall be a servant to them. God persuade Japheth; that he may dwell in the tents of Sem: and Canaan shall be a servant to them. And Noah lived, after the Flood, three hundred years, and fifty years. And all the days of Noah were nine hundred years, and fifty years: and he died.

Annotations.

BE fruitful] the blessing first given to Adam, Gen. 1. 28. is here renewed, in the same words: and the Greek hereto addeth, and exercise dominion (or sub due it) which the Hebrew expresseth in Gen. 1. Here it is impyled in the verse following.

Vers. 2. shall be upon every beast] or, be it upon them: This is that sovereignty which Adam had over the creatures before his fall; though not after the same manner; for then the creatures were subject of their own accord, now of fear, and by constraint. And although many beasts rebel against men, and destroy them, (especially for some great sins, Lev. 26. 22. 1 King. 13. 24. 2 King. 2. 24.) yet as the Apostle saith, every nature of wild beasts, and of birds, and of creeping things, and things in the Sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of the nature of man, I am. 3. 7.

Vers. 3. moving] or, creeping thing that is living: that is, as the Greek in the former verse translath, moving things which live: whereby things that die alone, or are not lawfully killed, seem unto some to be excepted; as after in the Law, such are plainly forbidden to be eaten, Lev. 22. 8. Exod. 22. 31. So the law touching unclean beasts, fowls, fishes, &c. mentioned in Lev. 11. seemeth not to be given as yet. And this was the ancient Rabbin's judgment, as in Breshith rabba they say. What is that which Psal. 145. 7. teacheth us, saying: The Lord looseth the bound? All beasts which have been forbidden as unclean in this world, God will cleanse and license them in the world to come of the Messias. Even as to the sons of Noah, at the first they were clean, as it is written (Gen. 9. 3.) every moving thing that is living, to you shall be for meat: as the green herb, &c. As the herb is permitted unto all, so all beasts shall be permitted unto all. as the green herb] given before for meat to man and beast, Gen. 1. 29. 30.

Vers. 4. with the soul] or, in the soul, that is, the life: for so the soul often signifieth, Job 2. 6. John. 10. 15. 17. the blood] this declareth what the former meant; in the soul, that is, the blood: a reason whereof is shown in the law, Lev. 17. 11. for the soul (or life) of the flesh is in the blood:

and in verse. 14. the soul of all flesh, is the blood thereof. So this law against eating flesh with the life or blood; seemeth to be against cruelty, not to eat any part while the creature is alive, or the flesh not orderly mortified, and cleansed of the blood: 1 Sam. 14. 32. 33. 34. and this the reason following doth confirm. Also the Hebrew Doctors make this the seventh commandment given to the sons of Noah, which all Nations were bound to keep: as there had been six from Adams time. Which they reckon thus; The first against idolatry, worship of stars, images, &c. The second against blaspheming the name of God. The third against shedding of blood. The fourth against unjust carnal copulations, whereof they make six sorts: 1. with a man's own mother, 2. or with his fathers wife; 3. or with his neighbors wife; 4. or with his sister by the mothers side; 5. or with mankind; 6. or with beasts. (Five of which they gather to be forbidden by Gen. 2. 24. the other by Abraham's speech, Gen. 20. 12.) The fifth precept was against rapine or robbery. The sixth to have judgment or punishment for malefactors. And unto Noah was added the seventh this here mentioned; which they understād to forbid the eating of any member, or of the flesh of a beast taken from it alive. Whosoever in the world, transgressed any of these seven commandments willfully, the Jews held he was to be killed with the sword: as showeth Maimonides in Misneh, treat. of Kings, chap. 9. But the Heathens that would yield to obey these seven precepts, though they received not circumcision, nor observed the other ordinances given afterward to Israel; they were suffered to dwell as strangers among the Israelites, and to so journe in their land, as is shown after upon Exod. 12. 45. and Lev. 22. 10.

Vers. 5. And surely your blood] This the Greek translateth, For even your blood: so making it a cause and reason of the former prohibition. of your souls] that is, your life blood, whereby your persons are kept alive. Or, of your souls, that is, of yourselves; meaning, that whoso killeth himself, God will require his blood at his own hands, and judge him as a murderer. So the Jews expound these words: Maimonides in Misn. tom. 4. treat. of Murder, chap. 2. S. 3. require] or, seek out; and consequently punish, as Gen. 42. 22. Hereupon God is called the requirer (or seeker out) of bloods, Psalm. 9. 13. and so the punisher. For where Moses saith in Deut. 18. 19. I will require it of him: Peter expoundeth it, he shall be destroyed from among the people, Act. 3. 23. every beast] So God ordained in the law, that the beast which killed a man, should be put to death; Exod. 21. 28. But the Jews apply this against such men as procure their neighbors death by any wild beast: Maimonides in the foresaid place. of every man's brother] this the Chaldee translateth, of the man that shall shed his brothers blood. By brother, is meant any other man, (as the next verse showeth:) for God made all man-kind of one blood, Act. 17. 26. The Jew Doctors understand this of such as lend or hire another man to kill their neighbor, Maimonides ibidem.

Vers. 6. He that sheddeth, &c.] meaning willfully: for he that killed his neighbor unawares: his life was provided for by the law, in Num. 35. 11. by man shall his blood be shed] that is, by the Magistrate; whose power is here stablished, for killing all willful murderers: as the Chaldee expresseth it, saying, with witnesses by sentence of the Judges, shall his blood be shed. This was one of the seven commandments given to the sons of Noah, forementioned. And this accordeth with the law, Num. 35. 29. 30. but private men may not use the sword, Mat. 26. 52: Rom. 73. 4. image of God] and so the injury is not only to man, but to God him-self. The image of God in men, is defaced by sin; but not wholly: and man's nature having a soul spiritual, understanding, immortal, &c. still remaineth, wherein part of God's image is yet to be seen in man. So the Apostle useth a like reason against the cursing of men, I am. 3. 9. And the law after commandeth, that no satisfaction should be taken for the life of a murderer, which was guilty of death, Num. 35. 31. yea (as the Jew Doctors write) though he could give all the riches in the world, and though the avenger of blood were willing to free him, yet he was to be put to death, because the soul (or life) of the party murdered, is not the possession of the avenger of blood, but the possession of the most holy God, Maimonides, treat of Murder. chap. 1. S. 4.

Vers. 11, to destroy] Hebr. to corrupt: the Greek saith, to corrupt all the earth. This showeth that the covenant was against the universal drowning of the world, not but that some particular countries may so perish. Also by saying a flood, he reserveth other means to consume the whole world, as by fire, 2 Pet: 3. 7. 10. See the notes on Gen. 8. 21.

Vers. 12. is the sign] or shall be the token. The use of a sign, is to confirm men's faith in God's promises, Isaiah 7. 11. and 38. 7. 22. do give] or, am giving; that is, do put, or set: as the holy Ghost translateth giving, Isaiah 42. 1. by putting, Mat. 12. 18. So in the Hebrew, that is expressed by the word set, 1 King. 10. 9. which elsewhere is written given, 2 Chron. 9. 8. See Gen. 1. 17. And the Chaldee, for between me and you, saith, between my word and you: as oftentimes for the Lord, he putteth his Word; by which name Christ is called, John. 1. 1. in whom all God's promises are yea & Amen: 2 Cor. 1. 20

Vers. 13. my bow] that which we call the Rain-bow, because it is in the cloud in the day of rain, Ezek. 1. 28. which God calleth his, for the wonderfulness thereof, and for the sacramental sign by his special ordinance. The Heathen Poets therefore called it Thaumantias, as being the work of the wonderful God. It is called a bow, for the likeness: and hath many colors, partly waterish, and partly fiery; to put us in mind both of the watery flood, whereby the old world perished, and of the fire, wherewith the world that now is shall be burnt, Job 22. 15. 16. 20. 2 Pet. 3. 5. 6. 7. 10. And as the bow is an instrument of war, and so used in Scripture for a sign of wars, Gen. 48. 22. Ps. 7. 13. Lam. 3. 12 Zach. 9. 10. Rev. 6. 2. so the rain-bow naturally signifieth waters in the clouds, but is made of God a sign that the waters shall no more drown us: and though he seemeth to bend his bow like an enemy, (Lam. 2. 4.) yet in wrath he remembereth mercy. I have given] or, do give: for which the Greek saith, I do put. As the covenant made with Noah concerning the waters, is applied to the spiritual covenant made with us in Christ, Isaiah 54. 9. 10. so the rain-bow, (the sign of that covenant) is also applied for the sign of grace from God to his Church, Rev. 4. 3. and 10. 1. Ezek. 1. 28 the earth] that is, all people in the world: See Gen. 11. 1.

Vers. 14. when I make cloudy the cloud] that is, when I bring many thick and watery clouds: which naturally signify store of rain, 1 King. 18. 44. 45. Therefore clouds are often used in Scripture to denote afflictions and dangers unto men, as Ezek. 30. 3. 18. & 32. 7. & 34. 12. Soph. 1. 15. Joel 2. 2. the bow shall be seen] the use whereof is, on God's part, to remember his covenant, (as the next verse showeth) and on men's part, that they rest in faith upon his promise, that he will no more drown the world. Hereupon it is a custom amongst the Jews, that when any seeth the bow in the cloud, he blesseth God, that remembereth his covenant, and is faithful therein, and stable in his promise. Maimonides treat, of Blessings, ch. 10. S. 16. So Ben Sirach saith, look upon the Rainbow, and praise him that made it, Ecclus. 43. 11.

Vers. 18. Cham] or Ham: Ch, is to be pronounced, not as we commonly do in the word chamber, but as in the name Christ; as if it were written Cam. And so in other proper names, written after this manner: as Chaldea, or Caldea; Canaan, or Canaan, and the like. father of Canaan] called in Hebrew Cenaghnan. And though Cham was father of many moe sons, Gen. 10. 6. yet Canaan only is named, because he was cursed, as here followeth in verse. 25.

Vers. 20. began to be] This speech doth not necessarily import as if he had never been an husbandman before; but that now after the Flood, he was one: as of Christ it is written, he began to say, Luke 12. 1. that is, he said, Mat. 16. 6. he began to cast out, Mar. 11. 15. that is, he did cast out, Mat. 21. 12. and of others, they began to disdain, Mark. 10. 41. that is, they disdained, Mat. 20. 24. and sundry the like. a husband man] or lands man: in Hebrew, a man of the ground; that is, giving him-self to husbandry or tillage: as the Chaldee saith, working in the earth: so a man of war, is a soldjer, Ios. 5. 4. a man of blood, is a murderer, 2 Sam. 16. 7. a man of cattle, is a shepherd, or grasier, Gen. 46. 32. a man of words, Exod. 4. 10. that is, eloquent.

Vers. 21. he uncovered himself] that his shame and nakedness was to be seen: which showeth, that wine is a mocker, Prov. 20. 1. and to be drunk therewith is a riotous excess, Ephes. 5. 18. This fell out (in likelihood) some years after his coming out of the Ark, as appeareth by the increase of his children's children: after Canaan was borne. Noes sin may be compared with Adams, who transgressed by eating, as Noah doth by drinking the fruit of a tree: upon that, Adam saw himself naked, and was ashamed; upon this, Noah is naked, and his shame discovered. Now, by drinking the fruit of the vine, we have a sign and seal of the covering of our shame, the forgiveness of our sins in Christ: Mat. 26. 27 28. 29. Upon this similitude of Noes sin with Adams in part, the Rabbin's say, that Noah found a vine, that was cast out of the garden of Eden: R. Menachem on Gen 9.

Vers. 22. he told it] and this (as the sequel showeth) with a mockage of his aged father. [unspec 22]

Vers. 23. Sem] in that Sem the younger is named before his elder brother Japheth, and after blessed before and above him, verse. 26. 27. it is most likely, that he was principal in this good counsel and work.

Vers. 24. his younger son] which the Hebrew calleth lesser, meaning in years. [unspec 24]

Vers. 25. Cursea be Canaan] or Cursed shall he be. It is thought of some, that Canaan told Cham his father, of Noes nakedness; and therefore had this curse upon him and his posterity, rather than the other sons of Cham, mentioned in Gen. 10. 6. or then Cham himself. And although by Canaan, may be understood or implied Canaans father, (as the Greek translation hath Cham, and as elsewhere in Scripture Goliath is named, for Goliaths brother, 2 Sam. 21. 19. compared with 1 Chr. 20. 5.) yet the event and history after showeth, that the Canaanites also were indeed under this curse, when the Israelites conquered their land. And that Noah pronounced this judgment by God's spirit. But Cham is not exempted hereby from the curse, although his son be named: as Sem is not exempted from the blessing in the next verse, where Jehovah his God is named. So Jacob is said to bless Joseph, Gen. 48. verse. 15. when Joseph's children had their blessing, verse 16, &c. And the curse of the wicked, reacheth unto the fruit of their body, Deut. 28. 18. a servant of servants] that is, a most base and vile servant: the Chaldee saith, a working servant: Canaans name did also portend his condition, being of Canagh to humble, bow, or press down. And as servitude is here brought upon men for a curse, so the Scriptures under the name of servants signifying sinful men, do shut such out from the kingdom of God; John. 8. 34. 35. Gal. 4. 30. 31. Among the Heathens also, such an estate was counted miserable: God taketh away half the understanding of those men that are brought into servitude: saith Plato in his 6 book of Laws, from Homer.

Vers. 26. the God of Sem] under this, Sem also himself receiveth a blessing, for, blessed is the people whose God Jehovah is, Psal. 144. 15. and eternal life is implied herein, for God hath prepared for them a City, of whom he is not ashamed to be called their God, Heb. 11. 16. and Sem is the first man in Scripture, that hath expressly this honor. By the God of Sem, also may be meant Christ, who came of Sem, according to the flesh; but is also God over all blessed forever, Amen, Rom. 9. 5. Sem by interpretation is a Name, (which is also used for renowme, Gen. 6. 4.) and Christ hath a name above every name, whereat all knees bow, Phil. 2. 9. 10. servant to them] or, to him: that is, to Sem, and Japheth, and specially to Sem: the Hebrew signifieth both them and him. So in the verse following: the Chaldee translateth, to them: the Greek, his servant.

Vers. 27. persuade] or, shall persuade: or (as the Greek and Chaldee translate it) enlarge. The original word properly signifieth to persuade, entice, or allure, by fair and kind words, and is applied to God's drawing of men unto him by the Gospel, Hos. 2. 14. and in the Hebrew there is allusion to his name, Iaphth le Iepheth: Persuade the persuasible: It meaneth by fair alluring words to persuade unto faith and obedience: and so is a prophesy or prayer, that the Gentiles which come of Japheth, should be brought to the faith of the Gospel. This word of persuading, is often used for drawing men to Christ, Act. 17. 4. and 18. 4. and 19. 8. and 28. 23. 24. and it is the special work of God, John. 6. 44. Act. 11. 18. Inlarging also, is not only of roomth to dwell in (which may be implied in this blessing of Japheth, who had moe sons then either Cham, or Sem) but oftentimes of the heart by wisdom, love, and comfort; as in 1 King. 4. 29. 2 Cor. 6. 11. Esa. 60. 5. But it is another Hebrew word in those places. he may dwell] or, and he shall dwell in the tents of Sem: that is, be united with the Churches of the Jews, (the posterity of Sem) which was fulfilled when the Gentiles became joint heirs, and of the same body, and joint partakers of God's promise in Christ, the stop of the partition wall being broken down, &c. Ephes. 3. 6. and 2. 14. 19. Although it may further imply the grafting of Iapheth's children into the stock of the Church, when Shem's posterity, the Jews, should be cut off, as Paul showeth in Rom. 11. 11. 12. 15. 17. &c. So the Reubenites are said to dwell in the Hagarims tents, after the Hagarims were subdued and fallen, 1 Chron. 5. 10. The Church of Christ, is here and often called Tents, (or Tabernacles) which are a flitting and movable dwelling, because such is our estate on earth; here we have no continuing City, but we seek one to come, which hath foundations, &c. Heb. 13. 14. and 11. 9. 10. So, the tents of Judah, Zach. 12. 7. signify the Church; and the tents of Jacob, Mal. 2. 12. and the tents of the Saints, Rev. 20. 9. The Hebrew Doctors have gathered from this prophesy, that they should speak in Iapheth's tongue,

(which in the ages following was the Greek) within the tents of Sem: Talmud Hierosol. in Megilah. This was fulfilled by the Apostles speaking and writing the Gospel in Greek.

Vers. 29. he died] in the year from the worlds creation 2006. and did see Tharah the father of Abram, the tenth generation after him, before his death.

CHAP. X.

1, The generations of Noes three sons after the Flood. 2, The sons of Japheth: 6; The sons of Cham: 8, amongst whom is Nimrod, the mighty hunter, and King; 15, and the twelve families of Canaan, 19, the borders of their land. 21, The sons of Sem, father of the Hebrews.

And these are the generations of the sons of Noah; Sem, Cham, and Japheth: and unto them were borne sons after, the Flood. The sons of Japheth, Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Iavan, & Th 〈...〉 and Meshec, and Thiras. And the sons of Gomer, Ascanaz, and Riphath, and Thoga 〈...〉 . And the sons of Iavan, Elisa and Tharsis, Kitim, and Dodanim. Of these were the Iles of the nations divided, in their lands; every man after his tongue; after their families in their nations.

And the sons of Cham; Cush and Mizraim, and Phut and Canaan. And the sons of Cush; Seba and Havilah, and Sabtah and Regmah and Sabtaca: and the sons of Regmah, Sheba and Dedan. And Cush begat Nimrod: he began to be a mighty-one, in the earth. He was mighty in hunting, before Jehovah: therefore it is said; As Nimrod, mighty in hunting, before Jehovah. And the beginning of his Kingdom was Babylon; and Erech, and Acad and Chalneh: in the land of Shinar. Out of that land went-forth Assur: and he built Nineveh, and Rechoboth the city, and Calach. And Resen, between Nineveh and Calach: the same is a great City. And Mizraim, begat the Ludims, and the Anamims, and the Lehabims, and the Naphthuchims. And the Pathrufims, and the Casluchims, (from whence came out the Philistines,) and the Caphthorims.

And Canaan, he begat Sidon his first-borne, and Cheth. And the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgasite. And the Evite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite. And the Arvadite, and the Samarite, and the Chamathite: and afterward were the families of the Canaanite spread abroad. And the border of the Canaanite was from Sidon; as thou comest to Gerar, unto Gaza: as thou comest to Sodom and Gomorrhah, & Admah, and Seboim, unto Lashah. These are the sons of Cham; after their families, after their tongues: in their lands, in their nations.

And there was borne also to Sem himself: the father of all the sons of Heber; the brother of Japheth, the elder. The Ionnes of Sem, Elam, and Assur: and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram. And the sons of Aram: Vz and Chul, and Gether and Mash. And Arphaxad begat Salah: and Salah begat Heber. And unto Heber were borne two sons: the name of the one Phaleg, for in his days was the earth divided; and the name of his brother, Ioktan. And Ioktan begat Almodad, and Saleph: and Chasarmaveth, and Iarach. And Hadoram and Vzai, and Diklah. And Obal, and Abimael and Sheba. And Ophir and Chavilah, and Iobab: all these, were sons of Ioktan. And their dwelling was from Mesha: as thou goest to Sephar, a mount of the east. These are the sons of Sem; after their families, after their tongues: in their lands, after their nations. These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations: and from these were the nations divided, in the earth, after the Flood.

Annotations.

The generations] that is, the children begotten of Noes three sons: by whom three parts of the world were inhabited; Asia by Shem posterity; Africa by Chams; and part of Europe, with Asia the less, by Iaphets.

Vers. 2. Japheth] the eldest of the three brethren, verse. 21. He is renowned in the ancient Greek writings, called Iapetos; of him many things are fabled by the Poets; and his posterity called Iapetionides, by Hesiod, and others. Gomer] in Greek Gamer: of him came a people still called by their fathers name in Ezekiel's days; seated Northward from the land of Canaan: who did help to afflict the Jews, after their return out of Babylon, Ezek. 38. 6. They are of Greek Geographers called Kimmerioi (Kimmerites) a people beyond Thracia. Josephus (in his Antiquities) saith, the Galatians, were of old named Gomerites. The Kimmerites, (or Cimmerians) afterward degenerated into the name of Cimbrians. Magog] of him also came a people and country so named, which were enemies to God. people, Ezek. 38. 2. and 39. 6. Revel. 20. 8. those that are now called Scythians, (or Sarmatians) are thought to be of his race: Joseph. Antiq. b. 1. c. 7. which Scythians dwelt in Coesyria. Madai] the father of the people called Medes, into whose Cities the Israelites were led captives, 2 King. 8. 11. They with Paras (the Persians,) overcame the Babylonians, Isaiah 13. 17. and 21. 2. Ier. 51. 11. Dan. 5. 28. 31. and 6. 8. That people is also mentioned in Act. 2. 9. Iavan] in Greek Iouan; of him came the people called Iones, that is, Greeks: which are mentioned by the name Iavan, in Ezek. 27. 13. Isaiah 65. 19. Dan. 8. 21. and 10. 21. Unto them the Israelites were sold for bond-men, Joel 3. 6. They were called Greeks, of one Graekus a King. Thubal] in Greek Thobel: his children were still called by his name; used trading with the Tyrians, Ezek. 27. 13. & ayded Gog their Prince, against the people of God, Ezek. 38. 2. 3. The Thobelites, Josephus saith, in his time were called Iberi, Antiq. b. 1. c. 7. they inhabited Spain, and the countries adjoining. Meshec] in Greek Mosoch: of him came the Muscovites, as some think, and the name seemeth to confirm: who removed their dwelling more Northward. Meshec is usually joined with Thubal before mentioned, near whom he was seated: Ezek. 27. 13. and 38. 2 Josephus deriveth from him the Cappadocians: (Antiq. 1. c. 7.) which of old were called Meschines.

Thiras,] of him came the Thracians, and the Greek name Thrax: he is not mentioned again in Scripture, save in the genealogy, 1 Chron. 1. 5. Here are of Japheth reckoned seven sons, which first settled in Asia; and from thence further Northward and West. So in Asia, there are seven Christian Churches of the Gentiles, Rev. 1. 11. Thus Japheth hath been persuaded and enlarged.

Vers. 3. Ascanaz] in Hebrew, Ashehenaz: his land and children retained his name, when they helped the Medes to overthrow Babylon, Ier. 51. 27. Of him the sea between Europe and Asia, was called Axenos Pontos, and after, Euxenos: and his posterity dwelt in Asia, Pontus, & Bythinia, (mentioned in 1 Pet. 1. 1.) where is the river Ascanius. The Jews now commonly call Germany, Ashchenaz: and others with them derive from it die Ascanes, and Tuiscones that is the Dutch-men. But the Jerusalem Chaldee paraphrase turneth it here Asia. There (in Asia the less) is the country Ascania; and Sicania, named of this man. Riphath] he in 1 Chron. 1. 6. is called Diphath: for the Hebrew letters are like, and so one put sometime for another, as is shown on Gen. 4. 18. Of Riphath, the Riphean mountains in Scythia, seem to have their name. But the holy Scriptures mention him not: as being furthest off from the Jews land. Josephus saith, the Paphlagonians come of him. Thogarma] in Greek, Thorgama: (as the Hebrew it self sometime translatheth letters; Almuggim, 1 King. 10. 11. and Algummim, 2 Chron. 9. 10. Harchas, 2 King. 22. 14. and Chasrah, 2 Chron. 34. 22.) Of this Thogarmahs house and offspring, there is mention in Ezek. 27. 14. and 38. 6. he was seated Northward near Gomer; and the Chaldee paraphrast on Ezekiel, makes his Country Garmamaia, or Germany.

Vers. 4. Elisa] or (as the Hebrew writeth) Elishah: his sons dwelt in Iles and sold blue and purple to the Tyrians, Ezek. 27. 7. Of him came the Greeks called Aeoles, and the country was named Hellas: that is, Greece, as both the name, and Targum Yerushalmi witnesseth. Tharsis] Heb. Tharshish: his children dwelt by the sea, used much shipping and merchandise, Ezek. 27. 12. 25. The country was after named Cicilia, and there was also a famous City called Tarsus, where the Apostle Paul was borne, Act. 21. 39. Whither the Prophet Jonah fled, Ion. 1. 3. The Hebrews call the main Sea Tharsis, Psal. 48. 8. because they usually traffiqued but by that Tharsean Sea. Kitim] the Greek saith, the Ketians: whom the Yerushalmi paraphrast seateth in Italy: and Maketia, that is Macedonia, showeth by the name, that it also came of Ketim. Of this people and country mention is made also in Numb. 24. 24. (where the Chaldee translatheth Romans, the Latin Italy,) Esa. 23. 1. 12 Ier. 2. 10. and Dan. 11. 30. where the Latin translatheth it Romans. Josephus deriveth the Cyprians from Kitim, amongst whom is the City Kition.

Dodanim] written also Rodanim, 1 Chron. 1. 7. and here in Greek Rhodioi. The Rhodeans and Doreans about Greece, seem to come of these. The Scriptures mention not this Dodanim anymore then Thiras, in verse. 2. the *Dodonaean*s in Epirus seem to come of him. Thus Japheth hath seven nephews, as before he had seven sons.

Vers. 5. the Iles] that is, the countries where the nations of Iaphets linage dwelt, in Europe, and the Iles thereof: wherefor although an Ile is strictly used for a little land in the sea, yet often it is largely put for any country or nation there inhabiting; wherefore the holy Ghost translatheth that nations (or Gentiles) Mat. 12. 21. which in Hebrew is Iles, Isaiah 42. 4. every-man] The Hebrew Ish, man, is often put for every-one; and is so translated in Greek by the holy Ghost, Heb. 8. 11. from Ier. 31. 34. See also Gen. 15. 10. their families,] or kindreds: in Greek, their tribes: which word is after in this chapter, and elsewhere, as also in Rev. 1. 7. used for a family, stock, or kindred of any nation. And in the Hebrew, Egypt is said to have tribes, Isaiah 19. 13. of which word, see the notes on Gen. 49. 10. 16.

Vers. 6. Cush] he was father of the Arabians and Ethiopians, or Mores, as the next verse showeth: and where Aethiopia is mentioned in Scripture, the Hebrew name is Cush, Isaiah 37. 9. and often elsewhere; and they are called *Ethiopian*s (according to the Greek name) of their burnt faces and black skin: see Ier. 13. 23. Mizraim] of him came the Egyptians: and the land of Egypt, (so called of the Greek, in Mat. 2. 15. and always in the New Testament:) in the Hebrew by Moses and the Prophets, always called the land of Mizraim. And it is said to have the name Egypt, of one Aiguptos, a King there. But the Arabians and Turks to this day, call that land Mizri: and Cedrenus in Greek nameth it Mestra. See also Gen. 12. 10. and 41. 56. Phut] or, Put; by whose name their children and land was still called in Ezekiel's time, Ezek. 27. 10. and 38. 5. in other writers it is named Libya, there is the river called Phthuth. Ganaan] in Hebr. Cenaghnan; he it was whom Noah cursed, Gen. 9. 25. his country (the land of Canaan) was after given for a possession to the Israelites; famous through all the Scriptures. Palestine, Judea, (or Iewry) Samaria, Galilee, were all parts of this land of Canaan.

Vers. 7. Seba] or, Saba: (as the Greek writeth it) of whom came the Sabaeans, who being mixed afterward with other people's, were thereupon called Arabians, that is, a mixed people: for Arab, (that is, Arabia) 2 Chron. 9. 14. is written also Aereb, 1 King. 10. 15. which properly signifieth a mixed-multitude, as in Exod. 12. 38. Havilah] in Greek Euila: the posterity of this man, with his four brethren following, dwelt near the former Sabaeans, and with others many, caused the name of their large territories to be called Arabie, of the mixture of people's, as before is noted. Sheba] called also in Greek Saba: his posterity dwelt southward, in Ethiopia, a rich land. The Queen of Sheba came from far to hear the wisdom of Solomon, 1 King. 10. 1. in the Gospel she is called Queen of the South, Mat. 12. 42. Dedan] he is mentioned with his seed, among the Merchants, in Ezek. 27. 15. and 38. 13.

Vers. 8. Nimrod] called in Greek Nebrod: so in the Hebrew text, M. and B. are put one for another, as Merodach, Isaiah 39. 1. or Berodach, 2 King. 20. 12. Nimrod signifieth a Rebell, he was the chief builder of Babel. a mighty-one] the Greek calleth him a Giant.

Vers. 9. in hunting:] This the Scripture applieth to hunting of men, by persecution, oppression, tyranny, Ier. 16. 16. Lam. 3. 52. and 4. 18. Prov. 1. 17. 18. And so the Yerushalmi paraphrast here expounds it of a sinful hunting of the sons of men. And Moses in the next verse showeth, how he hunted for a kingdom: which by right pertained not to him, seeing he came of Cham, the youngest of the three brethren, Gen. 9. 24. before Jehovah] that is, mightily, openly, and without fear of God, as Gen. 6. 11. And so as the Lord took notice of his evil. 〈◇〉 it is said] that is, commonly said; and become a proverb against all tyrants and persecutors.

Vers. 10. Babylon] in Hebrew, Babel: which the holy Ghost in Greek calleth Babylon, Rev. 18. 2. A City named of the event, because God there confounded their tongues, and scattered them, Gen. 11. 9.

Shinar] in Greek Senaar: which is by interpretation, (She naar) That which scattered (the inhabitants) out of it, as the like phrase is used in Job 38. 13. and hereof it seemeth to have the name: for otherwise, as all other countries were called by the name of their first possessors, so this was named the land of Nimrod, Mic. 5. 6. But usually it is called Shinar, Gen. 11. 2. 9. and 14. 1. Isaiah 11. 11. Dan. 1. 2. and is noted for the dwelling place of wickedness, Zach. 5. 11. The same land is also called Chaldea, Gen. 11. 28. Ier. 51. 24. 35. Ezek. 23. 16.

Vers. 11. went forth Assur] so the Greek translatheth it: as if Ashur (who was the son of Sem, v. 22.) to avoid Nimrods cruelty, went and built Nineveh, and the other Cities: and so Josephus maketh Assur the builder of Nineveh, Antiq. l. 1. c. 7. But it may also well be translated, he went forth to Assur, that is, to Assyria, a country lying near to Shinar, or Chaldea, having the name of Assur. Thus Nimrod hunted from one land to another, increasing his dominion. So in the Hebrew is to be understood to; as often elsewhere: which the Scripture it self showeth; as the house, 2 Sam. 6. 10. for unto the house, 1 Chron. 13. 13. the land, 2 Sam. 10. 2 for, unto the land, 1 Chron. 19. 2. and many the like.

Nineveh] a great City, famous by the preaching of the Prophet Jonah, Ion. 1. the city] this is added, because Rechoboth signifieth also streets: but here it is the name of a city, which the Greek and Chaldee versions do confirm: as also Gen. 36. 37.

Vers. 13. the Ludims] that is, Lud and his posterity; so after Anam and his posterity. For besides the Hebrew form which is plural, the Greek by article plainly showeth them to be people's, not persons. The man's name seemeth to be Lud, spoken of in Ezek. 27. 10. and 30. 5. Isaiah 66. 19. (where also Lud the son of Sem may be comprehended, Gen. 10. 22.) and his race the Ludims, (or Lydians) in Ier. 46. 9. Lehabims] called Lybians; a people in Africa.

Vers. 14 Philistines] or, Phylistians; a people after much spoken of in Scripture, Judge. 13. and 14. &c. These first dwelt with the Caphtorims, (next mentioned) Ier. 47. 4. and were called by their name, Deut. 2. 23. and from Caphtor, the Lord brought them into Canaan, Amos 9. 7. where they remained uncast out of Israel, to their great trouble.

Vers. 15. Sidon] of him came the Sidonians, and a city in his land was called by his name, great Sidon Ios. 11. 8. and 19. 28. a City renowned also in human writers, for ancientness and fame of the builders thereof: Qu. Curtius l. 4. This was after allotted to Aser, son of Israel; though they failed in not casting out the inhabitants, Judge. 1. 31. Cheth] of whom came the Chethites, or Hittites, Gen. 15. 20.

Vers. 16. the Jebusite] that is (as the Chaldee paraphrast expresseth,) the Jebusites, Amorites, &c. the singular number being put for the plural, as also in Gen. 15. 20. 21. Exod. 3. 8. and 23. 23. and many other places: and the Hebrew text confirmeth this, as in 1 Sam. 5. 6. the Jebusite the inhabitant, for which, in 1 Chron. 11. 4. is written, the Jebusite the inhabitants: which plainly showeth this name to be put for the whole nation. See also before Gen. 3. 2. and 4. 20. Iebus the son of Canaan, in his country was a City called by his name Iebus, and Salem, and last of all Jerusalem, Judge. 19. 10. Gen. 14. 18. 1 Chron. 11. 4. These and their brethren before and after named, dwelt in the land, which God gave the Israelites. the Amorites] who were a mighty people, whose height was like the height of Cedars, and they were strong as oaks, Amos 2. 9. Girgasite] called also Gergesons, Mat. 8. 28. and Gadarenes, Luke 8. 26. who desired Christ to depart out of their coasts, Mat. 8. 34.

Vers. 17. the Evite] Hebr. Chiwite: in Greek Euite, that is, Evites, a people mentioned after, in Gen. 34. 2. and 36. 2. Exod. 3. 8. of them came the Gibeonites, whose lives were spared by Joshua, Ios. 11. 19. The rest which follow, dwelt also in cities near the former; as the Arkite, in Arka by the bottom of mount Lebanon; the Semarite, in Semaraim, which after fell to the Benjamites, Ios. 18. 22. and so the rest.

Vers. 19. Sidon] a City in the North west part of Canaan: the borders of the land which God gave the Israelites, are here briefly described: but purposely and largely in Num. 34. Gaza] a City of the Philistines, Judge. 16. situate in the South-west of Canaan. Sodom] in Hebrew Sedom: of this and the rest, see the history, Gen. 18. and 19. They lay in the South-east part of the land of Canaan.

Vers. 21. there was borne] to weat, an offspring, or children: set down afterward. Such words are often to be understood: as is shown on Gen. 4. 20. sons of Heber] or, of Eber, that is, of God's Church, which (when others fell away) continued in Hebers posterity, of whom came Abram the Hebrew, Gen. 14. 13. and his children were called Hebrews, Gen. 39. 14. 17. Exod. 1. 15. 16. And though Sem were father of many more sons than of Hebers; yet are they counted Shem in special, for retaining his faith and promises: as Rom. 9. 8. So on the contrary, Cham is called the father of Canaan, Gen. 9. 18. who had other sons also, but on Canaan his youngest, was Chams curse visibly executed, Gen. 9. 25. as Shem blessing was on Hebers seed, Gen. 14. 13. 19. brother of Japheth] he was also brother of Cham; but the Scripture calleth them brethren more especially, that are allied also in qualities, as Sem and Japheth for good, Gen 9. 23. 27. Simeon and Levi, for evil, Gen. 49. 5. the elder] or, the great, to weat, in birth: for Japheth was borne before Sem, as is observed in Gen. 5. 32. and the Greek version here plainly showeth that Japheth was the elder. So greater is used for elder, lesser for younger, in Gen. 27. 1. 15. and often in the Scriptures.

Vers. 22. Elam] of whom came the Elamites, which seated in a Province called Elam, in the upper part of Persia, Dan. 8. 2. Isaiah 21. 2. They proved enemies to the sons of Heber, and were for it punished; but in the end obtained mercy, Isaiah 22. 6. Ier. 49. 36. 39. Act. 2. 9. Assur] or, Ashshur: of him came the Assyrians, and their land was named Assyria; much spoken of in the Scriptures: they were the scourge of Israel, Hebers children, 2 King. 15. 19. 29. Isaiah 10. 5. and 36. 1. &c. Arphaxad] or, Arpachshad: he hath no special genealogy, or country in Scripture, but that he is the father of our Lord Christ, after the flesh, Luk. 3. 36

Lud] of whom came the Lydians, a people in Asia, differing from Lud, son of Mizraim, son of Cham, of whom came the Lydians in Africa, near Cush, or Ethiopia. See before, v. 13.

Aram] of whom came the Aramites, that is, (after the Greek) Syrians, enemies also to God's people, Judge. 3. 10. 2 Sam. 8. 5. 6. 1 King. 20. &c. For Aram seating in the land of Shur in Asia, his country is therefore called in the Hebrew by his name, Aram, in the Greek Syria: as of Asshur, cometh Assyria, the New Testament always followeth the Greek name, Luke 4. 27. Mat. 4. 14. Aram's land had many parts, as Padan Aram, Gen. 28. 2. Aram Naharaim, (or Mesopotamia) Gen 24. 10. Aram of Damascus. 2 Sam. 8. 6. Aram Zobah, Psal. 60. 2. Aram Maacah. 1 Chron. 19. 6. and Aram beth Rehob, 2 Sam. 10. 6.

Vers. 24. Salah] Heb. Shelach. [unspec 25]

Vers. 25. Phalee] or Phalee, as Luke 3. 35. in Hebrew Peleg, that signifieth division.

Vers. 20. Ioktan] or Ioktan: of him and his posterity (though here are reckoned many sons) the Scriptures make little mention: but by their names, compared with countries names in human writers, they seem to have seated in the East Indies, and there to have increased to mighty nations: but fallen from the faith of their father Heber, that they are not worthy to be reckoned for his seed.

Chasarmaveth] in Greek Sarmoth: this man's posterity seem to have dwelt in Sarmatia, a great Country beyond Germany, and named (as is like) of this man.

Vers. 27. Hadoram] in Greek Hedorra: of the first part of this name, Hado, some think Hodu, that is India, was so called, Esth. 1. 1.

Vers. 29. Ophir,] in Greek Oupheir: from this man's land in India, Solomon's ships fetched store of fine gold, precious stones, &c. 2 Chron. 9. 10. 13 21. 1 King. 9. 27. 28. and the gold it self was called (by figure of speech) Ophir, Job 22. 24. and in other languages Obruson, and Obryzum, of Ophyrizum, pure gold.

Vers. 30. their dwelling] Hebr. their seat. Mesha] in Greek Massee. Sephar] in Greek Saphera.

Vers. 32. the families] in Greek, the tribes, or kindreds. By this genealogy here, compared with the names of nations in human Writers, it appeareth how God hath made of one blood, all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth: and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation, Act. 17. 26.

CHAP. XI.

1, One Language was in all the world. 3. The building of Babel, 5, for which God sent the confusion of languages. 10, The generations and lives of the second ten Patriarchs; as 11, of Sem, 12, Arphaxad, 14, Salah, 16, Heber, 18, Phaleg, 20, Ragau, 22, Saruch, 24, Nachor, 26, Thara, and Abram; 30, whose wife Sarai is barren. 31, Thara and Abram, remove from Vr of the Chaldees, towards Canaan: but tarry at Charran, where Thara dieth.

AND all the earth was of one lip; and of one speech. And it was when they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they seated there. And they said every man to his neighbor; Go too, let us make bricks, and burn them with a burning: and they had brick, for stone; and slime had they for mortar. And they said; Go too, let us build us a City, and a Tower, and let the top thereof reach to the heavens; and let us make us a name: lest we be scattered-abroad upon the face of all the earth.

And Jehovah came down, to see the City, and the Tower: which the sons of men built. And Jehovah said; Behold the people is one, and they have all one lip; and this they begin to do: and now, there will not be cut-off from them, anything that they have imagined to do. Go too, Let us go-down, and let us confound there their lip: that they may not hear every-man his neighbors lip. And Jehovah scatteredthem-abroad, from thence, upon the face of all the earth: and they left-off to build the City. Therefore is the name of it called Babel; because there Jehovah confounded the lip of all the earth: and from thence Jehovah scattered-them-abroad, upon the face of all the earth.

These are the generations of Sem; Sem was a hundred years old; and he begat Arphaxad: two years after the flood. And Sem lived, after he begat Arphaxad, five hundred years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Arphaxad lived five & thirty years: and he begat Salah. And Arphaxad lived, after he begat Salah, four hundred years, and three years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Salah lived thirty years: and he begat Heber. And Salah lived, after he begat Heber, four hundred years, and three years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Heber lived four and thirty years: and he begat Phaleg. And Heber lived, after he begat Phaleg, four hundred years, and thirty years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Phaleg lived thirty years: and he begat Ragau. And Phaleg lived, after he begat Ragau, two hundred years, and nine years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Ragau lived two and thirty years: and he begat Saruch. And Ragau lived, after he begat Saruch, two hundred years, and seven years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Saruch lived thirty years: and he begat Nachor. And Saruch lived, after he begat Nachor, two hundred years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Nachor lived nine & twenty years: and he begat Tharah. And Nachor lived, after he begat Tharah, an hundred years, and nineteen years: and begat sons and daughters.

And Tharah lived seventy years: and he begat Abram, Nachor, and Haran. And these are the generations of Tharah; Tharah begat Abram, Nachor, and Haran: and Haran begat Lot. And Haran died, before the face of Tharah his father: in the land of his nativity, in Vr of the Chaldees. And Abram and Nachor took them wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; and the name of Nachors wife, Milcah; the daughter of Haran the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah. And Sarai was barren; she had no child. And Tharah took Abram his son; and Lot the son of Haran, his sons son; and Sarai his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram his son: and they went forth with them, from Vr of the Chaldees; to go to the land of Canaan; and they came unto Charran, and dwelt there. And the days of Tharah were two hundred years, and five years: and Tharah died in Charran.

Annotations.

The earth] that is, the inhabitants of the earth, all nations: Such words, easy to be understood, are often wanting: the Scripture it self sometime maketh them plain; as, will God dwell on the earth? 1 King. 8. 27. that is, with men on the earth: 2 Chr. 6. 18. and, all lands and their land, Isaiah 37. 18. is expounded, nations and their land, 2 King. 19. 17. all the earth sought to see Solomon, 1 King. 10. 24. that is, all the Kings of the earth, as is expressed 2 Chron. 9. 23. See Gen. 6. 11. and 27. 46. of one lip,] that is, (as Targum Yerushalmi expoundeth it,) of one tongue, or language. The like is in verse. 6. and 7. So lips are languages, 1 Cor. 14. 21. one speech] or, the same words. This speech was Hebrew, (which after the confusion remained in Hebers family) as the names of men do plainly confirm. So the Yerushalmi Targum here saith, they spake in the holy tongue, wherewith the world was created at the beginning. And this Hebrew tongue Adam and all the Patriarchs spake, and Moses and the Prophets wrote the oracles of God in it: and it was used of all the world, the space of seventeen hundred, and fifty seven years, till Phaleg son of Heber was borne, and Babel tower in building; which was an hundred years after the flood, Gen. 10. 25. and 11. 9. After that, it was in use among the Hebrews, or Jews, (called therefore the Jews-language, Isaiah 36. 11.) until they were carried captive into Babylon: where the holy tongue ceased from common use among men, and mixed Hebrew came in place. So now of a long time, none in the world speaketh naturally the language of Adam, and of the old world; but it is gotten with study and learning. This great labor hath God laid on the sons of man.

Vers. 2. Shimar] or Senaar, which was also named Chaldea, and (as the Chaldee paraphrast translatheth it) Babylon; the land of Nimrod: see before, Gen. 10. 10. Targum Yerushalmi calleth it Pontus.

Vers. 3. Go too] or, Come on: Hebr. give: a word of exhortation. So verse. 4. and 7. make] or, form as bricks. with a burning] or, to a burning: that is, thoroughly, or as the Greek saith, with fire. Thus wanting stones, they devised matter to make their cursed building. slime] a kind of natural lime, that was found there in pits and rivers, which served for building, as well or better then artificial mortar. In Hebrew, the words differ but little, they had chemer (natural lime) for chomer (artificial lime, or mortar.) So Gen. 14. 10. Compare herewith the heavenly Jerusalem, whose walls are garnished with all precious stones Rev. 21. 19. 1 Pet. 2. 5

Vers. 4. the top] Hebr. the head, and here the word reach, or the like, is to be understood; for so the Scripture oft speaketh with brevity: as, the ark under curtains, 1 Chron. 17. 1. that is, remaining under curtains, 2 Sam. 7. 1. the men of war, by night, 2 King 25. 4. that is, fled by night, Ier. 52. 7. and many the like. See Gen. 13. 9. and 23. 13. And by the head reaching to heaven, is meant a very high tower; as Deut. 1. 28. Mat. 11. 23. and Babylon afterwards used like proud speeches, Isaiah 14. 13. 14. a name] meaning a great name, to be renowned and famous: as where one Prophet saith, I have made thee a name, 1 Chron. 17. 8. another explaineth it, a great name, 2 Sam. 7. 9. See also 2 Sam. 8. 13. This word name, is sometime put for God himself, Lev. 24. 11. 16. whose name is a strong tower, into which the righteous runneth, and is set aloft, Prov. 18. 10. and to walk in his name, is to keep his faith and true religion, Mich. 4. 5. contrary to which, some do think this tower of Babel was built; as R. Menachem on this place citeth some that said, Name here meaneth nothing but Idolatry. And Targum Yerushalmi expoundeth this building, to be partly for religion, partly for munition in time of war; saying, Let us build us a City and Tower, &c. and let us make for us within it, a house of worship, (or Temple.) lest we, &c.] a fear arising from their own guilty consciences, as is often in the wicked, Job 15. 20. 21. Lev. 26. 36. Prov. 28. 1.

Vers. 5. came down] that is, shown by his works, that he took knowledge of this evil to punish it. This is spoken of God after the manner of men: so Gen. 18. 21. Psal. 144. 5. See the notes on Gen. 6. 6 The Chaldee explaineth it thus; And the Lord appeared to take vengeance upon the works of the City and Tower.

Vers. 6. there will not be cut off from them] that is, they will not be restrained: so noting their willful persisting in the evil begun. Or question-wise thus, should they not be cut off? (or restrained?) meaning it was very meet they should.

Vers. 7. Let us go down] The holy Trinity here determineth, (as when in Gen. 1. 26. he said, Let us make man;) against the former determination of vain men, verse. 4. So he dissipateth the counsel of the nations, Psal. 33. 10. not hear] that is, not understand: so in 1 Cor. 14. 2. he speaketh not unto men, for no man heareth: that is, understandoth: and in Isaiah 36. 11. Speak, Syriac, for we hear; that is, understand it: so a hearing heart, for an understanding, 1 King. 3. 9. Joseph heard, that is, understood, Gen. 42. 23. and sundry the like. Albeit, God might at first smite them all with deafnesse, that they could not at all hear; and then change their tongues. A like judgment David wisheth against his enemies, Psal. 51. 10.

Vers. 8. scattered] and so dissolved their communion, and brought on them the evil which they sought to prevent, verse. 4. for, that which the wicked feareth, shall come upon him, Prov. 10. 24. The Hebrew Doctors from hence do conclude, The generation of the division (of tongues) have no part in the world to come, (that is, in the kingdom of heaven) as it is written: And the Lord scattered them from thence, &c. The Lord scattered them in this world; and from thence the Lord scattered them in the world to come. Talmud Bab. in Sanhedr. ch. 10. left off to build] the contrary miracle God wrought by the gift of tongues, to build up Jerusalem, Act. 2. 4. 6. 11. &c.

Vers. 9. Babel] or Babylon, in the Greek translated Confusion: because there the Lord (Balal, that is,) Confounded their language: And Babel is the same that Balbel, but for ease of speech the first l is left out: and it accordeth with the Chaldee or Baby lonian tongue, which soundeth the Hebrew Balal, Balbel, as the Chaldee paraphrast here hath it. lip of all the earth] that is, language of all people on the earth: see verse 1. And here tongues first were for a sign to unbelievers, (as 1 Cor. 14. 22.) that by this judgment they might be converted unto the Lord; though they made no such use thereof, as neither did those that mocked at the gift of tongues whereby the heavenly City was built, Acts 2. 4.—13. The Hebrew Doctors say, that at this dispersion there were seventy nations, with seventy sundry languages, R. Menachem, on Gen. 11.

Vers. 10. old] Hebr. sox, and so in the rest that follow. See the notes on Gen. 5. 32. and compare this genealogy with that there. Ten Patriarchs are there reckoned from Adam to Noah; and ten here, from Sem to Abraham: both of them proceeding with the lineage of our Lord Christ, who came of all these fathers according to the flesh, Luke 3. There each fathers generation is set down in three verses, here but in two: and their death is not spoken of. Howbeit the lives of men, are now shortened to the half.

Vers. 11. 500 year] By this we may gather, that Sem lived till Isaac son of Abram was fifty years old, and saw ten generations after him before he died. A singular blessing both to him and them.

Vers. 12. begat Salah] or, Shelach: and as the holy Ghost counted the time of Arphaxads birth, two years after the flood; verse. 10. so may we gather it for all the rest: as Sala was borne 37 years after the flood, and after the creation of the world, 1693 The Greek translation inserteth here, a man which never was, by the Hebrew verity, saying that Arphaxad begat Kainan: and that Kainan lived 130 years, and begat Sala. Also the time of each fathers procreation, is for the most part changed in the Greek. This seemeth to be done purposely: that the true genealogy might not be known to the heathen, for whom the Greek Bible was first translated. And because in all Greek Bibles Kainan was set down: the Evangelist also, (to bear with the worlds weakness, or for other causes seeming good to the Spirit of God, reckoneth Kainan between Arphaxad and Sala, in Luke 3. 36. But neither here, nor in 1 Chron. 1. nor in any Hebrew text, in his name recorded. See a like thing in Gen. 46. 20.

Vers. 14. begat Heber] after the flood, 67 years, in the year of the world 1723.

Vers. 16. begat Phaleg] or, Peleg: after the flood 101 y. and of the world, 1757.

Vers. 17. 430 year] So Heber lived till Abraham was dead, Gen. 25. 7. and was the longest liver of all that were borne after the flood; and they that came after him, lived not past half his days.

Vers. 18. begat Ragau] or Rehu: after the flood 131 y. and of the world, 1787.

Vers. 20. begat Saruch] or Serug: after the flood 163 y. and of the world, 1819.

Vers. 22. thirty year] at the same age, Phaleg and Salah, are before noted to have begotten their sons. begat Nachor] after the flood 193. and of the world 1849.

Vers. 24. begat Tharah] or Terach: after the flood 222 y. and of the world, 1878.

Vers. 26. begat Abram, Nachor, and Haran] that is, began to beget: and so begat one of these three (to weet Haran) not all in the same year: The like was before in Noes begetting Sem, Cham, and Japheth, Gen. 5. 32. where Sem for dignity was named first, as Abram is here; and Japheth the eldest, last, as Haran is here. For Tharah the father, died 205 years old, verse. 32. then Abram departed from Charran, 75 year old, Gen. 12. 4. wherefor Abram was borne, not when Tharah was 70 but when he was 130 year old, which was after the flood. 352 year, and of the world 2008.

Vers. 28. land of his nativity] that is, his native country: or, as the Greek saith, wherein he was borne. Vr of the Chaldees] that is, Vr in the land of the Chaldeans; which land Stephen calleth also Mesopotamia, Act. 7. 2. 4. for it lay between two rivers. And Chaldea is by human writers also called Mesopotamia, Plin. hist. b. 6. c. 27. Vr signifieth Light and Fire: here the Chaldee paraphrast taketh it to be the name of a City, but the Greek translateth it a Country: and Stephen in Act. 7. 4. saith, the land of the Chaldeans. And the Chaldees being idolaters, in likelihood consecrated and named this place unto and of the Fire, which they had seen to come down from heaven upon the Fathers sacrifices, (as is noted on Gen. 4. 4.) and whereof they were wont to light lamps for to keep the fire, which thereupon they called Orimasda, lights of grace. So other heathens after used to honor fire, as Qu. Curtius, b. 4. saith of Darius, that he called upon the sacred and eternal Fire. Or it might be a place of sacrificing in Chaldea, as God had his Vr (that is, Fire) in Zion, and Fornace in Jerusalem, Isaiah 31. 9 So the Yerushalmi paraphrast calleth it here, the fiery furnace of the Chaldees. Chaldees] or Chaldeans: called in Hebrew Chasdim, and s tunred into l, maketh Chaldim: the holy Ghost in Greek (whom we follow) calleth it so, Chaldees, Act. 7. 4. And because they much used Astrology, therefore in time it was common for Astrologers to be called Chaldeans, as in Dan. 2. 2. 4. 5.

Vers. 29. Sarai] she was daughter of Abram's father, though not of his mother, Gen. 20. 12. her name was changed to Sarah, as Abram also was named Abraham: see Gen. 17. 15. 5. daughter of Haran] by this also it appeareth, that Haran was eldest of the three brethren. And this Milcah (or Melcha, as the Greek writeth her) was grandmother to Rebecca, Isaac's wife, Gen. 22. 20. 23. Ischa,] in Greek Iescha; the Jews think this was Sarai, and that she had two names: and was said to be daughter of Tharah, Gen. 20. 12. as being his grandchild.

Vers. 31. Tharah took Abraham,] It appeareth by Ios. 24. 2. that these fathers were fallen to idolatry, and served other gods in Chaldea or Mesopotamia: and there the God of glory appeared to Abram, and said, Come thou forth from thy land, and from thy kindred: and come into the land which I will show thee, Act. 7. 2. 3. whereas therefore Tharah here took Abram, &c. it seemeth Abram acquainted his father with this oracle of God, and that Tharah repenting, consented also to go out; and is for it made as principal in the journey. with them] that is, with Tharah and Abram, whom Moses by this word them, implieth to be author under God of this removal towards Canaan, agreeable to Stephens narration, Act. 7. as is before noted. Wherefore also in Gen. 15. 7. and Neh. 9. 7. it is manifested that the calling was specially of Abram. And his faith is particularly commended, Heb. 11. 8 dwelt] or, seated there: that is, dwelt in Charran: as Act. 7. 2. where Abram got substance, and made souls, Gen. 12. 5. and tarried there till his father Thara died, Act. 7 4. whose old age seemeth to be the cause of their staying in that place. And this Charran was in the land of Chaldea also, and not far from Vr: wherefore God again called Abram thence, Gen. 12. 1. And although there was a nearer way from Vr to Canaan, then to go by Charran, (as in the maps of those countries may be seen:) yet because the nearest way was most dangerous and troublesome, God led them about by an inhabited and safe way, providing so for their infirmities, as he did the like after, for Abram's children, in Exod. 13. 17. 18.

CHAP. XII.

1, God calleth Abram to go into another land, 2, promiseth to bless him, and in him, all families of the earth. 4, Abram departeth with Lot, from Charran to Canaan. 6, He journeyeth through the Land, 7, which is promised him in a vision; and there he buildeth Altars. 10, He is driven by a famine into Egypt. 11, Fear maketh him say his wife to be his sister. 14, For her beauty she is taken into King Pharaohs house; 17, but the Lord by plagues compelleth him to restore her.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 .

AND Jehovah said unto Abram; Go thou, from thy land, and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers house: unto the land, which I will show thee. And I will make thee a great nation; and I will bless thee; and will make thy name great: and be thou a blessing. And I will bless them that bless thee; and him that speaketh thee evil, I will curse: And blessed shall be in thee, all families of the earth. And Abram went, as Jehovah spake unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy years and five years old, when he went-out from Charran. And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brothers son, and all their substance that they had gathered, & the souls which they had made in Charran: and they went-out, to go to the land of Canaan; and they came to the land of Canaan. And Abram passed through the land, unto the place of Shechem, unto the Oke of Moreh: and the Canaanite was then in the land. And Jehovah appeared unto Abram, and said, unto thy seed will I give this land: and he built there an altar, to Jehovah, who appeared unto him. And he removed thence, unto a mountain, East-ward of Beth-el, and pitched his tent; having Beth-el Sea-ward, and Al East-ward; and he built there an altar, unto Jehovah; and he called on the name of Jehovah. And Abram journeyed; going and journeying, toward the South.

And there was a famine in the land: and Abram went-down to Egypt, to sojourn there; for the famine was heavy in the land. And it was, when he was come-near, to enter into Egypt; that he said unto Sarai his wife; Behold now I know, that thou art a woman of fair countenance. And it will be when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they will say, this is his wife: and they will kill me, and thee they will save alive. Say I pray thee, thou art my sister; that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee. And it was, when Abram was entered into Egypt: that the Egyptians saw the woman, that she was very fair. And Pharaohs Princes saw her, and they praised her unto Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaohs house. And he did good to Abram for her sake: and he had sheep and oxen, and he asses, and men servants, and women servants, and she asses, and camels. And Jehovah plagued Pharaoh and his house, with great plagues: because of Sarai, Abram's wife. And Pharaoh called Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done to me? Why didst thou not tell me, that she is thy wife? Why saidst thou, she is my sister? and I might have taken her to me to wife: and now, behold thy wife, take her, and go away. And Pharaoh commanded men, concerning him: and they sent away him, and his wife, and all that he had.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 These three letters signify, that here begins the third Parashah or Section of the Law; which upon God's first words to Abram, is called Lec leca, that is, Go thou. See before in chap. 6. 9.

Vers. 1. said] to weet, after that Abram's father was dead, Acts 7. 4. Thus God was he that redeemed Abram, Isaiah 29. 22. Go thou] or, Go for thy self: signify in that though no other would, yet he should for his own good, get him out from that idolatrous place. So God calleth all from such estate. Rev. 18. 4. from thy land] or, out of thy country; that wherein he now dwelt in Charran, which was in the same land of Mesopotamia that Vr stood in, Gen. 24. 10. and 28. 2. 7. 10. compared with Act. 7. 2. Gen. 11. 28. The Hebrew Doctors expound the name Charan, by Charonaph, that is, wrathful anger, (R. Menachem on Gen. 12.) as if he were now to depart from the place of wrath. So we which by nature were children of wrath, (Eph. 2. 3.) are called and chosen of Christ out of this world, and from worldly corruption, John 15. 19. 2 Pet. 1. 4. and are by him delivered from the wrath to come: 1 Thes. 1. 10. thy kindred] to weet, Nachor and the rest, excepting Lot. For although there is no express mention of Nachor, among others that went with Thara from Vr, in Gen. 11. 31. yet it appeareth by the history following, that Nachor went so far as Padan Aram, in Mesopotamia, and there settled: so that it was after called, Nachors City, Gen. 25. 20. and 24. 10. 15. and the same was Charran, Gen. 28. 2. 10. and there was Abram's kindred, and country here spoken of, Gen. 24. 4. fathers house] for the father Thararah being dead, his household (as it seemeth) would go no further, but stayed there with Nachor: and only Lot and his house went with Abram, as the fourth verse, and history following doth confirm. So Tharahs house and Nachor, left following of God, and turned again to idolatry; as appeareth by Gen. 31. 30. 53. Ios. 24. 2. From such Christ also calleth all, to follow him, Luke 14. 26. 27. and so the Spirit saith to the Church, forget thy people and thy fathers house, Psal. 45. 11. will show thee] that is, the land of Canaan, verse 5. but God here nameth it not, for more proof of Abram's faith and obedience. For as he raised up this man of justice from the east; so called he him to his foot, that is, to follow him and his direction, Isaiah 41. 2. Exod. 11. 8. But under this earthly inheritance, was typed an heavenly, which Abram looked for, Heb. 11. 9. 10. And in Salem a city of Canaan, Melchizedek reigned, and was Priest of the most high God, and blessed Abram, Gen. 14. 18. 19.

Vers. 2. a great] or, to a great nation, that is, to become the father of a great nation: see Gen. 2. 7. and 17. 4. Of this promise, there was no visible hope, because Sarai his wife (being 65 year old) was barren, Gen. 11. 30. for which Abram complained, Gen. 15. 2. 3. But under this promised Nation, was implied also a spiritual seed, of faithful people, Rom. 4. 11. 12. Gal. 3. 7. bless thee] in all things: both earthly, Gen. 24. 1. 35. and heavenly, Gal. 3. 14. Ephes. 1. 3. God's blessing is his favor, and thereupon an abundant multiplication of all good things: on the contrary, his curse, is both the depriving of good, and heaping of evil things upon them whom he hateth and punisheth, Lament. 3. 65. 66. thy name] which is better then a good ointment, then great riches, Eccl. 7. 3. Prov. 22. 1. So God made David a great name, 2 Sam. 7. 9. be thou] that is, thou shalt be, (as the Greek translatheth it:) but this mannner of speech is more vehement, as whereby God commandeth the blessing, Psal. 13. 33. So Psal. 128. 5. 6. See thou.

Vers. 3. that speaketh thee-evil] or curseth thee: but here are two words used, and this first, signifieth evil speaking with light esteem, or vile contempt, and dishonor. Cursing also signifieth evilspeaking by men, as Paul showeth, Act. 23. 5. from Exod. 22. 28. The like blessing, Isaac pronounced unto Jacob, Gen. 27. 29. and Balaam to Israel, Num. 24. 9. in thee] that is, in thy seed (Christ, who shall come of thee according to the flesh,) Gen. 22. 18. For Christ was sent of God to bless us, in turning everyone of us from our iniquities, Act. 3. 25. 26. and that we may receive the promise of the Spirit through faith, Gal. 3. 14. Wherefore this was a preaching of the gospel to Abram, Gal. 3. 8. And this covenant confirmed before of God in Christ, is observed to be four hundred thirty years before the Law, and could not by the Law be disanulled, because God gave it him by promise, Gal. 3. 17. 18.

Vers. 4. went] By faith, Abraham being called did obey, to go out unto a place which he should after receive for an inheritance: and he went-out, not knowing whither he should come, Heb. 11. 8. old] Hebr. son of five years, and seventy years, that is, going in his 75 year: See Gen. 5. 32. And his father Tharah being two hundred and five years old when he died, it appeareth that he begat Abram at 130 years, and so not he but Haran was begotten at Tharahs 70 year, Gen. 11. 26.

Abram after an 100 years pilgrimage more, died, Gen. 25. 7. and Isaac his son, then 75 y. old, is left heir of Canaan.

Vers. 5. substance] or, gathered-goods: for of getting and gathering it hath the name: and is a general word for cattle, money, or other like goods. the souls] Hebr. the soul: put for souls, that is, persons of men and women, as Gen. 14. 21. and 46. 26. Rom. 13. 1. and often in the Scripture. So in the Hebrew text, man, 1 Chron. 10. 1. is put for men, 1 Sam. 31. 1. wizard, 2 Chron. 33. 6. for wizards, 2 King 21. 6. See before, Gen. 3. 4. and 4. 20. and 10. 16. The Greek translath, every soul, As here souls, so elsewhere flesh and spirit, (Act. 2. 17. 1. John 4. 1.) are put for the whole persons. had made] that is, had gotten, to weet, into their possession, as the Greek manifesteth. But this may be meant, not only of getting them to their service, (as 1 Sam. 8. 16) but also of winning them to the faith of God; as the Chaldee paraphrast saith, had subdued unto the law: which is very probable by that example of his household soldiers, Gen. 14. 14. and his commendation for teaching his house, Gen. 18. 19. and their receiving the wound of circumcision, Gen. 17. 23. So Targum Yerushalmi also calleth these, souls of proselytes, (or converts) land of Canaan] a country in Asia the less; possessed by Canaan (the son of Cham, the son of Noah) and his sons; but for their wickedness the land was to spew them out, Levite. 18. 25 and it is now promised to be given to Abram's seed, verse. 7. and was thereupon called the land of promise, Heb. 11. 9. a goodly country it was, having water-brooks, fountains, and springing depths, mountains and valleys, and mines; corn, and wine, and oil, & honey, & other fruits; it lacked not anything; it was watered with the rain of heavē, cared for of God, whose eyes were always on it, Deut. 8. 7. 8. 9. & 11. 11. 12. so that it was the pleasantest of all lands, & flowed ⟨◇⟩ milk and honey, Ezek. 20. 6. In it God had prepared a place where he would dwell among his people the sons of Abram, the land being his, and they strangers and sojourners in it with him, Exod. 15. 17. Leviticus 25. 23. called therefore Jehovah's land, Hos. 9. 3. and the holy land, Zach. 2. 12. the land of Immanuel, that is, of Christ, Isaiah 8. 8. a figure of an heavenly country, Heb. 11. 9. 10. the borders of it reached to the great River Euphrates, Gen. 15. 18. And Abram who dwelt beyond the river, (without God's territories) Ios. 24. 2. is now brought of the Lord, into this good land. And the Hebrew Doctors have acknowledged the land to be a figure of heaven, saying, it is written, And thy people shall be all just, they shall inherit the land forever, (Isaiah 60. 21.) this land is a parable, as if he should say, the land of the living, and that is the world to come. Maimonides in treat. of repentance, chap. 3. S. 5. So R. Menachem on Gen. 12. referreth it to the land which is above, watered with waters that are above, &c. And in Talmud Bab. in Sanhedrin. chapt. Chelek, it is written, All Israelites have their portion in the world to come; as it is said, And thy people shall be all just, they shall inherit the land forever.

Vers. 6 passed through,] to survey his land wherein he was but a pilgrim, Heb. 11. 9. Shechem] or Sychem; that is, the place where Sychem after was: of which see Gen. 33. 18. This was about the midst of the country. the oke] that is, the okes, (as it is written in Deut. 11. 30.) meaning a grove or plain set with okes: the Chaldee therefore calleth it a plain: but the Greek, an oke; and it is named in Hebrew, Aelon, of strength. Moreh] this seemeth to be the name of some man, (as after is mentioned the okes of Mamre, Gen. 13. 18.) or of some hill, as in Judge. 7. 1. The Greek translath it, an high oke. Moreh signifieth also a Doctor, Job 36. 22. the Canaanite] that is, Canaanites, as Gen. 10. 16. 18. So the Greek saith, the Chanaanites dwelt in the land. An idolatrous and wicked people, as the Chaldeans from whom Abram came, Deut. 12. 30. 31. So Gen. 13. 7. But when God promiseth the cleansing of his Church, he saith, the Canaanite shall be there no more, Zach. 14. 21.

Vers. 7. thy seed] that is, to all the children of promise (the elect) who only are counted Abraham's seed, Rom. 9. 7. 8. and in Christ are heirs by promise, as well the Gentiles as the Jews, Gal. 3. 26. 28. 29. Therefore the strangers are appointed their lot of inheritance among the Israelites, Ezekiel 47. 22. not in the earthly land, but the heavenly, which Canaan represented, Heb. 11. 9. 10. 14. 16. See Gen. 13. 15. an altar] for sacrifice and thanks to God, (as Gen. 8. 20) who, after his weary travel, had appeared, and comforted him with gracious promises of heirs, and an inheritance: neither of which he had as yet, but only by faith. Thus he believed, and received the promises thankfully: as Heb. 11. 13. and was the son of God, and a light in the mids of a crooked and perverse generation, Phil. 2. 15. Abram is the first man in the world unto whom God is said to appear or be seen: first in Vr of the Chaldees, Acts 7. 2. next here in Canaan.

Vers. 8. eastward,] or on the east of Bethel: a City after called by Jacob Beth-el, that is, God's house: at this time it was named Luz: Gen. 28. 19. his tent] showing by this, that he abode there as in a strange country, Heb. 11. 9. Psal. 105. 12. for a tent is opposed to an house, or settled dwelling, 1 Chron. 17. 1. 5. seaward,] that is, on the West: for because the main sea was the western border of the land of Canaan, Num. 34. 6. Ios. 23. 4. therefore the sea is often put for the West: so Gen. 28. 14. Ex. 10. 19. and 26. 22. Ezek. 48. 1. 2. &c. For like reason, the desert is used for the south, in Psal. 75. 7. A] a city, whereof see Ios. 8. called on] which the Chaldee translath, prayed in the name: it may also signify, preaching in the name of the Lord: for, calling or crying unto God, meaneth prayer, Joel 2. 32. unto men, it is preaching, Isaiah 40. 3. 6. The calling on the name of the Lord, is a sign of true faith and godliness, Rom. 10. 13. 14. 1 Cor. 1. 2.

Vers. 9. going and journeying] that is, continually journeying: see Gen. 8. 3. the south] as towards the Sun: whereby may be figured his progress in faith and grace, as Prov. 4. 18. 2 Cor. 3. 18. So the building of the City which Ezekiel saw in vision, was toward the south: Ezek. 40. 2. The Hebrew Doctors say, that Abraham cleaved unto the condion of mercy, for that is the south of the world; and therefore all Abraham's journeys were towards the south: R. Menachem on Gen. 12. The North on the contrary, figured the place whence evil proceeded, Ier. 1. 13. 14. And thus Abram passed from place to place, till God had brought him through all the land of Canaan, Ios. 24. 3. The Greek translath, camped in the desert. The South (Negeh) is named of Drynesse, for that part of Canaan wanted waters, Judge. 1. 15. Psal. 126. 4. For this, it may be, they translated it desert: so in Gen. 13. 1. 3.

Vers. 10. a famine] a new affliction for Abram also, who was hereby caused to leave his land, and go as a pilgrim to another barbarous country: so walking from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people, Psal. 105. 13. Although Canaan was a most fruitful land, Deut. 8. 7. 8. 9. yet God now made it barren, for the wickedness of them that dwelt therein, Psal. 107. 34. Egypt] called in Hebrew Mizraim, here and always in the Scripture: but in the Greek, the New Testament always hath Egypt. See Gen. 10. 6. And Mizraim is put for the land of Mizraim, by an usual figure of speech; which the holy text sometime manifesteth, as 2 Chron. 5. 10.

when they came from Egypt (or Mizraim) for which in 1 King. 8. 9. is written, the land of Egypt: again there in v. 16. from Egypt: and in 2 Chr. 6. 5. from the land of Egypt.

Vers. 11. now] or, I pray thee: a word not of time, but of request: so ver. 13. and often in the Scripture. of fair countenance] or fair of look, or visage: Sarai was a figure of the new Testament, and of Jerusalem the mother of us all, Galat. 4. 24. 26. That Spouse of Christ is fair, Song 1. 14. and 4. 1.

Ver. 12. that they] Hebr. and they: so after v. 14. but and is often put for that: as the Hebrew text showeth, 1 Chr. 17. 10. and the Lord will build: for which in 2 Sam. 7. 11. is written, that he will. See Gen. 27. 4.

Vers. 13. my soul shall live] that is, I, or myself shall live. The word soul is used for any person. That Sarai was indeed Abram's sister, is after manifested, Gen. 20. 12. yet this fact of his, seemeth to be not without human infirmities.

Vers. 16. Pharaoh] a common name for all the kings of Egypt, from these days of Abram, til after the return out of Babylon, when in the beginning of the Grecian Monarchy, they were called P•olomees. And Pharaoh was an Egyptian title of Sovereignty, Gen. 41. 10. 44. and the Pharaohs had other proper names, as Pharaoh Necho, 2 King. 23. 29. Pharaoh Hophra, Ier. 44. 30. and the like. By interpretation, Pharaoh signifieth free, and an Avenger; the first in respect of himself; the other of his subjects, whom Kings ought to judge, and take vengeance of evil doers, Rom. 13. 4.

Vers. 16. he did good] or, dealt well with: as the Greek translateth, he used well. he had] or, there was to him: such is the Hebrew phrase usually. But the Hebraisine is opened by the holy Ghost: as, There is not to us, Luke 9. 13. that is, we have not, Mat. 14. 17.

Vers. 17. plagued] or touched, stroke Pharaoh with great strokes. This great deliverance David celebrateth, in Psal. 105. 14. He suffered no man to do them wrong, but reprov'd Kings for them.

Vers. 19. and I] or, for I. And, is often instead of For: as, and he heard, Isaiah 39. 1. that is, for he heard, 2 King 20. 12.

Vers. 20. sent away] This word is often used for sending, or conveying away with honor, as Exod. 28. 27. and so with accompanying and bringing them on their way, as the Greek and Chaldee translate it here.

CHAP. XIII.

1, Abram and Lot return out of Egypt into Canaan, 4, where he calleth on the name of the Lord. 5, Lot and Abram being both rich, by disagreement between their herdmen, they part asunder. 10, Lot goeth to wicked Sodom. 14, God reneweth the promises to Abram. 18, He removeth to Hebron, and there buildeth an Altar.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he and his wife, and all that he had; and Lot with him, unto the South. And Abram was very rich: in cattle, in silver, and in gold. And he went on his journeys, from the south, and unto Beth-el: unto the place, where his tent had been at the beginning; between Beth-el and Ai. Unto the place of the altar which he had made there at the first: and there Abram called on the name of Jehovah. And Lot also that went with Abram; he had flocks, and herds, and tents. And the land did not bear them, to dwell together: for their substance was much, that they could not dwell together. And there was a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle, and the herdmen of Lots cattle: and Canaanite and the Pherezite, was then dwelling in the land. And Abram said unto Lot, let there be I pray thee, no strife between me and thee; and between my herdmen, and thy herdmen: for we be men brethren. Is not all the land before thee? Separate thyself I pray thee from me: if (thou wilt take) the left-hand, then I will take the right; and if the right-hand, then I will take the left. And Lot lifted-up his eyes, and saw all the plain of Jordan, that all of it was well-watered: before Jehovah destroyed Sodom and Gomorrhah, (it was) as the garden of Jehovah, as the land of Egypt, as thou comest to Zoar. And Lot chose to him, all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed Eastward; and they were separated, each man from his brother. Abram, he dwelt in the land of Canaan: and Lot, he dwelt in the Cities of the plain; and pitched-tent unto Sodom. And the men of Sodom, were evil and sinners, to Jehovah, exceedingly. And Jehovah said unto Abram, after Lot was separated from him; lift up now thine eyes, and see, from the place where thou art: to the north, and to the south, and to the east, and to the Sea. For all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it: and to thy seed forever. And I will put thy seed, as the dust of the earth: so that if a man be able to number the dust of the earth; thy seed also shall be numbered. Arise, walk through the land; in the length of it, and in the breadth of it: for to thee will I give it. And Abram removed-tent; and came and dwelt in the Okes of Mamree, which is in Chebron: and he built there an altar unto Jehovah.

Annotations.

The south] in Greek, the desert: meaning the southern part of Canaan. (see Gen. 12. 9.) for otherwise Canaan was Northward from Egypt.

Vers. 2. very rich] Hebrew, vehemently weighty (or heavy▪) Which word is applied to weight of burden, as in 1 King. 12. 4. to weight of glory, as in Gen. 31. 1. to weight of multitude of people, as in 2 King. 6. 14. or of cattle, as Exod. 12. 38. and so to all manner of riches; as the Greek here translatheth it rich. Thus God's blessing promised in Gen. 12. 2. was in part performed, for his blessing maketh rich, Prov. 10. 22. Gen. 24. 35. And as Abram now, so his children afterward, returned out of Egypt, with great riches, Exod. 12. 32. 35. 36. 38. These figured the graces of God, as faith, knowledge, and the like, I am. 2. 5. 1 Cor. 1. 5. Colos. 2. 2.

Vers. 4. called there] the Chaldee saith, prayed there. See the notes on Gen. 12. 8. As Abram returned to his first altar, and there served God: so his children after him, were to return to Abram's first faith and service, from the idols of Egypt, wherewith they had been defiled, Exod. 4. 22. 23. Ezek. 20. 7. 8.

Vers. 5. tents] that is, servants dwelling in tents. So Ier. 49. 29. 1 Chron. 4. 41. [unspec 5]

Vers. 6. did not bear] the Greek translatheth, received (or contained) them not; that is, could not contain them, as the words following do explain it. And so the Scripture sometime resolveth this phrase; as, who shall judge? 2 Chron. 1. 10. that is, who can judge? 1 King. 3. 9. It shall not stand, Mat. 12. 25. that is, It cannot stand, Mark 3. 24. This kind goeth not out, Mat. 17. 21. that is, cannot go out, Mar. 9. 29. and sundry the like.

Vers. 7. the Pherezite] that is, Pherezites; as Gen. 12. 6. But of these we heard no mention before: it seemeth they were some family of the Canaanites, Gen. 10. 18. for they dwelt with the Canaanites in that part of the country which after fell to the tribe of Judah, Judge. 1. 3. 4. 5.

Vers. 8. and between my heardraen] that is, or between my heardmen: as he that curseth his father and his mother, Exod. 21. 17. that is, his father or his mother, Mat. 15. 4. So, and the son of man, Psalm. 8. 5. that is, or the son of man, as it is alleged in Heb. 2. 6. men brethren] that is, brethren in faith, as Mat. 23. 8. and natural kinsmen: for Abram was Lots uncle, Gen. 12. 5. So Christ's kinsmen, were called his brethren, 1 Cor. 9. 5. The word men, may be omitted, as sometime the text it self doth: shooters men with bow, 1 Sam. 31. 3. that is, shooters with bow, 1 Chron. 10. 3. So, a man a Prince, Exod. 2. 14. is in Greek but a Prince, Act. 7. 27. man of his counsel, Isaiah 40. 13. that is, his counselor, 1 Cor. 2. 16. Although the Greek often keepeth this Hebraism, as an enemy man, Mat. 13. 28. men sinners, Luke 24. 7. Men brethren, Act. 1. 16. and 2. 29. 37. See also Gen. 38. 1.

Vers. 9. Is not all?] that is, Loe surely it is. A question earnestly affirrueth: as, is it not written? Mar. 11. 17. for, it is written, Mat. 21. 13. do ye not err? Mark. 12. 24. for, ye do err, Mat. 22. 29. and sundry the like. See Gen. 4. 7. before thee] at thy pleasure, to choose, by my permission. So the Lord set the land before the Israelites, Deut. 1. 21. The like is in Gen. 20. 15. and 34. 10. if thou wilt take] or wilt choose. These words are to be understood from the next speech, or from the 11. verse. And Lot chose, &c. Oftentimes words wanting are to be supplied: as, I with Scorpions, 2 Chron. 10. 11. for, I will chastise you with Scorpions, 1 King. 12. 11. Against three hundred, 2 Sam. 23. 8. for, he lift up his spear against three hundred, 1 Chron. 11. 11. and many such like. See Gen. 11. 4. Thus Abram for peace, parted with his right: choosing rather to take wrong, then to contend, as 1 Cor. 6. 7.

Vers. 10. lifted up his eyes] that is, looked round about• to view the land, as is after manifest by the like speech to Abram, verse. 14. and where one Evangelist saith, lifting up their eyes, Mar. 17. 8. another writing of the same, saith, looking round about, Mar. 9. 8. Jordan] Hebr. Iarden, the name of a goodly river: see Ios. 3. 11. &c. well watered] Heb. ••tering; that is, as the Chaldee saith, a place of water, or of moisture: thereby signifying a fruitful land; as Psal 66. 12. and 107. 33. 35. destroyed] or corrupted; as Gen. 6. 13. and 19. 24. Sodom is in Hebrew Sedom; and Gomorrhah, Ghnamorah: but we follow the plain writing in the New Testament, 2 Pet. 2. 6. garden] that is, as the Greek saith, Paradise: see Gen. 2. 8. and Ezek. 36. 35. meaning most pleasant and fruitful, as Eden and Egypt. comest] Hebr. thou coming to Zoar, or to Zogar: that is, all the plain of Jordan, even to Zoar, the little City called before Bela: see Gen. 19. 20. 21. 22. and 14. 2.

Vers. 11. the plain] or, the country about Jordan, as the Greek translateth, which words the holy Ghost useth in Luke 3. 3. the Chaldee translateth it a plain: and it is opposed to the mountain, Gen. 19. 17. each man, &c.] that is, one from another.

Vers. 12. pitched tent] that is, removed his tents from place to place, till he came even to Sodom: and as the Greek saith, dwelt in tents in Sodom.

Vers. 13. sinner to Jehovah] that is, before the Lord, (as the Greek translath) and against him, as 1 Sam. 2. 25. meaning, very grievous and open sinners. And here the Sodomites are the first in the world openly called sinner: and although by Adams disobedience we all are made sinner, Rom. 5. 19. yet usually such as are notorious wicked ones, have this title given them; as in 1 Sam. 15. 18. Psal. 104. 36. Mark 14. 41. 1 Tim. 1. 9. The Chaldee paraphrast translath, they were unrighteous with their riches, and sinners with their bodies before the Lord: agreeable to other Scriptures, which testify how they defiled their bodies, Gen. 19. 5. and that, pride, fullness of bread, and abundance of idleness, was in Sodom, they strengthened not the hand of the poor, but were haughty, and committed abomination before the Lord, Ezek. 16. 49. 50. The Hebrew Doctors, from the two words here used, of Sodom's sinful state, do gather their condemnation both in this world, and in the world to come, Talmud in Sanhedr. chap. Chelek See the notes on Gen. 19.

Vers. 14. to the sea] that is, the west: see Gen. 12. 8. Abram vieweth the land, but possesseth it not: so did Moses, Deut. 34. 1. 4.

Vers. 15. to thee] God gave Abram no inheritance in the land, no not the breadth of a foot: yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child, Acts 7. 5. By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country; for he looked for a City which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God, Heb. 11. 9. 10. and to thy seed] this may be an interpretation of the former, to thee, that is to thy seed: for the word and, sometime meaneth, that is, or even: as 1 Chron 21. 12. three days the Lord's sword, and the pestilence, for, that is to say the pestilence: it expoundeth the former; therefore in 2 Sam. 24. 13. is written only, three days pestilence. So in 2 Sam. 17. 12. of him and of all (for that is of all) the men that are with him: thy seed] thy posterity. But as the earthly country figured an heavenly, Heb. 11. 16. so Abram's seed were some after the flesh; and some by promise, Galat. 4. 22. 23. neither because they are the seed of Abram, are they all children, Rom. 9. 7. The chiefest intended in this promise, is Christ, then with him, all Christians, Jews, and Gentiles, Gal. 3. 16. 26. 28. 29. See before, Gen. 12. 7. forever] or, unto eternity. Yet they possessed it but a little while, Isaiah 63. 18. For upon transgression they were threatened to be scattered among the heathens, their land to be wast, and their Cities desolate, Lev. 26. 33. and that the land should spew them out, if they defiled it, Lev. 18. 28. as came to pass, 2 King. 17. but the true seed, which are God's elect, do inherit it, and his servants dwell there, Isaiah 65. 9. Psal. 69. 36. 37. and 102. 29. These promises are spiritual, and to be referred unto the just and meek, put in possession by Christ, Psal. 37. 29. Mat. 5. 5. Gal. 3. 29. But unto the wicked saith God, ye lift up your eyes to your idols, and shed blood, and shall ye possess the land? ye work abomination, and ye defile everyone his neighbors wife: and shall ye possess the land? Ezek. 33. 24. 25. 26.

Vers. 16. will put] that is, will make: as the Greek translath it. if a man] This showeth the comparison not to be absolute for equality of number, but in respect of men, to whom Abram's children are infinite, as the dust. See after in Gen. 15. 5.

Vers. 17. in the length] This survey was to strengthen Abram's faith; who under this earthly land, did view an heavenly, Heb. 11. 10. 16. that he might be able to comprehend the length and breadth, and depth and height, and know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge; Ephes. 3. 18. 19.

Vers. 18. in the okes] that is, the oke grove, or plain: see Gen. 12. 6. Mamree] in Greek Mambree: a man of the Amorites then living, with whom Abram made league, Gen. 14. 13. One of the chief Sorcerers of Egypt, was called by the like name. See the notes on Exod. 7. 11. Chebron] or Hebron, (the Greek writeth it Chebrom, as Esron, Gen. 46. 12. is written Esrom, Mat. 1. 3.) It had this name afterward: for before it was called the City of Arba, Gen. 23. 2. and 25. 27. which Arba was a great man among the Anakims, and a father of them, Ios. 14. 15. and 15. 13. It became a place of burial for many worthy persons, Gen. 23. 2. 19. and 49. 3. 1. it was sometime possessed by Giants, whom Caleb drove out, Num. 13. 23. Ios. 15. 14. It was given to Caleb for an inheritance, Ios. 14. 14. was made a City of refuge, and given for the Levites to dwell in, Ios. 20. 7. and 21. 11. 12. In it David first reigned over God's people, a Sam. 2. 1. 11. and to it came Ma•y to visit Elisabeth, Luke 1. 39. an Altar] to sacrifice thankfully unto God, and to sanctify his viewed heritage• See Gen. 12. 7.

CHAP. XIV.

1. The battle of four foraine Kings, against five Kings of Canaan. 10, Sodom and Gomorrhe are spoiled; 12, Lot is taken prisoner: 14, Abram pursueth and smiteth the conquerors, 16, bringeth back the spoils, the captives, and his briber Lot. 17, The King of Sodom goeth out to meet Abram; 18, The King of Salem (Melchizedek) brings him forth bread and wine, and blesseth him. 20, Akram giveth him tith of all. 22, The rest of the spoils, (his partners having had their portions,) he restoreth to the King of Sodom.

AND it was, in the days of Amraphel King of Shinar; Arjoch, king of Ellasar; Chedor-laomer, king of Elam; and Thidal, king of nations. They made war with Bera, king of Sodom; and with Birsha, king of Gomorrhah: Shinab, king of Admah; and Shemeber, king of Zebojim; and the king of Bela, that is Zoar. All these were joined together, in the valley of Siddim: that is the sea of salt. Twelve years they served Chedor-laomer: and the thirteenth year they rebelled. And in the fourteenth year came Chedor-laomer, and the kings which were with him; and they smote the Rephaims, in Ashteroth Karnaim; and the Zuzims, in Ham: and the Emims in Shaveh Kirjathaim. And the Chorites in their mount-Seir: unto El-pharan, which is by the wilderness. And they returned, and came to En-mishpat, that is Kadesh; and they smote all the field of the Amalekite: and also the Amorite, that dwelt in Hazezonthamar. And there went out the King of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrhah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zebojim, and the king of Belah, that is Zoar: and they joined battle with them, in the valley of Siddim. With Chedor-laomer, king of Elam; and Thidal, king of nations: and Amraphel, king of Shinar; and Arjoch, king of Ellasar: four Kings, with five. And the valley of Siddim, had many pits of slime; and the King of Sodom and of Gomorrhah, they fled, and fell there: and the residue fled to the mountain. And they took all the substance of Sodom and Gomorrhah, and all their victuals, and went away. And they took Lot, the son of Abram's brother, and his substance, and they went away: and he dwelt in Sodom. And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew: and he dwelt in the Okes of Mamree the Amorite, the brother of Escol, and brother of Aner, and they were confederates with Abram. And Abram heard that his brother was taken captive: and he armed his trained servants, the children of his house, three hundred, and eighteen, and he pursued them unto Dan. And he divided himself against them by night, he and his servants, and he smote them: and pursued them unto Chobah, which is on the left hand of Damascus. And he brought again all the substance: and also brought-again his brother Lot, and his substance; and the women also, and the people. And the King of Sodom went out to meet him; after his return from smiting Chedor-laomer, and the kings which were with him: unto the valley of Shaveh, that is the valley of the King. And Melchizedek, king of Salem; brought-forth bread and wine: and he a Priest of God most-hye. And he blessed him, and said; Blessed be Abram, of God most-hie; possessor of heavens and earth. And blessed be God most-hye; who hath delivered thy enemies into thy hand: and he gave him the tenth of all. And the King of Sodom said unto Abram: give me the souls; and the substance take thou. And Abram said unto the King of Sodom: I have lift-up my hand unto Jehovah, God most hie; the possessor of heavens and earth. If (I take) from a thread even to a shoe latchet, and if I take of anything that is thine: that thou say not, I have made Abram rich. Save only that which the young-men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me: Aner, Eshchol and Mamree; let them take their portion.

Annotations.

IN the days] the Greek saith, in the reign. of Shinar] that is, Chaldea: or (as the Chaldee turneth it) Babylon: see Gen. 10. 10. Targum Yerushalmi interpreteth it, Pontus. Ellasar] this is thought to be Syria. Chedor-laomer] written in Greek, Chodollogomor. Elam] that is, the Elamites or Persians, named of Elam son of Sem: Gen. 10. 22. Thidal] or Thidgnal; which the Greek writeth Thargal, d changed into r: see Gen. 10. 3. of nations] Hebr. Gojim, which may be kept unchanged: but the Greek and Chaldee translate it nations, or people's. It seemeth they were of sundry families, or populous: as Galilee of the nations, Es. 9. 1. Their country is thought to be after named Pamphilia.

Vers. 2. Zebojim] in Greek Seboeim: it is written by the letters in the line Zebiiim, of Zebi, which signifieth glory, pleasantness, and a Roe; by which name the pleasant and glorious land of Israel is called, in Ezek. 20. 6. but by the vowels, and in the margin noted to be read Zebojim, as being unworthy the pleasant name. So in verse. 8. that is Zoar] or Zogar, so called after, upon Lots request, Gen. 19. 20. 22. These five Cities stood near together in the land of Canaan, in the plain of Jordan, and were all (except Zoar) butned with fire and brimstone from heaven, Gen. 19. Deut. 29. 23. Here they are fore-chastened of God by wars. sea of salt] or salt sea: so Ios. 3. 16. meaning, that this goodly valley, after it was burnt from heaven, became a salt sea; and so barren and fruitless, that no living thing, fish or other, was found therein. For so all histories testify of that salt and dead sea, as it was also called. And the holy Scripture useth saltness for barrenness, Deut. 29. 23. Psal. 107. 34. This judgment of God brought upon one of the goodliest places in all Canaany; signifying, how that land and inhabitants should for their sins be deprived and made barren of all spiritual graces. But by the Gospel and spirit of Christ, graces are restored: as was figured in a vision of waters issuing out of God's house, running into this sea, healing the waters of it, storing it with live fishes, &c. Ezek. 47. 1.—8. 9. 11.

Vers. 4. served Chedor. laomer] herein God shown the truth of Noes prophesy, that Canaan should be Shem servant, Gen. 9. 26. Chedorlaomer of Shem progeny, was chief of all these Kings, and Lord of the Canaanites.

Vers. 5. smote] that is, killed: see verse. 17. Rephaims] or Raphaeans, called of the Greek and Chaldee paraphrast, Giants: and the Hebrew word is after used for such, Deut. 2. 11. and Rapha was the name of a Giant that had four sons Giants, in David's days, 2 Sam. 21. 16. 22. But these Rephaims were now a people in Canaan, Gen. 15. 20. Ashteroth] a City in Basan, where Og after reigned, Ios. 13. 31. Zuzims] these the Greeks call, strong nations; and the Chaldee, Mighties. Of them we read not else-where: unless their name was after changed by the Ammonites into Zamzummims. Deut. 2. 20. Emims] or according to the Greek Ommeans, these the Chaldee calleth Terrible ones: and so the Hebrew name signifieth. They were a people great and many, and tall as the Anakims, accounted Giants; and by the Moabites were called (Terrible) Emims, Deut. 2. 10. 11. Shaveh] or, the plain (as the word signifieth) of Kirjathaim, which was a city in the Land of Sihon, afterwards King of Hesbon; see Ios. 13. 19.

Vers. 6. Chorites] or Chorreans, or Chorims, a people that dwelt in Seir, till Esau and his sons drove them thence, Deut. 2. 22. Gen. 36. 20. &c. El-pharan] by interpretation, the Oke (or plain) of Pharan, (or Paran;) which was a City by the wilderness of that name; see Gen. 21. 21.

Vers. 7. En-mishpat] that is by interpretation the Well of judgment; and so the Greek here calleth it: the Chaldee nameth it, the plain of the division of judgment. So called, as it seemeth, of God's judgment or sentence given against Moses and Aaron, for sinning at that place; see Num. 20. 1. 10. 12. 13. the field] that is, the country or region: so the field of Edom, Gen. 32. 3. the field of Moab, Gen. 36. 35. the field of Soan, Psal. 78. 12. the field of Syria, Hos. 12. 12. whereby those countries are meant. the Amalekite] so called afterward, of Amalek son of Esau, Gen. 36. 12. Hazon-thamar] which the Chaldee calleth Engedi, as it is also named in 2 Chron. 20. 2. a City in the Land of Canaan, which fell to the tribe of Judah, Ios. 15. 62. a fruitful place of vines: Song 1. 13.

Vers. 10. had many pits] Hebr. pits pits, which meaneth many, or diverse pits: so heapet heaps, is many heaps, Exod. 8. 14. ranks ranks, Mar. 5. 40. for, by many ranks. fell] that is, were slain there; as the word also signifieth in Ios. 8. 24. 25. Judge. 8. 10. and 12. 6. and many other places: So, there fell of Israel, 1 Chron. 21. 14. for which in 2 Sam. 24. 15. is written, there died. See after, Gen. 25. 18.

Vers. 11. the substance] or the goods, cattle, money, &c. see Gen. 12. 5. their victuals] or, their meat; the fruits of the land; which were both sweet and plentiful, made now a prey to the hungry soldiers. The like judgments God threatened to the Israelites, when they entered this land to possess it, if they brake his covenant, Deuteron. 28. 30. 31. 33. 51.

Vers. 12. dwelt] or, was dwelling; and so became partaker of their calamity: God thus chastening Lots former affectation of this pleasant country, Gen. 13. 10. 11.

Vers. 13. the Hebrew] so named of his father Heber, Gen. 11. 16. and he and his children were commonly known by this title, as in Gen. 39. 14. Numb. 24. 24. Ier. 34. 9. Some think he was so called of passing over the River, when God called him from Chaldea, Ios. 24. 2. but by Gen. 10. 21. it appeareth rather to be of Heber the Patriarch: and as this name of Hebrews was the first title given to Abram and his seed: so it endureth one of the last, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Phil. 3. 5. the Okes] or plains: see Gen. 13. 18. confederates] Hebr. men (or masters) of league, or covenant: sworn-friends, as the Greek importeth.

Vers. 14. brother] that is, his kinsman: see Gen. 13. 8. armed] or drew out, that is, ledforth of his house. Greek, numbered, mustered. trained] or instructed: we may understand it both of civil affairs, and religion, wherein he had trained them: the Chaldee calleth them young men: and so doth Moses, in verse. 24. children] that is, servants borne in his house, and to it belonging. See after in Gen. 15. 3. pursued] to weet, after them, as the Greek saith: meaning those kings fore-mentioned. Dan] a place in the north parts of Canaan, called of old Leshem, and being won by the Danites, it was named Dan, Ios. 19. 47. After, it was called Cesarea: so the Yerushalmi paraphrase calleth it, Dan de Kasarjon.

Vers. 15. the left hand of Damascus] called in Hebrew Dammesek. (and sometime Darmesek, as 1 Chron. 18. 5.) which was the head of Aram, (or Syria) Es. 7. 8. and for the left hand, both the Chaldee paraphrasts say, north of Damascus; and that rightly: for the east is counted the foremost part of the world, and the west the hindmost; Isaiah 9. 12. and the South is called the rightside, opposed to the North, Psal. 89. 13. Thus Abram pursued them, passed in peace, by a way that he had not gone with his feet, Isaiah 41. 3.

Vers. 16. the substance] or, goods, to weet, of the S•do•ites, as the Greek version addeth. Thus God gave the nations before Abram, and made him rule ever Kings: gave them as dust to his sword, as driven stubble to his bow, Isaiah 41. 2. A like victory God gave to David over the Amalekites, 1 Sam. 30. 18. 19. &c. And as the Hebrew have a saying, that whatsoever befell unto the fathers, is asigne unto the children; so of this victory they write, that it befell unto Abraham, to teach, that four kingdoms should stand up to rule over the world, and that in the end, his children should rule over them, and they should all fall by their hand, and they should bring again all their captives, and all their substance. Which are the four kingdoms spoken of in Daniel. R. Menachem, on Gen. 14.

Vers. 17. from smiting] or from the slaughter, as the Greek turneth it, and the Apostle hath the same word in Hebr. 7. 1. So in the Hebrew where one Prophet saith, he smote, 2 King. 14. 5. another saith, he killed, 2 Chron. 25. 3. of the King] a valley not far from Jerusalem, there Absalom set up his pillar, 2 Sam. 18. 18.

Vers. 18. Melchizedek] the Yerushalmi Targum saith, hu Shem rabba, this was Sem the great: and in Breshith rabba upon this place, it is said, this Melchizedek was Sem the son of Noah. He was called Melchizedek, that is by interpretation, King of justice, Heb. 7. 2. and therein, was a figure of Christ, the King that reigneth in justice, Isaiah 32. 1. (as all Kings should be, 2 Sam. 23. 3. Psalm. 72. 1. 2. &c.) Other the best and most ancient Hebrew Doctors, do also hold Melchizedek to be Sem: so Pirke R. Eliezer, chap. 8. and Talmud Babyl. in Treatise of vows, at the end of Chap. 3. and Ben Syraoh saith, Sem and Seth were glorious among men, Ecclus. 49. 16. of Salem] both the Chaldee paraphrasts say, of Jerusalem: which is also called Salem, in Psalm. 76. 3. and it signifieth Peace, Heb. 7. 2 which was the sum and end of Christ's administration; (whom Melchizedek figured) Ephes. 2. 14 15. 17. So in him, justice and peace have kissed, Psal. 85. 11. for the work of justice is peace, Isaiah 32. 17. and he is called the Prince of Peace, Isaiah 9. 6. And the Hebrew Doctors in Echah rabbethi (or Comment on the Lamentations) say from Isaiah 9. 6 the name of the Messiah is called Salom, (Peace.) And Melchizedek his figure, here hath nothing to do with the wars of the nine Kings, but governed his realm in peace. brought forth bread, &c.] coming to meet Abram that returned from the slaughter of the Kings, Heb. 7. 1. so that the bread and wine, was to refresh Abram and his men after their travel; as David and his people were refreshed in the wilderness, by good men that brought them victuals: 2 Sam. 17. 27. 28. 29. and as on the contrary, the Ammonites and Moabites might not enter into the congregation of the Lord forever, because they met not Israel with bread and water in the way, when they came out of Egypt, Deut. 23. 3. 4. that is, because they refreshed them not when they were faint and weary, Deut. 25. 18. Melchizedek doing this as he was King, the Apostle being to treat of Christ's Priesthood in special, therefore passeth it over, Heb. 7. 1. Albeit even in this action, Melchizedek may be minded as a figure of Christ, who taketh away the hunger and thirst of all that believe in him, John: 6. 35. 〈ϕ〉 he a Priest] or as the Greek addeth, he was a Priest: but the word he, sometime signifieth a continuance in the same estate, as in Psal. 102. 2. thou he, that is, thou art the same, Heb. 1. 12. and of Melchizedek it is said; that being made like to the Son of God, he abideth a Priest continually, Heb. 7. 3. And the Jew Doctors (in Talmud. treat. of vows, chap. 3.) scan the text thus, He a Priest, and not his seed. A Priest or Sacrificer, in Hebrew, Cohen, hath the name of Ministration; Isaiah 61. 6. 10. and so the Chaldee paraphrast calleth him here (Meshamesh, that is) a Minister before God most-hye) but a principal minister or officer next under God: as in 2 Sam. 8. 18. David's sons are called Cohens, for which is written in 1. Chron. 18. 17. that they were the first at the Kings hand, that is, the chief about the King. The Greek word Hiercus (which the Apostle useth in Heb. 7.) hath the name of sacrificing, or doing sacred (that is, holy) works. This Priesthood of Melchizedek, was a figure of Christ's, as David saith, Psal. 110. 4. Jehovah sware, and will not repent; thou art a Priest forever, according to the order of Melchizedek. Which words of David, are applied unto Christ, both by our Apostle, in Heb. 7. and by the Hebrew Doctors; as in Breshith rabba, upon Gen. 14. alleging that in Psal. 110. 4. it is said, Who is he? He is the King Christ, of whom it is written, (Zach. 9. 9.) behold thy King cometh unto thee, he is just, and having salvation. It was also the ancient manner in other nations, for Kings to be sacrificers, as Aristotle showeth, in Polit. b. 3. c. 10. & b. 7. c. 9. and Plutarch in Quest. Rom. of God] le Ael eljon, to the Mighty the High: which the Apostle (following the Greek version) translateth, of God most high, Heb. 7. 1. And here the name Ael, the mighty God, is first used in the history of Abram's victory: see Gen. 1. 1. By this title the true God is distinguished from the false gods of the nations, who then were worshipped, Isaiah 41. 5. 7. 29. The Hebrews observe, that this word Ael, in many places signifieth the property of mercy, as Eli, Eli, &c. (Psal. 22. 2.) The Lord is Ael (God) and hath given light unto us, (Psal. 118. 27.) and the like: R. Menachem on Gen. 14.

Vers. 19. he blessed] this was a work of the Priests office, to bless in the name of God forever: 1 Chron. 23. 13. Num. 6. 23. 27. and being done with authority in that name, without all contradiction, the less is blessed of the better, though Abram had the promises, Heb. 7. 6. 7. and herein he figured Christ, sent of God to bless us, in turning everyone of us from our iniquities, Act. 3. 26. Luke 24. 50. Blessed be, &c.] This manner of blessing, though uttered prayer wise, implieth an assured promise, as being done by an holy person in the name of God. To teach this, where one Prophet expresseth David's words thus, be thou pleased and bless; and, let the house of thy servant be blessed, 2 Sam. 7. 29. another recordeth them thus, it hath pleased thee to bless, &c. 1 Chron. 17. 2. of God] or, to God, as also the Greek saith: but the Chaldee translatheth it, before God: it meaneth, great, spiritual and heavenly blessings, from God, and making us acceptable to God in Christ, Ephes. 1. 3. 6. Alike blessing is on all God's people, Psal. 115. 15. See also Gen. 1. 22. and 2. 3. and 12. 2.

Vers. 20. blessed be God] that is, thanked, or praised: for blessing upon men from God, signifieth good things powerfully bestowed on them, Deut. 28. 2. 3. 4. but blessing of God from men is reverend thanksgiving: so where one Evangelist saith, that Jesus blessed, Mat. 26. 26. another saith, he gave thanks, Luke 22. 19. enemies] or, distressers. Melchizedek (or Sem) respected the injury done to Abram the blessed of the Lord, and was not offended at the slaughter of his own children the Elamites, that had captived Lot; verse. 1. 14. 17. he gave] that is, Abram gave: whereupon the Apostle biddeth us consider how great [Melchizedek] was, to whom even the Patriarch Abram gave the tenth, Heb. 7. 4. He being partaker of Melchizedeks spiritual things, his duty was also to minister unto him in carnal things, Rom. 15. 27. tenth] or tithe, one of ten, saith the Chaldee paraphrast. This was a sign of homage and thankfulness to God: for as tribute is paid to Kings for their attendance to the affairs of the commonwealth, Rom. 13. 6. 7. so tithes in the law are called body, and an heave-offering to the Lord, Levite. 27. 30. Numb 18. 24. and before the law, Jacob paid them to the Lord, Gen. 28. 22. and he appointed his tithes to the Priests, Num. 28. 8. 21. And Abram the tenth generation from Sem, here payeth to the Priest Melchizedek, (who is generally thought to be Sem) the tenth of all. The Priests also and Levites of the Law, who now were in Abram's Ioines, did in him pay tithes to Melchizedek: wherefore his Priesthood was greater then theirs, Heb. 7. 9. 10. 11. This service was also kept among the heathens: Pisistratus tyrant of Athens, writeth to Solon thus; All the Athenians do separate the tithe of their fruits, not to be spent unto our use, but for public sacrifices, and common profits, &c. D. Laert. in vita Solonis. So among the Latins, they were wont to pay tithes to their god Hercules, Pomp. L'tus de Sacerdot. Macrob. Saturn. l. 3. c. 12. of all] the Apostle saith, the tithe of the spoils: and so it was a special thankfulness for the victory God had given him. So of the spoils which Israel got from Madian, a tribute was levied unto the Lord, and given to the Priest, Num. 31. 28. 29. 41. A like custom continued among the Gentiles, for King Cyrus his soldiers, (by the advice of Crasas) were stayed from spoiling the Lydians City, that the tithes might first be paid to Jupiter, Herodot. inClio. And here endeth the History of Melchizedek, who is spoken of, and left, (as the Apostle observeth) without father, without mother, without rehearsal of genealogy, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the son of God, abideth a Priest perpetually, Heb 7. 3.

Vers. 21. the souls] Hebr. soul: one put for many; and souls, for persons, the men and women of Sodom, whom Abram had brought back from the enemy. See Gen. 12. 5. and 3. 2. So the Greek translateth, the men.

Vers. 22. lift up my hand] So they were wont, when they did swear, Dan. 12. 7. Rev. 10. 5. 6. The Chaldee expoundeth it of lifting up in prayer: it seemeth to be a vow that Abram made when he went to the war, wherein he both prayed for victory, and sware this oath: for these are joined together, Psal. 132. 2. Judge. 11. 30. &c.

Vers. 23. If from a thread] An imperfect speech, used in oaths: for, If I take from a thread, that is, I will not take so much as a thread, or a shoe-latchet. So God sware, if they shall enter into my rest, Psal. 95. 11. which is expounded by the Apostle, that they should not enter, Heb. 3 11. 18. and Christ saith, if a sign be given to this generation, Mark 8. 12. which another Evangelist explaineth thus, a sign shall not be given, Mat. 16. 4. See after in Gen. 21. 23. and thou shalt not] or, as the Greek translateth, that thou mayest not say.

Vers. 24. Save,] or, Except; So the Greek and Chaldee also translateth. Some expound it: It shall not be with me; or, Far be it from me. young men] those trained soldiers, verse. 14. This word is not always meant of age, but often of service and ministry, though they be men of ripe years: as Est. 2. 2. Exod. 24. 5. and 33. 11. So such as one Evangelist calleth young men and young maids, Luke 12. 45. another calleth fellow-servants, Mat. 24. 49.

CHAP. XV.

1, God encourageth Abram. 2, Abram complaineth for want of an heir. 4, God promiseth him a son, and seed as the stars of heaven. 6, Abram believeth God, and is justified. 7, Canaan is promised again, to be his inheritance, and confirmed by a sign, 12, and by a vision. 13, The pilgrimage and affliction of Abram's seed, foretold, and limited. 18, Together with the covenant, the largeness of the heritage is described.

AFTER these things, was the word of Jehovah unto Abram, in a vision, saying: Fear not Abram, I am a shield to thee; thy reward shall be exceeding great. And Abram said; Lord Jehovah, what wilt thou give me, and I, go childless: and the steward of my house, is this Eliezer of Damaskus. And Abram said, Behold to me, thou hast not given seed: and Ioe the son of my house, is mine heir. And behold, the word of Jehovah came unto him, saying, This shall not be thine heir: but he that shall come out of thy bowels, he shall be thy heir. And he brought him forth abroad, and said, Look now towards heavens, and number the stars, and if thou be able to number them: and he said unto him, so shall thy seed be. And he believed, in Jehovah: and he imputed it to him, for justice. And he said unto him: I am Jehovah, that brought thee out, from Vr of the Chaldees, to give thee this land, to inherit it. And he said; Lord Jehovah, whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it? And he said unto him, take unto me, a three-yeerling heifer, and a three-yeerling she-goat, and a three-yeerling ram; and a turtle-dove, and a young-pigeon. And he took unto him all these, and parted them in the midst, and gave every ones part, against his fellow: and the birds he parted not. And the souls came down, upon the carkeises: and Abram huffed them away. And the Sun was going down, and a deep-sleep fell upon Abram: and loe a terror, a great darkness, fell upon him.

And he said to Abram; knowing know thou, that thy seed shall be a stranger, in a land not theirs; and shall serve them, and they shall afflict them: four hundred years. And also the nation, whom they shall serve, I will judge: and afterward they shall come out, with great substance. And thou shalt come unto thy fathers, in peace: thou shalt be buried, in a good hoary-age. And the fourth generation, they shall return hither: for the iniquity of the Amorite, is not perfectly-full, as yet. And the Sun was going-down, and there was a darkness: and behold, a smoking oven, and a lamp of fire, which passed between these pieces. In that day, Jehovah stroke a covenant with Abram, saying: to thy seed, give I this land, from the river of Egypt, unto the great River, the river Euphrates. The Kenite, and the Kenizite, and the Kadmonite. And the Chethite, and the Pherezite, and the Rephaims. And the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Girgasite, and the Jebusite.

Annotations.

These things] Hebr. these words: that is, these things spoken of: for a word, is generally used for any thing mentioned in speech or writing, or whereof speech may be: the like is in Gen. 19. 22. and 24. 40. So an unclean word, that is, thing: Levite. 5. 2. an evil word, for, an evil thing: Deut. 17. 5. and many the like. in a vision] or a sight: the Chaldee saith, in prophesy: the Greek, in a vision of the night: which the 5. verse confirmeth. Prophets of old, were called Seers, 2 Sam. 24. 11. 1 Sam. 9. 9. and a prophesy is named a vision, Isaiah 1. 1. for to his Prophets God spake by visions, Num. 12. 6. and Abram is of God himself named a Prophet, Gen. 20. 7. fear not] that is, be not dismayed, or overcome with fear: so fear not, Mat. 28. 5. is, be not astonished, Mark. 16. 6. The Prophets were sometime terrified with visions, as Dan. 10. 7. 8. 11. 12. though this may also imply other discomforts, which Abram had, as his answer showeth. a shield] that is, a protection, as the name of a shield in the Hebrew signifieth: so the Greek saith, I will protect thee: the Chaldee paraphraseth, my word shall be thy strength. A like promise is to all God's people, in Psal. 115. 9. 10. 11. great] or, as the Greek translateth, shall be very much. Abram had sown righteousness, and therefore should reap a faithful reward, Prov. 11. 18. though he were not enriched by the King of Sodom, Gen. 14. 22. 23.

Vers. 2. Lord] in Hebr. Adonai, which signifieth my stays, or pillars: implying in it a mystery of the holy Trinity; and fitly spoken here to God (the Lord of heaven and earth, Mat. 11. 25.) who as a base, sustained Abram in all infirmities. It is written here with long A in the end, and so is proper to God, having the vowels of Jehovah: when it is written with a short a, it is applied to creatures. In in the form singular Adón, Lord, or susteyner, it is also ascribed unto God, the Lord of all the earth, Psal. 97. 5. and in the form plural Adonim, as Mal. 1. 6. If I be (Adonim) a Lord, where is my fear?

Jehovah] or God, in Greek Lord: this name is usually thus written, when it is joined with the former Adonai: and it hath the consonant letters of Jehovah, and the vowels of Elohim, God: and where one Prophet writeth Adonai Jehovah, (as here) 2 Sam. 7. 18. a•there writing the same, saith Jehovah Elohim, 1 Chron. 17. 16. It is of the same signification that Jehovah: whereof see Gen. 2. 4. go childless] by going, the Yerushalmi paraphrast understandeth, going out of the world, as fearing he should die childless, and so the promise before given, should be frustrate, Gen. 12. 3. and 13. 15. 16. So also the Greek translateth, I am let depart (as Simeon speakeeth in Luke 2. 29.) childless. The Hebrew well beareth this sense; for, thou shalt go with thy fathers, 1 Chron. 17. 11. is expounded, thou shalt sleep (or lie down) with thy fathers, 2 Sam. 7. 12. the steward] or administrator, dispenser; Hebr. ben meshek, the son of administration, or of running about; or son of leaving: that is, the man that runs about, and administereth, or to whom I leave the affairs of mine house: such we call a Steward. So the Chaldee saith, bar parnesaah, that is, son of feeding, governing, or procuration, meaning the Steward, whose duty is to give the family their portion of meat in due season, Luke 12. 42. Under this name he may also intend one to whom he should leave his house after his decease. But Abram had one principal old servant, ruler of all that he had, Gen. 24. 2. of whom this seemeth to be meant. Eliezer of Damaskus] or, the Damaskean Eliezer, (as the Chaldee hath it:) Damaskus being put for a man of Damaskus; (as Israel, 1 King. 12. 18. is put for the sons of Israel, 2 Chron. 10. 18.) though some take Damaskus (in Hebr. Dammesek) to be the name of a man here. Of Eliezer, (or Eliazar, as the name is written in Exod. 6. 25.) is formed Lazer, (by leaving out the first letter, as in other countries they used:) & in Greek Lazaros; whom Christ in the Parable maketh to sit in heaven in Abraham's bosom, Luke 16. 23. that is, to banquet with him, & next unto him, as Mat. 8. 11. John. 13. 23

Vers. 3. seed] that is, a child, as the Chaldee expoundeth it. son of my house] that is, my household servant, or bondman borne: so in Eccl. 2. 7. I got men-servants and women-servants, and I had sons of the house: that is, home-borne-slaves: so called, to distinguish them from sons of the womb, Prov. 31. 2. Job 19. 17. See before, Gen. 14. 14. also Gen. 17. 12. Ier. 2. 14. is mine heir] or inheriteth, that is, (as the Greek translateth) shall inherit me: shall possess and enjoy all that I have. So to inherit Gad, Ier. 49. 1. which is there explained, to dwell in his cities.

Vers. 4. And behold] the Greek turneth it, And straight way: it noteth God's speedy help of Abram's infirmity. shall come out] that is, the son of thine own body: opposed to the son of the house, or servant aforesaid. So the Chaldee translateth, a son whom thou shalt beget. A like promise was to David, 2 Sam 7. 12. thy seed after thee, which shall come out of thy bowels: for which in 1 Chron. 17. 11 is written, which shall be of thy sons.

Vers. 5. the stars] which cannot by man be numbered, Ierem. 33. 22. only God counteth their number, and calleth them all by names, Psal. 147. 4. Before in Gen. 13. 16. God promised him seed like the dust of the earth: here, like the stars of heaven: that, might signify his natural seed; this, his spiritual and heavenly; as the Apostle teacheth us two sorts of Abram's children, Rom. 9. 7. 8. Gal. 4. 22. 24 &c. Hereupon the Israelites are in Joseph's dream, and in Daniel's vision, called stars, and the host of heaven, Gen. 37. 9. 10. Dan. 8. 10. In Gen. 22. 17. Abram's seed are compared with the stars of heaven, and sand of the sea. so shall thy seed be] and so it was fulfilled in Moses time, Deut. 1. 10. and 10. 22. and this promise was after renewed to Abram, Gen. 22. 17. and to Isaac, Gen. 26. 4. and in them to Israel, Exod. 32. 13.

Vers. 6. he believed] or, had faith. This is the first place where faith, or belief is expressly spoken of in Scripture; and is found in Abram, called the father of all believers, Rom. 4. 11. 12. 16. and hath imputation of justice added to it; because under this promise Abram saw and believed in Christ, and it was before either the law was given, or circumcision ordained, Gal. 3. 16. 17. Rom. 4. 10. Wherefore Abram's faith is highly commended; in that against hope he believed in hope, that he should become the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken, So shall thy seed be. And being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now dead, being about an hundred years old; or the deadness of Saraes womb: he staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God, and being fully persuaded, that what he had promised, he was able also to perform; and therefore it was imputed unto him for justice, Rom. 4. 18.—22. The Hebrew word for believed, meaneth that he thought and trusted the words of God, as sure, certain, stable and constant: so where one Prophet relateth David's words, be it faithful forever, 1 Chron. 17. 23. another writeth, stablish thou forever, 2 Sam. 7. 25. and again, faithful shall thy house be, 2 Sam. 7. 16. for which, in 1 Chron. 17. 14. is written, I will stablish him in my house. And as belief is with the heart, Rom. 10. 10. so it is said, Iaakobs heart fainted, for he believed them not, Gen. 45. 26. whereby it appeareth that belief is a lively motion of the heart and spirit, firmly resting in the things spoken. When Jacob saw the Waggons which Joseph had sent, whereby he was moved to believe, it is said that his spirit revived, Gen. 45. 27. And Paul saith, that faith is the ground (or confidence of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen▪ Heb. 11. 1. in Jehovah] the Greek translatheth, he believed God, and so the Apostles cite the words, Rom. 4. 3. Gal. 3. 6. I am. 2. 23. be imputed it] that is, God imputed that belief. The Greek, (which also the Apostle followeth) saith, it was imputed (or thought, counted, esteemed.) for justice] or, righteousness; the word for, is added in Greek, and by the Apostle in Rom. 4. 3. and elsewhere in the Hebrew, Psal. 106. 31. which also in repeating things, expresseth such words wanting, as lebeith, in the house, Ier. 52. 17. which in 2 King. 25. 13. was written only, beith, the house. Now of this the Apostle inferreth, To him that worketh, the reward is not imputed (or reckoned) of grace, but of debt: but to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is imputed for justice, Roman. 4. 4. 5. where he maketh Abram to be in himself ungodly, (or impious) as having been an idolater, Ios. 24. 2. and still without glory of works before God, Rom 4. 2. but counted just for his faith in the promises of God, (verse. 21. 22.) adding, that it is not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him, but for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe on him, that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead: Rom. 4. 23. 24.

Vers. 7. from Vr] This showeth that Abram was particularly called at the first, though Moses expressed it nor, Gen. 11. 31. and Stephen rightly gathered it from this place, and from Ios. 24. 3. as from the words of Abram's second calling, Gen. 12. 1. he gathereth what were the words of his first calling, Act. 7. 2. 3. 4. Of this Vr, see Gen. 11. 28.

Vers. 9. Take unto me] that is, Take and offer unto me: so the Chaldee translatheth, Offer before me: & Gen. 48. 9. take them to me, is bring them: so in Exod. 25. 2. and often: and, thou hast taken gifts, Psal. 68. 19. is expounded by the Apostle, thou hast given gifts, Eph. 48. a three-yeerling] or, a trebled heifer: but the Greek translatheth, a three yeerling heifer. Howbeit the Chaldee paraphrast saith, three heiffers, &c. the Hebrew signifying trebled, or thirded, is indifferent to either; but the first seemeth fittest here. Some take it for dividing into 3 parts: but they were parted in the mids, verse. 10. a young pigeon] the Hebrew word is used in Deut. 32. 11. for young eagles: but the Chaldee here hath barjonah, a young dove; and the Greek hath a dove: and thus also it accordeth with the law in Lev. 1. 14 where young doves are expressly mentioned. And as there, all offerings were either of beeves, or sheep, or of goats, of turtles, or young doves, Lev. 1. 2. 10. 14. so here they all are commanded to Abram. And figured out his children that should be slain as sacrifices, and mortified by afflictions four hundred years, as God after expoundeth it, in verse. 13. for the sacrifices of beasts, signified our more reasonable service of God, Rom. 12. 1. Isaiah 66. 20. Roman. 15. 16.

Vers. 10. and gave] that is, laid, or put. everyone• part] or, half: Hebr. man his part: but Ish, man, is everyone, and is so expounded by Paul, in Heb. 8. 11. from Ier. 31. 34. and is applied to all other things as well as to men: here to beasts and birds: and in Isaiah 36. 18. to the God's of the Heathens. The parts were laid asunder one against another, as shoulder against shoulder, leg against leg; with a space to go between, Vers. 17. God hereby signifying, that the affliction of Abram's seed should be ordered so by his providence, that after the time limited, they should be restored one part to another; as the bones of that people scattered in Babylon, came again together, bone to his bone, Ezek. 37. 7. 11. 14. parted not] according to the law after given, which bade it should be cleaved with the wings thereof, but not divided asunder, Lev. 1. 17.

Vers. 11. the fowls] ravenous birds, as Eagles, Kites, &c. which prey upon dead bodies. Figuring the Egyptians and enemies of Abram seed, which should seek to devour them. So the Kings of Babel and Egypt, are likened to Eagles, Ezek. 17. 3. 7. 12. and the fowls are called to eat of sacrifices, Ezek. 39. 10. Rev. 19. 17. 18. And the Yerushalmi paraphrast expoundeth the fowls to be the monarchies that afflicted Israel. buffed them] drove them away with a wind or blowing, as the Hebrew importeth. So Moses and Aaron saved Israel, from being devoured by the Egyptians, Exod. 7. &c.

Vers. 12. going] or, to go down: that is, about or ready to set: Hebr. to go in. a deep-sleep] The Greek calleth it an ecstasy, (or trance.) so Gen. 2. 21. The Hebrew Doctors observe, concerning visions shown to the Prophets, that they saw no prophetic vision, but by dream, or by night vision; (Num. 12. 6. and 22. 19. 20.) or by day, after that a deep-sleep was fallen upon them: (Dan. 10. 9.) And all that prophesied, their joints trembled, there remained no strength in them; and their thoughts were troubled, and the mind was left changed, to understand that which was seen: as is said of Abram, and loe a terror, a great darkness fell upon him: and of Daniel, my vigor was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength, Dan. 10. 8. Maimonides in Iesudei hatorah, chap. 7. S. 2. But they except Moses, as the Scripture also doth, Num. 12. 7. 8. a terror] this and the darkness following, shadowed out also the great discomforts that Abram's children should have, by the vexation of their enemies: as David and others, complain of the like in their afflictions, Psal. 55. 4. 5. 6. and 88. 7. 17. So the Yerushalmi paraphrast applieth this vision to the Kingdoms of Babel, Madai, Iavan, and Edom (that is Rome) which should bring Abram's children into bondage.

Vers. 13. knowing know] that is, know assuredly: see Gen. 2. 17. not theirs] meaning Egypt, Mesopotamia, and Canaan it self; wherein they were but strangers, Gen. 17. 8. Psal. 105. 11. 12. and therein afflicted: Gen. 21. 9. and 26. 7. 14. 15. &c. but chiefly in Egypt. 400 year] which began when Ishmael son of Agar the Egyptian mocked and persecuted Isaac, Gen. 21. 9. Gal. 4. 29. which fell out thirty years after the promise, Gen. 12. 3. which promise was 430 years before the Law, Gal. 3. 17. and 430 years after that promise, came Israel out of bondage, Exod. 12. 41.

Vers. 14. will judge,] that is, punish as their sins deserve: the judgments that God brought on the Egyptians, are summed up in Psal. 105. 27.—36. and 78. 43.—51. handled at large in Exodus. great substance] or riches, both of their own and of the Egyptians, whose jewels of silver & gold, and garments they carried away, Exod. 12. 35, 36.

Vers. 15. unto thy fathers] that is, shalt die: the body returning to the earth, the spirit to God that gave it, Eccles. 12. 7. with whom are the spirits of just and perfect men: Heb. 12. 23. See this promise fulfilled in Gen. 25. 8.

Vers. 16. the fourth generation] This promise was verified, when Eleazar the son of Aaron, the son of Amran, the son of Kohath, came out of Egypt and parted the land of Canaan to Israel, Ios. 14. 1. Kohath being one that went into Egypt with Jacob, Gen 46. 11, 26. 1 Chron. 6. 2, 3. of the Amorite] that is, the Amorites, and other sinful nations, mentioned after, verse 19, 29, 21. towards whom God's patience should be shown till the measure of their sins were filled up. A like phrase is used, Mat. 23. 32.

Vers. 17. going down] the going down of the sun, and darkness, usually noteth calamities coming upon people: Amos 8. 9, 10. Esa. 5. 30. and 8. 22. and 9. 1, 2. a smoking oven] Heb. an oven of smoke, but as a crown of thorns, Mat. 27. 29. is resolved, a thorny crown, Mar. 15. 17. so this here as the Greek translatheth it a smoking oven, or furnace. And this word oven, is used to note our great afflictions, Mal. 4. 1. Psal. 21. 10. Lam. 5. 10. Luke 12. 28. So this smoking oven, may represent Egypt, the place of Israel's affliction, called by another like name, an iron furnace, Deut. 4. 20. Ier. 11. 4. The Yerushalmi Targum applieth this vision to Gehenna (or hell) Fire, prepared for the wicked. a lamp:] or torch of fire, that is, a burning lamp: the Greek turneth it, lamps of fire: and the Hebrew often useth one for many; see Gen. 3. 2. and 4. 20. This representeth the covenant between God and Abram's seed, for deliverance out of that smoking oven of Egypt. For at the Law-giving, lightnings called lamps, appeared on mount Sinai, Exod. 20. 18. and Christ was seen of Daniel and John, with his eyes like lamps, and flames of fire, Dan. 10. 6. Rev. 1. 14. and the salvation of God's people is likened to a burning lamp, Isaiah 52. 1. Also the living creatures, appeared to Ezekiel like lamps, Ezek. 1. 13. and God's people are compared to virgins with lamps, Mat. 25. 1. which passed:] by this passage of the lamp, or lamps to which only the Greek referreth it, the Lord would signify the making of the covenant between him and his people, as the next verse showeth; So, from a like action, in Ierm. 34. 18, 19, 20. the Lord blameth them that performed not the covenant which they made before him, when they cut the bullock in twain, & passed between the parts thereof, threatening for it, that their carcasses should be for meat to the foul of the heavens: though here, Abram drove the fowls away. *p****s,*] the Greek calleth them dichotomies, that is, divisions into two parts.

Vers. 18. stroke] Hebrew, cut a covenant, that is, made or stroke, and (as the Greek translatheth it) disposed a covenant, or Testament: called usually cutting, because of the slaying and cutting of beasts at the making of it, as this place and Ier. 34. 18. do show. The holy Ghost in Greek expresseth this word carath cut, sundry ways; as by poieo, make, Heb. 8. 9. sunteleo make perfect, Heb. 8. 8. diatithemi, dispose, Heb. 8. 10. all from Ier. 31. 31, 32, 33. and entellomai, command, Heb. 9. 10. from Exod. 24. 8. Of a covenant, see, Gen. 6. 18. give I,] or I have given. The time past is often used, in actions present, and to come. So the Greek here translatheth I will give. Of this gift, see Gen. 13. 15. But the Hebrew Doctors scan the word thus, He saith not, I will give, but I have given: and yet Abraham had now begotten no children. But because the word of the holy blessed (God) is a deed, therefore he so speaketh: Midras tillim, in Psal. 107. 2. the river,] called Sichor, Ios. 13. 3. Euphrates:] Hebrew Phrath: see Gen. 2. 14. This promise was accomplished in David's days, 2 Sam. 8. 3. &c. and in Solomon's, 2 Chron. 9. 26.

Vers. 19. The Kenite,] that is, Kenites, or Keneans: and so the rest, see Gen. 10. 16. The Chaldee calleth these Salameans; and so in Numb. 24. 21. Here are ten people's reckoned, whose lands Abram's seed should possess. Afterward they are usually counted seven, Deut. 7. 1. Acts 13. 19. it seemeth some were wasted, or mixed confusedly with the rest, before the Israelites came into their possession. So in Psal. 83. 7, 8, 9. there are ten nations reckoned, all confederates against God's people.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Sarai being barren, giveth Hagar (her Egyptian maid) to Abram. 4 Hagar being with child, and afflicted for despising her mistress, runneth away. 7 An Angel sendeth her back to submit her self. 11 and telleth her of her child's name and conditions. 15 Hagar beareth Abram a son, whom he calleth Ishmael.

AND Sarai, Abram's wife; did not bearchildren, unto him: and she had, an handmayd an Egyptian, and her name was Hagar. And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold now, Jehovah hath restrained me from child-bearing; go in I pray thee, unto my handmayd; it may be I shall be built, by her: and Abram hearkened, to the voice of Sarai. And Sarai Abram's wife, took Hagar the Egyptian, her handmaid: at the end of ten years, of Abram's dwelling in the land of Canaan: and she gave her, to Abram her husband, to be to him for a wife. And he went-in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and she saw, that she had conceived; and her mistress was despised, in her eyes. And Sarai said unto Abram, my wrong is upon thee: I have given my handmaid, into thy bosom; and she seeth that she hath conceived; and I am depised in her eyes: Jehovah judge between me and thee. And Abram said unto Sarai, Behold thy handmaid, is in thy hand; do to her, that which is good in thine eyes: And Sarai afflicted her, and she fled from her face. And the Angel of Jehovah found her, by a fountain of waters, in the wilderness: by the fountain, in the way of Shur. And he said, Hagar Sarais handmaid, from whence comest thou, and whether wilt thou go? And she said, I am fleeing from the face of my mistress Sarai. And the Angel of Jehovah said unto her; Return to thy mistress, and humble thyself, under her hands. And the Angel of Jehovah, said unto her; multiplying I will multiply, thy seed: and it shall not be numbered for multitude. And the Angel of Jehovah, said unto her; Behold thou art-withchilde, and shalt bear a son, and thou shalt call his name, Ishmael; because Jehovah, hath heard thy affliction. And he will be, a man like a wild asse; his hand willbe against all, and the hand of all, against him: and he shall dwell, before the faces of all his brethren. And she called the name of Jehovah, that spake unto her; Thou the God that seest me: for she said; have I also here, seen, after him that seeth me? Therefore the well was called, Beer-lachai-roï: behold it is between Kadesh, and Bered. And Hagar bare unto Abram, a son: and Abram called, the name of his son, which Hagar bare, Ishmael. And Abram, was fourscore years and six years old: when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram. [unspec 16]

Annotations.

H ⟨...⟩ ] or, bond-maid, servant: opposed to a free woman, Ier. 34. 10, 11. Gal. 4. 22. The Holy Ghost translatheth it in Greek, sometime Doulee, a woman servant, Act. 2. 18. sometime Paidiskee, a bondmaid, Gal. 4. 22. This bond woman was of Egypt (or Mizraim) of the posterity of Cham, Gen. 10. 6. which Egypt is after called the house of servants. Exod. 10. 2. for holding Abram's seed in bondage. Hagar] in Greek Agar: by interpretation a Fugitive, or repulsed stranger; in the Arabian tongue. And the Apostle saith, that this Agar (allegorically) is mount Sinai in Arabia, and is in bondage with her childre, Ga. 4. 24. 25. where he maketh her a figure of the Old Testament, or covenant of the Law given on mount Sinai, and of the earthly Jerusalem: as Sarai the freewoman, figured the Jerusalem which is above, and the New Testament or covenant of the Gospel in Christ. Hagars posterity are called Hagarens (or Hagarites) in 1 Chro. 5. 10. where the Greek translatheth them Pariokous, strangers.

Vers. 2. restrained] the Greek interpreteth closed me up, according to that phrase of closing up the womb, Gen. 20. 18. contrary to which is the opening of the womb, Gen. 30. 22. God had promised a seed unto Abram, Gen. 15. 4. but not expressly as yet unto Sarai: wherefore doubting whether she should be the mother, she motioneth another course, which was not according to God (for it violated the law of marriage, Gen. 2. 24.) but after the flesh, Gal. 4. 23. go in] that is, accompany with: see Gen. 6. 4. it may be] or, peradventure: a speech not of faith, but of uncertain hope, and likelihood after the flesh, but Sarai her self, had afterward a son by promise, Gal. 4. 23. and the word of promise was, In this same time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son, Rom. 9. 9. wherefore she had a son by Agar, but he was no heir, Gen. 21. 10. so the Church hath had children by the Law, but they were not heirs of the Kingdom of God: for the Law is not of faith; neither are the heirs or inheritance, otherwise then by promise of grace in Christ: Gal. 3. 12, 14, 18, 22, 29. be built] that is, shall have a son. So the Greek explaineth it; and Moses in Deut. 25. 9. And in Hebrew, ben, a son, is named of banah, he built. So Rachel and Leah, are said to build the house of Israel (by bearing children) Ruth 4. 11. and God promised a seed to David, under the similitude of building him an house, 2 Sam. 7. 11, 12, 27. Sarai reckoneth her maids children, as her own: so by the Law, bond servants children were their masters, Exod. 21. 4. Rachel likewise counted her maids children, as given to her self, Gen. 30. 3, 6, 8. And among the heathens, Plutarch showeth, how Stratonice the wife of King Deiotarus being barren, gave secretly her maid Electra unto her husband, by whom she had an heir to the Crown.

Vers. 3. end of ten years] that is, after he had dwelt there ten years. So Abram was now 85. years old and Sarai 75. Gen. 12. 4. and 17. 17. In the year of the world, 2093. a wife] to weet, a secondary and not a full wife, but a concubine, Gen. 25. 6. So Ketura called a wife, Gen. 25. 1. was but a concubine, 1 Chron. 1. 32. what they differ, is noted on Gen. 22. 23. despised] or, lightly set by: the Greek saith dishonored. This pride of Agar, figured the like affection in the heart of those that put confidence in the works of the Law, (as was in the Pharisee Luk. 18. 10. 11.) Rom. 10. 3. And it greatly disquieted Sarai, for it is one of the four things which the earth cannot bear, that an handmaid should be heir to her mistress, Prov. 30. 21, 23.

Vers. 5. my wrong] or, my injury, (which I suffer) is upon thee; that is, thou art the cause of it. So the Greek expounds it, I am injured of thee: and the Chaldee, I have a plea against thee: as if Abraham faulted, in suffering such misdemeanor: Or, my wrong be upon thee, that is, either right thou my wrong, or bear the punishment thereof from God. Thus it accordeth with the words following: and so Targum Yerushalmi explaineth it: my judgment and my abuse, are delivered into thy hand. judge] or, will judge, if thou look not to redress it. But the Greek translates it prayer-wise, the Lord judge. The speech argueth her great passion, as the like in Exod. 5. 21. Judge. 11. 27. 1 Sam. 24. 13, 16.

Vers. 6. is in] or, be in thy hand, that is, in thy own power to correct her. good] that is, pleasing: as the Greek translatheth, use her as pleaseth thee. So in Gen. 45. 16. and often: on the contrary, evil in thy eyes, is displeasing, Gen. 28. 8. afflicted] to humble her, and abate her pride. This seemeth to be by rough handling, or stripes; for a servant will not be corrected by words, Prov. 29. 19. she fled] as impatient of correction, whereby she added sin unto sin, for she should not have left her place, Eccles. 10. 4. nor bereaved Abram of his child in her body: therefore the Angel sendeth her home again; verse. 9. But hereby the difference between the two mothers, (the Law and the Gospel) was also figured.

Vers. 7. Angel] so named of the Greek Aggelos: in Hebrew Maleac, by interpretation a Messenger, or Legate, one sent and employed in any work, whether of God or men. And those sent of God, were sometimes men, as Haggai is called the Lord's Angel (or Messenger) Hag. 1. 13. and John the Baptist, Mal. 3. 1. Mat. 11. 10. and generally the Lord's Priests under the law, Mal. 2. 7. and ministers under the gospel, Rev. 1. 20. But in special, Angels are those heavenly spirits, and fiery flames, that are wise, 2 Sam. 14. 20. and excel in strength, Psal. 103. 20. which are all ministering spirits, sent forth in ministry, for them who shall be heirs of salvation Heb. 1. 7. 14. And here this Angel was sent, for the good of Abram's family. The Hebrew Doctors opinion of Angels is, that they are (essential) forms created, without any material sustance or body. And whereas the Prophets say, they saw an Angel like fire, and with wings, &c. it is all spoken of prophetic vision, and by way of dark-parable. Also, that the Angels are lower and higher one than another: not in highness of place, as when one man sits above another, but as we speak of two wise men, which excel one another in wisdom, that that man is higher then this. Likewise that there are ten names that Angels are called by, and accordingly ten degrees of them: and the tenth called Men, are the Angels which spake with the Prophets, & appeared unto them in prophetic visions, for which cause they are called men, as Maimonides showeth in Misneh, in Iesudei hatorah chap 2. That there are even ten degrees of Angels, the holy Scriptures show not: but degrees there are, as the Apostle mentioneth Angels, Principalities, Powers, Thrones, Dominions, Rom. 8. 38. Col. 1. 16. Howbeit we are warned, not to intrude into those things which we have not seen, Colos 2. 18. Sometime this name Angel is given to Christ himself, who is the Angel of the Covenant, Mat. 3. 1. and of God's face, Isaiah 63. 1. in whom God's name is, Exod. 23. 20. And this Angel which here found Hagar, speaketh as God, I will multiply, verse. 10. and she calleth him Jehovah, verse 13. of Shur,] that is, leading towards Shur, which was a City in the wilderness between Canaan and Egypt, called the desert of Shur, Exod. 15. 22. wherein was scant of waters. So that Agar was fleeing into her native Country: and in this wilderness, her posterity after dwelt, Gen. 25. 18.

Vers. 9. humble] or submit thyself. This word is also used for humbling ourselves before God, with prayer, fasting, and suffering afflictions, as Hest. 8. 21. Dan. 10. 12. 1 King. 2. 26. I am. 4. 10. 1 Pet. 5. 6. And as it is the duty of all servants to be submisse, Tit. 2. 9. 1 Pet. 2. 18. so the Law (which is Agar mystically) is as a servant to the Covenant of Grace in Christ; under which all ought to submit themselves to the justice of God, Rom. 10. 3. Gal. 3. 24.

Vers. 10. multiplying I will multiply] that is, I will surely much multiply, see this phrase noted on Gen. 2. 17. Here the Angel speaketh in the person of God: and propesieth of the many, that should be Agars seed both in the flesh and in the allegory, that should seek for justice by the works of the Law: as did the Israelites, Rom. 9. 31, 32. and 10. 2. 3. 21.

Vers. 11. shalt bear,] or, shalt very shortly bring forth. The original word implieth both the time present and to come; noting the soon accomplishment. So in Judge. 13. 7. Ishmael,] that is, God hath heard, to weet, thy affliction. This showeth the effect of the law, which was added because of transgressions, Gal. 3. 19. and giveth knowledge of sin, Rom. 3. 20. and so causeth wrath, Rom. 4. 15. whereby the conscience being afflicted, calleth upon God for grace, and is heard, Rom. 7. 7. 8-24. 25. Gal. 3. 24. heard:] or hearkened unto, meaning the prayers made in her affliction: as the Chaldee translateth it, hath received thy prayer.

Vers. 12. a man like a wild asse,] or, as the Chaldee expoundeth it, a wild-asse among men: the Greek saith only, a wild man. This was first accomplished in Ismaels person, who dwelt in the wilderness, as a salvage, and was a warlike man, Gen. 21. 20. and the Ishmaelites mentioned in Gen. 37. 25. are there by Targum Yerushalmi called [Sarkain] Saracens, that is by interpretation Thieves or Robbers. Spiritually this signified the wild and fierce nature of man, which by the law cannot be tamed, but is made more rebellious; for when the commandment cometh: sin reviveth, and worketh death in us, by that which is good, that sin, by the Commandment, might become exceeding sinful, Rom. 7. 9. 13. The wild asse, liveth in the wilderness and mountains, is a beast of an untamed nature, and unserviceable to man, Job 39. 8, 9, 10, 11. therefore the Prophet likeneth rebellious Israel, to a wild asse, Ier. 2. 24. and the nature of the wild asse, is opposed (as signifying our unregenerate estate,) to the nature of a man, in Job 11. 12. And as here Ishmael and his offspring are called of the Angel, Phere Adam, a Wild-asse Man: so Israel on the contrary are named by the Prophet Tson Adam, Sheep for men; or Men like a Flock, Ezek 36. 37. 38. to signify our renewed nature in Christ, whose Sheep wear by faith, and obedient to his voice, John. 10. 3.—16. Mahomet the false Prophet of the Turks, and curse of the world, he had his generation from this wild-asse, Ishmael, against all] or, against every man: it meaneth, wars and fighting. before] that is, near unto, and in the sight of his brethren: see Gen. 25. 18.

Vers. 13. Jehovah] the Angel is so called, which seemeth to intimate this to be no creature, but Christ himself, who is called an Angel, as is noted on verse. 7. The Chaldee translateth it, she called on the name of the Lord: and Targum Yerushalmi saith, she prayed in the name of the word of the Lord, that was revealed to her, and said, Blessed art thou ô God, &c. God that seest me] or, God of sight, (of vision:) which is more general, as the Chaldee paraphraseth, the God that seest all: God's seeing is often mentioned in respect of afflictions; as Exod. 3. 7. Psal. 25. 18. and 9. 14. and this Agar seemeth here to intend, from the Angels speech, in verse. 11. here seen] The Greek translatheth, for I have openly seen him that appeared unto me. In this sense she magnifieth God's mercy, for letting her have so clear a sight of him, which is more then the hearing of him, Job 42. 5. and so here, in the desert, is opposed to her master Abram's house, where visions were more usual. Or by seeing, may be meant the discerning of her evil plight, and her reviving after affliction, as in 1 Sam. 14. 29. so the Chaldee translatheth, Loe I do begin to see, after that he appeared unto me. Or, seeing, may mean living, after the sight of God, whereat men were afraid they should die, Judge. 13. 32. and 6. 22. Gen. 32. 30. So the seeing of the light and Sun, elsewhere seemeth to signify living, Eccles. 11. 7. 8. and 7. 13. Psal. 35 10. after him that seeth me] or, after the vision.

Vers. 14. was called] Hebr. he called: that is, every one; not restraining it to any one person. This the Scriptures elsewhere manifest; as, he called, 2 Sam. 5. 20. is by another Prophet written, they called, 1 Chron. 14. 11. and, they had anointed David, 2 Sam. 15. 17. that is, David was anointed, 1 Chron. 14. 8. they buried him, 2 Chron. 9. 31. that is, he was buried, 1 King. 11. 43. they brought children, Mark 10. 13. that is, children were brought, Mar. 19. 13. and many the like. See Gen. 2. 20. Exod. 15. 23. Beer-lachai roi] that is. The well of him that liveth, that seeth me. The Chaldee expounds it, The well whereat the Angel of life appeared. This name was given it, for a memorial of God's mercy, to all posterity with whom is the well of life; and in whose light, we see light, Psal. 36. 10. Kadesh] called also Kadesh-barnea, Numb. 32. 8. and 13. 27. Bered] in Greek Barad: we find it not elsewhere. The Chaldee calleth it Chagra.

Vers. 15. Abram called] by this it appeareth that Hagar believed and obeyed the Angels word, and returned to Abram's house: who (in likelihood) upon her relation gave his son the name, appointed by the Angel. So Ishmael is the first man in the world, whose name was given him of God before he was borne.

Vers. 16. old] Hebr. son of 86 years: see Gen. 5. 32. Thus long Abram had lived altogether childless: and yet he waited 14 years moe, before the child of promise was borne, Gen. 21. 5. and for the space of thirteen years after this, God keepeth silence, and the Scripture mentioneth no speech at all of God unto Abram; so exercised he the faith and patience of his servant; and taught him that the fleshly generation cometh in time before the spiritual: for that is first which is natural, and afterward that which is spiritual, 1 Cor. 15. 46. And this servants son was serviceable to Abram and Sarai, till the promised seed was come, and then Ishmael was put away with his mother, Gen. 21. 10. 14. even so the service of the Law is needful for the Church, till Christ be come, and formed in us, and we by him, do bring forth fruit unto God, Rom. 7. 4. Gal. 4. 1.—5. 19. 31.

CHAP. XVII.

1, God reneweth his covenant with Abram: 5, changeth his name into Abraham, in token of a greater blessing; 10, and instituted the covenant of Circumcision. 15, Sarai her name is changed into Sarah, and she blessed. 17, Isaac is promised. 23, Abraham, and Ishmael, and all the males in Abraham's house are circumcised.

ANd Abram was ninety years, and nine years old: and Jehovah appeared unto Abraham, and said unto him; I am God Almighty, walk thou before me, and be thou perfect. And I will give my covenant between me and thee: and will multiply thee in very much abundance. And Abram fell upon his face: and God spake with him, saying: As for me, behold my covenant is with thee: and thou shalt be a father of a multitude of nations. And thy name shall not anymore be called Abram: but thy name shall be Abraham; for, a father of a multitude of nations, have I given thee to be. And I will make thee fruitful, in very much abundance; and will give thee, to become nations: and Kings shall come out of thee. And I will establish my covenant, between me and thee, and thy seed after thee, in their generations, for an everlasting covenant: to be a God, unto thee, and to thy seed after thee. And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy sojournings, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting-firm-possession: and I will be a God unto them. And God said, unto Abraham; and thou shalt keep my Covenant: thou, and thy seed after thee, in their generations. This [unspec 10]is my covenant which ye shall keep, between me and you, and thy seed after thee: that every male among you be circumcised. And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your superfluous-foreskin: and it shall be for a sign of the covenant between me and you. And a son of eight days, shall be circumcised among you; every male, in your generations: the child of the house, and he that is bought with money, of any strangers son, which is not of thy seed. The child of thy house, and he that is bought with thy money shall be circumcised with circumcision: and my covenant shall be in your flesh, for an everlasting covenant. And the uncircumcised male, whose flesh of his superfluous fore-skin shall not be circumcised; that soul shall even be cut-off, from his people's: he hath broken by covenant.

And God said unto Abraham, Sarai thy wife thou shalt not call her name Sarai: but Sarah shall her name be. And I will bless her, and will give thee a son also of her: and I will bless her, and she shall be to nations; Kings of people's shall be of her. And Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed: and he said in his heart, shall a child be borne to him that is an hundred years old? and shall Sarah that is ninety years old, bear? And Abraham said unto God: O that Ishmael might live before thee. And God said, In deed Sarah thy wife shall bear thee a son; and thou shalt call his name Isaac: and I will establish my covenant with him, for an everlasting covenant, to his seed after him. And for Ishmael, I have heard thee; behold I bless him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him, in very much abundance: twelve Princes shall he beget; and I will give him, to be a great nation. But my covenant will I establish with Isaac: whom Sarah shall bear unto thee, at this set time, in the year next. after. And he made an end of speaking with him: and God went up from Abraham. And Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all the children of his house, and all that were bought with his money; every male, among the men of Abraham's house: and he circumcised the flesh of their superfluous-foreskin, in this selfsame day, as God had spoken with him. And Abraham was ninety and nine years old; when he was circumcised in the flesh of his superfluous-foreskin. And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his superfluous-foreskinne. In this self same day, was Abraham circumcised, and Ishmael his son. And all the men of his house, children of the house, and the bought with money, of the strangers son: they were circumcised with him.

Annotations.

Old] Hebr. son of 99 years: that is, going in his 99 year: see Gen. 5. 32. and the last note of the former chapter. Almighty] or All-sufficient: in Hebrew Shaddai, that is, he who is, (or hath) sufficiency, or most abundant, and able to go through all things, both in mercy and judgment: to which the Scripture hath reference, when it saith, Shod (destruction) shall come from Shaddai (the Almighty): Isaiah 13. 6. Walk thou] or walk pleasingly, as the Greek translation implieth: see the notes on Gen. 5. 22. The Chaldee translatheth it Serve thou. This walking, comprehendeth both true faith, Heb. 11. 5. 6. and careful obedience to God's commandments. Wherefore that which is written, 1 King. 8. 25. to walk before me as thou hast walked before me, is expounded in 2 Chron. 6. 16. to walk in my Law. And this, in Luke 1. 6. is explained to be all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord. perfect] or intyre, upright, and as the Greek saith, unblameable. See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 2. give] that is, dispose and make my covenant (or testament): see Gen. 9. 12. and 6. 18. between me,] the Chaldee interpreteth it, between my Word: so after in v 7. 10. 11. See also Gen 9. 12. in very much abundance] Hebr. in abundance abundance; or, vehemently vehemently: so after in v. 6. and often.

Vers. 3. fell] in reverence to God's word and majesty, and in thankfulness for this mercy. See the like humiliation in Lev. 9. 24. Ezek. 1. 29. and 3. 23. Dan. 8. 17.

Vers. 4. As for me] Hebr. I: the Greek addeth, And I. a father] or, for afather; but the word for, may be omitted in English, as the Greek here also doth; and sometime the Hebrew it self: as, I will be for a lying spirit, 2 Chron. 18. 21. that is, I will be a lying spirit, 1 King. 22. 22. The New Testament in Greek often keepeth the Hebraism, as Heb. 1. 5. &c. a multitude] that is, of many nations, as Paul expoundeth it, Rom. 4. 16. 17. where the Apostle showeth a twofold seed, that which is of the Law, and that which is of the Faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all. So by the multitude of nations, is meant besides his natural posterity, all Christian believers in the world, Gal. 3. 28. 29. who should inherit from him, (as children receive inheritance from their fathers,) the justice that is by faith, and blessedness accompanying the same, through the covenant of grace, propagated by Abram's doctrine and example: see Rom. 4. and Gal. 3. To this the Hebrew Canons do accord: A stranger (say they) bringeth first-fruits, &c. for it was said to Abraham, a father of a multitude of nations, have I given thee to be, (Gen. 17. 5.) Behold he is father of all the world, which shall be gathered under the wings of the Majesty of God: Maimonides in Misn. treat. of First fruits, chap. 4. Sect. 3.

Vers. 5. Abraham] Abram signifieth A high father: and the first letter of Hamon (that is, a multitude) being put unto it, maketh Abraham, as if it were Abrahamon, that is, A high Father of a multitude of nations: Abram is the first man in the world, whose name is changed of God: and it signified a change of estate, and a renewing with increase of grace from God:

therefore this is after mentioned, as one of his favors, Neh. 9. 7. So Jacob's name is made new, Gen. 32. 28. and all true Christians, Esa. 62. 2. Rev. 2. 17. But Isaac's name was not changed, for it was given him of God before his birth, Gen. 17. 19. given] that is, freely made; or, (as the Greek interpreteth) put thee: and this the Apostle followeth, in Rom. 4. 17. So Gen. 9. 12. and after here in verse 6. will give thee to be nations, that is, will make nations of thee.

Vers. 6. Kings] as David, Solomon, and the rest of Israel; besides the Kings of Edom, and other. Also the faithful Kings of the Gentiles, Revel. 21. 24.

Vers. 7. thy seed] thy children: especially Isaac, verse 19. for in Isaac was his seed called, Gen. 21. 12. So, the children of the flesh, are not the children of God, but the children of the promise are counted for the seed, Rom 9. 8. everlasting] Hebr. covenant of eternity. Although the outward signs, and manner of dispensing this covenant, were temporary and changeable, (as Circumcision into Baptism, Col. 2. 11. 12.) yet the covenant it self remaineth one in substance forever: being st<sup>b</sup>lished by the blood of Christ, the great Pastor, Heb. 13. 20. Luke 1. 69. 72. 73. a God] or, for a God, unto thee, that is, thy God, as the Greek translateth it. Herein consisteth the power and life of the everlasting covenant; whereby God himself, his power, wisdom, goodness, mercy, &c. is applied unto man, for blessing and salvation: and we are by adoption made the children of God, 2 Cor. 6. 16. 18. For, blessed is the people, whose God Jehovah is, Psal. 144. 15. they shall be delivered out of miseries, Rev. 21. 3. 4. raised up from the dead, Mat. 22. 31. 32. and God hath prepared for them an heavenly City, Heb. 11. 16.

Vers. 8. of thy sojournings] that is, as the Greek explaineth it, which thou sojournest in. For God gave Abraham no inheritance in it, no not so much as to set his foot on, Acts 7. 5. but he by faith, sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, Heb. 11. 9. So this land, figured unto him the kingdom of heaven; as is shown on Gen. 12. 4. But the rebellious sons of Abraham, after they had full possession of Canaan; are in another sense called sojourners there, Ezek. 20. 38. and 11. 15. as being rather usurpers, then lawful possessors of that land. everlasting] so in Isaiah he saith, thy people shall possess the land forever, Isaiah 60. 21. howbeit they possessed the earthly land, but a little while, Esa. 63. 18. but the eternal inheritance, was to be received by Christ, reserved in the heavens for them and us, Heb. 9. 15. 1 Pet. 1. 4.

Vers. 9. thy seed] thy children, as before in v. 7. meaning all the faithful. Herupon the Hebrew Doctors say, Circumcision was commanded unto Abraham and his seed only, as it is written, thou and thy seed after thee, (Gen. 17. 9.) The seed of Ishmael is excepted, as it is written, For in Isaac shall seed be called to thee, (Gen. 21. 12.) And Esau is excepted, for loe, Isaac said to Jacob, And he give to thee the blessing of Abraham, to thee and to thy seed, (Gen. 28. 4.) It is a general rule, that he only is Abraham's seed, that retaineth his law and his right way; and these are they that ought to be circumcised, Maimonides in Misneh treat. of Kings, ch. 10. S. 7.

Vers. 10. my covenant,] that is, the sign of my covenant (or testament) as is explained in verse 11. Hereupon are those usual speeches, when the signs, and the things signified, are named alike: as, the covenant of circumcision, Act. 7. 8. the Lamb, is the Lord's Passover, Exod. 12. 11. the bread, is Christ's body, Mat. 26. 17. 18. and many the like. circumcised] This word signifieth a cutting-offround-about, to weet, of the foreskin of the flesh. So it was with shedding of blood, and much pain and soreness to the flesh, Exod. 4. 25. 26. Gen. 34. 25. It figured the circumcision (that is, the mortification) of the heart, and spirit in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh, Deut. 10. 16. Rom. 2. 29. Col. 2. 11. and so it was a seal of the righteousness of faith, Rom. 4. 11.

Vers. 11. superfluous-foreskin] The Hebrew Gnorlah, signifieth a superfluity and stoppage, that hindereth the due effect and operation of a thing; and the Greek Acrobustia (which the Apostle useth, in Rom. 2. 25.) is in special that superfluity which is on the top of man's flesh, to weet, on the member of generation: the foreskin that covereth the secret part. Which God here commandeth to be cut quite off, as a sign of mortification and regeneration of nature. The same word is applied figuratively to other parts, as to the lips of a stammerer, which use superfluity in speaking, Exod. 6. 30. and to the heart covered with a fat skin, Lev. 26. 41. Isaiah 6. 10. to the are stopped that it cannot hear, Ier. 6. 10. And spiritually, all sin is signified by this superfluous foreskin; as the Apostle mentioneth the superfluity of maliciousness, to be put away, I am. 1. 21. and the uncircumcision of our flesh, is joined with our estate, dead in sins, Col. 2. 13. The Hebrew Doctors also did thus understand it: for the foreskinne of the heart, in Ier. 4. 4. the Chaldee paraphrast there expoundeth the wickedness of the heart; and in Deut. 10. 16. the Greek interpreters translate it hardness of heart. The uncircumcised ear, in Ier. 6. 10. and heart, in Lev. 26. 41. the Chaldee calleth foolish; and uncircumcised persons in Ezekiel 28. 10. and 31. 18. are in the Chaldee, wicked, and sinners: the superfluous foreskin, signifieth the strength of uncleanness: saith R. Menachem, on Gen. 17. And in speech of Adams sin, the Jews have a proverb, that the first man (Adam) drew over (or gathered) his superfluous-foreskin, that is, broke the covenant of his God, and became a sinner, R. Menachem on Gen. 3. Also when the word is applied unto trees, it signifieth the impurity of the fruits, which might not be eaten of, Lev. 19. 23. and the Hebrew Doctors write, that as Epicures, and they that deny the Law (of God) the Resurrection of the dead, the coming of the Redeemer, and other such like; so he that draweth over (or gathereth his superfluous foreskin, (that is, maketh him-self again uncircumcised) hath no part in the world to come, (that is, in eternal life) but shall be cut-off and perish, and be damned for their great wickedness and sin, forever and ever: Maimonides in Misn. treat. of Repentance, ch. 3. S. 6. asigne] or token; which showeth one thing to the eye, another thing to the mind. The Apostle calleth it also a seal, Rom. 4. 11. which serveth for assurance of the thing signified. And so the Hebrew Doctors use the phrase of sealing their offspring with the sign of the holy covenant, Maimonides in Misn. treat. of Circumcision, ch. 3. S. 3. And that they took not this for a carnal sign, appeareth by their words, in the book called Zohar, where treating upon this Section of the Law, they say, At what time a man is sealed with this holy seal of this sign (of Circumcision:) thenceforth he seeth the holy blessed God properly, and the holy soul is united with him. If he be not worthy, that he keepeth not this sign; what is written? By the breath of God they perish, (Job 4. 9.) for that this seal of the holy blessed God was not kept. But if he be worthy and keep it, the holy Ghost is not separated from him. Our Apostle openeth the mystery more heavenly, whiles he calleth the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of faith, Rom. 4. 11. and, if thou be a transgressor of the Law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision. Circumcision is, that of the heart, in the spirit, not in the letter, Rom. 2. 25. 29.

Vers. 12. a son of eight days] that is, a man child of eight days old, meaning in the 8 day. Which time was so strict, that if the eight day fell to be the Sabbath, yet they circumcised the child therein, John. 7. 22. And so it is in the Hebrew Canons, Circumcision in the time thereof driveth away the Sabbath: that is, a man must omit the keeping of the Sabbath, for to circumcise in due time, Maimonides treat. of Circumcision, ch. 1. S. 9. God appointed the eighth day, as the first convenient time. For creatures new borne, were counted as in their blood, and unclean for seven days, and in the eighth day they might be offered unto the Lord, Levite. 22. 27. and so in mankind, Levite. 12. 2. 3. The same number of days was observed in many other things; as, for the consecration of the Priests, Levite. 8. 33. 35. and 9. 1. the cleansing of Lepers, Levite. 14. 8. 9. 10. and of persons with unclean issues, Lev. 15. 13. 14. the cleansing of polluted Nazarites, Num. 6. 9. 10. and for purifying the altar, Ezek. 43. 26. 27. and sundry the like. In all which, as the Sabbath day ever came over their heads, within that space, (which day was a sign of sanctification from the Lord, Exod. 31. 13.) so Christ ending all figures, and resting the Sabbath day in the grave, rose up from death, the eighth day (which was the first of the week following) whose death was a full cleansing of all our sins, and his rising again, our justification, Mark 16. 1. 2. 6. Rom. 4. 25. And in him are we circumcised, with the circumcision done without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, being buried with him in Baptism, Col. 2. 11. 12. R. Menachem on Gen. 17. saith, Circumcision was therefore done on the eighth day, that the Sabbath might pass over it: for there is no eighth day without a Sabbath. shall be circumcised] by the parents, masters, or Magistrates. The Hebrew Doctors say, the charge lieth upon the father, to circumcise his son: and upon the master, to circumcise his servants, borne in the house, or bought with money. If the father or master transgress, and circumcise them not, &c. then the Judges are commanded to circumcise him, whether it be son or servant, in due time, that there be no uncircumcised left in Israel, nor among their servants. If the thing be hidden from the Judges, and they circumcise him not: when he is wexen great, he is bound to circumcise him-self. And every day that passeth over him, after he is wexen great, and he circumciseth not himself, loe he breaketh the commandment: Maimonides treat. of Circumcis. ch. 1. S. 1. 2. male] who had by nature that foreskin of the flesh to be cut off: the females wanting it, were not to keep this rite, though they were as well as men, within the covenant of grace in Christ, Gal. 3. 28. and therefore baptism, the sign of the covenant now under the Gospel, (which is come in place of Circumcision, Col. 2. 11. 12.) is given both to men and women, Act. 8. 12. Moreover the woman is comprehended under the man, as her head, 1 Cor. 11. 3. who only had this sign in his flesh, with effusion of blood, which always had respect unto, and accomplishment in the blood of Christ, figured by the male, Heb. 9. 22. 23. 24. Here also the Hebrews write; that a child who is borne as if he were circumcised (without a foreskin) the blood of the covenant must be made to drop from him, in the eighth day. A child that is both male and female, must also be circumcised the eighth day. Likewise if any be cut out of the side of his mothers body. And who so hath two foreskins, they cut them both off in the 8 day, Maimonides treat. of Circum. c. 1. S. 7. child of the house] that is, the home borne servant: see the notes on Gen. 15. 3. So after, in verse. 13. 23. bought with money] Hebr. purchase of silver: whereby all money and price is meant. By this it appeareth, that the Heathens also might be partakers of Abraham's covenant, and of grace in Christ, and so of all other blessings in the Church: for every circumcised person, did also eat the passover, (which was another figure of Christ.)

Exod. 12. 48 1 Cor. 5. 7. Of this point the Hebrew Canons say, Whether a servant be borne under the power of an Israelite, or be received from the heathens: the master is bound to circumcise him. But he that is borne in the house, is circumcised on the 8 day: and he that is bought with money, is circumcised in the day that he is received; although he receive him in the day that he is born, he is circumcised in that day. If he receive of the Heathens a servant grown in years, and the servant be not willing to be circumcised: he dealeth with him a whole twelve month. More then that, it is not lawful to keep him he being uncircumcised; but he must sell him again to the Heathens. And if he conditioned with him at the first, whiles he was with his master the Ethnik that he should not circumcise him: it is lawful to keep him though he be uncircumcised; only so, that he take upon him the seven commandments given to the sons of Noah, and he shall be as a stranger sojourning in the land. But if he will not take upon him, those seven commandments, he is to kill him out of hand, Maimonides treat. of Circumcis. chap. 1. S. 3. 6. Of the seven commandments to the sons of Noah, see the notes on Gen. 9. 4. And for killing such as would not yield to those precepts, it is to be understood, whiles the common wealth of Israel stood: but when they were in captivity or dispersion, they sold away such servants to the Heathens; as R. Abraham ben David noteth there upon Maimonides. And that we may the better know, how they were wont to receive heathens into the Church of Israel, I will note it from the Hebrew Doctors. By three things (say they) did Israel enter into the covenant, by Circumcision, and Baptism, and Sacrifice. Circumcision was in Egypt, as it is written, No uncircumcised shall eat thereof, [Exod. 12. 48.] Baptism, was in the wilderness before the giving of the Law: as it is written, Sanctify them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes; [Exod. 19. 10.] And Sacrifice, as it is said, And he sent young men of the sons of Israel, which offered burnt-offerings, &c. [Exod. 24. 5.] And so in all ages, when an Ethnik is willing to enter into the covenant, and gather himself under the wings of the Majesty of God, and take upon him the yoke of the Law; he must be circumcised, and baptized, and bring a sacrifice. And if it be a woman, she must be baptized, and bring a sacrifice; as it is written [Num. 15. 15.] as ye are, so shall the stranger be. How are ye? By circumcision, and baptism, and bringing of a sacrifice: so likewise the stranger throughout all generations, by circumcision, and baptism, and bringing of a sacrifice. And what is the strangers sacrifice? A burnt-offering of a beast, or two turile doves, or two young pigeons, both of them for a burnt offering. And at this time, when there is no sacrificing; they must be circumcised, and baptized, and when the Temple shall be built, they are to bring the sacrifice. A stranger that is circumcised and not baptized, or baptized and not circumcised, he is not a Proselyte, till he be both circumcised and baptized. And he must be baptized in the presence of three, &c. Even as they circumcise and baptize strangers, so do they circumcise and baptize servants, that are received from heathens, into the name of servitude, &c. When a man or woman cometh to join a Proselyte, they make diligent inquiry after such, lest they come to get themselves under the law, for some riches that they should receive, or for dignity that they should obtain, or for fear. If he be a man, they inquire whether he have not set his affection on some Jewish woman; or a woman her affection on some young man of Israel. If no such like occasion be found in them, they make known unto them the weightiness of the yoke of the Law, and the toil that is in the doing thereof, above that which people's of other lands have: to see if they will leave off. If they take them upon them, and withdraw not, and they see them that they come of love, then they receive them, as it is written, When she saw that she was steadfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her, [Ruth 1. 18.] Therefore the Judges received no Proselytes, all the days of David and Solomon. Not in David's days, lest they should have come of fear:

nor in Solomon's, lest they should have come because of the kingdom and great prosperity which Israel then had. For who so cometh from the heathens, for anything of the vanities of this world, he is no righteous Proselyte. Notwithstanding there were many Proselytes, that in David's and Solomon's days, joined themselves in the presence of private persons: and the Judges of the great Synedrion had a care of them, they drove them not away after they were baptized, out of any place, neither took they them near unto them, until their after fruits appeared: Maimonides in Misn. tom. 2. in Issurei biah, ch. 13. S. 1.—6. 11. 14. 15. Hereupon, Baptism was nothing strange unto the Jews, when John the Baptist began his ministry, Matth. 3. 5. 6. they made question of his person that did it, but not of the thing it self, John 1. 25. And as John said of Christ, he shall baptize you with the holy Ghost, and with fire, Matth. 3. 11. so the Hebrew Doctors say, The holy blessed God baptizeth with fire: and the wise shall understand, R. Menachem on Lev. 8. strangers son] that is, gentile or paynim; one foreign born, and without the privilege of God's people. The Chaldee translate it, son of the people's. Such would God admit, if they believed in him, to be partakers of Abraham's covenant.

Vers. 13. circumcised with circumcision] or, circumcising circumcised; that is, certainly, or in any wise circumcised. Which strict charge, is both for the thing it self, and for the manner and time thereof, which was the 8 day after their birth. Yet as God desireth mercy and not sacrifice, Hos. 6. 6. so sickness and weakness of body, might put off circumcision till time of health: as the Hebrew Canons say, *They circumcise not him that is sick, until he be well: and they reckon for him from the time that he is recovered from his sickness seven days, from time to time, and afterwards they circumcise him. By which words is meant, if he have an ague, or like sickness: but if he have sore eyes, or the like, they circumcise him so soon as they are whole. If a child be found on the 8 day, to be very pale coloured, they circumcise him not, till the blood come again into his countenance, like the countenance of children that are in health. Likewise if he be very red, they circumcise him not, till his blood be sunk down into him, and his countenance come again like other children: for this is a sickness, and men must be admonished well of these things. If a woman circumcise her first son, and he die through fervency of the circumcision, which decayed his strength. Also she circumciseth her second child, and he die through the fervency of the circumcision, whether she have this child by her first husband, or by a second: loe her third child shall not be circumcised, in the time thereof, but they defer it, till he waxe great, and his strength be made firm. They circumcise none but children that are without sickness, for peril of life, putteth away all. And it is possible to circumcise after the time, but impossible to restore the life of any one of Israel, forever: Maimonides treat. of Circumcis. ch. 1. S. 16. 17. 18. your flesh] that is, the secret part, or member of generation: for so, the word flesh here and in other places in special meaneth, Ezek. 16. 26. and 23. 20. Lev. 15. 2. God set not the sign of his covenant, on the lips, ears, or other parts of man, (which yet the Scripture calleth also uncircumcised, Exod. 6. 30. Ier. 6. 10.) but on the privy member, to teach the regeneration of nature, even of the whole man, who is borne in sin, Psal. 51. 7. and the derivation of his covenant, to the seed of the faithful, who are thereby holy, Ezr. 9. 2. 1 Cor. 7. 14. and to signify, that the true circumcision is inward, and secret, Rom. 2. 28. 29. This which in the eyes of man, seemeth a thing unprofitable, foolish, and ignominious, doth God choose to make a sign of the covenant of his grace in Christ, who is also himself a scandal and foolishness to the world: but the foolishness of God, is wiser then (the wisdom of) men, 1 Cor. 1.*

23. 25. And that member of the body which man thought to be less honorable, on it God put on more abundant honor, (as 1 Cor. 12. 23.) that it should bear the mark of the heavenly covenant.

Vers. 14. that soul] that is, as the Chaldee expoundeth it, that man: see Gen. 12. 5. cut off] The Greek and Chaldee translate it, destroyed, and consumed. This word is used before, in Gen. 9. 11. and after often in the law, Exod. 12. 15. 19. and 31. 14. Lev. 7. 20. 21. 25. 27 &c. It is sometime spoken of God, cutting off men by death for their sins, Lev. 17. 10. and 20. 3. 5. 6. and so the Hebrews understand it here, and in all other like places: that for willing transgression in secret, God will cut them off by untimely death: and if there be witnesses of it, the Magistrate is to punish or kill them: but for ignorant transgression, they were to bring the appointed sacrifices. Under this also, eternal damnation is implied. Maimonides in treat. of Repentance, chap. 8. S. 1. speaking of eternal death, saith, And this is the Cutting off written of in the Law, as it is said (in Num. 15. 31.) that soul shall be cut-off he shall be cut off. Which we have heard expounded thus, cut off in this world, and cut off in the world to come. Of this sanction here they say, If the father or master do transgress, and circumcise not, they break a commandment, but are not guilty of cutting-off: for cutting-off belongs but to the uncircumcised person him-self. Maimonides treat. of Circumcis. c. 1. S. 1. Howbeit, Moses the father had almost been killed, for not circumcising his son, Exod. 4. 24. &c. broken] or, made frustrate, broken down: this word is opposed to the former stablishing, or making firm, in verse. 7. The Hebrews have a canon, who so breaketh the covenant of Abraham our father, and leaveth his superfluous-foreskin, or gathereth it over again; although he have in him the law and good works, he hath no portion in the world to come. Maimonides treat. of Circumcis. chap. 3. S. 8. Which rule is true according to the Apostles interpretation, applying circumcision to the heart, spirit, and faith in Christ, Rom. 2. 29. and 4. 11. Col. 2. 11.

Vers. 15. Sarah] in Greek Sarrha. The letter j changed into h, signified the multiplication of her children, as before in Abram's name, verse. 5. And the Greek having no h at the end of words, doubleth therefore the letter r, with an aspiration Sarrha, and so the Apostles also write it, Rom. 9. 9. 1 Pet. 3. 6. Sarai the Chaldean name, is made Hebrew Sarah: which is by interpretation a Princesse. The Apostle calleth her a Freewoman, and maketh her a figure of the New Testament and heavenly Jerusalem, Gal. 4. 22. 24. 26. and the example of Abraham and Sarah, thus called, blessed, and increased, is set forth for their children the Church to consider, and comfort themselves withal, Isaiah 51. 1. 2. 3.

Vers. 16. shall be to nations] that is, shall become nations, and be a mother of them, both in the flesh, and in the Lord. For all godly women are called her children, 1 Pet. 3. 6. and Jerusalem her answerable type, is the mother of us all, Galat. 4. 26. Psal. 87. 5. 6.

Vers. 17. laughed] that is, as the Chaldee translatheth it, rejoiced: and so the word after importeth, Gen. 21. 6. though sometime it implieth also a doubting, as in Gen. 18. 12. 13. but the praise of Abraham's faith, who was not weak, nor staggering, but gave glory to God, Rom. 4. 19. 20. seemeth to free him from this imputation. Targum Yerushalmi expoundeth it, he marvelled. Of this word laughed, in Hebrew jsaak, the child promised was called Isaac: in whom Abraham saw the day of Christ, and rejoiced. old] Hebr. son of 100 years, that is, going in his hundred year. So Sarah was daughter of ninety years. See Gen. 5. 32. At these years, both their bodies were now dead, unapt for generation, Rom. 4. 19. Heb. 11. 12.

Vers. 19. shall bear] or beareth: speaking as of a thing present: for God calleth the things which be not, as though they were, Rom. 4. 17. Isaac] Heb. Iitschak; the same word used before in verse 17. and signifieth laughing or joy: for besides his father and mother, all that hear, have occasion to laugh and rejoice for his birth, Gen. 21. 6. in whom both Christ the joy of the whole earth was represented, and all the children of promise, John 8. 56. Rom. 9. 7. 8. Gal. 4. 28. seed] the Greek version addeth, to be a God to him and to his seed; as before in verse 7.

Vers. 20. heard] the Chaldee explaineth it, I have accepted thy prayer. twelve Princes] So of Jacob, Isaac's son, came twelve Patriarchs, Act. 7. 8. These Princes are after named, in Gen. 25. 12.—16.

Vers. 21. covenant] This is the thirteenth time that the covenant is named in this Chapter; and hereby is meant the promise of Christ, and salvation in him, as the Apostle showeth in Rom. 9. 5. 7. 8. and by this it appeareth, that God's covenant with Abraham, was of spiritual and heavenly things in Christ, as is also confirmed by Luke 1. 55. 72. 73. 74. Gal. 3. 29. wherein Isaac was preferred before Ishmael.

Vers. 22. God went up] to weat, into heaven, and appeared no longer: so in other like visions of Angels, they are said to go into heaven, Luke 2. 25. For God, the Chaldee saith, the glory of the Lord, meaning the vision which had now appeared: which phrase the holy text sometime useth, as in Ezekiel 1. 29. and 3. 23. and 8. 4. So after, in Gen. 35. 13.

Vers. 23. Abraham took] herein he shown a rare example of obedience to God's word, not regarding the affliction, danger, shame, scandal, and foolishness, which this action in the eyes of the world seemed to bring with it: though to him-self, and all the faithful in his house, it was the seal of the righteousness of faith, Rom. 4. 11. Here the Jews have their uncertain conjectures, or traditions; as that Abraham sent and called for Sem the son of Noah, (he was Melchizedek) about this business: that it was done on Atonement day (spoken of in Levite. 16.) and in the place where afterward the Altar stood, in the Court of the Temple, and the like: Pirke. R. Eliezer, ch. 29. circumcised] or, cut off, to weat, all the skin that covered the top of the flesh, that the top of the flesh remained bare; for so the Hebrew show the manner of Circumcision to have been. And this being a holy sign and seal, Abraham doubtless sanctified the work by prayer: which custom all the Jews keep to this day. For he that circumciseth, doth first bless him that sanctified them with his commandments, and commanded them to circumcise; and to gather themselves into the covenant of Abraham their father, that sanctified his beloved from the womb, and sealed their offspring with the sign of the holy covenant: that commanded them to circumcise strangers, and servants, and to draw out of them, the blood of the covenant. Which blessings Maimonides recordeth in his foresaid treatise of Circumcision, ch. 3. S. 1. 2. 3. 4. 5. where he also noteth, that who so circumciseth a man grown, must cover his nakedness, whiles he blesseth: and after he uncovereth and circumciseth him. self-same day] Hebr. the body (or strength) of this day, at Gen. 7. 13. the Greek interpreteth it, in the time of that day. From hence, and the commandment in Lev. 12. 3. the Jews have taught, that none might ever circumcise but in the day time, after the Sun was up:

Maimonides treat. of circum. ch. 1. S. 8.

Vers. 27. circumcised with him] Not only Abraham himself, but his household with him, kept the way of the Lord, Gen. 18. 19. and by faith they all obeyed this hard precept, whereby they were wounded, pained, and sore in their flesh, all at once, as Gen. 34. 25. and spiritually, did put off the body of the sins of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ: Col. 2. 11.

CHAP. XVIII.

1, Abraham entertaineth three Angels, 9, who promiseth Sarah a son, 12, where at she laugheth, and is reproved. 17, The destruction of Sodom is revealed to Abraham: 23, and he maketh intercession for the men thereof. 32, The whole City should be spared, if but ten just persons were found therein.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 .

AND Jehovah appeared unto him, in the Okes of Mamree: and he was sitting at the tent door, in the heat of the day. And he lifted up his eyes, and saw; and loe three men standing before him: and he saw, and ran to meet them, from the tent door; and bowed-down himself to the ground. And he said: Lord, if now I have found grace in thine eyes; pass not away I pray thee, from thy servant. Let a little water I pray you be taken, and wash ye your feet: and lean-ye-down under the tree. And I will take a morsel of bread, and sustain ye your heart, after that ye shall passon; for therefore have you passed, unto your servant: And they said; So do as thou hast spoken. And Abraham hastened into the tent, to Sarah: and he said, Hasten three pecks of flowry meal: knead, and make cakes. And Abraham ran unto the herd; and he took a Calf of the herd, tender and good: and gave it to a yongman; and he hastened to make it (ready.) And he took butter and milk, and the calf of the herd which he had made (ready.) and set it before them: and he was standing by them, under the tree, and they did eat. And they said unto him; where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, behold in the tent. And he said, Returning I will return unto thee, when this time reviveth; and loe, Sarah thy wife shall have a son: And Sarah heard, in the tent door, and it was behind him. And Abraham and Sarah were old, coming into days: it ceased to be with Sarah, after the way of women. And Sarah laughed, within her self saying: after I am wexed-old, shall I have pleasure? also my Lord is old. And Jehovah said unto Abraham: wherefore laugheth Sarah, saying, Shall I verily bear-a-child, and I am old? Shall any-thing be unpossible for Jehovah? At the appointed-time will I return unto thee, when this time reviveth, and Sarah shall have a son. And Sarah falsely-denied, saying, I laughed not: for she was afraid: and he said, nay, but thou didst laugh. And the men rose-up from thence, and looked towards Sodom: and Abraham went with them, to bring them on the way. And Jehovah said; shall I hide from Abraham, that which I am doing? And Abraham being shall be a great and mighty nation: and blessed shall be in him, all nations of the earth? For I know him, how that he will command his sons, and his house after him; and they shall keep the way of Jehovah, to do justice and judgment: that, Jehovah may bring upon Abraham, that which he hath spoken unto him. And Jehovah said; The cry of Sodom and Gomorrhah, because it is much: and their sin, because it is very heavy. I will go-down now and see, whether according to the cry thereof that is come unto me, they have done altogether: and if not, that I may know. And the men turned the face from thence, and went to Sodom: and Abraham, he yet stood before Jehovah. And Abraham drew near, and said; wilt thou also consume the just with the wicked? If so be there be fifty just men, within the City: wilt thou also consume, and not spare the place, for the fifty just, which are within it? Far-be-it from thee to do according to this word, to slay the just with the wicked, and that the just should be as the wicked: far-be-it from thee; shall the Judge of all the earth, not do judgment? And Jehovah said; If I shall find in Sodom, fifty just men within the city: then will I spare all the place for their sake. And Abraham answered, and said: Behold now I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord; and I, am dust and ashes. If-so-be there lack of fifty just men, five; wilt thou destroy for five, all the city? And he said, I will not destroy, if I shall find there, forty and five. And he added again, to speak unto him, and said; If-so-be forty be found there: and he said, I will not do it, for fourties sake. And he said, O let not now the Lord be wroth, and I will speak; If-so-be thirty be found there: and he said, I will not do it, if I shall find thirty there. And he said, Behold now I have taken-upon me to speak unto the Lord; If so be twenty shall be found there: And he said, I will not destroy, for twenties sake. And he said, O let not now the Lord be wroth, and I will speak but this once; If-so-be, ten shall be found there: And he said, I will not destroy, for ten's sake. And Jehovah went-away, when as he had made-an-end, of speaking unto Abraham: and Abraham, returned to his place.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the fourth section of the Law, called of the first word Vajera, that is, And (the Lord) appeared. See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 1. appeared] or, was seen of him, meaning Abraham. This vision was to renew the promise of Isaac's birth; and to acquaint Abraham with God's purpose of destroying Sodom. And for us, to see how Abraham's faith wrought with his works; and by works, faith was made perfect, as I am. 2. 22. the aches] that is, the oke-grove, or the plain: see Gen. 13. 18. in the heat] that is, at •oone: as the Greek translatheth it. At such time travellers wexe saint and hungry: heat also figureth afflictions, Mat. 13. 6. 21. Rev. 7. 16. the due time to show forth works of grace, Mat. 25. 35.

Vers. 2. three men] so they seemed at first to Abraham; but he entertained Angels unawares, Heb. 13. 2. for one of these is called Jehovah, verse. 13. 14. 17. 20. 22. and Abraham after so acknowledged him as the Lord and Judge of all the earth, ver. 25. 27. And this was Christ, Rom. 10 9. John 5. 22. The other two were created Angels, Gen. 19. 1. The Hebrew Doctors here say; And behold three Angels were sent to Abraham our father: and they three were sent for three things, because it cannot be, that moe things then one should be sent by the hand of one of the high Angels. The first Angel was sent to show gladtidings unto Abraham our father, that Sarah should bear Isaac. The second Angel was sent to deliver Let from the overthrow (of Sodom.) The third Angel was sent to overthrow Sodom and Gomorrhah, Admah and Seboim: Targum Yerushalmi on Gen. 18. before him] or, against him; thus occasioning Abraham to come unto them: who presently ran; and so pursued hospitality, as the Apostle speaketh, Rom. 12. 13.

Vers. 3. Lord] the Hebrew Adonai is written with long A in the end, which is the usual title of God, as is observed on Gen. 15. 2. The Greek also translatheth it absolutely Lord, and the Chaldee expresseth it by the letters of Jehovah; otherwise then in Gen. 19. 2. And Abraham in verse. 27. under this title, acknowledgeth him for God; opposing himself, as dust and ashes.

Vers. 4. lean ye down] that is, rest ye; or as the Greek translatheth, refresh yourselves.

Vers. 5. sustain ye] or uphold; that is, comfort or strengthen your heart: the Greek translatheth it eat. Bread is compared to a staff or stay, Isaiah 3. 1. for that it is the chief sustenance that upholds the life of man. So in Judge. 19. 5. Psal. 104. 15.

Vers. 6. three pecks] or measures, each of them was at least a pottle bigger then our English pecke, for three of them made an Ephah, or Bushel, (whereof see Exodus 16. 36.) The Hebrews write that this their pecke, (which they call Seah, the Greek Saton,) contained as much as 144 common hens eggs. For their least measure is the quantity of an egg; six whereof do make a measure called Log, or Pinte, (whereof see Lev. 14. 10.) and four of them Logs make a Kab, (whereof see 2 Kin. 6. 25.) and six Kabs make this Seah or Pecke; three whereof Abraham prepareth here, for three men's dinner; which with other things do manifest his liberality: contrary to Nabal's, 1 Sam. 25. 11. Our Savior also hath a Parable of three pecks of meal which a woman leavened, Mat. 13. 33. That which in Ruth 2. 17. is an Ephah (or Bushel) of barley; the Chaldee Paraphrase there calleth three Seahs (or pecks.) So also in Exod. 16. 36. flowery meal] that is, fine meal: Hebr. meal of flower. This, and the tender and good calf, verse. 7. showeth that Abraham's benevolence was of the best things that he had. See the annotations on Gen. 4. 4.

Vers. 7. the herd] or, the beeves: as the Greek and Chaldee turn it. a calf] Hebr. son of the herd, or beefe: so, sons of the flock, for Lambes, Psal. 114. 4. son of the asse, for a foale, Gen. 49. 11. 〈...〉 es of the Vicornes, Psal. 29. 6. and sundry the like. to make it] to weet, ready, that is, to dress it. An usual phrase for preparing, dressing, or trimming anything; so, to make the Passover, Exod. 12. 48. Mat. 26. 18. and other sacrifices, Exod. 10. 25. Psal. 66. 15.

Vers. 8. set] Hebr. gave. standing] the Chaldee translatheth; he ministered to them. And so the Hebrew word oft signifieth, as the Levites that stood, Neh. 12. 44. that is, served, or waited: so he which stood before the King, Ier. 52. 12. is said to be the servant of the King, 2 King. 25. 8. And this setteth forth Abraham's humility.

Vers. 9. in the tent] It is a virtue for women, to be keepers at home, Tit. 2. 5. but the lewd women's feet, abide not in her house, Prov. 7. 11.

Vers. 10. Returning I will return] that is, I will certainly return: see Gen. 2. 17. This was a word of promise, whereby the children of God, and true seed of Abraham, were discerned from the other, Rom. 9. 8. 9. Neither do we find that this return was by the Angels apparition again: but by the complement of the thing promised. when this time reviveth] or liveth; that is, the next year at this time: as appeareth by the accomplishment, Gen. 21. 2. 5. for then Abraham was an hundred year old, and now he was ninety nine, Gen. 17. 24. In the revolution of the year, things return to the same life and estate, which they had before. And in spiritual things, when promises are fulfilled, it is called the acceptable year of the Lord, Luke 4. 19. So a City is said to be revived, when it is built and repaired, 1 Chron. 11. 8. and stones revive, when they are restored to their former state, Nehem. 4. 2. And the Apostle confirmeth this interpretation, citing the place thus, At this time will I come, Rom. 9. 9. It may also be translated, According to the time of life: or rather, at this time of life: the word this, being usually understood, as in Exod. 9. 18. 1 Sam. 9. 16. and 20. 12. and sometime expressed, as in Ios. 9. 6. The Chaldee referreth it to Abraham and his wife, According to this time when ye shall be alive. A like promise is made in 2 King. 4. 16. 17. where the Greek version hath, as the time (or when the hour) liveth.

Vers. 11. into days] that is, into years: as Gen. 4. 3. A like phrase the Evangelist useth of some gone forward in days; for, very aged, Luke 1. 7. 18. So Gen. 24. 1. the way,] that is, the custom (or manner) of women, for the ordinary and natural course of the body, or fluors; mentioned Levite. 15. 19. 25. meaning, that she was past natural strength to conceive and bear children; as is explained in Rom. 4. 19. Heb. 11. 11. So the promise of redemption was fulfilled for us by Christ, when we were without strength, Rom. 5. 6. even dead in trespasses and sins, Ephes. 2. 1.

Vers. 12. laughed] as thinking it could not be: which her weak faith is after reprov'd, and she strengthened, verse. 13. 14. But Abraham's laughing was for joy; in belief, and admiration, Gen. 7. 17. and so was Satahs afterward, Gen. 21. 6. wherefore her faith also is commended unto us, Heb. 11. 11. my Lord] that is, my husband, whom Sarah reverenceth by this name: wherefore her obedience is set forth for an example to all women, in 1 Peter 3. 6.

Vers. 14. anything] or word, that is, whatsoever can be spoken of. unpossible] or, marvelous; that is, hard to be done; or unpossible, as the holy Ghost translateth this according to the Greek version, Luke 1. 37. So in Zach. 8. 6. It implied also a thing hidden and unknown. Here God graciously pardoneth Sarah's infirmity, after he hath reprov'd her; and repeateth his promise to strengthen her faith, that she might be blessed, in believing that there should be a performance of those things, which were told her from the Lord, (as Luke 1. 45.) For Zacharias was stricken dumb for a time, because he believed not a like promise made unto him, Luke 1. 13. 18. 20.

Vers. 16. to bring them on the way] or, to send them away, to weat, with honor, and after a godly sort, as the Apostle speaketh, 3 John. 6. for this is a dutiful kindness much spoken of; as in Act. 20. 38. and 21. 5. Rom 15. 24. 1 Cor. 16. 11. Tit. 3. 13.

Vers. 17. shall I hide] that is, I will not hide. As, shalt thou build me an house? 2 Sam. 7. 5. is the same that, thou shalt not build, 1 Chron. 17. 4. And, do men gather grapes of thorns? Mat. 7. 16. which another Evangelist recording, saith, men do not gather, Luke 6. 44. The Lord will do nothing but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the Prophets, Amos. 37.

Vers. 18. being shall be] that is, shall surely be, or, become. in him] that is, in his seed, Christ: see Gen. 12. 3.

Vers. 19. how that he will] or, to the end that he may command: but the Greek keepeth the former sense. his house] the men of his house, as the Chaldee explaineth it. According to this is the law, Deut. 6. 7. and 11. 19. and they shall keep] or, that they may keep: these two phrases are implied in the Hebrew, and the Scripture useth them indifferently, as, judge not, and ye shall not be judged, Luke 6. 37. or, that ye be not judged, as Mat. 7. 1. the way] that is, the true religion, faith, and obedience prescribed for men to walk it, Act. 18. 25. 26. Deut. 8. 6. and 10. 12. The Chaldee saith, the wates that are right before the Lord. unto him,] or, of him. The Greek translatheth, all things that he hath spoken unto him.

Vers. 20. heavy] or grievous: of their sins, see the notes on Gen. 73. 13. The Greek here translatheth, their sins are very great.

Vers. 21. I will go down] see this phrase in Gen. 11. 5. The Chaldee saith, I will appear and judge. done altogether] or, made a full end: that is, have wholly finished their sin, which bringeth forth death, I am. 1. 15. This word full-end, (or consummation) is used also for the full-punishment and consuming of the sinners, Ier. 46. 28. that I may know] so the Greek translatheth: it may also be Englished, I will know; that is, make trial. God speaketh of himself, after the manner of men: So in Gen. 22. 12. Exod. 33. 5. The Chaldee paraphraseth; I will consume them if they repent not; but if they do repent, I will not take vengeance.

Vers. 22. the men] two of the three which appeared to Abraham, verse. 2. which were two Angels, Gen. 19. 1. the third stayed with Abraham, and he is called Jehovah; the Lord Christ. stood] or, was standing, as the Greek translatheth: the Chaldee addeth, stood in prayer before the Lord: so Gen. 19. 27. And elsewhere by standing before God: prayer is meant, as Ier. 15. 1. And Christ saith, when ye stand, praying, Mark 11. 25.

Vers. 23. drew-near] to make his requests to the Lord: a sign and fruit of faith, Heb. 7. 19. and 10. 22. consume] or, make-an-end of.

Vers. 24. If so be] or, It may be; peradventure: it is a word that intimateth difficulty, and yet with some hope of possibility: as in Exod. 32. 30. Ios. 14. 12. Zoph. 2. 3. 1 Sam. 14. 6. 2 King. 19. 4. spare] or forbear, forgive the place, under one City Sodom, implying all the rest.

Vers. 25. Far be it from thee] The Hebrew Chalilah, signifieth a profanation, or profane thing; and so forbidden to be done. And sometime the name of God and Lord is added, as in 1 Chron. 11. 19. 2 Sam. 23. 17. and it is in our phrase, God forbid, or God's forbod. The Apostles, following the Greek version, express it sometime by (Me genoito) be it not, or sarre be it, Rom. 3. 4. 6. sometime by hileos, that is, propitious or favorable; as praying God in mercy to keep it away: as Matth. 16. 22. Far be it from thee, (or God forbid,) Lord. to do] or from doing. this word] or, this thing. judgment] that is, right judgment, or equity. So the word judgment is often used, as Psal. 9. 5. 17. and 119. 121. Mat. 23. 23.

Vers. 26. all the place] and so, the people of the place. In Ier. 5. 1. God offereth the like for Jerusalem, if there could a man be found that executed judgment, and sought the truth, he would spare it.

Vers. 27. have taken upon me] or, have willingly begun; for so the original word sometime signifieth willingness and content, Ios. 17. 12. Judge. 17. 11. sometime a voluntary beginning, or, or taking hand, Deut. 1. 5. Accordingly the Greek here translatheth, I have begun. dust] that is, base, vile: see Gen. 3. 19.

Vers. 28. destroy] or, corrupt, mar: see Gen. 6. 13 for five] that is, for lack of five. So, for fatness, Psal. 109. 24. and, for the fruits, Lam. 4. 9. is, for the lack of them.

Vers. 30. and I will] or, that I speak: as verse 19. the Greek translatheth it, If I speak: so verse 32. Also and, is put for and if, in Exodus 4. 23. Malac. 1. 2.

Vers. 32. this once] Abraham descended not to sewer then ten: a reason whereof the Hebrew Doctors give to be this, that in the generation of the flood, there were eight, Noah and his wife, and his three sons, and their wives; and yet the world was not saved for their sakes: Breshith rabbah, on Gen. 18.

Vers. 33 Jehovah went away:] the Chaldee saith, the glory of the Lord was lifted up. made an end] the Greek turneth it, had ceased speaking.

CHAP. XIX.

1. Lot in Sodom entertaineth two Angels, 4, the Sodomites (to abuse them) do he set his house, and will not be dissuaded from their wickedness. 11, The Angels strike them with blindness, 12, and send Lot for safety into the mountain: 18, but he obtaineth leave to go into Zoar. 24, Sodom and Gomorrhah are destroyed with fire from heaven. 26, Lots wife looking back, is a pillar of salt. 30, Lot fearing to abide in Zoar, dwelleth in a cave. 31, His two daughters make him drunken, and of them he begetteth Moab and Ammon.

AND there came two Angels to Sodom, in the evening; and Lot was sitting in the gate of Sodom: and Lot saw, and rose-up to meet them; and he bowed-down himself with the face to the ground. And he said, Behold now my Lord's, turn in I pray you into your servants house, and tarry-all-night, and wash your feet; and ye shall rise-up-early, and go on your way: And they said Nay, but we will abide-all-night in the street. And he pressed upon them vehemently, and they turned in unto him, and came into his house: and he made them a banquet; and did bake unleavened cakes, and they did eat. But before they lay-down; the men of the city, the men of Sodom, compassed about the house, from the young even to the old: all the people, from the utmost quarter. And they called unto Lot, and said unto him; where are the men, which came unto thee, this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them. And Lot went-out unto them, to the door: and he shut the door after him. And he said; I pray you my brethren, do not evil. Behold now, I have two daughters, which have not known man; let me I pray you, bring out them unto you; and do ye to them, as is good in your eyes: only to these men, do not any-thing; for therefore came they into the shadow of my rafter. And they said, Stand further; and they said, This one fellow came in to sojourn, and will he judging judge? now will we do worse to thee then to them: and they pressed sore, upon the man upon Lot, and came near, to break the door. And the men put-forth their hand, and brought in Lot unto them, into the house: and shut the door. And they smote the men, which [unspec 11] were at the door of the house, with blindnesses, from the small even to the great: that they wearied themselves to find the door. And the men said unto Lot; hast thou here any besides? sons-in-law, or thy sons or thy daughters, or any that thou hast in the City: bring-out, from this place. For we will destroy this place: because the cry of them is wexen-great, before the face of Jehovah; and Jehovah hath sent us to destroy it. And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons-in-law, that were taking his daughters; and he said, rise-up go-out, from this place: for Jehovah will destroy the City: but he was as one-that-mocked, in the eyes of his sons-in-law. And when the dawning-of-the-day came-up, then the Angels hastened Lot, saying; Arise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which are found here; lest thou be consumed, in the iniquity of the City. And he lingered, and the men laid-hold on his hand, and on the hand of his wife, and on the hand of his two daughters, in the gentle-mercy of Jehovah upon him: and they brought him forth, and set him without the City. And it was, when they had brought them forth-abroad, that he said; Escape for thy soul, look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain: escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed. And Lot said unto them: Oh not so Lord. Behold now, thy servant hath found grace, in thine eyes; and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast done with me, to save-alive my soul: and I, I cannot escape to the mountain, lest evil cleave unto me, and I die. Behold now, this city is near, to flee thither, and it is a little one: oh let me escape thither, is it not a little one? and my soul shall live. And he said unto him, Loe I accept thy face, for this thing also: that I will not overthrow the City, for the which thou hast spoken. Hast thee, escape thither; for I cannot do any thing, till thou be come thither: therefore he called the name of the City, Zoar. The Sun came-forth over the earth: and Lot entered into Zoar. And Jehovah rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrhah, brimstone and fire: from Jehovah, out of the heavens. And he overthrew these Cities, and all the plain: and all the inhabitants of the Cities, and that which grew on the ground. And his wife looked from behind him: and she was, a pillar of salt.

And Abraham gat-up-early, in the morning: unto the place, where he had stood, before Jehovah. And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrhah; and toward all the land of the plain: and he saw, and loe the smoke of the land went-up, as the smoke of a furnace. And it was, when God destroyed the Cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham: and sent Lot out of the mids of the overthrow, when he overthrew the Cities in the which Lot dwelt. And Lot went-up out of Zoar, & dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave; he and his two daughters. And the firstborn said unto the younger, out father is old: and there is not a man in the land, to come in unto us, after the way of all the earth. Come, let us make our father drink wine, and let us lie with him: and keep-alive seed of our father. And they made their father drink wine, in that night: and the firstborn went-in, and lay with her father; and he knew not when she lay-down, or when she arose. And it was, on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger; Behold I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, lie thou with him; and let us keep-alive seed of our father. And they made their father drink wine, in that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he knew not when she lay down, or when she arose. And the two daughters of Lot, were with child, by their father. And the firstborn bare a son, and she called his name Moab: he is the father of Moab, unto this day. And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi: he is the father of the sons of Ammon, unto this day.

Annotations.

There came two] or, the two Angels came, called before, men, Gen. 18. 22. and so they seemed unto Lot, who also entertained Angels unawares, Heb. 13. 2. Compare this action of Lot, with Abraham's, Gen. 18.

Vers. 2. my Lord's] so both Greek and Chaldee also translate it; the Hebrew, Adonai, being written otherwise, then when it signifieth the Lord God: see Gen. 18. 3. Nay] The Angels as men, humanely refused; being sent also to view the manners of the people, (Gen. 18. 21.) they would have abode in the streets indeed, had not Lots importunacy, made them do otherwise. So Christ made as if he would have gone further, but constrained by the disciples, he stayed with them: Luke 24. 28. 29.

Vers. 3. pressed upon] or, was instant, constrained: so Luke 24. 29. a banquet] or, a drinking; as both the Hebrew and Greek words signify, for large drinking is used in banquets; hereupon it is called the banquet of wine, Est. 5. 6. and 7. 7. and the King and Hamon came to drink with Queen Ester, that is, to banquet, Est. 7. 1. So Est. 3. 15. unleavened-cakes] for hast, because time suffered them not to be leavened. See Exod. 12. 39. where the word cakes is expressed, which here wanteth: as on the contrary, cakes were expressed in Gen. 18. 6. where unleavened is to be understood.

Vers. 4. from the utmost] meaning, from every quarter: for the Hebrew often omitteth the repeating of the same word at the end, for brevities sakes; as 1 Chron. 17. 5. from tent to tent, and from tabernacle: where is again to be understood, unto tabernacle. So here, from utmost part (to utmost part:) that is, from all parts. Sometime it is fully expressed, as in Matth. 24. 31. from the end of heaven, to the end thereof. The Greek here translateth, all the people together.

Vers. 5. called unto Lot] They were not ashamed to proclaim their own filthiness: so God reproveth the Jews, they declare their sins as Sodom, they hide them not, Isaiah 3. 9. may know them] that is, may lie with them: as Gen. 4. 2. which sense the Greek version also giveth here. Hereupon that horrible and unnatural sin, which the Scripture calleth lying with the male, Lev. 18. 22. and 20. 13. is called Sodomy, as being first practiced in Sodom, and the cities about it; which God would therefore severely plague in this world and forever, as the Apostle writeth of Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities about them in like manner giving themselves to fornication, and going after other flesh; they are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire, Jude verse. 7. The Canaanites having fallen from God, to idolatry, Deut. 11. 2. 3. 30. 31. God therefore gave them up to uncleanness, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves, and leaving the natural use of the womā, to burn in lust one toward another, men w<sup>t</sup> men doing that which is unseemly; as Paul observeth, in Rom. 1. 23. 24.—27. An example of like filthiness, fell out after this in Israel, Judge. 19. 22. &c.

Vers. 6. the door] two words are here used for a door, the first Pethach, which is the open-place, wherat he went out: this latter, deleth, which is the door that shutteth up the passage.

Vers. 7. my brethren] thus he lovingly entreateth those wicked men; respecting the common brotherhood of nature, Act. 17. 26. Isaiah 58. 7. so David called the evil and wicked, his brethren, 1 Sam. 30. 23.

Vers. 8. not known] to weet, by lying with the male; as the phrase is explained in Num. 31. 17. and so by the Yerushalmi Targum here. By this prostituting of his daughters, Lot thought to avoid a greater evil: but it is not lawful to do evil that good may come, Rom. 3. 8. of my rafter] or beam, that is, of my roof, or house made with rafters: a part being put for the whole: so the Greek hath, under the roof of my rafters: but the Chaldee saith, of my habitation.

Vers. 9. stand further] or, get thee a side: as if they would consult of the matter. But by a much like speech used in Isaiah 65. 5. it seemeth to be spoken in disdain. and will he judging judge?] or, he will judging judge: but the Greek resolveth it into a question, came he also to judge judgment? This phrase, doubling the word, (whereof see Gen. 2. 17.) may also imply Lots often rebuking of them at other times, for he was vexed with the lascivious conversation of those wicked men; and dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, tormented his just soul, day after day, with their unlawful deeds, 2 Pet. 7. 8.

Vers. 11. with blindnesses] or, dazzled-blindness, both of body and mind; when the sight beams are confused, and nothing can be seen as it is. The word is not used but in this place, and at another like accident, in 2 King 6. 18. the plural number noteth the greatness of the plague; as extreameblindnesse.

Vers. 12. or thy sons] in the Hebrew, and is here for or; as the Greek also translateth it: see Gen. 13. 8.

Vers. 13. will destroy] or, are destroying: Hebr. corrupting: see Gen. 6. 13. that is, we are about to destroy: so v. 14.

Vers. 14. were taking] that is, being betrothed, were ready to take in marriage: or had taken, as the Greek explaineth it. If we thus understand it, then Lot had some daughters which perished with the Sodomites: for only two which were virgins, escaped with him, verse. 8. 30. This also seemeth closely to be implied in verse. 15. go-out] The Hebrew word hath in it a prick extraordinary, (noted also in the Hebrew margin) which increaseth the signification, as urging an hasty going-out. The like is in Exod. 12. 31.

Vers. 15. are found] that is, present. The Chaldee addeth, which are found faithful with thee: the Greek saith, which thou havest. But found is often used for present, 1 Chron 29. 17. 2 Chron. 5. 11. and 30. 21. and 31. 1. and 34. 32. the iniquity] that is, the punishment for iniquity. Hereupon is that usual phrase of bearing iniquity, for suffering punishment, Lev. 20. 17. 19. 20. Num. 14. 34. Even the righteous are in danger, to partake of the wicked's punishment; if (when God calleth) they depart not from among them. Compare Rev. 18. 4.

Vers. 16. lingered] or, delayed, distracted himself, with much trouble and business: the Greek translateth, they were troubled. David contrary wise delayed not, to keep God's commands, Psal. 119. 60. 〈◇〉 in the gentle-mercy] or, for the merciful sparing, that is, the Lord being merciful and sparing him; as the Greek translateth. The word importeth gentleness, and loving affection, or commiseration, as whereby men are spared from punishment. So in Esa. 63. 9. in his love & in his gentle mercy God redeemed his people.

Vers. 17. that he] or, then he said, meaning the Lord [unspec 17]I ⟨...⟩ h, as appeareth v. 18. 24. who (it seemeth) was new come from Abraham to Sodom, Genesis 18. 22. 33. thy soul] that is, thy life: for so the Scripture usually speaketh, as, keep his soul, Job 2. 6. that is, spare his life: to seek the soul, is to seek ones life, Exod. 4. 19. Mat. 2. 20. See also Gen. 2. 7. and 37. 21. look not] this commandment (as the like in Gen. 2. 17.) was given not to Lot alone, but to his wife and children, as the event showeth, verse. 26. and forbiddeth all affectation of worldly things, which draweth from ready obedience unto God: Compare Luke 9. 62. Phil. 3. 13. 14. Mat. 24. 16. 17. 18. to the mount] The mountains are sometime spoken of, as places of safety, Mat. 24. 16. figuring God's providence and protection, Psalm. 121. 1. and 125. 2. Isaiah 2. 2.

Vers. 18. Lord] or, my Lord's: for the Hebrew Adonai (by reason of the pause) is here doubtful, whether it be the title of God, or of men. For the Chaldee putteth for it Lord's; but the Greek Lord: and the words following are directed to one, though before he spake to them: See Gen. 15. 2. and 18. 3.

Vers. 19. cleave unto me] the Greek saith, take hold on me. Herein Lot shown his weak faith, not resting in God's word; wherefore the place which he chose for safety, secured him not; but for fear he left it, ver. 30.

Vers. 20. to flee] that is, for me to flee: as the Greek translateth. See Gen. 6. 19. and 23. 8.

Vers. 21. accept thy face] or, lift up thy face; that is, do respect, and so will gratify thee, and grant thy request in this thing. Thus the Lord doth the desire of them that fear him, Psal. 145. 19. This phrase of accepting the face, is usual for showing of favor to any; which sometime is spoken in the ill part, and commonly called respect of persons, and then it is denied of God, Deut. 10. 17. and forbidden to men, Deut. 16. 19. The Greek expresseth it by ethaúmasa to prosopon: which here, and in sundry other places meaneth, an honorable regard and estimation of ones face, or suit: in which sense the Apostle useth it, Jude v. 16. against such as would respect the face, or gratify men for profits sake. The contrary whereto is, to turn away the face of any; which is, to say one nay, or deny their request. 1 King. 2. 16. 20.

Vers. 22. any-thing] or, the thing, to weet, now in hand. Heb. a word. he called] that is, everyone, or, it was called. See the notes on Gen. 16. 14.

Zoar] or Zogor: in Greek Sigor, and else-where Sogor, in the Latin Segor, by interpretation Little: before it was called Bela, Gen. 14. 2.

Vers. 23. came forth ever] or, arose upon the earth. This time of the morning was fittest to show the light of grace arisen to Lot: and how in prosperity affliction shall come upon the wicked, and they not know the morning thereof, as Isaiah 47. 11. For the rising of the Sun, is a sign of favor from the Lord, Mat. 5. 45. but unto Sodom, it is the time of vengeance. Hence Christ saith, as it was in the days of Lot, they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they pl••ed, they built; but the day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all: even thus shall it be in the day, when the son of man is revealed, Luke 17. 28. 29. 30.

Vers. 24. and upon Gomorra] with two other cities (not here expressed) Admah and Seboim, Deut. 29. 23. brimstone] this added to fire, increaseth it, Isaiah 30. 33. and so is used in Scripture to signify increase of torment for the wicked, and the second death, Rev. 14. 10. and 19. 20. and 20. 10. and 21. 8. And of these Cities it is said, besides their temporal judgment, that they suffer the vengeance of eternal fire, Jude ver. 7. and are made an ensample to those that after should live ungodly, 2 Pet. 2. 6. So the Hebrew Doctors say, The men of Sodom, have no part, (or inheritance) in the world to come, as it is written, The men of Sodom were wicked, and sinners before the Lord exceedingly, (Gen. 13. 13) wicked in this world, and sinners in the world to come, Talmud. Bab. in Sanhedrin. chapt. Chelek. This judgment of burning, was answerable to Sodom's sin, that burned in brutish lust, man towards man: so Nadab and Abihu, that transgressed with fire, are burned with fire, Lev. 10. 1. 2. Others sinning by shedding of blood, have blood to drink, Rev. 16. 6. Exod. 7. 20. 21.

Vers. 25. overthrew] this word noteth a sudden, unevitable, and perpetual destruction, whereupon the Prophet saith, the Lord overthrew them and repented not, Ier. 20. 16. and the Apostle saith, he condemned them with an overthrow, 2 Pet. 2. 6. and in Lam. 4. 6. Sodom was overthrown even in a moment, and no hands stayed on her: and to the perpetual desolation of these Cities, there is allusion in Isaiah 13. 19. 20. Ier. 50. 40. Zoph. 2. 9. yet the punishment of them that despise the Gospel, shall be greater then Sodom's, Mat. 11. 24. that which grew] or, the bud of the ground: so that in the plain where these cities stood, there grew no good thing after, to this day; but it became a dead and loathsome lake, called the dead sea, and sea of salt, see Gen. 14. 3. Zoph. 2. 9. Deut. 29. 23. So the Rabbin's say, Of the wickedness (of the five Cities) even to this day, the wast land that smoaketh is a testimony, and plants bearing fruit, that never come to ripeness, Wisd. 10. 7.

Vers. 26. from behind him] the Greek translateth it, unto the things behind: which phrase is used in Luke 9. 62. Phil. 3. 14. This being done contrary to the commandment, verse. 17. and with a corrupt affection in her, God did severely punish: and she is a warning to all; as Christ saith, he that is in the field, let him not return to the things behind, remember Lots wife, Luke 17. 31. 32. was a pillar] or, became a pillar (or statue) of salt: and so she had part of the plagues of Sodom, which was brimstone and salt, that it became a sea of salt, Deut. 29. 23. Gen. 14. 3. And this her statue or pillar, stood for a memorial to others, that they may be the better seasoned. This salt pillar continued long; Josephus a Jewish historian after Christ's life on earth, writeth that he did see it: Antiqu. 1. book chapt. 12. and so others since his time.

Vers. 27. had stood] the Chaldee addeth, stood in prayer: see Gen. 18. 22.

Vers. 28 toward] Hebr. on the face of Sodom: so after. the smoke] a visible sign of the fire and judgment consuming them: and a fearful change of this pleasant land which was before like the garden of the Lord, like Eden, Gen. 13. 10. So in the City of Antichrist, (spiritually called Sodom, Rev. 11. 8) where first the smoke of heresies had arisen like the smoke of a fornance, which darkened Sun and air, Rev. 9. 3. after there did arise the smoke of her burning, which went up for evermore, Rev. 18. 9. 18. and 19. 3. The Greek here translateth, a flame went up out of the land, as the vapor of a furnace.

Vers. 29. destroyed] Hebr. corrupted: see Gen. 6. 13. Abraham] for whose sake Lot his nephew fared the better, as before, Gen. 14. 14. 16. according to the promise, Gen. 12. 3. and the intercession of Abraham, Gen. 18. 23. &c. in the which] that is, in one of the which; in Sodom. Things spoken as of many, are often meant but of one: see Gen. 46. 23. in the notes.

Vers. 30. in the mountain] where God appointed him at first, verse. 17. but then he pretended danger, and prayed against it, verse. 19. now he feareth to dwell in Zoar, which he had chosen, and God had granted him, and of himself goeth to the mount; showing much weakness.

Vers. 31. in the land] of Canaan; or, in the earth. She seems to intend, no godly man, with whom they might marry: otherwise she might know there was people in Zoar, and other places. to come in] that is, to company with us: see Gen. 6. 4.

Vers. 32. and keep-alive] or, that we may keep alive. seed] that is, children, as the Chaldee paraphrast hath it.

Vers. 37. Moab] by interpretation, Of the father; so the Greek addeth, Moab, saying, of my father. of Moab] that is, of the Moabites, as the Greek and Chaldee do express. The Hebrew useth to call all posterity by the fathers name: as Jacob and Israel, for the Iaakobites and Israelites, Gen. 34. 7. and 49. 7. Ishmael, for the Ishmaelites, Gen. 28. 9. Edom, for the Edomites, Gen. 36. 9. Aaron, for the Aaronites, 1 Chron. 12. 27. and 27. 17. and many the like. The Hebrew text often explaineth this, by adding the word sons, or house, or the like: as, 1 King. 12. 18. all Israel stoned him: for which, in 2 Chron. 10. 18. is written, the sons of Israel. And 2 Chron. 11. 1. to fight against Israel: for which, in 1 King. 12. 21. is written, against the house of Israel. Again, all Israel came, 2 Chron. 10. 3. that is, all the congregation of Israel, 1 King. 12. 3. These Moabites soon fell from the faith of God, and became idolaters, the people of Chomsh, and Baal peor, Num. 21. 29. and 25. 1. 2. 3. and dwelling near the land of Canaan, were enemies to Abraham's children, as the Scriptures often mention, Num. 22. Judge. 3. 14. &c.

Vers. 38. Ben ammi] by interpretation, Son of my people; in Greek Amman; son of my kindred: in both names there was a memorial of their incestuous procreation, which the daughters it seemeth boasted of, as having children of their own godly kin, not of the faithless and cursed nations. the sons of Ammon] that is, according to the Greek, the Ammonites: as those whom the Prophets usually call sons of Israel, the Apostles sometime call Israelites, Rom. 9. 4. and 11. 1. These Ammonites dwelt also by Moab, near Canaan; and became partners with Moabs idolatry, and enemies to Israel, Judge. 11. 4. 24. Deut. 23. 3. 4. Of these two Nations, many things are spoken in the Scripture; whose original, Moses therefore describeth here.

CHAP. XX.

1, Abraham sojourneth in Gerar, 2, saith again, that his wife is his sister. 3, Abimelech (for taking her) is in a dream threatened of God. 4, Abimelech excuseth himself unto the Lord; 9, rebuketh Abraham, 14, restoreth Sarah, 16, and reproveth her 17, He and his are healed by Abraham's prayer.

AND Abraham journeyed from thence to the South country; and dwelled between Kadesh and Shur: and sojourned in Gerar. And Abraham said, of Sarah his wife, she is my sister: and Abimelech, King of Gerar, sent; and took Sarah. And God came unto Abimelech, in a dream by night: and he said to him; Behold thou art a dead man, for the woman which thou hast taken; for she is married to an husband. And Abimelech had not come-near unto her: and he said, Lord, wilt thou slay also a just nation? Said not he unto me, she is my sister? and she even she also said, he is my brother: in the perfection of my heart, and in innocence of my hands, have I done this. And God said unto him, in a dream; I also do know, that in the perfection of thy heart, thou hast done this: and I also withheld thee from sinning against me: therefore I gave thee not, to touch her. And now, restore thou the wife of the man, for he is a Prophet; and he shall pray for thee, and live thou: and if thou restore her not; know thou, that dying thou shalt die, thou, and all that are thine. And Abimelech rose-early in the morning, and called all his servants, & spake all these words in their ears: and the men were sore afraid. And Abimelech called Abraham, & said to him, what hast thou done unto us, and what have I sinned against thee, that thou hast brought on me, and on my kingdom a great sin? Thou hast done unto me, deeds that should not be done. And Abimelech said unto Abraham: what sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing? And Abraham said; because I said, Surely there is no foare of God in this place: and they will kill me for my wives sake. And yet truly, she is my sister, the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother: and she became my wife. And it was when they, even God, caused me to wander from my fathers house; then I said unto her, this is thy kindness which thou shalt do unto me: at every place whither we shall come, say thou of me, he is my brother. And Abimelech took sheep and oxen, and men servants, and women servants; and gave unto Abraham: and restored to him Sarah his wife. And Abimelech said, Behold my land is before thee: dwell thou in that which is good in thine eyes. And unto Sarah he said, Behold I have given a thousand shekels of silver to thy brother; behold he is to thee a covering of the eyes; unto all which are with thee: and all that (thou mayest be) rebuked. And Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his women-servants, and they bare-children. For Jehovah had closing closed-up, every wombs, in the house of Abimelech: because of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

Annotations.

I Ourneyed] or removed, to weat, from the okes of Mamre, Gen. 18. 1. country] or, land of the south; that is, the south part of the land of Canaan: see Gen. 12. 9. Kadesh] see Gen. 16. 14. 7. Gerar] a country of the Philistines, in the southern parts of the Land of Canaan, Gen. 10. 19. Hither Isaac came afterward to so journe, for famine, Gen. 26. 1.

Vers. 2. of Sarah] the Hebrew el which properly signifieth unto, is used for of, or concerning and is so translated by the Greek, here and Ier. 27. 19. and so the Greek pros, in like manner, Heb. 1. 7. and 4. 13. Or if we read it, unto Sarah, the meaning is, that together with her, both he and she said it: as after in verse. 5. is manifested. See the like done before, in Gen. 12. 11. 12. 13.

Vers. 2. Abimelech] by interpretation, Father-King: a common title of the Kings of Palestine, as Phar ⟨...⟩ was of the Kings of Egypt: see Gen. 26. 1. Psal 34. 1. For Kings should beo Fathers to their countries: so rulers are casled fathers, 2 King. 5. 13. Job ⟨◇⟩ . 16. and 1 Sam. 1•. 15. where your fathers, is translated in Greek, your King: see Gen. 4. 20.

Vers. 3, God came] the Chaldee saith, word came from the face of God. This serteth forth God's care for his. he suffered •o man to do them wrong, but reprovod Kings for then sakes, Psal. 165. 14. a dream] which is ⟨◇◇⟩ •on that the mind of man conce ⟨...⟩ ⟨◇⟩ isle ⟨◇◇⟩ natural arising from the ⟨∞⟩ of the body; or affections of the mind, are many, and have their vanities and deceits, Eccles. 5. 7. Isaiah 29. 7. 8. But dreams supernatural sent of God, as here, or by his Angels, as Mat. 2. 13. are to be regarded: for God by them signifieth what he would, or what men should do, Gen. 41. 25. Job 33. 14. 15. 16. &c. Dreams also are sometimes by the lying spirit of Satan: which are not to be believed or regarded, Zach. 10. 2. Deut. 13. 1. 2. 3. See also Gen. 37. 5. a dead man] that is, shalt surely die. But under such threats, conditions often are implied: as here, if thou deliver not the woman. See Ezek. 33. 14. 15.

Vers. 4. come-near] that is lain with her: being stayed by sickness, as it seemeth by verse 17. the Greek saith, touched her not, the Hebrew also, in verse 6. So Paul useth the phrase of touching a woman, 1 Cor. 7. 1. and Solomon, Prov. 6. 29. just nation] fearing, as it seemeth, wrath upon his people also, verse. 9. as often cometh to pass for the Princes sins. So for David's sin, a plague came on his people, 1 Chron. 21. 14. 17. Or he calleth his family a nation: which was now visited of God, verse. 17. 18.

Vers. 5. perfection] or, integrity, simplicity, sincerity. The Chaldee interprets it truth; the Greek, a pure heart. It is opposed to hypocrisy. innocence of my hands] or, cleanness of my palms: the palms of the hands are named, as wherein filthiness might be hidden: so purging himself even from secret crime.

Vers. 6. withheld] the Greek translatheth, spared thee It seemeth God's chastisement restiained him, verse. 17. and so he was not able to do the evil, which otherwise naturally he could, and was proneunto. from sinning] the Greek saith, that thou shouldst not sin. As God, for Abraham's sake, with held Abimelech from the fact; so respecting the integrity of the Kings hearr, he kept him also from the sin. gave thee not] that is, let or suffered thee not; as the Greek translatheth. Giving is often used for suffering, as Gen. 31. 7. Exod. 3. 19. Psal. 16. 10. but it is more then bare sufferance, as implying an action also on God's part, who giveth means to stay from evil, or sendeth delusions, when so it pleaseth him, as 2 Thess. 2. 7.

Vers. 7. a Prophet] therefore do him no harm, Psal. 105. 15. A Prophet in Hebrew Nabi, in Greek Prophets, from which we have the word Prophet, so named of speaking, interpreting or uttering words and oracles that come from God, Deut. 18. 15. 16. 18. as of seeing or receiving them by visions, such were named Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9. So Moses interpreter is called his Prophet, Exod. 7. 1. and all interpreters of the Scriptures, 1 Cor. 14. 29. In special, a Prophet was one endued with the Spirit of God, and could foretell things to come, Deut. 18. 22. Psalm. 74. 9. Ier. 29. 15. Such are called holy men of God, which spake as they were moved by the holy Ghost, 2 Pet. 1. 20. The Hebrew Doctors say; It is one of the foundations of the Law, to know that God maketh the sons of men to prophesy: and prophesy resideth not, but in a man that is great in wisdom, mighty in his virtuous qualities, so that his affections overcome him not, in any worldly thing; but by his knowledge he overcometh his affections continually; and he is a man expert in knowledge, and of a very large understanding: &c. On such a man, the holy spirit cometh down; and when the spirit resteth upon him, his soul is associated unto the Angels, and he is changed to another man; and perceiveth in his own knowledge, that he is not so as he was, but that he is advanced above the degrees of other wise men: even as it is said of Saul (in 1 Sam. 10. 6.) and thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man. Maimonides in Iesudei hatorah, ch. 7. S. 1. shall pray] This was a special work of the Prophets, to pray for the people, Ier. 14. 11. and 15. 1. whereupon it is said; If they be Prophets, and if the word of the Lord be with them, let them entreat the Lord, &c. Ier. 27. 18. Praying or interpellation, hath the first signification of judging, and so meaneth the presenting of the person and cause of any unto God as the judge; and the judging of ones self. live thou] that is, thou shalt live: but it is a powerful manner of speech: (whereupon God is said to command his mercy, and the salvation and blessing of his people, Psal. 42. 9. and 44. 5. and 133. 3.) The like is often used, as Amos 5. 4. seek me and live: that is, ye shall live, and dwell forever, Psal. 37. 27. dying] that is, shalt surely die: see Gen. 2. 17.

Vers. 9. that should not] the Chaldee translatheth, that are not meet to be done; the Greek saith, which none should do.

Vers. 11. Surely or, Only. The Greek translatheth, Lest there be not the fear of God: so making it an imperfect speech, implying doubt, as in Mat. 25. 9. By the fear of the Lord men depart from evil: Prov. 16. 6.

Vers. 12. of my father] The Jews opinion from hence is, that Sarah was the same that Iseah, mentioned in Gen. 11. 29. and had two names: and that she being the grandchild of Thara, by another woman then Abraham's mother, is so spoken of here. became] Hebr. was to me, for a wife.

Vers. 13. they even God] Elohim the name of God, in form plural, is usually joined with a word singular, as he created, Gen. 1. 1. here and in some few other places, it is coupled with a word plural •no without mystery of the Trinity: which the Gentiles not understanding, they fell to hold many gods, contrary to the truth, Deut. 6. 4. A like speech of God is after used, in Gen. 35. 7. and in 2 Sam 7. 23. they even God went: which another Prophet relating saith singularly, God he went, I Chron. 17. 21. so that though words of the plural number be joined, yet the plurality of gods is no way intended; one Scripture clearing another: yea sometime the very same text, explaining it self, as Ios. 24. 19. Elohim holies (or holy ones) he. The Greek translatheth here singularly, when God brought me out from my father house: the Chaldee otherwise thus, And it was when the people's wandered, (that is, committed idolarry,) after the works of their hands, the Lord applied me unto his fear, out of my fathers house. is thy kindness] or shall be thy mercy, that is, thy work of mercy: so love, (1 John 3. 1.) is put for the benefits proceeding from love; and wrath, (Mic. 7. 9. Rom. 13.) is for punishment proceeding from wrath.

Vers. 15. before thee] exposed to thy choice: See Gen. 13. 9. good in thine eyes] that is, as the Greek translatheth, where it pleaseth thee.

Vers. 16. a 1000 shekels] or shistings. The word shekels understood in the Hebrew, is expressed by the Chaldee interpreter: so in 2 Sam. 18. 12. and 2 King. 6. 25. and the Greek also hath a 1000 didrachmes, meaning shekels, for so in Gen. 23. 15, 16. and in many other places, the Hebrew shekels are turned in Greek didrachmes, (or double drams;) and usually where silver is set down, and not the sum, shekels are understood, as appeareth by Num. 7. 13. 85. where the shekel of the sanctuary named after, showeth the same to be meant before. Also where shekels are set down, and the metal not expressed, silver is understood, not gold or any other: as is manifest by Exod. 30. 13, 15. compared with Exod. 38. 25, 26. A shekel (coming of Shakal, he weighed, from whence our English skole and skale to weigh with, is derived,) is by interpretation a weight, as being the most common in payments, in which they used to weigh their money, Gen. 23. 16. Ier. 32. 9. And the shekel of the sanctuary, weighed twenty gerahs, Exod. 30. 13. and a Gerah by the Jews records, weighed sixteen grains of barley: so the holy shekel weighed 320 grains: as Maimonides showeth in treat. of Valuations, &c. ch. 1. S. 4. But the common shekel weighed they say, half so much, viz. 160. grains; which make two drammes and 16. grains. The Chaldee calleth a shekel Silghna, and Selang, (from whence our English shilling, seemeth to be borrowed:) and the quantity of the common shekel differed not much from our shilling, as the shekel of the sanctuary was about two shillings. This Chaldee name came in use among the Jews after their captivity in Babylon, and was somewhat more in weight, then the shekel of Moses, which weighed 320 grains of barley: but now our wise men have added thereto, (saith Maimonides in treat. of shekels, ch. 1. S. 2.) and made the weight of it equal to the coin called Selangh, in the time of the second Temple: and that Selangh weighted 384. common grains of barley. to thy brother] that is, to Abraham, thy husband, whom thou calledst thy brother: to him rather than to her, was it given, lest suspicion should arise that she was defiled. he is to thee, &c.] that is, he is, (and shall be) thy husband to defend thee from injury, and to whom thou must profess subjection. For the covering of the eyes and face with a veil, was a sign of the woman's subjection to the man, and of his power over her. Gen. 24. 65. 1 Cor. 113, 6, 7, 10. Or thus, it shall be to thee: that is, this gift of mine to thy brother, shall be a recompense of the injury done in taking thee from thy husband. The Hebrew is ambiguous, and may indifferently be read, he or it; and so the Chaldee; though it favoereth most this latter, saying, behold it is to thee a covering of honor, for that I did send to take thee, and have seen thee and all that are with thee. The Greek more plainly thus, these (1000 didrachmes) shall be to thee, for an honor of thy face, and to all the (women) that are with thee. and all that, &c.] that is, and all (this is) that (thou mayest be) rebuked, and warned to carry thyself otherwise: and so they are the words of Abimelech. Or, if they be the words of Moses, we may read, and all (this was) that (she might be) rebuked. The Chaldee translatheth, and for all that thou hast said, and be thou rebuked: the Greek thus, and all things speak thou truly.

Vers. 18. closing closed] that is, fast closed. See the like phrase, in Gen. 2. 17.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Isaac is borne; 4 he is circumcised. 6 Sarah's joy. 9 Hagar and Ishmael are cast forth, 15 and fall into distress. 17 The Angel comforteth her. 22 Abimelech's covenant with Abraham at Beer-sheba.

ANd Jehovah, visited Sarah, as he had said: and Jehovah did unto Sarah, as he had spoken. And Sarah conceived, and bare to Abraham a son, in his old-age: at the set-time, which God had spoken to him. And Abraham called the name of his son, that was borne unto him, whom Sarah bare unto him, Isaac. And Abraham circumcised Isaac his son, being a son of eight days: as, God had commanded him. And Abraham was, a hundred years old: when Isaac his son, was borne unto him. And Sarah said, God hath maid me a laughter: everyone that heareth, will laugh with me. And she said; who would have said unto Abraham, that Sarah should have given sons suck? for I have borne a son, in his old age. And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great banquet, in the day that Isaac was weaned. And Sarah saw, the son of Hagar the Egyptian, which she had borne unto Abraham, laughing. And she said to Abraham; Cast out this bond woman, and her son: for the son of this bond woman, shall not be heir, with my son, with Isaac. And the word was very evil, in the eyes of Abraham: because of his son. And God said, unto Abraham; Let it not be evil in thine eyes, because of the lad, and because of thy bondwoman; in all that Sarah shall say unto thee, hear her voice: for in Isaac, shall seed be called to thee. And also the son of the bond woman, I will make of him a nation: because he, is thy seed. And Abraham rose-early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder; and the child, and sent her away: and she went and wandered, in the wilderness of Beer-sheba. And the water of the bottle, was spent: and she cast the child, under one of the shrubs. And she went, and sate herself over-against him, going-far-off about a bow shoot; for she said, let me not see the death of the child: and she sate over-against him, and lifted up her voice and wept. And God heard, the voice of the lad; and an Angel of God, called to Hagar, out of heaven; and said unto her, what aieth thee Agar? fear not, for God hath heard the voice of the lad, there where he is. Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in thy hand: for I will make of him, a great nation. And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water: and she went and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink. And God was with the lad, and he grew: and dwelt in the wilderness, and was a shooter with bow. And he dwelt in the wilderness of Pharan: and his mother took him a wife, out of the land of Egypt.

And it was, in that time; that Abimelech, and Phicol prince of his host, said unto Abraham, saying: God is with thee, in all that thou dost. And now, swear unto me here by God; If thou shalt lie unto me, or to my son, or to my newphew: according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me; and unto the land, in the which thou hast sojourned. And Abraham said; I, will swear. And Abraham reprov'd Abimelech, because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants had violently-taken away. And Abimelech said, I know not, who hath done this thing: and also thou, didst not tell me; and I also, did not hear it, but today. And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave to Abimelech: and both of them stroke a covenant. And Abraham set, seven ewe-lambes of the flock, by themselves. And Abimelech said, unto Abraham: what mean here, these seven ewe-lambes; which thou hast set by themselves? And he said; for, the seven ewe-lambes, thou shalt take of my hand: that they may be to me for a Testimony; that I have digged, this Well. Therefore, he called that place, Beer-sheba: because there they sware, both of them. And they stroke a covenant, in Beer-sheba: and Abimelech rose-up, and Phicol the Prince of his host, and they returned, into the land of the Philistines. And he planted a tree in Beer-sheba: and he called there, on the name of Jehovah, the eternal God. And Abraham sojourned, in the land of the Philistines many days.

Annotations.

Visited] This word signifieth a remembrance, providence, care and performance of that which was spoken, be it good or evil. For good, as here, and Gen. 50. 24. Exod. 4. 31. Luk. 1. 68. and often. For evil, and so it meaneth punishment, Exod. 20. 5. Psal. 89. 33. Num. 16. 29. The Chaldee here translateth remembered: and the Hebrew implieth that, as 1. Sam. 15. 2.

Vers. 2. conceived,] hereupon her faith is commended, Heb. 11. 11. By saith Sarah her self received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised, in his] or, to his oldage: so verse. 7. the set time] promised the year before, Gen. 18. 10. Hereupon Isaac is said to be borne of a freewoman, by promise, and after the spirit, Gal. 4. 22, 23, 29. and this birth is set forth as an example of God's mercy to, and increase of his Church, by the covenant of grace in Christ under the New Testament, whereof Sarah was a figure; Isaiah 51. 2, 3. Gal. 4. 24. 28.

Vers. 3. Isaac] which signifieth Laughter, or Joy: this name was foreappointed him of God, Gen. 17. 19.

Vers. 4. son of 8 days] or, 8 days old: but understanding, in the 8 day, as the Greek translateth it: see the Law, Gen. 17. 12. Isaac is the first that we read of, circumcised at this age.

Vers. 6. made me] or, made laughter to me, that is, joy, as the Chaldee translateth it: as if she had said, hath made me to laugh, or, rejoice. The word is sometime used for laughing to scorn, or mocking, as v. 9. & Ezek. 23. 32. and so some understand it here, laughter at me, that is, hath made me to be laughed at; meaning of the profane, which would laugh & mock, as did Ishmael, verse 9. Though both may be implied in the word, yet the first seemeth most proper: and according to the propheties, Rejoice thou barren which didst not bear, Isaiah. 54. 1. which hath reference to this birth. Gal. 4. 22.—27. 28. & Isaiah 51. 2. 3. with me] or at me: but the Greek translateth it, rejoice with me: the Chaldee also turneth it into joy. And so the Prophet, Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her, Isaiah 66. 10. which Jerusalem, was figured out by this Sarah, Gal. 4. 22, 26.

Vers. 7. should have given sons] Hebrew hath given sons: so noting the certainty: speaking as of a thing done. By sons, is meant any son, or child: as the Greek explaineth it: see Gen. 46. 23. The like admiration is spoken by the Church, Isaiah 49. 21. who hath begotten me these? The Chaldee paraphrast referreth this to God, saying, faithful is he that said to Abraham, and hath fulfilled it, that Sarah should give suck,

Vers. 8. weaned] The Hebrew word signifieth an exchange of one thing for another; and so in weaning, from milk to stronger meat: which as it signified in Isaac a growth in strength of nature, so is it in the faithful, a sign of growth in grace and understanding, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 2. Heb. 5. 12, 13, 14. and of abstaining from worldly childish pleasures. Psal. 131. 2. and Isaac being a figure of all the children of promise (Gal. 4. 28.) we may hereupon gather the reason why Abraham made so great a banquet at Isaac's weaning. So at Samuel's weaning he was presented to the Lord, with a spiritual feast, or sacrifice 1 Sam. 1. 22, 24.

Vers. 9. laughing] that is, deriding or mocking: for so laughing often signifieth, as Gen. 19. 14. Ezek. 23. 32. Lam. 1. 7. it meaneth also abusing otherwise, whereupon laughter and scorn followeth, as Gen. 39. 14. 17. also idolatrous laughing or play, as Exod. 32. 6. Hereupon the Yerushalmi paraphrast referreth it to this latter, of laughing in God's worship: the Greek translatheth it, playing with Isaac her son: (which word playing is sometime used for fighting, 2 Sam. 2. 14, 16.) and by laughing or mocking, the Scripture often noteth a contemptuous and malignant carriage, Job 30. 1. and 12. 4. Lam. 3. 14. Mat. 27. 29. But the Apostle plainly calleth it persecuting, and saith, as then he that was born after the flesh, persecuted him that was borne after the spirit, even so it is now, Gal. 4. 29. And here beginneth by an Egyptians son, that 400 years affliction, spoken of in Gen. 15. 13.

Vers. 10. this bondwoman,] she figured the old Testament: and her son, such as are under the works of the law, Gal. 4. 24. and the mother being to be cast out, it is likely she was the cause, or an abettor of her sons evil. not be heir,] or, not inherit: under which inheritance is figured heavenly blessings in Christ, and life everlasting. Gal. 3. 18, 29. and 4. 7. 1 Pet. 1. 4. So Ishmael cast out from being heir, is a type of servants that abide not in the house forever, that is, of reprobates, John 8. 35. Galat. 4. 30. And though Ishmael were now but a youth, yet even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure and right. Prov. 20. 11. therefore Sarah by the spirit of God uttered this speech, and God confirmeth it, ver. 12. and Paul saith not that Sarah, but the Scripture speaketh this, Galat. 4. 30. and by this it is probable, that Ismaels mocking, was about the inheritance; as some of the Hebrew Doctors also have observed: R. Moses Gerundens. my son,] who am a free-woman, with Isaac, who is freeborne: see Gal. 4. 30. 31. 28.

Vers. 11. very evil,] or vehemently evil, that is, very much displeasing, as on the contrary, to be good in the eyes of any, is to please or content, Gen. 20. 15. because,] or, for the causes: so v. 25. The love to his son, caused this grief: howbeit when God bad him kill his beloved son Isaac, he shown no such discontentment, Gen. 22. 2, 3. it seemeth he thought this to proceed but from Sarah's own passion of mind, till he was further informed of God, verse. 12. 14.

Vers. 12. shall seed be called to thee] or, shall thy [unspec 12]seed be called: they shall be named of Isaac, not of Ishmael: that is, (as Paul inferteth) they which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God; but the children of the promise, are counted for the seed: Rom. 9. 7. 8. Seed to thee, may also be read seed of thee, that is, thy seed: for the Scripture sometime putteth one for another, as disciples to thee, Mar. 2. 18. is the same that disciples of thee, or thy disciples, Mat. 9. 14. From this limitation of Abraham's seed to Isaac, the Jews do reckon none for Abraham's, but the Israelites: as in their Canons they say: who so voweth concerning Abraham's seed, is free from Ismaels and Esau's sons, and is not bound but touching Israelites: as it is said, for in

Isaac shall seed be called to thee: and loe Isaac said to Jacob, And God give thee the blessing of Abraham, Gen. 28. 4. Maimonides, treat. of Vowes, chap. 9. S. 21.

Vers. 13. make of him] Heb. put him unto a nation, so verse 28. Compare Gen. 17. 20. thy seed] thy son, according to the flesh: though not after the promise as Isaac was.

Vers. 14. bread] Sometime bread is used for all food, as in Mark. 6. 36. compared with Mat. 14. 15. Psal. 78. 20. if it be not so here, the Scripture would note the great hardness and misery which they must endure that are cast out of the Lord's inheritance. and the child] to weet, he gave unto her, he being now about 18. years of age: so casting him his first borne son, with her, out of his house. the wilderness,] the way towards Egypt, where there was no way, no food, no waters, no inhabitants: thus were they exposed to many miseries: see Deut. 8. 15. Ier. 2. 6. Contrariwise, Isaac's children were led and guided of God, through that great & fearful wilderness, wherein Ishmael and his mother wandered: Deu. 32. 10. 11. 12. Ex. 13. 21. 22. Our English word wilderness, signifieth a place where men go wild, that is, go astray, or wander, as Agar here did; and so in Job 12. 24. Psal. 107. 40. the like is spoken. In Hebrew it is called Midbar, as being without order, a place not for men to dwell in; but only for beasts, who there must also be led and governed. See Exod. 3. 1. 18.

Vers. 15. she cast the child] that is, she left him being sick, and fainting for thirst. The state of such as are without Christ is hereby resembled: Isaiah 65 13, but they that drink of his waters, shall never thirst, for it shall be in them a well of water, springing up unto everlasting life, John. 4. 14. shrubs,] or, trees, as the Chaldee expounds it. The Greek saith, under a firre-tree.

Vers. 16. the death,] This showeth the extremity that they were come into in the desert, who erewhile had meat and drink enough in Abraham's house, now ready to perish for thirst: God so chastening their former insolency. A like example is of the prodigal son, who almost died for hunger, when the servants in his fathers house had bread enough, Luk. 15. 14. 17. for the man that wandreth out of the way of understanding, shall remain in the congregation of the dead, Prov. 21. 16.

Vers. 17. there where] in Greek, from the place where he is: that is, in this desolate wilderness, where he lieth, perishing, forsaken of all Compare herewith God's promises to his people in misery, Deut. 4. 27.—30. and Psal 107. 4. 5, 6. And thus God remembereth his former promises, Gen. 17. 20. and 16. 10. &c.

Vers. 19. she saw a well,] which though it were there before, yet she saw not, her eyes being holden, till they were opened of God, (as in Luke 24. 16. 31.) By similitude of waters breaking out in the wilderness, and drawing waters out of the wells of salvation, the Scripture denoteth the spiritual graces of the gospel, communicated with the poor afflicted, Isaiah 35. 6. and 12. 3.

Ver. 20. God was] The Chaldee paraphraseth, the word of the Lord was a help to the lad. shooter with bow] or, an archer: and so consequently, a wariour: for shooting with bow, was used in battles with men, Gen. 49. 23. 24. and 48. 22. and thus the oracle was fulfilled, that he should be a wild man, and have his hand against every man, Gen. 16. 12.

Vers. 21. of Pharan] or Paran: a wilderness next adjoining to the desert of Sinai, through which the Israelites journeyed as they went from Egypt to Canaan, Num. 10. 12. and 13. 1. 4. Deut. 33. 2. Hab. 3. 3.

Vers. 22. Abimelech,] King of Gerar in Palestine: see Gen. 20. 2. Prince] that is, chief Captain: as the Greek calleth him Archistrategos, Chief-leader of the Army. God is] the word of the Lord is for an help to thee, saith the Chaldee paraphrast: so in the verse following, for God, he useth the word of the Lord.

Vers. 23. if thou shalt lie,] that is, that thou wilt not lie: as Psal. 89. 36. an imperfect speech, where an imprecation is understood, which sometimes is expressed in part, as in Ruth 1. 17. the Lord do so to me and more also, if. &c. For an oath, is both a taking of the Lord to witness that which one sweareth, and to punish if any violate his faith: both which Paul expressed when he sware, I call God for a witness upon (or against) my soul, 2 Cor. 1. 23. See before Gen. 14. 23. and 26. 29. The Greek for lying translatheth hurting, or wronging. It meaneth false and deceitful dealing contrary to the covenant now to be made between them, see Ps. 44. 18

V. 25. a well] which was of great use and worth in that dry country, as the south parts of Canaan are noted to be, in Judge. 1. 15. Hereupon grew that between Isaac and the Philistines, for wells of water, Gen. 26. 18. 20. 21. The Greek for well, translatheth wells, as being many: and indeed Abraham had there moe wells then one, as appeareth by Gen. 26 15. 18. and it is usual in scripture, to put one for many, as is observed, on Gen. 3. 2. and 4. 20. Albeit the 30. verse. showeth rather one special to be here meant; where also the Greek speaketh of one.

Vers. 31. Beer sheba] by interpretation, the well of the oath, as the Greek translatheth it, and the words following do confirm: or, the well of seven; because of the 7 lambes forementioned, for Sheba usually signifieth seven, and Shebuah, an oath. See also Gen. 26. 33. they sware,] or, were sworn: for swearing is always expressed in Hebrew, in the form passive, to be sworn; because it is with a passion of the mind, and offered or occasioned by another. It hath also the signification of seven, which is a mystical number, Gen. 2. 2. The reason hereof some think to be, because it is confirmed as by seven, that is, by many witnesses: or, as having reference to the seven spirits that are before the throne of God, Rev. 1. 4. the seven horns, and seven eyes of the Lamb (Christ,) which are the seven spirits of God sent into all the world, Rev. 5. 6. Wherefore Abraham's seven lambes, seem to be not without mystery.

Vers. 33. he planted] that is, Abraham planted: as the Greek expresseth: which showeth his purpose and hope here long to continue. a tree] or, a grove: that is, a plot of trees: the Greek saith, he planted a field: the Yerushalmi Targum translatheth it, a paradise, or orchard: and it is usual to put one for many, see Gen. 3. 2. The Hebrew Aeshel is used also for a tree, in 1 Sam. 22. 6. and 31. 13. which another Prophet rehearsing, calleth Aelah, that is, an Oak, 1 Chron. 10. 12. It is before recorded, that Abram had such trees by his tent, under whose cool shadow men sate and were refreshed, in that hot Country, Gen. 18. 1, 4, 8. but by that which here followeth, that he called there on the name of the Lord, it is also probable, that this plantation was for religious use, which before the Law given by Moses, might be lawful; and was used generally of the nations, Deut. 12. 2. but after was forbidden, when God had chosen a place of worship. Yet as from Abraham's example, offering his son Isaac, Gen. 22. the Jews would superstitiously sacrifice their children, Ier. 7. 31. and 19. 5. so from Abraham's grove, they used groves for religious use, and sacrificed under green trees: 2 King. 17. 10. Ier. 17. 2. Isaiah 57. 5. But God forbad such things, Deut. 16. 21. yet the heathen Romans commanded them, saying, Lucos in agris habento: Leg. 12. tab. de relig. lex. 2. eternal God] or, God of eternity, or, of the World. But the Greek translatheth eternal; and so God is called in Rom. 16. 26. Here is the first place, where this title was given him.

Ver. 34 many days] or, years, (as Gen. 4. 3.) Thus God gave some rest to this weary pilgrim: he dwelled here still when Isaac was offered, (which was in the 33. year of his life,) Gen. 22. 19. and how long after is uncertain.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Abraham is tempted to offer-up Isaac. 3 He giveth proof of his faith and obedience. 11 The Angel stayeth him. 13 Isaac is exchanged with a ram. 14 The place is called Jehovah jireh. 15 Abraham is blessed again. 20 The generations of Nahor, unto Rebekah.

AND it was, after these things; that God, did tempt Abraham: and said unto him, Abraham, and he said, Behold here I am. And he said, Take now thy son, thy only (son,) whom thou lovest, even Isaac; and go thou, into the land of Morijah: and offer him there for a burnt-offering, upon one of the mountains, which I shall say unto thee. And Abraham rose-early in the morning, and saddled his asse; and took two of his yongmen with him, and Isaac his son: and clave the wood of the burnt-offering, and rose-up and went, unto the place which God had said unto him. In the third day, then Abraham lifted up his eyes; and saw the place, afar-off. And Abraham said unto his yongmen; abide you here with the asse, and I and the young-man will go yonder: and we will bow-down our-selves, and we will return unto you. And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and put it upon Isaac his son; and he took in his hand, the fire, and the knife: and they went both of them together. And Isaac said unto Abraham his father, & said my father; and he said, Behold I am here my son: and he said, Behold (here is) the fire, and the wood; but where is the lamb, for a burnt-offering? And Abraham said, God will provide himself a lamb, for a burnt-offering, my son: and they went both of them, together. And they came, to the place which God had said unto him; and Abraham built there an altar, and laid the wood in order: and bound Isaac his son, and put him on the altar, upon the wood. And Abraham thrust forth his hand, and took the knife, to kill his son. And the Angel of Jehovah called unto him, out of the heavens; and said, Abraham, Abraham: and he said, loe here I am. And he said, Put not forth thy hand, unto the young-man; neither do thou any-thing to him: for now I know, that thou fearest God; and thou hast not withheld, thy son thy only son, from me. And Abraham lifted-up his eyes, and saw and behold a ram; behind, holden in a thicket by his horns: and Abraham went, and took the ram, and offered him for a burnt-offering, instead of his son. And Abraham called, the name of that place, Jehovah Ireh: of which it is said to this day, in the mountain of Jehovah, it shall be seen. And the Angel of Jehovah, called unto Abraham; the second time, out of the heavens. And he said; By my self have I sworn, assuredly saith Jehovah that, for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son thy only son. Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heavens; and as the sand, which is upon the sea shore: and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies. And in thy seed, shall all nations of the earth bless themselves: because that thou hast obeyed my voice. And Abraham returned, unto his young men; and they rose up, and went together, to Beersheba: and Abraham dwelt in Beersheba.

And it was, after these things; that it was told Abraham, saying: Behold Milcah, she also hath borne sons, unto thy brother Nachor. Vz his first borne, and Buz his brother: and Kemuel, the father of Aram. And Kesed, and Chazo; and Pildash, and Iidlaph: and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebekah: these eight did Milcah bear; to Nachor, Abraham's brother. And his concubine, whose name was Reumah: even she also did bear, Tebach, and Gacham; and Tachash, and Maacah.

Annotations.

THings] Hebr. words: that is, things spoken of: so in verse. 20. See the notes on Gen. 15. 1. tempt] that is, try or prove. The original word hath the signification of lifting up as for a sign, or essaying of some high thing. And God tempteth men, when he requireth some great or high experiment of their faith, love, and obedience; as here and in Exod. 15. 25. 26. Deut. 8. 2. and 13. 3. But temptation often signifieth a solliciting and provoking to evil, which Satan doth, Mat. 4. 1. 3. and man's own corruption, I am. 1. 14. In which sense God tempteth no man, I am. 1. 13. for it always tendeth to evil; but God tempteth us, to do us good at the end, Deut. 8. 26. 1 Cor. 10. 13. And this is spoken of God after the manner of men: for he both knoweth long before what is in man, and what himself will do, Psal. 139. 2 John 2. 25. and 6. 6.

Vers. 2. only son] Paul calleth him only begotten son, Heb. 11. 17. for he had no other of Sarah the freewoman: also Ishmael of Hagar, was cast out of his house, Gen. 21. 14. Isaac] who was particularly designed for the hope of all Abraham's seed to be called in him, Gen. 21. 12. which special point the Apostle observeth in this temptation, Heb. 11. 18. So Abraham's obedience was tried in offering his son; and his faith, in offering him concerning whom he had received the promise.

Morijah] the Greek calleth it the high land: for it was a mountainy country, and this high mount was seen far off, verse. 4. The Chaldee nameth it of the service of God, there now performed, and after increased: for upon this mount Morijah, did Solomon build the Temple, for God's worship, 2 Chron. 3. 1. And by the Jews tradition, here Adam, and Noah sacrificed, and served God: see the notes on Gen. 8. 20. and 4. 3. burnt offering] Hebr. an ascension: so called, because it went all up in fire, burned upon the Altar. See Gen. 8. 20. Levite. 1.

Vers. 3. rose early] so it seemeth this was spoken to Abraham in the night: and here his ready obedience is commended; as on the contrary, the like hast is noted of Balaam for evil, hastening to curse Abraham's children, which God forbad, Numbers 22. 21.

Vers. 4. the third day] As the number seven is of special use in Scripture, because of the Sabbath day, Gen. 2. 2. so three is a mystical number, because of Christ's rising from the dead the third day Mat. 17. 23. 1 Cor. 15. 4. as he was crucified at the third hour of the day, Mark 15. 25, and Isaac as he was a figure of Christ, in being the only son of his father, and not spared, but offered for a sacrifice, Rom. 8. 32. so in sundry particulars, as this third day, in which Christ also was to be perfected, Luke 13. 32. and the carrying of the wood, verse. 6. as Christ did the tree whereon he died, John. 19. 17 the binding of Isaac, verse. 9. as Christ was bound, Mat. 27. 2. and in other like, he was a figure of the Lamb of God, sacrificed for the sins of the world. So Moses craved leave for three days journey into the wilderness, for to sacrifice, Exod. 5. 3. and three days they went therein, ere they found water to drink, Exod. 15. 22. and three days journey the Ark of the Lord's covenant went before them, to search out a resting place for them, Num. 10. 33. Against the third day, the people were to be ready to receive God's Law, Exod. 19. 11. and after three days, to pass over Jordan into Canaan, Ios. 1. 11. The third day Ester put on the (apparel of the) kingdom, Est. 5. 1. and in that day Hezekiah went up to the Lord's house, recovered as from death, 2 King. 20. 5. and that day, is it wherein the Prophet saith, God will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight, Hos. 6. 2. And in the third day (as well as in the seventh) the unclean person was to purify himself, Num. 19. 12. with many other the like memorable things, which the Scriptures speak of the third day, not without mystery. See Gen. 40. 12. 13. and 42. 17. 18. Ion. 1. 17. Ios. 2. 16. Unto which we may add a Jews testimony (in Breshith rabba, commenting upon this place) that there are many a three days, in the holy Scripture, of which one is the resurrection of the Messias.

Vers. 5. bow down] or, worship, to weat, God: for in praying unto (or serving) God, they used to bow their bodies, in sign of reverence and honor; and sometime to kneel, sometime to bend down the head, sometime to prostrate themselves, or fall on their faces. See these gestures distinguished, in the annotations on Exod. 4. 31. we will return] Abraham in faith obeying God, did account that God was able to raise up Isaac even from the dead, Heb. 11. 19. therefore he thus spake, and prophesied of his return with himself, when he went to kill him.

Vers. 6. upon Isaac] so Christ bare the wood whereon himself died, John 19. 17. and all good Christians, are to bear their cross, and follow him, Luke 14. 27. And the sacrifice being to be burned to ashes, it was no small quantity of wood that would suffice hereunto: by which also appeareth that Isaac was not now a child but a man grown: Josephus maketh him 25. year old: others 33.

Vers. 7. the lamb] or kid, The Hebrew word signifieth either young sheep or goat, Exod. 12. 5. Deut. 14. 4. the Greek translatheth it sheep.

Vers. 8. provide him] or, see for himself. So Abraham imparted not the whole matter to Isaac, till he came to the place of execution: but stayed him upon the providence of God. Unto this faith and promise of Abraham, God answered in performance, verse 13. and upon this divine providence, the place had the name, verse 14.

Vers. 9. altar,] to sanctify the sacrifice Mat. 23. 19. See Gen. 8. 20. bound Isaac:] whose faith and obedience herein was also admirable, that he neither in deed nor word resisted his father Abraham, (there being none but they two) but meekly suffered himself to be bound and laid on the altar, as a lamb to be slain: being also herein a type of Christ, in his meek and patient sufferings, Mark. 15. 1. Act. 8. 32. Phil. 2. 8. and of all Christians, the children of promise, who are to present their bodies a living sacrifice; holy, acceptable to God, which is their reasonable service, Rom. 12. 1. The Jews yearly feast upon the first of Tizri (or Septēber) called the memorial of blowing of trumpets, Levite. 23. 24. they named also The binding of Isaac, in remembrance of this action.

Vers. 10. to kill his son] By faith Abraham, when he was tempted, offered up Isaac and he that had received the promises, offered up his only begotten son, of whom it was said, that in Isaac, shall seed be called to thee: Heb. 11. 17. 18. Abraham our father, was he not justified by works; having offered Isaac his son upon thee altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works, was faith perfected? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for justice, and he was called the friend of God, I am. 2. 21. 22. 33.

Vers. 11. the Angel] who speaketh as God, ver. 12. sweareth by himself, and is called Jehovah, verse 16. wherefore this was Christ himself: see before on Gen. 16. 7. and 18. 2.

V. 12. put not forth] or send not forth, that is, lay no violent hands upon him. Thus God spared Isaac from death; and Abraham, who believed that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead; did from thence also receive him, in a parable: Heb. 11. 19. I know] that is, I have experience: God speaketh after the manner of men, as in Gen. 18. 21. and often. and thou hast,] or for that thou hast, see Gen. 12. 19.

Vers. 13. the ram,] Thus Abraham's word 〈...〉 s fulfilled, that God would provide himself a lamb, verse 8. and hereby the redemption of the Church by Christ, (the lamb without blemish, 1 Pet. 1. 19.) was signified according to that in Job 33. 24. Deliver him from going-down to the pit; I have found a ransom.

Vers. 14. Jehovah Iireth] that is, Jehovah will see, or provide, as verse 8. the Greek interpreteth it, The Lord hath seen: for he answering to Abraham's prophesy, verse 8. the perpetual memory of his mercy, was kept in the name of the place. Mori-Yah, the usual name of the mountain, is of like interpretation: Jehovah being shortened into Yah, whereof see Exod. 15. 2. The Chaldee paraphraseth thus. And Abraham prayed and served, (God) there, in that place; and said before the Lord, here shall the generations (to come) serve (God) Therefore was it said in this day, In this mount Abram served before the Lord. He hath reference to the Temple built after in this mount, wherein God was served, 2 Chron. 3. 1. Abraham calling this place Jehovah Iireh, speaketh figuratively, as the Scripture useth in all Sacramental things: because it was a sign of God's providence. So Moses called his altar, Jehovah Nish, Exod. 17. 15. Jerusalem is called Jehovah Shammah, Ezek. 48. 35. it shall be seen,] or, it shall be provided, of God. So this special providence of God towards Abraham, is become a general proverb, for the comfort of his children, in all their distresses. The Greek translateth it, In the mountain the Lord was seen.

Vers. 16. By my self,] the Chaldee turneth it By my word. Elsewhere the scripture saith, God sweareth by his soul, Ier. 51. 14. by his holiness, Amos 4. 2. by his name, Ier. 44. 26. Of this the Apostle saith, when God made promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, he sware by himself saying, surely &c. And, God willing more-abundantly to show unto the heirs of promise, *the immutability of his counsel, confirmed it by an oath; that by two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation: Heb. 6. 13. 14. 17. 18. where also the Apostle teacheth that this is written for our comfort, as all other scriptures, Rom. 15. 4. And by this it is plain, that the Angel who spake to Abraham was God himself: and this oath had the accomplishment in Christ, Luk. 1. 73. &c. assuredly-saith] or, the faithful-saying. The original word Neum, is peculiar to God's oracles, which all are faithful sayings, as Paul speaketh, 1 Tim. 1. 15. and 3. 1. and 4. 9. Of the same Hebrew letters transplac'd cometh also Amen.*

Vers. 17. Surely] so the Apostle (following the common Greek version) translateth the Hebrew Ki (which also signifieth Because, or That;) Heb. 6. 14. And here under the name  blessing, is meant the promise of eternal salvation, as the Apostle there showeth. thy seed] for which, the Apostle saith thee: Heb. 6. 14. Again, where Moses saith thee, in Gen. 12. 3. the Apostle saith, thy seed, Act. 3. 25. By such interpretations, the holy Ghost teacheth us how to understand the Scriptures: and by Abraham's seed, Christ the principal, and author of salvation, is implied: and all the faithful by him saved, Gal. 3. 16. 29. shore] Hebrew lip. Here they are compared to the sand of the sea, which before in Gen. 13. 16. were to be like the dust of the earth: see also Gen. 15. 5. This promise through the faith of Abraham and Sarah believing it, was fulfilled, as the Apostle observeth, Heb. 11. 11. 12. thy seed] Isaac's posterity, Gen. 21. 12. the gate] for, gates, (as tree for trees, see Gen. 3. 2.) and by gates, he meaneth cities, and all strong defended places: as the door (or entering) of the gate, 2 Sam. 10. 8. is explained to be, the door of the city, 1 Chron. 19. 9. And at the gates of cities, were public places of judgment, Deut. 22. 15. Job 31. 21. So the strength and dominion of the enemies is meant here, by the gate & dominion over them, by inheritance, Levite. 25. 45. Psal. 82. 8. The Greek also translateth it cities: and so in Gen. 24. 60. his] or, their enemies, meaning enemies of the seed, which word being put for children, (at the Chaldee translateth it) may have with it a word, singular or plural, and so the Scripture speaketh indifferently: as saying of the people, it went, 2 Chr. 10. 5. or they went, 1 King. 12. 5. it rejoiced, 2 King. 11. 20. which another Prophet writing saith, they rejoiced, 2 Chron. 23. 21. So 2 King. 21. 24. with 2 Chron. 33. 25. and 2 King. 23. 30. with 2 Chr. 36. 1. The reason hereof is, because a multitude is many, and yet as one: therefore, that which in Mat. 20. 31. is (ochlos) a multitude, in Mar. 10. 48. is (polloi) many.

Vers. 18. in thy seed] here the word seed, is in special meant of one, that is, Christ, Gal. 3. 16. 18. who was both of the seed of David, and son of Abraham according to the flesh, Rom. 1. 3. and also God over all blessed forever, Rom. 9. 5. in whom the nations do bless themselves, and glory, Ier. 4. 2. Ps. 72. 17. bless themselves] that is, apply thy faith the blessing of Christ to themselves, and so profess it: or, shall be blessed, as the Greek translateth it, and as the promise was before made in that form, in the Hebrew, Gen. 12. 3. and after in Genesis 28. 14.

Vers. 19. Beersheba] which the Greek interpreteth, the well of the oath: See before in Gen. 21. 31.

Vers. 20. Milcah] called in Greek Melcha: she was Abraham's brothers wife, Gen. 11. 29. Of whose offspring, Abraham now heareth glad tidings, unto whom he after sendeth for a wife, for his son Isaac, Gen. 24.

Vers. 21. Uz] or Urs: in Greek Oox. In this land Job the patient dwelled, Job. 1. 1. There was also another Vz of Aram, Gen. 10. 23. and again Vz of Seir, in Edoms country, Gen. 36. 28. Buz] in Greek Baux: of him came that learned young man Elihu, Job 32. 2. Buz dwelt by his elder brother Vz, in Arabia, Ier. 25. 20. 23. 24. Kimuel] in Greek Kamouel. of Aram] the Greek saith, of the Syrians. There was an Aram before of Sem, Gen. 10. 22. Aram throughout the Bible is turned in Greek Syria, and Syrians: as Mizraim is Egypt, and Cush Ethiopia.

Vers. 22. Kesed] or Cesed: in Greek Chazad. [unspec 22]

Chazo] in Greek Nazais. Pildash] in Greek Phaldese Iidlaph] in Greek Iledaph.

Vers. 23. Bethuel] in Greek Bathouel, of whom see after, Gen. 24. 15. Rebekah] or Rebekka; in Hebrew Ribkah: she became wife to Isaac, Abraham's son, Gen. 24. 15. 67. And for that cause chiefly, is this genealogy here set down.

Vers. 24. his concubine] to weet, Nachors concubine. The Hebrew Pilegesh, (whereof the Greek Pallakis, and Latin Pellex is borrowed, which we call a Concubine) signifieth: an half wife, or a divided and secondary wife: which was a wife for the bed, (and thereby differing from an whore,) but not for honor, and government of the family, (as King Solomon's wives were Princesses, but his concubines not so, 1 King. 11. 3.) neither had their children ordinarily any right of inheritance, but had gifts of their father, as Gen. 25. 5. 6. Such a concubine was Hagar to Abraham, yea and Keturah his second wife, is called a concubine, Gen. 25. 1. 6. 1 Chr. 1. 32. And Bilha and Zilpha were concubines to Jacob, Gen. 35. 22. And many other men of note had also concubines: as Caleb, 1 Chron. 2. 46. 48. Manasseh, 1 Chron. 7. 14. Gideon, Judge. 8. 31. David, 2 Sam. 5. 13. Solomon, 1 King. 11. 3. Roboam, 2 Chron. 11. 21. and among the heathens, as Est. 2. 14. Dan. 5. 3. The Hebrew Doctors say, wives were taken in Israel, by bills of Dowry, and solemn espousals; but concubines, without either of both: Maimonides treat. of Kings, ch. 4. S. 4. So among the Gentiles, as appeareth by that saying in the Poet, lest this report go of me, that I have given thee mine own sister, rather for a concubine, then in way of matrimony, if I should give her without a dowry: Plautus in Trinumum. Likewise among the Greeks, the Orator saith, we have concubines, for daily concubineship, (or use of the bed;) and wives for to bring us forth children legitimate, and faithfully to keep the things in the family, Demosthenes in Orat. against Neaera. Tebach] in Greek, Tabec: of him and his brethren we find no mention in other Scripture. Tachash] in Greek Tochos. Maacah] in Greek Mocha.

CHAP. XXIII.

1, The age and death of Sarah, for whom Abraham mourneth; 3, and purchaseth of the sons of Cheth a place for her burial: 10, which Ephron would have given him, 13, but Abraham would not receive without giving the full price. 17, So the field and cave in Macpelah, becometh Abraham's possession; and there he burieth Sarah.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 .

AND the life of Sarah was a hundred years, and twenty years, and seven years: these were the years of the life of Sarah. And Sarah died in Kirjath-Arba, the same is Chebron, in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her. And Abraham stood-up, from before his dead: and spake unto the sons of Cheth, saying. I am a stranger and a sojourner, with you: give me a possession of a burying-place, with you; that I may bury my dead, out of my sight. And the sons of Cheth, answered Abraham, saying to him; hear us, my Lord; thou art a Prince of God, amongst us, in the choice of our burial-places, bury thou thy dead: a man of us, shall not with-hold from thee his burying place, from burying thy dead. And Abraham stood-up, and bowed-down himself to the people of the land, to the sons of Cheth. And he spake with them, saying: if it be your mind, to bury my dead, out of my sight; hear me, and entreat for me, to Ephron the son of Zohar. And let him give me the cave of Macpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field: for full money, let him give it me, amongst you, for a possession of a burying-place. And Ephron was sitting, amongst the sons of Cheth: and Ephron the Chethite answered Abraham, in the ears of the sons of Cheth; of all that went in at the gates of his city, saying; Nay my Lord hear me, the field I give thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee: in the eyes of the sons of my people, give I it thee, bury thy dead. And Abraham bowed-down himself, before the people of the land. And he spake unto Ephron, in the ears of the people of the land, saying; But if thou (wilt give it) I pray thee hear me: I will give the money of the field, take it of me, and I will bury my dead there. And Ephron answered Abraham, saying unto him; my Lord hear me; the land (is worth) four hundred shekels of silver, between me and thee, what is that? and bury thy dead. And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham weighed to Ephron, the silver which he had spoken of, in the ears of the sons of Cheth: four hundred shekels of silver, currant with the merchant. And the field of Ephron, which was in Macpelah, which was before Mamree, was made-sure: the field, and the cave which was therein, and every tree which was in the field, which was in all the border thereof, round about. Unto Abraham for a purchase, in the eyes of the sons of Cheth; with all that went-in at the gates of his city. And afterward, Abraham buried Sarah's his wife, in the cave of the field of Macpelah, before Mamree, the same is Chebron, in the land of Canaan. And the field, and the cave which was therein, was made sure to Abraham, for a possession of a burying place: by the sons of Cheth.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the 5 section of the Law called Chajjee Sarah, that is, The life of Sarah. See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 1. the life] in Hebrew lives: see Gen. 2. 7. This special honor hath Sarah our mother, above all women in the Scripture, that the number of her years is recorded of God. Eve was the mother of all living, Gen. 3. 20. and Sarah is mother of all the faithful, 1 Pet. 3. 6. She lived a pilgrim with Abraham her husband 62 years, and before her departure from Charran, 65. in all 127 years.

Vers. 2. Kirjath Arba] that is, the city of Arba. as the Greek translatheth it: called also Chebron: see Gen. 13. 18. came] or, went-in, namely into Sarah's tent, wherein she dwelt and died: for Abraham had many tents, (as had Lot, Gen. 13. 5.) and one special for Sarah, Gen. 24. 67. and 18. 6. to weep] Sarah also is the first, for whose death, mourning and weeping is mentioned, another note of honor, as appeareth by Gen 50. 9. 10. 11. Ier. 22. 18. 2 Sam. 1. 17. &c. But sorrow for the dead, must be moderate in God's people, as having hope of the resurrection, 2 Thes. 4. 13. 14. and weep, in the Hebrew hath one little letter, extraordinary, noted also in the margin of the Hebrew bibles, whereby as the Jews think is signified, that Abraham's mourning was not excessive, but with moderation. The Hebrew Doctors say that afterwards in Israel, a man was bound by the law (in Lev. 21. 2. 3.) to mourn for his mother, and for his father, his son and his daughter; and his brother and his sister by the fathers side. And by the Rabbin's, a man was to mourn for his wife that he had married, and so the woman for her husband: to mourn also for brother and sister by the mothers side. Maimonides in Misneh, tom. 4. treat. of Mourning. ch. 2. S. 1.

Vers. 3. from before] or, from the face of his dead: where in likelihood, he had sitten a while on the earth, as was the manner of mourners to do: Job 2. 12. 13. Esa. 47. 1. sons of Cheth] that is, the Chethites, or Hittites, the people which came of Cheth the son of Canaan, Gen. 10. 15.

Vers. 4. asojourner] or foreigner: properly it signifieth one that dwelleth in a strange country, and hath no possession of his own there. And as Abraham, so David acknowledgeth this of himself & his people, with God: 1 Chr. 29. 15. Psal. 39. 13. and the law taught them so much, Leviticus 25. 23. and the Gospel teacheth us the same for our estate on earth, 1 Peter 2. 11. and commendeth to us the faith of these fathers, that did so profess themselves, to be strangers and foreigners in the land: thereby declaring plainly that they sought a better country, even an heavenly, where God hath prepared for them a city: Hebr. 11. 13. 14. 16. a burying place] or, grave, sepulcher, in Hebrew Keber, from which the Germaine grab; and our English grave are derived. Abraham having sojourned 60. years in these lands, never purchased foot of inheritance, Act. 7. 5.) till now for his dead; not for any, (though it is likely sundry had died in his house within this time,) but for Sarah his wife. As the former shown his faith, abiding there as in a strange Country, Heb. 11. 9. so this purchase of a grave, showeth the like, not only for the general resurrection of the dead, but for the special possession of this promised land: for which cause, Jacob also would be brought out of Egypt to be buried here, Gen. 47. 29. 30. and Joseph by like faith, gave commandment of his bones, Gen. 50. 24. 25. Heb. 11. 22. For a Sepulcher of ones own, was a sign of right, and firm possession, Isaiah 25. 16. out of my sight] or, from before me: so verse 8. Death, so defaceth all earthly things, that the most lovely, are by it made loathsome: for Sarah had been the desire of his eyes, Ezek. 24. 16. but now he cannot suffer her in his sight. And the living do bury their dead, that according to the sentence of God, man may return to his earth and dust, Gen. 3. 19. and be sown as seed in the ground till the resurrection, 1 Cor. 15. 35. 36. &c. where they rest in their graves, as in their beds, till their change come, Esa. 57. 2. Job 14. 14.

Vers. 6. a Prince of God] that is, a mighty prince, an holy ruler: preferred and advanced of God. So Abimelech acknowledged that God was with him; Gen. 21. 22. Things that excel, are said to be of God: as Mountains of God, Psal. 36. 7. Cedars of God, Psal. 80. 11. wrestlings of God, Gen. 30. 5.

and many the like. The Greek here translath, a King of God, the Chaldee, a prince before the Lord. A like speech is used of the Priests, called Princes of God, 1 Chron. 24. 5. the choice] that is, the best, the fairest: as the Chaldee explaineth it; because men use to chose the best things. And choice is put for chosen: as glory of grace, and riches of grace, Ephes. 1. 6. 7. for glorious and rich grace: the promise of the spirit, Gal. 3. 14. for the promised spirit; and many the like. withhold] or closeup, forbid, either by word or deed.

Vers 7. bowed down] did obeisance, in sign of reverence, and thankfulness: so verse 12. Sometime they that bowed, would say they did so, as professing their thankfulness, 2 Sam. 16. 4.

Vers. 8. your mind,] or, your will: Hebrew with your soul; which word is often used for the mind or will of any: Psal. 27. 12. and 41. 3. and 105. 22. The Greek translath, if ye have in your soul: the Chaldee, if it be the pleasure of your soul. to bury] that is, that I should bury: an usual phrase, where the person is not expressed, but easily understood: see Gen. 6. 19. and 19. 20. and 47. 29.

Vers. 9. of Macpelah] which is by interpretation, the cave of doubleness, as the Chaldee hath, and so the Greek also translath it, the double cave: but it appeareth by verse 17. 19. to be the name of the place. full money] Hebrew, full silver, that is, for as much money as it is worth: silver is named for all money, and full, for full weight, as appeareth verse 16. A like speech is used in used in 1 Chron. 21. 24. for full silver; which another Prophet saith, for the price, that is, the worth of it, 2 Sam. 24. 24.

Vers. 10. sitting] there present among them: or dwelling, as the word often signifieth. in the ears] that is, in the audience, or hearing: as the Greek explaineth it. So verse. 13. and 16. went in] meaning the citizens; who are described by going in, as in Gen. 34. 24. by going out: which two are often joined together, to go in and out, for to converse, trade, &c. see Ier. 17. 19. 20. 25. & 22. 4.

Vers. 11. in the eyes,] that is, in the fight, or presence: or before: as the Greek translath it: so verse 18. sons of my people] which the Greek turneth, my citizens; an usual east country phrase: so in Luke 19. 14. his citizens, is turned in the Syriake, the sons of his city. Bargains passed thus publicly in the city gates, for more testimony and assurance, as was used also in other cases, Ruth. 4. 1. 4. 9. 11.

Ver. 13. if thou] that is, wilt give it, or if thou be he, whom I speak of: as the Greek translath, seeing thou art with me: (that is, present.) Such imperfect speeches are often used, where other fit words are to be understood, as the scripture it self sometime manifesteth: as behold the oxen, 2 Sam. 24. 22. which another Prophet relating saith, behold I give the oxen, 1 Chron. 21. 23. See also before, Gen. 11. 4. and 13. 9. and after here in the 15. ver. money] Hebrew silver, that is, the price of the field.

Vers. 15. shekels:] or, (as we may call them) shillings: the Greek translath them didrachmes: w<sup>ch</sup> word is used Mat. 17. 24. what the shekel weighed, see noted on Gen. 20. 16.

V. 16. currant] or, passing to: and so allowed of Merchants, as the Greek turneth it: which the Chaldee amplifieth thus, that was taken for merchandise in every Country.

Vers. 17. was made sure] the Hebrew is stood up: that is, was made stable, sure and confirmed, as the Greek translatheth it in the last verse of this chapter. And this purchase thus assured to Abraham was a prophetic sign, that his posterity should have the inheritance of that land: even as Jeremiah's buying of his uncles field before witnesses, was a sign of the Jews return into the possession of this land; Jer. 32. 7. 9. 10. 15. 43. 44.

Vers. 19. in the cave] or de: thus carefully bought, and described where it lay, for a monument to posterity. In this cave also Abraham himself was buried with his wife, at his death, Gen. 25. 9. Likewise Isaac his son, with Rebekah his wife, and Jacob with Leah his wife: Gen. 49. 31. and 50. 13. The Patriarchs hereby testifying their faith in the promises of God, for the inheritance of this land, and of life eternal figured hereby, as before is observed on v. 4. Herewith may be compared the purchase of the potters field bought with the price of Christ's blood to bury strangers in: Mat. 27.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Abraham sweareth his servant, to take a wife for Isaac, not of the Canaanites, but of his own kindred: 8 The conditions of the oath. 10 The servants journey: 12 his prayer: 14 his sign, 15 Rebekah meeteth him, 18 fulfilleth his sign, 22 receiveth jewels, 23 showeth her kindred, 25 and inviteth him home. 26 The servant blesseth God. 28 Laban entertaineth him. 34 The servant showeth his message, and what had befallen him by the way. 50 Laban and Bethuel acknowledge God's work, and grant Rebekah for a wife unto Isaac: 58 Rebekah also consenteth to go. 62 Isaac walking out to meditate in the field, meeteth her; 67 She is brought into Sarah's tent, and becometh Isaac's beloved wife.

AND Abraham was old, was come into days: and Jehovah had blessed Abraham, in all things. And Abraham said, unto his servant, the eldest of his house; that ruled, over all that he had: put I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh. And I will make thee swear by Jehovah God of the heavens, and God of the earth: that thou shalt not take a wife unto my son, of the daughters of the Canaanite, among whom I dwell. But thou shalt go unto my land, and unto my kindred: and shalt take a wife, unto my son Isaac. And the servant said unto him; If so be the woman will not be willing, to go after me, unto this land: shall I returning return thy son, unto the land from whence thou camest-out? And Abraham said unto him: Beware thou, least thou return my son thither. Jehovah God of the heavens, which took me from my fathers house, and from the land of my kindred; and which spake unto me, and which sware unto me saying, unto thy seed, will I give this land: he, will send his Angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife unto my son, from thence. And if the woman will not be willing, to go after thee; then shalt thou be clear, from this my oath: only thou shalt not return my son thither. And the servant put his hand, under the thigh of Abraham his lord: and sware to him, concerning this matter. And the servant took ten camels, of the camels of his lord, & went; and all the goods of his lord, in his hand: and he arose, & went to Mesopotamia; unto the city of Nachor. And he made the camels to kneel down, without the City by a well of water: at the time of the evening, at the time that women which draw (water) go forth. And he said, Jehovah, God of my lord Abraham; I pray thee bring it-to-pass before me, this day: and do mercy, unto my lord Abraham. Behold I stand, by the well of water; and the daughters of the men of the city, come-out to draw water. And let it be, that the damsel to whom I shall say, bow down I pray thee thy pitcher, and let me drink; and she shall say drink thou, and I will give thy camels drink also: be the same thou hast evidently appointed, for thy servant Isaac; and thereby shall I know, that thou hast done mercy unto my lord. And it was, before he had made an end of speaking, that behold Rebekah came-out; who was born to Bethuel son of Milcah, the wife of Nachor Abraham's brother: and her pitcher, upon her shoulder. And the damsel, was of a very good countenance, a virgin neither had any-man known her: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came-up. And the servant ran, to meet her: and he said, let me drink I pray thee a little water, out of thy pitcher. And she said, drink my lord: and she hastened and let down her pitcher, upon her hand, and gave him drink. And she made-an-end, of giving him drink: and said, I will draw for thy camels also, until they have made-an-end of drinking. And she hastened, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well, to draw: and drew, for all his camels. And the man wondering at her: held his peace, to know, whether Jehovah had prospered his way, or not. And it was, when the camels had made-an-end of drinking, that the man took an earering of gold, half a shekel was the weight thereof: & two bracelets for her hands, ten (shekels) of gold, was the weight of them. And he said, whose daughter art thou? tell me I pray thee: is there in thy fathers house, place for us to lodge? And she said unto him; I am the daughter of Bethuel: the son of Milcah, whom she bare unto Nachor. And she said unto him, with us, is both straw and provender enough: place also, to lodge. And the man bended-down-the-head and bowed-himself unto Jehovah. And he said, Blessed be Jehovah, God of my lord Abraham, who hath not left off his mercy and his truth, from with my lord: I, being in the way, Jehovah led me to the house of the brethren of my lord. And the damsel ran, and told her mothers house: according to these words. And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban: and Laban ran unto the man, without, unto the well. And it was, when he saw the earering, and the bracelets upon his sisters hands; and when he heard, the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, thus spake the man unto me: that he came unto the man, and behold, he was standing by the camels, at the well. And he said, Come in thou, the blessed of Jehovah: wherefore standest thou without? and I have prepared the house, and place for the camels. And the man came, into the house; and he ungirded the camels: and he gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the feet of the men that were with him. And there was set (meat) before him, to eat, and he said, I will not eat, until I have spoken my word: and he said, speak. And he said, I am Abraham's servant. And Jehovah hath blessed my Lord, greatly, and he is become great: & he hath given him flocks and herds, and silver and gold, and men servants, and women-servants, and camels and asses. And Sarah my lords wife, bare a son to my lord, after her old-age: and he hath given unto him, all that he hath. And my lord made me swear, saying: Thou shalt not take a wife unto my son, of the daughters of the Canaanite, in whose land I dwell. If thou shalt not go unto my fathers house, and unto my family: and take a wife, unto my son. And I said, unto my lord: if so be, the woman will not go, after me. And he said, unto me: Jehovah, he before whom I have walked, will send his Angel with thee, and will prosper thy way; and thou shalt take a wife unto my son, out of my family, and out of my fathers house. Then shalt thou be clear from my execration, when thou shalt come unto my family: and if they will not give thee (one,) then shalt thou be clear from my execration. And I came this day unto the well: and I said Jehovah God of my lord Abraham, if thou be now prospering my way, the which I go. Behold I stand, by the waters: and let the maid that cometh forth to draw, and I say to her, let me drink I pray thee a little water, out of thy pitcher. And she say to me, Both drink thou, and I will draw for thy camels also: let the same be the woman, whom Jehovah hath evidently appointed, for my lords son. And before I had made-an-end of speaking in my heart; behold Rebekah came forth, and her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went down unto the well, and drew: and I said unto her, let me drink I pray thee. And she hasted, and let-down her pitcher from upon her, and said, drink thou, and I will give thy camels drink also: and I drank, and she gave the camels drink also. And I asked her, and said; whose daughter art thou? and she said, the daughter of Bethuel, son of Nachor, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the earering upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands. And I bended down-the-head, and bowed myself unto Jehovah: and I blessed Jehovah God of my lord Abraham, who led me in the way of truth, to take the daughter of my lords brother, unto his son. And now, if you will do mercy & truth unto my lord, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn unto the right-hand, or unto the left. And Laban & Bethuel answered & said; The thing proceedeth frō Jehovah: we cannot speak unto thee, evil or good. Behold Rebekah is before thee, take her and go: and let her be the wife, to thy lords son, as Jehovah hath spoken. And it was, whē Abraham's servant heard their word; that he bowed himself down to the earth, unto Jehovah. And the servant brought-forth, vessels of silver & vessels of gold, and garments; and gave to Rebekah; and he gave to her brother, and to her mother, precious things. And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, & tarried-all-night: & they rose-up in the morning; and he said, send me away unto my lord. And her brother, & her mother said, let the damsel abide with us, days, at least ten: afterward, she shall go. And he said unto them, Hinder me not, seeing Jehovah hath prospered my way: send me away, that I may go unto thy lord. And they said we will call the damsel: and will ask of her mouth. And they called Rebekah and said unto her; Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go. And they sent away Rebekah their sister, & her nurse: and Abraham's servant, and his men. And they blessed Rebekah, & said unto her; Our sister, be thou unto thousands of ten-thousands: & let thy seed possess, the gate of those that hate them. And Rebekah arose, and her damsels, and they rode upon the camels, & went after the man: and the servant took Rebekah, and went away. And Isaac came from the way, to Beer-lachai-roi: and he dwelt in the south country. And Isaac went-out to meditate in the field, at the looking-forth of the evening: and he lifted up his eyes, & saw, and behold the camels were coming. And Rebekah lifted-up her eyes, and saw Isaac: & she lighted off the camel. For she had said unto the servant, what man is this that walketh in the field, to meet us? And the servant had said, he is my lord: and she took a veil, and covered herself. And the servant told Isaac all things that he had done. And Isaac brought her unto the tent of Sarah his mother; and he took Rebekah, and she was to him a wife, and he loved her: and Isaac was comforted, after his mother was dead.

Annotations.

INto days] that is, years: see Gen. 18. 11. He was now 140 years old: for Isaac his son was forty, Gen. 25. 20. and he was borne when Abraham was 100. Gen. 21. 5.

Vers. 2. the eldest] or, the Elder: so the Greek translatheth it elder, or ancient, whereby may be meant Governor, as the words following do explain: for Elder, is an usual name for Governor, Gen. 50. 7. Num. 11. 16. Ruth. 4. 2. 1 Tim. 5. 17. This in likelihood was his Steward Eliezer, Gen. 15. 2. under my thigh] a sign which Jacob also required of his son Joseph, Gen. 47. 29. either to signify subjection, or for a further mystery of the covenant of circumcision, or rather of Christ the promised seed, who was to come out of Abraham's loins or thigh, as the like phrase showeth, in Gen. 46. 26. of the souls that came out of Iaakobs thigh: wherefore Abraham and Jacob make their thighs as holy signs, in respect of God's promise. For otherwise in swearing, they used to lift up the hand towards heaven: see Gen. 14. 22. Hereupon the Greeks have of the Hebrew word Ierek, that is, a Thigh, framed their Horkos, that is, an oath: even as of the Hebrew Iamin, which is the right hand, (used when oaths were taken, Isaiah 61. 8.) they have formed the Greek word Omnuo, to swear.

Vers. 3. by Jehovah] by whom alone we are commanded to swear, Deut. 6. 13. The Chaldee saith, by the word of the Lord: that is, Christ: John. 1. 1. the Canaanite] or Canaanites, as the Greek translatheth: see Gen. 10. 16. This care Abraham had for his sons wife, lest by marrying with unbelievers, he or his posterity should be drawn from God, as the Law saith, Thou shalt make no marriages with them; they daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, neither take his daughter unto thy son; for they will turn away thy son from following me, &c. Deut. 7. 3. 4. See also Gen. 27. 46. Plato a heathen Philosopher divinely showeth (in his 6 book of laws;) the end of marriage to be, the continual propagation of mankind, and good education of children, that leaving children's children after them, parents may always have some as in their own stead, to serve God, and to worship him according to the Law. As Isaac was a type of Christ, so in this procuring of him a holy wife by his servant, may be typed the Church, gathered of Saints, by the employment of his ministers, to be the Spouse of Christ. For he is compared to a bridegroom, John. 3. 29. and the Church is the bride the Lambes wife, Rev. 21. 9. 10. and the Apostles prepared the Churches for one husband, to present them a pure virgin to Christ, 2 Cor. 11. 2. which was not to be of the Canaanites, that figured the unholy shut out of the Lord's house Zach. 14. 21. but from Christ's own land and kindred, that is, from heaven, borne of God from above, Rev. 21. 2. 1 Per. 1. 23. 1 John 3. 9. 10.

Vers. 4. my land] which after is named Mesopotamia, verse. 10. where though Idolatry too much prevailed, (Ios. 24. 2. Gen. 31. 19. 53.) yet not so much as among the Canaanites, Deut. 12. 31.

Vers. 5. If so be] or, Peradventure, so verse. 39. see Gen. 18. 24. go after] that is, follow, or come with me: so in ver. 8. &c. That which in Mar. 1. 20. is went after him, in Mat. 4. 22. is written, followed him. Again, where one writeth, he followeth not us, Mar. 9. 38. another saith, he followeth not with us, Luke 9. 49. that is, he accompanieth us not.

Vers. 6. lest thou] or, that thou return not. As Abraham by faith abode in the land of promise, so would he have his son, Heb. 11. 9.

Vers. 7. thy seed] the Chaldee explaineth it, thy son: the Greek, to thee and to thy seed. See Gen. 12. 7. before thee] and with thee, as in the repetition, verse. 40. is expressed: both to lead and to protect. As a prudent wife is of the Lord, Prov. 19. 14. so Abraham believed that the Angels, who are all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister, for them, who shall be heirs of salvation, Heb. 1. 14. should be sent for assistance in this business, which unto many, seemeth worldly and base, but is indeed honorable, Heb. 13. 4.

Verse 8. clear] or innocent: and so discharged of the oath.

Vers. 9. his Lord] or master; the pillar and sustainer of the family: see Gen. 15. 2. As the Hebrew signifieth Lord and Master; so the Scripture useth them indifferently: as where one Evangelist saith Lord, Matth. 17. 4. another saith Master, Mar. 9. 5.

Vers. 10. and all the goods] the Greek translateth, and of all the goods of his Lord, with him. This by comparing ver. 53. seemeth to be the true meaning. Mesopotamia] in Hebrew called Aram Naharajim, that is to say, Aram (or Syria) of the two rivers, it being a country that lay between the rivers Euphrates and Tigris (or Chiddekel,) whereof see Gen. 2. 14. The Chaldee calleth it Aram that is by Euphrates. As Mizraim is in Greek and other tongues, called Egypt, Gen. 12. 10. so Aram Naharajim, is in Greek Mesopotamia, so called of lying amidst the rivers, which name the New Testament also keepeth, in Act. 7. 2. Afterwards it is called Padam Aram, in Gen. 25. 20. Aram, the New Testament usually calleth Syria, Mat. 4. 14. Act. 15. 23. 41. See Gen. 10. 22. of Nachor] where Nachor dwelt, that was Charran, Gen. 28. 2. 10. By which it appeareth that Nachor accompanied Abraham and Tharah from Vr to Charran, but no further, Gen. 11. 31. So that is called Christ's City, wherein he dwelt, Mat. 9. 1.

Vers. 11. to kneel down] and consequently to rest them; as the Greek interpreteth it.

Vers. 12. bring it to pass] or, cause it to happen: that is, give good success, or send me good luck. The same word is in Gen. 27. 20. and is spoken of occurrences and events that do fall out and offer themselves unto men, beyond their skill and counsel, through God's providence, but to us by hap or chance, as the Scripture also speaketh in Luke 10. 31. This being repeated by the servant, ver. 42. is expounded prospering: and the Greek there and here, so translateth it by one and the same word.

Vers. 14. the damsel] or young-woman, maid: in Hebrew Naarah, which five times in this chapter, and often elsewhere is written by the letters Naar, in the form masculine, but by the vowels Naara. evidently-appointed] or prepared, as by certain argument and demonstration: or nurtured, that is, prepared and brought up by nurture and chastisement. The original word signifieth properly to argue, chastise, or nurture. Here it signifieth appointing or preparing, (as the Greek and Chaldee do translate it) but with evident demonstration to another. So Paul useth the Greek word Elench, (answerable to the Hebrew here) for an Evidence or Demonstration, Heb. 11. 1.

Vers. 15. it was, &c.] this may also be read thus, And the same was, (or came to pass,) before he had made an end of speaking; for loe Rebekah, &c. So God promiseth his people, before they call, I will answer; and whiles they speak, I will hear, Isaiah 65. 24. And in the 45 verse following, it is said that this speaking was in his heart. and her pitcher] the Greek translatheth it, having her pitcher (or waterpot.) The Scripture often setteth down the base and homely works, wherein the Saints (men and women) were in old time employed from their youth; as here of Isaac's wife, the mother of the Patriarchs: likewise of Rachel Iakobs wife, Gen. 29. 9. and of the daughters of Moses father in law, Exod. 2. 16. and sundry the like.

Vers. 16. good countenance] or, good of visage, that is, fair to look upon. So Gen. 26. 7. and Exod. 2. 2. translated fair or goodly, by the Apostles authority. known] that is, lain with her: see Gen. 4. 1. These properties of humility, kindness, beauty and chastity, are mentioned by the Holy Ghost, as the most excellent: so Christ's Spouse is spiritually described by such, Song 1. 8. 15. &c.

Vers. 17. let me drink] or, slake my thirst. The word here used is strange, and seemeth to be Syriac, which they spake in that country, and to have the significatiō of great thirst, which he desireth to be slaked: and after in repeating this, ver. 45. he useth the common Hebrew, hashkini, that is, let me drink.

Ver. 21. wondering] that is, wondered; and as the Greek translatheth, considered her, and held his peace.

Ver. 22. took] and gave unto her: as taking, Psal. 68. 19. is expounded giving, Eph. 4. 8. ear-ring] or abillement, jewel, ouch: which was hanged sometime on the care, Genesis 35. 4. sometime on the nose, face, or forehead, Ezek. 16. 12. and so this here was, as the 47. ver. showeth. The Greek turneth it as of many ear-rings. In narration of this story, (which yet seemeth to be of light and trivial matters,) the Spirit of God is very exact and large; whereas other things wherein great mysteries are infolded (as the history of Melchizedek, Gen. 14. and many the like,) are set down in few words. That men might consider God's wisdom and providence in things of least esteem among men. Compare 1 Cor. 1. 25. 27. 28. half a shekel] a weight called in Hebrew bekagh, which signifieth cleft or cut in the mids: and so the Law expoundeth it to be half a shekel, Exod. 38. 26. the Greek translatheth it a drachm, or dram: which if it were half the common shekel, weighed 80 grains of barley: the holy shekel was double so much: see Gen. 20. 16. ten] to weet, shekels, as the Chaldee expressly addeth: such words as are easy to be understood, are often omitted: so a thousand, 2 Sam. 8. 4. for a thousand chariots, 1 Chron. 18. 4. the three, 1 Chron. 11. 18. for the three mighty men, 2 Sam. 23. 16. and many the like.

Vers. 24. Bothuel] in Greek, Bathouel son of Melcha.

Vers. 26. bowed himself] or, adored, worshipped Jehovah. The former word signifieth the bending or stooping with the head: this meaneth the bowing or prostrating of the whole body: usually called worshipping or adoration. So Exod. 4. 31. Gen. 22. 5.

Vers. 27. mercy] or gracious kindness: see v. 49. brethren] that is, kinsfolke: see Gen. 13. 8. or brethren is put for brother, as the Greek and Chaldee translatheth it, and so it is after explained, v. 48.

Ver. 31. blessed of Jehovah] an honorable title, used as it seemeth, in those times by many, as Gen. 26. 29.

Ver. 33. there was set] to weet, by Laban; or he set: (for the Hebrew hath a double reading to afford both senses) and so the Greek translatheth he set, and the Chaldee, they set: and here the word meat or bread (as the Greek expresseth) is to be understood; as elsewhere other words, which the scope of the place showeth: as, he put in Syria, 1 Chron. 18. 6. for, he put garisons in Syria, 2 Sam. 8. 6. See Exod. 34. 7. not eat] an example of a diligent and faithful servant, preferring his work for which he was sent, before his food. So the Apostle teacheth servants obedience, in singleness of their heart, as unto Christ: not with eye-service as men pleasers, &c. Eph. 6. 5. 6. 7. 8.

Vers. 36. after her old-age] that is, after she was wexen old: and so without natural strength to bear: see Gen. 18. 11. all that he hath] wherein he also was a figure of Christ, whom the Father hath made heir of all things, Heb. 1. 2. and of true Christians, who with him shall inherit all things, Rev. 21. 7. So again in Gen. 25. 5.

Vers. 38. If thou shalt not go] understand, wishing a curse to thy soul, if thou go not: for so imprecations were annexed with solemn oaths, but not expressed: see Gen. 21. 23. The Greek translatheth, but thou shalt go: which is also the meaning, and so expressed before, in v. 4. family] that is, kindred, or as the Greek saith, my tribe: and so before in v. 4. and after, v. 40. 41.

Vers. 40. have walked] and pleased (as the Greek translatheth) and that by his calling and faith in his promises, as before, v. 7. see Gen. 5. 22. and 17. 1. with] and before thee: see verse. 7.

Vers. 41. execration] or, curse: as the Greek here translatheth it. Before it was called simply an oath, verse. 8. and so the Chaldee still hath it here: but this word, and the form of the oath in v. 38. showeth it was also with imprecation of evil, if he did break his promise. So Gen. 26. 28. Deut. 29. 12. 14. 19. 21. The Hebrew Alah, is by the Apostle in Greek, ara; that is, acurse, Rom. 3. 14. and in Num. 5. 21. both are joined, an oath of cursing.

Ver. 42. if thou be now] or, O be thou I pray thee: for it was a prayer, as the 12. verse before showeth: and as oaths, so prayers were often uttered after this manner: as in Luke 12. 49. if it were already kindled: that is, O that it were: as the Syriac translation explaineth it, I desire that it were already kindled. So in Psal. 139. 19. If thou wouldst slay the wicked: that is, O that thou wouldst: and sundry the like: see Gen. 28. 20.

Vers. 45. in my heart] or, unto my heart: the Greek saith, in my mind. This was not expressed before, in verse. 15.

Vers. 46. from upon her] from her shoulder, and to put upon her hand, as was said verse 18. and so the Greek here joineth them both.

Vers. 47. her face] or nose, forehead, from whence it hung down on the nose: so Ezek. 16. 12. See before in ver. 22.

Verse 48. way of truth,] that is, the true (the right) way.

Vers. 49. do mercy and truth] that is, deal mercifully and truly, or kindly and faithfully: which two things as they are often spoken of God towards men, as before in v. 27. and Gen. 32. 10. 2 Sam. 2. 6. Psal. 25. 10. and 57. 4. and 61. 8. and 89. 15. and 98. 3. and 138. 2. so of men toward men, as here, and in Gen. 47. 29. Ios. 2. 14. The first word signifieth a gracious, kind, and merciful affection; the other, a true and faithful disposition, constantly to perform what is spoken or expected: of these both it is said, let not mercy and truth forsake thee, Prov. 3. 3.

Vers. 50. the thing] or, the word is come forth. unto thee] the Greek turneth it, speak against thee. evil or good] that is, anything at all against it; but do rest in the will of God. A like speech is in Gen. 31. 24.

Vers. 53. vessels] or instruments, ornaments, jewels, &c. The word is large, signifying all things for use or ornament. precious things] or, dainties: and by conference with other places, the word seemeth to be meant of the precious or dainty fruits of the earth: the Greek translatheth it only gifts. This word is used in Deut. 3. 3. 13. 14. 15. Song. 4. 13. 2. Chron. 21. 3. and 32. 23. Ezz. 1. 6. The holy Ghost seemeth to express it in Greek by opora, that is, summer or autumn-fruit, Rev. 18. 14.

Vers. 55. days, at least ten] or thus, days, or ten: meaning a year, or ten months. The Greek interpreteth it, about ten days; but the Chaldee addeth, or ten months, and so it may well be understood,  $\langle \phi \rangle$  year of days, (that is, a full year) or at least ten months. Days is often used for a year, as is shown on Gen. 4. 3.

Vers. 57. her mouth] that is, ask her consent: or, what she will say. The Chaldee translatheth it, and hear what she saith. The mouth is put for that which cometh out of the mouth: which the holy Ghost expoundeth the word, Luke 4. 4. from Deut. 8. 3. Hereupon the mouth is often used for speech, or words; as in Gen. 41. 40. and 45. 21. Exod. 17. 1. Num. 9. 20. Deut. 1. 26. Psal. 49. 14.

Vers. 59. her nurse] named Deborah, whom Jacob buried with lamentation, Gen. 35. 8. she was sent for honorable respect, and to have tender care of Rebekah, as the Scripture showeth Nurses to have, 1 Thes. 2. 7. Num. 11. 12.

Vers. 60. unto thousand,] that is, a mother of innumerable people. The Chaldee translatheth, thousands and ten thousands, whereby an infinite number is meant, as in Dan. 7. 10. the gate] that is, as the Greek and Chaldee translatheth the cities: and by possessing or inheriting, is meant dominion over them Lev. 25. 46. See in Gen. 22. 17. them] or it, that is, the seed: see Gen. 22. 17.

Vers. 61. after] the Greek translatheth, with the man. So in 1 Cor. 10. 4. the rock that followed them, is in the Syriac and Arabic versions, turned, the rock that went with them. Thus Rebekah left her friends, and fathers house, to go unto Isaac her husband: so the Spouse of Christ is exhorted to forget her people and her fathers house, Psal. 45. 11.

Vers. 62. from the way] Hebr. from the coming: or, from coming, that is, from walking. The Greek translatheth, Isaac walked through the wilderness.

Beer lachai roi] that is, the well of him that liveth, that seeth me; whereof see Gen. 16. 14. The Greek saith, by the well of vision: the Chaldee, from the well whereat the Angel of life appeared. But the Yerushalmi paraphrase saith, And Isaac went from the school-house of Sem the great, to the well whereat the majesty of the Lord had been revealed. Though this exposition be uncertain, yet it is certain Sem was now alive, by comparing his life time, Gen. 14. 18. Where Melchizedek is counted by the Jews, Sem the great: who might well be master of a school of the Prophets. south country] or, land of the south: the south part of Canaan: see Gen. 12. 9.

Vers. 63. to mediate] or to pray, as the Chaldee translatheth: but the Greek saith, to exercise him-self, which comprehendeth both meditation and prayer, as the Hebrew also doth, Psal. 77. 4. 7. 13. and 119. 15. and 102. 1. the looking forth] or, turning towards; that is, when it was towards evening; before Sun setting: as on the contrary, the looking forth of the morning, Exod. 14. 27. is very early, before Sun rising. So in Deut. 23. 11. where this phrase is explained to mean before the Sun be set. It seemeth to be at the ninth hour of the day, (with us, the third hour after noon) for then they began the daily evening service of God, and burning of sacrifice, and it was called in Israel, the hour of prayer, Act. 3. 1.

Vers. 64. lighted] Hebr. fell down; the Greek hath, leaped down, which was to meet him with the more reverence and submission. a veyl] a sign also of subjection, 1 Cor. 11. 5. 6. 10.

Vers. 67. the ••nt of Sarah] which she had peculiar, for her own use, see Gen. 23. 2. the Greek translatheth it, the house, or habitation: and so the Lord's tent, is called an house, 1 Chron. 9. 23. Compare with this, Song 8. 2. where the Church bringeth Christ into her mothers house. he took] by solemnity of marriage; this was in the 40 year of his life; Gen. 25. 20. loved her] So ought men to love their wives, as their own bodies: likewise he saith, Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the Church, Eph. 5. 28. 25▪ was dead] These words the Chaldee paraphrast addeth: and the Hebrew text sometime supplieth such wants, as that which thou hast prayed, Isaiah 37. 21. for, I have heard that which thou hast prayed, 2 King. 19. 20. The Greek translatheth, he was comforted concerning Sarrha his mother. She died three years before his marriage. Hereupon the Hebrew Doctors say, Isaac mourned for his mother Sarah, three years; after three years he took Rebekah, and forgot the mourning for his mother: from whence thou mayest learn, that whiles a man takes not a wife, his love goeth after his parents; when he takes a wife, his love goeth after his wife; as it is said (in Gen. 2. 24.) Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and he shall cleave to his wife. Pirkei R. Eliezer, ch. 32.

CHAP. XXV.

1, Abraham taking Keturah to wife, hath by her many sons and nephewes. 5, The division of his goods. 7, His age and death. 9, His burial. 11, Isaac blessed after his father's death. 12, The generations of Ishmael; 17, his age and death. 19, Isaac prayeth for Rebekah being barren. 22, She conceiving, the children strive in her womb. 24, The birth of Esau and Jacob. 27, Their different state. 29, Esau selleth his birthright to Jacob, for a mess of pottage.

AND Abraham added, and took a wife, and her name was Keturah. And she bare to him Zimran, and Iokshan, and Medan, and Midjan: and Iishbak, and Shuach. And Iokshan begat Sheba, and Dedan: and the sons of Dedan, were Asshurim and Lerushim, and Leummim. And the sons of Mid•an, Ephah and Epher, and Epoch▪ and Abida, and Eld 〈...〉 all these, were the sons of Keturah. And Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac. And to the sons of the concubines which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts: and sent them away from 〈...〉 aak his son, while he yet lived; eastward, unto the east country. And these are the days of the years of the life of Abraham, which he lived: [hundred years, and seventy years, and five years. And Abraham gave-up the ghost, and died, in a good hoary: age, an old-man, and full (of 〈...〉 ) and he was gathered unto his people's▪ And Isaac and Ishmael his sons, buried him; in the cave of Macpelah▪ in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Chethite, which is before Mamree. The field, which Abraham purchased, of the sons of Cheth: there was Abraham buried, and Sarah his wife. And it was, after the death of Abraham, that God blessed Isaac his son: and Isaac dwelt by Beer-lachai-roi.

And these are the generations of Ishmael, Abraham's son: whom Hagar the Egyptian Sarah's hand maid, bare unto Abraham. And these are the names of the sons of Ishmael; by their names, according to their generations: the first-borne of Ishmael, Nebajoth and Kedar, Adbeel, and Mibsam. And Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa. Hadar and Tema, Ietur, Naphish, and Kedmah. These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names; by their towns; and by their castles: twelve Princes, according to their nations. And these are the years of the life of Ishmael; a hundred years, and thirty years, and seven years: and he gave-up the ghost and died; and was gathered unto his people's. And they dwelt from Havilah unto Shur; which is before Egypt, as thou goest to Assiria: before the faces of all his brethren, did he fall.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

And these are the generations of Isaac, the son of Abraham: Abraham, begat Isaac. And Isaac was forty years old, when he took Rebekah, daughter of Bethuel the Syrian, of Padan Aram: the sister of Laban the Syrian, unto him to wife. And Isaac entreated Jehovah, for his wife; because she was barren: and Jehovah was entreated of him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. And the sons strougled-together, within her; and she said if it be so, why am I thus? And she went to inquire of Jehovah. And Jehovah said unto her; Two nations, are in thy womb; and two people's shall be separated from thy bowels: and the one people, shall be stronger then the other people; and the greater shall serve the lesser. And her days were fulfilled, to bring-forth: and behold, twins were in her womb. And the first came-out red, all over like an hairy mantle: and they called his name Esau. And afterward came his brother out; (and his hand holding by the heel of Esau; and he called his name Jacob: and Isaac was sixty years old, when she bare them. And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning huntsman, a man of the field: and Jacob was a perfect man, dwelling in tents. And Isaac loved Esau, because venison was in his mouth: and Rebekah loved Jacob. And Jacob sod pottage: and Esau came from the field, and he was faint. And Esau said to Jacob; Let me taste I pray thee, of that red, that red pottage, for I am faint: therefore he called his name Edom. And Jacob said, Sell to me this day thy first-birthright. And Esau said, Loe I am going to die: and wherefore (serveth) this first-birthright unto me? And Jacob said, Swear unto me this day, and he sware unto him: and he sold his first-birthright unto Jacob. And Jacob gave to Esau, bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and rose up and went-away: and Esau despised the first-birthright.

Annotations.

ADded] that is, did again take a wife, when he was an hundred and forty years old, and had of her six sons, by the extraordinary blessing of God: whereas forty years before, his body was even dead, in respect of natural strength and vigor, as the Apostle noteth, Rom. 4. 19. a wife] called elsewhere a concubine, 1 Chron. 1. 32. what manner of wife that was, see on Gen. 22. 24. Keturah] in Greek Chettoura.

Vers. 2. Zimran] in Greek Zombran. Iekshan] in Greek Iezan] Medan] whose posterity are called Medanites, Gen. 37. 36. Midian] in Greek Madiam and Madian, Act. 7. 29. of him came the people called Madianites; that soon fell from Abraham's faith to idolatry, Num. 25. Shuach] in Greek, Soie: of him came Bildad, Job's friend, called the Shuchite, Job 2. 11.

Vers. 3. Sheba] in Greek, Saba: his posterity robbed Job of his oxen and asses, Job 1. 15.

Vers. 4. Ephah] or Gepha: in Greek, Gephar. Epher] or Gepher, in Greek Apheir: of him the country Aphrica is thought to have the name. Enoch] in Heb. Chanoch: as Gen. 5. 18.

Vers. 5. to Isaac] as being his only heir, and child of promise, Gen. 21. 12. a figure of Christ and Christians, heirs by promise of all things, Heb. 1. 2. John 3. 34. Rev. 21. 7. Gal. 3. 29. and 2. 28.

Vers. 6. concubines] Hagar, and Keturah: verse. 1. east country] or, land of the East: a part of Arabia: hereupon mention is made of the sons of the East, Job 1. 3. And Job himself was in likelihood the son of one of these sons or nephewes of Abraham by Keturah.

Vers. 7. 175 years] This sum of his years showeth, how Abraham had lived a pilgrim in Canaan a hundred years after he came out of Charran, Gen. 12. 4. That he attained not to the years of his forefathers, who all lived longer then he, Gen. 11. 11. &c. as did also his son Isaac, Gen. 35. 28. That he left alive behind him, Heber, that great Patriarch and Prophet, of whom he had the surname to be an Hebrew, Gen. 11. 17. and 14. 13. and from whom he was the seventh generation, as Enoch was from Adam.

Vers. 8. hoary age] as was promised, Gen. 15. 15. of days] so the Greek and Chaldee explaineth it, and the Hebrew it self elsewhere, Gen. 35. 29. Such words are often to be understood, as a full, for a full cup, Psal. 73. 10. see Gen. 4. 20. and 5. 3. and by being full of days, is meant a willingness to die, without desiring longer life on earth. his people's] the Greek translatheth, his people: the like is said of Ishmael, verse. 17. of Isaac, Gen. 35. 29. of Jacob, Gen. 49. 33. of Aaron, Num. 20. 24. of Moses, Deut. 32. 50. and others: sometime it is said, gathered to their fathers, 2 King. 22. 20. Judge. 2. 10. Act. 13. 36. and by Abraham's people's, are meant his fathers, Gen. 15. 15. and the phrase signifieth the immortality of souls: for Abraham's body was gathered to the body of Sarah only, as the next words show: and by his fathers, are meant the spirits of just men made perfect, Heb. 12. 23. See after, in verse 17.

Vers. 10. and Sarah] as is shown in Gen. 23. 19. Afterwards Isaac and Jacob with their wives, were buried there also, Gen. 49. 29. 31.

Vers. 11. blessed Isaac] so applying and confirming to him, the promises made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 2. and 14. 19. and 17. 19. and so Isaac commended to Jacob, the blessing of Abraham, Gen. 28. 3. 4. and by this blessing, the righteousness of faith is implied, to Abraham's seed, Galat. 3. 8. 9. &c. Beer-lachai-roi] in Greek, the well of vision; in Chaldee, the well at which the Angel of life appeared: this place of Isaac's seating, is not without mystery: see Gen. 16. 14. and 24. 62.

Vers. 12. generations] a rehearsal of Ismaels offspring; as Gen. 5. 1. And here, the fulfilling of God's promise is seen, made in Gen. 16. 10. 12. and 17. 20. and how he that was borne after the flesh, and cast out of Abraham's house, Gal. 4. 23. 30 was multiplied before Isaac the child and heir of the promise. See the like of Esau, Gen. 36. 43.

Vers. 13. Nebajoth] he and his brethren seated in Arabia, Isaiah 20. 13. 14. 16. Ezek. 27. 21. where people's and places retained the footsteps of their names: they gave themselves to shepherdly, as appeareth, Isaiah 60. 7. Ier. 49. 29. And here are twelve sons reckoned, which were Princes of their tribes, as was promised in Gen. 17. 20. answerable in number to the twelve sons of Jacob, heads of the twelve tribes of Israel; but these Ishmaelites are a generation before them, as Ishmael himself was borne before Isaac. For, that is first which is natural, and afterward that which is spiritual, 1 Corinth. 15. 46.

Vers. 16. castles,] or, villages: dwelling houses so named of being fair and high built in a row or order. In Greek habitations, as in Act. 1. 20. from Psal. 69.

Vers. 17. 137 years] So he lived not so long as his father Abraham, or his brother Isaac, or as did Jacob; though he lived till a great old age. And this mention of the term of his life, and gathering to his fathers, (as was spoken before of Abraham, v. 8.) and the burying of his father with his brother, verse. 9. may be some probability of Ismaels repentance, and dying in the faith of Abraham: for unless it be he, no reprobate hath his whole life time recorded in holy Scripture. Or if Ishmael died wicked; then by his fathers to whom he was gathered, are meant the souls of wicked men before him: which are spirits in prison, 1 Pet. 3. 19.

Vers. 18. they] that is, Ismaels sons dwelt. In Greek, he dwelt. Shur] a place in the wilderness: see Gen. 16. 7. The Chaldee there and here calleth it Chagra. did he fall] meaning either, that his lot did befall him, so to dwell, or that he so died, as the word fall sometime signifieth, Psal. 82. 7. Gen. 14. 10. But the Greek here translateth it, he dwelt: so also doth the Chaldee paraphrast, & so the plain text was before, in the promise, Gen. 16 12. and to make to fall, is to divide by lot an inheritance to dwell in, Ios. 23. 4. Psal. 78. 55.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the sixth Section of the Law, called The generations of Isaac. See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 19. the generations] that is, the history of the offspring of Isaac; and things that befell unto him, as Gen. 2. 1. and 5. 1. and 6. 9.

Vers. 20. old] Hebr. son of forty year, so v. 26. see Gen. 5. 32. the Syrian] the Hebrew name is Aramite: which the holy Ghost in Greek calleth Syrian, Luke 4. 27. See Gen. 10. 22. Padan Aram] the same that Aram Naharajim, Gen. 24. 10 for the Greek turneth them both, Mesopotamia of Syria. Aram is Syria, Gen. 24. 10. and 10. 22. Padan in the Syrian tongue is a pair or couple, and the country of Aram lying between a couple of rivers, is so named Padan Aram: and sometime only Padan, as Gen. 48. 7.

Vers. 21. for] or, directly-for, (as the force of the Hebrew word implieth) and before his wife: so it seemeth to be some solemn prayer which they made together directly for this matter: having lived twenty years together without any child, and Isaac waxen old, into the 60 year of his life, ver. 26. God exercising his faith hereby, as he had done Abraham's, Gen. 15. 2. The Jews have a tradition, that Isaac went with his wife to mount Morijah, to the place where he had been bound, (Gen. 22. 9.) and prayed there: Pirke R. Eliezer, ch. 32.

Vers. 22. struggled-together] or, bruised themselves, by struggling: which did presage the contrariety that should be between these two brothers: and so between the children of God, & of this world. if so, &c.] an imperfect speech, which in her passion she uttered: the Greek translatheth it, if it shall so be with me, why (is) this unto me? why have I conceived, if I must feel such things? to enquire] or seek, either by private prayer, or by asking some Prophet. The Yerushalmi Targum taketh it in this last sense, and saith, she went to the School of Sem the great: Howbeit Sem was dead about ten years before this: but by Abraham, or Heber, the great Patriarch, then living, she might well inquire of God. Others, (as R. Eliezer, Perek 32.) take it to be meant of her praying unto God.

Vers. 23. Two nations] that is, fathers of two nations, and divers people's: Edomites and Israelites. the greater] to weat, in dignity, which came naturally by the first birthright: or, the elder. The Hebrew Rab, (whereof great men and masters are called Rabbies, John 1. 39. Mat. 23. 8.) signifieth a superior in dignity. The holy Ghost in Greek translatheth it, the greater, Rom. 9. 12. Hereby Esau and his posterity are meant. shall serve] as came to pass carnally, when the Aedomites (of Esau) became servants to David, and to the Israelites which were of Jacob, 2 Sam. 8. 14. and spiritually, when Jacob got of Esau the first birthright, and bereaved him of the blessing, Gen. 25. 33. and 27. 29. For servitude came in with a curse, and figureth reprobation, Gen. 9. 25. John 8. 34. 35. Gal. 4. 30. 31. Therefore from hence the Prophet teacheth, that God loved Jacob, and hated Esau, Mal. 1. 2. 3. and the Apostle gathereth the doctrine of God's election and reprobation, saying, when Rebekka had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac, the children being not yet borne, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth, it was said unto her, the greater shall serve the lesser, as it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated, Rom. 9. 10. 11. 12. 13.

Vers. 25. red] a sign of the choleric, cruel, and bloody disposition, found in Esau himself, and in his posterity, Gen. 27. 40. 41. Obad. 1. 10. Ezek. 25. 12. So the cruel persecuting Dragon was of red color, Rev. 12. 3. The Hebrew Doctors say, Esau the wicked, was drawn after the works of judgment, mystically signified in these words, And by thy sword shalt thou live, Gen. 27. 40. and therefore he was red: R. Menachem Rakenat. on Gen. 25. And in Bresith rabbah they note, how he was red, and his meat was red, Gen. 25. 30. end his land was red, (as in Gen. 32. 3.) &c. And he that takes vengeance on him is red; and in red clothing, Song 5. 10. Isaiah 63. 1. 2. all over] Hebr. all of him like a mantle of hair; which the Greek translatheth, like a rough hide. This also signified his strong, fierce, and crafty nature: For hair is a sign of natural strength; and nature being corrupted, hairinesse denoteth the power of corruption; therefore when Lepers were purified, all their hair was to be shaven off, Lev. 14. 8. So the Hebrews say, that his hayrinesse signified the strength of uncleanness, which came out of him: R. Menachem, on Gen. 25. Esau] by interpretation, Made, or Perfected: as being of a more strong and perfect constitution natural, then other children: rather like a man then a babe.

Vers. 26. the heel] or foot sole; as if he would have pulled back his brother from the birth, and have been before him: or at least, for to overthrow him. Which as God by their former struggling in her body, and now by this behavior did signify: so the Prophet mentioneth it after to Jacob's children, how he thus strove for the grace of the first birthright, which they by sin suffered themselves to be deprived of, Hos. 12. 2. 3. This manner of birth, that Jacob's hand held his brother by the heel, was also extraordinarily strange, and perilous for the life both of mother and child. See the like after, in Gen. 38. 28. he called] that is, everyone called: as in verse. 25. it is written, they called: or, he was called; so verse. 30. See the notes on Gen. 16. 14. Jacob] that signifieth one that should hold by the foot, or overthrow his brother.

Vers. 27. a cunning huntsman] Hebr. a man knowing hunting. of the field] ranging the fields for to hunt beasts. Of a disposition much like Ismaels, Gen. 16. 12. or Nimrods, Gen. 10. 9. perfect] of a religious, honest, plain and simple disposition, without guile or wickedness: as the Greek translatheth, vnfeighned. See Gen. 6. 9. dwelling] or, sitting in tents: that is, either keeping home, (as Judge. 5. 24.) or being with the sheepfolds as an heirder: for shepherds kept in tents, Gen. 4. 20. Esa. 38. 12. and such was Jacob's trade and his children's, Gen. 46. 34. Besides, that dwelling in tents, signified his pilgrimage in the land, Heb. 11. 9. Hereupon Jacob's tents, are used for the state of the commonwealth of Israel, Num. 24. 5. Mal. 2. 12. The Greek here translatheth, dwelling in house: but the Chaldee saith, A minister of the house of doctrine: as giving himself to religious study and schollership. So other of the Hebrew Doctors; as in Pirkei R. Eliezer, ch. 32. it is said, After the children were grown, the one walked in the way of life, the other walked in the way of death. Jacob our father walked in the way of life, for he dwelt in tents, and studied the law, all his days; but Esau the wicked, walked in the way of death, to kill Jacob, Gen. 27. 41.

Vers. 28. in his mouth] or, for his mouth; namely, his meat, as the Greek explaineth it: that is, because he delighted to eat of Esau's venison. This love for carnal respect continued contrary to the Oracle of God, but it was disappointed, Genes. 27. 4. 33.

Vers. 29. pottage] or broth: Hebr. sod a seething. faint] with weariness; as the word implieth. This signified Esau's vain employment of his time and strength: whereas they that wait on the Lord spiritually, faint not, Isaiah 40. 30. 31. but the righteous eateth to the satisfying of his soul: Pro. 13. 25.

Vers. 30. Let me cast] or, let me have a draught; the Greek and Chaldee translate it taste. It is a word not used but in this place. red] which in Hebrew is Adom: whereupon his name was called Aedom. The doubling of the word red, and omitting the word pottage, noteth Esau's hast and greediness, increased also by the color. he called] or, his name was called Aedom, that is, Red: for he was ruddy when he was borne, verse. 25. and now longing for red broth, and selling his birthright for it, this name was given him, as a brand-mark of his greediness and profaneness.

Vers. 31. this day] or, even now: the Hebr. Cajom, As today, is often used for hajom, this day, as the Greek here interpreteth it, and in verse. 23. following. So 1 Sam. 2. 16. and 9. 13. 27. 2 Chron. 18. 4. And the Hebrew word for As, is often a very affirmation: see Gen. 27. 12. firstbirthright] The dignity whereof the Law showeth to be great, in that all the first-borne were peculiarly consecrated and given unto God, Exod. 22. 29. were next in honor to their parents, Gen. 49. 3. had a double portion of their fathers goods, Deut. 21. 17. succeeded them in the government of the family, or kingdom: 2 Chron. 21. 3. and administration of the priesthood, and service of God, Num. 8. 14.—17. Therefore the first-borne is used for one that is loved, and dear to his father, Ex. 4. 22. and higher than his brethren, Psal. 89. 28. and figured Christ, Rom. 8. 29. and true Christians heirs of the kingdom of heaven, Heb. 12. 23. This honor Jacob strove to have at his birth; but missing then, he seeketh now, and obtaineth it. The Greek translatheth it plurally, firstbirthrights; and so doth the Apostle in Heb. 12. 16.

Vers. 32. going to die] that is, ready, or in danger to die: which may be meant, both in respect of his present hunger, which could not (as he profanely thought) be satisfied with the title of his birth-right: and of his daily danger to be killed by the wild beasts, in the field where he hunted. wherefore serveth] or, what profiteth? as if he should say, nothing at all.

Vers. 33. Swear] to confirm the bargain, (Heb. 6. 16.) and to make it irrevocable, (Psalm. 110. 4. and 15. 4.) So by oath he renounced his birthright before God, whose name is therefore used in oaths; Deut. 6. 13. he sold] It is recorded in the Jews canon laws, that the first-borne who selloth the portion of his birthright, even before it be parted; his sale standeth in force: because the firstborn hath part in the birthright, before the parting thereof: Maimonides, Treat. of Inheritances, ch. 3. S. 6.

Vers. 34. of lentiles] a kind of pulse much like to vetches, or small pease; and but course food, so vile an exchange did Esau make of his heavenly dignity: that not without cause doth the holy Ghost call him a profane person; who for one meals meat, sold his first birthrights, Heb. 12. 16. It is a tradition of the Hebrew Doctors, that Lentiles were wont to be eaten of men, in their sorrow and mourning: and that Jacob did feed upon Lentiles, in mourning and sorrow, for that the kingdom, and dominion, and first-birthright was Esau's. Whereupon they also gather, that the sons of Esau should not fall, until the Remainder of Jacob come, and give to the sons of Esau, food of lentiles, with mourning and sorrow, and take from them the dominion, kingdom, and firstbirthright, which Jacob bought of him by oath. Pirkei R. Eliezer, ch. 35. eat and drink] This seemeth to intimate not only a satisfying of his hunger, but a carnal secure despising of his honor now sold: as in 1 Cor. 15. 32. let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we shall die. went away] without showing any remorse or sorrow, for his profane bargain. despised] unto this the Yerushalmi Paraphrast addeth, that he also despised his portion in the world to come; and denied the resurrection of the dead. Thus the Jews esteemed his fact most irreligious and profane: as the Apostle also doth, Heb. 12. 16.

CHAP. XXVI.

1. Isaac because of famine goeth to Gerar; 2, God biddeth him, not go into Egypt, but dwell in the land; and promiseth him the blessings of Abraham. 7, Isaac denieth his wife, 9, Abimelech therefore reproveth him. 12, He groweth rich. 18, He diggeth three wels, Esek, Sitnah, and Rechoboth. 23, Abimelech maketh a covenant with him at Beersheba. 34, Esau's wives.

AND there was a famine, in the land; besides the first famine, which was in the days of Abraham: and Isaac went unto Abimelech King of the Philistines unto Gerar. And Jehovah, appeared unto him; and said, Go not down into Egypt: dwell in the land which I shall say unto thee. Sojourn in this land; and I will be with thee, and will bless thee: for to thee and to thy seed, will I give all these lands; and I will stablish the oath, which I sware unto Abraham thy father. And I will multiply thy seed, as the stars of the heavens: and will give unto thy seed, all these lands: and in thy seed, all nations of the earth shall bless themselves. Because that Abraham obeyed my voice: and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes and my laws. And Isaac dwelt, in Gerar. And the men of the place, asked of his wife; and he said, she is my sister: for he feared to say my wife, lest the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah, because she was of a good countenance. And it was, when the days had been prolonged by him there; that Abimelech King of the Philistines, looked out through a window: and saw, and behold Isaac was sporting, with Rebekah his wife. And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold surely she is thy wife; and how saidest thou, she is my sister? And Isaac said unto him; Because I said, lest I die for her. And Abimelech said; what is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lain with thy wife, and thou shouldest have brought upon us guiltiness. And Abimelech commanded all the people, saying: he that toucheth this man, or his wife, dying he shall be put to death. And Isaac sowed, in that land; and found in that year, an hundred measures: and Jehovah blessed him. And the man waxed-great; and went going-on, and waxing-great; until he was waxed-great, exceedingly. And he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and much husbandry: and the Philistines envied him. And all the wells which his fathers servants had digged, in the days of Abraham his father: the Philistines stopped them, and filled them with dust. And Abimelech said, unto Isaac: Go from us, for thou art very-much mightier then we. And Isaac went from thence: and pitched in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac returned, and digged the wels of water; which they had digged, in the days of Abraham his father, and the Philistines had stopped them, after the death of Abraham: and he called their names, according to the names that his father had called them. And Isaac's servants digged in the valley: and found there a well of living waters. And the herdmen of Gerar did strive with the herdmen of Isaac, saying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well, Esek; because they contended with him. And they digged another well; and they strove also for it:

and he called the name of it, Sitnah. And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and they strove not for it: and he called the name of it, Rechoboth; and he said, for now Jehovah hath made-room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land. And he went-up from thence, to Beersheba. And Jehovah appeared unto him, the same night; and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee; and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed, for my servant Abraham's sake. And he built there an altar, and called on the name of Jehovah; and stretched-out there, his tent: and there Isaac's servants digged a well. And Abimelech went unto him, from Gerar: and Achuzzath his friend, and Phicol, the Prince of his army. And Isaac said unto them; wherefore come ye unto me: and ye hate me, and have sent me away from you? And they said, Seeing we have seen, that Jehovah is with thee; and we said, Let there now be an oath-of-execration betwixt us, betwixt us and thee; and let us strike a covenant with thee. If thou shalt do unto us evil, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee, but-only good, and have sent thee away in peace: thou now, the blessed of Jehovah. And he made unto them a banquet; and they did eat and drink. And they rose early in the morning, and sware ech-man to his brother: and Isaac sent them away, and they went from him, in peace. And it was, the same day; that Isaac's servants came, and shown unto him, concerning the well which they had digged: & they said unto him, we have found water. And he called it, Shibeah: therefore the name of the City, is Beer-sheba, unto this day.

And Esau was forty years old; and he took a wife, Judith; the daughter of Beeri, a Chethite: and Basemath, the daughter of Elon, a Chethite. And they were, a bitterness of spirit: to Isaac, and to Rebekah.

Annotations.

First famine] whereof see Gen. 12. 10. Abimelech] of whom see Gen. 20. 1. 2. &c. which history is to be compared with this.

Vers. 2. Egypt] as Abraham did, Gen. 12. 10. and whither it seemeth Isaac was purposing to go.

Vers. 3. this land] of Canaan, the land of promise, and figure of the place of heavenly rest; see the notes on Gen. 12. 5. So by David he exhorteth, Dwell in the land, and feed on faith, Psalm. 37. 3. See Gen. 37. 1. I will be] the Chaldee expoundeth it, my word shall be an help unto thee: so in verse. 24. and 28. these lands] or countries, possessed by so many nations, Gen. 15. 19. 20. 21. so Psalm. 105. 44. The Greek translath singularly, land; and so was the promise made to Abraham, Gen. 13. 15. and 15. 18. and 17. 8. see the notes there. stablish the oath] that is, perform the promises: sworn, Gen. 22. 16. 17.

Vers. 4. stars] that is, innumerable: see Genes. 15. 5. seed] meaning Christ: Gal. 3. 16. 8. bless themselves] or as the Greek translath, shall be blessed, see Gen. 22. 18.

Vers. 5. charge] Hebr. keeping, or observation: that is, ordinances to be kept. So in Lev. 8. 35. and 22. 9. Deut. 11. 1. laws] for this word, elsewhere the Scripture saith, judgments, Deut. 11. 1. and 5. 1. 31. and 6. 1. 20. and 7. 11. and 8. 11. &c. and under these three particulars, the whole charge or custody forespoken of, is comprehended; as afterward by Moses God gave the ten commandments, or moral precepts, Exod. 20. Judgments, or judicial laws for punishing transgressors, Exod. 21. &c. and Statutes, or rules, ordinances and decrees for the service of God, Lev. 3. 17. and 6. 18. 22. Exod. 12. 24. & 27. 31. & 29. 9. & 30. 21. Al which Abraham observed, and is commended of God therefore.

Vers. 7. my sister] He imitateth his father Abraham's practice, Gen. 12. 11. 12. 13. and 20. 2. kill me] Moses expresseth this as Isaac's own words of himself. The Greek translateth it, should kill him: so elsewhere that version changeth the person, for more easy order of speech, and understanding to the reader. See Psal. 144. 12. good countenance] elsewhere it is fair of countenance, (or visage) Gen. 12. 11. so the Greek turneth it here: and before, good is used for fair, or goodly, Gen. 24. 16.

V. 8. by him] or to him: that is, when he had been, a long time there. sporting] or laughing, playing, rejoicing: it is the word whereof Isaac himself had his name, Gen. 17. 17. 19. and 21. 6. Solomon saith, Rejoice with the wife of thy youth, &c. Prov. 5. 18. 19

Vers. 10. might lightly] or, had almost lain. guiltiness] a sin making us guilty of punishment, a shameful crime: named in Hebrew Asham: the Greek translateth it Ignorance: and so Paul calleth the sins of the people Ignorances, or ignorant trespasses, Heb. 9. 7. rightly so gathered from Levite. 4. 22. See the further explication of this word, there. Abimelech by this word Asham, meaneth both the sin and the punishment for the same; as in the law, Asham, is both the Guilty-sin, and the Sacrifice for the same, Lev. 5. 5. 6.

Vers. 11. toucheth] that is, hurteth, or injureth: so in verse. 29. and in Ios. 9. 19. Ruth 2. 9. Job 1. 11. Psal. 105. 15. Zach. 2. 8. or] Hebr. and: which is often used for or, as is observed on Gen. 13. 8. dying] that is, he shall surely be put to death: as Gē. 2. 17

Vers. 12. 100 measures] that is, as the Chaldee explaineth it, a hundred for one when he measured it: or an hundred, may mean many: as an hundred fold, Matth. 19. 29. is elsewhere called manifold more, Luke 18. 23. The word Shegnarim, signifieth public measures, such as were used at the gates of cities, which were full and large. And this increase, (which is the most that our Savior speaketh of in Matth. 13. 23.) showeth the fruitfulness of the land of Canaan when God blessed it; and figured the bountiful reward which the godly shall find of their labors, in the heavenly country, which we seek, Gal. 6. 7. 8. 9. Heb. 11. 14. 16. The fruitfulness of Canaan, signified also the graces of the Gospel, Ezek. 34. 27. Zac. 8. 12. Ps. 67. 7. blessed him] & his blessing maketh rich, Pro. 10. 22. Job 42. 12. This the next words of Isaac do also confirm.

Vers. 14. possession] or cattle: so Gen. 47. 17. husbandry] so also the Greek turneth it georgia. It implieth all manner work and service belonging to a family; and so servants, and tillage of all sorts. The like is said of Job, Job 1. 3. envied] had an envious zeal and emulation. So Solomon saw how all labor and rightness of work, brought envy to a man from his neighbor, Eccles. 4. 4.

Vers. 15. with dust] or earth, as the Greek translateth. This also they enviously did against their oath before, Gen. 21. 30. 31. And this injury was great, because of scarcity of waters there, Gen. 21. 25. It figured out the corrupting of the clear doctrines of the gospel, by earthly glosses and traditions of Antichristians. Psal. 65. 10. and 84. 7. Song 4. 15. Num. 21. 16. 18. John 4. 10. 14.

Vers. 17. pitched] to weer, his tents: or, encamped. A word used for pitching of camps or armies, Exod. 14. 9. and 15. 27. &c. applied first here to Isaac's family, afterwards to Jacob's, Gen. 33. 18. and so to his posterity. And betokeneth a residing, or quiet sitting: opposed to removing, or journeying, Num. 1. 50. 51. 52. and 9. 17. 18. The Chaldee translatheth it dwelled.

Vers. 18. returned and digged] that is, as the Greek explaineth it, again digged. Figuring the restoring of the ancient truth, out of corruption: as v. 15. their names] so renewing the ancient good names (that carried, as seemeth, the memorial of God's graces) which the wicked had defaced: as on the contrary, the idolatrous names of places, on which the heathens had set the memorial of false gods and superstition, were by the Israelites changed, when they came into their possession, Num. 32. 38. for the very names of idols, are not to be heard out of our mouths, Exod. 23. 13. Psal. 16. 4.

Vers. 19. the valley] of Gerar, as the Greek yersion doth express. living] that is, as the Chaldee here translatheth, springing waters. Waters that spring or run, are for their continual motion, called living, Levite. 14. 5. 50. and 15. 13. Num. 19. 17. Song 4. 15. For life consisteth in continual motion. The Greek keepeth the Hebrew phrase: and so in the New Testament, where living waters, signify heavenly graces, John 4. 10. 11. 14. and 7. 38. Rev. 21. 6. and 22 1.

Vers. 20. ours] or (belonging) to us: the Greek changeth the person, saying that the water was theirs. So ver. 7. Ezek] that is, Contention, or wrongful strife: Wrangling, the Greek translatheth, Injurie, because they injured him.

Vers. 21. Sitnah] that is, Hatred, or Spitefulness. Of this the devil hath his name, Satan.

Vers. 22. Rechoboth] that is, Roomths; or large spaces. Compare Psalm. 4. 2. in distress thou hast made roomth for me.

Vers. 24. fear not] for the opposition of the Philistines, and other afflictions that are incident unto thee. So God comforted Abraham, Gen. 15 1.

Vers. 25. called on] the Chaldee saith, prayed: so did Abraham his father, Gen. 12. 7. 8. and 13. 4. 18. ⟨◇⟩ stretched out] that is, set up, or pitched his tent, as the Greek explaineth it, which was with spreading and stretching out the curtains and cords unto stakes, Esa. 33. 20.

Vers. 26. Achuzzath his friend] or, aretinue of his friends: and so the Chaldee translatheth it, a company of his friends: but the Greek takes it for a proper name, Ochozath; and his friend, the Greek calleth nymphagogos, which is the companion (or leader) of the bridegroom; like that in Judge. 14. 20. which the Greek there translatheth as this here. Prince] that is, Chief captain: in Greek, the Chief leader of the army, as in Gen. 21. 22. with which this history is to be compared. Isaac's ways pleasing the Lord; he made his enemies to be at peace with him: as Prov. 16. 7.

Vers. 28. Seeing &c.] that is, we have evidently seen. Jehovah] the Chaldee expounds it, the word of the Lord is thine help. an oath-of-execration] in Greek, a curse? that is, an oath wishing a curse to the breaker of it: as Gen. 24. 41. The Chaldee paraphraseth thus, Let the oath now be confirmed, which was between our fathers; and between us and thee. strike] Hebr. ⟨◇⟩ foe Gen. 15. 18.

Vers. 29. If thou shalt] understand, Taking a curse upon thee, if thou shalt: meaning, that thou shalt not (or wi ⟨...⟩) do evil, as the Greek explaineth it. See Gen 21. 23. touched] that is, hurt, as v. 11. blessed] see Gen. 24. 31. An imperfect speech, as if he should say, O thou blessed of the Lord, do thou likewise deal with us: or, as thou art now blessed of the Lord, so swear unto us by him. The Greek translateth, and now thou art the blessed of the Lord.

Vers. 30. a banquet] used when men made covenants together, Gen. 31. 54.

Vers. 31. man to his brother] that is, one to another: the Greek saith, man to his neighbor.

Vers. 33. Shibeah] in Greek Horkos; in English, Oath. Beersheba] that is, the well of the oath: as the Greek also interprets it. This name was given before, Gen. 21. 31. It seemeth in tract of time the name was forgotten, the rather because the well then digged by Abraham, (verse. 30.) was by the Philistines stopped, Gen. 26. 15. and they would therefore have no such monument: but Isaac now reneweth the name. Or here the city is named Beersheba; there the place, Gen. 21. 3. that is, the whole region.

Vers. 34. old] Hebr. son. This also was the age of his father Isaac when he married, Gen. 25. 20. Judith] one of the daughters of the Canaanites, called by another name, Gen. 36. 2. see the annotations there. This fact was contrary to Abraham's charge, Gen. 24. 3. and his father Isaac's, as is likely by verse. 35. and Gen. 28. 2. 6. 8. a Chethite] in Greek, an Evite: see Gen. 36. 2. These were of the worst sort of people in the land, Ezek. 16. 3.

Vers. 35. a bitterness of spirit] that is, a grief of mind, through their bitter provocation and rebellious carriage: so that they were irked of their life by reason of them, Gen. 27. 46. Or, of a rebellious spirit, resisting their parents. This latter the Greek followeth, calling them Contentious with Isaac and Rebekah: and the Chaldee saith, they were rebellious and stubborn against the word of Isaac and Rebekah: unto which the Yerushalmi Targum addeth, that they served (God) with strange service (that is, idolatry) and received not the instruction either of Isaac or of Rebekah. See Gen. 27. 46.

CHAP. XXVII.

1, Isaac sendeth Esau for venison, purposing to eat, and bless him before his death. 5, Rebekah instructeth Jacob to obtain the blessing. 15, Jacob under the person of Esau, obtaineth it. 30, Esau bringeth venison. 33, Isaac trembleth. 34, Esau complaineth, and by importunity obtaineth a blessing. 41, He threateneth to kill Jacob. 42, Rebekah disappointeth it.

AND it was, when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, that he could not see: then called he Esau, his elder son, and said unto him, my son; and he said unto him, Behold here am I. And he said, Behold now I am old: I know not the day of my death. And now, take I pray thee thy wepons, thy quiver and thy bow: and go out to the field; and hunt for me venison. And make for me savoury-meats, such as I love; and bring it to me, that I may eat: that my soul may bless thee before I die. And Rebekah heard, when Isaac spake to Esau his son: and Esau went to the field, to hunt for venison, for to bring it. And Rebekah said unto Jacob her son, saying: Behold I heard thy father speaking unto Esau thy brother, saying. Bring me venison, and make for me savoury-meats, that I may eat: and I will bless thee, before Jehovah, before my death. And now my son, obey my voice: according to that I do command thee. Go now, unto the flock, and take to me from thence, two good kids of the goats: and I will make them savoury-meats, for thy father, such as he loveth. And thou shalt bring them to thy father, that he may eat: for that he may bless thee; before his death. And Jacob said, to Rebekah his mother: Behold Esau my brother, is a hairy man; and I, a smooth man. If so be, my father shall feel me, then shall I be in his eyes, as a deceiver: and I shall bring upon me, a curse, and not a blessing. And his mother said unto him; Upon me be thy curse, my son; Only obey my voice, and go, take them unto me. And he went and took, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made savoury-meats, such as his father loved. And Rebekah took the desireable garments, of Esau her elder son; which were with her in the house: and put them upon Jacob, her younger son. And the skins of the kids of the goats, she put upon his hands: and upon the smooth of his neck. And she gave the savoury-meats, and the bread, which she had made, into the hand of Jacob her son. And he came unto his father, and said, my father: and he said, Behold here I am; who art thou, my son? And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau thy firstborn; I have done even as thou spakest unto me: Arise I pray thee, sit, and eat of my venison; that thy soul may bless me. And Isaac said, unto his son; How is this that thou hast so soon found it, my son? And he said, because Jehovah thy God, brought it to pass, before me. And Isaac said unto Jacob; Come near, I pray thee, and let me feel thee my son: whether thou be the same, my son Esau, or not. And Jacob went-near, unto Isaac his father, and he felt him: and he said, the voice is the voice of Jacob; and the hands are the hands of Esau. And he discerned him not, because his hands were, as the hands of Esau his brother, hairy: and he blessed him. And he said, art thou the same, my son Esau? And he said, I. And he said, Bring-near unto me, and I will eat of my sons venison, that my soul may bless thee: and he brought it near to him, and he did eat; and he brought unto him wine, and he drank. And Isaac his father, said unto him: Come near now and kiss me, my son. And he came near, and kissed him; and he smelled the smell of his garments, and blessed him: and said, See, the smell of my son; is as the smell of a field, the which Jehovah hath blessed. And God give unto thee, of the dew of the heavens, and of the fatnesses of the earth: and multitude of corn, and of new-wine. Let people's serve thee, and nations bow-down-themselves unto thee; be thou a master to thy brethren, and let thy mothers sons bow-down-themselves unto thee: Cursed be everyone of them that curse thee, and blessed be everyone of them that bless thee. And it was, when as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob; and it was, that Jacob was but going gone out, from the presence of Isaac his father: that Esau his brother came in from his hunting. And he also made savoury meats, & brought them to his father: and said unto his father, Let my father arise, and eat of his sons venison; that thy soul may bless me. And Isaac his father said unto him, who art thou? and he said, I am thy son thy first borne, Esau. And Isaac trembled, with a very vehement great trembling & said, Who where is he that hath hunted venison, & brought it unto me, & I have eaten of all, ere thou camest, and have blessed him: yea and he shall be blessed. When Esau heard the words of his father; then cried-he-out, with an outcry, great and bitter, very vehemently: and said unto his father, Bless me, me also, my father. And he said, Thy brother came, with guile: and he hath taken thy blessing. And he said, Is it because his name was called Jacob; for he hath supplanted me, these two-times; he took my first-birthright, and behold now, he hath taken my blessing: and he said, hast thou not reserved a blessing for me? And Isaac answered, and said unto Esau; Loe I have appointed him to be a master over thee; and all his brethren have I given to him, for servants; and with corn and new wine have I sustained him: and unto thee now, what shall I do, my son? And Esau said unto his father, Hast thou but that one blessing, my father; bless me, me also, my father: and Esau lifted up his voice, and wept. And Isaac his father answered, and said unto him: Behold, of the fatnesses of the earth, shall thy dwelling be; and of the dew of the heavens from above. And by thy sword shalt thou live; and thy Brother shalt thou serve: and it shall be, when thou shalt get-the-dominion, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck. And Esau, hated Jacob; for the blessing with which his father had blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are nigh; and I will kill Jacob my brother. And the words of Esau, her elder son, were told to Rebekah: and she sent and called Jacob, her younger son; and said unto him; Behold Esau thy Brother, comforteth him-self as touching thee, to kill thee. And now my son, obey my voice: and arise flee thou unto Laban my Brother, to Charran. And tarry with him, a few days: until the hot-wrath of thy Brother, turn away. Until the anger of thy Brother turn-away from thee; and he forget, that which thou hast done to him; and I will send, and take thee from thence: why should I be bereaved, even of you both, in one day? And Rebekah said unto Isaac: I am irked of my life, because of the daughters of Cheth: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Cheth like these, of the daughters of the land; wherefore have I life?

Annotations.

THat he could not see] Hebr. from seeing: which phrase the Apostle turneth in Greek, not to see, Rom. 11. 10. from Psal. 69. 24. Upon this occasion. God's works were shown in Isaac, (as John. 9. 3.) for in his blindness he gave Jacob the blessing, which he would not so have done, if he had seen: verse. 23. elder] in Heb ew, greater, to weet, of age, or by birth; as the Greek translatheth Elder: and lesser for younger: v. 15. see Gen. 10. 21.

Vers. 2. my death] the Greek saith, my end: yet lived he after this, above forty years, Genes. 35. 28. 29.

Vers. 3. Venison] Hebr. hunting: whereof venison hath the name, as being gotten by hunting. So v. 5. 19. &c.

Vers. 4. that I may] or, and I will eat: so in v. 7. and 10. These two phrases are used indifferently: as, that ye be not judged, Matth. 7. r. which another Evangelist saith, and ye shall not be judged, Luke 6. 37. See also Gen. 12. 12. that my soul] or, to the end my soul: that is; I myself: as after in v. 7. it is repeated. Isaac being to give the blessing in faith, Heb. 11. 20. would eat savoury meat, and drink wine, ver. 25. to stir up and cheare his spirit, that he might be the more fit instrument of the spirit of God. For sorrow, anger, and other such passions, do distemper the mind: which may be mitigated by outward means, as wine maketh men to forget their misery, Prov. 31. 6. 7. and music allayeth anger: wherefore Elisha the Prophet, when he was moved against King Jehoram, called for a musitian, who when he played, the hand of the Lord came upon the Prophet, 2 King. 3. 14. 15. bless thee] as the Priests with authority blessed and put the name of God upon the people, Gen. 14. 19. Num. 6. 23. 27. So the Patriarchs derived the blessing before their death, unto their children, (or someone of them) as an inheritance by testament: wherefore Paul speaketh of inheriting the blessing, Heb. 12. 17. which also was of great authority and strength, as being done by the Spirit of God; and in faith, and before the Lord, as verse. 7. See Gen. 28. 3. 4. and 48. 15. 16. 20. and 49. 25. 26. 28. Heb. 11. 20. 21. and 12. 17. Esau, (who had his name of Doing) is here promised the blessing upon his deeds; as the law also promiseth blessing and life to the doers thereof, Rom. 10. 5. but Jacob got the blessing by faith, as do all the faithful, Gal. 3. 9.

Vers. 7. before Jehovah] that is, in his presence, by his power and authority, and forever, (the like phrase is of cursing, 1 Sam. 26. 19.) And being done before his death, it was with the more power, case, reverence, and as by his last will and testament. So Deut. 33. 1.

Vers. 12. if so be] or, Peradventure my father will feel me, and I shall be, &c. The Greek translatheth it, Me pote, which word Paul useth, 2 Tim. 2. 25. in like sense; If so be, (or If peradventure) God will give them repentance. as a deceiver] or, as one that causeth to err: the Greek translatheth it, a despiser, the Chaldee, a mocker. Or we may English it, a very deceiver: for in the Hebrew, as, is often a sure affirmation, Neh. 7. 2. and so the Greek answering thereto, John 1. 14. a curse] not feared without cause, for cursed is he that maketh the blind to err in way, Deut. 27. 18. and deceitfulness in all God's works, maketh men liable to the curse, Ier. 48. 10. Mal. 1. 14.

Vers. 13. upon me thy curse] a speech of her faith, to encourage him, (though it may be mixed with infirmity of carriage:) for it seemeth she relied on the oracle of God, in Gen. 25. 23. the greater shall serve the less: which oracle, Isaac might understand not of the persons of Esau and Jacob, but of the nations and people's, their posterity; and therefore thought it his duty to give the blessing of the first birthright unto Esau, to whom by nature it belonged, and which might not be changed for affection, as the Law after provideth, in Deut. 21. 15. 16. 17. But Rebekah understood it of these very persons also; and therefore attempted this strange and perilous way, to procure the blessing unto Jacob. A like different meaning of that oracle, is gathered by men at this day. The Chaldee paraphraseth thus, It was said unto me by prophesy, that curses shall not come upon thee, but blessings.

Vers. 15. desireable garments] Hebr. garments of desire, that is, good, sweet, precious: the Greek translatheth it, a goodly robe, (or fair stole, which was a long garment that great men used to wear, Luke 20. 46. and 15. 22. The Priests after in the law had holy garments, to minister in, Exo. 28. 2. 3. 4. which the Greek there also calleth a holy robe or stole. Whether the first borne before the law had such to minister in, is not certain; but probable, by this example. For had they been common garments, why did not Esau himself, or his wives keep them? but being in likelihood holy robes, received from their ancestors; the mother of the family kept them in sweet chests, from moths and the like; whereupon it is said in verse 27. Isaac smelled the smell of his garments. These might well figure out those robes of innocence and righteousness, wherewith the saints are clothed, Rev. 7. 9. 14. and 19. 8. and 3. 18. The like mystery also is in the kids skins following: see Gen. 3. 21.

Vers. 19. firstborn] This though it were not so properly (and cannot in that respect be excused,) yet was it true in mystery; and spiritually; as John the Baptist was Elias, Matt. 11. 14. and we gentiles, are the Circumcision, Phil. 3. 3. Rom. 2. 28. and the children of promise are counted for the seed, Rom. 9. 8. Gal. 4. 28.

Vers. 20. brought it to pass] or, made it to meet [unspec \2] (or occur) in Greek, delivered it: in Chaldee prepared it. See 24. 12.

Vers. 22. and the hands] or, but the hands: the Yerushalmi Targum saith, the feeling of the hands of a field] the Greek addeth, of a full (or plenteous) field: which with herbs, flowers and fruits, giveth a fragrant smell. Compare Song. 2. 13. and 4. 12. 13. 14. and 7. 11. 12. 13. The Yerushalmi Targum applieth this to the smell of the perfume of good spices, that should after be offered in the mount of the house of the sanctuary.

Vers. 28. And God give] or will give, it is both a prayer and a prophesy: the word And noteth the passion of the mind: for so it is often used to signify vehement affections, of desire, joy, indignation, or the like. See Gen. 47. 15. Psal. 2. 6. Act. 23. 3. Mark. 10. 26. 2 Cor. 2. 2. Sometime it is omitted quite; as 2 Sam. 24. 3. and the Lord thy God add. for which, in 1 Chron. 21. 3. is written, the Lord add: leaving out and, dew] which as it is the means to make the field fruitful, so •an it not be given but by God, Ier. 14. 22. and the with holding of it, is a curse, 2 Sam. 1. 21. It spiritually signifieth the doctrine and graces of the gospel, and spirit of Christ upon men. Deut. 32. 2. Isaiah 45. 8. and 26. 10. Hos. 14. 6. 7. Psal. 133. 3. A like blessing is in Deut. 33. 13. 28. fatnesses] that is, sundry sorts and plenty of fat things: whereby is meant the best of everything, (see Gen. 4. 4. and 49. 20. Isaiah 30. 23.) and spiritual graces, Isaiah 25. 6. The land of Cahaan, (the figure of all blessedness,) is called therefore the fat land, Neh. 9. 25. 35. corn and new wine.] which as they are the stay and comfort of man's life, Psal. 104. 15. so they also signify heavenly blessings that God sendeth upon his people, Psal. 65. 10. 14. Zach. 9. 17. A like blessing Moses uttered, Deut. 33. 28.

Vers. 29. nations,] the Greek translatheth it, Princes: the Chaldee Kingdoms. The Yerushalmi Targum applieth these people's, nations, brethren, and mothers sons: to the sons of Esau, of Ishmael, Keturah and of Laban. As servitude implieth a spiritual curse, Gen. 9. 25. so this sovereignty, is a spiritual blessing, Rev. 2. 26. 27. a master] or, a sovereign, a Lord, or governor: named of prevailing. Herein was implied a part of the first birth-right, 1 Chron. 5. 2. Psal. 89. 28. everyone, &c.] Hebrew thy cursers, cursed be he, that is, everyone of them: for a word singular, joined with a plural, noteth exactly all and everyone. Compare this with Gen. 12. 3. Numb. 24. 9.

Vers. 30. and it was] or, it was I say: the doubling of this, maketh the matter the more remarkable, touching God's providence herein. going gone:] that is, newly gone, or scarce gone out.

Vers. 33. trembled] or, was terrified; as the Greek and Chaldee translate, was astonished: it signifieth an exceeding fear with trembling, as Exod. 19. 16. 18. Gen 42 28. who where] a trembling passionate speech: or, who then is he? he shall be] So the gifts of God (which are without repentance Rom. 11. 29) are stablished to Jacob here, and after more advisedly, in Gen. 28. 1.—4.

Vers. 35. with guile] the Chaldee saith, with wisdom: but the word is usually taken in the evil part, and so Isaac seemeth to intend it. The Scripture also seemeth hereby to blame the indirect means which Jacob used: for none should do evil, that good may come, no not though through man's lie, the truth of God doth more abound, unto his glory; Rom. 3. 7. 8.

Vers. 36. Is it because] or understand, hath he done this because? meaning surely he hath. Therefore the Greek translatheth it, Rightly was his name called Iskob, and the Chaldee, Fitly: was called] Hebrew he called, meaning everyone: See Gen. 16. 14. for he hath] or, that he hath supplanted: where the Hebrew Iaakbeni, supplanted me, is Esau's interpretation of Jacob's name, as signifying a supplanter or overthrower with the foot, and so a deceiver: So Ier. 9. 4. he took] thus Esau layeth the fault on his brother, for taking that which himself profanely sold, Ge. 25. 33. He. 12. 16. my blessing] but that followed the first birth-right, which being sold, the blessing was lost also: as the Apostle inferreth upon it, that afterward when Esau would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected, Heb. 12. 16. 17.

Vers. 37. appointed] or put; that is, made, as the Greek translatheth it. sustained] the Greek translatheth strengthened: See Psal. 104. 15.

Vers. 38. and wept] yet found he no place of repentance, though he sought it with tears, Heb. 12. 17. For because when God calleth, men do refuse: when they call upon him, he will not answer; Prov. 1. 24. 28.

Vers. 39. fatnesses] that is, fat and fertile places: which were upon mount Seir. Gen. 36. 6. 8. and this was unto Esau, a gift of God, Ios. 24. 4. Therefore this also is a blessing, which Isaac by faith uttered concerning things that were to come, unto Esau, as before unto Jacob: Heb. 11. 20. How be it, the chief, spiritual, and hereditary blessing was before given to Jacob only, and Esau willing to inherit it, was rejected, Heb. 12. 17. and the oracles here following confirm the same.

Vers. 40. And by] or, But by thy sword: that is, with wars and troubles, shalt thou defend thy state and country; and not enjoy peace as Jacob, Deut. 33. 27. 28. The sword is opposed unto peace, Mat. 10. 34. and living by the sword, meaneth the continuance of that trouble some state; as life, is opposed to momentary troubles, Psal. 30. 6. Contrariwise in Christ's Kingdom, the swords are beaten into plow-shares, Isaiah 2. 4. thou serve] namely, in thy posterity: for Esau in his person served not Jacob, but his children in David's days, 2 Sa. 8. 14. So before, that was spoken as to Abraham, which was properly accomplished to and in his seed, Gen. 12. 3. and 22. 18. and 15. 7. 18. shalt get the dominion,] or shalt get strength: and that shall be, when Jacob shall for his sins, lose the dominion; as came to pass in the days of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat who did evil in the eyes of the Lord, 2 King. 8. 16. 18. 20. So both the Chaldee paraphrases say, when his sons shall transgress the words of the law, thou shalt remove his yoke (the yoke of their servitude) from off thy neck. Otherwise (as the Hebrew word sometime signifieth to mourn, or be cast down with sorrow, Psal. 55. 3.) it may be interpreted, when thou shalt mourn, to weet, for that hard servitude. his yoke] the yoke of servitude, as the Yerushalmi Targum explaineth it. So yoke also signifieth in Levite. 26. 13. Isaiah 9. 4. and 10. 17. Ier. 27. 8. 11. And Esau broke the yoke, when Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah, and made a King over themselves, 2 King. 8. 20. 22.

Vers. 41. hated] with an inward spiteful hatred, as the word signifieth, which showeth his former tears to proceed not from true repentance. And in hating his brother for the blessing: he shown himself to be of that wicked one, as was Kain, 1 John. 3. 12. 15. This hatred continued also in his posterity, against Jacob, Obad. v. 10. 11. &c. for my father] the Hebrew phrase, as also the Greek is, of my father; but the meaning is for my fathers death, as the like speeches otherwhere manifest, Ezek. 24. 17. Ier. 6. 26. and at burials they used to mourn seven days, Gen. 50. 10. The Greek translateth; Let the days of my fathers mourning be nigh, that I may kill Jacob my brother: so making it a wish for his fathers speedy death; and the Hebrew also will bear that translation; yea his words are such, as may imply, not a stay till his fathers death, but that he would with the first opportunity kill Jacob, and so his father would soon die with sorrow. Thus meaning, he would be a double parricide. And Rebekah with the first, sent Jacob away, to prevent danger.

Vers. 42. comforteth himself] in respect of his loss of the blessing, with this purpose and hope to kill thee. So the comfort of the wicked, is grounded on evil. The Greek translateth, he threateneth thee, and the Chaldee, he layeth wait for thee.

Vers. 43. flee thou] or, flee for thyself: and for thy safety. Here the blessing, brought speedy persecution and exile upon Jacob, which his mother counseled him in faith to undergo, rather then for his life, to make accord with Esau, and to forgo his first birthright now obtained.

Vers. 44 a few days] these fell out to be twenty years: as the sequel of the history showeth, Gen. 31. 38. and Rebekah saw him no more, as the Hebrew Doctors gather, by the time of her death, which they think was before Jacob came again. See the notes on Gen. 35. 8.

Vers. 45. why should I be] the Greek turneth it, lest I be bereaved: and she speaketh of the loss of them both, for that Esau for his murder, was also to be killed, by the law in Gen. 9. 6. or if man had not punished him, God might have cursed and cast him out, as he did Kain, Gen. 4. 11. 16. of Cheth] the Greek saith, daughters of the sons of Cheth, the Chethites, whom Esau had married, Gen. 26. 34. 35. This grief, she took for an occasion also, to get Isaac's consent, unto Jacob's departure. of the land] that is, of the inhabitants of the land, whether Chethites, or any other of the Canaanites: see Gen. 11. 1. wherefore have I] that is, what good will my life do me? meaning, none at all.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1, Isaac blesseth Jacob, and sendeth him to Padan Aram for a wife, 9, Esau seeing it, marrieth Machalath, the daughter of Ishmael. 10, Jacob by the way hath a dream and vision of a ladder, 13, God appearing, promiseth to bless him, and bring him home again. 16, Jacob awaking, and moved with reverence of the place, annointeth a stone set up for a pillar, and nameth the place Bethel, 20, and maketh a vow to honor God there, when he shall return in peace.

AND Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him: and commanded him, and said unto him; Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan. Arise go to Padan Aram, to the house of Bethuel, thy mothers father: and take to thee a wife, from thence; of the daughters of Laban, thy mothers brother. And God Almighty, bless thee; and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee: and be thou an assembly of people's. And he give to thee, the blessing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy seed with thee: that thou mayest inherit the land of thy sojournings, which God gave unto Abraham. And Isaac sent-away Jacob, and he went to Padan Aram: unto Laban son of Bethuel, the Syrian; the brother of Rebekah, mother of Jacob and Esau. And Esau saw, that Isaac had blessed Jacob; and sent him to Padan Aram, to take unto him a wife from thence: when he blessed him, and commanded him, saying; thou shalt not take a wife, of the daughters of Canaan. And Jacob had obeyed his father and his mother: and was gone to Padan Aram. And Esau saw, that the daughters of Canaan were evil in the eyes of Isaac his father. Then went Esau, unto Ishmael: and took Machalath daughter of Ishmael, son of Abraham, the sister of Nebajoth, unto his wives, to him to wife.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

And Jacob went-forth, from Beersheba: and went to Charran. And he lighted upon a place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was gone-down; and he took of the stones of the place, and put for his pillows: and lay-down, in that place. And he dreamed, and behold a ladder set-up on the earth, and the head of it, reaching to the heavens: and behold the Angels of God, ascending and descending on it. And behold Jehovah was standing above it, and said; I Jehovah the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: the land, that which thou liest upon, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed. And thy seed shall be, as the dust of the earth; and thou shalt spread-abroad, to the sea, and to the East, and to the North and to the south: and blessed shall be in thee, all families of the earth, and in thy seed. And behold I will be with thee, and will keep thee, in all (the way) that thou shalt go, and will return thee again, unto this land: for I will not leave thee, until that I have done, that which I have spoken unto thee. And Jacob awaked, out of his sleep; and he said. Surely Jehovah is, in this place: and I, knew it not. And he feared, and said; how fearful, is this place? this is no other, but the house of God; and this is the gate of heavens. And Jacob rose-up-early in the morning; and took the stone, that he had put for his pillows; and set it for a pillar: and he poured oil, upon the head thereof. And he called the name of that place, Bethel: but Luz was the name of the city, at the first. And Jacob vowed a vow, saying: If God, will be with me; and will keep me, in this way, which I am going; and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on. And I return in peace, unto my fathers house: and Jehovah shall be to me a God. And this stone, which I have set for a pillar; shall be, the house of God: and of all, that thou shalt give to me; I will tithing givethe-tenth unto thee.

Annotations.

Blessed him] God hereby confirmed Jacob's faith, against doubts and fears, both of things past and to come, while his father now wittingly and willingly blesseth him, and comforteth him against future troubles, that might befall him in his pilgrimage. The Hebrew Doctors say. Better is the end of a thing, then the beginning thereof, (Eccles. 7, 8.) the first blessings where with Isaac blessed Jacob, were of the dew of heaven, and corn of the earth. Gen. 27. 28. the after blessings, were blessings that had an eternal foundation, and had no end of them, either in this world, or in the world to come: as it is written, And God almighty bless thee, (Gen. 28. 3. 4. and addeth moreover unto him, the blessing of Abraham. Pirkei R. Eliezer. ch. 35.

Vers. 2 Padan Aram] or Mesopotamia, as the Greek turneth it: so verse. 5. 6. &c. see the notes on Gen. 25. 20. a wife,] The like care Abraham took, to provide a wife for Isaac, Gen. 24. But there, servants were sent with camels, and store of good things: here the son himself is sent on foot in poor estate, with his staff, Gen. 32. 10. to serve for a wife, Hos. 12. 12. So great was the trial of Jacob's faith in this his pilgrimage, greater then all his fathers: and upon his inheriting of the blessing, there followed presently great afflictions.

Vers. 3. Almighty] or, All-sufficient; see Gen. 17. 1. an assembly] or, church, congregation, company, that is, a multitude of people's, as, Ezek. 23, 24. I he Greek translatheth it synagogues (or assemblies) of nations, and the Chaldee, an assembly of tribes: respecting the twelve tribes that came of Jacob: Exod. 24. 4. This blessing, God promised at Bethel to perform unto Jacob, Gen. 48. 3. 4. and 35. 11.

Vers. 4. bessing of Abraham] which chiefly consisted in redemption frō the curse of the law, by forgiveness of sins, and receiving the promise of the Spirit (of the adoption of children, and Sanctification) through faith in Christ, Gal. 3. 13. 14. 9. 29. Rom. 4. 7. 8. 13. &c. Here Jacob is made heir of the blessing: so are all true Christians, 1 Pet. 3. 9. of thy sojournings] wherein thou art a sojourner and pilgrim, the land of Canaan. see Gen. 17. 8. gave to Abraham] to weet, by promise: of this gift, see Gen. 12. 7. and 13. 15. and 15. 7. 18. and 17. 8.

Vers. 5. Syrian] so the Greek usually translatheth it, which the new testament followeth, Luk. 4. 27. The Hebrew is, the Aramite: see Gen 10. 22.

Vers. 8. evil] that is, displeasing, grievous: so Gen. 48. 17. on the contrary, good, is for pleasing, Gen. 16. 6. 8.

Vers. 9. Ishmael] that is, Ismaels family, or the Is [unspec 9]maelites: for Ishmael himself was now dead, Gen. 25. 17. See the notes on Gen. 19. 37. Machalath] called also Basemath, Gen. 36. 3. he took her, (being of his kindred,) to please his father; though neither according to God's will, nor his fathers. So the wicked would seem to amend one evil, by running into another. of Nabajoth] that is, of the same mother that Nebajoth (Ismaels eldest son) was. unto his] that is, besides and unto the two Canaanitish wives which he already had Gen. 26. 34. so now he had three wives.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the seventh section of Moses law, whereof see the annotations on Gen. 6. 9. Which section when it is less absolute, the Hebr. call Parasha, a distinction; and signify it by a threefold P: but when it is more full and absolute, they name it Seder, an Order, and denote it by a threefold S as in this place.

Vers. 10. Charan] of which place, see Gen. 11. 31. It was distant from Beersheba, almost 500 English miles. And Jacob was now about 77. years of age, when he undertook this pilgrimage, as may be gathered by the history following, and by Gen. 47. 9. Of which journey, the prophet after speaketh, how Jacob fled into the land of Syria, and Israel served for a wise, Hos. 12. 12. So the afflictions of the fathers, are examples unto the children in all ages, even whatsoever is written: Rom. 4. 23. 24. and 15. 4. 1 Cor. 10. 11. Of Jacob's age, the Rabbin's also say, Seventy and seven years old was Jacob, when he departed from his fathers house, Pirkei R. Eliezer. ch. 35.

Vers. 11. he lighted upon,] or happened, met with, by God's providence, not of his own purpose or choice; who would have gone further, had not night prevented him: and made no reckoning of this place, above any other. It was about 48 English miles distant from Beersheba, whence Jacob came: and from Jerusalem 8. miles northward. pillows] or head bolster: so in 1 Sam. 26. 7. The Greek translatheth, at his head. As this pillow of Jacob, showeth his hard distress for the present in body: so God's appearing and word here revealed, manifesteth the comforts and refreshing of the spirit, which the faithful have in their afflictions and pilgrimage. Hos. 12. 4. Gen. 35. 7. 2 Cor. 1. 5. See after, on verse. 18.

Vers. 12. dreamed] a divine dream, such as in times past God used to speak unto men by, Job 33. 14. 15. Dan. 7. 1. and so he usually spake unto the Prophets, as it is said, If there be a Prophet among you, I Jehovah, will make myself known unto him in a vision, will speak unto him in a dream: Num. 12. 6. See the notes on Gen. 15. 12. ladder,] representing Christ, the son of man, on whom the Angels of God, ascend and descend, John. 1. 51. applied now in special to Jacob, and his journey, as followeth in verse 13. 15. The Hebrew Doctors say; The things made known to a Prophet by prophetic vision, were made known unto him by way of parable: and immediately, the interpretation of the parable, was written in his heart, and he knew what it was. As the Ladder which Jacob our father saw, and the Angels ascending and descending on it. And that was a parable of the (four) monarchies. Maimonides in Misn. in Iesud. hatorah, ch. 7. S. 3. Other Rabbin's also apply this vision to the monarchies in Daniel; but our Savior is the best interpreter, John 1. 51. on the earth] signifying Christ's human nature, and conversing with men, John 16. 28. and 17. 4. the heavens] signifying Christ's heavenly nature, and mediation for men with God, Heb. 8. 1. and 9. 24. By whom all things are reconciled unto God, and both the things in earth, and things in heaven, are set at peace through the blood of his cross, Col. 1. 20. He is the way, no man cometh to the Father, but by him: John. 14. 6. ascending, &c.] that is, looking with desire into the mysteries of Christ, 1 Pet. 1. 12. ministering unto him, and through him unto his people, Mark. 1. 13. Heb. 1. 14. and now in special, guarding Jacob from all perils in his journey: Gen. 32. 1. 2.

Vers. 13. Jehovah] whose providence and grace is towards his in Christ. The Chaldee translatheth it, the glory of the Lord. God of Abraham, &c.] See Gen. 17. 7. He is not ashamed to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a city, Heb. 11. 16. Hereby also the resurrection of the dead, was taught unto Jacob; God calling himself no less the God of Abraham (now dead to the world) then of Isaac now living: for Abraham also was alive unto him, Luk 20. 37. 38. to thy seed] that is, as the Chaldee expounds it, to thy sons: when as yet he had no child, (as is noted of Abraham, Acts 7. 5.) nor wife. Here God confirmeth to Jacob, the blessing of Abraham, which his father Isaac had bequeathed unto him, before in v. 3. 4. And as the former, so this promise also was spiritual, to be accomplished by Christ in whom (under the name of David) God promiseth, that his people should  dwell in the land, that he gave unto Jacob his servant, Ezek. 37. 24. 25. So the ladder which Jacob saw, should be for him (besides this earthly voyage) to climb by, unto his heavenly country, and inheritance eternal; Heb. 11. 14. 16. and 9. 15. So after, in Gen. 35. 11. 12.

Vers. 14. the dust] that is, innumerable: see Gen. 13. 16. and 32. 12. So Balaam said, who can count the dust of Jacob Numb. 23. 20. In Gen. 32. 12. for dust, is said sand of the sea. The Chaldee here translateth, thy sons shall be multiplied as dust. spread-abroad] Heb. breakeforth: that is, greatly increase and suddenly spread abroad. So the word is also used in Exod. 1. 12. Gen. 30. 30. 43. 1 Chron. 4. 38. The Greek translateth it, enlarge; the Chaldee, prevail. It is a Prophecy of the spreading of the Church, through all parts of the world. the sea] that is, as the Chaldee expounds it, the west: see Gen. 12. 8. all families] So the promise unto Jacob, pertaineth also to us, who may say with the Prophet, God found him in Bethel, and there he spake with us: Hos. 12. 4. And it implieth the blessing of eternal life. and in thy seed] that is, Christ: see Gen. 22. 18. and 12. 3. And, may here be taken for That is to say; for it explaineth the former promise. See the notes on Gen. 13. 15.

Vers. 15. I will be with thee] The like promise God made at his return, Gen. 31. 3. which Jacob understood thus, I will do thee good, Gen. 32. 9. The Chaldee translateth it, my word shall be thy help. See Exod. 33, 15. 16. Mat. 28. 20. Gen. 46. 4. all the way] so the Greek expresseth the word way, here wanting; expressed also elsewhere in the Hebrew, Gen. 35. 3. And here the vision of the Ladder, (Christ,) is applied to his present case & journey: for God giving his Son, doeth with him give all things also, Ro. 8. 32. & godliness hath the promise of the life present, and that which is to come, 1 Tim. 4. 8. not leave thee,] This taught Jacob to repose confidence in God, being content with things present: the like is spoken to us all, Heb. 13. 5.

Vers. 16. Jehovah is] The Chaldee paraphraseth, the glory of the Lord dwelleth in this place.

Vers. 17. this is, &c.] The Chaldee addeth, this is no common (or private) place, but a place wherein God taketh pleasure, and over against this place, is the gate of heaven. This place represented the Church of Christ, called the house of God, 1 Tim. 3. 15. which oftentimes is, where men are not aware of it, Rev. 12. 6. John 1. 46. where the Ladder Christ standeth, Matt. 18. 20. Rev. 14. 1. and where his servants see and serve him, Rev. 22. 3. 4. Unto which (as to the gate of heaven) the Lord bringeth such as shall be saved, to walk in the light of it; Acts 2. 47. Rev. 21. 24.

Vers. 18. the stone] either stone, is here put for stones, (as in Gen. 3. 2. tree, for trees,) or, that before in ver. 11. of the stones; is meant some one of them: see Gen. 46. 23. a pillar] or statue, that is, a monument or title erected and standing up: This was here for a religious sign, as altars also were, Isaiah 19. 19. and Jacob did the like afterward, Gen. 35. 14. But when the Law was given by Moses, no pillars might anymore be set up, Lev. 26. 1. Hos. 10. 1. but all such as the heathens had erected, were to be broken down; Deut. 7. 5. and 12. 3. There were also pillars for civil monuments, Gen. 35. 20. 2 Sam. 18. 18. oil] to anoint and consecrate it for holy use: as after in the law, there was an anointing oil, for to sanctify the tabernacle, altar, laver, and all other things used in God's service, Exod. 40. 9. 10. 11. &c. So after Jacob poured both a drink offering, and oil upon his pillar, Gen. 35. 14. Which oil, represented the anointing of the Holy Ghost upon Christ and his people, Psal. 45. 8. 1 John 2. 20. 27. both which are also compared unto living stones, 1 Pet. 2. 4. 5. And the Hebrew Doctors commenting upon this place, in Bresith rabbah, do make this stone to signify the Messias.

Vers. 19. Bethel] that is by interpretation, The house of God, as verse 17. and so the Greek here also translatheth it. And upon this ancient religious use of this place, which God himself approved of, Gen. 35. 1. it seemeth Jeroboam set up there the monument of his strange worship, which turned to him to sin, 1 King. 12. 28. 29. 30. wherefore the Prophets changed the name from Beth-el, God's house, to beth-aven, the house of iniquity, (or of anidol) Hos. 4. 15. Of Luz see Gen. 30. 37.

Vers. 20. Uowed] that is, promised to God: for a vow, is an holy or religious promise, made therefore with prayers, as this place showeth, and Psal. 61. 6. Judge. 11. 30. 31. and paid with thanksgiving, Psal. 65. 2. and 66. 13. 14. See more in the law of vows, Lev. 27. and the annotations there. If God,] that is prayerwise, O that God would be with me; and in way of promise, When God shall have been with me, &c. For, a vow, implieth both prayer and promise, as before is noted. And the Hebrew Im, that is, If, is used in prayers, as is noted on Gen. 24. 42. if thou be, &c. It signifieth also, when, as in 1 Sam. 15. 17. Therefore one Prophet saith, If a man shall sin, 2 Chron. 6. 22. another (relating the same) saith, When a man. So the Evangelists, one writeth, If thine eye be single, Matt. 6. 21. another, when thine eye is single, Luke 11. 34. with me] this respecteth the first part of that promise of God in v. 15. keep me] as the second part of God's promise was, v. 15. give me bread, &c.] this respecteth the fourth thing promised in ver. 15. I will not leave thee, which taught him contentation, Heb. 13. 5. and Jacob void of covetousness, desireth but food and raiment; wherewith we all should likewise be content, 1 Tim. 6. 8.

Vers. 21. return] this respecteth the third part of God's promise, in ver. 15. So Jacob's vow, was grounded in all points, upon the word and promise given him: to teach us how to vow, and pray unto the Lord. and Jehovah] or then Jehovah: for this may be the first part of Jacob's vow or promise again to God, whom he would in faith and reverence constantly profess to be his God, that is, author of his welfare and salvation. And this respecteth God's spiritual worship. Though it may also be meant on God's part, as are the former branches, and respect the promises made in v. 13. and 14.

Vers. 22. the house of God] that is, a place of God's worship; as the Chaldee expoundeth, whereupon I will serve before the Lord. This Jacob after performed, when he built there an altar, Gen 35. 7. And this respected God's outward service. tithing give] that is, surely give the tenth. A sign also of homage and subjection unto God: which therefore was given to the priests of the Lord; see Gen. 14. 20. and the law for tithes, in Lev. 27. Numb. 18. Deut. 14. 22. 23. &c.

CHAP. XXIX.

1, Jacob cometh to the well of Charan. 9, He taketh acquaintance of Rachel. 13, Laban entertaineth him. 18 Jacob covenanteth for Rachel to be his wife. 23, Laban deceiveth him with Leah. 28, He marrieth also Rachel, and served for her seven years more. 32, Leah beareth Reuben. 33, Simeon, 34, Levi, 35, Judah.

AND Jacob, lifted up his feet, and went, to the land of the sons of the East, And he saw, and behold a well in the field; and loe there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well, they watered the flocks: and a great stone, was upon the wells mouth. And thither were all the flocks gathered, and they rolled the stone from the wells mouth, and watered the sheep: and they put the stone again, upon the wells mouth in his place. And Jacob said unto them; my brethren, whence be ye? and they said of Charan are we. And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nachor? and they said, we know him. And he said to them, Is there peace to him? and they said Peace; and behold, Rachel his daughter, is coming with the sheep. And he said, loe yet, the day is great, it is not time that the cattle should be gathered together: water ye the sheep, and go feed. And they said, we cannot, until all the flocks, be gathered together; and they roll the stone, frm the wells mouth: then water we the sheep. He yet was speaking with them; and Rachel came, with the sheep which were her fathers: for she fed them. And it was, when Jacob saw Rachel; the daughter of Laban his mothers brother; and the sheep of Laban, his mothers brother: that Jacob went near; and rolled the stone, from the wells mouth, and watered the sheep of Laban his mothers brother. And Jacob kissed Rachel: and lifted up his voice, and wept. And Jacob told Rachel, that he was her fathers brother; and that he was Rebekah's son: and she ran and told her father. And it was, when Laban heard, the tidings of Jacob his sisters son; that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, & kissed him, & brought him in, to his house: and he told Laban, all these words. And Laban said unto him, Surely thou art my bone and my flesh: and he abode with him, a month of days. And Laban said unto Jacob; Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for naught? tell me, what shall thy wages be? And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder, was Leah; and the name of the younger, Rachel. And the eyes of Leah, were tender: and Rachel was fair in form, and fair in countenance. And Jacob loved Rachel: and said, I will serve thee seven years, for Rachel thy younger daughter. And Laban said, It is better that I give her to thee, then that I should give her to another man: abide thou with me. And Jacob served for Rachel, seven years: and they were in his eyes, as a few days, because he loved her. And Jacob said unto Laban, Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled: that I may go in unto her. And Laban gathered-together, all the men of the place, and made a banquet. And it was in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter: and brought her in, unto him: and he went in, unto her. And Laban gave to her, Zilpah his handmaid: for a handmaid, to Leah his daughter. And it was in the morning, that loe it was Leah: and he said unto Laban, what is this thou hast done unto me? Did not I serve with thee, for Rachel? and wherefore hast thou beguiled me? And Laban said, It may not be so done, in our place: to give the younger, before the first-borne. Fulfill thou the seven of this; and there shall be given unto thee, this also; for the service which thou shalt serve with me, yet seven other years. And Jacob did so, and fulfilled the seven of this: and he gave unto him Rachel his daughter for a wife unto him. And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, Bilhah his handmaid: for a handmaid to her. And he went in also unto Rachel; and he loved also Rachel, more than Leah: and served with him, yet seven other years. And Jehovah saw, that Leah was hated; and he opened her womb: and Rachel, was barren. And Leah conceived, and bare a son; and she called his name Reuben: for she said, for Jehovah hath seen my affliction; for now, my husband will love me. And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she said, because Jehovah hath heard that I was hated; he hath therefore given me, this also: and she called his name Simeon. And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, now this time my husband will be joined unto me, because I have borne unto him, three sons: therefore she called his name, Levi. And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she said, this time, I will confess Jehovah; therefore, she called his name Judah: and she stayed from bearing.

Annotations.

Lifted up] that is, went lightly and cheerfully on his long journey, being comforted by the vision and oracle of God, received at Bethel. See a much like phrase, in Psal. 74. 3. sons of the East] that is, the eastern people, in Mesopotamia, which lay eastward from Canaan. So in Job 1. 3. The Greek omitteth the word sons, and translateth the east countries. From the east God had raised up Abraham the (man of) righteousness, Isaiah 41. 2. Gen. 12. 1. & thither now Jacob his nephew fleeth, there to serve for a wife, Hos. 12. 12. wherein the mystery of Christ and his Church, was figured: Eph. 5. 32. 2 Cor. 11. 2.

Vers. 2. a well] at a well in the field, Abraham's servant met with Rebekah Isaac's wife, Gen. 24. 11. 15. So here Jacob meeteth with Rachel his wife. A much like thing befell unto Moses, Exod. 2. 15. 16. 21. And Christ sitting on Jacob's Well (in Samaria) preached there of the living waters of his Gospel and spirit, which who so drinketh, they shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life, John 4. 6.—14. and 7. 38. 39. lying] This the Gr. translateth resting. The two works of shepherds to their flocks, are feeding, and causing them to lie down, or to rest; both which Christ performeth to his people, Song, 1. 6. Ezek. 34. 15. Psal. 23. 1. 2.

Vers. 3. the stone] wherewith the well was closed and sealed up, to keep the waters safe and pure: and which the shepherds must remove to water the sheep. A figure of the Pastors duty, in opening the mysteries of the Scripture, that men may with joy draw waters out of the wells of salvation, Esa. 12. 3. The three flocks here mentioned, are by the Hebrew Doctors (in Bresith rabbah upon this place,) applied to the whole body of the Church, Priests, Levites, and the other Israelites.

Vers. 6. Is there peace] that is, welfare & prosperity. This was the manner, in those places of saluting, or asking of ones welfare; as in Gen. 43. 27. 28. 1 Sam. 25. 5. 6. 2 Sam. 20. 9. The Greek translateth is he in health?

Vers. 7. is great] that is, much day yet remaineth; or it is high day. He exhorteth to use the time, whiles it remained, for the good of their sheep: and not to take them so soon from their pasture.

Vers. 8. cannot] that is, are not able, the stone is so great: or, may not, by right, till all come together. In this latter sense, the word is used, Gen. 34. 14. and 43. 32. and 44. 26. and other where.

Ver. 9. she fed them] or, she was shepherdesse. In Gr. she fed her fathers sheep. It seemeth, men used to employ their daughters in such works, Exod. 2. 16. (whereupon Christ's spouse is compared to a shepherdesse, Song. 1. 7. 8.) unless it were laid upon her through her fathers covetousness, as some think.

Ver. 10. rolled the stone] either, with the help of the shepherds; or, by extraordinary strength of his own. This latter, some Rabbin's hold, saying, Jacob's steps were not straitened (as Prov. 4. 12) neither did his strength fail, but as a mighty strong man, he rolled the stone from the wells mouth, &c. and the shepherds saw it, and wondered all, and were not able to role away the stone, but Jacob rolled it away himself alone. Pirkei R. Eliezer, chap. 36

Vers. 11. lifted-up] that is, with a loud voice wept: the Greek translath, cried with his voice & wept. It argued his great affection, and passion of mind for her sake; as the like was after in Joseph, Gen. 43 30. and 45. 2. 14. 15. Such things God setteth down particularly and often, (though they may seem of small momēt, to show how he is delighted in the actions of his children, whom the world contemneth.

Verse 13. the tidings] or, the hearesay: in Hebrew, the hearing: figuratively put for the word (or matter) heard. The Apostles in Greek sometime keep the phrase; as, who hath believed our hearing? Rom. 10. 16. that is, our report, preaching, or word preached. Sometime they explain one another, with other words; as, his hearing spread abroad, Mark. 1. 28. for which in Luk. 4. 37. is written, his fame (or sound, •choe.) words] or things, to weet, about his journey, and the causes of it, as is before specified. For else, it might seem strange unto him, that Isaac's son should come in that poor sort alone: whereas Abraham's servant came richly, with other men accompanying him: Gen. 24. 10. 32. 53.

Vers. 14. my bone] that is, my kinsman, as the Chaldee explayneth it. The Greek saith, of my bones. See the like phrase, in Judge. 9. 2. 1 Chro. 11. 1. 2 Sam. 19. 12. 13. of days] that is, a whole month: as a year of days. 2 Sam. 14. 28. is a whole year. See the notes on Gen. 4. 3.

Vers. 15. brother] that is, kinsman: see Gen. 13. 8. shouldst thou?] The Greek explaineth it, thou shalt not. See Gen. 18. 17.

Vers. 16. elder] Hebrew, greater: meaning in age: and so the younger, is the lesser. See Gen. 27. 1. By interpretation, Leah signifieth Labourious, or Painfull: and Rachel an Ewe or Sheep.

Vers. 17. tender] as the Greek translath, infirm, or weak: but the Chaldee translath fair. Targum Yerushalmi addeth, that they were tender with weeping and praying. inform] that is, in proportion of body, or personage: as the next in countenance, or visage, is for beauty of color. Both together, make perfect beauty. The like is said of Esther, Esth. 2. 7. and of Joseph, Gen. 39. 6. The Hebrew Doctors mystically apply this to the Church, the fairness in the congregation of Israel, when it was guiltless from the power of uncleanness: as it is said, (in Song. 4. 7.) Thou art all fair my love, there is no spot in thee. R. Menachem, on Gen. 29.

Verse. 20. served] These things are set down to show Laban's churlishnesse, & Jacob's meekness, poverty, patience, and hard condition in this life; which the Prophet after rehearseth, how Jacob fled into Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife, kept (sheep:) Hos. 12. 12. For whereas men used of their substance to give, dowries, Gen. 34. 12. Exod. 22. 7. Jacob having nothing to give, out of his poverty, (Gen. 32. 10.) giveth his service to his uncle for a wife, which service was hard unto him, Gen. 31. 40. 41. as David, instead of a dowry, gave 100 foreskins of the Philistines, whom he killed with great peril of his own life; 1 Sam. 18. 23. 25. 27. These things of Jacob, may also (as the former of Abraham & Isaac) be mystically applied to Christ, whose spouse and Church, is beautiful, Song. 4. 1. 7. Ephes. 5. 25. 27. & hath made him to serve with her sins, & wearied him, with her iniquities, Isaiah 43. 24. were in his eyes] that is, seemed unto him. loved her] & love suffereth, hopeth, and endureth all things, 1. Cor. 13. 7. much water cannot quench it, neither can the floods drown it: Song. 8. 7. See Gen. 24. 67.

Vers. 21. are fulfilled] or, are full, complete: The Chaldee addeth, the days of my service are fulfilled: meaning the seven years covenanted, v. 18. Some take it to mean full, in respect of his age: and that he was married at the first; before the 7. years were expired. But in Pirkei R. Eliezer, cha, 36. it is said; Jacob began to serve for a wife 7. years: after 7. years he made a banquet, & a rejoicing 7. days, & had Leah &c. & added 7. days banquet more, & received Rachel, go in] into the chamber, (as Judge. 15. 1.) that she may be to me as my wife. See Gen. 6. 4. The Bride, usually had a privy chamber (or closet) whereinto she entered at the marriage day, Joel 2. 16. Whereupon, among the Jews, the coming together in marriage, is called the assembling into the privy-chamber, Maimonides in treat. of Wives, ch. 10. S. 1.

Vers. 22. a banquet] named in Hebr: of drinking, as is noted on Gen. 19. 3. such we cal a Bride-ale. The Greek translatheth it a marriage: hereupon the word marriage is used for a banquet, or feast, in Luk. 14. 8. and so the Syriac there translatheth it.

Ver. 23. Leah] in Greek, Leia. A notable example of perfidie in Laban, so to deal with his own sisters son. And by reason that women at such times were veiled, (as in other like cases may be seen, Gen. 38. 15. 16) Jacob could not discern the fraud.

Ver. 24. Zilpah] in Greek Zelpha. hand maid] or, bondwoman, servant, see Gen. 16. 1.

V. 25. the morning] Every man's work shall be made manifest, for the Day shall declare it, 1. Cor. 3. 13. They that do evil, know not the light; & the morning is to them, even as the shadow of death, Job 24. 16. 17. Therefore is this fact observed to be done in the evening, and discovered in the morning. beguiled me] The Chaldee saith, lied unto me? These things as they show the evil mind and carriage of Laban, both in this his fact, and the excuse following: so may they be considered as a chastisement of God upon Jacob, who had by guile (though with a better mind) gotten the blessing, Gen. 27. 35. For even the righteous are recompensed in the earth, Prov. 11. 31. and with what measure men mete, it shall be measured to them again, Mat. 7. 2. But how great an affliction was this unto Jacob: to be beguiled of his Love, and deflyed with another, whom in respect of her he hated? ver. 30. 31. For, love is strong as death, Song. 8. 6.

Ver. 27. the seven of this] or the week, that is, the seven days banquet of this Leah, and so confirm the marriage with her; and then we will give thee the other. A week hath the name in Hebrew, of seven days; as with us, it is called a seven night. And the marriage feast, used to continue seven days, as appeareth by Judge. 14. 10. 12. And it is a canon among the Jews, that whosoever marrieth a maid, shall rejoice with her 7. days not doing any work, but eating, drinking, and making merry. And so, if he marry a woman not a maid, 3. days. And if he take more wives together he must rejoice with every of them; her convenient time of joy: Maimonides, treat. of Wives ch. 10. S. 12. 13. Thus Laban provided, that Jacob by voluntary consent to this marriage with Leah, should not be able afterward to put her away. The Jerusalem Chaldee paraphrase, plainly applieth this to the seven days banquet for Leah. And that it cannot be meant of seven years, before he should marry Rachel: the birth of their children, and life of Jacob after in the History, do manifest, Gen. 47. 9. and 41. 46. and 30. 24. there shall be given] to we et, by me; as the Greek translateth, I will give. The Hebrew also may signify, we will give: that is, I and my friends. this also] meaning Rachel: ver. 28. So to make him amends, he urgeth upon him, another marriage incestuous. Which how ever Jacob accepted; and it may, by the special motion of God's spirit, (as Samsons marriage with the Philistian woman, was of the Lord, Judge. 14. 4.) yet ordinarily the fact cannot be cleared, nor may be imitated. Though in mystery, the churches of Jews and Gentiles, may by these two sisters be implied: as the two Testaments were in Abram's wives, Gen. 16. Gal. 4. shalt serve] So covetousness of gain by Jacob's service, made him thus to offer: and Jacob in yielding to this, is a mirror of patience.

Ver. 31. hated] not simply but in comparison of Leah; that is, less loved, as the former verse showeth. So in Deut. 21. 15. also in Mat. 6. 24. and Luk. 14. 26. And herein Leah was chastised of God, for consenting to the sin, with her father. opened her womb] that is, made her to bear children: the contrary was in Gen. 20. 18. The Chaldee translateth, gave her conception.

Ver. 32. Reuben] that is, Son of-seeing (or of him that seeth) meaning her affliction, as the next words do explain: or, See ye the Son. So in Pirkei R. Eliezer, chap. 36. it is said; God saw Leah's tribulation, and gave her conception, and consolation to her soul; and she bare a man-child of a goodly form; and said, see the son, which God hath given me.

Vers. 33 Simeon] written in Greek by the Evangelists, Simeon, 2 Pet. 1. 1. and Simon, Mat. 10. 2. by interpretation Hearing, or son of hearing, that Leah was hated.

Vers. 34. he called] or, (not noting any person,) his name was called: See Gen. 16. 14. Levi] that is, loyned: the reason of the name here, was of her husbands joining unto her: after, the Levites were joined unto the Priests in the ministry and service of God, as Numb. 18. 2. 4.

Vers. 35. this time] or now, to weet again, as the Greek addeth. confess] that is, openly praise and celebrate, in solemn manner. This here applied to the Lord, is after applied to Judah himself, Gen. 49. 8. Judah] or Iehudah; in Greek, Judas: by interpretation, A Confessor, or the son of Confession, or of Praise. Of him, all the sons of Jacob, are called Jews, Esth. 3. 6. Mat. 27. 37. and he is a true Jew, whose praise is of God, Rom. 2. 29. stayed] or, stood still, that is, left off bearing, for a whil• afterward she had more increase, Gen. 30. 17. And thus God dispensed his blessings, where least love of man was shown: which redounded to his further glory by Leah's thankfulness.

CHAP. XXX.

1. Rachel in grief for her barrenness, giveth Bilhah her maid unto Jacob. 5. Bilhah beareth Dan and Naphtali. 9. Leah giveth him Zilpah her maid, who beareth Gad and Asher. 14. Reuben findeth Mandrakes, with which Leah hireth her husband of Rachel. 17. Leah beareth Issachar, Zebulun, and Dinah. 22. Rachel beareth Joseph. 25. Jacob desireth to depart. 27. Laban stayeth him, on a new covenant. 37. Jacob's policy, whereby he became rich.

AND Rachel saw, that she did not bearechildren unto Jacob; and Rachel envied her sister: and she said unto Jacob, Give me sons; or else, I die. And Jacob's anger was kindled, against Rachel: and he said, am I in God's stead, who hath withheld from thee, the fruit of the womb? And she said; Behold my handmaid Bilhah, go in unto her: and she shall bear, upon my knees; and I also, shall be built by her. And she gave unto him, Bilhah her handmayd, to wife: and Jacob went in, unto her. And Bilhah conceived, and bare unto Jacob, a son. And Rachel said, God hath judged me; and hath also heard my voice, and hath given unto me a son: therefore, called she his name, Dan. And Bilhah, Rachel's hand maid, conceived again; and bare, a second son, unto Jacob. And Rachel said, wrestlings of God, have I wrestled with my sister, I have also prevailed: and she called his name Naphtali. And Leah saw, that she had stayed from bearing; and she took, Zilpah her handmaid; and gave her unto Jacob, to wife. And Zilpah, Leah's handmayd, did bear unto Jacob, a son. And Leah said; With a troupe: and she called his name, Gad. And Zilpah, Leah's hand-maid, did bear, a second son, unto Jacob. And Leah said, With my blessedness, for the daughters will call me blessed: and she called his name, Aser.

And Reuben went, in the days of wheat harvest; and found Mandrakes, in the field; and brought them, unto his mother Leah: and Rachel said unto Leah; Give me I pray thee, of thy sons Mandrakes. And she said unto her; Is it a small-matter, that thou hast taken my husband; and wouldest thou take, my sons Mandrakes also? And Rachel said, therefore he shall lie with thee to night, for thy sons Mandrakes. And Jacob came out of the field, in the evening; and Leah went-out to meet him; & she said, thou shalt come in unto me; for hiring I have hired thee, with my sons Mandrakes: And he lay with her that night. And God heard Leah: and she conceived, and bare unto Jacob, the fifth son. And Leah said, God hath given me my hire, for that I gave my hand-maid, to my husband: and she called his name, Issachar. And Leah conceived again: and she bare the sixth son unto Jacob. And Leah said, God hath endowed me with a good dowry: now will my husband dwell with me, because I have borne unto him six sons; and she called his name, Zebulun. And afterward, she bare a daughter: and she called her name, Dinah. And God remembered Rachel: and God heard her, and opened her womb. And she conceived, and bare a son: and said, God hath gathered away, my reproach. And she called his name, Joseph; saying: Jehovah will add to me, another son. And it was, when Rachel had borne Joseph: that Jacob said unto Laban; Send me away, and let me go; unto my place, and to my land. Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me go: for thou knowest, my service which I have served thee. And Laban said unto him; I pray thee if I have found grace, in thine eyes: I have learned by experience, that Jehovah hath blessed me, for thy sake. And he said, Expressly name thy wages unto me, and I will give it. And he said unto him; Thou knowest, how I have served thee: and how thy cattle hath been, with me. For it was little, which thou haddest before me, and it is increased to a multitude; and Jehovah hath blessed thee, at my foot: and now, when shall I also do, for my own house? And he said, what shall I give unto thee? And Jacob said, thou shalt not give unto me anything; if thou wilt do for me this thing, I will turn again, I will feed thy flock, I will keep them. I will pass through all thy flock, today; removing from thence, every lamb speckled and spotted; and every brown lamb, among the sheep; and the spotted and speckled, among the goats: and it shall be my wages. And my justice shall answer for me, in time to come; when it shall come for my wages, before thy face: every-one that is not speckled and spotted amongst the goats, and brown amongst the sheep; that (shall be counted) stolen, with me. And Laban said, behold; I would, it might be according to thy word. And he removed in that day, the he-goats that were ring-straked and spotted; and all the she-goats, that were speckled and spotted; every-one that had some white in it, and every brown one, amongst the sheep: and he gave them, into the hand of his sons. And he set three days way, betwixt him self and Jacob: and Jacob, fed the rest of Laban's flocks. And Jacob took unto him, the rods of green white-poplar, and of nut-tree and of plantane-tree; and pilled in them white strakes, with making bare the white, which was on the rods. And he set, the rods which he had pilled; in the gutters, in the troughs of waters. when the flocks came to drink, before the flocks; that they might conceive, when they came to drink. And the flocks conceived, before the rods: and the flocks brought forth, ring straked, speckled, and spotted-ones. And the lambs, Jacob separated, and gave the faces of the cattle, toward the ring-straked, and all the brown, among the cattle of Laban: and he put his own flocks by themselves-alone; and put them not, unto Laban's cattle. And it was, whensoever the lusty cattle conceived, then Jacob put the rods before the eyes of the cattle, in the gutters: that they might conceive among the rods. And when the cattle were feeble, he put them not: so the feeble, were Laban's; and the lusty, Jacob's. And the man increased, most exceedingly: and he had many flocks, and women-servants, and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

Annotations.

ENvied,] One word in the original, is for envy, zeal, and jealousy; taken sometime in the good part, sometime in the evil, as in this place. It is a stronger affection than wrath or anger, Pro. 27. 4. & a work of the flesh, Gal. 5. 21. 1 Cor. 3. 3. sons] some son, or child. or else I die] or, and if not, I am a dead woman. The like phrase was before in Gen. 20. 3. Through fretfulness & impatience, she should kill her self; fought envy is the rottenness of the bones, Prov. 14. 30. whereas she ought to have sought unto the Lord, as did Isaac, Gen. 25. 21.

Ver. 2. in God's stead] who only can give children: 1 Sa. 2. 5. 6. Ps. 113. 9. & 127. 3. So the Chaldee paraphraseth, Askest thou (sons) of me? shouldst thou not not ask thē of the Lord? fruit] that is, as the Chaldee expoundeth, the child of thy bowels. So all child•ē are called the fruit of the womb, Deut. 7. 13. Ps. 127. 3 even Christ himself, according to the flesh, Lu 1. 42

Ver. 3. and she shall] or, that she may bear. upon my knees] meaning, children that might be brought up & nused on her knees, as her own; so Gen. 50. 23. Hereupon she calleth Bilhahs children, hers: v. 6. shall be built] that is, shall have children, as the Gr. translatheth. See Gen. 16. 2. where the like was spoken by Sarah.

V. 4. to wife] or, for a wife. The like is said of Agar, who yet was but a secondary wife, or concubine: see Gen. 16. 3. & 22. 23. So this Bilhah (or Balla, as the Greek writeth her,) is called a concubine, Gen. 35. 22. The like is to be minded for Zilpah, in verse. 9.

Ver. 6. judged] This word, when it respecteth the godly, sometime meaneth chastisement, and affliction for sin, 1. Cor. 11. 32. sometime deliverance out of their affliction, as 1 Sa. 24. 15. 2 Sam. 18. 19. Both may be implied here. heard my voice,] received my prayer, saith the Chaldee paraphrase: so in v. 17. and 22. By this it appeareth that faith & virtues, were mixed together with the infirmities of these holy persons. So after in v. 17. Dan] that is by interpretation, Iudging: so named of God's judging, that is, helping, & delivering her. Afterward his name is applied to the Iudging, that should be among his children, Gen. 49. 16.

V. 8 Wrastlings of God] that is, divine & vehement wrastlings, very great and earnest endeavors both with God in prayer, and by all other means that she could; as wrestling is a writhing & turning every way to prevail by might or slight. The name of God, is added to things for excellency sake: see Gē. 23. 6. The Greek translatheth it, God hath holpen me, & I have been compared with my sister; the Chaldee addeth, God hath received my request; when I supplicated in my prayer, I desired that I might have a son, as my sister; and it is granted me. Naphtali] or as the Greek writeth it, Nephtalim: Rev. 7. 6. by interpretation, Wrastler, or, son of My wrestling.

Vers. 11. with a troop] or, a troupe is come: for here is a double reading, in the Hebrew margin it is written ba Gad, a troupe is come, which in the text is one word bagad, that is, in (or with) a troop: so after in v. 13. beasri, in (or with) my blessedness. And so the Greek translates it, In, or with; but the Chaldee turneth it is come. Gad signifieth a troop, or band of men, and to this interpretation Jacob after doth allude, Gen. 49. 19. How be it the Greek translates it, with good luck (or fortune) Fortunately. And in Arabic, the planet Jupiter, is called Gad. Gad] that is, a troop or host: after the Greek, Luck, or fortune. This word is used in Esa. 65. 11. that prepare a table for the troop: there the Chaldee translatheth it Idols: for it meaneth the host of heaven, or planets.

Ver. 13. with my blessedness] or In my happiness: that is, as the Greek explaineth it, O blessed (or happy) am I: meaning that this child was both with her felicity. The Chaldee translatheth it, I have praise (or commendation.) daughters] that is, as the Greek translatheth it, women: so in Prov. 31. 29. Song. 6. 8. And the Chaldee, women will praise me. call me blessed] or count me happy. This phrase the Virgin Mary useth, Luk. 1. 48. see also Song. 6. 8. Aser] or Asher, that is, Blessed, happy: or making blessed.

Vers. 14 Mandrakes] in Hebrew Dudaim, which signifieth lovely or amiable: the Greek translatheth them apples of Mandragoras, (or Mandrake-apples;) the Chaldee also calleth them Iabrochin, that is, Mandrakes, which name is borrowed from the Arabic. They were such things as gave a smell, Song. 7. 13. Whether they were those that we now call Mandrakes, is uncertain. The name is not found in Scripture, but in this history, and in Song 7. 13. there the Chaldee paraphrase calls it Balsa.

Vers. 15. Is it small] the Greek translatheth, Is it not enough? These contentions were not merely carnal, but partly also for desire of God's ordinary blessing, in propagation; and chiefly for the increase of the Church, and obtaining the promised seed for salvation.

Vers. 17. heard Leah] the Chaldee saith, received her prayer: so verse 6 and 22. God's providence and goodness is here admirable, that he should regard, and in his book record such things as these; about childish works, and women's contentions for their husband: unto which notwithstanding the Lord abase•h himself, (passing by the heroical acts of the world,) and preacheth his grace, (in the midst of all human infirmities;) to those that in faith do call upon him.

V. 18 Issachar]•he G•e ke addeth the interpretation, Issachar, that is; Hire. It is written with the letters Issaschar, but by the vowels Issachar, one S not pronounced, which is not usual. Sachar signify•h Hire or wage: whereof he had the name. But in that she counteth her son a reward from God, for giving her maid to her husband; it seemeth to be her error.

Vers. 20. endowed] or, given me a good gift, as the Greek translatheth. Zebulun] o•, as the holy Ghost writeth it in Greek Zebulon; that is by interpretation, Dwelling.

Vers. 21. Dinah] that is, Judgment; in Greek Deina.

Vers. 22. remembered] that is, shown care, and help: for Gen 8. 1. The Chaldee translatheth, the remembrance of Rachel came before God, and he received her prayer. So in 1 Sam. 1. 19. 20. the Lord remembered Hannah. opened] that is, as the Chaldee expoundeth it, gave her conception. So in Gen. 29. 31.

Vers. 23. gathered] or taken away my reproach, meaning her barrenness; which was a reproach among men, Luke 1. 25. 1 Sam. 1. 6. Isaiah 4. 1.

Vers. 24. Joseph] that is, He will add: or, adding. Sometime he is written Iehoseph, as in Psal. 81. 6. and so it was graven on Aaron's Brestplate, Exod. 28. The like is in the writing of other names, as Jonathan, 1 Chron. 10. 2. or Iehonathan, 1 Sam. 31. 2. Joash, 2 Chron. 24. 1. or Iehoash, 2 King. 12. 1. and sundry the like. will add] or prayerwise, be add to me. The performance hereof, see in Gen. ⟨◇⟩ . 17. Hereby her saith appeareth. The Hebrew ⟨...⟩ ors observe, that she said not other sons, for she know that there should be but twelve tribes; and she ⟨...⟩ yed that the some son might be of her: R. Menachem on Gen. 30.

Vers. 25. to my land] or country, meaning Canaan, •om•ed to him, Gen. 28. 13. whither by faith he would return, and dwell in it, expecting the blessing of God, as Gen. 26. 3. Heb. 11. 9. So in Ier. 51. 9.

Vers. 27. grace] or, favor in thy eyes: an imperfect speech meaning. tarry I pray thee See the notes before on Gen. 11. 4. and 13. 9. and 23 13.

Verse 28. Expresly-name] or, Nominate plainly, appoint: The Greek saith, distinguish; that is, distinctly name.

Vers. 30. before me] that is, before my coming: so Gen. 32. 3. and 46. 28. increased] Hebrew, broken forth: that is, increased, and spread-abroad suddenly: so verse. 43. and Gen. 28. 14. The Greek here translatheth it, increased. at my foot] that is, since my coming, and by my travel and service. So the foot is used to signify laborious service, Deut. 11. 10. and the coming or presence of any, Hab. 3. 5 The Chaldee translatheth it as before in verse. 27. for my sake. do] that is, provide, labor, prepare, &c. for my own family? which he that doth not, is worse then an Infidel, 1 Tim. 5. 8. The Greek translatheth, make myself and house?

Vers. 31. anything] that is, any certain wage, or stinted hire, of Laban's gift. He chose rather to depend on God's providence. will turn again, will feed, &c.] that is, as the Greek explaineth it, I will again feed thy sheep, and keep them.

Vers. 32. removing] or, remove thou: and so the Greek translatheth, separate thou. it shall be] meaning, fu•h should be his wage, namely, all that were borne so party coloured after that time. And this choice depended upon God's blessing: for naturally the cattle would bring forth others like themselves, and so Jacob's part should be few. But by God's extraordinary providence, it fell out otherwise; see Gen. 31. 10. 12.

Vers. 33. my justice] that is, a just reward of my labors from the hand of God, on whom I depend, and just dealing in me, who shall be seen to keep nothing but my own. answer sor] or testify for (or with me.) The contrary is in Isaiah 59. 12. our sins answer, (or testify) against us. Answering is for witnessing in Exod. 20. 16. in time to come] that is, hereafter shortly: the Hebrew phrase is, in day tomorrow: but tomorrow is often used for hereafter, or time to come, Exod. 13. 14. Deut. 6. 20. Ios. 4. 6. Mat. 6. 34. as yesterday, is for time past, Gen. 31. 2. when it shall come] or, for it shall come; or, when thou shalt come (to look) on my wages. The Greek translatheth, for my wages is before thee.

Vers. 34. I would, it might be] or, I wish it, let it be: for the distinction seemeth to afford this sense. The Greek omitting the former, saith only, Let it be.

Vers. 36. way] that is, journey: so Gen. 31. 23. and often in the Scripture.

Vers. 37. rods] Heb. rod: as tree, for trees, Gen. 3. 2. green] that is, m•ist: opposed to dry; and is not meant of color. It may also be referred to the rods. nut tree] in Hebrew Luz: some think it to be the hazell, others the almond tree: the Hebrew and Greek are both general, for any nut tree: and the word is not found for a tree, but in this one place. Elsewhere Luz, is the City Bethel, so named as seemeth of nut trees growing there, Gen. 28. 19. as elsewhere Jericho is called the City of Palme trees, 2 Chron. 28. 15. platane tree] or, plain tree: thus both the Greek and Chaldee do interpret the Hebrew name gnarmon: some think it to be the chesnut tree. It was a fair tree, as appeareth by Ez k. 31 8.

Ver. 38. conceive] Heb. be in heat; whereby conception or engendering is meant, as the Greek plainly translatheth. And these things Jacob did by the oracle of God, as appeareth by Gen. 31. 9. 10. 11. 12 by reason whereof, it was no more unlawful for him to do thus, then for his children to rob the Egyptians, Ex. 12. 35. 36. It was in recompense of his sore labors, Gen. 31. 38 40. and had not God provided this way for his recompense, Laban would have sent Jacob away empty, Gen. 31. 42.

Vers. 39. ring-straked] with a round strake, or ring about their legs, as if they were tied about. The Greek saith white: so in Gen. 31. 8.

Vers. 40. the lambs] which were so spotted and particoloured. verse. 39. gave] that is, set, or turned the faces of the sheep towards them, that by seeing them, they might conceive the like: as they did before, by seeing the pilled rods in the troughs.

Vers. 41. lusty] or strong. The Hebrew word signifieth bound together; which may be understood both of their bodies well-set and trust together, and of their conspiring together the male and female for engendering. Which was at the beginning of the year, and therefore the Chaldee translateth it, the forward (or first borne.)

Vers. 42. feeble] or lateward, as the Chaldee also translateth it, or engendered late. It hath the signification of covering: and it may be understood, when they were thick covered with wool, as towards the end of summer, when they are not so strong for generation.

Vers. 43. increased] Hebrew brake forth: as v. 30. Gen. 28. 14. The Greek here translateth it, waxed rich. exceedingly] or vehemently: doubling the word to enlarge the sense, as in Gen. 7. 19. Thus even in outward blessings, God kept his promise to Jacob, Gen. 28, 15. and delivered him from covetous Laban's injuries, Gen. 31. 7. 42. enriched him with his substance, Gen. 31. 9. as elsewhere the Lord promiseth, that his people shall rob those that robbed them, and spoil those that spoiled them: Ezek. 39. 10. Of the things in this chapter, and other the like, the Hebrew Doctors give this commendation. Marvelous mysteries are in the histories of the holy law: that none is able to tell the praise of the excellency thereof, and of the hid things of the same, yea even then, when histories are found in the Law, which may be thought unnecessary and unprofitable. And when we read in the law, we bless (God) for the histories; by which he hath planted eternal life amongst us, as by the ten Commandments, (Exod. 20.) For when a man removeth the veil of blindness from off his face, he shall find in that work, a mountain of spices and of frankincense: neither hath the eye seen, ô God, besides thee: (Esa. 64. 4.) R. Menachem, on Gen. 30.

CHAP. XXXI.

1, Laban and his sons, envy Jacob's prosperity. 3, God biddeth him return into Canaan. 4, He acquainteth his wives herewith, complaining of their fathers hard dealing. 14, They agree to go with him, 17, so they all flee secretly, 19, Rachel stealeth her fathers images. 22, Laban pursueth after him, 26, and complaineth of the wrong; 33 and searcheth for his images, 34, but Rachel in policy hideth them. 36, Jacob chideth with Laban, for abusing and hard usage of him. 43, Laban would make a covenant, 45, which Jacob assenteth unto, and it is confirmed by a sign, an oath, and a banquet; 55, so they part in peace.

AND he heard, the words of Laban's sons, saying; Jacob hath taken, all that was our fathers: and of that which was our fathers, hath he made all this glory. And Jacob saw, the face of Laban; and behold it was not with him, as in former days. And Jehovah said unto Jacob;

Return, unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred: and I will be with thee. And Jacob sent, and called Rachel and Leah: to the field unto his flock. And he said unto them, I see your fathers face, that it is not toward me, as in former days: and the God of my father hath been with me. And ye know, that withal my able-power, I have served your father. And your father hath deceived me, & changed my wages, ten times: but God hath not given him, to do me evil. If he said thus, The speckled shall be thy wages; then bare all the cattle, speckled: and if he said thus, the ring-straked shall be thy wages; then bare all the cattle, ring-straked. And God, hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me. And it was, in the time that the cattle conceived; that I lifted up my eyes, and saw in a dream: and behold the he-goats which leaped-up on the cattle, were ring-straked, speckled and grisled. And the Angel of God said unto me in a dream; Jacob: and I said, Loe here I am. And he said, Lift-up now thine eyes, and see, all the he-goats, that leap up on the cattle; are ring-straked, speckled and grisled: for I have seen all that Laban doeth unto thee. I am the God of Beth-el, where thou anointedst the pillar, where thou vowedst unto me, a vow: now, arise go out from this land, & return unto the land of thy kindred. And Rachel & Leah answered, and said unto him: Is there yet for us, any portion or inheritance, in our fathers house? Are we not counted of him, strangers? for he hath sold us: and eating he hath eaten up also, our money. For all the riches, which God hath taken-away from our father; that belongeth to us, and to our sons: and now, all that God hath said unto thee, do thou. And Jacob arose, and took up his sons, and his wives, upon camels. And he led away all his cattle, and all his substance which he had gathered; the cattle of his getting which he had gathered in Padan Aram: for to come unto Isaac his father, in the land of Canaan. And Laban was gone to sheare his sheep: and Rachel had stolen the Teraphims, that were her fathers. And Jacob stole from the heart of Laban the Syrian: in that he told him not, that he fled. And he fled himself, and all that he had; and he rose up, and passed over the river: and set his face toward mount Gilead. And it was told Laban, in the third day; that Jacob was fled. And he took his brethren with him, and followed after him, seven days way: and overtooke him, in mount Gilead. And God came to Laban the Syrian, in a dream by night: and he said unto him; Take thou heed, lest thou speak with Jacob from good to bad. And Laban overtooke Iakok: and Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount; and Laban pitched with his brethren in mount Gilead. And Laban said, to Jacob; what hast thou done, that thou hast stolen-away from my heart: and hast led-away my daughters, as captives with the sword? Wherefore didst thou flee secretly, and steal-away from me: and didst not tell me? that I might have sent thee away, with mirth and with songs, with timbrell and with harp. And hast not suffered me to kiss my sons, and my daughters: now, thou hast done-foolishly in so doing. It is in the power of my hand to do you evil: but the God of your father said unto me yesternight, saying; Take thou heed, that thou speak not with Jacob from good to bad. And now, going thou wouldest be gone, because longing thou longedst after thy fathers house: wherefore hast thou stolen my gods? And Jacob answered, and said to Laban: because I feared; for I said, lest thou take-byforce thy daughters from me. With whom thou shalt find thy gods, let him not live: before our brethren, discern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee: and Jacob knew not, that Rachel had stolen them. And Laban entered into the tent of Jacob, and into the tent of Leah, and into the tent of the two handmaids, and he found them not: and he went out from the tent of Leah, and entered into the tent of Rachel. And Rachel had taken the Teraphims, and put them in the camels furniture; and sate upon them: and Laban felt all the tent, and found them not. And she said to her father, Let it not be displeasing in the eyes of my Lord, that I cannot rise-up before thee, for the custom of women is upon me: and he searched, and found not the Teraphims. And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob answered and said to Laban; what is my trespass, what is my sin, that thou hast hotlypursued after me? Whereas thou hast felt all my stuff, what hast thou found of all the stuff of my house? set it here, before my brethren and thy brethren: and let them debate between us two. This twenty years have I been with thee; thy ewes and thy she-goats have not cast-their-young; and the rams of thy flock, I have not eaten. The torn, I brought not unto thee; I made-itgood; of my hand, didst thou require it: the stolen by day, or stolen by night. I was in the day, the heat did consume me, and the frost in the night: and my sleep fled from mine eyes. This was my twenty year, in thy house: I have served thee fourteen years, for thy two daughters; and six years, for thy cattle: and thou hast changed my wages, ten times. Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, & the Fear of Isaac, had been with me; surely now, thou hadst sent me away empty: my affliction and the labor of my hands, God hath seen, and rebuked thee yesternight. And Laban answered, and said unto Jacob; These daughters are my daughters, and these sons my sons, and these cattle my cattle; and all that thou seest, it belongs to me: and to my daughters, what shall I do to these this day; or to their sons, which they have borne? Now therefore, come let us strike a covenant, I & thou: and let it be for a witness, between me and thee. And Jacob took a stone: and set it up, for a pillar. And Jacob said to his brethren, Gather stones; and they took stones, and made an heap; and they did eat there, upon the heap. And Laban called it, Iegarsahadutha: and Jacob called it Gal-eed. And Laban said, This heap is a witness, between me and thee, this day: therefore he called the name of it Gal-eed. And Mizpah, for he said; Jehovah watch, between me and thee: when we shall be hid, each man from his neighbor. If thou shalt afflict my daughters, and if thou shalt take wives besides my daughters, no man is with us: see, God is witness, between me and thee. And Laban said to Jacob; Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have cast between me and thee. This heap be witness, and the pillar be witness: that I will not pass over this heap unto thee; and that thou shalt not pass over this heap, and this pillar unto me, for evil. The God of Abraham, and the God of Nachor, they judge between us; the God of their father: and Jacob sware, by the Fear of his father Isaac. And Jacob slew a slaughter (of beasts;) in the mount; and called his brethren to eat bread: and they did eat bread and tarried all night in the mount. And Laban rose early in the morning, and kissed his sons and his daughters, and blessed them: and Laban went, and returned, unto his place.

Annotations.

HE] that is, as the Greek expresseth, Jacob heard. made all this glory] that is, (as the Chaldee expoundeth it) get all these riches; for, thereupon glory ariseth; as riches and glory are join•d together, in Prov. 3. 16. and 8. 18. Eccles. 6. 2. Glory (or honor) hath the name of weightiness, (as Paul mentioneth the weight of glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17.) and Abraham was said to be weighty, when he was rich, Gen. 13. 2. And in Isaiah 61. 6. glory, is in Greek translated riches.

Vers. 2. face] or countenance, wherein favor or displeasure is easily discerned: the Chaldee saith, the look of his face. as in former days] or, as in time past: the Hebrew phrase is, as yesterday, and the day before: which two days past, are used for all times before; even as today, is for the time present, Psal. 95. 7. and tomorrow for all time to come, Gen. 30 33. So after here in verse. 5. Exod. 4. 10. and 5 7. 14. and often in the Scripture.

Vers. 3. of thy fathers] the land of Canaan, given by promise to Abraham and to Isaac, Gen. 13. 15. and 26. 3. be with thee] that is, do thee good, Gen. 32. 9. the Chaldee translateth, my word shall be for thy help. See Gen. 28. 15.

Vers. 4. unto his flock] the Greek expounds it, where the flocks were.

Vers. 5. with me] to bid me depart, verse. 13. or, as the Chaldee explaineth it, his word hath been my help.

Vers. 7 ten times] in his six years service; ten here may be put for many times; so in Job 19. 3. given] that is, suffered. See Gen. 20. 6.

Vers. 9. God hath] so it was not by Jacob's fraud, as his brethren unjustly calumniated him, verse. 1. neither used he that art of putting rods into the troughs (Gen. 30. 37.) but by God's direction.

Vers. 10. a dream] sent of God, as Gen. 28. 12. he-goats] and rams, as the Greek expressly addeth. By this he was taught, that the generation of cattle in that manner, was by the instinct of God, for to enrich Jacob. grised] or hail-spotted, that is, having many white spots like haylestones; for so the Hebrew and Chaldee words import. The Greek expounds it, sprinkled as with ashes. It may be also to signify, that this was God's work, as the hail falleth from heaven. Such was the color of certain horses, that Zacharias saw in a vision, Zach. 6. 3.

Vers. 11. Angel] called in verse 13. the God of Bethel: that is, Christ. So after, Gen. 48. 16. The Hebrew Doctors also name this Angel, Michael: •irkei R. Eliez. c. 36.

Vers. 12. he-goats] the Greek again addeth, and rams. cattle] or flock, which the Greek translateth sheep and goats, the Hebrew comprehendeth both, as Levite. 1. 10.

Vers. 13. the God] Heb. El Beth-el, that is, the God of the house of God: which the Chaldee expoundeth thus, the God which appeared unto thee in Beth-el: the G•eeke, thy God, which appeared unto thee in God's place. God here manifest th• that he accepted the service which Jacob used in consecrating Bethel, Gen. 28. 18. 19 22. and was mindful of his promises there made, verse. 15. kindred] or nativity, generation, as the Greek translateth; adding moreover, and I will be with thee, as was in verse 3.

Vers. 14 for us] or, to us: these words may imply, both that they had no hope of benefit from their father; and that they had no mind any longer to continue with him, out to depart. Compare 1 King. 12. 16. and the law, in Gen. 2. 24. Laban is set forth in this history, as a picture of a man covetous, envious, injurious, unthankful, and unnatural; besides his idolatry and hypocrisy. By such a miser, was Jacob's faith and patience exercised twenty years.

Vers. 15. of him] or to him: meaning that he had dealt with them as strangers, rather than as children. sold us] for fourteen years service by thee our husband. eating he hath eaten] that is, quite eaten up, and consumed: or greedily eaten. Or questionwise, should he eat? that is, consume us quite? For by often changing Jacob's wages, he sought to have enriched himself, with the extreme poverty of his daughters, money] Hebr. silver: used here generally for their price, which he had turned to his own profit: or figuratively, the meats and commodities bought with such money as was due to them for their husband service: besides their own portions.

Vers. 16. riches] the Greek addeth, and glory, as verse 1.

Vers. 18. substance] or, gathered-goods: see Gen. 12. 5. Thus also Jacob's children went with all their goods out of Egypt, Exod. 10. 26. Padan Aram] that is, as the Greek hath it, Mesopotamia.

Vers. 19. Teraphims] the Greek here translatheth them Idols; the Chaldee, Images: Laban calleth them his gods verse. 30. and that they were images or representations used in divine worship, other Scriptures also do confirm, Judge. 17. 5. and 18. 14. 17. 20 Hos. 3. 4. and it seemeth that idolaters consulted with their gods by them, and had oracles, Ezek. 21 21. Zach. 10. 2. therefore the Chaldee and Greek in Hos. 3. 4. translate it, declarers, or manifesters, to weet, of hidden things. They were greatly displeasing to the true God, 1 Sam. 15. 23. and therefore were by the godly, rooted out, 2 King. 23. 24. Sometime the Greek version keepeth the original name Theraphein, Judge. 17. and of it, the Heathen Greeks framed the word Therapeuein, for to signify the service or worship of their gods; and using to consult with such, for recovery of their health, (as Ahazjah did with Beelzebub, 2 King. 1. 2.) they applied the Greek word Therapeuin, for to heal o*cure* diseases. An ancient Rabine saith, What were those Teraphims? They killed a man that was a first borne (son,) and took off his head, and salted it with salt and with oil, and wrote upon a plate of gold, the name of an unclean spirit, and put it under the tongue thereof; and set it up on a wall, and lighted candles before it, and bowed themselves down unto it, and it spake unto them; as it is written, (in Zach. 10. 2.) the Teraphims have spoken vanity. Pirkei R. Eliezer ch. 36. It is more likely, they were Images in the shape of men, as may be gathered by 1 Sam. 19. 13. 16.

Vers. 20. stale from the heart] that is, stale (or conveyed away himself) without the knowledge or consent of Laban. For the heart is the seat of knowledge and understanding, Eccles. 7. 25. Prov. 7. 7. So the Greek here for stale, translatheth hid: and the Chaldee saith, Jacob concealed it from Laban. The word from, is here to be understood, as afterward in verse. 26. & 27. where this speech is opened: and sometime the Scripture it self supplieth this and the like wants; as in 2 Chron. 6. 33. hear thou from the heavens: whereas the same speech being written in 1 King. 8. 43. the word from is wanting. Otherwise, to steal the heart, meaneth pri•lie to draw the heart and affection unto one, as in 2 Sam. 15. 6. Or, if here we so read it, stale the heart of Laban, the meaning is, he carried away, and deceived him of that which his heart did expect and affect, namely more wealth by Jacob's service, &c. And so it is a Syriac phrase, not much differing from that in 2 Cor. 12. 16. I caught you with guile, where the Syriac translatheth, I stale you with guile. And stealing is used for carrying away, Job 21. 18.

Vers. 21. the river] Euphrates (as the Chaldee explains it,) which was between Chaldea and Canaan: Ios. 24. 2. 3. set his face] that is, his affections and actions, without declining to any other way. Therefore the Greek translatheth it hormesen, which signifieth an earnest (violent) running thitherward. The like phrase is in Ier. 50. 5. Luke 9 51. 53. Gilead] in Greek, Galaad. It was a goodly mountain adjoining next to Lebanon, beneath which mount, was a fertile country called also the land of Gilead, Ier. 22. 6. Deut. 34. 1. They were stored with balm, myrrh, and other spicerie, Gen. 37. 25. Ier. 8. 22. were very good for feeding of cattle, and were afterwards taken from the Amorites, and given partly to the sons of Reuben, and Gad, and partly to the sons of Manasseh for inheritance; Song 4. 1. Numb. 32. 1. 39. Ier. 50. 19. Deut. 3. 12. 13. 15. 16. There was also a man of this name, one of Jacob's posterity: Num. 26. 29.

Vers. 22. the third day] his flock being 3. days journey from Jacob's, Gen. 30. 36. [unspec 22]

Vers. 23. brethren] that is, kinsfolke: see Gen. 13. 8. way] that is, journey: so Gen. 30. 36. Laban pursueth Jacob gone out from his servitude: so Pharaoh pursueth his children, for the like cause, Exod. 14. 5. 6.—9.

Vers. 24. God came] The Chaldee saith, word came from the face of God. Compare Gen. 20. 3. Take thou heed] or, Keep thyself, as the Greek translatheth. It was a rebuke unto Laban: verse 42. from good to bad] the Greek saith only, that thou speak not bad words. The Hebrew phrase seemeth to mean, either good or bad: as in the like, Gen. 14. 23. and also in this very phrase, 2 Sam. 13. 22. And to speak neither good nor bad, is meant respectively to that end for which Laban pursued him; as to carry Jacob back again into his servitude. So after in verse 29. This was the Lord's hook in Laban's nostrils, to carry him back the same way he came, as in verse 55. & Esa. 37. 29.

Vers. 26. from my heart] secretly, and unawares to me: the Chaldee saith, concealed it from me: as verse 20. captives] or prisoners. But they went voluntary, verse 16. and belonged to Jacob, rather then to Laban; Gen. 2. 24.

Vers. 27. secretly flee] Hebr. keep thee secret in fleeing. from me] this openeth the former speech of stealing away from his heart. The Chaldee here again translatheth, didst conceal it from me. timbrel] or tabret, in Hebr. named Toph, of the sound which it maketh, when it is beaten on with the hand? It was an instrument of joy, Esa. 24. 8. used by Jacob's daughters when they went out of the Egyptians service, Exod. 15. 20. which Laban here speaketh of, though it may be he meant no such thing.

Vers. 28. to kiss] and so bid farewell. For kissing was used both at the meeting, and at the parting of friends, Ex. 4. 27. Gen. 29. 21. & 31. 55. Ruth 1. 14.

Vers. 29. It is] or It was: but the Greek translatheth it of the time present; And now my hand is able. A vain boast, like Pilate's, John. 19. 10. 11.

Verse 30. going &c.] that is, thou wouldst needs be gone. longing] that is, thou greatly longedst, or desiredst. my gods] that is, Teraphims, verse. 19. images by which he worshipped God. For so figuratively the Scripture useth to call those things God's, which represent God and his presence unto men: as Exod. 32. 4. 1 King. 12. 28. And the word God's is spoken of one image, Exod. 32. 8. and is the same that God, Neh. 9. 18. So Teraphim, though a word of the plural number, yet is used also for one Image, 1 Sam. 19. 13. 16. The Chaldee here translateth it, my Fear, that is, my God whom I fear, as in verse 53. This complaint of Laban that his God's were stolen, showeth the vanity of such Idolatry, Ier. 10. 5. 11. 15. Judge. 6. 31. and 18. 24. So God also did execution upon the gods of Egypt, when Jacob's sons departed thence, Numb. 33. 4. Exod. 12. 12. and threateneth the like after, Ier. 43. 12. 13. Esa. 19. 1.

Vers. 32. not live] a severe judgment, uttered unawares, for he knew not that Rachel had stolen them: yet the Hebrew Doctors note, that Jacob said, whosoever hath stolen the Teraphims, he shall die before his time; and that which cometh out of the mouth of a just man, is as if it came out of the mouth of an Angel, and Rachel travelled in childbirth, and died, Gen. 35. 16. 18. Pirkei R. Eliez. ch. 36.

Vers. 34. furniture] or, saddle: the Greek word also meaneth such stuff as the Camel was laden with. felt] that is, searched; So verse. 37.

Vers. 35. displeasing] or wrathful, grievous: see Gen. 4. 5. The Greek translateth, take it not ill, (or grievously.) my Lord] so in words she honored her father, as Sarah with like title, did her husband: see Gen. 18. 12. rise up] to do thee honor; in gesture, as Lev. 19. 32. custom] Hebr. way of women; meaning her natural disease, such as women used to be put apart for; Lev. 15. 19.

Vers. 36. trespass] or, disloyal-iniquity; the Greek translateth it injury, (or unrighteous-deed: and it is in degree greater then sins; as Job 34. 37. he addeth trespass to his sin.

Vers. 37. debate] or dispute, argue and discuss the thing; and consequently judge, and lay the blame where it is due.

Vers. 38. not eaten] as is the manner of evil shepherds, Ezek. 34. 2. 3. &c.

Vers. 39. The torn] to weat, with wild beasts, as the Greek explaineth it. I made it good] or, I paid for it; as the Greek translateth. The Hebrew word signifieth to expiate, or satisfy as-for-sin, as if he should say, I put away the sin by satisfaction: so spoken, because Laban imputed it to Jacob for a fault, though indeed it was not. thou require] which he could not do without injury: for God's law showeth, that that which is torn of beasts, should not be made good by him that kept it, Exod. 22. 10. 13.

Vers. 40. consume] or, eat: The Greek translateth, burnt with heat. fled] The Greek saith, departed. Care of his flock, kept his eyes that they could not sleep. The duty of good shepherds, is hereby signified, Luke 2. 8. Hebr. 13. 17. the contrary is in the evil, Esa. 56. 10. This relation setteth forth Jacob's misery while he dwelt in Syria, and kept sheep; not only once noted by the Prophet, Hos. 12. 12. but continually remembered unto God by Jacob's children, who bringing their first fruits, did everyone confess, A Syrian ready to perish, was my father: Deut. 26. 5.

Vers. 42. the Fear] or Dread; that is, the GOD whom Isaac feared; as also after in verse 53. So the Chaldee expresseth it, he whom Isaac feared So Jacob himself explaineth it, Gen. 32. 9. and in Psal. 76. 12. God is absolutely called the Fear, as unto whom all fear and dread is due, Esa. 8. 12. 13. with me] or for me, and on my side: see the like speech in Psal. 124. 1. 2. &c. hands] Hebr. palms: a part being put for the whole. Though hereby secret and unknown labor, may be implied. thee] This word the Greek also addeth, the sense requiring it. The holy Ghost often supplieth the want of such words, as, I believed not the words, 1 King. 10. 7. that is, their words, 2 Chron. 9. 6. And, to provoke, 2 King. 21. 6. that is, to provoke him. 2 Chron. 33. 6. So, the heel, Psal. 41. 10. is translated, his heel, John. 13. 18. And by the Evangelists, into the garner, Mat. 3. 12. that is, into his garner, Luke 8. 17. and sundry the like. See before, Gen. 2. 19.

Vers. 43. and to my daughters] that is, and as for my daughters, what shall I do to them? The pawses in the Hebrew, yield this sense: but the Greek referreth it to the former, it is mine and my daughters.

Vers. 44. therefore] Hebr. and now; which the Greek also translateth, Now therefore. The Hebrew sometime useth one of these for another: as, and he called, 2 Sam. 5. 9. which another Prophet saith, therefore they called, 1 Chron. 11. 7.

Vers. 45. a pillar] a moniment of the covenant, which Jacob consented to make.

Vers. 46. did eat] after the covenant had been made, verse 54.

Vers. 47. Iegar sahadutha] these are Syriac words, signifying, The heap of witness, as the Greek turneth them. So Laban named it in his own language. Gal-eed] This is Hebrew, and signifieth also, The heap a witness; as the Greek translateth it. So Jacob named it in his holy language: and thus the children of them both, by the name, might remember the league here made. And hereupon it seemeth, the mount and country adjoining, was called, Galaad, or Gilead.

Vers. 48. heap] in Hebrew Gal. a witness] in Hebr. Ed: which together make Galeed.

Vers. 49. Mispah] that is by interpretation, a Watch-tower, or place of Espying. The place had these names figuratively, as being a sign of God's witness to, and watch over the covenant now made. watch] or espy: it showeth a reason of the former name. hid] that is, absent, out of the sight one of another. The Greek translateth, because we depart one from another.

Vers. 50. If thou shalt] we may understand, Swearing, or, Wishing a curse to thyself, if, &c. Or, That thou shalt not. See the notes on Gen. 24. 38. and 14. 23. is] or, be witness: and consequently a punisher of the evil. For the men that were present, were not meet-witnesses, because they were kinsfolkes: v. 23.

Vers. 52. that I, will not] this manner of speaking is earnest, and deliberate; as is meet in making covenants. It may also be properly interpreted, If I, to weet, shall pass over this place, I will not pass over to thee for evil: and, if thou, to weet, shalt pass over, &c. But If in Hebr. is sometime used for That; and so the Greek, Act. 26. 23. unto thee] meaning, for evil; as in the latter branch is expressed.

Vers. 53. God] or God's. their father] that was Tharah, and he served strange gods, Ios. 24. 2. So Laban sweareth by idols. the fear] that is, the God feared: as v. 42. So Jacob sware by the true God only; as is commanded, Deut. 6. 13.

Vers. 54. slew a slaughter] for a feast; and so they used at making of covenants, Gen. 26. 30. Vsuually the word is applied to slaying of sacrifices: but the general meaning, seemeth most proper here. So in 1 King. 1. 9. Numb. 22. 40. bread] this word is often used generally for all food: (see Gen. 21. 14.) and sometime for flesh: Lev. 3. 11. and 21. 6. Numb. 28. 2.

Vers. 55. blessed them] Thus God over-ruled Laban's cruel mind, as he turned Balaam's curse into a blessing, Deut. 23. 5.

CHAP. XXXII.

1. Jacob meeteth an host of Angels. 3, He sendeth a message to Esau. 6, Hearing of Esau's coming, he is afraid, 9, and prayeth for deliverance. 13, He sendeth a present to Esau. 24, He wrestleth with an Angel, and will have a blessing of him. 28, Thereupon his name is called Israel; 30, the place is called Peniel; 31, and Jacob halteth.

AND Jacob went on his way: and the Angels of God, met him. And Jacob said, when he saw them; This is God's host: and he called the name of that place, Machanaim.

AND IAKOB SENT messengers, before him; to Esau, his brother: unto the land of Seir, the field of Edom. And he commanded them, saying; Thus shall ye say, to my Lord, to Esau: thus saith thy servant Jacob; I have sojourned with Laban; and tarried, until now. And I have, oxen and asses; flocks, and men-servants and women-servants: and I have sent, to tell my Lord; to find grace in thine eyes. And the messengers returned unto Jacob, saying: we came to thy brother, to Esau; and also he is coming to meet thee, and four hundred men with him. And Jacob feared greatly, and was distressed: and he divided the people that was with him; and the flocks, and the herds, and the camels, into two companies. And he said; if Esau come to the one company, and smite it: yet the company that is left, shall escape. And Jacob said; ô God, of my Father Abraham; and God, of my Father Isaac: Jehovah, that saydst unto me, Return unto thy land, and to thy kindred, and I will do thee good. I am less then all the mercies, and then all the truth, which thou hast done unto thy servant: for with my staff, I passed over this Jordan; and now I am become two companies. Deliver me I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau: for I, fear him, lest he will come and smite me; the mother with the sons. And thou saidst, doing good, I will do thee good: and will put thy seed, as the sand of the sea; which shall not be numbered, for multitude. And he lodged there, the same night: and took of that which came into his hand, a present, for Esau his brother. Two hundred she-goats, and twenty he-goats: two hundred ewes, and twenty rams. Thirty milch camels, and their young-ones: forty she-bullocks, and ten he-bullocks, twenty she-asses, and ten he asse-colts. And he gave them, into the hand of his servants; every herd by it self alone: and said unto his servants, pass over before me; and put a space between herd and herd. And he commanded the first, saying; when Esau my brother shall meet thee, and shall ask thee saying; whose art thou, and whither goest thou; and whose are these before thee? Then thou shalt say, (they be) thy servant Jacob's; it is a present sent to my Lord, to Esau: and behold he also, is behind us. And he commanded also the second, and the third, and all that went after the herds, saying: according to this speech, shall ye speak unto Esau; when you find him. And ye shall say also, Behold thy servant Jacob, is behind us: for he said, I will appease his face, with the present that goeth before me; and afterward, I will see his face; peradventure, he will accept my face. And the present passed-over, before his face: and himself, lodged that night, in the company. And he rose up that night, and took his two wives, and his two hand-maids; and his eleven children: and he passed over the foord Iabbok. And he took them, and caused them to pass over the brook: and caused to pass over, that which he had. And Jacob was left, him-self alone: and there wrestled a man with him, until the rising-up of the morning. And he saw that he prevailed not against him; and he touched the hollow of his thigh: and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him. And he said, let me go; for the morning riseth-up: and he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me. And he said unto him, what is thy name? and he said, Jacob. And he said, thy name shall not be called anymore, Jacob; but Israel: for as-a-Princehast-thou-power with God, and with men, and hast prevailed. And Jacob asked, and said, Tell me I pray thee thy name; and he said, wherefore is it, that thou askest for my name? And he blessed him there. And Jacob called the name of the place, Peniel: for I have seen God face to face; and my soul is delivered. And the Sun arose unto him, as he passed over Penuel: and he halted upon his thigh. Therefore, the sons of Israel eat not, of the sinew that shrank; which is upon the hollow of the thigh; unto this day: because he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh; in the sinew that shrank.

Annotations.

Angels] by interpretation Messengers, and so the word is used in the 3. verse. but these were heavenly spirits; of whom see the notes on Gen. 16. 7. By this vision, God confirmed Jacob's faith in him, who commanded his Angels to keep his people in all their ways, Psal. 91. 11. host] or campe, army; as in wars: for Angels are heavenly soldiers, Luk. 2. 13. horses and chariots of fire, 2 King. 9. 17. fighting for God's people against their enemies, Dan. 10. 20. Of them there are thousand thousands, and ten thousand times ten thousand, Dan. 7 10. and they are all sent forth, to minister for them who shall be heyr's of salvation, Heb. 1. 14. and they pitch a campe about them that fear God, Psal. 34. 8. The heathens retained the knowledge hereof, though corruptly; for the Greek Poet saith, there be thrice ten thousands of the immortal (Angels) of God, here upon the earth, keepers of mortal men, and observers of their works both just and unjust; they are clad with the air, and go abroad all over the earth. Hesiod. Oper. & Dies, l. 1. Machanaim] that is, two hosts (or camps;) either because the Angels appeared in two companies, for Jacob to go between them: or because there was one campe of Angels, and one of Jacob's family. About this place, there was a city afterwards called Machanaim, inhabited by the Priests of God, Ios. 21. 38. This also hath a spiritual application to the Church of God, in Song 6. 13.

Vers. 3. AND IAKOB] Here beginneth the eight section, or lecture of the law, called of the first word Vajishlak, that is, And he sent. But it is not distinguished with great letters, as usually they are. See Gen. 6. 9. messengers] the same word which before was translated Angels, verse 1. Seir] a mountainy land possessed before by the Chorims, Gen. 14. 6. but Esau with his children destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead, Deut. 2. 22. Thither was Esau gone from the face of his brother Jacob. See Gen. 36. 6. 7. field] that is, as the Greek translatheth it, country of Edom, that is, Esau. See Gen. 14. 7. & 25. 30.

Vers. 4. my Lord] by this title Jacob honored and submitted to him as to his elder brother, Gen. 4. 7. 1 Pet. 3. 6. For Jacob's superiority foregiven in Gen. 27. 29. the time was not yet come, that it should be fulfilled. So David carried himself to Saul • 1 Sam. 24. 7. 9. &c.

Vers. 5. Oxen] Hebr. Ox and Ass, &c. singular for plural: see Gen. 3. 2. to find] that is, that I may find, as Gen. 6. 19. The Greek translatheth, that thy servant may find grace before thee.

Vers. 6. and 400. men] armed for war, as seemeth by verse. 8. Here the ancient quarrel 20. years before (Gen. 27. 41.) was remembered, and Jacob's danger and trouble renewed. In Pirkei R. Eliezer, c. 37. it is said, Jacob's case, was; As if a man did flee from a Lion, and a Bear met him, (Amos 5. 19.) The Lion was Laban, that pursued after Jacob, to tear his soul: the Bear was Esau, which stood by the way, as a Bear robbed of her whelps, and came to slay the mother with the children. And the Lion hath shamefastness, but the Bear hath no shamefastness.

Vers. 7. companies] or camps: the word used before, in verse 2.

Vers. 8. smite] that is slay (or kill) it: as Gen. 14. 17. So after, verse. 11. shall escape] Hebr. shall be to escaping, or shall have evasion: the Greek saith, shall be saved.

Vers. 9. will do thee good] or, will deal well with thee: thus Jacob understood the promise, I will be with thee: Gen. 31. 3. So after in verse. 12.

Vers. 10. less] to weat, in worth, that is, am unworthy all (or any) of the mercies. So the Chaldee translatheth, Less are my deserts, then all the mercies and all the benefits, which thou hast done to thy servant. with my staff;] that is, having nothing else: the Chaldee expounds it, myself alone.

Vers. 11. mother with the sons] in Greek, and the mother with the children: (or upon them.) It meaneth great cruelty, in sparing none, as Hos. 10. 14. For smite, the Chaldee translatheth kill me.

Vers. 12. doing good &c.] that is, I will surely do thee good. put] that is, make thy seed: see this promise, Gen. 28. 14.

Vers. 13. came into his hand] that is, such as he had, and could send for the present. And it was a rich gift; of five hundred and fifty beasts, of sundry sorts, for store. A man's gift, maketh room for him; and bringeth him before great men: Prov. 18. 16.

Vers. 15. young-ones] or colts: in Hebrew, sons: see Gen. 18. 7.

Verse 16. every herd] or drove. Hebr. herdherd: see the like phrase in Gen. 14. 10. and herd] Hebr. and between herd. This was done, that by distant spaces, the heat of Esau's rage might be abated, verse 20.

Vers. 20. is behind] or, as the Chaldee explains it, cometh after us. appease his face] or cover (and pacify) his face, that is, his anger, as the Chaldee interpreteth it; for anger (as favor) appeareth in the face. See the like in Lev. 20. 6. Psal. 21. 10. And appeasing, is the word so often used in the law, for covering or taking-away offenses, and so pacifying the anger by gifts, and making atonement: Exod. 19. 36. Levite. 1. 4. and 4. 20. 26. and 5. 6. 10. 13. &c. the present] for, a gift in secret pacifieth anger, Prov. 21. 14. my face] that is, favor me, and grant my request: see Gen. 19. 21.

Vers. 22. handmaids] or bondwomen: the Chaldee translatheth them concubines. See Gen. 35. 22. the foord] or the passage: so the Greek saith the passage of Iaboch. A river mentioned also in Deut. 2. 37. and 3. 16.

Vers. 24. wrestled] or combated, by taking hold one of another. A peculiar word, not used but in this history. It figureth the spiritual wrestling, strife and conflict of the children of God; Phil. 1. 27. Ephes. 6. 12. Rom. 15. 30. Heb. 10. 32. a man] called after, and by the Prophet Hosee, God, and an Angel, verse 28. 30. Hos. 12. 3. 4. It was therefore Christ, appearing in the form of a man, (as before to Abraham, Gen. 18. 2. 22.) the Angel that redeemed Jacob from all evil, Gen. 48. 16. God wrestleth with men, by temptations; and we with him, by prayers and tears, as Jacob now also did, for he wept and made supplications unto him, Hos. 12. 4. Rom. 15. 30. and Christ playeth in the earth, and hath his delights with the sons of Adam, Prov. 8. 31. And the ancient Jewish Rabbin's acknowledged this Angel to be Christ; Our Doctors of blessed memory (saith R. D. Kimchi, on Hos. 12. 4.) have said, this Angel was Michael; and of him he saith, (Genes. 48. 16.) the Angel that redeemed me from all evil. Michael, is Christ the Archangel, Dan. 10. 21. Jude 9. Revel. 12. 7. Later Rabbin's do feign, that this was Esau's Angel, who sought to hinder Jacob: but Jacob himself refuteth this, verse. 30. the rising up of the morning] or ascending of the day dawning, that is, till the break of the day. So. verse. 26. A phrase much like the looking forth of the morning, whereof see Gen. 24. 63. Exod. 14. 27. This time, in the night, and the continuance of it, setteth forth the greatness of this temptation. So Abram's vision was in the night, Gen. 15. 12. 17. And the night, is figuratively the time of troubles, fears, and dangers, Job 36. 20. Song. 3. 8. and 5. 2. Psal. 91. 5.

Vers. 25. he] that is, the man (the Angel) prevailed not. For faith prevaieth even over Christ him-self, as in Matth. 15. 22. 24. 27. 28. touched] and so did hurt the hollow place wherein the hucklebone moveth. Which being so hard a place for man to come unto, Jacob by this touch, perceived he was no ordinary man, with whom he wrestled. was out of joint] or, hung loose; the Greek translatheth, was benumbed. This was to humble Jacob the conqueror, that he should not be exalted out of measure, as 2 Cor. 12. 7. and to teach him that he could not overcome the troubles in the world, without sorrow and pain unto his flesh, by the hand and work of God.

Vers. 26. let me go] or, send me away: the Angel craveth to be dismissed of Jacob, and so giveth him the victory, who held him fast, and gave not over, though he had hurt him; for when God's people are weak, then are they strong, 2 Cor. 12. 10. Thus God said to Moses, Let me alone, Exod. 32. 10. and men by zealous prayer, are said to take hold on God, Isaiah 64. 7. riseth up] or, ascendeth: and so would reveal more clearly what manner of one he was that wrestled with Jacob: but he would not yet have his glory manifested, for he dwelleth in the dark cloud, 2 Chron. 6. 1. and in the light that none can attain unto, 1 Tim 6. 16. Besides, as the night signifieth the time of afflictions; so the day is the time of deliverance, joy, and comfort, when our wrestling shall have an end, Isaiah 60. 20. will not] Jacob perceiving him to be a divine person, would not let him go without a blessing, for which (with the feeling of his own infirmity) he wept and prayed unto him, Hos. 12. 4. and in all his temptations got a full conquest through him that loved him, as Rom. 8. 37. So in Song. 3. 4. the spouse of Christ holdeth him, and will not let him go: and such importunacy in prayer offendeth not, but pleaseth God, Luk. 18. 1.—7. 8.

Vers. 28. anymore] meaning, not Jacob only, or not so much as Israel: for he and his posterity, are often in the Scripture called Jacob, but much more often Israel. This change of name signifieth a change and more excellency of his estate; as in Abraham's before; see Gen. 17. 5. 15. Esa. 62. 2. Israel] that is, one that hath princely power with God; as the words following do manifest. He had both his names given him of striving and wrestling; but the first, Jacob, was at his birth, where he strove to be the firstborn, but prevailed not till afterward, Gen. 25. 26. and 27. 36. this latter is upon victory prevailing with God and men. This new name, God giveth him the second time, Gen. 35. 10. Hereupon the Church, when speech is of her infirmity, is often called Jacob; and when her glory and valor is signified, she is called Israel, as throughout the Scriptures may be observed. See Amos 7. 2. 5. 8. Isaiah 41. 14. Galat. 6. 16. as a Prince hast thou power] or, thou hast behaved thyself princely, hast had princely power, or got the principedome and dominion. The Greek translatheth, hast beenstrong, or, prevailed-with-power. The Chaldee thus, for thou art a Prince before the Lord, and with men. with God] or, with the gods, that is, the Angels, as the word sometime signifieth, (Psal. 8. 6. so interpreted by the Apostle, Heb. 2. 7.) But the Greek translatheth it, with God; and the Prophet useth both words, He had princely power with God, he had princely power over the Angel, Hos. 12. 3. 4. with men] as with Esau, Gen. 25. 31. and 27. 36. and with Laban, Gen. 31. Thus was he confirmed against the fear of his brother, which now distressed him, verse. 7.

Vers. 29. Wherefore] This was a refusal to tell it; as the like was in Judge. 13. 17. 18. The Greek here addeth, wherefore thus askest thou my name which is marvelous? blessed him] so granting Jacob's first request, verse. 26. confirming the former blessings given him, Gen. 27. 28. and 28. 3. 4. and comforting him against the hurt in his thigh, v. 25. God so showing himself, the smiter and the healer, Hos. 6. 1.

Vers. 30. Peniel] and Penuel, verse. 31. and after the Greek pronunciation Phanouel; that is, The face of God; the Greek expounds it, the shape of God: the reason whereof followeth. This memorial of God's mercy, Jacob thankfully set upon the place. So before in Gen. 28. 19. In this place afterward a City and Tower was built, Judge. 8. 8. 17. It was about forty miles distant from Jerusalem. God] the Chaldee translatheth it, the Angel of the Lord. face to face] that is, after a manifest manner: spoken by way of comparison with other visions; as elsewhere of Moses, whom God knew & spake with face to face, Deut. 34. 10. Exod. 33. 11. But as touching the proper being of God, no man can see his face, and live; Exod. 33. 20. 23. soul is delivered] namely, from death; which the godly feared when they saw visions of God, being privy to their great weakness and unworthiness, Judge. 13. 22. and 6. 22.

Vers. 31. arose unto him] as the son of righteousness (Christ) riseth to them that fear the name of God, Mal. 4. 2. Contrariwise, the sun of the wicked, goeth down while it is yet day, Ier. 15. 9.

Amos 18. 9 See Gen. 19. 23. The Greek translath, The Sun arose, when the shape (or appearance) of God passed away. halted] which signifieth infirmity, which the best do bewray in their temptations and wrestlings with God, 2 Cor. 12. 7. 9. Psal. 35. 15. & 38. 18

Vers. 32. eat not] or, shall not (may not) eat. For it seemeth to be a law set of God, that as the halting upon this thigh, figured our infirmities; so the abstinence from the eating of that sinew, should figure our mortification, and abstaining from evil. The Hebrew Doctors say, Jacob's sinew being touched, became like the fat of a dead thing: therefore it is unlawful for the sons of Israel to eat of the sinew, &c. Pirkei R. Eliez. ch. 37. that shrank] or, that was removed; or, forgot his place. The Greek translath, the sinew that was benumbed. By the Hebrew Canons, they were bound to abstain from eating this sinew, both within the land (of Israel) and without the land, in common meats, and in holy: in cattle and in wild beasts; in the right thigh (of the beast) and in the left. But not infowles, because they have no hollow (in the thigh:) And whose eateth of the sinew that shrank, the quantity of an Olive, is beaten with 40 s <...> es. Talmud. Bab. in Cholin; ch. 7. and Maimonides in treat. of Forbidden meats, ch. 8. Therefore the Jews are careful to cut away, out of all beasts which they kill and eat, this sinew, with all the branches of it underneath, and the muscle of flesh wherein they are, for more assurance. Also in their sacrifices, when the members of the burnt offering were cut in pieces, and salted; then all the pieces were laid upon the Altar: and they took out the sinew that shrank, being upon the top of the Altar, and threw it upon the ashes, which was in the midst of the altar: saith Maimonides in Misn. treat. of Offring the sacrifices, ch. 6. S. 4. Among the Hebrews also, that pain in the thigh, with us named the Sciatica, is by them called Gid hannasheh, that is, The sinew that shrank.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1, Jacob goeth before his family, and boweth unto Esau seven times. 4, the kindness of Jacob and Esau at their meeting. 6, Jacob's wives and children bow unto Esau. 10, With much entreaty, he receiveth Jacob's present. 12, Offereth to accompany Jacob, but his courtesie is modestly refused. 17, Jacob cometh to Succoth. 18, At the city of Shechem he buyeth a field, and buildeth an altar called El-Elohe-Israel.

AND Jacob, lifted up his eyes; and saw, and behold Esau came; and with him, four hundred men: and he divided the children, unto Leah and unto Rachel; and unto the two handmaids. And he put the handmaids and their children, first: and Leah and her children, after; and Rachel and Joseph, aftermost. And he, passed over before them: and bowed himself to the ground, seven times; until he came near to his brother. And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him; and fell on his neck, and kissed him: and they wept. And he lifted up his eyes; and saw the women and the children; and said, who are these with thee? and he said, The children, which God hath graciously given to thy servant. And the handmaids came-near, they and their children, and bowed-themselves. And Leah also came-near, and her children, and they bowed-themselves: and after, came Joseph near, and Rachel, and they bowed-themselves. And he said, what meanest thou, by all this company, which I met? And he said, to find grace, in the eyes of my Lord. And Esau said, I have much: my brother, let that which is thine, be thine. And Jacob said; Nay I pray thee, if now I have found grace in thine eyes; then take my present, at my hand: for therefore I have seen thy face as though I had seen the face of God, and thou wast pleased with me. Take I pray thee my blessing, which is brought to thee; because God hath dealt-graciously with me, and because I have all: and he urged him, and he took it. And he said, let us take our journey and go: and I will go, before thee. And he said unto him, my Lord knoweth, that the children are tender; and the flocks and herds, are with young with me: and if they overdrive them one day, then all the flocks will die. Let my Lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant: and I will lead on softly, according to the foot of the work which is before me, and to the foot of the children; until I come unto my Lord, to Seir. And Esau said; Let me appoint I pray thee with thee, some of the folk which are with me: and he said, wherefore is this? let me find grace in the eyes of my Lord. And Esau returned, in that day; on his way, to Seir. And Jacob, journeyed to Succoth; and built him an house: and made boothes for his cattle; therefore he called the name of the place, Succoth.

And Jacob came safe, to the City of Shechem; which is, in the land of Canaan; when he came from Padan Aram: and he encamped, before the City. And he bought a parcel of a field, where he had stretched-out his tent; at the hand of the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem: for an hundred lambs. And he set-up there an Altar: and called it, El-Elohe-Israel.

Annotations.

HAndmaids] in the Chaldee, concubines. So one of them is called, Gen. 35. 22.

Vers. 3. seven] this may be taken for many times: as, the barren hath borne seven, that is, many, 1 Sam. 2 5. seven (that is, many) abominations are in (the hateful man's) heart, Prov. 26. 25. and sundry the like. Here Jacob doth that himself, which God promised should be done unto him, Gen. 27. 29. But humility goeth before honor. And it is noted by the Hebrew Doctors, as a decree of God, that Esau should be ruler over Jacob, in this world; and Jacob ruler over Esau in the world to come. Pirkei. R. Eliezer, ch. 37.

Vers. 4. kissed him] These were signs of Esau's affections changed from his former hatred, Gen. 27. 41. Luk. 15. 20. and of Jacob's prevailing with men, as he had with God, Genes. 32. 28. for his ways pleasing the Lord, he made his enemies at peace with him, Prov. 16. 7. Therefore the word kissed is extraordinarily noted in the Hebrew with three pricks over it, as leading the reader to observe well this matter. In the words following the Greek addeth, they wept both.

Vers. 8. what meanest thou] Hebr. what to thee? company] or camp, the drove sent before, Gen. 32. 16. to find] that is, that I may find: the Greek explaineth it, that thy servant may find grace.

Vers. 9. much] Hereby he may mean, enough, or, a great deal: the Greek translateth it, many things. Jacob in verse. 11. speaketh more freely, I have all things. Thus Esau had received his blessing; Gen. 27. 39. be thine] that is, keep it to thyself: or, (as the Chaldee explaineth it,) much good do it thee, that which thou hast.

Vers. 10. therefore] or, because: as this word signifieth in Gen. 38. 26. face of God] that is, honorable and comfortable. The Chaldee for God (Elohim) translateth Princes: as the word sometime signifieth, Psal. 82. pleased] or, thou hast favourably accepted me.

Vers. 11. blessing] that is, the gift, which by the blessing of God I have received, and do with a willing and liberal heart give unto thee. Hereupon the scripture often useth a blessing for a bounteous gift, or liberality, 1 Sam. 25. 27. and 30. 26. 2 King. 5. 15. and so the Apostle useth it, in 2 Cor. 9. 5. 6. The Chaldee keepeth here the word used in the former verse, the present. all] that is, enough of all: the Greek turneth it plurally, all things. A more full acknowledgment and contentation then Esau's, who said he had much, verse. 9. he took it] Jacob herein had the preeminence, for it is more blessed to give, than to receive, Act. 20. 35. and Abram would not be enriched by the king of Sodom, Gen. 14. 23. The Hebrew Doctors in Bresith rabbah here say, that all the gifts which Jacob gave to Esau, the kings of the world shall restore unto the King Christ; as Psal. 72. 10.

Vers. 12. and go] meaning unto Seir, where he would lovingly entertain his brother, and gratify his kinnesse. By Jacob's answer in verse. 14. it seemeth he did so understand him.

Vers. 13. with young] or, giving-suck, as the Chaldee translatheth it. The Hebrew may imply both; as 1 Sam. 6. 7.

Vers. 14. will lead on] or, will gently-lead softly. As Jacob here with his flock, so Christ the good shepherd, is prophesied to deal with his people, Esa. 40. 11. the foot of the work] that is, the pace of the cattle, as they are able to go: called a work, because about them his labor was employed. So in Exod. 22. 8. Thus Christ preached as men were able to hear, Mark. 4. 33. & so did his Apostles, becoming weak to the weak, 1 Cor. 3. 2. & 9. 22. Rom. 15. 1. For foot the Greek translatheth leisure.

Vers. 15. appoint] or set; and consequently leave, as the Greek and Chaldee do translate it. So in Exod. 10. 24. let me find grace] that is, grant my desire, and leave none. So to find grace, is to have a request granted, Gen. 34. 11. and 47. 25. 1 Sam. 25. 8. Or, as the Greek translatheth, it is enough that I have found grace; as being a thankful refusal: and so the Hebrew phrase seemeth elsewhere to import, as in Ruth 2. 13. 2 Sam. 16. 4.

Vers. 17. an house] in Greek, houses: they were cottages for present use; for he stayed not there long. Succoth] that is, boothes, or tents: hereof the place had the name, and so the city that was after there built, was called Succoth, Judge. 8. 15. 16. Likewise the place whither Jacob's sons first came, after they went out of Egypt, was called Succoth, Exod. 12. 37. and in memorial of their dwelling in boothes God appointed a yearly feast for all the people, called the feast of Succoth; that is, of boothes, or tents, made of green boughs of trees, wherein they dwelt seven days in a year, Levite. 23. 34—42. 43.

V. 18. came safe] or came in peace, sound, & whole, he and all that he had; having got the victory over all troubles and dangers, according to the promises of God, Gen. 31. 3. & 32. 28. The Hebrew Salem is so interpreted here by the Chaldee paraphrase safe, or sound: but the Greek maketh it the name of a place, to Salem the city of the Sichimites: Howbeit we find elsewhere no mention of such a city. Yet if so it be understood, it is another then that Salem where Melchizedek reigned, Gen. 14. 18. which was Jerusalem; from which this Salem was 40. miles distant. In John. 3. 23. there is mention of a Salem by Enon, where John baptized; which is thought to be that Saalim spoken of in 1 Sam. 9. 4. Shechem] or Sychem, as in Greek it is called Act. 7. 16. called also Sichar, John. 4. 5. Padan Aram] or Mesopotamia of Syria, as the Greek hath it, See Gen. 25, 20. encamped] pitched his tents.

Vers. 19. he bought] yet was that land given of God to him and his fathers, Gen. 12. 6. 7. but hoc was a pilgrim on it, as were they, Heb. 11. 9. and in hope of that promise in time to be fulfilled, he purchased this field; as Jeremiah bought a field, for like signification, Ier. 32. 9. 15. After, it became the portion of Joseph & his children, Ios. 24. 32. Hamor] or Emmor, as it is written, Act. 7. 16. in Hebrew Chamor. 100. lambs] so the Greek & Chaldee both translate the word. Others think they 〈...〉 ere pieces of money, on which the images of lambs were stamped. So in Ios. 24. 32. Job 42. 11. It hath been an ancient custom in many nations, to buy and sell, not only for money, but by exchange of one thing for another, as among the Greeks, Homer. Iliad. 8.

Vers. 20. an altar] for thanksgiving to God, as his fathers had done, Gen. 12. 7. and 13. 18. &c.

El Elohe Israel] that is, God the God of Israel, so named, as a 〈...〉 stimoniall of his faith, and a memorial of the mercy of God, who gave him that new name: Gen. 32. 28. The like Moses did, Exod. 17. 15. calling his altar, Jehovah Nissi. The Greek here translateth, he called upon the God of Israel: also the Chaldee, he sacrificed upon it, before God the God of Israel. About this time, fell out the departure of Judah from his brethren, and marriage with a Canaanitish woman, mentioned in Gen. 38. 1. &c. see the annotations there.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1, Dinah Jacob's daughter is ravished by Shechem. 4, He sueth to marie her. 8, Hamor his father followeth the suit. 13, Jacob's sons offer the condition of Circumcision to the Sechemites. 20, Hamor and Shechem persuade them to accept it. 25, The sons of Jacob upon that advantage slay them. 27, and spoil their city. 30, Jacob for it, reproveth Simeon and Levi.

AND Dinah the daughter of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob: went-out, to see the daughters of the land. And Shechem the son of Hamor, the Evite, prince of the land, saw her: and he took her, and lay with her, and humbled her. And his soul, clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob: and he loved the damsel, and spake to the heart of the damsel. And Shechem said, unto Hamor his father, saying: Take me this maid to wife. And Jacob heard, that he had defiled Dinah his daughter; and his sons, were with his cattle, in the field: and Jacob held his peace, until they were come. And Hamor the father of Shechem, went-out, out, unto Jacob; to speak with him. And the sons of Jacob, came out of the field, when they heard it; and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth: because he had done folly in Israel, in lying with Jacob's daughter; and so, should not be done. And Hamor spake with them, saying: Shechem my son, his soul is affected unto your daughter; I pray you give her unto him, to wife. And make ye marriages, with us: and take ye our daughters, unto you. And ye shall dwell, with us: and the land shall be before you; dwell and trade you therein, and get firm possessions therein. And Shechem [unspec] said, unto her father and unto her brethren; let me find grace, in your eyes: and what ye shall say unto me, I will give. Very largely-ask of me dowry and gift; and [unspec] I will give, according as ye shall say unto me: and give ye unto me the damsel, to wife. And the sons of Jacob, answered Shechem, [unspec] and Hamor his father, with deceit, & spake: because he had defiled, Dinah their sister. And they said unto them; we cannot do [unspec] this thing, to give our sister, to a man that hath a superfluous-fore-skin: for that were a reproach, unto us. Only in this, will we consent unto you: if ye will be as we are, that every [unspec] male of you be circumcised. Then will [unspec] we give our daughters, unto you; & we will dwell with you; and we will become, one people. And if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised: then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone. And their [unspec] words were good, in the eyes of Hamor: and in the eyes of Shechem, Hamors son. And [unspec] the yongman delayed not, to do the thing; because he had-delight, in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honorable, then all the house of his father. And Hamor, and Shechem his son, came unto the gate of their city: and spake unto the men of their city, saying. These men, they are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold is large of spaces, before them: let us take their daughters to us, for wives; & let us give unto them, our daughters. Only in this, will the men [unspec] consent unto us, for to dwell with us; for to become, one people: if every male among us be circumcised, even as they are circumcised. Their cattle and their substance, and [unspec] every beast of theirs, shall not they be ours? only let us consent unto them, and they will dwell with us. And unto Hamor, and [unspec] unto Shechem his son, hearkened all that went-out of the gate of his city: and they were circumcised, every male, all that went-out of the gate of his city. And it was, in the [unspec] third day, when they were sore that two sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren; took each-man his sword, and came upon the city in confidence: and they killed, every male. And they killed Hamor, and Shechem [unspec] his son, with the edge of the sword: and took Dinah, out of Sechems house, and went-out. The sons of Jacob, came upon [unspec] the slain; and spoiled the city: because they had defiled, their sister. They took [unspec] their sheep, and their oxen, and their asses: and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field. And all their wealth and all their little-ones, and their wives, they took-captive, and spoiled: and all that was in the house. And Jacob said, to Simeon and to Levi; ye have troubled me; to make me to stink, among the inhabitants of the land; among the Canaanites, and among the Pherizzites: and I, am few in number; and they will gather themselves together against me, and smite me; and I shall be destroyed, I and my house. And they said: Should he deal with our sister, as with an Harlot.

Annotations.

The daughters] that is, the women; as Gen, 30. 13. Upon what occasion she went to see them, Moses telleth not: the Hebrew Doctors say the maids of Shechem went abroad with timbrels to play, &c. Pirkei. R. Eliezer, ch. 38. and that it was on a solemn feast day, which they kept in that country, Joseph. Antiq. b. 1. God noteth Dinah's going out, as an occasion of her evil; and after reacheth young women to be keepers at home, Tit. 2. 5. So among the Jews, virgins were after this, wont to be kept in, 2 Maccab. 3. 19. Dinah was now about 14. years of age: Jacob's only daughter.

Vers. 2. Hamor] called in Greek, Emmor. So in Act. 7. 16. Evite] H•br. Chiwite, see Gen. 10. 17. humbled] or afflicted, that is, defiled her, verse. 5. for this word is applied only to adulterous and unlawful copulation; as in Deut. 21. 14. & 22. 24. 29. Judge. 19 24. 2 Sam. 13. 12. 14. Eze. 22. 10. 11.

Vers. 3. spake to the heart] or as the Greek translath, according to the mind of the damsel; that is, kindly on his part, and such things as liked and comforted her; who it seemeth was sorrowful for this injury done her, as Tamar was in like case, 2 Sam. 13. 19. 20. So the Chaldee translath, he spake consolations to the heart. A like phrase is used for kind and comfortable speaking; in Gen. 50. 21. Esa. 40. 2. Hos. 2. 14. And that which in John. 11. 19. is said to comfort them; the Syriac there translath, to speak with their heart. So in 1 Thes. 2. 11.

Vers. 5. that he] namely Hamors son, as the Greek translation addeth. held his peace] or, kept-silence as deaf, concealing his grief, and asswaging it with consideration of God's chastisement, as other godly men did in their troubles, Levite. 10. 3. Psal. 39. 10. Thus Jacob ruling his own spirit, did better then his sons that took the city, verse 27. Prov. 16. 32.

Vers. 7. folly in Israel] or against Israel: that is, as the Greek and Chaldee do explain it, a filthy and ignominious fact; on his part, vile, foolish and filthy; & to the Church of God, an ignominy and reproach. Moses writeth this according to the speech used in his time, when to do folly in Israel, was meant of wicked acts, done to the scandal of the Church, as Deut. 21. 21. Ios. 7. 15. Judge. 20. 6. Israel being put for his posterity the Israelites: see Gen. 19. 37. should not] the Chaldee addeth, it was not right (or meet) to be done. So the Law commandeth there shall be no whore of the daughters of Israel; Deut. 23. 17. and whoredom should not be named, among the Saints. Eph. 5. 3.

Vers. 8. is affected] or, is fastened, cleaveth: with desire, love and delight, as this word implieth the setting of the love upon any, Deut. 21. 11. & 7. 7.

Vers. 10. before you] free for you to choose where you like, and to possess it. See Gen. 13. 9. and 10. 15. The Greek addeth, broad before you; as verse 21. get firm possessions] or, hold yourselves as possessors in it.

Vers. 11. find grace] and have my request granted: see Gen. 33. 15.

Vers. 12. Very largely ask] Hebr. Multiply ye upon me vehemently. dowry] a gift of the man unto the woman or her parents, before and in respect of marriage. See the law hereof, Exod. 12. 16. 17.

Vers. 13. and spake] to weet, deceitfully: or, when they spake unto them.

Vers. 14. they said] This the Greek referreth to Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren. superfluous] or, uncircumcised-foreskin: see Gen. 17. 11.

Vers. 15. Only in this] or, But with this (condition.) The Greek translath, In this we will be like unto you: so in verse 22. where the Greek addeth the word Only. circumcised] cut in the flesh: see Gen. 17. 10. And herein was their deceit, pretending to have them like themselves in religion and polity; intending, when they were sick of their circumcising, to kill them, verse 25.

Vers. 18. good] that is (as the Greek hath) pleasing. [unspec 18]

Vers. 20. the gate] where the public assembly of the citizens used to be, for all matters of the common wealth, for justice and judgment, and the like. See Deut. 17. 5. and 22. 15. 24. and 25. 7. Ruth. 4. 1. 11.

Vers. 21. large of spaces] Hebr. of hands, meaning large and spacious; or roomthy enough.

Vers. 23. consent] the Greek saith, be like unto them in this.

Vers. 24. went out] that is, dwelt and conversed there: see Genes. 23. 10. were circumcised] which being done without the knowledge and faith of God, was a profanation of this seal of the righteousness of faith, (Rom. 4. 11.) and was not let go unpunished of God, verse. 25.

Verse 25. were sore] with the wound of circumcision, which (as other wounds) was most fore on the third day; as the Chaldee translath, when their pains were strongest upon them. in confidence] that is, confidently, boldly; and securely or safely, (as the Greek translath) because the wounded men could not resist them. The Chaldee referreth this to the city which dwelt securely, as Judge. 18. 7. So it noteth both the boldness of Jacob's sons, and security of the Sechemites.

Vers. 26. edge] Hebr. mouth of the sword. These things were done without Jacob's knowledge or consent, Gen. 49. 6.

Vers. 27. The sons] the other brethren, besides Simeon and Levi, verse. 25. they had] that is, one of them (Shechem) had; & the other repressed it not. So in Israel, the fact of one man, was sometime imputed to the general; Ios. 7. 1. 11. 12. and 22. 20. Exod. 2. 14. compared with Acts 7. 27. 35. And because all nations were bound to punish malefactors; (as is before observed, on Gen. 9. 4.) the Hebrew Doctors write, that for this the men of Shechem were guilty of death, because Shechem committed rape; and they saw and knew it, & did not judge him for it. Maimonides, in Misn. treat. of Kings, ch. 9. S. 14.

Vers. 29. wealth] or power. The word comprehendeth all wherein a man's power and strength consisteth; not only strength in body, but help by others, as an army of men. 1 Sam. 10. 26. and riches, which many make their strength, and whereby men are enabled to do much, Prov. 10, 15. but are indeed gotten by the power of God. Deut. 8. 17. 18. Psal. 62. 11. and 73. 12. The Greek in this place translath it bodies, (which seemeth to mean servants, as in Rev. 18. 13.) the Chaldee, riches. little-ones] The word being of the singular number, meaneth generally the multitude of little children, male and female; Num. 31. 17. 18. in the house] that is, in any house; therefore the Greek translath, in the houses.

Vers. 30. troubled me] This word meaneth not only disquietness of mind, but danger also to be destroyed, by those with whom he lived before in peace, the Greek translath, ye have made me odious. So Achan troubled Israel, and was himself troubled, that is, destroyed: see Ios. 6.

18. and 7. 25. and Prov. 15. 6. 27. where it is opposed to life. For this fact of theirs, Jacob deprived these his two sons of the birthright, which else they might have enjoyed, Gen. 49. 5. 7. that in them the proverb was fulfilled, he that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind, Prov. 11. 29. to stink] that is, to be loathsome, and as the Chaldee explaineth, put enmity between me and the people. The like is spoken in 1 Sam. 13. 4. and 27. 12. 1 Chron. 19. 6. and the phrase is more plainly opened in Exod. 5. 21. you have made our savor to stink. few in number] so the Chaldee translateth it: the Hebrew is, methei mispar, men of number, and the Chaldee, a people of number, that is, easily numbered; a few, a small company; as the phrase is explained in Deut. 26. 5. men of fewness, that is, a few men. So in Deut, 4. 27. Ier. 44. 28. The contrary is, without number, when many is meant, 2 Chro. 12. 3. my house] the Chaldee addeth, the men of my house.

Vers. 31. Should he deal] or, do? A stubborn answer, whereby they sought to defend their fact, which Jacob upon his death-bed cursed, Gen. 49. 7. Harlot] In the Hebrew Zonah, the first letter is extraordinarily great, for some hidden meaning. What if it be, to signify the stout and big words of these young men to their father? So a little letter is used before, in Gen. 23. 2. to signify moderation without excess in Abraham's weeping.

CHAP. XXXV.

1, God sendeth Jacob to Bethel. 2, He purgeth his house of Idols. 6, He buildeth an altar at Bethel. 5, Deborah Rebekah's nurse dieth at Allon bacuth. 9, God blesseth Jacob at Bethel. 16, Rachel trauelleth of Benjamin, and dieth in the way to Ephrath. 22, Rubenlieth with Bilhah his fathers concubine. 23, The twelve sons of Jacob. 27, Jacob cometh to Isaac at Hebron. 28, The age, death and burial of Isaac.

AND God said, unto Jacob; arise, go-up to Bethel, and dwell there: and make there an altar, unto God that appeared unto thee, when thou fleddest, from thy face of Esau thy brother. And Jacob said, unto his house; and unto all that were with him: Put-away the strange God's, that are among you, and cleanse yourselves, and change your garments. And let us arise and go-up, to Bethel: and I will make there an altar, unto God that answered me in the day of my distress; and hath been with me, in the way which I have gone. And they gave unto Jacob, all the strange God's, which were in their hand; and the earrings, which were in their ears: and Jacob hid him, under the oke, which was by Shechem. And they journeyed: and the terror of God, was upon the cities which were round about them: and they did not pursue, after the [unspec] sons of Jacob. And Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is Beth-el: he, and all the people that were with him. And he built there, an altar; and called the place, El Bethel: because there they, even God, was revealed unto him; when he fled, from the face of his brother. And Deborah Rebekah's nurse, died and she was buried, beneath Bethel, under an oke: and he called the name of it, The oke of weeping.

And God appeared unto Jacob again; when he was come, out of Padan Aram: and blessed him. And God said unto him, thy name (hath been) Jacob: thy name shall not be called anymore Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name, and he called his name Israel. And God said unto him, I am God almighty, be thou fruitful and multiply; a nation, and an assembly of nations, shall be of thee: and kings, shall come out of thy loins. And the land, which I gave to Abraham and to Isaac, to thee will I give it: and to thy seed after thee, will I give the land. And God, went-up from him: in the place, where he spake with him. And Jacob set-up a pillar, in the place where he spake with him, a pillar of stone: and he poured-out a drink-offering thereon: and he poured oil thereon. And Jacob called the name of the place, where God spake with him, Bethel. And they journeyed, from Bethel; and there-was yet a little piece of ground, to come to Ephrath: and Rachel bare a child, and had hard child-birth. And it was, when she was in her hard child birth: that the midwife said unto her, fear not; for thou shalt have this son also. And it was, when her soul was departing, for she died; that she called his name Ben-oni: but his father called him Ben-jamin. And Rachel died; and she was buried, in the way to Ephrath; that is Bethlehem. And Jacob set-up a pillar, upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachel's grave, unto this day. And Israel journeyed: and he stretched-out his tent, beyond the tower of Geder. And it was, when Israel dwelt in that land; that Reuben went, and lay with Bilhah, his fathers concubine: and Israel heard it: o

And the sons of Jacob, were twelve. The sons of Leah; Reuben, Jacob's firstborn: and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Zebulun. The sons of Rachel; Joseph, and Benjamin. And the sons of B·l hah, Rachel's handmaid; Dan, and Naphtali. And the sons of Zilpah, Leah's handmaid; Gad and Aser: these, are the sons of Jacob; which were borne to him in Padan Aram. And Jacob came, unto Isaac his father; to Mamree, to the city of Arba: that is Chebron; where Abraham and Isaac, had sojourned. And the days of Isaac, were: an hundred years, and fourscore years. And Isaac gave-up the ghost, and died, and was gathered unto his people's; an old-man, and full of days: and Esau and Jacob his sons, buried him.

Annotations.

BEthel] that is, God's house; a place distant from Shechem, about 30. English miles, southward: of it, see Gen. 28. 11. 19. an altar] that is, offer sacrifice and pay thy vow with thanksgiving for thy former deliverances, and strengthen thy faith, against thy present fears; Gen. 28. 20. 22. & 31. 13. and 34. 30.

Vers. 2. his house] the folk of his house, whom he carefully cleanseth of idols, (which have no agreement with the house of God, 2 Cor. 6. 16.) and informeth in God's ways, as did other saints, Gen. 18. 19. Ios. 24. 15. with him] this may be meant of the captived Sechemites, Gen. 34. 29. strange God's] or strangers God's: the Hebrew signifieth either God's of alienation, that is, aliene or strange God's, as the Greek explaineth it, or God's of the alien, that is, of a stranger, or strange nation; and so the Chaldee turneth it, Idols (or erroncous God's) of the people's. By these strange God's are meant idols, images, or representations of God, as appeareth by ver. 4. So those which are called the Philistines God's, which David burned, 2 Chron. 14. 12. are by another Prophet said to be their Idols, in 2 Sam. 5. 21. among you] either privily brought from Laban's house, whence Rachel had stolen her fathers God's, Gen. 31. 19. or lately taken from, and come with the captive Sechemites, which were idolaters. After this example, Joshua, Samuel, and others, purged the church of idols, when by repentance and faith, they turned and were reconciled to the Lord, Ios. 24. 23. 2 Sam. 7. 3. 4. Judge. 10. 16. cleanse] or purify, which outwardly was (according to the law) by washing in water, and other carnal rites, Levite. 15. 13. Numb. 31. 23. inwardly, by the grace and spirit of God, Psal. 51. 4. 12. Ezek. 36.

25. Heb. 10. 22. It behooveth all, to take heed to their feet, when they go to the house of God, that they give not the sacrifice of fools; Ecles. 5. 1. garments] another sign of renewing by faith and repentance: for when men came before God, their garments were either changed if they were undecent, 2 Sam. 12. 20. or otherwise, washed, Exod. 19. 10. 14. Lev. 15. 13. So are we exhorted to cleanse ourselves, from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, 2. Cor. 7. 1. and to hate even the garment spotted by the flesh, Jude, v. 23. From this practice of Jacob the Hebrew doctors have gathered a pollution by Idols, saying: Idols do defile, by the doctrine of the Scribes, and it is closely-signified in the law, (Gen. 35. 2.) put away the strange God's that are among you, and cleanse yourselves, and change your garments. And therein are four principal uncleannesses; by the Idol it self, and by the ministerial instruments thereof, and by the Oblation offered thereto, and by the wine that is poured unto it. And they defile men and vessels, by touching them, &c. Deut. 7. 26. Isaiah 30. 22. Psal. 106. 28. Deut. 32. 28. Maimonides in Misn. tom. 3. in Aboth Hatumoth, chap 6 S. 1. &c.

Vers. 3. answered me] the Chaldee translatheth, received my prayer, in the time of my distress, and his word was my help in the way which I have gone. God's answering of his people, is when by word or work, he granteth their request: as he is said to answer by fire, when by such a sign he testifieth his approbation, 1. King. 18. 24. so he answereth by giving men his blessings, Isaiah. 41. 17. 18. or delivering them from miseries, Psal. 22. 22. it is therefore more then bare hearing, as Isaiah 30. 19. when he heareth thee, he will answer thee. So here Jacob calleth the vision and oracle of God, (Gen. 28. 12. 13. &c.) his answer.

Vers. 4. earrings] idolatrous jewels, and superstitious moniment, which are to be abolished as well as idols; & which may easily be turned into Idols themselves, Hos. 2. 13. Judge. 8. 24.—27. Deut. 7. 25. and 12. 2. 3. Exod. 32. 3. 4. So by the Hebrew canons, It is commanded (they say) in Deut. 12. 2. 3. to destroy Idolatry, & the ministerial instruments thereof, and whatsoever is made for the same. And it is forbid den (by Deut. 7. 26.) to have any use (or profit) by any of these things. Maimonides treat. of Idolatry, c. 7. S. 1. 2. the oke] or, as the Greek and Chaldee do translate it, the Terebinth, (or Turpentine tree,) the tree under which afterwards Joshua set up a stone for a witness, when having cleansed the people of their idols, he made a covenant with them & gave them a law in Shechem, Ios. 24. 23. 25. 26. There also he hid them from the knowledge of his family, under an oke, that they might not easily be found: okes and other trees being consecrated in those times to religious uses, and therefore stood long unfelled. Deut. 12. 2. see Gen. 21. 33. Under such also, they sometimes buried the dead, as after in v. 8. The Greek version here addeth, Jacob hid them under the Terebinth tree in Shechem, and abolished them unto this day.

V. 5. they journeyed] the Gr. explaineth it, And Israel removed from Shechem. terror of God] that is, a mighty terror sent of God upon the cities. The Chaldee saith a terror from before the Lord. Otherwise all the cities round about, would and easily might have destroyed Jacob's family, for the massacre done at Shechem.

V. 7. El Bethel] that is, the God of Bethel before he called it Bethel, that is, God's house, Gen. 28. 19. now for addition of graces from God, he addeth to the name, calling the place God, figuratively, as being his house. The like is in Exod. 17. 15. was revealed] or, were revealed, that is, did appear in more manifest sort. Here again a word plural, is joined with the name of God, to signify the mystery of the Trinity in the unity of the godhead: see the notes on Gen. 20. 13. The Gr. translatheth it singularly, was revealed (or did appear;) so also doth the Chaldee, save that for God, it saith, the angel of God.

V. 8. nurse] sent with her from her fathers house, Gen. 24. 59. How she came to be in Jacob's family, is uncertain: the Jews say, she was sent to call Jacob home, as was promised in Gen. 27. 45. She might also come thither upon other occasion, after Rebekah's death. The oke of weeping] Hebr. Allon Bacuth: this name showeth his grief, for the death of this matron; the place also being the safest and most honorable that there he could have for such a purpose; see the notes on v. 4. & on Gen. 23. 2. The Chaldee paraphrast, for Oke, translatheth the Plain (or valley) of weeping. But the Greek turneth it an Oke: and so doth the Yerushalmi Targum. See also Gen. 12. 6.

V. 9. again] the Gr. addeth, in Luz: where he had appeared to him before, Gen. 28. 11. 12. 19. [unspec 9]

V. 10. Israel] the name given him before of the Angel, is here again given & confirmed of God: for the strengthening of Jacob's faith, and assurance of God's grace unto him, See Gen. 32. 28.

Ver. 11. Almighty] or All-sufficient: see Gen. 17. 1. The Gr. translatheth it, thy God. an assembly] or company: church of nations: the Chaldee saith, an assembly of tribes. Here God confirmeth the blessing given to Jacob by his father Isaac: and amplifieth it, see Gen. 28. 3. and 48. 3. 4. Kings] the Chaldee addeth; that shall rule over the people's: thus God giveth him the blessing of Abraham, Gen. 28. 4. and 17. 6.

Ver. 12. and] or, that is to thy seed: see Gen. 13. 15. The Chaldee explaineth it, and to thy sons: the Greek addeth through their generations.

Vers. 13. God] the Chaldee saith, the glory of the Lord: meaning the vision which now appeared unto Jacob. See Gen. 17. 22.

Vers. 14. set up] this he had done before, and now repeateth it: or as is likely, being ruined, he new repaireth it, see Gen. 28. 18. drink offering] or, a poured out-offering, an effusion: usually called a drink offering, because it was only of liquors or moist things, as the Minchah or meat-offering was of dry. And this drink-offering by the law of God, was of wine, or Sechar, Exod. 29. 40. Num. 28. 7. among the heathens sometime of blood, Psal. 16. 4. oil] to consecrate it, see Gen. 28. 18.

Vers. 15. Bethel] that is, God's house: see Gen. 28. 19. Thus he renewed the memorial of his faith and thankfulness to God, as God did before of his promises to him, v. 10. 11. 12.

Vers. 16. they journeyed] the Greek version addeth, Jacob journeyed from Baithel, and pitched his tent beyond the tower of Gader: borrowing these words from the 21. verse. a little piece] or, about a mile, as the Chaldee paraphrase explaineth it, This word is so used also in Gen. 48. 7. 2 King. 5. 19. and not elsewhere. Ephrath] a town called usually, Bethlehem, that is, The house of Bread: v. 19. some think it to have the name Ephrath of Calebs wife, so called, 1 Chron. 2. 19. 24. It hath both names in Mic. 5. 2. Bethlehem Ephrata: there Christ was borne, Matt. 2. 1. the bread of God that came from heaven, John. 6. 33. had hard child-birth] Hebrew, she was hard in her child-bearing: that is, had sore and painful labor. According to the chastisement laid on Eve and her daughters, Gen. 3. 16. It is daily to be seen, and the Philosopher observeth it, that no creature suffereth such strong pains in travel, as woman doth, (Aristot, de Animal. l. 7.) notwithstanding she shall be saved in child-bearing, if they continue in faith, &c. 1 Tim. 2. 15.

Ver. 17. midwife] named in Hebrew, of helping the woman in child-birth: so Exod. 1. 15. 16. thou shalt have] or, this also (shall be) to thee a son: as Joseph before was. And this was according to Rachel's desire; see Gen. 30. 24.

Vers. 18. departing] or going-out, from the body to God that gave it, as Eccles. 12. 7. Psal. 146. 4. This showeth the Soul of man to be a spiritual immortal substance, distinct from the body. The heath ens acknowledged this, saying, that death is nothing else, but the departing of the soul from the body, Aristot. in his book of Death: and that the souls of men are divine, and when they go out of the body, they return unto heaven: Cicero lib. de Amicit. Ben. oni] the Greek and Chaldee interprets it, Son of my sorrow. In that she answered nothing, but thus named her son; it showeth she received no comfort. The like case, was in 1 Sam. 4. 20. 21. The word oni, is after used by Jacob for his painful strength: Gen. 49. 3. Benjamin] that is, Son of the right hand: meaning loved, tendered, and especially regarded. So man of the right hand, in Psal. 80. 18. for one loved and much regarded of God. This only of all Jacob's children, was borne in the land of Canaan.

V. 20. unto this day] the time when Moses wrote this, and after in Saul's days, 1 Sam. 10. 2. About this place, at Christ's birth, many infants were murdered by Herod: then Rachel wept for her children, and would not be comforted because they were not, Ier. 31. 15. Mat. 2. 16. 18.

V. 21. Geder] or Gader as the Gr. writeth it: by interpretation the flock or herd. A tower of this name is also mentioned in Mic. 4. 8.

V. 22. concubine] a secondary wife; see Gen. 22. 24. She is called also his wife, Gē. 37. 2. By this shameful crime (such as is not once named among the heathens, 1 Cor. 5. 5.) Reuben lost his first-birth: 1 Chron. 5. 1. Gen. 49. 4. Jacob also himself, having abused Bilhah, contrary to the first institution of marriage, Gen. 30. 4. is here chastised of God: So Absalom lying with his father David's cōcubines; God thereby chastised David's sins, 2 Sam. 12. 10. 11. and 16. 22. heard it] the Greek version addeth, and it appeared evil in his sight. But in the Hebrew, nothing is said; only an empty space is left in the line, with this mark o to move consideration: as before in Gen. 4. 8. Sometime sorrow is so great, as words or signs, cannot express it, Ezek. 24. 23. and such might here be Jacob's case. Here also is a pause & breaking off, as to a new matter, even in the midst of the verse: so in Deut. 2. 8. twelve] which becoming fathers of many families, are called the twelve Patriarchs, Act. 7. 8. and the people's that came of thē, are named the twelve tribes, Act. 26. 7. and although many great evils, have already and will hereafter more appear in these sons of Israel; yet God in mercy pardoned them, and hath honored them in the scriptures with great dignities, that their names should be graven on twelve precious stones, and carried upon the hie priests heart, Exod. 28. 21. 29. and that the gates of the heavenly Ierusalē should be after the names of these twelve sons of Israel, Ezek.

48. 31. Rev. 21. 12. And their number as it was answerable to the twelve Princes that came of Ishmael, Gen. 25. 16. so is it remembered by the twelve Apostles of Christ, Luk. 6. 13. Rev. 21. 14. And although of Joseph there came two tribes, Gen. 48. 5. 6. so that after a sort, there were thirteen: yet the scripture in naming or rehearsing them, usually setteth down but twelve; omitting the name now of one, then of another, as may in sunday places be observed, Deut. 33. Ezek. 48. Rev. 7. &c.

V. 23. Issachar] of the naming and interpretation of these, see the notes on Gen. 29. and 30. Here is to be observed how Issachar & Zebulon, are set next after Judah, though Dan & Naphtali, Gad & Aser, were borne between them, Gen. 29. 35. and 30. 6. 8. 11. 13. 18. because all the sons of one mother should be set together: so they are placed also in Gen. 46. 8. 14. 15. and 49. 3. 14. (where Zebulon is before Issachar.) and Exod. 1. 2. 3. Numb. 1. 5. 9. 26. 28. 1 Chron. 2. 1. And in this order, were they graven and set on the stones upon Aaron's Ephod; see Exod. 28. 10. 21. in the annotations.

V. 26. were borne] so the Gr. expresseth it, the Hebrew being singular, was borne. So in Gen. 46. 22. Padan Aram] or Mesopotamia, see Gen. 25. 20. But here except Benjamin; for he was borne in Canaan, ver. 18. Jacob's sons, though borne out of the land, yet come thereinto, it being promised them of God, Gen. 28. 13. when Esau's sons borne in the land, do go out and give place, Gen. 36. 5. 6.

Ver. 27. Mamre] see Gen. 13. 18. and 23. 2. the Greek addeth, he being yet alive, to Mamre.

V. 29. his people's] his godly forefathers: see Gen. 25. 8. buried him] so Isaac and Ishmael buried Abraham: Gen. 25. 9. Esau & Jacob were now 120 years old, Gen. 25. 26. the world was 2288. year old. And Isaac had lived blind, above 40. years before his death, Gen. 27. 1. Which death is here mentioned, to make an end of Jacob's history: for otherwise the things following in Gen. 37. & 38. about Joseph & Judah, fell out before Isaac died.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1, The generations of Esau by his three wives. 6, His removing to mount Seir. 10, The names of his sons. 15, The Dukes which descended of his sons. 20, The sons and Dukes of Seir. 24, Anah findeth mules. 31, The Kings of Edom. 40, The Dukes that descended of Esau.

AND these, are the generations of Esau, he is Edom. Esau took his wives, of the daughters of Canaan: Adah, the daughter of Elon the Chethite; and Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeō the Evite. And Basemath the daughter of Ishmael, the sister of Nebaioth. And Adah bare to Esau, Eliphaz: and Basemath, bare Revel. And Aholibamah bare, Ieush and Iaalam, and Korah: these were the sons of Esau, which were borne unto him, in the land of Canaan. And Esau took his wives, and his sons and his daughters, and all the souls of his house; and his cattle and all his beasts, and all his substance, which he had gathered in the land of Canaan: and went unto a land; from the face, of Jacob his brother. For their substance was more, then that they might dwell together: & the land of their sojournings, was not able to bear them, because of their cattle. And Esau dwelt, in the mount of Seir; Esau, he is Edom. And these, are the generations of Esau, the father of Edom: in the mount of Seir. These are the names of the sons of Esau: Eliphaz, the son of Adah, the wife of Esau; Revel, the son of Basemath, the wife of Esau. And the sons of Eliphaz, were: Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Esau's son; and she bare to Eliphaz, Amalek: these were the sons of Adah, the wife of Esau. And these were the sons of Revel, Nachath, and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah: these were the sons of Basemath, the wife of Esau. And these were, the sons of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon, the wife of Esau: and she bare to Esau, Jeush and Iaalam, & Korah. These, were Dukes of the sons of Esau: the sons of Eliphaz, the first-borne of Esau; duke Teman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenaz. Duke Korah, duke Gatam, duke Amalek: these were the dukes of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom; these were, the sons of Adah. And these, were the sons of Revel, the son of Esau; duke Nachath, duke Zerah, duke Shammah, duke Mizzah: these were the duks of Revel, in the land of Edom; these were the sons of Basemath, the wife of Esau. And these were the sons of Aholibamah, the wife of Esau; duke Jeush, duke Iaalam, duke Korah: these were the dukes of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the wife of Esau. These were the sons of Esau; and these the dukes of them, he is Edom.

These were the sons of Seir, the Chorite; the inhabitants of the land: Lotan and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah. And Dishon & Ezer, and Dishan: these were the dukes of the Chorites; the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom. And the sons of Loton were Chori and Hemam: & the sister of Lotan, was Timna. And these were, the sons of Shobal; Alvan and Manachath, and Ebal: Shepho, and Onam. And these were the sons of Zibeon, both Ajah and Anah: this Anah, was he that found the mules in the wilderness; when he fed the asses, of Zibeon his father. And these were the sons of Anah, Dishon, and Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah. And these were the sons of Dishan: Chemdan and Eshban, and Iethran and Ceran. These were, the sons of Ezer: Bilhan & Zaavan, and Akan. These were, the sons of Dishan; Vz & Aran. These were, the dukes of the Chorites: duke Lotan, duke Shobal, duke Zibeon, duke Anah. Duke Dishon, duke Ezer, duke Dishan: these were, the dukes of the Chorites, according to their dukes, in the land of Seir.

And these were the Kings, which reigned in the land of Edom: before there reigned any King, of the sons of Israel. And there reigned in Edom, Bela the son of Beor: and the name of his city was, Dinhabah. And Bela died: and there reigned in his stead, Jobab the son of Zerach, of Bozrah. And Jobab died: and there reigned in his stead, Chusham, of the land of Temani. And Chusham died: and there reigned in his stead, Hadad the son of Bedad, who smote Midian, in the field of Moab; and the name of his city was, Avith. And Hadap died: and there reigned in his stead, Samlah of Masrekah. And Samlah died: and there reigned in his stead, Saul, of Rechoboth by the river. And Saul died: and there reigned in his stead, Baal-chanan, the son of Achbor. And Baal-chanan the son of Achbor, died: and there reigned in his stead, Hadar; and the name of his city was Paü: and the name of his wife, Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Me-zahab. And these were the names of the dukes of Esau, according to their families; according to their places, by their names: duke Timna, duke Alvah, duke Ietheth. Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon. Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar. Duke Magdiel, duke Iram: These were the dukes of Edom, according to their habitations, in the land of their possession; he is Esau, the father of Edom.

Annotations.

Generations] a rehearsal of Esau's of-spring, whereby the promise to Abraham for multiplication, Gen. 22. 17. the Oracle given to Rebekah, concerning two nations that were in her won be, Gen. 25. 23. and the blessing of Isaac bestowed upon Esau, Gen. 27. 39. 40. may be seen in great measure accomplished: with the different estate of the children of this world, from the children of God. This same genealogy is again repeated in 1 Chro. 1. 35. &c. Edom] the name and note of his profaneness, see Gen. 25. 30.

V. 2 of Canaan] that is, as the Gr. translatheth, of the Canaanites; contrary to the will of God, of Abrahā, and of Isaac his father; for the Canaanites were a cursed race, Gen. 9. 25. and 24. 3. and 28. 1.

Adah, &c.] in Gen. 26. 34. Esau's wives had other names, which in those times was usual; as Esau himself, is called Edom: Jacob, is called Israel. Maacah daughter of Abishalom, 1 King. 15. 2. is called Micaiah daughter of Uriel, 2 Chro. 13. 2. and many the like. Zibeon] called in Gr. Sebegon: he was grandfather to Aholibamah, father to Anah: so there was a difference between these, & Anah & Zibeon which were brethren, v. 20. Evite] or Chiwite in Ge. 26. 34. called a Chethite: which though they were distinct people's, (Gen. 10. 15. 16.) yet might they dwell one in another's territories. Therefore in Gen. 26. 34. for Elon a Chethite, the Greek there translatheth Evite.

V. 3. Basemath] called also Machalath, Gen. 28. 9. Revel] or Reguel, in Greek Ragonel.

Vers. 5. land of Canaan] though they were there borne, and of Canaanitish mothers, yet they went out of the land; and Jacob's sons borne in Mesopotamia, came in to possess it, as their inheritance given of God, Gen. 35. 26. and 37. 1.

Vers. 6. took] or, had taken, to weet, before Jacob's coming; as appeareth by Gen. 32. 3. and 33. 14 God's providence thus making way, for to fulfill the promises unto Jacob: Gen. 28. 4. 13. souls] that is, persons: in Greek, bodies: see Gen. 12. 5. and 46. 26. unto a land] that is, as the Chaldee expoundeth it, to another land: or he went from the land; and so the Greek translatheth it, from the land of Canaan. For though the Hebrew (el) usually signifieth unto; yet such words often vary their sense, as the text it self sometime showeth. For that which in 1 King. 8. 30. is el, unto (or in) thy dwelling place, unto heaven, in 2 Chron. 6. 21. is written, from thy dwelling place, from heaven. So, the Redeemer shall come unto Zion, Isaiah 59. 20. is by the Apostle translated, out of Zion, Rom. 11. 26. Also in 2 Chron. 1. 13. to the high place, is in Greek according to the sense there, from the high place; so in Judge. 17. 2. taken from thee: and sundry the like. from the face] or, from before, which may mean before his coming: as Gen. 30. 30.

Vers. 7. more then, &c.] or, much, for to dwell together. A like occasion parted Lot and Abram, Gen. 13. 6. of their sojournings] that is, wherein they were sojourners.

Vers. 8. of Seir] a man, mentioned verse. 20. who dwelling there, the mountain country was called by his name: and to Esau God gave this mount for a possession, Ios. 24. 4. Deut. 2. 5.

V. 9. of Edom] that is, as the Chaldee expounds it, of the Edomites: see Gen. 19. 37. in the annotations.

Vers. 11. Zepho] called Zephi, 1 Chron. 1. 36. The Greek here nameth them, Thaiman, Omar, Sophar, Gothom, and Kenez.

Vers. 12. Timna] she was sister to Lotan, of the race of the Chorites, verse. 22. Amalek] he was a Duke, verse. 16. his posterity were called Amalekites, and proved great enemies to Israel, Exod. 17. 8. 14. God therefore commanded the memory of them to be blotted out from under heaven, Deut. 25. 17. 19.

Vers. 13. Revel, &c.] in Greek these are named Ragouel, Nachoth, Zare, Some, and Moze; (or Samme and Maze, as 1 Chron. 1. 37.)

Vers. 14. Iaalam] in Greek, Ieglom, and Kore. [unspec 15]

Vers. 15. dukes] that is, Governors, Chief-leaders; but inferior to Kings. A Duke is named in Hebrew Alluph, that is, a Chief-leader, or Guide, or Captain of a thousand; in Chaldee Rabba, a Master: in Greek Hegemon, a Ruler or Governor. Here fourteen Duke are reckoned to Esau; seven that came of his wife Adah; four of Basemath, and three of Aholibamah.

Vers. 16. Korah] in v. 18. there is another Duke of this name, that came of another mother. Albeit there is no mention of this Korah before among Eliphaz his children, v. 11. 12. neither in 1 Chr. 1. 36. unless he there bear the name of Timna.

Vers. 19. he Edom] the Greek translatheth, these are the sons of Edom.

Vers. 20. the Chorite] or Chorean, whereof see Gen. 14. 6. these seem to be of the Evites fore-mentioned, v. 2. for Zibeon there called an Evite, cometh of this race here, and in v. 24. inhabitants] in Greek, singularly, the inhabitant. Zibeon] in Greek Sebegon.

Vers. 21. Dishon] called after, Dishan, ver. 26. the Greek in both places calleth-him Deson. Ezer] in Greek Asar. Dishan] in Greek Rison: see the notes on Gen. 4. 18. So after in verse. 28 30.

Vers. 22. Hemam] called Homam, in 1 Chron. 1. 39. Here in Greek Haiman: in 1 Chron. 1. 39. Heman. Timnah] in Greek Thamna, concubine to Eliphaz son of Esau: verse. 12. So he and his father Esau (verse. 2.) marrying into the stock of the Chorites; therefore is this genealogy set down. That the occasion may be seen, how Esau and his seed, came to inherit the Chorites land in mount Seir: Deut. 2. 12. and so got his living by his sword Gen. 27. 40.

Vers. 23. Alvan] called Aljan. 1 Chron. 1. 40. in Greek Golom. Shepho] called Shephi, 1 Chr. 1. 40. in Greek Sophar: but in 1 Chron. 1. 40. the Greek is, Sapphi.

Vers. 24. both Ajah] Hebr. and Ajah: the Greek omitteth the word and, as superfluous, saying, the sons of Shebegon, Aie, and Onan. The Hebrew text doth the like, in 1 Chron. 1. 40. and in other places, as 2 King. 11. 1. and 2 Chron. 13 1. compared with 2 Chron. 22. 10. and 1 King. 15. 1. So in Gen. 40. 9. Anah] father in law to Esau, ver. 2. mules] The Hebr. Iemin, is nowhere found but in this place: mules elsewhere are called Peradim, 1 King. 10. 25. 2 King. 5. 17. It is therefore doubted what Iemim here meaneth. And the Greek leaveth it untranslated, Iamein, as not knowing what it should be. The Chaldee turneth it Gibbaraja, that is, Mighties, or Giants, as the word is used, Gen. 6. 4. Others, because Iemim hath affinity with I am the Sea, and majim, waters, translate it hot-waters, or bathes, which Anah should find in the desert. But because it is known that mules are engendered of the mixture of horses and asses, or of heasses and mares, as Pliny showeth in Histor. b. 8. ch. 44. (translated commonly therefore in Greek hemionous, that is, half-asses, 1 King. 10. 25. &c.) and mules of themselves are barren, and do not increase, as the Philosopher noteth, Arist. de Animal. l. 15. it is likely they were not created at the first of God; because he gave all such creatures this blessing, to be fruitful and to multiply, Gen. 1. 22. 28. and 8. 17. And that therefore they were found out by the wit of this man; who feeding his fathers asses, caused them to ingender with another kind, as horses, which was both against nature, as first God set everything according to his kind, Gen. 1. 24. and 6. 19. 20. and against the plain law, which he after gave unto Israel, Levite. 19. 19. thou shalt not let thy cattle engender with a diverse kind. And the name Iemim first given them by Anah, might be changed into Peradim, which hath the signification of Parted, or Separated; as differing from all other beasts.

Vers. 26. Dishan] called Dishon: verse. 21. and 1 Chron. 1. 41. in Greek Deson. Chemdan] called also Chamram, 1 Chron. 1. 41. d changed into r, as is often: see Gen. 10. 3. In Greek Amada; and Amadam, 1. Chron. 1. 41. Cerán] pronounced Keran, or Cran: in Greek Charran.

Vers. 27. Akan] called Iakan, 1 Chron. 1. 42. in Greek here Oukam: and in 1 Chron. 1. 42. Ilakan.

Vers. 28. Aran.] Thus have we here of Seir seven sons and a daughter, and again of those seven, nineteen sons and a daughter. All which for Esau's sake, are registered in the book of God.

Vers. 29. Chorites] Hebr. Chorite: singular for plural, as verse. 21. see Gen. 10. 16. The Greek keepeth the singular, Chorri.

Vers. 30. their Dukes] that is, their kingdoms, as the Greek translateth it. For these 7 sons of Seir, had their Dukedomes at one time, in several places: and did not one succeed another; as the Kings that follow. So King in Isaiah 23. 15. is used for the Kingdom of Babylon: and four Kings, in Dan. 7. 17. are four kingdoms, as the Holy Ghost there expoundeth it, in verse. 23. the fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom: and the throne of the Kings, 2 King. 11. 19. is by another Prophet called, the throne of the kingdom; 2 Chron. 23. 20.

Vers. 31. of the sons] or, to (that is, over or among) the sons of Israel; the Greek saith, in Israel: that is, before Moses time, for he was King in Ieshurun: Deut. 33. 5. Thus Esau after his Dukes, had of his posterity 8 Kings, which successively ruled their people; whiles Israel was in affliction in Egypt, Exod. 1. &c.

Vers. 32. Bela] in Greek Balak: and in 1 Chron. 1. 43. instead of Beor, the Greek hath Sepphor, according to the name of the King of Moab, in Numb. 22. 2.

Vers. 33. Bozrah] a chief City in the land of Edom, Isaiah 34. 6. and 63. 1. in Greek called Bosora.

Vers. 34. of Temani] that is, of the Temanites: which had the name of Duke Teman, Esau's Nephew, verse 15. Of this land was Eliphaz, Job's friend, Job 2. 11. By interpretation Teman signifieth the South: and so the Chaldee here taketh it. The Gr. translatheth, Asom of the land of Thaimanon.

Vers. 35. Bedad] in Greek here Barad: but in 1 Chron. 1. 46. Badad. smote] that is, killed, as the Chaldee and Greek explain: see Gen. 14. 17. field] that is, country; see Gen. 14. 7. Avith] called Ajith, 1 Chron. 1. 46. in Greek here Gethaim: but in 1 Chron. 1. 46. Ebith.

Vers. 36. Samlah] in Greek Samada of Massekka: in 1 Chr: 1. 47. Samaa of Meserika.

Vers. 37. Rechoboth] a City built by Nimrod, Gen. 10. 11. in Greek, Robooth. It was by the River Euphrates, as the Chaldee expoundeth it.

Vers. 38. Baal-ghanan] the same name by transplacing the parts of it, is Hannibal (Channibaal) of which name were sundry Captains afterward, as in the story of the Carthaginean wars. The Greek saith here Ballaenon, in 1 Chron. 1. 49. Balenon son of Achobor.

Vers. 39. Hadar] called Hadad, 1 Chron. 1. 50. The Greek is, Arad son of Barad. Pau] called also Pai, 1. Chron. 1. 50. in Greek Phogor; but in 1. Chron. 1. 50. Phaoul. In that these Kings were of so sundry Cities, it appeareth their Kingdoms came not by inheritance, but either by election of the people; or gotten by conquest, according to the Oracle, by thy sword shalt thou live, Gen. 27. 40. daughter of Me-zahab] by daughter some understand neece: others take Mezahab for the name of a City. Medava, named of golden waters, which the word signifieth; a daughter (or inhabitant) whereof she was. The Greek here translatheth Son of Maizook, in 1 Chron. 1. daughter: in Chaldee, daughter of the Gold-melter (or Gold smith.) In 1 Chron. 1. 51. there is added the death of this Hadar, here omitted; as, And Hadad died.

Vers. 40. the Dukes] after eight Kings, it seemeth the form of government was again changed among the Edomites, though it is uncertain when it was. At Israel's coming out of Egypt, they mention the Dukes of Edom, Ex. 15. 15. and as they passed through the wilderness, they sent to the King of Edom, Num. 20. 14. and here it was said, these 8 Kings reigned in Edom before any king reigned in Israel, v. 31. It is likely therefore, that upon the unkind dealing of that King of Edom, (w<sup>ch</sup> seemeth to be Hadar) who denied to let Israel pass through their Land: the Lord removed the dignity of Kings from that common-wealth, and let it be ruled by Dukes again; whereof eleven are here by name rehearsed. families] the Greek saith, in their tribes. Timna] in Greek Thamna: and Thaiman, in 1 Chron. 1. 51. Alva] called Alja, 1 Chron. 1. 51. in Greek Gola: and there, Aloua. Ietheth] in Greek Iethar.

Vers. 41. Aholibamah] the Greek writeth these names here, Olibemas, Helas, Phinon: & in 1 Chr. 1. 52. Elibama, Hela, Phinon.

Vers. 42. Mibzar] in Greek Mazar. [unspec 42]

Vers. 43. Iram] in Greek here Zaphoei: but in 1 Chron. 1. 54. Areraman. habitations] which the Greek translatheth aedifices, that is, built habitations. possession] or, firm-hold: whereas Jacob and his children dwelt in the land of their peregrination or sojournings, verse. 7. Gen. 37. 1. and 28.

4. God thus giving Esau his portion first in this world; and after, doing good unto Israel, Deut. 2. 5. &c. See also Gen. 25. 12.

AND Jacob dwelt, in the land of the sojournings of his father: in the land of Canaan. These are the generations of Jacob; Joseph being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren, and he was a lad; with the sons of Bilhah and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought their evil report, unto his Father. And Israel, loved Joseph, more than all his sons; because he was the son of old age, unto him: and he made him a coat of many-colors. And his brethren saw, that their Father loved him, more than all his brethren; and they hated him: and could not speak to him, with peace. And Joseph dreamed a dream; and he told it to his brethren, and they hated him, yet the more. And he said unto them; Hear I pray you this dream, which I have dreamed. For behold, we were binding sheaves, within the field; and loe my sheaf arose, and also stood upright: and loe your sheaves, compassed-about; and bowed-down themselves to my sheaf. And his brethren said to him; shalt thou reigning reign over us, or ruling rule over us? and they hated him, yet the more; for his dreams, and for his words. And he dreamed yet, another dream; and told it to his brethren: and said, behold I have dreamed yet a dream; and behold, the Sun and the Moon, and eleven Stars, bowed-down themselves unto me. And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his father rebuked him, and said unto him; what a dream is this, which thou hast dreamed? shall I, and thy mother and thy brethren, coming come, to bow-down ourselves to thee, to the earth? And his brethren, envied him: but his father observed the saying. And his brethren went, to feed their father's flock, in Shechem. And Israel said, unto Joseph; do not thy brethren feed in Shechem? Come, and I will send thee unto them: and he said to him, loe here am I. And he said to him; Go I pray thee, see the peace of thy brethren, and the peace of the flock; and bring me word again: and he sent him from the valley of Chebron, and he came to Shechem. And a man found him; and behold he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him saying, what seekest thou? And he said, I am seeking my brethren: tell me, I pray thee, where are they feeding? And the man said, they are departed hence, for I heard them saying, Let us go to Dothan: And Joseph, went after his brethren; and found them in Dothan. And they saw him, a far off: and before he came-near unto them, they craftily-conspired against him, to slay him. And they said each man unto his brother: behold, this master of dreams is coming. And now, come and let us kill him, and cast him into one of the pits; and we will say, an evil wild-beast hath eaten him, and we shall see, what his dreams will be. And Reuben heard it; and he delivered him, out of their hand: and said, let us not smite him, in soul. And Reuben said unto them; Shed no blood; cast him, into this pit which is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him: that, he might deliver him, out of their hand; to return him unto his father. And it was, when Joseph was come unto his brethren: that they stripped Joseph out of his coat: the coat of many colors; which was on him. And they took him, and cast him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it. And they sate-down, to eat bread: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw; and behold, a way faring company of Ishmaelites, was coming from Gilead: and their camels bearing, spicery, and balm and myrrh; going to carry it down to Egypt. And Judah said, unto his brethren: what profit is it, if we kill our brother, and conceal his blood? Come, & let us sell him to the Ishmaelites; and let not our hand be upon him; for he is our brother, our flesh: & his brethren hearkened. And there passed by, Midianites merchant men; and they drew, and lifted-up Joseph, out of the pit; and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites, for twenty (shekels) of silver: and they brought Joseph, into Egypt. And Reuben returned, unto the pit; and behold Joseph, was not in the pit: and he rent his clothes. And he returned unto his brethren, and said: the lad is not; and I, whither shall I go? And they took Joseph's coat: and killed a kid of the goats; and dipped the coat in the blood. And they sent the coat of many-colors, and they brought it to their father; and said, this have we found: know now, whether it be thy sons coat, or no. And he knew it, and said, it is my sons coat; an evil wild-beast hath eaten him: Joseph is torn is torn-in-pieces. And Jacob rent his garments, and put sackcloth upon his loins: and mourned for his son, many days. And all his sons, and all his daughters, rose-up to comfort him; and he refused to be comforted: and he said, for I will go down unto my son, mourning, to hell: and his father wept for him. And the Medanites sold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an Eunuch of Pharaohs; the Provost Marshall.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the ninth section of the Law, called And (Jacob) dwelt. See Gen. 6. 9. and 28. 10.

Vers. 1. of the sojournings] or pilgrimages, that is, (as the Geeke saith) wherein his father Isaac sojourned: so Gen. 17. 8. and 28. 4. Hereby God's remembrance of his promise to Jacob, and providence for him is manifested, Gen. 28. 13. and 36. 6. 7. also Jacob's faith, Heb. 11. 9. Psal. 37. 3.

Vers. 2. These] which are rehearsed in Gen. 35. 23.—26. for this is a prosecuting of that history, which was by narration of Esau's pedigree, interrupted: or, these which follow, are the generations, that is, the story of things which did befall him: see Gen. 6. 9. and 25. 9. old] Hebr. son of 17. year: see Gen. 5. 32. As his father nourished him a child 17. years, so he again nourished his aged father 17. years in Egypt, Gen. 47. 9. 28. alad] or young man: which word is used not only for young in years, but often for a servant, or minister, see Gen. 14. 24. In this sense, it noteth Joseph's humility; and how his father, though he loved him most, yet brought him up without idleness, or cockering. So Christ the Son of man, came not to be served, but to serve: Matth. 20. 28. report] or infamy: their infamous carriage, which caused ill report of them. It intimateth Joseph's good affection, and godliness. And this was one occasion, which his brethren took to hate him. So Christ was hated of the world, for testifying that the works thereof were evil, John. 7. 7.

Vers. 3. of old-age unto him] that is, of his old-age, borne when his father was old: so Gen. 44. 20. The Chaldee applieth this old age, to Joseph's manners, saying, he was a wise son unto him. And others say, was not Benjamin also a son of old age? But because (Jacob) saw by (the spirit of) prophesy, that Joseph should reign, therefore he loved him, above all his sons, Pirkei R. Eliez. ch. 38. many colors] Hebr. passim, that is, varieties, and so the Greek hath (poikilon,) various or manifold, to wear, in threads and color; an embroidered coat; such kings daughters used to wear, 2 Sam. 13. 18. Such God spiritually clotheth his Church withal, Psal. 45. 14. 15. Ezek. 16, 10. 13. and thereby is signified the variety of wisdom and manifold graces given to his people, Ephes. 3. 10. 1 Pet. 4. 10. Song 1. 9. 10. And Christ had such, above his fellows, Psal. 45. 8. Heb. 1. 9.

Vers. 4. with peace] or, unto peace, that is, peaceably, gently, lovingly: for of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaketh, Matth. 12. 34. The Greek translatheth, no peaceable thing.

Vers. 5. dreamed] by such means God used of old to show unto men, what he was about to do; Gen. 41. 25. Iocl 2. 28. Numb. 12. 6. 1 King. 3. 5. Such dreams were to be regarded as oracles of God: other, have their deceits and vanities: see Gen. 20. 3. And God sent dreams to his people, sometime to comfort, sometime to chasten, and afflict the <...> Matt. 2. 19.—22. Job 7. 13. 14. the more] Hebr. they added yet to hate him. So Christ and his disciples for declaring God's word, were hated of men, as John. 17. 14. I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them. This story of Joseph is a pattern of afflictions, which the godly suffer in this world for Christ's sake and for the word of their testimony: and it ministereth comforts to the distressed.

V. 7. binding] Hebr. sheaving, or sheaf-binding. This being harvest work, and harvest usually signifying the latter time or end, Psal. 126. 5. 6. Matt. 13. 39. Rev. 14. 15. God foreshowed, not the present but future honor which Joseph should have, after many days of sorrow. Also when his brethren went into Egypt for corn, this dream was fulfilled. Gen. 42. 6. within] or, in the midst of a field. compassed] or stood-round about: and this is a sign of honor to him that is compassed. Therefore the testimonial of God's glorious presence, usually is in the midst; and others stand about, Num. 2. 17. Rev. 4. 3. 4. So Exod. 18. 13. Ps. 7. 8. & 142. 8. bowed down] or did obeisance: as was fulfilled in Gen. 42. 6.

Vers. 8. reigning reign] that is, in deed reign: so after, in deed rule: and in verse 10. in deed come. They apply this dream unto themselves, (as did also the Madianites, Judge. 7. 13. 14) which aggravated their sin, in resisting God's manifested will, John. 15. 22. The manner of speaking, is also a denial: shalt thou reign? that is, thou shalt not: see Gen. 18. 17. Thus Moses, and Christ himself, were refused by their people, Act. 7. 27. 35. Luk. 19. 14.

Vers. 10. brethren] Abraham's seed were likened to stars for multitude, Gen. 22. 17. here Jacob's children are likened to stars, for glory, shining as lights in the world, Phil. 2. 15. and in Dan. 8. 10. they are also the host of heaven. Jacob and his wife are here the sun and moon; such honor God vouchsafeth to his contemned servants. And Joseph in this, as in many other particulars, may resemble Jesus, at whose name all knees must bow, Phil. 2. 10.

Vers. 11. observed] laid it to heart, howsoever for the present, he gave his son a light rebuke; not fully perceiving the end of the thing. Thus is it spoken also of Mary the mother of Christ, Luke 2. 19. 51.

Vers. 14. the peace] that is, the welfare, or how they prosper: as the Greek explaineth it, if they be well. See Gen. 41. 16. As Joseph here, so Christ was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, not only to know, but to procure their peace, Matt. 15. 24. Luk. 19. 42. to Shechem] which was about 60. English miles, distant from Chebron. There also was that great massacre committed a while before, by Jacob's sons, Gen. 34. The danger of the place, might make Jacob more careful to inquire of their welfare.

V. 15. a man] The Hebrew Doctors understand this of the Angel Gabriel, called in Dan. 9. 21. the man Gabriel: Pirket R. Eliez. ch. 38. but this is uncertain.

Vers. 16. seeking my brethren] this setteth forth Joseph's care & diligence. So the Son of man came, to seek and save that which was lost: Luk. 19. 10.

Vers. 17. Dothan] or Dothain; for both ways it is written. The Greek calleth it Dothaim. It was a place about 8. miles from Shechem. In this town was Elizeus the Prophet, 2 King. 6. 13.

Vers. 18. craftily conspired] or malignantly, as the Greek translation saith. This word is also used in Psal. 105. 25. and Num. 25. 18. of the Egyptians and Madianites, craftily plotting against the Israelites. So the husbandmen conspired the death of the Son of God, Luk. 20. 14. This is the heir, come let us kill him.

Vers. 19. master of dreams] this they speak in mockage: the Greek translatheth it, a dreamer. The Hebrew phrase meaneth one that hath great skill in dreaming, or a captain dreamer: as his brethren, are after called masters of arrows, that is, cunning archers, for their malicious practices against him, Gen. 49. 23. and a master of anger, is an angry furious man, Prov. 22. 24. and 29. 22.

Vers. 20. one of the pits] or, some pit; this setteth forth their inhumane cruelty, that would kill their brother, and not vouchsafe him honest burial: to which they next add, a lie to dissemble their murder; and a contempt of the oracles of GOD, which they sought and thought to defeat. So running headlong together, into a world of wickedness: envy carrying them, Acts 7. 9. Gen. 49. 23.

Vers. 21. delivered him] to weet, in respect of death which they intended against him. in soul] that is, so as to take away his life: smite him dead. A like phrase is in Ier. 40. 14. Deut. 19. 6 11. for which in Numb. 35. 11. 15. is said, to smite a soul; so also in Levite. 24. 17. 18. where soul, is put for the life of man or beast. See Gen. 19. 17. Smiting is used for killing, Gen. 4. 15.

Vers. 22. that] or, to the end that. The Greek addeth, so he sought, that he might deliver him. It appeareth by Gen. 42. 22. that Reuben exhorted them to more then they would yield unto.

Vers. 23. stripped Joseph] so Jesus also was stripped by the wicked, Mat. 27. 28. Here Joseph, in the anguish of his soul, besought his brethren, for favor, but they would not hear him. Genes. 42. 21.

Vers. 24. no water] into such a dungeon was Jeremiah put, Ier. 38. 6. and out of such a pit in figure, God delivereth his people, as Zechariah 9. 11. I have sent forth thy prisoners, out of the pit, wherein is no water.

Vers. 25. eat bread] so do the wicked, eating God's people, Psal. 14. 4. This showeth they wanted remorse, or sought (at least) to put it away with banqueting, as eating of bread sometime signifieth, Exod. 18. 12. See also Gen. 25. 34. way-faring-company of Ism.] the Greek translatheth, wayfaring Ishmaelites, and the Chaldee calleth them a troupe of Arabians. After in verse 28. they are called Madianites, and in verse 36. Medanites, so they were a mixed people, dwelling in that country, called therefore by the Chaldee Arabians which signifieth Mixed people, see Gen. 10. 7. Gilead] which was a place of merchandise, as appeareth also in Ier. 8. 22. and 22. 6. and 46. 11. spicerie] in Hebrew Necoth, which is thought to be a certain fruit of some, wax. baum] or rosin, as the Greek translatheth it: a thing good to heal wounds, Ier. 8. 22. and 46. 11. and 51. 8. myrrh] or Ladanum, which is a sat moisture on the herb Ladum, or, the fruit of the Lot tree, according to the Hebrew name, Lot. So Gen. 43. 11. Or according to the Greek Stacte, (commonly called Storax liquida) which is made of the fat of new myrrh, as Dioscorides saith in b. 1. c. 62.

V. 26. conceal] or, cover, (hide) his blood, Job 16. 18. [unspec 27]

Vers. 27. hearkened] or, heard, and so consented, and obeyed.

Vers. 28. Midianites] children of Midian Abraham's son by Keturah, Genes. 25. 2. who dwelt in the Ishmaelites country, (which also were Abraham's children by Hagar, Gen. 16. 15. therefore they are here called by both names. So in Judge. 8. 22. 24. 26. It may also be translated thus, And the men, the Midianite merchants, passed by. shekels] or shillings: this word the Chaldee expresseth, which wanteth in the Hebrew. What a shekel was, see noted on Genes. 20. 16. Christ's price was a little more, whom Judas Iscariot sold for 30. shekels, Mat. 27. 3. yet that was but the price of a slaves life, Exod. 21. 32. here Joseph is by the counsel of his brother Judas the Patriarch, sold for a slave, Psal. 105. 17. for twenty shekels. After by the law, men's persons of Joseph's age, were in case of vows, valued at twenty shekels, Levite. 27 5. but those were shekels of the sanctuary, double the value of common shekels. The Hebrew Doctors refer unto this, that threatening against Israel, because they sold the just one for silver; and the poor for a pair of shoes, Amos 2. 6. and they feign, that of the 20. shekels, every of the ten Patriarchs had two shekels, to buy shoes for their feet: Pirkei R. Eliez. ch. 38.

Vers. 29. rent his clothes] a sign of sorrow, and renting of the heart with grief, Joel 2. 13. So Jacob did, v. 34 & others, Job 2. 12. Gen. 44. 13. Num. 14. 6

Vers. 30. is not] to weet, alive: so he thought; and so the phrase signifieth, Ier. 31. 15. for he supposed, his brethren had killed him: as verse 20.

Vers. 31. a kid] or, goat-bucke. By this policy, Jacob should suppose his son was dead, and and make no further inquiry after him.

Vers. 33. is torn is torn] or, tearing is torn, that is, surely torn: the Chaldee saith, killed. This is added to all Jacob's former sorrows, and one of the most grievous; for which he admitted no comfort; verse 35. Isaac also was yet alive, and a partaker of his son Jacob's grief. See the notes on Gen. 35. 29.

Vers. 34. sackcloth] another sign of sorrow, with which they sometime added earth or ashes upon their heads, 2. Sam. 3. 31. 1 King. 21. 27. Nehem. 9. 1. Est. 4. 1.

Vers. 35. all his sons] the evil doers counterfeit sorrow, and conceal their cruel fact, Reuben himself also keepeth counsel. The Rabbin's say, they had bound themselves by a curse not to bewray it. R. Eiezer. per. 38. to hell] or, to the grave: the word meaneth not the grave digged or made with hands, named in Hebrew Keber; but the common place, or state of death, here called in Hebrew Sheol; which hath the signification of craving or requiring, because it is one of the four things that are never satisfied, Prov. 30. 15. 16. The Greek, and New Testament usually translate it Hades or Hades, which word is by change of letters, formed of the Hebrew Adam, and Adamah, the earth, unto which for sin, God hath condemned Adam and all his race to return, Gen. 3. 19. For so in the first book of the ancient Greek oracles of Sibylla, it is said: they call it Haden, for that Adam first went thither, when he tasted death. As Abram, is in Greek Habram, Gen. 12. 1. and Habraam, Luk. 3. 34. and Mizraim, in Greek is Misrain, Gen. 10. 6. Hemam, is Haiman, Gen. 36. 22. so of Adam they formed Haiden, and after the Greek termination Hades, or Hades: such changes of letters are usual. The Chaldee paraphrase; (when it keepeth not the Hebrew word,) most commonly translateth it the house of the grave, or place of burial. Our English, cometh from the old Saxon or German word Helle: in which tongues originally Hel signifieth High and Deepe; Leh, is low: and so it meaneth a low or deep place; and agreeth with the Hebrew Sheol, which is said to be Low and Deepe, Deut. 32. 22. Job 11. 8. And as death is appointed for all men, so is this Sheol, Psal 89. 49. Eccles. 9. 10. as death is sometime desired of the godly, so Job desired to be hid in Sheol, Job 14. 13. By this Hell therefore in Scripture, is not meant the place of the damned only, but of all that go out of this world: as Sibylla in the fore-named place, saith, all earthly men are said to go into the houses of Hades. And as for the wicked, they have a prison, 1 Pet. 3. 19. and place of torments, in hell, Luk. 16. 23. which the Scripture calleth everlasting fire, Mat. 25. 41. and by another Hebrew name, Gehenna; whereof see Mat. 5. 22. the Greeks called that place Tartaros, Homer. Iliad. 8. unto which word the Apostle hath reference, in 2 Pet. 2. 4. Tartaros, He cast them down (to Hell or) into Tartarus. So on the contrary, Heaven is not only the place of the Angels, and holy men, but generally all above us, as the air, spheres, &c. where the fowls fly, and the sun and stars run their courses, as is shown on Gen 1. 7. And the place of joys in heaven, is called the garden of Eden, or Paradise, Luk. 23. 43. to which the heathens alluded by the garden of Alcinous: Homer, Odys. 7. Jacob therefore by going, down to hell, meaneth a departing out of this life into the common place and state of death, whither all must go. So after in Gen. 42. 38. and 44. 29. 31. See also the annotations on Psal. 16. 10.

Vers. 36. Medianites] which were the posterity of Medan, the son of Abraham, and brethren to the Medianites before mentioned, verse. 28. Gen. 25. 1. 2. these were mixed in dwelling with the Ishmaelites, as they were generally before called in verse 25. Eunuch] properly and commonly this word is used for a gelded man, Isaiah. 56. 3. 4. 5. Mat. 19. 12. and is borrowed of the Greek Eunouchos, which signifieth a keeper of the bed, or Chamberlain: in Hebrew he is called Saris. Such gelded men they used to have in Kings courts, for Chamberlaines to keep their women, Est. 2. 3. and 4. 4. But in Israel, the law allowed not such, Deut. 23. 1. Through custom, the name was also given to other chief officers and courtiers, as here to Potiphar, who was a married man, Gen. 39. 7. and after to the kings chief butler and baker, Gen. 40. 2. Therefore the Chaldee here translates it Rabba, a Prince, or Officer. Provost Marshal] or prince of the slaughter men; or Captain of the guard: he was an officer that kept malefactors in prison, Gen. 40. 3. and was sent with a band of men to do execution upon rebels: 2 King. 25. 8. 10. Or, as the Greek translatheth it, the chief Cook: for so the Hebrew word is sometime used for a Cook that killeth and dresseth meat, 1 Sam. 9. 23. and 8. 13.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1. Judas marrieth a Canaanitess, and begetteth of her Er, Onan, and Selah. 6, Er marrieth Tamar, and dieth. 8, Onan marrieth her, and for spilling his seed: the Lord slayeth him. 11, Tamar stayeth for Selah, but is not given to him to wife, 13, wherefore she deceiveth Judas, who supposing her to be an whore, lieth with her. 24, He hearing she was with child, would have had her burnt. 26, but knowing himself to be the father, he acknowledgeth his fault. 27, She beareth twins, Pharez and Zarah.

AND it was in that time; that Judah went down from his brethren: and turned-in to a man an Adullamite, and his name was Hirah. And Judah saw there, a daughter of a man a Canaanite, and his name was Shuah: and he took her, and went-in unto her. And she conceived, and bare a son: and he called his name Er. And she conceived again, and bare a son: and she called his name Onan. And she added again, and bare a son; and she called his name, Selah: and he was in Chezib, when she bare him. And Judah took a wife, to Er his first borne: and her name was Tamar. And Er Judah's first borne, was evil in the eyes of Jehovah: and Jehovah slew him. And Judah said unto Onan; go in unto thy brothers wife, and mary her: and raise-upseed to thy brother. And Onan knew, that the seed should not be his: and it was, when he went in unto his brothers wife, that he spilled it on the earth; that he might not give seed to his brother. And that which he did, was evil in the eyes of Jehovah: and he slew him also. And Judah said to Tamar his daughter in law; Remain a widow in thy fathers house; till Selah my son, be grown great; for he said, lest he also die, as his brethren: and Tamar went; and remained, in her fathers house. And the days were multiplied; and the daughter of Shua Judah's wife, died: and Judah was comforted, and went up unto his sheep shearers, he, and Hirah his friend the Adullamite, to Timnath. And it was told unto Tamar, saying: behold thy father-in-law, is going up to Timnath, to sheare his sheep. And she put-away the garments of her widowhood, from upon her; and covered her with a veil, and wrapped her self; and sate in the opening of Enaim, which is by the way to Timnath: for she saw, that Selah was grown great; and she, was not given unto him, to wife. And Judah saw her; and thought her, to be an harlot: because she had covered her face. And he turned-aside unto her, by the way; and said, Grant I pray thee, that I may come in unto thee; for he knew not, that she was his daughter-in-law: and she said, what wilt thou give me, that thou mayst come-in unto me? And he said; I will send a kid of the goats, from the flock: and she said; if thou wilt give a pledge, till thou send it. And he said; what is the pledge, that I shall give thee? and she said; thy signet, and thy bracelet; and thy staff, that is in thy hand: and he gave them unto her, and went in unto her, and she conceived by him. And she arose and went-away; and put-away her veil, from upon her: and put on the garments of her widowhood. And Judah sent the kid of the goats, by the hand of his friend the Adullamite; to receive the pledge, from the woman's hand: but he found her not. And he asked the men of her place, saying; where is the whore, she that was in Enaim, by the way? And they said, there was no whore, in this (place.) And he returned to Judah; and said, I have not found her: and also the men of the place said, there was no whore in this (place.) And Judah said, let her take it to her; lest we become a contempt: Behold, I sent this kid; and thou hast not found her. And it was, about a three months after; that it was told unto Judah saying, Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath committed fornication; and also, behold she is with child, by fornications: and Judah said; bring her forth, and let her be burnt. She was brought forth; and she sent unto her father-in-law, saying; by the man whose these are, am I with child: and she said, acknowledge I pray thee; whose are these, the signet, and the bracelet, and the staff? And Judah acknowledged; and said, she is more just than I; for because that I gave her not, to Selah my Son: and he did not again, know her anymore. And is was, in the time of her child-birth: that behold, twins were in her womb. And it was in her child-birth, that the-one gave-out the hand: and the midwife took, and bound upon his hand a scarlet thread, saying, This, is come out first. And it was, as he turned-back his hand; that behold; his brother came out; and she said, How hast thou broken forth, upon thee the breach: and he called his name, Pharez. And afterward, came-out his brother; that had on his hand, the scarlet-thread: and he called his name, Zarah.

Annotations.

IN that time] in the time before spoken of, when Jacob returned out of Mesopotamia into the land of Canaan, and long before the selling of Joseph into Egypt; did these things begin about Judah. Who likewise married when he was very young, as did also his children, otherwise the Chronicle will not agree. For Joseph was borne six years before Jacob left Laban and came into Canaan, Gen. 30. 25. and 31. 41. and Joseph was seventeen years old, when he was sold into Egypt, Gen. 37. 2. 25. and thirty year old was he, when he interpreted Pharaohs dream, Gen. 41. 46. and nine years after, when there had been 7 years plenty, and two years famine, did Jacob with his family go down into Egypt, Gen. 41. 53. 54. and 45. 6. 11. and at their going-down thither, Pharez the son of Judas (whose birth is set down in the end of this chapter,) had two sons, Ezron, and Hamul, Gen. 46. 8. 12. Seeing then from the selling of Joseph, unto Israel's going into Egypt, there cannot be above three and twenty years; how is it possible that Judas should take a wife, and have by her three sons one after another, and Selah the youngest of the three be marriageable, when Judas begat Pharez of Tamar, Gen. 38. 14. 24. and Pharez be grown up, married, and have two sons, all within so short a space? The time therefore here spoken of, seemeth to be soon after Jacob's coming to Shechem, Gen. 33.

18. before that history of Dinah, Gen. 34. though Moses, for special cause, relateth it in this place. Judah] or Judas as the Greek always nameth him: Mat. 1. 2. a man an Adullamite] that is, an heathen man dwelling in Adullam (or Odollam as the Greek calleth it,) a city in the land of Canaan, which afterward was given for a possession to the Sons of this Judas, Ios. 15. 1. 35. The word man here (as in the verse following) may be omitted for the sense: see Gen. 13. 8. or it may be read a man of Adullam, as where one Evangelist writeth, The men Ninevites, Mat. 12. 41. another writeth, The men of Nineveh, Luk. 11. 32.

Vers. 2. Canaanite] the Chaldee translatheth it a merchant, and so the word is sometime used in Scripture, Prov. 31. 24. Job. 41. 6. but the Greek here calleth him a Chananaean. Shua] in Greek Saba: but in verse. 12. Saua. took her] namely to wife, as verse 12. Contrary to his duty, for he should not have married with such, Gen. 24. 3. and 27. 46. and 28. 1. Judas was now in likelihood, about 13. or 14. years of age. went in] that is, lay with her, see Gen. 6. 4.

Vers. 4. Onan] in Greek Aunan. [unspec 5]

Vers. 5. Selah] or Shelah: in Greek Selom: so after, verse 11. &c. he was] the Greek saith, she was. Chezib] a town called also Achzib, which likewise fell to the tribe of Judah, Ios. 15. 44. The Greek calleth it Chazbi. The name hath in Hebrew the signification of lying: and to it the Prophet alludeth, saying, the houses of Achzib shall be (Achzab) a Lye to the Kings of Israel, Micah 1. 14.

Vers. 6. to Er] or, for Er; when in likelihood, he also was about 14. years of age. Tamar] or Tamar, that is by interpretation, a palm tree, Song 7. 7. Of what kindred she was, the scripture speaketh not; but she became the mother to our Lord Christ, according to the flesh: Mat. 1. 3.

Vers. 7. evil in the eyes] that is, displeasing. The letters in Hebrew of this word evil, and of his name Er, are the same, the order only changed: the like whereof is before in Noes name, and Grace, Gen. 6. 8. slew him] this was very soon after his marriage, in his youth. So evil doers shall be cut off, Psal. 37. 9. And this judgment on Judah's first borne, is mentioned sundry times, Gen. 46. 12. Num. 26. 19. 1 Chron. 2. 3. And as our Lord Christ was to come of Judas, Hebr. 7. 14. so God would have no wicked man to be his progenitor.

Vers. 8. marie her] the Hebrew word is not meant of usual solemnization of marriage, but peculiar for marrying with his brothers widow, and doing that duty of a kinsman: whereof there was a law after given of God, according to this case, Deut. 25. 5. which law (as many other) God had made known before unto the Patriarchs, as this scripture manifesteth. The Hebrew Doctors say, It is commanded by the Law (in Deut. 25. 5. 6.) that a man shall marie the wife of his brother by the fathers side, if they have been married, or if they have been betrothed together, if he die without seed. Brethren by the mothers side only, are not counted brethren in this case of marrying the brothers wife, or for matter of inheritance, &c. Maimonides in Misneh. tom. 2. in Ibbum and Chalitsah. chap. 1. S. 1. 7. See the annotations on Deut. 25. seed] a child; which may be counted thy brothers, who is deceased; that his name be not wiped away out of Israel, Deut. 25. 6. Otherwise excepting this case, it was unlawful for a man to have his brothers wife, Levite. 18. 16. and 20. 21.

Vers. 9. not be his] but stand up with his brothers name, as his brothers child: though this was only for the first borne, all the rest should have been counted his own. Deut. 25. 6. So the Chaldee translath, that the seed should not be called by his name. when] or if at any time. Whensoever. spilled] or corrupted, which the Greek translath, shed (or spilled.) An unkind, and most unnatural fact, to spill the seed, which by God's blessing should serve for the propagation of man-kind; and in this man, for the propagation of the son of God according to the flesh; in whom all nations of the earth should be blessed, Gen. 22. 18. which made the sin most impious, and hastened Onans speedy death from the hand of God.

Vers. 11. Remaine] or sit, dwell a widow: so sending her home to her fathers house, but without permission to marry another man, yet not purposing she should have his son, for whom he made her stay. This was in him very injurious, which God soon chastened him for, by the death of his wife, and giving him over to incest with his daughter in law. By the law, in Levite. 22. 13. a widow that had no child, might return to her fathers house, and her estate was, as in her youth. he said] in his heart, as the Greek explaineth it. lest he die] meaning, I will not give her unto Selah to wife, lest he die also, verse. 14. An imperfect speech, (whereof see Gen. 3. 22.) and an evil surmise that he had of Tamar, as if she had caused his other sons death.

Vers. 12. the daughter of Shuah] the Greek translath, and Sava the wife of Judas died. was comforted] after mourning for his wives death, as Gen. 23. 2. and 24. 57. sheep shearers] At such times they used to have feasts, 1 Sam. 25. 8. 11. So he went to make merry after his mourning. his friend] the Greek translath Eira his shepherd: reading for Regneh, a friend, (without vowels) Rogneh a shepherd: and so in verse 20. but the Chaldee translath friend: and it hath the name in Hebrew of feeding-together; and so generally of society, friendship, neighbourhood. Timnath] or Thamna, a city in the Philistines country, which also befell to Judah's children for a possession, Ios. 15. 57. There Sampson took a wife, Judge. 14. 1. &c.

Vers. 14. wrapped her self] that she might not be known. The Greek and Chaldee understand it, of trimming and adorning. the opening] or, door of Enaim, as being the name of a place: so the Greek translath, the gates of Ainan. Enaim signifieth eyes, or fountains: and the door (or opening) of the eyes, may be understood an open place to be viewed, or place of two ways. After it is called only Enaim, verse 21. Such open places, harlots used, Ezek. 16. 25. Ier. 3. 2.

Vers. 16. Grant] or Give me leave: as the Greek saith, Suffer me: or, Come on now, let me, &c. An example of inordinate lust in this Patriarch: so lightly to be affected unto a stranger, and esteemed harlot. But God hereby would show, how the Jews (so named of this Judas) have nothing whereof to rejoice in the flesh more then other nations: but only in Christ, his holy seed, (if they would receive him) who came to save sinners, 1 Tim. 1. 15.

Vers. 17. a pledge] or pawn; earnest; in Hebrew Erabon, whence the Greek Arrhaebon, is borrowed. By this means, she provided for her security against the danger which after followed, verse 24. 25. Yet she carried her self herein, after the manner of Harlots, Fzek. 16. 33.

Vers. 18. signet] or seal: the Greek translath it ring on the finger. Men did wear such for honor: Luk. 15. 22. Ier. 22. 24. bracelet] or, riband, or handkerchief.

Vers. 21. her place] that is, the place where she was. So, the prayer of this place; that is, made in this place, 2 Chron. 6. 40. the whore] the word here used, in Hebrew Kedesah, cometh from Kadas, which commonly signifieth holiness: and the man thus prostitute unto filthiness, is called Kades, usually Englished a Sodomite 1 King. 14. 24. This name is thought to be given (by a contrary meaning,) to common whores, who are most unholy, and unchaste. But it may be such abomination was committed among the Canaanites, under a pretext of religion and holiness. For in the apostasy of Israel, houses of such unclean persons, were in the house of the Lord, 2. King. 23. 7. and they sacrificed with such whores, Hos. 4. 14. An express law was given to Israel, that there should be no such Sodomite, or Sodomitess among them, nor their hire brought into God's house, for any vow, Deut. 23. 17. 18. become in contempt] or to be contempt: be laughed to scorn, for being thus deceived by a whore. Among the heathens this sin was infamous.

Vers. 24. be burnt] by God's law after given, to defile a betrothed woman (which here was Tamars case with Selah,) was death, by stoning them Deut. 22. 23. 24. and a Priests daughter if she plaid the harlot, was to be burnt with fire, Levite. 21. 9. These laws it seemeth were executed before, and after even among the heathens: so the King of Babylon roasted two Jews in the fire for committing adultery, Ier. 29. 22. 23. Here Judas in judging another, condemned himself, Rom. 2. 1. so David in like case, 2 Sam. 12. 5. 7.

Vers. 26. know her] that is, lie with her: see Gen. 4. 1. By this free confession (according to Judah's name, which signifieth a Confessor) and abstaining from further evil with her; appeareth the true repentance of the Patriarch. And though he was now (in all likelihood) not above thirty years of age: yet find we no mention of any children that ever he had more, but these two of Tamar, and Selah his son before: from w<sup>ch</sup> three only, the families of Judah are reckoned, Gē. 46. 12. Num. 26. 19. 22. 1 Chr. 2. 3. 4. Either he married not after this time, or God blessed him not with anymore seed.

Vers. 28. gave out] that is, put forth: the Greek translath, the one brought forth the hand. This showeth the birth to be most hard and dangerous, not according to the course of nature. God so chastening the sin of Tamar with her father. See the like also in Jacob's birth, Gen. 25. 26. is come out] the Greek translath, shall come out: as comforting the woman in the extremity of her travel.

Vers. 29. Hast thou broken forth] or hast thou madea-breach? upon thee] that is, the breach is thine, thou hast made it, and shalt carry the name of it upon thee. The Greek translath; Why is the partition divided for thee? The Chaldee, How great strength hath been in thee, that thou mightest prevail? This strange & perilous childbirth, may be compared with that of Jacob and Esau, Gen. 25. 22.—26. who strove for the first birth-right in the womb, as these also did at the birth. Pharez] Hebrew Perets, that is, by interpretation Breach, so named upon this fact of his, at the birth. He violently took the dignity of the first birth-right from his brother, is set before him in the genealogy, Numb. 26. 20. 1 Chron. 2. 4. 5. and became father of Christ, after the flesh, Matth. 1. 3. Zarah] Hebrew Zerach, which signifieth Risen, or sprung up: (as the Sun is said to rise;) because he should first have risen, that is, have been borne, but for the breach which his brother made. The Hebrew Doctors say, that Zarah had his name of the Sun, and Pharez had his name of the Moon, which sometime is broken (as in pieces) sometimes is full. And that in Pharez, the strength of David's house was portended: and therefore from him proceedeth the kingdom of the house of David, R. Menachem, on Gen. 38. In the birth of these two brethren, the estate of the two Churches of Jews and Gentiles, may as in a figure, be considered: The Jew, as the elder, drawing back the hand through unbelief, Rom. 10. 3. 21. The Gentiles as by violence getting the heavenly birth-right, Math 11. 12. Luk. 15. 11.—32. Act. 13. 46.—48. and when the Gentiles are fully borne, then shall the Jews (that had the sign of the first birthright on their hand) come forth again. Rom. 11. 11.—25. 26.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1, Joseph being sold into Egypt, is there advanced in Potiphars house. 5, The Lord blesseth the house for Joseph's sake. 7, His Mistress tempteth him to lie with her, but he refuseth and shunneth her. 15, She complaineth of Joseph to the men of her house: 17, and fasly accuseth him to her husband, 19, who in anger casteth him into prison. 33, but God is with him there.

AND Joseph, was brought-down to Egypt: and Potiphar an Eunuch of Pharaoh, the Provost Marshall, an Egyptian man, bought him; of the hand of the Ishmaelites, which had brought him down thither. And Jehovah was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man: and he was, in the house of his Lord, the Egyptian. And his lord saw, that Jehovah was with him; and all that he did, Jehovah made-it prosper in his hand. And Joseph found grace, in his eyes, and ministered to him: and he made him over-seer, over his house, and all that he had, he gave into his hand. And it was, from the time that he had made him over-seer, in his house, and over all that he had; that Jehovah blessed the house of the Egyptian, for Joseph's sake: and the blessing of Jehovah, was upon all that he had, in the house, and in the field. And he left all that he had, in Joseph's hand: and he knew not ought (that was) with him, save the bread which he did eat: and Joseph was fair in form, and fair in countenance.

And it was, after these things; that his lords wife lifted up her eyes, unto Joseph: and she said, lie wth me. And he refused, & said unto his lords wife; Behold, my lord knoweth not what is with me in the house: and all that he hath, he hath given into my hand. There is not he greater in this house, then I: and he hath not kept-back from me, anything; but thee, because thou art his wife: and how shall I do this great evil, and sin against God? And it was, as she spake to Joseph, day by day: that he hearkened not unto her, to lie by her, to be with her. And it was, on a certain like day; that he went into the house, to do his work: and there was no man, of the men of the house, there in the house. And she caught him by his garment, saying, Lie with me: and he lest his garment in her hand; and fled, and got him out. And it was, when she saw; that he had left his garment, in her hand: and was fled, out. Then called she to the men of her house, and said unto them, saying; See, he hath brought-in unto us an Hebrew man, to mock us: he came-in unto me, to lie with me; and I called with a great voice. And it was, when he heard, that I lifted up my voice, and called: that he left his garment by me; and fled, and got him out. And she laid-up his garment by her: until his lord came, unto his house. And she spake unto him, according to these words, saying: the Hebrew servant, which thou hast brought unto us, came-in unto me, to mockè me. And it was, when I lift-up my voice, and called; then left he his garment by me, and fled out. And it was, when his lord heard the words of his wife: which she spake unto him, saying; according to these words, did thy servant unto me: then his anger was kindled. And Joseph's lord, took him; and committed him into the tower house, a place where the Kings prisoners were bound: and he was there in the tower house. And Jehovah was with Joseph, and extended mercy unto him: and gave him grace in the eyes of the chief keeper of the tower house. And the chief keeper of the tower house, committed to Joseph's hand, all the prisoners, that were in the tower house: and all that they did there; he, was the doer of it. The chief-keeper of the tower house, looked not to anything at all, in his hand; because Jehovah was with him: and that which he did, Jehovah made it to prosper.

Annotations.

EGypt] in Hebrew, Mizraim, meaning the land of Mizraim: see Gen. 12. 10. God sent Joseph before his brethren, for their preservation, Gen. 45. 5. 7. Potiphar] in Greek, Pentephres. Provost Marshall] or Prince of the slayers: see Gen. 37. 36. Ishmaelites] the Chaldee calleth them Arabians. See Gen. 37. 25.

Vers. 2. with Joseph] and delivered him out of all his afflictions, Act. 7. 9. 10. The Chaldee saith, the word of the Lord was his help: So after in verse. 3. and 21. The like promise God maketh to every faithful man, I will be with him in trouble: Psal. 91. 15. was in the house] that is, remained there, patiently bearing his servitude: and ran not away, to his father again. For in his masters house, and in prison, he continued thirteen years, Gen. 37. 2. and 41 46. In the Jewish records it is said, that he served twelve months in Potiphars house, and was 12. years in prison: Seder Olam, chap. 2.

Vers. 4. ministered] or served: in Greek pleased. Ministration is a free service differing from slavery. made him overseer] or visiter: in Greek constituted him; which word is used in this sense; in Luk. 12. 44.

Vers. 5. from the time] so the Chaldee expounds the Hebrew phrase from then: the Greek translatheth it after.

Vers. 6. save the bread] this may be meant either of his ease and security, who cared for nothing; but to eat and drink, leaving all the trouble of his house upon Joseph: or, it excepteth bread, that is, meat and drink, for that the Egyptians would not eat with the Hebrews; see Gen. 43. 32.

V. 7. lifted up] that is, cast her eyes, or looked with impure affections and lust, which Christ condemneth for adultery; Matt. 5. 28. So the Apostle speaketh of eyes full of adultery, 2 Pet. 2. 14. The contrary was in Job, Job 31. 1. I made covenant with mine eyes; &c. Lye with me] this showeth the impudency of her face, such as Solomon warneth of, Proverb. 7. 13 18. And the dangerous assault of Joseph, whom Satan tempteth now with pleasure; when he could not before overcome him with afflictions.

V. 9. not he] This may be meant of all the household, not any; or of his lord himself, in a respect, not he himself.

Vers. 10. day by day] or daily: Hebrew, day day; which the Greek explaineth day after day: the Hebrew sometime addeth day and day: Hest. 3. 4. so the Greek, in 2 Cor. 4. 16. to be with her] in her company, so avoiding the occasions of evil. according to Solomon's counsel, Remove thy way far from her; and come not nigh the door of her house, Prov. 5. 8. This chastity of Joseph, is here opposed to the unchaste carriage of Judah, in Gen. 38.

Vers. 11. on a certain like day] so the Greek explaineth the Hebrew phrase as this day: meaning, a day wherein his mistress lusted after, or enticed him. Or day, being put for time, (as in 2 Cor. 6. 2) the meaning may be, About this time. his work] in Greek, works; which the Chaldee explaineth to be the searching of the writings of his accounts.

Vers. 12. got him out] or, went forth out: so in v. 15. The woman, whose heart is snares and nets, her hands, bands, is more bitter then death: but, he that is good before God, escapeth from her: Eccles. 7. 26.

V. 14. Hebrew] so she nameth him in contempt: for the Hebrews were abhorred of the Egyptians, Gen. 43. 32. but it was indeed a name of honor; see Gen. 14. 13. to mock] to abuse us, whereupon we shall be mocked and laughed to scorn, Or, to play with us. This word was used before, but in a better sense, Gen. 26. 8. And here the adulteress hunteth for the precious life, Prov. 6. 26.

Verse 20. tower-house] or round house, a prison built after a round form. The Greek calleth it afort, (or sconce;) the Chaldee, a house of prisoners, prisoners] bound. men, or restrained of their liberty. Among them, Joseph was laid in irons, they hurt his feet with fetters; until the time that his word came, the word of the Lord tried him: Ps. 105. 18. 19. He suffered trouble as an evil doer, even unto bonds: but the word of God is not bound: 2 Tim. 2. 9. And in his sufferings he was a figure of Christ, who was taken from prison and from judgment: Esa. 53. 8. and in his humiliation, his judgment was taken away, Act. 8. 33.

Vers. 21. gave him grace] so the Greek explaineth the Hebrew phrase, gave his grace: that is, made him to be gracious, and favored. For if when men do well, they suffer for it, and take it patiently; this is acceptable with God, 1. Pet. 2. 20. chief-keeper] Hebrew Prince, or master; the Greek translateth it, Chief gaolor.

Vers. 22. the doer] that is, by his word and appointment it was done. So the Chaldee paraphrase, (in the Masorites Bible) explaineth it, adding, by his word. Thus Pilate is said to give the body of Christ unto Joseph, Mark 15. 45. when he commanded it to be given: Matt. 27. 58. See also Exod. 7. 17.

Verse 23. looked not &c] or saw not anything: the Greek translateth, knew not anything by him. The Chaldee saith, saw not any fault: understanding the Hebrew Meumah, as Meum in Dan. 1. 4. for a fault, or blemish. And thus, though many archers had shot at Joseph, his bow abode in strength, and the arms of his hands were made firm, by the hands of the Mighty (God) of Jacob: Gen. 49. 23. 24.

CHAP. XL.

1, The Butler and Baker of Pharaoh in prison, 4, Joseph hath charge of them. 5, He interpreteth their dreams; 20, which come to pass according to his interpretation, the Butler being restored to his place, and the Baker hanged. 23, Yet the Butler forgetteth Joseph.

AND it was, after these things; that the Butler of the King of Egypt, and the Baker, sinned: against their lord, the King of Egypt. And Pharaoh was wroth, against two of his Eunuchs: against the chief of of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers. And he committed them into ward, in the house, of the Provost Marshall, into the tower house: the place where Joseph was bound. And the Provost Marshall, charged Joseph, with them, and he ministered to them: and they were some days in ward. And they dreamed a dream both of them, each-man his dream in one night; each-man, according to the interpretation of his dream: the butler and the baker, which (belonged) to the King of Egypt, which were bound in the tower house. And Joseph came in unto them, in the morning: and saw them, and behold, they were sad. And he asked Pharaohs Eunuchs, which were with him in the ward of his lords house, saying: wherefore, are your faces evil, today. And they said unto him; we have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it: and Joseph said unto them; do not interpretations (belong) to God? tell me them, I pray you. And the chief of the butlers, told his dream, to Joseph: and said unto him; in my dream, behold a vine, was before me. And in the vine, were three branches: and it was as though it budded, the blossom thereof shot-up; the clusters thereof, brought forth-ripe grapes. And Pharaohs cup, was in my hand: and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaohs cup; and I gave the cup, into Pharaohs hand. And Joseph said unto him; This is the interpretation of it: the three branches, they are three days. Yet within three days shall Pharaoh lift-up thine head, and restore thee into thy place: and thou shalt give Pharaohs cup, into his hand; after the former manner, when thou wast his butler. But remember me with thee, when it shall be well with thee; and do mercy with me, I pray thee; and make mention of me, unto Pharaoh; and bring me forth, out of this house. For I was stolen by stealth, out of the land of the Hebrews: and here also, I have not done anything; that they should put me, into the dungeon. And the chief of the bakers saw, that he had given a good interpretation: and he said, unto Joseph, I also (saw) in my dream; and behold, three white baskets, were on my head. And in the uppermost basket, there was of all Pharaohs meat, of bakers work: and the fowls, did eat them, out of the basket, upon my head. And Joseph answered, & said; This is the interpretation thereof: the three baskets, they are three days. Yet within three days, shall Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee; and shall hang thee, on a tree: and the fowls shall eat thy flesh, from off thee. And it was, in the third day, which was Pharaohs birth day; that he made a banquet, unto all his servants: and he lifted-up the head, of the chief of the butlers; and the head, of the chief of the Bakers, among his servants. And he restored the chief of the butlers, unto his butlership: and he gave the cup, into Pharaohs hand. And the chief of the bakers, he hanged: as Joseph had interpreted to them. Yet did not the chief of the butlers, remember Joseph, but forgot him.

Butler] or, cupbearer, who used to give the cup into the kings hand, v. 13. So Nehe. 1. 11.

Verse 2. Eunuchs] or officers, in Chaldee Princes, see Gen. 37. 36. chief] or Prince. The Greek translatheth Archioinochoos, the Chief wine powerer: and Archisi•opoi•s the Chief bread-maker. The Chaldee Rabshakei.

Vers. 3. Provost Marshall] see Gen. 37. 36. tower] prison, Gen. 39. 20.

Verse 4. some days] or a year: for so the word days often signifieth▪ see Gen. 24. 55. and 4. 3.

Verse 5. according to the interpretation] that is, no vain dream, but significant, and showing things to come, according to the interpretation that Joseph gave of them. Of dreaming, see the notes on Gen. 20. 3.

Vers. 6. sad] the Greek translatheth troubled, and so the Hebrew importeth an angrily discontent, and fretfull trouble of mind, Prov. 19. 3. with a sad and lowering countenance, Dan. 1. 10. So dreams and visions sent of God, use much to affect men, Gen. 41. 8. Dan. 2. 1. 3. Matt. 27. 19.

Vers. 7. evil] that is, sad; as the Greek translatheth skuthropa, which word the Evangelists use in like sense, Luk. 24. 17. Matt. 6. 16. so good, is often used for merry or cheerful, Esth. 1. 10. Esa. 65. 14.

Vers. 8. no interpreter] they being prisoners, could not go to the Soothsayers and wise men of Egypt, as that people was wont to do, Gen. 41. 8. When God's Oracles are not opened and understood, it is a cause of heaviness: Rev. 5. 4. tell me] Joseph was in bonds, as an evil doer: but the word of God is not bound: and so Paul, 2 Tim. 2. 9. Here Joseph's faith shown it self; before, he himself was a dreamer, Gen. 37. 5. 9. now he becometh an interpreter, and maketh a way for the accomplishment of those promises: and calleth these idolaters from their superstitions, to the true God, as Deut. 18. 10. 11. 12. Isaiah 8. 19. And taxeth the vanity of such in our times, as write books of the art of interpreting dreams.

Ver. 9. behold] Hebrew, and behold: but the word and sometime is redundant in that tongue, as is observed on Gen. 36. 24.

Vers. 10. as though] or, when it budded. shot-up] Hebrew, ascended. [unspec 10]

Vers. 12. they are] that is, they signify three days: So in Gen. 41. 26.

Vers. 13. within three days] which is explained verse. 20. to be in the third day: see a like phrase in Gen. 7. 4. and of the mystical number three. See Gen. 22. 4. lift up] this phrase sometime signifieth to promote unto honor, as Ier. 52. 31. sometime head is used for sum, and it meaneth to take the sum, or to reckon, as Exod. 30. 12. which may also be intended here. The Greek translatheth shall remember thy principality: the Chaldee, shall remember thee. place] or base, seat: meaning his office, of butlership, as the Greek and Chaldee explain it; and is confirmed by verse 21.

Vers. 14. this house] this prison; so the Greek saith, this hold. Joseph though patient in adversity, yet useth all good means to procure his liberty.

Vers. 15. stolen by stealth] or indeed stolen: Hebrew stealing stolen. The Hebrews] the land of Canaan, wherein the children of Abraham dwelt, who was called an Hebrew, Gen. 14. 13. Thus Joseph calleth it, by faith in God's promises. In Zach. 2. 12. it is called the holy land. dungeon] or pit: in Chaldee, the house of prisoners. Thus Joseph pleadeth his innocence; as Daniel also did, Dan. 6. 22. and Paul, Act. 24. 12. 13. 20. and 25. 10. 11.

Vers. 16. saw] this word the Greek addeth, I saw a dream. white] or, with holes; for the Hebrew word signifieth both: and may mean baskets made of white rods, with holes, as net-work. But the Greek, and Targum Yerushalmi do understand it of white bread, or meats in them.

Vers. 19. lift-up] or (as the Greek translateth it,) take away thine head; in a contrary meaning to the former, verse. 13. but it may be understood of reckoning, as before; and putting this man out of the number of his officers. a tree] the Chaldee translateth it, a Gallow tree, or gybbet, cross: such as that whereon Christ was crucified, called sometime only a tree, as Act. 5. 30. and 10. 39. 1 Pet. 2. 24. After by the law, such as died on tree, had the curse of God upon them; Deut. 21. 23

Vers. 20. a banquet] Hebrew a drinking. This custom to keep banquets on birth days, appeareth to be most ancient; and it continued till Christ's time on earth, Mat. 14. 6. and so till this day. lifted up] the Chaldee translateth, he remembered the head, &c.

Vers. 22. hanged] As Joseph was in prison with these two malefactors, and according to his word, the one was restored to his former honor; the other put to death: so Christ was in the midst of two malefactors; who one of them was restored to eternal life, the other left to die in his sins, Luk. 23. 33. 39.—43,

Vers. 23. forgot him] which was both great unthankfulness, and unto Joseph, a further exercise of faith and patience from the hand of God, two years longer: until the time his word came, Ps. 105. 19. So the scripture elsewhere taxeth forgetfulness of benefits, and of the affliction of Joseph. Eccles. 9. 15. 16. Amos 6. 6.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

AND it was, at the end of two years of days: that Pharaoh dreamed; and behold, he was standing by the river. And behold, there came-up out of the river, seven kine; fair in sight, and fat in flesh: and they fed in a meadow. And behold, seven other kine came-up after them, out of the river; ill in sight, and lean in flesh: and they stood, by the (other) kine; upon the brink of the river. And the kine (that were) ill in sight, and lean in flesh; did eat-up the seven kine, (that were) fair in sight, and fat: and Pharaoh awoke. And he slept, and dreamed the second-time: and behold, seven ears of-corn, came-up in one stalk, fat and good. And behold, seven ears of corn, thinn & blasted with the east-wind: sprang-up, after them. And the thinn ears swallowed-up the seven fat and full ears: and Pharaoh awoke, and behold, (it was) a dream. And it was in the morning, that his spirit was stricken-amazed; and he sent, and called all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise-men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; and there was no interpreter of them, to Pharaoh. And the chief of the butlers spake to Pharaoh, saying: I, do remember this day, my sins. Pharaoh, was wroth with his servants: and committed me into ward, in the house of the Provost Marshall: both me, the chief of the bakers. And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he: we dreamed, each man according to the interpretatiō of his dream. And there was there with us a young man an Hebrew; servant to the Provost Marshall; and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams: to each man according to his dream, did he interpret. And it was, as he interpreted to us, so it was: me, he restored unto my place, and him he hanged. And Pharaoh sent and called Joseph; and they brought him hastily, out of the dungeon: and he shaved himself, & changed his garments; and came-in unto Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said, unto Joseph; I have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it: and I, do hear say, of thee; thou wilt hear a dream, to interpret it. And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, It is not in me: God will answer, the peace of Pharaoh. And Pharaoh spake, unto Joseph: In my dream, behold, I was standing, upon the brink of the river. And behold, there came-up out of the river, seven kine; fat in flesh and fair in form: and they fed, in a meadow. And behold, seven other kine, came-up after them; poor and very ill in form, and lean in flesh: I have not seen their like, in all the land of Egypt, for evilness. And the lean and evil kine; did eat up, the first seven fat kine. And they came into the inward-parts of them; and it was not known, that they were come into their inward-parts; and their sight was evil, as at the beginning: and I awoke. And I saw, in my dream; and behold, seven ears of-corn, came-up in one stalk, full & good. And behold, seven ears of corn; withered, thinn, blasted with an east-wind: sprung up, after them. And the thinn ears, swallowed-up the seven good ears: and I told this, unto the magicians; and there is none that declareth it, to me. And Joseph said, unto Pharaoh; the dream of Pharaoh, is one: that which God is a doing, hath he declared to Pharaoh. The seven good kine, they are seven years; and the seven good ears-of-corn, they are seven years: the dream is one, And the seven lean and evil kine, that came up after them, they are seven years; and the seven empty ears-of-corn, blasted with an east-wind: shall be, seven years of famine. This is the word, which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: that which God is a doing, he showeth unto Pharaoh. Behold, seven years are coming: of great plenty, in all the land of Egypt: And seven years of famine, shall rise after them; and all the plenty shall be forgotten, in the land of Egypt: and the famine shall consume the land. And the plenty shall not be known, in the land; because of that famine, afterwards: for it, shall be very heavy. And for that the dream was doubled, unto Pharaoh, twice; it is because the thing is firmly-prepared, of God; and God hasteneth, to do it. And now, let Pharaoh provide, a man discreet and wise: and set him, over all the land of Egypt. Let Pharaoh do this; and let him appoint Bishops, over the land: and take up the fifth-part, of the land of Egypt; in the seven years of plenty. And let them gather, all the meat of these good years that come: and lay-up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, for meat in the cities, and let them keep it. And the meat shall be for store, to the land; for the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt: that the land be not cut-off, by the famine. And the word was good, in the eyes of Pharaoh; and in the eyes, of all his servants. And Pharaoh said, unto his servants: shall we find such a one as this is, a man in whom the spirit of God is? And Pharaoh said, unto Joseph; forasmuch, as God hath made known unto thee, all this: there is none discreet and wise as thou art. Thou, shalt be over my house; and at thy mouth, shall all my people kiss: only in the throne, will I be greater then thou. And Pharaoh said, unto Joseph; see, I set thee, over all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh took-off his ring, from on his hand; and put it, upon Joseph's hand: and arrayed him, in vestures of fine-linen; and put a chain of gold, upon his neck. And he made him to ride, in the second chariot, which he had; and they cried before him, Abrek: and he set him, over all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh said, unto Joseph, I am Pharaoh: and without thee, shall not a man lift-up his hand, or his foot, in all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh called Joseph's name, Zaphnath-paaneach; and he gave unto him Asenath, the daughter of Poti-pherah, priest of On, to wife: and Joseph went-out, over the land of Egypt. And Joseph was thirty years old; when he stood before Pharaoh King of Egypt: and Joseph went-out, from before Pharaoh; and passed through all the land of Egypt. And in the seven years of plenty, the land yielded, by handfulls. And he gathered up all the meat of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt; and laid-up the meat, in the cities: the meat of the field which was round about every city, he laid-up within the same. And Joseph gathered corn, as the sand of the sea, very much: until he left numbering, for it was without number. And unto Joseph were borne two sons; before there came a year of the famine: which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah, priest of On, bare unto him. And Joseph called, the name of the first-borne, Manasseh; for God hath made me forget, all my molestation; and all my fathers house. And the name of the second, called he Ephraim; for God hath made me fruitful, in the land of my affliction. And the seven years of plenty, which were in the land of Egypt; were ended. And the seven years of famine, began to come; as Joseph had said: and the famine was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt, there was bread. And all the land of Egypt, was famished; and the people cried to Pharaoh, for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith unto you, do. And the famine was, over all the face of the earth: and Joseph opened all (the houses) that (had corn) in them, and sold to the Egyptians: and the famine waxed strong, in the land of Egypt. And every land, came into Egypt; to Joseph, for to buy (corn) because the famine was strong in every land.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the tenth section of the •awe, called AT THE END: See Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 1. of days] that is, two full years; as a month of days, is a full month; Gen. 29. 14. See the notes on Gen. 4. 3. So in the second year, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed: Dan. 2. 1. and behold] the Greek translatheth, he thought he stood. So in v. 17.

Vers. 3. ill] that is, deformed, or (as the Greek translatheth) foul. So after, in v. 4. &c. brink] or bank, Hebrew. lip, So v. 17.

Vers. 6. East-wind] whose property is to burn and blast the fruits: Ezek. 17. 10. and 19. 12. Hos. 13. 15.

Vers. 7. the thin] the Greek addeth, the seven thin ears: so in ver. 20. 24. a dream] or, the dream was; that is, continued in his mind and troubled him, as the next words manifest. Of a dream, see Gen. 20. 3. and 37. 5.

V. 8. stricken amazed] the Greek translatheth, his soul was troubled. The Hebrew word signifieth stricken or beaten as with a hammer; be hammered. The same is spoken of King Nebuchadnezzar in like case, Dan. 2. 1. 3. It showeth the power of God in his word & works, even before men do understād the meaning of them. magicians] in Hebrew Chartummim, the Greek calleth them here expositors (elsewhere, enchanters, Exod. 7. 11.) they were such as had skill in the nature of things. Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon called also for such, to show him his dream, Dan. 2. 2. and Belshazzar, his vision, Dan. 5. 7. 8. wise-men] the Learned of all Nations, were so called, even among the Jews, Matt. 23. 34. among the Greeks they were named Philosophers, that is, Lovers of wisdom. Act. 17. 18. Pythagoras was the first, who devised the name, because he thought no man was wise, but God only. dream] both his dreams, as the word them after manifesteth: called a dream, because they were both one, v. 26. or, after the usual manner of the Hebrew tongue, that putteth one for many: see Gen. 3. 2. interpreter] that could interpret. Thus God maketh the wisdom of the wise, to perish, Isaiah 29. 14. So was it also with the Mages of Babylon, Dan. 2. 10. and 5. 8.

Vers. 13. he] that is, Pharaoh restored: v. 20. The Greek translatheth, that I was restored to my principality, and he was hanged. place] that is, as Chaldee expounds it, Office, or ministration. So Gen. 40. 13.

Vers. 14. brought him hastily] Hebr. made him run. So Daniel was brought before the King in hast, Dan. 2. 25. Of Joseph it is said, The King sent and loosed him; the ruler of the people (sent) and released him: Psal. 105. 20. dungeon] or pit: the Chaldee saith, the house of the prisoners. shaved] who before (it seemeth) had let his hair grow, in sign of sorrow and mourning, as i. 2 Sam. 19. 24. Mephibosheth had not trimmed (as the Chaldee paraphrast saith not shorn) his beard; from David's departure, till his return in peace. And other nations kept this rite: for T. Livius (in his 6. book) telleth how one Malius being cast in prison, many men sorrowing for him, did let the hair of their head and beard grow long. The like is mentioned of others, Plutarch, in Caton. Vtic. Cicero in Orat. de lege Agrar. And by shaving, understand polling in a seemly sort; for to shave the hair all away, specially of the beard, was also a sign of sorrow, Ier. 41. 5. Therefore both extremities are forbidden, and the mean commanded to the Priests, in Ezek. 44. 20. See also the notes on Lev. 10. 6. garments] his prison weeds, which were also mournful, and so not meet to come in before the King; as Est. 4. 2.

Ver. 15. thou wilt hear] or, that thou canst understand: as hearing often signifieth, Gen. 11. 7. The Greek translatheth, that thou hearing dreams, dost interpret them. to interpret] or, as the Chaldee explains it, & interpret it. See the notes on Gē. 2. 3.

Ver. 16. It is not in me] or, Be it not in me, to take this upon me: or, without me, God will answer. The Greek (neglecting the points and distinctions) translatheth, without God, shall not be answered, the salvation of Pharaoh. The Chaldee addeth, not out of my wisdom, but from before the Lord, answered shall be the peace of Pharaoh. Like modesty was in Daniel also, not to take the glory to himself, Dan. 2. 30. 28. peace] in Greek, salvation: peace comprehendeth welfare, prosperity, safety, and all good things. For the word Salom, peace, hath the signification of integrity and whole perfection of ones good estate. So Gen. 37. 18.

Vers. 19. evilness] that is, leannes, ill favourednes, or deformity.

Ver. 21. the inward parts] that is, the bowels, as the Chaldee; the bellies, as the Greek translatheth. This noteth the greatness of the famine: v. 30. And both sorts of kine, fat & lean, coming out of the same river, seemed to portend the means of the famine. For in Egypt there falleth no rain, but the land is watered by the overflowing of the river Nile, and by the husbandmens care to draw small rivers along to moysten the country, Deu. 11. 10. 11. And as the overflowing of that river is less or more, so have they their increase. I awoke] the Greek addeth, and slept again.

Vers. 30. the land] that is, as the Chaldee explaineth, the people of the land: So v. 36. See Gen. 11. 1.

Ver. 31. very heavy] or vehemently grievous: the Greek translatheth in strong.

Ver. 32. the thing] Hebr. word. firmly-prepared] or surely purposed, stablished: the Greek saith, the word is true. Here God teacheth the reason, why things are sundry times repeated in the Scriptures.

Vers. 34. Bishops] or overseers, officers to visit and look to the state of the land. The Hebr. Pakid as the Gr. Episcopos, (from whence we have formed our English word Bishop) is any man that hath charge & office, for any business civil or ecclesiastical: as the Bishops of the army, Num. 31. 14. 2 King. 11. 16. the Bishops (or overseers) of them that did the work, 2 Chron. 34. 12. 17. So among the Priests & Levites, Num. 4. 16. Neh. 11. 9. 14. and Ministers of the Gospel, 1 Tim. 3. 1. 2. take up the fifth] Hebr five the land; as to tithe, is to take the tenth part. So Targum Yerushalmi expounds it, to take up one of five. Thus taught he providence in the time of plenty, against time of want; as Solomon doth by example of the pismire, Prov. 6. 6. 7. 8. See also Luk. 16. 9.

Ver. 35. of Pharaoh] the Chaldee explaineth it, of Pharaoh officers.

Vers. 36. for store] or, provision; a thing committed in trust to be kept. See Lev. 6. 2. the land] the Chaldee saith, the people of the land: as in v. 30.

Ver. 37. the word was good] or, the thing was pleasing. God gave Joseph favor and wisdom in the fight of Pharaoh, Act. 7. 10. and inclined the Kings heart to assent unto good counsel: for the hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the Lord hath made even both of them: Prov. 20. 12.

Vers. 38. spirit of God] The Chaldee paraphraseth, the spirit of prophesy from before God. The like praise is of Daniel, Dan. 4. 6. & 5. 11. So for office in the Church, men are to be chosen full of the holy spirit, Act. 6. 3. By this speech of Pharaoh, and by the verse following, it may be gathered, that Joseph preached many things unto the king, of God, his power, providence, goodness, &c. whereupon the King made him a teacher of wisdom unto his Senators, Psal. 105. 22.

Ver. 39. all this] the Greek saith, all these things. Joseph hath honor, for opening mysteries: so Daniel in Babylon, Dan. 2. 46. 47. and 5. 29. and the Lamb Jesus; Rev. 5. 5. 9. 12. And as Joseph by telling two dreams, fell into affliction, Gen. 37. 8. 19. 20. So here by expounding two dreams, he cometh to his exaltation. discreet &c. the Greek translates it, more prudent and wiser than thou.

Vers. 40. over my house] as steward: or governor, as the Chaldee saith, Officer of my house: so 1 Kings 8. 3. 2 Kings 18. 18. Luk. 12. 42. He made him Lord of his house, and ruler of all his possession. Psal. 105. 21. mouth] that is, word (as the Chaldee explaineth it) or commandment: so Job 39. 30. Num. 9. 20. Luk. 19. 22. Gen. 24. 57. kiss] or apply, namely the hand to the mouth, as Job 31. 27. in sign of honor and obedience; so the Gr. translatheth, at thy mouth shall all my people obey. Or, we may refer it to the former, shall kiss thy mouth, that is, love, honor, obey thee and thy words; in which sense David saith, kiss the son, Ps. 2. 12. and Samuel kissed Saul, when he anointed him King, 1 Sam. 10. 1. and men kiss his lips, that answereth right words, Prov. 24. 26. The Chaldee translatheth, at thy word shall all the people be armed. Joseph had authority over all the Princes of Egypt, to bind them to his will, and to make the Elders wise: Psal 105. 22. the king made him governor over Egypt, and all his house, Act. 7. 10.

V. 41. I set] or give: so v. 43. these words are used as one: see Gen. 1. 17. and 9. 12. and 17. 5. The Gr. saith, I constitute thee this day. As Joseph over Egypt, so Daniel had the government over Babylon, for expounding the Kings dream, Dan. 2. 48. Thus God bringeth low, and lifteth up: raiseth up the poor out of the dust; and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill, to set him among Princes, &c. 1 Sam. 2. 7. 8. Psal. 113. 7.

Ver. 42. fine linen] or, bysse, in Hebrew, shesh: a kind of silk that groweth in Egypt & other lands Ezek. 27. 7. It made costly white cloth, which great personages used to wear: Pro. 31. 22. Ezek. 16. 10. Luk. 16. 19. Rev. 19. 8. The Greek and Chaldee term it bysse. See the notes on Exod. 25. 4.

Ver. 43. the second] Kings had two chariots, for more honor and use, 2 Chron. 35. 24. by setting Joseph hereon, the King honored him; as Mordecai was, by riding on the Kings horse, Est. 6. 8. &c. The Hebrew phrase is chariot of the second, whereby may be meant of the second person, or next to the King. The Greek translatheth, second chariot. Abrek] the Chaldee translatheth this is the father of the King: as compounded of Ab, a father, and Rek, which the Syriac useth sometime for a King, according to the Latin Rex: and Joseph professeth, that God had made him a father to Pharaoh, Gen. 45. 8. Targum Yerushalmi also expoundeth it, God save (or Live let) the Father of the King; the Master in wisdom, and tender in years. Or Abrek is to kneel- down; the same that Habrek, after the Egyptian manner of pronouncing, as Egalti Es. 63. 3 is used for Higalti: & Ashcem Jer. 25. 3. for Hashcē.

Ver. 44. am Pharaoh] that is, King: for this is an honorable title, and no proper name: see the notes on Gen. 12. 15. It may also be an oath, to confirm his authority: so true as I am Pharaoh; so without thee, &c. his hand or foot] that is, do anything. The Chaldee as before he spake of arms, ver. 40. so here again, translateth, without thy word shall not a man lift up his hand to hold weapons, nor his foot to ride on a hgrse, &c.

V. 45. Zaphnath paaneach] Egyptian words, which the Gr. leaveth untranslated, the Chaldee paraphrast interpreteth, The man to whom secrets are revealed: & Philo saith, a finder out of secret things. Jerome expoundeth them, the savior of the world. priest of On] or Prince, President; (as the Chaldee calleth him Rabba. But the Gr. translateth Priest of Heliopolis. He might be both, as was the manner of those times & places. See Gen. 14. 18. And among the Egyptians, Priests were learned men & Doctors of Arts, as well as sacrificers to their God's, Diodorus Sicul. 2. Book. On was a City in Egypt called also Aven, Ezek. 30. 17. in Gr. Heliopolis; that is, the City of the Sun. They of Heliopolis are reported to be the wisest of all the Egyptians, and unto that City the people used to resort once a year to do honor unto the Sun, by sacrifice. Herodot. in Euterpe. over] the Chaldee addeth, ruler over the land. So in verse 46.

V. 46. old] Hebr. son, that is, going on his 30. year: see Gen. 5. 32. So this exaltation of Joseph was 13. years after he was sold into Egypt, Gen. 37. 2. And at this age of 30. years our Lord Jesus began his administration, Luk. 3. 23. so did the Levites in the Lord's tabernacle, Numb. 4. 3. and David then began his reign, 2 Sam. 5. 4.

Ver. 47. yielded] Hebr. made, that is, brought-forth fruit: see Gen. 11. by handfuls] meaning abundantly, a handful increase of one kernel.

Ver. 48. laid up] Hebr. gave: see Gen. 9. 12. the field which was &c.] in the Hebrew the words stand thus, the field of the city which (was) round about it.

V. 51. Manasseh] Hebr. Manassheh, the holy Ghost in Gr. calleth him Manassei, Rev. 7. 6. by interpretation, it is Forgetting, or making to forget: the reason whereof followeth. So in Esa. 65. 16. promise is made of former troubles to be for gotten. fathers house] meaning the molestation and injury which he had sustained at his brethren's hands.

Vers. 52. Ephraim] that is, Made fruitful. This son was by Jacob set before his elder brother; & of these two, came two tribes, so Joseph had a double portion for the first birthright. Gen, 48. 5. 14. 19. 20. 1 Chron. 5. 2.

Vers. 55. was famished] or hungered, had famine.

Vers. 56. all the houses, &c] in Greek, all the barns of corn. sold,] to weet, corn. The Hebrew word signifieth breaking, and because corn and meat breaketh men's fast and hunger; thereupon it is applied to the selling and buying of corn or food; the reason whereof is shown in Gen. 42. 19. where it is called the breaking of the hunger; meaning corn for the hunger (or famine of their houses. So in Psal. 104. 11. by water, the wild asses are said to break their thirst. To this also we may add, the phrase of breaking bread, that is, of distributing and communicating it, Isaiah 58. 7. Act. 2. 46. and 20. 7. He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him: but blessing shall be upon the head of him that selleth it: Prov. 11. 16. [unspec 56]

Vers. 57. every land] or, all the earth: so the Chaldee saith, all the inhabitants of the earth: in Gr. all countries; that is, the people in them, meaning all the countries adjoining thereabout. in every land] or, in all the earth, as verse. 56. God called a famine upon the land, (or earth) he break all the staff of bread. But he had sent a man before Jacob and his house, even Joseph, who was sold for a servant; him God sent before them, to preserve life: Psal. 105. 16. 17. Gen. 45. 5.

CHAP. XLII.

1, Jacob sendeth his ten sons to buy corn in Egypt. 6, They are imprisoned by Joseph for spies▪ 18, They are set at liberty, on condition to bring Benjamin. 21, They have remorse for the injury they had done to Joseph. 24, Simeon is kept bound for a pledge. 25, They return home with corn and their money. 29, They relate unto Jacob the hard things befallen them. 36, Jacob refuseth to send Benjamin, though Reuben would engage his two sons for him.

AND Jacob saw; that there was corn-tosell in Egypt: and Jacob said unto his sons; why look ye one-upon▪ another? And he said, Behold I have heard; that there is corn-to-sell, in Egypt: go-ye-down thither, and buy▪ corn for us from thence; that we may live, and not die. And Joseph's ten brethren went-down; to buy corn, in Egypt. But Benjamin, Joseph's brother; Jacob sent not with his brethren: for he said, lest mischief befall him. And the sons of Israel came; to buy corn, among those that came: for the famine was, in the land of Canaan. And Joseph, he was the ruler over the land; he it was that sold corn to all the people of the land: and Joseph's brethren came, and bowed down-themselves unto him, with their faces to the earth. And Joseph saw his brethren, and knew them: and he made-himselfe-strange unto them, and spake with them hard words; & said unto them, whence come ye? And they said, from the land of Canaan, to buy food. And Joseph, knew his brethren: but they, knew not him. And Joseph remembered, the dreams, which he had dreamed of them: and he said unto them, ye are spies; to see the nakedness of the land, you are come. And they said unto him, Nay my lord: but thy servants are come, to buy food. We all of us, are sons of one man: we are true-men; thy servants, are not spies. And he said, unto them: Nay, but ye are come to see, the nakedness of the land. And they said; We thy servants, were twelve brethren, the sons of one man, in the land of Canaan: and behold, the youngest, is with our father this day; and one, is not. And Joseph said, unto them; That is it, that I spake unto you, saying, ye are spies. By this, ye shall be proved: as Pharaoh liveth, if ye go-forth from hence; except, when your youngest brother come, hither. Send one of you, and let him •etch your brother: and you, be ye in bonds; that your words may be proved, whether truth be in you: and if not, as Pharaoh liveth surely ye are spies. And he put them all together, into ward, three days. And Joseph said unto them, in the third day; This do, and live: I, fear God. If ye be true▪ men; let one of your brethren, be bound in the house of your ward: and go you, bring ye corn, for the famine of your houses. And bring your youngest brother, unto me; and your words shall be verified, and ye shall not die: and they did so. And they said, each-man unto his brother; Verily, we are guilty, concerning our brother: in that we saw the distress of his soul, when he besought us-forgrace, & we heard him not: therefore, this distress; is come upon us. And Reuben answered them, saying; did not I say unto you, saying, do not sin against the child, and ye heard not? & his blood also, behold it is required. And they, knew not; that Joseph heard: for an interpreter was between them. And he turned about from them and wept: and he returned unto them, and spake unto them; & took from them Simeon; and bound him, before their eyes. And Joseph commanded, that they should fill their vessels with corn; and to restore, every man's money into his sack; & to give them, provision, for the way: and thus, did he unto them. And they took up their corn, upon their asses: and went, from thence. And one opened his sack to give provender, to his asse, in the Inn: and he saw his money, and behold it was, in his bags mouth. And he said unto his brethren, my money is restored; and also, behold it is in my bag: and their heart went-forth; and they treēbled, ech-man to his brother, saying; what is this, that God hath done, unto us? And they came, unto Jacob their father, unto the land of Canaan: and told him, all that befell them, saying. The man, the lord of the land, spake with us, hard-words: & took us, as spies of the land. And we said unto him, we are true men: we are not spies. We were 12. brethren, sons of our father: one is not, & the youngest is this day, with our father, in the land of Canaan. And the man, the lord of the land said unto us; By this shall I know, that ye, are true men: leave one of your brethrē, wth me; and take for the famine of your houses; & go. And bring your youngest brother, unto me; and I shall know, that ye are not spies; but that ye are true men: I will give you, your brother; and ye shall traffic, in the land. And it was, they emptying their sacks; that behold, every man's bundle of money, was in his sack: and they saw the bundles of their money, they and their father, and they feared. And Jacob their father, said unto them; Me, have ye bereaved-of children (◊) Joseph is not, and Simeon is not; and Benjamin ye will take away; all these things, are against me. And Reuben said unto his father, saying; Slay, my two sons; if I bring him not, unto thee: give him, into my hand; & I, will bring him again unto thee. And he said, my son shall not go down, with you: for his brother is dead, and he, is left himself alone; and mischief shall befall him, by the way, in the which ye go; and ye shall bring-down my gray-hayres, with sorrow, unto hell.

Annotations.

Corne-to-sell] or sale of corn: so the Hebrew Sheber, (which is breaking,) is here translated in Greek, the selling of wheat: the Chaldee also so expresseth it. See Gen. 41 56. Jacob saw, that is, understood this, by the report of others; he heard it, verse. 2. So the people saw the voices, Exod. 18. 20. one on another] or, on yourselves: as negligent, or as men helpless, none knowing what to do. The Greek translateth, why are ye slothful: By the famine that came over all Egypt and Canaan, there was great affliction, that our fathers found no sustenance: Act. 7. 11. In Abram's days, Canaan was vexed with famine, Gen. 12. 10. again in Isaac's time, Gen. 26. 1. and now in Jacob's. So God exercised the faith and patience of the Saints, in the common calamities of the world. The like was in Act. 11. 28.

Vers. 4. lest mischief] understand, I must take heed lest, &c. see Gen. 3. 22. For mischief, the Chaldee putteth death: the word implieth it, and lesser evil also, as appeareth by Exod. 21. 22. 23. 24. The Greek calleth it, sickness.

Vers. 6. the ruler] he that had authority and power, in his hand; as the original word signifieth, Eccles. 8. 8. 4. and David confirmeth, Psal. 105. 22. Of the Hebrew Shallet, and Shilton, is made in Arabike the name Sultan, a title whereby the chief rulers of Egypt and Babylon are still called. bowed down] so fulfilling the Oracle, in Gen. 37. 7. 8.

Vers. 7. made himself strange] in Greek, he was allenated from them. The Chaldee expounds it, he bethought him what he should speak with them. with them] or, unto them: for the scripture useth these phrases indifferently, as speak not with us in the Jews language, 2 Kings 18. 26. or speak not unto us, Isaiah 36. 11. and, spake with him, 2 Chron. 10. 10. or, spake unto him, 1 King. 12. 10. and in Greek, as, he spake with them, Mark. 6. 50. or, he spake unto them, Mat. 14. 27.

Vers. 9. spies] The Hebrew hath the signification of footing, or going from place to place. The Apostle in Greek translatheth it spies, Heb. 11. 31. nakedues] that is, the naked, weak, or ruined places; as the Chaldee explaineth it. The Greek translatheth it footsteps. Joseph dealeth with his brethren in sin, as God doth with his children: who often estrangeth himself from them, dealeth roughly, and counteth them unto him as his enemies, Job. 19. 11. and 13. 24.

Vers. 11. true] or upright, honest men. The Greek saith, peaceable.

Vers. 13. is not] that is, he is dead: as the phrase signifieth, Matt. 2. 16. 18. and so it is expounded in Gen. 44. 20.

Vers. 15. as Pharaoh liveth] a kind of asseveration or swearing, (as the like phrase of God manifesteth, Ier. 5. 2.) which sometime is joined with the name of God, as 1 Sam. 20. 3. as the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth: so 2 Kings 2. 2. 4. 6. 2 Sam. 15. 21. 1 Sam. 25. 26. And to swear by the kings-life, was a great oath in Egypt. The Greek translatheth, by the health of Pharaoh. It may also be read as a wish; so Pharaoh live: and is likewise an earnest asseveration. if ye go] that is, ye shall not go; as the Greek explaineth it: see Gen. 14. 23. youngest] Hebrew, little: so after, in verse. 20. 32. 34.

Vers. 16. be ye in bonds] you shall be bound, or prisoners. In Greek, be ye led-away, until your words be manifest, whether ye speak-truth or not.

Vers. 17. put them altogether] Hebrew, gathered them. ward] or prison: called the house of ward (or custody) verse. 19. and so by the Chaldee here. Here God by tribulation, calleth the Patriarchs to repentance for their sins: he chasteneth us for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness; Heb. 12. 10.

Vers. 18. the third day] of which number, divers things are observed, on Gen. 22. 4.

Vers. 19. bring] to your families. corn] for the famine: or, after the Hebrew phrase, the breaking of the famine; meaning corn: as Gen. 41. 56. The Chaldee saith, corn which wanteth in your houses.

Ver. 21. guilty] the Greek translath in sin. our brother] Joseph they mean, who besought them when they sold him into Egypt, Gen. 37. Thus by afflictions they are brought to acknowledge their sin committed about 13. years before, which their consciences did now accuse them of. So God saith, I will go and return to my place, till they acknowledge their guiltiness, and seek my face: in their affliction they will seek me early: Hos. 5. 15. distress] or anguish, the Greek translath, we despised the tribulation.

Vers. 22. is required] that is, God punisheth us for killing our brother: as is threatened, Gen. 9. 5. After many years, the guilt of innocent blood could not be removed out of their hearts; but the memory is renewed upon this their trouble.

Verse 23. heard] that is, understood: as Gen. 11. 7.

Vers. 24. weps] showing his love and natural affection, which yet he hid from his brethren, till they were thoroughly humbled. So God in men's afflictions often hideth himself, Isaiah 46. 15. Psal. 10. 1. yet in all their affliction, he is afflicted, Isaiah 63. 9. Simeon] who seemeth by this, to have been the chief procurer of Joseph's trouble; he was by nature, bold and fierce, as his fact against the Schemites doth manifest; Gen. 34. 25. & 49. 7.

Vers. 25. vessels] meaning, their sacks. money] Hebr. their silvers. provision,] or food: the Greek addeth, food enough. did he] or, as the Greek translath, it was done, meaning by Joseph's servant. See the like phrases noted, on Gen. 2. 20. and 16. 14. The holy Ghost observeth this kindness of Joseph, who was far from revenge, and did good for evil. Thus we should do, Rom. 12. 17. 19. Mat. 5. 44.

Vers. 28. went forth] or, was gone, that is, failed them: or (as the Greek translath) was astonished; A like speech is in Song. 5. 6. My soul went forth, that is, failed: fainted. The Chaldee translath, the knowledge of their heart departed. trembled] or, (as the Greek saith) were troubled: and so manifested it one to another, See Gen. 27. 33.

Vers. 30. took us] Hebrew, gave us: that is, esteemed and counted. Or used us; as the Greek translath, he put us in prison. A like phrase is in 1 Sam. 1. 16.

Verse 33. for the famine] understand from the 19. verse, corn for the famine. And so the Gr. expresseth it here, as there. The Chaldee also saith, corn that wanteth in your houses. Such defects are often in scripture: as, he slew Goliath, 2 Sam. 21. 19. for, the brother of Goliath, as is expressed in 1 Chro. 20. 5.

Vers. 36. against me] or upon me, as a heavy burden, hastening my death. [unspec 36]

Vers. 37. my two sons] so the Greek translath, and the Hebrew is elsewhere so used, Exod. 18. 3. But it may also be Englished, two of my sons: he having four in all, Gen. 46. 9. This condition being unnatural and sinful, Jacob would not admit of: but continueth his purpose, not to let Benjamin go, ver. 38.

Vers. 38. himself alone] meaning of Rachel's children, as is explained, Gen. 44. 20. 27. 28. and] or, if mischief; in Chaldee, death: see verse. 4. my gray hairs] Hebrew, my grainesse, or,

hoariness: that is, me who am gray headed. unto hell] to the grave, or state of death. See Gen. 37. 35. Jacob in these doubts and fears, bewrayeth weakness of faith; which afterwards he overcometh, resting in the providence of God: and then Moses nameth him Israel, Gen. 43. 11.

CHAP. XLIII.

1, The famine continuing, Jacob would send again into Egypt; but his sons durst not go without their youngest brother. 8, Judah offereth to be surety for Benjamin. 11, Israel at length yieldeth, and sendeth them with a present, double money, and a blessing. 15, Joseph entertaineth his brethren. 18, They are afraid; and offer the steward the money which had been restored them. 23, The steward comforteth them, and bringeth out Simeon. 26, Joseph receiveth their present, 29, blesseth Benjamin, 31, and maketh all his brethren a feast, 34, but showeth special favor to Benjamin.

AND the famine, was heavy in the land. And it was, when they had made-an-end of eating the corn which they had brought, out of Egypt: that their father said unto them; Go-again, buy for us a little food. And Judah said unto him, saying; The man did protesting protest unto us, saying, ye shall not see my face; except your brother be with you. If thou wilt send our brother, with us, we will go-down, and buy food for thee. And if thou wilt not send him, we will not go-down: for the man said unto us, ye shall not see my face; except your brother be with you. And Israel said; wherefor did you me the evil; to tell the man, whether ye had yet a brother? And they said, the man asking asked of us and of our kindred, saying; Is your father yet alive? have ye a brother? and we told him, according to the tenor of these words: Did we knowing know, that he would say, bring your brother down? And Judah said unto Israel his father; send the young man with me, and we will arise and go: that we may live and not die, both we and thou, and also our little ones. I, will be surety for him; of my hand, shalt thou require him: if I do not bring him unto thee, and set him before thee, then will I be a sinner unto thee, all days. For, except we had lingered: surely now we had returned these two-times. And Israel their father, said unto them; if (it must be) so now, do this, take of the praiseworthy fruit of the land, in your vessels; and carry down to the man, a present: a little baulm, and a little honey, spices and myrrh, terebinth-nuts, and almonds. And take in your hand, double money: and the money that was restored, into the mouth of your bags, ye shall carry again in your hand: peradventure it was an over-sight. And take your brother: and arise, go-again unto the man. And God Almighty, give you mercies, before the man; that he may send-away with you, your other brother, and Benjamin: and I, if I be bereaved of-my-children, I am bereaved. And the men took this present; and took double money in their hand, and Benjamin: and arose, and wentdown-to Egypt; and stood, before Joseph. And Joseph saw Benjamin, with them, & he said to him that was over his house, bring the men to house: and slay a slaughter (of beasts,) and make-ready; for the men shall eat with me at noon. And the man did as Joseph had said: and the man brought the men into Joseph's house. And the men feared, because they were brought into Joseph's house: and they said, for the matter of the money, that was returned in our bags at the first; are we brought-in: to roll himself upon us: and to fall upon us; and to take us for servants, and our asses. And they came near unto the man, which was over Joseph's house: and they spake unto him at the door of the house. And said, Oh my lord: coming-down we came-down at first, to buy food. And it was, when we came to the Inn, and opened our bags; that behold every-man's money was in the mouth of his bag; our money in the weight thereof: and we have brought it again, in our hand. And other money, have we brought-down in our hand, to buy food: we know not, who put our money, in our bags. And he said, peace be to you, fear not; your God, and the God of your father, hath given to you the treasure, in your bags; your money, came unto me: and he brought out Simeon, unto them. And the man brought the men, into Joseph's house: and gave them water, and they washed their feet, and he gave provender to their asses: And they made ready, the present; against Joseph came, at noon: for they heard, that they should eat bread, there. And Joseph came to house; and they brought unto him, the present which was in their hand, into the house: and they bowed-down-themselves unto him, to the earth. And he asked them, of their peace; and said is there peace to your father the old-man, of whom you spake? is he yet alive? And they said; there is peace to thy servant, to our father, he is yet alive: and they bendeddowne-the-head, and bowed-themselvesdowne. And he lifted-up his eyes; and saw Benjamin his brother, his mothers-son; and said, is this your younger brother, of whom you spake unto me? and he said, God be gracious unto thee, my son. And Joseph made-hast; for his bowels did yern, towards his brother; and he sought, (where) to weep; and entered into a chamber, and wept there. And he washed his face, and went-out: and refrained himself; and said, set-on bread. And they set-on for him, by himself alone, and for them by themselves alone; and for the Egyptians that did eat with him, by themselves alone: because the Egyptians, might not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is an abomination, unto the Egyptians. And they sate before him; the first-borne, according to his first birthright; and the youngest, according to his youth: & the men marvelled, each man at his neighbor. And he took-up measses from before him, unto them; and Benjamins measse, was five times more, then the measses of any of them: and they drank and largely-drunk, with him.

Annotations.

BUy] Hebrew, break: so after, verse. 4. 20. &c. See Gen. 41. 56.

Vers. 3. protesting] that is, did solemnly and earnestly protest, even with oath, Gen. 42. 15. Of this phrase, see Gen. 2. 17. be] or, as the Greek translath, unless your younger brother come with you.

Verse 7. asking] that is, straitly asked: see ver. 3. They excuse themselves, as having not done it purposely, but of necessity; which they could not honestly avoid. tenor] Hebrew mouth of these words; that is, as the Greek translath, according to this asking, of his. did we knowing know] that is, did (or could) we any way know; or certainly know?

Ver. 8. young-man] meaning Benjamin: who was now above 30. years of age; being but seven years younger then Joseph.

Vers. 9. will I be a sinner] or sin; that is, be guilty, as a violator of my faith; and subject to punishment according. So the word *sinner*s, is used in 1 King. 1. 21. all days] of my life: or, forever:

Vers. 11. praise-worthy-fruit] Hebrew of the music (or melody) of the land; meaning the best fruits most commendable, and for which songs of praise are given to God. So the Greek translatheth it, fruits; and the Chaldee, that which is laudable. So a blessing is said to be in the cluster of grapes, Isaiah 65. 8. baulm] or rosen: see Gen. 37. 25. Therebint nuts] or, nuts of the turpentine tree. So the Greek translatheth it, Terebinth. The word is not found elsewhere in holy scripture. By this present, Jacob thought to procure favor, as he did before, Gen. 32. 20 &c. for, a man's gift maketh room for him, & bringeth him before great men. Prov. 18. 16. So Kings, bring presents to Christ; Psal. 72. 10.

Verse 12. double money] because the famine continuing, it was like, corn was dearer. an oversight] or error, Greek, an ignorant act. Hereupon justice required, that the money should be restored.

Verse 14. if I be] or, when I be bereaved: a like phrase is in Esth. 4. 16. if I perish, I perish. Both of them, seem to be a committing of themselves, and of the event of their actions unto God in faith: which if it fell out otherwise then they wished, they would patiently bear.

Vers. 16. him that was over] that is, his steward: so verse 19. and 44. 1. see Gen. 41. 40. a slaughter.] as is wont to be killed for a feast. So in Prov. 9. 2. 1 Sam. 25. 11. Gen. 31. 54.

Vers. 18. for the matter] or, because of the money, as the Greek translatheth. So gnal debar, signifieth because, or concerning, Exod. 8. 12. to roll] that he may roll; namely, the Lord of the land; by rolling, meaning violent oppression, as the Chaldee expoundeth it domintering, and the Greek false accusing, or, calumniation. See the like phrase in Job 30. 14. to fall] or to fell, that is, cast down himself; which the Chaldee translatheth, seek an occasion against us. A guilty conscience made them fearful and suspicious. So God's works of grace, through our sin and ignorance, do occasion our fear; Judge. 13. 32. 23. Mat. 14. 25. 26. 27.

Vers. 20. Oh] or Unto me; understand, look, or let thine eyes be; as the phrase is more fully expressed, in Job 6. 28. and 7. 8. The Greek and Chaldee translations make it here a word of entreating, We pray. So Gen. 44. 18. Exod. 4. 10. Judge. 6. 15. Ios. 7. 8.

Vers. 23. peace to you] that is, be of good comfort: or, ye are in safety. Peace is here opposed to sear: so in Job 21. 9.

Vers. 25. against] or, until Joseph come. eat bread] the Greek explaineth it, dine there. [unspec 25]

Vers. 26. the present] Gr. the gifts which they had in their hands, which being also from their father; now the sun, and eleven stars, do obeisance to Joseph; as he dreamed. Gen. 37. 10.

Vers. 27. of their peace] that is, of their welfare, how they did, as the Greek translatheth, how do ye? So after, is your father in health? See Gen. 37. 14. and 41. 16.

Vers. 30. made-hast] Gr. was troubled. did yearn] or did burn, were kindled with natural affection. The Greek and Chaldee express it, by being turned. The like is in 1 King. 3. 26.

Vers. 32. an abomination] The Greek explaineth the cause, for that every feeder of sheep was an abomination to the Egyptians: and Moses telleth the same, Gen. 46. 34. The Chaldee more plainly saith, because the Hebrews eat the cattle which the Egyptians worship. Compare this exposition with Exod. 8. 26.

Vers. 33. youngest] Hebr. least according to his littleness: meaning of age, not of stature. at] or, looking upon his neighbor.

Vers. 34. unto them] understand, and sent unto them. five times] or five parts: Hebr. five hands: which the Greek expoundeth five fold; the Chaldee five parts, (or portions.) so Gen. 47. 24. largely-drunk] or drunk themselves-merry: were drunken, which word is used for large drinking, unto mirth, but with sobriety. Hag. 1. 6. John. 2. 10.

CHAP. XLIV.

1. Joseph sending his brethren away with corn, causeth his cup to be put in Benjamins sack. 4, He sendeth after them, complaining of injury. 11, Search is made, and the cup found. 13, They are brought back, and submit themselves to servitude. 17. Joseph would retain Benjamin only. 18, Judah's humble supplication to Joseph: wherein (after relation of things that had passed) he offered himself bond-man in Benjamins stead, in commiseration of his aged father.

AND he commanded him that was over his house, saying; fill the men's bags, with food; so much as they can carry: and put every man's money, in his bags mouth. And my cup the silver cup, put in the bags mouth of the youngest; and his corn money: and he did, according to the word of Joseph, which he hath spoken. The morning was light; and the men were sent away; they and their asses. They were gone out of the city, not gone far; and Joseph said, to him that was over his house; rise-up, follow after the men: and overtake them, and say unto them; wherefor have ye rewarded evil for good? Is not this it, in which my Lord drinketh; and he would searching search diligently for it? ye have done evil, in that ye have done. And he overtooke them: and he spake unto them, these same words. And they said unto him; wherefore speaketh my Lord such words? Far be it from thy servants, to do such a thing. Behold, the money, which we found in our bags mouth; we brought again unto thee, out of the land of Canaan: and how should we steal, out of thy Lord's house; silver, or gold? With whom soever of thy servants it be found, both let him die: and we also will be to my Lord, for servants. And he said; now also according to your words, so let it be: he with whom it is found, shall be my servant; and you, shall be blameless. And they hastened, and took-down, every man his bag, to the ground: and they opened, every man his bag. And he searched, he began with the eldest, and ended with the youngest: and the cup was found in Benjamins bag. And they rent their garments: and laded every man his asse, and returned to the city. And Judah and his brethren, came to Joseph's house; and he, was yet there: and they fell before him, on the ground. And Joseph said unto them; what deed is this, that ye have done? knew ye not, that such a man as I, could searching search-diligently? And Judah said, what shall we say unto my Lord? what shall we speak, and how shall we justify ourselves? God hath found out, the iniquity of thy servants; behold, we are my Lord's servants; both we, and he in whose hand the cup is found. And he said, far be it from me, to do this: the man, in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and you, get ye up in peace, unto your father.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

And Judah came-near unto him, and said; O my Lord; let thy servant I pray thee, speak a word in the ears of my Lord; and let not thy anger be kindled, against thy servant: for thou art, even as Pharaoh. My Lord asked his servants, saying; have ye a father, or a brother? And we said unto my Lord; we have a father, an old-man; and a child of his old-age, the youngest: and his brother is dead; and he himself alone, is left of his mother, and his father loveth him. And thou saydst unto thy servants; bring him down, unto me: that I may set mine eye, upon him. And we said unto my Lord; the young-man, cannot leave his father: and if he should leave his father, then he would die. And thou saydst unto thy servants; if your youngest brother, come not down, with you; ye shall no more, see my face. And it was, when we came-up, unto thy servant, my father: then we told him, the words of my Lord. And our father said; Return, buy for us a little food. And we said, we cannot go-down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go-down; for we cannot see the man's face; and our youngest brother, not be with us. And thy servant, my father, said unto us: you do know, that my wife bare unto me two. And the one, went-out from me; and I said, surely he is torn is torn-in-pieces: and I saw him not, since. And if ye take this also, from my face, and mischief befall him: then shall ye bring down my gray-hairs, with evil unto hell. And now; when I come, to thy servant my father; and the young-man, he be not with us: and his soul, is bound-up in his soul. Then will it be, when he seeth that the young-man is not, that he will die: and thy servants shall bring-down, the gray-hairs of thy servant our father, with sorrow unto hell. For thy servant, became surety for the young-man; unto my father, saying: if I bring him not, unto thee; then will I, be a sinner unto my father; all days. And now, I pray thee let thy servant abide, instead of the young-man; a servant to my Lord: and let the young-man, go-up with his brethren. For how, shall I go-up to my father; and the young-man, be not with me? lest I see the evil, that shall find my father.

Annotations.

Over his house] that is, his steward: see Gen. 43. 16. 19. The Chaldee calleth him, Provost over the house. So in verse 4. food] that is, corn; as the Chaldee explains it: So in verse 25.

Vers. 2. youngest] Heb. least: meaning in age: so after. By this Joseph meant to try his brethren's love to Benjamin, and to their father: whether they would assist him, in his utmost-peril. The hard measure which before they had offered unto Joseph himself, moved him hereunto.

Vers. 5. Is not this, &c.] Here the Greek translation addeth: Wherefore have ye stolen my silver cup? Is not this, &c. would searching search] so the Chaldee here translatheth it: or would learn by experience by it, that is, would try your truth and loyalty. So the word was used before, in Gen. 30. 27. The Hebrew Nachash (whereof the Serpent in that tongue hath his name, Gen. 3.

1.) signifieth first a diligent observation, trial or search, 1 King. 20. 33. Gen. 30. 27. secondly, a too curious search or finding out, by soothsaying or divination, which God's law forbiddeth, Deut. 18. 10. And so the Greek translateth it here, and Targum Yerushalmi; as if Joseph could find out the theft, by divination, or, by consulting with the soothsayers of Egypt: or used the cup for such an art. So after in verse 15.

Vers. 7. such words] or, according to these words. far be it] or, be it a profane thing: see Gen. 18. 25. such a thing] or, according to this word.

Vers. 8. silver] the Chaldee expounds it, vessels of silver, or vessels of gold.

Vers. 10. blamelesse] or, clear, innocent, and so without punishment: the Greek saith pure. [unspec 10]

Vers. 13. rent their garments] for grief of heart. See Gen. 37. 29. 34. [unspec 13]

Vers. 16. iniquity] other sins, for which they were under God's wrath: though in this they were innocent. This was the end, why God by Joseph brought this temptation upon them, that they might see their former sins, and repent. So the Prophet saith, By this shall the iniquity of Jacob be purged; and this is all the fruit, to take away his sin, Esa. 27. 9.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the eleventh section of the law, called Vajiggash, that is, And (Judah) came-near: see Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 18. Oh] or, Have respect unto me: see Gen. 43. 20. The Greek and Chaldee explain it, I pray thee my Lord. as Pharaoh] that is, of princely power and Majesty: so showing a reason why he besought him not to be angry: for the Kings wrath, is like the roaring of a Lyon: Prov. 19. 12.

Vers. 20. and a child] understand, he hath a child, as the Greek explaineth it. of old age] that is, borne him, when he was old, see Gen. 37. 3. the youngest] or, a little one.

Vers. 21. that I may set] or, and I will set my eye, that is, be hold him. The Greek translateth, and I will have care of him. So, setting of the eye, sometime signifieth, as Ier. 40. 4. In this sense, it was a promise of princely clemency; that they might the more readily bring their brother.

Vers. 22. young-man] so called because he was the youngest of the brethren: yet was he at this time married, and had ten sons. Gen. 46. 21. he] that is, the father would die.

Vers. 23. no more see] or, not add to see my face. See Gen. 43. 3.

Vers. 28 is torn] or, tearing is torn: the Chaldee saith killed: the Greek thus, ye said unto me that he was eaten of wild beasts: see Gen. 37. 33.

Vers. 29. mischieff] in Chaldee, death. gray-hairs] Hebr. graynesse, or, hoarinesse. So Gen. 42. 38. with evil] that is, with affliction and sorrow, as is explained, verse 31. So evils, are often used for afflictions, Deut. 31. 17. Psal. 88. 4. hell] or, the grave: so verse 31. See Gen. 37. 35.

Vers. 30. his soul] that is, the old man's life: see Gen. 19. 17. and 37. 21. bound up in his soul] that is, knit with the young-man's life. The Greek translateth, his soul hangeth on this man's soul, (or life.) This phrase signifieth entire love, as 1 Sam. 18. 1. So the Chaldee expresseth it, his soul is beloved unto him, as his own soul.

Vers. 31. is not] namely, with us, as the Chaldee addeth.

Vers. 32. a sinner] and so guilty, and subject to punishment: see Gen. 43. 9. [unspec 32]

Vers. 33. instead of the young man] herein Judah showeth his faithfulness and love to his father, and brother, in this necessity; upon which experiment Joseph presently manifesteth himself, Gen 45. 1. Judah being surety for his brother, is here an image of Christ (the Lion of the tribe of Judah, Rev. 5. 5.) who being surety for us, Heb. 7. 22. hereby have we perceived his love, that he laid down his life for us, therefore we ought also to lay down our lives for our brethren, 1 John. 3. 16.

Vers. 34. shall find] that is, shall come upon my father. So finding is often used, 1 Chro. 10. 3. Psal. 116. 3. and 119. 113.

CHAP. XLV.

1. Joseph maketh himself known to his brethren. 5, He comforteth them in God's providence. 9, He sendeth for his father. 16, Pharaoh confirmeth it. 21, Joseph furnisheth them for their journey, and exhorteth them to concord. 25, Jacob is revived with the news.

AND Joseph could not refrain himself, before all that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go-out from me: and there stood not a man with him, when Joseph made himself known, unto his brethren. And he gave forth his voice, with weeping: and the Egyptians heard, and the house of Pharaoh heard. And Joseph said unto his brethren, I am Joseph; is my father yet living? And his brethren could not answer him; for they were suddenly troubled at his presence. And Joseph said unto his brethren; Come near to me I pray you, and they came near: and he said, I, am Joseph your brother; he whom you sold, into Egypt. And now, be not grieved; neither let there be anger in your eyes, that ye sold me hither: for God did send me before you, for preservation-of-life. For these two years hath the famine been in midst of the land: and yet, (there are) five years; in which there shall be no earing, or harvest. And God sent me, before you; to put for you a remnant, in the earth: and to preserve life unto you, by a great escaping. And now, not-you send me hither, but God: and he hath put me, for a father to Pharaoh; and a Lord, to all his house; and a ruler, in all the land of Egypt. Haste you, and go up to my father; and say unto him: thus saith thy son Joseph; God hath put me for a Lord, of all Egypt: come down unto me, stand not still. And thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, and thou shalt be near unto me; thou, and thy sons, and thy sons sons: and thy flocks and thy herds, and all that thou hast. And I will nourish thee, there; for yet, (there are) five years of famine: lest thou be impoverished, thou and thy house, and all that thou hast. And behold, your eyes see; and the eyes of my brother Benjamin: that it is my mouth, that speaketh unto you. And you shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt; and of all that ye have seen: and ye shall haste, and bring-down my father; hither. And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, & wept: and Benjamin, wept upon his neck. And he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and afterward, his brethren spake with him. And the voice was heard, in Pharaohs house, saying; Joseph's brethren, are come: and it was good in the eyes of Pharaoh: and in the eyes of his servants. And Pharaoh said unto Joseph; say unto thy brethren, this do ye; lade your beasts, and go get ye, to the land of Canaan. And take our father, & your houses, and come unto me: and I will give you, the good of the land of Egypt; and ye shall eat, the fat of the land. And thou art commanded, this do ye: take unto you out of the land of Egypt, wagons, for your little ones, and for your wives; and take-up your father, and come. And your eye, let it not spare your stuff: so the good of all the land of Egypt, is yours. And the sons of Israel did so; and Joseph gave them wagons, according to the mouth of Pharaoh: and gave them provision, for the way. To all of them he gave, to ech man changes of garments: and to Benjamin he gave, three hundred (shekels) of silver; and five changes of garments. And to his father, he sent after this manner, ten he-asses; carrying of the good things of Egypt: and ten she-asses, carrying corn and bread, and victuals for his father, by the way. And he sent away his brethren, and they departed: and he said unto them, be not stirred (one against another) by the way. And they went-up, out of Egypt: and came, to the land of Canaan; unto Jacob their father. And they told him, saying; Joseph is yet alive; and that he is ruler over all the land of Egypt: and his heart fainted, for he believed them not. And they spake unto him, all the words of Joseph, which he had spoken unto them; and he saw the wagons, which Joseph had sent, to carry him: and the spirit of Jacob their father revived. And Israel said; it is enough, Joseph my son is yet alive: I will go and see him, before I die.

Annotations.

REfraine] or contain himself by force, from crying out and manifesting himself, as hitherto he had done, Gen. 43. 31. This word, the Prophet applieth also unto God, who having long refrained himself in the afflictions of his people; will in the end for their deliverance, cry out like a travelling woman, &c. Esa. 42. 14.

Vers. 2. gave forth his voice] that is, cried-aloud, An Hebrew manner of speaking often used, as Numb. 14. 1. 2 Chron. 24. 9. Psal. 46. 7. and 68. 34. and 77. 18. So the Greek, He sent forth his voice with weeping.

Vers. 3. suddenly troubled] or appalled, with fear, and hasty troubled thoughts. Occasioned by the conscience of their former wickedness, and the beholding of Joseph's present glory. So when the spirit of grace shall be poured upon the Israelites, they shall see Jesus whom they have pierced; and shall mourn for him, &c. Zach. 12. 10. Rev. 1. 7.

Vers. 4. he whom] Hebr. me: which word either may be omitted, (as that observed on Gen. 5. 29.) or expressed in English, he: added for vehemency sake, and to assure his brethren, that he was Joseph.

Vers. 5. anger] or displeasure, grief, as Gen. 4. 5. that is, be not angry (or displeased) with yourselves. He would have them-moderate the sorrow for their sin, with consideration of God's providence, that turned it unto good. The Greek translath, let it not seem bad unto you. Here Joseph is far from revenge, or insulting against his troubled brethren: so Christ prayed for his crucifiers, Luke 23. 34. and by his Apostles comforted them with hope of the blotting out of their sins, when the times of refreshing should come from the presence of the Lord, Acts 3. 14. 15. 17: 18. 19.

Vers. 6. earing] that is, ploughing, or tillage of the land: the Chaldee saith, sowing. This seemeth to be for lack of corn, which therefore in the last year, Joseph supplied: Gen. 47. 23.

Vers. 7. to put for you a remnant] that is, to preserve for (or unto) you, a remainder, that you and yours might remain alive. The contrary whereof is in 2 Sam. 14. 7. The Greek translateth, that there might be left unto you a remnant. to preserve-life unto you] that is, to keep you and yours alive. Or, to preserve alive unto you: as the Greek turneth it, to nourish up of you a great remnant. by a great escaping] or, evasion; that is, by a great deliverance; or, (according to the Greek interpretation) by a great multitude-that-escape: having respect to the great multiplication of them in Egypt according to God's promise, Gen. 15. 13. 14. The Hebrew escaping or Evasion, is used for a company or remnant that escape danger, 2 Chron. 30. 6. Esa. 10. 20. (as captivity, is a company of captives, Numb. 21. 1. Deut. 21. 10.) and so the Greek here translateth it a remnant.

Vers. 8. but God] whose wisdom and providence ruleth all, and his goodness turneth the evil actions of men, oftentimes to good events: therefore is this ascribed to GOD rather than to them, Gen. 50. 20. Psal. 105. 17. So Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles & the people of Israel, did against Jesus, whatsoever God's hand, and his counsel determined before to be done; Act. 4. 27. 28. put me for] or, as the Greek explaineth it, made me as a father; so acknowledging God to be his exalter, as he had been his afflicter. A father, is used for any teacher, guide, counsellor, &c. Judge. 17. 10. 11.

Vers. 10. Goshen] in Greek Gesem: a province in the land of Egypt, fat and fertile, good for to feed cattle, lying next to the land of Canaan: see Gen. 46. 28. 29. and 47. 1. 6. 27.

Vers. 11. impoverished] Greek, worn-out: that is, perish with poverty. thy house] that is, household: in Greek, thy sons.

Vers. 12. my mouth] and not an interpreter, as did before, Gen. 42. 23. for an interpreter is another man's mouth, Exod. 4. 16. The Chaldee saith; in your tongue I speak with you.

Vers. 14. wept] through joyful passion of mind. See Gen. 29. 11.

Vers. 15. spake] being refreshed by his words, from their-amazed fear, which keepeth men from speaking, Psal. 77. 5. By speaking may also be implied the confession of their sin, and fear for the same. So Moses spake, Exod. 19. 19. that is, acknowledged his fear and infirmity, Heb. 12. 21.

Vers. 16. the voice] that is, the fame, or rumour of this thing. good in the eyes] that is, pleasing: they liked well of it. See Gen. 16. 6. The Greek here translateth, Pharaoh was glad.

Vers. 18. Your houses] that is, your households, as v. 11. The Chaldee saith, the men of your houses: the Greek, your goods. the good] that is, the good things: the Greek addeth, of all the good things. So after in verse 20. and 23. the fat] the Chaldee translath, the good; the Greek, the marrow: that is, the best fruits: see Gen. 27. 28.

Vers. 19 thou art commanded] thou (Joseph) hast authority from me and full power. The Greek expresseth it thus: and thou command, thou these things, that they take wagons, &c. As Pharaoh here showeth himself bountiful and gracious to Jacob's house, for Joseph's sake: so God hath promised for Jesus sake: to make Kings the nursing fathers of Israel, Esa. 49. 1.—23.

Vers. 20. let it not spare] that is, not regard your stuff (or vessels;) or, let it not be grieved, to leave your stuff behind you. The eye-sparing (or pitying) is a common phrase, see Deut. 7. 16. and 19. 13. 21. Ezek. 7. 4 9. and 16. 5. and 20. 17. &c.

Vers. 21. the mouth] that is, the commandments, verse 19. or words, as the Greek explaineth it. So in Job 39. 30. Eccles. 8. 2. See Gen. 24. 57. provision] or food, as the Greek hath.

Vers. 22. changes of garments] robes, or upper garments, which they used in those countries often to shift, putting off and on: as we do clokes or gownes. The Chaldee translath them stoles (or robes;) and the Gr•ere double stoles: & after to Benjamin changeable stoles. Such were wont to be given for honor, or reward, Judge. 14. 12. 19. So in Rev. 6. 11. white stoles, (or robes) are given to the souls under the altar. Also Rev. 7. 9. 14. shekels] or shillings: this word the Chaldee also addeth: see Gen. 20. 16.

Vers. 23. after this manner] as many robes and shekels, as he gave Benjamin: so the Greek translath, according to the same things. Or, as this that followeth: viz. ten asses, &c.

Vers. 24. be not stirred] or, make no stir: that is, as the Greek translath, be not angry: the Chaldee contend not; or, fall not out by the way, The word signifieth stirring with anger and rage, as Prov. 29. 9. 2 King. 19. 27. or with grief, as 2 Sam. 18. 33. This he spake, because some persuaded, and the rest (save Reuben) consented to the selling of him into Egypt: Gen. 37. that now, they should make no stir about these and the like things; and Rubens former words, in Gen. 42. 22. occasioned this charge.

Vers. 26. and that he] or, leaving out the word that, as superfluous, as the Greek translath, and he ruleth all Egypt. For in the Hebrew, words sometime are redundant, as is observed on Gen. 7. 17. and 17. 4. fainted] or, was weakened, with unbelief; that is, doubted of that they said: yet daunted with the news they brought. So the Chaldee interprets it doubting, or wavering; and the Greek, astonishment. For unbelief and doubting, weakeneth the heart, Rom. 4. 19. 20. Mat. 14. 31. See also Gen. 15. 6.

Vers. 27. revived] the Greek expresseth it by a word (anezopurese) which signifieth the reviving or stirring-up of fire that is buried under ashes; which word Paul useth in 2 Tim. 1. 6. for stirring-up the gift of God. The Chaldee also here translath, the holy spirit restod upon Jacob.

Vers. 28. enough] or much. The Greek translath, It is a great-thing to me, if my son. Joseph yet live: and the Chaldee faith, it is great joy unto me.

CHAP. XLVI.

I, Jacob sacrificing at Beersheba, is comforted of God, concerning his journey. 5, Thence • with his company, goeth into Egypt. 8, The number of his family that went into Egypt. 28, Judah is sent to Joseph, who cometh to meet Israel his father. 31; He instructeth his brethren how to answer to Pharaoh.

And Israel journeyed, and all that he had; and came to Beersheba: and sacrificed sacrifices, unto the God of his father Isaac. And God said to Israel, in visions of the night; and said, Jacob Jacob: and he said, loe here I am. And he said; I am God, the God of thy father: fear not, to go down into Egypt; for I will make of thee there, a great nation. I, will go down with thee, into Egypt; and I, will also bringing bring thee up: and Joseph, shall put his hand upon thine eyes. And Jacob rose-up, from Beer-sheba: and the sons of Israel, carried Jacob their father, and their little-ones, and their wives; in the wagons, which Pharaoh had sent to carry him. And they took their catrell; and their substance, which they had gathered in the land of Canaan; and came into Egypt: Jacob, and all his seed with him. His sons, and his sons sons with him; his daughters, and his sons daughters, and all his seed; brought he with him, into Egypt. And these are the names, of the sons of Israel, which came into Egypt, Jacob and his sons: the first-borne of Jacob, Reuben. And the sons of Reuben: Enoch and Phallu, and Hezron and Carmi. And the sons of Simeon; Iemuel, and Iamin, and Ohad, and Iachin, and Zohar: and Saul, the son of a Canaanitess. And the sons of Levi; Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. And the sons of Judah; Er, and Onan, and Selah, and Pharez and Zarah: and Er and Onan died, in the land of Canaan; and the sons of Pharez, were Hezron and Hamul. And the sons of Issachar; Thola, and Phuvah, and Job and Simron. And the sons of Zebulon; Sered, and Elon, and Iahleel. These, be the sons of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob, in Padan-Aram; and Dinah his daughter: all the souls, his sons and his daughters, were thirty and three. And the sons of Gad; Ziphion, and Haggi, Suni, and Ezbon; Eri, and Arodi, and Areli. And the sons of Aser; Iimnah and Iisvah, and Iisvi, and Beriah; and Serah their sister: and the sons of Beriah; Cheber, and Malchiel. These, are the sons of Zilpah; whom Laban gave, to Leah his daughter: and she bare these unto Jacob, sixteen souls. The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife; Joseph, and Benjamin. And there was borne to Joseph, in the land of Egypt; whom Asenath daughter of Potipherah Priest of On, bare unto him: Manasseh, and Ephraim. And the sons of Benjamin; Belah, and Becher, and Ashbel; Gera, and Naaman, Aechi, and Rosh: Muppim and Huppim, and Ard. These are the sons of Rachel, which were borne to Jacob: and all the souls, fourteen. And the sons of Dan, Chushim. And the sons of Naphtali: Iachzeel, and Guni, and Iezer, and Sillem. These are the sons of Bilhah; whom Laban gave, to Rachel his daughter: and she bare these unto Jacob, all the souls were seven. All the souls that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his thigh, besides the wives of Jacob's sons: all the souls, were sixty and six. And the sons of Joseph, which were borne to him in Egypt; were two souls: all the souls of the house of Jacob, that came into Egypt, were seventy. And he sent Judah before him, unto Joseph; to signify before him, to Goshen: and they came into the land of Goshen. And Joseph, bound his chariot; and went-up, to meet Israel his father, to Goshen: and he presented himself unto him; and he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck, still. And Israel said unto Joseph, now let me die: since I have seen thy face, because thou art yet alive. And Joseph said unto his brethren, and unto his fathers house; I will go-up, and show Pharaoh:

and will say unto him; my brethren, and my fathers house, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me. And the men, are sheep-herds; for they are, men that feed cattle: and they have brought their flocks and their herds, and all that they have. And it shall be, when Pharaoh shall call you; and shall say, what are your works? Then ye shall say; thy servants have been men that fed cattle, from our youth even until now, both we, and also our fathers: that, ye may dwell, in the land of Goshen, because every sheep-herd, is an abomination to the Egyptians.

Annotations.

BEersheba] in Greek, The well of the oath, see Gen. 21. 14. 31. and 26. 33. this was the way from Chebron in Canaan, towards Egypt: and a place where he and his fathers had received mercies from God. Gen. 21. 31. 33. and 26. 33. sacrificed] that is, killed beasts for sacrifice: so both giving thanks for the tidings of Joseph, and consulting with God about his going into Egypt; whither in former time, Isaac his father was forbidden to go, in time of famine, Gen. 26. 1. 2. 3. and whereof he now made some doubt, v. 3. For he knew the oracle, that his seed should be afflicted in Egypt, Gen. 15. 13. 14. and now he and his fathers had been pilgrims 215. years, from the time that God had promised the inheritance of Canaan unto Abraham, Gen. 12. and he saw little hope of the fulfilling of that promise, being now to go but with 70. souls into another barbarous country. Only, as by faith they had sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, Heb. 11. 9. so now also by faith he would go to sojourn in Egypt, if God should so command him. Among the Gentiles they used also to offer sacrifice, when they took a journey in hand: Festus lib. 14.

Vers. 2. visions,] in Greek, a vision, or Sight. See Gen. 15. 1.

Vers. 3. God] Hebr. Ael; that is, the mighty: see Gen. 14. 18. make of thee] Hebr. put thee there unto a great nation. So Gen. 21. 13. This God had promised him in times before, Gen. 28. 14. and 35. 11.

Vers. 4. bringing bring-up] that is, surely bring thee up: Gr. will bring thee up unto the end. This promise was like that which God gave him when he went to Mesopotamia, Gen. 28. 15. And Jacob himself was brought again into Canaan, dead Gen. 50. 5. 13. his posterity were brought alive a mighty army, Ios. 3. &c. And from hence, the Hebrew Doctors gather a general rule, that wheresoever Israel are in captivity (or affliction) the presence of God is with them. R. Menachem on Gen. 46. upon thine eyes] that is, shall close up thine eye when thou diest: and so bury thee. An ancient and honorable custom, used of them, and all nations. The custom (afterwards) in Israel, about the dead, and their burial, was this; they closed up the eyes of the dead; and if his mouth were open, they tied up his jaws, and stopped the holes of his body, after that they had washed him: and anointed him with ointment made of divers sorts of spices: and shaved off his hair, and wrapped him in white linen clothes, that were not of dear price: and they used to cover the face of the dead with a napkin of a zuz, (that is, a quarter of a shekel) price, that the poor might be able also to buy it, &c. And it was unlawful to bury them in shrowds of silk, or cloth of gold, or broiderie, though he were a Prince in Israel; for this was gross pride of spirit, and the corrupt work of infidels. And they carried the dead upon their shoulders unto the grave. Maimonides in Misn. tom. 4. treat. of Mourning, ch. 4. S. 1. 2.

Vers. 6. into Egypt] to sojourn there, in the land of Cham. Psal. 105. 23. This journey of his is sundry times mentioned, Ios. 24. 4. Esa. 52. 4. Act. 7. 15. Num. 20. 15. Deut. 10. 22. This was in the 130. year of Jacob's life, Gen. 47. 9. after the promise made to Abraham 215. years, Gen. 12. 4. in the year of the world, 2298. seed] that is, children, or posterity. See Gen. 3. 15. and 13. 55. So the Chaldee translatheth it sons.

Vers. 7. daughters] one daughter, Dinah, verse 15. so in verse. 23. son. for one son. [unspec 7]

Vers. 9. Carmi] in Greek Charmee. These four, were heads of their fathers house, and of them are named the families of the tribe of Reuben: Exod. 6. 14 Num. 26. 5. 6. 1 Chron. 5. 3. So of the rest that follow.

Vers. 10. Iemuel] called also Nemuel, in Numb. 26. 12. 1 Chro. 4. 14 Ohad] in Greek Aod. This man is not mentioned in the families of Simeon, Num. 26. 12. 1 Chro. 4. 24. it seemeth he and his were then perished. Iachin] called also Iarib. 1 Chron. 4. 24. of him was a family called Iachinites, Numb. 26. 12. Zohar] in Greek Saar: by transposition of letters he is also called Zerah, and his family Zarhites, Num. 26. 13. 1 Chro. 4. 24. Canaanitess] or Canaanitish woman; the cursed stock, with which Israel's sons ordinarily might not marry; Gen. 28. 1.

Vers. 11. Gershon] called also Gershom, 1 Chron. 6. 16. Kohath] or Kehath, in Greek Kath. This man was grand-father to Aaron and Moses, and Marie: Exod. 6. 18 20. Of this family came the Priests of Israel, 1 Chro. 6. 3. 4. &c. and the Kohathites had the principal place in the service of the sanctuary, Num. 3. 31. and they are reckoned before the Gersonites, Num. 4. 34. &c.

Vers. 12. died] by untimely death, at God's hand, for their sin, Gen. 38. 7—10. Hezron] in Greek Asron; but the Apostle writeth him in Greek, Esrom, Mat. 1. 3. by interpretation, the midst of exultation.

V. 13. Issachar] why his family is set before other his elder brethren, is shown on Gen. 35. 23. Thola] he had a rare blessing, in multitude of children: for of this Tholah were 22600. valiant men of war, in David's days, 1 Chron. 7. 2. There was also a Judge of this name and tribe, Judge. 10. 1. Phuvah] called also Phuah, 1 Chron. 7. 1. and so the Greek here writes him, Phoua. Job] called also Iashub, Num. 26. 24. 1 Chron. 7. 1. and so the Greek writeth him here, Iasoub. Simron] or Shimron; in Greek, Zambran.

Vers. 14. Elon] in Greek, Allon. Iahleel] in Greek, Aiel.

Vers. 15. Padan] or Mesopotamia; see Gen. 25. •0. There Leah's sons were borne; but the families of her sons here reckoned, were borne after they came thence into Canaan. all the souls] that is, persons. Gen. 12. 5. Heb. soul, which the Greek translatheth, souls: so after. and three] counting Jacob himself for one, as verse 8. and excluding Er and Onan, which were dead; as Leah herself also was.

Vers. 16. Ziphion] called also Zephon, Num. 26. 15. and here in Greek Saphon. Suni] in Greek, Sannis. Ezbon] called also Ozni, Num. 26. 16. in Greek here Thasoban. Eri] in Greek, Aedeis. Arodi] called Arod, Numb. 26. 17. in Greek, Aoredes.

Vers. 17. Iisvah] in Greek, Iesova. This man's name and family is wanting, in Num. 26. 44. Beriah] in Greek Baria, and Sara their sister.

Vers. 19. wife] so called rather than the rest, because Jacob purposed to married her only, and loved her best; see Gen. 29. 18. 30.

Vers. 20. priest] or prince: see Gen. 41. 45. The Greek saith, Priest of Heliopolis. Ephraim] Here the Greek translation addeth these words: And the sons of Manasseh, whom his concubine Syrabare unto him, were Machir: And Machir begat Galaad. And the sons of Ephraim, Manasseh brother, were Sutalaam and Taam, and the sons of Sutalaam; Edem. This is not in the Hebrew of Moses, but was translated by the Greek interpreters; from 1 Chron. 7. 14. 20. unto this place, by reason of that speech in Gen. 50. 23. that Joseph saw his children to the third generation. And having added these five sons and nephews, they do sum up all in verse 27. to be 75. souls, where the Hebrew hath but 70. and the new testament also allegeth that number, 75. in Act. 7. 14. following the Greek, as it doth elsewhere for Cainan, in Luk. 3. as is observed on Gen. 11. 12.

Vers. 21. Belah] in Greek, Bala; he was the eldest of his sons, 1 Chron. 8. 1. Becher] in Greek, Chobor: he was not the second, but seemeth to be the fourth son, called Nohah, 1 Chron. 8. 2. neither is his name or family reckoned, in Numb. 26. 38. but in 1 Chro. 7. 8. there is mention of his children. Ashbel] in Greek, Asphel. he was the second son by birth, 1 Chro. 8. 1. called also Iediael. 1 Chron. 7. 6. and is named as second in Num. 26. 38. Gera] the Greek translation addeth, and the sons of Bala were Gera. &c. which seemeth to be taken from 1 Chron. 8. 3. where one Gera is made son of Belah. But how Benjamin being himself so young, should now have a sons son, is hard to comprehend. Moreover in Numb. 26. 38. there is no mention of Gera: neither was he Benjamins third son, but Achra, 1 Chron 8. 1. called here Aechi. Naaman] in Greek, Noeman: in 1 Chron. 8. 4. one of this name is son to Belah; as the Greek translation maketh this here: see also Num. 26. 40. Aechi] in Greek, Eigcheim: called also Achiram, Num. 26. 38. & Achrah, the third son of Benjamin, 1 Chro. 8. 1. Rosh] of this man, there is no mention in Num. 26. 38. but in 1 Chro. 8. 2. he seemeth to be named Rapha, the fifth son: who was father to Palti, one of the spies sent to view the land of Canaan, Num. 13. 10. who for his slanderous report, died with the rest, of a plague before the Lord, Num. 14. 36. 37. and so it may be, none of his family was left, to be reckoned in Num. 26. Muppim] in Greek, Mamphein: called also Shupham, Num. 26. 39. and Shuppim, 1 Chron. 7. 12. Huppim] called Hupham, Numb. 26. 39. in Greek, Opheimeim. Ard] The Greek saith, And Gera begat Arad. In Numb. 26. 40. Ard seemeth to be the son of Belah.

Vers. 22. were borne] Hebr. was borne: so in Gen. 35. 26. fourteen] the Greek saith, eighteen: by reason of that addition forementioned in v. 20. yet here faileth one in the sum. The Chaldee agreeth with the Hebrew.

Vers. 23. sons] that is, one Son; which was all that Dan had. So in verse. 7. daughters, for one daughter. Change of number is often in the Hebrew. As tribes of Benjamin. 1 Sam. 9. 21. Sepulchers, 2 Chron. 16. 14. sons for son, Gen. 21. 7. Num. 26. 42. 2 Chro. 24. 25. thieves, for one of them, Matth. 27. 44. Luk. 23. 39. 43. asses, Zach. 9. 9. for an asse, Matth. 21. 5. & he sate upon them, Matth. 21. 7. for which in Mark. 11. 7. is written, he sate upon him. Chushim] called also Shuham, Num. 26. 42. In Greek, Asom.

Vers. 24. Iachziel, &c.] in Greek Asel, and Gouni, and Issachar. Sillem:] or Shillem: called also Sallum, 1 Chron. 7. 13. in Greek, Sullem.

Vers. 26. his thigh] that is, his body; or loins: of his seed: a modest manner of speech: so Exod. 1. 5. sixty and six] so also the Greek here is. This number, is beside Jacob himself, with whom they came.

Vers. 27. two souls] these words the Greek translation doth omit: having added more in verse 20. came] understand, with Joseph and his sons who were there before. seventy] with Jacob and Joseph in the sum. The Greek translath, seventy five; and so Stephen alledgeth the number, Acts 7. 14. the cause is before touched in verse 20. The like is in Exod. 1. 5. But in Deut. 10. 22. the Lxxij. Greek interpreters, as well as the Hebrew, have but 70 souls. Which manifesteth the Hebrew text here to be exact; and the five to be added by the translators. The Hebrew Doctors say, that things beneath do mystically signify things above: and these 70 souls signified the 70 Angels that are about (God's) glorious throne, the Presidents over the (seventy) nations. R. Menachem on Gen. 46. See also the notes on Deut. 32. 8. In that Abraham's seed, in 215. years, were but 70. souls: it showeth the slow and small increase of the church at the beginning. But in 215. years more, they were multiplied to six hundred thousand men, besides women and children, Exod. 12. 37. Num. 1. 46. Hereupon Moses said; Thy fathers went down into Egypt, with 70. souls: and now, Jehovah thy God hath made thee, as the stars of heaven for multitude: Deut. 10. 22.

Vers. 28. to inform] or, to teach; that is, that he might inform (or teach) him. And it may be understood, both that Judas might inform Joseph of his fathers coming; and especially that Joseph might inform and teach where Jacob should abide at Goshen, when there he came; and so as the Chaldee translath it, to prepare before him. Likewise Targum Yerushalmi expoundeth it, to prepare a place for him, wherein to dwell in Goshen. before him] that is, before himself came to Goshen: so the phrase sometime meaneth, as Gen. 30. 30. or, to his face, that is, to meet him; so the Greek translath, he sent Judas before him unto Joseph, to meet him at Heroopolis in the land of Ramesses.

Vers. 29. bound] that is, ordered and made ready, (as the Chaldee expounds it:) tying and coupling the horses in it. So Exod. 14. 6. 1 King. 18. 44. The Greek translath, joined. presented himself] or? was seen, appeared; this was to honor his father. The same word is used in the law, for men's appearing (or presenting themselves) unto the Lord, Exod. 23. 17. still] or yet; that is, a good while; and as the Greek translath, with much weeping.

Vers. 30. let me die] that is, I am willing to die. The Chaldee translath, now though I should die; yet am I comforted; since I see thy face. So Simeon when he saw Christ, Luk. 2. 29. 30.

Vers. 32. sheep-herds] or feeders of sheep: so verse 34. men that feed cattle] so the Greek well explaineth the Hebrew phrase, men of cattle, that is, which feed or nourish them: grasiers. The Chaldee saith, Lord's (or possessors) of flocks. So man of the ground, for an husbandman, Gen. 9. 20. Joseph was not ashamed of his kindred, and their base trade, before King Pharaoh: though he knew their occupation was abominable in Egypt: verse 33.

Vers. 33. works] in Greek, work: that is, your occupation, or trade. So in Gen. 47. 3. an abomination] therefore the Egyptians would not so much as eat with them: see Gen. 43. 32. This is the condition of God's Church on earth; they are made as the filth of the world; the off-scouring of all things; 1 Cor. 4. 13. Even Christ himself (the shepherd of our souls. 1 Pet. 2. 25) was the reproach of men, and despised of the people, Psal. 22. 7. Esa. 53. 3.

CHAP. XLVII.

1, Joseph presenteth five of his brethren, 7, and his father before Pharaoh. 11, He giveth them habitation and maintenance. 13, The famine increasing, Joseph for corn getteth all the Egyptians money, 16, their cattle, 18, their lands to Pharaoh. 22, The Priests land was not bought. 23, He letteth the land to the Egyptians for a fifth part. 28, Jacob's age. 29, He sweareth Joseph, to bury him with his fathers.

AND Joseph came, and told Pharaoh; and said, my father and my brethren; and their flocks and their herds, and all that they have; are come, out of the land of Canaan: and behold they are in the land of Goshen. And he took some of his brethren; five men: and presented them, before Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said, unto his brethren, what are your works? And they said unto Pharaoh, thy servants are shepherds; both we, and also our fathers. And they said unto Pharaoh; for to sojourn in the land, are we come: for there is no pasture, for the flocks, which thy servants have; for the famine is heavy, in the land of Canaan: and now, we pray thee, let thy servants dwell, in the land of Goshen. And Pharaoh said, unto [unspec] Joseph, saying: thy father & thy brethren, are come unto thee. The land of Egypt, [unspec] it is before thee; in the best of the land, make thou thy father and thy brethren to dwell: let them dwell, in the land of Goshen; and if thou knowest, that there be among them, men of activity: then appoint thou them rulers of cattle, over those which I have. And Joseph brought-in, Jacob his father; and made him stand, before Pharaoh: and Jacob, blessed Pharaoh. And Pharaoh said, unto Jacob: how many are the days, of the years of thy life? And Jacob said, unto Pharaoh; the days, of the years of my pilgrimages; are an hundred, and thirty years: few and evil, have been the days, of the years of my life; and they have not attained, unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers; in the days, of their pilgrimages. And Jacob, blessed Pharaoh: and went out, from before Pharaoh. And Joseph placed, his father and his brethren; and gave them a possession, in the land of Egypt; in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses: as Pharaoh had commanded. And Joseph nourished his father & his brethren; and all his fathers house: with bread, according to the little-ones. And there was no bread, in all the land; for the famine was very heavy: and the land of Egypt, & the land of Canaan, fainted; by reason of the famine. And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, & in the land of Canaan; for the corn which they bought: and Joseph brought the money into Pharaohs house. And the money was spent out of the land of Egypt, and out of the land of Canaan: and all the Egyptians came unto Joseph saying, give us bread; and why should we die, in thy presence: because money faileth. And Joseph said, give your cattle; and I will give you, for your cattle: if money fail. And they brought their cattle, unto Joseph; and Joseph gave them bread, for horses, and for cattle of the flock, and for cattle of the herd, and for asses: and he led them with bread, for all their cattle; in that year. And that year, was ended; and they came unto him, in the second year, and said unto him, we will not hide it from my Lord; how-that money is spent, and the possession of beasts, (is come) unto my Lord: there is not left, before my Lord; ought save our bodies, and our land. Wherefore shall we die before thine eyes; both we and our land? buy us and our land, for bread: and we will be, we and our land, servants to Pharaoh; and give thou seed, that we may live and not die, that the land be not desolate. And Joseph bought all the land of Egypt, for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold, every man his field; because the famine prevailed over them: and the land became Pharaohs. And the people, he removed them to cities: from one end of the border of Egypt, even to the other end thereof. Only the land of the priests bought he not: for the priests had an allowance from Pharaoh; and they did eat their allowance, which Pharaoh gave them; therefore, they sold not their land. And Joseph said unto the people; behold, I have bought you this day, and your land, for Pharaoh: loe here is seed for you, and ye shall sow the land. And it shall be, in the revenue; that you shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh: and four parts shall be for you; for seed of the field, and for your meat, and for them that are in your houses, & for meat for your little-ones. And they said, thou hast preserved-us-alive: let us find grace in the eyes of my Lord; & we will be servants to Pharaoh. And Joseph put it for a statute, unto this day, over the land of Egypt, for the fifth part unto Pharaoh: only the land of the priests, of them alone; was not Pharaohs. And Israel dwelt, in the land of Egypt, in the land of Goshen: and they held-possession therein, and were fruitful and multiplied exceedingly.

AND IAKOB LIVED, in the land of Egypt seventeen years: and the days of Jacob, the years of his life; were an hundred & forty years, & seven years. And the days of Israel drew nigh, to die: & he called his son Joseph, and said unto him; if now I have found grace in thine eyes; put I pray thee thy hand under my thigh: & thou shalt do with me, mercy and truth; bury me not I pray thee, in Egypt. But I will lie with my fathers: & thou shalt carry me, out of Egypt; and bury me, in their burying place: and he said, I will do according to thy word. And he said, swear unto me; and he sware unto him: and Israel bowed-himself, upon the beds head.

Annotations.

Some] or part: the Greek faith only, of his brethren. [unspec 1]

V. 3. your works] that is, your occupation. So Gen. 46. 33. shepherds.] Hebr. a feeder of sheep, the singular being put for all, as Gen. 3. 2. or understand, every of them is a shepherd.

Vers. 6. before thee] exposed unto, and free for thee. So Gen. 13. 9. and 20. 15. and 34. 10. of activity] or, of ability, power, prowess. It implieth as well fitness of mind, as of body: and so prudence, diligence, valor, Exod. 18. 21. rulers] or masters: princes. those which I have] meaning either those  $\langle \text{ϕ} \rangle$  ; as the Greek translath, ruler of my cattle: or those rulers (those shepherds) which I have already.

Vers. 7. blessed] that is, saluted him, with prayer for his welfare, and thanks for his bounty. So blessing is used for saluting, 2 King. 4. 29. for praying, Num. 6. 23. 24. for thanks giving, Mat. 26. 26. with Luk. 22. 19. Again, Jacob blessed Pharaoh when he went out, verse 10. that is, took his leave, commending him to God.

Vers. 9. pilgrimages] or sojournings: so he calleth it, rather than life, both for his many removings from place to place, on earth; and for that we have here no abiding city, Heb. 13. 14. and 11. 9. 13. See before, in Gen. 23. 4. are 130. years] his being in the third year of the famine, Gen. 45. 6. Joseph being 30. years old, 7. years before the famine, Gen. 41. 46. showeth that Joseph was borne when his father Jacob was 91. years old: which was the fourteenth year of his service to Laban, Gen. 30. 25. and 31. 41. and so Jacob was 77. year old, when he was sent of his parents from the face of Esau and to get a wife in Mesopotamia, Gen. 28. 1. 2. 10. of my fathers] for Abraham lived 175. years, Gen. 25. 7. Isaac 180. years, Gen. 35. 28.

Vers. 11. placed] or seated, made to dwell. Rameses] a city in the land of Goshen in Egypt: mentioned after in Exod. 12. 37.

Vers. 12. nourished] or sustained, fostered with all things needful: as he had promised, Gen. 45. 11. and after in Gen. 50. 21. Hereupon he is called the feeder and stone of Israel, Gen. 49. 24. The Greek translatheth it esitometrei, that is, he gave them their measure of corn (or portion of meat;) A like word Sitometrion is used for a portion of meat in Luk. 12. 42. which seemeth to have reference unto this place. according to the little ones] that is, according to the number that was in their families, as well small as great. In this sense the Greek translatheth, according to the bodies, that is, the number of their persons. See Gen. 50. 21. The Hebrew may also be Englished, to the mouth of a little one; meaning, as meat is put into a child's mouth, lovingly, tenderly, carefully.

Vers. 13. the land] the Chaldee expoundeth it, the people of the land, fainted, (or were wearied.) So the Greek also translatheth it, fainted: other, raged; as Prov. 26. 18.

Vers. 15. and why] or for why? but and, is oft used in troubled and passionate speeches; see Genes. 27. 28.

Vers. 16. give you] to weet, bread, as the Greek explaineth, & the next verse confirmeth; meaning in exchange for their cattle.

Vers. 17. led them] that is, sed and nourished, as the Greek interpreteth it. [unspec 17]

Vers. 18. the 2. year] namely after their cattle were sold: which was the sixth year of the famine. possession of beasts] that is, flocks and herds and other beasts.

Vers. 19. and our land] to weet, die, that is, be desolate and barren: as the Greek explaineth it thus, that therefore we die not before thee, and our land be desolate, buy us, &c.

Vers. 20. of Egypt] or, of the Egyptians; as the Greek translatheth.

Vers. 21. removed] or made them pass, which was to change their right, and translate the propriety of their land to Pharaoh, therefore the Gr. interpreteth, he brought them into bondage unto him for servants. Targum Yerushalmi giveth another reason hereof, that the Egyptians should not deride the sons of Jacob that were strangers among them. Here was an extraordinary punishment of God, upon others of Chams posterity, brought into bondage. See Gen. 9. 25.

Vers. 22. the priests] or Princes: the original word signifieth both; as is observed on Gen. 41. 45. and 14. 18. But both Greek and Chaldee here translate it priests. an allowance] or constitution, statute: that is, a constituted portion of food, (their daily bread) assigned and allowed them. The Greek translatheth it, a gift; the Chaldee a portion. See also Prov. 30. 8.

Vers. 24. in the revenue] that is, the increase, when it brings forth fruit: as the Chaldee explaineth. parts] Hebr. hands: in Chaldee parts: see Genes. 43. 34.

Vers. 25. let us find grace] vouchsafe to deal in [unspec] this business for us with Pharaoh. See this phrase, Gen. 33. 15.

Vers. 27. exceedingly] or, vehemently, very mightily. [unspec] so God fulfilled his promise, Gen. 46. 3.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the twelfth Section of the law, (and last of Genesis) called And (Jacob) lived. See Gen. 6. 9. This section hath but one letter to distinguish it, whereas the other have three. Hereupon some reckon but 53. Sections in the whole law, joining this with the former. But one R. Abraham, in Zeror Hammor, speaking of this one letter, S. which standeth for Sethumah, that is, close, thinketh this to be a closed section, because (saith he) it is the key, and seal of this book, yea of the whole law, and of all the Prophets, unto the days of Christ. For in Jacob's blessing (Gen. 49.) are shown all the captivities of Israel and the deliverances, until the Teacher of Justice come, as it is written, until Shiloh come. And because the time of Christ's coming was unknown, and none could or should understand it: therefore this Section is continued with the former, without any great distinction: &c.

Vers. 28. 17. year] so long Joseph nourished his father in Egypt, as Jacob had nourished Joseph 17. year, at home: Gen. 37. 2.

Vers. 29. to die] that is, that he must die. See Gen. 23. 8. my thigh] to swear: with this rite, Abraham took an oath of his servant: see Gen. 24. 2. do with me mercy] or, deal mercifully (kindly) with me. See Gen. 24. 49.

Vers. 30. But I will lie] or, when I shall lie-down (that is, sleep) with my fathers, then thou shalt carry me, &c. burying-place] or, grave. This Jacob required, in faith, (as the Apostle observeth of Joseph, Heb. 11. 22.) believing the promises made of God, for his seed to return and inherit that land, which was a figure of their heavenly inheritance. Gen. 50. 24. 25. Hebr. 11. 9. 10. 14. 16. The Hebrew Doctors note of Jacob, that his whole body was buried in Canaan; of Joseph, that his bones only were buried there, (Gen. 50. 25.) and of Moses, that neither his body nor his bones were there buried; yet was he advanced above them all, in that he was buried of God, no man knowing of his sepulcher, Deut. 34. 6. R. Menachem, and the Zohar on Gen. 47.

Vers. 31. bowed himself] namely unto God, with thankfulness, who had after other blessings, given him now this assurance by Joseph's promise and oath, that he should be carried into Canaan, the figure of the kingdom of heaven. Therefore this particular is related by Paul, as a testimony of Jacob's faith, Heb. 11. 21. the beds head] whereon he lay in his age and weakness, and on the head (or bolster) whereof, he rested himself, worshipping God. The like is said of David in his old age; that he bowed himself upon the bed, when he blessed God. 1 King. 1. 47. 48. The Hebrew Mittah, a bed; the Lxxij. Greek interpreters, having a copy without vowels (Mtth) did read it Matteh; which signifieth a staff, and so translated it: whom the Apostle followeth, saying, on the top of his staff, Heb. 11. 21. which might also well be, that he helped himself, by leaning on his staff, and resting on the bolster of the bed. Howbeit the two Chaldee Paraphrasts, and other Greek versions (save that of the Lxxij) translate according to the vowelled Hebrew, bed.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1, Joseph with his sons, visiteth his sick father. 2, Jacob strengtheneth himself to bless them. 3, He repeateth the promise. 5, He adopteth Ephraim and Manasseh Joseph's sons, as his own. 7, He telleth him of his mothers grave. 9, He blesseth Ephraim and Manasseh, 17, He preferreth the younger before the elder, though it displeased Joseph. 21, He prophesieth the Israelites return to Canaan, and giveth Joseph his portion therein.

AND it was, after these things; that one said unto Joseph; Behold thy father is sick: and he took his two sons, with him; Manasseh and Ephraim. And one told Jacob; and said, behold thy son Joseph, cometh unto thee: and Israel strengthened himself; and sate upon the bed. And Jacob said unto Joseph; God almighty, appeared unto me in Luz, in the land of Canaan: and blessed me. And said unto me; behold I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee; and give thee to be an assembly of people's; and will give this land, to thy seed after thee, for an eternal possession. And now, thy two sons, which were borne unto thee in the land of Egypt; before I came unto thee, into Egypt, they are mine: Ephraim and Manasseh, as Reuben and Simeon, shall be mine. And thy begotten issue, which thou shalt beget after them, shall be thine: by the name of their brethren, shall they be called, in their inheritance. And I, when I came from Padan; Rachel died by me, in the land of Canaan, in the way; when yet there was a little-piece of ground, to come to Ephrath: and I buried her there, in the way of Ephrath; that is Bethlehem. And Israel saw, the sons of Joseph: and said, who are these? And Joseph said unto his father; they are my sons; whom God hath given to me, in this place: and he said, take them I pray thee unto me, and I will bless them. And the eyes of Israel were heavy for old-age; he could not see: and he brought them near unto him; and he kissed them, and embraced them. And Israel said unto Joseph; I had not thought to see thy face; and loe, God hath made me to see thy seed also. And Joseph brought them out, from between his knees: and he bowed himself on his face, to the earth. And Joseph took them both; Ephraim in his right-hand, toward Israel's left-hand; and Manasseh in his left-hand, toward Israel's right-hand: & brought them near, unto him. And Israel stretched out his right-hand, and put it upon Ephraim's head, and he was the younger; and his left-hand, upon Manasseh head: he prudently guided his hands; for Manasseh, was the first borne. And he blessed Joseph, and said: the God, before whom my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, did walk; the God which fed me, since I was, unto this day. The Angel which redeemed me, from all evil; bless the lads: and let my name, be called on them; and the name of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac: and let them increase like fish into a multitude, in the midst of the land. And Joseph saw, that his father put his right-hand, upon Ephraim's head, and it was evil in his eyes: and he held-up his fathers hand, to remove it from on Ephraim's head, unto Manasseh head. And Joseph said, unto his father, not so my father: for this is the first borne; put thy right-hand, upon his head. And his father refused; and said, I know it my son, I know it; he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great: but truly, his younger brother shall be greater then he; and his seed, shall be a plenty of nations. And he blessed them in that day, saying; In thee, shall Israel bless, saying; God put thee, as Ephraim, and as Manasseh: and he put Ephraim, before Manasseh. And Israel said, unto Joseph; Behold I die: and God will be with you; and will return you, unto the land of your fathers. And I, do give unto thee one portion, above thy brethren; which I have taken, out of the hand of the Amorite; with my sword, and with my bow.

Annotations.

THings• Hebr. words. one said] or it was said: so verse. 2. [unspec 1]

Vers. 3.  $\langle \emptyset \rangle$  Luz] called also Bethel: see Gen. 28. 13. 19. and 35. 6.

Vers. 4. give thee to] that is, make of thee an assembly, that is, a multitude: see Gen. 35. 11. The Greek expounds it a synagogue (or assembly) of nations; the Chaldee, of tribes.

Vers. 5. And now] or, as the Greek translath, Now therefore. From the former promises, he groundeth his blessings to Joseph's children, as authorized of God hereunto; and putteth them in mind of returning to the promised land. before,] or, until I came: which the Greek translath before: so in Exod. 22. 26. mine] as my next children, and not, my child's children: so these two, are made heirs by adoption with Jacob's sons, and Joseph hath a double portion, the first birthright being taken from Reuben, and given unto him, Gen. 49. 3. 4. 1 Chron. 5. 1. 2. and of Joseph are reckoned two-tribes, both in the Prophets & Evangelist, Num. 1. 32. 34. Rev. 7. 6. 8.

Vers. 6. name of their brethren] of Ephraim and Manasseh; counted of their stock and tribe, as if they were their sons, not their brethren. For children are usually called by their fathers name, not by their brethren's. See after, verse. 16. So Ephraim and Manasseh are adopted into Joseph's place, as fathers of tribes: that if Joseph had ever begotten •oe children, they should have been reckoned as born to Ephraim & Manasseh, his sons.

Vers. 7. Padan] or, as the Greek hath it, Mesopotamia of Syria: see Gen. 25. 20. This mention of Rachel's death, is to show how by right the first birthright came to Joseph her first borne, she being indeed Jacob's first and most lawful wife, Gen. 29. 18. &c. a little piece of ground] a little way: see Gen. 35. 16.

Vers. 9. take] and bring them, as the Greek translath, See Gen. 15. 9. and I will] or, (as the Greek) that I may bless: viz. in the name and authority of God: see Gen. 27. 4.

Vers. 10. heavy] that is, dim; in Greek, heavy sighted; the same word is used for ears, that are heavy or •eaf, Esa. 6. 10. & 59. 1. Compare Gen. 27. 1.

Vers. 11. thought] or judged. The Greek expounds it, Loe I am not deprived of thy face; and loe, God hath shown me thy seed also.

Vers. 12. between] Hebr. from with his knees; the Greek translath, from his knees: the Chaldee, fr•• before him, he bowed] in reverence and thankfulness, for the former adoption, and further blessing to be received. The Greek faith, they bowed, implying his children also.

Vers. 14. prudently guided] so also the Chaldee [unspec] saith, he wisely guided: the Greek translath, changing hands. This sign of imposing hands on the head, is after used in blessings and designations to holy functions, Num. 8. 10. and 27. 18. 20. Deut. 34. 9. Act. 6. 6. 1 Tim. 4. 14. And as the right hand is naturally more strong and honorable then the left, (to which the scripture hath reference in speech also of God, Exod. 15. 6. Psal. 118. 16. and 110. 1.) so Jacob, (whose blessing was stronger then his parents, Gen. 49. 26) giveth the strongest and most honorable blessing to Ephraim, by this sign of the right hand put upon him.

Vers. 15. Joseph] to weet, in his children, as the [unspec] words following manifest: therefore the Greek translath, he blessed them. So on the contrary, Cham, was cursed in his youngest son Canaan: Gen. 9. 25. And in 1 Chron. 4. 31. whiles David reigned: that is, David's sons. did walk] did please by faith, in their conversation and administration: so the Greek translath, pleased: the Chaldee, served. See the notes on Gen. 5. 22. and 17. 1. fed me] or, hath been my pastor: so David celebrateth God by this grace, Psal. 23. 1. and 80. 2. since I was] that is, as the Greek explaineth it, from my youth.

Vers. 16. Angel] Christ, the Angel of the covenant, [unspec] Mal. 3. 1. the Angel in whom God's name is, Exod. 23. 20. 21. called here Jacob's Redeemer, or Deliverer, which is the title of God, Psal. 19. 15. Esa. 43. 14. and 47. 4. The Rabbin's acknowledge this Angel to be God, saying; he mentioneth also God's-majesty (Shechinah) when he saith. the Angel that redeemed me. R. Menachem on Gen. 48. See also Gen. 31. 11. called] that is, named on them, let them be called by my name; as my adopted children, verse. 5. So God's name is said to be called on us, Deut. 28. 10. 2. Chron. 7. 14. Ier. 14. 9. that is, we are called the sons of God, 1 John 3. 1. and the husbands name is called upon the wife, Esa. 4. 1. and the Lord's name, upon the city Jerusalem, Dan. 9. 19. and upon the Temple. 1 King. 8. 43. Ier. 7. 10. 11. on them] or in them. But the Hebrew in, is often used for upon; as Neh. 2. 12. Num. 13. 23. and bammeh, in 2 Chron. 7. 21. is the same that gnal meh, in 1 King. 9. 8. increase like fish] which multiply abundantly: therefore the Greek translath it, multiply: but the Chaldee addeth expressly, like the fishes of the sea; implied in one Hebrew word. According to this blessing, there were of Joseph by these his two sons, 85. thousand and 200. men of war in Moses time; a greater number then was of any other son of Jacob, Numb. 26. 28. 34. 37. And the like blessing was confirmed upon them by Moses, Deut. 33. 17. and Joshua acknowledged them to be a great people. Ios. 17. 17.

Vers. 17. evil in his eyes] that is, it displeased him, (as Gen. 28. 8.) that the younger should be preferred above the firstborn: which notwithstanding was often done by the counsel of God; as Se had the honor above Japheth, Gen. 5. 32. and 9. 26. Abraham above Haran, Gen. 11. 27. Isaac above Ishmael, Gen. 17. 18.—21. and Jacob himself above Esau his elder, Gen. 25. 23. Also in Jacob's house, Judah and Joseph, had preeminence above Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Gen. 49. 1 Chron. 5. 1. 2. And even from the beginning, Kain the firstborn of Adam, was reprobate, Gen. 4. to teach that man's dignity is not by works, or nature; but by God's grace and election, Rom. 9. 7. 8. 11. 15. And this action of blessing Joseph's sons, Jacob performed by faith, Heb. 11. 21.

Vers. 19. shall become] Hebr. shall be to a people: meaning, a father to a multitude. shall be great] in Greek, shall be exalted. greater] Therefore when the Israelites were first numbered in the wilderness, Ephraim was reckoned before, and had 8300. men, more then Manasseh, Numb. 1. 32. 33. 35. Also in camping about the Tabernacle of the Lord, Ephraim had the standard, and was set before Manasseh, Numb. 2. 18. 20. Howbeit in the second mustering, (38. years after) it was otherwise for the number; Num. 26. 28. &c. Yet after that again, Ephraim had his preeminence, Deut. 33. 17. Of him came Joshua the conqueror of Canaan, Num. 13. 9. 17. and Jeroboam King of Israel: whereupon Ephraim is used for the name of that kingdom, Esa. 7. 2. 9. 17. and 11. 13. and 28. 1. Ier. 7. 15. Ezek. 37. 16 Hos. 5. 12. 13. and 9. 3. 11. a plenty] or fullness: that is, as the Greek translatheth, a multitude: so called for filling up a number or place. So, a plenty of shepherds, Esa. 31. 4. that is, a multitude: and this phrase Paul useth in Rom. 11. 25. the plenty of the Gentiles, that is, the full multitude, and number of them. The Chaldee here translatheth, his sons shall be rulers among the people's. Though Ephraim had thus the preeminence, and a chief blessing above the sons of Israel: yet it pleased God to afflict him, before all his brethren; in that evil befell his house, and some of his sons were slain by the men of Gath (the Philistines) for whom Ephraim mourned many days, 1 Chron. 7. 20.—23.

Vers. 20. In thee] or, By thee, that is, taking thee for an example; as the words following show. So Rachel and Leah are propounded for examples in blessing, Ruth 4. 11. Zedekias and Ahab, in cursing, Ier. 29. 22. Israel] that is, my posterity the Israelites: see Gen. 19. 37. and 34. 7.

V. 21. God will be] the Chaldee expounds it, the Word of the Lord will be your help the land] of Canaan, where Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob dwelt, the figure of their heavenly inheritance, Gen. 12. 5. and 26. 3. and 37. 1. whereof Jacob putteth them in mind, and prophesieth their return thither.

Vers. 22. do give] bequeathing as by will and testament, that portion of the land to thee, that is, to thy posterity: above thy brethren: for the first born was to have a double portion, Deut. 21. 17. & now the first birth-right became Joseph's, 1 Chron. 5. 2. & in the figurative description of Christ's Church, Joseph hath two portions, Ezek. 47. 13. portion] the Hebrew Shechem signifieth properly a shoulder, Gen. 9. 23. it was also the name of a city (and the prince thereof,) where Jacob bought a piece of ground, Gen. 33. 18. 19. Here it is used (but with reference to the name of the place,) for a portion of ground, and so the Chaldee plainly expounds it, one chief portion. And that place of Shechem, was the inheritance of Joseph's sons the Ephraimites, Ios. 16. 1. &c. and 20. 7. John. 4. 5. and thither were Joseph's bones carried out of Egypt, and buried, Ios. 24. 1. 25. 32. have taken] that is, shall take; but spoken prophetically, and in faith; (as unto us a child is borne, Esa. 9. 6. which was a prophesy of Christ.) Thus Jacob disposeth of things to come, as already possessed: whereupon his faith in this action is commended, Heb. 11. 21. the Amorite] that is, as the Greek translath, Amorites; which one name is used generally for all the heathens that possessed the land, Ios. 24. 8. Amos 2. 9. my sword] that is, the sword of my children; the Ephraimites; which helped to conquer the land, and were a mighty people in Joshua's time: see Ios. 17. 14.—18. So my armeholes, Ezek. 13. 18. that is, the armeholes of my people: also my womb, Job 3. 10. that is, my mothers womb. The Chaldee understood this sword and bow figuratively; translating, by my prayer, and by my supplication.

CHAP. XLIX.

1. Jacob calleth his sons to bless them. 3, The blessing of Reuben, 5, of Simeon and Levi, 8, of Judas, 13, of Zebulon, 14, of Issachar, 16, of Dan, 19, of Gad, 20, of Aser. 21, of Naphtali, 22, of Joseph, 27, of Benjamin. 29, Jacob chargeth them about his burial in Canaan. 33, He dieth.

AND Jacob called unto his sons: and said; Gather yourselves together, that I may show you; that which shall befall you, in the latter days. Assemble your selves together and hear, ye sons of Jacob: and hearken unto Israel your father. Reuben, thou art my first-borne; my might, and the beginning of my valor: the excellency of hie-dignity, and the excellency of strength. Vnstable as waters, excel not thou; because thou wentest-up, to thy fathers beds: then thou defiledst, my couch he went-up unto.

Simeon and Levi, brethren: instruments of violent-wrong, in their sojourning habitations. My soul, come not thou into their secret; my glory, be not thou united unto their assembly: for in their anger, they killed a man; & in their self-will, they houghed the ox. Cursed be their anger, for it was strong; and their exceeding-wrath, for it was hard: I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them abroad, in Israel.

Judah; thou, thy brethren shall confess thee; thy hand, shall be in the neck of thy enemies: the sons of thy father, shall bow-down themselves unto thee. Judah a renting-lions whelp; from the prey, my son thou art gone-up: he stouped-down, he couched, as a renting-lion, and as a courageous-lion, who shall rouse him up? The Scepter shall not depart from Judah; and the law-giver, from between his feet: until Shiloh come; and unto him, shall the obedience of people's be. Binding his asse-colt unto the vine; and the foale of his asse, unto the choice-vine: he washeth his raiment, in wine; and his covering in the blood of grapes. His eyes shall be red, with wine: & his teeth white with milk.

Zebulon, he shall dwell, at the haven of the seas: and he shall be for an haven of ships; and his side, shall be unto Sidon.

Issachar, is a strong-boned asse: couching, between two-bounds. And he saw rest, that it was good; and the land, that it was pleasant: and bowed his shoulder, to bear; and was, a servant unto tribute.

Dan, he shall judge his people: as one, of the tribes of Israel. Dan shall be, a serpent by the way; an adder, by the path: that biteth the horse heels, & his rider falleth backward. For thy salvation, Iearnestly expect Jehovah. [unspec 18]

Gad, a troupe shall with-troop-overcome him: and he shall with-troop-overcome at the last.

Concerning Aser, his bread shall be fat: and he shall give dainties of a king.

Naphtali, is a hinde let-loose: that giveth goodly sayings.

Joseph, son of a fruitful vine, son of a fruitful vine, by a well: the daughters, each runneth over the wall. And the archers, grieved-him-bitterly; and shot, and hated him. But his bow, abode in strength; and the arms of his hands, were made-firm: by the hands of the Mighty-one of Jacob: from thence the Feeder, the Stone of Israel. By the God of thy father, who shall help thee; and the Almighty, who shall bless thee; with blessings of heaven, from above; blessings of the deep, that lieth under; blessings of the breasts, and of the womb. The blessings of thy father; do prevail, above the blessings of my progenitors; unto the utmost-bound, of the eternal hills: they shall be, on the head of Joseph; and on the crown-of-the-head, of the separated among his brethren.

Benjamin, he shall ravin as a wolf; in the morning, he shall eat the prey: & at evening, he shall divide the spoil. All these, are the twelve tribes, of Israel: and this is it, that their *•*ather spake unto them, and blessed them; every-man, even according to his blessing, he blessed them. And he commanded them, and  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  unto them; I, am to be gathered unto my people; bury me, with my fathers: in the cave, that is in the field of Ephron the Chethite. In the cave, that is in the field of Macpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan: which Abraham bought, with the field; of Ephron the Chethite, for a possession of a burying-place. There they buried Abraham, and Sarah his wife; there they buried Isaac, and Rebekah his wife: and there I buried Leah. In the purchase of the field, and of the cave that is therein, from the sons of Cheth. And Jacob made-an-end, of commanding his sons; and gatheredup his feet, into the bed: and he yielded-up the ghost, and was gathered unto his people's.

Annotations.

The latter days] that is, the days following, or time hereafter: Hebr the posterity of days: which phrase is often used for time to come; as Num. 24. 14. Deut. 4. 30. and 31. 29. Dan. 2. 28. and 10. 14. Prov. 31. 25. So that which is said in Act. 2. 16. it shall be in the last days; is in Joel 3. 1. it shall be hereafter. The Chaldee translatheth it, the end of days: the Greek, the last days: often it meaneth the days after Christ's coming, Esa. 2. 2. Heb. 1. 1.

Vers. 2. hearken] the Chaldee saith, receive instruction. [unspec 2]

Vers. 3. might] or, able-strength: this word (Coach) signifieth that lively vigor, and native moisture, whereby men are strong and lusty: Psal. 22. 16. Ios. 14. 11. as the next word valor, (Hebr. On.) meaneth the straining of the body forcibly to effect a thing desired. of my valor] or, of my manhood; of my painful strength: the first effect of the strength of my body. All the first borne are thus called. Deut. 21. 17. Psal. 78. 51. the Greek translatheth it, the beginning of my children; that is, my first child. Such had natural right to a double portion of all their fathers goods, Deut. 21. 17. the excellency] that is, most excellent in dignity (or preferment.) Whereby the dignity of the priesthood, seemeth to be meant; as by strength following, is meant the government or kingdom. And so the Chaldee paraphrast explaineth it, thou shouldst receive three portions, the first birthright, the priesthood, and the kingdom. The Yerushalmi Targum saith the same: adding this withal, and for the sin of my son Reuben, the first birthright is given to Joseph, the kingdom to Judah, and the priesthood to the tribe of Levi. And that the first borne were Priests, and governors: see Gen. 25. 31. of strength] or excellent strong. This word which properly signifieth hard or firm strength, is often applied to kings and kingdoms, which for the most part are gotten and maintained by strength; and the kings strength, is an honorable style of his Majesty; see Psal. 99. 4. and 110. 2.

Vers. 4. Vnstable] or Light, soon-moved: this is always used in the evil part, Judge. 9. 4. Zoph. 3. 4. ser. 23. 32. and implieth both his sudden light affections, which carried him to evil: and his sudden downfall from his dignity. excel not] that is, thou shalt not excel, but lose thine honor. So the Chaldee explaineth it, thou shalt not have profit, nor receive the excellent portion. he went up unto] the Greek changeth the person, and translateth, on which thou went est up: also the Chaldee expoundeth it, when thou wentest up to my bed. Jacob as with indignation of the fact, turneth his speech from Reuben to his brethren. Such changes are often in the holy text, as Deut. 5. 10. that love me, and keep his commandments; for which in Exod. 20. 6. is my commandments. And in Dan. 9. 4. thou keepest covenant towards them that love him: for, that love thee. So Mark. 11. 32. they feared the people: for w<sup>ch</sup> in Matt. 21. 26. is written, we fear. Otherwise we may read it thus, thou defiledst my couch, it is gone-up: that is, it is vanished away; meaning the excellency which we should have had. For by defiling Bilhah his fathers concubine, he lost his birthright, Gen. 35. 22. 1 Chron. 5. 1. 2. To go-up, is sometime used for vanishing away, Exod. 14. 16. Jer. 48. 15.

Vers. 5. brethren] specially consociate in that evil deed of killing the Sychemites, Gen. 34. 25. and so brethren, not in nature only, but in conditions, See Gen. 10. 21. instruments] or weapons, to weet, they were: giving themselves and their members as weapons of unrighteousness unto sin, as Paul speaketh, Rom. 6. 13.) meaning of their cruel fact forementioned, Gen. 34. 25. sojourning habitations] in the land of their sojourning, as saith the Chaldee paraphrast; where they being strangers, endangered the ruin of themselves and their fathers house, Gen. 34. 30. Or, their agreements, meaning the covenanted conditions made with the Sychemites, to consent unto them if they would be circumcised, which was with deceit, Gen. 34. 13. 15. &c. Thus also the Greek may be understood, hairesis being sometime used for a conditional covenant. Or, their swords: but the word is not so found elsewhere.

Vers. 6. secret] that is, as the Greek translateth it, and Targum Yerushalmi, their council, their assembly. So David saith, the secret of evil doers, Psal. 64. 3. and Jeremiah, the secret of mockers, Jer. 15. 17. that is, the assembly. Jacob here meaneth that neither should any, neither would he approve of their perfidy. glory] or honor, hereby may be meant the tongue which is the glory of man by speech, being good, and the contrary if it be evil, I am. 3. 5. &c. So my glory, Psal. 16. 9. is by the Apostle cited, my tongue, Act. 2. 26. Otherwise it is a repetition of the former, my glory, that is, my soul. a man] Hemor the King, and Sychem his son, with the men of the city: Gen. 34. 25. 26. Therefore the Greek translatheth it men: and Targum Yerushalmi, Kings and rulers. And the singular is often put for many, as the man of Israel fled, 1 Chro. 10. 1. that is, the men of Israel, 1 Sam. 31. 1. See also Gen. 3. 2. self-will] or pleasure. houghed the Ox] so the Greek also translatheth it: meaning that they took away and destroyed the oxen, and other beasts of the Sychemites, Gen. 34. 28. Ox is for Oxen, as Gen. 32. 5. Some (as the Chaldee) translate, they pulled down the wall: but Shor, (the word here used) is properly an ox or bull: and Shur a wall: neither was there mentioned any pulling down of walls in Gen. 34. Therefore the Yerushalmi Targum expounds it of their selling of Joseph who is likened to an ox. Deut, 33. 17. But that seemeth not to be intended here.

Vers. 7. I will divide] that is, I prophesy their devison: so Ezekiel saith, when I came to destroy the city, Ezek. 43. 3. Which was his foretelling the destruction. See also Hos. 6. 5. them in Jacob] that is, their posterity among the children of Jacob: see Gen. 19. 37. This was accomplished, when Simeon had his inheritance in the midst of the inheritance of Judah, Ios. 19. 1. and was fain to seek a larger possession, 1 Chron. 4. 39 40. and Levi had his cities of habitation, among the other tribes, Ios. 21. 2. 3. &c. Howbeit, afterwards Levi for their zeal against idolaters, (Exod. 32. 26. 28. 29.) had this their dispersion turned to a further blessing, while they were consecrated to teach Jacob God's judgments and Israel his law, &c. Deut. 33. 9. 10. and so had the priesthood in their tribe. This the Yerushalmi Targum also mentioneth, and saith likewise of the Simeonites, that they were teachers of the Law in the Synagogues of Jacob; and the Levites, in the schools of the sons of Israel.

Vers. 8. thou] to weat, art so by name, and shalt be so indeed: for Judah signifieth Confession or Praise: and to his name he hath reference; Praised, thou art called, and praise thee shall thy brethren. Targum Yerushalmi saith, Judah, to thee shall all thy brethren confess, and by thy name shall all the Jews be called. See the notes on Gen. 29. 35. confess] or (as the Greek translatheth) praise thee: meaning that his brethren should acknowledge the dignity of the firstborn, in respect of the government, to be given unto him, and that Christ the King should come of him, 1 Chron. 5. 2. Heb. 7. 14. And when the rest of the house of Israel compassed the Lord with lies and deceit, Judah is praised, for yet ruling with God, and being faithful with the saints, Hos. 11. 12. In Christ, this prophesy is chiefly fulfilled, as the particulars following show: to him the Hebrew Doctors also do apply it, as in Breshith ketannah (or their lesser Commentary) upon this place, it is said, Judah was borne the fourth among the tribes, and in the fourth day were the lights created: and it is written of the Messi is, His throne, as the Sun before me: as the Moon, it shall be established forever. Psal. 89. 37. 38. in the neck] that is, thou shalt beat down and put to flight thy enemies; as the Chaldee explaineth it, thus; thy hand shall prevail against thy enemies, thy foes shall be scattered, they shall be turned backward before thee: and Targum Yerushalmi saith, thy hand shall avenge thee on thy enemies. The performance of this promise, David the first King of Judah celebrateth, saying, thou hast given me the neck of my enemies, Psal. 18. 41. And after Joshua's death, Judah was the first that went up to fight for Israel against the Canaanites, and got the victory, Judge. 1. 1. 2. 4. 8. &c. bow-down] acknowledging the dignity of this tribe above the rest. For this tribe was the foremost of all, in their marching through the wilderness, Numb. 10. 14. and the Prince of this tribe was the first that offered at the dedication of the altar, Numb. 7. 11. 12. and foremost in battle against their rebellious brethren, Judge. 20. 18. the first Judge that saved Israel, was of this house, Judge. 3. 9. and God chose this tribe, and David out of it, to settle the Kingdom of Israel in his stock forever, Psal. 78. 68. 70. 71. and 89. 20. 21. 28. 30. 36. 37. and to our Lord Jesus, who came of Judah, all knees do bow, Philip. 2. 10.

Vers. 9. renting-lions whelp] As there are sundry sorts of Lions, so they have sundry names, Job 4. 10. 11. and above other, the Lyon is a kingly beast, strong, Prov. 30. 30. bold, Prov. 28. 1. stout-hearted, 2 Sam. 17. 10. and of a terrible countenance, 1 Chro. 12. 8. Such are fit to be kings arms, and twelve such were stays for the steps of King Solomon's throne 2 Chron. 9. 18. 19. This kind here mentioned, is greedy to tear his prey, and thereof hath his name, Psal. 17. 12. being a prophesy of the valiant worthies that should come of Judah, & make a prey of their enemy: as Othoniel, Judge. 3. 9. 10. David, 2 Sam. 8. and especially Christ, called the Lion of the tribe of Judah, Rev. 5. 5. couched] lay down to rest, after he hath taken the prey: this was fulfilled when after David's conquests, all Israel had rest under Solomon, 1 King. 4. 25. and after Christ's victory, he went upon high, and sate him down at the right hand of God. Psal. 68. 19. Mark. 16. 19. 1. Cor. 15. 25. Balaam used such similitudes, speaking of the valiant acts of Israel, Num. 23. 24. courageous] or hearty-lion, named Labi, of leb, an heart. By these three is signified the growth of the Kingdom of Judah, from Princes to Kings, and from David to Christ, in whom all glory resteth. The Chaldee paraphraseth thus, He shall have dominion in the beginning; and in the end, the kingdom of the house of Judah shall be magnified: for from the judgment of death, thou hast rid thy soul, O my son: he shall rest and dwell in strength, as a Lyon, and as a courageous-lion, and there shall be no kingdom that shall stir him.

Vers. 10. The scepter] or, The tribe. The Hebrew Shebet, (whence the Greek word sceptron, and English scepter is derived,) signifieth astaffe or rod; and is by Moses applied to the tribes of Israel, (whereof see the 16. and 28. verses following:) and so the Greek interpreters, do often translate Sceptron for Shebet, atribe; 1 Sam. 10. 19. 20. 21. 1 King. 11. 32. 35. 36. &c. The prophesy is of Judah's tribe to continue distinct, until Christ's coming; whereas the other ten tribes were scattered and confused by their captivity, 2 King. 17. out of w<sup>ch</sup> they returned not, as the tribe of Judah with Benjamin, did from Babylon, Ezra 1. 5. It may also imply the power of government which should be in this tribe: for Shebet a scepter, sometime so meaneth, Psal. 45. 7. And so the Greek here translateth it, a Prince; and the Chaldee one that hath dominion: and Targum Yerushalmi, Kings shall not cease from the house of Judah. And elsewhere the scripture saith, of Judah came the Governor, 1 Chron. 5. 2. lawgiver] or, statute-maker, writter of decrees: a title of government, given sometime to God himself, Isaiah 33. 12. sometime to the governors set of God, Numb. 21. 18. So the Greek here translateth it, Governor: and in reference to this prophesy, God saith, Judah my law-giver, Psal. 60. 9. his feet] that is, borne of, and brought up by him: for so this phrase meaneth, Deu. 28. 57. and 33. 3. the feet being sometime used for the whole leg or thigh, which word was used before Gen. 46. 26. and so the Greek here translateth, out of his thighs. Shiloh] by interpretation The prosperer, the Safe-maker: or His son; (to weet, of a virgin) that is, Christ, who was to spring out of Judah, Heb. 7. 14. This the Chaldee paraphrast confirmeth, saying, He that hath dominion shall not be taken away from Judah, nor a Scribe from his children's children, until the Christ come, whose the Kingdom is, and him shall the people's obey. The Yerushalmi Targum also saith, Kings shall not cease, from the house of Judah; nor Doctors that teach the law, from his children's children; until the time that the King Christ do come, whose the kingdom is, and all kings of the earth shall be subject unto him.

Likewise in Breshith rabba, upon the word Shiloh it is said this is the Christ: and R. D. Kimchi, (in the root Shil) expoundeth it his son, and saith it is a prophesy of David, or of the Christ. The Hebrew hath an unusual manner of writing, implying his son, and her son, as a prophesy that he should be of Mary the Virgin, of the lineage of Judah. obedience] or gathering of people's, that is, the people's (Jews and Gentiles) shall gather unto, and obey Christ. This the Chaldee paraphrasts both confirm: the Greek also to like effect, he shall be the expectation of nations. Compare Esa. 11. 10. Rom. 15. 12. Esa 42. 4. Mat. 12. 21.

Vers. 11. asse-colt] or, young-asse: great men used to ride upon such, Judge. 10. 4. and 12. 14. and 5. 10. to bind such to the vine, seemeth to mean great store of vines, which should be in the land of Judah, (as was in Engeddi, and other places, Song. 1. 13. Ios. 15. 62.) that men should tie their asses to them, as to other common trees that grow in every field. The Chaldee paraphrast by this vine, understandeth figuratively Jerusalem, and by the asse-colt the people of Israel; and thus expoundeth it, Israel shall dwell round about his city, the people's shall build his temple, & the just men shall be round about it, and the doers of the law in the doctrine thereof. This also may be referred to Christ, the King, who being just and meek, came riding into Jerusalem upon an asses colt, Zachar. 9. 9. John. 12. 14. 15. Mat. 21. 2. 5. 7. a figure of the people of the Gentiles, brought unto Christ for him to ride upon; and by this prophesy of Jacob, were to be tied unto him and his Church, (compared unto the vine, John. 15. 1. Esa. 5. 7.) where they should be filled with the gospel of his love, and gifts of his spirit, better then wine, Song. 1. 3. Ephes. 5. 18. And so the Yerushalmi Targum applieth this to Christ, saying, How fair is the King Christ, that shall spring up of the house of Judah! He shall gird his loins, and shall go forth to war against his enemies, &c. Likewise in Breshith Rabba, speaking of this place, it is said; he showeth us that when the Christ shall come to save Israel, he shall make ready his asse, and ride upon him, and come unto Israel with poverty. the foale] Hebrew, the son of his asse, that is, his young asse: see the notes on Gen. 18. 7. washeth his raiment] another figurative promise of wine to be plentiful as water, that he may wash his clothes in it ••or, of a glorious victory that Judah and Christ should get over his enemies, as in Esa. 63. 1. 2. 3. his conquest is set forth by such a parable. And in Revel. 19. 13. he is clothed with a garment dipt in blood; and in Revel. 14. 20. his judgment on the enemies, is the treading of a wine-press. And so the Yerushalmi Targum doth explain it, saying, He shall kill kings and Princes, making the rivers red with blood of their slain, and the bills white, with the fat of their mighty men: his garments shall be embrewed in blood, and he like to one pressing clusters of grapes. blood] that is, juice of grapes, which for the red color is called blood: so Deut. 32. 14.

Vers. 12. red with wine] another sign of plenty of fruits; for the drinking of much wine maketh red eyes, Proverb. 23. 29. 30. hereby also the plenty of spiritual blessings in Christ is signified: Prov. 9. 1. 1. 2. Isaiah 25. 6. and 55. 1. So Targum Yerushalmi applieth it, saying, How beautiful are the eyes of the King Christ to look upon; more then fined wine, that he beholdeth not with them unchaste copulations or murders of innocents. His teeth are exercised in the law, that he eateth not with them iniquities and robberies. His mountains shall be red with vineyards and winepresses: his hills shall be white with store of wheat, and stocks of sheep. Other of the Jew Doctors, reckon Judah for the seventh patriarch, thus, 1, Abraham, 2, Isaac, 3, Jacob, 4, Reuben, 5, Simeon, 6, Levi, 7, Judah: and they compare him with the seventh (that is, the Sabbath) day. At Judah's birth it is said of his mother, she stayed from bearing, Gen. 29. 35. at the Sabbath day, it is said of God, herested and was refreshed, Exod. 31. 17. Of Judah it is said, Judah thou, thy brethren shall confess thee, Gen. 49. 8. (and, this time I will confess the Lord, Gen. 29. 35.) and of the Sabbath, it is good to confess unto the Lord. Psal. 92. 2. Of Judah it is said, from the prey, my son, thou art gone up, Gen. 49. 9. the prey signifieth his food; as if he should say, thou art gone up from doing even the work for the life, as of the Sabbath it is said, in it thou shalt not do any work, Exod. 20. 10. Of Judah it is said, he stouped down, he couched as a Lyon, &c. Gen. 49. 9. and of the Sabbath, abide ye every man in his place. Exod. 16. 29. Of Judah it is said, binding his asse colt unto the vine, Gen. 49. 11. as if he should say; binding him from his work: of the Sabbath it is said, that thine ox and thine asse may rest. Exod. 23. 12. Of Judah it is said, he washeth his raiment in wine, Gen. 49. 11. which signifieth the sanctifying of the day which is with wine, signifying the property of judgment, and therefore the Scepter was given him, as the Scepter shall not depart from Judah, &c. And as Judah was the fourth of the tribes (of Israel:) so the Sabbath is the fourth of the commandments, (Exod. 20.) R. Menachem, on Gen. 49.

Vers. 13. Zebulon] he though he was younger than Issaehar, Gen. 30. 18. 20. yet Jacob gives him the blessing before him: so also doth Moses. Deut. 33. 18. and his lot befell him in his land, before Issachars: Ios. 19. 10. 17. seat] his borders were both to the main sea westward, and to the sea of Galilee Eastward: see his portion, Ios. 19. 10. &c. Isaiah 9. 1. The Chaldee Paraphrast expoundeth it, he shall subdue provinces with ships, and shall eat the good things of the sea, &c. Moses giveth him a blessing, to rejoice in his going out, or, trading, Deut. 33. 18.

Vers. 14. strong boned] Hebrew, asse of bone, that is, bony, hard, strong. two bounds] or set limits, borders: so the Chaldee paraphrast also expoundeth it; and Targum Yerushalmi more plainly thus, Issachar shall be a strong tribe, and his border shall be in the midst between two borders, So also the Greek translath, amidst the inheritances. Others expound it, between two burdens; such as are laid on asses backs.

Vers. 15. rest:] this may be a note of their slouthfulness: in respect whereof others are blamed, for sitting still between the two bounds, (or burdens) Judge. 5. 16. Howbeit Moses biddeth them rejoice in their tents, Deut. 33. 18. And the Yerushalmi Targum expoundeth it, he seeth the house of the sanctuary, that it proclaimeth rest, therefore it is good: &c. gathering this sense (as I suppose) from Moses words, they shall call the people unto the (Lord's) mountain, &c. Deut. 33. 19. Thus it is their praise, for loving to be quiet, and being contented with their portion. Compare with this the time when Thola of Issachar judged Israel, in whose time Israel had rest, Judge. 10.

Vers. 16. judge] an allusion to Dans name, Dan Iadin: the Iudger shall judge: see Gen. 30. 6. This prophesy was fulfilled in Samson, one of his posterity, who judged Israel, Judge. 15. 20. So the Chaldee paraphrast explaineth it, Of the house of Dan shall a man be chosen and rise up: in whose days his people shall be delivered, &c. But the Yerushalmi Targum nameth him, saying, this is

Samson son of Manoah. the tribes] This name Tribe is borrowed from the Latin word Tribus, used for a stock or kindred that descend from one father. For Romulus the founder of Rome, divided the multitude of his subjects into three parts, which he named thereof Tribes, (as showeth Pompon. Laetus de Rom. Magistrate.) But in the Hebrew a tribe is here called Shebet, that is, a staff, rod, or scepter, (as is before touched, verse 10.) and elsewhere Matteh, which is also a rod or staff; either because they grew as rods and branches out of one root Israel, as is particularly mentioned of Joseph verse 22. or because their names were written upon twelve rods, Numb. 17. 2. &c. And this judging as one of the tribes, is so spoken, because each stock or tribe, had one chief head and Prince, ruler of the same. Numb. 1. 4. 16. and God raised up Judges and defenders of Israel, out of many several tribes, as the book of Judges showeth. Wherefore the Scripture (taking occasion also by likeness of name) putteth one of these for another, as a Sam. 7. 7. spake I a word with any of the tribes, (or scepters Shibtei) of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people: for which in 1 Chron. 17. 6. is written, to any of the Judges, (Shopt•i) of Israel, See also after, in verse 28.

Vers. 17. an addar] or arrow snake: this name (in Hebrew Shephiphon) is not elsewhere found in scripture. It is a prophesy of a sudden and unexpected victory, which this tribe should get over their enemies, overthrowing them by subtlety, (as serpents naturally are prudent, Gen. 3. 1.) Fulfilled in Samsons dealings against the Philistines, Judge. 15. and 16. and when the tribe of Dan got Leshem (or Laish) for their possession: Judge. 18. But Moses compareth Dan, to a Lions whelp, Deut. 33. 22. The Chaldee paraphraseth thus, There shall be a man that shall be chosen and spring up out of the house of Dan, the fear of him shall fall upon the people's, and he shall valiantly smite the Philistinis, as a serpent, as an addar he shall lie in wait by the path, he shall slay the mighty men in the campe of the Philistines, &c. the horse heels] that is, the house pillars, on whose roof 3000. persons were: see Judge. 16. 26. 27. 29. &c.

Vers. 18. thy salvation] speaking to the Lord, and desiring his salvation in Christ, figured by Samson, of whom the Angel said, he shall begin to save Israel, Judge. 13. 5. Matt. 1▪ 21. The two Chaldee paraphrast explain it thus. Our father Jacob said, I expect not the salvation (or redemption) of Gideon son of Joash, which is a temporal salvation, nor the salvation of Samson son of Manoah, which is a transitory salvation: but the salvation of Christ the son of David, who shall come to bring unto himself the sons of Israel, whose salvation my soul desireth. Thus Simeon also calleth Christ God's salvation; Luk. 2. 30. Or Jacob might speak this to his son, I expect Jehovah, to be thy salvation, O Dan: for this tribe generally, and Samson in particular, was sore oppressed, by the enemies, and their own infirmities: Judge. 1. 34. and 18. 1. 30. and 16. 16 17. 21. &c.

Vers. 19. a troupe] or band, army: in Hebrew Gedud, which hath allusion to Gads name, that signifieth a troop, Gen. 30. 11. He prophesieth of this tribes troubles by enemies that bordered upon them; and of their victory at last. For they dwelling on the outside of Jordan, Ios. 13. 8. were molested by the Ammonites there, Judge. 10. 7. 8. and after that again, the King of Ammon and his people, possessed Gad, and dwelt in his cities, Ier. 49. 1. with troupe-overcame] he still runneth upon Gads name; which was not for naught given him, but signified his valor and victory, though late. And Moses enlargeth this blessing, comparing his dwelling to a Lions, that teareth the parts of his prey, Deut. 33. 20. This was fulfilled, when Gad (with Reuben and Manasseh, all noble warriors,) warred with the Hagarims and other heathens; and crying unto God in the battle, were holpen, and did overcome, getting great spoils and possessions, 1 Chron. 5. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. The Chaldee paraphrasts refer this, to Gads going armed over Iarden, before his brethren, and returning to his land with great riches, Ios. 4. 12. 13. and 22. 1. 2. 8.

Ver. 20. Concerning Aser] or Out of Aser; who had his name of bliss and felicity: to him here is promised a blessed and fruitful portion in the holy land: described in Ios. 19. 24. &c. bread] that is, food: for bread is used for all meats, See Gen. 3. 19. and 21. 14. and fat, is used for the best and most excellent of anything, Gen. 4. 4. and 27. 28. The Chaldee saith, Asers land shall be very good, and he shall be nourished with Kings dainties. Moses also inclaring this blessing, said, Aser shall dip his foot in oil: Deut. 33. 24.

Vers. 21. let loose] and so light footed, both to pursue enemies, and escape danger. Thus David signifying his deliverance, said, God had made his feet like binds, Psal. 18. 34. This may specially be referred to Barak a man of Naphtali, who with his people went up on his feet, against Siseraes iron chariots; put them to flight, pursued, and destroyed them all: Judge. 4. 6. 10. 15. 16. Moses giveth Naphtali the fullness of God's blessing, and pointeth out his inheritance in the land, Deut. 33. 23. To that the Chaldee referreth it here, saying, Naphtalies lot shall fall in a good land, and his possession shall be fruitful. He had the sixth lot, described in Ios. 19. 32. 39. goodly sayings] Hebrew sayings of goodliness, or of fairness, that is, fair and pleasing words. Which in Baraks time was fulfilled, when his prowess caused that pleasant song, which Deborah and he sang unto God for the victory; Judge. 5. The Chaldee (as before) refers it to the praises and blessings that they should utter, for the good fruits of their land.

Vers. 22. son] that is, a bough, or branch, which springeth out of the tree, as a son from the father: the Greek saith, agrowing son; so also the Chaldee paraphraseth, Joseph a growing son, a son which shall be blessed as a vine that is planted by a well of waters. Whatsoever cometh of or from another, is in Hebrew called the son or daughter of the same, as the young of beasts, birds, &c. Gē. 18. 7. arrows are called sons of the bow, and of the quiver, Job. 41.—28. Lam. 3. 13. sparks, are sons of the burning coal, Job. 5. 7. and the like. And here the son or branch is twice named for Joseph, and of him came two tribes; see Gen. 48. 56. Wherefore Moses nameth his two sons in Joseph's blessing, Deut. 33. 17. vine] this word understood in the Hebrew (as often the like are, Gen. 4. 20. and 25. 8.) is expressed in the Chaldee; and Targum •er• 〈...〉 my saith, I liken Joseph my son, to a vine planted by a well of waters, that sendeth out her roots to the deeps. The scripture else-where signifieth increase of children, by this similitude; Psal. 128. 3. by a well] by the waters whereof, the vine is made fruitful, as Ezek. 19. 10. daughters] that is, the young small and tender branches: as the greater, are before called sons. The Chaldee expounds this also of Joseph's sons, saying, two tribes shall come forth of his sons, and they shall receive their part and inheritance. See Gen. 48. 5. &c. over the wall] under which the vine groweth. This signifieth the abundant increase of Joseph's sons, Ios. 17. 17.

Vers. 23. archers] Hebrew arrow masters, whereby also seemeth to be meant skillful archers: as the Chaldee calleth them, strong men. See Gen. 37. 19. These were Joseph's brethren that hated and sold him into Egypt, Gen. 37. 4. 8. 11. 28. his mistress that tempted and fasly accused; and his Master that imprisoned him, &c. Gen. 39. 7. 17. 20. Whereunto the Yerushalmi Targum addeth the enchanter and wise men of Egypt that spake evil of him before Pharaoh.

Vers. 24. his bow] his faith. arms] his virtues, wisdom, chastity, patience, &c. by which he resisted all enemies. Compare Psal. 18. 33. 35. The Chaldee paraphraseth, And the prophesy was fulfilled in them, for that he observed the law in secret, and set his hope constant. made firm] strong and solid, like fine gold; for of the Hebrew Phoz, (here used) fine solid gold is call Phaz, Psal. 19. 11. And this similitude the Chaldee explaineth, saying; therefore gold was put upon his arms: he strengthened and confirmed his kingdom, which was given him, &c. Mighty-one] meaning God: as Ps. 132. 2. Isaiah 49. 26. & 60. 16. from thence] or whence he was the feeder, or pastor. From God, Joseph was advanced to be the feeder of Israel, as before is shown, Gen. 45. 5. 7. 11. and 47. 12. The Chaldee saith, who by his word, fed the fathers and the sons of the tribes of Israel. the stone] the stay and strength of Israel. This may be referred also to Joseph, (as Christ whom Joseph figured is called a stone, Isaiah 28. 16.) or unto, God, fore-spoken of, who is the stone and rock of his church, by whom Joseph was advanced.

Vers. 25. who shall help] Hebrew, and he shall help; but the meaning of the phrase is, who shall help: as in Mal. 3. 1. and he shall prepare, is translated by the holy Ghost, which shall prepare, Mark. 1. 2. so in the sentence following. The Chaldee interpreteth it, The word of the God of thy father shall be thy help. of heavens] that is, the rain and dew, that shall make thy land fruitful: Deut. 33. 13. called in Ezek. 34. 26. the rain of blessings. the deep] springs of waters out of the earth: see Gen. 7. 11. Deut. 33. 13. the breasts] or teats, to nourish children, as the womb to bear them: that is, many and well nursed children: ten thousands of Ephraim, and thousands of Manasseh, Deut. 33. 17. Contrary to this blessing, is that curse in Hos. 9. 14. give them a miscarrying womb, and dry breasts.

Vers. 26. of thy father] that is, which I thy father do bless thee and thy brethren with. do prevail] or, are stronger then the blessings of my parents, that is, as the Chaldee saith, with which my fathers blessed me. Thus Jacob speaketh, because he more particularly explained the blessings, and applied them to his sons severally, and they were sooner to be fulfilled, and more largely communicated with all his posterity, and Joseph had a double portion. So John the Baptist is said to be more then a prophet, and no man greater then he, because he came immediately before Christ, preparing his way, and pointing him out, as with the finger, Matt. 11. 9. 10. 11. John. 1. 15 29. 36. of my progenitors] or parents, Isaac, Abraham, &c. The Greek saith, of the mountains: for horai, reading (with other vowels) harei; and respecting (it may be) Moses blessing, which hath harerei, mountains, Deut. 33. 15. unto the utmost bound] that is, these my blessings extend, to the bound (or end) of the hills; that is, all the world over, and so long as it endureth. For they contain besides earthly, heavenly blessings also in Christ; whom Joseph and Judah figured, in the first birthright and government. Hills and mounts, are used to signify durance of things, as Isaiah 54. 10. The word bound. (in Hebrew Taavath,) may also be englished the desire, and so the Chaldee understands it, saying which (blessings) the great men which were of old, desired for themselves. By hills understanding his ancient forefathers. But in this sense it may be a continuing of the blessings in the former verse, unto the desire, (that is, the desired fruits) of the lasting hills: according to Moses blessing, Deut. 33. 15. the separated] or, the Nazarite of his brethren. For a Nazarite hath his name of Separation, Numb. 6. 2. meaning here a choice and chief man, separated of God unto excellency above his brethren; as the Greek also translateth it, he governed them. And hereupon Nezer, is used for a crown, put upon Kings and Priests, see Psal. 89. 40. and 132. 18.

Vers. 27. ravin] or tear his prey: a prophesy of the valor of this tribe, against their enemies, under the name of a Wolf, as before Judah was likened to a Lion. Neither need it be thought any dishonor to Benjamin, that he is likened to a Wolf: for even God likeneth himself to a Leopard and a Bear, in his dealings against his enemies, Hos. 13. 7. 8. in the morning] the first times: for Ehud of Benjamin, was the second Judge that saved the Israelites from the hand of the Moabites, Judge. 3. 15. &c. Saul of Benjamin was the first King of Israel, he and his son were great warriors, making a prey of many enemies; see 1 Sam. 11. 6. 7. 11. and 14. 13. 15. 47. 48. See also Benjamins war against his brethren, Judge. 20. 21. 25. at evening] in the last times: for Mordecai and Esther of Benjamin delivered the Jews from a great destruction, in their dispersion, and they slew their enemies. See Esth. 8. 7. 9. 11. & 9. 5. 6. 15. 16. Of this tribe also, was Paul the Apostle, Phil. 3. 5. who spiritually fought the battles of the Lord against his enemies: 2 Cor. 10. 3. 4. &c. The Chaldee paraphrast understandeth this prophesy, (according to Moses blessing, Deut. 33. 12.) of the temple and sacrifices which were to be in Jerusalem, saying; Benjamin, in his land shall the divine Majesty dwell; and in his possession shall the sanctuary be built: at morning and at evening the priests shall offer oblations, and at even tide they shall divide the remainder of their portions, of the things left which are sanctified. The Yerushalmi Targum also giveth the same exposition.

Vers. 28. the twelve tribes] that is, heads and authors of the twelve tribes (or kindreds) that came of Israel; whereof see also Gen. 35. 22. and 49. 16. Therefore the Greek saith the twelve sons of Jacob. even according to, &c] that is, with such a blessing as was meet for every of them, as God's spirit did allot.

Vers. 29. my people] to my holy fathers, by death, as the 33. verse showeth: see also the notes on Gen. 25. 8. of Ephron] bought of him, as the next verse showeth. See Gen. 23. 9. 10. &c. and 47. 30.

Vers. 31. buried Leah] of her death and burial, there was no mention before: neither of Rebekah's. These five, and Jacob himself the sixth, buried in one grave; the first letters of all their names, are contained in that one name of ISRAEL.

Vers. 32. In the purchase] or understand, The purchase was bought. But the Greek addeth the word In.

Vers. 33. his feet] this seemeth to denote his quiet betaking of himself to his rest: his former gesture, might be for reverence to the word of God, which in these blessings he uttered: as before he is noted to have bowed himself, Gen. 47. 31.

CHAP. L.

1, Joseph weepeth for, and imbalmeth his father. 4, He getteth leave of Pharaoh, to go to bury him. 7, The funer all solemnized by the Elders of Egypt; and by Joseph and his brethren. 13, Jacob is buried in Machpelah. 15, Joseph's brethren ask him for givenesse. 19, He comforteth them. 22, His age, 23, He seeth the third generation of his sons. 24, He prophesieth unto his brethren, of their return into Canaan. 25, He taketh an oath of them, to carry his bones. 26, He dieth, is embalmed, and chested in Egypt.

AND Joseph fell, upon his fathers face; and wept upon him, and kissed him. And Joseph commanded his servants the Physicians; to imbalm his father: and the Physicians embalmed Israel. And forty days were fulfilled for him; for so, are fulfilled, the days of the embalmed: and the Egyptians wept for him, seventy days. And the days of his weeping, were passed; and Joseph spake, unto the house of Pharaoh, saying: If now, I have found grace, in your eyes; speak I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying. My father made me swear saying; Loe I, die: in my grave, which I have digged for me, in the land of Canaan; there shalt thou bury me: And now, let me go-up I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again. And Pharaoh said: Go-up, and bury thy father, as he made thee swear. And Joseph went-up, to bury his father: and with him, went-up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house: and all the elders, of the land of Egypt. And all the house of Joseph; and his brethren, and his fathers house: only their little-ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Goshen. And there went up with him, both chariots and horsemen: and it was, a very great company. And they came, unto the threshing-floor of Atad; which was beyond Jordan; and they wailed there, with a very great and heavy wayling; and he made a mourning, for his father seven days. And the inhabitants of the land, [unspec] the Canaanites, saw the mourning, in the threshing-floor of Atad; and they said, this is a heavy mourning, to the Egyptians: therefore the name of it was called, The mourning of the Egyptians; which is beyond Jordan. And his sons, did unto [unspec] him; so, as he had commanded them. And his sons carried him, into the land of Canaan; and buried him, in the cave of the field of Macpelah: which Abraham bought, with the field, for a possession of a burying place; of Ephron the Chethite, before Mamree. And Joseph returned into Egypt, he and his brethren; and all that went-up with him, to bury his father: after, he had buried his father. And Joseph's brethren saw, that [unspec] their father was dead; and they said; Joseph will peradventure hate us: and rendering will render, unto us; all the evil, which we have rewarded him. And they commanded [unspec] (some) unto Joseph, saying: thy father did command, before he died, saying. Thus [unspec] shall ye say unto Joseph; I pray thee forgive now, the trespass of thy brethren and their sin, for they rewarded thee evil; and now, we pray thee forgive; the trespass of the servants, of the God of thy father: and Joseph wept, when they spake unto him. And [unspec] his brethren also went, and fell down before him: and said; Behold we be to thee, for servants. And Joseph said unto them, fear [unspec] not; for, am I in the place of GOD? And you, ye meant against me evil: God [unspec] meant it unto good; for to do, as it is this day, to save-alive much people. And now, [unspec] fear ye not; I will nourish you, and your little ones: and he comforted them; and spake, unto their heart. And Joseph dwelt in Egypt; [unspec] he, and his fathers house: and Joseph lived, an hundred and ten years. And [unspec] Joseph saw, unto Ephraim; sons, of the third generation: also the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh; were borne, upon Joseph's knees. And Joseph said, unto his brethren; I die: and God, visiting will visit you, and will, make you go-up out of this land unto the land, which he sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob. And Joseph, made the sons of Israel swear, saying; God visiting will visit you; and ye shall carry up my bones, from hence. And Joseph died, an hundred and ten years old: and they imbalmed him, and he was put in an ark, in Egypt.

Annotations.

Physicians] in Greek imbalmers. imbalm] which was, with myrrh, aloes, and other spices, that the dead bodies might not stink or putrefy, John. 19. 39. 40. so laying them as in a bed of sweet odors, 2 Chron. 16. 14. and this with the solemnities of his burial, was to do Jacob honor at his death, as 2 Chron. 32. 33. and to keep his body sweet, for burial in Canaan: besides further mystery of the resurrection with incorruption in Christ, who was also imbalmed himself, Mark. 14. 8. John. 12. 7. and 19. 40. Of the Egyptian manner of imbalming and burying in ages following it is said by historiographers, that they took out the bowels of the dead, cleansed them, and washed them with wine of dates, and after that again with odors: then filled they the bowels with pure myrrh beaten, and Cassia, and other odors (except frankincense;) and sowed them up. After this they seasoned the corps hidden in nitre, seventy days, not longer. After seventy days, they washed the corps, and wrapped it in fine linen cloth gummed; which gum the Egyptians often used instead of glew, &c. The Nitre consumeth the flesh, and leaveth only the skin and bones of the dead person. Herodot. in Euterpe.

Vers. 5. Idye] or, I, am dying: see Gen. 47. 29. 30. 31. digged] or, bought, as the word sometime signifieth, Deut. 2. 6.

Vers. 7. all the servants] that is, a great multitude of them: so Mat. 3. 5. all Judea: that is, very many from all parts. elders] or Senators; that is, governors, officers, counsellors, as Ezek. 7. 26. joined therefore with Princes, Psal. 105. 22.

Vers. 9. very great] Hebrew, vehemently heavy, or weighty; which the Greek translath a great campe, (or company.) So a weighty people, 1 Kings 3. 9. is by the Hebrew text elsewhere expounded, agreat people, 2 Chron. 1. 10.

Vers. 10. Atad] by interpretation a bramble, Psal. 58. 10. It seemeth this floor was beset with brambles, and thereof had the name. beyond] in the inside of Jordan, for Moses when he wrote these things, was on the outside, in the wilderness; Deut. 1. 1. and 3. 25. seven days] so long they were by the law of God unclean by the dead, whosoever touched the same; Numb. 19. 11. so long also the Jews custom after was to mourn, as Maimonides showeth in Misn. Tom. 4. treat. of Mourning, chap. 1. and Ben Sirach saith, Seven days do men mourn for him that is dead, Eccles. 22. 12. There was also a lesser degree of mourning, which dured thirty days, that the Hebrew doctors gathered from Deut. 21. 13. she shall bewail her father and her mother a month of days: those thirty days, they might not trim the hair of their head or beard; nor wear white new garments, nor marry: and the like. Maimonides ibidem, ch. 6.

Vers. 11. inhabitants] Hebrew, inhabitant: and Canaanite. See Gen. 10. 16. heavy] in Greek great, as before in verse 9. was called] Hebrew he (that is, everyone) called: see the notes on Gen. 16. 14. The mourning] Hebr. Abel Mizaim.

Vers. 15. peradventure] or, it may be. The guilty conscience causeth fear, Levite. 26. 36. rewarded him] that is, done of our own accord unto him.

Vers. 16. commanded] that is, sent some on their message to Joseph: and after, went themselves, verse 18. The word command, is effectually to procure a thing to be done: as God commandeth his blessings and mercies, by effectual sending them; Psal. 42. 9. and Levite. 25. 21. Deut. 28. 8. where the Greek translatheth send. Here, the Greek expoundeth it, they came unto Joseph, and said.

Vers. 17. of the God] by this speech, they seem, both to insinuate their repentance, and faith to obtain mercy at God's hand; and use a reason to obtain the like at Joseph's. For if we forgive men their trespasses, our heavenly Father will also forgive us, otherwise not. Mat. 6. 12. 14. 15. Wherefore it is said, forgive one another, even as God for Christ's sake forgave you. Ephes. 4. 32. But the Hebrew Doctors observe a difference between damage to our neighbor in his goods, and hurts, or injury to his person, (which here was Joseph's cause.) They say: he that doth his neighbor damage in his goods, when he hath paid that which he ought to pay; atonement is made for him. But he that hurteth his neighbor, although he gave unto him (for satisfaction) the five things. (namely, 1. damage it self, as when eye must be given for eye, tooth for tooth, 2. for the smart, 3. for his healing, 4. for his resting from his labor, 5. for his shame or dishonor; of which see the notes on Exod. 21. 19.) yet atonement is not made for him: yea though he should sacrifice (to God) all the Rams of Nebaioth, (Isaiah 60. 7.) yet atonement is not made for him, nor his iniquity forgiven; unill he request it of him that was hurt, and he do forgive him. Maimonides in Misneh, Tom. 4. treat. of Hurt and damage, chap. 5. S. 9.

Vers. 21. unto their heart] that is, friendly, comfortably, and which pleased them: as, that which came into Solomon's heart, 2 Chron. 7. 11. is expounded, that which he was pleased to do, 1 King. 9. 1. See also the notes on Gen. 34. 3. Here Joseph is an example of lenity, and readiness to forgive; and to do good for evil, as Christ teacheth all: Matt. 5. 44. So the Hebrew canons say, It is unlawful for him that is hurt, to be cruel and not to forgive: this is not the way of the seed of Israel. But when he that did the hurt, doth request it, and ask grace of him, once or twice, and he kneweth that he turns from his sin, and repenteth of his evil: he shall forgive him, Maimonides in his said treat. of Hurt and damage, ch. 5. S. 10.

Vers. 23. third generation] or third sons. So was his blessing begun to be accomplished, Gen. 49. 22. and 28. 19. borne] that is, brought up: Of Machir, see Num. 32. 39.

Vers. 24. visiting, &c.] that is, will surely visit, meaning in mercy: See Gen. 21. 1. This was a testification of his faith in God's promises; as is written, by faith Joseph at his ending, made mention of the departure of the sons of Israel, and gave commandment concerning his bones, Heb. 11. 22. The land of Canaan, was a sign of their heavenly inheritance, as before is shown, on Gen. 12. 5. & 17. 8. Heb. 11. 13. 14. 16. and there Christ rising from the dead, should be the first fruits of them that slept, by whom the resurrection of the dead (which Joseph expected) was to come, 1 Cor. 15. 20. 21. 22. And there many bodies of the Saints which slept arose, and came out of the graves, after Christ's resurrection: Matt. 27. 52. 53.

Vers. 25. from hence] or, from this place: the [unspec] Greek addeth with you. This charge was fulfilled, when at their going out of Egypt, Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, Exod. 13. 19. which afterward were buried in Shechem, Jacob's purchase, and Joseph's sons heritage, Ios. 24. 32. Stephen showeth that the other Patriarchs (the sons of Jacob,) were buried also in Sychem in the land of Canaan, Act. 7. 16.

Vers. 26. old] Hebrew, son of 110. years Gen. 5. 32. The same was the age of Jesus (or Joshua) when he died; the conqueror of Canaan, and one of Joseph's seed: Ios. 24. 29. an ark] or chist, coffin: to be ready, at their removal out of Egypt. This death of Joseph, (whereat the first book of Moses endeth,) was after the creation of the world, 2369. years.

THE SECOND BOOKE OF MOSES, CALLED EXODVS.

CHAPTER I.

1, The number of the sons of Israel that went into Egypt. 7, Their great increase after Joseph's death. 8, Their oppression by a new King. 12, Their multiplication notwithstanding their bitter service. 15, The King commandeth the men children to be killed at the birth: 17, but the midwives fearing God, do save them alive. 20, and are blessed of God for it. 22, Pharaoh commandeth all the men children to be cast into the river.

NOw these are the names, of the sons of Israel; which came, into Egypt: every▪ man and his house, came; with Jacob. Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah. Issachar, Zebulon, and Benjamin. Dan, and Naphtali; Gad, and Aser. And all the souls, that came-out of the thigh of Jacob, were seventy souls: and Joseph was in Egypt. And Joseph died, and all his brethren; and all that generation. And the sons of Israel, were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed-mighty, most exceedingly: and the land was filled, with them.

And there arose-up a new King, over Egypt; which knew not Joseph. And he said, unto his people: behold, the people of the sons of Israel, are moe and mightier than we. Come-on, let us deal-wisely with them: lest they multiply; and it be, when there fall out war, then they be added also unto our enemies; and war against us, and go-up out of the land. And they set over them task-masters; to afflict them with their burdens: and they built for Pharaoh, treasure-cities; Pithom, and Raamses. And as they afflicted thē, so they multiplied, & so they increased: and they were irked, because of the sons of Israel. And the Egyptians, made the sons of Israel to serve with rigor. And they made their lives bitter, with hard service, in mortar, & in bricks; and in all service, in the field: all their service, wherein they made thē serve, was with rigor. And the king of Egypt said, to the midwives of the hebrew women: of which the name of one, was Shiphrah; and the name of the other, Puah. And he said, when ye do the midwives office, to the Hebrew-women; & see them, upon the stools: if it be a son, then ye shall kill him; and if it be a daughter, then she shall live. But the midwives, feared God; and did not as the King of Egypt spake unto them: but saved alive, the men-children. And the King of Egypt, called for the midwives, and said unto them; why have ye done this thing: and have saved alive, the men-children? And the midwives said, unto Pharaoh; because the Hebrew-women, are not as the Egyptian-women: for they are lively; and do bring-forth, ere the midwife come-in unto them. And God dealt-well, with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty. And it was, because the midwives feared God; that he made them houses. And Pharaoh commanded, all his people, saying: every son that is borne, ye shall cast him into the river; and every daughter, ye shall save-alive.

Annotations.

BOoke of Moses] so our Lord Christ calleth it, in Mark. 12. 26. See the first annotations on Genesis. Exodus] a Greek word, signifying Departing, because the first chief thing here handled, is of the Departing or Out-going of Israel from Egypt, Exod. 12. 41. This Greek word is used in Heb. 11. 22. Luk. 9. 31. Exod. 19. 1. In Hebrew the book is named of the first words, Elle shemoth, that is, These are the names. And here beginneth the thirteenth section, or lecture of the Law: See Gen. 6. 9.

Verse 1. Now these] Hebrew And these. This book is a continuance of the former history of Genesis, therefore it beginneth with And, as coupled thereunto: so likewise do Moses his two next books. Sometime And is used in the beginning of a story, as Esth. 1. 1. where it may in translating be omitted; as is noted on Gen 36. 24. and so the Greek omitteth it here. Egypt] Hebrew Mitsraim; that is, the land of Mitsraim, the son of Cham: See Gen. 10. 6. and 12. 10. house] that is, household, as the Chaldee saith, the men of the house.

Vers. 3. Issachar] he is named in the fifth place, because he was the fifth of the same mother Leah; though Jacob had other sons before him: see Gen. 35. 23. Benjamin] he, though youngest, is set before the four children of the bondwomen. In the wall of the heavenly Jerusalem, the Jasper on which his name was graven, is the first foundation, Rev. 21. 19. Exod. 28. 20. And in Deut. 33. Moses giveth Benjamin a blessing, before his elder brother Joseph.

Vers. 5. souls] that is, persons: and in Hebrew soul, put for souls: See Gen. 12. 5. thigh] loins, or seed: See Gen. 46. 26. seventy] the Greek addeth 75. and so the Holy Ghost in Act. 7. 14. the reason whereof is noted on Gen. 46. 20. 27. And this small number when they came in, commendeth God's blessing in multiplying them so greatly when they went out, Exo. 12. 37.

Deut. 10. 22. and Joseph] that is, with Joseph who was in Egypt already, as the Chaldee explaineth it: wherefor the Greek version putteth this clause before the former, to show Joseph to be of the number, he and his children: as Gen. 46. 20. 27.

Vers. 6. brethren] who were carried out of Egypt, and buried in Sychem, in the land of Canaan, Act. 7. 16. generation] that is, the men of that generation or age; both Israelites and Egyptians: see Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 7. increased] or, bred-swiftly, as the fishes or creeping things of the earth, which of this word have their name: See Gen. 1. 20. And this was, when the time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Abraham; Act. 7. 17. whereof see Gen. 12. 2. and 15. 5. &c. most exceedingly] Hebrew, with vehemency vehemency: as Gen. 7. 19. and 30. 43. They became a nation, great, mighty, and populous, Deut. 26. 5.

Vers. 8. new] another King, saith the Greek version; which Stephen followeth, Act. 7. 18. knew not] this word is used both for knowledge and understanding with the mind, & for acknowledging & regard with the affections: both which might be in this King, Eccles. 2. 19. Psa. 31. 8. Hos. 2. 8. T 〈...〉 Chaldee expoundeth it thus, which confirmed not the decree of Joseph.

Vers. 10. with them] or against them, (as the Gr. [unspec] word, which also Stephen useth in Act. 7. 19. implieth:) that is, wisely keep them under. At this time, the sons of Israel began to corrupt their religion, and to commit whoredom with the idols of Egypt, for which God was angry with them, Ezek. 23. 8. and 20. 5. 7. 8. Ios. 24. 14. And he turned the heart of the Egyptians to hate his people, to deal-craftily with his servants, Psal. 105. 25. war] or understand occasions of war: the Greek saith, when war befalleth us. go up] to weet into Canaan. Thus Satan sought to hinder the fulfilling of God's promise, Gen. 46. 3. 4.

Vers. 11. task-masters:] Hebrew princes of tasks [unspec] (or of tributes:) that is commissaries to exact of Israel, tasks, and servile works; as the Greek translateth, masters over works; the Chaldee calleth them rulers evil doers. So because Israel served not the Lord their God with gladness of heart, he made them serve their enemies with much affliction, & put a yoke of iron upon their neck, as he threatened again after this; Deut. 28. 47. 48. And thus the oracle was fulfilled, Gen. 15. 13. treasure cities] or cities of store, wherein to lay up both the fruits of the earth, as 2 Chron. 32. 28. and other provision of armory and warlike furniture: wherefor the Greek translateth, fortified cities. Raamses] this differeth in writing, from Rameses spoken of in Gen. 47. 11. and Exod. 12. 37. the Yerushalmi Targum calleth it Philusin, (otherwise named Pelusium: and the former Pithom, he calleth Tenis (or Tanis.)

Vers. 12. as they] that is, the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied. There is no wisdom, prudency or counsel against the Lord; Prov. 21. 30. increased] or spread abroad: Hebrew brake forth with sudden increase; see Gen. 30. 30. 43. and 28. 14. The Greek and Chaldee translate it, wexed strong. This mercy of God David celebrateth, saying, And he increased his people mightily; and and made them stronger then their distressers. Psal. 105. 24.

Vers. 13. rigor] or fierceness (which English word [unspec] cometh of the Hebrew Pherec;) the Greek translatheth it force; the Chaldee hardness. The Israelites were forbidden to rule after this manner, one over another, Levite. 25. 43. 46. Hereupon Egypt is called, the house of servants (or bondmen) Exod. 20. 2. and for the hardness of the servitude, an iron furnace; Deut. 4. 20. and because King Pharaoh caused this bondage, it is called the house of Pharaoh, 1 Sam. 2. 27.

Vers. 14. bitter] in Greek sorrowful. [unspec]

Ver. 15. Shiphrah] in Greek Sepphora: and the other, Phoua. These seem to be the chief of the midwives. The Targum Yerushalmi maketh them to be Hebrew women of Levi, Iochebed, and Miriam.

Vers. 16. stools] a peculiar round seat for women [unspec] in travel; the Hebrew word is not used elsewhere, but in Ier. 18. 3. for a wheel or frame which potters work upon. The Greek translatheth not the word but the sense, saying, and they be about to bring forth. kill him] this hath always been Satan's subtlety, to labor the death of the men children, the strongest and valiantest of God's people. So the great red Dragon (of the Roman Empire) stood ready to devour the manchild, which the woman (the Church of Church Christ) was about to bring forth, Rev. 12. 3. 4. 5. as here Pharaoh King of Egypt, (likened to a great Dragon, lying in the midst of his rivers, Ezek. 29. 3.) would have devoured the males of Israel.

Vers. 19. Pharaoh] this was a name of honor; common to all the Kings of Egypt: as is noted on Gen. 12. 15. unto them] Targum Yerushalmi expounds it thus, ere the midwife comes at them, they pray to their Father which is in heaven; and he answereth them, and they do bring forth.

Vers. 21. that he] Hebrew, and he them:] the Hebrew lahem, is properly them men, and so may be understood of the Israelites who being spared by the midwives, lived to have families. Or it is put for lahen, them women: the courageous midwives, to whom God made houses, that is, gave them children and families. So the Prophets some time vary the gender, as in 1 King. 22. 17. lahem: for which in 2 Chro. 18. 16. is written lahen. Also in 1 Chron. 10. 7. bahem: which in 1 Sam. 31. 7. is written bahen. And so the Gr. here, & Targum Yerushalmi, referreth it to the women saying; because the midwives feared before the Lord, therefore they got them a good name in a strange nation, and made them houses; the house of the Levites, and the house of the High priesthood. See the like after in Exod. 2. 17. also in Judge. 21. 22. and before, noted on Gen. 4. 7.

Vers. 22. all his people] so from secret oppression, proceeding to open tyranny; evil entreating our fathers, making their babes to be cast out, that they might not be saved-alive, Act. 7. 19. which though Israel's sin did deserve, Ezek. 20. 5. 7. 8. yet God after repaid to the Egyptians, in turning the waters of their river into blood, and slaying all their firstborn, Exod. 7. 20. 21. and 12. 29. 30. that is borne] namely to the Hebrews (or Jews;) as the Greek and Chaldee do express.

CHAP. II.

1, Moses is borne, and hidden three months: 3, then in an Ark he is cast into the flags. 5, He is found, and brought up by Pharaohs daughter, as her own son. 11, He looketh on his brethren's wrongs, and slayeth an Egyptian. 13. He reproveth an Hebrew that wronged his neighbor. 15, He fleeth for fear of his life, into Midian; 17, rescueth the Priests daughters from the violence of the shepherds. 21, He dwelleth with the Priest, and marrieth Zipporah his daughter; 22, of whom he begetteth Gershom. 12, God respecteth Israels cry.

AND there went a man, of the house of Levi: and he took, the daughter of Levi. And the woman conceived, and bare a son: and she saw him, that he was a goodly child; and she hid him, three months. And she could not longer hide him; and she took for him, an ark of bulrushes; and daubed it with slime, and with pitch. and she put the child, therein; and put it in the flags, by the rivers brink. And his sister stood, afar off: to know, what should be done to him. And the daughter of Pharaoh came down, to wash at the river; and her maidens walked, by the rivers side: and she saw the ark, among the flags; and sent her hand maid, and took it. And she opened it, and saw the child; and behold, the babe wept: and she had compassion on him, and said; This is one of the Hebrews children. And his sister said, to Pharaohs daughter; shall I go, and call to thee, a woman a nurse; of the hebrew women: that she may nurse the child for thee? And Pharaohs daughter said to her, Go; and the maid went; & called, the child's mother. And Pharaohs daughter said to her. Take this child away, and nurse it for me; and I will give thee thy wages; and the woman took the child & nursed it. And the child grew great, and she brought him unto Pharaohs daughter; and he was to her, for a son; and she called his name, Moses; and she said, because I drew him, out of the water. And it was, in those days; when Moses was grown-great, that he went-out unto his brethren; and saw their burdens: and he saw, an Egyptian man; smiting an Hebrew man, one of his brethren. And he looked this way, and that way; and saw, that there was no man: and he smote, the Egyptian; and hid him, in the land. And he went-out in the second day; and behold, two Hebrew men, strove-together: and he said to the wicked one, wherefore smitest thou thy neighbor? And he said, who made thee a man a prince and a judge, over us? sayest thou this, to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, surely, the thing is known. And Pharaoh heard this thing, and he sought to kill Moses: and Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh; and dwelt in the land of Midian, and he sate down by a well. And the Priest of Midian, had seven daughters: and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs; to water, their fathers flock. And the shepherds came, and drove them away: and Moses stood-up, and saved them; and watered their flock. And they came unto Reguel their father: and he said, why are ye come so soon, today? And they said, an Egyptian man, delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds: and also drawing drew water for us; and watered the flock And he said unto his daughters, and where is he? wherefore now, have ye left the man? call him, that he may eat bread. And Moses was content, to dwell with the man: and he gave Zipporah his daughter, unto Moses. And she bare a son, and he called his name Gershom: for he said; I have been a stranger, in a foreign land. And it was, after those many days, when the King of Egypt was dead; and the sons of Israel sighed, for the servitude, and cried-out; that their cry came-up unto God, for the servitude. And God heard, their growning: and God remembered his covenant, with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob. And God looked upon the sons of Israel: and God knew them.

Annotations.

A Man] named Amram, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi: Exod. 6. 16. 18. 20. To this religious family, rather than any other, God now appeared: which mercy is remembered in 1 Sam. 2. 27. took] to wife, Exod. 6. 20. the daughter] named Iochebed, sister unto Kohath, and next daughter to Levi: aunt unto Amram her husband, Exod. 6. 20. Numb. 26. 59. So Targum Yerushalmi saith, he took Iochebed his aunt, to him to wife. Such marriages with their near kindred, were afterwards forbidden, when the tribes and families were multiplied: Levite. 18. 12. a son] this was not their first child, for Marie a daughter, and Aaron a son were both borne before him: Verse 4. Numb. 26. 59. Exod. 7. 7.

Vers. 2. a goodly child] or fair proper child, so the Apostle (following the Greek version) translatheth it, in Hebr. 11. 23. the Hebrew being good, meaning in form and beauty; as Gen. 24. 16. and Stephen addeth goodly (or fair) to God: Act. 7. 20. that is, exceeding fair, or having divine beauty and goodliness: and there be of the Jew Doctors which write to the like effect, that he had the form of an Angel of God: Pirkei R. Eli ⟨...⟩ chap. 48. And heathen writers make mention also of his beautiful personage, Justin. hist. b. 36. This Moses was, by the father, the seventh generation from Abraham; (as Enoch was the seventh from Adam: and Abraham the Hebrew, was the seventh from Heber:) and considering his mi•des upon Egypt, and his laws unto Israel; he may be likened to that manchild, who ⟨ϕ⟩ to rule all ⟨ϕ⟩ with ⟨ϕ⟩ of ⟨ϕ⟩ : Rev. 12. 5. ⟨...⟩ together with his father: therefore the Greek translatheth they hid. And Paul saith, By faith Moses was hid of his parents three months, because they saw he was a goodly child, and they were not afraid of the kings commandment, Heb. 11. 23. This hiding was in his own fathers house, Act. 7. 20. in the year from the creation of the world, 2433.

Vers. 3. longer] or anymore: by reason they [unspec \2] dwelt mixed with the Egyptians, Exod. 3. 22. and the kings commandment was strait, and dangerous to transgress, Exod. 1. 22. Heb. 11. 23. ark] or coffin, whereof see Gen. 6. 14. Thus Moses, as Noah, was saved in an ark from drowning, what that figured, see Gen. 6. 15. &c. bulrushes:] a thing there growing, of which the Egyptians used to make light botes and vessels to go upon the waters, Isaiah, 18. 2. flags] or, sea weeds, or sedge: such as grew by that river, and in the red sea, and other seas; Ion. 2. 5. Vers. 6. saw the child] or, saw him, (namely) the child. had compassion] or, mercifully spared him: see this word, in Cen. 19. 16. Hebrews] so the Israelites were called, of Heber: see Gen. 14. 13. and 39. 14. The Chaldee translatheth it Jews: so after verse 7. 11. 13. &c.

Vers. 7. a woman a nurse] an Hebrew phrase, the word woman may in English be omitted: as the word man, in verse 11. 14. See Gen. 13. 8. & 38. 1.

Vers. 10. for a son] adopted to be as her own child, and trained up in all the wisdom of the Egyptians; Act. 7. 21. 22. Moses] in Hebrew Mosheh; but the Greek of the New Testament writeth him Moses, and Moses, Mat. 19. 8. Act. 7. 20. 35. 37. his name signifieth Drawen-out: What name his parents had given him before is not recorded. I drew] Hebrew, Masithi: of this, the child had his name: and it is not used again in Scripture, but in David's case, who saith of God, he drew me out of many waters, Psal. 18. 17. waters, signifying troubles.

Vers. 11. grown great] both in years, and in authority, being full sorty years old; and mighty in words and in deeds: Act. 7. 23. 22. There fore In those days, may he read, After those days: as in verse 23. went-out:] it came into his heart to visit his brethren the sons of Israel, Act. 7. 23. and he after this, renounced his honors and pleasures in Pharaohs Court, and associated him-self to God's afflicted people: for by faith, he refused to be called the son of Pharaohs daughter choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, then to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; esteeming the reproach of Christ, greater riches then the treasures in Egypt, for he had respect unto the recompense of the reward, Heb. 11. 24. 25. 26. saw their ﴿ϕ﴾ ] he Greek translatheth, considered their labor: in Chaldee their ser 〈...〉 de.

Vers. 12. smote] that is, killed him, (as is shown on Gen. 14. 17) so defending and avenging his oppressed brother; supposing that his brethren would have understood, how that God by his hand would deliver them: but they understood not. Act. 7. 24. 25. And because his calling was not yet manifested, he did this action secretly, and hid the Egyptian in the sand. From this action of Moses, the Jew Doctors did gather a law, that if an heathen smote an Israelite, he was to die. Maimonides in Misneh, tom. 4. treat. of Hurt and damage, chap. 5. S. 3.

Vers. 13. the second day] the day next after the former, Act. 7. 26. so prosecuting diligently the work which God had secretly called him unto. to the wicked one] that is, to him that did the wrong, as the Greek translatheth it; and Stephen approveth the same, saying, The next day he shown him-self unto them as they strove, and earnestly exhorted them unto peace, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren, why do ye wrong one to another? Act. 7. 26.

Vers. 14. he] that did his neighbor wrong, he thrust Moses away; Act. 7. 27. a man a prince] or, constituted thee a prince; omitting the word man, as Stephen (following the Greek version) doth. See also Gen. 13. 8. This refusal of Moses, by one, is imputed to the rest of the Israelites, Act. 7. 35. And God for their unthankfulness, withdrew Moses from them 40. years, before he sent him again to deliver them: verse 23. sayest thou] to wit, in thy heart; (as Gen. 27. 41.) that is, intendest thou, thinkest thou; or, wilt thou kill me? as the Greek translatheth it; and so Stephen allegeth it, Act. 7. 28. And other scriptures have the like phrase, 2 Sam. 21. 16. the Egyptian] the Greek addeth, yesterday, and so it is in Act. 7. 28. the thing] Hebr. the word: Gr. this word: So in the verse following.

Vers. 15. fled] at this saying Act. 7. 29. Of this first departure, as well as of the second, some do understand that speech of the Apostle; By faith Moses left Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible, Heb. 11. 27. dwelt] or, seated, namely as a stranger, Act. 7. 29. and so here in verse. 22. and Exod. 12. 40. Midian] Madiam, as the Greek calleth it, or Madian, as in Act. 7. 29. a people that came of Madian the son of Abraham, Gen. 25. 2.

Vers. 16. Priest] or, Prince, as the Chaldee translatheth it; but the Greek saith priest: See Gen. 41. 45. father] the Greek addeth his name Iothor, that is, Iethor, as Exod. 3. 1.

Vers. 17. them] the daughters, as the Greek version plainly showeth: but the Hebrew here and after is masculine, as if it were them men, which some understand to be the shepherds that looked to the flock, under these women: but the Hebrew putteth sometime one gender for another: see the notes on Exod. 1. 21. saved] in Greek delivered them daughters. Compare this fact of Moses, with Jacob's, Gen. 29. 9. 10.

Vers. 18. Reuel] in Greek, Ragouel: he was a Madianite, father to Hobab or Jethro the next father of these daughters: Num. 10. 29. All grand-fathers and ⟨ϕ⟩, are called fathers: 2 Kin. 14. 3. & 16. 2. & 18. 3. ⟨ϕ⟩ so soon] Heb. hastened to come.

Vers. 19. drawing drew] that is, drew readily and enough; the Greek saith, and drew for us.

Vers. 20. now] or, at this time; it being so late. The Greek translatheth it, thus.

Vers. 21. was content] or began; as the word is Englished, Deut. 1. 5. The Greek omitteth it, saying, And Moses dwelt with the man: and the Holy Ghost often omitteth the like, as some Evangelists say of Jesus, he began to say, Luk. 12. 1. Mark. 13. 5. another writeth, Jesus said, Matth. 16. 6. and 24. 4. so, he began to cast out, Mark. 11. 15. that is, he cast out, Mat. 21. 12. he began to cry, Mark. 10. 47. that is, he cried, Luke 18. 38. they began to beseech, Mark. 5. 17. that is, they besought him, Matth. 8. 34. and sundry the like. gave Zipporah] to wife, as the Greek addeth; and calleth her Zemphora, as the letter m, is often put in such Greek names; as Abbakuk the Prophet, is Ambkoum in Greek, Ab. 1. 1. so Chiun, Amos 5. 26. is Remphan, Act. 7. 43. the interpreters mistaking R. for C. and interposing M. And in the Hebrew, Berodach, 2 King. 20. 12. is called also Merodach, Esa. 39. 1. that such change of letters, should not seem strange unto us. Concerning this wife of Moses, his sister and brother afterwards spake against him, Num. 12. 1. where she is called a Cushite.

Vers. 22. Gershon] by interpretation, A desolate stranger; the reason whereof followeth. Here the Greek addeth, And she conceived again, and bare a second son; and he called his name Eliezer, saying; for the God of my father is my helper, and hath delivered me from the hand of Pharaoh. This addition is borrowed from Exod. 18. 4.

Vers. 23. after those many days] that is, as Stephen openeth it, when forty years were expired, Act. 7. 30. Exod. 7. 7. So the Hebrew Doctors also reckon the time: they say Moses was Iethroes shepherd 40. years; and the wild beasts spoiled not his sheep, but they were fruitful and multiplied greatly. Pirkei R. Eliezer, c. 40. Thus Moses had lived 40. years in Pharaohs court; was 40. years a stranger & shepherd in Midian; and after this, he fed God's people Israel 40. years, Act. 7. 36. Deut. 8. 2. and 34. 7. Here the Hebrew In, is rightly translated in Greek After, as it elsewhere also plainly signifieth, Numb. 28. 26. So in the New Testament, Mark 13. 24. in those days, that is, after them, as is explained, Matth. 24. 29. after the tribulation of those days. So in Dan. 2. 44. In (that is, After) the days of these Kings, was dead] both the King, and all other that sought Moses life, Exod. 4. 19. servitude] or, bondage: in Greek works: which, as appeareth, continued though the King was dead. The Chaldee addeth, servitude which was hard upon them.

came up] or ascended up to heaven. This their misery, and God's mercy in releasing them, is often mentioned; and was by the Israelites remembered in their land, every year, Deut. 26. 6. 7. 8. Num. 20. 16.

Vers. 24. covenant] whereof see Gen. 15. 14. and 26. 13. and 46. 4. which God is said to remember (after the manner of men) when he showeth care, of performance: See Gen. 8. 1.

V. 25. knew] namely their sorrows, as is expressed in Exod. 3. 7. or, knew them, in their sorrows, that is, cared for them; as knowing often signifieth, Psal. 31. 8. and 1. 6. Prov. 12. 20. The Greek translateth it, he was known unto them; The Chaldee, he said by his word, that he would deliver them.

CHAP. III.

1. Moses keepeth Iethros flock. ⟨◇⟩ , God appeareth to him in a burning bush. 9, He sendeth him to deliver Israel. 14, The Name of God is declared. 15, His message to Israel, 18, and to the king of Egypt. 19, The kings resistance, Egypt's plagues, and Israel's departure with rich spoils, are foretold.

AND Moses was feeding the flock of Jethro his father in law, the Priest of Midian: and he led the flock behind the wilderness; and came to the mountain of God, to Horeb. And the Angel of Jehovah appeared unto him, in a flame of fire, out of the midst of a bramble-bush: and he saw, and behold the bramble-bush burned with fire, and the bramble-bush was not consumed. And Moses said, I will turn aside now, and see this great sight, why the bramble-bush is not burnt. And Jehovah saw that he turned aside to see; and God called unto him out of the midst of the bramble-bush, and said, Moses, Moses, and he said, Loe here I am. And he said, Draw not nigh hither; put thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place the which thou standest upon is holy ground. And he said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: and Moses hid his face, for he feared to look upon God. And Jehovah said, Seeing I have seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their out-cry because of their task-masters, for I know their sorrows. And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land, unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk & honey, unto the place of the Canaanite, and the Chethite, and the Amorite, and the Pherizzite, and the Evite, and the Jebusite. And now, behold, the out-cry of the sons of Israel is come unto me, & I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them. And now come, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh; and bring thou forth my •••le the sons of Israel out of Egypt. And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring ⟨◇⟩ sons of Israel out of Egypt? And he said, Certainly I will be with thee, [unspec] and this shall be unto thee a sign that I have sent thee; when thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God at this mountain. And Moses said unto God; [unspec] Behold, when I come unto the sons of Israel, and shall say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you, and they shall say to me, What is his name? what shall I say unto them? And God said unto Moses; [unspec] I am, that I am: and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the sons of Israel; I am, hath sent me unto you. And God said moreover unto [unspec] Moses, Thus shalt thou say unto the sons of Israel; Jehovah the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my name forever, and this is my memorial to generation and generation. Go [unspec] and gather together the Elders of Israel, and say unto them, Jehovah, the God of your fathers hath appeared unto me, the God of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob, saying, Visiting I have visited you, and that which is done to you in Egypt. And I have said, I will bring you up, out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanite, and the Chethite, and the Amorite, and the Pherizzite, and the Evite, and the Jebusite; unto a land flowing with milk and honey. And [unspec] they shall hearken to thy voice: and thou shalt come, thou and the Elders of Israel, unto the King of Egypt; and you shall say unto him, Jehovah the God of the Hebrews hath met with us, and now let us go, we beseech thee, three days journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to Jehovah our God. And I do know that the king [unspec] of Egypt will not grant you to go, no not by a mighty hand. And I will send out my [unspec] hand, and smite Egypt, with all my marvels which I will do in the midst thereof, and after that he will send you away. And I will [unspec] give this people grace in the eyes of the Egyptians, and it shall be when you go, ye shall not go empty. But every woman shall [unspec] ask of her neighbor, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and garments; and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters, and ye shall spoil the Egyptians.

IETHRO] in Greek Iothor: he was also named Hobab, and was the son of Ragouel ⟨...⟩ Exod. 2. 18. Num. 10. 29. Judge. 4. 11. He is called also •••er, Exod. ⟨◇⟩ 18. The son succeeded in his fathers office, for it is likely that Raguel was now dead, this being 40. years after Moses his coming thither, Exod. 2. 21. Act. 7. 30 behind] to the back side: the Greek saith, under the wilderness; the Chaldee, to a place of good pasture in the wilderness. A wilderness (so named of going wild, that is, astray therein) as is shown on Gen. 21. 14. was a place where cattle used to be fed, as here and Luk. 15. 4. 1 Sam. 17. 28. mount of God] so called, because it was great and high, as Psal. 36. 7. and was sanctified of God, by his appearing there now, verse. 5. and after when God came down upon it, to give his law, Ex. 18. 5. and 19. 3. 17. 18. So in 1 King. 19. 8. The Chaldee calleth it, the mount where the glory of the Lord was revealed. Horeb] or Choreb: which signifieth Drinesse (for this wilderness was waterless, Deut. 8. 15.) it was called also mount Sinai, Act. 7. 30. Exod. 19. 1. 18. of the Bramble-bushes there growing; or of this vision there appearing.

Vers. 2. Angel] This was Christ, who in verse. 6. calleth himself the God of Abraham; named an Angel; as before in Gen. 48. 16. therefore Moses blessing Israel, mentioneth the good will of this dweller in the bush. Deut. 33. 16. where the Chaldee paraphrast addeth, him whose habitation is in heaven; meaning God. And other Rabbin's acknowledged as much; R. Menachem, upon Exod. 3. saith, his Angel, in the opinion of some of our Rabbin's, was Michael; and therefore he saith the Angel of the Lord, and saith not the Angel of God, signifying the condition of mercies. See also the notes on Gen. 32. 24. where Michael, is shown to be Christ. Again, R. Menachem there alledgeth;

this Angel is that Angel the Redeemer, which said to Jacob, I am the God of Bethel: this is he (of whom it is said) and the Angel of his presence saved them: Gen. 48. 16. and 31. 11. 13. Esa. 63. 9. bramble-bush] In Hebrew Seneh, whereupon the mount, and wilderness is called Sinai, of the store of brambles that grew there: or of this bush and vision So in Pirkei R. Eliezer, c. 41. it is said, from the beginning of the world, this mount was called Horeb: and when God appeared unto Moses, out of the midst of the bramble-bush, of the name of the bramble (Seneh) it was called Sinai. consumed] Hebr. eaten up, in Greek, burnt up: fire is usually said to eat, that is, to consume, Lev. 6. 10. The flame is said to burn up the mountains, trees, &c. Psal. 83. 15. Joel 1. 19. and is therefore used to signify great afflictions from the hand of God, Esa. 30. 30. Lam. 2. 3. But here God (who is called a consuming fire, Deut. 4. 24.) consumeth not the bush, (a figure of the Church of Israel, afflicted in Egypt) but dwelleth with good will therein, as Moses mentioneth the good will of him that dwelt in the bush, Deut, 33. 16. And so hath promised to Israel, when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee: Esa. 43. 2. This God himself openeth to Moses, in verse. 7. 8. and it agreeth with that vision shown to Abraham, in Gen. 15. 13. 17. And the Hebrew Doctors so understood this vision, saying, God dwelt in the bramble-bush: and the bramble-bush was affliction & anguish, & all thorns and briars. And why dwelt he in the midst of affliction and anguish? but because he saw Israel in great affliction he also dwelt with them in the midst of affliction, to confirm that which is said (in Esa. 63. 9.) In all their affliction, it was afflicted. Pirkei R. Eliezer, c. 40.

Verse 3. great sight] or, vision: whereat Moses wondered, and drew near to consider it, Act. 7. 34. not burnt:] the Yerushalmi Targum addeth, is green and not burnt.

Vers. 4. unto him] and what God said unto him, the same he hath spoken to us; as our Lord himself explaineth it; Have ye not read, that which was spoken unto you by God? Mat. 22. 31. 32. And although God spake thus to Moses, yet he writing these things for the Church, it is said, that Moses shown them, and he called the Lord, the God of Abraham: Luke 20. 37.

Vers. 5. thy shoes] the putting off of shoes, was used for a sign of giving up ones right unto another, Deut. 25. 9. Ruth 4. 7. also for a sign of mourning and humiliation, Ezek. 24. 17. 23. 2 Sam. 15. 30. Esa. 20. 2•4. and consequently of sanctification before God; putting off uncleanness, as the change and washing of other garments also signified, Gen. 35. 2. Ex. 19. 10. Eccles. 4. 17. Psal. 119. 101. Ephes. 6. 15. All which may be implied in this precept, that Moses in all humility and holiness, should now resign up him-self unto God, and service of him. The like was commanded Joshua, Ios. 5. 15. By Stephens relation, GOD had manifested himself by the words following in the next verse, before he commanded this thing: see Act. 7. 32. 33. From this precept unto Moses, the Jews gathered a general rule, that whosoever standeth in the holy place, must put off his shoes: Pirkei R. Eliezer. c. 40. So from that precept in Lev. 19. 30. ye shall reverence my sanctuary, they conclude, that this belongeth to the reverence of it, that no man come in there, with his shoes on his feet. Maimonides in Beith habchirah (or Temple) c. 7. S. 1. 2 is holy ground] Hebr. it is ground of holiness: sanctified by the presence and apparition of God, who maketh the heavens, earth, and places where his glory is revealed, to be holy, and reverently to respected of his people, Psal. 20. 7. and 48. 2. Ios. 5. 15. Gen. 28. 16. 17. 2 Chron. 8. 11. So the mount whereon Christ was transfigured, is called the holy mount, 2 Pet. 1. 18. Therefore death was threatened to all that came into the holy place of the tabernacle, where God appeared; except such, and so sanctified, as the law did appoint, Lev. 16. 2. 3. &c.

Vers. 6. I am] The word am, is added by the Holy Ghost, in Matth. 22. 32. though for brevity sake, it is omitted here in the Hebrew, and also in the Greek, Mark. 11. 26. and often throughout the Scriptures. thy father] the Holy Ghost expoundeth this, thy fathers: Act. 7. 32. and the words following confirm it. See Gen. 3. 2. God of Abraham] to whom the land of Canaan was first promised, Gen. 12. 1. 7. the affliction of his seed in Egypt; prophesied; and the deliverance from the same, now to be performed: Gen. 15. 13. 16. Exod. 3. 8. And because God is not the God of the dead but of the living, our Savior from this speech proveth, that Abraham and others dead to the world; yet lived unto God, and their bodies should be raised again from the dead, Matth. 22. 31. 32. Luk. 20. 37. 38. hid] in Greek, turned away: this hiding was in conscience of his own infirmity, and of God's majesty, so that Moses trembled and durst not behold; Act. 7. 32. Elias covered his face with his mantle, 1 King. 19. 13. and the Seraphims covered theirs with their wings, Esa. 6. 2. See also Job 13. 20. Luk. 5. 8. Esa. 6. 5. to look] so the Greek also translateth it, referring it to the last word feared. It may also be Englished, from looking, or, that he might not look, referring it to the former, he hid his face. For God, the Chaldee translateth, the glory of the Lord.

Vers. 7. seeing I have seen] that is, I have surely seen: the like phrase is in Gen. 2. 17. God's seeing and hearing, implied a merciful regard and pitying of their misery: Psal. 106. 44. 45. Gen. 29. 32. therefore the people, when they understood this, gave thanks to God, Exod. 4. 31. Some of the Hebrews (as the Zohar upon this place) expounded it thus: Seeing for the good of Israel; I have seen, for vengeance upon those that oppress them. In this sense Zechariah said at his death, The Lord see it, and require it: 2 Chron. 24. 22. their taskmasters] or, his taskmaster; speaking of the people as of one man: see the notes on Gen. 22. 17. Taskmasters, here properly are Exactors; and is generally used for such as require and exact, either money, as in 2 King. 23. 35. or any debt, Deut. 15. 2. or otherwise do oppress any, Esa. 53. 7. Here the Greek translateth it workmasters; the Chaldee, rulers. They figured spiritual tyrants also, from whom will deliver his people; Esa. 9. 4. and 14. 2. and 60. 17.

Vers. 8. am come down] to wit, in this vision: as the Chaldee translateth, I do appear, (or, am revealed.) See Gen. 11. 5. them] Hebr. him: that is, the people. The Greek translateth it them: so doth the Holy Ghost, in Act. 7. 34. the hand] that is, the power and dominion: as Gen. 16. 6. and 32. 11. So Christ came to deliver us out of the hands of our enemies, Luk. 1. 74. whereof this now was a type. milk and honey] under which, all other blessings are comprehended; there was no lack of anything, Deut. 8. 7. 8. 9. Of this country, see the notes on Gen. 12. 5. and as the land figured out a heavenly country; so milk and honey signified spiritual blessings in Christ, Song 4. 11. Psal. 19. 11. Esa. 55. 1. 1 Pet. 2. 2. This praise of the land, is often mentioned by this phrase, as in Exod. 13. 5. and 33. 3. Lev. 20. 24. Deut. 6. 3. and 11. 9. Ios. 5. 6. Ier. 11. 5. Ezek. 20. 6. And the Israelites upon the first view, acknowledged it so to be, Num. 13. 22. and yearly professed the same, by God's command, Deut. 26. 9. 15. Yet the rebellious despised it, and called Egypt, a land that floweth with milk and honey: Num. 16. 13. 14.

Canaanite] that is, as the Greek and Chaldee translate, Canaanites, Chethites, &c. See Gen. 10. 16. and 15. 20. So after, verse 17.

Vers. 10. send thee] The secret inspiration which [unspec] Moses had before from God, (Exod. 2. 11. Acts 7. 25.) is here become an open calling and full commission; and he whom the Israelites had refused, saying, who made thee a ruler and a judge? the same did God send to be a ruler and deliverer, by the hand of the Angel, which appeared to him in the bramble-bush: Act. 7. 35. This sending of Moses, is also mentioned as a mercy of God, Psal. 105. 26. Mich. 6. 4. Hos. 12. 13. unto Pharaoh] the Greek addeth, king of Egypt: in Act. 7. 34. it is, I will send thee into Egypt. bring thou] in Greek, thou shalt bring. See the notes on Gen. 20. 7.

Vers. 12. Certainly] or, Because I will be: the [unspec] Chaldee saith, because my word shall be thine help. this] the present apparition of my glory in the bush, which thou seest: or, this, that followeth, ye shall serve God at this mount. The first was a sign to strengthen Moses in his business with Pharaoh, Exod. 5. 22. 23. the latter, to confirm him against the many rebellions of Israel, mentioned in Num. 11. 10. 11. 14. 15. Deut. 9. 22. 23. 24. at this] or, by this mount. This was fulfilled when at mount Sinai, the law being given, the tabernacle was made, and sacrifice and other service performed unto God, Exod. 19. and 25. &c. which being a mount in the wilderness, in Arabia; the worshippers & children thereof were in bondage, as was Agar, and figured the Old Testament and those under the same, by Moses law; Gal. 4. 24. 25. Now we by Christ are not come thither, but unto mount Zion, where all the house of Israel, and all in the land are to serve the Lord: Heb. 12. 18. 22. Ezek. 20. 40. Rev. 14. 1.

Vers. 13. what is his name?] This may imply, after [unspec] what manner, and to what end, God had now appeared; whether for mercy, or judgment. For God by names manifesteth his works, as after appeareth in Exod. 6. 3. So the Hebrews teach (in Elle shemoth rabba upon this place) that when God judgeth his creatures, he is called Elohim (God;) when he warreth against the wicked, he is called Sabaoth (Lord of hosts;) when he doth mercy unto the world, he is called Jehovah; as in Exod. 34. 6. Jehovah, Jehovah, God merciful and gracious.

Vers. 14. I am that I am] The Hebrew, Ehjah asher ehjah, properly signifieth I will be that I will be: the Greek translatheth, I am he that is. And God is called, He that is, that was, and that will be, Rev. 16. 5. where this name Ehjah, is opened, as also the name Jehovah, whereof see Gen. 2. 4. Exod. 6. 3. It implieth God's eternal and unchangeable Being in himself (before whom, all nations are as nothing, Esa. 40. 17.) and the constant performing of all his words, to be now and forever that which he was before, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob: verse 15. So, Jesus Christ yesterday and today, the same, and forever: Heb. 13. 8. The Rabbin's do thus also explain this name, in Elle shemoth rabba, upon this text. The blessed God said ••to Moses. say ﴿ϕ﴾ them, ﴿ϕ﴾ have been, and I the same now, and I the same ﴿ϕ﴾ time to come, &c. I ﴿ϕ﴾ ,] or, I will be, hath sent, &c. The Chaldee paraphrase called Jonathan's, giveth both expositions: I •e that was and hereafter will be, hath sent me unto you.

Vers. 15. my memorial] or, the memorial of me that whereby I will be remembered and mentioned always. To this the Prophets refer us, as in Hos. 12. 5. Jehovah God of hosts; Jehovah is his memorial: and Jehovah thy name is forever: Jehovah, thy memorial, is to generation and generation, Ps. 135. 13. and 102. 13. and generation] or of generation; that is, all generations (or ages.) The Chaldee supplieth the word and (as the Hebrew elsewhere doth in Psal. 135. 13.) saying, to every generation and generation.

Vers. 16. Elders:] or Senators: in Greek the senate: such were not only aged men, but teachers and governors of the people, as among other nations: See Gen. 50. 7. By the Elders, things were orderly communicated with the multitude, as Exod. 12. 3. 21. and 19. 3. 7. visiting] the Greek translatheth, with visitation; that is, surely or carefully visited, and that in mercy; as Gen. 21. 1. Albeit from the word twice repeated, some of the Hebrews gather a visitation in mercy concerning Israel; and a visitation in judgment, concerning the Egyptians, for their afflicting of Israel, (as was promised in Gen. 15. 14.) R. Menachem, on Exod. 3.

Vers. 17. Egypt] or, the Egyptians, as verse. 8. and as the Greek translatheth here. Canaanite] that is, Canaanites, Chethites, &c. See verse 8.

Vers. 18. met with us] that is, appeared unto us, and so called and commanded us to offer him sacrifice. Men are said to meet with God, by prayer, and he to meet them, by appearing and speaking unto them; as in Num. 23. 3. 4. 15. 16. where the Greek translatheth it appear. Here the Greek version is, he hath called us, three dates journey] Hebr. three days way. This was, to mount Horeb, where they should serve God, verse 12. which it seemeth was b ⟨...⟩ three days journey from Egypt, had they gone the direct way: but because of troubles and fears, they were led about, Exod. 13. 17. 18. so that they came not thither till the third month, Exod. 19. 1. Of the mystery of this number, three, see the notes on Gen. 22. 4. wilderness:] the globe of the earth is of three parts, inhabited land, sea, and wilderness; which is a place of wild beasts, Mark. 1. 13. without inhabitant, without way to go in, without water; even the shadow of death it self, Ier. 2. 6. Deut. 8. 15. Psal. 107. 4. 5. into such a place must Israel go, because they might not sacrifice to God in Egypt, Exod. 8. 25. 26. Such was the place of Christ's temptation 40 days, Luk. 4. 1. 2. and of Israel 40 years, Deut. 8. 2. where God fed and guided them, as he did also the woman that fled into the wilderness, from the present of the serpent, Rev. 12. 14.

Vers. 1. no not] Hebr. and not: meaning, though [unspec] he should be s ⟨...⟩ tten with many plagues, yet he would not let them go willingly. Or and not, may ⟨◇⟩ here for If not, that is, but by strong hand, as the Greek here translatheth it: the Chaldee also saith, but for strong fear. For ten plagues were sent on Pharaoh, before he would let them go; Exod. 11. 1 So and, is put for if, in Exod. 4. 23. Num. 12. 14.

Vers. 20. my hand] the Chaldee saith, the plague of my strength; that is, my strong plague.

Vers. 21. grace] that is, favor▪ the Hebrew phrase is, the grace of this people; which the Greek translatheth, will give grace to this people, that is, will cause them to be favored. The Chaldee saith, I will give this people to mercies: (as in Psal. 106. 46.) See the like in Gen. 39. 21. Exod. 11. 2.

Vers. 22. jewels] or, instruments vessels. Thus the promise made to Abraham in Gen. 15. 14. was now to be fulfilled. spoil] So Ezek. 39. 10. they shall spoil those that spoiled them.

CHAP. IV.

1, Moses doubting that he should not be believed, is confirmed by miracles; of his rod turned to a serpent; 6, and his hand leprous. 9, Waters should also be turned to blood. 10, Moses maketh excuses that he might not be sent. 14, God is angry; and appointeth Aaron to assist him. 18, Moses getteth leave of Jethro to depart into Egypt. 21, The Lord reheareth his message to Pharaoh. 24, He meeteth Moses in the In•e, and seeketh to kill him. 25, Zipporah circumciseth her son, and he letteth him go. 27, God sendeth Aaron to meet Moses. 29, Moses and Aaron do their message unto Israel. 31, They believe, and are thankful.

AND Moses answered, and said; But behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice; for they will say, Jehovah hath not appeared unto thee. And Jehovah said unto him, What is that in thy hand? and he said, a rod. And he said; Cast it on the ground; and he cast it on the ground, and it was (turned) to a serpent: and Moses fled from before it. And Jehovah said unto Moses; Put forth thy hand, & take it by the tail: and he put forth his hand & caught it, and it was (turned) to a ro• in his hand. That they may believe, that Jehovah the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared unto thee. And Jehovah said further more unto him▪ Put now thy hand into thy bosom; and he put his hand into his bosom; and he took it out, and behold, his hand was leprous as snow. And he said, Return thy hand into thy bosom; and he returned his hand into his bosom: and he took it out of his bosom, and behold, it was turned as his flesh. And it shall be, if they will not believe thee; nor hark 〈...〉 to the voice of the first sign, that they will believe the voice of the latter sign. And it shall be, if they will not believe also these two signs, not hearken to thy voice, that thou shalt take of the waters of the river, and pour upon the dry land, and the waters shall be, which thou shalt take out of the river, even they shall be (turned) to blood upon the dry land. And Moses said unto Jehovah; Oh my Lord, I am not a man of words, either from days heretofore, or since thou hast spoken unto thy servant; but I am of an heavy mouth, and of an heavy tongue. And Jehovah said unto him; Who hath made the mouth of man, or who maketh the dumb, or the deaf, or the open-eyed, or the blind? have not I Jehovah? And now go, and I will be with thy mouth, and will teach thee what thou shalt speak. And he said; Oh my Lord, send I pray thee, by the hand thou shouldest send. And the anger of Jehovah was kindled against Moses; and he said, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that speaking he can speak, and also behold he is coming forth to meet thee; and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart. And thou shalt speak unto him, and shalt put the words in his mouth, and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what you shall do. And he shall speak for thee unto the people, and he shall be, even he shall be to thee for a mouth, and thou shalt be to him for a God. And this rod shalt thou take in thy hand, with the which thou shalt do the signs. And Moses went, and returned to Iether his father in law, and said unto him; Let me go I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet alive: and Jethro said to Moses, Go in peace. And Jehovah said unto Moses, in Midian; Go, returnd into Egypt, for all the men are dead that sought thy soul. And Moses took his wife and his sons, and made them ride upon an asse; and he returned to the land of Egypt: and Moses took the rod of God in his hand. And Jehovah said unto Moses; When thou goest to return into Egypt see, all the wonders which I have put in thy hand, that thou do them before Pharaoh, and I will make strong his heart, and he shall not send away the people. And thou shalt say unto Pharaoh;  $\langle\phi\rangle$  saith Jehovah, Israel is my son my first-borne. And I say unto thee, Send away my son, that he may serve me; and if thou refuse to send him away behold, I will stay thy son, thy first-borne: And it was in the way, in the Inn, that Jehovah met him, and sought to kill him. And Zipporah took a sharp stone, [unspec] and cut off the superfluous foreskinne of her son, and cast it at his feet, and said, Surely a husband of bloods art thou to me. And he [unspec] let him go: then she said, a husband of bloods, for the circumcisions. And Jehovah [unspec] said to Aaron; Go to meet Moses, into the wilderness: and he went, and met him in the mountain of God, and kissed him. And [unspec] Moses told Aaron all the words of Jehovah, who had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him. And Moses went and Aaron, and they gathered together all the Elders of the sons of Israel. And Aaron spake all the words which Jehovah had spoken unto Moses: and he did the signs, in the eyes of the people. And the people believed; and they heard that Jehovah had visited the sons of Israel, and that he had seen their affliction: and they bended down the head, and bowed themselves.

Annotations.

BVt beheld] Hebr. and beheld: or, and if, as the Greek translath it, adding this question, what shall I say unto them? So (hên) behold, is used for (im) if, in Ier. 3. 1. Moses having experience of former refusal, Exod. 2. 14. feareth the like again; and maketh exceptions.

Vers. 2. a rod] or, a staff; as in Gen. 38. 18. A [unspec] instrument which shepherds used to guide their sheep with: Lev. 27. 32. with it Moses now fed Iethroes flock; but God sanctified it to work  $\langle\dots\rangle$  miracles by, and to feed his people Israel. Therefore it is after called the rod of God, v. 20. and many great things were effected by it. To this the Prophets after, have reference; as, feed thy people  $\langle\phi\rangle$  thy rod, &c. Mich. 7. 14.

Vers. 3. was (turned) to] or, became a serpent:  $\langle\phi\rangle$  [unspec] the word turned, is expressed in Exod. 7. 15. and the Greek here addeth it in verse 17. As the shining of Moses face, and veil put upon it, (Exod. 34. 30. 33.) signified the glory of his ministry, and the hiding of the end thereof, from unbelieving Israelites, 2 Cor. 3. 7. 13. 16. so his rod turned to a serpent, was here for a sign to such as would not otherwise believe him, verse. 5. 8. 9. signifying that his ministry should become deadly, to all that by faith saw not the end of the same, to be theredemption of Abraham's seed, by Christ, Luk. 1. 68. 74. Rom. 10. 4. Gal. 3. The feeding of God's people with his rod, was a sign of life and grace, and comfort. Mith. 7. 14. 15. Psal. 23. 4. the rod turned to a serpent, was a sign of death, Gen. 3. Num. 21. 6. Esa. 14. 29. Ierem. 8. 17. from before] or, from the face of it: for fear: because all serpents are odious to man; and this was terrible, called a dragon, in Exod. 7. 10. So the woman fled from the face of the serpent, Revel. 12. 14.

Vers. 4. by  $\langle\phi\rangle$  tail] which was dangerous to d  $\langle\dots\rangle$  n lest he  $\langle\phi\rangle$  be bitten thereby: howbeit Moses, obeying in faith, had no hurt; but the serpent was turned to a rod again: so that ministration of Moses which turneth to the unbelievers unto death, is to the obedient become an instrument of guiding them as a flock, unto life and salvation by Christ, Mark. 16.

18. 2. Cor. 2. 15. 16. and 3. 6. 16. Gal. 3. 24. The Hebrew Doctors, barely apply it to the present case thus; as the serpent biteth and killeth the son of Adam, so Pharaoh and his people did bite and kill the Israelites: but he was turned and made like a dry stick. •inkei. R. Eliezer, c. 40.

Vers. 5. That they may] this showeth the end of the former sign was to work faith: and it is an imperfect speech; as if he should say, Do this before them that they may believe. Such wants the holy Scripture of ⟨...⟩ supplieth, in the beginning or end of speeches: as in Mar. 14. 49. but that the scriptures might be fulfilled: which another explaineth thus, but all this is done that the scriptures of the Prophets might be fulfilled; Matth. 26. 56. So in 2 Sam 5. 8. these words are wanting, he shall be chief and Captain: which are afterwards supplied in 1 Chron. 11. 6. and sundry the like. See Exod. 13. 8. and 16. 8. and 18. 11. and 3• 32.

Verse 6. leprous as snow] that is, white as snow, as the Chaldee translateth. The leprosy was a sore contagious disease, and by man incurable: and God laid it sometime suddenly upon persons, for their great sins, as upon Mary the sister of Moses, Num. 12. 10. upon Gehazi, 2 King. 5. 27. and lepers were shut out of other men's company. See the law hereof, Levite. 13. And they that were thus leprous as snow, were as dead, their flesh half consumed, Numb. 12. 10. 12.

Vers. 7. as his flesh] that is, ruddy and lively: the Greek translateth, into the color of his flesh: A thing done in the bosom, signifieth secrecy, and effectualness, Prov. 21. 14. Psalm 29. 12. So by this plague of leprosy on Moses hand in his bosom, and healing it again; God seemeth to threaten unto Moses himself if he refused, and to all that should disobey the word of the Lord by his ministories, sudden, secret, and terrible judgment, but upon their return unto him; to cure them; for he ⟨ϕ⟩ undeth, and boaleth, Deut. 32. 39. Compare Ex ⟨...⟩ 25. 26. Deut. 28. 27. 35. 59. 60. 61. And Moses hand, signifieth his ministry unto the sons of. If ⟨ϕ⟩ , Psal. 77. 21. The Hebrew Doctors apply it thus; As the Lapet is unclean, and maketh (others) ⟨ϕ⟩ so were Pharaoh and his people unlean, and ⟨ϕ⟩ Israel unclean. And when he made (his band) ⟨ϕ⟩ , he find unto him thus shall Israel be (⟕) the uncleanness of the Egyptian, Pirk•i. ⟨...⟩ , c. 40.

Vers. 8. the ⟨...⟩ ice,] or at the voice: which is here given ⟨...⟩ sign, (as in Gen. 4. 10. it is unto blood;) because God by ⟨ϕ⟩ signs speaketh unto men: and an ⟨...⟩ word with the sign, that it may be heard and understood, as ⟨ϕϕ⟩ 30. Ezek. 1. •9. ⟨ϕ⟩ . ⟨ϕ⟩ 16. So ⟨ϕ⟩ calleth them, the words of his sign••, Psal. 10•. •7.

Vers. 9. to blood This third sign, was for like end as the former; to signify unto Israel, if they beleaved not, that God would bring upon them yet more bloody afflictions: and they believing he would avenge them, on their enemies. Of the Egyptians waters turned to blood, see after in Exodus 7. 19. &c.

V. 10. Oh] in Gr. v I pray thee Lord: see this word in Gen. 43. 20. so after in v. 13. man of words] that is, eloquent: so a man of ⟨ϕ⟩ ; that is, talkative, Job 11. 2. a man of arm, that is, mighty, Job 22 8. a man of tongue, that is, a pratler, Ps. 140. 12. The Gr. here translateth, I am not sufficient. So Paul saith, and who is sufficient for these things? 2 Cor. 2. 16. from days heretofore] Heb. from yesterday or from the day before; used for all days past: see Gen. 31. 2. of an heavy] or, heavy of mouth; that is slow, (or troubled) in speaking, & hard to be understood of the hearers; as the latter of these two signifieth, in Ezek. 3. 6. The Greek translath, of a small voice & of a slow tongue: the Chaldee, of a heavy speech and of a deep tongue. This (as other things in Moses) may have reference to the effect of the Law, which he administered: as on the contrary, the Psalmist prophesying of Christ, had his tongue, the pen of a speedy writer. Psal. 45. 2. and the Spirit, (which is received, not by the works of Moses law, but by the hearing of faith in Christ, Gal. 3. 2.) causeth prophesy, and other words of wisdom and knowledge, Act. 2. 18. 1. Gor. 12. 8. 10. & causeth the lips of those that are asleep, to speak, Song 7. 9. By the Hebrew cannons, no Priest that stammered, lisped or was of an heavy mouth or tongue, might lift up his hands to bless the people: Maimonides in Misneh treat of Prayer, chap. 15. S 〈...〉 Soe the notes on Num. 6. 23.

Vers. 11 hath made] or as the Greek translath, hath given Heb put, the mouth to 〈◇〉 open eyed] or, open cared: for the Hebrew word signifieth both these, Esa. 42. 7. 20. and may have reference here to both. The Greek tranflateth, the seeing. Compare Psal. 146. 8 Esa. 61. 1. and 33. 5. 6.

Vers. 12. I will be] The Chaldee, expounds it my word shall be: the Greek, I will open thy mouth. will t•aoh] by my spirit, as Christ in like manner promiseth his Apostles, Matth. 10. 19. 20. Mark. 13. 11. Luke 12. 11. 12.

Vers. 13. by the hand thou shouldst] that is, by his hand (or ministry) whom thou shouldst send, as being fitterthand: (or) by the hand (of any other whom) thou wilt send. The Chaldee, and That gum Yerushalmi translate, by the hand of him whom it is meet to send: and the Greek 〈◇〉, choose an• then able man whom thou wilt send. Moses 〈◇〉 greatness of the work, would with draw his shoulder, through infirmity: God hereby 〈...〉 wing the imperfection of Moses administration, and impossibility of the law to bring men to perfection; when Moses could not bring Israel into the promised land: 〈◇〉. 3. 24. 25. 27. 28. Romans 8. 3. Hebrews 7. 19. The hand of one, is usually put for his ministry: as Moses now was s•m of God by the hand of the Angel which appeared to him in the bush 〈◇〉 7. 35. See Exodus 9. 35. Psal. 97 2•. Hag. 1. 1. Mal. 1. 1.

Vers. 24. speaking speak] that is, speak well and eloquently. Thus God distributeth his gifts by measure; diversely; to one is given by the spirit, the word of wisdom; to 〈...〉 there, the word of knowledge; to another, kinds of tongues; to another, the interpretation of tongues; &c. 1 Cor. 12. 8. 10. So among the Apostles, 2 Cor. 11. 6. and 10. 10. Mar. 3. 17. Of this Aaron, see after in Exod. 6. 20. 26.

Vers. 15. the words] which I have spoken to thee; as the Greek saith, my words. God signifying hereby, that the Priests (which came of Aaron) should receive their doctrine from the Law, which was given by Moses: as Ezek. 44. 24. Mal. 4. 4 Levite. 6. 8. 9. I will be] the Chaldee faith, my word shall be: the Greek, I will open thy mouth: as verse. 12.

Verse 16. he shall be] or, it shall be that he shall be: the word is doubled, for more vehemency and assurance. a mouth] that is, a spokes-man, or as the Chaldee saith, an interpreter. In Exod. 7. 1. he is called his Prophet. a God] the Chaldee saith (Rab, that is,) a Master: and the Yerushalmi Targum addeth, an inquirer of Doctrine from before the Lord. The Greek translatheth, in things pertaining to God: which very phrase Paul useth in Hebrews 5. 1. The Hebrew Elohim, God, is after attributed to Judges and Magistrates. Exod. 22. 8. 9. Psal. 82. 6. and the reason is rendered by Christ, because the word of God is given to them, John. 10. 34. 35. Here Moses, though the younger brother (Exodus 7. 7.) is preferred before Aaron his elder: so God oftentimes disposed: see Gene•. 25. 23. and 48. 19.

Vers. 17. this rod] which was turned into a serpent, as the Greek addeth for explanation: In verse 20. it is called the rod of God; it was before Moses shepherds staff.

Vers. 18. Iether] called after, Jethro: in Greek Iethor: see Exod. 3. 1. in peace] or with peace: the Greek translatheth, with health or welfare.

Vers. 19. thy saule] that is, thy life; as Genesis 19. 17. So the Chaldee well explaineth it, that sought to •ill thee. Though sometime to seek the soul, is taken in the good part, as, none seeketh for my soul, Psal. 142. 5. that is, careth for me or for my life: yet usually it signifieth, seeking to kill one; and is sometime explained, seeking the soul to take it away; as 〈◇〉 Kings 19. 10. This phrase is often used. So Matth. 2. 20.

Vers. 20. sons] two, Gershom and Eliezer, Exodus 18. 3, 4. an asse] the Greek translatheth 〈◇〉 as moe then one, and often the Hebrew putteth the singular, for many. See Genesis 3. 2. This may argue Moses poor estate, as Christ's, Zichar. 〈◇〉 . 〈◇〉 . •od of God] that is, which God had appo 〈...〉 him to work miracles with, as verse 3. 17. So the Chaldee explaineth it, the rod whereby miracles should be done, from before the Lord. So in Exod. 17. 9.

Vers. 21. have put] or, shall p 〈...〉 t in thy hand, that is, give thee power to do. What wonders signify, see on Exodus 7. 3▪ make strong:] or, make 〈◇〉 , fast, 〈◇〉 , and hard, that he shall not re•ut or yield: therefore i• Exodus. 7. 3. God useth another word, I will den; and so the Greek translatheth this here. As before God 〈◇〉 Pharaohs heart, to hate his people, (Psalm 105. 25.) so now he is said to make-strong, and to harden his heart; and of King Sichon, the Lord hardened his spirit, and made his heart strong (or obstinate) Deuteronomy 2. 30. and hardened the hearts of the other Canaanites, Joshua 11. 20. and made fat, and hardened the hearts of the Israelites, Isaiah 6. 10. John 12. 40. and gave them the spirit of slumber, Romans 11. 8. As hardness is sin, so Pharaoh hardened his own heart, Exodus 9. 34. and so all wicked men, Psalm 95. 8. but as it is a judgment and punishment for sin, GOD hardeneth; using hereunto sundry means; sometime withdrawing his outward word and works, Psalm 147. 19. 20. Matthew 11. 21. 23. sometime the inward working of his spirit, Genesis 6. 3. and sending outward means to deceive them, 1 Kings 22. 20. 23. or strong delusions to blind their minds, 2 Thes. 2. 10. 11. Romans 11. 8. 10. or making his word (which they abuse) to be the favor of death unto them, 2 Corinthians 2. 15. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 8. or, giving them over to a reprobate mind, Romans 1. 28. or to Satan to be blinded and deluded unto destruction, 2 Corinthians 4.

4. 1 Kings 22. 22, 2 Thessal. 2. 9. 12. So God is said to determine and to do those things but justly; which the wicked of their own accord, do also rush into most unjustly; as Acts 4. 27. 28. 2 Samuel 12. 11. 12. And he hath mercy on whom he will; and whom he will be hardeneth, Romans 9. 18. The Hebrew Doctors, though they err about man's free-will, yet say, that it may be a man sinneth so great a sin, or so many sins, as judgment is given from the Judge of truth, that vengeance be taken on the sinner, for the sins th• he hath done willingly & wittingly; and that repentance be withholden from him, and leave is not permitted him to ⟨ϕ⟩ from his wickedness; but that he die and perish in the sin that he hath done. This is that which the holy blessed (God) saith by the hand of Isaiah; Make the heart of this people fat, &c. (Esa. 6. 10.) Likewise he• saith, But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his Prophets, until the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, till there was no healing, (2 Chro. 36. 16.) as if he should say, they sinned willingly, and multiplied their trespasses, till they were condemned to have repentance withholden frō them, for that is the healing. Therefore it is written in the Law, And I will make strong the heart of Pharaoh; because Phara•h sinned of himself first, and did evil unto Israel which were strangers in his land, as it is said, Com• on, let ⟨ϕ⟩ deal wisely with them, (Exodus 1. 10.) he gave sentence, that repentance should be withholden from him, till vengeance were taken on him: Therefore GOD hardened his heart. And why then sent his unto him by the hand of Moses saying, let (my people) go, and repent thou, when as GOD had said unto him; but thou and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet fear, &c. (Exodus 9. 30.) And indeed, for this have I raised thee up, &c. Exod. 9. 16. &c. To the end that he might make known to those that come into the world, that when God with-holdeth repentance from a sinner, he• cannot repent; but shall die in his wickedness which he did at the first of his own accord. Maimonides treat. of Repentance, chap. 6. S. 3. Whereas the Rabbin saith of repentance, that that is the healing: we may better say, that the forgiveness of sins upon their repentance and faith in God is the healing: for whereas it is written, lest they should be converted and I should heal them, Matth. 13. 15. another Evangelist expoundeth it, lest they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them, Mar. 4. 12. With his other doctrine, of God with-holding repentance from some sinners, we may compare that of the Apostle, in Heb. 6. 4. 6. of those whom it is impossible to renew unto repentance.

Vers. 22. my first borne] This showeth both the right which God had in them, and the love which he bare unto them: Gen. 22. 2. Psal. 89. 28. 1 John. 3. 1. This grace Israel obtained by adoption in Christ, John. 1. 12. Rom. 8. 14. 15. Heb. 12. 23. Hos. 11. 1. And by Israel here is meant the people, the sons or Church of Israel; as all Israel, 1 King. 8. 62. is in verse 63. all the sons of Israel, and in 2 Ch•on. 7. 4. 5. called all the people. So, all Israel, 2 Chron. 10. 3. is expounded, all the Church (or congregation) of Israel, 1 Kings 12. 3. Howbeit as the like speech in Hos. 11. 1. is applied unto Christ himself, Matth. 2. 15. so is this place by the Hebrew Doctors in their Midras (or Comment) on Psalm 2. 7.

Vers. 23. And I] or Therefore I: see Gen. 31. 44. say unto thee] This manner of speech is with authority, as commanding: so the Greek translatheth the word, in Ios. 11. 9. and say, in Luke 9. 54. and 4. 3. is for command: and a thing spoken in God's name, 1 Chron. 21. 19. is said to be commanded, 2 Sam. 24. 19. and that which in Mark. 7. 13. is called the word of God, is in Matth. 15. 6. called his commandment. send away] that is, by thy word, let my son go, or suffer him to go; to wit, willingly: as that which in Mark. 5. 12. is written, Send us unto the swine; is in Matthew 8. 31. and Luke 8. 32. Suffer us to go. And it is meant here, of letting them go free out of their servitude, (as after, this word is used in like cases, Exodus 21. 26. 27.) for Egypt was the house of servants, Exodus 20. 1. and 1. 13. thy first borne] not only of Pharaoh, but of all the Egyptians, as was fulfilled Exodus 12. 29. and upon all the host of Pharaoh, Exod. 14. 28.

Vers. 24. the way] towards Egypt. Jehovah] the Greek and Chaldee translate, the Angel of the Lord. to kill him:] that is, Moses; who for neglect of circumcising his son, was guilty of cutting off by the law of God, Genes. 17. 14. This severity God used toward Moses, who was going to take charge of the Church of God, and yet had such corruption in his own family, as that the seal of the righteousness of faith in Christ, was therein omitted; an evil example to all Israel. So the Hebrew Doctors (as the Zohar upon this place) frame a speech from hence, that God should say unto Moses, Thou art going to deliver Israel, and to bring down a mighty king: and thou thyself hast cast away my covenant from thee. Others of them write, that except the tribe of Levi of whom it is said, they kept thy covenant, Deuteronomy 33. 9. all Israel besides, omitted the covenant of circumcision in Egypt, and were circumcised there by Moses; that they might eat the passover according to the law, Exodus 12. 48. Maimonides in Misneh; tom. 2. in Asure biah; chapter 13. S. 2.

Vers. 25. sharp stone] or, sharp knife: but both Greek and Chaldee versions, call it a stone: the Hebrew hath the name of edge, or sharpness, Psal. 89. 44. and a stone-rock is so called for the sharpness of it. So in Ios. 5. 2. mak thee knives of edges, (that is, sharp knives,) or of stones. cast it] Hebrew, made it touch his feet: the Chaldee saith, brought it near before him. Hereby, Moses feet seem to be meant: howbeit the Yerushalmi Targum expoundeth it, the feet of the Destroyer, meaning of the Angel that came to kill Moses. The Greek translatheth, she fell at his feet. a husband] or, a bridegroom of bloods; that is, a bloody bridegroom or husband: as a man of bloods, 2 Sam. 16. 7. is a cruel bloody man: so here Zipporah seemeth in indignation against her husband, thus to call him. Some think the child is thus called, because in the day of the circumcision, it is as espoused unto GOD by the seal of the covenant. The Chaldee translatheth it, for the blood of the circumcision, let my husband be given me.

Vers. 26. he let him go] or, left off (slaked) from him: by he, meaning GOD, who sought before to kill Moses, verse 24. So the Targum Yerushalmi saith, the Destroyer let him go. a husband, &c.] here the Chaldee paraphraseth thus, had it not been for the blood of this circumcision, my husband must needs have been killed. And it is like that upon this occasion and trouble, Zipporah with her children was sent back again from hence, to her fathers house, as appeareth by Exod. 18. 2. 3.

Vers. 27. of God] that is, mount Horeb; where the glory of the Lord had been revealed, saith the Chaldee paraphrast. See Exod. 3. 1. And now God shown that mercy to Aaron, which after he rehearsed to Eli, one of his posterity, 1 Sam. 2. 27. 28. Did not I plainly appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt, &c.

Vers. 30. Aaron spake] as God ordained, verse 16. he] that is, Moses did, as was appointed, verse 17. and the signs were those three forementioned, verse. 3. &c.

Vers. 31. heard] that is, hearkened gladly to this joyful tidings, as God foretold, Exod. 3. 18. therefore the Greek translatheth it, and they rejoiced that the Lord had visited. And the Holy Ghost showeth such force to be in the Hebrew word; for when one Prophet saith, Hezekiah heard, (or hearkened) 2 King. 20. 13. another saith, Hezekiah was glad. Esa. 39. 2. visited] to wit, in mercy: the Chaldee saith, remembered. See Gen. 21. 1. Luk. 1. 68. seen] to wit, with commiseration, as Ex. 3. 7. bended down the head] this was a gesture of humiliation, with the face toward the ground, as is expressed in 2 Chronicles 20. 18. Exodus 34. 8. bowed themselves] or, worshipped; fell down prostrate. This was another humble gesture, used in reverence and thanksgiving; as Gen. 24. 26. Exod. 12. 27. 1 Chron. 29. 20. 2 Chron. 29. 30. Nehem. 8. 6. There were also two other gestures of honor, kneeling, 2 Chron. 6. 13. and bending (or bowing) of the body, 2 Chron. 29. 29. and these three are all mentioned in Psal. 95. 6. They differed one from another: the bending of the head was the least, and it was the bowing down of the face only. The bending of the body, was when the whole body was bent downward, the face towards the knees. Kneeling, was upon the knees, a gesture commonly known. Bowing of themselves (or worship) was with falling down upon their face on the ground, their hands and feet displayed. Wherefore that which one Evangelist calleth worshipping, Matth. 8. 2. another calleth falling on the face, Luk. 5. 12. So the Hebrew cannons also distinguish them, saying, The bending of the body, spoken of in any place, is towards the knees, (the bowing of all the joints of the back-bone, so that he maketh his body as a bow:) the bending of the head, is with the face (or countenance) downward: the bowing of ones self (or worshipping) is the displaying of hands and feet, till he be prostrate with his face on the earth; Maimonides in Misn. treat of Prayer, c. 5. S. 12. 13. Here the Israelites shown by these gestures, their reverence to God's word, and thankfulness: the Hebrew Doctors (as in the Zohar upon this place) say, that the bending of the head with the face toward the ground, was for to escape judgment: and the bowing of themselves (or worshipping) was for to obtain mercy: and that the bending of the head, was before the worshipping; according to the mystery of the Sin-offering before the Burnt-offering. The order of which sacrifices may be seen in Exod. 29. 14. 18. Lev. 8. 14. 18. and 14. 19. 20. and 15. 15. and 61. 11. 15. 24.

CHAP. V.

1, Moses and Aaron doing their message to Pharaoh, are resisted and rebuked. 5, The Israelites task increased 14, Their officers beaten. 15, Their complaints checked. 19, They cry out upon Moses and Aaron. 22, Moses complaineth unto God.

AND afterward, Moses and Aaron went in, and said unto Pharaoh; Thus saith Jehovah, the God of Israel, Send away my people, that they may keep a feast unto me in the wilderness. And Pharaoh said, Who is Jehovah, that I should obey his voice, to send away Israel? I know not Jehovah, neither, will I send away Israel. And they said, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go we pray thee, three days journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice unto Jehovah our God, lest he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword. And the king of Egypt laid unto them; Wherefore do ye Moses and Aaron, cause the people to cease from their works? Get ye to your burdens. And Pharaoh said; Behold, [unspec] the people of the land now are many, and ye make them to rest from their burdens. And Pharaoh commanded, in that day, the [unspec] task-masters of the people, & their officers, saying, Ye shall not anymore give straw to [unspec] the people, to make bricks, as heretofore: let them go & gather straw for themselves. And the tale of the bricks, which they did [unspec] make heretofore, you shall lay upon them; you shall not diminish ought thereof; for they be idle, therefore they cry out saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God. Let [unspec] the work be made heavy upon the men, and let them labor therein, and let them not regard vain lying words. And the taskmasters of the people went out, & their officers, and said unto the people, saying; Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw. Go ye, take your straw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work shall be diminished. And the people was scattered abroad thorough all the land of Egypt, to gather stubble instead of straw. And the taskmasters hasted them saying, Fulfill your works, every days task in his day, as when there was straw. And the officers of the sons of Israel, which Pharaohs task-masters had set over them, were beaten, saying, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your appointed task to make brick, both yesterday and today, as heretofore? And the officers of the sons of Israel came, and cried out unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore doest thou thus to thy servants? There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, make bricks: and behold, thy servants are beaten, and it is the sin of thy people. And he said, ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, let us go, and sacrifice to Jehovah. Now therefore, go work, for straw shall not be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks. And the officers of the sons of Israel did see them in evil, saying, Ye shall not minish ought from your bricks, every days task in his day. And they lighted upon Moses and Aaron, standing to meet with them, as they came forth from Pharaoh. And they [unspec] said unto them; Jehovah look upon you, and judge, because you have made our savor to stink in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants; to give a sword into their hand, to slay us. And Moses returned [unspec] unto Jehovah, and said; Lord, wherefore hast thou done evil to this people; wherefore is it that thou hast sent me? For since I came to Pharaoh, to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to his people; and delivering thou hast not delivered thy people.

Annotations.

SEnd away] let go out of thy servitude: see the notes on Exod. 4. 23. keep a feast] The first signification of the Hebrew word chagag, is to dance, 1 Sam, 30. 16. or, to turn round, Psal. 107. 27. and secondly it is applied to keeping a feast religiously, which was with eating, drinking, dancing, and mirth, Judge. 21. 19. 21. Deut. 16. 15. figuring out our spiritual joys for redemption by Christ, 1 Cor. 5. 8. Nah. 1. 15. This should Israel have celebrated to the Lord; but they performed it to an idol, the work of their own hands, Exod. 32. 6. 19. Act. 7. 41. Among the heathens, they observed also such rites, sacrificing to their God's, with dances, &c. Sophocles in Electra. Plutarch in Theseo.

Vers. 2. Who is Jehovah] The Chaldee paraphraseth, The name of the Lord is not revealed unto me, that I should obey his word, &c. Such an answer God foretold, that he would give, Exod. 3. 19. I know not] again the Chaldee turneth it, the name of the Lord is not revealed unto me.

Vers. 3. hath met] See Exod. 3. 18. The Greek translath, hath called us. journey] or way: see Exod. 3. 18. fall upon] or meet us, as verse 20. and Gen. 32. 1. but when there is added the sword, or the like, it signifieth falling upon, as Judge. 8. 20. 21. pestilence] or mortality. The Greek and Chaldee translate it here and oftentimes, death. So the Holy Ghost putteth death, for the pestilence, in Rev. 6. 8. from Ezek. 14. 21. The Hebrews (who had orders for fasting and prayer in time of pestilence) seem also not to restrain it to that contagious sickness, which we commonly call the pest or plague; but count all extraordinary and continued mortality, the pestilence; if it be among five hundred strong men, that three die in three days one after another; and so in all number above that. Their words are; What is the Pestilence (Deber?) A city wherein are five hundred footmen, (that is, strong and lusty men, as Exod. 12. 37.) if there go out of it (that is, be buried) three dead men in three days one after another; •oe, this is Deber (the pestilence.) If they go out in one day, or in four days, it is not the pestilence. If there be in it a thousand, and there go out of it six dead men in three days one after another, this is the pestilence: if they go out in one day, or in four, it is not the pestilence. And so (in others) according to this computation. But no women, or children, or old men that have left off working, are at all reckoned for men in this case. Maimonides in Mis•eh in Tagnanioth (or treat of fasting) chapter 2. S. 5. sword] this signifieth wars, Mich. 4. 3. and as the Greek and Chaldee translate it, slaughter: the Apostle joineth both in one, mentioning the slaughter of the sword, Hebrews 11. 37. it was one of God's four sore judgments, wherewith he used to chastise his people for their sins, Ezek. 14. 17. 21. And not the Egyptians only, but Israel might also fear these plagues, for their Idolatry in Egypt, Ezek. 20. 7. 8. Which therefore they sought to turn away, by humiliation and sacrifice to GOD in the wilderness. And it is a rule among the Jews, to fast and pray in the time of war; yea though it be (as they say) the sword of peace: as when heathens make war with heathens, and they pass by the place of Israel; although there be no war betwixt them and Israel, yet this is a distress, and they humble themselves for it: for it is said, and the sword shall not pass through your land, (Leviticus 26. 6.) It is a general rule, that the sight of war is a distress. Maimonides in Tagnanioth, chap. 2. S. 4.

Vers. 4. cease,] as free, and at liberty: the Greek translateth, do ye turn away the people. The Ministers of God are charged by Pharaoh, as authors of sedition among his subjects. So were Christ and his Apostles, Luke 23. 2. 5. Acts 24. 5. your burdens] The Chaldee saith, your service; the Greek, everyone of you to his works.

Vers. 5. of the land] meaning the Israelites in the land: therefore the Greek explaineth it thus, behold now this people is multiplied on the land.

Verse 6 taskmasters of the people] or, exactors among the people; but both Greek and Chaldee translate it of: and so Moses speaketh in verse 10. officers] the Greek translateth them Scribes: so in verse. 10. 14. and usually.

Verse 7 anymore give] Hebrew, add to give. Here the word of GOD caused afflictions to increase. And in Israel we may see a figure of our calling, (for all these things happened unto them for types, 1 Corinth. 10. 11.) they first had the word or promise, which caused them to believe, Exodus 4. 30. 31.) then followeth affliction, greater then ever before; which almost discourageth them, Exodus 5. 21.—23. after that came their deliverance with great glory, for which they sang the praises of GOD Exodus 13. and 14. and 15. So by the word preached, the Church of Christ was gathered, Acts 2. 41. &c. Then followed great persecution, Acts 8. 1. and 9. <math>\diamond</math> . and 12. 1. &c. Against which they were confirmed in grace, by expectation of glory in the Kingdom of God, Acts 14. 2*. And this is the continual course of the Gospel; 1 Thes. 1. 6. 10. and 2. 14. and 3. 2. 3. 4. 2 Thessal. 1. 4. 5. 6. 7. 1 Peter 1. 3.—9. and 4. 12. 13. &c. heretofore] Hebr. yesterday, and the third day before: see Gen. 31. 2. so after, verse. 8. 14. &c.

Vers. 8. idle] or, lazy: slicke: so verse. 17. and sacrifice] or, let us sacrifice: which manner of speech noteth their importunity: but the Greek supplieth the word and. So after, verse. 17.

Vers. 9. labor] or, do; that is, be doing, or busy themselves; and so the Chaldee saith, let them busy themselves therein, and not busy themselves in idle words: So in Matthew 20. 12. these last have done, (that is, have labored) but one hour. Likewise in Exod. 31. 4. 5. where doing, is used for working. The Greek here translateth it care. vain lying words] Hebr. words of lying: which the Greek translateth vain words. Vanity and falsehood, are used one for another, as is noted on Exod. 20. 7.

Vers. 13. task] Hebr. word, or thing: which in this case, was their appointed task. So verse 19.

Vers. 14. of the sons of Israel] that is, which were Israelites; and the Greek explaineth it thus, the scribes of the lineage of the sons of Israel. The taskmasters therefore, were Egyptians; the officers were Israelites, appointed to oversee and hold the people to work; as the 15. and 16. verses also manifest: these were oppressed and beaten; so the bondage was great, and universal. saying] that is, and said unto, by Pharaohs task masters. An Hebrew phrase, whereof see the annotations on Gen. 2. 3. and 6. 20.

Verse 16. it is the sin, &c.] or, sin is laid upon thy people: It may be understood of the Egyptians, as if the sin or fault were theirs; and so the Chaldee explaineth it, Thy people sinneth against them; that is, against thy servants the Israelites, Or, sin (and so, punishment) is laid upon thy people, us the Israelites, without cause: and so the Greek translateth, wilt thou therefore wrong thy people? Sin, is often used for punishment. See Gen. 4. 7.

Vers. 19. them in evil] that is, both themselves, (as the Greek translateth it) and the people over whom they were, to be in an evil case. saying] understand from verse 13. and 18. the taskmasters, and the king also saying: or, after it was said: see verse 14.

Vers. 20. lighted upon] that is, met with as unlooked for; or fell upon them, with hard words: as verse 21. It is the word used before, in verse 3. and Gen. 28. 11.

Vers. 21. judge] the Chaldee saith, be avenged. An intemperate speech, and an example of great infirmity; imputing the cause of their troubles, to God's ministers; forgetting their former faith and thankfulness, Exod. 4. 31. to stink] that is, as the Greek explaineth it, to be abhorred: see Gen. 34. 30. to give] or, and hath given: as, to hold the ark, 1 Chro. 13. 9. is expounded, and held it, 2 Sam. 6. 6.

Vers. 23. delivering thou, &c.] that is, thou hast not at all delivered, nor shown any likelihood as yet thereof. And here Moses himself bewrayeth the remnants of his former infirmity, Exod. 4. 10. 13.

CHAP. VI.

1, God comforteth Moses, renewing his promise by his name Jehovah; 5, and remembrance of his covenant. 6, He sendeth him with these comforts unto Israel: 9, but they hearken not unto him. 11, He sendeth him again to Pharaoh, though Moses is loath to go. 14. The genealogy of Reuben, 15, of Simeon, 18, of Levi, of whom came Moses and Aaron. 28, A repeating of Moses mission to Pharaoh, and his exception against it.

AND Jehovah said unto Moses; Now [unspec] shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh; for by a strong hand shall he send them away, and by a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

AND God spake unto Moses, and said unto [unspec] him, I am Jehovah. And I appeared [unspec] unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by (the name of) God Almighty: but by my name Jehovah was I not known to them. And also, I established my covenant with [unspec] them, to give unto them the land of Canaan, the land of their sojournings, in the which they sojourned. And also, I have heard the groaning of the sons of Israel, whom the Egyptians keep in servitude; and I have remembered my covenant. Therefore say thou unto the sons of Israel; I am Jehovah, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their servitude, and I will redeem you with a stretched out arm, and with great judgments. And I will take you to me for a people, and I will be to you a God, and ye shall know that I am Jehovah your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians. And I will bring you in unto the land, which I did lift up my hand to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob: and I will give it to you for an heritage, I am Jehovah. And Moses spake so unto the sons [unspec] of Israel: but they hearkened not unto Moses, for anguish of spirit, and for hard servitude. And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying; Go in, speak unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, that he send away the sons of Israel, out of his land. And Moses spake before Jehovah, saying, Behold, the sons of Israel have not hearkened unto me; and how shall Pharaoh hear me, and I am of uncircumcised lips? And Jehovah spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the sons of Israel, and unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, to bring forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt. These be the heads of their fathers houses: the sons of Reuben the first-borne of Israel; Enoch and Phallu, Hezron and Carmi; these be the families of Reuben. And the sons of Simeon; Iemuel, and Iamin, and Ohad, & Iachin, & Zohar, & Saul, the son of a Canaanitess; these are the families of Simeon. And these are the names of the sons of Levi, according to their generations; Gershon, and Kohath, and Merari; and the years of the life of Levi were an hundred seven and thirty years. The sons of Gershon, Libni & Shimei, according to their families. And the sons of Kohath, Amram, and Ishar, and Hebron, and Vzziel: and the years of the life of Kohath were an hundred three and thirty years. And the sons of Merari, Mahali & Mushi: these are the families of Levi, according to their generations. And Amram took Iochebed his aunt unto him to wife, and she bare to him Aaron and Moses: and the years of the life of Amram were an hundred seven and thirty years. And the sons of Ishar; Korah and Nepheg and Zichri. And the sons of Vzziel; Misael and Elshaphan, and Sithri. And Aaron took Elisabet, daughter of Amminadab, sister of Naasson, unto him to wife, and she and she bare unto him Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. And the sons of Korah; Assir and Elkanah, and Abiasaph: these are the families of the Korhite. And Eleazar son of Aaron, took unto him one of the daughters of Putiel, unto him to wife, and she bare unto him Phinehas: these are the heads of the fathers of the Levites, according to their families. This is that Aaron and Moses; unto whom Jehovah said, Bring out the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt, according to their armies. These are they which spake to Pharaoh King of Egypt, to bring out the sons of Israel from Egypt; this Moses, and Aaron. And it was, in the day when Jehovah spake unto Moses, in the land of Egypt: That Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying, I am Jehovah: speak thou unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, all that I speak unto thee. And Moses said before Jehovah; Behold, I am of uncircumcised lips; and how shall Pharaoh hearken unto me?

Annotations.

BY a strong hand] that is, by force and constraint, [unspec] God even compelling him thereto by his judgments: •s verse 6. and Exod. 3. 20. This was fulfilled, Exod. 12. 31. 33. and 13. 3. 9. celebrated always after, Deut. 6. 21. 22. and 26. 7. 8. Psal. 136. 10. 11. 12. Ier. 32. 20. 21. Dan. 9. 15.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 ] Here beginneth the fourteenth Section or Lecture of the Law: called of the beginning of the third verse, And I appeared. See Gen. 6. 9. and 28. 10.

Vers. 3. Almighty] or All-sufficient: see Gen. 17. 1. The Greek translath, being theit God. The two titles here expressed, Ael, God; and Shaddai, Almighty; are not used in Scripture till Abraham's time, and in speech to him, Gen. 14. 18. and 17. 1. name Jehovah:] which name denoteth both God's being in himself, and his giving of being unto (that is, the performance of) his word and promises; as is observed on Gen. 2. 4. in which latter respect he here saith, he was not known to their fathers by this name; (or as the Greek and Chaldee translate, he manifested not, nor make known this name.) They being sustained by faith in God's almighty power, without receiving the thing promised, Act. 7. 5. Heb. 11. 9. 10. But now their children should receive the promise, and so have full knowledge and experience of God's power and goodness, and of the efficacy of that his name Jehovah; which therefore they sung to his praise, upon their full deliverance from the Egyptians, Exod. 15. 3. So upon performance of further promises or judgments, he saith, they shall know him to be Jehovah, Isaiah 49. 23. and 52. 6. and 60. 16. Ezek. 28. 22. 23. 24. 26. and 30. 19. 25. 26. And Christ in whom all God's promises are yea and Amen, 2 Cor. 1. 20. having fulfilled all things for our redemption, manifesteth himself by this name in the interpretation thereof, as that he is Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, the Lord who Is, and who was, and who Is to come, even the Almighty: Revel. 1. 8. 17. 18. Otherwise neither Abraham, nor Isaac, nor Jacob was without the knowledge of this name Jehovah altogether; for by it also in part, God revealed himself to them; as Gen. 15. 7. 8. and 26. 24. 25. and 28. 13. But as the glorious ministration of the Law, is said to have no glory, in respect of the excellent glory of the Gospel, 2 Cor. 3. 10. so this is spoken by comparison here. The Jews of a long time have not used this name, but for it they read Adonai, that is, Lord. One of themselves hath written thus; Why do the Israelites pray in this world, and are not heard? Because they know not the plain name [of God, which is Jehovah] in the world to come, [the world] of the Messias, God will make it known unto them, and then they shall be heard. Ialkut, in Psal. 91. This restimony is true upon them, not for the sound of the letters, but for the want of faith in Christ, who is called Jehovah our Justice: Ierem. 23. 6. when they shall be converted unto him, God will hear them, John. 16. 23.

Vers. 4. established] or, erected frame and sure: see Gen. 6. 18. this was done to Abraham, with express limitation of the time of Israel's release out of Egypt, Gen. 15. 13. 18. sojournings] or, peregrinations, pilgrimage: see Gen. 17. 8. and 26. 3. and 35. 27.

Vers. 6. the burdens:] the Greek saith, from the power: the Chaldee, from amidst the tribulation of the servitude of the Egyptians: so in verse 7. This mercy is remembered in Psal. 81. 7. firetched our] that is, lifted up on high, as both the Gr. and Chaldee do explain it: and it signifieth God's might, and open manifestation, with continuancie of the same against Egypt, till the redemption of Israel were fully performed, Deut. 4. 34 2 King. 17. 36. Isaiah 9. 12. 17. 11.

Vers. 7. a God] or, for a God: this was the covenant with Abraham: see Gen. 17. 7.

Vers. 8. life up my hand] that is, swear: as the Chaldee explaineth it, I swear by my word to give it. Of this sign see Gen. 14. 22. Hereof is that speech, Jehovah hath sworn with his right hand, &c. Isaiah 62. 8. will give it] under which figure, eternal life in heaven was implied also to the faithful; as is noted on Gen. 12. 5. which Paul confirmeth in Heb. 11. 10. 16. and the Hebrew Doctors say of this, that it signified the Jerusalem that is above. R. Menachem on Exod. 6.

Vers. 9. anguish] Hebrew, shortness, that is, anger, grief and discouragement of spirit; that they could not patiently endure their troubles: the Greek translateth it, pusill•imity, or feebleness of mind. So the short of spirit, is opposed to the man slow to wrath, Prov. 14. 29. and shortness of spirit in Job, was trouble and discouragement, Job 21. 4. A like phrase is, of shortness of soul, whereof see Numb. 21. 4. And this grief and discouragement of Israel was so great, that they wished rather to be let alone that they might serve the Egyptians, than to have any further proceeding in this business, Exod. 14. 12. servitude] or bondage, which was upon them, as the Chaldee addeth: the Greek translateth for hard works. And this was the outward cause, added to their inward discouragement and little faith.

Vers. 12. of uncircumcised lips] Hebrew, superfluous, (or uncircumcised) of lips: that is, as the Gr. translateth, not eloquent; as the Chaldee saith, of an heavy speech; the same which Moses complained before, in Exod. 4. 10. but figuratively spoken: as having uncircumcised lips, that is, many superfluous words, or unsanctified: and so unfit to speak to the King. So Isaiah complained of polluted lips, Isaiah 6. 5. Of this word superfluous, See Gen. 17. 11.

Vers. 13. unto] that is, as the Greek addeth, to go unto. to bring forth] that is, that they might bring forth; so ver. 27. see the notes on Gen. 6. 19. Thus God's work and faithfulness was not hindered by men's unfaithfulness: neither was Israel saved for their own righteousness; who from the first to the last, shown themselves rebellious, as Moses after telleth them, Deut. 9. 4. 5. 6. 7. 24.

Ver. 14. heads] that is, as the Greek translateth, chief governors, or captains. This genealogy following; is to show the natural stock of Moses and Aaron Levites, verse 26. 27. and the time of Israel's deliverance, according to God's promise, verse 16. 18. 20. Enoch] Hebrew Chanoch: in Greek Enoch: see Gen. 46 9. &c.

Ver. 16. 137. years] This man's age with his sons, ver. 18. and Nephews, verse 20. serve for the opening of that speech concerning Israel's peregrination, Ex. 12. 40. see the notes there.

Vers. 20. his aunt] that is, his fathers sister; as saith the Chaldee paraphrase in the Masorites Bible: but the Chaldee set out by Arias Mont. hath, the daughter of his fathers sister; and the Greek saith, the daughter of his fathers brother: neither of them well; for she was the daughter of Levi, Exod. 2. 1. and so sister to Amrams father.

Vers. 21. Korah] he proved a rebel against Moses, Numb. 16. 1. &c. [unspec 21]

Vers. 22. Vzziel] of him and his two sons mention is made in Levite. 10. 4. where he is called Aaron's uncle.

Vers. 23. Elisabet] so the Greek writeth this name, and the New Testament, Luk. 1. 5. and so we in English: the Hebrew soundeth it Elishebangh. She was of the tribe of Judah, being the Prince Naassons sister; Numb. 2. 3. 1 Chron. 2. 3. 10. Nadab and Abihu] these died before the Lord by a fire, Levite. 10. 1. 2. Eleazar] he succeeded his father Aaron in the high priesthood: Numb. 20. 25. 26. &c. Of the priests that were of him and his brother Ithamar, see 1 Chron. 24.

Vers. 25. Phinehas] of him, see Numb. 25. 7. &c. [unspec 25]

Ver. 26. their armies] or, their hosts: that is, not confusedly, but their ordered troupes, being increased to many thousands, and called the hosts of the Lord, Exod. 12. 37. 41. and 7 4. These were after ordered according to their tribes, Numb. 10. 14. 15. &c. Of the word host, or army, see Gen. 2. 1.

Vers. 27. to bring] that is, that they might bring, as verse 13.

Vers. 30. of uncircumcised] Greek of a small voice Chaldee of an heavy speech; see before verse 12. and Exod. 4. 10.

CHAP. VII.

1, Moses is made Pharaoh's God, and Aaron his Prophet. 3. Pharaoh's heart should be hardened against their words and signs. 6, Moses and Aaron do as they are bidden. 7, Their age. 10. Aaron's rod is turned to a Serpent. 11, The Sorcerers do the like. 13, Pharaoh's heart is hardened. 14, Moses is sent again unto him with word and sign. 19, The waters of Egypt are turned into blood. 21, The fishes die. 22, The Magicians do the like miracle, whereupon Pharaoh is hardened still.

AND Jehovah said unto Moses; See, I have made thee a God to Pharaoh; and Aaron thy brother shall be thy Prophet. Thou shalt speak all that I command thee; and Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, that he send the sons of Israel out of his land. And I will harden Pharaoh's heart; and will multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you; and I will lay my hand upon Egypt, and will bring forth mine armies, my people the sons of Israel, out of the land of Egypt, by great judgments. And the Egyptians shall know that I am Jehovah, when I stretch forth my hand upon Egypt: and I will bring out the sons of Israel from among them. And Moses and Aaron did as Jehovah commanded them, so did they. And Moses was fourscore years old, and Aaron fourscore and three years old, when they spake unto Pharaoh. And Jehovah said unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying; When Pharaoh shall speak unto you saying, Give a wonder for you, then thou shalt say unto Aaron, take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh, it shall be (turned) to a dragon. And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did so as Jehovah had commanded: and Aaron cast his rod before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it was (turned) to a dragon. And Pharaoh also called the wise men, and the sorcerers; and they also, the magicians of Egypt, did with their enchantments so. And they cast down every man his rod, and they were turned to dragons: and Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods. And Pharaoh's heart waxed strong, and he hearkened not unto them, as Jehovah had spoken. And Jehovah said unto Moses; Pharaoh's heart is heavy; he refuseth to send away the people. Go unto Pharaoh in the morning; loe, he goeth out unto the waters, and thou shalt stand to meet him by the rivers brink: and the rod which was turned to a serpent shalt thou take in thy hand. And thou shalt say unto him; Jehovah the God of the Hebrews hath sent me unto thee, saying, Send away my people, that they may serve me in the wilderness: and behold thou hast not heard hitherto. Thus saith Jehovah; in this thou shalt know that I am Jehovah: behold, I smite with the rod which is in my hand upon the waters which are in the river, & they shall be turned into blood. And the fish which is in the river, shall die, and the river shall stink, and the Egyptians shall be wearied to drink the waters of the river. And Jehovah said unto Moses; Say unto Aaron, take thy rod, and stretch out thy hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers and upon their ponds, and upon every gathering together of their waters, and they shall be blood; and there shall be blood in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone. And Moses and Aaron did as Jehovah commanded; and he lift up the rod, and smote the waters which were in the river, in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, and all the waters which were in the river were turned to blood. And the fish which was in the river died, and the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink the waters of the river, and there was blood in all the land of Egypt. And the magicians of Egypt did so by their enchantments: and the heart of Pharaoh waxed strong, and he hearkened not unto them, as Jehovah had said. And Pharaoh turned, and went into his house; and he set not his heart to this neither. And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for waters to drink, for they could not drink of the waters of the river. And seven days were fulfilled, after that Jehovah had smitten the river.

Annotations.

MAde] or, given thee for a God: that is, one to whom the word of God shall come, and by whom it shall be made known unto Aaron, and so to Pharaoh. This reason Christ rendereth of the like speech, John. 10. 35. The Chaldee, for God, translateth a master: see Exod. 4. 16. Prophet] to speak for thee, (as the next verse manifesteth) the Chaldee saith, thy interpreter: before, God called him his mouth, Exod. 4. 16. A Prophet hath the name of speaking or interpreting God's word: see the notes on Gen. 20. 7. Thus God confirms Moses, against his fears, Exod 6. 12. 30.

Ver. 2. speake] the Greek addeth, to him, meaning Aaron, as Exod. 4. 15.

Vers. 3. harden] as before he said, he would make strong: Exod. 4. 21. wonders] or, perswading miracles, for to draw men to believe and obey, as Deut. 13. 1. 2. John. 4. 48. Rom. 15. 18. 19. By such God beareth witness to his word preached, Heb 2. 4. and they portend, either good, 2 Chron. 32. 24. or evil, Deut. 6. 22. and 28. 46. yet can they not persuade any without the special grace of God, Deut. 29. 2. 3. 4.

Vers. 4. lay] Hebrew, give my hand; which the Chaldee expoundeth, lay my powerful plague: so verse 5. armies] or hosts: see Exod. 6. 26. The Greek translateth, with my power.

Ver. 7. old] Hebrew some of 80 year: of which phrase see Gen. 5. 32. By this it appeareth Moses had been 40. years in the land of Madian: as Stephen avoucheth, Act 7. 30. See Exod. 2. 23.

Ver. 9. a wonder] or, persuading miracle, that I may know ye are sent of God: see verse 3. The Greek addeth, a sign or a wonder. thy rod] because Aaron now used it: before it was Moses rod and God's: Exod. 4. 2. 20. a dragon] that is a great serpent: and therefore in ver. 15. it is called a serpent; as also before in Exod. 4. 3. So the Devil is called the dragon the old serpent. Rev. 20. 2. And Pharaoh himself, with his Egyptians, are called dragons, Ezek. 29. 3. Psal. 74. 13. But this wonder was a sign of their destruction, if they obeyed not: for the desolation of a Country is signified, by the dwelling of dragons there, Mal. 1. 3. Isaiah 13. 0. 22. Psal. 44. 20. See also the notes on Exodus 4. 3.

Vers. 11. wise men] Philosophers: of these see Genesis 41. 8. sorcerers,] or; witches: such as do bewitch the senses and minds of men, by changing the forms of things to another hue. And from the Hebrew Cashaph, (which hath the signification of changing or turning) the Greeks have formed their word Bascaino, and the Latins Fascino, which is to bewitch: & it is used for unlawful devilish Arts and Artizens, such as God's Law condemneth, and punisheth with death, Deut. 18. 10. Exod. 22. 18. and applied to false teachers, and their crafts, Gal. 3. 1. Rev. 18. 23. & these Egyptian sorcerers, were types of seducers, who resist the truth, as Iannes and Jambres withstood Moses, here 2 Tim. 3. 8. where Paul setteth down the names of the chief of these sorcerers, as they were kept in the Jews private records. For so to this day, in their Babylonian Talmud, tract. Menachoth, chap. 9. they show how Iohanne and Mamre, chief of the sorcerers of Egypt, withstood and mocked Moses, saying, thou bringest straw into Aphraim, (as water into the sea;) for they thought, he did his miracles by sorcery, whereas the land of Egypt was full of sorcerers. This Mamre, was also an Amoritish name, Gen. 13. 18. called in Greek Mambree; and by Paul Jambres, in 2 Tim. 3. 8. where the Syriac writeth Ianbres: for letters are often changed even in the same tongue, as Merodach, Isaiah 39. 1. or Barodach, 2 King. 20. 12. Nemuel, 1 Chro. 4. 24. or, Iemuel, Exod. 6. 15. and many the like. And that not Paul only, but the Jews commonly so named them, appeareth also by a Chaldee paraphrase of the law that goeth under the name of Jonathan; there upon this place of Exodus, their names are written Ianis and Jambres: and in another Hebrew commentary on the Law, called Thanchuma, in fol. 40. they are named Ionos and Iombros. Among the heathens also, their memory continued, though corrupted; for Pliny in nat. hist. lib. 30. cap. 1. speaketh of Moses and Iannes, and Cabala (or as some read it Iotape,) whom he calleth Jews, by whom Magicke was used. And Origen against Celsus, lib. 4. showeth how Numenius a Pythagorean Philosopher speaketh of Moses miracles in Egypt, and his resistance by Iannes and Mambres magicians: Apuleius also a Latin Philosopher (in his second Apology) mentioneth one Johannes, among the chief Magicians: that their names as it seemeth were renowned over all. magicians see the notes on Gen. 41. 8. enchantments] or, secret sleights, jugglings. A word not used in this sense, save here, and in verse 22. and it hath the signification; of secret and close conveyance or, of glistening like the flame of a fire or sword, as Gen. 3. 24. where with men's eyes are dazzled. And by this word, God putteth difference between Moses miracles which were done in truth; and theirs done by flieght or sorcery: which were also figures of the signs and lying wonders, that Antichrist worketh, 2 Thessal. 2. 9. whose Church is called Egypt, Revel. 11. 8. their rods] that is, their dragons made of rods: or, if they were all turned to rods again, it was the greater miracle. But by comparison with Exod. 4. 4. it is most likely it was a serpent till Aaron took it into his hand again. And here Moses and Aaron do overcome Iannos and Jambres at the first, in that wherein they most excelled: so they that are of God, overcome Antichrist; for greater is he that is in them, than he that is in the world, 1 John. 4, 3. 4.

Vers. 13. waxed strong] or hard; both by his own impenitency, Rom. 2. 5. and God's just work in him, Exod. 4. 21.

Vers. 14. heavy] by reason of the hardness of it: and so unfit to be lifted up unto the obedience of my word. This heaviness when it is spoken of eyes, ears, hands, heart, or the like; signifieth the dullness and unfitness to do that which men ought: Gen 48. 10. Zach. 7. 11. Exod. 17. 12. Luk. 21. 34. And this in Pharaoh is after said, both to be done of himself, Exod. 8. 32. and of God, Exod. 10. 1.

Vers. 17. I smite:] Aaron it was that smote, verse. 19. but God by Moses commanded it: therefore he principally smote, and the rod is said to be in his hand. The Scripture sometime explaineth this; as, he called, Matt. 20. 32. that is, he commanded to be called, Mar. 10. 49. and he gave, Mar. 15. 45. that is, he commanded to be given, Matt. 27. 58. See also the notes on Gen. 39. 22. and 48. 22. And God fore-telleth the plague before he brings it, to wame him in mercy: but useth the time present, I smite, (or, am smiting:) to signify judgment to be at hand. So Exod. 8. 2.

Ver. 18. be wearied:] both by digging round about the river for waters, as verse. 24. and being grieved and loathing the waters turned to blood, which they shall not be able to drink; as in verse. 21. and so the Greek here translateth, they shall not be able to drink. And this plague being threatened to the Egyptians only: it is to be thought, the Israelites in Gosen were free frō this, as from other plagues following, Exod. 8. 22. and 9. 26. and 10. 23. And so the Hebrew Doctors say, the plague of blood, was blood to the Egyptians, and water to the Israelites: R. Elias in Sepher reshith chocmah, treat. of Love, ch. 7. Here God proceedeth in his work, from signs and wonders, to plagues and punishments: ten whereof he bringeth upon Egypt before the Israelites were let go out of their bondage, (as there are seven plagues, wherewith the spiritual Egypt of Antichrists church is smitten, in Revelat. 16.) These ten plagues, the Hebrew Doctors sum up in ten letters, the first of all their names, 〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 whereby they mean,

Blood: Frogs: and Lice: a Mixed swarm:

Murraine that beasts annoyd:

Boils: Hail: and Locusts: Darkness thick:

and First-borne all destroyed.

Vers. 19. gathering together] that is, place of gathering, as the Chaldee expounds it: the word which is used in Gen. 1. 10. and implieth lakes, people's, pits, ditches, and vessels: as after is explained in the end of this verse. See also Levite. 11. 36. vessels] this word is expressed in the Chaldee, and is necessarily implied in the Hebr. as a thousand, 2 Sam. 8. 4. for a thousand chariots, 1 Chron. 18. 4. the first, Mat. 26. 17. for, the first day, Mar. 14. 12. and many the like.

Vers. 20. he lift up] the Greek explaineth it, Aaron lift up his rod. to blood:] as the Egyptians had shed the blood of the children of Israel, drowning them in the river, Exod. 1. 22. so in this first plague, God rewardeth that, by turning their waters into blood, which R. Menachem, (on this place) saith, signified mercy turned unto them to judgment. So upon the spiritually Egyptians, (by whose sin, the third part of the sea became blood, and of other waters, became wormwood: Revel. 8. 8. 11.) there be the like plagues, from the phials (or cups) of God's Angels, as are here by the rod of God's messengers: their sea, rivers, and fountains becoming blood: they having shed the blood of Saints and Prophets, and God giving them blood to drink, for they are worthy: Revel. 16. 3. 6. Of this plague the Psalmist also speaketh, Psal. 78. 44. and 105. 29. Contrariwise, God blesseth his people, by turning for them, the rocks to rivers and fountains of waters, Psal. 78. 15. 16. and 114. 8. and giving them the water of life to drink, John. 4. 10. 14. Rev. 22. 1. 17.

Vers. 21. died:] so in Antichrists sea, every living soul dieth, Revel. 16. 3. as by their impiety, they had caused the third part of such to die before, Revel. 8. 9. Contrariwise, in the holy land, corrupt waters are healed, the creatures in them live, and fish are multiplied, Ezek. 47. 8. 9. stunke] whereas the waters of Egypt served them for drink, Ierm. 2. 18. (there being no rain in the Country, Deut. 11. 10. 11.) God turning them to stinking blood, and killing the fish: the plague was the more grievous. For fishes were their common food, Numb. 11. 5. the flesh of many beasts, they through superstition would not eat of, Exodus 8. 26. so that which the Prophet after threateneth, was now upon them; The fishers mourned, and all they that cast angle into the brooks lamented: and they that spread nets upon waters languished, Isaiah 19. 8.

Vers. 22. did so] as before in verse 11. They could by enchantments increase their own plagues; but not ease themselves: see Exodus 8. 7. 8. But where had they water to turn into blood? either they found some by digging about the river, verse 24. or they had some fetched from another place, as Gosen; see the notes on v. 18. wexed strongs] the Greek saith, was hardened: see verse 13.

Vers. 23. set not] that is, regarded not, nor cared for this wondrous plague: so the setting of the heart signifieth careful regard, Exod. 9. 21. Prov. 22. 17. 2 Sam. 18. 3.

CHAP. VIII.

1, God threateneth Pharaoh, if he send not Israel away to plague his Realm with frogs. 5, Aaron stretcheth out his hand, and (the second plague) frogs come out of the waters, over all the land. 7, The Magicians do the like. 8, Pharaoh sueth to Moses. 12, And Moses by prayer removeth the frogs away. 15, Pharaohs heart is hardened. 16, The third plague: dust is turned into lice, on man and beast. 18, The magicians could not do so; yet Pharaoh is hardened. 20, God threateneth the fourth plague; swarms of flies upon the Egyptians. 22, exempting Israel in Goshen. 24, The land is corrupted with the swarms. 25, Pharaoh inclineth to let the people go. 30, Moses by prayer removeth the swarms away. 32, Pharaoh is bardned again.

AND Jehovah said unto Moses; Go in unto Pharaoh, and say unto him, thus saith Jehovah, send away my people, that they may serve me. And if thou refuse to send them away, behold, I smite all thy border with frogs. And the river shall abundantly bring forth frogs, and they shall come up, and enter into thy house, and into thy bedchamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thy ovens, and into thy troughs of dough. And the frogs shall come up upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants. And Jehovah said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, stretch forth thine hand with thy rod, over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, & cause frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt. And Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. And the Magicians did so with their enchantments, and caused frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh called for Moses and for Aaron, and said, Intreat ye Jehovah that he may take the frogs from me, and from my people, and I will send away the people, that they may sacrifice unto Jehovah. And Moses said unto Pharaoh, Glory over me, when I shall entreat for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, to cut off the frogs from thee and from thy houses: only in the river they shall remain. And he said, tomorrow: and he said (be it) according to thy word, that thou mayest know that there is none like Jehovah our God. And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people: only in the river they shall remain. And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, and Moses cried unto Jehovah, because of the frogs which he had put upon Pharaoh. And Jehovah did according to the word of Moses, and the frogs died out of the houses, out of the villages, and out of the fields. And they gathered them together upon heaps, and the land stanke. And Pharaoh saw that there was a breathing; and he made his heart heavy, and hearkened not unto them, even as Jehovah had spoken. And Jehovah said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, stretch out thy rod, and smite the dust of the land, and it shall be (turned) to lice in all the land of Egypt. And they did so, and Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the land, and there were lice on man and on beast; all the dust of the land was lice, in all the land of Egypt. And the Magicians did so with their enchantments, to bring forth lice, but they could not; and there were lice on man and on beast. And the Magicians said unto Pharaoh, This is the finger of God: and Pharaohs heart waxed strong, and he hearkened not unto them, even as Jehovah had spoken. And Jehovah said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, & stand before Pharaoh; lo,  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  cometh forth to the waters; and say  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  him, thus saith Jehovah, Send away my people, that they may serve me. Else, if thou wilt not send away my people, behold, I will send a mixed swarm upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thy houses; and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of the mixed swarm, and also the ground where on they art. And I will marvelously sever in that day the land of Go  $\langle \dots \rangle$  upon which my people standethy that there shall  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  mixed  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  there, to th $\bullet$   $\langle \diamond \rangle$  mayest  $\langle \dots \rangle$  that I am Jehovah, in the  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  of the  $\langle \diamond \rangle$ . And I will put a  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  de  $\langle \dots \rangle$  people and  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  by people  $\langle \dots \rangle$  all  $\langle \dots \rangle$  be. And Jehovah $\bullet$  did  $\langle \dots \rangle$  there came a heavy  $\langle \dots \rangle$  I the house of Pharaoh, and the house of  $\langle \dots \rangle$  into all the land of Egypt  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  land was corrupted by reason  $\langle \dots \rangle$  Pharaoh  $\langle \dots \rangle$  and said,  $\langle \dots \rangle$  the land $\bullet$  And Moses said  $\langle \dots \rangle$  to do $\bullet$   $\langle \dots \rangle$  shall  $\langle \dots \rangle$  shall  $\langle \dots \rangle$  of the Egypt  $\langle \dots \rangle$   $\langle \dots \rangle$  not  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  us? We will go three days journey into [unspec] the wilderness, and sacrifice to Jehovah our God, as he shall say unto us. And Pharaoh [unspec] said, I will send you away, that ye may sacrifice to Jehovah your God in the wilderdersse; only in going you shall not remove very far away: entreat ye for me. And Moses said; Behold, I go out from [unspec] thee, and will entreat Jehovah that the mixed swarm may depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, tomorrow: only let not Pharaoh anymore deceive in not sending away the people, to sacrifice unto Jehovah. And Moses went out [unspec] from Pharaoh, and entreated Jehovah. And Jehovah did according to the word of Moses; and he removed the mixed swarm from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people; there remained not one. And [unspec] Pharaoh made his heart heavy at this time also, and sent not away the people.

Annotations.

ABundantly bring] This word is used in the [unspec] creation, Gen. 1. 20. that which then was a blessing, is here turned to a curse. And this second plague, even as the former, God raiseth from the waters: the next is from the earth, verse 16. this is threatened before it was inflicted; the next is not so. house] The Greek Interpreters understood one for many, translating houses, chambers &c. which the Hebrew also may imply: see Gen. 3. 2. and upon] or, and into (the houses of) thy people: in this sense the Greek translatheth it. roughes of dough] or (as the Greek expounds it) lumps of dough: which the word seemeth properly to mean, in Exodus 12. 34. This was one of the particulars in which God threateneth the transgressors of his law, to curse them, Deut. 28. 17.

Vers. 4. upon thee] or, against thee: This signifieth [unspec] the greatness of this plague, invading not only their houses, beds, pantries, &c. but the Egyptians themselves: whom neither doors, gates, walls, nor weapons, could defend from those silly creatures. By expressing these persons, the exempting of Israel seemeth to be implied $\bullet$  as after in plain  $\langle \diamond \rangle$   $\rangle$ , verse 22. And in Psal. 78. 12. 43. these wonders are said to be done in Tsoan (or Tnis) a region in Egypt, which was distinct from Goshen, where Israel dwelt.

Vers. 6. the frog] put generally for frogs; with [unspec] multitudes whereof God plagued the Egyptians, and as it is said in Psal, 78. 45. corrupted (or destroyed) them. Frogs are loathsome and troublesome creatures, and by God's law unclean, and abominable, Levite. 11. 12. 23. and by frogs, else-where the Holy Ghost signifieth, the unclean spirits of devils, which coming out of the mouth of the Dragon, Beast, and False Prophet, (as here they came out of streams, rivers, and Ponds;) go to the kings of the earth, (as these did into kings chambers, Psal. 〈◇〉 . 30.) to gather them to the battle of the grean day of God almighty, Rev. 16. 13. 14. Plime (in his •at. History, book. 8. c. 29.) speaking of notable documents of destruction by contemptible creatures, mentioneth a city in France, that was (of old) driven away by frogs.

V. 7. did so] or, did likewise: see Exod. 7 11. 22.

V. 8. that he may take away] or, and let him remove: by this Pharaoh acknowledgeth both the grievousness of this plague, (for he requested not the like for the first of the blood, Exod. 7. 23.) and that his Magicians could add unto his plagues, but were not able to deliver him from any. Wherefore he is now forced to seek help of that God, whom before he would not know, Exod. 5. 2. And when the Philistines land was plagued with mice, (as Egypt was now with frogs) they by counsel of their soothsayers, sent a sin-offering to the God of Israel, that they might be healed: and shunned hardness of heart, taking warning by this Pharaoh and the Egyptians, 1 Sam. 6. 2. 3. 6.

V. 9. Glory over me.] in appointing me the time when I shall entreat for thee: so the Greek translatheth it, Appoint unto me when I shall pray; and the Chaldee paraphraseth, Ask for thee a powerful work, and give thou the time, &c. The Hebr. properly signifieth to glory over, or, to vaunt ones self against another: as Judge. 7. 2. Isaiah 10. 15. In this speech Moses shown both great faith in God, and humility towards the king. cut off] that is, destroy, or kill. verse. 13. only] or, as the Greek translatheth, but in the river. So Moses limiteth the measure of the release, the time he leaveth to Pharaohs choice, who by seeing the remainders of both plagues, (that frogs were in the river where fish had been before, Exod. 7. 21.) might be the more moved to keep his promise, in letting Israel go. Therefore this deliverance is called but a breathing, v. 15.

V. 12. because of] or, concerning the word (or business, as the Chaldee translatheth it) of the frogs: which the Gr. interpreteth, for the limited ending of the frogs, as he had appointed to Pharaoh. he had put] that is, God had laid as a plague: or, w<sup>ch</sup> Moses had put unto Pharaoh, for choice of the time, v. 9. The Gr. favoreth this latter sense; so do the words following.

V. 14. upon heaps] or, many heaps: Hebr. heaps, heaps: of which phrase, see Gen. 14. 10. stanke] with dead frogs, as the river did before with dead fish, Exod. 7. 21. The Chaldee translatheth, they stank upon the land. Hereby God recompensed the Egyptians sin, in whose eyes the savor of Israel did stink before, Exod. 5. 21. and there remained as yet a memorial of their plague, the stink whereof came up into their nostrils: and the ill favor of such unclean spirits as were figured by these frogs, (Rev. 16. 13. 14.) is signified. The like is prophesied concerning the Locusts, in Joel. 2. 20. and the army of Gog, Ezck. 39. 11. and all other enemies of the Church, Isaiah 34. 3.

V. 15. a breathing] or respiration, in Gr. a refreshing: that  $\langle \diamond \rangle$ , some enlargement & respite from the plague, whe  $\langle \dots \rangle$  with he was before so straitly afflicted. The like word is used in Esth. 4. 14. heavy] unfit to understand,  $\bullet\bullet y$   $\langle \diamond \rangle$  to the word of God: see Exodus 7. 14. Thus neither the laying on of the plague, nor taking it off, could work any good in Pharaoh  $\langle \dots \rangle$  let favor be shown to the wicked, yet will he not lea••e righteousness, Isaiah 26. 10.

V. 16. thy rod:] the Gr. addeth, with thy hand, w<sup>ch</sup> the Heb. also expresseth in v. 17. And so in Exod. 10. 21. where Moses is bidden stretch, out his hand, seemeth to be meant his rod withal. Of this third plague, God gave Pharaoh no warning aforehand, as he did of the other two: but hastened his punishment, as his sins increased; & bringeth this plague from the earth, which was nearer unto them than the waters. So of the fourth and fifth plagues, God gave thē warning beforehand; but not of the sixth, Exod. 9. 8. again, of the sevēth & eighth plagues, he warned them, but not of the ninth, Exo. 10. 21. & at the tenth plague, the Israelites are sent away, Exod. 12. Moreover, these three first plagues, w<sup>ch</sup> were from the waters and earth, came by Aaron's hand stretching out the rod, Exod. 7. 19. & 8. 5. 16. three which were from the heavens and air, came by Moses stretching out his hand and rod, as the Hail, Exod. 9. 22. 23. the Locusts, Exod. 10. 12. 13. and the Darkness, Exod. 10. 21. 22. Three came without the hand, either of Moses or Aaron, as the Mixed swarm, Exo. 8. 21. 24. the Murraine, Exod. 9. 3. •and the death of the First borne, Exodus 12. 29. and one was by Moses hand, but not with the rod; as the plague of Boiles, Exodus 9. 8. 10.

V. 17. there were lice] Hebr. there was the lowse; put generally for the multitude of this vermin; which being of the least sort of God's creatures, did greatly plague the proud nation. This David rehearseth, among other God's wonders in Egypt, Psal. 105. 31. Humane writers do record, that the Priests of Egypt did shave their whole bodies, every third day, lest any lowse, or other filth, should breed upon them that served their gods, Herodot in Euterpe. So, with things which they superstitiously loathed, did God plague them. The Greek calleth this plague Sknipes, which are a kind of small stinging gnats: but by the Chaldee and others, they were lice.

V. 18. did so] that is, endeavored to do so, but could not: and when men are said to do things above their ability, it meaneth their labor and endeavor thereto: as Matt. 7. 13. enter in at the strait gate: that is, strive to enter, Luk. 13. 24.

V. 19. the finger:] that is, the work, Spirit and power of God; who is said, after the manner of men, to do things by his hand and finger, Psam. 102. 26. and 8. 4. & 109. 27. 1 Sā 6. 9. To this speech Christ hath reference, when he refuted those that withstood his miracles, as these Magicians did Moses; If I with the finger of God cast out devils, Luk. 11. 20. which another Evangelist explains to be the spirit of God, Matt. 12. 28. Here the confession of Iannes and Jambres (of whom see before in Exodus 7.  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  .) condemned Pharaoh and themselves: that in further resistance, they manifested their folly unto all men; as 2 Tim.  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  .  $\langle \diamond \rangle$  . 9. The Chaldee expoundeth their speech thus; it is a plague from before the Lord.

Vers. 20 stand] or present thysself. [unspec 21]

V. 21 a mixed swarm] of flies, wasps, hornets; or as somethinke, of wild beasts, serpents, mice, and the like. The Hebrew and Chaldee words, signify only a mixed multitude; but show not of what creatures. The Greek now extant, hath Kunomnia, that is, the Dog fly: Jerome saith, of old the Lxxij. Interpreters called it Koinomuia, and Aquila translated it Pammuia; that is, the common, or, all sorts of flies. The Chaldee paraphrase on Psalm 78. 45. expoundeth it a mixed swarm of wild beasts of the field; so the latter Hebrews, as Ibn Ezra, and Sol. Rashi (on Exodus 8.) name them, Lions, Wolves, Bears, Leopards; and all kinds of evil beasts, Serpents, and Scorpions. With whom accordeth Philo, (or the author of the book of Wisdom) who saith, that as the Egyptians worshipped Serpents void of reason, and vile beasts; so God sent a multitude of unreasonable beasts upon them for vengeance, for the Lord wanted not means (as he saith) to send among them a multitude of Bears, or fierce Lions, or unknown wild beasts full of rage, newly created, breathing out either a fiery vapor, or filthy sentes of scattered smoke, &c. Wisd. 11. 15. 17. 18. As in Exodus 12. 38. gnereb is used for a mixed multitude of people of sundry nations: so gnarob here seemeth to intend, not one, but many sorts of creatures, flying, or running: and such they were as did eat (or devour) the Egyptians, Psalm 78. 45. and corrupted (or destroyed) the land, Exodus 8. 24. and because he saith, their houses should be full of them, I think rather they were small creatures, than Lions, Bears, or the like.

Vers. 22. will marvelously sever,] will separate and exempt in a marvelous and glorious manner: wherefore the Greek expoundeth it, paradoxaso, that is, I will marvelously glorify, or miraculously honor. See Exodus 33. 16. Goshen] in Greek Gesem: a province in Egypt, where Israel dwelt: see Gen. 45. 10. standeth] that is, stayeth or tarrieth, from being sent away to serve me: as Exodus 9. 28. or, standeth, that is, dwelleth. in the midst] The Greek translateth, ruling all the earth, (or land.)

Vers. 23. a redemption:] that is, as the Greek translateth, a division (or distinction): whereby it shall appear that I do redeem and save them from this plague. The Chaldee explaineth it thus, I will put a redemption to my people, and upon thy people I will bring a plague. So in Psalm 111. 9. he sent a redemption to his people: and herein God's grace in Christ was figured; for by him, God hath made a redemption for his people, Luk. 1. 68.

Vers. 24. did so,] he said, and there came a mixed swarm, Psal. 105. 31. which here Moses calleth heavy or grievous: both for the multitude of these noisome creatures, (as the Greek interpieth the word;) and for the hurt which they did to the people and) and which was corrupted, or, (as the Greek saith) destroyed by them.

Vers. 26. not meet:] or, not right, as being not so [unspec] appointed of God, who called into the wilderness, Exod. 3. 18. The Greek translateth, it cannot so be done. the abomination:] that is, the beasts which the Egyptians do worship, and do abhor to kill, or to see killed for sacrifice. And the sentence twice repeated, may imply two senses; 1. Shall we sacrifice to our God such things as the Egyptians sacrifice? that would be abomination to the Lord. 2. Or shall we sacrifice such things as God requireth? that would be an abomination to the Egyptians. The Greek translateth plurally, abominations; & the Chaldee explaineth it thus; for the beasts which the Egyptian worshippeth, we shall offer for sacrifice: loe, shall we sacrifice the beasts which the Egyptians worship, &c. The Scripture often calleth the God's, and services of the heathens, abominations; as Deut. 7. 25. and 12. 30. 31. 2 King. 23. 13. Ezra 9. 1. Isaiah 44. 19. Now the principal sacrifices of the Hebrews, were Oxen and Sheep, Gen. 15. 9. and all sheep-keepers were an abomination to the Egyptians, Gen. 46. 34 for (as human writers do record) they that kept in the Temple of Jupiter Thebanus, or dwelt in that province (in the land of Egypt) they all abstained from sheep, and sacrificed goats: and those Thebane Egyptians killed no rams, but counted them holy; and they had an image of Jupiter with a rams face. Likewise the Egyptians might sacrifice no cowes because they were consecrated unto Isis; whose image also they had, like a woman with cowes horns; and all the Egyptians revered cowes above all of other cattle; as witnesseth Herodotus in his history, book 2. and other writers testify the like things of them: as Plutarch in his book of Isis and Osiris. will they not stone us?] meaning, doubtless they will Therefore the Greek translatheth, we shall be stoned and the Scripture it self often resolveth such questions, by affirmations: as is shown on Gen. 4. 7. and 13. 9.

Vers. 27. shall say:] for they knew not how [unspec] they should serve the Lord, till they came thither, Exod. 10. 26. The Greek translatheth, hath said, referring it to that general precept, in Exod. 5. 1. 3.

Verse 28. not remove very far:] or, not in any [unspec] ease remove far: Hebrew, removing far, not remove far: of which phrase, see Gen. 2. 17. entreat ye:] Greek, pray ye therefore for me unto the Lord: meaning that the plague might be taken away, as verse 8. and 29. So Simon Magus requested the prayer of Peter, Act. 8. 24.

Vers. 29. that the mixed swarm may] or as the Greek translatheth, and the mixed swarm shall depart: [unspec] for these two phrases are used indifferently, as one Evangelist writeth, and the inheritance shall be ours, Mark. 12. 7. another saith, that the inheritance may be ours, Luk. 20. 14. See also the notes on Gen. 27. 4. and 12. 12. Herein Moses showeth great faith, that his prayer should be granted. anymore deceive] Heb. add to deceive; or, to mock, as the word signifieth, 1 Kin. 18. 27. this he said, because he had promised the like before, verse 8. but, God will not be mocked, Gal. 6. 7. Job 13. 9.

V. 32. made heavy by hardening his heart against the Lord: see verse 15. and chap. 7. 14. sent not] is the Greek are; he would not send. And often when things are denied to be done, it implieth an unwillingness: which the Holy Ghost sometime explaineth; as David removed not the Ark, 1 Chro. 13. 13. that is, he would not remove it, 2 Sam. 6. 10.

CHAP. IX.

1. God threateneth the fifth Plague, the murraine of cattle, 4 but exempteth Israel. 6 The Egyptians cattle die: 7, yet Pharaoh is harned. 8, God bringeth the sixth plague, boils upon man and beast: 11, so that the Magiciāns cannot stand before Moses: 12, yet Pharaohs heart is hardened. 13, God threateneth Pharaoh more severely. 22, The seventh plague of hail and fire, falleth upon men and beasts, and fruits of the earth. 27, Pharaoh confesseth his sin, and sueth to Moses; 33, who prayeth to God, and the plague ceaseth: 34, whereupon Pharaohs heart is hardened yet more.

AND Jehovah said unto Moses; Go in unto Pharaoh, and speak unto him, Thus saith Jehovah the God of the Hebrews, Send away my people, that they may serve me. For if thou refuse to send them away, & thou still wilt hold them: Behold, the hand of Jehovah is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horses, upon the asses, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the sheep: a very grievous murraine. And Jehovah will marvelously sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt; and there shall not die anything of all that is the sons of Israel. And Jehovah appointed a set time, saying, To morrow Jehovah will do this thing in the land. And Jehovah did this thing on the morrow, and all the cattle of the Egyptians died, but of the cattle of the sons of Israel died not one. And Pharaoh sent, & behold, there was not any one of the cattle of Israel dead: and the heart of Pharaoh was made heavy, and he sent not away the people. And Jehovah said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take to you your hands full of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it towards the heavens, in the eyes of Pharaoh. And it shall be (turned) to small dust, upon all the land of Egypt; and it shall be upon man and upon beast, to a boil breaking forth with scalding blaines, in all the land of Egypt. And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses sprinkled it towards the heavens, and it was boil <◇> standing blaines breaking forth up on man and upon beast. And the Magicians could not stand before Moses, because of the boil; for the boil was upon the Magicians, and upon all the Egyptians. And Jehovah made strong the heart o Pharaoh, and he <◇> not unto them, even as Jehovah had spoken unto Moses. And Jehovah said unto Moses, Rise eatly in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews; Send away my people, that they may serve me. For at this time I will send all my plagues into thy heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, that thou mayest know that there is none like me in all the earth. For now <◇> sent out my hand, and I had smitten thee and thy people with the pestilence, and thou hadst been cut off from the earth. But in very deed, for this have I raised thee up, for to show in thee my power, and that my name may be declared in all the earth. As yet exaltest thou thyself against my people, that thou wilt not send them away? Behold, I will rain, about this time tomorrow, a very heavy hail, such as hath not been the like in Egypt since the day it was founded, even until now. And now send and speedily gather thy cattle and all that thou hast in the field: every man and beast which shall be found in the field, and shall not be gathered into the house, the hail shall even come down upon them, and they shall die. He that feared the word of Jehovah, amongst the servants of Pharaoh, made his servants and his cattle fly into the houses. And he that set not his heart unto the word of Jehovah, he left his servants and his cattle in the field. And Jehovah said unto Mosis, Stretch forth thine hand towards the heavens, and there shall be hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man and upon beast, and upon every herb of the field, in the land of Egypt. And Moses stretched forth his rod towards the heavens, and Jehovah gave voices, and hail; and fire went upon the ground: and Jehovah rained hail upon the land of Egypt. And there was hail, and fire catching it self among the hail, very heavy, such as there was not the like in all the land of Egypt, since it was a nation. And the hail smote in all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, from man even unto beast: and the hail smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field.

But the wheat and the <◇> were not smitten, for they were hidden. And Moses went out of the city, from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands unto Jehovah; and the voices and the hail ceased, and the rain was not poured upon the earth. And Pharaoh saw that the rain, and the hail, and the voices were ceased; & he added for to sin, & made heavy his heart, he and his servants. And the heart of Pharaoh waxed strong, and he sent not away the sons of Israel, even as Jehovah had spoken, by the hand of Moses.

Annotations.

HEbrewes] in Chaldee, Jews: so in v. 13. and usually in other places. For they which of old were called Hebrews of Heber the Patriarch, Gen. 14. 13. were after called Jews, E•th. 3. 6. of Iu•as the Patriarch, Jacob's fourth son: see Gen. 29. 35. and 49. 8.

V. 3. the •and] The Chaldee expounds it, a plague from before the Lord. sheep] or flocks, both sheep and goats. gri•v••• <◇> ] or heavy pestil••••• the Chaldee and the Greek calleth it, a very great death. See the notes on Exod. 5. 3. for it is the same word therensed.

V. 4. sever] In the Greek, will glorify: see Exod. 8. 22. anything] Hebr. a word; that is, ought <◇> > may be spoken of; 10 word, is for thing, in v. 5. & 6.

V. 6. all the cattle] that is, of all sorts some: for other some renamed for an after plague, v. 19. 25. And this was the fifth judgment, of which Asaph saith, God weighed out <◇> path to his anger, &c. and gave up their beasts to th••••rraine, (or pestilence;) Psal. 78. 50.

V. 7. made heavy] and so, obstinate: see Exodus <◇◇> . [unspec 7]

Ver. 8. your hands full] Hebrew, the fullness of your <◇> ▪ Here again, the sixth plague is brought upon Egypt, without warning given them before: see the notes on Exod. 8. 16. •s•es] or, embers. The matter of this plague is from the fire; as of the former, from the earth and water; of the next from the air. the heavens] as signifying this punishment to come upon them from God above; in special manner. to a boil] or, as the Greek translath, boils or sores, bo•ches. Of such oft times leprosy did breed, as Lev. 13. 18. 19. 20. scalding blaines] or, •yling blisters, a word not used but in this Egyptian plague, and it was an extraordinary & uncurable byle, such as Moses threatened among other curses, for the breach of God's law, Deut. 28. 27. the Lord will smite thee with the boil of Egypt, &c. whereof thou canst not be healed. The Holy Ghost expresseth it in Greek, by an evil and a malignant boil, Rev. 16. 2.

V. 10. it was] or there was, as the Greek translatheth there were boils. Thus the plagues come nearer unto Pharaoh, to his skin and flesh: but greater follow, even into his heart, v. 14. Unto this sixth plague of Egypt, answereth the first plague of the spiritual Egypt, where there was an evil and malignant boil, upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and which worshiped his image, Rev. 16. 2.

V. 11. couldnot stand] as hitherto they had withstood Moses, and Pharaoh would have had them done so stille• but now their folly was manifested unto all men: see 2 Tim. 3. 8. 9. Exod. 7. 11. 12. and 8. 18. Compare also here with, Rev. 6. 17. where it is said, the great day of the Lambes) wrath is come and who shall be able to stand?

Ver. 12. made strong:] and as the Greek translath it, hardened. See Ex•d. 4. 21. A like event is seen in the latter Egyptians; they blaspheme the God of heaven, for their pains and for their boils; but repent not of their works, Rev. 16. 11.

Vers. 15. I send out my hand] by the pestilence or mu•rain among the beasts, v. 3. 6. and I had smitten thee with the same pestilence; and thou hadst been cut off, for so thy sins deserved; but for another cause, (which after is declared in v. 16.) I have spared thee. This seemeth to be the proper meaning of these words. Otherwise taking the time past, for that which is to come, (for more certainty) it may be read, I will send, namely, if thou submit not. And so the Greek expounds it, I will send; and the Chaldee thus, for now it is near before me, that I will send out my powerful plague. pestilence] in the Greek and Chaldee, death.

V. 16. But in very deed] or, And verily. for this] the Apostle (Rom. 9.) addeth a word of intention, for this same: meaning cause, or purpose; as the Greek expounds it, for this cause. raised thee up] so the Apostle (in Rom. 9. 17.) expounds the Hebr. I have made thee stand up; or I have constituted (and se•) thee. The common Gr. version hath, thou hast been reserved (or kept alive) which thought it be true, yet doth it not express the whole meaning of God, who had not only kept him alive frō the former plagues, but even raised, set and constituted him for a vessel of wrath; and an example of God's justice and •eve•itie; as Paul applieth it to that argument. And that standing may imply the constitution or being of a thing, the Scripture elsewhere showeth; as where one Prophet saith, the Angel of the Lord stood by the threshing floor, 1 Chron. 21. 15. another saith, the Angel was by it, 2 Sam. 24 16. for to show] or, that I may show: as Paul explaineth it. See the notes on Gen. 6. 19. in thee:] or, show thee: but both the Greek translation and the Apostle (Rom. 9. 17.) addeth the word in. Which is often to be observed in words compounded as this is; as Gen. 30. 20.  dwell with me, Psal. 5. 5. so journe with thee, Psal. 42. 5. resorted with them; Sin against me, Prov. 8. 36. and sundry the like. be declared] Hebr. for to declare (or tell) my name: See the notes on Gen. 6. 20. The Chaldee translath, that they may declare the power of my name. From hence the Apostle inferreth, Therefore God hath mercy on whom he will; and whom he will he hardeneth, Rom. 9. 18.

Vers. 18. about this time:] Greek at this hour, (or time) for the Greek useth these two indifferently; as, In that hour, Luk. 10. 21. whereas Matthew saith, In that time, Matt. 1•. 25. very heavy,] or, vehemently weighty; that is, sore and grievous. This plague proceedeth from the air as the former did from other elements. founded] that is, the foundation of it laid: as the Greek saith, created.

Vers. 19. speedily gather] gather for to flee, or to retire, as the word signifieth, Ier. 4. 6. and 6. 1. This warning, as it implied great danger to come; so, no less mercy in God, towards such ill deserving people. even come down] Hebrew, and shall come down, and they shall die; meaning with the hail, so soon as it should fall.

Vers. 20. made to fly,] the Greek and Chaldee translate, gathered; this explaineth the former word, in verse 19.

Verse 21. set not his heart,] that is, regarded not. See Exod. 7. 23. he left,] or, he also left. But the word also (or and) may be omitted, as is shown on Gen. 8. 6.

Vers. 23. gave voices,] that is, sent noises of thunder: so the Scripture elsewhere speaketh of the voice (or noise) of thunder, Rev. 6. 1. and thunders uttered their voices, Revel. 10. 3. And although sometime voices and thunders are mentioned distinctly, as in Rev. 4. 5. and 8. 5. yet here by voices, seem to be meant thunders. So at the giving of the Law, Exod. 19. 16. and 20. 18. hail] with such God killed also the Canaanites, Ios. 10. 11. And unto Job he saith; Hast thou seen the treasures of the Hail, which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war? Job. 38. 22. 23. Unto this seventh plague of Egypt, the Lord compareth the seventh plague of the Antichristians; where, upon the vial poured out into the air, there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings, and earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, and a great hail of talent weight fell upon men, for which they blasphemed God, Rev. 16. 17. 18. 21. fire went,] that is, ran along on the ground, as the Greek translatheth it; which was extraordinary and most terrible: so that not the hail only, but the lightnings and fiery flames, consumed their cattle; as the Psalmist witnesseth, Psal. 78. 47. 48. and 105. 32. 33. So in other judgments, hail and fire is mentioned, in the destruction of David's enemies, and of the Assyrians, Psal. 18. 13. 14. 15. Isaiah 30. 30. 31.

Vers. 24. catching it self;] that is, one flash of lightning taking hold of another, & so the flames infolding themselves, did increase and burn more terribly. This word is used only here, and in Ezek. 1. 4. The Greek translatheth it, inflaming, (or setting on fire, which word the Apostle useth, I am. 3. 6.) and so the Chaldee saith, inflaming it self. And David calleth it, fire of flames, Psal. 15. 32. a nation] or, to a nation: which the Greek explaineth, since there was a nation upon it. A like phrase is in Re 16. 18. since men were upon the earth.

Ver. 25. from man &c.] that is, both men & beasts. every tree] the Gr. saith, all the trees, meaning of all sorts; for there were some left remaining for an after plague, Exod. 10. 5. A like phrase is in Act. 10. 12. all four footed beasts &c. & before in verse 6.

Vers. 26. no hail] So God had preserved them from former plagues, v. 6. and ch. 8 ver 22. and so God promiseth to preserve his people in quiet resting places, when it shall hail on the forest, Esa. 32. 18. 19.

Ver. 28. for it is enough,] or, and let it be enough: so the Greek Interpreters took it, translating, and let it cease. voices of God,] that is, thunders from God, or mighty loud thunders: as mountains of God, Psal. 26. 7. are high and strong mounts; see the notes on Gen. 30. 5. and 23. 6. The Greek retaineth the Hebrew phrase. no longer stay] Hebr. ye shall not add to stand: that is, to stay, or remain, as the Greek translatheth: or as the Chaldee expounds it, be delayed.

V. 29. my hands] Hebr. my palms; that is, as the Chaldee explaineth it, my hands in prayer. So in v. 33. The spreading out of the palms of the hands, was a common gesture used in prayer, as kneeling also was; signifying a desire that they might receive from God, the things they craved: so Solomon did when he prayed, 2 Chron. 6. 13. and David, Psal. 143. 6. and Ezra, Ezr. 9. 9. and others, Job 11. 13. Like this was the lifting up of the hands; where of see Exod. 17. 11. is Jehovah's] or belongeth to Jehovah, as the Creator, Possessor, Governor of all things; doing whatsoever he pleaseth, in heavens, earth, seas, &c. Psal. 135. 6. Of this sentence there is often mention and great use in the Scriptures: see Deut. 10. 14. 15. Psal. 24. 1. &c. 1 Cor. 10. 26. 28.

V. 30. will not yet fear] this the event shown to be true, v. 35. Hereby it appeareth, that the prayers of the faithful may remove temporary plagues, even from the wicked and impenitent. Compare 1 King. 18. 42. 45. Exod 32 11. 14. 34. 35.

V. 31. in the ear] the Hebrew Abib, signifieth a green ear of corn with the stalk, Levite. 2. 14. Of it, the month when cord was newly ripe, is called Abib, where of see Exod. 13. 4. bolled,] or in the stalk: the Greek translatheth it seeding.

V. 32. ye] or the grain called Zea, or Spelt, in Hebrew Cussemeth: of this is mention also in Ezek. 4. 9. Isaiah 28. 25. The Hebrew Doctors count it a kind of wheat: as Maimonides showeth in treat of Leven, ch. 5. S. 1. hidden:] Hebrew dark, or, obscure, that is, hid under ground, not to be seen: the Greek translatheth it, lateward.

Vers. 33. hail ceased] This showeth the effect of Moses faith and prayer: the Apostle noteth the like of Elias, who prayed, and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months: and he prayed again, and the heaven gaveraine. I am. 5. 17. 18. This is written for our comfort, for they were men, subject to like passions as we are. The same is to be observed in Exod. 10. 18. 19. and the other plagues which Moses by prayer took away.

Vers. 34. made heavy] that is, obstinate and hard. See Exod. 7. 14. [unspec 34]

Vers. 35. waxed strong] was made fast and hard: see Exod. 4. 21. by the hand] that is, by the ministry or prophecy of Moses, who had signified so much before, verse 30. So God's word came by the hand of Haggai. Hag. 1. 1. by the hand of Malachi, Mal. 1. 1. and by the hand of all the Prophets, 2 King. 17. 13. that is, by them as his ministers and instruments. And the hand of the Lord, sometime is the spirit of prophecy, 2 King. 3. 15.

CHAP. X.

1. God showeth Moses wherefore he hardened Pharaohs heart. 3, Locusts are threatened to be sent. 7, Pharaoh, moved by his servants, inclineth to let Israel go, but changeth his mind. 12, The eighth plague, Locusts come upon Egypt. 16, Pharaoh confesseth his sins, asketh forgiveness, and desireth Moses prayer. 19, The Locusts are taken away, and Pharaohs heart is hardened. 21, Darkness, the ninth plague, is sent upon Egypt. 24, Pharaoh would send Israel away, but stay their cattle. 25, Moses refuseth to leave a hoof behind. 27, Pharaoh is hardened, and forbiddeth Moses, on pain of death, to see his face anymore.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉

AND Jehovah said unto Moses; Go in unto Pharaoh, for I have made heavy his heart, and the heart of his servants, that I may set these my signs in the midst of him. And that thou mayest tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy sons so•e; the things which I have wrought in Egypt, and my signs which I have put amongst them; and that ye may know that I am Jehovah. And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews; How long re•usest thou to humble thyself before me? Send away my people, that they may serve me. For if thou refuse to send away my people, behold, I bring to morrow the Locusts into thy coast. And they shall cover the eye of the earth, and one shall not be able to see the earth: and they shall eat the residue of that which is escaped, which remaineth unto you from the hail; and shall eat every tree which groweth for you, out of the field. And they [unspec] shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians; which thy fathers, and thy fathers fathers have not seen, since the day that they were upon the earth, unto this day: and he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh. And [unspec] Pharaohs servants said unto him, How long shall this man be a snare unto us? send away the men, that they may serve Jehovah their God: knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed? And Moses and Aaron were [unspec] brought again unto Pharaoh; and he said unto them, Go serve Jehovah your God: who and who, are they that shall go? And [unspec] Moses said, We will go, with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds, will we go, for we have a feast of Jehovah. And he said unto them, Let Jehovah be so with you, as I will send away you, and your little ones: see to it, for evil is before your faces. Not so; go now ye men, [unspec] and serve Jehovah, for that you did request: and he drove them out from Pharaohs presence. And Jehovah said unto Moses; Stretch out thy hand over the land of Egypt, for the Locusts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land, all that the hail hath left. And Moses stretched out his rod over the [unspec] land of Egypt, and Jehovah brought an East wind upon the land, all that day, and all the night: the morning was, and the East wind brought up the Locusts. And the Locusts [unspec] went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt, exceeding heavy; before them there were no such Locusts as they, and after them shall no such be. And they covered the eye of all [unspec] the earth, and the land was darkened; and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left; and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, in all the land of Egypt. And Pharaoh [unspec] hastened to call for Moses and for Aaron; and he said, I have sinned against Jehovah your God, and against you. And now [unspec] forgive I pray thee my sin, only this once, and entreat ye Jehovah your God, that he may take away from me this death only. And he went out from Pharaoh, and entreated [unspec] Jehovah. And Jehovah turned a vehement strong sea wind, and took away the Locusts▪ and fastened them to the red sea: there remained not one Locust in all the coast of Egypt. And Jehovah made strong the heart of Pharaoh, and he sent not away the sons of Israel. And Jehovah said unto Moses; Stretch out thy hand toward the heavens, and there shall be darkness over the land of Egypt, that one may feel the darkness. And Moses stretched out his hand toward the heavens, and there was obscure darkness in all the land of Egypt three days. They saw not any man his brother, neither rose they any man from his place, three days: but to all the sons of Israel there was light in their dwellings. And Pharaoh called unto Moses, and said, Go ye, serve Jehovah; only let your flocks and your herds be stayed: let your little ones also go with you. And Moses said, Thou also shalt give into our hand, sacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may do sacrifice to Jehovah our God. And our cattle also shall go with us; there shall not an hoof be left, for thereof shall we take to serve Jehovah our God; and we know not with what we shall serve Jehovah, until we come thither. And Jehovah made strong the heart of Pharaoh, and he would not send them away. And Pharaoh said unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thyself, see my face no more, for in the day thou seest my face, thou shalt die. And Moses said, Thou hast spoken well: I will not see thy face again anymore.

Annotations.

〈 in non-Latin alphabet 〉 Here beginneth the fifteenth Section or Lecture of the Law, see Gen. 6. 9.

Vers. 1. for I] or, though I have made heavy, that is, hardened: see Exod. 7. 14. of him] of Pharaoh and his servants: therefore the Greek translatheth it, them; saying, that these signs may hereafter come upon them.

Vers. 2. thou] this also meaneth Moses and the Israelites; as after he saith, ye; and so the Greek translatheth here. And in Deut. 6. 20. 22. Moses willeth Israel to tell their sons, of the signs and wonders, great and evil, which the Lord had brought upon Egypt. The like is in Psal. 78. 5. 6. 7. &c. the things,] the Chaldee saith, the miracles.

Vers. 3. Hebrews] in the Chaldee Jews. humble thyself] The Greek translatheth, how long wilt thou not reverence me?

Vers. 4. Locusts] or Grashoppers: the Hebrew is Locust; put generally for a multitude of Locusts; (as tree, for trees, Gen. 3. 2.) And the original Arbeh, hath the denomination of a multitude, because their nature is to be many together, as Prov. 30. 27. the Locusts have no king. yet go they forth all of them by heaps: and huge multitudes are therefore resembled to Locusts, Ier. 46. 23. Judge. 6. 5.

Vers. 5. the eye] put for the whole face, or upmost part of the earth, which is seen with the eye: as the Greek translatheth it, the sight, or superficies. The Chaldee explains it, of hiding the sight of the sun from the earth: so in verse 15. Humane writers testify, that the great Locusts fly, and make great noise with their wings, as if they were birds, and do darken the Sun. Pliny, book 11. chapter 29. that which is escaped] Hebr. the escaping, or, evasion.

Vers. 6. houses] the Locusts are reported to gnaw all things, even the doors of houses: Pliny, book 11. chapter 29. Some of the Hebrews write, that these Locusts did not only hurt the fruits of the earth, but men also; as the author of the book of Wisdom, c. 16. verse. 9. saith, the bitings of Locusts and of flies, killed them; neither was there found any remedy for their life.

Vers. 7. servants] the nobles and counsellors of Egypt. a snare] that is, a destruction, by the plagues that he bringeth upon us. This word snare, usually signifieth the means of destruction; as Exod. 23. 33. Ios. 23. 13. 1 Sam. 18. 21. which here the Egyptians impute unto Moses; whereas a snare is in the transgression of an evil man, Prov. 29. 6. knowest thou;] the Greek interpreteth it, or wouldest thou know?

Vers. 9. we have] Hebr. to us is: whereby is meant we have; as is noted on Genes. 12. 16. The word is, is supplied here in the Greek version. feast of Jehovah] so called, because it was commanded by him, Exod. 5. 1. and was to be kept unto him; as the Chaldee expounds it, a feast before the Lord; and as elsewhere it is said, a feast unto Jehovah, Exod. 32. 5.
