

The Leviathan Principle

By Rev. Frederick Nagash

Leviathan's number is three, three being the number of Chaos as three can go into six and nine but doesn't have the stability of the number one.

Leviathan's color is blue, blue being the color of the wild oceans untamed, (wo)mans carnal side overcoming him/her, chaos.

Leviathan's element is water, water being that which our human forms are primarily created of. This represent the unity of matter and anti-matter, chaos and order, yin with yang.

Leviathan's direction is west, west being used to represent chaos and disorder.

Leviathan's human element is chaos, chaos meaning manifestation of order from the chaos of the nothing. No longer controlling ones actions, words etc... and not remembering fragments of time due to anger or lust are prime examples of this principal.

Leviathan's altar element is water, used in the chalice as a sacrament to or as Leviathan.

Leviathan's planet is man or microcosm, representing the bond between man and his own lost natural self.

Leviathan's highest manifestation comes from man realizing his own deification, Just as God can create and destroy so can we. Just as water is unpredictable and can be calm one moment and crashing another so are we. That's the gift of/from Leviathan!
