HISTORICAL AND POLITICAL INFORMATION

Major Dates in World History

c3200–2780 B.C. Rule of the first and second dynasties in Egypt.

c3000–2000 B.C. The Hellenes, a people speaking an Indo-European language, migrate from the north into what is today Greece.

c2850–2450 B.C. First dynasty of Ur in Sumer (Southern Babylonia).

c2780–2280 B.C. The Old Kingdom in Egypt; rule of the third to sixth dynasties. At Giza the three pyramids are built.

c2500 B.C. Eannatum, king of Sumer, conquers Ur and Kish.

c2350–2295 B.C. Reign of Sargon, king of Akkad. By the time he dies, he has conquered Babylonia, Elam, Assyria, and part of Syria.

c2200–2100 B.C. Rule of the seventh to tenth dynasties in Egypt.

c2140–2030 B.C. The empire of Ur puts Sumer at the height of its power. During the next 100–150 years Sumer declines and disappears as a nation.

c2100–1788 B.C. The Middle Kingdom in Egypt; rule of the eleventh to seventeenth dynasties.

c2000 B.C. Indo-Europeans related to the Greeks invade Italy from the north.

c2000–1000 B.C. The Aryans enter India through the northwestern passes.

c1900–1600 B.C. First Babylonian dynasty. About 1800 B.C., King Hammurapi places all Mesopotamia under Babylonian power, institutes sweeping civil reform and construction programs, and establishes the first systematic legal code.

c1830–1810 B.C. Assyria is ruled by the Babylonians.

c1810 B.C. Shamshi-Adad frees the Assyrians from Babylonia.

c1680–1580 B.C. The Hyksos, foreign invaders, rule Egypt during the fifteenth and sixteenth dynasties. They introduce the horse into Egypt. The war against the Hyksos begins under the seventeenth dynasty (c1600–1580 B.C.).

c1600–1150 B.C. Babylonia is conquered by the Kassites. In this period the horse is used throughout what is today the Middle East.

c1580–1090 B.C. The New Kingdom (or Empire) in Egypt; rule of the eighteenth to twentieth dynasties.

c1490–1471 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Thutmosis III, the husband and brother of Queen Hatshepsut. In 1479 B.C. he defeats his rival, the king of Kadesh, at Megiddo and extends kingdom east of the Euphrates.

c1390–1350 B.C. Reign of Shubbiluliu (Supiluliu), the great Hittite ruler, who enlarges his kingdom of Asia Minor and drives the Egyptians out of Syria.

c1411–1375 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Amenhotep III of the eighteenth dynasty in Egypt. Through diplomacy with states he rules, Amenhotep extends Egyptian territory and is responsible for great prosperity.

c1375–1358 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Amenhotep IV, often known as Ikhnaton (or Amenophis IV) of the eighteenth dynasty in Egypt. A religious reformer, he fosters a monotheistic religion centered around the sun, but the cult dies with him.

c1352 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Tutankhamen in Egypt. (His tomb remains intact until discovered in A.D. 1922.)

c1292–1225 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Ramses II of the nineteenth dynasty in Egypt. He battles with the Hittites, and finally in 1272 B.C., he is forced to divide Syria with them.

1225–1215 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Merneptah of the nineteenth dynasty in Egypt. It is probably in his reign that Moses led the Israelite exodus from Egypt.

c1200 B.C. The Israelites and the Philistines invade Canaan (Palestine).

c1200–1085 B.C. The rule of the twentieth dynasty in Egypt.

1198–1167 B.C. Reign of Pharaoh Ramses III of the twentieth dynasty in Egypt. He is the last ruler who can protect his territory from invaders.

c1184 B.C. Troy, the Phrygian city, is sacked by Arcadians, Achaeans, and Thessalians, after a ten-year war. This is probably the war of Homer's Iliad.

1145–1123 B.C. Reign of Nebuchadnezzar I, king of Babylon. He conquers the Elamites. Later, the Assyrians defeat him.

c1100 B.C. The Dorians invade Greece from the North and the West.

1085 B.C. The New Kingdom ends when foreign tribes overrun Egypt.

c1085–945 B.C. Rule of the twenty-first dynasty in Egypt.

c1030 B.C. Saul becomes king of Israel.

c1013–974 B.C. Reign of David, king of Judah and later of all Israel. After he captures Jerusalem, he makes it his capital. He defeats the Philistines, the Moabites, the Ammonites, and the Edomites.

c1000–771 B.C. The western Chou dynasty in China.

c974–932 B.C. Reign of King Solomon of Israel. He builds the temple in Jerusalem.

c945–712 B.C. The rule of the twenty-second to twenty-fourth dynasties in Egypt.

c932–916 B.C. Reign of Rehoboam, king of Judah; son of Solomon. His kingdom consists of the southern portion of his father's territory.

c932–912 B.C. Reign of Jeroboam I, the first king of the northern tribes of Israel. These tribes are formerly part of the kingdom of Rehoboam.

c900–800 B.C. The Etruscans arrive in Italy by sea, probably from Asia Minor.

876–855 B.C. Reign of Ahab, king of Israel. His wife, Jezebel of Tyre, encourages pagan worship and incurs the wrath of Elijah, the prophet.

843–816 B.C. Reign of Jehu, king of Israel. Urged on by the prophet Elisha, he extirpates the line of king Ahab killing many princes of Israel and Judah and the worshipers of Baal in Samaria.

814 B.C. Carthage is founded, probably by Tyrians.

770–256 B.C. The eastern Chou dynasty of China.

753–715 B.C. Reign of Romulus, the first traditional king of Rome. With twin brother, Remus, he founds Rome (753 B.C.).

745–727 B.C. Reign of Tiglath-pileser III, king of Assyria. He conquers Israel in 734 B.C., Damascus in 732 B.C., and, in 729 B.C., he is made king of Babylon, which Assyria rules almost uninterruptedly until 625 B.C. Under his military leadership Assyria reaches its greatest power.

c736–716 B.C. The first Messenian War. Sparta conquers Messenia.

722–705 B.C. Reign of Sargon II, king of Assyria. He takes Samaria and, by exiling most of the population, destroys the kingdom of Israel.

c712–663 B.C. Rule of the twenty-fifth dynasty in Egypt.

705–681 B.C. Reign of Sennacherib, king of Assyria. He puts down a widespread rebellion in his empire and defeats Egypt. In 701 B.C., he ravages Judah, but Jerusalem does not fall. Destroys Babylon in 689 B.C.

681–668 B.C. Reign of Essarhaddon, king of Assyria. He combats northern invaders and rebuilds Babylon. He wars against Tyre and Sidon in 676 B.C., and in 671 B.C., makes Egypt an Assyrian province.

669–626 B.C. Reign of Ashurbanipal, king of Assyria. His reign is plagued by wars for independence from his subject countries, notably Egypt.

c650–630 B.C. The second Messenian war. Sparta puts down an insurrection in Messenia. This struggle is probably responsible for the later militaristic reorganization of Sparta.

c639–559 B.C. Solon, Greek poet, general, and statesman. Elected Athenian archon in 594 B.C., he carries out many social, judicial, and constitutional reforms leading toward moderate democracy in Athens.

c626–605 B.C. The Assyrian empire is divided between Babylonia and Media.

c626–538 B.C. The Chaldean (Neo-Babylonian) empire in Babylonia.

616–510 B.C. Rule of the Tarquins, Etruscan kings of Rome, begun by Lucius Tarquinius Priscus who reigns 616–578 B.C. According to tradition, he builds the Cloaca Maxima ("Great Sewer"), the Forum, the Temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, and the Circus Maximus.

612 B.C. Nineveh, capital of Assyria, is destroyed by Nabopolassar, king of Chaldea (625–605 B.C.) and by Cyaxares, king of Media (625–593 B.C.).

605–561 B.C. Reign of Nebuchadnezzar II of Babylon.

597 B.C. Jerusalem is taken by Nebuchadnezzar.

c590 B.C. The first Sacred War in Greece. Anthela, helped by Athens and other cities, conquers and lays waste Cirrha, which had controlled the shrine of Delphi.

586 B.C. Jerusalem is taken for the second time by the Babylonians under Nebuchadnezzar. They destroy temple of Solomon.

550–530 B.C. Reign of Cyrus the Great [c600–530 B.C.]. He founds the Persian Empire.

550–478 B.C. Life of Confucius, the Chinese social philosopher.

530–521 B.C. Reign of Cambyses, king of Persia. He conquers Egypt (525 B.C.), which the Persians rule until 404 B.C.

521–485 B.C. Reign of Darius I [c558–486 B.C.] of Persia. He extends his empire but is defeated in his war against the Greeks.

c509 B.C. Republic of Rome is founded, according to tradition. L. Junius Brutus and L. Tarquinius Collatinus become consuls.

508 B.C. A treaty between Rome and Carthage recognizes Rome's exclusive interests in Latium and Carthage's in Africa.

c505 B.C. The Peloponnesian League is formed, including Sparta and all the states of the Peloponnesus except Achaea and Argos.

499–494 B.C. The Ionians revolt against Persia. Athens sends twenty ships to help the rebels (498 B.C.), but the Persians quell the revolt.

490 B.C. Battle of Marathon. An expedition of 30,000 Persians, sent by King Darius I of Persia, lands at Marathon to march on Athens. They are turned back by 10,000 Athenian infantrymen under Miltiades [c540–c489 B.C.].

483 B.C. Aristides [c530–c468 B.C.], leader of the noble faction of the anti-Persian party in Athens, is ostracized for his opposition to the building of a navy, a policy advocated by Themistocles [c527–c460 B.C.], leader of the same party's popular faction. Soon afterwards Themistocles is elected Athenian general-in-chief.

480–479 B.C. Xerxes [c519–465 B.C.], king of Persia, invades Greece with 180,000 men.

480 B.C. Battle of Thermopylae. Leonidas, king of Sparta, fails to turn back the Persians with a force of 10,000 Greeks. Most of the Greek army flees, but 1,000 men attempt to hold out at the pass of Thermopylae and are annihilated.

480 B.C. Battle of Salamis. After destroying Athens, the Persians arrive at the bay of Salamis, where the Greek fleet is lying. They are tricked by Themistocles into believing that the Greek fleet intends to retreat by night. Instead, it awaits the attack by Xerxes' ships and destroys them.

479 B.C. Battles of Plataea and Mycale. According to tradition both Greek victories over Persians are fought on the same day.

478–477 B.C. The Delian League. Athens signs an offensive and defensive treaty with the Ionians against Persia. The treasury is organized by Aristides [c530–468 B.C.] and the assembly is held on the island of Delos.

464–461 B.C. The third Messenian War. The Messenians again revolt when Sparta suffers an earthquake. They are defeated in 461 B.C. but Sparta gives them safe-conduct to settle in territory provided by Athens.

460 B.C. The first Peloponnesian War between Athens and the Peloponnesian cities. Sparta joins against Athens in 457 B.C.

c459 B.C. Pericles [499–429 B.C.] becomes a leader of the popular party in Athens. During his lifetime, his policies bring Athenian naval strength and colonial power to their zenith.

454 B.C. The treasury of the Delian League is removed to Athens.

451 B.C. Cimon [c507–449 B.C.], an Athenian statesman and general and Pericles' principal opponent, returns from exile and negotiates a five-year truce with Sparta. He dies while leading an Athenian force on Cyprus.

451 B.C. The codification of the Roman law results from the demands of the populace. A committee of ten (decemvirs) draws up the Twelve Tables, which remain basic Roman law for the next 600 years.

449–448 B.C. The second Sacred War between Athens and Sparta over the shrine of Delphi.

448 B.C. The Delian League becomes the Athenian empire as the result of Pericles' decision to use the funds of the league for the benefit of Athens only.

448 B.C. The Valerio-Horatian Laws reducing patrician power are passed in Rome.

446–445 B.C. The Thirty Years' Peace between Athens, Sparta, and the Peloponnesians.

431 B.C. The Great Peloponnesian War begins. Athens and her empire fight Sparta and the Peloponnesian League for hegemony in Greece.

430 B.C. Pericles is deposed.

429 B.C. Pericles is re-elected Athenian general-in-chief, but dies the same year.

421 B.C. Peace of Nicias between Athens, Sparta, and the other participants in the Peloponnesian War. It is named after Nicias, the conservative Athenian leader, who also negotiated the truce of 423 B.C.

418 B.C. Alcibiades [450–404 B.C.], a former ward of Pericles and favorite disciple of Socrates, leads an Athenian force to help Argos, which Sparta has attacked. The Athenians are beaten.

415–413 B.C. The Sicilian Expedition. Alcibiades wins out over Nicias in his advocacy of a campaign against Syracuse. The expedition ends in disaster, with the Athenians utterly defeated. Nicias surrenders and is executed as are the other captured generals.

411 B.C. Alcibiades is recalled to Athens and in 410 B.C., destroys the Peloponnesian fleet at sea.

411 B.C. Sparta signs a treaty with Persia.

405 B.C. A newly built Spartan fleet destroys the Athenian fleet in a surprise attack at Aegospotami.

404 B.C. Athens surrenders to Sparta, which rules Greece for the next 30 years. This marks the end of the Athenian empire.

401–400 B.C. Cyrus [c424–401 B.C.], a younger son of Darius II, leads a mercenary force of 10,000 Greeks against his brother, Artaxerxes II [404–359 B.C.], who had succeeded their father on the Persian throne. Cyrus is defeated and killed in the battle of Cunaxa (401 B.C.). The return march of the Greeks to the sea (more than 900 miles) is described by Xenophon, one of the leaders of the force, in his Anabasis.

399 B.C. Socrates [468–399 B.C.], a philosopher and one of the great teachers in the history of the West, is accused by the Athenian state of corrupting the young. He is condemned to death and made to drink hemlock.

395–387 B.C. The Corinthian War, between Sparta and Persia. It ends with the King's Peace, in which Sparta accepts Persian dominion over the Greek cities in Asia, and Persia agrees not to support Athens and Thebes against Sparta.

377 B.C. The Second Athenian League. Several Greek cities join in this naval alliance against Sparta. The following year the Spartan fleet is destroyed, and Athens wins back control of the sea.

370 B.C. The Arcadian League. Thebes, aided by her allies, attempts to remain the leading state in Greece.

367 B.C. The Licinio-Sextian Laws are passed in Rome, easing the condition of debtors and opening a consulship to the plebeians, among other reforms.

362 B.C. Battle of Mantinea. Epaminondas, the Theban leader, is killed in battle against the Athenian confederacy. This event marks the collapse of Theban power.

359 B.C. Philip II [382–336 B.C.] becomes regent, then king (356–336 B.C.), of Macedon. He organizes his army and quells nationwide anarchy.

355–346 B.C. The Third Sacred War, between Athens and Philip II of Macedon. It ends with the Peace of Philocrates.

344–338 B.C. Demosthenes [384–322 B.C.], considered to be the greatest orator of antiquity, leads the anti-Macedon party in Athens, persuading them to make alliances against Philip. When a Macedonian force captures him (322 B.C.), he commits suicide rather than be held by the group he has devoted his lifetime to combat.

340–338 B.C. The Latin War. Rome subdues the cities that have withdrawn from her Latin League.

339–338 B.C. The Fourth Sacred War. Demosthenes leads Athens and her newly acquired allies into battle against Macedonia, hoping to stem Philip's growing power.

336 B.C. Philip II of Macedon is assassinated. He is succeeded by his twenty-year-old son, Alexander.

334–331 B.C. Alexander (the Great) [356–323 B.C.] conquers the Persian Empire by his victories at the Granicus (334 B.C.), the Issus (333 B.C.), and at Gaugamela (331 B.C.). In 332 B.C. and 331 B.C., he leads an expedition to Egypt and founds Alexandria. He conquers Babylonia, Parthia, and Bactria.

327–325 B.C. Alexander the Great invades India but later withdraws after his troops mutiny.

326–304 B.C. The Second Samnite War ends with Rome's unchallenged supremacy in Campania. The building of the Via Appia, the important military highway, begins in 312 B.C.

323 B.C., June 13 Alexander dies of a fever at Babylon.

323–281 B.C. The Wars of the Diadochi (Successors) among Alexander's generals. The wars abate with the establishment of the kingdoms of the Ptolemies in Egypt, the Seleucids in Babylon, Antigonus in Asia, and Cassander in Macedonia.

202 B.C. Battle of Zama. Scipio destroys the Carthaginian army. Hannibal returns to Carthage.

202 B.C.–A.D. 9 Rule of the Western (or Early or Former) Han dynasty in China.

200–196 B.C. The Second Macedonian War. Rome joins the Greek states against Philip V of Macedon when he fails to keep the peace of Phoenicia (205 B.C.). He is defeated at Cynoscephalae in 197 B.C.

192–189 B.C. The Syrian War between Rome and the Seleucid kingdom. At the battle of Magnesia (190 B.C.), Antiochus III is defeated by Rome. He loses Asia Minor and, later, Armenia and Bactria.

183 B.C. Hannibal commits suicide, rather than allow himself to be handed over to the Romans.

181–145 B.C. Reign of Ptolemy VI [c186–145 B.C.] of Egypt, with his mother, Cleopatra I, as regent.

171–167 B.C. The Third Macedonian War. The Romans defeat Perseus, the last king of Macedon and son of Philip V, at Pydna in 168 B.C. Perseus is taken to Rome, where he dies, and Macedon is divided into four separate republics.

171–138 B.C. The Parthian Empire is created by Mithridates I, who takes Media and Babylonia and, later, Persia, Elam, and areas of Bactria.

168–63 B.C. Judas Maccabaeus and his brothers lead the Jews in rebellion against the Syrian king, Antiochus IV (Epiphanes) [d. 163 B.C.], who tried to Hellenize Jewish life and who declared Judaism to be illegal.

149–148 B.C. The Fourth Macedonian War. The Romans suppress an uprising under Andriscus, who claims to be a son of Perseus of Macedon. At the war's end, Macedonia is made a Roman province.

149–146 B.C. The Third Punic War between Rome and Carthage. It ends with the razing of Carthage by the Romans.

145–116 B.C. Reign of Ptolemy VII [c184–116 B.C.] of Egypt.

138–124 B.C. Reign of Phraates II of Parthia. He is victorious over Antiochus VII in Media (129 B.C.), but is later killed fighting the Scythians.

133 B.C. Tiberius Sempronius Gracchus [163–133 B.C.] is elected Roman tribune on a reform platform. In 133 B.C., he reforms the redistribution of public lands for the benefit of the poor. That year the senate refuses his renomination to office and postpones the election. He is murdered in an ensuing riot.

124–88 B.C. Reign of Mithridates II (The Great) of Parthia. He defeats the Scythians and in 92 B.C., makes a treaty with Rome.

123–121 B.C. Gaius Sempronius Gracchus [153–121 B.C.], Tiberius' brother, is elected tribune in Rome. He introduces several important reform laws and founds commercial colonies in Capua, Tarentum, and Carthage. He is defeated when he seeks re-election for a third year as tribune and is killed in riots following the repeal of some of his bills.

116 B.C. Ptolemy VIII [d. 81 B.C.] becomes king of Egypt. He reigns until 108 B.C., when his brother, Ptolemy IX [108–88 B.C.] takes over the throne. He is restored to power after his brother is killed.

100 B.C. Gaius Marius [156–86 B.C.], a Roman general, becomes consul for the sixth time, having served as tribune (119 B.C.) and praetor (115 B.C.), and having secured victory for Rome in the war against Jugurtha in Africa (111–105 B.C.), against invading barbarians at Aix (102 B.C.), and against the Cimbri at Vercelli (101 B.C.).

88 B.C. Civil war in Rome. Lucius Cornelius Sulla [136–78 B.C.], the Senate's appointee, and Marius, the people's candidate, battle over who will command the army to fight Mithridates VI of Pontus. Marius, beaten, flees to Africa.

88–84 B.C. The First Mithridatic War. King Mithridates VI [c132–63 B.C.] of Pontus conquers most of Asia Minor. Until 85 B.C., he fights the Romans in Greece led by the consul Sulla. Another Roman army then defeats him in Asia Minor. A treaty follows requiring Mithridates to pay an indemnity and to give up most of his conquests.

87–84 B.C. Cinna the consul takes Rome, with Marius' help. They terrorize the opposition and become consuls in 86 B.C. (Marius for the seventh time). Marius dies that year, and Cinna is killed in 84 B.C.

83 B.C. Sulla returns to Italy with 40,000 men, after defeating Mithridates. He defeats his opponents, the Marian party, and massacres 8,000 prisoners.

83–81 B.C. The Second Mithridatic War ends in a Roman victory and a restoration of terms of the peace treaty of 84 B.C.

82 B.C. Sulla becomes dictator. Although he carries out some reforms of Roman law, he kills or proscribes most of his opponents. In 79 B.C., he retires from office and dies in 78 B.C.

78–77 B.C. Marcus Aemilius Lepidus, the consul [d. 77 B.C.], raises an army to wrest control of Rome from the successors of Sulla. He is finally defeated by Sulla's protégé, Gnaeus Pompeius (Pompey) [107–49 B.C.], a young general.

74–63 B.C. The Third Mithridatic War. Mithridates VI is defeated by Lucullus and flees to Armenia, but he returns to Pontus when the Romans withdraw. In 66 B.C., Pompey moves against Mithridates who, vanquished, has himself killed by a slave.

73–71 B.C. The Revolt of Spartacus (also known as the Gladiators' War or the Third Servile War). Gladiators led by Spartacus, a Thracian, seize Mt. Vesuvius, where they are joined by numerous runaway slaves. Crassus and Pompey defeat them.

70 B.C. Crassus [115–53 B.C.] and Pompey [106–48 B.C.], though under the required age, are elected consuls.

64 B.C. Pompey occupies Jerusalem.

64 B.C.–A.D. 395 Rule of the Romans in Palestine.

63 B.C. Conspiracy of Catiline. In the Senate Catiline [108–63 B.C.], a twice-disappointed candidate for the consulship, is accused by Cicero of plotting to seize office by force. After Catiline flees, the other conspirators are executed. Catiline is killed in battle a month later.

60 B.C. The First Triumvirate: Crassus [c115–53 B.C.], a rich politician; Gaius Julius Caesar [101–44 B.C.], his agent; and Pompey, form a personal alliance for political purposes.

59 B.C. Caesar becomes a consul.

58–51 B.C. Caesar conquers Gaul. He briefly crosses the Rhine into Germany (55 B.C.). The same year he fails in his first attempt to invade Britain.

54 B.C. Caesar successfully invades Britain. He then returns to Gaul.

53 B.C. The Parthians defeat and kill Crassus. His lieutenant Cassius takes command of the army.

52 B.C. Pompey is named sole consul by the Roman Senate.

52–51 B.C. The revolt of the Gauls against Rome. Caesar finally captures Vercingetorix, their leader, and mercilessly puts down the insurrection.

51–47 B.C. Joint reign of Cleopatra VII [c69–30 B.C.] and Ptolemy XII, sister and brother, in Egypt. Ptolemy killed in 47 B.C.

49 B.C. Caesar crossed the river Rubicon with one legion. He excuses this illegal act by claiming to protect the tribunes against Pompey.

48 B.C. Caesar defeats Pompey at Pharsalus. Pompey flees to Egypt, where he is killed on order of a minister of Ptolemy XII.

47 B.C. Caesar defeats Pharnaces [67–47 B.C.], the son of Mithridates the Great at Zela in Asia Minor.

47–30 B.C. Reign of Cleopatra VII as queen of Egypt. To re-establish the Ptolemaic empire, she seeks the help first of Caesar, then of Antony.

46–45 B.C. Caesar defeats the remaining Pompeians at Thapsus in Africa (46 B.C.) and at Munda (45 B.C.) in Spain.

44 B.C., Mar. 15 Caesar is assassinated on the Ides of March. His rule has become a dictatorship similar to that of Sulla.

43 B.C. The Second Triumvirate is formed: Mark Antony [83–30 B.C.], Lepidus [d. 13 B.C.], and Octavian [63 B.C.–A.D. 14] rule Rome.

37–32 B.C. Reign of Phraates IV of Parthia. Although he defeats the Romans under Antony, they conquer Armenia (34 B.C.).

37–4 B.C. Reign of Herod (the Great) [73–4 B.C.] of Judea, which is under Roman supervision.

31 B.C. Battle of Actium. Octavian's ships blockade and defeat the fleet of Antony and Cleopatra.

31 B.C.–A.D. 14 Reign of Octavian (later known as Augustus) as Roman emperor.

30 B.C. Egypt becomes a Roman province after the successive suicides of Antony and Cleopatra.

Between 8 and 4 B.C. Jesus of Nazareth is born.

A.D. 9 Battle of the Teutoburger Forest. Arminius [17 B.C.–A.D. 21], a German chieftain, leads a successful revolt of German tribes against the Romans under the command of Varus. Arminius ambushes and destroys three legions.

14 Death of Augustus.

14–37 Reign of Tiberius [42 B.C.–A.D. 37] as Roman emperor.

c29 Jesus is crucified. The order is given by the Roman procurator of Judea, Pontius Pilate.

37–41 Reign of Caligula [12–41] as Roman emperor. This reign is characterized by Caligula's megalomania and ends with his assassination.

41–54 Reign of Claudius [10 B.C.–A.D. 54] as Roman emperor.

43 A Roman army begins the conquest of Britain. Southern Britain is organized as a Roman province.

48–79 The Romans conquer Wales.

51–77 Reign of Vologesus I of Parthia. In 63, he founds the Arsacid dynasty in Armenia by placing his brother Tiridates on the throne of that country after making peace with Rome.

54–68 Reign of Nero [37–68], emperor of Rome. He succeeds Claudius, who is possibly poisoned by his fourth wife, Agrippina (Nero's mother).

c60–67 St. Paul is arrested in Jerusalem (c60) and is imprisoned there for two years. Because he is a Roman citizen, he is then returned to Rome, where after two more years in prison, he is acquitted and released. Traditionally he and St. Peter are killed in a persecution of Christians in Nero's reign (c67).

64 Rome is almost entirely destroyed by fire, supposedly set by Nero.

66–73 A Judean revolt against Roman rule results in the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the Temple by Titus (70).

68–69 Reign of Galba [c4 B.C.–A.D. 69] as Roman emperor. A Roman commander in Spain, he is first acclaimed emperor by his two legions. When the praetorian guard accepts Galba, Nero kills himself.

69 Galba [5 B.C.–A.D. 69] is murdered by Otho [32–69], who forces the senate to recognize him as emperor. When Otho is then defeated in battle by Vitellius, he commits suicide.

69 Vitellius [15–69], who is acclaimed by his legions in Germany as emperor in place of Galba, is killed in Rome fighting the supporters of Vespasian, the Roman commander in Judea.

69–79 Reign of Vespasian [9–79] as the first of the Flavian emperors of Rome. He advocates a hereditary military rule, thus insuring the succession of his son Titus.

78–85 Gnaeus Julius Agricola [37–93], governor of Britain, extends the Roman conquest of the island.

79–81 Reign of Titus [39–81] as Roman emperor; son of Vespasian. Notable during this reign is the eruption of Mount Vesuvius (79) causing the destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum.

81–96 Reign of Domitian [65–96], a younger brother of Titus, as Roman emperor.

96–98 Reign of Nerva [35–98] as Roman emperor, following the assassination of Domitian.

98–117 Reign of Trajan [53–117] as Roman emperor. Born in Spain, he is first emperor to have been born in the provinces.

113–117 Trajan extends the Roman empire in a war with Parthia (114–116). He annexes Armenia (114) and makes Roman provinces of Mesopotamia (115) and Assyria (116). The river Tigris now marks the eastern border of the empire.

117–138 Reign of Hadrian [75–138] as Roman emperor.

132–135 Simon Kochba [d. 135] leads Judea in a rebellion against Rome. After defeat by the Romans, the Jews are barred from Jerusalem, which is made a Roman colony. This results in the further dispersion of the Jews, begun under Vespasian.

161–180 Reign of Marcus Aurelius [121–180] as Roman emperor. He shares the imperial authority with Lucius Aurelius Verus until Verus dies (169). A distinguished Stoic philosopher, he is the author, in Greek, of Meditations.

180–192 Reign of Commodus [161–192] as Roman emperor.

193 Pertinax [126–193] is chosen Roman emperor but is murdered shortly thereafter by the praetorian guard, who then "sell" the office to Didius Julian [133–193]. The latter is executed when Septimius Severus [146–211], who is proclaimed emperor by his soldiers, takes Rome.

193–211 Reign of Septimius Severus [146–211] as Roman emperor.

205–211 Britain revolts against Roman rule, and Septimius Severus dies fighting the Caledonians.

212 The Edict of Caracalla gives Roman citizenship to most free people living in the empire.

218–222 Reign of Heliogabalus [204–222] (Elagabalus) as Roman emperor. He is murdered by the praetorian guard.

220–265 The Three Kingdoms period of Chinese history: the Wei, Shu, and Wu dynasties each rule a part of the empire.

241–244 War between Rome and Persia. The Romans push the attackers back across the Euphrates and defeat them.

249–251 Reign of Decius [201–251] as Roman emperor. The Christians are widely persecuted. Decius is killed in battle by the Goths.

253–259 Reign of Valerian [c193–c260] as Roman emperor. In this period the Franks, Goths, and the Alemanni break through the borders of the empire, where outlying cities now begin to surround themselves with walls.

258–260 War between Rome and Persia. The Persians defeat and take prisoner the emperor Valerian. He dies in captivity.

265–317 Rule of the western Tsin (Chin) dynasty in China. Nominally, the country is reunited.

270–275 Reign of Aurelian [c212–275] as Roman emperor. He consolidates the empire by retreating to the earlier Danubian border, pushing back the Alamanni, and recovering Gaul. Aurelian has walls built around Rome. He is assassinated by some of his officers.

284–305 Reign of Diocletian as Roman emperor. He divides the empire into an eastern part (Asia and Egypt), which he rules from Nicomedia, and a western part (Italy and Africa), which is ruled from Milan by Maximian, a co-Augustus, selected by Diocletian in 285.

293, Mar. 1 Diocletian chooses Galerius as his successor (Caesar) and Maximian selects Constantius as his.

303, Feb. 23 Diocletian orders a general persecution of the Christians, which continues in the East until 313.

305, May 1 Diocletian and Maximian abdicate, and Galerius [c250–311] and Constantius [c250–306] become co-equal Roman emperors.

306–337 Reign of Constantine I (Constantinus, the Great) [c285–337] as Roman emperor. When Diocletian and Galerius did not select him to succeed his father Constantinius, he joins his father in Britain, but when Constantius dies, his legions acclaim Constantine as emperor. After several years of struggle with various co-emperors and prospective successors, Constantine emerges as sole ruler of the empire, East and West.

312–313 Constantine converts to Christianity and persuades Licinius, then the co-emperor in the West, to join him in promulgating the Edict of Milan, which gives equal rights to all religions and restores confiscated property to the Christians.

325 Council of Nicaea. Constantine convenes the first ecumenical council at Nicaea to deal with the Arian heresy in the Church.

330, May 11 Constantinople is founded. Upon the completion of the building of Constantinople, Constantine dedicates the city as his capital.

337–361 Reigns of Constantine's sons, Constantine II [d. 340], Constans I [d. 350], and Constantius II [d. 361] as Roman emperors.

359–361 War between Rome and Persia, ending with a peace treaty favorable to the Persians.

361–363 Reign of Julian (the Apostate) [331–363] as Roman emperor. Though brought up a Christian, he attempts to restore paganism.

363–364 Reign of Jovian [c331–364] as Roman emperor. Elected to the throne by his troops, he restores Christianity to the position it held before the reign of Julian the Apostate. He dies after yielding Mesopotamia to the Persians.

379–395 Reign of Theodosius I (the Great) [346–395] as emperor of the East (as emperor of the West, 394–395). Baptized in 380, he helps the Church end the Arian heresy and paganism in the Empire.

390 Emperor Theodosius does public penance before Bishop Ambrose of Milan for the massacre of 7000 inhabitants of Thessalonica after an insurrection.

394 Theodosius defeats and kills the murderers of Valentinian II, his co-emperor in the West. The Roman empire is again, but only briefly, under a single ruler.

402–417 Papacy of Saint Innocent I [d. 417]. He upholds the supremacy of the pope over the entire Church.

407 The Romans evacuate Britain.

408–450 Reign of Theodosius II [401–450] as Roman emperor of the East. In 438, he issues the Theodosian Code, a systematization of the complex body of existing Roman laws.

410 The Goths under Alaric [c370–410] besiege and sack Rome.

422–432 Papacy of Saint Celestine I [d. 432]. He strengthens orthodoxy in the Church.

425–455 Reign of Valentinian III [419–455] as Roman emperor of the West. In 437, he marries the daughter of Theodosius II, emperor of the East. In 454, he kills Aëtius [c396–454], his general and the victor over the Huns at the battle of Châlons (451); the following year Valentinian is assassinated by two of Aëtius' men.

430, Aug. 28 St. Augustine [b. 354] dies in Hippo Regius, his episcopal seat in the Roman province of Africa, while it is besieged by Vandals, who capture it in 431.

432 St. Patrick [c389–461] arrives in Ireland from England to convert the Irish to Christianity. With St. Columba and St. Bridget, he is the Gaelic patron saint.

439 The Vandals occupy Carthage, which remains their capital until 533, when they are defeated by the Byzantine general Belisarius [c505–565].

440–461 Papacy of Saint Leo I (the Great) [c390–461]. An important pope, he fights Manichaeism and other heresies and schisms. Supported by Emperor Valentinian III, he asserts the supremacy of the pope over the bishops. Tradition credits him with stopping Attila's advance on Rome (452).

451 The Huns, under Attila, invade Gaul. They are defeated at Châlons (June 451) by the Romans under Aëtius and by their Visigothic allies under King Theodoric I, who is killed in the battle.

452 The Huns, under Attila, enter Italy. According to tradition, they turn back when Pope Leo I intercedes. Lack of supplies and an outbreak of plague may be the actual causes of the withdrawal.

466–484 Reign of Euric [d. 484], king of the Visigoths, who brings their power to its highest point.

475–476 Reign of Romulus Augustus [b. c461] (also called Augustulus), last Roman emperor of the West. He is deposed by Odoacer [434–493], a barbarian chieftain of Italy, who is then recognized as de facto head of the western Empire by Zeno, the emperor in the East.

481–511 Reign of Clovis I [c466–511], king of the Franks. He is the first important figure in the Merovingian dynasty.

486 The Franks, under Clovis, defeat the Romans, under Syagrius, at Soissons and end Rome's hold on Gaul.

488 Theodoric I (the Great) [c454–526], king of the Ostrogoths, invades Italy.

493 Theodoric I takes Ravenna, accepts Odoacer's surrender, and then has him assassinated. After this, Theodoric rules Italy. He dies in 526.

c500 The Arabs invade Palestine.

518–527 Reign of Justin I [c450–527] as Byzantine emperor. An illiterate, he entrusts the administration of the empire to his nephew Justinian, who succeeds him on his death.

524–532 War between the Byzantine empire and Persia. It ends with the so-called "Perpetual Peace," which lasts until 540.

527–565 Reign of Justinian [483–565] as Byzantine emperor. He is strongly influenced by his wife, Theodora. With the help of his generals, Belisarius and Narses, he fights the Vandals and the Persians and reconquers North Africa (533–543) and Italy (535–554). He codifies Roman law, strengthens Christianity, and builds many public edifices, among them the church of St. Sophia in Constantinople (532–537).

531–579 Reign of Chosroes I [d. 579] (Khosru Nushirwan or Anoshirwin), greatest of the Sassanian rulers of Persia. He concludes a favorable peace (533–540) with the Byzantine empire and extends Persian territory. His fame rests on administrative reforms, land improvements, an equitable taxation system, a policy of toleration to foreigners and Christians, and the encouragement of learning.

535–554 Emperor Justinian's armies, led first by Belisarius [c494–565], then by Narses [492–568], expel the Ostrogoths from Italy.

547 Emperor Justinian permits the Lombards, a Germanic tribe, to settle in what is today Hungary and eastern Austria.

563 Saint Columba [c540–615], an Irish missionary to Scotland, founds a church at Iona and converts the king of the Picts to Christianity.

565–578 Reign of Justin II [d. 578] as Byzantine emperor. A nephew of Justinian, he continues the latter's policies emphasizing economic reforms and warding off Lombard and Persian invasions. He becomes insane in 574.

570–632 Life of Mohammed, founder of Islam.

578–582 Reign of Tiberius II [d. 582] as Byzantine emperor. A commander of the guard under Justin II, he rules the empire with Empress Sophia from 574 until Justin's death, then becomes emperor.

581–618 Rule of the Sui dynasty in China.

c587 Buddhism, introduced from Korea, is permitted to spread in Japan. Its advent brings an increase of Chinese cultural influence.

590–604 Papacy of Saint Gregory I (the Great) [c590–604] is marked by rigorous discipline in the Church and honest and efficient administration. In his dealings with the Byzantine emperor and the Lombards, Gregory lays the basis for later papal claims of temporal authority and independence.

597 Saint Augustine [d. c605], a Roman monk sent by Pope Gregory, begins the conversion of the English to Christianity. He founds a church at Canterbury.

606–647 Reign of Harsha [c590–647] in Northern India. Mainly because he leaves no heir, empire breaks up after his death.

613–629 Reign of Clotaire (Lothair) II [584–629], the Merovingian king, under whom the Frankish realm is once more reunited.

618–907 Rule of the T'ang dynasty in China.

622, July 15 Traditional date of the Hegira, Mohammed's flight with a few adherents from Mecca to Medina. Though July 2 is the correct date, the Moslem era is dated from July 15.

c622 Clotaire II appoints Pepin of Landen [d. 639] and Arnulf, bishop of Metz [d. 640], to govern Austrasia (a Frankish land) in the name of Dagobert, his young son. Pepin is the first of the Carolingian line, which ultimately (751) takes over the kingship from the Merovingian "idle kings" (rois fainéants).

632–661 The Orthodox Caliphate of Islam, comprising the first four caliphs (caliph = successor, i.e. of Mohammed).

633–732 Islam expands beyond Arabia into the following: Iraq (633), Babylonia (637), Syria (638), Egypt (639–643), Mesopotamia (641), Barca (643), Persia (644), western North Africa (697–705), Spain (711–713), and southern and southwestern France (720–732).

668–685 Reign of Constantine IV [648–685] as Byzantine emperor. He repels Moslem attacks on Constantinople (673–678), but loses territory to the Bulgars. In 680 he summons the sixth ecumenical council (also known as the third council of Constantinople), which restores peace between the Eastern and Western Churches.

670–935 Rule of the Silla kingdom in Korea, established with the aid of China.

c680 The Bulgarians, having defeated a Byzantine army, settle the area between the Danube and the Balkans. Gradually they merge with the native Slavs.

685–695 First part of the reign of Justinian II [669–711] as Byzantine emperor. Beaten by the Arabs at Sebastopolis (692), he is deposed and exiled to the Crimea in 695.

687–c714 Pepin of Heristal [d. 714], grandson of Pepin of Landen, the Austrasian, Frankish mayor of the palace. He defeats the Neustrian, Frankish nobles at Tertry and, until his death, rules all the Franks under the nominal kingship of the Merovingians.

695–698 Reign of Leontius [d. 705] as Byzantine emperor.

698 The Arabs take Carthage, ending Byzantine rule in North Africa.

698–705 Reign of Tiberius III [d. 705] as Byzantine emperor.

705–711 Second part of the reign of Justinian II [669–711] as Byzantine emperor. He returns from exile and wins back his throne with the help of the Bulgars. He is killed in the course of a serious insurrection originating in the Crimea.

710–784 The Nara period in Japan, so called from the city of Nara or Heijo, which at this time is the capital.

711–715 Moslem conquest of Spain. An Army of Moslem Berbers (Moors) under Tarik [d. c720] invades Spain and defeats the Visigoths under King Roderick [d. 711]. All but northernmost Spain is conquered.

714–741 Reign of Charles Martel [c689–741], son of Pepin of Heristal, as Frankish Mayor of the Palace. He continues his father's conquests of the German tribes across the Rhine and strengthens the central power within the kingdom.

717–741 Reign of Leo III (the Isaurian) [c680–741] as Byzantine emperor. The founder of a dynasty that rules until 802, he restores order to the empire, repels the Arabs (stopping their advance for almost 200 years), and reforms the empire's administration, army, and legal and fiscal systems. His measures against image-worship open the great iconoclastic controversy that continues until 843. The popes oppose Leo, and Byzantium loses most of its power over Rome.

732 Battle of Tours (or Poitiers). Charles Martel defeats the Moslems and arrests their invasion of Europe.

741–775 Reign of Constantine V [719–775], son of Leo III, as Byzantine emperor. He continues many of his father's policies, including iconoclasm; Byzantium consequently loses all power over Rome. He wars with marked success against the Bulgars, Slavs, and Arabs. During his reign (746), the plague ravages the Empire, but he resettles Constantinople by force.

751–768 Reign of Pepin the Short [c714–768], the first Carolingian king of the Franks. In return for military support of the papacy against the Lombards, he is crowned by Pope Stephen II (754).

756 The Donation of Pepin. Pepin the Short hands over to the Pope the territories from which the Franks had driven the Lombards, thus establishing a basis for the temporal power of the papacy and for the Papal States.

759 The Moslems make their final retreat over the Pyrenees into Spain.

768–814 Reign of Charlemagne (Charles the Great) [742–814], king of the Franks; emperor of the West (800–814). His conquests add to the Frankish dominions the Lombard kingdom of Italy, the "Spanish March" south of the Pyrenees, the Saxon lands between the Rhine and the Elbe, Bavaria, and Carinthia. With his coronation as emperor by Pope Leo III in Rome (Christmas Day, 800) there is once more an empire in the West. Charlemagne devises an administrative and legal system that brings a remarkable degree of unity to his immense and diversified realms. His patronage of learning (the Palace School at his capital, Aix-la-Chapelle) helps make possible the preservation through the Middle Ages of the classical and early Christian intellectual heritage.

773–774 Charlemagne leads a victorious campaign against the Lombards in Italy and is crowned with the Lombard kings' iron crown.

778 Charlemagne in Spain. He suffers a partial defeat at Roncesvalles.

780–797 Reign of Constantine VI [771–c797] as Byzantine emperor. He succeeds to the throne while still a child, with his mother, Irene, as regent. She is deposed (790) but Constantine recalls her (792) and makes her co-ruler. With the help of a military revolt she takes power from him and has him blinded.

787 The Second Council of Nicaea (seventh ecumenical council) rejects iconoclasm and orders images restored in churches.

794–1185 The Heian period in Japan, so called from the city of Heian (modern Kyoto), the capital (794–1868). The period sees a gradual transition from the imitation of China to a more purely Japanese society and culture.

800, Dec. 25 Charlemagne is crowned emperor of the West by Pope Leo III in Rome.

813–820 Reign of Leo V (the Armenian) [d. 820] as Byzantine emperor. In opposition to the orthodox party in the Church, he sponsors the revival of iconoclasm (Council of St. Sophia, 815). After a great victory over the Bulgars in 817, he concludes with them a 30-year truce. He is assassinated by conspirators.

814–840 Reign of Emperor Louis the Pious [778–840], son of Charlemagne. His weak rule ushers in the disintegration of the Carolingian empire.

840–855 Reign of Emperor Lothair I [c795–855]. He and his brothers, Louis the German [c804–876] and Charles the Bald [823–877], continue the struggle over territorial questions that began in the reign of their father, Louis the Pious.

842–867 Reign of Michael III [d. 867] as Byzantine emperor. Iconoclasm is finally defeated (843). Important missionary activity among the Slavs of the southern Balkans, Bohemia, and Moravia (mission of Saints Cyril and Methodius). But Moslem attacks continue, and the Russians raid Constantinople (860). Michael is murdered by Basil the Macedonian, who succeeds him.

843 Treaty of Verdun. The Carolingian Empire is divided, with Louis the German receiving the eastern part, Charles the Bald the western part (roughly equivalent to modern France), and Lothair, who retains the title of emperor, the central part (later called Lotharingia). The treaty marks the final dismemberment of Charlemagne's empire and, thus, the end of European political unity.

843–877 Reign of Charles the Bald as king over a territory approximating that of modern France and as Emperor (875–877). Charles is the founder of the Carolingian dynasty that rules the western Franks (843–987). His own reign, marked by constant strife, is notable for the decline of the royal power and the increase of the power of the great nobles.

855–875 Reign of Emperor Louis II [c822–875], son of Lothair I. He sides with his brother, Lothair II, King of Lotharingia, when Pope Nicholas I opposes the latter's divorce. Louis' rule in Italy is limited by power of the Lombard nobles in the north and of the invading Arabs in the south.

858–867 Papacy of Saint Nicholas I (the Great) [c800–867]. His rule is marked by three important decisions: he upholds the right of an ecclesiastic to appeal to Rome over his superior; he prevents King Lothair from divorcing his wife (864); he excommunicates the usurper of the patriarchate of Constantinople (863). After Nicholas' reign papacy declines in power and prestige until eleventh century.

863–885 Mission of Saints Cyril (827–869) and Methodius (c885) to the Slavs of Moravia and Bohemia.

866–1160 Dominance of the Fujiwara family in Japan. Members of the clan exercise power as regents or chancellors for the emperors and by intermarriage with the imperial family.

870 Treaty of Mersen. After the death of Lothair II, Lotharingia is divided between Louis the German and Charles the Bald.

871–899 Reign of Alfred the Great [849–899], king of Wessex; overking of Kent (including Essex, Sussex, and Surrey). Probably the most effective Anglo-Saxon king, reduces Danish power in England.

879–912 Reign of Oleg, Varangian (Viking) ruler in Russia. He captures Kiev (882), making it his capital.

881–887 Reign of Emperor Charles III (the Fat) [839–888]. Chosen king of France in 884, he is deposed (887), when he fails to aid the defense of Paris against the Normans.

886–912 Reign of Leo VI (the Wise) [866–912] as Byzantine emperor. A responsible ruler, he sponsors an important revision of legal code. In his reign begins a long series of wars against the Bulgarians.

888–898 Reign of Eudes (Odo) [d. 898] in France. Having defended Paris against the Normans, he is elected king after the deposition of Charles the Fat. After five years of civil war against Charles III (elected king by another faction) Eudes rules with him until his death.

893–923 Reign of Charles III (the Simple) [879–929] in France. He first shares the kingship with Eudes, then reigns alone after the latter's death (898). He grants (in fief) to Rollo [c860–931], a Norse chieftain, most of what is today Normandy. He is dethroned in 923.

907–1123 Rule of the Khitan Mongols in northern China.

911–918 Reign of Conrad I [d. 918], king of Germany.

919–936 Reign of Henry I (the Fowler) [c876–936], the first German king of the Ottonian (Saxon) line of rulers that continues to 1024, and considered to be the founder of the German realm. He brings Lorraine (Lotharingia) back to Germany (925), fights the Wends and Magyars, and expands his power into Denmark.

935–1392 Rule of the Koryo kingdom in Korea.

936–954 Reign of Louis IV [c921–954] of France. Helped to the throne by Hugh the Great, a powerful noble, he fights Norman and Hungarian invaders.

936–973 Reign of Otto I (the Great) [912–973], king of Germany; emperor (962–973). He makes several expeditions to Italy and intervenes vigorously in Italian and papal affairs. By uniting Germany and Italy under his rule, he founds the Holy Roman Empire.

c950–985 Reign of Harald Bluetooth [d. c985], king of Denmark. Christianity is introduced into Denmark in this period.

954–986 Reign of Lothair [941–986], king of France. The period is marked by the great power of Hugh the Great and his son Hugh Capet, dukes of France.

955 Battle of the Lechfeld (Augsburg). Emperor Otto I wins a great victory over the Magyars, ending their threat to Germany.

957 Princess Olga [d. 969] of Russia visits Constantinople and is converted to Christianity.

960–1279 Rule of the Sung dynasty in China.

968–1171 Rule of the Fatimid Dynasty in Egypt.

973–983 Reign of Otto II [955–983], king of Germany and Holy Roman Emperor. He crushes a Bavarian revolt (978), and repels invasions by Danes and western Franks. He is defeated by the Saracens in southern Italy (982), and is killed in battle (983).

976–1025 Reign of Basil II (Bulgar slayer) [c958–1025] as Byzantine emperor. A forceful and cruel ruler, he campaigns for years against the Bulgarians, whose army he finally destroys at Balathista (1014). With the annexation of Bulgaria (1018) and Syria (995) the empire reaches its greatest size since reign of Justinian I.

980–1015 Reign of Vladimir I (Saint Vladimir) [c956–1015], first Christian duke of Kiev. He makes Orthodox Christianity the religion of the Russian people.

987–996 Reign of Hugh Capet [938–996], king of France. His election to the throne by the nobles marks the beginning of the Capetian line of kings, who rule France until 1792.

992–1025 Rule of Boleslav I (the Brave) [d. 1025] of Poland. The first ruler of the country to style himself king, he is the real founder of the Polish state, and has considerable success in his aim to bring under his rule all the western Slavs.

995–1028 Rule of Fujiwara Michinaga [966–1028] in Japan. The power of the Fujiwara family is at its height.

997–1038 Reign of Stephen I (Saint Stephen) [c975–1038], first king of Hungary. Through his efforts, Christianity of Latin rite is established as religion of Hungary.

999–1003 Papacy of Sylvester II [c940–1003], the first French pope.

1000 Leif Ericsson, the Norse, lands at a point on the North American coast (probably either in New England or Nova Scotia) which he names Vinland.

1014 Battle of Clontarf. The Irish King Brian Boru [926–1014] defeats the Norse, thus ending Norse power in Ireland.

1014–1035 Reign of Knut (Canute) II [c994–1035], king of Denmark; king of England (1017–35); king of Norway (1028–35). He strengthens the English Church and codifies English laws.

1019–1054 Reign of Yaroslav [d. 1054] of Kievan Russia. The oldest Russian law code, the "Russian Truth," is drawn up in this period.

1028–1034 Reign of Romanus III [c968–1034] as Byzantine emperor; first husband of Empress Zoë.

1028–1050 Reign of Zoë [980–1050] as Byzantine empress. She marries three times, and her husbands are elevated to the throne as Romanus III, Michael IV, and Constantine IX.

1034–1041 Reign of Michael IV [d. 1041] as Byzantine emperor; second husband of Empress Zoë.

1039–1056 Reign of Henry III [1017–1056], king of Germany and Holy Roman Emperor (1046–56). The empire is at its height; Henry's authority extends to Hungary, Poland, and Bohemia. He is a champion of Church reform and nominates four reforming popes.

1040–1057 Reign of Macbeth [d. 1057], murderer of his predecessor Duncan, as king of Scotland.

1042–1055 Reign of Constantine IX [c1000–1055], as Byzantine emperor; third husband of Empress Zoë. After Zoë's death (1050), he reigns alone.

1042–1066 Reign of Edward the Confessor [c1002–1066], king of England. He is strongly guided by Godwin [d. 1053] and his son Harold, earls of Wessex. When he dies, Harold is chosen king to succeed him.

1049–1054 Papacy of Saint Leo IX [1002–1054], who furthers reform and reorganization of the Church and strongly reasserts papal primacy.

1054 The final schism, which continues to the present day between the western (Roman) and the eastern (Orthodox) churches. The break, which had actually existed for centuries, becomes formal at this time because of a controversy between Pope Leo IX and the Byzantine Patriarch over southern Italy, theoretically under Byzantine jurisdiction but coming under papal control with the advance of the conquering Normans.

1054–1056 Reign of Theodora [980–1056] as Byzantine empress.

1054–1057 Papacy of Victor II [1018–1057]. Though a German and a friend of Emperor Henry III, he furthers the power of the Church even where it impinges upon that of the emperor.

1056–1106 Reign of Henry IV [1050–1106], king of Germany and Holy Roman Emperor (1084–1106). The great struggle with the papacy over lay appointment and investiture of bishops and abbots sets Henry against Pope Gregory VII and leads to years of civil strife in Germany, since many of the nobles support Pope against King. Henry eventually subdues the rebellious nobles, but his son, the future Henry V, revolts (1104) and forces his father to abdicate. Escaped from prison, Henry IV is regaining support when he dies.

1058–1061 Papacy of Nicholas II [c980–1061]. In 1059, the Synod of the Lateran declares that future popes are to be elected by a College of Cardinals. In the same year the Synod of Melfi prohibits marriage of the clergy.

1059–1093 Reign of Malcolm III Canmore [d. 1093] of Scotland. His wife is (Saint) Margaret, grand-niece of Edward the Confessor. Through her, English influence becomes dominant in Scotland, against the wishes of the Gaelic Scots.

1065–1109 Reign of Alfonso VI of León; king Castile (1072–1109). He captures Toledo from the Moors (1085). This period is marked by a great impetus to reconquer the lands held by the Moors, and by the exploits of the Cid (Rodrigo Díaz) [c1040–99].

1066, Oct. 14 Battle of Hastings. The Normans under their duke, William, defeat the Saxons under King Harold, ending Saxon rule in England.

1066–1087 Reign of William I (the Conqueror) [1027–87] of England. Duke of Normandy from 1035, he leads the victorious Norman invasion of England. Gradually he reduces the country to submission and builds a strong Norman state upon existing Saxon institutions and law, retaining for the crown great power over military, legal, and economic matters and over the Church.

1071 Battle of Manzikert (in Armenia). The Seljuk Turks under Alp Arslan [1029–72] defeat a Byzantine army under Emperor Romanus Diogenes—a catastrophic loss for the Byzantine empire, for with the collapse of the eastern frontier the Turks can overrun Asia Minor.

1073–1085 Papacy of Saint Gregory VII [c1020–85], one of the greatest popes. As Hildebrand, a Benedictine monk, he is a leader of the movement for church reform and an important papal adviser for years before his own election. As pope, his insistence on the supremacy of Church and papacy earn him the opposition of Emperor Henry IV, who drives Gregory and his Norman allies from Rome in 1084. Gregory dies in exile a year later.

1077, Jan. At the castle of Canossa in Tuscany, Emperor Henry IV does penance before Pope Gregory VII, who had excommunicated him because of his actions in opposing Gregory's ban on lay investiture. The Pope absolves Henry.

1086 The Domesday survey in England. By order of King William I, all landed property is surveyed for tax purposes, and the results are recorded in the Domesday Book.

1087–1100 Reign of William II (Rufus) [c1056–1100] of England, a venal grasping monarch whose rule is marked by corruption. William, always unpopular, is killed (presumably assassinated) while hunting.

1088–1099 Papacy of Urban II [c1042–1099], who continues the policies of Gregory VII. A request by the Byzantine emperor, Alexius Comnenus, for help against the Turks is followed by Urban's proclamation of the First Crusade (1095).

1096–1099 First Crusade preached by Pope Urban II. The notable leaders are several great French and Norman nobles. Jerusalem is taken (1099). Four Latin or Crusader states are established around Edessa, Antioch, Tripoli, and Jerusalem.

1100–1135 Reign of Henry I [1068–1135] of England. He gains control of Normandy by defeating his brother, Duke Robert at Tinchebrai (1106). He is involved in a long struggle with the Church, headed by Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury (Saint Anselm) [1033–1109] over lay investiture.

1106–1125 Reign of Henry V [1081–1125] of Germany and Holy Roman Emperor (1111–25). His reign, like that of his father, Henry IV, is marked by controversy with the popes over lay investiture, a compromise being reached in the Concordat of Worms (1122), and by the rebellions of the German nobles.

1108–1137 Reign of Louis VI (the Fat) [1081–1137] of France. Vigorously maintaining order and justice, filling important offices with men from the rising middle class and the lesser nobility and clergy, Louis succeeds in strengthening the French monarchy. Battles with Henry I of England and checks a German invasion (1124).

1113–1125 Reign of Vladimir Monomakh [1053–1125], grand prince of Kiev.

1118–1119 Papacy of Gelasius II [d. 1119]. He excommunicates Emperor Henry V and flees to France, where he dies.

1118–1143 Reign of John II Comnenus [1088–1143] as Byzantine emperor.

1119–1124 Papacy of Calixtus II [d. 1124]. He arranges the Concordat of Worms (1122), but continues the excommunication of Emperor Henry V.

1122 Concordat of Worms. A settlement by compromise of the investiture controversy whereby the Emperor may confer upon new bishops only the temporal, not the spiritual, insignia of their office. The Emperor or his representative may attend clerical elections in Germany, but not in Italy or Burgundy.

1125 The Guelphs-Ghibellines feud begins. On the death of Emperor Henry V without a direct heir, the nearest heir, Frederick of Hohenstaufen, is passed over, and Lothair, Duke of Saxony, of the Welf family, is elected as Lothair II, thus starting a long struggle between Guelphs (from the Italian name for Welf) and Ghibellines (from Waibling, a name applied to the Hohenstaufens).

1125–1137 Reign of Lothair II [c1070–1137] of Germany (Holy Roman Emperor 1133). In the imperial election after his death, Conrad of Hohenstaufen is chosen over the Welf claimant, Henry the Proud.

1135–1154 Reign of Stephen [c1097–1154] of England, nephew of Henry I. His reign is marked by civil war occasioned by the claim to the throne of Matilda [1102–67], Henry's daughter. Eventually Stephen accepts as his heir Matilda's son, who succeeds him as Henry II.

1137–1180 Reign of Louis VII (the Young) [c1121–80] of France. By his marriage to Eleanor [c1122–1204], heiress to the duchy of Aquitaine, he adds to his domain immense territories in southwestern France. But the marriage is annulled, and Eleanor soon marries (1152) the future Henry II of England, bringing him her vast lands and making inevitable a long struggle between the kings of France and of England.

1138–1152 Reign of Conrad III [1093–1152] of Germany, founder of the Hohenstaufen dynasty (which rules until 1268). Germany is in chaos because of the Welf-Waiblinger (Guelph-Ghibelline) struggle.

1143–1185 Reign of Alfonso I Henriques [1112–85], the first king of Portugal. Ruler of the country of Portugal, a province of León, since his father's death in 1112, he is proclaimed king in 1143.

1147–1149 Second Crusade, preached by Saint Bernard of Clairvaux [1091–1153]. Despite the participation of Louis VII of France and Conrad III of Germany, the expedition accomplishes nothing.

1152–1190 Reign of Frederick I (Barbarossa) [c1123–90] of Germany (Holy Roman Emperor 1155). Considering himself the heir of Charlemagne and the great imperial tradition, he revitalizes the German monarchy and intervenes extensively in Italian and papal politics; the Lombard League of north Italian towns, led by Milan, is formed to oppose the imperial influence (1167). Frederick dies in Asia Minor during the Third Crusade.

1157–1174 Reign of Andrei Bogoliubski [d. 1174], prince of Suzdal. Much territory of what is to be Russia is unified under him.

1158–1214 Reign of Alfonso VIII [d. 1214] of Castile. Defeated by the Moors (1195), he leads a coalition of Christian armies to a decisive victory over the Moors at Las Navas de Tolosa (1212), followed by the expulsion of most Moors from Spain.

1176 Battle of Legnano. Emperor Frederick Barbarossa is defeated by the Lombard League.

1180–1183 Reign of Alexius II Comnenus [c1168–83] as Byzantine emperor. The people of Constantinople revolt (1182) against and slaughter westerners living in the city.

1180–1223 Reign of Philip II (Augustus) [1165–1223] of France. He quadruples the royal domain by his conquest of the English lands north of the Loire (1204). By defeating a coalition headed by John of England and the Emperor Otto IV at Bouvines (1214), he establishes France as a leading European power.

1185–1333 The Kamakura Period in Japan, named from the site of the effective government, which is under the control of the dominant Minamoto family. Japan is now well into its feudal period.

1187 Jerusalem falls to Saladin [1138–93].

1189–1192 The Third Crusade, led by Emperor Frederick Barbarossa, Richard the Lionhearted of England, and Philip Augustus of France. Frederick dies before reaching the Holy Land, and Richard and Philip are more concerned with their own deadly rivalry in Europe than with war against the infidel. Acre is captured (1191), but Jerusalem stands firm, although Saladin, in a treaty negotiated with Richard, grants the Christians access to the city.

1189–1199 Reign of Richard (the Lionhearted) of England. He spends his entire reign abroad as a crusader and as a soldier fighting against Philip Augustus of France. Returning from the Third Crusade, he is captured and delivered to Emperor Henry VI, who exacts a tremendous ransom, which is eventually raised in part by taxes in England (1194).

1190–1197 Reign of Henry VI of Germany [1165–97] and Holy Roman Emperor (1191–97). He acquires Norman Sicily and southern Italy by marriage (1186).

1198–1216 Papacy of Innocent III [1161–1216], the last powerful mediaeval pope. He organizes the papal chancery, restores several Italian territories to direct papal control. Moreover, he initiates the Fourth Crusade (1202), and the Albigensian Crusade (1208). In this pontificate Saint Francis of Assisi and Saint Dominic found the Franciscan and Dominican orders. The Fourth Lateran Council (1215), passes administrative and doctrinal decrees of great importance.

1199–1216 Reign of John [c1167–1216] of England, brother of Richard I. His rule is marked by the loss of the English possessions in France north of the Loire (1204), by John's long struggle with Pope Innocent III, originating in a disputed election to the Archbishopric of Canterbury, and by the granting of the Magna Carta (1215).

1202–1204 The Fourth Crusade, which never reaches the Holy Land, but ends instead in the capture of Constantinople by the Crusaders, who then sack the city (1204). The Byzantine emperor, Alexius V, is deposed, and a Latin Empire, which lasts until 1261, is established.

1205–1235 Reign of Andrew II [1175–1235] of Hungary. He is forced by the lesser nobles to issue the Golden Bull (1222), a document defining the rights of the clergy and nobility.

1206–1222 Reign of Theodore I (Lascaris) [d. 1222] of the Byzantine Empire of Nicaea, founded after the fall of Constantinople during the Fourth Crusade.

1206–1227 Reign of the Mongol emperor Genghis Khan [1162–1227].

1208 The Albigensian Crusade against the Albigensian heretics of southern France is proclaimed by Pope Innocent III and carried on for many years. The heretics are eventually driven underground, but the great culture of Provence is destroyed.

1212 The Children's Crusade, led by a French boy, Stephen of Cloyes. Thousands of children reach Marseilles and are sold into slavery. Another group of German children also travels eastward and perishes from hunger and sickness.

1212–1250 Reign of Frederick II [1194–1250] of Germany; king of Sicily (1197–1250); Holy Roman Emperor (1220–50), by his personality, intellect, and interests perhaps the most remarkable man of his time. Sicilian by birth and upbringing, he concentrates on his Italian kingdom and neglects his German realm. He gives Sicily an efficient, centralized administration, but concedes to the German nobles and clergy great privileges in return for their support, thus increasing the already serious political disunity of Germany. Frederick's ambition to rule all of Italy, including Rome, involves him in a great struggle with the papacy; he dies before the controversy is settled, and his descendants are ruthlessly pursued by the popes.

1215, June 15 The Magna Carta (the Great Charter) is forced from King John by the English barons at Runnymede. Although in itself a purely feudal document, enumerating concessions to the barons from their feudal lord, the king, the Magna Carta comes to acquire immense significance as the basic English constitutional document providing for certain fundamental rights and liberties.

1215 Genghis Khan conquers China.

1216–1227 Papacy of Honorius III [d. 1227].

1216–1272 Reign of Henry III [1207–72] of England. The reign is notable for the series of constitutional crises (1258–65) involving king, barons, and the increasingly prosperous and influential middle class, from which evolves English Parliament.

1217–1221 The Fifth Crusade is directed against Moslem strength in Egypt. Damietta is taken (1219), but is evacuated (1221), when Cairo expedition fails.

1217–1252 Reign of Ferdinand III [1199–1252], king of Castile; king of León (1230–52). He continues the Christian reconquest, taking Córdoba (1236) and Seville (1248); only Granada remains as a Moorish stronghold in Spain.

1226–1270 Reign of Louis IX (Saint Louis) [1214–70] of France, by his personality and conception of his kingly role perhaps the ideal mediaeval Christian monarch. He is celebrated for his fair administration of justice, both to any subject who applies to him personally and to foreign princes who ask him to arbitrate quarrels. He acquires Aquitaine and Toulouse after the failure of an invasion by Henry III of England (1242). He goes twice on crusades (the Seventh and Eighth), dying of the plague in Tunis on his second expedition.

1227–1241 Papacy of Gregory IX [c1147–1241].

1228–1229 The Sixth Crusade, led by Emperor Frederick II, who makes notable gains for the Christians not by fighting but by negotiation. By a treaty with the Sultan of Egypt (1229), Jerusalem, Nazareth, and Bethlehem are restored to Christians and a ten-year truce is reached.

1233 The Inquisition is established when Pope Gregory IX grants to the Dominican order authority to investigate the Albigensian heresy.

1236–1263 Reign of Alexander Nevski [c1220–63], prince of Novgorod; prince of Vladimir (1252–63). He is renowned for his great victories over the Swedes on the Neva River (1240), and over the Teutonic Knights on the ice of Lake Peipus (1242).

1237–1240 Mongol conquest of Russia. The Mongols overrun all of Russia, establishing their capital at Sarai on the Volga. For 200 years they exact tribute and soldiers from the Russian princes, but otherwise intervene little in Russian affairs.

1237–1254 Reign of Conrad IV [1228–54], king of Germany; Holy Roman Emperor (1237–54); king of Sicily and of Jerusalem (1250–54).

1243–1254 Papacy of Innocent IV [d. 1254].

1244 Jerusalem is taken by Turkish mercenaries from central Asia in the service of the Sultan of Egypt. The city remains in Moslem hands until 1917.

1248–1254 The Seventh Crusade, the first led by Louis IX of France. Damietta is captured (1249), but the next year Louis is taken prisoner and forced to pay a large ransom; Damietta is eventually retaken by the Moslems.

1249–1286 Reign of Alexander III [1241–86] of Scotland. He wins the Hebrides and the Isle of Man from Norway. On his death a dispute over the succession leads to the intervention of Edward I of England, who eventually conquers Scotland (1304).

1252–1259 Reign of Christopher [1219–59] of Denmark.

1254–1273 The Great Interregnum, a postscript to the conflict of the Hohenstaufens and the popes: no German king is made emperor during these years. The interregnum ends in 1273, with the election of Rudolf of Hapsburg as emperor.

1258 Baghdad is captured and sacked by the Mongols under Hulagu [1217–65], Genghis Khan's grandson, and the last caliph of Baghdad, Al-Mustassim [1221–58], is slain.

1260–1294 Reign of Kublai Khan [1216–94] in China. He founds the Yüan or Mongol dynasty (1260–1368), and, in 1279, completes the overthrow of the Sung dynasty.

1270 The Eighth Crusade. The last led by Louis IX of France, it is cut short by his death in Tunis. This is the last crusade of real importance.

1271–1295 Marco Polo [c1254–c1324] travels to China and is taken into the service of Kublai Khan.

1273–1291 Reign of Rudolf I [1218–91] of Germany, the first Hapsburg emperor. He is less interested in imperial pretensions than in consolidating the power and holdings of his own family, which he strengthens notably by the acquisition of Austria (to remain under Hapsburg rule till 1918).

1282, Mar. 31 The Sicilian Vespers, a bloody uprising of the Sicilian populace against French (Angevin) rule, so named because it broke out at the hour of vespers.

1289–1326 Reign of Osman I [1259–1326], traditionally the first Ottoman Turkish sultan.

1290 The Jews are expelled from England by Edward I, not to return until the middle of the seventeenth century.

1291 Acre, last stronghold of Christians in the Holy Land, falls to Moslems.

1294–1303 Papacy of Boniface VIII [c1235–1303]. Unam Sanctam (1302), his vigorous assertion of papal power and rights, founders against rising national consciousness in western Europe. Edward I of England and Philip IV of France, supported by their respective national assemblies, win out over Boniface in controversies over the right of lay rulers to tax the clergy and to try them for crimes.

1302, July 11 Battle of the Golden Spurs at Courtrai in Flanders, one of the earliest victories of infantry (pikemen) over mounted knights. The French, who had occupied Flanders, are overwhelmingly defeated by Flemish burghers, who are said to have gathered hundreds of gold spurs from the bodies of fallen knights.

1305–1314 Papacy of Clement V [1264–1314], a Frenchman, elected after an 11-month conclave. He never leaves France and, in 1309, settles in Avignon (a papal possession), the first of seven popes to reside there (the Babylonian Captivity of the Church). Clement generally yields to demands of the French king, Philip IV.

1306 The Jews are expelled from France by Philip IV, who confiscates their property.

1307–1327 Reign of Edward II [1284–1327] of England, a weak monarch whose rule is marked by the loss of Scotland (1314) and the constant opposition of the barons to the king and his favorites. Finally Edward's queen, Isabella, daughter of Philip IV of France, leads a revolt against him, and he abdicates. His fifteen-year-old son succeeds as Edward III.

1308–1342 Reign of Charles I [1288–1342] of Hungary; founder of the Anjou line of Hungarian kings.

1309–1377 The Babylonian Captivity of the Catholic Church, during which seven popes (from Clement V to Gregory XI) reside not at Rome but at Avignon.

1314, June 24 Battle of Bannockburn. The Scots under Robert Bruce [1274–1329] defeat the English under Edward II and win independence. Final union of England and Scotland does not take place until 1603.

1326–1333 War in Poland against the Teutonic Knights, who eventually win.

1327–1377 Reign of Edward III [1312–77] of England, a popular monarch and hardy soldier. The events of his long rule reflect the course of the Hundred Years' War. The division of Parliament into two houses, later called Lords and Commons, begins. In the king's old age his sons, Edward the Black Prince [1330–76] and John of Gaunt [1340–99], contend for power, but the Black Prince dies in 1376, and his ten-year-old son succeeds the next year as Richard II.

1328–1350 Reign of Philip VI [1293–1350] of France, first king of the House of Valois; ruler at the beginning of the Hundred Years' War.

1336–1392 Civil war in Japan between the deposed Emperor Daigo II and his descendants (the Southern Court, at Yoshino) and the Emperor Komyo and his descendants (the Northern Court, at Kyoto). In 1392, the southern emperor abdicates in favor of the northern, and the double sovereignty ends.

1336–1558 The Ashikaga family (Shoguns) dominate Japan. This is a period of constant warfare among great feudal nobles and of extraordinary economic and commercial growth.

1340, June 24 Battle of Sluys. On the North Sea near the Flemish port of Sluys, the English fleet defeats the French in the first major engagement of the Hundred Years' War. The English gain mastery of the Channel and access to northern France.

1343 The Peace of Kalisch between Poland and the Teutonic Knights. Pomerelia is retained by the Knights, and Poland is left without access to the Baltic.

1346, Aug. 26 Battle of Crécy. The outnumbered English under Edward III gain a great victory over the French under Philip VI, English longbowmen triumphing over mounted French knights.

1347 Calais is taken by the English, who hold it until 1558.

1348–1350 The Black Death, an epidemic of the plague that had originated in Constantinople, devastates western Europe, reducing the population in some places by as much as half.

1350–1364 Reign of John II [1319–64] of France. Taken prisoner at the battle of Poitiers, he lives for years in captivity in England, his able young son, the future Charles V, becoming regent. John is ransomed in 1360, but a hostage escapes, and John returns to England, where he dies.

1358 The Jacquerie, a peasant revolt in France (from Jacques Bonhomme, a common French name for a peasant). The peasants' uprising, a protest mainly against war taxation, is suppressed by the royal army and the nobles.

1360 Peace of Brétigny between England and France, ending the first period of the Hundred Years' War. Edward III renounces his claim to the French throne, and receives in return Aquitaine, Poitou, and Calais.

1362–1389 Reign of Dmitri Donskoi [1350–89], grand prince of Moscow.

1364–1380 Reign of Charles V (the Wise) [1337–80] of France, who restores his country's virtually exhausted military power at a critical point in the Hundred Years' War. In the respite after the Peace of Brétigny (1360), he rebuilds defenses and organizes a standing army and a strong navy; the war is resumed in 1370, but at Charles' death the English hold only a few ports, including Bordeaux and Calais.

1368–1644 Rule of the Ming dynasty in China.

1369–1405 Reign of the Mongol conqueror Timur (Tamerlane) [c1336–1405] of Samarkand, whose domains come to include much of present-day Iraq, Iran, and Afghanistan, and western India as far as Delhi.

1370–1378 Papacy of Gregory XI [1331–78]. He moves to Rome from Avignon (1377), thus ending the Babylonian Captivity of the Church.

1377–1399 Reign of Richard II [1367–1400] of England. His rule is marked by factional strife among various princes and their noble followers. In an attempt to control the power of the great nobles, Richard is for a time virtually an absolute ruler, but he is deposed by his cousin, Henry of Bolingbroke, who succeeds with the approval of Parliament as Henry IV. Richard dies, possibly murdered, in prison.

1378–1380 The war of Chioggia. Venice defeats Genoa in a battle for supremacy in trade with the Levant.

1378–1402 Rule of Gian Galeazzo Visconti [1351–1402] in Milan. He extends his control over Padua, Verona, and Vicenza, but his attempts to forge a north Italian kingdom are thwarted by Florence.

1378–1417 The Great Schism of the Church, which begins when cardinals opposed to Pope Urban VI [1318–89] (pope, 1378–89), an Italian who intends to remain at Rome, elect Clement VII [c1342–94], who rules from Avignon. Two lines of popes are thus established, and the states of Europe support one or the other according to political considerations.

1380–1422 Reign of Charles VI [1368–1422] of France. He becomes insane, and never really rules. France, weakened by war and divided by the feud of two great noble factions, the Armagnacs and Burgundians, is fair game for the campaigns of Henry V of England, who, by the Treaty of Troyes (1420), is named regent and Charles' heir, the real dauphin being cast aside. Both Henry and Charles die in 1422, leaving two claimants to the French throne: the infant Henry VI of England, and the rightful king, Charles VII, established with his supporters south of the Loire.

1381 The Peasants' Revolt in England, provoked by the imposition of a poll tax in 1380. Led by Wat Tyler [d. 1381] and others, great numbers of peasants march on London, where the young Richard II masters them by promising to meet their demands. He does not keep his word, and cruel reprisals against the rebels follow.

1382 Under the direction of John Wycliffe [c1320–84], the Vulgate Bible is translated into English.

1385–1433 Reign of John I [1357–1433] of Portugal, founder of the Avis dynasty, father of Prince Henry the Navigator. The great period of Portuguese history, marked by important voyages of discovery, begins.

1387–1412 Reign of Margaret [1353–1412] of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden. The union of the three kingdoms that she brings about (Union of Kalmar) lasts from 1397 to 1523.

1389–1403 Reign of Bayezid I [1347–1403] as Ottoman sultan. He makes important conquests eastward in Anatolia, and wipes out a European crusading army at Nicopolis (1396). But Ottoman expansion is halted, and the empire itself virtually brought to dissolution, by the invading Mongols under Timur (Tamerlane), who captures Bayezid at the battle of Ankara (1402).

1396 Crusade of Nicopolis. A European army led by Sigismund of Hungary meets the Turks under Bayezid I near Nicopolis and is annihilated.

1399–1413 Reign of Henry IV [1367–1413] of England, first king of the house of Lancaster. A number of insurrections occur, including the protracted rebellion of Owen Glendower [c1359–c1416] and his followers in Wales and that of the Percy family in Northumberland (1403).

1409 The Council of Pisa, called to end the Great Schism, chooses a pope of its own and declares the Roman and Avignonese popes deposed. But they refuse to resign, and there are three popes.

1413–1422 Reign of Henry V [1387–1422] of England, a celebrated soldier and a great popular hero. Setting out to regain the former English lands in France, he reconquers Normandy (1417–19), and, by the treaty of Troyes (1420), is designated regent of France and heir to the French king, Charles VI. Henry's sudden death puts a halt to further English conquest.

1414–1417 The Council of Constance ends the Great Schism by deposing the three rival popes and electing in their place Cardinal Colonna as Pope Martin V. It also tries and condemns as a heretic John Hus [c1369–1415], the Bohemian religious reformer, who is burned at the stake.

1415, Oct. 15 Battle of Agincourt. The English under Henry V defeat the French, opening the way for the reconquest of Normandy.

1415–1460 Prince Henry the Navigator of Portugal [1394–1460], greatest of the patrons of exploration and discovery, sends out expeditions that open to the Portuguese the west coast of Africa almost to present-day Sierra Leone.

1417–1431 Papacy of Martin V [1368–1431], chosen by the Council of Constance to end the Great Schism.

1420–1433 The Hussite Wars in Bohemia, involving issues both of religious reform (the preachings of John Hus) and Bohemian (Czech) nationalism. The Bohemians repel a number of imperial crusades, but eventually (1436), accept the Emperor Sigismund as king.

1422–1461 Reign of Charles VII [1403–61] of France. The liberation of Orléans by Joan of Arc and Charles's coronation soon afterwards (1429), form a turning point in the Hundred Years' War. The French army is at last reorganized as an up-to-date fighting force, and the English are driven from Normandy (1450) and from Aquitaine at Castillon (1453), marking the end of the war. Calais remains the last English stronghold on the continent.

1422–1461 Reign of Henry VI [1421–71] of England, an infant at his accession, troubled throughout his life by periods of insanity. It is a disastrous reign, marked abroad by the final defeats of the Hundred Years' War in France and, at home, by continuous civil strife, including the beginning of the Wars of the Roses (1455).

1431, May 30 Joan of Arc is burned at the stake in Rouen.

1434–1464 Rule of Cosimo de' Medici (Pater Patriae) [1389–1464] in Florence.

1438 The Pragmatic Sanction of Bourges, issued by Charles VII of France, asserts the autonomy of the Church in France against the authority of the Pope, establishing the policy known as Gallicanism. (A pragmatic sanction is a royal pronouncement with the force of law.)

1438–1439 Reign of Albert II (Hapsburg) [1397–1439], emperor of Germany. Henceforth in practice the imperial title is hereditary in the Hapsburg family.

1440–1493 Reign of Frederick III [1415–93], emperor of Germany.

1447–1455 Papacy of Nicholas V [c1397–1455], scholar and humanist, founder of the Vatican Library.

1448–1453 Reign of Constantine XI (Palaeologus) [1404–53], the last Byzantine emperor. He dies fighting in the defense of Constantinople during the final siege.

1453, May 29 Fall of Constantinople. The Turks, under Mohammed the Conqueror, breach the walls of the city and capture it. After a thousand years, the Byzantine Empire comes to an end.

1458–1490 Reign of Matthias Corvinus [1440–90] of Hungary; king of Bohemia (1470–90); an able administrator; like his father, Janos Hunyadi [c1387–1456], a renowned soldier against the Turks; one of the great Renaissance patrons of art and learning. Under his rule Hungary is the most important state of central Europe.

1461–1483 Reign of Louis XI [1423–83] of France, whose nickname of "Universal Spider" suggests his qualities of shrewdness and diligence, and his genius for negotiation and intrigue. He brings about the reconstruction of France after the Hundred Years' War in conditions of peace, security, and increasing prosperity. Largely by diplomacy he destroys the menacing power of the dukes of Burgundy, and, by annexing not only Burgundy (1482), but Provence, Maine, and Anjou (1480–81), he doubles the royal domain.

1461–1483 Reign of Edward IV [1442–83] of England, first king of the House of York. He gradually gets the best of his chief rivals in the continuing civil war, but dies just as a period of stability and order seems assured.

1462–1505 Reign of Ivan III (the Great) [1440–1505] of Russia, considered the founder of the Russian state. He brings under Moscow's rule almost all the Russian principalities, including Novgorod (1478), and repudiates the overlordship of the Mongols (the "Tartar yoke").

1466 The second Peace of Thorn: the Teutonic Knights cede Pomerelia and West Prussia to Poland, which now has access to the Baltic.

1469 Ferdinand, son of John II of Aragon, marries Isabella, stepsister and heir of Henry IV of Castile, foreshadowing the eventual union of the crowns of Aragon and Castile in the kingdom of Spain.

1471–1484 Papacy of Sixtus IV [1414–84], one of the chief patrons of the great Renaissance beautification of Rome. The Sistine Chapel in the Vatican is built (1473).

1477, Jan. 5 Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy [1433–72], is killed in battle with the Swiss at Nancy, thus ending the possibility that the Burgundian domains might become a strong national state between France and Germany. Louis XI of France occupies the Duchy of Burgundy and Franche-Comté; Flanders and the Low Countries pass to the Hapsburgs with the marriage (1477), of Duke Charles's daughter to Maximilian of Austria, the future Holy Roman Emperor.

1478–1492 Rule of Lorenzo de' Medici (the Magnificent) [1449–92] of Florence, astute statesman and diplomat, poet and humanist of originality and brilliance, a great patron of learning and the arts.

1479–1516 Reign of Ferdinand [1452–1516] and Isabella [1451–1504], (the Catholic Monarchs) of Spain; Isabella, queen of Castile (1474–1504); Ferdinand, king of Aragon (1479–1516). Although the crowns of Castile and Aragon are not actually united until the reign of their grandson Charles I, Ferdinand and Isabella build up central royal power in Spain, curbing the privileges of the feudal aristocracy and regulating the power of the Church. The year 1492 sees not only the discovery of America by Columbus, in Isabella's service, but also the fall of the Moorish kingdom of Granada (the final triumph of the reconquest), and the expulsion of the Jews (the Moors are expelled in 1502). Inquisition is active, particularly against Christians of Jewish or Moorish background.

1483 Edward V [1470–83] becomes king of England at the age of 12. His uncle and guardian, Richard, Duke of Gloucester, succeeds in dethroning him and having himself crowned as Richard III. The same year Edward and his younger brother are imprisoned in the Tower of London and murdered, probably at Richard's order.

1483–1485 Reign of Richard III [1452–85] of England. He is an able ruler, but he cannot erase the general impression that he has usurped the throne from his nephew Edward V and is responsible for his death. His enemies unite behind Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond, head of the House of Lancaster, and Richard is defeated and killed at Bosworth Field (Aug. 22, 1485). Tudor succeeding as Henry VII.

1483–1498 Reign of Charles VIII [1470–98] of France. His marriage (1491) to Anne of Brittany [1477–1514] joins her province to the French crown. In 1494, seeking to make good his claim to Naples, Charles invades Italy, takes Naples (Feb. 1495), but withdraws before a coalition of Milan, Venice, Ferdinand of Aragon, Pope Alexander VI, and Emperor Maximilian.

1488 Bartolomeu Dias [c1450–1500] rounds the Cape of Good Hope, the first European to do so.

1492, Oct. 12 Christopher Columbus [1457–1506] discovers America. He lands first in the Bahamas, and then goes on to discover Cuba and Santo Domingo.

1492–1503 Papacy of Alexander VI (Rodrigo Borgia) [c1431–1503], whose chief preoccupation is the aggrandizement of his own family in central Italy.

1493–1496 Columbus on his second voyage discovers Dominica, Puerto Rico, and some other Caribbean islands. The expedition includes some 1500 colonists, who are to lay foundations of Spanish power in America.

1493–1519 Reign of Maximilian I [1459–1519] as German emperor. He attempts to reorganize the empire, dividing it into ten administrative areas or "circles." By advantageous marriages he furthers the Hapsburg fortunes: his own wife, Mary of Burgundy, is heiress to the Burgundian lands in the Netherlands and Franche-Comté; their son marries the daughter of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain. Thus, the inheritance of Maximilian's grandson Charles (Emperor Charles V) is one of formidable size and diversity.

1494, June 7 Treaty of Tordesillas between Portugal and Spain, giving to Portugal all lands east and to Spain all lands west of a line of demarcation 370 leagues west of the Azores. By this treaty, Brazil is placed in the Portuguese sphere.

1494 The Statute of Drogheda (Poyning's Law) gives the English king and Parliament legislative power over the Irish parliament.

1497–1498 On two voyages, John Cabot [1450–98], an Italian in the service of England, explores the North American coast from Labrador, possibly as far south as Delaware.

1497–1499 Vasco da Gama [c1469–1524] sails from Lisbon to Calicut, India, and back.

1498–1500 Columbus, on his third voyage, discovers Trinidad and reaches the mouth of the Orinoco.

1501–1502 Amerigo Vespucci [1451–1512], an Italian in the service of Portugal, explores the eastern coast of South America.

1501–1506 Reign of Alexander I, king of Poland and grand duke of Lithuania. He loses the left bank of the Dnieper to Ivan the Great of Russia (1503). The National Diet becomes the chief legislative body through the Constitution of Radom (1505).

1502–1504 Columbus, on his fourth voyage, reaches the South American mainland at Honduras.

1503–1513 Papacy of Julius II [1443–1513], statesman and general as well as pope. He plays a vital role in the League of Cambrai against Venice and in the Holy League formed (1511) to drive the French from Italy. He is the patron of Michelangelo and Raphael.

1508, Dec. 10 The League of Cambrai is formed by Emperor Maximilian I, Louis XII of France, Ferdinand of Spain, and Pope Julius II to check Venetian power. Venice is defeated by the French at Agnadello (1509), Maximilian takes Venetia, and concessions are made to Ferdinand and the pope. In 1510, however, the pope leaves the League and goes over to Venice which, despite her losses, is still a great power at the end of the war.

1509–1547 Reign of Henry VIII [1491–1547] of England, who represents the claims of both Lancaster and York. His first wife is Catharine of Aragon (married 1509, divorced 1533), mother of Mary I; the second is Anne Boleyn (m. 1533, beheaded 1536), mother of Elizabeth I; the third, Jane Seymour (m. 1536, died 1537), mother of Edward VI; the fourth, Anne of Cleves (m. 1540, divorced 1540); the fifth, Catharine Howard (m. 1540, beheaded 1542); and the sixth, Catharine Parr (m. 1543). He wages war against France and Scotland (1512–14). He founds the Royal Navy. Beginning of English Reformation is marked by the Act of Supremacy (1534), which names the king supreme head of the English church. In 1539, the Statute of the Six Articles defines heresy. Ireland is made a kingdom (1542).

1513, Sept. 9 Battle of Flodden Field [1488–1513]. James IV of Scotland, who was allied with France, is defeated and killed by the forces of Henry VIII of England.

1513 Juan Ponce de León [c1460–1521] discovers Florida.

1513–1521 Papacy of Leo X (Giovanni de' Medici, son of Lorenzo the Magnificent) [1475–1521], a great patron of the arts; pope at the beginning of the Reformation, whose significance he does not recognize.

1515 Thomas Wolsey [c1475–1530], chief adviser and friend to Henry VIII of England, named cardinal and lord chancellor.

1515–1547 Reign of Francis I [1494–1547] of France (of the Angoulême branch of the house of Valois). He is almost constantly at war with Emperor Charles V, for Hapsburg power all but surrounds France and conflicts as well with French ambitions in Italy. Though a Catholic monarch, Francis does not hesitate to ally himself against the Emperor with the Turks and the German Protestants.

1516 Concordat of Bologna between Francis I of France and Pope Leo X. The Pragmatic Sanction of 1438 is rescinded; the king is to appoint bishops and abbots, but the pope will receive annates (the first year's revenue) from church domains where the king has made an appointment.

1517, Oct. 31 Beginning of Protestant Reformation in Germany, when Martin Luther [1483–1546] nails to the church door at Wittenberg his 95 theses against the abuse of indulgences.

1519 Hernando Cortés [1485–1547] begins conquest of Mexico. He is courteously received by Montezuma II [c1477–1520] (Nov. 8) in the Aztec capital, Tenochtitlán, but imprisons the Aztec ruler and imposes his own harsh rule.

1519–1522 First circumnavigation of the globe by an expedition led by Ferdinand Magellan [c1480–1521], a Portuguese in the service of Spain.

1519–1556 Reign of Charles V [1500–58], emperor of Germany; as Charles I (of Hapsburg), king of Spain and ruler of Spanish America, Austria, the Netherlands, Franche-Comté, and the Aragonese possessions in Italy and the Mediterranean (1516–56). His long reign is filled with wars with the French (under Francis I and Henry II), who, being virtually surrounded by Hapsburg lands, seek to maintain some balance of power against them; and with the Turks, from whom he takes Tunis in 1535. In Germany, Charles' efforts to bring about religious unity are fruitless and, disillusioned, he abdicates (1556), retiring to a monastery, where he dies. To his son Philip, he leaves Spain, the Netherlands, Naples, Milan, and Franche-Comté; to his brother Ferdinand, the imperial office and the Hapsburg lands in central Europe.

1520, June 7 Meeting of Henry VIII of England and Francis I of France at the Field of the Cloth of Gold.

1520 Martin Luther publicly burns the papal bull which criticizes his writings, and he is excommunicated.

1520–1566 Reign of Suleiman I (the Magnificent) [c1496–1566], Ottoman sultan. The turks capture Belgrade (1521) and Rhodes (1522); at the battle of Mohács (1526), they destroy the Hungarian army, but for the next forty years continue to campaign against Hungary and Persia. Charles V, Pope Paul III, and Venice form the Holy League against the Turks (1538).

1521 Diet of Worms, presided over by Emperor Charles V. Luther refuses to recant his teachings and is placed under the ban of the empire. But Elector Frederick of Saxony takes him under protection, and he begins to translate Bible into German.

1523–1534 Papacy of Clement VII [1470–1534]; nephew of Lorenzo de' Medici. He is captured during the sack of Rome (1527).

1523–1560 Reign of Gustavus I (Vasa) [1496–1560] of Sweden. The treaty of 1537, ending the war with Lübeck, destroys the trade monopoly of the Hanseatic League. The Reformation proceeds: bishops are made dependent on the king, payments to the pope discontinued, church estates secularized, and services modified. The New Testament is translated into Swedish (1526).

1524 Giovanni da Verrazano [c1480–1527] explores the New England coast.

1524–1525 The Peasants' War in Germany. Inspired by Lutheran religious ideas, the peasants, largely in southern Germany, rise in protest against conditions in the villages and manors. But Luther, although he believes that God is the Supreme Authority over the spiritual realm, also believes that the princes have the authority over the temporal realm, and therefore advises the princes to quell the rebellion. Consequently, southern Germany does not espouse Lutheranism.

1525, Feb. 24 Battle of Pavia. The Spaniards defeat Francis I of France, who is captured and taken to Madrid where, in the Treaty of Madrid (1526), he promises to give up his Italian claims, Burgundy, and his suzerainty in Flanders and Artois. He repudiates these promises upon his release.

1526 League of Cognac. Francis I of France enters into an alliance with the pope, Milan, Florence, and Venice against Emperor Charles V and the Spanish. Their wars are unsuccessful, for by the Treaty of Cambrai (1529), Francis once again renounces his Italian claims, Venice gives up her conquests, and Charles is left dominant in Italy.

1527, May 6 The sack of Rome by troops of Emperor Charles V. Pope Clement VII is captured, and Rome's pre-eminence as a center of the Renaissance is ended.

1529, Sept. Ottoman Turks, led by Suleiman I, unsuccessfully besiege Vienna.

1529 Sir Thomas More [1476–1538] becomes lord chancellor of England when Thomas Wolsey loses favor with Henry VIII, because he agrees with the pope's reluctance to grant the king a divorce from Catharine of Aragon.

1529 The German Lutheran states protest an anti-Lutheran resolution of an imperial Diet at Speier, whence "Protestant."

1531–1535 Francisco Pizarro [c1470–1541] conquers Peru. Marching into the interior with a small expedition, he repays the courtesy of Atahualpa, the Inca, by capturing him (1532), and, in spite of the payment of a large ransom, Pizarro executes him (1533). He occupies Cuzco, the capital, and installs Manco as Inca. He founds Lima (1535), which becomes the capital of the viceroyalty of Peru.

1533–1584 Reign of Ivan IV (the Terrible), grand duke of Moscow. He is crowned czar in 1547, the first to bear the title. Conflict with the boyars, powerful nobles who control the regency (1538–47), results in a reign of terror (1564). Realizing the need for an outlet to the Baltic, he seizes part of Livonia from the Poles (Livonian War, 1557–82) and sacks Novgorod (1570), massacring much of the population, because he suspects that they sympathize with Poland. Other conflicts occur: in 1571, the Tatars attack from the Crimea and sack Moscow; in 1578, the Swedes defeat the Russians at Wenden; in 1581, Stephen Bathory, king of Poland, invades Russia. Finally peace between Russia and Sweden and Poland is negotiated (1582).

1534 The Society of Jesus (Jesuit order) is founded by Ignatius Loyola [1491–1556].

1534 The Act of Supremacy is passed by Henry VIII, designating the king and his successors "Protector and only Supreme Head of the Church and Clergy of England." In England, this perhaps is the beginning of the Protestant Reformation.

1534–1549 Papacy of Paul III [1468–1549], the first pope to take a vigorous initiative in reforming the Church from within. He appoints a number of reforming cardinals, approves the Society of Jesus (1540), establishes the Roman Inquisition (1542), and opens the Council of Trent (1545). It is he who excommunicates Henry VIII of England (1538).

1535 Miles Coverdale [1488–1569] publishes the first complete Bible in English.

1539 Statute of the Six Articles of Henry VIII of England defines heresy.

1542 Ireland is made a kingdom.

1545–1563 The Council of Trent of the Catholic Church, called because of the Protestant Reformation and in session at irregular intervals for 18 years. It draws up a definitive statement of Catholic doctrine and decrees a thoroughgoing reform of the Church, particularly with respect to the education, organization, and conduct of the clergy.

1547–1553 Edward VI [1537–53] becomes king of England at the age of ten years. His uncle, Duke of Somerset, is made lord protector and governs in his stead.

1547–1559 Reign of Henry II of France, who continues the anti-Hapsburg policy of Francis I. On his death in a jousting match, he leaves three young sons, who succeed to the throne as Francis II (1559–60), Charles IX (1560–74), and Henry III (1574–89). Their mother, Catherine de Médicis, influences all three reigns.

1550–1555 Papacy of Julius III [1487–55].

1553–1558 Reign of Mary Tudor (Bloody Mary) [1516–58] of England. Catholicism is restored under her rule, and Protestants are persecuted. In 1554, she marries Philip II of Spain. Calais, the last English territory on the Continent, is lost (1558).

1555, Sept. 25 The Peace of Augsburg grants to each prince of the empire the right to choose Catholicism or Lutheranism, but not Calvinism as the religion of his state, the choice to be binding on all his subjects (cuius regio eius religio—the religion of the region shall be that of the ruler). In general, Lutheranism prevails in north Germany and Catholicism in south Germany and the Rhineland.

1555–1559 Papacy of Paul IV [1476–1559]. The Index of Forbidden Books is established (1559).

1556–1564 Reign of Ferdinand I [1503–64], emperor of Germany; king of Bohemia (1526–62); king of Hungary (1526–63); brother of Charles V. He is forced to abandon most of Hungary to the Turks under Suleiman I.

1556–1598 Reign of Philip II [1527–98] of Spain, king of Portugal from 1580, ruler as well of the Netherlands, Franche-Comté, Milan, Naples, and the Spanish and Portuguese empires overseas; by his marriage to Mary Tudor, titular king of England (1554–58). Ascetic, hard-working, a fanatical Catholic, Philip assumes the leadership of the Catholic counter-reformation; a religious aim—defense of the faith and eradication of heresy—dominates his policy in Spain and his other realms (notably the Netherlands, where the Inquisition is introduced), and his dealings with other states, Catholic and Protestant. His numerous wars drastically deplete the Spanish treasury, though the country remains a formidable military power, and enters the Golden Age (siglo de oro) of its art and literature.

1557–1582 Ivan IV of Russia invades Livonia, hoping to obtain an outlet to the Baltic. At first successful, he is defeated by Stephen Bathory, king of Poland.

1558 The French under the Duke (François) of Guise [1519–63] take Calais, the last English possession in France.

1558–1603 Reign of Elizabeth I [1533–1603] of England. The Catholic legislation of her predecessor, Mary Tudor, is revoked, and the laws of Henry VIII in regard to the Church reinstated. The Thirty-Nine Articles are adopted (1563), and the Church of England (Anglican Church) established. War with France ends with the Peace of Troyes (1564). The capture and imprisonment of Mary, Queen of Scots (1568), believed by many to be the legitimate heir to the throne, results in her execution (1587). In 1586, Sir Francis Drake [c1540–1596] goes on his first expedition to the West Indies. War with Spain (1588) culminates in the defeat of the Spanish Armada in the English Channel. The search for new trade routes and foreign markets leads to the formation of the East India Company (1600), founded to develop commerce with India. The Elizabethan Poor Law (1601) makes the parishes responsible for their needy.

1558–1648 Reign of Christian IV [1577–1648], king of Denmark and Norway. The country is involved in the Thirty Years' War with Germany, which in its early period is chiefly a struggle between Catholics and Protestants (1618–29). After the signing of the Treaty of Lübeck (May 22, 1629), Christian promises to stay out of German affairs. Rivalry with Sweden twice breaks out into open warfare (1611–13; 1643–45); however, the Swedes triumph.

1559, Apr. 3 Peace of Cateau-Cambrésis between Henry II of France and Philip II of Spain. Spain retains Franche-Comté and her Italian possessions, but France keeps the three bishoprics of Metz, Toul, and Verdun, which she had taken in 1552.

1559–1560 Reign of Francis II [1544–60] of France (first husband of Mary Queen of Scots). Under the growing influence of the great Catholic family of Guise, persecution of the Huguenots increases.

1559–1567 Mary Stuart [1542–87] assumes the title of Queen of England and Scotland on the accession of her husband, Francis II, to the throne of France. After his death, she returns to Scotland (1561), and marries Lord Darnley, who is murdered by the Earl of Bothwell (1567). She then marries Bothwell. When the nobles revolt and imprison her, she abdicates in favor of her son by Darnley, James VI (who becomes James I on his accession to the throne of England in 1603). Seeking refuge in England, Mary is imprisoned by Elizabeth I.

1560–1574 Reign of Charles IX [1550–74] of France, ten years old at his accession; his mother, Catherine de Médicis, is regent until 1563. The reign is marked by the first Wars of Religion.

1566–1572 Papacy of St. Pius V [1504–72]. He forms a Holy League against the Turks which triumphs in the naval victory of Lepanto (1571). Opposing any degree of toleration, he attempts to dethrone Elizabeth I and actively supports persecution of Protestants.

1566–1648 Revolt of the Netherlands against Spain, beginning with a petition of protest by the nobles of the seventeen provinces and quickly becoming a general insurrection of all classes and of Catholics and Protestants alike, made the more determined by Philip II's bloody measures of repression (governorship of the Duke of Alba, 1567–73). Under the leadership of William of Nassau (William the Silent) [1533–84], stadholder or governor of the province of Holland, the revolt continues until another Spanish governor, the Prince of Parma, wins over the ten southern provinces (modern Belgium) by promising the restoration of their former political liberties. The northern provinces declare their independence, forming the Dutch Republic (1581), and, with English aid, fight until their independence is recognized by the Treaty of Westphalia (1648).

1571, Oct. 7 Battle of Lepanto. A fleet mustered by the Holy League and commanded by Don John of Austria [1547–78], the natural brother of Philip II, wins a great victory over the Turks off Lepanto on the Greek coast.

1572, Aug. 24 Massacre of Saint Bartholomew's Day in France. Thousands of Huguenots are murdered at the instigation of Catherine de Médicis [1519–89] and the Guises. Henry of Navarre (later King Henry IV) escapes by temporarily becoming a Catholic.

1572–1585 Papacy of Gregory XIII [1502–85]. His reform of the calendar (1582) establishes the Gregorian now in use.

1574–1589 Reign of Henry III [1551–89] of France, last king of the house of Valois. Elected king of Poland (1573), he returns to France on the death of his brother, Charles IX. Faced with the formidable opposition of the Duke (Henri) of Guise [1550–88], head of the Catholic party, who wants the throne for himself, Henry has the Duke assassinated (1588), but not long afterwards, he is murdered himself, and Henry of Navarre becomes king as Henry IV.

1576 The Pacification of Ghent. The seventeen provinces of the Netherlands form a union to expel the Spanish.

1577–1580 Sir Francis Drake circumnavigates the globe.

1579 Sir Francis Drake claims California for England.

1581 The Dutch Republic is established when the seven northern provinces of the Netherlands, which had formed the Union of Utrecht in 1579, proclaim their independence from Spain. William the Silent is made hereditary stadholder.

1582 Issue of first Catholic New Testament in English at Rheims.

1584–1598 Reign of Feodor I [1557–98], czar of Russia; last of the Rurik dynasty. A feeble ruler, he permits the government to be run by boyars, especially Nikita Romanov and Boris Godunov, his brother-in-law.

1587 Sir Walter Raleigh [c1552–1618] lands in North Carolina.

1587 Sir Francis Drake [c1540–96] destroys the Spanish fleet in the port of Cádiz ("singeing the king of Spain's beard").

1588, July-Aug. Defeat of the Spanish Armada. The great fleet sent against England by Philip II is beaten in the Channel by the English fleet under Sir Francis Drake, and many of its remnants are destroyed in a storm as they try to reach home by sailing around Scotland and Ireland.

1589–1610 Reign of Henry IV [1553–1610] of France, first king of the house of Bourbon; king of Navarre (1572–1610). A Protestant at his accession during the Wars of Religion, Henry adopts Catholicism, the re- ligion of most Frenchmen, but sponsors in the Edict of Nantes (1598), a settlement giving the Protestants the status of a tolerated minority. He then works successfully to rebuild the country after the religious wars. Assassinated by a fanatic in 1610, he leaves a young son, Louis XIII, under the regency of his mother, Marie de Médicis [1573–1642].

1598, Apr. 15 The Edict of Nantes grants to the French Protestants (Huguenots) a degree of freedom, opening public offices to them and permitting them to hold public worship in certain cities and towns, but not in episcopal cities or Paris. They are allowed to govern a number of fortified towns, mostly in southwestern France.

1598–1621 Reign of Philip III [1578–1621] of Spain.

1603, July 25 James VI of Scotland (crowned James I of England); he is the first English king of the house of Stuart.

1603–1625 Reign of James I [1566–1625] of England. He tries to achieve a real union of England and Scotland but without success. He supports divine right of kings and divine right of bishops. The Gunpowder Plot, a scheme to blow up the Houses of Parliament, is discovered, guy Fawkes arrested (1605), and the conspirators executed. The Great Protestation, whereby the House of Commons insists on its right to have a voice in affairs of state (Dec. 18, 1621), causes the king to dissolve Parliament (1622). A breach with Spain follows Parliament's refusal to align Britain with Spain (1624).

1609 Henry Hudson [d. c1611], an Englishman employed by the United East India Company of Holland, explores the coast from New England to Virginia and sails up the Hudson river to Albany in his search for the northwest passage.

1610 Henry Hudson discovers and explores Hudson Bay for the English.

1611 The King James version of the English Bible is published.

1611–1632 Reign of Gustavus II [1594–1632] (Adolphus) of Sweden. War with Russia ends with the Treaty of Stolbovo (1617); during the war with Poland (1621–29) Sweden occupies Livonia. In 1630, Sweden becomes involved in the Thirty Years' War, and the king is killed at the battle of Lützen.

1617–1618 Sir Walter Raleigh is released from the tower where he is sent by James I on the death of Elizabeth (1603). He sails for the Orinoco seeking gold, but his destruction of Spanish territory so angers Spain that upon his return to England (1618), he is executed.

1619, July 30 House of Burgesses, the first representative assembly in America, meets at Jamestown.

1619–1620 Reign of Frederick V [1596–1632], of the Palatinate, king of Bohemia (the Winter King). The Protestant diet of Bohemia elect him king, deposing Ferdinand II (of Hapsburg). Frederick is defeated by the Hapsburgs at the battle of the White Mountain (1620). He loses his electorate in 1623 and lives the rest of his life in exile.

1620 The Pilgrims found a colony at Plymouth, Mass.

1621 Sir Francis Bacon [1561–1626], lord chancellor of England since 1618, is impeached, fined, and declared unable to hold a future office.

1621–1665 Reign of Philip IV [1605–65] of Spain, i marked by the loss of Portugal (1640), the long revolt of the Catalans (1640–59) and, at the end of a long war with France, a settlement that ends Spanish supremacy in Europe (Treaty of the Pyrenees, 1659).

1625–1649 Reign of Charles I [1600–49] of England. Most of his reign is a struggle between king and Parliament for supremacy, which culminates in his trial before the high court. He is convicted of treason and beheaded.

1628, Mar. Charles I of England is forced to summon the third Parliament and to agree to the Petition of Right, a document chiefly expressing dissatisfaction with forced loans, imprisonment without trial, billeting, and martial law.

1629, Mar. Massachusetts Bay Company created by English royal charter.

1633 The Inquisition forces Galileo [1564–1642] to repudiate the Copernican system.

1636, June Roger Williams [c1603–83] founds a colony at Providence, Rhode Island, after being banished from Salem.

1640–1641 First session of the Long Parliament, summoned by Charles I of England, passes a bill securing itself against dissolution without its consent

The courts of High Commission and the Star Chamber are abolished (1641).

1642–1646 Civil War in England between the Roundheads (Parliamentarians or Puritans) and the Cavaliers (Royalists).

1643, Sept. 25 The Solemn League and Covenant is signed by peers and members of the House of Commons in England for the purpose of bringing uniformity to the religions of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

1643–1715 Reign of Louis XIV (the Sun King) [1638–1715] of France. His mother, Anne of Austria is regent during his long minority, but Cardinal Mazarin [b. 1602] is the real authority until his death in 1661. The Peace of Westphalia (1648) concluding the Thirty Years' War and the wars of the Fronde (1648–53) occur before Louis reaches his majority. Wars continue to rage throughout his reign: the Queen's War (1667–68), the Dutch War (1672–78), the invasion of the Spanish Netherlands (1683–97), and the War of the Spanish Succession (1701–14). Internal strife against the Huguenots results in the revocation of the Edict of Nantes (1683). In the midst of the wars stands Louis' magnificent court created perhaps to reflect his absolute power and his idea that the state is himself ("l'état c'est moi").

1644, July 2 Battle of Marston Moor. Cromwell's Ironsides defeat the Royalists. This is the decisive battle of the Civil War in England, Parliament gaining the north.

1644 Beginning of the Manchu (Ch'ing) dynasty in China.

1644–1655 Papacy of Innocent X [1574–1655]. He initiates the Jansenist controversy, which divides the Church for many years, by condemning part of the works of Cornelius Jansenius.

1645, June 14 Battle of Naseby. The English Royalists are defeated and Charles I surrenders to the Scots.

1645–1676 Reign of Alexis [1629–76], czar of Russia. War with Poland (1654–67) ends with the cession of eastern Ukraine, Kiev, and Smolensk to Russia. A peasant revolt (1670–71), led by the Don Cossacks, is suppressed.

1647–1650 Reign of William II [1626–50] of Holland.

1648 Peace of Wesphalia concludes the Thirty Years' War although France and Spain do not sign a treaty until 1659. The provisions include the cession of Metz, Toul, and Verdun to France; farther Pomerania and the Elbe bishoprics to the Elector of Brandenburg. The United Provinces and the Swiss cantons are recognized as being independent. Calvinism may now be chosen as the state religion by the German states. Each German state may determine the course of its internal and foreign affairs, and the Empire as a whole is not permitted to make decisions for its parts.

1650 Charles II [1630–85] of England lands in Scotland (June 24). He is crowned king at Scone, but his army is defeated by Cromwell at the battle of Worcester (Sept. 3) and he escapes to France in disguise.

1652, Apr. 7 Jan van Riebeeck [b. 1634], leader of a group of Dutch settlers, establishes Capetown.

1652–1654 War between England and Holland. The English Navigation Act of 1651, forbidding imports not conveyed by English ships or ships of the country of origin, precipitates the conflict. Both countries vie for the control of commerce and shipping, especially in the east. The war ends with the formation of a mutual defensive league.

1656–1667 Reign of Alfonso VI [1643–83] of Portugal. He is exiled to the Azores by his brother, Peter, who rules as regent until 1683, and thereafter as Peter II.

1658–1705 Reign of Leopold I [1640–1705], Holy Roman Emperor; king of Hungary and of Bohemia. Wars break out against the Turks (1661–64, 1682–99), the French (1668, 1688–97), and the ruling Spanish Bourbons (War of the Spanish Succession, 1701–14). The reconquest of Hungary from the Turks results in the concentration of power in Vienna. Francis II Rakoczi leads Hungarians in revolt (1703–11), but his followers accept the emperor's terms in the Peace of Szatmar (1711).

1659, Nov. 7 Treaty of the Pyrenees between France and Spain. France receives Roussillon, Cerdagne, and certain border towns in the Spanish Netherlands. A marriage is arranged between Louis XIV and Maria Teresa, daughter of Philip IV of Spain. This treaty marks the end of Spanish ascendancy in Europe.

1660–1685 Reign of Charles II [1630–65] of England; the Restoration of the monarchy. The Cavalier Parliament (May 8, 1661—Jan. 24, 1679) enacts the Clarendon Code, repressive measures against Puritanism. The discovery of the "Popish Plot" (1678) results in a wave of anti-Catholic activity.

1662 Portugal yields Tangier to England.

1665, Apr. The Great Plague in London.

1665–1667 Anglo-Dutch commercial rivalry again leads to war. France and Denmark support Holland. The Treaty of Breda is largely a territorial exchange: Holland receives Surinam and relinquishes her claim to New Amsterdam.

1667–1668 War of Devolution between France and Spain. Louis XIV claims the Spanish Netherlands on the death of his father-in-law, Philip IV. At the war's end, he acquires 12 towns of the Spanish Netherlands.

1672–1678 France and England at war with Holland. French troops overrun the Netherlands, and the Dutch open their dikes, flooding the country. War ends with the Treaty of Nijmegen (1678–79).

1672–1702 Reign of William III (of Nassau), stadholder of Holland; king of England (1689–1702). In 1677, he marries Mary, daughter of James II of England, and, with his wife, is proclaimed joint ruler of England (1689).

1674–1696 Reign of John III Sobieski [1624–96] of Poland. In spite of his military successes against the Turks, Poland continues to decline because of defects inherent in its political organization.

1675–1676 King Philip's War (named for Philip, son of Massasoit and chief of the Wampanoag Indians) involves New England colonists and Indians.

1676–1689 Papacy of Innocent XI [1611–89]. He attempts moral reform of the clergy and financial reorganization of the papacy. Following a church assembly called by Louis XIV of France at St. Germain (1682) he refuses to make bishops of any French clergy who attended. He protests against the expulsion of the Huguenots and, pursuing his anti-French policy, approves William III's expedition to England.

1682 Louisiana is claimed for France by La Salle [1643–87].

1682–1689 Reign of Ivan V [1666–96] of Russia. He rules as co-czar with Peter I.

1684 The Massachusetts Bay charter is withdrawn, and the company ceases to exist.

1685, Oct. 18 Louis XIV of France revokes the Edict of Nantes (1598), a document giving religious freedom to French Protestants. He forbids the practice of Protestantism. Thousands flee abroad, in spite of his attempts to prevent emigration.

1685–1688 Reign of James II [1633–1701] of England. A Roman Catholic, he arouses Anglican opposition, and, in 1687, William of Orange is invited to save England from Catholic tyranny. James escapes to France, and (in 1689) Parliament offers the crown jointly to William and Mary.

1686 New England colonies are combined to form the Dominion of New England, with Sir Edmund Andros [1637–1714] as governor.

1688–1697 France supports an uprising in Scotland which is an attempt to restore James II to the throne of England. The revolt is settled by the Treaty of Ryswick (1697), which concludes the War of the League of Augsburg.

1689–1697 War of the League of Augsburg. An alliance consisting of: the Holy Roman Emperor; the kings of Spain and Sweden; and the Electors of the Palatinate, Bavaria, and Saxony is formed, in 1686, against Louis XIV of France. England and Holland join the alliance in 1689. William III of Holland leads the coalition, which is largely fought in the Netherlands. The Treaty of Ryswick (1697) ends the war.

1689–1697 King William's War. Extension, on the American continent, of the War of the League of Augsburg in Europe. The English, aided by the Iroquois, fight the French and their Indian allies from Maine and Canada. Hostilities are concluded by the Treaty of Ryswick (1697).

1689–1702 Reign of William [1650–1702] and Mary II [1662–94] in England.

1689–1725 Reign of Peter I (the Great) [1672–1725] of Russia. He is largely responsible for introducing western civilization into Russia. His reforms, though revolutionary, evolve gradually in accordance with the needs of his army. By the end of his reign he moves the capital from Moscow to St. Petersburg. The Great Northern War (1700–21) concludes with the acquisition by Russia of a Baltic port which serves as the long-sought-after "window on the West."

1697, Sept. 30 Treaty of Ryswick. France, England, Spain, and Holland sign this treaty which includes, among other provisions, France's recognition of William III as king of England.

1697–1718 Reign of Charles XII [1682–1718] of Sweden. His reign is chiefly marked by the Great Northern War (1700–21) in which the Swedes are decisively defeated by the Russian Army at Poltava (July 8, 1709). Charles takes refuge in Turkey until 1714, when he returns to Sweden and manages to raise another army, but he is killed in battle.

1697–1733 Reign of Augustus II [1670–1733] king of Poland; as Frederick Augustus I, elector of Saxony (1694–1733). The Great Northern War (1700–21) is fought for the most part in Poland. By the Treaty of Altanstädt (1706), Augustus renounces the crown, and Stanislaus I becomes king. After the Swedish defeat at Poltava (1709), he returns to the throne.

1700–1721 The Great Northern War. Russia, led by Peter the Great, Poland and Denmark fight against Charles XII of Sweden for supremacy in the Baltic. Charles forces an early Danish peace (1700); he defeats the Russians at Narva (1700), invades Poland (1701), and secures the election of Stanislaus I as king of Poland (1706). Russia triumphs at Poltava (1709), but not until Charles' death, in 1718, does the end of the war seem a possibility. The treaty of Nystadt concludes hostilities.

1700–1721 Papacy of Clement XI [1649–1721]. He condemns Jansenism in a famous bull, Unigenituis (1713).

1700–1746 Reign of Philip V [1683–1746] of Spain, the first king of the house of Bourbon. Although he ascends to the throne in 1700, he is not recognized as king until the Treaty of Utrecht (1713).

1701, June 12 The Act of Settlement. By this act no Catholic may become king of England. When the Stuart family ceases to have any direct Protestant heirs, the crown is supposed to be passed to the German house of Hanover. George I, the grandson of James I, becomes the first Hanoverian king.

1701–1713 Reign of Frederick I [1657–1713], first king of Prussia. Originally known as Frederick III, elector of Brandenburg (1688–1701), he lends his army to the Austrian Emperor during the War of the Spanish Succession, and, in return, Frederick acquires the title of king.

1701–1714 War of the Spanish Succession. Charles II upsets the balance of power when upon his death (1700), he wills his entire empire to the Bourbon grandson of Louis XIV. To prevent France from extending its border west of the Pyrenees, other families offer pretenders to the inheritance: a Bavarian Prince, Joseph Ferdinand, and a Hapsburg, Leopold I. William III of England forms the Grand Alliance (1701), when he allies England with Holland, Austria, Brandenburg, Savoy, and later Portugal against France, Spain and Bavaria. The treaties of Utrecht (1713), Rastadt and Baden (1714) mark the end of hostilities.

1702–1714 Reign of Anne [1665–1714] of England. Daughter of James II and wife of Prince George of Denmark. Until 1710, she is personally dominated by Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, whose husband vigorously prosecutes England's role in the War of the Spanish Succession (1701–14), triumphing notably at Blenheim (1704). By 1707, the Marlborough (Whig) influence is weakening, and in 1710, Anne replaces the Whig ministers with Tories. Tories also come to power in Parliament, marking the first peaceful transfer of power under the modern party system. The Union of England and Scotland is declared (May 1, 1707) under the name of the United Kingdom of Great Britain.

1702–1713 Queen Anne's War, which is the extension on the American continent of the War of the Spanish Succession. English troops capture the French province of Acadia (1710), which becomes the British province of Nova Scotia. The treaty of Utrecht (1713) concludes the war.

1707 May 1 England and Scotland are joined under the name of The United Kingdom of Great Britain, and the Union Jack is adopted as the national flag.

1709, July 8 Battle of Poltava. After exposure to a severe Russian winter, Charles XII is easily defeated by Peter the Great.

1711–1740 Reign of Charles VI [1685–1740], Holy Roman Emperor and king of Bohemia. As Charles III, he is king of Hungary.

1713, Apr. 11–1714, Mar.–Sept. Treaties of Utrecht (1713), Rastadt and Baden (1714) end the War of the Spanish Succession. England retains Gibraltar and gains Minorca. Savoy is given Sardinia; Austria is given the Spanish Netherlands (Belgium) and retains Naples, Milan, and Sicily.

1713–1740 Reign of Frederick William I [1688–1740] of Prussia. He devotes all his energies and funds to building the strong standing army that Prussia relies upon for future expansion.

1714–1727 Reign of George I [1660–1727] of England (first king of the house of Hanover, which, in 1917, becomes the house of Windsor). Jacobite agitation is quelled. England joins in the Triple Alliance with France and Holland (1717), and in the Quadruple Alliance with France, Holland, and Austria (1718); Spain makes peace and joins in 1721. The Treaty of Hanover with France and Russia (Sept. 3, 1725).

1715–1774 Reign of Louis XV [1710–74] of France. France wars with Spain (1718–20), takes part in the War of the Austrian Succession (1740–48), and in the Seven Years' War (1756–63). Louis is influenced first by his tutor, Cardinal Fleury [1653–1743], and later by his mistresses, especially Madame de Pompadour [1721–64] and Madame du Barry [1746–93]. Perhaps his unpopularity in old age is responsible for his prediction "Après moi, le déluge."

1718, July 21 Treaty of Passarowitz is signed between the Ottoman Empire and between Austria and Venice. Austria receives the Banat of Temesvar, northern Serbia, and Lesser Wallachia from the Turks; Venice loses its possessions on Crete and in the Peloponnesus to the Turks.

1718 The Pragmatic Sanction is issued by Charles VI of Austria to assure that the territories he has consolidated during his reign will pass along a direct line of Hapsburg succession. By the time of his death (1740), most of the European powers have agreed to abide by it.

1718–1720 Reign of Ulrika Eleonora [1688–1741], queen of Sweden. A new constitution is drawn up, providing for joint rule by the queen and council when the Riksdag is not sitting, and for the rule by a secret committee of nobility, clergy, and burghers when the Riksdag is in session. After two years, the queen turns over the government to her husband, Frederick I.

1719–1729 The colony of Carolina is divided and becomes the royal colonies of North Carolina and South Carolina.

1721, Aug. 30 Treaty of Nystadt between Sweden and Russia ends the Great Northern War. Sweden no longer dominates the Baltic Sea area, and Russia, in winning warm water outlets, begins to emerge as a great European power.

1725–1727 Reign of Catherine I [c1684–1727] of Russia, second wife of Peter the Great.

1727–1760 Reign of George II [1683–1760] of England. The Young Pretender, Charles Edward, inaugurates the Second Jacobite Rebellion (1745), but after he is defeated at Culloden, the Stuarts no longer try to regain the throne. England is involved in a series of wars: War of Jenkins' Ear (1739–48); War of the Austrian Succession (1740–48); and the Seven Years' War (1755–63), which starts over boundary disputes in the American colonies but is fought in Europe as well as in America; England is the ultimate victor.

1733 The colony of Georgia is founded, the last of the 13 English colonies.

1733–1735 War of the Polish Succession. Augustus II of Poland dies, and his son, Augustus III, claims the throne, allying himself with Russia and Austria. France, Spain, and Sardinia support the claim of Stanislaus Lesczynski, father-in-law of Louis XV of France. Augustus III secures the throne and peace is made at the Treaty of Vienna (1738).

1738, Nov. 18 Treaty of Vienna terminates the War of the Polish Succession. Stanislaus Lesczynski renounces his claim to Poland, and territorial adjustments are made by the participating powers.

1739–1748 War between England and Spain (known as the War of Jenkins' Ear).

1740–1741 Captain Vitus Bering [1680–1741] discovers Alaska and claims it for Russia.

1740–1748 War of the Austrian Succession. After the death of Charles VI, the Pragmatic Sanction (1718) is violated by Frederick II, who invades Silesia, and by the three claimants to the throne: Charles Albert, the Elector of Bavaria; Philip V of Spain; and Augustus III of Saxony. The Spanish claim is supported by France, Prussia (until 1742), and Bavaria; Maria Theresa is aided by England and Holland. Peace is signed at the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle (1748).

1740–1780 Reign of Maria Theresa [1717–80], archduchess of Austria, queen of Bohemia and Hungary, and empress consort of Francis I. The Second Silesian War (1744–45) ends with Austria's cession of Silesia to Prussia and with Prussia's acceptance of the Pragmatic Sanction by which Charles VI had placed his daughter Maria on the throne. However, the War of the Austrian Succession lasts until 1748.

1740–86 Reign of Frederick II [1712–86] (the Great) of Prussia. Frederick breaks the Pragmatic Sanction and annexes the Hapsburg territory of Silesia, beginning the first of the three Silesian Wars (1740–42). The second (1744–45) is followed by the third (or Seven Years' War, 1756–63). By the Peace of Hubertusburg (1763) with Austria, Prussia is allowed to keep this largely German territory. Further attempts to reduce Austrian power result in the War of the Bavarian Succession (1778–79), and in the League of German Princes.

1741–1762 Reign of Elizabeth [1709–62], empress and czarina of Russia. Alliances are signed with Austria and with England against Prussia and France, until, in the Seven Years' War (1756–63), Russia fights on the side of Austria and France against Frederick the Great of Prussia. Although Russia plays an important part in this war, she gains nothing directly by it.

1742–1745 Reign of Charles VII [1697–1745], Holy Roman Emperor; elector of Bavaria (1726–45). He claims the Hapsburg throne on the death of Charles VI, because of his marriage to a daughter of Joseph I, and, in doing so, disregards the Pragmatic Sanction (1718). After his death (1745), Francis I, husband of Maria Theresa, becomes emperor.

1743–1748 King George's War, extension in America of the War of the Austrian Succession in Europe. The English, aided by the Mohawks and the Iroquois, fight the French. Louisburg is captured by the English (1745), but is restored to the French at the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle (1748).

1743–1757 Anglo-French rivalry in India. Robert Clive [1725–74] takes Arcot from the French (Sept. 12, 1751), and, by his victory at Plassey (June 22, 1757), ends French claims in that area.

1745, Dec. 25 Treaty of Dresden signed by Prussia and Austria. Prussia is allowed to retain Silesia, and Frederick II recognizes Francis I as the Holy Roman Emperor.

1745–1746 Second Jacobite Rebellion. The Stuart Pretender to the English throne, Charles Edward, lands in Scotland (July 25, 1745), and proclaims his father to be James III of England. After several battles the Jacobites are defeated at Culloden (April 16, 1746). The Stuarts never again try to seize the English crown.

1745–1765 Reign of Francis I [1708–65], Holy Roman Emperor and husband of Maria Theresa.

1748, Oct. Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle ends the War of the Austrian Succession. Anglo-French frontiers are to be the same as before the war. Austria is given Belgium; Maria Theresa's husband, Francis I, is recognized as the Holy Roman Emperor, but although Prussia is permitted to retain Silesia, Maria Theresa has not abandoned her hopes of recovering it. All the attending powers recognize the Protestant succession in England.

1756, June 20 English prisoners are put into the Black Hole of Calcutta by the Nawab of Bengal after he captures the city.

1756–1763 Seven Years' War. Great Britain, Prussia, and Hanover are at war with France, Austria, Russia, Saxony, Sweden, and (after 1762) Spain. The main conflicts of the war are boundary disputes in North America, and the rivalry in Germany of Austria and of Prussia. The Treaty of Hubertusburg ends the war.

1756–1763 French and Indian War, extension, on the American continent, of the European Seven Years' War. The American colonists and the English, first under General Braddock [1695–1755] and, later, Earl Loudoun [1705–82], fight the French in Canada and on the Canadian-American border. In the battle of the Plains of Abraham in Quebec (Sept. 13, 1759), both General Wolfe [1727–59], the English commander, and General Montcalm [1712–59], the French commander, are killed, but five days later the English take Quebec. The war ends with the Treaty of Paris (1763).

1759, Aug. 12 Battle of Kunersdorf. Austrian and Russian armies defeat Frederick II of Prussia, and occupy Berlin.

1760–1820 Reign of George III [1738–1820] of England. The treaty of Paris which is signed by Great Britain, France, and Spain (1763), results in the acquisition by Britain of Canada, Cape Breton Island, and Florida; the Mississippi River is recognized as the boundary between British colonies and Louisiana. The outstanding event of his reign is the American War for Independence (1775–83). William Pitt the Younger [1759–1806] serves as prime minister (1783–1801). In 1801, Great Britain and Ireland unite, under the name of the United Kingdom. George III is declared insane (1811) and the Prince of Wales (later George IV) acts as regent through this period of economic depression.

1762 Reign of Peter III [1728–62] of Russia. He dies the same year, and his wife becomes Catherine the Great.

1762–1796 Reign of Catherine II [1729–96] (the Great) of Russia. In the name of the Enlightenment she encourages art, education, and letters, and instigates political and social reforms, but she does nothing to abolish serfdom. Her answer to Pugachev's rebellion is repression. Russia fights repeated wars with Turkey (1768–72, 1787–92), and with Sweden (1788–90). The three partitions of Poland (1772, 1793, 1795) result in Russia's preponderance in European affairs.

1763, Feb. 10 Treaty of Paris ends the French and Indian War in America. France loses Acadia, Cape Breton, all of Canada, and most of eastern Louisiana but keeps Guadeloupe and Martinique. England receives Florida from Spain. Although the balance of power in Europe is maintained, this peace marks England's rise to its greatest power and wealth.

1763, Feb. 15 Treaty of Hubertusburg between Austria and Prussia ends the Seven Years' War. Prussia retains Silesia, and emerges as a great military power.

1764–1795 Reign of Stanislaus II (Poniatowiski), last king of Poland. The country is dismembered by Russia, Austria and Prussia during the first (1772), the second (1793), and the third (1795) partitions. Having no country left to govern, he resigns in 1795.

1765, Mar. 22 The Stamp Act. This tax, imposed on the Americans by the British, is immediately opposed by the colonists.

1765, Mar. 24 Quartering Act, providing for the board and upkeep of British troops in America, causes American resentment.

1765, May 29 Patrick Henry [1736–99] offers a number of resolutions to the Virginia House of Burgesses, opposing the attitude of the British government in the Colonies.

1765–1790 Reign of Joseph II [1741–90], Holy Roman Emperor, king of Bohemia and Hungary. He rules jointly with his mother, Maria Theresa, from his father's death (1765) to her death (1780). Although he abolishes serfdom, his other reforms are largely unsuccessful. The League of the German Princes (1785) thwarts his plan for an exchange of territories with Bavaria (1777).

1766, Mar. British parliament repeals the Stamp Act, but passes the Declaratory Act, stating the King's authority to make laws directly affecting the colonies.

1767, June 29 Townshend Acts are a new series of taxes to be imposed on the Americans by the British.

1768–1774 Russia and the Ottoman empire are at war as a result of Catherine II's territorial ambitions. Russia conquers the Crimea (1771), and defeats the sultan. War ends with the Treaty of Kuchuk Kainarji.

1769–1774 Papacy of Clement XIV [1705–74]. Under Bourbon pressure, Pope Clement dissolves the Society of Jesus (1773). It is reinstated in 1814 by Pope Pius VII.

1770, Mar. 5 The Boston Massacre. Several Americans are killed and wounded by British troops in street clashes.

1771–1792 Reign of Gustavus III [1746–92] of Sweden. The king assumes absolute authority. War breaks out between Sweden and Russia (1788–90).

1772, Aug. 5 The first partition of Poland is an attempt by Prussia and Austria to curb Russia's gains in Turkey and to reestablish a satisfactory balance of power in eastern Europe. Frederick II acquires West Prussia; Austria takes Galicia; and Russia annexes White Russia and the territory to the Dvina and Dnieper.

1773–1774 Pugachev's rebellion. Pugachev, a Don Cossack, announces himself to be the real czar Peter III, and he heads the most violent peasant revolution in Russia. His defeat worsens the lot of the peasant.

1773, Dec. 16 The Boston Tea Party. Americans, masquerading as Indians, board British ships in Boston harbor and throw overboard their cargo of tea to protest a tax on tea.

1774, July 21 Treaty of Kuchuk Kainarji ends the first Russo-Turkish war. The Tatar principalities on the north coast of the Black Sea are ceded to Russia, which also has the right to use the straits. Moldavia and Wallachia are restored to Turkey, but Russia reserves right of intervention and of representation of Greek Orthodox church in the Ottoman empire.

1774, Sept. 5–Oct. 26 The First Continental Congress is held in Philadelphia and is attended by representatives of all the colonies except Georgia. The main purpose of the Congress is to air colonial discontent with English policy. The Continental Association is created, forbidding the importation of English goods unless England meets American demands.

1774–1793 Reign of Louis XVI [1754–93] of France. Louis fails to avert the pending financial crises of his government. In 1788, he summons the Estates-General, but his decision to support the nobility alienates the third estate who then look for another way of governing France besides absolute monarchy. The French Revolution begins (1789), and, in the course of events, the monarchy is abolished (1792), and Louis and his queen, Marie Antoinette [1755–93], are executed.

1775–1783 American War for Independence. The fighting starts with the battles of Lexington and Concord (April 1775), and ends with the British surrender at Yorktown (Oct. 19, 1781), although the treaty recognizing the independence of the United States is not signed until 1783.

1775, Apr. 19 Battles of Lexington and Concord open the American War for Independence. Paul Revere [1735–1818] and William Dawes [1745–99] alert the countryside that the British are to attack.

1775, May 10 Second Continental Congress opens in Philadelphia.

1775, May 10–12 Ethan Allen [1738–89] takes Ticonderoga; Seth Warner [1743–84] takes Crown Point.

1775, June 15 George Washington [1732–99] is made commander-in-chief of the Continental Army.

1775, June 17 Battle of Bunker Hill. Even though the Americans inflict severe casualties on the British, they are pushed back.

1775, July 17–1776, Mar. 17 The Americans lay siege to Boston.

1775–1799 Papacy of Pius VI [1717–99]. French armies invade Rome and set up a French republic (1798). The pope is taken to France, where he dies.

1776, June 7 Congress passes a resolution calling for independence from England. Thomas Jefferson [1743–1826] is asked to draft a Declaration of Independence.

1776, July 4 Congress adopts the Declaration of Independence.

1776, Sept. 15 The British occupy New York and General Washington withdraws to Harlem Heights.

1776, Oct. 28 Battle of White Plains. General Washington retreats to New Jersey.

1776, Nov. 16 The British take Fort Washington.

1776, Nov. 20 The British take Fort Lee.

1776, Dec. 26 Battle of Trenton. General Washington crosses the Delaware by night and defeats the Hessians.

1777, Jan. 3 Battle of Princeton. General Washington avoids a direct attack by the British led by General Charles Cornwallis [1738–1805] and after a brief skirmish retreats to winter camp.

1777, Aug. 16 Battle of Bennington. The British are defeated.

1777, Sept. 11 Battle of Brandywine. The Americans are defeated.

1789–1799 The French Revolution. In perhaps the wealthiest country in Europe, the government is financially crippled. During July 1789, bread prices soar and the Paris mob, in defiance of authority, storms the Bastille (July 14). The third estate carries the mob's spontaneous, violent act into the political sphere and drafts a constitution. A series of governments follow: the Estates-General and National Assembly (1789–91); the Legislative Assembly (1791–92), the National Convention (1792–95); the Directory (1795–99), and, finally, with the coming to power of Napoleon, the revolution ends and order is restored.

1789, May 5 The Estates-General convenes at Versailles. Three estates: the clergy, the nobility, and the bourgeoisie are called by Louis XVI to discuss reforms. The third estate or bourgeoisie protest against voting by class, the procedure used in 1614, when the Estates-General last met. They now ask to vote as individuals, but Louis XVI, instead of supporting the third estate, who are the traditional allies of the kings of France, now supports the nobles and agrees to have the voting done by classes.

1789, June 17 In defiance of the nobility and Louis XVI, the third estate meet and call themselves the "National Assembly."

1789, June 20 The Oath of the Tennis Court. When the National Assembly is locked out of its meeting hall by the nobles, the members gather at an indoor tennis court and vow not to disband until a constitution is drafted.

1789, July 14 The Bastille in Paris is stormed by an angry Paris mob. This act is the symbolic beginning of the French Revolution.

1904–1905 Russo-Japanese War. Japan attacks the Russians at Port Arthur, and astonishes the world by defeating them with relative ease. Assumed to be a so-called backward nation, Japan, in less than 50 years, becomes a threat to the European powers, who must now include Japan in their military maneuvers. Moreover, that Japan could become westernized so rapidly and successfully serves as an example to other non-western peoples. As for Russia, the defeat exposes her need of reform to her people, who respond by revolting in 1905.

1905, Jan. 22 Bloody Sunday. Father Gapon leads a group of workers who plan to present a list of grievances to the czar. At the palace gates they are fired upon. This massacre inspires a national rebellion.

The Declaration of Independence

A DECLARATION BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN GENERAL CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

WHEN in the Course of human Events, it becomes necessary for one People to dissolve the Political Bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the Earth, the separate and equal Station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent Respect to the Opinions of Mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the Separation.

WE hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness—That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just Powers from the Consent of the Governed, that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these Ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its Foundation on such Principles, and organizing its Powers in such Form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient Causes; and accordingly all Experience hath shewn, that Mankind are more disposed to suffer, while Evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the Forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long Train of Abuses and Usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a Design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their Right, it is their Duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future Security. Such has been the patient Sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the Necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The History of the present King of Great-Britain is a History of repeated Injuries and Usurpations, all having in direct Object the Establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid World.

HE has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public Good.

HE has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing Importance, unless suspended in their Operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

HE has refused to pass other Laws for the Accommodation of large Districts of People, unless those People would relinquish the Right of Representation in the Legislature, a Right inestimable to them, and formidable to Tyrants only.

HE has called together Legislative Bodies at Places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the Depository of their public Records, for the sole Purpose of fatiguing them into Compliance with his Measures.

HE has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly Firmness his Invasions on the Rights of the People.

HE has refused for a long Time, after such Dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the Dangers of Invasion from without, and Convulsions within.

HE has endeavoured to prevent the Population of these States; for that Purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their Migrations hither, and raising the Conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

HE has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

HE has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the Tenure of their Offices, and the Amount and Payment of their Salaries.

HE has erected a Multitude of new Offices, and sent hither Swarms of Officers to harrass our People, and eat out their Substance.

HE has kept among us, in Times of Peace, Standing Armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

HE has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

HE has combined with others to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution, and unacknowledged by our Laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

FOR quartering large Bodies of Armed Troops among us:

FOR protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

FOR cutting off our Trade with all Parts of the World:

FOR imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

FOR depriving us, in many Cases, of the Benefits of Trial by Jury:

FOR transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended Offences:

FOR abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an arbitrary Government, and enlarging its Boundaries, so as to render it at once an Example and fit Instrument for introducing the same absolute Rule into these Colonies:

FOR taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

FOR suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all Cases whatsoever.

HE has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

HE has plundered our Seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our Towns, and destroyed the Lives of our People.

HE is, at this Time, transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the Works of Death, Desolation, and Tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty and Perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous Ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized Nation.

HE has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the Executioners of their Friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

HE has excited domestic Insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the Inhabitants of our Frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known Rule of Warfare, is an undistinguished Destruction, of all Ages, Sexes and Conditions.

IN every stage of these Oppressions we have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble Terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated Injury. A Prince, whose Character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the Ruler of a free People.

NOR have we been wanting in Attentions to our British Brethren. We have warned them from Time to Time of Attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable Jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the Circumstances of our Emigration and Settlement here. We have appealed to their native Justice and Magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the Ties of our common Kindred to disavow these Usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our Connections and Correspondence. They too have been deaf to the Voice of Justice and of Consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the Necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of Mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace, Friends.

WE, therefore, the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the Rectitude of our Intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly Publish and Declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political Connection between them and the State of Great-Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm Reliance on the Protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Signed by ORDER AND IN BEHALF of the CONGRESS, JOHN HANCOCK, PRESIDENT.

The Constitution of the United States

WE, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

Sect. 1. ALL legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Sect. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

[Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons.][1] The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New-Hampshire shall be entitled to chuse three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New-York six, New-Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North-Carolina five, South-Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the Executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall chuse their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

Sect. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, [chosen by the legislature thereof,][2] for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; [and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any state, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.][3]

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall chuse their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

Sect. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of chusing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall [be on the first Monday in December,][4] unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Sect. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behaviour, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

Sect. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been encreased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

Sect. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

Sect. 8. The Congress shall have power

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post offices and post roads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining, the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings;—And

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

Sect. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation, or other direct, tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken.[5]

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another: nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one state, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States:—And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

Sect. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and controul of the Congress. No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

II.

Sect. 1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice-president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows.

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress: but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately chuse by ballot one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall in like manner chuse the president. But in chusing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice-president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall chuse from them by ballot the vice-president.][6]

The Congress may determine the time of chusing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States, at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice-president and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the president and vice-president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services, a compensation, which shall neither be encreased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

Sect. 2. The president shall be commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

Sect. 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

Sect. 4. The president, vice-president and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

III.

Sect. 1. The judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behaviour, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services, a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

Sect. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States, between a state and citizens of another state,[7] between citizens of different States, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a state, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

Sect. 3. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture except during the life of the person attainted.

IV.

Sect. 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

Sect. 2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

[No person held to service or labour in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labour, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labour may be due.][8]

Sect. 3. New states may be admitted by the Congress into this union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state; nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

Sect. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a Republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.

V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; Provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight[9] hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the confederation.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, any thing in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives beforementioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation, to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States, shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

ARTICLES in addition to, and Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress, and ratified by the Legislatures[10] of the several States, pursuant to the fifth Article of the original Constitution.

ARTICLE [I][11]

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE [II]

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE [III]

No Soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE [IV]

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE [V]

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

ARTICLE [VI]

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence.

ARTICLE [VII]

In Suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury, shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE [VIII]

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE [IX]

The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE [X]

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE [XI][12]

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by Citizens of another State, or by Citizens or Subjects of any Foreign State.

ARTICLE [XII][13]

The Electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate;—The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted;—The person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. [And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.]—[14] The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President, shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII[15]

Section 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

Section 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XIV[16]

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which

10. The first 20 amendments and the Twenty-second, Twenty-third, and Twenty-fourth Amendments were ratified by State Legislatures. The Twenty-first Amendment, by its terms, was ratified by "conventions in the several States."
11. The first 10 amendments (termed articles), together with 2 others that failed of ratification, were proposed to the several States by resolution of Congress on September 25, 1789. The ratifications were transmitted by the Governors to the President and by him communicated to Congress from time to time. The first 10 amendments were ratified by 11 of the 14 States. Virginia completed the required three fourths by ratification on December 15, 1791, and its action was communicated to Congress by the President on December 30, 1791. The legislatures of Massachusetts, Georgia and Connecticut ratified them on March 2, 1939, March 24, 1939, and April 19, 1939, respectively.
12. The Eleventh Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on March 4, 1794. It was declared by the President, in a message to Congress dated January 8, 1798, to have been ratified by three fourths of the several States. Records of the Department of State show that the 11th Amendment was ratified by 13 of the 16 States and rejected by New Jersey and Pennsylvania.
13. The Twelfth Amendment was proposed in lieu of the original third paragraph of section 1 of article II, by resolution of Congress on December 8, 1803. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated September 25, 1804, to have been ratified by three fourths of the States. Records of the Department of State show that the 12th Amendment was ratified by 12 of the 17 States and rejected by Connecticut and Delaware.
14. The part enclosed by brackets has been superseded by section 3 of Amendment XX.
15. The Thirteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress which the President approved on February 1, 1865. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated December 18, 1865, to have been ratified by 27 States. Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 13th Amendment was ratified by 7 additional States. It was rejected by Mississippi.
16. The Fourteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on June 13, 1866. By a concurrent resolution of Congress adopted July 21, 1868, it was declared to have been ratified by "three fourths and more of the several States of the Union", and the Secretary of State was required duly to promulgate the amendment as a part of the Constitution. He accordingly issued a proclamation, dated July 28, 1868, declaring the amendment to have been ratified by 30 States, "being more than three fourths." Records of the Department of State show that the 14th Amendment was subsequently ratified by 3 more of the States. It was rejected by Kentucky and New Jersey.

shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Section 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the Executive and Judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Section 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Section 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Section 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XV[17]

Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XVI[18]

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

ARTICLE [XVII][19]

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, That the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

ARTICLE [XVIII][20]

[Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

[Sec. 2. The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[Sec. 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress.]

ARTICLE [XIX][21]

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE [XX][22]

Section 1. The terms of the President and Vice President shall end at noon on the 20th day of January, and the terms of Senators and Representatives at noon on the 3d day of January, of the years in which such terms would have ended if this article had not been ratified; and the terms of their successors shall then begin.

Sec. 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3d day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Sec. 3. If, at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of the President, the President elect shall have died, the Vice President elect shall become President. If a President shall not have been chosen before the time fixed for the beginning of his term, or if the President elect shall have failed to qualify, then the Vice President elect shall act as President until a President shall have qualified; and the Congress may by law provide for the case wherein neither a President elect nor a Vice President elect shall have qualified, declaring who shall then act as President, or the manner in which one who is to act shall be selected, and such person shall act accordingly until a President or Vice President shall have qualified.

Sec. 4. The Congress may by law provide for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the House of Representatives may choose a President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them, and for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the Senate may choose a Vice President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them.

Sec. 5. Sections 1 and 2 shall take effect on the 15th day of October following the ratification of this article.

Sec. 6. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission.

ARTICLE [XXI][23]

Section 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the Constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. The transportation or importation into any State, Territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

Sec. 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by conventions in the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress.

ARTICLE [XXII][24]

Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of the President more than once. But this Article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this Article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this Article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

Sec. 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission to the States by the Congress.

ARTICLE [XXIII][25]

Section 1. The District constituting the seat of Government of the United States shall appoint in such manner as the Congress may direct:

A number of electors of President and Vice President equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives in Congress to which the District would be entitled if it were a State, but in no event more than the least populous State; they shall be in addition to those appointed by the States, but they shall be considered, for the purposes of the election of President and Vice President, to be electors appointed by a State; and they shall meet in the District and perform such duties as provided by the twelfth article of amendment.

ARTICLE [XXIV][26]

Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote in any primary or other election for President or Vice President, for electors for President or Vice President, or for Senator or Representative in Congress, shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State by reason of failure to pay any poll tax or other tax.

17. The Fifteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on February 26, 1869. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated March 30, 1870, to have been ratified by 29 States, which "constitute three fourths." Records of the Department of State show that the 15th Amendment was subsequently ratified by 6 more of the States. It was rejected by Kentucky and Tennessee.
18. The Sixteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on July 12, 1909. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated February 25, 1913, to have been ratified by 38 States, which "constitute three fourths." Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 16th Amendment was ratified by 4 more of the States. It was rejected by Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Utah.
19. The Seventeenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on May 13, 1912. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated May 31, 1913, to have been ratified by 36 States, which "constitute three fourths." Records of the Department of State show that the 17th Amendment was subsequently ratified by 1 more of the States. It was rejected by Utah and Delaware.
20. The Eighteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on December 18, 1917. It was declared in a proclamation of the Acting Secretary of State, dated January 29, 1919, to have been ratified by 36 States, which "constitute three fourths." Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 18th Amendment was ratified by 10 more of the 48 States. It was rejected by Rhode Island. By its own terms the 18th Amendment became effective one year after its ratification, which was consummated on January 16, 1919, and therefore went into effect on January 16, 1920.

    Repeal of the 18th Amendment on December 5, 1933, was proclaimed by the President in his proclamation of that date, when the ratification of the 21st Amendment was certified by the Acting Secretary of State.
21. The Nineteenth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on June 4, 1919. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated August 26, 1920, to have been ratified by 36 States, which "constitute three fourths." Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 19th Amendment was ratified by 2 more of the 48 States. It was rejected by Georgia, South Carolina, Delaware, Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia.
22. The Twentieth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on March 2, 1932. It was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated February 6, 1933, to have been ratified by 39 States, which "constitute more than the requisite three fourths." Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 20th Amendment was ratified by all of the 48 States before sections 1 and 2 became effective on October 15, 1933. The other sections of the amendment became effective on January 23, 1933, when its ratification was consummated by three fourths of the States.
23. The Twenty-first Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on February 20, 1933. It was certified in a proclamation of the Acting Secretary of State dated December 5, 1933, to have been ratified by conventions of 36 States, which "constitute the requisite three fourths of the whole number of States." Subsequent records of the Department of State show that the 21st Amendment was ratified by 1 more State. It was rejected by the convention of South Carolina. North Carolina voted against holding a convention.
24. The Twenty-second Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on March 24, 1947. Ratification was completed on February 27, 1951, when the thirty-sixth State (Minnesota) approved the amendment. On March 1, 1951, the Administrator of General Services certified that "the States whose Legislatures have so ratified the said proposed Amendment constitute the requisite three-fourths of the whole number of States in the United States". Records of the General Services Administration show that the 22nd Amendment was subsequently ratified by 5 additional States.
25. The Twenty-third Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on June 16, 1960. The Administrator of General Services certified the ratification and adoption of the amendment by three-fourths of the States on April 3, 1961. It was rejected by Arkansas.
26. The Twenty-fourth Amendment was proposed by resolution of Congress on August 27, 1962. It was declared in a Proclamation of the Administrator of General Services dated February 4, 1964, to have been ratified by three fourths of the States. It was rejected by the legislature of Mississippi on December 20, 1962.

Charter of the United Nations

Signed at the
UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE ON INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION
San Francisco, California, June 26, 1945

We the peoples of the United Nations determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small, and to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom, and for these ends to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors, and to unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, and to ensure, by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods, that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest, and to employ international machinery for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all peoples, have resolved to combine our efforts to accomplish these aims.
Accordingly, our respective Governments, through representatives assembled in the city of San Francisco, who have exhibited their full powers found to be in good and due form, have agreed to the present Charter of the United Nations and do hereby establish an international organization to be known as the United Nations.

Chapter I

PURPOSES AND PRINCIPLES

The Purposes of the United Nations are:

1. To maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace;

2. To develop friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, and to take other appropriate measures to strengthen universal peace;

3. To achieve international cooperation in solving international problems of an economic, social, cultural, or humanitarian character, and in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion; and

4. To be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations in the attainment of these common ends.

Article 2

The Organization and its Members, in pursuit of the Purposes stated in Article 1, shall act in accordance with the following Principles.

1. The Organization is based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all its Members.

2. All Members, in order to ensure to all of them the rights and benefits resulting from membership, shall fulfil in good faith the obligations assumed by them in accordance with the present Charter.

3. All Members shall settle their international disputes by peaceful means in such a manner that international peace and security, and justice, are not endangered.

4. All Members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state, or in any other manner inconsistent with the Purposes of the United Nations.

5. All Members shall give the United Nations every assistance in any action it takes in accordance with the present Charter, and shall refrain from giving assistance to any state against which the United Nations is taking preventive or enforcement action.

6. The Organization shall ensure that states which are not Members of the United Nations act in accordance with these Principles so far as may be necessary for the maintenance of international peace and security.

7. Nothing contained in the present Charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state or shall require the Members to submit such matters to settlement under the present Charter; but this principle shall not prejudice the application of enforcement measures under Chapter VII.

Chapter II

MEMBERSHIP

Article 3

The original Members of the United Nations shall be the states which, having participated in the United Nations Conference on International Organization at San Francisco, or having previously signed the Declaration by United Nations of January 1, 1942, sign the present Charter and ratify it in accordance with Article 110.

Article 4

1. Membership in the United Nations is open to all other peace-loving states which accept the obligations contained in the present Charter and, in the judgment of the Organization, are able and willing to carry out these obligations.

2. The admission of any such state to membership in the United Nations will be effected by a decision of the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council.

Article 5

A Member of the United Nations against which preventive or enforcement action has been taken by the Security Council may be suspended from the exercise of the rights and privileges of membership by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council. The exercise of these rights and privileges may be restored by the Security Council.

Article 6

A Member of the United Nations which has persistently violated the Principles contained in the present Charter may be expelled from the Organization by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council.

Chapter III

ORGANS

Article 7

1. There are established as the principal organs of the United Nations: a General Assembly, a Security Council, an Economic and Social Council, a Trusteeship Council, an International Court of Justice, and a Secretariat.

2. Such subsidiary organs as may be found necessary may be established in accordance with the present Charter.

The United Nations shall place no restrictions on the eligibility of men and women to participate in any capacity and under conditions of equality in its principal and subsidiary organs.

Chapter IV

COMPOSITION

Article 9

1. The General Assembly shall consist of all the Members of the United Nations.

2. Each Member shall have not more than five representatives in the General Assembly.

FUNCTIONS AND POWERS

Article 10

The General Assembly may discuss any questions or any matters within the scope of the present Charter or relating to the powers and functions of any organs provided for in the present Charter, and except as provided in Article 12, may make recommendations to the Members of the United Nations or to the Security Council or to both on any such questions or matters.

Article 11

1. The General Assembly may consider the general principles of cooperation in the maintenance of international peace and security, including the principles governing disarmament and the regulation of armaments, and may make recommendations with regard to such principles to the Members or to the Security Council or to both.

2. The General Assembly may discuss any questions relating to the maintenance of international peace and security brought before it by any Member of the United Nations, or by the Security Council, or by a state which is not a Member of the United Nations in accordance with Article 35, paragraph 2, and, except as provided in Article 12, may make recommendations with regard to any such questions to the state or states concerned or to the Security Council or to both. Any such question on which action is necessary shall be referred to the Security Council by the General Assembly either before or after discussion.

3. The General Assembly may call the attention of the Security Council to situations which are likely to endanger international peace and security.

4. The powers of the General Assembly set forth in this Article shall not limit the general scope of Article 10.

Article 12

1. While the Security Council is exercising in respect of any dispute or situation the functions assigned to it in the present Charter, the General Assembly shall not make any recommendation with regard to that dispute or situation unless the Security Council so requests.

2. The Secretary-General, with the consent of the Security Council, shall notify the General Assembly at each session of any matters relative to the maintenance of international peace and security which are being dealt with by the Security Council and shall similarly notify the General Assembly, or the Members of the United Nations if the General Assembly is not in session, immediately the Security Council ceases to deal with such matters.

Article 13

1. The General Assembly shall initiate studies and make recommendations for the purpose of:

a. promoting international cooperation in the political field and encouraging the progressive development of international law and its codification;

b. promoting international cooperation in the economic, social, cultural, educational, and health fields, and assisting in the realization of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion.

2. The further responsibilities, functions, and powers of the General Assembly with respect to matters mentioned in paragraph 1 (b) above are set forth in Chapters IX and X.

Article 14

Subject to the provisions of Article 12, the General Assembly may recommend measures for the peaceful adjustment of any situation, regardless of origin, which it deems likely to impair the general welfare or friendly relations among nations; including situations resulting from a violation of the provisions of the present Charter setting forth the Purposes and Principles of the United Nations.

Article 15

1. The General Assembly shall receive and consider annual and special reports from the Security Council; these reports shall include an account of the measures that the Security Council has decided upon or taken to maintain international peace and security.

2. The General Assembly shall receive and consider reports from the other organs of the United Nations.

Article 16

The General Assembly shall perform such functions with respect to the international trusteeship system as are assigned to it under Chapters XII and XIII, including the approval of the trusteeship agreements for areas not designated as strategic.

Article 17

1. The General Assembly shall consider and approve the budget of the Organization.

2. The expenses of the Organization shall be borne by the Members as apportioned by the General Assembly.

3. The General Assembly shall consider and approve any financial and budgetary arrangements with specialized agencies referred to in Article 57 and shall examine the administrative budgets of such specialized agencies with a view to making recommendations to the agencies concerned.

VOTING

1. Each member of the General Assembly shall have one vote.

2. Decisions of the General Assembly on important questions shall be made by a two-thirds majority of the members present and voting. These questions shall include: recommendations with respect to the maintenance of international peace and security, the election of the non-permanent members of the Security Council, the election of the members of the Economic and Social Council, the election of members of the Trusteeship Council in accordance with paragraph 1 (c) of Article 86, the admission of new Members to the United Nations, the suspension of the rights and privileges of membership, the expulsion of Members, questions relating to the operation of the trusteeship system, and budgetary questions.

3. Decisions on other questions, including the determination of additional categories of questions to be decided by a two-thirds majority, shall be made by a majority of the members present and voting.

Article 19

A member of the United Nations which is in arrears in the payment of its financial contributions to the Organization shall have no vote in the General Assembly if the amount of its arrears equals or exceeds the amount of the contributions due from it for the preceding two full years. The General Assembly may, nevertheless, permit such a Member to vote if it is satisfied that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the control of the Member.

PROCEDURE

Article 20

The General Assembly shall meet in regular annual sessions and in such special sessions as occasion may require. Special sessions shall be convoked by the Secretary-General at the request of the Security Council or of a majority of the Members of the United Nations.

Article 21

The General Assembly shall adopt its own rules of procedure. It shall elect its President for each session.

Article 22

The General Assembly may establish such subsidiary organs as it deems necessary for the performance of its functions.

Chapter V

THE SECURITY COUNCIL

COMPOSITION

1. The Security Council shall consist of eleven Members of the United Nations. The Republic of China, France, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the United States of America shall be permanent members of the Security Council. The General Assembly shall elect six other Members of the United Nations to be non-permanent members of the Security Council, due regard being specially paid, in the first instance to the contribution of Members of the United Nations to the maintenance of international peace and security and to the other purposes of the Organization, and also to equitable geographical distribution.

2. The non-permanent members of the Security Council shall be elected for a term of two years. In the first election of the non-permanent members, however, three shall be chosen for a term of one year. A retiring member shall not be eligible for immediate re-election.

3. Each member of the Security Council shall have one representative.

FUNCTIONS AND POWERS

Article 24

1. In order to ensure prompt and effective action by the United Nations, its Members confer on the Security Council primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security, and agree that in carrying out its duties under this responsibility the Security Council acts on their behalf.

2. In discharging these duties the Security Council shall act in accordance with the Purposes and Principles of the United Nations. The specific powers granted to the Security Council for the discharge of these duties are laid down in Chapters VI, VII, VIII, and XII.

3. The Security Council shall submit annual and, when necessary, special reports to the General Assembly for its consideration.

Article 25

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept and carry out the decisions of the Security Council in accordance with the present Charter.

Article 26

In order to promote the establishment and maintenance of international peace and security with the least diversion for armaments of the world's human and economic resources, the Security Council shall be responsible for formulating, with the assistance of the Military Staff Committee referred to in Article 47, plans to be submitted to the Members of the United Nations for the establishment of a system for the regulation of armaments.

VOTING

1. Each member of the Security Council shall have one vote.

2. Decisions of the Security Council on procedural matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of seven members.

3. Decisions of the Security Council on all other matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of seven members including the concurring votes of the permanent members; provided that, in decisions under Chapter VI, and under paragraph 3 of Article 52, a party to a dispute shall abstain from voting.

PROCEDURE

Article 28

1. The Security Council shall be so organized as to be able to function continuously. Each member of the Security Council shall for this purpose be represented at all times at the seat of the Organization.

2. The Security Council shall hold periodic meetings at which each of its members may, if it so desires, be represented by a member of the government or by some other specially designated representative.

3. The Security Council may hold meetings at such places other than the seat of the Organization as in its judgment will best facilitate its work.

Article 29

The Security Council may establish such subsidiary organs as it deems necessary for the performance of its functions.

Article 30

The Security Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure, including the method of selecting its President.

Article 31

Any Member of the United Nations which is not a member of the Security Council may participate, without vote, in the discussion of any question brought before the Security Council whenever the latter considers that the interests of that Member are specially affected.

Article 32

Any Member of the United Nations which is not a member of the Security Council or any state which is not a Member of the United Nations, if it is a party to a dispute under consideration by the Security Council, shall be invited to participate, without vote, in the discussion relating to the dispute. The Security Council shall lay down such conditions as it deems just for the participation of a state which is not a Member of the United Nations.

Chapter VI

PACIFIC SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

Article 33

1. The parties to any dispute, the continuance of which is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, shall, first of all, seek a solution by negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, resort to regional agencies or arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice.

2. The Security Council shall, when it deems necessary, call upon the parties to settle their dispute by such means.

Article 34

The Security Council may investigate any dispute, or any situation which might lead to international friction or give rise to a dispute, in order to determine whether the continuance of the dispute or situation is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security.

Article 35

1. Any Member of the United Nations may bring any dispute, or any situation of the nature referred to in Article 34, to the attention of the Security Council or of the General Assembly.

2. A state which is not a Member of the United Nations may bring to the attention of the Security Council or of the General Assembly any dispute to which it is a party if it accepts in advance, for the purposes of the dispute, the obligations of pacific settlement provided in the present Charter.

3. The proceedings of the General Assembly in respect of matters brought to its attention under this Article will be subject to the provisions of Articles 11 and 12.

Article 36

1. The Security Council may, at any stage of a dispute of the nature referred to in Article 33 or of a situation of like nature, recommend appropriate procedures or methods of adjustment.

2. The Security Council should take into consideration any procedures for the settlement of the dispute which have already been adopted by the parties.

3. In making recommendations under this Article the Security Council should also take into consideration that legal disputes should as a general rule be referred by the parties to the International Court of Justice in accordance with the provisions of the Statute of the Court.

Article 37

1. Should the parties to a dispute of the nature referred to in Article 33 fail to settle it by the means indicated in that Article, they shall refer it to the Security Council.

2. If the Security Council deems that the continuance of the dispute is in fact likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, it shall decide whether to take action under Article 36 or to recommend such terms of settlement as it may consider appropriate.

Article 38

Without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 33 to 37, the Security Council may, if all the parties to any dispute so request, make recommendations to the parties with a view to a specific settlement of the dispute.

Chapter VII

ACTION WITH RESPECT TO THREATS TO THE PEACE, BREACHES OF THE PEACE, AND ACTS OF AGGRESSION

Article 39

The Security Council shall determine the existence of any threat to the peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression and shall make recommendations, or decide what measures shall be taken in accordance with Articles 41 and 42, to maintain or restore international peace and security.

Article 40

In order to prevent an aggravation of the situation, the Security Council may, before making the recommendations or deciding upon the measures provided for in Article 39, call upon the parties concerned to comply with such provisional measures as it deems necessary or desirable. Such provisional measures shall be without prejudice to the rights, claims, or position of the parties concerned. The Security Council shall duly take account of failure to comply with such provisional measures.

Article 41

The Security Council may decide what measures not involving the use of armed force are to be employed to give effect to its decisions, and it may call upon the Members of the United Nations to apply such measures. These may include complete or partial interruption of economic relations and of rail, sea, air, postal, telegraphic, radio, and other means of communication, and the severance of diplomatic relations.

Article 42

Should the Security Council consider that measures provided for in Article 41 would be inadequate or have proved to be inadequate, it may take such action by air, sea, or land forces as may be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security. Such action may include demonstrations, blockade, and other operations by air, sea, or land forces of Members of the United Nations.

Article 43

1. All Members of the United Nations, in order to contribute to the maintenance of international peace and security, undertake to make available to the Security Council, on its call and in accordance with a special agreement or agreements, armed forces, assistance, and facilities, including rights of passage, necessary for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security.

2. Such agreement or agreements shall govern the numbers and types of forces, their degree of readiness and general location, and the nature of the facilities and assistance to be provided.

3. The agreement or agreements shall be negotiated as soon as possible on the initiative of the Security Council. They shall be concluded between the Security Council and Members or between the Security Council and groups of Members and shall be subject to ratification by the signatory states in accordance with their respective constitutional processes.

Article 44

When the Security Council has decided to use force it shall, before calling upon a Member not represented on it to provide armed forces in fulfillment of the obligations assumed under Article 43, invite that Member, if the Member so desires, to participate in the decisions of the Security Council concerning the employment of contingents of that Member's armed forces.

Article 45

In order to enable the United Nations to take urgent military measures, Members shall hold immediately available national air-force contingents for combined international enforcement action. The strength and degree of readiness of these contingents and plans for their combined action shall be determined, within the limits laid down in the special agreement or agreements referred to in Article 43, by the Security Council with the assistance of the Military Staff Committee.

Article 46

Plans for the application of armed force shall be made by the Security Council with the assistance of the Military Staff Committee.

Article 47

1. There shall be established a Military Staff Committee to advise and assist the Security Council on all questions relating to the Security Council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the employment and command of forces placed at its disposal, the regulation of armaments, and possible disarmament.

2. The Military Staff Committee shall consist of the Chiefs of Staff of the permanent members of the Security Council or their representatives. Any Member of the United Nations not permanently represented on the Committee shall be invited by the Committee to be associated with it when the efficient discharge of the Committee's responsibilities requires the participation of that Member in its work.

3. The Military Staff Committee shall be responsible under the Security Council for the strategic direction of any armed forces placed at the disposal of the Security Council. Questions relating to the command of such forces shall be worked out subsequently.

4. The Military Staff Committee, with the authorization of the Security Council and after consultation with appropriate regional agencies, may establish regional subcommittees.

Article 48

1. The action required to carry out the decisions of the Security Council for the maintenance of international peace and security shall be taken by all the Members of the United Nations or by some of them, as the Security Council may determine.

2. Such decisions shall be carried out by the Members of the United Nations directly and through their action in the appropriate international agencies of which they are members.

Article 49

The Members of the United Nations shall join in affording mutual assistance in carrying out the measures decided upon by the Security Council.

Article 50

If preventive or enforcement measures against any state are taken by the Security Council, any other state, whether a Member of the United Nations or not, which finds itself confronted with special economic problems arising from the carrying out of those measures shall have the right to consult the Security Council with regard to a solution of those problems.

Article 51

Nothing in the present Charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a Member of the United Nations, until the Security Council has taken the measures necessary to mantain international peace and security. Measures taken by Members in the exercise of this right of self-defense shall be immediately reported to the Security Council and shall not in any way affect the authority and responsibility of the Security Council under the present Charter to take at any time such action as it deems necessary in order to maintain or restore international peace and security.

Chapter VIII

REGIONAL ARRANGEMENTS

Article 52

1. Nothing in the present Charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided that such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the Purposes and Principles of the United Nations.

2. The Members of the United Nations entering into such arrangements or constituting such agencies shall make every effort to achieve pacific settlement of local disputes through such regional arrangements or by such regional agencies before referring them to the Security Council.

3. The Security Council shall encourage the development of pacific settlement of local disputes through such regional arrangements or by such regional agencies either on the initiative of the states concerned or by reference from the Security Council.

4. This Article in no way impairs the application of Articles 34 and 35.

Article 53

1. The Security Council shall, where appropriate, utilize such regional arrangements or agencies for enforcement action under its authority. But no enforcement action shall be taken under regional arrangements or by regional agencies without the authorization of the Security Council, with the exception of measures against any enemy state, as defined in paragraph 2 of this Article, provided for pursuant to Article 107 or in regional arrangements directed against renewal of aggressive policy on the part of any such state, until such time as the Organization may, on request of the Governments concerned, be charged with the responsibility for preventing further aggression by such a state.

2. The term enemy state as used in paragraph 1 of this Article applies to any state which during the Second World War has been an enemy of any signatory of the present Charter.

Article 54

The Security Council shall at all times be kept fully informed of activities undertaken or in contemplation under regional arrangements or by regional agencies for the maintenance of international peace and security.

Chapter IX

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COOPERATION

Article 55

With a view to the creation of conditions of stability and well-being which are necessary for peaceful and friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, the United Nations shall promote:

a. higher standards of living, full employment, and conditions of economic and social progress and development;

b. solutions of intérnational economic, social, health, and related problems; and international cultural and educational cooperation; and

c. universal respect for, and observance of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion.

Article 56

All Members pledge themselves to take joint and separate action in cooperation with the Organization for the achievement of the purposes set forth in Article 55.

Article 57

1. The various specialized agencies, established by intergovernmental agreement and having wide international responsibilities, as defined in their basic instruments, in economic, social, cultural, educational, health, and related fields, shall be brought into relationship with the United Nations in accordance with the provisions of Article 63.

2. Such agencies thus brought into relationship with the United Nations are hereinafter referred to as specialized agencies.

Article 58

The Organization shall make recommendations for the coordination of the policies and activities of the specialized agencies.

Article 59

The Organization shall, where appropriate, initiate negotiations among the states concerned for the creation of any new specialized agencies required for the accomplishment of the purposes set forth in Article 55.

Article 60

Responsibility for the discharge of the functions of the Organization set forth in this Chapter shall be vested in the General Assembly and, under the authority of the General Assembly, in the Economic and Social Council, which shall have for this purpose the powers set forth in Chapter X.

Chapter X

THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

COMPOSITION

Article 61

1. The Economic and Social Council shall consist of eighteen Members of the United Nations elected by the General Assembly.

2. Subject to the provisions of paragraph 3, six members of the Economic and Social Council shall be elected each year for a term of three years. A retiring member shall be eligible for immediate reelection.

3. At the first election, eighteen members of the Economic and Social Council shall be chosen. The term of office of six members so chosen shall expire at the end of one year, and of six other members at the end of two years, in accordance with arrangements made by the General Assembly.

4. Each member of the Economic and Social Council shall have one representative.

FUNCTIONS AND POWERS

Article 62

1. The Economic and Social Council may make or initiate studies and reports with respect to international economic, social, cultural, educational, health, and related matters and may make recommendations with respect to any such matters to the General Assembly, to the Members of the United Nations, and to the specialized agencies concerned.

2. It may make recommendations for the purpose of promoting respect for, and observance of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

3. It may prepare draft conventions for submission to the General Assembly, with respect to matters falling within its competence.

4. It may call, in accordance with the rules prescribed by the United Nations, international conferences on matters falling within its competence.

Article 63

1. The Economic and Social Council may enter into agreements with any of the agencies referred to in Article 57, defining the terms on which the agency concerned shall be brought into relationship with the United Nations. Such agreements shall be subject to approval by the General Assembly.

2. It may coordinate the activities of the specialized agencies through consultation with and recommendations to such agencies and through recommendations to the General Assembly and to the Members of the United Nations.

Article 64

1. The Economic and Social Council may take appropriate steps to obtain regular reports from the specialized agencies. It may make arrangements with the Members of the United Nations and with the specialized agencies to obtain reports on the steps taken to give effect to its own recommendations and to recommendations on matters falling within its competence made by the General Assembly.

2. It may communicate its observations on these reports to the General Assembly.

Article 65

The Economic and Social Council may furnish information to the Security Council and shall assist the Security Council upon its request.

Article 66

1. The Economic and Social Council shall perform such functions as fall within its competence in connection with the carrying out of the recommendations of the General Assembly.

2. It may, with the approval of the General Assembly, perform services at the request of Members of the United Nations and at the request of specialized agencies.

3. It shall perform such other functions as are specified elsewhere in the present Charter or as may be assigned to it by the General Assembly.

VOTING

Article 67

1. Each member of the Economic and Social Council shall have one vote.

2. Decisions of the Economic and Social Council shall be made by a majority of the members present and voting.

PROCEDURE

Article 68

The Economic and Social Council shall set up commissions in economic and social fields and for the promotion of human rights, and such other commissions as may be required for the performance of its functions.

Article 69

The Economic and Social Council shall invite any Member of the United Nations to participate, without vote, in its deliberations on any matter of particular concern to that Member.

Article 70

The Economic and Social Council may make arrangements for representatives of the specialized agencies to participate, without vote, in its deliberations and in those of the commissions established by it, and for its representatives to participate in the deliberations of the specialized agencies.

Article 71

The Economic and Social Council may make suitable arrangements for consultation with nongovernmental organizations which are concerned with matters within its competence. Such arrangements may be made with international organizations and, where appropriate, with national organizations after consultation with the Member of the United Nations concerned.

Article 72

1. The Economic and Social Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure, including the method of selecting its President.

2. The Economic and Social Council shall meet as required in accordance with its rules, which shall include provision for the convening of meetings on the request of a majority of its members.

Chapter XI

DECLARATION REGARDING NON-SELF-GOVERNING TERRITORIES

Article 73

Members of the United Nations which have or assume responsibilities for the administration of territories whose peoples have not yet attained a full measure of self-government recognize the principle that the interests of the inhabitants of these territories are paramount, and accept as a sacred trust the obligation to promote to the utmost, within the system of international peace and security established by the present Charter, the well-being of the inhabitants of these territories, and, to this end:

a. to ensure, with due respect for the culture of the peoples concerned, their political, economic, social, and educational advancement, their just treatment, and their protection against abuses;

b. to develop self-government, to take due account of the political aspirations of the peoples, and to assist them in the progressive development of their free political institutions, according to the particular circumstances of each territory and its peoples and their varying stages of advancement;

c. to further international peace and security;

d. to promote constructive measures of development, to encourage research, and to cooperate with one another and, when and where appropriate, with specialized international bodies with a view to the practical achievement of the social, economic, and scientific purposes set forth in this Article; and

e. to transmit regularly to the Secretary-General for information purposes, subject to such limitation as security and constitutional considerations may require, statistical and other information of a technical nature relating to economic, social, and educational conditions in the territories for which they are respectively responsible other than those territories to which Chapters XII and XIII apply.

Article 74

Members of the United Nations also agree that their policy in respect of the territories to which this Chapter applies, no less than in respect of their metropolitan areas, must be based on the general principle of good-neighborliness, due account being taken of the interests and well-being of the rest of the world, in social, economic, and commercial matters.

Chapter XII

INTERNATIONAL TRUSTEESHIP SYSTEM

Article 75

The United Nations shall establish under its authority an international trusteeship system for the administration and supervision of such territories as may be placed thereunder by subsequent individual agreements. These territories are hereinafter referred to as trust territories.

Article 76

The basic objectives of the trusteeship system, in accordance with the Purposes of the United Nations laid down in Article 1 of the present Charter, shall be:

a. to further international peace and security;

b. to promote the political, economic, social, and educational advancement of the inhabitants of the trust territories, and their progressive development towards self-government or independence as may be appropriate to the particular circumstances of each territory and its peoples and the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned, and as may be provided by the terms of each trusteeship agreement;

c. to encourage respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion, and to encourage recognition of the interdependence of the peoples of the world; and

d. to ensure equal treatment in social, economic, and commercial matters for all Members of the United Nations and their nationals, and also equal treatment for the latter in the administration of justice, without prejudice to the attainment of the foregoing objectives and subject to the provisions of Article 80.

Article 77

1. The trusteeship system shall apply to such territories in the following categories as may be placed thereunder by means of trusteeship agreements:

a. territories now held under mandate;

b. territories which may be detached from enemy states as a result of the Second World War; and

c. territories voluntarily placed under the system by states responsible for their administration.

2. It will be a matter for subsequent agreement as to which territories in the foregoing categories will be brought under the trusteeship system and upon what terms.

Article 78

The trusteeship system shall not apply to territories which have become Members of the United Nations, relationship among which shall be based on respect for the principle of sovereign equality.

Article 79

The terms of trusteeship for each territory to be placed under the trusteeship system, including any alteration or amendment, shall be agreed upon by the states directly concerned, including the mandatory power in the case of territories held under mandate by a Member of the United Nations, and shall be approved as provided for in Articles 83 and 85.

Article 80

1. Except as may be agreed upon in individual trusteeship agreements, made under Articles 77, 79, and 81, placing each territory under the trusteeship system, and until such agreements have been concluded, nothing in this Chapter shall be construed in or of itself to alter in any manner the rights whatsoever of any states or any peoples or the terms of existing international instruments to which Members of the United Nations may respectively be parties.

2. Paragraph 1 of this Article shall not be interpreted as giving grounds for delay or postponement of the negotiation and conclusion of agreements for placing mandated and other territories under the trusteeship system as provided for in Article 77.

Article 81

The trusteeship agreement shall in each case include the terms under which the trust territory will be administered and designate the authority which will exercise the administration of the trust territory. Such authority, hereinafter called the administering authority, may be one or more states or the Organization itself.

Article 82

There may be designated, in any trusteeship agreement, a strategic area or areas which may include part or all of the trust territory to which the agreement applies, without prejudice to any special agreement or agreements made under Article 43.

Article 83

1. All functions of the United Nations relating to strategic areas, including the approval of the terms of the trusteeship agreements and of their alteration or amendment, shall be exercised by the Security Council.

2. The basic objectives set forth in Article 76 shall be applicable to the people of each strategic area.

3. The Security Council shall, subject to the provisions of the trusteeship agreements and without prejudice to security considerations, avail itself of the assistance of the Trusteeship Council to perform those functions of the United Nations under the trusteeship system relating to political, economic, social, and educational matters in the strategic areas.

Article 84

It shall be the duty of the administering authority to ensure that the trust territory shall play its part in the maintenance of international peace and security. To this end the administering authority may make use of volunteer forces, facilities, and assistance from the trust territory in carrying out the obligations towards the Security Council undertaken in this regard by the administering authority, as well as for local defense and the maintenance of law and order within the trust territory.

Article 85

1. The functions of the United Nations with regard to trusteeship agreements for all areas not designated as strategic, including the approval of the terms of the trusteeship agreements and of their alteration or amendment, shall be exercised by the General Assembly.

2. The Trusteeship Council, operating under the authority of the General Assembly, shall assist the General Assembly in carrying out these functions.

Chapter XIII

THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

COMPOSITION

Article 86

1. The Trusteeship Council shall consist of the following Members of the United Nations:

a. those Members administering trust territories;

b. such of those Members mentioned by name in Article 23 as are not administering trust territories; and

c. as many other Members elected for three-year terms by the General Assembly as may be necessary to ensure that the total number of members of the Trusteeship Council is equally divided between those Members of the United Nations which administer trust territories and those which do not.

2. Each member of the Trusteeship Council shall designate one specially qualified person to represent it therein.

FUNCTIONS AND POWER

Article 87

The General Assembly and, under its authority, the Trusteeship Council, in carrying out their functions, may:

a. consider reports submitted by the administering authority;

b. accept petitions and examine them in consultation with the administering authority;

c. provide for periodic visits to the respective trust territories at times agreed upon with the administering authority; and

d. take these and other actions in conformity with the terms of the trusteeship agreements.

Article 88

The Trusteeship Council shall formulate a questionnaire on the political, economic, social, and educational advancement of the inhabitants of each trust territory, and the administering authority for each trust territory within the competence of the General Assembly shall make an annual report to the General Assembly upon the basis of such questionnaire.

VOTING

Article 89

1. Each member of the Trusteeship Council shall have one vote.

2. Decisions of the Trusteeship Council shall be made by a majority of the members present and voting.

PROCEDURE

Article 90

1. The Trusteeship Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure, including the method of selecting its President.

2. The Trusteeship Council shall meet as required in accordance with its rules, which shall include provision for the convening of meetings on the request of a majority of its members.

Article 91

The Trusteeship Council shall, when appropriate, avail itself of the assistance of the Economic and Social Council and of the specialized agencies in regard to matters with which they are respectively concerned.

Chapter XIV

THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE

Article 92

The International Court of Justice shall be the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It shall function in accordance with the annexed Statute, which is based upon the Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice and forms an integral part of the present Charter.

Article 93

1. All Members of the United Nations are ipso facto parties to the Statute of the International Court of Justice.

2. A state which is not a Member of the United Nations may become a party to the Statute of the International Court of Justice on conditions to be determined in each case by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council.

Article 94

1. Each Member of the United Nations undertakes to comply with the decision of the International Court of Justice in any case to which it is a party.

2. If any party to a case fails to perform the obligations incumbent upon it under a judgment rendered by the Court, the other party may have recourse to the Security Council, which may, if it deems necessary, make recommendations or decide upon measures to be taken to give effect to the judgment.

Article 95

Nothing in the present Charter shall prevent Members of the United Nations from entrusting the solution of their differences to other tribunals by virtue of agreements already in existence or which may be concluded in the future.

Article 96

1. The General Assembly or the Security Council may request the International Court of Justice to give an advisory opinion on any legal question.

2. Other organs of the United Nations and specialized agencies, which may at any time be so authorized by the General Assembly, may also request advisory opinions of the Court on legal questions arising within the scope of their activities.

Chapter XV

THE SECRETARIAT

Article 97

The Secretariat shall comprise a Secretary-General and such staff as the Organization may require. The Secretary-General shall be appointed by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council. He shall be the chief administrative officer of the Organization.

Article 98

The Secretary-General shall act in that capacity in all meetings of the General Assembly, of the Security Council, of the Economic and Social Council, and of the Trusteeship Council, and shall perform such other functions as are entrusted to him by these organs. The Secretary-General shall make an annual report to the General Assembly on the work of the Organization.

Article 99

The Secretary-General may bring to the attention of the Security Council any matter which in his opinion may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security.

Article 100

1. In the performance of their duties the Secretary-General and the staff shall not seek or receive instructions from any government or from any other authority external to the Organization. They shall refrain from any action which might reflect on their position as international officials responsible only to the Organization.

2. Each Member of the United Nations undertakes to respect the exclusively international character of the responsibilities of the Secretary-General and the staff and not to seek to influence them in the discharge of their responsibilities.

Article 101

1. The staff shall be appointed by the Secretary-General under regulations established by the General Assembly.

2. Appropriate staffs shall be permanently assigned to the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, and, as required, to other organs of the United Nations. These staffs shall form a part of the Secretariat.

3. The paramount consideration in the employment of the staff and in the determination of the conditions of service shall be the necessity of securing the highest standards of efficiency, competence, and integrity. Due regard shall be paid to the importance of recruiting the staff on as wide a geographical basis as possible.

Chapter XVI

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Article 102

1. Every treaty and every international agreement entered into by any Member of the United Nations after the present Charter comes into force shall as soon as possible be registered with the Secretariat and published by it.

2. No party to any such treaty or international agreement which has not been registered in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 1 of this Article may invoke that treaty or agreement before any organ of the United Nations.

Article 103

In the event of a conflict between the obligations of the Members of the United Nations under the present Charter and their obligations under any other international agreement, their obligations under the present Charter shall prevail.

Article 104

The Organization shall enjoy in the territory of each of its Members such legal capacity as may be necessary for the exercise of its functions and the fulfillment of its purposes.

Article 105

1. The Organization shall enjoy in the territory of each of its Members such privileges and immunities as are necessary for the fulfillment of its purposes.

2. Representatives of the Members of the United Nations and officials of the Organization shall similarly enjoy such privileges and immunities as are necessary for the independent exercise of their functions in connection with the Organization.

3. The General Assembly may make recommendations with a view to determining the details of the application of paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article or may propose conventions to the Members of the United Nations for this purpose.

Chapter XVII

TRANSITIONAL SECURITY ARRANGEMENTS

Article 106

Pending the coming into force of such special agreements referred to in Article 43 as in the opinion of the Security Council enable it to begin the exercise of its responsibilities under Article 42, the parties to the Four-Nation Declaration, signed at Moscow, October 30, 1943, and France, shall, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 5 of that Declaration, consult with one another and as occasion requires with other Members of the United Nations with a view to such joint action on behalf of the Organization as may be necessary for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security.

Article 107

Nothing in the present Charter shall invalidate or preclude action, in relation to any state which during the Second World War has been an enemy of any signatory to the present Charter, taken or authorized as a result of that war by the Governments having responsibility for such action.

Chapter XVIII

AMENDMENTS

Article 108

Amendments to the present Charter shall come into force for all Members of the United Nations when they have been adopted by a vote of two thirds of the members of the General Assembly and ratified in accordance with their respective constitutional processes by two thirds of the Members of the United Nations, including all the permanent members of the Security Council.

Article 109

1. A General Conference of the Members of the United Nations for the purpose of reviewing the present Charter may be held at a date and place to be fixed by a two-thirds vote of the members of the General Assembly and by a vote of any seven members of the Security Council. Each Member of the United Nations shall have one vote in the conference.

2. Any alteration of the present Charter recommended by a two-thirds vote of the conference shall take effect when ratified in accordance with their respective constitutional processes by two thirds of the Members of the United Nations including all the permanent members of the Security Council.

3. If such a conference has not been held before the tenth annual session of the General Assembly following the coming into force of the present Charter, the proposal to call such a conference shall be placed on the agenda of that session of the General Assembly, and the conference shall be held if so decided by a majority vote of the members of the General Assembly and by a vote of any seven members of the Security Council.

Chapter XIX

RATIFICATION AND SIGNATURE

Article 110

1. The present Charter shall be ratified by the signatory states in accordance with their respective constitutional processes.

2. The ratifications shall be deposited with the Government of the United States of America, which shall notify all the signatory states of each deposit as well as the Secretary-General of the Organization when he has been appointed.

3. The present Charter shall come into force upon the deposit of ratifications by the Republic of China, France, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the United States of America, and by a majority of the other signatory states. A protocol of the ratifications deposited shall thereupon be drawn up by the Government of the United States of America which shall communicate copies thereof to all the signatory states.

4. The states signatory to the present Charter which ratify it after it has come into force will become original Members of the United Nations on the date of the deposit of their respective ratifications.

Article 111

The present Charter, of which the Chinese, French, Russian, English, and Spanish texts are equally authentic, shall remain deposited in the archives of the Government of the United States of America. Duly certified copies thereof shall be transmitted by that Government to the Governments of the other signatory states.

IN FAITH WHEREOF the representatives of the Governments of the United Nations have signed the present Charter.

DONE at the city of San Francisco the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five.

1. It is possible that the deepest part of the ocean is not yet known. In 1962 the HMS COOK discovered a depth of 37,782 feet in the Philippine Trench, just southeast of the Philippine Islands, but the British Admiralty has since advised that, owing to difficulties in the equipment, the figure should not be considered valid. Many soundings have at times been questioned, as was the Milwaukee depth of 30,180 feet in the Puerto Rico Trough, which depth is no longer shown.

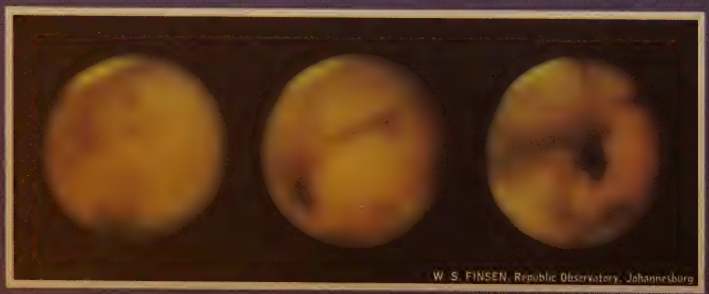
ATLAS of the WORLD



In this artist's view of the solar system, liberties have necessarily been taken with the distances and with the relative sizes of the planets. In true proportion, if Mercury were the size it is shown here, the Sun would have to be at least five times the size of this page with Mercury about 185 feet from it.

BULGARIA and GREECE are divided into counties and departments, respectively. Because of the scale no attempt has been made to delimit and name these subdivisions; their administrative centers have, however, been designated.
The larger divisions named in Greece are well-known geographical regions, without administrative function.
RUMANIA consists of sixteen regions and two independent administrative units, Bucharest City and Constanta Town.
ALBANIA is divided into prefectures, bearing the same names as their administrative centers.
YUGOSLAVIA is a federation of six republics. The Serbian republic includes an autonomous province (Voyvodina), and an autonomous region (Kosovo-Mitohijan).

Note: At the far right, after each entry, the first letter and figure or figures preceding the diagonal line locate the entry in the square formed by the grid pattern marked near the margin of each map. The number to the right of the diagonal line identifies the plate number of the map where the entry appears. For example, Aba, Nigeria . . . . H10/62 means that on map number 62, Aba can be found by looking in the square formed where the rectangular grid H intersects with grid 10.
