INTRODUCTION

SALAMIS, one of the decisive battles of the world, which saved not only Greece but western civilization, is a connecting link between the three great Attic tragedians. Aeschylus, then in his prime, fought himself and celebrated the victory in his Persae; Sophocles, a boy of fifteen, was chosen for his beauty and musical skill as leader of the youthful choir who danced and sang a paean round the trophy; and Euripides, according to tradition, was born on the very day of the battle.

In his art, no less than in his age, Sophocles stands half way between the primitive faith and large utterance of Aeschylus, the "superman," and the lyric pathos, "the touch of all things human," of Euripides the Rationalist.

Of his private life, if we neglect later myth and gossip, there is little to tell. As Phrynicus wrote shortly after his death, "Thus happily ended a life without one mishap." He was born at Colonus (495 b.c.), that deme of Athens which he afterwards immortalized in what Cicero pronounced the sweetest of all lyrics, and his father Sophilus, 'a well-to-do Athenian (probably a master-cutler) gave him the best education of the day - in music, dancing, and gymnastics. Endowed with every gift of nature, both physical and mental, from the very first, he carried all before him. When he began to dramatize we know not, but in 468 he won the first prize, probably with the Triptolemus, a lost play, and there is no reason to doubt the story that it was awarded to him by Cimon, the successful general to whom the Archon Eponymus of the year deferred the decision.

The year 440 B.C. was to Sophocles what 1850 A.D. was to Tennyson, the grand climacteric of his life. After, and partly at least in consequence of his Antigone, which took the town by storm, he was appointed one of the ten strategi sent with Pericles to reduce the aristocratic revolt in Samos. If the poet won no fresh laurels in the field he did not forfeit the esteem and admiration of his countrymen, who conferred on him various posts of distinction, just as the age of Queen Anne rewarded Addison and Prior with secretaryships, or as the United States sent us Lowell as ambassador. He was President of the 'Ελληνοταριά or Imperial Treasurers of the tribute. After the Sicilian disaster in 413 he was appointed a member of the Πρόβουλοι or Committee of Public Safety. The pretty story told by Cicero in the De Senectute of his last appearance in public in extreme old age and his triumphant acquittal by the jury is too familiar to be repeated, and is probably a fiction, but it serves as evidence of his popularity to the very end. He had seen the rise of Athens and identified himself with her glory, and he was spared by a happy death from witnessing her final fall at the battle of Aegospotami (405 b.c.).

“ His life was gentle.” Gentle is the word by which critics ancient and modern have agreed to characterize him. The epitaph is Shakespeare’s, and Ben Jonson applies it to Shakespeare himself, but it fits even more aptly the sweet singer of Colonus, in whom “the elements were so mixed” as to form what the Greeks expressed by εὔκολος. In the famous line of Aristophanes :

δ' δ' εὔκολος μὲν ἐνθάδ', εὔκολος δ' ἔκει.
Sweet-tempered as on earth, so here below.

The one aspersion on his character is that in his younger days he was a passionate lover, but the charge rests on a passage in the opening scene of the Republic of Plato which will bear a milder interpretation. When Sophocles, as there reported, expressed his satisfaction at escaping from a savage and tyrannous monster, he surely did not mean that he had been a libertine, but that old age had removed him from temptations to which he may never have succumbed. In all antiquity there is not a purer-minded poet, and (as in the case of Virgil and Shakespeare) we may discredit and ignore the unsavoury gossip of Athenaeus and the scandal-mongers of a later age.

Since his death the fame of Sophocles has grown and never suffered eclipse. To Aristotle no less than to Aristophanes he is the greatest of dramatists, and in the Poetics the Oedipus Rex is held up as the model of a tragedy. To Virgil who freely imitated him "the buskin of Sophocles" is a synonym for dramatic perfection. Racine and Lessing prized him no less highly, and Sophocles was the volume that Shelley carried with him to his watery grave.

The Merope of Matthew Arnold is a far-off echo of the Electra of Sophocles, and no finer or truer tribute has been paid to a poet than the sonnet in which Arnold renders his special thanks to him

"Whose even-balanced soul,
From first youth tested up to extreme old age,
Business could not make dull, nor passion wild ;
Who saw life steadily, and saw it whole,
The mellow glory of the Attic stage,
Singer of sweet Colonus and its child."

INTRODUCTION

For a discussion of the genius of Sophocles as a dramatist and a poet, his relation to his older and younger contemporary, his religious and political creed, we must be content to refer our readers to the Bibliography, but a few words may be permitted on his language as it affects the translator. Dr. Warren has pronounced Sophocles "the least translatable and the least imitable of the Greeks," and it is in the second epithet that the translator may find his best excuse for attempting the impossible. Greek critics assigned to Sophocles in his maturity "the common or middle diction," that is, a diction half way between the pomp of Aeschylus and the language of everyday prose, and Wordsworth might have taken him to illustrate the canon laid down in his Preface to "Lyrical Ballads." Coleridge might no less have chosen Sophocles to refute that canon. The words themselves are familiar in men's ears, but in Sophocles they have gained a new significance, sometimes simply from their collocation, sometimes by a reversion to their first meanings, oftener because (as in Virgil) they denote one thing and connote others. It is no paradox to say that the ease, the simplicity, the seeming transparency of the language, constitute the translator's main difficulty. In the present instance he is painfully conscious of his failure to preserve this simplicity and transfer these latent meanings, but he has sought to be faithful and the prospect of the text facing him has been a righteous terror. At the same time he has held as a first principle that, whatever else it is, a translation must be English, that is to say, it must be intelligible and enjoyable without a knowledge of the original.

INTRODUCTION

One or two instances may be given from the Oedipus Rex. Line 67 is literally rendered by Jebb, "I have gone many ways in the wanderings of thought," but to a Greek scholar it is no less sublime than, in another style, Milton's "thoughts that wander through eternity." To convey this sublimity in another tongue is as hard as it would be to render in French "Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean." Lines 736-7 are the turning point, the climax, as it were, of the play, but in language they hardly differ from prose :—"As I heard you speak just now, lady, what wandering of the soul, what upheaval of the mind, have come upon me!"

The second point may be illustrated from a recent version of the play by an eminent Professor. He begins,

"Fresh brood of bygone Cadmus, children dear,
What is this posture of your sessions here
—Betufted on your supplicating rods?"

INTRODUCTION

We defy any Englishman without a knowledge of the Greek to make any sense of the third line. So with the Choruses. To preserve in rhyme the correspondence of Strophe and Antistrophe (Turn and Counterturn they are here called), is at best an exhibition of tight-rope dancing.

These seven plays are all that are left to us of some 120, except in fragments and a considerable portion of a Satyric Drama, the Ixverai or Trackers. The order in which they were composed and produced is largely a matter of conjecture. All we know for certain is that the Antigone was the first (some, however, put the Ajax before it), and the Oedipus Coloneus, produced by the poet's grandson, three years after the death of Sophocles, was the last of the seven. The following may be taken as an approximation:—Antigone, Electra, Ajax, Oedipus Rex, Trachiniae, Philoctetes, Oedipus Coloneus.

The Greek text is based on Dindorf (latest edition), but this has been carefully collated with Jebb's edition and in most cases the English has been preferred to the German editor.

It remains to express my deep obligations not only to the text but to the commentary and prose translation of the great scholar who for more than forty years honoured me with his friendship. I have not consciously borrowed from his rendering, but there is hardly a line in which I am not indebted to him for a fuller appreciation of the meaning and significance.

To three other life-long friends, all three rival translators of Sophocles in whole or in part, I am indebted for generous help and counsel. Sir George Young, Mr. E. D. A. Morshead, and Professor Gilbert Murray read and freely criticized my first essay which has been kept for more than the statutory nine years or Horace, and it was their encouragement that made me persevere in what has proved the pleasantest of all holiday tasks.

ARGUMENT

To Laius, King of Thebes, an oracle foretold that the child born to him by his queen Jocasta would slay his father and wed his mother. So when in time a son was born the infant's feet were riveted together and he was left to die on Mount Cithaeron. But a shepherd found the babe and tended him, and delivered him to another shepherd who took him to his master, the King of Corinth. Polybus being childless adopted the boy, who grew up believing that he was indeed the King's son. Afterwards doubting his parentage he inquired of the Delphic god and heard himself the weird declared before to Laius. Wherefore he fled from what he deemed his father's house and in his flight he encountered and unwittingly slew his father Laius. Arriving at Thebes he answered the riddle of the Sphinx and the grateful Thebans made their deliverer king. So he reigned in the room of Laius, and espoused the widowed queen. Children were born to them and Thebes prospered under his rule, but again a grievous plague fell upon the city. Again the oracle was consulted and it bade them purge themselves of bloodguiltiness. Oedipus denounces the crime of which he is unaware, and undertakes to track out the criminal. Step by step it is brought home to him that he is the man. The closing scene reveals Jocasta slain by her own hand and Oedipus blinded by his own act and praying for death or exile.

OEDIPUS THE KING

*Suppliants of all ages are seated round the altar at the palace doors, at their head a PRIEST OF ZEUS.
To them enter OEDIPUS.*

OEDIPUS

My children, latest born to Cadmus old,
Why sit ye here as suppliants, in your hands
Branches of olive filleted with wool ?
What means this reek of incense everywhere,
And everywhere laments and litanies ?
Children, it were not meet that I should learn
From others, and am hither come, myself,
I Oedipus, your world-renownèd king.
Ho ! aged sire, whose venerable locks
Proclaim thee spokesman of this company,
Explain your mood and purport. Is it dread
Of ill that moves you or a boon ye crave ?
My zeal in your behalf ye cannot doubt ;
Ruthless indeed were I and obdurate
If such petitioners as you I spurned.

PRIEST

Yea, Oedipus, my sovereign lord and king,
Thou seest how both extremes of age besiege
Thy palace altars—fledglings hardly winged,
And greybeards bowed with years ; priests, as am I
Of Zeus, and these the flower of our youth.
Meanwhile, the common folk, with wreathèd boughs
Crowd our two market-places, or before
Both shrines of Pallas congregate, or where Isinenus gives his oracles by fire.

OEDIPUS THE KING

For, as thou seest thyself, our ship of State,
Sore buffeted, can no more lift her head,
Foundered beneath a weltering surge of blood.
A blight is on our harvest in the ear,
A blight upon the grazing flocks and herds,
A blight on wives in travail ; and withal
Armed with his blazing torch the God of Plague
Hath swooped upon our city emptying
The house of Cadmus, and the murky realm
Of Pluto is full fed with groans and tears.
Therefore, O King, here at thy hearth we sit,
I and these children ; not as deeming thee
An equal of the gods, but first of men ;
First in the common accidents of life,
And first in visitations of the Gods.
Art thou not he who coming to the town
Of Cadmus freed us from the tax we paid
To the fell songstress ? Nor hadst thou received
Prompting from us or been by others schooled ;
No, by a god inspired (so all men deem,
And testify) thou didst renew our life.
And now, O Oedipus, our peerless king,
All we thy votaries beseech thee, find
Some succour, whether by a voice from heaven
Whispered, or haply known by human wit.
Tried counsellors, methinks, are aptest found ¹
To furnish for the future pregnant rede.
Upraise, O chief of men, upraise our State !
Look to thy laurels ! for thy zeal of yore
Our country's saviour thou art justly hailed :
O never may we thus record thy reign :—

¹ Dr. Kennedy and others render "Since to men of experience I see that also comparisons of their counsels are in most lively use."

OEDIPUS THE KING

“ He raised us up only to cast us down.”

Uplift us, build our city on a rock.

Thy happy star ascendant brought us luck,
O let it not decline ! If thou wouldest rule
This land, as now thou reignest, better sure
To rule a peopled than a desert realm.

Nor battlements nor galleys aught avail,
If men to man and guards to guard them fail.

OEDIPUS

Ah ! my poor children, known, ah, known too well,

The quest that brings you hither and your need.

Ye sicken all, well wot I, yet my pain,
How great soever yours, outtops it all.

Your sorrow touches each man severally,
Him and none other, but I grieve at once
Both for the general and myself and you.

Therefore ye rouse no sluggard from day-dreams.

Many, my children, are the tears I've wept,
And threaded many a maze of weary thought.

Thus pondering one clue of hope I caught,
And tracked it up ; I have sent Menoeceus' son,
Creon, my consort's brother, to inquire

Of Pythian Phoebus at his Delphic shrine,
How I might save the State by act or word.

And now I reckon up the tale of days
Since he set forth, and marvel how he fares.

'Tis strange, this endless tarrying, passing strange.
But when he comes, then I were base indeed,
If I perform not all the god declares.

PRIEST

Thy words are well timed ; even as thou speakest
That shouting tells me Creon is at hand.

Banishment, or the shedding blood for blood.
This stain of blood makes shipwreck of our state.

OEDIPUS

Whom can he mean, the miscreant thus denounced ?

CREON

Before thou didst assume the helm of State,
The sovereign of this land was Laius.

OEDIPUS

So have I heard ; I never saw the man.

CREON

He fell ; and now the god's command is plain :
Punish his takers-off, whoe'er they be.

OEDIPUS

Where are they ? Where in the wide world to find
The far, faint traces of a bygone crime ?

CREON

In this land, said the god ; " who seeks shall find ;
Who sits with folded hands or sleeps is blind."

OEDIPUS

Was he within his palace, or afield,
Or travelling, when Laius met his fate ?

CREON

Abroad ; he started, so he told us, bound
For Delphi, but he never thence returned.

OEDIPUS

Came there no news, no fellow-traveller
To give some clue that might be followed up ?

CREON

But one escaped, who flying for dear life,
Could tell of all he saw but one thing sure.

OEDIPUS

And what was that? One clue might lead us far,
With but a spark of hope to guide our quest.

CREON

Robbers, he told us, not one bandit but
A troop of knaves, attacked and murdered him,

OEDIPUS

And how could robbers dare so bold a stroke,
Unless indeed they were suborned from Thebes?

CREON

So 'twas surmised, but none was found to avenge
His murder mid the trouble that ensued.

OEDIPUS

What trouble can have hindered a full quest,
When royalty had fallen thus miserably?

CREON

The riddling Sphinx compelled us to let slide
The dim past and attend to instant needs.

OEDIPUS

Well, I will start afresh and once again
Make dark things clear. Right worthy the concern
Of Phoebus, worthy thine too, for the dead;
I also, as is meet, will lend my aid
To avenge this wrong to Thebes and to the god.
Not for some far-off kinsman, but myself,
Shall I expel this poison in the blood;
For whoso slew that king might have a mind
To strike me too with his assassin hand.
Therefore in righting him I serve myself.
Up, children, haste ye, quit these altar stairs,
Take hence your suppliant wands, go summon

CHORUS (Str. 1)

Sweet-voiced daughter of Zeus from thy gold-paved
Pythian shrine

Wafted to Thebes divine,
What dost thou bring me ? My soul is racked and shivers with fear.

(Healer of Delos, hear !)

Hast thou some pain unknown before,
Or with the circling years renewest a penance of yore ?

Offspring of golden Hope, thou voice immortal, O tell me.

(Ant. 1)

First on Athenè I call ; O Zeus-born goddess, defend !

Goddess and sister, befriend,
Artemis, Lady of Thebes, high-throned in the midst of our mart !

Lord of the death-winged dart !

Your threefold aid I crave

From death and ruin our city to save.
If in the days of old when we nigh had perished, ye dove

From our land the fiery plague, be near us now and defend us !

(Str. 2)

Ah me, what countless woes are mine !
All our host is in decline ;
Weaponless my spirit lies.
Earth her gracious fruits denies ;
Women wail in barren throes ;
Life on life downstricken goes,
Swifter than the wild bird's flight,
Swifter than the Fire-God's might,
To the westering shores of Night.

(Ant. 2)

Wasted thus by death on death
All our city perisheth.
Corpses spread infection round ;
None to tend or mourn is found.
Wailing on the altar stair
Wives and grandams rend the air—
Long-drawn moans and piercing cries
Blent with prayers and litanies.
Golden child of Zeus, O hear
Let thine angel face appear !

(Str. 3)

And grant that Ares whose hot breath I feel,
Though without targe or steel
He stalks, whose voice is as the battle shout,
May turn in sudden rout,
To the unharboured Thracian waters sped,
Or Amphitrite's bed.
For what night leaves undone,
Smit by the morrow's sun
Perisheth. Father Zeus, whose hand
Doth wield the lightning brand,
Slay him beneath thy levin bolt, we pray,
Slay him, O slay !

O that thine arrows too, Lycean King,
From the taut bow's gold string,
Might fly abroad, the champions of our rights ;
Yea, and the flashing lights
Of Artemis, wherewith the huntress sweeps
Across the Lycian steeps.
Thee too I call with golden-snooded hair,
Whose name our land doth bear,
Bacchus to whom thy Maenads Evoē shout ;
Come with thy bright torch, rout,
Blithe god whom we adore,
The god whom gods abhor.

Without a clue ? Which lacking (for too late

This proclamation I address to all :—
Thebans, if any knows the man by whom
Laius, son of Labdacus, was slain,
I summon him to make clean shrift to me.
And if he shrinks, let him reflect that thus
Confessing he shall 'scape the capital charge ;
For the worst penalty that shall befall him
Is banishment—unscathed he shall depart.

OEDIPUS THE KING

Let him who knows speak out, and he shall have

Due recompense from me and thanks to boot.

But if ye still keep silence, if through fear

For self or friends ye disregard my hest,

Hear what I then resolve : I lay my ban

On the assassin whosoe'er he be.

Let no man in this land, whereof I hold

The sovereign rule, harbour or speak to him ;

Give him no part in prayer or sacrifice

Or lustral rites, but hound him from your homes.

For this is our defilement, so the god

Hath lately shewn to me by oracles.

Thus as their champion I maintain the cause
Both of the god and of the murdered King.

And on the murderer this curse I lay

(On him and all the partners in his guilt) :—
Wretch, may he pine in utter wretchedness !

And for myself, if with my privity

He gain admittance to my hearth, I pray

The curse I laid on others fall on me.

See that ye give effect to all my hest,

For my sake and the god's and for our land,
A desert blasted by the wrath of heaven.

For, let alone the god's express command,

It were a scandal ye should leave unpurged

The murder of a great man and your king,

Nor track it home. And now that I am lord,

Successor to his throne, his bed, his wife,

(And had he not been frustrate in the hope

Of issue, common children of one womb

Had forged a closer bond twixt him and me,

But Fate swooped down upon him), therefore I

OEDIPUS THE KING

His blood-avenger will maintain his cause
As though he were my sire, and leave no stone
Unturned to track the assassin or avenge
The son of Labdacus, of Polydore,
Of Cadmus, and Agenor first of the race.
And for the disobedient thus I pray :
May the gods send them neither timely fruits
Of earth, nor teeming increase of the womb,
But may they waste and pine, as now they waste,
Aye and worse stricken ; but to all of you,
My loyal subjects who approve my acts,
May Justice, our ally, and all the gods
Be gracious and attend you evermore.

CHORUS

The oath thou profferest, sire, I take and swear.
I slew him not myself, nor can I name
The slayer. For the quest, 'twere well, methinks
That Phoebus, who proposed the riddle, himself
Should give the answer—who the murderer was.

OEDIPUS

Well argued ; but no living man can hope
To force the gods to speak against their will.

CHORUS

May I then say what seems next best to me ?

OEDIPUS

Aye, if there be a third best, tell it too.

CHORUS

My liege, if any man sees eye to eye

OEDIPUS THE KING

To thee, O seer, our one defence and shield.
The purport of the answer that the God
Returned to us who sought his oracle,
The messengers have doubtless told thee—how
One course alone could rid us of the pest,
To find the murderers of Laius,
And slay them or expel them from the land.
Therefore begrudging neither augury
Nor other divination that is thine,
O save thyself, thy country, and thy king,
Save all from this defilement of blood shed.
On thee we rest. This is man's highest end,
To others' service all his powers to lend.

TEIRESIAS

Alas, alas, what misery to be wise
When wisdom profits nothing! This old lore
I had forgotten; else I were not here.

OEDIPUS

What ails thee? Why this melancholy mood?

TEIRESIAS

Let me go home; prevent me not; 'twere best
That thou shouldst bear thy burden and I mine.

OEDIPUS

For shame! no true-born Theban patriot
Would thus withhold the word of prophecy.

TEIRESIAS

Thy words, O king, are wide of the mark, and I
For fear lest I too trip like thee . . .

OEDIPUS

Oh speak,
Withhold not, I adjure thee, if thou know'st,
Thy knowledge. We are all thy suppliants.

OEDIPUS THE KING

TEiresias

Aye, for ye all are witless, but my voice
Will ne'er reveal my miseries—or thine.¹

Oedipus

What then, thou knowest, and yet thou willst not speak!
Wouldst thou betray us and destroy the State?

Teiresias

I will not vex myself nor thee. Why ask
Thus idly what from me thou shalt not learn?

Oedipus

Monster! thy silence would incense a flint.
Will nothing loose thy tongue? Can nothing melt thee,
Or shake thy dogged taciturnity?

Teiresias

Thou blam'st my mood and seest not thine own
Wherewith thou art mated; no, thou taxest me.

Oedipus

And who could stay his choler when he heard
How insolently thou dost flout the State?

Teiresias

Well, it will come what will, though I be mute.

Oedipus

Since come it must, thy duty is to tell me.

Teiresias

I have no more to say; storm as thou willst,
And give the rein to all thy pent-up rage.

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

Yea, I am wroth, and will not stint my words,
But speak my whole mind. Thou methinks art he,
Who planned the crime, aye, and performed it too,
All save the assassination ; and if thou
Hadst not been blind, I had been sworn to boot
That thou alone didst do the bloody deed.

TEIRESIAS

Is it so ? then I charge thee to abide
By thine own proclamation ; from this day
Speak not to these or me. Thou art the man,
Thou the accursed polluter of this land.

OEDIPUS

Vile slanderer, thou blurttest forth these taunts,
And think'st forsooth as seer to go scot free.

TEIRESIAS

Yea, I am free, strong in the strength of truth.

OEDIPUS

Who was thy teacher ? not methinks thy art.

TEIRESIAS

Thou, goading me against my will to speak.

OEDIPUS

What speech ? repeat it and resolve my doubt.

TEIRESIAS

Didst miss my sense or wouldst thou goad me on ?

OEDIPUS

I but half caught thy meaning ; say it again.

I say thou art the murderer of the man
Whose murderer thou pursuest.

In infamy, unwitting of thy shame.

OEDIPUS

Think'st thou for aye unscathed to wag thy tongue?

TEIRESIAS

Yea, if the might of truth can aught prevail.

OEDIPUS

With other men, but not with thee, for thou
In ear, wit, eye, in everything art blind.

TEIRESIAS

Poor fool to utter gibes at me which all
Here present will cast back on thee ere long.

OEDIPUS

Offspring of endless Night, thou hast no power
O'er me or any man who sees the sun.

TEIRESIAS

No, for thy weird is not to fall by me.
I leave to Apollo what concerns the god.

OEDIPUS

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

O wealth and empire and skill by skill
Outwitted in the battlefield of life, . . .
What spite and envy follow in your train !
See, for this crown the State conferred on me,
A gift, a thing I sought not, for this crown
The trusty Creon, my familiar friend,
Hath lain in wait to oust me and suborned
This mountebank, this juggling charlatan,
This tricksy beggar-priest, for gain alone
Keen-eyed, but in his proper art stone-blind.
Say, sirrah, hast thou ever proved thyself
A prophet ? When the riddling Sphinx was here
Why hadst thou no deliverance for this folk ?
And yet the riddle was not to be solved
By guess-work but required the prophet's art ;
Wherein thou wast found lacking ; neither birds
Nor sign from heaven helped thee, but I came,
The simple Oedipus ; I stopped her mouth
By mother wit, untaught of auguries. . . .
This is the man whom thou wouldest undermine,
In hope to reign with Creon in my stead.
Methinks that thou and thine abettor soon
Will rue your plot to drive the scapegoat out.
Thank thy grey hairs that thou hast still to learn
What chastisement such arrogance deserves.

CHORUS

To us it seems that both the seer and thou,
O Oedipus, have spoken angry words.
This is no time to wrangle but consult
How best we may fulfil the oracle.

TEIRESIAS

King as thou art, free speech at least is mine
To make reply ; in this I am thy peer.
I own no lord but Loxias ; him I serve
And ne'er can stand enrolled as Creon's man.
Thus then I answer : since thou hast not spared
To twit me with my blindness—thou hast eyes,
Yet see'st not in what misery thou art fallen,
Nor where thou dwellest nor with whom for mate.
Dost know thy lineage ? Nay, thou know'st it not,
And all unwitting art a double foe
To thine own kin, the living and the dead ;
Aye and the dogging curse of mother and sire
One day shall drive thee, like a two-edged sword,
Beyond our borders, and the eyes that now
See clear shall see henceforward endless night.
Ah whither shall thy bitter cry not reach,
What crag in all Cithaeron but shall then
Reverberate thy wail, when thou hast found
With what a hymeneal thou wast borne
Home, but to no fair haven, on the gale !
Aye, and a flood of ills thou guessest not
Shall set thyself and children in one line.
Flout then both Creon and my words, for none
Of mortals shall be stricken worse than thou.

OEDIPUS

Must I endure this fellow's insolence ?
A murrain on thee ! Get thee hence ! Begone !
Avaunt ! and never cross my threshold more.

TEIRESIAS

Long hadst thou waited to be summoned here.

And lets me; gone, thou canst not plague me more.

TEIRESIAS

Thy frown I dread not, for thou canst not harm me.
Hear then: this man whom thou hast sought to arrest
With threats and warrants this long while, the wretch
Who murdered Laius—that man is here.

OEDIPUS THE KING

For purple robes, and leaning on his staff,
To a strange land he soon shall grope his way.
And of the children, inmates of his home,
He shall be proved the brother and the sire,
Of her who bare him son and husband both,
Co-partner and assassin of his sire.
Go in and ponder this, and if thou find
That I have missed the mark, henceforth declare
I have no wit nor skill in prophecy.

[Exeunt TEIRESIAS and OEDIPUS

CHORUS (Str. 1)

Who is he by voice immortal named from Pythia's rocky cell,
Doer of foul deeds of bloodshed, horrors that no tongue can tell ?

A foot for flight he needs
Fleeter than storm-swift steeds,
For on his heels doth follow,
Armed with the lightnings of his Sire, Apollo.
Like sleuth-hounds too
The Fates pursue.

(Ant. 1)

Yea, but now flashed forth the summons from Parnassus' snowy peak,
"Near and far the undiscovered doer of this murder seek!"

Now like a sullen bull he roves
Through forest brakes and upland groves,
And vainly seeks to fly
The doom that ever nigh
Flits o'er his head,
Still by the avenging Phoebus sped,
The voice divine,
From Earth's mid shrine.

OEDIPUS THE KING

(Str. 2)

Sore perplexèd am I by the words of the master seer.

Are they true, are they false ? I know not and bridle my tongue for fear,
Fluttered with vague surmise ; nor present nor future is clear.

Quarrel of ancient date or in days still near know I none

Twixt the Labdacidan house and our ruler, Polybus' son.

Proof is there none : how then can I challenge our King's good name,
How in a blood-feud join for an untracked deed of shame ?

(Ant. 2)

All wise are Zeus and Apollo, and nothing is hid from their ken ;

They are gods ; and in wits a man may surpass his fellow men ;

But that a mortal seer knows more than I know—where

Hath this been proven ? Or how without sign assured, can I blame

Him who saved our State when the wingèd songstress came,

Tested and tried in the light of us all, like gold assayed ?

How can I now assent when a crime is on Oedipus laid ?

OEDIPUS THE KING

And come to you protesting. If he deems
That I have harmed or injured him in aught
By word or deed in this our present trouble,
I care not to prolong my span of life,
Thus ill-reputed ; for the calumny
Hits not a single blot, but blasts my name,
If by the general voice I am denounced
False to the State and false by you my friends.

CHORUS

This taunt, it well may be, was blurted out
In petulance, not spoken advisedly.

CREON

Did any dare pretend that it was I
Prompted the seer to utter a forged charge?

CHORUS

Such things were said ; with what intent I know not.

CREON

Were not his wits and vision all astray
When upon me he fixed this monstrous charge ?

CHORUS

I know not ; to my sovereign's acts I am blind.
But lo, he comes to answer for himself.

Enter OEDIPUS.

OEDIPUS

Sirrah, what mak'st thou here ? Dost thou presume
To approach my doors, thou brazen-faced rogue,
My murderer and the filcher of my crown ?
Come, answer this, didst thou detect in me
Some touch of cowardice or witlessness,
That made thee undertake this enterprise ?
I seemed forsooth too simple to perceive
The serpent stealing on me in the dark,

Tis thou art witless seeking to possess
Without a following or friends the crown,
A prize that followers and wealth must win.

CREON

Attend me. Thou hast spoken, 'tis my turn
To make reply. Then having heard me, judge.

OEDIPUS

Thou art glib of tongue, but I am slow to learn
Of thee ; I know too well thy venomous hate.

Unschooled by reason, thou art much astray.

And no pains follow, thou art much to seek.

Since Laïus . . . ? I follow not thy drift.

OEDIPUS

By violent hands was spirited away.

CREON

In the dim past, a many years agone.

OEDIPUS

Did this same prophet then pursue his craft ?

CREON

Yes, skilled as now and in no less repute.

OEDIPUS

Did he at that time ever glance at me ?

CREON

Not to my knowledge, not when I was by.

OEDIPUS

But was no search and inquisition made ?

CREON

Surely full quest was made, but nothing learnt.

OEDIPUS

Why failed the seer to tell his story then ?

CREON

I know not, and not knowing hold my tongue.

OEDIPUS

CREON

What mean'st thou ? All I know I will declare.

But for thy prompting never had the seer
Ascribed to me the death of Laïus.

Would put thee to the question in my turn.

OEDIPUS

CREON

Then let me ask thee, didst thou wed my sister ?

OEDIPUS

A fact so plain I cannot well deny.

CREON

And as thy consort queen she shares the throne ?

OEDIPUS

I grant her freely all her heart desires.

CREON

And with you twain I share the triple rule ?

OEDIPUS

Yea, this it is that proves thee a false friend.

CREON

Not so, if thou wouldest reason with thyself,
As I with myself. First, I bid thee think,
Would any mortal choose a troubled reign
Of terrors rather than secure repose,
If the same power were given him ? As for me,
I have no natural craving for the name
Of king, preferring to do kingly deeds,
And so thinks every sober-minded man.
Now all my needs are satisfied through thee,
And I have nought to fear ; but were I king,
My acts would oft run counter to my will.
How could a title then have charms for me
Above the sweets of boundless influence ?
I am not so infatuate as to grasp
The shadow when I hold the substance fast.
Now all men cry me Godspeed ! wish me well,
And every suitor seeks to gain my ear,
If he would hope to win a grace from thee.

OEDIPUS THE KING

Why should I leave the better, choose the worse ?
That were sheer madness, and I am not mad.
No such ambition ever tempted me,
Nor would I have a share in such intrigue.
And if thou doubt me, first to Delphi go,
There ascertain if my report was true
Of the god's answer ; next investigate
If with the seer I plotted or conspired,
And if it prove so, sentence me to death,
Not by thy voice alone, but mine and thine.
But O condemn me not, without appeal,
On bare suspicion. 'Tis not right to adjudge
Bad men at random good, or good men bad.
I would as lief a man should cast away
The thing he counts most precious, his own life,
As spurn a true friend. Thou wilt learn in time
The truth, for time alone reveals the just ;
A villain is detected in a day.

CHORUS .

To one who walketh warily his words
Commend themselves ; swift counsels are not sure.

OEDIPUS

When with swift strides the stealthy plotter stalks
I must be quick too with my counterplot.
To wait his onset passively, for him
Is sure success, for me assured defeat.

CREON

What then's thy will ? To banish me the land ?

OEDIPUS

I would not have thee banished, no, but dead,
That men may mark the wages envy reaps.

Well, let him go, no matter what it cost me,
Or certain death or shameful banishment,
For your sake I relent, not his ; and him,
Where'er he be, my heart shall still abhor.

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

I will, for thou art more to me than these.
Lady, the cause is Creon and his plots.

JOCASTA

But what provoked the quarrel? make this clear.

OEDIPUS

He points me out as Laïus' murderer.

JOCASTA

Of his own knowledge or upon report?

OEDIPUS

He is too cunning to commit himself,
And makes a mouthpiece of a knavish seer.

JOCASTA

Then thou mayst ease thy conscience on that score.
Listen and I'll convince thee that no man
Hath scot or lot in the prophetic art.
Here is the proof in brief. An oracle
Once came to Laïus (I will not say
'Twas from the Delphic god himself, but from
His ministers) declaring he was doomed
To perish by the hand of his own son,
A child that should be born to him by me.
Now Laïus—so at least report affirmed—
Was murdered on a day by highwaymen,
No natives, at a spot where three roads meet.
As for the child, it was but three days old,
When Laïus, its ankles pierced and pinned
Together, gave it to be cast away
By others on the trackless mountain side.
So then Apollo brought it not to pass
The child should be his father's murderer,
Or the dread terror find accomplishment,
And Laïus be slain by his own son.

OEDIPUS THE KING

Such was the prophet's horoscope. O king,
Regard it not. Whate'er the god deems fit
To search, himself unaided will reveal.

OEDIPUS

What memories, what wild tumult of the soul
Came o'er me, lady, as I heard thee speak !

JOCASTA

What mean'st thou ? What has shocked and startled thee ?

OEDIPUS

Methought I heard thee say that Laius
Was murdered at the meeting of three roads.

JOCASTA

So ran the story that is current still.

OEDIPUS

Where did this happen ? Dost thou know the place ?

JOCASTA

Phocis the land is called ; the spot is where Branch roads from Delphi and from Daulis meet.

OEDIPUS

And how long is it since these things befell ?

JOCASTA

'Twas but a brief while ere thou wast proclaimed
Our country's ruler that the news was brought.

OEDIPUS

O Zeus, what hast thou willed to do with me !

JOCASTA

What is it, Oedipus, that moves thee so ?

OEDIPUS

Ask me not yet ; tell me the build and height
Of Laius ? Was he still in manhood's prime ?

OEDIPUS THE KING

JOCASTA

Tall was he, and his hair was lightly strewn
With silver ; and not unlike thee in form.

OEDIPUS

O woe is me ! Methinks unwittingly
I laid but now a dread curse on myself.

JOCASTA

What say'st thou ? When I look on thee, my king,
I tremble.

OEDIPUS

'Tis a dread presentiment
That in the end the seer will prove not blind.
One further question to resolve my doubt.

JOCASTA

I quail ; but ask, and I will answer all.

OEDIPUS

Had he but few attendants or a train
Of armed retainers with him, like a prince ?

JOCASTA

They were but five in all, and one of them
A herald ; Laïus in a mule-car rode.

OEDIPUS

Alas ! 'tis clear as noonday now. But say,
Lady, who carried this report to Thebes ?

JOCASTA

A serf, the sole survivor who returned.

OEDIPUS

Haply he is at hand or in the house ?

JOCASTA

No, for as soon as he returned and found
Thee reigning in the stead of Laïus slain,
He clasped my hand and supplicated me

OEDIPUS THE KING

To send him to the alps and pastures, where
He might be farthest from the sight of Thebes.
And so I sent him. 'Twas an honest slave
And well deserved some better recompense.

OEDIPUS

Fetch him at once. I fain would see the man.

JOCASTA

He shall be brought; but wherefore summon him?

OEDIPUS

Lady, I fear my tongue has overrun
Discretion; therefore I would question him.

JOCASTA

Well, he shall come, but may not I too claim
To share this burden of thy heart, my king?

OEDIPUS

And thou shalt not be frustrate of thy wish,
Now my imaginings have gone so far.
Who has a higher claim than thou to hear
My tale of dire adventures? Listen then.
My sire was Polybus of Corinth, and
My mother Meropè, a Dorian;
And I was held the foremost citizen,
Till a strange thing befell me, strange indeed,
Yet scarce deserving all the heat it stirred.
A roisterer at some banquet, flown with wine,
Shouted "Thou art no true son of thy sire."
It irked me, but I stomached for the nonce
The insult; on the morrow I sought out
My mother and my sire and questioned them.
They were indignant at the random slur
Cast on my parentage and did their best
To comfort me, but still the venomous barb
Rankled, for still the scandal spread and grew.

OEDIPUS THE KING

So privily without their leave I went
To Delphi, and Apollo sent me back
Baulked of the knowledge that I came to seek.
But other grievous things he prophesied,
Woes, lamentations, mourning, portents dire ;
To wit I should defile my mother's bed
And raise up seed too loathsome to behold,
And slay the father from whose loins I sprang.
Warned by the oracle I turned and fled,—
And Corinth henceforth was to me unknown
Save as I knew its region by the stars ;—
Whither, I cared not, so I never might
Behold my doom of infamy fulfilled.
And in my wanderings I reached the place
Where, as thy story runs, the king was slain.
Then, lady,—thou shalt hear the very truth—
As I drew near the triple-branching roads,
A herald met me and a man who sat
In a car drawn by colts—as in thy tale—
The man in front and the old man himself
Threatened to thrust me rudely from the path,
Then jostled by the charioteer in wrath
I struck him, and the old man, seeing this,
Watched till I passed and from his car brought down
Full on my head the double-pointed goad.

Yet was I quits with him and more ; one stroke
Of my good staff sufficed to fling him clean
Out of the chariot seat and laid him prone.
And so I slew them every one. But if Betwixt this stranger there was aught in common
With Laïus, who more miserable than I,
What mortal could you find more god-abhorred ?
Wretch whom no sojourner, no citizen

OEDIPUS THE KING

May harbour or address, whom all are bound
To harry from their homes. And this same curse
Was laid on me, and laid by none but me.
Yea with these hands all gory I pollute
The bed of him I slew. Say, am I vile ?
Am I not utterly unclean, a wretch
Doomed to be banished, and in banishment
Forgo the sight of all my dearest ones,
And never tread again my native earth ;
Or else to wed my mother and slay my sire,
Polybus, who begat me and upreared ?
If one should say, this is the handiwork
Of some inhuman power, who could blame
His judgment ? But, ye pure and awful gods,
Forbid, forbid that I should see that day !
May I be blotted out from living men
Ere such a plague spot set on me its brand !

CHORUS

We too, O king, are troubled ; but till thou
Hast questioned the survivor, still hope on.

My hope is faint, but still enough survives
To bid me bide the coming of this herd.

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

In thy report of what the herdsman said
Laius was slain by robbers ; now if he Still speaks of robbers, not a robber, I
Slew him not ; "one" with "many" cannot square.
But if he says one lonely wayfarer,
The last link wanting to my guilt is forged.

JOCASTA

Well, rest assured, his tale ran thus at first,
Nor can he now retract what then he said ;
Not I alone but all our townsfolk heard it.
E'en should he vary somewhat in his story,
He cannot make the death of Laius
In any wise jump with the oracle.
For Loxias said expressly he was doomed
To die by my child's hand, but he, poor babe,
He shed no blood, but perished first himself.
So much for divination. Henceforth I
Will look for signs neither to right nor left.

OEDIPUS

Thou reasonest well. Still I would have thee send
And fetch the bondsman hither. See to it.

JOCASTA

That will I straightway. Come, let us within.
I would do nothing that my lord mislikes.

CHORUS

My lot be still to lead (Str. 1).

To follow still those laws ordained on high

Ne'er shall they slumber in oblivion cold,
The god in them is strong and grows not old.

Of insolence is bred (Ant. 1)
The tyrant ; insolence full blown,
With empty riches surfeited,
Scales the precipitous height and grasps the throne,
Then topples o'er and lies in ruin prone ;
No foothold on that dizzy steep.
But O may Heaven the true patriot keep
Who burns with emulous zeal to serve the State.
God is my help and hope, on him I wait.

(Str. 2)

But the proud sinner, or in word or deed,
That will not Justice heed,
Nor reverence the shrine
Of images divine,
Perdition seize his vain imaginings,
If, urged by greed profane,
He grasps at ill-got gain,
And lays an impious hand on holiest things.
Who when such deeds are done
Can hope heaven's bolts to shun?
If sin like this to honour can aspire,
Why dance I still and lead the sacred choir?

Omnipotent, all-seeing, as of old ;
For Laïus is forgot ;
His weird, men heed it not ;
Apollo is forsook and faith grows cold.

My lords, ye look amazed to see your queen
With wreaths and gifts of incense in her hands.
I had a mind to visit the high shrines,
For Oedipus is overwrought, alarmed
With terrors manifold. He will not use
His past experience, like a man of sense,
To judge the present need, but lends an ear
To any croaker if he augurs ill.
Since then my counsels nought avail, I turn
To thee, our present help in time of trouble,
Apollo, Lord Lycean, and to thee
My prayers and supplications here I bring.
Lighten us, lord, and cleanse us from this curse !
For now we all are cowed like mariners
Who see their helmsman dumbstruck in the storm.

OEDIPUS THE KING

JOCASTA

Quick, maiden, bear these tidings to my lord.
Ye god-sent oracles, where stand ye now !
This is the man whom Oedipus long shunned,
In dread to prove his murderer ; and now
He dies in nature's course, not by his hand.

Enter OEDIPUS.

OEDIPUS

My wife, my queen, Jocasta, why hast thou
Summoned me from my palace ?

JOCASTA

Hear this man,
And as thou hearest judge what has become
Of all those awe-inspiring oracles.

OEDIPUS

Who is this man, and what his news for me ?

JOCASTA

He comes from Corinth and his message this :
Thy father Polybus hath passed away.

OEDIPUS

What ? let me have it, stranger, from thy mouth

MESSENGER

If I must first make plain beyond a doubt
My message, know that Polybus is dead.

OEDIPUS

By treachery, or by sickness visited ?

MESSENGER

One touch will send an old man to his rest.

OEDIPUS

So of some malady he died, poor man.

MESSENGER

Yes, having measured the full span of years.

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

Out on it, lady ! why should one regard
The Pythian hearth or birds that scream i' the air ?
Did they not point at me as doomed to slay
My father ? but he's dead and in his grave
And here am I who ne'er unsheathed a sword ;
Unless the longing for his absent son
Killed him and so I slew him in a sense.
But, as they stand, the oracles are dead—
Dust, ashes, nothing, dead as Polybus.

JOCASTA

Say, did not I foretell this long ago ?

OEDIPUS

Thou didst : but I was misled by my fear.

JOCASTA

Then let it no more weigh upon thy soul.

OEDIPUS

Must I not fear my mother's marriage bed.

JOCASTA

Why should a mortal man, the sport of chance,
With no assured foreknowledge, be afraid ?
Best live a careless life from hand to mouth.
This wedlock with thy mother fear not thou.
How oft it chances that in dreams a man
Has wed his mother ! He who least regards
Such brainsick phantasies lives most at ease.

OEDIPUS

I should have shared in full thy confidence,
Were not my mother living ; since she lives
Though half convinced I still must live in dread.

JOCASTA

And yet thy sire's death lights our darkness much.

Much, but my fear is touching her who lives.

MESSENGER

Who may this woman be whom thus you fear?

OEDIPUS

Meropè, stranger, wife of Polybus.

MESSENGER

And what of her can cause you any fear?

OEDIPUS

A heaven-sent oracle of dread import.

MESSENGER

A mystery, or may a stranger hear it?

OEDIPUS

Aye, 'tis no secret. Loxias once foretold
That I should mate with mine own mother, and Shed with my own hands my own father's blood.
Hence Corinth was for many a year to me
A home far distant; and I throve abroad,
But missed the sweetest sight, my parents' face.

MESSENGER

Was this the fear that exiled thee from home?

OEDIPUS

Yea, and the dread of slaying my own sire.

MESSENGER

Why, since I came to give thee pleasure, King,
Have I not rid thee of this second fear?

OEDIPUS

Well, thou shalt have due guerdon for thy pains.

MESSENGER

Well, I confess what chiefly made me come
Was hope to profit by thy coming home.

OEDIPUS

MESSENGER

OEDIPUS

And is he living still for me to see him?

MESSENGER

His fellow-countrymen should best know that.

OEDIPUS

Doth any bystander among you know
The herd he speaks of, or by seeing him
Afield or in the city? answer straight!
The hour hath come to clear this business up.

No, with such guiding clues I cannot fail
To bring to light the secret of my birth.

JOCASTA

Oh, as thou carest for thy life, give o'er
This quest. Enough the anguish I endure.

OEDIPUS

Be of good cheer ; though I be proved the son
Of a bondwoman, aye, through three descents
Triply a slave, thy honour is unsmirched.

Yet humour me, I pray thee ; do not this.

OEDIPUS

I cannot ; I must probe this matter home.

JOCASTA

'Tis for thy sake I advise thee for the best.

OEDIPUS

[Exit JOCASTA.]

CHORUS

Why, Oedipus, why stung with passionate grief
Hath the queen thus departed ? Much I fear
From this dead calm will burst a storm of woes.

OEDIPUS

Let the storm burst, my fixed resolve still holds,
To learn my lineage, be it ne'er so low.
It may be she with all a woman's pride
Thinks scorn of my base parentage. But I
Who rank myself as Fortune's favourite child,
The giver of good gifts, shall not be shamed.
She is my mother and the changing moons
My brethren, and with them I wax and wane.
Thus sprung why should I fear to trace my birth ?
Nothing can make me other than I am.

CHORUS

(Str.)

If my soul prophetic err not, if my wisdom aught avail,

Thee, Cithaeron, I shall hail,
As the nurse and foster-mother of our Oedipus shall

Ere to-morrow's full moon rises, and exalt thee as

Dance and song shall hymn thy praises, lover of our royal race.

(Ant.)

Child, who bare thee, nymph or goddess? sure thy sire was more than man,

Haply the hill-roamer Pan.

Or did Loxias beget thee, for he haunts the upland wold;

Or Cyllenè's lord, or Bacchus, dweller on the hill-tops cold?

Did some Heliconian Oread give him thee, a newborn joy,

Nymphs with whom he loves to toy?

OEDIPUS

Elders, if I, who never yet before
Have met the man, may make a guess, methinks
I see the herdsman whom we long have sought;
His time-worn aspect matches with the years
Of yonder aged messenger; besides
I seem to recognise the men who bring him
As servants of my own. But you, perchance,
Having in past days known or seen the herd,
May better by sure knowledge my surmise.

CHORUS

I recognise him; one of Laius' house;
A simple hind, but true as any man.

Enter HERDSMAN.

OEDIPUS THE KING

OEDIPUS

And now old man, look up and answer all
I ask thee. Wast thou once of Laius' house?

HERDSMAN

I was, a thrall, not purchased but home-bred.

OEDIPUS

What was thy business? how wast thou employed?

HERDSMAN

The best part of my life I tended sheep.

OEDIPUS

What were the pastures thou didst most frequent?

HERDSMAN

Cithaeron and the neighbouring alps.

OEDIPUS

Then there
Thou must have known yon man, at least by fame?

HERDSMAN

Yon man? in what way? what man dost thou mean?

OEDIPUS

The man here, having met him in past times. . . .

HERDSMAN

Off-hand I cannot call him well to mind.

MESSENGER

No wonder, master. But I will revive
His blunted memories. Sure he can recall
What time together both we drove our flocks,
He two, I one, on the Cithaeron range,
For three long summers; I his mate from spring
Till rose Arcturus; then in winter time
I led mine home, he his to Laius' folds.
Did these things happen as I say, or no?

A child to rear as my own foster-son ?

HERDSMAN

Why dost thou ask this question ? What of that ?

MESSENGER

Friend, he that stands before thee was that child.

HERDSMAN

A plague upon thee ! Hold thy wanton tongue !

OEDIPUS

Softly, old man, rebuke him not ; thy words
Are more deserving chastisement than his.

HERDSMAN

O best of masters, what is my offence ?

OEDIPUS

Not answering what he asks about the child.

HERDSMAN

He speaks at random, babbles like a fool.

OEDIPUS

HERDSMAN

For mercy's sake abuse not an old man.

OEDIPUS

OEDIPUS

Why didst thou give it then to this old man ?

HERDSMAN

Through pity, master, for the babe. I thought
He'd take it to the country whence he came;
But he preserved it for the worst of woes.
For if thou art in sooth what this man saith,
God pity thee ! thou wast to misery born.

OEDIPUS

Ah me ! ah me ! all brought to pass, all true !
O light, may I behold thee nevermore !

Races of mortal man (Str. 1)

Whose life is but a span,

I count ye but the shadow of a shade!

For he who most doth know

Of bliss, hath but the show;

A moment, and the visions pale and fade.

Thy fall, O Oedipus, thy piteous fall!

Warns me none born of woman blest to call.

For he of marksmen best, (Ant. 1)

O Zeus, outshot the rest,

And won the prize supreme of wealth and power.

By him the vulture maid

Was quelled, her witchery laid;

He rose our saviour and the land's strong tower.

We hailed thee king and from that day adored

Of mighty Thebes the universal lord.

O heavy hand of fate! (Str. 2)

Who now more desolate,

Whose tale more sad than thine, whose lot more dire?

O Oedipus, discrowned head,

Thy cradle was thy marriage bed;

One harbourage sufficed for son and sire.

How could the soil thy father eared so long

Endure to bear in silence such a wrong?

The son and sire commingled in one bed.
O child of Latus' ill-starred race

Yet, sooth to say, through thee I drew new breath,
And now through thee I feel a second death.

Most grave and reverend senators of Thebes,
What deeds ye soon must hear, what sights behold !
How will ye mourn, if, true-born patriots,
Ye reverence still the race of Labdaens !
Not Ister nor all Phasis' flood, I ween,
Could wash away the blood-stains from this house,
The ills it shrouds or soon will bring to light,
Ills wrought of malice, not unwittingly.
The worst to bear are self-inflicted wounds.

CHORUS

Grievous enough for all our tears and groans
Our past calamities ; what canst thou add ?

OEDIPUS THE KING

SECOND MESSENGER

By her own hand. And all the horror of it,
Not having seen, thou canst not apprehend.
Nathless, as far as my poor memory serves,
I will relate the unhappy lady's woe.
When in her frenzy she had passed inside
The vestibule, she hurried straight to win
The bridal-chamber, clutching at her hair
With both her hands, and, once within the room,
She shut the doors behind her with a crash.
“Laïus,” she cried, and called her husband dead
Long, long ago ; her thought was of that child
By him begot, the son by whom the sire
Was murdered and the mother left to breed
With her own seed, a monstrous progeny.
Then she bewailed the marriage bed whereon
Poor wretch, she had conceived a double brood,
Husband by husband, children by her child.
What happened after that I cannot tell,
Nor how the end befel, for with a shriek
Burst on us Oedipus ; all eyes were fixed
On Oedipus, as up and down he strode,
Nor could we mark her agony to the end.
For stalking to and fro “A sword !” he cried,
“Where is the wife, no wife, the teeming womb
That bore a double harvest, me and mine ? ”
And in his frenzy some supernal power
(No mortal, surely, none of us who watched him)
Guided his footsteps ; with a terrible shriek,
As though one beckoned him, he crashed against
The folding doors, and from their staples forced
The wrenchèd bolts and hurled himself within.
Then we beheld the woman hanging there,
A running noose entwined about her neck.

OEDIPUS THE KING

But when he saw her, with a maddened roar
He loosed the cord ; and when her wretched corpse
Lay stretched on earth, what followed—O 'twas dread !

He tore the golden brooches that upheld
Her queenly robes, upraised them high and smote
Full on his eye-balls, uttering words like these :
“ No more shall ye behold such sights of woe,
Deeds I have suffered and myself have wrought ;
Henceforward quenched in darkness shall ye see
Those ye should ne'er have seen; now blind to those Whom, when I saw, I vainly yearned to know.”

Such was the burden of his moan, whereto,
Not once but oft he struck with hand uplift
His eyes, and at each stroke the ensanguined orbs
Bedewed his beard, not oozing drop by drop,
But one black gory downpour, thick as hail.
Such evils, issuing from the double source,
Have whelmed them both, confounding man and wife.
Till now the storied fortune of this house
Was fortunate indeed ; but from this day
Woe, lamentation, ruin, death, disgrace,
All ills that can be named, all, all are theirs.

CHORUS

But hath he still no respite from his pain ?

SECOND MESSENGER

He cries, “ Unbar the doors and let all Thebes Behold the slayer of his sire, his mother's —”
That shameful word my lips may not repeat.
He vows to fly self-banished from the land,
Nor stay to bring upon his house the curse
Himself had uttered ; but he has no strength

Nor one to guide him, and his torture's more
Than man can suffer, as yourselves will see.
For lo, the palace portals are unbarred,
And soon ye shall behold a sight so sad
That he who most abhorred would pity it.

Enter OEDIPUS blinded.

CHORUS

Woeful sight ! more woeful none
These sad eyes have looked upon.
Whence this madness ? None can tell
Who did cast on thee his spell,

On thy misery to look ?
Though to gaze on thee I yearn,
Much to question, much to learn,
Horror-struck away I turn.

No marvel if in such a plight thou feel'st
The double weight of past and present woes.

QEDUITIS

(Ant. 1)

Ah friend, still loyal, constant still and kind,
Thou carest for the blind.
I know thee near, and though bereft of eyes,
Thy voice I recognise.

CHORUS

O doer of dread deeds, how couldst thou mar
Thy vision thus? What demon goaded thee?

OKDIPUS

Apollo, friends, Apollo, he it was
That brought these ills to pass ;
But the right hand that dealt the blow
Was mine, none other. How
How could I longer see when sight
Brought no delight ?

CHORUS

Alas ! 'tis as thou sayest.

OEDIPUS

Say, friends, can any look or voice
Or touch of love henceforth my heart rejoice?
Haste, friends, no fond delay,
Take the twice cursed away
Far from all ken,
The man abhorred of gods, accursed of men.

OEDIPUS THE KING

A parent's eyes. What, born as mine were born ?
No, such a sight could never bring me joy ;
Nor this fair city with its battlements,
Its temples and the statues of its gods,
Sights from which I, now wretchedst of all,
Once ranked the foremost Theban in all Thebes,
By my own sentence am cut off, condemned
By my own proclamation 'gainst the wretch,
The miscreant by heaven itself declared
Unclean—and of the race of Latus.
Thus branded as a felon by myself,
How had I dared to look you in the face ?
Nay, had I known a way to choke the springs
Of hearing, I had never shrunk to make
A dungeon of this miserable frame,
Cut off from sight and hearing ; for 'tis bliss
To bide in regions sorrow cannot reach.
Why didst thou harbour me, Cithaeron, why
Didst thou not take and slay me ? Then I never Had shown to men the secret of my birth.
O Polybus, O Corinth, O my home,
Home of my ancestors (so wast thou called)
How fair a nursing then I seemed, how foul
The canker that lay festering in the bud !
Now is the blight revealed of root and fruit.
Ye triple high-roads, and thou hidden glen,
Coppice, and pass where meet the three-branched ways,
Ye drank my blood, the life-blood these hands spilt,
My father's ; do ye call to mind perchance
Those deeds of mine ye witnessed and the work
I wrought thereafter when I came to Thebes ?
O fatal wedlock, thou didst give me birth,

And, having borne me, sowed again my seed,
Mingling the blood of fathers, brothers, children,
Brides, wives and mothers, an incestuous brood,
All horrors that are wrought beneath the sun,
Horrors so foul to name them were unmeet.
O, I adjure you, hide me anywhere
Far from this land, or slay me straight, or cast me
Down to the depths of ocean out of sight.
Come hither, deign to touch an abject wretch ;
Draw near and fear not ; I myself must bear
The load of guilt that none but I can share.

But shame upon you ! if ye feel no sense
Of human decencies, at least revere

For it is seemly that a kinsman's woes
Be heard by kin and seen by kin alone.

A shock of glad surprise—so noble thou,
And I so vile—O grant me one small boon.
I ask it not on my behalf, but thine.

CREON

And what the favour thou wouldest crave of me ?

OEDIPUS

Forth from thy borders thrust me with all speed ;
Set me within some vasty desert where
No mortal voice shall greet me any more.

CREON

This had I done already, but I deemed
It first behoved me to consult the god.

OEDIPUS

His will was set forth plainly—to destroy
The godless parricide ; and I am he.

CREON

Yea, so he spake, but in our present plight
'Twere better to consult the god anew.

OEDIPUS

Dare ye inquire concerning such a wretch ?

CREON

Yea, for thyself wouldest credit now his word.

OEDIPUS

Aye, and on thee in all humility
I lay this charge : let her who lies within Receive such burial as thou shalt ordain ;
Such rites 'tis thine, as brother, to perform.
But for myself, O never let my Thebes,
The city of my sires, be doomed to bear
The burden of my presence while I live.

OEDIPUS THE KING

No, let me be a dweller on the hills,
On yonder mount Cithaeron, famed as mine,
My tomb predestined for me by my sire
And mother, while they lived, that I may die
Slain as they sought to slay me, when alive.
This much I know full surely, nor disease
Shall end my days, nor any common chance ;
For I had ne'er been snatched from death, unless
I was predestined to some awful doom.

So be it. I reck not how Fate deals with me.
But my unhappy children—for my sons
Be not concerned, O Creon, they are men,
And for themselves, where'er they be, can fend.
But for my daughters twain, poor innocent maids,
Who ever sat beside me at the board
Sharing my viands, drinking of my cup,
For them, I pray thee, care, and, if thou willst,
O might I feel their touch and make my moan.
Hear me, O prince, my noble-hearted prince !
Could I but blindly touch them with my hands,
I'd think they still were mine, as when I saw.
What say I? can it be my pretty ones
Whose sobs I hear? Has Creon pitied me
And sent me my two darlings? Can this be?

CREON

'Tis true ; 'twas I procured thee this delight,
Knowing the joy they were to thee of old.

OEDIPUS

God speed thee! and as meed for bringing them
May Providence deal with thee kindlier
Than it has dealt with me! O children mine,
Where are ye? Let me clasp you with these hands,
A brother's hands, a father's; hands that made

OEDIPUS THE KING

Lack-lustre sockets of his once bright eyes ;
Hands of a man who blindly, recklessly,
Became your sire by her from whom he sprang.
Though I cannot behold you, I must weep
In thinking of the evil days to come,
The slights and wrongs that men will put upon you.
Where'er ye go to feast or festival,
No merrymaking will it prove for you,
But oft abashed in tears ye will return.
And when ye come to marriageable years,
Where's the bold wooer who will jeopardize
To take unto himself such disrepute
As to my children's children still must cling ;
For what of infamy is lacking here ?
“ Their father slew his father, sowed the seed
Where he himself was gendered, and begat
These maidens at the source wherefrom he sprang.”
Such are the gibes that men will cast at you.
Who then will wed you ? None, I ween, but ye
Must pine, poor maids, in single barrenness.
O Prince, Menoeceus' son, to thee I turn,
With thee it rests to father them, for we
Their natural parents, both of us, are lost.
O leave them not to wander poor, unwed,
Thy kin, nor let them share my low estate.
O pity them so young, and but for thee
All destitute. Thy hand upon it, Prince.
To you, my children I had much to say,

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

ARGUMENT

OEDIPUS, the blind and banished King of Thebes, has come in his wanderings to Colonus, a deme of Athens, led by his daughter Antigone. He sits to rest on a rock just within the sacred grove of the Furies and is bidden depart by a passing native. But Oedipus, instructed by an oracle that he had reached his final resting-place, refuses to stir, and the stranger consents to go and consult the Elders of Colonus (the Chorus of the Play). Conducted to the spot they pity at first the blind beggar and his daughter, but on learning his name they are horror-stricken and order him to quit the land. He appeals to the world-famed hospitality of Athens and hints at the blessings that his coming will confer on the State. They agree to await the decision of King Theseus. From Theseus Oedipus craves protection in life and burial in Attic soil; the benefits that will accrue shall be told later. Theseus departs having promised to aid and befriend him. No sooner has he gone than Creon enters with an armed guard who seize Antigone and carry her off (Ismene, the other sister, they have already captured) and he is about to lay hands on Oedipus, when Theseus, who has heard the tumult, hurries up and, upbraiding Creon for his lawless act, threatens to detain him till he has shown where the captives are and restored them. In the next scene Theseus returns bringing with him the rescued maidens. He informs Oedipus that a stranger who has taken sanctuary at the altar of Poseidon wishes to see him. It is Polyneices who has come to crave his father's forgiveness and blessing, knowing by an oracle that victory will fall to the side that Oedipus espouses. But Oedipus spurns the hypocrite, and invokes a dire curse on both his unnatural sons. A sudden clap of thunder is heard, and as peal follows peal, Oedipus is aware that his hour is come and bids Antigone summon Theseus. Self-guided he leads the way to the spot where death should overtake him, attended by Theseus and his daughters. Halfway he bids his daughters farewell, and what followed none but Theseus knew. He was not (so the Messenger reports) for the gods took him.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Enter the blind OEDIPUS led by his daughter, ANTIGONE.

OEDIPUS

Child of an old blind sire, Antigone,
What region, say, whose city have we reached?
Who will provide to-day with scanty dole
This wanderer? 'Tis little that he craves,
And less obtains—that less enough for me;
For I am taught by suffering to endure,
And the long years that have grown old with me,
And last not least, by true nobility.
My daughter, if thou seest a resting place
On common ground or by some sacred grove,
Stay me and set me down. Let us discover
Where we have come, for strangers must inquire
Of denizens, and do as they are bid.

ANTIGONE

Long-suffering father, Oedipus, the towers
That fence the city still, methinks, are far;
But where we stand is surely holy ground;
A wilderness of laurel, olive, vine;
Within a feathered flock of nightingales
Are warbling. On this native seat of rock
Rest; for an old man thou hast travelled far.

OEDIPUS

Guide these dark steps and seat me there secure.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

ANTIGONE

If time can teach, I need not to be told.

OEDIPUS

Say, prithee, if thou knowest, where we are.

ANTIGONE

Athens I recognise, but not the spot.

OEDIPUS

That much we heard from every wayfarer.

ANTIGONE

Shall I go on and ask about the place ?

OEDIPUS

Yes, daughter, if it be inhabited.

ANTIGONE

Sure there are habitations ; but no need
To leave thee ; yonder is a man hard by.

OEDIPUS

What, moving hitherward and on his way ?

ANTIGONE

Say rather, here already. Ask him straight
The needful questions, for the man is here.

Enter STRANGER.

OEDIPUS

O stranger, as I learn from her whose eyes
Must serve both her and me, that thou art here
On timely quest, and so canst solve our doubts—

STRANGER

First quit that seat, then question me at large :
The spot thou treadest on is holy ground.

OEDIPUS

What is the site, to what god dedicate ?

The Gracious Ones, All-seeing, so our people
Call them, but elsewhere other names are rife.

OEDIPUS

Then may they show their suppliant grace, for I
From this your sanctuary will ne'er depart.

STRANGER

What word is this ?

OEDIPUS

The watchword of my fate.

STRANGER

Nay, 'tis not mine to bid thee hence without
Due warrant and instruction from the State.

OEDIPUS

Now in God's name, O stranger, scorn me not
As a wayfarer ; tell me what I crave.

STRANGER

Ask ; your request shall not be scorned by me.

OEDIPUS

How call you then the place wherein we bide ?

STRANGER

Whate'er I know thou too shalt know ; the place
Is all to great Poseidon consecrate.

Prometheus, has his worship ; but the spot

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Thou treadest, the Brass-footed Threshold named,
Is Athen's bastion, and the neighbouring lands
Claim as their chief and patron yonder knight
Colonus, and in common bear his name.
Such, stranger, is the spot, to fame unknown,
But dear to us its native worshippers.

OEDIPUS

Thou sayest there are dwellers in these parts?

STRANGER

Surely; they bear the name of yonder god.

OEDIPUS

Ruled by a king or by the general voice?

STRANGER

The lord of Athens is our over-lord.

OEDIPUS

Who is this monarch, great in word and might?

STRANGER

Theseus, the son of Aegeus our late king.

OEDIPUS

Might one be sent from you to summon him?

STRANGER

Wherefore? To tell him aught or urge his coming?

OEDIPUS

Say a slight service may avail him much.

STRANGER

How can he profit from a sightless man?

OEDIPUS

The blind man's words will be instinct with sight.

STRANGER

Heed then ; I fain would see thee out of harm ;
For by thy looks, marred though they be by fate,
I judge thee noble : tarry where thou art,
While I go seek the burghers—those at hand,
Not in the city. They will soon decide
Whether thou art to rest or go thy way.

[Exit STRANGER.

OEDIPUS

Tell me, my daughter, has the stranger gone ?

ANTIGONE

Yes, he has gone ; now we are all alone,
And thou may'st speak, dear father, without fear.

OEDIPUS

Stern-visaged queens, since coming to this land
First in your sanctuary I bent the knee,
Frown not on me or Phoebus, who, when erst
He told me all my miseries to come,
Spake of this respite after many years,
Some haven in a far-off land, a rest
Vouchsafed at last by dread divinities.

“ There,” said he, “ shalt thou round thy weary life,
A blessing to the land wherein thou dwell'st,
But to the land that cast thee forth, a curse.”
And of my weird he promised signs should come,
Earthquake, or thunderclap, or lightning flash.
And now I recognise as yours the sign
That led my wanderings to this your grove ;
Else had I never lighted on you first,
A wineless man on you who loathe the grape,
Or set me on your seat of native rock.
O goddesses, fulfil Apollo's word,

Grant me some consummation of my life,
If haply I appear not all too vile,
A thrall to sorrow worse than any slave.
Hear, gentle daughters of primeval Night,
Hear, namesake of great Pallas ; Athens, first
Of cities, pity this dishonoured shade,
The ghost of him who once was Oedipus.

ANTIGONE

Hush ! for I see some grey-beards on their way,
Their errand to spy out our resting-place.

Into the covert from the public road;
Till I have learned their drift. A prudent man
Will ever shape his course by what he learns.

Whither vanished ? search the ground !

Plead with you as a daughter's might.
You are our providence,
O make us not go hence !
O with a gracious nod
Grant us the nigh despaired-of boon we crave !

Hear us, O hear,
By all that ye hold dear,
Wife, children, homestead, hearth and God !
Where will you find one, search ye ne'er so well,
Who 'scapes perdition if a god impel !

CHORUS

Surely we pity thee and him alike
Daughter of Oedipus, for your distress ;
But as we reverence the decrees of Heaven
We cannot say aught other than we said.

OEDIPUS

O what avails renown or fair repute ?
Are they not vanity ? For, look you, now
Athens is held of States the most devout,
Athens alone gives hospitality
And shelters the vexed stranger, so men say.
Have I so found it ? I whom ye dislodged
First from my seat of rock and now would drive
Forth from your land, dreading my name alone ;
For me you surely dread not, nor my deeds,
Deeds of a man more sinned against than sinning,
As I might well convince you, were it meet

To tell my mother's story and my sire's,
The cause of this your fear. Yet am I then
A villain born because in self-defence,
Stricken, I struck the striker back again ?
E'en had I known, no villainy 'twould prove :
But all unwitting whither I went, I went—
To ruin ; my destroyers knew it well,
Wherefore, I pray you, sirs, in Heaven's name,
Even as ye bade me quit my seat, defend me.
O pay not a lip service to the gods
And wrong them of their dues. Bethink ye well,
The eye of Heaven beholds the just of men,
And the unjust, nor ever in this world
Has one sole godless sinner found escape.
Stand then on Heaven's side and never blot
Athens' fair scutcheon by abetting wrong.
I came to you a suppliant, and you pledged
Your honour ; O preserve me to the end,
O let not this marred visage do me wrong !
A holy and god-fearing man is here
Whose coming purports comfort for your folk.
And when your chief arrives, whoe'er he be,
Then shall ye have my story and know all.
Meanwhile I pray you do me no despite.

For the blind stranger as to come himself ?

Ay, that he will, when once he learns thy name.

OEDIPUS

But who will bear him word !

CHORUS

The way is long,
And many travellers pass to speed the news.
Be sure he'll hear and hasten, never fear ;
So wide and far thy name is noised abroad,
That, were he ne'er so spent and loth to move,
He would bestir him when he hears of thee.

Well, may he come with blessing to his State
And me ! Who serves his neighbour serves himself.¹

Are framed and modelled on Egyptian ways.
For there the men sit at the loom indoors
While the wives slave abroad for daily bread.

To bear the burden, stay at home like girls,
While in their stead my daughters moil and drudge,
Lightening their father's misery. The one

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

In drenching rains and under scorching suns,
Careless herself of home and ease, if so
Her sire might have her tender ministry.
And thou, my child, whilom thou wentest forth,
Eluding the Cadmeians' vigilance,
To bring thy father all the oracles
Concerning Oedipus, and didst make thyself
My faithful lieger, when they banished me.
And now what mission summons thee from home,
What news, Ismene, hast thou for thy father ?
This much I know, thou com'st not empty-handed,
Without a warning of some new alarm.

ISMENE

The toil and trouble, father, that I bore
To find thy lodging-place and how thou faredst,
I spare thee ; surely 'twere a double pain
To suffer, first in act and then in telling ;
"Tis the misfortune of thine ill-starred sons
I come to tell thee. At the first they willed
To leave the throne to Creon, minded well
Thus to remove the inveterate curse of old,
A canker that infected all thy race.
But now some god and an infatuate soul
Have stirred betwixt them a mad rivalry
To grasp at sovereignty and kingly power.
To-day the hot-brained youth, the younger born,
Is keeping Polyneices from the throne,
His elder, and has thrust him from the land.
The banished brother (so all Thebes reports)
Fled to the vale of Argos, and by help
Of new alliance there and friends in arms,

ISMENE

Therefore they fain would have thee close at hand,
Not where thou wouldest be master of thyself.

OEDIPUS

Mean they to shroud my bones in Theban dust?

ISMENE

Nay, father, guilt of kinsman's blood forbids.

OEDIPUS

Then never shall they be my masters, never!

ISMENE

Thebes, thou shalt rue this bitterly some day!

OEDIPUS

When what conjunction comes to pass, my child?

ISMENE

Thy angry' wrath, when at thy tomb they stand.¹

¹ Creon desires to bury Oedipus on the confines of Thebes so as to avoid the pollution and yet offer due rites at his tomb. Ismene tells him of the latest oracle and interprets to him its purport, that some day the Theban invaders of Athens will be routed in a battle near the grave of Oedipus.

OEDIPUS

And who hath told thee what thou tell'st me, child ?

ISMENE

Envoy who visited the Delphic hearth.

OEDIPUS

Hath Phoebus spoken thus concerning me ?

ISMENE

So say the envoys who returned to Thebes.

OEDIPUS

And can a son of mine have heard of this ?

ISMENE

Yea, both alike, and know its import well.

OEDIPUS

They knew it, yet the ignoble greed of rule
Outweighed all longing for their sire's return.

ISMENE

Grievous thy words, yet I must own them true.

OEDIPUS

Then may the gods ne'er quench their fatal feud,
And mine be the arbitrament of the fight,
For which they now are arming, spear to spear ;
That neither he who holds the sceptre now
May keep his throne, nor he who fled the realm
Return again. They never raised a hand,
When I their sire was thrust from hearth and home ;
When I was banned and banished, what recked they ?

Say you 'twas done at my desire, a grace
Which the State, yielding to my wish, allowed ?
Not so ; for, mark you, on that very day
When in the tempest of my soul I craved

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Death, even death by stoning, none appeared
To further that wild longing, but anon,
When time had numbed my anguish and I felt
My wrath had all outrun those errors past,
Then, then it was the city went about
By force to oust me, respited for years ;
And they my sons, who should as sons have helped,
Did nothing : and, one little word from them
Was all I needed, and they spoke no word,
But let me wander on for evermore,
A banished man, a beggar. These two maids
Their sisters, girls, gave all their sex could give,
Food and safe harbourage and filial care ;
While their two brethren sacrificed their sire
For lust of power and sceptred sovereignty.
No ! me they ne'er shall win for an ally,
Nor will this Theban kingship bring them gain ;
That know I from this maiden's oracles,
And those old prophecies concerning me,
Which Phoebus now at length has brought to pass.
Come Creon then, come all the mightiest
In Thebes to seek me ; for if ye my friends,
Championed by those dread Powers indigenous,
Espouse my cause ; then for the State ye gain
A great deliverer, for my foemen bane.

CHORUS

Our pity, Oedipus, thou needs must move,
Thou and these maidens ; and the stronger plea

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Made my conjecture doubly sure ; and now
Thy garb and that marred visage prove to me
That thou art he. So pitying thine estate,
Most ill-starred Oedipus, I fain would know
What is the suit ye urge on me and Athens,
Thou and the helpless maiden at thy side.
Declare it ; dire indeed must be the tale
Whereat I should recoil. I too was reared,
Like thee, in exile, and in foreign lands
Wrestled with many perils, no man more.
Wherefore no alien in adversity
Shall seek in vain my succour, nor shalt thou ;
I know myself a mortal, and my share
In what the morrow brings no more than thine.

OEDIPUS

Theseus, thy words so apt, so generous,
So comfortable, need no long reply.
Both who I am and of what lineage sprung,
And from what land I came, thou hast declared.
So without prologue I may utter now
My brief petition, and the tale is told.

THESEUS

Say on, and tell me what I fain would learn.

OEDIPUS

I come to offer thee this woe-worn frame,
A gift not fair to look on ; yet its worth
More precious far than any outward show.

Prince, they would fain convey me back to Thebes.

THESEUS

If there be no compulsion, then methinks
To rest in banishment befits not thee.

OEDIPUS

Nay, when I wished it they would not consent.

THESEUS

For shame! such temper misbecomes the fallen.

OEDIPUS

Chide if thou wilt, but first attend my plea.

THESEUS

Say on, I wait full knowledge ere I judge.

OEDIPUS

O Theseus, I have suffered wrongs on wrongs.

THESEUS

Would'st tell the old misfortune of thy race ?

OEDIPUS

No, that has grown a byword throughout Greece.

THESEUS

What then can be this more than mortal grief ?

OEDIPUS

My case stands thus ; by my own flesh and blood
I was expelled my country, and can ne'er
Thither return again, a parricide.

THESEUS

Why fetch thee home if thou must dwell apart ?

OEDIPUS

The god has spoken ; they must needs obey.

THESEUS

What are they threatened by the oracle ?

OEDIPUS

Destruction that awaits them in this land.

THESEUS

What can beget ill blood 'twixt them and me ?

OEDIPUS

Dear son of Aegeus, to the gods alone
Is given immunity from eld and death ;
But nothing else escapes all-ruinous time.
Earth's might decays, the might of men decays,
Honour grows cold, dishonour flourishes,
There is no constancy 'twixt friend and friend,
Or city and city ; be it soon or late,
Sweet turns to bitter, hate once more to love.
If now 'tis sunshine betwixt Thebes and thee

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

And not a cloud, Time in his endless course
Gives birth to endless days and nights, wherein
The merest nothing shall suffice to cut
With serried spears your bonds of amity.
Then shall my slumbering and buried corse
In its cold grave drink their warm life-blood up,
If Zeus be Zeus and Phoebus still speak true.
No more : 'tis ill to tear aside the veil
Of mysteries ; let me cease as I began :
Enough if thou wilt keep thy plighted troth,
Then shalt thou ne'er complain that Oedipus
Proved an unprofitable and thankless guest,
Except the gods themselves shall play me false.

CHORUS

The man, my lord, has from the very first
Declared his power to offer to our land
These and like benefits.

THESEUS

Who could reject
The proffered amity of such a friend ?
First, he can claim the hospitality
To which by mutual contract we stand pledged :
Next, coming here, a suppliant to the gods,
He pays full tribute to the State and me ;
His favours therefore never will I spurn,
But grant him the full rights of citizen ;
And, if it suits the stranger here to bide,
I place him in your charge, or if he please
Rather to come with me—choose, Oedipus,
Which of the two thou wilt. Thy choice is mine.

Vented in anger oft, are blusterers,
All idle breath, forgot when sense returns.
And for thy foemen, though their words were

Boasting to bring thee back, they are like to find

The spot by no mortal footstep trod,
The pleasureance kept for the Bacchic god,
Where he holds each night his revels wild
With the nymphs who fostered the lusty child.

And fed each morn by the pearly dew (Ant. 1)

 The starred narcissi shine,
And a wreath with the crocus' golden hue
 For the Mother and Daughter twine.
And never the sleepless fountains cease
 That feed Cepheus' stream,
But they swell earth's bosom with quick increase,
 And their wave hath a crystal gleam.
And the Muses' quire will never disdain
To visit this heaven-favoured plain,
Nor the Cyprian queen of the golden rein.

(Str. 2)

And here there grows, unpruned, untamed,
 Terror to foemen's spear,
A tree in Asian soil unnamed,
By Pelops' Dorian isle unclaimed,
 Self-nurtured year by year ;
'Tis the grey-leaved olive that feeds our boys ;
Nor youth nor withering age destroys
The plant that the Olive Planter tends
And the Grey-eyed Goddess herself defends.

Yet another gift, of all gifts the most Prized by our fatherland, we boast—

For the mouth of horses the iron bit ;

Swift as the Nereids' hundred feet
As they dance along the brine.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Fear nothing and refrain from angry words.
I come with no ill purpose ; I am old,
And know the city whither I am come,
Without a peer amongst the powers of Greece.
It was by reason of my years that I
Was chosen to persuade your guest and bring Him back to Thebes ; not the delegate
Of one man, but commissioned by the State,
Since of all Thebans I have most bewailed,
Being his kinsman, his most grievous woes.
O listen to me, luckless Oedipus,
Come home ! The whole Cadmeian people claim
With right to have thee back, I most of all,
For most of all (else were I vile indeed)
I mourn for thy misfortunes, seeing thee
An aged outcast, wandering on and on,
A beggar with one handmaid for thy stay.
Ah ! who had e'er imagined she could fall
To such a depth of misery as this,
To tend in penury thy stricken frame,
A virgin ripe for wedlock, but unwed,
A prey for any wanton ravisher ?
Seems it not cruel this reproach I cast
On thee and on myself and all the race ?
Aye, but an open shame cannot be hid.
Hide it, O hide it, Oedipus, thou canst.
O, by our fathers' gods, consent I pray ;
Come back to Thebes, come to thy father's home,
Bid Athens, as is meet, a fond farewell ;
Thebes thy old foster-mother claims thee first.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

OEDIPUS

O front of brass, thy subtle tongue would twist
To thy advantage every plea of right.
Why try thy arts on me, why spread again
Toils where 'twould gall me sorest to be snared ?
In old days when by self-wrought woes distraught,
I yearned for exile as a glad release,
Thy will refused the favour then I craved.
But when my frenzied grief had spent its force,
And I was fain to taste the sweets of home,
Then thou would'st thrust me from my country, then
These ties of kindred were by thee ignored ;
And now again when thou behold'st this State
And all its kindly people welcome me,
Thou seek'st to part us, wrapping in soft words
Hard thoughts. And yet what pleasure canst thou find
In forcing friendship on unwilling foes ?
Suppose a man refused to grant some boon
When you importuned him, and afterwards
When you had got your heart's desire, consented,
Granting a grace from which all grace had fled,
Would not such favour seem an empty boon ?
Yet such the boon thou profferest now to me,
Fair in appearance, but when tested false.
Yea, I will prove thee false, that these may hear ;
Thou art come to take me, not to take me home,
But plant me on thy borders, that thy State
May so escape annoyance from this land.—
That thou shalt never gain, but this instead—
My ghost to haunt thy country without end ;
And for my sons, this heritage—no more—
Just room to die in. Have not I more skill
Than thou to draw the horoscope of Thebes ?

OEDIPUS

I shall be well contented if thy suit
Fails with these strangers, as it has with me.

CREON

Unhappy man, will years ne'er make thee wise ?
Must thou live on to cast a slur on age ?

OEDIPUS

Thou hast a glib tongue, but no honest man,
Methinks, can argue well on any side.

CREON

'Tis one thing to speak much, another well.

OEDIPUS

Thy words, forsooth, are few and all well aimed !

CREON

Not for a man indeed with wits like thine.

OEDIPUS

Depart ! I bid thee in these burghers' name,
And prowl no longer round me to blockade
My destined harbour.

OEDIPUS

From the altar of Poseidon, lord of your Colonus ? Say !
On what errand have I hurried hither without stop

OEDIPUS

Dear friend—those accents tell me who thou art,
Yon man but now hath done me a foul wrong.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

To where the paths that packmen use diverge,
Lest the two maidens slip away, and I
Become a mockery to this my guest,
As one despoiled by force. Quick, as I bid.
As for this stranger, had I let my rage,
Justly provoked, have play, he had not 'scaped
Scathless and uncorrected at my hands.
But now the laws to which himself appealed,
These and none other shall adjudicate.
Thou shalt not quit this land, till thou hast fetched
The maidens and produced them in my sight.
Thou hast offended both against myself
And thine own race and country. Having come
Unto a State that champions right and asks
For every action warranty of law,
Thou hast set aside the custom of the land,
And like some freebooter art carrying off
What plunder pleases thee, as if forsooth
Thou thoughtest this a city without men,
Or manned by slaves, and me a thing of naught.
Yet not from Thebes this villainy was learnt;
Thebes is not wont to breed unrighteous sons,
Nor would she praise thee, if she learnt that thou
Wert robbing me—aye and the gods to boot,
Haling by force their suppliants, poor maids.
Were I on Theban soil, to prosecute
The justest claim imaginable, I
Would never wrest by violence my own
Without the sanction of your State or King;
I should behave as fits an outlander
Living amongst a foreign folk, but thou
Shamest a city that deserves it not,
Even thine own, and plenitude of years
Have made of thee an old man and a fool.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Therefore again I charge thee as before,
See that the maidens are restored at once,
Unless thou would'st continue here by force
And not by choice a sojourner ; so much
I tell thee home and what I say, I mean.

CHORUS

Thy case is perilous ; though by birth and race
Thou should'st be just, thou plainly doest wrong.

CREON

Not deeming this a city void of men
Or counsel, son of Aegeus, as thou say'st,
I did what I have done ; rather I thought
Your people were not like to set such store
By kin of mine and keep them 'gainst my will.
Nor would they harbour, so I stood assured,
A godless parricide, a reprobate
Convicted of incestuous marriage ties.
For on her native hill of Ares here
(I knew your far-famed Areopagus)
Sits Justice, and permits not vagrant folk
To stay within your borders. In that faith
I hunted down my quarry ; and e'en then
I had refrained but for the curses dire
Wherewith he banned my kinsfolk and myself :
Such wrong, methought, had warrant for my act.
Anger has no old age but only death ;
The dead alone can feel no touch of spite.
So thou must work thy will ; my cause is just
But weak without allies ; yet will I try,
Old as I am, to answer deeds with deeds.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

OEDIPUS

O shameless railer, think'st thou this abuse
Defames my grey hairs rather than thine own ?
Murder and incest, deeds of horror, all
Thou blurtest forth against me, all I have borne,
No willing sinner ; so it pleased the gods
Wrath haply with my sinful race of old,
Since thou could'st find no sin in me myself
For which in retribution I was doomed
To trespass thus against myself and mine.
Answer me now, if by some oracle
My sire was destined to a bloody end
By a son's hand, can this reflect on me,
Me then unborn, begotten by no sire,
Conceive'd in no mother's womb ? And if
When born to misery, as born I was,
I met my sire, not knowing whom I met
Or what I did, and slew him, how canst thou
With justice blame the all-unconscious hand ?
And for my mother, wretch, art not ashamed,
Seeing she was thy sister, to extort
From me the story of her marriage, such
A marriage as I straightway will proclaim.
For I will speak ; thy lewd and impious speech
Has broken all the bonds of reticence.
She was, ah woe is me ! she was my mother ;
I knew it not, nor she ; and she my mother
Bare children to the son whom she had borne,
A birth of shame. But this at least I know,
Wittingly thou asperkest her and me ;
But I unwitting wed, unwilling speak.
Nay neither in this marriage nor this deed
Which thou art ever casting in my teeth—
A murdered sire—shall I be held to blame.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Come, answer me one question, if thou canst:
If one should presently attempt thy life,
Would'st thou, O man of justice, first enquire
If the assassin was perchance thy sire,
Or turn upon him? As thou lov'st thy life,
On thy aggressor thou would'st turn, nor stay
Debating, if the law would bear thee out.
Such was my case, and such the pass whereto
The gods reduced me; and methinks my sire,
Could he come back to life, would not dissent.
Yet thou, for just thou art not, but a man
Who sticks at nothing, if it serve his plea,
Reproachest me with this before these men.
It serves thy turn to laud great Theseus' name,
And Athens as a wisely governed State;
Yet in thy flatteries one thing is to seek:
If any land knows how to pay the gods
Their proper rites, 'tis Athens most of all.
This is the land whence thou wast fain to steal
Their aged suppliant and hast carried off
My daughters. Therefore to yon goddesses,
I turn, adjure them and invoke their aid
To champion my cause, that thou mayst learn
What is the breed of men who guard this State.

CHORUS

An honest man, my liege, one sore bestead
By fortune, and so worthy our support.

THESEUS

Enough of words; the captors speed amain,
While we the victims stand debating here.

CREON

What would'st thou? What can I, a feeble man?

THESEUS

Show us the trail, and I'll attend thee too,
That, if thou hast the maidens hereabouts,
Thou mayst thyself discover them to me ;
But if thy guards outstrip us with their spoil,
We may draw rein ; for others speed, from whom
They will not 'scape to thank the gods at home.
Lead on, I say, the captor's caught, and fate
Hath ta'en the fowler in the toils he spread ;
So soon are lost gains gotten by deceit.
And look not for allies ; I know indeed
Such height of insolence was never reached
Without abettors or accomplices ;
Thou hast some backer in thy bold essay,
But I will search this matter home and see
One man doth not prevail against the State.
Dost take my drift, or seem these words as vain
As seemed our warnings when the plot was hatched ?

CREON

Nothing thou sayest can I here dispute,
But once at home I too shall act my part.

THESEUS

Threaten us and—begone ! Thou, Oedipus,
Stay here assured that nothing save my death
Will stay my purpose to restore the maids.

OEDIPUS

Heaven bless thee, Theseus, for thy nobleness
And all thy loving care in my behalf.

CHORUS

O when the flying foe, (Sh. 1)
Turning at last to bay,
Soon will give blow for blow,
Might I behold the fray ;
Hear the loud battle roar
Swell, on the Pythian shore,
Or by the torch-lit bay,
Where the dread Queen and Maid
Cherish the mystic rites,
Rites they to none betray,
Ere on his lips is laid
Secrecy's golden key
By their own acolytes,
Priestly Eumolpidae.

There I might chance behold
Theseus our captain bold
Meet with the robber band,
Ere they have fled the land,
Rescue by might and main
Maidens, the captives twain.

Haply on swiftest steed, (Ant. 1)
Or in the flying car,
Now they approach the glen,
West of white Oea's scaur.
They will be vanquishèd :
Dread are our warriors, dread
Theseus our chieftain's men.
Flashes each bridle bright,
Charges each gallant knight,
All that our Queen adore,

Pallas their patron, or
Him whose wide floods enring
Earth, the great Ocean-king
Whom Rhea bore.

Fight they or now prepare
To fight? a vision rare
Tells me that soon again
I shall behold the twain
Maidens so ill bestead,
By their kin buffeted.

To-day; to-day Zeus worketh some great thing
This day shall victory bring.

O for the wings, the wings of a dove,
To be borne with the speed of the gale,
Up and still upwards to sail

And gaze on the fray from the clouds above.

All-seeing Zeus, O lord of heaven,
To our guardian host be given
Might triumphant to surprise
Flying foes and win their prize.
Hear us, Zeus, and hear us, child
Of Zeus, Athenè undefiled,
Hear, Apollo, hunter, hear,
Huntress, sister of Apollo,
Who the dappled swift-foot deer
O'er the wooded glade dost follow ;
Help with your two-fold power
Athens in danger's hour !

O wayfarer, thou wilt not have to tax
The friends who watch for thee with false presage,
For lo, an escort with the maids draws near.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Cling to me, press me close on either side,
There rest ye from your dreary wayfaring.
Now tell me of your ventures, but in brief ;
Brief speech suffices for young maids like you.

ANTIGONE

Here is our saviour ; thou should'st hear the tale
From his own lips ; so shall my part be brief.

OEDIPUS

I pray thee do not wonder if the sight
Of children, given o'er for lost, has made
My converse somewhat long and tedious.
Full well I know the joy I have of them
Is due to thee, to thee and no man else ;
Thou wast their sole deliverer, none else.
The gods deal with thee after my desire,
With thee and with this land ! for fear of heaven
I found above all peoples most with you,
And righteousness and lips that cannot lie.
I speak in gratitude of what I know,
For all I have I owe to thee alone.
Give me thy hand, O Prince, that I may touch it,
And if thou wilt permit me, kiss thy cheek.
What say I ? Can I wish that thou should'st touch
One fallen like me to utter wretchedness,
Corrupt and tainted with a thousand ills ?
Oh no, I would not let thee if thou would'st.
They only who have known calamity
Can share it. Let me greet thee where thou art,
And still befriend me as thou hast till now.

THESEUS

I marvel not if thou hast dallied long
In converse with thy children and preferred
Their speech to mine; I feel no jealousy,
I would be famous more by deeds than words.
Of this, old friend, thou hast had proof; my oath
I have fulfilled and brought thee back the maids
Alive and nothing harmed for all those threats.
And how the fight was won, 'twere waste of words
To boast—thy daughters here will tell thee all.
But of a matter that has lately chanced
On my way hitherward, I fain would have Thy counsel—slight 'twould seem, yet worthy thought.
A wise man heeds all matters great or small.

OEDIPUS

What is it, son of Aegeus? Let me hear.

THESEUS

But he hath found asylum. O beware,
And fail not in due reverence to the god.

ANTIGONE

O heed me, father, though I am young in years.
Let the prince have his will and pay withal
What in his eyes is service to the god ;
For our sake also let our brother come.
If what he urges tend not to thy good
He cannot surely wrest perforce thy will.
To hear him then, what harm ? By open words
A scheme of villainy is soon bewrayed.
Thou art his father, therefore canst not pay
In kind a son's most impious outrages.
O listen to him ; other men like thee
Have thankless children and are choleric,
But yielding to persuasion's gentle spell
They let their savage mood be exorcised.
Look thou to the past, forget the present, think
On all the woe thy sire and mother brought thee ;
Thence wilt thou draw this lesson without fail,
Of evil passion evil is the end.
Thou hast, alas, to prick thy memory,
Stern monitors, these ever-sightless orbs.
O yield to us ; just suitors should not need
To be importunate, nor he that takes
A favour lack the grace to make return.

OEDIPUS

Grievous to me, my child, the boon ye win
By pleading. Let it be then; have your way.
Only if come he must, I beg thee, friend,
Let none have power to dispose of me.

THESEUS

No need, Sir, to appeal a second time.
It likes me not to boast, but be assured
Thy life is safe while any god saves mine.

[Exit THESEUS.]

CHORUS

(Str.)

Who craves excess of days,
Scorning the common span
Of life, I judge that man
A giddy wight who walks in folly's ways.
For the long years heap up a grievous load,
Scant pleasures, heavier pains,
Till not one joy remains
For him who lingers on life's weary road.
And come it slow or fast,
One doom of fate
Doth all await,
For dance and marriage bell,
The dirge and funeral knell.
Death the deliverer freeth all at last.

(Ant.)

Not to be born at all
Is best, far best that can befall,
Next best, when born, with least delay,
To trace the backward way.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

For when youth passes with its giddy train,
Troubles on troubles follow, toils on toils,
 Pain, pain for ever pain ;
 And none escapes life's coils.
 Envy, sedition, strife,
Carnage and war, make up the tale of life.
Last comes the worst and most abhorred stage
 Of unregarded age,
Joyless, companionless and slow,
 Of woes the crowning woe.

(Epode)

Such ills not I alone,
He too our guest hath known,
E'en as some headland on an iron-bound shore,
Lashed by the wintry blasts and surge's roar,
So is he buffeted on every side
By drear misfortune's whelming tide,
 By every wind of heaven o'erborne
 Some from the sunset, some from orient morn,
 Some from the noonday glow.
Some from Rhipean gloom of everlasting snow.

ANTIGONE

Father, methinks I see the stranger coming,
Alone he comes and weeping plenteous tears.

POLYNEICES

Ah me, my sisters, shall I first lament
My own afflictions, or my aged sire's,
Whom here I find a castaway, with you,
In a strange land, an ancient beggar clad
In antic tatters, marring all his frame,
While o'er the sightless orbs his unkempt locks
Float in the breeze ; and, as it were to match,
He bears a wallet against hunger's pinch.
All this too late I learn, wretch that I am,
Alas ! I own it, and am proved most vile
In my neglect of thee : I scorn myself.
But as almighty Zeus in all he doth
Hath Mercy for co-partner of his throne,
Let Mercy, father, also sit enthroned
In thy heart likewise. For transgressions past
May be amended, cannot be made worse.

Why silent ? Father, speak, nor turn away,
Hast thou no word, wilt thou dismiss me then
In mute disdain, nor tell me why thou art wrath ?
O ye his daughters, sisters mine, do ye
This sullen, obstinate silence try to move.
Let him not spurn, without a single word
Of answer, me the suppliant of the god.

POLYNEICES

Well dost thou counsel, and I will speak out.
First will I call in aid the god himself,
Poseidon, from whose altar I was raised,
With warrant from the monarch of this land,
To parley with you, and depart unscathed.
These pledges, strangers, I would see observed
By you and by my sisters and my sire.
Now, father, let me tell thee why I came.
I have been banished from my native land
Because by right of primogeniture
I claimed possession of thy sovereign throne
Wherfrom Eteocles, my younger brother,
Ousted me, not by weight of precedent,
Nor by the last arbitrament of war,
But by his popular acts ; and the prime cause
Of this I deem the curse that rests on thee.
So likewise hold the soothsayers, for when I came to Argos in the Dorian land
And took the king Adrastus' child to wife,
Under my standard I enlisted all
The foremost captains of the Apian isle,
To levy with their aid that sevenfold host
Of spearmen against Thebes, determining
To oust my foes or die in a just cause.
Why then, thou askest, am I here to-day ?
Father, I come a suppliant to thee
Both for myself and my allies who now
With squadrons seven beneath their seven spears

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Beleaguer all the plain that circles Thebes.
Foremost the peerless warrior, peerless seer,
Amphiaraüs with his lightning lance ;
Next an Aetolian, Tydeus, Oeneus' son ;
Eteoclus of Argive birth the third ;
The fourth Hippomedon, sent to the war
By his sire Talaos ; Capaneus, the fifth,
Vaunts he will fire and raze the town ; the sixth
Parthenopaeus, an Arcadian born
Named of that maid, longtime a maid and late
Espousèd, Atalanta's true-born child ;
Last I thy son, or thine at least in name,
If but the bastard of an evil fate,
Lead against Thebes the fearless Argive host.
Thus by thy children and thy life, my sire,
We all adjure thee to remit thy wrath
And favour one who seeks a just revenge
Against a brother who has banned and robbed him.
For victory, if oracles speak true,
Will fall to those who have thee for ally.
So, by our fountains and familiar gods
I pray thee, yield and hear ; a beggar I
And exile, thou an exile likewise ; both
Involved in one misfortune find a home
As pensioners, while he, the lord of Thebes,
O agony ! makes mock of thee and me.
I'll scatter with a breath the upstart's might,
And bring thee home again and stablish thee,
And stablish, having cast him out, myself.

Without it I can scarce return alive.

CHORUS

For the king's sake who sent him, Oedipus,
Dismiss him not without a meet reply.

OEDIPUS

Nay, worthy seniors, but for Theseus' sake
Who sent him hither to have word of me,
Never again would he have heard my voice ;
But now he shall obtain this parting grace,
An answer that will bring him little joy.
O villain, when thou hadst the sovereignty
That now thy brother holdeth in thy stead,
Didst thou not drive me, thine own father, out,
An exile, cityless, and make me wear
This beggar's garb thou weepest to behold,
Now thou art come thyself to my sad plight ?
Nothing is here for tears ; it must be borne
By me till death, and I shall think of thee
As of my murderer ; thou didst thrust me out ;
'Tis thou hast made me conversant with woe,
Through thee I beg my bread in a strange land ;
And had not these my daughters tended me
I had been dead for aught of aid from thee.
They tend me, they preserve me, they are men
Not women in true service to their sire ;
But ye are bastards, and no sons of mine.
Therefore just Heaven hath an eye on thee ;
Howbeit not yet with aspect so austere
As thou shalt soon experience, if indeed
These banded hosts are moving against Thebes.

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

That city thou canst never storm, but first
Shalt fall, thou and thy brother, blood-imbruued.
Such curse I lately launched against you twain,
Such curse I now invoke to fight for me,
That ye may learn to honour those who bare thee
Nor flout a sightless father who begat
Degenerate sons—these maidens did not so.
Therefore my curse is stronger than thy “throne,”
Thy “suppliance,” if by right of laws eterne
Primeval Justice sits enthroned with Zeus.
Begone, abhorred, disowned, no son of mine,
Thou vilest of the vile ! and take with thee
This curse I leave thee as my last bequest :—
Never to win by arms thy native land,
No, nor return to Argos in the Vale,
But by a kinsman’s hand to die and slay
Him who expelled thee. So I pray and call
On the ancestral gloom of Tartarus
To snatch thee hence, on these dread goddesses
I call, and Ares who incensed you both
To mortal enmity. Go now proclaim
What thou hast heard to the Cadmeians all,
Thy staunch confederates—this the heritage
That Oedipus divideth to his sons.

CHORUS

Thy errand, Polyneices, liked me not
From the beginning ; now go back with speed.

Woe worth my comrades ! What a desperate end

And ruin not thyself and Thebes as well.

ANTIGONE

But, brother, why shouldst thou be wroth again?
What profit from thy country's ruin comes?

Make your path bright if ye fulfil my hest
When dead ; in life ye cannot serve me more.
Now let me go, farewell, a long farewell !
Ye ne'er shall see my living face again.

Myself anon without a guiding hand
Will take thee to the spot where I must end.
This secret ne'er reveal to mortal man,
Neither the spot nor whereabouts it lies,
So shall it ever serve thee for defence
Better than native shields and near allies.
But those dread mysteries speech may not profane
Thyself shalt gather coming there alone ;
Since not to any of thy subjects, nor
To my own children, though I love them dearly,
Can I reveal what thou must guard alone,
And whisper to thy chosen heir alone,
So to be handed down from heir to heir.
Thus shalt thou hold this land inviolate
From the dread Dragon's brood.¹ The justest

For the gods, though they tarry, mark for doom
The godless sinner in his mad career.

Thou knowest, yet I would admonish thee.
But to the spot—the god within me goads—
Let us set forth nor longer hesitate.
Follow me, daughters, this way. Strange that I
Whom ye have led so long should lead you now.
Oh, touch me not, but let me all alone
Find out the sepulchre that destiny
Appoints me in this land. Hither, this way,
For this way Hermes leads, the spirit guide,
And Persephassa, empress of the dead.
O light, no light to me, but mine erewhile,
Now the last time I feel thee palpable,
For I am drawing near the final gloom
Of Hades. Blessing on thee, dearest friend,
On thee and on thy land and followers !
Live prosperous and in your happy state
Still for your welfare think on me, the dead.

Earth-rooted Threshold with its brazen stairs,
He paused at one of the converging paths,
Hard by the rocky basin which records
The pact of Theseus and Peirithoüs.
Betwixt that rift and the Thorician rock,
The hollow pear-tree and the marble tomb,
Midway he sat and loosed his beggar's weeds ;
Then calling to his daughters bade them fetch
Of running water, both to wash withal
And make libation ; so they clomb the steep,
Demeter's hill, who waters the green shoots ;
And in brief space brought what their father bade,
Then laved and dressed him with observance due.
But when he had his will in everything,
And no desire was left unsatisfied,
It thundered from the netherworld ; the maids
Shivered, and crouching at their father's knees
Wept, beat their breast and uttered a long wail.
He, as he heard their sudden bitter cry,
Folded his arms about them both and said,
“ My children, ye will lose your sire to-day,
For all of me has perished, and no more
Have ye to bear your long, long ministry ;
A heavy load, I know, and yet one word
Wipes out all score of tribulations—love.
And love from me ye had—from no man more ;
But now must live without me all your days.”
So clinging to each other sobbed and wept
Father and daughters both, but when at last .

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS

Their mourning had an end and no wail rose,
A moment there was silence ; suddenly
A voice that summoned him ; with sudden dread
The hair of all stood up and all were 'mazed ;
For the call came, now loud, now low, and oft.
“ Oedipus, Oedipus, why tarry we ?
Too long, too long thy passing is delayed.”
But when he heard the summons of the god,
He prayed that Theseus might be brought, and when
The Prince came nearer : “ O my friend,” he cried, “ Pledge ye my daughters, giving thy right hand—
And, daughters, give him yours—and promise me
Thou never wilt forsake them, but do all
That time and friendship prompt in their behoof.”
And he of his nobility repressed
His tears and swore to be their constant friend.
This promise given, Oedipus put forth
Blind hands and laid them on his children, saying,
“ O children, prove your true nobility
And hence depart nor seek to witness sights
Unlawful or to hear unlawful words.
Nay, go with speed ; let none but Theseus stay,
Our ruler, to behold what next shall hap.”
So we all heard him speak, and weeping sore
We companied the maidens on their way.
After brief space we looked again, and lo
The man was gone, evanished from our eyes ;
Only the king we saw with upraised hand
Shading his eyes as from some awful sight,
That no man might endure to look upon.

Nor whirlwind from the sea, but he was taken.
It was a messenger from heaven, or else
Some gentle, painless cleaving of earth's base ;
For without wailing or disease or pain
He passed away—an end most marvellous.
And if to some my tale seems foolishness
I am content that such could count me fool.

CHORUS

Where are the maidens and their attendant friends ?

MESSENGER

They cannot be far off ; the approaching sound
Of lamentation tells they come this way.

Enter ANTIGONE and ISMENE.

ANTIGONE

Woe, woe ! on this sad day (Str. 1)
We sisters of one blasted stock
Must bow beneath the shock,
Must weep and weep the curse that lay
On him our sire, for whom
In life, a life-long world of care
'Twas ours to bear,
In death must face the gloom
That wraps his tomb.
What tongue can tell
That sight ineffable ?

CHORUS

What mean ye, maidens ?

Gone as ye most might wish.

Not in battle or sea storm,
But rest from sight,
By hands invisible borne
To viewless fields of night.
Ah me! on us too night has come,
The night of mourning. Whither roam
O'er land or sea in our distress
Eating the bread of bitterness?

ISMENE

I know not. O that Death
Might nip my breath,
And let me share my aged father's fate.
I cannot liye a life thus desolate.

What Heaven brings ye needs must bear,
Fret no more 'gainst Heaven's will;

THESEUS

My children, he Charged me straitly that no mortal
Should approach the sacred portal,
Or greet with funeral litanies
The hidden tomb wherein he lies ;
Saying, " If thou keep'st my hest
Thou shalt hold thy realm at rest."
The God of Oaths this promise heard,
And to Zeus I pledged my word.

ANTIGONE

Well, if he would have it so,
We must yield. Then let us go Back to Thebes, if yet we may
Heal this mortal feud and stay
The self-wrought doom
That drives our brothers to their tomb.

ARGUMENT

ANTIGONE, daughter of Oedipus, the late king of Thebes, in defiance of Creon who rules in his stead, resolves to bury her brother Polyneices, slain in his attack on Thebes. She is caught in the act by Creon's watchmen and brought before the king. She justifies her action, asserting that she was bound to obey the eternal laws of right and wrong in spite of any human ordinance. Creon, unrelenting, condemns her to be immured in a rock-hewn chamber. His son Haemon, to whom Antigone is betrothed, pleads in vain for her life and threatens to die with her. Warned by the seer Teiresias Creon repents him and hurries to release Antigone from her rocky prison. But he is too late : he finds lying side by side Antigone who has hanged herself and Haemon who also has perished by his own hand. Returning to the palace he sees within the dead body of his queen who on learning of her son's death has stabbed herself to the heart.

Antigone and Ismene before the Palace gates.

ANTIGONE

Ismene, sister of my blood and heart,
See'st thou how Zeus would in our lives fulfil
The weird of Oedipus, a world of woes !
For what of pain, affliction, outrage, shame,
Is lacking in our fortunes, thine and mine ?
And now this proclamation of to-day
Made by our Captain-General to the State,
What can its purport be ? Didst hear and heed,
Or art thou deaf when friends are banned as foes ?

ISMENE

To me, Antigone, no word of friends
Has come, or glad or grievous, since we twain
Were reft of our two brethren in one day
By double fratricide ; and since i' the night
Our Argive leaguers fled, no later news
Has reached me, to inspirit or deject.

ANTIGONE

I knew 'twas so, and therefore summoned thee
Beyond the gates to breathe it in thine ear.

ISMENE

What is it ? Some dark secret stirs thy breast.

ANTIGONE

ANTIGONE

What but the thought of our two brothers dead,
The one by Creon graced with funeral rites,
The other disappointed ? Eteocles
He hath consigned to earth (as fame reports)
With obsequies that use and wont ordain,
So gracing him among the dead below.
But Polyneices, a dishonoured corse,
(So by report the royal edict runs)
No man may bury him or make lament—
Must leave him tombless and unwept, a feast
For kites to scent afar and swoop upon.
Such is the edict (if report speak true)
Of Creon, our most noble Creon, aimed
At thee and me, aye me too ; and anon
He will be here to promulgate, for such
As have not heard, his mandate ; 'tis in sooth
No passing humour, for the edict says
Whoe'er transgresses shall be stoned to death.
So stands it with us ; now 'tis thine to show
If thou art worthy of thy blood or base.

ISMENE

But how, my rash, fond sister, in such case
Can I do anything to make or mar ?

ANTIGONE

Say, wilt thou aid me and abet ? Decide.

ISMENE

In what bold venture ? What is in thy thought ?

No man shall say that I betrayed a brother.

ISMENE

Wilt thou persist, though Creon has forbid?

ANTIGONE

What right has he to keep me from my own?

ISMENE

Bethink thee, sister, of our father's fate,
Abhorred, dishonoured, self-convinced of sin,
Blinded, himself his executioner.
Think of his mother-wife (ill-sorted names)
Done by a noose herself had twined to death.
And last, our hapless brethren in one day,
Both in a mutual destiny involved,
Self-slaughtered, both the slayer and the slain.
Bethink thee, sister, we are left alone;
Shall we not perish wretchedest of all,
If in defiance of the law we cross
A monarch's will?—weak women, think of that,
Not framed by nature to contend with men.
Remember this too that the stronger rules;
We must obey his orders, these or worse.
Therefore I plead compulsion and entreat
The dead to pardon. I perforce obey
The powers that be. 'Tis foolishness, I ween,
To overstep in aught the golden mean.

Or break her ordinance I have no skill.

ANTIGONE

When strength shall fail me, yes, but not before.

ISMENE

But, if the venture's hopeless, why essay?

ANTIGONE

Sister, forbear, or I shall hate thee soon,
And the dead man will hate thee too, with cause.
Say I am mad and give my madness rein
To wreck itself; the worst that can befall
Is but to die an honourable death.

JAMENE

Have thine own way then ; 'tis a mad endeavour,
Yet to thy lovers thou art dear as ever,

[Exeunt.]

CHORUS

Sunbeam, of all that ever dawned upon (Str. 1)

Our seven-gated Thebes the brightest ray,

O eye of golden day,

How fair thy light o'er Dircè's fountain shone,
Speeding upon their headlong homeward course,
Far quicker than they came, the Argive force;

Putting to flight

The argent shields, the host with scutcheons white.
Against our land the proud invader came
To vindicate fell Polyneices' claim.

Like to an eagle swooping low,

On pinions white as new fall'n snow,

With clang ing scream, a horsetail plume his crest,
The aspiring lord of Argos onward pressed.

ANTIGONE

Hovering around our city walls he waits, (Ant. 1)
His spearmen raven at our seven gates.

But ere a torch our crown of towers could burn,
Ere they had tasted of our blood, they turn
Forced by the Dragon ; in their rear
The din of Ares panic-struck they hear.
For Zeus who hates the braggart's boast
Beheld that gold-bespangled host ;
As at the goal the pæan they upraise,
He struck them with his forkèd lightning blaze.

(Str. 2)

To earth from earth rebounding, down he crashed ;
The fire-brand from his impious hand was dashed,
As like a Bacchic reveller on he came,
Outbreathing hate and flame,
And tottered. Elsewhere in the field,
Here, there, great Ares like a war-horse wheeled ;
Beneath his car down thrust
Our foemen bit the dust.

Seven captains at our seven gates
Thundered ; for each a champion waits,
Each left behind his armour bright,
Trophy for Zeus who turns the fight ;
Save two alone, that ill-starred pair
One mother to one father bare,
Who lance in rest, one 'gainst the other
Drove, and both perished, brother slain by brother.

ANTIGONE

Now Victory to Thebes returns again (Ant. 2)
And smiles upon her chariot-circled plain.

Now let feast and festal shout
Memories of war blot out.
Let us to the temples throng,
Dance and sing the live night long.
God of Thebes, lead thou the round,
Bacchus, shaker of the ground !
Let us end our revels here ;
Lo ! Creon our new lord draws near,
Crowned by this strange chance, our king.
What, I marvel, pondering ?
Why this summons ? Wherefore call
Us, his elders, one and all,
Bidding us with him debate,
On some grave concern of State ?

Enter CREON.

CREON

Elders, the gods have righted once again
Our storm-tossed ship of state, now safe in port.
But you by special summons I convened
As my most trusted counsellors ; first, because
I knew you loyal to Laius of old ;
Again, when Oedipus restored our State,
Both while he ruled and when his rule was o'er,
Ye still were constant to the royal line.
Now that his two sons perished in one day,
Brother by brother murderously slain,
By right of kinship to the Princes dead,
I claim and hold the throne and sovereignty.
Yet 'tis no easy matter to discern
The temper of a man, his mind and will,
Till he be proved by exercise of power ;

ANTIGONE

And in my case, if one who reigns supreme
Swerve from the highest policy, tongue-tied
By fear of consequence, that man I hold,
And ever held, the basest of the base.
And I contemn the man who sets his friend
Before his country. For myself, I call
To witness Zeus, whose eyes are everywhere,
If I perceive some mischievous design
To sap the State, I will not hold my tongue;
Nor would I reckon as my private friend
A public foe, well knowing that the State
Is the good ship that holds our fortunes all :
Farewell to friendship, if she suffers wreck.
Such is the policy by which I seek
To serve the Commons and conformably
I have proclaimed an edict as concerns
The sons of Oedipus ; Eteocles
Who in his country's battle fought and fell,
The foremost champion—duly bury him
With all observances and ceremonies
That are the guerdon of the heroic dead.
But for the miscreant exile who returned
Minded in flames and ashes to blot out
His father's city and his father's gods,
And glut his vengeance with his kinsmen's blood,
Or drag them captive at his chariot wheels—
For Polyneices 'tis ordained that none
Shall give him burial or make mourn for him,
But leave his corpse unburied, to be meat
For dogs and carrion crows, a ghastly sight.
So am I purposed ; never by my will
Shall miscreants take precedence of true men,

Not to connive at disobedience.

CHORUS

No man is mad enough to court his death.

CREON

The penalty is death : yet hope of gain
Hath lured men to their ruin oftentimes.

GUARD

My lord, I will not make pretence to pant
And puff as some lightfooted messenger,
In sooth my soul beneath its pack of thought
Made many a halt and turned and turned again ;
For conscience plied her spur and curl by turns.
" Why hurry headlong to thy fate, poor fool ? "
She whispered. Then again, " If Creon learn
This from another, thou wilt rue it worse."

What is thy news ? Why this despondency ?

GUARD

Let me premise a word about myself.

GUARD

The bearer of dread tidings needs must quake.

CREON

Then, sirrah, shoot thy bolt and get thee gone.

Well, it must out ; the corpse is buried ; someone
E'en now besprinkled it with thirsty dust,
Performed the proper ritual—and was gone.

CREON

What say'st thou ? Who hath dared to do this thing

GUARD

I cannot tell, for there was ne'er a trace

ANTIGONE

Gave the alarm, we all were terror-stricken.
The corpse had vanished, not interred in earth,
But strewn with dust, as if by one who sought
To avert the curse that haunts the unburied dead :
Of hound or ravening jackal, not a sign.
Thereat arose an angry war of words ;
Guard railed at guard and blows were like to end it,
For none was there to part us, each in turn
Suspected, but the guilt brought home to none,
From lack of evidence. We challenged each
The ordeal, or to handle red-hot iron,
Or pass through fire, affirming on our oath
Our innocence—we neither did the deed
Ourselves, nor know who did or compassed it.
Our quest was at a standstill, when one spake
And bowed us all to earth like quivering reeds,
For there was no gainsaying him nor way
To escape perdition : *Ye are bound to tell
The King, ye cannot hide it.*; so he spake.
And he convinced us all ; so lots were cast,
And I, unlucky scapegoat, drew the prize.
So here I am unwilling and withal
Unwelcome ; no man cares to hear ill news.

CHORUS

I had misgivings from the first, my liege,
Of something more than natural at work.

ANTIGONE

That gods would have a thought for this dead man ?
Did they forsooth award him special grace,
And as some benefactor hury him,
Who came to fire their hallowed sanctuaries,
To sack their shrines, to desolate their land,
And scout their ordinances ? Or perchance
The gods bestow their favours on the bad.
No ! no ! I long have noted malecontents,
Who wagged their heads, and kicked against the yoke,
Misliking these my orders, and my rule.
'Tis they, I warrant, who suborned my guards
By bribes. Of evils current upon earth
The worst is money. Money 'tis that sacks
Cities, and drives men forth from hearth and home ;
Warps and seduces native innocence,
And breeds a habit of dishonesty.
But they who sold themselves shall find their greed
Out-shot the mark, and rue it soon or late.
Yea, as I still revere the dread of Zeus,
By Zeus I swear, except ye find and bring
Before my presence here the very man
Who carried out this lawless burial,
Death for your punishment shall not suffice.
Hanged on a cross, alive ye first shall make Confession of this outrage. This will teach you
What practices are like to serve your turn.
There are some villainies that bring no gain,
For by dishonesty the few may thrive,
The many come to ruin and disgrace.

(Str. 1)

Many wonders there be, but naught more wondrous than man :

Over the surging sea, with a whitening south wind
wan,

Through the foam of the firth, man makes his perilous way;

And the eldest of deities Earth that knows not toil
nor decay [out,

Ever he furrows and scores, as his team, year in year
With breed of the yokèd horse, the ploughshare turneth about.

(Ant. 1)

The light-witted birds of the air, the beasts of the weald and the wood

He traps with his woven snare, and the brood of the briny flood.

Master of cunning he : The savage bull, and the hart
Who roams the mountain free, are tamed by his infinite art ;

And the shaggy rough-maned steed is broken to bear the bit.

(Str. 2)

Speech and the wind-swift speed of counsel and civic wit,

He hath learnt for himself all these ; and the arrowy rain to fly

And the nipping airs that freeze, 'neath the open winter sky.

He hath provision for all : Fell plague he hath learnt to endure ;

Safe whate'er may befall : yet for death he hath found no cure.

(Ant. 2)

Passing the wildest flight of thought are the cunning and skill,
That guide man now to the light, but now to counsels of ill.
If he honours the laws of the land, and reveres the Gods of the State
Proudly his city shall stand; but a cityless outcast I rate
Whoso bold in his pride from the path of right doth depart;
Ne'er may I sit by his side, or share the thoughts of his heart.

What strange vision meets my eyes,
Fills me with a wild surprise?
Sure I know her, sure 'tis she,
The maid Antigone.
Hapless child of hapless sire,
Didst thou recklessly conspire,
Madly brave the King's decree?
Therefore are they haling thee?

Enter GUARD bringing ANTIGONE

Here is the culprit taken in the act
Of giving burial. But where's the King?

He ever swears he will not do a thing,
His afterthoughts belie his first resolve.

ANTIGONE

When from the hail-storm of thy threats I fled
I swear thou wouldest not see me here again ;
But the wild rapture of a glad surprise
Intoxicates, and so I'm here forsorn.
And here's my prisoner, caught in the very act,
Decking the grave. No lottery this time ;
This prize is mine by right of treasure-trove.
So take her, judge her, rack her, if thou wilt.
She's thine, my liege ; but I may rightly claim
Hence to depart well quit of all these ills.

CREON

Say, how didst thou arrest the maid, and where ?

GUARD

Burying the man. There's nothing more to tell.

CREON

Hast thou thy wits ? Or know'st thou what thou

GUARD

I saw this woman burying the corpse
Against thy orders. Is that clear and plain ?

CREON

But how was she surprised and caught in the act ?

GUARD

It happened thus. No sooner had we come,
Driven from thy presence by those awful threats,
Than straight we swept away all trace of dust,
And bared the clammy body. Then we sat
High on the ridge to windward of the stench,
While each man kept his fellow alert and rated
Roundly the sluggard if he chanced to nap.
So all night long we watched, until the sun

Stood high in heaven, and his blazing beams
Smote us. A sudden whirlwind then upraised
A cloud of dust that blotted out the sky,
And swept the plain, and stripped the woodlands bare,
And shook the firmament. We closed our eyes
And waited till the heaven-sent plague should pass.
At last it ceased, and lo! there stood this maid.
A piercing cry she uttered, sad and shrill,
As when the mother bird beholds her nest
Robbed of its nestlings; even so the maid
Wailed as she saw the body stripped and bare,
And cursed the ruffians who had done this deed.
Anon she gathered handfuls of dry dust,
Then, holding high a well-wrought brazen urn,
Thrice on the dead she poured a lustral stream.
We at the sight swooped down on her and seized
Our quarry. Undismayed she stood, and when
We taxed her with the former crime and this,
She disowned nothing. I was glad—and grieved;
For 'tis most sweet to 'scape oneself scot-free,
And yet to bring disaster to a friend
Is grievous. Take it all in all, I deem
A man's first duty is to serve himself.

CREON (to GUARD)

Sirrah, begone whither thou wilt, and thank
Thy luck that thou hast 'scaped a heavy charge.

(to ANTIGONE)

Now answer this plain question, yes or no,
Wast thou acquainted with the interdict?

ANTIGONE

I knew, all knew; how should I fail to know?

CREON

And yet wert bold enough to break the law?

ANTIGONE

Yea, for these laws were not ordained of Zeus,
And she who sits enthroned with gods below,
Justice, enacted not these human laws.
Nor did I deem that thou, a mortal man,
Could'st by a breath annul and override
The immutable unwritten laws of Heaven.
They were not born to-day nor yesterday;
They die not; and none knoweth whence they sprang.

I was not like, who feared no mortal's frown,
To disobey these laws and so provoke
The wrath of Heaven. I know that I must die,
E'en hadst thou not proclaimed it; and if death
Is thereby hastened, I shall count it gain.
For death is gain to him whose life, like mine,
Is full of misery. Thus my lot appears
Not sad, but blissful; for had I endured
To leave my mother's son unburied there,
I should have grieved with reason, but not now.
And if in this thou judgest me a fool,
Methinks the judge of folly's not acquit.

CHORUS

A stubborn daughter of a stubborn sire,
This ill-starred maiden kicks against the pricks.

CREON

Well, let her know the stubbornest of wills
Are soonest bended, as the hardest iron,
O'er-heated in the fire to brittleness,
Flies soonest into fragments, shivered through.
A snaffle curbs the fieriest steed, and he
Who in subjection lives must needs be meek.
But this proud girl, in insolence well-schooled,
First overstepped the established law, and then—
A second and worse act of insolence—
She boasts and glories in her wickedness.
Now if she thus can flout authority
Unpunished, I am woman, she the man.
But though she be my sister's child or nearer
Of kin than all who worship at my hearth,
Nor she nor yet her sister shall escape
The utmost penalty, for both I hold,
As arch-conspirators, of equal guilt.
Bring forth the other; even now I saw her
Within the palace, frenzied and distraught.
The workings of the mind discover oft
Dark deeds in darkness schemed, before the act.
More hateful still the miscreant who seeks
When caught, to make a virtue of a crime.

ANTIGONE

Would'st thou do more than slay thy prisoner?

Nor am I more acceptable to thee.
And yet how otherwise had I achieved

A brother ? so my townsmen all would say,
Were they not gagged by terror. Manifold

That all his acts and all his words are law.

No woman shall be master while I live.

CHORUS

Lo from out the palace gate,
Weeping o'er her sister's fate,
Comes Ismene; see her brow,
Once serene, beclouded now,
See her beauteous face o'erspread
With a flush of angry red.

CREON

Woman, who like a viper unperceived
Didst harbour in my house and drain my blood,
Two plagues I nurtured blindly, so it proves,
To sap my throne. Say, didst thou too abet
This crime, or dost abjure all privity?

ISMENE

ANTIGONE

ANTIGONE

Well, some approved thy wisdom, others mine.

ISMENE

But now we stand convicted, both alike.

ANTIGONE

Fear not ; thou livest, I died long ago,
Then when I gave my life to save the dead.

CREON

Both maids, methinks, are crazed. One suddenly
Has lost her wits, the other was born mad.

ISMENE

Yea, so it falls, sire, when misfortune comes,
The wisest even lose their mother wit.

CREON

I' faith thy wit forsook thee when thou mad'st
Thy choice with evil-doers to do ill.

ISMENE

What life for me without my sister here ?

CREON

Say not thy sister here : thy sister's dead.

ISMENE

What, wilt thou slay thy own son's plighted bride ?

CREON

Aye, let him raise him seed from other fields.

ISMENE

No new espousal can be like the old.

CREON

A plague on trulls who court and woo our sons.

ANTIGONE

O Haemon, how thy sire dishonours thee !

CREON

A plague on thee and thy accursed bride !

CHORUS

What, wilt thou rob thine own son of his bride ?

CREON

'Tis death that bars this marriage, not his sire.

CHORUS

So her death-warrant, it would seem, is sealed.

CREON

By you, as first by me ; off with them, guards,
And keep them close. Henceforward let them learn
To live as women use, not roam at large.
For e'en the bravest spirits run away
When they perceive death pressing on life's heels.

CHORUS

Thrice blest are they who never tasted pain ! (Str. 1)
If once the curse of Heaven attaint a race,
The infection lingers on and speeds apace,
Age after age, and each the cup must drain.

So when Etesian blasts from Thrace downpour
Sweep o'er the blackening main and whirl to land
From Ocean's cavernous depths his ooze and sand,
Bellow on bellow thunders on the shore.

On the Labdacidae I see descending (Ant. 1)
Woe upon woe ; from days of old some god
Laid on the race a malison, and his rod
Scourges each age with sorrows never ending.

The light that dawned upon its last born son
Is vanished, and the bloody axe of Fate
Has felled the goodly tree that blossomed late.
O Oedipus, by reckless pride undone !

(Str. 2)

Thy might, O Zeus, what mortal power can quell?
Not sleep that lays all else beneath its spell,
Nor moons that never tire : untouched by Time,

Throned in the dazzling light

That crowns Olympus' height,

Thou reignest King, omnipotent, sublime.

Past, present, and to be,
All bow to thy decree,
All that exceeds the mean by Fate
Is punished, Love or Hate.

(Ant. 2)

Hope flits about on never-wearying wings ;
Profit to some, to some light loves she brings,
But no man knoweth how her gifts may turn,
Till 'neath his feet the treacherous ashes burn.
Sure 'twas a sage inspired that spake this word ;

*If evil good appear
To any, Fate is near;*

And brief the respite from her flaming sword.

Hither comes in angry mood
Haemon, latest of thy brood ;
Is it for his bride he's grieved,
Of her marriage-bed deceived,
Doth he make his mourn for thee,
Maid forlorn, Antigone ?

CHEON

Soon shall we know, better than seer can tell.

HAEMON

O father, I am thine, and I will take
Thy wisdom as the helm to steer withal.
Therefore no wedlock shall by me be held
More precious than thy loving governance.

CREON

Well spoken : so right-minded sons should feel,
In all deferring to a father's will.
For 'tis the hope of parents they may rear
A brood of sons submissive, keen to avenge
Their father's wrongs, and count his friends their own.
But who begets unprofitable sons,
He verily breeds trouble for himself,
And for his foes much laughter. Son, be warned
And let no woman fool away thy wits.
Ill fares the husband mated with a shrew,
And her embraces very soon wax cold.
For what can wound so surely to the quick
As a false friend? So spue and cast her off,
Bid her go find a husband with the dead.
For since I caught her openly rebelling,
Of all my subjects the one malcontent,
I will not prove a traitor to the State.
She surely dies. Go, let her, if she will,
Appeal to Zeus the God of Kindred, for
If thus I nurse rebellion in my house,
Shall not I foster mutiny without?
For whoso rules his household worthily,
Will prove in civic matters no less wise.
But he who overbears the laws, or thinks
To overrule his rulers, such an one

ANTIGONE

I never will allow. Whome'er the State
Appoints, must be obeyed in everything,
Both small and great, just and unjust alike.
I warrant such an one in either case
Would shine, as King or subject; such a man
Would in the storm of battle stand his ground,
A comrade leal and true; but Anarchy—
What evils are not wrought by Anarchy!
She ruins States, and overthrows the home,
She dissipates and routs the embattled host;
While discipline preserves the ordered ranks.
Therefore we must maintain authority
And yield no tittle to a woman's will.
Better, if needs be, men should cast us out
Than hear it said, a woman proved his match.

CHORUS

To me, unless old age have dulled my wits,
Thy words appear both reasonable and wise.

HAEMON

Father, the gods implant in mortal men
Reason, the choicest gift bestowed by heaven.
'Tis not for me to say thou errest, nor
Would I arraign thy wisdom, if I could;
And yet wise thoughts may come to other men
And, as thy son, it falls to me to mark
The acts, the words, the comments of the crowd.
The commons stand in terror of thy frown,
And dare not utter aught that might offend,
But I can overhear their muttered plaints,
Know how the people mourn this maiden doomed
For noblest deeds to die the worst of deaths.

ANTIGONE

When her own brother slain in battle lay ·
Unsepulchred, she suffered not his corse
To lie for carrion birds and dogs to maul :
Should not her name (they cry) be writ in gold ?
Such the low murmurings that reach my ear.
O father, nothing is by me more prized
Than thy well-being, for what higher good
Can children covet than their sire's fair fame,
As fathers too take pride in glorious sons ?
Therefore, my father, cling not to one mood,
And deem not thou art right, all others wrong.
For whoso thinks that wisdom dwells with him,
That he alone can speak or think aright,
Such oracles are empty breath when tried.
The wisest man will let himself be swayed
By others' wisdom and relax in time.
See how the trees beside a stream in flood
Save, if they yield to force, each spray unharmed,
But by resisting perish root and branch.
The mariner who keeps his mainsheet taut,
And will not slacken in the gale, is like
To sail with thwarts reversed, keel uppermost.
Relent then and repent thee of thy wrath ;
For, if one young in years may claim some sense,
I'll say 'tis best of all to be endowed
With absolute wisdom ; but, if that's denied,
(And nature takes not readily that ply)
Next wise is he who lists to sage advice.

CHORUS

If he says aught in season, heed him, King.

(to HAEMON)

Heed thou thy sire too ; both have spoken well.

CHORUS

And what death is she to die ?

CREON

She shall be taken to some desert place
By man untrod, and in a rock-hewn cave,
With food no more than to avoid the taint
That homicide might bring on all the State,
Buried alive. There let her call in aid
The King of Death, the one god she reveres,
Or learn too late a lesson learnt at last :
'Tis labour lost, to reverence the dead.

ANTIGONE

CHORUS

(Str.)

Love resistless in fight, all yield at a glance of thine eye,
Love who pillow'd all night on a maiden's cheek
dost lie,
Over the upland folds thou roam'st, and the trackless sea.
Love the gods captive holds. Shall mortals not yield to thee?

(Ant.)

Mad are thy subjects all, and even the wisest heart
Straight to folly will fall, at a touch of thy poisoned dart.
Thou didst kindle the strife, this feud of kinsman
with kin,
By the eyes of a winsome wife, and the yearning her heart to win.
For as her consort still, enthroned with Justice above,
Thou benderest man to thy will, O all invincible Love.

Lo I myself am borne aside,
From Justice, as I view this bride.
(O sight an eye in tears to drown)
Antigone, so young, so fair,
Thus hurried down
Death's bower with the dead to share.

ANTIGONE

(Str. 1)

Friends, countrymen, my last farewell I make;
My journey's done.
One last fond, lingering, longing look I take
At the bright sun.
For Death who puts to sleep both young and old
Hales my young life,

And beckons me to Acheron's dark fold,
An unwed wife.

No youths have sung the marriage song for me,
My bridal bed
No maids have strewn with flowers from the lea,
'Tis Death I wed.

CHORUS

But bethink thee, thou art sped,
Great and glorious, to the dead.
Thou the sword's edge hast not tasted,
No disease thy frame hath wasted.
Freely thou alone shalt go
Living to the dead below.

ANTIGONE (Ant. 1)

Nay, but the piteous tale I've heard men tell
Of Tantalus' doomed child,
Chained upon Sipylus' high rocky fell,
That clung like ivy wild,
Drenched by the pelting rain and whirling snow,
Left there to pine,
While on her frozen breast the tears aye flow—
Her fate is mine.

CHORUS

She was sprung of gods, divine,
Mortals we of mortal line.
Like renown with gods to gain
Recompenses all thy pain.
Take this solace to thy tomb
Hers in life and death thy doom.

ANTIGONE

Alack, alack ! Ye mock me. Is it meet (Str. 2)

O fount of Dirce, wood-embowered plain
Where Theban chariots to victory speed,
Mark ye the cruel laws that now have wrought my bane,
The friends who show no pity in my need !
Was ever fate like mine ? O monstrous doom,
Within a rock-built prison sepulchred,
To fade and wither in a living tomb,
An alien midst the living and the dead.

CHORUS

In thy boldness over-rash
Madly thou thy foot didst dash
'Gainst high Justice' altar stair.
Thou a father's guilt dost bear.

ANTIGONE

(Ant. 2)

At this thou touchest my most poignant pain,
My ill-starred father's piteous disgrace,
The taint of blood, the hereditary stain,
That clings to all of Labdacus' famed race.
Woe worth the monstrous marriage-bed where lay
A mother with the son her womb had borne ;
Therein I was conceived, woe worth the day,
Fruit of incestuous sheets, a maid forlorn,
And now I pass, accursed and unwed,
To meet them as an alien there below ;
And thee, O brother, in marriage ill-bestead,
'Twas thy dead hand that dealt me this death-blow.

CHORUS

Religion has her claims, 'tis true, (Ant. 3)
Let rites be paid when rites are due.
Yet is it ill to disobey
The powers who hold by might the sway.

Not one friend left to share my bitter woe,
And o'er my ashes heave one passing sigh.

CREON

If wail and lamentation aught availed
To stave off death, I trow they'd never end.
Away with her, and having walled her up
In a rock-vaulted tomb, as I ordained,
Leave her alone at liberty to die,
Or, if she choose, to live in solitude,
The tomb her dwelling. We in either case
Are guiltless as concerns this maiden's blood.
Only on earth no lodging shall she find.

ANTIGONE

O grave, O bridal bower, O prison house
Hewn from the rock, my everlasting home,
Whither I go to join the mighty host
Of kinsfolk, Persephassa's guests long dead,
The last of all, of all most miserable,
I pass, my destined span of years cut short.
And yet good hope is mine that I shall find
A welcome from my sire, a welcome too,
From thee, my mother, and my brother dear ;
For with these hands, I laved and decked your limbs
In death, and poured libations on your grave.
And last, my Polyneices, unto thee
I paid due rites, and this my recompense !
Yet am I justified in wisdom's eyes.
For even had it been some child of mine,

ANTIGONE

Or husband mouldering in death's decay,
I had not wrought this deed despite the State.
What is the law I call in aid ? 'Tis thus
I argue. Had it been a husband dead
I might have wed another, and have borne
Another child, to take the dead child's place.
But, now my sire and mother both are dead,
No second brother can be born for me.
Thus by the law of conscience I was led
To honour thee, dear brother, and was judged
By Creon guilty of a heinous crime.
And now he drags me like a criminal,
A bride unwed, amerced of marriage-song
And marriage-bed and joys of motherhood,
By friends deserted to a living grave.
What ordinance of heaven have I transgressed ?
Hereafter can I look to any god
For succour, call on any man for help ?
Alas, my piety is impious deemed.
Well, if such justice is approved of heaven,
I shall be taught by suffering my sin ;
But if the sin is theirs, O may they suffer
No worse ills than the wrongs they do to me !

CHORUS

The same ungovernable will Drives like a gale the maiden still.

ANTIGONE

My fatherland, city of Thebes divine,
Ye gods of Thebes whence sprang my line,
Look, puissant lords of Thebes, on me ;
The last of all your royal house ye see.
Martyred by men of sin, undone.
Such meed my piety hath won. [Exit. ANTIGONE.]

CHORUS

Like to thee that maiden bright, (Sl. 1)
Danaë, in her brass-bound tower,
Once exchanged the glad sunlight
For a cell, her bridal bower.
And yet she sprang of royal line,
My child, like thine,
And nursed the seed
By her conceived
Of Zeus descending in a golden shower.
Strange are the ways of Fate, her power
Nor wealth, nor arms withstand, nor tower ;
Nor brass-prowed ships, that breast the sea
From Fate can flee.

Thus Dryas' child, the rash Edonian King, (Ant. 1)

For words of high disdain
Did Bacchus to a rocky dungeon bring,
To cool the madness of a fevered brain.

His frenzy passed,
He learnt at last

'Twas madness gibes against a god to fling.
For once he fain had quenched the Maenad's fire ;
And of the tuneful Nine provoked the ire.

 On Bosporus' lone strand,
Where stretcheth Salmydессus' plain
 In the wild Thracian land,
There on his borders Ares witnessèd
 The vengeance by a jealous step-dame ta'en,
The gore that trickled from a spindle red,
 The sightless orbits of her step-sons twain.

(Ant. 2)

Wasting away they mourned their piteous doom,
The blasted issue of their mother's womb.
But she her lineage could trace

To great Erechtheus' race ;
Daughter of Boreas in her sire's vast caves
 Reared, where the tempest raves,
Swift as his horses o'er the hills she sped ;
A child of gods ; yet she, my child, like thee,
 By Destiny
That knows not death nor age—she too was vanquished.

Bethink thee that thou treadest once again

CREON

What is this ?

Thy words inspire a dread presentiment.

TEIRESIAS

The divination of my arts shall tell.
Sitting upon my throne of augury,
As is my wont, where every fowl of heaven
Finds harbourage, upon mine ears was borne
A jargon strange of twitterings, hoots, and screams ;
So knew I that each bird at the other tare
With bloody talons, for the whirr of wings
Could signify nought else. Perturbed in soul,
I straight essayed the sacrifice by fire
On blazing altars, but the God of Fire
Came not in flame, and from the thigh bones dripped
And sputtered in the ashes a foul ooze ;
Gall-bladders cracked and spurted up : the fat
Melted and fell and left the thigh bones bare.
Such are the signs, taught by this lad, I read—
As I guide others, so the boy guides me—
The frustrate signs of oracles grown dumb.
O King, thy wilful temper ails the State,
For all our shrines and altars are profaned
By what has filled the maw of dogs and crows,
The flesh of Oedipus' unburied son.
Therefore the angry gods abominate
Our litanies and our burnt offerings ;

Not though the wingèd ministers of Zeus
Should bear him in their talons to his throne;
Not e'en in awe of prodigy so dire
Would I permit his burial, for I know

CREON

True, as unwisdom is the worst of ills.

TEIRESIAS

Thou art infected with that ill thyself.

CREON

I will not bandy insults with thee, seer.

TEIRESIAS

And yet thou say'st my prophecies are frauds.

CREON

Prophets are all a money-getting tribe.

CREON

Skilled prophet art thou, but to wrong inclined.

TEIRESIAS

Take heed, thou wilt provoke me to reveal
The mystery deep hidden in my breast.

Know then for sure, the coursers of the sun
Not many times shall run their race, before
Thou shalt have given the fruit of thine own loins
In quittance of thy murder, life for life ;
For that thou hast entombed a living soul,
And sent below a denizen of earth,
And wronged the nether gods by leaving here
A corpse unlaved, unwept, unsepulchred.
Herein thou hast no part, nor e'en the gods
In heaven ; and thou usurp'st a power not thine.
For this the avenging spirits of Heaven and Hell
Who dog the steps of sin are on thy trail :
What these have suffered thou shalt suffer too.
And now, consider whether bought by gold
I prophesy. For, yet a little while,
And sound of lamentation shall be heard,
Of men and women through thy desolate halls ;
And all thy neighbour States are leagued to avenge
Their mangled warriors who have found a grave
I' the maw of wolf or hound, or winged bird
That flying homewards taints their city's air.
These are the shafts, that like a Bowman, I
Provoked to anger, loosen at thy breast,
Unerring, and their smart thou shalt not shun.
Boy, lead me home, that he may vent his spleen
On younger men, and learn to curb his tongue
With gentler manners than his present mood.

Where the Bacchanals thy daughters
Round thee roam,
There thy home;

Where Corisian maidens flock,
Thee the springs of Castaly.

By Nysa's bastion ivy-clad,

By shores with clustered vineyards glad,

There to thee the hymn rings out,

And through our streets we Thebans shout

All hail to thee

Evoë, Evoë!

Oh, as thou lov'st this city best of all, (Str. 2)

To thee, and to thy Mother levin-stricken,

In our dire need we call;

Thou see'st with what a plague our townsfolk sicken.

Whether adown Parnassian heights descending,

Or o'er the roaring straits thy swift way wending,

Attend all ye who dwell beside the halls
Of Cadmus and Amphion. No man's life
As of one tenour would I praise or blame,
For Fortune with a constant ebb and rise
Casts down and raises high and low alike,
And none can read a mortal's horoscope.
Take Creon ; he, methought, if any man,
Was enviable. He had saved this land
Of Cadmus from our enemies and attained
A monarch's powers and ruled the state supreme,
While a right noble issue crowned his bliss.
Now all is gone and wasted, for a life
Without life's joys I count a living death.
You'll tell me he has ample store of wealth,
The pomp and circumstance of kings ; but if
These give no pleasure, all the rest I count
The shadow of a shade, nor would I weigh
His wealth and power 'gainst a dram of joy.

Dear mistress, I was there and will relate
The perfect truth, omitting not one word.
Why should we gloze and flatter, to be proved
Liars hereafter? Truth is ever best.
Well, in attendance on my liege, your lord,
I crossed the plain to its utmost margin, where
The corse of Polyneices, gnawn and mauled,
Was lying yet. We offered first a prayer
To Pluto and the goddess of cross-ways,
With contrite hearts, to deprecate their ire.
Then laved with lustral waves the mangled corse,
Laid it on fresh-lopped branches, lit a pyre,
And to his memory piled a mighty mound
Of mother earth. Then to the caverned rock,
The bridal chamber of the maid and Death,
We sped, about to enter. But a guard
Heard from that godless shrine a far shrill wail,
And ran back to our lord to tell the news.
But as he nearer drew a hollow sound
Of lamentation to the King was borne.
He groaned and uttered then this bitter plaint:
"Am I a prophet? miserable me!
Is this the saddest path I ever trod?
'Tis my son's voice that calls me. On press on,
My henchmen, haste with double speed to the tomb
Where rocks down-torn have made a gap, look in
And tell me if in truth I recognise
The voice of Haemon or am heaven-deceived."
So at the bidding of our distraught lord

We looked, and in the cavern's vaulted gloom
I saw the maiden lying strangled there,
A noose of linen twined about her neck ;
And hard beside her, clasping her cold form,
Her lover lay bewailing his dead bride
Death-wedded, and his father's cruelty.
When the King saw him, with a terrible groan
He moved towards him, crying, " O my son
What hast thou done ? What ailed thee ? What mischance

Has left thee of thy reason ? O come forth,
Come forth, my son ; thy father supplicates."
But the son glared at him with tiger eyes,
Spat in his face, and then, without a word,
Drew his two-hilted sword and smote, but missed
His father flying backwards Then the boy,
Wroth with himself, poor wretch, incontinent
Fell on his sword and drove it through his side
Home, but yet breathing clasped in his lax arms
The maid, her pallid cheek incarnadined
With his expiring gasps. So there they lay
Two corpses, one in death. His marriage rites
Are consummated in the halls of Death :
A witness that of ills whate'er befall
Mortals' unwisdom is the worst of all.

CREON (Str. 2)

By sorrow schooled. Heavy the hand of God,
Thorny and rough the paths my feet have trod,
Humbled my pride, my pleasure turned to pain;
Poor mortals, how we labour all in vain!

SECOND MESSENGER

Sorrows are thine, my lord, and more to come,
One lying at thy feet, another yet
More grievous waits thee, when thou comest home.

CREON

What woe is lacking to my tale of woes?

MESSENGER

Thy wife, the mother of thy dead son here,
Lies stricken by a fresh inflicted blow.

CREON

How bottomless the pit! (Ant. 1)

Dost claim me too, O Death?

What is this word he saith,
This woeful messenger? Say, is it fit
To slay anew a man already slain?

Is Death at work again,
Stroke upon stroke, first son, then mother slain?

CHORUS

Look for thyself. She lies for all to view.

ANTIGONE

CREON

Alas ! another added woe I see. (Ant. 2)
What more remains to crown my agony ?
A minute past I clasped a lifeless son,
And now another victim Death hath won.
Unhappy mother, most unhappy son !

MESSENGER

Beside the altar on a keen-edged sword
She fell and closed her eyes in night, but erst
She mourned for Megareus who nobly died
Long since, then for her son ; with her last breath
She cursèd thee, the slayer of her child.

CREON

I shudder with affright. (Str. 3)
O for a two-edged sword to slay outright
A wretch like me,
Made one with misery.

MESSENGER

'Tis true that thou wert charged by the dead Queen
As author of both deaths, hers and her son's.

CREON

In what wise was her self-destruction wrought ?

MESSENGER

Hearing the loud lament above her son
With her own hand she stabbed herself to the heart.

CREON

I am the guilty cause. I did the deed, (Str. 4)
Thy murderer. Yea, I guilty plead.

ANTIGONE

My henchmen, lead me hence, away, away,
A cipher, less than nothing ; no delay !

CHORUS

Well said, if in disaster aught is well :
Ills past endure demand the speediest cure.

CREON

Come, Fate, a friend at need, (Ant. 3)
Come with all speed !
Come, my best friend,
And speed my end !
Away, away !

Let me not look upon another day !

CHORUS

This for the morrow ; to us are present needs
That they whom it concerns must take in hand.

CREON

I join your prayer that echoes my desire.

CHORUS

O pray not, prayers are idle ; from the doom
Of fate for mortals refuge is there none.

CREON

Away with me, a worthless wretch who slew (Ant. 4)
Unwitting thee, my son, thy mother too.
Whither to turn I know not ; every way
Leads but astray,
And on my head I feel the heavy weight
Of crushing Fate.

ANTIGONE

CHORUS

Of happiness the chiefest part
Is a wise heart :
And to defraud the gods in aught
With peril's fraught.
Swelling words of high-flown might
Mightily the gods do smite.
Chastisement for errors past
Wisdom brings to age at last.
