Another work which deals with every portion of the Prayer Book from the "Sentences" to "The Fifth of November," is:-

A Companion to the Book of Common Prayer, Being a Compilation of Paulous and Hymne on the Collects, Rottler, Cospet; and on the Fasts, Pestivals, and Rites of the United Church of England and Ireland, London: Smith, Elder & Co. 1832.

This work was compiled by a lady, and natains about 400 hymns. [J. J.] contains about 400 hymns.

Prayer is the breath of God in man. B. Beddome. [Prayer.] This appeared in Robert Hall's posthumous ed. of Beddome's Hymns, &c., 1817, No. 405, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed "Importance of Prayer." It was added to the 27th ed. of Rippon's Sel., 1827, No. 353 (Pt. i.), and from thence has passed into several collections, sometimes dated 1787 (Rippon's 1st ed.) in error, and at other times with the opening line changed to "Prayer is the Spirit of our God." The hymn "When God inclines the heart to pray," in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, is composed of st. iv., v. of the original.

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire. J. Montgomery. [Prayer.] This hymn was written in 1818, at the request of the Rev. E. Bickersteth, for his Treatise on Prayer. It was first printed in 1818, together with three other hymns by Montgomery on Prayer ("Thou, God, art a consuming fire," "Lord, teach us how to pray aright," and "What shall we ask of God in prayer?"), on a broadsheet, for use in the Sunday Schools of Sheffield (Wincobank Hall Library). In 1819 it was published simultaneously in Bickersteth's Treatise on Prayer and the 8th cd. of Cotterill's Sel., No. 278. Cotterill's text is that of the broadsheet, whilst Bickerstoth's is slightly different, as in st. v. l. 4, "And cry 'Behold," &c., changed to "And say 'Behold," &c., and st. vi., which reads in each : -

Collerill, "In prayer on earth the saints are one, In word, and deed, and mind; When with the Father and His Son Sweet fellowship they find,"

Bickersteth. "The raints in prayer appear as one, In word, and deed, and mind, When, with the Father, and the Sou, Their fellowship they find."

In his Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 486, Montgomery repeated the text as in Bickersteth, with the change in st. vii. 1. 4 of "For sinners intercedes," into "For mourners intercedes." In his private copy of the Christian Psatmist Montgomery marked st. iv. and v. to be transposed in case of a reprint, and this was carried into effect in his Original Hys., 1853, No. 62. The altered line, st. vii. l. 4, is also restored to read " For sinners intercedes." In addition to the extensive use of the hymn in its full form, it is also abbreviated. Sometimes the abbreviated texts begin with the first stanza, and at other times with " Prayer is the Christian's vital breath," or with "Prayer is the contrite sinner's voice." [J. J.]

Precious Bible! what a treasure. J. Newton. [Holy Scriptures.] Pub. in his Twenty Six Letters, &c. By Omicron, 1774, in 6 st. of 6 l., and headed, "The Word of God more precious than Gold." It was repeated in R. Conyers's Coll., 1774, No. 276, and again in the Olney Hymne, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 63. It is found in a few modern hymnbooks. [J, J.]

Precious promise God hath given. N. Niles. [The Divine Guide.] Concerning this hymn and its writer, S. W. Duffield says in his English Hymns, 1886, p. 461 :-

"This well-known 'Moody and Sankey' hymn was written by Mr. Nathaniel Niles, a resident of Morristown, New Jersey, and, at that time, a lawyer in New York City. Mr. Niles was born at South Mingston, Rhode Island, September 15th, 1835. He composed these verses on the margin of a newspaper in the railway car while on his way to business."

The hymn was pub in The Episcopalian; and again in P. Bliss's Gospel Songs, 1874, with music by Bliss. The text and music in I. D. Sankey's Sacred S. and Solos, are from the Gospel Songs.

Preis, Lob, Ehr, Ruhm, Dank, Kraft und Macht. [Glory to the Lamb.] In the Getstreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 591. in 7 st. of 6 l., repeated in the Berlin G. L.S., ed. 1868, No. 1928. It is tr. as, "Thanksgiving, honour, praise and might," as No. 628 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, and No. 653 in the ed. of 1886, [J. M.]

Preiswerk, Samuel, s. of Alexander Preiswerk, paster at Rümlingen, in the canton of Basel, was b. at Rümlingen, Sept. 19, 1799. After studying at the Universities of Basel, Tübingen, and Erlangen, he was for some time curate in charge at Benken, in the canton of Basel. In 1824 he was appointed preacher at the Basel Orphanage, and in 1829 tutor of Hobrew at the Basel mission house. In 1830 he was chosen as pastor of Muttenz, near Basel, but on the outbreak of the Revolution of 1882 had to leave. After being from 1834 to 1837 professor of Old Testament Exegesia and Oriental languages in the Evangelical Theological Institution at Geneva, he returned to Basel, where he was instituted, in 1848, as pastor of St. Leonard's church, and in 1859 as antistes, or highest dignitary in the Cathedral. He d. at Basel, Jan. 13, 1871 (O. Kraus, 1879, p. 400; Allg. Deutsche Biog. xxvi, 552, &c.).

Prejawerk was a distinguished preacher. He was one of the editors of the Basel G. B., 1854. His hymne were written at various times, generally to be used at Mission and other meetings in which he was to take part. Sixteen were included in a collection edited by two of his friends and pub. at Basel, 1844, as the Evangelischer Lieder Kyans (271 hymns old and new). Nine of his hymns are in Knapp's Ev. L. S., ed. 1860. The only one trained English is:—

Bas int der Gemeine Stärkes. Missions. In 1844, as above, No. 98, p. 124, in 5 st. of 4 l. Included in Knapp's Ru. L. S., 1850, No. 1160 (1865, No. 1200). Tr. ss.—Hark, the Ghurch proclaims her henour. In full by Miss Winkworth in her Lyra Ger., 2nd ser., 1888, p. 58, and her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 104 (she misquotes the first line as Diese ist der Gameinde Stärke). Repeated in the Ps. & Hyr., Bedford, 1852, and the Ohio Luck. No. 1864. [J. M.] Myl., 1880.

Prentiss, Ellisabeth, née Payson, youngest daughter of Dr. Edward Payson, was b. at Portland, Maine, Oct. 26, 1818; married to George Lewis Prentiss, D.D., then at Bedford, Massachusetts, April, 1845; and d. at Dorset, Vermont, Aug. 13, 1878. Her Life and Letters by her husband appeared some time after. Dr. Prentiss removed from Bedford to New York in 1857, and was appointed Professor of Pastoral Theology at Union Seminary, New York, 1873. Mrs. Prentiss's works include The Flower of the Family; Stepping Heavenward, 1869; and Religious Poems, 1873. Of her hymns the two following are most widely known :-

1. As on a wast eternal shore. Thunkeytwing. Contributed to Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869.

3. More laws to Thos. O Christ. More Love to Christ desired. Written in 1869, and first printed on a flysheet; then in Hatfield's Church H. Rk., N. Y., 1872. F. M. B.)

Presbyterian Hymnody, English. Presbyterianism in England presents in its history four distinct and sharply defined periods, and in all of these it has been directly associated with English hymnody.

i. It was the form of religion "as by law established" in England from 1647 to 1852, a period of five years. It was originally intended to institute a Synod in each county, and a General Assembly for the whole king-dom. The usurpation of Cromwell, however, and the interference of the army in ecclesiastical as well as in civil affairs, prevented the execution of this design, and it was only in London and Loncashire that Synods were In Lancashire there were nine Presbyteries, and several must have been formed in the neighbouring counties. Presbyteries of Manchester and Newcastle-on-Type were established in 1646 and 1648, under the ordinance of Parliament; and the first meeting of the Synod of Lancashire was held in 1649.

The Metrical Psalme, which were in use in the Presbyterian Churches during this period were those of Francis Rous (q.v.), Speaker of the House of Commons, and one of the lay deputies to the Westminster Assembly. [See

Paulters, English, § XI.]

ii. The overthrow of Preabyterianism was followed by a general decline. Having ceased to meet in Presbytery, many of the ministers, in the face of the Calvinism of the Westminster standards, became tinged with Arianism which ultimately developed into Sociaianism. A considerable number of congregations in various parts of the country, especially in the north, adhered to the doctrine formulated in those documents; others became Congregationalists; but a considerable number also were influenced by their Arian pastors. Thus in the course of 150 years the once rigidly orthodox Church became openly Unitarian.

During this period, the Scottish Psalter of 1650 was in use amongst the congregations throughout England.

iii. In 1836 a new era dawned. A convention of ministers and elders of the remaining orthodox Presbylerians was held at Man-chester, when they agreed to form themselves into a Synod, in accordance with the recommendation of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, and styled the same "The Presbyterian Church in England." For forty years its progress was rapid and encou-raging. The Home Mission Committee suc-ceeded in establishing preaching stations in many of the leading towns and cities, especially in Liverpool, Newcastle, Manchester, and London, which became self-supporting. Great activity was also shown in Poreign Mission work, especially in China and India.

For a few years the reconstructed body used the Paulter of 1650 as before; but in 1847 a committee was appointed to prepare a hymn-book for its use, which was pub as Paraphrases & Hya., &c., 1857. In 1867 the late Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Regent Square Church, Loudon, laid upon the table of the Synod Psalms and Hymns for Divine Worship. This book consisted of 521 bymns and versions of Psalms, together with paraphrases of Scripture. It was carefully edited, and set to music of a high order, the latter being edited by Dr. Rimbault. It was accompanied by a Freface setting forth its scope and design, and embodying an explanation of its contents. As a hymnal it soon took a foremost position, and was almost universally adopted by the congregations of the body in England, and also by many congregations of Presbyterians in the British Colonies, especially in Australia, New Zealand, and at the Cape.

iv. In 1876 a great impotus was given to Presbytcrimism in England by the union which then took place between the Presbyterian Church in England, and nearly 100 congregations belonging to the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, located throughout England, and many of which date their origin from the 18th century. This united body is now known as the "Presbyterian Church of England."

At the Union in 1876 the United Presbyterian section continued to use the hymnal which had been recently introduced by the Mother Church in Scotland-The Presbylerian Hymnal. [See Scottish Hymnoly], and the Presbyterian Church in England congregations, mainly, the Pealms and Hymns for Divine Worship of 1867. A feeling, however, arose that the time had come when a new hymnal, enriched with the fruits of more recent hymnody, should be prepared. A committee was accordingly appointed by the Synod of 1980, with instructions to consider what should be done with a view not only to enrich the materials for the service of song in the sanctuary, but to bring the congregations of the Church, as far as possible, into unison in the matter. Under the convenership of the Rev. W. Rigby Murray, Branswick Street Church, Manchester, that committee produced in 1982 the present hymnal of the "Prea-byterian Church of England," Church Praise. (Lond, Nisbet & Co.). It contains 535 hymna and 19 developies, arranged in 15 sections, as i. "The Holy Trinity"; ii. "The Lord Jesus Christ"; iii. "The Holy Spirit"; iv. "The Gospel," &c. In the text of the hymns the originals have been followed in every instance except where a divergence seemed to exist in doctrine from that of the Presbyterian Church. The section for the young forms a prominent feature, 63 hymns being supplied for the purpose of adapting the collection for Sunday Schools and Children's Services. The music has been revised by Dr. E. J. Hopkins, and is of a high order. The expression marks throughout the collection are by the Rev. W. Rigby Murray.

v. Great progress has been made in Pestmody in the Presbyterian Church of England within the past twenty years. The use of in-strumental music, strictly forbidden till 1876, has become general. The practice of chanting and the use of anthems in public worship, are also spreading rapidly. Sir Herbert Oakeley's Bible Pealter is in use in a considerable number of congregations; and the Rev. W. Rigby Murray (Editor of Church Praise, and School Praise,) has published (1886) The Revised Psalier, being the first attempt to adapt the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures to chaut music.

vi. The only hymn-writer of note belonging to the Presbyterian Church of England is the late J. D. Burus, M.A., sometime minister at Hampetend, who died in 1864. [See Buras, Γ₩. R. M.1

Prichard, Vicard, M.A., younger brother of Rhys Prichard, was an eminent Welsh poet and the author of the well-known book called Canwyll y Cymry. He was b. at Llanymddyfri, Carmarthenshire, about 1579. His father was the owner of large property in the neighbourhood. He was educated at Jesus College, Oxford, where he took his degree in June, 1602, having been previously ordained Priest on the 25th of April in that year by John, Suffragan Bishop of Colchester. In the same year he was presented to the Vicarage of Llandingat, his native parish, in which the town of Llandovery is situated, and whence ho was called Vicar of Llandovery. As a preacher he was one of the first of his day, and such was his popularity that when he came to keep residence at St. David's, of which Cathedral he was a Prebendary, he was obliged to keep a moveable pulpit, which was placed in the churchyard, the Cathedral being too small for his congregations. Perceiving the people to be very ignorant, and also much addicted to singing, he turned the substance of his sermons into verse which he gave to his parishioners, and thus originated most of those hymns which had so great an influence over his countrymen. He d. at Llandovery in 1644. When the pious Bishop Bull, who was so charmed with Prichard's character and the unspeakable good done in Wales by his in a rude fashion; more, apparently, as an poems, wished to be buried near him, his grave could not be found. fW. G. T.1

Primers and Offices for the Laity. i. Introduction. - 1. The term Primer, in its ritual sense, designates a series of devo-tional books for the laity, marked by certain general characteristics. The word is found thus as early as Piers Plongamen (before 1960). The earliest known copy is a Ms. of the end of the 14th cent. The earliest printed Primer, according to the Earum Use, is of the vear 1494. Its contents are :--

(1) The Kalendar. (2) Sundry Frayers. (3) Matyns of our lady, with pryme and the houres, the houres of the passyon of our lords, and of the compassyon of our lady. (4) De Profundis for all Crysten soules. (5) Sundry prayers. (6) The fifteen houres of the passyon. (7) Prayers to the Saints. (8) The seven pealmes, fifteen paslines with the letanye and suffrages. (9) Placello, dirige and commendacyon. (10) Fishines of the passyon. (11) The fifteen Oos in Englysche. (12) Sundry prayere.

From this period to 1545 a number of editions of the Sarum Primer are extant. Additions are made to the contents of the volume, which attains its greatest development in the editions of Regnault at Paris, 1526-34 (Rev. Ed. Hoskins). From 1545 there is a break in the Sarum series, but it is resumed in 1551, and in Mary's reign (1554-8). These Sarum Primers are of great interest in regard. to the provision of vernacular devotions for the laity in the Roman Church.

2. The Reformation produced another series, which may be divided into three stages; (1) The illicit Primers of the Gospellers, com-mencing as early as 1530. The carliest ex-tant edition is that known as Marshall's Primer (1534-5). The basis of these is still the Sarum book, but with alterations, omissions (e.g. in some editions, of the Litany and Dirige or Office for the Dead), and explanations in the Reformed sense. (2) The Pri-mers of Henry VIII and Edward VI. (3) The Revised editions of these, with the Orarium, of Elizabeth.

3. Finally, The 17th cent. (1599-1706) produced a series founded no longer on the Sarum but on the Roman Breviary, for the use of English Roman Catholics.

4. For the purposes of this Dictionary, these groups, with their numerous members, can only be considered with reference to the tre of the Latin hymns, which they exhibit. As they extend over a lengthened period, they present a variety of renderings, changing with the change of poetical fashion, and are thus well worth attentive study with a view to securing the best representation of the Latin hymns for purposes of worship. They seem, except in a few cases, of which an echo remains in the tra of this contury, to have passed almost into oblivion, even among Roman Catholics.

ii. Sarum Primers.—1. The Ms. Primer of Sarum (c. 1400), printed in Mr. Maskell's Monumenta Bitualia (vol. iii.), has prose ren-derings of the hymns. A Ms. at Cambridge (c. 1430) has the memories of the hours in metre. In the Sarum Primers, 1538-44, and 1555-8, not only the hymns for the hours and the memories, but portions of the Dirige (the Office for the Dead), are versified indication of metro in the original than for singing. Such a verse as this could never have been sung to the tune of " Veni Creator" :

"Come hely Goost o Creatour eternall In our inludes to make visitacion: And fulfy! Thou with grace supernall Our hartes that be of thy creation."

iil. Unauthorized Primers of the Reformation.-Of the early and illicit primers of the Reformation, the primer known as Marshall's, 1535 (reprinted in Three Primers set forth in the reign of Henry VIII., Clarendon Press), is a good type. The hymns for the hours are versified. In metro they are more regular than those of the Sarum series, and more conformed to Latin types. The Latin originais of the Sarum series are rejected; and all bymns to the B. V. M. are omitted. The "Veni Creator" is translated in part, and probably many of the hymns have some Latin source of inspiration, but the feeling and the dootrinal east is that of Coverdale's Goostly Psalmes and the Gospellers. Bp. Hilsey's Primer (1589), which was drawn up at Thos. Cromwell's command, is based for more on the Sarum series, is similar to it in irregularity of metre, and retains with little modification the addresses to the B. V. M.

iv. Authorized Primers, 1545-1559.--1. The Primer of Henry VIII. (1545), which was reprinted frequently, with increasing modification of the worship of the B. V. M. up to 1553, and then revised under Elizabeth, in 1559. chooses from the Sarum Breviary an entirely new set of hymns, "Jam lucis"; " Ales diei nuntius"; "Consors paterni luminis"; "Re-rum Creator"; "Aeterna coeli gloria"; "Sal-valor mundi"; and in two cases, apparently, joins centoe from two Latin hymns so as to form a new piece. They are chosen partly for allusions to the hours for which they are fixed, and partly as expressions of sober piety. The tra are evidently intended to reproduce Latin measures, and are either trochaic or t.m. (The sacred use of L.M. for our hymns springs from the Reformation Primer, as a representa-tive of the Iambie Latin.) The versification is a great advance on the Sarum Primers, and the tre contain some good verses. The following may serve as a specimen of the sort of verse which might be still enshrined in the Prayer Book if the Latin hymns had then been made part of Matins and Evensong.

"Quench the flames of our debate; Foul and unlsome heat abate; Grant unto our body health, To our bearts true peace and wealth."

In the sanction if not the production of this book, Craumer must have had a hand, and a letter of his (Oot. 7, 1514, Works, p. 412, Parker Society) shows that he had it in his mind to translate the Latin hymns. But the Prayer Book of 1549 has no hymns, except the "Veni Creator" (c.st.), in the Ordinal; nor has that of 1552. And as if the emission in both cases was the result of some change of view, perhaps connected with Calvin's restriction of praise to the Metrical Psalter, the Primer of 1553, which has very little of the (1560), should be mentioned a book called The Hours of Prayer, &c., 1627, by Bp. Cosin; and John Austin's Deputions in the Antient Way of Offices, 1668 [Austin, J.]. Both are framed on the model of the Primers, and have some Latin translations, but most of the pieces are original English hymns [Zagiish Rymnody, Early, § 111. 10]. v. Roman Primers, 1599-1706. It is probable that some Primer was issued by the Church of Rome in the earlier part of Elizabeth's reign; but for the present an edition of 1599 (Lambeth Lib.) published at Antwerp, with a preface signed R. V. (probably Robert Verstegan) must be considered the first of a new series, founded no longer on the Sarum but on the Roman Breviary. The members of it are the Primer of 1599, reprinted 1604, 1650 and 1658, all at Antwerp; the Primer of 1615, Mechlin (Brit. Mus.), reprinted at St. Omer, 1619, and again (place not given) 1632 (Brit. Mus.); that of 1684, Rouen; 1685, Antwerp; 1687, printed by Henry Hills, London; 1706, no place of publication or name of printer; reprinted in 1717 and 1732.

reprinted in 1717 and 1732.

So far as the general contents of these editions are concerned, it must suffice to say, that they add to the Hours of B. v. m. and the general cuttine of the Surum books the Hours of the Cross, and the office of the Holy Ghoet. The Antwerp editions are allke in general arrangement; but the 1685 edition adds with other pieces the Rosary as said in Her Majesty's Chapel at St. James," and the Litany of Cur Lady of Loretto. The Routen book has a different arrangement and six offices, as well as other new matter, not found in the Antwerp editions. The London edition (1687, Savoy Chapel and Brit. Museum) is of great interest as having been published, by the "printer to the King's Must Excellent Majesty for his Household and Chapel," at the zenith of James's power. It adds to the contents of the Antwerp books, the Vespers on Sundays and Holydays, the Ordinary of The Mass, and several other devotions. The 1706 edition is similar in contents and arrangement to the Antwerp, 1685. arrangement to the Antwerp, 1685,

2. The hymns in this series have lately attracted well-deserved attention. One of the new features of these primers is a selection of "Hymns throughout the year." The Latin originals chosen for translation remain constant in all the cdd. (speaking generally), and are, until 1706, Vesper hymns; in 1706, the whole of the Breviary hymns are translated. In the case of the Vesper hymns and those that are incorporated in the offices (say 40) there are consequently four sets of translations from the same originals, changing by easy steps from the Elizabethan freshness of 1599 to the Drydenesque thetoric of 1706. (The change is the more gradual from the fact, that with some exceptions, especially in 1706, the metres remain the same. In the preface to the reprint of 1804 it is said that "the hymnes are so turned into English meeter that they may be soong unto the tunes in Latin; these metres, with the exception of the Sapphics, approved themselves in later editions.) A good selection from these trs., printed side by side in pairs, for comparison, in Mr. Orby Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, has made some of these hymns easy of access. One other hymn of 1604 should have been added, the beautiful translation of "Veni Sancte Spiritus". distinctive features of the other primers, and is based on the Book of Common Prayer, has no hymns whatever.

2. In connexion with the Primer of Elization, "Holy Spirit, Lord of Light," and the beth, or more accurately with the Orarism

1. A. & M. translation, "Come, Thou Holy Spirit, Lord of Light," and the H. A. & M. translation, "Come, Thou Holy Spirit, Lord of Light," Spirit, come," in treatment, and here and there ! in actual lines.

3. The Primer of 1615 is examined under Drummond, 18 of its hymns being included in the 1711 ed. of Drummond's poetical works.

Mr. Orby Shipley, in the Annus Sunctus, strongly disputes Drummond's claim. (See also Saturday Review, Aug. 2), 1864.) Mr. W. T. Brooke, however, still opholds Drummond's authorship. In the preface to the lat ed., 1615, the fra, are said to have been the work of "one most skilful in English poetrie."

4. The next known Primer is that of 1684. But in a little book, examined by Mr. W. T. Brooke, entitled Prison Pietie, by Samuel Speed, 1677, there are renderings of "Christe sanctorum decus," in c.m., and the "Dies Irae," and 7 trs. which reappear in the Primer of 1685, relies apparently of some lost Primer. The Primer of 1684 (Rosen) is independent in arrangement of the 1615 (Mechlis) and 1599 (Autwerp), and has additional devotions. The hymns are generally the same as in 1615. But in the additional offices of "The Name of Jesus," and "The Immaculate Conception," there are new hymns. The hymns in the office of the "Blessed Trinity," and of "The Holy Ghost," are also new. In the first of these offices is a creat of the "Blessed Trinity," and of "These offices is a creat of the second good tr. of "Jesu dulcis memoria" (part), in L.M. couplets (Jesu, the very thought of Thee), which is repeated and furnished with additional stanzas, so as to represent the entire hymn, in 1685. The Primer of 1685 has, as has been said, 7 pieces (irs. of "To Deum";
"Veni Sancte Spiritus"; "Memento salutis Auctor": "Jesu dulcis memoria"; "Salutis humanae Sator"; "Creator alme siderum"; "Salvete Floros"), found in Speed's Prison Pietis, 1677. As Speed's book is quite as much a compilation as an original (e.g. containing pieces from Austin, Quarles, and a variation of Cosin's "Veni Creator"), these pieces are probably copied from some earlier Primer now lost. The "To Denm" is in the Primer for the first time in metre. The hymns for the office of "The Holy Ghost" are identical with those of 1684. The "Veni Suncte Spiritus, which had come down from 1599, is revised (see Annus Sanctus, Appendix, p. 83, "Come unto us, Holy Ghost"). A few hymns for Holy Days (Martina, St. Joseph, Hermenegild, Venantius, Teresa) are added. The Letin originals are throughout those of the Reformed Roman Breviary of 1632, and the trs. are new. In this Primer the new manner of the Restoration poetry makes itself distinctly felt. The trs. are sometimes unequal, but there are stanzas and some whole pieces of great nervousness and stantage and its restrictions. Reformed Roman Brewary of 1632, and the trs. are new. In this Primer the new manner of the Restoration poetry makes itself distinctly felt. The trs. are sometimes unequal, but there are stanzas and some whole pieces of great norvousness and vigour, and its excellence is attested by the large use made of its trs. in the English offices of the 18th cont. The tr. of "Coelestis urbs" ("Jerusalem, celestial place") is a fine one. The Primer of 1687 (London) is, so far as its lymns are concerned, a revision of 1685, with the addition of a few new hymns. The revision extends to the substitution of new stanzas in some cases. Among the new stanzas in some cases. Among the new thymns is a tr. of "Dies Irae" ("Day of whith, that dreadful day"), which appears in this same year (1687) in The Great Sacrifices of the New Law, 8th edition, by James Dymock, but is probably only quoted by him, either from this Primer or some unknown; is a transfer or some thicknown; it is a triking lakance of the Latin originals of the Sevilable tr. of 1685.) But a very strong presumption of unity of hand arises out of a close study of the Gleriar of 1706. Large groups of the Latin originals earlier source. The new tr. of "Stabat Mater" ("Under the world-redeeming rood"), is notable as occurring again in the succeeding Primer of 1706, and later Office Books.

5. The Primer of 1706 demands somewhat closer attention. Its place of publication is not stated. In arrangement and contents it recalls the Antwerp series, not the London Primer of 1687. The number of translations it contains is a great advance on preceding Primers. Not the Vesper hymns only but those for Matins and Lauds are translated in the series of hymns for the year; the Breviary hymns are translated entire, together with the hymns are translated entire, together with ine "Dies Irac," and "Jesu duleis memoria; " in all 120 pieces. Of these, the tr. of "Stabat Mater" is from 1687. The "Dies Irac" ("The day of wrath, that dreadful day") was first published in a text that varies from this, in Tate's Miscellanea Sacra (1696, 2nd edition, 1698), and was there ascribed to Lord Roscommon. The tr. of "Veni Crestor" ("Creator Spirit, by whose aid") is Dryden's. So also is the tr. of "Ut queent laxis" ("O sylvan Prophet"), the hymn for evensong on St. John Baptist's Day; and the fr. of the "Te Deum" ("Thee, Soveraign God, our graleful accents praise"); both of which were printed by Scott in his Life of Dryden, 1808. These two latter translations are in metres that had not occurred in previous Primers. The tr. "O sylvan Prophet," is one of 11 pieces, chiefly representing the Sapphie originals, which preceding Primers had always dealt with awkwardly, from an attempt to produce some syllabic equivalent of the Latin. The tr. of the "Te Deum" is one of a series of 8 pieces in heroic metre. A third new metre (c.m.) occurs in the tr. of "Ave maris stella," and "Jesu dulcis memoria," which is not found in any known Primer pre-viously, though there are two c.m. tre. in Speed's Prison Pietic, which may belong to some lost edition. A very full selection from this Primer is given in Mr. Orby Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1894; and it demands closer analysis than the rest, because both Mr. W. T. Brooke and Mr. Shipley claim a very large proportion of these translations as the work of Dryden. 'The special question of Dryden's authorship is dealt with under Dryden, Jahn, but one or two general remarks may be best given here.

have an identical Glorio: and this identity is faithfully reproduced in the English Glories. The Latin Glories have affinities with each other, and these affinities are constantly maintained in English by reproductions of the same phrases. The English Clorins have also affinities of their own, not found in the Latin. In style affinities of their own, not found in the Latin. In style they are very like one another; they are quite in keeping in their grandlose phrases with the hymna they close; and certain mannarisms recur (e.g. the use of equal"). The repetition of common lues, the slight variations of phrase accompanying large repetition, and other economies, are such as a man would naturally practise in the use of his own material, and point very strongly to a common author. The number of pieces, which the Giorius that bear clear family likeness touch, comprises the great holk of the book; and links, of varying strength, counset most of the remainder with them.

them.
The style of the Primer of 1703 is by no means always superior to that of 1885. It is often less nervous, too rietorical and too florid. The translations of 1885-7 have consequently remained in at least equal circulation with those during the 18th cent. But as pieces of devotional poetry, the translations of 1705 are often of great worth, and the hold handling the heilighten of series. merit; and the bold handling, the brillaces of single lines, and the frequent beauty of cadence, look far more like the work of a post coming fresh to the tank, than of a routine translator.

vi. Manual of Prayers, and The Garden of the Soul. Two other devotional books for the laity, which passed through many editions, contain translations of the Latin hymns, viz.; the Manual of Prayers, and The Garden of the Saul; but perhaps in no instance are they independent trs., but transcripts from the Primers or English Offices current at the time of publication. An edition of The Manual, circa 1596, has no hymns: perhaps the Primer of 1599 was the first to introduce translations of the Latin hymne. An edition of 1613 reprints 22 of the translations of the Primer of 1599. Another of 1688 by Henry Hills reprints from the Primer of 1687. Another of 1699 reprints, sometimes revising, from Primers of 1685-7. That of 1733 retains the same Latin originals (28) as 1699, but adopts the translations of the 1706 Primer. The same thing occurs in the ed, of 1750 (Bhipley).

The hymns in the various editions of the Garden of the Soul apparently follow the same law, taking their Latin translations from the current edition of the Primer, or in the latter part of the 18th cent. from the editions of Vespers or The Divine Office. This fact is important in its bearing on the question of Dryden's authorship of the 1706 Primer. Under the impression that Bp. Challener (who improved both the Manual and The Garden of the Soul) selected hymns by Dryden for the editions of 1737 (Garden) and 1750 (Manual), Mr. Shipley has adduced these editions as proofs of Dryden's authorship. But all that Bp. Challoner did, supposing there are editions which he superintended, was to substitute the newest tes, for the previous ones. This, in the case of the Manual, had been done as early as 1733. Dryden's authorship did not determine the choice, and is not attested by it.

vii. Conclusion. The needs of the laity, which were supplied in the 17th cent. by the Primers and The Manual, produced in the 18th translations of the Vesper Office, of the entire Bre-viary, and of the Missal. But they do not supply many fresh translations of the Latin hymns. The eds. of the Primers of 1685, 1687, and 1706, are drawn on in equal proportions.

Evening Office will make way for the 1697 translations in the next. Sometimes stanzas from 1706 are mixed with stanzas of 1685 (Exx. will be found in the pieces from the Evening Office of 1710 in the Annus Sanctus). Sometimes lines and phrases are freely used up in re-manufactured translations (see Evening Office of 1760); prose translations are substituted for metre; and the old pieces are revised. A few new translations are found (e.g. in the Evening Office of 1748, and in the Divine Office, 4 vols., 1763, which re-quires translations of the entire Breviary). The Missals do not supply much material; the Latin hymns are sometimes only printed in the original (e. g. in Missal for the Laity, 1808). [H. L. B.]

Primitive Methodist Hymnody. Tethodist Hymnody, § lv.]

Primo Deus coeli globum. The Venerable Bede. [The Creation.] A poem of 112 lines, given by Mone, No. 1, from a us. of the beginning of the 9th cent., now at Darm-stadt, and written in an Irish hand. The title in Mone is "A hymn of the blessed Bede the priest on the work of the six days at the beginning, and on the six ages of the world." Also in Thomasius, ii. p. 429; Migne, vol. 94, p. 621, &c. So far as we can ascertain the full hymn has not been tr. into English; but a cento therefrom, beginning with line 65, "Post facta celesa conditor," was tr. as "God ended all the world's array," by J. M. Neale, and given in the Hymnal N., 1854. This was repeated, abridged, and beginning, "Christ's servants while they dwell below," in Skinner's Daily Service Hyl., 1864. [W. A. S.]

Primo dierum omnium. St. Gregory the Great. [Sanday. Morning.] This is one of the eight hymns which the Benedictino editors assign to St. Gregory (Opera, Paris, 1705, iii. col. 878). Mone gives it as No. 271, in 8 st. of 4 L, and at i. p. 372, cites it as in a MS. of the 8th cont. at Trier. Daniel gives the text in 8 st. of 4 l., at i., No. 145, and at iv. p. 35, cites it as in a 10th cent. Rheinau ms. Among the British Museum mss. it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 3; Jal, A. vi. f. 19; Harl. 2961, f. 216), in an 11th cent. Mozarabie Hymnarium (Add. 30851, f. 172b.), an 11th cent. Mozarabic Breviary (Add. 30848, f. 67), &c. It is in a Ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 227); in three uss. of the 11th cent at St. Gall, Nos. 387, 413, 414; and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. MS. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 2b.) In the Roman Breviary, 1632, it was recast, beginning, "Primo die quo Trinitas."

The original form is included in the older Roman (Venice, 1478) Serven, Aberdeen, Paris of 1843, and other Breviaries. In the York Brev., 1493, it is in two parts, part it, beginning with st. v., "Jam nume Paterna ciaritas." He universal use was on Soudays at Necturus or Matina; sometimes throughout the year or else from the Octave of the Epiphany to Lent, and also from the Sanday nearest to the Kalende of October up to Advent. The original text is also found in Wackersangei, i., No. 89, the Hymanium Sarisin, 1851, p. 31. The text of the Roman Bres, 1633, is in recent cis. of that Brev., and also in Benniel, i., No. 146, Rönigrield, L. p. 78, and Card, Newman's Hymni Ecclesice, 1833 and 1866. The original form is included in the older Roman Sometimes the 1706 in one edition of the

Both texts of this bymn have been tr. into ; English as follows:--

i. Prime dierum emnium. The trs. of this text are:-

1. On this the day that saw the carth. By J. M. Neale, in the Hymnal N., 1852. In Murray's Hymnal, 1852, it was altered to "On this blest day when first the light." This form of the tr. passed into other collections, as also has the original translation.

2. On this the day when days began. By J. Ellerton, made for and 1st pub, in the S. P. C. K.

Church Hys., 1871. Other tre. are :-

1. This is the day when first of all. Hymnarium 1844 2. Hail | primal day, of days the first. W. J. Blew.

1852-55. 3. First day of days! wherein were made. J. D.

Chambers, 1852.

- 4. First day of days wherein arrayed. J. D. Chambers.
- 5. On this first day, when earth stands forth. J. W.

it. Prime die que Trinites. The tre. of this text are :-

1. This day the glorious Trinity. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1813, p. 3, and again in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 3. In a few collections it is given without any change in the text, but in the Hymnary, 1872, where it begins, "This day the Blessed Trinity," the alterations are very numerous.

Other tra. are :-

 The happy day will soon disclose. Primer, 1706.
 On this first day when heaven and earth. Bp. R. 1887. Mant.

3. This glorious morn, time's eldest-born, When God.
c. W. J. Copeland. 1848. (See also J. Keble, above.)
4. Blest morn, when earth's Creator spoke. R. Cassp. be27.

 1800.
 This day when the eternal Three. J. Wallace. 1814.

6. To-day the Blessed Three in One, Card. Newman. 1838 and 1868, [J. J.]

Probus, a nom de plume of W. Shrubsole. jun., in the Christian Observer, 1818.

Procter, Adelaide Anne, daughter of Bryan Waller Procter (Barry Cormeall), was b. in Bedford Square, London, Oct. 30, 1825. In 1851 she entered the Roman communion, and d. in London, Feb. 2, 1864. Miss Procter displayed more than usual intellectual powers at an early age. In later years she was skilled in music and languages. Her poetical gifts have been widely appreciated. Her Legends and Lyries, A Book of Verse, was pub. in 1858. Of this an enlarged edition was pub. in 1862. Her hymns in C. U. from these two editions are :-

1. I do not sak, O Lord, that life may be. Resignation. In her Legends, &c., 1882. It is one of the most widely used of Miss Procter's hymns.

2. I thank Thee, O my God, Who made. Thankfulness. In her Legends, &c., 1888, p. 207, in 5 st. of 6 l. In several collections, including the H Crosp., it begins is an altered form, "My God, I thank Thee, Who hast made;" and in othern "Our God, we thank Thee, Who hast made;" Bp. Bickernstch in his note on this hymn in the H. Crosp., 1876, says, "This most beautiful hymn by A. A. Protter (1868), lonches the chord of thankfulness in trial, as perhaps no other hymn does, and is thus most useful for the visitation of the sick."

8. One by one the same are going (flowing). The links of Life. In her Legends, &c., 1858, p. 20, in 8 st.

4 K. Riso, for the day is passing. Redeem the Time.

1. her Legends, &c., 1888. Sometimes given as "Ariac, for the day is passing," as in Holy Song, 1889.

5. Strive; yet I do not promise. Strive, Wait, Pray.
In her Legends, &c., 1855, p. 103, in 3st. of 3l.

6. The way is long and dreary. Life a Pilgrimage.
In her Legends, &c., 1858, p. 136, in 3st. of 8l. and a refusio.

7. The shadows of the evening hours. Evening. In ber Legends, &c., 1862.

3. We ask for peace, O Lord. Peace with God. In her Legends, &c., 1858, p. 214, in 4 st of 9 l. [J. J.]

Prome vocem, mens, canoram. Claude de Santeüil. [The Fire Wounds of Christ, or, Passiontide.] This hymn appeared in the Paris Breviary, 1680; Cluniac Breviary, 1686, p. 414, and again in the Paris Breviary, 1786, and later French Brevisries, and is given in the Office of the Five Wounds of Christ. text is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 67, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. 88:-

- 1. Now, my soul, thy voice upraising, Sing aloud, &c. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 75, and again in his Hys. of the Church, 1841, No. 41, in 8.7.8.7.4.7. It is found unaltered in a few collections, and also altered as: (1) "Now, my soul, thy voice upraising, Sing the Cross," &c., in 8.7.8.7.4.7. in Murray's Hymnal, 1852. This was repeated in other collections. In the Surum, 1868, it was altered to 5 st. of 6 l. in 8.7 metre, (2) "Sing we now, our voice upraising," in Kennedy, 1863, is the same text as Sarum with slight variations.
- 2. Slow and mouroful be our tone. By R. Campbell, in his Hys. and Anthons, 1850, and a few collections of a later date.
- 3. Now, my soul, thy voice upraising, Tell in sweet, &c. By Sir H. W. Baker. This tr. is based upon the above by J. Chandler, more specially in the first and last stenzes. It is in 6 sts. of 8.7. Its first appearance was in the trial copy of H. A. & M., 1859, and then in the 1st ed., 1861. It is in several hymn-books, and sometimes with slight alterations.
- 4. Lift, my soul, thy voice harmonious. This was given in Mercer's Church Ps. & II. Bk., Oxford ed., 1864, No. 180, and is probably by the Editor.
- 5. Now, my soul, thy voice upraising, Sing in awest, &c. This cento in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 243, in 6 sts. of 8.7. metre, is somewhat peculiarly constructed. St. i. is by Chandler and the Editors; ii. is by Sir H. W. Baker and the Editors; iii. is by Chandler and the Editors; iv. is by Sir H. W. Baker and the Editors; and v. is by the Editors alone. The result is not good,

Other tre. are :-

1. Draw out, and heart, thy melody. I. Williams.

2. Soul, draw forth thy voice, deep-sounding. W. J. Blew. 1852-56.
3. 0 my soul! thy lamentation. J. B. Chambers. [J. J.]

Promittis, et servas datam. C. Coffia. [Wednesday.] This is the hymn on Wednesday at Lauds in the Paris Breviary, 1736. It is also in C. Coffin's Hymni Sacci, 1736, p. 20; J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 24; and Cerd. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:—

1. A faithful promise Thou hast made. J. Chandler. 1837.
2. Thy promise, Lord, is our sure stay. I. Williams.

1839.
3. Thou, Lord, dost promise; firm and sure, J. D.

4. Thy truth, O God, stands firm in beaven. D. T. Morgan, 1880. Chambert.

A synonym for Sequence (q.v.), ro-Prose. ferring to the character of the composition, while sequence refers to the position in the service. A Prose was originally in prose of a rhythmical character, but not in strict metre, while the word Sequence was used when the Prose assumed the form of a metrical Hymn. But a single quotation from a medizoval writer will suffice to show that the two words were used indifferently, and at the same time tells us on what festal days Proses or Sequences were appointed to be sung in the Missal of the Cluning Order.

"Prosa, vel quad alli sequentiam vocant, non cantatur nisi in quatuor festie principallibus, in Epiphania, in Ascricione Domini, in transluttome S. Benedicti, et in Nativitate S. Mauritii."—Withbries de antiq. Consuet, Monast. Cluniae. Ltb. 1, cap. xi.

The Sequences or Hymns sung in procession before High Mass and at other times were usually tormed Proses in the mediaval Office Books of the English Church. (Sarum Processional, ed. by Dr. W. G. Henderson, 1882, pp. 13, 20, 93, 124, 184. York Processional, also cd. by Dr. Henderson, Surtees Soc., vol. 63, 1875.) [F. E. W.]

Πρόσεχε οὐρανὲ καὶ λαλήσω. Andrew of Crete. [Midnight.] St. Andrew's Midnight hymn commonly known as 10 226-Bestvoy, from his works, and given in Daniel, iii. p. 48, in 4 st. of 4 1. It is tr. by Dr. Bonar in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 2nd series, 1861, as, "Attend, ye heavens," in 4 st. of 6 l. [See p. 67, i., and 463, ii.] [J. J.]

Protestant Methodist Hymnody. [Methodist Hymnody, § v.]

Πρώτος νόμον εύρόμαν. Syncsins, Bn. of Ptolemais. [Christmas: Epiphany.]
A Christmas and Epiphany hymn, being No. vii. of the ten hymns which he wrote during various periods of his life. The full Greek text, dating 375-430, is given in the Anth. Gracea Carm. Christ., 1871, p. 20, in 42 lines. From this Mr. Chatfield made his tr., "I first invented in Thy praise," and pub. the same in his Songs and Hymns, &c., 1876, p. 78, in 50 lines. A. Stevenson's tr. in his Ten Hys. of Synesius, &c., 1865, is "Jesus of Solyma! God's Son." [Greek Hymnody, § v.] [J. J.]

Prudentius, Aurelius Clemens, with the occasional prefix of Marcus (cf. Migne, vol. lix. p. 593, and Dressel, p. ii. n), is the name of the most prominent and most prolific author of sacred Latin poetry in its carliest days. Of the writer himself we know nothing, or next to nothing, beyond what he has himself told us in a short introduction in verse to his works. From that source we learn that he was a Spaniard, of good family evidently, and that he was b. A.D. 348 somewhere in the north of Spain, either at Saragossa, Tarragona, or Calahorra, but at which is left uncertain, by his applying the same expression to all, which if applied only to one would have fixed his place of birth. After receiving a good education befitting his social status he applied himself for some years to practising as a pleader in the local courts of law, until he received promotion to a judgeship in two cities sucecssively:-

" Bis legum moderamine Frencs nobilium rexitates tribium Jus civile bonis redditiums, terralmus reos;" and afterwards to a post of still higher authority:

" Tandem militiæ gradu Evectum pietas principis extulit."

Archbp. Trench considers this last to have been "a high military appointment at court, and such the poet's own words would seem to describe; but it may well be doubted whether a civilian and a lawyer would be eligible for such employment; in which case we may adopt the solution of the difficulty offered in the Prolegomena to our author's works (Migne, vol. lix. p. 601):-

"Evectus inde est ad superforem militiæ gradum, nimi-"Locatis indeest at superform intime graum, filminim millitie civilis, paidtines, aut presidinis, non leffice, costronsis, aut cohortalis; nam it qui officile jure consultorum president, rectorum et smillum finagantur, vulgo in cod. Theod. militare et ad superfores militias ascendere dienutur."

It was after this lengthened experience at a comparatively early age of positions of trust and power that Prudentius, conscience-smitten on account of the follies and worldliness that had marked his youth and earlier membood, determined to throw up all his secular employments, and devote the remainder of his life to advancing the interests of Christ's Church by the power of his pen rather than that of his purse and personal position. Accordingly we find that he retired in his 57th year into poverty and private life, and began that remarkable succession of sacred poems upon which his fame now entirely rests. have no reason however to regard him as another St. Augustine, rescued from the "wretchedness of most unclean living" by this flight from the temptations and engrossing cares of official life into the calm seclusion of a wholly devotional leisure. He had probably rather learnt from sad experience the emptiness and vanity for an immortal soul of the surroundings of even the high places of this world. As he himself expresses it :-

" Numquid talia proderant Carnis post obitum vei bona, vei mala, Cum jam, quicquid id est, quod fueram, more aboleverit?" and sought, at the cost of all that the world holds dear, those good things which God hath prepared for them that love Him. Beyond the fact of his retirement from the world in this way, and the fruits which it produced in the shape of his voluminous contributions to sacred poetry, we have no further information about our author. To judge from the amount he wrote, his life must have been extended many years after he began his new career, but how long his life was or where he d. we are not told. Probably he d. circa 418. His works are :—

(1) Liber Cathemerinon. "Christian Day, as we may call it" (W. S. Lilly, "Chapters in European History," vol. i. p. 208).

(2) Liber Peristephanon. "Martyrs' Garlands" (id.).
(3) Apotheosis. A work on the Divine Nature, or the Delication of Human Nature in Christ.

(4) Human Wateria, A treating on the Origin of Sin. A treatise on the Origin of Sin. (4) Hamartigenia. A treati directed against the Marcionites.

(6) J. tirri contra Symmachism, A controversial work against the restoration in the Senate House at Rothe of the altar of Victory which Gratian had removed. Symmachus had petitioned Valentinien II. for its restoration in 34, but the influence of St. Ambrose had prevaited against him at that time. In 382 the altar was restored, but removed again by Theodesias in 384. After the death of the latter the attempt by restore it was remewed by Arcadius and Houorins, and it was at that time that Prudentius wrote his first book. The second (for there are two) was written in 485. Fannet considers that the first two) was written in 405. Foguet considers that the first may date in 335.

(7) The Dittocheon — the double food or double Testament, is a wordy collection of 40 sets of four verses each, on Old and New Testament scenes.

Of these different works the most important are the first two, and it is from them that the Liturgical hymns enumerated below have been chiefly compiled. The general character of Prudentius's writings it is not easy fairly to estimate, and to judge by the wholesale laudation he obtains from some of his critics, and the equally unsparing censure of others, his judges have so found it. In venturing upon any opinion upon such a subject, the reader must bear in mind the peculiar position in which the period at which he was writing found the poet. The poetry of classical Rome in all its exact beauty of form had long passed its meridian, and was being replaced by a style which was yet in its infancy, but which burst forth into new life and beauty in the hands of the Mediaeval hymnologists. Prudentius wrote before rhyming Latin verse was thought of, but after attention had ceased to be given to quantities. Under such circumstances it were vain to look for very finished work from him, and such certainly we do not find. But amidst a good deal of what one must confess is tasteless verbiage or clumsy rhetorical ornament-however varied the metres be employs, numbering some 17-there are also passages to be found, not unfrequently, of dramatic vigour and noble expression, which may well hold their own with the more musical utterances of a later date. He writes as a man intensely in carnest, and we may gather much from his writings concerning the points of conduct which were deemed the most important in Christian living at a time when a great portion of mankind were still the victims or slaves of a morality which, heathen at the best, was lowered and corrupted the more as the universality of its influence was more and more successfully challenged by the spread of the Gospel of Christ. If, therefore, we can scarcely go as far in our author's praise as Barth-much given to lavish commendation - who describes him as "Poeta eximius eruditissimus et sanctissimus scriptor; nemo divinius de rebus Christianis unquam scripsit"; or as Bentley--not given to praisewho calls him the "Horace and Virgil of the Christians," we shall be as loath, considering under what circumstances he wrote, to carp at his style as not being formed on the best ancient models but as confessedly impure; feeling with Archbishop Trench that it is his merit that "whether consciously or unconscionaly, he seted on the principle that the new life claimed new forms in which to manifeet itself; that he did not shrink from helping forward that great transformation of the Latin language, which it needed to undergo, now

(3) Psychomackia = *vxconaxia, or "The Spiritual Cambet"—an allegarical work.
(4) hirri contra Symmachuse. A controversial work were altogether novel to it." (Sac. Lat. Poetry, 1874 , 191) were altogether novel to it." (Sac. Lat. Poetry, 1874, p. 121.)

The reader will find so exhaustive an account of the various writings of Prudentius in the account given of him and them in Smith and Wace's Dict. of Christian Biography, and Smith's Dict. of Greek and Roman Biography, that it is only necessary in this work to refer very briefly to them as above. The poems have been constantly reprinted and re-edited, till the editor who produced the best edition we have of them, Albert Dressel (Leipsic, 1860), is able to say that his is the sixtythird.

The use made of Prudentius's poems in the ancient Breviaries and Hymnaties was very extensive. In the form of centes stanzas and lines were compiled and used as hymns; and it is mainly from these centes, and not from the original poems, that the translations into English were made. Daniel, i., Nos. 103-115, gives 13 genuino hymns as having been in use fer "Morning," "Christmas," "Epiin use fer "Morning," "Christmas," "Epi-phany," Lott," Easter," "Transfiguration," "Burial," &c., in boolder Breviaties. A reference to the orticle Latin, Tra. from the, p. 655, i., will show that almost as many more which were used in like manner have been translated into English. When to these are added the hymns which are annotated in this Dictionary under their respective first lines (see Index of Authors and Translators), and those which lave not been translated into English, we realise the position and power of Prudentius in the hymnody of the Church.

Prynne, George Rundle, M.A., s. of John Allen Prynne, was b. at West Loce, Cornwall, Aug. 23, 1818, and educated at St. Catherine's College, Cambridge, n.a., 1839; M.A. 1861. Ho took Holy Orders in 1841, and became Vicar of St. Peter's, Plymouth, in 1848. He has pub. Parochial Sermone, 1846; Plain Parochial Sermons, 1856; another series, 1876; The Dying Soldier's Visions, and Other Foems and Hymns, 1881, &c. He also pub. Hymnal suited for the Services of the Church, 1858. His most popular hymn is "Jesu, meck and gentle," p. 591, ii. His hymns "The day is done; O God the Son" (Evening): sad "Thy glory fills the heavens" (The Glory of the Father), have also been included in a few collections. He d. Mar. 25, 1903. [J. J.]

Prys, Edmund, Prys or Price, a learned Welsh divine and eminent poet, was b. about 1541 in the parish of Llandeewyn, Merionethshire, and educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he took his degree of M.A. He was appointed Archdescon of Merioneth in 1576, and Canon of St. Asaph in 1602. He was one of the best Welsh poets of his time, and a great many of his compositions are preserved, mostly in manuscript. He is the author of the Welsh metrical version of the Psalms, which is still in use. He assisted * The earliest and best M2. of Prudentlus is one in the With earliest and best Ms. of Fridentius is one in the Bibliotheape Nationale, Paris (Lot. 2084), written about the end of the 5th cint. The Principal Librarian, M. Leopold Delluke, has kindly supplied references to this ms. in she case of those poems from which centos, now in C.U. in English, have been taken.

Dr. Morgan, Bishop of St. Asaph, to translate the Bible into Welsh. The latest of his compositions, preserved, is a copy of elegant Latin verses in commendation of Dr. John Davice's Welsh Grammar. He was then 80 years of ago. This Latin copy bears the date of 1621. He d. in 1624, and was buried at Maentwrog Church. [See Welsh Rymsody.] [W. G. T.]

Psalters, American. [American Hymnody.]

Paalters, English. I. Introduction. A glance at the long list appended to this article will apprize many for the first time of the enormous number of efforts made to versify the Pasims. Among the authors will be found Queen Elizabeth, Lord Bacon, Fuirfax, and many of our poets and theologians. Psalter has been subjected to a great variety of experiments. Literal translation, paraphrase, evangelical expansion, the development of portions as themes, have been succeseively attempted. The change of metrical and poetical expression is reflected in the history. In the Puritan period the versification of the Psalms even touches the history of the nation. But notwithstanding all this, partly from extreme reverence for the letter of Holy Writ. partly from the fact that the bulk of the translators were hampered by the secondary object of turning the Psalter into a hymnal, and most of all from the impossibility of representing Hebrew parallelism in English metres, no version approaches in merit such translations as Lord Derby's Homer or Conington's Virgil. With but few exceptions the succeeding pages are a comparison of medicerities.

II. Curious examples.

Some experiments are very eccentric, such as Abraham Fraunce's hexameters (1581), Pike's lyrics without rhyme (1751), Wheatland and Sylvester's heroics (1754), Dennis's blank verse (1808). The strangest is Psatterium Americanum by Cotton Mather (1718), printed like prose, but in reality simply the Authorized Version thrown into unrhymed o.m. for singing.

III. Pre-Reformation Psalters.

Metrical Pealters existed in England at a very early date. Bp. Aldhelm of Sherborne (died A.D. 709) is said to have composed one (Bede); and Archdeacon Churton (see Preface to the Cleveland Pealter) ascribes to him the Anglo-Saxon Version edited by Thorpe (1835). Thorpe himself, however, assigns it to a later date. A Latin Psalter, with interlinear Anglo-Saxon gloss, and a translation into Middle English has been published by the Surfees Society. T. Brampton's Seven Pealtential Psalms (1414) have been printed by the Percy Society; and Holland (Psalmists of Britain, 1842) mentions a translation of St. Jerome's Gallican Psalter into English of the date of Henry II. or Richard I.

IV. Importance of Pealm-singing at the Reformation.

The practice of versifying the Psalms assumed a larger significance among the Reformers. The Psalm Versions of Luther and Justus Jonas, combined with their translations of the Latin Hymns and their original compositions, stirred the heart of Germany: the Psalms of Marot became the badge of the French Huguenot in court and camp; and, completed by Beza, became the sole hymnal of Geneva; white in England and Scotland, following the Genevan precedent, the metrical Pasins alone were long exclusively used in public worship. Consecrated by the long tradition of the Church in their Latin form, set at first to ballad tunes and then to special music of their own by the leaders of the Reformation, the Psalms became endeared to the people, not merely by their sublimity, their Messianic import, and their wide interpretation of human emotions, but specially by their living trust in God as a hiding place in peril, and even by their terrible denunciations of His onemies. They seemed, in the wonder aroused by a new-found Bible, the supreme, divinely ordained vehicle of human praise; and the metrical form was at the same time a necessity for singing, and, according to the ideas of that day concerning the structure of Hebrew poetry, was accounted a truer representative of the original than prose. This last point is argued, with references to Hebrew treatises of that day, in the Preface to the English Psalter, published at Geneva in 1556 (see p. $57, ii.), a revised cd. of Sternhold's 37 Psalms, and 7 by Hopkins, to which 7 fresh ones are added by Whittingham.

V. German influence on Gospellers.

The introduction of Pealm-singing into England probably aprang from the intercourse of the Gospellers with Luther and Melanchthon, and their familiarity with their writings. Three of these fathers of the Reformation, Wiedom, Becon, and Coverdale, have left us Paulm versions bearing a strong family likeness. Those of Wisdom and Becon were incorporated in Sternhold and Hopkins [see Old Versica] and may possibly be the oldest pieces in that book, though not found in the earliest editions. The Goosly Pealmes by Miles Coverdale contains fifteen psalms, besides hymns and paraphrases (see English Hymnody, Early, III., IV.). The German originals of this book have been carefully traced out by Mr. Mearns, All the Psalm versions, except Pss. 2, 132, 146, and all the paraphrases and hymns, except two, have been identified as German. The metre of the unidentified Psalms, except the 132nd, is also Germen, and Coverdale's 46th is in the same metre as Luther's "Ein Feste Burg." [For details see Goostly Pasimes, The.]

VI. Ballad Metres of Edward VI.'s reign.

In the Act, which authorized the First Prayer Book of Edward vi. (1519), there was a proviso

"That it be Iswful...in churches...chapels or oratories or other places to use openly any Psaline or prayer taken out of the Bible ... not letting or emitting thereby the service or any part thereof mentioned in the said book."

It has been generally held, by Strype, Burnet and others, that this provise covered the legality of Psalm-singing (see § vm., where Psalms and godly prayers are synohymous); and some have thought that the partiality of the king for Sternhold's essays then published (see Old Version, § m.) dictated it. It is at least certain that several small attempts at versification of the Psalms appear at this period, among which may be mentioned Sir

Thos. Wyatt's Seven Penitential Pealms (1549). The whole Psalter was also now versified by Robert Crowley, sometime Vicar of St. Giles's, Cripplegate, in C. M., and set to a harmonized chant (1549). The German influence now ceases, and the irregular metres of Wisdom and Becon, which are akin to some in the early English Primers, give way to the ballad measure of Chevy Chace, which from this time receives its consecration. Steruhold's aim was to supplant the "amorous and obscene songs" (Wood) of the court and people; and he probably sang his psaims to well-known ballad tunes. A discussion of the nature and character of his work and that of his coadjutors, as represented in the Old Version of Sternhold and Hopkins, is, however, too elaborate for this section of our work. It is fully treated elsewhere. [Old Version.]

VII. Genevan Influence on the Marian Exiles. The public singing of psalms ceased of course under Mary. But the movement gained new force and new ideas among the exiles. Parker solaced himself by versifying the entire Psalter (Absolvi Psalterium versum metrice lingua vulgari, Parker's Diary, 1557). At Geneva the psalms of Marot were part of the authorized service; and it is from this period that the metres, the tunes, and the atructural features of the Genevan Psalter begin to affect that of England, and more largely, of Scotland. [For details see Oid Varnian, § 111.]

VIII. Psalm-singing at the accession of Elizabeth.

On the accession of Elizabeth nothing so roused the enthusiasm of the people as the practice "brought from abroad by the exiles" of singing Psalms (Strape). They were amy at St. Paul's Cross after the sermons of bishops; Jewel speaks of six thousand people as present on one occasion. Psalms were introduced at St. Antholin's and spread to other churches in London. The authorities not merely "connived" (Heylin) at the fushion, but encouraged it.

Jewel, for instance, who was one of the Visitors for the execution of the Queen's Injunctions, favoured it. The attitude of Parker Is shewn by a curious set of documents in Wilkins's Concilia, Dec. 1559. Certain men and women from London had song pasline in the Cathedral at Excete at 6 a.m., disturbing matins. On being prohibited by the Dean and Chapter, they appealed to the Queen's Visitors, Jewel and others, who thereon reprimanded the Dean and Chapter. Upon this the case was carried to Abp. Parker, who ratified the sentence of the Visitors, and build the Cathedral authorities "permit and suffer" congregations to "sing or say the godly prayers set forth and permitted in this Church of England." The use of the word "godly prayers," as equivalent to psalms, is curious. See above, § VI.

Permission to use psalms publicly in worship was implicitly granted by the 49th injunction of Elizabeth (June 1559), which is wider and yet more defined than the provise of 1549; guarding more carefully the Morning and Evening Prayer from interference, and yet at the same time withdrawing the stipulation that the composition was to be taken out of Holy Scripture:—

"For the comforting of such as delight in music, it may be permitted that in the beginning or end of Common Prayer either at Morning or Evening, there may be song an hymn or such like song to the praise of Almighty God in the best melody and music that may be devised, having respect that the sentence of the bymn may be devised, before respectivel."

IX. Renderings by Abp. Parker, Sir Philip Sidney, the Davisons, and Spenser.

Partial translations of Psalms at this period are very numerous. The two most notable compiete versions are dealt with elsewhere. (See 04 Version and Scottish Hymnody.) A third, entitled The whole Psalter, translated into English metro, with an argument and collect to each Psalm: John Daye, London, N.D., is only to be found in the great libraries [there is a perfect copy also at Lincoln Cathedral]. It is the work of Abp. Parker, alluded to above, written in exite: but the marked similarity of the book, in its intro-ductions, extracts from the Fathers, and apparatus of appended Canticles, to the work of Sternhold and Hopkins makes it probable that these, and perhaps the metrical argu-ments at the head of each p-aim and the appended collects were added after 1562. It is composed with scholarly care, and, not only as a metrical version, but for the value of the collects, should be reprinted. Besides the three usual metres (c.n., L.n., s.n.) he makes use of stanzas of 8's, and one or two curious measures; and he supplies a doxology in each metre. The metrical Introduction "Ad Lectorem," is a quaint apology for offering a new version. There are eight tunes to it by Tallis; one being Tallis's "Canon." His c.n. has often a double rhyme in the third line; and, even where this is not the case, the rhythm and stresses of the measure are entirely distinct from that of Sternhold, and the feet strictly regular, so as to facilitate singing. An example of his corrhymed c.a. may be seen in his tr. of "Veni Creator" (q.v.), which is apparently simply the text of the first Prayer Book of Edw. vith, 1549, regulated into uniform feet. The authorship of this book is given in Bp. Barlow's copy to John Keeper of the Cathedral of Wells. But Parker's authorship is established by external and internal evidence. In Bp. Kennet's copy it is said that the Archbishop permitted Margaret, his wife, to present his Psalter to some of the nobility; and the copy at Lambeth has in a hand of that time, "To the vertuous and honorable Lady the Countesse of Shrewsbury from your lovinge friende, Margaret Parker." Apart from the presumption raised by this coincidence in favour of Parker, it makes Keeper's authorship unlikely, as he would only have been twenty-four at Mrs. Parker's death (1570) (Dibdin's Ames). But the conclusive evidence is the acrostick "Mattheus Parkerus" on which the metrical argument to Ps. 119 is formed.

Of a different order from these is the Version commenced by Sir Philip Sidney (Pss. 1-43) and completed by his sister, the Countess of Pembroke (pub. 1823). The metres are more rare and excellent for method and varietic,"—the fantsstic and capricious measures of the lighter Elizabethan style; not intended probably for congregational use. They have frequent freshness and spirit; and now that a ligher music no longer chains us wholly to routine metres, a composer fond of the Elizabethan poetry would find the 84th, 92nd, and the more regular 96th full of grace and charm. The same description may be given of Divers Selected Paulms of David in verse, of a different composure from those used in the clearch! the work of Francis and Christopher Davison and others, found in a Harleian Ms. of the British Museum. Full selections from both these versions may be seen in Farr's Select Poetry (Parker Society). To these may be added a lost version of the Seven Penitential Psalms by Edmund Spenser.

X. Partial translations, Bacon, Herbert, &c. Versions by Dod, Wither, Sandys.

Among the versifiers of "Selected Psalms" are found the eminent names of Donne, Dean of St. Paul's (1633), Phineas Fletcher (1633), George Herbert (1632), and R. Crashaw (1648). The first ten Psalms were zendered clearly and naturally by Bishop Hall (1607), and a few by Lord Bacon (1625), (see Fuller Worthies Library by Grosart), dedicated to George Herbert. The complete version of Henry Dod (1603-20) is utterly valueless, and according to Wither was burnt by the hangman; the preface however shews the early disentisfaction felt with Sternhold and Hopkins, and there is appended to it a ludiorous versification, intended apparently to be sung, of the Act of Parliament passed after the Gunpowder Plot! The so-called Version of King James (1631) is described elsewhere. (See Scottish Hymnody, L § 3.) The version by George Wither (1619-32) was a far more serious rival of the Old Version. He obtained a privilege from the King, which ordered it to be bound up with every copy of the Bible, and authorized Wither to seize every Bible in which it was not found. But it met with the same fate as a similar privilege of Wither's for his Hymne and Spiritual Songs of the Church, (See English Hymnedy, Early, § VIII.) Tho resistance to the privilege on the part of the Stationers' Company, who owned the Old Version, ended in the withdrawal of this monopoly by the Privy Council (1633). (See Pre-face to Wither's Hymns and Spiritual Songs, by E. Farr in Library of Old Authors.) The metres of this book are more varied than those of the Old Version, and yet more regular and even than those of Sidney, and tunes are set to them by Orlando Gibbons. The author of Anthología Davidica, a compilation of Psalms from many sources (1846), considers this the best version he knew for fidelity, harmony, and simplicity of expression. Judged, however, by his copious extracts (the book itself is rare) there is a want of force and spirit. The 187th, "As nigh Babel's streams we sat," is gracefully rendered; the best is the 150th, "Come praise the Lord, come praise Him" (S. P. C. K. Ps. and Hys., Ps. el.). The varsion by George Sandys (1636), son of the Abp. of York, is of far greater literary morit. Though set to music by Henry Lawes, it was intended only for private devotion, and perhaps never used otherwise. Baxter laments that Sandys's "seraphic strain" was useloss to the vulgar because not composed in the ordimany metres; but its poetical grace exercised a considerable influence on translators. The longer Psalms are often in L. M. couplets; some of his most graceful pieces are in couplets of Ts, as Ps. 150, "Praise the Lord enthroned on high" (S. P. C. K. Ps. and H., Ps. ct.), and Ps. 148, "You who dwell above the skies" (Wes. H. Bk, 689). The book is prefaced by an eulogy by his friend Lord Falkland. In the opinion of Burney, Montgomery, Conder, and Holland, it is the best metrical version. See, however, Keble, below, § xvm.

XI. Puritan Versions; Rous, Barton, Milton.

To the psalm-loving Puritan the perfection of the metrical version was a matter of supreme moment. The first book pub. in America (Cambridge, N.E., 1640) was The New England Psalter, often called The Bay Psalter (p. 119, i.), the editors of which bound themselves by the most rigorous literalism. In the same year in England the Committee of Peers, lay and spiritual, recommended in their Report on Religion that "The meeter in the Paalma should be corrected and allowed of publicly." The first ed. (1641) of Francis Rous, afterwards Provest of Eton under the Commonwealth, was an attempt to satisfy this recommendation by amendment of the old version. Further changes were made in his second ed. (1643), which was ordered to be printed by the House of Commons. The establishment of the Directory (1645), in which "every one that can read" was ordered to "have a psalm-book," made revision more urgent. Bous's third edition (1646), was ordered to be printed on the recommendation of the Assembly of Divines; and later in the year this Version "and none other" was ordered by the House of Commons "to be sung in all churches and chapels within the kingdom." There was an earnest desire at this time on both sides of the border to agree on a version which might be a bond of uniformity in religion. But it was frustrated by two causes. The House of Lords inclined to a rival versifier, William Barton, minister of 8t. Martin's, Loicester (1st ed., 1644; 2nd, 1645); and they submitted his 3rd ed. (1646) to the Assembly of Divines, who, however, declined to authorise it. When Rous's version came up from the Commons, they referred it to a Committee, but never apparently sanctioned it. The Scots also were discontented with Rons, whom they suspected of heterod xy, us an adherent of Cromwell, and introduced considerable variations, derived from other versions, in their new Scottisk Psalter (1650). [See Scottish Hymnody.] Confidence in Rous was short-lived in England. It may have been dissatisfaction with it which made Milton in 1648 attempt Ps. 80-8, which had a special significance to him at that crisis of the war (Masson). His versions are translated direct from the Hebrew. Hebrew words are printed in the margin : and every word not in the original is printed in italies. No better illustration of the literal principle of the Puritan translations can be given; and no one can say it was successful. He made another ossay in 1653, without this assertion of exceeding literalism, and in various metres, not easy to be sung; but the result is no better. Portions of Pss. 82, 85, 86, formed into a cento. "The Lord will come and not be slow," and part of Ps. 84, "How levely are Thy dwellings fair," are found in some of our hymn-books; but the only one of real note is the 136th, "Let us with a gladsome mind," which he wrote at the age of fifteen. In 1651 Bp. King of Chichester, in the preface to his version, sneers, from the churchman's stand-point, at the failure of one of our "pretended Reformers" (probably Rous). And in 1654 appeared a new edition of Barton, which bore on its title-page a license for publication from Cromwell. A version by Thomas Lord Fairfax is mentioned in the preface to Cotton's Editions of the Bible; he quotes the 187th Psalm in stanzas of four long lines. It was never published.

XII. Bazter, Miles Smyth, Denham, Patrick. From Sternhold to Rous the prevailing principle of translation was literal exactness; but the dreariness of all these efforts, and in some measure the grace of Sandys, now produced a demand for some literary excellence. In the preface to his version (written probably about this time, though not published till 1692), Richard Baxter says, after reviewing preceding versions, "The ear desireth greater melody, than strict versions will allow. in their measure the versions that followed the Restoration were an attempt in this direction. Examples may be seen in S. Woodford's verbose and pompons Pealter (1667); in Miles Smyth's, which is often smooth and melodious (1668); in Luke Milbourne (1698), who tried to adapt his metres to the music of Playford, who had recently edited Sternhold and Hopkins, and to that of Henry Lawes, found in Sandys's Pealter; and in the stately though monotonous L.M. of Sir John Denham (written at this time, though only published in 1715). But the difficulty lay in the decay of music, by which metres were more than ever restricted. Baxter adopted a plan of bracketed words, by which L.M. could be sung as c.M., or c.m. as s.m., for the use of ignorant conor c.m. as a.m., for the use of ignorant congregations, but scarcely in the interest of literary success. A Century of Psalms was published by John Patrick, Preacher to the Charterhouse, brother of the Bishop, in 1679; and a complete version in 1691-2, which attained considerable success for its fidelity. It was not however exactly a literal version. It adopted a mode of evangelical interpretation, of which the germ exists in Parker, and which will be discussed at large under Watts. See § xv.

XIII. The New Version.

(1.) History.—The first instalment of Tate and Brady's Psalter is a sheet and a half, without date (Bodleian); the next is "The first XX. Psalms by N. Brady and N. Tate" (Bodleian) published as a specimen (1695). The complete version followed (1696), cutitled A New Version of the Pealms of David, Fitted to the Tunes Used in Churches, By N. Tate and N. Brady (Brit. Mus.), and dedicated to William III. This edition was apparently subjected to criticism and revised; and in its settled form, which differs from each of the preceding essays in some of the metres and expressions, it was "allowed" by the King in Council, and "permitted to be used in all churches, &c., as shall think fit to receive them," Dec. 3, 1696. This second edition was not published till 1698 (Brit. Mus.). [See New Version.] The Supplement thereto was authorised, in the same terms as the Psatter, by the Queen in Council, July 30, 1703.

(2.) Value of Authorisation. — So far as liceuse to print was concerned, the royal "allowance" was not strictly necessary, as the Licensing Act had recently expired; but it was extremely politic. (See it again under § xvi.) The "permission" to use it in churches, &c., which is a distinct matter from the "allowance," whether actually necessary or not in order to legalise its adoption, was of great value. Under the sanction of the sovereign, and recommended by the Abp, of Canterbury and Compton, Bishop of London, The New Version presented itself as a settlement of the long dissatisfaction with Sternhold and Hopkins. Its success was not however universal. Beveridge (1710) wrote a vigorous protest against it, and in favour of the Old Version. He calls it a "New Version in deed," "fine and modish," "flourished with wit and fancy," "gay and fashionable." He dilates on the inconvenience of two versions; calls it a breach of uniformity; " in time we might have one secundum usum London, another secundum usum Richmond (see Brady below), another secundum usum Sarum," He records the protests of congregations; one vestry had cast it out, after its introduction by the clerrman. It was then only used in a few churches in London.

(3.) Character and Merits,-The material of the New Version may be thrown into three groups: 1. Psalms of an ornate character, with occasional vigour of rhythm, written mostly in L.M. and P.M. The best is 139th, "Thou, Lord, by strictest search host known, 2. A large quantity of very spiritless c.m., as poor in language as the literal versions, 3, A. few examples of sweet and simple verse, such as the 34th, "Through all the changing scenes of life;" 42nd, "As pants the hart;" 51st, "Have mercy, Lord, on me;" and 84th, "Oh, God of hosts, the mighty Lord," which retain their hold on our hymn-books. There is nothing to shew cartainly how the work was divided between Tate and Brady: both were pocts; it is plausible to attribute the ornate work, in which some have even suggested an occasional aid from his patron Dryden, to Tate. Another theory makes Brady the theological, Tate the poetical workman throughout. Beveridge's epithets suggest the general impression of the book. The artificial style of that period is applied to the Psalms: and in the hands of men of genius—far less in those of more versifiers—so alich a form could not have succeeded. "Tato's poor page" (Pope) has been abused as roundly as The Old Version. And yet one condemned to tread the waste of métrical Psalters will consider it an advanco en its predecessors, suffering more from its own success than comparison with them. And this merit is fairly theirs: they asserted successfully, and with an emphasis scarcely known before, literary and pocitical excel-lence (according to their light) as a prin-ciple of translation, and the precedent thus set was seldom ignored afterwards. It has been gravely censured for want of fidelity by Keble and others. Traces of political allusion have also been pointed out. The curious reader may like to trace them in Pa 18, 37-43, in the courtly complexion given to Ps. 101, 2-7, in a possible allusion to the queen, Ps. 45, 16, and in Ps. 107, 40 ("The prince, who slights what God commands, exposed to scorn must quit his throne").

(4.) Authors. - The New Version was the work of two Irishmen. Nahum Tate was the son of Faithful Teste, an Irish clergyman, author of some religious verses. He was b. in Dublin (1652), and educated at Trinity College. He wrote, under Dryden's superintendence, the second part of Absalom and Achitophel with the exception of about two hundred lines. He succeeded Shadwell as Poet Laureste. Among his works are Characters of Virtue and Vice (1691), Miscellanea Sacra, a selection from various writers (1696-8), and Panacea, a Poem on Tea. He is said to have been a man of intemperate and improvident life. He wrote a reply to Beveridge, defending the style of the version on literary grounds. (Essay on Psalmody, 1710.) He d. in London in 1715. Nicholas Brady was born at Bandon (1659). He was educated at Westminster, and went afterwards to Christ Church, Oxford, and to Trinity College, Dublin. From the latter he received the degree of v.p. for services to the Protestant cause. He was a Prebendary of Cork. In the Irish war he was an active adherent of William; and three times saved his native town from burning. Coming from Bandon with a petition to William, he remained in London, and was appointed Chaplain to the King; and afterwards (1702-5) Incumbent of Stratford on Avon. He had previously been minister of St. Catherine Cree's, and Lecturer of St. Michael's, Wood Street; probably holding some or all of these appointments in plurality. Notwithstanding the income derived from his appointments, his extravagance obliged him to keep a school, while incumbent of Richmond (1710). He died in 1726. Besides several volumes of sermons, he published a tragedy called The Rape, or the Innocent Impostors, and a poetical translation of the Encid of Virgil in four vela.

XIV. J. Addison.

In the Spectator of 1712, were published the well-known paraphrases of the 19th Ps., "The specious firmament on high," and the 23rd Ps., "The Lord my pasture shall prepare." They have been attributed to Marvell, but (see Addison, J., p. 18, ii.) are Addison's. They are found in many collections, and have been admired by good judges. The style is more florid than the New Version. The fault in both is, that the sense of God's Presence, which is so vivid in the original, is subordinated to the somewhat unreal description of landscape.

XV. Watts's Version.

The versification of the Psalms engaged the attention of Isaac Watts in his early days; a translation of Ps. 187, not included in his complete Psalter, is found in Reliquiz Juveniles. Paraphrases on Ps. 148 were published in the Horm Lyrica (1705); and at least half of the Psalms had been versified at the date of the publication of his Hymns (1707-9). Ps. 114 was published in The Spectator (1712); and the complete version (so far as his theory of completeness extended) in 1719; entitled, The Psalms of David imitated in the language of the New Testament, &c. Taken as a whole it is not better than Tute and Brady. There is a want of restraining reverence about it; and the turgid epithets and gaudy ornament dishonour the simple grandeur of the original. Yet it contains some of his choicest pieces, such as Ps. 34, "Lord of the worlds above;" the noble Ps. 90, "Our God, our help in ages past;" Ps. 136, "Give to our God immortal praise;" and one or two more. The Psalter is not really complete. Watts saw and was bold enough to say, that there were parts of the Psalter which could never be sung, and which were therefore useless as hymns. His renderings are paraphrases rather than translations. He breaks up the Pealms into different por-tions; sometimes, especially in Ps. 119, he selects and groups verses so as to produce a new hymn, and adds little prefatory stanzas. He utilized lines from his predecessors; some from Tate and Brady, more from Denham, most of all from Patrick. From Patrick also he borrowed the new principle, used long before by Luther, and by Parker, which he worked out elaborately—evangelical interpretation of the Psalms. To this, which is the really notable characteristic of the book, he devoted great pains, embodying in his verse the New Testament expositions of our Lord and the Apostles, exhibiting the Messianic Psalms in the light of the life of Christ, and expanding adumbration, type and prophecy, into their fulfilments. Such a mode of treatment was of course a new divergence from literalism, but a legitimate and fruitful one. No principle has such promise of future usefulness in the adaptation of the Psalter to the purposes of hymnology. The tender modern hymn by Sir H. W. Baker, "The King of Love my Shepherd is" (H. A. & M., 197) is an illustration; and Watts's version of Ps. 72, "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun," is a beautiful example of the principle and of his best style. At the same time it requires extreme caution and reverence, if it is to be kept from error. When he tried to push it beyond the guidance of Scripture, Watts was betrayed into such vulgarity as the substitution of Britain for Lorael, &c. A full exhibition of Watte's Psalter will be found in the New Cong. H. Bk.

XVI. Blackmore, Wesley, Smart, Merrick, Basil Woodd, Dwight.

In 1721 appeared a Version by Sir Richard Blackmore, which was dedicated to George I., and on the recommendation of both the archbishops and fifteen bishops "allowed and permitted to be used in all churches, &c.," by order in Council, in precisely the same terms as The New Version. It is rather a reaction in the direction of naked literalism, and it made no way, netwithstanding its lofty patrons. In Anne Steele's Poems (1760) there are forty-seven renderings of Psalms. C. Wesley at one time or other translated nearly the whole Psalter. Some were published in 1738 and 1743; again in the Arminian Magazine, 1798–1801; and the whole are included in the Poetical Works of J. & C. Wesley, 1868–72. They are naturally expressed in the refined and cultivated language which was habitual to C. Wesley, but they are not of high poetical excellence. The best are Ps. 22, "Josus The Good Shepherd is"; Ps. 121, "To the hills I lift mine eyes"; and especially Ps. 131, "Lord, if Thou Thy grace impart." Charles Wesley adopts freely Watter system of evangelical interpretation. Christopher Smart published a version (1765), in which the introduction of New Testament matter is so great, that the characteristics of the Psalms are erased. In this book there is also a great variety of new metres, and among the rest that of Cowper's Alexander Schirk, found in Charles Wesley, and in Shenstone. Merrick published a Psalter (1765) which attracted attention from the known learning of the author. It bears signs of the influence of Bp. Lowth's theories of Hebrew poetry, and was also approved by Secker. written in continuous lines, but was divided into stanzas for congregational use by Tattershall (1797), who added a prose paraphrase. It is weak and full of spithets. Montgomery calls it "immeasurable verbiage." Basil Woodd published a few psalms in 1794; other editions followed. The final one (1821) contained his own, with alternative renderings selected from Watts and Tate and Brady, &c. Timothy Dwight, the American theologian, published a revised edition of Watts (1800). A Version of s few Psalms by William Mason oppeared in 1797, and with additions in 1811: and another in the same year (1811) by William Goods.

A partial Version by Richard Cumberland (1801) may be mentioned for the sake of the author, not of the book.

XVII. Montgomery, Mant, Harriet Auber, Lyte,

James Montgomery's Songs of Zion (1822) contain nearly half of the Psalter. The sombre and plaintive verse of Ps. 39, "Lord, let me know mine end"; and Ps. 63, "Oh God, Thon art my God alone"; are fine examples of lonely and sorrowful trust. 131st, "Lord, for ever at Thy side," is of a tenderer character. Ps. 91, "Call Jehorah thy Salvation"; and Ps. 103, "Oh my soul, with all thy powers," are soft and musical. Far the finest is the rich and splendid Messianic hymn which few perhaps recognise as a Paraphrase of Ps. 72, "Hail to the Lord's Anointed." Bishop Mant published a version (1824) composed with great care, and founded much on Lowth's Lectures. But the language is cold, and the Psalms assume the form of stiff and stately odes. Harriet Auber's Spirit of the Psalms was published anony-Spirit of the Psalms was published anonymously (1829), edited by a clergyman. She uses evangelical interpretation freely. Several renderings are full of gentle melody, such as Ps. 45, "With hearts in love abounding"; Ps. 78, "Whom have we, Lord, in heaven but Thee"; and Ps. 78, "Oh praise our great and gracious Lord." A book with the same title, The Spirit of the Psalms, was published (1834) by H. F. Lyte. Though it touches nearly the whole Pselter, and though there are a few among the best that have a joyous tone, such among the best that have a joyous tone, such as the sunny rendering of Ps. 84, "Pleasant are Thy courls above;" still it is with the tenderness and tearfulness of the Psalms that he is most deeply penetrated. His renderings are seldom close translations; they are either free paraphrases, or the expansion of a few | verses, as a theme, with free interweaving of his own thoughts and metaphors, and perhaps for this reason they are less known than they deserve. Ps. 55, "Oh had I, my Saviour, the wings of a dove," a successful treatment of an undignified metre, illustrates his habit of isolating the sad part of a psalm. Ps. 91, "There is a safe and secret place," is good; and "Far from my heavenly home," exactly represents his method and his tenderness. Few probably are aware that it is founded on Ps. 187, "By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down; yes, we wept, when we remembered Zion."

XVIII, John Keble.

The Pealter or Pealme of David in English verse, by a member of the University of Oxford (1889) is the work of the revered John Keble. That he should have deemed such a thing worth doing, is, in some sort, a measure of the advance of the last forty years in the matter of church music. There was "small hope," he thought, that the custom of chanting the psalms would come in; and therefore, despite his conviction that the Hebrew was intended for chanting, not singing, and that success was "impossible," because the form and tone of English metro and Hebrew parallelism were irreconcilable, he set him-self to improve the Meirical Version, "adhering reverentially to the meaning of the original." He submitted the work to Dr. Pusey. The adverse criticism which has been given had been anticipated by Keble himself. The close adherence to the terseness and the images of the Hebrew has produced some constraint and obscurity. But in the judgment of the present writer no other version has such refinement of diction, sustained merit, lyric force and fire, and flashes of imaginative energy. There are occasional traces of the influence of Scott's chivalrous phrases. Ps. 93, "God the Lord a king remalueth," is one of the finest. Ps. 46, "God our Hope and Strength abiding," is of the same order, but less chestened; the tro-chale, Ps. 96, "Sing the song unheard before," is good; as also Ps. 135, "Sound high Jehovah's Name"; Ps. 136, "Praise the Lord, for He is Love;" and Ps. 148, "Praise ye the Lord from heaven."

XIX. Churton, Sir R. Grant, Conder, Hookham Frere, Trower, &c.

The Cleveland Pseller, by Archdeacon Churton (1854), is one of the best versions. It is written in firm, equal, and melodious verse, and though inferior to Keble in spirit and freshness, and high imagination, avoids his abraptness and compression by a slightly looser texture, and greater liberty of translation. Though thoroughly an original work, it adopts ideas and lines from the ancient Anglo-Saxon Version which Churton attributes to Aldhelm (see § III), from Wyatt, Sidney, Sandys, Miles Smyth and Keble. Portions of Ps. 16, "Lord keep me, for I trust in Thee"; Ps. 37, "Vex not thy soul for men of pride," are in S. P. C. K. Ps. and Hys.; Ps. 67, "God of grace, oh let Thy light," is in H. A. & M. (364). Ps. 64, "Lord, to my sad voice attending"; and Ps. 131, "Lord, my heart is with the lowly," are like Herbert.

The best is Ps. 96, "Raise the psalm; let earth adoring" in Kennedy, 1863, and the Wes. H. Bl. (604), 1875. A smooth, fairly-sustained Version, but deficient in spirit, had been published (1831) by Bp. Trower (revised in 1875). Sir Robert Grant had published some renderings early in the century, among which is the fine ornamentation of the old 104th, "Oh worship the King." J. Conder's Ps. 113, "Halledysh, raise oh raise," is a lyric of great brightness and jubliance. A Selection of Psalms by Hockham Frers was privately printed, see his Poetical Works (1872). The Symmetrical Psalter by W. Vernon Harcourt appeared in 1856, and The Cambridge Psalter by Dr. Kennedy in 1860 (revised 1876).

XX. Recent Versions,

The reader of this sketch will have observed that in one aspect it is the history of the long tonacions struggle of the Metrical Paalter against the growing power of original hymns as the material of praise. This conflict has been now long ended, and the task of versifying the Psalms greatly simplifled by enfranchisement from the routine metres. But fresh efforts are still made under these freer conditions. A version of considerable freshness, freedom, and spirit appeared in 1863, with an irregular structure of verse, by Mr. A. Malet. The Companion Psatter, by Rev. T. R. Birks (1874), is a valuable com-pilation of the choicest pieces of preceding versions, and contains several of his own developments of the meditative psalms. His lyric measures are often soft and melodious; he introduces freely Evangelical ideas; but they are not always the legitimate unfolding of the psalm, and sometimes the groundwork is scarcely perceptible. Ps. 19, "The heavens declare Thy glory": Ps. 20, "O Christ, whose intercession": Ps. 80, "Oh King of Mercy"; and Ps. 89, "O comfort of the weary"; are good specimens. The Marquess of Lorne published alternate renderings of the Scottish Version (1877). The late Dr. Irons promised a complete version, written with special stention to Hebrew pandlelisms; an instalment of it appeared in 1875. The latest versions are by Dighy Seymour (1882), and Dighy S. Wrangham (1885).

Among the efforts to make the Psatter compete with original hymns may be noted Matthew Henry's Family Hymns (really selected Fadms, 1695); Dorrington's Desotions in Psattes and Hymns and Spiritual Songs, arranged as a hymnbook for Sundays, &c.; Select Psatms and Hymns for the use of St. James's Westminster (1697). The most interesting is an arrangement by Romains (1775), to which is prefixed an essay in defence of the Old Version, a stremous protest against the growing power of Wesley's hymns.

XXI. Conclusion.

The quotations in the foregoing sketch shew that metrical psalms still contribute largely to our hymnals. The least successful renderings have been those of the Messianic psalms. Nor have the penitential psalms yielded much for Lenten use. In one or two lustances the dauntless trust of the Psalmists has been nobly reproduced. And for the worship of the messes certain grand and simple psalms are unequalled. The indirect in-fluence of the long tutelage of the Psalter must not be lost eight of. It gave to our earlier bymns a severity, a breadth, an objective tone, and a wide and deep base in nutural religion. Nowhere is the glory of God in his works to magnificently exhibited as in the Psalms, and the strength of the presentation is grounded on the whole power of the works in thouselves, not on some single and perhaps sentimental aspect of the works. Nowhere is the jubilance of praise, unchecked by the chilling and irrelevant thought—true and sad as it is—of the sinfulness and inadequacy of our utterance, so majestic. These characteristics are impressed deeply on Watts; and they are of abiding value, as a counterpoise to the morbid emotion, offeniuscy, self-consciousness, and anatomy of motives, which make some modern hymns so sickly. The influence of the Psalter on English hymns is by no means worked out. It may take new forms, select and develop more freely from the ideas, but it is impossible that the Paulms can cease to inspire many of the deepest, tenderest, most intense utterances [H. L. B.] in future hymns.

Psalters, English. Minor Versiflers, Biographical articles of the greater versifiers of the Psalms named in the foregoing catalogue, are given under their respective names in this Dictionary. In the notes given below the writers of less importance, either in themselves or in the work which they have done in paraphrasing the Psalms in metre, are grouped together in alphabetical order; and a reference number is added to aid in tracing out each person's work in the article on Psalters, Versions in English, p. 936.

Atwood, George, B.D., sometime Archdeacon of Taunton. [No.127.]

Bartholomew, Alfred. From his Sacred Lyrics, 1831, we gather that he was an architect. B. 1801, d. 1845. [No. 227.]

Beaumont, John. From his Original Psalats, 1834, the following have been transferred to Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866:—(1) "1711 bless my Saviour, God," Ps. extlic. (2) "Lord, I daily call on Thee." Ps. extl. (3) "Many times since days of youth." Ps. extraction (4) "Praise ye Jehovah, shout and sing." Ps. exterit.

Bird, Charles Smith, was the author of Ever and Ever and other Foems, Liverpool, 1833. [No. 234.]

Ever and other rooms, inverpool, 1833. [10. 234.]
Blackell, Elizabeth, nuthor of Patina and Hymns and Spiritual Songs, pub. in Dublin, 1835, which contained, along with other poems, resisions of twelve Psalms. Her intention was "to complete the paraphrase of the Psalma," as she states in her Preface. This, however, so far as can be gathered, was never carried out. [No. 244.]

Bowring, Edgar Alfred, was b. in 1826, and was w.p. for Exeter, 1868. According to Glars (p. 183) he has also "translated two small volumes of German hymns, selected by the Queen, and privately printed for her Majesty's use." [No. 292.]

plajesty's use." [No. 292.]
Royae, Samuel, s. of a distenting minister, was b. in 1708. He received the radiments of his education in Dublim, and then passed on to the University of Glasgow. As a poet and man of letters he was well known and esteemed; but his manners were of the lowest, and his life most wretched. He d. in Shoe Lane, London, in obscure lodgings, in May, 1747, and was buried by the parish. [No. 183.]

Brampton, Thomas, was one of the earliest translators of the Fashms into English metre. Nothing is known of him, save what is recorded ou the his. copy of the Sauon Pendential Prainst, which is preserved in the British Museum. At the beginning of this Ms. is written—"France Thomas Brampton Sauras Theologian Doctor fr' minore pauperib' confesso' de Latino iu Anglia Anno Dom. 1414, ad Dei honorem et incrementum devo-tionis." This little work is written on besutiful veilum, and in an old curious mixture of Anglo-Saxon characters, and old English words, which tends to show that it was made at a time when the language was in a state of change. [No. 1.]

Brathwate, Richard, b. 1588, d. 1672, at one time Deputy-Lieutenant of the county of Westmorekand, was the author of several metrical works. Hazlewood, the editor of frashwatie's Barnabee's Journal, is of opinion that No. 63 by "R. B." is his work.

Bryan, Joseph, one of the "other gentlemen" referred to in No. 51. Concerning him we know nothing except that his name is prefixed to the Introduction to the sa-paracel, and that he wrote some of the versions therein. See Davison, C., below.

Byrd, William, one of the "Gentlemen of the Queen's honourable Chappell," s. of Thomas Byrd, was b. circa 1538, and d. in London, July 4, 1523. He was a chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral; Organist of Lincoln Cathedral, 1563-1569; and Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1563. He was the composer of several wellknown anthems. [No. 32.]

Garey, Thomas. A gentleman attached to the court of King Charles I. See Davison, C., below.

Cayley, C. B., E.A., translator of Dante's Divine Comedy, author of Pyrche's Interludes, &c. [No. 295.]

Chamberlayne, James, composed a few poems that be might "not trifle away too much of his time," and pub. a selection therefrom as -A Sucred Poem on the Birth, Miracles, Beath, Scoulture, Resurrection, and Birth, Miracles, Beath, Sepatture, Resurrection, and Ascension of the Mott Holy Jesus. 1680. To this were solded 18 Paulm Versions, the Lamentations of Jeremiah in verse, &c. [No. 93.]

Oobb, Samuel, M.A., sometime Master of Christ's Hospital, pub. in 1707, Poems on Several Occasions. He d. in 1713. [No. 113.]

Gole, Benjamin Thomas Halcott, M.A., sometime Fellow of Magdalen College, Cambridge, and Rector of Warbleton, Sussex, B.A. 1803, M.A. 1807. [No. 278.]

Coleraine, Hanry Hare, second Baron (Irisk Peerage), d. at Tottenham in 1798. In addition to his paraphrases from the Italian, &c., he was the author of a Hittory of Tottenham. [No. 85.]

Coldwell, William, sometime resident in Sheffeld as an architect and surveyor, was a local preacher in the Methodist New Connexion body. He pub. (1) Public and Moral Poems, Haliam 1812; (2) Hebrew Harmonic and Aliamons, 1820; and (3) The 19k. of Praises, &c. [No. 204).

Colman, George, the younger, 8. of George Colman, a dramatic writer, and for some time the Lord Chamber-lain's Examiner of Plays, was b. at London, Oct. 21, 1762, and d. in 1836. [No. 177.]

Coney, Thomas, p.p., sometime Rector of Chedzoy, Somersetshire, and Prebendary of Wells. [No. 123.]

Conowarth, Michael. This versiller's history is un-known to us. His Version of Some Select Prairies is in the British Museum (Harl. 8906). [No. 37.]

Cratock, Thomas, a native of Staffordshire, and some-time Rector of St. Thomas's Church, Baltimore County, Maryland, pub. bis paraphrase of the Psaims as below. He d. in 1760. [No. 144.]

Cumberland, Henry Chifford, Earl of, was b. in 1991, and d. at York, Dec., 1643. "In the dissensions which armse between Charles the First and his Parliament thu Earl is said to have distinguished himself more by his fidelity to the King's cause, than by his activity or skill! his character will be found in Clarendon's History, where his called 'n man of great honour and integrity;' and Dr. Bliss has introduced a brief memoir of him into his edition of Wood's Athena Occasionest." (Halland). [No. 53.]

Ommberland, Blohard, dyamatic and miscellaneous writer, was b. at Cambridge, 1732, and d. at Tanbridge, 1811. He was for some time Secretary to the Event of Trade; but during the latter part of his life be devoted binnelf entirely to literature. [No. 188.]

Daniel, Richard, D.D., sometime Dean of Armagh and Chaplain to the Lord-Lientenaut of Ireland. [No. 122.]

Darby, Charles, M.A., was for some time Rector of edington, Soffolk. Beyond this we have no details. [No. 111.]

Davies, Sir John (Davis), b. in 1870, d. Dec. 7th, 1828. His works make 3 vols. in Dr. Grosart's Fuller Worthies' Library, 1876. [No. 38.]

Bavison, Christopher, second 8. of William Davison and brother of Francis Davison (see below), was a mem-ber of Gray's Lun. We cannot secretain the dates of his birth or death. He is one of the "other gentlemen" referred to in No. 51,

Davison, Francia, eldest s. of William Davison, Scoretary of State to Queen Elizabeth, and brother of the above, was b. ofron 1975, and was a member of Gray's Imn. He d. ofron 1921. His Toetical Magnetic was pub. in 1602, [No. 51.]

in 1692. [No. 51.]

The Hart. MS. referred to by W. T. Brooke in his ed. of tiles Fletcher's Christ's Victory and Triumph, &c., Lond, Griffith, Farran, &c., 1888, p. 243.—"No complete edition of the pealms of Francis and Christopher Davison has littlerto appeared; and for the first time (with the hitherto unknown introduction of Francis Davison limself) they are here completely given. It is probable that Davison's death interrupted the plan of the collection, and it remained unfinished. At least three 1820, of thave survived if it has approach. the plan of the collection, and it rimained unfinished. At least three Mes. of it have survived [i] the apparently original Me. in the Harleian Collection; [ii] a transcript by Raiphi Crane-with additional poems (referred to by Farr in his Seter Poetry, &c., 1845, p. AXX., under T. Corey, whose version of Ps. 31 is therein]; and [iii.] the anohymous Me., formerly Archdeacon Cotton's and the late Alexander Gardyne's, from which we print. Of the fellow-workers of the Davisons—Joseph Bryan, Bryan contributed twenty-two pesims to the collection; Francis Davison eighteen; Christopher Davison and Richard Gipps each two; and T. Carey a single positin." Mr. Brooke reprints about one half of the Me., all of Bryan's but one being omitted. Bryan's but one being omitted.

Dennis, Thomas. Concerning this author our information is limited to the titlepage of his version. [No. 191.]

Diokson, Thomas, a schoolmaster at Chirnside, Berwickshire. [No. 242.]

wicksuire. [No. 742.]

Dod, Henry, is called by G. Wither "Dod the slikman," Beyond this, and that his "late ridiculous translations of the Psalus was, by authority, worthly condenned to the fire" (i.e. bignet by the common hangman), and that he turned the Act of Parliament enjoining a Public Thanksgiving on the Fifth of November, into metre to be sung in church, we know nothing of him. (No. 40.) of him. (No. 40.)

Boneld, Robert, an Siliterate person of Woking, Surrey, was persuaded in his own mind that he had a Survey, was personned in this own pints one age and divine call to prepare a new version of the Pealma, and when done had to get the assistance of a friend to correct the grammar, [No. 196.]

Decarel, P. J. Our knowledge of this versifier is confined to the details on the titlepage of No. 236.

Eden, John, p.D., b. circa 1750, and d. in 1840, was for 41 years Vicer of St. Nicholas and St. Leonard's, liristol. His version of the Psalms was pub. posthumously with a Memoir. [No. 267.]

Fairfax, Thomas, Lord, cidest s. of Ferdinando, Lord Fairfax, was b. at Denton, Yorkshire, in 1611, and d. at New Appleton, Yorkshire, in 1611. He is well known in history as a general of the Parliamentary Army during the Civil War. [No. 86.]

Farr, Edward. Of this versifier we know nothing beyond the information on the title page of No. 249.

Fenwick, George, S.v., b. in 1889, was rector of Hallaton, Uppingium, for 37 years, and d. April 10, 1769. [No. 154.]

1700. [No. 154.]

Failde, Edward, M.A., b. in 1795, and educated at Cambridge. He was for some time a master in a large school at Ealing, and curate of Plaistow. Whilst at Plaistow be pub. Charch of England Praissody; or Portions of the New Ferrion adapted to every Day of the Month, and to the Services or Circumstances of every England throughout the Frant, Lond. Rivingtom, 1831. The Preface is signed "E. F." He was incument of lock and Rennington from 1834 to 1848, and it was during his residence there that he pub. his Pr. of David. He is said by those who knew bira to have been a learned man and a devoted parish prices. He d. at Harrogate, Jan. 25, 1851. [No. 275.]

Flening, Robert, s. of Robert Fleming, a Scottish Presbyterium minister, was b. at Cambuslang, and studied at Leyden and Utrecht. Ho was for a time minister of an English congregation at Leyden, and then at Amsterdam. Eventually he became paster of the Scottish Church in Leibbury, and was also lecturer at Salters' Hall. He d. May 21, 1716. He was the author of Christology, in 3 vols., and of the Rise and Fall of Rosse Papal, 1701. [No. 101.]

Ford, Simon, p.o., b. in Devoushire in 1619, and d. in ; 1699. He was for some time Rector of Old Swinford, Worcestershire, and pub. his version of the Psalms in He wrote extensively on religious subjects. [No. 97.]

Porrest, Sir William, Choplain to Queen Mary during for short reign, was a polemical poet and skilled musician. He pub. works from circa 1550 to 1550. His Certagna Fusience of Buogd are dated 1551, and his latest re. [Reg. 17, A. xxi.] is dated 1572. Specimens from bis ass, are given in the Early English Text Society's publications, and in the German periodical Anglica. [No. 12.]

Franch, James. [No. 160.] The correct name is James Funck. (See p. 864, i.)

Fraunce, Abraham, a native of Shropshire, took his degree (8.A.) at St. John's, Cambridge, in 1679; was elected Fellow in 1689; and removed to Gray's Inn in 1633. He was living in 1633, but the date of his death we have not been able to ascertain. [No. 35.]

Frere, John Hookham, M.A., s. of John Frere, some-time High Sheriff of Suffolk and M.P. for Norwich, was time High Sherill of Suffolk and M.P. for Norwich, was b. in Lawdon, May 21, 1769, and educated at Eton, and Calus College, Cambridge (b.a., 1782). He was subsequently a Fallow of Catus. On leaving the University be entered the Foreign Office. He was M.P. for West Loos, Cornwall, 1786-1802; Under Secretary of State in the Foreign Office, 1789; Envoy Extraortinary and Plenipotentiary to Portugal, 1800, to Spain, 1802, to Berlin, 1807, and to Spain again, 1808. He d., Jan. 7, 1848. [No. 261.]

Gahagan, Hanry, W.A., was a graduate of Christ Church, Oxford, and a Barrister-at-Law. [No. 231.]

Gipps, Richard, is one of the "other gentlemen" referred to in Me. 51. We know nothing concerning him except that he wrote some of the versions in the as named. See Francis Davison, above.

Good, John Mason, M.D. 8. of an Independent minister, was b. at Epping, Essex, in 1761, and educated for the medical profession. He became P.u.s. 1805 and M.D. 1930. He wrote largely on medical, theological, and classical subjects. He d. in 1827, and his Memoirs, by Dr. Gregory, were pub. in 1828. [No. 2222.]

Gregory, George (No. 176), b. in 1754; d. 1808.

Grynaston, Elizabeth, née Barney, dau. of Martin Barney, or Bernye, of Grimeston, in Suffolk, and wife of Christopher, a. of Thomas Grymeston, of Yorkshire, pub. her Miscellanes in 1804, and again enlarged it circa Hall, John, M.D., was b. in 1829. He was a cele-rated writer on anatomy, &c. He resided at Meidatone in Kent. [No. 10.]

in Kent. [No. 10.]

Hall, Jessph, D.D., was b. at Ashby-de-la-Zouch in 1574, and educated at Cambridge. He was successively Rector of Halstead, Prehendary of Wolverhampton, Dean of Worcester, Bishop of Exeter, and Bishop of Norwich. In July, 1616, he attended Lord Doucaster into France, and on his return he was appointed by Klug James as one of his divines to accompany him into Scotland. At the Symod of Dort he was appointed to proach the Latin Sermon to the Assembly. He d. in 1858. His works are numerous, and include his versions of Ps. i.-ix. (No. 43.] His Works were pub. in London by Pavier, 1625. (Psalters, English, § x.)

Hamilton. William, a native of Scotland, b. 1704.

Hamilton, William, a native of Scotland, b. 1704, d. 1754. [No. 136.]

Hare, Francis, p.p., who d. 25th April, 1740, was educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge. He was for some time chaplain-general to the army. He subsequently became Pean of Worcester, and then Hisbop of Chichester. He also held the Deanery of St. Paul's with his lishappite. He was the atthor of several works. His version of the Pealms was pub, posthumously in 1755. [No. 150.]

Hare, Julius Charles, N.A., was h. in 1796, educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and d. in 1865. In conjunction with his brother Augustus William he pub. Junction with his brother Augustus William he pub-tha celebrated Guestes at Truth. He size assisted Bp. Thiriwall in translating Niebuhr's History of Rose. His Essays, Sermons, and other publications were numerous and important. He was a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, Ractor of Hurstmonceux, and Chaplain to the Queen. The following of his Fraim versions are in C. U. at the present time:—(1) "Lo, I come to do Thy will (Pr. zb.), and (2)" [Jord God, my Saviour, day and night (Ps. Inzweit) [No. 253.]

Harte, Walter, w.a., s. of a clergyman, was b. at Taunton, circu 1695, educated at Oxford, where he was for some time Vice Principal of St. Mary Hall. He was also a canon of Windsor. He d, at Bath in March:

was also a canon of Windsor. He d. at Bath in March; 1744. He pub. History of the Life of Gustavus Adolphus, and other works. [No. 126.]

Molford, G. F. The British Museum copy of No. 201, contains a xs. note by a former owner, "This is Hotford's version." The Holford here referred to is probable C. Helter, and the second of the Holford here referred to is probably G. F. Holford, M.P.

bally G. F. Holford, M.F.

Hunnis, William, a gentleman of the Chapel Royal under Edward VI., and afterwards Master of the Children in the reign of Eduabeth. In addition to his Pasim versions of 1850 and 1865, he pub. A Handful of Honeyrackies and A Hive Full of Honey, being paraphrases of various portions of Boly Scripture. Some of his pieces are reprinted in E. Farr's Select Poetry chiefly Devotional of the Reign of Q. Ediasbeth. (Parker Society.)
(No. 11.) He d. June 8, 1837. [English Hymnesy, Early, § VII.] See also Various.

Jones, Abner. An American Professor of Music.

Keith, James. H. A. Glass, p. 192, says that this versifier "was a bookseller at Dingwall. N.B." (No.

King, Henry, D.D., eldest s. of John King, some time Bishop of London, was born at Wormingball, Bucking-hamshire, 16 Jany. 1531-2, and educated at Westminster, hamshire, 16 Jany, 1891-2, and educated at Westminster, and Christ Charch, Oxford, where he graduated in 1611. In January 1818-16, when only twenty-four years old, he was collated to the Prebend of St. Pancras, in the Cathedral of St. Paul's, and also "the office of Penitentiary or Confessor in that Cathedral, and the Rectory and Patronage of Chigwell, Eseex." In April, 1617, he was advanced to the Archdescorry of Colchester, and subsequently to the sineoure Rectory of Futham. Later, in Fely. 1838-9 he was preferred to the Desanay of Rochester, and on the 5th Febr, 1841-2 he was conserted Bishop of Chichester. In Dec. 1642, he was imprisoned by the Parliamentary Army, on the fall of Chichester. On his release from prison he resided for a time at Langley, Bocks. At the Restoration he was Chichester. On his release from prison he resided for a time at Langiey, Backs. At the Restoration he was clustated in his Bishopric at Chichester, where he d. Sep. 30, 1669. His Metrical Version of the Paulus was pub. in 1651 [see Fasitars, Eng. § 11]; and bis Poems 1657. Extracts from these were republished with elaborate Historical and Biographical notes by the Rev. J. Hannah, S.A., se Pearus & Paalms, Lon.; Pickering, 1842. [No. 78.] 1843, [No. 78.]

Leapor, Mary, the daughter of a gardener to Judga Blencour, of Maryton, St. Lawrence, Nottingbamalire, was b. in 1722, and d. in 1748. Her Poesis were pub. posthumously in 1748 for the benefit of her father. A second volume appeared in 1751. [No. 134,]

Lok, Henry, second a of Henry Lok, or Locke, a London merchant. Concerning the dates of his birth and death we have ascertained nothing. His Ecclesiastes, otherwise called the Preacher, was pub. in 1587 (Licensed in 1593.) [No. 36.]

Lorne, John-Douglas-Sutherland-Campbell, Marquets of, sou of the Duke of Argyle, b. Aug. 6, 1245, m. H.R.H. Princess Louise, 1871; Governor-General of Canada, 1878. (No. 328.)

Marsh. Bdward Garrard, H.A., was b. in 1783, and educated at Wadham College, Oxford. (p.4. 1894.) He was appointed Vicar of Aylesford in 1841, having previously been Minister of Hampstear Chapel. His Sinty Ps. and Hys., 1st set, were pub. in 1823. The entire Book of Psalms was pub. in 1832. The 4th ed. of his Ps. 4 Hys. (210 in all) was pub. by Seeley's, London, 1862. Mr. Marsh d. Sept. 20, 1862. [No. 230.]

Kassereme and Ferrard, John Foster, 10th Viscount Massereme and Ferrard, b. 1812, d. 1863. [No. 302.]

Massereme and Ferrard, b. 1812, a. 1803. [1804.005]

Mather, Cotton, D.D., s. of Increase Mather, D.D., a Puritan divine, was born at Boston, New England, in 1863, and d. in 1723. He was educated at Harvard Colege, and was for-cometime a pastor in Poston. He received his D.D. from Glasgow University, and he was R.R.s. (London). His principal work was Christi Americana, or, an Reclassistical History of New England, from its Planting in 1620 to 1833. He was noted the from its Planting in 1620 to 1839. He was noted also for his work on Witchcraft entitled The Wonders of the Invisible World, &c., 1736. [No. 118.]

Maule, John, N.D. Concerning this versifier we know nothing beyond what is contained on the titlepage of No. 216.

McClure, Samuel. [No. 282.]

McLaren, David, M.A., Minister of Humbie, Hadding-ton, b. at Dundee, and educated at St. Andrew's University. [No. 324.]

Milbourne, Luke, s. of Luke Milbourne, one of the ejected ministers of 1862. He was Vicar of St. Ethel-burga, Bishopegate, and Lecturer at St. Helen's, Shore-ditch, London. His metrical paraphrase of Thomas a Kemph's Institution of Christ, was pub. In 1897 as The Christian's Pattern Paraphased. He is sometimes praised as a cride: but his notes on Dryden's Virgit are severely condemned by Pope in his Danciad. He d in 120 No. 1862. d. in 1720. [No. 106.]

Mobarly, George Harbart, M.A., a. of Dr. Muberly, By. of Salisbury, b. Jan. S. 1837, and educated at Christ's Charch College, Oxford; m.a. in bonours, 1869, cometime a Fellow of his college, Principal of Lichfield College and Preb. of Hausacre in Lichfield Cathedral, 1890, editor of hiele filterial Ecclevisation, 1803, and Sacrifice of the Eucharist, 1875. [No. 314.]

Montgomery, Alexander, died circa 1605. [No. 42.]

Eusgrave, George, M.A., b. in 1798, and educated at Drasenous, Oxford. R.A. in bonours, 1849. Taking Holy Orders in 1822, he was Carata of Marylelone, London, 1824; Bexwell, Norfolk, 1829; and Vicar of Bordon, Kent, 1838-54. He d. Dec. 25, 1883. He published geveral works, Including his version of the Pasims, 1833; Hymns for a Rural Parish, 1815; and others. [No. 235.]

Patrick, John, p.D., was for some time "Preacher to the Charter-House, London." His Pr. of Bavisi contain versions of the R. Deams, Remedictus, Magnificat, None Binitisis; a hymn. "Ye faithful servants of the Lord," No. Iv., "Taken out of the Revelations," and several doxologics. Watts acknowledges in his Preface to his doxologies. Watta acknowledges in his Preface to his Preface to his Preface to his Preface to Patrick in setting him the example of Christianizing the Paulms. [No. 92.]

Patullo, Margaret, a native of Perthshire, Scotland. The dates of her birth and death are unknown to us, Her version of the Psalms was suppressed by her friends.

Peter, William. Concerning this versifier we know nothing beyond the information contained on the titlepages of his two volumes, Nos. 219 and 239.

Fitt, Christopher, M.A., was b. at Blandford, Dorset-shire, 1699, and d. 1748. He tr. the Excel, and Vida's Art of Poetry. He was educated at New Collegerd, and was Rector of Pimperne, Dersetshire. He was educated at New College, Ox-

Prince, Thomas. [No. 182.] An American versifier, b. in 1886, educated at Harvard College, and for some time Minister of South Church, Boston. He d. in Oct.,

Reid, Mrs. [No. 218.] We have fulled to identify this writer.

Roberts, Francis, D.D., cometime Minister of St. Augustine's, London, and then Rector of Wrington, Sometsetshire. He was Assistant to the Commissioners Somersetshire. He was Assistant to the Commissioners appointed by Parliament for the ejection of scandalous ministers and schoolmasters, and was one of the Prochyterion divines, who protested against the sentence of death passed upon Charles I. He d. in 1875. [No. 86.]

Robson, John, M.A., sometime Rector of Blatchington, Sussex. [No. 158.]

con, observe. Dec. 1921.

Rowe, Elizabeth, nee Singer, daughter of Walter Singer, an Independent Minister, was b, near Frome, Somersetabire, in 1874; married in 1710 to Thomas Rowe, the poet; and d. in Feb., 1737. Her works include Priendship in Death; Letters Moral and Entertainment International Confessions of the Text (which is the confession of the Text (which is the confess tertaining, and Benoute exercises of the Reart (which was revised and pub. by Dr. Watte). Her Miscellaneous Works in Prose and Ierse, which included some of her husband's puems, together with her Hymns and Versions of Psalms, was pub. posthumously in 1739. [No. 132.]

Rowland, Edward, b. circa 1743; was for a time a timber merchant in Carilale, and d. in 1824. [No. 215.]

Sadier. Michael Thomas, was b. at Doveridge, near ashbourne, Derbyshire, Jan. 30, 1780, and d. in 183 He was for several years a merchant in Leeds. He represented Newark-upon-Trent, and then Aldborough, Yorkshire, in Parliament. His Memoirs, as Memoirs of the Life and Writings of M. T. Sadler, Eq., were pub. in July 1825. [No. 246.]

Bandya, Sir E., s. of Archbishop Sandya, and brother of George Sendys, was b. circa 1561, and was educated under Hocker at Corpus Christi College, Oxford. From 1581 to 1862 he was a Prebendary in York Cathedral. He was knighted by James I. in 1503, and subsequently employed in State effairs. He d. in 1839. [No. 47.]

Sankey, Matthew-Villiers, of Coolmore, County Tipperary; b. circs 1797, d. 1837. (No. 214.)

Say, Samuel, was the successor of Dr. Calamy as paster of a Nonconformist congregation in Westminster. His Power, Sc., were pub. in 1745. [No. 135.]

Scott, Alexander, [No. 206.]

Scott. Robert Allan, W.A., was b. 1804, and educated at Balliol, Oxford (D.A., 1826). Taking Holy Orders, he was successively Curate of Sheriffinites and Woodcote, Shropshire, and of Church Eaton, Staffordshire, and Vicar of Cranwell, Lincolnshire. He d. 1870. In addition to his Paraphrases, he pub. Parish Rhymes for Schools and Cotteges, in 1841. Two of his paraphrases are in C.U. :—"All glory be to Thee," Pz. 118, and "Lord, Thou hast formed my every part," Pz. 139. [No. 282.]

Beymeur, William Digby, q.c., Ll.D., b. 1822; M.A. for Sundriland, 1852, and for Southampton, 1850; Recorder of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1854, [No. 332.]

Skurray, Francis, D.D., was b. in 1775, and educated at Lincoln College, Oxford, of which College he was also a Fellow from 1804 to 1824. He was flextor of Winter-bourne Steepleton, Dursetshire, and Terpetual turate of Horningsham, Wilts. He d. Mar. 10, 1848. His Shepsherd's Garland was pub. In 1832, and bis Francis in 1843. [No. 271.]

Slatyer, William, D.D., b. in Somersetshire in 1587. He entered St. Mary Hall, Oxford, in the Lent term 1600. but afterwards migrated to Brasenose; R.A. in 1607; Fellow of Brasenose; D.D. in 1623; and Rector of Fellow of Busenese; p.p. in 1823; and Rector of Otterden, Kent, where he d., Feb. 13, 1646. He pub., in 1821, a Matery of Great Britaine, in English and Latin Ferse, in addition to his paraphrases of the Feshus, (No. 68.1)

Smart, Christopher, M.A., was b. at Shipburn, Kent, in 1722, and educated at Fembroke Hall, Cambridge, where he gained the Seatonian prize for five years, four of which were in succession. (R.A. 1747.) He removed to London in 1753, and gave some attention to literature; to London in 1733, and gave some attention to increasurer birth neglecting both his preparty and his constitution, be became poor and insure. Its d. in the King's Bench, 1771. His Poens were pub in 2 vols, in 1771. From that work "Father of light conduct my feet." (Divine Guidance), and "I sing of God the inlighty Source" (God the Author of Atl), have been taken. (No. 162.)

Smith, Sir Thomas, was born at Walden, Essex, 1512, Single of Administration of the College, Cambridge, where he became a Fellow of his college in 1531. He was Region Professor of Civil Law at Cambridge, and, in 1548, Secretary of State, when he was knighted. On the downfall of the l'rotector Somerset, he lost his appointment as Secretary of State, and was confined in the Tower for about a year. Subsequently he was restored to Court favour, and was thrice ambassador to France for Elizabeth. He died at Mounthall, Essex, in 1577. [No. 8.]

Smyth, Miles, secretary to Dr. Sheldon, Archbishop of Canterbury. [No. 88.]

Spalding, Thomas, member of a firm of wholesale stationers in Drury Lane, was b. in 1805, and d. in 1807. He was a member of the Congregational body and a liberal contributor to its funds. [No. 278.]

Stanyhurst, Richard, was b. at Dublin eirea 1845, and educated at University College, Oxford. He studied Law for some time at Furnival's and Lincoln's huns; but joining the Roman Catholic Church, he removed to the Confinent and took Holy Orders. He pub. several books, including the first four books of Virgil's Excit. in English bexameters, 1582. He d. in 1618. [No. 30.]

Bylvester, Tipping. Of this versifier we know nothing beyond the fact that he joined Stephen Wheatland in publishing the I's. of David, &c., in 1754. [No. 146.]

Thurlow, Edward Hovell-Thurlow, 2nd Beron, nephew of Lord Chancellor Thurlow, was b. June 10, 17s1, and d. June 3, 1829. [No. 198.]

Tollet, Elizabeth, d. in 1694; d. in 1754. (No. 145.)

Towars, William Samuel, a laymen, concerning whose bistory we know pothing. [No. 193.]

Townsand, George, A.A., was b. at Ramsgate, Sep. 12, 1788, and educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, D.A. 1812; M.A. 1816. Entering Holy Orders in 1812, ho became Curate of Littleport in 1812; and of Huckney 1814; Classical Master of the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, 1816; Demestic Chapilain to Bp. Barrington, 1824; and Prelendary of Durham. 1825. He d. in Nov. 1857. He pub. Chronological Arrangement of the tild and New Testament: Accurations of History against the Churck of Rome; Ecclesiastical History to Reign of Henry IV. of England, Sc. [No. 288.]

Trapp, Joseph, u.D., vicer of a partin in London, who d, in 1141, pub. a tr. of Virgil; Explanatory Notes on the Pour Gaspels; a Latin version of Paradise Lat; Thoughts upon the Pour Last Things, &c. [No. 138.]

Trower, Walter Jahn, D.D., b. April 5, 1904, was educated at Oxford, where he graduated in high honours in 1926, and became a Fellow of Oriel College. After holding some minor appointments, he was consecrated Blabop of Glasgow and Galloway in 1848. Retiring in 1859, he was appointed Rp. of Gibraltar in 1863. Subsequently he was Rector of Ashington, Chichester. He d. Oct. 24, 1887. He was the anthor of several works, including the S. P. C. K. Epistics and Gospels, &c. [No. 1862] 223.]

Turaer, Baptist Meal, M.A., b. in 1739, and educated at the Oakham Grammar School and Emmanuri College, Cambridge. He was Rector of Denton, Lincolnshire, and of Wing, in Rutland. He was also for a time Head Master of Oakham Grammar School. He d. May, 1826. His memoit and portrait are in Nichols's Hustrations of the History of Literature in the Eighteenth Century. [No. 212.]

Turner, Thomas, M.A., sometime a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, was b. in 1804. He was 2nd Wran-gler and Smith's Prizeman. [No. 294.]

Usher, James, From the tiltipage and the Preface of his version (No. 210) we gather that Usher was a layman, who, with a limited education and little or no preparation, began bis parapirase on the 18th of Aug., and completed it on the 18th of Dec. 1823.

Verstegan, Richard, a Roman Catholic, d. circa 1535. [No. 38.] He was possibly the editor of the 1589-1594 Primer, printed at Antwerp, where he was at that time, and the Preface of which is signed "R. V."

Vicers, John, b. in London, 15s2, educated at Oxford, was for some time an usher in the school of Christ's Hoswas for some time an usure in the school of carries is non-pital, and d. in 1851. He was a virulent writer ugainst the Royalists, and sparrel no one in his zeal. His England's Hallityjah for God's Gratious Benediction; with some Ptoloms of David in Verse was pub, in 1831.

Wheatland, Stophen. Of this versifier we know nothing beyond the fact that be joined Tipping Sylvester in publishing the Ps. of Pavid, &c., 1754. [No. 146.]

White, John, s.A., sometimes called "The Patriarch of Dorchester," where he was rector for 42 years, was b. In 1674, and d. in 1648. He was one of the Cierical Assessors of the Westminster Assembly of Divines, 1649. His version was pub. posthumously in 1654. [No. 81.]

Winchester, Elkanan. A celebrated Universalist preacher who ministered in a chapel in Petticoat Lanc. London, in 1773-8. His version was on the basis of the teachings of the Universalists, and specially for the use of that community. [No. 184.]

Woodford, Samuel, D.D., b. in London, 1636, and educated at Wailham College, Oxford. He was for some time Rector of Hartley Haudit, Hants, and Prebendary of Winchester. He d. in 1700. [No. 87.]

some time iterative standing, hants, han rebendary of Winchester. He d. in 1700. [No. 87.]

Wotton, Bir Henry, N.A., b. in Kent in 1568, and educated at New and at Queen's Colleges, Oxford. After epending nine years on the Continent, on his return he became secretary to Robert, Earl of Essex, with whom he continued until Essex was committed for high reason, when he retired to Florence. There he became known to the Grand Duke of Triscaux, and was sent by him, in the name of "Octavio Baldi," with latters to James VI., King of Scotland, in which the king was informed of a design against his life. On succeeding to the English throne James knighted Wotton and sent him as ambassador to the Republic of Venice. In 1823 he was made Provest of Eton (having previously taken Descon's Orders). He d. in 1839. His works include The Eisments of Architecture, Parallel between the Earl of English through the difference of the Etone Latter, &c. His poens and other matters found in his kes, were pub. posthumously by Izaak Wolton in 1851, as Reliquick Wottoniance. This has been several times reprinted. [No. 73.] reprinted. [No. 79.]

Wrangham, Francia, D.D., sometime Archdeacon of Cleveland, b. in 1769, educated at Magdalen and Trinity Colleges, Cambridge, and d. Bec. 27, 1843. [No. 250.]

Wrangham, William, a tradesman of Louth, Lincoln-shire. He d. in 1832. [No. 223.]

shire. He d. in 1832. [No. 222.]

Wyatt, Sir Thomas, b. at Allington, Kent, in 1603, and d. at Sherborne, Dorset, 19th or 11th Oct., 1542. He was educated at St. John's College, Cambridge. He was knighted by Henry VIII., and was sent by him on various embassies. His Songs and Sonnets were pub. with those of his friend, the Earl of Surrey. His Poetical Works were reprinted by R. Bell, 1855, and are atso included in the Aldine Poets. [No. 8.]

Young, Robart, N.A., Says on the titlengag of his version that he was "formerly Classical Teacher, Glasgow, latterly for some time Minister of time Free Church, Chapleton," [No. 239.]

[J. T. B.]

Pealters, Versions in English. In the subjoined list of Complete and Partial versions of the Book of Psalms in English (including those pub. in Scotland and America) not only are all known complete versious named, but also such partial and individual versions as, because of their authorship or merit, are of importance, are also enumerated. As the older versions are very difficult to consult, we give here the most accessible works wherein specimens of the various paraphrases may be found. These works, together with their Index Letters, are:-

A. Select Praims in Verse, with Critical Remarks. By Bishop Lowth and Others. Illustrative of the Beau-ties of Sucred Poetry. London: Hatchetd, 1811. This work is by Lord Aston.

NOTE BY LOVE ABOUT.

F. Select Poetry Chiefly Devotional of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth Collected and Edited for The Parker Society by Elward Farr, Esq. Osmbridge, 19th G. The Story of the Pasiters. A History of the Metrical Versions of Great Britain and America, from Sect. to 1968. But Lannus all Control Control.

1549 to 1885. By Henry Alexander Glass. London,

Kegan Paul, 1888.

H. The Psalmists of Great Britain. Records bio-H. The realments of Great Britain. Records lio-graphical and Literary of upwards of one knyadred and fifty authors, who have rendered the whole or parts of The Book of Frains into English Verse. With Speci-nens of the Different Ferrions, and a General Intro-duction. By John Holland, London, Groombridge. 2 vols. 1843. (See p. 589, i.) L. Anthologia Davidica, 1846. See p. 72, ii. This Is by Henry Latham. In addition the various editions of Cotton's Editions of

In addition the various editions of Coston's Editions of the Rible and Parts thereof in English (2nd ed., 1082) should also be consulted.

List of Complete and Partial Versions of the Psalms in English from 1414 to 1889.

- 1. 1414. Thomas Brumpton. Faraphrase of the Swen Penisential Psalms. Edited with Notes for the Percy Society, 1842. [A. p. 105; and H. i. p. 74.]
  2. 1539. Kiles Coverdale, p. 284, i. Goostly Pinimes,

Percy Society, 1842. [A. p. 105; and H. i. p. 74.]

2. 1539. Kiles Coverdals, p. 284, i. Geostly Pealencs, p. 448, i.

3. 1547. John Oroke. Thirteen Pealens tr. in the Reign of Henry VIII. Edited by Sir Alexander Croke, for the Percy Society, 1844.

4. 1547. Heary Howard, Earl of Surrey. Reprinted in the Aldine and other critisons of Surrey's Foens. (Ps. 55, 73, 88.) [H. J. p. 86.]

5. 1848. Gusen Elizabeth. Ps. 14, at the end of Goddy Mediciation of the Christian sost, Sc., by Margaret, Q. of Navarra, and translated by the Princess Elizabeth. Reprinted in the Appondix to Cotton's list (as above), 1852. [F. p. 7; H. i. p. 146.]

6. 1848, c. T. Sternhold. Ninsteen Pastma; 2nd cd. 1849, 37 Paslms. See Old Vernion, § n.

7. 1849. Bir Thomas Wystt. The 7 Penticulal Paslmer drawen into English meter, Reprinted in the Aldine ed. of Wystt's Poense, [H. i. p. 81.]

9. 1849. Bir Thomas Wystt. The 7 Penticulal Paslmer drawen into English meter, Reprinted in the Audit. ed. of Wystt's Poense, [H. i. p. 81.]

9. 1849. Bir Thomas Bmith. Version of about a dotten paslms in a us. in the Brit. Mus. (Reg. 1) A. 2011. ed. of Wystt's Poense, [H. i. p. 81.]

9. 1849. Bir Thomas Wystt. The 7 Penticulial Paslmer drawen into English meter, by Sir Thomas Smith. Knight, then prisoner in the Power of London; with March. Nath. Cheer. 1849. [H. i. p. 16.]

10. 1850. John Hall. M.D., 12 poelins in his The Court of Virtue; containing many Holy or Spretuces, as well of Holy Scripture as others, with March Notes, [F. p. 196; H. i. p. 179.]

11. 1850. William Hunnia. (See also No. 32.) Certaine Paulence footen out of the Patalter of David, and drawen forth into Englythe meter. [F. p. 143; H. i. p. 152.]

and drawen forth into Englyshe meter. [F. p. 143; E. i. p. 152.]

12. 152.]

13. 1551. William Forrest, un in the Brit, Mun, (Reg. 17, A. exi.) Certayne Fraince of Davyd in Mecatre, added to maister Sterneholds, and oothers, by William Forreste, 1531. This is dedicated to Edward, Duke of Somerset. [H. i. p. 164.]

13. 1561. T. Béranhold and J. Hopkins. 3rd ed. of Sternhold, in which 7 versions by Hopkins are added, See Old Version, § 11.

14. 1552. John Bals. Ps. 23, and 132, appended to his Expositulation, or complaynte against the biasphemics of a frantic priest in Hamshyre.

15. 1562. Francis Beager. 19 pssims verafied in his Certayne Pasines select out of the Phalter of Haufand drawn into Englyshe Meter, with Notes to every Protons in till to Synae, by F. & S. [H. i. p. 168.]

Psalme in 114 to Synge, by F. & S. [H. i. p. 168.]

18. 1556. Anglo-Genevan Psalter. See Old Version, $ trr, 17. 1556. Miles Huggarde. A short treatise in

18. 1588. William Eethe. In addition to his versions noted under O. Version, and Scothish Hymnody, there is one of Ps. 94 printed at the end of John Knox's Appellation. (See p. 624, I.)

19. 1589-81. 7. Sternhold and others. See Old

Version, 66 1 v., v.

20. 1560, c. Katthew Parker, p. 882, i. [G, p. 63.]

21. 1561. Anglo-Genevan Psalter. See Old Veruion, 6 (1). 22. 1562.

22. 1863. Sternhold and Hopkins. The complete English Psatter. See Old Version, 5 vii. 23. 1863. Thomas Boenn. Ps. 193 and 112, in his Comfortable Epistle to the Afficiet People of God. 24. 1864. Scottish Psatter. See Scottish Hymnody.

 1666. John Rits. Two pealms. [F, p. 387.]
 1568. John Wedderburn (q.v.).
 1579. c. Sir John Harrington. Version of the 26. 1563, John Wedderburn (q.v.).
27. 1570, c. Sir John Harrington. Version of the Psalms in Me. in the Douce Collection in the Bodieian, Spectmens in Park's ed. of the Naga Antique, 1864. [F. p. 115.]
28. 1674. Lady Elizabeth Tyrwhitt. In her tract Morring and Evening Praises with divers Psalms, Simons and Medical Cost.

Hymns, and Meditations.

29. 1575. George Gascoigne (p. 405, i.). Ps. 130 in

29. 1575. George Gascoigne (p. 405, i.). Ps. 130 in his A Brandraths sandrat Flowres, &c.

30. 1563. Richard Stanyhurst. Four versions (Ps. i.-iv.) at the end of his tr. of the Enrid. Spectmen in H. i. p. 189. Copy of the Eneid in the Bodlelan. The versions are in English beautieters.

31. 1563. William Byrd. Redins: Praimet, Sonnet, and Songs of Sadnett and Piety. (F. p. 222.)

22. 1585. William Runnis. (See also No. 11.)

32. 1586. William Runnis. (See also No. 11.)

33. 1587. Sir Philip Bidney, and Harry, Countess of Fembroks (g.v.).

33. 1087. OF Finite Manager, [F. p. 364.]
34. 1589. Richard Robinson. [F. p. 364.]
35. 1591. Abraham France. Eight versions in his The Countess of Pembroke's Loy Church, and Emanager II in 228.]

ins The Countess of Penniones by Church, and Ena-nuel, [F. p. 237; H. i. p. 226] 38. 1594. Henry Lok. Sundry Pealms of David, translated into werse, as briefly and significantly as the scope of the test will suffer. (Bodlelan, 1694.) Also Boclesiastes, otherwise called the Preacher; containing Sciences, vincrouse clases the Frencher; containing Salomon's Germans, or Commentariet (at may probably be collected), upon the 49 Fraime of David, Atg Jather, &c. London: Rich. Field, 1597. [F. p. 136; H. i. p. 223.] See also the Fuller Workhite Miscellande, H. 1871. 37. 1597. Michael Ocsowarth, circa 1597. Some select Design (F. n. Ass.)

37. 1997. michael tonowalan, to the last. College select Pealins. (F. p. 406.)
38. 1800, c. Sir John Davies. His Metaphrane of Ps. 1-50, and a few others remained in Ms. until 1876, when they were included in Dr. Grosart's ed. of Davies's Poetical Works in his Fuller Worthier Library.

32. 1601. Robert of Richard Verstegan. Odes in Imitation of the vis. Penitential Psalms, with Sundry other Poems and Ditties tending to devotion and piety.

other Poems and Diffies tending to devotes one proves.

By K. V. [H. i. p. 132.]

40. 1603. Hamy Bod. Metrical versions of certain Patiens, by "H. D." (Cambridge University Library); and, Al the Petilner of Bund, orth certens Sunges and Canticles of Eures, Debora, and others, not formerly entant for Sung, So., 1620, [F. p. 449; G. p. 71; H. i. p. 250.] See also No. 50.

41. 1804. Bizabeth Grymenton. Miscellanea: Sunges melitations, memoratines. In this are Odes prayers, mediations, memoratines. In this are Odes in imitation of the seven Pseutentiall Praymes, in seven seneral kinds of verse. [F. p. 412.] 42. 1805. Alexander Montgomery. The Mindes Melodie: Contayning certayns Psalmes of the Kinglis Prophete David, applied to a new and pleasant time, verie comfortable to everie one that is rightlif acquainted verte comfortable to everie one that is rightlif acquainted thereistik. Fourteen versions. [H. i. p. 242.]

43. 1607. Bp. Joseph Hall. Some few of David's Ptainnes metaphrazed in metre (i.-z.) In his Works, vii. p. 183. 8vo sittion. [H. il. p. 29.] Reprinted in Singer's ed. of Bp. Hall's Poena, 1824; in Peter Hall's ed. of the same, 1838; and in Dr. Grosart's private reprint. [A. p. 25; E. ii. p. 28.]
44. 1813. Heary Ainswurth. The Booke of Psaines: Englished both in Prose and Metre. Printed at Amsterdam, [G. p. 70; H. i. p. 245.] See p. 33, i. 45. 1619. Six John Davies, of Hereford. The Penitential Psaines, printed as the "Poleful Dove," in his Muses Sacrifice. Reprinted in Grosart's Chertsey Worthest Library.

46. 1613. Sir Thomas Leighton. Seven pentiential Paalms in his Tears, or Lamentations of a Sorrougust

47. 1615. Sir Edwin Sandys. Fiftle Select Prolints of David, and Others. [H. 1, p. 271.]

48. 1615. David Murray. A Paraphrase of Ps. 104, Reprinted for the Bannatype Club, 1623.

49. 1619. George Wither, Preparation to the Prolifer. Reprinted in the Spenser Society's reprint of Wither. See also No. 56.

Wither: See also No. 56.

50. 1620. Henry Dod. See No. 40.

51. 1620. C. Davison, F. Davison, J. Bryan, R. Gipps. Versions by these four writers are given in a se. in the Brit. Mus. (Hart. 6830) entitled Disers selected Pading of David (in worse) of a different constitution of the second of the set of the David of the Res. David on the second of the posure from those used in Church. By Fra, Davison, posters from tase used in tauren. By Fig. Davison, Etg., deceased, and other gentlemen. (A. pp. 31, 232, 245; F. pp. 318-337; R. I. pp. 235-240.) All the Pasims of the two Davisoon, with spectmens of the other writers, and also of T. Carry, are printed from another Ms. in Brooke's edition of Giles Hetcher, Lond. Griffith, Farran, &c., 1888.

another Ms. in Brooke's edition of Giles Fietcher, Lond. Gilfillh, Farein, &c., 1833.

52. 1625. Francis Broom. Certain Pealines in Ferre. Reprinted in Grosait's Fuller Worthies Miscellanies, vol. 1, 1870. [H. i. p. 298.]

53. 1630, o. Earl of Cumberland. A Ms. in the Rollicius, Poetical Translations of some Pialini, and the Song of Solomon, with other Pivine Poems. Ry that noble and religious Soule now sainted in heaven, the right honourable Henry Earle of Cumberland, &c. Sixteen pealins in metre. [H. ii. p. 269.]

54. 1631. Jannes I. See fir W. Alexander, p. 39, i.; and Boottish Hymnody, § 11. 3. [G. p. 74.]

55. 1631. John Viours. England's Halifuigh for God's tratious Benediction; with some Pratims of Janid in verse. Nineteen versions. [H. i. p. 274.]

56. 1632. George Wither, q.v. (See also No. 49.)
The Pratims translated into Lyric Verse, according to the scope of the Original; and Illustrated with a short drymnent and a brief Prayer, or Meditation, before and after every Pratim. By George Wither. Imprinced in the Netherlands, &c. [A. p. 118; G. p. 76; H. il. p. 11; L. p. 1.]

In the Metherianus, we have properly p. 511, id. Seven versions in Playford's Music Book. Reprinted in Grosart's Faller Worthies Library, 1874. [H. i. p. 279.] 58. 1633. John Bonns. Ps. 137 in his Poems, 1633, and later editions

and later entitions.

59. 1638. Phineas Flatcher, p. 278, i. Six versions in Histolianies appended to his Purple Island. [A. In Miscellance appended to his surgest manner. Leaf p. 218; and H. if. p. 16.]

50. 1634. Richard Geodridge. A Paraphrase of the whole Pasiter, and additional versions of more than 100 pasims. [H. if. 53.]

51. 1636. George Sandys (q.v.) A Paraphrase upon the furt booke of the Pasiters of David. [A. p. 53; G. p. 78; H. 1. p. 288.]

62. 1638. Anonymous. The Pasims in Metro, alternat from the Old Version.

upon the first booke of the Paumer of David. [A. p. 35; 6. p. 78; H. 1. p. 288.]
62. 1838. Anonymous. The Psalms in Metre, altered from the Old Version.
63. 1698. B. B. The Ptalmer of David the King and Prophet and of other holy Prophets, paraphrased in English: conferred with the Hebrew vertic, set forth by B. Arias Montanes, together with the Latin, Orice Spituagint, and Challee Paraphrases. By R. B. Jondon: Printed by Robert Young, for Francis Constable, and are to be said at his shop under St. Martins Church, neere Ludgate, 1638. The "R. B." is sometimes said to mean Robert Durnaby (Mr. Taylor supports this view), and at other times Richard Brothesite. We have no evidence which enables us to decide for either, andmustleave it an open question. [G. p. 81.]
64. 1698. A Rotterdam Version. The Rock of Praimes in Emplish Retter. Printed for Henry Tailly, Bookneller, Rotterdam. (Lambeth Library.) [G. p. 80.]
65. 1640. The Bay Paulser, 119, i., and American Hymnody, 61. [G. p. 81.]
66. 1640. Anonymous. Paraphrase of the entire Salms. In the Bodelan Library. Specimen in Cotton's Appendix, p. 148.

Appendix, p. 148. 67. 1641. Francis Rous [Rouse]. See Scottish

67. 1641. Francis Rous [Rouse]. See Scottish Hymmody. [G. p. 84.]
68. 1642. William Slatyar. Praintes or Songs of Zion, 1642, reprinted as The Praintes of Plank, in 4 Languages and in 4 Parts; Set to ye Traces of our Church. By W. S. 1653. [R. 1.-axii. in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and English. [H. 1. 303.]
68. 1642. F. Thorne. The Sout's Solace in Times of Trouble, collected out of the Praintes of David. (3rd ed., 1652.)

ed., 1652.)

70. 1644. William Barton. See p. 116, ii. (G. p. 87.]
71. 1644. Francis Roberts. The Book of Praises, &c., Afterwards embedied in his Clavis Bibliorum, the

Rey to the Bible, unlocking the Richert Treasury of the Holy Scriptures, 1875 [R. H. D. 62.] See Nos. 88, 91, 72. 1845. John Milton, p. 787, i. 73. 1848. Eachary Boyd, p. 187, ii. [G. p. 89.] 74. 1849. Richard Orashaw, p. 288, i. 75. 1850. Soottish Psalter. Authorised edition. See Scottish Hymnody, 6 UF. [G. p. 90.] 78. 1850. New England. The Feders, Hymns, and Spiritual Sings of the Old and New Testament, faithfully translated into English Meter, for the Editication and Comfort of the Saints, in Public and Private capecially in New England. London, Printed for Richard Chiescell, at the Hose and Crown, in St. Paul's Church Fard. [Brit. May.] This was mainly a revised various of Rous's Protter toads by President Dimiter of Harvard College, Richard Lyon, and thirty others. It had a large circulation and was in extensive use for imany years. [G. p. 91.]

had a large circulation and was in extensive on an inner years, [6, p. 91.]

77. 1650. Heavy Vaughan (q. v.).

78. 1651. Bp. Heavy King. The Praises of David from the New Translation of the Bible turned into Meeter. To be sung after the Old Tanes used in the

The standard of the standard o

Aldine edition. Aldine edition.

80. 1861, o. Thomas, Lord Fairfax, the Parliamentary General "not only veraffed the Painns, but other parts of Scripture; but it is probable, says Granger, 'they were never thought worth printing.' The MS. of Walffax's version of the Paaline was formerly in the Museum of the excellent Raiph Thoresby, at Leeds, as he tells us in his Broatus Leodienis, p. 510." [H. ii. 18, note.] This MS. passed through the collection of the Duke of Sumex into that of Dr. Bilss. A dealled account of it is given in the Parker to Catton's Millings. of the Duke of Sumex into that of Dr. Bilss. A detailed account of it is given in the Preface to Cotton's Editions of the Daite of Sumex into that of Dr. Bilss. A definited account of it is given in the Freface to Cotton's Editions of the Bible, 1832.

81. 1654. John White, David's Praims in Metre, agreeable to the Hebrew, to be sung in usual Tunes, to the benefit of the Churches of Christ. By the Reverend Mr. John White, Hintster of God's Word in Dorchester. London, printed by E. Griffin for J. Hothwei, at the Fountain and Bear in Goldantit's Row in Cheapside. 1655. [G. p. 83; H. H. p. 68.]

82. 1655. Henry Lawes. Five versions in Select Praims of a new Translation.

83. 1656. Abraham Cowley. Pasim 114 in his Bavideis, and again in later eds. of his Poems.

84. 1861. Samuel Leigh. Samuelis Primitise, or An Essay towards a Metrical version of the whole Book of Pusimes. Omnosed when attended with the disactional spice of the South of Chestan Library.) [H. ii. p. 55.]

85. 1686. Lard Coloraine. (See also No. 90.) The Ascents of the Sout, on Novid's Mount towards God's

85. 1686. Lard Coloraine. (See also No. 90.) The Ascents of the Soul, on Pavid's Mount towards God's House. Being Paraphrases on the Pifteen Psalms of

so. 1888. Lard Colorans. (See 280 No. 91.) 286.
Ascents of the Soul, or Invoids Mount towards God's House. Being Paraphrases on the Fifteen Frains of House. Being Paraphrases on the Fifteen Frains of Houses. Being Paraphrases on the Fifteen Frains of Houses. Princed into English, Anno Dom., 1865 (Brit. Mas. ed. 1881). In the same volume there is, also by Lord Colerains, La Scala Sanda: or a Scale of Devotions, Musical and Gradual, Being Devocants on the Fifteen Paulms of Degrees, in Metre, with Contemplations and Collects upon them in Proc., 1870. [A. p. 225; and R. il., p. 83.] 36. 1866. Francis Roberts. His Cluvis Bibliorum. The key of the Bible, unlocking the Richest Treasury of the Roly Scriptures, appeared in 1848 and 1874. A few copies of the Paulus had previously been pub, accommonsly and in a separate form as The Rook of Praise. This was identified as the work of Roberts by Mr. A. Gardyne, of Hackney. See also Nos. 71, 91. [G. p. 99.] 37. 1867. Bp. Samuel Woodford. A Paraphrase in English Verse, upon the Rooks of the Paulus, by Sam. Woodford, S. R. S. The us, is in the Brit. Mus. (Bart, 1883.) [R. ii. p. 73.] The stitle of the lat ed., 1667, was, A Paraphrase upon the Paulms of David. By Sam Pullen, near the Pusing, is Little Britain. The tille of the ed. of 1678 was much fuller; A Paraphrase upon the Paulms of David. By Sam Pullen, near the Pusing, is Little Britain. The tille of the ed. of 1678 was much fuller; A Paraphrase upon the Paulms of David. By Sam Pullen, near the Pusing, is Little Britain. The tille of the 184 ed., 1667, was, A Paraphrase upon the Paulms of David. By Sam Pullen, near the Pusing, is Little Britain. The tille of the 184 ed., 1667, was, A Paraphrase upon the Paulms of David. By Sam Pullen, near the Pusing, is Little Britain. The tille of the 184 ed., 1667, was, Paraphrase as above (12, 52, 70, 130). [S. ii. p. 77.]

[R. ii. p. 77.] 69. 1685. Elles Smyth. Pealest of King David, Paraphresed and turned into English verse, according to the Common Metre, at they are usually sung in Parish Churches. [G. p. 98; H. N. p. 57; L. p. 178.]

90. 1670. Lord Colerains. See No. 86.
91. 1676. Francis Roberts. See No. 86. The Complete Psalter in his Clauke Filbitorum of this year, as Clavis Bibliorum. The Key of the Hibble, unlocking the richest Francium of the Joby Striptures, etc., where unto are added the Metrical Version of the whole Book of Prailines, Immediately out of the Hebrew: And the Analytical Exposition of every Psalim. Fourth edition, diligently revised. By Francis Roberts. [G. p. 100.]
92. 1679. John Patrick. Century of Select Praims for the Use of the Charter House, 1679. Expanded into the complete Fraiter sa, The Psalims of David in Mericis, 1691., with the Tunce used in Parish Charches, 1694.
93. 1680. James Chamberlayms. A Secret Poem on the Birth. Miracles, Beath. Sepalture, Resurrection, and Ascension of the Most Holy Jesus. Also Bighteen of David's Praims, Paraphrased; the Lamestations und Accessom is the most many seates. Also Eighteen of David's Plaints, Paraphrased; the Lamentations of Jeremich; and Poems on Several Occasions, London, Copy in the Cambridge University Library. (E. II.

p. 80.)

94. 1682. Richard Goodridge. The Ptatter or Psalma Paraphras'd in Verte. Completed ed., 1684. 3rd ed., 1685. [A. p. 34; G. p. 101; K. U. p. 53; L. p. 44.] See also No. 60.

98. 1983. John Oldham. Paalm 137 in his Remains, 96. 1687. John Norris. Four versions in his A Collection of Miscellantes. (3rd ed., 1699.) [H. il. p. 83.] 97. 1888. Simon Ford.

97. 1698. Simon Ford. A New Vertion of the Praims of David, in Metre, Smooth, plain and easie to the most ordinary capacities: by Simon Ford, D.D., &c. [A. p. 170; G. p. 103; H. il. p. 92.]
98. 1699. William Vilant. Pialins, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, in two Parts. Edinburgh.
98. 1699. Charles Cotton. Pealm 8 in his Poems, [H. ii. p. 93; L. p. 54.]
100. 1691. Benjamin Kesoh, p. 610, i. Seventeen versions in his Spiritual Melody, 101. 1691. Robert Fleming. Several Psalms diversely rendered in his The Mirror of Divine Love Unwalled, in a Protical Faranhras of the High and Entertain Song A New Version of the removed in me one survey of Drovne Love Unsailed, in a Proclinal Paraphrase of the High and Hysteriaus Song of Solomon: Whereunto is added a Miscellany of several other Premis, Secret and Moral. By Robert Fleming, jun., V.D.M., 1691. [R. if. p. 162.]

102. 1692. Richard Baxter. See p. 118, il. [G. p. 105.]

p. 105. 1694. Richard Barrier. See p. 118, il. [G. p. 105.]
103. 1694. Denial Warner. A Selection from the Pullons, composed in two Parts. A revision of the Old Version.

Version.

104. 1694. John Mason. See p. 718, 1.

105. 1695. H. Tate and N. Brady. See New Version, p. 789, i., and Fraiters, English. 6 XIII.

105. 1695. Luke Milbourne. The Funloss of David in English Metre. Translated from the Original, and suited to all the Translated from the Original, and suited to all the Translated from the Original, and suited to all the Translated from the Churches. By Inske Milbourne, a Presbyter of the Church of England. Dedicated to His Highness the Duke of Gloucester. London, printed for W. Rogers at the Sun, R. Clasell at the Peacock, and B. Tooke at the Middle Temple Gate, Flest Street. [G. p. 109.]

107. 1698. John Phillips. Daveidos, or A Specimen of some of David's Paulms in metre. This work is middled 1798.

108. 1700. Joseph Stempsti (G.v.) Ps. 45 printed miscated 1798,

109. 1700. Joseph Stemett (q.v.) Ps. 45 printed with his version of Solomon's Song.
109. 1700. Samuel Wesley (q.v.) Six in his Plous Communicant; and others in his Life of Christ.
110. 1701. James Gibbs. The first litteen Psalms of Bavid.

111. 1704. Charles Darby. The Book of Prolons in English Metre, The Newest Version Fitted to the Com-

Brighth Metre, The Rewest Version Filted to the Common Tunes. London, prohibed for Thomas Parisherss, at the Bible and Three Crowns in Cheapside. (6, p. 110, 112, 1706. Basil Kennett. An Ensy towards a Paraphrase on the Pallme in English Ferie. To which is added a Paraphrase on the third chapter of the Revelation. London, 1708. (H. il. p. 127.) 113. 1707. Bammel Cobb. Three versions in his Poems on Scueral Occasions. (H. il. p. 133.) 114. 1712. Jaseph Addison, p. 16, if. 115. 1712. Anonymous. Pr. 29 in Verse. 116. 1712. Anonymous. Pr. 29 in Verse. 116. 1714. Bright Addison, p. 16, if. (6, p. 96.) 117. 1713. Daniel Burgess, p. 104, ii. (G. p. 111.) 118. 1718. Cotton Mather. Padlerism Americanum. The Book of Padms in a Translation Exactly conformed unto the University such in the Runk Verse, Filted with the Tunes commonly used in our Churches, Filted with the Tunes commonly used in our Churches.

only orners and the Congenal: Sut at the Brank verte, which put in over Churches, which pure aftering is accompanied with illustrations, digging for Hidden Treasures in it... Whereto are added some other portions of the Sacred Scriptures, to enrich the cantional. Boston. in N. E. [6, p. 112]

1719. Isano Watta (q.v.).
 120. 1730. Simon Browns, p. 186, ii.
 121. 1721. Sir Richard Blackmore, p. 144, ii. [O.

p. 115.) 122. 1722. Rishard Daniel. Scient Pic. 122. 1722. Bishard Daniel. (See also No. 126.) A Furophrase on some Scient Pasims. By the Reverend Mr. Richard Daniel, Dans of Armagh, the Chaplain of his Grace the Lord Lieutenant. London, Printed for Bernard Lintot, between the Temple Gales, in Fleet Street, 1722, (H. ii. p. 170.) 123. 1739. Thomas Coney. Eighteen varsions in his

The Devout Soul.

124. 1736. Various. Pasims in Verse selected from Addison, Denham, &c., in An Essay for composing a Harmony between the Psalms, and other parts of the

126. 1787. Walter Harte. Two versions in his Poems. (a., 176, 1787, 196, 1787, 125. 1787. Welter Harts. Two versions in his Poems. [H, ip. 200.]

126. 1787. Richard Daniel, (See also No. 122.)
The Seven pentential Pashus as The Royal Pentient.
127. 1780. George Atwood. The cxix. Pa. Para-phrased in English Verse.

1786. John Burton. Pe. 104, 137, in his Sacra

128. 1786. John Burton. Ps. 104, 137, in his Sacra Striphiest locorum quorendant versio medica.
129. 1787. John Wesley, Samuel Wesley, jun., and Tharies Wesley. See Wesley Family.
130. 1783. Wilhiam Tansur. Ps. 1, 22, in his Hednest on Earth, or The Beasity of Holinett.
131. 1788. Richard Lovelyn. Ps. 114, 137, in his Latin and English Poeus. By a Centleman of the University of Cambridge.
132. 1789. Kilabeth Eows. Several vertions in her Miscellaneous Works. [A. p. 118; H. ii, 1.77.]

p. 117.]
133. 1740. Samuel Bayse. Ps. 4, 42, in his Poetry on Various Occasions, and in H. il. p. 180.
134. 1740. Mary Lespor. Various in her Poems.
Pub. posthymously in 1748.
135. 1745. Samuel Say. Ps. 87 in his Poems.
136. 1746. William Ramilton. Ps. 55 in his Poems.

and in R. II. p. 185.
197. 1748. Christopher Pitt (d. 1748). Reprinted in Anderson and Chalmers's British Posts. [A. p. 38;

H. H. p. 182.)
128. 1749. Jaseph Trapp. To the 3rd ed. of his Thoughts upon the Four Last Things, 1749, are added paraphrase of three Pealma.

129. 1749. Thomas Blacklock, p. 144, ii.
140. 1750. Thomas Gibbons, p. 280, i.
141. 1751. Samual [cometimes Hanry] Pike. The

171. 1751. Samual [cometimes Harry] Pike. The Book of Patims in Metre. [G. p. 118.] 142. 1751. Anonymum. Six versions in Hys. for the Use of the Congregation in Grey Engle Street, Spitalfields.

143. 1752. John Barnard. A New Version of the Praimt of David, with several Hymns out of the Old and New Testament. Fitted to the Tunes used in the Churchet. By John Barrand, Patter of a Church at Marblehead, Buston, N.E. printed by J. Broper, for T. Leverett, in Cornhill. [6, p. 119.] 144. 1784. Thomas Gradeck. (H. H. p. 199.] A 144. 1754. Thomas Gradock. (H. li. p. 199.) A Poetical Translation of the Pialms of David, from Buckanan's Latin (nto English Verse. By the Rev. Thomas Cradock Rector of St. Thomas's Parish, Balti-Thomas Cradock, Rector of St. Thomas's Parith, Baltimore, Haryland. By permitrion of the Mationers' Company. Landon, printed for Mrs. Ann Cradock, at Wells, in Somerostative, and old by R. Ware, on Ludgett Hill. [6, p. 120.]

145. 1754. Blisabeth Tollet. Ps. 96 in her Poems on Several Geography.

145. 1754. Rimabeth Tollet. Pg. 96 in her Poems on Several Occasions, &c. [H. il. p. 199.]
146. 1754. Beaplem Wheatland and Tipping Sylvester. The Pealiss of David translated into Heroic Verse, in an Literal a Manner as Physica and Metre will allow. London, printed for S. Birl in Ave Mary Lane, and J. Breckland in Paternoster Rose. With Arguments to each Psalm, and Raplanstory Notes. Dedicated to His Royal Highness, George, Prince of Wales, etc., by Stephen Wheatland and Tipping Sylvester. [A. p. 60; G. p. 121; H. ii. p. 197.]
147. 1755. Amonymous. Ps. 23 in A Coll. of Bys. for the Use of the Congregation in Margaret Street, Oxford Market.
148. 1755. Philip Doddeldge, p. 305, i.

Oxford Market.

148. 1785. Philip Doddridge, p. 305, i.

148. 1785. Barf Easters, p. 718, i.

150. 1785. Bp. Francis Haro. A New English Translation of the Poslms from the Original Hebrew, reduced to Metre by the late Bishop Hare; .... By Thomast Edward, M.A., Fellow of Care College, Cambridge, Cambridge, printed by J. Bentham, Printer to the University, for B. Dod, in Am Mary Lane, London. [6, p. 121.]

151. 1786. Heary Doll (q.v.).

152. 1787. Anonymsus. A Paraphrase of Fs. 119,

143, 143, 120, 13, 144, 130, by an "American Gentle-

153. 1757. Thomas Prince. The Pealms, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs of the Old and New Testament, faithfully translated into English Metre. Being the New England Padm-Book Revised and Improved, by an Endeavour after a yet neaves and responen by an Endeavour after a yet neaver approach to the Inspired Original, as well as to the Indies of Poetry. By T. Prince. Boston, N. E., printed by Thomas and John Fleet, at the Heart and Crown in Cornhill. This was a revision of the Bay Poelius, p. 119, i. [G. 179]

164. 1759. George Fenwick. The Pealter in its Ortginal Form, or the Book of Pealms reduced to Lines, in an Easy and Pamillar Style, and a kind of Blank Verse on Eary and Fountiar Style, and a kind of Blank Verse in Unequal Macaures: answering for the most part to the Original Lines, as supposed to contain each a senience, or some Entire part of one. With arguments, etc. London, printed for T. Longman, in Paternoster Row. [6. p. 124.]

185. 1780. Anne Steele (q.v.).

186. 1780. William Julius Mickle. Ps. 68. [A. p. 129; H. il. p. 236.] William Julius Mickle. Ps. 68. [A. p. 130; I. 1781. James Gibbs. The First Fifteen Pealms of Paulal translated into Larie Verse, &c. [H. ll. p.

of David, translated into Lyric Verse, &co. [H. II. p.

168. 1761. John Robson. The First Book of the Pulms of David, Translated into English Verse of Reroic Beasure, with Arguments and Notes. [H. II. p.

208.]
159. 1763. Mrs. Wharton. Ps. & Hys. by Mrs.
Wharton, 2nd ed., with Appendée. Dr. Blies had a copy, but the book seems now to be unknown.
160. 1764. James Fanch, p. 364, i.

160. 1784. James Fanch, p. 364, i. 161. 1765. James Merrick, p. 725, ii. 162. 1766. Christopher Smart. A P. 8, ii. [G. p. 124.] A Translation of 162, 1765. Christopher Smart. A Franklitin of the Pailms of David, altempted in the Spirit of Christianity, and Adapted to the Divine Service. By Christopher Smart, A.M., Sometime Fillow of Frendroke Hall, Combridge, and Scholar of the University. London. Frinted by Dryden Leach for the author. [Q. p. 125.]

163. 1786. Christopher Collum and T. Vance. The Praints in Verte, designed at an improvement on the old versions of the Hebrew. Dublin, A revision of 8th versions of the Bentus.

164. 1787. Reformed Protestant Dutch Pealier.
The Praises of David, with the Ten Communicaments, Creed, Lord's Prayer, etc. in Hetre, for the use of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of the City of New Tenh. Venh. weighted by James Paylor, at the Fork. New York, printed by James Parker, at the New Printing Office, in Beaver Street. This is mainly from the New Version, "some of the Psalms being transcribed verbatim . . . . others altered so as to fit them to the Music in the Dutch Churches." [G.

fit them to the cross of the large of the la

167. 1769. Anne Steele (q.v.), in Aso and Evana's Baptist Sciention, Bristol.
168. 1773. James Maxwell. [G. p. 128; H. ft. p. 220.] p. 720.1.
169. 1776. John Ogilvie. Ps. 148 in Bp. Horne's Commentory on the Bk. of Paalms. Previously in Collision. Examp. 1269.

Commentary on the Bit. of Praims. Previously in Ogitivie's Forms, 1768.

170. 1790. Moses Browns, p. 138, i., where it is noted that his paraphrases previously appeared in 1752.

171. 1780. Ananymous. Sacred Odes on the Praims of Lavid, Paraphrased from the Original Hebrew.

172. 1781. Benjamin Williams. The Book of Praims as Transitied, Paraphrased, or metaded by some of the most eminent English Poets, vic.: Addison, Blacklock, Brady, dc. (16 names in all), and several exters. And adapted to Christian Worthp in a form The most likely to give general Satisfaction.

The most likely to give general Satisfaction of Sy Benj. Williams, Saliebury. Printed and sold by Collins and Johnson, MINCLIAII. Various versions of each Pralm are given. There are several surymous, 173. 1768. William Cowper, p. 265, i. Ps. 137 in his Poems.

178. 1787. Rev. — Keen. Two versions in Mis-cellaneous Pieces by a Clergysten of Northamptonshire. 172. 1790. John Ryland, p. 983, i. 180. 1790. Thomas May. Three versions in his Poessa. [H. ii. p. 288.] 181. 1791. Mathaniel Cotton, p. 884, i. Ps. 13, 42, in his Various Pieces in Verse, &c. [A. p. 44; and

H. H. P. 231.]

182. 1794. The Tingstadins Version. The Pealms of Bauid. A New and Improved Version. London, printed for M. Priestly (late Trapp), Paternoster Ross, and J. Matthews, in the Strand, near Charing Cross.

"This version was made from a translation of the Paulms.

"This version was made from a translation of the Fratims by John Adam Tingstadius, p.b., Professor of Criental Languages at the University of Upsal, by command of Gustavus III. of Sweden." [P. p. 131.]
183, 1797. William Mason, p. 717, L.
184. 1787. Elianna Winobester, The Praims of David versified from a New Translation, and adapted to Christian Worship. Particularly intended for the use of such Christians as believe in the universal and members of the period of the surface of Gal. samilisted muta little falled. bounded Lave of God, manifested unto all His fallen creatures by Christ Jesus. London, printed for the Author, and told by Teulon, No. 100 Houndeditch, de.

(G. p. 192.)
185. 1800. Timothy Dwight, p. 316, ii.
186. 1800. Robert Burns, p. 187, i.
187, 1801. Joseph Octile, p. 264, i. [G. p. 193.]
188. 1801. Richard Cumberland. A Postical version of Certain Psalms of David. 50 versions. [A. p.

42; H. il. p. 269.] is9. 1906. Anonymous. A (bil. of Psaisus from various sources, with some Originals. 190. 1806. Ersamus Middleton. Versions and Ind-

190. 1806. Arranges tations of the Pesitins.

131. 1808. Thomas Dennis. A New Version of the Pesitins in Blank Verse with a lattin Version of the Eighth Praism in Alacie Verse, by the Rev. Thomas Paralle of Hastemere, Surrey. London, printed than it Curale of Hastemere, Surrey.

pennis, Curale of Hasiemere, Surrey. London, printed for J. White, Horace's Head, Fiest Street. 16, p. 134; H. il. p. 270] 1809. John Stow. A Version of the Fraims of

182. 1809. John Stow. A revious of the ruma of Scripture; and adopted, by variety of measure, to all the Husic used in the Versions of Sternhold and Hopkins and of Brady and Tate. By a Lay Member of the Church of England, 3rd ed., 1842. [G. p. 135.]
193. 1811. William Samuel Towers. A version of

193. 1811. William Samuel Towers, A version of the Psaims. By the late William Samuel Towers, Esq. Printed at the very particular request of several of the Author's friends. London. [G. p. 138; H. il. p. 272.] 194. 1811. William Goode, p. 441, il. [G. p. 139.] 195. 1811. Robert Wolseley. A Poetical Para-phrase of a Select Fortion of the Book of Praims. [H. il. p. 274.]

196. 1815. Robert Donald. The Praims of David, on Christian Experience. By R. D., Woking, Surrey.

66 C. 1816. H. il. p. 278.]
197. 1816. John Bowdler, p. 166, i.
198. 1819. Edward H. Thurlew (Lord Thurlew).
Pk. 148 in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1819. (H. ii. p.

1820. James Neligan. The Psalme Vereified.

205.]
199. 1820. James Meligan. The Prainse Vereified.
Dublin.
200. 1820. Henry Lows. Twenty versions in his Ps. & Hys. adapted to the Services of the Church of England for every Sunday and Holiday throughout the Fear. [E. Il, p. 201.]
201. 1820. G. F. Helford. The Book of Prains in France with a thort Explanatory Preface to suck Prains, taken from the Works of Different Writers on the Prains, but chiefly from Bishop Horne's Commenstry. Londons, sold by Rivingtons and Haukards.
Printed by the Philanthropical Society, St. George's Fleids. [G. p. 141.]
202. 1820. Anonymous. Additional Prainsody, comprising metrical versions of more than 30 pealms or portions of pealms, together with hymns, by various innamed authors. Elimburgh. This was an unpublished Draft, and is noted under Scattish Hymnody, vt. 1.
203. 1820. James Elmsston, p. 821, ii. Ps. 23, 24 in his Sacred Logics, 1820.
264. 1921. William Orldwell, The Book of Praises.
The Praints, or Sacret Odes of the Royal Padinsist
David, and others, the Prophets of Jekavak, in metre.
[G. p. 142; H. ii. p. 294.]

Maria, and charts, the response of ventures, in master. [6, p. 142, ]
205, 1891, Baril Woodd (q.v.), [6, p. 142,] 206, 1891, Alexander Scott. Ps. 1, 51, in Scottish Verse. Edited by Dr. Laing, Edinburgh, privately printed.

rinted. 207. 1382. Thomas Dale, p. 278, i. 208. 1932. James Montgomery, p. 768, L. [G.

1823. Sir John Bowring. Ps. 90 in his Mating 200.

and Veppers, 1823.
210. 1823. James Unber. A New Version of the Prilins; principally from the Text of Bishop Horne, by James Usher. Irinked and Published by the Author,

By James Unter. I Tristed and Published by the Author, Buckley Street, Whitcheppel. [G. p. 145.] 211. 1824. Bp. Richard Mant, p. 713, i. [G. p. 147.] 212. 1824. Baptist Med Turner, Sings of Solyma; or a New Version of the Pratms of David, the long ones being compressed in General Into Two Parts, or Portions being compressed in General Into Two Parts, or Partions of Isolanody; comprising their Prophetic Evidences and Principal Beauties, By Baylir Noel Turner, M.A., do. Lond, Rivington, [G. p. 146; H. fl. p. 312.] 213. 1824. William Knox, p. 630, i. His Songs of Israel contains 10 versions of Psalms or portions of Psalms; and his Mary of Zion (1925) 8 versions.

214. 1825. Matthew Sankey, A New Version of the Praims of David, dedicated to the Archbishop of Gashel. By Matthew Sankey, Eq., Printed for Cand J. Rivington. [G. p. 148; K. fl. p. 313.]

215. 1826. Edward Rowland. The Psalms of David, attempted in Verte, Regular, Irregular, in the way of Paraphrase, &c. By Senez. A Clergyman. [G. p. 149; E. fl. p. 315.]

216. 1827. John Maule. A New Version of the Praims of David, by John Maule, M.D. Marlivrough, published by W. W. Lucy. [G. p. 149.]

317. 1827. Evangelical Magazine for 1827, p. 513, a Version of Ps. 8.

217. 1827. Evangelical Magazine for 1827, p. 513, a Version of Ps. 3. 218. 1827. Mrs. Reid. The Hotp of Salem. By a Lady. Edinburgh. This contains versions of several

Paalms,

Pagina, 219. 1828. William Peter. (Also No. 239.) Sucred Songs; being an attempt to Paraphrase or Imitation of some Portions and Passaget of the Probast. London:

some Portions and Passaget of the Picture. Loncon: Ridgway. Contains 63 versions. Reissued in 1824 as Sucred Songt by a Layman.

220. 1828. Eargaret Patullo. The Christian Picture, a New Version of the Picture of Bookle, calculated for all Demonstrations of Christians. Edinburgh. [G. p. 150; H. li. p. 319.]

221. 1828. William Winstanley Hull, p. 542, I.

221. 1828. William Winstanley Hull, p. 548, I. In his Coll. of Prayers.
222. 1828. Sir William Mure. Three versions in the Rev. William Mur's Historic of the House of Homeallane. (See also p. 777. ii.)
222a. 1828. John Mason Good, M.D. Versions of Ps. 2, 14, 49, 90, 110, 118, in his Memoirs, by Dr. O.

221. 1831. Alfred Bartholemew. Sacred Lyrics, an altempt to render the Plains more applicable to Parochial Psalmody. [O. p. 153.]
228. 1831. Bp. Walter John Trower. A New Metrical Psalfer. By A Clergyman of the Established Church. Reprinted, 1874. [G. p. 152.]
228. 1831. E. D. Jankson. The Crucifixion and Other Poems, By a Clergyman. London, 1831. This contains Versions of 14 Psalms.
230. 1832. Edward Garrand March. The Book of 1832. Edward Garrard Marsh. The Book of Psalms translated into English Verse, and illustrates with Practical and Explanatory Notes. [G. p. 153;

H. ii. p. 323.]
231. 1822. Hanry Gahagun. A Rhyme Persion of the Liturgy Fractors. [G. p. 154; H. ii. p. 325.]
232. 1833. Anonymous. Fen versions in the Anonymous.

232. 1838. Anonymous. Ten versions in the British Magazine,
233. 1853. Aponymous. Ps. 80 in the Saturday Review, vol. 81. p. 71.
234. 1838. Charles Smith Bird. Forty-two free versions in his Rev and Ever, and other Poems.
235. 1835. George Minagrave. The Book of the Pealins of David, in Emplish Bank Verse: being a New Poetical Arrangement of the Sweet Songs of Israel, &c. [G. p. 185. H. H. p. 30.]
236. 1835. P. J. Ducard. A Paraphrase of the Pealins, executed in Blank Verse; with strict attention in the Notes and Commendaries of Bishops Hardey, Harne, &c. Ru P. J. Ducard. Exq. London. Hamilton, Adams & Co. [G. p. 185.]
238. 1834. Henry Francis Lyte, p. 706, i. [G.

238. 1834. Henry Francis Lyte, p. 706, i.

239. 1834. Heary Francis Lyte, p. 705, i. [u. p. 168.]
239. 1834. William Peter. See No. 219.
230. 1834. H. A. S. Atwood. A New Version of the Book of Frailms adapted to the purpose of Congregational Psalmody. By the New. H. A. S. Atwood, H. A., Curate of Kenilworth. Covening, printed for the Author. [G. p. 167.] See also p. 30, ii. 241. 1834. Thomas James Judkin, p. 608, ii. 242. 1834. Thomas Dickson. Paraphrases and Hymns. Bervick. Fourteen versions. [H. ii. p. 342.] 243. 1834. John Beaumont. Original Praint, or Sacred Songs, taken from the Praints of David, and imilated in the language of the Now Testament, in twenty different metres. Printed at Shrewsbury. A.

 p. 541. [
 1. 1835. Elizabeth Blackell. Twelve versions in Packes, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs. [X. ii. p. 331.]
 245. 1835. Various. Psalms in Metre selected from the Packet of David Sanctioned by the Protestant Subsecution (Turns) in the Protest Selected States. Episcopal Church in the United States. 246. 1835. Michael Thomas Sadier.

conkin versions of 8 Paslow. (H. il. p. 342.) 247. 1834. William Allen, p. 50, l. [O. p. 159.) 248. 1836. Anonymous. Three (80, 96, 139) in 243. 1836. Anonymous. Three (80, 96, 139) in Poems, Original and Translated.

249. 1858. Edward Parr. A New Version of the Padms of David in all the Various Metres suited to Padmody, divided into Subjects, designated according to Bishop terms, etc. By E. Parr. London. H. Fedlows, Indyale Hill. 2nd ed., 1347. [G. p. 10.]
250. 1837. Nethan Drake. The Harp of Judak; or Songs of Sion: being a Metrical Translation of the Praimes, &c. [H. it., 251.]
251. 1837. Fobert Bruce Baswall. About fifty versions in his Padine and Hymns, Printed at the Mission Press, Calentia. [H. it. p. 368.]
283. 1838. O. F. and E. O. A New Metrical Version of the Praims of David, by C. F. and E. C. Hull. This was by Catherine Foster and Eiszabeth Colling.
[G. p. 162; M. it. pp. 361, 363.]
264. 1389. James Halme, p. 529, it. Pealms and Hymns, Original and Select. Harrogate.
255. 1638. Joseph Rusling. Portions of the Praims of David. Philadelphile.
256. 1839. John Kohle, p. 610, it. [G. p. 163]

285. 1689. Joseph Rusling. Portions of the Probins of David. Philadelphia. 256. 1889. John Roble, p. 610, ii. [G. p. 163] 257. 1889. George Burgess, p. 194. ii. (See No. 265.) 258. 1829. Sir Robert Grant, p. 449, ii. 259. 1889. Francis Wranghum. The 137th Ps. in The Chilager's Monthly Visitor. 260. 1889. Elian Lee Fallen, p. 830, i. Several in her Poeus, puh. at Boston. 261. 1839. John Hockham Frere, Versions of Testing Paulma, reinted on one side of the paper only.

various Psalms, printed on one side of the paper only.
262, 1839. Robert Allen Soott. Metrical Para-262. 1839. phrases of Selected Portions of the Book of Psaints, &c. Lond. Rivington. (H. il. p. 370.) 263. 1839. Julius Charles Hars. Portions of the Psalms in English Verse.

254. 1839. Edward Swains. Versions of several Palms in his privately printed work The Hand of God, a Fragment, with Poems, Hymns, and Versions of Paulmi.

Pealms.
285. 1839. George Burgess, p. 194, ii. [G. p. 165.]
266. 1840. William Vernon Harcourt, p. 494, ii.
267. 1941. John Eden. The Book of Profins in Biank Verse, with Practical Reflections. [G. p. 165.]
268. 1841. Richard W. Hamilton, p. 482, ii. Thirteen versions in his Nugae Literatries, 1841.
269. 1942. Omega. Pa. 137 in the Ecangelical Marchine, p. 116.

Magarine, p. 116. 270. 1842. Michael Thomas Sadier. Memoirs, 500 No. 246.

No. 246.

271. 1848. Francis Skurray. A Metrical Version of the Book of Profins composed for Private Meditation or Public Worship. London, Pickering. Of these versions 45 were previously printed in The Shepherd's Garland, 1832. (6, p. 151; H.-il. p. 321.)

272. 1848. Frederick Bussell. A Metrical Version

272. 1843. Frederick Russell. A Metrical Version of 50 Psalms.
273. 1844. Edward Feilds. The Psalms of David, Metrically Paraphrased for the Immales of the Cottage. By a Cambridge Muster of Arts. London, Whittaker.
[G. p. 188.]
274. 1844. Moses Montagu. See No. 285.
275. 1846. Anapymous. A Metrical Version of the Hebrew Psalter: solik Explanatory Notes. London.

Hebrew research.

Ward & Co.

278. 1845. Thamas Spalding. A Metrical Version of the Hebrew Predict; with Explanatory Notes.

London. Ward & Co.

Anonymous, A Metrical Version of the 277. 1896. Anonymous. A restant terrory of the thoreup Paulier.

278. 1847. Benjamin Thomas Halcott Cols. The Pagissa of David: A New Metrical Verston. London, Seeley. [G. p. 170.]
279. 1847. Joseph Irons, p. 571, i. [G. p. 189.]
280. 1848. William Henry Black. An Entirely

Men Metrical Vertion of the Probus, written for the Masic in Common Use. By W. H. B. London: Rodwell. [G. p. 171.]
281. 1850. Frederic Fysh. The Probus: Algrical literal Version, 2 vols., 1850-55. [G. p. 174.]
282. 1850. Banual McClure. The Probus of David, and Songe of Solomon, in Metre, By Sanuel McClure, Lewistons, Pennsylvania. (Philadelphia Lib.) [G. p. 171.]

p. 171.]
283. 1851. Moses Montagu. The Praises in a New Yersion. Pitted to the Tunes used in Churches: with Notes on Examination of the Difficult Passager. By M. Montagu, London. Hatchard. [6, p. 174.] In 1844 he issued the seven Penitential Isalms as a epocimen of his work. See No. 224.
2830. 1851. A. T. Russell, in his Pt. & Hys. (q.v.)
284. 1853. Anonymous. The Book of Pasins. Provided into Evolution 185.

284 1858. Anonymous. The Book of Parims. Franslated into English Verse, from the Original Hebrew, compared with the Ancient Versions. Later editions corrected in 1858, and 1868. [G. p. 175.] By & contons corrected in 1888, and 1888. [6, p. 175.] By & Layman. London, Rivingtons. 285. 1854. Edward Churton, p. 233, ii. [6, p. 173.] 286. 1864. Abner Jones. The Pathus of David rendered into English Verse of Various Measures, divided according to their Musical Cadences, and Conversed in the control of their c prised in their own Limits; in which their responsive lines are kept unirroken, the devoit and excited tenti-ments, with which they everywhere abound, expressed ments, with control they everywhere adonnes, conference in their own familiar and appropriate language, and graphic imagery, by which they are rendered vivid, preserved entire. By Amer Iones, Professor of Music. New York. Mason Brothers. (G. p. 177), 287, 1855. Anna Bhipton. Versions of 3 Paslms in 287, 1886. Anna ampount vermous this per Whispers in the Palvis.

288, 1886, George Townsend, Solatia Senectatis, or the Book of Psalves, showing the Probable Origin, the leading idea, and the inference engieted by each the leading idea, and the inference and T. IG, p. Praise, versified in various metres. By G. T. [G. p. 179.]

289. 1866. William Vernoz-Hartourt, p. 484, ii. 230. 1866. Various. Hymns Britten for the lise of Rebrew Congregations. Charlestoon, S. C. Pub, by the Congregation Beth-Elohim A. M. 5618. This is a metrical version made by Jews for the use of Jews. is a metrical version made by Jews for the use of Jews.
291. 1857. Anonymous. A New Metrical Translation of the Book of Psalms. Accentuated for Chanting, in attempt to Preserve as far as positive the leading characteristics of the Original, in the Janguage of the English Bible. Landon. Bagner & Ech. [th. p. 181.]
282. 1358. Edgar Altred Bowning. The Most Holy Book of Psalms. Literally rendered into English Verse, according to the Prayer Book Version. London. J. W. Parker. (ft. p. 182.)

Parker. [G. p. 182.] 293. 1869. Anon

283. 1869. Ananymous. Hebrew Lyrics. By an Octogenarian. London. Saunders Otley & Co. [G. p. 183.]

p. 183.]
294. 1859. Thomas Turner. A Metrical Version of the Book of Feature (Rhythmical). [G. p. 184.]
295. 1860. Renjamin Hall Kennedy, p. 832, i. [O. p. 196.]
296. 1860. C. B. Cayley. The Product in Metre. [G.

180. 180. W. C. Yonge. A levelon of the whole Book of Pealms in Various Metres, with Pieces and Hymns suggested by New Testament quotations; also an Appendix of various Translations, etc. London. Jack-

Walford, and Hodder. [G. p. 186.]

208. 1868. Arthur Malet. A Metrical Version of the Praires. London. Rivingtons. [G. D. 187.] 209. 1863. Robert Young. Proposal Emendations of the Metrical Version of the Present used in Scotland. Ethiburgh. T. Laurie. [G. D. 187.] 300. 1863. William Milligan. A Revisal Distinc-of the Praires and Paraphrases, to which are added one hundred and fifty short hymns, selected with care from nearly twesty former selections. Edinburgh. J. Wes Large [G. D. 1891] from nearly twenty former selections. Edinburgh. J. Mac Laten. (G. p. 183.)

301. 1864. American Metrical Psalter. The American Metrical Psalter, To the Bithops of the Protestant Episcopai Church of the United States, this attempt to preserve Metrical Psalmody in the Church, and to secure an entire Metrical Psalter, is inscribed with this reverence and fraternal affection. New York: Huntington. In this work 18 versions of the Psalms are tortured and mutitated. (G. p. 189.)
302. 1865. Viscount Ensureage. A Metrical Psalter. Compiled from the MSN. of the late Viscount Massereene and Fervard. By the Hon. L. P. Dublin, McGlashan. [G.p. 190.]

Mattercene and retrard.

McGlashan. [G. p. 190.]

303. 1966. Charles H. Spurgeon. Several versions in his Gur Cum Nymn Book.

304. 1986. H. L. Hardy.

S05. 1667. Dalman Hapstone, The Ancient Psalms

in Appropriate Metres: a strictly Literal Translation from the Hebrew; with Explanatory Notes. Edin-burgh: Cliphant. [0, p. 191.] 308. 1867. Joseph Stammers. Ps. 22 in Lyra Britansics, p. 518.

307. 1667. I. C. Wright and H. S. Wright, Selection of Pasius in Verse in their Poems and Translations.

tion of Psalms in Verse in their Poess and Translations, 308. 1860. Heratins Benar, p. 181, i. Hyrars of Phild and Hope. Versions of 47 pealms, 302. 1858. James Keith. The Book of Pealms rendered into Common Metre Forest, from the authorized Version. With a repetition of Pealms I to L in Miscellameous Metres. London: Nisbet. [G. p. 192.]
310. 1868. E. G. Singleton. Versions of a few Psalms in his Anglican Hyras Book.
311. 1870. Themas Blakes. A Metaphrasis: A Metrical Fersion of the Book of Praims, ande by spollinarius, a Bishop of Londicea, in Spria, circular
A.D. 362. Translated by Thomas Stater, de. London;
Simpkin and Marshall. [G. p. 183.]
S12. 1870. William A. Graham. Versions of Frames in his Original Poetry. Lond.: Whittaker.
313. 1871. Jahn Burton. The Book of Praims in English Ferse. A New Testament Paraphrase. London;
John Snow. [G. p. 184.]

John Sow. [G.p. 194.]
314. 1872. G. H. Maberly. Pilgrim Songs of the Return from the Captivity, retranslated and versified. Ps. 130-134.

Ps. 120-134.

315. 1876. Banial Hagot. Versions of a few Psalms in his Hysiaus. London: Groombridge & Son.

316. 1875. William Fosiah Irosa, p. 871, is.

317. 1876. Lard Selberne. Ps. 86, in Dr. Rogen's Harp of the Christian Home, p. 87.

318. 1876. Thomas Rawson Birks, p. 148, is.

319. 1876. George Rawson, p. 869, is.

320. 1877. The Marquess of Lorne. The Book of Psalms, titerally rendered in Versa. [G. p. 197.]

321. 1878. D. C. Molarca. The Book of Psalms, Versified and Amnotated, Geneva. New York. [O. p. 198.]

198.]
322. 1888. W. D. Beymour. The Hebrew Psalisr, or the "Book of Praises," commonly called the Psalms of David. A New Metrical Translation. [G. p. 198.]
323. 1882. Bear-Tabillim. The Book of Psaless in English Blank Verne; using the Verbal and Lincol Arrangements of the Original. By Ben-Tchillim. Edinburgh, A. Elliott. [G. p. 199.]
324. 1883. David McLaren. The Book of Psaless in Metra occording to the Version approach in the

324. 1834. Pavid Melaren. The foole of Palmis in Metre, according to the Version approved by the Church of Scotland. Edinburgh: D. Dongias. [G. p. 203.] This is a revision of the Scotlink Psatter. 325. 1825. Digby S. Wrangham. Lyra Regis, The Book of Palmis, and other Lyrical Poetry of the Old Testament, residenced into English Metres. Locals, Charles and Control of the Control

Fletcher & Co. [6. p. 201.]
326. 1886. John De Witt, D.D. Praise Sing of Itracl. A new Bendering in Verse, by John De Witt, D.D.

Extended as this list is, it can only be rendered complete by adding on the numerous versions of individual Psalme which are given in the Index to Sansons and Subjects, in this Dictionary. It must be remembered, however, that all which are given in that Index are not additional to those named above, as by far the greater number are taken from the [J. J. and W. T. B.] foregoing works.

Psalters, French. The French Psaiters. in common with the English, the German, and others, require a distinct history from the hymnody of the same nation.

i. Clément Marot.

1. Very few trs. of the Pealms have been found prior to the great Psalter of Maret and Beza. The germ of this work was Ps. 6, attached to the Miroir de tres chrestienne Princesse Marquerite de la France Royne de Navarre, Duchesse & Alençon (1583). At least 13 others must have been fr. by 1539 (8 2). In 1540 the psalms which Marot had then written and circulated in Ms., were in the highest favour with Francis I., Catherine de Maddinis two Dunkis and the Catherine de Maddinis Medicis, the Dauphin, and the court. They were sung to ballad tunes. Charles V. rewarded Marot with 200 golden doubloons for his present of 30 Psalms, and asked him to versify for him "Confitemini Domino" (prob.

Рв. 18).

2. The earliest printed psalms by Marot emanated from the Protestant party of the Reformation, and it is not clear from what source Calvin obtained them. The text also of these early psalms differs from the first edition afterwards pub. by Marot himself. In an unique book in the library at Munich, entitled Aulouns Pseaumes et Cantiques mys en chant, Strasbourg, 1539—the earliest effort of Calvin to introduce singing into public worship at Strasburg—there are 18 pealms, together with the Song of Simeon, the Creed, and Ten Commandments. There are melodies to each

Of these pealms 13 are, in a form varied from his own subsequent ed. of 1542, by Marot. (Pes. 1, 2, 3, 15, 19, 32, 51, 103, 114, 115, 130, 137, 143.) Of the other pieces, two (Ps. 113 and the Circed) are in proce. The other pieces (Ps. 25, 35, 46, 91, 138, The Song of Simeon, and The Ten Commandments) are strongly marked off from Marot's pieces by their inversions, want of feminine rhymes, and German melodies. They are probably by Calvin bitmes!

himself.

3. In 1541 appeared Pealmes de David, translatez de plusiours autheurs, et principalle-ment de Clo. Murol, veu, recongneu et corrigé par les theologiens, nommeement par M. F. Pierre Alexandre, concionateur ordinaire de la Royne de Hongrie. Anvers. (An unique copy is in the possession of M. Henri Lutteroth.) The contents of this volume are 30 pealms by Marot, and 15 by ten or eleven different authors. Some of these latter are alternative versions of the same pealm. Tunes of the day are named for one of Marot's pealms and nine of the others. The text of the 30 pealms of Marot, though, in the IS Pss. named above, identical with that found in the Strasburg edition, differs from that of Marot's own edition (1512) of these same 30 psalms. Pierre Alexandre may have received Marot's psalms from the Queen of Hungary, who may herself have obtained them from her brother Charles V. Alexandre was inclined to the Huguenot doctrinea, and at a later period (1555) became paster of the Refermed congregation at Strasburg.

4. A very curious Liturgy (of which there is an unique copy in M. Gaiffe's possession) appeared in 1542.

La manyere de faire prieres aux eglises francoyses ... ensemble pseaulmes et canticques francoys quon chante aux dictés eglises ... (the title is of great length). At the end of the psaims there is the following note: "Imprimé à Rome par le commandement du Pape, par Theodore Bruss Altemant, son imprimeur ordinaire." The Psalms in this edition comprise all the psaims by Marct and others in the Straeburg ed. (1538); the other 17 psalms of Marct contained in the Antwerp ed., and 4 others from the same book (43rd signed "C. D." 120th anon, 130th signed "A." 142nd signed "D."). To tines are added the Song of Simeon, Creed, and Ten Commandments of the Sixaburg book, and Marct's Pater Noeter from the Mirot. The 21 meloand Ten Commandments of the Strasburg book, and Marot's Pater Noster from the Miroir. The 21 meloises of the Strasburg book are re-printed, together with 8 new ones. The pretended imprimatur of the Pope was a pious fraud, of which there is a similar example in one of the works of Lefèvre d'Etaples, the first translater of the Bible in French. The real place of printing seems identified as Strasburg by a letter of Plerre, the pastor of Strasburg, 25th May, 1642 (Opera Calvins vi. 15), addressed to the chief magistrate at Meta, in which he says that a new ed. of the Liturgy and the palms had been made, the previous one being examined; and begs him to recover said copies of it, which had been selved at Meta on account of an inconsiderate addition of the printer "Imprimé à Rome avec privileges du Pape." The internal evidence afforded by a comparison of the liturgical portions with subsequent liturgies at Geneva (1543) and Strasburg (1545) is consistent with this assumption. The printer was very probably Johan Knobloch. Plerre Brully, the pastor, was perhape the editor.

 In the library at Stuttgart there is an unique copy of Calvin's first Liturgy pub. at Geneva, entitled

"La forma det prieres et chants sociesiastiques aucc la maniere d'administrer les Sucrement, et consocrer le mariage, seton la coustume de l'Eglise Ancienne, 1841."

There is no name of place or printer; but the device of an clive branch, ending in an ornamental "G.," is known to be the mark of Jean Gerard or Girard, a Genevan printer. The liturgical contents of this volume are of great interest; but the only portion of them that concerns our subject is the preface, which exhibits Calvin's sentiments on the use of music in public worship.

The Psalms are a reprint of those in the last-inentioned ed., known as the Pseudo-Roman, with the omission of the prose 113th Ps., and the 6 by various authors (43, 126, 136, 142). The other pieces of the Pseudo-Roman are also reprinted, with the exception of the prose Creed, which is exchanged for Matot's Creed, pub. in the Nivoir. Some slight alterations are made in the text of the Psalms. But considerable alteration is made in the melodies. Only 17 are common to this and the Pseudo-Roman ed., and modifications which lessen their German character are made in these. There are 22 new melodies, 14 as substitutes for rejected tunes of the sarlier edition, 8 set to psalms, which previously had no melodies attached to them. This musical contribution is probably the work of Louis Bourgeois.

A second ed. of this book, probably only a reprint with no material alteration, is known to have been pub later in the year. These several editions show plainly that for nearly three years the psalms of Marot were in favour alike in the Cathelic court and the Hugmenot worship.

In 1542, Marot himself pub. his 30 Psalms.
 The title of the book is—

Trente Praulmes de David, mis en francoys par Clement Marci, valet de chambre du Roy, ante privilege. Imprimé a Pariz, n. p. (An unique copy in in the Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris.)

It contains the privilege from the King, dated Nov. 80th, 1541; an epistle dedicatory to Francis I., not without evidences of real religious feeling, in which Marot contrasts the true inspiration of David with the fabled muse of Greece and Rome; and the 30 Pss. of the other editions (1-15, 19, 22, 24, 82, 37, 38, 51, 103, 104, 113, 114, 115, 130, 137, 143). At the head of some of the Paslms are short indications of the nature of the metre, but no suggestions of melodies, and no music. The text of this ed. varies, as has been said, greatly from that in the editions noticed in the last section. Whether both texts are by Marot himself, or whether the editions of 1539 and 1541 represent a text revised by other hands than his, it is difficult to decide.

M. Domen has printed the principal variations in the first 3 Paslms, and pronounces that the Paris text is infinitely superior in elegance and rhyme; that in only 4 places (of these 3 Pas,) are the variations in the other additions more literal than in Marct's: and that of these 4 Marct bimself adopted 3 in his ed. of 1843. On the ground of its superiority, and of the phrases on the Antwerp title-page ("recongenenetcorrige"), which indicate revision in that set, he decides that the Paris ed. for the first time prints Marct's genuine text, and that the others whibit a text that has been sitered by Pierre Alexandre and the Theologians. To this werdict however the 13 Pee, in the Strasburg ed. (1639) which are identical in text with those of Pierre Alexandre's book (1541) are a considerable objection. The imprimatur of Pierre Alexandre also in the Autwerp ed., does not seem necessarily to indicate extensive alteration, for be says, "nec in ipso reperi quod poests plus agrees offendere;" and the other 14 peams by various authors would share the revision with the 50 of Marct.

7. The publication of the 30 Psalms drove Marot from France to Geneva. Though the privilege for it had been signed by three doctors of theology, the book was condemned by the Sorbonne, and Marot was only saved from arrest by flight. In August, 1543, he pub., evidently at Geneva, Cinquante Pseaumes en francois par Clement Marot. Hem une Epistre par luy naqueres envoyée aux dames de France.

The contents of this book are :-

An Epistle to the Ladies of France; an Epistle to the King; the 30 pashus aiready pub, revised and corrected; 20 fresh pashus (the Song of Simeon counting as one); the Commandments, the Articles of the Faith (the Creed); the Lord's Prayer; the Angelic Salutation; and two prayers, one before, one after meals. The Epistle to the King is very brief. It contains an allusion to the fact that France had commanded him to continue the work of translation. The Epistle to the Ladies of France is in the courtier vein. He bids them quit their lovestongs to Capid to sing Him, Who is love indeed, "O bien heureux qui voir pourra, Fleuric le temps que l'on ofra Le laboureur à sa charre, Le cherteller parmi la rue, Et l'artian en as boutique Aveques un Pasaume oc Cantique En son labeur es soulager." The new pealms are Pas. 19, 23, 25, 33, 36, 43, 45, 46, 58, 72, 79, 26, 91, 101, 107, 110, 113, 123, 123. There is no music to this ed. A few months later however an ed. (now lost) of these Fifty Pealms, with music, was pub. along with the litungy and Catechism by Calvin. The 5 paslms, generally assigned to Calvin, which had hitherto comé down from the Strassburg ed. (1539) were in this ed. replaced by Marot's.

8. Marot's death (1544) arrested the progress of the Genevan Pealter. But his pealms were utilised in other quarters. Editions of them appeared in Paris, Lyons, Strasburg, and Genova; 16 of which are extant. The Strasburg ed. of 1545, printed 10 of the new psalms, together with the psalms and pieces of Marot and others in the Pseudo-Roman ed., the Commandments by Marot, and a hymn, "Salutation à Jésus-Christ," beginning "Jo Te salue, mon certain Rédempteur" (p. 579 i.) Louis Bourgeois pub. a harmonised ed. of the Cinquante Pseaumes in 1547. A compilation of Marot's psalms, 29 by Gilles d'Aurigny, 42 by Bobert Brincel, 31 by "C. R." and "Cl. B," forming an entire Psalter, was pub. in Paris (1550). And Poitevin's 100 pealms (Poictiers 1550) were bound up, in later editions, with Marct's 50 as a complete Psalter.

ii. Completion of the Pealter by Beza.

I. The Genevan Psalter was completed by Théodore de Beze, at the request of Calvin, who had found on his table a tr. of Pa. 16. The first instalment of them was principally written at Lausanne. On March 24, 1551, he requested from the Council of Geneva permission to print "the rest (le reste) of the Psalms of David," which he "has had set to music," and saked for a privilege of exclusive sale. They were however very far from being completed at that date; and on June 24 Calvin wrote to Viret saking Beza to send what psalms he had, without waiting for the versification of their companions. Accordingly before the year closed there appeared:—

Trente quatre pseumes de David munellement mis en rime françoise au plus pres de l'Hebreu, par Th. de Besse de Vezelay, en Bourgogne. Geneue. 1651.

This volume contains a dedicatory epistle, "A l'Église de nostre Seigneur," and the new psalms by Beza.

psalms by Beza.

The Psalms are: 18, 17, 20, 21, 28, 27, 28, 29, 36, 31, 43, 35, 38, 46, 21, 42, 44, 47, 73, 90, 118, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 129, 131, 132, 133, 134. The dedicatory epistic is justly culogised by MM. Deuer and kemper between the two poets. In place of the lighter grace, the classical and mythological allusions, and the courtier vein of Marut's addresses to the King and the Ladies of France, we have the strong firm time, the contempt of worldly pnatry, the sense of endurance, hardness, even scorn, left by persecution, which marks the Hugenot theologian. The Church to which he dedicates his work is the "petit brougean," which, despite its lowliness is the treasure of the earth, the kings he honours are not Francis the king of flatterers, but the champions of the Reformation in Germany and Edward VI. of England. There is however a high culogium of Marot, "Las! to es mort sans anot raunce Que le sent tiers de l'œuure commence, Et qui pis est, m'ayant laisse au monde, Poete poète homme, qui te seconde Volia, pour quoi quand la mort te rault, Auecques toy set tent aussi Dauld."

2. In 1554, 6 new psalms (52, 57, 63, 64, 65,

2. In 1554, 6 new psalms (52, 57, 63, 64, 65, 111), 4 of them without molodies, the other 2 set to previous tunes, were added as an appendix to the combined ed. of Marot and Beza which had been pub. under the title of Pseaumes Octante trois in 1552. In an ed. without date, Ps. 67, the Song of Moses, the Song of Simeon, and the Ten Commandments are added.

3. The various volumes extant show no further increase of pieces until 1562, when the complete Psalter appeared, entitled

Les Pseaumes mis en rime françoise par Clément Marot et Throdore de Beze,

The privilege for this ed., obtained from Charles IX. (!), is dated Dec. 25, 1561. It was printed for Antoine Vincent at Geneva, Paris, Lyous, Caen, and other places, in 24 editions at least of that year. There are 60 new psalms, and 40 new melodies; the total of melodies is raised to 125. The Pater Noster and the Creed are no longer included; the Song of Simeon and the Ton Commandments are alone appended.

4. The music of the Psalter is beyond our scope. It is treated fully in M. Douen's work, in a series of articles in The Musical Times (1881), and in several articles of The Dictionary of Music. The melodies in the Strasburg ed. (1539) are of Gorman descent. The editor of the Genevan psalters (1542-5 probably, 1545-57 certainly) was Louis Bourgeois. Only 11 of the Strasburg melodies are retained in the complete Psalter, most of them in a medified form; 74, the finest in the Psalter, are by Bourgeois; the 40 of 1562 are by an unknown hand. Side by side with the work of Bourgeois, Guillaume Franc, cuntor at Lausanne, wrote in 1551 melodies for the psaltes then recently translated by Beza, and obtained

Nothing further however, as far as is known, was done until 1565, when a psalter was printed at Geneva for use at Lausanne. The bulk of the tunes in this psalter were derived from that of Geneva, 4 melodies by Bourgeois, and 15 by the unknown editor of 1562. The new tunes introduced by Franc were 46 in number, of which 26 were by himself, one from the first Genevan psalter of 1542, and afterwards omitted, with 19 from other sources. Harmonised editions, though never admitted for public worship, were printed from the first. Among these may be named 50 Psalms by Bourgeois in 5 parts (1545); 3I Psalms by Pierre Certon (1546) for the Sainte Chapelle, at Paris (!); Goudimel's three celebrated editions (1564, 1565, 1566), the latest of great elaboration; Claude La Jenne's (pub. posthumously in 1601). The immense popularity of the music contributed largely to the wide spread of the Psalter in translations, the melodies necessitating the adoption of the French metree.

a licence to print them at Geneva, together with the original melodies to Mayot's psalms.

5. The fortunes of the Genevan Psalter, thus completed, were brilliant and singular. Its use even among Catholics did not cease for awhile. It was among the books which Francis I, cherished on his deathbed. Henry II. used one of Beza's psalms as a hunting song (!). Among the Huguenots, psalm-sing-ing became universal. Catholic troops, wishing to disguise their identity, would raise a psalm. Crowds sang psalms in the streets. At the Pré aux Clercs, multitudes, among whom were the King and Queen of Navarre, sang them enthusiastically. In Poitou the Catholic curé mixed pealine with the Latin hymns. Florimond de Rémond, a contemporary author, dates the foundation of the Huguenot Church by the practice of psalmsinging. The necessity of conciliating the Huguenot power accounts for the singular fact that Charles IX., and Charles V. (probably really the Duchess of Parma, acting as his Vicegerent) in the Low Countries, granted a privilege for the sale of the book. MM. Douen and Bovet have collected together the glorious and touching records of its use on the battle-field and at the stake in the days of Coligny, and in the dragonnades after, the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. The 65th was the psalm of buildes. The 51st, the Song of Simeon and others, were sung in the flames. The number of editions of the book is enormous. The splendid bibliography of M. Doueu gives 1400 editions of French metrical psalters, far the largest share of which is composed of Marot and Beza's psalms. The influence of this book extended far beyond France. In German, 50 of these psalms were translated by Melissus of Heidelberg, at the command of the Elector Palatine Frederick II, (1572). A complete version, following the text, metres, and melodics of the French, presented (1565) to Albert of Brandenburg, was pub. by Ambrosius Lobwasser, a Lutheran (1573), with Goudinel's harmonies. Though never accepted by the Lutherans, it became the recognised Pealter of Germany and German Switzerland, and was frequently revised in the 17th and 18th cents. Serving as an original, it was re-translated in several dialects of the Grisons (among others in Italian) and in Danish. The Dutch version of Dathenus (1566) became the universal Dutch Psalter of the Low Countries; 30 revisions of it, all preserving the French metres and melodies, were made before its displacement by a new version (1773). To these may be added trs. from the French into Italian, Spanish, Bolemian, Polish, Latin, and even Hebrew. In England a volume entitled All the French Psalss Tunes with English Words (1632) is in the British Museum, Lambeth and Lincoln Cathedral libraries. At the end of a French tr. of the Liturgy of the Church of England, dedicated to George I. (1719, London), perhaps for the Savoy Church, the psalms of Marot and Beza are printed. In England's Hallelujah, by John Vicars (1631), are Divers of David's Psalmes according to the French forms and metre. The influence of the French on the O. V. of England and Scotland is only perceptible in a few French tunes and metres; 30 of the Scottish, and a smaller number of the English melodics are French. Pss. 50, 104, 120, 121, 124, 127, 129, in the English, and Pss. 102, 167, 110, 118 in the Scottish version are identical in melody with the corresponding French Psalms.

6. The general verdiet of critics from the time of Voltaire to that of Sainte-Beuve has been severe. MM. Bovet and Douen are more kindly. Yet the former speaks strongly of the wearisomeness, diffuseness, inversions, obscurity, and vulgar, even gross, expressions in the work of Beza, and the prosy commonplace, inversion and coarseness in the far better verso of Marot. The judgment of the 16th and 17th cents, when the antiquated language was current, and the coarseness less perceptible, was full of eulogy. Out of the wide variety of subject matter, emotions and poetical style which the Pselter exhibits, the simplicity, plaintiveness, lyric grace, and subjective meditation are those bost reproduced in Marot's choicest pieces, descending through him into the body of French hymns. The striking variety of metre evidently impressed Kethe and Whittingham, and an imitation of it was ineffectually attempted by them, as a relief to the humdrum monotony of the English and Scottish versions. The solidity, the breadth, the celebration of God in nature, on the other hand, which passed from our Old Version into the work of Watta, has no counterpart in the French Pealter, or the hymne that succeeded it. The contrast is due doubtless to deeper differences in the genius of the nations. The merit of fidelity has been generally conceded. The work of Marot was based on the direct translation from the Hebrew by Vatable, and perhaps other Hebrew studies. Beza was a deep student of the Psalms, as well as a theologian.

The Revised Psalters of the Reformed Church and Independent Versions.

1. The version of Marot and Beza was the psalm-book of the Reformed Church. The French Lutheran Church, which from the first used hymns in worship, folt less the necessity of a complete Psalter. The Frankfurt Pseaumes, Hymnes, et Cantiques (1612) contains 35 psalms by Matthieu Barthol. M. Donen also mentions in his bibliography Les Pseaumes de Danid, auec les hymnes de D. M. Luther et autres docteurs de l'Eglite mis en vers françois selon la rime et composition allemande. Montbeliard, 1618. More than 50 versions were pub, in the interval that preceded the revision of Marot and Beza. Two—a poor one by the Abbe Philippe Des Portes (1591), and that by Godeau, bishop of Grasse (1644), to which Louis XIII. contributed four tones, and which was interdicted, because the Huguenots, forbidden for the time to sing their own psalms, adopted it—were efforts within the Roman Church. Those of Baif (1587), J. B. Chassiguet (1613), Bacan (1631), Demarsts do Saint-Sorlin (1680), were not intended for music. Lauis des Mazures (1557), Cardinal du Perron (1589), Malherbe (1630), Corneille, Racine, and his son Louis, have left partial translations. In the Reformed Church Charles de Navières, of the suite of the Prince of Orange, pub. (1580) a version, as an improvement in versification on Marot and Beza. Diodatis Pasiter (1646) testifies to the growing unpopularity ("atticdissemens et deagoutemens") of the French old version, but was not designed for public use.

2. The great change in the French language towards the close of the 16th cent made the old version grotesque and antiquated. "Feople feared," says M. Bovet, "that the passage of time would gradually make the Psalms unintelligible, and that the reproach of being written in a dead language would be as true of them as of the Latin." The general decision of the synods was for a revision, preserving the metres, and departing as little as possible from the old version. The author of it was Valentine Contart, the eminent founder of the French Academy. The first ed. is entitled—

Le Liere des Psaumes en vers françois. Par Cl. Marct et Th. de Bere. Retonchet par feu Monsteur Conrart, Conseiller Secretaire du Roy . . . Frenière partie, 1617.

It contained only 51 psalms, which are admitted to be the work of Conrart alone. The complete version—was to some extent perfected by La Bastide. to whom Conrart had entrusted his uss. Gilbert's Psalter asserts in the proface that La Bustide had made such large changes in Courant's text, that the 99 new psalms are only nominally his. But M. Bovet's examination of the evidence decides—on the ground of the expressions in the preface to the ed. of 1677, and the universal ascription of the version to Conrart alone, without mention of La Bastide, in letters and acts of synods of the timethat La Bastide's alterations were probably triffing. Conrart's Psalter, though called a revision, and preserving here and there some phrases, and throughout the metres of the old version, is in reality The French New Version. When allowance is made for the difficult cou-ditions of production, M. Bovet pronounces it, though unequal and sometimes deficient in spirit, a remarkable work; recalling in parts the naive simplicity and lyric movement of Marot, in others the noble solemnity of the classic language of the 17th cent.

Les Psaumes en vers françois, retouches sur l'ancienne version. Par feu M. V. Consart, Conseiller, &c. ... 1679.

3. The distressed condition of the French Hugnenots under Leuis XIV. preventing the authorization of this book in France, the French exiles at Zurich appealed to the Church of Geneva as the chief of the French Reformed Churches, to take up the matter. In reply the Venerable Company of Pastors appointed three of their body, Benedict Piclei, De la Rive, and Calandrin to review the version, adding as a special instruction, that they should remove all phrases that savoured of Jewish imprecations against their enomies. The work was principally done by Pictet. Saurin, an avocat of Nismea, also assisted the editors. Completed in 1693, pub. in 1695, the title of this edition seems to have been:

Les Pranmes de Bauld mit en Verz françois. Revis de nouveau sur les précédents estifons, et approuvée par les Pasteurs et Professeurs de l'Église et de l'Academie de Genère. (Title of Srd ed. 1781. The 1st ed. 15 loct.)

The text of Conrart is for the most part retained, with occasional reversions to the language of the Old Version, and occasional excision of phrases of it, which Conrart had excision of phrases of it, which Conrart had spared. First used in public worship at Geneva in 1698, it was sent (1699) by the Venerable Company to the other Reformed Churches, and generally adopted by the French refugees in Switzerland, and the national Churches of Erguel and Neuchâtel. The Church of Berlin reserved to itself the right to make a few alterations, which were carried out by Beausobre, whom Frederick the Great called "the best pen in Berlin," and his subsequent celleague in the translation of the New Testament, Leufant. The title of this version is

Les Pseaumes de Bavid en vers. Nouv. Ed. retouchée une derniere fois sur toules celles qui ont précédé, 1702.

The Church of the United Provinces, under the leadership of Jurieu, resenting the assumption of primacy by Geneva, made a longer resistance. Bitter recriminations passed, and the adoption of the new version was stigmatised as an act of schism. An unsuccessful attempt was made to produce a version of their own, and they fell back on the old version. After Jurieu's death, Courart's version was made the base of a new revision, which is entitled:—

Les Pecaumes de Bavid mis en vers françois et revis par ordre du Synode Walon det Provinces-Unies. 1720.

It was authorized by the States General in 1727.

4. The era of Courart and Pictet marks the beginning of decline. The new versions never attained the popularity of the old. The unguitability for singing, not only of the impreca-tions, but of other portions more plainly showed itself. They ceased to be sung as a whole; and the selection in actual use continually narrowed. Voltaire expended his ridicule on them. Even the music began to give way to new melodies. (The carliest substitution is by De Camus (1760), who abuses the old music roundly.) Hymne pushed out the Paolius more and more at the close of the 18th century. The collections of St. Gall (1771) and Berlin (1791) have only from 50 to 60 Psalms. The Walloon Collection retained the whole Psalter, with a Supplement of hymns (1802). The ed. of Bourrit, resulting from several commissions of the Churches of France and Geneva (1828). contained the whole Psalter in an abbreviated form, with several new melodies and alterntions of the old ones. That of Gallot of Neuchâtel (1830) was made on the same principle. Wilhem (1840) pub, a complete Psalter, with changes in the music, alteration of antiquated expressions and softening of the imprecations. The Recueil des Peaulmes et Cantiques, Paris, 1859, has only 70 psalms; some of these fragments.

A few among the 130 names in M. Douen's list of persons in the 18th and 19th centuries. who have dealt with the panlter, must be added. Lefranc de Pompignan, Père Manuel, and the Abbe Pellegrin are known also as writers of hymns. Gabriel Gilbert, Resident of Queen Christina of Sweden at Paris, wrote a version (1680). Several versions by Pierre Symond, Jennet, Rivasson, and Joncourt appeared in the United Provinces during Jurieu's opposition to the Genevese revision. The seventeen odes of J. B. Rousseau, founded on the Psalms (1721), have been greatly admired. That on Ps. 18, "Les cieux instruisent" is in C.U. The Psautier Evangelique of Daniel Zacharie Chatelain (1781) is an example of that treatment of the Paslma, which was common among the followers of Luther, and which Watts claborated—expansion of the Psalms, in the light of their evangelical ful-filment. César Malan (q.v.) pub. Les Chants de Sion (50 psalms) in 1824, and a completo psalter, Les Chants d'Israel, in 1835. The version and the music are new. Among recent editions may be named a Roman Catholic version, approved by Morlot, Abp. of Tours, Les Psaumes mis en Quatrains par un ancien Magistrat (Fey), 1844; that by Hector de St. Maur (1866), commended by M. Bovet; and that of Do la Jugie (1863), esteemed by M. Donen the best of modern versions.

Authorities. Climent Marot et Le Peautier Huguenot, by M. Douon; Histoire du Peautier des Eglites Réformées By M. Fellx Bovet; Chement Marot, and the Huguenot Pealter; a series of articles by G. A. C. (Major Grawford) in The Murical Times, 1881. [H. L. B.]

Psalters, German. [Various.]
Psalters, Scottish. [Sectish Hymnedy.]
Psalters, Welsh. [Welsh Hymnedy.]

Public School Hymn-Books, Engligh. Introduction.—One or two relies of the use of the Latin Hymns in our Public and Grammar Schools have been discovered and preserved in a small volume, edited by Rev. J. W. Hewett, and entitled Sacra Academica. A Collection of Latin Prayers now or lately used in certain Colleges and Schools in England, 1865. At Winchester a metrical Latin rendering of Psalm 180, "To de profundis, Summe Beat," was sometimes sung after grace. The hymn "Jam lucis orto sidere," used to be sung on certain days, while the boys walked in procession round Chamber Court. In The Psalms, Hymns, Prayers, Graces and Dules Domum used by the Scholars of Winchester College, 1845, it is described as "Hymnus Matutinus die Recessionis ante Festum Pente-costis." The use of this hymn may have been the germ from which Ken's "Awake, my soul" originally sprung. It is still occasionally used in Chapel. At Eton, as late as the close of Dr. Kente's Headmastership, 1830-S, the hymn "Salvator mundi, Domine" formed part of the Evening Office. "Jesu Redemptor omnium" was used in 1575 at the Thame Grammar School among the prayers before leaving school. These are in all probability survivals of a very general if not universal use of the Latin hymns at our old foundations.

The hymn-books of the English Public Schools are part of the modern hymn movement, and scarcely connected with this use of Latin hymns. Taking the hymn-books in chronological order, the Schools represented

i. Engby. - The earliest of our modern Public School Hymn-Books is Pealme and Hymns for the Use of Rugby School Chapel. It was in use in 1837. There were perhaps two editions during Arnold's lifetime; the text in this book of the hymn by J. H. Gurney, "We saw Thee not when Thou didst tread" (q.v.), is said to be a revision of Gurney's original by Buckoll. The earliest accessible edition (1850) of this book contains a hymn, which could not have been added until after Arneld's death. Small as it is (18 Pss. 68 Hys.), and merely providing hymns for such Christian seasons as occur during the school period, this little book contained very few prioces that are devoid of merit. The Psalms are the best specimens of the Old and New Versions, with some from Watts, Montgomery, and Henry Vaughan: the hymns are for the most part standard hymns at the present day, drawn from the Latin and German, from the Wesleys, Ken, Keble, Heber, and others. The hymns that are peculiar to it are those, parily original, partly tre. from German and Latin, by Rev. H. J. Buckell, who is believed to have by Rev. H. J. Buckoli, who is believed to have edited the book. Two hymns of his—" for the first Sunday of the half year" ("Lord, behold us with Thy blessing"), and "for the last Sunday of the half year" ("Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing")—exe found in every Public School hymnol. Shortly after Dr. Goulburn's entrance on the Headmostership, he issued (1857), with Mr. Buckoll's assistance, the Psalms and Hymns for the Use of the Congregation of Rugby School Chapel. All the pieces of the original book. except 4. are retained: of the original book, except 4, are retained; 10 new Paslm versions—from Milton, Keble, Trower and others; 33 hymns-from Isaac Williams, Neale, Caswall, Trouch, and older sources; and an Appendiz, containing a Latin Version of Ps. 117, "O omnes gentes undi-que" (taken from the Communion Office in the Liber precum, Ch. Ch., Oxford, 1726), with a tr. "O all ye nations, praise the Lord," and a Selection of Pealms (Latin titles only) for chanting between the Litany and the Communion Service (really the Introits from the let Prayer Book of Edw. VI.) are added: the object being to increase the hymns for the Festivals and give a more decided Church tone to the hymnel.

In 1876, Hymas for the Use of Rugby School were published, edited by Dr. Jex-Blake, the Head Master, assisted by a Committee of Masters. The division of the book into Psalms and Hymns was discarded, 14 pieces from the previous edition were emitted, and the total of pealms and hymne together raised to 839. The names of the authors were given in the index of first lines. The new pieces are chiefly from modern sources, and most of them the accepted hymna of our general collections. Some of the pieces are more of the class of devotional poetry than of hymns; two or three of the Latin hymns are given in the original. The tone of the book is pure and high: the hymns of praise full; but there is a dejection in some of those on Prayer, Faith, and Hope, which seems more adapted absence of morbid longings for death, in to older stages of Christian experience than that of the boy.

ii. Harry.—The next Public School to compile a Hymn-book for its own use was Harrow. Hymns for the Chapel of Harrow School were 1st pub. in 1855, edited by Dr. Vaughan (then Head Master). It is a far larger collection than either of the two prior Rugby hymn-books (240 hymns). The sources from which it is drawn are chiefly Watts and Doddridge, Cowper and Newton, the Wesleys, Heber and Milman, Ken, Keble, and the Metrical Psalms. It belongs to the older type of Church hymn-books; full of simple plety, with no great effort at relation with the Prayer Book; often losing its directness of address to God in reflection. The number of hymns on death seems out of proportion in a school collection. A few hymns (e.g. Buckell's hymns for the opening and ending of the Half-year) are apparently taken from the Rugby Collection. The 3rd ed, of this book (1866), edited by Dr. Butler (then Head Master), retained all the hymna of Dr. Vaughan's book, and mised the number to 351. Several of the new pieces are common to the newer series of hymnols, of which H. A. & M. is the type; others are from less obvious sources. The book in its present shape might be considerably reduced without the loss of really good hymne; a pure ideal, an ordent thirst for holiness, and a vivid faith in the Unseen God are its leading ideas. Some of the pieces are too reflective to be suitable for direct worship, though useful for private meditation.

iii. Marlborough.—The Marlborough Series of hymn-books commenced in 1856, with Psalms and Hymns for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College. About half of its 100 hymns are from the Rugby prior editions; of the other hymns three demand special notice, as having rightly been included in most subsequent Public School Collections; a hymn of Bp. Cotton's (apparently, from the description of scenery, written at Marlborough), deeply imbued with the sense of the beauty of creation, "We thank Thee, Lord, for this fair earth": a beautiful hymn by Dr. Jex-Blake (then Assistant Master at Marlborough), on the gladness, fulness, buoyancy of human life, which is so vivid to the boy, "Lord, we thank Thee for the pleasure that our happy lifetime gives"; and one for the Anniversary of the Consecration of The Chapel (St. Michael and All Angels) by Archdencon Farrar, "Fother, before Thy throne of light, the guardian angels bend." These three bymns are an excellent illustration of a principle that runs through the numerous editions that followed under the successive Head Masters of Mariborough (see below)—the production of a book, not only good in itself, and reproducing the hymns endeared by the associations of home, but specially meeting the needs and apprations of a Public School community. On the side of boyhood, this aim reaches its fullest achievement in the edition of 1869; it may be traced in the simplicity and clear reality, with which the Christian ideas of faith, penitence, frailty, dependence, and the stainlessness of heaven are presented, in the hymns of fortitude and endeavour, in jubilance | and thanksgiving, and in celebration of God's glory in nature. The edition of 1869, and still more that of 1878 (which adds several rarer pieces, especially from the German, and has greatly enhanced the effect of the general hymns by massing them more broadly, under the headings of Praise, Prayer, Faith, and Hope), recognize the further fact, that the atmosphere of culture at a Public School permits and demands a higher literary and postical standard, careful editing, and such full indication of sources and authors, as may encourage and suggest study of the history of hymns. Among the more choice pieces are some by Dean Stanley and F. T. Palgrave. The names of authors are given at the foot of each hymn, as well as in an index. The edition of 1869 has in an Appendix some beautiful selections of devotional poetry, from the Christian Year and other sources. Very little use is made of translations from the Latin.

iv. Chaltenham. See § Riii. Bibliography.
v. Repton.—The Repton Series of hymn-books began in 1859. The 108 hymns of the 1st ed. were reprinted in the 2nd ed., 1864 (141 pieces), and in the 3rd ed., 1869 (154 pieces). These three editions were compiled in Dr. Pears's Headmastership. The 4th ed. 1874 (211 pieces), and the 5th ed., 1881 (246 pieces), were compiled under Dr. Huckin's Headmastership. All but 20 from the original editions are retained in that of 1881; several of them are of no particular merit, and might well be omitted in any new edition: and the alphabetical arrangement, nowhere so ineffective as in a Church hymn-book, should be abandoned. This series shows no special connection with other Public School hymnbooks, and has no very salient features

vi. Wallington.-The 1st ed. of The Hymnbook for the Use of Wellington College, appeared in 1860. The three editions published during Dr. Benson's Headmastership only add about 20 pieces to those of the 1st edition (162 pieces), which is always substantially retained. In the psalm versions by Montgomery and Keble, and other pieces, and in the reproduction of the Psalms (quoted by their Latin headings only) from the 1st Prayer Book of Edw. VI., the book has affinities with the Rugby edition of 1850. But the sources from which the hymns are drawn are far wider. The hymns and trs. from the Latin, by L. Williams, Chaudler, Caswall, and others, which reproduce the spirit of the Breviary, are largely used. Pieces by our older poets, by the Wesleys, Cowper and Newton, Heber and Milman, Keble and Newman, Professor Bright and Bp. Wordsworth, are combined with the familiar hymns of our general books. The principal pieces that are peculiar to the volume are the hymns and tre from the Latin by Archbishop Benson himself. The special characteristic of the book is however by no means indicated by the range and judicious-ness of selection. The order in which the hymns are to be used is fixed beforehend with elaborate care; so that morning, and night, each day of the week, each season of the year, each Holy Day, each Festival, each Sunday, by its own never varied cycle of hymns enforcing the great teaching of the Prayer | This appeal to a more cultured taste is further

Book Offices or the changes of nature, may have its distinctive familiar illustration. The idea at the root of this arrangement is evidently that prescription of hymns, as an integral part of the offices and an illustration of them, which the Breviary exhibits, and which our Prayer Book would have retnined, if the Latin hymns, as well as the other parts of the offices, had been translated by the Reformers. The book is intended to reproduce this harmonious impression of hymn and office, and this power of association through stated repetition, while pressing into service the accumulated wealth of our subsequent Euglish hymns, and the best attainable representations of the great Latin hymns themselves. It has thus a value beyond that of a Public School hymn book; and it illustrates the gains, as well as the losses, of the emission at the Reformation. Under the present Head Master (Rev. E. C. Wickham) an Appendix, which in the 5th edition of the book contains 74 hymns, and Introits, has been added. It is a great enrichment to the book, and composed of hymns, which are in general use, with the addition of 4 Latin hymns in the original. Many of them are allotted to special Seasons and Festivals; and the book could easily be re-cast on its original principle, admitting the new hymns as alternatives; or the appendix might be classified.

vii. Olifton.—The Clifton Series began in 1863, with Psalms and Hymns for the Use of Clifton College (23 Ps., 145 Hys). It is evidently in very largo measure a reproduction of the Marlborough edition of 1862, and has few hymns from any other source. The 2nd (1872) and 3rd (1885) editions have very little in common with the 1st, except pieces which are in universal use. The total in the 3rd ed. only reaches 114 pieces (68 of the lat ed., 46 new ones). The 100 pieces that have been rejected were for the most part inferior ones: of the few good ones, Bp. Cotton's hymn, "We thank Thee, Lord, for this fair earth," and Dr. Jex-Blake's "Lord, we thank Thee for the pleasure," are the most surprising ex-clusions. In its present shape, the Clifton book is a small collection of good hymns, of pure and healthy tone, drawn chiefly from modern sources, the more special hymns being trs. by T. E. Brown from the German; it has no very salient features as a Public School hymnal. The names of the authors and composers are given at the foot of each piece, as well as in a separate index. The music of this book has been prepared with great care.

viii. Sherborne and Uppingham.—The Sherborne Psalms and Hymns, 1867, are of the Rugby and Marlborough type, and apparently borrow greatly from those hymn-books. The Hymn-book for the Use of Uppingham and Sherborne Schools, 1874, reprints the bulk of the Sherborne book, omitting the Anthems. It is enlarged to 254 pieces by the addition of good general hymns, in common use, and a number of original pieces by the Rev. E. Thring, the Head Master, and the Rev. Godfrey Thring, and translations from the German. The latter are characterised by a higher standard of metrical and poetical expression, for which German music is largely used, encouraged by an appendix of devotional poetry, containing some poems of singular beauty. The whole book is set to music, and contains music for the Canticles and Responses. Some of the tunes are by Mr. P. David. In 1888 the Head Master of Sherborne, the Rev. E. M. Young, pub. Hymns for the Use of Sherborne School. It is a choice selection, is well edited, and has been brought down to the latest date.

iz. Bossell .- Hymne for Use in the Chapel of Rossall School, 1880, is one of the best Public School hymn-books. It is mainly founded on the Marlborough edition of 1878, and draws largely from the same sources— Watts and Doddridge, the Wesleys, Mont-gomery, Heber, Keble, Mrs. Alexander, Dr. Bonar, and Miss Winkworth. Among the gomery, Heber, Reble, Mrs. Alexander, Dr. Bonar, and Miss Winkworth. Among the marer pieces are some by Professor Bright, Bp. Walsham How, Mr. F. T. Palgrave, Dean Stanley, Dean Plumptre, Miss Procter, the Rev. John Ellerton, and the Rev. H. A. Martin. The book is designed to express "the hopes and fears, the difficulties, trials and temptations of school-boys," and it largely achieves its object by the full and buoyant praise, the sense of the gladness of life, and the glory of nature, and the bright Christianity it presents. Some of the pieces are more of the order of devotional poetry than hymns; but good pieces of this kind have more justification in a school hymn-book than elsewhere. Hymns " of which the burden is the weariness of earth and the longing for death," have been specially excluded. The book is carefully edited, as regards text, indices, and indication of the authors at the foot of each hymn.

z. New Hymn-Books.—New hymnals are in course of preparation at Westminster and Merchant Taylors' Schools. The first, following the lead of the Abbey hymnal, will enshrine hymns of old Westminsters as one of its distinotive characters. The latter will pay some attention to Latin bymns.

xi. Appendices.—It may be noted that an analogy exists between the various Appendices in these books for private use, and the often forgotten catena of hymns for private devotion. of which the Sorum and Reformation I'rimers exhibit early examples, and the Primers of the 17th cent. Besides these there are Ken's great hymns for the use of the Winchester scholars; a book dedicated to Etonians by Randolph Gilpin, Liturgia sacra curra Thesbitico ... vel opsonia spiritualia ... etiam pueris degustanda, 1657; and the Latin hymns attached to the edition of Herbert's Church Porch with Notes, by Canon Lowe, and others. (Parkers, 1867.)

xii. Conclusion.—Some of the sims and difficulties of the task of compiling a School hymnbook can be easily gathered from this review of the books. It should have some relation to childhood, so far as the child's devotion re-mains true and touching to the boy and even the man. It should express as fully as possible those spiritual moods—such as, on the one hand, the sense of dependence and frailty, young sorrow and penitonee for falls, purity and the high vision of heaven, and on the other, stediastness, resolve, the facing of odds, the warrior and chivalrous aspect of the cross, the thrilling memory of prophet and apostle, i saint, here and martyr-which vibrate in the boy's soul and conscience. It should be rich in praise and jubilance, penetrated with the majesty of God's creation, and the God-given beauty of human life. Its two greatest dangers are pucility and unreality. To the first, boys, especially in the higher forms, are intensely opposed; the second, by placing in their mouths expressions that are untrue to their nature (such as a longing for death), turns worship into something little removed from acting. As designed for a community, drawn from the higher ranks, and through its musters and older boys, full of culture, it should not only be thoroughly edited, in the matter of purity of text, exact indication of the source and authorship of each piece, effective grouping of the general hymns under declared headings and full indices, but it should aim at a higher mark of imagination and poetical form; and in schools of the Church of England, the bymn-book should be in the fullest sense the hand-maid of the Prayer Book, enhancing, not crossing her utterance of doctrine, illuminating her festivals, and through the Latin hymns (sometimes even in the original) attesting her deep root in the Catholic past.

xiii. Bibliography. The following is a full list of the hymn-books of the English Public Schools:-

1, Cheltenham, 1st ed, w.n. 212 Hys., 6 Dox. 2nd ed. n.o. 230 Hys., 6 Dox. This book is no longer in use.

ed. N.D. 230 Hys., 6 Dox. I has book is no longer in use. [See Various.]

2. Clifton. 1st ed., Prolins and Hysins, 1803, 23 Ps. 145 Hys. and an Anthem. 2nd ed., Hysins and Tanes, 1872, 84 Hys. 3nd ed., Hysins and Tanes, 1885, 114 Hys. [Eds. 1 & 2 compiled by Dr. Percival, the 3rd by Rev. J. M. Wilson; assisted in each case by a Committee of Mastera.] The 1st ed. independent, the 2nd ed. reprinted in the 3rd, the 3rd ed. reinstates 3 out of 107 Hys. of the 1st ed. rejected by the 2nd ed.

on treprinted in the 3rd ed. reinstates 8 out of 107 Hys. of the 1st ed. rejected by the 2nd ed. 3. Harrone. 1st ed., Hysms, 1855, 240 Hys. and a Dox. 2nd ed., 1857, a reprint; 3rd ed., 1865, 351 Hys., 3 Dox. (Ed. 1, 2 by Dr. Vaughan, ed. 3 by Dr. Butler.]

4. Harrhorough. 1st ed., Psains and Hysman, 1858, 160 pieces (Ps. and Hys., 1atermixed) alphabetically arranged, 2nd ed., Ps., and Hys., 1822, 24 Ps., 183 Hys., and an Anthem. 3rd ed., Ps. and Hys., 1836, 23 Ps., 178 Hys., and an Anthem. 4th ed., Ps. and Hys., 1836, 23 Ps., 183 Hys., and an Anthem. 5th ed., Ps. and Hys., 1868, 25 Ps., 183 Hys., and an Anthem. 5th ed., Hysman, 1869, 268 Hys. and 2n Anthem. 3nd Appendix for private devotion (19 Hys.). 8th ed., Hysman, 1878, 30s Hys., 3th ed., Thysman, 1878, 3th Ed., 3th Ed., 5th Dr. Bradley's ed., 6 to Dr. Bells, The bulk of the 1st ed. is retained throughout.]

Hyb. and 76 Anthoms.

9. Uppingham and Sherborne. Hymn-Book for the 79: of Eppingham and Sherborne Schoott, 1874. 254. Hys. and Appendix of devotional poetry, with 22 Hys. Selected by the Head Masters, Rev. E. Thring, and Rev. Dr. Harper. The musk, by Mr. P. Pavid and Mr. J. Sterndale Bernett, Music Masters of the Schools, extends to the Palma and Canticles as well as the Hymns. A new selection was pub. in 1888 by the Rev. E. M. Young as Hysias for the Use of Sherborne School,

It contains 390 hymns, and three carefully compiled Indices.

16. Willington. 1st ed., Hymn Book, 1860. 182 Hye. and Commemoration of the Duke of Wellington. 2nd ed. Hymn-Book, 1864. 185 Hye., Commemoration. Introlts (23). Ps. to be used in place of Introlts. 3nd ed., same title, 1873. 181 Hye., Commemoration, Introlts, and Paslims in place of Introlts. 4th ed. Reprint of the 3nd, with an Appendix of 74 Hye., and Introlts for the Festivals, 1880. [Eds. 1-3 edited by Dr. Benson, then Head Master (Abp. of Canterbury). Eds. 4, 5 by Rev. R. C. Wickhem. The first edition, with very slight changes in retained throughout.] slight changes, is retained throughout.]

At Charter House: City of London; Dulwich; Eton; Shrewsbury; St. Paul's; and others, there are no special hymn-books, H. A. & M. being that commonly in use.

TH. L. B.?

Puchta, Christian Rudolph Hein-rich, a of W. H. Puchta, then residing as Justizrath at Kadoizburg, near Nürnberg, was b. at Kadolzburg, Aug. 19, 1808. He matri-culated at the University of Erlangen, in 1826, and completed his theological course at Berlin. In 1832 he was appointed Stadtvicar (general assistant preacher) at Munich, where he became acquainted with many men of light and leading; and in 1837 became repetent in theology at Erlangen. In 1839 he was appointed professor of Philosophy and Religion in the newly organised Lyceum at Speyer (Spires), but his nervous system broke down in 1841, and he had to be confined in the lunstic saylum of Winneuthal, Württemberg. After a year he was able to take charge of the perish of Eyb, near Ansbach, and then became, in 1852, second pastor, and in 1856, first pastor of St. James's Church, in Augsburg. He d. at Augsburg, Sept. 12, 1858 (Koch, vii. 277; Allg. Deutsche Biog. xxvi. 687, &c.).

Puchta had a genulus poetic faculty, and a mastery of style. His carly poems were secular; his later were mostly hymns. His hymns were mainly meant for private use, and appeared principally in his Morgen- and Abend Andachten an Chrititichen Hausaldar in Geninges, thlangen, 1843 (2nd ed. 1887, 3rd 1888). Beadles these, 38-including Il tr. from the Latin-were given in Knapp's Christoterpe, 1837-1852. A few others, with a selection of his poems, edited by Knapp, appeared in his poethumous Gedichte, Santigart, 1860. Knapp in his Br. L. S., 1880, included 30 hymns by Puchts, and in his didtion of 1885 no less than 22. Puchts was also one of the editors of the Bavarian G. B., 1884. Those of his hymns which have passed into English (all from his Hausaltar, 1843) are:—

1. Bis names John ist angulangen. New Year's Morning." In Knapp's Ro. L. S., 1850, No. 210s. Tr. ss., "Another year we now have enterd," by Miss Burlingham, in the British Heredd, January, 1866, p. 200, and Reid's Praise Bk., 1872.

11. Harr des Himmels, Gott der Gnads. Sunday. In 1843, p. 3, as above, in 6 st., entitled, "Sunday Morning." In Knapp, 1850, No. 1171. Tr. as, "God of grace and Lord of beaven," in L. Rathuese's Church at Sec., 1868, p. 89.

11. Herr sin ganser Leidenstag. For the Sick. In 1843, p. 227, as above, in 6 st., entitled, "In Sickness. First evening." In Knapp, 1850, No. 2699. Tr. as, "Lord, a whole long day of pain." by Miss Winkworth, 1855, p. 81. Her st. i.-iv. are No. 263 in Bp. Ryle: Chi., 1865, p. 81. Her st. i.-iv. are No. 263 in Bp. Ryle: Chi., 1865, p. 81. Puchta had a genuine poetic faculty, and a mastery of Puer natus in Bethlehem. [Christmas.] A beautiful and simple Christmas carol on the adoration of the Chi'd by the ox and ass, and the visit to Him by the Magi-so equally appropriate for the Epiphany. It became a great favourite in Germany, and is found in many varying forms. The oldest text known is given by G. M. Dreves, in his Cantiones Behemione, 1886, No. 178, from a Benedictine Processional of the beginning of the 14th cent., formerly belonging to the monastery of St. Georg at Hradisch, near Olmütz, and now in the University Library at Prag. Here it has 9 st., viz. :-

ii. Assumpeit carnem filius; ili. Per Gabrielem nun-tium; lv. Tanquam sponeus de thalamo; v. Ponitur in praesspio; vi. Cognovit bos et asimus; vil. Reges de Saba veniunt; vill. Intrantes domum invicam; ix. Trino uni sempiterno. From the Cantional of Jistebnicz, c. 1420, he adds, x. Sit benedicta Trinitus.

This text, in 10 st., is also found in the Hereford Brev. of 1505, where it is appointed for the Epiphany. Wackernagel, 1., Nos. 309-318, gives 10 forms of varying length, the oldest being from a Munich as of the 15th cent. This has 6 stanzas, viz., 1, 5 (reading "Hie jacet"), 6, 7, 8 of the above text, and a 6th st., " Ergo nostra concio."

The text, which passed into the German Lutheran hymn-books and survives, e.g. in Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 393 (each st. being followed by a German tr.), appeared in V. Babet's G. B., Leipzig, 1545, and is Wackernagel's No. 310. It has 10 st., viz. 1, 5 (reading "Hic jacet"), 6, 7, 10 (reading "Loudetur sancta"), and

v. De matre natus virgine; vi. Sine serpentis vulnere; vii. In carne nobis similis; viii. Ut redderet nos ho-mines; ix. In hoc natali gaudio.

These intercalated stanzas seem to be of later origin (if not Post-Reformation), and to have been added to give the hymn a more theo-logical ring. The text of 1545 is in Daniel, i., No. 480; and also in Trench ed. 1864, with the stanza "Intrantes domum invicem "added.

- 1. The Child is born in Bethlehem. By Elizabeth Charles, in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 179, in 11 st. of 2 l. When repeated in the People's H., 1867, it was slightly altered, and the refrain "Alleluia" was added to each stanza.
- 2. Infant born in Bethlehem, Born to save Jerusalem. Anonymous in Mrs. Carey Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881.

Other tre. are :-

1. A Babe in Bethlehem if born. W. J. Blew. 1852-55.
2. A Child is born in Bethlehem, Rejoice, rejoice, Jerusalem. J. W. Hessett. 1853.
3. A Child is born in Bethlehem, And Joyful is Jerusalem. R. F. Littledale, in Lyra Messianics, 1884 p. 80.

Jerusalem. R. F. Littledale, in Lyro measurement, 1864, p. 69.

4. A Child is born in Bethlehem, Rejoice and sing, &c. P. Schaff, in his Christ in Song, R.Y. 1869.

5. A Child is born in Bethlehem; Exult for Joy, &c. (together with the Latin), H. M. Macgill. 1876.

6. A Boy is born in Bethlehem. H. J. D. Ryder, in O. Shiploy's dansus Sanctus. 1864.

7. A Child is born in Bethlehem, And Joy is in Jerusalem. P. S. Worsley, in his Poems, &c. 1875.

This hymn has been very frequently fr. into German, the versions ranging from that by Heinrich of Laufenberg in 1489 down to reccut times. The version in German Protestant hymn-books is generally that in V. Babst's G. B., 1545, which begins, "Ein Kind geborn zu Bethlehem," and is in 10 st. of Latin, with interleged German versions of all save ii. (thence in Wachernagel, ii. p. 701). In later books, e.g. Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, trs. of st. ii., x., are added, from the text of V. Schumann's G. B., Leipzig, 1539. In the Roman Catholic hymn-books it is found in a great variety of forms, but all, or almost all, beginning "Ein Kind geborn zu Bathlehem." beginning "Ein Kind geborn zu Bethlehem."

The text used by Miss Huppus is that in the St. Gall Katholisches G. B., 1863. The trs. from the German are (1) "A Child is born in Bethlehem, There's joy in all Jerusalem." By Dr. H. Harbaugh in the German Reformed Guardian, Dec. 1866, p. 810. (2) "A Child is born in Bethlehem, Therefore is glad Jerusalem." By Miss Huppus, as No. 304 in E. Parton Hood's Children's Choir, 1870. [J. M.]

Pugnate, Christi milites. [All Sainds.] This hymn, in common with "Coelestis O Jerusalem" (p. 240, il.), is usually given as being in the Paris Biseviary of 1736. This is honour not the second by its found in the Paris. however not the case. It is found in the Brev. of Chalons-sur-Marne, 1736 (Hiemalis, p. 148), appointed for Saturday; in the Amiens Brev. of 1746; the Paris Brev. of 1822, and other French Brevs. Also in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:—

- 1, Soldiers who to Christ belong. By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 256, in 5 st. of unequal lines. This was rewritten for the Hymnary, 1872, and re-peated from the Hymnary in Thring's Coll., 1892.
- 2. Soldiers who are Christ's below. By J. H. Clark, written at Marston, Montgomery, on Palm Sunday, 1865, and pub. in the 1868 Appendix to H. A. & M. Also in the revised edition, 1875.

Another tr. is :--Soldiers of Christ, fight manfulty. A. J. B. Hope. [J. J.]

Pullain, John. [Old Version, § 1x. 4.]

Pulsum supernis sedibus. Jean Bap-tists de Santeiil. [Anunciation of B. V. M.] Appeared in the Chiniae Breviary, 1686, p. 949 : in Santeüil's Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 3 (ed. 1698, p. 88), and in the Paris Breviary, 1736, where it is appointed for the Feast of the Annunciation at Lauds. The text is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837: Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; and H. M. Macgill's Songs of the Christian Creed & Life, 1876. Tr. as:—

Long time the falles human race. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 100. This is given in several collections, and sometimes with alterations. In the Hypnary, 1873, it begins "Far from their home, our fal-fen race." The alterations in this case are somewhat numerous.

Other trs. are:

 Driven from their home, their pathway lost. I. 'illiams. 1839.
 Exil'd from Paradise and Heaven. IV. Palmer. Williams.

1845, p. 59.
3. Poor wanderers, banished from their home. R. Campbell. 1850.

4. Cast out from Eden's happy home. In the Scottlah Episcopal Coll. of Hymns, &c. 1888.

5. Lown from the realms of glory driven. H. M.

Maegill. 1878. [J. J.]

Punshon, William Morley, LLD. This greatly and justly beneured name of recent Wesleyan Methodism finds a tiny niche in this work from a thin poetic vein, which gave him much enjoyment, if its working out must be confessed to have yielded nothing of permanent value for hymnody, or at all comparable with his splendid service to the Christian Church as preacher and lecturer. His | contributions to J. Lyth's Wild Flowers, or, a Selection of Original Poetry (1843) [see Lyth, J., p. 707 i.], though reprinted in 1846, speedily withered as "flowers" in a hortus siccus. His Lays of Hope (1853) was no advance on the Wild Flowers. His Sabbath Chimes, or, Meditations in Verse for the Sundays of a Year (1867), suggested inevitable comparisons with Keble's classic of the Chris-Throughout, the thinking is tian Year. bewilderingly meagre, the sentiment commonplace, the workmanship clumsy and poor. Ease and inspiration are absent. His Life has been amply and lovingly written by F. W. Macdonald and A. H. Reynar (1887); and it is a noble and beautiful story. Ho was b. at Doncaster on 29th May, 1824, only child of John Punshon and Elizabeth Morley. The latter was of a good family. He lost his parents in boyhood. Through maternal relationship, young Punshou was introduced to commercial life in Yorkshire, Hull, &c. He marked 29th November, 1838, as the day of his spiritual birth. In 1842 he began to be heard of locally as a preacher, being still in business. In 1844 he proceeded to the Methodist Theological Institute at Richmond; but remained there only a few months. preferred evangelizing to stated preaching. He leapt into popularity at a bound, probably not to his gain, either intellectually or morally, though his diary breathes an admirable humility. In 1854 he made his advent as a lecturer by his Prophet of Horeb. The impressien made by it was amezing. Then followed others, with ever deepening and widening impression. Contemporaneous with his abundant, over-abundant preaching and platform speaking, was such quantity and quality of effective work and service in raising large sums of money for Christian and other missionary and educational work as astounds a reader of his Life. He was five times President of the Canadian Methodist Conference (1868–72), and once of the English Conference (1875). His degree of LLD was conferred upon him by the Victoria University, Cobourg, Canada, in 1878. Throughout, in private and public, he was a large-souled, whole-hearted, true man of God. "Weakened by the way" on the continent, he slowly worked his way home, and after a brief final illness, fell gently and softly asleep on April 14, 1881. His hymns in the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, and the Mcth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879, are :-

1. Listen! the Master beseecheth. Go, work in the Vinegard.

2. Sweet is the sunlight after rain. Sunday Morning.

3. We woke to-day with anthems sweet. Sunday Ecening.

No. 1 is in the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879; and 2 and 3 are from the Subbath Chimes, 1867. [A. B. G.]

Pure spirit, O where art thou now? Anna L. Barbauld, née Aikin. [Death and Burial.] Pub. in The Works of Anna Lucitia Barbauld, with a Memoir, 1825, vol. i. p. 224, in 9 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Dirge. Written November 1808." From the Memoir we gather (p. xliv.) that the occasion was the death of her husband, "whose latter days were oppressed by a morbid affection of his spirits, in a great degree hereditary, which came gradually upon him, and closed the seene of his earthly usefulness" (p. xlix.). The "Dirge" was repeated in Martinesu's Hymns, 1840, No. 623. In the same Hymns, 1840, No. 404, is arranged from this poem, and begins with st. ii., altered to "Not for the pious dead we weep," sometimes given elsewhere as "Not for the dead in Christ we weep." The original poem only is repeated in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873.

Pusey, Edward Bouverie, D.D., s. of Mr. Philip Pusey, was b. Aug. 22, 1800, and educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in first class honours in 1822. Subsequently he became a Fellow of Oricl, a Canon of Christ Church, and Regius Pro-fessor of Hebrew in the University of Oxford. He d. Sept. 16, 1882. Dr. Pasey's prose writings and trs. are very numerous. Amongst the latter was his tr. of a part of Horst's Paradisus Anima Christiana, pub. in 1847 as The Paradise of the Christian Soul. In this work there are several metrical trs. of hymns which in the early pages of this Dictionary we have attributed to Dr. Pusey. We have Dr. Liddon's authority for stating that the hymns were not translated by Dr. Pusey. Some were tr. by W. J. Copeland, and others probably by J. Keble. [J. J.]

Pusey, Philip, eldest s. of Mr. Philip Pusey, and brother of Dr. Pusey, was b. June 25, 1799, and d. July 9, 1855. His father, a son of the first Viscount Folkestone, had assumed the name of Pusey instead of that of Bouverie. [G. A. C.]

Pye, Henry John, M.A., s. of H. J. Pye, of Clifton Hall, Staffordshire, was b. circa 1825, and educated at Trinity College, Cambridge. (B.A. 1848, M.A. 1852.) Taking Holy Orders in 1850, he was presented by his father in 1851 to the Rectory of Clifton-Campville, Staffordshire. In 1868 he, together with his wife (only daughter of Bishop S. Wilberforce), joined the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Pye pub. Two Lectures on the Church, 1852; Short Ecclesiastical History, 1854; and various Sermons. He also compiled a book of Hymns for use at Clifton-Campville in 1851. To that collection he contributed a few hymns, including :-

1. In His temple now behold Him. Purification of B. V. M. This hymn was repeated, in a slightly altered form and an additional stance (iv.) by Canon W. Cooke in the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1853; the Salishury in the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1633; the Salisbury H. Sh., 1851; and many inter collections. It is concilines given with the fourth stanza as in the Sarsan, 1668; Suepp's Songe of G. & G., 1872, &c. The full Pye-Cooke text of 1853 is in the S. P. C. K. Church Hye., 1871; Thring's Coll., 1832 (slightly altered); and others. This hymn is cometimes given as a tr. from Angelus Silesius (Scheffler), but in error.

2. O praise ye the Lord, To nations rejoice. Annumetation. This hymn was also repeated in the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1853, No. 169.

[Wm. C.]

Quae dixit, egit, portulit, [St. John e Evangelist.] Included in the Cluniae the Evangelist.] Included in the Cluniae Breviary, Paris, 1686, p. 187, in 5 st. and a doxology, as the hymn at Matins on the Festival or St. John the Evangelist; in the the Parisian Brev., 1839.

Orleans Brev., 1693, it is assigned to Lauds. Tr. as:-

The life which God's Incarnate Word. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 287, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 194, in 6 st. of 4 l. It passed into Murray's Hymnal, 1852, and the Scottish Episco. Hymns, 1858, each with alterations peculiar to itself. In H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875, st. v. is omitted; st. ii, and vi. are rewritten, and st. ili. is altered. This text, again slightly altered, is in Kennedy, 1863, and the Hymnary, 1872. In Rorison's Hys. & Anthons, 1851, it begins, "Three holy Gospels tell in turn." (J. M.)

Quae gloriosum tanta coelis evocat. Guillaume de la Brunetière. [Conversion of St. Paul. Appeared in the Cluniae Brev., 1686, p. 920, and the Paris Brev., 1736, as the hymn at Lauds on the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. It is also in several modern French Breviaries, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

Why, Saviour, dost Thou come! By R. Campbell, in his Hys. and Anthons, 1850, p. 85; and the 1860 Appendix to the Hymnal N. Auother tr., by I. Williams in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Brea., 1839, p. 180, is, "Lord, from out Thy glorious skies." [W. A. S.]

Quae stella sole pulchrior. C. Coffin. [Epiphany.] Included in the Paris Breviary, 1736: and, again, in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, 1736, p. 38. It is also in several modern French Breviaries as the hymn at first Ves-pers at the feast of the Epiphany; in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1887, No. 53 ; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecolesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as :-

1. What star is this with bears so bright, Which shames the sun, &c. By J. Chandler in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 59. It passed into Murray's Hymnal, 1852; The English Hyl., 1856; Salisbury H. Bh., 1857; H. A. & M., 1861; Kennedy, 1863, and several others. In each hymn-book the text is altered, and no two books agree upon the same alterations. II. A.  $\phi$  M. is the worst. In the whole hymn four lines only remain unaltered. In some of these collections, including Kennedy, 1863, it begins, "What star is this so strangely bright?"

2. How lovely in the eastern aky. Chandler, another tr. in his Hys. of the Church, mostly Primitive, &c., 1841, No. 31. It was given in Stretton's Church Hys., 1850, and again in Alford's Year of Praise, as " Behold the long predicted sign."

3. Hail the day when in the sky. Anon. in the Cooke and Donton Hymnal, 1853, and Alford's Year of Praise, 1867, No. 46.

4. What star is this that beams so bright, The sun selipsing, &c. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868. In the revised ed. of 1871 it reads, "What star is this that beams so bright, And dims the sun," &c.

5. What ster is this more glorious far. Edward Thring. Appeared in G. Thring's Coll., 1880, and again in 1882. The 4th st. is from J. Chandler and others.

Other tes. are :-

1. What is that which shines afar? I. Williams, in the British Magazine, 1835, p. 35; and his Hys. tr. from

- 2. What beauteous sun surpassing star. R. Campbell,
- 1960. 3. What star is this that beams abroad. W. J. Blow.
- 4. What star is this, whose orb of flame? J. D. Chambers, 1257. [J. J.]

Quae te pro populi criminibus nova. Claude de Santeiti. [Passiontide.] This hymn is given for Lauds on the feast of the Five Wounds of Christ, in the Paris Breviary, 1680, the Narbonne Brev., 1769, the Paris Brev., 1736, and in other and later French Breviaries. Text also in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1888 and 1865. Tr. as :-

O wondrous love, that rends in twein. By H. Kynaston, made for and included in the Hymnary, 1872.

Other tru. are:

- Say, what strange love works Thee this and unrest. J. Williams, 1839.
- 2. O Christ! what peerless love. J. D. Chambers. 1857
- 3. O Thou Who, though High Priest, art Victim made, J. C. Barte, In O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884.

Quam nos potenter allieis. Jean Bapliste de Santeud. [Transfouration.] Pub. in his Hymni Saori et Novi, 1689, p. 11 (ed. 1698, p. 138); and, again, in the Paris Bre-viary, 1736. Text also in Card. Newman's viary, 1736. Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. In the Cluniae Brev., 1686, p. 1035, it begins "Quibus modis nos excitas." Tr. as:—

1. How tenderly, how patiently. By W. Palmer, in his Short Poems, 1845, p. 68, and in Skinner's Daily Service Hyl., 1864.

2. 0 Christ, how potent is Thy grace. By C. S. Calverley, made for and first pub. in the Humnary, 1872.

Another tr. is :--How strongly and how sweetly still. I. Williams, 1839. (J. J.)

Quando noctis medium. [Sunday.] A poem of 65 lines given by Mone, No. 29 from a Stuttgart Ms. of the 14th cent., and entitled " On the life of Christ." Tr. as :-

When in silence and in shade. By J. M. Neale, in the Hymnat N., 1854, and the Hymnary, 1872. [W. A. S.]

Quarles, Francis. The life of this "fine old English gentleman" and charming essayist and quaint singer, will be found in full in the present writer's collective and complete edition of his works in verse and prose (3 vols. 4°, 1880-81, Chertsey Worthies' Library). His father was James Quarles, of Stewards, Esq., and his mother Joan Dalton. He was their 3rd son and child. In the registers of Romford, Essex, is this entry, "1592, May 8. Baptizatus fuit Franciscus filius magistal Jacobi Quarrilus." He lost his father in 1599. His first school was Romford and his first tutor William Tichbourne, chaptain of Romford. He lost his mother in 1606. He proecceded to Christ's College, Cambridge, and later was of Exeter College, Oxford. It is to be regretted that the College registers furnish no exact data. He passed from the University to Lincoln's Inn, where his widow-biographer tells us-

"He studied the laws of England; not so much out of desire to benefit himself thereby, as his friends and neighbours (showing therein his continual inclination to peace) by composing suft- and differences amongst them."

Some years advance us from 1608 (at Lincoln's Ion) to probably 1612-13, or his 21st year. His widow continues.

"After became to maturity he was not desirous to put himself into the world, otherwise he might have had greater preferments than he had. He was neither so unfit for Court preferment, or so Ill-beloved there, but that he might have rulsed his fortunes thereby if he had had any inclination that way. But his mind was chiefly set upon his devotion and study; yet not altogether so much but that he faithfully discharged the place of cuphenrer to the Queen of Bolicinia." (p. 2).

How long Quarles continued with the Queen is unknown. He accompanied Frederick and Elizabeth to Germany. He married Ursely [= Ursula] Woodgate, of St. Andrew's, Holborn, on May 28, 1618. In 1620 appeared the first and most characteristic of his poems, entitled, after the odd phrasing of the period, A Feast for Worms. In the epistle he says, "Wonder not at the title, for it is a Song of Mercy: what greater Feast than Mercy? and what are mon but worms" (vol. ii. p. 5). Kindred with the Feast followed Hadassa, or the History of Queene Euther. In 1621 he was in Dublin. He dated his Argalus and Parthenia, "Dublin, 4th March, 1621." He filled the office of Secretary to the illustrious Ussher, on whose death John Quarles composed a memorable elegy. Ussher wroto to Vossius highly laudatory of our Quarles. His successive books are practically the only landmarks of his remaining years. (The reader is referred to our Life and the Works, ut supra.) The Emblems appeared in 1634-35, and his Hieroglyphics in 1697. In 1699 he was appointed "Chronologer" of the City of Loudon, an office which he held till his death. From 1639 his various proce books were written, and became as popular as his poems. They are all in fine English. He was an out and out loyalist, and was with the king at Oxford. He had a numerous family. He d. Sept. 8, 1614, and was buried in St. Olave's, Silver Street, London, "11 Sep. 1644." His title to a place in this work rests mainly on his versified Paalms. These appear in the famous Bay Pealter. [See Bay Pealter, p. 119, i.] Quarles's are Pealms xvi., xxv., h., lxxxviii., cxiii., cxxxvii. They were reclaimed by us for Quarles on the authority of John Josselyn's Account of Two Voyages to New England (1674). In the year 1638 he says, on his arrival in Massachusetts Bay, arrival in massachuseits Bay,

"Having refreshed myself for a day or two at Noodles Island, I crossed the bay in a small beat to Beston, which then was rather a village than a town, there not being above twenty or thirty houses, and presented myself to Mr. Withhorpe, the Governor, and to Mr. Cotton, the teacher of Boston Church, to whom I delivered from Mr. Francia Guarles, the poet, the translations of Nos. 16, 51, 51, 88, 112 and 137 Pealms into English metre for his approbation," &c.

These "Psalms" are more curious than succeasful. But besides them the poetry of Francis Quarles is a virgin field for the capable hymnologist. It is a mystery and a sorrow that few only have been adapted and adopted. There are many of his verse-Emblems that fittingly married to music would be solemn and searching, and nobly displace accepted pious inanities. No. xii. of Book iii. of Emblems (vol. iii. pp. 75; 76), "Oh that Thou wouldst hide me in the grave," deserves a supreme effort of highest genius to mate it worthily. In delightful contrast in its vividness and sweetness is his "Like to the | damaak rose you see "(vol. fil. p. 285). Equally noticeable are his "Backsliding" (ibid. p. 66, xiv.), "Vain Physicians" (ibid. p. 189, iv.), "Waste not Life" (ibid. p. 194, xi.), "A Little While" (ibid. p. 196, xiv.). (See Critical Essay in Works as above.)

Quarles, John, s. of the above, was b. in Essex in 1624, and was educated at Exeter College, Oxford. He bore arms within the garrison at Oxford on behalf of Charles L and subsequently (it is said) he was raised to tho rank of captain in the King's service. On the downfall of the King, Quarles retired to London, and devoted himself to literature for a livelihood. He d. there during the great Plague, 1665. He pub. several works including (1) Jeremiah's Lamentations Paraphrased, with Divine Meditations, 1648; and (2) Divine Meditations upon Several Subjects whereunto is annexed God's Love to Man's Unworthiness, with several Divine Ejaculations. Lond. 1655 (Wood's Athense Oxon.). From the Ejaculations, Mr. Derling adapted two hymns for his Hys. for the Church of England. In the 1889 ed. these are :- "O King of kings, before Whose Throne" (Holy Trinity); and "O Thou Who sitt'et in heaven and seest" (Visitation of Sick). [J, J]

Quem minit in terras Deus. Jean Baptiste de Santeiiil. [Commemoration of Apostles.] Appeared in the Cluniac Breviary, 1686, p. vi.: Santeili's Hymni Sacri et Nori, 1689, p. 191 (ed. 1698, p. 237); the Paris Brev., 1736; J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 88; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as :--

- 1. He whom the Father sent to die. By J. Williams, in the British Magazine, June, 1836; and his Hys. tr. from the Purisian Breviary, 1839, p. 275.
- 2. He whom the Father sout to earth. By T. I. Ball, in the 5th ed., 1873, of the Appendix to the Hymnal N., No. 361.

nother tr. is :-His only Son the Father gave. J. Chandler, 1837. [J. J.]

Quem terra, pontus, aethera [siders]. [Purification of the B. V. M.] This has been frequently ascribed to V. H. C. Fortunatus, and is included by F. Leo in his ed. of Fortunatus's Opera Poetica, Berlin, 1881, p. 385, but among the hymns falsely attributed to him. It is found in four MSS. of the 11th cent., in the British Museum (Jul. A. vi. f. 38 b; Vesp. D. xii. f. 61 b; Harl. 2961 f. 231; Add. 30848 f. 55 b); and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Church, 1851, p. 74, is printed from an 11th cent. us. at Durham (B. iii. 32 1. 22). It is also in the St. Gall Ms., No. 387, of the 11th cent. Mone, No. 419, cites it as in a MS. of the 9th cent. at Admont. The second portion, "O gloriosa femina, Excelsa super sidera," is often given as a separate hymn, sometimes beginning "O gloriosa Domina," as in a 12th cent. Ms. in the British Museum (Harl. 2928 f. 120b); in Mone, No. 420, and in G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, p. 88, from a 10th cent. MS. In the Roman Breviary, 1632, the first part begins Quem terra, pontus, siders, and the second part 0 gloriosa virginum. The original, and the Roman Breviary texts, will be found in Daniel, i., No. 144, with readings at il. p. 382, iv. p. 135, from a Munich ns. of the 9th or 10th cent., a Rheinau Me. of the 10th cent., &c. The hymn, in whole or in part, has been used in various Breviaries (Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Roman, &c.) for almost all the Festivals of the B. V. M., including the Conception, Nativity, Annunciation, Visitation, and the Assumption. [J. M.]

The full original form of this hymn has not been translated. We have the following forms in Euglish.

i. Quem terra, pontus, aethers. This, the oldest form of the text, in the Sarum and other Breviaries in 4 st. and a doxology, has been tr. thus:-

The God, Whom earth, and sea, and sky Adore and laud, &c. J. M. Neale, in the Hymmul N., 1854; H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875; the Propie's H., 1867; the Hymnary, 1872, and others, and sometimes with alterations. It is more extensively used than any other tr, of this hymn.

Other tra. are:--

- The gouvernouse of the tryple engyn. Surum Prymer, Paris, 1538. 2. Whome earth, and sea, and eke the skyes. Primer, 1604.
- 3. He whome the earth, the sea, and skie. Primer,
- 1615. 4. Lo, He Whom Earth, and Sea, and Sky. J. D. Chambers, 1852.
- Whom earth, and sex, and air. W. J. Blew, 1852
   The God whom earth and sex and sky Revero.
- adore, &c. J. D. Chambers, 1868.
- ii. Quem terra, pontus, siders. The only difference between this Roman Brev. text and the above is in the first line. The tra. are :--
- 1. Him Whom the skies, the earth, the sea. By Bp. Mant, in his Ancient Hymns, 1837, p. 48. It is given in several collections, including the English Hymnal, 1852, and as "Whom earth, and sea, and sky," in the 1861 ed. of the same.
- 2. The Lord, Whom earth, and sea, and sky. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 199; and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 106. In a few collections.

Other tru, are

- . He Whom the Land, the See, the Sky. Primer, 1686.
- The Sov'raign God Whose hands sustain. Printer, Whom earth, and sea, and stars, and light. W. J.
- 3. Whom earth, and seas, and heaven's high frame.
  4. Whom earth, and seas, and heaven's high frame.
  R. Campbell, 1950.
  5. Him we sing, Whose wondrous story. H. N. Ozen-
- Aam, 1884.

  5. The earth, the sky, the mighty ocean. J. Wallace.
- iii. 0 gloriosa femina. This, which is composed of 8 st. and a doxology, is tr. as:-
- 1, O giorious Virgin, ever blest. By F. R. Littledale, pub. in the People's H., 1867, with the signature "F. R."
- 2. O glorious Lady, throned on high. Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, and the Hymner, 1882.

Other trs. are :-

- 1. Gloryous Lady, stellyfyed. Sarum Prymer, Paris,
- O Lady set in giorie great. Primer, 1804.
   O glorious Lady, Queene of might. Primer, 1615.
   How glorious, Lady! is thy fame. J. D. Chambers, 1966.
  - iv. 0 gleriesa virginum. This text differs from the above in several instances. It is tr. [

o Queen of all the virgin choir. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 200; and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 106. In the 1863 ed. of the Appendix to the Hymnal N., it is altered to "Most glorious of the virgin choirs."

Other tra. are:---

O Glorieus Virgin, throu'd on high. Printer, 1885.
 O Mary! whilst thy Maker blest. Printer, 1706.
 Eternal glory of the skies. Bp. Mark, 1837.
 O Mary, how great is thy glory. J. Wallace, 1874.

v. O glorinas domina, De cujus virgo genere. This is a recast of the third form above, adapted to St. Anne. It is given by G. M. Dreves in his Liturgische Hymnen, 1888, p. 79, from a Ms. Antiphonary of the 16th cent. This text is tr. by E. Caswall in his Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 327, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 189, as "O Lady, high in glory, Whose daughter ever blest." [J. J.]

Qui procedis ab utroque. Adam of St. Victor. [Whiteuntide.] A fine sequence, expanding the thoughts of the "Veni Sanete Spiritus" (q.v.). Gautier in his ed. of Adam's Œuvree poetiques, 1891, p. 56, gives it from the Limoges Sequestiary of the 12th cent. (Bibl. Nat. Paris, No. 1139), s. Gradual of St. Victor before 1239 (B. N., No. 14452), a Paris Gradual of the 13th cent. (B. N., No. 15615), and other sources. It is in an early 14th cent. Paris Missal in the British Museum (Add. Paris Missal in the British Russeam (com. 16905, f. 178). The use of St. Victor was for the Tuesday, of Paris for the Friday, in Whitsun week. The printed text is also in Trench, ed. 1864, p. 187; Daniel, ii. p. 73; Kehrein, No. 130; Wrangham, 1881, i. p. 100. [J. M.]

Translation in C. U.:Spirit of grace and union. By E. Caswall, in Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 283; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 136, in 13 st. of 6 l., and headed, "Praises of the Paraclete." It is in C. U. au :--

1. O Holy Chost, Who with the Son. This is No. 418 in the Hymnary, 1872, and is composed of st.i. by the Editors, and the rest from Caswall.

2. O Roly Chest, Who ever One. No. 575 in the Hymnary, 1872, is compiled with alterations from st. i., vi., ix., x. of Caswall's tr.

Translations not in C. U. :-

Translations not in C. U.:

1. From Both proceeding, as from One. In Dr. Puscy's tr. of Horst's Paradism Anisas Christians, 1847; and again in Canon Cakeley's fr. of the same, 1850.

2. Thou from Father, Son proceeding. P. S. Worstey, 1863, and Lara Mystica, 1863.

3. O Comforter, All-blessed one. D. T. Morgan, 1880.

4. Comforter, full-blessed one. D. S. Wrangham, 1881.

[J. J.]

Qui regis aceptra forti dextra solus cuncts. [Advent.] This sequence is found in a ms. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775 f. 168 b), written c. 1000; and a Ms. of the 11th cent. (Douce, 222 f. 82 b.); in a Winchester book of the 11th cent, now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. 473); in a 12th cent. Gradual (Reg. 2 B. iv. f. 62b), and a ms. circu 1199 (Calig. A. ziv.f. 48b), in the Brit. Mus., &c. Among Missals it is in an early 14th cent. Paris, and a 14th cent. Sens. in the British Museum; in a Sarum, c. 1370; a Hereford, c. 1370; and a Fork, c. 1390,—all now in the Bodlejan; in the St. Andrews, and various French Missals. In the English Missals it is the Sequence for the third S. in Advent. The printed text is also in Neale's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 7; Daniel, v. p. 173; and Kehrein, No. 4. [J, M]

Translation in C. U.:-

Thou God, 'mid Cherubin on high. By E. A. Dayman, made for and included in the Hymnary, 1872. Mr. Dayman, in rendering the Sequence for the 3rd S. in Advent, prefaced it with a stanza taken from the Gradual "Oni sedes Domine super Cherubim, excita potentiam tuam et veni," &c. The hymn is a very free paraphrase, rather than a translation; and Mr. Dayman has drawn out at some length the allusions which the Sequence seems to make to certain passages and personages of Holy Scripture.

Other tre. are:--

1. Thou Who rulest earthly sceptres. C. B. Pearson, 1868.

2. Thou Who dost each earthly throne. C. R. Pear[Wn. C.]

Qui sacris hodie sistitur aris. Coffin. [Parification of the B. V. M.] Given in the Paris Breviary, 1736, and in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, 1738, p. 68. It is also found in some modern French Breviaries, and in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. 68:-

Who now in helpless Infancy. This tr. was given in I. Williams's Hys. tr. from the Paritian Breviary, 1839, p. 185, s "by a Pricad" (see Preface thereto). It was repeated unaltered in some collections, and then as "Jesus, in helpless infancy," in the Hymnary, 1872.

Quicunque certum quaeritis. [Lent. The Sacred Heart of Jesus.] This hymn is probably of the 18th cent. It is the hymn at Vespers in the Office of the "Most Sacred Heart of our Lord Jesus Christ," which in the Roman Breviary, Lisbon, 1786, pars Estiv. p. 447, is marked as a festival of the Second Class, and appointed for the Sixth Day after the Octave of Corpus Christi. It is repeated in some more recent eds. of the Breviary, e.g. Bologna, 1827; but in other eds. the alternative Office for the same festival (a graster double by decree "Urbis et orbis," 23 Aug. 1856), with the hymns "Auctor beate sacculi," and "Cor, area legem continens," is preferred. Text in Biggs's Annototed H. A. & M., 1867, p. 198.

Translations in C. U.:-

1. All ye who seek a cartain cure. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 121; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 68, but altered to "All ye who seek a comfort sure." This ir. is in extensive use, and with several changes, especially in the first line, as follows:-

(1) All ye who seek a certain cure. This is the original as above.

as above.

(2) All ye a certain cure who seek. This is in W. J.
Blew's Church Hy. and Tune He., 1852-55, and Rice's
Sel, from the same, 1870. In this st. i.-iii. are by Carcall, and Iv.-vi. are by Blew.

(3) All ye who seek for sure raisef. This is the H.
A. & H. text, 1861 and 1875. In it a few alternations are made, and st. iv. is omitted. This text is in several col-

(4) All ye who seek a sure relief. In Spurgeon's O. O. K. Br., 1866.
(5) All ye who seek a comfort sure. This is Casvall's text in his Hys. and Poems, 1873, and is found in a few

(6) All ye who sook a refuge sure. In the 1970 Appendix to the Byl. for the use of S. John the Evenyalist's, Ita., Aberdean,

2. All ye who seek for sure relief, In every time, de. By R. F. Littledale, made for and pub. in the Pcopie's H., 1867, with the signature "A, L. P."

Translations not in C. U. ;-

 All ye who seek a solace sure. J. Wallace, 1874.
 Haste, all who 'mid life's thorny ways. T. J. Potter. in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884. [J. J.]

Christum Quicumque quaeritis. Prudentius. [Epiphany.] This is the 12th and last poem in his Cathemerinon, and in its full form consists of 208 lines. It is found in a ns. of the 5th cent in the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris (8048, f. 39b), and is in-cluded in all eds. of his Opera; e.g. Halle, 1703, p. 75; and Aurelii Prudentii Clementis V. C. Opera Omnia. . . . (Delphin and Vorlorum Classics), London, 1824, vol. i, pp. 150-163. Though one of the finest poems of Prudentius, it was comparatively little used in the services of the Church until the revision of the Roman Breviary after the Council of Trent. In the ed. of that Breviary pub. at Rome, 1570, there are the following centes:-

- i. Quicumque Christam quaeritis. Transfigura-Lion.
- ii. 0 sola magnarum urbium. Epiphany.
- Holy Innocents, iff. Audit tyrannus annius. at Matins.
- iv. Salvete flores martyrum. Holy Innocents, at Lands.

Those centes are repeated in later eds, of the Roman Braziary, and also in Daniel, i., Nos. 107, 108, 112, and iv. p. 121. The earliest and most beautiful cento is the Salvete force martyrum, which is found in the St. Gall ms., No. 413, of the 11th cent., in a 12th cent. us. in the British Museum (Add. 18301, f. 113), &c. [J. M.]

These centes have been translated lute English as follows:-

- i. Quicumque Christum quaeritis. The Transfiguration. This begins with the first line of the poom. The Roman Brev. text is in Card. This begins with the first line of Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as; -
- 1. All ye who seek in hope and love. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 167; and again in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 90. This is repeated in several collections, and is usually given in an unaltered form. In J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1852, it begins, "Ye who for Christ are seeking, raise."
- 2. 0 ye, who Christ are seeking, rates. In J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1856, based upon Casmall.

Other tra. are:-

- Whose you be that Christe do seek. Primer, 1694.
   All you that seeke Christ, let your sight. Primer,
- 3. All that seek Christ, your eyes erect. Primer. 1685.
- 4. O All, who seek with Christ to rise. Primer, 1706. 5. All that desire with Christ to rise, Cento from Primers, 1706, 1748, 1763.
- Framers, Aug. 1748, 1763.

  6. O ye who seek the Lord. Card. Newman, in Fracts for the Times, No. 75, 1836.

  7. Ye who Messiah seek. Bp. R. Mant, 1837.

  8. O you who truly seek your Lord. F. C. Husenbeth, 1841.

  9. Ye who had a Challet and the Card.
- 9. Ye, whoe'er for Christ are steking. W. J. Copeland,
- O ye the truly wise. R. Campbell, 1850.
   Who seek the Christ must look above. W. Siew, 1852-65.
   O ye who seek the Christ. H. Eynaston, 1862.

- 13. All ye who seek the Lord of love, Lift up, &c., H. H. Macgill, 1875. This is a different cento, although beginning with the same stanza.
- All ye who seek the Lord of love. T. J. Potter, in the Catholic Product. 15. All ye who seek our Lord to know. J. Wallace,
- 16. O ye, who search for Jesus, raise. W. C. Dix, in Church Times, Jan. 7, 1887.
- ii. O sola magnarum urblum. Epiphony. This cento begins with line 77 of the poem. The Roman Brev. text is in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-
- 1. Bethlehem! of poblest cities. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 55; and with slight alterations in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 30. This tr. is not only in C. U. in its criginal form, but also sometimes slightly, and at other times greatly, altered. In addition to altered texts which begin with the original first line, there are also:-
- (1) Earth has many a noble city. This is the H. A. & H. text, 1861 and 1875, and is repeated in a few collec-
- (2) Bethleham! earth's noblest cities. In the Parish Hymnal, 1863 and 1875.
- (3) Bethl'hom, not the least of cities. In the Bym-
- wary, 1872.

  In these various forms Caswall's tr. is more extensively used than all other fra. put together.
- 2. Than mightiest cities mightier far. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848, p. 71. In Murray's Hymnal, 1852, it was given as, "Thou Bethlehem, with thy crowning star."
- 3. Fair queen of cities, star of earth. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tane Bk, 1852-55, and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870.
- 4. Of noblest cities thou art queen. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Ek., 1868; and again, after revision, in the 2nd ed., 1872.
- Earth hath many a mighty sity. By C. E. Malden and W. Quennell, in the Church of England S. S. H. Bk., revised ed., 1879.
  - Other tre, are:
  - 2. Than greatest cities greater fat. A. J. B. Hope, 1844.
    3. Chief 'mongst the cities of the plain. Hp. J. Wil-
- 4. O Bethlehem, of cities blost. In Stretton's Charch Hys., 1950.
  5. Small amongst cities, Bethlehem. Mrs. Charles.
- 1858.

  6. The noblest cities upon earth. H. Trend, in Lyral
- Messianica, 1864. 7. O Bethlehem! thou doet surpass. J. Wallace,
- 1814. 8. Of all the cities of renown. H. H. Macgill, 1876. This is a different cento from the Latin, although it begins with the same stanza.
- iii. Audit tyrannus anxius. Holy Innocents. This cento begins with line 93 of the poem. The Roman Brev. text is in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as :--
- The jealous tyrant saw with fear. Primer, 1706.
   With boding fears, the tyrant hears. W. J. Cope-
- land, 1848.
  3. When it reached the tyrant's ear. E. Cantali, 1849.
  4. The tyrant benes, and not in valu. J. Wallace,
- 5. Aghast the tyrant racked with care. Jl. M. Macgill, 1876. Another cento from the Latin beginning with the same stanza,
- iv. Salvete flores martyrum. Holy Innocents. This cento begins with line 125 of the poem, The Roman Brev. text is in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, in 3 stanzas. The Hymni Ecclesiae has also the Paris Brev. text in 6 stanzas. See also J. Chandler, 1837, No. 46. There are also centes, each beginning with the same stanza. Tr. as:—
  - (i.) Roman Breviary text.

. 1. Hail, flowrets of Christ's martyr-crows. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848, p. 68. This is in several of the older collections.

2. All hail, ye infant martyr flowers. By J. M. Neale, in the Hymnal N., 1852, No. 16. The Hymnary, 1872, and the Hymnar, 1882, have each an additional stanza.

3. All hail, ye martyr blooms so bright. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868. This is a paraphrase only.

Other tra. are :-

- All hall to you, ye Martyra flow'rs. Primer, 1604.
   Ishale you that are the flowers. Primer, 1615.
   Hall, holy Flow'rs of Martyra, you. Primer, 1685.
   Hall martyrs, blossoms early blown. Primer, 1606.
- 5. All hall, ye flowers of martyrdom. A. J. B. Hope,
- Flowers of martyrdom, all hall. E. Casucil, 1849.
   Hall, flowers of the martyr-train. H. N. Oxen-kam, 1854.
- Sweet Martyr flowers, fresh from your early dawn. D. T. Horgan, 1871 and 1880.

(ii.) Paris Breviary text.

- 1. Little flowers of martyrdom. By I. Williams, in the British Magazine, 1835, p. 655; and his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 72. In a few collections. In the Parish Hymnal, 1863 and 1875, it begins, "Hail, ye flowers of martyrdom."
- 2. Hall, lafant martyrs, new-born victims, hail. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Primities Church, 1837, p. 52; and Schaff's Christin Song, In Chandler's Hys. of the Church, mostly Primitive, &c., 1841, No. 28, it is rewritten as "Hail, flowrets of the martyr wreath."

Hail, ye firstling martyr flowers. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55, and again in Rice's Ed. from the same, 1870.

4. Sweet flowerets of the martyr band. By Sir H. W. Baker, in the revised ed. of H. A. & M., 1875. Two stanzas are omitted.

Other tra. are :-

- Yo flowers, ye buds of mattyre, hall. J. R. Beste. 1849.
- Sweetest flowers of early spring. R. Campbell, 1850. 3. Hail, martyr flowers, in childhood's dawn. J. D.
- Chambers, 1857.
  4. Ye flow'rets of the martyrs, hail. J. W. Hewell,
- 5. Hall, garland of martyrs. G. S. Hodger, 1876.
- (iii.) Centos.
- 1. Hall, martyr sweets deflower'd. H. Kynaston, 1862. 2. Hall, ye flowers of martyra bright. H. H. Mocgilf, 1878.
- Dr. H. M. Maogill's tr. of this poem in his Songs of Christian Creed and Life, &c., 1876, is broken up into the following parts:-
- "Quicumque Christum quaeritia." See above.
   "En Persici ex orbis sinu." Tr. as: "Lo! for from under Persic skies."
- 3. "Sed verticem pueri supra." Tr. ss: "Behold i the sign has ceased to move."
  - O sola magnarum urbium." See above. O sola magnarum urbium." See above.
     Audit tyrannas anxins." See above.
     Salvete flores Martyrum." See above.
- s. "Salvete flores Martyrum." See above.
  7. "Sic stulta Pharoonis mali." Tr. as: "So Moses Israel's destined guide."
  8. "Jure crgo se Judse ducem." Tr. as: "Well had those wise men from afar."

  In a 2.224.

In addition Dr. Kyanston has a cento in the Lyra Messianica, 1864, beginning, "En Persici ex orbis sinu," which he has tr. as "From day-light's portals, burning.

The use which has been and still is made of this fine peem is extensive both in Latin and English. (3. J.)

Quiet, Lord, my froward heart. J. Newton. [Resignation.] Appeared in the Cincy Hymns, 1779, Bk. iii., No. 65, in 4 st. of 6 l., and headed "The Child." It has passed into a large number of hymn-books. In some it begins "Jesus, make my froward heart," but this form of the text is not popular. [J, J,]

Quis te canat mortalium? Jean Baptiste de Santeüil. [The Annunciation of the B. V. M.] Appeared in the Clunical Breviary, 1686, p. 1073. It is also in the Orleans Brev. 1693, both for the Conception and for the Nativity of the B. V. M. In Santeüil's Hymni Sucri, 1689, p. 30 (ed. 1698, p. 20), it begins, "Quis ore digno to canat," and in this form it is in the Narbonne Brev., 1709, and later French Brevs. Tr. as:-

What mortal tongue can sing thy praise? By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 268; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 176. It is in C. U. in Roman Catholic collections for missions and schools. [J. M.]

Quisquis valet numerare. Life.] A fine poem "on the glory of the heavenly Jerusalem" given by Mone, No. 803, from a Karlsruhe MS. of the 15th cent., and in 16 st. of 6 l. In some copies of the Hymnal N., 1854, the first line reads "Si quis valet numerare." The tr. is usually given for All Saints. Tr. as :-

All Saints. Tr. 68:—

1. If there be that skills to reskon. By J. M. Neale, in the Hymand N., 1854, in T et. of 6 i., including a devology, being a part only of the hymn. This has been repeated in whole on in part in Kennedy, 1863; in the Hymnary, 1872; and as "Who of men hath skill to reckon?" in the Saram, 1868. In Dr. Neale's Hys... on the Joys and Glories of Paradise, 1865, the Latin text of 8 et. is given, together with a tr. of which 6 et. are from the H. Noted. This tr. is divided in the St. Margaret's Hyl., 1816 (East Grinstead), into two parts, pt. it. being "O what splendour, O what beauty."

2. Is there man could ever reckon? By J. A. Johnston, in his Emp. Hymnal, 1861.

5. Who the multitudes can number. By T. B. Pollock, in the 1889 Suppl. Hymnat to IK A. & M.

[J, J]

Quo sanctus ardor te rapit. Baptists de Santeuil. [Visitation of the B. V. M.] Appeared in the Chinice Breviary, 1686, p. 997; and his Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 32 (ed. 1698, p. 110). Also in Card. Noviman's Hymni Ecclesias, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

Whither thus in holy rapture? By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholico, 1849, p. 270; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 171. It was included in the 2nd ed., 1863, of the Appendix to the Hymnal Notes. [W. A. S.] .[W. A. S.]

Quo vos Magistri gloria quo salus. C. Coffin. [Whitsuntide.] Appeared in the Paris Breviary, 1736; and in Coffin's Hymni Sacri of the same year. The text is also in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

1, Where thy Master's glory Calle thee forth abroad, I, Williams, 1839.

2. Go where your Master's glory. W. J. Blew, 1852-65.

3. Heralds of your God | Haste, where every nation.
J. D. Chambers, 1867. [J. J.] [J. J.]

Quod chorus vatum venerandus clim. St. Hrabanus Maurus (?) [Purification of the B. V. M.] Included in Brower's ed. of his Poemata, Mainz, 1617, p. 74, but not in E. Dünimler's ed, of his Carmina. It is found in four uss, of the 11th cont. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xii. f. 44b; Jul. A. yi.

f. 88; Harl. 2961, f. 231; Add. 30848, f. 58), and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Church, 1851, p. 54, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii. 32 f. 16). It is in the Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries. The printed text is also in Wackernagel, i. No. 132. Daniel, i. No. 222, gives st. i., and at iv. p. 371, cites it as in a 10th cent. Ms. at Born. G. M. Dreves prints it in his Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, p. 39, from a 10th cent. Ms. Tr. as:-

That which of eld the reverend choir of prophets. By T. I. Ball, in the 2nd ed., 1868, of the Appendix to the Hymnal Noted.

Other tre, are:-

What they of old, the reverend choir of prophets.
 J. Blew, 1852-55.
 Lo, what the reverend prophet seers of old. J. D.

Chambers, 1854.

3. That which the Prophets reverend Assembly,
Antiphoner and Grail, 1880.

[J. M.] [J. M.]

Quod lex adumbravit vetus. (See Ex more doots mystico, p. 359.) Additional tra. are:-

1. The law He same not to destroy. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55; and Rice's Sci. from the same, 1870.

2. The fast that in the ancient law. By R. Campbell (from his MRS.), and J. C. Earle, in O. Shipley's Amns Sancius, 1884.

In Blew's Church Hy. & Tune Bk., 1852-55, Lent No. 2, there is another tr. beginning with st. iv. Omnes ad aram cornuo, tr. as "In prayer all prostrate let us fall." We must also note that the form of J. Chandler's tr., " With fast and prayer for sinful man" (p. 959, il.), found in Kennedy, 1863, and others, appeared in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Church, &c., 1841,

Quos in hostes, Saule, tendis. Baptiste de Santeüil. [Conversion of St. Paul.]
Included in his Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 52, where it begins "Saule, tendis quos in bostes." In the Paris Breviary, 1736, it bostes." In the Paris Breviary, 1736, it begins "Quos in bostes." It is also in the Lyons and other modern French Breviaries: in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 84; and Card. Newman's Hymni Koclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:—

Hymnal, 1852, the 1861 ed. of H. A. & M., and others. In Skinner's Daily Service Hymnal, 1864, No. 175, st. iv., ii., iii., v., are given as: "Christ, Thy power is man's salvation."

2. 'Gainst what foeman art theu rushing, Sanl, what francy, &c. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bh., 1868 and 1872.

lat ed., 1769, i.e. Mrs. Rowe.

One of the signatures of Bp. Heber.

Dele's English H. Bk., 1874, and others, i.e. R. A. Bertram, p. 138, i.

R-n., in the Bristol Bap. Coll. of Asl. & Evans, 1st ed., 1769, i.e. Robert Rollinson.

R. S. M., in Collyer's Coll., 1812, i.e. Robert S. McAll, Rabanus. [Various.]

'Ράβδος έκ της ρίζης. [Χριστόι γεν-

Raffles, Thomas, D.D., LL.D., s. of Mr. W. Raffles, solicitor, was b. in Princes Street, Spitalfields, London, May 17, 1788. In 1803 he became a clerk in Doctors' Commons, but shortly after retired, and through the influence of Dr. Collyer (p. 242, E.), of whose church at Peckham he was for some time a member, he entered Homerton College in 1805. His stated ministry began at Hammersmith, where he was ordained as a Congregational minister on June 22, 1809. In 1812 he removed to Liverpool, where he succeeded the Rev. T. Spencer, and remained for 49 years the honoured pastor of the Great George Street Congregational Church. He d. at Liverpool, Aug. 18, 1863. For upwards of fifty years Dr. Kaffles was one of the most prominent ministers of the Congregational body, His labours outside of his own congregation were very great, his sid as a preacher on behalf of missions and other religious works, being eagerly sought after. The Lancashire Indeendent College owes its existence mainly to him; and to many religious works in Liverpool he gave great personal attention. His degree of LLD, was conferred by the University of Aberdeen in Dec. 1820, and that of n.p. by Union College, Connecticut, in July 1830. His works include Memoirs of the Life and Ministry of the Rev. Thomas Spencer, 1813; A. Tour on the Continent, 1817; and several Sermons, &c. He also edited the 1815 ed. of Brown's Self-Interpreting Bible; was joint author with J. B. Brown and J. H. Wiffen, of Poems by Three Friends; and joint editor with Dr. Collyer and Dr. J. B. Brown, of the Investigator, a London quarterly. As early as March 8, 1813, he says, in a letter to his friend, Mr. Brown, "I am about to put to press a collection of hymns for the use of my chapel:" but this intention was not carried out until 1858, when he pub. his Eupplement to Dr. Watte's Ps. & Hys. His son's history of this Supplement is:-

this Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longty delast what foeman art that rushing, Sanl, that francy, &c. By R. C. Singleton, in his inglican H. Bk., 1868 and 1872.

Another ir. is:—
Whither, Saul, this raging sense. I. Williams, 1838.

[J. J.]

R.

R., in Bristol Bap. Coll. of Ash & Evans, at ed., 1769, i.e. Mrs. Rowe.

B., in the Christian Observer, 1811, &c.
The Cavendish H. Bk., 1864

R. A. B., in The Cavendish H. Bk., 1864

The Singleton in his
this Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1852, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1853, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1852, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1852, he published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1852, he would not have used the Congregahave published his longexpected Supplement is:—
"Early in January, 1852, he would not have use

Dr. Raffles contributed, in 1812, 8 hymns under the signature "T. R." to the Coll. of his old friend and former pastor, Dr. Collyer. Gradually other hymns came into notice. These, with others to the number of 46, were included in his Supplement, 1853. His hymns at present in C. U. include:—

 Blest hour, when mertal man retires. Praye In the "a. ms," this is besded "The Hour of Prayer and at the foot is written by Dr. Raffles, "Printed in the Amulet for 1829, and thence copied into the Chris-tion Observer." It is dated "Jany. 28, 1823," and is in 6 st. of 4 l.

2. Camenof all causes, and the Bource. Hyper to the Deity. Contributed to Dr. Collyer's Coll., 1812, No. 214, in 5 st. of 5 ).

- in a st. of 5;

  3. Conn., heavenly peace of mind. Peace of Mind.
  Pub. in Collyet's foil., 1912, No. 913, in 3 st. of 10 1.
  In the "h. Ms." this, in a revised and expanded form of 18 st. of 61, is undated; into underneath Dr. Raffies has written. "Frinted in the American Mica Scepales for recent."
- 4. Reemal Father, throned above. Boxology. In the "a. ma." this is in 1 st. of 3 l., and headed "Doxology." It is undated, and underneath is written by Dr. Raffles at a later date (the change in the ink proving this) "Published anonymounty in the Congregational Rymn Book." i.e., J. Conder's 1836 and 1842.

  5. Father of meerelas, God of love, O hear a humble, the Lest. Appeared in Collyer's Coll., 1812, No. 309, in 6 st. of 6 l., and headed "The Peritent's Prayer."

  5. Con young the Rosewal to the moor. House differences

- in s.s. or 5.1, and headed "The Femiliary System."

  6. Go, preach the Gospel to the poor. Home Missions.
  In the "R. Ms." In 7 st. of $1., headed "To the Agents of the Liverpool town mission," and dated "May 1849."

  At the foot is written "Printed at the Printing Office of the Liverpool Town Mission Bazaar, Lycsum, Bold

  Great!"
- 7. High in yonder realms of light. Heaven. Contributed to Collyer's Coll., 1812, No. 911, in 6 st. of 8 l. It was sung at Dr. Raffler's funeral, Aug. 24, 1863. It

It was sung at Dr. Raffler's funeral, Aug. 24, 1963. It is the most widely known of his hymns, but is usually given in an abbreviated form.

6. Lord, like a publican I stand. Lord. Dated in the "E. Ms." "Secombe. Oct. 4th, 1831," and beaded, "The Publican, Lake xviit, 13." It is in 5 st. of 4 L, and is in several collections.

9. We might shall be in heaven! He gathering gloom. Heaves. In 8 st. of 4 double lines, headed "And there shall be no night there," Rev. xxii. 5, and dated "April 4, 1857." ("2. Ms.")

18. O God of families, we own. Pressity Worship. In the "R. ms." in 5 st. of 4 l., entitled "The God of the families of Israel," and dated, "Jany. 15th, 1833." It appeared in the New Song, 1859.

11. Rapid flows the stream of time. New Year.

appeared in the Mess Song, 1889.

11. Bapid flows the stream of time. New Year.
The last but one of his New Year's hymne, in 5 st. of 5 l., entitled "Hymn for New Year's Morning," and dated, "Jany, 1st, 1881." ("R. 188.")

18. Saviour, 1st Thy sanction rest. Holy Motriscony.
In the "R. Ms." in 6 st. of 5 l. entitled "The Marriage Feast," and dated "November 3rd, 1852. On occasion of the marriage of the Rev. J. F. and Mrs. Guenett," Decided in the Mess Comp. 1859. with the ormination of Included in the New Cong., 1859, with the omission of Incinesa in the str. v, vi.

13. Sovereign Ruler, Lord of all, Lent. No. 813 in Collyer's Coll., 1812, in 6 st. of 4 l.

14. The cup which my Father hath gives. In Afriction. In the "2 sts." in 2 st. of 8 l., but without the street lace. B. 272, the history of the Afficient. In the "R. MR." in 2 st. of 8 l., but without date. In the Memorier. 1864, p. 272, the bistory of the hymn from Dr. Raffles's Diary is this —

"Ashby-de-la-Zouch, 16th [Oct., 1823.] I preached to an immonae congregation last night at Nottingham, and slept at Mr. Gilbert's. Mr. Rawson [of Nottingham Castie], a fine young man, and but recently married, has broken a blood-yeasel, and with his wife and mother, and fether and sinter age with the westerday for Devorybirs. mas broken a blood-vessel, and with his wire the mother, and father and sixter, set out yesterday for Devonshire, to peas the winter. Mrs. Rawson sent me her album, and begged me to insert something appropriate. As I dressed in the morning I composed the following lines, which I sent her just before they set out: 'The cup, &c.'" Mrs. Rawson, soon left a widow, resided at Wincobank Hall, near Sheffield, nearly 40 years, and died there in 1887.

there in 1887,

there in 1887.

15. Thou art my Hiding-place, O Lord. The Hiding-place. In the "E. MS." in 4 st. of S 1., and dated "Burniey, June 13rd, 1633."

16. What is life! A rapid stream. Life. In the "E. Ms." in 6 st. of 4 1., and dated in pencil 1838. At the foot is written by Dr. Raffies "Originally published in the Investigator, and, anonymously, in Affection's 65ft. a postioni selection published by Simpkin and Marshell, Hamilton, &c., London."

The "Raffles Ms.," from which we have annotated these hymns, was kindly lent by Mr. T. S. Raffles, B.A., Stipendiary Magistrate of Liverpool. Mr. Raffles is the author of his father's Memoirs, 1864, and of hymn 25 in his father's Supplement. Dr. Maffles's original Hymne were pub. in 1868, with a Preface by J. Baldwin Brown. [J. J.]

Raise the pealm, let Earth adoring. E. Churton. [Ps. zevi.] 1st pub. in his Cleve-land Pealter, 1854, in 13 st. of $1., with the refrain, "Hallelujah, Amen." In 1863 Dr. Kennedy embodied in his Hymn. Christ. at. L. ii., viii.-xiii., as a hymn, of 2 st. of 16 l., each st. ending with "Hallelujnh, Amen." This successful arrangement was repeated in the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, No. 604, but divided into 4 st. of 8 l., and with the omission of the refrain. This rendering is one of the author's best and most vigorous versions of the Pralms, and is worthy of more extended use than is accorded to it. [Pealters, English, § XIX.] [J. J.]

Raise thee, my soul, fly up and run. I. Watts. [Heavenly Joys.] Appeared in his Hys. and Sac. Songs, 1707 (ed. 1709, Bk. ii., No. 33), in 8 st. of 4 l., and headed "The blessed Society in Heaven." It is in C. U. in its full, and also in an abridged form. some American collections, including The Baptist Praise Bk., N. Y., 1871, it begins "Arise, my soul, fly up and run," and st. ii. and vi. are also omitted. [J. J.]

Raise your triumphant songs. I. Watts. [The Love and Work of Christ.] 1st pub. in his Hys. and S. Songs, 1707. Bk. ii., No. 104, in 6 st. of 4 l., as the second of two hymns on "Christ's Commission. John iii. 16, 17." It was extensively adopted by the older compilers, including G. Whitefield, M. Madan, A. M. Toplady, and others. Bickersteth (1883), Elitott (1885), the Leeds H. Bk. (1853), &c., followed; and modern editors in G. Britain and America have, in very many instances, also included it in their collections. Notwithstanding this popularity it does not rank with the best of Watts's hymns. [J. J.]

Rambach, August Jakob, s. of Johann Jakob Rambach (then pastor of St. Nicholas's Church, at Quedlinburg, and, after 1780, chief pastor of St. Michael's Church, at Hamburg), was b. at Quedlinburg, May 28, 1777. He entered the University of Hallo in 1796, passed his final theological examination in Nov. 1799, was appointed discours of St. James's Church at Hamburg, in May 1802, and on March 16, 1819, preached his first sermon as chief pastor of St. Michael's, in succession to his father. He received the degree of D.D. from the University of Marburg, on the occasion of its tercentenary, Nov. 12, 1827; and became senior of the Hamburg clergy in 1834. After 1844 the burden of infirmities made him resign his public offices one after another. He finally resigned his pastorate in the beginning of 1851, and retired to Ottensen, near Hamburg, where he d. Sept. 7, 1851. (Die Familie Rambach. By Dr. T. Hansen, Gotha, 1875, p. 287; Allg. Deutsche Biog., xxvii. 198, &c.)

A. J. Rambach is better known as a hymnologist than as a hymn-writer. His earliest work, cuttiled, Geber D. Martin Luthers Verdienst um den Kirchengesung, Hamburg, 1813, is an essay on Luther as a hymn-writer

His greatest work is his Anthologie christlicher Gesänge aus allen Jahrhunderten der Kirche, carramence uses age and alter patriametries der Kivcke, Altona & Leipzig, vols. 1, ii., 1817; iii., 1819; iv., 1822; v., 1822; vl., 1823; vl., 1823; vl., 1823; vl., 1823; vl., 1823; vl., 1823; vl., 1824; vl., 1825; vl., cal notes on many of the more obscure writers, and for cal notes on many of the more obscure welters, and for the exceptional accuracy of the references to the sources from which the hymns are taken. (It is occasionally referred to in this Dictionary as Ramback's Anthologie.) Buring its complication he gradually gathered together an extensive and valuable hymnological library, over 2000 volumes of which are now a part of the Hamburg Town Library. He was also the principal editor of the Hamburg G. B. of 1843, and in 1842 pub. a small volume of biographical notices thereto (Kuragafaste Nachricht con den Verfasstra der Lieder im Hamburgischen Gesanghuche).

Rambach does not seem to have pub. any original hymns. His trs. are given in vol. i. of his Anthologic, as above, and five are included in the Hamburg G. B., 1842. The only one which has passed into English C. U. is noted at p. 227, L [J. M.]

Rambach, Johann Jakob, D.D., s. of Hans Jakob Rambach, cabinet maker at Halle on the Saale, was b. at Halle, Feb. 24, 1693. In 1706 he left school and entered his father's workshop, but, in the autumn of 1707, he dislocated his ankle. During his illness he turned again to his schoolbooks; the desire for learning reawoke; and on his recovery, early in 1708, he entered the Latin school of the Orphanage at Halle (Glaucha). On Oct. 27, 1712, he matriculated at the University of Halle as a student of medicine, but soon turned his attention to theology. He became specially interested in the study of the Old Testament under J. H. Michaelis. In May 1715 he became one of Michaelis's assistants in preparing his ed. of the Hebrew Bible, for which he wrote the commentary on Buth, Eather, Nebemiah, &c. Ilis health began to suffer in the spring of 1719, and he gladly accepted the invitation of Count von Heukel to stay at Pölzig, near Ronneburg, where he spent several months. By August he had quite recovered, and went to pay a visit to Jena, where a number of the students asked him to lecture to them. For this purpose he settled at Jena in Oct., 1719, and lived in the house of Professor Buddens (J. F. Budde). He graduated M.A. in March 1720. In 1733 he was appointed adjunct of the Theological Faculty at Halle, as also inspector of the Orphanage; in 1726 extraordinary professor of theology; and in 1727, after A. H. Francke's death, ordinary professor as well as preacher at the Schulkirche. Here he was very popular, both as preacher and professor, but the jealousy of his colleagues induced him to accept an offer from the Landgrave Ernst Ludwig of Hesse, who, in 1731, invited him to Giesson as superintendent and first professor of theology (before leaving Haile be graduated D.D., June 28, 1731), and in Aug., 1732, appointed him also director of the Paedagogium at Giessen. In 1734 he was, for various reasons, greatly inclined to accept the offer of the first professorship of theology in the newly-founded University of Göttingen, but eventually, at the errnest request of the Landgrave, remained in Giessen, where he d. of fever, April 19, 1735 (Die Familie Rambach. By Dr. T. Hausen, bier sind deine Bruder" (Geistreiches G. B., Gotha, 1875: Allg. Deutsche Biog., xxvil. 196; Blätter für Hymnologie, 1888, pp. 113, 129, 145, 163, 186; 1884, p. 20; 1885, p. 18, &c.)

p. 15, &c.)

Rambach was a voluminous author in various departments of practical theology, e.g. his Institutiones kernessessitions tecrue, Jena, 1724, which passed through 4 eds. in his lifetime; his Erbasiches Handbicklein für Kinder, 1726 (see below), which reached an sthe dim 1726, and a 14th in 1766; his various volumes of sermons, &c. He justly carned his popularity by the thoroughness of his researches, and the clear and concise way in which he set forth the results of his investigations. It is however as a hymn-writer that his nome is likely to be best known. While not entitled to rank with the best hymn-writers of the 16th and 17th centuries, he yet takes a high place among his contempton of the contempt of the conte with the best hymn-writers of the 16th and 17th cen-turies, he yet takes a high place among his contem-poraries, and deserves to be remembered as much as almost any of the 16th cent, hymn-writers. His style is good and diguified; his thought is profound yet clearly expressed. While his hymns are often suf-ficiently didactic, they are generally scriptural and churchly in tone, and are characterised by lytic force, lively imagination, and carnest, soher piety. Of hymns, in the stylet sense, he wrote yet 18th a large number of churchly in tone, and are characterised by lytic force, lively imagination, and carnest, sober plety. Of hymna, in the strict sense, he wrote over 180, a large number of which passed into the German lymn-books of the 18th cent. (c.g. the Hammore G. B., 1740, and Limburg G. B., 1767, contains 52 by him), and a good many are still found in modern lymn-books. Of these Dr. J. L. Pasig gives 165 in his ed. of Rambach's Geistliche Liciter, Leipzig, 1844, and the rest are printed by Hansen as above, while the first lines of the whole are given in the Stätter as above. Four are recasts (practically originals), made for the 11th ed., 1719, of Freyling-lauser's G. B., to replace similar hymns in the cd. of 1763. The rest principally appeared in the following works by Rambach, viz.: (1) Geistliche Poeter, Halle. 1720 [Brit. Mus.] The first part contains 72 cantatas on the Gospels for Sundays and festivals; the recond part includes 20 hymns, mostly written at Pülzig in 1719. (2) Poetische Pest-Gedoncken. Jena and Leipzig, 1723 [Royal Lib., Berlin]. Included are 15 pieces which may be called hymns. The 2nd ad. of 1727 [Brit. Mus.] has 22 more, 1734 [Hamburg Library]. The 37d part contains 8 new hymns. (4) Geistreiches Haus-Gesang-Buck, Frankfurt and Leipzig, 1735 [Hamburg Library]. This sontians 112 hymns by Rambach, of which 58 are practically new, 11 of those, however, buring recasts of his own earlier hymns. (5) Wunder der bit such Tale dee Kreutzes entedrigten Lebes, Giessen, 1750 [Berlin Library]. This includes 27 new hymns.

One of Rambach's hymns is noted at p. 660, i. The others which have passed into English are :-

i. Anf! Seele, schicke dich. Holy Communion, Written, by request for the 11th ed., 1719, of Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, as No. 229, in 16 st. of 6 L, in order to replace the hymn "Auf, Seele, sey gerüst."

This hymn, by Geruse Heine, was included in the Scistreiches G. B., Halle, 1627, p. 433. In the 2nd ed., 1771, of the complete book formed by the fusion of pt. i., 1764, and its suppl. of 1705 with pt. fi., 1714, of Freylingbausen's G. B., both hymns are given, Heine's as No. 524, and Rambach's se No. 527, both marked as being No. 229 in pt. 1., 1764.

Rambach's hymn is in his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 369; the Berliu G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 471, &c. In Pasig's ed. of his Gristl. Lieder, 1844, p. 112, entitled "Before the reception of Holy Communion." It has been tr. as :-

My soul prepare to meet. Omitting st. i., ll. 4-6; ii., Il. 4-6; vii., xiv., as No. 570 in the Moravian II. Bk., 1789 (1849, No. 906). In the ed. of 1886, No. 979 begins with st. iv., "How should I, slaughtered Lamb"; and No. 1012 with st. xi., "Lord, of Thy wondrous love.

lf. Mein Jesu, der du vor dem Scheiden. Holy Communion. Appeared in Freylinghausen's  $\tilde{G}$ . B., 11th ed., 1719, as No. 238, in 9 st. of 6 l. It was written to replace the hymn "Mein Jesu, Halle, 1697, p. 363), in the 1st ed. of Freylinghausen's G. B. It is in his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 365; the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1601; and in Pasig, 1844, p. 110, entitled, "On the treasures of Grace in Holy Communion." The 193, are:-

1. Lord Jesus, Who before Thy passion. Omitting st. ix., this is No. 1181 in the Suppl. of 1808 to the Moravian H. Bh., 1801 (1886,

$. 0 Lord, Who on that last ead eve. A good tr., omitting st. ix., by Miss Cox, contributed to Lyra Eucharistica, 1863, p. 15, and repeated in her Hys. from the Ger., 1864, p. 75. Included, omitting st. iii., in G. S. Jellicoe's Coll., 1867.

iii. O Lehrer, dam kein Andrer gleich. Christ our Prophet. In his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 107, in 8 st. of 6 l., sutitled, "On the prophetical office of Jesus Christ." Repeated in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 118, and in Passy, 1844, p. 51. Tr. as:-

Burely none like Thee can teach. By Miss Fry, in 102 lines, in her Hys. of the Reformation, 1845, p. 126. A recast in 3 st. of 8 l., begin-"Saviour, none like Theo can teach," was included in J. Whittemore's Suppl. to all H. Bks., 1860, No. 263, and repeated in the Moth. N. Cons. H. Dk., 1863, No. 62.

iv. Wie herrlich iste ein Schliffeln Christi worden. Joy in Believing. In his Poetische Fest-Gedanchen, 2nd ed. 1727, p. 131, in 6 st. of 6 l., entitled, "The Blassedness of the Sheep of Christ, John z. 28, 'I give my sheep eternal life.'" In his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 325; the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 645; and Pasig, 1844, p. 189. 2r. as:—

How great the blins to be a sheep of Jesus. tr. of st. i., il., v., by C. J. Latrobe, as No. 293, in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1886, No. 385).

Humns not in English C. U.:-

v. Allwissender, vollkommner Geist, The Omni-scient One. In his Haus G. H., 1745, No. 12, in 6 st.; the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863; and in Pasig, p. 8. Tr. 25, "Thou Spirit, perfect and allwiss." By Dr. H.

as, "Thou Spirit, perfect and allwiss." By Dr. H.
Mill., 1858, p. 17.
vi. Frommes Lamm, von was für Hunden. Passiontide. In his Poetische Pest-Gedarcken, 2nd ed., 1727, p. 49, in 8 at. In his Hous G. B., 1735, No. 151, it begins, "Frommes Lamm, durch dessen Wunden."
Also in Passig, p. 67. 7r. as, "Great Thy surrows, injur'd Jesus." By Dr. H. Mills, 1835 (1956, p. 287).
vil. Gasatz und Evangelium. Law and Gospet. In his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 356, in 10 st.; the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863; and Passig, p. 105. Tr. as, "The holy law and gospel, both." By Dr. H. Mills, 1845
(1856, p. 27.)
viii. Herr, du hant nach dem Fall. Before Work.
In bis Haus G. R., 1735, No. 565, in 4st.; and Passig,
p. 150. In the Berlin G. R., 1756, No. 205, It is alteric (probably by J. S. Diterich), and begine "Do haet use,

In bis Hank G. H., 1735, No. 585, in 4 st.; and Parig, p. 150. In the Berlin G. E., 1505, No. 206. It is attered (probably by J. S. Diterich), and begins "In hast was, Herr die Pflicht." This is tr. 18, "Lord, Thou hast was, Herr die Pflicht." This is tr. 18, "Lord, Thou hast was, it is labour, bid us toil." By Miss Wierner, 1858, p. 230. ix. Hier bin ish Herr, du rufest mir. Christian Work. In his Haut G. B., 1735, No. 289, in 6 st.; the Worttemberg G. B., 1842, No. 306; and Pasig, p. 119. The trs. are (1) "Here am I. Lord, Thou callest me, Thou drawest ne." By Miss Warner, 1958, p. 209. (2) "Here am I. Lord, Thou callest me, Thou drawest and." By Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L., 4th series, 1862. x. Höchste Vollkommanheit, reineste Sonne. God's Majerly. Written for the 11th ed., 1719, of Freylinghauen's G. B., No. 170 (in 20 st.), to replace an atonymous hymn in the 1st ed., 1704, which began "Röchste Vollkommenheit, alles in Einem." In his Hans G. B., 1735, No. 3, Rambach reduced it to 12 st., and rewrote it to an easier matre, so as to begin "Röchstes Wesen, relants Sonne." Both forms are in Pracig, pp. 3-6. 57. as "If Heav'ns and Karthe there were innumerable," a tr. of st. file, vill., xi., xv., xvil., xix., xx., as No. 672, in pt. i. of the Moravica H. Ekc., 1754. xi. O greener Grint, dess Wasen Alles fillist. The Omnipresent One. In his Geitliche Poesien, 1729, p. 330, in 8 st.; his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 13; the Warttemberg G. B., 1842, No. 44; and Pasig, p. 7. Tr. as, "Elernal God, Thy dwelling-place." By Br. G. Walker, 1860, p. 73.

xii. O grosser Geist! O Ursprung aller Dings. God's Holiness. In bis Goisticks Poesien, 1720, p. 327, in 8 st.; his Haus G. B., 1335, No. 18; and Pasig, p. 15. Tr. as, "O mighty Spirit! Source whence all things sprung." By Miss Winkworth, 1868, p. 153.
xiii. Varklierte Majestii, anbetungs-wirdigst Wesen. God's Hajetty. Founded on 1 Tim. vi. 15, 16. In his Guisticke Poesien, 1720, p. 303, in 11 st.; his Haus G. B., 1735, No. 17; and Pasig, p. 2. The form tr. is "Anbetungswirdiger Gott," a recast (probably by J. S. Dietrich), which is No. 1 in the Berlin G. R., 1755, and No. 5 in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863. Tr. as, "Dread Majesty above." By Br. H. Mills, 1845 (1855, p. 8).
xiv. Wirf, bilder Sina, den Kummer hin, Christmas. In his Haus G. B., 1755, No. 120, in 8 st. (founded on Rom. vill. 31, 32). In Pasig, p. 8, and the Univ. L. S., 1851, No. 80. Tr. as, "Throw, soul. I say, thy fears away." By Mills Manington, 1864, p. 28.

Pavarroro an Mills Kandington, 1864, p. 28.

'Ρανάτωσαν ήμιν ἄνωθεν. ['Ανέστης τριήμερος.]

Randall, Thomas, M.A., was b, in 1711, and studied at the University of Edinburgh, where he graduated M.A. in 1730. In 1739 he became parish minister of Inchture, Perthshire, and in 1770 minister of the East Church, Stirling, He d, at Stirling, July 21, 1789. He was one of those added in 1744 to the Committee of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland which compiled the Translations and Paraphrases of 1745. To him is ascribed No. 11 in the collection of 1745, No. 49 in that of 1781. See Scottish [J. M.] Translations and Paraphrases.

Randolph, Anson Davis Fete, was b. at Woodbridge, New Jersey, Oct. 18, 1820, and subsequently became a publisher and bookseller in New York. His Hopefull: Waiting and other Verses were pub. in 186, His hymn "Weary, Lord, of struggling here" (Desiring to Depart), was written in 1849, and first printed in the New York Independent. It was repeated in his Hopefully Waiting, &c., 1867, and is in a few collections. [F. M. B.]

Rands, William Brighty, was b. in Chelsea in 1826 and d. at Dulwich on April 23rd, 1882. He was a considerable contributor to literature, but published his works under various names—e.g. "Matthew Browne," "Henry Holbeach," "Lilliput Levee," &c. One hymn by him of great force and originality has found its way into recent hymnals, "One Lord there is all Lords above" (God a consuming firs to sin). It appeared originally in his "Lilliput Lectures," 1872. It has been included in Horder's Congregational Hymns, 1884, and in the Congregational Church Hymnal, 1887. [W. G. H.]

Rankin, Jeremiah Eames, p.p., was b. at Thornton, New Haven, Jan. 2, 1828, and educated at Middleburg College, Vermont, and at Andover. For two years he resided at Potsdam, U.S. Subsequently he held pastoral charges as a Congregational Minister at New York, St. Albans, Charlestown, Washington (District of Columbia), &c. In 1878 he edited the Gospel Temperance Hymnal, and later the Gospel Bells. His hymne appeared in these collections, and in D. E. Jones's Songs of the New Life, 1869. His best known hymn is "Labouring and heavy laden" (Seeking Christ). This was "written [in 1855] for a sister who was an inquirer," was first printed in the Boston Recorder, and then included in Nason's Cong. H. Bk., 1857. Another of his hymns is "Rest, rest, rest, brother rest." He d. in 1904. [F, M, B.]

RAWSON, GRORGE

Rawson, George, was b. June 5, 1907, at Leeds, in which town he practised for many years as a solicitor. In 1853 he assisted the Congregational ministers of Leeds in the compilation of Psalms, Hymns, and Passages of Scripture for Christian Worship, a vol. commonly known as the Leeds Hymn-book. Mr. Rawson was a member of the Congregational In 1858 he also assisted Rev. Dr. Green and other Baptist ministers in the preparation of Pealms and Hymns for the use of the Baptist Denomination. A number of Mr. Rawson's own compositions first appeared in this and in the Leeds H. Bk. In 1876 he pub. his Hymne, Verses and Chants (Hodder and Stoughton, London), including his previously published hymns, and containing (exclusive of chants) 80 original pieces. In 1885 most of these, with several additional hymns, were pub by the R. T. S. under the title Songs of Spiritual Thought. Mr. Rawson d. March 25, 1889. His hymns are distinguished by refinement of thought, and delicacy and propriety of language; and if they do not attain the first rank among the songs of the Christian Church, many are of great excellence. The most widely known are, "By Christ redeemed, in Christ restored;" "Come to our poor nature's night;" "Father in high heaven dwelling;" "In the dark and cloudy day;" and "Resper, behold the fields are white." In the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, and the Bap. I's. & Hys., 1858, there are also several recasts of and additions to the hymns of other writers. These are noted in this Dictionary, and may be gathered from the Index of Authors and In addition to Mr. Rawson's Translators. spective first lines, the following are also in C. U.: hymns which are annotated under their re-

- i. From the Leeds H. Bk., 1853.
- 1. Captain and Saviour of the host, Burial.
- 1. Captain and caviour of the most. Birrant.
  2. Give dust to dust; and here we leave. Hurial.
  3. God the Lord is King—before him. Pt. zeiz.
  4. In the dark and cloudy day. Consolution.
  5. Soul, thy week of toil is ended. Saturday Evening.

- 6. Though the night be very long. Retignation.
- il. From the Baptist Pealme & Hymns, 1858.
- 7. Beautiful, desired, and dear. Public Worship.
  8. Blessed are they who have not seen. Fuith.
  9. Blessed is the faithful heart. Fuithfulness.
  10. Christ to heaven is gone before. Accordion.
  11. God the Father, be Thou near. Evening.
  12. He fell asheep in Unrist the Lord. Furuit.
  13. Immersed beneath the closing wave. Holy Enptito
- 14. Lord, we bless Thee, Who heat given. Holy
- Communion.

  15. My Father God, with flial awe. Abiding in God.

  16. Our eyes we lift up to the hills. The Lord the
- 17. Resper, behold the fields are ripe (white). Mis-
- 18. Rise, heart, thy Lord arose. Sunday. 19. Upon the holy mountains high, Security of the - Church. iii. From the Leeds Sunday S. H. Bk.,
- 20. And will [How shall] the mighty God. The Holy Ghost.
- 21. Jesus, the Lord, our Righteonances. Jesus, the children's Priend.

- 22. O Thou Good Shepherd. The Good Shepherd. iv. From Dr. Allon's Supplemental Hymne, 1868.
- 23. My Father, it is good for me. Trust.
  24. Then Who hast known the careworn breast.
- Evening.

  25. Walking with Thee, my God. Walking with God.
- v. From Mr. Rawson's Hymns, Verses, &c., 1876.
- 26. God is our Refuge; God our Strength. Ps. alvi.
  27. Lo, a voice from beaven bath said. Burial.
  28. Lord, let me pray. I know not how. The Holy Spirit detired.
- 29. O pallid, gentle, grief-worn face. Easter Esc.
  30. Out of the depths, the guifs, the night. Pr. craz.
  31. This, the old world's day of rest. Saturday
- Evening. [1854-7.] 82. Thou who Toyself didst sanctify. Ordination.
- [1654-7.]

  33. Voices of the deep blue night. The Heavenly
- 34. With gladness we worship. Public Worship.

When to these 34 hymns are added those which are annotated under their respective first lines, and the recests which are mainly Mr. Rawson's own composition, he is represented by about 50 hymns in the collections of the present day. It must be noted that in the Hymns, &c., 1876, and in the Songs, &c., the texts of the hymns have been revised by the author, and in several instances been weakened thereby. [W. R. S.)

Raymond, William Sterne, M.A., was b. in 1832, and educated at Magdalene College, Cambridge, B.A. 1854. Taking holy orders, he was for sometime Curate of Tedstone-Delamere, Herefordshire. Subsequently he became a Fellow of St. Nicholas College. Lancing, Sussex. He d. in 1863. His hymn for Easter Eve, "Weeping as they go their was pub. in I. G. Smith's H. Ilk. for the Services of the Church, &c., 1855, and is found in several collections. [J, J.]

Rebus creatis nil egens. [Septuagesima.] Pub. in the Paris Breviary, 1736; and again in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, 1736, p. 45. It is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

- 1. Our God, in His opiostial seet. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 63: and, again, in his Hys. of the Church mostly Primitive, 1841, No. 34. It was repeated in the People's H., 1867, and others. There are also altered versions of Chandler—as (1) "Blest in Thyself, created thing," in Johnston's English Hyl., 1852 and 1861; and (2) "O Lord, who art enthroned on high," in the Hymnary, 1872.
- 2. Then dost not need creation's aid. By R. Campbell, in his Hys. and Anthons, 1850, p. 61: and, again, in a few collections.
- 3. Of erestion nought Thou needest. By W. J. Blew, in his Church H. & Tune Bk., 1852-55: and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870.
- 4. C Ohrist, in Thins all-blissful state. By J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 121. This was rewritten by the Compilers of H. A. & M., 1861, as, "O Lord, in perfect bliss above" (omitted from H. A. & M. in 1875); and this, again, altered in the Rev. F. Pott's Hymns, 1861, as, "Thou, Who art All in All above.
- 5. 0 God, the joy of heav'n above. By the Compilers of H. A. & M. in their Suppl. Hymns, 1889.

1. Thou that lack'st no created thing. A. J. B. Hope.

2. Thou of the things created nothing needing.

Williams. 1839. [J. J.]

St. Bona-Recordare sanctae crucis. ventura. [Passiontide. Hely Cross.] Included as his "Laudismus de sancta cruce," in a collection of his tractates pub. at Paris c. 1510 (Brit. Mus. 3558 a). The text, in 90 lines, is also in his Opera, Mainz, 1609, vol. vi. p. 423. F. W. E. Both, in his Lat. Hymnen, 1887, gives a long form in 77 st. of 3 l. from a ms. of the 15th cent. at Darmstadt. selection of stanzas beginning with the first, is given by Ramback, i. p. 315; Daniel, ii. p. 101; Kehrein, No. 62, and others. Trench, ed. 1864, p. 143, gives a selection of stauzas from the second part of the poem beginning, " Quam despectue, quam dejectus."

Both of these selections from the original have been tr. either in full or in part, thus :--

L Recorders sauctus orucis. This, from Daniel's tėxt, st. i.—viii., xv., as:—

Pender then the Cross all hely. In Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869, was made by Dr. E. A. Washburn, of N. York. In the Hymnary, 1872, No. 37, is compiled, with slight alterations, from this tr., together with the addition of the last stanza.

Other tre, are :-

1. Make the Cross your meditation. Dr. H. Harbaugh in the American Merceraburg Review, 1863, p. 481.

2. Jesus holy Cross and dying, Dr. J. W. Alexander, in his The Breaking Crucibic, &c., 1861, and Schaff's Christ in Sung, 1869.

3. In the holy Cross delight. D. T. Morgan, 1871

And 1880.

il Quam despectus, quam dejectus. This from st. i.-iv., as in Trench, is 69. as :--

1. Sen of Man, and Man of secrows. By H. Kynaston, in his Occasional Hymns, 1862, No. 43. 3. 0 what shame and desolution. By P. S. Worsley, in his Poems and Trs., 1863, p. 183: and in Lyra Messionica, 1864.

ifi. Qui hase audis, ingenisce. This from the remaining sta. of Trench, is tr. as:-Thou that hearest, with His greaning, also by H. Kynnaton, in his Occasional H., No. 43, Pt. ii.

From these two parts in Kynaston, No. 36, in the Hymnary, 1872, is compiled. [J. J.]

Rector potens, verax Deus. St. Ambroce? [Noon.] This hymn has been ascribed to St. Ambrose, and is certainly ancient, but is not assigned to him by the Benedictine edi-tors. Daniel, 1., No. 41, gives the original (and the text of the Roman Brev., 1032), in 2 st. of 4 l., and at iv. p. 44, cites it as in a Rheinau Ms. of the 10th cent.; while at iv. p. 43 he expresses the opinion that the hymn "Bis terms horas" (q. v.), is more probably that written by St. Ambrose for the Sixth Hour. In all the ancient Breviories it is the bymn at Sext, as in the Ambresian of 1539, the Roman (Venice, 1478 and the revision of 1632), Mozarabic of 1502, Sarum, York, &c. It is suggested by Hosen vii. 4, Ps. xoi. 6, and James iv. 1. As the sixth hour was the time for the mid-day meal (Acts z. 9), it may have been meant for use as a prayer against [W. A. 8.] the temptations of the flesh.

More, i. p. 372, cites it as in two MSS. of the 6th cent. at Darmstadt and at Trier, both assigning it to Sext. It asso in three MSS. of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. Mi. f. 8 0; Jul. A. 6f. 22; Harl. 2961 f. 220); in a MS. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi,

Cambridge (381, p. 238); in the St. Gall. MS., No. 413, of the lith cent., &c. In the Latin Figs. of the Anglo-Samon Charret (Surtees Society), 1851, it is printed from an 11th cent. MS. at Durham (B. ill. 32 f. 4). [J. M.]

Translations in C. U.:-

I. O God, the Lord of place and time. Newman, in Tracts for the Times, 1836, No. 75, p. 68. In his Verses, &c., 1853 and 1868, it begins, "O God, Who canst not change nor fail." It is in several modern collections, including the S. P. C. K. Church Hys. 1871 (1853 text), Hys. for the Use of the University of Oxford, 1872, &c. 2. O Ged of truth, Almighty Lord. By J. Chandler, in his Hye, of the Primitive Church, 1837, p. 6. It was rewritten for the English Hyl., 1852, as "Unchanging God, all-powerful Lord." also slightly altered in the Hymnery, 1872.

3. Lord of eternal truth and might. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 11; and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 7. In Murray's Hymnal, 1852, and others.

4. Eternal Truth, eternal Might. By R. Campbell, in his Hys. and Anthons, 1850, p. 40; the Scottish Episco. Hymns, 1858, &c.

5. O God of truth, O Lord of might. By J. M. Neele, in the Hymnal N., 1852, No. 8, and later editions. In the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, sts. i., ii., were considerably altered, and a new dozology was substituted for that by Dr. Neale. It was agair altered by the Compilers of H. A. & M., 1861, and others. Mercer's text, in his Church Ps. & H. Bk., Oxford ed., is that of H. A. & M. again altered. It begins, "Thou God of truth, Thou Lord of might."

6. Then Kighty Buler, God of truth. By J. D. Chambers, in his Psalter, &c., 1852, p. 187, and the People's H., 1867. In Chambers's Landa Syon, 1857, p. 87, it was altered to "Almighty Ruler, God of truth."

Translations not in C. V. :-

1. Mightye Buler, God most true. Saruet Primer. 1545.

 All-rating God, unerring Way. Prisser. 1706.
 Mighty Sovereign, God Supreme. Bp. R. Mant. 1837.

4. Ruler omnipotent, Whose might. T. Doubleday's Hymnorium Anglicanum. 1844.

Mighty Buler, God most true, Guiding all, &c.
 Sp. J. Williams. 1845.
 God of might, in truth and power. W. J. Copeland.

7. Prince of all power, high God and true. W. J. Rice, 1852-55.

8. God of truth and King of power. H. Bonar, Hys.

of Fatth and Hope. 1846.
9. Strong Ruler, God Witone word is truth. J. Keble, in his Muscl. Forms. 1868.
10. O God of truth and Lord of might. J. Wallace.

[J. J.]

Redeemed offender, hail the day. A. M. Toplady. [Passiontide.] let pub. in his Poems on Sacred Subjects, &c., 1759, in 8 st. of 41. It was not included in his Ps. and Hys., 1776, but is republished in D. Sedgwick's reprint of his Hymns, 1860, p. 124. In its fall form it is not in common use, but a cento therefrom, "For me vouchsaf'd th' unspotted Lamb," is given in Spurgeon's G. O. H. Bk., 1866, No. 285. It is composed of st. iii. iv., and viii. unaltered.

Reed, Andrew, p.p., son of Andrew Reed, was b. in London on Nov. 27, 1787, and educated for the Congregational Ministry at Hackney College, London. He was first the pastor of the New Road Chapel, St. George'sin-the-East, and then of the Wycliffe Chapel, which was built through his exertions in 1830.

His degree was conferred by Yale College, | America. He d. Feb. 25, 1862. As the founder of "The London Orphan Asylum,"
"The Asylum for Fatherless Children," "The Asylum for Idiots," "The Infant Orphan Asylum," and "The Hospital for Incurables," Dr. Reed is more fully known, and will be longer remembered than by his literary publications. His Hymu Book was the growth of years. The proparation began in 1817, when he pub. a Supplement to Watts, in which were a few originals. This was enlarged in 1825; and entirely superseded by his collection The Hymn Book, prepared from Dr. Walts's Ps. & Hys. and Other Authors, with some Originals, in 1842 (Preface). His hymns, mostly of a plain and practical character, numbering 21, were contributed to these various editions, and were republished with those of his wife (see below) in the Wycliffe Supplement, 1872. The best known are "Ah Jesus, let me hear Thy voice," and "Spirit Divine, attend our prayer." All Dr. and Mrs. Reed's hymns are anonymous in The Hymn Book, 1842, but are given with their names in the Wycliffe Suppl., 1872. 'His hymns now in C. U. include, in addition to those annotated under their respective first lines :-

- Come, let us strike our harps afresh. Praise.
   Come, my Redeemar, come. Desiring Christ's Presence.
- 3. Gentle Saviour, look on me. Christ's protection Destroi.
- 4. Gracions Lord, as Thou hast taught us. Public
- Worthip.
  5. Hark, hark, the notes of Joy. Missions.
  6. Holy Ghost, with light divine (1917). Prayer to the Holy Spirit. Sometimes given as "Holy Ghost, Thos light divine;" and again as "Holy Spirit, Light
- queme."
  7. Listen, sinner, mercy halls you. Invitation.
  Generally given as "Harr. O Sinner, mercy halls you."
  8. Rich are the joys of solitude. Retirement. Sometimes given as "How deep and tranquil is the joy."
  9. There [comms] is an hour when I must part. Death anticopated.

10. Ye saints your music bring. Praise of the Cross. [J. J.]

Reed, Eliza, née Holmes, was b. in London, March 4, 1794; married to the Rev. Andrew Reed (see above) in 1916; and d. July 4, 1867. Mrs. Reed entered fully and earnestly into her husband's extensive charitable works. Her publications include Origi-nal Tules for Children; and The Mother's Manual for the Training of her Children, 1863. Her hymns, 20 in all, were contributed to her husband's collection, and were republished with his in the Wycliffe Chapel Supplement, 1872. They are only of average merit, and have not attained to a marked position. They include:-

- Gracious Lord, as Thou hast bidden. Holy Raptism.
   I would be Thine, O take my heart. Dedication of Self to Christ.
- 3. O do not let the word depart. The Accepted Time.
  4. O that I could for ever dwell. Communion with [J, J]

Regina coeli laetare. [B, V, M]selm Schubiger, in his Musikalische Spicelegien, Berlin, 1876, p. 57, cites it us in a ms. of 1372, now at Engelberg in Switzerland. It is given as an Easter autiphon in the Roman Brev., Modena, 1480, f. 512. Repeated in later eds. of the Roman Brev., and also in Daniel, ii. p. 319. Tr. as:-

Joy to thee, O queen of heaven. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Cutholica, 1849, p. 39; and his Hys, and Poems, 1873, p. 23. Repeated in a few Roman Catholic hymn-books for schools and missions.

Other tre. are :-

Vicer tri. ser:—
1. Re-Joyce, thow Queen of heaven. Primer. 1904.
2. O Queene of heaven, rejoyce. Primer. 1615.
3. Rajoyce, chast Queen of angels, and apply. J. Austin, in his heavious, &c. 1664.
4. Triumph, O Queen of heaven, to see. Primer. to see.

Rejolec, O Queen of heaven. Card. Newman, in Tracts for the Timer, 1836, No. 75, p. 24.
 Queen of heaven, now rejoice. J. Wallace. 1874.

[J. M.]

Regnantem sempiterna per saecula susceptura. [Advent.] This Sequence is found in a us. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775, 168), written c. 1000: and another circa 1070 (Douce, 222 f. 82b); in a Winchester book of the 11th cent. now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. 478); in a 12th cent. Gradual in the British Museum (Reg. 2 B. iv. f. 59 b), &c. Among Missals it is found in an early 14th cent. Paris, and a 14th cent. Sens, in the British Museum; in a Sarum, c. 1370; a Hereford, c. 1370, and a York, c. 1390, all now in the Bodleian; in the St. Andrew's and various French Missals. In the English Missals it is the Sequence for the second S. in Advent. The printed text is also in Nosle's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 5; in Daniel, v. p. 172, and Kelnein, No. 2. Tr. as:

Christ that ever raigneth. By E. A. Dayman, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.

Other trs. are:

Other trs. are:—
1. Him Who ruleth creation. J. D. Chambers. 1966.
2. To welcome Him Who shall for ever raign. J. W. Hewett, in Lyra Messianica, 1864.
3. Reception giving to the King eternal. C. B. Pearson, in the Suram Mismit in English, 1868.
4. Let the choir devouty bring. C. B. Tearson, in his Sequences from the Suram Mismal, 1871. [J. M.]

Regnator orbis summus et arbiter. Jean Baptiste de Santeüil. [St. Michael and All Angels.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1680; the Cluniac Brev., 1686, p. 1092; the author's Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1680, p. 43 (ed. 1698, p. 184); the Paris Brev., 1736; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1805. Tr. as :--

Where the angelic hosts adore Thee. By I, Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 255. In the Hymnary it begins, "Where the migel-hosts adore Thee." It is also altered in W. J. Blew's Church H. and Tune Bk., 1852-1855.

Another tr. is :-Omnipotent, infinite Lord. E. Caswall. 1958. [J, J, ]

Reinmar, sometimes called Reinmar der Alte, or Reinmar von Hagenau, seems to have been b. at Simssburg, about 1160. He lived principally at the court of Duke Leopold VI. of Austria, seems to have taken part with him in the Crusade of 1100, and wrote one of his finest pieces as an elegy on his death in 1194. Reiumar d. about 1207 (K. Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. i., 1884, p. 52, He was one of the most important of &c.). the Minnesingers, and is said to have been the inventor of most of the forms of lyric used by the later Minnesingers. This is strengthened by the fact that their pieces are in great measure variations on themes which were first employed by him. His pieces are principally love songs, and songs of the Crusades. The only one tr. into English is :-

Des Tages de leh das Kriuse nam. Crusader's Song. On Usrudy Thoughts. F. H. v. der Hagen, in his Minessinger, vol. i., 1839. p. 187, gives this from the Manessus. (14th cent.) of the Minessinger, now in the Bibliotheque Nationale, at Paris. Also in Wachernaget, ii., 59, in 4 st. of 10 l. Tr. at. "Ere since the day this Cross was mine." By Miss Winknorth, 1869, p. 44.

[J. M.]

Reissner, Adam, was b. in 1496 at Mündelsheim (now Mindelheim) in Swabian Bavaria, He first studied at Wittenberg, and then, about 1521, he learned Hebrew and Greek under Johann Reuchlin. then became private secretary to Georg von Freundsberg (who d. Aug. 20, 1528), and accompanied him during the campaign in Italy, 1526-27. After the capture of Rome in 1527 he went back to Germany, and spent some time at Strassburg, where he became a friend and adherent of Caspar Schwenkfeldt. He seems to have been living at Frankfurt-am-Main in 1563, but thereafter returned to Mindelheim, where he was still living in 1572. He appears to have d. there about 1575. (Koch, ii. 156; Preface to his Historia Herru Georgen unnd Herrn Casparn von Fründsberg's [d. Aug. 31,1536] Vatters und Sons . . . Kriegesthaten, Frankfurt-am-Main, 1568. The Brit, Museum copy is unmistakably dated on title 1568, but the preface is dated Jan. 31, 1572.)

Three of Reissner's earlier hymne are in Zwick's G. B., 1858-66. His later hymne, including a tr. of the hymne of Prudentius, are collected in two uses, both dated 1896 (see Wackersaget, b. pp. 596, 594). That now at Wolfenbüttel is entitled Teglishs Getanglasch... durch Adam Resumer, and contains over 40 hymne which may be regarded as by Reissner, the rest being by other writers of the school of Schwenckfeldt. Wackersagel, vol. iff., civer No. 124, 134 moder ble med. gives Nos. 170-194 under his name.

The only hymn by Reissner &. into English

In dich hab ich gehoffet, Herr. Ps. zzzi. 1st pub. in the Form und ordnung Gaystlicher Gesang und Pratissen, Augeburg, 1533, and thence in Wackernaget, sill. p. 193, in 7 st. of 6 l. It was included in V. Babst's G. B., 1545, and repeated in almost all the German hymn-books up to the period of Rationalism. It is one of the best Pasin-versions of the Reformation period. Included in the Unv. L. S., 1351, No. 629. The tr. in C. II is:

In Thee, Lord, have I put my trust. A good tr., omitting st. vii., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1869, No. 120.

Other tra. are:—
(1) "Lord, let me never be confoundit." In the Gude and Godly Bullates, ed. 1568, f. 22; ed. 1569, p. 141.
(2) "Great God! in Theo I put my Trust." By J. C. Jacobi, 1725, p. 33 (1732, p. 116). Repeated in the Moravian II. Bis., 1754, pb. i., No. 118. (3) "Lord, I have trusted in Thy nane." By Dr. II. Mills, 1850, p. 171. (4) "On Tuce, O Lord, my hopes I leav." By N. L. Frothingham, 1870, p. 262. [J. M.]

Rejoice and be glad, the Redeemer has come. H. Bonar. [Praise of Jesus.] Written for I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, eirea 1875. From that collection it has pussed into a large number of Sunday School hymn-books, and others. [J. J.]

Rejoice, rejoice, ye fallen race. C. Wesley. [Whitsuntide.] Pub. in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1742, p. 165, in 12 st. of 4 l., and headed "Hymn for the Day of Pentecost." (P. Works, ii. p. 227.) The following centos are in part, or in full from this hymn:—

1. Guy Jeaus is gone up on high. Composed of st. ii.-ix. in the recised ed. of the Wes. H. Rk., 1875.

2. Lord, we believe to us and ours. Composed of st. v., vii.-ix., xi., and given as a Hymn for Ember Days in Mercer's Ch. Peolier & H. Bk., Oxford ed., 1844.

3. Come, Hely Spirit, raise our songs. This central is composed of st. i.-ill. from R. C. Brackenbury's Suc.

Passas & Hys., 1792; and the rest from this hymn by G. Wesley. It was given in this form in the Wes. H. Bk., 1836, but omitted in 1875.

[J. J.] [J. J.]

Rejoice, the Lord is King. C. Wesley. [Easter or Ascension.] This is No. viii, of 16 hymns printed in 1746 as Hys. for Our Lord's Resurrection. It is in 6 st. of 6 l. It had previously appeared in J. Wesley's Moral and Sacred Poems, 1744. (P. Works, iv. p. 140.) It has been included, either in full or in part, in most hymn-books of any moment from Whitefield's, in 1753, to Thring's, in 1882, with the result that it is in extensive use in all English-speaking countries. Curiously enough, however, it was not given in the Wes. H. Bk. until the revised ed. of 1875. A cento for harvest beginning with the first stanza is found in some Unitarian hymu-books both old and new, including Ellen Courtaild's Ps., Hys. and Anthens, It is in 5 st., the first stanza and ll. 5, 6, of each of the others being from this hymn, whilst the rest are by John Taylor in Enfield's Norwich Sci. of Hys., 1795. [See Taylor, John.] In R. Bingham's Hymno. Christ. Latina, 1871, st. i., ii., iv., vi., slightly altered, are rendered iuto Latin as, " Rex est Dominus! Lectanics."  $[J, J_i]$

Rejoice to-day with one accord. Sir II. W. Baker. [General Thanksgiving.] Contributed to the 1st ed. of II. A. & M., 1861, and continued in the revised ed. of 1875. It is also repeated in a large number of hymn-books both at home and abroad. It is justly regarded as a good example of the author's jubilant style.

Beligion is the chief concern. J. Fauccett. [Pure Religion desired.] Pub. in his Hypans, &c., 1782, No. 68, in 8 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The Nuture and Necessity of inward Religion." It is in C. U. in an abbreviated form, under the original opening line, and also as, "O may my heart, by grace renew'd." [J. J.] ronow'd."

Remark, my soul, the narrow bounds. P. Doddridge. [New Year.] 1st pub. in J. Orton's posthumous ed. of his Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 52, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 65. In each case it is headed "Reflections on our weste of years, Psel. rc. 9. For New Year's Day." It is in C. U. in the following forms:

1. Remark, my soul, the narrow bounds. The original form in several collections both old and new.
2. Remark with awe then arrow bounds. In Stowell's Manchester Is. & Hys., 1831 and 1277, &c.
3. Behold, my soul, the narrow bounds. It. W. Beecher's Physicoth Coll., 1855. [J. J.]

Reproaches, The. [Papule meus quid feoi

Rerum Creator omnium. C. Coffin. [Saturday.] Appeared in the Paris Breviary, 1736; and again in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, 1736, p. 30. It is also in J. Chaudler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, and Cord. Newman's Hymni Eccl., 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

1. Creator of mankind. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 30. It is in this form in a few collections; and also as, "O Saviour of mankind," in Kennedy, 1863.

2. Haker of all things, aid our hands. By I.

Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Porisian Breplary, 1839, p. 39. Given in a few collections without alterations; and, in others, including the Sarum, 1868, and the Hymnary, 1872, as, "Creator of the world, do Thou."

Other trs. are :-

 O Thou by Whom the worlds were made. J. D. immbers. 1887. 2. Maket of all, vouchaste to bless. D. T. Morgan. [J. J.]

Rerum Creator optime. St. Gregory the Great? [Wednesday Morning.] Mone, No. 275, gives this as probably by St. Gregory (it is not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors), and at i. p. 372, cites it as in an 8th cent. us. at Trier. Daniel gives the text at i., No. 44; and at iv. p. 37, cites it as in a Rheinau Ms. of the 10th cent., and ranks it as a hymn of the 7th or 8th cent. Among the British Museum was, it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii, f. 17b; Jul. A. vi. f. 26; Harl. 2961 f. 222 b); in an 11th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium (Add. 30851 f. 178); an 11th cent. Mozarabic Breviary (Add. 30848 f. 76), &c. It is in an 11th cent. ms. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 234); in three MSS. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall, Nos. 337, 413, 414; and in the Lat. Hys. of the Angle-Saxon Church (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii. 32 f. 7). It is included in the Roman (Venice, 1478, and the revision of 1632), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries; uniformly for Wednesday at Nocturns or at Matins. The text is also in Wackernagel, i., No. 92; Hymnarium Sarisb., 1851, p. 49; Königefeld, p. 10; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; and G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from a 10th cent. Ms. Tr. as:-

- O Creatour, most benigne. Survey Printer, 1546.
   O God, Whose power did all creats. Primer, 1706.
   Drend Maker of whate'er we see. T. Doubleday's
- argunusrum Anglicanum, 1844.

  4. Greator, ever good and kind. W. J. Copeland, 1848.

  5. O bleat Creator of the world. E. Caswall, 1849.

  6. Creator, Lord of all. R. Campbell, 1850.

  7. Creator of all worlds, look down. J. D. Chambert, 1852. In 1857 it reads: "Creator of the world, look down."
- 8. Who madest all, and dost control. Card. Neuman.
- 9. O great Creator of the orb. J. Wallooc. 1874. 10. Let us keep steadiest guard. American Meth. pisco. Hymns, 1878.

Maker of all things, God of Love. Hymner, 1882.

[J. M.] Rerum Deus tenax vigor. St. Ambrose? [The Ninth Hour.] This hymn is given by Biraghi as one of the Inni sinceri e Carmi di Sant' Ambrogio, 1862; but it is not one of the twelve received as genuine by the Benedictine editors of St. Ambrose. Daniel gives the text at i., No. 42, and at iv. p. 45, cites it as in a Rheinau Ms, of the 10th cent. and ranks it as a hymn of the 7th or 8th cent. Mone, i. p. 372, cites it as in mes. of the 8th cent. at Darmstadt and Trier; and Thomasius, ii. 418, as in a Vatican Ms. of the 8th cent. It is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church now in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xil. f. 9; Jul. A. vi. f. 22; Harl. 2961 f. 220); in an 11th cent we at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 230); in the St. Gall Ms. No. 413, of the 11th cent.; and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Church (Surfees Soc.), 1851, it is printed from an 11th cent. ms. at Durham (B. iii, 32 f. 4 b), It is included in the Roman (Venice, 1478, and the revision of 1632), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries, uniformly for None. The text is also in Wackernagel, i., No. 8; Hymnarium Sarisb., 1851, p. 41; Künigsfeld, ii. p. 24; Card. New-The text is also in man's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865.

Translations in C. U.:-

1. 0 God, unchangeable and true. By Card. Newman, in Tracts for the Times, 1836, No. 75, p. 72, and his Verses, &c., 1853 and 1868. In Thring's Coll. 1882.

[J. M.]

2. Almighty God, Thy Throne above. By J. Chandler, to his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 7. Repeated in the Hymnary, 1872, and other collections.

3. God, of all the Strength and Stay. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848: the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, &c.

4. 0 Thou, true Life of all that live. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 12: and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 8. It was repeated, with alterations, in Murray's Hymnol, 1853; and, again, in later collections, usually without any change.

5. 0 God, orestien's secret Force. By J. M. Neals, in the Hymnal N., 1852, No. 7, and later editions of the same.

8. O God, of all the Strength and Stay. By J. D. Chambers, in his Psalter, &c., 1852, p. 144, and his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 39. This is the most popular of the trs. of this hymn, and is found in several hymn-books, including the Parish H. Bk., 1863; People's H., 1867; Sarum, 1868; Thring's Coll., 1882, &c.

7. 0 God, of all the Strength and Power. This tr. was given in H. A. & M., 1861. In the Index of the revised ed. 1875, it is said to be by "Rev. J. M. Neale, D.D., and compilers: from the Latin." The rendering, however, is much nearer those of Caswall and Chambers than that of Noule. It is in a limited number of hymn-books.

8. O Strength and Stay, upholding all creation. This popular tr. appeared in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, and is by J. Ellerton and F. J. A. It is repeated in several collections. H. A. & M., 1875, and Thring's Coll., 1882, it is given with the addition of a doxology, by Mr. El-lerton. This tr. bids fair to supersede that by Mr. Chambers in popularity. Its metre is greatly in its favour. It is in Mr. Ellerton's Hymns, 1888.

This cente, 9. 0 God, the Light of all that live. in J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1856, and the American Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865, is thus composed: sts. i., ii., Caswall; st. iii., Card. Newmon.

Translations not in C. U. :---

2. O God, the Energy of things. Primer, 1706.
2. Nature 6 God, att-ruling Power. Bp. R. Mant, 1837.
3. Thou of the universe the Stay. J. Doubleday's Hymnarium Anglicanum, 1844.

Great God, o'er all things ever reigning. Rp. J. Williams, 1845. 5. Strength of the evericating hills. R. Campbell, 1850.

6. Thou God of all, unmoved and strong. W. J. Men, 1852-5

7. God of heaven and earth, Whose Might. H. Bouar, Hyr. of Faith and Hope, 1867.

8. O God, th' endoring Might of things. J. Kehle, Miscell, Poepis, 1869. 9. Creator, whose almighty power. J. Wallace, 1874.

[J. J.]

Rest from thy labour, rest. J. Mont-omery. [Death and Burial of a Minister.] J. Mont-Montgomery was received into the Moravian communion as a member of that Society by the Rev. Christian Ramftler. Mr. Ramftler died at Bristol on Oct. 25, 1882. In the letter which conveyed to him the sad intelligence, Montgomery was requested to write a suitable hymn for the approaching Lovefeast at Bristol. The response was this hymn, which was first sung in public at Bristol (Memoirs, v. 66). It was included in Montgomery's Original Hys., 1853, No. 307, in 5 st. of 41., and headed "On the death of a Minister." On Jan. 22, 1851, Montgomery wrote a hymn on the death of the Rev. Dr. Sutton, Vicar of Sheffield, which began with the same opening stanza. This hymn is not in the Original Hys., nor in C. U. The original is in a large number of hymn-books. In 1849 st. iii.-v. were given in Dr. Alexender's Augustine H. Bh., No. 494, and have been repeated in several later collections as "Lord Christ, into Thy hands." The early date of this cento suggests that the hymn was published before it appeared in the Original Hys., 1853, and possibly in a magazine, but it has not been traced to any work of Rest in the Lord ; from harps above. Bp. E. H. Biolersteth. [Hely Matrimony.] Bp. Bickersteth says in his Notes to his H. Comp., 1870, that "This hymn was written by the Editor for this hymnal, and is especially designed to follow the air from Mendelssohn's Elijah, 'Rest in the Lord,' which is so often played at the solemnization of holy matrimony." In addition to the H. Comp. this hymo appeared in Bp. Bickersteth's The Two Brothers, &c., 1871, p. 242, and in several hymn-books. [J. J.]

Rest, weary heart [soul]: The penalty is borne, the ransom paid. Jane Borthwick. [Passiontide.] Pub. in her Thoughts for Thoughtful Hours, 1859, p. 93, in 4 st. of 7 ). It has passed into several collections, and sometimes as "Rest weary soul: The penalty," &c. It is a beautiful hymn, but better adapted for private devotion than for public worship.

Restore, O Father, to our times restore. Maria Popple. [Christian Unity desired.] Contributed to Beard's Unitarian Coll. of Hys., 1837, No. 304, in S st. of 4 l., and entitled "Christian Unity." It is signed "Miriam." It has passed into a few collections of Policians of Marian. tions in G. Britain and America.  $\{J, J, J\}$

Retire, vain world, awhile retire. [Home Missions.] This is found in the 1828-1829 ed. of the American (Old Presbyterian) Ps. & Hys...of the Presb. Church, in 7 st. of 4 l., and again in later collections. In most cases it is attributed to I. Watts, but we have failed to trace it to any of his works. Two centoe therefrom are also in C. U., both beginning with st. ii., "Blest Jesu, come Thou gently down." The first is in the Presby. Ps. & Hys. for the Worship of God, Richmond, U. S. A., 1867, composed of st. ii., iv.-v.; and the second, in Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872, composed of st. ii., iii., vi., vii. It is usually given for Bevival Services and Prayer Meetings, [J, J.]

Return, O wanderer, return. W. B. Collyer. [Call to Repentance.] Appeared in the Evangelical Magazine, May 1806, and in his Hymne, &c., 1812, No. 928, in 6 st. of 4 l., and headed "The Backshider." It is in use in its original form; as " Beturn, my wandering soul, return And seek an injured," &c., in the Philadelphia Bap. H. & Tune Bk., 1871; and as "Wanderer from God, return, return," in a few of the American collections. [J. J.]

Reusner, Adam. [Reisser, A.]

Reusmer, Christoph, was a bookseller and bookbinder in Stockholm, and was probably born there, but date of birth is unknown. In 1675 he printed, and seems also to have edited, a collection of hymns for the German congregation at Stockholm, entitled Gottselige Haus- und Kirchen-Andacht, zu Dienst der Gemeine der Teutschen Kirche in Stockholm. This work contains a number of hymns signed "R," which have been ascribed to Renguer. By others this "R" has been taken to mean Regins, i.e. the Queen of Sweden [Ulrike Eleonore, dau. of King Frederick III. of Denmark, b. at Copenhagen, Sept. 11, 1656; became Queen of Swoden by her marriage with Charles xt. in 1680; d. at Carlberg, July 26, 1693], but this ascription seems quite improbable. One of these hymns has passed into English, viz. :-

English, viz.;—

Bin ich allein ein Fremäling auf der Erden. Cross and Consolation. 1st pub. 1815 as above. A copy of this work is in the Royal Library at Stockholm, and Dr. O. E. Kleumsing, the librarian, has kindly informed me that the bymn in question is No. 441, and is in 13st and signed "B." He adds that in the ed. of 1893 it has 15st (st. xl., xil. being additional), and that in the Geirichest Hondbuck, Stockholm, Wankiff, 1882, it has 17st (st. xl., xiv. being additional). As the German hymnocks copied from Stockholm, Wankiff, 1882, it has 17st (st. xl., xiv. being additional). As the German hymnocks copied from Stockholm, there is the same variety in them, e.g. the Frankfurt ed. 1878, of Chigaris Prazis, No. 23t, has the 13st of 1652, and so in Freylinghausent's Nesse Getsfreiches G. E., 1714, No. 448, Bunsen, in his lerrach, 1833, No. 381, follows the 1875, but omits st. ill., vi. The tr. in C. U. is:— Am I a stranger here, on earth alone. In full from Bunsen, by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 57. In her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 43, the tra of st. v., vii., viii., x. are omitted, and it is given altered in metre as "Am I on earth a lone and friendless stranger."

Bevive Thy work, O Lovel, Thy

hymnals in G. Britsin and America. The original text is usually given with the change of st. v. l. 2, "Give pentecostal showers," to "And give refreshing showers," as in the H. Comp., No. 150. It is one of the most popular of Mr. Midlane's hymns. [J. J.]

Rex neterne Domine. [Eastertide.] This hymn is certainly ancient, being mentioned in the Rule of Aurelianus of Arles (d. 535), and by the Venerable Bede (d. 785) in his fluoritation. rabic Breviary, in the British Museum (Add. 30848 f. 131 b); in a ms. of the 8th cent at St. Gall, No. 2; and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Church (Surtees Society), 1851 is printed from an 11th cent. as. at Darham | (B. iii. 32 f. 9 b).

The original text has 16 stanzas and a dexology. This form is in Baniel, i., No. 30 (for instrical reasons but without any authority Baniel reads, O Rex seterne); Wackernoget, i., No. 64; the Hymnarian Sarieb., 1851, p. 95; and in G. M. Brever's Hymnarian Sarieb., 1851, p. 36; and in G. M. Brever's Hymnarian Solutionesis, 1888, from a 19th cent. Ms. In the older Roman Breviary (e.g. Venice, 1478), at i.-vii, were given as a hymn for Mathas on Low Sunday. At the revision of 1568 it was altered to Rex sempiteres Bonnies, and at he revision of 1659 to Rex sempiteres Bonnies, and of the revision of 1659 to Rex sempiteres Bonnies, and of toos it was attered to nex sempteme Bomine, and at the revision of 1632 to Rex sempteme confitum. The text of 1632 (appointed for Sunday Matins, "Tempure Paschali," i.e. during Eastertide), is in recent eds. of the revised Roman Bres.; in Danté, i., No. 83; and Card. Nasman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. [J. M.]

This hymn has been tr, as follows: -

i. Rex seterne Domine. Of the full text there is one tr., that by J. D. Chambers in his Psalter, &c., 1852, p. 90, "O king Eternal, Lord of grace," and in his Lauda Syon, 1857, altered to, "Eternel Monarch, Lord of all."

This Roman ii. Rex zempiterne coelitum. Breviary text in 6 st. has been tr. thus:-

- 1. 0 Thou, the heaven's eternal King. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 96; and his Hys. and Pooms, 1873, p. 54. In a full or in an abbreviated form it has passed into several bympals.
- 2. O Christ, the heaven's eternal King. By the Compilers of H. A. & M., 1861, "based on former translations." It was repeated in Kennedy, 1863.
- 5. Eternal Ring of heaven, Whose word. By G. Moultrie, in his Hys. and Lyrics, 1867, p. 125; and thence into the People's H., 1867.

Translations not in C. U. :-

- Eternal King, whose equal Reign. Primer, 1708.
   Thou, Whom their Maker heaven and earth, Bp. R. Mant, 1837.
  3. Of heaven's high host, eternal Lord. W. J. Cope-
- land, 1848.
- 4. Eternal King of all the spheres. J. Wallace, 1874. iil. Qui pastor acternus gregom. This, beginning with st. v. of the Roman Brev. text, is tr. by W. J. Blew, in his Church H. and Tune Bh., 1852-5, as "Shepherd of life, Who dost Thy flock," [J. J.]

Rex angelorum praepotens. [Passioutide.] This is found in a Ms. of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Harl. 2961 f. 239). Daniel, 1., No. 221, gives st. i. only as a hymn "on the Invention or Exaltation of the Cross." Tr. as:

O King of Angels! Lord of power. By J. D. Chambers in his Psalter, &c., 1852, p. 85, and altered to "O King, by angel-hosts obeyed," in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 147, in 5 st. of 4 l. In the Parish H. Bk., 1863 and 1875, and in Chope's Hymnal, 1864, it is given, with alterations and the omission of st, il., as, "O King of angels, Lord of grace."  $(J, \mathbf{M})$

Rex Christe, factor omnium. 8t. Gregory the Great. [Passiontide.] This is one of the eight hymns accepted in the Bencdictine ed. of Gregory's Opera (Paris, 1705, vol. iii, col. 879), as his genuine productions. It is found in a MS of the 11th cent in the British Museum (Harl. 2061 f. 240); in a Ms. of the 12th cent in the Bodleian (Liturg. Misc. 297 f. 309); in three MSS. of the 11th cent. at St. Gell (Nos. 387, 818, 514), and others. In mediaeval times it was often used at the Tenebrae service on Good Friday, but does not seem to have been received into the more important Breviaries. It long survived in its original form in the Lutheran Church, !

and is e.g. in the Dresden  $G.\ B.$ , 1748, p. 991, as one of "Certain Latin hymns as they are sung from time to time at week-day sermons in the Holy Cross Church, at the beginning of Divine service." The text is found in Daniel, i., No. 151; Bässler, No. 58; Königsfeld, i. p. 72, and others. Tr. us :--

O Christ! our King, Creator, Lord. By Ray Palmer, in the Andover Subbath II, Bh., 1858, No. 336.

Other tra, are :-

1. O Christ our King, Who all hast made. II. J.

7. O Caries our King, who all mass made. 11. J. Copeland, 1818.
2. O Christ on King, by Whom were framed. J. D. Chambers, 1852 and 1857.
3. Thou King anointed, at Whose word. Rev. James Inglis, N. York, 1868, in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869.
4. O Thou by Whom the worlds were made. h. T. Morgan. 1889. ade. D. T. [J. M.]

Rex gloriose martyrum. [Common of Martyrs.] Probably of the 6th cent. Included in the Bern Ms. 455 of the 10th cent.; in a us. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (391, p. 273); and in four MSS. of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xii. f. 106; Jul. A. vi. f. 64 b; Harl. 2961 f. 248; Add. 30851 f. 152b); and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Suxon Church, 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii. 32 f. 38 b). Also in an 11th cent. Ms. at St. Gall, No. 414; and in the Roman, Sarum, York, Aberdeen, and other Breviaries. The printed text is also in Mons, No. 732; Daniel, i., No. 237, and iv. p. 139; Card. New-man's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; G. M. Droves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from [J. M.] a 10th cent. ms., &c.

Translations in C. U.:-

- 1. O Thou, the Martyr's glorious King Of Confeesers, &c. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catho-lica, 1849, p. 214; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 113. In a few collections only.
- 2. Glorious King of martyrs. By T. I. Ball, in the 1860 Appendix to the Hypnned N.
- 3. O glorious King of martyr hosts. By R. F. Littledale, in the People's H., 1867, under the signature of "B. T.": and, again, in the Hymner, 1882.

Translations not in C. U.:—
1. O King of Martirs glorious. Primer, 1604.
2. O Thou the Martyrs glorious King, The Crowne, 2. Primer, 1615.

3. Bright King of Martyrs and the Crown. Primer, 1685.

- 4. O Christ, thy Martyre' glorious King. Primer, 1708.
  5. Glorious King of martyre Thou. R. Campbell. 1650.
- O glorious King of martyrs. W. J. Blow, 1852-56.
   All glorious King of martyrs Thou. J. D. Cham-
- bers 1854.

  8. Jesus, the glorious martyrs' King. J. Wallace. [J, J,]

Rex omnipotens die hodierna. mannus Contractus (?). [Ascension.] This is found in a Ms. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775 f. 145), written c. 1000, as a Sequence "on the Ascension of the Lord," and in another Ms., in the same Library, of circa 1070 (Douce, 222, f. 101); in a Winchester book of the 71th cent. now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. 473); in a ms. of the 11th cent. (Harl. 2961 f. 254), and another of the 11th or 12th cent. (Reg. 8 C. xiii. f. 22), both in the British Museum, &c. Among Missals it is found in an early 14th cent. Paris and a 14th cent. Sens in the British Museum; in a Sarum, c. 1370, a Hereford, c. 1370, and n York, c. 1390, all now in the Bodleiau; in the St. Andrew's, and various French Missals, its use being uniformly for the Ascension. The printed text is also in Neale's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 58; Daniel, v. p. 66, and Kehrein, No. 116 (see also p. 967, ii.). Tr. as:-

1. Lord of all power and might, Kankind redeemed, hc. By C. S. Calverley, in the 1871 ed. of the Hymnary, No. 305, and in his Literary Remains, 1325.

9. To the throne He left, victorious. By E. H. Plumptre, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 305, in the place of the above No. 1.

3. The simighty King, victorious, on this day. By C. B. Pearson, in the Sarum Histal in English, 1868, and bis Sequences from the Sarum Histal, 1871.

J. M.] Rhodes, Benjamin, b. at Mexborough, Yorkshire, in 1743, was brought under the influence of religion by the preaching of George Whitefield in 1766. He was the son of a schoolmaster, and received the elements of a good education in his youth. He was for many years a Wesleyan Minister, baving been sent forth to preach by John Wesley. He d. at Margate Oct. 13, 1815. To Joseph Benson's Hys. for Children and Young Persons, 1806, and his Hymns for Children selected chiefly from the publications of the Bev. John and Charles Wesley, and Dr. Watts, &c., 1814 (an additional volume to the first, and sometimes bound up with it, he contributed several hymns. Very few of these are now in C. U. They include "Children, your parents' will obey" (Duty towards Parents), "Come, let us join our God to praise" (Praise), and "Thou shalt not steal thy neighbour's right" (Against Steading.) His best known hymn is "My heart and voice I raise" (The Kingdom of It appeared as st. i. of his poem Christ). 1787, pt. ii. being "Jerusalem Messiak, divine." Each part is in use as a separate hymn. [J. J.]

Rhys, Morgan, a famous Welsh hymnwriter of the last century. He published several collections of hymna under quaint titles. Golwg o ben Nebo ar wlad yr Addewid (A View of the land of promise from the top of Mt. Nebo). Freed Yebrydal (The Spiritual Warfare). Graddforman y Credadyn, &c. (The Groanings of the Believer). He d. in 1776, and was buried at Llanfynydd Church, in Caermarthenshiro. [W. G. T.]

Richards, George, born near Newport, Rhode Island, circa 1755. For some years he was Purser and Chaplain in the United States Navy, and also taught a school in Boston. In 1789 he became an Universalist preacher, ministered at Portsmouth, New Haven, 1793-1809, and from 1809 in Philadelphia, where, his mind having given way under trouble, he d. by his own hand, March 16, 1816. With S. Lane be edited the *Uni*versalist Hymn Book, pub. at Boston, 1792. This was one of the earliest collections of y. It contained 49 of Richards's In 1801 he pub. A Coll. of Hys., that body. hymns. Dover, New Hampshire, which contained 6 additional hymns by himself, and in 1806, also at Dover, a second ed. of the same, greatly enlarged, with another 26 hymns. Of these the following are in C. U. at the present time :~-

1. O Christ, what gracious words. The Gospel

This hymn appeared in the Boston Message. Coll., 1792, and is the best of the early Universalist hymns. In the Andover Sabbath II. Bk., 1858, it is given as "Saviour, what gracious words." In this form and also in the original, it is found in several collections.

3. Long as the darkening cloud abode. Easter. This hymn in modern collections, as the Songs of the Sanctuary, 1865, No. 687, is composed thus: st. i. and ii., ll. 1-4, are from Richards, and the rest of the hymn, 3 st. of 8 l. in all, is anonymous.

Additional hymns by Richards, from both the Boston and the Dover collections, are in modern Universalist hymn-books. [F. M. B.]

Richardson, James, s. of the Hon. James Richardson, of Dedham, Massachusetts, was b. in that town May 25, 1817, and graduated at Harvard College, 1837. After being engaged, first as a clerk of the county courts, and then in teaching, he entered the Divinity School at Cambridge, where he graduated in theology in 1845. Subsequently he was Unitarian Pastor at Southington, Connecticut, and then of the Unitarian Society in Haverhill, Massachusetts. Ill-health compelled him to retire from his pastoral work to Dedham. During the war he joined himself to the hospitals at Washington, where he d. Nov. 10, 1863. Mr. Richardson was well known as an Essayist, Poet, and Preacher. Two of his hymns, from Longfellow and Johnson's Book of Hys., 1848, are still in C. U.: "From Zion's holy hill there rose" (One in Christ), and "How glad the tone when summer's sun." (Summer). We are indebted to Putnam's Singers and Songs of the Liberal Faith, Boston, U.S. A., 1875, for these details.  $\{J, J_i\}$

Richter, Anne, née Rigby, was the third daughter of the Rev. Robert Rigby, Vicar of St. Mary's, Beverley, Yorkshire, from 1791 to 1823, and married the Rev. W. H. Richter, sometime Chaplain of the County Gael at Kirlon Lindsey, Lincoln-shire, and then Rector of St. Paul's, Lincoln, Mrs. Richter d. at 23 Minster Yard, Lincoln, in 1857. She contributed to various magazines, and pub. The Nun and Other Poems, Hull, 1841. Her intimate literary acquaint-ances included Mrs. Hemans. Mrs. Richter was descended from the celebrated John Bradshaw, whose name is the first in the list of the signatures on the death warrant of Charles t. Her hymn, "We have not seen Thy footsteps tread," in its altered form as "We saw Those not when Thou didst come," is widely used in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

Richter, Christian Friedrich, a of Sigismund Richter, Rath and Chancellor to Count von Promnitz at Sorau, in Brandenburg, was born at Sorau, Oct. 5, 1676. At the University of Halle he was first a student of medicine and then of theology. In 1698, A. H. Francke appointed him Inspector of the Paedagogium, and then made him, in 1699, physician in general to all his Institutions. In company with his younger brother, Dr. Christian Sigismund Richter, he made many chemical experiments, for which he prepared himself by special prayer; and invented many compounds which came into extensive use under the name of the "Halle Medicines," the most famous being the Essentia dulcis, which was a preparation of gold. He d. at Halle, Oct. 5, 1711 (Kock, iv. 354, &c.).

Richter was one of the most important hymn-writers among the Pictists of the earlier Halle school; and his hymns possess the defects as well as the excellences of his school. They are emotional, and develop the idea of the spiritual union with thrist as the Bridegroun of the soul, with a minuteness that is hardly reverent (e.g. No. xi, below). They are also frequently not clearly thought out, and consequently comewhat obscure, Various of them are in unusual metres, and were wedded to tunes not very devotional in character. Apart from these defects there are various of his hymns worthy from these defects there are various of his hymns worthy of note for their gennins, fervent piety, their childlike spirit of love to God, and the depth of Christian experience embedded in them. They appeared principally in the various Pietistic hymn-books of the period, especially in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704 and 1714, and were collected and appended (as his Gaitlicke Lieder) to an essay edited by his brother (named above) and pub, at Halle, in 1718, as Erbauliche Betracktungen vom Urterung und Ald der Seufen. sprung und Adel der Seelen.

Two of Richter's hymns are noted separately see p. 854, i. and p. 521, i. The others which have passed into English are :-

I. Gott den ich als Liebe kanne. For the Sick. Included in Freylinghausen's Noues geistreiches G. B., 1714, No. 647, in 7 st. of 8 l., repeated, 1718, as above, p. 420, entitled, "Hymn in Sickness." According to Ehmann, in his ed. of Gottfried Arnold, 1856, p. xii. (see p. 81, ii.), it had previously appeared in Arnold's Hedsamer Bath and Unterricht für Kranke und Sterbende, 2nd ed., 1709. It is in the Unv. L. E., 1851, No. 603. Tr. as :-

Ged! whom I as love have known. A full and very good tr. by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 236. Repeated, abridged, in L. Rehfuess's Church at Sea, 1868, p. 53. A ceuto, in 5 st. of 4 l., taken from st. v., vi., iii., and beginning, "Let my soul beneath her load, is No. 398, in the Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, U. S. A., 1864.

Another tr. is: "O God, Whose stiributes shine forth in turn." By Miss Cox, 1884, p. 191.

il. Meine Armuth macht mich schreien. cation, or Longing for Christ. In Freyling-hausen's G. B., 1704, No. 662, in 7 st. of 6 ].

Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 789. Tr. as:—
Unto Him my spirit cristh. A good tr. of st. i., ii., vi., by A. T. Russell, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851. iii. Stilles Lemm and Priedefirst. Sanotification. A hymn on the Following of Christ the Lamb of God, and founded on Rev. xiv. 4. In Freylinghausen's Noues goistreiches G. B., 1714, No. 432, in 8 st. of 5 l. Repeated in 1718, as above, p. 364, entitled, "On the name Agneta, which may be derived from Agnus, which in German is called a Lamb." In Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 922. Tr. as :-

Theu Lamb of God, Thou Prince of Peace. free tr., omitting et. ili., vii., by J. Wesley, in his Ps. & Hys., Charlestown, 1736-7, p. 51, and Hys. & Suc. Poems, 1739 (P. Works, 1868-72, i. p. 129). Included in the Wcs. H. Bk., 1780, No. 329 (1875, No. 338), and recently in the Meth. N. Conn. H. Bk., 1863, Mercer's C. P. & H. Bk., 1857 and 1864, Holy Song, 1869, the Amer. Meth. Epis. H. Bk., 1849, and others.

Another tr. is: "Holy Lamb and Prince of Peace." By J. Gambold, as No. 38 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1742 (1886, No. 488).

Eight others of his hymns have been tr. into English, viz :-

iv. Die sanste Rewegung, die liebliebe Kraft. Whitsuntide. In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 454, In 9 at.; and In 1718 as above, p. 333, entitled, "Of the Joy In the Holy Ghost." Tr. as: "This Impulse so gentle, this Movement so sweet," as No. 551, in pt. 1, of the Movement B. Bk., 1764.

v. Es glänset der Christon inwandigem Leban. The Life of Frith. In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1764, No. 515, In 8 at.; and In 1718, an slove, p. 336, entitled, "On the Life of Patth. In Freylinghausen's C. B., 1704, No. 515, in 8 st.; and in 1718, as above, p. 328, entitled, "On the hidden life of believers." Repeated in the Unv. L. S., 1861, No. 410. It is Richter's finest hymn, and was casys Koch, vili. 349) a great farourite with Dr. F. Schleiermacher. It is founded on Col. iii. 3, 4, and gives a picture of what the inner life of a Christian should be: described from Richter's own experience. The tru are: (1) "The Curistian's life inward displays is bright spichdour." As No. 630, in pt. 1 of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754. (3) "All fair within those children of the light." By Nrs. Becent, 1855, p. 26. vi. Hilber! wird die Manht der Sinden. Morning. A fine hymn, for use especially in Advent, and founded on Isalah xxi. 11. In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 699, in 9 st.: 1718, as above, p. 401, and in the Dry.

on Isalah xxi. 11. In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 689, in 9 st.: 1718, as above, p. 401, and in the Univ. L. S., 1851, No. 460. Tr. as: (1) "Watchman! is the Night retiring." By H. J. Buckoli, 1842, p. 45. (2) "O Watchman, will the night of sin." By Miss Winkworth, 1856, p. 1. Repeated in Miss Watner's Hys. of the Ch. Middiant, 1858, the Gilman-Schoff Lib. of Rel. Poetry, Issi, &c. wii. Jesu, gib mir deine Fülle. Sapplication. A prayer to Christ as the Great Physician. In Freylinghausru's G. B., 1704, No. 58, in 7 st., st. vil. being entitled "Answer." in 1718, as above, p. 405, entitled, "On Patience." In Burg's G. B., Breslan, 1748, No. 289. Tr. as:—"Jest grant Thou me Thy Fulness." In the Suppl. to Ger. Peatmedy, ed. 1765, p. 47. viii. Jesus ist das schömats Liebt. Love to Christ. On St. John xii. 38. In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 349, in 9 st.: and in 1718, as above, p. 379, entitled, "On Desire towards God and Christ." In the Berlin O. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 308, Tr. as:—"Jesus is my light most fair," as No. 389, in pt. 1. of the Moranian H. Sk., 1751 (1888, No. 450).

H. BE., 1752 (1886, No. 420).

ix. Mein Salomo dein freundliches Begieren. Peace in Believing. A fine hymn, founded on St. John 1. 14.

In Freylinghausen's Neues geistreiches G. B., 1714, No. 512, in 11 st. In 1718, as above, p. 416; and in the Cap. L. S., 1851, No. 424. Tr. as:—(1) "My Solomoni thy kind and gracious Sceptre," as No. 622, in pt. i., of the Moravian H. Be., 175s. In 1789, altered to "Jesus, ny King, Thy kind and gracious sceptre" (1896, No. 384).

(2) "Jesus, my King: Thy mild and kind control."

By Dr. Bounberger, 'n Schaff's Kinchenfreund, 1849, p.337.

x. O Liebe die den Ellmmal hat seriesen. Christman. In Freylinghausen's Neues geistreiches G. B., 1714, No. 34, in 9 st.: and in 1718, as above, p. 414, entitled, "On the Incarnation of the Son of God." In the Unit. L. S., 1661, No. 52. Tr. 83:—"Oh: love that did the heavens the Incarnation of the Son of God." In the Univ. L. S., 1851, No. 52. Tr. as: —"Oh! love that did the heavens rend as under." By Miss Massington, 1864, p. 35.

xi. O wis selig aind die Beelen. Love to Christ.
Founded on Hoses ii. 19, 20, and Eph. v. 25. In Freylinghauser's G. B., 1704, No. 512, in 10 st.: and in 1716, as abovo, p. 396, entitled, "On the high dignity of believers." In Poral's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 412. It was (says Koch, viii. 287) originated by a dream Richter had about 1700, that in the ho-pilal at Holle he would find a truly Christ-like soul. After searching all the wards the found an old neglected patient in a garret, with whom he conversed, and whom he found to be the person he was seeking. Inspired by her relations of her inper experience, he embodied her thoughts in this fine hymn, 7. as:—"O what joy for them is stored." By Mrs. Beron, 1858, p. 68. By Mrs. [J. M.] Beran, 1858, p. 68.

of Gregorins Richter, Gregorius, s. Richter, then disconus at Gorlitz, was b. at Görlitz, March 4, 1598. He studied at the University of Leipzig, became in 1619 fourth master in the gymnasium at Görlitz, was ordained as diaconus there in 1624, and d. at Görlitz, Sept. 5, 1688 (K. G. Dietmann's Priesterschaft in den . . . Oberlausitz, 1777, p. 261: Blätter für Hymnologie, 1887, p. 71, &c.; the latter dating his death Sept. 4). Two hymns have been ascribed to him, one of which has passed into English, viz. :-

Steh doch, Seele, steh doch stills. Confirmation. This is a hyum on self examination and renunciation of the world, and is founded on 1 John il. 15-17. It appeared in D. Wulffer's Zwolff Andachten, Nitmberg, 1848, p. 849, in 16 st., entitled "To the soul that longs after the world," and is signed Gregorius Richter. It has sometimes been ascribed to the father [b. at Görlitz, Feb. 1, 1689, pastor primarius there, 1606, and d. there have 14 1644. See also Defendent in 1714 and O. F. Aug. 14, 1624. See also Dictionan, p. 174, and G. F. Otto's Lexicon... obsituations of Schriftsteller iii. p. 60], but is more probably by the son. In many hymn-60), but is more probably by the son. In many hymn-bods, as in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 343, st. iv. in omitted. The tr, in C. UisiMow from earth retire, my heart. A good tr. of st. L, ix.-rii. by A. T. Russell, as No. 180 in his Ps. & Hys., 1881.

JJ. M.Ĩ

Rickards, Samuel, a. of Thomas Rickards, was b. in 1796, and educated at Oriel College, Oxford, B.A. 1817, M.A. 1820. He was the Newdigate Prizemen in 1815, and took second class Classical Honours in 1817. From 1819 to 1823 he was a Fellow of his College, and contemporary with Keble, Newman, and other men of note. He was Curate of Ulcombe in 1825, and became Rector of Stowlangtoft, Ely, in 1832, and d. Aug. 24, 1865. His published works included The Christian Householder, or Book of Family Prayers; A Parish Prayer-Book; Short Sermons, &c. His Hys. for Private Devotion for the Sundays and Sainte Days throughout the Year, were pub. in 1825 (Lond. Hatchards). Very few of these hymns have come into C.U. That for Christmas Day, "Though rude winds usher thee, sweet day," has applied two centos, one beginning with st. i. and the second with st ii, "Bright is the day when Christ was born." Another hymn, For Holiness, "O God, from Whom alone proceeds," is No. 1175 in Kennedy, 1863. [J. J.]

Ride on, ride on in majesty. H. H. Milman. [Palm Sunday.] Pub. in Bp. Heber's posthumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 58, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in Milman's Sel. of Ps. & Hys., 1837, No. i., for Palm Sunday. The opening stanza, which reads:---

" Ride on! ride on in majesty! Thise humble beast pursues his road, With palms and scatter'd garments strew'd," has failed to be acceptable to most editors. Murray, in his Hymnal, 1852, endeavoured to soften down the third line by making it read:-

" O Saviour meek, pursue Thy road." This was adopted by H. A. & M., and others. In 1855 Mercer tried another change :-

" With joyous throngs pursue Thy road," but this has received but little attention. Several hymnals follow the example of Elliot's Ps. & Hya., 1835, and omit st. i. These include the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871. Original text in Book of Praise, 1862-67. This hymn ranks with the best of the author's lyrics, and is the most popular hymn for Palm Sunday in the English language.

Ringwaldt, Bartholomaus (Ringwalt, Ringwald), was b. Nov. 28, 1592, at Frankfurt a. Oder. He was ordained in 1557, and was paster of two parishes before he settled in 1566 as paster of Langfeld (or Langenfeld), near Sonnenburg, Brandenburg. He was still there in 1597, but seems to have d. there in 1599, or at least not later than 1600. (Kock, ii. 182; Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. ii. 1886, p. 512; Blätter für Hymnologie, 1885, p. 109, &c.)

Ringwaldt exercised a considerable influence on ble contemporaries as a poet of the people, as well as by his bymns properly so called. Ho was a true German patriot, a stanneh Lutharan, and a man who was quite ready to face the consequences of his plain speaking. His style is as a rule clear and good, though his rhymas are often enough halking; and he possessed considerable powers of observation and description. After 1677 be powers of observation and description. After 167( no pub. various didactic poems, the most important being, (1) Neutralitung: So Hanns Fromman mil sich ause der Hellen unnd dem Himel brucht, Amberg, 1862, and the later eds. enlarged and rewritten as Christliche Warning des Treuers Bekartz, &c., Frankfurt a. Oder, 1898. In various forms and abridgments it passed Oder, 1888. In various forms and abridgments it pessed through at least 34 editions up to 1700. This work is a mirror of the times and of the morals of the people. (2) Die Lauter Warheit, darinsen angeseiget, trie sick in Weltkinder und Geistlicher Kriegsman in seissen Beruff vorhaften soll, de., Erfart, 1888. Of this again at least 18 eds. appeared up to 1700. In it he gives lively pictures of the life of the various ranks and orders of his time, and shows the temptations and failings of each, not be any means anaring his now class, i.e. the Lutheran not by any means sparing his own class, i.e. the Lutheran

As a hymn-writer Ringwaldt was also of considerable importance. He was one of the most prolific hymn-writers of the 16th cent. Wackernagel, iv. pp. 906-1065, gives 208 pieces under his name, about 165 of which may be called hymns. A selection of 59 as his Geistliche Lieder, with a memoir by H. Wende-bourg, was pub. at Halle in 1858. A number appeared in the various eds. of his Tremer Eckart and Lauter Warheit as above. The rest appeared principally in his

(1) Der 91, Paulm neben Siben andern schönen Liedern, de., Frankfurt 2. Oder, 1877. (2) Evangelia, Auff alle Sontag unnd Fest, Durcht gamies Jakr, de., Frankfurt a. Oder, k.b. The scriiest ed. now known is undstet, a. Oder, k.b. The scriiest ed. now known is undstet, but Wackernagel, l., p. 523, gives it as of 1882. It is marked as a 2nd ed., and has a preface dated Nov. 28, 1881. It contains hymne founded on the Gospels for Sundays and Frativals, &c. (3) Bandbücklin: geistlicks Jieder und Gebeilein, Auff der Reiss, de., Frankfurt a. Oder, 1686 (preface, Feb. 21, 1682). A good many of his hymne passed into German collections of the 18th and 17th centa. and a number are still in German C. U. and 17th cents., and a number are still in German C. U.

Those of Ringwaldt's hymna which have passed into English are :-

i. Es ist gewisslich an der Zeit. Second Advent. The anonymous original of this hymn is one of Zuey schöne Lieder, printed separately circa 1585, and thence in Wackernagel, iv. p. 344. W. von Maltzahn, in his Bücherschatz, 1875, No. 616, p. 93, cites it as in an undated Nürnberg broadsheet, circa 1556. Wackernagel also gives along with the original the revised form in Ringwaldt's Handbüchlin, 1586. Both forms are also in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 746, in 7 st. of 7 l. It is based on the "Dies Irse," but can hardly be called a version of it. The original has a picturesqueness and force which are greatly lost in Ringwaldt's revision. It was much used in Germany during the Thirty Years' War, when in these distressful times men often thought the Last Day was at hand. The irs. are all, except No. 2, from Ringwaldt's text. They are:-

1. Tis sure that awful time will come. In full, by J. C. Jacobi, in his Psal. Germanica, 1722, p. 95 (1732, p. 202). Repeated, altered and abridged, in the Moravian H. Bk., 1754 to 1836.

It is also found in two centos.

The waking trumpels all shall hear (st. il.), in Montgomery's Christian Psatistiat, 1825.
 When all with awe shall stand around (st. v.), from the Morganian H. Bk., 1801, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Ch. Bk., 1868.

2. Most surely at th' appointed time. By A. T. Russell, as No. 38 in his Ps. 4 Hys., 1851, repeated in the College Hys., N. Y., 1876. It is marked as tr. from the "Dies Irae," but is really a good tr. of st. i., ii., v. of the German of 1565.

3. Behold that awful day draws nigh. A tr. of st. i., ii., v., by W. Sugden, as No. 129 in the | Methodist Scholars' II. Bk., 1870.

4. The day is surely drawing near. In full by P. A. Peter as No. 457 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

5. Surely at the appointed time. By H. L. Hastings, made in 1878, and included as No. 722 in his Songs of Pilgrimage, 1886. It condenses iii., iv. as ill.

6. The time draws near with quickoning pace. By Miss Fry, in her Hys. of the Reformation, 1845, p. 56.

A hymn which has been frequently but erroneously called a tr. from Ringwahlt's text, is noted as "Great God, what do I see and henr " (p. 454, i.).

Hymns not in English C. U. if. Allain auf Gott setzt dein Vertraun. The Christian Life. In many of the older Gorman bymn-books this is ascribed to Ringwaldt, but it is not found in any of his serfied to Ringwaldt, but it is not found in any of his works now extant. Wackernagel, v. p. 327, gives it as anonymous from the Greifwardt G. B., 1597, where it is entitled "The golden A. B. C. wherein is very ingeniously comprised what a man needs to know in order to lead an honourable and godly life." It is in 24 st, of 4 l., each stanza beginning with successive latters of the alphabet. Also in Porat's G. B., ed. 1865, No. 78, Butunker, ii. p. 276, eiter it as in the Ms. collection of a nun called Catherine Tire, written in 1898, in the numery of Nicsing, Miussiar. There it is in Low German, and begins "Allene up godt hope und truwe," Butunker thinks Ringwaldt may possibly be the person who made the High German version. Tr. as (1) "Alone in 1040 put thou thy trust." By J. C. Jacobi, 1725, p. 29 (1733, p. 140).

in God put thou thy trust." By J. C. Jacob, 1725, p. 29 (1732, p. 110).

iii. Der Herr ist mein getreuer Hirt, Ralt mich in seimer Hirts. Pr. axiii. Wackernagel, iv. p. 944, primis it from Ringwaldt's Evenageida, n.p., 1582 as above, in 7 st. of 7 l. The first four lines of st. 1, are taken from the older version, "Der Herre ist mein treuer Hirt." In the Alisaden Kauenzberg G. B., 1894, No. 512. 27, as (i.) "The Lord He is my Shepherd kind." By Mee Monteagon, 1882 n. 20.

Rinkart, Martin, s. of Georg Binkart or Rinckart, cooper at Eilenburg on the Mulde, Saxony, was b. at Eilenburg, April 23, 1586.* After passing through the Latin school at Eilenburg, he became, in Nov., 1601, a foundation scholar and chorister of the St. Thomas's School at Leipzig. This scholarship also allowed him to proceed to the University of Leipzig, where he matriculated for the summer session of 1602, as a student of Theology: and after the completion of his course he remained for some time in Leipzig (he did not tako his M.A. till 1616). In March 1610 he offered himself as a candidate for the post of diaconus at Eilenburg, and was presented by the Town Council, but the Superintendent re-

* His own statement was that he "was born Anno 1886, Jubilate Sanday, on St. George's day, which was the 23rd of April, between 6 and 7 A.M." In 1888 however Jubilate S. (3rd S. after Easter) fell on April 24, white St. George's day is April 23. The entry in the Registers at Eilenburg says that he was baptised "Morday after Jubilate, the 25th of April," which is fused to sanction this arrangement, nominally on the ground that Rinkart was a better musician than theologian, but really because he was unwilling to have a colleague who was a native of Eilenburg, and who appeared to have a will of his own. Rinkart, not wishing to contest the matter, applied for a vacant mestership in the gymnasium at Eisleben, and entered on his duties there in the beginning of June, 1610, as sixth master, and also cantor of the St. Nicholas Church. After holding this appointment for a few months, he became diaconus of St. Anne's Church, in the Neustadt of Eisleben, and began his work there May 28, 1611; and then became pastor at Erdeborn and Lyttichendorf (Lütjendorf), near Eisleben, entering on his duties there on Dec. 5, 1613. Finally he was invited by the Town Council of Eilenburg to become archidiaconus there, and in Nov. 1017 came into residence at Eilenburg. He d at Eilenburg, Dec. 8, 1649. A memorial tablet to his memory, affixed to the house where he lived, was unveiled at Eilenburg on Easter Monday, April 26, 1886. (Martin Rinkart's Geistliche Lieder, ed., with a biographical introduction, and an extensive bibliography, by Homrich Rembe and Johannes Linke, p.p., Gotha, F. A. Porthes, 1886; K. Goedeko's Grundriss, vol.

Forthes, 1886; K. Goedeko's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, pp. 169, 211, &c.)

The greater part of Rinkart's professional life was passed amid the horrors of the Thirty Years War. Rilenburg being a walled town became a refuge for fugitives from all around, and being so overcrowded, not unnaturally suffered from pestilence and famine. During the great pestilence of 1837 the Superintendent went away for change of air, and could not be persuaded to return; and on Aug. 7 Rinkart had to officiate at the funerals of two of the town therety and two who had had to leave their livings in the contart. Rinkart thus for some functals of two of the fown clergy and two who had had to leave their livings in the country. Hinkart thus for some time was the only clergyman in the place, and often read the service over some 40 to 50 persons a day, and in all over about 4,380. At last the refugees had to be buried in trenches without service, and during the whole epidemic some 8,000 persons died, including Rinkart's Bret wife, who d. May 3, 1637. The next year he had an epidemic of marriages to encounter, and himself fell a victim on June 24. Immediately thereafter came a most severe famine, during which Rinkart's resources were strained to the uttermost to help his people. Twice also he saved canine, during which kinkart's resources were strained to the uttermost to help his people. Twice also he saved Ellenburg from the Swedes, once in the beginning of 1637, and again in 1633 (see p. 319, i.). Unfortunately the services he rendered to the place scemed to have made those in authority the more ungrateful, and in his latter years he was much harassed by them in financial and other monters, and by the time that the long-tooked-for peace came (Oct. 24, 1648) he was a worn-out and resonancively again made.

rematurely aged men. Rinkart was a voluminous writer and a good musician, but a considerable number of his books seem to have perished, and others survive only in single copies. He early began to write poetry, and was crowned as a poet apparently in 1614. Among other things he wrote a cycle of seven so-called "Comedies," or rather dramas, on the Reformation Period, suggested by the centenary of the Reformation in 1617. Three of these were printed respectively in 1613, 1618, and 1625, and two of them were seted in public. Rinkart's hymns smean were scient in public. Auntant's hymns appeared principally in the following works:—
(1) Jesu Hertz-Sichlein. This was completed in 1630, and first pub. at Lelpzig in 1636. No copy is now known. The 2nd ed., pub. at Lelpzig, 1663, is in the Royal Litarry at Hannover. (2) Der Meisseische Thrönen Soat, Leipzig, 1637. In the Royal Library at Berlin. (3) ziv. Epithalami Salomoneo—Sulomitica cantica continuous. Jestilitica Gesetische und Himmelient. Denniformen.

blowwn . . . Leibliche Geistliche und Himplische Braut Mesec. Leipzig, 1642. In Wolfenbüttel Library. (4) Catechismus-wolthaten, und Catechismus-Lieder, Leipzig, 1645. In the Berlin Library.

Dr. Linke, 1886, as above, gives a list of the l first lines of all the hymns in the works of Rinkart which have come under his notice, and prints a selection from them, including 66 in all. The best of them are characterised by a true patriotism, a childlike devotion to God, and a firm confidence in God's mercy, and His promised help and grace. A few passed into the German hymn-books. Those which have been tr. into English are:—

L Alleluja, Lob, Preis und Ehr. This hymn, noted at p. 158, seems to be based on two hymns, beginning with the same first line, and both found in Rinkert's Braut Mesze, 1642. Dr. Linke does not print the full text. (See Blätter für Hymnologie, 1886, p. 91.) B. Wun danket allo Gott. Thanksgiving. The oldest text now accessible is in J. Crüger's Prazis. 1648, No. 183, in 3 st. of 8 l.; also in the Crager-Runge G. B., 1653, No. 187. It is also in Rinkart's Jesu Hertz-Büchlein, 1663, where the text slightly varies, and is catitled "Grace" ("Tisch-Gebetlein," i.e. a short prayer at table). There does not seem any good reason for supposing that it did not appear in the 1st ed., 1636, of the Hertz-Buchlein, and in any case it has no connection with the Peace of Westphalia. (A good specimen of the way in which stories of hymns are manufactured is in the Bunday at Home, Aug., 1888, p. 539, where a full and particular account is given of its legendary origin in Nov. 1646.) It is founded on Ecclesiasticus l. 22-24; aud st. i., ii. are indeed little more than a paraphrase of these verses, st. iii. being a version of the Gloria Patri. The fact that the regimental chaplains, when holding the special service of thanksgiving for the conclusion of the peace, were commanded to preach from this peasage, may have suggested the theory that Rinkart's hymn was written for the same occasion. It gradually came into general use, successfully survived the period of Rationalism, and is now to be found in every German hymn-book, e.g. in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1022. It may be called the German Te Deum, and as such is used at all national festivals or special occasions of thanksgiving. It was recently used at the festal celebration of the completion of Cologne Cathedral, on Aug. 14, 1880, at the laying of the foundation stone of the new Reichstage building in Berlin, by the Emperor William, Juns 9, 1884, &c.

The fine melody (set to the hymn in II. A. & M. and most recent English collections) appears in the Praxis, 1648 (Crüger's Kirchenmelodien, 1649, No. 94), and in the Cruger-Runge G. B., 1653, is marked with Crüger's initials. It has been described as adapted from a melody by Lucas Marenzo (choirmaster at Rome, who d. 1598), or as adapted from a motet by Rinkart; but to prove either statement, very little evidence is forthcoming.

The tre. of the hymn into English are:-* 1. Let all men praise the Lord. This is a tr. of st. i., iii., by Alfred Novello, as part of his version of the word-hook to Mendelssohn's Lobgesang, or Hymn of Praise, 1848, p. 89. This form has passed into a number of hymnals, including the N. Cong., 1859; Dale's Eng. H. Bk., 1874, and others. In the Baptist Hyl., 1879, a tr. of st. ii. 's added, of which Il. 1-4 are, from Miss Winkworth's tr.

2. Now praise the Lord on high. In full as No.

53 in the Dalston Hospital H. Bk., 1848. This appears to be the version which Kübler, in his Hist, Notes to the Lyra Germanica, 1865, p. 247, says was made by Baron C. K. J. von Bunsen, for the opening of the German Hospital at Dalston, on Oct. 15, 1845.

5. Now let us all to God. In full, by A. T. Russell, as No. 201, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

4. 0 let us praise the Lord, From hearts by true love guided. This is No. 240 in the Winchester Ch. H. Bk., 1857, and seems to be intended as a paraphrase of the German.

5. New thank we all our God. A full and very good tr. by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 145, repeated in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 11, and her Christian Singers, 1869, p. 181. It has been included in many recent English and American hymnals, e. g. H. A. & M., 1861; People's Hyl., 1867; Cong. Hyl., 1887, &c., and in America in the Epis. Hyl., 1871; Presb. Hyl., 1874, and many others, generally in full and unaltered.

6. Now all give thanks to God. In full as No. 264 in the Anglican H. Bk., 1868 (1871, No. 807), marked as a versification by R. C. Singleton. Repeated in J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876.

7. Now all men thank ye God. In full by T. E. Brown, as No. 37 in the Clifton College H. *B*Ł, 1872.

Other tras. are:—

(1) "Now let us praise the Lord." In full by J. C. Jacobi, 1722, p. 35 (1732, p. 144), repeated, altered, in the Morasian H. Ekz., 1754 to 1856. (2) "Now all, to God give thacks." By Dr. H. Mills, in the Evang. Review, Gettyaburg, 1851, p. 293, and his Boras Ger., 1856, p. 14. (3) "Lift heart, and hands, and voice." By Miss Cox. 1864, p. 239. (4) "Now all give thanks to God." By J. D. Burns, 1889, p. 252. (5) "All hearts and tongues and bands." By R. L. Frothingkam, 1870, p. 212.

III. Be fahr ich hin mit Freuden. For the Dying. In his Meissnische Thränen-Saat, 1637, No. 24, p. 19, in 5 st. of 8 l., entitled "Even the same, and her soul-rejoicing Farewell Hymn. On May 8." St. i. is,

" So fahr ich bin mit Frewden Aus desem Jammerttal, Aus desem Jammerttal, Aus Angst, Geführ und Leiden In Himmels-Frewden Saal, Da wir und alle Froumen Durch Gottes Wundermacht Zusammen wiederkommen : In des su guter Nacht."

The title refers to the preceding hymn, which is in 19 st., the initials of the sts. forming the acrostic Christina Rinckardin. Dr. Linke abridges it and misprints the title, which is:-

"Die Teutsche Job-Schwester (Christina M. Rinchart's Hertagetrewe Ehe- und Creut-genostin und ihr Tagliches und behägliches Trost Lied. Aus ihrem längsterwählten und am 10. [not 30] Tage des Trostkühlen Meyen dietet 1631. Jahres zum letzten Ehrengedächtniss abgehandelten Leich-Twit: des 77. Psalms."

From this it is clear that both hymns are in memory of his wife, that she died on May 8, 1637, and that her funeral sermon was preached by her husband on May 10, 1637. The form tr. into English is the greatly altered, or rather practically new text which is noted under Sturm, Leonhard (q.v.).

A version of the "Jesu dulcis memoria," made by Rinkert, is noted at p. 589. i. [J. M.]

Rippon, John, p.p., was b. at Tiverton, Devon, April 29, 1751, and was educated for the ministry at the Baptist College, Bristol. In 1773 he became Paster of the Baptist church in Carter Lane, Tooley Street (afterwards removed to New Park Street), London, and over this church he continued to preside until his death, on Dec. 17, 1836. The degree of p.p. was conferred on him in 1792 by the Baptist College, Providence, Rhode Island. Dr. Rippon was one of the most popular and influential Dissenting ministers of his time. From 1790 to 1802 he issued the Baptist Annual Register, a periodical containing an account of the most important events in the history of the Baptist Denomination in Great Britain and America during that period, and very valuable now as a book of reference. But his most famous work is his Selection of hymns for public worship, which appeared in 1787. The full title of the 1st ed. is A selection of Hymne from the best authors, intended as an Appendix to Dr. Watte's Pealms and Hymns. In 1791 he pub. a Selection of Pealm and Hymn Tunes from the Best Authors, adapted to Dr. Watte's Psalms and Hymns, and to his own Selection, and from that time the names of tunes were prefixed to the hymns in the successive editions of his hymn-book. In 1800 he pub. the 10th ed. of his Sel., containing more than sixty additional hymne. In 1827 it was still further colarged, and in 1844, after his death, appeared The Comprehensive Edition, commonly known as The Comprehensive Rippon, containing most of the additional hymns, with about 400 then first added. making in all upwards of 1170, in 100 metres. A rival to the Comprehensive was also afterwards published under the old title, somewhat onlarged. In the preparation of the original book, and its subsequent improvement, Dr. Rippon performed an important service to Baptist Hymnody, and also, it is said, gained for himself "an estate" through its immense cale. In the preface to the 10th ed. he claims for himself the authorship of some of the hymns, but as he retrained from affixing his name to any of the hymns it is impossible now to say with cortainty which ought to be ascribed to him. There can, however, be no reasonable doubt that hymn 535, 3rd part, "The day has dawned, Jehovah comes" (q.v.), is one of his compositions. Other hymns, probably by him, are, "Amid the splendours of Thy state" (Love of God), 1800; and "There is joy in heaven, and joy on earth" (Joy over the Repenting Sinner), 1787. He also altered the texts of and made additions to several of the older hymns. Some of these altered texts (see Index of Authors and Translators) are still in C. U. In 1830 the additions given in the 27th ed., 1827, of Rippon's Sel. were reprinted, with notes by Dr. Slater, as :-

Hymnt Original and Selected; interspersed in the Fromty-towarth edition of the Selection, with Numerous Dowologist, in the Usual, the Peculiar, and in the less Common metres. By John Rippon, D.D.

A 2nd ed. of this pamphlet of 82 hymns and doxologies appeared in 1832. (W. R. S.)

Rise, heart; thy Lord is risen. Sing His praise Without delayes. G. Herbest. [Easter.] This is Herbert's quaint and beautiful hymn for Easter, pub. in The Temple, 1633, in 3 st. of 6 l. and 3 st. of 4 l. (see reprints of The Temple). The hymn in the Bap. Pa. & Hys., 1858 :-

"Rise heart | thy Lord crose With the first morning ray,"

by G. Rawson (see his Hymns, 1876, p. 190), was suggested by this lyric by G. Herbert, From Herbert's hymn st. iv.-vi. have also been used as a separate piece as, "I got me flowers to straw Thy way." This form is in Martinean's Hymne, 1840, &c. [J, J.]

Rise, my soul, adore thy Maker. J. Cennick. [Morning.] Pub. in his Sacred Hys. for the Children of God, 1741, No. 12, in 7 st. of 4 l., thus:-

" Rise, my soul, adore thy Maker, Angels praise, Join thy lays, With them be partaker."

It was repeated in several of the older hymnbooks, as Whitefield's, Madan's, Conyers's, Toplady's, and others. In modern collections it is not so widely used, although still given in several collections, including the Cong. Church Hyl., 1887, &c. [J. J.]

Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings. R. Seagrace. [Heaven desired.] Appeared in his Hys. for Christian Worship, &c., 1712, in 4 st. of 8 1., and entitled "The Pilgrim's Song"; and again in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Seagrave's Hymns, 1860. In 1758 Sengrave's intimate friend, G. Whitefield, included it, with the omission of st. iii., na No. 2 of Pt. ii. of his Hys. for Social Worship, This was repeated in most of the older collections, and is the form of the hymn usually given in modern hymnals. The use of this hymn is extensive in G. Britain and America. Original text in Lyra Brit., 1867. [J. J.]

Rise, my soul, with ardour rise. Wesley. [Looking to, and Confidence in, God the Father.] Pub. in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1739, p. 219, in 12 st. of 6 l., and headed "John xvi. 24. Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 192.) It was also added to J. Wesley's Sermon, No. 40, on "Christian Perfection." Although not in C. U. in its original form, the following centos are in several collections: several collections:---

1. Since the Son bath made me free. This is composed of st. vi., viii., tx., xi., xii., and is given in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, as No. 379. It is in several collections.

1609s.

S. Heavenly Father, Lord of all. This cento in the American Reformed Dutch Hys. of the Church, N. Y. 1869, is composed of st. ii., iv. and viii.

A. Abba, Esther, hear Thy shild. In a few American collections, including Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, where st. viii., ix., xii. are given as No. 319.

When these centos are taken into account, the use of the hymn in varying forms is not inconsiderable.

Rist, Johann, a. of Kaspar Rist, pastor at Ottensen, near Hamburg, was b. at Ottensen, March 8, 1607, and from his birth was dedicated to the ministry. After passing through the Johanneum at Hamburg and the Gympasium Illustre at Bremen, he matriculated, in his 21st year, at the University of Riuteln, and there, under Josus Stegmann (q. v.), he received an impulse to hymnwriting. On leaving Rintein he acted as tutor to the sons of a Hamburg merchant, accompanying them to the University of Rostock, where he himself studied Hebrew, Mathematics and also Medicine. During his residence at Rostock the terrors of the Thirty Years War almost emptied the University, and Rist himself also lay there for weeks ill of the pestilence. After his recovery he seems to have spent some time at Hamburg, and then, about Michaelmas, 1633, became tutor in the house of the lawyer (Landschreiber) Heinrich Eager, at Heide, in Holstein. There he betrothed himself to Elizabeth, sister of the Judge Franz Stapfel, whose influence seems to have had a good deal to do with Rist's appointment as paster at Wedel. In the spring of 1635 he married and settled at Wedel (on the Eibe, a few miles below Hamburg), where, spite of various offers of preferment, he remained till his death, on Aug. 81, 1667. (Johann Rist and seine Zeit, by Dr. T. Hansen, Halle, 1872; K. Goedeke's Grundriez, vol. iii., 1887, p. 79; Koch, iii., 212; Bode, p. 185, &c. The statements of the various authorities regarding the period 1624–1635 vary greatly and irreconcilabity.)

During the Thirty Years War Rist had much to engdure from famine, plundering, and pestitance. Otherwise he led a patriarchal and happy life at Wadel, close to the congenial society of Hamburg, and as years wenton more and more esteemed and benouved by his contemporaries. The Emperor Ferdinand III. crowned him as a poet in 1844, and in 1833 raised him to the nobility, while nearer home Duke Christian of Mecklenburg appointed him Kirchenrath and Consistorialrath. Among other literary bosonra he was received in 1645 as a member of the Pegnitz, Order (see p. 143, under Birksan), and in 1647 as a member of the Fruitbearing Society, the great German literary union of the 17th cent, 1 while in 1640 be himself became the founder and head of the Eibe Swan Order, which however did not survive his

Ribe Swan Order, which however did not survive his death.

Risk was an earnest pastor and a true patriot. He of course took the side, and that with all his might, of the Protestants, but he longed as few did for the union of the scattered elements of the body politic in Germany. He was a voluminous and many-sided writer (set the full bibliographics in Honers and Goodke as above). His secular works are of great interest to the student of the history of the times, and his occasional poems on marriages, sc., to the general reader are the Friede winnehmde Tautschland, 1647, and the Priedejauchrende Tautschland, 1648, and
As a hymn-writer Rist takes high rank. He wrote some 680 hymns, intended to cover the whole ground of Theology, and to be used by all ranks and classes, and on all the occasions of life. Naturally enough they are not of equal merit, and many are poor and bombastic. Rist meant them rather for private use than for public worship, and during his lifetime they were never used in the church at Wedel. But they were eagerly caught up, set to melodies by the best musicians of the day, and speedily passed into congregational use all over Germany, while even the Roman Catholics read them with delight. Over 200 may be said to have been in C. U. in Germany, and a large number still hold their place. Unfortunately many are very long. But speaking of Rist's better productions, we may say that their noble and classical style, their objective Christian faith, their scripturalness, their power to console, to encourage, and to strengthen in best of his hymns for Advent, and for the Holy Communion), sufficiently justify the esteem in which they were, and are, held in Germany. The best known of Bist's hymns appeared in the following collections:—

appeared in the following collections:—

(1) Hindische Lieder. This contains 55 hymns. The Britz Zehen is dated Lineburg, 1841, the 2-2 Zehen are dated 1842 [Royal Library, Berlin]. In the latereds, and also expanded the titles of the hymns, these changes being almost all for the worse. (2) Neiler Aindischer Lieder sonderbakers Buch, Lüneburg, 1651 [Wernigerode Library]. Se bymns. (3) Sabbaktische Seeleniust, Lüneburg, 1851 [Brit. Mus. and Göttingen]. With 55 hymns on the Gospels for Sundays, &c. (4) Frommer und gottseliger Christen alliagitche Hausmestik, Lüneburg, 1854 [Brit. Mus. and Göttingen]. With 75 hyznns. (5) Neile musikalische Fest-Andachten, Lüneburg, 1856 [Wernigerode]. With 52 hymns on the Sünday Gospels. (6) Neile musikalische Fest-Andachten, Lüneburg, 1856 [Brit. Mus. and Wernigerode]. With 58 hymns.

Beven of Bist's hymns are separately noted

Seven of Rist's hymns are separately noted under their German first lines (see Index of Authors and Translaters). The others which have passed into English are:—

1. Du Labensbrod, Barr Jesu Christ. Holy Commuseion. In his Haussmusik, 1654, No. 7, p. 32, in 8 st. of 8 l., entitled "A devotional hymn, which may be sung when the people are shout to take their place at the Holy Communion of the Lord.". Founded on Pa. xxiii. Included as No. 478 in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863. Tr.

Lord Jean Christ, the living bread. A good tr. of st. i., ii., iii., v., by A. T. Russell, as No. 159 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

ii. Ehr and Dank sei dir genngen. On the Angels. In hie Fest-Andachten, 1655, No. 46, p. 304, in 9 st. of 10 l., entitled "Another hymn of Praise and Thanksgiving on the same Gospel S. Matt. xviii.] for St. Michael's Day. In which the great God who created the Angels, and appointed them for our service, is from the heart adored and praised." Included in Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 219, and in Bunsen's Versuch, 1833, No. 233. The trs. in C. U. are:

1. Praise and thanks to Thee be sung. By Miss Winkworth, omitting st. iii.-vi., in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 205, repeated in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 85.

2. Glary, praise, to Thee be sung. A tr. of st. i. as No. 1224, in the Moravian H. Bh., 1886.

iil. Ermuntre dieh, main schwacher Grist. Christmas. Founded on Isaiah iz. 2-7. 1st pub. in the Erstes Zeken of his Himlische Lieder, 1641, No. 1, p. 1, in 12 st. of 8 l., entitled "A hymn of praise on the joyful Birth and Incarnation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." Included in Crüger's Prazis, 1656, No. 97, and recently, omitting st. viii., as No. 32 in the Uno. L. S., 1851. The trs. in C. U. are:—

1. Be chearful, then my spirit faint. A tr. of st. i. by J. Gambold, as No. 188 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754; repeated as st. i. of No. 437, altered to "Arise my spirit, leap with joy," and with his trs. of st. ii., iv., iv. added. In the ed. of 1789, No. 46 (1885, No. 41), it begins, "Arise, my spirit, bless the day."

2. 0 Jesu! welcome, gractions Name! This is a tr. of st. ii., vi., xii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 55 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

Another tr. is I' My languid spirit, upward spring." By N. L. Frotkingham, 1876, p. 179.

console, to encourage, and to strengthen in trust upon God's Fatherly love, and their ferbias Newer Himlischer Lieder, 1851, p. 126, No. 9, went love to the Saviour (especially seen in the in 18 st. of 7 L, entitled "A joyful hymn of Thankagiving to God, that He permits us to enjoy our daily bread in health, peace and pros-perity, with a humble prayer that He would graciously preserve us in the same." Included in Oleanus's Singe-Kunst, 1671, No. 322, and recently in Knapp's Ec. L. S., 1850, No. 1696 (1865, No. 1766). The tr. in C. U. is :-

Now God be praised, and God alone. By Miss Winkworth, omitting st. iii., vi., viii., ix., in her Christian Singers, 1869, p. 192. Repeated, abridged, in Statham's Coli., Edinburgh, 1869,

No. 63 (1870, No. 110).

v. Josu, der du meine Boele. Lent. In the Erstes Zehen of his Himbische Lieder, 1641, p. 35, No. 7, in 12 st. of 8 l., entitled "A heartfelt hymn of penitence to his most beloved Lord Jesus, for the forgiveness of his many and manifold sins." Founded on prayer viii. in Class III. of J. Arndt's Paradiesgärtlein, 1612. In the Uno. L. S., 1851, No. 382. The frs. in C. U. are:-

1. Thou heat cancell'd my transgression. A fr. of st. vi., viii., as No. 1022, in the Suppl. of 1808 to the Moravian H. Bk., 1801 (1886, No. 107).

2. Jesu! Who in sorrow dying. A free tr. of st. i., iii. ll. 1-4, v. ll. 5-8, xii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 78 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

vi. O Jesu, meine Wonne. Holy Communion. This beautiful hymn appears in Rist's Hauss-musis, 1654, No. 9, p. 42, in 14 st. of 4 l., en-titled "The heartfelt Thanksgiving of a pious Christian when he has partaken of the Holy Communion." In the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 285. The tr. in C. U. in:-

O Sum of my salvation. A good tr. of st. i., iii., v., vi., by A. T. Russell, as No. 160 in his Ps. $ Hys., 1851.

Another tr. is:-"O Christ, my joy, my soul's de-light." By Dr. G. Wolfer, 1980, p. 65. wil, Words Hoht, du Stadt der Reiden, Epiphany. In his Fest Andachten, 1655, p. 82, No. 13, in 15 st. of 6 l., entitled "Another festival hymn of the day of the Manifestation of Christ, in which the glorious, godlike, and eternal Light, which has graciously arisen on us poor heathen in thick darkness, is devotedly contemplated."

In the Unc. L. S., 1851, No. 82. Tr. as:-1. All ye Gentile lands awake. A good tr. of st. i.-iv., vi., vii., xiv. xv., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Gcr., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 30. Repented, abridged, in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869 and 1870, and in Flett's Coll., Paisley, 1871.

S. Rise, O Salem, rise and shine. A good tr. of st. i., iil., vil., xiv., xv., based on her Lyra Ger. version but altered in metre, by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1883, No. 38. Repeated in J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876, and the Pennsylvania Luth. Ch. Bk., 1868.

viti. Wie wohl hast du gelabet. munion. In his Notier Hinlischer Lieder, 1651, p. 78, in 9 st. of 12 l., entitled "A hymn of heartfelt Praise and Thanksgiving after the re-ception of the Holy Communion." In the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 291. The tr. in C. U. is:-

O Living Bread from Heaven. A good tr., omitting st. iv., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Gov., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 103; repeated in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 94, emitting the trs. of iti., v., vi. Her trs. of st. i.-iii, ir. were included, slightly altered, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Ch. Bk., 1868.

The following have also been tr. into English :-- in. Heat ist das rechte Jubelfest. Whitsuntide. In his Fest-Andochen, 1555, p. 216, No. 83, in 12 st., founded on the Geopel for Whitsunday (St. John xiv.). In Cleariar's Single-Kanst, 1811, No. 704, and Porel's G. B., ed. 1886, No. 173. The text fr. is that in Bunnen's Ally. G. B., 1848, No. 114, where it begins with 8t. v., "Hout but der grosse Himmeishert." Tr. as "This any sent forth His heralds bold." By Miss Cox, in the Churchman's Shilling Magasine, June 1867.

2. 1ch will den Harren loben. Praces and Thanksgrings, Founded on Ps. xxxiv. In his Neiter Kimitischer Lieder, 1651, p. 132 (No. 10 in pt. ii.), in 12 st. of 8 l. This form is in Bung's G. B., Breelau, 1740, No. 1301. In his Kauszmustk, 1854, p. 248, No. 64, Rist rewrote it 66 st. of 12 l., and of this form st. iv.-vi., beginning. "Man lobt dich in der Stille" (1851, st. x.) are included in many hymn-books, as the Berlin G. L. &. d. 1863, No. 1018. The tr. from this last text is "To Thee all praise ascendeth." In the British Heraid, May 1868, p. 265, repeaked in Red'e Praise Bs., 1872. [J. M.]

Ritter, Jakob, a of Samuel Ritter, assessor of the Court of Appeal and Syndic o the Magdeburg administration at Halle, was b. at Halle, May 29, 1627. After the completion of his university course at Wittenberg, he was appointed secretary of the Magdeburg administration, and Justiciary at Langendorf, near Weissenfels. He d. at Halle, Aug. 14, 1669. (Koch, iii. 352; Blätter für Hymmologie, 1886, p. 2. In the latter his volume of 1666, see below, is spoken of as "not apparently bitherto inspected by any hymnologist." The present writer had however discovered and examined it at Wernigerode some six months earlier.)

Ritter's hymns appeared in his tr. of a work by Ir., Daniel Sennart (b. at Breetan, Nov. 25, 1572; d. at Wittenberg, July 25, 1637, as Professor of Medicine). The fr. by Ritter is entitled, Affairles and heliame log-bereitund Danag eines christlichen Lebens und seeligen cerest-time coung times carretticaen Locate and seelings. Starbent, and was pub. at Leipzig, 1866, with a dedication, dated Halls, 1869. The work contains 18 chapters, to each of which Ritter added a hymn. A number of these hymns are worthy of note, being distinguished by conciseness and by living faith. Two came into extended use in Germany, and one has been er, into English,

The, die ihr euch von Chrisis neunt. True Christianity. In 1668, as above, p. 152, at the end of chapter 10, which is entitled, "On the calling and office of a true Christian." The hymn is in 6 st. of 4 1., and is a masterly and concise delineation of true as opposed to nonlinal Christianity. Included in the Nirnberg G. B., 1676, the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 610, &c. 17. as:—

O ye your Saviour's name who hear. A good and full tr. by Miss Cox, in her Sac. Hys. from the Gerps. 1841, p. 121. Her at. 1.—ii., vl., were included in Alford's Ps. & Hys., 1844, his Year of Praise, 1867, and others. The same cento, altered, and beginning, "O ye who hear your Saviour's name." By Lady E. Portesses, 1843, p. 63. [J. M.]

Robarts, Frederick Hall, was b. in London in March 1835; studied at University College, London, and at the University of Edinburgh, and commenced his ministry in 1859 in Liverpool, when he became the Pastor of the Richmond Baptist Chapel in that city, and in 1883 of the Hillhead Baptist Church, Glasgow, a position he still occupies. Mr. Robarts has written some hymns for children, three of which have appeared in Psalms and Hymns for School and Home, 1882. The first lines and respective dates are :-

1. In the name of Jesus. Doing all in the Name of

1. In the passes of the Lord, and praise. Remembrance of 2. 0 bless the Lord, and praise. Remembrance of God's goodness. (1881.)

3. 0 Lord, our Strength and Refuge. The New Feat. [W. R. S.]

Robbine, Chandler, p.p., was b. in Lynn, Massachusetts, Feb. 14, 1810, and educated at Harvard College (1829), and the Cambridge Divinity School (1838). In 1833

he became Pastor of the Second [Unitarian] the married Constance, a daughter of the Church, Boston, succeeding Dr. H. Ware, jun., Count of Arles, by whom he had four sons and Ralph Waldo Emerson. He received his n.p. degree from Harvard in 1855, and d. at Westport, Massachusetts, Sept. 12, 1882. Dr. Robbins pub. several prose works. He also edited The Social Hymn Book in 1843, and Hymn Book in 1945, and hymne for Christian Worship, 1854. His two hymne, "Lo, the day of rest declineth" (Evening), and "While thus [now] Thy throne of grace we seek" (The Voice of God), appeared in Dr. G. E. Ellie's Ps. & Hys. for the Sanctuary, 1845. L. B. Barnes's tune, "Bedford Street," was written for the former.

FF. M. B.1 Robbins, Samuel Dowse, M.A., brother of Dr. Chandler Robbins, was b. in Lynn, Massachusetts, March 7, 1812, and was educated for the ministry at the Cambridge Divinity School. In 1833 he became Pastor of the Unitarian congregation in his nativo town, and subsequently held pastorates at Chelsea (1840), Farmingham (1859), and Wayland (1867), and retired from the last in 1873. Four of his hymns are given in the Boston Unitarian Hymn [and Tune] Book, 1868 :---

- Down towards the twilight drifting. Senset.
   Saviour, when Thy bread we break. Holy Com-
- 3. Thou art, O God! my East. In Thee I dawned.
  God. All in All.
  4. Thou art my morning, God of Light. Daily Hyssa.
  6. Thou art our Master, Thou of God the Son. Christ

These, together with other hymns and poetical pieces, are in Putnam's Singers and Songs, &c., 1875, and the text of No. 3 is revised therein. We are indebted to Putnam for these details. [J. J.]

Robert the Second, King of France, surnamed "Le Page" and "Le Dévot," b. ourca 970, was the s. of Hugh Capet, the first of the line of kings that succeeded the Carlovingian monarche on the French throne. having been associated with his father in the covernment of the kingdom, in 988 he became king in his own right. The story of his life, rather than of his reign, is a sad one; troubles both in his family and without so multiplying upon him that it needed all the consolation that he sought and found in religion to enable him to bear up against them. Having in 995 or 996 espoused Bertha, the widow of Eades, Count of Chartres, and daughter of Conrad the Pacific, his cousin in the fourth degree (a marriage at that time strictly ferbidden by the Roman Catholic Church), he was com-manded by a decree of Pope Gregory V. to put her away. He was tenderly attached to her, and refused, whereupon he was excom-municated. This sentence caused the unhappy couple to be abandoned by all their courtiers, and even their servants, with the exception of two of the latter. After living together for a while in a state of sore privation, nay, almost absolute destitution, Ecrtha was delivered of a still-born infant, which was represented to Robert to have been a monster with "a head and neck like a goose." On hearing this (for the fond husband was but a week and credulous man), Robert repudiated his wife, who thereupon retired into a nunnery. Subsequently, probably about 1002, on "Victimae Paschali." No. 2 is noted at and two daughters. Much of the misery of his later life resulted from this marriage; for in addition to the antagonism which existed in their tastes and pursuits, Constance en-deavoured to secure the kingdom for her youngest son Robert, to the exclusion of the third son Henry (Hugh, the eldest, having died, and Eudes, the second, being an idiot), and this led to constant domestic broils which embittered the gentle king's existence. In 1024 he refused (and wisely) the Imperial Crown of the House of Saxony, when the Italians offered it to him on the death of Henry II., the last of the Saxon Emperors. Robert spent much of his time in the society of monks, assisting in the services of the Church, and engaging on pious pilgrimages. It was upon his return from one of the latter to some of the pripripal sauctuaries of France that he was attacked by a fover, to which he succumbed at Thelun in 1031, in the 60th year of his age and the 34th of his reignmore deeply lamented by his people, to whom he had attached himself by the sweetness and simplicity of his character, than any other king, probably, who ever reigned in France. Robert had a great love for, and skill in, church music, and it is not improbable that compositions of his are even at this day in use in ne services of his Church. [D. S. W.]

It has been the custom to speak of King the services of his Church.

Robert as a hymn-writer. But when the different authorities come to specify the pieces which he is said to have composed, their statements are hopelessly at variance. For the purposes of this article we shall take four ancient authorities :---

(a) and (b) In the Recuell des Historiens des Gaules et de la France, vol. x., Paris, 1760, pp. 297-300, there are extracta "ex chronico Sithlens!" (a); and also "ex are extracts "ex chronico Sithiensi" (a); and also "ex chronico Alberici ad annum 997" (b).

(c) In the Junies MS., 121, in the Bodielan there is a list of authors of sequences, written about 1990. This list is given in the article Sequences (q.v.).

(d) William Durandus (d. 1296) in his Rationais, Bk. iv., has a section "De prosa seu sequencia". This occurs in two Mss. of the 14th cant. In the British Biuseum [Add. 18364, f. 20 b; Reg. 7 E., tx. L. 53. An earlier and finer Ms. than either (Add. 31623) has unfortunately lost the leaf containing this section).

By these four authorities the following hymns and sequences are ascribed to King Robert :-

- 1. Chorus novae Hierusalem.
- Rex omnipotens die hodierna.
   Sancti Spiritus adsit nobis gratia.
   Veni Sancte Spiritus.
   Victimae Paschall.

But of these a only ascribes to him No. 3, and does not mention Nos. 1, 2, 4 or 5, while b ascribes to him Nos. 2 and 3, and does not mention Nos. 1, 4 or 5. On the other hand c ascribes to him No. 5, while No. 3 it ascribes to Hermannus Contractus, and Nos. 1, 2, 4 it doce not mention at all. Lastly describes to him Nos. 1 and 4, but ascribes Nos. 2 and 8 to Hermannus Contractus, and does not mention No. 5. Taking these in detail, we find No. 1

p. 959, ii., and, according to the common opin-ion, is there ascribed to Hermannus Contractus; but this ascription is very doubtful, seeing that he d. in 1054, and was only b. in 1013, while the Bodleian Ms. 775 was written in England about 1000, so that the ascription of b deserves attention. As to No. 4 the subject of authorship is treated more fully under "Veni Sancte Spiritus," but here it may be said that Durandus and those who followed him are alone in ascribing it to King Robert, for the French tradition was clearly against this, e.g. neither a nor b ascribe it to him, and Clichtovneus in his Elucidatorium, Paris, 1516, and the Augustinian Missal, printed at Paris, 1529 (see Sequences, Part II.), which may be taken to represent the later French tradition, while agreeing in ascribing No. 3 to King Robert, agree also in treating No. 4 as of unknown authorship. To sum up then it seems to us that No. 2 is possibly by King Robert; that Nos. 8 and 4 are clearly not by him; and that his claim to Nos. 1 and 5 is exceedingly doubtful,

The French chronicles a and b as above also ascribe to King Robert other liturgical pieces, viz.:—(1) "O Constantia martyrum," (2) "Judaea (O Juda) et Hierusalem," (3) "Eripe me," (4) "Cunctipotens genitor" (5) "Cornelius centurio," (6) "Pro fidei meritis," (7) "Concede nobis quaesumus." These appear to be Responsories and Antiphous, but whether rightly or wrongly ascribed to Robert the present writer cannot say. No. 7 is also ascribed to him by e as above. [J. M.]

Roberthin, Robert, s. of Gerhard Roberthin or Robertin, pastor at Saalfeld, in East Prussia, was b. at Saalfeld, March 3, 1600. He entered the University of Königsberg in 1617, went to Leipzig in 1619, and then to Strassburg in 1620, where he became acquainted with Martin Opitz. After 1621 he travelled, employed himself as a private tutor, &c. In 1637 he was appointed secretary to the Prussian Court of Appeal at Königsberg, and in 1645 also Chief Secretary and Rath to the Prussian Administration at Königsberg. After a stroke of paralysis on April 6, he d. on April 7, 1648 (K. Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 128; Valentin Thilo's Orationes Academicae, Königsberg, 1653, p. 349, &c.).

Roberthin was an influential, cultured, and lovable man. He had a great liking for poetry, was a liberal patron of talented youths (e.g. Simon thach, see p. 277, i.), and was one of the founders of the Konigsberg Poetical Union (see p. 25, i.). His hymms and poems appeared principally in H. Alberti's Arien. The only one trainto English is noted at p. 202, ii. [J. M.]

Roberts, Martha Susan, née Blakeney, danghter of the Rev. J. E. Blakeney, D. D., Archdeacon of Sheffield, was b. at Sheffield, Dec. 25, 1862; and married to Samuel Roberts, J. P., Queen's Tower, Sheffield, Dec. 21, 1880. Mrs. Roberts's hymu-writing has been confined to local events. Her hymu on the Loying of the Foundation Stone of a Church, "Be present, Holy Father, To bless our work today," was written, in the first instance, for use at the laying of the foundation-stone of the North Transcpt of the Parish Church of Sheffield, July 12, 1880. It was susceptually revised by Mrs. Roberts, and is in frequent use in Sheffield and the neighbourhood.

Another hymn, written for the laying of the foundation stone of St. Ann's, Sheffield, June 12, 1882, begins, "O Saviour Christ, Who art Thyself." Her hymn for the Queen's Jubilec service at the Parish Church of Sheffield was "Rise, O British Nation, Hasten now to pay." Mrs. Roberte's ballad writing is very sweet and tender.

[J. J.]

Robertson, William, was the a of David Robertson of Brunton in Fife. After fluishing his University course he was licensed to preach in 1711. He is said to have been assistant to the minister of the Presbyterian Church of London Wall, London, before his settlement, in 1714, as parish minister of Borthwick, Midlothian. In 1733 he was appointed minister of Lady Yesters, Edinburgh, and in 1736 of Old Greyfriars, and died at Edinburgh, Nov. 16, 1745. He was in 1742 appointed a member of the Committee of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, which compiled the Translations and Para-phrases of 1745, and is said to have contributed 3 paraphrases which, in the 1781 collection, are numbered 25, "How few receive with cordial faith" (p. 586, ii.), 42, "Let not your hearts with anxious thoughts" (p. 672, 1.), and 43 "You now must hear my voice no more." See Scottish Translations and Paraphrases.

Robertson, William, M.A., eldest s. of the Rev. John Robertson, D.D., of Cambuslang, Lanarkshire, was b. at Cambuslang, July 15, 1820. He studied and graduated M.A. at the University of Glasgow. In 1843 he became parish minister of Monzievaird, Perthehire, where he died June 9, 1864. He was appointed a member of the Hymnal Committee of the Established Church in 1852, 1853, and 1857, and contributed 2 hymns to their Hys. for Public Worship, 1861, since included in their Scottish Hymnal, 1869, which have attained considerable popularity, viz., "A little child the Saviour came" (Christmas), and a version of the Te Deum, which begins, "Thee God we praise, Thee Lord confess." [J. M.]

Robertson, William Bruce, D.D., youngest s. of John Bobertson, Greenhill, near Stirling, was b. at Greenhill, May 24, 1820. After studying at the University of Glasgow (which conferred upon him the degree of D.D. in 1869), he became, in 1843, minister o Trinity U. P. Church, Irvine, Ayrahire, retiring from the active duties of his charge in 1879. He d. at Bridge of Allan, June 27, 1886. In 1870 he was appointed a member of the Hymnal Committee of the U. P. Church, and contributed a translation of the Dies Irae (see p. 299, 1. 19), as No. 356, to their Presbyterian Hymnal, 1876. It had previously appeared as No. 87 in his Hoenna: or chaunts and hymns for Children and Teachers, Glasgow, M. Ogle & Son, M. D. (Preface dated Irvine, August, 1854. Contains 102 for children and 9 for teachers.) He also contributed poems to the Juventle Missionary Magazine of the U. P. Church [such as "The Departed nigh" (Nov. 1861), "The Child's Angel" (May 1856), "Our Lord's Three Weepings" (June 1857)], and other periodicals. But he was best known as one of the most eloquent Scottish preachers of his time. A considerable number of his hymns and poems are embodied in the interesting Life of William B. Robertson, D.D., Irvine, by James Brown, D.D., Glasgow, 1888.

Robinson, Charles Seymour, D.D., was b. at Bennington, Vermont, March 31, 1829, and educated at William College, 1849, and in theology, at Union Seminary, New York (1852-53), and Princeton (1853-55). He became Presbyterian Pastor at Troy, 1855; at Brooklyn, 1860; of the American chapel in Paris (France), 1868; and of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, New York, 1870. During 1876-77 he was editor of the Hustrated Christian Weekly. As an editor of hymnhocks he has been most successful. His Songs of the Church were pub. in 1862; Songs for the Banctuary, 1865; Spiritual Songs, 1876; and Laudes Domini, A Selection of Spiritual Songs, Ancient and Modern, 1884. His Songs for the Sanctuary has probably had a wider safe than any other unofficial American collection of any denomination, and the Laudes Domini is a book of great excellence. Dr. Robinson has composed a few hymns, including, "Saviour, I follow on " (Following Christ), in his Songs of the Church, 1862, and "Isles of the South, your redemption is hearing" (Missions), in his Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865. The latter is given in Dr. Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, as "Lands long benighted." [F. M. B.]

Robinson, George Wade, b. at Cork in 1838, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and New College, St. John's Wood, London. He entered the Congregational Ministry, and was co-pastor at York Street Chapel, Dublin, with Dr. Urwick; then pastor at St. John's Wood, at Dudley, and at Union Street, Brighton. He d. at Southampton, Jan. 28, 1877. He pub. two vols. of poems. (1) Songs in God's World; (2) Loveland. His hymn, "Strangers and pilgrims here below" (Jesus Only), from his Songs in God's World, is in Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884, in an abridged form; and "Weary with my load of sin" (Contrition), is in the 1874 Suppt. to the New Cong. [W. G. H.]

Robinson, Richard Hayes, was h in 1842, and educated at King's College, London. Taking Holy Orders in 1866, he became curate of St. Paul's, Penge. He subsequently held various charges, including the Octagon Chapel, Bath. He became Incumbent of St. Germans, Blackheath, in 1884. His prose works include Sermons on Faith and Duty, 2nd ed., 1873, and The Creed and the Age, 1884. His hymn "Holy Father, cheer our way" (Evening), was contributed to the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871. It was written in 1869 for the congregation of St. Paul's, Upper Norwood, and was designed to be sung after the 3rd Collect at Evening Prayer. It has passed into several collections (sometimes in an altered form), including H. A. & M., 1875, and Thring's Coll., 1882. See the latter for the authorized text. He d. Nov. 5, 1892.

Robinson, Robert, the anthor of "Come, Thou fount of every blessing," and "Mighty God, while angels bless Thee," was b. at Swaffham, in Norfolk, on Sept. 27, 1783

(usually misgiven, spite of his own authority, as Jan. 8), of lowly parentage. Whilst in his eighth year the family migrated to Scarn. ing, in the same county. He lost his father a few years after this removal. His widowed mother was left in sore straits. The universal testimony is that she was a godly woman, and far above her circumstances. Her ambition was to see her son a clergyman of the Church of England, but poverty forbade, and the boy (in his 15th year) was indentured in 1749 to a barber and bairdresser in London. It was an uncongenial position for a bookish and thoughtful lad. His master found him more given to reading than to his profession. Still he appears to have nearly completed his apprenticeship when he was released from his indentures. In 1752 came an epoch-marking event. Out on a frolic one Sunday with like-minded companions, he joined with them in sportively rendering a fortune-telling old woman drunk and incapable, that they might hear and laugh at her predictions concerning them. The poor creature told Robinson that he would live to see his children and grand-children. This set him a-thinking, and he resolved more than ever to "give himself to reading." Coinci-dently he went to hear George Whitefield. The text was St. Matthew iii. 7, and the great evangelist's searching sermon on "the wrath to come" haunted him blessedly. He wrote to the preacher six years later penitently and pathetically. For well nigh three years he walked in darkness and fear, but in his 20th year found "peace by believing." Hidden away on a blank leaf of one of his books is the following record of his spiritual experience, the Latin doubtless having been used to hold it modestly private:-

"Robertus, Michaslis Marisque Robinson fillus. Natus Swaffhami, comitatu Norfolele, Saturni die Sept. 27, 1736. Renatus Sabbati die, Mati 24, 1752, per predicationem potentem Georgii Whitefield. Et gustatis doloribus renovationis duos annosque septem absolutionem plenam gratuitamque, per sangvinem preitosum Jean Christi, inveni (Tnesday, December 19, 1766) cui sit bonor et gloris in secula seculoram. Amen."

Robinson remained in London until 1758. attending assiduously on the ministry of Gill, Wesley, and other evangelical preachers. Early in this year he was invited as a Calvinistic Methodist to the oversight of a chapel at Mildenhall, Norfolk. Thence he removed within the year to Norwich, where he was settled over an Independent congregation. In 1759, having been invited by a Baptist Church at Cambridge (afterwards made historically famous by Bobert Hall, John Foster, and others) he accepted the call, and preached his first sermon there on Jan. 8, 1759, having been previously baptized by immersion. The "call" was simply "to supply the pulpit," but he soon won such regard and popularity that the congregation again and again requested him to accept the full pastoral charge. This he acceded to in 1761, after persuading the people to "open communion." In 1770 he commenced his abundant authorship by publishing a translation from Saurin's sermons, afterwards completed. In 1774 appeared his mesculine and unanswerable Arcana, or the Principles of the Late Petitioners to Parliament for Relief in the matter of Subscription. In 1776 was published A Plea for the Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ in a Pastoral Letter to a Congregation of Protestant Dissenters at Cambridge. Dig-nitaries and divines of the Church of England united with Nonconformists in lauding this exceptionally able, scholarly, and pungently written took. In 1717 followed his History and Mystery of Good Friday. The former work brought him urgent invitations to enter the ministry of the Church of England, but he never faltered in his Nonconformity. In 1781 he was asked by the Baptists of London to prepare a history of their branch of the Christian Church. This resulted, in 1790, in his History of Baptism and Baptists, and in 1792, in his Ecclesiastical Researches. Other theological works are included in the several collective editions of his writings. He was prematurely worn out. He retired in 1760 to Birmingham, where he was somehow brought into contact with Dr. Priestley, and Unitarians have made much of this, on exceedingly stender grounds. He d. June 9, 1790. His Life has been fully written by Dyer and by William Robinson respectively, both with a bias against orthodoxy. His three changes of ecclesisatical relationship show that he was somewhat unstable and impulsive. His hymne are terse yet melodious, evangelical but not sentimental, and on the whole well wrought. His prose has all, more or less of the σφόδρον ral evenue dorinor, that vehement and enthusiastic glow of passion that belongs to the orator. (Cf. Dyer and Robinson as above, and Gadaby's Memoirs of Hynn-Writers (3rd ed., 1861); Belcher's Historical Sketches of Hymns; Miller's Singers and Songs of the Church; Flower's Robinson's Miscel. Works; Annual Review, 1805, p. 464; Eelectic Review, Sept. [A, B, G, ]

Robinson, Robert, was b. in London in 1814, and educated for the Congregational ministry at Highbury College, London. He was paster successively at Chatteris, Luton, and York Road Chapel, Lambeth, London. From 1865 to 1884 he was Home Secretary of the London Missionary Society. He d. at New Cross, Jan. 10, 1887. His hymns were mainly composed for Sunday School Anni-versaries at Luten and York Road Chapel. They include the following, which have passed into C. U.:

I. Beautoous scenes on earth appear. Written for the Sunday S. Anniversary at Luton, in 1850. 2. Hear, Gracious God, and from Thy Throne. Written for the S. S. A. at Luton, 1851.

Written for the S. S. A. at Lutton, 1851.

8. I have Thy house, my Lord, my King. Written for the S. S. A., Lutton, 1853.

4. Twe been in chase of pleasure. Written for the S. S. A. at York Read Chapel, 1861.

5. Now while my heart rejeloes. Written in 1889. Major's Book of Praise, 1871.

6. Once more with joyous greeting. Written in 1899. In Major's Bk. of Praise, 1871.

7. The cheering rimms of Subbath bells. Written for the S. S. A. at Luton, 1849.

3. Thus in hely convocation. Written in 1869. In Major's Bk. of Praise, 1871.

8. While we on earth are raising. Written in 1869. In Major's Bk. of Praise, 1871.

10. Years are rolling, life is wasting. Written for the S. S. A., at Luton, 1849.

All theses humans are for abilities and are

All these hymns are for children, and are specially adapted to anniversary services. Most of them are in Major's Bk. of Praise for creed. The last answer is :-

Home and School, 1871; and the Silver Street Sunday Scholar's Companion, 1880. [W. G. H.]

Rock of ages, cleft for me. A. M. Toplady. [Passiontide.] In the October number of the Gospel Magazine, 1775, in an article on "Life a Journey," and signed Minimus (one of Toplady's signatures), the following occurs at p. 474:--

"Yet, if you fall, be humbled; but do not despair. Pray afresh to God, who is able to raise you up, and to set you on your feet again. Look to the blood of the covenant, and say to the Lord, from the depth of your Rock of Ages, cleft for me, let me hide myself in thes ! Houl, I to the fountain fly ! wath me, Saviour, or I die.

Make those words of the apostle, your motto: 'Per-plexed, but not in deepsir; cast down, but not de-stroyed.'''

2. In the Gospel Magazine for March, 1776 (of which Toplady was then the editor), there appeared a peculiar article entitled, A remarkable Calculation: Introduced here, for the sake of the spiritual Improvement subjoined. Questions and Answers, relative to the National Debt. The object and end of this "Calculation" will be gathered from the closing questions and answers :-

Q. 8. How doth the government raise this interest

A. By taxing those who lent the principal, and others.

Q. 9. When will the government be able to pay the

y. 5. The principal?

A. When there is more money in England's transury slone, than there is at present in all Europe.

Q. 10. And when will that be?

A. Never.

This article is signed "J. F." Immediately underneath, the subject is continued as a Spiritual Improvement of the foregoing: By another Hand. The aim of this "Improvethent" is to ascertain how many sins "each of the human race" is guilty of "supposing a person was to break the law (1) but once in 24 hours"; (2) twice in the same time; (3) once in every hour; (4) once in every minute; (5) once in every second. As this last is the climax, we will give the question and the answer.

we will give the question and the answer.

Q. May we not proceed abundantly further yet?
Sixty seconds go to a minute. Now, as we never, in the present life, rise to the mark of legal sanctity, is it not fairly infertible, that our Sixs multiply with every second of our sublunary durations?

A. The too true. And in this view of the matter, our dreadfull account stands as follows.—At ten years old, each of us is chargable with 315 millions, and 30 thousand sins.—At twenty, with 630 millions, and 30 thousand.—At fairly, with 946 millions, and 30 thousand.—At forty, with 156 millions, and 800 thousand.—At stally, with 1892 millions, and 800 thousand.—At stally, with 1892 millions, and 160 thousand.—At sighty with 2007 millions, and 520 thousand.—At sighty with 2522 millions, 830 thousand.

Q. When shall we be able to pay off this immense debt?

A. Never.

d. Never....

Q. Will not divine goodness compound for the debt, by accepting test than we owe?

A. Impossible.....

Notwithstanding this frightful helplessness, there is hope, as the answer, a little further on, makes clear :--

A. "Christ bath redeemed us from the curse of the Law; being made a corse for og "Gal. III. 13.—This, This, will not only counter-balance, but infinitely over-balance, all the sins of the whole believing world.

Questions and Answers follow, all of which are framed to support Toplady's Calvinistic

A. "We can only admire and bless the FATRER, for electing us in Ciriet, and for laying on Him the iniquities of ur all :—the Box, for taking our nature and our debts upon Himself, and for that complete rightecounters debts upon Himself, and for that complete rightecomees and escrifice, whereby he redeemed his mystical Israel from all their sins:—and the co-squal Spirit, for causing us (in conversion) to feel our need of Christ, for inspiring us with faith to embrace him, for visiting us with his sweet combations by shedding abroad his love in our hearts, for sealing us to the day of Christ, and for making us to walk in the path of his commandments.

"A living and dying Prayer for the Hollier Believer is the World.

- ** Rook of Ages, cleft for me, Let me bide myself in Thee! Let the Water and the Blood. From thy riven Side which flow'd, Be of Sin the double Cure, Cleanse me from its Guilt and Pow'r.
- " Not the labors of my hands Can faifill thy Law's demands: Could my seal no respite know, Could my tears forever flow, All for Sin could not atoms: Thou must save, and Thou alone I
- "Nothing in my hand I bring; Simply to thy Cross I cling; Naked, come to Thee for Dress; Helpless, look to Thee for grace; Foul, I to the fountain fiy; Wash me, Saviour, or I die!
- "Whilst I draw this fiseting breath—
  When my eye-strings break in death—
  When I soar through tracts unknown—
  See Thee on thy Judgment-Throne—
  Room of ages, cleft for me,
  Let me hide myself in Them (—A. T."
- In his Pc. & Hgc., 1776, No. 337, this text was repeated as "A Prayer, living and dying," with the changes given in italics in st. iv.
  - " While I draw this fleeting breath, When my eye strings break in death, When I sour to world; unknown, See Thee on Toy indgment thrane; Rock of Ages, cleft for me, Let me hide myself in Thee."

In tracing out the subsequent history of this hymn we shall deal with its Text, its Usc,

- its Translations, and its Merits and Usefulness.
  4. The Text. In the above quotations we have Toplady's original, and his revised text. Of these we must take the latter as that which he regarded as authorised, and indicate subsequent changes by that standard alone. These changes include:-
- (1.) The change of st. iii. 1.2 from "Simply to Thy Cross, &c." to "Simple to Thy Cross, &c." first appeared in Walter Row's ed. of
- Toplady's Ps. and Hys., 1787.
  (2.) "Book of ages shelter me," This was given in Rippon's Bap. Selection, 1787, and

(3.) In the 1810 ed. of Rowland Hill's Coll. of Ps. and Hys., No. 111, st. i.-iii. are given as "Smitten on th' accursed tree."

- (4.) The most important rearrangement of the text, and that which has gained as great if not a greater hold upon the public mind than the original, is that made by T. Cotterill, and included in his Sel, of Ps. & Hys., 1815. This reads (the italies indicate the alterations made by Cotterili):—
  - 1. " Book of agest cleft for me: Let me hide myself in Thee: Let the water and the blood. From Thy woonside side which flow'd, Be of sin the double cure: Save from wrath, and make me pure.

- 2. " Should my tears for ever flow, Should my real no languer knew, This for sin could not atone; Thou must save, and Thou alone; In my head no price I bring, Simply to Thy cross I cling.
- 3. " While I draw this fleeting breath, When mine eyelids close in death, When I rise to worlds unknown, And behold Thee on Thy throne, Rock of agest cleft for me! Let me hide myself in Thea."
- (5.) In the 8th ed. of his Sol. of Ps. & Hys., 1819, Cotterill repeated this text with the change in st. i. l. 4, from "From Thy wounded side which flow'd," to "From Thy side, a healing flood." This text was repeated in J. Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, and is found in a large number of hymn-books both old and new.
- (6.) The next important change was that made in the 1830 Supplement to the Wes. H. This text is:-

St. i. Cotterill's of 1815, as above.
St. it. Cotterill's, 1815, with 1. 1, "Could my lears," &c. (Toplady); 1. 2, "Could my zeal," &c. (Toplady); 1. 3, "There for sin," &c. St. iii. Cotterill's, 1815, with 1. 2, "When my eyes shall close in death."

This is the recognised Methodist version of the hymn in most English-speaking countries.

(7.) In 1836 another version was given W. J. Hall in the Mitre H. Bk., No. 99, as followe:-

Cutterill, of 1816.

"Heris I have none to bring,
Only to Thy cross I clink;
Should my team for ever flyw St. H. Should my real no languer know, All for ain could not atone;

Thou must save, and Thou alone."

St. Iii. Cotteril. 1815, with 1. 4, "See Thee on Thy fudgment throne" (Toplady).

This text is repeated in The New Mitre Hymnal, 1875.

(8.) The crucial line of the original, "When my eye-strings break in death," has been altered as :-

1. " When mine eyelids close in death." Cotterili,

1815, as above.

2. "When my eyes shall close in death," Wes. H.

2. "When my open was the line of the hymn. 1830, as above.
3. "When my keart-strings break in death." Williams's and Boden's Coll., 1801.
4. "When my cyclids sink in death." J. Kempthorne's Ft. & Hyt., 1810.

(9.) Other changes in the text of the hymn might be indicated; but being of minor importance nothing will be gained by their enumeration. 5. Its Use. From 1776 to 1810 this hymu is found in a very limited number of hymnbooks. After that date the interest therein grow rapidly until at the present time it is omitted from no hymn-book of merit in the English language. Until Sir R. Palmer's (Lord Selborne) vigorous protest at the Church Congress at York in 1868, most of the altered texts as given above were in common use. Since then in most new bymp-books Toplady's authorised text from his Ps. & Hys., 1776, has been adopted.

6. Translations. In translating this hyun into other languages (and these translations are very numerous and in many languages), the text used has varied with the materials in the hands of the translator, some taking the text direct from Toplady, some from Cotterill, and others from the Wes. H. Bk., or other some versions in Latin :---

(1.) "Jesus, pro me perforatus." By W. E. Glad-stone, made in 1848, and pub. in Translations by Lord Lyttelton, and the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone. Lond.

Lystetton, and the Right Hon. W. R. Gladstone. Lond. 1861. This is from Topiady's text." By C. I. Black, in Biggs's Arnotated ed. of H. A. & H., 1867. This is from the H. A. & M. 1861 text.

(3.) "O rupes acterna, milh percussa, recondar." By R. Binghem from Topiady's full text, slightly altered, in his Hymno. Christic Latina, 1871.

(4.) "Eupes acrum fiscs quondam." By H. M. Mesgill, from Topiady's full text, in his Songs of the Christica Ortest and Life, 1876.

(6.) "Secondorum, pro me fisca." By G. S. Hodges, from the H. A. & M. text, in his The County Patatine, 1876.

(6.) "Rupes Seculorum, te." By Silas T. Rand, in Burrage's Baptist Hymn Writers, 1889.

7. Merits and Usefulness. The merits of this hymn are of a very high order whether regarded as a sacred lyric, or as a metrical epitome of certain well-known passages of Holy Scripture. The influence which it has had upon the minds of men, especially amongst the more learned, has been very considerable. The fact that it was quoted by and gave great consolation to the late Prince Consort in his last illness is well known. This is one, however, of numerous instances of more than ordinary importance, where it has been a stay and comfort in days of peril, and in the hour of death. No other English hymn can be named which has laid so broad and firm a grasp upon the English-speaking world.

[J. J.]

Rodigast, Samuel, a. of Johann Rodigast, pastor at Gröben near Jena, was b. at Gröben Oct. 19, 1649. He entered the University of Jena in 1668 (M.A. 1671), and was in 1676 appointed adjunct of the philosophical faculty. In 1680 he became conrector of the Greyfriazs Gymnasium at Berlin. While in this position he refused the offers of a pro-fessorship at Jena and the Rectorships of the Schools at Stade and Stralsund. Finally, in 1698, he became rector of the Greyfrians Gymnasium, and held this post till his death. His tombstone in the Kloster-Kirche in Berlin says he d. "die xxix. Mart. a. MDCCVIII . . . aetatis suno lix." (Koch, iii. 420; Goedeke's Grundriss, iii. 1887, p. 291; Ms. from Dr. Nohl of the Greyfriars Gymnasium, &c.). Two hymns have been ascribed to him, one of which has passed into English, viz. :-

Was Gott thut das ist wohlgethan, Es bleibt gereaht sein Wille. Cross and Consolation, This hymn is one of the first rank. It is founded on Deut. xxxii. 4, and has reminiscences of an older hymn by Altenburg (p. 84, i.) beginning with the same first line. Wetzel, ii. 396, says it was written in 1675, while Rodigast was at Jens. for his sick friend Severus Gastorius, precentor (cantor) there, and set to music by Gastorius. It appears in the Humnoversche G. B., Göttingen, 1676, as No. 13 in the Appendix, and is in 6 st. of 8 l. Included in the Schleusingen G. B., 1681, and most recent collections, e.g., as No. 902 in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863. It was, says Koch, viii. 494, the favourite hymn of Friedrich Wilhelm III. of Prussia, and by his command was performed at his funeral on June 11, 1840.

The beautiful melody, given in the C. B. for Empland, appears in the Nibroberg G. B., 1680 (not in the ed. of

The tra. in C. U. are :-

1. The will of God is only good. By A. T. Russell, amitting st. iv.-vi., as No. 234 in his Pr. & Hys., 1851.

2. Whate'er my God ordains is right, His will is ever just. A good and full tr. by Miss Winkworth in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 196. Repeated in full in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860, and E. T. Prust's Coll., 1869. Abridged in Dr. Martineau's Hymns, &c. 1873, Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884, the Amer. Episc. Hyl., 1871, &c.

k. Whate'er my God ordains is right, Holy His will shideth. A very good tr., omitting st. iv., and based on her 1858 version, by Miss Winkworth in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 135. Repeated, omitting st. iii. in the Scottish Hymnol, 1869, Snepp's Songs of G. and G., 1871, the Canadian Presb. H. Bk., 1880, and others.

4. What God does, that is rightly dens, Allwise. By Miss Borthwick, of st. i., iv.-vi., as No. 235 in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864.

5. Whate'er God does is good and right. A good but free tr. by E. Massie in his Sucred Odes, 1866, p. 127. Repeated, omitting the tr. of st. v. in J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876.

6. Whate'er God does is rightly done. A good tr., omitting st. iii., iv., as No. 101 in the Ibrox Hymnal, 1871.

7. What God does, ever well is done. E. Cronenwett, omitting st. iv., as No. 408 in the Ohio Luth. Hymnal, 1880.

8. Whate'er God doth is rightly done, Rightsous. In full by H. L. Hastings, as No. 723 in his Song's of Pilgrinage, 1886.

Other tre. are :-

(i) "What Thou my God dost, all's well done." In (1) "What Thou my God doet, all's well done." In the Supp. to Ger. Pracknody, ad. 1'65, p. 51. (2) "Whate'er God does is filly done." By Br. H. Mills, 1845 (1856, p. 164). (3) "What God haid done is wisely done." By J. S. Skallybrass, in the fonci Solfa Reporter, July, 1857. (4) "What God doth is divinely done." By Miss Burlingbam, in the British Herald, Feb. 1856, p. 216, and Reid's Profise Book, 1872. (5) "All that God does is rightly done." By J. D. Burns, 1869, p. 238. (6) "What God doth, it is all well done." By M. L. Frotkingham, 1870, p. 161.

Roh, Johann, was a native of Domaschitz near Leitmeritz, in Bohemia. Roh was his name in Bohemian, but when he wrote in Latin he styled himself Cornu, and in German Horn. In 1518 he was ordained priest and appointed preacher to the Bohemian Brethren's community at Jungbunzlau, in Bohemia. At the Synod of Brandeis, in Sep. 1529, he was chosen as one of the three Seniors of the Unity, Finally, at the Synod of Brandeis, in April 1532, he was appointed Bishop, and held this post till his death, at Jungbunzlau, Feb. 11, 1547. (Koch, ii. 114; Wackernagel, i. p. 727, &c.)

Rob was the editor of the Bokemian H. Bk. of 1541, and is said to have written a number of hymns in the Bohemian language, but the ed. of 1501 only gives one with his name. He also edited the second German hymn-book of the Brethren, viz., Eva Gerongbuck der frider in Behomen und Merkerra, Nürnberg, 1544 and seems to have been author or translator of all, or and seems to have been author or taxes are of an or nearly all, of the 33 hymns there added. Another hymn ("O heiliger Vator, glutger Herr") is also given with his name in the Kirchespeteny, 1564. (See further under Bohemian Hymaedy, pp. 183-160, and Weisse, M.) A considerable number of Reh's hymns passed into the Lutheran hymn-books of the 16th and 17th centuries, and into the Moravian H. Birs, of the 18th cent. Rather curiously in the last Moravian H. Bir. (the Kleiner Glasangbach, Guadau, 1872), his name is not found in the

Those of Boh's hymns which have been tr. into English are:-

L. Gottes Sohn let kommen. Christmas. In 1544, as above, and thence in Wackernagel, iii. p. 350, in 9 st. of 6 l. The heading "Ave Hierarchia" refers to the melody, for it is not a tr. from the Latin. Included in V. Babat's G. B., Leipzig, 1553, and recently in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 6. Strangely enough this fine hymn was emitted from the Kirchengeseng of 1566 and later eds.; and though it was included in the Herrnhut G. B., 1735, and the Brüder G. B., 1778, it has again bean omitted from the Kleines G. B., 1870. The tra. are:-

 Lo! from highest heaven. A free tr, of st. i.-iii., vi., by A. T. Russell, as No. 27 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851. Included, altered, in Kennedy, 1863.

2. Once He came in blessing. A good tr. of st. i.-iii., v., iz., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 26. Included in J. Robinson's Coll., 1869, and the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868.

3. Ged's Son once descending. This is No. 249 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754,

Hymns not in English C. U.:-

Hymns not in English C. U.:

ii. Betrachtn wir hout zu dieser Frist. Easter. 1644 as above, and in Wackernagel, iii. p. 359, in 14 et. of 31. Tr. as:—(1) "The Saviour Jesus, Friend of Man." As No. 332 in pt. 1. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754. This is from the recast "Der seige Helland, Jesus Christ." bessed on it.—v.), as No. 1876 in Appendix Mi. c. 1748, to the Herrahut G. B., 1735.

iii. Eis starker Held ist uns kommen. Caristona. 1844 as above, and in Wackernagel, iii. p. 332, in 12 st. of 41. 37. as (1) "God took our nature upon Him (st. iii.), as No. 251 in pt. 1 of the Horavion H. Bk., 1784.

iv. Lob Gott getrost mit singen. Caristona Church. 1644 as above, and in Wackernagel, iii. p. 360, in 9 st. of 81. In the Kirchengelsma, 1568, two st. were inserted between iil. and iv. This form, in 11 st., is No. 531 in the Une. L. S., 1851. In the Brader G. B., 1778, No. 1014, is a cento in 3 st. (from st. vi., viii., ix. of the 1544, and iv. of the 1566), beginning "Lass dich durch inchts crachrecken," and this form has been tr. as "O be not thou dismayed, Belleving ittile band," as No. 598 in the Koravian H. Bk., 1886.

v. O Messoh, the heut hieren. Passiontide. 1544 as above, and in Wackernagel, iii. p. 855, in 20 st. of 41. At p. 167 in his Dictionary it is marked as a tr. from the Bohemian. The English version is "I am thy Lord and God" (st. ii.), as No. 258, in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1764.

[J. M.]

Roman Catholic Hymnody, English.

Roman Catholic Hymnody, English. 1. It is only during the last thirty or forty years that the attention of Roman Catholics in Great Britain has become widely awakened to the subject of congregational singing, and the treasures of hymnody in their own Office Books. There is even now room for much further diffusion of knowledge on the matter. Considering how many ere the hymns of singular power and beauty, venerable, also, through their long use, which are contained in the Roman Missel, Offices, and Breviary, it is surprising that Roman Catholic poets did not, long before the present century, render them more frequently into English verse.

2. The history of Roman Cathelic Hymnody in Great Britain is beset with difficulties, arising from the rarity of the earlier books in which the little that was done at the first is found, and from the unsystematic use of the facts that are known. In the stormy days of Elizabeth and Jumes I., when the celebration of Divine Service according to the Roman Use exposed both pricat and worshipper to the severest penalties, it was not to be expected that Roman Catholic Hymnody could possibly flourish. Something, however, was done. "Jerusalem, my happy home" (p. 580, i.), and some neteworthy hymns and carols found amongst the poems of Robert Southwell, date from that period. Southwell, an English Jesuit, was born in Norfolk in 1560, and was honged, drawn and quartered under a charge of constructive treason against Queen Elizabeth in 1595. He was the author of numerous sententious poems, an edition of which was published in London in 1856; and more recently a critical and more complete edition has been privately printed by Dr. Grosart. His "New Prince, new Pomp," is a good specimen of his verse (p. 210, ii.). It begins :-

"Behold a silly, tender Babe In freezing winter night,"

It is fit to be sung as a Christmas hymn, and is far beyond much of the sacred poetry of Edizabeth's time. His translation of the "Landa Sion" is good, and the earliest translation of that hymn into English yet known.

On the dispersion of the English Roman Catholics, and their settlement at Antwerp and Brussels, at Paris and Rheims, and at St. Omer's and Rome, they began to issue books of devotion, and tre. from the Latin with versions of the Old Church hymns. These tra. of the Primer were frequently reprinted. That at Antwerp, for instance, was issued in 1599, 1604, 1650, and 1658, with the Preface signed "R. V." These initials are probably those of Robert Verstegan, a well-known printer then at work at Antwerp, and the author of The Restitution of Decayed Intelligence, and a metrical version of the Seven Penitential Psalms. 1601. A Mechlin ed. of 1615, reprinted at St. Omer, 1619, and, again (place not given), in 1632, contained versions possibly by William Drummond. William Habington wrote nothing that can be called a hymn. Two ancoymous tra., however, of Cardinal Damiani's Ad perennis vitae fontem, one issued in Paris in 1631 in a tr. of St. Augustine's Manual, and the second in a tr. of the Confessions, 1679, show that there was no lack of power or poetic genius amongst the Roman Catholics of that period. The following are specimens from each :-

- "The Fields are green, the Plants do thrive, The streams with Honey flow; From Spices, Odonrs, and from Gums Most precious Liquors grow: Fruits bang upon whole Woods of Trees: And they shall still do so.
- " The Season is not chang'd for still Both Sun and Moon are bright, The Lamb of this fair City is That clear, Immortal Light, Whose Freeenct makes eternal Day Which never ends in Night."

"Here Unguents, Spices, Liquors offer Scenis aromatical; As know nor cause no Fall.
Here Cornfields seen, there mendows green, Honey streams glide between, 44 No varying Moon, nor starty frame Diversities the Year; Nor Sun, but the all-giorious Lambe Brings light to that blest sphere: Unsating light, for ever bright, Makes day without a night.

The passionate and melodious hymns of Richard Crashaw (q.v.) are hardly fitted for congregational use. He translated, amid a variety of other pieces, the "Lands Sion" of St. Thomas Aquinas; and imitated, with some auccess, the mellifluous versification of the original. Austin's hymns [see English Hymnedy, Early, § x.] were published in his Devotions, in 1668, and in 1672, 1684, and two editions in 1685. Although these hymns are of some merit, they are used chiefly cutside of Austin's own communion, and in the form handed down by Dorrington and Hickes.

handod down by Dorrington and Hickes.

4. John Dryden, who in common with Crachaw and Austin, was originally a member of the Church of England, was the most noted of a group of translators who in the Primers of the seventeenth century made translations of the Latin hymns from the Beformed Roman Breviary form of 1632. Some of these translations are still found in a few Roman Catholic manuals and hymnals. Dryden's translation of the "Veni Creator Spiritua":—

"Creator Spirit, by Whose aid The world's foundations first were laid":

published as early as 1693, is the best known example. Two other translations by him are given in Scott's Dryden, and repeated in the recent editions of Dryden's Poems. There is strong internal evidence and some traditional grounds for believing that these are but specimens of his efforts in this direction [see Dryden]. The 1685 ed. of the Primer is of this class, although Dryden can scarcely be said to have had any share in the production of the work. A Roman Primer of 1687 contains these translations of the 1685 Primer, and a few which were new.

5. During the eighteenth century very little was done. Alexander Pope held fast to his religion in the midst of nuch of the false philosophy of his day. He composed in the spirit of a true Christian the exquisite Ode which was suggested by the Emperor Adrian's:

45 Animula, vagula, blandula, Hospas comesque corporia."

It is the well-known "Vital spark of heavenly flame." His Messiah and his Universal Prayer have given several centos to modern hymn-books. [See Pope A.] Amongst translations not generally known is one by "T. P.," published about 1740, of St. Thomas Aquinas's "Lauda Sion." Although departing from the original metre, it is fairly meritorious. The last stanza reads:—

us. The last stanza reads:

"Gracious Jesus, Food divine,
Preserve us, feed us, lest we sitay;
And through the lonely Vale of Time
Conduct us to the Resims of Day.
Source of uncreated Light!
Matchiess goodness! boundless Might!
Fed by Thy Care, thy Bounty blest,
Hereafter give thy Flock a place
Amongst thy Guesta, a chosen Race,
The Heirs of everlasting Rest."

In 1763 a complete translation of the Roman Breviary was pub. in 4 vols., with new translations of the hymns: but it was late in the contury before anything approaching to the style and manner of the modern hymn-book appeared, with the exception of an isolated translation of a popular hymn or two as the "Adeste Fidelos." In 1731 a most extraordinary Collection of Spiritual Songs was issued by Bishop John Geddes, in connection with Bishop John Hay, for the use of the Scottish Northern Boman Catholics. This was reprinted in 1802, and again in 1823, with additions and alterations. The hymns are written to familiar Scottish airs, the result being a hymnal which ranks amongst the most curious in the whole range of English hymnody.

In the present century one of the first, if not the first, collection of hymns for the use of English Roman Catholics was published by the Rov. George L. Haydock, as A Collection of Catholic Hymns, or Religious Songs, York, 1823. From the Preface it appears that two editions, previously issued in 1805 and 1807, were edited by the Rev. Nicholas Alain Gilbert, and that this York edition is that of 1807 reprinted in full. It contains hymns by Austin; Dryden's "Yeni Creater"; some from the 17th century Manual of Prayers and Litanies; a fine piece by Nicholas Poskett, 1660, which is alluded to in the Preface; translations from St. Francis Xavier and St. Bernard; a bollad of John Tauler and the Beggar, which, in its prose form, is frequently appended to the early translations of St. Francis de Sales's Introduction to a Deveut Life; and some of the carliest, if not the earliest, translations from the Paris Breviary. Another collection by Haydock, published at Whitby, 1823, is a clear and distinct departure from these old lines. It is A Collection of Catholic Psalms, Hymns, Motettes, Authems, and Devologies: is appended to the former collection, and adds 39 hymns thereto, in addition to the Motetts and Authems, and 18 Doxologies. Many of the hymns are altered from J. Fanch and D. Turner, I. Watts, B. Rhodes, J. Montgomery, and C. Wesley. Daniel French; J. R. Beste in his Catholic Hours, a family

J. R. Beste in his Catholic Hours, a family prayer-hook with hymns, 1839; and Dr. Husenbeth in his Roman Missal for the Use of the Lally, 1840, and his Vespers Book of 1841 bring us down to the works and the labourers of the peat forty years.

7. In many of the books of devotion in use among the Roman Catholics of Great Britain, there are English versions of the Latin hymns occurring in the Mass, Vespers, and Benediction, which compose the ordinary public services on Sundays: and these versions are not bound to be strictly uniform. An exceedingly popular Manual is The Garden of the Soul, and it contains a version by the Rew. E. Caswall, of the "Hymn to our Saviour Jesus, abridged from St. Bernard." The frequent hearing, singing, and repeatingthese affecting words:—

"Jesus, the very thought of Thee, With excetage fills my breast; But sweeter far Thy face to see, And in Thy presence rest!"

with the remainder, have treasured it in the memory of multitudes of the faithful; and is a fair specimen of the translated Latin Hymns and Sequences which are found in a large number of modern Roman Catholic prayer-books. They do not always show translations of the first order, but they are sufficiently good for practical purposes, and may be supplemented by those of the Rev. E. Caswall; of Cardinal Newman; and The Roman Breviary in English, by the Marquess of Bute, 1879. In this last are given versious of the hymns, antiphons, &c., by various hands.

8. The leading translators are Cardinal Newman, and the Rev. E. Caswall. Others might be named, but their productions are either limited in number, or inferior in quality. The art of translation is a very rare and difficult one. Many compositions which might pass if accepted as originals, would fail altogether if presented to critical eyes as versious of old and approved hymns of the Church. It is the brightness and delicacy of touch which distinguish the work of a master in translation from the failures of an apprentice. The Verses on Various Occasions, 1868, by Cardinal Newman, contain a priceless collection of hymna for Matins, Lauds, Prime, Tierce, Sext, None, and Vespers, on the different days of the week respectively; for Compline, Matins and Lauds of Advent, and the Transfiguration, for a Martyr, and for a Confessor Bishop. These are full of music and sweetness, of energy and light, which could spring from nothing but genius and long practice in the art. Cardinal Newman is one of the great restorers of Roman Catholic Hymnody, not, indeed, through publishing a complete hymnbook, but by being, one might almost say, in himself a type of rhythmical utterance, and the author of several hymns and translations of supreme excellence. The Rev. E. Coswall (q.v.) more than any other, has enriched English Roman Catholic hymnody with a large number of beautiful translations from the See, for example, his version of the hymn of Prudentius, "Bethlohem of noblest cities." How elegant is both the language and rhythm. How excellently, also, he has translated that sweetest of mediaeval hymns, the hymn of St. Bernard, "Jean dulcis memoria" ("Jesu, the very thought of Thee"), noted above.

9. Amongst the original hymn-writers Dr. Faber takes the highest rank. His hymns, sung at the Orstory, are often remarkable for true poetry. Among these may be mentioned "Jesus is Risen," "The Immaculate Conception," "To our Blessed Lady," "The Will of God," and the "Evening Hymn." Faber has done more than any other Englishman to promote congregational singing amongst the Roman Catholics in Great Britain. The congregation to which he was attached entered into his hymns fervently, and from them they spread to others. He certainly perceived and appreciated, as a scholar, and from his standpoint as a Roman Cotholic, the double advan-tage possessed by a Church which sings both in an ancient and modern tengue, making two-fold melody continually unto God. He did not prize the less the magnificent hymns of Christian antiquity in Latin, because he taught congregations to sing in the English of to-day. His indebtedness to the Olucy Hymns, and to the Wesleys, he freely acknowledges in his Preface to Jesus and Mary, 1849. To these three—Cardinal Newman, Caswall, and Faber—the Roman Catholic Hymnody in England principally owes its revival,

10. Other names of less importance from a hymnological point of view remain to be noted. It Thomas Moore could be regarded as a Roman Catholic, as he is reckoned by his friend and biographer, Lord John Russell, we should not be able to pass over some Sacred Melodies of his which are well-known, and of extreme beauty. But the work published under the title of Sacred Songs, in 1816, has become so popular, and they are so constantly claimed as the productions of one who at-tended babitually the Anglican services, that we are unwilling to advance a disputable protonsion. Besides, exquisite as they are, they have nothing in them that stamps then with any certain mark of the religion in which Moore was brought up in child-hood. "Thou art, O God, the Life and Light"; "O Thou Who dry'st the mourner's teer"; "The turf shall be my fragrant shrine"; "Sound the loud timbrel," and many others, are all of them steeped in that tenderness which touches deeply our human nature, when under the influence of Divine Miss Adelaide Anno Proctor had passed a considerable portion of her life before she entered the Roman Catholic Church. She was born in 1835, but did not join the Roman communion until 1851. Sometimes she is truly lyrical, and her verses, Confide et Conquiedo, would be suitable for congregational singing. The same may be said of Our Daily Bread. She does not write in the more routine of pious verse. Her Sent to Hearen is lovely of its kind. She is a thinker, but her poetry is more adapted to rending than to practical psalmody. Religion had taken deep root in her mind, and her days were passed in acts of self-denying charity. Other translators and original writers include the Rev. T. J. Potter, who translated afresh nearly all the Vesper hymns in the Catholic Psalmist, 1858; Aylward, Porter, Rawes, Wallace, Coffin, Russell; H. N. Oxenham, a writer of known ability in ecclesiastical subjects in the Saturday Review; Canon F. Cakeley, a scholar of classical tasten; Aubrey de Vere, a true poet, author of Antar and Zara, and many other volumes; Charles Kent, and Robert Campbell. Matthew Bridges has also struck nobly many a note of adoration in his Hypers of the Heart for the Use of Catholics, 1848, of which, "Rise, glorious Conqueror, arise," and The Scraph's Song, "Crown Him with many crowne," may be taken as samples.

11. In addition to the Oratory Hymns of the Bev. F. W. Faber, a cheap and popular Roman Catholic hymn-book, pub. by Burns and Oates, has come into very extensive use. It is entitled, Hymns for the Year, a complete Collection for Schoole, Missions, and General Use, 1867. It contains 288 of the best-known and most frequently used Roman Catholic hymns; and is found, together with the Oratory Hymns of Dr. Faber, to be an invaluable treasure to Roman Catholics. Some of the "Sacred Songs" touching the Communion of Saints are peculiar to Roman Catholic worship. Nothing, however, can exceed the fervour and depth of devotion and adoration to be found in the hymns addressed to the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit;

the Secred Trinity, and our Lord in his Human and Divine nature. Such, to pame a few only, are, "My God, how wonderful Thou art"; "It is my sweetest comfort, Lord"; "O brightness of Eternal Light"; "I met the Good Shepherd"; and "Lead me to Thy peacoful manger."

12. The latest addition to Roman Catholic Hymnody, is the Annus Sanctus, 1884, of Mr. Orby Shipley. It is a work of great value, and the Appendix, containing earlier versions of Latin hymns, is the result of much diligent research on Mr. Shipley's part. In this Appendix will be found the heads of families of versions of Vesper hymns taken from the Primers of 1604, 1615, 1685, and 1706. These versions of some of the best-known Latin hymns have a religious, a poetic, an historic, and an ecclesiastical value. They will be a real boon to literature in a branch that has been little oultivated, and, to say the truth, undeservedly neglected.

13. The following list contains most of the works associated with English Roman Catholic Hymnody (except the Primers, p. 909), which ore noticed above :-

ore noticed above:

1. A Collection of Spiritual Songs. By Bp. John Coddes. 1791, 1802, and 1823.

2. A Collection of Calbotic Hymns; or Religious Songs, &c. Pátied by the Rev. N. A. Gilbert, Whitby, 1805; 2nd ed. Manchester, 1807; 3rd ed. edited by the Rev. G. L. Haydock. York, 1823.

3. A Collection of Catholic Prolims, Hymns, Motettos, Anthems, and Dozologies. By the Rev. G. L. Haydock. Whitby, 1823.

4. Catholic Pasiter, 1839.

5. Catholic Pasiter, 1839.

- 4. Catholic Praiter, 1839.
  5. Catholic Hours: A Fundly Prayer-Book with Hymns. By J. R. Beste. 1839.
  6. Roman Missai for the Use of the Laity. By Dr. F. C. Husenbeth. 1940.
  7. Vespers. By Dr. F. C. Husenbeth. 1841.
  8. Jesus and Mary. By F. W. Fuber. London, 1849.
  9. Lyra Catholica; containing all the Breviary and Missai Hymns, with athers from Various Sources. Translated by Edward Cawall, M.A. London, 1849.
  10. Church Hymns, in English, that may be sung to the Old Church Husie. With Approbation. And other Religious Poems. By J. Richard Beste, Esq. London, 1849.

11. Catholic Hymns arranged in order for the principal Festivals, Feasts of Saints, and other occasions of devotion throughout the year; with woodcuts. London. [1851. By the Rev. Henry Formby.]

12. Oratory Hymns, By F, W. Fabet. London,

1864. 13. Marque of Mary and Other Poems. By E. Cas-

13. Marque of Mary and Other Poems. By E. Cavalli. London, 1658.

14. The Holy Pomily Hymns; with the Approbation of His Emisence Cardinal Wissman. London, 1860.

15. Saint Winifred's Hymn Book: A Collection of Shored Hymns for Church Patituds, Retreats, &c. London, 8.D. [1860.]

16. A Selection of Approved Catholic Hymns for the Use of Schools. Glangow, 1861.

17. St. Patrick's Catholic Hymn-Book. London, 1862.

18. Liturgical Hymns for the Chief Fettivals of the Fear, Selected from the Offices of the Catholic Church, and so translated into English as to be adapted to Old and New Church Music. By Prancis Trappes. Catholic Prices. The Music edited by William J. Maker, S. J. London (1861).

- Priest. The Music curies by resonant. April 1985].

  19. Lyra Liturgica: Reflections in Verse for Holy Days and Scasons. London, 1865. [F. Oakeley.]

  20. Verses on Various Occasions. London, 1868. [Cardinal Newman. Maluly reprints from his Ferses of
- [Cardinal Newman. Manuay reprimes from the review of 1863.]

  11. Hymne and Poems; Original and Translated. By E. Cassodi (being Lyra Catholica, the Masque of Hyry, and other poems and hymnes in a collected form). London, 1872.

  23. Collection of Hymnes for the Use of the Children of St. Andrew's Congregation. Glasgow, 1876.

  23. The Catholic Hymne Rook. Compiled by the Rev. Vanctor Course Very London, 1877.

Langton George Vere. London, 1877.

24. Hymns arranged according to the Ecclerisatical Fear for use in Catholic Churches. Glasgow, 1878.

25. The Roman Breviary (in English). By the Marquess of Bute. London, 1879.

28. The Dominican Hymn Book with Verpers and Compline. London, 1881.

Compience. London, 1881.
27. St. George's Hymn Book. Containing the Hymnasung at St. George's Cathodral, Southwark, Compiled by the Rev. Joseph Reeks. London (3rd ed. 1882).
28. Hymnas by the Rev. James Concily, M.R. London

28. Hymns of the new values values, (4th ed. 1882).
29. Annut Sunctut: Hymns of the Church for the Ecclestatical Fear. Transisted from the Sucred Officer by Various Authors, with Modern, Original, and Other Hymns, and an Appendix of Earlier Versions. Sciented and Arranged by Orby Shipley, M.A. London and New

30. The Catholic Prolimist. Compiled by C. B. Lyons,

Dublin, 1858,

J. Hymns for the Year. A Complete Collection for Schools, Hisrions, and General Use. London, N.D. [Dr. Rawes, 1867.] 32. Hymns: Original and Selected. By the Roy. H.

32. Hymna: Original and Selected. By the Rov. H. A. Rawes, M.A. London, N.D. [Hymna by H. A. Rawes and F. W. Faber.]
33. The Cutholic Hymna! Hymna Selected for Public and Private Vive. London, N.D. [1880].
34. The Crown Hymn Book; Containing Compline, Benediction, Office of Immaculate Conception, Mass for Children, and all the English and Latin Hymns in the Crown of Jense Prayer Book, &c. London, N.D. [1882].
35. The Parochial H. Bk. New and revised ed. London, N.D. [1st ed. 1880; ed. with music, 1883].
36. Cutholic Hys., with Holy Mass for Children, &c. Dublin, N.D.

Dublin, n.v.

In addition to these there are also the publications of Matthew Bridges, Aubrey de Vere, Adelaide A. Procter, T. J. Potter, Lady Georgians Fullerton, and others, from which hymns have been gathered to enrich the various hymn-books published for the use of Schools, Missions, and other purposes.

Romanus. The chief of the Middle School of Greek hymn-writers. He was a native of Emesa, deacon of Berytus, and became attached to the church of Blacherno at Constantinople. In that church he had a vision of the Mother of God, who gave him a piece of a roll (sorros) to eat. He did so, and found himself endowed with the power of making Contakia (Nesle, Hist. East. Church, quoting Mensea). He is said to have written a thou-sand of these poems, but whether this means a thousand of the long strophes, which are intercalated among the Odes in the present Greek office books, or a thousand of the long poems, which Cardinal Pitra has discovered under the name of Contakia, cannot be determined. The date of his pieces must be found either as 491-518 or 713-719, the reigns of Ausstasius the 1st or the 2nd, as he is said to have come to Constantinople in the reign of Anastasius. The desuctude into which his bymns had fallen in the 8th century is perhaps in favour of the earlier date, and the long hymn of Methodius at such an early period as 311 (see Greek Hymnoly, §. x. 2) allows the possibility of such long productions at the close of the 5th century (see Greak Hymnody, § xii, 1). Of his hymns, one only has been rendered into English. It is a Contakton, or Penceret in English. It is a Common, or short hymn, found in the office for Christmas Day:—Την Έδλμ Βηθλελμ ήνουξε, δεύτε Τομεν. and republished by Dr. Littledale in his Offices, do., of the H. E. Church, 1863, p. 76. Dr. Littledale's tr. in blank verse is, "Bethlehem hath opened Eden," same work, p. 197. This has been turned into 8.6.8.6.7.7 measure by W. Chatterton Dix, and was pub. in Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 102. TH. L. B.)

Rooke, Thomas, M.A., was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, B.A. 1848, M.A. 1851. Taking holy orders in 1848, he held several curacies and chaplaincies in Ireland till 1881, when he was preferred to the Vicerage of Feckenham, Redditch, diocess of Worcester. Three of his hymns appeared in A. J. Soden's Universal H. Ek., 1885 :—

1. Come to Thy Church, O Lord our God. Consecration of a Church.

2. Father of Mercies! Who of old. For use in parats.

O God the Holy Ghost, from Father and from Son.
use in Hospitals.

[J. J.] For use in Hospitals.

Rocker, Elizabeth. [Parson, E.]

Rorison, Gilbert, LLD., s. of John Rorison, a merchant of Glasgow, was b. in Renfield Street, Glasgow, Feb. 7, 1821. He was educated at Glasgow University, and at that time he was a member of the United Presbyterian Church. Subsequently he joined the Scottish Episcopal Church, and, after studying for the ministry at Edinburgh under Bishops Terrot and Russell, was ordsined by the latter in 1843. He was for some time curate of St. James's, Leith, and of the Episcopal Church, Helensburgh, and then Incumbent of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Peter-He d. at Bridge of Allan, Oct. 11, 1869. In 1851 he edited Hys. and Anthems adjusted to the Church Services throughout the Christian Year, Lond., Hope & Co. (Revised, 1860; Appz. 1869. See Scottish Hymnody, § vii. 2). This contains several of his trs. from the Latin. He is widely known through his "Three in One, and One in Three"

Roscoe Family. In English Unitarian hymnody William Roscoe and three of his children hold honourable positions and are widely known. Taking the father and the children in chronological order we have:—

Resoce, William, the father, was b. March 8. 1753, in Liverpool, of humble origin. After very meagre schooling, and three years of work in his father's market garden, he was articled to an attorney, and subsequently practised in Liverpool till 1796, when he with-drew from the profession. From the first literature was his chief delight, and throughout a long career of public usefulness he united its pursuit with the efforts of enlightened estriction and the advocacy of higher education and reform. Liverpool was a centre of the old slave-trade, and Roscoc was one of the first to raise his voice against the iniquity. At the age of 20 he had already uttered a protest in his descriptive poem Mount Pleasant, and in 1787 he pub. a longer poem, The Wrongs of Africa (Pt. ii. 1788), devoted to the subject. During his brief parliamentary experience as member for Liverpool, in 1807, he had further opportunity of advocating the cause of liberty and humanity. His first great historical work, the Life of Lorenzo de Medici, was pub. in 1796, and the Life and Pontificate of Leo the Tenth, in 1805. After withdrawing from his logal practice, Roscoe had hoped to be able to devote himself entirely to letters, but the claims of friendship induced him in 1800 to enter into a banking business, which involved him in commercial troubles, ending in 1820 in his bankruptcy. His library had to be sold, but part of it was bought by friends, and presented to the Liverpool Atheneum, which in 1789 Roscoe had been instrumental in founding. In 1822 he pub. Illustrations of the Life of Lorenzo de Medici, defending the views adopted in his former history, and two years later edited a new edition of Popo's works, with a life of the poet. He died June 30, 1831. (Cf. The Life of William Roscoe, by his son, Henry Roscoe, in 2 vols, London, T. Cadell, 1883.) As a member of the congregation of Unitarians meeting in Renshaw Street Chapet. Liverpool, Roscoe took part in preparing A Selection of Pealms and Hymne for Public and Private Worship, printed for their use in 1818. He contributed eight hymns and the concluding authem. Of these hymns the following are in C. U. at the present time :-

Let our loud song of praise arise. Praise.
 Go, suffering habitant of earth. Life, a Warfare.
 Great God, beneath Whose piercing eye. Divine

4. Thus said Jesus, Go and do. Love to our Neigh-

5. What is the first and great command? The Commandments.

These hymns are in several Unitarian collections, including Martineau's Hymns, 1840. No. 3 was written in 1788, as a "secular hymn" of ten stanzas, to be sung at the Benn's Garden Chapel on the Centenary of the Revolution.

Roscoe, William Stanley, the son, was b. in 1782, and d. in 1843. He was educated by Dr. Shepherd, of Gateacre, and at Peterhouse, Cambridge. He was in his father's bank till the failure in 1820, after which he held an office in the Liverpool Court of Passage. His Poems were pub, in 1834, His hymn "Almighty God, in prayer to Thee" (Death anticipated) appeared in the Liverpool Renshaw Street Coll., 1818. It is also in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1840, and later collections, Roscoo, Mary Ann, a daughter, was b. in 1795, married to Thomas Jevons, 1825, and d. in 1845. She edited Poems for Youth, by a Family Circle, Lond., 1820, to which her brothers and sister contributed. From 1831 she also edited The Sacred Offering, an Annual of original and selected poetry (Liverpool, D. Marple & Co.). Her 7 hymns were pub. in her Sonnets and other Poems, chiefly Devotional, in 1845. Of her hymns three are still in C. U.:-

[Now] C let your mingling voices rise. Christman.
 Thou must go forth alone, my soul. Death Anticipated.

3. When human hopes and joys depart. In Trouble and Affliction. Of these No. 3 was first pub. in her Poems for Youth, &c., 1829.

Boscoe, Jane, a second daughter, was b. in 1797, married to Francis Hornblower in 1838, and d. in 1853. Her Poems by one of the Authors of Poems for Youth by a Family Circle, were pub. in 1820, and her Poems in 1848, Her bymns in C. U. are:-- .

1. How rich the blessings, O my God. Gratitude, In the Liverpool Renshaw Street Coll. 1818.

2. My Father, when around me spread. Peace in Affiction. Appeared in the Monthly Repository, Dec. 1828; and the Sacred Offering, 1832.

3. O God, to Thee, Who first hast given. Self-Consecration. In Premy for Pould, 1829.

4. They will be done. I will not four. Retignation.

4. Thy will be done, I will not fear. Resignation. (V. D. D.)

Rossetti, Christina Georgina, daughter of Gabriel, and sister of Dante Gabriel and William Michael Rossetti, was b. in London, Dec. 5, 1880, and received her educa-tion at home. Her published works include:—

(1) Gobin Market, and Other Poems, 1862; (2) The Frince's Frogress, and Other Poems, 1866; (3) Foems, mainly a reprint of Nes. 1 and 2, 1875; (4) A Pageant, and Other Foems, 1891, &c.

In addition, Miss Bossetti has published several prose works, as :- Annus Domini (a. book of prayers for every day in the year), 1874; Letter and Spirit of the Decalogue, 1883, and others. She has written very few hymns avowedly for church worship, but several centes have been compiled from her poems, and have passed into several hymn-books. These include:—

DOCKS. These include:—

1. Dead is thy daughter, trouble not the Master.
The Raising of Jairus's daughter. From her Goblin
Market, &c., 1862, into Lyra Mystica, 1865.

2. God the Father, give us grave. Invocation of the Holy Trinity. From Lyra Mystica into the Sawy Hymnary, for use in the Chapel Royal, Savoy (see No. 8 below.

3. I bore with thee long weary days and nights.
The Lore of Christ. From her Goldin Market, &c., 1882, into Lyra Messianica, 1884.

4. I would have gone, God bade me stay. Resignation. From her Poems, 1875, into Horder's Cong.
Hymns, 1884, &c.

5. Once I thought to alt so high. A Body hast Thouprepared Mc, or Passiontide. Contributed to Lyra Buckaristica, 1863.

6. The Advent moon shines oold and clear. Advent.

Sucharistica, 1869.
6. The Advent moon chines cold and clear. Advent. From her Gollin Market, &c., 1862.
7. The Bowers that bloom in sun and chade. The Eternity of God. In Mrs. C. Brock's Children's H. Sk., 1881.
8. What are these that glow from afar? Martyrs. Part of the poem "We meet in Joy though we pent in sorrow," which appeared in Lyra Mystica, 1855, and then in Miss Rossettl's France's Progress, &c., 1866. It is the moets widely used of her hymns. No. 2 above is also from the same poem.

Miss Rossettl's verses are profoundly suggestive and lyrical, and deserve a larger place.

gestive and lyrical, and deserve a larger place than they occupy in the hymnody of the church. Her sonnets are amongst the finest [W, G. H.] in the English language.

Rothe, Johann Andreas, s. of Aegidius Rothe, pastor at Lissa, near Görlitz, in Silesia, was b. at Lissa, May 12, 1688. He entered the University of Lepzig in 1708, as a student of Theology, graduated M.A., and was then, in 1712, licensed at Görlitz as a general preacher. In 1718 he become tutor in the family of Herr von Schweinitz at Leube, a few miles south of Görlitz, and while there frequently preached in neighbouring churches. During 1722 Count N. L. von Zinzendorf, happening to hear him preach at Gross-Heunersdorf, was greatly pleased with him, and when the pastorate at Berthelsdorf became vacant shortly thereafter, gave him the presentation. He entered on his duties at Berthelsdorf Aug. 30, 1722. There he took a great interest in the Moravian community at Herrnhut, which formed part of his parish. But when, in 1787, he had to report to the higher ecclesiastical authorities regarding the doctrinal views of the Moravians, Zinzendorf showed his resentment in various ways, so that Bothe was glad to accept a call to Hermedorf, near Görlitz. Finally, in 1739, Count von Promuitz appointed him assistant paster at Thommendorf, near Bunzlau, where he became chief pastor in 1742, and d. there July 6, 1758. (Koch, v. 240; Wetzel's A. H., ii. 756, &c.)

Roths was a man of considerable gifts and of unbending Roths was a man of considerable gifts and of unbending integrity, a good theologian, and an earnest, fearless, and impressive preacher. His hyams, about 40 in number, though they can hardly be said to rank high as poetry, are yet often characterised by glow and tenderness of feeling, and by depth of Christian experience. They are somewhat akin to Zinzendorf's better productions, but this resemblance may arise from the alterations which Zinzendorf seems to have made in them. The best known of them first appeared in Zinzendorf's hymmbooks, and were for a time tooked upon with suspicion, because as Zinzendorf did not affix authors' names, the new hymns were at first all ascribed to himself.

Those of Rothe's hymns whitch have massed

Those of Rothe's hymns which have passed into English are:-

i. Ich habe nun den Grund gefunden. Believing. 1st pub. in Zinzendorf's Christ-Catholisches Singe- und Bet-Büchlein, 1727, p. 98, and in the 2nd ed. (N.D., but probably in the end of 1727 or beginning of 1728) of his Sammlung g. w. l. Lieder (1st ed., 1725), as No. 934, in 10 st. of 8 l.; and repeated in the later Moravian H. Bks., e.g. the Herrnhut G. B., 1735, No. 255, Brüder G. B., 1778, No. 368, &c. At first the Lutherans suspected it, thinking that it was by Zinzendorf, but on discovering that it was by Rothe, soon adopted it. It is a powerful and beautiful hymn, is found in many recent German collections (e.g. the Barlin G, LS., ed. 1863, No. 78), and in its English forme has found a very wide acceptance, and proved a comfort and blessing to many. It was doubtless suggested by Heb. vi. 19.

suggested by 11cb. Vt. 12.
In the Historicake Nackricht (to the Brider G. B., 1778), ed. 1835, p. 176, it is said to have been written for Zinzenderf's brinday, May 26, 1728. This is probably a misprint for 1735, and the hymn, as will be seen above, was in print in 1727. Koch, it. 241, suggests that it was written in return for the hymn, "Christum Glor alies lieben," which Zinzenderf had sent to Rothe in 1222 (in the Strathers 1725, No. 855, and in the British lieben," which Zinzendori had sent to Rothe in 1722 in the Sammlung, 1726, No. 652, and in the Bestsche Gallotte, 1736, p. 36, marked as "on a friend's hirth-day," and dated May 12, 1722). This, if correct, would rather suggest 1723 as the date of Rothe's hymn, only in that case Zinzendorf would almost certainly have in-cluded it in the Sammlung of 1726. Zinzendorf, it may cluded it in the Samokang of 1725. Zinzendorf, it may be added, gives in his Beatsche Gezichte two other pieces written for Bothe's birthdays, one dated 1724, for his 36th birthday (beginning "Wer von der Erde ist "), the other dated 1728, for his 40th birthday (beginning "Der Du der Herzen König biet.")

Rothe's hymn under consideration (" Ich habe nun") has been tr. as :---

1. Now I have found the ground wherein. fine but somewhat free tr. of st. i., ii., iv., v., vi., x., by J. Wesley. Mr. J. G. Stevenson, in his Methodist H. Bk. Notes, 1883, p. 46, speaks thus regarding it:-

regarding it:—
"When the translation of this hymn was finished John Wesley sent a copy of it to F. H. Molther, one of the German Moravians in London, and under date of 25 January, 1746, M. Molther returns the translation with his approval of all but one versa, which Mr. Wesley altered as a suggested." The altered stanzs begins "O Love, then bottomioss abyse." Mr. Stevenson adds that portions of this version were among the last words of J. W. Pietcher, vicar of Madeley (d. 1785), and of Edward Bickersteth, rector of Watton (d. 1850).

In 1740 the fr. as thus revised was included

In 1740 the tr. as thus revised was included in the Wesley Hys. & Sac. Poems (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. 1, p. 279). It was thence transferred to the Moravian H. Bk., 1742, s tr. of st. iii. of the German, made by P. H. Molther, being added in the 1789 and later eds. It was also included in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 182 (1875, No. 189), and has been repeated in very many English and American collections, but as a rule abridged; the full form being however in Mercer's C. P. & M. Bh.; the Cong. Hyl., 1887; and Boardman's Sel., Philadelphia, U. S., 1861. It has also appeared in full, or abridged, under the following first lines :--

(a) New have I found the ground wherein (st. i.).

(b) New have I found the ground wherein (st. i.).

(c) New have I found the ground wherein (st. i.).

(d) O Lord! Thy evariasting grace (st. ii.). Horder's

(3) U Lord; Thy everlasting grace (st. it.), Hotder's Cony. Higs, 1884.

(4) Father, Thine everlasting grace (st. ii.), J. Bickensteth's Fz. & Higs., 1832.

(5) O Lowe, thou bottomicss abyss (st. iii.), Evang. Duton Hyt., 1878.

(5) Jesus, I know hath died for ms (st. iv.). Pennsylvanian Luth. Charch Bk., 1868.

(7) Though waves and storms go o'er my head (st. v.). Andover Sabbath H. Uk., 1858.

2. I now have found, for hope of heaven. In full, by Dr. H. Mills, in the Evang. Review, Gettysburg, Jan. 1850, and in his Horw Germanice, 1856, p. 68. Included in the Amer. Luth. Gen. Synod's Coll., 1862.

8. My soul bath new the ground attained. A good tr. of st. i., fil., v., x., by A. T. Russell, as No. 167 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

4. My soul hath found the steadfest ground. A good tr. (omitting st. v.-ix., and with a st. iv. not by Rothe), by Mrs. Bayan, in her Songs of Eternal Life, 1858, p. 55. Included, abridged, in the Eng. Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1867, and the Ibrox Hyl., 1871.

5. Now I have found the firm foundation. By G. F. Krotel, as No. 251 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl.,

1880, omitting st. vi.-viii.

8. Now I have found the ground to held. Sheppard, in his Foreign Sacred Lyre, 1857,

p. 91.

- ii. Vor wahrer Hersensänderung. The Forgiveness of Sins. 1st pub. as No. 448 in the 3rd ed., 1731, of Zinzendorl's Sammlung as above, and in 7 st. of 4 l. In the Brüder G. B., 1778, it is No. 392. The trs, are  $\succ$
- (1) "Thanks be to Thee, Thou slaughter'd Lamb!"
  (st. vil.). This is No. 345 in pt. il., 1749, of the Moravian
  M. Bk. (2) "Before convenion of the heat." A lr. H. Bk. of st. i., iv., by B. Latrube, as No. 255 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789, with the above tr. of st. vii. added. In the 1801 and later eds. (1886, No. 426) the tr. of st. vii.
- iii, Wenn bleine Himmeleerben. Death of a Child. Written on the death of one of his daughters. Appeared as No. 1028 in the 3rd ed., 1731, of Zinzendorf's Sammlung as above, and is in 9 st. of 6 I. Included as No. 1688 in the Brider G. B., 1778, and recently as No. 859 in the Unv. L. S., 1851. The trs. are:—

(1) "When children, bless'd by Jesus." This is No. 1186 in the Suppl. of 1808 to the Boravian H. Bk., 1801 (1886, No. 1289). (2) "When summons hence by Death is given." By E. Massie, 1867, p. 105. [J. M.]

Round the Sacred City gather. S.J. Stone. [Church Defence.] Written in 1874 for the Church Defence Institution, and issued as a leaflet with music for use at Church Defence Meetings. Several hundreds of thousands have been used in this form. It was given in the author's Knight of Intercession, 3rd ed., 1874, in 7 st. of 8 l., with the heading "Battle Hymn of Church Defence," and "Dedicated to the 'Church Society' of St. Paul's Haggerston." In 1884 it was enlarged to I2 st. of S I. for processional use at a grand Choral Festival in Salisbury Cathedral, and began "Sacred city by the river." In this form it was given in the Monthly Packet, 1884. In its original form it is in several hymnals. Mr. Stone also adapted it for use in the 1889 Suppl. Hymns to H. A. & M. [J. J.]

(1) Now I have found the blessed ground (st. i). Oxford. He adopted the legal profession, and say Handingdon's Set., 1780.

Was M.P. for Truno during the reigns of James and of Charles I. He also represented Trure in the Long Parliament, and took part against the King and the Bishops. He was appointed a member of the Westminster Assembly; of the High Commission; and of the Triers for examining and licensing candidates for the ministry. He also held other appointments under Cromwell, including that of Provost of Eton College. He d. at Acton, Jan. 7, 1659, and was buried in the Chapel of Eton College. Wood, in his Athenae Ozoni-enses, gives a list of his numcrous works. The history of his version of the Psalms is given under Psalters, English, § XI., respecting its treatment in England, and under Scottich Rymnody, § 111., with regard to its reception and use in Scotland,

Row, Thomas, b. in 1786, was for many years a Baptist minister at Hadleigh, in Suffolk, and Little Gransden, Cambs., and was well known to most of the Calvinistic congregations in the Eastern Counties. was very singular and methodical in his habits, and for 30 years was a frequent contributor of hymns and other compositions to the Gospel Herald. He d. Jan. 3, 1868. Mr. Row pub. two vols. of hymns. The first was entitled, Concise Spiritual Poems, or Evan-gelical Hymns on Various Subjects, for the private use of Christians, and also adapted for Public Worship, London, 1817. This was called Book I., and comprised 529 hymns. Book IL, including 543 hymns, was pub. in 1822, as Original and Evangelical Hymns on a great variety of subjects, for Private and Public Worship, by Thomas Row, Minister of the Gospel, Hadleigh, Suffolk. Many of these hymns are to be found in Parrott's Scl. From a Calvinistic point of view they are sound in sentiment, but possess little poetic merit. [W. R. S.1

From his Concise Spiritual Poems, 1817, the following hymns have passed into Snepp's Songs of Grace and Glory, 1872:—

1. Awake, my warmest powers. Jesus the Distinct Aŭvocate.

 Awake, O heavenly Wind. To the Holy Spirit.
 God knows our secret thoughts and words. Omniactionee.

4. Gracious God of our salvation. Holy Trinity.

5. How can a mortal tongue express. Holy Trinity.
6. In the Godbead all perfection. Holy Trinity.
7. In vain must sleepy sunces think. The Being of

8. Jehovah's will is found. The Will of God. 9. Like wind the Spirit gently blows. Power of the Hoty Ghost.

10. Now, Thou faithful, gentle Spirit. Holy Spirit. 11. Supremely sweet is sovereign love. The Love of God.

12. The great eternal Spirit comes. The Holy Spirit.

13. The Holy Spirit did engage. Election.

14. The Sacred Spirit comes to take. Work of the Holy Spirit.

16. Thou dear and great mysterious Three. Holy Printly.

16. Thou great, mysterious Lord. Holy Printly.

17. To God, the Holy Ghost. Personality of the Holy

18. You have not chosen me. Election. [J. J.]

Rowe, George Stringer, was b. at Margate in 1830, and educated for the Wes-leyan Ministry at Didsbury College. He en-Rous, Francis (Rouse), was b. at tered the Wesleyan Ministry in 1853, and has Halton, Cornwell, in 1579, and educated at since held important appointments at Ipswich, Hull, Southport, Leeds, Edinburgh, London, 1 &c. In 1888 he was appointed to the chair of Pastoral Theology in Headingley College, Leeds. He is the author of "Life of John "The Pasims in Private Devotion"; and "Alone with the Word." His hymns include:-- Behold Thy youthful army.

 Come, children all and praise.
 Cradled in a manger meanly.
 When they brought little children.

These hymns were written for Sunday School Amiversaries, and were included in the Methodist S. School H. Bk., 1879. [J. J.]

Rube, Johann Christoph, was b. Nov. 20, 1665, his fother being then postor at Hohen-und Thal-Ebra, near Sondershausen. After completing his studies in law, and becoming a licentiste, he was appointed judge (Amtmann) at Burggemunden neur Alsfeld, and then, about 1704, at Battenberg (both in Hesse-Darmstadt). He d. at Battenberg, May 30, 1746. (Bode, p. 137; F. W. Strieder's Hessische Gelehrten- und Schriftsteller Geschichte, vol. xvi. p. 456. The latter dates his birth Nov. 19. On writing to Eoro, Paster Weise has kindly informed me that no 17th cent. registers are extant either for Hohen-Ebra, or for Thal-Ebra.)

Ebra, or for Thal-Ebra.)
Rube was a most profife writer of hymns. In the Universal G. B. pub. at Homburg in 5 vols., 1738-44, there are, according to the markings by Count Christian Ernst of Wernigerode in his private copy, no less than 356 by Rube. The earliest appeared in Loppine's Andächtig Singeoder Christen-Mund, Wesel, 1682, and the Geistreicher G. B., Darmstadt, 1698. In 1712 he published a number (without place of pub.) as Frühlings-Blumen aus der geistlichen Erde (Hamburg Library); and Rambach in his Anthologie, v. p. zi., say, bits son-in-law edited another collection in 1737 as Postisch-christliche Kinder-gedanken (evidently meant for Lieder-gedanken) aus der Sons-wast festiggs-Evangeiten. Freylinghausen in his Nause geittreicher G. B., 1714, included 7, most of which passed into other books. Many of his hymns are excellent, thoughtful, good in style, and warm in feeling. Of Rube's hymns those which have passed into English are:—

1. Der am Kreux ist was ich meine, Und sonst

i. Der am Kreux ist was ich meine, Und sonst nichts in aller Welt. Passiontide. In his Frühlings-Blumen, 1712, p. 63, in 5 st. of 8 l. When repeated in the Annuthiger Blumen-Krantz, 1712, No. 92, it was altered to "Der am Krenz ist meine Liebe," and this form was included in the Wirttemberg G. B., 1741, No. 51 (1842, No. 152), and other collections, and is a great favourite in South Germany. It is sometimes erroneously sacribed to J. E. Greding (b. 1676, d. 1748). The older hymn beginning "Der am Kreuz ist meine Liebe, Meine Lieb ist Jesus Christ" is first found in Ahasnerus Fritsch's Jesus-Lieder, 1668, No. 21, and is probably by Fritsch. It is quite different from Rube's hymn and has not been to into English. The tre. from Rube are (1) "Him on yonder cross I love," by Miss Winkworth, 1859, p. 53, repeated in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869, p. 189. (2) "More than all the world beside," by R. Massie in his Lyra Bonessica, 1864, p. 122, and thence in Reid's Praise Bk., 1872.

ii. Der Herr bricht ein zu Mitternneht. Second Advent. In his Frühlings-Blumen, 1712, p. 68, in 15 st. of 4 l. In Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837, No. 796 (1865, No. 772). Sometimes erroneously ascribed to N. L. von Zinzendorf. Tr. as:-

The Lord shall come in dead of night. This is a

tr. of st. i., iii., v., vii., z., zv. by Mrs. Findlater in H. L. L., 3rd ser., 1858, p. 50 (1884, p. 180). Included in Kennedy, 1863, and abridged, in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864, and E. Paxton Hood's Our H. Bk., 1868.

iil. Behlaf sanft und wehl! sohlaf liebes Kind, Cradle Hymn. In his Frühlings-Blumen, 1712, p. 29, in 15 st. of 4 l., as the first of the "Cradle Hymns." It is worthy of attention as being one of the finest hymns of its class, Included as No. 751 in Freylinghausen's Neues geistreiches G. B., 1714, and repeated as No. 1416 in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863. Tr. as:-

Sleep well, my Dear! sleep safe and free? good tr., omitting st. viii., xiii., xiv., by J. C. Jacobi in his Psal. Germanica, 1722, p. 142 (ed. 1732, p. 190, altered). Included as No. 328 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, with tre. of st. xiii., xiv. added; and repeated, altered and abridged, in later eds. (1886, No. 1193, in 5 st.). In 1873 Dr. Martineau, in his Hys. of Proise and Prayer, No. 746, adopted the trs. of st. t., iv., v., xv., from Jacobi's 1732 text. In the Schaff-Gilman Lib. of Rel. Poetry, 1881 (1883, p. 434), there are 6 st. [J. M.]

Ruben, Johann Christoph. Rabe. J. C.1

Riickert, Friedrich, s. of Johann Micheel Rückert, advocate at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria, was b. at Schweinfurt, May 16, 1788. He matriculated at the University of Würzburg Nov. 9, 1805 (where he became a great friend of Baron von Stockmar of Coburg), and finished his course there in the spring of 1809. He graduated PH. D. at Göttingen in 1810, and on March 30, 1811, began to lecture at Jena as a privatdocent in philology, but left April 16, 1812. On Nov. 2, 1812, he was appointed Professor of the Gymnasium at Hanau, but resigned before entering on his duties, and left Hansu Jan. 21, 1813. He was then for some time living at Wurzhurg as a man of letters, thereafter at Bettenburg near Hassfurt, &c. In Dec. 1815 he began work at Stuttgart as joint editor of the Morgenblatt, retiring from it Jan. 6, 1817. For some time he travelled in Italy, &c., and then in the end of 1820 settled at Coburg as a man of letters. On his appointment as Professor of Oriental Languages at Erlangen he went there in Nov. 1826; and then, in 1841, was appointed Professor of Oriental Languages at Berlin. During the Revolutionary period of March, 1848, he left Berlin and never returned, but received a pension in 1849. He retired to his estate of Neuscas, near Coburg, and resided there till his death on Jan. 81, 1866 (Friedrich Rückert. Ein biographisches Denkmahl. By Dr. C. Beyer, Frankfurt am Main, 1868; News Mittheilungen, by Beyer, 1873; Rückert's Nachgelassene Gedichte, Vienus, 1877, &c.).

Rückert was one of the greatest Lyrle writers, and one of the most thoughtful and samest poets that Germany has produced. From the time time, unable to take part in the wars against Napoleon, he issued his Bestriche Gestichte (at Heidelberg) in 1814, containing his famous "Geharmischts Somette," he published himself or contributed to the publications of others, a most solutions was of costra circulal and templated (see seri or contributed to the publications of others, a most voluminous mass of poetry original and translated (see the full bibliography in the works noted above); a complete ed. of his poems appearing finally at Frankfurt am Main, 1858-69, in 12 vols. as his Octawall's poetracks Works. A considerable proportion of his poems are translations from the Perstan, Arabio, Sansorit and Chinese. Throughout his poems he preserves a high level of purity of thought and expression; and displays a wonderful mastery of form and power of handling the German language. He was of deeply religious spirit, and wrote various spic poems on Efficial history, e.g. Leben Jesu, 1839; Sani und Bavid, 1843; and Herodes der Grosse, 1844. He can hardly however be called a hymn-writer; the second of the poems not beliow being almost the only piece by him which has passed into the German hymn-books. A large number of his poems have been tr. into English by Abo. Trench, Dr. John Hant, Dr. N. L. Frothingham, Dr. C. T. Brooks, and various others.

Of Rückert's pieces we need here only note four, namely :-

i. Das Paradias muss schöner esin. Elernal Life.

1st pub as one of his Neue östlicke Roses in the Agloys for 1823. Included in his Getammette Gedfelde, Erlangen, 1824, vol. t. p. 83, in 14 st., entitled "Paradise."
The trs. are (1) "Oh: Paradise must show more fair," by Abp. Trench in his Poems from Entern Sucress, 1822,
p. 199. (2) "Ob. Paradise must fairer be." Given, without hame of translator, in Dr. H. Bonar's Neue Serusgies, 1852, p. 84, and in Schaffs Christ in Song,
1809, p. 657.

ii. Dein König kommt in niedern Hillen. Advent. This seems first to have appeared in his Genemacite Gesichte, Eriangen, 1834, vol. i. p. 26, in 6 st. of 6 i. (it certainty did not appear along with No. Ili. in 1834), and entitled "Advent Hymn." It is based on 8t. Maii. xxl. 1-11, the Gospel for the lat S, in Advent. It is included in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1845, and in various other recent German hymn-books. The 8rs. are: (1) "He comes, no royal vesture wearing." By T. C. Porter. Written April 5, 1868, for Hours at Home, N. Y., June, 1668. (3) "In lowly guise thy King appeareth." By Dr. J. Troutbeck, as Schumann's Advent Hymn, Novello, R. D., 1876.

Advent Hymn. Novello, R. D., 1876.

iii. Er ist in Bethlehem geboren. Bethlehem and Calagry. Ist pub. as No. 5 of a series of "Hymns for Fentivals by Friedrich Rückert," In the Tusckenbuck sum geselligen Vergesigen auf das Jahr 1824. Leipzig. 1824, p. 276, in 10 st. of 8 l. Repeated in H. Rurte's Anthologie getisticher Lyrik, 1878, No. 44. The fra. are (1) "In Bethlehem He first arose." By M. T. Evothing-kass, 1865, p. 168. (2) "In Bathlehem the Lord was born." By Mits Winkworth, 1869, p. 338. (3) "In Bethlehem, the Lord of glory." By T. C. Porter for Hours at Homs. N. Y., March, 1869.

iv. Um Mittermecht hab ich gewacht. Midnight. 1st pub. in Nicolaus Lenan's Fraklingsalmanack, Stuttlat pub. in Nicolaus Lenan's Frédhingstellududed, Stitiser, 1836. Included in his Raus- and Jahrikeder, vol. i., Erlangen, 1838 (vol. v. of his Gesammelic Gedichle), p. 313, in 5 st. of § 1., as one of the poems written at Neuseus in the autumn of 1833. Repeated by Ruete, No. 56. The 1rt. are (1) "At still undnight I raise my sight." By N. L. Frothingham, 1855, p. 175. (2) "At dead of night Sleep took her flight." By Miss Winkworth, in Lyra Mystica, 1885, p. 266, and repeated in her Christian Singers, 1869, p. 337. [J. M.]

Rulers of Sodom! hear the voice. W. Cameron. [True Penitence.] 1st appeared as No. 17 in the Draft Scotlish Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, as a version of Isaiab i. 10-19, in 7 st. of 4 l. Thence, with st. vii. 1. 1 altered, in the public worship ed. issued in that year by the Church of Scotland, and still in use. In the markings by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (q. v.), it is ascribed to Cameron. Included in the Relief H. Bk., 1833, and again in others. [J. M.]

Russell, Arthur Tozer, n.s. He was the son of the Rev. Thomas Clout, who later changed his surname for Russell (Gent. Mag., 1848, p. 209; Cong. Hy., p. 259, i. § 6), an Independent or Congregational minister who won for himself a good reputation by editing the works of Tyndale, Frith, Barnes, and Dr. John Owen, &c. He was b. at Northampton, March 20, 1806; educated at St. Saviour's School, Southwark, and at the Merchant Taylors' School, London (cf. Robinson's Register M. T. S., ii., 217). In 1822-24 he was at Man-students). In 1825 he entered St. John's College, Cambridge, as a sizer, and in his freshman year gained the Hulsean Prize, its subject being, "In what respects the Law is a Schoolmaster to bring men to Christ." In 1829 he was ordsined by the Bishop of Lincoln (Kaye), and licensed to the Cursey of Great Gransden, Hunts, and in 1830 was preferred to the Vicarage of Caxton, which he held till 1852. During his ministry here be published the following works: The Claims of the Church of England upon the Affections of the People (1832): Sermons for Fasts and Festivals; A Critique upon Kelle's Sermon on Tradition, in opposition. About 1840 appeared his Apology of the Church of England and an Epistle to Seigner Sapte concerning the Council of Trent, translated from the original Latin of Bp. Jewell. About the same time appeared Hymn Tunes, Original and Selected, from Bavenscroft and other old Musicians. In 1841 was published A Manual of Daily Prayer. In 1844 Memorials of the Works and Life of Dr. Thomas Fuller. This Life has not been superseded by Bailey's later and over-bulky Life. It has fine things in it. It is severe on Tract XC. In 1848 various of his own hymns, original and ir. from the German, appeared in Hymns for Pub. Wor-ship, &c., Dalston Hospital, London. His first sarp, acc., Danton Hospital, London. His first appearance as a hymn-writer was in the 3rd edition of the hymn-book published by his father (1st cd. 1813), and known amongst Congregationalists as Russett's Appendix [see Goag, Hymnody, p. 255, i. § 67]. In 1847 followed The Christian Life. In 1851 Padms and Hymns, partly original, partly selected, for the use of the Church of England. This most modest collection has not received the recognition that it indisputably merits. His original hymns and translations have found their way into many hymnals, e.g., Dr. Peter Maurice's Chorat H. Bk. 1861, where several appeared for the first time; Dr. Maurice's Choral Harmony, 1854, contains two of his tunes; Dr. B. H. Kennedy's Hymnologia Christiana, 1868; Lord Sethorne's Book of Praise, &c. (1862). In 1852 he was presented the Christiana Christiana in the Mandalon Christiana to the Vicarage of Whaddon, Cambridgeshire. This, in 1866, he exchanged for St. Thomas's, Toxteth Park, Liverpool. While at Whaddon he published Advent and other Sermons. In 1859 appeared his best prose book, Memorials of the Life and Works of Bishop Andrewes. With every deduction it is a living biography. In Liverpool he republished his Hymn-book. In 1863 he addressed a "weighty and powerful" Letter to the Bishop of Oxford on Dr. Stanley—virtually a trenchant review of the once notorious Essays and Reviews. In 1867 he removed to Wrockwardine Wood, Shropshire, where he remained until 1874, when he was presented to the Rectory of Southwick, near Brighton. Here he d., after a long and distressing illness, on the 18th of November, 1874. In his earlier years he was an extreme High Churchman, but by the study of St. Augustine his views were changed and he became, and continued to the end, a moderate Calvinist. His original hymns are gracious and tender, thoughtful and devout. His translations on the whole chester College, York (see Roll of the M. C. | are vigorous and strong, but somewhat ultra-faithful to the original metres, &c. He left behind him a History of the Bishops of England and Wales in MB., sufficient to form three or four goodly octaves, and numerous Ms. Notes on the Text of the Greek Testament; and also a large number of original chants and hymn-tanea ir Ms. Surely the last ought to be utilized; and the former deposited in his College of St. John's. [A. B. G.]

Of Russell's hymns a large number are included in Kennedy, 1863, and several also are in a few of the lesser known collections. The trs. are noted elsewhere in this Dictionary, and may be found through the Index of Authors and Translators. Of his original hymns, about 140 in all, including those in Dr. Maurice's Choral H. Bk., 1861, the following are found in a few collections:-

1. Christ is risen! O'er His foes He reigneth.

- 1. Carret is Face.
  2. Give praise to God our King, Proise.
  3. Great is the Lord; O let us raise. Ps. wirid.
  4. Hall, O hall, Our lowly King, Proise to Christ.
- 4. Hall, O Lord, our Consolation. Praise to Caris. (Maurice, 1861.)

  6. Hall, O Lord, our Consolation. Christ, the Consoler. (Maurice, 1861.)

  6. Holy Ghost, Who us instructest. Whitmutide.

  7. Holy Spirit given. Whitmutide.

  8. Hosanna, bless the Saviour's Name. Advent.

- 8. In the mount it shall be seen. Consolation.

  10. In the tomb, behold He lies. Easter Ere, Somethnes In the might of death, He lies."

  11. Jean, at Thy invitation. Hoty Consounion.

  12. Jean, Thou our pure [chief] delight. Praise for
- Salvation

  - Jesu, when I think on Thee. In Affiction.
     Jesu, Who for my transgression. Good Friday.
     Jesu, Lord most mighty. Lent.
- 16. Lift thine eyes for hance to heaven. Looking Onward. Sometimes "Lift thy longing eyes to heaven."

  17. Lo, in mid heaven the angel files. The Bessaye of The Gospel.

  18. Lord, be Thou our Strength in weakness. In - Affliction.
- 19. Lord, my hope in Thee abideth. Ikeps in Jesus.
  20. Lord, when our breath shall fall in death. Dralk

- 19. Lord, my nope in 1 use anomal.

  20. Lord, when our breath shall fail in death. Draik anticipated.

  21. Lord, Who hast formed me. Self-Consecration.

  22. My God, to Thee I Sy. In Affection. Sometimes "Great God, to Thee as By."

  23. Night's shadows failing. Eccaing.

  24. Now be thanks and praise ascending. Praise.

  25. Now to Christy our Life and Light. Eccaing.

  26. O glorious, O triumphal day. Easter.

  27. O God of life. Whose power benign. Trinity In the Dalston Hys. for Pub. Worthly, Se., 1343. From this "O Father, uncreated Lord," in L. W. Bacon's Church Hy., N. Y. 1833, is taken.

  28. O Head and Lord of all creation. Passiontide,

  29. O Jean! we afore Thee. Good Friday.

  31. O Saviour, on the beavenly throne. The Divise Guide and Protector. (Naurice, 1861.)

  22. O Thon Who over all doet reign. Church Defence.

  33. Praise and blessing, Lord, be given. Praise to Jean.

- 34. Praise the Lord: praise our King. Advent.
  35. The Lord unto my Lord thus said. Ps. cz.
  36. The Morning [promised] Star appearath.
- mas.

  37. The night of darkness fast declineth.

  18. The pight of darkness fast declineth.

48. With cheerful hope, my soul, arise. Security is 49. We hosts that His commands attend. Uniorest Praise of Jesus. 50. Your ado 50. Your adoration, O carth and heaven, units. Universal Praise to Christ.

Unless otherwise stated, all the above appeared in Russell's Ps. & Hys., 1851. The total number of original hymns contributed by him to Maurice's Choral H. Bk. was 21.

[J. J.]

Russell, William, was b. in Glasgow in 1798, and educated at the University of Glasgow. Removing from Scotland to America, he was at Savannah in 1817, and subsequently at other places in the United States. He was an active promoter of education, teachers' associations, and kindred objects, and did much to further the cause of education in the States. He was originally a Baptist, but did not hold to close communion. He d. at Lancaster, Massachusetts, Aug. 16, 1873. His hymn, "O'er the dark wave of Galilee" (Christ in Solitude), begins with at iii. of a poem written by him at the request of Dr. Ware, editor of the Unitarian Christian Examiner, and printed F. M. B.1 therein in 1826.

Russell, William, contributed a few hymns to William Carter's Hymn Book, 1861, and to some minor collections. The best known is "More marr'd than any man's," 1861 (Passiontide). He must be distinguished from W. Russell, the American hymnist. [J. J.]

Rutilius, Martin, a. of Gregorius Rüdel or Rutilius (who in 1548 was diaconus at Salza, near Magdeburg, and in 1551 became postor at Düben on the Miide, in Saxony), was b. Jen. 21, 1550. After studying at the Universities of Wittenberg and Jena, he was appointed, in 1575, paster at Teutleben, near Gotha. In 1586 he became diaconus at Weimar, where, after being for some time archidiaconus, he d. Jan. 18, 1618. (K. Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 153; articles by Dr. Linke in the Blätter für Hym-nologie, 1887, pp. 82, 99, &c.) Rutilius's name has been associated with the well-known German hymn which begins:-

i. Ach Rott und Herr, who gross und solwer. Lent. The first printed form of any part of this hymn is in a sermion preached by Dr. Johann Major or Gross (see Major in Various) in the Town Charth at Jenn, on June 2, 1613. It was occasioned by the great storm which burst over Weinar on May 20, 1613, and caused devastation for miles around. The sermion ends thus:— "O bone Deus, hie ure, hie sees, hie pange, hie tunde, modo in alternum parce :

"Solls is seyn,
Dass Straff und Pain,
Auff Sünde folgen müssen : So fahr bie furt Und schone dort, Und lass mich ja wol büssen.

13. The pight of darkness fast declineth. Missions.

38. The way to beaven Thou art, O Lord. Jests the Way: Truis, and Life. Sometimes "Thou art the Way: Heaven's gate, O Lord."

30. Thou Who heat to heaven ascended. Ascension.

40. To Him Who for our sine way stain. Praise to Jesus, the Sautour. Written Friday, Jan. 24, 1861.

41. We praise, we bless Thee. Holy Trinity.

42. What, my spirit, should oppress thee. In Affliction.

43. What though through desert paths Thou leadest? Scarrity and Consolation to thrist.

44. Whom shall I my [wo our] refuge making. Lent.

Sometimes "Whom shall we our Refuge making."

45. Who, O why cast down, my spirit? In Assurraction.

46. Why, O why cast down, my spirit? In Assurraction.

47. With awe Thy praise we sinners sing. Lent.

Sometimes "With trembling awe Thy praise we sing."

48. Hence the paint of at the onl, by itself, alymn in 6 st. of all. menely, I. Ach dott tund Herr. 2. Lieff ich gleich weit. 3. Zu dir filtete ich. 4, Solla ja eyn. 5. Gib Herr Gedult. 6. Handel mit mir. That these stanzas are all by Major seems at least highly probable. They passed into Melchior Franck's Getstücke swatikatische Lustgorten, Nürnberg, 1616, as No. xvii. As No. xvi. Franck gives the following: 1. Gleich wie sich fein. 2. Also Herr Christ. Both xvi. and xvii. are given without name of author. In J. Clauder's Paclestodic sone, Altenburg, 1627, No. 67 is Franck's No. 16, but with four st. added, vin., 3. Meinr Häud Arbeit. 4. Die Seite mein. 5. Darinn ich bleib. 6. Ehre sey unn. The form now in use is found in B. Dersohau's Aussertence gestreche Leider, Königsberg, 1634, p. 79, where it is in 10 st., viz. st. i.—vi. as in 1613, and st. vii.—x. from Chader's i. ii, v., vi. This form passed luto most later books, and la No. 363 in the Univ. L. S., 1351.

RYLAND, JOHN

At first the bymn seems to have passed into the collections either as annuymous or signed "J. G.," Le. Johann Gross. Then in Clauder's 2nd ed., 1630, the first part was algond "J. Gi.," which was forthwith taken to mean Johann Goldel, who was b. at Alldor' Aug. 31, 1565, became pastor at Dienstedt, near Kranichfeld, in 1863, and d. at Dienstedt in 1604. So it went on till 1738, when Caspar Binder, pastor at Matistedt, pub. at Jens his Historischer Eviscius for the purpose of showing that the hymn was by Rudlius. In this book Binder declared that he had in his possession an autograph album which formerly belonged to Melchior Francke, sometime bergomaster at Welmar; and that in this albura he had found the hymn "Ach Gott und Herr" (In the 6 st. form of 1613), entitled, "A Prayer to the krydwentes of eins, for patience under the croes, and for deliverance from everlasting punishment." He dads that it was subscribed —"M. Martinus Rutlius, Discostas Ecclesiae Vinariensis feelt et propria manu serjant.

"Jeen, du Sohn Davids, erberm dich mein, seripalt.

"Jesu, du Sohn Davids, erbarm dich mein,
Lass mein Sünd zugedecket seyn,
Im Sterben wölist mein Beystand bielben
Vom Todt sum Leben bringn mit Freuden.
Den 29. May 1804."
The date here is almost certainly a misreading or a misprint, Le. instead of 1804 it should be 1844. If then misprint, i.e. instead of 1604 it should be 1614. If then on May 28, 1614, Rutilina was ested to write somathing in this album, what more natural than that on the anniversary of May 29, 1613, he should transcribe something related to that calamity. If the "fetit te propria manu scrippis" means more than "I certify that this is my autograph," it can hardly refer to anything but the four lines quoted above. Rutilius was by no means of a poetic nature, and these four very haiting lines are much more likely to be his composition than are the six stauzas of the original.

On the whole then there seems no good reason to

Of the original.
On the whole then there seems no good reason to ascribe any part of the hymn to Rutilius. The six stansa form is almost certainly by Major. Wherever a name has been attached to st, vii.—x, they too have been ascribed to Major. So that there appears at least a high probability that the 10 stanza form is by Major.

The translations in C. U. are:-

- 1. O God my Lord! How great's the Hoard. In full by J. C. Jacobi, in his Psal. Germanica, 1722, p. 56. In his ed. 1732, p. 89, it was greatly altered, and st. i.-iii., viii., r. of this form were included in the Evang. Union H. Bk.,
- 3. When rising winds, and rain descending. This is a free tr. in 8 1., of st. vii.-x. by T. Dutton, as No. 250 in the Moravian II. Bk., 1789 (1886, No. 314). Included in Dr. Martineau's Hys. of Praiss and Prayer, 1873.
- 3. Alas! my God! My ains are great. A good tr. of st. i.-vi., by Miss Winkworth, as No. 107 in her C. B. for England, 1863. Repeated, omitting st. iv., in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Other tre. are :-

(1) "As small birds use A hole to chuse" (st. vii,-x.) as No. 445, in pt. i. of the Moravian II, Nk., 1754. (2) "Alas | my Lord and God." By Miss Winknowth, (2) "Alas i 1 1868, p. 130. [J. M.]

Ryland, John, D.D., s. of Rev. John Collett Ryland, was b. at Warwick, Jan. 29, 1753. At that time his father was Baptist minister at Warwick, but in 1759 removed to Northampton. "J. Ryland, junior," as for many years he was accustomed to subscribe himself, was in 1781 ordained co-pastor with his father at Northampton. In 1794 he accepted the presidency of the Baptist College and the pastorate of the church in Broadmend, Bristol, and these offices he retained until his death on June 25, 1825. Dr. Ryland was a man of considerable literary culture, and received the degree of D.D. from Brown University, Bhode Island. He was one of the founders of the Baptist Missionary Society, and for the three years following the death of Rev. A. Fuller, in 1815, acted as its scoretary, His proce works were Memoirs of Rev. R. Hall, Arneby (2nd ed., 1852); A candid statement of the reasons which induce Baptists to differ from their Christian brethren; and many Bermone and Charges. After his death appeared 2 vols. of Discourses, selected from his Mss., and entitled Pastoral Memorials. To these discourses are appended many of his hymns, with their dates. Dr. Ryland's hymns were composed at different times, from his sixteenth year to the year of his death. The earliest were pub. when he was 16, in his Serious Essays, 1771. These 36 hymns were never republished. Several appeared in the Gospel Magazine from 1771 to 1782, and the Protestant Magazine, 1782-83; others in Rippon's Bapt. Selection, 1787; 2 in the Collection for the Monthly Prayer Meeting at Bristol, 1797; 2 in Andrew Fuller's Memoirs, 1831; and 25 in the Pastoral Memorials, 1825. His Hymns and Verses on Sacred Subjects, to the number of 99, were reprinted from his Mss. by D. Sedgwick, and were pub., with a Memoir, in 1862. The hymns are dated therein from the use.

[W. B. S.]

Those of Dr. Ryland's hymns now in C. U. include :-

1. For Zion's sake I'll not restrain. Hissions. Dated 1798, and printed by D. Sedgwick from Ryland's

ESS., 1862.

2. Had not the Lord, my soul may say [sry]. Pr. carsiv. From his Serious Escays, 1771. It is No. 124 in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Ek., 1865. Not in Sedgwick's carat. From his Serious Esnays, 1771. It is no. 124 in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1865. Not in Sedgwick's reprint.

3. Raly, haly, haly Lord, self-existent Deity. Holy Trinity. Dated 1796. It was given in the 10th ed. of Rippon's Bap. 3d., 1800. Pt. 2, No. 22; in the Pasteral Memorials. 1825; and Sedgwick's reprint, 1882, in 5 st. of 81. It is in C. U. in G. Britain and America.

4. Look down, my soul, on hell's domain. Gratitule for excape. This is No. 861 in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk. 1888, and dated 1777. We cannot trace it in any of Ryjand's works or amongst his hymns.

5. Lord, teach a little child to pray. A Child's Prayer. Dated 1786. The note to this hymn by Dr. Ryland's son, in Sedgwick's reprint, 1862, p. 15, is:—

"This and the following bymn ("God is vary good to me") was composed at the request of Mrs. Fuller, wife of the Rav. Andrew Fuller, of Kettering, for the use of Miss Sarah Fuller, who died May 30th, 1782, aged six years and six months. "It was pub. in Andrew Fuller's Memorit, 1831, p. 442, and in Sedgwick's reprint, 1862.

6. Now let the simmbering church awake. Activity in the Pastoral Memoriat, 1825, and in Sedgwick's reprint, 1862. In Spurgeon's O. O. H. Hk., 1988.

7. O Lard, I would delight in Thee. Bettight in Christ. Dated "Dec. 3, 1777." Dr. Ryland added this note to the 18.—"I recollect deeper feelings of mind in composing this byton, than perhaps I ever felt in making any other," It was pub. in Rippon's Sci., 1798, No. 248; in the Pastoral Memorials, 1826; and in Sedgwick's reprint, 1862, in 7 st. of 41. It is in extensive use in its original, or an abbreviated form; or as "O Lord we would delight in Thee." In the American Meth. Episco. Hymns, 1849; and their Hymnal, 1876, 171 (misdated in Spurgeon's O. O. O. of the depths of doubt and fear. Ps. cxxx.

3. Out of the depths of doubt and fear. I's. cxxx. From the Serious Escays, 1771 (misdated in Spurgeon's O. O. II. Ik., 1775). It is not in the Pastoral Memorials, 1825, nor in Sadgwick's raprint, 1863.

9. Rejoice, the Saviour raigns. Missions. Dated "Jan. 19, 1792." In the 10th ed. of Rippon's Sci., 1900, 422 (2nd pt.) it is given in 6 et. of 6 l., as in the Ryland sis, and then after the word "Pause" two the Byland Ms., and them after the word "Pauce" two stances are added on, which are not in the Ms. The 6 sts. were repeated in the Pastoral Memorials, 1826; in Sedgwick's reprint, 1852; and in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866 (abbreviated), and other modern hymnels.

10. Sovereign Ruler of the skies. Guidance, Peace, and Secartly in God. Dated "Aug. 1, 1777." Included in Ritpon's Sci., 1787, No. 546; the Pattoral Memorials, 1825; and Sedgwick's reprint, 1802, in 9 st. of 4.

11. Thou Son of God, and Son of Man. Praise to God, the Son. This is undated. It was given in the Pattoral Memorials, 1825; and Sedgwick's reprint, 1862.

12. When Abraham's servant to procure. Onward.

12. When Abraham's servant to procure. Onward, Hessemeard. Dr. Ryland's son, under the date of Nov. 4, 1861, informed D. Sedgwick that this hymn was written with a state pencil on a rusty from blower trades of the control of the co by moonlight, past twelve o'clock, Dec. 30, 1173," and he gives these words as a quotation from his father's ke, It is almost needless to add that this account does not agree with the generally received history of the bymn, as set forth in Miller's Singers and Songe, 1868, p. 313. In the May number of the Gospel Magnetine, 1775, p. 255, the bymn was given in 9 st. of 4 l., with the handing "Hinder me not—Gen. xxiv. 56," and signed "Elachistoteros." It was repeated in Rippon's Sel. 1922 No. 447, and Societies's respect to 1821. Set., 1787, No. 447; and Sedgwick's reprint, 1862. In Rippon a note is added, "This hymn may begin with 6th verse." This direction has been followed in some oth verse." In surrection has near politives in some modern collections, the result being the hymn commonly known as "In all my Lord's appointed ways."

13. When the Savieur dwelt below. Compassion of Christ. Dated 1806. Included in the Pastoral Memorials, 1825, and Sedgwick's reprint, 1862.

Dr. Ryland's hymns are plain and simple, but they lack poetry and passion, and are not likely to be largely drawn upon for future hymnals. [J, J.]

S., in the Bristol Bapt. Coll. of Ash and Evans, 1769, i.e. Elizabeth Scott.

S. D., in the same, i.e. S. Davies.

S. E. Mahmied, i.e. Nehemiah Adams, p. 16, i.

S. M., in the Gospel Magazine, 1776, &c., i.e. Samuel Medley.

-t, in the Bristol Bapt. Coll. of Ash and Evans, 1769, i.e. S. Stennett.

Sabbath of the saints of old. T. Whytehead. [Sunday.] 1st pub. in his Poems, 1842, p. 108, as one of his "Hymns towards a Holy Week," in 9 st. of 6 l., and appointed for the "Seventh Day." In no instance is it used in its full and complete form. The fullest text is that in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 50, in 6 et., but usually it is given in a more abbreviated form, one of the shortest being the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, No. 60. One of the most popular forms of the hymn is a cento which is usually appropriated to "Easter Eve." It opens: "Resting from His work to-day." One of the earliest, if not the earliest, collection in which it appeared was Dr. Hook's Church Sunday School H. Bk., 1850, Appendix, No. 232. This is composed of st. iii., iv., vi., vii., of the original. This cento was repeated, with alterations, in Murray's Hymnal, 1852, and has been adopted by various collections, including, with very slight alterations, H. A. & M., 1861, Sarum, 1868, and others. In Bigge's Annotated H. A. & M. (Preface), the editor has omitted st. v. and viii. from what he has given as the original [J. J.]

Sacer, Gottfried Wilhelm, s. of Andress Sacer, senior burgomaster of Naumburg, in Saxony, was b. at Naumburg, July 11, 1635. He entered the University of Jena in 1653, and remained there for four years as a student He was thereafter for two years of law. secretary to Geheimrath von Platen, in Berlin; and then tutor, first to a son of the Swedish Regierungsrath von Pohlen, and then to the sons of the Saxon Landhaupt-mann von Bünan. In 1665 he entered the military service under Herr von Mollison, commandant at Lüueberg, at first as regimental secretary, and afterwards as ensign. Soon tiring of this he went to Kiel in 1667, in order to graduate LLD, but before doing so undertook a tour in Holland and Denmark with some young noblemen from Holstein. In 1670 he settled down as advocate at the appeal and chancery courts in Brunswick (graduating LLD at Kiel in 1671), and in 1683 removed to Wolfenbüttel as Kammer-und Amts-advocat, receiving the title of Kammer-Consulent in 1690. He d. at Wolfenbüttel, Sept. 8 [18], 1699. (Wetzel, iii. p. i.; Koch, iii. 398, iv. 562, &c.)

Sacer began early to write poetry, was admitted by Rist, in 1660, as one of his poetical order of Elbe Swans, and in his Nitzlicke Erismerangen wegen der testanten Poeterey, Altenstettin, 1661 [Wolfenbüttel Library], already described himself as "Kayserlicher Poet." i.e. as having been crowned as a west by the Emperor of already described himself as "Kayserilcher Poet," i.e. as having been crowned as a poet by the Emperor of Austria. His hymns are among the best of the period immediately succeeding Gerhardt. They have a considerable measure of poetic glow, and sometimes of dramatic force, and are Scriptural and good in style. His earliest hymns seem to have appeared in his Biost-triefende, stegende used triusuphirende Jesus, 1661, but no copy of this work is now known. Many are included in pt. ii. 1665, of the Straisund G. B. (Ander Theil des armswerten General, Sunka), and in the other hymns book armswerten framen. erneuerten Canang-Bucht), and in the other hymn-books of the period. They were collected and pub. by his son-in-law as his Getelliche, liebliche Lieder, at Gotha, 1714.

Those of Sacer's hymns which have passed into English are:---

i. Durch Trauern and durch Plagen. New Your. Included in 1665 as above, pt. ii. p. 35, in 7 st. of 8 l.; repeated 1714, p. 3, entitled "On the New Year." It is also in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 191. The tr. in C. U. is:-

Through many changeful morrows. This is a good ir. by Dr. F. W. Gotch, in the Baptist Magazine, Jan. 1857, p. 19, repeated in the 1880 Suppl. to the Baptist Ps. & Hys.

ii. Gott führet auf gen Himmel. Ascension. Founded on Ps. xlvii. 6-7. Included in 1665, as above, pt. ii. p. 147, in 7 st. of 8 l., and repeated 1714, p. 27, entitled "On the Ascension of Christ." It is also in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 336. In the Württemberg G. B., 1842, it begins, "Der Herr führt auf." The trs. in C. U. are :-

1. Lo! God to heaven ascendeth. This is a good tr., omitting st. vi., by Miss Cox, in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 39 (Hys. from the German, 1864, p. 63). Repented, abridged, in Alford's Ps. & Hys., 1844, and his Year of Praise, 1867; in Daie's Eng. H. Bs., 1874, &c.

3. While up to Heaven God goeth. A spirited version, omitting st. vi., by W. J. Blew, printed as a leaflet for choir use in 1846, and included in his Ch. Hy. & Tune Bh., 1852; in Rice's Selection from Blew, 1870, No. 07, and in Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 302.

Other hymns by Secer are :

til. Gott, der du alier Himmel Boer. For those at ea. Included in J. Crüger's Brueuerte Gezangbücklein . con Peter Sobren, Frankfurt am Main, 1870, No. 878, "Hymn for Sanfarers." Recently in Knapp's So. L. E., 1837 and 1865. "Thou who hast stretched the heaven's blue sky." In L. Rehusse's Charca of Son.

heaven's blue sky." In L. Rehfuese's Church at Set, 1888, p. 34.

iv. Laas migh night in Irrehum fallen. Christ for all. Included, 1714, as above, p. 53, in 10 st. of 81, founded on Ps. ii. 13, and repeated in the Hannover G. B., 1740, No. 348.

Tr. as "Lord, forbid that e'er such error." By Br. J. Gathrie, 1869, p. 117.

v. O dass ich krönnte Thrömen gnug vergiessen. Passiontide. Included in 1865 as above, pt. ii. p. 60, in 16 st. of 4 1., and repeated, 1714, p. 20, entitled. "Contemplation of the pitcous death of Jeans Christ." In the Berlin G. B., 1829, st. xiv.—xvl. altered and beginning, "Mein Herr and Helland, lass mira gehn 2u Hersen," are included as No. 189. This form is tr. as, "Lord, touch my heart with that great Consummation," by N. L. Prothingshay, 1870, p. 143.

"Lord, touch my heart with that great Consummation," by N. L. Frethingham, 1870, p. 143.

vi. So hab' ish ebyaninget. Funcral of a Child. Included in 1866 as above, pt. ii. p. 665, in 13 st. of 8 l., at. l.-xii. being given as spoken by the child in Pacada, and xiii. as the answer of the hereaved parents. Repeated in 1714, p. 81, entitled "Comfort from the departed to those left behind," the 13th st. being entitled "Farewell of the sorrowing ones." Recently as No. 856 in the Chr. L. S. 1851. Tr. as (1) "LO I now the victory's gain'd me," by Miss Cos. 1841, p. 71. In her ed. of 1864, p. 37, it is abrered and begins, "My race is now completed." (2) "Then I have conquer'd; then at last," by Miss Winknorth, 1855, p. 243. (3) "My course is run; in glory," by Dr. J. Guthrie, 1869, p. 105.

Sachse, Christian Friedrich Heinrich, D.D., was b. July 2, 1785, at Eisenberg, Sachse-Altenburg, where his father was cantor, and also master in the town school. In the years 1804-1807 he was a student at the University of Jena (D.D. from Jena 1841), and was, thereafter, for some time, a private tutor at Kleinlauchstedt, near Merseburg. In 1812 he became disconus at Meuselwitz, near Altenburg. He was appointed, in 1823, Court preacher at Altenburg; and also, in 1831, Consistorial rath. After 1849 he had many trials to endure, for seven children and his wife predecessed him, leaving him only one daughter; while his bodily infirmities compelled him, in 1859, to give up his duties in the consistory, and, in Feb. 1860, to resign even his work as Court prescher. He d. at Altenburg, Oct. 9, 1860 (Koch, vii. 22; O. Kraus, ed. 1879, p. 418, &c.).

Kraus, ed. 1879, p. 418, &c.).

By his earlier hymns, pub. in 1817, in connection with the Tercentenary of the Reformation, Sachue had a share in the ranwakening of Churchiy life among the Lutherans. The more important of his other hymns appeared in his Gestaliche Gesänge zum Gebräuch bei Reerdigungen und der der Volkenfeier. Altenburg, 1822 [Hamburg Libeary]; and were written, to be used at funersia, during his residence at Manaclwitz; or for use at the special service introduced there in 1816, and held in memory of the departed, on the evening of the leaf day of the year. A number of his later hymns, together with selections from his secular poems, were pub. posthumously, as his edicate, Altenburg, 1861. A considerable number of his bymns passed into the Hamburg G. B., 1842, Leipzig G. B., 1844, and other German hymn-books, prior to 1876.

Those of Sachee's hyrons which have been tr. into English are :-

i. Weblan! die Erde wartet dein. Burial. 1st pub., 1822, as above, No. 2, p. 5, in 8 st. of 4 l., entitled, "At the Grave." Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837, No. 3375 (1865, No. 2947), altered, and beginning, "Lebwohl! die Erde wartet dein." The tr. in C. U. is:--

L., 3rd Ser., 1858, p. 56 (1884, p. 176). It was repeated, in full, in Prust's Suppl. Hys., 1869, and the 1869 Appz. to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys.; and, omitting st. ii., in Holy Song, 1869, and J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876.

ii. Woklant, wohlant sum letzten Geng. Burial. 1st pnb., 1822, as above, No. i., p. 3, in 17 st. of 5 l., entitled "Hymn during the funeral procession." Stanzas i.-v. seem to have been record to be sung at the house of mourning; st. vi.siv., on the way to the churchyard; and st. zv.xvii., at the entrance to the "place of peace." It was sung at his own funeral in 1860. It was It was sung at his own funeral in 1860. included, omitting st. iii., as No. 3404, in Knapp's Ev. L. &, 1837 (1865, No. 2937), with the altered first line (as in Claus Harms's Geologe, 1828, Nos. 288-290), "Wohlauf, wohlan zum letzten Gang;" and the same form is in the Württemberg G. B., 1842, No. 617. Of this hymn, the late Dr. James Hamilton, in an article in the Family Treasury, 1860, pt. i., p. 116), wrote thus:-

"On behalf of England, we have sometimes envied the brighter hope—the look of Easter Morning—which seems to linger still in Luther's land. With its emblems, sugto linger still in Luther's land. With 'the emblems, suggestive of resurrection and heaven, its churchyard is not a Pagan burial ground, but the place where believers sleep,—a true cemetery, to which friendship can find it pleasant to repair and meditats. At the obsequies of Christian brethers, it is not a funeral knell which strikes slowly and starnly; but from the village steeple there shows a soft and almost cheerfol requiem; and though there may be many wet eyes in the procession, there are not many of the artificial insignia of woe, as the whole parish convoys the departed to his 'bed of peaceful rest.' Once, in the Black Forcet, we accompanied to the 'place of peace,' an old man's funeral, and there still dwells on our eat the quaint and kindly melody which the parishour ear the quaint and kindly melody which the parish-loners sang along the road; and we have sometimes wished that we could hear the like in our own land [Scotland], with its combre and allent obsequies."

The translation in C. U. is:—

Come farth! come on, with solemn song. good ir. of st. i.-iii., v., xv.-xvii., by Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 2nd Ser., 1855, p. 68 (1884, p. 126). This version was included, in full, in J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865, No. 309, set to the melody to which it is sung in South Germany (Choral melodicen, Stuttgert, 1844, No. 108). In Dr. W. F. Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. & Home, 1873, the tr. of st. v. was omitted. A greatly altered form, beginning, "Come, tread once more the path with song," appeared in R. Brown-Borthwick's Select Hys., 1871, No. 71; and in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, No. 242. Instead of adopting the melody of 1844, or the tune "Ich hab' mein Sach' Gott heimgestellt" (p. 671, i.), for which Sachse wrote this hymn; the editors reduced the hymn to L. M., altered it, and omitted the trs. of st. iii., lf. 3-5, xv., 1l. 3-5, xvi. This cento was repeated, omitting the ir. of st. xvii., in Dr. Martineau's Hys. of Praise & Prayer, 1873.

of Prinse of Prayer, 1919.

Other trs. are:—
(1) "Happy the man who seeks the prize" (st. vi.). By Dr. H. Mills, 1845 (1856, p. 236). (2) "Neighbour, accept our parting song." By Dr. Issuet Hamilton, the Prinsity Pressury, p. 116, as above; and song at his own funeral in 1857. [See his Life, 1878, p. 857.] (3) "O corpse, thy dwellings now without." By Dr. G. Walker, 1860, p. 116. (4) "Come forth, move on, with soleum song." In the Christian Examiner, Boston, U.S., Nov. 1860, p. 414.

Another hymn. nartly by Sachke, is:—

Another hymn, partly by Sachse, is:-

III. Der Herr der Ernte winket. Burial. 1st pub. wartet dein." The tr. in C. U. is:— Beloved and hamared, fare thee well! This is a full and good tr., by Miss Borthwick, in H. L., "Herr, nun Essest du im Frieden fahren," by Christian Ludwig Neuffer (b. at Stuttgart, Jan. 24,1769; pastor of the Cathedral Church, Ulm; d. at Ulm, July 29, 1839), in his Cartetiche Uronia, Leipzig, 1820, p. 220, where it is No. iz. of the "Hymns for the dying under special circumstances," and is in 11 st. of 41. Sachee's version is tr. as "The teaper now is waiting," by Dr. H. Mills, 1846 (1856, p. 261).

Sacris sollemniis juncta sint gaudia. St. Thomas of Aquino. [Hely Communion.] Written about 1268 for the office for use on Corpus Christi (see "Pange lingus gloriosi corporls"). It is found in the Roman (Venice, 1478; and again, untouched, in 1632): Mo-tarable of 1502; Sarum; York; Aberdeen; Paris of 1736, and other Breviaries. It is generally appointed for Matina on Corpus Christi, but in the Sarum for let Vespers. The text in 6 st. and a doxology will be found in Daniel i., No. 240, in the Hymn. Sarisb., 1851, p. 119, and others. It is also found in a and another of the beginning of the 14th cent. (Liturg. Misc., 339, f. 65) in the Bodleian; in a Ms. of the end of the 13th cent. (Add. 23,935, f. 3), and a Sarum Brev. of the 14th cent. (Reg. 2 A. xiv., f. 98b) in the Brit. Mus., &c. It is also in Waskernagel i., No. 281; Bässler, No. 101; Card. Newmon's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, &c. [J. M.]

Translations in C, U.:-

1. Let us with hearts renewed. By E. Caswall. Pub. in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 113, and again in the 1860 Appendix to the H. Noted. No. 177. In Caswall's Hye, and Poems, 1873, p. 64, it is altered to "Let old things pass away." This form of the text is in the Morquess of Bute's Roman Brev. tr. into English, 1879, and O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884.

2. At this our solomn Front. By R. F. Little-dale, in the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, and again in the Hymner, 1882. Altered in The Office II. Bk., 1889, to "May this our solemn Feast."

Translations not in C, U, :-

1. The solemn Feests our Joyful Songs inspire. Primer.

- Solemn rites arise to view. I. Williams. 1839.
   High be our service—our hearts with joy bounding. Biero. 1852-55.
- Welcomed with joy be our hallowed selemnity.
- 5. Frapper. 1865.
  5. Let this our solemn Feast. J. D. Chambers. 1862.
  6. On this most solemn featival your joyful ambeins raise. J. Wallace. 1874.
  7. Welcome with jubice Tals glad solemnity. J. D. Autward, in O. Shipley's Armess Sanctus. 1884. [J. J.]

Sacrosancta hodiernae festivitatis praeconia. [St. Andrew.] This is found in a Gradual written apparently in England in the 12th cent. (Reg. 2 B. iv., f. 138); in a MS. containing a collection of Sequences written c. 1199 (Calig. A. xiv., f. 88), both new in the British Museum, &c. Among Missals it is found in a Sarum, circa 1370, a Hereford circa 1370, and a York circa 1390, all now in the Bodleian; in the St. Andrews, the Magdeburg of 1480, the Angers of 1489, and other Missals, uniformly assigned to St. Andrew's day. The printed text is also in Mons, No. 695, and Kehrein, No. 401. It was tr. by the editors of the Hymnery as "King of Saints, O Lord Incarnate," and appeared therein in 1872. Another tr. is "The sacred honours of this festival," by C. B. Pearson in the Sarum Missal in English. 1868.

Sad and weary were our way. Julia

A. Elliott, [Sunday Evening.] This cento is composed of Mrs. Elliott's " Hail, thou bright and sacred morn" (see p. 479, i.), and her hymn, "Soon, too soon the sweet repose," which appeared in her husband's Ps. & Hys., 1835, in 2 st. of 6 i. The cento, in this form of 3 st., is in the Oberlin (Ohio) Manual of Praise, 1890. [J. J.]

Saevo dolorum turbine. [Passiontide.] This is the hymn at Lauds in the Office of the Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ (see "Macrentes oculi"). In the Roman Brevlary, Bologna, 1827, Pars Hiemalis supplement, p. 276, in 8 st., and the Milan ed. 1851. See also Biggs's Annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1967. 1867.

Translations in C. U.:-

- 1. O'erwhelmed in depths of wee. E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 66, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 37. It is found in a large number of hymn-books, and usually with alterations, and in an abbreviated form, that in the most extensive use being the rendering in H. A. & M.
- 2. The storm of sorrow howls around. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. & Tune Bk., 1852-55, Lent and Passiontide, No. 24, and again in Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 41.
- 2. O'er-whelmed beneath a load of grief. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868, No. 100.

Translation not in C. U. :-

- 1. Amidst a whirt of wee oppress'd. F. Propper.
- 2. A tempest of affliction. J. Wallace. 1874. [J. J.]

Safe home, safe home in port. St. Joseph the Hymnographer. [Rest in Jesus.] This hymn was given in Dr. Neale's Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, in 6 st. of 6 l., as "The Return Home. A cento from the Canon of S. John Climacos." In the Preface to the 1866 ed. of the Hys. of the E. Ch., he said, concerning it, "Art thou weary," and "O happy band of pilgrims," that they contained so little that is from the Greek that they ought not to have been included in that collection, and that in any future edition they would appear as an "Appendix." Dr. Neale did not live to carry out his intention: but the Very Rev. S. G. Hatherly has done so in the 4th ed. of that work. The most that can be said of the hymn, then, is that it is by J. M. Neale, based on the Greek of St. Joseph the Hymnographer. In St. Logarith, became works. grapher. In St. Joseph's known works no Greek lines can be found which correspond with those in the English hymn. Dr. Nealo's text is found in a large number of hymnals in Great Britain and America. [See Greek Hymnody, §§ xviii. 3, and xx.] [J, J,] Safely through another week. J. Newton. [Saturday Evening.] Appeared in R. Conyer's Ps. & Hys., 1774, No. 355, in 5 st. of 6 l.: and again in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 40. It is found in a few modern collections; and sometimes in an abbreviated and altered form, as in Kennedy, 1863, &c.

Saffery, Maria Grace, née Horsey, b. in 1773, and d. March, 1858, was daughter of the Rev. J. Horsey, of Portsea, and wife of the Rev. Mr. Saffery, pastor of the Baptist Church at Salisbury. Early in life she pub. ) a short poem and a romance, and in 1834, a volume entitled Poems on Sacred Subjects (Lond., Hamilton, Adams & Co.). Mrs. Saffery was a gifted and accomplished woman. At the suggestion of her husband, and of her son, the Rev. P. J. Saffery, she wrote many hymns for special occasions. She contributed ten to Dr. Leifehild's collection, and others to the Baptist Magazine and other periodicals. Some time before 1818 she wrote a hymn on Holy Baptism, "Tie the Great Father we adore," which was printed in the Baptist New Selection, 1828, has since appeared in most Baptist hymn-books, and is now in C. U.; and sometimes as, "Tis God the Father we adore" Her bymn of a Mother for her Child, "Fain, O my babe, I'd have thee know," is in the Comprehensive Rippon, 1844. Her Evening hymn, "God of the sunlight hours," how sad," from her Poems, &c., 1884, p. 183, and her Good Shepherd, "There is a little lonely fold," from the same, p. 172, are also in W. R. S.] C. U.

Baget mir von keinem Lieben [Love to Christ.] Included as No. 2057 in Knapp's 11. Tr. as "Tell me not of earthly love," by Miss Borthwick in H. L. L., 1862, p. 70 (1884, p. 232), repeated in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1870.

Saints, exalted high in glory. J. Gabb. Heaven.] First pub. in his Hys. & Songs of the Pilgrim Life, No. xxxix., in 5 st. of 6 l., in 1871; and from thence, with slight alterations and the omission of st. v., into Snepp, Songs of G. & G., 1872, No. 1014. Orig. text as above. In 1875 it was rewritten by the author for his Welburn Appendix, and given therein with his spirited tune "Selborne," No. 67. as "Sainta in highest resume borne," No. 67, as "Saints, in highest realms of glory," In this form it is far superior to the original in construction, execution, and power. It forms, with the omission of st. ii., a good hymn for "All Saints Day." [J, J,] Salisbury, James, M.A., was b. at Ashbyde-la-Zouch, May 15, 1821. He studied at the University of St. Andrews and completed his course for the Baptist ministry at Horton College. He has been successively pastor the new deep successively passor at Lougford in Warwickshire, Barrowden in Rutland, Hugglescote and Hinckley in Leicestershire. To the Baptist Hyl., 1879, he contributed a tr. from the German, which is noted under Veni Creator Spiritus.

[W. R. 8.7 Salus asterna, indeficiens mundi vita. [Advent.] This is found in a ms. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775, f. 167 b) written circa 1000; and also in a Ms. of circa 1070, there (Douce 222, f. 82); in a Winchester book of the 11th cent. now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. 478); in a 12th cent, Gradual in the British Museum (Reg. 2 B. iv. f. 56), &c. Among Missals it is found in an early 14th cent. Paris, and a 14th cent. Sens in the British Museum; in a Sarum circa 1370, a Hereford circa 1370, and a York circa 1390, all now in the Bodleian; in the St. Andrews, and various French Missals. In the English Missals it is appointed for the first S. in and various French Missels. In the English

Missels it is appointed for the first S. in Advent. The printed text is also in Neale's Gdi. and Stowell's Ps. & Hys., &c.

Sequentiae, 1852, p. 3 : Daniel, ii. p. 185, and Kehrein, No. 1. All the verses end in a. Tr.

Thou, the Saviour everlasting. By E. A. Dayman, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.

Translations not in C. U. :-

1, Eternal health! Creation's ever new vitality. J. B. Chambers. 1856.

2. Life of the world unfailing. A. M. Morgan, in the Lyra Mentanica, 1864, and his Gifts and Light, 1887. This begins with the words "Indeficiens mundi vita,"

This begins with the words "Indicates in the depening status," in the opening status,

S. Eternal Health of man. By C. B. Pearson, in The Sarum Missel in English, 1882.

4. Thou for ever our salvation. By C. B. Pearson, in bis Sequences from the Sarum Missel. 1871. [J. M.]

Salvation, O the joyful sound. I. Watts. [Fraise for Salvation.] The hymn which passes under this first line is found in so many forms that it will be necessary to indicate not only the sources from whence its varying stanzas have been taken, but also to give the original text itself.

i. The original hymn appeared in Watts's Hys. and Spiritual Songs, 1707. Bk. ii., No. 88, in 3 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Salvation":—

1. " Salvation ! O, the joyful sound, 'Tis pleasure to our ears;
A Sov'reign balm for every wound,
A cordial for our fears.

"Bury'd in sorrow and in sin, At hell's dark door we lay; But we arise by grace divine To see a heav'nly day.

3. " Salvation! let the echo fly The spacious earth around, While all the armies of the sky Conspire to raise the sound."

Amongst the collections which are in common use at the present day the following contain this text: the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hymns; Bk. of Praise Hymnol; Bap, Ps, & Hys.; New Cong.; Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk.; Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. and Home; and others, which can be readily ascertained by reference to the text as above. It is also found in numerous American collections.

ii. About the year 1772 a cento appeared in the Countess of Huntingdon's Coll. as follows:-

St. : Watts'z st. i. as above, with "What" for "Tis."
St. il. Watts's st. ill. as above.
St. iil. "Salvation! O Thou bleading Lamb,
To Thes the praise belongs;
Salvation shall inspire our hearts,
And drail were or former." And dwell upon our tongues.'

To these were added the following at. :-

" Blessing, bonour, praise and power Be unto the Lamb for ever : Jesus Christ is our Redeemer Hallelujah ! Praise the Lord."

This arrangement is probably due to the Hon. Walter Shirley, who revised the Lady Huntingdon Coll. about 1774. It was exceedingly popular with the older compilers, and is found in many of their collections. In modern hymn-books it is found, amongst others, both in Great Britain and America, in:—the Wes. H. Bk.; Meth. N. Con. H. Bk.; Meth. S. S. H. Bh., &c., with the "Blessing" of the chorus changed to "Glory."

In addition, the following centes are in common use:-

(a) St. i. "Salvation O," &c. St. ii. "Burled," &c. St. iii. "Salvation let," &c. St. iv. "Salvation, O Thou." Charms.

(b) St. 1. "Salvation! O," &c. St. il. "Salvation! let," &c. St. iii. "Salvation: O Thou," &c. Chorus. Given in the Irish Church Hymnal, &c. (c) St. 1. "Salvation! O," &c. St. ii. "Suried," &c. St. iii. "Salvation! let," &c., and Chorus after each stanza. In Hy. Comp. Scottish Hymny. Union Hyl., &c. (d) St. i. "Salvation O," &c. St. ii. "Buried," &c. St. ii. "Salvation of Thou," &c. St. iv. "Salvation let." Chorus. Given in Kemble's New Ch. H. Bk., 1873.

 In Dr. Kennedy's Hymno. Christ., 1863. No. 624, is a cento thus composed :-

St. i. "Salvation! O." &c. Dr. Watts. St. il. "Outworn with sorrow," &c. Dr. Kennedy. St. ill. "Salvation! let," &c. Dr. Watts. St. iv. "Salvation! O Thou," &c. Lady Huntingdon's Coll. St. v. "Rejoice, rejoice," &c. Dr. Kennedy.

iv. Some curious and somewhat interesting centos are also found in the older cellections: ne Ash & Evane's Bap. Coll. (Brietol), 1769; Urwick's Coll. (Dublin), 1829: Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833; and others. In one form or snother, as an original hymn or as a cento, "Salvation! O the joyful sound," has had and still has a most extensive use. It has also been translated into several languages, sometimes one form of the text being used and then another. B. Bingham's tr. into Latin, "Salus, Salus, O vox lacts," in his Hymno. Christ. Lat., 1871, is a rendering of (a) as above. [J. J.]

Salvator mundi Domine. [Advent. Evening.] This is found in a ma. of the 12th cent. in the British Museum (Harl. 2928 f. 110b); in a Sarum Hymnary, strea 1300 (Land, Lat. 95, f. 134b); and a York Hymnary of the 13th cent. (Land, Lat. 5, f. 165), both now in the Bodleian; in the Sarum, York, Hereford and Aberdeen Breviaries, &c. Also in Daniel, iv. p. 209, Mone, No. 32, and Card. Newman's Hy. Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Mone thinks it is of the 6th or 7th cent. It was appointed as a hymn at compline; but the seasons during which it was used vary considerably in the various Breviaries, ranging from Saturdays in Advent to the First S. in Lent; and again from Trinity to Christmas. The original was used at Eton, at the 8 P.M. daily service, until about 1830. [J. M.]

Translations in C. U.:-

1. Bleet Saviour, Lard of all. By Bp. Cosin, in his Coll. of Private Devotions, 1627 ("The Approbation," Feb. 26, 1626...Geo. London), which was reprinted several times, the 11th ed. by Rivington in 1838. In W. J. Blew's Church Hy. & Tune Bk., 1852-55, No. 6, from Trinity Sunday to Advent, begins with st. ii. of this fr. alightly altered, as "Ruler of the day and night." In the Wellington College H. Bk., Bp. Cosin's tr. is altered to "O blessed Saviour, Lord of all."

3. O Savieur of the world ferlern, This midnight, As. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, 1848, p. 154. It is repeated in H. A. & M., 1861, the Hymnary, 1872, &c., but almost always with varying alterations in the text, and another doxology. In the 1875 ed. of H. A. & M. it begins, "O Saviour, Lord, to Thee we pray"; and in the 1863 ed. of the App. to the Hymnal N. as "Thee, Saviour of the world, we pray."

3. Sevious of man, Whose kindly sare, By J. D. Chambers, in his Psatter, 1852, p. 358. In Skinner's Daily Service Hyl., 1864, it is given as, " Saviour of men, Whose tender care."

4. Redeemer of the world, we pray. By R. F.

Littledale, made for and first pub. in the People's H., 1867, and signed "P. C. E."

Translations not in C. U. :--

1. O Lorde, the worldes Saviour Whiche hast preserved. Sarum Primer. 1545.
2. O Lord, the Saviour of the world. Who hast preserved. A. J. B. Hope. 1844.
3. Lord of the world Who hast preserved. Hymnorium Anglicanum, 1844.

4. Lord of the world, our Strength and Stay. W. J.

5. O Saviour of the world ! Whose care. J. D. Cham-

 O Savious of the world forforn, Who man to save,
 Lord, Who hast kept us all. J. W. Hewett. 1859.
 O Savious of the world forforn, Who man to save,
 Lord Braye, in O. Shipley's Answer Sanctus. 183.
 J. J. J. [J. J.]

Balve crux beata, selve. J. W. Petersen. [Glorying in the Cross.] Included in the Goistreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 326, in 16 st. of 4 l., entitled "Joy of a soul rejoicing under the cross: Bomans v. We glory in tribulations." Repeated in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 410. It has passed into English through—

Glück zu Kreuz von ganzem Herzen. A free fr. by L. A. Gotter, in 21 st. 1st pub. in the Geistreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 329, and repeated in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 402. In Porst's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 432, st. vii., viii., iz. on special saints and martyrs are omitted. In Bunsen's Versuch, 1833, No. 473, has st. i, ii., vi., xi., xii., xiii.-xv., xvii.-xix., xxi., altered and beginning "Kreuz, wir grüßen dich von Herzen." Tr. as:—

1. Welcome Gross and Tribulation. A tr. of st. i.-v., x., xiii., xiv., xv., xviii., as No. 694, in pt. i. of the Morevian H. Bk., 1754.

2. Cross, reproach and tribulation. A free fr., based on the 1754 trs. of st. i., ii., iv., xv., xviii. This is No. 307 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1849, No. 510). It is repeated in the Bible H. Bh., 1845, and in America in the Bk. of Hys., Boston, 1848; Plymouth Coll., 1855; Laudes Domini, 1884, and others.

3. O Green, we hall thy bitter reign. A good tr. from Bussen, by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 154. Two centes are in Kennedy, 1863, viz. No. 602 of st. i., ii., zi., nemery, 1800, viz. No. 50/2 of st. i., ii., xii., xii., and No. 994 of st. xvii., xii., xii., beginning, "Up, brethren of the Cross, and haste." In Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, U. S., 1864, No. 650 consists of st. xi., xiii., xvii., heginning, "Pledge of our glorious home afar"; and this form beginning, "Sign of a glorious life afar," is in the Berwick Hyt., 1886. [J. M.]

Salve festa dies toto venerabilis aevo. This line is taken from a poem by Fortunatus, which begins "Tempora florigero." Two centos, mainly from Fortunatus, are noted under Tempera forigere. The cento for Easter, which was that most widely used, begins "Salve...Qua Deus infernum violt et astra tenet." In the Sarum Processional another cento was given for the Ascension, beginning "Salve . . . Qua Deus in coelum scandit et astra tonet." The York Processional has for the Ascension "Salve . . . Qua Deus in coelum scandit et astra tenet" (see Card. Newman's Hymns Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, and Daniel, if. p. 181), but this takes nothing from Fortunatus save the opening stanza. Both in England and on the Continent the various Processionals contain a number of hymns which take the opening line from Fortunatus, but are otherwise quite different. Of these we note here :---

i. Saire. . . Qua Dens de ceals gratia fuint humo. Whitsumide. This is found in the York Processional of 163x, and is also in Card. Newman's Byonic Ecclesian, 1838 and 1850; in Bonich, ii. p. 182; and in Eckerin, No. 184. The fr. is.—

2838 and 1855; in Daniel, it, p. 182; and in Astron. No. 184. The tr. is: thre' or'ry age divine, When Sod's fair grace from Essavin on earth did shine. By T. A. Lace, in the Altar Hyl., 1884, No. 42.

il. Balve ... Qua Dessi scalesiam dient honore summ. Corpus Christi. This is also in the Fork Processional of 1830; in Card. Newman's Hymni Eccleriae, 1838 and 1865; in Daniel, il. p. 183; and in Eckrein, No. 161.

The tra are:—

The ir. are:—
1. Hall! all glarious Feast, day hallowed for ever and ever. In the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, p. 63.
2. Hall! fastal day! in every age divine. By G. Monlirts, in the Hymner, 1882, No. 60; and the Altar Hyl., 2884, No. 51.
iii. Ealve. . Gas sponso spense jungitur Ecclesia. Dedication of a Church. This is in a Scruss Gradual, circa 1275 (Add. 12194, f. 88), in the British Museum; in a Sarson Processional there, circa 1390 (Harl. 2942); in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; in Daniel, ii. p. 184; and in Habrein, No. 876. The tra.

are:1. Hail, fastal day! far over more adored. By W. A., in Lyra Eucharistics, 1883, p. 14.
2. Hail, fastal day! Hail over seared tide. By G.
Moultrie, in the Altor Ept., 1884, No. 82. [J. M.]

Salve mi angelice, spiritus beats. Konrad of Gaming. [Angels.] A hymn of 64 lines given by Mone, No. 312, from a Munich Ms. of the 15th cent., and entitled "A prayer concerning one's own (i.e. guardian) angel." Tr. by J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, Pt. ii., 1866, p. 101, as, "Hail, mine angel, pure and bright," and included in the Prople's H., 1867. [W. A. Ś.]

Salve mundi Domins. [B. V. M.] This is found in the Parnaesus Marianus, Douai, 1624, p. 38, and there marked as taken from a Spanish book of Hours ("ex horis quibus-dam valde autiquis in Hispania"). The same text is found in the Path to Heaven (ed. same text is found in the Path to Heaven (ed. London, 1877, pp. 429-435), in recent eds. of Nakstenns's Coeleste paimetem (e.g. Mechlin, 1859, p. 236), and other modern Roman Catholic manuals of devotion. A portion beginning "Salve area foederis" is in Daniel, iv. 342. F. W. E. Roth, in his Lat. Hymnen, 1887, Nos. 191-97, prints it from a Prayer Book written for the use of the Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, about 1760 (now in Darmstadt), where it occurs in the course of an office for the Immaculate Conception of the B. V. M. It has been fr. by E. Caswall in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 255, and in his Hys. & Poens, 1873, p. 185, in 16 st. of 8 l., and thus divided for Divine Service:—

McGinz. "Hall, Queen of the heavens."
 Frime. "Hall, Virgin most wise."
 Terce. "Hall, Solomon's throne."

2. Printe. "Lan, "Nomon's throne."
3. Terce. "Hall, Solomon's throne."
4. Sext. "Hail, virginal mother."
5. Mone. "Hall, city of refuge."
6. Vaupers. "Hall, diel of Achas."
7. Complian. "Hall, mother most pure."
8. Commendation. "These praises and prayers."

These parts are repeated in the Croun of Jesus H. Bk., 1862, as separate hymns.

Other tra. are :-

1. Hail, Lady o' th' world Of heaven bright Queen. 2. Hall, Virgin, o'er all virgins bright. [J, M.]

Salve mundi salutare. St. Bernard of sweet and beautiful poem, which has been mainly used by translators into English and German, is that found in St. Bernard's Opera Omnia, Paris, 1609, cols. 1655-56. Here it is entitled "A rhythmical prayer to any one [unum quodlibet] of the members of Christ, suffering and hanging on the Cross," and is divided into seven parts, viz. :--

i. flaive mundi salutare.
ii. Salve Jesu, Bax sanetarum,
iii. Salve Jesu, paster bone.
iv. Salve Jesu, summe bonus. To the Feet. " Kneet. " Hands. " Side. Breast. v. Salve calus mos. Deus. vi. Summi Regis cor aveto. vil. Salve caput cruantatum. , Facs.

Going a little further back, a somewhat similar text is in St. Bernard's Opuscula, Venice, 1495, where it is outitled "A divine and most devout prayer of the Abbot St. Bernard, which he made when an image of the Saviour, with outstretched arms, embraced him from the Cross." Here the last section is entitled "To the whole body," and begins, "Balve Jean reverence." In a ma. of 1454, now in the Town Library at Nürnberg, there is a tr. into German entitled "St. Beroard's Lamentation," and beginning "Der welt heilant, nim min grüczen," which is from the same text as that in the Opascula; and here, after the third [ast stanza, is the note "As now St. Bernard had spoken these words with great earnestness of desire, the image [Marterbild] on the cross bowed itself, and embraced him with its wounded arms, as a sure token that to it this prayer was most pleasing." The same German tr. is also in a 15th cent. Ms. at Donaueschingen, with the title "This is the noble prayer of the devout doctor St. Bernard," &c. (see Wackernagel, ii., No. 454, and p. 1198).

Clearly, then, there is tradition at least as far back as 1450 (the tradition indeed seems to have come from Clairvaux), that the poem, as a whole, is by one author, and that this was St. Bernard. St. Bernard, however, d. in 1153, and no mes of the poem have yet been found of earlier date than the 14th cent. The MSS., moreover, present the greatest varieties of text and arrangement, so that it is exceedingly difficult to say whether any part of the poem is really by St. Bernard, or to discriminate what is his and what is not his. Doubtless the remark which Archbishop Trench made regarding other poems ascribed to St. Bernard, is true of this poem, viz., that the internal evidence is in favour of him as its author; and that if he did not write it, it is not easy to guess who could have written it. But in the present state of the evidence we cannot say much more. The conclusions of Mone and Daniel may be thus summed up :-

Mone, Nos. 123-126, gives parts 1-4, from 188. of the 14th and 15th cent. Into the veriety of texts and forms shown in his notes we have not here space to enter. In these notes he gives a mass of various readings, and mentions that at least two of the 15th cent. MSS. which he used had also parts 5-7. He also says, that in a 15th cent. Ms. at Amorbach, the complete poem is entitled, "Prayer of Bonaventura, on saluting the Five Wounds of Christ." In his judgment, the bewildering variety of forms and texts makes Clairrang? [Passiontide.] The text of this | it impossible to come to any definite conclusions

as to authorship; but he thinks that the original | poem was probably by a French writer.

Daniel, i., No. 207; ii., p. 359; and iv., pp. 224-231, gives the text of all the parts. In his notes in vol. iv. he expresses the opinion that only two of the parts, those to the Feet and to the Knees (1 and 2), are by St. Bernard. His principal reason for so thinking is, because the Lichtenthal MS. of the 14th cent., quoted by Mone, has only these two, with the title "Lamentation on the Passion of the Lord." As Lichtenthal was a Cistercian foundation, he holds that the Brethren there would be most likely to give the complete and correct text of a poem by the founder of their Order. He adds :-

"Whoever reads the first part attentively cannot help seeing that it refers to the whole frame of the suffering Christ; and that special mention is made of the Feet only for this reason,—that the poet places himself procrate on his knees, at the foot of the cross, and embraces the Saviour's Feet. And as far as regards the Knees, they are only touched upon once in the second part, and that incidentally: the poem, as a whole, is clearly concerned with the Passion as a whole. Such a norm was compared by St. Bernard; the titles of the poem was composed by St. Bernard: the titles of the members are the work of a later age."

Daniel holds that the address to the Hands is later than St. Bernard; that next was added, probably in the 14th cent, the address to the Side; and that those to the Breast, to the Heart, and to the Face, were first added in the 15th

Mone and Daniel thus agree in thinking that parts 5-7 are not by St. Bernard, but are of much later date, probably of the 15th cent, And, apparently, they would have agreed in saying that these additions were made in Germany. If their conclusions be correct, then the finest part of all, the "Salve caput cruentatum." must be by some one other than St. Bernard.

Other texts may be briefly noted. (1) The poem is found in five mas, of the 15th cent., at St. Gall (Nos. 473, 482, 485, 519, 521). (2) F. W. E. Roth, in his Lat. Hymner, 1887, No. 141, gives the skeleton of a form in 7 parts (beginning, "Salve meum salutare"), the parts being respectively assigned to Madina, Prime, Terce, Sent, Now, Vetpers, and Compline. He clee it as in a 15th cent. Ms. manual of devotions, now at Darmstadt. (3) G. Wilchesch in his terminal Scornwick 1888. 15th cent hs. manual of devotions, now at Darmstadt.

(3) G. Milchasck, in his Hymns et Sequentice, 1886, No. 110, gives a curious form of parts 5-7, from a 15th cent, broadsbeet in the Wolfenbüttel Library. (4) Wacker-saget, i., Noe. 186-182, gives the text, in 7 parts, from Bosse, and the Paris ed., 1719, of 8t. Bernard's Opera. (5) Archbishop Trench, in his Sucred Latin Poetry, gives parts 1 and 7 from the Opera, 1719, (6) F. A. March gives, in his Lat. Hys., 1815, parts 1, 8, and 7. (7) The texts in Königtfeid, ii., p. 180; (8) Hambuck, i., p. 215; and (2), Neale's Hymni Eccleside, 1851, p. 182, are centoe.

In J. M. Horst's Paradisus animae Christianae, 1644, the text is given in 7 parts, but very greatly altered, thus;

- 1. Jesu summae Res virtulis. 1. Christe Jesu fons bonorson, fil. Christe Jesu Pastor bone. iv. O Salvator summe bonus. v. O Lux Mundi Christe Deus.
- vi. O divinum Cor ando. vii. Caput spinis coronatum.

It may be added that the use of this noble poem seems to have been almost entirely confined to books of private devotion, and collec-tions of sacred poetry. No parts or centos appear to have passed into Mediaeval Bresi-aries, Missals, Graduals, or Processionals; and the only portion we have been able to trace in similar modern books, is the greatly mutilated cente, "Jesu dulcis amor mens"

(p. 585, i.), included in recent editions of the Roman Breviary.

The whole poem has frequently been tr. into German; and various German versions have also been made from portions of it. The best known set of trs. into German are those by Paulus Gerhardt, which are free versions of all the seven parts, from the Latin text of 1609, thus :-

1. Sei mir iausendmal gegrüsset. il. Gegrüsset seist du meine Kron. ili. Sei wohl gegrüsset, guter Hirt. iv. Eh grüsse dich, du frömnister Hann.

v. Gegrützet seist du, Gott mein Heil. vl. O Hers des Königs aller Weit. vli. O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden.

Of these Nos, 1, 5, 6, 7, have passed into English, as follows:-

i. Hel mir tausendmal gegrüsset. This fine but free tr. appeared in the 5th ed., Berlin, 1633, No. 498, and the Frankfurt od., 1658, No. 150, of Cribger's Praxis pictatis melica, in 5 st. of 51. Included in Wackernagel's ed. of Gerhardt's Geistl. Lieder, No. 16, in Backmann's ed., No. 48, and in the Unu. L. S., 1851, No. 116. The trs. in C. U. are:—

No. 25, and in the No. L. S., 1861, No. 116. The train C. U. are:—

1. Thunsand times by me be greated. This is No. 221 in pt. i. of the Horascian H. Hh., 1751. Repeated in later eds. (1885, No. 95).

2. Ever by my love be owned. A tr. of et. i., ill., iv., by A. T. Resseli, as No. 95 in his Pr. & Hya., 1851.

v. Gegellaset seixt du, Gott, mein Hell. A good tr., in 5 st. of 6 l., in the Frankfurt ed. 1855, of Crüger's Prawit, No. 184. Included in Wackernagel's ed. of Gerhardt, No. 20; Buchmann's ed., No. 52; and in Porsi's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 81. The tri. are:—

(1) "All hall to Thee, my Saviour and my God." By Mrs. Stanley Carr, in her tr. of Wildenhahn's Paul Gerhardt (ed. 1855, p. 185.)

vi. O Herr des Königs aller Welt. A good tr., in 7 st. of 12 l., in the Frunkfurt ed., 1856, of Crüger's Praxis. No. 125. Repeated in Wackernagel's ed. of Gerhardt, No. 21; Backsanin's ed., No. 32; and in the Berilia L. S., ed. 1863, No. 238. It has been fr. as:—(1) "O Heart of Him who dwells on high." By M. Massie, in the British Herald, May 1866, p. 350.

the British Beraid, May 1866, p. 250.

vii. O Haupt voll Birt und Wunden. The trz. of this form are given in the separate note at p. 835, i. ii.

(J. M.)

The trs. of this poem from the Latin into English, in the various parts, as set forth above, are:--

- i. Salve mundi salutare. The trs. of this part are :-
- 1. All the world's sulvation hall. By Mex. Charles, in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 161.

2. Jesus, hail, the world's salvation. By H. Kynaston, in his Occasional Hys., 1862, p. 83.

- 3. Life of the world, I hail Thee. By R. Palmer, in the N. York Christian Union, April 13, 1881, in 8 st. of 8 l. Of these, 3 sts. were given in the Laudes Domini, N. Y., 1884, No. 400.
- ii. Salve Jesu [salve] Rex sanctorum. This has been tr. as :--
- 1. Jeru, King of saints, Whose Name. By T. Whytehead, in his Poems, 1848, p. 75. This pt. is represented in st. i.-iv. of the tr.: the remaining sts., v.-xii., being from Pt. i., beginning with line eleven, "Clavos pedum, plagas duras."
- 2. Hall, Thou King of saints, ascending. By H. Kynaston, made for and 1st pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.
- 3. Kall! Thou Monarch of confessors. By J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 158.
  - iii. Salve Jesu, pastor bone.

Pusey. Oakeley.

iv. Salve Jesu, summe bonus. This iv. O Salvater tumme bonus.

1. Saviour, Whose all-pitying care,
2. Saviour, supremely excellent.

1. Saviour, supremely excellent.
2. Lux munit Christe Beus. is (r. as :--

Jesu, good beyond samparing. By H. Kynaston; made for, and first pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.

v. Salve salus mea, Deus.

vi, Summi Regis cor aveto. This is ir. as:-

Heart of Christ my King! I greet Thee. By E. A. Washburn, of N. Y., June, 1868, contributed to Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869.

vii. Salve caput cruentatum. the finest and most popular part of the poem, is tr. ns:--

1. Hail that Head with sorrows bowing. By H. Alford, in his Ps. & Hys., 1844, No. 84; his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 102; and the Saram Hyl., 1868, No. 130. It is composed of II. 1-5 and 40-50 of this part. See Daniel, i., No. 207.

2. Hall that Head all torn and wounded. By J.

F. Thrupp, in his Ps. & Hys., 1853, No. 72; and the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, No. 377. It is slightly indebted to Dean Alford's tr. as above.

5. Hail, thou Head! so bruised and wounded. By Elizabeth Charles, nec Rundle, in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 159; and her Chronicka of the Schönberg-Cotta Family, 1862, p. 201. It is in a few collections. In the Hymnary, 1872, it is somewhat altered, and begins, "Hail, thou Head, so bruised and torn." In Thring's Coll., 1882, No. 173, is a cento thus composed:—st. l., from the Hymnary, ll. 4, 6, 10, Mrs. Charles, ll. 3, 5, 7, 8, 9, Prob. Twing; 10, 11, 11, 1, 2, 7, 8, 9, Mrs. Charles, 11, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, Preb. Thring; st. iii., 11, 1, 3, 4, 8, Mrs. Charles, 11, 2, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, Preb. Thring; st. iv. and v., 11, 1-8, Preb. Thring, 11, 9, 10, Mrs. Charles. This is a very fine combined tr. of this part of the poem. It has been specially set to music by Sir John Stainer; Lond., Novello & Co.

4. 0 secred Head, surrounded. By Sir H. W. Baker. This tr., although it follows the metre of the German tr. (see above), was made direct from the Latin, and 1st pub. in H. A. & M., 1861. It is in the new ed., 1875; the Irish Church Hyl., 1873, &c.

5. Head, all hail, with gore drops scattered. By H. Kynaston, in his Occasional Hys., 1862, p. 85.

In addition to these, two hymns by H. Alford, which were based on St. Bernard, ap-Anord, where were cased on St. Bernard, up-peared in his Ps. & Hys., 1844, as "Glory to Thy Father's face," and "Thou Saviour who Thyself didst give." The text, in 10 sts., as given in Daniel, ii., p. 359, has also been tr. by D. T. Morgan, in his Hys. of the Latin Church, 1871, p. 76; and the 1880 ed., p. 97, as, "Saviour of the world, to Thee, Blessed One [Jesu, low] I bow the knee."

The Poem, as arranged in Horst's Paradisus animae Christianae, 1644, as above, has been tr., probably by W. J. Copeland (see p. 942, 1.), in Dr. Pusey's tr. of Horst; and, again, by Canon Oakeley, in his tr. of the same, 1850, as follows:--

1. Jenu nummae Rep virtutie.

1. Jesu, Prince of Life and Power. Pusey. Oakeley.

1. Jesu, France of Life and Power.

2. Jesu, great King of saving wealth.

13. Christs Jesu, Four bonorum,

1. Jesu, Fount of endless pleasure.

2. Christ Jesu, Fount of bleasings rife, Cakeley.

14. Christs Jesu, Pastor bone.

1. Gracious Jesu, Stephard good.

2. O Jesu Christ, Thou Shapherd good.

Oakeley.

 Glory of the heavens above. Pusey.
 O Christ, my God, earth's beacon-fire. Gakeley. vi. O divinum Cor aucto.

 Holy heart, divinely sweet.
 All hail, divinest heart, to Thee. Pusey. Oakeley. vil. Cuput spinis coronatum.

1. Ah, that Head with sharp thorns crowned.

2. All bleeding with the tangled thorn. Oakdev. Although, taken as a whole, considerable attention has been given to this poem in its various forms, yet some of the Parts have suffered from neglect. This should be remedied by an able translator. [J. J.]

Salve, O sanctissime. [St. John Baptist.]
A hymn of 40 lines given by Mone, No. 650, from a Ms. of 1439, at Karlsruhe, and a 15th cent. ms. at Mainz. It has been tr. by G. Moultrie in his Hys. and Lyrics, &c., 1867, p. 215, as "Hail, O thou of women born." Also in the People's H., 1867, and signed "M." [W. A. S.]

Salve regins. Hermannus Contractus (?).

[B. V. M.] This famous antiphon has been attributed to a great variety of authors. The opinion of Durandus (d. 1296), in his Rationale. was, that it was by Petrus of Monsoro (Petrus Martinez de Mosoncio), Bp. of Compostella, who d. circa 1000. It has also been ascribed to Adhemar, Bp. of Podium (Le Puy), who d. 1098; to Bernard, Archbishop of Toledo, who d. 1124; to Ansolm, Bp. of Lucca, who d. 1086; to St. Bernard, of Clairvaux, who d. 1153, &c. Tritheim (d. 1516) and others think that it was by Hermannue Contractus (d. 1054); and this seems, on the whole, the most prohable opinion. In any case it must have been known by 1100, for there are sermons on the first part of it (down to salle), by Bernard of Toledo (see Migne's P. P. Lat., vol. 184, col. 1059). There is also a Meditatio upon it, which Migne, vol. 184, col. 1078, gives as by Auselm of Lucca; and at vol. 149, cel. 583, among the Opusoula spuria ascribed to St. Anselm of Lucca. The text of the antiphon, which is embodied in the Meditatio, is probably the original form, and reads thus:

"Salve, regina misericordise, vita dulcedo, et epes nontra, salve. Ad te clamamus exules filli Evac. Ad te suspiramus, gementes et flentes in bao lachrymarum valls. Es ergo, advocata nestres in necessary marina valls. Es ergo, advocata nestra, illoe tuos misericordes oculos ad nos converte, et Jesum, benedictum fructum ventris tul, post hoc exilium ostende. O clemens, O pla, O dulcia Maria."

Almost the same text is given by Daniel, ii., p. 321, from a Munich Ms. of the 13th cent., &c.; and by Schubiger, in his Sängerschule St. Gallens, 1858, p. 85, from the Einsiedeln MS., No. 33, written about 1300. So in a Horas, in the Bodleian (Litery. Misc. 104, f. 122), written in England about 1340, where, however, it begins, "Salve regins, mater miscricordiae": and cods, "O duleis Viryo Maria." This last text is that found in the Roman Breviary (e.g. Modens, 1480, f. 512, and later eds.), where it is appointed for use at Compline, from the First Vespers of Trinity Sunday, up to None on the Saturday before Advent Sunday. According to tradition, the concluding part of the antiphon, "O clemens, O pia, O dulcis Maria," was first added from an ejaculation by St. Bernard of Clairvaux, in the cathedral at Speyer (Spires); but, as will be seen above, these words are in the earliest forms of the text. [See Various.]

In mediacval times, this antiphon became a great favourite, and in many churches money was left to provide for having it regularly sung. It was much used in Italy by the fishermen and sailors, when at sea, in stormy weather. One result of its popularity was, that a large number of hymns were written upon it, embodying the words of the antiphen in their various stanzas. Mone, Nos. 487-495, gives nine examples, more or less complete, from mss. of the 14th and 15th cents.; and a tenth is in Daniel, ii., p. 323. The fine plain song melody (given by Schubiger as above), has also been ascribed to Hermannus Contractus; and the antiphon has been set to music by very many composers since his day. Luther spoke very sharply of the veneration of the B. V. M. in this astiphon, and of the honour paid to it by the ringing of the church bells while it was being sung. A Protestant version, beginning "Salve Rex seternae misericordiae," was in use at Erfurt in 1525. In the Appx. to the Roman Catholic Hymnarius, pub. at Sigismundlust, in 1524, there is an evangelical version which reads, e.g.:—

"Salve Jesu Christe, misericordia, vita . . . Advocate noster . . . . . telpsum benedictum filium Det Patris nobls . . O clemens, O pie, O dukis Jesu fili Marise." (See Bdussker, 1., p. 63, and ii., p. 70.)

The Roman Breviary form of the text has been tr. aa:-

1. Mother of mercy, hail, 0 gracious [gentle] Queen. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 40; and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 23. This is in use in a few Roman Catholic collections for missions and schools.

Other tra, are :-

- 1. Hayle Quene, mother of mercye. Sarum Primer,
- All halle, O Queene mother of mercle. Primer, 1859.
   Al halle, O Quene mother of Mercle. Primer, 1615.

4. Hail to the Queen who reigns above. Primer, 1685.
5. Hail, happy queen; thou mercy's parent, hall.
Primer, 1705.
6. Hail, queen, we hail thee. J. H. Beste, 1849.
7. Hail, holy queen, mother of mercy. Prose tr. in the Primer, 1867, and The Crown of Jenus H. Sk., 1862.

[J. M.]

Balvete Christi vulnera. [Passiontide.] This is the hymn at Lands in the office of the Most precious Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ (see "Ira justa Conditoris"). It is found in the Boman Breviary, Venice, 1798, Verca, Appendix, p. 60; and is repeated in later eds. of the Boman Breviary, and in Daniel, ii. p. 355.

Translations in C. U.:-

1. Hall wounds! which through elernal years. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 87, and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 49. It is in a few collections in full, and also altered and abridged to 5 st. in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, as " How clearly all His torturing wounds."

2. Hail! buly wounds of Jesus, hall. By H. N. Oxenham, in his The Sentence of Kares, and Other Poems, 1854, p. 190; the 1860 Appendix to the H. Noted; Lyra Eucharistics, 1863; and O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884.

Translation not in C. U. :-

All ball to you, sweet Jesu's wounds. J. Wallace. [J. J.]

Salvete clavi et lances. [Passiontide.] This is the hymn at Matins in the Office of the lance and nails of Our Lord Jesus Christ. This Office has been added to the Roman Breviary since 1740, and is now appointed to be said as a Greater Double on the Friday after the 1st S. in Lent at Matins; the 2nd part of the hymn, "Tinctam ergo Christi sauguine" being appointed for Laude. It is in the Roman Breviary, Bologna, 1827, Pars Verna Supplement, p. 267; and is repeated in later eds. of the Roman Breviary. [J. M.]

Translation in C. U.:--

Hall spear and nalla! ere while despised. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 76, the tr. of "Tinctam ergo Christi sanguine," as "O turn those blessed points, all bath'd," being on p. 77, and again in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, both on p. 43. In the 1863 ed. of the Appendix to the H. Noted, No. 244, is composed of the two parts, with the doxology repeated once only. Pt. ii. for Lauda, "O turn those blessed points, all bathed," is in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884.

Translations not in C. U. :-

- 1. Hail, holy nails, hall, blessed spear (" Salvete clayt"). J. Wallace. 1874.
  2. Turn on me then your pointed dart ("Tinctam ergo"). J. Wallace. 1874.
  [J. J.]

Sanctae Syon adsunt encoenia. [Dedication of a Church.] Dr. Neale, in his Sequentiae, 1852, p. 252, gives this from the Drontheim Missal of 1519; and his text has been repeated by Daniel, v. p. 215, and Kehrein, No. 877. Tr. as:—

- 1. Holy Sion's teast is spread. By P. Onelow. Appeared in Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 49, and again in the St. Margaret's Hymnol [East Grinstead], 1875.
- 8. Fair Sion's feast is ready. By G. Moultrie, given in the People's H., 1867, with the signature "D. P.," and again in the translator's Eppousals of St. Dorothea, &c., 1870, p. 52.
- 3. Glad Zion's halls are sounding. By P. Onslow, in the Lyra Mystica, 1865, p. 86. [W. A. S.]

Sancte Dei pretiose, protomartyr Stephane. [St. Stephen.] The original form of this hymn is in 3 st. of 3 lines (ii. "Funde preces," iii. "Gloria et honor"). "Funds preces, This form is in two Mes. of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xii., f. 36; Harl. 2961, f. 229); and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch., 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ns. at Durham. (B. iii. 32, f. 14.) Also in the Saxum. Hereford, York, Aberdeen, and other Breviaries. Sometimes used for the Invention of St. Stephen. The original form is also printed by Mone, No. 1158, from an 11th cent. The track in the Saxum. 11th cent. Ms. at Stuttgart, &c. The text in Daniel, i., No. 221, contains six additional stanzas, probably of North German origin, and of much later date. [J. M.]

Translations in C. U.:-

- 1. Saint of God, elect and precious. By J. M. Neale, of the S st. form of the test, in the H. Noted, 1852; the Hymner, 1882, &c.
- 2. Saint of God, beloved Stephen. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. & Tune Bk., 1852-55, Christmas, No. 18, and in Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 12. This, in 6 st. of 6 l., is from the text of Daniel abridged,

Translations not in C. U.:-

1. Holy Stephen! Protomartyr. 1857, from the text of Daniel. J. D. Chambers,

2. First martyr, Stephen, this is he. J. W. Hemott, 1859, from the early form in 3 st. (J. J.)

Sancti Spiritus adsit nobis gratia.

Notker. [Whitsuntide.] This has fre-St. Nother. [Whitsuntide.] This has frequently been ascribed to King Robert of France, but apparently without ground. It is found in a Ms. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775, f. 133 b), apparently written circa 1000; in a Winchester book of the 11th cent. now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, No. 473; in two Mas. of the 12th cent. in the British Museum (Add. 11,669 early 12th, f. 51 b; Calig. A. xiv. c. 1199, f. 62); in the Prim Gradual, circa 1000, and the Echternach Gradual of the 11th cent., both in the Bibl. Nat. Paris; in four Mss. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall, Nos. 376, 378, 380, 381; in a ms. of the end of the 10th cent. at Einsiedeln (121, p. 487). Among Missals it is found in an early 14th cent. Paris, and a 14th cent. Sens in the British Museum; in a Sarum circa 1370, a Hereford circa 1370, and a York circa 1390, all now in the Bodleian; in the St. Andrews, the Magdeburg of 1480, and many other Missals, even in Italy and Spain. The printed text is also in Mone, No. 197; Daniel, ii. p. 16, and Kehrein, No. 124. Tr. as :-

Came, O Hely Chest, within us. By C. S. Calverley, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.

Other tra. are :-

The grace of the Holy Ghost be present with us.
 M. Neale, a proce tr. in his Medianal Hys., 2nd ed.,

2. May the Holy Spirit's grace. By C. B. Pearson, in the Strum Missai on English, 1868.

3. Now may the Holy Spirit's grace. By C. B. Pearson in his Sequences from the Savern Missai, 1871. 4. O Holy Spirit, grant us grace, To make our hearts, as. By E. H. Plumptre, in his Taings New and Gld, 1886.

Sancti venite, corpus Christi sumite. [Holy Communion.] This is found in the Antiphonarium Benchorense, an antiphonary written 680-691 at the Monastery of Bangor, County Down, Ireland, and now in the Ambrosian Library at Milan. The Ms. has been printed in L. A. Muratori's Opers, vol. zi., pt. iii. Arezzo, 1770, and the hymn in question is there at p. 228 as "a hymn when the priests communicate." This title explains st. i., ll. 3, 4, "Sanctum bibentes, Quo redempti, sanguinem." "It has," says Neale, "a certain pious simplicity about it which renders it well worthy of preservation." Its original use was probably to be sung as a Communio in the Mass (see Communio, p. 255, The printed text is also in Rambach, i. Ŀ), p. 182; Daniel, i. No. 160, and iv. p. 169; and Bässler, No. 61. [J. M.] and Bäselor, No. 61.

Translation in C. U.:-

Draw nigh, and take the Body of the Lord. J. M. Neale, pub. in his Medizeval Hymns, 1851, p. 13, in 10 st. of 2 l. It passed into the People's H., 1867 (7 st.); H. A. & M., 1868 and 1875 (in full); the S. P. C. K. Churck Hys., 1871 (in full); in others in 6 st. only, and in most cases with very slight alterations. In the Hy. Comp. it is altered as "Come, take by faith the Body of your Lord." In his annotated ed. of the Hy. Comp. Bp. Bickersteth has this note on his amended text :-

"The Editor has ventured to modify his [Neale's] first line 'Draw nigh and take the Body of the Lord," first line 'Draw nigh and take the Body of the Lord,' which contains no thought answering to Sasett, by introducing the words by fath ', and white thus adhering more closely to the original Latin, he has expressed the teaching of our Church, 'The Body and Blood of Christ are verily and Indeed taken and received by the faithful in the Lords Supper '(Catechism). And again, 'The means whereby the body of Christ is executed and eaten in the Supper is faith (Article executed).'

In addition to this alteration Bp. Bickersteth has several others, all of which, with one exception, deal more with the rhythm of the lines than with doctrine. The exception is st. x., which reads in the Latin :-

" Alpha et Omega Ipsa Christus dominus, Venit venturus Judkare homines."

In Neale:-

" Alpha and Omega, to whom shall bow All nations at the Doom, is with us now."

In the Hy. Comp. :-

" O Judge of all, our only Savlour Thou, In this Thy Feast of love be with us now [J. J.]

Sanctorum meritis inclita gaudia. [Common of Martyre.] This hymo is frequently referred to by Hincmar in his "De una et non trina Deitate," 857; but he distiuetly says he could not discover its author. It is found in four mes, of the 11th cent, in the British Museum (Jul. A. vi., f. 63b; Vesp. D. zii., f. 104; Harl. 2961 f. 247b; Add. 30,651 f. 152 b); and in the Letin Hye of the Anglo Saxon Ch., 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii, 32, f. 89). Also in a ms. of the 10th cent. at Bern, No. 455; in a us, of the 11th cent, at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. 391, p. 272); in the St. Gall Mss., 413 and 414, of the 11th cent. It is in the Roman, Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries—the Sarum use being at 1st Vespers and at Matins in the common of many martyrs. The printed text is also in Daniel i. No. 170, and iv. p. 189, giving also the text of the Roman Breviary, 1632; Wackernagel i. No. 125; G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from a 10th cent. Ms.; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. [J. M.]

Translations in C. U. :-

1. The triumphs of the martyr'd salats. By Bp. R. Mant, in his Ancient Hys., &c., 1837, p. 76, and 1871, p. 133. It is given in several collections, including Kennedy, 1863; the People's H. 1867; the Hymnary, 1872, &c.

2. The triumphs of the saints, Riessed for evermore. By J. M. Neale, in the H. Noted, 1852, No. 39. In the enlarged ed., 1854, it was given as "The merits of the saints," and this latter reading is usually given in modern hymnbooks. In later editions of the H. Nated the original reading was restored.

Translations not in C. U. :-

1. Let us that fellowes be the glorious loyes sound out. Primer. 1899.

2. By healps of Saints, come let our tongues relate.
Primer. 1615. 3. Let us fam'd acts and triumphs sing. Primer.

4. When bleeding Heroes fill the tuneful Quire.

4. When bleeding Heroes fill the tuneful Quire. Primer. 1766.
5. Sing we the poeriess deeds of martyr'd saints. E. Cammil. 1849.
6. Brethren, the praise of the holy ones waken. W. J. Blew. 1862-85.
7. The triumphs of the saints, Their joys beyond compare. J. B. Chambers. 1857.

8. The wondrous joys which crown the saints. J. W. | Hewett. 9. Let us proclaim the Martyrs' bliss. J. Wallace. 1874.

The variations in the Raman Brev. text from the older form are very slight. The trs. by Neale, Blew, Chambers, and Hewett, are from the older form; the rest follow the Roman Brev. form. There is an anonymous imitation rather than a tr. of the Latin text in Fallow's Hys. for Pub. and Private Worship, 1847; and again, with the addition of a dexelogy, in Johnston's English Hyml., 1852, beginning "Blest Lord, the crown of groat reward." [J. J.]

Sandys, George, a of Dr. Edwin Sandys, Archbishop of York, was b. at Bishopthorpe Palace, York, in 1577, and educated at St. Mary Hall and Corpus Christi College, Ox-ford. For some years he devoted himself to travelling in Europe and Asia, and pub. in 1615 a curious account of his experiences. After visiting America, where he was for a time the Treasurer of the British Colony of Virginia, he became, on his return, a Gentleman of the Privy Chambor of Charles I. He d. at Bexley Abbey, Kent, March 1648. His publications included his Traveller's Thanksqiving; the prose work on his travels, A Relation of a journey begun in 1610, &c., 1615; a tr. of the Metamorphoses of Ovid; and Grotius's tragedy of Christ's Passion. His productions which most nearly concern hymnology were:-

(1) A Paraphrase upon the Psalmer of Bavid, and upon the Hymns dispersed throughout the Old and New Testaments. London: at the Bell in St. Paul's Churchyard. M.DCXXXVI.

(2) A Paraphrase upon the Divine Poems by George Sandys. London: at the Hell in St. Paul's Churchyard. STRONGERY. This volume contained the Paraphrase of the Padine, paraphrases upon Job, Ecclesinates, the Lamentathons of Jeremials, and the Songs collected out of the Old and New Testaments.

(3) His paraphrase of The Song of Solomon was public 1642. The most available form of these works is the in 1642. The most available form of these works to the Rev. R. Hooper's reprint of Sandys's Poems, in Smith's Library of Old Authors.

A few only of Sandys's versions of the Psalms are found in modern hymu-books, although they were set to music by Henry Lawes. His influence, however, upon later paraphrasers was considerable. [See Pasitors, English, § x.] The following, together with a few others annotated under their respective first lines, are in C. U.:-

1. How are the Gentiles all on fire. Ps. ii, 2. Lord, for Thee I dully cry. Ps. txxrie.

3. My God, Thy suppliant hear. Ps. txxrie.

4. Praise the Lord entroned on high. Ps. ct.

5. Sing the Great Jebovah's praise. Ps. txri.

6. Thou. Lord, my winness art. Ps. cxxxi.

7. Thou who art [dwellest] enthroned shove. Ps.

ecti.

H. You, who dwell above the skies. Ps. existit.

These paraphrases as in C. U. are in the form of centos.

Sankey, Ira David, was b. in Edinburgh, Pennsylvania, in 1840, of Methodist paronts. About 1856 he removed with his parents to Newcastle, Pennsylvania, where he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Four years afterwards he became the Superintendent of a large Sunday School in which he commenced his career of singing sacred songs and soles. Mr. Moody met with him and heard him sing at the Inter-national Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, at Indianapolis, and through Mr. Moody's persuasion he joined him in his work at Chicago. After some two or three years work in Chicago, they sailed for England on June 7, 1872, and held their first meeting at York a short time afterwards, only eight persons being present. Their sub-sequent work in Great Britain and America is well known. Mr. Sankey's special duty was the singing of sacred songs and solos at religious gatherings, a practice which was in use in America for some time before he adopted it. His volume of Sacred Songs and Solos is a compilation from various sources, mainly American and mostly in use before. Although known as Saukey and Moody's Songs, only one song. "Home at last, thy labour done" (see Yarious), is by Mr. Sankey, and not one is by Mr. Moody. Mr. Sankey supplied several of the melodies. The English edition of the Sacred S. & S. has had un enormous sale: and the work as a whole is very popular for Home Mission services. The Songs have been translated into several languages."

Banteiiil, Baptiste de, a younger brother of Claude, and J. B. do Santeliil, was the author of two hymns in the Paris Brev. of 1680 :-- O vos upanimes Christiadum chori." and "Adeste sancti coelites." These were repeated in his brother's Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, and the 2nd ed. of the same, 1698. fG. A. C.1

Santeiiil, Claude de, elder brother of Jean-Baptiste de Santeüil (see below), was b. in Paris, Feb. 3, 1628. He became a secular ecclesiastic of the Seminary of St. Magloire, Paris, whence he was also known under the Latinized form of his name as Santolius Maylorta-nus. He d. Sept. 29, 1684. Like his brother, he was a good writer of Latin poetry, and some hymns by him were included in the Cluniae Brev., 1686, and the Paris Breviaries of 1680 and 1736. Some of these hymns have been translated into English, and are in C. U. [See Index of Authors and in G. Britain. Translators. [G. A. C.]

Santeiil, Jean-Baptiste de, was b. in Paris of a good family on May 12, 1630. He was one of the regular Canons of St. Victor, at Paris, and, under the name of Santolius Victorinus, was distinguished as a writer of Latin poetry. Many of his hymns appeared in the Cluniae Brev. 1686, and the Paris Brevs. 1680 and 1736, and soveral have been translated into English, and are in C. U. in G. Britain and America. [See Index of Authors and Translators.] He was very jocose in disposition and singular in his habits. When on a journey he d. at Dijon, Aug. 5, 1697. His Hymni Sacri et Novi were pub. at Paris in 1689, and again, enlarged, in 1698. [G. A. C.]

Santolius Maglorianus. [Sunteiil, Claude de.]

Santolius Victorinus. [Santeiil, Jean-Baptiste de.]

Sass, George Herbert, b. in Charleston, South Carolina, Dec. 24, 1845, where he has resided most of his life. He has contributed to the press a number of religious poems under the nom de plume of "Barlon Grey." These have not come into use as hymns for congregational purposes. The following are given in the Schaif & Gilman Library of Religious Poetry, 1881.

1. Comes it again, the sweet and solemn hour? Christmas Carol.

2. Once more through storm and calm the changeful hours. The Two Advents.

Out of dust and darkness, comes. Kaster.
 Soul, o'er life's sad ocean faring. Follow Me.

[J. J.]

Sat Paule, sat terris datum. Guillaume de la Brunetière. [Conversion of St. Paul.] Appeared in the Sens Brev., 1726, and the Paris Breviary, 1680, as the hymn at Malins and second Vespers on the 30th June. It is also in other French Brevieries and in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecolesiae, 1888 and 1865. It has been tr. os:-

1. Enough, O Paul, enough, and now. I. Williams.

bers. 1966.

I. Williams's tr. has been in C. U., but that by Chambers has not passed into the hymnhooks.

Baturatus ferculis. [Holy Communion.] A hymn in 15 st., and entitled "A giving of thanks after Holy Communion," is quoted by Mone, No. 232, from a Reichenau Ms. of the 14th cent, a Reichenau ws. of the 15th cent, and a Munich Ms. of the 15th cent. It is also contained in the St. Gall Ms., No. 309, of the 15th cent. The Munich Ms. contains the hymns of the Carthusian prior Konrad, of Gaming, in Lower Austria. As the Reichenau MSS. agree in differing from the text of the Munich it is probable that Konrad only made a few alterations on an older bymn. Tr. as:-1. Fed with dainties from above. By J. D. Chambers, in his Landa Syon, 1857, p. 233; and the Allar Hymnol, 1884.

3. With choicest dainties neurished. By R. F. Littledale, in the Altar Manual, 1863; and signin in the People's H., 1867, No. 182, and signed "D. L.," Le. Dr. Littledale. [W. A. S.] [W. A. S.]

Saviour, again to Thy dear Name we raise. J. Ellerion. [Evening.] Written in 1866, in 5 st. of 4 L, for the festival of the Malpas, Middlewich, and Nantwich Choral Association of that year, and adapted to the tune "St. Agnes," in Thorne's Coll. Of this hymn there are the following texts:--

1. The original in 5 st. of 4 i. See No. 4.
2. Mr. Ellerton's revised and abridged text for the App. to H. A. & M., 1868, in 4 st. This is the most popular form of the hymn, and is in extensive use.
3. The same text, with st. ii. and iii. transposed, and st. iii., 1. i., changed from :-"Grant us Thy peace, Lord, thre' the coming night,"

"Grant us Thy peace through the approaching night," and included in Charek Hymns, 1871. The use of this form of the hymn is limited.

4. The form given in Thring's Coll., 1882, in 6 st., the most delicate, beautiful, and tender of all. It is the original text, with the exceptions that st. Ill. was originally at. ii.; and st. ill. originally st. Ill., and the first line of st. ill., reads, "Grant us Thy peace, Lord, through the coming night."

The success which has attended this hymn is very great. No composition of Mr. Ellerton's has attained to anything approaching it in extensiveness of use in Great Britain and America. In Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, it begins, "Again to Thee, our guardian God, we raise."

Saviour, bless the word to all. T.

Kelly. [For a blessing on the Word.] Apin 3 st. of 4 l. (ed. 1853, No. 434). It is in C. U. in this form. In the American Unibirian Hys. for the Church of Christ, 1853, it is altered to "Father, bless Thy word to all." This text is repeated in a few collections; and, sometimes, as in the Songs for the Sanctuary, N. Y., 1865, with C. Wesley's stanza, "Sing we to our God above," as a doxology. [J. J.]

Saviour, blessed Saviour. G. Thring. [Pressing Onwards.] Written in 1862, and 1st pub. in his Hymns, Congregational and Others, 1866, p. 36, in 8 st. of 8 l. In 1868 it was repeated in the Appendix to H, A, & M, with alterations by the author and the compilers of H. A. & M., in st. v., vii., and viii. When included in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, Probendary Thring added the stanza "Farther, over farther. This full form of the text was repeated in his Hys. and Sac. Lyrics, 1874; and in his Coll., 1882. It has been specially set to music by Sir H. S. Oakeley, the Rev. J. Francis, J. D. Farrer, and others. In several American hymn-books it is broken up as :--

1. Brighter still, and brighter. In the Presbyterian

Hymnal, Philadelphia, 1974, and others.

2. Clearer yet, and clearer. In the Songs of Christian Praise, N. Y., 1880.

3. Bearer, ever mearer. In Laudes Domini, N. Y.,

1994 Through these various forms the use of this hymn is extensive. It is well suited for a processional.

Saviour, breathe an evening blessing. J. Edmeston. [Evening.] Appeared in his Sacred Lyrics, 1st set, 1820, p. 4, in 2 st. of 8 L, and thus introduced "At night their short evening hymn, 'Jesu Mahaxaroo' = 'Jesus forgive us,' stole through the camp,.... Salte's Travels in Abyssinia." One of the One of the earliest to adopt it for congregational uso was Bickersteth, who included it in his Christian Psalmody, 1833. It was repeated in the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, and others, until it has taken rank with the first Evening Hymns in the English language. It is found in the Lymnals of all English speaking countries, and usually in its correct and complete form. In the Hy. Comp., revised ed., 1876, Bp. Bickersteth has added a third stanza of 8 L, beginning "Father, to Thy holy keeping," and in Thring's Coll., 1882, the editor has re-arranged the hymn, omitted the lines concerning sudden death, and added a fourth stanza in 4 l., beginning "Be Thou nigh, should death o'ertake us," in which the same thought is contained in a milder form. It has been tr. into several languages. The Latin rendering, by R. Bingham, in his Hymno. Christ. Lat., 1871, is "Vespere, Salvator, spires benedicts, priusquam." In Martincau's Hys., 1840 and 1873, the opening line is changed to "Holicet, breathe an evening blessing. Orig. text in the H. Comp., st. i., ii. [J. J.]

Saviour, by Thy sweet compassion. Ada Cambridge. [In Affliction.] Pub. in her Hymns on the Litany, 1865, No. 17, in 7 st. of 8 l., and based upon the words "In all time of our tribulation . . . Good Lord, deliver us." It is given in its full and unaltered form in the Lyra Britannica, 1867,

p. 120. When used in public worship it is usually abbreviated, [J. J.]

Saviour divine, we know Thy name. P. Doddridge. [Justification.] 1st pub. in Job Orton's posthumous edition of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 132, in 6 st. of 4 1., and headed "Christ, the Lord our Righteoneness." Also in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 150. It is in C. U. sometimes in an abridged form, and also forms part of a cento in Scepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, No. 417, where st. i. is the first stanza of this hymn, and st. ii.-v. are st. iii.-vi. of I. Watts's "Lord, we confess our numerous faults," from his Hys. and Spiritual Songs, 1709, Bk. i., No. 111.

Saviour, I lift my trembling eyes. [Jesus, the Guide and Advocate.] Lord Selborne's note on this cento in his Book of Praise, 1862, No. lvii., is: --

"This hymn as here given [in 3 et. of 4 l.] was introduced into the Marylebone Collection (1851). [Gurnsy, J. H.] from a poem of some length, published in 1831, in The Iris, a volume edited by the Rev. Thomas 1841, and signed 'M. G. T.']. The text (which will be found at page 189 of that volume) is unsitered, except that the first word, 'Saviour,' has been brought down from a preceding line, in substitution for the words, 'And then,' so as to give to these stanzas an independent beginning." beginning.

These stanzes have passed into several collections, and are worthy of greater notice than they have received. We have seen the signature " M. G. T." written out as " M. G. Thompson," but we have not authority to say that this is correct. Another cento from the same poem appeared in the 3rd ed. of The Spirit of the Paulms, by H. F. Lyte, 1858, in 5 st. of 4 l., beginning "Saviour, I think upon that hour." This, reduced to 4 st., is in the Baptist Praise Bk., N. Y., 1871, and other [J. J.] American collections.

Saviour, I Thy word believe. A. M. Toplady. [Christ dwelling in Man.] Appeared in his Poems on Sacred Subjects, 1759, No. 8, in 6 st. of 8 l., and based upon the words "He dwelleth with you, and shall be in you." John xiv. 17. It is also in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Toplady's Hymns, &c., 1860. In some American collections, including the Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865, st. iii., iv., are given as "Blessed Comforter, come down," as a hymn for Whitsuntide. [J, J.]

Saviour, like a Shepherd, lead us. [The Good Shepherd.] The authorship of this hymn is a matter of some doubt. earliest source to which we have traced it is Miss D. A. Thrupp's Hymns for the Young, 4th ed. 1836, in 4 st. of 6 i., where it is unsigned. We next find it in the Rev. W. Carus Wilson's Children's Friend for June, 1839 (p. 144), again in 4 st. of 6 l., and signed "Lyte." In the January number of the same magazine there is a National Hymn in the metre of "God save the Queen" ("Lord, Thy best blessing shed"), which is signed "H. Lyte," and dated from "Brixham" (see Lyte, Lyte," and dated from "Brixham" (see Lyte, H. F., p. 705, i.). "Saviour, like a Shepherd, lead us" appears again in 1838, in Mrs. Herbort Mayo's Sel. of Hys. and Poetry for the use of Infant and Juvenile Schools, No. 171; and again in the edition of 1816, but without As in that collection several signature.

hymns and poems are signed "D. A. T.," it is clear that Mrs. Mayo did not regard the hymn as Miss Thrupp's production. The most that we can say is that the evidence is decidedly against Miss Thrupp, and somewhat uncertain with regard to Lyte as the writer of the hymu. Its use is extensive both in G. Britain [W. T. B.] and America.

Saviour of sinful men. C. Wesley. [Meeting of Friends.] Pub. in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1749, in 12 st. of 8 l. (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. v. p. 458.) In its full form it is not in C. U., but divided, or broken up into centos, it is found in modern hymn-books in the following forms :-- Saviour of sinful man, This, in 6 st., was given in the Wes, H. Bl., 1780, No. 470, and continued in later editions. It is also in other collections.

S. Grardian of sinful men. In 5 st of 41, in Martineau's Hymns, 1840, and his Hymns, &c., 1873.

Lord of the souls above. This in 6 st, of 41, 180 appeared in Martineau's Hymns, 1840, and 1813. The text is attered from the original.

4. O what a mighty shange. In 3 st. of 8 l. in the American Meth. Episcopal Hymns, 1849.

Concerning the Wes. H. Bk. arrangement of the hymn Mr. G. J. Stevenson has some pleasing reminiscences in his Meth. H. Bk. Notes, 1883, p. 301. The centos in Martinean's Hymns are specially adapted for Death and Burial. [J. J.]

Saviour of the nations, come. B. H. Kennedy, [Advent.] 1st pub. in his Hym-nología Christiana, 1863, No. 26, in 11 st. of 4 i., divided into two parts, Pt. ii. beginning, "Zion, at thy shining gates." In 1867 Dean Alford gave st. iii., v., viii.,-x., as "Come, Lord Jesus, take Thy rest," in his Year of Praise, No. 26. In the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, No. 73 is Pt. ii. from the Hymmo. Christ. as [J. J.]

Saviour, round Thy footstool bending. Elizabeth Parson, née Rooker. [Lent.] This is the most beautiful and pathetic of Mrs. Parson's hymns. It was written for her class for young people at Tavistock, and supplied to J. Curwen in Ms. It was included in Curwen's Child's H. Bk., 1840, and subsequently printed in Mrs. Parson's Willing-Class Hymns, No 9, in 3 st. of 6 l. In the Child's H. Bk. it is in 4 st. There are the following forms of the text in C. U .: -(1) that in the Child's H. Bk., in 4 at.; (2) the Willing-Class Hys., in 3 st.; (3) the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879, No. 262, where st. i., iii. and v. are the original slightly altered, and st. ii. and iv. are from Hodder's S. S. H. Bk.; and (4) that in the Silver Street (London) S. S. Companion, 1880, which is No. 2 with alterations. Through these various forms this hymn is in extensive

Saviour, Source of every blessing. [Jesus the Source of all Good.] This hymn appeared in the American Prayer Bk. Coll., 1826, in 4 st. of 4 l., and has been repeated in Episcopal Hymnal, 1871. It is a part of the well-known "Come, Thou Fount of every blessing," p. 252, i., rewritten for the Prayer Bk. Call. of 1826. [J. J.]

Saviour, to Thee we humbly cry. C. Wesley. [Intercession.] lat pub. with five others in 1745, at the end of a tract, entitled, A Short View of the Differences between the Moravian Brethren lately in England, and the Rev. Mr. John and Charles Wesley, in 6 st. of 6 L, and again in Hymns & Sacred Poems, 1749, vol. ii., No. 72. In 1780 it was included in the Wes. H. Bk., No. 449, and retained in later editions. It is also found in other collections. It is on record that the special members of the Moravians against whom Wesley wrote, taught that if a person professed faith in Christ, there was no necessity that he should manifest any corrow on account of sins past or present, but for him there was simply the acknowledgment that he was a "happy sinner," a doctrine which could have but one logical outcome. Hence the satire of at, iii. :--

In vain, till Thou the power bestow,
The double power of quickening grace,
And make the happy ainners know
The tempter with his angel face,
Who leads them captive at his will,
Captive—but happy sinners still."

Orig. text, P. Works, 1868-72, vol. v. pp. [J. J.] 244-5.

Saviour, we seek Thy high abode. I. Watts and G. Rauson. [Life a Pilgrimage.] The original of this hymn is L Watts's " Lord. what a wretched land is this" (p. 696, i.), the rewritten form being by G. Bawson, who re-wrote it for the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, No. 573. It has passed into other collections in G. Britain and America.

Saviour, when in dust to Thee. Sir B. Grant. [Lent.] 1st printed in the Christian Observer, 1815, p. 785, in 5 st. of 8 l., and entitled "Litany." In 1835 it was included in Thingship by A. Hen. No. 105 in Elliott's Ps. & Hye., No. 105, with a protest in the Preface against its mutilation, as found in some collections then in circulation, and the declaration that the text in that collection was pure. This protest was pro-bably levelled at T. Cotterill, who gave 4 st., very much altered, as "By Thy birth and early years," in his Sel. in 1819. The only change in Elliott's Ps. & Hys. from the Christian Observer, 1815, was in st. iii. I. 5., where "anguish'd sigh" was altered to "troubled sigh." Grant's hymns were republished by Lord Glenelg in 1839 as Sacred Poems. This hymn is at v. 6. This text differs from the preceding, but is claimed by Lord Glenelg to be "a more correct and authentic version. (Preface.) It is this text which is reprinted in Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise, 1862; and in the Lyra Brit., 1867, as the original. In addition to its use in the Christian Observer, Elliott's Ps. & Hys., and the Sacred Poems, forms of the text, it is also in many hymnals as:-

1. By Thy birth and early years. In Cotterill's Sci., 1918, and others, as above.
2. By Thy birth, and by Thy tears. In several hymn-books. S. Pather, when in dust to Thee. In a few American collections.

4, Joans, when in prayer to Thee. In Skinner's Daily Service Hymnat, 1864.

In addition to its very extensive use in these varying forms, it has also been to into several languages. That in Latin, by R. Bingham, in his Hymno. Christ. Lat., 1871, begins "Quando genua flectentes." [J. J.]

Saviour, Who exalted high. Bp. R. Mant. [88 James and Jude, or Lent.] Appeared in his Holydays of the Church; or Scripture

Narratives of Our Blessed Lord's Life and Ministry, &c., 1828, vol. i. p. 586, in 10 st. of irregular lines, and appropriated to SS. James and Jude. The original text is not in C. U. From it, however, the following centos have been compiled :--

1. Saviour, Who exalted high. In the 1864 Suppl. to the Pr. & Hyr. &c., Bedford, this cento is taken from 5t. i., ii., vii. and x. It is also in other collections.

2. Ban of Man, to Thee we ory. This cento in 4 st. of 6 l., beginning with the first l. of st. iii., was given in the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1863; and is also in averaged leader collections.

the Cooke and Derival Algorithm, and the control beginning with et. ii., appeared in the 1803 sppendix to the S. P. C. K. Pt. & Hys., No. 50, in 4 at. of 61. This, with the acception of the opening line, is from the Cooke with the acception of the opening line, is from the Cooke and Theorem 1 with a return, in several instances, with the exception of the opening line, is from the Cooke and Denton Hyssaud with a return, in several instances, to the original text. It is repeated in the S. F. C. K. Church Hyssau, 1871, as "Son of Man, to Thee I cry."

4. Jeans Christ exalted high. This, in T. Darling's Hyssau, &c., 1887, is in 4 st. of 12 l. In the earlier editions of Darling's Hyssau, &c., it began "Jesus, now evaled high."

exulted high."

The popular form of this hymn is the third cento as above. [J. J.]

Saviour, Who ready art to hear. C. Wesley. [The Divine Presence desired.] Appeared in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1740, in 6 st. of 4 l., and headed "On a Journey." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 304.) With slight alterations, and the omission of st. i., it was given in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, as No. 205, and has passed into numerous collections as "Talk with us, Lord, Thyself reveal," and in some as "Speak with us, Lord, Thyself re-veal." The stanza which has attained to the greatest repute is:---

> " With Thee conversing, I forget. All time, and toil, and care; Labour is rest and pain is swe-If Thou, my God, art there.'

Possibly the ideas embodied in these lines had their brigin in Milton's Par. Loct, bk. iv., il. 639, 640 :--

"With thee conversing, I forget all time, All seasons and their change; all please alike."

The hymn, as a whole, is very popular with the various Methodist bodies. See G. J. Stevenson's Meth. H. Bk. Notes, 1888. [J. J.]

Saxby, Jane Euphemia, nee Browne, daughter of William Browne of Taliantiro Hall, Cumberland, and sister of Lady Teignmouth, was b. Jan. 27, 1811, and married, in 1862, to the Rev. S. H. Saxby, Vicer of East Clevedon, Somersetshire. Her work, The Dove on the Cross, was pub. In 1849. It has passed into numerous editions, and from it several hymns have come into C. U. This was followed by The Voice of the Bird, in 1875; and Aunt Effice Gift to the Nursery, 1876. Sometimes Mrs. Saxby's Dove on the Cross is dated 1819, but in error. The compilation known as Hys. and Thoughts for the Sick and Lonely, by a Lady, Lond., J Nisbet & Co., 1848, although it contains several of her hymns in an altered form, is ascribed to her in error. Mrs. Saxby's hymns in C. U. include:

1. Father, into Thy loving hands. Resignation.
2. O Jesos Christ, the holy One. Holy Communion.
3. O Holy Ghost, the Comforter. Whitmutide.
4. Shew me the way, O Lord. Guidance desired.
5. Thou art with me, O my Father. God everywhere.
5. Thou God of love, beneath Thy sheltering wings. Burial.

Of these hymns, Nos. 1, 3, 4, and 6, appeared in her Dore on the Cross, 1849. No. 2 appeared in the English Presbyterian Ps. & Hys. for Divine Worship, 1867, No. 340, in 5 st of 4 l. It was supplied to Dr. W. F. Stevenson in Ms. in 6 st. for his Hys. for the Church and Home, 1873. The additional stanza (the 4th) given in his Notes is:—

"As Thou hast placed beyond my reach Thy richest means of grace, Teach me without them, Saviour, teach My soul to see Thy face."

The point and meaning of this stanza is explained by the fact that this hymn "was written for one who by illness was prevented joining in the Communion." The hymn was included in The Voice of the Bird, 1875. Mrs. Saxby's hymns are very plaintive and tender. This is explained by her thus:—"I wrote most of my published hymns during a very long and distressing illness, which lasted many years. I thought probably that I was then in the 'Bordor Land,' and wrote accordingly." D. Mar. 25, 1898. [J. J.]

Bay, grows the rush without the mire. [Fute of the Wicked. Job viti. 11-22.] Although sometimes attributed to Watta, to the present this hymn has not been traced to his works, and the earliest date at which it is found is in the Draft Scottish Translations and Paraphrases of 1745, No. xxiv.. Therein it is given as a Paraphrase of Job viti. 11-22, in 7 st. of 4!. Copies of this draft being very rare, we subjoin the text:—

- Say, grows the Rush without the Mire? the Flag without the Stream? Green and uncut, it quinkly fades; the Wickel's Face's the same.
- "Slight is his Hope, cut off and broke: or if entire it rise, Yet, as the Spider's Web, when try'd, it yieldeth, breaks and flice.
- "Fixt on his House he leans, his House and all its Props decay; He holds it fast, but faster still the tottring Frame gives way.
- "The" in his Garden to the Sun his Boughs with vordure smile; And, to the Center struck, his Roots unshaken stand a while;
- "Yet, when from Heav'n his Sentence flies, be's burried from his Place: It then denies bim for its Lord, nor owns it knew his Face,
- "Lo, this the Joy of wicked Men, who Heav'm just Laws despise; They quickly fall, and in their room as quickly others rise.
- "But Goo his Pow'r will for the Just with tender Care employ: He'll fill their Mouths with Songs of Praise, and fill their Hearts with Joy."

The recast of this hynn, beginning:—
"The rush may rise where waters flow, and flags beside the stream;"

which was pub. in the authorized Trans. and Paraphs. of 1781, No. vi., in 7 st. of 4 l., is claimed for W. Camsson (p. 200, 1) by his eldest daughter, in her list of authors and revisers.

[J. J.]

Say, why should friendship grieve for those P [Death and Burial.] This hymn appeared in the Exangelical Magazine in 1820, in 6 st. of 4 l., headed "On seeing a mourning rence Petersen (Laurentius Petri Gothus), ring inscribed with the words 'Not lost, but gone before,'" and is signed "B. C.," the signature, it is said, of Benjamin Clask. In the enlarged ed. of Ps. & Hys., 1864, by Morrell and How it was given in a re-written form in 4 st. of 4 l. as "Why mourn the dead with hopeless tears?" This in a slightly different form was in Kennedy, 1863. The 1820 text is in P. Maurice's Choral H. Bk., 1861.

Scales, Thomas, was b. at Leeds, Dec. 16, 1786, and educated at the Moravian School at Fulneck, and at the Leeds Grammar School. He received his training for the Congregational ministry at Hoxton College, where he entered in 1806, and of which he was for a short time Classical Tutor. He was successively Congregational minister at Wolverhampton (1810) and Leeds (1819). He remained at Leeds thirty years, and was then appointed (1849) Secretary of the Northern Congregational School at Silcoats. He afterwards became the Secretary of the "Balme Charity." He d. at Cleck-heaton, June 24, 1860. (Miller's Singers and Songs of the Church, 1869, p. 398.) Mr. Scales is known as a contributor to, and one of the Editors of, A Sel. of Hys. for the Use of the Protestant Dissenting Congregations of the Independent Order, in Leeds, 1822, known as the Leeds H. Bk., 1822. [See Congregational Ryanody, p. 289, i.] His hynn on Missions, "Amazing was the grace," contributed thereto. is still in C. U.  $\{J, J,\}$

Scandinavian Hymnody. Up to the period of the Reformation the churches of Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and feeland, like the rest of the churches of Europe, were fursished with Latin hymns only. Of these (many of them peculiar to Sweden) a collection has been published by G. E. Klemming under the title Latinska Sånger fordom undada i Svenska Kyrker, Kloster, ech Skoler, 4 vols. (Stockholm, 1885-7). The Reformation gave throughout the North, as elsewhere, the signal for the production of the vernacular hymn. There, as elsewhere, the Church's Deborah, when she repeated and obeyed the cry "awake," also began to "utter a song." It may not be amiss to preface the history of that song with a short sketch of the events of her awakening.

I. The Reformation.—I. The dissolution of the union of Calmar, which from 1337 to 1523 linked together Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Iceland under one menarch, piaced Gustavus Vasa on the throne of Sweden. He at once declared for the Reformed dectrines, as preached by Luther and Melanchthon. With the help of Lawrence Petersen, the Arch-bishop of Upsala, and Lawrence Andersen, the Chancellor, he ultimately persuaded the majority of his people, in spite of the sturdy opposition of Bishop Brask of Linköping, to accept a reformation on Lutheran lines. son and successor Erik xiv., a weak and unfortunate monarch, adopted the gloomier views of Calvin; and his deposition in 1569, and the death of Archbishop Petersen in 1578, rendered it easy for King John 111. (second sou of Gustavus) to arrange a reactionary movement, in which he was aided by another Law-who followed the first Lawrence at Upsala. The reaction was short-lived, and the Lutheran reformation was finally established in Sweden at the synod of Upsaia, held in 1598, during the roign of Sigismund (son of John), but under the auspices of Charles Duke of Södermanland, the third son of Gustavus, afterwards king under the title of Charles ix. At this synod the Confession of Augsburg was formally adopted by the Church of Sweden.

2. In Denmark also, under Frederik L, the Lutheran reformation was adopted, after considerable opposition; and Christiern III., son of Frederik, completed the task his father had begun. Not being able to persuade the Danish prelates to officiate at his conscoration, or not wishing to avail himself of their services, he was crowned, with a ceremonial adapted from the Roman Pontifical, by John Bugenhagen, a preacher from Wittenberg. Bugenhagen was certainly not a bishop, and there is considerable doubt whether he had oven received priest's orders: he took upon himself, however—as Wesley did more than two centuries after—to perform the office of episcopal consecration (1537), and set apart bishops or "superintendents" to fill the an-cient sees. A Diet at Odense, in 1539, finally bound Denmark to the principles and practice of the Reformed, or, more correctly speaking, Protestant followers of Luther.

8. The year 1587 witnessed the final union of Norway with Denmark, begun in 1523.* The Norwegians had shown no great readiness to accept the Reformation as offered them by King Frederik. Christiern, however, took summary measures. The Archbishop of Trondhjem and his followers made some re-sistance, but the king carried his point, and Lutheranism was established in Norway as it had been in Denmark.

4. In Iceland the work was carried on by Einarsen, who in 1540 was elevated, at the age of 25, to the office of bishop, or superintendent, of Skalholt. Jon Arasen, Bishop of Holar (or Holum), headed the opposition, and endeavoured to excite a rebellion, but was arrested and put to death in 1650.

II. Hymn-writers and Hymns.—Sweden.— The first hymn-writers of reformed Sweden were the two renowned brothers, condjutors of Gustavus in the work of reformation, Olaf and Lawrence (or Lars) Peterson, better known by the Latinized names of Olaus and Laurentius Petri.

1. Olaf Petersen was b. in 1497. He was carly predisposed in favour of the Reformed doctrines, and in 1517, instead of resorting to the Swedish university of Upsala, preferred to study at Wittenberg, where he heard Melanchthon and Luther. Returning in 1520, full of reforming zeal, he received holy orders, and in 1524 was made rector of the church of S. Nicholas in Stockholm. In 1540 he was convicted of a guilty knowledge of a conspiracy against King Gustavus, and condemned to death. He was pardened, though the king never forgave him; and in 1543 he was appointed to another cure in Stockholm. He died in 1552.

2. Lawrence Petersen was b. in 1499, and studied at Upsala, where he became professor in or about 1524. He was a man of more gentleness and discretion than his Impetuous brother Olaf: and this, combined with his high reputation for theological learning, and his known inclination towards a quiet and conservative reformation, induced the clergy to elect him, and the king to appoint him, in 1531, Archbishop of Upsala, and Primete of Sweden. It is not our business to enter into the vexed question of his consecration. That he took a journey to Rome on his appointment seems tolerably clear; but the registers of the period have unhappily been burnt; and whether he really received the laying on of hands there, or, like Bugouhagen, laid hands on others without having received the commission himself, is still a matter of doubt. He is certainly the father of Swedish hymnology. Besides his original compositions he made many translations from Latin and German; and his hymns have been largely borrowed in Denmark. The similarity of the two languages, Danish and Swedish, especially in their older forms, renders transference from the one to the other particularly easy. The Archbishop d., universally beloved and regretted, in 1573.

3. The two Andersens, Lawrence Archdencon of Upsala, and Peter Bishop of Westerds, seconded the Petersons in their poetical work as well as in their reforming measures. The title of their hymn-book, published in 1586, was:--

Swenske tongor eller when me på nytt prentade, forökade, och under en annan skick ön tilförense utsatte. ("Swedish Songs or Hymms, now newly printed, sularged, and published in a different form from the preceding one.")

The first of the two, Laurence or Lars (Laurentius Andrew), was b. at Strenguis in 1480. He became in 1523 Chancellor of the Diocese of Upsala, and shortly afterwards Chancellor, or Chief Secretary, to King Guslavus. It was owing in a great measure to his influence that the Diet of the kingdom adopted the Reformed doctrines in 1527. In 1526 he brought out, with the help of Olaf Peterson, a Swedish version of the New Testament, based mainly upon Luthere German translation, and in 1511 a version of the whole Bible. He was accused in 1540 of complicity in the plot in which Olaf Petersen was involved; and, like him, was condemned to death, but pardoned. He retired to Strengmas, where he d. in 1552. Peter Andersen, nickunmed Swart (Petrus Andrew Niger), was b. about the end of the 15th cent. He became court chaplain to King Guslavus in 1549, Bishop of Westeras in 1556, and d. in 1562, leaving behind him the reputation of an able and high-principled man. may note also that the ill-fated king Erik (b. 1593, d. by poison 1577) has also left a couple of hymns, both of which seem to echo his unhappy state of mind. One is a paraphrase of the 51st Psalm:—

Beklaga af allt Sinne mā jag min Sjāla ucd. (Bowail with all my mind must I my soul's distress.)

the other is not much unlike it:-

* The two kingdoms were newly adjusted in 1811, when Norway was taken from Denmark, and united with Sweden, Denmark retaining Iceland. This arrangement still subsists.

O Gud, hvem skall jag kisga den Sorg jag mäste draga, så arm och syndefull i (O God, how öball I lament the sorrow I must bear so poor and sinful i) Erik's is, however, not the only royal name ( that appears in the Swedish hymnary. great Gustavus Adolphus (b. 1594, d. 1632), s. of Charles IX., is the author of the "Battle Hymn," his "swan-song," as it was called, written just before, and published shortly after, his death at Littzen, in 1632 (see pp. 54, ii.; 66, i.). It begins thus:-

Förfaras cj. du illia Hop, fast Flendernas Larm och Rop från alis Sidor akalla.

4. The succession of hymn-writers, begun by Archbishop Petersen, was kept up in Sweden during the succeeding contury. Otaf Martiness (b. 1577, appointed Archbishop of Upsala in 1601, d. 1609) heads the list. He was followed by Jonas Petersess (b. 1587, d. 1644), Bishop of Linköping in 1637; Count Lindskjöld (1634-1690), a distinguished professor in the university of Upsala, and chancellor of that of Lund, which was founded in 1668; Count de la Gardie (1622-1686), Swedish Ambassador at the French court, to whem the University of Upsala owes the priceless Codex Argenteus of the Gothic gospels; to whom we may add Peter Brask (d. 1690), son of a rector of St. Clara's in Stockholm, and a collateral descendant of the Bishop Brask who was so stout an antagonist of Gustavus Vusa,

5. In the 18th cent, we find the hymnary enriched by a third Archbishop of Upsala, Dr. Haquin Spegel (1645-1714). He was a great traveller, having visited Denmark, Germany, Holland, and England; and was bishop of Skara, and afterwards of Linköping, before he was elevated to the Primacy. Jacob Arrhenius (d. 1725), secretary of and professor in the University of Upsale, was another sacred poet; so was the renowned Olaf Rudbeck (1660-1740), professor of botany at Upsala. A yet more eminent name is that of fasper Swedberg. He was b. at Fahlun, in 1653, and studied at Upsals. After travelling, like Spegel, and serving as pastor of a parish, he was appointed (1692) professor of divinity at Upsala, and in 1702 became bishop of Skara, a post he held for 33 years. His name is sepecially interesting to us as being one of the earliest on the list of our Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Later on we find S. L. Odmann, professor of pastoral theology at Upsala, in 1806; S. J. Hedborn (1783-1849), pastor of Askeryd: J. Astrom (1767-1814), pastor of Tuna; and a lady, Fru Lenngren, wife of the Secretary of the Board of Trade (1754-1817), whose hymn begins with the sad words :-

Suart Döden skall det Oja i Soon must death close the that long shed tears of som länge Sorgens Tärer SOITOW.

The last and greatest name in the Swedish hymnody, however, is that of Johan Olaf Wallin. He was b. at Stora Tuna, in 1779, and early displayed his poetics! powers. In 1805, and again in 1809, he gained the chief prize for poetry at Upsals. In the latter year he became pastor at Solna; here his ability as a preacher was so striking that he was transferred to Stockholm, in 1815, as "pastor primarius," a title for which we have no exact equivalent. In 1818 he was made Dean of Westerss, and set about the task of editing a revised hymn-book for the whole of This task he completed in 1819, 8weden. and pub. it as. Den Swenska Psalmboken, af Konungen gillad och stadfästad (" The Swedish hymn-book, approved and confirmed by the King "). To it he contributed some 150 hymns of his own, besides translations and recestings : and the book remains now in the form in which he brought it out. It is highly prized by the Swedes, and is in use everywhere. Those who desire to know more of Ewedish hymnology, and can read Swedish, will find a full and exhaustive review of the book, with a history of and critique on every hymn in it, in J. W. Beckmann's Försök til Svensk Psalmhistoria (Stockholm, 1845)

ii. 1. The earliest hymnary of Denmark and Norway, and perhaps the earliest complete one of the whole North, was brought out at Malmö in 1528, by Claus Martenson Tondebinder (1500-1576), who deserves the name not only of the first evangelical preacher in Malmo, but also of the Father of Danish hymnology. The book contained a number of translations from the original Latin, from German (Lu-ther's), and from Swedish (Peterson's), so well as some originals. Martenson subsequently recast it, with the aid of his friends Arvid Petersen and Hans Spendemager; and the book was printed and published at Rostock, by L. Dietz, in 1529; just 10 years before that diet of Odense at which Denmark (as has been said before) accepted the principles of the Reformation. The book contains a set of prayers, pealms, hymns, and canticles, and is entitled, Hen my Handbog, med Praimer or acmdelige Laf-sange, vodragme off then heltige Schrift, som may then Christone Porazming (Gud itil Laf or Mennisken till Salighed) riunges ("A new hand-book, with psaime and spiritual songs of praise, derived from Holy Writ, which now are song in the Christian assembly to God's praise and men's salvation")."

This book was reproduced, with some changes and additions, by Hans Jansen, Bishop of Ribe, in 1544, and in 1569 by Hans Thomisson, rector of Vor Frue (Our Lady) in Copenhagen.

2. This book, or rather these books, continued to be the hymnary of the Danish and Norwegian Lutherans for more than a century. The poet who had the honour of beginning to re-edit it was Thomas Kingo. He was b. at Slangerup in 1634, and, after completing bis theological studies, became in 1668 pastor of his untive place. Here he brought out, in 1674, his Andelige Sjunge-cker ("Spiritual Choral-songs"). The book attracted attention; and in 1677 its author, who had published meanwhile other poetical effusions, was made Bishop of Fyen (Funen). In 1683 he was desired to prepare a new hymn-book, to be authorized for Denmark and Norway. The first part of it appeared in 1689, as Danmarks og Norges Kirkers forordnede Salmebog ("The authorized Hynn-book of the Churches of Denmark and Norway"), and was received with a storm of disapprobation. There were many who admired the work, but an almost equal number exclaimed against it. There were, they said, too many of his own compositions in it; the hymns were too high flown, above the heads of the common people. The criticism was unfairly severe. No doubt some of Kingo's hymns are cold; and some, perhaps, evince what the Pietists of the next century professed to find in them, a little tendency to what they called Rationalism, and we might term undue breadth. But a rationalizer could scarcely merit the name given to Kingo, the poet of Easter-tide.

* It has been republished by C. W. Brunn in his collection of Danish hymraries (1865), part r.

3. In 1690 a committee was appointed to supercede Kingo, and finish the hynn-book. They worked on Kingo's lines, and put in many of his compositions, and the book finally appeared in 1699 as :-

appeared in 1699 as :—
Den forordade by Kiviz-Psalme-Bog, efter hand Konglige Mayestests allermanigate befolking of de ornemate Gestlige's Ejobenhaf'n til Guda Tjenette pan Sindayen, Fasterse, Bededagene og til duden gudelig Rung i Kivizen util Danmark og Norpe of peaulig anaderige Sange ordentitig indrettet og fisitetigen igjennemeed og med manye by Paulime III Trykken befordret af Thomas Kingo, Bitleop util Frent Stift.

("The authorized new Church hymn-book, mitably udapted from old spiritual songs and carefully ravised, and euriched with many new hymna, according to his Majenty's most gracious command, by the principal clergy in Copenhagen, for the service of God on Sundays, festivals, prayer-days, and for other godly uses in the Church in Denmark and Norway, and in like manner according to the rayal command prepared for the press by Thomas Kingo, Bishop in the Diocese of Funen.")

Kingo felt keenly the alight put upon him.

Kingo felt keenly the slight put upon him. He survived it, however, some 12 years or more, dying in 1703. Whatever may be said of him as a hymn-writer and compiler, there is no doubt he was a true poet, and superior to all who preceded him.

4. His book, or rather the book of 1699, continued in use throughout Denmark; not, however, without attempts being made to reform it. The first effort was made by Hans Adolf Brorson. He was b. in 1694, at Randrup, where his father was pastor. He entered the University of Copenhagen in 1712. After finishing his theological course he first acted as his father's assistant, and then (1729) as prescher at Tönder in Slesvig. Here he began to display his powers and tastes by publishing a collection of religious poems entitled Troess rare Klenodie, 1739 ("The Faith's rare Jewel.") His opinions were of the Pietist school, opposed to the dry "orthodoxy" (so-called) of the day, which was said to prevail in Kingo's hymns. A few years after this he was made Dean of Ribe; and in 1741 King Christiern VI. (who inclined in the Pietist direction), being charmed with his hymn "Op, al den Ting som Gud har gjört" ("Up, everything that God has made"), appointed him Bishop of Ribe, where he d. in 1764. Brorson's contributions to Danish hymnody are not all original; three-fourths are translations or paraphrases of German Lutheran hymns. His Christmas lyrics are most approved; and he is called par excellence the poet of Christmas. Brorson, however, was poet rather than editor. The hymn-book which he projected, and to which he largely contributed, was brought out in 1740, under the title Den ny Salmebog "The new hymn-book"), by Erik Pontoppidan, a relative of the well-known Bishop of Trondhjem, who d. in 1678. Erik was b. in d, in 1764, leaving, like his renowned relative, a number of works on natural history and antiquities. Another effort in the direction of a new hymn-book was made by O. H. Gukiberg, secretary to Prince Frederick, who, sided by Bishop L. Harboc, Fru Brigitta Boye (b. 1742, d. 1824), and others, produced in 1778 a hymn-book under the title :--

Salmedog, eller en Samling af gamle og ny Salmer, til Guds Ære og Hans Mentskeds Opdyggelse. ("A bymn-book, or a collection of old and new bymna, for the honour of God, and the edification of Hils Charch.")

5. Towards the end of the 18th century a further attempt to effect a revision of Kingo's book was made by N. H. Balle, Bishop of Seeland; who wished, like Brorson, to see more unction and less stiffness in Danish psalmody. The book appeared in 1797 as Evangelish-Kristelig Salmebog, til Brug ved Kirke- og Hus-Andagt. ("Evangelical Christian Hymn-book for use in Church and Home Worship.") But the attempt was not successful. Balle's hymn-book, though well-meant, was poor and unpoetical. The book of Kingo remained in use till an impetus was given to the tendency to revision by the great reformer of Danish hymnology and theology, the well known Pastor Grundtvig, an admirer of Balle and of Kingo too. Nicolai Frederik Severin Grundtrig was the son of a pastor, and was b. at Udby, in Seeland, in 1783. He studied in the University of Copenhagen from 1800-1805; and, like some other eminent men, did not greatly distinguish himself; his mind was too active and his imagination too versatile to bear the restraint of the academic course. After leaving the university he took to teaching; first in Langeland, then (1808) in Copenhagen. Here ho devoted his attention to postry, literature, and Northern antiquities. In 1810 he became assistant to his father in a parish in Jutland. The sermon he preached at his ordination, on the subject "Why has the Lord's word disappeared from His house," attracted much attention, which is rarely the case with "probationers" sermons. On his father's death, in 1813, he returned to Copenhagen, and for eight years devoted himself mainly to litera-ture. The poetry, both secular and religious, that he produced, drew from a friend the remark that "Kingo's harp had been strong afresh." In 1821 King Frederik vr. appointed him pastor of Praside, a parish in Secland, from which he was the next year removed to Copenhagen, and made chaplain of St. Saviour's church in Christianshayn. From the time of his ordination he had been deeply impressed with Evangelical church sentiments, in opposition to the fashionable Rationalism and Erastianism of the day; and adhered to the antirationalist teaching of Hauge, whose death at this time (1824) seemed to be a call to Grundtvig to lift up his voice. An opportunity soon presented itself; Professor Chansen brought out a book entitled Katholicismens og Protestantismens Forfatning, Läre, og Ritus ("The condition, teaching, and ritual of Catholicism and Protestantism"). This book was replete with the Erastian Rationalism which was so especially distast-ful to Grundtvig, who forthwith, in his Kirkens Gjenmæle ("The Church's 1698, became Bishop of Bergen in 1748, and Reply," 1825), strongly opposed its teaching, and laid down truer principles of Christian belief, and sounder views of the nature of the Church. This caused a sensation; Grundtvig (who had not spared his opponent) was fined 100 rix-dollars, and the songs and hymns which he had written for the coming celebration of the tenth centenary of Northern Christianity were forbidden to be used. On this he resigned his post at St. Saviour's, or rather was forced to quit it by a sentence of suspension which was pronounced in 1826, and under which he was kept for 13 years. He took the opportunity of visiting England in 1829, 30, and 31, and consulting its libraries, mainly with a view to a further insight into Northern antiquities, and to help his studies in the early English tongue. His edition of Cynewulf's beautiful poem of the Phenix from the Codex Exoniensis,—the Angle-Saxon (secalled) text, with a preface in Danish, and a fri Fordanskning (free rendering in Danish), published in 1840,—is a result of this journey Tired of his long and enforced loisure. silence, his numerous friends and admirers proposed to erect a church for him, and form themselves into an independent congrega-tion, but this was not permitted. He was allowed, however, to hold an afternoon service in the German church at Christianshavn. There he preached for eight years, and compiled and wrote his hymn-book, Sang-Värk til den Danske Kirke ("Song-work for the Danish Church"). He still worked on towards his object of raising the Christian body to which he belonged from the condition of a mere state establishment to the dignity of a gospelteaching national church. In 1839 (the year of the death of King Frederik vi., and the accession of his cousin Christiern VIII.) the suspension was removed, and he was appointed chaplain of the hospital Varten, a position which he held till his death. In 1863 the king (Frederik vII.) conferred on him the honorary title of bishop. The good old man died suddenly, in his 80th year, on Sopt. 2, 1872, having officiated the day before. Kingo is the poet of Easter, and Brorson of Christmas, so Grandtvig is spoken of as the poet of Whitsuntide.

6. With Grundtvig we cannot but join the prose writer and poet Bernhard Severin Ingemann. He was b., he tells us in his Lennetshog (an autobiography of his first soventeen years), at the parsonage of Torkildskrup in Falster, in 1789, the youngest of five sons. The death of his father in 1800 compelled the family to leave the parsonage for Siagelse, where he was sent to school. This he left in 1806 to enter at Copenhagen. A second autobiography, Tilbageblik pua mit Liv ag min Forfatter-Periode fra 1811-1887 ("A retrospect of my life and my time of authorship from 1811 to 1837"), gives us an account of twenty-five years more. It was intended as a preface to an edition of his works which was soon forthcoming. It describes a quiet gentle life of continued literary occupation, begun by an interesting tour in 1818-19 through France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. Twenty-five years more passed, and the good man went to his rest in 1862 by a calm and painless decease, smidst the deepest regrets of all who knew him.

7. The impulse given by Grundtvig could not be resisted. In 1855 a clerical synod at Roeskilde (the Canterbury of Denmark) drew up and brought out a new Salmebog, which has been sanctioned for general use. It appeared as Salmebogen til Kirko-og Hus-Andagt. ("Hymnbook for Church and Hone Worship"). The revision was intrusted to Ingemann. It is founded upon the old book of Kingo, but contains many new hymns, chiefly by Brosson, Grundtvig, Ingemann, and C. F. Boye; and has already reached the dignity of an Appendix, to which those authors contribute about four-fifths.

iii. The Norwegians have in the main followed the lead of Denmark in their hymns. Kingo's book has been the authorized hymnary, or the basis at least of those in use. But they have allowed themselves considerable freedom, and Pontoppidan's, Guldberg's, and still later on, Hauge's revisions of it have been used largely in Norway. To give an instance, one of these popular hymn-books (Christiania, 1844) is Kingo's, or rather Guldberg's, book in the main, but the language is modernized. It is called, like Baile's, Evangelish-christelig Prolinebog ("Evangelical Christian Hymnbook"), and has bound up with it, as is the case with most of the Swedish and Danish hymn-books, the Collects, Epistics, and Gospels, a series of prayers for various occasions, and the history of the Passion, as given in the official prayer-book, or Alter-Bog. A note on the title-page declares it to be "aftrykt efter original-Udgavon....og udgivet efter Foranstaltning of det Kongerige Departement for Kirke-og Undervissings-Væsenet" ("printed according to the original edition...and published according to direction of the royal department for the conduct of the Church and education?

2. The book now most generally used throughout Norway was authorized in 1869 under the title of Kirke-Salme-Boges ("The Church Hymn-book"). It was edited, on the basis of existing books, by Magnus B. Land stad, a clergyman b. in 1802 and still surviving. He served in several different cures, and always had a deep interest in church psalmody. One of the most popular home hymn-books is that pub. in 1851 by Johan Nicolai Frantzen, a clergyman of Christiania (1808-68), and called Christelige Psalmer til Husandagt og Skolebrug ("Christian hymns for domestic worship and the use of Schools"). But there is still a great desire in Norway for a general Salmebog for Kirke og Hjem ("Hymn-book for Church and Home").

iv. Iseland followed, but slowly, in the track of Doumark. For a long time the hymn-book consisted of translations of a few of the earlier hymns of Martensön's collection: it was published under the name of Graduale, which was explained to mean Messu-saungs bök ("The Mass-song book"). The last edition of the Graduale appeared with the name of Bishop Magnussen, in 1773. Since that time the Danish books have been used, in the Icelandic longuage. One of the last, if not the last, of the attempts to follow the lead of 1855, is the hymn-book of Thordersen (Reykjavik, 1861), entitled Nyr vidbetir vid hina evangelishu sälmabök ("New contributions to the evangelical psalm-book").

v. Conclusion. The hymnody of the Scandinavian North is decidedly subjective in its character, rather than objective. The earlier hymns, certainly, were doctrinal and invocative, but the later are, to a great extent, expressive of religious sentiments, hopes, and fears, rather than of definite objective faith and worship. That we might borrow with advantage from our kinsfolk is not to be doubted. Mr. G. Tait's Hymns of Denmark, (1868) especially, supplies a store from which to cull flowers for transplantation into our own "spiritual rose-garden." The similarity of the Northern Lutheran ritual and Church constitution to ours,-the fact, in short, that so much that is Catholic has survived the Reformation among them,- makes religious thought in the North to run, to some extent, on the same lines with our own. On the other hand, they are thoroughly Erastian and Lutheran. Beligion is a State department, and Luther is the guide rather than primitive Catholicity. Under these circumstances we find, unavoidably, a want of backbone in their Church songs now and then. But there is much affinity between Swedish and English devotion, as will be seen in the few translations which are available for English use in Gilbert Tait's Hymns of Denmark, 1868, already mentioned, and his Hymns of Sweden rendered into English; three renderings of Swedish hymns by Mrs. Charles, in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858; Baring-Gould's "Through the night of doubt and sorrow," and a few others. The following is a specimen, from the Danish poet Brorson, of the style of hymn which largely prevails in the North:-

"Den Grund hvorpaa jeg bygge Er Christus og Kans Ded; I Josu Pines Skygge Er Sjælens Hvile sid: Der har jeg fundet lAvet; Selv er jeg intet værd; Hvad Jesus mig har givet Gjör mig for God saa kjær. Ei Annders Kraft og Even, Ei Fyrstendömmers Mogt, Ei hvad man veed at nævne Af Haanhed og Foragt, Ei Stort og ei det Ringe,
Ei Sortig eiler Savn,
Ei Döden selv skal tvinge
Mig udaf Jesu Favn

This may be rendered:-

"I build on one foundation,
On Christ Who died for me;
Sheltered by Jesu's passion
My soul at rest shall be:
"Tis there the life of heaven
Poor worthless I obtain;
Through what my Lord has given
The Father's love I gain. " No craft or deep invention, No erant or deep invention,
No princely power or might,
Nor aught that man can mention
Of mocking or despite.
Nor weak, nor strong endeavour,
Nor want's or sorrow's smart,
Nor death itself, shull sever
My soni from Jesu's Heart."

The plaintiveness of a large proportion of these Northern hymns is very marked, whilst the strength of their writers' personal faith is undeniable. The blending of the two, as in the above illustration, often produces a most [R. T.] pleasing result.

Schade, Johann Caspar, s. of Jakob Schad or Schade, pastor and decan at Kühn-dorf, near Suhl, in Thuringia, was b. at Kühndorf, Jan. 18, 1666. He entered the University of Leipzig in 1685 (where he became a great friend of A. H. Francke), and then went to Wittenberg, where he graduated w.s. in 1687. On his return to Leipzig he began to hold Bible readings for the students. This soon raised ill-will against him among the Leipzig professors, and when, in 1690, he was invited to become discouns at Würzen, near Leipzig, they interfered and prevented his settlement. In 1691 he was invited to become diaconus of St. Nicholas's church, at Berlin (where P. J. Spener had just become probst, or chief pastor), and entered on his work there on the 2nd S. in Advent. In his later years he raised a storm of feeling against himself by refusing to hear private confessions. The Elector of Brandenburg, in order to end the strife, appointed him, in June 1698, pastor at Dorenburg, near Helberstadt. Meantime he was seized with a fever, which ended fatally at Berlin, July 25, 1098 (Koch, iv. 222, 468; Wetzel, iii, p. 23, &c.).

Wetzel, iii. p. 23, &c.).
Schade was a most carnest and faithful pastor sind preacher, and especially interested himself in the children of his flock. As a hymn-writer be was not particularly prolific, but of his 35 hymne a good many passed into the German hymn-books of the period. His hymne are clear and simple in style, are composed in a considerable variety of metres, and are full of fervent love to the Lord Jesus, and of zeal for a living and practical Christianity; but they are frequently span out, or are so subjective. A number appeared in A. Lappins's Antichity tingender Christenmung, Wesel, 1692-94, and in the Gentreicher G. B., Halle, 1697. They were collected and posthumously pub as Fasciculus Cuntionum, Bastit ausenmen getragene gentliche Lieder, &c., Castrin, v. D. (1699). Cdetrin, M.D. [1699].

Those of Schade's hymns which have passed into English are:

- i. Auf! hinauf! zu deiner Freude. Fuith. 1st pub. in the Geistreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 402, in 6 st. of 8 l.; repeated in 1699, as above, p. 83. Recently, as No. 403, in the Unc. L. S., 1851. The trs. in C. U. are:—
- 1. Up! yes upward to thy gladness Rise, my heart. This is a good and full tr., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 171, repeated in full in Reid's Praise Bk., 1872, and, omitting st. v., in Kennedy, 1863. In her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 157, it is slightly altered, and st. iii. is omitted.
- 2. Bise, my soul! with jey and gladness. A fr. of at. i., ii., vi., by F. C. C., as No. 233 in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864.

Other tre. are:-

(1) "Look up, my soul, to Christ thy joy," by J. B. Holmes, as No. 1000 in the Supp. of 1808 to the Moration H. Bit., 1801 (1806, No. 600), repeated in Ep. Ryle's Call., 1802. (2) "Upwards, upwards to thy gladness," by Miss Lunn, 1867, p. 13. (3) "Up | yes upward to thy gladness, Rise, my soul," by W. Roid in bis Praise Bit. 1812.

ii. Meine Seel ermuntre dieb. Passiontide. In the Geistreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 215, in 15 st. of 6 l., repeated in 1699, as above, p. 9, entitled "Contemplation of the suffering of Christ and surrender of His will." In the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 108. Tr. as, "Rouse thyself, my Soul, and dwell." In the Suppl. to Gor. Psalmody, ed. 1765, p. 20, and in Scleet Hys. from Ger. Psalmody, Tranquebar, 1754, p. 31.

iii. Meine Seele willt du ruhn. This hymn, frequently ascribed to Schade, is noted under Schoffler, J., p. 1007, ii.

Schaff, Philip, D.D., LL.D., was b. at Chur, Switzerland, Jan. 1, 1819. He studied at the Universities of Tübingen, Halle, and Berlin. In 1843 he was appointed a Professor in the German Reformed Theological Seminary at Mcrcersburg, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., and in 1870 Professor of Sacred Literature in the Union Seminary, New York. As translator, author, and editor, Dr. Schaff holds high rank, both in Great Britain and America. The various Histories and Encyclopedias which he has edited are standard works. His knowledge of hymnelogy is extensive, and embraces hymns in many languages and of all ages, his speciality being German hymnody. The hymnological works which he has edited alone, or jointly with others, are:—

(1) Bentrekes Gerangbuch, 1860; (2) Christ in Song, a most valuable collection of original English and American hymna, and translated hymna, N.Y. 1868, Lond, 1870; (3) Hya. and Songt of Praise for Public and Social Worskip, 1874, in which he was assisted by Boswell D. Hitcheuck, and Zachary Eddy, (4) Library of Religious Poetry, 1881, of which A. Gilman was joint editor.

Dr. Schaff has not composed any original hymns. His irs, from the Latin are meritorious, and may be found through the Index of Authors, &c. He d. Oct. 20, 1893. [J. J.]

Schalling, Martin, a of Martin Schalling, sometime pastor at Strassburg (after 1543, pastor at Weitersweiler, near Saarbrücken), was b. at Strassburg, April 21, 1532. He matriculated, in 1550, at the University of Wittenberg, where he became a favourite pupil of Melanchthon, and a great friend of Nicolaus Schnecker (p. 1033, il.). After taking his m.a., he continued, for a short time, at Wittenberg as lecturer; and then became, in 1554, diaconus at Regensburg. The Superintendent at Regensburg, at that time, was Nicolaus Gallus, a strong partisan of Matthias Finch; and as Schalling thought it his duty to preach against Flacianism he had to give up his post in 1558; but soon after was appointed disconus at Amberg, in Bavaria (Oberpfalz). When, in 1568, after the Elector Friedrich III., of the Palatinate, had adopted Calvinistic opinions as to order of service, &c., all the Lutheran ciergy who would not con-form were expelled, Schalling had to leave Amberg. But as Duke Ludwig, the son of the Elector, continued a Lutheran, he allowed Schalling to minister to the Lutherans at Vilseck, near Amberg. After Ludwig became Regent of the Oberpfalz he recalled Schalling to Amberg, in 1576, as court preacher and superintendent; and when, after his father's death, on Oct. 24, 1576, he became Elector of the Pfalz, he appointed Schalling as General-Superintendent of the Oberpfalz, and also court preacher at Heidelberg. But when the clergy of the Oberpfalz were pressed to sign the Formula of Concord, Schalling hesitated to subscribe, holding that it dealt too barshly with the followers of Melanchthon. For this action he was banished from the court at Heidelberg; and after being confined to his house at Amberg, from 1580 to March 1583, he was finally deprived of his offices. Thereafter he stayed for some time at Altdorf, but was appointed, 1585, paster of St. Mary's church in Nürnberg, where he remained until blindness compelled him to retire. He d. at Nürnberg, Dec. 19 (29), 1608 (Koch, ii. 282, &c.)

Though the above notice might seem to indicate that Schalling was an ardent polemic, yet this was not so. He was naturally a moderate man, and a man of peace; but during the period of 1550 to 1600, Protestant Germany was rent asunder by all manner of controversies, in which hardly any one with a conscience or an opinion could avoid being involved. Only one hymn by him is known, but that justly ranks among the classic hymns of Germany. It is;—

Herzlich Lieb hab ich dich, O Herr. For the Dying. This was, apparently, written about 1587, and was 1st pub. in Kurtze und sonderliche Newe Symbola etlicher Fürsten, &c. Nürnberg, 1571; and thence in Wackernagel, iv., p. 788, in 3 st. of 12 l. It is also in the Uno. L. S., 1851, No. 561. Lauxmann, in Koch, viii., p. 265, says of it: "This hymn, 'a prayer to Christ, the consolation of the soul in life and in death,' after Psalms xviii. and lxxiii., is a treasure bequeathed to the church from the heart of Schalling;" and adds, that it was a favourite hymn of P. J. Spener, who sung it every Sunday evening; of Duke Ernst IIL of Sachse-Gotha; of C. F. Gellert, and of many others. The fine melody generally set to it, is from Bernhard Schmidt's Zwey Bücher einer neuen Künstlichen Tabulatur auff Orgel und Instrument, Strassburg, 1577; was embodied by J. S. Bach, in his Passion music according to St. John; and is in the C. B. for England, 1863 (see below). The trs. in C. U. are >

1. Thes, Lord, I love with sacred Aws. In full, by J. C. Jacobi, in his Psalmodia Germanica, pt. ii., 1725, p. 51 (1732, p. 194); repeated in the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, pt. i., No. 312. In the 1801, and later eds. of the Moravian H. Bk. (1886, No. 448), trs. of st. iii., vi., of E. Neumeister's "Herr Jesu Christ, mein hüchstes Gut" (p. 788, L), were substituted far Schalling's II., iii. The 3rd st. of Jacobi's version, beginning, "Lord, let Thy blest angelic bands," was also given, as a separate hymn, in the 1754 and later Moravian H. Bks. (1886, No. 1248).

2. My heart, O Lord, its love on Thee. A good and full tr., by A. T. Russell, as No. 185, in his Ps. 4 Hys. 1851.

3. With all my heart I love Thee, Lord, A good and full tr., by H. G. de Bunsen, for Mercer's C. P. and H. Bk., ed. 1857, No. 105. In Mercer's Oxford ed., 1864, No. 198, st. i. was omitted; and it thus began, "My body, soul, and all I have."

 Lord, all my heart is fixed on Thee. A good and full tr., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger. 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 164. Altered to the original metre in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 119.

Other tra. are:-

(1) "I love Thee, Lord, with love sincere." By Dr. H. Mills, 1846, p. 80 (1856, p. 112). (2) "O Lord: I love Thee from my heart." In Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869, p. 609. (3) "Lord, Thee I love with all my heart." By R. Masele, in the Day of Rest, 1877. [J. M.]

Scheffler, Johann (Angelus Silesius), was b. in 1624 at Breslau in Silesia. His father, Stanislaus Scheffler, was a member of the Polish nobility, but had been forced to leave his fatherland on account of his adherence to Lutheranism, and had then settled in Breslau. The son was thus educated as a strict Lutheran. After passing through the St. Elisabeth's Gymnasium at Breslau, he matriculated at the University of Strassburg, on May 4, 1648, as a student of medicine. In the next year he went to Leyden, and in 1647 to Padua, where he graduated PH. D. and M.D. on July 9, 1648. Thereafter he returned to Silesia, and, on Nov. 3, 1649, was appointed private physician, at Oela, to Duke Sylvius Nimrod of Württemberg-Oels. The Duke was a staunch Lutheran, and his court preacher, Christoph Freitag, administered the ceclesiastical affairs of the district according to the strictest Lutheran churchly orthodoxy. Schoffler, who in Holland had become acquainted with the writings of Jakob Böhme, and had become a personal friend of Abraham von Frankenberg, the editor of Böhme's works, soon found that the spiritual atmosphere of Oels did not suit him. His own leanings at this time were distinctly to Mysticism and Separatism. He was at no pains to conceal his sentiments, and withdrew himself from public worship, from confession, and from the Holy Communion. When he wished to publish his poems, and submitted them for this purpose to Freitag, he was refused permission to print them on the ground of their mystical tendencies. He resigned his post in the end of 1652, and went to Breslau. Here he became acquainted with the Jesuits, who in that place were earnest students of the mystical works of Tanler (q.v.), and through them was introduced to the study of the medieval mystics of the Roman Catholic Church. On June 12, 1653, he was formally received into the Roman Catholic communion, and at his confirmation on that day at St. Matthias's Church in Breslau, he took the name of Angelus, probably after a Spanish mystic of the 16th cent named John ab Angelia. On March 24, 1654, the Emperor Ferdinand III. conferred on him the title of Imperial Court Physician, but this title was purely honorary, and Scheffler re-mained still at Breslau. On Feb. 27, 1661, he entered the order of St. Francis; on May 21, 1661, was ordained priest at Neisse in Silesia, and in 1664 was appointed Rath and Hof-marschall to his friend Sebastian von Rostock, the newly created Prince Bishop of Breslau. After the Bishop's death in 1671 Scheffler retired to the monastery of St. Matthias in Breslau, where he d. July 9, 1677, from a wasting sickness, during which he used this charac-teristic prayer, "Jesus and Christ, God and Man, Bridegroom and Brother, Peace and Joy, Sweetness and Pleasure, Refuge and Redemption, Heaven and Earth, Eternity and Time, Love and All, receive my soul." iv. 3; Goedeke's Grundries, vol. iii., 1887, p. 197; Memoir in Dr. D. A. Rosenthal's ed. of Schoffler's Sammtliche Poetische Werke, 2 vola., Regensburg, 1862, &c.)

Of Scheffler, as a Convert and as a Controversialist, not much need be said. He certainly became more Roman than the Romans; and in his more than 50 controversial tractates, shows little of the awestness and repose for which some have thought that be left the Lutheran church. In his Reclesiologia, pub. at Glatz in 1877 [Brit. Miss. has the 2nd ed., pub. at Oberammergan and Kempten in 1735], he collected 29 of these treatises, of which e.g. No. 34 is entitled, "The Lutheran and Calvinistic Iool of the Understanding exhibited, iaid bare, as well as the Likeness of the True God. In which also, at the same time, the attacks and objections of adversaries are repelled. 1 Cor. viii. 4, Idolum nihil est, an idol is nothing."

At an early age Scheffler had begun to write poems, and some of these occasional pieces were printed in 1641 and 1642. His most famous non-hymnological work is his Getstreiche Sinn- und Schlussreime, &c., pub. at Vienna in 1657, but better known by the title profixed in the 2nd ed. pub. at Glatz in 1675, viz. the Cherubinischer Wandersmann. [Both eds. in the Brit. Mus.]

The let ed. contains five books, and a supplement of 10 sonnets; and in the 2nd ed. a sixth book is added, which includes these 10 sonnets. The work concists of Aphorisms, the majority being in two Alexandrine rhyming lines, often of considerable beauty and depth; throughout breaking the sprint of Mystickan, and no seldom verging very nearly on Panthelson. A few of those aphorisms have been in by Miss Winkworth, in her Christian Singers, 1869, pp. 262-251; and by E. Vitalia Scherb, in the Schaff-Gilman Library of Ret. Poetry, 1881.

Scheffler's latest poetical work was the Sinnliche Beschreibung der vier letzten Dinge, zu heilsamen Schröhen und Aufmunterung aller Menschen inn Druck gegeben. Mit der himmlischen Procession vermehrt, &c. Schweidnitz, 1675. [Brit. Mus.]

This is a 2nd ed., but no copy of the 1st ed. seems to have survived. It consists of poems, written in a somewhat cornely realistic style, on Death (20 st.), Last Judgment (60 st.), Hell (73 st.), and Heaven (157 st.). Then follows, at the back of p. 119, the hymn, McAr als die Augen Reb ich dich, with the note that it ought to have been added to the 1668 ed. of the Melige Sectenbar.

Scheffler's most important hymnological work is his Heilige Scelenlust, oder geistliche Hirten-Lieder, der in ihren Jesum verliebten Prsyche, gesungen von Johann Angelo Silesio, und von Herrn Georgio Josepho mit aussbändig schönen Melodeyen gesiert, &c.

schönen Melodeyen gestert, &c.,

Of this the let ed appeared at Bredau, apparently in 1881, in three books, with Hymns 1-123, and a fourth—separately paged—book, with 32 hymns, apparently also at Breelau, 1887. In the 3nd ed., pub. at Breelau in 1888, the paging and numbering are consecutive; and a fifth book is added, with Hymns 186-205. [Both eds. in Royal Library, Breelau; 2nd ed. in Brit. Mus.] The first three books form a cycle of hymns, principally on the person and work of Out Lord, arranged according to the Christian Year, from Advent to Whitsuntida, and seem mostly to have been written before Schefiler left the Lutheran church. Those of the fourth book ware probably written 1853 to 1806, and those of the fifth book between 1856 and 1858. In the first three books he is most clearly under the influence of his predecasors. That is, so far she style and form are concerned, he was greatly influenced by the Pastorals of the Nutmerry Pegnits Shepherds, and of Friedrich von Spec (q.w.); and in the substance of his poetins—their longings for mystical union with Christ, and their clinging love to the Savieur—he was influenced on the one side by Böhme, and on the other by the earnest inner religious life which he had found in Holland. In his later hymns the tone is more manly, and the defects and excesses of his earlier style have in great measure. Alsomearch.

found in Holland. In his later hymns the tone is more manly, and the defects and excesses of his earlier style have, in great measure, disappeared.

Scheffler's hymns were gladly received by the Lutheran Church as a welcome addition to the store of "Jesus Hymns," but many long passed current as annoymous; the L.A., for Johann Angelus, being often interpreted as facerit Autoria, and vice versa. Through the Nürnberg G. B., 1676; Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704 and 1714; Poret's G. B., 1713; and Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, a large number came into use among the Lutherans, more indeed than among the Roman Catholics. They were great favourities among the Moravians, after Zinzendorf had included 79 of them in his Christ-Catholizcher Singe- und Bel-Bückleis, 1727; and, unfortunately, pre-clsely the worst were selected for imitation, so that Scheffler has the doubtful honour of being the model of the spiritual-fleshly productions which disfigured the Moravian hymn-books between 1740 and 1785.

&lt;sup>4</sup> In his later writings he styled himself Johann Angelus Silestes, adding this designation—the Stlesian—in order to distinguish himself from the Lutheran theologian, Johann Angelus, of Darmstadt.

Judging Scheffler's hymns as a whole one must give them a very high place in German hymnody. Only a small proportion of the hymns bear a distinctively Roman Catholic character. Of the rest, after setting on one side those in which Christ is set forth as the Bridegroom of the soul, with an excessive use of the imagery of Canticles; and those disfigured by the mannerisms of the Pastoral School, there remain a large number which are hymns of the first rank. These finer hymns are the work of a true post, almost perfect in style and in beauty of rhythm, concise and profound; the fruits indeed it may be said of Mysticism, but of Mysticism chastened and kept in bounds by deep reverence and by a true and fervent love to the Savlour. Scheffler holds a high place in the first rank of German sacred poets, and is much the finest of the Post-Reformation Roman Catholic hymn-writers. A complete ed. of his poetical works appeared, in two vola, at Regensburg. 1862 (see above).

A number of Scheffler's hymns are noted under their own first lines (see Inter of Authors and Translators). Two, which are trs. from the Latin, are noted at p. 70. ii., and p. 828, ii. The rest, which have passed into English, are as follows.

i. Ach Gott, was hat vor Herrichkeit. God's Majesty. 1st pub as No. 110 in Bk. iii., 1657, of his Heilige Scelenlust (Works, 1862, i. p. 185), in 0 st. of 8 i., entitled, "She [the soul] rejoices herself on the glory of Jesus." In the Herrnhut G. B., 1735, No. 67. The tr. in C. U. is:—

Thy Majesty, how wast it is. This is a free tr. of st. i.-iv. as part of No. 189 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1886, No. 225).

Another tr. is: "My God! how vast a Glory has," as No. 310 in the Moravian H. Bk., pt. il., 1743 (1754, pt. i., No. 486).

ii. Der edle Schäfer, Gottes Sohn. The Good Shepherd. 1st pub as No. 185 in Bt. v., 1668, of his Heilige Swelenlust (Werhe, 1862, i. p. 307), in 5 st. of 8 l., entitled, "She tells of His Faithfulness." In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1705, No. 701, beginning, "Der edle Hirte." Tr. as:—

The true good Shepherd, God's own Son. This is a tr. of st. i., v., by P. H. Molther, as No. 18 in the Moravian H. Bh., 1789. In the 1826 and later eds. (1886, No. 22) it begins, "Christ the good Shepherd." The version of 1801, slightly altered, is in Montgomery's Ch. Psalmist, 1825.

til. Grosser König, dem ich diene. Lote to God. Ist pub. ns No. 161 in Bk. v., 1668, of his Heilige Sectentust (Werke, 1862, i. p. 274), in 10 st. of Sl., entitled, "She presents to her Beloved her heart in diverse fushion as a morning gift." Included, greatly altered and beginning, "Grosser König den ich chre," as No. 737 in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1705, and further altered in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1865. The tr. in C. U. is:

Make my heart a garden fair. This is a fr. of st. vili., as st. ii. of No. 439 is the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1886, No. 588).

Other trs. arc: (1) "Lord, I come, Thy grace adoring," by J. D. Burne, 1868, p. 227. (2) "Almighty King, Elerual Sire," by G. Moultrie, in his Espousals of S. Porothea, 1870, p. 62.

iv. Jesus ist der schönste Nam'. Love to Christ.

1st pub. as No. 35 in Bk. I., 1657, of his Heilige Scoleniust (Werke, 1862, i. p. 72), in 9 st. of 6 l., entitled, "She praises the excellency of the Name of Jesus." Included as No. 59 in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, and recently as No. 88 in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863. Tr. as:—

Jesus in the highest name. This is a good troof st. i., ii., viii., ix., by A. T. Russell, as No. 69 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851; repeated, altered, as No. 148 in Kennedy, 1863.

Another ir. is: "Jesus is the sweetest Name, Unto mortate," by J. C. Earle, in O. Shipley's Annue Sancins, 1884, pt. li. p. 43.

v. Keine Schünheit hat die Welt. Love to Christ. A beautiful hymn on Christ in Nature. 1st pub. as No. 109 in Bk. iii., 1657, of his Heilige Seelents: (Werke, 1862, i. p. 183), in 16 st. of 4 l., entitled, "She ponders His charmingness to the creatures." Included in Freylinghausen's G. R., 1704, No. 204, and in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 733. The trs. in C. U. are:—

1. Barth has nothing sweet or fair. This is a very good tr., omitting st. vi.-viii., x., xi., by Miss Cox in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1864, p. 144). Varying centos have appeared in numerous American collections, e.g. in Hedge and Huntingdon's Hys. for the Ch. of Christ, 1853; Robinson's Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865; Dutch Reformed Hys. of the Church, 1869, &c.

9. Nothing fair on earth I see. This is a somewhat free tr. of st. i.-v., ix., xii.-xiv., xvi., by Miss Winkworth in her Lyra Gor., 1st Ser., 1855, ps. 48; repeated, abridged and altered, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 158.

Other tree are: (1)" All the beauty we can find," as No. 457, in pt. 1. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754. (2) "Would you view the glorious face," in J. A. Latrobe's Fr. & Hye., 1841, No. 437. (3) "Whate'er of beauty I behold," by Lady E. Fortescue, 1843, p. 35. (4) "Earth has nothing bright for me," by Hiss Manington, 1863, p. 168. (5) "The world with broadcast beauties sown," by E. Massic, 1867, p. 14.

vi. Morganetern der finstern Nacht. Lore to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 26 in Bk. i., 1657, of his Heilige Secieniust (Werke, 1862, i. p. 63), in 6 st. of 5 l., entitled, "She wishes to have the little Jesus as the true Morning Star in the heaven of hor heart." Included in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1705, No. 752; in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1865, &c. The tr. in C. U. is :—

Morning star, O cheering sight! This is a good tr., omitting st. ii., iv., as No. 28 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1886.

Another tr. is: "Morning Star in darksome night,", by Miss Winkworth, 1869, p. 250.

vii. Nun nimm mein Herz, und alles was ich binSelf-sucrender to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 102 in Bk. iii., 1857, of his Hellige Seelenlust (Warke, 1802, i. p. 168), in 4 st. of 6 l., entitled, "She gives herself to her Bridegroom." Included in Preylinghausen's News geistreiches G. B., 1714,
No. 505, and recently as No. 767 in the Berlin
G. L. S., ed. 1863. The tr. in C. U. is:—

O take my heart, and whatsoe'er is mine. This is a tr. of st. i., iv., by F. W. Foster, as No. 267 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1886, No. 346).

Another tr. is: "Now take my heart and all that is in me," by Hist Winkworth, 1868, p. 98. Repeated in Lyra Euckaristica, 1863, p. 211 (1864, p. 256).

viii. Wollt the den Harren finden. Socking for Christ. 1st pub. in Bk. iv., 1657, of his Heilige Scelenlust, p. 31 (ed. 1668, Bk. iv., No. 130; Werke, 1862, i. p. 222), ia 5 st. of 8 l., entitled, "She gives notice where Jesus is to be found." In Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 338, and Porst's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 777. Tr. as:—
If you would find the Saviour. This is a free version, condensing at. fil., iv., as st. iii. in the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, pt. i., No. 657. Included, greatly altered, and beginning, "Would you find the Saviour?" in J. A. Latrobe's Ps. & Hys., 1841 and 1852.

ix. We willt du hin, weils Aband ist. Evening. A beautiful hymn founded on the Narrative of Christ at Emmans. 1st pub. as No. 69 in Bk. iii., 1657, of his Heilige Seclenlust (Werke, 1862, i. p. 127), in 4 st. of 8 l., entitled, "She prays that He will abide with her because it has become evening." Included in Porst's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 673. It has passed into English through an entirely rewritten form, in 5 st. of 4 l., which appears in the Piôn G. B., 1675, No. 59, and is probably the work of Christoph Gensch von Breitenau, the editor of that book [b. Aug. 12, 1638, at Normburg, d. Jan. 11, 1732, at Lübeck]. This form is in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 325. The tr. in C. U. is:-

Where wilt Thou got since night draws near. By A. Crull, in full, as No. 93 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Another tr. is: "Where wilt Thou go? the eve draws nigh," by Hiss Hanington, 1863, p. 151.

Other hymns by Scheffler which have been rendered into English are :- rendered into English are:

x. Ash, sagt mir nicht von Gold und Schätzen.
Love to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 88 in Bk. Iii. 1537, of 18 Heitigs Sectentiss! (Werke, 1862, i. p. 151), in 7 st.
of 61. Included in Freylinghamsen's G. B., 1704, No.
388, with additional st. an iv., v., and this form is No. 737 in the Uns. L. S., 1851. The trx. are (1) "Tell me no more of golden treasures," in the Suppl. to tter.
Fradmody, G. 1768, p. 53; and Select Hys. from Ger.
Fradmody, Tranquebar, 1754, p. 34. (2) "O tell me not of glitt'ring treasure," by Br. It. Mills, 1845, p. 75 (1866,
p. 108). (3) "O tell me not of gold and treasure," by Miss Burlingham, in the Brilish Herald, August, 1863,
p. 108). (3) "O tell me not of gold and treasure," by Miss Burlingham, in the Brilish Herald, August, 1864,
Pratic Bk., 1872.
xi. Ash, was stab'st du auf der An. Love to Christ.
18t pub. as No. 83, in Bk. iil., 1657, of bis Heilige Sectutus (Werke, 1802, i. p. 126), in 4 st. of 8 1. In J. F.
H. Schloseer's Die Krecke in thren Liedern, vol. ii., 1862,
p. 213, rewritten and beginning "Jesu meine Silesigtell," This form is tr. as "Jesus, end of my deeires.
By J. C. Sarle in O. Shipley's Amass Sanctus, 1884.
xil Auf, auf, O Seel', auf, auf, sum Breft. Christian Warfare. 1st pub. as No. 201, in Bt. v. 1668, of his Heilige Sestentant (Werke, 1862, i. p. 334), in 1s. of 11, entitled, "She ronses to battle," It is a beautiful picture, founded on 2 Tim. ii. 3-5, and Rev. i.—iii., of s 1, entitled, "She romes to battle." It is a beautiful picture, founded on 2 Tim. it. 3-5, and Rev. i.-iit., of the Christian campaign and its reward. In the Getstreiches G. B., Halle, 1691, p. 428, it is altered to "And Christian Remach," and is entitled "Ad arma fideles." This form, with a new st. as at. ix., is repeated in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, and is No. 739 in the Univ. L. S., 1851. The trs. are (1) "Upf Christian man, and join the fight," by Mits Manington, 1863, p. 44. (2) "Up, Christian ig gird thee to the strike," by Mits Burlingham, in the British Herald, July, 1865, p. 106.

xiii, Buir nigne Lisbe awingst mich. Love to Christ. Its pub. as No. 100 in Bk. iii., 1857, of his Heilige Scolesluts (Werke, 1862, i. p. 186) in 4 st. of 71. In Freylinghausen's News gesitzeriche G. B., 1714, No. 409, with two st. added as ii., v. Tr. as, "Thins own love doth me constrain," by J. Kelly, in the Family Treasury, 1878, p. 716.

doth me constrain," by J. Kelly, in the Family Treasury, 1878, p. 716.

xiv. Die Bonne kommt heran. Morning. 1st pub. as No. 11 in Bk. i., 1867, of his Hellige Seleminst (Werke, 1862, i. p. 47), in 4 st. of 8 l. 7r. as "The sun will soon appear," by J. Kelly, in the Family Treasury, 1878, p. 716.

xv. In Engel, die das hüchste Gut. Love to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 76 in Bk. ili., 1867, of his Hellige Seleminst (Werke, 1862, l. p. 134), in 7 st. of 4 l. In the Herrichul G. B., 1736, No. 614, altered and beginning, "Ihr Seraphim, die lir den kennt." This form is fr. as, "Ye Seraphim, who prostrate full," as No. 549 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754.

xvi. Jean, ew ge Bonne. Love to Christ. 1st pub. as

No. 63 in Bk. iii., 1657, of his Heilige Scelenlust ( Werke,

No. 33 in Br. in., 1657, of his Hattige Scatenius (Werke, 1852, i. p. 150), in 7 st. of 4 l. Sometimes erroneously ascribed to G. Arubid (so in Ehmann's ed., 1856, p. 79). Tr. as "Christ the spring of endless Joys," by J. Kelly, in the Family Treasury, 1878, p. 710.

xvii. Kommt, meine Freund, und hörst an. Elernal Life. 1st pub. as No. 262 in Blc. v., 1858, of his Heilige Scatenius! (Worke, 1862, i. p. 336), in 168 et. of 7 l. 2r. as, "Come hither, friends, and hear me say," by J. Kelly, in the Familus Treasure, 1879, p. 27.

as, "Come hither, friends, and hear tree say," by J. Kelly, in the Farsily Treasury, 1879, p. 271.

will. Heins Seele will' du ruh'n. Lone to God. 1st pub. as No. 83 in Br. 1ii., 1657, of his Exilige Sestenlust (Werke, 1862, t. p. 144), in a st. of 6 h. In A. Luppius's Andicaklig singender Christen-Hand, Wesle, 1692, p. 63, two at. by J. C. Schade were added as v., vi., and this form is at p. 13 in Schade's Farsiculus Cantiowen, N. b., 1699. In the Genstretches G. B., Halle, 1897, p. 189 st. new st. were added as vii.—xii., and this text is repeated in Fraylinghousesis' G. B., 1704, and in the Berlin G. L. K, ed. 1863, No. 819. This last form is tr. as "O my soul, desir'st thou rest." In the Suppl. to Ger. Psatwady, ed. 1756, p. 364 soul, desir'st thou rest." In the Suppl. to Ger. I'sat-mody, ed. 1765, p. 55.

***xix. Main Lieb ist mir und igh bin ihm. Love to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 184 in Bk. v., 1968, of bis Heitige Solemiant (Works, 1862, i. p. 306), in I st. of 41. In the Herrahat G. B., 1735, No. 761, beginning, "Meln Frand," This fat r. as, "My Friend's to me, and I'm to Him," as No. 467 in pt. 1. of the Moravian H. Bk., xx. O du allerliebster Gott. Christ in Gethsemane.

to Him," as No. 461 in pt. 1. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754.

xx. 0 du alladienter Gott. Christ in Catharmana. 1st pub. as No. 41 in Bk. ii., 1857, of his Heilige Sedenland (Werke, 1862, i. p. 83), in 6 st. of 8 l. In J. F. H. Schloeser's Die Kirche in thren Liedern, vol. ii., 1852, p. 209, it begins "Jesu, du mein Herr und Gott." This form is tr. as "Jesus, 0 my Lord and God." by J. C. Earle, in 0. Shiplay's Annus Kanctua, 1884, p. 73.

*xxi. Schau', Brant, wie hängt dein Bräutigam. Pasrionitide. 1st pub. as No. 4si in Bk. ii., 1851, of his Relitige Sectendand (Werke, 1862, i. p. 90.) in 10 st. of 41. In the Herrahut G. B., 1735, No. 106. Tr. as, "O Bride? behold thy Bridegroom haugs," as No. 450 in pt. i. of the Horavian H. Bk., 1764.

xxii. Thith hin. o Seel!, und dank' dem Herra. Thankagiving. 1st pub. as No. 196 in Bk. v., 1668, of his Heilige Sectendand (Werke, 1862, i. p. 322), in 16 st. of 41. with a two line refrain. In Pors's G. B., et. of 45, No. 604. Tr. as "Como, O my soul, with thankful voice," by Dr. G. Walker, 1866, p. 70.

xxiii. Weil ish schon sah' die geld'men Wangum. Morsing. 1st pub. as No. 160 in Bk. v., 1668, of his Heilige Sectendand (Werke, 1862, i. p. 272), in 11 st. of 61. In the Una. L. S., 1851, No. 476. The trz. are (1) "Because I see red titus adorning." by Hiss Ramington, 1863, p. 119. (2) "I see the golden light of morn," in the Raming Treatneys, 1871, p. 668.

xxiv. Wis lieblich aind die Wohnungen. Eternal Life. 1st pub. as No. 72 in Bk. iii., 1557, of his Heilige Sectendand (Werke, 1862, p. 200), in 18 st. of 8 b. Tr. as "How lovely are the mansions fair," by J. Kelly, In the Furnity Treatneys, 1879, p. 668.

xiv. Zeuch mich nach die, so laufen wir. Love to Christ. 1st pub. as No. 72 in Bk. iii., 1557, of his Heilige Sectendand (Werke, 1862, i. p. 130), in 5 st. of 6 l. In Preylinghausent's G. B., 1704, No. 146, st. v., "O Jesn Christ, der du mir bist," is given as at i. and vi. Tr. as "Otraw us to Thee, then will we flee," as No. 137 in pl. 1. of the Morawian H. Bis.," 1854 of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754

It may be added that in some English books Schoffler appears as a composer of hymn-tunes. This is however a mistake, for the melodies in the Heilige Seelenlust are, as the title distinctly says, by Georg Joseph, a musician living at that time in Breslau. [J. M.]

Schein, Johann Hermann, a of Hieronymus Schein, pastor at Grünhain, near Annaberg, in Saxony, was b. at Grünbein, Jan. 20, 1586. He matriculated at the University of Leipzig in 1607, and studied there for four years. Thereafter he acted for some time as a private tutor, including two years with a family at Weissenfels. On May 21, 1615, he was appointed Capellmeister, at the court of Duke Johann Ernst, of Sachse-Weimar; and in 1616 he became canter of St. Thomas's Church, and music director at Leipzig, in succession to Seth Calvisius (d. Nov. 24, 1615). This post he held till his death, at Leipzig.

Nov. 19, 1630. (Bode, p. 411; Monatchefte; für Musikgeschichte, 1871, p. 26, &c.)

Schein was one of the most distinguished musicians of his time, both as an original composer, and as a harmoniser of the works of others. As a hymn-writer he was not so prolific, or so noteworthy. Most of his hymns were written on the deaths of his children or friends, e.g. on seven of his children, and on his first wife. They appeared mostly in broadsheet form, and were included, along with his original melodies, in his Cantional oder Geang-Buch Augustylicher Confession, Leipzig, 1627; 2nd ed., 1845. [Both in Wernigerode Albrary.]

Those of Schein's hymns which have passed into English are:-

i. Macha mit mir, Gott, nuch deiner Gut. For the Dying. 1st pub., as a broadsheet, at Leipzig, 1628, as a Trost-Liedlein à 5 (i.e. for 5 voices), [Berlin Library.] The words, the melody, and the five-part setting, are all by Schein. was written for, and first used at, the funeral, on Dec. 15, 1628, of Margarita, wife of Caspar Werner, a builder and town councillor at Leipzig, and a churchwarden of St. Thomas's. It is in 6 st. of 6 l.; the initial letters of il. 1, 3, in st. i.-iv., forming the name Margarita; and the W of st. v. l. I standing for Werner. In Schein's Cantional, 1645, No. 303 (marked as Trost-Liedlein, Joh. Herm. Scheins, & 5), and later hymn-books, as e.g. the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 830, st. vi. was omitted. It is Schein's finest production, and one of the best German hymns for the sick and dying. Tr. as:-

Deal with me, God, in mercy now. This is a good and full fr., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 191, set to Schein's melody of 1628.

if. Hein Gott und Herr, ach sei nicht fern. For the Dying. 1st pub., with his name, in his Cantional, 1627, No. 262, in 9 st. of 61. The initial letters of the stanzas give the name Margarita, probably one of the daughters who predeceased him. It is included, in 5 st., in the 1648, and later eds., of Crüger's Praxis; and recently, in full, in von Tucher's Schatz des evang. Kirchengesangs, 1848, No. 555; and reduced to 6 st. in Layriz's Kern des deutschen Kirchenlieds, 1844, No. 421. The tr. in C. U. is:-

My Lord and God, go not away, A good tr. of st. i., ii., iv., v., vii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 254, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851. [J. M.]

Schenk, Heinrich Theobald, s. of Simon Schenk, pastor at Heidelbach, on the Schwalm, near Alsfeld, Hesse, was b. at Heidelbach, April 10, 1656. He entered the Padegogium at Giessen, in 1670, and then pursued his studies at the University (M.A. 1676). In 1676 he returned to the Padagogium, as one of the masters: and was, from 1677 to 1689, "præceptor classicus." On Dec. 27, 1689, he was ordered as Town preacher and "definitor," at the Stadtkirche in Glessen. He d. at Giessen, April 11, and was buried there April 15, 1727. (F. W. Birleder's Hessische Gelehrten und Schriftsteller Geschichte, vol. x., Cassel, 1795, p. 10; MS. from Dr. Naumann, pastor primarius; and from Dr. Schiller, Gymnasial-director at Giessen. The registers at Giessen give the date of his funeral, but not of his death; but say, that at his death he was aged 71 years which is found in almost all recent German hymn-books; and, through tre., in many recent English collections. It is:

Wer sind die vor Gottes Throne. Elemal Life. This is found in the New-vermehrtes Genzingbüchlein, Frankfurt-am-Main, 1719, No. 362, p. 341, in the "Anhang einiger Gesänge"; and is repeated in the Neuest-und collständigste Frankfurter G. B., 1729, No. 568, in 20 st. of 6 l. In the Hesse-Darmstadt Kirchen G. B., 1733, No. 497, it is given, with a reference to Schenk as its author, and entitled, "On Rev. vii. 13-17." It is included in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1617, omitting st. vii., viii. It is a beautiful hymn on the Church Triumphant (i.-xiii.), and on the aspirations of the Church Militant to attain the same victorious glory. Tr. as :

1. Who are these like stars appearing. By Miss Cox, in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 89, being a very good tr. of st. i.-vi., ix.-xi., ziv,-xvil., xz. This has come into extensive use in the ceuto adopted in Alford's Ps. & Hys., 1844; and repeated in H. A. & M., 1861; being the trs. of st. i., iii.-v., ix. Other centos are found in Rorison's Hys. & Anthone, 1851, &c. Other forms may also be noted :--

forms may also be noted:—

(1) Le I a multitude appearing. This, in T. Darling's Hys. for Ch. of Hysland, 1874, is based on Miss Cox's st. i., iv., v., with two additional stanzas.

(2) Who are these in desailing brightness, (Bearing the victorious palm. This form, found, as No. 630, in the Baptist Ps. & Hys., 1855, is by George Rawson, with st. i., iii., based on Miss Cox's trs. of st. iii., iv., In Mr. Rawson's Hys., Verses, & Chants, 1876, No. 56, it is rewritten, so as to rank as an original hymn; and there it begins, "Who are these salvation singing."

In 1864 Miss Cox printed a revised text in her Hys. from the German, p. 91. This is found in a considerable variety of centos, in many English and American hymn-books; some following the text of 1864 throughout, and some partly reverting to the text of 1841. It is included, e.g. in the People's Hyl., 1867, Church Hys., 1871, Hyl. Comp., 1876, Bapt. Hyl., 1879, Thring's Coll., 1880 and 1882; and in America, in the Hys. & Songs of Praise, 1874, Laudes Domini, 1884, and others. In H. L. Hastings's Songs of Pilgrimage, 1888, it begins with st. iii., "Who are these in dazzling brightness, These in God's own truth arrayed."

2. Who are these in light adoring. By A. T. Russell, as No. 145 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851; being a tr. of st. i., iv., xi., xv.

3. Who are those before God's throne, What the crowned host I see. This is a good tr. of st. i.-vi., ix., x., xiv., xvii., xx., by Miss Winkworth in her Lyra Gor., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 207. Repeated, abridged, in Boardman's Sol., Philadelphia, 1861; Kennody, 1863; and the Sarum Hyl., 1868. In her C. B. for England, 1868, No. 77, Mise Winkworth repeated the trs. of st. i., iii., v., ix., x., xiv., xvii., altered, and beginning, "Who are those that, far before me."

Other tra are:—
(1) "Who are those before God's throne, What the counties." By J. D. Burns, in the Family Treasury, 1858, pt. i., p. 307; and his Montoir & Remains, 1869, p. 267. (2) "Who are those round God's throne standards of the Maria Montaington, 1863, p. 90. (3) "What is this host that round the throne." By Mas Warner, 1869, Schirmer, Michael, s. of Michael Schirmer, inspector of wine casks at Leipzig, was less 10 days, which would rather suggest b. at Leipzig, apparently, in July, 1606, his April 21 as the date of his birth.) Only one baptism being entered as on July 18, in the byna is known by him, but it is a hymn registers of St. Thomas's Church there. He matriculated at the University of Leipzig, at Easter, 1619, and graduated M.A. in 1680. In 1636 he was appointed subrector, and in 1651 conrector of the Greyfrians Gymnasium at Berlin. During his conrectorship the rectorship fell vacant several times, and each time, after he had officiated as prorector during the vacancy, a younger man than he was set over him (probably on account of Schirmer's feeble beaith) till, last of all, in May, 1668, the subrector was promoted over his head. In the same year Schirmer retired from office. The remainder of his life he spent in Berlin, where he pub., in the end of 1668, a version of the Aeneid in German Alexandrine verse, wrote various occasional poems, &c He d. at Berlin, apparently on May 4, and was cer-tainly buried there, in the churchyard of the Kloster Kirche, on May 8, 1673 (M. Michael Schirmer, &c., by Dr. J. F. Bachmann, Berlin, 1859; K. Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 180; Koch, iii. 833, &c. Koch speaks of Schirmer as having been rector of the school at Freiberg in Saxony, and then pastor at Striegnitz on the Mulde, both between 1630 and 1686; and of his having been finally, just before his death, appointed archidiaconus at Freiberg. But for these statements there appears to be no evidence whatever. The Michael Schirmer who was rector at Freiberg, and on Feb. 7, 1672, was appointed archi-diaconus there, but d. at Freiberg on Oct. 25, 1672, was only b. on March 26, 1635. The rectorate at Freiberg was held by Johann Schellenberg from 1603 to 1642; and the pastorate at Striegnitz was held by Friedrich Hilner from 1623 to 1656).

Schirmer had many domestic and personal affictious to bear. His wife and his two children predecessed bim. The early part of his life in Bettin was spent amid the distress caused by the Thirty Years War, during which Brandenburg, and Berlin itself, suffered greatly from pestilence and poverty. In 1644 a deep melancholy fell upon him, which lasted for five years; and something of the aams kind seems to have returned to him for a time, after his wife's death, in Feb. 1667. Schirmer was crowned as a poet in 1637. His earlier productions were mostly occasional pieces in German and Latin. In 1655 he pub, at Berlin, a metrical variou of Eoclesiwas crowned as a poet in 1637. His earner productions were mostly occasional pieces in German and Latin. In 1855 he pub, at Berlin, a metrical various of Ecclesications as, Das Buck Jenus Krack, &c.; and in 1686, also at Berlin, a Scriptural play, which was acted by the scholars of the Gymnasium, and was entitled Der versions of the Sungs of the Old and New Tastament as, Mödische Lieder suad Lekrppriche. The only compositions by him which have come late use as hymna, are those which he contributed to J. Crüger's Newer collisions by him which have come late use as hymna, are those which he contributed to J. Crüger's Newer collisions by him which have come late use as hymna, are those which he contributed to J. Crüger's Promis pietatit maltica, Berlin, 1846, &c. (See pp. 311, ii.; and 172, i.). These, thre in all, passed into many German hymn-books of the 17th cent., and most of them are still in use. They were reprinted by Dr. Bachmann, as above, pp. 71-81, together with various selections from his other poetical compositions. They are practical, clear, objective, churchly hymna, somewhat related to those of Gerbardt; and still more closely to those of Johann Heermann, from whom indeed Schirmer borrows a few expressions.

The only hymn by Schirmer which has passed into English is:-

O hellger Geist, kehr bei une ein. Whitsuntide. 1st pub., 1640, as above, No. 75, in 7 st. of 10 l., entitled, "Another short hymn for Whitsuntide, M. Michael Schirmers." Repeated in the Crüger-Runge G. B., 1653, No. 162; and, recently, in the Uno. L. S., 1851, No. 179. It is a beautiful New Testament paraphrase of is, xi. 2. The third stanza is partly based on st. vii, of J. Heermann's "Wir wissen nicht, Herr Zebaoth." Tr, sa; —

I. O Rely Chest, descend, we pray. This is a somewhat free tr. of st. i., v., ii., iii., by W. M. Reynolds, as No. 794, in the Amer. Luth. Gen. Synod's Coll., 1850; and is repeated, with trs. of st. iv., vi., vii., added, as No. 103, in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880. The Ohio Hyl. also gives, as st. ii., a tr. of the recast of st. v., which was interpolated between st. i., ii. when the hymn was included in the Hannover G. B., 1657.

2. O Roly Spirit, enter in. This is a good tr., omitting st. ii., iv., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 70. It was repeated, as No. 249, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868. In Dr. Thomas's Augustine H. Ba., 1866, it is Nos. 480, 481; No. 481 beginning, "O mighty Rock, O source of Life," which is the tr. of st. v. [J. M.] [J. M.]

Schlegel, Catharina Amalia Doro-thea von. Little is known of this lady. According to Koch, iv., p. 442, she was b. Oct. 22, 1697, and was "Stiftsfraulein" in the Evangelical Lutheran Stift (i.e. Protestant nunnery) at Cöthen. On applying to Cöthen, however, the present writer was assured that her name did not occur in the books of the Stift; and from the correspondence which she carried on in 1750-52, with Heinrich Ernst, Count Stolberg (p. 608, il.), it would rather seem that she was a lady attached to the little ducal court at Cöthen. (Ms. from Dr. Eduard Jacoba, Wernigerode, &c.) Further details of her life it has been impossible to obtain.

In the complete ed., 1744, of the Calaniache Linder (see p. 80, 11.), Nos. 30 and 13 in pt. 1.; and Nos. 3, 20, 24, 33, 43, 50, 84, in pt. 11, are by ber. In the marked copies, at Wernigerode, of the Meue Committing printicker Lieder, Wernigerode, 1762, the following hymns in that collection are ascribed to her, viz. —Nos. 12, 80, 149, 209, 279, 329, 357, 373, 326, 448, 479, 520, 546, 551, 640, 683, 693, 799, 761.

The only one of her hymne which has passed into Euglish is :- passed 1110 Euglish 18:—

Stills, main Wills, dein Jesus hilft siegen. Cross and Consolation. A fine hymn on waiting for God. It appeared in 1732, as above, No. 689, in 6 st. of 6 1; and is included in Knapp's Br. L. S., 1837, No. 2249 (1855, No. 2017). The fr. in C. U. is :—

Be still, my soul :—the Lard is en thy side. This is a good tr., omitting st. iii., by Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 2nd Ser., 1855, p. 37 (1864, p. 100). It has been included in Bp. Hyle's Colls., 1869; Scattick Hyl., 1889; Canadian Presb. H. Bk., 1880; Charck Praise, 1863, and others.

Schlegel, Johann Adolf, D.D., s. of Dr. Johann Friedrich Schlegel, Appellationsrath at Meissen, in Saxony, was b. at Meissen, Sept. 17, 1721. After passing through the famous school at Pforta (Schulpforta), near Naumburg, he studied, from 1741 to 1746, at the University of Leipzig, where he became acquainted with Cramer, Gellert, and Klopstgock, and was one of the principal contributors to the Bremer Beitrage (Neue Beyträge zum Vergnügen des Verstandes und Witzes). In 1746 he became a private tutor at Strehla, in Saxony, and then returned to Leipzig, where he occupied himself in literary work, until he went, in 1748, to live with his friend Cramer at Creliwitz, near Lutzen. He remained at Crellwitz till 1751, when he was appointed a master in his old-school at Pforta, and also diaconus of the church there. In 1754 he became chief pastor of the Holy Trinity church at Zerbst, and also professor of Theology and Metaphysics in the Academic Gymnasium in that town. He removed to Hannover in 1759, as pastor of the Markt Kirche. In 1775 he was removed to the Neustadt Church there, as chief pastor, and also as Consistorial rath and Superintendent. While retaining his pastorate at Hannover, he was also appointed, in 1782, as General Superintendent of the district of Hoya. In 1787 he exchanged this for the General Superintendentship of the Principality of Kalenberg. The same year he received the degree of n.n. at the Jubice Festival of the University of Göttingen. He d., of fever, at Hannover, Sept. 16, 1793 (Heerwagen, i., p. 214 ; Jördens's Lexikon, iv., p. 521 ; Koch, vi., 217; MB. from Pastor A. Kranold, Hannover).

Schlegel was a most prolific writer, though to the literary world at large the names of his sons, August Wilhelm and Friedrich von Schlegel, are better known. Withelm and Friedrich von Schlegel, are better known. He was one of the most celebrated preachers of his time, and the author of many volumes of sermons. His hymna suited the taste of the Rationalistic period, and were exceedingly popular in the end of the 18th cent., but have now, in great measure, passed out of use. Many of them were merely polished and weakened versions of, and the property of the property o or were founded upon, earlier hymns. In his strictly original hymns, he does not at all equal either Gellert or Klepstock. Ilis hymns appeared in the following collections:-

collections:—
(1) Samilung geistlicher Gesänge zur Beförderung fer Erbauung, Leipzig, 1766; 2nd ed., revised and enlanged, Leipzig, 1772. (2) Zueite Sammisung, Leipzig, 1772. (4) Frontischte Gedichte, 2 vois., Hannover, 1787 and 1788 [1, 2, 4, in Brit, Miss.; 3 and 2nd ed. of 1 in Hannover, thursty.] He edited, and contributed to, the 1792 Apps. to the Hannover G. B., 1740.

One of Schlegel's hymne is a tr. of, and is noted under "Veni Creator Spiritus." Another is noted under Gellert, C. F., No. ix. (p. 407, ii.). The others which have passed into English are:-

i. Wie berrlich strahlt der Morgenstern. Love to Christ. 1st pub. in 176d, as above, p. 112, in 7 st. of 11 l., and entitled, "Longing after union with Jesus, on the model of the old hymn, Wie schön leuchtet der Morgensteru." It is a recast of Nicolai's hymn (see p. 806, ii.), but so thorough as to be almost independent of it. It was included in Zollikofer's G. B., Leipzig, 1766, No. 404; in the Hamburg G. B., 1842, No. 450, &c. The tra. in C. U. are :-

1. How brightly beams the Morning Star! This is a good tr., omitting st. iv., vii., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 36.

2. How brightly shines the Morning Star ! What eye desories it from afar. A good tr., omitting st. vii., contributed by J. M. Sloan to J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865, No. 282, and repeated, omitting st. iii., iv., in Wilson's Songs of Zion, 1878. Mr. Sloan recast the trs. of st. i., ii., v., vi., for the Free Church H. Bk., 1882; and this form is repeated in Church Praise, 1883. In Laudes Domini, N.Y., 1884, the text of 1882 is given with the added st., "Rejoice ye heavens," from Mercer's variation of Jacobi's tr. from Nicolai (see p. 807, 1.).

Hymns not in English C. V. :-- ii, Ea lag die game Welt. St. John Baptist's Day. In 1766, as above, p. 25, in 9 st. of 6 l. It is based on a hymn by J. G. Olearius (p. 366, il.), 1st pub. 1664, p. 29, in 5 st., as "Es war die ganze Welt;" and in Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 336. The st. from Schlegel's recast is "The world enslar'd to sin." By Dr. H. Mills, 1345, p. 193 (1856, p. 282). iii. Jaughzt! es ist eine Ruh vorhanden.

in Jesus. 1st pub. in his Figmischle Gedickie, vol. i., 1787, p. 128, in 2 st. of 10 L, dated 1777, and entitled, "Of the happiness of Heaven." It is based on Kunth's

"Es ast noch eine Ruh vorhanden (p. 634, if.). Tr. as "Rejoice, that rest is not far distant." By Miss Maniagion, 1863, p. 89.
iv. Mein Jesu, für dein Harz. Passioniide. 1st pub. in 1765, as above, p. 55, in 14 st. of 6 l. Tr. "How trying to the heart." By Dr. H. Mills, 1345, p. 210 trying to the heart." By Dr. H. Mills, 1245, p. 210 (1856, p. 299).

v. Schweigt Stirrus! brauset nicht ihr Meere. Sunser.

v. Schweigt Stirrus! brauset nicht ihr Meere. Sunser.

Tils is an Ode, 1st pub. in the New Beyträge, &c.,

Bremen and Leipzig, vol. 1., 1744 (ed. 1747, p. 134), and entitled, "Praiss of the Godhead. On the model of the 104th Fealm." In C. C. Sturm's Somalising gentiticher teasings siber die Werke Goltes in der Natur. Halle, 1776, p. 257, it is recast, and begins, "Bund um mich ber ist nicht als Freude;" and this form is in the Hamburg G. B., 1842, No. 702. It is tr. as, "Around me all is joy —and ch, my God." By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 111.

vi. Tag, der Keleuchtung mas gebracht. Waltsantide.

1st pub. in 1769, as above, p. 42, in 9 st. In some collections, as in the Kopenhagen G. R., 1782, No. 232, it begins "O Tag, der uns des Vaters Rath." This is tr.
as "O day I hast hast unto our souls set forth." By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 94.

Miss Fry. 1859, p. 94. [J. M.]

Schlosser, Ludwig Heinrich. meister, E., Me, ili., p. 797, il.]

Schmidt, Johann Eusebius, s. of Johann Jakob Schmidt, paster at Hohenfelden, near Erfurt, was b. at Hohenfelden, Jan. 12, 1670. He matriculated at the University of Jens in the autumn of 1688, and in 1691 went to Erfurt to attend lectures by Breithaupt and Francke. Part of 1692 he spont in travelling in North Germany, and during the years 1693-96 he was mostly employed in private tuition at Gotha. On the 12th S. ofter Trinity, 1697, he began work at Siebleben, near Gotha, as substitute (curate in charge), and on the 4th S. in Advent, 1698, as pastor there. He d. at Siebleben, Dec. 25, 1745, with the character of "An edifying teacher in his parish, a good example to his flock, and a methodical man in his office." (G. G. Brückner's Kirchen und Schulenstaat, vol. ili. pt. iv. p. 59, Gotha, 1761, &c.).

Schmidt's hynns were contributed to Freylinghausen's Geistreiches G. B., 1704, and Neues Geistreiches G. B., 1714. In the latter Freylinghausen prints as a supplement (Zugabe 17 so-called "Praims for Festivals," being compositions in Ode or Pasim form and vals," being compositions in Ode or Pasitu form and unrhymed, remarking in his preface that the author of these (i.e. Schmidt), had written similar compositions for all the Sundays in the year. Of his lynns in rhyme (4, let pub. 1704; 21, 1st pub. 1714), some have attained considerable popularity, being of moderate length, good in style, thoughtful and interesting.

Of Schmidt's hymns those which have passed into English are:-

passed into English are:

i. Es ist vollbracht: rergis is nicht. Passiontide. This hymn on "It is finished." Ist appeared in 1714 as above, No. 72, in 6 st. of 5 l. Included as No. 96 in the Eno. L. S., 1851. The tra. in C. U. are:

1. All is fulfall!—my heart, record. By A. T. Russell, emitting st. iv., vl., as No. 100 in his Ps. & Hyx., 1851.

2. 'Tis finished: O glarious word. A full but rather free tr. by Dr. Kennedy, in his Hymn. Carist., 1863, ropeated, emitting st. iv., vl., ne Rela's Prate Bk., 1872. ii. Erhebe den Herren, der Alles in Allem. Thanksgieleng. Ist nub. 1714 as above, No. 560, in 4 st. of 8. Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1865. 27, as, "The praises of him who is Grace's Dispenser." This is No. 550 in pt. t. of the Moracion H. Ek., 1754. iii. Fahre fort, Eahre fort. Fuithfulness. Founded on Christ's Messages to the Seven Churches in Asia. 14, pub. 1704 as above, No. 667, in 7 st. of 7 l. In the Unv.

on Christ's Messages to the Seven Churches in Asia. 1st pub. 1704 as above, No. 667, in 7st. of 7l. In the Unit. S., 1851, No. 223. The trs. are:—

(1) "Husten on, hasten on," by Miss Burlingham, in the British Heraids, Sept. 1865, D. 143, and Reid's Praise Bk., 1872. (2) "Hold thy course," by E. Massic, 1867, D. St. (3) "Coward go, onward go," by N. L. Prothingham, 1870, p. 238.

iv. Gekreuzigter! meim Herze sucht. Passiontide. 1st pub. 1714 as above, No. 73, in 6st. of 6.). In Burg's G. B., Bresiau, 1746, No. 483. The trs. are:—

(1) "Christ crucify'd! my Soul by Faith Desires," in the Supp. to Ger. Praisonly, ed. 1765, p. 23. (2) "Christ crucify'd, my soul by faith, With," as No. 224, based on the earlier to,, in the Maravian H. Bk., 1789 (1886,

v. O Jesu der du dich. Euster. 1st pub. 1704 as above, No. 651, in 5 st. of 6 L, repeaked in the Herra-hut O. B., 1735, No. 123. Tr. as "O Jesu, who now free," as No. 552 in pt. 1. of the Moravian H. Bk., 1754. [J. M.]

Schmolck, Benjamin, s. of Martin Schmolck, or Schmolcke, Lutheran pastor at Branchitzehdorf, near Liegnitz in Silesia, was b. at Branchitzehdorf, Dec. 21, 1672. He entered the Gymnasium at Lauban in 1688, and spent five years there. After his return home he preached for his father a sermon which so struck the patron of the living that he made Benjamin an allowance for three years to enable him to study theology. He matriculated, at Michaelmas, 1698, at the University of Leipzig, where he came under the influence of J. Olearius, J. B. Carpzov, and others, and throughout his life retained the character of their teaching, viz. a warm and living practi-cal Christianity, but Churchly in tone and not Pietistic. In the autumn of 1697, after completing his studies at Leipzig (during his last year there he supported himself mainly by the proceeds of occasional poems written for wealthy citizens, for which he was also crowned as a poet), he returned to Branchitzehderf to help his father, and, in 1701, was ordained as his assistant. On Feb. 12, 1702, he married Anna Rosina, dau. of Christoph Rehwold, merchant in Lauban (see No. xvii. below); and in the end of the same year was appointed disconus of the Friedenskirche at Schweidnitz in Silesia. As the result of the Counter-Reformation in Silesia, the churches in the principality of Schweidnitz had been taken from the Lutherans, and for the whole district the Peace of Westphalia (1648) allowed only one church (and that only of timber and clay, without tower or bells), which the Lutherans had to build at Schweidnitz, outside the walls of the town; and the three clergy attached to this church had to minister to a population scattered over some thirty-six villages, and were moreover hampered by many restrictions, e.g. being unable to communicate a sick person without a permit from the local Roman Catholic priest. Here Schmolck remained till the close of his life, becoming in 1708 archidiaconus, in 1712 senior, and in 1714 pastor primarius and inspector. Probably as the result of his exhausting labours he had a stroke of paralysis on Lactare (Mid-Lent) Sunday, 1730, which for a time laid him aside altogether, and after which he never recovered the use of his right hand. For five years more he was still able to officiate, preaching for the last time on a Fastday in 1735. But two more strokes of paralysis followed, and then cataract came on, relieved for a time by a successful operation, but returning again incurably. For the last months of his life he was confined to bed, till the message of release came to him, on the amniversary of his wedding, Feb. 12, 1737. (Koch, v. 463; Bode, p. 144; Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 306; sketch prefixed to Ledderhose's ed. of Schmolck's Geistliche Lieder, Halle, 1857, &c.)

Schmolck was well known in his own district as a popular and useful preacher, a diligent paster, and a man of wonderful tact and discretion. It was however his devetional books, and the original hymns therein con-tained, that brought him into wider popularity, and carried his name and fame all over Germany. Long lists of his works and of the various editions through which many of them passed are given by Koch, Bode and Goedeke. It is rather difficult to trace the hymns, as they are copied from one book of his into another, &c. The most important books which are the first sources of his hymns are the following :-

(1) Heilige Flammen der himmilieh-gerinnten Seele, &c. Of this the lat ed. seems to have appeared at Striegau, in 1704, with 50 hymne; the 2nd, in 1705, with 100; the 3rd, in 1705, with 140. The certilest we have been able to find are a pirated ed. of 1707, and the 4th ed., at Görlitz and Lauban, 1709. [Both in Royal Library, Berlin.] This was his most popular book, and passed through 13 eds. in his lifetime. (2) Der instige Sabbath, in der Stille au Zion, mit heitigen Liedern extenet he through 13 eds. In his lifetime. (2) Der instige Söbbath, in der Stille su Zion, mit heitigen Liedern gefeurt, for, Jauer and Schwoldnitz, 1712 [Berlin Library]. (2) Das in gebundenen Seuf sern mets Gott verbundene Andlechtige Herter, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1714 [Berlin Library]. (2) Das Schwoldnitz, 1715 [Berlin Library]. (3) Das Schwack und Asthe, 18t ed., apparently 1716; 2nd ed., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1717, is in Berlin. (6) Geistlicher Wander-Stab des Sionisischen Prigrims, &c., Schweldnitz and Jauer, 1717 [Berlin Library]. (8) Presider-Oct in Transfigleit, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1720 [Berlin Library]. (7) Shöne Kleider vor einen betrübten Geist, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1720 [Berlin Library]. (9) Bochin und Etim, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1731 [Berlin Library]. (1) Bochin und Etim, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1731 [Berlin Library]. (1) Brochin und Etim, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, 1731 [Berlin Library]. (1) Brochin und Etim, &c., Schweidnitz, 1732 [Brin, Mus, and Göttingen Library]. H. Klage und Reigen, &c., Breslau and Liegnitz, N. D., 1734 [Berlin Library]. The contents of these, and of his numerous other works, are collected in his Sömtliche Trost- und Göttreiche Schriften, &c., 2 vols., Tübingen, Trost- und Gestreiche Schriffen, &c., 2 vols., Thingen, 1738 and 1740 (later ed. dated 1740 and 1761). Selections have been recently ed. by Ludwig Grate (Leipzig, 1856) and by K. F. Ledderhose, 45 above.

Schmolck was the most popular hymn-writer of his time, and was hailed as the "Silesian Rist," as the "second Gerhardt," &c. Nor was he altogether unworthy of such praise. It is true that he did not possess the searing genius of Gerhardt. Nor had he even Gerhardt's concisc, simple style, but instead was too fond. of high-counding expressions, of plays upon words, of far-fetched but often recurring contrasts, and in general of straining after effect, especially in the pieces written in his later years. In fact he wrote a great deal too much, and latterly without proper attention to concentration or to proportion. Besides Cantatas. occasional pieces for weddings, funerals, &c., he is the author of some 900 hymns, properly so called. These were written for all sorts of occasions, and range over the whole field of churchly, family, and individual life. Naturally they are not all alike good; and those in his first three collections are decidedly the best, A deep and genuine personal religion, and a fervent love to the Saviour, inspire his best hymns; and as they are not simply thought out but felt, they come from the heart to the heart. The best of them are also written in a clear, flowing, forcible, natural, popular style, and abound in sententious sayings, easily to be remembered. Even of these many are, however, more suited for family use than for public worship. Nevertheless they very soon came into extensive use, not only in Silesia, but all over Germany. Thus, for example, in the Hannover G. B., 1740, and the Lüneburg G. B., 1767, there are 73 by Schmolck. In the Andere Theil, 1725, of the Gotha G. B., there are 256, and the New Anhang, circa 1732, has 45 more; so that in the complete book, no less than 301, out of 1360, are by him. In the recent German hymn-books many still remain; and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1869, so often referred to in this Dictionary, has in all 114 of his hymns.

A number of Schmolck's hymns are annotated under their original first lines (see Index of Authors and Translators). The others which have passed into English are:—

1. Der beste Freund ist in dem Himmel. Love of Jesus. 1st pub. in his Heilige Flemmen (ed. 1709, p. 100), in 6 st. of 6 l., entitled "The best Friend." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 788, The tr. in C. U. is:—

A faithful friend is walting yonder. This is a good fr., omitting st. v., as No. 293, in Konnedy, 1863.

ii. Die Woche gaht sum Ende. Saturday Evening. In his Andächtige Hertze, 1714, p. 116, in 10 st. of 8 l., entitled "Evening Hymn," and appointed for Evening Prayer on Saturday. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1868, No. 1158. Tr. as:—

The week draws near its ending. This is a good tr. of st. i., vi., vii., x., marked as by "A. G.," as No. 81 in the Dalston Hospital H. Bk., 1848.

Other tra. are: (1) "Though now the week is ending," by H. J. Buckell, 1842, p. 167. (2) "The week at length is over," by Hiss Hamington, 1863, p. 137.

iii. Gott du bist selbst die Liebe. Holy Matrimony. In his Schmuck und Asche, 1717, p. 288, in 6 st, of 8 l., entitled "Marriage Hynn"; and so in his Wanderstab, 1717, p. 70. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1407. Tr. as:—
0 God, Who all providest. This is a good tr.,

O God, Who all providest. This is a good tr., omitting st. iii., by J. M. Sloan, as No. 312 in J. H. Wilson's Surpice of Praise, 1865.

J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865. iv. Hallely &! Jesus lobt. Easter. In his Bookim and Elim, 1731, p. 67, in 5 st. of 6 l., entitled "Hallely ah! at the grave of Jesus." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 296. Tr. as:—

Hallshijah! La, Ha wakes. By E. Cronenwett, omitting st. iv., as No. 79 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Another tr. is: "Hallshijah! Jesus lives! Life, immortal life, He gives." This is a full and good fr., by Bits Warner, 1888, p. 488, repeated in the Treasury of Sacred Sing, Kriwall, N.D.

v. House mir und Margan dir. Funeral Hymn. In his Schmuck und Asche, 1717, p. 252, in 6 st. of 6 l., entitled "Daily Dying"; ll. 1, 6 of each st. being identical. So in his Wanderstab, 1717, p. 66. In Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 1010. The tr. in C. U. is:—

Te-day mine, to-morrow thine. This is a good and full tr., by Miss Warner, in her Hys. of the Church Militant, 1858, p. 260; repeated in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860.

vi. Jo grösser Kreuz, jo nüher Himmel. Cross and Consulation. In his Andächtige Hertze, 1714, p. 273, in 9 st. of 6 l., entitled "Hymn of Cross and Consulation." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1233. By its sententiousness and its manifold illustrations of the power of the Cross it has been a favourite with many. Tr. as:—

1. Greater the Cross, the nearer heaven. This is a good tr., emitting st. ii., iii., in the Dalston Hospital H. Bk., 1848. In Sacred Lyrics from the German. Philadelphia, U.S., 1859, p. 183, it is marked as by "J. J. Gurney," but upon what anthority we know not.

6. The more the cross, the nearer heaven. By Miss Warner, in her Hys. of the Church Militant, 1858, p. 238, repeated in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860.

Another tr. ia: "The heavier the cross, the nearer beaven," by J. D. Burns, in the Family Treasury, 1859, p. 160 (Memoir and Remains, 1869, p. 142), repeated in the Schaff-Gilman Lib. of Rel. Poetry, ed. 1883, p. 758, altered and beginning, "Heavier the cross."

vii. Jesus soll die Losung sein. New Year. In his Mara und Manna, 1726, p. 201, in 9 st. of 6 l., entitled "Jesn's Name for the New Year, 1725." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 199, st. i.-iv. are given, with an added st. as st. iii. The tr. in C. U. is:—

Jesus shall the watchword be. This is a good tr. of st. i.-iv., by J. D. Burns, in his Memoir and Remains, 1869, p. 262; repeated (reading shall our) in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Another tr. is: "Jesu's name shall be our watchword," by J. Kelly, in the Family Transary, 1868, p. 689.

vill. Liebt vom Liebt, erleuchte mich. Sunday Morning. This fine hymn appeared in his Andachtige Hertze, 1714, p. 19, in 7 st. of 6 l., entitled "Morning Hymn," as one of the hymns for Morning Prayer on Sundays. In the Berlin
G. L. S. ed. 1883. No. 1061. Tr. as:—

G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1061. Tr. as:—
Light of Light, enlighten me. This is a very good tr., emitting st. vii., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 66, and thence in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 17. Repeated, in full, in Kennedy, 1863; Bapt. Hyl., 1879, and others, and in America in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868; Dutch Ref. Hys. of the Church, 1869; Presb. Hyl., 1874, &c.; and, abridged, in various collections.

Other tra. are: (1) "Light of Light! illumine me," by H. J. Buckell, 1842, p. S. (2) "O thou blessed Light of Light," by Miss Dusm, 1857, p. 74.

ix. Meinen Jesum lass ich nicht, Ach was wollt ich besares haben. Love to Christ. In his Heilige Flammen (ed. 1707, p. 7; ed. 1709, p. 10), in 8 st. of 6 l., entitled "The constant faithfulness of Jesus." The initial latters of the various lines give the name "Maria Helena von Hohberg, gebahrene Freiin von Biebrana." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 818. Tr. as:—

I'll with Jesus never part. This is a tr. of st. i., ii., iv., as st. iii.—v. of No. 378 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789. In the ed. of 1886, No. 452 (see p. 614, i.), the part from Schmolck begins, "He is mine and I am His?" (the tr. of st. ii.).

Another tr. is: "I'll not leave Jesus--never, never," by Must Warner, 1868, p. 509.

x. Kein Gott, ich weiss wehl case ich sterbe. For the Dying. This seems to have first appeared in the 9th ed. c. 1700, of the Breslau Volletändige Kirchen- und Haus-Music, p. 805. Also in Schmolck's Heilige Flommen (ed. 1707, p. 74; ed. 1709, p. 199), in 5 st. of 6 l., entitled "Daily Thoughts on Death." Included in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1478. Tr. as:—

My God! I know that I must die, My mertal. This is a good and full tr. by Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L., 1st Ser., 1854, p. 39 (1884, p. 41), repeated in Boardman's Sel., Philadelphia, U. S., 1861; Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868, and Holy Song, 1869.

Other trs. ars: (1) "That I shall die full well I know," by Br. H. Mills, 1845 (1856, p. 232). (2) "My God! I know full well that I must die," by Miss Warner, 1886, p. 344. (3) "My God, I know that I must die; I know," by G. Moultrie, in his Espousals of S. Dorothea, 1870.

xi. Mein Jesus loht! was soll ich sterben. Easter. In his Heilige Flummen (ed. 1707, p. 40; ed. 1709, p. 78), in 4 st. of 6 l., entitled "The ! Christian living with Jesus." In the Berlin O. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 312. Tr. as :-

My Seviour lives; I shall not perish. This is a good tr. by A. T. Russell, omitting st. i.., as No. 115, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851; slightly altered in Kennedy, 1883.

xil. O wie friblish, o wie selig. Eternal Life. In his Mura and Manna, 1726, p. 211, in 8 st. of 81., entitled "The best lot in God's hands." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 718. Tr. as :-

Oh haw joyous, sh how blessed. This is a good tr. of st. i., v., viii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 262, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

Another tr. is: "Oh, how blest beyond our telling."
This is in the British Herald, Nov., 1866, p. 350; repeated in Reid's Praise Bk., 1872. It is from "O wie unaussprechlich selig," a recast, probably by J. S. Dite-zich, as No. 133, in the Berlin G. B., 1765, in 2 st.

zifi. Bohmückt das Fest mit Majen. Whitsuntide. In his Andachtigs Hertze, 1714, p. 246, in 9 st. of 10 L, entitled "Hynn for Whitsuntide." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 372. Tr. as :-

Come, deck our feast to-day. By Miss Winkworth, omitting st. iv., in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 110. Abridged and recast in Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, U. S., 1864, No. 265.

ziv. That mir auf die sehine Pforte. Sunday. In his Kirchen-Gefährte, 1732, p. 47, in 7 st. of 6 l., entitled "Appearing before God" (in his Klage and Reigen, 1734, p. 89, entitled "The first step into the Church"). In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1381. Ir. as:—

1. Open now thy gates of beauty. This is a good ir., omitting st. iii., vii., by Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 15. Repeated, generally in full, in Dr. Thomas's Augustine H. Bk., 1866; New Cong. H. Bk. Suppl., 1874; Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884; and in America in the Pennsylvania Lath. Church Bk., 1868; Evang. Hyl., N. Y., 1880; Laudes Domini, 1884.

2. Open wide the gates of beauty. This is a tr. of st. i., ii., iv., vi.-vii., by H. I.. Hastings, dated 1885, as No. 1076, in his Songs of Pilgrimage, 1886.

Another tr. is : "Throw the glorious gates wide open," by Miss Manington, 1863, p. 146.

zv. Weine nicht, Gott lebet noch. Cross and Consolation. In his Heilige Flammen (ed. 1709, p. 144), in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "A little handkerchief for tears." Founded on St. Luke vil. 13. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1327. Tr.

Weep not,—Jesus lives on high. By Mrs. Find-later, omitting st. iii., in H. L. L., 1st Ser. 1854, p. 13; repeated in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860.

Another tr. is: "Weep not, for God, our God, doth live," by Dr. R. Maguire, 1883, p. 50.

Willkommen, Hald im Streits. In his Lustige Subbath, 1712, p. 95, in 12 st. of 4 l., entitled "Easter Triumphal Arch. At Midday on Easter Day." In Burg's G. B., Bres-lau, 1746, No. 627. The tr. in C. U. is:—

Welsome Then vintar in the strife. This is a good tr., emitting st. ii.-iv., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 1st Ser., 1855, p. 91 (C. B. for England, 1863, No. 61, emitting the trs. of st. v. viii., ix.). It was included, in full, in the Evang. Hyt., N. Y., 1880, and, abridged, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bh., 1868; Bapt.

No. 263 in the Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, U. S., 1864, as a "Hymn of Peace, Hymne not in English C. U.:-

Hymns not in English C. U.;—
xvii. Ach wan ich dich, mein Gott, mer habe. Low is God. Founded on Ps. Ixxiii, 25, 28. In his Hellige Mammes (cd. 1707, p. 29; ed. 1708, p. 49), in 3 st. of 81, and Porst is G. B., ed. 1855, No. 543. The initial letters of the various lines form the name "Anna Roshia Rehwaldin." Tr. as "My God, if I possess but Thee," by G. Moultrie, in his Esponsist of S. Darothea, 1870, xviii. An Gett will ich gedenken. Remembering God's Love and Care. In his Heilige Flawmen (ed.
1707, p. 53; ed. 1709, p. 131), in 6 st. of 8 1., and Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 112. Tr. as "My God will I remember," by J. Kelly, in the Family Transary, 1888.
xix. Ber Sabbath ist vergangen. Sunday Scening.
In hie Audicklige Herite, 1714, p. 28, in 5 st. of 6 1, and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1154. Tr. as "The Sabbath new is over," by Dr. H. Mille, 1855, p. 226.
xx. Du angenshmer Tag. Sanday. In his Lustige Sabbath, 1713, p. 1, in 8 st. of 6 1. Tr. as "Thou ever velcome day." by J. Kelly, in the Fundity Transary, welcome day," by J. Kelly, in the Fundly Francury, 1869, p. 688.
1869, p. 689.

xxi. Radioh, endlich, muss es doch. Cross and Consolation. In his Heilige Flammen (ed. 1709, p. 89), in 4 st. of 6 1., and Burgs G. B., Breslau, 1745, No. 1412.

Tr. as " Yes, at last, our God shall make," in the Caristian Examiner, Boston, U.S., Sept., 1860, p. 251.

xxii. Gedenke mela, main Gott, gedenke mein, For the Dying. In his Heilige Flammer (ed. 1708, p. 190), in 9 st. of 7 l. It is a conversation between the soul and Jesus; et. ix. being for the bereaved. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1446.

Tr. as "Bemember me, my My Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 1864, p. 9 (1884, p. 15).

xxiii. Gut, milder Leib, an deiner Ruls. Evening. In his Wanderséné, 1717, p. 50, in 5 st. of 4 l., and Knapp's xxiii. Cah, midder Leib, an deiner Ruh. Evening. In his Wanderstab, 1111, p. 50, in 5 at. of 4 1, and Knapp's En L. S., 1837 and 1855. Tr. as "Go, wearled body, to thy rest," by J. Keily, in the Eunally Treasury, 1888. xxiv. Gott der Juden, Gott der Haiden. Epiphany. In bis Lustige Sabbalk, 1712, p. 35, in 10 at. of 6 h, and Burg's G. B., Breelau, 1746, No. 408. "Tr. as "King, to Jews and Gentiles given," by Dr. H. Mills, 1845. xxv. Gott lebt, wie kann ich traurig sein. Trust in God. In his Heitige Flammer, fed. 1707, p. 53; ed. 1709, p. 116), in 6 st. of 8 1, and the Berlin G. t. S., ed. 1883, No. 841. Tr. as "God lives! Can I despair," by Mills Warner, 1863, p. 44. xxvi. Gott mit uns, Immanuel. New Fear. In his Rings wad Reigen, 1734, p. 298, in 6 st. of 6 1, and xxvi. 60th mit uns, Immanuel. New Ferr. In his Kinge used Reigen, 1734, p. 298, in 6 st. of 6 l., and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1898, No. 192. 27. as "God with us! Immanuel, Open with the year before us," by Dr. R. P. Dunn, in Sacred Lyrics from the German, Philadelphia, U.S., 1859, p. 166.

xxvii. Hier ist Immanuel! New Fear. In his Schnuck und Asche, 1717, p. 333, in 6 st. of 8 l., and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1893, No. 186. 7r. as "Here is Immanuel!" by Mits Manington, 1864, p. 24.

xxviii. Hilf, Helfer, hilf! ich muss vertagen. Cross and Constation. In his Helify Floatismen (ed. 1709, p. 185), in 6 st. of 6 l., and Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 1818. 7r. as "Heip, Saviour, help, I sink, I die," in the Manthly Facket, vol. xviii., 1859, p. 681.

p. 185, in 6 st. of 6 l., and Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 1418. Tr. as" Heip, Saviour, help, I sink, I die," in the Monthly Facket, vol. xvilit, 1859, p. 684.

xxix. Ich habe Lunt zu scheiden. For the Dying. In the Hellies Flammers, (ed. 1767, p. 83; ed. 1709, p. 207), in 8 st. of 8 l., entitled "Testament." Founded on Meditation lexix (on the Last Will of a Christan), in Dr. H. Müller's Erguickstundes. In the Berlin G. L. S., cd. 1863, No. 1852. Tr. as "Weary, waiting to depart," by Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L. 1855, p. 38 (1862, p. 130; 1884 omitted); and thence in the Schaff-Gilman Lib. of Rel. Poetry, ed. 1883, p. 873.

xxx. Ich starbe täglich, und mein Leben. For the Bying. In his Prenden-Cel, 1720, p. 28; in 9 st. of 6 l., v. S. A. L." (perheps for Herzog August von Sachsen, Albertinische Linke). In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1883, No. 1464. Tr. as "Both life and death are kept by Thee" (et. iv.), by J. Kelly, in the Family Treasury, 1868, p. 688.

1868, p. 589.
xxxi. Mein Gott, du hast mich eingeladen. Sunday.
In his Lustige Subbath. 1712, p. 259, in 8 st. of 8 L. and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1865, No. 1085. Tr. as "My God, Thou hast the invite given," by Kiss Manington, 1863, p. 150. xxxii. Kein Gott! du wohnst în sinsm Lichts. Panusylvania Lett. Caurch Bk., 1866; Bapt.

Service of Song, 1871, and others. The trs. of st. vi., viil., altered and beginning, "The dwellings of the free resound" (and with three st. not from the German, added), are included as by Dr. H. Mills, 1846 (1866, p. 25). I. E. V. S." Founded on Mey. ii. 10. Tr. as "Be unon faithful unto death! Let not troubles nor distresses," by R. Massie, in the Day of Rett, 1878, vol. 1x. p. 219.

R. Massie, in the Day of Rett, 1878, vol. 1x. p. 219.

R. Massie, in the Day of Rett, 1878, vol. 1x. p. 219.

R. Massie, in the Day of Rett, 1878, vol. 1x. p. 219.

R. Massie and Scheller, 1713, p. 14, in 9 st. of 6 l., and the Bertin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 441.

R. Tr. as "Word by God the Father spoken," by Hiss Manigation, 1865.

R. Was Gott thui das ist wohlgethan! Er glebt und minmit anch wieder. On the Death of a Child. In his Schnuck and Asche, 1717, p. 283, in 7 st. of 7 l.

R. Also in the Hamburg G. B., 1717, p. 295, and his Wanderstab, 1717, p. 82, in 7 st. of 7 l.

R. Also in the Hamburg G. B., 1842, No. 772. The 872, are (1) "What God does is well done, Who takes what He gave," by W. Graham, his The Jordan and the Rhime, London, 1854, p. 251.

(2) "Whatever God doth is well done, He gives, &c.," by J. Kelly, in the Fumily Treasury, 1868, p. 688.

R. Wer will mish van dar Lisbe scheiden. Fatth. In his Heiligs Flammen (ed. 1707, p. 52; ed. 1709, 1142, in 5 st., of 6 l., and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 629. Tr. as "Who can my soul from Jesus sever," by Miss Manington, 1863, p. 39.

Cabratiske Stab.

Schmücke dich, o liebe Seele. Franck. [Holy Communion.] Of this st. i. first appeared in J. Crüger's Geistliche Kirchen Of this st. i. Melodien, 1649, No. 103, set to the beautiful melody by Crüger given in the C. B. for England (see below). The full form, in 9 st. of 81., is in the Criger-Rungo G. B., 1653, No. 199, entitled "Preparation for Holy Communion." Included in Criger's Praxis, 1656, No. 267, and most succeeding hymn-books, as recently in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 490. In Franck's Geistliches Sion, 1674, No. 22 (1846, p. 55).

This hymn is perhaps the finest of all German hymns for the Holy Communion. It is an exhortation to the soul to arise and deaw near to partake of the Heavenly Food and to meditate on the wonders of Heavenly Love; roots and to meantate on the wonders of freewenty love; coulding with a prayer for final reception at the Eternal Feast. It soon attained, and still retains, popularity in Germany (in many German churches it is still the anyarying hymn at the calebration), was one of the first bymns tr. into Malabar, and passed into English in 1754.

It has been (r. into English as:-

1. Come, soul, thyself adorning. A free fr. by |

E. Jackson of st. i., vil., viil., as No. 199 in Dr. Hook's Church School H. Bk., 1850.

2. Deck thyself, my soul, with gladness. A good tr., omitting st. iii., vi., viii., by Miss Wink-worth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser. 1858, p. 94. Included in full in Cantate Domino, Boston, U. S., 1859, the Ohio Luth. Hymnal, 1880, &c., and, tomitting st. vi., in Snepp's Songs of G. and G., 1876. In Kennedy, 1863, st. iv.—vi. beginning "Here I sink before Thee lowly," were given as No. 660, and the same in the Christian H. Bk., Cincinnati, 1865.

3. Deck thyself, my soul, with gladness. By Miss Winkworth, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 93. This is her Lyra Ger. version re-written to the original metre. This form is found in the Clifton College H. Bk., 1872, and the Ecangelical Hyl., N. Y., 1880.

4. Soul, arise, dispel Thy sadness. A tr. of st. i., iv., iz. by Miss Borthwick as No. 259 in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864, repeated in H. L.

L., 1884, p. 263.

L., 1854, p. 200.

Other tra. are: (1) "Trim thy Lamp, O Soul betrothed," as No. 468 in pt. i. of the Morgulan H. Bk., 1754. (2) "Soul, at this most awful season," rewritten from the 1754 as No. 558 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1789 (1849, No. 364). (3) "Leave, my Soul, the shades of darkness," in Lyra Eucharistica, 1863, p. 88, signed "Sister B."

Schneegass, Cyriacus, was b. Oct. 5, 1546, at Buffleben, near Gotha. He studied and graduated M.A. at the University of Jena. In 1573 he became 'pastor of the St. Blasius church at Friedrichroda, near Gotha. Ho was also adjunct to the Superindendent of Woimer, and in this capacity signed the Formula of Concord in 1579. He d. at Friedrichroda, Oct. 23, 1597 (Koch, ii. 252, &c.).

Schneegass was a diligent pastor, a man mighty in the Scriptures, and firm and rejoicing in his faith. He was also an excellent musician and fostered the love of music also an excellent musician and fostered the love of music among his people. His hymns reflect his character, and are good and simple, setting forth in clear and intelligible style the leading ideas of the festivals of the Christian year, &c.; and his Pasim versions are also of considerable merit. They appeared principally in his (1) xv. Pusher graduum, &c., Erfort, 1995 [Jotha Library]. This contains the Frailms of Degrees (190–194) also Pe. 32 and 25, and turce hymns. (2) Weihendoht und NewsJahrs-Geräng, Erfurt, 1995. Rock speaks of this as containing 9 hymns. The present writer has been unable to trace a copy of the book. (3) Geistliche Lieder and Pushem. Für Englistig frome Hersen sugerichtel, Effurt, 1997 Berlin Library). This is the complete edition of his psalms and hymns, containing 72 in all.

Of his hymns those which have passed into English are:-

i. Das neugeborne Kindelein. Christmas. Probably first pub. in No. 2 above. Included in 1597 as above, No. 1, in 4 st. of 4 l., chilided "A beautiful little Christmas hymn on the dear little Jesus." Repeated in Wackernagel v. p. 133, and as No. 65 in the Unv. L. S., 1851. The trs. in C. U. are:—

1. The holy Bon, the new-born Child. A good and full br. by A. T. Russell, as No. 60 in his Pt. & Hyt., 1851.

1851.

2. The new-born Child this early morn. In full as

2. The new-born Child this early morn. In full as No. 46 in the Chio Luth. Hyl., 1880. Another tr. 1s (3) "The new-born Babe, whom Mary bore," as No. 439 in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Ek., 1754.
ii. Henr Gott Vater, wir preison dich. New Years. Probably 1st pub. in No. 2 above. Included in 1597 as above, No. 7, in 4 st, of T., entitled "A New Years Hymn." Repeated in Wackersaget v. p. 139, in the Pialz G. B., 1859, No. 129, and the Ohio G. B., 1870, No. 54. The tr. in C. U. is:—
O Lord our Father, thanks to Thee. In fall, by A. Crult, in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

[J. M.]

Schneesing, Johannes, sometimes called Chiomusus or Chyomusu, was a native of Frankfurt-am-Main. He was appointed, sometime before 1524, assistant to Johann Langenhayn, pastor of St. Margaret's church, in Gotha, who had begun, in 1522, to preach the doctrines of the Reformation. Subsequently he became pastor at Friemar, near Gotha; and in the records of the Visitation in 1534, he is described as a "learned, diligent, pious, and godly man." He d. at Friemar, in 1567. (Koch, i. 376, &c.)

During Schneesing's early years at Friemar, his energies were greatly exercised in combating the Anabaptist doctrines promulgated in the neighbourhood by Nicolaus Storch, of Zwickan. Throughout his incumbency, he greatly interested himself in the chikiren of his flock, for whom he prepared a Chachsim, taught them is school, catechised them in church, and, as his pupil, Marx Wagner declares, taught them to sing many hymns and tunes which he had them to sing many hymns and tunes which he had thuself composed. He also possessed some skill as a painter.

The only hymn which has been ascribed to Schneesing, with any certainty, is-Allein we dir, Horr Jesu Christ. Penitence. The earliest hymn-book to which this has yet been traced, is the (Low German) Magdeburg G. B., 1542, where it begins, "Alleyn the dy, and is entitled, "A Hymn of Penitence." Wackernagel, iii., pp. 174-177, gives this, and three other forms (the oldest being from an undated Nürnberg broadsheet, circa 1540), and ascribes it to Schneesing. It was included by Luther in V. Babst's G. B., 1545; and this text, in 4 st. of 9 l., is repeated in many later collections, as in the Unc. L. S., 1851, No. 861. Bunsen, in his Versuch, 1833, p. 85, calls it "an immortal hymn of prayer of a confident faith."

Its rhymes show that it was evidently written in High German, and, therefore, apparently, earlier than 1542. In the earliest broadsheets and hymn-books, it appears without name. Schnessing's pupil, Marx Wagner (b. at Friemar, 1528), in his Einfültiger Bericht, wie durch Nic. Storken, der Aufruhr in Thüringen sey ang-fangen worden, Erfurt, 1597, distinctly says that it was composed by Schneesing, and inserted by him in the Ms. Kirchenordnung (i.e. Liturgy), which he composed, in 1542, for the church at Friemar. Conrad Huober [b. 1507, at Berg-zabern; studied theology at the University of Basel; 1531, diaconus, and 1545, Canon of St. Thomas's church at Strassburg; d. at Strassburg, April 23, 1577], to whom it is ascribed in the Gros Kirchen G. B., Strassburg, 1560, does not seem to have had more share in it than a few alterations in the text; and the earliest Strass-burg H. Bk. in which it appears, is the New auserlesen Gesangbücklein, 1545, where it is marked "N. N." and not with Huober's name.

The melody generally set to it is first found in an undated broadeheek, which Wacksrungel, in his Bibbiographie, 1855, p. 172, No. coxxviii dates as probably at Wittenberg, 1841, and is repeated in V. Babst's G. B., 1845, and many later books, including the C. B. for England, 1868 (see below). It has been also ascribed to Schneening, but this ascription seems decidedly doubtful. doubtful.

The tra. of Schneesing's hymn are:-

- 1. In Thee alone, 0 Christ, my Lord. A good tr. of et. i.-ili., by A. T. Russell, as No. 194, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.
- 2. Zord Jesus Christ, in Thee alone. A good and full tr., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 129. Repeated, slightly varied in metre in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 112.

Other trs. are: -

Other trs. are:—
(1) "In Thes, Lord Christ, is fix'd my hope." By J. C. Jacobi, 1725. p. 20 (1732, p. 91). (2) "In Thee alone, Lord Jesus Christ," This is No. 308, in pt. i., of the Moravian H. Bh., 1754. (3) "In Thee, O Christ, is all my Hope." This is based on Jacob's tr., and is No. 539, in pt. i., of the Moravian H. Bh., 1754 (1336, No. 284). Included in the 1736 and latter eds. of Lady funtingom's Selection. (4) "According to Thy mercy, Lord." This is a tr. of st. iii., by J. Swetner, as st. L. of No. 120, in the Moravian H. Bh., 1759 (1865, No. 711). [J. M.]

Schnesing, Johannes. [Schnessing, J.]

Scholefield, James, M.A., s. of the Rev. Nathaniel Scholefield, Congregational Minister at Henley-on-Thames, was b. Nov. 15, 1789, and educated at Christ's Hospital, and at Cambridge, B.A. 1812. Taking Holy Orders, he was Curate to the Rev. Charles Simeon, 1813; Fellow of Trinity, Cambridge, 1815; and In-cumbent of St. Michael's, Cambridge, 1823. He was also Regius Professor of Greek at Cambridge, 1825, and Canon of Ely, 1849. He d. at Hastings, April 4, 1858. In addition to various learned works he pub. A Sel. of Psalms and Hymns, 1823 (11th ed., 1855), and Passion Week, a small devotional work including hymns, 1828. His Memoir was pub. by his widow in 1855. His hymns now in C. U., all from Passion Week, 1828, are :-

Draw me, 0 draw me, gracious Lord. Passiontide.
 I looked, and to my raptured eyes. Christ in Glory.

3. Once did the Cintment's rich perfume. Ancieting the first of Jerus.

[J. J.]

Schöner, Johann Gottfried, a. of J. G. Schöner, pastor at Rügheim, near Hassfurt, Bavaria, was b. at Rügheim, April 15, 1749. He studied at the universities of Leipzig and Erlangen. In 1772 he became tutor in the family of Herr von Winkler at Nürnberg, by whose influence he was appointed, in Sopt. 1773, preacher at St. Margaret's chapel, in the Kaiserburg, at Nürnberg. He was then appointed, in 1783, diaconus of St. Mary's church, and in 1783 diaconus of St. Lawrence's church, where, in 1809, he became chief paster (Stadtpfarrer). After 1799 he suffered greatly from nervous effections, and in October 1817, he had to resign his offices. He d. at Nürnberg, June 28, 1818. (Koch vi. 399; Heerwagen ii, pp. 32, 262, &c.)

Schöner was a popular preacher, and was specially successful with children. He took a great interest in the circulation of the Bible, and founded the Nürnberg Bible Society in 1805. His hymns are the fruit of genuine and earnest plety, and attained considerable popularity. A number were printed separately, or imagazines. The more important of the collected editions are (1) Einige Lieder zur Erbauung, Nürnberg, 1777 (Berlin Library). (2) Vermitchte geistliche Lieder und Gediehte, Nürnberg, 1790. (3) Volkständige Samulung der geistlichen Lieder und Gediehte von Johann Gottfried Schöner, Nürnberg, 1810.

Those of Schöner's hymns which have passed into English are :-

i. Erhebt euch, frohe Lobgesunge. Holy Matrimony. Included 1790, as above, p. 51, in 7 st. of 6 h., entitled "After a Marriage." It is one of the best hymns on the subject. It was included, but greatly altered, and in 12 st. (st. lii.-v., vii., ix., being added), as No. 490 in J. E. Gossner's Sammlung, 3rd ed. 1825, beginning "Erhebt euch, frohe Jubellieder." This text is repeated in full in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837, No. 2978; and, omitting the added sts., as No. 622 in Bunsen's Versuch, 1833. The tr. in C. U. is :-

Raise high the notes of exultation. A good tr., from Bunsen, by Miss Cox, in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 71. Included in full, but altered in metre, in Mercer's C. P. & H. Bk., 1857 and 1864, beginning "Now let your notes of praise arise." Miss Cox recast her tr. for her Hys. from German, 1864, p. 79, where it begins "Rise high, ye notes, a glad ovation." The form in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, is mainly from the 1864 text, but begins with the original first line, and omits st. iv. The form in Thring's Coll., 1882, is also mainly from the 1864 text; but it omits st. iii., and begins "Raise high in joyful acclamation." Another tr. is: "Lift up yourselves, ye loyous strains." In the British Mag., Nov. 1887, p. 51?. ii. Rimmel an, nur Kimmel an. Longing for Heaven. Included 1810, as above, p. 198, in 10 st. of 8 l., entitled "Our Conversation is in Heaven, Phil. iii. 20. A call to all Christians." It had previously appeared in the Sammisages für Liebhaber christlicher Wahrheit und Gottselig-keit, Basel, 1806, p. 222. It has been a special favourite in Württemberg, and is No. 421 in the Württemberg G. B., 1842. The tr. in C. U. is:-

Heavenward, still beavenward. In full, by Dr. H. Mills, in his Horas Ger., 1845, p. 163 (1856, p. 251), included, abridged, in M. W. Stryker's Christian Chorals, 1885.

Other hymns by Schöner are:-

Other hymns by Schöner are:— in. Der Glaube fehlt, und darum fehlen. Faith. On the exite of feelle faith. In 1790 as above, p. 116, in 6 st. of 6 l., entitled "Feeble Faith." In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 552. Tr. se, "Faith fails; Then in the dust," by Miss Warner, 1858, p. 427.
iv. Es dankt mein Herr! Es janchet meln-Lied.
Pilgriss Song. In 1810 as above, p. 112, in 12 st. of 4 l., entitled "Hymn of consolation on the pligrim way to Heaven." In the Wintemberg G. B., 1842, it begins, "Dir dankt mein Herr." Tr. se, "O Christ, in gladsome faith arise," by Br. G. Walker, 1860, p. 95.
v. Friedefürst, vernimm mein Flahan. Passiontide.
In 1790 as above, p. 18, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "Appro-

v. Friedefürst, vernimm mein Flehen. Passiontide. In 1790 as above, p. 18, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "Appropriation of the sorrows of Jesus. Passion Hymn." In his ed. 1810, p. 18, aitered and beginning, "Friedefürst an dem wir fiehen," and in 8 st. This text is in Knapp's Ro. L. S., 1837 and 1865. 27. as "Pripce of Peace! Thy Name confessing," by Miss Burtingham in the British Herald, Feb., 1868, p. 218, repeated in Reid's Praise Br., 1872.

Printes Herald, Feb., 1886, p. 218, repeated in Bend's Proise Bit., 1872.
vi. Inh blink in jean Höhe. Longing for Heaven, In 1737 as above, p. 32, in 14 st. of 4 l., autitled "Removal from the World." Repeated 1790, p. 84, and in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1855. rv. as "Mine eyes are thither turning," in the British Hevald, July 1866, p. 227, and Reid's Praise Bk., 1872.

[J. M.]

Schönster Herr Jesu. [Love to Christ.] In Heart Melodies, No. 51, Lond., Morgan & Chase, N. D. this is marked as "Crusader's Hymn of the 12th cent. This air and hymn used to be sung by the German pilgrims on their way to Jerusalem." For these statements there does not seem to be the shadow of foundation, for the air referred to has not been traced earlier than 1842, nor the words than 1677. In the Mönster G. B., 1677, p. 576, it appears as the first of "Three beautiful selected new Hymns" in 5 st., viz.:-

Schönster Herr Jegu; H. Alle die Schönheit; H. Schame dich Sonne; iv. Schön seindt die Blumen; v. Er ist wahrhaftig.

In the Schlesische Volkslieder, Leipzig, 1842, p. 389, it is given with greatly altered forms of st. i., iii., ii., v., with a second st. ("Schön sind die Wälder") practically new. The text and melody (the melody that in C. U.) are both marked as taken down from oral recitation. tion in the district (Grafschaft) of Glaz. In !

the  $Unv.\ L.\ S.$ , 1851, is st. i., iii., and the new st., all nearly from the text of 1842; and this is the text which has been translated. Tr. as:-

Pairest Lord Jean. Mr. Richard Storre Willisof Detroit (U. S. A.) informs me that this ir. appears in his Church Chorals, 1850, but that he does not know the name of the translator. It has passed into various American collections as the Plymouth Coll., 1855; Dutch Ref. 1869, Robinson's Songe for the Sanctuary, 1865, &c., and in England into Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865; Allon's Children's Worship, 1878, &c.

Other tra. are: (1) "Sweetest Lord Jean, Lord," by E. Matrie, 1867, p. 263. (2) "Beautiful Saviour! King of Creation." by Dr. J. A. Selss, in the Sweden School Bk., Philad., 1813, of the Amer. Luth. Gen. Council.

Schröder, Johann Heinrich, was b. Oct. 4, 1667, at Springe (Hallerspringe) near Hannover. He studied at the University of Leipzig, where he experienced the awakening effects of A. H. Francke's lectures. In 1696 he was appointed paster at Meseberg, near Neuhaldensleben; and in the registers there records of himself (writing in the third person), "1696, on the 17th S. after Trinity, viz. on Oct. 4, on which day he was born, with the beginning of his 30th year, he entered on the pastorate of this parish." He d. at Meseberg, June 30, 1699 (Koch, iv., 381; Bistler für Hymnologie, 1883, p. 192, &c.).

Schröder is best known by the four hymns which he contributed to the Geistreiches G. B., Halle, 1897; and which are repeated in the Goidreiches G. B., Darmstadt, 1658; and in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1744. They are revo; and in reynagmanen's G. B., 1704. They are very good examples of the early hymna of the Pietista, being genuins and sarnest outpourings of Love to Carist, not numixed with Chillattic hopes for the victory of Zlou and the overthrow of Habylan. In the same books are two hymns by his wife (Tranquilla Sophia see Wolf), who d. at Meseberg, April 29, 1697.

Two of Schröder's hymns have passed into English, viz. :

i. Rine let noth, ach Herr, dies eine. Love to Christ. This is included in the Gentreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, p. 505, in 10 st. of 8 l., entitled, "One thing is needful. Luke r. 42. Jesus, Who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteonsness, and sanctification, and redemption. 1 Cor. i. 30." It is also in Wagner's  $\theta$ .  $B_+$ Leipzig, 1697, vol. iii., p. 437. It is repeated in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, No. 325, and in many later collections, e.g. the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 686, &c.

ed. 1805, No. 585, &c.

Its popularity has been due, not only to its own beauty and power, but also to the taking character of the melody to which it is set. This is by J. Neander, in his Bundes Lieder, Bremen, 1880, as the melody of Grosser Prophete (p. 798, i.); and was altered in Freylinghausen to suff Schröder's hymn. The full form from Freylinghausen is in Mercer's C. P. & B. B., and there called Landsberg. The second part is given in the Brittol Tene Book as Ems. A greatly altered form, as Ratishon, has passed through W. H. Havergal's Old Church Paslandey into the Irish Church Hyl., the Scottish Presb. Hyl., and others. others.

The tr. in C. U. from Schröder is :-

One thing's needful, then, Lord Jesus. This is a good and full tr., by Miss Cox, in her Socred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 137 (Hys. from the German, 1864, p. 217), repeated in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869 and 1870. In 1857, Mercer adopted the trs. of st. v.-viii., x., as No. 411 in his C. P. & H. Bk., altered, and beginning, "Wisdom's highest, noblest treasure." In his 1859 ed., he omitted the tr. of st. z. and altered the others, now beginning, "Wisdom's highest, holiest, treasure; " and this form is repeated, reading "Wisdom's unexhausted treasure," in his Oxford ed., 1864.

Other translations are :-

(1) "One thing is needful! Let me deem." By Miss Winkworth, 1855, p. 183. (2) "One thing's needful:—this rich treasure." By Dr. H. Milis, 1856, p. 92, ii. Josu, hilf siegen, du Finste des Lebens. Christian Warfare. In the Gaistreiches G. E., Halle, 1697, p. 509, in 14 st., of 6 l., entitled, "Tearful sight for the help of Jesus." Also in Wagner's G B., Leipzig, 1697, vol. vi., p. 711, in 14 st., entitled, "For God's succour in order to overcome spiritual enemies," In the Gcistreiches G. B., Darmstadt, 1698, p. 216, st. xv., xvi., are added, and this form is in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 667. It is said to have been written, in 1696, as a companion to his wife's hymn, " Trantster Jesu, Ehrenkönig" (Halle, 1697, as above, p. 801, and the G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 771). It was accused of Chiliasm, by the Theological Faculty of Wittenberg, but still holds an honoured place in German collec-tions. The trs. are:—(1) "Jesus, help conquer! Thou Prince ever-living." By Dr. H. Mills, 1856, p. 126. (2) "Jesus, help conquer, Thou Prince of my being." By Miss Manington, 1863,

The hymn beginning, "Jesus, help conquer | my spirit is sinking," by Miss Warner, in 6 st., in her Hys. of the Church Militant, N. Y., 1858, p. 161, borrows little more than the first line from the German. It is repeated in Boardman's Selection, Philadelphia, 1861, No. 468.

Christian Friedrich Schubart, Daniel, s. of Johann Jakob Schubart, schoolmaster and assistant clergyman at Obersontheim near Hall, in Württemberg (after 1740, at Aalen), was b. at Obersont-beim, March 26, 1739, and in 1758 entered the University of Erlangen as a student of theology. Thereafter he was for some time a private tutor at Königsbronn. In 1764 he was appointed organist and schoolmaster at Geisslingen, near Ulm. In 1768 he became organist and music-director at Ludwigsburg; but, in 1772, on account of misconduct, he was deprived of his office. After that, he led for some time a wandering life, and then settled down in Ulm, where he edited a political newspaper, entitled the Deutsche Chronik, with success. By his sourrilous attacks on the clergy, especially on the Roman Catholics, and in particular upon the Jesuits, and by a satirical peem on the Duke of Württemberg, he made himself obnoxious. Unsuspectingly accepting an invitation to Blaubeuren, he was handed over to the Duke's adjutant, and, on Jan. 23, 1777, was imprisoned in the castle of Hohenasperg, where he remained, without even the shadow of a trial, till May 11, 1787. As a recompense for his long imprisonment, the Duke made him Court and theatre poet at Stuttgart, where he d. of fever, Oct. 10, 1791 (Koch, vi. 876; K. H. Jördens's Lexicon deutscher Dichter und Prosaisten, vol. iv. 1809, p. 639).

Schubart was a man of versatile genius, who might have attained distinction in half a dozen lines of life, had be only stuck to any of them. He was a man who could make himself most popular, spite of the fact that he pos-sessed hardly any tast. His moral principles were anything but strong; and the Ten Commandments (especially the seventh) seemed to have little rectraining influence over him. As a writer of eccular poems, especially of lyrics, he displayed vigour and spirit; but his literary workmanship was often very careless. His hyrnns, over 130 in all, were written during the two periods when he led an orderly and Christian life, viz., in the years 1784-66, immediately after his marriage, and in the years 1784-67, during his enforced absence from temptation. His captive state, his reading of the devotional books in the commandant's library, and the visits which he them received from P. M. Hann, pastor at Kornwesthelm, awakened in him a repentance, sincere if not allogather lifelong; one of the principal results being the series of hymns included in his accelled Gesichte sus dess Kerker (Zürich, 1785). These were composed at a time when was deprived of writing materials, and were dictated through a wall to a failow prisoner in the next cell. They were pub. without his knowledge or supervision, in self defence he saked the Duke's permission to pub. an authorised ed. of his poems; and this appeared at Stutigart, in 2 vols., 1785-86, as his Simastiche Gedichte (a number of copies, printed beyond the subscription, hear the detact 1787 and the name of the Eventual of the tears of the Eventual of the care of the tears of the Eventual of the care of the tears of the Eventual of the care of the care of the care of the teach of the care of the care of the teach of the care of Stuttgart, in 2 vols., 1785-86, as his Sinsatilicke Gedickte (a number of copies, printed beyond the subscription, bear the date 1787, and the name of a Frankfurt publisher, e.g. the copy in the Brit. Mus.); and this also included most of those in his Indeaposonge, originally pub. at Ulm in 1787. Being printed at the Bucal printing office at Stuttgart, the poems were subjected to an official revision. Schubert meant to issue a genuine author's edition, but did not live to do so; and that pub. by his son, as his father's Gedickte, in two parts, at Frankfurt, 1805, is really a selection, and contains only about half of his hymns.

The best of Schubert's hymns are those first pub. in 1788, which are more genuine and sphilipsi than his

The best of Schulbert's hymns are those first pub. in 1888, which are more genuine and sphilusal than his earlier productions. A considerable number became popular, and passed into the Württemberg G. B., 1791, and other collections, up to 1850; and a few still continue in C. U. They are, however, too personal and subjective, and not sufficiently natural in style for ceneral up. general use.

Of Schubart's hymns the following have been tr. into English, viz.:-

i. Urqueil aller Beligkeiten. Supplication for Spiritual Blessings. This fine hymn was written about 1780, and 1st pub. in his Gedichte aus dem Kerher, Zürich, 1785, p. 102, in 16 st. of 4 l., entitled, "Supplication." The full text is in Koch, 2nd ed., vol. iv., p. 740. In the Wurttemberg G. B., 1791, No. 404, it is reduced to 12 st.; and the same in the ed. of 1842, No. 21, In Dr. Schaff's Deutsches G. B., Philadelphia, U. S., 1860, No. 274, it has only ten. Tr. as :— Though by sorrows evertaken. This can hardly be called a tr., but is rather a hymn suggested by the German, and is in 6 st. of 4 l. It appeared in A. R. Reinagle's Coll. of Ps. and Hy. Tunes as sung in the Parish Church of St. Peter in the East, Oxford, pub. at Oxford in 1840, p. 138. It is one of four hymns [for the others, see pp. 899, [.; 808, 1.; 1081 i.], regarding which the Rev. Walter Kerr Hamilton (then Rector of St. Peter's, afterwards Bishop of Salisbury), says, in the preface, "Philip Pusey, Esq., has allowed me to add to this collection some hymns which are partly translations and partly original." From Reinagle this hymn passed, with alterations, into the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, the Sarum Hyl., 1868, and various other collections. In Lord Selborne's Bh. of Proise, 1862, it is No. 363, and is marked as by "Algernon Herbert," who was Pussy's brotherin-law; and in the Sarum Hyl., as "German tr. by Algernon Herbert." The ascription to Pusey seems the more probable, Other hymns by Schubert are :-- if, Allos int suer! O Warts des swigen Lebens. Thunkegiving. Written about 1784, and 1st pub. at Zürich, 1786, as above, p. 117, in 8 st. of 5 l.; founded on 1 Cor. ill. 21-22. in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1883, No. 1250. Tr. as, "All things are yours! O sweet message of mercy divine," By Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 1855, p. 5 (1884, p. 73).

iii. Der Tranning Last liegt schwer auf mich. Reunion in Meaven. On the sorrow of parting with friends whom one hopes to meet in heaven. 1st pub. at Zürich, 1785, as above, p. 143, in 14 st. of 7 l., entitled, "The meeting again of the righteons." In the Württemberg 1786, as above, p. 183, in 19 as in the Charlest and meeting again of the righteonis." In the Wirttenberg G. B., 1842, No. 188, in 9 st. Tr. as, "I die and grieve from those to go." By Dr. G. Walker, 1880, p. 68.

iv, Hier stand ein Mensch! Hier fiel er nieder. Sudden death of a Sunrer. 1st pub. at Ulm, 1767, as above, p. 199, in 12 st. of 8 l., entitled, "A sudden death." In the American Ev. Luth. G. B., 1786, No. 1869. Tr. as, "Now one in health Death, instant, crushes." By Dr. H. Mills, 1845 (1856, p. 32).

v. Kommt heut en eurem Stabe. For the Aged. On the Presentation in the Temple; and founded on St. Luke ii. 22 -32. 1st pub. at Ulm, 1767, as above, p. 262, in 12 st. of 4 l., entitled, "Sincon." In the Wirttenberg G. B., 1781, No. 101. Tr. as, "Ye who with years are sinking." By Dr. H. Mills, 1845 (1856, p. 275).

Schutz, Johann Jakob, was b. Sept. 7, 1640, at Frankfurt am Main. After studying at Tübingen (where he became a licentiate in civil and canon law), he began to practice as an advocate in Frankfurt, and in later years with the title of Rath. He seems to have been a man of considerable legal learning as well as of deep piety. He was an intimate friend of P.J. Spener; and it was, in great measure, at his suggestion, that Spener began his famous Collegia Pictatis (see Spener, p. 1071, ii.). After Spener left Frankfurt, in 1686, Schütz came under the influence of J. W. Petersen (p. 802, i.); and carrying out Petersen's principles to their logical conclusion, he became a Separatist, and ceased to attend the Lutheran services or to communicate. He d. at Frankfurt, May 22, 1690 (Koch, iv. 220; Blütter für Hymnologie, Feb. 1883). Bee also Various.

Schütz is known as an author by two tractates; one being his Christiche Lebensregen, Frankfort, 1677; the other, that which contains his hymns, Christiches Gedenchücklein, zu Beförderung eines anfangenden neuen Lebens, Sc., Frankfurt em Main, 1676 [Library of the Predigerministerium at Frankfurt]. This work or the Frengermansterium at Frenklinti. This work includes 5 hymns, in a separate section, which is beaded, "Hierard folgen ethiche Gestinge." These hymns are:

1. Die Wollust dieser Welt.

11. Was mich auf dieser Welt behrübt.

tit. So komm, geliebte Todes-Stund, iv, Scheuet ihr, ihr matten Glieder, v, Sei Lob und Ehr dem höchsten Gut. Of these No. v. is undoubtedly by Schütz, and the other four exhibit much the same style of thought as, and frequent parallels to, the prose portions of the work. None of these have been traced earlier than 1675; and until this has been done, it is pretty safe to ascribe them all to Schiller

Three of these hymns have passed into English, viz.:-

i. Sei Lob und Ehr dem höchsten Gut. Praise and Thanksgiving. 1st pub. in 1675, as above, No. v. It is founded on Dout. xxxii. 3; entitled, "Hyum of Thanksgiving;" and is in 9 st. of 6 l., and the refrain, "Gebt unserm Gott die Ehre." It massed into the Minden G. B., 1689; Luppius's G. B., 1692, p. 48; the Geistreiches G. B., Halle, 1697, pp. 570 and 656; and is now found in almost all German collections, as in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 721.

Koch, iv. 220, speaks of this hymn as "outwelghing many hundred others; and a classical hymn, which, from its first appearance, attracted unusual attention." from its arst appearance, attracted unusual attention.

And Lauxmann, in Koch, vili. 234-239, relates how delighted J. J. Moser was, when, on entering church the first Sunday after his captivity at Hohentwiel, he heard this hymn, and how heartily he joined in it; how it consorted the dying G. C. Rieger, of Stuttgart, on Tuesday, in Easter Week, 1243, and many other incidenta.

Translations in C. U. :-

1. All Glory to the Sov'reign Good. This is a

Germanica, 2nd ed., 1732, p. 151, where it is entitled, "The Malabarian Hymn." In the Moracian H. Bk., 1754, pt. i., No. 136, it is entitled, "Summary of the Book of Psalms" (1886, No. 646). Montgomery, in his Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 215, adopted st. i.-iv., nearly from the 1754; and from this, the trs. of st. i., ii., iv., were repeated in Gurney's Mary-lebone Coll., 1851; Windle's Coll., &c. The form in the 1873 Appx. to Mercer's C. P. & H. Bt., No. 514, consists of st. i.-iv., viii., recast mainly from the 1801 Moracian, but partly from Miss Cox. In J. A. Latrobe's Ps. & Hys., 1841, No. 5, st. i., ii., v., viii., ix., were adapted for use on Trinity Sunday.

2. All glory he to God most high. A good tr., by A. T. Russell, of st. i., iv., viii., for the Dalston Hospital H. Bk., 1848, No. 59.

3. All praise and thanks to God most high. This is a good tr., omitting st. ix., by Miss Wink-worth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 146. Repeated, in varying centos, in Ps. & Hys., Bedford, 1859; Harrow School H. Bk., 1866; Holy Song, 1869; Irish Church Hyl., 1878, and others. In her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 2, Miss Winkworth altered the metre and omitted st.vi; and this form was repeated in full in the Evang. Hyl., N. Y., 1880, and abridged (i.-iv.) in the Hymnary, 1871.

4. Sing praise to God Who reigns above. good tr., omitting st. ix., contributed by Miss Cor to Lyra Eucharistica, 1864, p. 33, and included in her Hys. from the German, 1864, p. 235. This tr. is given in full in J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876. It is also found, in varying centos, in many English and American hymn-books, ineluding H. A. & M., 1868 and 1875; Bapt. Hyl., 1879; Thring's Coll., 1882; and in America, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868; College Hyl., N. Y., 1876; Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880, &c.

To God a joyful anthem raise. A good tr. of st. i., ii., iv., v., viii., by J. M. Sloan, as No. 314, in J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865.

The following are also tr. into English:-

B. So komm, gellohte Todes-Stund. For the Dying. Ist pub. in 1875, as above, No. iii., in 11 st. of 8 i., entitled, "The thoughts on Death of a Royal Princess, after the usual interpretation of Job xix. 28." This Princess was Sophile Elisabethe, daughter of Duke Philipp Ludwig, of Hoistein-Sonderburg (b. at Homburg vor der Höhe, May 4, 1863; married, in 1876, to Duke Morits, of Sachse-Zoits; d. at Schlensingen, Aug. 19, 1884), who had been a regular attender at Spener's conferences at Frankfurt, and thus associated with Schütz. This hymn (as also No. iv. in the 1875 work) has often been ascribed to her; and she had already chosen Job xix. 25, as the text of her funeral sermon. But it is more probable that both bymns were written by Schütz for her use, or in her honour. The text of No. iii. in 1875, is repeated in the Geistliche Lieder und Prolinen, Frankfurt, 1876, p. 148, in Freylinghnusen's G. R., 1704; Port's G. R., ed. 1885. No. 883, &c. The tra. are:—(1) "Come, happy bour of death, and close." By Dr. G. Walker, 1800, p. 56. (2) "O come, delightful hour of death." By Dr. G. Walker, 1800, p. 106. li. So komm, geliebte Todes-Stund. For the Dying.

"O come, delightful hour of death. By Dr. u. washer, 1860, p. 106.

iii, Was mich auf dieser Welt betrübt. Earthly fundics. This bypn, on Renunciation of the World, 1st appeared in 1675, as above, No. ii., in 4 st. of 10 1., and entitled "From the World to God." Repeated in the Geistlicke Lieder und Fragmen, Frankfurt, 1676, p. 180; Foret's G. E., ed. 1855, No. 788, &c. It has sometimes been erroneously ascribed to Michael Franck (p. 396, i.). It is tr. as "The wose that weigh my body down." By Miss Manington, 1863, p. 32.

[J. M.]

Schwedler, Johann Christoph, s. of Anton Schwedler, farmer and rural magistrate full and good tr., by J. C. Jacobi, in his Pad. | at Krobsdorf, near Löwenberg, in Silesia, was b. at Krobsdorf, Dec. 21, 1672, and matriculated at the University of Leipzig, in 1695 (M.A. 1697). In 1698 he was appointed assistant minister at Niederwiese, near Greiffenberg, and began his duties there on the 18th S. after Trinity. On the death of the diaconus, Christoph Adolph, he succeeded him as discours, in December, 1698; and, finally, in 1701, he became pastor there. He d. at Niederwicze, suddenly, during the night of Jan. 12, 1730. (S. J. Ehrhardt's Presbyterologie Schleriens, 1780-89, vol. iii., pt. ii., p. 254; Koch, v. 225, &c.)

p. 254; Koch, v. 225, &c.)
Schwedler was a powerful and popular preacher, and pecullarly gifted in prayer. It is said that sometimes, beginning service at 5 or 6 A.M., he would continue the service to relays who in succession filled the church, till 2 or 3 r.M. He also founded an orphanage at Nieder-wiese. He was a near neighbour and great friend of Johann Mentzer (p. 724, id.) and K. L. von Zinzendorf. As a hymn-writer he was useful and popular. The principal theme of his hymns was the Grace of God through Christ, and the Joyful confidence imparted to the soul that experienced it. Of his hymns, 452 appeared in his Bic hieder Rose and Expunse, oder sear chargerichtetes Gesang-Buch, Budissin, 1720, Nos. 345-805. Others are in his Wochenticke Hasse-Andack, 1714, in his various devotional works, and in the hymn-books of his various devotional works, and in the hymn-books of the period.

The only hymn by Schwedler tr. into English is:-

Wollt the wissen was main Preis? Jesus the Crucified, or Love to Christ. Founded on 1 Cor. ii. 2, and Gal. vi. 14. Included in the Hirschberg G. B., 1741, No. 233, in 6 st. of 4 l., and the refrain, "Jesus, der Gekreuzigte." This form is repeated, with his name, in Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 327; and is in many recent collections, as the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 282. It was long the usual funeral hymn in Silesia. The tra. in C. U. are :-

1. Ask ye what great thing I know. By Dr. Kennedy, in his Hymn. Christ., 1863, No. 620, being a good fr. of st. i .- v., with a sixth st. suggested by st. vi. of the German. It is repeated, in full, in Thring's Coll., 1882; and in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869 and 1870. Abridged forms are in Morall and How's Ps. & Hys., 1864; J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876; and in America, in the Dutch Ref. Hys. of the Church, 1869; Bapt. Praise Bk., 1871; Laudes Domini, N. Y., 1884, and others.

2. Do you ask what most I prize ? This is a fairly close version, omitting st. vi., as No. 98, in the Moravian H. Bk., 1886. [J. M.]

Schweinitz, Hans Christoph von, of Friedrichsdorf and Niederleube, s. of Baron Hans Christoph von Schweinitz, of Crane and Hähnichen, in Silesia, was b. at Crane, Feb. 1, 1645. After studying at Breslau, Strassburg, Leyden, and Paris, and taking a prolonged tour in Italy and elsewhere, he returned to Silesia in 1668, where he was appointed Landesültester for the district of Görlitz, and afterwards Rath and Kammerherr, by August II., in his capacity of King of Poland and Elector of Saxony. He resigned his post as Landesältester, in 1708, and retired to Leube, where he d. Nov. 10, 1722 (G. F. Otto's Lexicon . . . Oberlausizischer Schriftsteller, iii., p. 257, &c.). Only two hymns are known by him. One of these Wird das night Freude sein? Eternal Life. This beautiful hymn, on the Joys of Heaven, was written on the death of his first wife, Theodora von Schweinitz (nee!

Festenberg). It was first printed, as a broadsheet, at Lauban, in 1631, with music, in 5 parts, by Christoph Adolph, discouns at Niederwises, who d. in 1636 (melody from this broadsheet in Dr. J. Zahn's Paulter und Harfe, 1886, No. 522). The broadsheet, of which there is a copy in the Town Library at Breslau, is entitled Ben lettics Liebesdienst, &c., and has the note:—"The following bymn was composed from the late Frau von lowing bymn was composed from the late Fran von Schweinkt's own words, and from a conversation she hald, shortly before her happy end, and was sung after the end of the [funeral] sermon." The hymn was included in J. C. Schwedler's Lieder Mose, 1720, No. 296 (marked as "On the death of a little child. Job. Christ. von Schweinftz"), and in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1893. It is 15 et. of 61. The tr. in C. U. is .— Will that not joyful be? This is a full and very good tr., by Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L., 1st Ser., 1864, p. 7 (1884, p. 13); repeated, in full, in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1866, and, omitting st. ill., in the American Subbath B. Bk., 1868. Stanzas i.—iv., altered, and beginning, "Ob, that will Joyful be," are in W. B. Brabbury's Golder Chain, N. Y., 1861 (ed. 1870, p. 48). Another tr. is, "Will it not pleasure be." By Dr. H. Mills, 1848 (1866, p. 259).

Boott, Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Scott, Independent Minister at Norwich, and sister of Thomas Scott, noted below, was b. at Norwich about 1708. In 1751 she was married to Elisha Williams, who had been from 1726 to 1739 Rector of Yale College, U.S.A., and with him she proceeded to Con-necticut. On the death of Mr. Williams she was married to the Hon. William Smith, of New York, who also predeceased her. She died at Wethersfield, Connecticut, June 13th, 1776. In connection with Miss Scott's hymns we are acquainted directly and indirectly with four MSS., each of which is interesting in itself. These are as follows:--

I hese are as follows:—

I. The first Ms. is in the library of Yale College, New Haven, Connecticut. Mr. Franklin Bowditch Dexter, M.A., Assistant Librarian, has tabulated the hymns in this Ms. for this Dictionary. He saye (Jan. 29, 1889): "The label on the back of this volume is 'Hymns & Poems by Eliz. Scott.' There is no title to the Ms. pages. Prefixed to the Hymns and Poems there is, however, a long and very tenderly written dedication (in prose) 'To my much Rever'd, much Lov'd, Enther,' this signed 'E. S.' and dated 1740. Then follows (with the man with titles and first libra as

(in prose) To my much Rever'd, much Lov'd, Father, this signed E.S. and dated 1740. Then follows (without numbers) the Hymns with titles and first lines as below." Mr. Dexter adds on the first lines and the titles of so hymns.

il. The second at, is in our possession. It is headed "Foems on Several Occasions by Miss Scott of Norwich, who married to Mr. Williams of New England, January 1750/1." Then follow 25 hymns in full. At the end this is written, "These transcribed from Mrs. Williams this written, "These transcribed from Mrs. Williams in Manuscript, Feb. 27, 1751, the week before she left Norwich to go to New England." The whole of these 28 hymns are in the Yale College Ms.

iii. The third Ms. we have consulted contains 8

28 hymns are in the Yale College Ms.

iii. The third Ms. we have consulted contains a hymns which are prefaced with these words, "Copfed from a book of Mrs. Bury's, written by her Aust Miss Bizabeth Scott, afterwards Mrs. Williamson." Of these hymns 6 are in the Yale College Ms. and 2 not therein, viz.:—(1) "Arles and hall the happy [sacred] day" (p. 73, 1), and "Hall, King supreme, all wise and good," both of which are given anonymously in the Unitarian New Col. of Ps. for the Use of a Cong. of Protestant Picsenters in Liverpool, commonly known as The Liverpool Ititury, pub. in 1763. Concerning the authorship of these two hymns there is great doubt, iv. In Dr. Dodd's Christian's Magazine for Dec. 1763 we find a writer who signs himself "CL—T." He had at that time a Ms. of Miss Scott's hymns with a Dedication to her father prefixed thereto and signed "Eliz at that time a set, of Miss Scott's hymne with a Dedica-tion to her father prefixed thereto and signed "Eliz Sc-tt." From this ms. he sent "Why droops my soul with guilt oppressed "(Christ, the Great Physician) to the Dee, number of the magazine; "Evil and few our mortal days" (Vanily of human Life), to the Feb. number, 1764, and "What finite power with ceaseless toil" (Praise for Temporal Bicasings), to the April number of the same year. At the close of the last hymn he says in a note:—"N.B. "As some of your Corre-spondents have sent you some pleces out of the same collection, from which these are transcribed, that I have undertaken to send you (e.g. that on Gen. xvii. 1) it undertaken to send you (e.g. that on Gen. xvii. 1) it were to be wished, if they should do the like again, that they would signify whose they are." The hymn referred to in this note is, "Great God, Thy penetrating eye" (that pervading all things), which appeared in the January number of the Christian Mag., 1764, without signature or acknowledgment of any kind. All these hymns are in the Yale College Ma.

From these facts it is clear that before departing for America Miss Scott allowed copies of her hymns to be made from her Ms., and it was mainly from these copies that those of her hymns composed before her marriage were printed in the English hymn-books. None of those hymns date later than 1750. The collections in which they appeared, and through which they came into C. U., were the Bristol Bap. Coll. of Ash and Evans, 1769, and the New Sel., &c., by J. Dobell, 1806. In Ash and Evans there are 19 hymns, signed "S.," all of which are in the Yale College Ms. under the same first lines expect # Wen it for year, apostate men?" lines except " Was it for man, apostate man?" but this also may possibly be there under another first line. In Dobell there are 20 bymns signed "Scott," of which 17 are in the Yale College Ms., 2 are parts of hymns from Ash and Evans, also in that Ms., and "Sole Sovereign of the earth and akies," also probubly in the Ms. under snother first line. Of the 90 hymns in the Yale Ms., in addition to those annotated elsewhere in this Dictionary (see Index of Authors and Translators), there are also in C. U. :-

 From Ash and Evane's Coll. of Hymns, 1769. 1. God of my life, to Thee belongs. On Recovery

2. My God, shall I for ever mourn? Covenant-keeping God. From this "Shall e'er the shadow of a change?" is taken (st. iii.).

When Abram full of sacred awe. For a Fast they.
 Sometimes, "Thus Abram, full of sacred awe."
 Why, O my heart, these anxious cares? Submissions.

- ii. From J. Dobell's New Selection, &c., 1806.
- 5. Dare we indulge to wrath and strife? Against
- 6. Eternal Spirit, 'twas Thy breath. Whitsuntide. 7. For ever shall my foliating soul. Against gricoing the Hoty Spirit. Sometimes "O Lord, and shall our Minting souls?"

  8. Great God, Thy penetrating eye. God All and

9. The glitt'ring spangles of the sky. The Mercies of God.

od.

10. Thy bounties, gracious Lord. Offertory.

11. Where'er the Lord shall build my house. Family distinct.

[J. J.]

Scott, Jacob Richardson, was h in Boston, Massachusetts, March 1, 1815, and graduated in Arts at Brown University 1836. and in Theology at Newton Theological College, 1842. He entered the Baptist ministry in 1842, and was successively located at Petersburg, Virginia; Portland, Maine; at Fall River, Massachusetts; and Yorkers, New York. He d. Dec. 10, 1861. His hynn "To Thee this temple we devote" (Dedication of a Place of Worship) was contributed to The Pealmist, 1848. It is found in several American hymn-books. [F. M. B.]

Scott, Thomas, s. of Thomas Scott, Independent Minister at Norwich, brother of Elizabeth Scott (see above), and nephew of Dr. Daniel Scott, was b. at Norwich, 1705. As a young man be kept a school at Wortwell, and preached once a month at Harleston, Norfolk. Then, after a short ministry at Lowestoft, he removed in 1734 to Ipswich as co-pastor with Mr. Baxter of the Presbyterian congregation meeting in St. Nicholas Street Chapel. On the death of his senior in 1740 he became sole pastor. In 1774 he retired to Hapton, and d. there in 1775. He was the author of various poetical works, including:—

(1) The Table of Cebes; or, the Picture of Human Life, in English Verse, with Notes, 1764; (2) The Book of Job, in English Verse; translated from the original febrew, with Remarks, Historical, Critical, and Explanatory, 1771; 2nd ed. 1773; (3) Lyric Poems, the votional and Koral. By Thomas Scott, Lond., James Published 1222 Buckland, 1773.

To Dr. Enfleld's Hymns for Public Worship, Warrington, 1772, he contributed "All-knowing God, 'tis Thine to know (p. 43, ii.); "Angels ! roll the rock sway" (p. 69, i.); "As various as the moon" (p. 85, ii.); and the following:—

1. Abourd and vain attempt to bind, Persecution,
2. Behold a wretch in woe. Mercy,
3. Imposture shrinks from light. Private Judgment, its Rights and Daties.
4. Mark, when tempestuous winds arise. Mecknest.
5. O come all ye sons of Adam and raise. Universal Praise to God.

6. Th' uplifted eye and bended knee. Depotion rain without Virtue.

those rivine.

1. Was pride, alas, e'er made for man? Humility.

8. Why do I thus perplex? Worldly Analety reproved.

In his Preface to his Lyric Poems, 1773, he said that the object of his work was :-

"To form a kind of little poetical system of piety and morals. The work opens with natural religion. Thence it proceeds to the mission of Jesus Carist, his suffering, his exaltation, and the propagation of his decrine, Next is the call to repentance, the nature and blessed-Next is the can to represent, and have any manner and manner of a christian life, and the entrance into it. These topics are succeeded by the various branches of devotion: after which are ranked the moral duties, personal votton: atter which are ranked the moral duties, personal and social, the happy end of a sincere christian, and the coming of Jesus Christ to fluish his mediatorial kingdom by the general Judgment. The whole is closed with a description of the illustrious times, when by means of the everlasting gospel, the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea."

Of Scott's better known hymns this volume contained most of those named above, and ;-

9. Hasten, sinuer, to be wise. p. 493, it. 10. Who, gracious Father, can complain? The Divine in the Coll. of Hye. and Ps., &c., 1795, by Kippis, Ress, and others, several of the above were repeated, and the following were new :-

If high or low our station be. Justice.
 Happy the meak whose gentle breast. Mechaest.

Doctrinally Scott might be described as an evangelical Arian. Hymns of his appear in most of the old Presbyterian collections at the close of the last century, and in the early Unitarian collections. Several are still in C. U. in G. Britain and America. [V. D. D.]

Scott, Sir Walter, Bart., was b. in Edinburgh, Aug. 15, 1771, and d. at Abbotsford, Sept. 21, 1832. Although so successful and widely known as a poet, he made no direct contributions to hymnody whatever. His condensed rendering of the "Dies Irac" (p. 297, il.), and his hymn of Rebecca in Izashoe, "When Israel of the Lord beloved" (q.v.) were utilized as hymns for congregational use by others, but were never intended for such a purpose by himself. His work and rank as poet, novelist, and historian are fully set forth in his Life by J. G. Lockhart. [J. J.]

Scottish Hymnody. After the Reformation in Scotland, the revulsion from the Roman Church and its services led at once to the establishment of services in the vernacular. As on the Continent recourse was naturally had to the Psalier, and, as easiest for popular use and also as reckoned nearer to the Hebrew structure, the metrical Psalm instead of the prose Psalm chanted. Metrical Psalmody prose Psalm chanted. was the only part of Divine worship in which the congregations in the Scottish Churchea vocally joined till at least 1749, and in the three principal sections of Presbyterianism the singing of hymns, other than the Paraphrases of 1741-81, did not become at all general till after 1852 in the United Presbyterian Church, after 1870 in the Established Church, and after 1873 in the Free Church. Consequently the use of the Hebrew Psalter has had a mighty influence upon the Scottish mind and

In tracing the history of Scottish Metrical Psalmody and Hymnody we find six stages:—
I. The Preparatory; II. The Psalter of 1564-65; III. The Psalter of 1650; IV. Scripture Songs, 1564-1708; V. The Translations and Paraphrases, 1741-81; VI. The Hymnols.

The Preparatory Stage.

The early congregational psalmody of Scotland found its example, and much of its materials in the work begun on the Continent by Marot, and in England by Sternhold.

I. Clement Marot had begun translating the Psalms about 1533, and seems to have completed his first 30 versions in 1589, but did not himself publish them till 1542, at Paris, as Trente Pseaulmes de David. Meantime John Calvin, then in exile at Strassburg, had included in his Aulouns Peccumes et Cantiques, 1539, 12 of the Marot versions, but in the form given to them by Pierre Alexandre, who having obtained Ms. copies of Marot's Pealms made considerable alterations in the text, and published the whole 30 along with 15 by various authors as Psalmes de David translatez de plusiours authours, &c., Antwerp, 1541. Marot, having fled to Geneva, was induced by Calvin to revise his first 80 versions and add 19, pub. in 1543 as Cinquante Psaumes (including the Song of Simeon). After Marot's death Theodore de Beza at Calvin's request continued the work, publishing in 1551 Trentequatre Praumes de Dauid, reissued in 1552 with Marot's, as Pseaumes octante trois de Dauid, to which he added 6 in 1554 and 1 in 1555, finishing the work after his return from Lausanne in 1558, the completed Psalter appearing as Les Pseaumes mis en rime francoise par Clement Marot et Theodore de Beze, Geneue, pour Antoine Vincent, 1562-49 versions being by Marot and the rest by Beza. (See Paalters, Franch, p. 983, i., and an interesting series of articles on Clement Marot and the Huguenot Pealter, by Major G. A. Crawford in the Musical Times, June to Nov., 1881.) In regard to the Scottisk Paulter the influence is seen in the force of example, in the inclusion of French tunes and in the composition of versions in French metres, rather than in any versions directly translated from those by

Marot and Beza. [Frakters, French, § 1.]
2. Meantime in England Thomas Stern-hold had issued 19 Psalm versions in an undated edition not earlier than 1547, increased to 37 in 1549, and to 44 by the addition of 7 by John Hopkins in 1551. These were carried by the English exiles to Geneva and there included, with 7 versions by William Whit tingham, in the One and Fiftie Praimes of Dauid, published in 1556 along with The forms of prayers, &c., used at Geneva (Advo-cates Library, Edinburgh). The Rev. William Dunlop, in the Contents to his Collection of Confessions of Faith, &c., vol. ii., Edinburgh, 1722, says that his reprint of The forme of prayers follows the Genevan edition of 1558. This edition, which is now lost, probably contained the Pealter enlarged by the 9 versions by Whittingham and 2 by Pullain contained in the Pealter of 1560, now in Christ Church Library, Oxford. The next Anglo-Genevan edition now extant (St. Paul's Cathedral Library) is the Foure Score and Seven Psalmes of David, Geneva, 1561, which adds to the 51 of 1556 the 9 by Whittingham, and 2 by Pullain, mentioned above, with 25 new ones, (including Ps. c.) by Kethe. Of this a revised edition was issued in the same year, probably printed in England (Britwell Library), which formed the basis of the Scottish Pealter of 1564-65. [For full details, see Old Varsion, p. 857, L.

§§ II., III.]
3. The earliest Pashn versions used in Scotland were those included in the collection sometimes called the Dundie Psalmes, better known as the Gude and Godlie Ballates, entitled, in the edition of 1578, Ans Copendious bulk of godlie Psalmes and spiritual Sangis. This collection seems, from the notice of David Calderwood, the Church historian, to have been published, at least in a rudimentary form, before 1546, but the earliest edition now extant is represented by a copy in the posses-sion of Patrick Anderson, Esq., Blackness House, Dundee, who has kindly given a col-lation of it. The copy wants tillepage, and begins with folio 5 at the words "sall be condempnit" in the article "of our Baptisme," but is otherwise perfect. From the fact of its containing an advertisement tillepage of a Scottish Paulter of 1568, and also a song pro-hibited by the General Assembly of 1568, it may be dated 1568. It does not contain the last 5 ballads of the 1578 ed.; ending instead with the prohibited song, Welcum Fortown. From the copy in the Britwell Library of the earliest perfect edition, that of 1578, a careful reprint was edited in 1868 by the late Dr. Laing (see Appendix to this article).

Laing (see Appendix to this article).

The ed. of 1678 is in four parts:—i. The Catchizme. This includes a prologue, versions of the Ten Commandments, Creed, and Lord's Prayer, with a hymn on Beptism and another on the Lord's Supper, concluding with 6 Graces—in all 12 pleecs, 60 which are from the German. ii. Spirituali Sangis, 16 in number, of which 11 are from the German and 1 from the Latin. iii. Ballatis of the Scripture, 20 in number, 1 being from the Oerman. Iv. Psalmes of Basil with other new pleasand Ballatis Translatis out of Enchristion Prolomorum to be sung. These include 22 Fraim versions—of which 13 are from the German—3 hymns from the German and 1 from the German—3 hymns from the German and 1 from the German—1 symns from the German and 1 from the German—1 symns from the German and 1 from the German—2 hymns from the German and 2 from the Latin. Some of the pieces, though rude, have a wonderful pathos, and even very free versions), and 2 from the Latin. Some of the pieces, though rude, have a wonderful pathos, and even beauty. Reading the anti-papel sattire one does not wonder at the rage they excited among the Roman exclusiation. Four pieces very closely reaemble four of Bishop Coverdale's Goostly Patisses, c. 1639, and were probably derived from it. The book as a whole must be regarded as a poetical miscallany. Dr. Laing would assign the translutions and Psalm versions to John Wodderburn (written probably 1039—46), and a number of the ballads to his brother Robert (see Wedderburn). if the collection was printed in book form before 1559, we may conjecture that it would not contain more than to p. 151 of the edition of 1578. The "augmentation" in 1563 and 1578 seems to have been by various hands.

4. From these beginnings, Scottish, English and Continental, arose the Psalmody and subsequently the Hymnody, which have formed the sole part of Divine worship in the Churches of Scotland in which the congregations have joined for more than 300 years. The first result of importance was the Fsalter of 1564-65.

II. The Psalter of 1564-65.

1. The Anglo - Genevan Psalters having been imported into Scotland, the General Assembly of 1561 ordered the completion of the Pealter. The Committee appointed, unlike the editors of the English Psalter of 1562, took the whole of the 87 versions of the Anglo-Genevan of 1561, as these were given in the revised edition printed in England in the same year. These versions were :-- year. These versions were:— 37 by Sternhold, 1849 (Ps. 1-17, 18, 20, 21, 25, 28, 29, 22, 34, 41, 43, 44, 49, 53, 68, 73, 78, 103, 120, 123, 128), and 7 by Hopkins, 1851 (Ps. 30, 33, 42, 52, 76, 83, 146), to which were added at Geneva 16 by Whittingham (Ps. 23, 51, 114, 116, 130, 133, 137, in 1556; Ps. 37, 60, 67, 71, 119, 121, 124, 127, 129, pribably in 1558); 2 by Fullain (Ps. 148, 149, probably in 1558), and 25 by Kethe (Ps. 71, 114, 114, 113, 122; 125, 126, 134, 138, 142). They then added the 15 by Craig and 6 by Pont, noted below. The remaining 42 versions were taken from the English Pselter of 1562, as follows:—2 by Sternhold (Ps. 18, 22), 30 by Hopkins (Ps. 28, 31, 35, 38-40, 45, 46, 49, 56, 60, 61, 64-66, 68, 72, 74, 77, 68, 96, 87, 39, 22, 23, 85-99); 8 by Norton (Ps. 53, 106, 109, 116, 139, 144, 147, 150), and 2 by Marckant (Ps. 131, 135).

The complete version appeared as :-

The Forme of Prayers and Ministration of the Sacrainc forme y ringers and ministration of the Sacraments, de., used in the English Church at Geneva, approved and received by the Churche of Sociand, whereunto besydes that was in the former bokes, are also added soudrie other prayers, with the whole Praises of Daud in English weter. Printed at Edinburgh by Robert Lekprevik, Mouxill.

Of this there is a copy in the Corpus Christi Library, Oxford, and another identical, but dated 1565, in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh. The Advocates' Library, it may also be noted, possesses a copy of the Forme of Prayers printed by Lekprevik in 1562, but this does not contain the Psalter

2. This constituted the first Scattish Psatter properly so called. Regarding it the General Assembly on Dec. 26, 1564, ordained that every minister, mader, and exhorter should have and use a copy. The most important reprints of it are those of 1596, 1611, 1615, 1633, 1634, and 1635.

The Pealms are all initialed with the names of their authors. The numbers are as follows:—To Sternhold are ascribed 40 (including the 23rd), to Hopkins 35, to Krathe 26 (including the 48th), to Whittingham 15, to Graig 15, to Norton 8, to Pont 6, to Marckant 2, and to l'ullain 2, the 38th being unsecribed. But of these Ps. 28 and 46 are by Hopkins, and Ps. 23 by Whittingham, thus leaving Sternhold 39, Hopkins 37, Whittingham, thus leaving Sternhold 39, Hopkins arraying from these in 16, and Ketho 25. The versions rayring from these in time leaving Sternbold 33, Hopkins 37, Whittingham 16, and Kethe 25. The versions varying from those in the English Fasiter of 1562 are in all 44, but of these Whittingham's 23rd and 56th, and Kethe's 166th, were added as alternative renderings to the 1565, and Ornig's 156th, to the 1581 and later editions of the English Pasiter. The first lines of the remaining 40 are here given, those of the 1561 Anglo-Genevan from the Britwell Library copy, and those of the 1564-65 Scottish Pasiter from the edition of 1565.

Versions from the Fours wore and town Pealmes, 1661, not included in the English Pealter:—

By William Kethe.

27. The Lord my light and helth wil be 36. The wicked dedes of the il man

47. Let all folke with joye clap hads ad reloyce

54. Sane me, o God, for thy names sake

53. But is it true? o froward folke
63. Although my soule hathe sharply bene
70. Make haste, o God, to set me free
85. O Lord, thou loued hast thy land

88. O God of my saluscion 90. O Lord, thou hast bene our refuge 91. Who so with ful intent and mind

94. O Lord, since vengesce doeth to thee 191. Of mercie and of ludgement bothe 138. With my whole heart the lord now praise wil I 142. Unto the lord I crye did and call.

By William Whillingham.

67. Our God that is lord

71. My trust, o Lord, in thee 115. Not vate vs, o Lord 129. Of israel this may now be the song.

By John Pullain. 149. Sing vnto the Lord.

ii. Versions first pub. in the Scottick Praiter, 1961 :-

By John Craig (also Ps. 136, see above). 24. To God the earth doeth appertayne

24. To God to earth doeth appertayre
55. O God, laude and praise
192. Lord to myne humble sute giue care
105. O praise ye the Lord
106. O God, beholde, my heart and tongue
110. The Lord most bigh, unto my Lord thus spake
117. O praise the Lord, ye nations all
118. Giue to the Lord all praise and honour
132. Of Dauid, Lord, in mynde recorde
146. From the reverse and wiched wight

165. Of Datah, Lord, in mynes recorded to From the pervents and wicked wight 141. On thee I call, 5 Lord, therefore 143. Oh, beare my prayer, Lord 145. O Lord that are my God and King.

By Robert Pont.

57. Be mercifull to me, 6 God 59. Deliver me, my God of might 76. In Jury land God is wel knowne

O Pastor of Israel, like shepe that dost leade
 O God our strength most comfortable

83. God for thy grace.

88, God for thy grace.

Of these atthore Graig, Rethe, and Pont were Scotsmen. Until 1636 the melodies only of the proper tenas were given, but in that year Andro Hart published an edition with the tunes harmonised in four parts. Besides the proper tunes printed with the text of the Paslms, the edition of 1602 contained 3 Common Tunes (i.e. tunes which could be sung to any Paslm of like metre), to which 9 were added in 1615, 2 in 1633, 3 in 1634, and 14 in 1635, making in all 31. Of the 118 Proper tunes 51 are Genevan, 22 French, 4 German, 21 English, and 10 Scottish; while of the 31 Common tunes 7 are English and 24 Scottish, the 3 tunes in Reports being also Scottish. See the Dissertations and notes in the complete reprint of the Paslter of 1635, edited in 1864 by the Rev. Nell Livingston, D.D., cited in the Appendix to this article. Appendix to this article

Although this Psalter continued in use till the present version was issued in 1650, yet in the meantime an attempt was made to impose upon the Scottish Church the version published at Oxford in 1631 as The Psalmes King David, translated by King James. This version was in great measure the work of William Alexander, Earl of Stirling [see p. 39, i.]. Under the authority of Charles I. an injunction was published by the Scottish Privy Council in December 1634 that no other Psalms should be printed or imported, Alexander having been on Dec. 26, 1627, granted the exclusive right of publishing it for $1 years. On account of the opposition it created he in great measure rowrote the version. As thus reprinted at London by Thomas Harper in 1636 it was bound up and issued with Laud's Service Book of 1637, the foreible introduction of which caused an uprising of popular feeling over the whole of Scotland, which at once overturned all the ceclesiastical schemes of Charles, and led to the restored

The ! General Assembly at Glasgow, 1638. monopoly of course simultaneously ceased. This version, while possessing felicities, is often harsh and stilted, and the circumstances of its introduction made it altogether upac-We would add that Harper also ceptable. reprinted the 1636 text in 12mo in 1637, and that in the British Museum (MSS. Reg., 18 B. xvi.), there are preserved us. metrical versions in Scotch by King James of 30 Psalms, Ecclesiastes xil., the Lord's Prayer, and the Song of Moses.

III. The Pealter of 1650.

- 1. The desire for Uniformity of Worship between England and Scotland having led to the calling of the Westminster Assembly in 1643, one part of the work recommended to it by Parliament was the preparation of a Psalter for use in both kingdoms. The Lords recom-mended the 3rd ed. 1646, of the version of William Barton, published in 1644 as The Book of Poulms in Metre, and finally revised in 1654; and the Commons the version of Francis Rous, originally published in 1641 and reissued in 1643 as The Psalmes of David in English Meeter set forth by Francis Rous. The latter being preferred by the Assembly was revised by it and published by authority of the House of Commons as The Psalms of David in English Meeter, London, printed by Miles Flesher, for the Company of Stationers, 1646.
- 2. The General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, not being satisfied with the Westminster revision, in 1647 appointed 4 persons to further revise it, viz., John Adamson to revise Ps. 1-40; Thomas Craufurd, 41-80; John Row, 81-120; and John Nevey, 121-150. In revising they were enjoined to use the versions of Zachary Boyd and Sir William Mure of Rowallan, as well as the Psalter of 1564-65. In 1648 their amended version was sent to Presbyteries to examine and report, and in 1649 a final Committee was appointed, consisting of James Hamilton, John Smith, Hugh MacKail, Robert Traill, George Hutcheson, and Robert Lowrie to examine these reports and the corrections sent in, and to report to the Commission, which was authorised "to conclude and establish the Paraphrase, and to publish and emit the same for publick use." The Commission accordingly thereafter issued :-

1650. The Piches of David in Meater. Scoly translated and diligently compared with the Original Text and former Translations; More plain, tmooth, and agreeable to the Text than any heretofore. Allowed by the Authority of the General Astembly of the Kirk of Scotland, and appointed to be sung in Congregations and Families, Edinburgh. Printed by Evan Tyler, Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty, 1880, authorising it as the only version to be used after May 1, 1650. And, it may be added, it has survived all proposals to modernise it, eave in orthography, and remains to this day the only version of the Pselms used by Prosbyterian Scotland.

3. Though based on Rous not much remains as first versified by him. Even of the edition of 1646 hardly a version is retained without considerable alteration. In several instances the compilers adopted recasts from the 1564, while in many cases they have incorporated stanzas and couplets from Zachary Boyd's version, and occasionally have taken lines and phrases from Sir William Mure and from the Earl of Stirling. William Barton's complaint that much of the version was stolen from him seems quite groundless.

As issued in 1650 the version may be called rude, but its associations have endeared it to the Scottish heart, and its faithfulness, vigour and terseness cannot be denied. These qualities become manifest when it is compared with other versions which, when faithful, have been failures, and when successful have been so expanded and adapted as to have consed to be faithful. Under "The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want," will be found a note on a typical

4. Although the Gaelic Psalms have a limited interest, a few details are necessary to the completeness of our work :-

The first complete version of the Psalms in Gaelic was that by the Rev. Robert Kirk, of Edguhidder, pub. In 1884. In 1889 the first 50 Psalms and been published In 1684. by ministers appointed by the Synod of Argyle, and in 1680 those appointed to prepare a complete version of the Pealms in Gaelle were instructed to have their the Pasins in Gaelic were instructed to have their version revised by that Synod and forthwith printed. In 1694 the General Assembly recommended that in Gaelic speaking congregations this version, printed in 1894, should be used as being in the vernacular, and not the Pasiler of 1680. In 1733 the version of 1694 was revised by the Rev. Alexander Mackarlane, of Melfort, and published at Glasgow, along with the Gaelic version of the 45 Paraphrases of 1751, by authority of the Synod of Argyle. His revision was slightly altered by the Bev. Thomas Ross, and reissond in 1807. The Rev. Dr. John Smith, of Campbelton, rewrote Macharlane's version, and published it at Edinburgh in 1837, adding to it versions of the 67 Paraphrases of 1781. He also published a new version in 1801. From these versions a revised edition was prepared by the Committee of the General Assembly, and published in 1826 at Edinburgh—including the 67 Paraphrases of 1781—as the only version to be used in public worship.

IV. Scripture Songs, 1564–1708.

 The Scottish Pealter of 1564-65 did not contain any Spiritual Songa, but in 1575 5 were given, 10 in 1595, and 14 in 1634. They do not seem to have received direct coclesiestical sanction, and none of them were transferred to the Psalter of 1650 or to the Translations and Paraphrases, 1741-81.

2. By the same Act of General Assembly, 1647, which appointed John Adamson and others to revise Rous's version of the Paulma, it was recommended

"that Mr. Zachary Boyd be at the paints to translate the other Scripturall Songs in meeter, and to report his travels also to the Commission of the Assembly, that, after their examination therof, they may send the same to Presbyteries, to be there considered till the next General Assembly."

Again, in 1648, the General Assembly recommended-

"to Master John Adamson and Mr. Thomas Cranfurd, to revise the labours of Mr. Zachary Boyd, upon the other Scripturall Songs, and to prepare a report therof," to be given in to the Commission, and by them to be examined and transmitted to the Assembly of 1649. But on account probably of the troublons times nothing further was then done.

3. The question, however, came up again in 1696, when the General Assembly enjoined their Commission to revise the Spiritual Songs of Patrick Simson (p. 1058, ii.). Accordingly, after revision, the Commission recommended them for private use. In 1704 the Assembly renewed this recommendation, and in 1705 enjoined the Commission to revise them for public use. The Commission accordingly appointed two Committees, at Ediuburgh and Glasgow, who united in advising-

"That only such of the said printed copie as are purely Scriptural Songs should be recommended for publick use."

The Glasgow Committee (of which Simson was a member) proposed the addition of some of his us, versions, and suggested that in all there should be given complete versions of Canticles and Lamentations, with 15 Old Testament and 10 New Testament Songs. In 1706 the Assembly recommended-

"to the several Presbyteries of the Church to endoayour to promote the use of these Songs in privat famiand recommended Presbyteries to buy copies of the edition of 1686 to compare with the amendments to be sent to them by the Committee of revision appointed by the Com-mission. In 1707 the Assembly sent the Songs again to the Committee for further revision, and enjoined Presbyteries which had not yet reported to report to the General Assembly of 1708. The Assembly of 1708 accordingly appointed

"their Commission, maturely to consider the printed version of the Scripture Songs, with the remarks of the Presbyteries thereupon."

and authorized them

"to publish and emit it for the publick use of the Church."

as in the case of the Pealter of 1650. And

"seeing there are many copies of the said version lying on the author's hand, it is recommended to minis-ters and others to buy the same for private use in the meantime.

By the time that the stock of the 1686 edition was exhausted all idea of issuing the selection authorised for public worship seems to have been abandoned, and no trace of such an issue can be discovered.

V. The Translations and Paraphrases, 1741-1781.

1. These efforts to provide a wider range of subjects in Praise having failed to attain the object sought, the matter was again brought up by an overture to the General Assembly of 1741, which referred it to the Commission. In 1742 the Assembly appointed a Committee to "make a collection of Translations into English Verse or Metrs, of passages of the Holy Scriptures, or receive in Performances of that kind from any that shall trans-late them," and desired the Presbytery of Dundee or Synod of Angus (whence the overture seems to have come) to transmit to this Committee " what Collections they have made or shall make." This Committee having made no report the Assembly of 1744 renewed their appointment and added some others to their number. They having appealed for help to the Presbyteries of the Church, received materials "partly for-nished by ministers of this Church," and embodied these in a Draft entitled Translations and Paraphrases of several Passages of Sacred Scripture, which the Assembly of 1745 ordered to be printed and sent to Presbyteries that they might report. Presbyteries being ougrossed with the Jacobite movement had to be again enjoined to report by the Assemblies of 1746, 1747, and 1748.

Thus the Metropolitan Presbytery of Edinburgh after revising Nos. 1-9, on March 27 and April S, 1746, did not resume their revision till 1748, when on Jan. 27, March 36, and April 27 they went over the remainder.

The Assembly of 1749 authorised the Committee to print the Paraphrases as amended and send copies to Presbyteries that they might report. None having done so the Assembly of 1750 transmitted the amended Paraphrases to them. The Assembly of 1751 again transmitted them to Presbyteries which had not reported: adding-

"In the meantime, the Assembly recommends the said Psalmody to be used in private families."

After this Presbyteries were again and again enjoined to report, but no further Act was passed.

2. The collection of 1745, though thus reprinted with verbal alterations, was not enlarged in 1749. It consists of 45 Paraphrases (but no Hymne), all of which were afterwards included in the collection of 1781, 23 being by Isaac Watts, 5 by Philip Doddridge, and 2 by N. Tate; while 3 have been attri-buted to Hugh Blair, 3 to William Robertson, and 1 to Thomas Randall - leaving 8 unascribed.

3. Though never authorised for use in public worship the 1745-51 collection had been introduced into some congregations, and in 1775 the Synod of Glasgow and Ayr overtured the Assembly to sanction it for public use. Instead of simply granting this, the Assembly appointed a Committee to revise and add to it. The Committee not having made any report the Assembly of 1780 added some new members to their number. At length in 1781 they presented a Draft, the Advertisement to which thus describes their work :-- work ;—

"All the Translations and Paraphrases which had appeared in the former Collection are here, in substance, preserved. But they have been revised with care. Many attentions, and, it is hoped, improvements, are made upon them. A considerable number of new Paraphrases, furnished either by members of the Committee, or Ministers with whom they corresponded, are added. The whole is now arranged according to the order in which the several poems ite in the books of Scripturs. A few Hymns are also subjoined, of such a nature as is supposed will be generally acceptable."

On May 26, 1781, the report of the Committee was given in and read to the Assembly. The Committee were then renewed, and some members added and appointed to report their opinion of the printed Draft, at a future diet of Assembly. Accordingly, on June 1, 1781, the Assembly appointed

"these Translations and Paraphrases to be transmitted to the several Presbyteries of this Church, in order that they may report their opinion concerning them to the suguing General Assembly; and, in the meantime, allows this Collection of sacred Poems to be meantime, allows this Collection of sacred Poems to be used in public worship in congregations, where the similater finds it for edification. The General Assembly renews the appointment of their Committee; with powers to judge of any corrections or alterations of these Poems that may be suggested previous to the transmission of the same; and with directions to cause a proper number of copies, with such corrections as they approve, to be printed, for the consideration of Presbyteries, and for public use."

The Assembly further appointed John Dickson, the printer to the Church, to print and publish it, and gave him the sole right of doing so for 5 years; his right being renewed in 1786 for 9 years, and in 1795 for 14 years. The Committee accordingly, after introducing a very considerable number of verbal altera-tions, published the collection in the same year for public use. After this the Paraparases were brought before the Assembly in 1786, 1795 and 1803, but only for the purpose of confirming the right of printing.

4. Thus, unlike the Paulters, the Para-phrases of 1781 have never received the formal sanction of the Church. They howeyer still continue to be used in the various sections of Scottish Presbyterianism, and some of them far beyond its bounds.

It may be noted that while in England their use in hymnals other than Presbyterian has been comparatively imited (save Nos. 18, 19, 30, 56, and the recast 66), in America they have been extensively used by all de-nominations, the five above, with Nos. 6, 11, 15, being special favourities. As they have come into use in many varied forms, they are all annotated throughout

The estimates taken of these Paraphrases have varied according to the ecolosiastical and spiritual standpoint of their critics. A common opinion has been that the collection of 1745 was too evangelical for the dominant Moderate party in 1781, and that while gaining in smoothness the Paraphrases just in vigour and spirituality. As a rule, however, the amendments of 1781 have been improvements. Of the Scottish contributions some are exceedingly good, others possess the merit of being faithful to the text, while some are poor both in thought and expression. Upon the whole the collection is hardly what might have been expected from the gifts and graces of the ministers of the Church of Scotland from 1741 to 1781. For details of the authorship of the Paraphrases, the names of the Committees who compiled them, &c., see the article Scottish Translations and Paraphrases.

VI. The Hymnals.

In Sections following, i.-iv., are given the authorised hymnels of the Established, Free, United Presbyterian, and Evangelical Union Churches. In Sections v.-vii. are given the principal collections of Scottish origin used in the Baptist, Congregational and Scottish Episcopal Churches. Section viii. contains lists of the Private Collections used in the first four Churches; the less important Baptist, Congregational and Episcopal Collections; and hymnals outside these seven denominations.

i. The Established Church of Scotland.-After the publication of the Translations and Paraphrases of 1781, nothing further was done till 1807, when the General Assembly being overtured anent "the improvement of the Psalmody" appointed a Committee to consider "the need of additional Psalm Versions and Paraphrases." In 1811 they were authorised to print their Draft which contained 17 entire Psalms and 21 Psalm portions and Paraphrases. In 1814 they were authorised to reprint their amended draft, containing 16 entire Psalms and 24 Psalm portions and Paraphrases, for transmission to Prosbyteries. In 1820 the Committee were authorised to reprint 19 of the 1814 collection together with 20 or 30 others, and in 1821 Presbyteries were enjoined to report on this new collection, which contained 32 Psalm versions, 17 Paraphrases and 2 Doxologies. In 1822 a Committee was appointed to examine these reports, but no hymnal was authorised or issued. Again, in 1827, a Committee was appointed "for cularging the collection of Translations and Paraphrases from Sacred Scripture, and otherwise improving the Psalmody," but the matter dropped without result. The Assembly having been overtured in 1845, appointed a Committee on Psalmody, and in 1847 a second on Paraphrases. These Committees, with additional members, were united in 1850. In 1852 the Assembly having been overtured anent "an authorised collection of sacred hymns" referred the matter to the Committee. They presented a draft of 128 hymns in 1854 which was not sanctioned, though 25 of them, with Bp. Ken's morning and evening hymns, were reissued in 1855. A new Committee was appointed in 1855 (enlarged in 1857), who presented in 1856 a draft of 22, in 1859 of 33, and in 1860 of 85 hymus. A special committee was then appointed to revise it, and the draft in 1861 became 97, but as allowed in 1861 as Hymns for Public Worship selected by the Committee of the General Assembly on Psalmody, it contained 89 hymns, 22 doxologies, 8 thanksgivings, 2 dismissions, Hosanus, and 4 sanctuses. After a revision in 1864, in which 22 hymns were omitted and 53 added, the need. of a better selection with less altered texts was made evident, and accordingly what was practically a new Committee was appointed in 1866. They presented successive drafts to the Assembly in 1868, 1869 and 1870, retaining finally from the 1864 revision only 64 hymns, and these practically restored to their original forms. In 1870 the Committee was authorised "to revise the Hymnal, and thereafter to publish an edition for the use of such congregations as may wish to avail themselves of it." It was accordingly published in Sept. 1870 as The Scottish Hymnal, containing 200 hymns, selected with much judgment and taste. Having come into very general use, it was after a time felt that an enlargement was needed. The Committee accordingly in 1882 suggested the preparation of an Appendiz, and in May 1883 presented a draft to the Assembly. This after being sent to all the ministers of the Church for revision during 1883 was sanctioned by the Assembly in 1884 with bymns 201-858, and an Appendix of 86 hymus for children. Editions of the Hymnal have also been published with these additional hymns incorporated in their proper places, in all 442.

In 1862 the Assembly's Committee on Psalmody issued a Hymn Tune Book, which was enlarged in 1865 and incorporated in 1868 in The Church of Scotland Pealm and Hymn Tune Book. This was, as the Committee mention, the first authorised collection of tunes issued since 1650. In 1872 it was reissued, revised and enlarged by the Committee under the musical editorship of William Henry Monk. The Scottish Hymnol has been issued with the times as a cut book, and also with fixed tunes, the complete tunes being issued in a cut form to the Psalms, Paraphrases and Scottish Hymnal in one volume. The enlarged Scottish Hymnal of 1884 has also been issued (in 1885) with music ed. by Albert Lister Peace.

ii. The Free Church,-After the formation of the Free Church by the Disruption of 1843 no steps were taken to provide a hymnal till 1866, when, after considerable discussion, the General Assembly appointed a Committee to consider the subject. In 1869 the Assembly authorised its Committee to select from and add to the Translations and Paraphrases of 1781. In 1870 they presented a Draft to the Assembly which was sent for further revision to Presbyteries in 1871, sanctioned by the Assembly in 1872, and issued in 1873 as Psalm-Versions, Paraphrases, and Hymns. 1t contains 21 pealm-versions and 123 hymns, including 40 selections from the Translations and Paraphrases of 1781. For this a tune book was published by the Psalmody Committee as The Scottish Psalmody in 1873. This collection being found rather meagre, a Committee of enquiry was appointed in 1877 on whose report a Committee was appointed in 1878 to revise and cularge it. This Committee presented a Draft to the Assombly of 1880 which, after being revised by the Presbyterics of the Church, was sanctioned by the Assembly of 1881 and issued in 1882 as the Free Church Hymnbook. It contains 387 hymns (including 23 selections from the Paraphrases of 1781) and 30 scrip-ture sentences. The indices in the larger edition without music are by the Rev. James Bouar, M.A., of Greenock, and are among the most accurate and useful yet issued. The Committee having been authorized to set tunes to the hymns, engaged Edward John Hopkins as musical editor, and under his revision the complete book appeared in 1882 as The Free Church Hymnbook with Tunes. One of the best recent hymnals, it owes much of its completeness and excellence as to hymns and music to the energy, good taste, and musical knowledge of the Rov. Professor A. B. Bruce of Glasgow, the Convener of the Committee. Under the revision of Mr. Hopkins the Psalmody Committee then proceeded to set tunes to the Psaiter of 1650, the Paraphrases of 1781 and portions of the prose Psalter, and their work was sanctioned by the Assembly of 1883, and published as The Scottish Psalter. Being the Psalms in Metre, with the Paraphrases, and a With appro-Selection of the Prose Psalms. priate Tunes and Chants, 1883.

iii. The United Presbylerian Church.-Tho United Presbyterian Church was formed in 1847 by the union of the United Associate (Secession) and the Relief Churches.

 As early as 1748 the Associate Synod had requested Ralph Erskine to versify the Songs of Scripture. In 1752 a Committee was appointed to revise his work, but it never met, and his death taking place shortly afterwards the Committee was dissolved in 1753. In May 1811 the session of Well Street Church, London (Dr. Alex. Waugh) asked leave to compile and use a collection, and in September the Synod appointed a Committee to consider the question. In 1812, on the recommendation of this Committee, the Synod formally permitted the use of the Translations and Paraphrases of 1781, and appointed a small committee to compile a new collection. No collection was however thereafter issued. Again in 1842 a Committee was appointed to | prepare a collection of Paraphrases and Hymns. They presented a Draft in 1844, and the same, further revised, in 1846, but in the prospect of the Union of 1847 nothing more was done.

2. In 1793 the Synod of the Relief Church was overtured to enlarge the Psalmody, and on May 20, 1794, a Committee of eight was appointed which recommended the selection compiled in 1786 by the Rev. James Steuart, of Anderston, Glasgow, with the additional selections made by the Rev. Patrick Hutcheson of Paisley, as united by the Rev. James Dun of Glasgow, all members of the Committee. This collection was sanctioned by the Synod on the 22nd, and forthwith published as Sacred Songs and Hymns on various Passages of Scripture approved by the Synod of Relief (Glasgow: J. Mennons, 1794). It contains 231 hymns and paraphrases, and is Dun's Collection (Dun having taken Nos. 1-180 from Stewart, and 181-231 with the preface from Hutcheson) with a new titlepage. In 1825 a Committee was appointed to prepare a new selection, who were authorized to print their work in 1831. It was finally sanctioned in 1833, and issued as Hymns adapted for the Worship of God. Selected and sanctioned by the Synod of Relief (Glas.: Blackie & Son, 1833). It was an excellent collection for the time at which it was compiled.

Such was the position of their Hymnody at the Union of 1847.

3. In 1847 the Synod of the United Presbyterian Church appointed a Hymnal Committee, and in 1848 authorised them to prepare a hymnal on the basis of the Relief Hymnbook of 1833 and the United Associate Draft Hymnbook of 18±8. They presented their first draft in 1848. In 1851 their final draft was approved, and they were empowered, after considering suggestions, to publish it in time for the next Synod. The Synod of 1852 accordingly sanctioned it as the Hymnbook of the United Presbyterian Church (Edin.: W. Oliphant & Co.), with 468 hymns and 23 doxologies. As it contained many hymns which never became popular, and had introduced many alterations into the text of the hymns, a Committee was appointed in 1870 to revise it. In 1873 they were authorised to send their Draft to Presbyteries, and in 1874 to Sessions, and in 1875 were empowered to publish their final draft. The Synod of 1876 accordingly sauctioned it as The Presbyterian Hymnal. In 1874 the Panlmody Committee were authorised to set tunes to the hymns, and in 1875 engaged Henry Smart as musical editor, the completed work, with fixed tunes, being issued in 1877 as The Presbyterian Hymnal with Accompanying Tunes, and containing 366 hymns, 18 dexologies, and 24 scripture sentences. Considering its size it is one of the best modern Hymnals, both as regards bymns and tunes, and their union. Under the same editor the Committee then prepared tunes for the Psalter of 1650, and Paraphrases of 1781, and issued their work in 1878 as The Presbyterian Psalter with Accompanying Tunes. In 1887 Notes on the individual hymns, by Mr. James Thin of Edinburgh, were added to the large type ed. of the words, together with additional scripture sentences numbered 25 to 133.

IV. The Evangelical Union.

The Evangelical Union was formed at Kilmarnock in 1843 by James Morison of Kilmar-nock, Robert Morison of Bathgate, A. C. Rutherford of Falkirk, and John Guthrie of Kendal, who had all been ministers of the United Associate Church in these places, but had been deposed by the Syned for the views they held on the extent of the Atonement of Christ. In doctrine they are closely allied to the Wes-Ieyans, and in polity to the Congregationalists. Their first Hymnal was prepared by a Committee appointed in 1852, and was issued in 1856 as The Evangelical Union Hymnbook. A desire having arison for a more select and accurate collection, a committee was appointed in 1874 to prepare a new hymnal, and their work was issued in 1878, as The Evangelical Union Hymnal. This consists of 420 hymns, with names of authors and dates of publication affixed, 15 doxologies and 40 chants. It also contains on Index of Authors, and, what is almost a unique feature, a list of original readings where the author's text has been departed from. These were prepared by the Rev. William Dunlop, of Glasgow, the editor, the selection of hymns being made by the Committee as a whole. It is altogether a well selected and well edited collection.

V. Baptist.

The earliest Baptist Church in Scotland now existing is that of Keiss, founded in 1750. No. 1 was composed for it; Nos. 2 and 3 are the most important of the other Baptist Hymnals.

1. A Collection of Hymns and Spiritual Songs. By Sir William Sinclair, Minister of the Gospel of God, and Servant of Jesus Christ (1751). Contains 60 hymns by Sir William Sinclair, Bert., of Dunbeath, who while residing in his castle of Keiss in Caithness, formed a church there, of which he was pastor from 1750 to 1763, at which date he left Keiss and went to Edinburgh. It is still occasionally used in Keiss Baptist Church, and was reprinted, unaltered, by Peter Reid, Wick, in 1870.

2. A Collection of Christian Songs and Hymne in Three Books (Glas.: D. Niven, 1786), containing in all 275 lymns. It took its final shape in the second ed., pub. by Niven in 1792 as Pealms, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, in Three Books, with 330 lymns and an appendix of 28. To the ed. of 1813 (Edin.: J. Hay & Co.) a supplement of 33 lymns was added. The last form was Pealms, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs in Three Books, Sciected for use in the Scotch Baptist Churches. A new impression, with enlarged Supplement (Glas.: A. Liddell & Co., 1841). This contains the 330 lymns and appendix of 28 from the ed. of 1792, a supplement, numbered 331–363, from the ed. of 1813, and a second supplement numbered 364-449 from the ed. of 1830; and gives names of authors of hymns.

authors of hymns.

3. The Christian Hymnal. A Collection of Hymns for Divine Worship. Selected and arranged by Rev. Oliver Flett. 1871. Contains 437 bymns and 9 scripture selections for chanting, with authors' names and dates, dates of publication, &c. The compiler of this excellent collection is minister of Storic Street Baptist Church, Paisley.

VI. Congregationalist.

Congregationalism of the English type was introduced into Scotland in 1798. Its principal collections of Scotlish origin are—

1. A Collection of Hymns for the use of the Tabernacles in Scotland (Edin.: J. Ritchie, 1800), with 320 hymns. Probably compiled by the Rev. John Aikman of Edinburgh, and Rev. George Cowie, of Montrose. In the 1807 and later eds. (13th ed. 1844), entitled A Collection of Hymns for the use of Christian Churches, and enlarged to 326 hymns. This collection is not of great value.

collection is not of great value.

2. A Selection of Hymns for Public Worship: Intended primarily for the Church in Albion Street Chapet, Glasgow (Glas.: R. Williamson, 1803). Compiled by Dr. Wardlaw, with 822 hymns. In the third, 1811, and later ods. it was entitled, A Selection of Hymns for Public Worship, by Ralph Wardlaw. A supplement was allded in 1817, making the number in all 493 (13th ed. 1860). Of these 11 are by Dr. Wardlaw. The book seems to have attained its popularity by the influence of its compiler's reputation rather than by its own merits.

3. A Collection of Hymns from the Best Authors, adapted both for Public and Family Worship. Selected and arranged by Grevilla Ewing and George Payne (Gias.: A. Duncan and M. Ogle, 1814, 11th ed., 1848). Ewing was minister of West Nile Street Congregational Church, Glasgow, had been originally a minister in the Established Church, and was one of the founders of Congregationalism in Scotland; while Payne was then minister of the Congregational Church meeting in Bernard's Rooms, Edinburgh. It contains 647 hymns and doxologies. It is not a collection of great meetit.

4. A Selection of Hymns for Public Worship in Christian Churches. By William Lindsay Alexander, D.D. (Edin.; H. Paton, 1849). This hymn-book (commonly called The Augustine Hymn Book, from the name of Dr. Alexander's church) as first pub., contained 553 hymns and doxologies. Various changes were made in the 2nd, 1858, and subsequent eds., the 5th ed. of 1872 containing 616 hymns, doxologies, and anthems. Of these 7 are original hymns and 5 translations by Dr. Alexander. While his contributions are excellent and useful, the collection as a whole is disappointing.

appointing.
5. Hymns of Faith and Life, collected and edited by the Rev. John Hunter, Trinity Congregational Church, Glasgow. 1889. This contains 695 hymns, Nos. 696-865 being words of psalms, canticles and authors.

This is a book of very different type from any of the preceding, being pronouncedly modern, meant as the exposition in song of a "progressive and Catholic Christianity," and having a closer affinity to the collection of Mr. Page Hopps (viii. Sect. xiv., No. 2) than to any other Scotish collection. A considerable proportion of the pieces are really undograatic religious verse, often of considerable beauty and significance, and gathered from a wide circle of Envilish and American suthers, but even less suited for public worship than the doctrinal hymne in the earlier Congregational Looks.

VII. Scottish Episcopal.

1. General.—No attempt was made to provide an authorised Hymnal for general use till 1856, when, upon representations from the Diocese of Edinburgh, a committee was ap-pointed by the Episcopal Synod consisting of 2 clergymen and 1 layman from each of the 7 dioceses. Of this committee the late Dean E. B. Ramsay was chairman, and the late Archdeacon Philip Freeman, Professor William Bright, Canon Henry Humble of St. Ninian's Cathedrai, Perth, and the Hon. G. F. Boyle, afterwards Earl of Glasgow (who kindly lent a copy of the draft), were leading members. By them was prepared and printed, in 1857, a draft Hymnal for the Scottisk Church, containing 289 hymns, 69 psalms and paraphrases, 42 doxologies, and words of 29 anthems. As more than 150 were from the Latin, the Episcopal Synod, instead of sanctioning this form, appointed Dr. Charles Wordsworth, Bishop of St. Andrews, to revise it, and his revision was sanctioned by them and published as A Collection of Hymns to be sung in Churches. Approved and sanctioned by the Episcopal Synod of the Church in Scotland, 1858 (Edin.: R. Grant & Son), with 119 pealms and bymns, all taken from the draft of 1857. Being so small, a supplement was at once compiled by the Edinburgh elergy, and issued in 1858 as Additional Psalms and Hymns selected by several clergymen for the use of their own congregations (Edin.: R. Grant & Son). This brought the number up to 217, increased in the 4th ed. of 1866 to 236, with 20 dexologies in pt. i. and 16 in pt. ii. Of these Supplemental Hymns, 75 are from the draft of 1857. The book being as a whole meagre, and weak in design, has long since given way to Hymns Ancient and Modern, which though never formally authorised by the Episcopal Synod, is now in almost exclusive use in the Scottish Episcopal Church.

2. Diocesan.

1. A selection of Psalms and Hymns adapted to the use of Protestant Episcopal Congregations (Edin.: R. Grant & Son). This collection, which is of little value, was licensed by its principal compiler, Dr. James Walker, Bishop of Edinburgh, in 1830, and reached its 8th ed. in 1836. It contains 137 portions of psalm versions, 74 hymns and 12 doxologies.

or pealm versions, 74 hymns and 12 doxiologies.

2. Hymns and Anthems for use in the Holy Services of the Church, within the United Diocese of St. Andrews, Dunkeld, and Dunblane. (Edin.: R. Lendrum). This collection, licensed by Bishop Patrick Torry in 1850, contains 128 hymns, the greater number of which are translations and original hymns by the compiler, Robert Campbell (p. 202, i.), and a selection of prose Anthems. This is the collection called S. Ninian's Hymns [as being used in St. Ninian's Cathedral, Perth] in the preface to The Hymnary.

3. Metrical Psalmody, consisting of portions of the several Psalms; and also a collection of Hymns, recommended for use in Public Worship in the Diocese of Glasgow and Galloway (Edin.: R. Grant & Son, 1853). Licensed June, 1853, by its compiler, Bishop W. J. Trower, D.D. Contains 272 portions of Psalm-versions, 15 paraphrases of the Psalms, 150 hymns, and 8 doxologies. It is of moderate value.

4. Hymnal for use in the Services of the Church (Aberdeen: D. Wyllie & Son). This collection, known as the Aberdeen Hymnal, was compiled by Norval Clyne (p. 239, i.), and sanctioned by T. G. Suther, Bishop of Aberdeen, in 1857, and reached its 4th 1000 in 1866. It contains 154 hymns and 24 psalm-versions—all, save 8, taken from the draft Hymnal of 1857 (see above).

3. Congregational,

The more important collections, issued mainly for individual congregations, are:— mainly for individual congregations, are:—

1. The Church of England Hymn Book: containing a Selection of Paulms and Hymn Book: containing a Selection of Paulms and Hymn for Public and Private Use. By the Rev. D. T. K. Drummond, B. A., Ozon, and Robert Kape Greville, LL.D. (Edin.: W. Oliphant & Son, 1833). To this collection Mr. Drummond contributed to and Dr., Greville 8 hymns. It was compiled for the use of that Evangelled section of Scottish Episcopalianism which seeded in 1843, and which recently put itself under the care of Bishop Becklea. It contains 625 hymns and is a good bymn-book of the Evangelleal school.

Evangelical school.

2. Hymns and Anthems adjusted to the Church Services throughout the Christian Fear (Lon.: Hope & Co., 1851). Contains 152 hymns, 30 Faslum-versions, and words of 18 Anthems. Compiled by Rev. Gitbert Rortson, Lt.D., incumbent of St. Peter's, Paterhead, and includes 24 translations by himself, and his well-known hymn. "Three in One, and One in Three." In 1860 he entirely recast it, omitted the anthems, 10 Faslus, and 78 hymns, and re-issued it as Hymns adapted to the Church Services throughout the Christian Year: with a Selection of Metrical Praisses (Peterhead: W. L. Taylor). This form contains 250 paslums and hymns, enlarged by an Appendix, 1869, to 310. It is upon the whole the best Scottish Episcopal Collection.

3. Hymns, Introdis and Praisse for the use of St. John the Evangelist's, Aberdeen (Aberdeen A. Brown & Co.). Contains 106 hymns and was edited in 1861 by the Rev.

3. Hymns, introits and Psalsas for the use of St. John the Evangetist's, Aberdeen (Aberdeen A. Brown & Co.). Contains 11th hymns and was edited in 1861 by the Rev. Patrick Cheyne, the incumbent. Reissued, 1865, as Hymnal for the use of S. John the Evangetist's, Aberdeen, and Introits throughout the Year. The first part there contains 111 hymns—not including the introits. This is followed by an Appendix, dated 1863, with hymns 112-162. In the ed. of 1870, the second part (compiled by the Rev. John Comper, incumbent of St. Margaret's) brings up the total to 255. The first part consists mainly of translations from the Latin, while the second contains a number of translations from the Greek and German, and a good selection of modern English hymns. Mr. Comper also pub. in 1870 Mission Hymns for S. Margaret's Chapel, Aberdeen, With 394 hymns.

mainty of translations from the Latin, while the second contains a number of translations from the Greek and German, and a good selection of modern English hymns. Mr. Compet also pub. in 1879 Mission Hymns for S. Margaret's Chapel, Aberdeen, With 394 hymns.

4. Introit and Hymns, with some Anthens, compiled for the use of the Ontlegiate Charch, 18te of Cumbrace (Lon.: J. Masters & Co., N.D.). This consists of 3 parts. Part I. was pub. in 1852 as Introits and Hymns, with some Anthensa adopted to the Sosons of the Christian Fear (Lon.: J. Masters & Co.), and edited by the Rev. George Costy White, M.A., then Provest of the College at Cumbrae, now of Great Malvern, and was also used in Margaret Street Chapel, London, and elsewhere, Pt. ii. (hymns 176-287) was compiled mainly by the Hon. G. F. Buyle, late Earl of Gla-gow, and added about 1853. Pt. iii. (bymns 288-311) was compiled mainly by Dr. J. G. Cazenove, then Provost at Cumbrae, now Chacellor of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, and added about 1859. In 1875 the book was superseed by Hymns Ancient and Modern, Revited and Relarged Edition with an Appendix. For use in the Cathedral and Collegiate Charch, 18te of Cumbrae. This consists of H. A. M. with an appendix of bymns numbered 474-561, from the former Cumbrae book.

VIII. Private Presbyterian and less important

VIII. Private Presbyterian and less important collections of other Churches.

These we note in detail, beginning with i. Established Church of Scotland.

1. The Psaims of David methodized: being an Attempt to bring together (without the smallest Atervation) those Passages in them which relate to the same Subjects. For the use of Churches and Families. By hobert Walker, F.E.S., Senior Minister of Canongate (Edin., W. Creech, 1794). Contains 31 subject divisions and 164 pages. The Psaims are from the realter of 1850.

3. Hymn, Doxologies, de., sung in Sevenie Parish Charch. Scienced From the General Assembly's Church of Scotland Hymn-book, and arranged according to the subjects of the Lord's Prayer and Apostles Creed (Leven, T. Porter, 1863). Compiled by Rev. John Duncau, minister there. 17 hymns eelected, and added; 23 doxologies, 3 thanksgivings, 3 dismissions, leaves and 6 sevenies.

Deven, T. Porter, 1983). Complied by Rev. John Duncau, minister there. 17 hymns selected, and 4 added; 23 doxologies, 3 thanksgivings, 3 dismissions, 1 hosannes, and 6 sanctuses.

2. Hymns adapted for Public Worship, selected from various Authors by the late Thomas Grainger, Eng., of Craingark, with an Appendix constaining of Hymns for private devotion, Sabbath Schools, and Children, (Edm.: Neill & Co., 1882). With 286 hymns. Meant for use in Abercorn Church, max Limithgow.

4. The Order of Public Worship and Administration of the Sacrassents as used in the Church of Old Grey-friers, Edisburgh, Compiled by Dr. Robert Lee, minister there, and pub. in 1868. The edition of 1873 (Edin., A. & C. Constable) has appended to it portions of realm versions numbered 1-30., paraphrases 304-283, and hymns 264-267, edited by Dr. Lee before his death in 1868. In 1877 a Supplement appeared, compiled by Dr. Wallace, then minister there, with hymns 268-316, and prose pealms 317-248. Both compilers were added by Mr. Geoghegan, the precentor.

5. Hymnal Appendix (Edin., Loriner & Gillies, 1874). Edited by Rev. John Macleod for use in his church at Duns (withdrawn from use after he removed to Govan, Glasgow). As an appendix to the Sectifish Hymnal. Contains prose chants 201-218, and Hymns 219-366—a large proportion being from Anglican sources.

6. The Sectifish Book of Provine, being Selections from the Pacifier of 1650, the Paraphrases and Authorus. The sauric edited by Henry A. Lambeth (Lon. & Glaz, Swan & Pentland, 1876). Edited by DonaM Macleod, np., for his Park Church, Glasgow, and for general use as a book with fixed tunes—the musical editor being his organist. Contains selections from the Pacifier of 1650, the Paraphrases of 1781, and the proce Pacifier, with 38 acripture selections for chanting, 25 Anthems, and 185 Hymns, 120 taken from the Scottich Hymns, 130 taken from the Scottich Rymnal, 1870, being numbered as in that collection.

ii. Free Church.

11. Hymns for the Sunctuary; also instructive Hymns for Home Use (printed by D. Adam, Glasgow, 1859). Edited by the Rev. D. C. A. Agnew, of Wigton; with 130 hymns in pt. i., and 60 in pt. ii., besides "frag ments." Mr. Agnew also pub. A Hymn-book for Prayer Meetings. It contains 150 Scriptural Hymns, selected and revised (Edin.; A. Elliott, 1860).

$. Hymns for Orriction Worship, compiled by several ministers of the Pres Church in Glasgow (Glas., W. Collins, Sons, & Co.). With 36 hymns, and in 2nd ed. of 1855 103 hymns. Not authorised by the F. C. General Assembly.

ed. of 1866 103 hymns. Not authorised by the F. C. General Assembly.

5. Hymns selected for Divine Worship, by the Ren. William Knight, St. Enoch's, Dandes (1871). With 118 Hymns. Enlarged and released (after he had joined the Erichbinsed Church) as The St. Enoch's Hymnst, Dandes (1874), with Hymns 1-301 and proceeded the first of the Hymnst 1991 and 1992. The complete was then minister in Dundee, and is now [1880] Professor in St. Andrews.

iii. United Presbyterian.

iii. United Presbyterian.

1. Sacred Songs and Hyman on various Passages of Scripture; Selected for the congregation at Anderstons (Glas, D. Niven, 1788), by Rev. Itames Stenart, of the Relief Church, Anderston, Glasgow. Contains 180 Hymns. Was the first Presbyterian Hymn-book, and formed the basis of the Relief H. Hk. of 1794.

2. Sacred Songs and Hymns on various Passages of Scripture. To be sang in the Worship of God (Paisley: J. Relison, 1793). Edited, with a preface, by Rev. Patrick Hutcheson, of the Relief Church, Canal Street, Paisley. Hymns 1-180 are the same, and under same numbers as Steuart's gave 16 exchanged for hymns in easier metres; with Hymns 181-231 added.

3. Sacred Songs and Hymns on various Passages of Scripture, for the new Relief Church, Campbell Street (Glas.: J. Mennous, 1794). The Rev. James Dun, minister there, took hymns 1-180 from Steuart, and preface and Hymns 181-231 from Hutcheson. Adopted by the Relief Synod in 1794 as their first hymn-book.

4. A Collection of Paraphrases and Hyman. For the use of the Relief Congregation, Rasburgh Place, Edinburgh (Edin.: J. Rutven & Sons, 1810). Compiled by Rev. John Johnston, minister there, mainly from the Relief H. Bé. of 1794. Contains 210 hymns. The ed. of 1821 (Edin.: J. L. Hute) adds 18 doxologies.

5. A Collection of Sacred Songs and Hymns, selected from various Authors, and recommended to be sung in Churches and Families (Capar Fife: R. Tullig, 1811). With 110 hymns, mainly from the Relief H. Hk., 1794. Compiled by the Rev. Robert Walker, minister of the Relief Church in Cupar.

Relief Church in Cupar.

8. A Collection of Hymns on various Pastages of Scriptore; for the use of the Neitef Chapel, 103-110 added.

103-110 squee.
9. The From Hymnal (Glas. & Lon.: M'Corquodale & Co., 1871). Compiled by Rev. Joseph Leckie, D.D., of Horo U. P. Church, Glasgow, as a supplement to the U. P. H. Hk. of 1852. Of its 104 hymna, mostly the U. P. H. Bk. of 1852. Of its 10s hymna mostly recent, 3 (Nos. 8, 19, 100) are by himself.

10. Hymna specially selected for the use of the U. P. School Wynd Congregation (Dundee, 1876), by Rev. George Gilfillan, minister there—106 Hymns and 5 Daxologies. The Rev. David Marrae, who became minister to a section of the congregation, has reissued it as Gilfillan Memorial Hymn-book, being Mr. Citalian's Selection revised and enlarged by the Rev. David Macrae, 1880, with 170 hymna and doxologies.

iv. Evangelical Union.

1. Hymns and Spiritual Sange collected by James Morison (Kilmarnock, 1844), one of the founders of the Union and the best living Scottish exegets. Contains 80 hymns and was originally published in two parts, in the second of which (33-30) 2 hymns by Dr. John Guthrie were first published. Reissued unaftered 1848. Superseded by the Evang. Union H. Bk. of 1856.

v. Baptist.

v. Baptist.

1. A Selection of Hymns adapted for Divine Worship (Edin.: Waugh & Innes, 1818), by Rev. Christopher Anderson, of Rose Street Beptist Church, Edinburgh.

2. Hymns selected for Public and Private use. (Glas.: D. Cameron & Co., 1828) by Hev. James Paterson, D.D., of Hop: Street (now Adelaide Place) Baptist Church, Glasgow. 329 hymns. The 2nd ed. of 1867 (J. Maclehose) contains 436 hymns and 27 chante.

3. A new Selection of Hymns, adapted to Public and Private Devotion. (Edin.: W. Innes, 1843). 290 hymns, 5 doxologies, and an appendix of 8 hymns. Compiled mainly by Rev. Jonathan Watson, co-paster of Elder Street (now Inbili Street) Baptist Church, Edinburgh. Superseded 1861 by No. 5.

4. Hymns for Divine. Worship, being a tspplement to the New Selection. For the use of the Baptist Chargragation, South Street. (Perth: J. & W. Bayne, 1851), 168 hymns, probably selected by Rav. John Cloke, then minister.

minister.

minister.

5. Hymns and Spiritual Songs telected and arranged for Public and Social Worship. (Edin.: Turnbull & Spears, 1861.) Contains 366 hymns and 7 chants, and was compiled for ose in Lubin Street Church, mainly by J. W. Urquhart, Eso, one of the denous. Superseded 1819 by the English Baptist Psolms and Hymns.

6. Church Song. A Collection of Hymns for Public Worship. (Paisley: J. & R. Parlane, 1876), by Rev. Jervis Coats, M.A., for use in the Baptist Church, Govan, Glangow, with 200 hymns.

vi. Congregational.

1. The Congregational Prolimist; or, a Selection of Prolims and Hymns specially adapted for the use of the Congregational Churches of Scotland. By Christian Henry Bateman. (Edin.: H. Armour, 1846.) [See Bateman, C. H., p. 110, it.). Contains 350 hymns.

2. A Selection of Hymns, chiefly Watts, for use in Public Christian Worship; chied by S. T. Porter, whister of the Independent Church, Bath Street, Glasgow. (Glas.: 1853). 800 hymns.

3. Hymns and Pausages of Scripture for Divine Worship. Selected and arranged by John Hutchison (Dunfermline, 1861), then Congregational minister at Impermitine. A fair collection, hymns 1-479, doxologies 480-496; with 51 scripture passages and 5 ancient hymns.

vii. Scottisk Episcopal. 1. A Collection of Hymne and Anthems for the use of the Episcopal Church of Scotland. (Edin.; Murray &

Cochrane, 1781), with 38 byrans and anthems. A sub-sequent edition was A Collection of Hymns and Anthems as used in St. Andrew's Chapet, Aberdem, and other Chapets of the Episcopal Oserch in Sociland, the edition. (Aberdeen: D. Chalmers & Co., 1826), with 50 bymns and anthems.

50 hymns and anthems.

2. A Selection of Frains and Hymns adapted to Public Worthip in general, but chicky intended to be used in the Episcopat Chapel, New Thom, Edinburgh. By A. C. (Edln.: Gordon and Neil), 1786), with 37 Panim Versions (from Tate and Brady, and from Merick) and 61 hymns. Compiled for the congregation then meeting in West Register Street, afterwards in Charlotte Chapel, Charlotte Square, and now in St. John's, Princes Street, to which Dean Raimsay long ministered. ministered.

ministered.
3. Selected Portions from the Old and New Version of the Prolint, de., Hymns and Anthems. (Edin.: J. Taylor & Go., 1804). Compiled by Charles Vincent for St. George's Chapel. Part il. enlarged appeared as Hymns, Anthems., de., steel in St. George's Chapel, York Place, Edinburgh (Edin.: Caledonian Mercury Office, 1811), with 81 hymns and words of 34 anthems; while the edition of 1817 (Edin.: P. G. Buchanan), contained 84 hymns.

with 31 hymins and words of 34 anthems; with the edition of 1817 (Edin.: P. G. Buchanan), contained 84 hymins.

4. A Collection of Hymin and Anthems, for the use of the Riscopal Chapel, Glasgow (Glas.: R. Chapman, 1865), with 104 hymins and words of 24 anthems. Compiled by the flev. Wm. Routledge, incumbent, aided by the organist and some of the congregation. The ed. of 1823 (Glas.: R. Griffin & Co.) contains 106 hymins words of 32 anthems, 7 davologies, and Bp. Ken's morning and evening hymins. Superseded in 1845 by an English collection, and that again by No. 11.

5. A Selection of Hymins for Nt. James's Chapel, Leith (Edin.: A. Allardice, 1810), 71 hymins with anthems and doxologies, and an App. of 18 hymins.

6. A Collection of Phalins and Hymin, arranged for the Public Worthly of God in the Egitopal Chapel, Carriber's Class. Baliaburgh (Edin.: J. Gifford, 1820), with 41 psalm-versions, 108 hymins, 5 doxologice, and an appendix of 33 hymins.

7. A Collection of Phalins and Hymin, arranged for the Public Worthly of God, in St. James's Chapel, Broughton-Place, Edinburgh (Edin.: Wangh & Innes, 1821), with 47 Psalm portions, 109 hymins, 6 doxologice, and an Appendix of 33 hymins. Probably compiled by Rev. Edward Craig, then Incumbent.

8. Select Portions of Psalms from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Modern Translations and Paraphrase supplementary to the Old and New Versions; and Hymins from Mode

J. Graham, 18ic). Edited by Str Archibald Edmonstone, Bart., of Duntreath and Colsium, with 120 hymns, mostly from Bp. Heber's collection, the last 10 being original.

18. Hymns appropriate to the several Seasons of the Beckesiastical Year. For use in Trintly Episcopal Chapel, Dunfermiline (Dunfermiline: J. Miller & Son, 1852), with 48 byrans. The 2nd ed., 1859, contained in all 61 hymns. Compiled by the Rev. William Bruce, Incumbent, 2s a maplement to Take and Brady. Superseted in 1866, by H. A. & M.

18. Hymnarium, cheffs from ancient sources, used in the Roly Services of Matties and Eccensong of St. Andrew's Church, Glasgow (Lon.: J. Mastern. Glas.; M. Ogle & Son, 1857). Compiled by Rev. J. F. S. Gordon, D.D., the Incumbent. Contains 250 hymns and introlat. Superseded in 1866, by H. A. & M.

14. A Hymnal adapted to the Scatons of the Christian Fact (Aberdeen: A. Wilson & Co., 1869). Compiled by Rev. Alexander Harper, for use in his church at invertice, with 108 hymns. First ed. 1866 had 70 hymns. 15. The Supplementary Hymnal compiled by the Rev. H. J. Polmer, E.A., for use in S. Mary's Church, Aberden: G. Davidson, N. D., 1860, 28 hymns, mostly recent hymns and translations, supplementary to H. A. & M., 1801. Almost all are included in the revised H. A. & M. or the People's Hymnal.

16. Glengarnock, Andrer and Cambros Mission Hymn-book (Paisley: N.D. [1865]). With 222 bymns and 8 doxologies. Compiled by the Rev. F. Graeine T.##lacot

Intelect.

17. Hymns authorized by the Bishop (Aberdeen: Ring & Co., 1868), 24 hymns, selected by Rev. T. I. Ball for use in St. Mary's Chapel, The Cove, Aberdeen.

18. Supplement to the "Hymnal Notes with Appendix" (Edin.: Home & Macdouald, 1882). The editions up to 1973 were edited by the Rev. H. A. Walker, of Hakcham, and the Rev. T. I. Ball. The Supplement by Mr. Ball, with Hymns 372-386, contains a large proportion of English Hymns of the Evangelical actual.

19. See also § zvi, 10.

viii. Glassite or Sandemanian.

The Rev. John Glas, N.A., minister of the parish of Tealing, near Dundee, having adopted Independent views, was deposed in 1728. After presiding over congregations of his sympathisers at Dundee and Perth, he died at Dundee, Nov. 2, 1773. In the meelings for public worship of this sect (who have an unpaid ministry) gregations of his sympathisers at Dündee and Perth, he died at Dundee, Nov. 2, 1773. In the meetings for public worship of this sect (who have an unpaid ministry and literally observe Acts XV. 29)—sometimes from Robert Sandeman, the son-tin-law of Glas, called Sandemanlans — the Pealms only are used, the Soctish Psalter of 1650 having been first employed and then the revision of it by Robert Borwell, first pub. as The Book of Plaisms in Metre; from the Original, compared with many Versions in different Languages. London, 1784. For their meetings for religious fellowship were composed the: Christian Songs. To which is prefaced the Soldenes and Import of Christ's Returnaction versified for the help of the Memory. Of this the first cut was pub, at Edinburgh in 1749. A copy, without title page, now in Perth, seems to represent this, and contains 38 rongs; increased in the 2nd ed. (Edinburgh: A. Donaldson for W. Coke, Edin.; R. Morison, Perth, to 43; in the 4th (Dundee: D. Ogitvy, 1770) to 32; in the 5th (Dundee: L. Chaimers for W. Coke, Leith, and R. Morison, Perth, 1775) to 36 songs (No. 80 being afterwards omitted), and 11 Elegies. The 8th ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1st ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1841 ed. (Perth: R. Morison, 1847), enlarged to 63, and in the 1841 ed. (Perth: R. Moris rest are generally centus.

By John Barnard.
63. Behold! the bright morning appears
The man, who was crowned with thorns (st. il.)
91. Thus saith the Church's head

By Hobert Bowell, 57. Behold! what love the Father bath

59. Hark I the trump of God doth sound 55. Wherewith shall I, o'erwhelm'd with sin

By Alexander Glaz.

1. Bleas'd be the day, Fair Charity
Could I with elecution speak (st. vil.)
A time shall come, when constant Faith (st. xl.)

3. Shall earthborn man with God contend By John Glas.

43. There's no name among men, nor angels, so bright

16. This is the day the first ripe sheaf

16. Thy worthiness is all our song

88. We who need mercy every hour

Elegy 1. What is our life in this vain world?

By Thomas Glob.

38. Behold, my Servant, whom I send

39. The Love which thought on helpless man

28. When to my sight, thom God, appears

O Lord, when tempted to despoir (st. lv.)

By Daniel Humphries. 49. When I my wicked heart survey

- By William Leighton.

  6. Riernal love's the darling song

  17. In this one act redemption shines i
- 24. Let the saims all rejoice and exult in their King
- 33. O Jesus: the glory, the wonder, and love 18. Say, Faith, who bleeds on yonder tree? 8. Where shall the guilty who hath lost 20. White I my merit all explore

By David Milchelson.
58. I've seen the lovely garden flow'rs

By Archibald Rutherford,

- By Archibeld Ratherford,

  88. Altho' temptations threaten round

  71. Glary unto Jesus be

  70. Hail! biest scenes of endless joy

  78. Hail! hail: the happy wish'd for time

  78. Man like a flow'r at morn appears

  69. The glorious myriads round the throne

  The countless multitude on kigh

  85. What the' three bodies shall decay

  66. When Jesus comes again

By Robert Sandeman.

- By Robert Saudenan.

  28. Awake, O Zion's daughter! rise

  37. See Mercy, Mercy, from on high Elegy 8. The I'm in pain, and the a load

  50. To guilty mortals why so kind

  11. Ye nations hear, 'tis God doth call
  He who surveys the heart of man (pt. li.)

By William Waterston. 90. How giorious is thy name.

ix. Scots Old Independents.

ix. Scots Oid Independents.

Founded in 1763 by Rev. James Smith and Rev. Robert Ferrier, ministers of the adjacent parishes of Rewburn and Largo in Fife; and by David Date and others, in Glasgow. In 1814 there were 12 churches in Scotland, or which only 3 now remain.

1. The Psalms of Isaiah, Paul, Peter, &c., paraphrated in Metre, or, Hymns founded on tout simportant Pranages of Holy Scripture, and adapted to many occasions of Christian Life (Edin.: D. Paterson and W. Gray, 1171). By Alexander Phin (see p. 898, i.). Of its 95 hymns 11 passed into the Relief H. Bis., 1794.

2. Hymns and Spiritual Songe (Glas.: Mrs. 1771), with 77 hymns. Hepublished as Hymns and Spiritual Songs, collected for the Christian congregation which seeds to the Grasgomar School Wynd, Glasgow (Glas.). D. Niven, A. Orr, &c., 1738), with 100 hymns. The sixth ed., 1794, was enlarged to 118 hymns, many being Glassite; and a seventh ed. appeared unattered in 1793.

3. Pialan, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, collected for a Christian Church in Pailey (Glas.: D. Niven, 1787). In Three Books—I, with Hymns I-101, Il. H. 102-226, iii. H. 227-285. From the Raptist H. Bk. of 1784, omitting those specifically Reptist, and adding 65 from various sources.

4. A Selection of Hymns adapted to Christian Wor-

Various sources.

various sources.

4. A Selection of Hymns adapted to Christian Rosskip (Glas.: J. Graham & Co., 1819). Probably compiled by the late James McGavin, of Falskey, with 982 hymns in alphabetleal order, a number being Glassite. The second ed. of 1832 contains 866 hymns. In 1806 a Supplement (Ghas.: Mackay & Kirkwood), compiled by two of the Glasgow elders, appeared with Hymns 864,433. Roch are effl in uses 360-433. Both are still in use.

x. Berean.

Founded by Ray. John Barclay. b. 1784, near Muthill, Perthebire, secistant of Fettercaira Parish, 1763-1772; died at Edinburgh, as pastor of the Bereaus, July 28, 1799.

died at Edinburgh, as pastor of the bereaus, July 28, 1793.

1. Rejoice Koermore; or Christ all in all. An original publication consisting of Spiritual Songs, do. By John Barelay (Glas.: W. Bell, 1767). Contains, besides Psalms and a version of the Song of Solomon, 198 hymns. Republished as A Select Collection of new original Spiritual Songs, Paraphrases and Translations. Together with the most useful and agreeable of those formerly published under the title of Rejoice Lecrnore, or Christ all in all. By John Barclay, A.M., minister of the Berean Assembly in Edinburgh, vol. fi. (Edin.: J. Domaldson, 1718), with 285 hymns and a Praphrase of the Song of Solomon. Vol. i. contains his version of The Fashus paraphrased according to the New Testament Interpretation, &c. Mr. Barclay also published a cheap collection entitled The Experience and Example of the Lord Jesus Christ; illustrated and improved for the consolation of the Purpose of Diene Praise, &c. (Edin.: J. Immakson, 1733), with a prefatory address of 48 pages fulminating against the Scotials sects of the day, 34 Psalm versions selected for a ks. version still more paraphrastic and spiritualised inan his 1776, a complete metrical version of Hebrews, 33 paraphrases and hymns from his 1715 volume, and 7 additional paraphases. Appended are 12 pages of turther fulminations, ending with definitions of Latin phrases used, the last of which is Rabies cteri. "You may call it the madness of the clergy; or, the real mad-dog-fury and fatal infatuation of false pretended priests. From which, may the gracious Lord of heaven and earth deliver us, and all his own Elect! Amen." In Songs of the Spirit, ediled by the Revs. W. H. Oden-lettner and F. M. Bird, New York, 1871, two hymns are given by Barcley: "Drink deep of the Spirit, and thou shall be filled "(since included in the Library of Religious Poetry, ed. P. Schaff, R.D., and A. Gliman, M.A., ed. 1883, p. 892), and "O love ye the Spirit indweiling," at pp. 127–130.

xi. Roman Catholic.

Hyun studing in public worship seems of recent introduction in Scotland, and the hymnals used seem mostly those popular elsewhere. We have only been able to trace the following, of which Nos. 1-3 are properly School hymnals but have been used in Church at School hymnals but have been used in Church at Children's Services, &c.

1. A Selection of approved Catholic Hymns, for the use of Schools (Glas.: H. Margey, 1861), 57 bypans and the Litany of Loretto.

8. St. Patrick's Catholic Hymnabook published by the Martis Brothers with the approbation of the Night Res. Br. Mardoch, Vicar Apostolic of the Western District, Stateenth Thousand. (To be had of the Morist Brothers, St. Mango Street and Charlotte Street, Glasgow, &c., 1864), 159 bymns. Compiled in 1862 and contains "several original contributions, kindly supplied by the Rev. Canon Oakeley, Very Rev. F. W. Faber, Bev. F. Stanfield and others."

3. Collection of Hymns for the use of the Children of

3. Collection of Hymns for the use of the Children of St. Andrews Congregation (Glas.: H. Margey, 1815), with 105 hymns, of which 6 and the Litany of Loretto are in Latin,

are in Latin.

4. Hyman arranged according to the Ecclesiastical Fear, for use in Catholic Churches. Husic may be had separately. Cust permissu superiorum (Glas.: H. Margey, 1873), with 107 hymna, 18 being in Latin and the rest mainly by Faher and Caswall.

5. A very curlous book was pub. at Aberdeen (J. Chalmers & Co.) in 1802 as A Collection of Spiritual Hyman and Songs, on revious religious tubjects. The pieces occupy pp. 3-143, but are not numbered. They consist mostly of tra. from the Latin, and hymns set to popular song tunes. A number are by Bishop Goddes, eight are signed J. C., eight are signed W. D., &c. It is hardly likely that the book was ever used in the public services of the Roman Catholic Church in Scotland. (See also p. 174, ii.)

xii. Universalist.

xii. Universalist.

1. King David's Praims in common use, with notes critical and explanatory. Devicated to Mesnick (Glan.: printed and sold by N. Douglas, the author, 1915). Prailer of 1650 and Paraphrases of 1781 with notes. The editor, who in 1780 became minister of the Retlief Church at Cupar-Fife, and in 1793 at Dundee, resigned his charge in 1793 and finally settled in Glasgow as a Universalist proceder, where he d. in 1893. In his Sermons on Important Subjects with some Krays in Protry (Edin.: G. Caw, 1789), he gives 14 paraphrases of pealms and 24 hymns and poems—all original.

2. A Collection of Hymns for the use of Believers in God's infinite and immutable love, manifested to the Creation in Jerus Christ (Glas.: W. Kaye, 1824), 116 hymns.

ziji, Theistic.

1. Hymns selected for Divine Worship. By the Rev. James Crandrook (Edin.: Turnbuil & Spears, 1987), formerly minister of Albany Street Congregational Church, Edinburgh. 38 hymns. Recest as:—
2. A Manual of Decout Song for Common Worship. Compiled by the Rev. James Oranbrook (published for use in the Hopetoun Rooms, Edin.: 1884), with prose pealing for five Sundays and 34 hymns, No. 15 being by himself. Again recent as:—
3. Hymns collected and adopted for Rational Worship. Temporary Issue (Edin.: N.F. 1884), with no pealing, 88 hymns and 3 doxologies. After Mr. Cranbrook's connection ceased it was enlarged and issued as:—

4. Hymns relected and adapted for Divine Worship and Human Encouragement (Edia.: Printed for Free-masons' Hall Congregation, 1870), by Mr. Statham, his successor. Contains 155 hymns, words of 16 anthems, and 2 sanctuses. The final issue was :--

5. Hymns (Freemasone' Hall, Edin., 1372), with 69 hymns, of which, according to Mr. Statham's preface, "Many have been written expressly for this collection," only 8 being taken from No. 4.

xiv. Unitarian.

11. Hymns and Anthems for Private and Public Worship. Edited by Charles Clarke (Glas. printed for the Unitarian Church, Union Street, by W. Rankin, 1850), 309 hymns and authems with authors' names. Essed on W. J. Fox's H. & Anthems, 1841. The ed. of 1850 has 320 hymns with an Appendix of 40 "Hymns of Consolation" compiled by H. W. Covelkey.

2. Hymns for Public Worship edited by John Page Roper (Glas. : The Unitarian Churches, 1873), 477 hymns with authors' names, &c. The compiler was then minister of St. Vincent Street Unitarian Church, Glassow.

xv. Brethren.

1. Cur Hymnbook. Compiled by Rice T. Hopkins. Fifteenth Thousand (Edin.: Quigley & Reid, w.n.). Two hymns on back of thlouge, with gospel hymns 1-67 and praise hymns 68-210.
2. Adds to the Service of Song (Edin.: A. Elliot, R.D., c. 1865). Compiled by Dr. Naylor. 203 hymns.
3. The Gospel Hymnal. Compiled by W. T. P. Wolton (Lon. & Glass.: R. L. Allan & Co., 1871, N.D.). So hymns, The compiler was leader of "The Brethren"

zvi, Miscellancous.

1. A Collection of Hymns and Spiritual Songs (Glas.
A. McLean, 1755). 12 hymns.
2. A Collection of Hymns for Christian Worship (Edin: 9. Craufind, 1762). 66 hymns and 5 sacramental hymns—in all 61.

mental hymns—in all 61.

3. A Collection of Hymns and Spiritual Songs, extracted from various Authors, and published for the use of Christians of all denominations (Edin.: James Bonaldson, 1770). With 147 hymns and 2 doxologies, mostly taken from R. Conyere's Collection (p. 333, il.).

4. A retect number of Spiritual Hymns, &c., either for the use of the congregation, family, or the deconfolicitistic seculitation, &c. Hy Dovid Michell (flust. W. Smith, 1781). To hymns. It is not likely that either this or Nos. 5-7, 11, were ever used in public worship.

ethics this or area worship worship.

5. A Collection of Hymns and Sacred Packs. In 1809 Parts. For all Denominations. Published by James Fordyce (Aberdeen: printed by A. Leighton, 1787). Colletins 2-0 hymns in pt. 1. and 34 poems in t. 1. The 2nd cd. of 1788 has 178 hymns, and the 3rd translation has 187. ed., 1789, has lat.
6. Hymns and Scripture Paraphrases published at ed., 1739, has 187.

6. Hymns and Scripture Paraphrases published at the request of a Congregation of Christalans. By William Bell (Edin.: G. Caw., 1806). With 122 hymns.

7. A Selection of Sucred Hymns for Social Worship (Dairy: printed by J. Gemmill for T. Watt, Kliwinning, 1807), with 149 hymns.

8. Hymns on Natural, Moral and Theological Subjects, for the use of the Theophilanthropial Society (Glas.: 1816) with 152 hymns.

9. A Collection of Fraims, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, relected from a number of other collections, for the use of Christian Churches; and adapted to New Testament Worship. By William Culten, funder Church A. Colville & Co., 1817), with 219 hymns.

10. A Miscellaneous Collection of Hymns, chiefly designed for Public Worship (Aberdeen: D. Chalmes & Co., 1825), with 204 hymns and the Benedicite. Compiled for use in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Aberdeen.

11. Morning and Eccuring Hymns for every day of the year, for the Family and Church (Glas.: 7 Argyle Street, 1877). With 733 hymns, edited by John Smith, LLD.

Street, 1957). With 733 hymns, edited by John Smith, Ll.D.

Mote.—Two hymnals compiled by the Rev. J. H. Wilson, D.D., of the Bardlay Free Church, Edinburgh, though never we believe used in public worship, are cited occasionally throughout this Dictionary and are cited occasionally throughout this Dictionary and are thus here mentioned. (1) The Service of Prosise (Edin.: T. Nelson & Sons, 1855), with 322 hymns, 35 chants, 10 anthems and sanctuses, and is children's hymns. A number of hymns by Mrs. Cousin, Mr. Sloan and others, first appeared here: (2) Kongs of Zion (Edin.: T. Nelson & Sons, 1876), with 301 Hymns, &c., mainly from the 1805, from Songs of Zion, 1862, and from the hymns introduced by Mr. Sankey.

IX. APPENDIX.

1. Scottish Hymn Writers.

useless to enumerate even those of them who have attempted to write sacred pootry. Notices will be found in this Dictionary under their respective names of a very large number of these authors, including the following, who by birth or residence are connected with Scotland, viz.:—

William Alexander, Earl of Schling; William Lindsay Alexander, David Douglas Banneman. Thomas Blacklock, Hugh and Robert Blair, William Blair, Jane and Sarah (Findlater) Borthwick, Robert Boyd, Zechary Boyd, William Bruce, James Drummond Burns, William Gameron, Elizabeth Cecilia Clephane, Norvai Clyne, Anne Ross Consin. John Craig, William Dickson, David Thomas Kerr Drummond, William Drummond, Mary (Lundle) Duncan, Thomas Dunlop, Ralph Erskine, Fergus Ferguson, Sarah Findlater (see Borthwick), Robert Kays Greville, John Guthrie, James Hanglion, James Hogg, George Jacque, William Kethe, Robert Murray McCheyne, John Ross Macduff, Hamilton Montgomerie Macgill, Margaret Mackay, Norman Macleod, Samuel Martin, David Macbeth Moir, John Morison, Sir William More, John Oglivic, Robert Pont, Thomas Randali, William Robertson (Greyfiars), William Robertson (Monzievaird), William Bruce Robertson, G. Rortson, Sir W. Scott, Jane C. Simpson, Patrick Simson, John Morrison Sican, George Walker, Ralph Wardlaw, James, John, and Robert Wedderburn, Andrew Young, with various others.

2. Principal Works on the Scottish Psalms and Paraphrases, and their authors.

In this section we have grouped together those works which are of greatest value in tracing the history of Scottish Hymnody.

1. The Scottish Metrical Pratter of a. b. 1600, reprinted in full from the original work, the additional matter on fits from the original work, he distincted matter and various readings found in the editions of 1565, dec, being appended, and the whole illustrated by disserta-tions, vales, and fucuimites. Edited by the Hen, Sell Livingston, Printed from stone, by Maelure and Mac-donald, lithographers to the Queen, Glasgow, 1884. The most elaborate and careful work on the curly Scottleh Pealters, and the fruit of much inbour and research. contains a great amount of interesting and curious infor-mation, and in fact exhausts the subject.

mation, and in fact exhausts the subject.

2. The Letters and Journals of Robert Baillie, A.M., Principal of the University of Glasgow, MDGXXYHMB-UNIL Billed from the duther's manuscripts by Basid Laing, Esy. In three volumes. Edinburgh, printed for Robert Ogle, 1841-1842. Edited for the Bannatyne Gub. It is an important work for the period it embraces. In the appendix to vol. It, (pp. 525-556), Dr. Laing gives a valuable series of "Notices regarding the metrical versions of the Paulus received by the Church of Scotland."

Church of Scotland."

3. History of the Scottish Metrical Pealms, with an account of the Paraphrases and Hymns, and of the music of the Old Pealter. Illustrated with 12 plates of music of 1866. By Kev. J. W. Macmocken, Lesmahagow. Printed for subscribers only. Clargow: Metalloch & Co., Printers, 7 Alston Street, 1872. A very neefal work, containing most of the accessible information, and fealulating most of the accessible information, and fealulating meets of the accessible very neeful work, containing most of the accessible information, and including reprints of many original documents and thlepages of rare editions.

4. The Wedderburnt and their Work, or the Exerci Poetry of the Scottish Reformation, in its historical relation to that of Germany. By Alex. F. Mitchell, D.B., Professor of Hebren, St. Invitence. William Blackwood & Song, Edinburgh and London, 1867. A very careful and interesting little book, tracing ont the German originals of a number of the Gude and Gudie Ballates, and giving all the information accessible as to their authors and their origin.

5. A compendique book of Padins and Spiritaal Sange, commonly known as "The Gude and Gudie Ballates." Ethiburgh, reprinted from the edition of 1578, x. P. Dut commonly known as "The Gude and Goddie Bullaten." Edinburgh, reprinted from the edition of 1578, x. P. Dut William Paterson, Edinburgh, 1803. A reprint from the earliest perfect edition now extant (but see 1, 93 of this article), edited by Dr. Bavid Laing, with a historical preface, a valuable series of notes, a glossary, and copies of the title-pages of the three editions then known, viz. those of Henrie Charteria 1878. Robert Smyth 1809, and Andro Hart 1921.

6. The Pree Church Magazine for 1847, volume 4, Edinburgh, John Johnstone. Contains four articles on the Paraphrases—interesting, but needlessly controversial. They raised a discussion on the subject of Robert Burns's connection with the Paraphrases, the writer Burns's connection with the Paraphrases, pre-

Scotland has produced a long series of stall. They raised a discussion on the subject of koper. Burno's connection with the Paraphrages, the writer minor poets. It would be both difficult and having in his hands a Ms. copy of the Paraphrages prepared for the use of the Convener of the 1775 Committee, with alterations in a hand which much resembled that of Burns, but which proved to be that of John Logan a facsimile page being given. We have failed to trace

7. The United Presbyterian Magazine, volume 18, 1674, and volume 19, 1875. Edinburgh, William Oliphant & Co. These include a series of interesting papers on Scottish Hymn-writers by the late Rev. William Thomson, of Stateford, near Edinburgh. Chapter 1, is on John Wedderburn, ii. on the Paraphranes of 1745, ill. on Bruce and Logan, and iv. on the Paraphroses of 1781.

8. First Becleviae Scottanae. The succession of ministers in the parish churches of Scattand, from the Reformation, 4.D. 1868, to the present time. By Hew Scott, D.D., F.S.A., Scot. minister of Austruther Wester, Edinburgh. William Paterson, 3 vols. in 6 parts, 1866-1871. A most careful and elaborate work, the truit of many years' research among original documents, and of great use in matters of blography.

9. The Book of Common Order of the Church of Paters, and the Common boundary of the Church of Paters.

Scotland, commonly known at John know's lithings, and the Directory for the Public Worship of God agreed upon by the Assembly of Dirinet at Westminster; with historical introductions and thustrative notes by the Rev. George W. Sprott, B.A., and the Rev. Thomas Leishman, M.A. William Blackword and Sons, Edin-burgh and London, 1868. The notes on the Psatters are burgh and London, 1868. The notes on the Psaliera are concise and good.

10. The Scattish Paraphrases... An account of their history, authors, and sources; together with the winning of the General Assembly and extract from Presbytery records relative thereto; reprints of the editions of 1745, 1751, and 1761; information regarding hymnu contemporary with the Paraphrases; and some occount of the Scripture Songs of 1766. By Douglas J. Maclagan. Editourgh, Andrew Ellich, 1899. This work justifies its title, is well and carefully done, and gathers together almost all the available information. It is especially valuable as reprinting the full text of the very rare edition of 1745.

In appending these authorities it may be stated that the article throughout is base! upon independent research, and that in almost every case (save Rous, 1641 and 1643, and the French Psalters) the works mentioned have been examined by myself, or by others on my behalf. To Mr. Clark and the librarians of the Advocates Library, Edinburgh, and to Dr. Dickson, Mr. Lymburn, and the librarians of the Glasgow University Library, I am specially indebted for the full facilities and courteous attention afforded in my researches; to Mr. William Bonar of London I was indebted for the loan of early editions of the Paraphrases, &c.; to Mr. James Thin of Edinburgh, and Mr. W. T. Brooke of London, I am indebted for kind help in completing the lists of Hymnals; and to correspondents, of various denominations, too numerous to mention I am indebted for prompt answers embodying the information they had to give on the points submitted to them.

[J. M.]

Scottish Pealter. [Scottish Mymnody.]

Scottish Translations and Para-phrases. These Translations and Paraphrases were originally prepared by a Committee appointed by the General Assembly of 1742. They were presented in draft in 1745, and in 1751 were authorised for private use. In 1775 a Committee was appointed to revise and enlarge them for public use, by which a draft collection was prepared and printed in 1781, and after many verbal changes published as Translations and Paraphrases, in Verse, of several Passages of Sacred Scripture. Collected and prepared by a Com-mittee of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, in order to be sung in Churches. Edinburgh: Printed and sold by J. Dickson, Printer to the Church of Scotland anccesses: [see Boottish Hymnody, v. 1-4],

The Paraphrases of 1781 are made up of 45, taken—some with great alterations—from the collection of 1745; and of 22 added in 1781.

Connection of 1743; and of 22 and 22 in 1751.

From the 1745 are the following, the numbers being given as in 1781. 23 (Nos. 1, 3, 7, 13, 26, 22, 24, 40, 41, 46, 47, 50 (partly), 51, 54-57, 51, 63-67) by Watts, 6 (Nos. 2, 32, 39, 45, 60) by Doddridge, 2 (Nos. 36, 37) by Tate, 3 (Nos. 4, 33, 34) ascribed to Bilair, 3 (Nos. 25, 42, 43) ascribed to Robertson, and 1 (No. 49) ascribed to Randall, leaving 6 (Nos. 5, 18, 23, 26, 38, 48, 52, 56) to which no probable ascriptions have been assigned. been assigned.

been assigned.

Of the 22 added in 1781, 2 (Nos. 6, 15) are by Watts, while 7 (Nos. 8-11, 31, 63, 68) are assigned to Bruce or Logan; 3 (Nos. 27, 28) are said to be joint productions of Logan and Morison; 5 (Nos. 19, 21, 28, 30, 36) are ascribed to Morison; 5 (Nos. 19, 21, 28, 30, 36) are ascribed to Morison; 2 (Nos. 14, 17) to Cameron, 1 (No. 12) to Martin, 1 (No. 16) to Blacklock, 1 (No. 44, really a cento) to Blair, and 1 (No. 5) in Oglivic.

Deducting those by Watts, hoddridge and Tate, we had of the 67 in 1781 there are 35 of presumably Scottish crigin, 8 of which are still anonymous. The authors of the remaining 27 are noted under Blacklock, Blair, Bruce, Cameron, Martin, Korison, Oglivic, Eandall, and Rabertson.

Of the Hymns appended in 1781, 3 (Nos. 1-3) are by Addison, 1 (No. 4) by Watts, and 1 (No. 5) by Bruce or Logan [see Bruce].

The Committees who compiled the Paraphrases were thus made up :--

On May 13, 1742, the Assembly appointed the Reva. James Riebet, William Gusthart, William Robertson, Robert Kinloch, Professor John Gwelle, Frederick Carmichael, William MeGeorge, Thomas Tarnbull, Robert Blair, Principal William Mishart, Robert Hamilton, George Logan, James Bannatyne, Professor Patrick Cumming, Alexander Webster, George Wishart, Robert Daigleish, James Nasmith, and Matthew Mitchell, ministers; with Mesers, John Wilson, Robert Baillie, and Alexander Nisbet, ruling etalers. To these were Dalgieleh. Jamee Nasmith, and Matthew Micheli, ministers; with Mears. John Wilson, Robert Raillie, and Alexander Nisbet, ruling elders. To these were added on May 18, 1744, the Revs. Principal Thomas Tullidelph, Daniel McQueen, Hugh Blair, George Kay, and Thomas Eandall, ministers; with Lord Arniston, Lord Drummore, the Solicitor General Robert Dundas, and Mr. Charles Erskine, ruling elders.

Or. May 29, 1715, the Assembly appointed the Revs. Or. Patrick Cumming, Dr. Alexander Webster, Principal William Robertson, Dr. Robert Finlay, Dr. Hugh Blair, Dr. Harry Spence, Dr. John Oglivie, Thomas Linning, Andrew Hunter, Dr. Alexander Carlyle, Dr. Joseph McCormick, John Logan, James Brown, Samuel Martin, Robert Walker, James Campbell, and John Gibson, ministers; with Messrs. John Home, James Stoddart, John McLauren, Robert Cullen, and Professors Andrew Dalyell and George Hill, ruling elders. To these were added on June 2, 1786, the Revs. Dr. Henry Grieve, Robert Walker, Jun., Sir Harry Moncrieff, John Kemp, Dr. George Barclay, and Dr. Robert Dick, ministers; with Messrs. John Dickson, James Colquboun, and Alexander Sievenson, eldere. And finally, on May 28, 1781, the Assembly added the Revs. Dr. William Dulrymple, Dr. James Gilleapie, William Burnside, Alexander Watt, John Morison, and William Burnside, Alexander Matt, John Morison, and William Burnside, Alexander Watt, John Morison, and William Burnside, Alexander Matt, John Matterson, ruling elders. and John Anderson, ruling elders.

Throughout the body of this work these Parankrases have been sunotated in full. For reference, the first lines are here given with the numbers as they appear in 1781. Where an alternative line is given in italics the note will be found under that line.

- i. Originally published in 1745-51.
- 47. And shall we then go on to sin
- 47. And shall we then go on to sin

  Shall we go on to sin

  41. As when the Hebrew prophet ruis'd

  So did the Hebrew prophet ruis'd

  23. Behold my servant! see him rise

  63. Behold th' smaxing gift of love

  Behold what undrous grace

  65. Behold the glories of the Lamb

  Behold the gravitain of the Lamb
- Sehold the glories of the Lamb
   Behold's the mountain of the Lori
   In latter days, the mount of God

   Blead to the averlasting God
   Father of all! we bow to thee

80. Father of peace, and God of love!
39. Hark, the glad sound, the Saviour comes
68. How bright these glorious spirits shine!
These glorious minds, how bright they skine
29. How few receive with cordial faith
20. How glorious Ton's courts appear
How homourable is the place.
2 How homourable is the place. 7. How should the sors of Adam's race 4. How still and peaceful is the grave 56. How wretched was our former state 55. How wretched was our former state

Lord, we confess our sumerous faults
28. Ho! ye that thirst, approach the spring
54. I'm not asham'd to own my Lord
57. Jesus, the Son of God, who once

With joy we meditate the grace
38. Just and devout old Simeon liv'd 38. Just and earout old Simon five Nove let The percent die in peace

13. Keep silence, all ye sous of men
Skall Wisdom cry aloud

48. Let Christian faith and hope dispel Nove let our souls ascend above

1. Let heav'n arise, let earth appear
Nove let a specious world arise

42. Let not your hearts with anxious thoughts

17. Let heave a claying sight accessor. 42. Let not your learts with anxious thoughts
67. Let what a glorious sight appears
58. My race is run; my warfard's o'er
Death way dissolve my body now
58. My soul and upirit, fill'd with joy
59. Naked as from the earth we came
60. O God of Bethel! by whose hand
61. Soon shall this earthly frame dissolv'd
60. The rush may rise where waters flow
61. Say grows the rush without the wire
62. The wretched product the wire
63. Though perfect chonence adorn'd
63. Though perfect chonence adorn'd
64. Though perfect chonence adorn'd Hehold the wretch whose cure and was

49. Though all view's eloquence adorn'd
Though all view's eloquence adorn'd

34. Thus spake the Saviour of the world
With relean thanksgiving our Lord

44. To him that lov'd the souls of men
Note to the Lord that maket us know 45. Ungrateful sinners! whence this scorn 46. Vain are the hopes the some of men.
39. What though no flow is the figures clothe 80 first the saints' foundation stands
60. When the last trumper's awfal volce O for an overcoming faith

37. While humble shepherds watch'd their flocks

Phile shepherus watch'd their flocks Phile shepherus watch'd their flocks by night While

23. Why pour'st thou forth thine anxious plaint Whence do our mouraful thoughts arise Ye hear'ns send forth your song of praiset Now thail my inward joyt arise

52. Ye who the name of Jesus bear You who the name of Jesus bear 43. You now must bear my voice no more

ii. Added in 1781, 29. Amidst the mighty, where is he

25. As long as life its term extends Life is the time to serve the Lord
25. Attend, and mark the solemn that
21. Attend, ye tribes that dwell remote
44. Behold the Saviour on the cross
26. Consultation of the Lord and Code 4. Behold the Saviour on the cross
30. Come, let us to the Lord our God
8. Few are thy days, and full of wos
16. In life's gay dawn, when aprightly youth
10. In streets, and opinings of the gates
29. Lo I in the tast of days behold
11. O happy is the man who hears
17. Rulers of Sodom! hear the voice
53. Take comfort, Christians I when your friends
19. The race that long in darkness pin'd
5. Tho' trouble springs not from the dust

Mot from the dast affection grows
31. Thus apeaks the Heathen; How shall man
27. Thus speaks the Heathen; How shall man
28. Thus on that night when dom'd to know
58. Where high the heavenly temple stands
14. White others crowd the house of mirth

Let such as would with Wisdom duell Let such as would with Wirdom dwell 9. Who can resist th' Almighty arm

Hymns added in 1781.

4. Blest morning! whose first dawning rays
Blete'd morning, whose young dawning rays
5. The hour of my departure's come
2. The spacious firmament on high
1. When all thy mercies, 0 my God
3. When rising from the bed of death

12. Ye indolent and slothful rise

The Paraphrases of 1751 had been printed at the end of some editions of the Psalter of 1650 (e.g. by Colin Macfarquhar, Edinburgh, 1771), and though the right of printing the Paraphrases of 1781 was assigned to the Church printer up to 1809, yet before the end of the century the King's printer had begun to add them to the Praiter, and they are still almost universally so printed.

Scriver, Christian, a of Christian Scriver (Schriver, Schreiber), merchant at Rendsburg in Holstein, was b. at Rendsburg, Jan. 2, 1629; and was from his birth destined for the ministry. His father d., of the plague, in 1629, but by the help of a rich great-uncle, he was able eventually to matriculate at the University of Rostock in Oct., 1647 (M.A., 1649). In 1650 he became tutor to a family at Segeberg, near Lübeck. While visiting a married half-sister at Stendal, he preached there with much acceptance, and was appointed, in 1653, archidiaconus of St. James's Church there. He then became, in 1667, pastor of St. James's Church at Magdeburg, where he was also appointed, in 1674, assessor at the consistory, in 1676 as Scholarch, in 1679 as Senior; and in 1685 had also the parishes and schools of the so-called Holzkreis placed under his inspection. At length he found his work too heavy, and, in 1650, accepted an invitation to Quedlinburg as consistorial rath and chief court preacher at the church of St. Servatius, and also as private chaplain to Anna Dorothea, Duchess of Saxony, and Abbess of the Lutheran Stift at Quedlinburg. After a series of strokes of paralysis, he d., at Quedlinburg, April 5, 1693 (Koch, iv. 78; Herzog's Real-Encyklopädic, xiv. p. 1, &c.).

Seriver was a most popular, useful, and influential preacher; his earnestness being deepened by the memory of his many wonderful escapes from accident and pesti-lence. He was sho the author of various devotional works, which found much acceptance, e.g. his Gotthed's works, which found much acceptance, e.g. his Gotthed's 300 Zufällige Andachten, Magdeburg, 1663 (1671, and later eds., have 400 Andachten: English version, as Gott-held's Emilems, by R. Mennies, n.p., Klimburgh, 1557); his Seelen-Schatz, in 5 parts 1675–92; and his Gotthaid's his Seelen-Schatt, in 5 parts 1678-92; and his Gotthold's Sieck- and Sieges-Bette, in 2 pts., 1687-94.

It is difficult to say how many hymns Scriver wrote, apparently about tem. He refers to one or two in his Sceleneckatt and his Andackten, but does not give the full texts. A number are included, as by him, in C. Welse's abridgment of the Seelenschatt, which was pub. at Wittenberg, in 1704, as the Seelenschatt, which was pub. Suffi: and C. O. Weinschenk, paster of St. Ulrich's in Megdeburg, in his Britanticke Leben of Scriver (Magdeburg and Leipzig, 1729), gives a list of those he considers genuine.

Those of Scriver's hymns which have passed into English are:-

i. Auf, Beel, und danke deinem Herrn. Morning. Included, 1704, as above, and in 1729, also marked as by Scriver. But Scriver's con-in-law, Johann Heinrich Hilvecker (b., 1640, at Kalbe, near Magdeburg, became diaconus, and, in 1693, pastor at Kalbe; latterly, also, Inspector of the Holzkreis; and d. at Kalbe, in 1722], in his Dreyfach schallend und nachhallend Kirchen-Echo, Leipzig, 1695, p. 3, claims it as his own. It is in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1078. Tr. as, "To God, my Soul, Thank-offerings pay." By H. J. Buckell, 1842, p. 30.

ii. Der lieben Bonne Licht und Pracht. Evening. This is Scriver's best hymn. It seems to be carlier than 1671, as in that year Scriver quotes st. viii., in his Andachten, as above. According to tradition it was written one evening when Scriver was disturbed by hearing outside a profane song sung to a beautiful melody; whereupon he, grieved that the melody should be so misapplied, composed this hymn for it. Rambach, in his Anthologie, iii. p. 205, prints the hymn from the Vollständiges G. B., Hamburg and Ratzeburg, 1684, in 9 st. of 7 l. In the Lüneburg Stadt G. B., 1686, No. 1907, it is marked as "M. C. S.;" and in Hävecker's Kirchen-Echo, 1695, p. 30, as M. C. Scrivers. It is also in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1153. Regarding it Lauxmann, in Koch, viii. 201, speaks thus:-"Of the beautiful hymn of this true Teacher, the Chrysostom of our Lutheran church, in which the thoughts of Gerhardt's evening hymn [p. 621, i.] ring and are powerfully reechoed; st. vi.-viii., are of the greatest force, and of these especially st. viii." He also gives a portion of a sermon on Rogation Sunday, 1671, in which Scriver quotes st. viii. as expressing the deepest sentlments of his heart. Tr. as:-

1. With Thee I lay me down to sleep. This is a tr. of st. v., vii., viii., as No. 481, in pt. i. of the Moravian H. Bh., 1754. It is also found in the following forms:-

i. In peace I'll now lie down to eleep. In the Moravian H. Ilk., 1782.

il. I lay me down with Thee to sleep. In Maurice's Choral H. Bk., 1861. iii. In peace will I lie down to sleep. In the Moravian

H. Bk., 1886. 2. My praise again I offer Thee. A tr. of st. iv.,

v., by A. T. Russell, as No. 6, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

3. The lovely Bun has now folfilled. This is a tr. of st. i., iv., v., iz., dated 1882, by M. W. Stryker, in his Hys. & Verses, 1883, p. 28, repented in his Christian Chorals, 1885, No. 16. In his Song of Miriam, 1888, p. 26, it begins "The golden Sun has now fulfilled."

îii. Hier lieg ich nun mein Gott zu deinen Füssen. Repentance. Lent. Included in Havecker's Kirchen-Echo, 1695, p. 351, in 28 st. of 4 l.; repeated in Burg's G. B., Breslau, 1746, No. 1582, &c. It is included as Scriver's, in 1704, as above; and so in Burg, and by Koch; but Weinschenk

Here, 0 my 6ed, I cast me at Thy feet. This is a tr. of st. i., iii., v., vi., z., xi., xxi., xxiii., xxvii., xxviii., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger. 1st Scr., 1855, p. 63. In her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 45, it begins, "Here, O my God, low at Thy feet I bend me;" is altered in metre; and omits the fr. of st. iii., Il. 3, 4; v.; vi., Il. 1, 2; and xxiv. IJ. M.)

Scudder, Eliza, niece of Dr. E. H. Sears, (q.v.), was b. in Boston, U.S.A., Nov. 14, 1821, and now (1888) lives in Salem, Massachusetts. Formerly an Unitarian, she some time ago joined the Protestant Episcopal Church. Her hymne in C. U. are :-

1. From past regret and present [faithlessness] sechleness. Repentance. In the Quiet Hours, Boston, 1875.

1875.

2. I cannot find Thee! Still on restless pinion.
Secking after Cod. Appeared in Longfallow and Johnson's Unitarian Hyp. of the Spirit, 1864.

3. In Thes my powers and treasures live. Faith and My. In the Hys. of the Spirit, 1864. It is from a hymn of 10 st. beginning, "Let whosever will enquire," entitled, "The New Heaven," and dated 1855.

4. Life of our life, and light of all our seeing! Prayer. In the Boston Quiet Hours, 1875.

5. The day is done; the weary day of thought and tail is past. Evening. In Seconds and Songs of the Christian Life, by E. H. Sears, Boston, and etc., 1878, p. 296, entitled "Vesper Hymn," and dated "October, 1874." This is possibly her finest hymn.

1874." This is possibly her finest byun.

6. Thou grace divine, sucircling all. Divine Grace. Appeared in Dr. E. H. Sear's Fictures of the Olden Time, as thouse in the Fortunes of a Family of Pilgring, 1857. It was written in 1852, and included in the Boston Mys. of the Spirit, 1864. It has sometimes been taken as "An Ancient Catholic Hymn" (Universalist's Ps. 46 Hys. 1895), but in error.

7. Thou long discounced, reviled, oppress. The Spirit of Truth. In the Boston Hys. of the Spirit, 1864.

Of these hymny. Now. 2, 8, and 7, ore in

Of these hymns, Nos. 2, 6, and 7 are in Dr. Martineau's Hymns, 1873. Some of Miss Scudder's poetical pieces appeared in Dr. Sears's Monthly Beligious Magazine. Her Hymns and Sonnets, by E. S., were pub. by Lockwood, Brooks & Co., Boston, 1880. From this her hymn "Thou hast gone up egain" (Accession), la taken. [F. M. B.]

Σὲ καὶ νῦν εὐλογοῦμεν. Gregory of Nazianzus. [Evening.] This hymn is given in his Works, Paris, 1611, i.; in Daniel iii. 13; and in the Antho. Graca Carm. Christ., 1871. by A. W. Chatfield in his Songs and Hys. of Earliest Greek Christian Poets, 1876, p. 122, in 8 st. of 4 l. (See Greek Hymnody, § iv.) dates 324-389, and contains 28 lines. [J. J.]

Synesius, Bp. of Σὲ μὲν άρχομένας. Ptolemais. [Morning or Evening.] Hymn iv. of ten hymns composed by him at various periods of his life, 375-430. The full Greek text is found in the Antho. Graca Carm. Christ., 1871, p. 15 in 299 lines. It is tr. as "To Thee at evening grey," by A. W. Chatfield in his Songs and Hys. of Eurliest Greek Christian Poets, 1876, p. 56, in 27 st. of 8 l. (See Greek Hymnody, § v.) It is an Evening Hymn, and contains several passages of great beauty which might be utilized in the form of a cento for congregational use. Another tr. is "Thee at the break of sacred day," by Alan Stevenson in his The Ten Hymns of Synesius, &c., 1865. [J. J.]

Σε του ἄφθιτου μονάρχην. gory of Nazianzus. [Praise to Christ.] This hymn to Christ is given in his Works, Paris, 1611, i.; in Daniel iii. 5; and in the Antho. Græca Carm. Christ., 1871, p. 23, in 51 lines. It is tr. as "O Thou the One supreme," by A. W. Chatdled in his Songs and Hys. of Earliest Greek Christian Poets, 1876, p. 93, in 13 st. of 6 l. It is a flue hymn grace-folly translated. (See Greek Hymnody, § iv.) It dates 324-389.

Seagrave, Robert, M.A., 8. of Robert Seagrave, Vicar of Twyford, Leicestershire, was b. at Twyford, Nov. 22, 1693, and educated at Clare College, Cambridge, where he graduated in 1714. Taking Holy Orders he entered most earnestly into the movement then being carried forward by the Wesleys and Whitefield; and between 1731 and 1746 he issued numerous letters and pamphlets, &c., designed to awaken in the clergy a deeper earnestness in their work. In 1739 he was appointed Sunday Evening Lecturer at Loripers' Hall, London, where he continued to preach till 1750. He also occupied Whitefield's Tabernacle from time to time. His hymns, which were better known and more highly appreciated by the older compilers than those in modern days, and will still repay perusal, were included in his collection, pub. by him for use at the Loriner's Hall, as Hymns for Christian Worship, partly com-posed, and partly collected from Various Authors, 1742. The 4th ed. was pub. in 1748, and the originals were reprinted by D. Sedgwick as Scagrave's Hymns, in 1860. Two of these bymns are still in C. U. :-

1. Now may the Spirit's holy fire. Opening of a Place of Worship, This, from Hys. for Caristian Worship, &c., 1743, was given by G. Whitefield as the opening by mn of his Hys. for Social Worship, &c., 1753. It was repeated in Topisay's Pr. & Hys., 1775; and again in later collections to modern hymn-books.

S. Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings. Filgrin's Song. Also from his Hymns, &c., 1742, into G. White-field's Hymns, &c., 1753; and again in others to modern hymn books.

Searcher of hearts, before Thy face. P. Doddridge. [Lent.] Pub. by Job Orton, in his posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 250, in 5 st. of 4 k., and headed, "Peter's Admonition to Simon Magus, Acts viii. 21-24." It was repeated in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839. [J. J.]

Sears, Edmund Hamilton, D.D., s. of Joseph Sears, was b. at Sandisfield, Berkshire County, Massachusetts, April 6, 1810, and educated at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., where he graduated in 1834; and at the Theological School at Cambridge. In 1838 he became pestor of the First Church (Uniterian) at Wayland, Messachusetts; then at Laucaster in the same State, in 1840; again at Wayland, in 1847; and finally at Weston, Massachusetts, in 1865. He d. at Weston, Jan. 14, 1876. He pub. :--

(1) Regeneration, 1854; (2) Pictures of the Olden Time, 1857; (3) Attanasia, or Foregleaus of Immortality, 1858, enlarged ed., 1872; (4) The Fourth Gospel the Heart of Christ; (5) Sermons and Songs of the Christian Life, 1878, in which lis hymna are collected. Also co-editor of the Monthly Religious Magazine.

Of his hymns the following are in C. U.:—

Of his hymns the following are in t. U.;—

1. Calm on the listening ear of night. Caristones.
This hymn "was first published in its original form, in the Botton Obstroer, 1834; atterwards, in the Caristotan Register, in 1836; subsequently it was emended by the author, and, as time emended, was reprinted entire in the Monthly Magazine, vol. XXXV." (Putnam, 1874, 300.) This emended text is given in Putnam's Singers and Sings of the Liberal Faith, p. 306, in 5 st. of 8 ]. Bautly, both in G. Britain and America, the text is abbreviated. Its use is extensive.

2. It came upon the midnight clear. Christones. The "Rev. Dr. Morison writes to us, 'Sears's second Christones hymn was sent to me as editor of the Chris-

The "Rev. Dr. Morison writes to us, "Sears's second Christman hymm was sent to me se editor of the Christman hymm was sent to me se editor of the Christman kepister. I think, in December, 1849. I was very much deligated with it, and before it came out in the Register, read it at a Christman celebration of Dr. Lunt's Sunday School in Quincy. I slways feel that, however poor my Curistman sermon may be, the resuling and singing of this hymm are enough to make up for all deficiences. (Putsuss, p. 30c.) It appeared in the Christian Register, licc., 1850, in 6 st. of 8 l., and is now in extensive use in G. Britain and America.

3. Ho, ye that reat beneath this rook. Charitable Meetings on behalf of Chidren. Appeared in Longfollow and Johnson's Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864, in 2 st. of 8 l.

in 2 et. of 8 L

Dr. Sears's two Christmas hymna rank with the best on that hely sesson in the English language. Although a member of the Unitarian body, his views were rather Sweden-borgian than Unitarian. He held always to the absolute Divinity of Christ. [F. M. B.]

Sedgwick, Daniel, was b, in Leadenhall Street, London, Nov. 26, 1814, of poor parents. His education was of the scantiest. Although apprenticed to a shoemaker at an early age, the elements of the trade were not taught him, and through ill health and neglect, at the completion of his apprenticeship, he was unable entirely to earn his own living. During his rambles, he occasionally soluced himself with the purchase of old hymnbooks, and in the study and comparison of these he began to find his chief delight. He joined himself to the strict Baptist congregation, worshipping in Providence Chapel, Grosvenor Street, Commercial Road, in 1839, having previously married a wife of his own humble station and education. At the age of 23 he began to dabble in the secondhand book trade, and gradually worked up a con-nection. About 1840 he taught bimself writing by copying printed letters, and acquired a singularly neat and clear hand. Hymnbooks then were a drug in the market, and he gradually acquired a noble collection. About 1852 he began the issue of reprints of the rarer hymn-writers of the 17th and 18th cente, and in his Library of Spiritual Song he republished the hymns of William Williams, John Mason, Thomas Shepherd, Robert Seagrave, Joseph Grigg, Anne Steele, John Ryland, John Stocker, James Grant, Thomas Olivers, Bishop Ken, and others. This series brought him into communication with many clergy, and with ministers of all denominations, and the humble bookseller of 81 Sun Street, Bishopsgate, would there receive men of high station and culture and teach them the rudiments of the then infant science of English Hymnology. It was, however, on the publication of Sir Roundell Palmer's, (Lord Selborne's) Book of Praise, in 1862, that Sedgwick first took his place as the foremost living English hymnologist. With all his dogmatic ignorance and want of power to balance evidence, his industry and perseverance in fol-lowing up clues in every direction, led to the formation of an invaluable library, and to a unique correspondence. In the purchase, sale, and exportation of duplicates, and in assisting hymn-compilers in tracing dates, authors, and copyrights, he passed, from 1862 till his death in 1879, the happiest years of his life. He was consulted by men of all shades and opinions. and Hymns Ancient and Modern owed, from its carliest days, something to his assistance. He was consulted at every step by the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon for his Our Own Hymnbook (1866); and in Josiah Millor's Singers and Songs of the Church every article had the benefit of his knowledge and revision; in fact the practised expert can detect in that work baseless suggestions and erroneous conclusions, which arose out of Mr. Miller's too close adherence to his guide. Sedgwick's health began to fail tapidly in 1879, and exhausting and severe spasms of heart disease followed to his death. On Sunday, March 9th, he taked in the afternoon for Cennick's "Thou dear Redeemer, dying Lamb," to be sung to him, the last verse, being specially dwelt on by him. It was in [ the very early hours of the following morning that, with the words, "Hallelujah, Praise the Lord," on his lips, he fell saleep; and on the 15th March, 1879, he was buried at Abney Park cometery. He may well be called the father of English Hymnology; and it is to be specially remembered, to his honour, that, with ali drawbacks of education, temperament, and narrow theological prepossessions, he, by the collection and comparison of hymne and hymnological literature, and by careful annotation, made it possible for others to reap a rich harvest, by bringing their education, critical acumen, wide sympathies, and accurate know-ledge of Biblical, classical, coclesiastical, and historical subjects to bear upon the stores of hymnological wealth which he had accumulated, but which, to a very great extent, he [W. T. B.] could not use.

"When we appear in youder cloud With all the ransomed throng. Then will we stog more sweet, more loud, And Christ shall be our song."

Sedgwick, John, n.n., was b. at Wimbledon, April 24, 1823, and educated at Christ Church and Magdalen College, Oxford; B.A. 1846, D.D. 1859. He was a Fellow of Magdalen College 1855-63; Bursar, 1859-60; and Vice-President 1860-61. He was also suc-cessively Curate of Greinton, Somerset, 1851; Chaplain of High Legh, Cheshire, 1858; Rector of Great Houghton, Northants, 1862; of Stoke-Climsland, Cornwall, 1872; and of Birdbrook, Essex, 1876. He has pub. History of France, 1849: History of Europe, 1850; Hints of the Establishment of Public Industrial Schools, 1853; and Oremus: Short Prayers in Verse for Sundays and Holy Days, suggested by the Services of the Church of England, 1852. From the last work his Quinquagestma hymn, "Lord of love, Whose words have taught us," in Kennedy, is taken, and many more of equal merit remain.

Sedulius, Coelius. The known facts concerning this poet, as contained in his two letters to Macedonius, are, that in early life, he devoted himself to heathen literature; that comparatively late in life he was converted to Ohristianity: and that amongst his friends were Gallieanus and Perpetus. The place of his birth is generally believed to have been Rome; and the date when he flourished 450. For this date the evidence is, that he referred to the Commentaries of Jerome, who d. 420; is praised by Cassiodorus, who d. 575, and by Gelasius, who was pope from 492 to 496. His works were collected, after his death, by Asterius, who was consul in 494. They are (1) Carmen Paschale, a poem which treats of the whole Gospel story; (2) Opus Paschale, a prose rendering of the former; (3) Elegia. a poem, of 110 lines, on the same subject as the Carmen; (4) Veteris et Novi Testamenti Collatio; and (5) the hymn, "A solis ortus cardine" (s. 4, i.). Areval (1794) quotes 16 mss. of Sedulius's work, ranging in date from the 7th to the 16th cent. The best ed. of his Opera is that by Dr. J. Huemer, pub. at Vienna in 1885. Areval's text is printed in Migne's PP. Lat. vol. wix. This Sedulius must not be confounded with the Irish, or with the Scottish Sedulius, as is sometimes

See amid the winter's snow. E. Carwall. [Christmas.] Pub, in his Masque of Subject. By a Lady [Rebecca Wilkinson].

Mary, &c., 1858, p. 259, in 7 st. of 4 l., and a chorus. It was repeated in his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 280. It is given, in an abbreviated form, in several hymn-books. It sometimes begins with an altered form of st. ii. as, "See in yonder manger low." [J. J.]

See, gracious God, before Thy throne. Anne Steele. [Public Humiliation.] Written for the Public Fast, Feb. 6, 1756, in 7 st. of 4 l., and published in her Poems on Eubjects chiefly Devotional, 1760, vol. i. pp. 248-9; in the new ed. of same, 1780, vol. i. pp. 248-9; and in D. Sedgwick's reprint of her Hymns, &c., 1863, p. 115. In its full form it is not in common use. From it, however, the following centos are taken :

centos are taken:—

1. Almighty God, before Thy thrans. This, as given in Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, No. 274, and some of the older collections, is the above slightly altered, together with the omission of st. v. The same first line begins a cente in 4 st. usually found in modern hymnals. It is composed of st. i., it., vi. and vii., also altered, sometimes as in Stevenson's Hys. for Chards & Hone, No. 5, and again as in Snepp's Songs of G. 4 G., No. 860.

2. Almighty Lord, before Thy throne, is the same cento with further alterations; S. P. C. K. Pl. & Hys., No. 138; and in a fuller form of 3 st. of 8 l., being st. i., i., it., v.-vii. (again altered), and a doxology.

3. Behold, O Lard, before Thy Thrans. This cento in the Sew Cong., 1988, No. 994, is composed of st. i., ii., iii., vi., and a concluding stanza, "Hear Thou our prayer," which we have not traced. The ascond stanza of the original "Tremendous judgments from Thine hand," sometimes given as "Dark Judgments," &c., and again as "Dark Judgments," &c., and again as "Darg Judgments," &c., has, according to a note to the original, a special reference to the Lisbon earth-to the original, a special reference to the Lisbon carth-quake of 1755.

5. See, gracious God, before Thy thrune. An abbrevisted form of the original in a few modern collections.

See how great a flame aspires. CWesley. [Praise for the Success of the Gospel.] In Jackson's Memoirs of the Rev. Charles Wesley, small ed., 1848, p. 191, this hymn is referred to under the date of Nov. 1746, as follows :-

"The very animated and emphatic hymn beginning—
See how great a flame aspires,
Kindled by a spark of grace, was also written by Mr. Charles Wesley on the joyful occasion of his ministerial success, and that of his fellow laborrers, in Newcastle and its vicinity. Perhaps the imagery was suggested by the large fives connected with the collieries, which illuminate the whole of that part of the country in the darkest nights."

The hymn was pub in Hys. & Sac. Poems, 1746, vol. i., No. 4, of 4 hymns, written "After Preaching to the Newcastle Colliers," in 4 st. of 81. (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. v. p. 120). It was given in the Wes. H. Ble, 1780, No. 209, and is found in numerous collections.

See how the rising sun. Elizabeth Scott. [Morning.] Appeared in J. Dobell's New Selection, &c., 1806, No. 440, in 7 st. of 4 L. and headed "Morning Hymn." It is given as "See how the morning." given as "See how the mounting sun" in H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Colt., 1855, and as "See how the morning sun," in the Meth. Episco. Hymns, 1849, and the Hymnal, 1878. There is also a cento in C. U. beginning with st. iii. "Serene I lay me down."

See in the vineyard of the Lord. [The barren Fig-tree; or, Close of the Year.] This hymn is given in 6 st. of 4 l. at the close of Sermon xvil. of Short Sermons to Children, to which are added Short Hymns suited to the London: Printed and Sold by the Philan-thropic Society, St. George's Fields, N.D., [circa 1795]. It appeared in an improved form in the 1815 Appendix to T. Cotterill's Sel., No. 208, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in the 1819 ed. of the same, No. 205. It is in several collections in G. Britain and America, and is sometimes said to be by "Cotterili, based upon Doddridge;" and again by "Cotterili, based upon Harbottle." It has, however, little or nothing in common with any hymn by Doddridge; nor with Harbottle's, "See how the fruitless figtree stands," which appeared in The Comprehensive Rippon, 1844, though in The Comprehension suppose, probably written sometime before that date.

See Israel's gentle Shepherd stand. P. Doddridge. [The Good Shepherd.] 1st pub. by Job Orton in his posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, 1755, No. 198, in 5 st. of 4 1., and 'headed' 'Christ's condescending Regard to little Children;" and again in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 221. In addition to its use in its original form it is found as follows:—

1. Lo! Israel's gracious Shepherd stands. This was given in Bickersteth's Caristian Pushnody, 1833.

2. The gentle Haviour cells. This sitered form, in 3 st. of 4 l., was made by Bp. Onderdonk for the American Prayer Sk. Coll., 1825, No. 87. It is in reversi modern collections, and is suitable for Holy Baptism.

J. The Savieur's gentle voice. This is in Kennedy, 1-43, No. 231. It is the American text rewritten by Dr. Kennedy.

In these various forms this hymn has a wide circulation. [J. J.]

See, sinners, in the gospel glass. C. Wesley. [Invitation.] Pub. in Hys. on God's Everlasting Love, 1741, No. 19, in 18 st. of 6 l., and again in the P. Works, 1868-72, vol. iii. p. 20. In the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, it was broken up thus:-

- See, sinners, in the gospel glass, at. i.-iv.
   Sinners, believe the gospel word, st. vi.-ix.
   Would Jesus have the sinner die? st. xii., xiv.,

These hyuns have been repeated in several collections. The centos, "Behold the Lamb of God, Who bears The sins of all," &c., in Mercer's Church Pealter & H. Bk., 1855; and "See where the lame, the halt, the blind," in Dr. Alexander's Augustine H. Bk., 1849 and 1865, are also from the original hymn.

See the Conqueror mounts in triumph. Bp. C. Wordstorth, of Lincoln. [Ascension.] 1st pub. in his Holy Year, 1862, p. 99, in 10 st. of 4 double lines. In the latest editions of the Holy Year it has been divided into two parts, Pt. ii. beginning with st. vi. "Holy Ghost, Illuminator." Usually these two parts are given as separate hymns for con-gregational use. In addition a cente, begin-ning with st. ii., "Who is this that comes in glory?" is given as a hymn. The original is one of Bishop Wordsworth's finestcompositions, and is the nearest approach in style and treat-ment to a Greek Ode known to us in the English language. The amount of Holy Scripture compressed into these 40 lines is wonderful, Prophecy, Types, Historical Facts, Doctrinal Teaching, Extatic Praise, all are here; and the result is one grand rush of holy song.

See the [good] kind Shepherd, Jesus, stands. [The Good Shepherd.] This bywn is found in [Rebecca Wilkinson's] Short Ser-mons to Children, To which are added Short Hymns suited to the Subject [circa 1795]; later ed. pub. at Bath 1798, No. I, in 4 st. of 4 l. In J. Benson's Hys. for Children, selected chiefly from the publications of the Rev. John and Charles Wesley and Dr. Watts, &c., 1814, it was given anonymously as No. 15. From that collection it has passed into a large number of hymn-books for children. In the Short Sermons there is nothing to show by whom the hymn was composed. It is sometimes given as "See the good Shepherd, Jesus, stands."

See where the Lord His glory spreads. T. Kelly. [Ascension.] Appeared in his Hymns, &c., 2nd ed., 1806, in 6 st. of 4 l., and again in later editions of the same (ed. 1853, No. 46). In Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872, and other American collections, it begins with st. ii., altered to "Around the Saviour's lofty throne." In this form it is a good hymn on "Christ as King." [J. J.]

Seelenbräutigam, O du Gotteslamm! N. L. von Zinzendorf. [Follow Christ.] Written in Sept., 1721. 1st pub. as No. 434 in the Sammlung g. und l. Lieder, Leipzig & Görlitz, 1725, in 11 st. of 6 l.; repeated in the Herrnhut G, B., 1735, and in Knapp's ed. of Zinzendori's Geistl. Lieder, 1845, p. 22. The form which has attained the greatest popularity in German is a cento beginning "Jesu, geh' voran " (p. 589, il.). The only tr. in C. U. from the full form is:--

O Thou to whose all-searching sight. A free tr. by J. Wesley, in the Wesley Ps. & Hys., 1738, and H. and Sacred Poems, 1739 (P. Works, 1888-72, vol. i., p. 137), in 6 st. of 4 l. St. i.-iii. are based on st. i., ii.; st. v.-vi. on x., xi; while st. iv. is from st. xii. of the hymn "Wer ist wohl wie du," by J. A. Freylinghausen (p. 298, ii.). This tr. was included in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 330 (1875, No. 339), and has since appeared in many collections, e.g. recently in Churck Hys. 1871, Hyl. Comp. 1878, Allon's Cong. Psatmist Hyl., 1886, &c.; and in America in the Episcopal Hymnal, 1871; Pres. Hymnal, 1874; Evangetical Hyl., N. Y., 1880, &c. The hymn "As through this wilderness we stray," in the Marylebone Ps. & Hys., 1851, Irish Church Hyl. 1869 and 1873, Hybridge Hyl. 1869 Universal H. Bk., 1885, &c., consists of st. iii.-vi. of Wesley altered. Wesley's tr., in whole or in part is in extensive use. [J, M.]

Selnecker, Nicolaus, D.D., s. of Georg Selnecker (Selneccor, Schellenecker, who was protonotarius to the Nürnberg magistracy, but lived at Hersbruck near Nürnberg) was b. at Hersbruck Dec. 5, 1532. In 1536 he was re-moved to Niiraberg, and became during his school time, when only twelve years old, organist at the chapel in the Kaiserburg there. He went to the university of Wittenberg in 1550 (where he became a favourite pupil of Melanchthon), graduated M.A. on July 31, 1554, and subsequently lectured as a privat-decent, sometimes to 200 students. In the end of 1557 he was appointed second court preacher at Dresden, and tutor to the heir app rent Prince Alexander, having also to supervise the education of the choirboys of 1 the royal chapel. He was orduined at Wittenberg Jan. 6, 1558. The principal theologians at the Saxon court at that time were inclined to follow Melanchthon's lead and to approximate to Calvin's teachings regarding Consubstantiation. When therefore Selnecker thought it his duty openly to declare his adhesion to strict Lutheranism, he found his position almost untenable. When Martin Hoffmann of the Neustadt church in Dresden preached against the Elector August's passion for game preserving, Schnecker took Hoffmanu's part. His enemies took advantage of this, and managed so that after Hoffmann had been expelled from Dresden, in August, 1564, Scincoker was requested to seek work else-where (see No. iii. below. The hymn more probably refers to Schnecker's own troubles at this period). He preached his farewell sermon at Dresden on March 15, 1565, and on the 26th he entered on his new office of Professor of Theology at Jena. After the siego of Gotha, Duke Johann Wilhelm of Saxony recalled Wigand and other professors of Theology who had been expelled from Jena, in 1561, as adherents of Flacius; and Selnecker, not being so extreme a Lutheran as they, had to leave Jena. Thereupon the Elector August again received him into favour. appointed him professor of Theology at Leipzig, and also paster of St. Thomas's church and Superintendent of Leipzig. He entered on his duties at Leipzig in August 1568, and for some time worked quietly and successfully. In July 1570 the Elector acceded to the request of Duke Julius of Brunswick for Selnecker's services, and gave Selnecker leave of absence to go to Wolfenbüttel as court preacher and general superintendent. Here he succeeded in inducing the clergy to receive the so-called Saxon Confession, and persevered in zealous visitations of churches, schools, &c. After 1572 he resided at Gandersheim, took an interest in the Gymnasium there, &c. In 1573 he also visited, and drew up a book of Church Order and Discipline for the district of Oldenburg-Jever. But in Brunswick, what with Martin Chemnitz the Superintendent of Brunswick, who was a High Lutheran, the Duke who wished for peace, and the other General Superintendent at Wolfenbüttel, Selnecker found it a difficult matter to work comfortably, and was himself accused of Crypto-Calvinism. He therefore gladly accepted the Elector August's recall to Leipzig, and began to lecture there again in Feb. 1574. In 1576 he was once more appointed paster of St. Thomas's Church, and Superintendent. At Leipzig the secremental controversy broke out afresh, and Seinecker became deeply involved therein. He was then engaged in drawing up the Formula of Concord (meant to unite the Lutherans, but to exclude the Romanists on one hand, and the Calvinists on the other), which was finally revised on May 29, and pub. on July 22, 1577. The Formula of Concord was so far a success that it was very largely subscribed, but at the same time its authors, and specially Seinecker, were subjected to the most violent abuse both from the High Lutherans and from the Calvinists, so much so that be called 1579 his "year of patience and silence." For a few years immediately thereafter his life was a more peaceful one, and he found time to devote to poetry and music. At this time he assisted greatly in the building up of the famous Motett Choir of St. Thomas's Church, which J. S. Bach afterwards conducted. But on the death of the Elector August in 1586 the real direction of affairs passed into the hands of Dr. Nicolaus Crell, Chancellor to the Elector Christian I., and under his rule the Lutheran clergy were gradually displaced by Melanchthonians and Crypto-Calvinists. When the new court preacher Salmuth began to issue a German Bible with notes in which he clearly taught Calvinism and impugned the Formula of Concord, Selnecker published a pamphlet in opposition, and was in consequence deprived of his offices on May 17, 1589. For a time he stayed on in his own house in Leipzig, and used his pen in controversy. But after having received, on Oct. 22, notice to cease writing, he thought it prudent to leave Leipzig. He found many sympathisers, and after a short time spent in Halle and then in Magdeburg, he accepted the appointment of Super-intendent at Hildesheim. Here he had many anxious and weighty matters to settle, and was finally called on, in 1591, to arbitrate in matters of dispute at Augsburg. Returning from Augsburg in stormy December weather, and being worn out and seriously ill, he reached Hildesheim half dead, and was conflued to his room till April. Meantime the Elector Christian I. had suddenly died, and his widow, after deposing the Chancellor Crell, proceeded to recall those whom Crell had banished. Selnecker, spite of his weakness, welcomed the idea of returning to Leipzig, left Hildesheim on May 9, and reached Leipzig on May 19; but only to die. He d. at Leipzig, May 24, 1592 (Koch, ii. 1917, v. 656; Herzog's Real-Encyklopädie, xiv. 76; G. A. Will's Nürnbergisches Gelehrten Lexicon, pt. iii. 1757, p. 670, and Supplement, pt. viii. 1808, p. 198, &c.). Koch dates his birth 1530, but Will quotes an apparently genuine auto-biographical sketch in which Scinecker gives the date 1532; and the reference which Kook, ii. 191, makes to Selnecker's Paraphrasis Paulterii is full of misprints, for that work was pub, in 1578 (not 1588), and the date after Ps. cl. is "Absolutum Gandesine [i.e. Gandersheim], Anno 1573, die Mali 25, qui est dies Urbani, Anno actatis 42 (not 45)."

Schnecker, as we have seen, was a prominent figure in the ecclesiastical history of Germany in the latter half of the sixteenth century, and a good filiustration of the extremes to which theological controversies were than carried. He was the author of some 173 theological and controversial works, in German and Latin, perhaps the most important being his Institutio Relegions Christicanae, Frankfurt, 1872-73 (see lists in Will's Lexicore as above). He also ranks, with Helmbold and llingwaldt, among the most important hymn-writers of the period. Amid the manifold changes and chances of his life he found inspiration and consolation in the tudy of and recorns to the Pasiter, and in his love of music. In lastin were he pub. a Scriptural play on the Fall of our First Parents, entitled Theopheania, &c., Wittenberg, 1860 (Brit, Mus.), and a version of the Pasims as Paraphrasis Pasiteris, Heibrichstadt, 1873 (University Idhravy at Padatovin in Westphalit. Reference as above kindly verified by Gymnasialtebrer sichter of P.-derborn). His German hymnes partake for the most part of the objective churchly character of the bymns of the Reformation period, and indeed contain many reminiscences of them. Of the rest, many only too faithfully mirror the misfortunes and changes and conflicts of his life, and are full of personal matter and careless in style. Still there remain not a few worthy of note, in which a genuine piety, a deep and fervent love to the Saviour, and a zeal for the best interests of His Church on earth, are expressed to clear, flowing and musical style. A large number first appeared appended to or interspersed in life proces oviks, e.g. his exposition of the Psalms (Ps. i. -l., lat ed. 1563; ii. -c., lat ed. 1564; cd.-cl., tst ed. 1565; complete ed. 1571); and the popular ed. (ther Psalter mit kurisen Eussuaries, &c.) let publin 1572, and of which six eds. appeared in his instime; in his exposition of the Proplets (pt. i. lat ed. 1579; pt. ii. lat ed. 1579). Also in his Sieben Euss-Psalmen, Leipzig, 1525; in the Drey Predigien, Heinrichstati, 1572 (contains three sermons preached by Schoecker, by Martin Chemnitz, and by Christoph Vischer at the haptism of Anna Urula, Puchess of Brunswick-Lineburg. Appended to Selnecker's sermon are 6 hymns on Luther's Catechism), &c. They were collected, together with other pieces by various authors, in his Christicke Psalmen, Lieder und Kirchengezäuge, &c., Leipzig, 1587, where 130 German hymns are marked with his initials, and where various of the melodies and of the His Church on earth, are expressed to clear, flowing and initials, and where various of the melodies and of the initials, and where various of the melocies and of the four-part settings seem also to be by him. A selection from his hymns, with a biographical sketch by Heinrich Thiele, appeared at Halle in 1855. The most complete collection is that in Wackernagol's Deutsche Kirchented, vol. iv. Nos. 303-475, and in the bibliographical notices in that work the particulars of the original works in which they are found are given at length.

The hymns by Selnecker which have passed into English are ;-

- Ach bleib bei uns, Herr Jesu Christ. Peace and Orthodoxy. It has sometimes been said of this hymn that st. L, ii. are by Selnecker, and that the rest are a later addition. The opposite however is the case. The full form appeared in the Geistliche Psalmen, &c., Nürnberg, 1611, p. 597, in 9 st., viz. :--
  - Ach bleib bey une, Herr Jean Christ.
  - In diser schweren betrübten Zeit.
     Herr Jesu, hilff, dein Kirch erhalt

  - 4. Erhalt unns nun bey deinem Wort.

  - Ach Gott es geht gar fibel 2u.
     Den stoltzen Geistern wehre doch.
     Die Sach und Ehr, Herr Jeau Christ.
  - Dein Wort ist unsers Hertzens Trutz,
     Glb dass wir leben in deim Wort,
- of this arrangement st. 1, according to Mitsell, No. 227, first appeared in 1573, on a broadsheet, along with N. Herman's hymn, Danket dem Herren heut und allereit. It is a tr. of Melanchhou's "Vespera jam venit, nobiscum Christe maneto Exetingui lucem neo patiere tusm." (Corpus Reformatorum, vol. x., col. 602, Halle, 1842), and is founded on St. Luke Xxiv. 29.
  St. 2, says Mittell, first appeared in Christliche Gebet und Padimen, welchedie Hinder in der Jungfrau Schulen.

used readmen, we conclude integer in acr uning ran Schulen.

1802. It resembles the rhymed prayer given at the end of Fe. xaix, in Selnecker's Der Pauller, 1872.

St. 5 is st. 2 of the bymn "Wir danken dir, Herr Jesu Christ, Dass du unser König worden bist," which is the rhymed prayer to Fe. cxlix., in Selnecker's Der Pauller,

St. 3, 4, 6-9, form the hymn, "Herr Jesu, hilf, dein Kirch erheit," which is the rhymed prayer to Ps. axxii., in Seinecker's Der Psaiter, 1572. See also Wackernagel, iv., p. 286.

The text of 1611 is in R. Thiele's ed. of Selnecker's Geisti. Licder, 1855, p. 31, and in the Berlin G. L. S. ed. 1863, No. 408. The trs. in C. U. are from this text :-

- 1. Lord Jesus with Thy children stay. This is a tr. of st. 1, 2, 8, 6, 9, 3 by J. Swertner in the Moravian H. Bk. 1789, No. 6 (1886, No. 6).
- 2. Ah Josu Christ, with us abide. This is a good tr. of st. 1-5, 9, by Dr. Kennedy as No. 41 in his Hymn. Christ. 1863, repeated in Holy Song, 1869.
- 3. Lord Josu Christ, with us abide, For round us fall, &c. By Miss Winkworth, of st. 1, 2, in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 19, repeated quotes it from the ed. of 1578, in 3 st. of 6 l.

in Bosworth's Bk. of Church Hys., 1865. It is slightly altered in Miss Winkworth's Christian Singers, 1869, p. 152.

- 4. Forsake us not, O Lord be near. By L. Heyl, in full, as No. 181 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl. 1880. Other tru. are-(1) "Abids with us, O Jesu dear," as Ulter tra, are (1) "house with us, o seem user, as Mo. 336, in pt. I. of the Mornetien H. Mr., 1764. (2) "Lord Jean Christ, with us ablde, "Is now," By H. J. Muckoll, 1842, p. 89. (3) "With us, Lord Jeans Christ, ablde." By Dr. G. Walker, 1860, p. 61.
- ii. Christus der wahre Gottes Bohn. Holy Baptism. This is No. 4 of the 6 hymns by Selnecker, on Luther's Catachism, appended to one of Drey Predigten, 1572, and thence in Wachernagel, iv. p. 255, in 8 st. of 4 l. In the Ohio G. B. 1870, No. 239. Tr. as:—

Now Christ, the very Bon of God. By C. H. L. Schnette as No. 221 in the Ohio Luth. Hyt. 1880, st. i.-iii. are literal, iv.-vi. are based on iv.-viii. of the German.

tii. Hilf, Herr, mein Gott, in dieser Noth Cross and Consolation. In his Christiche Psalmen, 1587, in 15 lines entitled " Anno 1565. God knows why." Thence in Wackernagel, iv. pp. 242-243 (with two other forms), and H. Thiele's ed. 1855, p. 45. It was probably written during his last months at Dresden. It has indeed been said to have been written to comfort Martin Hoffmann, diaconus of the Holy Cross Church at Dresden, on his expulsion after preaching about the Elector August's passion for hunting and game preserving; but the hymn is dated 1565, and Hoffmann left Dresden in August, 1564. The form tr. into English is:—

Hilf, Helffer, hilf in Augst und Noth. This is found in M. Moller's Manuale de prasparatione ad mortem, Görlitz, 1593, f. 114, in 3 st. of 4 l., among the hymns "composed by other spiritual persona." This is Wackernagel's second form. and is also in the Unc. L. S. 1851, No. 624. The reason why Moller did not claim it as his own was, most likely, because it was based on Selnecker. The trs. are:-

- 1. My Helper, aid: Thy morey show. By A. T. Russell, in full, as No. 223 in his Ps. and Hys. 1851.
- 3. Help, Saviour! help, in fear and need. By E. Cronenwett, in full, as No. 410 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl. 1880.
- 3. Help, Jesus, help! in woe, in need. By Miss Manington in her Footprints of the Holy Dead, фс., 1863, р. 8.
- iv. Laga migh dain sein und bleiben. Close of Service. This is a beautiful st. of 8 l. which is very frequently used in Germany at the close of Divine service. It was written as his daily prayer and 1st pub, in his Passio, 1572, and thence in Wacksrnagel, iv. p. 251, and also in Thiele's ed. 1855, p. 59. In the Unv. L. S. 1851, No. 231, with two additional st. which Wetzel, ili, 213, says appeared in the Rudolstadt G. B. 1688. The trs. are:—
- 1. Let me be Thine for ever, My gracious. This is a tr. of st. i.-iii. by Dr. M. Loy as No. 230 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl. 1880.
- 2. Make me Thine own and keep me Thine. By Miss Winkworth in her Christian Singers of Germany, 1869, p. 152.
- v. O Herre Gott, in meiner Neth. For the Dying. Founded on Ps. cxvi. 9. 1st pub. in his Der Psalter, 1572. Wackernagel iv. p. 290,

It is also in Thiele's ed. 1855, p. 58, and in the Berlin G. L. S. ed. 1863, No. 969. Tr. as:--

O Lerd and God, I cry to Thee, This is a good and full tr. by A. T. Russell as No. 253 in his Ps. & Hys. 1851.

In Bunsen's Versuck, 1833, No. 885 (Allg. G. B., 1846, No. 388) there is a version of this hymn entirely re-written, and beginning & Herre-Gett, ich raf zu dir. The tr. in C. U. from this

O Lord my God, I cry to Thee. This is a good and full tr. by Miss Winkworth in her Lyra Ger. 2nd Ser. 1858, p. 212, and her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 192. Repeated in the Irish Church Hyl. 1873, Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bh. 1868 and others,

vi. Wir danken dir, Harr Josu Christ, Dass du gen Himmel gefahren bist. Ascension. A hymn beginning thus, and in 4 st. of 4 l. appeared at the end of Ps. laviii. in Selnecker's Der Psalter, 1572. Wackernayel, Iv. p. 278, quotes it from the ed. of 1578. It is also in Thicle, 1855, p. 15. Mützell, No. 277, gives this text, and also a form in 13 st. of 4 l. from the Geistliche Psalmon, &c., Nürnberg, 1611, where it is ascribed to Seluecker. The 13 st. form is also in M. Pratorius's Musas Sionias, pt. v. 1607, No. 140; and in the Berlin G. L. S. ed. 1863, No. 340. The to. in C. U. is:--

We thank Theo, Jesus! descret Friend, that Theu sidet. By Dr. M. Loy, in full, from the G. L. S. text, as No. 96 in the Ohio Luth, Hyl. 1880.

Other tra, see -(1) "Lord Jeeus Christ: we thank Thee now." This is No. 334, in pt. i., of the Averavian H. Bk., 1754. (2) "To Thee, our Lord, all praise be given." This is a lumn, in 6 st. of 4 i., by J. Swertner, as No. 136 in the Maravian H. Bk., 1789 (1842, No. 178, beginning. "To Thee, Lord Christ); bacd on this bymn, and on Ernst Lange's "Herr Jeon Christ zieh was dir nach." Lange's bymn is in Freylinghausen's Neues Contaminant R. B. 1134 No. 1134. nach." Lauge's hymn is in Freylinghausen's Neucs Geistreiches G. B., 1714, No. 117.

vii. Wir danken die, e treuer Gott. Absolution. This is No. 6 of the 6 hymns by Selnecker, on Luther's Catechism, appended to one of Drey Predigten, 1572. It is in 3 st. of 4 l. and a fourth st. of 2 1., and is entitled "How one should comfort himself in Holy Absolution." The complete form in 4 st. of 4 l., is in his Christliche Psalmen, 1587. Both forms are in Wackernagel, iv. p. 257; and in Mützell, Nos. 285, 286. The second form is also No. 274 in the Ohio Luth. G. B., 1870. Tr. as:-

O Faithful God, thanks be to Thee. By C. H. L. Schnette, in full, as No. 246 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880. [J. M.]

Σήμερον συνέχει τάφος [Αφραστον θα μα].

Send out Thy light and truth, O God! J. Montgomery. [Missions.] This well-known hymn was first printed in a religious annual, The Christian Keepsake, in 1836; again in Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1859, No. 253; and again in Mercer's Ch. Psalter & H. Bk., 1854, No. 381, in 4 st. of 8 l., the only change from the 1836 text being st. iii. L 9, "Then spring" to "Then be new born," &c. From Mercer's Preface it would seem that he was under the impression that it was written specially for his collection. Montgomery says in a note in his Original Hys., p. 256, that it was written "in the metre and to suit the tune of the hymn said to have been composed and set to music by Luther, and sung by him | became very general. In most mediaeval and his friends as they entered the city of Worms to annear before the Diet there." The Worms to appear before the Diet there." German hymn referred to is Ein' feste Burg (p. 352, il.). Montgomery's hymn, however, has nothing in common with Luther's save the metre. It has attained to somewhat extensive nse in Great Britain and America. [J. J.]

Sensus quis horror percutit. Jean Baptiste de Santeiil. [Ascession.] In the Cluniae Brev., 1686, p. 497, this lymn begins "Quid obstupendum cernimus," but in Santstill's Hymni Sacri et Navi, 1689, p. 22, and ed. 1698, p. 105, it is given as above. It is also in the Paris Breviary, 1736, as the hymn at Matins on the octave of the Ascension. It is also in J. Chandler's Hus. of the Primitive Church, 1837, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

1. What is this horror? The sky is rended By I. Williams, in the British Magazine, Dec. 1834 (vol. vi. p. 620, together with the Latin), and his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839.

9. What terrors shake my trembling soul! By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 85, and again in his Hys. of the Church, &c., 1841, No. 49. It is No. 120 in the 1863 Appendix to the H. Noted.

3. Awfal thought of endless doom. By R. Campbell, in his St. Andrews Hys. and Authors, 1850, p. 78, and, with slight alterations, in the Hymnary, 1872. Some portions of this tr. are by Miss Jane Campbell, of Ravensdale, Scotland. It is given in O. Shipley's Annus Scactus, 1884, as "Fearful thought of endless doom."

4. What terror every bosom shakes. By J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 201.

Another tr. is :-Great God, what terror fills the eye. By W Palmer, in his Short Poems &c., 1845, p. 50.

[J. J.] [J. J.]

Sequences. The origin and structure of Sequences or Proses (p. 915, i.) have been referred to under Latin Hymnody (see pp. 648-650). The Gradual or Antiphon sung between the Epistle and Gospel in the Liturgy ended on festal days with the word Alleluin. The last syllable of this word was prolouged to a number of musical notes (called neumes), which were entitled the Sequentia, as following the Alleluia. In the ninth century the custom began of adapting words to suit these notes; and these words came in their turn to be called Sequences. The first author of this kind of Sequences was Nather Bullenius (p. $13, ii.), a monk of St. Gall, who d. 912. He had many successors, one of the most voluminous and finished writers of Sequences being Adam of St. Victor, who d. 1177.

One of the earliest Mss. containing Sequences is an Angle-Saxon Tropary written in the reign of Ethelred (979-1016), and now in the Bodleian (see a below). In the Leofric Mis-sal, an English service book in use at Exeter half a century later, and now in the Bodleism (Bodl., No. 579. Printed at the Clarendon Press, Oxford, in 1883) only six Sequences are indicated for use by their catchwords (the "Coelica resonent": "Mater Sequences being
"Coelica resonent": "Mater Sequencis rum," i.e. "Pangamus Creatori"; "Claris vocious";
"Lyra pulchra": "Omnes sancti" and "Scalam ad coolos." The use of Sequences soon

Missals there are proper Sequences appointed for nearly every Sunday and Holy Day except from Septuagesima to Easter, when verses of Holy Scripture known as the Tract were substituted for the Alleluia and the Sequence. Sequences or Proses are also found in Processionals and Breviaries, where they were intro-duced in lieu of the Versus after the Responsory attached to one of the Lections, generally the last (York Brev., 1883, ii. 106), or in lieu of the Hymn at Vespers or Compline, or in connection with Processions on cortain festivals. In the revised Roman Missal of 1570 all Sequences were abolished save four, viz. (1) "Victimae paschali," for Easter; (2) "Veni Sanete Spiritus," for Pentecost; (3) "Lauda Sion Salvatorem," for Corpus Christi; (4) " Dies irae, dies illa," for Masses for the Dead. In comparatively recent times, about 1727, there was added (5) "Stabut mater delorosa," for Friday after Passion Sunday.

A large number of Sequences are included in the collections of Mone, Daniel, Morel, Wachernagel, and others. In 1852 Dr. Neale published 125 under the title Sequentiae ex Missalibus germanicis, anglicis, gallicis, altisque medii aeri collectae. The most complete collection of Sequences is Dr. Joseph Kehrein's Lateinische Sequenzen des Mittelalters, pub. at Mainz in 1873, with 895, including almost the whole of those previously edited by Mone, Daniel, Morel, Wackernogel and Neale; and many others, principally from Missals of the 16th cent. Of these many are only printed in part, and the number (895), large as it is, does not nearly exhaust the list of such compositions; for even on comparing with the lists below, a large proportion will be found not included by Kehrein.

An interesting collection of Sequences has just been pub. under the title Prosarium Lemovicense (Leipzig, Fues's Verlag, 1890). This is edited by G. M. Drevea, as pt. vii. of his Analecta Hymnica Medii Aevi, and con-tains 265 Sequences, taken from 16 Troparies of the 10th, 11th, and 12th cent., which formerly belonged to the Abbey of St. Martial at Limoges, and are now in the Bibliotheque Nationale at Paris.

In Part i. we append a list of first lines of Sequences and Proses contained in the Arbuthnott, Hereford, Sarum and York Missals, and a few important early us. Service Books, mostly of English, French and German origin. In Part ii. are given the first lines of additional Sequences in later English Service Books, in a few representative French and German diocesan Missals not later than 1490, and in two Monastic Missals. In many cases there are slight variations of the text. We have given the various forms where the varieties of reading affect the alphabetical order.

Part i. In compiling the first list of first lines of Sequences an exhaustive use has been made of the following MSS, and printed Service Books :-

(a) The Arbuthnett Missal. This was is in the possession of the Arbuthnett family. It was written about the end of the 15th cent. for the use of St. Ternan's Church, Arbuthnett, Kincardineshire, by Sybbald, parson of Arbuthnett what in 15th It is a Surgery Missal of Arbutanta, and in 1507. It is a Surum Minal with variations, and probably represents the use of the diocess of St. Andrews. The copy used is the ed. printed at Burntleland, 1884.

(b) Reg. 2 B. iv. This is a Ms. Gradual in the British. Museum, written in England about 1140,

(c) Reg. 8 C. ziii. Also in the British Museum, con-taining a collection of Sequences written about 1200, taling a collection of Sequences written about 1900, apparently in England.

(d) Add. 11669. Also in the British Museum, and is a Gradinal written in Germany about 1909.

(e) The Tropary of Ethelred. A Ms. in the Bodletan (Bodl. 715) written at Winchester shortly after 200, and during the reign of Ethelred (375-1016). It is described in the Academy for Oct. 23, 1885, p. 280. The Sequences of this as, have been printed in vol. 2 of the Surtees Society's ed. of the Iowk Affestal (see y below); those which are not included in the Fork Missal being printed in full, and the rest having their tiles and first lines given with references to the full text where they occur in the Iork Missal. (f) Add. 28985. A beautiful Service Book written in

(f) Add. 23925. A beautiful Service Book written in France in the end of the 13th cent., and now in the British Museum.

(g) Add. 1976s. A Tropary with a collection of Sequences, Sc., written at St. Gall in the 11th cent., and now in the British Museum. The hymns of this Ms. are not indexed.

not indexed.

(h) The Hereford Missal. Of this use only one us, is known. This was written about 1300, belones to University College, Oxford, but is kept in the Bodleins. The Ms. is very imperfect, and consequently the references are made to the ed. printed at Rouen in 1502 (Missale...ecdesic Heljordensis). It may be suited however that all the Sequences of the printed ed. which are not combained in the Sequences of the printed ed. which are not combained in the sequence tray (16 finds are found in this us except they (16 finds are found in this us except they (16 finds are found in this us assent two (16 finds are found in this us except they (16 finds are found in this us except they (16 finds are found in this us except they (16 finds are found in this us assent they (16 finds are found in this us assent they (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent they (16 finds are found in this use assent they (16 finds are found in this use assent they (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this use assent two (16 finds are found in this are the finds are found in this are as the finds are found in this are the finds are found in this are found are found in this are the finds are found in this are found in the finds are found in this are found in are not contained in the Samue 1370 and Fork 1390 Mash, noted below are found in this as, except two ("Gausdie prole," and "Missus est"), and the Mash has the Mass which contains them but without the Saguences. The Receipted Listed was reprinted under the editorship of Ir. W. G. Handerson, at Leets, 1871.

(5 Hart, 2861. This is is to the 11th cent, and is in the British Museum. It is described under Hymnatics name 586.

in the Drives A. A. This Me. is ju the British Museum, and contains a collection of Sequencer written in England about 1199.

(n) The Sens Missal. Of this there is a us. in the

(n) The Sens Misseal. Of this there is a us, in the British Museum written in the 14th cent. (Add. 39058), but unfortunately imperfect in various places. The Sequences marked 8° are found in the Missale Segments, printed at Paris in 1829 by Misoles Prevent, of which there is a copy in Durham University Library.

(p) The Paris Missal. Of this there is a us. In the British Museum written early in the 14th cent. (Add. 18905). The Sequences marked p° are found in the Missale... ecclesic Parisiensis printed at Paris in 1891 by Joannes de Prato and Desiderius Huyur, those marked p° in the edition printed at Paris in 1801, by Thelman Kerver, and those marked p° in the cititud marked p<sup>5</sup> in the edition printed at Paris in 1501, by Thielman Kerver, and those marked p<sup>4</sup> in the edition printed at Paris by Desideritis Maheu, and pub. in 1543. In the 1543 ed. the word Prota is always used instead of Sequentia. The Protes are given in full in the Masces to which they respectively belong, and not grouped together at the end of the Missal as in some other cases.

grouped together at the end of the Missat as in some other cases.

(2) The Barum Missal. The Surum Missal seems to have been edited in 1035 by St. Osmund, Bishop of Salisbury. The earliest complete copy we have been able to examine is a fine example in the Bodeian (Barions 5) written about 1370. The use of Surum became almost a national one. Mr. W. H. James Weale in his Catalogus Missaltium, London, 1886, entimerates 53 editions from 1487 to 1557, and in the bibliography of the Burntlatend reprint several others are mentioned. Many of those printed abroad were apparently booksellers' speculations, and differ considerably in their contents. The Sequences market 2° are found in the Missalt, a cockerie Sarum printed at London in 1998 for Winkin de Worde. Those market 3° are found in the reprint of the Sarum Missalt at Burntisland, 1861 ff. Winkin de Worde. Those marked s' are found in the reprint of the Sarum Missai at Burntisland. 1851 ff, which is made up from a great variety of editions, supplemented by portions taken from the Sarum Gradual and the Sarum Processional. The index to the Burntisland ed. contains references to various compositions which in the text are marked as Graduale, Versicaling, Tractice, Offertorium or Communio: and base have all been omitted from the list below save the "Doler nomer" (q.v.), there marked as a Tractice, but by Rehvein ranked as a Sequence.

(n) C. O. C. 478. A Tropary with a collection of Squence, apparently written at Winchester in the 11th cent., and now in the Isbrary of Corpus Christi College, cent., and now in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge,

(x) Donce 223. A Tropary with a collection of Sequences, written about the end of the 11th cent., apparently in France, and now in the Bodletan.

(y) The York Missal. This represents the use of the North of England. The us. collated was written about 1320, and belongs to University College, Oxford, but is kept in the Bolleian. The Sequences are mostly found collected together near the end of the volume, and a few others are given in the text of the more recent Masses. The Sequences marked y are included in the reprint of the Fork Missal (Missale cocleris Eboracentis) by the Surices Society, 1974, which is made up from the printed eds. (Bonen c. 1509, and again in 1515, 1517 and 1530; Cits. (Rottest C. 1995, and other sources.

(**) Arundel 156. This was, in the British Museum, contains a collection of Seguences apparently written in Germany in the 13th cent. Those marked 2° are written in the margins in a hand of the early 15th cent.

A number of other MSS, of interest have been collated throughout. References are made to them for all the additional Sequences which they contain, but they are not, as a rule, referred to in the case of Sequences already found in the uss. b, o, d, e, g, w, or x. They are as follows:-

(a*) Liturg, Miso. 341. A Gradual, written about the end of the 12th cent., apparently in Germany, and now in the Bodleian.

(b*) Littarg. Misc. 340. A Gradual, written about 1200, apparently in Germany, and now in the Bodlelan.

(c*) Add. 12194. A Gradual, written about 1275, apparently in England, and now in the British Museum. (d*) Liturg. Miss. 27. A collection of Sequences, apparently written in France in the end of the 14th cent., and now in the Bodleian.

In only a very few instances are the names of the authors of Sequences attached to them in the early MSS. It may therefore be of interest to give here a list of authors of Sequences which is found in a MS. in the Bodleian (Junéus 121, f. 1), and was written apparently about 1800. The ascription scholar in the apparently about 1800. The ascription scholar is the scholar ascription scholar in the scholar ascription scholar ascriptions. it must be added are indefinite, and apparently oftener wrong than right) are as follows:—

(1) Robert, King of France. Victimae paschalt.
(2) Hermannus Contractus. Sancti Spiritus adsit nobis gratia, and Ave praeclara.

(3) Gervasius Cestrensis (i.e. of Chichester, f. 1160). Laus decola mente, and Excellents in har die. (4) Richard the Monk, Archbishop (Richard, App. of Canterbury, 1171-1184). and Gaude Roma caput. Plausu chorus Idetabundo.

and Gaude Roma caput.

(2) Gervasius, steldeacon of Gloncester (in 1143).

Stola jueunditatis, and Jubilenus ownes.

(6) Prior Montac. [Montacute, a Cluniae foundation in Somersetshire, dating from shortly after 1100.]

Hodiserute bux diet, and Missus Gabriel de coelés.

(7) Adam of St. Victor (see p. 14). Salve mater Salvatoris, and American artificial and Zyma velus, and Lux jueunda, and Profitence Trinitatem.

(8) Robert of Winchester, see note below (? Robert, prior of Winchester, see note below (? Robert, prior of Winchester in 1173). Potestate non natura, and Unit instria.

prior or windester in 1113). Potestate non natura, and Diri patris.

(9) Fulbert of Chartres (see p. 401). Stirps Jene, and Ad natura Domini, and Solten Justition.

(10) Robert of York (d. about 1263). Excuttenus in hac die festiva.

It seems not improbable that Robert of York and Robert of Winchester are identical. At least in Archbishop Gray's Registers (printed by the Swriter Society), Robert, canon and sometime precenter of York, who dahout 1283, is always designated Robert of Winchester, and in one case as Archdeacon of Winchester (Swriter) ed., p. 232).

In his Histoire de la Poésie Liturgique au Moyen Age. Les Tropes. Paris, 1886, pp. 111-136, M. Leon Gautier describes (with many facsimiles) 40 important MSS. containing Sequences, which are now found at Paris, St. Gall, Berlin, Vienna, Munich, and Rome: also the wss. e, g, k, x noted above. In the Verzeichniss der Handschriften der Stiftsbibliothek von St. Gallen, Halle, 1875, the St. Gall uss, are shortly described; and at pp. 509-590 there is an index which professes to include the first lines of all the Sequences, with references to the MSS. in which they are contained.

The occasional references by numbers are to the printed Missals in Part ii. of this article.

First line of Sequence.	Where found,	Usc.
A rea virga primae matris Evac	a. b. e. k. k. n. p. t. a. y.	. Assumption B. V. M.
		St. Columbanus.
Ad celebres, Rex coelice, laudes cancia	a. b. d. c. h. k. n. z. y.	. St. Michael.
	k	. St. Alphego.
Ad honorem Salvatoris Mens depromat	.`k	. St. Eligius.
Ad honorem tunm Christo Recolat ecclesia	n.p.2.	St. John Baptist.
Ad laudes Salvatoris, Ut mens incitetu	7 a 4. 3. 4. 6. 7. 8. 9.	. C. of Martyrs (Confessors).
Ad matris Annse annus extollendo praeconis	k. 7.	. St. Anne.
		. To Christ.
Adest dies celebris, Quo lumen	f. a.	St. Peter.
Adest dies celebris, Quo pacatus	a. n2, 1, 5,	Transfiguration.
Adest nobie dies alma et megno gaudio	A. b. h. c. v.	. C. of a Martyr or Confessor.
Adoranda, veneranda Trinitatis est usia	₹ <sup>2</sup> . 10 .	St. Killan.
Adoremus Unitatem Et in ca Trinitatem	y	. Sunday after Tricity.
	E. w	. SS. Peter and Paul.
Agni paschalis esu pottique dignas	z². 10	. The Resurrection.
Agnus redemit oves, Christus innocens	p. d. g. z. a*. 4, 8	The Resurrection. Pt. of "Victimaa Paschall,"
Agone triumphali militum regis summi	d. g. z. a*. 5, 8	. C. of Martyes.
Alle-cantabile sopet chorns cantorent	e. k,	. St. Bartholomew.
Alle—coeleste necnon et perenne luiu .	a. e, h. k. n. s. w. y.	. Nativity B. V. M.
Alleinia nunc decantet universatia ecolosia 🦠	O, A, s. y, C*.	. C. of an Apostie.
Alma chorus Domini nunc pangat nomina	a. e. g. h. k. n. p. s. w. y.	. Pentecost, &c.
Alma cohors una laudum sonora	a.e.e.	. St. Swithin (e). C. of Confessor (a
Alma Det genetrix seterni luminis aula	h, y,	. B. V. M.
Almae coelorum turmae concrepent alleluis:		, All Saints.
Alme Daus cui serviunt cancta.Qui gerit 🦠		, To Christ.
Alme Jesu qui gubernas cuncta.Luce tua 🧸		, C. of Virgins.
Almi patris Terrenani attoliamus Christiani	α. ,	St. Ternen.
Almiphona jom gaudia coeli rutilant 🗼 🗀	b.c.k.n.2	. Wed. after Pentecost.
Altiasima providente cuneta recte disponente	a. p2. s2. 2. 3. 0. 9. 10.,	, Presentation B. V. M.
Altithroni vestigia	J	. Pr. of "Benedicta sit."
Angelicae inrmae pulcherrima celaa praeconia		. Holy Cross.
Angelorum ordo sacer Del sereno semper	9	. Of the Angels.
Animemur ad agonem, Recolentes passionem	p. I	St. Agnes.
Anna atirpe generosa, Conjux diu sterille 🔠	1	St. Anne.
	g, 1	, St. Anthony,
Antonina humilis, sanctitate nobilis	∫n!,p!,1, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	, St. Anthony,

First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Use.
Arca summa ecce plebs aurea rutilana gioriosa	£	The Resurrection,
Arce superna cuncta qui gubernas sidera	£. 10.	St. Benedict.
Arguta plectro syllaha concrepante	£. 10	Of Martyrs.
Aula Christi psaliat lacta triumphans	d. (in hand of c. 1290)	St. Margaret.
Aulas coclestia micantem jubare fratres ela .	6. to.	To Christ. St. Augustine (Hippo).
Aureo flore primae matris Evas		= "A rea virga."
Aureo flore primae matrie Evac	6. 10.	Assumption B, V, M,
Ave Dri genitrix, coelestium, terrestrium,	b*	В. V. Ж.
Infernorum Domina	y <sup>2</sup> . (Sion College MS.)	D 57 34
Ave gloriosa, virginum regina	g (Ston Courge Ma.)	B. V. M.
1. Ben-dicta tu in mulleribus, Gratiam	a*. b*.	В. V. M.
Filli tai.
<ol> <li>Virgo serena, Benedicta, Quae peresti</li> </ol>	a. b. f. h. k. n. p. s. y. z. a*	B. V. M.
Ave mater Jesu Christi Quem de coelo	,	Purification of B. V. M.
Ave mundi spes Maria Ave mitts, ave pla .	a. b. f. h. p. e. y. b.	B. V. M.
Ave pater et patrone, Praesul, pastor	a	St. Niolan.
Ave pleus gratiae, mater misericordiae,	υ»	В, у, щ.
sancta Maria	b*	n 17 35
Ave plena singulari gratia, Ave digna. Ave pontifex Haedde (alme) rutilans in aula	10	B. V. M.
Ave praeciara moris stella in lucem gentium	a b. k. s. y. z. a*, 4, 8.	St. Hacdde of Winchester.  Assum. (*), Puril (y.) of B. V. M.
Ave virgo gloriosa, Goeli jubar, mundi rosa 🖫	f. d*. 3	B. V. M.
Ave virgo gratious, Virgo mater giorious	f. d*. 3.	B. V. M.
Ave virgo singularis Mater nostri Salutaris .	p. 2. f. d*.	Assumption B. V. M.
Ave virgo virginum, Ave lumen luminum .	J. a	B. V. M.
Balsam de quo vaticinana	w	Pt. of " Epiphanlam,"
Benediota es coelorum regina E4 mundi	k.π2. p3. z, y. 1	B. V. M.
Benedicta semper canota alt Trinitae, Deltas.	d. g. p. s. s. a. 4. 8	Holy Trinity.
Benedicta est beata Trinicas Deitos acterna .	d. b, c, k, k, n, t, w, y,	Trivity Samlay. Holy Trinity.
Benedictio trinae unitati, simplici Deltati .	#. 0*	noy inmiy,
Campi flor et lilium Alta linquena collium .	a, , , , ,	St. Bridget.
Candida coucio melos concrepa Tinnula 💎 ,	C. E. W	St. Germain of Paris (c. w.). St. Mar
0		tin (c).
Cantemus concti melodum nuoc alleidis Cantent te Christo nuoc nostrae camoenae!	6.8.	Septongedma.
Cantu celebri et etudio vigilanti	[ a	St. Benedict. St. Quirions.
Carmen suo dilecto Ecclesia Christi canat ,	d. a*. 10.	Low Sunday.
Castae et incorruptae pangamus Jubila Mariae)	16	Christmas.
Calebremus in bac die Festum dymus	a. 22. y2.	Visitation B. V. M.
Calsa pueri concrepent melodia Eia Cessat morbus, cessat pessis, Altari edificato	a. e. A. k. n. p. s. y	Holy Junocenta. St. Sebastian.
Chori nostri jubilent regi aymphoniam	b. 1	St. Andrew,
Chorus noster Jucundetur Et devote celebretur	y <sup>2</sup> , (MS. at Sidney Suspex C.,	St. John of Beverley.
Obeleta demiliotas confesión et permeses culta	Cumbridge).	D. Donton of a Charact
Christe dominator coelectia et possessor aulas Christe Salvator Jesu Et A et 11	g	Dedication of a Church. To Christ.
Christi Domini militis martyrisque fortisulmi.	g	St. Stephen.
Christi hodierna celebremus natalikia, Coelka	a. s. y.	Christmas.
Christi hodierna pangimini omnes una	A.s.l	Christmas.
Christleolarum saorusaneta (acrimentur Christo canamus diei hujus pangendo gaudia )	5. 40	Confession of Sin.
Christo hodierna pangimini omnes una Voce!	y	St. Vincent. Christmas,
kimar		CHI III III III III
Christo inclita randida nostra canunt melo-	a. k. n. p. l. y. c*,	All Saints.
diam		75. 384 h A -
Christo regi cantica vocum per discrimina Christo vero Sulvatori decuntent fideles chori:	b.k	St. Nicholus. To Christ.
Clara cantemus sonoriter cantica saneto .	E	St. Andrew.
Clara choros duice pangat voce nune allelula	n. 2.	Dedication of a Church.
Clara gaudia festa paschalia	z	Easter.
Ciare causeenas agmina Nunc regis	E	Christmas. Pt of "Christi hodierna."
Clare sanctorum senatus apostolorum, princeps orbis terrarum	a. b. c. d. e. g. h. k. n. p. s. y. z. a*.	C. of an Apostle.
Claris vocibus inclita cana turma Sacra .	C. S. 1. 10	Purification of B. V. M.
Coeleste organum hodie sonuts in terra	a. A. k. w. s. y	Christmae.
Cooli enarrant gloriam D.1 Filli Verbi	u.g.y. e. a	C. of an Aportle. Pt. of "Christi hedierna."
Coelica resonent clare camoenae, agmina Coelum, mare, tellus, et qu'e sunt cancia	6. tr	17. of " Christi hedierna."
Joenam cum discipulia, Christe celebrasti	6, 10. A. m <sup>1</sup> , p <sup>3</sup> , e, y <sup>4</sup> ,	St. Birinus, The Five Wounds.
Coetus noster Jucundetur. Dies laeta satietur	· g	St. William of York, konceutu parili hic teMaria, veneratur populua	de k. * a*. 4. 8	Purification B. V. M.
Soucinst of bis canctus, alleluis, Votis, voce. Soncordi jubile cordis et oris jubilenius	a. b. c. e. b. k. s. y.	Easter.
ongoudent ang doram chori gloriosae virgini	6. d. g. z. a*, c. 8,	St. Quirings.
longandentes exsultemus vocali concordia .	6. c. h. n. p. s. z. y. c.	Assumption B. V. M. St. Nicholas.
Appointor alme vent	y	St. Nicholas. Pr. of "Lux jucundo."
Consons caterva plandente secri concentus .	6.10.	To Christ.
borde, lingua, mente tota, Armagilli	p.1.2.	St. Armagilius.
		Conversion of St. Paul. St. Benedict.
lorde, vocs pulsa coelus, Triumphale
Zujus nomen bestum feltoem tenet		Cu percure.
Tujus nomen bestum felicem tenet	44	For the Dead.
Aujus noman bestum felicem tenet  be profundis exciamantes andi Christa  be profundis tenebrarum, Mundo lumen	nt. f. 1. 3. 6.

First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Use.
Sits and or reducer
eo promat plebe nestra cantica pulchra		Of Virgina.
lens to the virtute sanctus Andress .	c.d.g.x.o*.4.8	St. Andrew.
No pobje quibus e terris nova, Cuncta muudo Mem festum Bartholomoel, Christi amkii	abachey.	Easter. St. Bartholomew.
Hes Irae, dies illa, Solvet saecium	227. 24.	For the Dead.
Mes inte celebratur. In quo pie recenseini	pl. al. 1	Conception B. V. M.
Nes laeta relebretur. In qua pla recensetur Nes aacra, dies ista, dies valde gloriosa	nº. 7 (Dien festa)	Conception H. V. M. St. Ethelwold.
Electe Den, Galle, perenni, Hominibus	d. g. b*. S.	St. Gall.
Miecto regi virintum omnes pari concordia .	h. ,	St, Katherine.
dilectus Deo et hominibus et erit angelicus	ð* 5. 8. 12 · · · ·	C. of a Confessor (Martyr).
aspectus Hzit Dominus : Ex Basau convertam	k. y. st. a. 4. 8	Conversion of St. Paul.
bulce nomen Jesu Christi Felix omen	a. h. st. pt. s. y. 10.	Name of Jesus.
eicis Jesus Nazarenus, Judaeorum rex	a. A. nº, p². s. y. l	Name of Jesus.
kee Del video admirabilem gloriam	 n 	Pt. of "Magnus Deus."
loca dies celebris, Lux succedit tenebris	p. 1. 2	Easter.
loce dies procoptata (st. IL. "Ortu, fide")	12.2	St. Vincent.
icce dies triumphalia, Gande turms spiritalis	2.2.	St. Stephen (k.). St. Victor (2.). St. Gendulphus.
loce magne sacerd ti, Mundi cordinet devoti loce panis augelorum		Pt. of " Landa Sion."
oce pulchra canorum resonet voce alteluia	. a. b. c. k. k. s. w. y	C. of Martyre.
icce sollemni hac die canamus festa	.† g , . ,	Nativity B. V. M.
Soce vincit radix David, Leo de tribu Juda .		Saster.
da carissimi agemus cun gaudio Un gaudens caterva, ovanter eta	Q. F	St. John at the Latin Gate. St. Alban, ia musa die quaeso praeclara chorea .	a, b, e, k, s, , , , ,	Pentecoat, da recolamus laudibus pils digna Hujus 🔠 .	a. d. h. k. s. c, z. a*. 4. 8, ,	Christmag.
piphaniam Domino canamus glorio-an Esulta cocium, lactare terra, Christique	acchik, nprwe, y	Epiphany.
Exsultate Deo agmina fidella, Tympano	e. E. w.	Nativ. St. John Baptist. To God.
xsultemus et lactemur, Et Andreae	nt.p. 1. 2.	St. Andrew.
kraultemus et laetemur. Et devote veneremu	ył. (MS. at Sidney Sutten C.,	St. John of Beverley.
Ensultemus in hac die festiva Recolentes	Cambridge). a.b.h.k.s.y.T.	C. of a Virgin Martyr,
Examitent filiae Sion in rege suo Nescientes		C. of Virgins.
ecunda verbo to virginom virgo Maria	8.44.	B, V. M.
enta Christi omula christianitas celebret	d, x, a*. 4, 8,	Epipheny.
nigens praeciara rutilat per orbem hodie dies
olget dies Jucanda in qua Christi gaudet	e. 10	CA Tabatan
	· .	cu
lande caterya, diel praesentis celebrano		St. John Haptist. SS. James the Great and Christophe iaude Christi Sponsu, virgo mater ecclesia iaude Dei genetrix Gaude vitae reparatrix	A a.y.	Assumption B. V. M.
lande Maria templum summae mujestulis	a*. 5. 9.	B. V. M.
laude mater ecclesia fillorum adoptione	E. W	Pentecost.
kande mater ercleda In filiogum gloria.	g. a. 5.	St. John of Beverley. B. V. M.
laude mater luminis Quam divini numinis aude mater Sion, Gaude corde	la	St. Kentigern.
faurie prole Graecia, Giorietur Gallia .	λ. π <sup>2</sup> . p. 1. 2.	St Denig.
sude Rome cappt mundi Printus pastor	n.p.2.	St. Peter's Chains.
ande Sion et lactare Voce, voto jucundare aude Sion ques diem recolle, Que Martinus	p.2	St. Thomas à Becket, ande Sion and acresses. A le decer		St. Martin. St. Elizabeth of Thuringia.
iaude Sion, quod egresau», A le décor . iaude superna civitas Nova frequentans	p. 2.	St. Marcellus.
ande virgo concipiens, Gaude Ciausa .		В. V. M.
ianda virgo ecciesia Christi et tuas recolens :		Epiphany.
aude virgo mater ecclesia Christo quae	. 6.6.00.	Epipleany. St. Winifred.
aude virgo Veneireda, Vitiorum spernana audeamus in Messia, Veritate, vita, via	a. A.
audent fidells plebs universo, Clara		Walter Chouge
audens Christi proceentia jucunda	ie	Sc swithin.
laudet clemens Dominus super agwina sama.		All Saints. Pt. of "Mundo Christus."
audet bino ecclesia audete vos fideles, gentium pars electa	A.	Epiphsny, enerous coelorum regina rosa majer nis	1π2.1	B. V. M.
enovefae sollemnitas Sollemne parit	( p. s <sup>3</sup> , 2,	St. Genevieve.
Horia resonante cymbalorum ecclesiae Ioriosa dies adest qua processit praepotera		Holy Cross. Christmas.
riotiona dien adest qua processit praepotema. Fraten, honos, hierarchia et euphonizana	d rates nunc omnes reddamus Domino Deo	d. z. a*, 4, 8.	Christmas.
irates Balvatori ac regi Christo Deo solvant :	d. z. a*. 10	Rester.
ratulemur ad festivum, Jucondemus	p. l. 2, , ,	St. John Evangelist.
lac clara die turma festiva dat praeconia	a. e. h. i. n. p. z. w. w. y	Purif., &c., of B. V. M.
lac in die recolator Somma com lactitia 🔠	y	83. Peter and Pani.
isec est sancia collemnitar collemnitatum 🗀	. G. G. T. G. B. 10	Care Cet.
face sancta enjus hodis  sanc concerdi fezzulatu colamus	/	Pt. of "Supernae matris." St. Stephen.
lanc diem tribus Dominus signis illustrat	: a. a	Epiphany.
leri mundus exsultavit Et easultans	'10, 1, 2,	ot. ovepoen,
	' 2 3	Pt. of "Supernae matrie."
lic exsulta plobo fidelis Jam exsultat	R <sup>2</sup> .	St. Lupus of Sens. Pt. of "Supernae matris."
	i #7. 6.
l'e annetus cujus bodie Rerusalem et Sion filise Coetus omais	p <sup>2</sup> , 6	Dedication of a Church.
l'e sanctus cujus bodie lerusalem et Sion filise Coetus omois	p, 6,	Dedication of a Church.

First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Use.
Hodie Salvator mundi Per virginem	g	Christmas,
Hodieraae luz diei, Celebris in matris Dei 🗼	a.f. h. p. t. y. s. b*. c*.	B. V. M.
Hodierna resonent gaudia Virtutum praeclara	k	St. Dunstan.
Hos ad laudes praeclara corona monet	p*	Holy Relice.
Ignem sacrum refrigerat	1 <sup>2</sup>	Pt. of "Genovefaa,"
in coelesti hierarchia, Nova sonet baymonia . In hac die laetabunda, Nostri cheri piebs	f. d o. y. (MS. in the Piteroil-	St. Dominic. St. Anthony.
	Ham, Cambridge). 8.	- - la honorem Salvatoria, Saneti Rochi In octavia Pentecostes	y ,	St. Roche.   Pt. of "Pasti greges," la omnem terram Dec laus personat dulcisonal	,	St. Benedict.
in solica: — m. moria apostolorum principis "l Interul festi gaudia, Nustru sonet harmonia "l	y. n. 2. Müntler I I., 1489	G. of Apostles, nviolata integra et casta es Maria 🗼 🙏	π <sup>2</sup> . p <sup>2</sup> . 11.	St. Augustine (Hippe). Purific, &c., of B. V. M.
lesse virgam humidavit Et in fructum, 🗼 ,	h	Annunciation of B. V. M.
fasus pulcher in décoré , , , ,	*	Pt. of " Duleis Jesus N."
Juannes Jesu Christo multum dilecte virgo . Jubilans concrepa nunc paraphonista .	a. d. h. s. x. y. x. a*. 4. 8 c. e.	St. John Evangelist.
fubilemus Deo Trino, Qui jam fine vespertino	b	Easter. St. Kunigunda.
uniternal examinantes, tre, corde	23. ps.	St. Claude. B. V. M.
subilemus omnes una concordi isetitia	f. d*	St. John Baptist.
Jubilemus omnes una Deo nostro qui creavit	a. b h. k. n. p. s. y	Fourth 8, in Advent.
	s <sup>2</sup> , p, y, 1, 2, 8,	Against mortality, C. of Evangelists.
Legishunda marillat mluba aum mania munda
Laetabunda peullat plebs cum mente munda. Laetabundus exsultat fidelis chorus	P	St. Louis of France.
1. Allelnia, Regem regum intactae	a. b, f. h. k. n. p. s. y. z	Christman (y). Assum., &c., B. V. M.
metabundus Francisco decantet clerus.	a. s	Dedic, of a Church. St. Francis.
rweteral orbis die 1-ru in day noattre '	y	Fillay after Ascension Day.
Lasto funo cantet plebs Saviniano allelula Landerice inclite prossulum omnis calerva	16	SS. Savintanus and Potentianus. Pt. of "Christo inclita."
Lauda Sion Salvatorem, Lauda ducem et 🔠	a.f. h. n. p. z. y. s	Corpus Christi.
Laudamus te rex Maria genite semplterne	6	To Christ.
Ande celebret vox aponue Dominum	e.w	Of the Incurnation, St. Ethelwold,
Aude Christo debita, Celebreraus inclita 💎	d. z. a*. 10	St. Nicholas.
Laude Christum modulemur pulchra Laude condignissima dies annua raddit,	e	C. of Virgina. St. Nicholas.
Laude dignum sanctum canat Othmorum	d. g. 6 (Gaude)	St. Othmar.
Laude jucunda melos turma persona Laude pulchna, Vox omnis dulcisona	a, e, h, k, p, s, w, y, ,	SS. Peter and Paul, To Christ.
Laude resonct to Christe devote supplex- turms	10.	St. Birtnus,
Laudem dicita Dec martyrum turba	e	C. of Martyrs.
audemus omnes inclits Bartholomael merita	p. 1. 2.	St. Bartholomew.
	e. w	Of God. B. V. M.
Laudes Christo redempti voce modniemar i	r. r. h*. n	Easter.
andes crucis attolismus Nos qui crucis Landes Deo concinat orbis ubique totus	a. b. h. n. p. s. y. z <sup>2</sup> . a*. d. a*.	Holy Cross. Easter.
		St. Rthelbert.
Laudes Deo devotas Duki voce et sonora Laudes dicamme opines cum cantibus almis		Pentecost.
Laudes primi attolismus startyris et	70°	89. Sergius and Bacchus. 8t. Stephen.
Laudes regi Christo jucundat aurea coeli Laudes Salvatori voce modulemur supplici	K	St. Oswald. Easter.
Laudum carmina creatori lyra plaude ela		St. Benedict.
Laurea clara lactantem Laurentium Laurenti, David magni martyr, milesque fortis		St. Laurence.
Laus devota mente Chora concinente	a. A. z. c*	St. Laurence. C. of an Evangelist.
LINE COMMONS OF STREET POSITION I	. 1 7	SE. MICHAEL
Laus et honor Trecoriae Decus et decor Galliae Laus harmonise resultet alleluis	8. 10.
Laus honor sit Eiol cunctipotenti !	b. k.	To Christ.
tympana	10	To Christ.
Laus jucunda Laus surget ubique Christo jucunda, Cujus	y	="Lux jacands."
Laus tibl Christe, cui sapit, quod videtur	w. c. 3. 6. 9, 11.	To Christ. Holy Indocents.
Laus tibl, Christe, Patris optimi nate	c. d. z. a*, 7, 10,	Holy Innocents.
Loue tibi Christe, qui es Creator et	d. g. k. y. z. a*, 4, 8,	St. Mary Magdalene. St. Fiacrius.
Ludovico pangamus corde pudico allelala	N <sup>2</sup> .	St. Louis of France.
Lux advenit veneranda Lux in choris . Lux illuxit dominica, Lux insignis .	p. p. 2.	Nativ. of R. V. M. Easter.
lox illuxit triumphalls In qua cursus.	2	St. Germain of Paris,
Lux jucunda, lux insignis Qua de throno Lyra pulchra regem angelica canat per	a. p. s. y. (Laut), 2.	Penterost. The Resurrection.
Mugi sibi stella micante praevia
Magnae lucent caritatia Mirae ducem	* : : : : :	Pt. of "Epiphonism." St. Thomas of Hereford.
Magan sunt cjus omnia in coelo atque in terra	ND.	Pt. of "Magnus Dens."
Magnum te Michaelem habentem pignus	g. r. nº, 3, 6, 9	St. Michael.

	DR&OH!OH)	2021
First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Use,
Mane prima sabbati Surgens Del Filius .	a, b, h, k, n , p, s, y,	Easter. St. Mary Magdalenc.
Mariae praeconio Serviat cum gaudio	$p^2$ , 12	B. V. M.
Mater matris Domini felix feliciasimi .  Binter patris, nati nata, Specialis advocata .	#. 1. f. d <sup>4</sup> .	St. Anne, B, V. M,
Mirabilis Deus in sanctis Mirabilia dans .	a. e. N. D. S. W	C. of many Martyrs.
Mirablis Deus in sanctis Mirabilia dans Mirandom commercium ! Virginis in Missus est de summis coelis Raphael ut	<sup>l</sup> p <sup>j</sup> , ."	B. V. M.
Missus Cabriel de coelis Verbi Lajulus fidelle	A. a. h. s. y. c*. 1.	St. Raphael. B. Y. M. in Advent.
Mittit ad sterilem Non quemvis nuntium .	1 5 8	R.V.M.
Mittit ad virginem Non quemvis angelum , Moestae parentis Christi Marine lachryman .		Annunciation of B. V. M. Compassion of B. V. M.
Mulier laudabilis Fortle casta parens	ي ينتق قوا	Holy Women.
Mundi setate octava Florebunt duplici . Mundi renovatio Nova perit gradia	P. 9. 5. 7	Easter.
Mundi renovatio Nova parit gaudia. Mundo Christas oritar Pax in terra canitar.	, T	5t. Thomas & Becket.
Nardus spirat in odorem Et epinetum	 	St. Aone.
Nativitas Mariae virginis Quae nos lavit .	f a* 4	! Natiotic R V M
Nato canunt omnia Domino pie agmina Natus ante sascula Dei Fillus invisibilis	a. b. e. h. k. p. s. w. y. 1. 2 d. x. s. a. 4. 8.	Christmas. Christmas.
Nostra tuba nunc tua Rex elementia Christe	g. 40. l. ,	Saturday before Septuagesima.
Novi plausus incrementum Affert lux Nunc exsultet omnis mundus hodis Christo .	A	Transi, of St. Thomas of Hereford.
Nunc laetetur plaba fidelia Recoleudo	' s t ,	St. Gabriel.
Nunc luce alma splendescit per orbem	a. b, h. k. t. y	St. Peter's Chains.
Q ancilla Christi, Maria mater Del		For Pregnant women.
O beata beatorum martyrum sollemnia . O Brief inclite praesulum omnis caterva .	. 7. 8. 10	C. of Martyrs. Pt. of "Christo Inclita."
O lachryma gloricea Christi praeclarissima .	p <sup>1</sup>	Tears of Christ.
O Maria stella maria, Pistate singularis O miles inclite fortissimi regis Christi	p. 2.	Assumption, &c., of B. V. M. C. of Martyr.
Orian had in die lactan Christo canit	a.r.y.c*.	St. Katherine,
Omnes gentes plaudite, Festos choros ducite.	$f.d^{n}.3.$	Ascension Day,
Omnes sancti cherubim, seraphim Throni .  Omnes tua gratia quos a morte	d.c.g. 2. a . 4. 8.	All Saints. Easter.
Omnes una decantemus Et martyris	1	St. Sebastian.
Omnis fidelium ecclesia Christum collaudet . Oramus te aeterna spes et summa	A. k.	St. Edmund, St. John Evangelist.
Organicis canamus modulis nunc N. solleumis	a.b.e.k.k.n.y.e.y	St. James (k.). St. John Evang. (b.)
Çmnigenla		St. Stephen (p.). C. of a Martyr (s.).
Pangamus creatori atque redemptori gloriam	d. z. a*. 6. 7	The Resurrection.   St. Januarius.
Pangat hymnum Auglensis insula martyrum Pange turma corde vultu Christo praeconia	g.   e. w.	The Resurrection.
Pasti greges de pastere Discant aure	. y	St. William of York. St. Cuthbert.
Pater verbum eructavit Verbirore germinavii Patre, summe Christi pastor, et Paule	g	SS. Peter and Panl.
Plangant filli pioratione una	. c. e	The Dying Swan.
Plaudat chorus, piebs inctetur Et devote Plausn chorus isetabundo Hos attoliat	y. y. 7.	St. William of York. C. of Evangelists.
Plebs pística prome laudos redemptori	P	Seamlese robe.
Post partum virgo Maria Dei genetrix . Postquam hostem et inferna Spollavit, ad .		Assumption, &c., of B. V. M. S. after Ascension.
Potestate non patura, bil creator creatura .		Conception of B. V. M.
Praecelsa celebrantes sollemnia alleluia Praecelsa saecile colitur dies omnibus falelibus	1 pr.	Christmas. St. Vincent.
Praecomorem summi regia Et praeconem .	p.1.2	Decoil, St. John Baptist.
Praccursorie et Baptistas Dien. istum	p. 2.	Nativ. St. John Baptist. 1st S. in Advent.
Precamur nostras Deus animas et Profitentes Unitatem, Veneremur Trinitatem	'f.n.y 9 .	Of the Trinity.
Prologulum altum recitemus Promat pla vox cantoria Hujua laudem	) g3	St. Gabriel. St. Aegidius (St. Giles).
Prome casta concio cantica organa	a.b.c.e. A.k.s. w.y.	Easter.
fromere chords jam conctur intima Prompts mente Trinitati canamas	1	St. Martin. Of the Trinity.
Prunis datum admiremur, Laurestum	p. 1. 2	St. Laurence.
Psallat chorne corde mundo.  Psallat ecclesia mater decora, mente devota.	, P. L	= " Plausu chorus." St. Swithin.
Psallut ecclesia, mater illibata et virgo sine .	jc.d.g.h.s.a*.4.8	Dedic. of a Church.
Paallat plebs devota Christo cantica Paalle lyrica carmina Jubilana Domino	8. c. e. h. k	Kaster.
Prallite regi mostro, prallite prudenter	d. g. z², b*. 4. 8	Decoll. St. John Baptist,
Pura Deum laudet innocentia	e. w	Holy Innocents.
Quam dilecta tabernacula, Domini virtutum	a. p. z, 2, c ,	Dedic, of a Church,
Quattuor sunt uni alse Facisaque Quem non prasvalent proprin magnitudine .	u*. g.	C, of Apostles. Epiphany.
Out benedici cupitie, has festini currite Qui procedis ab utroque, Genitore genitoque.	g.	St. Denedict.
Qui purgat animas el corpora sancta	`#, , , , , ,	Pentecost. Purif. of B. V. M.
Qui regi- respira forti dextra, solus cancia .	'a. b. c. h. k. n. p. s. w. z. y.	ard S. in Advent.
Qui sunt leti qui volant ut nubes per sera . Quichnque vuit salvus essa Ipsum fidem .	`v	C. of Apostles. Of the Trinity.
Quid tu virgo mater plores, Kachel formosa .	g	C. of a Martyr. Pt. of "Lauda Slon."
Quod in coena Christus gessit	y
Recolating venerandam Marke memoriam . Regent regon veneremer Et de regis	' k	Annunciation of B. V. M. St. Louis of France.
Treffe tre toffetter some seinen tra me treffes + 4	31g/11 1 4 1 1	1

First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Tec.
Part Shutata amulandat analasia Dia tata		Se William of York
Regi Christo applandat occlesia. Die isto Regina virginum praemazima	y	St. William of York. Pt. of "Christo incilita."
Regis et pontificis dindema my ticis	, n. 2	Crown of Thorns,
Regnantem sempiterna per saccula Regnum tunin, regnum omnium sacculornu Bustos	a. b. c. k. k. n. p. s. w. x. y.	2nd S. in Advent. C. of Eyangelists.
Domine Representet ecclesia de Germani victoria	. p <sup>1</sup>	St. Germain of Auxerre.
Res est admirabills Virgo venerabilia	P	Nativ. of B. V. M.
Resonet sacrata jam turina diva symphonia . Rex magne Peus qui intueris Abysacs et	k	, All oblines.
Rux omnipotens die hodierna, Mundo	a. b. c. e. k. i. k. n. p. s. w. c. y.	Ascension Day.
Rax regum, Deus noster colende, Tu Rex Salomon fecit templum Cuju-in-tar	d. g. s. a*. f. p. y. 1. 2. 3. 6.	C. of a Confessor.  Dette, of a Church.
Roma Petro giorietur, Roma Paulum Romana Quirinus surpe procreatus, In vera.	[P. I. 2	SS. Peter and Paul. St. Quirinus.
Sacerdotem Christi Martinum concla per .	a. b. d. g. k. s. w. y. s. a*. 8.	St. Martin.
Sacra Paule jugere dogmata.	N	Pt. of " Laude Jucunda."
Escrosancia bodiernae festivitatis praeconia .	a. b. k. k. t. y. 1, 9	St. Andrew.
Salus acterna, indeficiena, mundi vita Salvatoris chementiae dulcem pangat	a, b, e, h, k, p, p, s, w, g, y,	1st S. in Advent. St. Wiffild.
Salvatoria mater pia, Mundi bujus spes ,	J. d	Conception of B. V. M.
Salve cruz, arbor vitae praeclara.	[2]	Exalt, of the Cross,
Salve crex sancts, arbor digns . " . Salve crex, vitale lignum, arbor sacratissima	adahtyra*48	Inv. of the Cross. Holy Cross.
Salve dies dierum gloria, Dies felix	ا	Laster.
Salve mater Christi, O inclita Salve, mater Salvatoria, Vas electum	f.p. 2 3.7.9.	B. V. M.
Salve poblis puerpera exaltata super aethera		Assumption, &c., of B. V. M. B. V. M.
Salve porta perpetuas lucis folgida	C, e, 47,	Assumption of B. V. M.
Salve proiss Davidis, Salve virgo nobilis Salve sancta Christi parene, Salve virgo	f. d.	B. V. M. B. V. M.
Salve sancta parens, Rosa apinis carens .	[ s <sup>3</sup>	B. V. M.
Sancta cunctis isetitis festa synt celebranda Sancta tu virgo Maria, Mater Christi		Easter. B. V. M.,
Sancti Baptistae Christi praeconia	g. a. d. h. s. y. z. a*, s. 8,	Nativ. St. John Baptist.
Sancti beili celebremus triumphum laude 🛴	g, 3, 6.	St. Maurice.
Sancti merita Benedicti inclita, Venerandae . Sancti patris Benedicti merita, Pangamus .	e. g. b*. f	St. Benedict. St. Benedict.
Sancii Pauli conversio devote est recolanda .	y	= " Sollemnitae a. P."
Sancti Spiritus adsit nobis gratia —  1. Quae corda nostra sibi faciat tabernacula		Hontagost
2. Quo fecundata Deum paperit virgo Maria	a. de. f. k. k. n. p. s. w. y, t. p. 3.	Pentecost. Visit. B. V. M.
Sancti visu columbino, Et sacensu aquitino .	R1	St. Jarome.
Sanctorum vita, virtus, gloria, Summi Patris Sanctus Petrus et magnus Paulus, Do-tores.	6	St. Bialse. SS. Peter and Paul.
Scalam ad coelos subrectam termentis	d. e. g.	C. of Virgins.
Scrupulosa quorundam sententia	y. p. a	11,000 Virgius.
Sexta passus feria, Die Christus tertia	p, st. gt.	Friday after Easter, Crown of Thorns.
Simplex in essentia, Septiformis gratia	p.1,2	Pentecuat.
Sollemne canticum hodie resonet in terra.  Sollemnitas sancti Pauli devote est recolenda	a, t	St. Thomas à Beaket. Conv. of St. Paul.
Sollemnitate rutilans apostolica lux adest		St. Peter's Chains,
Sonet vox fidelium allelula, Christo regi	a. e. nº. s. w. l	Christmas.
Sorpitate morbos lenit, olei lenitio	y	Friday after Ascension Day. St. William of York.
Spe mercedle et coronse Stetit martyr	al. n. 1, y, 4, 8	C. of Martyrs (4). St. Thomas a
Spiender patris et figura Se conformans .	p. 2	Becket (y). S. after Christman,
Stabat juxta Christi crucem, Videns	l»	В. V. M.
Stabat mater delerosa Juxta erneem Stana a longe qui plurima perpetrarat facinora	10 <sup>2</sup> . &	Compassion of B. V. M. Confession of Sin.
Stans a longe, qui plutima perpetrarat facinor-		Sundays. B. V. M.
Stella moris, O Maria, Expera paris Stirpa Maria regla procreata regem generan-	f. d*. 1	B. V. M.
Stola jucunditatis alleluia Indult hodie	d. h. k. n. s. y. c*, b.	Nativ. B. V. M. St. Laurence (k. y.). St. Vincent (a.)
Summa sollemnitas adest hodierna, Qua Dai	a*	Easter.
Summa stirpe genita virgo Maria. Summi regia Archangele Michael, Intende	g. d. é. a*. 4. 8	Nativ. B. V. M. St. Michael.
Summi Regis in honore	ļ ··· · · · · · · · · · / · · · / ·	ou withinker, martyria sollemnia, Ethelberti cum     praesulia memoria, Sancti Thomas	h,	St. Ribelbert.
3. Virginis memoria, Matris Christi	h	St. Thomas of Hereford. Assumpt, H. V. M.
Summit triumphurn regis prosequentur laude	] d. z. a*. 4. 8	Ascension.
Sumunt bout sumunt mali . Superme mat is gaudia, Representet .	f. k. n². p. i. 2.	Pt. of "Lauda Ston," C. of Saints.
Surgenti excel-o de geogléhro, Hymnos	] F	Easter. B. V. M. at Easter.
Surgit Christus cum trophaeo, Jam Su-pendentis aquas fili Pastor gregem	r <sup>2</sup>	B. V. M. at Easter. St. Bartholomew.
Templi cultus extat multus	1	Pt. of " Rex Selemon."
Testamento veteri, Anna fult genita	y
Tibl cords in altari Decet preces (mmolari - Trinitatem simplicem Trinum Deum non -	f. d*	St. Anne. B. V. M.
Tu civium Deus conditor. Et sanctificator .		Of the Trini: y. Dedic. of a Church,
Fubara bellicocam quam Dei non verentes .	[g. : : : : :	C. of Martyre.
Veul mater gratios, Fone miscricordise .	a. 22, y2. 2	Visit, of B. V. M.

First line of Sequence.	Where found,	Uee.
Veni praecelas domins, Maria tu nos visits .	h. yt. (Sydney Sussex, Com- bridge MS.), c. 7.	Visit. of B. V. M.
Veni Sancte Spiritus, Et emitte coelitus .	f. k. nº. p. rº. y. 1. 2. 4. 8.	Pentecosi.
Veni Spiritus seternorum alma, Mentes	A. k. b*.	Pentecont.
Veni virgo virginum, Veni lumen luminum.		B. V. M.
Verbi Der parens alma Virgo plans gratis		l B. v. W.
Verbum bonum et susve. Personemus .	a. f. h. ps, z, y, 1, 8.	B. V. M.
Verbum Del, Deo natum Qued nec factum	E. G. B.	St. John at Latin Gate.
Verbum legibus unilis debens quicquam		Christmas.
solvere venis	h -
Yerbum manens ab acterno, Apud Patrem .	[ 73	R. Y. M.
Vernat gemma Martinus, Minister bonus	π <sup>1</sup>	St. Martin.
Yine piebs aetherese cuncta jucunda	10.	Pt. of "Laude pulchra."
Victimae paschuli landes immolent Christiani	a b d f.g. k. k. k. k. y. s. a . 2 4 8	Easter.
Vizcat mentes, vincat mundum, Et repellat .		St. Victor of the Thebold.
Virginalis turms sexus, Jesu Christi	4. 2. 3. 5. 6. 9.	11,000 Yirgins.
Virgines egregiae, Virginis sacratae		C. of Virgins.
Virgines gandeant, virgines tripudient	k	St. Faith.
Virgini Mariae laudes concinant Christiani .	£ 2. 8. 18.	B. V. M. at Easter.
Virgini Mariae laudes intoneut Christiani	10 <sup>2</sup> , 10 <sup>2</sup> , 17, 14 <sup>3</sup> , 3, 7, 10,	B. V. M. at Easter.
Virginis in laude, Grex fidelis plaude	w-, p-, g. a-, a, t. 10.	B. V. M.
Virginis venerandae de numero saplentum .	a.c.h.e.y.a*.	C. of Virgins.
Virgo mater gratuletur in orbe catholica	2. C. R. L. Y. L.	St. John at the Latin Gate.
Vinco mitis generosa, Gemma costi preciosa.		St. Barbara.
Virgo vernana velut rosa, Agni aponsa	t. (Surum M. Venice, 1494)
Voce jubilantes magna, Regi summo	_ ' ' '	Holy Trinity.
Voci vita fit unita, legie amicitia	                                    	S. in Octave of Penter-et.
Voto, voce, cordis, oris Hujus sacri confessoris		St. William of York.
ox sonora nostri chori, Nostro sonet	nt. p. 1. 2.	St. Katherine.
• • • • •
yma vetus expurgetur. Ut sincere celebretur	Q. p. t. y. 1. 2.	Easter.

Part ii. In this second part are given the first lines of Sequences which are not included in the first part of this article. These are principally taken from certain representative French and German diocesan Missals printed not later than 1490; and from two monnetic Missals, viz. an Augustinian and a Benedictine. A few more are taken from English service books other than Missals, the editions used being the following:-

being the following:—

Sarum Processional, in a Ms. written about the end of the 14th cent, and now in the British Museum (Mark. 1912), compared with the Antwerp ed. of 1523.

Sarum Revviary, in the Paris ed. of 1516 (Byrckman). The Paris ed. of 1563 was reprinted at the Cambridge University Press, 1879–1888.

York Processional, in the Rouen ed. of 1530 (reprinted in vol. 63, 1875, of the Surtees Society's publications).

York Brevlary, in the Venice ed. of 1693 (reprinted by the Surtees Society, 1890–83, vols. 71, 76).

Hareford Brevlary, in the Rouen ed. of 1698. Of this the Para Elemedis is in the Wortester Cathedral Library, and the Para Assistantials in the Bodielan.

The Misself exhibited was the following:—

The Missals collated are the following:-

(1) Angers. The ed. used is the Wissale Andeparence, printed at Paris in 1488 by Joannes de Ptato.

(9) Augustinian. The ed. used is the Histoile canoni-corum regularium ordinis Suncti Augustini, secundum corum regularum ordunis sancts augustini, eccunium ritism insignis excisele Sancii Victoris od euros Parisientes, printed at Paris in 1828 by Nicolas Prevost. In this ed., the word Prote is always used instead of Sequencis, and the Sequences are printed together at the end of the Missel in the Commune Proserum. The Eague of the composer is given in all cases known to the compilers. A large proportion are ascribed to Adam of St. Victor, and two to Henricus Pistor, frater S. Victoris; with one each to St. Bernard (Lactabundua), St. Thomas of Aquino ("Lauda Sion"), Peter Abelard ("Mittit at virginem"), and Robert, King of France ("Sancti Spiritus... Quae"). The rest are anonymous. (3) Basel. The ed. used is the Missale Basiliense printed at Basel in 1488 by Michael Wenseler.

(4) Benedictine. The ed. used is the Missale..., ordinis sancti Benedicti reformationum nigrorum monachorum per Germaniam: printed at Hageman in 1818 by Thomas Anahelmus, in this ed. the world Sequentic is always used instead of France, and the Sequences are printed together at the end of the volume.

(5) Brealan. Missale Wratislaviense, The ed. used

(6) Breslan. Missale Wratislavienss. The ed. used is that printed at Maluz in 1483 by Petrus Schöffer.
(6) Constans. The ed. used is the Missale secondum

Aorum Constantiensem printed at Basel in 1485 by Petrus Kollicker.

(7) Fraising. The ed. used is the Liber Missells...

societie Fraisingersis printed at Bamberg In 1487 by Joannes Semenschmidt.

Joannes Sensenschmidt.

(6) Magdeburg. The ed. used is the Missale Magdeburgesse printed at Lübeck in 1480 by Bartholomaus Gothan and Lucas Brandis.

(3) Trise. The ed. used is the Missale Precerence printed at Basel by Mishael Wensier. Mr. W. H. James Wesle, in his Catalogus Missalian, 1888. P. 208, dates this c. 1488. In the British Museum Catalogus it is dated o. 1490.

(10) Wilsphure. The ed.

in dates c. 1439.

(10) Whysburg. The ed. used is the Missale Herbipolenic printed at Wirzburg in 1484 by Georgius Reyser.

(11) Cologue. The ed. used is the Missale Colonianse, printed at Basel 1487, without name of printer.

(12) Regensburg. The ed. used in the Liber Missalia

(12) Regensburg. The ed. used is the Liber Missalis . . ecclesis Ratisponensis, printed at Regensburg in 1435, by Joannes Sensenschmidt and Joannes Bekenhaub.

First line of Sequence.			Wb	ere i	aund	•	Vec.
d honorem summi regis, Nos qui di superna suspirantes, In asterna lustantes etarnas vingo memorias Quam sibi filtuens delictis, David regis filia lletuis Christo decantet omnis imgua liudat lactus ordo psallens ple mas confessor et professor fidel triplicis negelorum mandatricem, Summi Dei arra cosli respiendeant, Nunc sol inheta Schustianus accois Mediolanus	. 80 12 12 1.	11.	:	v., 1	i.	:	St. Helena. St. Bernatd of Clairvaux. St. Katherine. Assump. B. V. M. St. Erhard of Regenshurg. St. Maurice. St. Anthony. Precent. B. V. M. Concep. B. V. M. St. Sebantian.

****
First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Uae.
Angustini magal putris, Atque suae piae - Ave Dei genitrix summi, virgo semper Maria Ave gemma confessorum micaus in alta polorum		St. Monica. Assump. B. V. M. C. of a Confessor.
Ave genima confessorium, O N. pontifex Ave Jean Christa, qui pro humana saluta Ave mater qua natus est orbis Pater	12, 10. 3. 6.	C. of a Bishop-Confessor. Of the Passion. Christmas.
Ave Matthia coeil gemma, in lucem	9.	St. Matthias. St. Katherine.
Ave, verbi Dei parens, Virginum humilitas . Ave virgo generosa, Ut testatur gloriosa . Ave virgo pingularis, Porta vitas, stella .	8. 6. 10. 11. 12	Visit. B. V. M. St. Dorothes. Assump. B. V. M.
Beata as virgo et glorioes  Benedicti merits ut reboet inclita  Bone doctor et salutis viae ductor	Fork Brev., 1493	B. V. M. St. Benedlet. St. Bernard of Clairvanx.
Celsa iux Sion, ave mariyr Pantaleon . Christe Donine, Leetifica spon-am tuam Christe, tui praeclari miiitis Wenceald		St. Pautaleon of Nicomedia. Easter.
Christe, tui praeclari militis Wenceslai Clangat pastor in tuba cornea Clara voce, pura conscientia Laetabunda	Surum Process., c. 1390	St. Wenceslaus. St. Thomas & Becket. St. George.
Cleri decantet concio Dei famulo digna Clerus Andegavensium psallat cum turma Coelestis te laudat chorea, Christo, plorum	Manster M., 1489	St. Luidger of Münster. St. Maurice. St. Colman (d. 1012).
Coell solem imitantes In occasum Coell, terrae, maria, Et in els omnis Coelum sacrum scelesias Emisit novum	S. 10.	C. of Apostles, Crown of Thorns, St. Ivo.
Collaudantes mente devota, voce serena Collectionibus sanctis Christi pretiose martyr	Spelor M., 1427 Hereford Bres., 1505	' St. Stephen, Pope and Martyr, - St. Stephen.
Concentus vox jubilei Sollennulzaus regum , Conceptio Mariae virginis, Quae nos . Confessor Christi, laudari qui merulsti.	3. 6	19,000 Martyrs (S. Achatius, &c.) Concep. B. V. M. C. of Confessors.
Congaudeant hodes, Filli ecclesine Congaudeates jubilemus, Christo regi gloriae Concerva super hanc familiam	7. York Bred., 1493	St. Thomas the Apostic. St. Corbinianus. St. Stephen.
Consurge jubitans. Vox quaevis hominum . Cor angustum dilatemus. Ut senatus Cor devotum, vox sonora, Promant laudes .	5. 8	St. Hedwig. C. of Apostles. St. Peter's Chains.
Crux fidelis, terras coelis, Miro occtens	Sarum Brev., 1516	St. Legur. Inv. of the Cross.
De profundis clamantes geminus, Et . De forrente passionis, Bibens veri Salomonis, Decet hujus conotis horis, Festi voce	1   8	Of the Dead. St. Cyriacus. Vist. B. V. M.
Daus deurum vera sanctorum confessorum .	Hereford Bree, 1505	St. Corbinianus. Pt. of "Victimae Paschall." Holy Innocents.
Dilectas suge precibus Marine Magdalenae , Dulca lignum adoremus, Dulcas clavos Dulca lignum, lignum vitas, Venerari ,	York Bren., (483	St. Mary Magdalene. Holy Cross. Holy Cross.
Dulce melos tangens coelos resonet ecclesia . Dulci corde jubilemus, Voce plena Dulcis sonet harmonia, Dulci digunm melodia	12. 8.	C. of a Murtyr-Bishop. St. Dorothes. Crown of Thoma,
Ecce dies celebris, Magnobodi praesulis . Ecce dies praeoptata (et. il. Quem Dens) .		St. Magnobodus. St. Remigius of Ronen.
Ecce dies specialis, Confessorum gloria. Ecce dies triumphalis, Dies in qua fit natalis Ecclesia vocali consonentia repleatur	l	C. of Confessors—Blahops. St. Augustine (Hippo). St. Paulinus.
Eia jubliemus carmina ico digna Ex Aegypto Pharaonis, In amplexum Ex radica caritatis, Ex affectu pictatis		St. Martha. St. Mary of Egypt. St. Victor of Paris.
Ex virguito de Jesse, Deus al esse	5. n	Concep. B. V. M. St. Renatus.
Extultemus et lactemur, Et in Deo gioriemur Exsultemus pari voto malediam, Concordantes	12.	St. Anne. St. Stephen. St. Stephen.
Exsultet ecclesia, Ex victoris victoria		St. Anne,
Factura dominans polestate alque principans Famillam castodi Christe tuam quam natus Fallx germén, O Germane, Nomen geris Pelix Maria mundi regina	Sarum Process., c. 1390	Christmas. Christmas. St. Germain of Auxerre.
Felix mater filterum, Septem vere heaterum Felix virgo Barbara	8	Christmas. 7 Brethren of Ephesus.  " O felix virgo." St. Barbara.
Fous virtutum, O Barbara, Dulcis, mitis Frangatur mens vitioss, Ut sit Dec gratiosa. Fulget dies praecheus, cunctis memorandus.		St. Barbara. St. Galian. St. Willibald,
Gande coelestis sponsa, Summi regis jam . Gande Dei gen'trix, Quam circumstant .	9. 10. 11	C, of Virgins,
Gaude dignum sanctum canat Othmarum Gaude felix Agrippina, sauctaque Colonia Gaude jucunda melos turma persona , ,		Patron saints of Cologne,  =" Laude juconds."
Gaude mater Anna gaude, Mater orant Gaude turbu fidelium, Mentis colens	1 18	St. Anne Compass. B. V. M. B. V. M.

First line of Sequence.	Where found.	Use.
Gaudeamus hodie, Immensae lactitise. Gaudet mater nobilis, Constans et immobilis Gaudet omnis spiritus, Christum qui Gaudet to bens, Justus et reus Gloriose fulget dies, exsuitet ecclesis Gloriose martyr Dei, Nos orantes respice. Gloriona devote in sanctis Deus adoratur Grates Deo et honor sint per saccula Gratulemur in bac dis, In qua sanctae. Gratulettu orbis totus, Praesens coetus	3. 6. 6. 7. 12	St. Lambert of Freizing.
Hic est dies celebrandus, Landibusques. Hic oculis et manibus in cocium. Hodie prodit virga. Jesse de radice Hodiernae festum lucis. Est Achacil laus Hodiernae festum lucis. Et collernae vitae Hodiernas lux diel, Celebris martyris Del Hujus diel gundia, devotio catholica.  Illibata mente sans, Ablit virgo Imperator maxime Christe benignissime	9. 7. Rereford Brev., 1505 7. 12 3. 6. 7. 9. 10. 1. 7. 5. 8.	10,000 Martyrs (St. Achativa, &c.). Pt. of "Sacerdotem Curisti." Concep. B. V. M. St. Achativa, &c. (10,000 Martyrs), Of the Lance of Christ. C. of Mertyre. St. Augustine (Hippo).  Visit. B. V. M. St. Scheetlan.
Imperator admine Corporate delimentation in Imperator admines omnes Ludgerom venerantes In excelsis caultur, Nato regi gioria In natale Salvatoris, Angelorum nostra choris	7. 12. Mupster M., 1489	B. V. M. St. Luidger of Münster. Christmas. Circumcision. Christmas.
In sanctorum jugi laude, Plebs devota Deo plaude In Wolfgangi canamus bonorem Christo Jesu Christo Rex superne, Deo Patri . ,	7.12	St. Helena, St. Wolfgang of Regensburg. St. Stanislaus.
Jenim Christum quem peccando Jubar lucia moficase, Sidus apargit Jubar miri luminis, Sidus almi numinis Jubilemus Salvatori, Quem coelestes Jubilemus Salvatori, Qui spein dedit	York Brev., 1493	St. Gregory the Great. St. Godelard of Hildeshelm. St. Castulus. St. Silvester at Christmas. Conversion of St. Pant.
Kyneburgse virginis sine fastu carnis .	Lanzdowne MS., 387, f. 34 .	St. Kyneburga.
Lastabundi cordis mundi, Demus melos Lastabundi Jubilemus, Ac devote calebremus Lastabundi Jubilemus, Lasta ments Lastabundus Bernbardo decantet chorus Lastabundus exsultet virginum chorus alleluta	7. 2. 1,	St. Barbara. Transfiguration. C. of Martyrs. St. Bernard of Chaireaux. 11,000 Yirgins.
Lactare mater ecclesia cum sancta filia Lactetur ecclesia, devotione pla Lacto cordo resonemus, Et in arce jubilemus. Lambertus martyr in conspectu Domini Laude plebs Alsatica Dominaum Laude Sion quod egtessus Laudes almo Wandelino personemus mirifico	8. 8. Add. MS., 26788, f. 936. 3.	St. Kunigunda. Pt. of "Piandat urbs." St. Barbara. St. Barbara. St. Theoblaid. = "Gande Slon quod." St. Wandelinus.
Latdes Christo cum gaudio, Nostra pangat devotio Laudes Christo persolvamus, Nos, qui sancti	Speier M., 148;	St. Goar. St. Judoens.
Laudes dignes attolismes, Cojus festum Laudes egregias clarus omnis canat Laudet domnis spiritus Christum, qui divinitus Laudet te Deus, justus et reus, ochis totus Laureata plebe fidelis Sacramentum carnis Laus Deo Patri chisque Nato partierque Laus Deo Patri filioque compari in unitate	8. 8. (Gaudet) 12. 3. 6. (Gaudet)	St. Margaret. St. Adelheid. Emperor Henry H. (d. 1824), St. Bartholomew. Corpus Christi. St. Mary of Egypt. Holy Trinley. St. Nicholas.
Laus et gioria Dee eit in asccula, Qui nobis Laus Parti gioriae, Qui suum Filium gentibus Laus eit regi gioriae, Cujus formam gratiae Laus eit regi gioriae, Cujus formam gratiae Laus tibi summe Deus quem praenoscens Helysius Lucs lucers in acterna, Lucis ductrix	7. 6. 9. 11	Holy Trinity, St. Agnes. Five Wounds of Christ, St. Germain of Amiens. St. Anne.
Luce mentis et decore, Virgo notts in clamore Lux praeclara, iux sollemola, la qua Majestati sacrosanciae, Militans com trium-	7. 12.	St. Hervatius, St. Gervatius, plants. Jubilet ecclesia.  1. De triumpho Thebesorum.  2. Sic versetur laus in ore Majestati sit superme, Laus et honor. Margaritam preciosan, Sponsam Christi Martyr Christi Barbara, Mundi linquens. Martyris egregium, Fortemute Gregorium. Martyris egregii, Triumphos Vincentii Martyris egregii, Triumphos Vincentii Martyris victoris laudes resonent Christiani. Mundi decor, mundi forms, Qua viventii	11	Theban Legion (St. Gereou, &c.), Three Kings of Cologne (Epipheny) St. Lubentius. St. Margaret. St. Rarbura. St. Gregory of Spoleto. St. Victor. St. Victor. St. Martha.
Nascitur ex patre Zebedaeo, matre Maria Nero plange, Boma gaude, Quae nunc Pauli		St. John Evangelist, St. Paul.
O alma Trinitas, Delias et individua		C. of Apostles. B. V. M.

First line of Sequence.	Where found,	Use.
felix virgo Barbara, Exotirpe regum genita	12 (Felix virgo)	St. Barbara.
Materne pastor alme, Christique	9	St. Maternus.
moram doctor egração, Qui triumphas 🗼	Sarum Brev., 1516	St. Andrew.
panis dolcissime, O fidelis sulmas vitalis , quam mira sunt, Deus, tua portanta.	3.6.11.	Corpus ChristL
quam mira sunt, Deus, tua portenta.	10.	S. after Ascension. St. Mary Magdalane.
regi summo nuller cara Deo	York Bree, 1483,	Christmas.
vere beata sublimis sponsa	Fork Bree., 1493	St. Pelagius, portet devota mente sinceriter	Sarum Brev., 1516	St. Nicholas.
angat chorus in hac die Novum genus	7. 12	St. James the Great aulus Ston architectus Ret a Christo	3.6	St. Paul. St. Julian.
laudet urbs Cenomanica benore tauti . otens virtutum tu sator rerum, moderator .	1	St. Oswald.
rotomartyr et levita, Clarus fide.		St. Stephen.
saliat concors symphonia, Laudes pargat	0. 7. 10.	St. Dorothes.
sallat laeta concio, Recolans cum gaudio	8	St. Donatus.
sallat laete orbis coetus sacrata fide repletus		St. Burchard of Würzburg sallat nostra conclo, Coelesti tripudio .	2	St. Nichasius.
allens Dec, Slon, gaude Lacta voce	a. 6. 11	C. of Martyrs or Confessors.
our natus in Bethlebem, Unde gaudet	Hereford Brev., 1505	Epiphany.
uando conscientia, Respondel sloquio uem sethera es terra atque mare	1	St. Glies. Christmas.
ecolamus pils digna, Laudibus mente	ա	St. Barbara.
benigna egi psalmistae, cytharistae, Tibi, Christa .	7.12	St. Margaret.
egi regum immortali Nostri regis	3, 8,	St. Oswald.
enes nostros praecingamos, Et lucernas .	1, , , , ,	St. Maurilius of Angers.
or Deus, Del Agne, leo Juda magne .	7. 12	2nd S. ofter Easter.
tivatorem concordi Laudemus Christum . Live festa dies toto venerabilis gevo—	11. Munster M., 1489	C. of a Martyr.
1. Qua caro Messise fit cibus ecclesiae .	Sarum Process, c. 1390 .	Corpus Christi.
2. Qua Christi mater visitat Elizabeth .	Sprum Process, 1523	Visit, H. V. M.
3. Que Deus ad coelos scaudit et astre	York Process, 1530	Ascension Day.
4. Qua Deus de coelo gratia fuisit humo .	York Process., 1530	Pentecost.
<ul> <li>6. Qua Deus ecclesiam diest honorem</li> <li>6. Qua Deus in coelum seandit, et astra</li> </ul>	York Process., 1630	Corpus Christi, Ascension Day.
7. Qua Deus infernum vicit, et astra .	Sarum Process.; c. 1390 . Sarum Process.; c. 1390 .	Easter.
8. Qua Jesus hoc nomen flecters cuncta .	Sarum Process; 1523	Name of Jesus.
9. Qua Kyneburga pia migrat ab hac	Lansdowne MA, 387, f. 235	St. Kyueburga.
19. Qua Kyneburga suo tollitur ex tumulo	Landoure MS., 387, f. 34 .	St. Kyneburga.
11. Qua nova de coelo gratia fuisit humo .	Sarum Process., c. 1390 .	l'entecost.
13. Qua sponso sponsa jungitur ecclesia .	Sarum Process.; c. 1390	Ded. of a Church.
alve lignum sanothe crucis, Salve	·1 ·	Exait. of the Cross.
alve Moria, Christi Parene intacta	] 5	Compassion of B. V. M.
alve pater Dionysi, Lux et decor	8 .	St. Denis.
aive pater, flos doctorum, Salve flos decusque	լո	St. Jerome.
morum alve sancta facies nostri Redemptoris	a	Face of Christ.
alve Thoma Indyme, Dux pugnae	8 : : : : :	St. Thomas the Apostle, anctas Anise devotus decantet clerus.	5. Münster M., 1489	St. Anne, ancte Paule merita tua colentes inclita refove		St. Pani.
clementius		1
anctissimae virginis votiva festa recolamna.	3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12,	St. Katherine.
ancto Del famulo, Fridolino merito	32	St. Fridolinus.
edentem in supernae majestatis arcas	Sarum Process., c. 1390	Holy Innocents.
idus ave cella mellis, Meutis tenebras	Species of 1402	St. Castor.
tt mens laeta, vox sonora, Plebs fidelis ollemni vos induite filias Sion chiamyde	Speier H., 1487	St. George. St. Livinus.
	York Breu., 1493	St. Nicholas.
peclorus forma prae patis hominum Jesus .		Transfiguration.
poleti claro sanguine natus, Serenedus .	ii.	St. Serenedus, tola regni laureatus, Summi regis	2.	! SS. Simon and Jude.
umme bone et suavis, Qui l'etrum	8	, St. Severus.
ummi Patris gratia, Coneternum per filium. uper coelos sublimaris, Gratis gratans	3. 6	St. Anne. St. Thomas of Hereford.
fe mundi climata protomartyr laudant femplum cordis ad roemus, Novo corde	Sarusa Prócess., c. 1390	St. Stephen. Purif. of B. V. M.
lu bestus es Barjona, Cui aspirat sua dona .	111.	St. Peter.
It keenis testatur litters, Postquam Christus		St. James the Apostle.
	1. ,
Venerenur hac die sollenni sanctum	3.6	St. Leonard.
Venereter Unitas, colleudeter Trinitas	9.	. St. Margaret.
erbum Del Verbum bonus, Summe spei .	Hereford Press 1505	St. Sigismund of Burgundy,
APPNIED Matria hadia Describit an allandar	Hereford Brev., 1505 . Hereford Brev., 1505 .	. Christans.
(CDUID Petité home, Processit ex viccine	I recial to the manager of the and an in-	St. Vincent.
erbum Patris hodie, Processit ex virgine	11. *
erpum Patria hodiz, Processit ex virgine Pernabatur hostia Christi suavimima Pictima Christi victoris factus Eutropius		St. Eutropius. B. V. M.
eroum Fatte hode. Processit ex virgine Vermabatur hosts Christi sus-vissima Ictima Christi victoris factus Eutropius Victoris gaude speciosa, Benedicta gioriosa Virgo mater Salvatoris, Augelorun grata	1. : : : ;	B. V. M. at Epiphany.
ernum Patha hodic, Processit ex virgine ernabetur hostia Christi suaviasima ictima Christi victoris factus Eutropius irgo gauda speciosa, Benedicta gioriosa	1	B. V. M. B. V. M. at Epiphany. St. Vitus.

Many of the Sequences in the English Missals are only to be found in these Missals. Of the remaining Sequences in both of the above lists a considerable proportion have not yet (Fab. 1988) been edited in any way. Mr. W. (Feb. 1888) been edited in any way. Mr. W. H. James Weale, in his Analesta Liturgica, is beginning the publication of all known Sequences which are not given, or only given in part, in Kehrein's Lateinische Sequenzen, and hopes in about five years to complete the work.

[F. E. W. and J. M.] work.

Sergius. [Greek Hymnody, § zii. 2.]

Servant of God, well done! Rest from thy loved employ. J. Montgomery. [Death and Burial of a Minister.] This poem was pub. in Montgomery's Greenland and Other Poems, 1819, p. 191, in 6 st. of 8 l., with the following heading:-

"The Christian Soldier. Occasioned by the endden death of the Rev. Thomas Taylor, After having declared in his last Sermon, on a preceding evening, that he hoped to die as an old soldier of Jesus Christ, with his sword in his hand."

Mr. Taylor, who was a Methodist preacher. was found dead in his bed on the morning of Oct. 15, 1816. The poem is given as a hymn in the 8th ed. of Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 366; in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 534; and in his Original Hys., 1853, No. 311. In addition to the use of this hymn in its original, and in an abbreviated form, three ceptos are also in C. U.:-(1) "Soldier of Christ, well done," which begins with 1, 5 of the last stanza;" (2) "The pains of death are past," beginning with 1, i. of the some stanza; and (3) "The voice at midnight came," st. i. l. 5. fJ. J.1

Servant of God, well done! Thy glorious warfare's past. C. Wesley. [Death and Barial of a Minister.] This hynn, in 4 st. of 8 l., was printed at the end of the Funeral Sermon by John Wesley, on the death of G. Whitefield. (P. Werkt, 1868-72, vol. vi. 316.) Whitefield died on Sept. 30, 1770, and J. Wesley preached the Funeral Sermon at the Tabernacle, Tottenham Court Road, and again at Moorfields on Nov. 18, 1770. He also preached on the same subject at Greenwich and at Deptford. His remark in his Journal is, "In every place I wish to show all possible respect to the memory of that great and good man." It must be noted that this hymn is a distinct piece from C. Wesley's Elegy on the Death of the Rev. George White-[J. J.]

Bervants of God, awake, arise. hortation.] This is an altered form of P. Dod-dridge's "Awake, ye saiuts, and raise your eyes," p. 103, il. It was included in the 1815 Appendix to Cotterill's Scl., No. 219, and is found in a few modern collections, including Windle's Ch. & Home Met. Ps. and Hymnal, and others. In the 1819 ed. of his Sel. Cotterill again altered the text, and gave it as "Servants of God! lift up your heads," p. 214. This form of the text is seldom found in modern hymn-books. [J. J.]

Servants of God, His praise proclaim. J. Montgomery. [Ps. exiii.] Holland, in his Memoirs of Montgomery, says that after Montgomery ran away from the Moravian school at Fulneck, he lived from 1788 to June 19, 1789, with one Lockwood, at Mirfield, near Leeds. This person was a Moravion. He kept a small retail shop, and went by the name of the "Fine Bread Baker." Holland says:—

"Of the conduct of Montgomery behind the counter we never heard much; he did not remain there more than a year and a half; he had little to do, and still less inclination for the employment, such as it was. While there he composed the largest part of the poem of Affred, and amongst his smaller pieces a metrical version of the 113th Psalm, which, many years afterwarks, was published, with some verbal alterations, in the collection. Contentity Sci. 1812 row in use under the auxiless of Cotterill's Sci., 1819] now in use under the auspices of the Archbishop of York in various churches in his diocese and elsewhere."—Monotra, i. p. 73.

This version of Ps. 113 is on p. 57 of Cotterill's Sel., 1819, in 5 st. of 4 l. It was republished in Montgomery's Songs of Zion, 1822, and is found in several modern hymnbooks. It very frequently begins "Servants of God! in joyful laye." This is the first line of the last stanza, and is substituted for the original opening of the hynm. This is the earliest of Montgomery's hymns to which a date can be given. He was about 17 when it was written.

Set thine house in order. H. Alford. [Sunday after Christmas.] 1st pub. in his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 27, in 4 st. of 8 l., and repeated in the Universal H. Bh., 1885. It is based on the first lesson at Evening Prayer on the lat S. after Christmas, Isaiah (J. J.] xxxviii. 1.

Seymour, Asron Crossley Hobart, s. of John Crossley Seymour, M.A., Vicar of Cahirelly, Diocese of Cashel (and elder brother of the Rev. Michael Hobert Seymour, author of several works on the Roman controversy), was b. in the county of Limerick, Dec. 19, 1789. From an early age he gave much attention to literary pursuits, and at the age of 21 he pub. his Vital Christianity exhibited in a Series of Letters on the wost Important Subjects of Religion, addressed to Young Per-sons, 1810. This work, written during an illness, contains several of his hymns and other poetical pieces. He also edited a new edition of Dr. Gillies's Life of Whitefield, and wrote a "Memoir," which was prefixed to the Reliques of Ancient Irish Poetry, by Miss Charlotte Brooke, 1816. His most important work was his Life and Times of Selina, Countess of Huntingdon, 2 vols., 1839. He resided for some time in Naples (circa 1839–1847), and then at Bristol. He d. Oct., 1870. A few of his hymns are still in C. U., including "Jesus, Immortal King, arise," p. 546, i., and others. For these details we are indebted to Miller's Singers and Songs, 1869, pp. 410-12. [J. J.]

Shall heavenly wisdom cry aloud? [Christ, the Wisdom of God.] This hymn appeared in the Scottish Draft Translations and Paraphroses, 1745, No. 86, in 10 st. of 4 l., and based on Prov. viii., 22, &c. It was composed of I. Watts's "Shall wisdom cry aloud?" (a. m.) from his Hys. and Spiritsal Songs, 1709, Bk. i., No. 92; and st. ii., iii. of his "Thus saith the wisdom of the Lord" (L. M.) from the same work, Bk. i., No. 94; rewritten in c. w. In the authorized issue of the Trs. and Paraphs., 1781, No. 18, this arrangement is given with alterations as "Keep ellence, all ye some of mou." In the markings I of the Trs. and Paraphs. by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, H.) this form of the text is attributed to him, [J. J.]

Shall we go on to sin? I. Watts. [Rom. vi. 1-6.] 1st pub. in his Hymns, &c., 1709, Bk. i., No. 106, in 2 st. of 4 L, and ontitled "Death to sin by the Cross of Christ."
Its use is limited. Orig. text in modern editions of Watts. In the Draft of the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1745, it was given as "And shall we then go on to sin?" the alterations being confined to the change of metre. In adopting the hymn for the authorized issue of the Trans. in 1781, No. xlvii. (Rom. vi. 1-7), the first line only of the 1745 alterations was retained, the whole hymn being rewritten in 4 st. of 4 l. This recast has very little indeed of Watts, being to a great extent new. This form, according to the markings of the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, ii.), was by Cameron. It is given in several modern collections. [J. J.]

Shall we not love thee, Mother dear-Sir H. W. Baker. [B. V. M.] Written for and first appeared in the 1868 Appendix to H. A. & M., and again, after revision, in the revised edition, 1875. [J. J.]

Shelly, Martha Evans, née Jackson, daughter of John Jackson, of Manchester, b. at Stockport, Cheshire, and married in 1846 to J. W. Shelly, of Great Yarmouth. Her hymns appeared in Curwen's Child's Own Hymn Book, 1844-1874, and include :-

Father, let Thy henediction. On behalf of Children. Appeared in Curwen's Child's Own H. Bk., 1844, and is found in a few modern collections.

2. Lord, a little hand and lowly. (hildren's Prayer. Mrs. Shelly's account of this hymn is:—" At a Sunday School meeting in Manchester, the Rev. John Curwen, one evenling, gave a lecture on singing. He sang a very pretty and simple time, to which be said be had no suitable words, and wished that some one would write a hymn to it. I wroke these verses and gave them to him after the close of the meeting." (Curwen's Hogy, Notes, p. 15.) The time which Mr. Gurwen anny was a rotte, p. 10.) The tune which Mr. Gurwen and Was a ferman one, and was given in his Child's Gum Time Book under the name of Giover. The hymn was pub, in his Child's Gum H. Ek., 1344, and has passed into a large number of collections for children.

3. Lord, halp us, as we sing. Sincerity. Pub. in The Poice of Traise, 1886.

Shepherd, Anne, née Houlditch, daughter of the Rev. E. H. Houlditch, sometime Rector of Speen, Berkshire, was b. at Cowes, Isle of Wight, Sept. 11, 1809: married to Mr. S. Saville Shepherd in 1813; and d. at Blackheath, Kent, Jan. 7, 1857. Her Hymns adapted to the Comprehension of Young Minds were pub. (3rd ed. 1847 5th ed. 1855), and contained 64 hymns. Of these the following have come into C. U.:-

- 1. Around the throne of God in heaven. (See p. 52, ii.)
- 2. Glory to Jesus, glory. Praise.
  3. Hards a message of love. Invitation.
  4. I have read of the Saviour's love. The Love of Christ.
- 5. See where the gentle Jesus reigns. Jesus, the Children's Priend.

Of these hymns the first has by for the widest acceptance, and is found in a large number of children's hymn-books. Her religious novels, Ellen Seymour, 1848; and Rea-Kty, 1852, attracted some attention. [J. J.]

Shepherd of Israel, bend Thine ear.

P. Doddridge. [During a Ministerial Vacancy.] In the D. MSS, this is No. 63, in 5 st. of 4 L, and is headed, " Of seeking a right way from God, from Ezra viii. 21. At a meeting of ministers at Bedworth, during their long vacancy;" and is dated "April 10, 1735." It was pub. by Job Orton in his posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 870, in a slightly altered form; and the same text was repeated in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839. It is usually given in modern hymn-books in a slightly altered form from that of 1755. In the Songs for the Sanctuary, N. Y., 1865, st. ii.-iv. are given as "O Lord, Thy pitying eye вигусув." [J. J.]

Shepherd of the ransomed flock, [The Good Shepherd.] In Miss Dorothy A. Thrupp's Thoughts for the Day, 1837, 1st series, p. 8, are the following lines, sometimes given as a hymn in 2 st. of 4 l. :--

"Shepherd of the little flock, Lead me by the shadowing rock; Where the richest pasture grows; Where the living water flows; By that pure and silent stream, Sheltered from the scorching beam Shepherd, Saviour, Guardian, Guide, Keep me ever near Thy side."

In the Rev. T. Darling's Hys. for the Church of England, 1855, lines 1-4 of the above were given with alterations as the opening of the hymn "Shepherd of the ransomed flock." the remaining four stanzas being by Mr. Darling. This form of the hymn was repeated, with the addition of a doxology, in the 1863 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys., and again in other collections. In Mr. Darling's Hymns, &c., 1887, it is condensed to 4 st. It is specially adapted to the 2nd S. (W. T. B.) after Easter.

Shepherd of Thine Israel, lead us. J. Conder. [The Good Shepherd.] In Conder's Hys. of Praise, Prayer, and Devout Meditation, 1856, p. 201, this hymn is given in 3 st. of 6 l., together with the following note by the author's son, the Rev. E. R. Conder :--

"It is not quite certain whether the Author designed this Hymn to be included. It originated in an attempt to render a well-known imitation from the Weish ['Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah,' p. 77, 1.], the popularity of which for exceeds its poetical metri, more worthy of the place it has now in our pastmody. But so little is borrowed, beyond the form and leading thought, that the foregoing seems fairly to rank as an original composition.—E. R. C."

This has failed to receive the attention of hymnal compilers. [J. J.1

Shepherd, Thomas, s. of William Shepherd, sometime Vicar of Tilbrook, Bedfordshire, and subsequently a Nonconformist Minister at Oundle, and at Kettering, was b. in 1665. Taking Holy Orders he held for some time preferment in Huntingdonshire, and in Buckinghamshire. Seeding from the Church of England, he became, in 1694, paster of the Castle Hill Meeting House (Independent), Nottingham, of which Dr. Doddridge was subsequently pastor. In 1700 he removed to Bocking, near Braintree, Essex, where he began his work in a barn. A chapel was erected for his congregation in 1707. He d. Jan. 29, 1789. His publications consisted chiefly of Sermons. His Penitential Cries were a continuance of those by John Mason

(p. 718, ii.), who wrote the first six and the version of Ps. 86, and were pub, with Mason's Songs of Praise in 1693. It must be noted that in D. Sedgwick's reprint of the Songs, and the Penitential Cries, in 1859, Mason's Cries are under the head of Songs, &c., pp. 49-61, and those under Penitential Cries, are all by Shepherd. Some of these Cries are still in C. U., including, "My God, my God, my Light, my Love" (Longing for God); and "When wilt Thou come unto me, Lord" (Communion with God desired). [English Hymnody, Early, § XI.]
[J. J.]

Sherwin, William Fisk, an American Baptist, was b. at Buckland, Massachusetts, March 14, 1826. His educational opportunities, so far as schools were concerned, were few, but he made excellent use of his time and surroundings. At fifteen he went to Boston and studied music under Dr. Mason: In due course he became a teacher of vocal music, and held several important appointments in Massachusetts; in Hudson and Albany, New York County, and then in New York City. Taking special interest in Sunday Schools, he composed carels and hymn-tunes largely for their use, and was associated with the Rev. R. Lowry and others in preparing Bright Jewels, and other popular Sunday School byun and tune books. A few of his melodies are known in Great Britain through I. D. Saukey's Socred Songs and Solos, where they are given with his signature. His hymn-writing was limited, The following pieces are in C. U.:-

1. Grander than ocean's story (1871). The Love of Cod.

2. Hark, bark, the merry Christmas bells. Christmas

3. Lo, the day of God is breaking. The Spiritual 4. Wake the song of Joy and gladness. S. School or Temperance Annibersary.

5. Why is thy falth, O Child of God, so small. Safety

Mr. Sherwin d. at Boston, Massachusetts, April 14, 1888. [J. J.]

Show pity, Lord; O Lord, forgive. I. Watts. [Ps. li.] Pub. in his Fsalms of David, &c., 1719, p. 141, in three parts:—

1. "Shew pity, Lord; O Lord, forgive." Pt. 1. 2. "Lord, I am vile, conceived in sin." Pt. Il. 3. "O Thou that hear'st when sinners cry." Pt. iil.

Each of these parts is in C. U. In addition in the Wes. H. Bk., revised ed., 1875, the first part of No. 574 beginning, "Shew pity, Lord," &c., is a cento from these three parts in 6 st. of 4 l. The second part of the same version (Wes. H. Bh., No. 574), "O'Thou that hearest," &c., is Pt. iii. of Watts, as above, with the omission of at. v. This last arrangement was included by J. Wesley in his Ps. & Hys., pub. nt Charlestown, America, 1736-37, and was repeated in the 1830 Suppl. to the Wes. H. Bk. In 1722 J. C. Jacobi gave II. 1-3 of st. i. of Pt. i. by Watts as above, with II. 2, 3, transposed, as the opening of his tr. of "Erbarm dich mein, O Herre Gott" (p. 506, L), in his Psalmodia Germanica, p. 59. [J, J]

Shindler, Mary Stanley Bunce, née Palmer, better known as Mrs. Dans. was b. in Beaufort, South Carolina, Feb. 15, 1810. In 1835 she was married to Charles E. Dana, of New York, and removed with him to Bloomington, now Muscatine, Lowe, in 1838. Mr. Dana d. in 1839, and Mrs. Dana returned to South Carolina. Subsequently she was married to the Rev. Robert D. Shindler, who was Professor in Shelby College, Kentucky, in 1851, and afterwards in Texas. Mrs. Shindler. originally a Presbyterian, was for some time an Unitarian; but of late years she has been a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As Mary S. B. Dana she pub. the Southern Harp, 1840, and the Northern Harp, 1841. From these works her hymns have been taken, 8 of which are in T. O. Summers's Songs of Zion, 1851. The best known are:—

1. Fiercely came the tempest sweeping. Christ still-in g the torus. (1841.)

2. I'm a pilgrim, and I'm a stranger. A Christian Pilgrim. (1841.)

Heaven Meaven Meaven Contemplated. 3. 0 sing to me of heaven. Heaven contemplated. (1840.) Sometimes given as "Come, sing to me of heaven."

[F. M. B.]

Shine, mighty God, on Britain nine. I. Watts. [Ps. lzvil. National Bhine. Appeared in his Psalms of David, Hyти.eal&c., 1719, p. 170, in 7 st. of 4 l, with the heading, "The Nation's prosperity, and the Church's increase," and with the following note :-

"Having translated the scene of this Psalm to Great Britain, I have borrow'd a decout and poetical Wish for the Happiness of my native Land from Zeel. 2.5. and offer'd it up in the 2" Stanza. "I will be a Wall of Fire round about, and will be the Glory in the Midst of her."

This second stanza, which is bracketed as not being a part of the Psalin, is :-

" Amidst our Isla exalted high Do Thou, our Glory, stand, And like a Wall of Guardian Fire Surround the Favourite Land.

This version of Ps. 67 is used (1) in its original form; (2) with the omission of st. ff.; (3) as "Shine, mighty God, on this our land" (4) as "Shine, mighty God, on Zion shine;" and (5) as "Sline on our land, Jehovah shine." [J. J.]

Shipton, Anna. Concerning this writer we can accertain no details beyond the fact that she pub. :--

(1) Whispers in the Palms. Hymns and Heditations. Lond. W. Yapp, 1855; second edition, augmented, 1857. (2) Precious Gems for the Saviant's Diaden, 1862. (3) The Brook in the Way: Original Hymns. 1864. (4) Tell Jenus: Recollections of R. Hotte. (5) The Collage on The Rock, an Allegory. Also other worlds back. amatter books.

Her hymna in C. U. include :--

- From her Whispers in the Palms, 1855-57.
- 1. Down in the pleasant pastures. The Good Shep-Acrd.

  - 2. Father, My cup is full. Gethremane.
    3. How shall I praise Thee, O my God? Praise.
    4. Jesus, Master, hear my cry. Blind Bartimaene.
  - ii. From her other Works.
- 5. Call them in, the poor, the wretched (1862). Home Mission:

  8. Praise God, ye gladdening smiles of morn. [J] of [J].

[J. J.]

Shirley, Hon. Walter, M.A., fourth a of the Hon. Laurence Shirley (s. of the 1st Earl Ferrers, and cousin of the Countess of Huntingdon), was b. in 1725. He was a friend of Whitefield and the Wesleys, and often preached in their chapels. He was for sometime Rector of Loughrea, county of Galway. Ho d. April 7, 1786. A selection of his sermons was published; also two poems in 1761—Liberty, an Ode, and The Judgment. In 1774 he assisted the Countees of Huntingdon in revising the collection of hymns used in her chapels, and therein a few of his productions are found. In the Life of Selina, Counters of Huntingdon, 1839, vol. ii., p. 291, the following note is given on Shirley's hymn-writing:—

"Mr. Shirley was the author of several well-known bymas in Lady Huntington's collection, particularly:—

From heaven the loud angalic song began.

Hark! In the wilderness a cry.

Flow fast my tears, the cause is great.

Sweet as the slepherd's tuneful reed.

"Sweet as the slephen's tuneful reed."

Source of light and power divine."

"There are also some in other collections; and a few little poems scattered in various periodical publications. The lines on the departure of the Missionaries from Lady Huntingdon's College for America, in 1772, under the direction of Mr. Piercy, have been much admired; they were re-published in the Beangelical Magazine, in 1798, on the departure of the ship Mag. for the South Sea islands. . . . He likewise assisted Lady Huntingdon in the Selection of hymns now in use in the congregations in her Councilon."

The Missionary hymn here referred to is:—
"Go, destined vessel, heavenly-freighted, go!"
His hymns now in C. U. include:—

1. Flow fast, my tears, the cause is great. Good Friday. Pub. In the Countess of Huntingdon's Coll., circa 1773, p. 294, in 3 st. of 8 l. It is in several modern hymn-books; and especially in America, including Hat-hymn-books; and especially in America, including Hat-field's Churck H. Bh., 1872.

8. From beaven the loud angelic song began. Ascen-sion. Also in the C. of Handingdon's Coll., etrea 1773, p. 312, in 7 st. of 41. The hymn, "Worthy the Lamb of boundless away," in Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, and others, is composed of st. ii. and vii.

8. Hark, in the wilderness a cry. St. John Baptist. Also in the C. of Huntingdon's Coll., circa 1773, p. 245, in 7 st. of 41.

in 7 st. of 4 l.

4. Bearce of light and power divine. Before Sermon.
Also in the C. of Humingdon's Coll., circa 1773, p. 231, in 4 st. of 6 l. in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, No. 812, st. i. and iv. are given in an altered form; and the first two lines of the hymn are added as a refrain.

5. Bweet as the shepherd's tuneful read. Peace. Also in the above Coll., circu 1773, p. 125, in 4 st. of 6 l. The hymn. "Peace, troubled soul, whose plaintile mean," in Lander Deman, N. Y., 1884, and others, is composed of st. ii. and iil.

For Shirley's popular recast, "Sweet the moments, rich in blossing," see "While my Jesus I'm possessing."

Shrinking from the cold hand of death. C. Wesley. [Death and Burial.] death. C. Wesley. [Death and Burial.] This cento was given in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780. No. 43, in 3 st. of 4 l. Of these st. l., ii., are No. 102, and st. iii. is No. 244, in vol. i. of his Short Hymns on Select Passages of H. Scripture, 1762 (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. ix, pp. 33 and 80). This text is repeated in the revised ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, and is in a large number of collections in most Englishspeaking countries. The spiritual uses of this hymn have been great. Several instances are given in G. J. Stevenson's Methodist H. Bk. Notes, 1883, p. 56. [J, J]

Shrubsole, William, eldest s. of William Shrubsole, a master mastmaker in the dockyard at Sheerness, Kent, and a Lay Preacher, was b. at Sheerness, Nov. 21, 1759. In his earlier years he was engaged as a shipwright in the dockyard, and then as a clerk. In 1785 he removed to London, and entered the Bank of England as a clerk. He subsequently be-came the Secretary to the Committee of the Treasury, He d. at Highbury, Aug. 23, 1829. Mr. Shrubsole was for some time a communicant at St. Anne's, Blackfriars, during the incumbency of the Rev. W. Goode; but during the last twenty years of his life he was a member with the Congregationalists, and attended the Hoxton Academy Chapel. He interested himself in religious societies, and especially the London Missionary Society (of which he became a director and one of the secretaries), the Bible Society, and the Religious Tract Society. He contributed hymns to the Econgelical Magazine, the Christian Magazine, the Theological Miscellany, the Christian Observer and the Youths' Magazine, at various dates, from 1775 to 1813. To these works we have traced nearly twenty of his hymns. A Memoir of Shrubsole was contributed by his daughter to Dr. Morison's Fathers and Founders of the London Missionary Society, 2 vols., Lond., Fisher, Sons & Co., 1844. Seven of his hymns are also given, together with a por-trait, in the same work. His hymns in C. U. include :-

1, Arm of the Lord, awake, awake. Put on Thy strength, the nations shake. Missions. This appeared in Histonary Hymns, 1795; and in Morison's Fathers and Pounders, &c., 1844, vol. 1. p. 451, in 6 st. of 4 l. Dr. Rogers in his Lyra Britannica, 1887, attributes this hymn to Shrobeole's father, and dates it 1780. Against this statement we can only put the fact that it is claimed in Mortson for the son. Orig. text, Lyra Brit., 1867.

2. Bright as the sun's meridian blass. Missions. Written Aug. 10, 1795, for the first meeting of the London Missionary Society. It was printed in the Rods, pedical Magazine, Sept., 1795, headed "On the intended Mission," and signed "Junior." It is also in Morison, 1844, I. p. 449, together with the note that the hymn "was duly acknowledged by Mr. Shrubsole in his lifetime, and the original ms., with numerous corrections, is in possession of his family, in ble own autograph," and that it bears date "August 10, 1795." Orig. text Lyra Brit., 1867, p. 604.

that it bears date "August 10, 1785." Orig. text Ayra Brit., 1867, p. 564.

3. In all the paths my feet pursue. Looking auto Jesus. Appeared in the Evangelical Magazine, 1784; la Morison, i., 1844, p. 464; and Lyra Brit., 1881, p. 503.

4. Shall soisance distant lands explore? Missions. Pub. in the Evangelical Magazine, 1795; and again in

Pub. in the Evangetical Engarine, 1795; and again in Morison, 1844, i. p. 452.

5. When streaming from the Eastern akies. Daily Dutics; or, Morning. Pub. in the Christian Observer, Aug., 1813, in 8 st. of 8 l., headed "Daily Dutics, Dependence and Enjoyment," and signed Probus. Also in Morison, 1844, i. p. 453; and Lyra Brit., 1867, p. 555. The well-known cento, "An every day Thy mercy spares," is from this hymn, and begins with st. iii.

5. Ye smints, your grateful praises bring. Praise. In the Engagetical Magazine, 1784; and Morison, 1844, i. p. 451, in 5 st. of 41.

7. Zion awake, Thy strength renew. The Glory of the Church. Appeared in the Evangetical Magazine, 1795; and in Morison, 1844, i. p. 450. It is sometimes given as, "Zion, awake, behold the day."

Of these hymns the most widely used are Nos. 1, 2, 5, and 7.

Sic ter quaternis trahitur. [Lent. Evening.] This is found in a BS. circa 890 in the Bodleian (Junius 25, f. 128); in two mass of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xii., f. 505; Harl. 2961, f. 2365); and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo Sazon Ch., 1851, p. 61, is printed from an 11th cent, us, at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 18). In the York Breviary of 1493 (where it begins "Jam ter quaternis trainitur") it is appointed for Vespers on the Saturday before the 3rd S. in Lent. The text is also in Daniel i., No. 77, Tr. as:

1. New twice [thrice] four hours have passed away. By J. D. Chambers, in his Psalter, 1852, p. 344; his Landa Syon, 1857; and the 1863 Appa, to the Hymnel N.

2. With its thrise quateraloued hours. By W. J. Blaw, in his Church Hymn and Tune Book, 1852-[J. M.]

Sidney, Sir Philip (b. 29th Nov., 1554; d. 17th October, 1586) and Mary Sidney, Countess of Pembroke (b. 1550(?); d. 25th September, 1621). This illustrious pair claim notice in this work from their versifica-tion of the Psalms. These are frequently noticed by contemporaries, memorably by Dean Doune (Poems, vol. ii., pp. 313-15 in Fuller Worthies' Library); but they were not printed until 1823, as follows:---

The Pacines of David. Translated into Divers and Sundry Kinds of Verse, More rare and Excellent For the Method and Varietie Than any yet hath been done in English. Begun by The noble and learned gent, Sir Phillip Sidner, Kat., and finished by The Right Honorable The Countries of Princeta, his Sister. Now first printed from A Copy of the Original Manuscript, Transcribed by John Davies, of Hereford, in the reign of James the First.

This as of John Davies, the renowned caligraphist, passed from the Bright Sale to Penshurst. Its exquisite penmenship is its chief value. It has many bad readings and gratuitous obscurities. A more accurate text is preserved in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, Poet. 25), written by Dr. Samuel Woodford, having been made from the us. of a scribe who copied under the enperintendence of Sir Philip Sidney himself, who in certain places has written "Leave a space here" for a variant stanza. There are also occasional alterations in Sidney's own autograph. This us. is the text of the present writer's reproduction in both of his editions of the complete Poems of Sir Philip Sidney in the Fuller Worthies Library (2 vols.) and in Early English Poets (3 vols.). The critical reader is referred to the "Various Readings" from both the above ass., and from a third in Trinity College, Cambridge, and two in the British Museum (Add. MSS, 12,048 and 12,047), and many It was for long notes and illustrations. doubted which portions belonged to Sir Philip and which to his sister (e.g. Dr. Macdonald in his Antiphon). But the evidence is multiplied that to Sidney belong only the first fortythree; e.g. Lord Brooke's Letter, which is reprinted in our Essay (as above), names "about forty psalms," and Dr. Woodford, and the end of Psalm xliii., notes, from the sutograph-corrected Sidney ws., "Thus far sutograph-corrected Sidney Ms., "Thus far Sir Philip Sidney," and the British Museum Ms. (12,048) writes there " Hactenus Sir Philip Sidney: " and so elsewhere. Most will agree that the Countess excels her brother, and that, of its kind, the best poetry is found in her Psalmes. John Ruskin, in his Fors Clavigera, has dedicated a whole part to a brilliant eulogy of the Psalms of both. Some of Sir Philip Sidney's Songs and Sonnets deserve introduction into the Church's Praise. Many are melodique and thought-laden, and some seem to set themselves to music. [A. B. G.] Paulters, English, § ix.]

Sie ist mir lieb, die werthe Magd. M. Luther. [The Christian Church.] Founded on Rev. xii. 1-6; lat pub. in Klug's G. B., Wittenberg, 1585, in 8 st. of 12 l.; and thence Luther's Geistl. Lieder, 1854, p. 80; an I the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 246. The tra. are:

Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 246. The tra. are:

(1) "The worthy maid is dear to me." By J. Inderson, 1846, p. 26 (1847, p. 47). (2) "She's dear to methe worthy maid." By Dr. J. Hunt, 1853, p. 81. (3) "Dear is to me the Holy Maid." By R. Matte, 1854, p. 27; and thence to Dr. Bacon, 1884, p. 63. (4) "To me she's dear, the worthy maid." By Dr. B. Machonald, in the Sauday Mag., 1867, p. 460; aitered in his Exetics, 1876, p. 70. (5) "I love her dearly, precious maid." By E. Matte, 1867, p. 59. [J. M.]

Sieh hier bin ich Ehren König. Neander. [Supplication.] This beautiful and ecarching hymn is traditionally said to have been written in 1677 during enforced absence from his duties. Founded on Ps. lyii, 7 ("God, my heart is ready, to sing and to praise"). 1st pub. in his Glaub- and Liebes-ubung: aufgemuntert durch einfältige Bundes-Lieder und Danck-Psalmen. Bremen, 1680, p. 139, in 6 et. of 6 l., entitled "Encouragement to Praise." In the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 341. Tr. as:-

1. Behold me here, in grief draw near. By Mrs. Findlater in the 1st Ser., 1854, of the H. L. L., p. 44 (1884, p. 46). This follows the text of Knapp in his Ev. L. S., 1837, No. 2060 (1865, No. 1682), omitting st. iv. St. v. of this version is not by Neander, and had appeared in the Württemberg G. B., 1791, No. 464, thus :-

"Tief in Nöthen Lass mich beten, Kindlich beten, Herr, vor dir! Ach, erscheine, Wenn ich weine, Bald mit deiner Hülfe mir! Lass dich finden! Lass dich finden! Denn mein Herz verlangt nach dir i "

Included in full in Cantate Domino, Boston, U. S., 1859, and omitting Mrs. Findlater's st. iv. in the Meth. N. Connexion H. Bk., 1863.

2. Kere behold me, as I cast me. A very good tr., omitting st. iv., v., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd. Ser., 1858, p. 170; repeated in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 122. Included in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864; Christian H. Book, Cincinnati, 1865; Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868, &c. In 1876 it was included in the Scottish Press. Hymnal, with a tr. of the stanza quoted above made by Miss Winkworth at the request of the committee of publication. This form is repeated in Newman Hall's Christ Church Hyl., 1876. The form in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1886, beginning "Look upon me, Lord, I pray Thee," consists of st. ii. and lil.

Other tra. are: (1) "King of glory, see before Thee," from Engage, by R. Massie in the British Heroid, May, 1865, p. 65, repeated in Reid's Praise Bk., 1872. (2) "Now beloid me, King of glory," in the German Reformed Guardians, June 1865, p. 173, signed "S. T." [J. M.]

Σιγησάτω πᾶσα σὰρξ βροτεία. [Holy Communion.] This is the "Prayer of the Cherubic Hymn," from the Liturgy of St. James, as given in Neale and Littledale's Translations of the Primitive Liturgies, 1868-9, but rendered into metre as "Let all mortal flesh keep ellence," by G. Moulitie, in the 2nd ed. of the Lyra Eucharistica, 1864, in 4 st of 3 double lines. In 1867 it was transferred to the People's H., for use " Before Consecration."

Sigourney, Lydis, nee Huntley. This distinguished name stood at the head of the female poets of America a generation ago, and is still well remembered. Born in Norwich, in Wackernagel, iii. p. 24, in Schircks's ed. of | Connecticut, in 1791, she conducted a school in the same town from 1809 to 1814, when she removed to Hartford, where she was married to Charles Sigourney in 1819. Most of her subsequent life was spent at Hartford, and she d. there, June 10, 1865. Her first publi-cation was Moral Pieces in Press and Verse, This was followed by 58 additional works. A thorough exploration of these, or of such of them as are poetical, would be necessary to trace her hymns with accuracy. They, however, are more numerous than important. Many have been used in the older collections; some are still in use, but few are extensively and none are universally so. Tho principal hymn-books in which they appeared were the Congregational Village Hys., 1824; Ripley's Sci., 1829; and the Connecticut Ps. & Hys., 1845; the Baptist Additional Hys. by Winchell, 1832; and Linsley and Davis's Select Hys., 1836; and the Universalist's Hys. for Christian Devotion, by Adams & Chapin, 1846. Her best known hymns chronologically erranged are:-

1. When adverse winds and waves arise. In Affliction. A graceful lyric, possibly inspired by Sir R. Grant's "When gathering clouds around I view." It appeared with four others of less importance by Mrs. Sigourney, in Dr. L. Bacon's (p. 105, ii.) Hys. and Sac. Sungs for the Monthly Cancert, Andover, Sept. 1823. It

Sings for the monanty contert, America, Lept.

2. Blest Comforter divine. Whitsuntide. This is one of four hymns by Mrs. Sigourney, which appeared in Nettleton's Village Hymns, 1824, under the signature of "H." It is sometimes altered to "Thou Comforter divine." Her best hymn.

divine." Her best hymn.

3. We mourn for those who tall. Death and Buriat.
This poem on "Mistaken Grief" appeared in Chesver's
Common Place Book, 1831. It is in a few English collections, including the Leads H. Bk., 1833.

4. Chosee we His Gross to bear. Holy Baptism.
This was given in Ripley's Sel., 1829-31.

5. Saviour, Thy law we leve. Holy Baptisms. In Winchell's Additional Hys., 1832.

6. Onward, on ward, men of heaven. Hissions. This

Winchell's Additional Hys., 1832.

6. Onward, onward, men of heaven. Hissions, This missionary hymn appeared in three different books in 1833, including the Christian Lyre Supp., &c., It is in C. U. in Great Britain (Kennedy, 1863, &c.).

7. Zabourers of Christ, arise. Home Hissions. This was contributed, with nine others, by Mrs. Sigourier, to Lineley & Davis's Select Hymns, 1826. This is one of the nost widely made of her hymns.

the most widely used of her hymns.

8. Pastor, thou art from us taken. Buriel of a Minister. Sung at the funeral of the Rev. G. F. Davis, D.D., circa 1836.

9. Go to thy rest, my [fair] child. Death of a Child. From a Selection from her poems pub, in London in

10. Not for the summer hour sione. Holy Matrimony. In the same Selection as No. 9.

11. Where wilt thou put thy frust! Leaning upon God. In the Connecticut Cong. Ps. & Hys., 1845.

13. Lord, may the spirit of this feast. Hoty Cont.

numion. In the same as No. 11.

13. We praise Thee if one rescued soul. Temperance denivertory. In Adams and Chapin's Hys. for Christian Devotion, 1846.

In addition to these hymns there are several others in the collections named above. As, however, they are not repeated in modern hymn-books they are omitted from this list. We would add that two hymns, not noted above, "Little raindrops feed the rill" (Power of little things), and "There was a noble ark," are in C. U. in G. Britain; and that a selection of her pieces is given in the Lyra Sac. Amer., Lond., 1868. [F. M. B.]

Eilence in the house of prayer. T. Gurney. [Easter Eve.] Pub. in his Bk. of Precise, or Hys. for Divine Worship, 1862, in 6 st. of 4 l. In 1864 it was repeated, unaltered, in Lyra Messianica, and ugain in the 1869

Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys., with the omission of st. il. [J. J.]

Simpson, Jane Cross, née Bell, dau. of James Bell, Advocate, of Glasgow, was b. Nov. 12, 1811. She contributed several pieces to The Edinburgh Liberary Journal, of which her brother, Henry G. Bell, was editor. under the nom de plume of Gertrude; and later to the Scottish Christian Herald. She was married in 1837 to her cousin, Mr. J. B. Simpson, of Glasgow; and d. June 17, 1886. Her publications are:—(1) The Piety of Daily Life, 1886; (2) April Hours, 1838; (3) Wo-man's History, 1848; (4) Linda, or Beauty and Genius, 1859; (5) Picture Poems, 1879; (6) Linda, and other Poems, 1879. hymns in C. U. are:—

1. Go when the merning shineth. Prayer. This appeared in The Edinburgh Literary Journal, Feb. 26, 1831, in 4 st. of 8 l., and again in her April Hours, 1338, in 3 st. The full text from Mrs. Simpson's Ms. was given in Lyra Brilannica, 1367, p. 507. It is extensively used. It is sometimes erroneously attributed to "Lord Morpeth;" and again to "Lord Carliele."

3. I had a lesson to teach them. The Death of Children. Contributed to Dr. Rogen's Lyra Brilannica, 1867, p. 508, in 2 st. of 4 l. It was repeated in full in Martinesu's Homan. de., 1873.

Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873.
3. Star of morning, brightly shining. For use at Sea. Given in E. Prout's Prolosist, 1878.

Sec. Given in E. Prout's Francisco,
4. Star of peace to wanderers weary. For those at
8. Written in 1830, and given in the Scottish Eveng,
[J. J.]

Simson, Patrick, b. Oct. 2, 1628, at New-Abbey, near Dumfries, studied at the University of Edinburgh, and was ordained Parish Minister of Renfrew in 1658. He was Moderator of the General Assembly in 1695-96, and d. at Renfrew, Oct. 24, 1715. His poetical pieces were pub. as Spiritual Sanga; or, Holy Poems. A Garden of true Delight. Edin-burgh, A. Anderson, for J. Gibson, Glasgow, 1685-86. These poems are divided into six books. A selection from this work, after revision, was formally sanctioned by the General Assembly of 1708 for use in public worship, but seems never to have been issued. [See Scottish Hymnody, 1v. § 3.] The Aberdeen reprint (1757) of the Spiritual Songs contains a second part given as a Supplement, entitled Some Scriptural Hymns, elected from sundry Passages of Holy Writ, 61 of which are from the O. T. and 48 from the N. T. These hymns are by the Rev. John Forbes, who in 1717 was ordained minister of the parish of Pitaligo, Aberdeenshire, became minister of Old Deer in 1718, and d. April 29, 1769.

Sinae sub alto vertice. Jean Baptiste de Santeül. [For Evangelists.] Appeared in the Cluniae Brev., 1686, p. viii.; in his Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 198 (ed. 1698, p. 241); and the Paris Brev., 1736, as the hymn at Lands for the Feasts of St. Mark and St. Luke. The text is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 91; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as :-

From Sinai's trembling peak. By E. Caswall, in his Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 321, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 183. It is repeated in the 1863 Appendix to the H. Noted, the Hymnary. 1872, &c.

Translations not in C. U. :--

1. When from the mount the Law was given. I,

Williams, in the British Mag. Feb., 1837; and his Hya, tr. from the Paristan Brev. 1839. 2. The Law on Sinal's flery height. J. Chandler.

1837 and 1841.

3. From thundering skies at Sinai's rock. Rp. R.

Host. 1837. 4. Where Singl towers, while thunder peaked. W. J.

Bless. 1852-55.
5. 'Mid thundrings loud, from Sinal's rock. J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1852.

[J. J.]

Since Jesus freely did appear. J. Berridge. [Holy Matrimony.] Appeared in the Gospel Magazine for Aug. 1775, p. 380, in 6 st. of 4 l., headed with the text St. John ii. 1, 2, followed by the words "A Wodding Hymn," and signed "Old Everton." It was afterwards included in his Zion's Songs, 1785, as "Our Jesus freely did appear." It is given in modern hymn-books generally in an altered form, with varying number of stanzes. [J. J.]

Since the dear hour that brought me to Thy foot. [Faith in Christ.] The closing lines of W. Cowper's poem, entitled Truth, which was pub, in his Poems, 1782, read as follows:—

"All joy to the believer! He can speak—
Trembling yet happy, confident yet meek.
Since the dear hour that brought me to Thy foot,
And cut off all my follies by the root,
I never treated in an arm but Thine,
Nor hoped, but in Thy righteoususes divine:
My prayers and alms, imperfect and defiled,
Were but the feeble efforts of a child;
Howe'er perform'd, it was their brightest part,
That they proceeded from a grateful hear;
Cleansed in Thine own all-purifying blood,
Forgive their evil, and accopt their good;
I cast them at Thy feet—my only plas
I awhat it was, dependence upon Thee,
While struggling in the vale of tears below.
That never fail'd, nor shall it fall me now.
Angelle gratulations rend the skies,

Humility is crown'd and Fath receives the prize."

On these lines the Rev. J. G. Pike, Baptist minister at Derby, based a cento in 5 st. of 6 l., the first of which reads:—

Pride falls unpitied, never more to rise,

"Jesus, if Then hast brought me to Thy foot, And cut up all my follies by the root, No'er many I frust in any arm but Thiue, Nor hope but in Thy righteourness divine: in life, in death, be this my only pice, That Then on Culvary didtal die for me!"

The italics show the changes made by Mr. Pike in adapting these opening lines for public worship. The remaining lines are similarly treated, and the result is a most plessing and devotional hymn. It was let pub in a hymn-

8 st. of 6 l. St. ii, and iii. are almost entirely new. This text, with slight alterations, was repeated in Kennedy, 1863. [J. J.]

Sing to the Lord a joyful song. J. S. B. Mousell. (Morning.) This hymn, based on Ps. cxlv. 1, 2, appeared in his Hys. of Lors and Praise, 1863, p. i. in 5 st. of 8 l. it was repeated with slight variations in his Spiritual Songs, 1869, and again in his Parish Hymnal, 1873, No. 13. The text in C. U., as in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; Thring's Coll., 1882, and others, is that of 1863.

Sing to the Lord a new-made song, Great miracles to Him, &c. B. H. Kennedy. (Ps. zwiii.) Appeared in his Pealler, or Ps. of David, &c., 1860, p. 155, in 7 st. of 3 l., and again, with a doxology, in his Hymno. Christ., 1863, in 4 st. of 6 l. [J. J.]

Sing to the Lord a new-made song; Let all in one, &c. H. F. Lyte. [Ps. zeri.] Pub. in his Spirit of the Peulma, 1884, as the 2nd version of the 96th Ps., in 3 st. of 8 l., and again in other bymn-books. [J. J.]

Sing to the Lord a new-made song, Who wondrous things, &c. Tate & Brady. [Ps. zcviii.] This N. V. (1696) paraphrase of Ps. 98 is not in C. U. The cento given in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, as No. 98, is composed of st. i.-iv. from this paraphrase, and st. v., vi., of Bp. Mant's version of the same psalm, 1824. [J. J.]

Sing to the Lord of harvest. J. S. B. Monseli. [Harvest.] Pub. in the 2nd ed. of his Hys. of Love and Praise, 1866, in 4 st. of 81 and, again, altered to "Sing to the Lord of bounty," in his Parish Hymnal, 1873. Both forms of the text are in C. U. in G. Britain and America. In his Parish Hymnal, Dr. Monsell appointed this hymn for Rogation

Sing to the Lord with joyful voice. I. Watts. [Ps. c.] 1st pub. in his Paulus of David, &c., 1719, p. 256, in 6 st. of 4 l. In this form its use in modern collections is limited; that which has attained to the greatest popularity being—"Before Jehovah's awful throne." This arrangement is by J. Wesley, and was 1st pub. in his Ps. & Hys., at Charlestown, U.S.A., in 1786-7, p. 5, and repeated in J. & C. Wesley's Ps. & Hus., 1741.

Sing we the song of those who stand. J. Montgomery. [Communion of Sainte.] Written for the Whitsuntide guthering of the Sheffield Sunday School Union, 1824, and first printed for that occasion. It was included in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 560; and, again, in his Original Hya., 1853, No. 200, in 6 st. of 4 l., and headed, in both instances, "The Church Militant learning the Church Triumphant's Song." It is in somewhat extensive use. See also, Worthy the Lamb for sinners slain. [J, J.]

Sing, ye faithful, sing with gladness.

J. Ellerton. [Christmas.] 1st pub. in the Rev. R. Brown-Borthwich's Sixteen Hys. for Church and Home, 1870, in 8 st. of 6 l., with the refrain, "Evermore and evermore." It is repeated, unaltered, in the Brown-Borthwick Select Hys. for Church and Home, 1871. This form of the hymn is the authorized text. In the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, it was given, with slight alterations, and the omission of st. ii.-iv., and the refrain. This hymn is partly an imitation of Prudentius's "Da puer pleatrum" (p. 276, i.)

Singen wir aus Hersensgrund. [Grace after Meat.] Wackernagel, i., p. 776, citus this as No. 6 of Schöuer geistlicher Lieder achte, printed at Erfurt, 1563; but at iv., p. 579, he prints the text from the Hundert Christenliche Haussgesang, Nürnberg, 1569: and from J. Eichorn's Geistliche Lieder, Frankfurt a. O., 1569, in 6 st. of 7 l. The broadsheet, Nürnberg, eds., which, in his Bibliographie, 1855, pp. 279, 808, he had dated 1556 and 1560, he afterwards said were of later date. Mützell. No. 559, prints it from a 1568 ed. of Eichorn's G. B. It is found in Porst's G. B., ed. 1855, No. 681. It has sometimes been erroneously ascribed to E. Alber, to B. Ringwaldt, or to N. Selnecker. Tr. as:-

(1) "Now give thanks ye old and young." By J. C. Jacobi, 1726, p. 62 (1732, p. 181). Included in the Maratian H. Bk., 1754, pk. i., No. 316; but only partly repeated in later case. e.g. 1886, No. 1797, where only the st. beginning, "Praise our God, it is but just," is from this bymn.

[J. M.]

Singer, Elizabeth. Pealtors, English, p. 925, i.]

Singleton, Robert Corbet, M.A., b. Oct. 9, 1810, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin; B.A. 1830; M.A. 1833. He was for some time Warden of St. Columba College, near Dublin; and subsequently First Warden of St. Peter's College, Radley, from 1847 to 1851. In 1851 he retired to Monkstown, near Dublin; and then to York, where he d. in 1881. In 1868 he pub. In conjunction with Dr. E. G. Monk, the Anglican Hymn Book (2nd ed. 1871). To that collection he contributed a large number of tra from the Latin. a few from the German, and the following original bymna:-

- As James the Great, with glowing real. St. James.
   Beneath the fig-tree's greateful shade. St. Bar-
- S. From out the deep, O Lord, on Theo. For those at wa. 4. Good Lord! who hast the weighty woes. Sena-
- gering.
  5. Hail! highly favoured, blessed Maid. Annua-
- 6. How blest the union, gracious Lord. SS, Simon and Jude. In 1871 it reads, "How blest the unity, good

- 1. In weakness great, and strong in hidden might, St. Peter.
  - 9. Lord, ever shew Toy blessed face. Evening.
    10. Lord, give us of that fervent love. St. Thomas.
- 10. Lord, give us of that here invest sive. 3s. Francis.
  11. Lord, see how swelling crowds arise. Fs. sis.
  12. Lo, see and land their gifts outpour. St. Matthew.
  13. O all ye people, clap your hands. Fs. sivit.
  14. O is it mought to you who treat? Theseloy before
- Easter.
  15. O Lord, how excellent Thy name. Ps. viii.
  16. The Cross upraised on Calvary's height. Good Produy. 17. The Father show us, gracious Lord. SS. Phüip

- 17. The Father show us, gracious Lord. SS. Philip and James. 18. The Lord hath qualled the rebel powers. Easter. 19. The Lord, He gave the word. Septuagesina. 20. The moraling light hath abed its beams. Meroing. 21. Thy dear disciple on the sea. St. John the Soun-
- 22. When fairest Eve in Eden rose. Hely Matrimony. 23. Who comes from Edom, with His robes. Monday
- before Easter.
  24. Why storm the beathen? Wherefore do they Pi. ii.
- ring? Ps. ii.
  25. Why, weary mourner, shed the conscienc tear?
  Ranguation.
- 26. With gladsome feet we press. Frocessional.
  27. Within a chamber, calm and still. St. Matthias.
  28. With me is Luke, alone of all. St. Luke.
- These bymns were all contributed to the let ed. of the Anglican H. Bk., 1868, and very few of them are found elsewhere. Sinner, O why so thoughtless grown.

I. Watts and J. Rippon. [Expostulation.] In I. Watts's, Horn Lyrica, 1706, Bk. ii., there is a poem, "To the Right Honourable John Cuts, at the Siege of Namur:" and entitled, "The Hardy Soldier." It begins, "O why is man so thoughtless grown," and extends to 6 st. of 4 l. Dr. Rippon, in his Sel., 1787, No. 581, gave st. i., iv., v., in a very much altered form, and succeeded in producing a hymn which has been somewhat popular, as follows:-

L. Walte, 1706. "O why is man so thoughtlees grown!

Why, guilty souls, in haste to die? Vent'ring the leap t' worlds

Unknows, Heedless to arms and blood they dy. " But fremry dares eternal

And spury'd with ho-nour's airy dreams, Flies to attack th' infernal gate. And force a passage to the flames.

Thus hovering o'er Na-muria's plains, Sung beavinly love in Gabriel's form:

left the Young Thraso morning strains, And you'd to pray before the storm.

J. Rippon, 1787. " Sinner, O why so thoughtless grown? Why in such dreadful baste to die? During to leap to worlds meknown, Heedless against the God to fly?

Will thou despite eternal fate, Urg'd on by sin's fanlastic dresm

Nadly attempt th' infernal gate, And force thy passage to the flames?

"Siay, sinner: on the gos-psi plains
Behold the God of love unfold
The glories of His dying pains.

For ever leiling, yet un-told."

Dr. Rippon's form of the text was repeated in some of the older collections, and is still found in a few modern hymn-books in G. Britain and America.

Sinners, obey the gospel word. C. Wesley. [Invitation.] Pub in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1749, vol. i., No. 155, in 10 st. of 4 l., and based upon St. Luke xiv. 17. (P. Works, 1988 P. and 198 1868-72, vol. v. p. 63.) In his note on this hymn, Mr. G. J. Stevenson says:--

"In John Westey's 'Plain Account of Christian Perfection,' the author makes the fullowing statement: 'In the year 1749, my brother printed two volumes of Hysint and Sacred Poems. As I did not see them before they were published, there were some things in

In the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, the text of this hymn was given in full, and without altera-tion, as No. 9. It was repeated in later editions, and also passed, in the same form, into several collections in G. Britain and America. In addition the following abbreviations and centos are in C. U.:~-

1. Sizners, obey the georal word. This abbreviation in het. (st. 1.-iv., vt.) was given in G. Whitefield's Hys. for Social Worship, 1763, No. 5; M. Madan's Ps. 4 Hys., 1764; Bickerstein's Christian Pealsmody, 1883, and others, to modern books.

3. Cone, now, ye wanteress, to your Ged. This begins with at. vi. with atterations, and is given in several American collections, including the Physical Cold., 1985, and others.

3. Come, C ye sinners, to the Lord. This also begins with st. vi., altered, and is in several American collec-

4. Come, weary scale, in Christ your Lord. This, in Rp. Bickersteth's H. Comp., is composed of st. iv., vi., ix., x., slightly altered.

5. 0 cense, ye cinners.

12. N., singuity stered.

$. 0 comes, ye einners, to the Lard. In the American
Hys. and Songs of Praise, N.Y., 1974, No. 433, in composed of at. vi.-x. slightly altered.

8. Ye stansors, bear the gospel word. This, in Henmaily, 1863, is from the former part of the hymn, with

$. | bit. II. b-R, added by Dr. Kennedy. This cento is adapted for Holy Communion.

This hymn has a wide acceptance (in its full form, and in these its several parts) both in G. Britain and America.

Sinners, the call obey, The latest call of grace. C. Wesley. [In Time of National Danger.] This byun was written under the same circumstances as " Sovereign of all. Whose will ordains" (p. 1966, il.), and was pub. in the same tract, Hymns for Times of Trouble and Persecution, 1st ed., 1744, in 8 st. of 8 l. (P. Works, 1968-72, vol. iv. p. 12). In the Wes. H. Hk., 1780, st. v.-vii. from this hymn, and st. v., vi. from C. Wesley's "Tremendous Lord of earth and sky," pub. in Hys. Decasioned by the Earthquake, March 8, 1750: Lord., 1750, were given as No. 441, as a hymn "For England," beginning, "Terrible God and true." In the 2nd ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., 1781, this cento was replaced by et. i., if., vi.-vifi., as "Sinners, the call obey," and this was retained until the revised ed. of 1875, when it was replaced by "Jesus, the word bestow" (Home Missions), which had been previously pub. from the Wesley MSS. in the 1830 Supplement to the Wes. H. Bk., No. 706 (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. xiii., p. 22). [J. J.]

Sinners, turn; why will ye die P. C. Wesley. [Expossilation.] Appeared in Hys. on God's Everlasting Love, 1741, in 16 st. of 8 1., and based upon Ezekiel xviii. 31. (P. Works, 1864-72, vol. iii. p. 84.) In the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, 12 st. were given as three separate based. rate hymns:-

Sinners, turn; why will ye die? No. 6.
 Let the beach their breath resign. No. 7.
 What could your Redsemer do. No. 8.

And these have been repented in numerous collections in G. Britain and America. In the American Meth. Episco. Hymns, 1849, there is also a cento, "Sinners, turn while God is near," beginning with st. xv. [J. J.]

Skinner, James, M.A., son of the Very Rev. John Skinner, Dean of Dunkeld and Dunblane, and grandson of Bishop Skinner of Aberdeen, was b. June 28, 1818, and educated at the University of Durham, B.A. 1887, M.A. 1840, and subsequently a Fellow of his University. Taking boly orders in 1841, he became a Chaplain to Her Majesty's forces in 1844. He was subsequently Curate of St. Barnabas, Pimlico, Vicar of Newland, and Warden of the Beauchamp Charity. Through warren of the Beauchamp Charity. Through ill-health he retired from parochial work in 1877, and d. in Dec. 1881. His pub. works include (1) A Guide to Advent; (2) A Guide to Lent; (3) Warnings and Consolutions; (4) an Office of Spiritual Communion; and (5) Colestia. This last is a versified tr. of the arms alled Manual of 2t Augustin in 22 -2so-called Manual of St. Augustine in 86 odes. Mr. Skinner's Daily Service Hymnal, was pub. in 1863. To this collection he contributed several tes. from the Latin, and two or three original hymns, including "The Seven Cononical Hours of the Passion," adapted from other sources:--

Matina, Jern, Lord, at dead of night. Materia, Jesu, Lord, at dead of hight.
Frime. Jesu, Lord, at hour of Prime.
Fierce, Jesu, Lord, for sine of mine.
Sect. Jesu, Lord, Who three long hours.
Nones, Jesu, Lord, with bleeding hrow.
Vespert, Jesu, at the Vesper hour.
Chaptine. Jesu, at the Vesper hour.

These hymns were subsequently transferred to the Appx of the Hymnol N. Usually Skinner's tre. are not found beyond the Daily Service Hypanal. [J. J.]

Slain for my soul, for all my sins defamed. H. Kynuston. [Good Friday.] Pub. in his Comstonal Hymns, 2nd Series. Pt. ii. Chiefly on the Miracles: 1866, p. 11, in 6 at. of 4 l., and headed "Lord, remember me." In 1872 it was repeated in the Hymenry, with the emission of St. iv. The same text is in the American Church Praise Bk., 1882. [J.J.]

Slatter, James, was b. at Oxford in 1790. and spent his life in that city. He was a layman, in business, and a member of the Baptist church in the New Road. He d. May 22, 1862. Mr. Slatter wrote a book entitled "Rural Pictures," which however was only circulated privately. He also wrote many hymns, which were never published, and two, which appeared in the Bap. New Selection, 1828: (1) "Great God, to thee, a lowly band" (Sunday Scholars' Hyma). (2)
"Through Nature's temple, large and wide" (Divine Worship). [W. R. S.]

Slavery and death the cup contains. L. M. Surgent. [Temperance.] Mr. Nutter says in his Hymn Studies, &c., N. Y., 1884, Bys. in his hymn states, ac., N. 1., 1807, p. 347, "This hymn was written during the Washingtonian Temperance Revival." It appeared in Adams and Chapin's Unitarian Hys. for Christian Devotion, Boston, U.S.A., 1846, No. 793, in 4 st. of 4 l. In the American Meth. Episco. Hymnal, 1878, it begins "Bondage and death the cup contains." The author, Lucius Manlius Sargent (b. 1788, d. 1867) was an earnest advocate of Temperance, and the author of Temperance Tales, and other for July 1779 a hymn in 9 st. of 4 1, was given for July 1713 a hymn in Set. of 21. was given beginning "God with us! O glorious Name;" headed "Emanuel; or, God with us. By a Lady," and signed "S. S.—N." In Rippon's Bap. Set. 1787, st. i. ii. vi. iii. iv. with alterations, and in the order named, were given as No. 174, but without signature. In J. Dobell's New Sel., 1806, the same text is repeated as from Wood's Col. The same text was again repeated to modern hymn-books, and is that now in C. U. From D. Sedgwick's uss. we find the signature "S. S.—N." was filled in as Sarah Slinn by him, but his papers do not furnish any authority for the name, nor for the date of 1777 which he has attached thereto in his Ms, note to Dobell's New Sel. [J. J.]

Sloan, John Morrison, M.A., eldest s. of John Sloan, farmer of Stairaird, near Mauchline, Ayrshire was b. at Stairaird, May 19, 1835. He studied at the Universities of Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Erlangen, and graduated M.A. at Edinburgh in 1859. In 1864 he became collegiate minister of the Free Church, Dalkeith; in 1868 minister of the South Free Church, Aberdeen; in 1878. collegiate minister of Anderston Free Church, Glasgow; and is now (1800) minister of the Grange Free Church, Edinburgh. He contributed 8 trs. from the German to the Rev. J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865, 2 of which have since appeared in Mr. Wilson's Songe of Zion, 1877, and I in the Free Church H. Bk., 1882. The best known of these is his tr. of "Wie herrlich strahlt der Morgenstern" (see p. 1010, i.). He also contributed a hymn beginning "O Shepherd, good and gracious" of the Good Shepherd) in $ st. of 8 lines, as No. 126 to Wayside Songs for Young Translers Zionward (Paisley: N.D. 1881) a hymnal compiled by the Rev. Dr. J. Black of Inverness primarily for his own Sunday School. [J. M.]

Smith, Caroline Louisa, née Sprague, was b. at Salem, Massachusetts, and married to the Rev. Charles Smith, pastor of the South Congregational Church, Andover. Mrs. Smith is the author of:-

is the author of:

Tarry with me, 0 my Savisus. An Old Mun's Prayer.
Mrs. Smith's account of this hymn is "About the year 1853 (in the summer of 1852). I heard the Rov. Dr.
H. M. Dexker preach a sarmon on The Adaptedness of Religion to the Wants of the Aged. I went home and embodied the thought in the hymn 'Tarry with me, 0 my Savisur' I sent it to Mr. Haibock, for The Mexenger. He returned it as 'not adapted to the readers of the paper.' Years after I sent it, without any signature, to the little Andover paper . . . I send it to you in its original form, in a little paper of which my sister, Mrs. Terry (Rochester, N.Y.), is editoress." (Haifield's Poets of the Church, N.Y., 1884, 564.) Hatfield gives the full text in 7 st. of 6 I. In the Physical & Oli., 1855, No. 1327, in 6 st. of 4 I., was complied from at i., il., vl., vii. This was repeated in The Sabbath H. Bk., 1888, and others. Of this text
st. ii. is sometimes omitted.

Smith, Charitie Lees. [Beneroft, C. L.]

Smith, Elizabeth Lee, née Allen, daughter of Dr. W. Allen, President of Dartmouth University (p. 80, i.), was b. in 1817, and married in 1848 to Dr. H. B. Smith, who became Professor in Union Theological Seminary, N. York, in 1850, and d. in 1877. Linnaean Society from its foundation in 1788 Mrs. Smith's hymns, including trs. of "Je Te to the time of his death. He was knighted salue" (p. 579, i.), "O Jesus Christus" (p. 666, when the Prince Regent became, in 1814, a Slinn, Sarah. In the Gospel Magazine | ii.), are in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869 and r July 1779 a hymn in 9 st. of 4 ), was given | 1870. [F. M. B.]

Smith, George, p.p., Secretary of the Congregational Union, began his ministry at Liverpool in 1827, and passed on first to Plymouth, and then to Trinity Chapel, Poplar, London (1842). He is the author of The Domestic Prayer Book, 1848; Sermone, 1851; Lefe Spiritual, 1855; Lectures on the Domestic Passes, 1855; Lectures on the Contest of the Pentateuch, 1863, &c. He also compiled during his residence at Plymouth a Supplement to Watts's Pe. & Hys., & which he contributed :-- which were included in the New Cong. 1859 (Miller's S. and S. of the Church, 1869, p. 552).

1. Come in, ye chosen of the Lord. Admission of Church Henbert. 2. Thou art, O Christ, the Way. Christ the Way, the Truth, and the Life.

Smith, Isaac Gregory, M.A., S. of Rev. Jeremial Smith, p.D., was b, at Manchester, Nov. 21, 1826, and educated at Rugby and Trinity, Oxford, where he held both the Heriford (1846), and Ireland (1847) scholar-ships, B.A. 2nd cl. Let. Hum. 1849. Taking boly orders, he was preferred to the rectory of Tedstone-de-la-Mere, Hertfordshire, 1854; and the Vicarage of Great Malvern, 1872. 1852 to 1855 he held a fellowship at Brasenose, Oxford, and was also Bampton Lecturer in 1873, his subject being The Characteristics of Christian Morality. In 1870 he became Probendary of Pratum Minus in Hereford Cathedral, in 1882 Rural Dean of Powick, and examining Chaplain to the Bp. of St. David's, and in 1887 Hon. Canon of Worcester. Prebendary Smith has pub., in addition to his Bampton Lectures, an Epitome of the Life of Our Blessed Saviour, &c., Fra Angelico and other Paems, and other works. He has also contributed hymns to the collection of which he was co-editor, and to the Rev. O. Shipley's Lyras. In preparing A Hyran Book for the Services of the Church, and for Private Reading, Lond., Parker, 1855, 2nd ed., 1857, he was assisted by his brother John George Smith, Barrister-at-Law, and the Rev. W. S. Raymond. To this collection Canon Smith contributed:

By Jeen's grave on either hand. Easter Eas.
 The tide of years (time) is rolling on. The Circumcision and the New Year.

and a tr. of "Adeste Fideles" (p. 18, i. 17). In addition to these the following are in the Westminster Abbey H. Bk., 1884:—

2. Adown the river, year by year. Second Adrend Desired.

4. Comes at times a stillness as of even. Death Anti-cipated. Written for the unveiling of the Albert Memorial in Edinburgh, and set to music by Sir H. S.

Oakeiey.
5. The day-beam dies Bahind you cloud.

There is also in Pt. ii. "For Reading," in the Hymn Book of 1855, a sweet hymn on Heasen beginning "Come away, where are no shadows in a glass."

Smith, Sir James Edward, b. at Norwich Dec. 2, 1759; d. March 17, 1828. A distinguished botsnist, and President of the Patron of the Society. Smith studied medicine at Edinburgh, and, in 1786, graduated as a physician at Leyden. After further travels abroad he finally settled down at Norwich in 1797. He pub. English Botany in 36 vols. (beginning in 1790) and various other botanical works. He was also a large contributor to Rees's Encyclopaedia. The friend of Dr. Eufield and John Taylor, he was also a member of the congregation meeting in the Octagon Chapel, Norwich, and a subscriber to the British and Foreign Uniterian Association. He contributed 3 hymns to A Selection of Hys. for Public Worship, Norwich, 1814 (printed for the Octagon Chapel); and 6 others to the Suppl. added to the 2nd ed., 1826. Of these the following are in Dr. Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1840; his Hymns, &c., 1873, and other Unitarian collections:-

- 1. Adore, my soul, that awful Name (1814). Depend-
- ence upon God.

  2. As twilight's gradual veil is spread (1814). Noture and Amnortabile.

  3. Holy, wise, eternal Father (1826). The Maneions of the Biessed.
- 4. How glorious are those orbs of light (1826). Nature and Immortality.

  5. Praise walts in Zion, Lord, for Thee (1826). Public

- Tempt was in them.

  Northing.

  6. When power divine in mortal form (1826). Confidence in God.

  7. Who shall a temple build for Him (1828). God's Tempte in the Heart.

  [V. D. D.]

Smith, Joseph Denham, was b. at Romsey, Hants, circa 1816. After studying for some time in the Dublin Theological Institute, he entered the Congregational Ministry in 1840. In 1849 he became Pastor of the Congregational Church at Kingstown, near Dublin, and in 1863 began a series of services at Merrion Hall, Dublin, and subsequently at other places. His Evangeliatio work in England and Ireland is well known. In connection therewith he has published a large number of tracts, pamphlets, and small books. One of these, Times of Refreshing Mustrated in the Present Revival of Religion, 1860, included several of his hymns which were sung during that time at his special services at Kingstown. He also pub. Seven Hymns for the Present Time, circa 1870-6; and The New Times of Refreshing. Hys. for General and Special Use. Compiled by J. Denters of the Compiled by J. Denters ham Smith. Lond.: J. E. Hawkins, N.D. In this collection his signed hymns are 36 in all, and deal with the subjects usually associated with what are known as "Gospol Hymns." There are several also in The Enlarged London H. Bk., 1873. His hymn "Just as Thou art—how wondrons fair" (1869) is in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, and "Yes, we part, but not for ever" (Parting), in several minor collections. Mr. Smith's hymns have not been incorporated into the leading hymnals of G. Britain or America.

Smith, Samuel Francis, p.p., was b. in Boston, U.S.A., Oct. 21, 1808, and graduated in arts at Harvard, and in theology at Andover. He entered the Baptist ministry in 1832, and became the same year editor of the Baptist Missionary Magazine. He also contributed to the Encyclopedia Americana. From 1834 to 1842 he was pastor at Water-From 1834 to 1842 he was pastor at water-ville, Maine, and Professor of Modern Lan-guages in Waterville College. In 1842 he peared in the Hys. for the Vestry and Provide, 1844.

removed to Newton, Massachusetts, where he remained until 1854, when he became the editor of the publications of the Baptist Missionary Union. With Baron Stow he prepared the Baptist collection known as The Psalmist, pub. in 1843, to which he contributed several hymns. The Psalmist is the most creditable and influential of the American Baptist collections to the present day. Dr. Smith also pub. Lyric Gene, 1854, Rock of Ages, 1870, &c. A large number of his hymns are in use in America, and several have passed into some of the English collections. Taking his hymns in C. U. in alphabetical order, we have the following:

I. And now the solemn dood is done. Ordination. Given in The Praisoist, 1843, No. 954. In Dr. Hatfield's Ch. H. Bk., N. Y., 1872, it is altered to "The solemn service now is done."

service now is done."

3. As flaws the rapid river. Life Parsing Away. In Cariatian Praimody, 1833, No. 334 the Ays. for the Vestry and Fireride, Boston, 1841; and The Psalmid, 1843, No. 1850. Found in a few English hymn-books, and in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1868.

4. Associous morning, hall, American National Americansersary. Written for July 4th, 1841, and pub. in The Praimick. 1843. No. 1007.

Anstornatory, Written for July 4th, 1841, and pub. in The Praimiet, 1843, No. 1007.

1. Boyund where Cedron's waters flow. Cethermone. In L. Becon's Appendix, 1833; the Praimiet, 1843, No. 220, and later collections.

5. Bleat is the hour when cares depart. Divine Worthip. In The Padavist, 1843, No. 947, and others.
6. Constrained by love we follow where. Holy Baptism. Appeared in the Eaptist ed. of the Plymosth Baptain. Appeared in the Baptain. Appeared in the Baptain. Contributed to Winchell's Additional Hys. added to his Coll. of 1817, in 1832, No. 510; repeated in The Pacinist, 1843, No. 518, and in several collections. Also in Lyra See Americans. 1888.

1843, No. 313, and in several collections. Also in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1888.

8. Hail; ye days of solamn meeting, Public Worthip, An altered form of No. 25 below, in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bl., 1886, as an "American Hymn, 1840."

9. How blest the hour when first we gave. Holy Baptien. Appeared in the Baptist ed. of the Physicath H. Bk., 1857, No. 1468.

10. How calmly wakes the hallowed morn. Holy Baptism. Given in The Pacheist, 1843, No. 310, in later collections, and in Lyra Sac. Asserticana, 1868.

11. Jesus, Thou heat freely saved us. Scination, in Winchell's Additional Hym., 1832, No. 503, and others.

12. Mochly in Jordan's Holy Stream. Holy Baptisms. Contributed to The Pathonist, 1843, No. 389.

13. My country, 'tis of thes. National Hymn. Written in 1832, and first sung at a children's Fourth of July celebration in Park Street church, Boston." Included in the Pathonist, 1843, No. 1909, and found in along number of American hymn-books, but not in gas large number of American hymn-books, but not in use in G. Britain. It is one of the most popular of Dr. Smith's compositions, Text, with note in Larca Sac, Americana, 1866.

14. O not my own thate variant hills. Bought with a Price. Appeared in Kason's Cong. H. Rk., 1887, and given in Landes Boussis, 1884.

15. Osward speed thy conquering flight. Missions. Appeared in The Pacinsts, 1983, No. 892, and is found in several modern collections in G. Britain and America.

In several movement of the state of the Also in Igra Sec. Americana, 1868.

16. Planted in Christ, the living Vina. Christian Pellouchip; or, For Duily, Given in The Paulmin, 1843, No. 929, in Igra Sec. Americana, 1868, and several hymn-books. Of the hymns contributed by Dr. Smith to The Peulmint this is the best, and one of the most popular.

17. Remember thy Creator. Fouthful Piety Enforced. In Christian Psalmody, 1832, No. 32; the Hys. for the Vestry and Fireside, 1841; The Prolimit, 1843, No. 778; Lyra Sac. Americana, 1888, and other collections.

collections. collections.

18. Sixter, then wart mild and levely. Death and Burial. Written on the death of Miss J. M. C., of Monnt Vernos School, Boston, July 12, 1833, and pnb. in The Pasimitt, 1843, No. 1886.

19. Boithy fades the twilight ray, Sunday Exening. Written in 1832, and included in The Pasimitt, 1843.

No. 56. Also in Lyra Sac. Americana, and several

No. 295, and again in The Pealmist, 1843, No. 334. In the Unitarian Hys. for the Church of thritt, Boston, 1853. St. il., lit., iv. were given as "Spirit of God, Thy churches wait." This form of the text and the Thy churches wait." This form of the text and the original are both in modern hymn-books.

Il. Spirit of peace and holiness. Institution of a Minister. Appeared to The Psalmist, 1843, No. 253, and Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872.

In the morning light is breaking. Missions. Written in 1832, and included in Hastings's Spiritual Songs, 1832-33, No. 253, and The Psalmist, 1843, No. 212. This hymn is very popular and has been translated into several languages. Dr. Smith says of it that "It has been a great favourite at missionary gatherings, and I have myself heatd it amg in five or six different languages in Europe and Asia. It is a favourite with the Bormans, Karens, and Telegus in Asia, from whose lips I have beard it repeatedly." (Duffield's English Rys., 1886, p. 534.) Full text in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1668.

23. The Prime of Salvation in triumph is riding.

Missions. Given in Hastings and Mason's Spiritual Songs, 1832-33, No. 274; The Patients, 1843, and later

24. Tis done, the (important) solemn set is done. Ordination. Appeared in The Paulmist, 1843, No. 951, and later hymn-books.

25. To-day the Savinur calls. Invitation. First aketch by Dr. Smith, the revised text, as in Mastings sketch by Dr. Smith, the revised text, as in Mandings and Mason's Spiritual Songs, No. 1%, and The Paciasist, No. 483, by Dr. T. Hastings (p. 485, i. 18).

So. Welcome, days of solemn meeting. Special Pectional Services. Written in 1834, and given in Dr. Haffeld's Church H. Bk., 1872. See No. 8.

27. When shall we most again! Parting. This is a cento. The first stanza is from Alaric A. Watts's Destrict Students in 1839, and of industrial Exercises.

a cento. The first stanza is from Alaric A. Watts's Poetical Sketches, &c., 1822, p. 183; and st. ii, -iv. are by Dr. Smith. In this form it was pub. in L. Bacon's Supplement to Duight, 1833, No. 489. It is in several American hymn-books; and also the English Bap. I's. & Hys., 1853, &c.

Hys., 1835, &c.

28. When the harvest is past and the summer is gene. Close of Worthip. Contributed to Hastings and Hason's Spiritual Songs, 1831, No. 244; and repeated in the Fuller and Jeter Supplement to The Patimiri, 1847, No. 22, and later collections.

29. When thy markal life is fled. The Judgment. Contributed to Winchell's Additional Hys., 1832, No. 379, and repeated in The Patimiri, 1843, No. 455, and later hymn-books. Also in Lyra Soc. Americana, 1868, 30. While in this spaced rite of Thins. Holy Reptism. Appeared in The Pradmiris, 1843, No. 803: Lyra Soc. Americana, 1868, &c.

21. With willing hearts we tread. Holy Raptism. In The Pradmiris, 1843, No. 798; and again in the Empl. Prate Re., 1871.

Praise 18k., 1871.

23. Yes, my native land, I love thes. A Missionary's Pureuels. Contributed to Winchell's Additional Hys., 1832, No. 449, and found in later collections. Also in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1868.

[F. M. B.] ections. Also in [F. M. B.]

Smith, Samuel J., b. in the autumn of 1771, and d. Nov. 14, 1835. He was a wealthy Quaker, resided at Burlington, New Jersey; but followed no profession. His Miscellaneous Writings with a short Memoir, were pub. posthumously in 1836. He is known to hymnnology through his hymn-

nology through his ayunn—
Arise, my soul, with rapture rise. Morning. The earliest date to which we have traced this hymn is Priscilla Gurney's Hymne, Lond., 1818. It was included in the American Prayer Hook Collection, 1826, No. 165, and thence has passed into several collections. It is also in the Mice Writings, 1826; but there are slight differences in the text. It is included, together with a second piece, or Carriet stilling the Tempest. "When on His mission from His throne in heaven," in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1868.

Smith, Walter Chalmers, D.D., was b. at Aberdeen Dec. 5, 1824, and educated at the Grammer School and University of that City. He pursued his Theological studies at Edinburgh, and was ordained Pastor of the Scottish Church in Chadwell Street, Islington, Landon, Dec. 25, 1850. After holding several pastorates he became, in 1876, Minister of the Free High Church, Edinburgh. His contributions to poetical literature have been many and of great merit. His principal works ATO :-

(1) The Bithop's Walk, 1860; (2) Otrig Grange, 1872; (3) Borland Hall, 1874; (4) Hilda among the Broken Gods, 1878; (6) North Cauntry Folk, 1833; (6) Kildrastan, 1884; (7) Hymns of Christ and Christian Life, 1876.

From his Hys. of Christ, &c., 1876, the following, after revision, were included in Horder's Cong. Hymns, 1884:-

1. Immortal, Invisible, God only wise. Cod, All in

Lord, God, Omnipotent. Omnipotence.
 Our portion is not here. Treasure in Housen.

Lord, God, Omnipotent. Omnipotence.
 Our portion is not here. Treasure in Howen.
 There is no wrath to be appeased. God is Love. In Horder's Cong. Hymns a new opening stance was added to this hymn by Dr. Smith at the request of the ciltor, and in that collection the hymn begins "I vexed me with a troubled thought."

Dr. Smith's hymns are rich in thought and vigorous in expression. They deserve and probably will receive greater notice than hitherto at the hands of hymnal compilers. [W. G. H.]

Smith. Wharton Buchanan, M.A., WHE b. March 15, 1848, and educated at King's College, London (where he was McCaul and Trench prizeman in 1870), and Trinity College, Dublin, B.A., 1878; M.A. 1883. Taking Holy Orders in 1871 he was from 1871-73 Curate of St. Mark's, Surbiton; and from 1873-83 of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, London. In 1883 he became Chaplain to the Bishop of Grahamstown. He is the author of two hymns in Thring's Coll., 1882: "My God, I praise Thee for the light returning" (Morning), which appeared in the Parish Magazine of St. Peter's, Eaton Square; and "Raised between the earth and heaven" (Dedication of Church [J. J.] Bells).

Smyttan, George Hunt, B.A., s. of Dr. Smyttan, of the Bombay Medical Board, was b. circa 1825, and educated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, S.A. 1845. He took holy orders in 1848, and in 1850 was preferred to the Rectory of Hawksworth, Notts, where he d. in 1870. He pub. Thoughts in Verse for the Afflicted, 1849; Mission Songs and Bullads, 1860; and Florum Sacra, N. D. He was the author of the well-known hymn, " Forty days, and forty nights" (p. 884, i.), and of a second which is found in several collections, "Jesu, ever present with Thy Church below" (Holy Communion), which appeared in the 2nd ed. of Lyra Eucharistica, 1864. [J. J.]

So did the Hebrew prophet raise. I Watts. [Passiontide.] Pub. in his Hymns and S. Songs, 1709, Bk. i., No. 112, in 4 st. of 4 l. In the same work, Bk. i., No. 100, is the L. M. hymn, " Not to condemn the sons of men," in 4 st. of 4 l. These hymns are in C. U. in their original forms, but their principal interest arises out of their connection with the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases. In 1745, st. i.-iii. of "So did the Hebrew prophet ralse, were adopted as st. i.-iii. of the Draft Trs. and Paraphs. "Of old the Hebrew prophet rais'd," and "Not to condemn the sons of men," was rewritten in c. M., and given as st. iv.-vii. of the same hymn. In the Droft of 1751 this arrangement was altered to "As when the Hebrew prophet mis'd," the alteration being confined to st. i. The Draft of 1781 contained further alterations, and finally the hymn came forth in the official Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, as a paraphrase (No. xli.) of St. John iii. 14-19, "As when the Hebrew prophet rais'd," st. i. being from the Draft of 1751, as above; at. ii., iii, iv., new, but based upon the Draft of 1745; st. iv. from the Draft of 1745; st. v. new; st. vi. from the Draft of 1745. This form of the hymn has been authorized for use in the Church of Scotland for more than 100 years, and is also found in several modern hymu-books. In a list of authors and revisers of the Scottish Trs. and Paraphs., 1781, made by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, ii.), the 1781 revision is attributed to W. Cameron. The designation of this hymn is I. Watts, 1709; Scottish Trs. and Paraphs., 1745-51; and W. Cameron, 1781. [J. J.]

So firm the saint's foundations stand. P. Doddridge. [Joy in Affiction.] This hymn is No. 3 of the D. 1883., in 4 st. of 4 l., and headed, "The impoverished saint rejoicing in God, from Habak. iii. 17." It is undated, but is found between two hymns dated respectively "Oct. 29, 1735," and "Nov. This associates it with the year 16, 1785. 1795. In 1755 it was pub. in Job Orton's posthumous edition of Doddridge's Hymns, No. 161, and again in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1739, No. 182. Its use is limited.

About 1741 (see Doddridge, P. : also Doddridge, P., in Various), a copy of the above-named wa. was given by Lady Frances Gardiner to Robert Biair (p. 145, L), of Athelstaneford, Scotland, who, in 1742, became one of the Committee by whom the Droft of the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases of 1745 was compiled. In that Draft this hymn appeared as, "Secure the saint's foundation stands." In 1748 the Presbytery of Edinburgh proposed to add an alternative version of the same passage (Habak. iii. 17), in 4 st., and probably made by Dr. Hugh Blair. The Assembly's Committee, however, not seeing the need for two versions of the same passage of Holy Scripture, adopted st. i.-iii. of Blair's version, and st. iii. from Doddridge's hymn as st. iv., and gave the cento as "What the no flowers the fig-tree clothe," in their Draft Trs. and Paraphs. of 1751. In the Draft of 1781 it was repeated, with slight alterations, and a new stanza, beginning, "He to my tardy feet shall lend." Paraphs. of 1781 it finally appeared as No. xxxii., the only alteration from the Draft of the same year being in Il. 3 and 4 of the new stanza. This has alteration is attributed by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, ii.) to John Logan. The correct designation therefore of the authorized text is P. Doddridgs, 1735: Scottish Trs. & Paraphs., 1745; Dr. H. Blair, 1748 and 1751; and J. Logan, 1781. Miss J. E. Leeson rewrote this hymn as "Although the fig-tree blackwards by h. H. Leeson 1864. blossom not," for her Paraphrases and Hymns, 1853. There is also a cento in T. Darling's Hys. for the Ch. of England, ed., 1889, in 3 st, of 6 l., beginning, "What though the fig-tree's strength decay." This is by Mr. Darling based upon the 1781 text as above. [J. J.]

So new-born babes desire the breast. I. Watts. [Christian Life.] Pub. in his Hys. and S. Songs, 1709, Bk. i., No. 148, in 10 st. of 4 1., and headed "Characters of the Children of God from several Scriptures." In C. U. it is usually abridged. Modern hymn-books also contain the following centes therefrom :-

1. As new-bern babes desire the breast. In a few collections.

3, Boat then the high and heavenly One? This, it the American Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, Roston, 1864, No. 427, is composed of st. ix., vi.-viit, with slight Father, I wait before Thy throne. An attered form of st. ix., x., in the Math. Episco. Hysans, 1848, and other American collections.

4. Grace, like an uncorrupted seed. This begins with st. v. and is found in a few American hymnels.

5. Immortal principles forbid. This, in the New Cong., 1859, is composed of st. v.-x., with alterations.

6. Lord, I address Thy beavenly throns. This, in the Bap. Ft. & Hys., 185s, is composed of st. ix., vi., v., vii., viii., viii., in the order named.

This hymn in these various forms is in extensivo use. (J. J.]

So wahr ich lebe, spricht dein Gott. J. Heermann. [Lent.] On Ezekiel xxxiii. 11. 1st pub. in his Devoti musica cordis, Breslau, 1630, p. 1, in 7 st. of 6 l., entitled, "A true admonition from St. Augustine that one should not put off repentance." It stems to be suggested by chap. 2 in the mediaeval compilation known as the Meditationes of St. Augustine. It is in Mützell, 1858, No. 13, in Wackernagel's od, of his Geistliche Lieder, No. 1, and the Unv. L. S., 1851. Tr. as:-

As sure I live, thy Maker saith. In full by J. C. Jacobi, in his Psal. Ger.., pt. ii., 1725, p. 21. In his ed. 1732, p. 93, altered and beginning "Sure as I live;" and from this st. i., ii., v., II. 1-4, and vi., II. 1-2 were included in the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, pt. i., No. 470; and st. i., iv., v. in the Evang. Union H. Bk., 1856.

Other trs. are:—(1) "Sinners, your Maker is your Friend," a tr. of st. i. as No. 225 in the Maravian H. Bk., 1789. (2) "As truly as I live, God saith," by Miss Burlingham, in the British Heraid, Aug. 1865. (3) "Yea, as I live, Jehovah saith," by E. Massie, 1867. [J. M.]

Soden, Alfred James, s. of Thomas Soden, J.r. of Coventry, was b. at Coventry, Jan. 9, 1839, and educated for the legal profession, in which he practised as a solicitor, at Coventry, for three years. With a prosperous career before him, yet the profession was dis-tasteful to him, and in 1864 he took Holy Orders; was successively Curate of King's Norton, 1864; and of Blockley, 1866. In 1878 he was preferred to the Vicarage of Aston Magna in the Diocese of Worcester, which he lies since exchanged for Hogsthorpe, Alford, Lincolnshire. Mr. Soden pub. in 1875 The History of Blockley. He also edited:-

History of Blockley. He also edited:

The Universal Hymn Book, specially adapted for Sundays and Boly Pays, and for General Use in the Church, Lond., Hiffe & Son, 1883. It contains 620 hymns, which are arranged mainly in the order of the Bole of Common Prayer, special attention being given to supply hymns based on the Collecta, Epistles and Gospels throughout. This is a distinctive feature, and worthy of notice. There is also a large percentage of hymns not found in other collections. The work is comprehensive and well edited.

To this collection Mr. Soden contributed the following hymne:-

- 1. A quiet eve at Bethany. The Barren Fig Tree.
  2. A Spirit, Mighty God, Thou art. God a Spirit.
  3. Almighty God, this truth we own. Calcut for 12th S. after Trisity.
  4. Almighty God, to Whom we owe. Plower Services.
- vices.
  5. Citizens of heaven, Soldiers of the Cross. Epistic. 23rd S. after Trinity.

 Hark now, thou sinner, Jesus calls. Invitation.
 Hark to the words of Him like Whom. Gospel. 4th Sunday after Trinity.
S. Harsh ware the notes of woe that rose. Death

9. Jenu, Chief Shepherd of the souls. Consecration of a Bizhop,

10. Lord, Thine sportie unked of old. Gospel, 22nd
S. after Trinity.

Lord, when to Thee this Gentlie came. Gospel, 2nd S. in Lent.

2nd S. in Lent.

12. Our days are but I shadow. Life, as a Shadow.

13. The deed is done—anded the strife. Easter Eve.

14. The martyr's crown is won to-day. St. Stephen.

15. This is the bouse of God. Public Wornhip.

16. This night, O God, we lift our cry to Thee. For those at Sax in Storay Weather.

17. When Jesus on this earth. On behalf of the Sick. 18. When near Jerusalem of old. 10th S. after Trinity.

19. Within Bethesda's potches five, Offertory for [J. J.]

Sol pracceps rapitur, proxima nox adest. [Evening.] This line is given in E. Coswall's Masque of Mary, &c., 1858, p. 881; and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 237 as the opening of a Latin hymn, the ir. of which by Caswall (as above) began :-

"The sun to sinking fast The daylight dies; Let love awake and pay Her evening sacrifics."

The Rev. L. C. Biggs, who corresponded with the translator on the subject, says in a note to the tr. in his Annotated ed. of H. A. & M. :-

"Every effort has been made to discover the original of this hymn, but in vain. It was, the translator believes, in the presention of one of the former members of the Edgbarton Oratory; contained in a small book of devotions. It can scarcely have been older than the eighteenth century."

The search has been continued to our going to press; but still in vain. In Bigge's annotated H. A. & M. a rendering of Caswall's tr. into Latin by the Rev. C. B. Penrson is substituted for the original. The tr. "The sun is sinking fast," is in extensive use in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

Soldiers of Christ, arise, And put your armour on. C. Wesley. [The whole Armour of God, or Confirmation.] Appeared in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1749, in 16 st. of 8 l., being No. 28 of "Hymns for Believers." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. v. p. 40.) In the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, 12 of the 16 stansse were given as three separate hymna thus:-

" Soldiers of Christ, arise." No. 258.
 " But, above all, lay hold." No. 259.
 " In fellowship alone." No. 280.

All of these hymns have passed into other collections in G. Britain and America. The most popular arrangement, however, is a cento-(beginning with the original first line), ranging from 4 st. to 6 st. of 4 l., which is found in numerous modern hymn-books. It is de-scended from A. M. Toplady's Ps. & Hymns, 1775, where No. 16 is composed of 16 st. of 4 l., compiled from C. Wesley's 16 st. of 8 l. The doxology in H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875, in Thring's Coll., 1882, and others, is not in the original. Alterations are also sometimes made in the tent, as in the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, which considerably weaken the hymn.

American collections, are centes from the original, with alterations. [J. J.]

Boldiers of the Cross, arise. Bp. W. W. How. [Home Missions.] 1st pub in Morrell and How's Ps. & Hys., 1854, in 7 st. of 4 l. When included in the S. P. C. K. Church Hye., 1871, slight changes were made by Bp. How, in the text of st. vi. and vii. This form of the hymn is authorized.

Solemne nos jejunii. [Lent.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1736, where it is appointed for Vespers on Sundays and Ferial days in Lent to the Saturday before Passion Sunday exclusively. The text is in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1887, No. 61, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

1. The soleren seeson cells us now. J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 68, and again in his Hys. of the Church, 1841, No. 38. It is in C. U. in its original form, and also as:-

also as:—

(1) Again the solemn reason calls. This is in Rarry's Ps. & Hyr., 1862, &c.

(3) Once more the solemn reason calls. An altered version of Chandler's fr. with this opening stanza was given in Murray's Hymnal, 1862. This stanza and portions of the rest of Murray's lext have been repeated in later collections but without uniformity, the principal variations being:—

(a) In H. A. & H., and Sarum, by Chandler, Murray, and the compilers of H. A. & M.

(b) In Mercer, by Chandler, Murray, and Mercer.

(c) In Kennedy, by Chandler, Murray, and Kennedy.

(d) In Morrel & How, by Chandler, Murray and compilers of H. A. & M.

diera of H. A. & M.

In addition to these collections there are others of less importance, in which variations are introduced.

(8) The seared season now dath null. This appeared in the Buglish Hyd., 1855-61. This opening line, but not the rest of the English Hyd. alterations was repeated in the 1863 appendix to the S. P. C. K. Pt. & Hys.,

No. 217.
(4) 0 simmer, bring not tears alone. This, in Martinean's Hymns, &c., 1840 and 1873, and in a few American collections, is composed of st. it.—v. of Chandler's text.

When these various forms of the text are taken into account, Chandler's tr. is found to be in extensive use,

2. Weeping on God we wait. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy, and Tune Bh., 1852-55, Lent, No. 12, and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870.

3. The selemn time of holy fast. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868 and 1871.

Translations not in C. U. :-And now the season grave and deep. I. Williams.

1839. 2. Again the time appointed see. R. Campbell, 1850, This owes a little to Chandler, and st. il. il. 3, 4, and st. iv. il. 3, 4, are by Pr. Nalle, and were supplied to Campbell in ws. This tr. is repeated with slight variations in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884.

2. The relegant fact of Lant is been A. B. Chambers.

3. The solemn fast of Lent is here. J. D. Chambers.

It must be noted also that although No. 208 in the Hymnary begins with the same line as Chandler's tr., yet the hymn as a whole is a tr. by the editors of the Hymnary, based upon Chandler.

Sollt ich meinem Gott nicht singen. P. Gerhardt. [Thankegiving.] One of Gerhardt's finest hymns, setting forth the eternal love of God in His creation, redemption, and The hymns: (1) "Followers of Christ, arise"; sanctification of us, His kind preservation in (2) "Rise, Christian soldiers, rise"; (3) all our troubles and crosses, even in our for"Soldiers of Christ, lay hold"; and (4) getfulness of Him; ending with a prayer thus "Pray without ceasing, pray." given in some rendered by Mr. Massie;— "Grant me grace, O God, I pray Thee, That I may with all my might Love, and trust Thee, and obey Thee, All the day and all the night; And when this brief life is o'er. Love and preise Thee evermore."

It is included in the 5th ed. Berlin, 1653, and in the Frankfurt ed., 1656, of Cruger's Praxis, No. 230; reprinted in Wackernagel's ed. of Gerhardt's Getstl. Lieder, No. 81, Bachmann's ed., No. 60, and the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 722. It is in 12 st. of 10 l., II. 9, 10 in each at, except xii, being

" Alles Ding währt seine Zeit, Gottes Lieb in Ewigkeit."

Of it Lauxmann in Koch viii. 333 relates the following:-

"At one of the Pastoral conferences, which the vene-able Father of the Faith, Karl Helfferich, of Döffingen rable father of the Fatth, Karl Heliterich, of Domingen in Wentemberg, conducted from 1736 to 1785, a great many little complaints were made at table about deficiency of tithes and such like matters. For a while he interest in patience. At length, while still sitting at table, he suddenly began to sing with cheerful voice the last stanza of this hymn. At this those present felt ashamed of their petty complaints, and henceforth the conversation was of more editying matters."

It is tr. into English as :-

 Shall I not his praise be singing. By Dr. Mills in his Horae Germanicae, 1845, p. 141 (1856, p. 195). It is a poor version, altogether missing-the characteristic points of the German. His st. ii., iv.-vii. beginning "As the eagle fondly hovers," were included in the Amer. Luth. Gen. Synod's Coll., 1850-52, No. 85.

2. Shall I not sing praise to Thee. A full and good tr. by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., lst Ser., 1855, p. 200; repeated omitting st. iii.-vi., viii., as No. 10 in her C. B. for England, 1863. Included in full in Cantate Domino, Boston, U. S., 1859; and, abridged, in Kennedy, 1863; Meth. N. Connex. H. Bh., 1863, and Flett's Coll., Paisley, 1871.

3. I will sing my Maker's praises. A good tr. omitting st, vi., vili. contributed by R. Massie to the 1857 ed. of Mercer's C. P. & H. Bk., No. 185 (Ox. ed. 1864, No. 286, omitting trs. of st. ii., iv.), reprinted in his own Lyra Domestica, 1864. In full in Reid's Praise Bk., 1872, and abridged in the Moth. N. Connex. H. Bk., 1863.

. 4. Can I fail my God to praise. A fr. of st. i., iii., iv. by F. C. C., as No. 218 in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864.

 Should I not, in meek adering. A tr. of at, i.-iii, by M. W. Stryker in his Hys. & Verses, 1883, p. 38, and Christian Chorals, 1885, No. 36,

(1) "Can I cease, my God, from singing," in Lyra Davidica, 1708, p. 22. (2) "Shan't I sing to my Creator," by J. C. Jacobi, 1732, p. 153. Repeated in the Moraman H. Fig., 1754 to 1886; in the 1789 and later eds. (1886, No. 178), beginning "I will sing to my Creator." (3) "Shall I not my God be praising," by J. Kelly, 1867, p. 240. Other tre, are :-

Sometimes a light surprises. Cowper. [Joy and Peace in Believing.] Pub. in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. iii. No. 48, in 4 st. of 8 l., and headed "Joy and Peace in Believing." It is in C. U. in its full and in an abbreviated form. There are also two centes therefrom in modern collections:—(1) "In hely contemplation, we sweetly then pur-sue," in the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, and later editions; and (2) "Thy children, Low, lack nothing," in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1870. [J. J.]

Somno refectis artubus. St. Ambrose ? [Monday Morning.] This hymn is ascribed to St. Ambrose by Hinemar in his "De una et non tring Deitate," 857; and is one of the twelve hymns received as genuine by the Benedictine editors of St. Ambrose. Daniel, i., No. 18, gives the text, and at iv. p. 36 cites it as in a Rheinau Ms. of the 10th cent. He ranks it, however, among the hymns of the 7th or 8th cent.; and Birnghi does not include it in his Inni sinceri e Carni de Sant Am-brogio, 1862. Mose i. p. 372, cites it as a Ms. of the 8th cent. at Trier. Among the British Museum was, it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnarics of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 12; Jul. A. vi., f. 23 b; Harl 2961. f. 221); in an 11th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium (Add. 30,851, f. 176 b), an 11th cent. Mozarabie Breviary (Add. 30,848, f. 74), &c. It is in a Ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (391, page 232); in two Mss. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall. Nos. 387, 413; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo Saxon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. MS. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 5). It is included in the Roman (Venice, 1478, and the revision of 1632), Surum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries; the universal use being at Matins on Monday. The text is also found in the Hymnorium Sarisb., 1851, p. 42; Königefeld ii. p. 30, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865.

Translations in C. U. :-

1. Sleep has refreshed our limbs; we spring From off our bed, and rise. By Card. Newman, in his Verses on Religious Subjects, 1853, p. 59, and again in his Verses on Various Occusions, 1998, p. 206. It is in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884. The cento in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, "Be Thou the first on every tongue," is composed of st. ii. and iv.

2. Our limbs refresh'd with slumber sweet. Ry J. A. Johnston, in his English Hyl., 1852.

3. Our limbs refreshed with slumber now, J. M. Neale, in the H. Noted, 1852, No. 2; the Hymner, 1882, and others.

Translations not In C. U. :-

 O God, be present and inspire. Primer, 1708.
 Our limbe refreshed with wholesome sleep. Bp. Hant. 1837. R. Hant.

2. Spurning the bed where luxury lies. J. E. Doubleday's Hymnarium Anglicanum, 1844.
4. With limbs refreshed by needful sleep. Hp. J.

Williams. 1846.
5. Now are our limbs refreshed with quiet sleep. I. Williams, in his Thoughts in Fast Tears, enlarged ed.

8. Our limbs refresht with healthful rest. W.J. Copeland. 1848.
7. Our limbs with tranquil sleep restored. E. Cas-wall. 1849. 8. Our wearied limbs with sleep restored. J. D. Chambers, 1852.

Our limbs with grateful sleep refreshed, J. D. Chambers. 1857.
 Our limbs are now refreshed with sleep. J. W.

Al. Our limbs are lawn and limbs; we spring Out of our beds as men in fear. J. Keble. 1366. Of this tr., st. i. ii. are altered from Card. Newman as above.

12. Now that our limbs, refreshed by sleep. J. Wallace, J.J.]

[J. J.] Son of God, Eternal Word. Bp. C. Wordsworth of Lincoln. [Morning.] This, together with Bp. Wordsworth's Evening Hymn, " The day is gently sinking to a close, were printed separately from his Holy Year, and were pasted into unsold copies of the 3rd ad, of that work, in 1863. In 1864 they were given as the opening hymns of the Holy Year, and have since come into somewhat general use in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

Son of the carpenter, receive. Wesley. [To be Sung at Work.] Pub. in Hys. and Poems, 1739, in 5 st. of 4 l., and entitled "To be sung at work." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 172.) Two centos from this hymn, and both beginning with st. ii., "Servant of all, to toil for man," are in C. U. The first, composed of st. ii.-iv. appeared in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 318, and the second, st. ii.-iv. and i. in the New Cong., 1859. [J. J.]

Sonent Regi nato nova cantica. [Christmas.] This is found in a Ms. in the Bodleian (Bodl. 775, f. 129 b), written circa 1000; in a Winchester Ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, No. 473; in a Sarum Missal, circa 1370, in the Bodleian (Barlow 5, f. 18 b); in the St. Andrew's, Angers of 1489, Sens of 1529, and other Missals. In the Saram use it was the se-quence in the Mass at Daybrenk ("in aurora") on Christmas Day. The printed text is also in Nealo's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 9, Daniel v. p. 175, and Kehrein, No. 17. The trs. are :— 1. O come, new anthems let us sing. By E. H. Plumptre, neade for and pub. in the Hymmary, 1872.

S. Now to the new-born King. By J. W. Hewett, in Lyra Messianica, 1864.

3. Unto the King new-born, new praises sing. 1 C. B. Pearson, in the Saven Mistal in English, 1868. [J. M.]

Songs of praise the angels sang [sing]. J. Montgomery. [Universal Praise.] Pub. in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 168, in 6 st. of 4 l., and headed "God worthy of all Praise." It was repeated in Montgomery's Christian Padmist, 1825, No. 562; and in his Original Hymns. 1853, No. 90. 'The heading in 1825 and 1853 was changed to "Glory to God in the highest." The opening line is sometimes changed to "Songs of praise the angels sing. The use of this hymn is extensive. [J. J.]

Songs of thankfulness and praise. Bp. C. Wordsworth, of Lincoln. [Epiphany.] 1st pub. in his Holy Year, 1862, No. 23, in 5 st. of 8 L, with the heading:-

"Sixth Sunday after the Epiphany, Recapitulation of the Subjects presented in the Services of former weeks throughout the season of Epiphany; and Anticipation of the future great and glorions Epiphany, at which Christ will appear again, to judge the World."

In Bp. Wordsworth's revised and enlarged edition of the Holy Year, 1863, st. v., l. 2, was changed from "Mirror'd in Thy holy word," to "Present in Thy holy word;" and the heading expanded to the following:-

"Sixth Sunday after the Epiphany.—A Recapitula-tion of the successive Epiphanies or Manifestations of Christ, which have been stready presented in the Services of the former weeks throughout the season of Epiphany; and which are preparatory to that future great and glorious Epiphany, at which Christ will be manifested to all, when He will appear again to judge the World. See Chillect, Epistle, and Cospet for this week."

This hymn is one of the most popular of Bp. Wordsworth's hymns, and is in extensive use in most English-speaking countries.

 $[\mathbf{J}, \mathbf{J}, \mathbf{J}]$ Sons of God, triumphant rise. Wesley. [Spiritual Exultation; or, Holy Communion.] Pub. in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1739, Pt. ii., in 8 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Hymn after the Sacrament." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 170.) This hymn is known in three forms in addition to the original :—

1. The first was given to it by A. M. Toplady, in his Pt. & Hyt., 1775, No. 225, where it is composed of st. i.-iv. of the original, and st. ii., iii., of C. Weeley's "Lord and God of heavenly powers" (q.v.). In this form it is a hymn of Praise.

2. The second is in Mercer, 1855-1864 (Oxford ed., No. 187). This is from Toplady's cente; st. i. belog from "Sons of God, triumphant rise"; and st. ii., iii. From "Lord and God of beavenly powers." The refrain "Hallefujah" is added to each line, and it is appointed for Easter. for Easter.

3. In the Altar Hymnal, 1884, No. 171, et. !.-iii., vii., viii., are given for Holy Communion. [J. J.] [J. J.]

Sons of men, behold from far. Westey, [Epiphany.] Pub in Hys. and Soc. Poems, 1739, in 6 st. of 4 l., and entitled, "Hymn for the Epiphany." (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 184.) In M. Madau's Ps. & Hynns, 1760, it was given as No. 23, and was thus brought into use in the Church of England. It is seldom given in modern hymn books in its full form; and slight alterations are nearly always found in the text. It is in extensive use in most English-speaking countries. Notwithstanding this popularity it was excluded from the Wes. H. Bk. of 1780 and 1875. In the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1853, st. iv., v., vi., of this hymn, rewritten, together with an opening stanza and a doxology from another source, were given as, "Lo, the Gentiles bend the knee." This cento was repeated in the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, and other collections. Sometimes it reads, "Lo, the Gentiles bend the knee.'

Sons we are through God's election-[Election.] This hymn was given in the Gospel Magazins, April, 1777, in 8 st. of 6 l., based on the words, "The godly consideration of Predestination and Election in Christ, is full of sweet, pleasant, and unspeakable comfort to godly persons.' — Church of England, Article XVII; " and signed " S. P. R." In J. Dobell's New Sel., 1806, it was repeated, with slight alterations, and the omission of st. iii., and given as by "R——," From the New Sel. it has passed into other hymn-books in the same form. In the s. was., the Rev. S. Adams (see p. 599, ii., "Jesus is our great salvation") says he believes this hymn to be his father's (see Adams, J., p. 15, ii.), but gives no proof, as he has done with others of his father's hymns. The hymn certainly reads like one of Adams's compositions; but his authorship is open to doubt. His usual signature in the Gospel Magazine was "J. A." [J. J.]

Soon shall this earthly frame, dissolv'd. [The Resurrection.] This paraphrase of 2 Cor. v. 1-11 first appeared in the Draft of the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, in 1745, and was repeated in the Draft of 1751. In the authorized issue of the Trs. and Paraphs. of 1781, No. 51, several alterations were introduced into the text by W. Cameron. (See p. 100, ii.) Of this para-phrase, sts. v.-vii., are from I. Watte's "There is a house not made with hands" (Hys. & S. Songs, 1709, iii.-v.), somewhat altered. sibly some of the remaining stanzas may have been suggested by other hymne by Watts on kindred subjects, as, for example, Bk. i. No. 100; and Bk. ii., No. 61, in the Hys. & S. Sougs, 1709; but the similarity between these hymns and this paraphrase is very slight.

Sophie Elisabethe of Sachse-Zeitz.

Sophronius. [Greek Hymnedy, § VI.]

[Schütz, J. J. ii.]

Souls in heathen darkness lying. Cecil F. Alexander, née Humphreys. [Missions.] This hymn is known in four forms, each by Mrs. Alexander, and beginning with the same first line, as follows:---

1. In E. Hawkins's Verses in Commemoration of the Third Jubiles of the S. P. G., 1851-62, p. 55, in 9 st. of

2. In the S. P. C. K. Hys. for Pub. Worship, 1852, No. 184, in 4 st. of 6 1., of which st. i.-iil. are from No. 1 and st. iv. is new. This is the form in which it is usually given in modern bymn-books.

3. In Mrs. Alexander's Logend of the Golden Prayers and Other Poems, 1859, p. 187, in 8 st. of 61. This is the text of the Verses, &c., 1851-52, with the emission of

In Mrs. Carey Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881,
 No. 316 is composed of st. i., ii., vi., viii., from The Legend of the Golden Frayers, &c., as above. [J. J.]

Souls of men, why will ye scatter? F. W. Faber. [Invitation: The Divine Call.] This is given at p. 362, i. 21, as from his Hymns, 1862. It really appeared in his Oratory Hys., 1854, in 8 st. of 4 L, with the heading "Come to Jesus." It is found in its full form in some collections; and the following centes there-from are also in C. U. :—(1) "There's a wide-ness in God's mercy;" and (2) "Was there ever kindest Shepherd?" These are in several collections.

Southey, Caroline Ann, née Bowles, daughter of Charles Bowles, of Buckland, near Lymington, was b. in 1786; married, in 1889, to Robert Southey, the poet; and d. in 1854. Her publications include Solitary Hours, 1826; The Birth-day, a Poem, 1836; and some prose works. Her Poetical Works were pub. in 1867; and her correspondence with Southey in 1882. A few pieces from her works are in C. U. as hymns:-

her works are in C. U. as hymns:—

1. I weep, but not rebellious tears. For the Aged.

1. I weep, but not rebellious tears. For the Aged.

1. In the Solitary Hours, 1825; and, again, in her Poetical Works, 1861, p. 285, in 6 st. of 6 l. It is given, in full, in the Bap. Pr. & Hys., 1865. To the line, "The Althul few made perfect there" (st. v., 1, 5), the fol lowing note is appended in the Poetical Works:—"The word 'few' is used here in no presumptuously exclusive sense of the Author's, but simply as being the scrip fural phrase, 'Many are called, but few are chosen.'

The word having been altered, lettly, in two religious publications, where the poem was inserted unknown to the Author, it is thought proper to annex this note."

3. Latunch thy bark, mariner. For Sailors. Given in her Solitary Hours, 1828, p. 22, in 5 st. of 8 l., and entitled, "The Mariner's Hymn;" also in her Poetical

Works, 1867.

[J. J.]

Works, 1867.

Sovereign of all the worlds on high. P. Doddridge. [Adoption.] This is No. 78 in the p. mss., in 5 st. of 4 l., is headed, "Adoption argued from a filial temper, on Gal. iv. 6," and is dated "June 17, 1739." It was repeated, without alteration, in Job Orton's posthumous edition of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 281, but with the title changed to "A filial Temper the Work of the Spirit, and a proof of Adoption. Galat. iv. 6." In J. D. Hamphreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 307, the 1755 heading is repeated, but the text is changed in st. iv. I. 3, from "Thou know'st, I Abba, Father, cry," to " And thus, I Abba, Father, cry." It is in C. U. in its original form, and us, "My Father God I how sweet the sound" (st. ii.).

Sovereign of all, Whose will ordains. C. Wesley. [In Time of National Trouble.] This is from the tract of Hymns for Times of Trouble and Persecution, 1st cd., 1744, No. 10, in 9 st. of 4 1., and headed, "A Prayer for His Majesty King George, 'Fear God and honour the King.'" (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. iv. p. 21.) Jackson, in his Memoir of C. Wesley (ed. 1848, pp. 149-51), says that the dread of invasion by France on behalf of the Pretender, and the fear that Popery would be re-cetablished, drove the people to many excesses, not the least marked of which was a common crusade against the Wesleys and their followers on the alleged ground (amongst other things) that they were secretly furthering the Pretender's views, and were receiving money for their labours. It was under these circumstances that the Hys. for Times of Trouble and Persecution were written and published, the fluest being "Saviour of all, Whose will ordains," and "Lord, Thou hast bid Thy people pray," the latter being entitled "For the King and the Royal Family." The former of these hymne was given in the 1st ed, of the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 453, and the latter in the 1830 Supp. thereto, an abbreviated form as No. 755.

Sow in the morn thy seed. J. Montgomery. [Missions.] Under the date of June 16, 1832, Montgomery, in a letter to his friend George Bennett, gives the history of this hymn in the following words :-

<sup>14</sup> In the month of February last, on our return from Bath, as my friend Mr. Rowland Hodgson and myself were travelling between Gloucester and Tewkesbury, I observed from my side of the carriage, a field which had observed from my sace of the carriage, a new which has been recently ploughed, and apparently harrowed, for the surface lay not in furrows; but upon it were several women and girls in rows, one behind another, interally, as though they were engaged in parallel lines, but did not keep pace with each other in their work. What the work was I could not guess: it was evidently not weednot keep pace with each other in their work. What the work was I could not guess: it was evidently not weeding, for the ground was perfectly clear and fresh turned up. It seemed to be planting, all stooping down and appearing to put something into the earth, but they were too far off for me to distinguish what. I therefore described the eccos and their mode of action to my friend, who, being blind, could not belp out the imperfection of my eyes by the aid of his. He immediately repided, "I dare say it is dibbling, a mode of husbandry by which two-thirds of the grain necessary in the ordinary way of sowing an acra is saved; holes are picked in lines along the field, and into each of these two or three grains are dropped." I have often beard of drilling or dibbling, but I never saw it before, I exclaimed; 'and I must say if this be the latter, dibbling is quite in character with the property of the seed on the right hand and on the left, in liberal handfuls; this dibbling is very unposited and unpleturesque; there is neither grace of motion nor activate in it.' * * * I fell immediately into a musing fit, and moralised most magnificatily upon all kinds of husbandry (shough I knew little or nothing of any, but so much the better, perhaps, for my purpose) making out that each was excellent in its way, and best in its place. * * * By degrees my thoughts subsided into verse, and I found them running lines, like furrows, along the field of my imagination: and in the course of the two next stages they had already assumed the form of the following stanzae, which I wrote as soon as we reached next stages they had aiready assumed the form of the following stanzas, which I wrote as soon as we reached Bromagrove. This is the whole history and mystery of which I fear you have beard so romantic an account, "Sow in the morn thy seed." Memorr, by Holland, vol. v. p. 34.

The hymn written under these circumstances, in February 1832, was printed for the use of the Sheffield Sunday School Union, at their Whitsuntide gathering of the same year. It is in 7 st. of 4 l. It was pub. in Montgomery's Poet's Fortfotio, 1835, p. 248, and headed, "The Field of the World," and again, with the same heading, in his Original Hys., 1853, p. 258. It is given in many modern hymn-books.

Sowers went throughout the land, Emily E. S. Elliott. [Harvest.] 1st pub. in the Church Missionary Juvenile Instructor, 1872, p. 124, in 4 st. of 8 l., and then in her Chines of Consecration, 1873, p. 146. It was included, as No. 362, in the Church S. S. H. Bk., 1879, as a hymn for teachers as workers in the spiritual barvest. [J. M.]

Bpake the glorious Lord in heaven. Archbishop E. W. Benson. [Ps. cz.] Written for and first pub, in the Wellington Coll. H. Rk., 1860, and repeated in Kennedy, 1863, and others. [J. J.]

Spangenberg, August Gottlieb, s. of Georg Spangenberg, Lutheran pastor at Klettenberg near Nordhausen, was b. at Klettenberg, July 15, 1704. He entered the University of Jena in 1722, as a student of law, but soon abandoned law for the study of theology. He lived in the house of Professor Buddeus, graduated M.A. in 1726, and for some time lectured there. In Sept. 1732 he went to Halle as adjunct of the Theological faculty and superintendent of the Orphanage schools. Here he associated himself with the Separatists, and by an edict from Berlin was deprived of his offices, and, on April 8, 1733, was expelled from Halle. He at once proceeded to Herrnbut, and was received into the Moravian Community, with which he had become acquainted as early as 1727. In 1735 he accompanied the Moravian colony which settled in Georgia, and served also in Pennsylvania and in the Island of St. Thomas. He returned to Germany in 1739, and was for some time at Marienborn in Hesse. In Sept. 1741 he was present at an important Moravian Conference in London, and was there appointed a member of the Unity's Direction, and also director of their financial affairs. While in England he founded, in 1742, the first English Moravian settlement, at Smith House in Yorkshire. He was then, on June 15, 1744, consecrated at Herrenheag as Moravian Bishop for North America, and from that time till 1762 was for the most part in America, working principally in Penosylvania, and among the Indians, and paying two visits to Europe. In 1762 he became the senior member of the Unity's Direction as successor to Zinzendorf, and thereafter resided for the most part either at Herrahut or at Barby. The last years of his life were spent at Berthelsdorf near Herrahut, where he resigned his offices in Sept, 1791, and d. Sept, 18, 1792. (Koch, v. 837; G. F. Otto's Lexicon Oberlausisischer Schriftsteller, iii. 306; Herzog's Real-Encyklopādie, xiv., 460, &c.)

Spangenberg was an earnest and able man, was much beloved and respected, and was entrusted by the Bretiren with many important missions, being e.g. the principal agent in the negotiations between the Muravians and the British Government (see p. 767, i.). He did good service both in consolidating the Moravian organization and by untiring labours in America. His duto-bingraphy appeared in 1784. He also wrote a life of Zinzendorf, in 3 vola, pub. at Barby 1772-76. His other chief work is his idea fides fratrum, &c., Barby, 1779 (English tr. as An Exposition of Christian Doctrina, at taught in the Protestant Church of the United Brethren, &c., London, 1784), which is accepted as an authorised exposition of the Moravian theology. He only wrote a few hymns, which are of fervent but rational plety, but do not entitle him to high rank as a hymnwriter. They were mostly written before 1748. Ten of them are included in the Bruder G. B. of 1718.

Of these ten hymns the following may be noted here:—

i. Der König ruht, und schauet doch. Christian Work. 1st pub. as No. 1004 in Appx., i., 1737, to the Herrnhut G. B., 1735, and is in 8 st. of 10 l. Repeated in the Brüder G. B., 1778, No. 1385, and in the Hist. Nachricht thereto, marked as "On Zinzendorf, May 26, 1734," i.e. as written for Zinzendorf's birthday. Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1865, No. 1126. Tr. as:—

Righ on Ris svarlasting Throne. This is a spirited but free tr. by J. Wesley, in Hya. & Suc. Poems, 1742 (P. Works, 1868-72, ii. p. 61), in 13 st. of 81. St. i.-vi. are from st. i.-iii. of the German; vii. from iv.; viii. from v.; tx., x. from vi.; and xi.-xiii. from vii., viii. This tr. was included in full in the Moranian H. Bh., 1742, No. 37, and repeated abridged in later eds. (1886, No. 888, in 9 st.). Centos under the original first line are given in Montgomery's Christian Psalmiat, 1825, the Amer. Meth. Epis. Hymns, 1849, &c. Wesley's st. xi.-xiii., altered and beginning, "What shall we offer our good Lord," were included in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 479 (1875, No. 492), and repeated in the Meth. N. Conn. H. Bh., 1863, and others.

ii. Die Kirche Christi ist hin und her. Unity of the Christian Church. Included as No. 2210 in the 2nd Suppl., circa 1746, after the 12 Appendices to the Herrnhut G. B., 1735; and is in 12 st. of 5 l. In the Britler G. B., 1778, No. 959, st. ii., v.-vii., xii. are omitted, and it is altered to "Die Kirche Christi, die er geweiht." In the Hist. Nachricht to the 1778 it is marked as composed in North America in 1745 [at a Union Syned at Lancaster, Pennsylvania]. The text of 1778 is in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1362. In the Württemberg G. B., 1842, st. i.-iii. are as i.-iii. in 1778; iv., v. are based on v., vi. in 1778; while st. vi. is not even suggested by Spangenberg. St. vi. reads:—

"O Geist des Herrn, der des Leben schafft, Walt in der Kirche mit deiner Kraft, Dass die Gotteskinder Geboren werden Gleich wie der Morgenthau sehen auf Erden Zu Christi Preis,"

The hymn has been tr. as :--

The Church of Christ that He hath ballow'd here. This is a good tr. of st. i.-iii. of the 1778, and of the st. printed above, by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyru Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 58; repeated in Ps. & Hys., Bedford, 1859, No. 169.

iii. Heilige Einfalt, Gradenwunder. Christian Simplicity. This is an excellent picture of his own Christian character. It was 1st pub. as No. 1589 in Appx. x., circa 1741, to the Herrahut G. B., 1735, and is in 19 st. of 4 l. In the Brüder G. B., 1778, No. 835, reduced to 11 st. (st. iv. is by Zinzendorf), and this form is in Bunsen's Versuch, 1833, No. 823 (ed. 1881, No. 441), and in some recent German collections, e.g. the Pfalz G. B., 1860. According to Bunsen, 1838, p. 904, it was written as a birthday bymn for his sister. The date which Banson gives for its composition (1744) is probably a misprint for 1741. Tr. as :-

1. When simplicity we cherish. This is given in 14 st. as No. 387 in pt. ii., 1746, of the Moravian H. Bk. In the 1789 and later eds, (1849, No. 603) it is reduced to 6 st., and is entirely rewritten, save the opening line. [See Various. J. M.

Spee, Friedrich von, a. of Peter Spee (of the family of Spee, of Langenfeld), judge at Kaiserswörth, was b. at Kaiserswörth, Feb. 25, 1591. He was educated in the Jesuit gymnasium at Cologne, entered the order of the Jesuits there on Sept. 22, 1610, and was ordained priest about 1621. From 1613 to 1624 he was one of the tutors in the Jesuit college at Cologne, and was then sent to Paderborn to assist in the Counter Reformstion. In 1627 he was summoned by the Bishop of Wirzburg to act as confessor to persons scoused of witchcraft, and, within two years, had to accompany to the stake some 200 persons of all ranks and ages, in whose innocence he himself firmly believed (His Cautio criminalis, seu de processibus contra sagas liber, Rinteln, 1631, was the means of almost putting a stop to such cruelties). He was then sent to further the Counter Reformation at Peine near Hildesheim, but on April 29, 1629, he was nearly murdered by some persons from Hildesheim. In 1631 he became professor of Moral Theology at Cologne. The last years of his life were spent at Trier, where, after the city had been stormed by the Spanish troops on May 6, 1635, he contracted a fever from some of the hospital patients to whom he was ministering, and d. there Aug. 7, 1695. (Koch, iv. 185; Goedeke's Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 193, &c.)

Spee was the first important writer of sacred poets that had appeared in the Gorman Roman Catholic Church sluce the Reformation. Among his contemchurch sluce the Reformation. Among his contemporaries he was noteworthy for the beauty of his style, and his mastery of rhythm and metre. He seems the beauty of his style, and his mastery of rhythm and metre. He seems to have come independently to much the same conclusions regarding measure and accent, and the reform of German procady as did Oplit (see p. 871, M). He was however of a much deeper and purer nature than Oplitz; and far surpasses him in originality, in imagination, and in poetic inspiration. His poems are characterised by a very keen love for the works of God in the natural world, and a delight in all the sights and sounds of the country, especially in spring and summer; and at the same time by a deep and fervent love to God, to Christ, and to his fellow-men. On the other hand his manerisms are very pronounced; the pastoral imagery and dialogue which his is fond of using jar upon modern care when used on such sections subjects as the Agony in Gethsemane. In the hymne to Jeans he is too subjective and sentimental, and works out the kides of Christ as the Bridgeroom of the soul with unnecessary detail. His poems are often full of beauty, of pathos, and of genuine raligious warmth, but they cannot be considered as smitable for public worship, and hardly any really came into use except as processionals sung by the people at the great fectivals or at out-door gatherings. A number passed into the Roman Catholic hymnoloks of the 11th cent, and one or two diff survive. Recently Knapp, in his Ec. L. S., 1850 and 1865, has included a few. Specty influence on the hymnody of the Church was not so much direct as strongly the impulse his work gave to Scheffler (p. 1004, ii). His earlier poems are included in his (1) Trust Nachigal, oder Geteticich-Postisck Leart-Waldlein, &c., Cologne, 1649. [Brit. Mus., Berlin Library, &c., The se. of the work completed in 1834, is in the Town Library of Trice.] This is Spec's most important book; reached a 5th ed. in 1833, and has been accernal times reprinted in this coccury poraries he was noteworthy for the beauty of his style, and has been several times reprinted in this century, e.g. ed. by Clemens Brentano (with selections from No. 2), as Berlin, 1817; by Wilhelm Smets, at Coessald, 1845 (2nd ed., Bonu, 1849); by Karl Simrock, at Heilbronn, 1876; by Oustav Balke, at Leipzig, 1877, &c. A few of the hymns had appeared in the Seraphicol Autigart, Cologne, 1636; the Geitlicher Psaller, Cologne, 1638, and other Jeault books. (2) Gildenes Tugend-Buck, &c., Cologne, 1649 [Güttingen Library]. This is a proce work on the Christian Graces of Faith, Hope, and Love, and has a few byznes interspersed.

The hymns by Spee which have pessed into English appear to be only two, viz.:---

i. Bei stiller Wacht, zur errien Wacht. Parziontide. In the Trutz Machtigal, 1642, p. 225, in 15 st. of 4 l., entitled "A mournful song on the agony of Christ on the Mount of Olives in the Carden." Previously in the the Mount of Olives in the Garden." Previously in the Scraphisch Lusigart, Cologne, 1835, p. 180, in 17 st., beginning, "Bei finster Nacht," and this text is followed in 'H. Bone's Cantate, 1847, No. 33, where it begins "Bei finster Nacht, vom Garten ber," and is reduced to 8 st. The form which has passed into English is that in the Trier G. B. (B. C.), 1846, p. 56, in 13 st., entirely rewritten, hardly anything save the first two lines being the same as in 1649. The tr. in C. U. ts:—Within a Garden's bound. In full from the text of 1846, by Miss Cox for Lyra Mystica, 1864, p. 119, and in her Hys. from the German, 1864, p. 45. Her tr. of st. l., it., x.-xiil, are included in J. L. Porter's Chil., 1876.

ii. Der trübe Winter ist vorbei. Summer. In his Trutz Nachtigal, 1849, p. 35, in 12 st. of 10 l., entitled "Love Song of the Bride of Jesus in the beginning of summer time." It is a beautiful poem rather than a hymn. Included in Knapp's Es. L. S., 1850 and 1865, after the text of W. Smets. Tr. 88:—

The gloemy winter now is o'er. By Miss Winkworth, 1869, p. 242.

Spener, Philipp Jakob, D.D., a. of Johann Philipp Spener, keeper of the archives of Count von Rappoltstein, at Rappoltsweiler, near Colmar, in Alsace, was b. at Rappoltsweiler, Jan. 13 (25), 1635. He matriculated at the University of Strassburg, in 1651, and graduated M.A. in 1658. From 1654 to 1656 he had the oversight of the studies of two sons of the Pfelsgraf Christian I. In 1659 he went to Basel, and then spent a year at Geneva. He left Geneva in 1661, and accompanied the young Count von Rappoltstein to Württemberg, staying principally at Stuttgart and Tübingen. During 1662 he gave some Uni-versity lectures at Tübingen. He was then appointed, in 1668, as general preacher at Strassburg (p.p. from the University in 1664), and gave also University lectures there; presching his farewell sermon in the Cathedrai on July 3, 1666. He then became chief pastor of the Franciscan church (Barfüsserkirche, now St. Paul's), and Senior of the Lutheran clergy at Frankfurt am Main. Here, in Aug. 1670, he began to hold the Collegia pictatis or prayer meetings which are regarded as the beginnings of Pietiem. During this period he pub. his famous Pia desideria. 1686 he was called to become senior court preacher at Dreeden, then regarded as the most important post in the German Luthernu church. Here, however, he found much in the court life which needed reformation; and finally, on the general Fast day, Feb. 23, 1639, he addressed to the Elector Johann Georg tu., a respectful, but perfectly definite, remonstrance regarding his drinking habits. From this time forth the Elector planned his removal, and with his knowledge and consent Spener at last received from the Elector Friedrich Wilhelm III. of Brandenburg, an invitation to become Probat of the St. Nicholas church, Consistorialrath, and Inspector of Schools and Churches at Berlin. He preached his first sermon in Ber-lin on June 21, 1691, and his last on July 1, 1704. In the last months of his life he was unable to undertake any duty. He d. at Berlin, Feb. 5, 1705 (Koch, iv., 201, v., 663; Goedeke's Grundries, vol. iii., 1887, p. 204; Herzog's Real-Encyklopädie, xiv., 500, &c.).

* First appeared, 1675, in his ed. of Atndi's Postilla. First separate ed. in German, dated Erankfurt, 1676, with a dedication of Sept. 8, 1675, is in the Brill. Mul. Latin ed. pub. 1678. In this work he set forth what be considered to be the great desiderata in the Lutheran church of his time.

Spener was a man of high personal character, and of unquestionable sincerity. By means of his official posi-tions, of his intercourse with men of light and leading all over Germany, and through the extensive correspondence on apiritual matters by which he became the confessor of hundreds of all ranks and classes of the German people, he greatly moulded the religions life of his times. He came into fame and influence as the leader of a great He came into fame and influence as the leader of a great religious movement. During his laster years at Berlin he had the pleasure of seeing the University of Halle founded (formally opened in 1694), and of finding his irlends and pupills, like A. H. Francka (see p. 336, ii.) and P. Anton, appointed professors, and propagating his teachings there, and bringing on the triumph of the Pietiskie movement.

To Hymnology Spener did not make important contributions. Though he wrote a great deal of verse, hardly any of it could be called poetry. His hymno derive their interest from the fact of their authorality rather than from their intrincic value. In them we find the their interest from the fact of their authoratip rather than from their intrincic value. In them we find the characteristic points of view of the Pletistic school, and they give the keynote to many of the later Pletistic school, and they give the keynote to many of the later Pletistic hymns. They are only infe in all, and appeared in the Frankfurt ed., 1674, of Crüger's Praxis [see p. 273, i. Copy in the Hamburg Library], in the Promer Christen erfreuiteds Himmels Last [copy in the Gritingan Library, without date or publisher's name. Noch dates it 1876], and as his Geittreckée Gränge, at Halle, 1710. Six of them were included in Freylinghausen's G. B., 1304 and 1715.

Those of Spener's hymns which have passed into English are :--

i. Nan lat anferstanden. Easter. 1st pub. 1674, as above, No. 264, in 10 st. of 10 l., marked as by "P. J. S. D." In the Berlin G. L. S. ed., 1863, No. 313. The tr, is from the text of the Württemberg G. S., 1842, No. 165, which begins, "Aus dea Todesbanden." The tr. is "Lo! death's bands are riven." In the British Herald, July 1866, p. 286, signed "W. T. H." Repeated in Reid's Praise Bk . 1872.

ii. Be late an dem dass ich mit Freuden. For ihe Dying. His finest hymn. 1st pub. 1674, as above, No. 755, in 6 st. of 8 l., marked, "F. J. S. D." In Bunsen's Versued, 1833, No. 991 (AHg. G. B., 1946, No. 499). Tr. as "Then now at last the hour is come." By Miss Wink-83 " Den now at that the nour is come.

Levila, 1859, p. 218.

(ii. Sollich dann mich tiglich kränken. Resignation.

(iii. Sollich dann mich tiglich kränken. Resignation.

1. J. Spener D." in Knapp's Eb. L. S., 1837 and 1866.

27. as "Shall I o'er the future fret." By Miss Winkworth, 1860, p. 270. [J. M.]

Spengler, Lazarus, was the 9th of the 21 children of Georg Spengler and Agnes his wife, and was b., March 13, 1479, at Nürnberg, where his father was clerk of the Imperial court of Justice (Landgerichtschreiber). He entered the University of Leipzig in 1494; but on the death of his father on Dec. 27, 1496, he returned to Nürnberg, obtained a position in the town clerk's office, in 1507 became himself town clerk (Rathe Syndikus), and in 1516 also Rathsherr. When Luther was passing through Nürnberg, in 1518, on his way to Augsburg, Spengler made his acquaintance. He warmly espoused the Reformation doctrines, pub. in 1519 his Schutzred in Luther's favour, and himself became one of the leaders in the Reformation work at Nürnberg. He was one of those condemned by name in the Bull of Excommunication launched by Pope Leo the Tenth, on June 15, 1529, against Luther and his friends. Dr. Eck sent the Bull to the Town Council of Nürnberg, and urged them to proceed against Spengler, but they ignored it, and then sent him as one of their representatives to the Diet of Worms, in April 1521. In 1525 Spengler went to Wittenberg to consult with Luther and Melanchthon as to turning the Benedictine Accidenstift (Schottenkloster) into an Evangelical Gymnasium, and this was opened as such by Melanchthon on May 23, 1526. Spengler was also the prime mover to the Visitation of 1528, and upheld strict Lutheranism in the negotiations at the Diet of Augsburg in 1530. He d. at Nürnberg, Sept. 7, 1534 (Koch, i., 308; Will's Nürnbergisches Gelehrten-Lexikon, iii., p. 731; Herzog's Real-Encyklopädie, xiv., 516).

Spengler was a trusty friend and valued counsellor of Luther and the principal Reformers of Germany. He also interested himself in the improvement of the of Luther and the principal Reformers of Germany, He also interested himself in the improvement of the church services, and in 1532 was able to have an authorised Liturgy (Kirchevordmung) princed. He wrote a considerable quantity of verse, secred and secular; but only two hymns are secribed to him. The one is an indifferent version of Ps. czwrit. beginning "Vergebens ist all Müh und Kost." The other is:—

Durch Adams Fall int ganz verderbt, Fall and Redesption. 1st pub. in the Geyettiche Gesangk Buckleys, Wittenberg, 1524, and thence in Wackernagel, life, 48, in 9st of 10 l. Also in the Cusp. L. R. 1851, No. 409. During the Reformation period it attained a wide popularity as a diductic and confessional hymn of the Brangelical faith. It is one of the most characteristic hymns of the time, conceived in the spirit of deep and earnest piety, eminently Scriptural, and setting forth the Reformation teachings in concise and antithetical form, but is however too much like a system of theology in rhyme. The frs. are:—1. "By Adam's fall was so foclorine." By Bp. Coverdaie, 1539, reprinted in ble Researin, 1846, p. 556. 2. "When Adam fell our total Frame." By J. C. Jacobl in his Pratmodia Germanica, pt. ii., 1735, p. 17. In his ed. 1732, p. 36, is begine "When Adam fell, the Fraue entire:" and this form France." By J. C. Jacobi in the Practical Germanica, pt. ii., 1726, p. if., In his ed. 1723, p. 88, it begins "When Adam fell, the France entire;" and this form was repeated in the Marcelan H. Bh., 1754, pt. i., No. 304, and later eds. (1869, No. 18). (3) "Our nature fill in Adam's fell." This is a paraphrase, in 5 st. of L.M., by Dr. M. Loy, in the Ohio Lett. Hyt., 1880, No. 247. [J. M.]

Spenser, Edmund (b. 1552; d. 1599), has a right to his place in this work extrinsically and intrinsically. Extrinsically his odes, entitled by himself Fours Hymnes, give us a connecting link with Chaucer; and intrinsically they are of "the brave translunary things" that ought long since to have introduced much in them to the Church's Hymnology. Speuser in the outset acknowledged Chancer for his "dere maister;" and throughout there are echoes and re-echoes of him. Specifically in relation to the Foure Hymns, the Compleyat of Pits must have been carried by the youthful Spenser to Hurstwood and the Pendle district, or was found in one or other of the contemporary oultured Spenser households there. The Complaint is of "Love, as is Spensor's first of the immortal four "in honour of Love." Like Chancer's, the metre of the new Hymnes is rhymc-royal; and the meditative reader of the elder and later poets will catch notes and images common to both, e.g., in the "Hymne to Beautie" (1, 257) we flud-

" Doe seeme like twinckling starres in frostie night." So in the "Prologue" (1, 269):-

> " His eyghen twinkled in his bede arigh As don the sterres to the frestle pight,"

Nor is it mere verbal resemblances that we come upon. The thought and emotion flow in the same channels. It were casy to multiply proofs of the truth of Spenser's own grateful scknowledgment in Colin Clout:-

"The shephcard's boy (best knowen by that name)
That after Tityrus first sung his lay," in imitation of, or as disciple of Chaucer, as we use the phrase of a painter "after Raphael." Intrinsically the Fours Hymnes have the additional interest of having been (in "Two Hymnes of Love and of Beautie" at least) among the earliest of the "newe poet's" verseattempts, though delayed in publication until 1596. There is a brilliancy, a charm, an exquisiteness of phrasing, a delicacy and daintiness of wording, and a pervading melodious-ness in them that should simply bave rendered anything of their kind meagre between Chaucer's Compleyat of Pite and them. His" Rosawas their inspiring motif; but his "high mood" lifted him to Incarnate Love and Pity and Beauty. All the more noticeable is it, therefore, that in the epistle-dedicatory of the Foure Hymnes to the "Ladie Margaret, Counteres of Cumberland, and the Ladie Marie, Countesse of Warwicke," the poet distinctly assigns the two of Love and Beauty to "the greener times" of his "youth." Turning to the Hymnes themselves, the student-reader will be rewarded if he consult Professor F, T. Palgrave's inestimable Essay (Grosart's Spenser, vol. iv., pp. xevii.-c.) on the "Minor Poems of Spenser." I can only cull two bits on the two greatest of the Hymnes. Of "Love":-

"The love painted here is at once so idealized and so general—the human and the personal aspect of passion so faintly present—that we feel as though this were some splendid procession nuwinding itself before us in progress to the Capitol, rather than a hymn sung in the inmost shrine of Eros. What we hear is far less the music of Love, that Love set to lovely music: a stream of gorgeous beauty, in which the chivalry of the Middle Ages blends audibly with the mythology of the Renaissance."

Then of "Heavenly Love:"-

"Nowhere, I think, has Spenser written, in his larger "Nowhere, I tains, has openser written, in his larger pleces at least, with more uniformly equable dignity, united with more serene melody, than here; and great is the galo in reasonableness and charm to the celestial vision and the pictures from the Gospel story which he presents, from the absence of that Platonic colouring presents, from the absence of that Platonic colouring—so far as Platonism it is—which tinges the earlier companion Ode. Spenser, in fact, now writes from the juliness of his faith; and the poem has bence a reality which the most skilful art alone, in the most skilful hands, let the artist strive as he will, must over fail to compass."

[A. B. G.]

Speratus, Paulus, D.D., was b. in Swabia, Dec. 13, 1484. In a poem, written circa 1516, on Dr. J. Eck, he calls himself Elephangius, i.e. of Eliwangen; and in his correspondence, preserved at Königsberg, he often styles him-self "a Rutilis" or "von Rötlen." These facts would seem to indicate that he was b. at the castle of Röthlen, near Ellwangen. This property belonged to the Probat of the ecclesiastical corporation at Ellwangen, and Speratus's father was probably their bailiff or agent. The family name seems to have been Hoffer or Offer, and to have been in later years, following a practice common in the 16th cent., Latinized by himself into Speratus. He is probably the "Paul Offer de Ellwangen," who matriculated at the University of Freiburg (Baden)

Paris, and at some of the Italian universities. In 1518 we find him settled as a preacher at Dinkelsbühl, in Bavaria. In the end of that year he was invited to become preacher in the cathedral at Würzburg. He went to Würzburg in Feb. 1519, but his preaching was much too evangelical for the new bishop, and he had to leave, apparently in the beginning of 1520. Proceeding to Salzburg he preached for some time in the cathedral, until the archbishop there also would not tolerate his pronounced opinions. He left Salzburg in the autumn of 1520, and went to Vienna, where he appears to have graduated D.D. at the University. He was already married (probably as early as 1519), and was one of the first pricets who had dared to take this step. After a violent sermon against marriage, delivered by a monk in St. Peter's church, at Vienna, the governor of Lower Austria (Count Leonhard von Zech) asked Speratus to make a reply. With the consent of the bishop he did so, and preached, on Jan. 12, 1522, a sermon in the cathedral (St. Stephen's), founded on the Epistle for the 1st S. after the Epiphany, in which he expressed his opinious very freely regarding the monastic life and enforced celibacy, and also clearly set forth the doctrine of Justification by Faith. This sermon (pub. at Königsberg in 1524) made a great impression, and was condemned by the Theological Faculty at Vienna, who also prevented Speratus from accepting an invitation to become preacher at Ofen, near Vienna. On his way from Vienna to the north he stayed at Iglau in Moravia, where the abbot of the Dominican monastery appointed him as preacher. Here the people became greatly chamoured of him and of the Reformation doctrines, and stood firmly by him. notwithstanding the remonstrances and threats of the king, and of the bishop of Olmütz. In the summer of 1523 king Ludwig came to Olmütz and summoned Speralus to him. Without even the form of a trial he put him in prison, but after three months he released him, probably through the influence of his queen (Maria of Hungary, see p. 710, i.), and of his cousin, the Margueve Albrecht of Brandenburg, but on the condition of his leaving Iglau and Moravia. In the end of 1523 Speratus came to Wittenberg, where he worked with Luther, and assisted him in the preparation of the first Lutheran hymn book (the Lilich eristlich lider. See p. 703, ii. It contained 4 German hymns by Luther, 3 by Speratus, and 1 auonymous German hymn). Luther then recommended him to the Margrave Albrecht, and about May 1524 the Margiave appointed him as court preacher at Königsberg. Here he had also charge of the Altstadt church till Graumann came into residence, in Oct. 1525 (see p. 451, i.). He seems to have had the principal share in drawing up the Liturgy and Canons (Kirchenordnung or "Book of Church Order") for the Prussian church, which was presented to the Diet in December 1525, and printed in 1526. On March 81, 1526, he was chosen as the clerical commissioner to visit the parishes of Prussia and see that the new arrangements were carried out; and in the end of 1529 he was appointed Lutheran bishop of Pomeannia, with his residence at Marienwerder. Here he in 1$03. He is also said to have studied at | remained till his death on Aug. 12, 1551

(Paulus Speratus Leben und Lieder. By C. J.) Cosack, Brunswick, 1861; Koch, i., 345; Herzog's Real-Encyklopädie, xiv., 518; Blütter für Hymnologie, 1886, p. 186; Altpreussische Monatsschrift, 1887, p. 504, &c.)

Speratus was the author of various works, but was best known as the Reformer of Prussia. Feeling that for posts known as the Reference of Prussia. Reeling that for the working of ordinary parishes it was necessary to have pastors who had been brought up in Prussia, and could preach, if need he, in Polish or Lettlish, he gladly wel-comed the foundation at Königsberg (1544) of the first Prussian university. Among other important events affecting his administration may be mentioned the Visitations of 1528, of 1538, and especially that which lasted from Dec. 15, 1542, to the middle of February 1543; the Synods of 1529 (the Synodical Constitutions were pub. in 1630), of 1630, and of 1631; the new Kirchenordnung of 1544; and the welcome in extended, in 1648, to the exiled Bohamian Brethren who settled in Prussia.

As a hymn writer Speratus is principally known by the three bymns pub in the Etlich eristlich lider, 1524. He also pub. (no place or date but Königsberg, 1527), in 1527, a version of Ps. **x**i**, beginning, "Erzurn dich nicht, sei nicht neidisch;" and a Hymn of Thanksgiving, to be used after the sermon, beginning, "Gelobet sei Gott, unser Gott." These five are all that can be confidently ascribed to him. The two collections which Cosack attributes to him do not bear any indication of his authorship; and Wackernagel, i., pp. xix., 386, 387, 388; iii. pp. 618-643, denies that they are his, and thinks that they are, much more probably, by Casper Löhner or Löner, who in 1524 became Lutheran pastor at Hof, in Bavaria; and in 1542, at Nördlingen in Bavaria. The Low German hymnbooks which he was for some time supposed to have edited (1525 and 1526), were really edited by Joachim Slüter, the Rostock Reformor. (See Dr. J. Bachmann's Gesch. des enang. Kirohengesanges in Mecklenburg, Ros-tock, 1881, p. 28, &c.) Of the five hymns mentioned above two have passed into English, viz. :---

i. Es ist das Heil une kommen her. Law and Gospel. This, his most famous hymn, is founded on Rom. iii. 28. It was probably written in the autumn of 1523, either during his imprisonment at Olmütz, or else during his stay at Wittenberg. Included as one of the 8 hymns in the Ettich cristich lider, 1524, dated 1523, and entitled, "A hymn of Law and faith, powerfully furnished with God's Word. Doctor Paul Speratus." In some eds, it has two pages of references to texts of Holy Scripture printed with it (Wittenberg, 1524), and signed "Paulus Sporatus." It was repeated in the Erfurt Encharidion, 1524, and thence in Wackernagel, iii, p. 31, in 14 st. of 7 l. In the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 411.

Lauxmann, in Kock, vill. 236, calls it "the true confessional hymn of the Reformation, or, as Albert Knapp puts it, 'the postical counterpart of Luther's preface to the Epistic to the Romans," He relates many instances of the effects it produced. It is a Scriptural ballad, setting forth in what was forther time of the lauxhour way. or the eneces to produced. It is a constitute to calculate string forth, in what was, for the time, excellent verse, the characteristic teachings of the German Reformers; and is indeed of considerable historical importance. But for present day use it is too long, somewhat harsh in atyle, and too much a compend of doctrinal theology.

The only version we have found in English C. U. ia:—

To us salvation now is come. In full by Dr. H. Mills, in his Horas Germanicae, 1845, p. 44 (1856, p. 60). His tre. of st. i., ii., v., xiii., were repeated, with alterations, in the Amer. Luth.

Gen. Synod's Coll., 1850, No. 842, and the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Other trs, are:—
(1) "Now is our health come from above." By Bp. Coverdale, 1839 (Remains, 1848, p. 562). (2) "Our whole Salvation doth depend." By J. C. Jacobi, 1725, p. 33 (1732, p. 101). Repeated in the Moreovien H. BE., 1754 (1842, No. 19). (3) "Now comes salvation from abova." By Dr. C. Welder, 1860, p. 79, (4) "Salvation hath come down to us." By Miss Winkworth, 1869, p. 192 p. 123.

ii. In Gott gelaub ich, dass er hat aus nicht. The Apostles' Creed. This is a free version, in 9 st. of 19 l. 1st pub. in the Etlich cristlion lider, 1524. Repeated in the Erfart Enchiridion, 1524; and thence in Wackernagel, iii. p. 33. It was included in V. Babat's G. B., 1545, and many others, but on account of its length and its unusual metre it has not found a place in recent hymnals. It is tr. as "In God I trust, for so I must." By Bp. Coverdale, 1539. (Remains, (Remains. 1846, p. 547.) [J. M.]

Spirit Divine, attend our prayer. A. Reed. [Whitsuntide.] This hymn appeared, unsigned, in 7 st. of 4 l., in the Evangelical Magazine for June 1829, with the heading, "Hymn to the Spirit. Sung on the late Day appointed for solemn Prayer and Humiliation in the Eastern District of the Metropolis" From the April number of the same magazine we find that the "Day appointed for Solomn Prayer," &c., was the Good Friday of that year, and that it was "cordially recommended "as a day of humiliation and prayer, with a view to premote, by the divine blessing, a re-vival of religion in the British churches." by the Board of Congregational Ministers, resident in and about London, whose recommendation is dated "Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1820." The bymn was republished in Dr. Reed's Hymn Book, 1842; and again, in the Wycliffe Chapel Suppl., 1872. It is the most widely known of Dr. Reed's hymns, and is in extensive use. It is one of his best productions. [J. J.]

Spirit, leave thine house of clay. J, Montgomery. [Death and Burial.] This, in its original form, is a poem in 14 st. of 41. It was printed in Montgomery's Iris newspaper, July 14, 1803, and repeated in his Wanderer of Ewitzerland, and other Poems, in 1806, and again in his P. Works in 1828 and 1841. Its origin is explained in its title, which reads:-

"Verses to the Memory of the late Joseph Browne, of Lottorsdale, one of the People called Quakers, Who suffered a long Confluement in the Castle of York, and Loss of all his worldly Property, for Conscience Sake."

To adapt the poem for congregational use st. i.-iv., xiii., and xiv., were slightly altered, and given in Collyer's Coll., 1812. This form was repeated in J. Conder's Cong. H. Bk., 1836; the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, and others, as "Spirit, leave fky bouse of clay." [J. J.]

Spirit of God, that moved of old. Cecil F. Alexander, née Humphreys. [Whit-oustide.] Appeared in the S. P. C. K. Hymns, 1852, No. 70, in 4 st. of 4 l. In Mrs. Alexander's Hys. Descriptive and Devotional, 1858, No. 15, it was republished in 5 st. of 4 l., the now stanza, the third, being "Unscal the well within our hearts." The 1852 text is that usually given in modern hymn-books. In Dr. Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873. No. 95 is an altered form of at. ii.-iv. of the 1852 text, and begins, "Thou Power and Peace! in Whom we find."

[J. J.]

Spirit of holiness, look down. W. H. Bathurst. [Divine Grace desired.] 1st pub. in his Ps. & Hys., 1831, No. 59, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed "For healing and strengthening Grace." The hymn, "Lord, lot Thy saving mercy heal," in the American Church Praise Bk., N. Y., 1882, is a cento from this hymn (st. iii., ii., iv.). [J. J.]

Spirit of life, Thine influence shed. W. H. Bathurst. [Whitswatide.] 1st pub. in his Ps. & Hys., 1831, No. 56, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Spiritual Strength and Wisdom desired." In modern hymnels st. v. is usually omitted, as in the New Cong., 1859. [J. J.]

Spirit of mercy, truth, and love. [Whitsuntide.] The earliest date to which this hymn has been traced is 1774, when it appeared in the Collection published for use in the Foundling Hospital, Loudon, where it is given as follows:—

- Spirit of mercy, truth, and love! Shed Thy sweet influence from above, And still from age to age convey The wonders of this sacred day.
- "In ev'ry clime, by ev'ry tangue, Be God's amazing glary sung; Through all the list'ning earth be taught The acts our rish Redeemer wrought.
- " Unfailing Comfort! Heav'nly Guide! Still o'er Thy favour'd church proside; Still may mankind Thy blessings prove, Spirit of mercy, truth, and love."

From the Foundling Collection it passed into those of Cotterill, Bickersteth, Elliott, Hall, and other compilers, both old and new. Several, who copied from R. W. Kyle's Collection, 1846, have attributed it to him. It was in print, however, before Kyle was born. Some of the slight changes in the text found in modern hymnals are from Cotterill's Set., 1819. In the Anglican H. Bk., 1868, it is altered to "Blest Source of mercy, truth, and love."

[J. J.]

Spirit of Truth! on this Thy day. Bp. R. Heber. [Whitsuntide.] Appeared in his posthumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 82, in 6 at. of 41. It is in several modern hymn-books in G. Britain and America, and usually in an abbreviated form. For the date 1812, sometimes assigned to it, we have no evidence.

Spirit of Truth, Thy grace impart. [Whitsuntide.] This cento was given in the 1868 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys., No. 298, as follows:—

 "Spirit of Truth, Thy grace import, To guide our doubtful way; Thy beams shall scatter every cloud, And make a glorious day."

This is an altered form of st. v. of J. Needham's "Thy influence, mighty God, impart," from his Hymns, &c., 1768, p. 163.

 "Light in Thy light, O may we see, Thy grace and mercy prove, Revived and cheered and blest by Thee Spirit of peace and love."

This is 11, 5-8 of C. Wesley's "Eternal Sun of Righteousness," from his Short Hys., &c., 1762, No. 201.  "I'lls Thine to scothe the sorrowing mind, With guilt and fear oppress'd; Thine to hid the dying live, And give the weary rest."

This is an altered form of st. ii. of J. Hart's "Bless'd Spirit of truth, eternal God," from his Hys., &c., 1759, No. 5, slightly varied from T. Cotterill's Sci., 1810, No. 66, "Eternal Spirit, Source of Truth."

 "Subdue the power of every sin, Whate'er that sin may be, That we, in singleness of heart, May worship only Thee."

Also from T. Cotterill's Sel., 1810, No. 66, as above.

In Thring's Coll., 1882, this text is repeated, together with a doxology from Tate & Brady with 1. 2 borrowed from C. Wesley. [J. J.]

Spitta, Carl Johann Philipp, D.D., was b. Aug. 1, 1801, at Hannover, where his father, Lebrecht Wilhelm Gottfried Spitta,* was then living, as bookkeeper and teacher of the French language. In his eleventh year Spitta fell into a severe illness, which lasted for four years, and so threw him back that his mother (the father d. in 1805) abandoned the idea of a professional career, and apprenticed him to a watchmaker. This occupation did not prove at all congenial to him, but he would not confess his dislike, and his family were ignorant of it till an old friend, who was trying to comfort him after the death of a younger brother, discovered his true feelings. The younger brother had been preparing for ordination, and so Carl was now invited by the family to adopt this career. He joyfully accepted the offer, left the workshop in the autumn of 1818, and succeeded, by dint of hard study during the winter, in gaining admission to the highest class in the Gymnasium (Lyceum) at Hannover, which he entered at Easter, 1819. He was thus able, at Easter, 1821, to proceed to the University of Göttingen, where he completed his theological course, under professors of pronounced Rationalistic opinions, at Easter, 1824 (D.D. from Göttingen, 1855). He then became, in the beginning of May, a tutor in the family of Judge (Oberamimanu) Jochmus, at Lüne, near Lüneburg. Here he remained till his ordination on Dec. 10, 1828, as assistant pastor at Sudwalde, near Hoya. In Nov., 1830, he became assistant chaplain to the garrison and to the prison at Hameln on the Weser, and would have succeeded as permanent chaplain there, in the beginning permanent chaptain there, in the beginning of 1837, had not the military authorities, alarmed by reports which described him as a Fietist and a Mystic, refused to sanction the arrangement. As a compensation, he was appointed pastor at Wechold, near Heys, in Oct., 1837, and married just before settling there. On his birthday, Aug. 1, 1847, he was instituted as I where a superintendent at Witnessian and the settling that the set of the settling the settling as I where a superintendent at Witnessian and the settling the settling the settling as I where a superintendent at Witnessian and the settling instituted as Lutherau superintendent at Wittingen; in Oct., 1853, at Peine; and in July, 1859, at Burgdorf—all his appointments having been in the kingdom of Hannover. A few weeks after removing to Burgdorf he was seized with gastric fever, but had apparently recovered, when, on Sept. 28, 1859, while sitting at his writing table, he was seized with cramp of the heart, and died in a quarter of an hour. (Karl Johann Phillipp Spitta, Ein Lebensbild von Dr. Theol. K. K. Münkel, Leipzig, 1861; Koch, vii., 232; Herzog's Real-Encyklopidie, xiv., 539, &c.)

*A native of Brunswick, and descended from a Huguenot family named de l'Hôpital, who had settled in Brunswick after the Revocation of the Edict of Namies. The French name was exchanged for the German equivalent, i.e. Spital or Spittel, and this was modified into Spitta.

zog's Real-Encylclopdidie, xiv., 539, &c.)

Spitts had begun to write in verse when be was sight years old, slong with his brother Heinrich (see No. xiiv, below). During his university course she continued to write songs and secular poems, and public a collection of songs anonymously as a Sampbüchein der Liebe für Heinducksteiste. At Göttingen he formed a life-long friendship with Adolf Peters, afterwards professor in the St. Arts Gymnasium (Fürstenschule) at Meissen, in Saxony. He was also on intimate terms with Helmich Heine, who was a fellow member with them of the Burschenschaft, or student's patiotic union (see K. Goedeke's Grandriss, vol. ili., 18st. p. 259); and this friendship continued till Helme, while visiting him at Lüne, so jested at things sacred, even in the presence of Spitta's pupils, that their friendship came to an end. After the spiritual change, which began about the end of his university course, Spitta caased to write secular pieces. His hymn-writing proper seems to have begun in 1821. In writing to a friend on May 5, 1826, he says, "In the manner in which I formerly sang I sing no more. To the Lord I consecrate my life and my love, and likewise my song. His love is the one great thems of all my songs; to praise and exalt it worthily is the desire of the Christian anger. He gave to me song and meedody; I give it back to Him." The most fruiting period of his hymn-writing singer. He gave to me song and melody; I give it back to Him." The most fruitful period of his bymn-writing to Him." The most fruitful period of his byznn-writing was at Lüne, where many of his most popular hymne were composed in the quiet evenings, in his own room, often after fasting, and when, sitting at the piane or at his harp, he had tened his spirit to song. Many others were inspired by the beautiful scenery of the valley of the Weser, and by the intercourse with friends during his residence at Hameln. In his later years his ecclesisatical duties absorbed his attention, and hardly any of his hymns were written after 1847. A number of them were first printed in the Cartallicke Monatseckrift sur Admistions Friedung für alle Nünde, which appeared were first printed in the Caristicke Monateschrift sur Admitichen Erbeuung für alle Stände, which appeared from Jan. to June, 1826, and was edited by Spitta and by Pastor Deichmann, of Lineburg. Seminariehrer W. Bode of Lüneburg has recently found a copy of the Caristicke Monatendrift in the Town Library at Idineburg. This contains ten hymna, viz.: 1. "Wir leiden Angst wir leiden Noth." 2. "Js. er hat dich stots geliebet." 3. "Wie selig ist ein Hers das Jesum funden." 4. "Wir irrien wie zerstreut und ohne Leiter," 5. "Wort des Lebens, lautre Quelle." 6. "Es hält die Hand Jetz fest am Pfing." 7. "Salig, wer ins Reich der Gnade." 8. "Hinzu, OChrist, zur offnen Quelle." 9. "In der Angst der Weit will ich nicht klagen." 10. "O Jesu meine Wonne, Die alle Noth." Of these Nos. 1, 2 appeared in January; No. 3 in March; Nos. 5, 6 in resu meme wonne, me aue noth. Untees Nos. 5, 2 appeared in January; No. 3 in March; Nos. 5, 8, 1 in April; Nos. 7, 8, 8 in May; and No. 10 in June. They are probably all by Spitta (p. 338, ii.), but only Nos. 5, 9, 10 are included in the Pather und Harfs. No. 10 being given as "O Jesu melne Sonne."

The first separate collection was the result of a selection and arrangement made by himself and Adolf Peters, and appeared at Pirns, in 1832, with the title, Paulter und Hayfe. Eine Sasamlung christicher Lieder zur häusfichen Erbassung. This contained 61 hymns. In the 2nd pub. ed., at Leipzig in 1834, five were added, viz.:—(1) "Per Menach hat bange Stunden." (2) "Ein Heblich Loos at mas gefallen." (3) "O dass mein Leben deine Rechte." (4) "Was macht ihr, dass ihr weinet." (5) "Wuhl uns, der Vater hat uns lich." This work attained annexampled popularity, and, year after year, editions fullowed (all reprints of the 2nd ed.), the 50th ed. being pub. at Bremen in 1885. The success of this first series led Splits to pub. a second series, consisting of 64 hymns, and entitiet "Pratter und Harfe. Zweite Samwlung, &c., Lelpzig, 1843. This reached a 2nd ed. at Leipzig in 1843, and a 43nd at Bremen in 1837. After Spitta's death, his widow handed over to Professor Peters (see above) a considerable number of pieces from her husband's unpublished papers, to which Peters added others in bis own possession, and pub. them as Spitta's Rachelaszene pointliche Leider, &c., at Leipzig, 1861. One of these pieces, hardly to be called a hymn, dates from 1827, the rest of the 112 were written in the years of Spitta's early manhood (from 1825 on), a fact which rather suggests that neither Peters in 1833, nor Spitta lineself in 1843, ranked them among his happiers efforts.

limited (5th ed., Brewen, 1863), and hardly any of the hymne it contains have passed into the Church hymnbooks in Germany, or even into collections of German scarced poetry. It is by his "safter unit Harfe that Spitta is known and loved.

Version expect development of the hymnicial state of the production of the prod spitts is known and loved.

Various causes doubless contributed to the popularity of Spitts's Pratter and Harfs. The hymns therein are, as a rule, of moderate length, are clear and simple in style, refined in diction, sweet, flowing and melodious. Their quiet beauty, their tone of earnest, sincere, and of calm resting on, what to Spitts were, the eternal verities, endeared them to all ranks and classes. They form a faithful mirror of his inner life and Christian experience. They at once met and ministered to the revival of Evangelical religion in Germany, and thus enjoyed somewhat of the same good fortune and popularity which the renewed churchly life in England brought to Keble's Christians Farr. As the title adopted shows Spitts meant them for family and private use, and for his they are best fitted, being, for the most part, subjective and individual. They speedily, however, passed into the German hymnbooks for church use, both at home and abroad, and translations of them are found in almost all recent English and American collections. An excellent version of both parts has been made by Mr. Richard Massie, and pub. as Lyra Doubetica, lat ser., London, 1860; 2nd ser., London, 1861. A glaince at the lists below will show their popularity with translators. If (as already said at p. 827, ii.) Albert Knapp panks higher than Spitts, both as a poet and as a writer of hymns for church use, yet Spitts at least caught the popular ear as Knapp never did, and is much more fully represented in the English and American hymnals. Another element of Spitta's popularity in Germany has been contributed by the very numerous musical settings which have appeared to his hymns. Koct. vii., 246, glves a list of the more important of the collective editions, but, besides these, many of the separate pieces have been set to music by various composers, the greatest favourites (see also Dr. J. K. Schauer's Geschickte der hibbischkirchlichen Dicht- und Tonkeunt, 1850, p. 148).

A number of Spitta's hymns are annotated under their original first lines (see Index of Authors and Translaters). Of the rost we may note here the following:—

I. From his Psalter and Harfe. 1st Series, Pirna, 1833, and the 2nd ed. Lelpzig, 1834; 2nd Series, Leipzig, 1843.

1. Allen ist vin Reil beschieden. Communion of Saints. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 27, in 5 st. of 7 l., entitled "Unity in spirit." Repeated in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850. Tr. as:—

Brethrea, called by one vention. By R. Massie in his Lyra Domestica, 1830, p. 87. Thence, in full, in Snepp's Songs of G. and G., 1872, No. 745.

Another tr. is:—"Salvation is a boon." By Miss Fry, 1889, p. 75.

U. Es wird mein Herz mit Preuden wach. Sunday Morning. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, p. 61, in 7 st. of 4 l., entitled "Sunday Morning." In the German hymn-books, e.g. in Knapp's Ex. L. S., 1850, it generally begins with st. ii. "Hent hält der Herr ein offenes Haus." Tr. as:—

My heart wakes with a joyful lay. This is a good and full tr. by Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L., 4th Ser. 1862, p. 82 (1884, p. 243). Repeated, abridged and beginning "Awake! all hearts and joyful say," in G. S. Jellicoe's Coll., 1867, No. 26.

Other trs. are: (1) "My heart awakes with holy glee." By Miss Mussington, 1863, p. 163. (2) "Awake, my heart, this day of rest." By R. Mussic, 1866, p. 51. (3) "My heart is bright with joy." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 23.

iii. Gettes Stadt steht festgegründet. Christian Church. 1st pub, at Leipzig, 1843, p. 97, in 6 st. of 12 L., entitled "The City of God," and founded on Ps. laxavii. In Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850 and 1865, the Hannover G. B., 1883. Tr. as:

By the holy hills surrounded. In full, by R.

Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1864, p. 82, repeated in the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, No. 595.

iv. Hochgenegnet acid the Boten. Foreign Missions. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 24, in 6 st. of 8 l., entitled "The Missionaries to the Heathen." Repeated in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1865. Tr. as:—

Bleat are ye, ye chosen bearers. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 95, repeated in L. Rehfuess's Church at Sea, 1868, p. 104, and the Bk. of Common Pruise, 1863.

Other trs. are: (1) "Ye messengers of Christ, By Him commissioned forth." By Miss Pry, 1859, p. 147. (3) "O blessed are ye messengers, cent forth." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 52.

v. Ich glaube, daram rede ich. Foith. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 56, in 5 st. of 8 l., entitled "I believe." P. as:—

I believe, and so have spoken. By R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 55. Repeated, omitting st. iii., in Adams's Church Pastorals, Boston, U.S., 1864, No. 552.

vi. Inh höre deine Stimme. Ps. xxiii. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 44, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "The Lord is my Shapherd." In Knapp's Ec. L. S., 1837 and 1865. Tr. as:—

1. I hear my Shepherd calling. This is a good and full tr. by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 44. His st. i., ii., iv. are repeated in Flett's Coll., Paisley, 1871, No. 223.

2. Jose, my Lord, my Shopherd. This is a very good tr., emitting st. vi., in the Cathelic Apostolic Hys. for the Use of the Churches, N.D. [1868], marked as tr. by "M. E. A. 1867."

Other tre. are; (1) "Shapherd of souls, Thy voice I hear, As stage," By Dr. R. Magasive, 1872, p. 160. (2) "I know Thy voice, my Shepherd." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 11.

vii. Ich und mein Haus, wir aind bereit. Family Use. A fine hymn, founded on Joshua xxiv., 15. 1st pub. at Pirns, 1833, as above, p. 110, in 6 st. of 10 l., entitled "I and my house will serve the Lord." Repeated in the Württemberg G. B., 1842, the Hannover G. B., 1883, and other German collections. Tr. as:—

I and my house are ready, Lord. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 103, and thence in Hys. of the Ages, Boston, U.S., 1865, p. 107; and, abridged, in the Bk. of Common Praise, 1863, No. 223.

will. Im Osten flammt empor der gol'dne Morgen. Morning. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 91, in 7 st. of 6 l., entitled "At Morning." In Knapp's Ev. L. S. 1850. Tr. as:—

The golden morn figures up the Eastern sky. This is a good and full tr. by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 74. Her st. i.-iii. are repeated in J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876, No. 60.

Other trs. are: (1) "The golden morn is in the East arisen." By the Hon. S. R. Maxwell in his Sacred Poesas, 1857, p. 114. (2) "On the far East now flames the golden Morning." By S. A. Storrs, in her Thomptis and Skeickes, 1857, p. 74. (3) "Lot in the East the golden morn appearing." By Miss Pry. 1859, p. 1. (4) "The purple marsing gilds the Eastern stice." By R. Missiel, 1860, p. 6. Repeated in Hys. of the Ages, Boston, U.S. 1855, p. 113. (5) "Out from the East the golden morn is riding." By Miss Maxington, 1863, p. 113. (6) See from the East the golden morn." By Dr. R. Magaire, 1883, p. 27.

ix. Rehre wieder, kehre wieder. Lent. Founded on Jer. ili. 12, 13. 1st pub. at Pirus, 1833, as above, p. 29, in 5 st. of 10 l., entitled "Turn again." Included in the Württemberg G. B., 1842, and many recent German collections. 27, as:—

1. Return, return! Poor long-lost wanderer, home. This is a free tr. by Miss Borthwick in H. L. L., 2nd Ser., 1855, p. 25 (1884, p. 90). Included, omitting at. iii., and altered, in Kennedy, 1863, and thence in the Horox Hyl., 1871.

2. Turn, poor wanderer, ere the sentence. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1880, p. 69, repeated, omitting st. ii., v. in the Meth. N. Conn. H. Bk., 1863.

Other tru. are: (1) "Turn, O turn, no more delaying." By the Hon. S. R. Maxwell, in bis Sac. Poeme, 1887, p. 101. (2) "Return, return, thou lost one." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 59. (3) "Return again! return again." By J. Kelly, in bis Hya, of the Present Contary, 1885, p. 50.

m. Meins Stund ist noch nicht kommen. Cross and Consolation. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 37, in 7 st. of 6 l., entitled "The Lord's Hour." In Knapp's Ev. L. S. 1850. Tr. as:—

Jame' hour is not yet come. This is a free tr., omitting st. v., by Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 2nd ser. 1855, p. 48 (1884, p. 102). Included, abridged, in the Amer. Epis. Hys. for Church and Hone, 1860, the Scottish Exang. Union Hyl., 1878, &c.; and, in full, in Lyra Anglicana, 1864, Miss Warner's Hys. of the Church Militant, 1858, &c.

Other tra, are :-(1)" "Tis not yet the time appointed." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 41, and in Reid's Pratie Rook, 1872. (2) "My times, O Lord, are in Thy hand." By Br. R. Maguire, 1883, p. 99.

xi. Nimm hin, was dein ist, Gott, ximms hin. Surrender to God. This beautiful hymn was 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, as above, p. 58, in 5 st. of 10 l., entitled "Resignation." Ar. as:—

I give Thee back Thise own again. A good and full tr. by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1864, p. 49, repented, omitting st. ii., in the Eng. Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1867, No. 101.

rii. 0 du, der uns begegnet. Christian Service. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, as above, p. 92, in 4 st. of 4 l., entitled "The Blessing of the Blest." Tr. as:—

O Theu Whose grace first found us, Whose leve. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1864, repeated in Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884.

xiii. 0 komm, du Geist der Wahrheit. Whitsustide. 1st pub. st Pirna, 1893, as above, p. 12, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "Whitsunday." Included in the Leipzig G. B., 1844, and various later collections. Tr. as:—

Draw, Hely Spirit, nearer. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 27. Repeated, in varying centos, in Snepp's Songs of G. φ G., 1872; Harland's C. P. φ HyL, 1876; Meth. N. Conn. H. Bk., 1863, &c.

2. O some, Eternal Spirit, Of truth, diffuse Thou light. In full by E. Cronenwett, as No. 160, in the Ohio Exang. Lath. Hyl., 1880.

xiv. O Vaterhand, die mich so tren geführet. Holy Trinity. A fine hymn, 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 128, in 3 st. of 8 l., entitled "Father, Son, and Spirit." Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850 and 1865. Tr. as:—

O Father-Bye, that hath so truly watch'd.
 By Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger. 2nd Ser.,
 1858, p. 63. Her st. i. II. 1-4, and iii., altered to 3 st. of 10,10,10.10, were included in Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, U.S., 1864, No. 11.

2. Father whose hand bath led me so securely. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 124. Repeated in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860; Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872; Laudes Domini, N.Y., 1884, and others.

zv. O welche framme schöne Sitte. Spiritual Conversation. 1st pub. at Firna, 1833, as above, p. 101, in 6 st. of 8 l., entitled "The Blessing of Christian fellowship." In Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837 and 1865. Tr. as:--

It is a practice greatly blest. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 89, repeated, omitting st. iv., v., in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872.

zvi. O wie freun wir uns der Stunde. Fellowship with Christ. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, as above, p. 3, in 6 st. of 8 l., entitled "Thou hast the words of Eternal Life," and founded on St. John vi. 68. In Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850 and 1865, and other German collections. Tr. as:—

Oh! how blest the hour, Lord Jesus. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1864, p. 5. Repeated, abridged, in the Eng. Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1867. Wes. H. Bk. 1875, and others.

Another iv. is: "How great the loy, how blest the out." By Dr. R. Maguire, 1872, p. 162.

xvil. O wie manche schöne Stunde. Cross and Consolation. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 130, in 10 st. of 4 l., entitled "Comfort." Tr. as:-

1. 0 how many hours of gladness, Hath the Lord. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domes tica, 1860, p. 126, repeated, abridged, in the Bk. of Common Praise, 1863.

2. O how many hours of beauty. This is a good and full tr., by Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L., 4th Ser., 1862, p. 11 (1884, p. 185). Included, omitting st. vii., viii., and beginning "O how many hours of gladness, Has the Master dealt around," in G. S. Jellicoe's Coll., 1867, No. 128.

Another tr. is: "O how many an hour of gladness." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 16.

zwili. Schot, schot, welche Liebe. The Love of the Holy Trinity. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 19, in 3 st. of 8 l., entitled "See what Love." Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837, and other German collections. Tr. as :-

Sec. 0 see, what lave the Father. In full, by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 50. Repeated in the Meth. N. Coun. H. Bk., 1863; Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872; Hatfield's Church H. Bh., N. Y., 1872, &c.

Other trs. are: (1) "Behold the Father's love." By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 9. (2) "See! what wondrous love, how matchiess." By Miss Manington, 1863, p. 33. (3) "Behold what love the Father bath—how great." By Dr. R. Maguire, 1872, p. 68.

zix. Unser Wandel ist im Himmal! Wie ein Mensch in sich versenkt. The Christian Life. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 75, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "Our Conversation is in Heaven," and suggested by Philipp. iii. 20. Tr. as :-

As a traveller returning. In full, by R. Massic, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 73. This is found in two centos :-

1. Jenus, like the magnet, raises (st. lii., v., vi.) in the Meth. N. Conn. H. Dk., 1863.

2. Can we have our hearts in heaven (st. v., vii.) in Adams's Church Pastorals, Boston, U.S., 1864.

Another tr. in: "We are citizens of heaven." In the British Herald, January, 1869, p. 205.

xx. Wandle levobtander und schäner. Easter. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, as above, p. 8, in 9 st. of 8 l., entitled "Easter Festival." Included in the Württemberg G. B., 1842, and other recent German collections. Tr. as :-

Sun, shine forth in all thy splendour. This is a full and good tr. by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1860, p. 24, repeated in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869. Two centes, both beginning with st. iii., "Say, my soul, what preparation," are in (1) the Bk. of Common Praise, 1863, and (2) in the Ohio Evang. Luth. Hyl., 1880.

Another tr. is: "With brighter glory, Easter Sun." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 4.

uni. Wir sind des Herrn, wir leben, oder sterben. Life in Christ. A fine hymn founded on Rom. xiv. 8. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, as above, p. 96, in 4 st. of 4 l. entitled "We are the Lord's." Tr. as:—

1. We are the Lord's ; His all-aufficient merit-This is a good and full tr. by C. T. Astley, in his Songs in the Night, 1860, p. 32. Repented in Bp. Ryle's Coll. 1860, Canadian Presb. H. Bk., 1880; Landes Domini, N.Y., 1884, and others.

2. We are the Lord's, whether we live or die. Also a good and full tr. by R. Massie, in his Lyra Domestica, 1864, p. 81, and thence in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1870, and Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884.

Other trs. are: (1) "We are the Lord's la living or in dying." By seis: Fry, 1859, p. 22. (2) "We are the Lord's!—in life, in death remaining." By Mrs. Findlater, in M. L. 1862, p. 36 (1884, p. 202).

Hymns not in English C. U.:-

xxii. Ach, welche Marter, welche Plagen. Christ'i Meny. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, p. 22, in 6 st. of 8 l. Tr. as "O Lord, what sorrows past expression." By R. Marsie, 1864, p. 21, and in Reid's Praise Bk, 1872.

xxiii. Bas Leben wird oft trübe. Spiritual Dryness. 1st pub. at Piras. 1833. p. 125, in 7 st. of 8 l. The trz. are: (1) "How weary and how worthlees this life at times appears." By Miss Borthwick in H. L. L., 1854, p. 41 (1884, p. 43). Thence in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860, and the Schaff-Girman: Lib. of Rel. Poetry, 1881. (2) "Our life is often dark." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 121. (3) "This life is ofttimes gloomy." By Miss Maxington, 1863, p. 173. (4) "Life often seems so dreary." By Lady Darsad, 1873, p. 40.

xxiv. Dor du in der Nacht des Todes. Enlohance.

By Lady Darrand, 1873, p. 40.

xiv. Der du in der Nacht des Todes. Epiphany.
1st pub. at Pima, 1833, p. 4 in 5 st. of 8 l. The fre.
are: (1) "Thou Who in the night of death." By Miss Bry, 1859, p. 25. (2) "Christ whose first appearance lighted." By H. Masrie, 1860, p. 18, rejected in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1889 and 1810. (3) "Thou who in death's night of terror." By Hiss Manington, 1865, p. 14. (4) "Christ, who in Death's night of darkness." By Lady Burand, 1873, p. 1.

xxv. Des Christen Schmack und Ordensband. Reinformation. 1851 pn. 1852 pn. 1852.

xxv. Res Christen Schmuck und Ordensband. Rejocking in Tribulation. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, p. 115, in 4 st. of 4 t. The trn. are: (1) "The Christian's badge of honour here." By Mrs. Findlater in H. L. L., 1866, p. 11 (1884, p. 138). (2) "The bodge the Christian wears on earth." By R. Mussic, 1866, p. 110. (3) "The Christian's star of honour here." By Miss Manington, 1853, p. 49. (4) "The sign of faith, and love's true token." By Dr. R. Maguire, 1863, p. 72.

love's true token." By Br. R. Maguire, 1863, p. 72.

xxvi. Bu sohöne Lille and dem Fald. Trust in God.
Ist pub. at Firna, 1833, p. 87, in 6 st. of 4 l. The tre, are: (1) "Thou beauteous lily of the field, Who robed."
By S. A. Storrs in het Thoughts and Sketchez, 1857, p. 77. (2) "Thou beauteous lily of the field! Who hath." By the Hom. S. R. Maxwell, in his Socred Perms, 1857, p. 119. (3) "Thou beauteous lily of the field, Thou child to Nature dear." By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 72. (4) "Sweet lily of the field, dearne." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 14. (5) "Thou pretty lily of the field," By Miss Massington, 1863, p. 171. (6) "Thou lovely lily of the field," By Mrs. A. W. Johns in her Orig. Poems and Tr., 1882, p. 45.

xxvii. Ein 'Hollich Loos int uns gefallen. The Orig. Poens and Tr. 1882, p. 45.

xivii. Ein hisblich Loos int uns gefallen. The Caristian's Portion. 1st pub. in the 2nd ed., Lelpzig, 1833, and not in the Pirna ed. 1833 (ed. 1835, p. 119), in 8 et. of 8 d. In the Leipzig G. E., 1844, and others. Tr. as "Our lot is fail'n in pleasant places," By R. Massic, 1869, p. 198, and thence in Schaffs Christ Song, 1869 and 1970.

xxviil. Ein Filger seblekt alch an xur Fahrt. For the Tying. 1st pub at Lelpzig, 1843, p. 92, in 6 st. of 101. Tr. as (1) "A pilgrim stands on Jordan's brink." By the Hon, S. R. Maxwell, in his Sucred Poens, 1857. P. 107. (2) "A pilgrim for his new abode." By R. Massic, 1864, p. 78.

Rein. Erhalt' in mir den Lebenstrieb, das Beknen.

Xxix. Erhalt' in mir den Lebenstrieb, das Schnen. The Plant of Grace. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, p. 133, in 3 st. of 8 l. The trr. aim (1) "Maintain in me the sap of life, the yearning." By the Hon. S. R. Maxwell, in his Secred Poens, 1867, p. 117. (2) "Excite in me. O Lord, an ardent thirt." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 119. (3) "Uphold in me a living wish and longing." By Miss Manington, 1863, p. 117. xxx. Englet sin Lied der Lieder. The Lord's Song. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1823, p. 23, in 2 st. of 6 l. The trr. are: (1) "A Song of songs there is." By Miss Fry. 1869, p. 20. (2) "There is a song so thrilling." By R. Massie, 1869, p. 32. (3) "There is a song how singing." By Miss Friditer in H. L. L. 1862, p. 75 (1884, p. 207), and in the South Piace Coll., 1873, No. 170. (4) "One song of songe—the sweetest." By Miss Polaringham, in the British Herald, Sept. 1865, p. 183, repeated in Reid's Pritise Bk., 1872. (6) "A blessed Song of songs there is." By Lady Burand, 1873, p. 35. p. 35.

n. 33. Ixxi. Frenct cuch der schönen Erde. Joy in ihr Braulies of Natura. 1st pub et Pime, 1833, p. 85, in 5 st. of 4 i. In the Hannover G. B., 1863, and others. The fra are: (1) "O rejoice in Nature's beauties."

(3) "Thy will I cheerfully obey." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 49.

Exactive Ich steht in meines Herren Hand. Pratt in God. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1883, p. 64, in 5 st. of 8 l. 1u the Hannover G. B., 1883, and others. Tr. as "I place myself in Jesus hands." By R. Massie, 1869, p. 53, repeated in Reld's Pratse Hoof, 1872.

peated in Reld's Pratse Hook, 1872.

"Xxv. In der Angst der Welt will ich nicht klagen, Christien Life. Included at Pirna, 1823, p. 132, in 6 st. of 81. In Knapp's Ev. L. S. 1850 and 1865. The traser: (1) "Amid the world's verations." By Mrs. Fry, 1859, p. 41. (2) "Uncomplaining, though with care grown hoary." By R. Massic, 1860, p. 128, repeated in Lyra Anglicana, 1864. (3) "In this earth—life's bitter angulah." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 55.

M Lyla Angaleana, 100. (3) "If this restrictions bitter angulab." By Lady Durand, 1879, p. 55.

xxxvi. O da, den maine Scale light. Holy Commission. 1st pub. at Lelpzig, 1843, p. 73, in 8 st. of 3 l.

The trs. are: (1) "O Thou, Who holdest in my beart."

By R. Massie, 1864, p. 52. (2) "Ob Thou, my loving floughts employ." By H. Thempson, in Lyra Eucharstico, 1864, p. 327.

xxxvii. Still an definent liebevollen Hersen. The Love of Christ. Int pub. at Piras, 1833, p. 35, in 5 st. of 8 l. The trs. are: (1) "Safe on thy paternal breast."

By S. A. Storrs, in her Thoughts and Sections, 1857, p. 66. (2) "With calm repose, Ob let me lie." By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 128. (3) "Still on Thy loving heart let me repose." By R. Massie, 1866, p. 34. Themos in Bp. Ryle's Coll., 1860, and in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1868 and 1870. (4) "On Thy breast, so full of love and mercy." By Miss Mantington, 1863, p. 23. (6) "My Jeans, on Thy Heart of Perfect Love." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 63.

" From Olivet the surging crowd." By Dr. R. Maguire.

"From Olivet the surging crowd." By Dr. R. Magnire, 1872, p. 37.

xi. Was macht thr dass the weinst. Communion of Stints. Founded on Acts xxi. 13. 1st pub in the 2nd ed. Leipzig, 1833, and not in the Firns ed. 1833 (ed. 1836, p. 184), in 5 st. of 8 L. In Schaffs Bestiches G. B. 1860, as a Funcral Hymn. The trz. are: (1) "What mean ye by this wailing." By Mrs. Findlater, in H. L. L. 1855, p. 16 (1884, p. 82). (2) "What mean ye, dearly loved ones." By S. A. Storrs, in her Thoughts and Stetches, 1857, p. 79. (3) "What mean ye thus by weeping." By R. Masse, and Stetches, 1857, p. 79. (3) "What mean ye thus by weeping." By R. Masse, 1860, p. 130. (5) "Why is it that ye're weeping." By Miss Mannaglos, 1963, p. 185. (6) "What means this hitter weeping." In L. Rehlbres's Church at Sea, 1868, p. 1. (7) "What mean ye, that ye weep." In the Farming Tragaury, 1875, p. 567.

zii. Went might ber Jean Sahmersan. Repentance. 1st pub. at Pirns, 1833, p. 6, in 5 st. of 8 l. The fre.

Family Freasury, 1878, p. 567.

zil. Weint micht über Jean Schmerzen. Repentance.

zil. Weint micht über Jean Schmerzen. Repentance.

zit pub. at Pirna, 1833, p. 6; in 5 st. of 8 l. The tre.

see: (1) "For Jean's agony and death." By Miss Pry, 1859, p. 193. (2) "Wherefore weep we over Jeans." By R. Massie, 1660, p. 22, thence in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869 and 1876. (3) "Weep not over Jean's orrow." By Miss Manington, 1862, p. 50.

zili. Wie wird ums sein, wenn endlich mach dem schweren. Elevant Life. 1st pub. at Pirna, 1833, p.
142, in 8 st. of 8 l. 1a Kusppy's Fr. L. S. ed. 1852. The tre. are: (1) "How shall it be with us, when we, tran mortals." By the Hou. S. R. Maxwell, in his Sacrat Foems, 1857, p. 110. (2) "O what will be the day, when won at last." By Mrs. Bency, 1858, p. 71.
(3) "What shall we be, and wither shall we go?" By R. Massie, 1853, p. 149, and thence in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1870, and in Bp. Ryle's Cell. 1860. (4) "How will it be? when past the conflict heavy." By Miss Manington, 1863, p. 82. (6) "O what shall we be, when, the conflict o'er." By Dr. R. Magnire, 1883,
p. 158.

2011. Withen it et al. To don't writen Beight. Within Manington, 1863, p. 22. (5) "O what shall we be, when, the conflict o'er." By Dr. R. Magnire, 1882, p. 158.

p. 158.

Winter int es. In dem weiten Reiche, Winter, 1811. Winter int etc. In dem weiten Reiche, Winter, 1811. Will. Winter int etc. In dem weiten Reiche, Winter, 1811. Winter int etc. The strs. are: (1) "Winter is here, and none may dare intrude." By Miss Pry, 1859, p. 115. (2) "It is winter. All seems dead or dylin." By R. Massie, 1869, p. 15. (3) "Winter it is! o'er the mighty kingdom." By Miss Bring, 1863, p. 178. (4) "It is Winter. The wide realm of Nature." By Miss Buflingham in the British Revial, Feb. 1865. (1) "Winter is here. In Nature's wide domain." By Ludy Davasad, 1873, p. 50. (6) "It is winter; and the wide domain." By Dr. R. Magnire, 1863, p. 137. xliv. Wohl ans. der Vater hat uns lieb. The Love of God. Founded on Rom. viii. 32. 1st pub. in the 2nd ed. Lelpaig, 1834, end not in the Pirun ed. 1833 (ed. 1838, p. 110) in 7 st. of 8 !. This was, according to Lock vii. 223, one of the hymns which Spitta wrote between Easter and July, 1824, while studying the Epistle to the Romains, and which on July 7, 1844, he sent to his brother Heinrich Spitta, professor of medicine at Rostock, but Ludwig Spitta dates it "Autunn, 1833." In the Leipzig G. E. 1844, &c., It is ir, so "How blest are we! that God of ns." By R. Massie, 1860, p. 97. xlv. We ist göttliches Erbarmen. The Grace of Christ. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1843, p. 83, in 8 st. of 10 l. In Knapp's Ec. L. S., 1850 and 1865, &c. The tr. are: -(1) "Oh where doth mercy dwell." By Miss Fry 1859, p. 36. (2) "Where is Divina compassion, that." By Lady Davand, 1873, p. 67.

xiv. Wort des Labens, lautre Quelle. Holy Scripture. Included at Pirna, 1833, p. 21, in 8 st. of 8 l. In Knapp's Ec. L. S., 1860 and 1865, &c. The tr. are: (1) "Word of Life: unsulled spring: "By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 81. (3) "Word of Life: unsulled spring: "By Miss Fry, 1859, p. 81. (4) "Word of Life: hon fountain." By the Hon. S. R. Maswell in his Sacred Founs, 1867, p. 99. (2) "Thou w

1873, p. 114.

The whole of the remaining hymne in the Psalter und Harfe, 1883 and 1843, have been tr. by R. Massie, in his Lyra Homestica, vol. i. 1860, ii. 1864; and versions of many of them are included in Miss Fry's Echoes of Eternity, 1859; Miss Manington's Footprints of the Holy Dead, 1863; and Lady Durand's Inttations from the German of Spitta and Tersteegen, 1873. To annotate them in full would exceed the limits of our space.

II. From his Nachgelassene geistliche Lieder.

Leipzig, 1861. Hardly any of these have come into use in Germany; and they have either remained un-known to or have been almost entirely ig-nored by translators into English. We need only note two, viz.:-

only note two, VIZ.:

Ilvii, Die erste Ruhestätte die die Welt. Christmas.

1st pub. at Leipzig, 1861, p. 154, in 3 st. of 5 l., as No. 4 of the Hyunns for Christmas. It is tr. as "The cradite which the words has dreat." In the Family Treasury, 1865, p. 251, and signed "K. X."

Ilviii. O Herbst, du Abendstunds. Autuwn. 1st pub. at Leipzig, 1861, p. 181, in 7 st. of 4 l. It is tr. as "O autumn, fair pensive evening." By Miss Borthwick, in the Kunkty Treasury, 1865, p. 191, dated September 1864, and included in her Thoughtful Hours, 1867, p. 181.

Splendor paternae gloriae. St. Amore. [Morning.] A beautiful morning brose. [Morning.] A beautiful morning hymn, to the Holy Trinity, but especially to Christ as the Light of the World, and a prayer for help and guidance throughout the day. It is the companion and sequel to the "Aeterne rerum Conditor' (p. 28, 1.), and, like it, is almost indisputably by St. Ambrose. It has been ascribed to him by Fulgentius, Bp. of Ruspe, in North Africa (d. 533); by Bede (d. 735), in his De arte metrica; and by Hinemar, in his De una et non trina Deitate, 857. It is one of the twelve hymns which the Benedictine editors of St. Ambrose receive as genuine; and is included by Biraghi as one of the Inni sinceri e Carmi di Sant' Ambrogio, Milan, 1862. It is mentioned in the Rule of Aurelianus, Bp. of Arles (d. 555).

It is found in a MS., circa 700, in the Brit. Mus. (Vesp. A., l., f. 162); in a MS., circa 890, in the Boddedan (Junius 25, f. 123b); in four MSs. of the 11th cent., in the British Museum (Vesp. D., xil., f. 12b; Jul. A., vi., f. 24; Harl., 2861, f. 221b; Add. 30, 485, f. 75); in a MS. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (39), p. 232), in the St. Gali MSs., 387, 412, of the 11th cent.; and in the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Charch, 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B., ii., 32, f. 5b). Most of the mediaeval Breviaries include it, e.g., the Ambrosian of 1539, Mostrable of 1502, Mostrable of 1502, Mostrable of 1502, Mostrable of Most It is found in a Ms., corn 700, in the Brit. Mus. (Vesp-Betteride, 1886 and 1890; and others. The text, with a full commentary, will also be found in the Abbé S. G. Pimont's Hymner du Breviere Romain, vol. 1, 1874, p. 138; and in Dr. J. Kayser's Beiträge zur Geschichte und Erklärung der ällesten Kirchenbynnen, 1881, P. 195. [J. M.]

Translations in C.U.:-

- 1. O Jesu, Lord of heavenly grace. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 32, in 8 st. of 4 l., and his Hys. of the Church, 1841, No. 2. This tr. is found in a large number of hymn-books in G. Britain and America. In Mercer, 1864, Alford, 1867, Barry, 1862, the People's H., 1867, and others, the text is unaltered, but given sometimes with abbreviations; whilst in the Salisbury, 1857, Kennedy, 1863, the Irish Church Hyl., 1873, and others, slight changes are introduced. See also Nos. 9 and 13.
- $. From the Father's glary shining. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848, in 9 st. of 4 l.; and in Revison's Hys., &c., 1851.
  - 2. 0 Thou the Father's image blest. By E.

Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 15, la 9 st. of 4 l : and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 10. This is given in several hymn-books, especially in those of the Roman Catholics.

- 4. Thou Brightness of the Father's ray. This tr. was contributed to the 1854 ed. of the H. Noted, in 8 st. of 4 l., but by whom we cannot determine. Its use is limited.
- 5. O Christ with each returning morn. This cento, from J. Chandler's tr., in the American Sabbath H. Bh., 1858, No. 46, is composed of st. viii., vii., v., and iv., in the order named, but considerably altered. It is given in other American hymnals.
- 6. O Josu, Lord of Light and Grace. This fr. is given in H. A. & M., 1861, No. 3, in 7 st. of 4 l., st. i.-v., being Chaudler's tr., as above, slightly altered; st. vi., il. 1, 2, from Chandler, also altered; and H. 3, 4, from the H. Noted text; and a new dozology. In the ed. of 1875, the text is thus altered; st. ii. ll. 3, 4—st. iv., ll. 3, 4—st. vi., from Church Hys., 1871, altered.

7. O Splendour of the Father's Might. By E. A.

Dayman, in the Sarum Hyl., 1868.

8, O Splandour of the Father's Beam. R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868.

9. 0 Jesu, Lord of heavenly grace. This cento, in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, is thus composed: st. i.-iii., are from J. Chandler's tr., as above, and st. iv., v., are by Dr. F. J. A. Hort, and were made for Church Hys.

19. Brightness of the Fether's glory. This tr., in the Hymnary, 1872, is W. J. Copeland's tr.,

rewritten by the editors.

11. 0 come, Thou Sun of Righteousness. This, in the 1874 Suppl. to the New Cong., is composed of st. ii., iii., v., and vii., of J. Chandler's tr., as above: but considerably altered.

13. Thou Image of the Father bright. By H. M. Macgill. This appeared in the 1874 draft of the Scottish Prest. Hymnal; and, again, after revision, in the official issue of that Hymnud, 1876, and in his own Songs of the Christian Creed and Life, 1876.

13. O Jesu, Lord of heavenly grace. This cento, in Thring's Coll., 1882, is st. i .- iii., and v., from J. Chandler, as above; and st. iv., altered from Church Hys., st. iv., by Dr. Hort. In Hys. for ... Sherborne School, 1888, it reads, "O Jesu, full of truth and grace.

Translations not in U. U. :-

1. O Splendour of Paternal Light. Primer, 1706.
2. Image of the Father's might. Bp. Mant, 1837.
3. Beam of supernal glory bright. T. Doubleday's Hymnorium Amplicatum, 1844.
4. Then Splendour of the Father's light. Bp. J.

Williams, 1845.

5. Splendour of the Father's glory. R. Campbell, 1850, in O. Shipley's Annut Sanctus, 1884.

6. Thou Brightness of Thy Father's worth. J. D.

7. Of the Father Efficence bright. Card. Newman, 1863. 8. O Brightness of Thy Father's face. J. D. Chambers, 1857. 9. O Thou, who with the Father's glory crowned. Church Monitor, Bristol, 1886, p. 25. A partial render-lag only.

10. O Thou, the Splendour of the Father's glory. D.

10. O Thou, the episters.

7. Morgon, 1871.

11. Splendour of glory all divine. J. Wallace, 1874.

12. O Thou the Brightness of the Father's glory. J.

13. J.]

14. December 1830.

Sponsa Christi quae per orbem. [All Saints.] This is one of the finest of the more recent French Sequences. It is found in the Paris Missal of 1665, p. 604.

In the Paris Missal of 1739, p. 684, the name of the author is given in the margin as "Joann. B. de Contes Decanus Paris.," i.e. Jean Boptiste de Contes, who became Dean of Paris in 1647; and, after holding this office for 82 years, d. at Paris, July 4, 1679, aged 78. The Sequence is also found in the Narbonne Breviary of 1709; in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1887, No. 97, as "Spousa (printer's error) Christi quae per orbem;" in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, and in Daniel, ii. p. 377. Translations in C.U.:— [J. M.]

1. Spouse of Christ, to whom 'tis given. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1887, p. 110, in 10 st. of 10 l.; and, again, in his Hys. of the Church, 1841, No. 63. It is found in a few collections, but in an abbreviated form.

2. Spouse of Christ in arms contending. By W. Palmer, in his Short Poems and Hys., the latter mostly Translations, 1845, No. 75, in 13 st. of 4 L. It speedily passed into several collections, usually in an abbreviated form, including the People's H., 1867, and others. See also Nos. 6 and 7 below. It is the most extensively used of the trs. of "Sponse Christi."

- Species of Christ, who, through the wide world Warring still, &c. By W. J. Blew, in his Church H. & Tiene Bk., 1852-55. In two parts: Pt. il., beginning with st. vi. of the original, "Prodigi vitae, cruore;" tr. as, "Murtyrs, of their lifeblood thriftless." In Rice's Sol. from Blew, 1870. No. 127 is composed of st. i. and iv. of Pt. i.; and st. iii. of Pt. ii.
- 4. Spouse of Christ, that through the wide world Militant dest, &c. This, in J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1856 and 1861, is an arrangement of the above tra., with special indebtedness to Mr. Blew.
- 5. Bride of Christ, to whom 'tis given. Kennedy, 1863, No. 1878, is an altered form of J. Chandler's tr. as above.
- 6. Bride of Christ, through Rim contending. This, in the Sarum Hyl., 1868, is an altered form of W. Palmer's tr. as above,
- 7. Spouse of Christ, in arms contending. This, n the 1860 Appendix to the H. Noted, No. 164, s thus composed : st. i.-viil., and x., W. Palmer, z., zi.-zlii., a new translation by an unknown hand.
- 8. Church of Christ, whose glorious warfare. By J. Ellerton; written for and 1st pub. in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, with the omission of st. ii.; and in full in the Hys. for Use in the Church of S. Ethelburge, Bishopsgate, London, 1873. In the 1889 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M. it is altered to "Bride of Christ, whose glorious warfare," and in Mr. Ellerton's Hymns, &c., 1888, this revision is dated "1887."
- 9. Spouse of Christ in warfare glorious. In the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880; and the Hymner, 1882.
- In Kennedy, 1863, " As the Church to-day rejoices," is a cento from W. Palmer's tr., as above, beginning with st. ii. in the original, " Hee dies canctis dicata." [J. J.]

Spurgeon, Charles Haddon, the worldfamons preacher, was b. June 19, 1834, at Kelvedon, in Essex, where his father was Congregational minister. He was educated at Colchester, and at an Agricultural College years usher in schools at Newmarket and Cambridge. In 1851 he became minister of a small Baptist church at Waterbeach, near Cambridge, and soon attained great popularity. In 1854 he removed to New Park Street, London, the place where Drs. Gill and Rippon had formerly ministered, and ere long the thronging of people to hear him led, first, to the temporary occupation of Exeter Hall, and of the Surrey Music Hall, and then to the erection of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle, where he still ministers. Mr. Spurgeon is chiefly known as a preacher and as the author of many vols. of sermons, expositions, and other homiletical literature; but he is also a hymn writer, and the compiler of a well-known hymn book. This book was prepared, in 1866, primarily for the use of the congregation at the Tabernacle. Heuce its title Our Own Hymnbook, a collection of Ps. & Hys. for public, social, and private worship. It contains 220 versions of the Praims, and 910 hymns, Of Mr. Spurgeon's contributions noted below, only one, "Sweetly the holy hymn," can be regarded as possessing any particular merit. The others do not rise above respectable mediocrity. His psalm-versions and hymns, all dated 1866, are :-

- Amidst us our Beloved stands. Holy Communion.
   Behold, O Lord, my days are made. Ps. maxis.
   Blessed is the man that feareth. Ps. cxii.
- - 5. Here, 0 ye faithful, see. Hoty Espatim.
    5. I will exait Thee, Lord of boxis, Ps. zz
    6. Jesus, poorest of the poor. Ps. zli.
    7. Lord, I would dwell with Thee. Ps. zv.
- Lord, make my conversation charte. Ps. laviii.
   Lord, Thy church without a paster. Election of a Minister.
- 10. Make laste, O Lord, my soul to bless. Ps. lzz.
  11. O God, be Thou no longer still. Ps. lzzziti.
  12. O God, Thou hast east off Thy saints. Ps. lz.
  13. Our ears have heard, O glorious God. Ps. zlio.
  14. Praise the Lord with exultation, My whole heart,
- c. Ps. cvi. 15. Elsen Lord, Thou hast received. Election of a

- inner.

  16. Sweetly the holy hymn. Prayer Meetings.

  17. The foce of Zion quake for fright. Pa, iiii.

  18. The Holy Ghost is here. Prayer.

  19. The Kings of earth are in the hands. Pa. kzzzi.
- 20. Thy strength, O Lord, makes glad our King. Pr.

In addition to these Mr. Spurgeon re-wrote or added to the hymns of others, as "Come ye who bow to sovereign grace"; "Great King of Zion, now"; "O God, before whose midant throne"; and "Woe's me that I in Mesech ; and composed two Graces for before, two for after Meat. [W. R. S.] and two for after Meat.

Stabat mater dolorosa. Pope Inno-cent III. † [Passiontide.] This noble poem (used both as a sequence and as a hymn) has been, not unjustly, styled the most pathetic hymn of the Middle Ages. The vividness with which it pictures the weeping Mother at the Cross, its tenderness, its beauty of rhythm, its melodious double rhymes almost defying reproduction in another language, and its impressiveness when sung either to the fine plainsong melody or in the nuble compositions which many of the great masters of music have set to it, go far to justify the place it holds, and has long hold, in the Roman Catholic Church. It was not indeed officially sanctioned for general use, or regularly incorporated in the Roman Breviary or Missal, till by deat Maidstone, after which he was for a few cree of Pope Benedict xiii., in 1727; but long before that date it was in popular use, especially after the Flageliants in the 14th cent. had brought it into notice by singing it on their way from town to town. The passages of Holy Scripture on which it is based are St. John xix. 25; St. Luke ii. 35; Zech. xiii. 6; 2 Cor. iv. 10; and Gal. vi. 17.

Concerning the authorship of this poem there has been, and still is, a great amount of uncertainty. It has been ascribed to Pope Gregory the Great (d. 604), to St. Bernard of Clairvaux (d. 1153), to Pope Innocent III. (d. 1216), to St. Honaventura (d. 1274), to Jacobus de Benedictis (d. 1306), to Pope John XXII. (d. 1834), to Pope Gregory xt. (d. 1378), &c. The verse-form is, however, not earlier than about 1150, while Daniel, ii. p. 140, cites it as in a ms. not later than 1360. The only ascriptions which bear any impress of probability are those to Pope Innocent III, and to Jacobus de Benedictis.

de Benedictis.

For Pope Innocent III. there is, it must be confessed, little positive evidence. Pope lienedict xiv. (d. 1758), who had made Hymnology a special study, in his De festic Bossian nostré Jesu Christi, Padus, 1758, ascribes it to Pope Innocent III. So does F. E. von Hurter, in his Geschichte Papet Innocenz des dritten, Harnburg, 1824-12. So also does More in the notes to his No. 446. Certainly Pope Innocent III. had quite sufficient ability to have written such a masterpiece, and the ascription is strengthened by the fact that to him has been attributed, with great probability, another masterpiece of Latin sacred poetry, vis. the "Veni Sancle Spiritus Et emitte" (q. v.).

For Jacobus de Benedictis (Jacopone) the evidence af first sight seems more probable. In the Bibliotheque Nationale at Paris there is a Ns. of the beginning of the lists cent., which formerly was catalogued as No. 7763, but now bears the presermant "Foude italien, No. 156." From a collation kindly, sent by M. Leopold Belisle, the Principal Librarian, it appears that the title of this its. Is "Incipiunt landes quas fect sanctus frater Jacobus de Tuderio, ordiois fratrum minorum," &c. Bestdes poems in Italian this Ms. has the following in Jacobus de Tuderto, ordinis fratrum minorum," &c. Besides poems in Italian this Ms. has the following in Latin:

i. Jasus dulcis memoria. il. Verbum caro factum est. lli. Crux de te volo conqueri, f. 107, f. 108. iv. Car mundus militat. f. 108 b. v. Ave regis angelorum. f. 109 vi. Stabat mater speciosa. vii. Stabat mater dolorosa. f. 109 b. £ 111.

The whole of these, save No. 1, are also included in the Laude of Jacopone, pub. at Breeds in 1485. But No. i. is certainly not by Jacopone (see p. 535, ii.) No. ii. is also certainly not by Jacopone (see p. 535, ii.) No. iii. is also certainly not by Jim (see "Verbum caro"). His claim to No. Iv. is also exceedingly doubtful (see g. the Exclesiologist, July 1888, p. 17). It may be added that no Latin poems are found in the ed. of Jacopone's Laude, pub. at Florence in 1896, nor in the ed. of his Cantici, pub. at Rome in 1856. In the companions of the Franciscon. Jacopone's Jacob, pub. at Rorence in 1890, nor in the ed. of his Cantici, pub. at Rome in 1856. In the completest edition of his poems, that by the Franciscan, Glovanni Tressati (Venice, 1817), the "Stabat mater diolorous," is not included. The present writer, in view of all the evidence at his command, has come to the of all the evidence at his command, has come to the conclusion that it is exceedingly doubtful if Jacopone wrote any Latin hymne; or alternatively that he was merely an alterer or imitator of earlier compositions. It is almost impossible to believe that the person who wrote the "Subat mater dolorosa" could also have written the "Subat mater specieus." This difficulty being fait, it has been sought to meet it by asserting that the dolorosa is by Jacopone, and that the speciesa is by some initiator of his style. To the present writer the contrary supposition is much more probable, vic. that. some imitator of the style. To the present writer the contrary supposition is much more probable, viz. that the species is by Jacopone and that the delerous is by an earlier writer. Indeed Jacopone does not seem to have person could be supposed truly to pray to be allowed to pass through such an ordeal (see the Rossan Brestary under Sept. 15). And in the Valgate there are various close parallels, e.g. Zech. ziit. 6 ("Et dictur et, Quid sunt plagistate in medio mannom tusrum? It dicet, this plagatas sum in done corum qui diligebant me "), which the medianul writers referred to the Passion of Our Lord Cel. zii 16 (HE-conte. Eithert Derivate Passion of which the mediaval writers referred to the Passion of Our Lord; Gal. vi. 16 ("Ego enim stigmata Dominil Jesu in corpore meo porto"), &c. As to the account of Jacopone given by Luke Wadding in his Scriptore ordiniz Minoruse, Rome, 1850, one must bear in mind that Wadding was an Iriah Franciscan, and not unwilling to claim for his Order at least all that was its due. And in fact Wadding's account is much more of the nature of a series of pious imaginations than of a sober record of actual facts. record of actual facts.

From or account races.

From the other was, containing the poem one does not get very much help, for none of those yet described are earlier than the 14th cent. In a Ms. circa 1380, or slightly later, and now in the Bodleian (Literg. Miss., 251, f. 242 b), it occurs with the note, "Bonifacius Papa, concessit cul libet disenti hune planetum beatag Marine concessit cull libet discuti hune planetum heatan Marine septem annes et quadraginta quatnor dies indulgentiarum." This almost certainly refers to Boniface vur., Pope from 1294 to 1303, for Boniface rx. did not become pope till 1398. But if the accounts of the relations between Pope Boniface vur. and Jacopone are at all trustworthy, it is most improbable that this Pope (who is said to have shut Jacopone up in prison, from which he was only released after the Pope's death in 1303) would have thus honoured the poem had he known that it was by Jacopone; though if he knew that it was by Pope Innocent 111. his action would be intelligible enough, In a Ms. of the 14th cent, in the Brit. Mss. (Arundel, 214, f. 111) it is headed, "Quitunque recitaverit hune planetum heatac virginis Mariae devoto code consequator septem annos et xi. karenas indulgentiarum a pung Boni-214, f. 111) it is headed, "Quicunque rectaverit hunc planctum beatae virginis Mariae devoto corde consequator reptera annos et xi. karenas Indulgentiarum a punp Bontfaclo." The poem is also in a 15th cent. as. In the Bodleian (Askwasie 1201, f. 180); in a Horze, circa 1440, in the British Museum (Add. 18192, f. 223b); in three ars. of the 15th cent. at St. Gall (Nos. 208, 483, 513); in three ars. of the 15th cent. at Einsteide in (Nos. 298, 764, 765), &c. More, No. 445, prints it from a Lichtentish, a Belchenau, a Mainz, and a Salburg Ma., all of the 14th cent., and from other sources. More thinks that the cardinal form was by Hope Innocent III., and that Jacopone may have made alterations and additions. He says that the text of the Roman Missal, will st., in-viit. omitted, would represent a form soited to the Seven Dolours of the B. V. M., and that this form is found in some has. But the original form would, he thinks, be represented by six stanzs of the text of the Roman Missal, with slight alterations, and arranged in the order 1, 4, 3, 5, 9, 10. This proposed text is actually printed by Wackernaget, i. No. 214, under the name of Innocent III. (as No. 262 Wackernaged prints the 10 stanza form under the name of Jacopone); but it is need to the restribed. Damiel, H. pp. 121, 285, iii. p. 291, v. p. 59, prints the text from a me, at Munich of chrea 1350, and from other sources. Daniel also prints the text given by Georgius Stella (d. 1429) in his Annales Genaciaes, where Stella speakes of it as being sum by the Flaggllants (d. 1600) in his Lourium Rermonum. It may be noted in passing that though Bernardinus was a Franciscan, bevilently that though Bernardinus was a Franciscan. passing that though Bernardinus was a Franciscan, be passing that though hermanians was a Franciscan, be evidently had no idea that the "Stabat mater dolorosa" was by Jacopone. The text is also in Kehrein, No. 223; in Bünler, No. 105; in Königsfeld, I. p. 180; in F. A. March's Lat. Hys., 1875, p. 171; in Card. Kewman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1805, &c.

Although, as stated above, this Sequence was brought into notice by the Flagellanis, and was well known at least as early as 1390. yet it only very gradually came into use in the services of the Church. It seems to have been added to the Breslau diocesan Missal shortly the speciesa is by Jacopone and that the deferonate by an earlier writer. Indeed Jacopone does not seem to have been capable of writing such a poem as the "Sisbat nater deference." Certain of the expressions in at. vi.-ix. of the deferona have been thought to refer the Signutisation of St. Francis of Assissi, the inference drawn being that the hymn was by a Franciscan, This, if true, would make it impossible that at least the current form should be by Pope Innocent III., for he did 1211, and the date commonly assigned to the conficulty assigned to the conficulty and the date commonly assigned to the conficulty and the date commonly assigned to the conficulty and the date commonly assigned to the conficulty of the Stigmas on St. Francis is Sept. 15, 1224. It is however a little difficult to see how any ordinary in the Bodleian, as well as in the printed eds.; the text being also in Wackernagel, i., No. ] 263, and in Kayser as below.) It was not received into the Roman Missal or Breviary till after 1727, and is there appointed for use in the office of the Seven Dolours of the B. V. M., held on the Friday after Passion Sunday (the office of the Seven Dolours appointed in the Breviary for the 3rd S. in September uses other hymns). In the Roman Breviary it is divided into three parts, viz. st. i .- v. at Vespers ; vi., vii. ("Sancta mater, istud agas"), at Matine; and viii.-x. ("Virgo virginum prae-clars"), at Laude.

There is quite a literature on the subject of the "Stabat mater dolorosa." The best and most complete summary of it is that by Dr. J. Kayser, in his Beiträge zur Geschichte und Erklärung der ältesten Kirchenhymnen, vol. ii., Pederborn, 1886, pp. 110-192, where the different forms of the text are printed in full, with an elaborate commentary and a full ap-paratus of various readings. See also Dr. P. Schaff, in Hours at Home, for May 1867.

The "Stabat mater dolorosa" is also worthy of note by reason of the frequency with which it has been set to music by the great composers, such as Palestrina, Pergolesi, Haydn, Bossini, and, more recently, Dvorak, The particulars regarding their printed settings are given at length by C. H. Bitter, in his Studie zum Stabat mater, Leipzig, 1883. See also the Cascilien Kalender (Regensburg, Pustet), 1883, p. 59; 1886, p. 79; 1888, p. 97.

It is also noteworthy on account of the very numerous translations in which it has passed into various European languages. Dr. F. G. Lisco, in his Stabat Mater, Berlin, 1843, prints 78 versions in German, to which list a good many more might now be added. The list of English trs., as will be seen below, is also large. The fact that so much of the hymn is directly addressed to the B. V. M. has limited its use in hymn-books outside those of the Roman Catholic Church. Perhaps the most skilful attempt to bring the hymn into greater harmony with 1 Tim. ii. 5, is by J. S. B. Monsell, in his Parish Hyl., 1873 (see below). [J. M.]

The trs. of this poem into English are (1) of the full text, as in the Roman Missal and Breviary; and (2) of the stanzas as appointed for Vespers, and are:-

i. Roman Missal and Breviary text. This text is thus divided :-

Vespers. Stabat Mater deloresa. Matins. Saucta Mater istud agas. Lauds. Virgo virginum pracolara.

and is tr. sometimes with these divisions, and again as one hymn, viz. :-

 At the Cross her station keeping. Vespers. Holy Author, pierce me through. Matins. Virgin of all virgina best. Lauds.

By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, 138; and in his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 76. Some three or four lines are from Bp. Mant's tr. as below. In these divisions, or as one hymn, this tr. is extensively used in Roman Catholic hymn-books for Missions and Schools.

2. Led her heart with anguish rending. Vespers. -This, O Holy Jesu, grant me. Matins. King of saints, all saints out-shining. Lauds. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hymn & Tune Bh., 1852-55. The tr. of the Vespers text in also in Rice's Sel. from Blew, 1870, No. 39, altered to-" Stood the wos-worn Mother weening.

3. At the Cross her station keeping. This, in the Roman Catholic Hys. for the Year, N.D. [1867], is composed of two parts: Pt. i. being E. Caswall's tr. of the Vespers text, as above; and Pt. ii., "Fount of Love and holy sorrow, a tr., probably by Dr. Rawes (the editor), of the rest of the hymn. This combined tr. is also in the Catholic Hyt., N.D. [1860].

4. Plunged in grief the Mother stood. In The Crown of Jesus H. Bk., N.D. [1862]; a tr. of the full text as one hymn,

5. Sorrowful the Mother stood. In Saint Winifred's H. Bh., N.D. [1860]; a tr. of the full text as one hymn.

6. Close beneath the Cross that bore Him. By Francis Trappes, in his Liturgical Hys. for the Chief Festivals of the Year, &c., N.D. [1865]. In full, as one hymn.

7. Stood the mournful Mother weeping. By J. S. B. Monsell, in his Parisk Hymnal, 1873; and his Watches by the Cross, 1876. In full, as one հչթու

Other trs. are :--

 The Mother stood in woful wise. Primer, 1599.
 The Mother stood with griefe confounded. Primer, 1615.

 The delorous chest Mother stood. Primer, 1685.
 Under the World-Redeeming Rood. Primer, 1687 and 1706.

5. Close by the ever-hallow'd cross that bore. D. French, 1838.
6. See the Mother stands deploring. A. D. Wackerbarth, 1842.

7. Bathed in tears, and deeply grieving. W. Palmer,

8. Tearful stood the Mother lowly. J. R. Reste, 1849.

8. Lo the Mother standeth fearful. J. D. Chambers, 1857.

10. By the Cross sad vigil keeping. Lord Lindsay in Seven Great Hys. of the Uhurch, 1866. 11. Stood th' afflicted Mother weeping. A. Cules, 1867.

12. By His Cross the Mother stood, Hanging on its fatal wood. D. T. Horgan, 1871.
13. How sorrowful the Mother etool. J. Wallace.

1874.

14. By the Cross on which suspended. D. F. Mac-Custky, in O. Shipley's Annas Stactus, 1834.

15. Weeping sore the Mother stood. J. D. Aylusqrd, in Skipley, as above.

18. Weeks Cross of expigition. A. de Vere, in Skipley,

as above.

ii. The Vespers text. Stabat Maler,

1. By the Cross and vigil keeping, Stood the Mother, doleful, weeping. By Bp. R. Mant, in the British Magazine, Oct. 1833, p. 397, in 5 st. of 6 l., and signed "A." It was repeated in Bp. Maut's Ancient Hys., 1837, p. 54, and 1871, p. 96. The original tr. was given in the Pcopte's  $H_{\rm eff}$  1867; and, again, with slight alterations, in the Hymnary, 1872, and other collections.

2. By the Gross, and vigil keeping, Stood the mourning [mournful] Mother weeping. This cento appeared in Murray's Hymnod, 1852, No. 50, in 5 st. of 6 l. Of these 30 lines, 15 are from Mant, 1 from Caswall, and 14 altered from Mant, by the Editors.

3. By the Cross her station keeping. This, in the Sorum Hymnal, 1868; the Parish H. Bk., 1863 and 1875; and Thring's Coll., 1882, is Murray's text; in each case with slightly differing alterations.

4. At the Cross her station keeping. This cento, bs given in H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875, is composed of 2 lines directly from Castoall, 21 lines directly or indirectly from Mont, through Murray, as above, and 7 lines by the compilers. Its proper designation, therefore, is "A cento, based upon Bp. Mant and E. Caswall, from Murray's Hymnel, 1852, somewhat altered." As Caswall's tr. begins with the same opening lines as this cento, it should be noted, to distinguish the two, that st. 5 begins in each thus:

Carpail: - "O thou Mother | fount of love! Touch my spirit from above."

H. A. & M. :- "Jesu, may ber deep devotion, Stir in me the same smotion."

The H. A. & M. cento is found in a few collections; but outside of that work it is not so extensively used as the Murray cento, as above.

- 5. By the Orose, in anguish sighing. This tr. appeared in the Rugby School Ps. & Hys., 1850 (probably before), No. 62, in 4 st. of 6 l. (ed. 1876, No. 105). It was possibly made by J. H. Buckell, then Assistant Master in the School, and co-editor of the collection.
- 4. Mear the Gross was Mary, weeping. J. W. Alexander, in his work, The Breaking Crucible, and Other Translations, 1861; and in Laudes Domini, N. Y., 1884.
- 7. By the Cross her sad watch keeping. This cento, in Skinner's Daily Service Hyl., 1864, is composed of st. i .- v., from Bp. Mant, and st. vi.,
- vii., by the Editor.

  9. By the Gross and vigil keeping. This tr., in the Anglican H. Bk., 2nd ed., 1871, is by R. C. Singleton, the Editor, based upon Bp. Mant; and can be distinguished by st. v., which begins, "Fountain of divine affection."

Other tra, are :-

Forth pouring many a bitter tear. By "0," in the British Magazine, July 1833.
 By the Cross in angulah weeping. By G. Rurisoh.

in his Hys. & Anthons, 1851.

In addition to these metrical renderings of the Roman Missal and Breviary text, .Irs. Charles has, in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 208, a prose tr. beginning, "The mournful mother stood tearful beside the Cross." There are also two or three metrical renderings by American writers, which we have been unable to verify. [J. J.]

Stabat mater speciosa. Jacobus de Benedictie.? [Christmas.] As mentioned in the note above, this sequence is found in a 15th cent. Ms. in the Bibliotheque Nationale at Paris (formerly No. 7783, now Funds italien, 559 f. 109 b), and in 13 stanzas. From this MS, it was printed by O. F. Ozanam, in his Poëtes Franciscains en Italie au treizième Siècle, 1852 (Œuvres Complètes, Paris, 1855-1865, vol. v. p. 170), and his text is repeated in Königsfeld, ii. p. 242; F. A. March's Lat. Hys., 1875, p. 173; and in Dr. J. Kayser's Beiträge zur Geschichte und Erklärung der ältesten Kirchenhynnen, vol. ii., Paderkorn, 1886, p. 185. Ozanam thought it had never been printed, but it had appeared in Jacopone's Laude, Brescia, 1495. It has not been found in any other sources earlier than 1500, and for this cause, and for reasons mentioned in the preceding note, the present writer is inclined to think that it may possibly be by Jacopone. It has a certain beauty if looked at by itself. But on comparison with the "Stabut mater dolorosa" it is seen to be a servile and rather tame imitation of that poem, giving, on parallel lines, a picture of the B. V. M., as she may be supposed to have stood joyfully watching beside our Lord's cradle at Bethlehem. It never came into liturgical use. The tra, into English include:-

1. Pull of beauty stood the Mether. By J. M. Neals (with the Latin text), in his Stabat mater speciess, London, N.D. 1868, p. 9. His tr. has been repeated in the St. Maryaret's Hymnol (Bast Grinstead), 1875, in three parts, Pt. 1. beginning "Mother, fount of love still flowing," and Pt. iii., "Virgin, peerless of condition."

3. Stands that Mother more than beauteous. An anonymous tr. in the Roman Catholic Parochial H. Bk., x.D. [1880]. [J. M.] [J. M.]

Staffordshire Hymnbooks. In the early part of this century several collections were published in Staffordshire for local use. It will prevent confusion to treat these as a group. The first is:—

A Selection of Ptalms and Hymns for Public and Private Use. Ultozeter, Richards, 1806.

This Sel. contains 27 pealms (to which the Old 100th was added in later editions) and 128 hymns, many of which are from Watts, Cowper, and Newton. It was edited by the Rev. Jonathan Stubbs, M.A., sometime Fellow of New College, Oxford, and Curate-in-charge of Uttoxeter from 1804 until his death in 1810. He was assisted in compiling the Cell. by the Rev. T. Cotterill (q.v.), the Rev. Thomas Gis-borne, and the Rev. Edward Cooper. Of Gisborne and Cooper we append the following biographical defails ;—

biographical details:—

Gisborne, Thomas, M.A., s. of Mr. John Gisborne, of Yoxall, was b. circs 1760, and educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he was 5th Wrangler of his year, and Chancellor's Medalist, graduating B.A. in 1780, and M.A. in 1783. Subsequently he became a Probendary of Durham. He was the author of Sermons; the Duties of Men; the Duties of Women; Poems Sacred and Mored, 1799 (to the later editions of which his hymns were added), 3rd ed. 1803; and of another volume of poetry entitled, Walks is a Forest, 1735. The following hymns by him are found in the Witcoxter Sel.:— Uttoweter Sel .:-

1. A soldier's course from battles won. Soldiers of Christ. No. 72, in 6 st. of 4 l., and in several hymn-books.

2. Hark! 'tis the hell with solemn toll. Death.

2. Hark! "Lis the field with solemn toll. Brain.
No. 14, in 6 st. of 4 l.
3. O Father, glorify Thy name. In Sickness. No. 82, in 5 st. of 4 l.
4. Saviour! when night involves the skies. Christ All and in All. No. 80, in 4 st. of 4 l.
5. Thy humblest works with full accord. Teachings of Mahree, No. 10 in 4 st. of 5.

of Nature. No. 118, in 4 st. of 4 1.

5. When groves by mocalight sitence keep. The hour of Peace. No. 116, in 4 st. of 4 1.

All the above hymns, except No. 2, are in Gisborne's

Poems, 3rd ed., 1993.

Poems, 3rd ed., 1993.

Cooper, Edward, s.A., of Queen's College, and sometime Feilow of All Souis' College, Oxford, was Rector of Hamstall-Ridware from 1799 to 1833, and of Yoxall, Staffordshire, from 1899 to 1833. He published several volumes of Scraons, and edited a small 'vil. of Hynns (see No. 4 below). b. 1770, d. 1833. He contributed to the Utionsist Set.:—

1. Father of heaven, whose love profound. No. 61. (See p. 389, i.)

2. This is the day the Lord hath blest. Sanday. No. 69, in 4st. of 41.

No. 69, in 4 st. of 4 l.

The hymns in the Uttoxeter Sel. which Cotterill is believed to have written or recast ATO :-- Almighty Father, God of grace. For Pardon.

 No. 64, in 4 st. of 4 l. See p. 53, ii.
 Bless'd with the presence of their God. See

Bless u was the p. 147.5.
 Jesus, exalted for on high, No. 77. See p. 898, il.
 Not unto us, but to Thy name. See p. 811, il.
 When the archangel's trump shall sound.

Next in order of time we have the following collection :-

Portions of the Praint, chiefly selected from the Versions of Merrick & Watts, with Occasional Hymns, adapted to the Service of the Church, for every Sunday in the Year. Uttozeter, Hichards, 1908.

This Coll. contains 174 Portions of Paalms (to which may be added 8 second and third parts not separately indexed), 12 Doxelogies, and 33 Hymns (with 9 second or third parts). It repeats E. Cooper's hymn "Father of beaven;" but with the exception of this and a few pealm versions found in all collections. it is wholly different, both as regards con-tents and plan, from the Uttoxeter Coll. of 1805, with which Mr. Ellerton in his Notes to the fol. ed. of Church Hymns has confounded it, also erroneously assigning the editorship of the latter to E. Cooper, whose own Coll. was not published until 1811 (see iv.). A reference in the Coll. of 1808 to Ashbourne (a parish in Derbyshire on the borders of Staffordshire), and the statement that the music to which five of the hymns were sung was adapted or composed by Edward Simms, then organist of Ashbourne church, indicate that in all probability the Coll. was intended for use in that parish, and it is not unlikely that it was compiled by the Rev. Samuel Shipley, who became Vicar in 1806.

3. The third Sel. in this section is :-

A Selection of Pealms and Hymns for Public and Private Use. Newcastle, Staffordshire, 1810.

This Sel. was compiled by the Rev. T. Cotterill, and went through 8 editions. [See Cotterill, T., p. 263, Li.]

4. The fourth Sel. is :-

A Selection of Praims and Hymns. Lichfield, Lonax, 1811.

This Sel was made by the Rev. Edward Cooper for use in his churches of Hamstall-Ridwore and Yoxall. A 2nd edition appeared in 1823. It is a small book, containing only Ken's Morning Hymn, 26 Pealms, and 19 Hymns. Of the latter, "Father of heaven, whose love profound" and "This is the day the Lord hath blest" are respectively Nos. 3 and 4.

The fifth Sel, is:-

A Selection of Pealms and Hymns for public wor-ship. Uttazeter, Norris & Son, 1813.

6. The Uttoxeter Sel. of 1805 remained in use for many years, and passed through several editions (4th ed. 1814) unaltered, until 1843, when a revised ed. was pub. This contains 49 Pealma, 1 Gloria Patri, 94 Hymns, and an Introductory Anthem, 145 pieces in all, of which 106 were taken from the older Sel. About 1854 this revised to a function of the replaced at Uttoxeter by A Church Hymnbook and Holydoy. London, for every Sunday and Holyday. London, Masters. One of the hymne (No. 126) in the Uttazeter Sel. of 1805, "When heaves with sight my anxious breast," in 5 st. of 4 l., is by the Rev. Humphrey Price, Curate and afterwards (1819-53) Incumbent of Christ Church, Needwood, but it does not appear that he had any further part in compiling the Sel. This hymn was included afterwards in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist.

7. As connected with Staffordshire, though hymn-writers may be named here, the Rev. John Wakefield and Lady Lucy Whitmore.

John Wakefield and Leady Lucy Whitmore.

Wakefield, Jshm, M.A., a. of Mr. Thomas Wakefield, was b. at Uttoxeter, Jan. 17, 1798; educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. 1824, M.A. 1827. Took Holy Orders in 1824, and after holding curactes at St. Alkmund's and All Saints, Derby, became Rector of Hughley, Shropshire, in 1851. His compiled A Collection of Fradme and Hymna, chiefly designed for Public Worship. Helper, J. Mason, 1828, containing 100 Festims and 210 Hymna; and in 1831 printed privately a small vol. of 24 original hymna entitled Hymna and Spiritual Songs, recreations in age and seclusion of a Rural Pastor. W. Lawley, printer, Mich Wenlock; and in 1888, an Appendix thereto of 8 hymns.

hymns.
Whitmure, Lady Lucy Etirabeth Georgians, was the only dau. of Orlando, 2nd Baron and let Earl of Fradford, b. Jan. 22, 1792, married in 1816 to Mr. William Wolryche Whitmore, of Dudmaston, Shropahire, and d. Mar. 17, 1840. She published, "Family Prayers for Every Day in the Week," dec. 1824, containing 14 ori-ginal Hymne; 2nd edit. 1827. No. viii, of these hymne, "Father, again in Jesus' name we meet." (p. 388, il.)

has passed into many collections.

To information furnished by the Rev. J. Wakefield we are indebted for much of the materials employed in this article. (G, A, C)

Stallybrass, James Steven, fourth a. of the Rev. Edward Stallybrase, of the London Missionary Society, was b. Oct. S. 1826, at Sclenginsk, in the province of Irkutsk, Siberia, where his father was then stationed. He resided for many years in Stoke Newington, London, and d. there Dec. 2, 1888. He was a well known educationist, and tr. from the German a number of scientific and other works. He contributed a large number of trs. from German hymns and poems to the various publications of Mr. Curwen, e. g. to the Songs and Tunes for Education, 1861; the Tonio Sol fa-Reporter, &c. In 1859 he contributed tra of 4 German hymns to Mr. Curwen's Sablath H. Bk. (Nos. 234, 417, 418, 420). To Mr. Cur-wen's Child's Own H. Bk., 1862, he also contributed:-

CONSTRUCTED:

1. Who through Heaven is guiding. God the Child's Guide. This was originally pub. in 5 et. of 5 l., as No. 117 in. Songs and Tunes, 1861, and marked as a tr., but Mr. Stallybrasa in 1861 could not remember from what. It has since been included in the Congregational Bk. of Praise for Children, 1861.

2. High heaven! my home and fatherland. Heaven Anticipated. 18th, as No. 195, in Sungs and Tunes, 1861, and marked as a tr., but Mr. Stallybrasa in 1881 regarded it as an original composition.

For Mr. Stallybrass's tra, from the German noted in this Dictionary see Index of Authors and Translaters. [J. M.]

Stammers, Joseph, was b. at Bury St. Edmunds in 1801, and educated for the legal profession. After practising in London as a solicitor for some time he was called to the Bar in 1838, and joined the Northern Circuit. (Lyra Brit., 1868.) He d. in London, May 18, 1885. His popular hymn —

Breast the wave, Christian (Perseverance) was contributed to the Cottage Magarine (a small serial edited by the Rev. John Suckworth, Lite Vicar of Downbury) in 1850. It has passed into several collections, including the Bap. Ps. & Hyt., 1858; the People's Hyl., 1857 (altered), and others.

Mr. Stammers also contributed 4 hymns to Dr. Rogers's Lyra Brit., 1868, but these have not come into C. U. [J. J.]

Stand, soldier of the Cross.  $B_{\mathcal{P}}$ . E. H. Bickersteth. [Adult Baptism.] Written for the let ed. of his Hymnal Comp. 1870, No. 291, Written for not as compilers of Hymnels for local use, two | in 6 st. of 4 l. It was also given in his Two Brothers, &c., 1871, p. 238. On its adoption by the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, st. ii., were slightly altered by the author. [J. J.]

Stand the omnipotent decree. C. Weeley. [Trust and Confidence in God.] This is No. 16 of 17 hymns pub. in 1756, as Hys. for the Year, 1756, Particularly for the Fast-day, Feb. 6, in 4 st. of 8 l. (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. vi. p. 91). This Fast was held as a day of humiliation arising mainly out of a dread of an invasion by the French. Miss Steele's hymn "See gracious God, before Thy throne" (p. 1027, il.), was also written for the same occasion. C. Wesley's hymn was republished, without alteration, in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 60, and has since passed into a large number of collections in most English-speaking countries. It has received great praise at the hands of many writers. J. Montgomery in the preface to his Christian Psalmist, 1825, p. xxiv. ssys:—

"The bynn on the Day of Judgment, Stand the Omnipotent decree" begins with a note, abrupt and awakening like the sound of the last transpet. This is altogether one of the most darling and victorious flights of our author. Such pieces prove that if Charles Wesley's hymns are less varied than might have been defined for general purposes, it was from choice and predilection to certain views of the Gospel in its effects upon human minds, and not from want of diversity of gifts."

This was written by Montgomery in ignorance of the fact that the hymn was directly associated with Young's Night Thoughts. In his private copy of his Christian Psalmist, 1825 (in our possession) he has written in pencil on the margin opposite the above quotation "a paraphrase from Dr. Young's Night Thoughts." Juckson in his concluding chapter of the Memoirs of C. Wesley quotes this hymn as one of "two examples of the manner in which C. Wesley occasionally availed himself of the writings of other men." He says (small ed., 1848, p. 488):—

"The just and striking sentiments contained in the Night Thoughts, often proposed with great abruptness and force, were exactly suffed to Mr. Charles Wesley's peculiar temper and mental habits. He therefore esteemed this book next to the holy Schipures. Yet could be when occasion served surpass Young himself in living energy both of thought and expression, as the following example demonstrates. The author of the Night Thoughts [Night vi. The Infidol Reclaimed, pt. i.] exclaims:

'O man immortal! Hear the lefty style.
If so decreed, th' Aimighty Will be done.
Let earth dissolve, you pond'rous orbs descend,
And grind us into dust! The soul is safe;
The man emerges; mounts above the wreck,
As tow'ring fiame from Naturo's funeral pyre;
O'er devastation, as a gainer, smiles;
His charter, his inviolable rights,
Well pleas d to learn from Thunders impotence,
Death's pointiess daria, and Hell's defented storma;

"Mr. Charles Wesley, taking up the theme, thus sings in still lofter strains, and with a greater power of ex-

'Stand th' Omnipotent decree l
Jehovah's Will be done!

Nature's end we wait to see,
And bear her final groam:
Let earth dissolve, and blend
In death the weeked and the just,
Let those pond rous orbs descend,
And grind us into dust!

'Reats secure the righteous man!
At his Redeemer's beck
Sure to emerge, and rise again,
And mount above the wreck.
Lo! the heavenly spirit towers,
Like flames o'er nature's funeral pyre,
Triumphs in immortal powers,
And claps his wings of fire!'"

Jackson quotes the remaining two verses of Wesley's hymn (see Wes. H. Bk., No. 61), but omits to point out that there is nothing corresponding thereto in the Night Thoughts, and that they are strictly Wesley's original composition. Young began his Night Thoughts after the death of his wife and daughter in 1744, and the Preface to pt. ii. of "The Infidel Reclaimed," which begins a few lines after those quoted above, is dated "July 7, 1744." This would give the date of his lines as quoted, circa 1744, C. Wesley's date is 1756. We may add that line 4 in st. iv:—

"Yield we now our bodies up To earthquake, plague, and sword," refers in the carthquake to the great earthquake which demolished the city of Lisben on Nov. 1, 1755; the plague to the terrible mortality among the cattle which had been prevailing in various parts of England; and the sword to the invasion which was feared from France. These things made the strongest men in the land tremble.

[J. J.]

Stand up and bless the Lord. J. Montgomery. [Fraise and Thanksgiving.] Written for the Sheffield Red Hill Wesleyan Sunday School Anniversary, held on Mar. 15, 1824; and also used at the Whitsuntide gathering of the Sheffield Wesleyan Sunday School Union, on the Whit-Monday of that year. The opening lines of the original read:—

"Stand up and bless the Lord, Ye children of His choice."

When Montgomery included it in his Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 558, in 6 st. of 4 l, he altered this opening to:—

"Stand up and bless the Lord, Ye people of His choice:"

and this was repeated in his Original Hys., 1853, No. 86. In J. H. Thom's Hymns, &c., 1858, it begins, "Arise, and bless the Lord:" and in the American Songs for the Sanctuary, N. Y., 1865, "O Thou above all praise" (st. it. altered). It is in extonsive use in all English-speaking countries, and usually the 1825 text is followed.

[J. J.]

Stanley, Arthur Penrhyn, p.D., was b. at Alderley, in Cheshire, Dec. 13, 1815. His father, Edward Stanley, was the s. of Sir Edward Stanley of Alderley, and younger brother of the first Lord Stanley of Alderley, and was rector of the parish until 1837, when he became Bishop of Norwich. His mother, Catherine Stanley, was daughter of the Rev. Oswald Leycester, Rector of Stoke-upon-Tern, Shropshire. Arthur Stanley received his early education under the superintendence of his father; but in 1829 he was sent to Rugby to be under the direct charge of Dr. Arnold, who had been appointed to the head-mastership the year before, and of whom Mr. Stanley had been an early friend and admirer. Arthur Stanley bore the stamp of Rugby and of its great headmaster to the end of his life. In 1834 he went up to Oxford, having won a Balliol scholarship, the "blue ribbon of undergraduate life," and commenced a career of unusual brilliancy at the University. He gained the Newdigate prize for English Verse (the subject being The Gypsiss); the Ireland scholarship (the highest test of Greek scholarship), and a First Class in Classical Honoura, all in 1837. He won the Prize for the Latin Essay in 1839, the Prize for the English Essay, and the Ellerton Prize for the Theological Essay in 1840, and was in the same year elected to a Fellowship at University College. He was then appointed College Tutor, and held that office for twelve years. In 1845-6 he was Select Preacher for the University. From 1850 to 1852 he was Secretary to the Oxford University Commissioners. In 1851 he was appointed Canon of Canterbury, and held that post until 1855, when he was elected Regius Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Oxford, to which a Canonry at Christ Church was attached. He was also chosen in 1858 Examining Chaplain to the Bishop of London, his fellow Rugbeian, Dr. Tait. These offices he held until 1868, when, on the elevation of Dean Trench to the Archbishopric of Dublin, he was appointed to the Deancry of Westminster. In the same year he married Lady Augusta Bruce, a sister of the Earl of Elgiu, and a personal friend and attendant of Queen Victoria. This marriage brought him into still closer relation with the Court, at which he had before been so highly valued, that he had been twice chosen to accompany the Prince of Wales in his travels in the East. He was singularly happy in his married life, and felt the death of Lady Augusta, which occurred in 1876, as an irreparable loss. In 1872, he took part in the Old Catholic Congress at Cologne; and at the close of the same year he was again appointed Select Preacher, not, however, without considerable opposition being made to the appointment on account of the Dean's theological views; the vote, however, was carried by 349 against 287. In 1875 he was installed Lord Rector of the University of St. Andrews, having received the degree of LL.D. from that University four years previously. He died at the Deanery, Westminster, on July 18, 1881, after a short illness.

Dr. Stanley was a voluminous and very popular writer, his pure and picturesque style being singularly fascinating. The first work by which he became known to the literary world was the Life and Correspondence of Dr. Arnold, pub, in 1844. This is an almost perfect model of biography. Though the writer is distinctly a hero-worshipper, he never allows his worship to violate the rules of good taste, while he brings out all the points in his hero's character most vividly, and exercises a most wise discretion in negativities plans as far as yous! the rules of good taste, while he brings out all the points in his hero's character most vividly, and exercises a most vise discretion in permitting him, as far as possible, to tell his own tale. This was followed in 1850 by Monoirs of Edward Manky, Mishop of Norwich, and Catherine Stankey, which is very interesting both for its intrusic merits, and size as a pious tribute of fillel affection; but it does not reach the level of the Life of Arnold. In 1854 appeared the Epistlet to the Corinitation, the value of which will be variously estimated according to the theological standpoint of the render. But his next two works will command the admiration of all persons who are competent to judge. In his Historical Menorials of Canterbury, pub. in 1854, and Sinci and Polestian in connection with their History, pub. in 1858, Dr. Stanley was again on his own proper ground where his almost unique powers of description had their full scope. The former was a very popular work, reaching a 6th ed. in 1872; but Sinci and Polestian was still more warmly welcomed, and may be consistered, with the Life of Dr. Arnold, as Dr. Stanley's the I-discreted, with the Life of Dr. Arnold, as Dr. Stanley's the I-discrete, reaching a 5th ed. in 1869. Then followed a series of Lectures on the History of the Eastern Charch, pub. in 1861, this also was very popular, reaching a 5th ed. in 1869. Then followed a series of Lectures on the History of the Jewish Charch, in 2 volumes (1863-5). His next publication again showed him at his best. The Historical Memorials of Canterbury, and is, at least, worthy of its predecessor. It is a fortunate circumstance that two of the most interesting places in England should have had for their historian one who, both from his position and his powers, was, of all men, the most fitted to do juntice to his subject. Of the rest of Dr. Stanley's prose works it does not seem necessary to do more than specify the titles. They include Lectures on the History of the Church of Scotland, 1868; Except on Questions connected with Church and State, 1870; a great number of single Addresses, &c., on various subjects, and Christian Institutions, Essays on Ecclesiastical Subjects, pub. not long before his death.

Dr. Stanley attained great eminence as a preacher.

Dr. Stanley attained great eminence as a preacher, especially in his own Abbey. His manner was most solemn and impressive, and his style of composition was exactly suited for a sermon. It is fair to add that sermons would also, of course, be the species of composition in which what many considered the most unsatisfactory features of Dr. Stanley's intellectual character, his vagueness of doctrine and extreme breadth of statement, were ness of doctrine and experime breasts of statement, were most conspicuous. He pub, several volumes of sermons and single sermons. The chiefare: Sermons and Essays on the Apottolical Ape (1846), Sermons on the Unity of Conterbury Cathedral (1857), Sermons on the Unity of Evangetical and Apottolical Teaching (1859), Sermons in the East preached before the Prince of Wales (1863), Address and Sermons at St. Andrews, 1877.

The point of view from which this sketch naturally regards Dean Stonley as a writer is that from which he appears at the least advantage. Thirteen of his hymns which had been published singly have been incorporated in the Westminster Abbey Hymn Book, but none of them have attained any extensive popularity; and, to tell the truth, they do not deserve it. That exquisite taste and felicity of diction which distinguish prore or less all his prose writings seem to desert him when he is writing verse. This is all the more strange because one would have said that he regarded outward nature, as well as the works and history of man, with a poet's eye. Like another great writer, Jereny Taylor, his prose is poetical. but his poetry is prosaic. The divine afflatus is wanting. Of course he always writes as a scholar; hence his translations are more successful than his original hymns; but in neither department has he produced anything that can at all be termed classical; and it is from his general eminence rather than from his contributions to hymnology that he requires even the small space which has been devoted to him in this article. [J. H. O.]

In addition to Dean Stanley's trs. from the Latin, and his popular hymns, "He is gone! beyond the skies," and "Master, it is good to be," which are annotated elsewhere in this Dictionary, the following are also in C. U.:--

1. Let us with a gladsome mind. National Hymn. The Accession. This bymn is called "Hymn for the Accession (June 29). An Accommodation of Milton's Version of the 135th Psalm," and was pub. in Mnomillan's Magazine, June 1873, in 11 st. of 81. Lines 3, 4, of st. 1.:—

"Long our Island throne has stood, Planted on the ocean flood;"

will distinguish it from Milton's hymn.

2. O frail spirit, vital spack. Easter. Given in Michael States. May 1878, and headed "Our Future Hope." An Easter Hymn. It has been thought that there may be a place for some expressions such as the following hymn or hymns endeavour to embody, of the instruction of fancther wild move hopeful than the tracking. following hymn or hymns endeavour to embody, of the prospect of another world, more hopeful than the touching address of the Emperor Hadrian to his soul, less vague and material than Pope's graceful version of it in his well-known lines, "Vitai apark of beavenly fiame." The hymn following this introduction is in two parts:—Part 1. "O frail apirit, vital spark," in 6 st. of 8 l., and 1. ii., "Rise, my soul, and stretch thy, wings," also in 6 st. of 8 l. of Pt. l., st. 1, ll. 1-4, are from Rubert Seagrave's bymn, noted on p. 954, ii.

3. Spirit unseen, our spirits' houte. Whitsustide.

This hymn was pub. in Hocmillan's Magazine, May, 1878, in 7 st. of 8 L, and 1 st. of 9 L, with the following note:—"Manzon's Hymn for Whitsuntide. Of all the 1878, in 7 st. of 8 L, and 1 st. of 9 L, with the following note: ——"Manzani's Hymn for Whistantide. Of all the Sacred Hymns of Manzon! this is the one which breathes the most comprehensive spirit. The first part runs on the more mystical emblems of the Church. But the latter part, which alone is cupable of general use, enters into the very beart of the doctrines of the spiritual nature of Christianity, and contains a meaning beyond the original force of the words, which was intended to be contained to the limits of the Roman Church. It is in this wider sense that the following paraphrass has been attempted." Manzoni's poem on Postscoot was pub. circu 1822. (See Italian Hymnody, § 11.)

4. The Lord is come! On Syrian soil. Advent. This lynn appeared in Macapsilian's Magariae, Bec. 1872, in 8 st. of 8 L. with the following introduction:—
"Hymn for Advent. The accompanying hymn is offered as a sequel to the two which have already appeared in this Magariae, April 1870, [No. Jone 1852, see p. 500, ii.], on the Ascension, and the Transfiguration (April 1870, see p. 718, i.]. The first four stoness run parallel to the Gospets of the four Sundays in Advent, and the two last on the Gospets and Episties for Christmax."

**Where the Pauchal greening and Hill Mills Computation.

for Christmas."

5. When the Paschal evening fell, Holy Communion.

This appeared in Midemillan's Magazine, Nov. 1874, in a st. of 8 L, 1 st. of 12 L, and 1 st. of 8 L, with this introduction:—"This do in Hemembrance of Me. It is intended in the following lines to furnish a sacred hymn founded on the one common idea of commemoration which lies at the basic of all views of the Eucharist.

This provides in a continual and to express this unwhether material or spiritual, and to express this un-doubted intention of the original institution spart from the metaphorical language by which the ordinance is often described."

6. Where is the Christian's Fatherland? The Christian's Fatherland. This poem (it cannot be called a hymn) was given in Macmillan's Magazine, Nov. 1872, in 7 st. of 8 L, with the following introduction:—"The Traveller's Hymn for All Saints' Day. Being an adaptation of Arndy's Poem, 'Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland."

7. Where shall we find the Lord? Epiphany. Given in Macmilian's Magazine, March 1880, in 7 st. of 8 l., and introduced thus:—" The Divine Life. 'Who lived and introduced thus:—"The Divine Life. 'Who lived amongst men.' (In the original draft of the Niccas Creed) from the Creed of the Church of Palestine."

5. Where shell we learn to die? Good Friday. This was pub. in Macmillan's Magazine, March 1880, in 7 st. of 8 i., with the simple heading, "The Perfect Death. Direct work."

Peath. Diece wort."

8. Whe shall be the last great Beer? St. John Baptist. Appeared in Macmillan's Magnisse, July 1879, in 4 st. of 8 i., as a "Hymn for St. John the Baptist Day, June 24."

All these hymns were given in full, and without alteration, in the Westminster Abbey H. Bk., 1883. Their use is mainly confined to that collection. [J. J.]

F. T. Pal-Star of morn and even. grave. [Morning or Evening.] Written in 1862, and given to Sir R. Palmer (Lord Selborne) in Ms., and included by him in his Bk. of Praise, 1862, in 4 st. of 6 l. It is also given in the author's Hymns, 1867, p. 7, where it is entitled "The Day Star"; in the Sazon Hymnary, 1882; Thring's Coll., 1882, and others. It has been set to special music by Tilleard, Lond., Novello, 1868.

Stars of the morning, so gloriously bright. St. Joseph the Hymnographer. [St. Michael & All Angels.] In the Paracletice there are several Canons of the Bodiless Ones, and all are of an ornate character. In Dr. Neale's Hymns of the Eastern Church, 1862, these stanzas appeared with the following title and note: —" Stars of the Morning. A cento from the Canon of the 'Bodiless Ones." Thes-Tuesday in the Week of the Fourth Tone." In omitting the opening line of the Greek, Dr. Nosle, doubtless, intended it to be understood, that he had followed the spirit rather than the letter of the original. In fact, there is no attempt to reproduce the sequence of thought as set forth in the Canon, although the ornate character of the original is imitated. Since the adoption of Dr. Neale's translation for congregational use, in H. J. Palmer's Suppl. Hymnal, 1866, the People's, 1867, H. A. & M., 1868, and others, it has become most popular. and is found in a large number of hymn-books. The texts in use, however, vary considerably. Dr. Neale's authorized text is in the 3rd ed. of the H. of the E. Church, 1868. The original Greek Canon is found in modern editions of the Octoechus. [J. J.]

Statuta decreto Del. C. Coffin. [Advent.] Pub. in his Hymni Sacri, 1736, p. 35, and also in the Paris Breviary the same year, where it is appointed as the Ferial hymn at Vespers in Advent. It is in several modern French Breve, in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, No. 38, and Card. New-man's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. 28 :-

- The ralling years at length fulfil. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 42. Generally given in an abbreviated and altered form.
- 2. Deep hidden by divine decree, By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Brev., 1839, p. 46. The tr. in the Hymnury, 1872, No. 104, "O Lord, the rolling years fulfil," is by the editors based on L. Williams's tr.
- 3. And now, by God's sure word decreed. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55, Advent, No. 7. This is a tr. of st. i., v., The Advent hymn, No. 8, in Blew, is a to. of the remaining stanzas of this hymn, beginning with st. ii., "Patris nefando crimine," which is rendered as, "While Adam's race sore wounded lay." This is in Lyra Messianica, 1864.
- 4. The falness of the time ordained. By J. A. Johnston, in his English Hyl., 1856. Based on J. Chandler, as above.

Other tru, are:

1. The times of old by God decreed. J. D. Chambers. 1857.

Sing we now redeeming love. D. T. Morgan. 1880.
 Predestinate of God most high. By W. M. A. in O. Shipley's Annus Sunctus. 1884. [J. J.]

Stay, Thou insulted Spirit, stay. Wesley, [Lent.] Pub. in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1749, vol. i., No. 41, in 7 st. of 4 l. (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. iv., p. 370.) It was included in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 155, with the omission of st. vi., and the change of years" (the forty referred to his own age at the time), to "For many long," &c. The Wes. H. Bk. form of the text is in most of the Methodist collections, and a few others. Other forms of the text are:—(1) "Slay, injured, grieved, Spirit, stay," in Biokersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, and later collections: and (2) "Stay, Thou long-suffering Spirit, stay," in the American Meth. Episco. Hymnal, [J. J.] 1878.

Steane, Edward, D.D., was b. at Oxford, Mar. 23, 1798, studied at the Baptist College, Bristol, and at Edinburgh University. In 1828 he became paster of a Baptist church at Camberwell, London, where he laboured with success until his death on May 8, 1882. Dr.

Steene was for many years one of the most eminent ministers of the Baptist denomination. He was one of the founders of the Baptlet Union; the Bible Translation Society: and the Evangelical Allianco. He edited Evangelical Christendom; and pub. The Doctrine of Christ developed by the Apostles, in 1872. He was one of the Committee which prepared the Baptist New Selection in 1828. The only hymn known to have been composed by him appeared in that book:—
"Prophetic ora! blissful day!" (The Triumphs of Christ anticipated). It reappeared in the Selection Enlarged in 1838.

Steele, Anne, b. in 1716, was the daughter of Mr. Wm. Steele, a timber merchant, and pastor, without salary, of the Baptist Church at Broughton, in Hampshire. At an early age she showed a taste for literature, and would often entertain her friends by her poetical compositions. But it was not until 1760 that she could be prevailed upon to publish. In that year two vols. appeared under the title of Poems on Subjects chiefly Devotional, by Theodosia. After her death, which occurred in November, 1778, a new edition was published with an additional volume and a Preface by the Rev. Dr. Caleb Evans, of Bristol (Bristol, 1780). In the three vols. are 144 hymns, 84 Psalms in verse, and about 30 short poems. They have been reprinted in one vol. by D. Sedgwick, 1868. Miss Steele's hymns were first made available for congregational use in 1769, 62 of them being then introduced into the Bristol Bap. Coll. of Ash & Evans, the letter T for "Theodosia" being affixed; 47 were also given in Dr. Rippon's Sel., 1787, and 26 in Dr. W. B. Collyer's Coll., 1812. Among Baptist hymn-writers Miss Steele stands at the head, if we regard either the number of her hymne which have found a place in the hymnals of the last 120 years, or the frequency with which they have been sung. Although few of them can be placed in the first rank of lyrical compositions, they are almost uniformly simple in language, natural and pleasing in imagery, and full of genuine Christian feeling. Miss Steele may not inappropriately be compared with Miss F. R. Havergal, our "Theodosia" of the 19th century. In both there is the same evangelic fervour, in both the same intense personal devotion to the Lord Jesus. But whilst Miss Steele seems to think of Him more frequently as her "bleeding, dying Lord"—dwelling on His sufferings in their physical aspect—Miss Havergal oftener refers to His living help and sympathy, recognizes with gladness His present claims as " Master " and " King," and anticipates almost with cestasy His second coming. Looking at the whole of Miss Steele's bymns, we find in them a wider range of thought than in Miss Havergal's compositions. She treats of a greater variety of subjects. On the other hand, Miss Havergal, living in this age of missions and general philanthropy, has much more to say concerning Christian work and personal service for Christ and for humanity. Miss Steele suffered from delicacy of health and from a great sorrow, which befell her in the death of her betrethed under peculiarly painful circum-stances. In other respects her life was uneventful, and occupied chiefly in the discharge of such domestic and social duties as usually fall to the lot of the chlest daughter of a village pastor. She was buried in Broughton [W. R. S.] churchyard.

A large number of Miss Steele's hymns are in C. U., the larger proportion being in American hymn-books. In addition to "Almighty Maker of my frame," "Far from these narrow scenes of night," "Father of mercies in Thy word," and others annotated under their respective first lines, there are also:

i. From her Poems on Subjects Chiefly Deco-tional, 1760, vols. i., ii.

1. Come, let our souls adore the Lord. Pleading for Mercy. One of two hymns "On the Fast, Feb. 11, 1767," the first being "White justice wayss her vangeful hand."

2. Come, tune ye saints, your noblest strains. Christ Bying and Rising.

3. Deep are the Physician. Deep are the wounds which sin has made. Christ, 4. Enslaved by sin, and bound in chains. Redemp-

- 5. Eternal power, almighty God. Divine Condes-CERTION
- 6. Eternal Source of joys divine, Disine Assurance destred.
- desired.
  7. Great God, to Thee my evening song. Econing.
  8. Great Source of boundless power and grace.
  9. Hear, gracious [God] Lord, my humble mosn [prayer]. The presence of God desired.
  10. Hear, O my God, with pity hear. Pt. exist.
  11. How long shall earth's alluring toys? Un Long-ing Ger unseen sleaver.

- ing after unseen pleasures.

  12. How lovely, how divinely sweet. Ps. lands.

  13. How oft, also, this wretched heart. Pardoning
- 14. In vain my roving thoughts would find. Lasting
- Happiness.

  15. Jesus, the spring of joys divine. Christ the Way.

  15. Providence.
- Lord, how mysterious are Thy ways. Providence.
   Lord, Then hast been Thy Children's God. Ps. 2c.
   Lord, we store Thy boundless grace. Divine
- 10. Lord, when my [our] raptured thought surveys.

  19. Lord, when my [our] raptured thought surveys.

  Creation and Providence.

  20. Lord, when my thoughts delighted rove. Passion-
- 21. My God, 'tis to Thy mercy seat, Divine Morcy.
  22. My God, to Thes I call. Lent.
  23. O for a sweet, inspiring ray. The Ascended Su-
- 24. O Thou Whose tender mercy bears. Lent.
  25. Permit ine, Lord, to seek Thy face. Strength and Safety in God alone.
  25. Should Limine o'er the mourning field. During
- Scarcity. 27. So fades the lovely, blooming flower. Death of a Child.
- Child.

  23. Stretched on the Cross the Savlour dies. Good Friday.

  25. The Lord, my Shopherd and my Guide. Pr. xxiii,

  30. The Lord, the God of glory reigns. Pr. xxiii,

  31. The Saviour calls; let every ear. The Invitation.

  32. There is a glorious world on high. Frue Honour,

  33. Thou lovely [only] Source of true delight. Desiring to know Jerus.

  24. Thou only Sovereign of my heart. Life in Christ.
- Thou only Sovereign of my heart. Life in Christ
- 35, To Jusus, our exalted Lord. Holy Communion. 36, To our Redeamer's glorious Name. Praise to the
- Redeemer.
- 23. To your Creator, God. A Rural Hymn.

  38. When I survey life's varied scens. Resignation.

  39. When sine and fears provailing rise. Christ the Life of the Soul.
- 40. Where is my God? does He relies. Breathing after God.
  41. White my Redcemer's near. The Good Shepkerd.
  42. Why sinks my weak desponding mind? Hope in
- 43. Ye earthly vanities, depart. Love for Christ
- 44. Ye glittering toys of earth adieu. The Pearl of great Price.

45. Ye humble souls, approach your God. Divine Goodness.

ii. From the Bristol Bup. Coll. of Ash & Evans, 1769.

46. Come ye that love the Saviour's Name, Jesus, the Hing of Saints.

47. How helpless guilty nature lies, Need of Renewing Grace.

48. Praise ye the Lord, let praise employ. Praise.

iii. Centos and Altered Texts.

49. How blest are those, how truly wise. True honour. From "There is a giorious world on high." See No. 32.

50. How far beyond our mortal view. Christ the Supreme Readty. From "Should nature's charms to please the cye," 1760, st. iii. 51. In vain I trace creation o'er. Tyne happiness, From "When fancy apreads her boldest wings," 1760,

52. Jesus, and didst thou leave the sky? Praise to Jesus. From "Jesus, in Thy transporting name," 1700,

53. Look up, my soul, with cheerful eye. Hreathing after God. From No. 40, st. v. 54. Lord, in the tempte of Thy grace. Christ His respire's Joy. From "The wondering nations have beliefd," 1756, st. iii.

56. My God, O could I make the claim. Part of No. 9 above.

No. 9 above.

56. My soul, to God, its source, aspires. God, the Soul's only Portion. From "In vain the world's alluring smile," st. iti.

57. O could our thoughts and wishes fly. Part of No.

11 above, st. iv.

58. O for the eye of faith divine. Death anticipated.
From "Whan death appears before my sight," 1150, st. ifi., vii., viii. altered, with opening stanzas from another source.

59. O Jesus, our exalted Head. Holy Communion.
From "To Jesus, our exalted Lord." See No. 35.
60. O world of bliss, could mortal ages. Heaven,
From "Far from these narrow scenes of night," p.

265, i. 51. See, Lord, Thy willing subjects bow. Praiss to Arist. From "O dearer to my thankful heart," 1780, st. 6.

62. Stern winter throws his ley chains. Winter. From "Now faintly smile day's basty hours," 1780, st. ii.
63. Sure, the blest Comforter is nigh. Whitsuaride.
From "Dear Lord, and shall Thy Spirit rest," 1780, 84. III.

64. The God of my salvation lives. In Affiction.

From, "Should famine, &c.," No. 25, et. iv.

65. The Gospel, O what entless charms. The Gospel of Redecaing Love. From "Come, Heavenly Love, inspire my song." p. 245, ii.

68. The mind was formed to mount sublime. The Fettered Afric. From "Ah! why should this immortal mind?" 1760, st. ii.

67. The ones leved from now rold and dead. Double of

67. The once loved form now cold and dead. Death of a Child. From "Life is a span, a fleeting hour," 1760, a Critical From "Line is a spen, a second of the state of the first practices presence, O my God. Consolation in Affiliation. From "In value, while dark affiliation spreads," IP30, st. iv.

69. Thy kingdom, Lord, for ever stands. Pt. cate, From "My God, my King, to Thee I'll value," 1760,

From "My God, my King, to Thee I'll raise," 1780, st. xii.

70. Trinmphant, Christ ascends on high. Ascension. From "Come, Heavenly Love, Inspire my song," 1780, st. xxxii. See p. 245, ii.

71. When blest with that transporting view. Christ the Redeemer. From "Almighty Father, gracious Lord." 1780, st. xi. p. 58, ii.

72. When death before my sight. Death Anticipated. From "When death appears before my sight," 1786.

73. When gloomy thoughts and boding fears. Complete of Religion. From "O blest religion, heavenly fair," 1766, til.

74. When weavy souls with sin distrast. Invitation.

fair," 1760, st. ii.

74. When weary souls with sin distrest. Invitation to Rest. From "Come, weary souls, with sin distressed," 1760. See p. 258, ii.

75. Whene'er the angry passions rise. Example of Christ. From "And is the gospel peace and love?" 1780, st. ii. See p. 65, i.

All the foregoing hymns are in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Miss Steele's Hymns, 1863.

Stegmann, Josua, n.n., a. of Ambrosius Stegmann, Lutheran pastor at Sülzfeld, near Meiningen, and finally, in 1593, superintendent at Eckartsberga, near Merseburg, was b. at Sülzfeld, Sept. 14, 1588. He entered the University of Lelpzig in 1608, M.A. in 1611, and was for sometime adjunct of the Philosophical Faculty. In 1617 he was appointed Superintendent of the district (Grafschaft) of Schaumburg, and also paster at Stadthagen, and first professor of the Gym-nasium there; and before entering on his duties graduated D.D. at Wittenberg, on Oct. 24, 1617. When the Gymnasium was crected into a university, and transferred (1621) to Rinteln, he became ordinary professor of Theology there. By the outbreak of war he was forced to flee from Rinteln, in 1623. After his return be was appointed, in 1625, Ephorus of the Lutheran clergy of Hesse-Schaumburg. By the Edict of Restitution, promulgated by the emperor on March 6, 1629, he was greatly harassed: for the Benedictine monks, after they had settled in Rinteln, in 1630, claimed to be the rightful professors, and demanded the restoration of the old church lands, and especially the property formerly belonging to the numery at Rinteln, but which had been devoted to the payment of the stipends of the Lutheran professors. They sent soldiers into Stegmann's house to demand that he should refund his salary, and on July 13, 1632, compelled him to hold a disputation, at which they annoyed him in every possible way. Soon after he was seized with fever, and d. Aug. 3, 1632. (Koch, iii., 128; Wetzel, iii., 251; Einladungsschrift des Gymnasium Bernhardinum. Meiningen, 1888; us. from Pastor A. Bicker, Rinteln : Dr. Förstemann, Leipzig), &c.

Stegmann was known as a writer of Latin verss while yet a student at Leipzig, and by his contemporaries was recknoed as a hymn writer. It is, however, very difficult to discriminate his productions. The hymns inter-persed in his devotional works are given without any indications of authorship, and many of them are certainly by earlier writers, or recasts founded on earlier hymns. They appeared principally in his (1) Suspiria Emporass. Of this the 3rd ed., Rinteln, 1628, is in the Karisruhe Library (2) Encueris Hertsen-Susfizer, Litheatur, 1630"). Of this there is a copy in the University Library at Breslan. In the Hütter für Hymnologie, 1888, p. 162, a list is given of the more important hymns in No. 2, a list is given of the more important hymns in No. 2, a list is given of the more important hymns in No. 2, a list des previously appaared elsewhere. Two hymns, which are usually ascribed to Stegmann, and are not found earlier than in his works, have passed into English as follows:— Stegmann was known as a writer of Latin verse while his works, have passed into English as follows:

t. Ach bleib mit deiner Gnade. Supplication. Included in 1628, as above, p. 462. In 1630 it is given, at p. 347, in 6 st. of 4 l., as a "Closing Hyma," after the "Prayer for the Preservation. of the Doctrine, and of the Church of God." Thence in Mützell, 1858, No. 337a. In J. Clauder's Psabnodia nom, pt. it., 1631, p. 266, it is ascribed to Stegmann, and so in later collections, It is a simple and beautiful hymn, and is found in most recent German hymnals, e.g. as No. 208 in the Unv. L. S., 1851. Lauxmann, in Koch, viii., 146, relates various incidents regarding its use (it was, e.g., a favourite hymn of king Friedrich Wilhelm IV. of Prussia), and thus analyses it:-

"it has as its keynote the saying of the two disciples at Emmans, 'Abide with us.' St. i. puts this prayer simply before the Lord Jesus; st. il...vi, develop it in detail! Abide with us with Thy Word as our Saviour (il.); with the illumination of Thy Spirit as our everguiding Truth (iit.); with Thy bleesing as the God rich in power (iv.); with Thy protection as the Conqueror in battle (v.); and with Thy Faithfulness as our Rock in the time of need (vi.).

The Translations are:—

1. Abide with us, our Beviour. This is a free #. of st. i.-iii., as No. 51, in the Dalston Hospital H. Bk., 1848; and repeated in the Pennsylvania. Luth. Church Ba, 1868. In Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864, tr. of st. iv., vi., were added.

2. O Baviour, go beside us. This is a free fr. of st. L, iv., v., with an original "Shepherd" st., as st. ii., by J. S. Stallybrass, in the Tonio Soifa Reporter, July 1857; and in Curwen's Subbath H. Bk., 1859, No. 420. Thence in Dr. Pagenstacher's Coll., 1864, No. 116.

$. Abide among us with Thy grace. good and full tr., in C.M., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Gor., 2nd ser., 1858, p. 84; and her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 14. Included in Allon's Suppl. Hys., 1868, Irish Church Hyl., 1869 and 1873, and others; and in America, in the Cantate Domino, 1859, Boardman's Sel., 1861.

4. Abide with us, Lord Jesus! Thy grace. This is a complete tr., as No. 8 in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880, and marked as a compilation.

5. Come, shide with Thy grace, in our hearts, 0 Lord. By Dr. R. Maguire, 1872, p. 197.

il. Wie sehön leuchtet der Morgenstern, Vom Firmament des Himmels tern. Morning. Included in 1630, as above, p. 10, in 8 st. of 10 l., entitled, "Morning Hymn." (The text printed by Fischer, "Morning Hymn." (The text printed by Fischer, ii., p. 385, as that of 1630, in really the greatly altered form in the ed. of 1638); and repeated in the Leipzig Vorrath, 1673, No. 838, and others. St. viii. is altered from st. ix. of "O Lebensbriumlein, tief und gross" (see p. 775, ii.). It is an imitation, but not a recast, of the hymn by P. Nicolai, noted at p. 606, ii. The form in C. U. was given to it by Burchard Wiesenmeyer, in Criiger's News vollkömmliches G. B., 1640, No. 111, and further recast in Criiger's Praxis, 1648, No. 3, which begins, "Wie schön leucht uns der Morgenstern." This form is No. 477, in the Unv. L. S., 1851. The tr. in C. U. is—

How beautiful the Morning Star shines from the firmsment afar. This was contributed by Philip Pusey to A. R. Reinagle's Ps. & Hy. Tunes, Oxford, 1840, p. 130 (see p. 1017, ii.). St. i. is a fairly close version of st. i., while st. ii., iii., are very free tr. of st. vi., vii. Included, slightly varied, in the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, and thence, with st. i., ll. 5, 6, altered in Kennedy, 1863. It was considerably altered in the Sarum Hyl., 1868; and this form is repeated in R. Minton Taylor's Coll., 1872, and J. L. Porter's Coll., 1876.

Other tra. are:—(1) "How fair shines forth the Morning-star." By H. J. Buckell, 1842, p. 24. (2) "How lovely now the morning-star." By Miss (bz., 1864, p. 3. (3) "How beautiful the morning star, Shines in." By R. Massle, in the Day of Rest, 1816, p. 472. [J. M.]

Stennett, Joseph, the carliest English Baptist hymn-writer whose hymns are now in C. U., was b. at Abingdon, Berks, in 1663. He received a superior education at the Grammar-School of Wallingford, and at the age of 22 removed to London, where for several years he engaged in tuition. In 1688 he married a daughter of George Guill, a French Protestant refugee, another of whose daughters was the wife of the celebrated Presbyterian minister, Dr. Daniel Williams, who became a generous friend to Stennett. In the following year he was called to preach by the Baptlat Sabbatarian congregation then meeting in Devonshire Square, London, afterwards in Pinners' Hall; and in 1690 became its pastor, a position he retained to his death, July 4, 1713. Since the meetings of this congregation for worship were on the seventh day of the week, he was free to preach to other congregations on the Sunday, which he did very frequently, especially to the General Baptist Church in the Barbican, Such was Stennett's repute for piety, learning and practical wisdom that his advice was very much sought by his Christian friends, and by the "great Whig Lords" of that day he was occasionally consulted as to the feeling of the Dissenters concerning pational affairs. His published works include:—

(1) Hymns in commemoration of the Sufferings of our Hersel Scalour Jenu Christ, compared for the Cele-bration of his Holy Supper, 1697; 2nd ed. 1793 (This la entitled in Steamet's Works, 1722, Hymns for the Lord's These were 37 in number, increased to 50 in Supper). These were 37 in number, increased to 60 in the 3rd nd, 1708. (3) In 1700 be published a postical Version of Solomon's Song of Songs, together with the XLVIA Fraim. A 3rd ed., corrected, appeared in 1709, (3) In 1712 he pub. twelve Hymns composed for the Celebration of the Holy Ordinance of Baptism; and ed.

Stenuett also translated Dacier's Plato and other works from the French, and published several sermons preached on days of National Thanksgiving and other public occasions. His Works were collected after his death and pub. in 1732, in 4 vols. Svo. They contain a Memoir, Sermons and Letters, the Hymns and Poems mentioned above, and a few other poetical pieces. A controversial work. An Answer to Mr. Russen's Book on Baptism, 1702, may be reckoned as a 5th vol. Of his hymns, that which, in the form of varying centes, is most widely known is, "Another six days' work is done" (p. 71, ii.). Others in C. U. include:—

C. U. include:

1. Gracious Bedeemar, haw divins. Hoty Computation. Appeared in his Hys. for the Lord's Supper, 1st del., 1897. (Works, 1732, H. p. 98.) Usually abbreviated, 2. Inmortal praise be given. Holy Communion, Pub. in his Hys. for The Lord's Supper, 1st del, 1697. (Works, 1732, H. p. 97.) From this "We'll praise our risen Lord," is taken.

3. Jenus, O word divinely sweet. Redemption through Jesus. Pub. in Hys. for the Lord's Supper, 3rd del. 1703, No. 47. (Works, 1732, H. p. 147.) In full in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, and others.

4. Lard, at Thy Table I behold. Holy Communion. This bynn is not in Stennett's Works. It appeared in Rippon's Bap. Sci., 1787, with his name profixed, and was probably supplied to Dr. Rippon by Dr. S. Stennett, J. Stennett's grandeon. From it "With humble taith and trembling heart," is taken.

5. My bleased Saviaur, is Thy lave? Self-Connecration to God. Appeared in his Hys. for the Lord's Supper, 1637, No. 22. (Works, 1732, H. p. 111). Usually abbreviated.

6. The great Redeemer we adore. Pub. in his Hys. for Euphism, 1712. (Works, 1732, H. p. 163.)

7. Whene'er one sinner turns to God. Holy Baptism. Pub. in his Hys. for Euphism, 1712, No. 12. (Works, 1732, 1732, H. p. 163.)

Several of his hymns additional to these are given in the older collections, but have passed out of use. We may add that the Joseph Stennett, the subject of this article, had a son, Joseph Stennett, p.p., who also became an eminent Baptist minister, and was the father of Samuel Stennett, p.p. noticed [W. R. S.]

Stennett, Samuel, n.D., grandson of Joseph Stennett, named above, and s, of the Rev. Joseph Stennett, p.p., was b., most probably in 1727, at Exeter, where his father waat that time a Baptist minister. When quite young he removed to London, his father knying | become pastor of the Baptist Church in Little Wild Street, Lincoln's Inn Fields. In 1748, Samuel Stenuett became assistant to his father in the ministry, and in 1758 succeeded bim in the pastoral office at Little Wild Street. From that time until his death, on Aug. 24, 1795, he held a very prominent position among the Dissenting ministers of London. He was much respected by some of the statesmen of the time, and used his influence with them in support of the principles of religious freedom. The celebrated John Howard was a member of his congregation and an attached friend. In 1763, the University of Aberdeen conferred on him the degree of p.p. Dr. S. Stennett's prose publications consist of volumes of sermons, and pamphlets on Raptism and on Nonconformist Disabilities. He wrote one or two short poems, and contributed 38 hymns to the collection of his friend, Dr. Rippon (1787), His poetical genius was not of the highest order, and his best hymns have neither the originality nor the vigour of some of his grandfather's. The following, however, are pleasing in sentiment and expression, and are in C. U., more especially in Baptist congregations:-

1, And have I, Christ, no love for Thea? Love for Christ desired

2, And will the offended God again? The Body the Temple of the H. Ghost.

As on the Cross the Saviour hung. The Thief on the Cross

4. Behold the leprous Jew. The healing of the Leper.

5. Come, every pious heart. Praise to Christ. 6. Father, at Thy call, I come. Lent. 7. Great God, amid the darksome night. God, a Sun.

8. Great God, what hosts of angels stand. Ministry

8. Here at Thy Table, Lord, we mest. Holy Communion.

10. How charming is the place. Public Worship.
11. How shall the sons of men appear? Acceptance through Christ alone.

12. How soft the words my [the] Seviour speaks.

Early Piety. 13. How various and bow new. Divine Providence. 14. Not all the nobles of the earth. Christians as Sone of God.

15. On Jordan's stormy banks I stand. Heaven anticipated.

16. Prostrate, dear Jesus, at thy feet. Lent. Sometimes, "Dear Saviour, prostrate at Thy feet."

17. Should bounteons nature kindly pour. The greatest of these is Love. From this, "Had I the gift of tangues," at. ii., is taken.

18. Thy counsels of redeeming grace. Hely Scripture, From "Let avarice, from shore to above."

19. Thy life I read, my dearest Lord. Death in Infancy. From this "Tis Jesus speaks, I fold, says He."

20. The Salabadd and the Salabads.

20. "Tis finished: so the Saviour cried. Good Friday.
21. To Christ, the Lord, let every tongue. Praise of Christ. From this," Majestic sweetness sits enthroned," at. jil., is taken.
22. To God, my Savjour, and my King. Renewing

Grace.

23. To God, the universal King. Praise to God.
24. What wisdom, majesty, and grace. The Gospel.
Sometimes, "What majesty and grace."
25. Where two or three with awest accord. Refore the Sermon.

26. Why should a living man complain? Affliction. com this, "Lord, see what floods of sorrow rise," st. From this, lii., is taken.

With tears of anguish I lament. Lent.
 Yonder amazing sight I see. Good Friday.

All these hymns, with others by Stennett, were given in Rippon's Bapt. Sel., 1787, a few having previously appeared in A Coll. o Hys. for the use of Christians of all Denominations, London. Printed for the Booksellers, 1789, and No. 18 in the 1779. 1782; and No. 16, in the 1778 Supplement to the 3rd ed. of the Bristol Bap. Sel. of Ash and Evans. The whole of Stennett's poctical pieces and hymns were included in vol. ii. of his Works, together with a Memoir, by W. J. Jones. 4 vols., 1824. [W, R. 8.]

Stephano primo martyri. [St. Stephen.] This bymn is found in various forms. Mone, No. 1156, gives first what he professes to consider to be the original text, and which he says is very probably by St. Ambrose himself. But for this text (which begins "Stephano coronac martyrum") he gives no source, and seems to derive it from his own imagination. His second form begins "Stephani corova martyria." from this second form are rejected the additious (including st. i., which is not found in other mss.), from a Benedictine us. cited through Cassander, then we have what is probably the original text, beginning "Stephano primo martyri." This last form is found in two MSS., circa 1150, in the Bodleian (Liturg. Misc., 202, f. 144; Liturg. Misc., 297, f. 306); in a Ma. of the 12th cent. in the British Museum (Add. 18301, f. 112); in the St. Gali Ms., No. 413, of the 11th cent.; in a Ms. of the 10th cent. at Munich, &c. Also in the Ambrosian Breviary, 1539. In the Ambrosian Breviary, 1830, there is a recast beginning "Duci cruento martyrum"; and this text is in Dr. Neale's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1851, p. 79. All these forms and variations are given by Daniel, i., No. 82, and iv. pp. 89, 90, 854-857.

Of these forms of the text two have been rendered into English, viz.:-

i. Stephano primo martyri.

1. To Stephen, first of martyre, raise. By J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 87.

2. Blood is on the martyr's palm. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy, and Tune Bk., 1852-55. This was altored by Canon W. Cooke, and given in the Cooke and Denton Hymnul, 1853, No. 30, as, "Jesu, Lord, Thy praise we sing."

li. Duci cruento martyrum.

To Thee, O Christ, our hymn we raise. By E. A. Dayman, in the Sarum Hymnel, 1868, No. 46. This is rather a paraphrase than a tr. of the [J. J.] hyma.

Stephenson, Thomas Bowman, p.p., LL.D., s. of the Rev. John Stephenson, was b. at Newcastle on Dec. 22, 1839, and educated at Wooley College, Sheffield, subsequently graduating at the University of London. In 1860 he entered the Wesleyan Ministry, and has since laboured in Norwich, Manchester, Bolton, and London. The great work of his life has been the establishment and maintenance of The Children's Home at Victoria Park, London, and its branches at Bolton, Birmingham, and the Isle of Man, and in Dr. Stephenson has written for Canada. Magazines and Reviews, and pub. a small work on Sisterhoods, and a Memorial Sketch of the late James Barlow. He has written several hymns, of which the following are most widely known :--- Fading like a lifetime ends another day. Evening. Written circa 1873, and pab. in The Helh. S. S. H. Bh., 1879, No. 487, in 2 st. of 8 l.

2. Hear us, flaviour, bowed before Thee. Children's fymn. Written for a Festival at the Children's Home,

3. 0 Father, Whose spontaneous love. Easter, or Στερέωσόν με, Χριστέ. ['Ασωμαν wartes have.]

Στέργειν μὲν ήμᾶς. ['Εσωσε λαόν.] Sternhold, Thomas. fold Version. § px. 1: x. ]

Steuerlein, Johannes, s. of Caspar Steuerlein, or Steurlein, first Lutheran pastor at Schmalkalden, was b. at Schmalkalden on July 5, 1546. After completing his course as a student of law, he was, about 1580, appointed Town-clerk of Wasungen (between Schmalksiden and Meiningen), and then, in 1589, secretary in chancery (Kanzlei-Secretar), at Meiningen, to the Henneberg administration. He was also Notary Public, and, about 1604, Mayor at Meiningen. He d. at Meiningen, May 5, 1613. (Kock, ii. 248, 267, 353; C. von Winterfeld's Evang. Kirchengesang, 1843, i. p. 413; K. Goedeke's Grundries, vol. ii., 1886, pp. 51, 171, 208, 573; preface to his Gründliche und warhaftige Beschreibung, Jena, 1611, &c.)

Stetterlein was crowned as a poet by the Emperor Rudolph r..., and was the author of a metrical version of Jesus Strach (Ecclesiasticus), pub. at Frankfurt am Main in 1581. He was an excellent musician, and pub, Main in 1881. He was an excellent musician, and pub, various works containing melodies and four-part settings by blimself. His most important work is his Sieben and Zucanzigh news getalliche Gesenge, wif vier Stimmen componieret, Arc., Erfurt, 1889 [Göttingen Library and Library of the Institut für Kirchenmusik at Broslau]. Of these 27 hymne 3 are marked as by Securicin, 4 as by Cyriacus Schneegaes, 2 as by Erasmus Alber, and 1 as by Martin Luther. The other 17 have no names of anthors affixed.

One of these 17 hymns is:

One of these 1/ hymns 18:

Bas alto Jahv vergangen ist, Wir danken dir, Harr Jean Christ. New Year. In 1588 as above, No. 1, in 6 st. of 4 l., reprinted in full in the Blätter für Bynnologie, 1883, p. 105. This is the earliest appearance, so far as is yet known, of the hymn in this six stanza form. A shorter form, in 8 lines (st. 1, il. of the 1888), is in Clemen Stephani's Schöner dauserlesser deutscher Paalm, und anderer kimstlicher Motelen und geistlichen Lieder AI., ko., Nürnberg, 1568 [Göttingen Library], and reprinted in the Mätter, 1887, p. 142. It is thus very doubtful if Sleavelein is the original author titis hymn, and, as already pointed out, be did not is thus very doubtful if Steuerlein is the original author of this hymn, and, as already pointed out, he did not claim it as his own in 1588. It is quite possible that at iii.—i. may be by Steuerlein, though they have been frequently ascribed to Jakob Tapp (q.v.), and indeed in M. Prätorius's Huste Stonce, pt. vi., Wolfenbittel, 1509, No. I [in Index marked as "Autor Textus Jacobi Tappii"], the whole hymn is ascribed to Tapp. Wackernagel, v. p. 135, not having seen the 1588, gives the six stanza form as an anonymous hymn, quoting it from the Eicheben G. B., 1688. The text in the Uns. L. S., 1851, No. 63, is nearly that of 1588. Steuerlein is probably the author of the melody sometimes set to his hymn, but which, in 1588, was set to N. Herman's hymn, "Gott Vater der du déine Sonn" (see Dr. J. Zam's Pauler und Harfe, 1868, No. 44). Fr. 88:—

hymn, "Gott Vater does, was set to M. Hermalis, hymn, "Gott Vater der in deline Sonn" (see Dr. J. Zaim's Pratter und Harfe, 1886, No. 44). Tr. as:—

1. With this New Year we raise new Bongs. In full by J. C. Jacobi, in bis Pratinodia Germanica, 1722, p. 10 (1732, p. 9, altered). Included in Hawker's Coll., 1847, No. 82, abridged, and beginning, "With this New Year we raise awarence."

Test we raise our sough."

2. The old year new hath passed away. This is a good and full it. by Miss Winkworth, as No. 171 in her C. B. for England. 1853, repeated in the Ohio Luka. Byl., 1880. Ayd., 1880. 3. The old year new is past and gens. In full by Historian. Appeared in The General Hymnary for Missions, dc., 1888, No. 288, in 9 st. of 4 l.

4. Onward, o'er Time's great ocean. Life a Voyage.
Written during a voyage acrose the South Sea.

5. Bweedly dawns the Sabbath mersing. Sunday Morring. Written circa 1875, and pub. in The Meth.

8. S. H. He., 1879, No. 584, in 4 st. of 8 l.

6. This is the glorious gaspel word. Jesus saves. Called forth by a religious Convention at Brighton, and pub. in The Meth. S. H. He., 1879, No. 341, in 6 st. of 8 l., and in The General Hymnary, 1889, No. 431, with an additional stants (st. iv.).

[J. J.] became minister at Oundle, soon afterwards at St. Neota, and then at Boston. In 1811, after the death of Burnham, he was invited to succeed him at Grafton Street. Stevens had popular gifts as a preacher: the place became too small, and ultimately a new chapel was built in Meard's Court, Soho, where he continued to minister until he d., Oct. 6, 1847. Stevens was a High Calvinist in theology, and an ardent polemic. He wrote several controversial works, the most famous of which was entitled, A Scriptural Display of the Triune God & the early existence of Jesus' human soul, Lond. 1812. From the theory advocated in this book he was called a Preadvocated in this book he was called a Fre-existerian. In 1809 he pub. A New Sol. of Hymns, including also several Original hymns never before offered to the Public. This, and the 2nd ed., 1812, contained 465 hymns. The 5th ed., 1825, had an Appendix of 102 hymns, and the 12th, 1868, one of 365 hymns. The ed. of Stevens's hymn-book now in C. U. was edited, in 1881, by J. S. Anderson. It is described on the titlepage as "enlarged and improved," and contains 970 hymns. Of these a few are by Mr. Anderson, and 34 by Stevens. Many of the hymna of Stevens embody High Calvinistic views, strongly expressed; some, however, on the Lord's Supper would be accepted by most Christians. Of his hymns the following are in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872.

1. Christ has a chosen Church (1809). Election.
2. Eternal election preserves me secure (1809). Elec-on.

3. Grace is Jebovah's sovereign will (1809). Election.
4. Long as I live I'll sing the Lamb (1809). Proise Jeans.
[W. R. S.]

Stevenson, George John, M.A., was b. at Chesterfield, Derbyshire, July 7, 1818. In early life he was connected with the printing and bookselling business, and continued therein until 1844, when he entered St. John's College, Battersea, where he was trained for an organizing Mastership under the National Society. In 1846 a Reformatory School was established in the Philanthropic Institute, Southwark, for the benefit of the better conducted criminals from the convict prisons, and Mr. Stevenson was the first Master. This school is now represented by the Farm School at Red Hill, Reigate. In 1848, he was sppointed Head Master of the endowed parochial school at Lambeth, but resigned in 1855, and established himself in Paternoster Row us a bookseller and publisher, where he continued the business until a few years before his death, on Aug. 16, 1888. His interest in education was shown in his publication of the perio-dicals, School and Teacher, The Pupil Teacher, and The English Journal of Education. In 1861 he purchased the Wesleyan Times newspaper, and for six years he bore the editorial and financial responsibility. Mr. Stevensou's literary work began with contributions to the Sheffield Patriot, in 1889, and the Norfolk News, 1841. Having joined the Methodist Society in 1831, his interest in Methodism, and specially in Methodist history and literature, became very keen, and has had much to do with his literary life. His publications outside of hymnology are numerous, and in-clude biographical works mainly on the Wesley Family, and Methodist Worthies; historical works on City Road Chapel; the Young Men's Christian Association; Methodism in Chesterfield; Methodism in Hackney; and historical articles on Methodism in several Eucyclopedias, &c.; Essays on Education; and smaller works on other subjects. His hymnological work began with his biographical sketches of hymn-writers and notices of hymns in the Wesleyan Times, which were subsequently largely used by Dr. Rogers in his Lyra Britannica, and Miller in his Singers and Songs of the Church. His Methodist Hymn Book and its Associations was pub. in 1869; and in an enlarged form as The Methodist Hymn Book Illustrated with Biography, Incident, and Anecdote, in 1883. The first of these dealt with the writers and hymns of the Wes. H. Bk. of 1780-1831; and the second with the revised ed. of the same, 1875. The latter is the most complete account of Methodist hymnody extant, and is indispensable to every lover of the Wesleyan Hymn-book. Outside of Methodist hymnody, Mr. Stevenson's acquaintance with English and American hymnology was very superficial; and of the vast stores of Greek, Latin, German, French, Italian, Scandinavian, and other treasures be knew almost nothing. His reputation entirely rests upon his researches as a student of and authority upon Methodist Hymnody. In that department he had no equal. [J. J.]

Btichera. [Greek Mymnody, § XVI. 9.]

Still with Thee, O my God. J. D. Burns. [Evening.] Included in his little work, The Evening Hymn, 1257, No. 23, in 6 st. of 4 l. It passed into the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1958; and, subsequently, into other collections. In the Cong. Hyl., 1887, it begins "With Thee, my Lord, my God." Although mainly included, because of its beautiful simplicity, in children's hymn books, it is yet better adapted for congregational use. [J, J,] Stock, Barah Geraldina, b. Dec. 27, 1838, has devoted much time to literature with special reference to Mission work and Sunday Schools. Her prose publications include Lessome on Israel in Egypt, &c., 1871; The Child's Life of our Lord, 1879; Bible Stories from the Old Testament, &c., 1882, and others. Her bymos in C. U. include:—

hymns in C. U. include:

1. A debter! For the love of God unbounded, Missions. Written for the Church Missionary Almanack, 1876, and also issued as a C. M. S. leaflet.

2. Behind and Before. Departure of Missionaries. Written for India's Women, and sung for the first time at the dismissal of Church of England Zenara missionaries, Sep. 30, 1887. Since issued as a C. M. S. leaflet.

3. Galled to Thy service, Lord. Holy Matrisony. Written for the marriage of Mr. W. Merry and Missionaries, of the "Homo of Industry," Bethnai Green Boad, London, March 14, 1889.

4. Galdly the wind in sweeping. For Workers. Pub. in the Church S. School Magazine, 1885.

5. Jesus! All-auffiniency, Trachers' Devotional Meetings. Pub. in the Church S. School Magazine, 1882.

8. Lord of light, and Fount of leve. House Missions. Pub. in the Church S. School Magazine, 1875; in Hys. for Special Services, &c. Bennose & Sons, &c.
7. Lord, Thy ransomed Church in waking. Home Missions. Written for the London February Mission, 1874, and pub. in the Church S. S. Magazine, Feb., 1874, and embeaquently in several hymn-books.
8. O Mission! when Thou callest. Departure of Missionaries. Written for India's Women, and first ening at the Valedictory Meeting of the Ch. of England Zemana Society, Oct. 2, 1888.
9. Open stood the gales of heaven. Christmas. Pub. In the Church S. S. Masical Legists, No. 6, with music by C. H. Nottingham.

in the Charch S. S. Musical Leaflets, No. 6, wan music by C. H. Nottingham.

10. Shut out from heaven's glory. Harvest. Pub. in the same Leaflets, as No. 9.

11. The tender light of hame behind. Departure of Missionaries. Written for India's Women, Sep. 1887, and first sung at the Valedictory Meeting of the Church of England Zenana Society, Sep. 39, 1887.

12. There's a fight to be fought, there's a work to be done. Missionary. Written for the Church Missionary Gleaners' Annual Meeting, Nov. 1898, and Insued as a C. M. 8. leaflet.

13. We know not how the rays that stream. Holy Trinity. Written for the Church S. S. Magazine. Pub. In an abridged form as "We cannot read the mystery," in the Church S. S. H. Bk., 1868.

14. With voice of joy and singing, Thanksgiving, Written for the opening of Miss Annie Macpherson's "Home of Industry," Bethnal Green Road, London, 1887, and issued as a leaflet.

Of these hymns, Nos. I, 7, 8, 11, and 12, were pub. in Eight Missionary Hys. and Poems, C. M. S., 1889. Miss Stock con-tributed 3 hymns to the "Golden Songs," which appeared in the S. S. U. Sunday E. Chronicle, 1875; 7 for children to the Sunday at Home. She has also written several others on various subjects, which have been issued as leaflets. Her hymns are bright and musical, and should be sought out by hymnal compilers. Her poems are pub. as Joy in Sorrow, 1884. She d. Aug. 29, 1898.

Stocker, John, some-time of Honiton, Devoushire, contributed, during 1776 and 1777. 9 hymns to the Gospel Magazine. These hymns were collected and reprinted, in 1861. by D. Sedgwick, as Hys. and Spiritual Songs, and, with their dates, are :-

and, with their dates, are:—

1. Thy mercy, my [0] God, is the theme of my song. Mercy. ". X.," March, 1776.

2. Of Jesus, my Saviour, I'll sing. Praise. "J. Stocker," October, 1776.

3. O come, ye poor sinners, with burdens opprest. Invitation. "John Stocker," May, 1777.

4. No strength in myself I possess. Christ All and in All. "J. S.," May, 1777.

5. Awake, my soul, arise and sing. Praise of Jesus. "J. Stocker," May, 1777.

6. Jesus, my Saviour, I avow. Glorying in Okritt. "J. Stocker," May, 1777.

7. Jesus, my Rock, which cannot move. Confidence through Jesus. "J. Stocker," July, 1777.

8. Away my doubts, begone my fears. Death anticipated. "J. Stocker," July, 1777.

9. Graelous Spirit, Dove divine (p. 449, i.). "J. Stocker," July, 1777.

These varying signatures. "J. S.", "J.

These varying signatures, "J. S.", "J. Stocker," and "John Stocker," led D. Sedgwick to conclude that the signature "J. S." meant the same person as the other two. We doubt this: first, because Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 6 above, were all printed in May 1777, in the order named; and we cannot see why "J. S." should have been adopted in this manner; and, second, because other hymns signed "S." are found in the same numbers of the magazine as those signed "J. Stocker." If "J. S. 7 is John Stocker, why not "S." also? Sedgwick had no authority for saying that "J. S." was John Stocker; we have no authority for saying this is not so. There is no proof either way. [J. J.]

Stole regni laureatus. Adam of St. Victor. [Common of Apostles.] A very fine sequence, dealing with the symbolic character of the apostles, not with their individual histories. It is found in the Augustinian Missal, printed at Paris in 1529, for use at St. Victor. It is given by Gautier, in his Ceupres poetiques d'Adam, 1858, vol. ii. p. 407. In his new ed., 1881, p. 197, Gautier cites it as in a Gradual of St. Victor before 1289 (Bibl. Nat., Paris, No. 14452), and a 14th cent. Missal of St. Victor (B. N., No. 14448). Also in Trench, ed. 1864, p. 202, with copious notes, and D. S. Wrangham's The Liturgical Postry of Adam of St. Victor, 1881, vol. iii, p. 150. The use of St. Victor was for Oct. 28 ("SS. Simon and Jude"). Tr. as:-

 Laurelled with the stale viotorious. By J. M. Neale, in the enlarged ed. of his Mediaval Hys., 1863, p. 153, in 10 st. of 6 l. In an abbreviated form it is in the 1867 Appendix to the H. Noted, and the Hymner, 1882.

2. In royal robes of splendour. By Jackson Mason and the Compilers of H. A. & M., in the 1889 Suppl. Hymns to that collection.

Other tra. are :-

1. To the spostolic cohort. D. T. Morgan. 1871.
2. Glorious cohort spostolic. D. T. Morgan. 1880.
3. Decked with robes such state besitting. D. S. Wrangkan. 1881.
[J. M.]

Στομίον πώλων άδαῶν. [Clemens, T. P.]

Stone, Samuel John, M.A., s. of the Rev. William Stone, M.A., was b. at Whitmore, Staffordshire, April 25, 1839, and educated at the Charterhouse; and at Pembroke College, Oxford, B.A. 1862; and M.A. 1872. On taking Holy Orders he became Curate of Windsor in 1862, and of St. Paul's, Haggerston, 1870. In 1874 he succeeded his father, at St. Paul's, Haggerston. Mr. Stone's poetical works are (1) Lyra Fidelium, 1866; (2) The Knight of Intercession and Other Poems, 1872, 6th ed., 1887; (3) Sonnels of the Christian Year, first printed in the Leisure Hour, and then pub. by the R. T. Society, 1875; (4) Hyonas, a collection of his original pieces and translations, 1886. He has also pub. Order of The Consecutive Church Service for Children, with Original Hymns, 1883. Mr. Stone's hymns, most of which are in C. U., and several of which have a wide popularity, include:—

I. A sower went to saw his seed. The Sower. In his Hymn, 1886, the author says this hymn was "Written specially in allusion to the sixteen years' work of the first Vicar [his Father] of St. Paul's, Haggerston, or Whom the Parish was given in 1888, without Church, or School, or Vicarage, or Endowment."

3. Bear the troubles of thy life. Patience. A tr. of Thomas & Kempis's "Adversa mundi tolera" (p. 23, il.) made for the Rev. S. Kektlewall's Thomas & Kempis, 1862.

4. By Paul at war in Gentile lands. St. Mark. Written at Windsor in 1872, and pub. in his Knight of Interestation, 1872.

Written at Windsor in 1878, and pub. in his Knight of Interestation, 1872.

2. By Shopherds first was heard. Carol. Written in 1886, and pub. in the Parachial Magazine, 1885.

5. By Tay love which shone for aye. Litany of the Love of God. Written at Haggerston in 1883, and printed in the Monthly Packet, 1885.

6. Christ the Wisdom and the Power. For Church Workers. Written for the Church Society of St. Paul's, Haggerston in 1872, and pub. in The Knight of Intercession 1872.

7. Dark is the sky that overhangs my soul. Sorrow succeeded by Joy. Written at Windsor in 1862 for the Monthly Pucket, and printed therein 1869. Pub. in The

Knight of Interession, 1872, under the title of "Light at Eventide."

8. Dooply dark and dooply still. The Transfiguration. Written in 1811 and pub. in The Enight of Intercession.

3. Eastward, ever castward. Processional for Sunday Morning. Written at Haggerston in 1876, and pub. in the Monthly Packet, 1884.

10. Faith, who sees beyond the pertal. Faith, Hope, and Charity. Written at Windsor in 1869, and pub. in the Monthly Packet, 1869, and The Enight of Inter-

11. Far of our brethren's voices, Editions. Written for the First Day of Intercession for Foreign Missions, 1871, and pub. in The Knight of Intercession, 1872. "For Colonial Missions."

12. Give the word, Riemal Ring. Missions. Written for the First Day of Intercession for Foreign Missions, 1971.

13. Glary in beavan to God. Christmas Carol, Written in 1882 for G. H. Leelie's Cantata The First written in 1882 for G. H. Leelle's Cantain The First Christman Morn, 1882.

14. God the Father, All, and One. For Unity. Written in 1882 for Canon G. Vembler's Service for Unity, and appeared in the Monthly Packet, 1884.
16. God the Father's Only Son. Officer of Christ. Pub. In his Lyra Fidelium, 1866, on Art. ii. of the Apostlee' Creed, "And in Jesus Christ His Only Son our Lord."

Lord."
16. God the Spirit, we adore Thee. The Holy Ghost.
16. Hod the Spirit, we adore Thee. The Holy Ghost.
16. Ho his Lyra Fidelium, 1866, on Art. viii. of the Apostice Creed, "I believe in the Holy Ghost."
17. Great Captain of God's armies. For Parity.
Written in 1884 for the Ch. of England Purity Society, and printed in Church Belle. April 10, 1885.
18. Heneward we pass in paace. Close of Divine Service. Written in 1884 at Haggerston; and included in the author's Hymns, 1886, as a "Hymn after Benediction."

19. How san we praise Thee, Father? For the Putherless. Written by request for "The Ch. of England Central Home for Weifs and Strays," 1882, and printed in the Monthly Pucket, 1884.

printed in the Monthly Packet, 1884.

30. Is there no hope for these who he? Missions, Written in 1870 for the Monthly Packet; and also included in The Knight of Intercession, 1872.

31. Jesu, to my heart most precious. Jerus, All in All. A ir, of Thomas a Kemple's "De dolcedine Jesu," made for the Rev. S. Kettlewell's Thomas a Kemple, 1882.

22. Lo! they were, and they are, and shall be.

23. Arichael and All Angels. Written in 1875 for The Scottish Guardian, in which it was given in 1875.

23. Lord Christ, my Master dear. For Church Workers. Written for the Sunday School Teachers of St. Paul's, Haggerston, 1885, and given in his Hymns, 1888.

24. Lord of the harvest, it is right and meet. Missions, Thankrajiving. Written for the Second Day of Intercession for Foreign Missions, 1871, and pub. in The Knight of Intercession, 1872. In the 1889 Appendix to H. A. & M. it is somewhat altered.

35. Mast true, most High; O Trinity. Holy Trinity.
A fr. of Thomas & Kempis's "O vera summa Trinitan" made for the Rev. S. Kettlewell's Thomas & Kempis, 1809.

1882.

38. My flaviour! I behold Thy life. Passiontide.
Pub. in his Lyra Fidelium, 1868, on Art. iv. of the Apoelies' Creed, "Suffered under Fontius Plate, was Croofied, Dead, and Buried."

27. Need hath the golden city none. Krenickly
Written at Windsor in 1869, and was pub. in the Konickly Paciest in 1870. Also in The Enight of Intercession,

26. None also but Thee for evermore. God the Father. The opening hymn of his Lyra Fittliam, 1888, on Art. I. of the Apostles' Creed, "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Makar of Heaven and Earth."

God the Father Almighty, Maker of Heaven and Earth."

39. 0 joy, the purest, noblest. Evening. A tr. in wo parts of Thomas & Kempis's "O qual's quantaque hetitle" (p. 945, ii.) made for the Rev. S. Rettlewell's Thomas & Rempis, 1832. Pt. ii. begins "State of divinest splendour!"

30. 0 Then by Whom the saints abide. Liting of the Holy Spirit. Written for a Confirmation at Haggerston, 1875, and included in the 3rd ed. of The Knight of Intercession, 1875.

31. 0 Thou Whose Isve paternal. Holy Matrimony. Written at Window in 1868.

written at written band. Ascention. Pub. in his Agen Fidelium, 1866, on Art. vi. of the Apostles Creed, "He ascended into Heaven," &c. 33, Peace: legacy of mystic power, Place. Written in 1892 for The Society of St. Katharine for Invalids, and 1 m test for the Society of S. Katagrie for Invalue, and pub. in the Monthly Packet, 1844.

34. Remember Me, show forth My death. Holy Communion. Written at Windsor for the Monthly Packet, in 1870; and included in The Knight of Inter-258-100, 1072.

25. The Sen formook the Father's home. Christmar.
Pub. in his Lyra Fidelium, 1855, on Art. Bit. of the Apostler Greed, "Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary."

36. The old year's long campaign is o'er. The New ear. Written at Windsor in 1858, and pub. in The

Fig. Written as window in 1806, and pure in 1806 Reight of Interestion, 1872.

37. The whole creation greams and criss. Proposit of the Creation. Written at Window for the Monthly Procket, 1869, and included in The Knight of Interestion,

38. The world is sad with hopes that die. Everlasting Life. Pub. in his Lyra Fiddium, 1888, on Art. xii. of the Apostles' Creed, "The Life Everlasting."

49. Their names are names of Rings. Saints Days. Written at Windsor for the Monthly Packet in 1869, and included in The Knight of Interesesion, 1872.

inclinded in The Enight of Intercession, 1872.

40. There is an anolent river. The Spiritual Ricer.
Written at Windsor for the Konthly Packet, in 1876;
and given in The Knight of Intercession, 1872.

41. Thou Who hast charged Thine elder sons. For School Teachers. Written in 1881 for St. Katharine's

41. Thou Who hast charged Thine elder some. For School Teachers. Written in 1881 for St. Katharine's Training College for Mistresses; and subsequently adapted for use by teachers of both sexes.

42. Thou Who didst love us when our woos began. Temperance. Written for the Ch. of England Temperance Society Magazine, 1866.

43. Through midnight gloom from Macedon. Missions. Written for the First Day of Intercession for Foreign Missions, 1871.

44. Handanging God hear from starned heaven. Co.

Foreign Missions, 1871.

44. Unchanging God, hear from sternal heaven. On behalf of the Jews. Written for the East London Mission to the Jews, 1885. It is included in an abridged form in the 1889 Appendix to H. A. & H.

45. While the Shephards kept their vigil. Christmas Carol. Written at Window in 1868.

46. Winter in his heart of gloom. The Resurrection of the Body. Pub. in his Lyra Fidelium, 1866, on Art. x1, of the Apostles' Creed. "The Resurrection of the Body."

Hody."

47. Wistful are our waiting eyes. The Judgment.
Pub. in his Lyra Fiderium, 1886, on Art. vii. of the Apostles' Creed, "From thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead."

42. The Sticket' form of Tarnel's anxious days. Holy.

48. To faithful few of Israel's captive days. Holy Scriptures. Written at Windsor for the Monthly Packet, in 1869.

Some of Mr. Stone's finer hymns, including "Round the Sacred City gather;" "The Church's One Foundation;" "Weary of carth and laden with my sin," and others, are annotated under their respective first lines. These, together with the 48 above, are given in his Hymns, 1886, some of the trs. being recast. Additional tra, from Thomas a Kempis are also noted under his name.

Another hymn, inseparably associated with Mr. Stone's name is :-

49. Lord of our Scal's salvation. National Thanksgicing. This was ordered by command of Her Majesty the Queen to be stug at the Thanksgiving for the Recovery of H. R. H. The Prince of Wales, on Feb. 27, 1872. In its original form it was in 7 st. of 8 1, and was thus samy throughout the country. Owing however "to the necessary restrictions as to time in the Cathedral service, a selection of four verses only—the 1st, a combination of the 2ml and 4th, the 4th, and the 7th—was adapted by the author for use in St. Paul's." The full text was included in The Knight of Intercession, 1872.

Mr. Stone's hymns vary considerably in metre and subject, and thus present a pleasing variety not always found in the compositions of popular hymn-writers. His best hymns are well designed and clearly expressed. tone is essentially dogmatic and hopeful. The absence of rich poetic thought and graceful fancy is more than atound for by a masterly condensation of Scripture facts and of Church teaching given tersely and with great vigour. His changes and antitheses are frequently abrupt, in many instances too much so for congregational purposes, and his vocabulary is somewhat limited. His rhythm, except where broken either by long or by compound words, is rarely at fault, and his rhyme is usually perfect. A few of his hymns are plaintive and pathetic, as the tender "Weary of earth and laden with my sin"; others are richly musical, as "Lord of the harvest! it is right and meet": but the greater part are strongly outspoken utterances of a manly faith, where dogma, prayer, and praise are interwoven with much skill. Usually the key-note of his song is Hope. He d. Nov. 19, 1900.

Stowe, Harriet, née Beecher, daughter of the Rev. Lyman Beecher, D.D., was born at Litchfield, Connecticut, June 15, 1812. In 1832, her father having been appointed President of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, Ohio, she removed there with the family; and in 1833 was married to the Rev. Calvin E. Stowe, D.D., Professor of Languages and Biblical Literature in the same Institution. Her high reputation as an author is well known; and the immense success of Uncle Tom's Cabin, which first appeared in The National Era, in 1852, ensures her a lasting reputation. She has also written other well-known works. Three of her hymna appeared in the Plymouth Collection, edited by her brother, H. W. Beecher, in 1855;-

1. Still, still with Thee, when purple morning breaketh.

Restling in God.

2. That mystic word of Thine, O sovereign Lord. Abiling in Jesus.

3. When winds are raging o'er the upper ocean. Peace.

Another hymn by Mrs. Stowe, "How beautiful, said he of old" (The Gospel Ministy), is No. 291 in the Boston Hys. of the Spirit, 1864. Her poetical pieces were pub in her Religious Poems, 1867; and from a poem therein the hymn, "Knocking, knocking, who is there?" (Christ knocking), in Sankey's Sac. Songs and Solos is adapted. [F. M. B.]

Stowell, Hugh, M.A., & of Hugh Stowell, Rector of Ballaugh, near Ramsey, was b. nt Douglas, Isle of Man, Dec. 3, 1799, and educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, B.A. 1822; M.A. 1826. He was ordained in 1823, and held the curacy of Shepecombe, Gloucestershire; and then that of Holy Trinity, Huddersfield. Subsequently he was Curate in charge of St. Stephen's, Salford, and became rector of Christ Church, Salford, in 1831. In 1845 he was appointed Hon. Canon in Chester Cathedral: in 1851 Chaplain to the Bp. of Manchester; and Rural Dean of Eccles. He d. at Salford, Oct. 8, 1865. His Memoir, by the Rev. J. B. Marsden, was pub. in 1868. Canon Stowell was a popular and effective preacher. His publications included Tractarianism Tested, 1845; A Model for Men of Business, 1854; Pleasures of Religion and Other Poems, 1832; The Peaceful Valley, 1826; and a large number of single sermons, pamphlets, &c. His Sel. of Ps. & Hys. was pub. as:—

A Selection of Paulms & Hystens Swites to the Services of the Church of England. By the Rev. H. Stoudi, M.A., Manchester. Printed by H nry Smith, St. Ann's Square, 1831.

This Sel. contained 283 hymns, in addition to versions of the Psalms. Of the hymns the following were by the compiler:-

- 1. Almighty Shephard, Who didst give. (1828.) The Good Skepherd.
- 2. From every stormy wind that blows. See y. 398, i. 3. Gracious God, look down in kindness. Sunday School Anniversary.

4. Great God, we dare not bow the knee. Holy Com-

5. Meek Lamb of God, on Thee. Lent.
6. To Thee, O God, we raise. Sunday School Anni-

- verkery. 7. Tune every heart, wake every tongue. Sunday
- School Anniversary.

  8. When Jesus left the glorious sky. For an Infanta'
- 9. Yes, in the morning of our years. Sunday School Anniversary.

The 12th ed. of this Sel. pub. by Canon Stowell in 1864, was increased to 273 hymns, the additional hymne being in nearly every instance his own compositions. In addition to those already given we have:—

- Again our yearly strain we raise.
   Another year has glided past. (Before 1846.)
   Another year with mercles strown. (Before 1846.)
   Befare Thy throne, O Lord, we bend. (Before
- 1846.)
- 846.)
  14. By pressing dangers compassed round. 1843 (?).
  15. Coma, raiss we all the blessed strain. 1862.
  16. Hall, hallowed day of heavenly rest. 1844 (?).
  17. Hark, how sweet those inflant voices. 1844 (?).
  18. How fulliless is the ploughman's toll. 1854.
  19. How gantly in night's silent hours. 1858.
  20. Jesus is our Shepherd, Wipfug, &c. 1849.
  21. Jesus, Lord, Who hart sacended. 1833.
  22. Jesus, our Saviour and our Lord. (Before 1846.)
  24. Jesus, Prophet of Thy Church. 1861.
  25. Lord if our land be creat and free. 1855.

- 24. Jesus, Prophet of Thy Church. 1861.
  25. Lord, if our land be great and free. 1851.
  26. Lord, in this dark and stormy day. 1848.
  27. Lord, in Thy mercy hear our cry. 1855.
  28. Meek Lamb of God, Who dost impart. 1859.
  29. O God, the liquid sign of grace. 1886.
  30. Sailing o'er life's changeful orean. (Before 1846.)
  31. Saviour, guide this little band. (Before 1846.)
  32. The day of rest is passed sway. (Before 1846.)
  33. The morn of our life-time is fast gliding by.
  (Before 1846.)

  - Before 1846.)
    34. Though our lot be poor and lowly. 1847.
    38. Thy cross, O Lord, the holy sign. 1840.
    36. Wake, wake our yearly strain anew. 1852.
    37. Wake, wake the joyful song. 1844.
    39. Wa, a little simple throng. (Before 1846.)
    39. We, little pligrins of a day. 1846.
    46. We love the boly house of prayer. 1857.
    46. We love the boly house of prayer.
  - 41. We will not weep as others do. 1842.
    42. What is your life? It glances by. 1869.
    43. What though our earthly lot be low. 1858.

These hymns were all written for the Anniversary Services of Christ Church Sunday Schools, Salford, and are included with others in a special Appendix in the 1877 ed. of the Sel. as above. Other hymns by Canon Stowell are:-

- 44. Children of old, Hosannah sang. Sanday Schools. 1830.
- 1839.
  46. Lord of all power and might, Father of love, &c. Missions. Written for the Jubiles of the H. & F. Bible Society. March 7, 1853.
  46. Shepherd of the ransomed sheep. The Good Shep-
- herd, 47. Pilgrims in the narrow way. Sunday School Anniversary. This was his last hymn, and was written for the Christ Church S. School Angiversary, 1866.

Of Canon Stowell's hymns the most popular are Nos. 2, 3, 20 and 44. As a writer for children he was very successful. All the foregoing hymns are in the 15th ed, of his Eel. edited by his son, Manchester, 1877; and in Hymns. By the late Rev. Canon Stowell, M.A. Manchester, 1868.

Stowell, Thomas Alfred, M.A., S. Canon H. Stowell, was b. at Salford, July

1857, he became Curate of Bolton, Diocese of Ripon, 1857-60; Incumbent of St. Stephen's, Bowling, Bradford, 1860-65; and then Rector of Christ Church, Salford, in succession to his father, 1865. He was also appointed Rural Dean of Salford in 1876, and Hon. Canon in Manchester Cathedral in 1879. Canon T. A. Stowell has pub. The Church Catechism simply and clearly explained, 1882, various Sermons, papers on Education, &c. Most of his hymns were written for the Anniversary Sermons of Christ Church S. Schools, Salford (nearly 2000 children), and include :-

1. Blessed Saviour, hear us when we cry. 1872.

2. Hispay were those mothers. 1865.
3. In God's boly dwelling. 1873.
4. Lord, on Thy day, within Thy boly dwelling. 1871.
5. Lord, Thy children lowly bending. 1876.
6. My Saviour, be thou near me, When I lie down, &c.

7. O Jesus [Savious] we have promised Henceforth to be Thine Own. Confirmation, 1877. 8. Sweet day of rest which God has given. Sunday. 9. While the sun is shining. Work. 1869.

These 9 hymns are in Canon T. A. Stowell's 1877 ed. of his father's Sel., and of these Nos. 3 and 9 are the most popular. He is also the author of :---

Come, Christian youths and maidens. S. School Anniversary. In Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881, and others.

11. Early the boly women came. Easter. In the Church Monthly, April, 1888.

12. Remember thy Creator. Youthful Plety. In the Church S. School Mag., Feb. 1889.

13. Saviour, we are young and weak. The Christian Race. In Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881,

Several of these are popular hymns for chil-dren, and will no doubt gradually come into somewhat extensive use.

Strafford, Elizabeth, daughter of H. Strafford, of Belper, b. in London, Oct. 30, 1828; d. at Belper, April 4, 1868. Her hymns appeared in Hymns for the Collects throughout the Year, for the Use of Children, 1857 (W. F. Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. and Home, 1873). From this, "God Almighty heareth ever" (Love of God), "Once to our world there came" (Passiontide), and "Wo praise Thee, we bless Thee, O Father in heaven" (Proise for Salvation), have come into C. U. [J, J.]

Strauss, Victor Friedrich von, was at Bückeburg, Schaumburg-Lippe, Sept. 18, 1809. He became a student of law at the Universities of Erlangen, Bonn, and Göttingen. In 1832 he married Albertine von Torney, daughter of a Hannoverian lauded proprietor; and, in 1872, at the request of her relations, added her name to his own (Strause und Torney), having been previously, in 1851, raised to the Austrian nobility. Having entered the diplomatic service of Schaumburg-Lippe, in 1832, he was appointed, in 1840, Archivrath at Bückeburg; and attended the Frankfurt Diet as Geheimrath, in 1850, as the accredited representative of Schaumburg-Lippe. He was also, from 1853 to 1866, the regular representative of Schaumburg-Lippe, at the North German Diet. Thereafter he retired on a pension, and went at Easter, 1869, to Erlangen, where he wrote a 15, 1831. He was Bridgman Exhibitioner at tr. of the works of the Chinese philosopher Queen's College, Oxford, 1853, and n.a. in Lad-ted, with a commentary (pub. 1870). In honours in 1855. Taking Holy Orders in 1872 he removed to Dresden, where he still [1889] resides. In 1889 he pub. the 1st vol. ] of a work on Altagyptische Götterglaube (Koch vii. 270; O. Kraus, 1879, p. 525, &c.).

vii. 270; O. Kraue, 1879, p. 323, dc.).

Both as a secular and as a secred poet, Strause holds high rank among his contemporaries in Germany; not so much for popularity, as for wealth of ideas, breadth of culture, beauty of form, and clear, simple expression. The impulse which he received to the study of theology and to hymn-writing, was mainly through the impression of manifest unfatness left upon tim by reading D. F. Strause's Lebes-Jesu, 1835. This led him to study the New Testament for himself; and to find, in the old Gospet, the satisfaction of the needs of his spirit. His hymns, white, like most modern hymns, in the main subjective, often catch the ring and noble simplicity of the older objective cleasted hymns, but are more finished subjective, often catch the ring and noble simplicity of the older objective classical hymns, but are more finished in form. Many have passed into recent German hymnbooks. They appeared principally in Knapp's Caristoterpe, 1844-48; and in his own—(1) Gedichte, Bielefeld, 1841; (2) Lieder aus der Gemeine für das Christliche Kirchenyahr, Hamburg, 1843; and (2) Welkliches und Geistliches, Heidelberg, 1856. The hymns in No. 3 are in the second part, which is separately paged, and entitled Geistliches in Gedichten und Liedern. The work entitled Geistliches in Gedichten und Liedern. The work entitled Geistliches in Gedichten und Liedern. The work entitled Best Kirchenyahr im Russe, Heidelberg, 1845, is a series of postical meditations, and not of hymns properly so called.

The hymns by Strauss which have passed into English are :-

i. Lobjauchst und mehret Gottes Ruhm. Advent. 1st pub. in 1856, as above, pt. ii., p. 8, in 16 st., entitled "Advent." Tr. as, "The Lord doth in His Kingdom come." By J. Kelly, 1885.

il. Hun ginget anol du. Easter Eve. 1st pub., 1843, as above, p. 126, in 7 st. of 5 l., and entitled, "The Lord in the Grave." Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850, No. 560. Tr. as:—

Thou sore-oppress'd. A good tr., emitting st. v. by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 34; and thence in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 58. Included in the Hymnary, 1872, Parish H. Bk., 1875, Evang. Hyl., N. York, 1880, and others.

iil. 0 mein Hern, gieb dich zufrieden. Waiting on God. 1st pub., 1841, as above, p. 160, in 5 st. of 8 L, and entitled, "Tranquillity." Included in Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1850, No. 1955. The tr. in C. U. is:-- 0 my heart, be calm and patient. A tr. of st. i., il., v., by Miss Borthwick, as No. 248 in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864.

Other trs. are :-

(1) "O my heart, be calm, confiding." By Miss Burlingham, in the British Herald, June 1885, p. 287; and in Reld's Prates Bis., 1872. (2) "O my heart, be show content." By J. Kelly, 1885, p. 75.

[J. M.]

Streatfeild, Charlotte, née Saint, eldest daughter of the Rev. J. J. Saint, Rector of Speldhurst, was b. at Speldhurst, Dec. 31, 1829, and married, in 1862, to Charles N. Streatfeild, Lieutenant, Royal Navy, eldest a of Major General Streatfeild, Royal Engineers. Mrs. Streatfeild has pub, :---

The following include Mrs. Streatfeild's hymna ia C. U. :-

- 1. And didst Thou hunger then, O Lord. 1st & in Lond. Appeared in her Hys. and Verses on the Collects, 1865.

in Lent. Contributed to Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1861.

5. How beautiful the hills of God. Gospel, 1st S. in. nt. Contributed to Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bh., 1861.

1851.

6. I linger round the fold of God. Lent. Pub. in The Story of the Good Shepherd, 1885.

7. In the Peradise of Jerus. However. Appeared in her Hyr. on the Love of Jerus, dec., 1877.

8. Jerus, tender Shepherd, Seeking for Thine own. The Good Shepherd. Pub. in The Story of the Good Shepherd, 1885.

8. Sweet Shepherd. Pub. in the Story of the Good Shepherd, 1886.

8. Sweet Shepherd in her Hye, on the Love of Jerus, &c., 1877; and The Story of the Good Shepherd, 1886.

10. There is joy amongst the angels. Joy in Heaven over Repeating Stoners. Pub. in her Hys. on the Love of Jerus, &c., 1877; and The Story of the Good Shepherd, 1885.

Mrs. Streatfeild has also a "Litany for a Children's Service," in A Little Garland of the Saints, 1877. Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5 and 7 of the above hymns are in Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bh., 1881, and they all rank with the sweetest and most tender of modern verses for children. Some have been arranged as songs, and have been set to music by M. S. Skeffington. Mrs. Streatfeild's prose works include Meditations on the Seven Last Words, 1874; and Words of Comfort, 1875. [J, J,]

Strong, Nathan, D.D., a leading Congregational divine of his day, was b. at Coventry, Connecticut, Oct. 16, 1748, and educated at Yale College, where he graduated in 1769. He first studied law, but soon turned his attention to the ministry. In January 1774 he became the Paster of the First Congregational Church at Hartford, and remained there to his death in 1816. In 1796 he won much repute through his essay on The Doctrine of Eternal Misery consistent with the Infinite Benevalence of God. He founded The Connecticut Evangelical Magazine, in 1800, and also took a prominent part in establishing the Connecticut Home Mission Society in 1801. His degree of D.D. was conferred by the University of Princeton. His services to American hymnology, as the principal editor of the Hartford Sel. [American Rymnody, p. 57, ii.], 1799, have been very great. As in that Sel. the author's names were not given, most of his numerous contributions thereto cannot be identified. Six of these hymns, however, are reproduced in Nettleton's Village Hymns, 1824, with his name attached thereto. These are:-1. Alas, alas, how blind I've been. The Sinner awakenee 2. Blest Lord, behold the guilty ecorn. Prayer for opposers to Revivals.

3. Long have I walked this dreary road. The Sinner's Complaint.

4. Sinner, behold, I've heard thy grouns. The Payadoning God.

5. Smote by the law, I'm justly slain. The Law, and the Gospei.

6. The summer harvest spreads the fields. The Great

In addition to these the following are from the Hartford Set., 1799 (but not in the Village Hys.) They are the best known and most widely used of Strong's hymns:-

7. Almighty Sovereign of the skies. National Thanksgiving.

8. Swell the anthem, raise the song. National Thanks-[F. M. B.] giving.

2. Brothers, trend the hely portals. For the Dedication of a Church. Pub. by Skeffington, with music by
M. S. Skeffington. A Processional.
S. He scarrely felt the cruel stones. St. Stephen.
Pub. in her Hys. and Vertes on the Collects, 1865.
L. High o'er the gittering temple. Gospel for 1st S.

logical Seminary (1876). In 1876 he entered i the Presbyterian ministry as Pastor at Auburn, New York. In 1878 he removed to Ithaca, N. Y.; in 1883 to Holyoke, Massachusetts, and in 1885 to Chicago, Illinois. He received his degree of D.D. from Hamilton College in He lies edited Christian Chorals, 1885; New Allelaia, 1880-96; and Church Song, 1889. He was also joint editor with H. P. Main of The Church Praise Book, 1882. He has also pub. Hymns and Verses, 1883, and Song of Miriam, and Other Hymns and Verses, 1888. To two of these works which have been designed for daily use in divine worship Dr. Stryker contributed the following original hymns:

i. The Church Praise Book, 1882.

I. Burst forth, O Bridegroom, from Thy chamber bright. Second Advent Desired. (1886.) 2. Death council make my soul afraid. Death Contemplated. (1881.)

3. Eternal day bath dawned. Heaven. (
4. Mighly God, Thy Church recover. Heaven. (1881.) Missions.

(1881.) 5. Ring again, ye starry chime. Christmas. (1881.)
6. Sing, Israel, for the Lord your strength. Passing the Red Sea. (1878.)
7. The tribes of faith from all the earth. Heaven.

(1881.)

9. Thy Kingdom come, O blessed Son of God. Second Advant Desired: (1880.) Re-written in Church Song, 1889, as "Thy Kingdom come, O everlasting Lord."

9. When the everlasting Lord. Morning. (1880.)

ii. Church Song, 1889.

10. Arouse Thy Church, Almighty God. Hissions,

10. Father, as here we bow. Holy Trinity. (1886.)
12. Four hundred years their course have sped.

American National Hypan. (1882.)

13. God of our Fathers, our God to-day. National Hyan. (1889.)

14. Lo, where that spotless Lumb for sin provided.

Passiontide. (1884.)

ussiontide. (1884.) 15. My Maker, at Thy holy throne. Holy Buptims.

16. O God, Thy judgments give the King, Thy Son.

Missions. (1883.) 17. O Thou, Etetual, Changeless, Infinite. Praise to od. (1881.) 18. 0 Thou, Omnipresent. Omnipresence of the Father. (1888.)

19. O Thou Shepherd of Thine Israel, hear us.

19. O Thou isspended of Thine Israel, hear us. Pt. Izrae. (1883.)
20. Cur God, and our Redeemer. Opening of a Piace of Morzhip. (1883.)
21. Robbed, bruised, and dying, once I lay. The Good Samaritans. (1886.)
22. Sing, every boy and maiden. Praise to God.

(1886.)
23. Thou, Lord of my life, by the words Thou hast asid. Lent. (1881.)

24. Thy grace is all of grace. Beine Grace. (1886.)
25. To Thee, our God, these babes we bring. Holy Baptims. (1886.)
26. Tranquilly, slowly, solemnly, lowly. Burial.

(1884.)
27. We close Thy blessed Word. Sunday Evening.

(1887.)
28. While sil the night-stars fade and wane. Easter.

In addition to these original hymns Dr. Stryker has several translations from the German which are in C. U., and are noted in this Dictionary (see Index of Authors and Translators), One of his hymns, No. 513, "Now I lay me down to sleop" (Child's Evening hymn), in Church Song, 1889 (dated 1884), begins with a stanza by another hand. In the same work there are also several of his tunes. Dr. Stryker's hymns are massive and rugged, full of dogmatism and fire, but they lack unity and purity of rhythm. In some instances words stand for thoughts, and exclamations for ideas.

Nevertheless a few will live. (See also American Hymnody in Various.) [J, J,]

Stubbs, Jonathan. [Staffordshire Hymnbooks.

Sturm, Christoph Christian, s. of Johann Jakob Sturm, lawyer (Imperial notary) at Augsburg, was b. at Augsburg, Jan. 25. 1740. He studied at the universities of Jena (N.A. 1761) and Halle. He was then appointed, in 1762, as one of the masters in the Pacdagogium at Halle, and in 1765 became Conrector of the school at Sorau, in Brandenburg. In 1767 he returned to Halle as fourth pastor of the Market Church, and became third pastor in the same year. He left Halle in 1769, to become second paster of the church of the Holy Spirit at Magdeburg, where he passed the happicst part of his professional life, and where he wrote most of his devotional works. Finally, in 1778, he was appointed chief paster of St. Peter's Church at Hamburg. Here he at first lived happily, beloved and respected as a prescher and author, until, in 1782, his views on the Salvation of the Heathen led J. M. Goetze, chief pastor of St. Katherine's Church in Hamburg, to accuse him of Rationalism, &c. The resulting controversy embittered and shortened Storm's life. In his latter years he suffered from a weak chest; and in the night of Aug. 10-11, 1786, he was seized with an attack of spitting of blood, from which he never re-covered. He d. at Hamburg, on Aug. 26, 1786 (Koch, vi., 357; Bode, p. 158, &c.).

Sturm is best known to English readers by his devo-Sturm is best known to English readers by his devo-tional works, which were for some time very popular, viz., his "Conferences with God in the Morring Hours" (Enterhaltsunges mit Got in der Morgentinsden, &c., Halle, 1768), and his "Reflections on the Works of God" (Betruchtunges über die Werke Guttes, &c., Halle, 1772— 76). He was one of the moet prollic hymn-writers of the Rationalistic period, being the author of more than 400 hymns. His productions are less dreary than most of the time, and are not without earnestness, devoutnes, and lark parger. but they are deen to relaterized and not and lyrk power; but they are often too rhetorical, and not sufficiently simple. They found great favour with the compilers of hymn-books from 1765 to 1845, but not many sufficiently simple. They found great favour with the compilers of hymn-books from 1763 to 1863, but not many of them are retained in later collections. His specialities were hymns on the Works of God in Nature, and hymns for Children. Long lists of bis works are given by Koch and Bode. We need only note the following:—(1) Ber Christ am Sonntage, Halle & Leipzig, 1764-65 (Hamburg Library]. This was a weekly paper, which contained 88 hymns by Sturm. (2) Samulany gesisticher Gesänge siber die Werke Gottes in der Natur, Halle, 1775 [Brit. Mus. and Wernigsrode Library]. Dure do of the hymns are originals by Sturm. (3) Follosindings Gesangbach für Kinder, Halle, 1777 [Hamburg Library]. More than 80 hymns even to have been written by Sturm for this work. (4) Predigtentwärfe, Hamburg, 1779-88 [Brit. Mus.]. An eight years' coarse of sermon onlines on the Gospels for Studays and Festivals; with over 30 hymns by Sturm, some being recasts from other authors. (5) Lieder wind Kircheyseänge, Hamburg, 1780 (Royal Library, Hamnover). With 64 hymns, numb being recasts of his earlier hymns, made by himself or by J. S. Diterich. (6) Gesangbach für Garterfreunde und Liebhaber der Natur, Hamburg, 1781 (Hamburg Library). More than 60 of the hymns seem to have been written by Sturm for this work. Sturm for this work.

The hymns by Sturm which have passed into English are:-

inglish are:—

1. Auferstanden, suferstanden, 1st der Herr, der ums verschnt. Easter. In his Predigtentwürfe, vol. iii., 1781, p. 144, in 5 st. of 81. It is beseit on J. C. Lavaer's "Auferstanden, suferstanden" (in his Zwettez Finfzig christlicher Lieder, Zürich, 1776), and on Johann Friedrich Dannell's D. Nov. 21, 1719, at Quedlinburg; d. there, Feb. 19, 1712, as Consistorialrath and paster of St. Glies's (Ægidius) church), "Halletujah Jensu lebet," (in his Christliche Empfradangen, Quedlinburg, 1762). Sturm's hymn is in the Hamburg G. H. 1787, No. 108

(1842, No. 198), and has been tr. as "Christ is risen, Christ is risen, He by Whom." By N. L. Prothingham, 1870, p. 181, repeated in the Schaff-Gilman Lib. of Rel. Poelry, 1881.

ii. Bank, Dank, sey dir für dein Erbarmen. This is noted at p. 279, ii ill. Ein Pilgrim bin ich in der Welt. Christian Pil-grimage. In his Christ am Sonntage, vol. il., p. 359 (number for Sunday, Nov. 18, 1764), in 7 st. of 7 L, en-titied "The Consolation of Elernity." 7. as "I'm but a weary pilgrim here." By Dr. H. Ells, 1845, p. 188.

iv. Goth, wenn mein Aug., der Welt entricht. For the Dying. In his Christ am Sonnlage, vol. ill., p. 30 (as the end of a meditation in a churchyard on the Last Judgment, for Sunday Dec. 9, 1764), in 3 st. of 12 i. In the Berlin G. B., 1765, No. 124, it beginn, "Mein Hel-land, wenn mein Geist erfreut." This form is repeated by Sturm, in 1780, as above, p. 18, and has been tr. as Dear Saviour, while I here am blest." By Dr. H. Mills, 1845, p. 131 (1858, p. 184).

v. Reat öffirst sinh die neue Bahn. New Peer. In his Predigientswirfe, vol. vi., 1784, p. 40, in 4 st. of 7 l., given for New Year's Day, 1784. In the Hamburg O. B., 1787, No. 351 (1842, No. 621). The trs. are:— (1) "Life's course must recommence to-day." By Nits Ozz, 1841, p. 43. (2) "I now commence a separate stage." By Lady E. Fortescus, 1843, p. 18.

etage." By Lady E. Fortecute, 1843, p. 19.

vi. Bohmal ist der Weg, auf welchem Christen gehen.
Christien Pilgrinage. In his Christ an Sonatage, vol.
I., p. 130 (for Sunday, Jan. 22, 1784), in 0 st, of 4 l., enstilled, "The Way to Heaven." Repeated 1780, as above,
p. 30, in 5 st., st. iii.-v. being new, and beginning,
"Schmal ist der Pisd." Repeated thus in the Wirttemberg G. B., 1791, No. 397. "Tr. as "The way of Christians leads through deserts dreary." By Br. H. Mills, 1846, p. 113 (1856, p. 184).

vii. Wenn der Erde Orlinde behen. Record Advent-

wil. Wenn der Erde Gründe behen. Second Advend-n his Lieder und Kirokengezänge, 1780, p. 73, in δ st-of δ μ, entitled. "The Day of the World's Judgment," sai beginning, "Wonn der Erde." In the Württemberg G. B., 1791, Na. 383. "T., as "When the solid earth is quakting." By C. W. Shielda, in Sacred Lyrics from the German, Philadelphia 1859, p. 216.

Sturm, Julius Carl Reinhold, was b. July 21; 1816, at Köstritz, in the principality of Reuss (younger line). After being a student of theology at Jena, from 1837 to 1841, he was for two years a private tutor at Heilbronn on the Neckar, and then, for a year, at Friesen, in Saxony. In 1845 he became tutor to Prince Heinrich xiv. of Reuss; and after the Prince's confirmation, in 1848, acted as tutor to him for three years more at the Gymnasium in Meiningen. He was then appointed pastor at Güschitz, near Schleiz, in the end of 1850; and pastor at Köstritz, in 1858, where he still (1889) lives as Kirchenrath and Court preacher (Kock, vii. 284; Ms. from the anthor, &c.). Sturm is one of the most important of modern German sacred poets. Among his works of this nature may be mentioned :-

(1) Gesichke, Leipzig, 1850; 3rd ed., 1862. (2) Fromme Lieder, Leipzig, 1862; fith ed., 1867. (3) Zwei Rosen, oder das hohe Livd der Liebe, Leipzig, 1863; a vernion of Camiteles. (4) New Fromme Lieder und Gedichte, Leipzig, 1868; 3rd ed., 1870. (5) Israel's Weg sur Herrlichkeit, Erlangen, 1865; 2nd ed., as Israelistische Lieber, Halle, 1867. (6) Von der Pilgerfahrt, Halle, 1868. (7) Gett grützer dich. Religiöse Gedichte, Leipzig, 1871. (6) Aufredrix, Leipzig, 1891. (9) Kribas auf God. Naue religiöse Gedichte, Bremen, 1893. (10) Palme und Krone, Bremen, 1888. Bremen, 1888.

From these works a large number of pieces have passed into recent collections of German sacred poetry, and a few into recent German official hymn-books. A considerable number have been tr. by Lady John Manners, the Rev. J. Kelly, and others, but none have passed into English hymn-books. [J. M.]

Sturm, Leonhard, became Master in the Latin School, and Cantor (precentor) in St. !

George's Church, at Nördlingen, Bayaris, in 1635. In the church registers at Nördlingen he is described as "of Fehlburg in the Pfalz" (? Pfalzburg in Aleace). He d. at Nördlingen, Sept. 11, 1682, aged 74 (Blätter für Hymnologie, 1886, p. 62; 1888, pp. 17-19, 178, &c.).

logie, 1886, p. 62; 1888, pp. 17-19, 178, &c.).
Eight hymns, by Sturm, are included in the Appa. to the New-permetric christicide Scale Large, Onolitabach (Anabach), 1664-65 [Heidelberg University Library]; and eleven in the Nordlingricker Kirchen-Schall, older Gristliche Seelen-Lust, Nördlingen, 1676 [Wetnigsrods
Library]. Only one of these has passed into English, vir., Ich fisht dahin mit Freudan. For the Dying. The first Panza is taken almost verbatim from a piece by Martin Rinkart (see p. 963, il.). Simm added to this seven stanzas, which carry out Rinkart's idea without borrowing almost anything more from blas. The initial letters of Sturm's sight stanzas form the acrostic Jacobina; this being the name of bis second wife, Maria Jacobina, to whom he was married in 1846, and who d.
In 1687. Possibly the hymn, was written at some period Jacobins, to whom he was married in 1846, and who d. In 1887. Possibly the hymn was written at some period when the was dangerously III. Sturm's hymn appeared in the Nordingen G. B., 1676, as above (it is not in the Anabach G. B., 1666-58); and in the Hiller, 1888, p. 18, is reprinted, in full, from the Nordingen G. B. of 1684. It is also in the Leich-George-Bucklein, Rothenburg on the Tauber, 1679, p. 108, in the Wirttenberg G. B., 1741, No. 321, and others. Tr. as:— I journey farth rejaining. This is a somewhat free various of st. 1.-iii., vi., vii., by Miss Borthwick, in H. L. L., 1st Ser., 1854, p. 71 (1884, p. 71). Repeated, full, in Bp. Ryle's Colit., 1860; the Christian H. Bk., Cheinnett, 1865, &c.; and, omitting st. iii., in Kennedy, 1865. The trs. of st. iii., vi., vii., beginning, "Why thus so addy weeping," are No. 63, in J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865.

[J. M.]

Sublime numen, ter potens, ter maximum. [Holy Trivity.] Appeared in the Sens Brev., 1726, and the Paris Brev., 1736. as the hymn at Matins for Trinity Sunday. Text in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

1. God most high, thrice mighty God. W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Time Bk., 1852-55, Trinity, No. 8; and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 90.

Other tre. are:-

1. All-good, all-great, all-mighty, Three in One. f. Williams, in the British Rag. Sep. 1839, and his Rys. tr. from the Particles Bret., 1839, p. 161.

2. Godhead sublimest. Thrice great, &c. J. D.

ຼື J. J.ງ* Chambers, 1867.

Summae Deus clementiae. St. ii., Da dexteram surgentibus. [Trinity Sunday.] This cento was added to the Roman Breviary at the revision of 1568, and is found at p. 433 of the ed. pub. at Rome in 1570, as the hymn at Matins on Tripity Sunday. It consists of st. i. of the hymn noted below, and of st. ii, of the hymn, "Aeterna coeli gloria," with an added dexology. At the revision of 1028-32 st. i. was rewritten, beginning, "Summae Parens elementiae" (st. ii. "Da dexteram surgentibus"), and this form is repeated in the editions of this revision, and in Newman's Hymni [J. M.] Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865.

Translations in C. U. :-

1. Parent of all, Whose love displayed. By Bp. R. Mant, in his Ancient Hys., &c., 1837, p. 65, ed. 1871, p. 113. In the English Hyl., 1852 and 1861, it is altered to "Almighty God, Whose love displayed."

2. O Thou eternal Source of lave. St. ii. Be nigh to us, &c. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 109, and his Hys. & Poems. 1873, p. 62. It is given in a few collections only.

Translations not in U. U. :-1, O God, by Whose command is sway'd. Primer, 1706. In O. Shipley's Annus Sunctus, 1884.

2. Parent of highest clemency. A. J. B. Espe. 1844.

3. Of boundless love Parental Source. W. J. Cope-Ignet. 1848.

4. Great Source of goodness, Godhead blest. St. il. Give Thy right Hand. J. Waliocc. 1874. [J. J.]

Summae Deus clementiae Mundique factor machinee. [Saturday. Morning.] This has been ascribed to St. Ambrose, as by Hincmar, in his " De una et non triua Deitate, 857, but it is not one of the twelve hymns received as genuine by the Benedictine editors of St. Ambrose, nor is it included by Biraghi as one of the Inni sinceri e Carmi di Sant' Ambrogio, 1862. Daniel, i No. 24, gives both this text and that of the Boman Brev., 1632 (see below), and at iv. p. 38, citcs it as in a Rheimu ms. of the 10th cent., ranking it among the hymns of the 7th or 8th cent. Mose, i. p. 372, cites it as in a ms. of the 8th cent. at Trior. Among the British Museum mes. it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 24b; Jul. A. vi. f. 30; Harl. 2961, f. 224b): in a Mozarabio Hymnarium of the 11th cent. (Add. 30851, f. 175); a Mozarabic Breviary of the 11th cent. (Add. 30848, f. 80), &c. It is in a ms. of the 11th cent, at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (391, p. 237); in three MSS. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall, Nov. 387, 413, 414; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch. (Sur-tees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. us. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 9). In the Roman Breviary, 1632, it begins "Summae Parens clementise, Mundi regis qui machi-nam." The original form is included in the older Roman (Venice, 1478), Sarum, York, Aberdees, and other Breviaries, for Saturday at Matina. This text is also to be found in Wackernagel, i. No. 5; Hymnarium Sarisb. 1851, p. 57; G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from a Ms. of the 10th cent., &c. The revised text of the Roman Breviary, 1632, is given in the recent eds. of that revision, in Daniel, i. No. 24, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. See also note on the previous hymn. [J. M.]

Both forms of this hymn have been rendered into English, viz. :-

i. Summas Deus elementiae, Mundique.

1. O God of mercies infinite. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55.

2. Thou Fremer of earth's fabric! hear. By J. D. Chambers, in his Psalter, 1852, p. 248.

8. Great God of boundless movey, hear. By J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 31. This is given in the Hymner, 1882, with extensive alterations, as, "O God of mercy passing thought."

ji. Summes Parens clementies, Hundi.

1. O Thou eternal Source of love. St. ii. For Thy dear meroy's sake, &c. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 33, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 20. In limited use.

2. Great Ged, eternal Source of love. In Hys.

for the Year, 1867. No. 214. E. Caswall, altered.

3. Father of merelos lafinite. By Card. Newman, in his Verses on Religious Subjects, 1853, p. 68; and his Verses on Various Occasions, 1868, p. 215. It is in the Marquess of Bute's Roman Brev., into English, 1879, O. Shipley's Annue Sanctus, 1884, &c., and several other collections.

Other trs. are:-

1. O God, by Whose command is sway'd. Premer, 1706.

2. O God of graciousness, Maker of all we see.

Hymnarium Anglicanum. 1844.

3. Paternal Source of love divine. W. J. Copeland.

4. Father, Thou Whose love and care. R. Campbell.

1850. 5. Great Source of goodness, Godhead blost. St. ii., May we Thy mercy, &c. J. Waltars. 1874. [J. J.]

Summae, Deus, clementiae, Septem Dolores Virginis. [Dolours of the B. V. M.] This is the hymn at Lauds in the office of the Seven Dolours, which was declared in 1814 to be of obligation. The office is found in the Proprium officiorum .... ordinis servorum B. M. V. in Germania, Prague, 1720, and includes three bymns, viz. :-

Vespert. () quot undis lachrymarum. (See Various.) Matinz. Jam (oto subitus. (p. $78, ii.) Laudt. Summae, Deus, clementiae.

In the Kempton ed., 1746, of the Roman Breviary, this hymn is at p. clx. The text is to be found in recent eds. of that Breviary. and also in Daniel iv., p. 308. Tr. 88:-

1. God, in Whom all grace doth dwell. E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 173; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 93. It is given in a few Roman Catholic hymn-books for Missions and Schools.

2. God of mercy, let us run. By F. W. Faber, in Hys. for the use of the Schools and Cong. of St. Wilfrid's Staffordshire, 1849; Jesus and Mary, &c., 1849; Oratory Hys., 1854, and his Hymns, 1862.

Another tr. is: —
Great God of clemency supreme. By J. Wallace. [J. M.]

Summe Pater, O Creator. [Life of our Lord.] This appears in J. M. Horst's Paradisus Animae Christianae, Cologne, 1644, pp. 866-71, in the Section "On the Life and Passion of our Lord." It is entitled, "Rosarium D. N. Jesu Christi, praecipua vitae ao Passionis ejus puncta, grata brevitate com-plectens: et uberem meditandi materiam, facilemque praxin suppeditans." It opens with an introduction in 19 lines, the rest being divided into decades i.-v. There are three tra. of the complete poem, made in this order, viz :—(1) In Dr. Pusey's tr. of the Paradisus Animae Christiande, 1847, where, according to Cauch Liddon, the tr. is probably by W. J. Copeland; (2) by F. W. Faber, in his Jesus and Mary, &c., 2nd ed., 1852, and (3) by Canon F. Oakeley, in his tr. of the Paradieus, 1850. These tra, in the order of the poem, are:-

These trs., in the order of the poem, are:—
Summe Pater, O Greator.

1. Father, Alt-creating Mind. Passy.

2. Father: Creator: Lord most high. Faber.

3. Father most high, Who didst us make. Gakeley.
Jesu thronum majoriatis.

1. Jesu, for lost sinners sake. Passy.

2. Jesus, Who from Thy throne didst come. Faber.

3. Jesu, Thy throne of glory Thou. Gakeley.

Jesu, the pathers's words approve. Faber.

3. Jesu, subspiried, the Pather's voice. Gakeley.
Jesus Deus et magister.

1. Jesu, Lord and Marter great. Passy.

2. Jesus, Who deemedst it not unmeet. Faber.

3. Jesus, ur Lord and Master, Thou. Gakeley.

Jesus and Lord and Master, Thou. Gakeley.

Jesus movement dum portabas.

Josu stucen dum portabas.

1. Jesu, now the hard cross bearing. Putey.

2. Jesus, along Thy proper road. Faber.

3. Jesus, along Thy tearini road. Oakeley.

Jesu needrot ob reartes.

1. Jesu, by that Death of pain. Pusey.

2. Jesus, all hall, Who for my sin. Fober.

3. Jesu, because of all our guitt. Calleley.

From these trs. the following hymns have | come into C. U.:-

Father, Creator, Lord most high. Phder.
 Jeaus, along the Calvary road. Fader.
 Jeaus, all hall, Who for my sin. Fader.
 Jeaus, Who from the dead arose. Fader.

These appeared in the Cooke and Denton Church Hymnal, 1853. Another series of centos is in the Roman Catholic Parochial H, Bk., N.D. [1880]:—

1. Jesus | Thou didst a Mother choose. Faber.

2. Jesus! the spacious world was Thine. Rabe 3. Jesus! the Father's words approve. Puber. 4. Jesus! how toiled Thy blessed feet. Fuber.

4. Jesus! how toned Try blessed rest. Fibor.

6. Jesus! Who saw set on that sad night. Fib

6. Jesus! Who to the Father prayed. Fiber.

7. Jesus! Who in the garden feit. Fiber.

8. Jesus! ati hall, Who for my sin. Ruber.

9. Jesus! Who from the dead aross. Fiber.

There is also a cento from Faber:-- "O Lord There is also a cento from Faber:—"O Lore along Thy chosen road." J. Austin gives, in his Devotions in the Antient Way of Offices, 1663, two centos from this poem:—"Jesu, Who from Thy Father's throne: " and (2) "Jesu, Whose grace inspires Thy priests." These, tr. by Austin, are reprinted in Griffith, Farran, & Co.'s Ancient and Modern Library (Giles Fletcher's Christ's Victory and Tri-umph), 1898. From the cente "Jesu, Whose grace inspires Thy priests," as given in Hickes's reprint of Austin's Devotions, 1687 (see p. 97, i.), J. Weeley took st. ii.-vii., and gave them, with slight alterations, in his Charles-Town Ps. and Hys., 1736-37, and again in the Wesley Hys. & Suc. Poems, 1739, as:—"Jesu, behold the wise from far" (Wesley, P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i., p. 116). This is repeated in Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise, 1862. [J. J.]

Summer ended, harvest o'er. G. Phillimore. [Harrest.] Contributed to the Parish H. Bk., 1863, No. 180, in 8 st. of 4 l.; of which lines 3, 4, of st. i., and the whole of st. iii., were by the late Bp. Woodford, of Ely. The hymn was repeated in the Sarum Hyl., 1868, the Hymnary, 1872, the 1875 ed. of the Parish H. Bk., and others.

Summers, Thomas Osmond, D.D., LL.D., son of James Summers, was b. near Corfe Castle, Dorsetshire, England, Oct. 11, 1812. Proceeding to the United States in after years, he was admitted to the Baltimore Conference in 1835. From 1840 to 1843 he was a missionary in Texas; removing to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, 1844, and Charleston, South Caro-lina, 1846. From 1845 he acted as Secretary of the Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was also Book Editor. Subsequently he was Professor of Theology and Pastor of Vanderbilt University, He was Chairman of the Hymn Book Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and edited the Songe of Zion, 1851, and the Wesleyan Peatter, 1855. He d. in May 1882. Dr. Summers is the author of several original works, and of the following hymns:-

 The morning bright, With rosy light. Morning.
 The daylight fades, The evening shades. Evening. Concerning these Morning and Evening hymns Dr. Summers says :-

"My first child was born in January, 1845. When she was about a year old, as I was descending the Tombigbee River in a little steamer, I wrote a morning Hymn for her on the back of a letter, transcribed it when I reached Mobile, and sent it to her at Tuxcalcoma. That was the origin of 'The morning bright.' When editing the Swathern Christian Advocate, I put it without name in the Child's Department. It was copied into the religious papers generally, and into books. My account child was born in 1847, and for her I wrote 'The daylight fades,' as far as I can recollect, about 1849. . . . Both of these children for whom they were written are now singing hallelujahs with the angels," (Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. & Home, Biog. Index, 1873.)

These hymns have attained to great popularity as children's hymns, and are found in numerous collections both at home and in Great Britain. The 3rd I. of st. i. of the Morning Hymn should read: "Has waked me up from sleep," and not as found in many collections. [F. M. B.]

Summi largitor praemii. [Lent.] Sometimes ascribed to St. Gregory the Great, but not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors. It is found in three mas, of the 11th cent. in the British Museum (Vesp. D. xii., cent. in the Drivin Buseum (vesp. D. M., f. 54b; Harl. 2961, f. 287b.; Add. 30848, f. 95b); and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Sazon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, p. 67, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 19b). In these was, it begins "Summe largitor." Among the St. Gall was, it is in No. 95 of the 10th or 11th cent., and No. 414 of the 11th. It is also in a 10th cent. Ms. at Bern, No. 455. Also in the Sarum, North, Aberdeen, and other Breviaries, the Sarum use being at Matins on the 1st S. and daily up to the 3rd S. iu Lent. The printed text is also in Mone, No. 75; Daniel, i. No. 158, iv. p. 217; Wackernagel, i. No. 98; Bigge's annotated H. A. & M., 1867; G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from a MB. of the 10th cent., &c.

Translations in C. U.:-

I. O Thou Who dont to man accord. By J. W. Hewett, in his Verses by a Country Curate, 1859, p. 34, from the text as in Daniel. It was included in an altered form in H. A. & M., 1861.

The H. A. & M. tert was repeated in the 1869 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys., &c. 2. Giver of the perfect gift. By J. Ellerton, made for and first pub. in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, and again in Mr. Ellerton's Hymns, $c., 1888.

3. Thou only hope of all below. An anonymous tr. in The Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, and the Hymner, 1882.

Translations not in 0. U.:-

I. Thou Giver of august reward. W. J. Blew. 1852-55.

2. Dispenser of the gifts of heaven. J. D. Chambers, 1852, and 1857.

Summi Parentis Filio. [Lent. Sacred Heart of Jesus.] Probably of the 18th cent. In the Roman Breviary, Lisbon, 1786, pure estiv. p. 461, it is the hymn at Lauds in the office of the Most Sacred Heart of our Lord Jesus Christ. Text also in Biggs's annotated H. A. & M., 1867. (See note on Quicunque estrtum quaeritis.) Tr. as :-

To Christ, the Prince of Peace. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholics, 1849, p. 123, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 69. It is in a great many modern hymn-books, usually unaltered, but sometimes with the changes in the text made in H. A. & M.

Another tr. is :-To Jesus, Son of God most high. J. Wallace. 1874. [J. M.]

Summi pusillus grex Patris. Guillaume de la Brunetiere [Common of a Just Man. Sainte Days.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1880 and 1786. Also in the Narbonne Brev., 1700, as the hymn for first and second Vespers, in the Common of Just Persons. It is also in later French Breviaries; in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 99; and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as :-

Be not atraid, ye little flock. I. Williams, as the first of a series of tro. from the Paris Brow., contributed by him to the British Magazine. This appeared in Dec. 1833. It was republished in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 314, and in the 1863 ed. of the Appendix to the H. Noted, No. 201.

Other tra. are :-

1. Thou little flock whose Shepherd is above. J. Chandler.

2. To God, your mightlest Father, dear. J. D. Cham-

3. Little flock, be not afraid. D. T. Horgan. [J. J.]

Summi Regis potentia. [St. Andrew.] This is found in a ms. of the early part of the 14th cent, in the Bodielan (Ashmole, 1528, f. 2365), as a hymn in 6 st. and a dexelogy for the "Translation of St. Andrew." Mr. Chambers erroneously quotes the first line as "Rex Jesu potentissime." Mr. Chambers's fr. "O King Supreme, of boundless might," appeared in the 1863 Appendix to the H. Noted, No. 168, and again in his Landa Syon, Pt. ii. 1866.

Supernae matris gaudia. Adam of St. Victor. [All Saints.] This sequence is, as Dr. Neale justly remarks, "one of the loveliest that Adam ever wrote." In it, contrary to the usual practice, the church triumphant is spoken of as the mother, the church militant as the daughter. Gautier, in bis ed. 1881 of Adam's Ocurres postiques, gives it at p. 200 from a Gradual of St. Victor before 1239 (Bibl. Nat., Paris, No. 14452), a Paris Gradual of the 13th cent. (B. N. No. 15615), and says it is also in a 12th cent. Antiphonary now in the Library at Chaumont, and formerly of the monastery of Montierender. It is also in a collection of sequences written circa 1199 (Calig. A. xiv. f. 85), and a French Missai of the end of the 13th cent. (Add. 23985, f. 489 b), both in the British Museum; and in a Ms. of the latter half of the 13th cent. in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, C., 510, f. 25 b). Among Missells it is found in an early 14th cent. Paris in the British Museum (Add. 16905, f. 232 b), the Saintes of 1491, and others. The printed text is also in Mone, No. 623; Daniel, v. p. 109; Kehrein, No. 338; and D. S. Wrangham's Lit. Poetry of Adam of St. Victor, 1881, vol. iii. p. 17ő. [J. M.]

Translations in C. U.:-

1. The Church on earth, with answering love. By J. M. Neale, in the enlarged cd. of the H. Noted, 1854, and again in his Mediaval Hys., 2nd ed., 1863. It has passed into a few collections, including the People's H., 1867, the Hymner, 1882, &c.

2. The strains of joy that coaseless flow. By Harriet M. Chester, made for and first pub. in the Hymnary, 1872, and signed "H. M. C."

3. Ohriat's Church in heaven to-day, Rejoiceth. By C. S. Calverley, also made for and first pub. in the Hymnwy, 1872. In the 2nd ed. 1872, it was considerably altered, and begins, "Christ's Church in heaven is glad to-day."

Translations not in C. U. :-

1. Set forth, O Church, exultingly. Anon. in the Monlity Packet. July 1863.
2. Those endiese joys the Church on earth pourtrays.
D. T. Morgan. 1871 and 1880.
3. The Church on earth those joys pourtrays. D. S. Westerburg. 1891.

Wrangham, 1881. [J. J.]

Supreme High Priest, the Pilgrim's Light. A. M. Toplady. [Christ the High Priest, or Lent.] 1st pub. in his Poems on Sacred Subjects, Dublin, 1759, p. 20, in 12 st. of 4 l., and again in Sedgwick's reprint of Toplady's Poetical Works, 1860. In Drummond and Greville's Ch. of England H. Bk., 1838, st. v.-viii. were given, unaltered, as " Ah, give me, Lord, the single eye." These stanzas have passed into later collections. [J. J.]

Supreme Motor cordium. C. Coffin. [Saturday Evening; or Quinquagesima.] Appeared in the Paris Breviary, 1736, and his Hymni Sacri, p. 31, the same year. It is the hymn for Saturdays at Vespers from Trinity to Advent. The text is in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 34; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867. Tr. as:-

1. Supreme Disposer of the heart. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p.31, and a few hymnals.

$. Great Mover of all hearts, Whose hand. By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839. This is the most popular and widely used of the trs, of this hymn. It is in a large number of hymn-books, including H. A. & M., 1875, Thring's Coll., 1882, and others.

 Lerd of the hearts of men. Bp. J. R. Wood-ford, in the Parish H. Bk., 1863, No. 30, and agnin in the enlarged ed., 1875. It is also in the Sarum Hyl., 1868, and the Hymnary, 1872.

Other tra. are :-1. Great Mover of the beart, Alone. R. Campbell. Thou Ruler of the human heart. J. D. Chambers.

3. O Sovereign Mover of the heart. D. T. Morgan, [J, J]

Jean Bap-Supreme quales, Arbiter, tiste de Santeuil [Festival of an Apostle]. This is given in the Cluniae Brev., 1686, p. ii.; his Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1589, p. 190 (ed. 1698, p. 236); the Paris Bree., 1736; and later French Brevs. It is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 86, with the omission of a stanza; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867. Tr. as:—

 Disposer Suprems, And Judge of the earth. I. Williams, pub., together with the Latin, in the British Magazine, June 1836 (vol. ix. p. 627), and again in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Browlary, 1839, p. 271. It has passed, either in its full form or abbreviated, into a large number of hymn-books. Of the altered texts the most popular is that in H. A. & M., 1861-75. For congregational purposes this is one of the most successful of the translator's efforts.

2. What feeble instruments, C Lord. B. J.

Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 97, and again in his Hys. of the Church, &c., 1841, No. 55. In a few of the older collections.

3. Imperial Monarch! Judge divine. By J. D. Chambers, in his Landa Syon, Pt. ii., 1866, p. 3.

4. O Lord, through instruments how weak, C. S. Calverley, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, [J. J.]

Whitsun Supreme Rector coelitum. Eve.] This anonymous hymn is in the Cluniac Brev., 1886, p. 506; the Paris Brev., 1736, and later French Brevs. The text from the Paris Brev. is also in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, No. 78; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M. Tr. as :—

- 1. Ruler of the hosts of light. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 88. It is found in a few collections. The popular tr. of this hymn is the cento in H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875. It is thus composed : st. i., Chandler ; st. ii. il. 1, 2, Chandler, il. 3, 4, Compilers; st. iii., Compilers; st. iv. v., Chandler, rewritten by the Compilers.
- $. Bread King, to Whom the angelie heats de ery. By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 148; and Lyra Messianica, 1864.
- 3. Sovereign of beaver, Who didst prevail. By C. S. Calverley, made for and pub. in the Hymnary, 1872.

Other tre, are:

1. O King, most high, of earth and sky. W. J. Blew. 1852-65.

2. Celestial Monarch, strong to quell. J. D. Chambers. 1857. [J. J.]

Surrexit Christus hodie. [Easter.] This hymn, or rather Easter Carol, exists in a great variety of forms. For the determination of the original text we have three MSS. of the 14th cent., viz., a Munich Ms. of the 14th cent., cited by Mone, No. 148; a Prag ms. of the 14th cent cited by G. M. Dreves in his Cantiones Bohemicas, No. 183, and an Engelberg Ms. of 1372 cited by Bäumker, i. p. 517. From these we obtain the following :-

- " Surrexit Christus hodia Humano pre solamine.
- " Mulleres o tremulac, In Galllacam pergite.
- "Mortem qui passus cor-" Discipulis hoc dicite. Quod surrexit rex gloriae. pore Miserrimo pro homine. Paschali pieno gaudio Benedicarius Domino.
- 4 Mulleres ad tumolum Dona ferunt aromatum.
  - " Laudetur sancta Tri-

" Album videntes angelum Annunciantem gaudlum. mitas. Deo dicamus gratias."

Of these eight stanzas 1-4 and 6 are found in all three MSS. 5 in the Engelberg and Prag MSS., 7 in the Engelberg and Munich, 8 in the Engelberg and Prag. The text above is from the Munich MS.; the only variations of im-portance in the Prag MS. being ii. 1. i, passus pridie and vii. l. i., Ergo cum dulci melodo.

Dreves gives two additional at which are probably of Bohemian origin, and are not found in the later printed books, viz. :-

" Sit benedictus bodie, " Ubique praecedet suce, Quos dilexit, discipulos. Qui nos redemis guine."

He quotes them from two Mes. now at Prag. | Sutton's connection with newspaper work has viz. a Hobenfurt Ms. circa 1410 (st. i.-x.); and the Gradual of Jistebnicz circa 1420 (st. i.-iii. v.-vii., ii., x.). The later stanzas are apparently all interpolations. Those given by Daniel i., No. 390, are:—

" Quarentes Jesum Domi- " Petro debine et caeteris DUDL Apparoit apostolis. Out est Salvator homihubb.

"Gioria tibi Domine Qui surrexisti a morte."

Of these st. 12 is found in the second part of Leisentritt's G. B. (R. C.), 1567; st. 11 in the Dilingen G. B. (R. C.), 1589; and st. 13 in the Speier G. B. (R. C.) printed at Cologne, 1599. The order of stanzas in Daniel's text is 1-3, 11, 4-6, 12, 7, 13, 8; and he gives st. 7, 1, 1, as "In hoc paschali gaudio." The Dilingen G. B., 1589, gives four additional st., which need not here be printed. Wackernagel, i., Nos. 276-280, gives various forms of the text. See also Hoffmann von Fallersleben ed., 1861, Nos. 201-204. Also see under Jesus Christ is risen to-day, p. 696, ii. The trs. from the Latin include:

1. To day the Victor o'er His focs. By J. M. Nesle, in his Mediscool Hys., 1861.
2. Le? Christ is risen this day, and brings. J. W. Hewett, in his Ferses by a Country Curate, 1859; and Lyra Messianica, 1884.

It has also often been translated into Ger-One of these tra has passed into English, viz. :-

English, viz.:—
Erstanden ist der heilige Christ. This is found in a great variety of forms. That which is tv. is given by Wackernagel, ii. p. 737, from a broadsheet printed at Mirnberg, 1544, and is No. 135 in the Uno. L. S., 1851. It is in 19 st. of 2 l. with Hallelugh. St. l.—vi. are narrotive, vil.—xvil. a dialogue between Mory and the angel, xviii. Mary to the chorus, xix. the chorus. It is based on st. l.—vili., xi. of the Latin. This form probably originally formed part of an Easter play. Tr. as: "Christ our Lord is risen to-day," in Lyra Davidica, 1798. p. 12. 1708, p. 12, [J. M.]

Sutton, Amos, D.D., was b. at Sevencaks, Kent, on Jan. 2I, 1802. Though educated with a view to secular business, when about the age of 21 he felt constrained to offer bimself for service in connection with the General Baptist Foreign Missionary Society. He was sent to India; and in the year 1825 was stationed at Cuttack, in the province of Orissa, where, with intervals during which he visited England and America, he laboured most usefully until his death on Aug. 17, 1854. He was gifted as a translator; and compiled an Uriya Dictionary, besides translating a number of English books into that language. He also prepared the first Uriya Hymn Book, 179 of the hymns being of his own composition. [Missions, Foreign.] The degree of D.D. was conferred on him by the College of Waterville, U.S.A. On his visit to England in 1833 he composed a farewell hymn to the tune of "Auld lang syne"—
"Hall sweetest, dearest tie that binds." (Parting.) It soon became very popular, and is still in C. U. Another hymn written about the same time, entitled "The Macedonian Cry," is now almost forgotten. [W. R. S.)

Sutton, Henry Septimus, b. at Nottingham, 1825, the son of a bookseller and newspaper proprietor. He was articled to a surgeon, but abandoned medicine for literature. Mr.

been life-long, and for upwards of thirty years he has been editor of the Alliance News. His first volume of Poems was issued from the Review office, Nottingham, 1848. This in-cluded Clifton Grove Garland, a long descriptive and narrative poem. In 1854 appeared Quinquinergia, a prose work of mystical religion, the author being a member of the New Church. To this was appended a series of poems, entitled Rose's Diary, written in memory of an early friend of the author's, who died in 1850. In successive cantos the changing moods and aspirations of personal religion are depicted, with occasionally a touch of quaintness in the language and imagery which reminds one of the best of the devout poets of the seventeenth century. An enlarged and revised edition of the Poems was published by David M. Main, Glasgow, 1886. In Martineau's Hymns, 1873, appear the following five pieces, selected from Rose's Diary:—

1. I have a little trembling light, which still. The inward light. Canto I. and the last two stauzas of Canto III.

Cante III.

2. O Father! I have sinned: I have done. Under the sense of sin. Canto XI.

3. Put not on ms. O Lord, this work divine. Self-distruct and refreserences. Canto VIII.

4. The day with light its gental self engine. The outer and inner transline. Canto VI.

6. What mean these slow returns of love; these days. The sleep that longs for waking. Canto X. [V. D. D.]

Swain, Joseph, was b. at Birmingham in 1761, and after being apprenticed to an engraver, removed to London. After a time he became a decided Christian, and being of an emotional poetic temperament, began to give expression to his new thoughts and feelings in hymns. In 1783 he was baptized by the Rev. Dr. Rippou, and in 1791 became minister of a Baptist congregation in East Street, Walworth. After a short but popular and very meful ministry, he d. April 16, 1796. Swain pub. the following:-

(1) A Collection of Poems on Several Occasions, Lon. 1781; (2) Referration, a Foem in fice Books, Lon. 1781; (3) Reperimental Resays on Divine Subjects, Lon. 1791; (4) Walworth Hymns, by J. Swain, Paster of the Raphit Church Resting there, Lon. 1792, 129 hymns; with a Supplement, 1794, 192 hymns; (5) A Pocket Companion and Directory, Lon. 1794.

In addition to a limited number of Swain's hymns, annotated under their respective first lines, the following, from his Walkorth Hys., 1792, and the 2nd ed., 1796, are also in C. U.:—

1. Brethren, while we sojourn here. Mutual Mu-

1. Brennent.
2. Children of the King of grace. Holy Baptism.
3. Christ the Lord will come again. Second Advent.
4. Come, ye souls, by all afflicted. The Foke of How sweet, how heavenly is the sight. Communion of Saints.

6. In expectation sweet. Second Advent.

7. Lift up your heads, ye gates. Ascension. 8. Love is the sweetest bud that blows. A Flower an

8. Love is the sweetest but that blows. A Flower an Briblem of Cartel.
9. O how the thought that I shall know. Heaven Anticipated. Sometimes it begins with at. il., "For ever to behold Him sine" (p. 337, 1.).
10. On earth the song begins. Heaven Anticipated, 11. On the wings of faith uppringing. Passionide.
12. Pilgrims we are to Camaan bound. Pulgrimage of Life.

13. Praise ye the Lord, the eternal King. Divinity

14. Praise your Redormer, praise His Name. Praise

14. Praise your recovered.

7 Referention.

15. The heaven begun below. Rearen Anticipated.

15. The heaven begun below. Rearen Anticipated.

15. What is it for a saint to die! Death and Burial.

17. What must [will] it be to dwell above! Rearen

18. When firm I [we] stand on Zion's bill. Confidence. Sometimes as "I stand on Zion's mount," in American

19. Who can furbear to sing? Praise of Jeaus

From his Redemption, a Poem in Five Books, 1791, the following hymns are also in

28. O Thou in whose presence my soul takes delight. In Affliction.

21. Ye daughters of Zion, declare, have you seen ! Comfort in Aftiction.

Of these hymns the most widely known are Nos. 1, 5, 6, and 20. We may add that several of Swain's hymne appeared in The Theological Miscellany, 1784-1789. [W. B. S.]

Swain, Leonard, p.p., was b. at Concord, New Haven, Feb. 26, 1821, and educated at Dartmouth College and Andover. In 1847 he became a Congregational minister at Nashua, New Haven; and in 1852 of Central Church, Providence, Ricode Island. He d. July 14, 1869. His hymns, "My soul, it is thy God" (The Christian Race), and "My soul, weigh not thy life" (The Good Fight of Faith), appeared anonymously in The Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, and their authorship has only receptly been determined. The second hymn is the more widely used of the two. [F. M. B.]

Swaine, Edward, b. at London, Sep. 21, 1795. He was for about 40 years a deacon of Craven Chapel (Congregational) under the pastorate of Dr. Leifchild and others; one of the directors of the London Missionary Society, and founder and chairman of the Pastors' Insurance Aid Society. He d. April 22, 1862. (Miller's Singers and Songs, 1869, p. 441.) Mr. Swaine wrote several tructs, and also printed for private circulation The Hand of God, A Fragment, with Poems, Hymne, and Versions of Psalms, 1839. His hymne, "Hail! blessed communion of love" (Holy Communion), and "Lord Jesus, let Thy watchful care" (For Emigrants), were written in 1855 for the New Cong. H. Bit., and given therein, 1859. See also, "O how the thought that we shall know " (** 2007). that we shall know" (p. 897, L). [J, J.]

Swedenborgian Hymnody. The hymnedy of the religious body known as The New Church signified by the Jerusalem in the Revelation, or briefly, The New Church, commenced with the Rev. Joseph Prond. Proud was the son of a General Baptist minister, and was b. at Beaconafield, March 22, 1745. Entering the Baptist ministry, he became pastor successively at Knipton, Fleet, and Norwich. In 1788 his religious views underwent a change, and the following year he openly adopted those of Emanuel Swedenborg. He at once broke out into song; and it is told us by his biographer, the Rev. E. Madeley, that his first volume of more than 300 original hymns occupied him only some three months in its production. This volume appeared in 1790; again, with additions, in 1791; and, again in 1798. The title of the 3rd ed. is:-

Hymns and Spiritual Songs for the Use of the Lord's New Church, signified by the New Jeruzalem in the Revo-lation, by Joseph Proud, N. H. E. London, Printed by E. Hoden, and sold at the New Jerusalem Temple in Cross Street, Batton Garden, 1793.

This volume contained 359 original hymns of decided merit. After leaving Norwich Proud went to Birmingham, where he suffered great misfortunes. He passed on to Manchester, but in a few months again roturned to Birmingham. Subsequently London was the scene of his labours for a time. During his residence there he printed a small book of Hymns and Songs for Children in 1810. Three years later he returned to Birmingham, where he d. on Aug. 3, 1826. The esteem in which his hymns are held by The New Church is seen in their authorised hymn-book of 1880, in which of a total of 750 hymns, 164 are by him.

2. The next hymn-writer of note in The New Church was the Rev. Manoah Sibly (b. 1757), whose Hymns and Spiritual Songs appeared, in 1802, from the press of the same printer as Proud's book; but also "sold by the Author, No. 35, Goswell Street." It contained 222 original hymns and 11 doxologies. The literary merits of this volume are below that of Proud's work. The hymns are solid and practical, and are more akin to those by Beddome and Doddridge than to those either by Wesley or Watts. Sibly died in 1840.

3. The first Swedenborgian minister in Manchester was the Rev. William Cowherd, a man of high scientific attainments, who had been for some time a clergyman in the Church of England. Shortly after joining the Swedenborgian body he established a cause in Manchester, which he called "The Bible Christian Church." The members of this society held the doctrine of Swedenborg in a modified form, with the additional obligations of total abstinence from animal food and inoxicating liquors. (See Various.) For their use Cowherd compiled Select Hymns for Christian Worship. By the Rev. W. Couherd, Manchester. Printed by Scooler & Russell, 1800. The 3rd ed., pub. at Stourport in 1810, contained 218 hymns; the 5th ed., printed at Salford in 1818, was increased to 221 hymns, a few of which were by Cowherd, but the greater part were taken from Proud, Sibly, Watta, Wesley, and others.

Watta, Wesley, and others.
4. In 1813, the Rev. Robert Hindmarsh, then minister of the Swedenborgian congregation in Salford, compiled a small volume of hymns, chiefly selected from Proud and Sibly, which he published as:—

Hymns for the Use of The New Church, signified by The New Jerusalem in the Apocalepte. Carrielly corrected, and arranged under proper heads. Manchester. F. Davis, 1813. It contained 163 hymns and 5 dexologies.

5. Next, in order of date, came a small volume as:--

Original Hymns, for Family and Congregational Worship, chicky designed for the uso of those who admonstrate the Supreme Divinity of the Great Redeemer. By F. M. Molson. Manchester, J. Gleave, 1819.

This volume contains only 45 hymns and 2 doxologies. Whilst some of these hymns do not rise above mediocrity, others have certainly higher literary and poetic merit than those of either Proud or Sibly, and one or two are not unworthy of C. Wesley. Of his hymns 6 are in the authorised hymn-hook of 1880. Of his life little is known. He was at one time with the Rev. Richard Jones, as joint minister of the Manchester and Radcliffe Swedenborgian Societies. Afterwards he preached in St. George's Chapel, near Oldham Road, Manchester; and, at a later period, he settled in Huil.

6. In 1822 a new departure was made. The General Conference of The New Church, in session, respectively, at Manchester and London, authorised a Committee to prepare a hymnal for general use, "adapted not only for public devotion, but also for private meditation and instruction, and which should form a useful and agreeable companion on every day of the week, at home as well as in the public assemblies of the Church." The outcome of this was the first authorised hymnbook of the Swedenborgians. It was pub. as:—

**Hymnat for the Use of the New Church Ligation by the Hymns for the Use of the New Church signified by the New Jerusalem in the Keeslation, Ch. 221, 1, 2, Compiled by order of the General Conference, London, T. Goyder & H. C. Bodson, 1824.

This collection contains 600 hymns and 7 doxologies. While borrowing largely from Proud and Sibly, it is at once catholic and collectic. The alterations made in the texts of the hymns of Watts, Wesley, and others, to adapt them to the creed of The New Church are less frequent and distasteful than in many similar cases. A singular feature in this collection is the large number of Unitarian hymns found therein, when doctrinal differences would have suggested the necessity for their exclusion. This hymn-book was mainly compiled by the Rev. William Mason (b. 1790, d. 1863) of whose original hymns about 60 are included therein. Mason subsequently published a separate collection as:—

Hymns of Spiritual Experience, eminently calculated to promote the growth of individual picty. Chiefly selected, with a few originals. London, 1840.

This volume contains 166 hymns, of which 23 are by Mason. We may add that Meson possessed musical gifts of no mean order, and that he composed a number of hymn tunes.

7. In 1872 an authorised Supplement to the 1824 collection was published as:—

Supplement of Hymns for the New Church, Compiled by Order of the General Conference. London, James Speirs, 1872.

In this Supplement translations of Latin and German hymns are found for the first time in Swedenborgian hymnody. This blending of the old and the new was hardly successful, and the hymns were more didactic than lyrical. The general result was felt to be most unsatisfactory, and led to the appointment of a Committee, to whom was entrusted the compilation of a new hymnal. Of this committee the Rev. Jonathan Bayley, D.D., was the chairman, and the Rev. John Presland, the secretary. The result of their labours was published in 1880, as:—

Hymns for the Use of The New Church signified by the New Jerusalem in the Revolation. Compiled by Order of the General Conference of The New Church in Great Britain, London: James Speire, 1889.

This collection contains 750 hymns, and deserves the attention of compilers of hymnals. To it Dr. Bayley contributed 5 hymns, the Rev. Joseph Deans 9, and "J. C." 3. From this collection a selection for mission services was published in 1883.

8. The Swedenbergians have been amongst the foremost in recognizing the value of hymns and music in Sunday schools. As already noted, Proud's Hymns and Songs for Children (1810) were published contemporaneously with the early efforts in the same direction by Anne and Jane Taylor. In 1835, an excellent little collection was published by the Rev. E.

Madeley, which went through several editions. In 1868 it was greatly enlarged and revised Mr. John Bragg, of Birmingham. To this revised edition, 73 modern hymns were added, in 1887, by "The New Church Sunday School Union." In its complete form it contains 336 hymns. [See Various.]

Sweet as the Shepherd's tuneful reed. W. Shirley. [Spring.] Pub. in The Coll. of Hys. sung in the Countess of Huntingdon's Chapels, Bath, W. Gye, N. D. (circa 1778). No. 86, in 4 st. of 6 l. In common with all the hymns in that Coll. it is anonymous; but in the Life of the Countess, 1839, vol. il. p. 291, it is definitely stated to be by W. Shirloy. The most widely known form of this hymn begins with st. ii., "Peace, troubled soul, whose plaintive mean." It is composed of st. ii., iii., and appeared in the American Prayer Bk. Coll., 1826, No. 130. It is repeated in saveral American hymn-books. [J., J.]

Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright. G. Herbert. [Virtue. Spring.] Appeared in his posthumous work, The Temple, 1633, in 4 st. of 4 l., as a poem on "Virtue." (The Chandos Classics, ed. 1887, p. 140.) It is a beautiful poem, but is unsulted as a hymn for congregational use, although found in a few collections for that purpose. I. Walton's reference to it in his Complett Angler, 1653, is very tender and just:—"'PISCATOR.—And now, scholar! my direction for thy fishing is ended with this shower, for it has done raining. And now look about you, and see how pleasantly that meadow looks; nay, and the earth smolls as sweetly too. Come, let me tell you what hely Herbert says of such days and showers as these; and then we will thank God that we enjoy them. "Sweet day, so cool,"

Sweet feast of love divine. Denny. [Holy Communion.] Pub in his Sel. of Hymns, 1839, No. 295; and again in his Hys. & Poems, 1848, p. 96 (3rd ed., 1870, p. 66), in 6 st. of 41. It is in C. U. in its original form; but much more extensively as "Blest feast of love divine." In America especially, this is the popular form of the [J. J.] hymo.

Sweet is the last, the parting ray. [Saturday Evening.] This hymn is usually attributed to Charles Jenkins, for some years a Congregational Minister in Portland, Maine, but upon insufficient evidence. D. C. Colsworthy (p. 242, ii.) says that it was repeated by Mr. Jenkins in a sermon, and the congregation supposed it to have been his own. No other claimant having appeared it is often attributed to him on this uncertain ground. J. Curtis, in his Union Coll., Lond., 1827, No. 519, gives it as from the "American Monthly Mag." [F. M. B.]

In the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, it begins, "Sweet is the scene when Christians die." On the death of Mr. Barbauld, Nov. 11, 1808, Mrs. Barbauld wrote the "Dirge," beginning "Pure Spirit! O where art thou now" (p. 941, it.). From the date of the publica-tion of "Sweet is the scene when virtue diea" (1809), it is probable that it was the outcome of the same sad event. The popular form of this hymn is, " How blest the righteous when he dies," which appeared in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 190. In the Sheffleld Iris for January 13, 1824, James Montgomery gave an account of the Rev. T. Cotterill's funcral, in which he says concerning "How blest the righteous when he dies," which was sung on that occasion :-

"This hymn was not the composition of the deceased, as has been mistakently reported. It was extracted with some modifications from a longer copy of verses which appeared in the Iriz many years ago, the author of which we understood to be Mr. Robert Barnard, formerly of this town, and one of the Society of Friends. The opening of the original lines being 'Sweet is the scene when virtue dies,' was altered for 'How blest, &c.,''] for an obvious reason when the stanzas were adopted for Mr. Cotterill's hymn-book. We can further say that he was peculiarly delighted with them. The following exquisite postical stanza follows the first as they stand in the hymn-book:—

"'So fades a summer cloud away. " This hymn was not the composition of the deceased

" So fades a summer cloud away.
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er, So gently shuts the eye of day, So dies a wave along the shore,"

From this extract it is evident that the alterations in the text of the poem to adapt it Montgomery for Cotterill. Montgomery's guess as to the authorship of the original was disproved by the publication of Mrs. Barbauld's Works in 1825 with the poem therein. This form of the hymn is in C. U. in all English-speaking countries. [J. J.]

Sweet is the work, my God, my [snd] King. I. Watts. [Ps. zeii. or Sunday.] Ist pub. in his Ps. of David, &c., 1719, p. 237, in 7 st. of 4 l., and headed, "A Psalm for the Lord's Day." In G. Whitefield's Hys. for Social Worship, &c., 1753, No. 20, st. i., ii., iii., vii. were given as "Sweet is the work, O God, our King." This was repeated in M. Madan's Ps. & Hys., 1760, No. 105. A. M. Tonlady gave the same stanzas in his Ps. & Toplady gave the same stanzas in his Ps. & Hys., 1776, as No. 34, but with other changes in some stanzas, and the opening line as "Sweet is the work, my God and King." This reading is found in some modern collections in the Church of England. Other arrangements of the text are given in hymn-books in G. Britain and America. It is a good and popular hymn.

Sweet Saviour, bless us ere we go. F. W. Faber. [Evening.] 1st pub. in his Jesus and Mary, first edition, 1849; and again in his Hymne, 1862, p. 251, in 7 et. of 6 l. It was written in 1849 for use as an No. 519, gives it as from the "American Monthly Mag." [F. M. B.]

Sweet is the scene when virtue dies. Ansa L. Barbauld, net Atkin. [Death and Burial.] Appeared in the Leisure Hour Improved, pub. at Ironbridge, 1809, in 5 st. of 1, and again in The Works of Anna Lactitia "Dear Saviour, bless us ere we go," or "O Barbauld, with Memoir, 1825, p. 315, with the heading "The Death of the Virtuous."

6 1. It was written in 1899 for use as an Evening Hymn at the London Roman Catholic Orstory, of which Dr. Faber was then the Superior. In most hymnals the last senze is usually omitted, or if retained, the second line, "Mary and Philip, near us be," is altered. In some collections it opens with the heading "The Death of the Virtuous."

Father, bless us ere we go." In the Wellinton College H. Bk., 1860-80, it begins with et. ii., "The day is done; its hours have run." and the text is somewhat altered. The use of this hymn in its various forms is extensive. [Մ. Մ.]

Sweet the time, exceeding sweet. G. Burder. [Christian Fellowship.] Pub in the Gospel Magazine, April, 1779, p. 220, in 5 st. of 4 l., headed "An Hymn for Christian Company," and signed "A. R." In 1784 it was given, unaltered, in G. Burder's Coll. of Hys., as No. 66, and in the Index it is signed "G. Burder." In Cotterill's Sol., 1810, No. 46, it is altered to "Great the joy, the union sweet." This form is in extensive use. In the 8th ed. of his Sel. Cotterill altered it again to "Great the joy when Christians meet." This, also, is well known. In one or two collections it is also altered to "Gladsome 'tis when Christians meet.' [J. J.]

Sweetest Saviour, if my soul. G. Herbert. [Redeemed in Christ.] First pub. in his Temple, &c., 1633, in 4 st. of 8 l., as a "Dialogue" between the Soul and the Saviour. (Works in the Chandos Classics, 1887, p. 168.) In 1739, it was rewritten by J. Wesley, and pub. in Hys. & Sac. Poems, as "Saviour, if Thy precious love," in 4 st. of 8 l., and again in P. Works, 1868-72, vol. i. p. 107. In 1875, st. i.-iii, were given in the revised edition of the Wes. H. Bk., No. 21*, where it replaced "Ye that pass by, behold the Man." In this form it is suited for private reading, or as the words of an anthem, but does not make a good hymn for congregational use. [J. J.]

Sweetly sangthe angels, In the clear. calm night, J. Julian. [Christmas.] Written Nov. 7, 1873, and first printed in the Preston Herald [Lancashire], Nov. 11th, 1873, in an article entitled "Table Talk." It was in 5 st. of 8 l., with a refrain of 4 l. In 1874 it was included in the Hymn Book pub. for the use of St. Mary's Church Sunday School, Preston; in Dec. 1874, in an article on "Christmas Hymns" in the Churchman's Shilling Magazine : again in Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884, and other collections. It is also set as a part song by A. J. Caldicett. Mus. B., No. 147 of The Choral Handbook, Lond., J. Curwen. [J. J.]

Swift, James Frederick, s. of Joseph Swift, was b. at Manchester, Dec. 28, 1847. In 1851 he removed with his parents to Liverpool, where he was educated at the Commercial School of Liverpool College. At an early age he displayed a talent for music, and performed in public as a pinnist as early as 1859. In 1863 he was appointed organist at the Cranmer Wosleyan Chapel. Subsequently he was organist at St. Andrew's Church, Liverpool, for 10 years, and then, from 1836 to the present, at St. Bride's, in the same city. He has composed a large number of songs and instrumental pieces under the nom-de-plume of "Godfrey Marks." He has also written a number of hymns and sacred odes, for which he has composed music. From these eight were pub. with the music, in 1875, as Hys. for Home and Sacred Festivals (London, Novello). From this small collection the following hymns have come into O, U, :-

1. When evening shadows gather, Scening, Written in 1873, and first sung in public at the Wesleyan Choral Festival in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, in 1874. It was included in his Hys. for Hone, &c., No. 8, in 5 at. of 31. It then passed into Thing's Coll., 1882, the Prim. Meth. Hymnos. 1887, and others. It is a very beautiful Evening Hymn,

2. Have you heard the sweet, sweet story 1 Life of Jesus. Written in 1874, and pub. in his Hys. for Home, &c., 1872, No. 4, in 5 st. of 8 l., with a chorns of 4 lines

2. When life is gay with sunshine. Refuge in Trouble, Written in 1874, and pub. in his Hys. for Home, do., 1875, No. 7, in 3 st. of 8 l.

Of these hymns Nos. 2, 3 have been largely used at Sunday School Anniversaries and similar gathorings.

Sylvestris, in the Gospel Magazine, 1776, &c., i.e. Jehoida Brewer.

Symington, Andrew James, s. of R. B. Symington, of Paialey, Scotland, was b. there on July 27, 1825. After receiving his education at the Grammar School of his native town he entered into business with his father and brother. During the intervals of business he has devoted himself to literature, His publications include Harebell Chimes, 1848: Genevieve, and Other Poems, 1851; The Beautiful in Nature, Art, and Life, 1857; Pen and Peneil Sketches of Farie and Iceland, 1862; The Reasonableness of Faith; with Appendix containing Hys. and Verses of Consolation and Hope, 1870; Hints to our Boys, 1881; Poems, and other works. He also edited Blackie's series of Men of Light and Lear ing, and has contributed to a large number of magazines in Great Britain and the United States. Several of his hymns have been pub. by J. and R. Parlane, Paialey, as leaflets, and include :-

Hear Jesus say to Thee. Jesus the Way, the Truth, and the Life. (1869.)
 Hennmed in, armed hoets behind, on either side, forced at the Red Sec.

3. How much ow'st thou? Debtors to Hercy. (Sep.

1870.)
4. I long for rest. Rest desired. (1869.)
5. Lord in love and mercy save us. Morning or

Reening. (1869.)

5. Near Jordan's ford. Christ's Invitation.

7. Tossing through the starless night. Rest. (1869.)

8. When angulah overwhelms the heart. Comfort.

Of these hymns No. 5 is the best known and most widely used. Taken as a whole Mr. Symington's hymns are better suited for private devotion than for public worship. [J. J.]

Synesius, a native of Cyrene, b. circa 375. His descent was illustrious. His pedigree extended through seventeen centuries, and in the words of Gibbon, "could not be equalled in the history of mankind." He became distinguished for his elequence and philosophy, and as a statesman and patriot he took a noble stand. When the Goths were threatening his country he went to the court of Arcadius, and for three years tried to rouse it to the dangers that were coming on the empire. But Gibbon says, "The court of Arcadina indulged the real, applauded the eloquence, and neglected the advice of Synesius." In 410 he was made Bishop of Ptolemais, but much against his will. Hed. in 430. Synesius's opinions have been variously estimated. That he was imbued with the Neo-Platonic philosophy there is no doubt [see Greek Mymnedy, v. and viii.], but that he was a semi-Christian, as alleged by Mosheim [see Eocl. History, Loud., ed. 1845, vol. i., pp. 310, 439 and Notes], or that he dented the doctrine of the Resurrection as stated directly by Gibbon [see Declins and Fall, vol. ii.], and indirectly by Bingham [see Christian Antiq., Loud., 1843, i. pp. 464-5] is very doubtful. Mr. Chatfield, who has translated his Odes in his Songe and Hymns of the Greek Christian Poets, 1876, contends that his tenth Ode "Lord Jeaus, think on me," proves that he was not a semi-Christian, and that he held the doctrine of the Resurrection. The first is clear: but the second is open to doubt. He certainly prays to the Redocmer: but there is nothing in the hymn to shew that he looked upon the Redeemer as being clothed in His risen body. This tenth ode is the only Ode of Synesius, which has come into C. U. The original Odes are found in the Anth. Graeca Carm. Christ., 1871, p. 2 seq., and Mr. Chatfield's trs. in his Songs, &c., 1876. [Greek Hymnody, § v. and Mréwa Xpuστi.] Synesius's Odes have also been tr. by Alan Stevenson, and included in his The Ten Hymno of Synesius, Bishop of Tyreore, A.D. 410 in English Verse. And some Occasional Pieces by Alan Stevenson, LL.B. Printed for Private Circulation, 1865. [See Various.]

Syriac Hymnody. No history of Christian hymnody can be deemed complete which fails to give some account of the hymns and other metrical compositions of the ancient churches of Syria, Upper Mesopotamia, and Western Persia. At an early period in Christian history a fountain of sacred poetry and song burst forth in that region, from which for a time there flowed a stream of marvellous fulness; but soon the stream dwindled, and its flow became intermittent, until, by the middle of the 14th century, like a river lost in desert sands, it had almost, if not entirely, disappeared.

Syriue, the language of these ancient hymns and poems, is akin to the Hebrew, and resembles, if it is not identical with, the language spoken by the common people of Palestine in the time of our Lord. It is still used in religious services, like Latin in the Church of Rome; but, as a vernacular in Syria proper, it has long been supplanted by the Arabic; whilst, in Mesopotamin and Persia, the Christian inhabitants, though they call themselves Sürüye, or Syriaus, speak a dialect termed Sürüh, which differs almost as much from the old Syriac as Italian from Latin.

i. History of Syriae Hymnody.

Concerning the hymns sung in Syris in the first century after Christ we have no certain information, although tradition connects the origin of responsive singing in Christian worship with Ignatius, the martyred bishop of Anticch. But the commencement of Syrinc hymnody, so far as known to us, was on this wise.

1, Bar-Baisan, or Bardesaues, b. A.D. 154, at Edessa, now called Urfah, in Upper Mesopotamia, was a religious teacher, who sought to combine with the truths of Christianity certain speculations of the Gnostics. Being a man of poetic genius, he was led to compose hymns or songs, which, set to music and sung by his disciples, became very popular. His son, Harmonius, followed in his steps, composing additional hymns and introducing new metres. But of their compositions only a few fragments have been preserved.

2. Simon har Sabbas. The next Syrian hymnwriter of whom we have any mention was of the orthodox school, Simon bar Subbaz, bishop of Seleucia, who suffered martydom a.D. 296. Two hymns composed by him are said to be found in the sacred offices of the Chaldeans.

3. Ephraem Byrns. But about A.D. 307 there was born at Nisibis, in northern Mesopotamia, Ephraem or Ephraim Syrus, the most celebrated father of the Syrian church, and famous not only as a theologian, but also as a poet and hymn-writer. Historians differ as to the details of his life; but it is known that having first been a pupil of James, bishop of Nisibis, he finished his education at Edessa, where for the rest of his days he chiefly resided. He visited Basil at Caesarea, in Cappadocis, and by him he was ordeined to the office of deacon. He d. at Edessa in June, 373. Ephraim was a most voluminous writer of commentaries, expository sermons, hymna, and metrical homilies. Metrical Homilies, first mentioned in connection with him, are a peculiar kind of composition, to which we know of nothing in other literature exactly similar. The tracts in verse explanatory of the Christian religion, circulated by mis-sionaries in some parts of India, and which the people like to read aloud in a kind of chant, seem most nearly to resemble them. The Homilies are in metre, i.e. in lines containing a fixed number of syllables, e.g. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, or 12, as the case may be, and are divided into strophes, but differ from hymns proper in their greater length and more decidedly didactic character. We might have supposed them to be poems intended to be simply read, but from notes found on Mss. giving directions as to the singing, it appears as though, at least in some cases, they were actually sung or chanted in connection with religious services. In neither the hymns nor the homilies is any regard paid to accent or quantity, and only occasionally does there seem to have been an attempt at rhyme or assonance. main characteristics of Syriac poetry are (1) a certain elevation of style, (2) division of the verses into strophes, and (3) the use of lines or verses with a fixed number of syllables. The following are illustrations of some of the metres, taken from the writings of Ephraim, the translations being those of Dr. H. Burgess, in his Sciect Metrical Hymns and Homilies of Ephraem Syrus, translated, with Notes, &c., London, 1853, a work to which reference may be made for further examples.

a. Tetrasyllabic Metre. Two verses from an "Evening Hymn."

المُعَمَّلُ وَمُكْمَعُ Bkúlhún rámehé

: (Audand 🚣 Lok théshbókthó

" In all evenings To Thee let there be praise." b. Pentasgliable Metre. Two verses from the 11th Homity concerning the "Paradise of Eden."

الإ تجابة كالمارة المرابعة ا

ەسەسەن كېرىن كېرىنى بىرى ئىرىنى بىرى ئىرىنى بىرى ئىرىنى بىرىنى ئىرىنى بىرىنى بىرىنى بىرىنى بىرىنى بىرىنى بىرىن

" The air of Paradise Is a fountain of sweetness."

c. Heptasyllabic Heire, which has traditionally borne the name of Ephraim, as being his favourite metre. Two verses from a hymn on "Death."

ط لا المنصنب عمر حنوا

Môr lố th kimnéy hám biehê
Daidith bốt Mốr được biy.

"Lord! appoint me not a place with the wicked:
Do Thou, Lord, confess me, who have confessed Thee."

The poetical compositions of Ephraim, so far as printed, are as follows, beginning with his works edited by J. S. Assemani and P. Benedict at Rome, in 1732-46.

(1) Eleven metrical expositions, in heptacyllabic and pentacyllabic metre, of portions of Scripture treating of the Creation, the Temptation of Eve, the Mission of Jonah, and the Repentance of the Ninevites. The lastnamed is the most striking and the longest, extending to between 500 and 600 strophes of four lines each. Of the use made of it by the Nestorian Christians of the present the made of it by the Nestorian Corientans of the present day we shall speak in the second part of this article.

(2) Thirteen discourses on Christ's Nativity. These are of various lengths and metres. The last is tetra-syllable, in strophes of 16 lines, every tenth line being a doxology. The life of Christ is supposed by the author to have extended to thirty years, and to every one of these years is assigned an act of praise from some one or these years in assigned an acc to prace runs some created beings, beginning with the cherubin in the first year, and ending with the dead who have lived again, the living who have repented, and heaven and earth, which through Christ have been recordled, the thiriteth. Dr. Burgess says that this is "a very beauti-ful production, tastefully conceived, and carried out in a masterly manuar."

(3) Next come 56 homilies in various metres against "False Doctrines," especially those of Bardeanes, Marcion, and the Manichaeana. In the first homily of this collection Ephraim pays the following compliment to the skill and influence of Bardesanes, whilst he con-domns his use of them :-

" In the resorts of Bardesanes There are songs and melodies. For seeing that young persons Loved sweet music, By the harmony of his songs He corrupted their minds."

Elsewhere we are told that it was Ephraim's desire to counteract the influence of these heretical songs, as well as to provide a substitute for profate games and noisy dances, which prompted him to compose hymns and train choirs, "in the midst of whom be stood, a spiritual harper, and arranged for them different kinds of songs, and taught them the variation of chants, until the whole city was gathered to him and the party of the adversary was put to shame."

(4) Then follow 87 homilies against Rationalists or put to sname."

Then follow 87 homilies against Rationalists or Thinkers, in which occur many enrious and highly real arrangements of metres. These are succeeded artificial atrangements of metres. These are succeeded by a collection of seven homilies, forming a separate work, entitled "The Pearl, concerning Fatth." This poem is tetrasyllabic, in strophes of 10 lines each, and highly fanciful in conception, though not without passages of heauty. A pearl is treated as suggestive of truths connected with Christ and His Church.

truths connected with Christ and His Church.

(5) Four other controversal homilies follow, after which come the pieces which may be more properly called Hymns. Of these perhaps the most interesting are 85 relating to "Death," apparently intended to be used in inneral services. One of these we may cite, in Dr. Burgese's translation, both as short and as a good entertwent of Ercharich strile.

specimen of Ephraim's style.

On the Death of Children, "How bitter is the grief
For the death of childhood;
How grievous the separation
Of the infant from its mother :—
Train it up, Lord, in Thy dwelling! "This day afflicts
The fathers through their som; And death now breaks
The staff of their old age: Lord! may they lean on Thee!

"This day removes
The beloved one from its mother,
And cuts off the arm Which would have been her stay:-In Thee, Lord, may she trust!

"This day separates
The little one from its parent, And leaves her in the wilderness Of suffering and grief:—

Do Thou, Lord, comfort her ! " This day divides

The sucking-child from the breast; And the mother walls and grieves Because her intercourse with it bath perished:-May she see it in the Kingdom!

"O happy intency
Which bath gained Paradise!
Alas! for old age
Which still remains in sorrow!— Lord! be Thou its belper!

Lord? be Thou its belper?"

(8) This collection of Funeral Hymns is followed by four short pieces on the "Freedom of the Will," the strophes of which have an alphabetical arrangement, like the Hebrew of the 119th Pealin. The succeeding 16 bomilies have the general title "Exhortations to Penitence." but among them are found morning and evening hymns, and a hymn for the Lord's day.

(7) Next come twelve homilies on the "Paradise of Rien," and finally, in the Roman edition of Ephraim's works, 18 discourses on various subjects in pentasyllable and hexasyllable metres. But in 1856, Bick-li pub. "Carmina Nisibena," 21 in number, the subject of most of them being the struggle between the Persian monarch, Sapor, and the Romans. The rest are on the "Overthrow of Satan," the "Resurrection of the Body," and kindred topics. and kindred topics.

In 1882 and 1886 Lamy pub. 2 vols., entitled S. Ephraemi Syri Hymni et Sermonee, containing hitherto unpublished metrical homilies and hymns, on the Epiphany, the Nativity, the Blessed Virgin, the Passover, the Crucifixion, the Resurrection, &c. [For translations see end of this article.]

4. Various. Ephraim was followed by a succession of authors of metrical homilies, hymns and anthems, most of whom our limited space forbids us to do more than mention. Among these were Balai or Balaeus; Cyrillona, who, about the year 396, wrote a poem on the Invasion of the Huns; 'Absanya, son of Ephraim's sister; Rabbūlā, bishop of Edessa, A.D. 411, some of whose hymns have been rejuted by Overbody. The lates were printed by Overbeck; Initha, or Ibas, who succeeded Rubbülä in the see of Edessa; Marüthä, bishop of Maiperhat, a learned physician, who wrote hymns in honour of the martyrs; and Isaac of Antioch, commonly called the Great, and styled by Dr. Wm. Wright (Encyclop. Britan., vol. xxii, p. 8296) "one of the stars of Syrian literature." Ho was abbot of a convent near Antioch, and died about A.D. 460. His works were almost as voluminous and varied as those of Ephraim. One of his metrical homilies may be mentioned as a literary curiosity, a poem of 2137 lines, on a parrot which proclaimed äγιος δ θεον in the streets of Antioch. Issue was followed by Barsauma, bishop of Nisibis (484-496), author of compositions of the class called Turgame, hymns cailing on the faithful to give ear to the words of the New Testament. In the Nestorian worship of the present day the Turgame are chanted responsively by the officiating descons around the altar, at that part in the service when the Epistle and Gospel are about to be read.

5, Namel. A fellow-worker with Barsauma, | both at Edessa and Nisibis, was Nursui, or Narses, called by his co-religionists the "Harp of the Holy Spirit" He was especially famous for his metrical homilies, 360 in number, and his hymns, two of which are now in the Nestorian psalter.

6. Jacob of Berugh. We come next to Jacob of Scrugh, one of the most celebrated writers of the Syrian Church (b. 451, d. 521), styled by his contemporaries "the Flute of the Holy Spirit and the Harp of the believing Church." Besides commentaries, he wrote odes, hymns, and metrical homilies, 760 in number, mostly in dodeca-syllabic verse, i.e., the four-syllable line thrice repeated. Bar Hebraeus says that he had 70 amanueness to copy out his homilies. More than half of his homilies have perished, but nearly 300 are preserved in European collections. A liturgy in use among the Maronites is ascribed to him.

7. Simeon Eukeys. The descon Simeon Kūkāyā was a potter by trade, as his name de-notes. Whilst working at his wheel, he composed hymns, which he wrote down on a tablet or scroll by his side. Bishop Jacob of Serugh visited him, admired his compositions, and encouraged him to continue his labours. Nine of his hymns, on the "Nativity of our Lord," are now in the British Museum. In the same treasury of actiquities are to be found a few hymns out of a rather large number composed by the abbot John bar Aphtonya, who d. A.D. 528, at Kenneshrë, on the Euphrates. Also a few hymns are extant of Märahhä the Elder, Catholicus of Seleucia, from 536 to 552, one of which commences "Glory to Thee, Lord, how good Thou art!"

8, Seventh Century. With the seventh century began the slow decay of the native literature of the Syrians, one cause being the dreadful sufferings of the people during the great war with the Persians, and another the conquest of Syria by the Muhammadans in 633-636, from which time the Arabic language began to supplant the Syriac. Nevertheless, Professor W. Wright, LLD., in his admirable and exhaustive article on "Syriac Literature," in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, vol. xxii.— an article to which in this paper we are ourselves greatly indebted-gives the names of seventeen writers between the beginning of the 7th century and the end of the 12th, who were authors of either hymns, or metrical homilies, or both. In most cases some of their writings are extant in the libraries of the British Museum, the Vatican, or Berlin, and not unfrequently their hymns are found in Nestorian Psalters.

9. Bar Hebraeus. The thirteenth century was an age of literary revival with the Nestorians. Bar Hebraeus or Abul Faraj Gregory, "one of the most learned and versatile men Syria ever produced," lived at this time. He was almost equally eminent as philosopher, historian, theologian and poet, and to him we are indebted for much of the information we possess in regard to Syriac hymn-writers.

10. George Wards. In this century too lived George Wards (the Rose) of Arböl, whose hymns and other poems have entered so largely into the use of the Nestorian Church that one of their service books is to this day called the Warda.

11. Eus'ud, a Syrian, who was physician to the Caliph al Musta'sim in the years 1242-1258, wrote hymns for the Feast of the Epiphany, one of which is in the Vatican library.

12. Khanis bar Rardahe, of Arbel, is smother favourite hymn-writer of this period, whom we shall have occasion to mention again when speaking of the service-books of the Nestorians. But besides the hymns of this anthor, to which we may then make reference, others are found in the great libraries of Europe.

18. Abbd-isho ber Berikha. Lostly, there was Abhd-isho bar Berikha, or, as he is called by some, Mar Abd Yeshua, Metropolitan of Nimbis and Armenia, a.D. 1298-1318, who has rendered valuable service to literature by a catalogue of nearly 150 Syrian authors and their works, beginning with Simeon bar Sabbae, in the 3rd century, and ending with one, whom in his humility he calls his "vile self." This last he describes as the author of a commentary on the Bible, Consolations, Antiphons and Anthems for various occasions, and a number of other works. Turgame. written by him, are in Ms. in the library of Berlin.

14. Dr. Wright says that after Abhd-īsho there are "hardly any names worthy of a place in the literary history of the Syrian nation." The fount of sacred song no more poured forth sweet waters. It remained for the men of succeeding ages to make use of the compositions of their predecessors.

ii. The present use of Syriac hymns.

In order to a clear understanding of this part of our subject it will be needful to explain the various sections into which the Syrian branch of the Christian church is divided, a division which in at least three instances is of ancient date.

(1) Mestorian. -- One section, once very unmerous, and sending its missionaries even to Tartary and China,

(1) Mestorian.—One section, once very numerous, and sending its misclonaries even to Tartary and China, but whose members, now few in number, are at present found chiefly in Kürnistan and Western Persia, its known by the name of Nextorius. It is so called from Nestorius, who was condemned by the Council of Ephesus, a.n. 431, because, as it was alleged, he held that in the one Christ there were two Persons, Divine and human, and with this doctrine these Syrian Christians are supposed to sympathise.

(2) Jacobites.—Another section, called Jacobites, inhalting both Syria and Mesopotamia, received their name from a certain Jacob Burde'sias. Mebog of Edessa in the middle of the 6th century, who was the chief agent in organising them into a distinct community. Their peculiar belief is that in Christ the human nature was absorbed into the Divine. Hence they are called Mensphysistes.

(3) Maxonites.—The date and occasion of their origin as a sect are disputed, but most probably they received their name from a certain abot of a monastery near the Orontes, called John Maroun, who lived in the 7th century, and favoured the doctrine of Christ's person known as Monothelite. However, this may have been, the Maronites in 1189 acknowledged the authority of the Roman Pontiff, and are at the present time in nominal communion with Rome. In the district of Mount Lebanon they have now $2 convents, containing 2000 monks and nuns.

(4) Chaldasans.—In Mesopotamia and Persia are

Mount Lebanon they have now 82 convents, containing 2000 monks and nums.

(4) Chaldaeans, — In Mesopotamia and Pensia are Syrian Christians, who were originally Nestorian, but about the year 1680 made their submission to Rome and have since been known by the name of Chaldaeans.

(5) Christians of St. Thomas.—In South India, both on the Malabar coast and in the neighbourhood of Madras, are the so-called Christians of St. Thomas, speaking Malayslam or Tamil as their vernacular, but using in their worship Syriac hymne and prayers. They are probably descendants of Syrians, who centuries ago came from Western Asia by way of the Perstan Gulf and settled in these parts. Some are Nestorian in ago came from Western Asia by way of the Persian Gulf and settled in these parts. Some are Nestorian in their creed, others Jacobite, and yet others, through the influences brought to bear upon them by the Portuguese at Gos, have adopted the faith of Bome.

Now all these differing sections of Syrian Christians have their respective service books and liturgies, and all use hymns. The following are the facts we have been able to ascertain with respect to their use of hymns:

- (a) The Nestorians. In 1852, an Anglican clergyman, the Rev. G. P. Badger, n.n., published two volumes (London, J. Masters) containing a narrative of visits paid by him to the Syrian Churches of Kürdistan and Mesopotamia, with an account of his researches into the condition of the Nestorians, Syrian Jacobites, Papal Syrians, and Chaldseans. The work is entitled The Nestorians and their Bituals, and is full of information concerning the Nestorian service books.
- (1) First, he mentions a book called Turgama, or Instruction, containing hymne chanted before the reading of the Epistic and Gospel. To this we have referred when speaking of Barsauma, of Nielbla.
  (2) Another book is the Khudra, or Cycle of Services for all the Sandays in the year and for certain fast days. Dr. Bedger describes this as a collection of authens, responsories, hymns and collects, comprised in a large follovolume of more than 800 pp.

follo volume of more than 200 pp.

(3) The Gessa, or Treasury, contains the services for all the festivale throughout the year, Sundays excepted. It also comprises anthems, hymns and collects, and is a volume equal in size to the Khadra.

(4) The Bacotha d' Ninvedyi, or Prayer of the Ninsettes, is described as "a collection of lymns in verse ascribed to St. Ephraim Syrus," and from the account given of its contents is evidently the metrical homily mentioned in our notice of the writings of Ephraim. The Nestorians use it in connection with an annual compensorative service, having reference to the Uncertical Lating for three days and accompanied with Ninevites, lasting for three days and accompanied with Annewires, against for three mays and accompanies with fastings.

(5) The Khamis is a collection of byrms chiefly in exposition of the Life. Parables and Miracles of the Saviour and on the duty of Repentance. It has its name from its author, Khamis bar Kardabé, whom we have mentioned as a writer of the 13th century. A long hymn from this collection, which has been translated by the Redeate it a remediated in the Catara to he used on the

Dr. Badger, is appointed in the Gezza to be used on the feast of the Holy Nativity.

(6) The Wardt is a collection of hymna written and compiled by George Wards, already mentioned. They were apparently prepared for use at church festivals, the particular occasions for which they are fitted being noted at the head of each. Dr. Badger has translated a hymn from the Wards, five pages in length, in praise of the Virgin Mary, and intended to be used on any of the festivals commemorative of her.

In the services for Marriages and Burials, anthems and hymns are introduced. following is a translation by Dr. Badger of a short and rather beautiful hymn sometimes sung in the part of the marriage service called "The Setting up of the Bridal Chamber." It seems intended to be sung responsively.

"Rlessed is He who hath built for His Church a house not made with hands, and half raised and set her up on high according to His promise, "The elect Church saith to Christ in her supplica-tions: 'Show me from the Scriptures what dowry Thou tions: 'Show me from the computers when do not will give unto me.'

"O lovely Spouse, incline thine ear and hearken to my voice; leave thy father and thy mother, and come, follow me, for I am thy Bridegroom.
"Behold, I fies to Thy love, and conterns all the fields of the heathers, and leave off worshipping them.

" I have espoused thee through water and the Spirit, and have saved thee from Satan and from death; beware that thou become not another's, for there is none other that can help thee as I can.

"If thou art faithful unto Me, O then daughter of the poor, I will make ready for thee a bridal chamber above.

and will call prophets, spostles, and martyre to thy

"Thy commandments are dearer unto me than gold or pearls; and the words of Thy month are sweeter unto me than honey and the honey-comb."

From all this it will be seen that hymns are largely used by the Nestorians, besides which they chant Psalms from the Daweedha. or David, in connection with nearly every service. But it must be added that only the clergy and a few of the more educated laymen fully understand the meaning of the words read or sung. Indeed, says Dr. Badger, "many even of the clergy have no certain knowledge of what they read in the churches;" so great is the difference between the modern Surith and the aucient Syriac, and such the present backward state of education,

(β) The Chaldasan services appear to resemble those of the Nestorians, excepting that a few expressions have been modified in accordance with the Roman doctrines they have embraced.

(γ) The Jacobites and Maronites. J. W. Etheridge states, in his book on the Syrian Churches (Lond., 1846), that, among the liturgles in use among the Jacobites and Maronites, the favourite one is that ascribed to St. James, the brother of our Lord. Now in the public or preparatory part of this service a hymn is appointed to be sung after the prayer for all believers, and this hymn is said to be frequently a composition of Mar Ephraim, as he is termed-Mar signifying Master or Lord. A letter, also, with which we have been favoured from the Rev. Dr. Carslaw, missionary of the Free Church of Scotland at Shweir, on Mount Lebanon, informs us that the hymns of Ephraim are now used in that region by both Jacobites and Maronites, though not to any great extent. But they are simply read by the priest, not sung either by pricets or people. Dr. Carslaw adds that most of the service of the Maronites is in the accient Syriac, but as a rule neither priest nor people understand it. The priests learn to read it, and that is all that is considered necessary.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel Bliss, President of the Protestant College at Beyrout, has also obtained for us the following list of first lines of hymns now used in the Maronite churches of Mount Lebanon, with the names of their reputed authors. All are in the ancient Syriac language,

J. By St. Peter the Apostle :-

"O Lord God of Peace and Master of Safety."

2. By the Twelve Apostles :-

"O Lord, merciful God, who hast prepared for us this spiritual table."

3. By St. James, Brother of our Lord :-

- "O Lord, our God and our Master, Lover of tnankind." 4. By St. John, the Apostle and Evangelist :-
- "O Lord, mighty God, Thou art the true Love."

5. By St. Mark, the Evangelist :-

O Lord God Almighty, Thou art the Holy One, who hast true love."

6. By Pope Sixtus of Rome:-

- O Lord, grant Thy church, and the sheep of Thy pasture, safety, peace and everlasting love."
- 7. Prepared by order of the Holy Roman Catholic Church, Mother of all churches:—
  - O our Lord Jeans Christ, who hast said to Thine Apostles 'Peace, I leave with you, my peace I give unto you.'

- By St. John Marcon, Patriarch of Antioch: —
   O Lord God, merciful and holy God, who hast through Thine only Son, our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, " &c.
- With regard to (8) Christians of St. Thomas. the use of Syriac hymna by the so-called Christians of St. Thomas, on the Malabar coast of India, we have been kindly furnished with information from agents of the Church Missionary Society, whose head-quarters are at Cottayam, in Travancore, which is also the centre of the district inhabited by the Syrian Christians. One of our correspondents is the Rev. J. H. Bishop, B.A., the other the Ven. Archdeacon Kóshi Kóshi, who is himself of Syrian parentage.

  Mr. Bishop informs us that "The Syrian Christians of Travancore have no choral or congregational singing, or musical instrument in their or congregational sunging, or musical instrument in their worship. The ancient liturgies of St. James and others are monotoned by the Cottanars or Priests, and the people standing in the nave repeat the responses from memory. In many Syrian churches the services are conducted in the Malayalam language." [the vernacular of the country]. "though formerly they were always performed in the Syriac tougue, which is still used more transfer and the surgestiant of the collection of the face." or less, especially in the celebration of the Mass."

Archdencon Kóshi states that

"The hymns used in the Syrian church are too many to be numbered. They are so scattered throughout their service books that it is impossible even to form a guess respecting their number. The Syrians have no separate collection of bymns such as we have. They have more than 500 tunes, and everyone of their hymns as so made that it can be sung to eight different tunes. All the great poets of old, such as Mar Ephraim, had each his own eight tunes distinct from the eight belonging to every other, and on hearing any hymn sung, the priests instructed in these matters could tell who the author of it was. Hymns composed by posts of inferior grade, who were unable to invent new tunes, are never credited to their real authors, but go under the names of credited to their real authors, but go under the names of those to whose tunes they were adapted."

The Archdescon then proceeds to give a list of hymn-writers, a number of his names coinciding with those we have given in the former part of this article. If at first view there seems to be some disagreement between the accounts of our two correspondents, the explanation is doubtless to be found in the fact already stated, that the Syrian Christians of India are divided among themselves, and consequently, in all probability vary in their usage as regards singing.

We have seen the past and present of Syriae Hymnody; one word may be permitted with respect to its future. It is then, we think, morally certain that Syrian Christians, in whatever country living, will, with the progress of enlightenment, come to realise the fact that acceptable worship must be intelligent and spiritual, and will therefore cease to employ in their religious services a dead language. Nevertheless the large-minded student of Christian history will always feel an interest in the great collection of oldworld metrical compositions, lyrical and hortatory, noticed in this article, remembering that for a thousand years or more they were the medium of prayer and praise, consolation and admonition, to successive generations, confessing the One Saviour, and having hopes and fears, joys and sorrows, duties and temptations common to man. [W. R. S.] common to man.

Several of the Syriac hymns of Ephraem Syrus have been translated into English as foilows:-

Of his hymne 35, and of his metrical bomilles 9, have been rendered into prose, printed as blank verse, by I Henry Butgess, in his Select Metrical Hymna and Hom Henry Burgass, in his Select Metrical Hymnus and Home-tics of Ephraim Syrus (Lond., 1853), and from these versions the Nev. T. G. Crippen rendered 8 into English metre in his Ameient Hymnus and Posms (Lond., 1862), Mrs. Charles, in her Foice of Christian Life in 862), Mrs. Charles, in her Foice of Christian Life in Mag (Lond., 1868), gives 6 versions from the trs. into Ger-man in Daniel, ill. (1846), where are given 10 of his hymnus in the Syriac, with German frs. taken from Pius Zingerle's Heilige Muse der Syrer. The Rev. J. B. Morris, in his Select Works of S. Ephraess the Syrian (Oxford, 1847). There is also 1 tr. in the Rev. J. W. Howett's Ferrise by a Consets Unrate 1862. Hewett's Verses by a Country Durate, 1869.

As for the majority of our readers it would be useless to give the tra, under the first lines of the Syriac, they are here given together.

1. Versions by Horatius Bonar.

1. Glory to the glorious One. For the Lord's Day. (Canon 61.) Tr. in 2nd series, 1981, of bis Hyr. of Fasth and Hope, in 11 st. of 8 lines. From this st. 1, 3, 4, 10, 11 were taken, slightly altered, with 2 st. adapted from Dr. Bonar's at. 5, 4, 7, 8, as No. 18 in the Hymnery, 1971. Dr. Burgess quotes the hymn from the ed. of 8. Eph-

Dr. Burgess quotes the hymn from the ed. of 8. Ephraem's Opera. In 6 folios, pab. at Rome, 1732-43 (t. p. 499), says it is tetrasyllable, with strophes unequal in length, and gives his version at p. 83.

3. Johowah, judge my came. Bottle Song against Satan. (Canon 59.) In 8 st. of 4 lines, in the 2nd series, 1861, of his Hyn. of Paith and Hope. Dr. Burgess quotes it from the Opera, vi. p. 626, says it is beptasyllable, in strophes of 4 lines, and gives his version at p. 62

il. Versions by Mys. Charles.

11. To Thee, 0 God, be praises. On the Children in Paradite. (Canon 64.) In 5 st. of 4 lines (p. 46, ed. 1888). Syriac and German texts in Daniel, iii. pp. 155, 156.

2. Balam is shouting with her shillren. Palm Sunday. In 6 st. of 4 lines (p. 47, ed. 1888). Syriac and German texts in Daniel, iii. pp. 162-164.

3. He sails us to a day of gladness. Christ's Entry into Jerusalem. In 11 st. of 4 lines (p. 48, ed. 1888). Seriac and German sexts in Tangel (ii) on 182, 169.

into Jerusalem. In 11 st. of 4 lines (p. 48, ed. 1856). Syriac and German texts in Banici, iii. pp. 159-162.

4. A star abines forth in heaven suddenly. Bajakany. A poem in 45 lines (p. 61, ed. 1858), since given in 8chaff's Christ in Song (ed. 1879, p. 85). Syriac and German texts in Daniel, iii. pp. 149-161.

5. Child by God's sweet marcy given. Death of a Child. A beautiful lament of a father on the death of his little son. (Canon 36, "In Junere precorum"). In 3 st. of 12 lines (p. 62, ed. 1858). Syriac and German texts in Daniel, iii, pp. 151-152. Dr. Burgess cays it is tetrasyllable, in strophes of 14 lines, and gives his version at n. 1.

eton at p. 1.

6. Than because they fied from him. For and Mary,
Part of a poem on Eve and Mary, being a tr. of lines 26-48 of Zingerle. Syriac and German texts in bundel, 19. pp. 164, 165.

iil. Versions by the Ren. T. G. Crippen,

2. Blessed to Messiad's name. Enter. (Canon 48.) In 6 st. of 5 lines, given at p. 1. Dr. Burgess goodes it from the Opera, vi. p. 303, says it is tetrasyllable, in strophes of 6 lines, and gives his version at p. 77.

2. When softly breathes the Resurrection air. Reservection. (Canon 42. "In funers personum.") In 9 st. of 4 lines, given at p. 4. Syriac and German texts in baniels, it. pp. 152–155. Dr. Burgess asys it is octocyllable, in strophes of 4 lines, and gives his version at p. 31.

at p. 31.

S. In the time of evening let Thy praise around.

S. In the time of evening let Thy praise around.

Essening. (Canon 65.) In 17 st. of 2 lines, given at p. 7. Dr. Burgess quotes it from the Opera, vi. p. 535, says h is tetrasyllable, in strophes of a lines, and gives his version at p. 73.

4. Pity ms, Father, for Thy marcias sake. Last Judyment. (Canon 60.) In 8 st. of 4 lines, given at p. 11.
Dr. Burgess, quotes it from the Opera, vi. p. 336, entitles it. Necessity for Preparation for Death," says of in hexaryllabic, in atrophes of 8 lines, and gives his verelon at p. 56.

iv. Version by J. W. Hewett.

O my child, my best beloved ons. Death of a Child. In his Verser by a Country Curate, 1859, p. 187, from Dr. Burgess's fr., but adapted for a mother instead of a

v. Versions by Dr. Henry Burgtss.

Besides those already mentioned Dr. Burgess gives 14 hymns on the Beath (a) of children (pp. 4, 4), (b) of youth (pp. 9, 11), (c) of a Private Person (pp. 14, 28), (d) of a Preshyter (pp. 17, 53, 58), (c) of a Blahop (p. 20), (f) of a Dearri (p. 22), (g) of a Monk (p. 44), (k) of a Woman (p. 48), (i) of an Aged Man (p. 51). He also gives 4 hyans on the Prospect and Preparation for Death (at pp. 26, 29, 41, 63). The rest are on the Prospect of Prince or Rich Man (p. 34), in Pestitience (p. 41), for Morning (p. 51), before retiring to rest, Roening (p. 80), for the Whole Changh (pp. 80, 83), to the Princip (p. 95), for the whole Concent (p. 100), a General Invocation (p. 103), and the Praises of Noah (p. 105). Also of 9 Metrical Monitor (pp. 113-172).

See also "Glad sight, the Holy Church," p. 424, ii. [J. M.]

T

T., i.e. Theodosia, the initial of Anno Steele in the Bristol Bap. Coll., 1769, of Ash & Evans.

T. C. and J. C., in English and Scottish Pealters. [Old Version.]

T. R., the initials of Dr. Thomas Raffles, in Collyer's Collection, 1812.

T. W. C., the initials of the Rev. T. W. Carr, in the People's Hymnal, 1867.

Take comfort, Christians, when your friends. J. Logan. [Sorrow, but not without Hope.] 1st pub in the Scritish Franslations and Paraphrases, 1781, No. liii., in 8 st. of 4 1., and based on 1 These. iv. 13-18. In many American collections a cento beginning with st. iii., "As Jesus died and rose again," is given for Easter, and is most suitable for that purpose. It is given in Hatfield's Church Hys., N. Y., 1872, &c. We have ascribed this paraphrase to John Logan, and not to Michael Bruce, on evidence set forth on p. 188, ii. [J. J.]

Take my heart, O Father, take it. [Holiness Desired.] This hymn was given anonymously in Dr. C. A. Bartol's Hys. for the Sanctuary, commonly known as the West Boston Unitarian Coll., 1849, No. 290, in 5 st. of 41. This was repeated in the Sabbath H. Bk., 1858; the Laudes Domini, 1884, and other American hymn-books. Another form of the text is, "Take my heart, O Father, mould it," in 3 st. It appeared in the Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864. This is altered from the former.

Take my life, and let it be. Frances R. Havergal. [Self-Consecration to Christ.] This lymn was written at Arcley House, Feb. 4, 1874, in 11 st. of 2 l., and pub. in her Loyal Responses, 1878; the musical ed. of the same, 1881; and in Life Chords, 1880. It has also been printed as a leafiet, in various forms for Confirmation, Self-Consecration, and for enclosing in letters, some being accompanied by her father's tune Patmos. It has been tr. into French, German, Swedish, Russian, and other European languages, and into several of those of Africa and Asia. The history of its origin is thus given in the HAV. MSS.:—

"Perhaps you will be interested to know the origin of the consecration bymn 'Take my life.' I went for a little visit of fire days to Areley House). There was ten persons in the house, some unconverted and long prayed for, some converted, but not rejoicing Christians. He gave me the prayer 'Lord, give me all in this house!' And He just did!' Before I left the house every one had got a blessing. The last night of my wish after I had retired, the governess asked me to go to the two daughters. They were crying, so.; then and there both of them trusted and rejoiced; it was nearly midnight. I was too happy to sleep, and passed meet of the night in praise and renewal of my own consecration; and these little couplets formed themselves, and chimed in my heart one after another till they finished with 'Eccr, Osar, ALL for Theel!'

The music to which Miss Havergal invariably sang this hymn, and with which it was always associated in the publications over which she had any influence, was her father's tone Patmos, and the family's desire is that this course may be followed by others. [J. J.]

Tam. The assumed name of Thomas Mackellar, in Neal's (American) Gazette, 1845.

Tandem audite me. [Love to Christ.] Probably of the 17th cent., and founded on Canticles ii. 5. It is found in the Mainz G. B. (R. C.) 1661, p. 434, in 6 st. entitled "Hymn on the love of the Mother of God in her dying hour." It is also in Wagner's G. B., Leipzig, 1697, vol. iii. p. 745; the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671, p. 121; Dasiel, iv. p. 344; and Trench's Sacred Latin Poetry, ed. 1864, p. 249. In R. Campbell's St. Andrew's Hyl., 1850, the hymn "Mary mourner, sad, forlorn," for St. Mary Magdelen, is partly derived from this hymn. [J. M.]

Tandem peractis O Deus. C. Coffis. [Saturday.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1736, and in his Hymni Sacri, p. 29, of the same year. In the Paris and later French Brevs. It is the hymn at Matins for Saturdays from Trinity to Advent. The text is in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 32; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1863; and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M. 1867. Tr. as:—

1. At length creation's days are past. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 29, and again in his Hys. of the Church, &c., 1841, No. 16. In the Hymnol for St. John the Evangelist, Aberdeen, 1870, it begins, "And now the six-days' work is done." In one or two others it is given without alteration.

2. And now Tay labours, Lord, are done. By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 38. In the Hymnary, 1872, No. 49, this tr. is rewritten as "At length six days their course have run."

3. Six days of labour new are past. This fr. was given in H. A. & M., 1861. It was based on J. Chandler's fr. as above. In the 1875 ed. of H. A. & M. it begins with the same first line, but several other lines have been rewritten and much improved thereby.

Other tre. are :-

1. At length the six days' course is past. W. Palmer, 1845.
2. At length, O God, Thy work is done. J. D. Chamberz. 1857. [J. J.]

Tappan, William Bingham, was b. at Beverley, Massachusetts, Oct. 29, 1794, and was apprenticed to a clockmaker at Boston in 1810. In 1815 he removed to Philadelphia, where he was engaged in business for a time. In 1822 he was engaged as Superintendent of the American Sunday School Union. In 1840

he was licensed to preach with the Congregational body, his sphere of usefulness on behalf of Sunday Schools being thereby considerably widened. He d. suddenly, of choises, at West Needbam, Massachusetts, June 18, 1849. His poetical works include:--

(1) Here England and Other Poems, 1819; (2) Poems, 1822; (3) Lyrics, 1822; (4) Poetry of the Heart, 1845; (5) Sacred and Micollaneous Poems, 1849; (6) Poetry of Life, 1848; (7) The Sunday School and Other Poems, 1848; (8) Late and Early Poems, 1849; (3) Burred Poems, 1849; (10) Gems of Sacred Poetry, 1860.

Of these works the earliest are the mostimportant. His hymns in C. U. include the following :-

1. Holy be this as was the place. Public Worsk ip Included in his Lyrics, 1932; and given in Lyra Sac Americana, 1868.

merecana, 1908. 3. The ransomed spirit to her home. Love. Ap-sared in Nettleton's Village Hys., 1824. This is pro-bobly his best hymn.

3. There is an hour of hallowed peace.

(a) bis New England Place of Rest. Given in his New England and Other 1819.

Place of Rest. Given in his New England and Other Powns, 1819.

4. There is an hour of peaceful rest. Howeve a Place of Rest. The author's account of this hymn in his Gens of Sacred Poetry, 1880, is that it "was written by me, in Philadelphia, in the summer of 1818, for the Franklin Gazette, edited by Richard Bache, Esq., and was introduced by him to the public in terms sufficiently flattering to a young man who then certainly lacked confidence in himself. This place was republished in England and on the Continent, in various newspapers and magazines, and was also extensively circulated in my own native land, where it has found a place in several hymn and music-books. It was pub. in my first volume of Powns, at Philadelphia, in 1819, and scon after was set to music by A. P. Hainrich, Esq., in the same city." It is in Lyva Sac. Americana, 1888, p. 265.

5. "Tis midnight, and on Olive's brow. Gethernac. Appeared in his Powns, 1822, and repeated in Lyra Sac. Americans, 1888, p. 265.

6. Waka, islas of the south, your redemption is near Missions. Appeared in the Lyrics, 1822. It was sung at the wharf in New Haven at the embarkation of Missionaries for the Sandwich Islands, 1822.

7. When source weasts its shades around us. Resignation. From his New England and Other Powns, 1819. It is in Lyra Sac. Americana, 1838.

9. While the solamn note of time. Saturday Breng. Pub. In his Powns. Land.

1819. It is in Lyra Suc. Americana, 1863.

8. While the solumn note of time. Saturday Branding. Pub. in his Poent, 1822; repeated in Lyra Sgc. Americana, 1868, and thence into Thring's Cold., 1882.

[F. M. B.] [F. M. B.]

Τὰς έδρὰς τὰς αἰωνίας. of Damascus. [All Saints.] In his Hymns of the Eastern Church, 1862, Dr. Neale entitles this "Idiomela for All Saints." According to this it should be found in the Pentecostarion. Various editions, however, have been searched in vain. Dr. Keale's tr., "Those eternal bowers," was given in his Hys. of the E. Church, 1862, in 4 st. of 8 l. It has since appeared in various collections, and ranks with the more popular of his translations from the Greek. [J. J.]

Tate and Brady. [New Version; also Paulters, English, § 13.]

Tate, Nahum. [Paulters, English, § 13.]

Tauler, Johannes, was b. at Strassburg about 1300, and seems to have been the son of Nikolus Tauler or Taweler, of Finkweiler, who in 1304 was a member of the Strassburg Town Council (Mitglied des Baths). About the year 1318 he entered the Dominican convent at Strassburg. He studied for eight years at Strassburg, where the famous Meister Eckhart (d. 1827) was Dominican Professor of Theology from 1312 to 1320. He then went to Cologue to undergo a further training, in theory and practical work, extending over four years. Thereafter he returned to Strossburg where he soon came into note as an eloquent and practical preacher. When much of Ger-many was laid under interdict by Pope John xxu, because of resenting his inter-ference with the election of the German Emperor in 1324, the Dominicans at Strassburg still continued to preach, to celebrate mass, and to administer to the people the consola-tions of the Church, even though Strassburg was under the Papal bann. After the Diet of Frankfurt in 1338 the strife between Emperor and Pope (now Benedict xit., Pope since 1334) became more pronounced. Up to 1339 the Dominicaus at Strassburg still continued to sing mass, but were then compelled to cease doing so by command of the superiors of their Order. As the Strassburg magistracy still remained faithful to the Emperor, they resented this submission, and accordingly closed the Dominican convent in 1339, and it stood empty for three years and a half. About the beginning of 1339 we find Tauler in Basel, where he remained for some years, in close connection with Heinrich of Nordlingen and others of the so-called "Friends of God" in that city and neighbourhood. About 1346 he was again in Strassburg, and he spent most of the remainder of his life there and at Cologne. He d. at Strassburg on June 16, 1361. (Her-20g's Real-Encyklopädie, xv. 251; Gocdeke's Grundriss, vol. i., 1884, p. 210; Tauler's Bek-chrung, by P. H. S. Demile, Strassburg, 1879; Zeitschrift für deutsches ARefthum, 1880, p. 200, &c.)

The above notice embraces what seem to be the best authenticated details of Tauler's life. It differs greatly from the account which till recently was regarded as historical, and which has been made accessible to Eng-lish readers by Miss Susanna Winkworth (see below), and by Miss Frances Bavan, in her Three Friends of God, London, 1887. The basis of the common account was a work by Rulmann Merswin, which Dentile's in-vestigations have shown to partake much more of the nature of a novel with a purpose than of authentic history (see also the Allg. Deutsche Biog., xxl., 469). Tauler was one of the most celebrated of the Medizeval. Tauler was one of the most celebrated of the Medieval Mystics, and one of the most famous of all German preachers. Pich uncertainty still exists bovever, not only as to the Sectolis of his life, but also as to what writings may aliely be secribed to him. The best authenticate are his Sermons, which were first printed at Leipzig in 1498 (good recent ed. by Julius Hamberger, Frankfurt, 1884, and Prag, 1872. English version of 25, with an account of his life, tr. and ed. by Miss Susmna Winkworth, London, 1857). The well-known Montholige des traces Lebras Christi has generally been ascribed to Tauler, but Donifle, who edited be most recent critical ed. (Munch, 1877), is of opinion that it is not by him (a recent English version by J. R. Morell, as The Fullowing of Christ, London, 1842). The famous Theologis Germannica (good English version by Susana Whikworth, London, 1854, with an interesting introduction on the "Friends of God "Disa also often been ascribed to him, but on ne good grounds; though in its introduction on the "Freends of God", has also often been seerlied to him, but on no good grounds; through in its working out of the idea that a godly life is the remuncta-tion of self and self-will, and complete devotion to the will of God, and that in this inner union with God we again become God's children, as at the first, the Theologic Germanica has much affinity with Tauler's teachings.

The hymps attributed to Tauler were printed in his Werke, Cologne, 1543, and by Daniel Sudermann, in his Schone ausserlesene einnreiche Figuren, Strassburg, 1620, and his Etliche hohe geistliche Gesünge, Strassburg, 1626. Sudermann seems to have rewritten them, or at least considerably altered them. Wackernagel, ii. pp. 802-307, gives 11 (really 9) pieces under Tauler's name. Three of these have passed into English, viz.:-

L Es kemmt ein Schiff geladen. Christmas. Wockernagel, Il. p. 302, gives three versions of this hymn. The first, in 4 st., is from a 18th cent. iss. in the Royal Library at Berlin, and the third, in 3 st. (beginning "One kommt ein Schiff gefahren") is from the Andermanh G. B. (B. C.), Cologne, 1608. The trs. follow the second version, in 6 st., taken from Sodermann's tissinge, 1626; and this text is in H. Bone's Candute, 1847. No. 34 (1878. No. 26). See also Hollmann von Fallernsben's Gethichte der deutschen Kirchenfiedet, 1861, pp. 107-109. In the text of 1826, st. i., il., nearly agree withs: i., i., v. of the kas, while at ili.-vl. borrow nothing from the older text, but are closely allied to the text of 1898. The tr. in C. U. is:— There some a galley sailing. This is a good and full tr. by Dr. R. F. Littledale for the People's Hyl., 1867, No. 37, and signed "D. I.,"
Other tra. are:—

Other tre. are :-(1) "There comes a bark full laden." By C. W. Shleida in Szered Lyries from the German, Philadelphia, U. S., 1884, p. 109. (2) "There comes a galley lader, By Dr. E. V. Kenesly, in his Poems and Trs., London, 1884, p. 441, repeated in Lyra Mesricanica, ed. 1885, p. 96, in Schaff's Christ in Song, 1889 and 1870, Sc. (3) "A ship comes sailing enwards." By Miss Wink-work 1800, p. 84 with, 1809, p. 84. ii. Ich muss die Greaturen fliehen. Self Renuncia-the formula on creatures manner bey remained toos. Wockernagel, ii. p. 302, given two versions, the first from two Stramburg use, of the 15th cent., the second from Daniel Sudermann's Figures. pt. II., 1520, both being in 3 st. of 61. Tr. as "From outward creatures I must fice." By Miss Windsporth, 1889, p. 14. iii. O Jean Christ, ein liablishs Güt. Love to Christ.

Wackersagel, II. p. 304, gives this, in 15 st. of 4 l., from Daniel Sodermann's G. B. of 1800-1807, a m. now in the Royal Library at Berlin. It is fr. as "O Jean Christ, most Good, most Fair," By Miss Winkuprik, 1869, p. 75.

Ταχεΐαν καὶ σταθηρὰν δίδου. 8ι John Arclas. [Whiteuntide.] This forms a "stanza" in the office for the Sunday of Pontecost in the Greek Church. The original text cost in the Greek Church. The original text is in Dr. Littledale's Offices from the Service-Books of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, p. 111, and Dr. Littledale's tr. in blank verse, beginning "O Jesu, give unto Thy servants," at p. 242 of the same. Mr. W. C. Dix's metrical arrangement of this tr., "Jesu, give Thy servants," was originally printed in the Church Times. It was then included in Mr. Dir's Serbers of a City and Other Verse. Dix's Seekers of a City, and Other Verses, 1878, and the People's H., 1867, in 8 st. of 4 l.

Taylor, Ann and Jane. These names are associated together here for convenience of reference, and because many of their hymns were published under their joint names.

Gilbert, Ann, nee Taylor, the elder of the two sisters, and daughter of Isaac Taylor, was b. at London, Jon. 30, 1782, her father at that time being engaged in London as an engraver. Subsequently her father became a Congregational Minister, and resided, first at Colchester and then at Ongar. In 1813 she was married to the Rev. Joseph Gilbert, Classical and Mathematical Tutor at the Concregational College, Masborough, near Rother-bam, Yorkshire. From Masborough they passed to Hull, and then to Nottingham, where Mr. Gilbert d. in 1852, Mrs. Gilbert re-mained at Nottingham, and d. there Dec. 20, 1866. In addition to contributing hymns to the joint works of herself and her sister, a few were given in Collyer's Coll., 1812, signed "A." or "A.T.," and about 100 of her hymns appeared in Dr. Leifenild's Original Hymns, 1842, and a few in the Noticingham H. Bk. (1812, 20th ed. 1861). Shepub independently, Hymns for Sunday School Anniversaries, 1827; | Hymns for Infant Schools, 1827; and The Wodding among the Flowers. Her Memoirs, by her son, Josiah Gilbert, were pub, in 1874.

Taylor, Jane, the younger of the two sisters, was also b. at London, Sept. 23, 1783. Her gift in writing verse displayed itself at an early age. Her first piece was printed in the Minor's Pocket Book for 1804. Her publications included Display, a tale, 1815; Essays in Rhymes, 1816; and the posthumous work edited by her brother, entitled The Contributions of Q. Q., 1824, being pieces in prese and verse from the Youth's Magazine, to which she had contributed under the signature of "Q. Q." She d. at Ongar, Essex, April 13, 1824. Her Memoir and Poetical Remains, were pub. by her father in 1825.

The joint productions of the two sisters

(1) Original Poens, 1808; (2) Hymns for the Nursery, 1806; (3) Hymns for Infant Hinds, 1808; 2nd ed. 1810; 52nd ed. 1817; To the 35th ed., 1844, Mrs. Gilbert interspersed 23 additional hymns by betzelf, thereby raising the total to 93. In 1888 Joelah Gilbert revised these hymns, added thereto from the works named above, supplied the initials "A" and "J." respectively and the state of the stat spectively, and pub. the same under the original title as the "Authorized Edition." (4) Original Hymns for Sunday Schools, 1812.

In addition to the hymns which are noted under their respective first lines. Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Taylor are the authors of the following (the date in brackets indicates the book in which each hymn appeared) :-

i. Mrs. Ann Gilbert's Humns.

1. Among the deepest shades of night (1812). Omnéscience

2. As Mary sat at Jesus' feet (1809). On repeating the Catechism

3. Father, my spirit owns (1842). Resignation.
4. God is in heaven! Can be hear? God's cars of Little Children

5. Good Daniel would not case to pray (1812).

6. Hark the sound of joy and gladness (1842). Universal Peace. 1. How long, sometimes a day appears (1809). Time

1. How long, conditions and Microsity.

9. I faint, my soul doth faint (1842). Contrition.

9. I thank the goodness and the grace (1809). Praise.

10. Jesus, that condescending King (1809). Coming 11. Jesus was once despised and low (1809). The Love of Jesus.

12. Jesus Who lived above the sky (1812). The Love

15. Lord, what is life? tis like a flower [the bow]

(1809). Life. 18. My Father, I thank Thee for sleep (1800). Moraing. 17. O [How] happy they who safely housed (1842).

Death. Spared to another spring (1827). Spring.
 The God of heaven is pleased to see (1809).

Brotherly Love. 20. This year is just going away (1810). New Year's 21. Westied with earthly toil and care (1843). Sunday.

22. When I listen to Thy word. Comfort of the Scripture.

23. When little Samuel woke (1809). About Samuel.
24. Why should we weep for those who die (1843).

Miss Jane Taylor's Hymns,

1. A sinner, Lord, behold I stand (1909). A Child's Humble Confession. 2. Almighty God, Who dwellest high (1808). Praise to God.

1813). Renunciation of the World.
4. God is so good that He will hear (1803). Encouragement to Pray.
5. God — What a great and awful name (1809). God's from Sunday School.

7. Lord, I would own thy tender care (1809). Thanks for Daily Mercies.

Against Seifishness. 9. Now condescend, Almighty King (1809). Blening

Hymn for a Small Family.

10. This is a precious book indeed (1809). Holy

11. What is there, Lord, a child can do? Repentance.

12. When daily I kneel down to pray (1808). Against connecting thoughts in Prayer.

13. When for some little insult given (1880). Against Anger, &c.
14. When to the house of God we go (1809). Public

Worthip.

Mr. Gilbert's ed. of the Hys. for Infant Minds, 1886, together with us. notes, are our authorities for the foregoing ascriptions of authorship. Mr. Gilbert cannot distinguish the authorship of the following hymns by one or both eisters:

1. Good David, whose Psaims have so often been sing (1812). Concerning David.

2. If Jesus Christ was sent (1812). Repentance.

3. King Solomon of old (1812). Concerning Science.

In literary excellence Mrs. Gilbert's hymns surpass those of her sister. They are more elevated in style, ornate in character, broader in grasp, and better adapted for adults. The best are "Great God, and wilt Thou condescend?" (p. 45%, ii.), "Jesus, Who lived shove the sky," and "Lo! at noon 'tis sudden night." Miss Taylor's hymns are marked by great simplicity and directness. The most popular and one of the best is, "There is a path that leads to God." Taken as a whole, the hymns of both sisters are somewhat de-pressing in tone. They lack brightness and wermth.

Taylor, Dan, was b. of humble parentage, at Northowram, near Halifax, Dec. 21, 1738. Early in life he came under the influence of the Methodist movement, and in 1761 began to preach. Presently be became a Baptist, and for 20 years ministered to a congregation gathered by himself at Birchcliff, near Heptonstall, Yorkshire. Thence in 1783 he removed to Halifax, and in 1785 to Church Lane, Whitechapel, London, and of this congregation he continued pastor until his death in Dec. 1816.

Mr. Taylor was the leader of the movement among the General Baptists, which, in 1778, resulted in the formation of the New Connexion, and for many years committon of the New Connexion, and for many years he was the guiding spirit in the new body, his remarkable countinees of judgment causing him to be regarded stroots as an oracle. For their use in 1772, he compiled a hymn-book, having the title Hymne & Spiritual Songe, mostly collected from Various Authors; with a few that have not been published before. Halitar, Frinced by B. Jacob, 1772. Among "the few" hymns here referred to are three by Taylor himself, of which the following are the first lines:

1. Behold, to what a wratched cause. Desided here

1. Behold, to what a wretched case. Justified by Faith.

2. Condemned are all the sons of men. Jesus the Redeemer.

3. Jenus, Redeemer, Saviour, Lord. Peace by Jerus

This book contains 293 hymns, with a few dexologies. In 1781, J. Descon, having been requested by the G. B. Association to prepare a new collection, his work was submitted to a committee, of which D. Taylor was the chairman, and the new book appears to have been edited,

3. Come, my fond, fluttering heart (Collyer's Coll.

112). Renunciation of the World.

4. God is so good that He will hear (1809). Enurgament to Pray.

5. God — What a great and awful name (1809). God's condescention.

6. How dreadful to be turned away (1812). Expulsion was Sunday School.

7. Lord, I would own thy tender care (1809). Thanks a Builty Mercies.

8. Love and kindness we may measure (1809). Solid the production by D. Taylor rather than his own, poissest Sciffsheets.

9. Now condescent, Almighty King (1809). Eleming

Taylor, Emily, b. 1795, was the daughter of Samuel Taylor, of New Buckenham, Norfolk, niece of John Taylor, of Norwich, the hymnwriter, and great grand-daughter of Dr. John Taylor, the Hebraist. Miss Taylor was the writer of numerous tales for children, chiefly historical, and of various books of instruction, and of descriptive natural history. Amongst her publications are :--

(1) Letters to a Child on Marttime Biscovery, 1820; (2) Vision of Las Cases, and other Poems, 1826; (3) Poetical Illustrations of Passages of Scripture, 1828; Poctical Hustration of Passages of Servaure, 1820; (6) Tales of the Sazons, 1832; (5) Tales of the English, 1833; (6) Memoir of Sir T. More, 1834; (7) The Boy and the Birds, 1835. She also edited Sabbath Hecreations, 1826; and Plowers and Pruit in Old English Gardens, 1836; and contributed to the Magnet Stories, 1860, &c.; and the Kainbow Stories, 1870, &c.

Miss Taylor wrote several hymns, which appeared as follows :- To the Unitarian Collection of Ps. & Hys., printed for the Renshaw Street Chapel, Liverpool, 1818, she contributed anonymously:-

1. Come to the house of prayer. Invitation to Public Worskip. Sometimes given as "O come to the house of Prayer."

2. God of the changing year Whose arm of power.

Lerenz of the Changing Year.

3. O Father, though the anxious fear. Sanday.

4. O here, If ever, God of love. Holy Communion.

These, and the following 6 hymns, were given anonymously in the 2nd ed, of the Norwich Unitarian Hymn Book, 1826:— 5. Here, Lord, when at Thy Table met. Holy Com-

Surrison.

6. O not for these alone I pray. Holy Communion, Sometimes, "No. not for these alone I pray."

7. The Gospel is the light, Worth and Power of the Gospel. Sometimes "It is the one true light."

8. Thus shalt thou love the Almighty God [Lord].

Self-consecration to God.

9. Who shall behold the King of kings? Purity.
10. Who that o'er many a barren part. Missions. Sometimes it begins with at it., "Thy kingdom come! The heathen lands."

Of the above No. 6 is part of a longer poem which was given in her Poetical Illustrations of Passages of Scripture, 1826. This work eniatroo uela 11, O Source of good! around me spread, " Sock, and ye skall find.

12. Truly the light of morn is sweet. Early Picty.
13. When summer suns their radiance fling. Resignation with Proise.

In the Rev. J. R. Beard's Coll. of Hys. for Pub. and Private Worship, 1837, several of the above are repeated, and also:-

14. If love, the noblest, purest, best. Communion with Jerus.

Of these 14 hymns 10 are in Dr. Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1840, and 9 in his Hymns, &c., 1873. Several are also found in other collections, as Horder's Cong. Hymns, 1884, and some American and other hymn-books. Although for the greater part of her life Miss Taylor was a Unitarian, latterly, under the influence of F. D. Maurice, she joined the Church of England She d. in 1872.

[V. D. D.]

Taylor, Helen, daughter of Martin Taylor, was the author of The Child's Book of Homilies, N. D.; Sabbath Bells, A Series of Simple Lays for Christian Children, N. D.; and Missionary Hymns: for the Use of Children, 1846. From her Sabbath Bells, "I love that holy Scripture" (Concerning Heaven) is taken. The following are all from her Missionary Hymns, 1846 :-

1. A feather'd seed that lifted is. Value of Little

1. A transfer of the first of t [J. J.]

Taylor, Jeremy, D.D. This post of preachers was born of very humble parentage on both sides, at Cambridge, in August, 1613. His father was a barber. He must have had a good school as a boy. He entered Caius College, of his native city, as a "sizar" in 1626. His career at the university was a brilliant one. He was made fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, in 1632; and rector of Uppingham, Rutlandshire, in 1638, as is still proudly remembered there. He was inevitably "sequestered" by Parliament in 1642. Inexorable necessities of circumstance put him in prison. During the opening of the great Protectorate he kept a school in Wales along with William Nicholson, and acted as chaplain to the Earl of Carberry at Golden Grove, Carmarthenshire, one of the pilgrim spots of our country, because of this and of his im-perishable book named after it. In 1658 he is found in Ireland. He preached at Lisburn and Portmore. He returned to London early in 1660, and signed the loyalist or royalist Declaration of the Nobility and Gentry, on April 24th, thirty-five days before the "Restoration." He was not overlooked as so He was not overlooked, as so many faithful royalists were. He was consecrated bishop of Down and Councr in January, 1661; made a member of the Irish Privy Council in February; entrusted with the diocese of Dromore in March; and in the same year was chosen Vice-chancellor of the University of Dublin. He d. at Lisburn, August 13th, 1667, and was interred in the choir of the cathedral of Dromore. Bishop Taylor's complete works have been repeatedly edited, e.g. by Henry Rogers, Pitman, Bp. Heber, Eden; and manifold Selections and single books, as his Holy Living and Holy Dying. Notwithstanding his rich and im-perial intellect, and enthralling eloquence, and absolute command of words, Bishop Taylor holds only a very small place in the Anti-phon of England. It has been admirably said by Dr. Rowland Williams, "Poetry differs from cloquence, as love differs from friendship" (Stray Thoughts, 1878). His attempts at verse are eloquence, not poetry, and even the eloquence hampered and shallowed. The present writer collected his entire poems and verse-translations in the Miscellanies of the Fuller Worthies' Library (1870). In the "Introduction" the reader will flud a critical account of the various hymns; and also therein heads on mixt and various subjects (1677). The following is the original title-page of the volume in which all the Festival Hymns, save one, first appeared:-

The Golden Grove, or a Manuall of Daily Prayers and Letunies Fitted to the dayes of the Weck. Containing a thort Summary of what is to be Believed, Practised, Benied. Also Festival Hymns According to the Use of the Devoit, especially of Founger Persons; By the Author of "The Great Reemplar," London: Frinkaby J. F. for it. Royston, at the Angel in Inte Lune, 1655. (12mo.) A 2nd ed. appeared in 1857 with the Author's name thus, By Jer. Rightor, D. D., Chaplain in Ordinary to his late Majesty—a coursgeous announcement in the circumstances. A 3rd ed. seems to have disappeared. The 4th ed. appeared in 1859; and from it is derived The 4th ed. appeared in 1659; and from it is derived the second Christmas Hymn, "Awake, my soul," which was not in either the 1st or 2nd ed. Heber, Pitman, and Eden overlooked this hymn. [A. B. G.]

From Bp. Taylor's Golden Grove, 1655, the following bymus are in C. U.:-

Pull of mercy, full of love. Prayer for Charity, From the G. Grove, p. 116, where it is given in 20 lines, and headed, "A Prayer for Charity." It was given in lip, Heber's posthunous Hyms, &c., 1827, p. 109, and thus came into later hymn-books.

and came into internyimin-soons.

2. Lord, come away, why dost Thou stay. Advent, see p. 686, if.

3. Lord, let Thy flames of holy charity. Whitsenday.
This begins with line 12 of his hymn in the G. Grove,
"On the Feast of Pentecost, or Whitsunday," p. 157.

His Christmas Carol," Where is this blessed Babe," and his Prayer, "My soul doth pant towards Thee," are also from the Golden Grove. [See English Hymnody, Early, § 9.]

Taylor, John, b. July 30, 1750, was the s. of Richard Taylor, of Norwich, and grandson of Dr. John Taylor (1694-1761, the eminent Hebrew scholar, who was for many years minister of the Octagon Chapel, Norwich, and afterwards Divinity tutor at the Warrington Academy. Dr. Taylor published A Coll. of Tunes in Various Airs, one of the first collections of its kind, and his grandeon was one of the most musical of Unitarian hymnwriters). Young Taylor, after serving his apprenticeship in his native place, was for two years in a banking house in London, at which time he was an occasional poetical contributor to the Morning Chronicle. In 1778 be returned to Norwich, where he spent the rest of his life, first as a manufacturer, and afterwards as a wool and yarn factor. For nearly fifty years he was a deacon at the Octagon Chapel. At the time of the French Revolution he joined in the support of The Cabinet, a periodical brought out by the Liberals of Norwich, in conjunction with Dr. Enfield, William Taylor, Miss Alderson (Mrs. Opio). and others, and, as a " poet of the olden time, he contributed five poems thereto. These, and other political songs and poems relating to family events, &c., together with 50 hymns, were collected in Hymns and Miscellaneous Poems, Reprinted for Private Distribution, 1863, with a Memoir taken from the Monthly Repository of Sept. 1826, by his son, Edward Taylor, then Gresham Professor of Music. An earlier and less complete edition, containing 43 hymns, he had himself caused to be printed by his sons, Richard and Arthur Taylor, Lonan account is furnished of a flagrant misapdon, 1818. He d. June 23, 1826. Of his propriation of Bp. Taylor's Hymns by Samuel Speed in his Prison Piety, or Meditations divine and moral. Digested into poetical Norwich, 1795 (see p. 831, ii.):—

 Far from mortal cares retreating. Bivine Worthip.
 Father divine, before Thy view. Divine Providence.

3. Father of our feeble race. Christian Love. begins in Horder's Oong, Hye., 1884, and others, with st. li., "Lord, what offering shall we bring?"

4. Glory he to God on bigh. Divine glories celebrated.

The first stance is by C. Wesley (see p. 427, ii.), and the

Inc. 1885 Status 13 by C. Wesley (see p. 207, 11.), and the rest are by Taylor.

5. God of mercy. God of love [grace], Hear our sad repentant song. Penitence.

6. O sing to the Lord a new song. Praise to the Supreme Ruler and Judge.

7. Praise to God, the great Creator. Proise to the Pather. The hymn. "Saints with pious zeal attending" in Hatfield's Church H. Bh., N.Y., 1872, begins with line of st. i. of this hymn. 4 of st. i. of this hymn.

- 8. Raise your voice and loyful sing. Praise.
  9. Rejoice, the Lord is King. Providence acknowledged is the Search. The first stance and h. 5 and 6 of all are by C. Wesley (955, ii.), and the rest are by Taylor.
- J. Taylor edited Hymns intended to be used at the Commencement of Social Worship, London, 1802. To that collection he contributed 10 hymns, including :-10. At the portale of Thy house.

Divine Worship.

At the portage of Hy house. Devine worsays.
 a few American collections a cents from this hymn is given as, "Lord, before Thy presence come."
 Blessed Sabbath of our [the] Lord. Sanday.
 O how delightful is the road. Divine Worship.

13. Supreme o'er all Jebovah reigns. Divine Worskip. All the foregoing, except No. 8, were republished in the Norwich Coll. of 1814. That edition contained 33 of Taylor's hymns. To the 2nd ed., 1826, he added 9 more. To R. Aspland's Sel. of Po. and Hys. for Unitarian Worship, Hackney, 1810, he contributed 26 hymns, old and new, including :

14. Like shadows gliding o'er the plain. Time and Eterativ.
15. The blighty God who rolls [rules] the spheres.
God the Preserver of Man.

These 15 are the best known of Taylor's hymns, and are largely found in Unitarian collections. See especially Dr. Martineau's Hymns, &c., of 1840, and of 1878. [V. D. D.] Taylor, Rebekah Hope, nee Morley, eldest dan of S. Morley, M.P., and wife of H. W. Taylor, a member of the Plymouth Brethren, is represented in the Enlarged London H. Bk., 1873, by :-

- I. Blessed Saviour, I would praise Thee. Praise to
- 2. My Seviour, I would own Thee. Steadfastness.
  3. One more boundary passed o'er. New Year.
  4. Thou are the Way, O Lord. The Way, Truth, and

Mrs. Taylor d. Nov. 8, 1877. Her Letters were pub. in 1878. [J. J.]

Taylor, Thomas Rawson, s. of the Rev. Thomas Taylor, some time Congregational Minister at Bradford, Yorkshire, was b. at Ossett, near Wakefield, May 9, 1807, and educated at the Free School, Bradford, and the Leaf Square Academy, Manchester. From the age of 15 to 18 he was engaged, first in a merchant's, and then in a printer's office. Influenced by strong religious desires, he entered the Aircdale Independent College at 18, to prepare for the Congregational ministry. His first and only charge was Howard Street Chapel, Sheffield. This he retained about six months, entering upon the charge in July 1880, and leaving it in the January following. For a short time he seted as classical tutor at Airedale College, but the failure of health which compelled him to leave Sheffleld also necessitated his resigning his tutorship. He d. March 7, 1835. A volume of his Memoirs and Select Remains, by W. S. Matthews, in which were several poems and a few hymns, was pub. in 1836. His best known hymn is "I'm but a stranger here" (p. 562, ii.). The rest in C. U. all from his Memoirs, 1836, sre:—

1. Earth, with her ton thousand flowers. The love of Saviour and Lord of all, Hymn to the Scutour, Altered as "Jesn, Immanuel" in the Leeds H. Bk., 1853.

 There was a time when children sang. S. School

Ansiversary.
4. Yes, it is good to worship Thee. Divine Worship, From this "I'lls awest, O God, to sing Thy praise," beginning with st. ii.

5. Yas, there are little ones in heaven. Sunday S. Anniversary. [J, J,] Te decet laus= ool *p(*e: alvos. See pp. 1121, col. iii., 1125, 1127, etc.

Te Deum laudamus, the most famous non-biblical hymn of the Western Church, intended originally (as it appears) for daily use as a morning hymn. It is not now known to the Eastern Church in a Greek form, though the first ten verses exist in Greek. In the West it is known to have been in use from the beginning of the 6th cent. as a hymn for the Sunday service for mattins before the lesson from the Gospel.

The subject will be treated under the following heads: i. Authorities; ii. Text; iii. Title; iv. Date and Authorship; v. Origin and Intention; vi. Versions; vil. Liturgical use; viii. Musical Settings.

i. Authorities. Of the Authorities the most important are :-

I. For the earlier literature it is sufficient to refer to I. For the earlier likerature it is sufficient to refer to Bart, Gavantus's Thesawarus Sacrorum rifuum as edited by C. M. Meratt in 2 vuls. fol. Venice, 1744 (vol. 2, pp. 117-153), and to Cardinal J. M. Thomasius' Opera, ed. Vezzosi, Rome, 1747, vol. 2, p. 345 foll. and vol. 3, p. 614 foll. In the former the question of the Ambronio-Augustician authorship to carrfully discussed by Metalig in the latter several MS, texts are given with various readings. The dissertation of W. E. Tenter Execution for the American Control of the Carrier Leving and Experimentary. zel, Exercitationes Sacrae, Leipsig and Frankfurt, 1692, 261. Exercitationer Satrice, inciping and cramating, average also also frequently referred to.

2. Till recently the best modern authority was Daniel's Thesaurus Hyssiologicus, vol. 2, Halle, 1813, pp. 276-299, but considerable advance has been made on this by Prebendary Edgar C. S. Citson, of Wells, in his able and learned article on the Te Beam in the Church, and the Church of the Church o quarterly Review, of April, 1884 (vol. 18, pp. 1-27); supplemented by one on the Gloria in Exclus, find, Oct., 1885 (vol. 21, pp. 19, 20), which have been of the greatest service to the writer of this article. Dr. Swain-suplasticide in Chesthama Price of Chestage and son's article in Cheetham's Dict. of Christian Antiquities greatest service to the writer of this article. Dr. Swain-son's article in Cheerbam's bick. of Christian Antiquities (1880) is ill-artanged, but bouches some points not noticed by the later writer.

3. A. small volume by Ebenezer Thomson called A Vindication of the Hymn 2e Deum isudianus, &c., London, J. Ruteell Smith, 1888, contains a certain number of versions, not readly accessible elsewhere.

4. W. Palmer's Originas Liturgious contains several acute remarks, i. p. 228 foll., Oxf., 1892. W. Maskell's Monumente Rituation, vol. ii., 1816, pp. 12-16; 229-231, bas some early English versions.

8. Dom G. Morin in the Maredsons Revue Rénédictive, Peb., 1894, first named Nicetan of Remesiana as anthor.

9. More recent are A. E. Burn's Introduction to the Create and the fa Deum, Lond., 1892, and Niceta of Russiana, hit Life and Works, Caulo., 1905. Op. Ro. (Wordsworth) of Sallsbury, The T.D., its Swecture, &c., ed., 2, S.P.C.K., 1903.

7. Thanks are due to M. L. Delisle and Prof. S. Erger of Parls, Dr. Ceriant of Milan, Dr. Littenson of St. Gall, Dr. Leitschuh of Bamberg, and Rev. H. J. White or ceptes and collations of MS.; to Mr. W. J. Birkbeck, of Magisten College, Oxford, for valuable hints, and especially for the sections on the Russian version, and on the musical settings (see below, V. 6, and Vill.).

ii. The Text. As it is impossible to discuss

ii. The Text. As it is impossible to discuss the Dute and Authorship and Origin and Intention of the hymn without a minute analysis of its text, we here present, in parallel columns, four of the most ancient forms which we possess.

		·
,
I, Irish Version.	II, Milan Varsion (!).	III. Ordinary Version of the Hynns.	IV. Greak Version,
Bongor Antiphonoury. Milan Bibl. Ambresiana, C. 5 Inf. A.D. 666-591 (A): and Book of Hymes, Tr. Call. Dubl. E. 4. 2, sac. x.? (D) Also in the Lidere us. in the Franciscan convent at Dublin (I), and the Numannizater us. S.M. Hart. 1653 (printed in Appendix) secc. viii.—ix. (H).	Milan Cathedral Branisry , succ. xi. (M); Cp. Vatican 82 (V.); and Cod. Monacensis (Lat. 343 ages. x.).	Bibl. Bamberg. A. i. 14 (copied from a ms. ; written a. p. 909), and many other mss.	Found in the Quadruple Pasiters ema- from S. Gall, viz.: Cod. Bamberg. A. (B); S. Gall, 17, sacc. ix., x. (G) Cologne Cathedral S; and in the T Pasiter A.D. 1105 (T) Paris. lat. Not Acquisitions, 2135.
Former in die dominica. A (non BI).  1, Landate poeri dominum laudate nomen domini te deum laudamus te dominum confleteur.	[Ante Fraiterium sine titule.]  1. Te deum landamus te dominum conflismur	France matutinalis.  1. Te deum laudamus te dominum confitenur	Yannut matatinalit.  1. Se theon enumen se kyrlon exomologu
<ol> <li>To acternum patrem combis terra nene- ratur tibi connes angeli tibi caeli et uninerane potestates,</li> </ol>	Te setermun patrem omnis terrae uene- ramur.     Tibi omnes angeli et archangeli tibi caell et miuerase potestales	Te seternum patrem omnis terra ueneratur     Tibl omnes angell libl cell et universee potestates	Se coulon patera pasa igi     Si pantes aggell si urunt ca pase exuste

	24, 25. Per singulos dies benedicimus to et landamus nomen tuma in acternum	[24.] Saluum fan populum tuum domine et benedic herodinatem tuum	24. Per singulos dies benedicimus te (Pa. txiv. 2)
	et in saccilum saccili amen .	[25.] Et rege illos et extolle sos usque in eternum	25. Et landamus nomen toum in sacculum et in sacculum sacculi (ibid.)
	[25.] Flat domine misericordis tua super nos quemadmodum speraniums in to ;	[26.] Benedictus as domine dens patrum nostro- rum et harfabilis et glurioens in sascula sasculorum (Cf. Dan. ill. 26, b.X.X. and Fuly., and note on col. ill. 22.)	26. Dignare domina dia into, sine peccato non custodire (Υμνος ἐωθενός)
		Sequitur PS IPSI DAULD I	27. Miserere naștri domine miserere nostri (Ps. cxxlii, 3)
			23. Flat misericordia tus domine super nos quemadmodum speraulmus in to (Ps. xxxiii, 72)	]
·			29. In te domine spetani non confundar in acternum (Ps. xxxi. 1 and lxxi. 1)	!
	Sequitur in B1: Te patrem adoramus eter- num: to gempiternum filum invocamus; teque spiritum sanctum in une divinitate substantia manentem confitemur. Tibi uni deo in trinitate debitas laudes et gratics referenus ut te inces- subilit voce lauders mercamur per eterna secula. Sequitur in A: Yuyum quanno commonica- rent sacerdotes, etc. (See p. 993, i.)	•	LAOS P(OST) LECT(TONEM) SCE ECANGERII. To decet isus to decet hymmas this gloria deupatri et fillo cum sancto spiritu in saccula sacculorum Amen. (Univo; imétros).

iii. Title (cp. esp. Thomasius, 1. c. 3, p. 614 foll. note, C. Q. R. pp. 5-7, 11). The hymn is found in many was, without any title and so in some printed books. In earlier literature it is generally cited by its first three words. Later it is simply, as with ourselves, the Te Deum, and sometimes, though less commonly, the Hymnus Ambrosianus. The titles found in Psalters and early printed books may be divided into three classes: (1) those which define or describe its ritual use; (2) those which refer to its character or contents; (3) those which assign it to a particular author or authors. Sometimes 2 and 3 may be combined. The first class appears to be the earliest, which would harmonize with the carly method of citation and with the uncertainty as to its authorship.

1. Titles denoting its ritual use are, Imnus matutinalis (Bamberg Quadruple Psaiter, copied from one dated A.D. 909, A. I. 14), Hymnus ad matutina dicendus die dominico Queen Christina's Psalter in the Vatican, ascribed to the 7th cent., Cod. Vat. Alex. xi., cf. Thomas. 2, p. 845, and 3, p. 614 n.) and many similar titles, e.g. Lambeth 427; Hymnum dominicals (Aleuin, ufficia per ferias, tom. 2, p. 116 = Migne's PP. Lat. 101, p. 597), Ymnum in die dominica (Bangor Antiphonary, late 7th ceut., new at Milan, Bib. Ambros. C. 5 infra, rather incorrectly printed in P. P. Lat. 72, p. 587), Hymnus dominicalis pro nocturnis hoc est ante lectionem evangelii (S. Gall. 20, 9th cent.), Hymnus dom(ini)c(a) noclurna laude can(endus) (B. M. Arundel 155, 11th cent.).

2. Titles descriptive of contents are, Laudatio dei (Book of Cerne, 8th or 9th cent., Camb. Univ. Li. 1, 10), Hymnus et oratio in laude domini (Corbie Psalter, 11th cent., Paris Bib. Nat. Lat. 11550), Hymnus SS. Patrum in honorem sanctae Trinitatis and Hymnus in honorem sanctae Trinitatis (Thomas. 2, p. 345, and 3, p. 614). More colourless titles are, Hymnus optimus (Bacon's Psalter, Camb. Univ., quoted by Swainson, I. c.); Oratio pura cum laudatione (B. M. Beg. 2 B. v.); Laus augelica (Camb. S. John's, C. 15), and simply Ymnus (Bodl Doues 127, prob. 11th cent., a Lombard Pseltor).

Titles indicating authorship are numerous but inconsistent. Indeed they may not all have been intended at first positively to assert the authorship of the person named, but perhaps to ascribe the introduction of the hymn to him, or possibly its musical setting, or it may be even to refer to his frequent use of it as a favourite hymn. Some however distinctly assert composition.

(a) The oldest of these titles, as far as MSS, are concerned, would appear to be Hymnus queen S. Hilarius primus compositif (Cod. 8. Emmerumi, 8th or 9th cent., C. Ixvii., now at Munich, Daniel's M. 1). Cp. the Quaestiones Grammat, of Abbo Floriacensis (A.D. 985), P.P. Lat., 129, p. 522 § 18, "in Del pelinodia quam compositif Hilarius Pictaviensis episcopus non inxits quorumdam imperitorum errorem suscepisti, sed potius suscepturus legendam est."

legendam est."
(B) Next would seem to be those which incorporate the tradition with regard to S. Ambrose and S. Augustine, Hymnus queen S. Ambrosius et S. Augustinus invicem condiderunt (S. Gall. 23 and 21, 5th qual.; Vienna Protter, No. 1861, said to have been sent by Charles the Great to Pope Hadrian, but perhaps in this part in a later hand; B. M. Cotton Vitellius, E. xvili.; Bodl. Land, 96, 11th cent., precoded by the older till, Landes post nocture; Douce 286, circa a. D. 1050), Hymnus

*(an)o(f)oru(m) doctoru(m) Ambrosii & Augustini Epicoporum (Tournai Psalter, Paris, Lat. nouvelles acquinitions 2195, with Greek version of verses 1-11); Hase ast coporais (Tournal Psalter, Paris, Lat. nouvelles acquinitions 2195, with Greek version of verses 1-11); Hase as laws sancte trimitatis quam Augustians sanctus et Ambrosius composuri (Irish Book of Ryman, 10th cent., Tr. Coll. Dublin, E. A. 2); Hymans Augustians sanctus et Ambrosius composuri (Irish Book of Ryman, 10th cent., Tr. Coll. Dublin, E. A. 2); Hymans Augustian (Salzburg Pauter, A. V. 31, quoted by Swalmson).

(y) Several MSS. refer to S. Nicetus or Nicetius, but whether the Bp. of Vienne or Treven or some other is meant is not clear. Such are the Florence Laurentian Plat. XVII. iti. and vili. of 11th cent. Brit. Mus. Harl. 863, 16th or 11th, and a Cotton MS, cited by Abp. Ussher, but not now identified, In the 11th century Arundel M3, No. 60 of the same library, with a Saxon gloss, is the title (fol. 127) Yamaus sancti Viccti epiroph dichus dominicit ad matultisis, which is probably meant for the same person. In the very scarce Psatterium Ravidicum ad utum cocletic Spriburicusis, printed by Kyngston and Sutton, Lond. 1555, is the rubine. "Canticum beat! Niceti," and a note stating that the traditional account respecting S. Augustine's baptism is untrue: "Quod non est verum sed decantaverunt usum prins compositum per beatum Nicetum episcopum Vicn(n)ensem quod inmit casciodorus de institutione sanctarum scriptorarum," on which see below. This name is closely connected with that in the Irlah MS. I, Neceta, carh. of St. Peter. The connection with Rome is prob. one to the misrateding Romana for Remailans or Remislans. the set of Niceta to whom Morin attributes the T.D.; see iv. 2.

St. Peter. The connection with Rome is prob. due to the misrading Romana for Remains or Remislans, the sec of Niceta, to whom Morin attributes the T.D.; see iv. 2. (3) The titles Hymnus S. Abundit (Breviourism Monatheum, Vas. 4928, clrca 1865; cf. Meratt in Govanism, p. 152, No. ili. and Thomanist, 3, p. 615 n.), and Hymnus S. Sizbuti or Sizbuti monachi, Rc. (Breviour) of Monte Cassino, circa A.D. 1935, sp. Merati, l.c., cod. Basilicae Vatic. No. xi ap Thomas, l.c.) are puzzling. Abundius, Bp. of Como, who d, in 459 a.D., is probably meant. "Siscentrus monachus" would be so called to distinguigh him from the well-known Spatish king, the contemporary of Islore in the 7th cent. The monk may have belonged to Monte Cassino, or have been the Bepodictine Abbot of Cardeñas, who d. In 1982.

In the printed Breviaries the reference to S. Ambrose and S. Augustine is general in some form or other, though the hymn sometimes has no title.

iv. Date and authorship. The consideration of these titles naturally leads us to the question of authorship. The traditional attribution to S. Ambrose and S. Augustine has been traced up as far as the year 859, when Hinemar of Rheims published his second dissertation On Predestination, in which he refers to it (c. 29 = PP, Lat. 125, p. 290):

"Et quomodo intelligi debest quod sanctus dixit Am-brosius, Tu ad liberanduss surcepturus hominesi (quia ut a maloribus nostris audivimus tempore baptismatis sancti Augustini hunc bymnam bestus Ambrosius fecit et idem Augustinus cuni eo confecti) in capito libri De bono contagui exponit dicens," etc.

The tradition however took fuller shape in a Milanese chronicle, now ascribed to Landulphus senior, who wrote in the 11th cent. (Hist. Mediclanensis, i. 9 = PP. Lat. 147, p. 893).

After mentioning the place of Augustine's baptism, the Church of S. John (now destroyed), he goes on:

"In quibus fontibus prout Spiritus sanctus debat eloqui eis It descri laudamus decantantes, cunctis qui aderant audientibus et videntibus simulque mirantibus, in posterie ediderunt quod ab universa ecclesis Catholica usque hodia tenetur et religiose decantatur.'

The attribution of this part of the chronicle to Datius, Bp. of Milan (who d. A.D. 552 or 553), by a large number of writers, apparently copying from one another, naturally gave great credit to this tradition; but it is now destitute of any other authority than that which may be given it by the reference of Hincmar above quoted.

2. The absolute disproof of such a tradition is not easy nor perhaps possible, especially as internal evidence tends to fix the couposition to a period very near the time suggested. But the comparative lateness of its appearance, the variety of other claims to authorship at about the same date, and the apparent use of S. Jerome's revision of the Psaller in the last 8 verses, pointed out by Mr. Gibson (p. 22 foll.) pointed out by Mr. Gibson (p. 22 foll.) combine to deprive this tradition of any real probability. The coincidences are rather with S. Jerome's second revision, the so-called Gallican Psatter, dated 388 A.D., than with the Bonan Psatter, his first revision of 382. As S. Augustine was baptized in 385 the conclusion is fairly strong as regards the hymn in its present form although the versus in ones. present form, although the verses in question, as we shall see presently, do not belong to the body of the hymn. The disproof of the claims of S. Ambrose will carry with it those of S. Hilary of Poitiers (d. A.D. 368), and probably also of Nicetius of Vienne (circa A.D. 379). Nicetius Abp. of Treves A.D. 527-566 is certainly too late. But Gennadius († 496) in his de viris ill. mentions "Niceas (or Nicetas) Romacianae civitatis episcopus" as writing 6 books mentions "Niceas (or Nicetas) Romacianae civitatis episcopus" as writing 6 books of instruction to candidates for baptism and ad Virginem lapsam. Paulinus of Nola had a great friend, Nicetas or Niceta, a Dacian Bishop, who visited him in 398 and 402, whose learning and poetry he praised highly: Ep. 29, Carm. 17 and 27 passim. He is prob. the same person, and also — the Nicetas or Nicetias passind by also = the Nicetus or Nicetius preised by Cassiedorus (de instit. div. lit. 16). Under these circumstances Dom G. Morin's conjecture (above, iii. γ) that Niceta of Remesiana, Bp. 392-414, is the author of the T. D. is very plausible. It is accepted by Zahn, Kattenbusch, W. H. Frere and A. E. Burn, who has published his works, 1905. But see 7 end.

8. If therefore we take the date of the Gallican Psalter as a probable terminus a quo for the origin of the hymn in its present form, we have next to ask what is the superior limit of date which can be fixed for it? The first actual reference to the hymn is in the rule of S. Caesarius of Arles, drawn up, it is said, before his elevation to the episcopate in 502 A.D. It is here ordered as part of the Sunday morning service (Regula ad Monachos, xxi. = PP. Lat. 67, p. 1102). It is ordered also by S. Aurelian of Arles to be said "omni Sabbato ad matutinos" (PP. Lat. 68, p. 396), and by S. Benedict to be said on Sunday "and vigilias," when it is to precede the Gospel which is to be followed by the little hymn Te deest laus (Regula, cap. xi. = PP. Lat. 66, p. 436). All these cite the hymn simply by its first three words.

f. These indications point to the 5th century as the date of the hymn, and to its first rather than to its second half, since by the end of the century it had gained a recognized position almost equal to that of the ancient Paalms. Fifty years is not too long to allow for the growth of this popular acceptance, and allowing some time for the popular acceptance of S. Jerome's Gallican Psalter at Te deum as it now appears in our prayerbooks about 400-450 A.D.

5. An attempt has been made to define the date more precisely by an ingenious comment on the 16th verse. Dr. Swannon wrote (Dict. Chr. Ant. II. p. 1950 B.), "The phrase suscept hominem was current in the time of S. Augustine, but went out of favour after the Nestorian controversy; it gave place to the phrase adsumpsit humanitatem or humanam naturam." Mr. Gibson accepts this dictum (C. Q. R. 18, p. 10) as a second proof of the date already suggested, and possibly as throwing the date further back in the 5th century.

It is certainly à priori not unnatural to suppose that hominem suscipere would be a phrase viewed with suspicion, since the Council of Ephesus in 431 condemned a creed. attributed by the presbyter Charisius to Theodore of Mopsuestia, in which the crucial phrase descriptive of the Incarnation is & δεσπότης Θεὸς λόγος ένθρωκον είληφε τέλειον, ἐκ σπέρματος δυτα 'Αβραάμ και Δαυίδ, κ.τ.λ. (ap, Labbe, Concil. iii. pp. 677 and 689). 'The words avenuever examps could only be rendered hominem suscepil or adsumpsit. The text also of the different forms of the Te Deum shows more variation in this 16th verse than in any other, and that of a kind which suggests that a difficulty was felt as to the propriety of the lauguage. The original reading appears to have been that preserved in the Irish text (as Bp. Lightfoot is said to have been the first to suggest, C. Q. R., vol. 18, p. 10, note 2) which runs as follows: "Tu ad liberandum mundum suscepisti hominem." There is a Johannine and Pauline fulness about this (reminding us of John iii, 16, 17, iv. 42; 1 John iv. 14; Rom. viii. 21; Epb. i. 10, &c.), and it is also so clearly intelligible, that it is difficult not to believe it the true reading. The other readings are easily explicable as derived from it, possibly through the loss of "mundum" on account of similarity of ending with "liberandum," possibly from a wish not to lay so much stress on the phrase "suscipere hominem." which might be misinterpreted in a Nestorian sense. In the Milan text and in one of the early English versions the verb "suscepisti" is omitted altogether, and the two parallel clauses are united into one sentence, "Tu ad liberandum hominem non horruisti virginis uterum." In the common text of the old uss. the parallelism is preserved, "Tu ad liberan-dum suscepisti hominem: Non horruisti virginis uterum," but the ambiguity is intro-duced as to whether "suscepisti" is to be rendered "thou tookest man upon thee to deliver (him)," which is a harsh ellipse; or "thou tookest upon thee to deliver man" as we render it (since the last Primer of Hen. viii., 1546)—which is scarcely good Latin. The modern printed text again, which was used by Hincmar in the 9th, and insisted upon by Abbe of Fleury in the 10th century, reads in one sentence, to avoid the suscoluthon, "Tu ad liberandum susceptures hominem non korruisti virginis uterum "—but this, though as old as Cyprian of Toulon, c. 524, appears to be a mere correction for the sake of supposed elegance or orthodoxy, such as the beginning of the period, we may date the is often made nowedays by editors of hymns.

6. What then are the facts as to the use of the phrases "suscipere" or "assumere hominem" by the Fathers? This question has been discussed by Gerhard, Loci theologics IV., vi. § 96, in opposition to Bellarmine who accused Brentius of Nestorianism for having said, "Filius dei assumpsit filium hominia." Though it is not easy to verify Gerhard's quotations, it is possible to add many to them.

S. Cyprian does not seem to use either phrase exactly, though he twice employs the idlorn "bominem Induit" (quod idda dis nor sunt, 11 and 14). Others however do not shrink from it, having on their side Biblical authority in two striking phrases: (1) the old version of Hebrews H. 16 (Sabatier), "nee enim statim angelve adsampsis sed semen Abrahas suscepit" (inhaudiaera), and (2) the frequent use in the Pasiler of "susceptor neus" — intrihauras puon, answering to various Hebrew words, which was sometimes taken liberally as "he who takes me up" or "upon himself." Much stress cannot be laid upon the use of the Latin version of S. Irenaeus, though it was probably made early and widely read. Here we find "facere ut at Dens dammoret kommers," Ec. — and beg new maparitynas vie suspensor, x. r. h. lif. 18, 7). S. Hilsay of Politiers comes very near the usage of the Te Dens in his note on "susceptor mans." Pe. 1xi. (Heb. 1xii.) § 2, 3, and he actually nees "assumere" (though not "suscipere") "hombnem," de Trin. Itz, 38. Ambrosa too goes closely up to it, but exarcely touches it, so far as has been as yet observed. In de Ydde, vi. § 63, he has the remarkable phrase "quanwis empersorae kominist incarnati susceptional loqueretur" (or, as variously read, ex personae kominist in carnot susceptionae): but in his treatise de Incarnatione, while he constantly uses the verb "suscipere" and less frequently "assumere," it is always apparently with "carnem" "nostram naturam." "corpus," "animam," "see, and never with the cooner." "noturum humanam," "see, and never with the cooner." "noturum humanam," "see, and never with the cooner." "hominem." Indeed the guarded language of this treatise would seem by itself to make it nighty improbable that he could have been the author of the Te Dens.

Do the other hand, the phrase appears to be widely used by S. Augustine and with great boldness, repeatedly for instance in his de Praedestinatione Sanctorum, where he does not shrink from asking the question, "lile homo, ut a verbo Patri conderno, in unitatem personae assumptus, billius det unigonitus esset, unde hoc mergit?" (see cap. xv. § 20, 31). Taken alone, it is obvious how open such a speculation is to a Nestorian misconstruction. Other fastances are Sermo at Cateck. 8, de Fide et Symbolo 8 ("ut totum hominem suscipere dignarethr in uterotriginia") and 18, Enchribtion 56, ep. de Friss. I. vil. 4, "propter acceptum hominems," and de Civitate bet xi. 2, "assumpto homine." Probably S. Augustine's use is the strongest instance, but we also find the phrase used by writers in the midst of the Nestorian controversy and later. Such are Leportus, in his recantation made about A.D. 420, quoted by John Cassian, and Cassian limself (de Inc. contro Nestorium, i. S. and ii. 3, where he also uses the phrase "homo unitus Deo ") and S. Leo, Setta. 28, 6 and 12, 6 (ep. Dr. W. Bright, Sermon of S. Leo, p. 185, ed. 2). It may be that, as Mr. Gibson suggests, both Cassian and Leo are more cautions in heir later books, but they are not the later writers who use the phrase. Vigilius Tappensis (circa a.D. 464) writes: "Ingressus est virginis naturum dei filius, et succepit cotum hominem qui iam habebat a parte plenissimpan deitateum" de Wuldst Trinitatis xiv. = 19. Let. 6, 2, 343). Another sofferer from Vandal persecution in Africa, Pulgentius of Ruspe, uses the phrase frequently, both with "hominem" alone and qualified by considered Missae in the 8th cent. § 5 (PP. Let., 119, p. 21 c) is the last author that need be quoted for "suscipere" with "tetum hominem" and "mortalem". The use of "assumers hominem" by Boethlus, de Persona et Sandura Sandura for the Sasma, pars iii, qu. 4, art. 3, asya, "non possupus décrer quod lono sit assumptus." Hough of "assumers hominem" of the suse of lone phrase vitant to the phrase without offe

It seems, then, that Dr. Swainson's assertion is much too sweeping, and that though some authors may have grown shy of the phrase "suscipere hominem," during or soon after the Nestorian controversy, others did not feel scrupulous about it. The names of Augustine, Leporius (and with him Cassian), Vigilius, and Fulgentius suggest that the African school especially accepted the phrase as a convenient and telling one and without any fear of being misunderstood. The use of the double phrase "totum hominem suscipere in utero virginis" by S. Augustine, and of "ingressus est virginis uterum . . . et suscepit," by Vigilius, is also a point of contact with the hymn. How far does this fall in with other probable evidence?

7. Merati long ago suggested that the Te Deum originated in Southern Gaul and particularly in the school of Lerins, though his further conjecture that S. Hilary of Arles was the author does not seem a happy one. This auggestion is adopted by Daniel in general terms (p. 288) and is also considered probable by Mr. Gibson, as far as Gaul and Lerins are concerned. The evidence in favour of Gaul drawn by the last writer from the Contestationes or prefaces of the Gallican Sacramentaries is certainly very striking, and is important even if we conclude that the hymn is older than the Liturgies. Such are particularly: " Dignum et instum est . . . ut te dominum ac deum totis visceribus humana conditio veneretur" (Missale Gothicum, p. 604, and Gallicanum, p. 753); "Omnis terra adorat to et confiletur tibi; sed et caell caelorum et angelicae potestates non cessant laudare, dicentes Sanctus," &c. (Miss. Goth., p. 518); "Quem angeli et archangeli quem throni et dominationes quem Cherubin et Seraphin incessabili voce proclamant, dicentes Sanctus," &c. (Mone's Missa, ii.); and others in the later verses which deserve to be read, though none of them touch verse 16. early adoption of S. Jerome's revision of the Psalter by Gallican writers points also in the same direction; and the fact that Caesarius of Aries, who was a disciple of the famous school of Lerins (in the little island of St. Honoratus between Antibes and Fréjus), is the first person known to have used the hymn. gives a certain plausibility to the conjecture of Merati with regard to the specific locality of its origin. But verse 16 is a difficulty, since the phrase "suscipere hominem" appears to be African rather than Gallican. It is natural then to think of Cassian, whose monastery at Marsellles was probably the model for that of Lerins, and whose intercourse with S. Honoratus is well known, as the intermediary link in this as he was in some other greater matters. It is not suggested that Cassian himself was the author or compiler, but that he brought the hymn to Lerins. It is noticeable that "suscipere hominem" does not appear in the prose works attributed to Niceta, but "carnem suscepit humanam," de symbolo 10. v. Origin and Intention.—If therefore it is

v. Origin and Intention.—If therefore it is impossible to fix the authorship of the To Deum, can we go any further in the enquiry as to its origin?

I. A careful comparison of the four parallel columns given under the head of Text (§ ii.) will suggest at any rate some interesting conclusions. In the first column we have placed the Irish text, mainly from the Bangor Anti-phonary, which is by internal evidence dated between A.D. 680-691 (Warren's Liturgy and Bitual of the Celtic Church, p. xiii.). This text appears to be the most primitive. In the second we have a version which is that of a Breviary of Milan Cathedrai (kindly collated for this article by Dr. Ceriani) and of an early Pealter in the Vatican library described by Thomasius. In the third is the ordinary version found in MESS: and in the fourth a Greek version extending to the first eleven or twelve verses found in four or five MES, three from the school of S. Gall (at S. Gall, Bamberg and Cologne) and one from Tournai (at Paris). The version of the Mozarabic Breviary is interesting, but seems to require more careful editing.

2. Most students of the hymn now recognise the triple division of its 29 verses: (I) The "Te Deum" proper (1-11), preceded in the Irish text by the autiphon "Laudate puerl," &c.; (2) the hymn "Tu rex glorise" (12-21); (3) the antiphons "Salvum fao" and "Per singulos dies"—in inverse order in the Milan text-followed in the common use by certain Preces, or versicles and responses, of which there are four sets in the current text (22-29). Of these 8 parts (1) consists of hymn to the blessed Triuity in two parallel divisions, (A) verses 1-6 being the Praise of Earth and Heaven, particularly of the Angels, ending with the Augelic Tersanctus in the western or Latin form, and (B) verses 7-11 being the "Confession" of the Church on Earth, based on the language of S. Cyprian, and ending with a Trinitarian Gloria. is a sort of Christian counterpart to Psalm 148. Each verse (except the Glorias) begins with "Te" or "Tibl" Part (2) is a continuous hymn to Christ, proclaiming the mysteries of His divine worship, incarnation, atoning death, and opening of heaven, session and future coming to judge, ending with a prayer for those whom He has redeemed and for their future glory. Every verse begins with "Tu" or "Te," except 19, "Iudex crederie," which in the Irish version (reading " sedens") is not a separate verse but a part of 18. There is thus a contrast between (1) and (2), but also a continuity of structure; and it can hardly be doubted that (2) was written as a continuation of (1), even if (1) existed by itself first. The rhythm (sometimes called "Cursus Leoninus") is the same also throughout, every line ending with two feet which, when scanned accentually, may be roughly described as equivalent to the end of a hexameter vorse. Seven have the exact hexameter ending (* | 1 - ), viz., vice proclamant, deus sabaoth, gloriae tuae, gloriae Christe, regna caelorum, gloria patris, esse venturus. Seven end with two dactyls: landabilis numerus, laudat exércitus, confitétur ecclésia, unigenitum (or unicum) filium, perselitum spiritum (acc. to Greek accent often accepted in Latin verses), sempitérnus es filius, vírginis uterum. One ends with two spondees: apos-tolorum chorus. The other six have a less regular ending in which final quadrisyllables, accented on the penultimate, take the place of spondoce, viz., dóminum confitémor, térra venerátur, universas potestátes, imménsas moiestátis, sánguine redemistl, glória mu-

Similar rhythmical endings are found in the first half of lines 16, 17, 20. See more on this rhythm in Burn, Int. to Creeds, &c., 248-252, and Niceta, cix.-exii.

3. Mr. Gibson's suggestion that these antiphons were transferred from the Greek morning hymn Gloria in excelsis to the Latin morning hymn, when it took its place in the daily service, is very plausible (C. Q. R. 21, p. 20). This accounts for the variety of the three endings, since these antiphons did not belong to the original hymn and were felt to be public property to be used as liturgists thought most fitting. It is also noticeable that a similar antiphon, "Laudate pucri dominum : laudate nomen domini," precedes the hymn in the Irish version in the Bangor Antiphonary and in the Dublin Book of Hymns, being the antiphon to the short Greek evening hymn at the end of the viith book of the Apostolic Constitutions, which hymn closes with the gol where alres, &c. Hence we conclude that the Te Deum as first used as a whole in the Latin Church consisted of verses 1-2t, ending with the words "aeterna fac cum sauctis [+ tuis?] gloris munerari "= "make them to be gifted in company with the saints with eternal glory." The musical evidence given below strongly confirms this.

4. Can we analyse any further? Not with any certainty; but the Greek version of the first part, existing in four use, suggests prima facte that verses 1-10 down to "sancta confitetur ecclesia" were originally a separate Greek hymn and were an address to Christ as God; that the Trinitarian passage (11-13) is an insertion, a sort of doxology added at the end like that in the Te decet laws; and that 14-21 is an exclusively Latin composition ("Tu rex gloriae Christe.... gloria munerari").

rex glories Christe... glorie munerari").

5. That hymns were addressed to Christ as God as early as the 1st and 2ud centuries is not only suggested by the well-known passage of Pliny's letter to Trajan (x. 96), but asserted apparently by S. Hippolytus (ap. Euseb. Hist. Eccl. v. 28) who speaks of Psalms and Odes of the brethren "written by faithful men from the beginning, which hymn Christ the Word of God calling him God" (*vbv λόγον τοῦ θαοῦ τὸν Χριστὸν ὁμισοῦσι θαολογοῦντες). There would be nothing historically improbable in the supposition that verses 1–10 were a Greek hymn dating back to the 2nd cent. and known in a Latin form to S. Cyprian in the 3rd cent. The passage of his de Mortalitats (ch. 26, written circa a.D. 252) seems, as Abp. Benson remarks, something more then a coincidence. He is speaking of course of the joys of heaven:

"Hile apostolorum giorionus chorus, lilic prophetarum exultantium numerus, illic martyrum innumerabita populus ob certaminis et passionis giorium et victorium coronatus, triumpliantes virgines . . . . remunerati misericordes," &c.

It is not however close enough to suggest that the first part of the hymn, as we have it, was known to him by frequent usage, else was hould expect some other opithet than "exultantium," and some reference to the white robes of the martyrs. On the whole it seems safest to conclude that verses 7-9 are a reminiscence of S. Cyprian, not vice reran; and that the Greek form of verses 1-10 is a translation from the Latin, not an original composition. Yet this is to be observed (1) that the Te decet laus and the Gloria in secesis are both from a Greek original; (2) that the other canticles in the Quadruple Psalters have their Greek originals, in parallel columns, in just the same writing and style as the To Deum; and (3) that there is nothing in verses 1-10 which reads like a translation except the form of the Tersanctus and a phrase which we shall discuss below, verse 8. It is only necessary to read them in a form which is more easy for curselves than the Latin characters into which the Greek of the Psalter is (as usual) transliterated, to be convinced of their genuine ring of strength and simplicity.*

- 1. Σὲ θεὸν (θεὸς Β.) αἰνοθμεν · σὲ κύριον έξομολογούμεν '
- 2. Σὲ αἰώνων πατέρα πᾶσα ἡ γῆ [σέβεται]. 3. Σοι τάντες άγγελοι, σοι οδρανοί και τάσαι Conolai,
- 4. Σολ χερουβίμ καλ σεραφίμ ακαταπαύστφ φωνή άνακρά (ουσιν
- 5. "Αγιος άγιος άγιος κύριος ὁ θεὸς σαβαώθ :
- Πλήρεις οδρανοί καὶ ἡ γῆ τῆς μεγαλωσύνης της δάξης σού.
- 7. Σε δεδοξασμένος ἀποστόλων χορός ·
- 8. Σὲ προφητών αίνετὸς ἀριθμὸς
- 9. Σὲ μαρτύρων ἔκλαμπρος αίνεῖ στρατός •
- 10. Σὲ κατὰ πάσαν τὴν οἰκουμένην ἡ δγία έξομολογεί έκκλησία.

In verse 2 we notice the absence of a verb after γη, such as σέβεται. This is an argument, it may be, for the mutilation of the Greek copy from which the scribe wrote, but does not suggest (as verses 11 and 12 do) an attempt at translation by an ignorant person. For any one who could (ex hypothesi) translate so freely, using for instance the compound words which this writer does, would have been able to find an equivalent for "veneratur." Its absence might indeed be explained as an omission from carelessness on the part of a scribe who was making an interlinear gloss, such as seems occasionally to be met with in the versions about to be examined. But such omissions of words may equally be set down to carelessness of transcription, e.g. the Murbach O.G. Ms. omits to gloss "redemisti" in verse 20; which is probably merely an accident in copying. The only other verse which calls for remark in point of style is the 8th, where the use of apopuls is rather peculiar. The verses after the Trisagion rise to a gradual climax in point of extent. First comes the small and well-defined band of Apostles (ep. χορός προφητών, 1 Sam. x. 5, 10, and χορός είρηνης at the close of the hymn of Clement of

* They differ very much from the Greek translation in the Ambrosian MS, of the 15th cent. (C. 13, inf.) which Mr. Gibson has kindly transcribed for this article, which appears to be simply a very rough and un-acholatry attempt at rendering into Greek from the Latin, and which is only a fragment. It runs as follows literating.

Τό θετο αίνουμεν σε κύριον όμωλογούμεν. Το τόν αίδιον ποτερα ποσα ή γη στύντα. Σο πόντε είγγελοι στό ούρανοι καὶ πάραι έξουσιοι. Σοὶ πάντε είγγελοι στό ούρανοι καὶ πάραι έξουσιοι. Σοὶ τα χερουβήμ καὶ τα σεραφήμ άκαταπάστω φωνή βάδσι Αγιός Αγιός Αγιός κυριος ὁ θεός σαβαιό Πλόρης εκιν εί ουρανοι τῆς μεγαλοκριπής της δέξης στου Σε ά εύδοξος τῶν ἐποστάλων χορός Τα προφατών ὁ πέντον είγγελος. Τε τόν μαρτύρων ἡ ἐκλεμπρος ἐπειὰ στρατιά.
Το rendering of the Greek Prayer-book printed by Field, Cambridge, 1656, is naturally better than this Milan text, but is not so good as that of our form MSS. The article is less exactly used. In verse δ ἐκβοώντι δια το 30 good as ἀνακράζουσιν, and in verse δ μαγαλειότης is not so good as μεγαλωσύνη. Σε δεών αινούμεν σε κύριον όμωλογούμεν.

Alexandria), then the well-disciplined and therefore praiseworthy regiment (numerus) of prophets, then the bright-clad army of martyrs, then the universal Church. Now there is no doubt that "numerus" constantly means a regiment, from the time of Tacitus onwards, but this use of aposude is not so common. It is found indeed in the LXX in Isa. xxxiv. 24=tsåbå, in 1 Macc. ix. 65, and in later writers as noticed by Sophocles, Lexicon, s. v., and it may be remarked that belocarneves and alverby occur together in the Greek Song of the Three Children and in the Antiphons to the Gloria in excelsis. We are however bound to notice that the Terranetus follows the wording of the Latin Mass (God of hosts and heavers instead of heaven), and not that of the Greek Liturgies. This is an almost conclusive argument against the originality of the Greek poem, at any rate as it has come down to us.

6. But this version, if not original, is the work of one to whom Greek was thoroughly familiar, and implies that verses 1-10 are a separate hymn. For the peculiar form of verse II in all three mss., and of verse 12 in the S. Gall. Ms., and the absence of verse 18 (see Text, § ii. p. 1120) betray an incompetent and bungling hand attempting to translate at a later date and dropping the attempt. The barbarous word "enmeso" or "emmeso" can soarcely be anything else than a puerile transliteration or vague representation of "inmensee," remembering the length of s in Latin before as and the forms Kásvas, Kohauns, &c., for "Constant," "Croscens. which show how easily the n was dropped in such a position. No true Greek word can be thought of (such as autroov) of which "enmeso" could be a corruption.

The next verse in the S. Gall as,, on the other hand, might be a bad copy of a correct but mutilated or blotted line, but on the whole it is most probable that the "ali th eikon" represents a barbarous άληθικόν, not a blurred anglevov, formed on the analogy of such words as anglevents, elophents, &c. The absence of the last line would then be due to the interpreter's consciousness of failure, or at any rate to his self-distrust, unless the theory of an incomplete doxology be resorted to, as in the grace after meat at the close of the Apostolic Constitutions. 7. The arguments in favour of the theory that this early part of the hymn is in intention an address to Christ are chiefly based on the first verse and on the use of the accusative case in it, "We praise thee who art God; we acknowledge thee who art the Lord." Tho parallel of the Gailliean Contestatio quoted above, which is addressed distinctly to our Lord, is very striking, and we are also necessarily reminded of the confession of S. Thomas, "My Lord and my God." The application of the Trisagion to the second person of the Trinity is also justified by the quotation from Issiah, chap. vi. 10, made by S. John, and by his description of the scene from which it is taken, "These things said Essias when he saw his glory and spake of him" (John xii. 41). The only real difficulty is in the alderor πατέρα or "seternum patrem," which we should expect to find as an equivalent to abi-'ad in the versions of Isaiah ix. 6, but do not exactly find, the nearest being Symmachus's wordp alseros.

8. On the whole the parallel of the angelic

Teranctus, after the angelic praise, to the Trinitarian dexology, after the Church's praise, pointed out by Dr. Gibson, strongly reinforces the arguments in favour of the originality of the Latin text as we have it. and emphasises the Trinitarian intention of the whole first part.

vi. Versions. 1. Old German. The old-German version is possibly the earliest that has come down to us, unless the Anglo-Saxon may be considered earlier. It is contained in a Ms. essigned to the earlier part of the 9th century, where it formed the last of a series of twenty-seven hymns. The first twenty-five are metrical Latin hymns (all in Daniel), with an interlinear old German or Theotise gloss. No. 26 is the "Te deed laus" to which reference has been frequently made in this article, which was wrongly attached by Grimm, following Junius and Price, to No. 25. No. 27 (Grimm, 26) is the Te Deum which, like all the rest, is in the form of an interlineur gloss.

Interlinear gloss.

The volume in which this important collection is bound up is No. 25 in the library of F. Junius, since A.b. 1678 in the Bodielan library. From a note on fol. 163 s. (p. 33 of the Glossary) it is known to have belonged to the Abbey of Murhach (M. Morbacense, Munsterthally, neutren Alssoc, in the middle of the 15th centrely (A.D. 1461). Whether it was written there or at the mother house of Reichenau (M. Augiense) is, of course, matter of conjecture; but there are reasons for inclining to the latter opinion. Through the temporary disappearance of this volume, or through the thumber long been bound before hymns 1-21--this collection has been chiefly known from a transcript made by Junius (No. 14). Another travecript (No. 110) is said to have been tolen when Dr. Owen was librarian (a.D. 1747-1768). Four of the hymns, including the 18 Deam, were printed by Dr. Geo. Hickes in his Gramwatica franco-theotica. Oxf. 1703; the 18 Deam was printed alone by J. G. Eccard at Heimstädt in 1713, and the others in his Francia Grientalis at Wilraburg in 1729. The first complete edition of the 26 (37) hymns was published by Jakob Gripum at Göttingen in 1830, but based, as he tells us in his preface, upon a copy made for him by Pr. Price, Bodley's librarian, who died in 1813. This Jacob Origina Lecturinger in 1839, but once, as he tells us in his preface, upon a copy made for him by Dr. Price, Bodley's librarian, who died in 1813. This copy was unfortunately not from the Morbach MS., but from Junius's transcript, No. 74. From this edition of Grimm's others have reprinted, such as K. E. P. Wackernagel (Das dealsche Kirchenbied von Mertin Luther bis nage! Data measone Arranement on Leavist Lander Dis-ant Mindsan Herman, &c., No. 70, p. 40, Sintigart, 1841), who is followed by Daniel II. 277; and instity Thomson. Wackernagel has a few useful notes, 1841, pp. 364. It did not reprint these old German hyuns it his great col-lection Dan deutsche Kürchenfind von der Albeiten Zeit bis zu Anfang der zwit. Jahrhundertt, vols. 1-74, Leipa.

1864-1877.
In 1874, however, Prof. Ed. Slevers edited the whole from the original MS. (Die Hurbacher Hymnen such der Handschrift herausgegeben at Halle), printing, like frimm, the Latin and German in purallel columns, with a useful introduction and glossary. He, like others, assigns the MS, to the early part of the 9th century, but the interlinear gloss is very probably older, inasmuch as over some words there are two glosses standing side by side, showing that the MS, was based upon a doubte tradition of the German version. It is also remarkable that in many cases only the termination is written, while the stem of the word is left to be supplied by the reader—which implies a rather unusual condition of knowledge of languages. These stems are supplied by the editors in which implies a rather unusual condition of knowledge of languages. These stems are supplied by the editors in square brackets; the contractions are indicated by italics. The following are the double glosses in the #P Denst. Verse 2 neneratur=nuirdit eret; verse 17 denteto=kerflictne, but ubertumnono is also written in the margin; verse 32 populus=fold list.

The following are the most important verses:-

1 thib cot [lobo]mes.
thib [trubit]nan gehemes;

- 2 thin squigau fater cokiouellh erda quirdit cret;
- 11 fater ungimezenera meginchrefti,
- 12 erhaften thinen Guaran einagu[n] sun ; 13 unihan sub troet ainm :

16 the 2s arlosable anding mannan, ni letthichetes them magnit ref 21 euulgero tua mit unihess thiness tiurida lonet (lat. munerare).

In verse 8 the word "kasconnet" for "candidatus" appears to mean "adorned" or "spleadid." The same word is found as a translation of "ornavit" in st. iii, in appears to mean "adurited" or "spicedid." The same word is found as a translation of "ornavit" in at. iii, in No. xi. In this xs.

Thomson prints a High German Te Denus from a Paulter printed at Basel (1502) beginning: 1 "Wir loben dich dot: wir bekennen dich Her. 2 "Alle erd eret dich ewigen Vater." Verse 15 runs "Du zu erlösung an dich senemen den menselsen, hast nit versetmecht den heib der Junkfravon," and 21 "Haisz ay begabet werden, mit den hailigen, mit der ewigen era." Other notices of German versions may be found in Daniel (II. pp. 392, 3). Luther loved the bywnu and strongly recommended its uss; and his translation (made in 1529) "Herr Gott dich boben wir" (p. 1134, 1.) is still in use. Another version by H. von Meyer, beginning like Luther's, is much ber wird, "p. 1134, 1.) is still in use. Another version by H. von Meyer, beginning like Luther's, is much ber side by Daniel and printed by him at ii, pp. 278-9. The following lines show its character: "Uns nu erlös in hast | Du dich in's Fleisch gesenkt. Uns durch dein Todespetu | Himmibsche Frend geschenkt;" and "Lass sis ach dieser Noth | Haben in Friede Theil | Mit deinen Hetigen all'n | Dort an dem ewgen Heil."

2. Old-French. Three versions are uninted

- 2. Old-French. Three versions are printed by Thouson, pp. 45-52, one from MS. Harl. 1770 and two from Harl. 273, in verse and prose. Both ass. appear to be of the 14th century, and the latter to come from Ludlow. Prof. Samuel Berger, of the Protestant Theological Faculty at Paris, bas kindly supplied other copies; (1.) from the Psalter of Eadwin (Tr. Coll. Camb. R. 17.1, copied at Canterbury ofrea A.D. 1120); (2.) from the so-called "Psalter of Corbie" (Paris B. Nat. Lat. 768); (3.) from the Angio-Norman Bible copied for John de Wellea, d. 1361 (Paris B. Nat. Franç. 1, cp. Berger, La Bible Francaise au Moyen Age, p. 324, 1881). He has also made notes on a number of others, from which it is clear that there was a very large variety of French versions of this hymn current in England and France in the middle ages. We give select verses from those not readily accessible.
- (1) Kadwin. 1. "Sire tei Deu lotims, tei seignur regehisums;" 2. "Tei parmenable Perre henoured tute terre...;" 16. "Tu receus houme a delivrer le, he turnas a hisdour le ventre de la Virgne...;" 21. "Fai les eltre gueredunez de parmenable gluire ud tes saiuz." (2.) "Carbie" Pigater. 1. "Tel deus loums; tel seignur regehissums;" 2. "Tel parmanable perre; tote terre houvre...;" 15. "Tel parmanable perre; tote terre houvre...;" 15. "To a delivirer a soscelure le home; tes subsette de la missena le noutre..." 21. "21. "Esquirer la monte." "21. "Esquirer la monte." "21. "Esquirer la monte." "21. "21. "Esquirer la monte." "21. "21. "Esquirer la monte." "21. "21. "Esquirer la monte..." "21. "Esquire honure . . . , " 15, " 'Fo a deliurer a coscelur no enherdis de la nirgeno le uentro . . . , " ne chierdis de la nirgene le uentre ...; "21. "Pardurable (=acternam?) fai et its saint reguertedone la glorie." (3.) Anglo-Norman Ridie. 1. "Nous toy looms dieu nous toy regorous seignor; "2." Tote la terre toy honurs pere nardurable...; "16. "Tu a prendre a dellucrer hom ne doubtas point le uentre de ta nirgine...; "21. "Fai ets serfs estre revardes en glorie tut dis durannt." Mr. Herger remarks on the whole question, "Cette multiplicité des traductions du 8 derau, contrait à ce que nous observons pour le Paautier, me parait assez facile à expliquer. D'abord c'était un texte liturgique que chacun avait en memoire et d'après lequel le copiste retouchait et rajennissait presque Instinctivement son texte; en outre, tous les Paautiers ne contenaient pas et appendice, en sorte que le copiste ne trouvait pentêrre pas la traduction française du 72 dema dans son original et il y supplicat comme il potetals." 21. * Par-

In the French Protestant churches there are in use two versions, one in prose and the other in verse. The prose version is the older being found in the Liturgie de Montbeliard, Strasbourg, 1844. It is reprinted in the Liturgie dans l'Eglise de la Confession d'Augs-bourg, Nancy, 1887, p. 20. Its first words are "Nous célébrons tes louanges, è Dieu, et nous reconnaissons que tu es le Seigneur." It is not very exact (e.g. "La glorieuse assemblée des apôtres, des prophêtes et des martyrs célèbre tes louanges") or spirited, and it is, says M. Berger, rarely used. On the other hand the hymn in verse "Grand Dien nous te bénissons. Nous célébrons tes louanges. which is by the famous Genevan pictist, H. L. Empeytaz (d. 1853), is sung at all national festivels and thanksgiving services in all the churches in which the French language is used. It may be found in Recueil de Cantiques à l'usagn des églises évangéliques de France, Paris, Rue Chauchat, 1876, &c. It is not however so much a translation as a partial adaptation. It is curious that it wholly omits the central dozology (verses 11-13) and therefore, perhaps by accident, reproduces what we have supposed to be the original intention of the hymn. Verse 16 is also wholly omitted. The last three stanzas, 8-10, have a very faint resemblance to the original. The last is a doxology often used at the end of the ordinary service :-

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

"Gloire soit an Saint-Esprit! Gloire soit à Dieu le Père! Gloire soit à Jésus-Chris Notre époux et notre frère ! Son inunence charité Dure à perpétuité."

Another metrical rendering is given, together with that of Empeytez, but anonymously, in Recuell de Psaumes et Cantiques à l'usage des Églises Réformées, Paris and Strasburg, 1859, in 14 sts., beginning:-

"Grand Dieu, nous te louone, nous t'adorons, Seigneur Et nous voulons chanter un hymne en ton homeur."

3. Anglo-Saxon and English. (1.) Thomson prints two Angle-Saxon versions, one from B. M. Ms. Arundel, No. 60, of the 11th century, the other from the Brit. Mus. Ms. Vesp. A. I, ascribed in the catalogue to the Sth century. There is also a tenth century MS. Pealter (Lambeth, No. 427), which contains it. They vary considerably from one another, but in such a way as to suggest a common origin.
The version of the Lambeth as., Fol. 195, is here given as it appears never to have been printed. Some words are unglessed, and the gloss is supplied from the context or the margin or from the Atundel Ms. [in square brackets).

Hymnum ad matutiniz dieb : dominicis.

- 1. ] e god we beried. [be dribten] we andettab
- 2. De some fæder call corde arwyrdab
- 3. De calle englas De hoofomus & calle mægena
- 4. þe [chernbin & scraphin] mid unablinnendre stemme clypias (mg. also bleosrias).
- halig [halig balig] [dribten] god wooreds. oppe elmibtig.
- 6. fulls .synt heofonus & cords mægendrymnesse wuldres Mines.
- 7. De f(#t) wulderfulle bara apostole wered
- 8. De witegana D(mt) herlendlice getel 9. De martira se scinenda (hera) mg.) here
- 10. Pa gynd ymbhwyrft coroan schulige andett gelabung
- 11. fæder ormættre mægenþrymnyese
- 12. Þone arwyrðan þinne soðan & anlican sunu [Fol. 185 n]
- 13, baligne cacswyles frofer gast.
- 14. [bu sart mg.] cinge wuldres crist
- 15. Du bee feder ece eart sunu

- 16. bu to alyzanne to underforme (suscepturus) mannan na onbracedest madenes innob
- 17. bu ofswyddum deade sticeles grobnadest gelyfendum ricu heofons
- 18. þu to swyðran godes sitst on wuldre bæs fæder
- 19. dema bu eart gelyfod wesan to weard
- 20. Du cornostlice we litidad binum beowum gehelp ba be mid binum deorwyrólicostan blode þu alyadeti
- 21. mid ecum do mid halgour blaum wuldre been gelacod
- 22. gebail [do] folc þin [drihten] & gebletsa erfwyrdпуже рішне
- 23. & gewissa hig & upahe hig of [on ecnesse]
- 24. gynd malipie dagas we bletsia þ þe
- 25. & we heriad naman binne on weornkie [et in seculum seculii)
- 26. gemedema [drihten] dæge on þyssum butan synns us gebealdan 27. gemiltæs usa [drihten] [gemil-
- 28. bee mildheortpys bin ofer us swaswa we hopedan on he 29. [on he dribten] ic hopade but io ne beo gescand Hymnum trium puerorum, etc.
- (2.) The latter part of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th century saw a considerable epread of English prayers and devotions, Maskell has printed three of these in his Monumenta Ribushia Ecol. Anglio. 1846, viz. in vol. ii. pp. 12-14, from a us, of about 1410 in bis own possession, 5b. pp. 229, 230, from the Bodleian Douce MS. 275, and pp. 231, 232, from the Douce MS. 246, both probably a few years later than 1410. The British Museum also contains two in Add. MSS. 10046 and 31044, and others are mentioned by Maskell in his research no. xxxiii. xxxiv. The relation of these versions to the Wycliffite movement is too difficult a question to be discussed here, as it belongs to the general history of the Primer in English. A few readings from these three mss, however will be of interest.

MS. I reads in verse 1.2. "We be their thee God, we knowledpy thee lord. Thee, everlastynge fadir: at the erthe worchipith." 16. "Thou wert not akoymus of the maidens wombe to delyuer mankynde." [= the Milani version osa. susceptivil). 21. "Make hem to be rewardid with thi seyntes: in bilsse with euerlastinge glorie." [perhaps a conflation of two versions].

Other remarkable phrases in it are: 5. "Lord god of vertues;" 13. "Ours comfortour" [and so MS. 2, MS. 3]; 14. "Thou, crist, kyng of glorie." [stimilarly MS. 2 and MS. 3]; 17. "For thou ouercamest the sharpnesse death." 18. "Ou goddis rist syde." [so MS. 2 and MS. 3]; 19. "Thou art bilouved to be juge to come"; 23. "be I not schent withouten ende." [similarly MS. 2, MS. 3].

22. "be I not schent withouten ende" [vimitarly MS. 2, MS. 3].

MS. 2 and MS. 3 agree much together and with the British Museum MSS. MS. 2 begins, "Thee, God, we preissen: thee, Lord, we knowletchin" [similar MS. 3]. Verse 16 "Thou wert not skoymes to take the reaidenes wombe: to deliners mankynde" [nearly=MS. 3 and B. M. MSS.]; 21. "Make hem to be rewarded with the sayntes in endelse bilises" [so MS. 3 and B.M. MSS.]; 25. "And we preissen thi name into the world: and into the world of world" [so MS. 3. The B. M. MSS. read, "And we preisen thi name into the world of world."]

The two Brit. Mus. Add. MSS. 10046 and 31044 agree closely with one another as well as with MS. 2 and closely with one another as well as with MS. 2 and MS. 3. The most remarkable phrases in those not already noticed are; verse 2, "every erthe worshighth;" 13, "and the boly goost counfortour;" 14, "Thou art kyng of glorie" (one "Christ," but 31044 reads "Thou Christ kyng of glorie," one "art").

(3.) Another interesting text is that of The Mysoure of oure Ladys, a devotional treatise in English written for the use of the nuns of Sion (a house founded in the reign of Henry v.). It is in the form of a commentary on the services to be said by the nuos, and is apparently quite independent of the preceding versions. The modern editor, Rev. J. H. Blunt (Early English Text Society, extra series, No. xix., 1873, p. ix.) inclines to the belief that the author was Dr. Thos. Gascoign, Warden of Merton, &c., in the middle of the 15th century. There is a certain beauty and freedom about the version of the Te Deum, (4.) The next text that has come to our notice is from the Prymer in Englyshe and in Latin sette out alonge; after the use of Sarum, Robert Valentin, 1504, where it is headed "The Songe of Austyn and Ambrose." This curious version is the first to read "We prayse the (oh God)," &c., as well as "Sabaothe" in v. 5, and "O Lord in the have I trusted." But its chief characteristic is peraphrase,

v. 5, and "O Lord in the have I trusted."

But its chief characteristic is paraphrase, e.g. verses 10, 11 run, "The boly congregacyon of faythfull throughe all the world magnyfy the. They knowledge the to be the father an lofinite malestye. They knowledge thy honorable sad very onely some. And the Holye Ghoste also to be a cumforter." Verse 16, "Thou (when thou shouldest take upon the our nature to delyver man) dydest not abhorre a virgynes wombe."
Verse 21 has the modern mistake, for the first time,
"Make them to be numbered with thy saints in log everlasting." Then follows the Prysser of 1535 (Three
"Make them to be numbered with thy saints in log everlasting." Then follows the Prysser of 1535 (Three Prissers of Henry VIII., Oxford, 1834, p. 82) which sgress generally with the preceding, but has some curious peculiarities of its own; e.g. verses 5, 6, "Holy art thou. Holy art thou. Holy art thou. Thou art the Lord God of houts. Heeven and earth are fulfilled with the glory of thy majesty; "r. 9, "The fair followship of martyrs praise thee." In v. 18 it agreengenerally with the preceding, but reads "the virgins," and proceda, "Thou hast opened the kingdom of heaven to the believers, death's dart overcome. . . Thou art believed come our judge." This version is probably presupposed in the two other Primers (of 1838 and 1643), printed by Dr. Burton in the same volume, pp. 337 and 486, where the first words only are given—in the first case with the title, The Song of Angustin and Ambrotz.
The praise of God, the Futher the Son used the Holy Obest.

(6.) The version of the last Primer of (5.) The version of the last Primer of Henry viii. 1546 (reprinted in faceimile at the end of the 17th or beginning of the 18th century), and of the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. (1549) is practically the same as that in our Prayer-books. We have seen that the later versions gradually approach to the present, which is not a new one but merely a revision, based apparently upon a collation or reminiscence of several existing forms, which may plausibly be ascribed to Cranmer. It cannot be said to be successful in point of accuracy, though it is beautiful in its smoothness and rhythm. It appears to be the first to introduce the inaccurate renderings "when thou didst open the kingdom of heaven to all believers," the last evidently merely for the sake of caphony; and it stereotypes the misrenderings "We praise thee, O God," and "make them to be numbered with thy saints to glory everlasting," the later, however, being a misreading, as we have seen, of somewhat earlier date. (See Notes on the Metrical Versions at the close of this article.)

5. Thomson prints a modern Swedish version beginning "O Gud! wi lofwe dig: O Herre! wi tacke dig." Verse 16 runs "Till människones forlosning togst du i Jungfru lifwe mandom," and v. 21 "Och gifwer dem den ewiga härligheten med din Helgom." Quotations from the Icelandic version are given below.

6. Russian. The Te Deum, though un-known in the Greek-speaking churches (which use the "Great Doxology," or Gloria in Ex-celsis in some form or other) is very popular in Russia. It is not sung at Mattins, but at what are called "molebni," which are short thanksgiving services connected with anniversaries, birthdays, &c. The "Great Doxology" is in these cases allowed as an alternative. It is always called the "Song of St. Ambrose," and appears to be translated almost word for word appears to be translated almost word for word from the Latin, very much in the manner of an interlinear gloss. As the MRs. in which it occurs (according to the testimony of Prof. Pokroffski, of the Academy of S. Alexander Nevski at St. Petersburg) appear not to be older than the 17th century, it is not unlikely that it is of comparatively modern introduction. Mr. W. J. Birkbeck, to whom this in formation is due, suggests that it was intro-duced by Peter Mogila, who was at first a uniat, and was educated at Rome and Paris, and who, as Metropolitan of Kieff (circa 1630) introduced many useful reforms and practices from the West, while he guarded against certain Roman errors in doctrine. The Te Deurs may be found on p. 220 of the Molitrostoff, or popular book of prayer for the City of St. Petersburg, Press of the holy Synod, 1886, and is headed, "A song of praise of St. Ambrose, Bishop of Milan." In verse 1 the accusative Bega ("God") answers to Deam. In the Terranetus the fuller Latin form is used instead of that of the Liturgies and the copula (sutj) = sunt would have been omitted in Slavonic except in a literal tr. In verse 16 the words mean "Thou for deliverance about to take upon Thee man didst not, &c." In verse 21 the words seem to represent "Dignare (cos) cum sanctis tuis in seterna gloria tua regnare," which is the only serious departure from the original. The last verse runs
"O Lord in thee have we trusted let us never be ashamed (postydineja)."

vii. Liturgical Use. 1. The ancient Liturvil. Liturgical Use. 1. The ancient Liturgical use has been touched upon in passing in noticing the earliest references to the hymn, in the monastic rules of Csessrius, Aurelian and Benedict. Palmer remarks that the usage prescribed by the first and second, who both appoint the hymn to be sung in the morning, is a kind of argument for their better acquaintance with the author's design than the rule of Benedict who ordered it to be sung at the nocturnal office on Sundays, i.e. on Saturday night (Orig. Lit. p. 228). From Sundays its use seems gradually to have extended to Saints' Days, and from the regular to the secular clergy.

Daniel, ii. p. 291, quotes Amalarius to shew that in Rome, in 631, it was not yet sung even on Sundays, "In terrogavisi cancrent per Dominicas noctes To Derm : Hesponsum est: Tantum in Natalitis pontificum Re Deuss canimus." On the other hand, the old Benedictine use made no exception to the singing of the hymn on all festivate throughout the year. Benedictines were accused in the xith century of raciting the hymn even in Advent or Lent, when the rast of the Church nually dropped it (Daniel, p. 291). Technically speaking, its ordinary task is as a reaccusory to the night (or third) lesson at it (Daviel, p. 291). Technically speaking, its ordinary task is as a responsory to the ninth (or third) lesson at the end of Matins and Just before Lands, but in the Recedictions use the responsory is said as well. "In the ancient English offices," says Palmer (Or. Lit. p. 31), "the matins (noctorns) terminated with the Rebens, and were immediately followed by lands (ancient matins)." As a general rule, it was said on all Sundays and Festivals; but in the Saruas Breakary it is noted that it is not to be said in Advent or Lent (from Septua-swings to Evaster) or a vigilla or generality in the Ember gesims to Easter), or on vigils, or generally in the Ember seasons. The Advent rubric is as follows: "Non dicatur To Douss per totum Adventum, de quocumque fit servitium; sed nonum Responsorium reincipiatur; et hoc flat in Dominicis et in festis ix, lectionum tantum, Non dicatur etiam per totum annum Te Beun landamur in vigilite, nec in Quatuor temporibus nisi in Vigilia Epipianiae quando in Dominica contigerit et præter-quam in quatuor temporibus ebdomades Penthecostes" (Procter and Wordsworth's Suram Brez. fasc. I., p. 30). The Septingesime rubric runs, "Ab hac die usque ad Pascha non dicatur Te Beam, sive de Temporali, sive de Pestis Sanatorum fit servitium: sed semper nonum Responsorium reincipletur: et hoo in Festis ix. Lectionum tantum. Non caim repetatur Responsorium in Commemorations Beates Mariss, use de Feste loci." In agreement with this, there are special notes for S. Andrew's Day (Nov. 30), and the Conception of B. V. M. (Dec. 3) that it is not to be said. For the Purification (Feb. 3), the note is "Si Dominica Septuagesima has die contigerit, totum servitium flat de Festo; sed sine Alleluya et Te Deunt.

The order as to saying the Te Deum in the Roman Breviary (Rubricae generales, xxxi.) is very similar to the Sarum order:-

Hymnes, Te Doum, diction in omnibus festis per amulin, tam trium quam novem Lectionum, & per corum Octavas, excepto festo esanctorum Innocentium, nist venerit in Domainica; dicitur tamen in class die must venerit in Dominica; dicitur tamen in cius die Octava. Dicitur etiam in omnibus Dominiche, a Pascha Resurrectionis inclusive, usque ad Adventum inclusive, et a Nativitate Domini inclusive, naque ad Septua-gesimam inclusive; in omnibus ferils tamporis Pas-chalis, scilicet a Dominica in Abissusque ad Ascen-sionem, excepta ferla il. Rogationum, in qua non dicitur. 2. Non dicitur autem in Dominicis Adventus, & a Septuagesima usque ad Dominicam Palmarum inclusive, paque in forlis extra tampas Paschale.

nsque in ferils extra tempus Paschale.

3. Cum dicitur, emittitur semper nonum, vel tertium Responsorium; & statim dicitur post ultimam Lec-

4. Cum non dicitur, sins loco ponitur nomini vel tertium Responsorium quo dicto statim inchoantur Landes. Similiter quando dicitur Te Doum, se Hymne Address. Similar quanto chetter is bound, so hydro-dicto statim inchoantur Landes, presergioum in mocte Nativitatis Domini: quia tunc dicitur Oratio, postes celebratur Missa, ut suo loco notatur. An a general rule we may say To Besse is sung at Matins only whenever the Glovia in ezcrisis is sung at

- 2. As to the method of recitation we have the following statements and directions:--
- (1) Daniel Says (p. 294, b) "Si recitatur officiam divinum in choro inchostur canticom a Celebrante vel a preside chori: prosequentur reliqui stando in plarinis celesits alternatin canentes. Ad primum versiculum denudantur capita, ad verba Sancius etc. et: Nos hornisti virginis uterum profunde inclinatur. Quum perventum eit ad ultimam cantici partem: Reergo questiventual set of withins a candot partent: The reg questions etc. genuficitum omnes usque ad finem."

(2) The rubric of the first Proper-book of Edward VI.
(1549) is as follows, at morning prayer: "After the first Lesson shall follow Te Deum landamus, in English, daily throughout the year, except in Lent, all the which time, in the place of To Deum shall be used Benedicite omnes Opera Dousini Bonino in English as followeth." Later prayer-books order the Te Deum daily, but permit the Benedicite as an alternative.

the Renaticite as an alternative.

(3) The To beam is sung exceptionally to thank God for any great blessing. In such a case the To Deam constitutes by itself a religious solemnity, or it is attached to a solemn celebration of the mass, and is sung at the 1 end of the office. The Roman Fontifical enumerates several occasions on which the To Deam ought to be sung, for example at the consecration of a bisiop, the coronation of a king, the consecration of a virgin. The Roman Carimonials adds the election of a Pope, the canonization of a saint, the publication of a treaty of peace, the conclusion of a treaty of alliance in favour of the Church. In Bayaria it is sung on the festival of the king and of the queen. In France it is used also on the festival of a sovereign, after confirmation, first Communion," &c. "The officiant vested in a cope and wearing a stole stands before the altar on which n than four wax lights burn, surrounded by his assistants. When they sing the verse Te ergo questioner all kneel, except when the holy sarrament is exposed. The colour is usually white, except when it follows a mass, when it is that of the day."

is that of the day."

(4) "After the conclusion of an alliance in favour of the Church the Roman Chrimonials gives the following: "a Pater Noater then V. Salvos fac servos two domine B Dens mens sperantes in e. V. Disalpa gentes que bella volunt. R Ut i-berentur dilectiful et confiteantur pominituo. V. Concede domine populo tuo ut sit et cor unum et anima una. H in observanta mandatorum torum. V. Mitte nobis domine auxilium de Sancto. H Et de Sion tuere nos. The office ends with the prayers Exclesia fue (oratio contra persecutores Ecclesiae) and the post-communion Deus auctor pacis of the voltre mass propace."

pacc.

(5) In the old English services the Te Deum was similarly used. It is a well-known feature in the Coronation Service of our kings and queens, though it does not appear in the oldest furns that have come down to us, the Bissa pro regious in the Pontifical of Abp. Expect (8th cent.) and the similar form in the Legivic Missal (Makell ii), pp. 74-81, Warren Legivic Missal, 230-232). In the service for the consecration of King Ethelred A.P. 978 (B. M. Cotton MS. Claud. A. iii.), it forms the first act after the procession enters the Church forms the first act after the procession enters the Church "Perveniens rex ad ecclesiam processnat se coram alture et hymnizetur. He Deum faudemus: to dominum Then follows the triple oath to keep the confitemur." Church in peace; to suppress robbers and iniquity; to command equity and mercy in all judgments. Some time or other after the Norman Conquest the place of the Te Deam was changed from the beginning to the latter part of the service. It is mentioned in this place latter part of the servics. It is mentioned in this place in the account of the coronation of King Richard II. 23 Jan. 13?7, i.e. after the coronation (teelf, followed by the investiture with globe and sceptre, the benediction and the kiss, and before the mass (Maskell, iii. p. xxxiii.). This is practically where it is found at present, though the arrangement of the parts has been somewhat altered (cf. T. Silver, The Coronation Service, &c. Oxford, 1931, p. 74; J. F. Russell, The Coronation Service, &c. op. 18, 20). It is referred to by Shakspeare at the coronation of Anne Bolegn (Hen. vur. act iv. s. 1). It is possible that the use at the coronation of Ethelred may have been in imitation of a continental custom, since the Televen is said to have been sung at the may have been in imitation of a continental custom, since the Te Denos is said to have been sung at the coronation of Louis I. (the Plous) by Pope Stephen IV. In 816 at Rheims, on his entry into the Church, and again at that of Charles the Buld in 869 at Metz. Louis also concluded the assembly of bishops at Tribur in 822 with a Te Bears. It is noticeable that Anniarius, who is quoted above, was sent by the same Emperor on a mission to Rome in 831.

In England it was regularly sung immediately after the election of a bishop. In the office for the enrinrolization of a bishop it accommands the reputal act. (Markell, Ill.)

of a bishop. In the effect of the entitle set of a bishop it accompanies the central act (Markell, ill. p. 288). It is also appointed at the reception of an archbishop's pail (ib. p. 294) and before he is actually vested in it (ib. p. 299).

(6) Other early fusiances of such occasional use are the translation of S. Germanus (740), the restoration of Pope Leo III. to his See by Charles the Great, and the restoration of Ebbo, Abp. of Rheims (Daniel, p. 291).

(7) The use of the hymn as a song of victory is referred to by Shakspeare, Hen. V. act iv. sc. 8 (taken from Holinshed):—

"Do we all holy rites; Let there be sung Non nobis, and To Down."

Handel's Dettingen Te Deum will also occur to every one.

Lastly the more than hazardons act of S. Bonaventura in travestying the Te Deum into a conticum Marianum may just be mentioned ("Te matrem Dei laudamus, te omnis terra veneratur, seterni patris sponsam"). It is, however, satisfactory to be informed that this had never been admitted into any public devotion, to the best of Daniel's knowledge [JOHN SARUM] (p. 293).

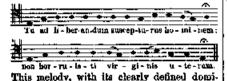

viii, Musical Settings.—One musical setting only of the Te Deum is to be found in the choro-liturgical books of the Western Church. Although slight differences appear in various dioceses, there are never more than mere local embellishments or variations, such as are constantly to be met with in local versions of the melody of the Proface, Pater Noster, and other invariable portions of the Latin services. Indeed, as Dom Pothier has pointed out in his Melodies Gregoriennes (p. 288), there is a close connection between these melodies and that of the Te Deum, as may be seen by comparing take a postion of another melody belonging to the same class:

quotation from Te Deum has been purposely taken from another version of the melody to show the nature of the variations between different dioceses. The former is undoubtedly the older of the two, but the latter (Sorum) is a natural development of the original melody, with the addition of an intonation ofter the pause in the middle of the verse, analogous to that which appears above on the words Per omnia or Te Deum. This melody is used, with only such variations as the changes in the number of syllables or in the position of the accents necessitate, till the end of the 18th yerse: and its obvious connection with the Preface music would seem to indicate its very early appearance in the Western offices: for apart from the early date which the absence of a fixed dominant suggests, the melody appears in portions of the Ambrosian and Mozarabic uses, and is therefore clearly Pre-Gregorian. At verse 14 Tu rex glorie, Christe a fresh melody is introduced, which closely resembles the ordinary Psalm tone of the fourth Gregorian mode in a somewhat ornate form, of which the following verse containing a full complement of syllables is a specimen:

nant, is certainly Gregorian rather than Ambrosian in character, and would seem to belong to a distinctly later period than the first. It is continued down to the end of verse 20; but for verse 21 we have the following setting:

the music of which is in the form of an antiphen of the fourth mode, and stands in the same relation to the previous seven verses as an ordinary antiphen might to its Psalm, bringing it to a complete close with a regular cadence ending upon the final of the mode. After this, although no fresh inclody is introduced, the music fully bears out the conclusion to which a comparison of the various texts leads. First come two verses (22 and 23) set to the antiphon melody, and then five verses (24-28) to the Psalm tone, when the whole is brought to a fit close once more by the antiphon form:

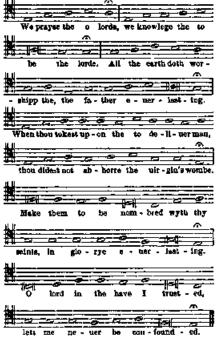

The placing together of the three sutiphon forms (verses 21-23) is musically as well as liturgically extremely unnatural, and points to some different earlier arrangement in which these verses were either used separately, or else divided by some verses of the Palm melody, as indeed No. 2 of the Latin versions suggests, where verses 24 and 25 come between 21 and 22. At the end of the last verse there appears in almost all copies, both ancient and modern, a long string of notes to be sung upon the last syllable, known as the pneuma;

This is not part of the original melody, but is one of a set of eight similar passages composed by Guido of Arezzo, one for each mode, and which were much used during the middle ages at the end of the principal antiphons, in order to give greater dignity to the services on festivals, much in the same way as a short voluntary is sometimes played at the present day on the organ between (e.g.) the Te Denm and the second Lesson. Their use has now almost entirely ceased, except in the case of the Te Denm, which being used on Festivals alone, and therefore always with the pneamed, was never written without it, and so has retained it in nearly every diocese of the Roman Church.

The above examples have been taken (with one exception) from the Saruss version, not only because it represents an extremely pure form of the melody, but also for the sake of comparing it with its adaptation by Merbucks to the English text. Merbecke's setting of the First English Prayer Book was drawn up under the direction of Cranmer, and published in 1550. In it the Archbishop's aim (as stated in his well-known letter to Henry vinquoted by Strype), to avoid the use of more than one note to each syllable in the adaptation of the ancient melodies to English words, is fully carried out; and in some instances it will be seen from the following examples, that he was thus unconsciously going back to earlier forms. The following passages give Merbocke's version of the verses aiready quoted:

It seems that the ancient melody was known to the musicians of some of the Lutheran Churches down to at least the middle of the 18th century. We come across fragments of it amongst Burtehude's Vorspiele, and also in those of Bach. In Iceland a remarkable metrical version was retained down to the beginning of this century; it disappeared when (A.D. 1801) the independent Icelandic service books were modified in order to assimilate them to the more modern Danish forms. The following extracts from the 19th edition of the Icelandic Graduale, printed at Holar in A.D. 1779, will show how the ancient melody was still made use of:

This version was sung by the sides of the choir alternately, each side taking half a verse. In the presum, here set to the word Amen, both choirs united.

[W. J. B.]

The metrical trs. of the Ts Deum into English are in almost every instance the prose tr. in the Book of Common Prayer turned into metre. That tr. beginning "We praise Thee, O God" was given in the Book of Common Prayer in 1549. (See § vi. 3. (4)). The translator is unknown. The metrical renderings therefrom in English include:—

1. O God, we praise Thee, and we own. Dr. J. Paterick. This was given in his Ps. of David in Metre, &c. 1679, in 12 st. of 4), and began :--

"O God, we praise Thee, and we own, Three to be Lord and King alone,"

This version of the To Deum has had a somewhat strange and eventful history, as the following facts will show:—

(1.) In Tate & Brady's Supplement to the New Version, circa 1700 (2nd ed. 1702), it was given in a rewritten form as:—

"O God, we praise Thee, and confess That Thou the only Lord," and this remained in C. U. in the Church of England until the New Version was superseded by the modern hymn books. In an abbreviated form it is still in use amongst Nonconformists in G. Britain and America, as in the New Cong. 1859, the Hys. & Songs of Praise, N. Y., 1874, and others.

(2.) In the English Moravian II. Bk. pub. in London in 1754, No. 209, Dr. Paterick's tr. was given in an expanded form, the additions being trs. of portions of Luther's German rendering "Herr Gott, dich loben wir!" as below. It begins:—

"O God, we praise Thee, and we own Thee, the Almighty Lord alone."

This was in 5 st. of 12 l. and chorus of 4 l. In the 1789 and later eds. (1849, No. 668) it begins "Lord God, Thy praise we sing, To Thee." From this the following hymns have been manipulated:—

(a.) In the American Reformed Dutch Church H. Bk. 1789, is a hymn beginning :--

"O Christ, Thou giorious King t we own Thee to be God's eternal Son," which is taken from the Moravian H. Bk. 1754, with several lines rewritten. This is No. 193 in the American Reformed Dutch Hys. of the Church, N. Y. 1869.

(b.) In the American Ref. Dutch Ch. H. Bk. of 1792, there is another hymn from the same source which begins:-

"Aimighty God, we praise and own Thee our Creator King alone."

Several of the lines are altered, the whole being from the first part of the Te Deum. This in No. 47 of the American Ref. Dutch Hys. of the Church, N. Y. 1869.

(c.) In the 1815 Appendix to T. Cotterill's Sel. of Ps. & Hys. pub. in Staffordshire, No. 214 begins:-

"Thee we adore, eternal Lord! We praise Thy name with one accord."

This has no connection with the version in the Moravian H. Bk. of 1754. It embraces at. i.-ix. of the Prayer Book version of the To Deum, and was probably by Cotterill. When Cotterill issued the 8th ed. of his Sci. in 1819 he was Incumbent of St. Paul's, Sheffield. In the preparation of this edition he was assisted by the Moravian poet, James Montgomery, at whose press it was printed. In this edition "Thee we adore, eternal Lord" is given as No. 25. This was followed by two hymns based on the re-maining stanzas of the To Deum as follows:—

No. 26. "Thee, King of glory, Christ we own The Father's everlasting Son."

No. 27. "The Church on earth confesseth Thee, The Father, throned in majesty."

These two hymns are adapted from the tr. in the Moravian H. Bk. 1754, and were probably moulded into their present form by Montgomery.

- (d.) In the American Hys. & Songs of Proise. N. Y. 1874, No. 5, beginning "Thee we adore, cternal Lord," is a cente from the above three hymns in Cotterill's Sel. st. i.-ili. being from No. 25; st. iv. from No. 26; and st. v. from No. 27.
- (c.) In the Leeds H. Bk. 1853, No. 207, and some other collections, a cento in 5 st. of 4 l. is taken direct from the Moravian H. Bk. 1754, and, with slight alterations, is given as :-"Both heaven and earth do worship Thee." It forms a most successful hymn.
- (f.) In James Montgomery's Original Hys. 1853, No. 13, there is a rendering of the Te Down in 50 lines. Of these 11 are word for word from the Morarian H. Bk. 1754; 9 are partly therefrom; and the rest are only the Moravian tr. rewritten. From this Moravian-Montgomery text (which begins as in the Mora-vian H. Bh.) the cento in C. U. in America:— "Hail King of Glory! Christ the Lord," is
- 2. We sing to Thee, Than Son of God. J. Connick. Pub. in his Sacred Hys. for the Use of Religious Societies, &c. Pt. i. 1743, No. 2. This has been abbreviated and altered by various hands, beginning with Whitefield's Coll. 1753; then Toplady, in his Ps. & Hys. 1776; J. Conder, in the Congregational H. Bk. 1836; and others. The text now commonly in use is that of the Cong. H. Bk. 1836. It is in the Leeds H. Bk. 1853, &c.
- 3. Infinite God, to Thee we raise. C. Wesley. Appeared in Hys. for those that seek and those Appeared in Hys. for those that seek and those A. C. in Almond's Hys. for Occasional the is that have Redemption, 1747, No. xiii. in 14 st. of Parish Churck of St. Peter in Follingham. 1819.

- 6 1. In the 1830 Supplement to the Wes. H. Bk. it was broken up into three hymns, and given as Nos. 564-5-6, as follows:—1. "Infinite God, to Thee we raise" (sts. i.-v.). 2. "Messiah, joy of every heart" (sts. vi.-xi.). 3. * Saviour, we now 'rejoice in hope" (sts. xli.-xiv.). The first line of No. 3 is altered from the original to adapt it as the opening of a separate hymn. There are also other alterations in this and No. 2 as above. (Orig. text in P. Works, 1869-72, vol. iv. pp. 224-27.) The hymn in some American collections "To Thee to land in songs of praise," is a cento from this version of the Te Deum.
- 4. How can we adore, Or worthily praise ! W. Hammond. Pub. in his Ps. & Hys. &c. 1745, p. 193, in 17 st. of 8 l. An abbreviated form of this rendering of the To Down is in Hatfield's Church H. Ba, N. Y. 1872.
- 5. We praise, we worship Thee, 0 God. This anonymous version of the first part of the Te Deum is traced to P. Gell's Ps. & Hys. 1815. It is also in W. Urwick's Coll. of Hymns, Dublin, 1829; the Leeds H. Bk. 1853, the New Cong. 1859, the Prim. Meth. Hymnal, 1887, and others. In some books it is given in 5 sts. and in others in 6 sts. The doxology is later than Gell's Coll.
- 6. God eternal, Lord of all. J. E. Millard. Written for and first pub. in the Rev. T. F. Smith's Devout Charister, 1848, p. 106, in 8 st. of 4 l. and entitled "Hymn for Charisters." It was subsequently republished in Hys. and Introits, Lond. Masters, 1852; Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise (original text), 1862, and others. An abbreviated and altered form of the text was given in H. A. & M. 1861, as:—"God eternal, Mighty King," and this has been repeated in several collections in G. Britain and America.
- 7. Haly God, we praise Thy Mame, Lord of all, &c. C. A. Walworth. This is dated 1853 in the American Evangelical Hymmal (Hall and Lasar), Barnes & Co., N. Y. 1880.
- 3. Then ext the everlasting Son. This anony mous rendering of the latter part of the To Deum appeared in the American Subbuth H. Bk. 1858, No. 335, in 3 st. of 6 L and has been repeated in a few American collections.
- 2. Thee God we praise, Thee Lord confess, W. Robertson. This rendering of the first part of the Te Deum was given in the Hys. for Public Worship, 1861, and the Scottish Hymnal, 1870.
- 10. Thee, Thee, we praise, 0 God, and own. E. F. Hatfield. Written in 1871 for, and pub. in 1872 in his Church H. Bk. in 6 st. of 4 !.

Other translations are :-

au

1. We praye thee God, we knowledge thes. Version. 1559.
2. We praise thee, O God, with one accord. Barton. 1659.

3. O God, we preise Thy Holy Name. W. Barton,

1639. We praise thee, God, we acknowledge thes. W. Barton. 1639. 6. We Barton

5. We give thee praise, O God, with one accord. W. grion, 1639.

5. Great God, we praise thee, three our Lord. Miles

Smyth. 1668.
7. Thee Sovereign God! our grateful accents praise.
J. Dryden. 1761. Repeated in The Christian's Mag. 1760. 8. Thee Sov'reign God! our anthems praise, Woodd. Circa 1889.

9. We praise Thee God, before Thee fall. By "M.

16. Before Thee, Lord of all, we bow. W. W. Hull. 1852.
11. Thee God! we praise, and Thee our Lord confess.

D. French. 1839. 12. We praise Thee as our God. W. W. Hull. 1852.

The above four renderings of the Te Deum by W. Barton were written at the request of Richard Baxter (see p. 118, ii.). J. R. Beste has a kind of blank verse rendering in his Church Hys. 1849, as :- "Thee we praise, O God; we own Thee our Lord Almighty." W. H. Jewitt (p. 603, ii.) pub. in 1874, twenty-three hymns on the various clauses of the Te Deum of which four have come into C. U. [J. J.]

Many German versions of the Te Deum have been made at various periods. Of these one is noted on p. 615, i., "Herr grosser Gott." Another is:-

Herr Gott, dich loben wir! Herr Gott, wir danken dir. This is a free version, by Martin Luther, in 52 lines arranged for antiphonal singing. It apparently was first pub. in Klug's G. B. Wittenberg, 1529, and from this passed into the Rostock G. B. (Low German) of 1531. Wackernagel, iii. p. 19, prints it from the Geistliche Lieder, Wittenberg, 1531. It is also in Schiroke's ed. of Luther's Geistliche Lieder, 1854, p. 1, and in the Unv. L. S. 1851, No. 189. The tr. in C. U. is:—

Thee Lord, our God, we praise. This is No. 356 in the Ohio Lath. Hyl. 1880, marked as a cento.

Other tru, are :-

(1) "Oh, Lord our God! Thy name we praise." By Miss Fry, 1845, p. 83. (2) "Lord God, to Thee we caise." By J. Inderson, 1846, p. 83. In his ed. 1847, p. 94, altered to "Lord God of bests, to Thee we raise." (3) "We praise Thee, God.—Thy name we praise." By Br. J. Hand, 1853, p. 165. (4) "Lord God, Thy praise we sing, Lord God. By R. Massie, 1854, p. 86, repeated by Br. Bacon, 1884, p. 85. (5) "Lord God, Three praise do we." By Dr. G. Macdonald in the Sanday Magazine, 1887, p. 841, repeated, altered, in his Exceller, 1876. 1867, p. 841, repeated, altered, in his Exotics, 187, p. 112. [J. M.]

Te Deum Patrem colimus. [Grace after Meat.] The carliest text known is in a folio volume of 17th cent. Ms. music in the Library of Christ Church, Oxford (H. i. 21). It is given there with the following note (kindly communicated by the Rev. T. Vere Bayne, the librarian):—

"This bymn is song every day, in Magdaien College Hall, Oxon, Diuner and Supper; throught the years for the after Grace, by the Chaplains, Clarks, and Choristers there. Composed by Enjamin Rogers, Doc-tor of Musique of the University of Oxon, 1665."

The us. is in the autograph of Dr. Rogers, but whether he was the author of words as well as music does not clearly appear. The hymn is still sung every year on the first of May by the cheristers from the top of Magdalen Collego Tower, and is annually sung as the after grace in Magdalen College Hall on Gaudy Day, viz. St. Mary Magdalen's Day. The text is:-

- " Te Deum Patrem collmus, Te laudibus presegulmur: Qui corpus cino reficis, Coelesti mentem gratia.
- <sup>4</sup> Te adoramus, o Jesu, Te fill unigenite, Te qui non dedignatus es Subire claustra virginis.
- "Actus in crucem, factus es Irate Deo Victima: Per te, Salvator unics, Vitae spes nobis redilt.

" Tibi, Æterne Spiritus, Cujus afflatu peperit Infantem Deum Maria. Acternum benedicimus. " Triune Dens hominum Salutis auctor optime.

Immensum hoe mysterium Ovante lingua cantinus.

Dr. Rogers's music is given in the Sarum Hymnal, 1868, No. 181 (a tr. of the Latin as above), and is dated in the Index, 1660. Tr. 08 :---

I. Father of all! To Thee we raise, Palmer, in his Short Poems & Hys., the latter mostly Translations, 1845, p. 21, and headed "Hymn of Thanksgiving after Dinner. Sung in Latin in the Refectory of St. Mary Magdalene College, in the University of Oxford." In 1850 it was included in Dr. Oldknow's Hys. for the Service of the Church, and later in several other collections, as the Surum (where it is attributed to J. Chaudler in error), and others. In the Hymnary, 1872, it is altered to "To Thee, O Father, here we raise."

Other tra. are :-

Thee, mighty Father, we adore. Bp. G. Horne, in his Memoirs, by William Jones, 1795, p. 233.
 Almighty Father, just and good. J. Chandler,

[J. M.]

Te laeta mundi Conditor. C. Coffin. [Septuagesima.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1786, and in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, p. 44, the same year. It is also in later French Brets. It is the hymn at Vespers on the Saturdays before Septuagesima, Sexagesima, and Quadragesima. The text is in J. Chandler's Hys. ofthe Primitive Church, 1837, No. 56; Card. Newman's Hymni Eccleriae, 1838 and 1865; and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867. Tr. as:-

- I. Thou great Creator, art possessed. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 62, and again in his Hys. of the Church, 1841, No. 33. Repeated without the doxology in the Sarum Hymnal, 1868, &c.
- 2. Thou, Creator, art possessed. By R. Campbell, in his St. Andrews Hys. and Authems, 1850, p. 60, and the Hymnal for St. John the Evangelist, Aberdeen, 1870.
- 8. Thee, Maker of the world, doth rest. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-1855, Septuages. 9, and Rice's Sci. from the same, 1870, No. 32.
- 4. Maker of earth, to Thee alone. By J. M. Neale, in an article in the Christian Remembrancer. It was repeated in Murray's Hymnal, 1852, the People's H., 1867, and other col-
- Creator of the world, to Thee. This tr. was given in II. A. & M., 1861, and repeated in 1875. In the lodex to the latter cd. it is stated to be by the "Compilers: based upon older translations from Latin." These "older translations" were specially the two by Chandler and Neale noted above. This text was repeated in Pott's Hymns, &c., 1861, the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, &c., sometimes with, and at other times without the doxology. In the Hymnary, 1872, the text, slightly changed, begins, "Creator of the earth to Thee."

Other tra. are:—
1. Thou, Lord, in endless rest. I. Williams. 1835.
2. Creator, Majesty divine. J. D. Chambers. 1857.

[J. J.] 1839.

Te lucis ante terminum. [Evening.] This has sometimes been ascribed to St. Ambrose; but it is not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors, by Biraghi, or even by Thomasius. Mone, i. p. 372, cites it as in a ms. of the 8th cent. at Darmstadt. Among the British Museum ness it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Yesp. D. xii. f. 10 b; Jul. A. vi. f. 23; Harl. 2961 f. 220 b); in an 11th cent. Mozarabio Breviary (Add. 30848 f. 66 b), &c. It is in a Ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 231); in a ms. of the lith cent. at St. Gall, No. 387; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch. (Surfees Society), 1851, it is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii,  $32 ext{ f. } 4 ext{ b}$ ). It is included in the Roman (Venice, 1478, and, with slight differences in the text, in the revision of 1632), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries, generally as a hymn at Compline. The text is also in Daniel i. No. 43 (the older, and the Rom. Brev. texts), Wackernagel, i. No. 9, the Hymnarium Sarisb., 1851, p. 8; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, and L. C. Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867 (Rom. Brev.). [J. M.]

Translations in C. U.:-

1. Now that the daylight dies away, By all Thy grace and leve. By Card. Newman, from the Rom. Brev., in the Tracts for the Times, 1836, No. 75, p. 84, his Verses on Religious Subjects, 1853, p. 105, and his Verses on Various Occasions, 1868, p. 252. In O. Shipley's Annus Sunctus, 1884, and others.

3. Ere the waning light decay. By Bp. R. Mant, from the Rom, Brev., in his Ancient Hymne, &c., 1837, p. 28; ed. 1871, p. 53. This tr. is in a large number of hymn-books, including the Parish H. Bh., 1868-1875; Thring's

Coll., 1882; and others

8, Thee before the close of day. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, 1848, p. 18, and the Hyl. for the Use of St. John the Evangelist, Aberdeen, 1870.

4. Now with the fast departing light. By E. Caswall, from the Rom. Brev., in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 37, and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 22. This ir. is in several Roman Catholic collections for Missions and Schools.

5. Before the ending of the day. By R. Campbell, from the Rom. Brov., in his St. Andrews Hys. and Anthems, 1850, p. 27.

6. Before the ending of the day. By J. M. Neale, in the H. Noted, 1852, No. 9. In this tr. Dr. Neale took the opening lines from R. Campbell, as above, as the first stanza from each will show :-

(hmplett, " Before the ending of the day Creator of the world, we pray, Beneath Thy kind protection take And shield us for Thy mercy's sake." 1850.

" Before the ending of the day Creator of the world, we pray that with Thy would facour, Thou Wouldst be our Guard and Keeper wow. Neals,

The popular form of the hymn under these opening lines is that in H. A. & M., 1861 and 1875, st. i. of which reads :-

Compilers "Before the ending of the day, H. A. & M. Creator of the world, we brave Creator of the world, we pray That Thou with wonted love totaldit keep 1861. Thy speich around us while we sleep.

This tr. which is by the Compilers of H. A.

& M., based upon Ncale, has passed into several collections, but usually with slight alterations, as Pott's Hymns, &c., 1861; the Sarum Hyl., 1868; the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871; the Hymnary, 1872, and others.

7. Father, at the close of day. By G. Rorison, from the Rom. Brev., in his Hys. and Anthems, 1851, No. 6.

8. Now that the daylight dies away. By W. J. Blew, from the Sarum Brev., in his Church Hy. & Tune Bh., 1852-55, and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 100.

9. To Thee before the close of day, Creater of the world, &c. By J. D. Chambers, in his Positor, &c., 1852, p. 356, and his Lauda Syon, 1857, and the People's H., 1867,

10. Ere darkling wanes the day. By Arch-bishop Bonson, from the Rom. Brev. Written for and first pub. in the Wellington College H. Bk., 1860, and appointed for Tuesday evening in Summer.

11. Before the waning light decay. This cente was given in Kennedy, 1863, No. 1451, and is thus composed:—st. i., ii., Bp. Mant's fr. as above altered; st. iii., from C. Wesley's "Forth in Thy name, O Lord, I go," st. v. (p. 882, ii.); st. iv. probably by Dr. Kennedy; st. v., devolegy.

12. As now departs the light of day. This is No. 15 in T. Darling's Hys. for the Ch. of England, 1887. In the Index it is said to be by "J. Mason Neale." It is really the H. A. & M. version from Campbell and Neale as above, with alterations by Mr. Darling.

Translations not in C. U. :-

Before the lightsome day expyre. Primer. 1529.
 Maker of all, we Thee intreats. Primer. 1605.
 Before the closing of the day, Creator, Thee, &c.

4. O God, before the close of day. Primer. 1706. 5. To Thee, before the close of day, Creator of all ings. Evening Office. 1148. 6. Ere yet the shades o'erwhelm the light. D. French. thiage.

1839.
7. The evening pales; the dying day grows wan.
T. Doubleday's Hymnorium Anglicanum. 1844.
8. Thee, before the daylight dies. Bp. J. Williams.

1845. 9. Before the closing of the day. H. N. Ozenham.

1854.

10. Ere now the daylight fades away. J. W. Henett.

11. Creator, ere the fall of day. F. Trappet. 1865.
12. Creator of the sarth and sea. G. Moultrie, in his Hys. & Lyrics. 1867.

13. Before the waning of the light. J. Wallace. 1874, [J. J.]

Te matrem Dei laudamus, te omnis terra veneratur. St. Bonaventura (?). [B. P. M.] This travesty of the "Te Deum laudamus," referred to in the previous article thereon as the production of St. Bonaventura (which is open to question), is known to us in two forms. The first form is in Daniel, it. p. 293; and the second in Mone, ii. p. 229, where it is given from two MSS. of the 14th century, and begins, "To matrem laudamus, to virginem confitemur." Mone's text is tr. by Mrs. Charles in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, &c., 1858, p. 210, as, "We praise thee, O Mother, we acknowledge thee to be the Virgin."

Te Redemptoris Dominique nostri. [B, V. M.] This is the hymn at Lauds on the festival of the B. V. M. under the title of "Help of Christians." This office has been added to the Roman Breviary since 1740, and is now said as a Greater Double on May 24. The hymu is in the Roman Breviary, Bologna, 1827, Pars Verna Supplement, p. 339, in 7 st., and is repeated in later eds. of the Breviary and in Daniel iv. p. 308. Tr. as:—

Mother of our Lord and Saviour. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholico, 1849, p. 152, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 83. Repeated in few Roman Catholic hymn-books for Missions and Schools.

Another tr. is :-

Mother of our Redeemer and our Lord. J. Wallace. [J. M.]

Teach me, my God and King. G. Herbert. [Duty.] This hymn is found in modern hymn-books in two forms, the first as written by Herbert, and the second as altered by J. Wesley. Herbert's text was printed in his Temple, 1633, p. 178, under the title "The Elixir"; and J. Wesley's in his Coll. of Paulone & Hymns, 1738. The two texts are:—

By G. Herbert, 1633.
"Teach me, my God and King,
In all things Thee to sea;
And what I do in anything,

To do it as for Thee.

Mot radely as a beast,
To run into an action;
But still to make Thee
preposess
And give it his perfection.

"A man that looks on glass, On it may stay his eye, Or, if he pleaseth, through it pass, And then the heav'n espy.

"All may of Thee partake; Nothing can be so mean Which with his tincture (for Thy sake), (a) Will not grow bright and clean." A servant with this

"A servant with this clause
Makes drudgery divine;
Who sweeps a room as for Thy laws
Makes that and th' action five.
"This is the famous stone

That turneth all to gold; For that which God doth touch and own Cannot for less be told."

By J. Wesley, 1728.

"Teach me, my God and King.
In all things Thee to see;
And what I do in anything
To do it as for Thee.

"To corn the sense's sway,
While still to Thee I

temil :

In all I do be Thou the Way:
In all be Thou the End.
"A man that looks on glass,
On that may for his eve:

eye; Or mnopposed may through it pass And heaven behind descry.

"All may of Thee partake; Nothing so mean can be, (b) But draws, when acted for Thy sake, Oreatness and worth from Thee.

"If done to obey Thy laws, Even service tabour shines; Hallow'd all toil, if this the cause (c) The meanest work divice.

"Tils is the long-sought stone (d) That all converts to gold; gold: For that which God for His doth own Cannot for less be told."

In modern hymn-books, as in Mercer and others, J. Wesley's text, with the omission of the last stanza, is usually followed. We must note that in Herbert's text the line (a) reads in the 7th ed. "Which with this tincture for Thy sake," and that in later editions of J. Wesley's Cotl. of Ps. & Hys. the following changes are also made:—

(b) "Nothing so small can be."
(c) "Hallow'd is toll, if this the cause."
(d) "The clizit this the stone."

This rugged, but beautiful hymn is well adapted in its original form for private use.

J. J.]

Teacher of hearts, 'tis Thine alone. | Moissiacensis, 1888, from a 10th cent. Ms. The

C. Wesley. [Ordination.] Printed from the Wesley MSS. in the P. Works, 1868-72, vol. xii. p. 140, in 2 st. of 8 l. The opening stanza reads:—

"Teacher of hearts, 'tis Thine alone
Thine officers to ordain,
Point out Thy instruments, unknown
To undiscerning men;
Our apostolic guides apprize
Of Thine unseen decree,
And stir them up to recognize
The men design'd by Thee,"

In the 1875 ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., No. 871, Il. 5, 6, read:—

"The partors of Thy Church apprize
Of Thine unseen decree;"

and this reading was repeated in the Primitive Methodist Hymnal, 1887. By this change Charles Wesley's well-known convictions respecting Holy Orders are completely suppressed.

[J. J.]

Tell it out among the heathen that the Lord is King. Frances R. Havergal. [Missions.] Written at Winterdyne, April 19, 1872, and first pub. in Evening Hours, 1872, and subsequently in her Under the Surface, 1874. Life Mosaio, 1879, &c. The HAV. MSS. tell us that it tell us that it

"was written at Winterdyne, when unable to go to church one snowy morning. She asked for her PrayerBook (in bed), always liking to follow the services of the day. On Mr. Shaw's return from church, he heard her touch on the piano. 'Why, Frances, I thought you were upetains?' 'Yes; but I had my Prayer Book, and in the Psalms for to-day I read, 'Tell it out among the heathen that the Lord is King.' I thought, 'What a splendid first line!' and then words and music came rushing in to me. There it's all written out. With corperplate nestness she had rapidly written on the words, music and harmonies complete."

The words and music and services the Paylone

The words and music are issued by Parlane of Paisley as a leaflet. Both are also in the musical ed. of Snepp's Songe of G. & G., 1880. The hymn is also repeated in other collections.

Telluris ingens Conditor. St. Gregory the Great? [Tuesday. Evening.] Mone, No. 274 and i. p. 372, gives this as probably by St. Gregory (it is not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors), and cites it as in a ms. of the 8th cent. at Trier, one of the 9th cent. also at Trier, &c. Daniel, i. No. 51, gives it as a hymn On the Work of the Third Day [of the Creation]; and at iv. p. 50, cites it as in a Bheinau Ms. of the 10th cent. and ranks it as a hymn of the 7th or 8th cent. Among the British Museum Mss. it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 16 5; Jul. A. vi. f. 26; Harl. 2961 f. 222 b), in an 11th cent. Morarabic Breviary (Add. 30848 f. 73), &c. It is in a ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 234); in a ms. of the 11th cent. (No. 20), and three mss. of the 11th cent. (No. 387, 413, 414), at St. Gall; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. Ms. at Durham (B. iii. 32 f. 6 b). In the revised Roman Brev. 1632 it begins "Telluris almo Conditor." The original form is included in the older Homan (Venice, 1478), Sarum, York, Aberdeen and other Breviaries, as a hymn at Vespers on Tuesday. Also in Wackernagel, i. No. 91, the Hymnarium Earieb, 1851, and G. M. Dreves's Hymnarium Earieb, 1858, from a 10th cent. Ms. The

Roman Breviary text is in recent eds. of that | Breviery, in Daniel i. No. 51, and Card. Newman's Hymni Eccles., 1838 and 1865. [J. M.]

Both forms of this hymn have been tr. into English and are in C. U. The variations in the Latin text are very elight, and are:-

St. 1, U. "Telluris ingene conditor, 1, 2. Mundi solum qui srusua." St. lv. l. 4. "Et mortie actum nesciat." " Telluris alms conditor, Mundi solum qui separana." St. iv. ). 4. "Et mortis ictum nescial."

Translations in C. U. :-

1. Alt-bountiful Orestor, Who. By Card. Newman, from the Rom. Brev., in his Verses on Religious Subjects, 1853, p. 96, and again in his Verses on Various Occasions, 1868, p. 243. It is repeated in the Marquess of Bute's Roman Breviary into English, 1879. It was partly rewritten by W. J. Blew, and given in his Charch Hy. & Time Bh., 1852-55, as "Almighty Builder of the earth." This form of the text is in Rice's Sel. from Blew, 1870, No. 26.

2. O bountoons France of the globe. E. Caswall, from the Rom. Brev., in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 21, and again in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 13. It is in several collections, including the Hymnary, 1872, and others.

3. Creator, great and good. By W. J. Copeland, from the Rom. Bren, in his Hys. for the Week, 1848, p. 28, the Hyl. for the Use of St. John the Evangelist, Aberdsen, 1870, and others.

4. Thou Framer of this earthly sphere. By J. D. Chambers, in his Landa Syon, 1857, the People's H., 1867, &c.

5. Earth's mighty Maker, Whose command. Contributed to the enlarged ed. of the H. Noted, 1854, by " a friend " of Dr. Neele's. It is in the Hymner, 1882.

Translations not in C. U. :-

O mightie Maker of the Land. Princer. 1699.
 Great Maker of man's sarthlis Realme. Primer.

- 3. Most bright Creator of the Land. Printer. 1685.
  4. O God, Who when at nature's birth. Primer, 1706 and 1782. In C. Shipley's Annus Sunctus, 1884.
  5. All bounteous Framer of the earth. Sp. N. Mont.

1837.
6. Eternal Architect sublims. T. Doubleday's Hymnesus Aspiconsum. 1844.
7. Greator of the Universe. A. J. B. Hope. 1844.
8. Greator eternal, Who fram'd the earth. Bp. J.
Williams. 1845.
9. Great Creator, wise and good. R. Cumpbell. 1850.
10. Almighty Foundar of the Worlds. J. D. Chambers, in his Paulier, 1852, p. 381.
11. O Biest Creator of the earth. J. Wallace. 1874.
12. Thou mighty Maker of earth's frams. S. W. Duffield, in his Latte Hy. Writers, &c. 1889. [J. J.]

Tellus ac aethra jubilant. [Passionside.] A hymn for Manndy Thursday, on the Last Supper and the washing of the disciples' feet. It is found in two mas, of the 11th cent in the British Museum (Add. 29768 f. 37 b; Vesp. D. xii. f. 67); and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch., 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. ws. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 23b). The printed text is also in Daniel i. No. 208, with notes at ii. p. 383, iii. p. 286, iv. p. 70. (Daniel quotes two sess. as of the 10th cent. but does not seem to have seen either); Mone, No. 79, and Bässler, No. 98. Tr. by J. D. Chambers in his Pealter, &a., 1852, p. 212, and his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 152, and repeated in Skinner's Daily Ser-cice Hyl., 1864, as "Let earth and skies rejoicing sing." [J. M.]

Tellus tot annos quid tegis. Jean Baptiste de Santeliil. [Invention of Holy Cross.] Pub. in his Hymni Socri et Novi, 1689, p. 25 (ed. 1698, p. 90), and again in the Paris Brev., 1786, and later French Brevs., as the hymn for first Vespers at the Fesst of the Holy Cross. Hymn No. 249 in the People's H., 1867; "Wherefore, O earth, while years flow by," is a tr. by "S. M." [J. J.]

The Tem-Temperance Hymnody. perance movement has produced abundant stores of verse, consisting of hymns, odes, ballada, and compositions descriptive, imaginative, humorous, pathetic, satirical, and elegise. America has furnished much of this material, but its principal sources have been Scotch and English. The department here treated, Hymnody, may be considered as to its rise and progress, with brief notices of some of its chief contributions and contributors. The Temperance Reform, which began in America early in 1826, took root in Ireland and Scotland in the autumn of 1829, and in England carly in 1830. The first societies, founded on the basis of abstinence from distilled spirits only, do not appear to have made use of any special hymns bearing upon the Temperance question. In a few years they took the position of abstinence from all intoxicating liquors; and in 1836 a collection of Temperance Hymns and Songs was issued from the office of the Temperance Advocate at Preston, a town which had been for some years the chief centre of total abstinence propagandism. Before the middle of 1887, the Rev. F. Beardeall, of Manchester, brought out the first general Temperance Hymn Book, containing nearly 200 hymns, which the editor had culled from temperance periodicals. American and British. In a second edition the number of hymns was increased to 226, and afterwards to 255. Subsequently appeared the Hymn Book of the New British and Foreign Temperance Society, N. D.: Temperance Hymns and Songa, edited by J. W. Green, N. D. (enlarged in 1853); and the Scottish Temperance League Hymn Book, N. D. (edited by the Rev. F. C. Wilson). Collections were also issued by Rev. R. G. Mason, and by others under the papers of Gwyther Kendel. Not under the names of Gwyther Kendal, Not-tingham, Leicester, and Bristol. The demands of the Juvenile Temperance movement, especially in the Band of Hope form, stimulated the publication of poetical pieces with music attached; but hymns, strictly so called, did not multiply in the same proportion. Among works, largely but not exclusively used in meetings of young persons, may be named, The Crystal Fount, M. D.; The Crystal Spring, M. D.; The British Band of Hope Melodist, N. D.; The National Temperance Hymn Book, N. D., compiled by the Rev. H. A. Hammond: Hymns and Melodies of the Band of Hope, N. D.; The J. W. Kirton; The Book of Song of Bands of Hope, N. D.; and Odes for Good Templars, N. D.; and Odes for Good Templars, N. D.; and W. Hoyle's Hymns and Songs, N. D. The Committee of the United Kingdom Band of Hope Union have published a handsome volume of 176 Hymns and Songs for Bands of

In connection with the Church Hope, N. D. of England Temperance Society a book of 254 Hymns and Songs has been published, but only a small number are on temperance topics. In 1864, Mr. G. H. Graham, of Maidstone, published the National Band of Hope and Temperance Melodist, comprising 250 pieces, the pro-In auccession to duction of above 70 writers. this, and as the result of much labour, Rev. John Compston edited for Mr. Graham the National Temperance Harmonist, 1870, containing 550 hymns and songs. The musical edition contained 311 tunes. In 1878 this work was reissued in an improved form, under the name of the National Temperance Hymnal, the editor as before being the Rev. John Compston. The hymns in this collection are 490. Iu 1878 also appeared the Standard Book of Song for Temperance Meetings and Home Use, edited by Mr. T. Bowick: followed in 1881 by an elegant volume containing these hymns with music, by Mr. A. J. Burch. All the more recent works can be obtained from the National Temperance Publication Depot, 33, Paternoster Row. It may be observed that all these collections abound in songs as well as hymns, and it is difficult to judge of the numerical proportion they bear to each other in the whole body of metrical compositions. Perhaps it will be an approach to accuracy to estimate the number of distinct hymns at about 800, and of hymn-writers at from 60 to 70. In the earliest collections many hymns by the same writer are printed; but in the later compilations no writer, with rare exceptions, is represented by more than a few specimens of his poetic powers, ii. Amongst the most popular and widely used of Temperance hymns are the following :--

A glorious light has burst around us. Walker.
 Abstainers, wake, there is work to be done. J. An-

- derson.

  3. All gracious Lord, we look to Thee. W. J. Barney.

  4. Almighty Father, while we own, Thy saving power, &c. Vernon.

  5. Am I my inviter's keeper? Yes. American.

  5. Christian, awake, for still the fee. H. Anderton.

  7. Come all dear children, sing a song. J. Tunnicisf.

  8. Come, gentle daughters of our land, Clara L.
- Balfour.

  9. Come, lovers of mankind. Vernon.
- Come, jovers of mankind. Vernon.
   Come, ye men of rank and station. Vernon.
   Free, ye men of rank and station. Vernon.
   Friends of temperance, one and go. J. B.
   Give me a draught from the crystal spring.
   Mastings.
   dereat God, Thy presence we implore.
- Jahes
- 15. Hall, Temperance, bright celestial ray. Green.

- 16. Lo Zion droops; in vain, in vain. H. Anderton.
  17. Lord of heaven and earth, defend us. Anos.,
  18. O Thou from Whom all gifts proceed. Verson.
  19. Onwards the animating sound. American.
  20. Parent, who with speechless feeling. Signarney.
  21. Pledged in a noble cause. H. P.
  22. Ries, and shine through every nation. T. J.
  23. Round the Temperance standard raily. Johes Burnt.

- 24. Wake, for the time of slumber. Danson Burns. 25. We praise Thee, if one rescued soul. Signarasp. 26. Who hath sorrow! who hath wee! American. 27. Who the secred page pursuing. Fernow. 23. Who will tell of strength and freedom? Elisabeth
- 29. Wine is a mocker; it beguiles. J. B.
- In furnishing a few blographical details of Temperance hymn-writers we confine ourselves to the following, who have all passed BWBY :-

1. Andarten, Heary, was b. at Walton-le-Dale, near Preston, Lancashire, Dec. 3, 1808, and was one of the early Preston abstainers. He was a popular speaker, and his poems were widely recited and sung. A, complete edition of his Poems, with a Memoir by E. Grubb, has been published. been published.

 Balfour, Clara Liddell, née Lucas, was b. Dec. 21, 1898. She edited several Temperance Journals, and pub. the Garland of Water Flowers, and many other Tem-perance works. On Literary as well as on Temperance subjects she was an elegant writer and charming speaker.

subjects she was an elegant wives are subjects she was an elegant wives are subjects. 3. Beardail, Francis, a Minister of the Baptist denomination, was b. at Sheffield, Sept. 6, 1799, and entering the Ministry be became an active friend of the Temperance cause in Manchester, and edited the Temperance Star for some time. in 1837 he pub. the first subject and Temperance Hymn Book, which passed through general Temperance Hymn Book, which passed through several editions. He d. June 23, 1842, while on a voyage to America.

to America.

4. Burns, Jabez, D.D., the well known Baptist Minister, was b. at Oldham, Lancasbire, Dec. 18, 1895, and was one of the first Ministers of Religion in London who vigorously advocated Total Abstinence. He edited service Temperance publications, and employed a versatile and forcible pen in the cause of Temperance, both in prose and versa. He d. Jan. 31, 1876.

5. Green, John William, was b. in 1783, and readered marked service to the Temperance cause as editor, writer, and speaker. His collection of Temperance Hymes and Songe, had a large sale in London and the neighbourbood. He d. Feb. 1, 1860.

6. Mason, Robert Grey, was b, Nov. 18, 1792. He was engaged for many years in the promotion of the Temperance cause both in the pulpit and on the platform. He edited the Temperance Hymes Book, N. D. He d. Aug. 31, 1861.

Aug. 31, 1867.

7. Tunnicliff, Jabes, a Minister of the Baptist denomination, was b. Feb. 7, 1809, and was the paster of a Baptist congregation in Leeds, where he founded the first Band of Hope, in 1847, the outcome of a visit to Leeds of Mrs. Carlie of Dublin. He wrobe many songs and hymns for children. He d. June 15, 1865.

iv. When it is remembered that Temperance hymns have been necessarily restricted to one topic, the variety of expression found therein may be justly regarded as being somewhat remarkable. And although not one hymn can be named which ranks with the highest productions of sacred song, yet the literary and devotional merits of not a few are conspicuous. Several of those named above would make no unworthy addition to modern hymn-books designed for special use in divine worship. They might be embodied in a separated section on Temperance. [D. B.]

Templi sacratas pande, Sion, fores. Jean Baptiste de Santetil. [Parification of B. V. M.] Appeared in the Paris Brez., 1680, the Clunian Brev., 1686, p. 924, and the author's Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 6 (ed. 1698, p. 65). It is also in the Paris Brez., 1899, p. 65. 1698, p. 65). It is also in the Paris Brev., 1736, and later French Brevs., as the hymn at 1st Vespers of the Feast of the Purification. Text in Card. Newman's Hymné Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, and L. C. Bigge's annotated H. A. & M., 1867. Tr. as:-

- 1. Sion, ope thy hallowed dome. Appeared in I. Williams's Hys. tr. from the Parisian Brev. 1839, p. 182, as having been contributed thereto by "a friend," who is usually understood to have been J. Chandler, although it did not appear in Chandler's Hys. of the Church, 1841. In addition to being in C. U. in its origital form, it is also found as :-
- (1) O Blon, ope thy hallowed dome, in the English Hyl., 1852 and 1861.
- (2) O Zion, open wide thy gates, The Lard before, te., in Pott's Hymns, &c., 1861.
- (3) Zion, ope thine hallewed dome, in Kennedy, 1888.

2. O Sian! open wide thy gates; Let figures disappear. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 271, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 172. Repeated in H. A. & M., 1861; the Sarum Hyl., 1868; the Hymnary, 1872, and others, sometimes with, and at other times without, a dozology.

 Tae forty days are past. By Jane E. Leeson, in the Irvingite Hye, for the Use of the Churches, 1884 and 1871, with the signature "J. E. L."

4. Ston, open wide thy gates, Ohrist before Ristemple walts. An anonymous tr. in the Parish H. Ba., 1863-75.

5. 0 Sian, one thy temple gates; The victimpriest, &c. By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868.

Other tra. are :-

Now, Ston, to the approaching King. W. Falmer.
 1846.
 Ston, thine hallowed gates unfold. W. J. Blew.
 1862-55.

8. Slon, open fling Thy mored temple gates. J. D.

Admorrs. 1806.

4. Set wide the temple gate. D. T. Morgan. 1886.

[J. J.]

Tempora florigero rutilant distincta sereno. V. H. C. Fortunatus. [Easter.] This is No. 9 in Bk. iii. of his Poems. It is a poem on the Resurrection, addressed "ad Felicem Episcopum" [Folix, Bp. of Nantes, d. 582], and is in 110 lines. The full text is in F. Leo's ed. of Fortunatus's Opera poettea, Berlin, 1881, p. 59; from a St. Peters-burg ms. of the 8th or 9th cent., a Paris Ms. of the 9th cent. (Lat. 9347), &c. Also in a Ms. of the 9th cent. in the Brit. Mus. (Add. 24198, f. 35. "In this sweet poem," says Dr. Schaff (Christ in Eong, ed. 1870, p. 185), "the whole Nature, born anew in the Spring, and arrayed in the bridal garment of hope and promise, welcomes the risen Saviour, the Prince of spiritual and eternal life." In the Middle Ages varying center beginning with 11. 39, 40: Salve festa dies toto venerabilia ceve, Que Deus infernum vieit et astra tenet came into extensive use as Processionals from Easter to the Accepcion. Thus the form given by Daniel, i. No. 143, in 14 couplets, is found in an Echternach Gradual of the end of the 10th or beginning of the 11th cent. now in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 10510; printed by A. Beiners in his Tropen- Presen- und Prafations-Gestinge, Luxemburg, 1884, p. 73) and Daniel, at ii. p. 382, cites it as in a Munich Ms. of the 11th cent. Other early forms, beginning with !. 39, are in a ws. circa 1200, in the Bodleian (Loud Misc. 4, f. 140), in a ms. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall, No. 381, &c. In the Sarum and York Processionals it appears in various forms, and several hymns in imitation are also included in them, all beginning "Salve festa dies." (See Bequences, pt. il.) Other centos from Fortunatus are in Wackernagel, i. No. 83; Trench, ed. 1864, p. 152 (10 lines); Bässler, No. 57 (10 lines), and others. It would appear that Cranmer had made an English tr. in 1544 (see p. 544, l.). There are versions from the "Salve fests dies" in German as early as the 14th cent., one of which has passed into English as follows:—

Also heilig int der Tag. Wuckernagel, in his D. Kirckenlied, il. p. 712, gives three, really four, forms of thin, I.-iii. in 1 st. of 8 l.; iv. in 3 st. of 8 l. The tre. follow the text given by Waterranget in 8 lines from the Pealtes Ecclesiasticus, Mainz, 1550, where it is emittled Genelusin Mant Programmeng. It seems to have been used in Pre-Reformation times at processions and pilgrimages. The text in the Two. L. S., 1851, No. 123, is nearly that of 1550 (see also Mittell, No. 634, and Hoffmains, Nos. 114, 115). It is tr. as (1) "Hallow we with perise the day." A free tr. by A. T. Russell, as No. 106 in bis Ph. & Hymns, 1851; and as (2) "So holy is this day of days," by Mits Winkscorff, 1868, p. 83.

The renderings into English from this poem have been confined to the extract given in Daniel, i. No. 143, or to selected portions of the same as follows:—

Salve, fosta dice, toto venerabilis nevo.

1. Hail, festal day, for evermore adored. By J. M. Neale, in the enlarged ad. of the H. Noted, 1854. It is a tr. of a selection from Daniel. Its use is limited.

- 2. Hall, festal day, ever exalted high. By Elizabeth Charles, in her Voice of Christian Lifs in Song, &c., 1858, p. 135. This is a literal tr, of the text, as in Daniel.
- 3. Hall, Day of days, in peals of praise. By W. J. Copeland, in Lyra Messianson, 1864, p. 287; the People's H., 1867, and Schaff's Christ in Song, 1870.
- 4. Welsome, happy moraing, age to age shall say. By J. Ellerton, contributed to R. Brown-Borthwick's Suppl. Hy. and Tune Hh., 1868. It was republished in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; the Hymnary, 1872; Thring's Coll., 1882, and several other hymn-books in G. Britain and America, sometimes in an abbreviated form. It is a vigorous and popular paraphrase rather than a direct translation. Full text in Mr. Ellerton's Hymns, &c., 1888.
- 5. Rail! festal day, to endless ages known. By T. A. Lacey. In the Alter Hymnel, 1884, there are two paraphrases by this translator, one for Easter day and one for the Ascension, and both beginning with the same first line. [J. J.]

Tempted oft to go astray. J. S. R. Mossell. [SS. Philip and James.] The first stanza of this hymn was given in the let ed. of his Parish Musings, 1850. In his Spiritual Songs, 1857, three st. were added, thus forming a hymn of 4 st. of 8 L. In the revised and enlarged ed. of the Hy. Comp., 1876, st. i., ii. and iv. were given as No. 355. [J. J.]

The ημέραν διελθών. [Evening.] The usually accepted history of this hymn is that given by Dr. Neals in his Hymns of the Eastern Church, 1862, as follows:—

"The little bym, which, I believe, is not used in the public service of the Church, is a great favourite in the Greek Isles. Its peculiar style and evident antiquity may well lead to the belief that it is the work of our present author [St. Anatolius]. It is, to the scattered hamlets of Chios and Mitylene, what Bishop Ken's Evening Hymn is to the villages of our own land; and its melody is singularly plaintive and soothing."

In 1874, under date of May lat (18th), The Very Rev. S. G. Hatherly, then Priest of the Greek Church, Wolverhampton, and subsequently of that at Bristol, pub. Dr. Neale's tr. "The day is past and over," with slight alterations; a tr., by a friend, of the original Theotokion, in the same metre; an original tune by himself, and a note in which he pointed out that the bynn was taken from the Great After-Supper service (in Slavonic "Great After-Vespers"), and was a cento from two parts of that service. Dr. Neate took his cento from Daniel iii. p. 127, where it is given not in the original rhythmical prose but in a metrical form; and in his original fr. of 1853, as given below, he closely followed that form. The original Greek is in the Horologion (δρολόγιον το μέγα, Venice ed. 1851, pp. 186, 137; ed. 1870, pp. 157, 159). The Greek text occurs in the Great After-Supper service as follows :-

It is introduced by the Stickei, "Οτι μεθ' δμών δ θεός ("For God is with us"), and then proceeds:-

"Την ήμέραν διελθών Εύχαριστώ σου, κύρι: "Την ίσ-πέραν αιτούμαι Σύν τβ νυκτί ἀναμάρτητων, Παράσχου μαι, σωτήρ, καὶ σώσάν με.

" Aófa.

"Την ημέραν παρελθών Δαξολογώ σε, δέσποτα: Την έσπέρατ αίτούμαι Σύν τή τικτί άσπατδάλισταν, Παρά-σχου μοι, στιτήρ, καὶ σώσόν με.

"Kai pūr.

"Την ήμέρου διαβάς, Υμυολογώ σε, ώγε · Την έσπέραν αιτούμας Σύν τη ενατί άνειβουλου, Παράσχου μοι, σωτηρ, και σώσου με.

" Φώτισον τοὺς οφθαλμούς μου Χριστέ ὁ Θεός, κήποτε ὑπιώσω Εἰς δάρατου, μάποτε είπο ὁ αχθρός μου · Ίσχυσα πρός αύτον.

" Aéta.

"Αντιλήστωρ τῆς ψυχῆς μου Γένου ὁ θεὸς, ὅτι μέσαν Διαβαίνω ποχίδων πολλών. 'Ρυσεί με ἰξ αύτων καὶ στώσου με 'Αγαθέ, ως φιλάιθρωπος.

"Kai võv.

"Ότι οἰκ ἔχομεν περρησίεν διὰ τὰ πολλὰ ἡμῶν αμαρτήματα, σὰ τὸν, ἐα στὰ γεννηθέντα δυσώπησον Θεσ-τόκε Παρθύν: πολλὰ γὰρ ἰσχύει δύρσιε Μητρὸς πρὸς εὐμεγειαν Δεσπότον. Μη παρίδης ἀμαρτικλῶν ἰκεσίας ἡ πάρσεμνος: ὅτι ἐλιτήμιον ἐστὶ καὶ συζειν δυνάμιτος, ὁ καὶ παθεῖν ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν καταδεξάμενος."

It must be noted that these stanzas are not signed. (See below concerning authorship.) It will possibly be of interest to the English reader to have a literal translation of these stanzas together with the Theotokion omitted by Daniel and the translators who have followed his text. It is as follows, with the portions known as the hymn "The day is past and over," in italies :-

"God is with us, let the nations know and be discomfitted: for God is with us.

"The day is passing on. I thank Thee. O Lord: that the evening with the night may be sinless, I beseek, —Grant to me, Suriour, and save me.

"Glary to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy (thout

Ghost.

"The day is passing away, I glorify Thee, O Master; that the evening with the night may be affenceles, I beseek,—Grant to me, Saviour, and save me.

"Both now, and ever, and to ages of ages. Amene.

"The day has passed away, I kymn Thee, O Holy; that the evening with the night may be plotten, I beseek,—Grant to me, Saviour, and store me.

"The Cherubim, of nature bodiless, with loud bymne viarife Thee.

giorify Thee.
"The Scraphim, the six winged living ones, with pensaless voices exall The three with thriesholy somes. "And all the Angelic host, with thrice-holy songs praise Thee.

"For before all things Thou art the Father, I Am, and hest Thy co-unoriginate Son.

"And doct bear the equal-honoured Spirit of life, and manifesteat the undivided Trinity.

"All holy Virgin, Mother of God; ye eyewitnesses and ministers of the Word;

"All ye choirs of Prophets and Martyre, having life as immortal.

ge immortal :

as immortal:

"Insercede earnestly for all, that we may be supported in all dangers.

"That being delivered from the wandering of evil, we may cry aloud the Angelic ode:

"Holy, Holy, Holy, Thrice Holy Lord, have mercy and save us. Ameus.

"I And straightway in a low voice:

"I helive in One God, the Father, Almighty, Lo,

" I Then the following Stiches, the first of which is said thrice, and the rest twice, excepting the last, which is said once only. The second choir begins (s) that in the second and subsequent Stichol the first choir may take its place as leader.) "All-Holy Mistress Theotokes, interceds for us

"O all ye heavenly Powers of holy Angels and Archangels, intercede for us sinners.
"O holy John, Prophet and Forerunner, and Baptist of our Lord Jesus Christ, intercede for us sinner or our Lord Jesus Christ, intercede for us sinners.

"O boly glurious Apostles, Prophety, and Martyrs, and all ye Saints, intercede for us sinners.

"O devoted and God-bearing Fathers, our Pastors and Ecomenical teachers, intercede for us sinners.

"Let not the unconquered, and indissoluble, and dirine power of the honourable and lifemaking Cross, be ever wanting to us sinners.

"O God, be gracious to us sinners.

"O coo, be gracious to us sinuses."
And have mercy upon us.
"All then—Holy God: three times. Glory. Both now. All-Holy Trinity, Lord, have mercy: three times. Glory. Both now. Our Father. For Thine is the kingdom. And these Troparia:—
"Lighten wine tyes, O Christ the God, let I steep in death: lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against

"Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy

"Be the Defender of my soul, O God, for I pass through the midst of snares: deliver me from them, and save me, O Good, as Lover of men.

"Both now, and ever, and to ages of ages. Amene.

"Both now, and ever, and to ages of ages. Amene.

"As we have not boldness through our many sins, do then, O Virgin Theotokos, supplicate Him who is born from thee, for the prayer of the Mother availeth much to procure the elemency of the Master. Disregard not, of all-pure, the supplications of sinners, for He Who voucheafed to suffer for us is merciful, and powerful to save.

On turning to the hymn as known to the English reader through Dr. Neale's tr., and comparing it with the above, it is clear that it is not a complete hymp in itself, but a cento composed of three stanzas from one part of the Greek Great After-Supper service, and two stanzas from another part of the same service with the omission of the Theotokion. (This cento form of the text is taken from C. Pelargus's Enchiridion, Frankfurt, 1594.) Another point which is equally clear is that the whole of the stanzas are anonymous in the Greek service-book. Dr. Neale attributes them to St. Anatolius, who died in 458. The Anatolius, llowever, of the Greek servicebooks, has his name appended to hymns in commemoration of martyrs of the latter part of the sixth and the early part of the seventh centuries. (See Anatolius, p. 62, i.) There must have been therefore two hymn-writers of the some name (Anatolius), one as stated by Dr. Neale, and another, who wrote in the 7th cent. In the Greek service-books the subject matter or nature of a hymn is often indicated by a kind of heading or preface to the hymn, as for instance Zraxnoù avarodica; Στιχηρά ἀναστάσιμα; and so on. In the case of the first three stanzas of this cento there is no such heading, nor is there any author's name given in any Greek service-book with which we are sequeinted. In fact, no heading including the words Erixned dearedied (the natural title of a Morning hymn) could have been attached to an Evening hymn. Whilst therefore we cannot determine the authorship of these Stichers, we regard them as very ancient, and possibly of the sixth or seventh centuries.

2. The first tr. of this hymn into English was by Dr. Neale, and was evidently taken from the text as given in Daniel. This tr. was first pub. in The Eccleriastic and Theologian, 1853, p. 161. As both in this instance and in the 1st ed. of his Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, the tr. is more faithful to the original than his revised fr. in the 2nd ed. of that work in the same year, we subjoin the text as given in The Ecclesiastic :-

"The day is past and over!
All thanks, O Lord, to Thee!
I pray Thee now that sinless
The eve and night may be: Grant that I crave, O God, and save! "The day hath parted from us!
All glory, Lord, to Thee!
I pray Thee that offenceless
The eve and night may be;
Grant that I crave, O God, and save! " The tolls of day are over, I rule the hymn to Thee; And pray that eve and night-time Without attack may be; Grant that I crave, O God, and mye! " Lighten mine eyes, O Saviouri Or sleep in death shall I; And he, mine adversary, Triumphantly shall cry I have assalled and have prevailed, "Be Thou my soul's preserver!
O God! for Thou dost know,
The snares and sine are many
Through which I have to go:
Lover of mrn, oh hear my call,
And guard and save me from them-sil!"

When this tr. is compared with the revised text by Dr. Neale in his 2nd ed. of the Hye. of the E. Church, 1862, and which is followed in the hymn-books, it will be seen that the latter is much more smooth, and musical, then the former (although less literal), and on that account is better suited for public worship. Amongst the earliest hymnals in which it found a place was T. Darling's Hys. for the Church of England, 1862; the Parish H. Bh., 1863, and others, in some cases st. iv. being omitted. At the present time it is found in almost every hymnal of note in all Englishapeaking countries.

In addition, Mrs. Charles has a tr. (from Daniel) in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 25, the first of which reads:-

> "The day is passing on,
> I thank Thee, O Lord.
> I beseech Thee this evening and this night Keep me without sin, Seviour, and save me!"

Dr. H. Bonar has also rendered it into English (from Daniel), and included it in his Hymne of Faith and Hope, 2nd series, 1864. The opening stanza is:-

"The day is done!
I thank Thee, Lord, skme.
"Tis evening, and I cry,
O Saviour, be Thou nigh,
This night from sin ms keep,
Preserve me while I sleep."

3. Some twenty-five years ago Mr. Hatherly wrote a time in double counterpoint which was published in Our Over Fireside in Nov. 1865, to a "Fountainside Hymn," but was incorporated with the 6th ed. of the Rev. W. H. Havergal's Old Church Psalmody in 1867, in alliance with Dr. Neale's tr. of the present hymn. It subsequently became popular in the To adapt the original Greek to form by an unknown hand, and is one of the very few current instances of a rendering altered 181-2; and later collection.

back into the original tongue of what had previously been translated from it.

* 'Атовенток. "Περώνας την ημέραν
2ε Κύρι' αυλογώ
'Τι δος και την δεπέραν
ΝΑ Σε δεζολογώ.
"Ρύσει μ' έξ έργων σεοτεινών,
Και σώσον με τον ταπαγόν. Η Πληρώσος την ημέραν
Σε Αγι ενλογώ
Ο δός και την έστερου
Νέ Σε δοξολογώ
Νικτ άσκανδαλιστόν μοι δές,
Και σκότε συτηρωδές. Rate Green antiquent of Austina The Austina The Austina The Austina Confession of the Austina The Austina Confession of th

For many and important details in this article we are indebted to the Very Rev. S. G. Hatherly, Mus. Bac., editor of the 4th ed. of Dr. Neale's Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1882.

Τὴν ἡμέραν τὴν φρικτήν. St. Theodore of the Studium. [Sexagesima.] This is the opening line of Ode i of the Canon fur Apocreos. The Apocreos answers to the Sexagesima of the Anglican Church, and on that day the Greek Church commemorates "The Second and impartial Coming of Our Lord Jesus Christ."

Jeaus Christ."

"This commemoration the most Divine Fathers set after the two parables" [Le. the Gospels of the two preciding Sandays, The Pharisee and Publican, and the Fredigal Son], "lest any one, learning from them the mercy of God, should live carelessly, and say, "God is merciful, and whenever I wish to relinquish sin, it will be in my power to accomplish my purpose." They therefore here commemorated that featful day, that, by the consideration of death, and the expectation of the dreadul things that shall hereafter be, they might terrify men of negligent life, and bring them back again to virtue, and might teach them not simply to put confidence in God's mercy, considered by itself, but to remember aise that the Jodge is just, and will render to every man according to his works." Dr. Neale adds to the above tr., "As the Eastern Church has no each season as Advent, this commemoration becomes more peculiarly appropriate." Hymns of the E. C., 2nd ed. 1862, pp. 101, 102.

This Canon is found in the Triadion, and

This Canon is found in the Triodion, and dates from the beginning of the ninth century. As a Judgment hymn, for majesty and power, it has been regarded by Dr. Neale and other competent judges as second only to the Dies Irs, which it anticipates some four hundred years. Four Odes only have been tr. into English. These are by Dr. Neule, and were pub. with notes (from which we have quoted) In his Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862. The variation of metre in the tr. follows that of the original; but Dr. Neale omits the Georgianov (address to the B. V. M.) which closes each Ode. The contrast in Ode iv. with human courts of justice, is much more vivid in the original. ("Orator persuasion" = **exercises areas of orator persuasion" = **exercises areas of orator persuasion" = **exercises areas of orator persuasion or orator of orator orato rected in the 4th ed. He also omits st. v. of that Ode. The untranslated Odes repeat the same ideas as those translated, which are as followe:---

Ode iii. 'O régues épherat.
God comes, and who shall stand before Hie fear. Republished in Schaffe Carist is Song, 1870.
Ode iv. 'Epictrases à haipa.
The day is near, the Judgment is at hand. Repeated in Schaff a Carist in Song, 1870.
Ode iz. 'O régues ipperas.
The Lord draws nigh, the righteous throne's Assessor. Also in Lyra Messiantos, 1864. [J. J.]

Ten thousand times ten thousand. H. Alford. [Processional for Saints' Days.] Appeared 1st in his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 229, in 3 st. of 8 l. In 1870 it formed part of the poetical setting of F. R. Pickersgill's illustration of the Lord's Prayer, which was pub. as The Lord's Prayer Illustrated by F. R. Pickersgill, R.A., and Henry Alford, D.D., p. 16. On Jan. 17, 1871, it was sung at the author's funeral, with the additional stanz: "Bring near Thy great Salvation." In this full form it was printed in the author's Life, &c., 1872, p. 483; in H. A. & M., 1875, and aguin in other collections.

Ter sancte, ter potens Deus. Claud de Sastelil. [Holy Trinity.] Appeared in the Cluniac Brev., 1686, p. 517. In the Paris Brev., 1680, and later French Brevs. it is the hymn for the 1st and 2nd Vespers on Trinity Sunday. The Paris text is in J. Chaudler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 82; and Card. Nowman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:-

- 1. Thrice holy, thrise Almighty Three. By I. Williams, in the British Magazine, Sep., 1837 (vol. xil., p. 267), and again in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Brev., 1839, p. 160.
- 2. Thrice hely God, of wondreus might. By J. Chandler, in his Hys. of the Prim. Church, 1837, p. 92, and again in his Hys. of the Church, &c., 1841, No. 53. It is in several collections. The form in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, and Thring's Coll., 1882, is a cento in which st. i., ii., and Il. 1, 2 of st. iil. are by J. Chandler, slightly altered, and the rest of the hymn is by J.
- 2. Lord, thrice holy, and supreme. By E. Caswall, in his Masque of Marg, &c., 1858, p. 279, and altered in his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 130, to "Lord, thrice hely! Lord of might!" Given, with slight alterations, in the Hymnary, 1872, as "Lord, thrice holy, God of might."

4. Thrice holy and thrice potent God. L. Alexander, in his Augustine H. Bk., 1849, No. 198 (ed. 1865, No. 205),

- 5. God thrice hely, God of might. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55; Trinity, 7; and Rice's Sci. from the same, 1870, No. 89.
- 6. Thrice hely God, of severeign might. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868.

Other tra. are :—
1. O threefold holiness and might. W. Palmer. 1845.
2. Thrice blest, thrice mighty Delty. J. D. Chambers.
1857. [J. J.]

Tereteegen, Gerhard, s. of Heinrich Tersteegen (other wise ter Stegen or sur Stiege), merchant at Mörs (Meurs), in Rhenish Prussia, was b. at Mörs, Nov. 25, 1697. His parents intended that he should become a minister of the Reformed Church in Germany. His father however d. in 1703, and his mother found that after giving him a thorough classical training in the Latin school at Mörs she was unable to was accordingly apprenticed, in 1713, to his brother-in-law, a merchant at Mühlheim on the Buhr, and in 1717 started in business on his own account, at Mühlheim. As he found his time much broken up, and his opportunities of meditation few, he gave up his business in 1719; and, after a short trial of linen weaving, took up the easier and much more lucrative occupation of weaving silk ribbons. During the years 1719-24 he passed through a period of spiritual depression, at the end of which his faith in the reconciling grace of Christ became assured (see No. xxxiv. below), and on Maundy Thursday, 1724, he wrote out a solemn covenant with God which he signed with his own blood. Previous to this, even before 1719, he had ceased to attend the ordinary services of the Reformed Church; and also absented himself from Holy Communion on the ground that he could not in conscience communicate along with open sinners. About the beginning of 1725 he began to speak at the prayer meetings (styled "Uebungen") which had been hold at Mithlheim, since 1710, by Wilhelm Hoffmann, who was a candidate of theology (licensed preacher) of the Reformed Church. Tersteegen soon became known as a religious teacher among the "Stillen im Lande," as the attenders on these meetings were called, and in 1728 gave up his handicraft in order to devote himself entirely to the tr. of works by medigeval and recent Mystics and Quietists, including Madame Guyon and others, and the composition of devotional books, to correspondence on religious subjects, and to the work of a spiritual director of the "awakened souls." From this date to his death he was supported by a small regular income which was subscribed by his admirers and friends. About 1727 a house at Otterbeck, between Mühlheim and Elberfeld, was act apart as a "Pilgerhütte," where the "awa-kened souls" could go into a spiritual retreat, under the direction of Tersteegen. This house, with accommodation for eight persons, was retained until about 1800. Tersteegen, however, did not confine himself to Mühlbeim, but travelled over the district, addressing gatherings of like-minded Christians, giving special attention to Elberfeld, Barmen, Solingen, and Crefeld. From 1782 to 1755 he also went regularly every year to Holland, to visit his spiritual kinsfolk at Amsterdam and elsewhere. From 1730 to 1750 a law against conventicles was strictly enforced, and Tersteegen could not hold meetings except on his visits to Holland. During this period he removed to a house which had been Wilhelm Hoffmann's, where he preached, and provided food and simple medicines for the poor. After 1750 he resumed his public speaking until 1756, when he overstrained himself, and had to confine himself to the smallest gatherings absolutely. In 1769, dropsy set in, and after patient endurance for a season he d. on April 3, 1769, at Müblheim (Kock, vi. 46; Herzog's Real-Ency-klopädie, xv. 334; Max Goebel's Gesch. des christl. Lebens in der Rheinisch-Westphülischen Eveng. Kirche, vol. iii., 1860, p. 289, &c.). Up to the end of his life Tersteegen remained outside the Reformed Church, but never set up a sect of his own. After his afford the cost of his University course. He death his followers as a rule reunited themsolves with it, especially when a less formal itype of religion began to prevail therein.

Of Tersteegen's public addresses given between 1753 and 1756, reports were taken of the more important, and in 1763-73, thirty-three of these were public as Geistliche Brosamen von des Herra Tisch gefallen, &c. Seven of them have been tr. by S. Jackson as Spiritual Crambs from the Master's Table, 1837. In addition he public 1750 a collection of tracts as Weg der Wahrheit. A large number of his German letters were public 1173-5, at Solingen; and of his Dutch letters, at Hoorn, in 1772 which many editions were published, details of the more important of which we subjoin.

Tereteegen's most important hymnological work was his Geistliches Blumen-Gärtlein, of which many editions were published, details of the more important of which we subjoin.

The let ad, was pub. in 1729; 2nd, 1735; 3rd, 1736; 4th, 1745; 4th, 1745; 5th, 1756; 5th, 1757; 7th, 1758; and the 8th in 1778. [Eds. 1-4, 4, pub. by Bettiger, at Frankfurt and Lajusig; 5, 73, by Schmitz, at Sclingen.] Of these eds. the Royal Library has the let and 3rd. The 6th is in the Ibleary of the Freediger-Saminar at Hannover. The 6th is in the possession of Professor Dr. Klieburt, in Berlin. No copy of the 7th ed. has been accessible to the present writer, but he possesses acopy of the 8th ed., 1773, which professes to be a reprint of the 7th ed. So far as the hymna proper are concerned the date at which they appeared in the successive editions (the numbers in each case being as in Bk. iii. of the ed. of 1758), are as follows: The 1729 has Nos. 1-28, 187-111; the 1754, 1-24, 106-111; the 1753, 1-33, 106-111; the 1754, 1-41. [1.10-1]. [1.1

The hymn-book used at the meetings of Hoffmann and Terstoegen has often been regarded as Terstoegen's. The lat ed. appeared at Elberfeld, in 1721, as Joachimi Mandri vermahric Glaubean-und Lieber-Ubung webst eitems Andang, be., and was ed. by Adoph Weber of Haan, near Elberfeld. The 2nd (Dulsburg, 1736), 3rd (Duisburg, 1747), 4th (Solingen, 1730), and 5th (Solingen, 1788) eda, were edited by Tersteegen, the title being enlarged in 1780 as Gott-pekeligter Harfen-Spiel der Kinder Zion, &c. These later eds. contain many hymne by Tersteegen, but none of the hymne of the Bismen-Garilens seem to have been first pub. therein.

Tersteegen ranks as one of the three most important hymnwriters associated with the Reformed Church in Germany, the other two being F. A. Lampe (p. 636, ii.), and Joachim Neander (p. 790, i.).

He is however more closely allied, both as a Mystic and as a Poet, with Johann Scheffler (p. 1004, ii.), than with either of his co-religiousis. He almost equals Scheffler in power of expression and beauty of form, and if Schaffler has more pictorial grace, and a more vivid imagination, Tentesgen has more definiteness of teaching, a fruer grasp of the Christian vertites, and a greater clearness in exposition. Innor union of the soul with God and Christ, the childlike simplicity and trust which this brings, renunciation of the world and of self, and daily endeavour to live as in the presence of God and in preparation for the vision of God, are the keynotes of his hymns. To his intense power of realising the unseen, his clear and simple diction, and the evident sincerity with which he sets forth his own Christian experience, his hymns own much of their attractiveness and influence. During his lifetime they did not one much into use except through the Harjosapid, as above, and they did not meet the taste of compilers during the Rationalistic period. But since Bunsen in his Versuck, 1833, and Knapp in his Ev. L. S., 1837, brought his hymns once more into notice they have been received in greater or near measure into almost all the German hymnbooks, among the Lutherans, as well as among the Reformed, the most popular of all being his "Gott ist gegenwirtig" (p. 485, ii.).

A number of Tersteegen's hymns are noted under their own first lines (see Index of Authors and Translators). They appeared, almost all for the first time, in the successive editions of his Goistliches Blumen-Gärtlein, viz., in the lat ed., 1729: 2nd ed., 1785; 8rd ed., 1788; 4th ed., 1746; 5th ed., 1751; 6th ed., 1757; 7th ed., 1768; and in each case (after 1728, See above) in the Third Book of that work. Those which have passed into English and are not noted elsewhere, are as follows:—

i. Press dish, du Minder-Ordan. Christmas. In the 5th ed., 1751, as above, Bk. iii., No. 87, in 6 st. of 6 l., entitled "Christmas Day's swaking for the Children." Repeated in Bunsen's Allg. G. B., 1846, No. 47, omitting st. ii. Tr. as:—

Little children, God above. This is a free tr., omitting st. vi., by Mrs. Bevan, in her Songs of Eternal Life, 1858, p. 78. Her trs. of st. i., ii., v. are in Dr. Pagenstecher's Coll., 1864.

Another tr. is: "Children reloke, for God is come to earth." By Miss Dunn, 1887, p. 30.

fi. Jedes Herr will stwas lisben. Love to Christ. In the 4th ed., 1745, as above, Bk. iii., No. 70, in 8 st. of 4 l., entitled "The Soul wishes to take Jesus as her best Beloved." Repeated in the Harfen-Spiel, 1747, as above (ed. 1768, No. 544). Tr. as:—

1. The beart of man must something leve. This is a good and full tr. by S. Jackson, in his Life of Tersteegen, 1832 (1837, p. 426). Repeated in full in Lelfchild's Orig. Hys., 1842. A cento beginning with st. ii. "Though all the world my choice deride," is in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, and also in the Plymouth Coll., 1855, and other American hymnals.

2. Something every heart is loving. A full and good tr. by Mrs. Bevan in her Songs of Eternal Life, 1858, p. 58. Repeated, abridged, in the Eng. Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1867; Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872; Hys. & Songs of Praise, N. Y., 1874, Sec.

iii. Jean, der du bist allelne. Communion of Scints. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. iii., No. 43, in 11 st. of 6 l., entitled "Prayer on behalf of the brethren." Proviously in the Hesse-Homburg G. B., 1734, No. 1461, and evidently as early as 1731, for in that year Tersteegen quotes part of it in one of his letters (see Goebel, as above, iii. p. 347). Repeated in the Unc. L. S., 1851, No. 318. Tr. as:—

Jasua, whem Thy Church doth wwn. By Miss

Feens, whem Thy Church doth wwn. By Miss Winkworth, omitting st. iii., in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 99; repeated, omitting the trs. of st. v., vii., in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 108. The trs. of st. i., ii., iv. are included in the Ohlo Luth. Hyl., 1880.

iv. Jesu, meia Erbarmer! höre. Lent or Penitence. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. ii., No. 41, in 12 st. of 6 l., entitled "In outward and inward sufferings and Temptations." Previously in the Hesse-Homburg G. B., 1734, No. 1664. Koch, vi. 50, speaks of it as written before 1724. In the Elberfeld G. B., 1857. Tr. as :-

Jesse, pitying Saviour, bear me. In full, by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 133, repeated, omitting st. ii.-iv., ix., in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 109. In her Christian Singers, 1869, p. 298, she gave st. li., v., vl., beginning "Lost in darkness, girt with dangers."

v. Mun so will ich denn mein Leben. Self-Sterrender. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. iii., No. 37, in 10 st. of 6 l. entitled "Thorough resolution to give oneself wholly to God." Previously in the Hesse-Homburg G. B., 1734, No. 960, in 10 st. Also in the Unv. L. S., 1851, No. 718. According to Koch, vi. 68, it was originally in 9 st., and st. 10 was added at the suggestion of his friend Wilhelm Hoffmann (see above). Tr. (omitting st. ii., iii., vi., z.) as:--

1. Le! my obolce is new decided. By Miss Cox, in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 125 (Hys. from the Ger., 1864, p. 215, altered), Her tre. of st. vili., iz., vii., altered and beginning, "One thing first and only knowing," repeated in Hedge & Huntington's Hys. for the Church of Christ, Boston, U.S., 1853.

2. Now at last I end the strife. By Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 165, repeated (emitting the tr. of st. viii.), as No. 131, in her C. B. for England, 1863.

vi. O liebe Beele | könntst du werden. Childlike Spirit. In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 7, in 18 st, of 4 l., entitled " Picture of Christian childhood." Repeated, abridged, in Bunsen's Versuch, 1833, No. 824. It is a beautiful description of ideal childhood. Tr. as :-

Boul ! couldnt thou, while on earth remaining. By Miss Cox, emitting st. ii .- iv., ix., xi., xv., in her Sacred Hys. from the German, 1841, p. 113. Her tre. of st. i., zvil., zvili., were repeated. altered, in Hedge & Huntington's Hys. for the Church of Christ, Boston, U.S., 1853. In Miss Cox's Hys. from German, 1864, p. 197, it begins " Soul, while on earth thou still remainest."

Other tra. are: (1) "Wouldst thou, my sonl, the secret find." By Lody E. Portescue, 1843, p. 47. (2) "Dear soul, couldst thou become a child." By Liss Winkworth, 1865, p. 22.
vii. Biagesfürste, Ehrenkönig. Ascension. In vu. singerfürste, Ehrenkönig. Ascension. In the 2nd ed., 1785, as above, Bk. iii., No. 54, in 7 st. of 8 l., entitled "Prayer to Jesus on His Ascension." Repeated in the Berlin Care ed. 1863, No. 1031. Tr. as:-

Conquering Prince and Lord of Glory. By Miss Winkworth, omitting st. ii., in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 48. In her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 63, considerably altered; a tr. of st. li. being added, and the trs. of st. iii., iv., omitted. This form is repeated in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868.

vili. Wie gut iste, wenn man abgospahnt. or Self-Renunciation. In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 21, in 9 st. of 6 l., entitled "Of the sweetness of the hidden life of Chris-Tr. 88 :---

How sweet it is, when, wean'd from all. This is a good and full tr. by S. Jackson, in his Life of Torsteegen, 1832 (1837, p. 417). His trs. of st. i., lii., v., ix. are repeated in the Christian Ed. Jackson and the C Hyl., 3rd ed., Adelaide, 1872, No. 225.

Other hymne by Tersteegen which have been rendered into English are:-

ix. Ask Gott, as tangt dock draussen night. On the Functy of Earthly Things. In the 7th ed., 1783, an above, Bk. iil., No. 102, in 4 st. of 4 l. Previously in the supplemental Hymns appended to some copies of the 6th ed. (see above). Tr. ss. "An God! the world has mought to please." By Mrts Wickworth, 1888, p. 304. z. Ash, kömnt ich stille sein. Proof to God. In the 7nd ed. 1785, no show Br iii. No. 85 in 6 st of 5 and ed., 1735, as above, Br. lii., No. 53, in 6 st. of 61.

Tr. an (1) "Oh! could I but be still." By Krs. Revan, 1869, p. 134. (2) "Ah, could I but be still." By Lody parend, 1873, p. 77.

zi. Allganugeam Wesan. God's All-sufficiency. In the 1st ed., 1778, se above, Bk. iv., No. 14, in 8 st. of 9 l.
The trr. 'are (1) "Thou All-sufficient due! Who art." zi. Alleanugaam Wesan. God's Alleanficiency. In the ist ed., 1713, as above, Br. Iv., No. 14, In 8 st. of 9 1. The trr. 'are (1) "Thou All-sufficient One: Who art." By Mics Warner, 1858, p. 601, repeated in Hys. of the Apes, Boston, U.S., 1865, p. 193. (2) "Thou, whose love unshaken." In the Christian Treasury, 1858, p. 453, signed "B.," Le. J. D. Burns. (3) "All-sufficient Dealers," By 17. J. F. Hurst, in his tr. of K. R. Hagenbach's Hist. of the Church, 18th and 18th centuries, N. Y., 1859, vol. I. p. 142.

xii. Baid saulet sish mein Pilgesweg. Etcand Life. In the 2th ed., 1768, as above, R. B. il., No. 103, in 11s. of 8 I. Previously in the supplemental bymns appended to some copies of the 8th ed. Tr. as "Weary heart, be not desponding." By Lady Dardad, 1813, p. 84.

xiii. Barafine Seelan! sohlaft; siabl. Lent. In the 4th ed., 1748, as above, Bk. iil., No. 83, in 6 st. of 5 I. The tra. are (1) "Yesleeping souls, awake From dreams of carnal case." By B. Lackson, in his Life of Parrieges, 1822 (1857, p. 413) (2) "Steep not, 0 Soul by God awakened." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 98.

xiv. Bas imagre Somenlicht ist da. Morning. In the 1st ed., 1728, as above, Bk. iv., No. 24, in 8 st. of 41. Tr. as (1) "The World's bright Sun is risen on high." By H. J. Buckool, 1842, p. 51. (2) "The outer sunlight now is there." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 75.

xv. Das Erem ist dennesh gut. Cross and Consolation. In the 2nd ed., 1738, as above, Bk. iil., No. 40, in 1st. of 6 II. Jr. as "The Cross is ever good." By Mrs. Findlater in H. L. L., 1862, p. 72 (1884, p. 234), repeated in Lyra Micraianica, 1884.

xvi. Dis Büimlein klein und gross in meines Herren Garten. On the Graces of the Rew Partament. In the 2th ed., 1768, as above, Bk. iil., No. 40, in 1sex of 7 tholuck's Stendens, 1853, p. 114. (2) "Fill many flowers, in my Lurd's garden blooming." By Dr. R. Menxies in his tr. of Tholuck's Stendens, 1853, p. 114. (2) "Fill many flowers, in my Lurd's garden blooming." By Dr. R. Menxies in his tr. of Tholuck's Stendens, 1853, p. 114. (2)

Bk. III., No. 33, 16 8 st. of 6 L. The form fr. into English is that in Gosmer's Sassatium, 1825. No. 577, in the Berlin G. L. S., cd. 1883, No. 1694, and others, and consists of st. (v.-vi., L., II., vill., iii., vill., beginning "lich bete an die Macht der Liebe." The trs. are (1) "Constrain'd by love so warm and tender." By B. Massis in the British Herald, April, 1885, p. 55, repeated in Beld's Praise Bk., 1879, No. 436, (2) "My soul adores the might of loving." By Mrs. Edmand Ashley in the British Readd Saris.

might of loving." By Mrs. Edmund Ashley in the British Heroid, Sept., 1867, p. 188, repeated in Reid's Praits Bk., 1872, No. 581.

xiv. Gresser Gott, in dem ich schwebe. God's Presence. In the 4th ed., 1745, as above, Bk. iii., No. 80, in 16 st., of 41. Zr. as "God, in Whom I have my being." By Lady Darvard, 1873, p. 31.

xx. Jayobart ihr Himmel' Problecket for englische Chiken. Christeaus. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. iii., No. 29, in 8 st. of 51. In the Berlin G. E. ed. 1863, No. 165. Zr. as "Triumph, ye heavens! rejoice ye with high adoration." In the British Heraid, Sept., 1866, p. 329, and in Beld's Praits Bk., 1873, No. 414.

xxi. Jesti. den led meine. Life in Christ. In the 1st.

xxi, Jesu, den ich meine, Life in Christ. In the 1st ed., 1729, se above, Br. jit, No. 15, in 11 st. of 8 l. Tr. as "Jesus, whom I long for." By Lady Durand, 1873.

rail. Jesus-Ham, 4u höchster Hame. The Name of Jesus. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. ili., No. 30, in 8 st. of 8 l. Previously in the Hesse-Homburg G.B., 1734, No. 351. Tr. as "Jesu's name, then higher hame." By S. Jackson in his Life of Terateegen, 1832 hame." By S. Jackson in his Lys of 121 section, 1002 (1837, p. 415).

radii. Liebworther, slieser Gottse-Wille. Resignation to the Will of God. In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. til., No. 19, in 10 st. of 4 l. The 1st. are (1) "Thou sweet beloved Will of God." By 263. Becaus, 1858, p. 14. Of this st. i., ii, were adopted as st. i., ii, of No.

257 iin J. Mountain's Hys. of Consecration and Faith,
(2) "O Will of God, all sweet and perfect." By Lady Durand, 1873, p. 96.

Durond, 1873, p. 96.

main. Main games Blan. Lent. Turning to God.

In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. Iv., No. 25, in 6 st. of

81. 77. as "My whole desire Doth deeply turn away."

By Miss Warser, 1829, p. 30.

may. Mein Gott, mein Gott, mein wahres Leben.

Self-Destocton. In the 5th ed., 1761, as above. Bk. ill.,

No. 85, in 3 st. of 8 1. 77. as "My God, my God, my

His divine!" By S. Jackson in his Life of Texteeges, life divine: "By G. January in Land 1822 (1837, p. 414).

1832 (1827, p. 143).

Ext. Hain Hers, ein Risen grab and alt. Cross and Consolation. In the 6th ed., 1757, as above, Bk. iii., Ro. 92, in 8 st. of 8 i. Tr. as "A rough and shapeless block of iron is my beart." By Lady Durand, 1873, block of from is my beart." By Lady Durund, 1873, p. 79.

xxvii. Main'n araten Angenbilek. Morning. In the 18t ed., 1729, as above, p. 231, in 2 st. of 61. Tr. as "Each moment I turn me." This is No. 622 in pt. 1. of the Mornings H. BE., 1764 (marked as from "Rain jeden Augenbilek").

xxviii. Kun labet alla Gottas Bohn. Prates to Christ. In the 4th ed., 1743, as above, Bk. tii., No. 84, in 8 st. of 61. Tr. as "Give glory to the Son of God." By Mrs. Berga, 1858, p. 76.

xxix. O Jean, Ranig, hoch an ahrem. Not-surrender. In the 2nd ed., 1734, as above, Bk. fii., No. 33, in 12 st. of 41. Praviously in the Hesse-Homburg G. B., 1734, No., 362, Tr. as "O Jeans, Lord of majesty." By Miss Winkstorth, 1868, p. 136.

xxxx. Bo gehts won Schritt zu Bahritt. For the Dying. In the 4th ed., 1743, as above, Hk. fiil., No. 73, in 11 st. of 61. Tr. as "Thus, step by step, my journey to the Infinite." By Lady Durund, 1873, p. 106.

xxxii. So ist denn deeh zun abermal ein Sahr. New Pear. In the 1th el., 1783, as above, Bk. lii., No. 97, in 7 st. of 41., entitled Slucere disposition on New Year's Day or on one's Birthday, and with the note: "This wrote for my birthday, when I was 63 years old, and then the first line began, 'So ist dann auch meln grosses Sunfonjahr." It is one of ithe supplemental hymns appended to some copies of the 6th ed., 1757. Tr. as "Thus, then sucher year of pilgrim-life." By Lady Darond, 1873, p. 73.

xxxii. Sollt ish night galassen sein. Crus and Consolution. In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 17, in 3 st. of 4 1. Tr. as "Should I not be meek and still." By Mrs. Began, 189, p. 45.

xxxiii. You allem Diagon ab, Tarving to God. In solution. In the let ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 17, in 3 et. of 41. Tr. as "Should I not be meek and still." By Mrs. Becon, 1889, p. 45.

xxxiii. Von allem Dingen ab, Turning to God. In the 6th ed., 1751, as above, Bk. iii., No. 86, in 9 st. of 61. Tr. as "From all created things." By Lady Buvand, 1813, p. 100.

xxxiv, Wis birt du mir he innig gut, The Grace of Christ. In the 2nd ed., 1735, as above, Bk. iii., No. 39, in 14 st. of 41. Previously in the Hesse-Homburg G. S., 1734, No. 1120. In Bunsen's Vernach, 1823, No. 757, and Knapp's Be. L. S., 1837 and 1885. Weitten in 174 at the close of his time of spiritual despondency. "This state of spiritual darkness continued five years; until at length whilst on a fourney to a neighbouring town, the day-spring from on high again visited him; and the atoning inercy of Jesus Christ was made so deeply and convincingly apparent to him, that his heart was set entirely at veet. On this occasion he cumposed that beautiful hymn, &c." (see S. Jackson's Life of Terdesgen, ed. 1837, p. 7). Tr. as "How grachous, kind, and good, My great High Priest art Thon" (st. i.-v.), No. 14 in Dr. Leitchild's Original Hys., 1842.

xxiv. Wisderum ein Augenblick. The Night of Twee. In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, p. 252, in 61. In the 1th ed., 1735, its. its, No. 109, in 2 t. of 61. Tr. us (1) "Or my Time one Minute more." As No. 690, in pt. 1, of the Moravias H. Bk., 1754. (2) "One more lying moment." By Lody Darmad, 1675, p. 28.

xxiv. Willkumm'n, warklifter Gertess Bohn. Enstern the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 22, in 10 st.

nying moment." By Lody Darand, 1875, p. 28.

matri. Willisman'n, varibitive Gottas Soha. Enster.
In the 1st ed., 1729, as above, Bk. iv., No. 22, in 10 st.
of 6 L. The form fr. into English is that in Bunsen's Fermed, 1833, No. 727, which is et. vii.-x., beginning
"Verkintes Haupt, nun lebest du." This is fr. as "O Glorious Read, Thou livest now." By Max Winkington'd, 1855, p. 89. Repeated in Schaffa Carist in Song, 1814.

The first Book of the Blumen-Gärtlein contains short poems, more of the nature of aphonisms than of hymns. In the ed. of 1765 there are in all 568 pieces in Bk. i., and of these Miss Winkworth has tr. Nos. 429, 474, 565. 578, 575, 577 in her Christian Singers, 1869. Others are tr. by Lady Durand, in her Imitations from the German of Spitta and Burns. Appeared in his Vision of Prophecy, Teretegen, 1873, as shove, and by S. Jackson, in his Life of Tersteegen, 1832.

To the 2nd and later eds of the Blumen-Gartlein a collection of aphorisms, entitled Der Frommen Lotterie, was appended. This was enlarged in the successive eds. till the ed. of 1768 contained 381 in all. Of these 200 were selected and tr. by Lady E. A. Durand, and pub. in 1874, as The Spiritual Lettery. A selection translated from Gerhard Tersteegen's [J. M.) Frommen Lotterie.

Thank and praise Jehovah's Name. J. Montgomery. [Ps. cvii.] This version of Ps. 107 was given in his Songs of Zion, 1822, in five numbers as follows :-

- Thank and praise Jehovah's name.

- . I many and praise Jehovah's name.
  They that mourn in dangeon-gloom.
  Fools, for their transgression, see.
  They that toll upon the deep.
  Let the elders praise the Lord.

In his Original Hys., 1853, numbers 1-4 were given as one hymn in four parts, with No. 3 altered to "Sinners, for transgression, see," and making 24 st. of 4 l. in all. The most widely used part is No. 1. It is come-times altered to "Magnify Jehovah's Name." se in the American Baptist Praise Bk., 1871, and other collections.

Θαύματος ύπερφυούς. [Χριστό: γονvârac-]

That holy rite, that solemn vow. E. Oeler. [Holy Baptism.] 1st pub. in Hall's Mitre H. Bk., 1836, No. 107, in 2 st. of 6 l., and again in Osler's Church and King, March. 1837, as the conclusion of an article on "Easter Even." In 1858 it was adopted by the Bap. Ps. & Hymns, No. 711, but the stanzas were transposed, st. ii. being placed first, and thus opening, "Baptized into the Saviour's death." In this form it is found in a few collections.

That we might walk with God. B. Beddome. [Leadings of the Holy Spirit.] This is No. 138 of Beddome's posthumous Hymne Adapted to Public Worship, &c., 1817, in 4 st. of 4 lines, and headed "Leadings of the Spirit." In its original form it is not in C. U.; but it has supplied the following to a large number of American hymn-books:

1. Rairs of meading life. This appeared in the American Prayer Bk. Coll. 1828, No. 210, in 3 et. of 4 l. Of these st. iff. is from Beddome (st. iv.); st ii. Beddome (st. iv.); st ii. Beddome (st. iv.); st iii. Beddome (st. iv.) alter on the rain of the start of use in America

Sometimes Beddome's hymn is dated 1795, the year of his death. [J. J.]

The angel comes: he comes to reap. H. H. Milman. [Second Advent.] 1st pub. in Bp. Heber's posthumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 40, in 4 at. of 4 l., and again in Dean Milman's Sel. of Pe. & Hys., 1837. It is given in several modern hymn-books, including Dala's English H. Bk., 1874, and others.

The apostle slept, a light shone in the prison. [Burlat of the Dead.] J. D.

do., 1858, as a paraphrase of the account contained in Acts xil. of the deliverance of St. Peter from prison. It was repeated in his Poems, 1865, p. 248, in 9 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The death of a Believer." As a whole this hymn is not in C. U., but the cento for the Burial of the Dead, "A voice is heard on earth of kinsfolk weeping," in the Hy. Comp., 1876, is composed of st. vii.—ix. [J. J.]

The ark of God in safety rode. Bp. C. Wordsworth of Lincoln. [For use at Sea.] Appeared in The Holy Year, 1862, p. 216, in 20 st. of 4 l., and entitled, "Prayers at Sea—The Sailors' Hymn." In later editions it is divided into four parts thus.—

Pt. 1. "The ark of God in safety rode."
Pt. 31. "O Thou Whose way is on the waves."
Pt. 31. "Our bodies are with earthly food."
Pt. 1v. "The stars will fall, the sun be dark."

These parts are in the 1869 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Pa. & Hys., st. vi. of the original being omitted. This revision was made by the author. In the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, is a cento composed of st. i., ii., v., xi., xv.-xx. [J. J.]

The billows swell, the winds are high. W. Couper. [Temptation.] Appeared in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. iii., No. 18, in 5 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Temptation." It was extensively adopted by the older collection, but is somewhat restricted in its modernes.

The bird that soars on highest wing. J. Montgomery. [Humility.] This poem appeared in his Poet's Portfolio, 1835, p. 179, in 3 st. of 6 l., and headed "Humility." It is given as a hynn in several collections, including Martineau's Hymus, do., 1840; the Prim. Math. S. School Union H. Bk., 1879, and others in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

The charlot! the charlot! its wheels roll on fire. H. H. Milman. [Advent.] 1st pub. in Bp. Heber's posthumous Hyans, &c., 1827, p. 7, in 5 st. of 4 l., but not included by the author in his Sel. of Ps. & Hys., 1837. It is in several modern hymn-books, including Kennedy, 1863; Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, &c. [J. J.]

The Church has waited long. H. Bosar. [Advent.] Pub. in the Bible H. Bk., 1845, No. 299, in 5 st. of 8 l., with the refrain "Come then, Lord Jesus, come." It was repeated in the 3rd cd. of the author's Songs for the Wilderness, Kelso, 1850, p. 39, and again in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 1857, p. 31. It is in extensive use in G. Britain and America, sometimes without the refrain. [J. J.]

The Church of God lifts up her voice. W. C. Dix. [Easter.] This hymn is based upon a tr. in blank verse by Dr. Littledale of a short hymn near the end of his tr. of the office of the Greek Church for Easter Sunday, as pub, in his Offices from the Service Books of the Holy Bastern Church, &u., 1863, p. 222, and begins in the original Πάσχα τὸ τερατόν. Mr. Dix's rendering was made in 1864, and pub. in 6 st. of 5 l., in the St. Haphael (Bristol) Hys. for Public Worship, No. 203, as one of six additional hymns given at the end of the collections, and headed, "Founded on translation from the Greek. Written by W.

C. D. for St. Raphaels. Easter, 1864." It must be observed that by an error of the printer this note reads as though it referred to No. 292 (another hymn by Mr. Dix), instead of to No. 203, the present hymn. [J. J.]

The Church's one Foundation. S.J. Stone. [Processional for Featerals.] The impression made upon the author's mind by Bishop Gray's (Capetown) noble defence of the Catholic Faith against the teachings of Bishop Colenso, was in chief the origin of this magnificent hymn. It has thus associations of historical value, to which special reference is made in the stanza:—

"Though with a scornful wonder Men see her sore oppress," By schiams rent asunder, By hereeles distrest; Yet eaints their watch are keeping Their cry goes up, 'How long I' And soon the night of weeping Shall be the morn of song."

The hymn was written in 1866, and is based on the ninth article of the Apostles' Creed. It is known in three forms, (1) the original, which was pub. in the author's Lyra Fidelium, 1866, in 7 st. of 8 L, and headed "The Holy Catholic Church: The Communion of Saints. 'He is the Head of the Body, the Church'"; (2) the revised form in 5 st. of 8 L, made in 1868 for, and pub. in the Appendix to H. A. & M., No. 320 (the form in universal use); and (3) the expanded text in 10 st. of 8 L, made in 1835 for Processional use in Salisbury Cathedral. We give here the full form of 1885, with notes in the margin which explain the position of each stanza in 1866 and 1868:—

St. l. in 1866, and 1868.

Ls Jens Christ her Lord:
She is His new creation
By water and the word:
From heaven He came and sought her
To be His Holy Brids
With His own blood He bought her
And for her life He died.

8t. ii. in
1888. and
1868. Yet one o'er all the earth,
Her charter of salvation,
One Lord, one Faith, one Birth;
One Holy Name she blesses,
Partakes one holy Food,
And to one hope she presees
With every grace andued.

St. iii. in 1866; omitted
in 1868.

To guide, smain, and cherinh,
Is with her to the smai;
Though there be those that hale her,
And false cone in her pale,
Against or foe or trattor
She ever shall prevail.

84. iv. in 1866; and st, tii. in 1868, 1868,
1868,
By Sechisms rent aconder,
By beresten distrest;
Yet saints their watch are keeping,
Their cry goes up, ' How long?'
And soon the night of weeping
Shall be the morn of song.

St. v. in 1868, and
st. iv. in 1868, 1868,
1868,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,
1869,

New in 1886.
6. "So, Lord, she stands before Thee, For evermore thine own;
No merit is her glory,
Her boarting this alone;

That she who did not choose Thee

Came, chosen, at Thy call, Never to leave or lose Thes Or from Thy favour fall. 7. " For Thy true word remaineth; New in 1885. No creature far or nigh, No fiend of ill who reigneth In hell or haunted sky;

No doubting world's derision That holds her in despite, Shall bide her from Thy vision, Shall lure her from Thy light. a. " Thine. Thinst in bliss or sorrow. New in 1885. As well in shade as shine: Of old, to-day, to-morrow, To all the ages, Thine!
Thine in her great commission,
Baptized into Thy Name,
And In her last fruition

Of all her hope and aim.

9. " As she on earth bath union With God, the Three in One, St. vl. in 1866 ; st. v., Jl. 1-4, in 1848 ; So hath she sweet communion With those whose rest is won; With all her sons and daughters, il. 5-8 omitted in 1868. Who by the Master's hand Led through the deathly waters, Repose in Eden-land.

10. "O happy once and boly!
Lord, give us grace that we
Like them, the meek and lowly,
On high may dwelt with Thee; St. vil. m 1866; 11. 1-4 in LSGS. There past the border mountains,
Where, in sweet vales, the Bride
With Thee, by living fountains,
For ever shall abide. Amen."

A collation of the above text of 1885, with those of 1866 and 1868, gives the following results :-

St. I. The same in all

St. i. The same in all.

St. ii. In 1866, line I reads "She is from every," &c.

St. iii. The same in 1866 and 1885.

St. vi., vi. The same in all.

St. vi., vii., vii. New in 1886.

St. ix. In 1886 and 1899, l. 1-4 read:

"Yet she on earth hath union
With God the Three in One, wind cross over tures in the And mystic sweet communion.

With those whose rest is won."
St. ix., ll. 5-2, same in 1865, not in 1865,
St. x., ll. 1-4, same in all; ll. 5-3, same in 1866 and 1885, not in 1888. This collation and further reference to the full text shew that the 1868 version of the hymn is the finest of the three, and that which will live in the hymn-books of the future. The use of this form of the text is most extensive in all English-speaking countries. It has also been translated into several European and other languages. The versions in Latin include " Nobis unum est fundamen," by the Rev. E. Marshall, 1882 (and circulated as a card); and "Qui Ecclesiam instauravit," by the late T.G. Godfrey-Faussett, in Memorials, 1878.

In reference to the fact that this hymn was chosen as the Processional at each of the three great services at Cauterbury Cathedral, at Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral, when all the Bishops of the Lambeth Conference of 1888 assembled, the following lines were written by Bishop Nelson, of New Zee-land. They appeared in Church Bells of Nov. 30, 1888.

"Bard of the Church, in these divided days
For words of harmony to thee be praise:
Of love and oneness thou didst strike the chords, And set our thoughts and prayers to tuneful words. The Church's one Foundation thou didst sing. Beauty and Bands to Her thy numbers bring. Through church and chancel, siele, and transept deep, In fullest melody thy watch-notes sweep;

The city paved with Gold. Bp. W. W. How. [The New Jerusalem.] "Written for Church Hymns, 1871. Designed specially as a counteractive to the merely materialist and futurist tone of many of the ordinary 'Jerusalem' hymns" (Notes on Ch. Hymns, p. lxxxiii.). This is attempted to be accomplished by giving a spiritual meaning to the "gold" and "gates of pearl," &c., of the New Jerusalem, as for instance:—

"The gates of pearl are there
In penitential tears,
Bright as a level rare
Each saintly grace appears:
We track the path saints trod of old,
And lo I the pavement is of gold!"

is said of the "true kingdom" within the man. Although well conceived, and executed in good style, it has failed to gain attention, and is very limited in its use.

The day is past and gone, Great God, we bow to Thee. W. J. Blew and J. Ellerton. [Evening.] This is a cento from Mr. Blew's tr. of "Grates, peracto jam die" (p. 451, 1.), with original additions by Mr. Ellerton. Mr. Blow's tr. appeared in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55, in 6 st. of 4 l. In 1868 Mr. Ellerton compiled the cento for the Nantwich Festival of Choirs. It was composed of 4 st. from Mr. Blew's tr., 3 original st. by Mr. Ellerton, and a doxology, thus:-

i. The day is past and gone. Blew.
ii. O when shall that day come. Blew.
iii. Where all things shall be peace. Blew.
iv. Faint are our voices here. Election.
v. Yet, Lord, to Thy dear will. Ellecton.
vi. This Thine each soul to calm. Ellecton, vii. Until at rest beneath. Blew.
viii. One Gord the Father. Son. Decalegy. viii. One God, the Father, Son. Dorology,

In 1869 this cento was rewritten in 6 at. as "The day of praise is done," and pub. in the Rev. R. Brown-Borthwick's Supplemental Hy. & Tune Bk., and again in his Select Hymne, 1871. This text was revised by Mr. Ellerton for the S. P. C. K. Church Hye., where it was given in 1871 as "Our day of praise is done." In this form it has nothing of Blew's hymn except that the line of thought is the same. It is a hymn of great merit, and in popularity and extensiveness of use it is unequalled by any of Mr. Ellerton's original hymns except his "Saviour, again to Thy dear name we raise," which was also written for a Nantwich Choral Festival. [J. J.]

The day, O Lord, is spent. J. M. Neale. [Evening.] 1st pub. in his Hymns for Children, 1st series, 1842. No. xviii., in 4 st. of 4 L, and given as a daily hymn for use at 6 P.M. It is in a large number of hymnbooks, and usually unaltered, as in Thring's Coll., 1882. In the Cooke and Denton Hymnal, 1853, No. 199, in 4 st. of 4 l., beginning, "Saviour, abide with us," is a cento, of which st. i. and iv. are by Canon W. Cooke, and at ii. and iii., the corresponding stanzas of this hymn, by Dr. Neale. This cento is re-peated in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymna, 1871, with the omission of the doxology.  $\{J, J, J, I\}$

The days of old were days of might. In fullest melody thy watch-mote sweep;

Now in the desert, now upon the main,
In mine and forest, and on citied plain:

From Lambeth towers to far New Zealand's coast,
Bard of the Church, thy biast inspires the bost." [J.J.]

Jane E. Leeson. [The Duys of Old.] Pub. in her Songe of Christian Chivalry, 1848, No. 2?, in 4 st. of 6 l., and entitled, "The Days of Old." In Kennedy, 1863, No. 1396, it is altered to "The ancient days were days of might." It is a plaintive poem mourning departed greatness. It is answered by No. 22, "Yes, watch and wait a little while," which is entitled "Rejoinder," and is a poem of faith in and hope for the future. [J. J.]

The deluge, at the Almighty's call. P. Doddridge. [Safety in Christ.] Pub. in Job Orton's posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 336, in 7 st. of 4 l., and again in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 862, and in each case with the heading, "Noah preserved in the Ark, and the Believer in Christ." In H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Coll., 1855, st. ii., ill. are omitted, whilst in the Presby, Ps. & Hys. for the Worship of God, 1867, st. vi., vii. are given as "Enter the ark, while patience waits." [J. J.]

The eternal gates lift up their heads. Cocil F. Alexander, née Humphreya. [Ascen-sion.] Contributed to the S. P. C. K. Hymns, 1852, No. 62, in 5 st. of 41. In 1858 it was published in a revised form in Mrs. Alexander's Hys. Descriptive and Devotional, No. 14, as "The Golden gates are lifted up." It is in C. U. in both forms : but the earlier is the more widely used of the two. In addition st. iii., iv. are given in the American Unitarian Hus. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864, as "O, ever on our earthly path." [J. J.]

The fabric of nature is fair. S. Pearce. [During Sickness.] This poem, for it cannot be called a hymn, unless taken as such for private devotion, appeared in A. Fuller's Memoir of Samuel Pearce, 1800, and again in the 2nd ed., 1801, at the end of the Memoir. It is in 15 st. of 4 l., and entitled "On being prevented by sickness from attending on Public Worship." It was added to Rippon's Sci. in 1800, No. 540, Pt. ii., through which it passed [J. J.] into other collections.

The faithful men of every land. Cecil F. Alexander, nee Humphreys. [Holy Catholic Church.] 1st pub. in her Hys. for Little Children, 1848, No. 16, in 8 st. of 4 l., and headed with the words from the Apostles' Creed, "The Holy Catholic Church." In many instances where the hymn is in C. U. the following stanzas are omitted (iv., v.):-

" All members of one body vast
With Jesus for their Head,
And Secrements whereby their souls Are born again and fed; " And Bishops good to order them, And Priests to train and teach,-This is the Holy Church, wherein We have our places each."

The hymn in full or in part is in several collections. [J. J.]

The festal morn, my [O] God is some. J. Merrick. [Ps. exxii. Sunday Morning.] Pub. in his Poems, 1768; and again in his Psalms Translated or Paraphrased in English Verse, 1765, p. 827, in 7 et. of 6 l. It was given in several of the older, and is still retained in a few modern collections, but usually in an abbreviated and slightly altered form, as in Hatfield's Church peated in several American collections, including The Church Hymnal, Philadelphia, 1869; and in 4 st. in the Protestant Episco. Church Hymnal, 1871. [J. J.]

The first sad hours of shame. H. Alford. [Annunciation of B. V. M.] 1st pub. in his Re. & Hys., 1844, No. 82, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in his Year of Proise, 1867, No. 258. Its use is limited. [J. J.]

The foe behind, the deep before. J. M. Neale. [Easter Carol.] This carol for Easter was pub. in his Carols for Easter-tide, 1854, p. 55, in 12 at. It is found in several modern hymn-books, but usually in an abbreviated form. It reads like an Ode from a Greek Canon, and is sometimes taken for one. As Dr. Neale fr. the Canon for Easter by St. John of Damascus, "Tis the day of resurrection" in 1853, and this Carol for Easter was pub. in 1854, it is not improbable that the direct source of inspiration was the Greek of St. John, although many of Neale's carols for Easter-tide are "free imitations" of Latin Sequences (see Preface). [J. J.]

The gath'ring clouds with aspect dark. J. Newton. [In Time of War.] In the Rev. Josiah Bull's John Newton of Olney and St. Mary Woolnoth, 1868, p. 210, there is the following entry from Newton's Diary:-

"31st [May 31st, 1775.] The paper this evening brought an account of the commencement of hostilities In New England, and many killed on both eides. It thinss, I fear, are the beginning of sorrows. O the could be suitably affected with what I see and hear."

Mr. Bull adds to this extract :-

"A few days afterwards Mr. Newton says that having proposed an extraordinary meeting for prayer weekly on account of the times, we began this morning; and, though we met at five o'clock, more people were present than we usually have in the evening."

Following this is a further extract from Newton's Diary :-

"Sonday, June 11th [1776]. In the evening I gave a brief sketch of the past and present state of the nation, with a view to engage the people to attendance on our Tuesday morning meetings by apprising them of the importance of the present crisis. Hymn 201 was composed for this service."

The hymn thus referred to was that now under notice. In the July number of the Gospel Magazine it was given in 9 st. of 4 l., headed "On the Times," and signed "Vigil." It appeared in the Olney Hymns, 1779, as No. 64 of Bk. ii., and with the heading, "On the Commencement of Hostilities in America. Beyond these historical and biographical associations the hymn has little value, and could not be used except under very exceptional circumstances. [J, J.]

The glorious myriads round the throne. A. Rutherford. [Saints in Glory; or All Saints Day.] This hymn is found in the 5th ed. of the Glassite or Sandemanian Christian Songs, &c., Dundee, L. Chalmers, &c., 1775, No. 69 [see Scottish Rymnesty, & x. 8]; and again in later editions of the same. In its rewritten form as, "The countless multitude on high," it is found in the 1830 Appendictions of the same. dix to the Scottish Bapt. Ps., Hys. & Spiritual Songs, No. 448. It has passed into several H. Bk., N. Y., 1872; E. Pront's Psalmist, 1878, and others. In the American Prayer Psisley, 1871; Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, Bk. Coll., 1826, st. i.—v. were given as "With loy shall I behold the day." This form is re-

The glorious universe around. Montgomery. [Communion of Saints.] This hymn appeared in the Leeds Sci. of Hys., Compiled and Original, &c., by E. Patsons and others, 1822, No. 829, in 5 st. of 41. In Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 476, it was given with a slight revision and the addition of the stanza. The earth, the ocean, and the sky "as st. ii, in its revised form of 6 st. The same text was repeated in his Original Hys., 1858. In Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, st. iv.-vi. of the 1825 text are given as "In one fraternal bond of love." [J. J.]

The glory of the Spring, how sweet. T. H. Gill. [Spring.] "Composed at Whitsuntide, 1867, and 1st printed in the Golden Chain, &c., 1869," No. 112, in 9 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The Divine Renewer. 'Thou renewest the face of the earth.' 'Be renewed in the spirit of your mind." It is an exquisite lyric, and has been somewhat widely used, but usually with the omission of one or more stanzas. In G. Britsin it is in Dale's English H. Bk., 1874, No. 1143; the Bapt. Hymnal, 1879, No. 816; Horder's Cong. Hymne, 1884, No. 622, and others, and in America in the Songe of the Spirit, N. Y., 1871, &c. [J. J.]

The God of Abraham preise. T. Olivers. [Praise to and Trust in the God of Abraham.] Concerning the origin and first publication of this hymn somewhat conflicting accounts are in circulation. The most circumstantial is that quoted by Miller from an unauthenticated source. (Singers & Songs, 1869, p. 245) :-

The son of a Wesleyan Minister said a few years ago, "I remember my father telling me that he was once standing in the siste of City Road Chapel, during a conference in Wesley's time. Thomas Olivers, one of the preachers, came down to him and said, 'Look at this; I have rendered it from the Hebrew, giving it, as far as I Synagogues.

could, a Christian character, and I have called on Leoni, the Jew, who has given me a synagogue melody to suit it; here is the tune, and it is to be called Leont."

On communicating with the late Rev. Dr. Adler, the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire, we find that this account of the origin of this hymn is as near the actual facts as possible. The hymn is a free rendering, with, as Olivers puts it, as decided "a Christian character" as he could give to it, of the Hebrew Yigdal or Doxology, which rehearses in metrical form the thirteen articles of the Hebrew Creed. The Yigdal is supposed to have been composed by Daniel ben Judah, a Medizeval writer, the date of whose birth and death is unknown. The thirteen articles were drawn up by Moses Maimonides (1130-1205), the first who formulated the Dogmas of Judaism. [See article on the Dogmas of Judaism in the Jereish Quarterly Review, October, 1888.] The Yigdal is contained in the Hebrew daily Prayer Books, and is sung at the conclusion of divine service on the eve of Sabbaths and Festivals. Leoni, or rather Meyer Lyon, was chorister at the Great Synagogue, Duke's Place, Aldgate, London, at the end of the last century. Leoni sang the Hebrew Yigdal to the melody now known as Leoni. It is still chanted on Friday evening in every Synagogue of the British Empire, and at the family worship in Jewish homes (Dr. Adler's MS.)

As this hymn, both in its Hebrew form, and as a paraphrase by Olivers, is of world-wide interest, we append (1) The Hebrew Text, as used in the Jewish Synagogues, supplied by Dr. Adler, (2) A literal translation, as appended to the Hebrew text in the printed form as used in some of the Synagogues, supplied by Dr. Adler, (3) the Paraphrage by Olivers, and (4) The Melody, as sung in the Jewish

i. The Helmero Text.

t, The Henrice Team
:	ַנְמַצָּא וְאֵין מֵת אֶל מְצִיאוּתוֹ	٠	ַנְדֵּל אֶלֹהִים חָי נְיִשְׁהַבָּח
:	נֶעְלֶם וְגַם אֵין סוֹף לְאַחְדּוּתוֹ	٠	אָרָר וְאֵינְ יָחִיר כְּיָהוּדוֹ
:	לא נְעַרוֹן אֶלְיו קרָשָּׁתוֹ	٠	אין לא דָמוּת הָנוּף וְאַינוֹ נוּף
:	ראשון ואין ראשית לראשיתו	٠	קּרְמוֹן לְכָלֹיֶיבָר אֲשֶׁר וִבְּרָא
:	יוֹרֶה נְּדֻלַּחוֹ וּמֵלְכוּחוֹ	•	הָנּוֹ אֲרוֹן עוֹלֶם לְכָל־נוֹצֵר
t	אַנְשִׁי סָּלָלָהוֹ וְתִפְּאָרְהּוֹ		יָּשָׁפַע רְבַרּאָחוֹ נְחָנוֹ. אֶל־
:	נָבִיא וּמִבִּים אֶת־תְּמוּנְתוֹ	•	לא כָם בִּיִשְׂרָאֵל בְּמִשְׁה עוֹר
:	שַלֹיִד נָכִיאוֹ נָאֲכַוּן בֵּיתוֹ	٠	חוֹרַת אֲּמֶת נָתַן לְעַמוֹ אֵל
:	לְשוֹלֶמִים לְזוּלֶתוֹ		לא יַחֲלִיף הָאֵל וְלֹא יָכִיר בָּתוּ
:	מַבִּים לְסוֹף דָּבָר בְּבַּרְמָתוֹ	٠	צוֹפֶה וְיוֹבֵעַ סְתְרֵינוּ
:	נותן לְרָשָׁע רָע כְּרִשְׁעָחוֹ	٠	נוֹמֵל לְאִישׁ חֶפֶר בְּמִפְּעָלוֹ
:	לְפָּדּוֹת בְּחָתָּנִי כֵּץ יְשׁיּעָתוֹ	•	נָשְׁלַח לְפִין יָפִין מְשִׁיחֵנוּ
:	בָּרוּהְ עַבִייעַר יַּמֶם הְוּהִלְּתוֹ	٠	מַתִּים יְתַנֶּה אֵל בְּרֹב חַקְּדּוֹ

ii. A literal Translation of the same.

Extelled and preised be the living God, who exists unbounded by time. He is one of unparalleled unity, invisible and eternal.
Without form or figure,—incorporal,—boly beyond conception.
Prior to all created things,—the first, without date or beginning.
Lo! He is Lord of the world and all creation, which evince His greatness and dominion.

The flow of His prophetic spirit has He imparted to men selected for His glory.

No one has appeared in Israel like unto Moses; a prophet, beholding His glorious semblance.
God has given the true law to His people, by the hands of his trusty prophet.

This law, God will never alter nor change for any other.

He perceives and is acquainted with our secrets,—sees the end of all things at their very beginning.

He rewards man with kindness according to his work; dispenses punishment to the wicked, according to his

At the end of days by Him appointed, will He send our Messiah, to redeem those who hope for final salvation. God, in His great mercy, will recall the dead to life. Praised be His glorious name for evermore, iil. The Paraphrase by T. Olivers.

" PART THE FIRST.

"The God of Abrah'm praise,
Who reigns enthroned above;
Antient of everlasting days,
And God of Love: JEHOVAH GREAT I AW!
By earth and heav'n confest;
I how and bless the sacred Name,
For ever bless'd.

'The God of Abrah'm praise, At whose supreme command, From earth I rise—and seek the joys At his right hand; I all on earth foreake, Its wisdom, fame, and power; And him my only Portion make, My Shield and Tower.

"The God of Abrah'm praise, Whose all-sufficient grace Shall guide me all my happy days, In all my ways:
He calls a worm his friend!
He calls himself my God!
And he shall save me to the end
Thro' Jesu's blood.

"He by Himself bath aworn,
I on his oath depend,
I shall, on eagle's wings up-borne,
To beaven ascend;
I shall behold his face,
I shall his power adore,
And sing the worders of his grace
For evermore.

" PART THE SECOND.

"The nature's strength decay.
And earth and hell withstand,
To Canaan's bounds I urge my way, At his command: The wat'ry deep I pasa. With Jesus in my view : And thro' the howling wilderness My way pursue.

"The goodly land I see, With peace and plenty bless'd; A land of sacred liberty, A such and endless rest.
There milk and honey flow;
And oll and wine abound,
And trees of life for ever grow,
With Mercy crown'd.

"There dwells the Lord our King, Tag Logo our Eightgouskess (Triumphant o'er the world and sin), The Prince of Prace; On Siou's sacred height, His Kingdom still maintains; And glorious with his saints in light,

For ever reigne. "He keeps his own secure,
He guards them by his side,
Arrays in garments, white and pure,
His spotless bride:
With streams of secret biles,
With groves of living joys—
With all the fruits of Paradise
He still supplies.

" PART THE THIRD.

1X. "Before the great THREZ-ONE They all exuiting stand; And sell the wonders he hath done Thro' all their land; The list'ning spheres attend, And swell the growing fame; And sing the songs which never end, The wond'rous NAME.

" The God who reigns on high, "The God who reigns on high,
The great archangels sing.
And 'Holy, holy, holy, 'ory,
'Alcohorty Kino!
'Who Was, and is, the same;
'And evermore shall be;
'Fenovar - Farner-Great I Au!
'We worship Thee.'

Xt.

"Before the Savioun's face
The rancom'd nations bow;
O'erwheim'd at his Almighty grace, For ever new:
He shows his prints of Love—
They kindle—to a fiame!
And sound thro' all the worlds above,
The slaughter'd Lamb.

XII. "The whole triumphant host, Give thanks to God on high; 'Hisi', FATHER, SOY, and HOLY-GHOST,' They ever cry: Hall, Abrah'm's GOD—and wine! (I join the heav'nly lays,)
All Might and Majesty are Thine
And endless Praise."

The title of the tract, from which this text is reprinted, is:-

A Hymn to the Gol of Abraham. In Three Parts: Adapted to a celebrated Air, sung by the Priest, Signior Leoni, &c., at the Levil Synagogue, in London: By Thomas Olivers. [Quotations of H. Scripture.] Not-lingham, Printed by S. Creswell, Bookseller, &c.

Tradition says that Olivers wrote the hymn at the house of John Bakewell (p. 108, 1), at Westminster, in 1770. The copy from which we print is undated; the 4th ed. is 1772; 5th, 1772; 6th (London and Philadelphia) and 7th, 1778; 8th, Pine, Bristol, 1773. In addition to its use in an abbreviated form in varying lengths, all beginning with the first stanza, there are also the following centos:-

amonas, there are also and following contos:—

1. By faith we, day to day. This, in T. Darling's Bys. for the Church of England, 1887, is a cento in 3 st. from T. Olivers and T. Darling.

2. The God whe reigns on high. This is the most popular cento of any, and is in numerous hymnals in 6. Britain and America. It begins with st. x.

3. The goodly land I see. This, opening with st. vi., is in several collections in G. Britain and America.

4. Though murch strength be weak. This cento, in the Paople's H., 1867, in 9 st. of 41. is in s. m., and is a portion of Olivers's hymn, beginning with st. v., rewritten by Dr. Littledaie.

portion to Outer's nymn, asgming with st. V., re-written by Dr. Littledale.

5. Though natura's strength decay. This cente, be-ginning with st. v., is in a few collections only, including Kennedy, 1863.

6. Where dwells the glorious King? This, in Darling's Hys. for the Church of England, 1989, is besed on this hymn.

Christophers in his Epworth Singers, Stevenson in his Methodiet H. Bk. Notes, 1883, and Duffield in his English Hymne, 1886, enter largely upon the spiritual use of striking portions of this hymn to many individuals. Stevenson's account is specially worthy of attention. Under date of July 29, 1805. Henry Martyn, then on the eve of his voyage to India, wrote :--

"I was much engaged at intervals in learning the bymn, 'The God of Abraham praise'; as often as I could use the language of it with any truth, my heart was a little at ease. There was something peculiarly solemn and affecting to me in this hymn, and particularly at this time. The truth of the sentiments I knew well enough. But, alsa ! I felt that the state of mind expressed in it was above mine at the time, and I felt loath to forsake all on earth."

The opinion of James Montgomery as expressed in the "Introductory Essay" to his Christian Psahaist, 1825, is just and discriminating. Had I a known, however, that this "noble ode" by "an unlettered man" had its inspiration in, and was built up from, the netrical form of the Hebrew creed, his astonishment at the result would have been somewhat modified. His note is:—

"That notices. Let inde is."

"The though the essay of an unlettered man, claims especial honour. There is not in our language a lyric of more majestic style, more obserted thought, or more glorious imagery; its structure, indeed, is unstructive; and, on account of the abort lines, occasionally uncouth; but, like a stately pile of architecture, severe and simple in design, it strices less on the first view than after deliberate examination, when its proportions become more graceful, its dimensions expand, and the mind itself grows greater in contemplating it."

Preface, p. xxviii.

iv. The Melody.

The following melody has been supplied by the Rev. Francis L. Cohen, Minister of the Borough New Synagogue, London.—

YIGDAL "LEONL"

Mr. Cohen accompanies the melody with the following note:-

"In Leon's time it is most unlikely that its [The Melody's] Synagogue version was written in score at all, for our knowledge of the condition of Synagogue music in those days leads us to believe it was then amp in mison, with no doubt an emprovised accompaniment by the 'bass,' and 'singer' (i.e. soprano), who as 'meshorrorim' (i.e. scompanying singer) outsined the Haram, (precentor). I give you, however, the most correct form of the melody at present in use.

In composition with this house and the

In connection with this hymn and the above Melody, it may be of interest to note a few facts concerning Leoni himself. is sometimes said to have been the uncle of the celebrated Braham, but for this statement there is no evidence. Both were choristers at the same time in the Great Synagogue, Duke's Place, London. Braham left the synagogue for the stage. Leoni was also a public singer either at Drury Lane, or Covent Garden. It is said that his voice surpassed that of Braham in sweetness and melody. In every Braham in eweetness and melody. other respect he was unsuited for the stage, and his appearance was a failure. Subsequently he became the first qualified chazan of the English and German Synagogue in Jamaica. Leoni died in Jamaica. (See Jewish Chronicle, Dec. 26, 1873.) [J, J,]

The God of glory walks His round. Bp. B. Heber. [Septuagesima.] Pub. in his posthumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 44, in 6 st. of 4 l., and is based on the Parable of the Labourers in the Vineyard. It is in C. U. in its original form; as "The God of mercy warms us all," in Kennedy, 1863; and as "The God of Glory looks around" in others. [J. J.]

The God of harvest praise. J. Mostgomery. [Harvest.] The original Ms. of this hymn is dated 1840. From Holland's Memoirs of Montgomery we flud that in August, 1840, the poet visited the widow of R. C. Brackenbury (p. 183, 1.), of Raithby Hall, Spilaby, Lincolnshire, and that on his return journey he wrote this hymn. On reaching Sheffield he gave the stanzas to Holland, saying, "You may do what you like with them." Holland adds, "The hint was well understood, and the author's townsmen had the pleasure of reading his beautiful harvest hymn the next day in the Sheffield Meroury" (Memotre, vol. v. p. 407). It was also printed in the Evangelical Magazine of Nov. 1840, as "A Harvest Hymn for 1840," and dated "The Mount, Sheffield, Sept. 1840," Montgomery included it in his Original Hys., 1853, No. 279, in 7 st. of 71. It is a spirited hymn, and in an abbreviated form would be of some value.

The God of love my Shepherd is. [Ps. 225if.] Various versions of Ps. 23, each beginning with the same first line are in C. U. These are:—

1. George Herbert's version, pub. posthumously in his Temple, 1633, in 6 st. of 4 l, and repeated in all subsequent editions of the same. The first stanza is:—

"The God of love my Shepherd is, "
And He that doth me feed;
White He is mine and I am His,
What can I want or need?"

 George Rawson's rendering in the Leeds H. Bk., 1858, No. 26, is based upon the above by Herbert, and the first stanza is:—

"The God of love my Shepherd is, To watch me and to feed; Since He is mine and I am His, What can I ever need?"

This text was slightly altered by Mr. Rawson for the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, and again | for his Hymns, Verses and Chants, 1876.

8. G. Rawson has a second version of Ps. 23 in his Hymns, &c., 1876, the opening stanza of which is:—

"My Shepherd is the Living Lord, So I can never need; In pastures green Still streams between I lay me down to feed."

4. G. Rawson's third version in his Hymns, &c., 1876, in 6 st. of 4 l., begins :--

"The God of love my Shapherd is, My gracious constant Guide; I shall not want, for I am His: In all supplied."

This was given in Thring's Coll., 1882, with a new verse by Prebendary Thring in the place of Mr. Rawson's st. v. The latter reads:—

"Thy grace autounds my demon foce;
True oli of joy is mine;
My cup of mercy overflows
With care divine,"

Prebendary Thring's substitute is:

"Theo spreadst my table 'mid my foce,
The oil of grace is mine,
My cup with mercy overflows
And love divine."

5. Mr. Rawson, not content with his original version, supplied us with the following in Ms.:—

" God is my host, His welcome glows;
The fistal oil is mine;
My board is spread, my cup o'erdows,
By care divine."

To our mind Probendary Thring's version is the most acceptable of the three renderings of the fifth stanza. [J. J.]

The God of nature and of grace. J. Montgomery. [Glory of God in Creation.] Pub. in his Greenland and other Poems, 1819, 174, in 10 st. of 4 1., and headed, "The Visible Crention." It was repeated the same year in Cotterill's Sel., No. 331, in 8 st. of 4 1.; again in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 520, also in 8 st. of 4 1. (alightly altered); and again, in the same form, in his Original Hymns, 1833. In Kennedy, 1863, No. 338, st. i., and st. il. 11. 1-4, are from this hymn—the rest of the cento being by Dr. Kennedy. The cento begins with the same first line as above. In addition there are in C. U. two centos from the original: (1) "Behold this fair and fertile globe" (st. ii.), and (2) "How excellent, O Lord, Thy Name." [J. J.]

The golden gates are lifted up. Cecil F. Alexander, nee Humphreys. [Ascention.] Pub. in her Hymne Descriptive and Devotional, &c., 1858, No. 14, in 5 st. of ± 1., and repeated in later editions. It is in C. U. in its full form, and also as "Thou art gone up before us, Lord," beginning with st. ii. [J. J.]

The great Apostle called by grace. H. Alford. [Conversion of St. Paul.] let publin his Ps. & Hys., &c., 1844, No. 79, in 4 st. of 4 l., and again in his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 250. It is given in several hymnals in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

The ground on which this day we stand. J. Montgomery. [Laying the Foundation Stone of a Church.] Written for the laying of the foundation stone of Holy Trinity Church, The Wicker, Sheffield, erected by the Misses Harrison (compilers of the Weston H.

Bla), which took place on June 30th, 1847. It was written at the earnest request of the Incumbent, though much against Montgomery's own wish, as he judged that on that subject he had written enough, and had "nothing more to say" (Memoirs, vol. vii. p. 78). The hyran was included in Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1853, No. 294, in 6 st. of 4 l. [J. J.]

The head that once was crowned with thorns. T. Kelly. [Christ Perfect through Sufferings.] This hymn is sometimes given as from the 1804 ed. of his Hymns, &c. This is not so. It appeared in the ed. of 1820, in 6 st. of 4 1, and is No. 53 in the edition of 1853. It is based on Heb. ii. 10, "For it became Him, for Whom are all things, and by Whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the Capitain of their salvation perfect through sufferings." It has pessed into numerous collections in G. Britain and America, and has been tr. into Latin by H. M. Maegill, in his Sangs of the Christian Creed and Life, 1876, as, "Spinis caput coronatum."

The heart of childhood is all mirth. J. Keble. [2nd Sun. after Epiphany.] 1st pub, in his Christian Year, 1827, in 17 st. of 4 l., and based upon "The Marriage in Cana of Galileo, the Gospel of the Day." Two centos therefrom have come into C. U. (1) "The silent joy, that sinks so deep," and (2) "Fathers may hate us or forsake." Beyond these no other use bas been made of the poem for congregational purposes. [J. J.]

The heathen perish: day by day. J. Montgomery. [Missione.] 1st printed in the Sheffield Iris newspaper, of which Montgomery was the proprietor and editor, on the 20th April, 1824, in 3 st. of 41. It was repeated in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 551, and again in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 256. It is given in comparatively few modern hymn-books. [J. J.]

The highest and the holiest place. H. Alford [St. Matthias.] 1st pub. in his Pa. & Hy &c., 1844, No. 81, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 252. It is also in Kennedy, 1863, and other collections. [J. J.]

The hour of my departure's come. J. Logan. [Death enticipated.] This is hymn No. 5, in 6 st. of 4 l., of the "Hymns" appended to the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1781. We have most reluctantly assigned this sweetly plaintive hymn to J. Logan rather than to M. Bruce, for reasons which are given on p. 186, it. of this Dictionary. The hymn is in several modern hymn-books in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

The hours of [day] school are over. J. Ellerton. [Evening.] Written in 1858 as a companion hymn to "Day by day we magnify Thee" (p. 282, 1.), and pub. in the author's Hys. for Schools and Höble Classes (Brighton), 1858. In the 8. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, Mr. Ellerton changes the opening line to "The hours of day are over." It is in C. U. both in this form and in the original [J. J.]

The King of love my Shepherd is. Sir H. W. Baker. [Ps. xpiii.] 1st pub. in the 1868 App. to H. A. & M., in 6 st. of 4 i., | and from thence has passed into numerous collections, and usually in an unaltered form. Mr. Elierton, in his annotation thereon in Notes to the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, says truly and sympathetically, "It may interest many to know that the third verse [ Perverse and foolish oft I strayed'] of this lovely hymn, perhaps the most beautiful of all the countiess versions of Psalm xxiii., was the last audible sentence upon the dying lips of the lamented author. February 12, 101 [1.1] ii.). A fr. of this paraphrase into Latin, by J. P. M., appeared in Blackwood's Magazine, Feb., 1887, as "Rex, Rex amoris, ut Pastoris." [J. J.] lamented author. February 12, 1877 " (p. 107,

The last and greatest herald of heaven's King. W. Drammond. [St. John the Baptist.] This in 14 lines is No. 9 of his Flowers of Zion; or, Spiritual Posms, 1623. Also in The Works of William Drummond of Hauthornden, &c., Edinburgh, James Watson, 1711. It was repeated in Bp. Heber's post-humons Hysses, &c., 1827, p. 131, in 2 st. of 6 L, and again in later collections. [J. J.]

The Lord ascendeth up on high. A. T. Russell. [Ascension.] Pub. in the Hys. for Pub. Worship and Private Decotion, pub. for the benefit of the London German Hospital, Dalston, 1848, in 4 st. of 6 l. In 1854 st. i., in, and a third stanza by Bp. How, were given in Morrell and How's Ps. & Hys., No. 51, each stanza being in 7 l. This text was repeated in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871. See folio ed. of the same, 1881, for note thereon, and for the original text.

The Lord forgets His wonted grace. Anne Steels. [Divine Companion.] 1st pub. in her Poems on Subjects chiefly Devotional, 1760, vol. i. p. 80, in 7 st. of 4 l., and again in D. Sedgwick's reprint of her Hymns, 1863. In some American hymn-books a part of this hymn beginning with st. iv. is given as "A mother may forgetful be," and again in others, "Forgetful, can a mother be?" [J. J.]

The Lord is King; He wrought His will J. Keble. [Christ the King.] "Composed on the occasion of the Visit of the British Association for the Promotion of Science, to be sung in the Parish Church of St. Nicholas, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1868," and pub. in the author's posthumous Miscellaneous Poems, 1869, in 6 st. of 4 l. In [J. J.] Thring's Coll., 1882, and others.

The Lord is King lift up thy [your] voice. J. Conder. [Christ the King.] Pub. in his Star in the East, &a., 1824, p. 50, in 8 et. of 41., and based upon the words "Alleluis! for the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth." It was repeated in the Cong. H. Bk., 1836, No. 461; in Conder's posthumous Hys. of Praise, Prayer, do., 1856, p. 196. It is sometimes given as "The Lord is King | lift up your voice." In addition there are also centes in C. U. beginning (1) "The Lord is King! Child of the dust" (st. iii.), and "He reigns! ye saints, exalt your strains." Through these various forms this hymn is in extensive use. [J. J.]

The Lord is my Shepherd, He makes ms repose. W. Knox. [Ps. axiii.] Appeared in his Songs of Israel, do., 1824, and coxcludes this hymn.

again in his posthumous Poems, 1847, p. 107, in 4 st. of 4 l. It is in a few modern hymnbooks only, including the Songs for the Sans-tuary, N. Y., 1865. [J. J.]

The Lord is risen indeed. T. Kellu. [Easter.] 1st pub. in his Coll. of Pa. & Hys., &c., Dublin, 1802, No. 263, in 7 st. of 4 l., and then in his Hymns, &c., 1804, and later eds. the latest eds. It was expanded to 8 st. as in that of 1853, the addition there being st. vi. It is found in full or in an abridged form in a large number of hymn-books.

The Lord Jehovah calls. P. Deddridge. [Warning to Sinners.] This hymn is No. 64, in the D. MSS. It is in 4 st. of 4 L, and headed, "On hearing God's Voice immediately; from Heb. iii. 13." It has no date: but being found between one hymn dated "April 10, 1785," and another "Jan. 1, 173]," we may date it circa 1736 with tolerable certainty. In Job Orton's posthumous edition of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, it was given in a slightly different form as No. 300, and with the heading changed to "An immediate Attention to God's Voice required," Heb. iii. 15. The same text and heading were repested in J. D. Humpbreys's edition of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1839, No. 335. [J. J.]

The Lord Jehovah reigns, His throne is built on high. I. Watts. [Ps. cristii.] Aithough given in his Hys. and S. Songs, 1709, Bk. ii., No. 189, as a version of Ps. 148, in 4 st. of 8 l., it did not appear in his Psalms of David, 1719, nor in any subsequent edition of the same. It is in somewhat extensive use.

The Lord, my Saviour, is my Light. Anne Steele. [Ps. xxvii.] Appeared in her Poems on Subjects Chiefly Devotional, 1760, vol. ii. p. 150, in 15 st. of 41., and again in D. Sedgwick's reprint of her Hymne, 1863. In Cotterill's Sel., 1810, Ps. 27, st. i., iv., v., zv. were given in an altered form as "Thou Lord, our Guide, our Light, our Way." This was repeated in the 1819 ed. of the same, p. 16. In Kennedy, 1863, No. 260, Cotterill's form of the text is altered to "O Lord, our Guide, our Light, our Way." [J. J.] [J. J.]

The Lord of might from Sinai's brow. Bp. R. Heber. [Passiontide.] Pub. in his poethumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 60, in 6 st. of 7 i. as the second hymn for the 6th Sunday in Lent. It has passed into numerous col-lections in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

The Lord of Sabbath let us praise. S. Wesley, junr. [Sunday.] Appeared in his Poems on Several Occasions, 1736, in 4 st. of 4 l.; again in J. Wesley's Coll. of Ps. & Hys., 1741; and again in Nicholl's reprint of the Poems, &c., 1862, p. 864. It was included in the Church of England collections at an early date; and is found in its original form in several modern collections, including the 1875 ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., No. 950. In some hymn-books, as Mercer and others, it is given as "Lord of the Sabbath, Thee we praise." The woll-known couplet:—

"Twas great to speak a world from nought;
"Twas greater to redeem:"

[J. J.]

The Lord shall come! the earth! shall quake. Bp. R. Heber. [Second Advent.] Of this hymn there are three forms in C. U. as follows:-

1. The Lord shall come! the earth shall quake. This, the original form of the bynn, was given in 5 st. of 4 i. in the Oct. number of the Christian Observer, 1811, as a hymn for the 4th S. in Advent. In its original form a hymn for the 4th S. in Advent. In its original form it is not in C. U. In the 1815 Appendix to Cotterill's $\frac{8}{2}\text{, s. i.-iii}$ and $\text{, were given fix an altered form as $\text{No. 240}$. In the 8th ed. of his $\frac{1}{2}\text{, 1819}$, $\text{ No. 186}$, $\text{Cotterill' restored st. iv. in an altered form. This form of the text was repeated in J. Montgomery's Christian Psaksist, 1825, $\text{ No. 310}$, and is given in several modern hymnals including the Levis H. Bk. 1853; the Bapt. Ps. & Hys., 1853; the Psapke's H., 1867, and others.

2. The Lord will come, the sarth shall quake. This revised form of the hymn appeared in Bp. Heler's post-lumous Hymns, $\text{ a., 1827}$, p. 6. It is in extensive use in most English-speaking countries, and is by far the most English-speaking countries, and is by far the most popular form of the hymn. Usually the text is unaltered as in the Hy. Cosp., 1876.

2. The Lord will come; the sarth shall quake. In Murray's Hymnol, 1852, the 1827 text was given with slight alterations, and the addition of a doxology. In Chope's Hymnol, 1852 and 1884, at, 1.416, of Bp. Heber's 1827 text, slightly altered, were given with a new stanza in the sight altered were given with a new stanza.

Chope B Hymnat, 1987 and 1804, R. J.-III, of B. Raders at 1827 text, slightly alternd, were given with a new stanza beginning, "O King of Mercy, grant us power," and the doxology as in Murray's Hymnad, 1852. This arrangement of the text, with slight variations, is No. 111 in Thring's Coll., 1882.

In other hymn-books there are variations from the above forms of this hymn. These variations can be tested by the works already named. Of Bp. Hober's 1827 text a rendering into Latin is given in R. Bingham's Hymno. Christ. Latina, 1871, as "Advaniet Dominus! Tellus tremefacta labascat;" and another of the same text in H. M. Macgill's Songs of the Christian Creed & Life, 1876: as "Deus veniet; trementes." [J. J.]

The Lord will happiness divine. W. Cowper. [Lent.] Pub. in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. i., No. 64, in 6 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The contrite heart." It is in a large number of hymnals in G. Britain and America, and is specially suited for private use. [J. J.]

The Lord's my Shepherd, I'll not want. Scottish Pealter, 1650. [Ps. zziii.]. We have selected this for treatment as a specimen of the so-called Scotch Version, seeing that it is the most familiar of all in Scotland; and is also included in many Euglish and American hymnals of the present day. It is founded on the version by Francis His 1st ed. of 1641 has not been accessible, but the text of his 1643 ed. is here quoted from Dr. Laing's Letters and Journals rf Robert Baillie, vol. iii., 1842.

- "My Shepheard is the living Lord, and he that doth me feed; How can I then lack anything whereof I stand in need.
- In pastures green and flourishing he makes me down to lye: And after drives me to the streames which run most pleasantly.
- ' And when I feele my selfe neere lost, then home he me doth take; Conducting me in his right paths, even for his owns Names sake.
- "And though I were even at death's doors, yet would I feare none ill; Thy rod, thy staff do comfort me, and thou art with me still.
- " Thou hast my table richly stor'd in presence of my foe;
  My head with oile thou dost anoint, my can doth overflow.

THE MORNING DAWNS

"Thy grace and mercy all my dates shall surely follow me; And ever in the house of God, my dwelling place shall be.

In great measure this text is taken from Whittingham's "The Lord is on ly my sup-port," 1st pub in the One and Fiftic Psalmes of David, Geneva, 1550. After being revised by the Divines of the Westminster Assembly, it appeared in 1646 as:

"The Lord my shephoard is, I shall not want; he makes me ly In pastures green, me leads by streams that do run quietly.

" My soule he doth restore again, and me to walk doth make On in the paths of righteonsnesse, ev'n for his own names sake. " Yes the' I walk in deaths dark vale

I'le fear no evill thing, Thou art with me, thy rod, thy staffe, to me do comfort bring

" Before me thou a table fit'st In presence of my foes;
My head thou does with oile anoint, my cap it overflowes.

" Goodnesse and mercy all my life shall surely follow me; And in God's house for evermore my dwelling place shall be."

The version pub. in 1650 is a revised form of this, the variations being in st. i., st. iii. II. 2-4, and st. iv. II. 1, 4, 11. 2-4, and st. iv. ii. 1, 4.

On analysing it we thus find: Of Whittinghasa's original version only two lines survive (ii. l. 4, iii. l. 2); of Rout, 1643, only seven lines (i. l. 2, ii. l. 4, iii. l. 2); iv. ii. 2, 3, and v. l. 2, 4); and of the 1646 st. ii. l. 1, 2, 4; iii., l. 1; iv. ll. 2, 3; 4nd st. v. exactly, and st. li., l. 3, and v. l. 4 nearly. Zachasry Bayes's various editions only furnish one line (st. l. l. 1 from his 3rd ed. 1646). The version by Sir William Mure, 1639 (in the Historic and Descent of the House of Renaulum, Glasgov, 1825, p. 188) affords the following best of the state of the rode.

til. 3. " For thow art with me, Lord, thy rods and staffe me comfort still."

iv. 1. " For me a table thow dost spread, in presence of my fees;
With oyle thow doet anoint mine head by thee my cup overflowes."

Thus the only lines of the 1850 not given exactly, or nearly, in any of the above are:-

" He leadeth me The quiet waters by. iv. I. " My table then hast furnished."

The first religious verse learnt at a mother's knee, and often the last repeated before entering "the valley of the shadow of death," its place in the Psalter makes it needless to include it in Scottish hymnals. collections of the present time it is found in England in the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, Spurgeon's O. H. Bk., 1866, Barry's Hymnal, 1867, the Canterbury Hymnal; and in America in the Andover Sabbath H. Bk., 1858; Robinson's Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865, Dutch Reformed H. Bh., 1869. It is also in full, and unaltered from the 1650 Pealter in the Wes. H. Bk., 1875.

The morning dawns upon the place. J. Montgomery. [Passiontide.] Pub. in his Greenland and Other Poems, 1819, p. 181, in 4 st. of 8 l. and headed "Christ's Passion." 4 st. of 8 l. and beauen Christe's Leaston. In Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 223, it is headed "For Good Friday." In his Christian Products, 1825, No. 492, Montgomery gave it in a revised form in 7 st. of 4 L, the omitted lines being st. iv. 11, 1-4,

"He dies:—tho vell is rent in twain: Darkness o'er all the land is spread; High without tempest rolls the main: Earth quakes: the graves give up their dead."

variations in Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1853, No. 61, and is that usually given in the hymn-books both in G. Britain and America. Sometimes the text is abbreviated. [J. J.]

The morning flowers display their sweets. S. Wesley, jun. [Death.] Appeared in David Lewis's collection of Miscellaneous Poems, 1726; in Wesley's Poems on Several Occasions, 1736; and in the 1862 reprint of the same, 1862, p. 81, in 6 st. of 4 l. In the Poems it is headed "Verses on Issiah zl. 6, 8. Occasioned by the death of a Young Lady." It was also given in the Wesley Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1748, and in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780, No. 44 (ed. 1875, No. 46). It is in extensive use in G. Britain and America

The morning stars in concert sang. J. Montgomery. [Praise.] Written for the Sheffield Sunday School Union Whit Monday gathering of 1849, and printed on a bread sheet for use on that occasion. In Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1858, in 6 st. of 41. it is given "For the Opening of an Organ," for which it is well adapted. [J, J]

The night is come; like to the day. Sir T. Browne. [Evening.] 1st pub. in the 1642 ed. of his Religio Medici, Pt. ii., § 12, and is thus introduced in speaking of aleep:-

"It [sleep] is that death which we may be literally said to die daily; a death which Adam died before his mortality; a death whereby we live a middle and moderating point between life and death. In fine so like death I dare not trust it without my prayers and an half adden unto the world, and take my farewell in a colloguy with God :-

"The night is come; like to the day," &c. [extending to 30 lines]. "This is the countries I take to bedward; I need no other laudanum than this to make me sleep; after which I close mine eyes in security, content to take my leave of the sun, and sleep unto the return terms." the resurrection.

From the above-named 30 lines, the cento in common use has been compiled. It is also cometimes given in an altered form as "The sun is gone: like to the day," as in Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858. Original text in The Comelot Classics, Lond., W. Scott, 1886.

The night is wearing fast away. [Second Advent.] This appeared anonymously in the Plymouth Brethren's Hys. for the Poor of the Flock, 1838, No. 86, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in several later collections. In The Christian Hyl. (N.D.) it is attributed to Sir E. Denny, but it is not in his Hys. and Poems, 1848 or 1870. In J. Denham Smith's New Times of Refreshing, 1888, the author's name is given as "Hoare." [J. J.]

The poorest of the poor are we. J. Montgomery. [Ragged Schools.] Under the date of 1849, Holland says in his Memoirs of Montgomery, vol. vii. p. 216:-

"We [Mr. J. Everett and himself] found that our entrance had arrested his pen in the midst of transcribing a hymn which he had been requested to compose for the use of Ragged Schools. On being requested to favour us with a hearing of the verees, he read what he had written, but with such an involuntary accompaniment of deep feeling that we felt more pain than pleasure in the affecting incident."

This hymn is in 9 st. of 4 L in Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1853. In its full form it is not in C. U., but st. ix. vi.-viii. are given in

The 1825 text was repeated with slight | Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, No. 378, as "O God, most merciful and just." [J. J.]

The race that long in darkness pined. J. Morison. [Epiphany.] This fine hymn appeared as No. 18 in the Draft Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, as a version of Isaiah iz. 2-8 thus:—

- * The race that long in darkness pin'd have seen a glorious light; The people dwell in day who dwelt in Death's surrounding night,
- "To hall thy rise, thou better Sun i the gath rise attions come, Joyous, as when the reapers boar the harvest-treasures home.
- "For thou our burden hast remov'd, and quell'd th' oppressor's sway; Quick as the slaught'red squadrons fell in Midlan's svil day.
- "Through shricks of woe, and scenes of blood, the warrior urges on;
  The light'ning's speed, great Savienri marks the conquest thou hast wen.
- * To us a Child of hope is born ; to us a Son is giv a; Him shall the tribes of carth obey, him, all the hosts of heav'n.
- "His name shall be The Prince of Peace; the Wise, the Mighty One; With justice shall be rule the earth from ble eternal throne."

In the public worship ed. issued in that year by the Ch. of Scotland, and still in use st. iv. was omitted and st. vi. rewritten thus :—

- " His name shall be the Prince of Peace, for evermore ador'd, The Wonderful, the Counsellor, the great and mighty Lord.
- "His pow'r increasing still shall spread; his reign no end shall know; Justice shall guard his throne above, and peace abound below."

In the markings by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron [p. 200, il.], ascribed to Morison. The revised text of 1781 is included in full end unaltered as No. 35 in Lord Selborne's Bis. of Praise Hymnol, 1868, and elightly altered as No. 47 in the American Episcopal Coll., 1826, and as No. 80 in the Anglican H. Bic, 1871. Omitting st, iii. it has been included in the American Baptist Padmid, 1843. Kennedy, 1863, the Eaplist Hymnol, 1879, and other collections. It is also found in the following forms:-

in the following forms:—

1. The race which long in darkness pined. Pratt's Coll., $239; Liverpool Coll., 1841.

8. The race that long in darkness walk'd. S. P. C. K.

8. The race that long in darkness walk'd. S. P. C. K.

Hymas, 1852; Comson Praise, 1879, &c.

4. The people that in darkness eat. A greatly altered version by the compilers of H. A. & M., 1861, (No. 61, with an added dozology). This has been in-cluded in Harry's Bysmad, 1867, and in the Hymans; 1872. The version in the Irish Charch Hymans etc., 1869, No. 52, is et. i. ti, iv, v. of H. A. & M., and vi. of the 1781—the 1873 cd. (No. 102) giving et. v. nearly as in the 1781. In America it has appeared in the Evang. Hymans, New York, 1880.

5. The race that long in darkness sat, Thring's Coll., 1882, No. 146, the revised text of 1781 eligibity sibred and a doxology by Mr. Thring added; with st. ii. 1, 3, et. iii., and st. vv. 1. 188 in H. A. & M.

6. To hall thy tising, Sun of life, American Prot-Epis. Hymans, 1871, No. 27, beginning with et. ii. sletered.

7. Taus a Child of hope is born. St. iv.-vi. included in England in Curwen's and various other children's Bymn-books, and in America in the Andover Subbalk H. Bk., 1858; Robinson's Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865; Butch Reformed H. Bk., 1869; Baptist Praise Rk. 1871, and various others. 1871, and various others.

8. Le? tunio us a child is born. St. iv., v. sitered in Mercer's C. P. & H. Bk., Ox. ed., 1864, No. 417.

The text should also be compared with Watte's Hymns, 1703, Bk. i., No. 13, "The lands that long in darkness lay;" and "The people that in darkness walk'd," in Miss Lesson's Paraphrases & Hymns for Congregations of the congregation of tional Singing, 1853, No. 45. (J. M.)

The radiant morn hath passed away.

Thring. [Afternoon.] Written in 1864, G. Thring. [Afternoon.] Written in 1864, and 1st pub. in his Hys. Congregational and Others, 1866, p. 66; and again in his Hys. & Lyrics, 1874, p. 137, in 5 st. of 4 l. It was adopted as the opening hymn of the 1868 Appendix to H. A. & M., and has since then been included in numerous collections in G. Britain and America. In H. A. & M. it is set to special music by Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, Bart. This tune is known as "St. Gabriel."

The reseate hues of early dawn. Cecil F. Alexander, nés Humphroys, [Loening.] Mrs. Alexander has published this hymn in two forms as follows:

1. The first form appeared in the S. P. C. K. Hymns, 1852, No. 155, as:—

" The reseate bucs of early dawn, The brightness of the day,
The crimson of the sunset sky,
How fast they fade away!
Oh! for the pearly gates of neaven,
Oh! for the golden floor,
Oh! for the Sun of Rightsousness, That setteth nevermore

" The highest hopes we cherish hero, How fast they tire and faint! How many a spot defiles the robe That wraps an earthly saint! Oh! for a beart that never sine, Oh! for a soul washed white, Oh! for a voice to praise our King, Nor weary day or night.

" Here faith is ours, and beavenly hope, And grace to lead us higher; Ann grace to lead us niguer;
But there are perfectness and peace,
Beyond our best desire.
Oh! by thy love, and anguish, Lord!
Oh! by thy life laid down!
Oh! that we fall not from thy grace,
Nor cast away our crown."

This text was repeated in Mrs. Alexander's Legend of the Golden Prayers, &c., 1859, p. 139; and is also found in a large number of hymnand is also found in a sarge number of hymn-books in G. Britain and America, including H. A. & M., the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., Thring's Coll., the Hy. Comp., and others. Sometimes st. ii., l. 8, reads "Nor weary day nor night," as in H. A. & M. In some collections the hymn opens with st. i. l. 5, "O! for the pearly gates of heaven," and in others with st ii., "The highest hopes we cherish here." In Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867, the full text is rendered into Latin by Lord Lyttelton (1866), as, "Aurorae reseus primigenae color.

2. Mrs. Alexander's recast of this hymn appeared in her Hys. Descriptive and Descriptive tional. For the Use of Schools, 1858, No. iv., 88:-

> "The crimson of the runnet sky, The last gold lines of day Along the mountain's rosy verge How fast they fade away !

THE SAVIOUR, WHAT

- O for the pearly gates of Heaven, O for the galden floor; O for the Sun of Highleousness That setteth nevermore.
- " The lark that soard so high at dawn On weary wing ites low.

  The flowers so fragrant all day long

  Are dead or folded now.
  - O for the sough that never cease
    Where saints to angels call,
    O for the tree of life that stands
- By the pure river's fall, "O'er the dull ocean broods the night And all the strand is dark
- And all the straind is dark, Save where a line of broken foam Lies at low water mark.
  O for the land that needs no light, Where never night shall be; O for the quiet home in Heaven, Where there is no more sea.

- "The highest hopes we cherish here, How fast they tire and faint, How many a spot defiles the robe That wraps an earthly saint! O for a heart that never sins,
  - O for a soul wash'd white:
- O for a voice to praise our King, Nor weary day or night."

In this recast it will be noticed that the portions in italice are from the original text. Taken as a whole the recast is more poetical but less adapted for public worship than the original. Its use is limited.

The Sabbath day has reached its close. Charlotte Elliott. [Sunday Evening.] 1st pub. in Elliott's Ps. and Hymns, 1835, in 5 st. of 3 l., with the refrain, "Smile on my evening hour." In 1839 it was enlarged to 7 st., the 3rd and 4th sts., as in modern collections, being added, and republished in her Hymns for a Week. This latter text is found in Sucpp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, with the refrain lengthened to form a L. M. hymn, "Oh, smile upon my evening hour." It is given in a large number of modern hymn-books.

The Baylour stood on Olivet. [Ascension.] This hymn appeared in the British Magazine for July, 1832, p. 460, in 6 st. of 4 l., and signed "B. J. W." It was reprinted in the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857, No. 110, with the addition of a dexology; and again in Kennedy, 1863, in 3 st. of 8 l. We have failed to ascertain the author's name. [J. J.]

The Saviour, what a noble flame. W. Couper. [Passiontide.] Pub. in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 55, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed "Jesus hasting to suffer." In its original form it is seldom used. In Cotterill's Sel., 1810, hymn No. 4, begins, "See! what unbounded zeal and love." This is composed as follows:

St. 1. "See what unbounded zeal," &c. Cotteriil.
St. 11. "Good-will to man, and zeal," &c. Cooper
St. iil. "With all His sofferings," &c. Cooper.
St. iv. "By His obedience," &c. Cotteriil.
St. v. "Lord, fill our bearts," &c. Couper.
St. vi. "With love like Thine," &c. Cotteriil.

On the withdrawal of the 8th ed. of Cotterill's Sel., 1819 [see Cotterill, J., p. 262, ii.] st. v. and vi. were rewritten, and the cento in this revised form was given in the 9th ed., 1820, and is that which is in C. U. (as in Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872) at the present time. It is sometimes given as "How won-drous was the burning zeal." Another cento in C. U. is "With all His sufferings full original.

The scene around me disappears. J. Montgomery. [Christmas.] Fub. in his Christian Padmist, 1825, No. 488, in 4 st. of 7 l., and headed, "A visit to Bethlehem in Spirit"; and repeated, without alteration, in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 52. In Holy Song for All Seasons (Bell & Daldy), 1869, it begins " Fair Bethlehem's star again appears." ľJ. J.) It is limited in use.

The secret of the Lord, From sinners, &c. [Covenant of Free Grace.] This hymn appeared in the Gospet Mag. for March, 1778, p. 151, '7 st. of 4 l., headed "Psalm xxv. 14," and signed "Ingenus." In Snepp's Songs of G. & G., 1872, st. v.-vii. are given as "The covenant of free grace." We have not found this extract elsewhere. [J. J.]

The shadow of th' Almighty's cloud.

J. Keble. [Confirmation.] Written on Feb. 21, 1827, and 1st pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, in 10 st. of 41. The cento, "Spirit of might and sweetness too," in Kennedy, 1863, begins with st. vi. of this poem, the doxology being an addition by Dr. Kennedy. In most other collections, as the Wellington College Chapel Hymns, 1860 and 1880, the doxology is omitted. [J. J.]

The sick man in his chamber. Cecil F. Alexander, nee Humphreys. [During Sickness.] This poem in 14 st. of 4 l., was contributed to Rutherford's Lays of the Sanctuary and other Poems, 1859, p. 89, under the title "The Sun of Righteoseness." It appeared also in the same year in Mrs. Alexander's Legend of the Golden Prayers, 1858, p. 151. From it the cento "The sick man lieth weary," in Kennedy, 1863, No. 15, is taken. It is composed of st, vil., viil., xi.-xiv. [J. J.]

The Son of David bowed to die. J. Anstice. [Easter.] Appeared in his post-humous Hymns, pub. by his widow in 1836, No. 15, in 4 st. of 6 l. It is competimes given in its full form, and at others abbreviated to 8 st as in Thring's Coll., 1882. It is a spirited hymn and worthy of more attention than it has received. [J. J.]

The Son of God goes forth to war. Bp. R. Heber. [St. Stephen.] Pub. in his posthumous Hyoms, &c., 1827, p. 17, in 8 et. of 41. It is usually given in an unaltered form as in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, and is often accompanied by a fine musical setting as in the same hymnal. [J. J.]

The Son of God in mighty love. H. Bonar. [Christmas.] This hymn is given on p. 181, ii., as first appearing in Bonar's Hys. of Faith and Hope, 1857, in error. It was pub. in his Songe for the Wilderness, 1st ed., 1843. in 8 st. of 4 L, with the heading "The Word made Flesh." It was repeated in his Hys. of Fuith and Hope, 1857, in the same form. In addition to being in C. U. in its original form, it is abbreviated as "In love, the Father's sin-less Child" (st. ii.); and "Jesus, Whom angel-hosts adore." [J. J.]

The Spirit breathes upon the word. W. Copper. [Holy Scripture.] Included in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 62, in 5 st. Bp. C. Wordsworth of Lincoln. [St. Mark.]

in view." This begins with st. iii. of the of it., and entitled "The Light and Glory of original.

[J. J.] the Word." It is in use in its original form, and also as "A glory gilds the secred page" (at. ii.). In the latter form it is found in a large number of hymn-books, especially in America. It is also often found as "What glory gilds the sacred page I" [J. J.]

> The starry firmament on high. Sir. R. Grant. [Pa. xix.] This was given in Lord Glenelg's posthumous edition of Grant's Sacred Poems, 1839, p. 28, in 4 st, of 8 1, and headed with the following words:-

> "This is intended as a sequel or counterpart to Addison's hymn, 'The spacious firmament.' It corresponds to the latter portion of the 19th Fsalm, as Addison's does to the former."

The use of this paraphrase in its full form is confined to a few American collections. The last stenzs, "Almighty Lord, the sun shall fail," is given in Landes Domini, N. Y., 1884, as No. 233.

The sun is set, the twilight's o'er.

Bp. E. H. Bickersteth. [Holy Communion.] Written in 1869 for the author's Hy, Componton, in which it was pub. in 1870 in 5 st. of 4 l. It was also included in his Two Brothere and Other Poems, 1871. Outside of the Hy. Comp. its use is limited.

The Sun of Righteousness appears, S. Wesley, jun. [Easter Day.] 1st pub. in his Poems on Several Occasions, 1736, in 4 st. of $1., and again in Nicholl's reprint of the same, 1862. At an early date it appeared in the Ps. & Hys. of J. & C. Wesley, and other collections. It has passed into a limited number of modern hymn-books. The fourth stanza is noteworthy as being that upon which C. Wesley based his st. iii. in "Christ the Lord is risen to-day." The two stanzas are es follows :--

S. Wesley, just. "In vain the stone, the watch, the seal Forbid an early rise To Him Who breaks the gates of bell,

And opens paradise.

"Vain the stone, the watch, the seal; Christ has burst the gates of hell! Death in vain forbids His rise; Christ has open'd paradise." C. Wesley.

S. Wesley's hymn was given in Bp. Heber's posthumous Hymns, &c., 1827, p. 69, as Anon. In a few collections st. iii., iv. are given as "Alone the dreadful race He ran." [J. J.]

The thing my God doth hate. C. Wesley. [Holiness Desired.] This cento was given in the Wes. H. Bh., 1780, No. 331, in 3 et of 8 1., and is composed of No. 1240 as et. i., and 1282 as st. ii., ili. of his Short Hymns on Sel. Passages of Holy Scripture, 1762, vol. ii. (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. x., Nos. 1862, and 1354). Several times it has been pointed out that the line (st. iii., l. 5) "Soul of my soul, remain!" is evidently taken from Sir Richard Blackmore's "Ode to the Divine Being." where we have the same expression thus:-

"Blest object of my love intense,
I Thee my Joy, my Treasure call.
My Portion, my Reward immense,
Sout of my soud, my Life, my Ail."

One can hardly think that this is accidental. This hymn is in several collections in G. Britain and America. [J. J.]

1st pub. in his Holy Year, 1862, p. 168, in 14 st. of 4 l. In the 1863 ed. of the Holy Year, it was divided into two parts, pt. ii. beginning with st. ix., "Tanght by St. Mark, the Morians land." To this line the following note is appended in both editions:

"St. Mark was Bishop of Alexandria in Egypt, and died there as a martyr, and the celebrated Catechetical School which produced Clement, Origen, and other famous ancient Teachers of Christianity, bore his name."

In the Hymnery, 1872, No. 357 is composed of st. viii. of pt. i., and the whole of pt. ii. It begins "Jesu, we praise Thee for his work." The text is altered. [J. J.]

The voice of one that cries. Alford. [Advent.] 1st pub. in his Ps. & Hys., 1844, No. 1, in 4 st. of 4 l., for the 1st Sunday in Advent; and again in his Year of Praise, 1867, for the same Sunday. As a s. n. hymn it is an acceptable change of metre in the Advent hymns.

The voice that breathed o'er Eden. J. Keble. [Holy Matrimony.] Written for and first pub. in the Saliebury H. Bk., 1857, where it was given as No. 187, in 8 st. of 4 l. In the author's posthumous Missellaneous Poems, 1869, it is headed "Holy Matrimony. To be sung at the Commencement of the Service," and is dated "July 12, 1857." In Biggs's annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867, it is rendered into Latin by Lord Lyttelton (1866) as "Ille Edenneas qui Patris Deus." The original is in extensive use, and is one of the most beautiful of modern hymns for Holy Matrimony. [J. J.]

The winds of God have changed their note. [Easter.] In a volume of verse consisting of English poems by H. Vaughan and some Latin verses by his brother Thomas, put forth by one "J. W." in 1678 as Thalia Rediviva; the Pastimes and Diversions of a Country Muse, a short poem in 14 l. was given under the motto, "The Revival." In Bell & Daldy's ed. of H. Vaughan's Sacred Posms, &c., 1858, it was repeated at p. 226. From it the following lines were taken by the Rev. T. Darling, and, after being elaborated into the hymn, "The winds of God have changed their note," were given in the 1st cd. of his Hys. for the Church of England, 1855, and continued in later editions :-

" Hark! how the winds have changed their note, Harr! how the winds have changed used And with warm whispers call thee out. The frosts are past, the storms are gone, And backward life at lest comes on. The lofty groves in express Joyce Reply unto the turtle's voice; And bere in dues and dirt, O here The lilies of His love appear."

[J.  $\{J, J,\}$

The winds [are] were howling o'er the deep. Bp. R. Heber. [Epiphany, 4 8.] This hymn in 10 st. of 4 l. was given in the 1828 ed. of Heber's posthumous Hymns, &c., as the 5th hymn for the 4th Sunday after the Epiphany, and is based on the stilling of the tempost, the Gospel for that day (8t. Matt. viii, 28). The conto "How long the time since Christ began," in the Leeds H. Bk. 1853, and several others in G. Britain and America is from this hymn. The original in an abbreviated form is in several American hymnals, including the Plymouth Coll., 1855, and others. [W. T. B.]

The wise men to Thy cradle throne. Cevil F. Alexander, née Humphreys. [Epi-phany.] Pub. in her Hys. Descriptive and Devotional, &c., 1858, No. 8, in 5 st, of 4 L Although seldom found in modern collections it is in Mrs. Alexander's best style. Possibly her interpretation of the gold, frankincense, and myrh, as symbolizing love, prayer, and repentance, has made against the general adoption of the hymn. [J. J.]

The Word of God, Who hid in flesh.
rchbishop Henson. [Passiontide.] This Archbishop Henson. [Passiontide.] This hymn for the Thursday before Easter, and dealing with the Institution of the Holy Communion, was contributed to the Wellington College H. Bk., 1863, in 6 st. of 4 l., and ap-pointed for the morning of that day. A slight alteration in 11. 3, 4 of st. i. would make it a most acceptable hymn for Holy Commu-[J. J.] nion for use at any season.

The world can neither give nor take. [The Love of God.] This is a cento compiled from John Mason's Songe of Praise, pub. in 1689. It is thus composed:-

St. i., il. From " Song of Praise," No. 23, for Peace of Conscience st. ii., iv.

St. iil. From "Song of praise, 'No. 28, st. iv.
St. iv., v., vi. From the same st. iv., v., and vi. altered.

In this form it is found in the Countess of Huntingdon's Collection, 1780, and later editions. Orig. text in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Mason's Songs of Praise, 1863. The 1780 text of the cento is in Lyra Brit., p. 655, where its compilation and alterations are ascribed to Lady Huntingdon. This ascription, however, is open to doubt. The cento ia still in C. U. [J, J,]

The world to-day divides its year.

J. S. B. Monsell. [Annunciation B. V. M.]
This poem of 14 st. of 6 l. appeared in his Spiritual Songs, 1857, with the hending " Lady Spiritual Songs, 1857, with the neading "Lady Lay. The Lucarnation of Christ, Commonly called The Amunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary." In his Hys. of Love and Praise, &c., 1863, the hymn for "The Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary." is "O Saviour! Thou this day didst make." This hymn begins with st. vii. of this poem; and of its 2 at of 4! there are 18 lines from the inter 8 st. of 4 l. there are 18 lines from the latter part of the poem (some of them somewhat freely altered), and the rest are new. In the revised ed. of the Hy. Comp., 1876, the cente "O Saviour, Who in love didst take," is from the original (st. vii.) poem with an alteration of the opening line. It makes a much better hymn than Dr. Monsell's arrangement in his Hys. of Love and Praise as above.

The year begins with Thee. J. Kelle. [Circumcision.] Written June 20, 1824, and 1st pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, in 17 st. of 4 l., and headed with the text "In Whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands." In its full form it is not in C. U. It has, however, supplied the following contos to modern hymn-books: (1) "The year begins [began] with Thee," In several collections; (2) "Art Thou a child of teers?" and "Is there a mourner true?" In a few collections only. The poem as a whole is better adapted for private devotion than for public worship.

Thebesius, Adam, s. of Peter Thebes or Fhebesius, pastor at Sciffersdorf near Liegaitz in Silesia, was b. at Sciffersdorf, Dec. 6, 1596. After studying at the University of Wittenberg (n.a. 1617) he was instituted, on Nov. 24, 1619, as pastor at Mondechütz, near Weblau, and in 1627 became pastor at Weblau, and in 1627 became pastor at Weblau. Finally, in 1639, he was appointed last Finally, in 1639, he was appointed last of SS. Peter and Paul, the principal church in Liegaitz, and in 1642 he also became assessor of the consistery. He d. at Liegaitz suddenly, after a double stroke of paralysis, on the evening of Dec. 12, 1652. (Kook. iii. 64; S. J. Ehrhardt's Presbyterologis Schlesiens, 1780-89, vol. iv. p. 265, &c.)

Thebesius was a diligent, faltiful and popular preacher. He was much tried by family afflictions this wife and four children predecessed him), and by the mistoremee of these times of war and pestilence. He was crowned as a poet in 1638. Mattell, 1688, prints two pieces as his. One of these, which, according to Koo, outwelghs all his other poetical productions is:—

ontweight all his other poetical peodections; is:—
Pu grouper Schimerameman. Passionatide. This appears in Martin Janue's Passionals medicum, Görittz, 1663 (Wernigerode Library), No. 239, in 7 st. of 8 1, marked as by "H. Adam Thebesius." Included in Mittell, 1898, No. 313, and in the Berlin G. E. S., ed. 1863, No. 234. Tr. as "Thou Man of Sorrows, hail!"
This is a good br. of st. i. iv., vii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 98 in his Ps. d Hys., 1861.

Thee in the loving bloom of morn. H. Bonar. [God in all, and all in God.] Pab. in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 3rd Series, 1866, in 12 st. of 4 l. Repeated in full in the Westminster Abbey H. Bk., 1883. [J.J.]

Thee we adore, eternal Name. I. Watts. [Life frail, Eternity unending, or New Year.] 1st pub. in his Hys. and Spiritual Songs, 1707 (2nd ed. 1709, Bk. ii., No. 55), in 7 st. of 4 l. It is found in a large number of hymn-books in all English-speaking countries. The form of the text which is in the most extensive use is that given in the Ps. & Hymns of J. and C. Wesley in 1738, and continued in the revised ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, in which there are four slight changes from the original. The original came into use in the Church of England through M. Madan's Ps. Hys., 1760. In Dale's English H. Bk., 1874, it begins with st. ii., "Our wasting lives grow shorter still."

Their hearts shall not be moved. Jane E. Leeson. [Ps exxv.] Pub. in her Hys. and Scenes of Childhood, 1842, No. 57, in 6 st. of 6 l. In the Leeds H. Bk., 1853, No. 174, st. i.-iii. are given in an altered form, and opening with the same first line. These alterations were made by G. Rawson. This text was repeated in the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, and other collections in G. Britain and America, and is that in C. U.

Theoctistus of the Studium. A monk of the great monastery of the Studium at Constantinople, circa A.p. 890. Neale calls him a friend of St. Joseph. [See Grock Hymnody, § XVII. 1.] His only work known to the Church is his "Suppliant Canon to Jesus." which is found at the end of the Paradetics or Great Octoschus, a volume in eight parts, containing the Ferial Office for eight weeks. From that canon Dr. Neale compiled a cento beginning, "1900 yandare, and pub. its translation, "Jesu, Name all names above," in his Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, in 6 st.

of 8 l. In 1867 it was included in an unaltered form in the People's H., and subsequently repeated in the Hymnary, the Parisk H. Bk., and other collections. In the 1889 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M. there is another tr., "Sweet Saviour, in Thy pitying grace" (Lent). This was contributed thereto by the Rev. R. M. Moorsom.

Theodore, St., of the Studium. One of the Greek hymn-writers. He was b. at Constantinople, circa 759, and educated by his nucle, St. Plato. He was banished by Constantine, for his resolute refusal to acknowledge the Emperor's illicit marriage with Theodora, in 797. On the accession of Irene (798), he was recalled, and enjoyed the favour of the Empress. In 809 he was again banished, for the old cause, refusal to acknowledge the legitimacy of Constantine's marriage. Recalled once more in 811, he was imprisoned and again banished for his defence of the Icons, under Leo the Armenian. He was re-called a third time at the death of Leo, and d. Nov. 11, 826 (Dr. Neale adds, "in banishment"). He succeeded his nucle, St. Plato, as Hegumen of the Monastery of The Studium. See further Greek Hymnody, § XVIII. I, and Ceillier's Auteurs sacrés. (H. L. B.)

Theodosia, the nom de plume of Anne Steele.

Theophanes, St. The third in rank among the Greek ecclesiastical poets called Melodists, circa 800-859. He was a son of pions parents, and a native of Jerusalem. He may have been educated, as his elder brother Theodore was, in the Laura of St. Sabas, and thence have imbibed his taste for the composition of hymns. He was sent, with his brother, by the Putriarch of Jerusalem, to Constantinople, to remonstrate with the Emperor Lee the Armenian (reg. 818-820), against iconoclasm. They were scourged and banished from Constantinople. After the murder of Leo they were allowed to return, but were again banished. In the reign of Theophilus (reg. 829-842) they were again at Constantinople, and were then branded on their faces with some opprobrious lambic verses (from which they were afterwards known as "Grapti"), and a third time banished. After 842 Theophanes was recalled, on the triumph of the defenders of the Icons at the accession of Theodora, and was made Archbishop of Mide, where he died. The brothers are commemorated in the Greek calendar on Dec. 27. The sketch here given will be found quite different from that prefixed to the translations from Theophanes in Neale's Hymns of the Eastern Church. Dr. Neale mistook the poet for an earlier saint, Theophaues of Syngriana, who continued the Chronicon of George Syncollus. The identification of the poet with Theophanes Graptus is however universally attested by the Greek writers, and the Canon of Theophanes of Syngriaus is written by Theophanes Graptus on the accrostial, Ocoφάνης μέλπει τε τον Θεοφάνην. (Beo Dict. Greek and Roman Diography; Coillier's Auteurs saores; and Greek Hymnody, § xviit, 2. [H. L. B.]

Θεός ὧν εἰρήνης. [Χριστός γεννάται.] Θεοτόκιον. [Great Hymnody, § xvii. 2.]

There came a little Child to earth. Emily E. S. Elliott. [Christmas.] 1st pub. in 1856 in Matty's Missionary Box (Lond.: T. Nelson & Son), and since included in Miss Elliott's Chimes for Daily Service, 1880, p. 97, in 4 st. of 8 lines. It has appeared in the Church S. S. H. Bk., 1868, Scottish Presbyterian Hymnal, 1876; Allon's Children's Worship, 1878, &c.; and is included in full and unaltered (save st. ii. l. 8) as No. 378 in the Scottish Free Church H. Bk., 1882. Its use is extensive. [J. M.]

There is a blessed home. Sir H. W.Baker, Bart. [Heaven anticipated.] Written in 1861, and pub. in H. A. & M. the same year as No. 182, in 4 st. of 8 l. It has passed into several collections, and is a beautiful and touching hymn. It was sung over the author's grave. In Biggs's Annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867, there is a rendering in Latin by Lord Lyttelton (1866) beginning "Est besto-rum Domus incolarum." [J. J.]

There is a book, who runs may read. J. Keble. [Septuagesima.] Written in 1819, and pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, as the poem for Septuagesima Sunday, in 12 st. of 4 l. It is in several collections in G. Britain and America, but usually in an abbrewisted form. In a few collections it begins with st. ix., "One Name above all glorious names." The original, which is very beautiful, is based upon the words, "The invisible things of Him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made:" Rom. i. 20, with a distinct reference to Gen. i., which is the first Lesson for Septuagesima Sunday Morning. In R. Bingham's Hymno Cariet. Latina, 1871, st. i.-v., xii., as in H. A. & M., are rendered into Latin as "Est liber, atque illum qui currit perlegat, omnem." [J. J.]

There is a calm for those who weep. J. Montgomery. [Death and Burial.] This is the opening of Montgomery's poem "The Grave," which first appeared in his Sheffield Newspaper, the Iris, June 20, 1805, in 30 st. of 4 l., and signed "Alemas:" again in his Wanderer of Switzerland and Other Poems, 1806; and again in various editions of his Poetical Works. In the 1854 ed. of his P. Works Montgomery has dated it 1804. Various centes from this poem are in C. U. as Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1840, No. 965 is composed of st. i, ii., xvi., xix., xxv., xxvii.elightly altered; and No. 966 of st. xxviii.xxx. It must be noted that st. xxviii. is a repetition of st. i. with the third line rewritten. The centes in American hymn-books differ from these, and from each other. [J. J.]

There is a Fountain filled with blood. W. Conper. [Passiontide.] This hymn was probably written in 1771, as it is in Conyers's Coll. of Ps. and Hys., 1772, in 7 st. of 4 l. It was republished in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. i., No. 79, with the heading "Praise for the Fountain opened." It is based on Zech. xiii. 1, "In that day there shall be a Fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness." This hymn in full or abbreviated is in extensive use in all

English-speaking countries.

A well known form of this hymn is "From Calvary's Cross a Fountain flows." This appeared in Cotterill's Sel., 8th ed., 1819, No. 43, in 5 st. of 4 l., and consists of st. i.-v. very much altered. In Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1883, No. 49, the same opening stanza is given, with a return, in most of the remaining six stanzas, to the original text. The question as to by whom these alterations were made, first in Cotterill's Sci., 1819, and then in Bickersteth's Christian Palmody, 1833, is answered by R. W. Dibdin, in the Christian Annotator, vol. iii., No. 76, for July 5, 1856, p. 278, where he writes concerning this aymn :--

"About 16 years ago, I was regretting to the late James Montgomety, the poet, of Sheffield, that hymns were so frequently printed differently from the originals as written by their authors. I pointed out the very hymn mentioned by 0.0 file. 'There is a Fountain,' &c.] in the Rev. Edward Bickersteth's Coll. as an example. He smilled, and said, 'I altered it as you see it there; Bickersteth aaked me to alter it.'"

We know from Montgomery's Memoirs that he altered hymna for Cotterill's 1819 ed. of his Sel. and here by his own confession we have one of those alterations. Previously to this, however, he had saknowledged having rewritten the 1819 text as in Cotterill's Sel. in these words:-

"I entirely rewrote the first verse of that favourite bymn, commencing 'There is a Fountain filled with blood.' The words are objectionable as representing a fountain being filled, instead of opringing up; I think my version is unexceptional."

The two versions are:-

"There is a Fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Emmanuel's vaine; And sinners plung'd beneath that W, Comper, 1711-2, flood,

Lose all their guilty stains."
"From Calvary's cross, a Fountain J. Montgomery, 1819.

flows
Of water and of blood.
More healing than Bethesda's pool,
Or famed Siloam's flood."

It should be noted also that Montgomery's alteration of st. ii., ll. 3, 4, has changed the whole meaning and character of the hymn, so far as Cowper was concerned. Cowper's original stanza reads-

"The dying thief rejoic'd to see That Fountain in his day; And there have I, as vile as he, Wash'd all my sine away."

In Cotterill's Sel., 1819, Montgomery altered this to:-

"The dying thief rejoiced to see That Fountain in his day; And there may sinners, vile as he, Wash all their guilt away."

In Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, Montgomery rewrote it thus:

> " The dying thief rejoic'd to see This Fountain in his day; And there would I though vile as he, Wash all my sine away."

In later collections Il. 3, 4 have again been altered to,
"And there may I, though vile as he,
Wash all my sins away."

In these alterations of the text the sustained confidence and rapture of Cowper are entirely lost. This may suit public taste, but it gives an entirely false view of the state of Cowper's mind when he wrote this hymn. Our positive i knowledge of the poet's frequent depression of spirits and despair is painful enough with-out this gratuitous and false addition thereto. Five stanzas of this lynne, taken from the commonly received text, are rendered into Letin in R. Bingham's Hymna. Christ. Latina, 1871, as: "Fons est sanguine redundens." Dr. H. M. Macgill has however taken the original text for his rendering into Lotin in his Songs of the Christian Creed and Life, 1876, where it reads:-- Sanguis en Emmanuclis." In addition to Latin, various forms of the text have been translated into many other languages.

There is a God, all nature cries.

J. Montgomery. [Nature's witness to the Existence of God.] The ws. of this hymn is dated "January 8, 1838." It was included in Montgomery's Original Hymns, 1853, No. 6, in 7 st. of 4 l., and headed "The Guilt and Folly of denying God." It must be distinguished from Miss Steele's "There is a God, all nature speaks," which is also in C. U.

There is a green hill far away. Cecil F. Alexander, nee Humphreys. [Good Friday.] 1st published in her Hys. for Little Children, 1848, p. 31, in 5 st. of 4 L, and based upon the words "Suffered under Pontius Pilate, was Crucified, Dead, and Buried," of the Apostles' Greed. It is an exceedingly popular children's hymn, and is in extensive use. [J, J]

There is a happy land. A. Young. [Heaven.] In 1838 Mr. Young was spending an evening in the house of Mrs. Marshall, the mother of some of his pupils. Among other pieces she played one air which caught his attention. On inquiry he found it was an Indian air called "Happy Land." With the air ringing in his ears he composed this hymn to it. It was sung in his classes at Niddry Street School, Edinburgh, and there heard by the Rev. James Gall, who included it in the first series of the Sacred Song Book, 1843 [see Beteman, C. H., p. 116, ii.], from whence it has passed into many hymn-books. It has been to, into Chinese, many Indian and African dialects, &c., and in these and its original form is now to be heard in Sunday Schools all over the world. In 1876 Mr. Young included it in his The Scottish Highlands and other Poems, p. 117, in 3 st. of 8 lines. Originally st. iii. 1.8 began "We reign," but subsequently, and in his volume of 1876, Mr. Young altered it to "Beign, reign." The text of 1876 is included unaltered in the Hy. Comp., 1876, the Scottish Free Church H. Bk., 1882, and others. In the Cottage Melodies, N. Y., 1859, an imitation beginning "O send the word divice" as a hymn on Sending the Bible to the Heathen is included as No. 545. It may be noted that the Rev. John Inglis, D.D., Presbyterian missionary in the New Hebrides tr. it in 1854 (as his first attempt), into the Ancityumese language, beginning "Et eteue incediaig." This version was a great success and continues to be a favourite. Dr. Geddie and Dr. Inglis, assisted to some extent by others, tr. 51 Pealms and Hymns (of which this is No. 23) into Aneityumese, included as part of the Not-ratited Hap, pub. by the Religious Tract Orig. text in the Hy. Comp.

Society of London in 1880. [Missions Pereign, [J. M.] p. 741, IL, § il., ili., 2.]

There is a holy sacrifice. Charlotte Elliott. [The Contrite Heart.] This hymn is usually attributed to J. Montgomery on the grounds that its first appearance as far as yet traced was in the 1819 ed. of Cotterill's Sel., to which Montgomery largely contri-buted; and that in the 2nd series of W. Oliphant & Son's Sacred Poetry, N.D. [circa 1839], pp. 291-2, it is attributed to Mont-gomery. In 1836 Miss Elliett pub. her Hours of Sorrow, with an Introduction "To the Reader" which begins:-

" Not for the gay and thoughtless do I weave These plaintive strains;"

These words to our mind clearly intimate to the Reader that the entire contents of the book were by Miss Elliott. At p. 10 this hymn is given in 5 st. of 3 l., with the refrain "The contrite heart!" as in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 841. Seeing that in 1819 Miss Elliott was 80 years of age, that it is in her Hours of Sorrow as above, and that in style and metre it is the same as a large number of her hymns, and that it is not in any known work by Montgomery, we have no hecitation in ascribing it to her. It is a sweet hymn for private use, and is found in several collections.

There is a land of pure delight, I. Watts. [Heaven anticipated.] 1st pub. in his Hys. and S. Songs, 1707, and again in the 2nd ed., 1709, Bk. if., as No. 66, in 6 st. of 4 l., with the heading "A prospect of Heaven makes Death easy." In the older collections very many variations in the text were introduced, but most of these have gone out of use. Of those which remain the following appeared in Hall's Mitre H. Bk., 1836, No. 182:-

St. L. "Infinite day" to "Eternal day."

St. IL. "Never while ling" to "Plat heavenly."

St. IL. "Never while ling" to "Plat heavenly."

St. v. "Could we make "to "could we all."

St. vi. "We but climb" to "we but stand."

The last alteration was made by Bp. Blomfield, to whom the "proofs" of the Mitre H. Bk. were submitted. Other variations are found in the text in some hymn-books: but latterly a strong reaction has taken place in favour of the original as given in Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise, 1862-7. The use of this hymn has extended to all Englishspeaking countries, and it has been translated into many languages. In his Hymno. Christ. Latina, 1871, B. Bingham has rendered four stauzas into Latin as, "Extat terra procul sacetis habitata beatia." This hymn is one of the earliest of Watte's compositions. A tradition exists in Southampton that it was suggested by the view of the Isle of Wight as seen from that town. [J. J.]

There is a path that leads to God. Jane Taylor. [A Child Pilgrim.] 1st pub. in the Hymns for Infant Minds, by A. and J. Taylor, 1810, in 7 st. of 4 h., and entitled "The Little Pilgrim." It is one of the best examples of the writer's clear, simple, nervous style, and exceeds in popular use all of her other compositions. It is found in numerous collections for children in Great Britain and America, but often in an abbreviated form. fJ. J.1

There is a safe and secret place.

H. F. Lyte. [Ps. xct.] Appeared in his Spirit of the Psalms, 1834, as his c. m. version of Ps. 91, in 5 st. of 4 l. It is very simple and tender, and is in somewhat extensive use in G. Britain and America. In the enlarged ed. of the Spirit of the Pealms, 1836, st. ii. Ii. 1, 2, are altered from :-

"The least, the feeblest there may hids Uninjured and unawed;"

to

"The least, the feeblest there may bide Uninjured and unawed."

The change of thought from hiding in terror, to abiding in calm repose is a decided poetic improvement; and is certainly more in accord with the Paalmist's declaration "Thou shall not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness, nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday" (vers. 5, 6), than the original reading. [Paulters, Buglish, & rvii.]. [J. J.]

There is an everlasting home. M. Bridges. [Christ, the Bock of Ages.] Pub. in his Hys. of the Heart. For the use of Catho-lics, 1848, in 6 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Latus Salvatoris." In its full or abbreviated form it is in several collections, including the People's H., 1867, &c. The tune Mitford, by T. Woolsey White, was specially composed for this hymn.

There is no night in heaven. F. M. Hardis. [Heaven.] Contributed to the Laye of the Sanctuary, &c., 1859, in 10 st. of 4 1., and entitled "The One Family. Thoughts for the Feast of St. Michael and All Augels." In the edition of 1861 it is given in 5 st. of 8 l. In this form it was included in Kennedy, 1863, No. 1104. Its well-known and popular form appeared in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, where to sts. i., iii., vii., ix. of the original of 1859 are given with alterations, and an additional stanzs was added by the Rev. J. Ellerton. In Thring's Coll. the orig. text of these stanzas is restored. [J. J.]

There is no sorrow, Lord, too light There is no sorrow, lord, too light [slight]. Jane Crewdson, née Fox. [Divine Sympathy.] Given in her A Little White and Other Poems, Manchester, n.D. (circa 1860), p. 19. In Kennedy, 1868, it begins, "There is no grief, however light," and in one or two others the words "too light" are changed to "too slight," in the opening line. It is sometimes also given as "There's not a grief however light."

There were ninety and nine that safely lay. Elizabeth C. Clephane. [The Lost Sheep.] This beautiful poem was probably written in 1868 at Melrose, where the authoress then resided, and first pub. in 1868, in a small magazine for the young, entitled, The Children's Hour, pt. ii. p. 15, in 5 st. of 61. Subsequently it appeared as No. 8 of the series of her hymns entitled Breathings on the Border, in the Family Treasury, 1874, p. 595. Thence it was copied into the Christian Age, May 13, 1874, where it was seen by Mr. I. D. Sankey, who set it to music and sang it with great effect at his gospel meetings. He included it in 1875 in his Sacred Sangs and Solos. It has since appeared in England, in the Hy. Comp., 1876; Thring's Coll., 1882; Bapt. Ps. & Hys. Supp., 1880, &c., and in America in the Evang. Association H. Bk., Claveland, 1882, and other collections. It is rapidly attaining a foremost position among modern hymns, J. M.

There's a friend for little children. A. Midlane. [Jesus, the Children's Friend.] Written Feb. 27, 1859, and first pub. in Good Nows for the Little Ones, Dec., 1859. The stanzas, however, were not in the order in which they are usually found, but as follows :-i. "There's a rest," &c.; il. "There's a home," &c.; ill. "There's a Friend," &c.; iv. "There's a crown," &c.; v. "There's a cobe,"

The rearrangement produces a better sequence in the order of the stanzas, and gives greater unity to the hymn. Soon after its appearance in 1859 it was adopted by various bymn-books, and at the present time it is in extensive use in G. Britain and America. has been set to music several times, and is the most popular of Mr. Midlane's hymns. [J. J.]

There's not a bird with lonely nest. W. B. Noel. [God the Divine Father of All.] This hymn was given anonymously in common with the rest of the hymns, in W. B. Noel's Sel. of Ps. and Hye., 1832 (ed. 1853, No. 561), in 7 st. of 4 l. It is commonly stimulated W. B. Noel and the property of the state of the hydrogeneous states of the state of the hydrogeneous states of the state of the tributed to W. B. Noel, and we see no reason to doubt the authorship. It is in several col-lections, but usually in an abbreviated form. In Bickersteth's Christian Pealmody, 1833, No. 37, it is given in its full form. In R. Bingham's Hymno. Christi. Latina, 1871, st. i., iii.—v., are rendered into Latin as, "Non avis est, nidum quae sola ponit eremo." [J. J.]

There's not a star whose twinkling light. J. C. Wallace. [God seen in Nature.] This hymn appeared in A Supplement to the 4th ed. of Robert Aspland's Selection of Pealms and Hymns for Unitarian Worship, Loudon: Rowland Hunter, 1825, No. 48, in 5 st. of 4 L, and entitled "The Creator seen in his Works. As it has undergone rearrangement and en-largement, we give the opening line of each stanza:-

St. I. "There's not a star whose twinkling light."

St. ii. "There's not a cloud whose dewa distli."

St. iii. "There's not a place in earth's vast round."

St. iv. "Around, beneath, below, above."

St. v, "Then rise, my soul! and sing His name."

In J. R. Reard's Unitarian Collection of Hymns, &c., Lond.: J. Green, 1837, to which Mr. Walface contributed more than sixty hymns, this hymn was given in 6 st, and is rearranged thus:-

i. "There's not a place." ii. "There's not of grass." iii. "There's not a tempest." iv. "There's not a star." v. "Around, beneath." vi. "There rise, my soul."

In the new ed. of Mr. Beard's Collection, 1860, another arrangement with changes is introduced, which leaves the hymn thus:-

1. "There's not a tint that points the rose." il. "At early dawn." ili. "There's not of grass." iv. "There's not a tempest." v. "There's not a star." vl. "There's not a cloud." vli. "There's not a place." vlii. "Around, beneath." ix. "Then rise, my soul."

From these outlines the construction of the hymns, "There's not a place," &c., and "There's not a tint," &c., as in Curwen's Child's Own II. Bk., Major's Book of Praise, the Msth. S. S. H. Bk., and many others, including American collections, may easily be traced, and a reference to Aspland's and Board's works, as above, will correct the text. In Major's Bk. of Praise for Home & School the author is said to be John Aikman Wallace, and in the Prim. Msth. S. School H. Bk., 1879, Heber, but both are in error.

[J. J.]

These glorious minds, how bright they shine. I. Watts. [Martyrs.] 1st publin his Hymns, &c., 1707, Bk. i., No. 41, in 6 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The Martyrs glorified. Rev. vii., 18, &c." In this form it is rarely used.

In the Draft of the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases of 1745, it is given as No. xliii. As from this recast the modern form of Watte's hymn has mainly come, we give it in full, indicating the alterations in italics:

"These glorious Minds how bright they anine I whence all their white Array! How came they to the happy Seats of everlasting Day.

** Lo! these are they, to endless Joy, from Suffrings great, who came; And wath'd their Retment in the Blood of Christ, the dring Lame.
** Now they approach a held Gon

"Now they approach a holy God, and how before his Throne; With Hearts enloyed to serve him still, and make his Glory known." "His Presence fills each Heart with Jov:

"His Presence fills each Heart with Joy; tomes every Mouth to sing; By Day, by Night, the blast abodes with glad Hosanuas ring."
"Hunger and Thirst are felt no more.

Munger and Thirst are folt no more, nor Suns with scoroling Ray: GOD is their Sun, whose chearing Beams diffuse ternal Day.

"The Lamb shall lead his heavinly Flock where living Fountains rise; And Love divine shall wipe away the Sorrows of their Eyes."

The author of this recast is unknown. This text was repeated, with slight charges, in the Draft of 1751, but in the authorized issue of the Trans. &c., of 1781, it underwent considerable changes. It opens, as No. lxvi., as:—

"How bright these glorious spirits shine!"

and is derived thus:-

St. i. Watts sitered in 1781 Praft; st. ii. from 1745 altered; st. iii. new in 1781; st. iv. from 1748, with second courfe, for a blest abodes;" st. v. from 1746 unaltered; rt. vi. new in 1781, based on Watts's st. vi.; st. vii. new in 1781, based on Watts's st. vi.; st. vii. new in 1781.

This text has been in authorized use in the Church of Scotland for more than 100 years. It is also in extensive use in all English-speaking countries, and sometimes with a devology added thereto, as in H. A. & M. It has been tr. into several languages, e.g. into Latin, by H. M. Macgill, in his Songs of the Christian Greed and Life, 1876, as:—"Animae clare lucentes." The 1781 version is claimed by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, ii.), as his. His indebtedness, however, to the recast of 1745 was very great. Its right designation is I. Watts, 1709; Scottish Draft Trs. and Paraphs., 1745; and W. Cameron, 1781. From the 1781 text we also have:—

1. A numbered company behold. By Jane R. Leeson, in her Paraphrases and Hys., 1863. This is a recast.
2. How bright these saints in glory shine. In T. Darling's Hys. for the Church of England. 1857-88.
3. How bright those saints in glory shine. In J. B. Whiting's Rys. for the Church Catholic. 1882.

These altered versions of the text are not in extensive use. [J. J.]

They are all gone into the world of light. H. Vaughan. [Death and Burial.] Pub. in his Silex Scintillans, 2nd ed. 1655; in H. F. Lyte's reprint of the same, 1858; and in Grosart's Fuller Workhies, 1868. In some collections, as in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, it begins as above; but in the American Unitarian Hys. for the Church of Christ, Boston, 1853, it opens, "Dear, beauteous Death' the jowel of the just."

They come, God's messengers of love. R. Campbell. [St. Michael and All Angels.] Written for, and 1st pub, in his Hys. and Astheme, 1850, p. 94, in 6 st. of 4 l. In 1852 it was republished, with alterations, in Murray's Hymnal, No. 79. This was repeated in several collections, including H. A. & M., 1861, and has become the accepted form of the hymn. Sometimes it is abridged to four stanzas. It is the most widely adopted hymn for 8t. Michael and All Angels of any in the English language.

They whom the Father giveth. J. Conder. [Perseverance.] 1st pub in his Star in the East, 1824, p. 54, in 8 st. of 6 l., and based upon John x. 27, 28, "My sheep hear My voice... and I give unto them cternal life, and they shall never perish." In 1856 it was repeated in his Hys. of Praise, Prayer and Devout Meditation, pp. 155-57. In its original form it is did not in common use, but st. v., vi., vii. and viii., beginning, "Christ watches o'er the embers," were given in Kennedy, 1863. This arrangement is adapted to "Burial," or a service associated therewith. [J. J.]

They whose course on earth is o'er. J. M. Neale. [Communion of Saints.] Ist pub. in his Hymns for the Young, 1844, No. xv., in 9 st. of 4 l., and based on the article of the Creed "The Communion of Saints." In 1866, Dr. Neale revised the text on his death-bod, and made alterations in st. iv., v. and ix. This text was pub. in his posthumous Original Sequences, Hymns, and other Ecolesiastical Verses, 1866, p. 64, and given there for All Souls at Vespers. The same text was repeated in the People's H., 1867; and, with the omission of st. ii., in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871. [J. J.]

Thile, Valentin, s. of Valentin Thiel or Thilo [b. Jan. 2, 1579, at Zinten, became discours of the Altstadt Church in 1603, and d. of the pestilence at Königsberg in 1620], disconus of the Altstadt Church in Königsberg, was b. at Königsberg, April 19, 1607. He matriculated in 1624 at the University of Königsberg as a student of theology, but devoted himself more especially to the study of rhetoric. When the Professor of Rhetoric, Samuel Fuchs, retired in 1632, he recommended Thile as his successor. The post was, at Thilo's desire, kept open for two years, during which he pursued his studies at the University of Leyden. On returning to Königeberg, he graduated M.A. there on April 20, 1634, and was thereafter installed as Profeasor of Rhetoric. During his 28 years' tenure of office he was five times elected as dean of the Philosophical Faculty, and twice as Rector of the University. He d. at Königsberg, Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 185, &c.)

Grundrise, vol. iii., 1887, p. 185, &c.)
Thilo was a great friend of Helurich Albert (p. 35, i.) and of Smon Dack (p. 378, ii.), and was with them a nacmber of the Königsberg Foedcal Union. He was the suther of two text books on Rhetoric, pub. in 1855 and 1847. Some of his asparately printed occasional poems are noted by Goedcke as above. His hymna were almost all written for various Festivale of the Christian Near.
They are as a rule short and vigorous, and are somewhat akin to those of Doch. They appeared principally in the Presistance Frat-Lieder, Eliting, 1642-44 [Berlin
Library], and in the New Presistance rollethninger G.
B. Königsberg, 1880 [Hamburg Library]. A list of their first lines is printed in the Altgrassische Ronaferiel. Königsberg, 1885, p. 306, where evidence is given to show that they are by the younger Thilo, and not, as has sometimes been said, by the father.
The only hymn by Thilo & into Enolish

The only hymn by Thile tr. into English í8:-

Mit Ernet, o Menschenkinder. Advent. This is a fine hymn founded on St. Luke iii. 4, 5, and was 1st pub. in pt. i., Elbing, 1642, of the Preussische Fest-Lieder, as No. 8, in 4 st. of 8 l., entitled "On the Fourth Sunday of Advent. Parate vism Domino," and marked as by "Valentinus Thilo." Thence in the Königsberg G. B., 1650, as above, p. 27, also marked as by "Valen-tinus Thilo." In the Hannover G. B., 1657, st. iv. was re-written, and this form, passing through Freylinghausen's G. B., 1704, is found in most recent German hymn-books. In the Uns. L. S., 1851, No. 15, both forms of st. iv. are given. Lauxmann, in Koch, viii. 8, considers st. iii. the finest, and thinks that it may have been suggested by the remembrance of his beloved sister wife of l'astor Kuhn, of the Rossgart Church in Königsberg), who d. of the pestilence on Aug. 16, 1639, and as a picture of her character. Tr.

1. O sons of man, your spirits. This is a good Ir. of st. i.-iii., by A. T. Russell, as No. 35 in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

2. Ye same of man, in carment. This is a good tr. of the original form, by Miss Winkworth, as No. 84 in her C. B. for England, 1863. It is repeated, omitting st. iii., in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., (J. M.) 1880, No. 121.

Thine for ever! thine for ever! C. Wordsworth, Bp. of Lincoln. [Confirmation.] Contributed to the 1869 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hymns. It was originally in 4 st. of 8 l., but in later editions of the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hymns it is given in 6 st. of 4 l. In 1871 it reappeared in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, in 8 st. of 4 l., this last being the authorized text. [J. J.]

Thine, Jesus, Thine. A. Midlane. [Self Dedication to Jesus.] A birthday hymn written on the author's 36th birthday, Jan. 23, 1861, and pub. in the Things Old and New magazine, in May the same year. It has passed into a large number of what are commonly known as "Gospel hymn-books," in-cluding The Enlarged London H. Bh., 1878; The Little Flock, 1880, and others. [J. J.]

Thine, O Lord, our quiet trust. B. H. Kennedy. [Ps. lev. Harvest.] This version of Ps. 65 appeared in Dr. Kennedy's Psalter in 1860, p. 95, in 10 st. of 41. From this Dr. Kennedy compiled the bymn, "Thou Who hearest human prayer," and included it in his Hymno. Christ. 1863, No. 1290. The same text was again altered for the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, No. 579, where it is given as "O Thou July 27, 1662. (Koch, iii 202; K. Goedeke's God, Who hearest prayer, All shalt come Grundriss, vol. iii., 1887, p. 185, &c.) to Thee, that live." This opening line is borrowed from J. Conder (p. 256, il.). [J. J.]

> Thine, Thine for ever, blessed bond. Bp. E. H. Bickersteth. [Confirmation.] Written in 1870 for the 1st ed. of the Hymnal Com-panion, and included therein in 1870. Also in his work The Two Brothers, 1871, p. 240, in 6 et. of 4 l. It is designed "To be sung after the benedictory prayer, 'Defend, O Lord, this Thy servant with Thy beavenly grace, that he may continue Thine for ever,' " &c. It is a hymn of much beauty, and is very popular for Confirmations. [J. J.]

> Think gently, and as gently speak. J. S. B. Monsell. [Gentleness.] Appeared in his Spiritual Songs, 1857 (ed. 1875, p. 31), in 10 st. of 4 l., and based on the Gospel for the 5th S. after Epiphany. In Dale's English II. Bk., 1874, No. 760, st. i., ii., viii.-x. are rewritten, and given as "Gently think, and gently speak." In this form it is a serviceable hymn for congregational use.

> Think gently of the erring [one]. [Gentleness.] This hymn is given in the American Universalist's Hys. for Christian Devotion, by Adams and Chapin, Boston, 1846, No. 813, in 2 st. of 8 1., and headed "Compassion for the Sinning." It is there given as by "Miss Fletcher," a writer to us otherwise unknown. It is in the awkward metre of 7.8 8.5 8.6 8.6 Acc werells found in modern of 7.6.8.6.8.6.8.6. As usually found in modern American hymn-books it is in c.m. as given in H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Coll., 1855, No. 1062, in 4 st. of & l.; but sometimes with the omission of st. iii.

> Think, O ye who fondly languish. W. B. Collyer. [Death Asticipated.] Given in his Coll., 1812, No. 839, in 4 st. of 8 l., and entitled "Consolation." In modern hymnels st. i., iii. are usually given as in Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872. [J. J.]

> Think on the mercy of our God, Emily Garnier. [Christman.] This was given in The Child's Christian Year, 1841, in 3 st. of 6 l., and is found in several hymn-books. From the Sedgwick Mss. we find that it was written in 1835 by Emily Garnier, daughter of the Dean of Winchester, who died at the age of 14, and that it was printed in The Child's Christian Year from MS.

> This day and at this very hour. E. Caswall. [Birthday.] Pub. in his Masque of Mary, &c., 1868, p. 245, in 18 st. of 4, 1, and headed "Prayer written on my Thirtieth Birthday" (i.e. July 15, 1844), and again, after revision, in his Hye. & Poems, 1873, p. 288. 268. A cento compiled from this poem was given in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 227, "Thee, Jesu, suffering, crucified," as a hymn for Lent, for which it is specially suitable.

> This day the Light of heavenly birth. Bp. W. W. How. [Sunday.] Contributed by Bp. How to the 1st ed. of Moreli & How's Ps. & Hys., 1854, in 4 st. of 4 l., and again in the enlarged ed., 1864, as "This day by Thy creating word." Of this hymn we have the following forms !--

The original as above.
 The 1864 revised text as above.

3. No. 136 in Chape's Hymnol, 1854, with the 1st st. of the original, and the remaining stanzes with many alterations. This version is repeated in Thring's Coll. 1862, No. 69. It has not the author's authority.

4. "This day by Thy creative word." In addition to slight alterations this text has the Ken's dox. added thereto. It was given in the Hymnony, 1878, No. 14.

5. "This day at Thy creating word." The Charch Hymnostatus by Bp. How, 1871, No. 6, with the doxology from H. A. & M., 1881, No. 3. This is the authorized text of the hymn.

When these various forms of the text are taken together, it is found that the hymn is in extensive use.

This is the day of Light. J. Ellerion. [Sunday.] Written in 1867, and 1st pub. in Hymne for Special Services and Festivals in Chester Cathedral, a collection of 100 hymns, compiled by Dean Howson, 1867 (Chester: Phillipson & Golder), No. 51, in 5 st. of 4 l. From thence it passed into the 1868 Appendix to H. A. & M.; the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871; Thring's Coll., 1882, and several other hymnels both in G. Britsin and America. It is a good hymn, and ranks in popularity with some of the best of Mr. Ellerton's compo-

This is the day the Lord hath made, He calls the hours His Own. I. Watts. [Raster-day, or Sunday.] First pub. in his Pacims of David, 1719, p. 309, as a paraphrase of a portion of the 118th Pasim, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Hosanna; the Lord's Day; or, Christ's Resurrection, and our Salvation." is in several collections and usually unaltered and unabbreviated. In the Hymnary, 1872, the cento "Behold the tomb its prey restores, is composed of st. i. new, ii.-iv. from this by Watta, slightly altered, and v. new. It is a successful hymn for Sunday.

This is the day the Lord hath made, Let young and old rejoice. J. Mont-gomery. [Sunday.] Written for the Sheffield Red Hill Sunday School Anniversary, held on March 26, 1820, and printed on a fly sheet for that occasion. It was repeated in Montgomery's Christian Peologist, 1825, No. 467; and again in his Original Hys., 1853, No. 95, in 5 st. of 4 l. Its use is limited. [J. J.]

This is the feast of heavenly wine. W. Comper. [Holy Communion.] 1st pub. in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 53, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed "Welcome to the Table." Sometimes it begins with st. ii., "O bless the Saviour, ye that eat." See also "Bless'd with the presence of their God."

This is the month, and this the happy morn. J. Milton. [Christmas.] This is the opening of Milton's great ode On the Morning of Christ's Nationally, written in his 21st year (1629), and found in all editions of his Works. It has an introduction of 4 st. of 7 1., and then follows the hymn proper in 27 st. of 8 1. beginning, "It was the winter wild." From this the following centes have come into C. U. :—

I. It was the winter wild (st. l.). This is in a few

2. No war or battle's saund (st. iv.). This is in II. W. Beecher's Plymonth Coll., 1858, and other American hymn-books.

3. Ring out ye crystal spheres (ct. xiii.) In Hys.

for the Use of the University of Oxford in St. Mary's Caurch, 1872, and others.

4. This is the mouth, and this the bappy morn, From the Introduction to the hymn.

[J. J.]

This livelong night we've toiled in J. Keble. [Obedience.] This poem is dated 1821. It appeared in the Christian Year, 1827, for the 5th Sun. after Trinity, and based upon a portion of the Gospel of the day, St. Luke v. 1, &c. In its original form it is unknown to modern hymnals, but a centocompiled from its 15 st. is given in the New Cong., 1859, beginning with st. i. [J. J.]

This night I lift my heart to Thee. W. Bartholomew. [Evening.] Written in 1854 for Costa's oratorio Eli, and 1st pub. therein, 1854, as one of the songs appropriated to the Prophet Samuel. It is in 3 st. of 4 l., and was repeated in the New Cong. H. Bk., 1859, and subsequently in other collections. [J. J.]

This place is holy ground. J. Montgomery. [Death and Burial.] This is the opening line of Verses to the Memory of the late Richard Reynolds, of Bristol. London: Longmans, 1816. The Verses were given in three parts: i. "The death of the Righteons"; ii. "The Memory of the Just"; iii. "A Good Man's Monument." Mr. Reynolds was an eminent Quaker philanthropist; and the "Monument" referred to was the Society for the relief of persons in necessitous circumstances which was founded in Bristol in his memory. The Verses were repeated in all the complete editions of Montgomery's Works. The cento given in several American hymn-books, including Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, is composed of st. i., ii., vii.-ix. of pt. i. on "The death of the Righteous." The original is in 9 at of 6 l. [J, J,]

This stone to Thee in faith we lay. J. Mentgomery. [Laying Foundation stone of a Church.] Written in 1822, for the laying of the Foundation-stone of Christ Church, Attercliffe, Sheffield, and sung at that ceremony on Oct. 30, 1822. It was printed in Montgomery's newspaper, the Sheffield Iris. Nov. 5, 1822, together with a full account of the whole ceremony. Subsequently it was pub in Montgomery's Christian Paulmist, 1825, No. 474, his Poetical Works of various dates, and his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 300, in 6 st. of 41. It is in extensive use in its full or in an abbreviated form, and also as :-

1. Here, in Thy Mams, starnal God. This form is given in Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872, and an altered form of st. ii.

2. When in these courts we seek Thy face. In the American Sabbath H. Bk., Andover, 1856, it begins with an altered form of st. il.

2. Within these walls let heavenly peace. In the American Charck Praitie Bk., N. Y., 1882. Of this text in 3 st., at. i. is from J. Newton's "O Lord, our languid sonis inspire," Oscey Hya., 1779. Bk. ii., No. 43, st. v., and et. ii. and iii. are from this hymn by Montgoustry.

4. When here, O Lorf, we seek Thy face. This form of the text, beginning with st. ii., is in the Plymouth Coll., U.S.A., 1886.

[J. J.]

Tholuck, Friedrich August Gotttreu, n.n., was b. at Breslau, March 80, 1799. He studied at the Universities of Breslan and Berlin. He became a University lecturer (Privatdocent) at Berlin, in Dec. 1820, and extraordinary professor of Theology there in April, 1823 (D.D. from Berlin in 1826). In with the Independents in Radnorshire, but d. Nov., 1825, he was appointed ordinary profes- at Cormarthen in 1804. [W. G. T.] sor of Theology at Halle, and entered on his duties at Easter, 1826. He was also appointed as University preacher, in 1839, and a member of the Magdeburg consistory in 1829. From Michaelmas, 1828, to Easter, 1829, he officiated as chaplain to the German Embassy at Rome, having gone there on sick leave. Otherwise, after 1826, his life was spent almost entirely at Halle. He d. at Halle, June 10, 1877 (Koch, vii. 26; Herzog's Real-Encyklopādie, xv., 560, &c.).

1877 (Koch, vii. 26; Herzog's Real-Encyklopolde, xv., 569, &c.).

Tholuck was a celebrated preacher, and a great linguist. He is peritaps best known to English readers by his Commentaries, as e.g. on Romans, 1824 (5th ed., 1856; Eng. tr. 1833) and 1836); on St. John's Gospel, 1827 (7th ed., 1857; Eng. tr. 1839); on the Sermon on the Mount, 1833 (5th ed., 1872; Eng. tr. 1834 and 1857; Improved in 1869); on Hebrews, 1836 (3rd ed., 1853; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1873; Eng. tr. 1842); on the Patins, 1843 (2nd ed., 1874); English (two versions as Gwido and Julius, 2c., by J. E. Hyland, 1838, and by J. Martin, 1865), French, Danish and Swedish. He was a many side man, the excelled a great and far-reaching influence over his contemporaries, and who, by the charm of his personal character as well as by his learning, drew crowds of students to Halle, not only from all partie of Germany, but also from Great Hylain and America. His hymne appeared in his Standen christiticher Andocht, Hamburg, 1838–40. This is a volume of Meditations which has passed through many cide, in German (5th ed., 1870), and of which at least two versions have appeared in English (as Hours of Phristitian Devotion), a partial one by the Misses Amant Catherine H. Dunn, pub. at London In 1853; 2nd cl., 1857; and a nearly complete one by Dr. R. Memsles, pub. at Edinburgh in 1870 (partly pub. as The Oircite of Husman Life. Edinburgh, 1847; and completed by The Curret of the Church's Life. London, 1873). In the prefece to the Standen, Tholuck mentions that he had intended to introduce many quotations from German hymns and sac here interported are by other mithors." He does not however indicate in any more definite way which are his own compositions. A few pieces from this work have passed into American-German hymn-books, and they have all been er. by Dr. Menzies, as above. Two which have not been traced earlier, and are probably original, may be here noted, viz.:—

i. Einst wird's geschahn, dass auf der Erde. Second Advent. In his Stunden, 1840, p. 470, as the conclusion of Med. Lyvii., in 2 st. of 8 l., and founded on Rom. viii. 21-23. Tr. as:-

A day will dawn when from en high. In full by br. R. Monries, 1870, as above, p. 551. Included by H. L. Hastings in his Songs of Pilgrimage, Busion, U. S., 1880, No. 193.

1866, No. 182.

ii. O sisseer Hirts, unter deinem Stabe. The Good Shepherd. In his Sisseden, 1840, p. 181, in 7 st. of 4 l., as the conclusion of Med. xxvi., and founded on Fs. xxii. The trs. xre (1) "O gentle Shepherd, guided by Thy hand, My soul hoth found her everlasting rest." By Miss Parker, 1833, as above, p. 110. (2) "O gentle Shew, 1835, as above, p. 110. (2) "O gentle Shew, 1835, as above, p. 185, p. 143, repeated in the Bristol Berold, Sept., 1885, p. 143, repeated in Reld's Proste Sh., 1872. (3) "Bonosati Thy gentle care, O Shepherd dear." By Dr. R. Mensier, 1870, as above, p. 178.

Thomas, Joan, of Rhaiadar, was b. 1730. in the parish of Myddfai, Caermarthenshire. One of the first books he ever read was the Welshman's Candle. He published several books of hymns. The first appeared in 1771, The Golden Treasury, a translation of C. H. von Bogatzky, with some of Dr. Watta's hymns. In the same year appeared Flewyrchiadan Grás, and in 1768, Caniadan Sion. His hymns in all number about 200. He was a minister

Thomas, Joan Elizabeth. [Conder. Joen B.]

Thomas of Aquino, confessor and doctor, commonly called The Angelical Doctor, "on account of," says Dom Gueranger, "the extraordinary gift of understanding wherewith God had blessed him," was born of noble parents, his father being Landulph, Count of Aquino, and his mother a rich Nespolitan ledy, named Theodora. The exact date of his birth is not known, but most trustworthy authorities give it as 1227. At the age of five he was sent to the Benedictine monastery at Monte Cassino to receive his first training, which in the hands of a large-hearted and God-fearing man, resulted in so filling his mind with knowledge and his soul with God, that it is said the monks themselves would often approach by stealth to hear the words of piety and wisdom that fell from the lips of the precedious child when conversing with his companions. After re-maining at Monte Cassino for seven years, engaged in study, St. Thomas, "the most saintly of the learned, and the most learned of the saints," returned to his family, in consequence of the sack of the abbey by the Imperial soldiers. From thence he was sent by his parents to the University of Naples then at the height of its prosperity, where, becoming intimate with the Fathers of the Dominican Order, and being struck, probably, by the devotedness and ability of the Dominican Professors in the University, he was induced to petition for admission into that order, though he was at that time not more than seventeen years of age. This step gave such umbrage to his mother that she caused him to be waylaid on the road to Paris (whither he was being hurried to escape from her), and to be kept for more than two years in prison, during which time his brothers, prompted by their mother, used all means, even the most infamous, to seduce him from religion.

At last the Dominicans' influence with the Pope induced the latter to move the Emperor Frederick to order his release, when St. Thomas was at once hurried back to Naples by the delighted members of his order. was afterwards sent to Bome, then to Paris, and thence to Cologne. At Cologne his studies were continued under the celebrated Albertus Magnus, with whom, in 1245, he was sent by the Dominican Chapter once more to Paris for study, under his direction, at the University. In 1248, when he had completed his three years' curriculum at Paris, St. Thomas was appointed, before he was twentythree years of age, second professor and "ma-gister studentium," under Albertus, as regent, at the new Dominican school (on the model of that at Paris), which was established by the Dominicans in that year at Cologne. There he achieved in the schools a great reputation as a teacher, though he by no means confined himself to such work. He preached and wrote; his writings, even at that early age, were remarkable productions and gave promise of the depth and ability which mark his later productions. His sermons also at | Seriptures and the Decrees of the Popes. But that time enabled him to attract large congregations into the Dominican church. In 1248 he was directed to take his degree at Paris; and though his modesty and dislike of honour and distinction made the proposal distasteful to him, he set out and begged his way thither; but it was not until October 23rd, 1257, that he took his degree. The interval was filled by such labours in writing, lecturing, and preaching, as to enable him by the time he became a doctor to exercise an influence over the men and ideas of his time which we at this time can scarcely realise. So much was this the case that Louis IX. insisted upon St. Thomas becoming a member of his Council of State, and referred every question that came up for deliberation to him the night before, that he might reflect on it in solitude. At this time he was only thirty-two years of age. In 1259 he was appointed, by the Dominican Chapter at Valouciennes, a member of a Commission, in company with Albertus Magnus and Pierre de Tarentaise, to establish order and uniformity in all schools of the Dominicans. In 1261 the Pope, Urban IV., immediately upon his election to the Pontifical throne, sent for St. Thomas to aid him in his project for uniting into one the Eastern and Western Churches. St. Thomas in that same year came to Rome, and was at once appointed by the General of his Order to a chair of theology in the Dominican College in that city, where he obtained a like reputation to that which he had secured already at Paris and Cologno. Pope Urban being anxious to re-ward his services offered him, first the Patriarchate of Jerusalem, and then a Cordinal's hat, but he refused both. After lecturing, at the request of the Pope, with great success at Vitervo, Orvieto, Perngiz, and Fondi, he was sent, in 1263, as "Definitor," in the name of the Reman Province, to the Dominican Chapter held in London. Two years later Clement IV., who succeeded Urban as Pope, appointed him, by bull, to the archbishopric of Naples, conferring on him at the same time the revenues of the convent of St. Peter ad Aram. But this appointment he also declined. In 1269 he was summoned to Paris-his last visitto set as "Definitor" of the Roman Province at the General Chapter of his Order, and he remained there until 1271, when his superiors recalled him to Bologus. In 1272, after visiting Rome on the way, he went to Neples to lecture at the University. His reception in that city was an ovation. All classes came out to welcome him, while the King, Charles I., se a mark of royal favour bestowed on him a pension. He remained at Naples until he was summoned, in 1274, by Pope Gregory X., by special bull, to attend the Second Council of Lyons, but whilst on the journey thither he was called to his rest. His death took place in the Benedictine Abbey of Fosan Nuova in the diocess of Terracina, on the 7th of March

1274, being barely forty-eight years of age. St. Thomas was a most voluminous writer, his principal work being the calebrated Summa Theologiae, which, although never completed, was accepted as such an authority as to be placed on a table in the council-chamber at the Council of Trent alongside of the Holy

it is outside the province of this work to enlarge on his prose works. Though not a prolific writer of hymns, St. Thomas has con-tributed to the long list of Latin hymns some which have been in use in the services of the Church of Rome from his day to this. They are upon the subject of the Lord's Supper. The best known are:

Pange lingua gloriori Corporis Mysterium; Adoro te devole latens treitas; Saoris sollemniis juncta sint gaudia; Lauda Sion Salvatoren; and Verbum supergausa; Lauda Non Salvatoren; and Verbuss super-num prodiens. The 1st, 3rd, and 5th of these are found in the Row. Bren, the 2nd, 4th, and 5th in Newman's Hymni Beclesiae; the 4th in the Row. Missel; all of them appear in Daniel; the 2nd and 4th in Mone; and the 2nd, 4th, and 5th in Noningfeld. Various other bymus have been attributed to 5t. Thomas, but in error, as—Cean visionum, (p. 288, L); and the Ut jucundas cervus under (q.v.). See also Mone, No. 129, and it. p. 227.

Of these hymns numerous translations have been made from time to time, and amongst the translators are found Caswall, Neale, Woodford, Morgan, and others. Each of these hymns is annotated in this work under its original first line. (D. 8. W.)

Thomas of Kempen, commonly known as Thomas à Kempis, was b. at Kempen, about fifteen miles north-west of Düsseldorf, in 1379 or 1380. His family name was Hammerken, His father was a peasant, whilst his mother kept a dame's school for the younger children of Kempen. When about twelve years old he became an inmate of the poor-scholars' house which was connected with a "Brother-House" of the Brethren of the Common Life at Deventer, where he was known as Thomas from Kempen, and hence his well-known name. There he remained for six years, and then, in 1898, he was received into the Brotherbood. A year later he entered the new religious house at Mount St. Agues, near Zwelle. After due preparation he took the vows in 1407, was priested in 1413, became Subprior in 1425, and d. secording to some authorities on July 26 and others on Aug. 8, 1471. Much of his time was occupied in copying Missala, Breviaries, and other devotional and religious works. His original writings included a chronicle of the monastery of St. Agnes, several biographies, tracts and hymns, and, but not without some doubt as to his authorship (for a resume of the controversy see Enc. Brit., 9th ed.) the immortal Imitatio Christi, which has been translated into more languages than any other book, the Bible alone excepted. His collected works have been repeatedly published, the best editions being Nürnberg, 1494, Antwerp in 1607 (Thomas Malleoli & Kempis ... Opera omnia), and Paris in 1649. An exhaustive work on St. Thomas is Thomas à Kempis and the Brothers of the Common Life, by S. W. Kettlewell, in 2 vols., Lond., 1882. In this work the following of his hymns are tr. by the Rev. S. J. Stone:—

i. From his Vita Boni Monachi, il.: 1. Vitam Jem Christi. Amitation of Christ. Be the life of Christ thy Saviour. 2. Apprehende arms. Caristian Armour. Take thy waspons, take thy whield.

3. Sustine dolores. Resignation. Bear thy sorrows with Laurentius.

ji, From his Cantlea Spiritualia:—
4. O duicissime Jean. Jenus the most Dear. O [Child]
Christ Jean, closest, desrest.

5. O Vers summs Trinites. Holy Trinity. Most true, most High, O Trinity.
5. Adversa mundl tolers. Resignation. Bear the troubles of thy life (p. 32, i).
7. O qualis quantaque lactita (p. 345, ii.). Eternal Life. O joy the purest, noblest.

Of these trs. Mr. Stone has repeated Nos. 5, 6, and 7 in his Hymns, 1886, and No. 4 in a rewritten form as "Jesus, to my heart most precious," in the same. [See also Index of Authors and Translators.] Pastor O. A Spitzen has recently published from a Ms. circo 1480, ten additional hymns by Thomas, in his "Nalezing op mijn Thomas à Kempis," Utrecht, 1881. Six of these had previously been printed anonymously by Mone. The beet known are "Jerusslem gloriosa" (p. 579, il.), and "Nec quisquam oculis vidit" (p. 793, il.) We may add that Thomas's hymn-writing is not regarded as being of the highest standard, and that the modern use of his hymne in any form is very limited.

Thompson, Alexander Ramsay, p.p., a minister of the American Reformed Dutch Church, was b. at New York, Oct. 22, 1812, and graduated at the New York University, 1842, and the Princeton Seminary, 1845. He was Reformed Dutch Paster at various places, including East Brooklyn, St. Paul's (R. P. D.), New York City, North Reformed Church, Brooklyn (1874), and others. Dr. Thompson was joint editor of the Reformed Dutch Hys. of the Church, N. Y., 1869, and the Hys. of Prayer and Praise, 1871. He has contributed original hymns and tra. from the Latin to these collections, to Schaff's Christ in Song, 1869, and to the Sunday School Times, Philadelphia, 1883, &c. His tra. will be found in the Index of Authors and Translators. In addition two original hymns:-

1. O Thou Whose filmed and fading eye. Good Friday.

2. Wayfarers in the wilderness. Life a Pilgrimage. are in the Hys. of the Church, 1869, with the signature "A. R. T." [F. M. B.]

Thompson, Henry John, M.A., s. of John Northon Thompson, was b. at Kings-clere, Hants, 1830; was Tylney Exhibitioner Queen's College, Oxford, 1850; and gradusted B.A. in 1858, M.A. in 1856. On taking Holy Orders, he became curate of St. Mary's, Warwick. In 1859 he was instituted to the vicarage of Dodford, near Weedon, Northants. In 1878 he became chaplain to the R.A. garrison at Weedon, and in 1879 was appointed rural dean of Weedon. Mr. Thompson has written, "Christ, we come before Thee" (Holy Matrimony), to be sung at the commencement of the office of Holy Matrimony. It was 1st printed, with music by the Rev. T. R. Matthews, by Novello & Co.; and again, together with the same music, in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871, No. 238, in 4 double st. of 8 L. Mr. Thompson has also written a few hymns for "Harvest," "Confirmation," and other occasions, and some carols. These, with other poetical pieces, were pub. in his Hymne and other Verses, and form a pleasing volume, He d. Dec. 12, 1887. [J. J.]

Thompson, Jemima. (Luke, Jenima.)

Thou art coming, O my Saviour.

Winterdyne, Nov. 16, 1873. 1st printed in the Rock newspaper, 1873, and then as one of Parlane's leaflets, 1874; her Under the Surface, 1874; and Life Mosaic, 1879. It is one of the most popular of Miss Havergal's hymns. Sometimes it is divided, when Pt. ii. begins with "Thou art coming; at Thy Table." Miss Havergal's tone St. Paul was written to this hymn; but she preferred to hear it sung to Dr. Monk's tune Advent, as in H. A. & M. [HAV. M68.] [J. J.]

Thou art gone to the grave! but we will not deplore thee. Bp. R. Heber. [Death and Burial.] Was written in December, 1818, on the death of his daughter, aged six months. (Memoirs, vol. i. p. 501.) So far as is at present known its earliest publication was in the Rev. Carus Wilson's Friendly Visitor, for August, 1824. It is also found, with variations, in st. iii. in a vol. of Scored Postry, Edin.: W. Oliphant, n.b. In 1827, the text, as in the Friendly Visitor, was included in Bp. Heber's posthumous Hymns, p. 150. It is rendered into Latin by R. Bingham in his Hymn. Christ. Latina, 1871, as "Mortuos inter resides, et absens." [J. J.]

Thou art [hast] gone up on high, To mansions, &c. Emma Toke, nee Leike. [Ascession.] Written in 1851, and contributed anonymously to the S. P. C. K. Hymne for Public Worship, 1852, No. 61, in 3 st. of 4 l.; and again in later editions of the same collection. Its use is very extensive in most English-speaking countries. The text is seldom altered, a marked instance to the contrary, however, being the Hymnary, 1872. In H. A. & M., 1861, st. i., L. 2, reeds "To realme"; but in the 1875 ed. the original reading "To mansions" is restored.

In 1871, Mrs. Toke slightly sitered the text for the Rev. R. Judd's S. S. Liturgy & H. Bh., No. 62 (Halifax), and wrote at the same time the following additional verse, which is given in Judd's collection as the first :

" Thou hast gone up on high! Triumphant o'er the grave, And captive led captivity, Thy ransomed ones to save Thou hast gone up on high! Oh! help us to ascend, And there with Thee continually, In heart and spirit blend."

This stanza is practically unknown to compilers, and is not in general use. [J. J.]

Thou biddest, Lord, Thy sons be bold. T. H. Gill. [Liberty of the Children of God.] The second hymn written by the author, composed in 1845, and 1st pub. in G. Dawson's Ps. & Hys., 1846, No. 115, in 9 st. of 4 l. In 1859 it was included in Hedge & Huntington's Hys. for the Ch. of Christ, Boston, U.S.A., No. 507, with the emission of st. ii., viii., and was thus introduced to the american collections. It was revised for the author's Golden Chain, &c., 1869, and included as No. 132 in 4 st. of 8 l., with the heading "The glorious Liberty of the Children of God." In Dale's English H. Bk., 1874, No. 633, st. ii. of the 1869 text is omitted. The American Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864, contains two centes from this hymn, (1) " We stand unto our God, how near!" and (2)" Thou Frances R. Havergal. [Advent.] Written at | biddest, Lord, Thy sons be bold." [J. J.]

Thou boundless Source of every good. [Divine Guidance desired.] This hymn is a cento, and as such it appeared in T. Cotterill's Sel. of Ps. & Hys, 1st ed. 1810, in 6 st. of 4 l., and headed "For the right improvement of the dispensations of Providenoe." It was repeated in Cotterill's Sel., 1819 and 1820; Bickersteth's Christian Psobmody, 1833; and again in a great many modern hymn-books, including the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys. &c. It is sometimes abbreviated to 4 st. Of the original cento at. ii., iii., iv., vi. are from O. Heginbothom's (p. 506, i.)
"Father of mercies, God of love," which was No. 9 of his Hymns, &c., Sudbury, 1794, but in an altered form; and et. i. and v. are probably by T. Cotterill. [J. J.]

Thou child of man, fall down. H. Alford. [Adult Baptism.] 1st pub. in G. Stevenson de M. Rutherford's Lays of the Sanctuary, and Other Poems, 1859, p. 7, in 8 st. of 4 l., and headed "Liues for an Adult Baptism." In 1868 it was included by the author in the revised ed. of his Poetical Works, p. 256, with the simple heading "1846," the date of its composition, and probably of a special Baptism for which it seems to have been composed. In Kennedy 1863, No. 771, "Servant of God, go forth," is composed of st. iv.-viii. It is a hymn of some merit, and might be divided with case into two parts; the first to be sung before, and the second after, the administration of the Holy Rite. [J. J.]

Thou dear [great] Redeemer, dying Lamb. J. Cennick. [The Holy Name Jesus.] Pub. in his Sacred Hymns, do., Pt. iii., 1743-44, p. 148. It was included in the 1875 ed. of the Wes. H. Bk. as "Thou great Redeemer, dying Lamb." In the English Moravian H. Bk., 1886, it is given in 3 st., and begins with the original first line. [J. J.]

Thou didst leave Thy throne and Thy Kingly crown. Emily E. S. Elliott. [Christman] 1st privately printed, 1864, for the use of the choir and schools of St. Mark's Church, Brighton, and first pub. by the authoreas in the Church Missionary Juvenile Instructor, 1870, p. 188; and again in her Chimes for Daily Service, 1880, p. 99, in 5 st. of 6 l. It was repeated in Wilson's Service of 1865; Allon's Children's Worship, 1878; Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881; Church Proise, 1883, &c., and is given in full, and almost in the 1880 text as No. 874 in the Scottish Free Church H. Bk., 1882. [J. M.]

Thou glorious Sun of Righteousness. Charlotte Elliott. [Sunday Morning.] This hymn is in C. U. in two forms, and both are by Miss Elliott. The first form is in 3 at. of 4 1., beginning as above, and appeared in the "Third Thousand" of H. V. Elliott's Fs. & Hys., 1839, No. 291. This text is repeated in the Leeds H. Bh., 1858, and others. The second form is that given in Miss Elliott's Morning and Evening Hys. for a Week, 1839, p. 3, in 11 st. of 41. Of this form of the text st. i., il. and xi. are the preceding hymn, the remaining stanzas being new. This form is repeated, sometimes abbreviated, in Brown-Borthwick's Select Hys., &c., 1871; the B. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; Snepp's Songs of Grace and Glory, 1872; Thring's Coll., 1882, and others,

Thou God art a consuming fire. J. Montgomery. [Prayer.] Written in 1818, and first printed on a broadsheet with Montgomery's "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire," and "What shall we sak of God in prayer?" for use in the Nonconformist Sunday schools in Sheffield. It was included in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 279, in 4 st. of 8 l.; in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 481, with alterations, and in 8 st. of 4 l.; and again in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 68, without further alteration. This last is the text usually given in the hymnals.

Thou God of glorious majesty. C. Wesley. [Death and Judgment.] 1st pub. in Hymne and Sacred Poems, 1749, vol. i., in 6 at. of 6 l., and entitled "An Hymn for Seriousness" (P. Works, 1868-72, vol. iv. p. 316). In 1780 it was included in the Wes. H. Bk., as No. 58, and from thence has passed into many collections. The hymnals of the Church of England however received their text from M. Medan, who included the hymn in his Ps. & Hymns, 1760, and appended to the lines:—

"Give me to feel their solemn weight,
And tremble on the brink of fate
And waks to Rightsonenes," and a long note, thus introduced:-

"I am glad of an Opportunity to recene this signifi-cant Word [Fats] out of the Hands of the Infidejs, who use it together with Inck, Fortune, Chance, Destiny, to promote their favourite Scheme, of axcluding the parti-cular Providence of the Wise Disposer of all Events from the Government of the Affairs of Man."

He then proceeds to justify the use of the word by first giving its derivation from the Latin, Fatum, and then quoting classical authorities for its use in the same sense as that in which it is used by Wesley. Fate is that which God has spoken concerning man, In this verse of the hymn that word is, " Dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return." Hence its truth.

Concerning the second stanze, "Lo! on a narrow neck of land," much controversy has arisen as to whether or not it was written "on a narrow neck of laud" at the Laud's End, Cornwall. Mr. T. Jackson, in his Life of C. Wesley, asserts that there is no proof of its having been written under these circumstances; and Dr. Osborn, the learned editor of the Poetical Works of J. & C. Wesley, is silent on the subject. Failing to find elsewhere any evidence of value in favour of the common belief, we must join the above authorities in pronouncing against it.

The literary merits of this hymn won the praise of Montgomery :-

"Theu God of glorious majesty!" is a sublime con-templation in another veln; solemn, collected, ma-impassioned thought, but thought occupied with that which is of everlasting import to a dying man, stand-ing on the lapse of a moment between "two eternities." Christian Passmitt. Introductory Essay.

An abbreviated form of this hymn is found in a few collections including Major's Book of Praise, &c., No. 65. It is composed of st. iii.-vi., beginning "O God, mine immost soul convert." The same stanzas, considerably altered, are given as "O God, Thy saving grace impart," is in Kennedy, 1863. [J. J.] Thou knowest, Lord, that they. J. Anstice. [In Temptotion.] First privately printed in Hys. by the Rev. Joseph Anstice, M.A., Lond.: 1836, and ofterwards pub. in The Child's Christian Year, 1841, in 5 st. of 6 l., and appointed for the 19th 8. after Trinity. In 1863 Dr. Kennedy gave in his Hymno. Christ., an altered version, beginning "Help. Lord, Thou know'st that they," in 4 st., the fourth stanza being omitted. [J, J,]

Thou, Lord, delights Thy saints to J. Allen. [Holy Baptism.] This imperfect line is the opening of a hymn out of which a fairly good lyric has been made. The original, by J. Allen, appeared in A Collection of Hymns for the use of those that seek, and those that have Redemption in the Blood of Christ. Kendal: Printed by Thomas Ashburner, MDCCLVII, No. 114, as follows:-

"1. Thou, Lond, delights Thy saints to own In Thy appointed ways;
This ordinance with bleedings crown, And tokons of Thy grace

"2, Jointly we raise our hearts to Thee, Thy powerful Spirit breathe; And let this little lufant be Saptiz'd into Thy death.

" 3. O let Thy unotion on him rest, With grace his beart bedow; And write within his tender breast Thy name and nature too.

"4. If Then shouldst quickly end his race His place with Thee prepare; Or if Thou longthen out his days, Continue still Thy care.

" 6. Thy faithful soldler may be prove, Begirt with truth divine; A sharer of Thy dying love, A follower of Thine,"

In 1782 Thomas Beck included it in an altered form in his Hymns Calculated for the Purposes of Public, Social, and Private Worship, &c., Rochester, 1782, as No. 105, thus:-

" Dedicating the Child to God in Baptism. "1. Thou, Lord, art pleased Thy mints to own, And will their children bless; This ordinance now with mercy crown, And lokens of Thy grace.

"2. Jesus, we raise our souls to Thee [And, as in orig. above.]

"3. O let Thy unction on Aim rest, Thy grace his soul bedew; [And, as in orig. above.]

"4. [As above with I. 1 "race" to "days;" and I. 3. "days" to "race."]
"5. [As above with I. 2 " Begirt," to "Gérded;" and I. 3 "sharer of" to "sharer is."]

"6. A new stanza, being:—
"Plant us into His death,
That we His life may prove;
Partakers of His cross beneath, And of His crown above."

from Hys. on The Lord's Supper, by J. and C. Wesley, 1745, No. extrin. 4, rewritten in c.u. as:—

"Lord, plant us all into Thy death,
That we Thy life may prove;
Partakers of Thy cross beneath,
And of Thy grown above."

In 1833, this cento took the form in which it is known in modern hymn-books, appearing in Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, No. 351, as "Jesus, we lift our souls to Thee," in 5 st., beginning with the second stanza altered, by Alien, and concluding with the stanza, also altered as above, by Wesley. In the Irish Church Hywnal, st. 4, as in Bickersteth, is omitted. The cento should therefore be submitted. scribed "J. Allen, C. Wesley, T. Beck, and E. Bickersteth," [W. T. B.]

Thou, Lord, through every changing scene. P. Doddridge. [God, the Dwelling-place of His People.] This is No. 21 in the p. MSS., in 6 st. of 41.: is headed "God the Dwelling-place of His people thro' all generations" from Ps. xc. 1, and dated May 30, 1736. It was given in J. Orton's posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 51; and again with elight differences in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the same, 1839. It has passed into several modern hymnals. [J. J.]

Thou that art the Father's Word. H. Alford. [Christmas, or the Epiphany.] This is No. 18 in Dean Alford's Pealms and Hymns, 1844; and No. 32 in his Year of Praise, 1867, in 4 st. of 6 l. and the refrain, "Hail, Lord Jesus." In the Irvingite Hys. for the use of the Churches, 1864, No. 21, begins "Songs of glory fill the sky," and is signed in the Index "J. E. L." (i.e. Jane E. Leeson). In the 1871 cd. of that collection it is repeated as No. 121, and in the Index is set forth as by "Dean Alford (altered)." It is really a cento in 3 st. of 8 l. and a refrain, of which ll. 3 and 7 of st. i., the whole of st. li. and the refrain, are from Dean Alford's hymn. [J. J.]

Thou thrice denied, yet thrice be-loved. J. Keble. [St. Peter.] Written May 15, 1825, and lat pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, in 18 st. of 4 l. A cento begin-ning with an alteration of st. i. to "Lord, thrice denied yet thrice beloved," is sometimes found in modern hymn-books. [J. J.]

Thou Who art enthroned above. Sandye [Ps. xcii.] Pub. in his Paraphraes upon the Psalmes of David, 1636; again in his Paraphrases upon the Divine Poems (with which the Psalmes were incorporated), 1638; and again in later eds. of the same. It is in 46 lines. In Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, 24 lines, beginning with the first, were given as No. 237. This cento was repeated in the Leeds H. Bk., 1853; the New Cong. H. Bk., 1859, and others. Another cento is in the revised ed. of the Wes. H. Bk., 1875. It consists of 18 lines from the original paraphrase, and begins with the first line. [J. J.]

Thou Who didst for Peter's faith. Ann Gilbert, nés Taylor. [The Divine Guide.] Pub. in Collyer's Coll., 1812, Nos. 893 and 894. in two parts. Pt. i. in 8 st. of 6 l., entitled and Pt. ii., "When the vale of death appears," in 4 st. of 6 i., entitled "Divine support in Death," and each signed "A." Both parts are in C.U. (J. J.) "Divine Guidance in the Changes of Life"

Thou Who didst on Calvary bleed. J. D. Burns. [Lent.] Appeared in his work of hymns and prayers, The Evening Hymn, 1857, No. 16, in 6 st. of 5 l., and headed "Out of the depths." Orig. text in Hy. Comp., 1876, with "There deliverance," &c., for "Their deliverance," &c., in st. iv. 1, 2, [J. J.]

Thou Who dost my life prolong. J. Faucett. [Morning.] Pub in his Hymns, &c., 1782, No. 51, in 14 st. of 4 L. and headed, "A Morning Hymn." In a few American hymn-books, including Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, it is abbreviated to 5 st. [J. J.]

Though all men's eloquence adorned.

T. Bandall. [Love.] First appeared as No. 11 in the Draft Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1745, as a version of 1 Cor. xiii., in 14 st. of 4 lines. In the Draft of 1781, No. 49, slightly altered, and beginning "Though perfect eloquence adorn'd." Thence with st. iv. and st. iii. l. 2, rewritten in the public worship ed. issued in that year by the Church of Scotland and still in use. In the markings by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, il.), the original is ascribed to T. Randall, and the alterations in 1781 to W. Cameron. In the Eng. Presb. Ps. & Hymns, 1867, the text of 1781 was included as Nos. 281-283, No. 282 beginning "Love suffers long, love envies not" (st. v.), and No. 288 beginning with st. x., "Here all our gifts imperfect are." It is also found in the following forme:-

Ing forms:

1. Though every grace my speech adorn'd, beginning with at i. altered in the Springfield Coll., 1838, No. 247 (American).

2. Love still shall hold an endless reign, st. ix., x., xli.-xiv, in Horison's Hymns, 1850, No. 181.

3. 'The Love shall hold an endless reign, st. ix., x., xlii., xiv, in Twickerham Chapet Coll., 1845, p. 64.

4. Faith, hope, and love, now dwell on earth, st. xiii., xiv, in Montgomery's Christian Praintist, 1826, No. 194, and in America in Adams & Chapla's Coll., 1846, No. 387. (Compare Watte's Hymns, lik. i., Noa. 183, 184.) 133, 184, ) [J. M.]

Though holy, holy, holy, Lord. J. Montgomery. [Holy Trinity.] This appeared in Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, No. 12, in 7 st. of 4 l., and based on Issiah vi. 3. It is given in a few modern hymn-books in G. Britain and America, but is not found in Montgomery's Original Hys., 1853. [J. J.]

Though troubles assail, And dangers affright. J. Newton. [Security in God.] Written in February, 1775, for the service at the Great House at Olney (Bull's Life of Newton, 1868, p. 208), and first pub. in the Geopel Magazine, Jan. 1777, p. 42, in 8 st. of 8 l., sud headed "Jehovah-Jirob, i.e. The Lord will provide, Gen. xxii. 14." It was introduced in the Glass House 1270. cluded in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. i., No. 7, with the title "The Lord will provide." It is usually given in an abbreviated form. [J. J.]

Thought on thought in solemn train. Thought on thought in solemn train.

E. Caeroll. [Man Perfect, Fallen, Redeemed.]
This poem of 222 lines appeared in his Masque of Mary, &c., 1858, p. 232, as "Musing in a solemn train," in 7 parts as follow:—i.
Nature in Faradise; ii. Nature Fallen; iii.
Nature Comforted; iv. Nature Redeemed;
v. Nature Warned; vi. Nature Restored;
vii. Nature Glorified. In his Hys. and Poems,
1872, p. 259, it was represented in full with the 1873, p. 259, it was repeated in full with the same divisions, and the general heading "Human Nature before and since the fall." In the Hymnary, 1872, two centes were given from it as (1) "Hail, O Thou of grace divine"; (2) "If thou wouldest life attain." The latter of these has been repeated else-[J. J.]

Thousands, O Lord of hosts, this day. J. Montgomery. [During Sickness.]
Pub. in Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, No. 183, in 8 st. of 4 l., and again in the Weston H. Bk., compiled by the Misses in the town of Blackburn, Lancashire, on Harrison of Sheffield, 1834, No. 198. It was republished in Montgomery's Poet's Port- of Henry Threlfall, wine merchant, and folio, 1835, p. 255, with the title "The Prisoner of the Lord." A Sabbath Hymn for a Sick Chamber;" and the addition of two stanzas ("I, of such fellowship bereft;" and "O make Thy face on mo to shine"). This text was repeated in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 183. It is in C. U. in Great Britain and America usually in an abbreviated form; and also as follows:

1. Many, O Lord, my God, to-day. In T. Darling's Hys. for the Church of England. 1874-87. 2. Thomsands, O Lord, of sonia this day. In the American Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864,

3. The daw lies thick upon the ground. In the American Church Pastorals, 1864, et, vL-viii. [J. J.]

Three in One, and One in three. G. Rorison. [Holy Trinity.] The MS. of this hymn was sent in 1849, with seven others, to R. Campbell for insertion in his St. Andrews Hymnal, but they were not included therein, although the Mss. were retained and now form purt of the c. Mss. The heading of this special Ms. is "Trinity Sunday, An imi-tation and combination from the Roman Breviary 'Tu Trinitatis Unitas,' and 'Jam sol recedit igneus." The hymn was first pub. in Dr. Rorison's Hys. and Anthems, 1851 (Preface dated "All Saints Day, 1850"), p. 97, as follows:-

"Three in One and One in Three i Ruler of the parth and real Hear us while we lift to Thee Holy chant and pealm.

" Light of lights; with morning-shine Lift on us Thy light divine; And let charity benign Breathe on us her balm.

"Light of lights! when falls the even Let it sink on sin forgiven: Fold us in the peace of heaven; Shed a vesper raim,

"Three in One, and One in Three!

Darkling hers we worship Thee:

With the Saints hereafter we Hope to bear the paim."

In Murray's Hymnal, 1852, it was repeated with "Dimly here," &c., for "Darkling here," &c., in st. iv., 1. 2. This text was given in H. A. & M., 1861, with the additional change of "Shed a vesper calm," "to shed a holy calm." Other, but slight, alterations have been introduced in modern hymn-books, inclading :--

1. Ever blessed Trinity. In the 1880 Appendix to the Ball, P.S. & Hys. .

8. Holy Goldread, One in Three. In the Roman Catholic Hys. for the Year 1887.

3. Lord of level as deep and free. In J. Hunter's Hys. of Fault and Life, Glasgow, 1869.

It must be noted that most editors of hymnels have misquoted st. ii, by printing the compound substantive "morning-shine two words, followed by a semicolon, an oversight which destroys the whole point and meaning of the stanza, and goes for towards spoiling the entire hymn. The text, usually as in H. A. & M., is in extensive use in G. Britain and America. The H. A. & M. text is also tr. into Latin by G. S. Hodges, and is given in his County Palatine, 1876, as, "Una Trina Deitas." [J. J.]

Catherine Eccles, the latter a somewhat i noticeable local family, who disapproved of the marriage. She was early left an orphan, and became the "beloved inmate" (as a memorial-card bears) of the households successively of her uncle and aunt Bannister and Mary Jane Eccles, at Park Place, Blackburn. and Golden Hill, Leyland; and later of their daughter, the late Sarah Alice Aston, and her husband, of Dean's Yard, Westminster. Latterly she met with a sad accident that lamed and mutilated her for life, and a second rendered her a helpless invalid. She bore her long slow sufferings brightly, and to the end retained a gentle, loving, sympathetic heart, and always a pleasant word and smile, forgetful of herself. Throughout she was a great reader, and at "idle moments" threw off with ease her sacred poems and hymns. These were sent anonymously to various periodicals. They were first collected and issued in a small volume, entitled Woodcorrel; or, Leaves from a Retired Home. By J. T., Lond.: J. Nisbet, 1856.* There are thirty-five poema in all. They do not appear to have won any notice except among friends. Years later she selected 15 pieces from Woodsorrel and added 55 others, and pub, them as Surshine and Shadow. Poems by Jeannette Threlfall. With Introduction by the Lord Bishop of Lincoln [Wordsworth]. Lond.: (Hunt), 1873. A 3rd ed. (1880) is entitled New Edition. With In Memoriam from the Sermons of the Dean of Westminster and Canon Farrar. The two memorial tributes are very tender and sweet. A few words from each will be acceptable. Dean Stanley, amongst other things finely put, 88Y9 :---

"If I may speak of one who has been taken from ese precincts within the last week: when a life, bright these precincts within the last week; wheh a life, bright and lovely in steelf, in suddenly derkened by some terrible accident; when it has been changed from the enjoyment of averything to the sujcyment of nothing; when year by year, and week by week, the suffering, the weakness, have increased; and when yet, in spite of this, the patient sufferer has become the centre of the bomesbold, the adviser and counsellot of each; when there has been a constant stream of cheerfulness under the average and it when there has been a flow of read. there has been a constant stream of cheerfulness under the severest pain; when there has been a flow of grati-tude for any act of kindness, however slight; when we recall the eager hope of such an one, that progress and improvement, not suggestion or repose, will be the destiny of the newly-awakened soul; then, when the end has come, we sel more than ever that the future is greater than the present."

So Canon Farrar :-

"A few days ago there passed away a resident of this parish, a member of this congregation, whose name many of the poer well know; who was their friend and their benefactor; who had the liberal hand and the large heart; who belped the charlities of this parish with a spontheneous generosity which is extremely rare; whose purse was ever open, unasked, to every good work of which she beard; whose delicate mind was alive with Christian sympathy; who had pre-eminenty "The faith, through constant watching wise, And the heart at leisure from itself."

And the heart at leisure from itself, To soothe and sympathics."

Bp. Wordsworth praises her poems, and observes :-

"It is an occasion for great thankfulness to be able to point to poems, such as many of those in the present volume, in which considerable mental powers and graces of composition are blended with pure religious feeling, and hallowed by sound doctrine and fervant devotion."

The sacred poems are not very well wrought, nor at all noticeable in thought or sentiment. But all through one feels that a sweet spirit utters itself. She d. on 30th November, 1880, and was interred at Highgate Cemetery, 4th Dec., 1880. [A. B. G.]

Of Miss Threlfall's hymns those in C. U. include:-

1. Hosanna! loud hosanna, The little children sang.

 Ausadoy,
 I think of Thee, O Saviour. Good Friday.
 Lo, to us a child is born. Christmas.
 Thou bidd'it as seek Thee early. Early Picty.
 We praise Thes in the montaing. Morrisop.
 When from Egypt's house of bondagu. Children 44 Pilarims.

These hymns are all taken from Miss Threlfall's Sunshine and Shadow, 1873. No. 2 was written during a dangerous illness, at her dictation, by a friend. No. 1 is the most widely used of her compositions. [J. J.]

Thresher, Mrs. J. B., a nom de plume of Mrs. Van Alstyne, q. v.

Thrice happy saints who dwell above. S. Browne. [Sunday.] Appeared in his Hys. and Spiritual Songs, 1720, No. 122, in 10 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Lord's Day." In its full form it is not in C. U. In Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, st. iv., v., vii., viii. were given as No. 283 as "Frequent the day of God returns." This cento has been repeated in a large number of hymnals in G. Britain and America.

hrice happy souls, who born from heaven. P. Doddridgs. [Walking with God.] This is No. 87 in the D. Mss. in 8 st. of heaven. 4 l., headed, "Of spending the day with God," from Prov. xxiii. 17, and dated " March 27, 1787." In J. Orton's posthumous ed. of Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 79, it was given with several changes in the text, and with the heading altered to "Walking with God; or, being in His fear all the day long." Proverbs xxiii. 17; and again in J. D. Humpbreys's ed. of the same, 1839, No. 93. This text again differs from both the above. That however in C. U. is from Orton. In the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, No. 445, st. v., vi., iv. and iii., are given as, "Lord, we must labour, we must care."
Both this and the text as in Orton are in several collections.

Thring, Edward, w.A., brother of Godfrey Thring, was b. at Alford, Somerset, on Nov. 29 1821, and educated at King's College, Cambridge; B.A. 1844. He won the Porson Prize in 1848, and was elected a Fellow of King's College in 1844. He became Head Master of Uppingham School in 1858, and retained the same to his death on October 22, 1887. He was the author of several important works for schools and colleges, of a volume of Sermons pub. in 1858, and two other vols. in 1886, and of Borth Lyrics, 1881. He was joint editor with Herr David of the Hymn Book for the use of Uppingham and Sherborne Schools, 1874, and to it he contributed some tra from the German (see Index of Authors and Translators). Two of his original hymns are in Thring's Coll. (1) "A day of work is done" (For the Sick), and (2) " Death shut the gates of Paradise" (Death). His great success as the Head Master of a Public School has become a matter of history. [J. J.]

* The title Woodsorrel was chosen from its name in Italian "Allsinia," and because Fra Angelico puts it, with datales, at foot of the Cross in one of ble most lovely paintings.

Thring, Godfrey, B.A., s. of the Rev. J. G. D. Thring, of Alford, Somerset, and brother of the Rev. E. Thring (see above), was b. at Alford, March 25, 1823, and educated at Shrewsbury School, and at Ballioi College, Oxford, B.A. in 1845. On taking Holy Orders he was curate of Stratfield-Turgis, 1846–50; of Strathfieldsaye, 1850–53; and of other parishes to 1858, when he became rector of Alford-with-Hornblotton, Somerset. R.D. 1867-76. In 1876 he was preferred as prebend of East Harptree in Wells cathedral. Prebendary Thring's poetical works are :- Hymns Congregational and Others, 1866; Hymns and Verses, 1866; and Hymns and Sacred Lyrics, 1874. In 1880 he pub. A Church of England Hymn-book Adapted to the Daily Services of the Church throughout the Year; and in 1882, a revised and much improved edition of the same as The Church of England Hymn Book, &c. (for details concerning which see England, Hymnedy, Church of, p. 351, § vi.). A great many of Prebendary Thring's hymne are annotated under their respective first lines (see Index of Authors and Translators); the rest in C. U. include :--

C. U. include;—

1. Beneath the Church's hallowed shade. Consecration of a Surial Ground, Written in 1870. This is one of four hymns set to music by Dr. Dykes, and first pub. by Novello & Co., 1873. It was also included (but without music) in the author's Hyr. & Secred Lyrics, 1874, p. 170, and in his Coll., 1882.

2. Blessed Savieur, Thou hast taught us. Quénquagesima. Written in 1868, and first pub. in the author's Hyr. Congregational and Others, 1886. It was republished in his Hys. & Soc. Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1882. It is hased upon the Epistle for Quinquagesima.

3. Blet out an sins of old. Lest. Written in 1882, and first pub. in Hys. Cong. and Others, 1886; Hys. & Sec. Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1882. It is in several collections in G. Britain and America, and has been specially set to music by H. H. Pierson (Novello & Co.), and in other hymnals.

4. Bowes down with serrow, sin, and shame. Lest. Written in 1880, and first pub. in his Coll., 1882, as a Processional during Lent. It is of more than small merit. 5. Bulwark of a mighty nation. Charch Conferences, &c. Written in 1876, and first pub. in Morreli & How's Py. & Hyn., 1864; and and first pub. in Morreli & How's Py. & Hyn. 1864; and after pub. in Morreli & How's Py. & Hyn. 1864; and again in the author's Hys. Cong. and Others, 1866; and in his Coll., 1882, and in other bymnals.

other bymnale.

other bymnals.

7. For macoy, Lord, I cry. Lond. Written in 1862. and first pub. In bis Hys. Conp. and Others, 1866, and his Hys. & Soc. Lyrice, 1874.

8. From the eastern mountains. Epiphany. Written in 1873, and first pub. In his Hys. & Soc. Lyrice, 1874, and his Coll., 1882. It is a Processional for Epiphany, and is found in several collections.

9. Sird we, soldiers, for the battle. Purity. Written for the White Crees Army, and pub. In the Bath and Well's Diocean Higgsine. July, 1884.

10. God the Father, God the Son, Holy Spirit, Three in One. Liteny for Close of Service. Written in 1871, and first pub. In his Hys. & Suc. Lyrice, 1874; and in his Coll., 1883, and in other hymnals.

and marginal thin sign, a said layer, 1942; and in the Cold., 1983, and in other hymnals.

11. Grant us, O sur heavenly Father. Growth in Grace desired. Written in 1981, at the request of the Rev. Preb. W. Michell, Diocean Imspector of Schools for Bath and Wells, to set farth the growth of religion through the ordinances of the Church, and first pub. in the continuous of the Church, and first pub. in through the ordinances of the Church, and first pub. in the author's Coll., 1982.

13. Great Architect of werlds unknown. Hely Trinsity. Written in 1872, and first pub. in his Hyr. & Soc. Lyrice, 1874; and again in his Coll., 1882.

13. Hail, shored day of earthly rest. Song. and Others, 1806, in 13 st. of 61. Originally it was not intended for Public Worship; but from it st. 1, 151, vii., ix.—xl. and xiii. were adapted by the author and Bp. How for the R. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871, st. L., il. 3, 4. reading:

" Hall! day of light, that bringest light

And joy to me,"
for the original which read:—
"Hail! units spirit, bringing peace
And joy to me."

And joy to me."

Aithough the altered form is in the author's Coll., 1882, the original is his authorised text for the future.

14. Hark! hear ye not the angel-rong. Christman Corol. Written in 1888 at the request of the Rev. B. R. Chope, and pob. in the author's Coll., 1882, in 2 st. of 8!. Of this hymn, st. ii., iii. 14. are by George Wither. 16. Hark! the vault of beaven is ringing. Assention. Written in 1873, and first pub. in his Hys. & Soc. Lyrica. 1874: again in his Coll., 1882; and again in other hymnals.

16. Hart then rivered?

16. Rust thou ginned ! sin no mure. Lent.

in 1887, and first pub. in his Hys. & Suc. Lyrica, 1874. In C. U. in America. 17. Have we no real for Him Who died! Conversion of St. Paul. Written in 1876, and pub. in his Coll., of St. Post. Written in 1876, and pub. in his Coll., 1880, and again in 1882. 18. Roel me, C my Saviour, heel. Lont. Written in 1888, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1985, in 5 st. of 4 1., and, enlarged to 8 st., in his Hys. & Siz. Lyricz, 1874, and his Coll., 1882, also in other hymnals. It has been specially set to muste by H. H. Pierson in his Hymn Tasser, 2nd series, 1872. Its use has extended to America.

19. Hear us, Thou who broodedst. Processional for Whitenestide, Written in 1873, and first pub. in his Hys. & Suc. Lyres, 1874; and in his Coll., 1882, also in other hymnals. The latter is his authorized text.

Hys. & Suc. Lyrks, 1874; and in his tone, atext. in other hymnals. The latter is his authorized text.

20. In the Hanne of God the Father. Boly Raptism.
Written in 1849, and first pub. in his Hys. & Suc. Lyrics, 1874, and again in his Goll., 1882. The second stance begins, "Washed beneath the mystic waters."

31. Jesu, heavaily Rhepherd. The Good Sachberd. Written in 1872, and first pub. in his Hys. & Suc. Lyrics, 1874, and again in his Goll., 1830; also in other hymnals, but omitted from the 1882 ed. of the same, athough it is by no means an indifferent hymn.

22. Lord God Almighty. Who heavent all, &c. God the Bower of Frayer. Written in 1895, and first pub.

13. Lord Gad Almighty. Who heavest all, $0. God the Heaver of Prayer. Written in 1898, and first publin his Coll., 1880, and repeated in the ed. of 1882.

23. Lord of Power, Lord of Might. Collect, 7th S. After Privity. Written in 1892, and first pub. in Chope's Hystead the same year. It was repeated in Morrell & How's Ps. & Hys., 1884; in the author's Hys. Cong. and Others, 1892, in 1892, 4 Sac. Lyrics, 1814, and his Coll., 1892. It is also in a large number of collections, and ranks in popularity with most of the author's best hymns. It has been specially set to music by Dr. Monk, and by H. H. Pletson.

25. Make we know D. Dr. Barriens. Foliages desired.

by H. H. Pletson.

M. Make me holy, O my Bavisur. Holiness desired.

Written in 1867, and first pub. In his Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874; and again in his Coll., 1882 (Private Use).

S. O death, then art no more. Peath onticipated with Joy. Written in 1862, and pub. in Chopes Hyssad the same year. Also in the author's Hys. Long. and Others., 1865; his Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1882. It has been specially set to music by H. H. Plesson and W. T. Pass. Coll., 1882. It has been Plerson and W. T. Best.

Pierson and W. T. Best.

26. O for the faith that knows no doubt. Unfailing Path desired. Written in 1824, and first pub. In his Hys. and Verses, 1866; his Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1880; but omitted from the ed. of 1882.

27. O God of mercy, God of might, in love and pity inits Coll., 1880, and again in 1892. Specially set to music by H. 8. Irons.

28. O God, the King of glory, Who. Collect, S.
after the Ancession. Written in May, 1883, and pub.
In this Hys. Cong. and Others, 1866; his Hys. & Suc.
Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1880; but amitted from the
ed. of 1882.

28. O Mishty God, Greater, King. For those travel-

ed. of 1822.

38. 0 Mighty Ged, Orestor, King. For those travelling by Land or by Soa. Written in 1878 for his Coll., and pub. therein, 1886, and 1882.

30. 0 ming to the Lerd with a psalm of thanksgiving. Church Conference. Written in 1871, and pub. in Four Hymn, set to meste by Dr. Dykes, 1873, in the author's Hym, & Soc. Lyvice, 1874, and his Coll., 1882. A five Processional hymn for Church gatherings of various kinds, 31. 0 Thou Who dwellast in realms of light. Proxise for Hwise Mercice. Written in 1862, and first pub. in Hym. Cong. and Collery, 1888; his Hys. & Suc. Lyvice, 1874; and his Coll., 1882. Specially set to music by H. H. Pierson in his Hymn Tunes, 2nd Series (Simpkin Marshall), 1872.

38. 0 Thou, Who every change of human life. N. Taonson. Written in 1876, and first pub. in his Coll., 1880, and also in the 1882 ed. of the same.

33. 0 Thou, Who from one blood didst make. For Unity. First pub. in his Coll., 1880; again in 1882, and a lin other hymnais.

84. O Thou Whe madest land and see. For Organic.
Written in 1881, and included in his Coll., 1882.

$5. O Thou, Who sitt'st enthroned above all worlds both great and small. Consecration of a Charch. Written in 1867, and pub. with music by Dr. Dykes in Pour Hymns, 1873, and used at the consecration of Hornbiotten Church, Feb. 19, 1874. Also specially set to music by H. S. Irons (Novello), 1874. It was repeated in the author's Hys. & Suc. Lyrics, 1874; and his Coll., 1882, also in other hymnais.

1882, also in other hymnels.

36. See the Sun high heaven ascending. Hid-day.
Written in 1864, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1866; in his Hys. & Suc. Lyrics, 1874; and in his Oalt, 1882.

bis Coll., 1882.

37. The ocean hain no danger. For Use at Sec. Written in 1862, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1866; his Hys. & Sucred Lyrice, 1874; and in his Coll., 1882.

38. Thou that sendest sun and rain. Times of Scarcity. Written in 1882, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1866, as a hymn for a "Bad Harvest." It was repeated in his Hys. & Suc. Lyrice, 1874; his Coll., 1832, and in several hymnals.

39. Thou to Whom the sich and dying. On behalf of Hospitals. Written in 1870, at the request of Preb. Hutton of Lincoln, and first pub. in his Supplement, Lincoln, 1871; and again with music by H. ft. Fiercou in Hymn Tones (Simpkin & Marshall), 1872. It is also in the author's Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874; his Coll., 1882, and several other hymn-books.

and several color byzn-books.

49. Thries happy be whose tranquil mind. Contentent. Written in 1853, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1856; and his Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874. It is given in one or two American hymn-books.

41. Thy love for all Thy orestures. Mid-day. Written in 1864, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1856;

41. Thy love for all Thy areasures. Mid-day. Written in 1864, and first pub. in his Hys. Cong. and Others, 1885; again in his Hys. & Sac. Lyrice, 1874; his Coll., 1882, and several hymn-books.

42. To Thee, O God, we render thanks. Holy Scripture. Written in 1880, and pub. in his Coll., 1862.

43. Watch new, ye Ohristians, watch and pray. Advent. Written in 1861, and first pub. in Chope's Hymnol., 1862. Alectwards repeated in the author's Hys. Cong. and Ghers, 1866; his Hys. & Sac. Lyrice, 1874; and in coll., 1882, also in other hymnals.

44. We know not, O we know not, how far a prayer may go. Prayer. Written in 1866, and first pub. in Hys. & Sac. Lyrice, 1874; and again, abbreviated, in his Coll., 1862 (Private Use).

45. With tears and hearts bewed down with socrew. Death of a Chick. Written by request in 1881 fir the huneral of a little boy, William Holmes, Orr, son of the Rev. W. H. Orr, Rector of West Lydford, Samerest, who was killed by the fall of a slead, under which he with the worther boys had taken refuge during the great storm on Oct. 14, 1881. It was included in the author's Coll., 1882. The special metre was adopted that the hymn might be sung to Neumark's Choraic, "Wor har den Heben Gott Isse waiten." (See p. 786, ii.).

46. Work is sweet for God has blest. Work. Written in 1863, and first pub. in his Ziys. Cong. and Others. 1886; is Ilya & Sac. Lyrice, 1874; its Coll., 1882, and other hymn-books.

In addition to the above, and those que.

hymn-books.

In addition to the above, and those aunotated under their respective first lines, Prebendary Thring wrote in 1868 a series of "Hymns on the Creation," as set forth in the first chapter of Genesis, and pub. the same in his Hys. & Sac. Lyrics, 1874, and in his Coll., 1880 and 1882. These hymns have also passed into other collections. They are all in the same metre (8.8.8.8.6), and are certainly the same metre (8.8.8.8.6.b), and are certainly very fine. The first lines are:—

42. When o'er the water's misty deep. Stonday.
43. The earth in robes of light arrayed. Monday.
45. The earth in robes of light arrayed. Monday.
50. With same girdle circled round. Treasiny.
50. So grass, and herb, and fruitful tree. Wednesday.
51. Four days had come and gone to rest. Thursday.
52. The last great day of work had come. Friday.
53. And now, 'mid myriad worldsenthroned. Focuring.
54. Although as is natural. Problember Theirage.

Although, as is natural, Prebendary Thring's hymns are more fully represented in his own Coll. than elsowhere, yet a fair proportion are found in a large number of hymn-books in Great Britain and America. His hymns are mainly objective, and are all of them of a strong and decided character. The poetical, as distinct from the sermonizing style of hymn-writing on the one hand, and the grand use of Holy Scripture (as by Bishop C. Wordsworth) on the other, is very prominent, with a tendency to diffuseness and over-elaboration, His descriptive and narrative hymns are very few, and Passiontide and the two Sacraments of the Church are almost untouched. In some of his finer hymns his tone is high and his structure massive, in several others his plaintiveness is very tonder, whilst very varied, and his rhythm is almost always perfect. The prominent features throughout are a clear vision, a firm faith, a positive reality, and an exulting hopefulness. His hymn-book possesses the same features of strength, beauty, and excellence. [J. J.]
Through all the changing scenes of life. Tate & Brady. [Ps. zaxiv.] 1st appeared in the New Version, 1696, in 18 st. of 4 l., divided into two parts. As a c.m. rendering it is regarded as one of the most successful in the New Version, and has been a perfect mine of wealth for cento makers. Its use as a whole in modern hymn-books is unknown, but centes of varying length and arrangements are in most extensive use. Of these the following are the most popular:-

iontowing are the most popular:—
i. St. i., ii., iii., viii. This was given with slight siterations in Cotterill's Sci., 1810; and repeated with further alterations in 1819. From Cotterill, 1819, it passed into Stowell's Coli., 1831; Bickensteth's Christian Pashnody, 1833; Stowell's Pr. & Hys., 1815, and others in the Ch. of England. The Cong. H. Bk., 1836; Leeds H. Ek., 1833; New Cong., &c., 1859; the Bap. Pr. & Hys., 1848; Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1886, &c., and numerous collections of various denominations both in numerous contections of various denominations both in freat Britain and America. In some instances Cot-terill's alteration of st. ii. 1.4, "And charm their griefs," to "And south their griefs," is reproduced; but in most cases the original text is retained. This is the most popular extract form of the hymn.

ii. St. 1., vi., viii., Mitre Hymnal, 1836; Morell & How, 1854-84.
iii. St. 1., ii., Iii., vi. S. P. C. E. Ps. & Hys., 1855.
iv. St. 1., ii., vii., viii. Eillett's Ps. & Hys., 1835; Mercer, &c.

Mercer, Sc. v. St. i., ill., vl., vil., vill. Allord's P2. & Hys., 1841; Allord's Fear of Praise, 1867; Hy. Comp., 1870; Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. & Hone, 1873, and others. vl. The same arrangement with Tate and Brady's dexology; H. A. & H.; Hymnary; Thring's Cott. In Biggs's Annotated ed. of H. A. & M., 1867, a Fronci version of this cente, without the doxology, is given as in common use in Guerney; "Jamais io ne feral." vil. St. i. B. ti., vi., vil. vill. Walker's Cheitenham P2. & Hys., 1855; Marry; Sarum; Wes. H. Bk., 1875; [Bington P2. & Hys., and others.
viii. St. i., il., vi., vil., vill. Windle's Met. Paulier & H. Bk.

x. St. i., iii., vi., vii., xviii. The S. P. C. K. Churck

Hymns, 1871. xi. St. vi.-ix. In Martineau's Hymns, 1840, begin-ning, "The hoets of God encamp around."

Although other centos can be pointed out both in the older and modern collections, sufficient evidence is supplied in the above to show the great hold this version of Ps. xxxiv. has upon the public mind. The collections quoted are but a small part of those in which some portion of this version is found. Its use in various forms is universal. [See New Version, and Paulters, English, § 13 y.] [J. J.]

Through all the dangers of the night. T. Kelly. [Morning.] . 1st pub. in the 1st ed. of his Hymns on Various Passages of Scripture, 1804, in 5 st. of 4 l., and based upon the words in Job vii. 20, "O Thou Preserver of men" (ed. 1853, No. 497). It is found in several modern collections.

Through endless years Thou art the same. [Ps. cii.] This cento is found in several English and American bymu-books; sometimes in four and at other times in five stanzas; and in most cases differing somewhat in the text. The earliest date to which we have traced it is the English Bap. New Sel. of Hya., 1828, No. 17, in 5 st., the first of which is taken from Watte's version of Ps. cit., and the rest from the New Version, 1696, and in both instances with alterations. Thie text, with alterations and the omission of st. v., was given in the American Congregational Church Praimody, by Mason and Greene, Boston, 1831, No. 102. In some later American hymn-books, st. v., as in the English Bap. New Sel., 1828, or altered, is restored. The text of the 1880 Suppl. to the English Bap. Ps. & Hys., is from the New Bel., slightly altered.

Through the day Thy love has spared us. T. Kelly. [Evening.] Pub. in the 2nd ed. of his Hymns, &c., 1806, in 2 st. of 6 l. (ed. 1853, No. 500). It has come into extensive use in all English speaking countries, and has been tr. into several languages. R. Bingham's tr. into Latin in his Hymno. Christ. Letina, 1871, begins:—"Per hunc diem tre-pidum."

Throw away Thy rod. G. Herbert. [Discipline.] Ist pub. in his posthumous work The Temple, 1633, under the title "Discipline,"

"Then let wrath remove;

Love will do the deed; For with love Stony hearts will bleed.

Love is swift of foot; Love's a man of war, And can shoot,

And can hit from far. Who can 'scape his bow?

Throw away Thy rod;

That which wrought on Thee, Brought Thee low, Needs must work on me.

" Throw away Thy rod,

Throw away Thy wrath : O my God, Take the gentle path.

" For my beart's desire Unto Thine is bent; I aspire
To a full consent.

" Not a word or look I affect to own, But by book, And Thy book alone.

"Though I fall, I weep; Thou I halt in pace, Yet I creen Though man frailties hath, Thou art God; To the throne of grace. Throw away Thy wrath."

The earliest attempt known to us to adapt this poem for congregational use was made by John Wesley. In his Coll. of Ps. & Hys., printed at Charlestown, America, 1736-7, it was altered from its 5.5.8.5 metre to s.s. and given as No. vii. of the "Ps. & Hys. for Wed-nesday and Friday." The first stanza begins:

"O throw away Thy rod!
O throw away Thy wrath!
My gracious Saviour and my God,
O take the gentle path."

The original poem, usually in an abbreviated form, is found in several modern bymubooks, including the People's H., 1867; the Cong. Ch. Hymnol, 1887, and others. [J.J.]

Thrupp, Dorothy Ann, daughter of Joseph Thrupp, of Paddington Green, was b. at London, June 20, 1779, and d. there op Dec. 14, 1847. Her hynns, a few of which have come into extensive use, were contributed to the Rev. W. Carns Wilson's Friendly Visitor and his Children's Friend, under the nom de plume of Iota; to Mrs. Herbort Mayo's Prefect during his last year. He graduated Sel. of Hys. and Poetry for the use of Infant in 1849 as 7th Wrangler, and 11th in the lat Schools and Nurserice, 1858 (3rd ed. 1846, with class of the Classical Tripos. In 1850 he was change of title to A Sel. . . . of Infant and Juvenile Schools and Families), in which her signature is "D. A. T."; and also to the Hys. for the Young, which she herself edited for the R. T. S. circa 1830, 4th ed., 1836. In 1836 and 1837 she also pub. Thoughts for the Day (2nd series), in which she embodied many hymns which previously appeared in the Friendly Visitor. In addition to her hymne, which are annotated under their respective first lines (see Index of Authors and Translators), there are also in C. U.:--

1. Come, Holy Spirit, come, O bear an infant's prayer. Child's Prayer. Appeared in Mrs. Mayo's Sel. of Hys. and Postry, 1838, No. 14, and signed "D, A. T."

2. God leves the little child that prays. God's love for Children. Given in Miss Throup's Hys. for the Foung, ath ed., 1836; and again to Mrs. Mayo's Mt. of Hys., &c., 2nd ed., 1840, and algued "D. A. T." it sometimes given as "God leves the child that humbly sometimes given as "God loves the child that kumbly prays."

2. Have you read the wandrous story? Life and Beath of Jenus. This appeared anonymously in Miss Thrupp's Hys. for the Foung, R. T. S., 1830, No. 12, in 5 st. of 4 l. In Miss Thrupp's later publications this hymn is conlited, a fact which suggests that it was not her composition, but possibly that of a friend, It is in the Leeds S. S. Union H. Bis., 1833-18.

4. Let us sing with one second. Proise of Jenus. This hymn is usually associated with Miss Thrupp's name, but on insufficient evidence. We find it in the 4th ed. of her Hys. for the Foung, 1836, and again in the srd ed. of Min. H. Mayo's Sci. of Hys. and Poetry for the Use of Kafoni and Jumentic Schools, he., 1846, and in both Instances without signature. We know of no evidence which justifies us in ascribing the authorship with certainty to Miss Thrupp. The hymn is in the Leeds S. S. Union H. Bis., 1833-78, and several others.

5. Poer and needy though I be. Divine Providence.

Leeds S. S. Unión H. BE., 1833-78, and several others.

5. Pour and needy though I be. Divine Providence. Appeared in Miss Thrupp's Hys. for the Young, 6th ed., 1836, No. 22; and again in Mrs. Mayo's Set. of Hys., hc., 2nd ed., 1840, and signed "D. A. T."

6. See, my child, the mighty occur. Love of God compared to the Sea. Given in the R. T. S.'s Hys., for the Young, 4th ed., 1838, No. 26, and in Mrs. Mayo's Set. of Hys., &c., 1st ed., 1838, and signed "D. A. T." In Kennedy, 1863, it ibegins "Hure you seen the mighty occur."

Kennedy, 1983, it ibegins "Have you seen the mighty coan."

7. Thou Guardian of my entirest days. Jerus the Children's Friend. This bymn we have traced to her Bys. for the Found, at he d., 1936. It is cometimes given as "Thou Guardian of our sardiest days."

8. What a straige and wondrous starty. Life and Death of Jerus. This hymn is found without signature in her Hys. for the Foung, 4th ed., 1838, and again in Mas. H. Hayo's Sci., 1838, No. 173, in 4 st. of 4 l. We have found no authority for scribing it to Miss Thrupp. In the Ch. S. S. H. Bk., N.D., 8 lines have been added as a concluding starts by an unknown hand.

8. What led the Son of God' Love of God in Christ. This appeared anonymously in her Hys. for the Foung, 1830, and again in the Leede S. S. Union H. Bk., 1833. In modern collections it is attributed to Miss Thrupp, on the ground that it is found in the Hys. for the Young, which she edited.

10. Whe are they in heaven who stand? All Swints. Pub. in Mrs. Mayo's Sci., 3rd ed., 1846, No. 64, in 6 st. of 4 l., and signed "A. D. T." It is in the Prim. Methodist S. S. U. H. Sk., 1879, and ciners.

Several additional hymns to those named

Several additional hymns to those named above have also been attributed to Miss Thrupp on Esufficient authority. This has probably arisen out of the fact that all the hymns in the Hys. for the Young, including her own, were given anonymously. [J. J.]

Thrupp, Joseph Francis, M.A., s. of a solicitor, was b. May 20, 1827, and educated at Winchester School and Trinity College, Cambridge. At Winchester he gained the Heathcote and Duncan prizes, and the Queen's gold medal for an English poem, and was Head Prefect during his last year. He graduated in 1849 as 7th Wrangler, and 11th in the 1st elected a Fellow of his college. Taking Holy 1 Orders in 1852, he was appointed Vicar of Barrington, Cambridge, in 1852, and Select Preacher before the University in 1865. He was also for some time a member of the Board of Theological Studies, and was associated with the S. P. C. K. some 20 years. He d. at Surbiton, Bept. 24, 1867. His published works include An Introduction to the Study and the Use of the Psalms; A Revised Translation of the Song of Songs; Ancient Jerusalem; and Psalms and Hymns (Cambridge, Macmillan), 1853. This last contains prefaces, indices, with authors' names, 93 psalms, 236 hymns, 16 doxologies. Of these 28 psalms and 18 hymns are by Mr. Thrupp. The best known of his hymns are, "Awhile in spirit, Lord, to Thee" (p. 104, it.); "Hail, that head, all torn and wounded"; "O Son of Man, Thyself once crossed." Mr. Thrupp's versions of individual psalms have not come into common use beyoud his own collection. They are therein signed with his initials, "J. F. T.," but are not separately annotated in this Dictionary. His hymns are mainly on the special Festivals of the Church, and, in addition to those annotated elsewhere are:

- Abide with us, O Saviour dear. Evening.
   Bternal Word! Incurnate Light. Christ our All.
   Eternal Word! Who ever wast. Annunciation. 4. How beauteous are their peaceful feet. Ordina- tion. 5. Lord of majesty and might. School Pertival, 6. Master, the Son of God art Thou. St. Barlkolameu.
- 7. O Saviour of our earlily race. St. Luke.
  8. O Thou, Whom upward to the sky. Assention.
  9. O, where shall we deliverance seek. Lent.
  10. Ope, Salem, ope thy temple gates. The Presentation
- 11. Saviour of men, Almighty Lord. St. Mark. 12. Thou Who didst Thy brethren twain. SS. Simon
- and Jude.

  13. Thou Whose voice upon the border. St. Andrew.
  14. To David's Son hosannas sing. Palm Sunday.
  15. Two and two, Thy servants, Lord. SS. Philip and James.

16. What, though the ground all good at first. Lent. Mr. Thrupp contributed several articles to Smith's Dictionary of the Bible, and was one of the selected writers on the staff of the Speaker's Commentary. [J. J.]

Thus far on life's bewildering [perplexing] path. J. Montgomery. [Safety in God.] 1st printed on a broadsheet for use at the Anniversary Sermons, on behalf of the Red Hill Sunday School, Sheffield, March 28, 1819, in 4 st. of 6 L, and signed "J. M." Montgomery's Greenland and Other Poems, 1819, p. 171, it was given in 6 st. of 6 l., the new stanzas being st. iv. and v. of the text as included in his Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 479, and his Original Hys., 1853, No. 55. The 1819 text was altered in 1825; and again, but very slightly, in 1853. In modern collections the text is usually abridged. [J. J.]

Thus speaks the heathen: How shall man. J. Logan. [Mercy rather than Sacrifice.] 1st pub. in the Scottleh Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, No. xxxi., in 6 st. of 4 l., on Micah vi. 6-9. It is rarely found of 4 L, on Micah vi. 6-9. It is rarely found outside of that work. This paraphrase is ascribed to J. Logan, on evidence given in the memoir of M. Bruce (p. 118, il.). [J. J.]

ble.] Pub. in the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, No. 27, on Is. lvii. 15, 16, in 5 st. of 4 l. [See Brace, M., p. 118, ii.] In Miss Jane E. Leeson's Paraphrases & Hymns, 1853, this text is given in an altered form as, "Thus saith the high and lofty One." [J. J.]

Thy living saints on earth, Thy saints who sleep. [All Saints Day.] Appeared in E. W. Eddis's Irvingite Hys. for the Use of the Churches, 1864, in 3 st. of 8 l., and signed "E. S., 1849," in common with several other hymne in the same book. have ecen it stated that "E. S." was Ellen Eddis, née Shepherd, but have been unable to authenticate the statement. This hymn has passed into other collections.

Thy promise, Lord, is perfect peace. H. F. Lyle. [Ps. iii.] Pub. in his Spirit of the Psalms, 1834, in 4 st. of 4 l. It is in C. U. in its full form, and also, altered as "Lord, how the troublers of my peace," in the American Bap. Service of Song, 1871. [J. J.]

Thy throne, O God, in righteous-ness. J. Montgomery. [For Schools.] The earliest work in which this lymn has been found is Select Portions of Pe. from the New Version, Hys. and Anthems, &c., compiled by the Rev. Dr. Sutton, Vicar of Sheffield, for use in that Parish Church, circa 1815, 2nd ed. 1816, No. 103. From thence it passed into Cotterill's Sel., 1819; Montgomery's Christian Pealmist, 1825, No. 542; and his Originat Hymns, 1833, No. 343. Among modern col-lections it is found in the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879; Major's Bk. of Praise, &c. [J. J.]

Thy way, not mine [ours] O Lord. H. Bonar. [Bosignation.] Appeared in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 1st Series, 1857, in 7 st. of 4 l. It is sometimes given as, "Thy way, not cure, O Lord"; and as "Father, Thy way, not mine." There is also an adaptation in three stanzas, beginning, "My portion, Thou! my cup," in the American Church Pastorals, 1864. The original is in extensive use in most English-speaking countries.

Τί σοι θέλεις γενέσθαι. St. Gregory Nationzen. [Private Use.] This hymn "To His own Soul," is given in his Opera, Paris, 1611; Dan. Thes. Hymn. iil. 13; and in the Anth. Grace. p. 26. Mr. Chatfield's tr. in his Songs and Hymns, &c., 1876, in 52 st. of 4 l. is from the latter, which contains 181 lines. He says of this poem, "The original is one of the most spirited pieces anywhere to be found, truly foreible and racy," p. 106. His tr., "O soul of mine, repining," is pleasing and vigorous, but not adapted to congregational use. [See Greek Hymnody, § iv.] [J. J.]

Tibi Christe, splendor Patris. Rabanus Maurus (?). [St. Michael and all Angels.] Daniel, i. No. 189, gives the text of this hymn, and at iv. p. 165 cites it as in a Rheinau Ms. of the 11th cent. It is not however included by E. Dümmler in his ed. of the Carmina of Rabonus. Among the British Museum wss. it is found in three 11th cent. Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii, f. 91 b.; Jul. A. vi. f. 56 b; Harl. 2961 f. Thus speaks [saith] the high and 242); in an 11th cent. Mazarabic Breviary lofty One. J. Logan. [God with the Hum- (Add. 30848, f. 199 b), &c. It is in a ms. of the 11th cent. at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 266); in the Bern Ms. 455, of the 10th cent.; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from a Ms. of the 11th cent. at Durham (B. iii. 32, f. 34). Also in Mone, No. 307; and in G. M. Drevee's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, p. 64, from a 10th cent. ms. It is included in the older Roman (Venice, 1478), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, and other Breviaries. In the Roman Breviary, 1632, it is recast greatly for the worse, and begins To splender at virtus Patris; and this recast is repeated in later eds. of that Breviary, in Daniel i. No. 189, and others. In some of the more recent eds. of the Roman Breviury (e.g. Kempten, 1748, and Lyons, 1852), the original form is repeated, with alight alterations to suit the festival of St. Raphael (Oct. 24); and this text is in Königefeld ii. p. 136. [Various.] [J. M.]

This hymn has been tr. from both forms of the text as follows:-

- i. Tibi Christe splendor Patris.
- 1. Thee, 0 Christ, the Pather's splendour. By J. M. Neale, in his Mediewal Hys., 1851, p. 25, and the H. Noted, 1852, No. 42. It has passed into a few collections, including the Hymner,
- 2. Christ, to Thee, the Father's glary. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. & Time Bk., 1852-55, H. Seasons, No. 47, and Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 124. Altered in J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1856-61, to "Christ, to Thee the Father's brightness."
- 2. Christ, the Fether's mirrored brightness. J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1866, p. 95, and the People's H., 1867, No. 284.

- Other tru, are: -
  I. Thy father's brightnes, Christe to thee. Primer. 1599.
  2. To thee, O Christ, thy Father's light. Primer. 1615,
  - ii. Te spleader et virtus Patris.
- 1. Thee, the Father's power and light. By Bo. R. Mant, in his Ancient Hymns, &c., 1837 (ed. 1871, p. 121), Dr. Oldknow's Hys. for the Services of the Ch., 1850, and later eds., &c.

2. Thee, Who the Father's brightness art. By
W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the West, &c., 1848, p. 127, and subsequently in a few hymnals.

- 3. O Jesu! life-spring of the soul. By E. Cas-wall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 145; and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 79. Given in a few collections, including Pott's Hymss, &c., 1861, &c.
- 4. Life and strongth of all Thy servants. By the compilers of H. A. & M. in the 1889 Suppl. of that collection.

Other tra, are :-

- 1. We praise thee, Christ, among the Quires. Primer. 2. O Lord of Horts, whose Beams impart. Primer.
- 1706. . Jesus, the Father's ray and might. Divine Office, 1763
- 4. We praise Thee mid the Angel hoets. A. J. B. Hope. 1844.
  5. O Brightness of the Father's Light. W. Palmer. 1845.
- 6. Ruler of the dread immense. J. F. Thrupp, in his Pr. & Hys., 1853. A paraphrase rather than a trans-
- 7. Splendour of glory all divine. J. Wallace. [J. J.]

Till he come, O let the words. Rp. Blokersteth. [Holy Communion.] Written in ] 1861 and first pub. in his work The Blessed Dead, 1862, and subsequently in his Supp. to Psalms and Hymns, No. 41; The Two Brothers, 1871; and the 1870, 1876, and 1890 eds. of the Hymnal Companion. The author says that it is given in his Hymnal Comp. as presenting "one aspect of the Lord's Supper which is passed over in many hymnals, 'Ye do show forth the Lord's death till He come': and also our communion with those of whem we say 'We bless Thy holy Name for all Thy servants departed this life in Thy faith and fear.' " (Note in the annotated ed. of Hy, Comp.) It is in several hymn-books. [J. J.]

Time is earnest, passing by. and New Year.] This popular Sunday School hymn appeared in three publications in the same year, and in each case anonymously. (1) It is found in Sidney Dyer's American South-western Psalmist, 1851 (p. 817, H.), and signed "Anon."; (2) again in an American paper called Independent, 1851; (3) and again, in England, in The Bible Class Magazine, 1851. with the signature "Independent," the name of the American paper from which it was taken. It was in 4 st. of 4 l. Subsequently it was reprinted in The Bible Class Magazine, with music by Mr. Joseph Dyer, the School-master of the Wesleyan School, Pocklington. Miller says (Singers & Songs, &c., 1869, p. 551) that "it also appeared in Select Music for the Young (Sunday School Union), where it is headed, 'All Things Earnest; composed by Joseph Dyer." This curious association of two men of the name of Dyer with the hymn, the first in America, and the second in England, has led to its authorship being stiributed at one time to Sidney Dyer, and at another to Joseph Dyer, and in each case without authority of any weight. Usually the hymn is given in an abbreviated form of 5 st. as in the Universal H. Bk., 1885, the Cong. Church Hyl., 1887, and others. [J. J.]

Time is winging us away. J. Burton, sen. [New Year.] Pub. in Hys. for the Use of Sunday Schools selected from Various Authors, Nottingham, J. Dunn, 1812, No. 305, in 2 st. of 8 l., and entitled "Brevity of Life." It has passed into a very large number of hymn-books in G. Britain and America. Of Burton's hymns it ranks next to his "Holy Bible, book divine," in popularity. [J. J.]

Tis a point I long to know. J. Newton. [In Doubt and Fear.] Appeared in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. i., No. 119, in 9 st. of 4 l. It is in C. U. in an abbreviated form, and opening with the first line as above. In some collections it begins, "Lord, my God, I long to know"; and in others, "Could my heart so hard remain" (st. iii.). These altered forms of the text are in use principally in America.

Tis enough, the hour is come. J. Merrick. [Nunc Dimittis.] This paraphrase of the Nunc Dimittis was pub. in his Peeme on Sacred Subjects, 1763, p. 13, in 22 lines. As given in Kennedy, 1863, No. 185, some of the lines are transposed, and the whole are expanded into 3 st. of 8 l. [J. J.]

Tis finished, the Messias dies, Cut off for sins, &c. C. Wesley. [Good Friday.] In 1762 this hymn, in 2 st. of 8 1, | appeared in C. Wesley's Short Hymns, vol. ii. p. 234. These stanzes are:—

These summes are:

"The finished! the Messias dies,
Cut off for sins, but not His own!
Accomplished is the sacrifice,
The great redeeming work is done;
Finished the first transgression is,
And purged the guilt of actual sin,
And everlasting righteousness
Is now to all the world brought in. Is now to all the world prought in.

"Tis finish'd, all my gullt and pain,
I want no accrifice beside,
For me, for me, the Lamb is slain,
And I am more than justified;
Sin, death, and hell are now subdued,
All grace is now to sinners given,
And, bo, I plead th' atoning blood,
For pardon, boliners, and heaven."

It is from the first four lines of this hymn that Blair formed st. iv. of his cento, "Behold the Saviour on the cross," p. 180, i. The ori-ginal, as above, was given in A. M. Toplady's Ps. & Hys., 1776, No. 223, and thus came into use in the Church of England. Charles Wesley, however, was not satisfied with these stanzas, and at his death he left in Ms. another hymn on the same text, "It is finished," in 8 st. of 4 l., of which st. i. and viii. are st. i. ll. 1-4, and st. ii. ll. 5-8 (slightly altered) respectively of the 1762 text, and st. ii.-vii. are new. This text was given in the 1830 Suppl. to the Wes. H. Bk., and again in the P. Works. 1868-72, vol. xii. p. 99. [J. J.]

'Tis gone, that bright and orbed laze. J. Keble. [Evening.] Dated Nov. 25, 1820, and 1st pub in his Christian Year, 1827, in 14 st of 4 1, and headed with the text "Abide with us, for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. St. Luke xxiv. 29. The centos from this poem in C. U. are:-

1. Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear. This cento was given in three stanzas in Elliott's Ps. & Hys., 1838. This was repeated in numerous hymnels, sometimes in the same form, but usually with additional stantage in the same form, but usually with additional stantage, until it has become one of the foremost hymnel in the English language. It has been in the several language. Those in Latin include, "Sol animae vitaeque meae, presentels Jösn" (4 st.), by R. Blugham, in his Symnel. Christ. Latin, 1911, and "Sol meas! O mi Salvator!" (4 st.), by H. M. Macgill, in his Songe of the Christian Great and Life, 1876.

9. The Rulers of this Christian land. This cento, For those in Anthority, is in limited use.

3. Thou Frames of the light and dark. This cento "For the High Court of Parliament" is in the 1863 Appendix to the S. P. C. K. Ps. & Hys.; the Hy. Comp., and others, and is admirably suited for the purpose.

4. When the self dows of kindly alsay. This cento for Evening was given in the Salisbury H. Bk., 1837; the Sarum Hyl., 1868, and others.

STim was the apprinted below: W. Charact.

"Tis my happiness below. W. Comper. [In Affliction.] Appeared in Lady Hunting-don's Coll., 1774, No 143, in 3 st. of 8 l., and in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. iit., No. 16. In the Lady Huntingdon Coll. it precedes, and in the Olney Hymns it follows Cowper's "God moves in a mysterious way" [see p. 433, i.], and seems to have been written at, or about the same time, and under the same circumstances. Its modern use is mainly confined to America where, in its full, or in an abridged form, it is somewhat popular. [J. J.]

"Tis pure delight without alloy. L Watts. [Divine Love Desired.] Pub. in his Horse Lyrics, 1706, Bk. i., in 6 st. of 4 l. and headed, " Ascending to Him in Heaven." the American Meth. Episco. Hymns, 1849, and in their Hymnal, 1878, it is given with the omission of st. iv. as, "O 'tis delight without alloy." It is from the original, as above, that Watts took a portion for his hymn, "Happy the heart where graces reign." [J. J.]

Tis seldom we can trace the way. Sir J. Bowring. [The love of God.] This bymn is in the Plymouth Brethren Hys. for the Poor of the Flock, 1838, No. 250, in 4 st. of 4 l. It is best known as "We cannot always trace the way." In this form it was given in Dr. Walker's Cheltenham Ps. & Hys., 1855, No. 333, and signed "Bowring" in the Index. Some later collections attribute it to "Elliot;" but Miller says (Singers and Songs, 1869, p. 422) that Sir John Bowring assured him personally that it was his own composition. It is in several collections of a recent date, including Dr. Allon's Cong. Psalmist Hyl., 1886. Another form of the text in use in America is "I cannot always trace the way." It is in H. W. Beecher's Physicath Coll., 1865, and some later hymn-books. [J. J.]

"I'is sweet to wake at early morn T. Davis. [Morning. Heaven anticipated.] Pub. in his Devotional Verse for a Month, 1855, p. 23, in 4 st. of 6 l. In the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, it was given as "'Tis sweet on earth at early morn." In the author's Hys. Old and New, 1864. No. 5; and his Annus Sanctus, 1877, p. 194, it was given as "Tis sweet on earth to wake at morn," and this is the authorised form of the hymn.

Titius, Christoph, s. of Christoph Titius or Tietze, pastor at Wilkau, near Ramelau, in Silesia, was b. at Wilkau, May 24, 1641. Ho ontered the St. Mary Megdalene Gymnasium, at Breslau, in 1654, and the Aegidien (St. Giles) Gymnasium at Nürnberg, in 1660. He matriculated as a student of Theology at the University of Altdorf, in 1662. After completing his studies at the University of Jens, in 1664, he noted for two years as a family tutor. On Aug. 24, 1666, he was ordained as pastor of Laubenzedel, near Gunzenhausen, in Franconia: and then became, in 1671, pas-tor at Henfenfeld, near Nürnberg. In 1685 he was appointed disconus at Hersbruck, near Nürnberg, became archidiaconus in June, 1701, and in Nov., 1701, was appointed chief paster and inspector of schools. He d. at Hersbruck, Feb. 21, 1703 (Kooh, iii., 523; Wetzel, iii., 296; G. A. Will's Nürnbergisches Gelehrten-Lexicon, pt. iv. p. 34; K. Goedeke's Grandrias, vol. iii., 1887, p. 287, &c. Koch says he was b. Jan. 10, 1641, and d. Sept. 7, 1703, but gives no authority for these dates).

Titius had begun to write hymns while at the Nürnberg Gymnseium, and his best known hymns originated either then or during his University course. They appeared in his Sanden-Schnertzen, Troat im Hertsen, Todien-Kenteen, Troat im Hertsen, Todien-Kenteen, Troat im Hertsen, 1662 [Library of the Prodiges-Kominer at Hannover, 1670 [Library with 15 hymns: in the 2nd enlarged ed. pub. as Historic-Heite, Secien-Speize, Engel-Weite, de., Nürnberg, 1670 [Berlin Library], with 45 hymns; and in the 3rd further enlarged ed. pub. as Vorige sixtl neus Morgen- und Abend-Catechismus. Lieder, de., Memberg, 1701 [Götthingen Library] with 55 hymns. The most popular were those of the 1st ed., many of which passed into the German hymn-books of the 17th cent., and various of thein are hearty and popular in style, extracts and Titius bod begun to write hymne while at the Nurnof them are hearty and popular in style, carnest and scriptural in tone, and sententions.

Two of Titius's hymns have passed into English, viz.:-

1. 0 da Schöpfer aller Diage. Holy Communion. This is a hymn of penitence before Holy Communion, and was 1st pub. in 1663, as above, as No. il., in 9 st. of 8 l. Repeated in Crüger's Prants, Frankfurt, 1676, No. 153; but recently in the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, and erroneously ascribed to Johann Heinrich Keulisch or Calisius Jb. 1633, at Wohlau, in Silesia; d. March 30, 1696, as chief pastor and superintendent at Galldorf, in Württemberg]. This possibly arose from the fact that in Calisius's Hausskirche, Nürnberg, 1676, p. 388, there is a hymn beginning "Odu Schüpfer aller Dinge, Dem bei dieser Morgen-Zelt," in 7 st., but it is entirely different from this hymn. Tr. as "Bow Thine ear, I now implore Thee." By Dr. H. Mills, 1845, p. 38.

ii. Sollt es gleich bisweilen scheinen. Cross and Consolation. His most popular hymn, 1st pub. in 1663, as No. vi., in 10 st. of 4 l., entitled "Hymn of Consolation." Included in Crüger's Praxis, 1675, the Kürnberg C. E., 1676, Freylinghauen's G. B., 1704, the Berlin G. L. S., 1863, No. 856, and many others, sometimes printed as 5 st. of 8 l.

Lucarname relates (Noch, vill. 488) that C. A. Dann, chief paster of St. Leonard's Church, at Stuttgert, having spoken somewhat freely at the funeral of one of the courtplayers, had been relegated in 1812 to the village of Oisechingen in the Swablan Alb [in 1819 to the neighboring village of Mössingen]. The king at less granted the exceed desire of the Stuttgert people for his return, and on Feb. 5, 1824, recalled him to Stuttgert. That night four friends walked over to Mössingen, and in the nextly morning convexed the news to Denn by similar early morning conveyed the news to Danu by singing this hymn at the door of his room.

The tr. in C. U. is:--

Became it in my anguish lone. This is a good  $tr_{-1}$ mitting st. vi., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 201; repeated in her C. B. for England, 1863, No. 146. Included in full in the Ohio Luth. Hyl., 1880, and abridged in the St. Aidan's College H. Bk., 1864.

Other tra. are : (i) "Yes should it ev'n to man appear." This is a fr. of st. i., as st. v. of No. 1862, in the Suppl. of 1808 to the Morousian H. Bk., 1801 (1986, No. 665). (2) "Deem we sometimes, spirit-shaken." In L. Rehfuess's Church at Sea, 1868, p. 44, only st. i., vi. being from this beauty. J. M.)

Τῷ Βασιλεῖ καὶ Δεσποτη. 🖇 Απα-To Baothel Kal Deomoty. St. Anatolius. [St. Stephen.] These stichers are appointed in the Grock Service Books in the Office for St. Stephen's Day, to be sung at Vespers. The probable date is the latter part of the 8th or the beginning of the 0th cent. [St. Anstelius, p. 43, i.] The hymn is found in the Mensea, and the Anth. Gracea Carm. Christ., p. 117. The tr. by J. M. Neale, "The Lord and King of all things," appeared in The Ecclesiastic and Theologian, 1853, vol. vv. p. 233, and again in a revised form in xv. p. 233, and again in a revised form in Dr. Neale's Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, p. 7, in 3 st. of 8 l. These texts are:—

Ecclesiastic: "The Lord and King of all things 1985. Upon the earth is born."

Hys. of the E. C., "The Lord and King of all things
1862. "But yesterday was born."

Mr. Hatherly, in the 4th ed. of the Hys. of the Eastern Church, notes that "the Vespers of Dec. 27 occurring on the evening of the 26th, permits of the word 'yesterday' being used with reference to Chrisimas Day." [J. J.]

To Christ the Son Almighty. R. F.
Littledale. [Adult Boptism.] This is a tr. by in 4 st. of 4 l., and from thence passed, with-Dr. Littledale of a Syriac hymn given, together; out alteration, into the Wes. H. Bk., 1875, with a tr. into Latin, in Daniel, iii. p. 235. It appeared in the People's H., 1867, with the signature "F."

To day we're bidden to a feast. J. Connick. [Holy Communion.] Pub. in his Socred Hys. for the Children of Ged, &c., 1741, No. vi., in 8 at. of $1., and entitled, "Before the Secrement." In a few hymn-books a cento therefrom is given as "Together with these symbols, Lord" (st. vi.). [J. J.]

To God belongs the eternal sway.

J. Mer. ich. [Ps. wovit.] 1st pub. in his Psalms Translated or Paraphrased in English Verse, 1765, p. 239, in 48 lines. In 1797 Merrick's Pealms were republished by W. D. Tattersali "divided into stanzus for Parcchial Use," and this version was given therein in 18 st. of 4 l., two lines being added to st. vil., and two lines to st. x. to make up the required number of stanzas. In this form it is unknown to modern hymn-books. In Cotterill's Sel., 1819, Ps. 97, it is given in an abbreviated and rewritten form as, "The Lord is Kiugl let earth obey." This is given in some modern hymnals, including Kennedy, 1868, with alterations and the omission of st. ii,, iií.

To God most awful and most high, J. Montgomery. [In time of Scarcity.] Written for the laying of the foundation stone of a Corn Mill at Shoffleid, on Nev. 5, 1795. which was "built for the common use and benefit of the people." It was printed in Montgomery's Sheffield Iris newspaper the same day, and signed "Paul Positive," a now de plume of the author. It subsequently appeared in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 260; Montgomory's Christian Pealmist, 1825, No. 532; and his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 276. In the last two it is headed, "The poor praying for bread in the time of scarcity." It is found in a few modern hymn-books. [J. J.]

To God the only wise, Our Saviour and our King. I. Watts. [Preserving Grace. 1 lst vub. in his Hys. and Spiritual Songs, 1797 (2nd ed. 1709, Bk. i., No. 51), in 5 st. of 4 l. 1t is found in most of the early hymn-books, especially those of a Calvinistic type, as the collections of G. Whitefield, M. Maden, and others, but to modern hymnals, except in America, it is not so well known, although still found in several books. [J. J.]

To God the only wise, Who keeps us by His word. [Dozelogy.] This doxology, which is in somewhat extensive use in America, is usually ascribed to L. Watts. One stanza only the second, "Hosannah to the Word"—is from his works, and this is altered from his o. M. doxology in Hys. and S. Songs, 1707. Stanzas i. and iii. we have not traced. The latter is 2 Cor. xiii. 14 turned into metre.

To God with mournful voice. & Brady. [Psalm cxlii.] In the New Version, 1696, in 7 st. of 4 l. In 1836 it was re-written by J. Hall or E. Osler, probably the latter, and included in the Mitre H. Bk., as,

" In deep distress to God

No. 684. The version of Ps. czz. in the Milrs | of use. The following arrangements of the H. Bk., in 3 st. of 4 l., beginning,

" In deep distress to God I cried And He aveng'd my wrongs," was by E. Osler, and is also found in his Churck and King, 1836-37, p. 137, for the 2nd Sun, after Trinity. [Մ. J.]

To Him that loved us for Himself. J. Mason. [Praise.] This is No. xxxiii. of his Songs of Praise, 1683, in 4 st. of 8 l. and entitled, "A Song of Praise collected from the Doxologies in the Revolution of St. John." It is very unequal in merit, some lines being very fine, whilst others are of little worth. It has, however, the elements of a splendid hymn of Praise. In modern hymnody it is known as the hymn to which Watts is supposed to have been indebted for his "Now to the Lord that makes us know" (q.v.), a sup-position which cannot be maintained. Orig. text in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Mason's Songs, 1859, p. 65. [J. J.]

To keep the lamp slive. W. Comper. [In Trial and Despondency.] Pub. in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. iii., No. 74, in 6 st. of 1 l., and headed, "Dependence," In its original form it is in limited use. The extract from it beginning with st. iii., "Beware of Peter's word," is much more popular, and especially in America, where it appeared in Nettleton's Village Hymns, 1824.

To me a sinner, chief of all. H. Alford. [Lent.] Written for and pub. in his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 191, in 4 st. of 4 l., and ogain in his Poetical Works, 5th ed., It has passed into Dale's English H.  $Bk_{-1}$  1874; Thring's Coll., 1882, &c. [J. J.]

To me to live, let it be Christ. J. Montgomery. [The Image of Christ.] This is dated in the M. MSS. "Aug. 30, 1835." We have not traced it in print earlier than his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 122, where it is given in 8 at. of 4 1.; but probably it was [J, J.] published before that date.

Τὸ μέγα μυστήριου. St. Andrew of Crete. [Passiontide.] This is the 3rd Ode of a Canon, containing 3 odes, found in the Compline for Great Thursday (the Thursday of Holy Week) in the Triodion, and is in 8 stanzas. It dates about 700, and was first rendered into English by Dr. Neale, and pub. in The Ecclesiastic and Theologian, 1854, p. 44, and again in his Hymns of the Eastern p. 41, and again in his Hymns of the Latters Church, 1862, in 6 st. of 6 l. as, "O the mystery, passing wonder." In this tr. st. iv. is omitted, and st. vi. and vii. are fused together. In 1863 it was included in Lyra Eucharistica, and the Parish H. Bh., and subsequently in numerous collections. [J. J.]

Τῶ παντάνακτος, [Εσωσε λαὸν.]

Τῷ πρὸ τῶν αἰώνων, [Χριστὸς γενpârei.]

To the hills I lift mine eyes. C. Wesley. [Ps. exxi.] Pub. in Ps. & Hys., 1748, in 6 et. of 8 l. (P. Works, 1968-72, vol. viii., p. 235). In A. M. Toplady's Ps. & Hys., 1776, et. i., ii. and iy. were given with alterations.

text are in several modern hymn-books :-

I. To the hills I lift my eyes. This, with the omission of st. v., was given in the Wes. H. Sk., 1800, as one of the additional hymns. It is in the revised ed., 1876, and other collections.

and other collections.

2. See the Lors, thy Keeper, stand. This in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, is composed of st. iv., vi. ll. 1-4; iii. ll. 5-8, sitered.

3. God shall bless thy going out. In the American Unitarian Hys. for the Charch of Christ, 1883, No. 74, and later American collections. It is composed of st. vi. 11. 1-4, and st. Li. 11. 5-8, altered.

This version ranks with the best of C. Wesley's renderings of the Paulms. [See G. J. Stevenson's Meth. H. Bk. Notes, 1883; and Paultors, English, § Xvi.] [J. J.]

To the Source of every blessing. H. Bathurst. [Holy Trinity.] 1st pub. in his Psalms & Hymas, 1831, No. 2, in 5 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Praise to God." In 1853 it was included in the Leeds H. Bk., No. 443, and later in one or two collections. It is better known with the omission of st. i., as "Glory to the Aimighty Father," as in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, No. 156, and others. [J. J.]

To Thee, O dear, dear Saviour. J.S. B. Monsell. [Rest and Peace in Jesus.] Pub. in his Hymns of Love and Praise, 1863, p. 172, in 5 st. of 8 l. In a few collections it begins "To Thee, O blessed Saviour"; whilst a cento, opening with line 5 of st. ii., "O Thou Whose mercy found me" is also in C. U. as in the Scottish Presbyterian Hymnal, 1876. [J. J.]

To Thee, O God, we homage pay. P. Doddridge. [Christ, the Sun of Righteousness.] This hymn is No. vili. in the D. Mes., where it is entitled "The San of Righteous-bess. From Matt, iv. 2." It is in 6 at of 4 l. Although undated, its position in the n. MSS. shows it to be circa 1734. In Job Orton's ed. of Doddridge's posthumous Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 173, the text differs somewhat from the Ms. Orton's text is repeated in J. D. Humphreys's ed. of the Hymns, &c., 1839, No. 194. It is in a few collections in G. Britain and [J. J.] America.

To Thee, O Lord, our hearts we raise. W. C. Diz. [Harcest.] This hymn was given with five others at the end of the St. Raphael's (Bristol) Hys. for the Service of the Church, 1864, No. 202, in 4 st. of 8 l. By a printer's error it is accompanied by a note which really belonged to the next hyun, No. 203, "The Church of God lifts up her voice" (p. 1146, i.). In 1867 "To Thee, O Lord, &c." was given in the People's H., and since then it has passed into numerous collections, including H. A. & M., the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., Thring's Coll., and others. The fourth stanza is also given as a concluding chorus to Dr. Stainer's harvest anthem, "Ye shall dwell in the land." [J. J.]

To Thy temple I repair. J. Montgomery. [Divine Worship.] Pub. in Collyer's Coll., 1812, No. 916, in 7 st. of 4 l., and entitled "A Salbath Hymn." It was repeated in Cotterill's Sel., 1819, No. 286; in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 468; and in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 115. It is in C. It in the original form. as "In The p. 235). In A. M. Toplady's Ps. & Hys., is in C. U. in its original form; as "In Tby 1776, st. i., ii. and iv. were given with alterations, as No. 227. This cento has gone out as "To Thy presence I repair," in Dale's

English H. Bk., 1874. In R. Bingham's Hymno. Christ. Latina, 1871, the original, with the omission of st. v., is rendered into Latin as, "Sacratam Domini domum." [J. J.]

To us the voice of wisdom cries. J. Montgomery. [Invitation of Wisdom.] Appeared in Cotterill's Selection, 1819, No. 147, in 3 st. of 8 l., and entitled "The voice of Wisdom." In 1825, on its republication in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, No. 501, it was partly rewritten, and given in 7 st. of 4 L, the title being also changed to "The Invita-tion of Wisdom." This latter text and title were repeated in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 29. It is the text in C. U. [J. J.]

To Whom but Thee, O God of grace. W. J. Irons. [Seven Words from the Cross.] In his Hys. for Use in Church, 1866, Dr. Irons included seven hymns on the words on the Cross, and repeated them in his Ps. & Hye., 1878-75, as follows :-

- 1. To whom but Thee, O God of grace. St. Luke
- 2. Thy presence, Lord, is heaven to thous. St. Matt. sanit. 46.

  3. Jesu! Who for me didst bear. St. John sin. 28.

  4. G Thou, Our God, Who heavest prayer. St. Zulte
- 5. Son of God in glory reigning. St. John wir. 16.
  6. It is not finished! Lord of grace (1866). Lord, is it finished? God of grace (1873). St. John wir. 30.
  7. Faithful Creator, Lord divine. St. Luke zwiii. 40.

Most of these hymns have passed into other collections, but their use is limited. [J. J.]

To whom, my Saviour, shall I go P [Clinging to Christ.] This hymn is found in the Panoplist, 1815, where it is signed "Carue." It was repeated in Nettleton's Village Hymns, &c., 1824, No. 408, in 4 st. of $1., and without signature. Subsequently it appeared in several collections, and amongst modern bymnals it is found in Hatfield's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872, and several [F. M. B.]

To-day the Lord our Shepherd leads, J. Montgomery. [The Good Shepherd.] Printed on a broadsheet for the use of Sheffleld Sunday School Whit-Monday gathering, June 11, 1821, in 6 st. of 4 l., and signed "J. M." There is also a copy in the m. Mes. in Montgomery's handwriting, dated "Sep. 14, 1838." The text in his Original Hymns, 1858, No. 161, is slightly altered from the broadsheet of 1821. In a few collections it begins "Now may the Lord our Shepherd load.

To-day Thy mercy calls me [us]. Allen. [Invitation.] Appeared in his Hys. of the Christian Life, 1862, p. 102, in 4 st. of 8 l., and headed "To-day." It is found in several collections in Great Britain and America, and sometimes altered to "To-day Thy mercy calls us," as in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymns, 1871. It is the most widely used of the author's hymns. [J. J.]

Toke, Emma, née Leslie, daughter of John Leelie, D.D., Bishop of Kilmore, was b.

the Committee of the S. P. C. K." (Miller, ) 573), and they appeared in the S. P. C. K. Hymns for Pub. Worship, 1852, as follows:—

 Glory to Thee, O Lord (see p. 489, ii.).
 Lord, of Thy mercy, hear our cry. National Thankegiving. 3. O Lord, in all our triels bore. Saints' Days, Concrai.

C Lord, Thou knowest all the snares. Lent.
 O Thou, to Whose all seeing eye. Annunciation.
 O Thou, Who didst with love untold. St. Thomas.
 Thou art gone up on high. Accession.

The most popular of these hymns ere, "Glory to Thee, O Lord"; "O Lord, Thou knowest all the enarce"; and "Thou ert gone up on high." These hymns as a whole are simple and pleasing. They seldom rise into passionate fervour, and are weakened in several instances by faulty construction. They have been widely adopted in G. Britain and Americs. Another series of hymne by Mrs. Toke was contributed to the Sunday School Liturgy . . . and Hymn Book, arranged by the Rev. B. Judd, B.A., Incumbent of St. Mary's, Halifax. Halifax, F. King, 1870. These hymns have failed to attract attention, although in literary merit they fall little short of her earlier efforts. They are :-

9. Jess: by Whose Almighty Grace. St. Andrew.
9. Lord God, the strength and stay of all. General.
10. Lord of all power and might General.
11. Lord of light and life. St. Mark.
12. O Father, Whom in truth to know. SS. Philip and James.

and Jones.

12. O God of comfort, Thou alone. St. Barnabas.

13. O God of mercy, chill and dark. St. John Benng.

18. O God, the strength and stay of all. General.

18. O God, upon this solamm day. St. Mathies.

17. O Thou, Who didst through heavens, &c. Purification B. Y. M.

18. The joyful day at last is come. Ratter.

19. This is the day when Jesus Christ. Christmas.

20. Upon this sad and solemn day. G. Priday.

21. We bless Thee, Lord, for that clear light. Convertion St. Paul. perison St. Pard.

In addition to these hymns Mrs. Toke rcwrote and expanded some of her earlier compositions. In their new form, however, they are almost unknown. [J. J.]

Τῶν άμαρτιῶν μου τὴν πληθῦν. St. Joseph the Hymnographer. [Lent.] This is the opening line of a cento taken from a long Canon for the Monday of the First Tone in the Paracletics. It is virtually, as compiled by Dr. Neale, a new poem, representing neither the form nor the idea of the original. Dr. Neale's tr., beginning, "And with Thou pardon, Lord?" was pub. in his Hymns of the Eastern Church, 1862, in 5 st. of 4 l. In a slightly altered form on, "O wilt Thou pardon, Lord?" it was also given in the Parish H. Bk., 1863, and repeated subsequently in various collections. The Hymnary text opens, "And wilt Thou hear, O Lord?" The original dates from the middle of the ninth cent.

[J. J.]

Τὸν ἐν προφήταις. St. Andrew of Crete. [St. John Baptist.] Three Idiomela from the Vespers of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, by St. Andrew of Crete (q. v.). The poems are in the form of an address to St. John, at Holywood, Belfast, Aug. 9, 1812: married to the Rev. Nicholas Toke, Godington Park, found in the Menson. The tr. "The first of Ashford, Kent, in 1837; and d. in 1872. Mrs. Toke's early hymna were written in 1831, "at the request of a friend who was collecting for 1867, signed "L.," and appointed for the Festival of St. John Baptist. St. i.-v. represent the 1st idiomelon, et. 6 the 2nd, and verses 7, 8 the 3rd. The doxology added by translator. [H. L. B.]

Tŵν ἰερῶν ἀθλοφόρων. St. Joseph the Hymnographer. [Martyre.] The original from which this cento is taken is the Canon (see Greek Hymnody) for the Deacon St. Timothy and his wife St. Maura, whose martyrdom is commemorated by the Church of Constanti-nople on May 3. The Office for that day is included in the service-books of the Greek Church. The tr. of this cente was made by J. M. Nesto, and first pub in his Hymns of the Eastern Church, 1882, in 4 st. of 8 L, and beginning, "Let our Choir new authems raise." As a hymn for congregational use it was included in the People's H., 1867, the 1868 Appendix to H. A. & M., and many others, and usually with the omission of st. iii., and sometimes altered, as, "Let the Church now anthems raise," and "Let the Church new anthems sing." The martyrdom of SS. Timothy and Maura has been popularized for the English reader by Canon Kingsley, in his poem "Santa Maura," and Dr. Nealo's tr. of the cento from the Canon ranks with the most popular and widely used of his trs. from the Greek. Stanzas i., ii. represent Ode i.; the remaining stanzas give rather the spirit than the letter of the original. [J. J.]

Τὸν πρὸ ἡλίου ἥλιον δύναντα ποτὲ ểν τάφφ. (Easter.) This is an Olkos, or short hymn, in honour of the hely women who brought spices to anoint the body of Jeaus, and follows in the Greek Office for Easter Day, a kortdeise (another short hymn), by St. Romanus (q. v.), to whom, possibly because of this close association, it is cometimes ascribed. It dates probably about 500, and is found inserted between Odes vi. and vil. of the Golden Canon of St. John of Damascene in the Pentecostarion. The original text, to-gellor with a blank verse tr., are given in Dr. Littledale's Offices, &c., of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, p. 92 and p. 216, and the same tr. rendered into 8. 7s. measure by W. Chatterton Dix, in Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 292. The two translations begin:-

Seeking as these who seek the day. R. F. Littledate. As those who seek the break of day. W. C. Diw.

[J. J.]

Tonns, Charlotte Elizabeth, née Browne, commonly known as "Charlotte Elizabeth," was the only daughter of Michael Browne, Rector of St. Giles, Norwich, and was b. in Norwich, Oct. 1, 1790. She was first married to Captain George Phelan, of the 60th Rifles (who d. in 1837), and secondly to the Rev. Lewis H. Tonna. Her death took place at Ramsgate, July 12, 1846. Under the name of "Charlotte Elizabeth" she pub. several works, including Chapters on Flowers, Derry, a Tale of the Revolution, Personal Recollections, &c. Her hymns in C. U. include:-

Of these hymns Nos. 3, 4 appeared in W. Urwick's Dublin Coll, of Hys., 1829. [J. J.]

Toplady, Augustus Montague, M.A. The life of Toplady has been repeatedly and fully written, the last, a somewhat discursive and elackly put together book, yet matterful, by W. Winters (1872). Summarily, these data may be here given: he was born at Faruham, in Surrey, on November 4, 1740. His father, Richard Toplady, was a Major in the British army, and was killed at the siege of Carthagens (1741) soon after the birth of his son. His widowed mother placed him at the renowned Westminster school, London. By-andby circumstances led her to Ireland, and young Augustus was entered at Trinity College, Dublin, where he completed his academical training, ultimately graduating m.a. He also received his "now birth" in Ireland under remerkable conditions, as he himself tells us with oddly mixed humility and lofty selfestimate, as "a favourite of heaven," common to his school :---

"Strange that I who had so long ast under the means of grace in England should be brought right unto God in an obscure part of Ircland, midst a handful of people met together in a barn, and by the ministry of one who could hardly spall his own name. Surely it was the Lord's doing and is marvollous. The excellency of such power must be of God and cannot be of man. The regenerating spirit breathes not only on whom but likewise when and where and as He listeth."

To be read own grano salis; for the present writer bappens to know that the lay preacher, a Wesleyan Methodist, was James Morris, and his text Ephesians vi. 13; and that he was not the illiterate man Toplady's words would have us believe. Likewise he had far more brain power than his convert, and was a born orator, though reticent and lowly-minded. Toplady received orders in the Church of England on June 6, 1762, and after some time was appointed to Broadhembury. His Psalms and Hymns of 1776 bears that he was then "BA." and Vicar of Broadhembury. Shortly thereafter he is found in London as minister of the Chapel of the French Calvinists in Leicester Fields. He was a strong and partizan Calvinist, and not well-informed theologically outside of Calvinism. We willingly and with sense of relief leave unstirred the small thick dust of oblivion that has gathered on his controversial writings, espe-cially his scurrilous language to John Wesley because of his Arminianism, as we do John Wesley's deplorable misunderstanding and misrepresentation of Calvinism. Throughout Toplady lacked the breadth of the divine Master's watchword "Forbid him not, for he that is not against us is for us" (St. Luke fz. 50). He was impulsive, rash-spoken, reckless in misjudgment; but a flame of genuine devoutness burned in the fragile lamp of his over-tasked and wasted body. He d.on August 11, 1778. The last edition of his works is in 6 vols., 8vo., 1825. An accurate reproduction of most of hie genuine hymns was one of the reprints of Daniel Sedgwick 1860. His name occurs and recurs in contemporary memoirs and ecclesiastical histories, e.g., in Tyerman's Life of John Wesley. The reader will find in their places annotations on the several hymne of Toplady, and specially on his "Rock of Ages,"

Holy Father, heavenly King (1832). God Man's only Reflage.
 O God of Israel, deign to smile. For Resignation.
 O'Thou Who didst prepare. For the at Sea.
 Shinner, what hast thou to show? Christians' Joy.
 Soldier so, but not to claim. The Good Work of Mail.

Sinner, what hast then to show? Christians way.
 Soldier go, but not to claim. The Good Fight of Faith.

a song of grace that has given him a deeper and more inward place in millions of human bearts from generation to generation than almost any other hymnologist of our country, not excepting Charles Wesley. Besides the "Rock of Ages" must be named, for power, intensity, and higher affatus and nicer workmanship, "Object of my first desire," and "Deathless principle arise." It is to be regretted that the latter has not been more widely accepted. It is strong, firm, stirring, and masterial. Regarded critically, it must be stated that the affectionateness with which Toplady is named, and the glow and passion of his faith and life, and yearning after holiness, have led to an over-exaltation of him as a hymn-writer. Many of his hymns have been widely used, and especially in America, and in the Evangelical hymn-books of the Church of England. Year by year, however, the number in use is becoming less. The reason is soon found. He is no poet or inspired singer. He climbs no heights. He sounds no depths. He has more vanishing gleams of imaginative light. His greatness is the greatness of goodness. He is a fervent preacher, not a bard. [A. B. G.]

Topledy's hymns and poetical pieces were publûbed in hie:-

(1) Power on Sacred Subjects wherein The Fundamental Doctrines of Christianity, with many other interesting Prints, are occasionally introduced...

Dublin: Printed by S. Powell, in Grane-Lane, mrocalix.;

(2) his Ps. & Hys. for Public and Private Worshig.

1726; (3) in The Gospel Magazine, 1711-1716; and (4) in Hya. and Sacred Poems on a variety of Bivine Subjects, ko. D. Sedgwick's reputat, 1860. His Works, with a Memoir by W. Row, were pub. in 6 vols. in 1749. Walter Row was also the editor of the 2nd and some hate aditions of the Ps. and I firs. He was a most carelater editions of the Pr. and flys. He was a most care-less editor, and attributed several hymno by C. Wesley and others to Toplady.

A large number of Toplady's hymne are annotated in this Dictionary under their respective first lines. (See Index of Authors and Translators.) The following additional hymns in C. U., together with centes indicated in the sub-lines, are from :-

- i. His Poems on Sacred Subjects, 1759.
- Can my heaven-born sonl submit? All for Christ.
   Come from on high, my King and God. Holiness
- (1.) O might this worthless heart of mine.

  3. Earnest of future bliss. The Witness of the Spirit.

  4. From Thy supreme tribunal, Lord. Christ's Rightcoursess a Refuge.

  (1.) The spotters Saviour lived for me.

  5. Great God, Whom heaven, and earth, and sea.

- I saw, and lo! a countless throng. Saints' Days.
   Revised form in the Gospel Hagazine, 1724, p. 449.
   Immorable our hope remains. Divise Pullaful-
- 8. Jerus, God of love, attend. Dinine Worship. Pt. ii. Is "Prayer can mercy"s door unlock."
  9. Jesus, Thy power I fain would feel. Lent.
  10. Lord, I feel a carnal mind. Mind of Carist
- 11. My yielding heart dissolves as wax. On behalf
- of Arians, &c.

  (1.) O Jesus, manifest Thy grace.

  12. Not to unyeelf I owe. Pratts for Conversion.

  (1.) Not to ourselves we owe.

  (2.) The Father's grace and love.

  13. O that my heart was right with Thee. Dedication to God destred
- 14. O Thou that hearest the prayer of faith. Christ 14. O Thou date return the page of anti-the Propilitation.

  15. O Thou Who didst Thy glory leave. Thanks-giving for Redemption.

  16. O when wilt Thou my Saviour be. Trust in Jesus.

  (1.) Jesus, the singer's Rest Thou art.

- 17. Redeemer, whither should I flee? Sufety in the
- 18. Semember, Lord, that Jesus bled. Pardon,
  19. Surely Christ thy griefs hath borne. Redemption.
  Revised text in George Respective, 1774, p. 548.
  (1.) Weary sinner, keep thing eyes.
  (2.) Wasping soul, no longer mourn.

  - ii. From the Gospel Magazine.
- 20. Compared with Christ, in all besides. Carrie 46? in All. Feb. 1772.
- 21. Eternal Hallelujahs Be to the Father given. Holy Trinity. Dec. 1774. 22. From whence this fear and unbelief. Reviving
- 23. How vast the bouchts divine. Redemption. Dec. 174. From this "Not for the works which we have
- 1774. From the
- 24. Whom have I in heaven but Thee? Christ Al; said in All, Feb. 1772. From this "If my Lord Himself reveal" is taken.

  25. Jesus, immutably the same. Jesus, the True Vine. June, 1771.

All these hymns, together with "O precious blood, O glorious death" (Death of Christ), are in D. Sedgwick's reprint of Toplady's Hymns, &c., 1860. We have met with several other hymns to which Toplady's name is appended, but for this we can find no authority Toss'd with rough winds, and faint with fear. Elizabeth Charles, nee Bundle. [Consolation in Affliction.] Appeared in her Three Wakings, &c., 1859, p. 190. It was given in an abbreviated form of 6 st. of 8 l., and the refrain, "Tis I, be not afraid," in the Hy. Comp., 1870, and again in other collections. The slight change in the text of st. iii. was made by Mrs. Charles.

Tourneux, Nicolas le, was bern of poor parents at Rouen, April 30, 1640. The un-common ability he displayed at an early age attracted the notice of M. du Fosset, Mostre dea Comptes at Rouen, who sent him to the Jesuits' college at Paris, where he made remarkable progress in his studies. He then retired to Toursine, where he passed some time with a pious ecclesiastic in the practice of prayer and penitential exercises. His friend, observing that he had a gift for preaching, advised him to return to Rouen. This he did, and adopted the clerical profermion, and was in 1662 admitted to priests' orders by special dispensation, though still under canonical age. He subsequently removed to Paris, where he employed his time in study, and in 1675 obtained the prize given by the French Academy for prose composition. He was appointed to a canonry at the Sainte-Chapelle, and later became prior of Villiers sur Fere in the diocese of Soissons, and d. suddenly on the 28th Nov., 1686. He was the author of several theological and religious works, and wrote some hymns [see Index of Authors and Translators], which were inserted in the Clusiae Breviary of 1686, and the Paris Breviary of 1680. In the Clumac Brev., 1686, his signature is "N.T.P.R." [G. A. C.]

Tract. Verses of Holy Scripture, originally always of the Psalms, sung after the Gradual instead of the Allelsia, in all masses from Septuagesime till Easter Eve in the Roman liturgy. The Tract was so called either because it was sung "tractim" by the cantor or cantors, without the interruption of other voices or because, according to Durandus, it was sung in a slow, sad voice. In some of the ? later English Missals the Tract assumed a metrical form, as e.g. the following :-

" Duke nomen Jesu Christi, Fellx omen ferens tristi Jocundans menteem jubilo ; Toilit luctum, affert fructum, Et obductum et seductum Purget cor a nubilo. Tam peccatum quam reatum Condonatum, expurgatum, Reddit mulcons leniter Hustes ferit, mores serit, Mala terit, graves gerit, Plenum est præsidium ; Nos defendit, nos accendit, Nos intendit, et extendit Roc nomen in gandium. Nominatum, invocatium, Honoratum, praedicatum Semper sonat dulciter."

This Tract in the Masses of the Name of Jesus is found in three ms. Missals now in the Bodleian, viz., a Sarum (Barlow 5), a York (Univ. Coll.), and a Hereford (Univ. Coll.), each dating about the end of the 14th cent. [F. E. W.]

Tregelles, Samuel Prideaux, LL.D., 8. of a Quaker, was b. at Wodehouse Place, Falmouth, Cornwall, Jan. 20 (cometimes dated Jan. 30), 1813, and educated at the Falmouth Grammar School. From 1838 to 1844, he was employed in the Neath Abbey Iron Works. In 1836 he became a private tutor in Falmouth. His deep interest in biblical studies developed in an earnest desire to produce the most perfect edition of the Greek Testament it was possible to publish. The first specimens of his work were pub. iu 1838, and the first instalments of his tack for public use, in 1844. His Greek Testament thus begun was pub. in parts, Pt. vi. appearing in 1872. The work was hindered by his two attacks of parelysis (1861 and 1870); and the Prolegomena had to be added by Dr. Hort and A. W. Strenne in 1879. Dr. Tregelles received a Civil List Penaion for some years. He was one of the Revisers of the New Testament, but ill-health prevented him from taking an active part in the work. He d. at Plymouth April 24, 1875. His hymn-writing began, so far as we can gather, before 1837, and extended to 1861 or later. The earliest were pub. in the Plymouth Brethren's Hymns for the Poor of the Flock, 1838; their Pealms, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, 1842; and their Few Hymns and some Spiritual Songs, selected, 1856. Some also were contributed to Dr. P. Maurice's Ch. of England Choral Hymn-Book, 1861, in which they are marked as having been supplied in "ma." Some of those so marked were, however, in print before. His hymns now in C. U. include the following, the date of each as given being that of the collection named in which it appeared:—

1. Father, we Thy children bless Thee. Thanks-giving for Divine Mercies; and the Second Advent (1838). In the Faw Hymns of 1866, at. tv., v. were given as No. 310, "Father, O how vast the blessing."

2. Holy Saviour, we adore Thee. The Second Livest desired (1838).
3. Lord Jesus, we believing. Peace to Jesus (1861).
4. O God of grace, our Father. Praise for Electing

Grace (1866).
5. O look not on the Cross of Christ. Christ the One Chiation (1861).

6. The gloomy night will [shall] soon be part.

Heaven anticipated (1842).

7. Thou God of grace, our Father. Praise for Meeting Grace (1838).

8. Thou, Lord of all, on earth hast dwelt. Passiontide (1881). 9. Thou, O God, Thy love commendest. Complete in Jerus (1861). 10. Thy Name alone, O Lord, we own. Jesus, our

10. Thy Name alone, O Lord, we own. Jesus, our Strength and Safety (1861).
11. Thy Name we bless, Lord Jesus. Jesus, the Name over all (1838).
12. The sweet, O God, Thy presse to along. The Sacrifice of Praise (1861).
13. The sweet to think of those at rest. The Dead in Christ; or, All Saints (1842).
14. Twas the Holy Ghost who taught us. Passionide (1841 Appendix to Hys., for the Poor of the Pock).
15. Worthy the Lamb is now the song. Communion of Sacints (1861). of Saints (1861).

The use of Dr. Tregelles's hymns is mainly confined to the Plymouth Brethren; and taken as a whole they are marked by no etilking features of excellence.

Trench, Richard Chenevix, D.D., was b. in North Frederick Street, Dublin, on Sept. 9th, 1807, during a visit of his parents of some months to Ireland. His father was Richard Trench, 6th son of Frederick Trench, of Woodlands, co. Galway: his mother Melesina, only grandchild and heiress of Richard Chenevix, Bishop of Waterford, and widow of Colonel St. George. On his mother's side he was almost purely French, the grandfather of Bishop Chenevix of Waterford, Philip Chenevix of d'Eply of Loraine having only taken refuge in England on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. The Huguenot refuges families married for a long time within themcelves, and in Mrs. Richard Trench, four distinet foreign strains were blended. Her sons (the Archbishop and his brothers, besides his two sisters) were the only descendants of the Refugee Philip, either in the male or female line, all the other branches having come to an end. Trench's home in childhood was Elm Lodge, close to the village of Bursledon, not far from Southampton. In February, 1816 he proceeded to Twyford School, and in 1819 to Harrow, where he won great distinction. In October 1825 he was entered at Trinity College, Cambridge. His mother's correspondence is full of references to a little periodical called The Translator, begun in 1825, or immediately on his becoming an under-graduate. She was his ardent co-worker both as contributor and critic. In 1826 he had acquired Spanish, and in that year applied bimself to preparing and publishing a volume of Miscellanies, of which the "profits were to be sent to the committee formed for the relief of the exiled Spaniards." On May 27th, 1827, his mother died at Malvern. The Letters and Memorials (1888) give vivid and exciting details of his continuous interest and daring personal service and sacrifices on behalf of Spain. It was during the winter days of 1829-30 that the consultations and schemes respecting Spain were discussed in John Sterling's apartment. Robert Boyd, Trench's cousin, threw himself and his entire fortune into the plot by purchasing a small ship in the Themes and storing it with arms, in which General Torrijos and fifty picked Spaniards were to sail for the new adventure of the Golden Fleece. The enterprise ended tragically. Boyd and others perished by the inevitable vengeance of the Spanish covereign when captured. By the hand of God, Treuch was safe in Gibraltar. Till far up in young manhood he was undecided as to his calling, Law rather than Divinity colouring his thoughts and plans. He left Cambridge on February 1st, 1829, and rejoined his widowed father at Elm Lodge, near Southampton. He married, at the Abbey Church, Bath, on May 31st, 1832, his own cousin, Frances Mary Trench, daughter of his uncle, Francis Trench (2nd son of Frederick Trench, of Woodlawn, co. Galway, Ireland, and next brother to the lst Lord Ashtown). On October 7th, 1892, he received Dencon's Orders in Norwich Cathedral at the hands of the aged Bishop Bathurst of Norwich. His first curacy was at Hadleigh, Norfolk, with H. J. Rose. He was ordained priest early in July, 1835, by Bishop Sumner, of Winchester. He pub. in 1835 The Story of Justin Martyr, and other Poems (Moxon). This was (practicand other Poems (Moxon). This was (practically) his first book. In 1838 followed Solbation, Honor Neale, and other Poems, with Notes. In 1840 appeared his first prose work, Notes on the Parables of our Lord, subsequently companioned with Notes on the Miracles of our Lord (1846). In 1841 "the loving discipline of pain" visited his heart and hearth by the death of his eldest born, a deep sorrow which gave its subtlest and finest inspiration to his Elegiae Poems. A third volume of poetry, Poems from Eastern Sources, the Steadfast Prince, and other Poems, was pub. early in 1842; and a fourth, Genoveva, later in the same year. Early in 1843 he delivered his Five Sermons before the University of Cambridge, pub. in 1844. In 1844 also was pub. Exposition of the Sermon on the Mount, drawn from the Writings of St. Augustine, with Obseroutions. In this same year he became Vicar of Itchen Stoke. In 1845 he delivered a lecture "On Language as an instrument of Knowledge," which expanded into his famous and suggestive Study of Words. In 1846 he was appointed Professor of Divinity at King's College, London, later changed into "Professor of the Exegesis of the New Testament," which he held until 1858. The friendship between Trench and Maurice here was very beautiful. In 1846 also came the Hulsean Lectures, their subject being Christ "the Desire of all Nations." In 1849 appeared his Sacred Latin Poetry. This is an inestimable book. In 1852, Lessons on Proverbs and Study of Words, and in 1855 English Past and Present appeared. His Synonyms of the New Testament (1854) was a permanent contribution and inspiration to Philology and Theology. Life's Dream: the Great Theatre of the World, from the Spanish of Calderon, with an Essay on his Life and Genius, was pub. in 1856; 2nd ed. in 1880. The Crimean was drew from him his finest verse, Poems written during the Russian War (1854-55). In 1856 he was appointed Dean of Westminster. In 1861 was pub. his Commentary on the Epistles to the Seven Churches in Asia. On New Year's Day, 1864, he was consecrated Archbishop of Dublin in Christ Church Cathedral. He instantly took a foremost place in the regard of the entire community. His pub. Sermons, including his Studies on the Gospets (1867), are amongst the most thoughtful and quietly elequent in our language; as are his Lectures on Plutarch (1873), and others. Timolem (1981) was his last poem. His final confirmation was in trophenes of Smyrns, p. 732, t]

St. Bartholomew's Church on May 16th, 1884. On November 28th, 1884, he resigned his Archbishopric. He d. in London, March 28, 1886. Few have left behind them a more stainless, a more loveable, a more enviable memory. He was sweetness and light embodied. [A. B. G.]

In the strict sense of the word Archbishop Trench, although a poet, was not a hymn-writer. Some of his poetical pieces are used as hymns, but their use is limited. These include :-

1. High thoughts at first, and visions high. Ordina-tion. Appeared in his Story of Justin Martyr, &c., 1835, p. 53, in 7 st. t. of 8 1., and entitled "To a Friend entering the Ministry." (Form, 1885, i. p. 30.) Its acco, p. as, in 1 st. of 8 L, and entitled "To a Friend entering the Ministry." (Foerar, 1885, i. p. 30.) Its use as a hymn is in an abbreviated form.

2. I may to thee, do thou repeat. Softly in Divine Eutocosce. Pub. in his Story of Justin Harryr, &c., 1835, in 10 st. of 3 L, again in his Poema, 1865, p. 28, and ed. 1895, i. p. 140. It is headed, "The Kingdom of God." God.

and ed. 1885, i. p. 140. It is headed, "The Kingdom of God."

8. Let all men know that all men move. Love of God. Pub. in his Story of Justin Martyr, &c., 1836, p. 111. It is given in Dale's English H. Bk., 1874; Horder's Cong. Hyz., 1894, and others.

4. Lord, weary of a painfal way. Evening. Appeared in his Subbasion, Honor Neals, &c., 1838, p. 117; and Poens, 1885, i. p. 207.

5. Not Them from us, O Lord, but wa. Divine Lose. Pub. in his Story of Justin Martyr, &c., 1835, p. 52, in 14., and in his Foens, 1885, i. p. 109.

6. Pour forth the cil, pour beldly farth. The Law of Love. Appeared in his Subbasion, Honor Neals, and Other Poens, 1885, p. 132, in 6 st. of 4 l., and cuttiled "The Law of Love," also in his Poens, 1865, p. 150, and ed. 1885, i. p. 215. From this is taken the hymn, "Make channels for the stream of love."

7. Roms murmur when their sky is clear. Continual. Pub. in the Subbation, Honor Neals, and Other Poems, 1838, p. 115, in 2 st. of 8 l., in his Poems, 1865, p. 113, and ed. 1885, i. p. 142.

8. Thou inevitable day. Death. From his Subation, Honor Neals, &c., 1836, p. 39, in 14 st. of 3 l., and headed, "The Day of Death." Also in Poems, 1885, i. J.]

[J. J.]

Trestrail, Elizabeth Ryland, née Dent, was h. at Milton, near Northampton, March 24, 1813, and is great-granddaughter of the Rev. John Collet Ryland, A.M., grandniece of the Rev. John Ryland, D.D. (v. Ryland, John), and sister of Miss Caroline Dent (p. 283, ii.). Her first husband was John Roby, banker, of Rochdale. In 1858 she was married to the Rev. F. Treatrail, D.D., an eminent minister of the Baptist Denomination.

eminent minister of the Daplist Denomination.

Mrs. Trastrail contributed a few pieces to the Thoughts and Sketchet in Ferze, pub. by her sister. She also wrote the Sketch of the Life & Character of John Roby, prefixed to his Legesdary & Postical Remains (Longman, 1884). She was also joint authorees with het sister of a small vol. of consolatory verses printed for private circulation, and entited Our Parting (1861).
Controlled Our Parting (1861). Only one of Mrs. Trestrail's hymns is in C. U.—" Halle-lojah! Praise the Lord" (Praise). It was written in 1884, in celebration of the Jubilee of the Baptist mission in Jamaica, and is No. 5 in the Bap. Pt. & Hyt. for School and Home, 1882. [W. R. S.]

Trinitas, Unitas, Deitas aeterna. [Trinity Sunday.] Given by Moss, No. 6, from a Munich Ms. of the 12th cent. and arranged in 36 lines, and repeated in Daniel v. p. 206, and Kehrein, No. 141. Tr. as:-

Trinity, Unity, Deity, Eternal [Majesty]. By J. M. Neale, in the enlarged ed. of the H. Noted, 1854; the Hymnary (with alterations), 1872; the Hymnar, 1832, &c. [W. A. 8.]

[Greek Hymnody, Triodion. [Tpuéstor.] § xiv., xvi. 10.]

Τριφεγγής Μουάς θεαρχική. [🖦

[Τρισάγιον.] Greek Hym-Trisagion. nody, § x. 7.]

Tritton, Joseph, was b. at Battersea, Surrey, Sept. 21, 1819, oducated at Charterhouse and other schools, and was for upwards of 40 years a partner in the banking-house of Barclay, Bevan, Tritton & Co., Lombard Street. He was a member of the Baptist Denomina-tion, and for many years Treasurer of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, and of a number of other important philauthropic and religious institutions. During the latter part of life his residence was Bloomfield, Norwood. He d. May 1, 1887. Mr. Tritton was for many years an occasional writer of hymns and poems. Two of the hymns sung at the opcuing of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, in 1861, were composed by him for that occasion, and nfterwards incorporated by Mr. Spurgeon in O. O. H. Bl., 1866. These are:—

1. Sing to the Lord with heart and voice. Opening of a Place of Worthip.
2. Spirit of glory and of grace. Opening of a Place of Worship.

A third hymn in the same book,

3. Behold He comes i the glorious King (Soond Ad-was composed in 1856. In the 1880 Supplement to the Bap. Ps. and Hys. are two hymns prepared for use at meetings of the Baptist Missionary Society in 1880. These are:—

Head of the Church and Lord of all, Missions.
 Lord God of our salvation. Missions.

Other hymns of merit by Mr. Tritton have appeared from time to time in The Missionary Herald. [W. R. S.]

Triumphe! plaudant maria. [Ascen-sion.] Probably of the 17th cent. Included in the Sirenes symphoniacas, Cologne, 1678, p. 108; the Psalteriolum cantionum catholicarum, Cologue, 1722, p. 114; in the Hymnodia sacra, Münster, 1753, p. 118; and in Daniel li. p. 365. Tr. as :-

1. Sing victory, 0 ye sees and lands. By J. M. Neale, in his Mediaeval Hys., 1851, p. 157.

2. With all your floods attending. By H. Kynaston, in his Occasional Hys., 1862, p. 106, and the Hymnary, 1872.

8. O elsp your hands, ye oceans. By R. F. Littledale, in the People's H., 1867, with the signature, "B. T." In The St. Michael's Hyl., Teigmnouth, it begins, "O clap your hands, rest ocean." great ocean. [J, M.]

Troparia. [Trondprov.] [Greak Hymnody, § xvi. 10.]

Troparium. The Tropary was a mediaeval service-book, of which specimens exist from the 9th century onwards. It contained the Tropitage or farses profixed to or inserted into the Introit, Kyries and other choral parts of the service. It also contained the Sequences or Prosae ad Sequentiam, an extension of the last syllable of the Allcluia preceding the Gospel. These non-scriptural and complicated additions to the Ordinary and Canon of the Mass mostly fell out of use in the thirteenth century. Those which survived become incorporated in the Gradual or Missal. But the word Troparium still appears from the 13-16th contury, with an effered meaning, as a book incredy containing the Sequences. A 15th cent. J. D. Chambers, in his Psalter, 1852, p. 209. In this Troparium in the Bodician Library (Hand. this Landa Syon, 1857, p. 101, and the Hymner.

c. 90), imperfect at the commencement, contains 101 Sequences, and snother Bodleian Ms. of the same date (Laud, Misc. 524) contains 65. See also Brit. Mus. Ms. Add. 8902, 15th cent., and article on Sequences. [F. E. W.]

Prope. Tropes were short verses prefixed. or added to, or introduced into the middle of the Introit, Gloria in Excelsis, and other choral parts of High Mass, and added much to the intricacy of the service. They were certainly in use in the tenth century, perhaps earlier, but they were entirely excised from the Roman Missal in the revision under Pius V. They seem occasionally to have taken a metrical shape. The following, given as among the Tropes in an ancient English Troparium for the recently baptized, at Easter or Pentecost, is an instance.

" Audite vocem hymni Qui estis vere digni In hac besta nocte Conscendita ad fontem," etc.

Pamelius Liturgicon, il. 616. [F. E. W.]

True Bread of Life, in pitying [tener] mercy given. H. Bonar. [Holy der] mercy given. H. Bonar. [Holy Communion.] Pub. in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 2nd series, 1861, in 5 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The True Bread." It is usually given in 4 st., and sometimes as "True Bread of Life, in tender morey given," as in T. Dar-ling's Hys. for the Ch. of England, 1887. [J. J.]

Try us, O God, and search the ground. C. Wesley. [Prayer for Unity.] Pub. in the Wesley Hye. and Sacred Poems, 1742, in 4 parts, as follows:-

1742, In 4 parts, as follows:—
i. Try us, 0 God, and search the ground. This part is in 6 st. of 4 l. It was included, with the ornission of st. v., in G. Whiteheld's Ps. & Hys., 1753, p. 135; M. Madan's Ps. & Hys., 1766, No. 122; and in later collections to the present day. The full form of the text was given in the Was. H. Bk., 1759, No. 489. Both forms are in extensive use. G. J. Stevenson's note in his Methodist H. Bk. Notes, 1883, p. 316, is specially interesting as actting forth the repiritual use of these sunnas. if, Jeau, all power is given to Theo. This is in 3 st. of 4 l. Not in C. U.

of 41. Not in C. U.

iii. God of our life, at Thy command. In 6 st. of 41.

Not in C. U.

iv. Jean, united by Thy grace. This part, in 2 st. of 41.

very least included in the West H. Ele., 1780, No. 480, and has also passed in full or in part into several collections in G. Britain and America. In the America Unitarian Hys. for the Charok of Christ, Boston, 1883, et. 1. and iii. are given as "Father, united by Thy grace."

There are also the following centes in

L. The sacred bond of perfectness. This, in the American Methodist Episco. Hymns, 1849, &c., is composed of st. vi.-ix. of Pt. iv., slightly altered.

2. Through Him Who all our slakeses felt. This, in the Irish Church Hymnsal, 1873, is thus composed: st. ii. and iii. are from Pt. L (st. iii., iv.), and st. i. and iv. are based upon thoughts and expressions scattered through the four perts.

The complete hymn is headed "A Prayer for persons joined in Feliowship." Full orig. text in P. Works, 1868-72, ii. p. 186. [J. J.]

Tu Christe nostrum gaudium. [Ascension.] This is a portion of "Asterne Rex altissimo" (p. $6, ii.), and begins with line 37. It is in the Sarum and Aberdoen Breviaries: in Daniel i. No. 162, and Mone, No. 172. Its use was on the Vigil of the Asconsion, and Daily up to Pentecost. Tr. as :--

1882, it begins "O Christ, Thou art our joy alone."

S. O Christ, our joy, gone up on high. D. T. Morgan, in H. A. & M., 1875, and his Hys. and Other Poetry of the Latin Churck, 1880.

Other tru, are :---

1. Lord Christ, our living Joy art Thou. W. J. Blaw, 1852-55.
2. O Christ, the Source of our delight. J. C. Earle, in

O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus. 1884. [J. J.]

Tu qui velatus facie. [Passiontide.] Mone, Nos. 87–91, gives this from a 14th cent. Reichenau us. where it bears the title " Hours of the Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ, compiled from the Prophets and the New Tostament by the blessed Fope Urban." (The pope meant may possibly be Urban the 4th, pope 1261-1264; more probably Urhan the 5th, b. 1802, d. 1370.] It is in five parts, viz.: i. "Tu qui velatus facle," for Prime; il. "Hora qui ductus tertia," for Terce; iii. "Crucem pro nobis sublit," for Sext; iv. "Beata Christi passio," for None; v. "Qui jacuisti mortuus," for Compline. Mone's text is represented by Deniel iv. p. 220 who adds is repeated by Daniel iv. p. 220, who adds that an office with this hymn was in use at Halberstadt till the beginning of this century. W. A. S.1

The tre. of this hymn into English, and as divided for divine service, are :---

1. The qui vellatine facto. Privac.

1. The qui vellatine facto. Privac.

1. Thou, Who though velled Thy glorious face. By

J. D. Chambers, in his Lauda Syon, 1857, p. 164.

2. O Them, Who, though with veiled face. By Elizabeth Charles, in her Poice of Christian Life in Song, 1888, p. 176.

3. Sum of Rightsonaness, blest face. By F. Oakeley, in his Denations Commemorative of the Most Adornals

Passion of our Lord and Savious Jenus Ohrist. 1842.

3. Hura and ducton servits. Proc.

Here gui ductus tertia. Terce.
 Then Who at this third hour of dread. By J. D.

Chambers, as above, p. 165, with the opening line given as "Tu qui hac horn tertia."

2. Thou Who at the third hour want led. By Mrs. B. Charles, as above, p. 177.

3. Who to die, along the read. By F. Cakeley, as

iii. Grucem pro nobie sublit. Sext.

in. United pro none state. Seet.

1. The Cross for us the Saviour bore. By J. D. Chambers, as above, p. 165.

2. For us the bitter cross He bore. By Mrs. E. Charles, as above, p. 177.

3. The Cross for us see Jesus bear. By F. Oaksiey,

as above.

iv. Beats Christi passio. None.

I. Now may Christ's bilasful Passion ever. J. D. Chdesbers, as above, p. 168.

2. Christ's blessed Passion set us free. By Hrs. E. Charles as above, p. 17s.

3. Suffering Christ, we pray to Thee. By F. Oakeley, on shows.

v. Qui jacudsti mortums. Compline.

1. Thou sinless King, Who stark and dead. By J. D. Chambers, as above, p. 167.

2. O Thou Who layest dead, the King. By Mrs. K.

2. O Thou are the layers were, we have Charles, as above, D? 178.

2. Who in the grave. By F. Oakeley, as above, Of these tvs. those by Mrs. Charles are in Thring's Coll., 1882; and those by Canon F. Oakeley, in Skinner's Daily Service Byl. 1884.

[J. J.]

The Compline hymn "Qui jacuisti mor-tuus" has also been rendered into English through the German as follows:-

Der da Harr Jesu, Ruh and Rast. Included in the Künigsberg G. B., 1860 (preface 1843), p. 187, in 2 st., narked as by Georg Werner. It is also in Criger's Francis, 1848, No. 125, the Jaw. L. S., 1851, No. 22, &c. The ira. in C. U. are:—

1. Lord Jesu, Who with holy rest. In full, as No. 25, in the Dalaton Hospital H. Bk., 1848.

3. Lord Jesus, Who our souls to save. A full and good tr., by Miss Winkworth, in her Lyra Ger., 2nd Ser., 1858, p. 36, and her C. B. for England, 1863, No.

 Repeated in the Irish Church Hyd., 1869 and 1873;
 Boardman's Sci., Philadelphia, 1861; Pennsylvania
 Luth, Ch. Bk., 1868; Ohio Luth, Physical, 1880, &c. [J. M.]

Tu Trinitatis Unitas. St. Gregory the Great? [Friday. Morning.] (St. ii. is "Jam [Nam] lectule consurginus.") Mone, No. 279, and i. p. 372, gives this as probably by St. Gregory (it is not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors), and cites it as in a ms. of the 8th cent. at Trier, one of the 9th cent., also at Trier, &c. By Hinomar in his De und et non trina Deltate, 857, it is ascribed to St. Ambroso; but it is not assigned to him by the Benedictine editors nor by Biraghi in his Inni sinceri e Carmi de Sant Ambrogio, 1862. Daniel gives the text at i. No. 25, and at iv. p. 38 cites it as in a Rheinau Ms. of the 10th cent. ranking it as one of the hymns of the 7th or 8th cent. Among the British Museum ass, it is found in three 11th cent, Hymnaries of the English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 22; Jul. A. vi. f. 28 5; Harl. 2961 f. 224); in an 11th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium (Add. 30851 f. 174 b), an 11th cent. Mozarabic Breviary (Add. 30848 f. 78 b), &c. It is in a ma of the 11th cent, at Corpus Christi, Cambridge (391, page 236); in two MSS. of the 11th cent. at St. Gall, Nos. 387, 418; and in the Latin Hys. of the Anglo-Sazon Ch. (Surtees Society), 1851, is printed from an 11th cent. MS. at Durham (B. iii. 32 f. 8 b). It is included in the Roman (Venice, 1478, and the revision of 1632), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, Paris of 1643, and other Breviaries, as a hymn on Friday at Matins and Nocturns. The text is also in Wackernagel i., No. 6, Hymnarium Sarisb., 1851, p. 54; in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865; and G. M. Dreves's Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, from a 10th cent. Ms. See also note on following hymn.

Translations in C. U.:--

1. Dread Unity in Trinity. By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848, p. 40. This is given in the Hymnary, 1872, in an abridged and altered form, as "Dread Trinity in Unity.

2. O Three in One and One in Three, In the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, p. 20.

Translations not in C. U. :-

1. Thou great mysterious Three and One. Primer.

1. Thou great hysterical rates and one: Product.
2. Holy Being, One and Three. Bp. R. Mant. 1837.
3. Thou Unity of Trinity, J. D. Chamben, in his Product, 1892.
4. May the dread Three in One, Who sways, Card.

5. Dread Triune Mystery. Hymnarium Anglicanum. 1844. O Thon, Who dost all mature sway. E. Cusuali.

1849.
7. Thou Trinity of Unity. J. D. Chambers. 1857.
8. O Three in Onc. eternal Cause. F. Trappes. 1265.
9. Thou Godhead One in Persons Three. J. Wallace. 1873.
[J. J.]

Tu Trinitatis Unitas. [Trinity Sunday.] This cento was added to the Roman Breviary at the revision of 1568, and is found at p. 436 of the ed. pub. at Rome in 1570, as the hymn, at Lauds on Trivity Sunday. It conclus of st. i. of the hymn noted above, and of st. iii. of the hymn "Aeterna coeli gloria" ("Ortus refulget kucifer"); with an added doxology. This form is repeated in the 1632 and later eds, of the Roman Breviary, and in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesias, 1838 and 1865. Tr. 08:-

2. Thou great mysterious Three and One. Primer. 2. Three in One, and One in Three, Sov'reign of the universe. Bp. Boane, 1824.

3. Then Trinity in Unity. Bp. J. Williams, 1848.
4. Thrice-holy Cue, All-glorious Trine. W. Copeland. 1848 6. O Thou! Who does all nature away, E. Curwall, 1849.6. Then Three in One, Who mightly. W. J. Blew.

1852-05.
7. Thou Godhead One in Persons Three. J. Wallace.

1874.

S. Blest Three in One, and One in Three. R. Comptell, circa 1850, from the Campbell mes. Into O. Shipley's Annes Sanctus. 1884.

[J. M.]

Tuba Domini, Paule, maxima. Peter Abelard. [Conversion of St. Paul.] Cousin in his ed. of Abelard's Opera, Paris, 1849, vol. i. p. 320, gives this from a ws. in the Royal Library at Brussels. This us. is of the 12th cent, and is probably the collection of hymns which Abelard prepared for the use of the Abbey of the Paraclete, of which Heloise was abbess. The text is given with full notes in Trench, ed. 1864, p. 207. Also in Neele's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 98, Daniel v. p. 234, and Kehrein, No. 385. It is tr. as "Mightiest of our militant Lord," in the Monthly Packet, 1869. The tr. which in some copies of the Hy. Noted is marked as from this hymn, is really from the "Paule doctor egregie": [J. M.] D. 897. 1.

Turner, Daniel, M.A., was b. at Blackwater Park, near St. Albans, March 1, 1710. Having received a good classical education, he for some years kept a boarding-school at Hernel Hempstead, but in 1741 he became pastor of the Baptist church, Reading. Thence he removed, in 1748, to Abingdon, and continued pastor of the Baptist church there until his death on Sept. 5, 1798. He was much respected throughout his denomination, and was the friend and correspondent of Robert Robinson, Dr. Rippon, and other eminent men of that day. He probably received the honorary degree of M.A. from the Baptist College, Providence, Rhode Island. Turner was the author of works on Open Communion and Social Religion; also of Short Meditations on Select Portions of Scripture. His Divine Songs, Hymns and other Poems were pub. in 1747, and bis work, Poems Decotional and Moral, was printed for private circulation in 1794. Four of his hyuns are in the Bristol Bap. Coll. of Ash & Evans (1769), and eight (including the four already named) in Rippon's Bap. Sel. 1787). Only the following are now in C. U.:—

1. Faith adds new charms to earthly bliss (1762). Excellence of Faith.
2. Jeens, fall of all compassion (1762). Sinner's appeal to Christ.
3. Lord of hosts, how lovely fair (1787). Divina Worship. Altered in Baptist Fr. and Hymns, 1868, to "Lord of hosts, how bright, how fair!"

The well-known hymn "Beyond the glittering starry skies," in its enlarged form of 28 starzas, was the joint production of Turner and his brother-in-law, the Rev. J. Fanch, for details of which see p. 189, ii. [W. R. S.]

Turney, Edward, p.p., an American Baptist minister, was b. at Easton (then Weston), Connecticut, May 6, 1816, and graduated at Madison University, New York. He was successively paster at Hartford and at Granville, Ohio (1842-47); Professor of Biblical Criticism, Madison University, 1850, and also of Biblical Literature at Fairmount Theological Seminary, Cincinnati (1853-58). Subsequently he taught in Washington, Dis-trict of Columbia. He d. at Washington, Sept. 28, 1872. He pub. Baptismal Hymns, 1862, and Memorial Poems and Hymns, 1864. Of these hymns the following are in C. U.:—

1. Blemed Jesus, blemed Jesus. Peace and Rest in Jenus.

2. Come to Jesus, little one (1859). Invitation.

3. I will go in the strength of the Lord (circa 1850). Missions. In the Church Missionary Glenser (English)

4. O love divine, O matchiese grace (1864). Dévine

These hymns are in the Memorial Poems & Hymna, 1864. F. M. B.1

Tuttiett, Lawrence, s. of John Tuttiett, surgeon in the R.N., was b. at Cleyton, Devenshire, in 1825, and educated at Christ's Hospital, and King's College, London. was originally purposed that he should follow the medical profession, but, abandoning it for the ministry, he took Holy Orders in 1848. In 1854 he became vicar of Lea Marston, Warwickshire; and in 1870 incumbent of the Episcopal Church of St. Andrews, Scotland, He was also preferred to a prebendaryahip in St. Ninian's Cathedral, Perth, in 1880. He is the author of several manuals of prayers, pubby the S. P. C. K., and other prose works, and also of:⊢

(1) Hymns for Churchmen, 1854; (2) Counsels of a Codfather, 1861; (3) Hymns for the Children of the Church, 1862; (4) Germs of Thought on the Sunday Services, 1864; (5) Through the Clouds; Thoughts in Plain Verse, 1866.

From those works and other sources the following hymne have come into C. U.:-

1. As calculy in the glowing west. Evening.

3. Come, our Father's voice is calling. Confirmation. Appeared in his Hips. for the Children of the Charch, 1882, in 6 st. of 4 l. It passed into Mrs. U. Brock's Children's H. Bh., 1881.

3. Grant in Thy light that we may know. Divine Guidance. Included in his Germs of Thought, &c., 1864, in 6 st. of 4 l. In Horder's Cong. H. Bh., 1884; the Universal H. Bk., 1886, it begins, "O grant is light that we may know."

the Converses A. Se., 1882, it begins, "b grant in light that we may know."

4. I come, 0 Father kind, Holy Communion.

5. Lo, like a bride, in pure array, Septuagerima.

6. No sign we ank from heaven above. After Holy Baptism. Pub. In his Hys., for Cherchanes, 1851, in 4. st, of 51. It has passed into several collections, including the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; Thring's Coll., 1832, for ing the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; Thring's Coll., 1882, &c.

7. Now, sternal Father, blass. Holy Baptism. In his Hys., for the Children of the Church, 1882, in 3 st. of 61, and Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bh., 1881. In the latter it is attributed to Bp. Maclagan in error.

3. O happy Christian children. Divines Protection. From his Hys. for the Children of the Church, 1862, into Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bh., 1861, &c.

3. O Joss, ever present. The Good Shopherd. Pub. in his Germs of Thought, 1864; the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1812, and many others.

10. Shephard, good and gracious. The Good Shepherd. Pub. in his Hys. for the Children's H. Be., 1881, &c.

11. Sometimes o'er our pathway. In time of Trouble. From his Hys. for the Children of the Church, 1862, in 3 st. of 3 1., into Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881.

12. When the world is brightest. Litany to the Saviour. Pub. in his Through the Clouds, &c., 1866, in 9 st. of 8 1., with the note: =—"Those words were written for the music of a Roman Litany 'Ave Stella Maris."

This Litany is in extensive use.

13. Who is this 'the long expected. Advent.

In addition to these, several of Mr. Tuttiett's

In addition to these, several of Mr. Tuttiett's hymns are annotated under their respective first lines (see Index of Authors and Translaters), the most popular of which are, "Father, let me dedicate"; "Go forward, Christian soldier"; and "O quickly come, dread Judge of all." Mr. Tuttiett's hymns are characterised by smoothness of rhythm, directness of aim, simplicity of language, and deep sernestness. Those for special services and seasons are of great merit. He d. May 21, 1897. [J. J.]

Twas on that night when doomed to know. John Morison. [Holy Communion.] First appeared as No. 35 in the Draft Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, 1781, in 6 st. of 4 L, as a version of Matt. xxvi. 26-29. Here et. iv. II. 1, 2, read : -

"Then taking in his hands the cup, To Heav'n again be thanks sent up."

The rewriting of these lines was the only change made in the public worship ed. issued in that year to the Church of Scotland, and still in use. The hymn bears a close resemblance to a Latin hymn, beginning, "Nocte qua Christus rabidis Apellis" (Private Proyers, p. 405, Parker Society, 1831, quoted in full in the notes to the larger ed. of the Free Church H. Bk., 1882), by Antress Ellinger, who was b. 1526 at Orlamunde, on the Sasle, a little above Jena, and d. March 12, 1582, at Jena, where he had become Professor of Medicine in 1569. Mr. William Bonar, of London, considered it a tr. from Ellinger by William Archibald (ordained parish minister of Unst, Shetland, in 1735, d. there Merch 7 1785), and that Archibald's text was altered by Morison for the Translations and Paraphrases. In the markings by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, ii.), it is ascribed to Morison. It is very generally used in Scotland as a Communion hymn. Included in Burgess & Money's Ps. & Hys., 1857; Common Praise, 1879; Church Praise, 1883, and other collections; and in full and unaltered, as No. 35 in the Free Church H. Bk., 1882. The resemblance to Waits's "Twas on that dark and deleful night," in his Hymns, 1709, Bk. iii., No. 1, often referred to, is but slight.

Twas silence in Thy temple, Lord. J. Keble. [Ordination.] Dated March 28, 1828, and pub. in the 4th ed. of his Christian Year, 1828, in 13 st. of 4 l. The following centes therefrom are in C. U.:—

1. Spirit of Christ, Thins carnest given (st. viii.). In Horder's Cong. Hymns, 1884.
2. Spirit of Christ, be carnest given (st. viii.). In the Cong. Church Hymns, 1887.
3. Spirit of Light and Truth, to Thee (st. x.). In the Bapt. Pr. & Hys., 1888; the New Cong. H. Bk., 1889, and others

It is somewhat curious to note that whilst this poem has been thus made use of by Nonconformists, the Church of England, upon whose Office for Ordination it is based, has utterly ignored it in her hymnody for public worable. [J. J.]

Twells, Henry, M.A., was b. in 1823, and educated at St. Peter's College, Cambridge. S.A. 1848, M.A. 1851. Taking Holy Orders in 1849, he was successively Curate of Great Berkhamsted, 1849-51; Sub-Vicar of Stratford-on-Avon, 1851–54; Master of St. Andrew's Head Master of Godolphin School, Hammersmith, 1856-70. In 1870 he was preferred to the Rectory of Baldock, Herts, and in 1871 to that of Waltham-on-the Wolds. He was Select Preacher at Cambridge in 1873-74, and became an Honorary Canon of Peterborough Cathedral in 1884. Canon Twells is best known by his beautiful evening hymn, "At even ere the sun was set" (p. 84, ii.). Healso contributed the following hymns to the 1889 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

1. Glorious is Thy Name, O Lord. The Name of God.

2. Know ye the Lord bath borne away? Ascension.
3. Not for our sine alone. Plea for Divine Mercy.
4. The vokes of God's Creation found me. The Word of God a Light. [J. J.]

Two brothers freely cast their lot. Card. Neuman. [SS. James and John.] Written at sea, June 22, 1833, and printed anonymously in the British Magazine, 1835, vol. vii. p. 661, in 4 st. of 4 l. It was repeated in Lyra Apostolica, 1886, p. 31, and again in Card. Newman's Verses on Various Occasions, 1868. Usually in modern collections it is appropriated to St. James, and a doxology is usually added, as in the Wellington College H. Bk., 1860, or as in the S. P. C. K. Church Hymne, 1871. [J. J.]

Two clouds before the summer gale. J. Roble. [St. Luke.] Written April 6, 1822, and 1st pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, in 20 st. of 41. It is also given in all subsequent editions of the same work. In 1854 a cento from this poom, consisting of st. fx.-xii., xix. and xx. were given with slight alterations, in Hys. for the Christian Seasons, pub. at Gainsburgh, No. 148, as, "Behold and see Christ's chosen saint." This cento is also given in the same form in Chope's Hymnal, 1862. [J. J.]

Tye, Christopher, MUS. D., b. at West-minster in the reign of Henry VIII. He was celebrated as a musician, and was granted the degree of Mus. D. at Cambridge in 1545. He was musical tutor to King Edward vi., and organist of the Chapel Royal under Queen Elizabeth. Besides composing numerous anthems, he rendered the first fourteen chapters of the Acts of the Apostles into metre, which were set to music by him and sung in Edward 6th's Chapel, and pub. in 1553. [English Hym-nody, Early, § vi.] He d. circa 1580. [J. J.]

Tyers, John, was b. at Wymeswold, in Leicestershire, Oct. 14, 1788. For a number of years in the earlier part of his life he lived at Loughborough, where he was in business as a ince manufacturer. In 1835 he removed to Leloaster, where he d. Sept. 11, 1848. Mr. Tyers was a General Baptist, widely known and much respected, and though never the paster of a church, was often engaged in preaching. Seven of his hymns are in the 1880 Appendix to the General Baptist Hymnbook, and two as below in the Baptist Hymnal, 1879 :-

1. Come, Holy Spirit, from the throne. The Holy Spirit.
2. Great God, avow this house Thins own. Opening a Place of Worskip.

Besides these Mr. Tyers wrote a number of hymns for Sunday Schools, which appeared in the school hymn books of his day, but are no House School, Mells, Somerset, 1854-56; and | longer in use. He was also the author of a short poem on the Death of the Rev. Robert Smith, of Nottingham (Lond., 1829). [W. B. S.]

Tymms, Thomas Vincent, was b. in Westminster, Jan. 5, 1842. After being educated for the Baptist ministry in Regent's Park College, London, he became, in 1865, pastor at Berwick-upon-Tweed. Thence, in 1868, he removed to Accrington, and in 1869 to Lendon, where he now ministers to an influential congregation in the Downs Chapel, Clapton. In 1885 Mr. Tymms published an able book entitled The Mystery of God; a con-sideration of some intellectual hindrances to Faith (2nd ed. 1886; a 3rd ed. 1887). Mr. Tymms has written several hymns, which have been printed in the 1880 Supplement to the Bap. Psalms and Hymns, and in the Bap. Ps. and Hys. for School and Home, 1882:--

1. Another Sabbath ended (1866). Sunday Evening.
2. In Shiloh, where Thine ark was stored (1881).
Prayer to the God of Sunuel.
3. O Lord of glory, he my light (1882). Inscention.
4. Lord, I read of tender mercy (1882). Tenderness

Of these hymns, No. 4, originally in 7 st. of 4 L, was altered and abridged to 5 st. in the Bap. Ps. and Hys. for School and Home. The original st. v.-vii. are:—

5. "But I've waited for some clearer Token from Thy throne, Some permission whispered unto Me alone.

7. " Lord, receive me to Thy Kingdom Nor, my gift decline; Let Thy Spirit softly whisper Thou art mine." [W.R.S.]

U., in Bristol Bap. Coll., of Ash & Evans, 1st ed., 1769, i.e. Unknown.

Ulrich Anton of Brunswick. (Auton Tirjeh.]

Ultricibus nos undique. C. Coffin, [Friday.] Appeared in the Paris Breslary, 1786, and again in Coffin's Hymni Sacri, of the same year, p. 27. In the Paris and other French Brews, it is the hymn for Fridays at Lauds from Trinity to Advent. The text is in J. Chandler's Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, No. 80, and Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865. Tr. as:---

1. While Thine avenging arrows fall. By I. Williams, in his Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 35, and again with alterations as "Lord, while Thy chastening arrows fall," in the Hymnary, 1872.

2. Lord, when Thine avenging dart. By G. Rorison, in his Hys. and Anthons, 1851, No. 58. In the 1869 Appendix to the same No. 307, the last 4 st. are given as "Lord, Thy chastoning hand we fear."

1. While Thine avenging arrows, Lord. J. Chandler. 1837.
2. When Thou, O God, Thine own elect. J. D.

Chambers, 1887.

3. Great Searcher of our hearts, Whilst Thy, &c. D.

7. Morgon, 1880.

[J. J.]

'Υμνώμεν κούρον νύμφας, Βηποίω. Bp. of Ptolemais. [Christmas.] This is hymn v. of the ten hymns which he wrote at various periods of his life, and dates 375-430. It opens as a hymn for the Nativity, but expands into a prayer to Christ in the fulness of His glory. The Greek text is found in the Anth. Greece Corm. Christ., 1871. From this Mr. Chatfield's tr.: - "Awake, our lute, the child to sing" was made, and first pub. in his Songs and Hymns, &c., 1876, in 18 st. of 4 l. [See Greek Hymnody, § v.]

'Υμνουμέν σου Χριστè, τὸ σωτήριον  $\Pi d heta o_{\mathcal{G}}$ . [Easter.] The author of these "four Resurrection Stichers of the Octoechus" is unknown. They are found in the Office for the "Sunday of Easter," as reprinted by Dr. Littledale in his Offices of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, p. 95, together with a blank verse tr. at p. 220. This latter has been re-written by W. Chatterion Dix, and included in the Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 277: "Christ, we sing Thy saving passion." This was repeated in the People's H., 1867. [J. J.]

Uncta Crux Dei cruore. Jean Baptiste de Santeskii. [Holy Cross.] This is a cento from three of his hymns, viz.: (1) "Luce quanta se sub una;" (2) "Publici fontens salutis;" and (3) "Totius fons sanctiatis"— all given in his Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1698, pp. 98-96. It was appointed in the revised Paris Brev., 1736, as the hymn at Laude at the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross. Tr. as "With the precious blood anointed" by "Sister M." for the Lyra Eucharistica, 1863, p. 46. Repeated in the People's H., 1867, and marked as from "Uncta Dei Crux cruore."

Under Thy wings, my God, I rest. Anna L. Waring. [Trust in God.] 1st pub. in her Hys. and Meditations, 1850, No. xv., in st. of 4 l., and based upon the words "I will trust in the covert of Thy wings," Ps. lxi. 4. In the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, it is given as, "Beneath Thy wings, O God, I rest." [J. J.]

Ungrateful sinners, whence this scorn? P. Doddridge. [Despising Divine Mercy.] This hymn is No. 72 in the D. MSS., headed, "Of despising Divine Mercy, and treasuring up Wrath. From Rom. ii. 4, 5." In Job Ordon's posthumous edition of Doddridge Humas to 1755 the property and dridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, the same text and heading were given as No. 258; and in J. D. Humphreys's cd. of the same, 1839, No. 288. This hymn was given, with slight changes, in the 1745 Draft of the Scottish Translations and Paraphrases, from a ms. described under Dodardge, P., in Various. In the authorized issue of the Tre. and Paraphs., 1781, the 1745 text was recast, viz., st. i. from 1745; st. ii. from 1745, with scorn for "spurn"; st. iii. from the 1751 Draft; st. iv. new; st. v. Dod-dridge rewritten; st. vi. new. According to the marked list by the eldest daughter of W. Cameron (p. 200, il) this final form of the hymn was by Comeron. [J. J.]

Unheard the dews around me fall. [Peace amid silence.] This hymn appeared anonymously in Dr. G. W. Brigge's (Unitarian) Hys. for Pub. Worship, Boston, 1845, in 4 st. of 41. It was repeated in Hedge and Huntington's Hys. for the Church of Christ, 1853, and later American collections; and in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873. In Stopford A. Brocke's Christian Hys., 1881, No. 177, it is slightly altered, and another stanza (iv.) is acided. This text is repeated in Horder's Cong. Hye., 1884, No. 438. [J. J.]

Unitarian Hymnody, American. [American Hymnody, § VII.]

Boottish. Unitarian Hymnody, Scottish Hymnody, p. 1032, i.]

Unitarien Hymnody, Welsh. (Welsh Hymnody.]

Unitarian Hymnody.—For the right understanding of English Unitarian Hymnody a few words of historical introduction are

1. The Euglish Presbyterians, after close fellowship with the Independents during the early decades of last century, gradually moved into a separate position. Through force of circumstances they had become as much congregational in their system of church government as their neighbours, but after the Salters' Hall controversy of 1719 they were more and more confirmed in the principle of non-sub-scription to any formulated statement of belief, the Bible only being their standard of authority in matters of doctrine. The consequence was that while the Independents at the close of the century occupied much the same dectrinal position as at the beginning, the Presbyterians had passed through various changes. Their original Calvinism had been abandoned for a form of Arminian doctrine, and then, through the influence of such men as Locke and Dr. Samuel Clarke (their teachers, though not of their fellowship), they gradually adopted the scheme of Arianism. This was held in various degrees of precision, until it passed into Unitarianism, as in the person of Dr. Priestley and those who thought with him, towards the close of the century. A similar change had taken place in a portion of the General Baptist churches, especially in the south of England, and those two groups of non-subscribing congregations were naturally drawn together by their common sympathies. Then there was the congregation of Unitarious organised in Essex Street Chapel, London, by Theophilus Lindsoy, on his leaving the Church of England, as early as 1774; and to these have been added during the present century other congregations, either through dootrinal development (as with cartain Methodist Societies under Joseph Cooke, early in the century, or later through the influence of Joseph Barker), or through freeli missionary effort on the part of established societies of Unitarians. (Cf. Rev. J. J. Tayler's Retro-epect of the Religious Life of England, chap. 3 and 5, and Rev. Brooke Herford's Story of Religion in England, chap. 30, 82 and 33.) In Wales and Ireland there are also similar groups of non-subscribing churches, in which Unitarianism is now the prevailing dectrine. Taken together, all these are popularly known as the Unitarian body of this country, but it is a body which has not always been Unitarian, and is in fact a group of Free Churches which hold to the fundamental principle of the liberty of prophesying, and impose no restraint of formulated creed on further doc-trinal development. It is of the hymn-books and hymn-writers of this group of churches, various in their origin, but united in their broad principles, that the present article is to speak. [See also references to special articles on p. 1191, i.]

2. The marked individualism which from early times has characterised the members of these churches appears also in their hymnbooks. From the time when the various departures from the use of Dr. Watts began, about the middle of the last century, to our own day, there has been a long succession of books, often two or three appearing in a single year; and although occasionally a book has made its way into very general use, there has never been any one recognised hymnal of the whole body of churches. The Psalms and Hymns of Dr. Watts were as popular for some time with the Presbyterians as with the Independents. The Psalms on their appearance, quickly superseded the books pre-viously used, and in many congregations remained in use even to the close of last century, when various other books had already been provided. These others had their origin at first in the needs of special congregations. As the doctrinal movement into Arianism became more decided, and as Watts himself had not lived to make that revision of his work, which his own reported change of opinions would have required, ministers of Presbyterian congregations in various parts of the country took in hand to supply the want. They either made a selection from Watts, with the necessary alterations, or compiled a supplement to the Psalms from his hymns and other sources, or made an entirely new collection, in which, while Watts remained predominant, his pealms and hymns were mingled with those of other writers. This last was the course most froquently adopted.

3. Thus in 1757 there appeared

A Collection of Praims and Hymns for Divine Worthip London, Printed and sold by J. Noon, at the White Bart, in Chespside, war the Positry; James Wangh, at the Turk's Head, Lomburd Street; and Aaron Turr, in at the Turk's itead, Lombard Street; and Aaron Turr, in Exeter. This was a collection of 218 pasinus and hymne, the authors in addition to Watts being Addison, Tate & Bridly, Browne & Doddridge. It is said to have been edited by itev. Micaish Torgood, Arian Minister of James's Meeting. Exeter, and was certainly used by his congregation. A second ed., enlarged to 346 pasinus and hymne, was printed in 1179, by W. Grigg, at Exeter. In the year following the first appearance of this book, it was reprinted with alterations and additions for the Presbyterian congregation of Lowin's Mead, Bristol.

In 1760 the Rev. Michael Pope, minister of the Leather Lane Meeting, in London, followed the same example, though in more independent fashion. His book is outitled

Hotopenacut manion. His book is outsign Printed for J. Waugh, in Lomburd Breet; J. Ward, in Cornhill; J. Buckland, at the Buck; T. Longman, at the Ship; W. Fenner, at the Angel and Bible, in Pater-noster Row; and E. Dilly, in the Poultry, 1169, and is known as Pope's Old. It is divided into two parts, (1.) 229 pasins, of which 176 are by Watts, 28 by Tate & Brady, others by Patrick, Addison, Doddridge, Flexman, 6. (ii.) 203 hymns, nearly half being by Watts, other authors being hoddridge, Addison, A. Pope, Browne, Grove, Kippls, Flexman, and Amery (?). This colicc-tion was the first in which the hymns of the four last authors (all Presbyterian ministers) appeared. The alterations and omissions from the pealms and hymns of Watte and others, due to the editor's Arianism, or to his portical taste, are considerable.

A similar, though smaller collection, appeared in Liverpool in 1764, edited by Revs. John Breckell and W. Enfield, ministers of the Key Street and Benn's Garden chapels respectively:—

A New Collection of Psalms proper for Christian Worship, in Three Parts. I. Psalms of David, &c. If. Psalms of Prouse to God. III. Psalms on Various Subjects. Liverpool. Printed in the Year 1764. There are 242 pealms, more than half by Wotts, and in addition to cames mentioned above, Gibbona, Carter, Rows, Cotton, Ogitvis, Heginbotham, and Steele, ara represented. There were later editions in 1765 and 1770; in 1787 a new edition was printed (for J. Gore), with 80 pealms added to the third part, including some by Mrs. Parbauld and T. Scott. This edition, entitled merely A Collection of Psalms, &c., was reprinted in 1798 and 1806. A few years after it was superseded by new collections separately made for each of the two congregations.

4. Different in character from the above collections was Dr. Enfield's second book:—

Hymns for Public Worthip, relacted from Various Authors, and intended as a rupplement to Dr. Watta's Proling. Warrington. Printed for the Editor, 1772. Later editions 1781 and 1789. Its character is indicated by the title. There are 160 hymns, more than a third being selected from Watta's hymns, while after Doddridge, Mrs. Barbauld and Thomas Scott hold the chief place. Some of their hymns appeared for the first time in this collection.

 Different again was a book issued without date, but probably in 1780, by two Presbyterian ministers, Revs. W. Wood and Benj. Carpenter:—

An Abridgment of Br. Watte's Praims and Hymns, with some alterations. To which is added an oppendix containing rome hymns, relected from other authors. Birmingham. Printed by Pierry and Jones, and void by them and by the editors at Budley and Money and void by them and by the editors at Budley and Money and This collection is notable for the very slight alterations of Watts, when compared with what he has undergone at other hands. It contains 163 paims and then 110 hymns. Only the last 14 hymns form the appendix, by Addison, Reddridge, Kippis, and T. Scott. A third edition considerably enlarged, with an entirely new title-page, was issued in 1802 as A Scienting of Sacred Poetry, adapted to Public and Private Worship. In Three Parts, Stoarbridge, Printed and told by J. Heming. The former appendix of 14 hymns is enlarged to a third part, and includes hymns by Wesley, Cowper, Beddoms, Steele, Dyer, &c.

6. These are examples of various departures from the exclusive use of Dr. Watts in the old Presbyterian congregations. The collection of Theophilus Lindsey was of other origin. To the second edition of his Book of Common Prayer Reformed according to the Plan of the late Dr. Samuel Clarks, prepared in 1774 for use in Easex Street Chapel, he appended—

A Collection of Hymne and Pealms for Public Worship. London. Printed for J. Johnson, No. 22, St. Paul's Church Yard, 1774.

It contains only 127 hymns and pealms, of which more than half are by Watts. In subsequent editions, 1784, 1793, 1895, 1822 (the last two by Rev. T. Belsham), it was gradually enlarged. In the editions of 1835 and 1849, by the Rev. T. Madge, it became practically a new collection.

7. The method of appending hymns to the forms of liturgical service had already been adopted in Liverpool in 1768 by the congregation which met for a few years in the Octagen Chapel.* To their "Form of Prayer" was added A New Collection of Pralms, for the use of a Congregation of Protestant Dissenters in Liverpool. It contains only 150 pealms, and is quite distinct from the larger Liverpool Coll. of 1764. Other examples of the same practice are found in the Mansfield Liturgy of 1797, and the Sherborne Devotional Services for the Public Worship of the One True God, issued in 1812 by Rev. W. Blake (the second), of Crewkerne. The title-page of the Salisbury Forms of Prayer for Public Worship, 1776, also promises a collection of hymne, but apparently it was not issued until two years later, as

A Collection of Hymns for Public Worship: on the general Principles of Natural and Revealed Religion, Salisbury: Printed in the year 1779,

There is more originality shown in this collection than in the other books of the same period. Watts and Doddridge are not so strikingly predominant, there is greater variety of anthorship, several hymns by John and Charles Wesley (greatly altered in some cases) being introduced; and "of the originals consist of peculiar metres, which have been but lately introduced into psalmody." One of the editors, Rev. Benj. Williams, the last minister of the old Presbyterian congregation in Solisbury, was a man of considerable poetical power. He contributed hymns of his own, including, "Holy, holy, holy Lord"; and the adaptations of Methodist hymns, of which in more than one instance only the first line and the metre are adopted, and a quite new hymn written, are full of genuine music. The collection contains 310 hymns, without names of authors.

8. There were other notable collections made by Presbyterian ministers about this time. The Rev. Newcome Cappe, minister at St. Saviour-gate, York, a Biblical critic of clear Unitarian convictions, was the editor of A Selection of Psalms for Social Worship. York: Printed by A. Ward, 1786. On the title-page are printed extracts from Watts's prefaces to his Psalms and Hymns, and a passage from a sermon of Lardner's, expressing the view that in worship only language should be used in which all devout Christians of whatever party could join without offence. The preface elaborates the same position, and contains an "explication of terms and phrases," to aid in the right understanding of the chief theological ideas which are found in the book. There are 279 psalms, arranged in four books, according to metre, long, common, short and particular. Similar collections were that of Rev. George Walker of Nottingham:—

(1) A Collection of Psalms and Hymns for Public Worship, unmixed with the disputed destrines of any sect. Warrington. Printed by W. Eyres. . . 1788,

(2) Pealms and Hymne for the use of the New Mosting in Birmingham. Birmingham: Printed by J. Thomason, 1790.

This latter collection was edited by Rev. William Hawkes and Dr. Joseph Priestley, ministers of the congregation. In the preface they say:—

"Most of the variations from Dr. Watta's compositions have been made for the sake of rendering the sontiseerst unexceptionable to Unitarian Chestaine... Propriety of sentiment was the first thing to be attended to; and it is to long use only that many of Watta's own verses are indebted for the little offence they now give even to the ear, and much more to the understanding." The alterations are very freely made in secondance with Priestley's theological views, but often apparently only from difference of tasts, not always to the advantage of the poetry.

In 1791 the larger number of the new books perished in the firs by which the mob destroyed not only Priest-iny's house, but both the Old and the New Meetings. Part of the issue had been provided for the congregation of Cross Street Chapel, Manchester, and remained in use there until the introduction of Kipps's, but the Etimingham congregation, joining for a time in common worship with their friends of the Old Meeting, returned to the use of Waste's Proises and Eppsus, which the latter congregation had not yet relimquished. Afterwards a fresh collection was made for the New Meeting, issued in three books snoomstrely in 1788, 1806, and 1834. The Old Meeting adopted Kippt's.

9. Among the Presbyterians in the North of Ireland the Scottish Pealms and Paraphrases occupied the same place as Watts's Pealms and Hymns with their brethren in England. The first book of their own seems to have been the Hymns for the use of the Presbyterian Congregation in Lisburn. Bolfast, 1787,—a collection of 100 hymns taken from much the same sources as the English books, altered in the same way. A somewhat larger collection, but of similar character, was A Collection of Pealms and Hymns proper for Christian Worship. In two parts. I. Paims of David. II. Sacred Hymns. London-Derry, 1788. Second ed. 1794. This book was afterwards discarded by the congregation as not sufficiently orthodox.

10. The collection known variously as Kippis or Rees, from two of its editors, was the first of the Unitarian books to attain to any very extended circulation. It went through many editions, and has remained in use in some out-of-the-way places until quite recently. It may be taken as typical of the kind of Unitarianism most prevalent in England at the beginning of the present century, before the deeper spiritual influence of Channing made itself felt on this side of the Atlantia. The title of the book is:—

the book is:—

A Collection of Hymns and Psalms for Public and Private Worship; selected and prepared by Andrew Rippis, D.D., P.K.S., & F.S.A.; Abraham Rees, D.D., P.K.S., & F.S.A.; Abraham Rees, D.D., P.K.S., The Rev. Thomas gereis, and the Rev. Thomas Morgan, LL.D. London, 1796. The editors were all Presbyterian ministers resident at that time in London. The preface states that hitherto the Presbyletian societies in the Metropolis and its vicinity have been contented with Dr. Wait's Praiss, with the exception of one congregation, which has a book of its own (Pape's Coli., 1760, at the Leaster Lane Meeting). To remedy this defect the present compilation is made on the same principles as the sardier Praebyterian collections. Aberation and adaptation are freely resorted to, in order to avoid whatever might "clash with the sentimenta, or but the feelings of any sincere Christian." There are 600 hymns by more than 50 amthors, tockning Waits, Mrs. Steele, Doddridge, Merrick, Jervis, Mrs. Barbauld, Thomas Scott, Other well-known names are Milton, Dryden, Addison, Pope, Cowper, Burns, besides many less remarkable, common to the early Presbyterian books. In 1807 a Supplement of 94 hymns was added, and in 1857 a much enlarged Supplement, edited by Rev. Etimund Kell.

The general impression made by Kippis is of a semewhat cold and external piety. Though very excellent in moral tone and exhortation, too much of its celebration of the attributes of God and the greatness of His works touches no spring of living emotion, and the redemptive work of Christ seems to be viewed rather from outside than expressed in the kindling words of actual experience. It must be added however that the hymns of Cowper, J. Wesley's "Commit thou all thy griefs," and others which spring from the deeper sources of inspiration, are included in the volume.

11. In spite of the considerable popularity attained by Kippis, it is not too much to say that during the 45 years between its appearance and the publication of Martineau's Hymns for the Christian Church and Home, on an average one Unitarian hymn-book, large or small, was issued every year. It was a period of considerable activity in Unitarian propagandism, and several of the books are of importance. Only a few can be so much as named here, e.g.:—

Br. Enfeld's Norwick Coll. of 1795; the Esster Coll., 1801; Dr. Enfeld's Norwick Coll. of 1795; the Esster Coll., 1801; Dr. Estim's (Bristol), 1805; Rev. W. Turner's (Newcastis), 1806; Norwich, 1814; Liverpool, Reashaw Street, 1815; Samnel Dobell'e, 1816; Liverpool, Reashaw Street, 1818, and again 1836; Warrington, 1818 (the curions book in which the editors object to "the introduction of the term soul, in connections where it necessarily implies an immaterial and separable principle in man."); Dukinfield, 1823 (still in use); R. Wallace's, 1822; Rev. J. J. Tayler's (Moslay Street, Manchester), 1828; Dr. Carpenter's (Bristol), 1821; Rev. Benj. Carpenter's (Notlingham), 1838.

In Ireland appeared the Psalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs; selected for the First Congregation of Presbyterious in Bolfast, 1801, which in that congregation superseded the use of the Psalms and Paraphrases, and was itself superseded by A Selection of Psalms and Hymns for the use of the Presbytery of Antrim and the Congregation of Strand Street, Dublin. Belfast, 1818, really a new ed. of the earlier book. There was also Rev. A. G. Malcom's Newry Coll. 1811.

12. In 1810 Rev. Robert Aspland of Hackney published A Selection of Paulous and Hymns for Unitarian Worship, which passed through several editions, and to which in 1824 a supplement was added. This is said to be the first instance of the term Unitarian appearing on the title-page of a hymn-book. To hold such dootrine was still a penal offence. This collection contains 500 hymns for private and domestic as well as public worship, by more than 60 authors. There is greater variety and freshness of devotional expression than in Kippis.

18. The two books between Kippis and Martineau which had the widest circulation were those known as the Exeter Coll. and House's Coll. The former was A Collection of Psulms and Hypurs for Social and Private Worship, Exeter, 1812, edited chiefly by Dr. Laut Carpenter, at that time minister of the George's Meeting. Many editions were printed, not only at Exeter, but also at Glasgow and Loudon, the 12th ed. being London, 1885. It is a collection of $13 hymns, and while strictly Unitarian in doctrine, it aimed "to increase the number of suitable hymns especially referring to Christian privileges and requisitions." The same may be said of A Selection of Hymnu and Pealms for Christian Worship. By H. E. House, jun. Bath, 1830. Of this nine editions were printed, and it was extensively used by the congregations of Gen. Baptists who had become Unitarisms, as well as by others, in some cases until quite recently. There are 528 hymns by about 80 authors.

14. One other book of this period must be named:—

A Collection of Hymne for Public and Private Werthip. Compiled by John R. Beard. London: John Green. Manchester: Forrest & Fogg, 1837.

The peculiarity of this collection was that mly hymns by Unitarian writers were admitted. The result was a collection of 560 hymns by 55 authors, the chief contributors being: John Bowring, William Gaskell, J. C. Wallace, J. R. Wreford, John Johns, S. G. Bulfinch, J. Brettell, and Mrs. Barbauld. Only a few of these hymns have passed into general use in G. Britain, and the principle of selection has not found favour among the Unitarians of the English non-subscribing clurches. Many of these hymns have however passed into American Unitarian collections.

15. In 1840 appeared the book which has made the most striking epoch in the history of Unitarian hymnody. As Kippis fairly represents the condition of English Unitarians at the end of last century, so the Hymns for the Christian Church and Home, Collected and edited by James Martineau, London, 1840, may be taken as the best expression of the new spirit of devotion which, largely through the influence of Channing, bad for some time been making its way in their societies. When the new hymn-book appeared Dr. Martineau was minister at Paradise Street Chapel, Liverpool. It was to some extent only a prophecy of what was to be, for the book was received at first with objection in some quarters; but quickly made its way, and, far more generally than Kippis at the beginning of the century, superseded all earlier collections. It is now the book most widely used among Unitarisas in England. It was a collection of 650 hymns, Mrs. Adam's "Nearer, my God, to Thee "being added as hymn 651 to the 10th ed. of 1858. The preface develops the thought of worship as being the natural expression of emotion, awakened in the mind "possessed with the religious or mysterious conception of God, of life and death, of duty, of inturity," and shows how the substance of the devotion of the various writers, whose hymns are adopted, is preserved, while the special dialoct of their dogmatic theology is changed into a more universal language.

of the 181 authors from whom selection is made not a third could be rightly classed as Unitarians; the chief of these being Adams, Bartanda, Bowring, Bryant, Butcher, Enfield, Estille, Furness, Gaskell, Johns, Norton, Pierpoint, the Roscoss, J. E. Smith, John and Emlly Taylor, Ware and Wreford. But the chief contributors are members of other Churches, Catholic, Lutheran, Anglican, Wesleyan, Baptist, Independent, and others; Dr. Watts standing first with 77 hymns, and after in Montgomery with 57, Doddridge 53, Charles Weeley 43, Reber 28, Cowper 14, Newton 14, Conder 12, Hemnars 11, Steele 10, Milman 10. The hymns are divided into six books according to their subjects.

16. From 1840 until the appearance of Dr. Martineau's last collection in 1878, was a period not so prolific as the preceding in Unitarian hymn-books. This was natural, since the need of the churches had been so were lowever issued. Among these may be named:—

(1) W. J. Fox's Hymns and Anthens, London, 1861, to which were first contributed the hymns of Sarah Adams; (2) the Plymouth Hymns for Public and Private Wortship, 1855; (3) the Liverpool Renshaw Street Hymns, Chants, and Anthens,: selected and arrenged by John Hamilton Thom, 1858; (4) a new Exeter Collection, 1863, edited by Bev. T. W. Chignell; (6) the Rev. Charles Clarko's Book of Prayer and Praise, Bir-wingkam, 1871; (6) the Rev. J. P. Hopps's Hymns for Public Worship, Glasgow, 1873. In Ireland appeared the (7) Pedins, Paraphrases and Hymns for Christian Worship, Belfast, 1841, and in 1886 what was really a new edition of the above, also at Belfast, (8) Hymns for Christian Worship; edited by members of the Non-tuberthing Presbyterian Church of Ireland. Further editions in 1867 and 1896.

17. This period however not only added greatly to the treasures of Christian hymnody, but witnessed marked further changes in the religious attitude of the free churches, for which particularly Dr. Martineau produced his carlier hymn-book. To meet the fresh need he published:—

Hymns of Fraise and Frayer, collected and edited by James Martineau, LL.D., B.D., "Vatum suspiria solutium Ecclesiae." London, Longmans, 1873.

There had come to be less importance attached to the external historical records, Biblical incidents were less dwelt upon than formerly, and greater stress was laid on the inwardness of the religious life, identifying Christianity with the religion of Christ in its pure and personal essence. And so in this collection the new hymns admitted belong "chiefly to the poetry of the inner life; while the old hymns excluded mainly deal with objective incidents either in Biblical history or in the apocalyptic representation of the future." But besides the change in character of the collection there were large additions to be made from new writers. There are 797 hymns, 417 being also in the former collection and 380 added. Of hymns where names are given there are 255 authors, those not included in the former collection being gathered from every quarter of the Church, from the Roman Catholic to the Unitarian. Among them are Newman, Faber, Caswail, Prooter, Lyte, Neale, Trench, Bonar, Gill, Ellerton, Lyuch, Waring, Whittier, Parker, Emerson, Holmes, the Longfellows, Jones Very, Johnson, Clarke. In amount of contribution Watts loces his pre-eminence, Montgomery standing first with 67 hymns, then Charles Wesley with 58, Watts 49, Doddridge 34, Heber 17, Faber 16, Cowper 15, Barbauld 15, Lyte 15, Conder 13, Hemans 11, Gill 11. The same principle of alteration is adhered to as in the earlier collection, "for grave reasons of religious veracity." The grave reasons of religious veracity." growing acceptance of this collection in the "Nonconformist Broad Church," for which it was designed, shows that it has rightly gauged the condition of the religions life of English Unitarians. After Hymns for the Christian Church and Home it is now used in their societies more than any other book.

18. Of subsequent collections the most notable are the Hymns of Experience and Hope, Manchester, 1874, a small but choice selection edited by Revs. F. E. Millson and S. Farrington; Hymns, Chants and Anthems for Public Worship, edited by John Page Hopps, Leicester, 1877, now used in several congregations; and the Bedford Chapel Christian Hymns, London, 1881, edited for his congregation by Rev. Stopford A. Brocke, on his leaving the Church of England.

19. From the above account of Unitarian hymn-books it will be seen that with one exception their unterial has been largely drawn from writers belonging to other branches of the Christian Church, and that the work of the editors has been more that of selection and adaptation from common sources than a collecting of new material. There are however a considerable number of original writers Smoog Unitarians in England as well as America, some of whom are well known beyond the borders of their own immediate circle.

20. In the old Arian days there were several liberal ministers whose hymns occur repeatedly in the earlier collections and less uniformly in the modern books, who stand naturally in the line of development which has resulted in modern Unitarianism. Such were Henry Grove, Thomas Scott, Roger Flexman, John Breckell, and somewhat later, Benj. Williams, Henry Moore, and the editors Kippis, Jervis, Walker and Enfield. Among Unitarian hymn-writers in the latter part of last century the first place must be given to Mrs. Barbauld, with whom are naturally associated the Norwich group of the Taylors and Sir J. E. Smith, William Roscoe of Liverpool, and his gifted children. Other contemporaries, passing gradually on to a new generation, were Dr. Estlin, Pendlebury Houghton, Ed-mund Butcher, William Lamport, John Rowe, George Dyer, Helen Marie Williams, and in Ireland Dr. Drennen and William H. Drummond. Of those born later in the last century were John G. Robberds, Sir John Bowring, W. J. Fox, J. C. Wallace, Jacob Brettell, Hugh Hutton, and in Ireland David Whyte and A. G. Malcom. Belonging entirely to the present century are the Martineaus, Sarah Adams, John Johns, Dr. Wreford, William Gaskell, Samuel Greg, Thomas Hincks, John Pege Hoppe, and others.

Of the chief of these further notice will be found elsewhere in this Dictionary. In the alphabetical list given below brief notes are added concerning the rest.

[Abbreviations:—K. = Kippis. M. 1 = Martineau's Hymns for the Christian Church and Home. M. 2 = Martineau's Hymns of Praise and Prayer. H. = J. P. Hopps's Coll., 1877. B. = Belfast Coll., 1886.]

Afkin, John, M.D., 1747-1822. The brother of Mrs. Barbaull, son of Dr. Aikin of the Warrington Academy. As a physician he practised at Warrington and Yarmouth, and from 1798 till the time of his death lived at Bloke Newington. Author (with his state), of Everings at Home, editor of the General Biographical Bioteonary, and for some time of the Monthly Magarine. His hymn in time of the Monthly Magarine. His hymn in time of war are heard around," was very popular. It is in K. and M.I. and M. 1.

Aspland, Robert, 1982-1845. Minister at Hackney, founder and for many years editor of the Monthly Repository and the Christian Reformer. In his Pastons and Hyman for Unitarian Worship, 1810, are three hymna signed "A."

 Almighty Father of mankind! Jabovah, self-distant Lord. To the One God.
 Sons of Adam! Join to raise. Creation, Bellempexistent Lord

tion, and Restoration.

Welcome, the hope of large's race ! The glory of the Man Jeres.

Astley, Francis Dukinfield, 1782-1825. Layman, of Dukinfield, author of a volume of poems (no relation of Bev. Richard Astley who edited the Glovestor Coll., 1827). Two of his hymns are in the Dukinfield Coll., 1822

 Blest is the man whose pitying eye. Of Charity.
 Thou Cause unknown! whose secret word. God the Creator.

Akkins, Hugh, b. 1838. Of Hinckley, manufacturer, H. includes hin hymn of the pure in Rast, "Jesua, on the Mount of Olives." This, with two others, is in J. G. Lunn's Leicester Coll., 18, w.

Bache, Barah, 1771-1844. A relative of the Carpenters, who kept a school for many years in Birmingham, Her hymn, "See how he loved," exclaimed the Jewa," Love of Christ, was contributed to the Exactor Coll., 1812. It is in E. 1 and B., and most of the early books after its арреатовся, Barnaby, Goodwin, 1820-1881. Minister at Wakefield, author of the Return of the Swallows, and other poems, 1864, Sc. B. gives a hymn of his on The following of Christ, "Beside the shore of Gaillee."

Barnes, Thomas, p.D., 1747-1810, b. at Warrington and educated for the ministry at the Warrington Academy. Settled first at Cockey Moor, near Botton, and in 180 at Gross Street Chapel, Manchester. In 1786 he became first Principal of the newly founded Manchester Academy, now Manchester New Oblige. Two bymns of his on The Christian's Hope, are in the Dukingeld Chi., 2002.

I hope ere long to leave behind,
 While darkness reigns beneath the pole.

Brockell, John, 1896-1769. Minister of Key Street Chapel, Liverpool, and co-editor with Dr. Enfield of the old Liverpool Coll., 1764, which gives his byzan for a Fast Duy, "O Lord of bosts, Almighty King!" Cappe's Fork Coll., 1788, gives a version of Praise 12 as his, "The glory of their builder, God."

Bright, Heavy Arthur, 1830-1884. A Liverpool mer-chant and man of letters. A friend of Nathaniel Haw-thorne, and a contributor to the Albertone, &c. Thom's Renahaw Street 652, 1858, contains his hymn, "To the Father through the Son."

Carpentar, Lant, Ll.D., 1781-1840. Minister at Excter and Bristol, a distinguished writer and teacher among the Unitarians of his day. To his Exeter Coll., 1812, he contributed the hymn of Reservace and love for Jerus, "Father of Jesus, God of Lova." He also pub., under the signature "L.," in his Collection of Hysnes for the use of Valtarion Christians, Brittol, 1831:—

1. Behold the Gospel inercy-sest. Christ, the Mercy-

2. O God, all holy and all just. The mercy of God in

3. The hour must come, the closest ties. Parting here, reunion hereafter.

here, resenter, Mary, 1807-1877. Daughter of Dr. Lant Garpenter, Gary, 1807-1877. Daughter of Dr. Lant Garpenter, of Bristol, best known for her works of philanthropy, but also a devotional writer in prose and verse. Her Morning and Escaing Meditations (1845) has passed through several editions. It contains her hymn of Bedication, given in B., "To thee, my God, to thee." Another hymn by Miss Carponter is in the Suga. to Martineon's Hyr. for use at Levin's Mead Chapet, Bristol, 1849 and 1859. It begins "Father, here Thy glory praising." (Sunday Recating.)

Chignell, T. W., b. 1828. Minister of Goorge's Meeting, Exeter, and editor of the Exeter Coll., 1862 and 1888, which contain several of his own hymns, and various translations from foreign authors. The South Place entargement of W. J. For's Coll., 1873, gives from 1803:

translations from foreign authors. The South Place en-largement of W. J. Fox's Coll., 1873, gives from 1863:—

1. Morning breaketh on thee. Morning appiration, 2. Happy they who are not wasty. Program.

Genway, Monoure Dans, b. 1832. For many years minister at South Place Chapel, Flushnry, and editor of the enlarged edition of W. J. Fox's Hywns & Anthena, 1873, which contains his hymn of Music out of the storm, "A storm sped over sea and land."

Cox, James, d. 1825. An Exister layman, who contributed several hymns to the Exister Coll., 1812. Of these B. and H. give:-

1. Homage pay to God above. Thanksgiving.

and B. also:

2. See from on high a light divine. The baptism of Jener.

Cross, Jahn, d. 1830. An Exeter layman, who contributed three hymns to the Exeter Coll., 1812; also in the Dukinfield Coll., 1822, and Bristol Coll., 1831:—

1. The morn of life, how fair and gay. The word of God the guide of youth.

2. With warm affection let us view. Reflections on the death of Christ.

3. With warm delight and grateful love. The character of Christ.

ter of Christ.

Darwin, Eramans, M.D., 1733-1802. Physician and root, of Lichfield, author of The Botanic Garden, 1781, &c. He was a friend of Dr. Priestley's, and in sympathy with many of his views, although not permanently connected with any church. His hymn on God, the dispoter of events, "The Lord, how tender is his love," is in K., M. 1 & 2. H. gives another hymn on Immerial Nature, "Roll on, ye stare, exult in youthful prime."

Days, Elizabeth, 1783-1629. Doughter of Rev. James | Days, Risabeth, 1733-1639. Daughter of Rev. James Days, Presbyterian minister at Lancaster (d. 1770). Published a volume of poems at Liverpool, 1788, and constituted to the Monthly Reportory. Her hymn of Worship is in A. & S., "I'll bless Jehovah's glorious name." Wallace gives another hymn for Sunday Evening, "O may the truths this day has taught."

Breamen, William, N.D., 1764-1820. A Belfast physician, author of Fugitive Pieces, in verse and prose, Belfast, 1815. He contributed 7 hymns to Aspland's Coll., 1810.

1. The heaven of heavens cannot contain. God pre-

- 1. The heaven of heavens cannot contain. God pre-sent to sincere worskip.

  2. In this fair globe with ocean bound. The lose of
- God.
- 3. Humanity | thon cent of God. Charity, Maith and Rone
- 4. All nature feels attractive power. The law of love, 5. O sweeter than the fragrant flower. The luxury of
- doing good.

  8. The husbandman goes forth afield. Fruits of bene-
- Why does the will of beaven ordain. The use of affliction

Some of these are still in C. U.

Byte, George, B.A., 1788-1841. Educated at Christ's Hospital and Emmanuel College, Cambridge. The friend of Charles Lemb, of Friestley and Wakefield, and blogmenter of Robert Robinson of Cambridge. In 1792 he moved to London, to chambers in Clifford's Inn, Fleet Street, supporting himself by private tuition and literary work. He was a contributor to the Gentleman's and the Kentike, Magnetes. Sor which he works the introduced and Monthly Magnatise, for which he wrote the introductory Ode in 1796. From 1806 to 1830 engaged upon Valpy's edition of the Classics, in 144 vols. Author of a History of the University and Colleges of Cumbridge, 1814, and of several volumes of verse. Three of his hymns are in A., and frequently in other books.

. Greatest of beings, source of life. Hymn to the Delty.

2. Greatest of beings, source of life. The same con-

3. Great Framer of unnumbered worlds. Hymn for a Pari

Estin, John Prior, D.D., 1747-1817, b. at Hinckley, and educated at the Warrington Academy. For many years minister at Lewin's Mead, Bristol; author of firmition Lectures on Moral Philosophy, &c., editor of the Paulus & Hyanes, adopted to Public and Private Worthly, Collected for the use of the Society of Lewin's Mead, Bristol, 1806, to which he contributed two hymns, also in M. 1 & 2. also in M. 1 & 2.

. Gracious source of every blessing. For the close of Recaing Service.

2. Thou art the First, and thou the Last. Assréption of Praise.

2. Exernal source of life and light. Prayer for spiritual blessings. In E. & B.

Flaxman, Roger, h.b., 1708-1795, b. at Great Torrington, Devon. Educated for the ministry at Tiverton by Rev. John Moore, ordained at Modbury, 1794, and from 1747 to 1785 was minister at Rocherlithe. In 1778 appointed one of the compilers of the Index of the Conscious Journals. He contributed a hymnu to Pope's Coll.,

1. Great God, to thee my grateful tengue. God the

2. In realms of everlasting light. Saint's Condict and Reward.

Jesus, adorned with grace divine. Second Advent.
 To God my grateful soul second. Ps. czzi.

4. to God my gratant sont second. P1, czz., Procheton, Themas Wesley, b. 1821. Minister of Unity Church, Islington. His hymn, "The toil of brain, or heart, or hand" (Cartitias Service), is in H. and in Horder's Cong. Hymnol., 1884.
Grag, Samuel, 1804-1876. Member of a family closely smodaled with Manchester Industries, and social work of various kinds. Selections from his papers, in proce and verse, with a memoir and a prefatory letter by Dean Stanler, were published posthumously as A Lawson's Stanley, were published posthumously as A Legenger's Legeny, 1877. The beet known of his hymns are:—

1. [Now] slowly, slowly darkening. The Light of God in darkeness.

2. Stay, Master, etcy upon this heavenly bill. Wor-skip preparing for work.

8. My soul in death was sleeping. Strong in his strongth.

4. Awful Power, whose birth-place lies. The mystery of pain.

Grove, Henry, 1683-1738. Presbyterian minister at Faunten, his birth-place, and conductor of a Dissenting Academy there, a contributor to Addison's Speciator

(Nos. 683, 601, 426, and 636), and author of An Estay towards a Demonstration of the Smil's Immateriality, 1718; A Discourse of Scott Prayer, 1723; Some Thoughts concerning the Proofs of a Patter State from Reason, 1780; Miscellanies in Press and Verse, 1732, Including his Speciator papers; A System of Month Philosophy, 1749, published by Dr. Amory, after his death, and various other works. There are two hymns of his in Parole (Bill, 1786). of his in Pope's Coll., 1780:-

1. O Lors, how excellent thy name. God the Creator.

2. Before the Lord our Maker we. God the Pressrer.

(1) is in H. and H. 1; a selection from (2) in Aspland, and another selection beginning with at 3. "The starry hosts in order move," in the Sugal, to H. and in Wallace.

Hampson, William, 1770–1834. A Dukinfield layman, three of whose hymns are in the Dukinfield Coll., 1823.

Daughters of pity, time the lay. Charity. Also in Aspland, 1810, and Dobell, 1816.
 The Lord of life bath burst his chains. The Resurrection of Christ.

3. The toll has ceased by which we're fed. The Lord's Day

Hancar, Jeseph, 1780-1824. A Liverpool merchant, of fine poetical taste, four of whose hymns are in M. 1, M. 2, also in the Norwich Coll., ed. 1826:—

1. Father in heaven, thy sacred name. The Lord's Prayer 2. How welcome thy returning beams. The Lord's Day.

 O for a faith in God's decrees. The shelter of faith.
 You glorious orbs that gild the sky. New Assures and new earth.

Moughton, Pendlebury, 1758-1824. Minister at the Octagon Chapel, Norwich, and from 1812-1823 at Paradise Street Chapel, Liverpool. His hymn on The reusion of friends after death, "Blest be the hour when friends shall meet," is in M. 1 & 2 and H. Sometimes as:— "Blest bour when virtuous friends shall meet."

Hutton, Hugh, 1785-1871, b. at Belfast, educated there under Dr. Bruce, and at Giasgow. In 1829 settled at Warrington, and from 1822 to 1851 was minister at the Valuington, and roun least to test was minister at the Cold Meeting, Birmingham; author of Poetical Pieces, chiefly on decotional and moral subjects, 1830, and editor of a Selection of Hymns for Christian Worning, Birmingham 1830, which includes some of his own.

Lampert, William, 1772-1849. Minister at Poole and Lancaster; author of Sacred Poetry; consisting of Hymns and other Devolvinal Compositions, 1828. Of he hymns contained in this volume M. 1 & 2 give:—
1. As his flock the shepherd leads. Parks useful.
2. If in a temple made with hands. I will go to the altar of God.

3. Father, Universal Lord. The Lord's Prayer. First pub. in the Liverpool Sucred Offering. In M. 1.

Lunz, John Celbreith, b. 1823. Minister at Lancaster, to., editor of Hymns for Religious Services, Leicester, 1880, which includes hymns by himself and his wife (nec Grandy), authoress of Poems by Linus, 1860.

Maloom, Andrew Geerge, D.D., 1783-1823. Minister at Newty, and editor of A Collection of Paulent, Hyanz and Spiritual Songs, proper for Christian Worship, Newry, 1811, which contains 30 of his own hymns. Bix ese are retained in B.

Mitchell, William, b. 1830. Minister in Manchester and other places. His bymn of Prayer, "Urest Father's we thy children," is given in H. Tals and a hymn of Fatth, "The herds of hill and valley," are in J. C. Lunn's Leicester Chil., 1880.

Macro, Henry, 1732-1802. Son of a Presbyterian minister of the same name at Plymonth. Educated at Doddridge's Academy at Northampton, from 1767 to 1788 minister at Modbury, and then at Liekeard. Author of Lyrical and Micellaneous Possar, published post-humously with a memorir by Dr. Aikin. Of his hymna, which are frequent in the books later than K., the Dakingfeld Coll., 1812, gives 5.

1. All earthly charms, however dear. The unfading beauty of holiners.

2. Amidst a world of hopes and fears. A prayer for guidance,

3. Assist us, Lord, to act, to be. Divine Help Solicited.

4. My God, thy boundless love I praise. The divine

5. Soft are the fruitful showers that bring. A song of tpring and New Life.

6. Supreme and universal light. Prayer for spiritual excellence.

New, Respect, b. 1820. Solicitor, of Evenham, whose hymn of Aspiration, "Lie open, sould around thespees," is given in H. It appeared [with the first line,

"Ope, ope, my soul!"] in George Dawson's Coll., 1883, and is also in the American Disciples' Hymn-book.

Patterson, Robert, r.L.s., 1802-1872. A Belfast merchant and distinguished scologist. B. gives his hymn on the Power of Religion, "There is a power which scotles the soul." It is also in Beard's Cott., 1837.

Piper, Heavy Huai, 1182-1864, unipleter at Nocton, near Sheffield, for about 40 years, and then at Banbury. Author of a hymn of Heavenly Hope, in Beard's Coli. "The seed may perial in the sarth."

Popple, Maria, d. 1847. Daughter of Rev. Miles Popple, vicar of Welton, near Hull, who as Mirians contributed to Beard's Coll., 1837, and to Unitarian periodical literature.

Robberds, Jaha Gooch, 1789-1854. Minister for many years at Cross Street Chapel. Manchester. Author of a Sanday Evening hymn in E. 1 & 2, "Now your pleasant labours close."

Hows, John, 1764-1833. Minister at Shrewsbury and at Lewin's Mead, Bristol. His hymn on the Asticipation Lewin's Mead, Bristol. His hymn on the Astrophotics of Old Age, which appeared in the Bristol Coll., 1806, is also in M. I. "Whan in the vale of lengthsneed years." Another and concewhat popular hymn by Rowe from the same Coll. is "From the Table now retiring." After H. Communicon. For fuller details see Duffield's English Hymns, Sc., 1880, p. 162.

Taylor, John James, B.A., 1797-1869. Professor of theology and ecclesiastical history, and Principal of Manchester Naw College, London; also misuter successively at the Mosley Street Chapel, Manchester, and Little Porlland Street Chapel, London. Author of A Retropect of the Religious Life of England, 1845; An Attempt to description the character of the Pourth Gospel, 1867; and many contributions to the Christian Teacher, Prospective and Retirond Regions, besides they become and excitation and sections. many-contributions to the Cartesian Factors, Prospective and Actional Reviews, heades other lectures and sermons. In his Selection of Hymen for Caristian Worthip, Manchester, 1832, made for the Moeley Street congregation, are two hymns signed "1":—

1. Unchanged, O Lord, through changing years. The mereiful purpores of God.

2. Crowned with thy favour, God of Grace! New Fcar.

Thamson, John, M.D., 1783-1818. A Leads physician, who contributed to Aspland's Coll., 1810:—

1. To God, the universal King. In the One God.

3. Jehovah, God? thy gradous power. Ownforcence Cod

3. To thee my beart, eternal King. Protec.

wellace, James Cowian, 1723 (?)-1941. Minister at various places in the south of England, finally at Wareham, suther of a considerable number of hymne, to be found in his brother Robert's Selection of Hymne for Fostlaries Worskip. Cansterfield, 1972, enlarged ed., 1825, and in Beard's Coll., 1837. In the Beatlet Hymnel is, "There is an eye that never sleeps." (The Dictac south/nilness). See "There's not a star whose trembling light."

Whyte, David, M.A., 1782-1872. Minister at Ballee, North of Ireland. Of his hymns B. gives, "O for a heart, a stronger heart," A Prayer for Grace.

Deart, a stronger desir. I Frayer, o Grows.

Williams, Benjamin, 1725-1735. Presbyterian minister at Salisbury, who in addition to a volume of Sermons, 1775, and the Solisbury Hymn Book, 1773, published The Book of Pashus at translated, paraphrased or invitated by some of the meat eminent English poets, Sc. Salisbury, 1781. His best known byzn, "Holy, boly, holy Lord," in celebration of the Bisins Goodness, in in his own Cold., E., M. 1 4.2, and B.

Williams, flarah Johanna, 1895-1841. Daughter of the biographer of Belsham, Rev. John Williams, minister at Mannfeld. She contributed various poems to the Livarpool Sacred Offering. In the vol. for 1834 is the poem, "Quiet from God! it cometh not to still The vast and high aspirings of the soul," from which the hymn, "Quiet from God! how blessed "its to keep," Rest in God, is supposed in M. 2, also in H.
Walsh T. B. 1364-1327. Of Livarpool periods.

Wight, F. B., 1989-1937. Of Liverpool, printer. Author of a History of Religious Persecution; brother of Rev. Rlohard Wright, Unitarian missionary. B. includes his hymn of Adorstion, "Jahovah | great and sacred name!" which first appeared anonymously in the Liverpool Reasslaw Sweet Ook., 1818.

Tatus, Eishard Vanghan, 1785-1856. A Liverpool merchant and philipthropist, author of a hymn on The Senatt of Afficient, "O God, to these my sinking sont," in M. 1, and the enlarged ed. of W. J. Fox a Coll., 1873. [V. D. D.]

United Methodist Free Churches Hymnody. [Methodist Hymnody, § v.]

United prayers ascend to Thee. W. B. Collyer. [Family Worship.] This hymn is given in his Coll., 1812, No. 975, in 6 st. of 4 l., to be used after the Administration of Holy Baptism, in private, for the welfare of the Family; the hymn, also by Collyer, given for use "Before the Administration," being "Saviour, Father, Brother, Friend." [J. J.]

Unprofitable all and vain. C. Wesley. [Trust in God.] This is a cente composed of Na. 128, St. Mett. vi. 32; st. v., No. 126, St. Matt. vi. 80. In this form it was given in the Wes. H. Bk., 1875. [J, J,]

Uns strahlt das Licht der Ewigkeit. [Eternal Life.] In the Stollberg bei Auchen G. B., 1802, this is No. 1196 in 8 st. of 4 1. in the section entitled "Happiness of Christians in this life." In J. H. D. Zachakke's Standers der Andacht, 9th ed., Aarau, 1824, it appears as the heading of Meditation 24 in pt. ii., which is entitled "On the value of religions festivals in civic and household life. Pealm c. 1-5," and is in 5 st. This form is tr., as Behold that bright, that hallowed ray. By Mise Fry, in her Hys. of the Reformation, 1845, p. 197. Included beginning "Religion's hallowed ray," as No. 18, in J. Whittemore's Suppl. to all H. Shr. 1860.

[J. M.]

Unsar trohtin hat farsalt. [St. Peter.] Wackernagel, ii. p. 22, gives this from a Munich ma of the 9th cent, in 3 st. of 41. with the refrain "Kyrie eleyson, Christe eleyson. It has been, apparently without ground, ascribed to Otfrid (p. 674, i.). Tr. as "Onr dear Lord of grace hath given" by Miss Winkworth, 1869, p. 28. [J. M.]

Unto Him Whose Name is holy. Emily E. S. Elliott. [Praise to Christ.] Written for the German chorale, "Warum solli ich mich denn gramen," and contributed to the Additional Hymne, issued in 1866 by her father for use in St. Mark's Church, Brighton, as No. 34, in 5 st. of 6 lines, and reprinted in her Chimes for Daily Service, 1880, p. 101. St. i., ii., v., are included as No. 266 in the Irish Church Hymnal, 1878, and as No. 80 in the Psalmist, 1878, in both cases ascribed to Charlotte Elliott in error. [J. M.]

Unus bonorum fons, Deus, omnium. C. Coffin. [B. V. M.] Appeared in the Paris Brev., 1736, and in Coffin's Hymni Sacri of the same year, p. 64. In the Paris and later French Brevs, it is the hymn at 2nd Vespers on the Fenst of the Nativity and Conception of the B. V. M. Tr. as :-

O Thou sole Fountain, of all good. By I. Williams, in his Hys. ir. from the Partition Brev., 1839, p. 174. Also in the 1860 Appendix to the H. Noted, and others.

Unvail thy bosom, faithful tomb. I. Watts. [Burial.] This is the last of five odes which are appended to a letter "To Lucius, on the death of Serrus," pub. in his Reliquize Juveniles, &c., 1734. It is in 4 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Ode v. A Funeral Ode at the Interment of the Body, supposed to be sung by the Mourners." It has peased into several hymn-books in Great Britain and America

'Υπακοή. | Greek Hymnody, § xvi, 8.7

Upham, Thomas Cogswell, D.D., was b. at Durfield, New Haven, Jan. 30, 1799, and educated at Dartmouth College (1818), and at Andover (1821). Having entered the Con-gregational Ministry he became Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy at Bowdon Collego, in 1825, and retained the same to 1867. He d. at New York, April 2, 1872. His publications were numerous and included Mental Philosophy (which was long and widely used); American Cottage Life; a volume of Poems, 1852, &c. Five of his hymns are given, with accompanying dates, in Hymne and Songe of Praise, &c., N. Y., 1874, as follows:-

Fear not, poor weary one. Help in Surrow (1812).
 Happy the man who knowe. Obadience (1872).
 O Thou great Ruier of the eky. Morning (1822).
 O Thou great Teacher from the skies. Philowing

Christ (1872).
5. 'Tis thus in solitude I roum. Omnipresence (1853). These hymns are limited in their use. In 1847 Upham pub. the Life and Religious Opinions and Experiences of Madam de la Mothe Guyon... Two vols., N. Y. In this work the anonymous trs. from Madam Guyon's hymns given at p. 478, 2., are found., viz., (1) "By sufferings only can we know"; (2) "I would love Thee, God and Father"; (3) "Tis not [by] the skill of human art." There are also additional trs. of two of her hymns in the same work.

Υπὸ δώριον άρμογὰν. Εγπεκία, Βρ. of Ptolemois. [For the Family.] A sweetly beautiful and tender prayer to Christ on behalf of his wife and children. It is No. viii. of his ten hymns written at various periods of his life, and dates 375-430. The full Greek text is found in the Anth. Gracea Carm. Christ., 1871. From this Mr. Chatfield's tr. "O! 'tis no theme of common things," was made. It is in 56 l. and was first published in his Songe and Hymns, &c., 1876, p. 81. Also tr. by L. Williams, in his Thoughts in Past Years, 1852, p. 868, as "To the harmonious Dorian sound." See Greek Hymnody, § v.] [J. J.]

Upon the Gospel's sacred page. J. Bosoring. [Progress of the Gospel.] Con-tributed to Beard's Unitarian Coll. of Hys., 1837, No. 206, in 5 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Progress of Gospel truth." It was included in the 3rd ed. of the author's Matina and Vespers, 1841, p. 240, and subsequently in several hymn-books, especially in America. In the American Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 698, "On mightier wing, in loftier flight," is composed of st. ii., iv., v. (slightly altered) of this hymn.

Urbem Romuleam quis furor in-citat. Jean Baptiste de Santeüil. [St. John at the Latin Gate. ] Pub. in the 2nd ed. of his Hymni Earri et Novi, 1698, p. 32. In 1736 it was included in the revised Paris Brev for the Feast of St. John at the Latin Gate. It was repeated in later French Brows, and also in Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesius, 1888 and 1865. Tr. as:—

1. What fromey doth the city move! By W. J. Blow, in his Church Hy. & Time Bk. 1862-55.

2. Through Rome's induriate city. By R. F. Littledaie, in the People's H., 1867, with the signature "F. R." [J. J.]

Urbs beata Hierusalem, dieta pacis visio. [The Dedication of a Church.] This "rugged but fine old hymn," as Archbishop Trench calls it, is probably of the 6th or 7th cent., and is based on 1 Peter ii. 5, Rev. xxi., and Eph. ii. 20. It is found in three MSS. of the 11th cent. in the British Museum, viz.; in one of the Early English Church (Vesp. D. xii. f. 119), and in two of the Early Spanish Church (Add. 30848, f. 465; Add. 30851, f. 155b). Also in the St. Gall ms., No. 387, of the 11th cent. In the Lat. Hys. of the Anglo-Saxon Church (Surfees Society), 1851, p. 157, it is printed from the Vesp. D. xii. G. M. Dreves, in his Hymnarius Moissiacensis, 1888, p. 73, prints it from a Ms. of the 10th cent. It is also in Daniel, i. No. 219; Mone, No. 251; Wackernagel, i. No. 124; F. A. March's Lat. Hys., 1875, p. 208, &c. As it has generally been printed from comparatively recent mss. It is here given from the three lith cent. mss. noted above, viz. (a) Vesp. D. xii., (b) Add. 30848, (c) Add. 30851.

(1) " Urbs besta Hiermselem, dicta pacis visio, Quae construitor in coelo vivis ex lapidibus, Et angelis coomata ut sponasta comite,

(2) " Nova veniena e ocelo nuptiali thalamo. Praeparata ut sponsata copulatur domino, Piateas et muri ejus ex auro purissimo.

(3) " Portso niteri margaritis sdytis patentibus, Et virtute meritorum illuc introducitur Omnis qui pro Christi nomine hoc in mundo premitur.

(4) "Tonsionibus, pressuris expoliti lapides, Suisque apiantor locis per manus artificis, Disponuntur permansuri sacris aedificiis.

(5) " Angularis fundamentum lapis Ohristus missus

Qui compage parietie in utroque nectitur, Quem Sion sancta suscepit, in quo credens permanet.

(6) "Omnis illa Deo escra et dilecta civitas Plena modulis ju lande et canore jubilo, Tripum Deam unicumque cum favore praedicat.

(7) "Hoe in temple, summe Dous, exerctus adveni, Et elementi benitate precum vota suscipe, Largam benedictionem hie infunde jugiter.

(8) " Hie promereantur onnes petita accipere, Et adepta possidere cum sanctia personiter, Paradisum introire, translati in requiem.

(9) "Gloria et honor Deo usquequo altissimo, Una Patri, Filioque, inclyto Paraclito, Cui laus est et potestas, per acterna saccula."

The principal variations in these three was,

1. 1. 3. "Et angelico ornata," b. c. i. 1. 3. "ut sponsa, comitur" c. li. 1. 3. "Fortae atque muri ejus," b. c. iii. 1. 2. "liie," b. c. lii. 1. 3. "pro Christi nomen," b. c. iii. 1. 2. "liie," b. c. vi. 1. 3. "pro Christi nomen," b. c. vii. 1. 3. "liie, "b. c. vi. 1. 3. ununquoque, "s. vii. 1. 1. "Deus summe," b. c. viii. 1. "acquiere," a. ix. 1. "Deus viitus et imperium," b. ix. 1. 2. "Una Patri inolytoque Filio Paraclito," b. In b. and c. st. vi. procedes st. v. In c. there is no doxology. In the Mossone MS there is an additional st. inserted before st. vii. and prother inserted after st. viii. These are not found elsewhere, and clearly form un part of the original hymn. Otherwise the Mossone text is practically the same as the above, except in the doxology. tically the same as the above, except in the dexclogy.

A discussion has arisen as to the antiquity of sta. vii., viii., the sum of which is this :-

Dasiel, No. 219, suggests that et. vii. viii. are a later addition meant to adapt a hymn on the Heavenly Jerusalem for use on a Dedication Festival. But there does not seem to be any foundation for this idea, since these stanses are found in the cidest are; and according to his own showing there are hymns for the dedication of a Church probably as old as this (see Christic cunotorum, p. 253, ii.). He adds the statement that Martens (de Astiq. Eccie. Disciplina, p. 431), says that in a Pontifical of the 10th cent. of the diocese of Poictiers this hymn is directed to be sung at the Benediction of the hymn is directed to be sung at the Benediction of the Font on Holy Saturday. For this purpose Deniel suggests that st. vii., viii. are inappropriate: but how any one examining these stanuss can say so it pussions as see. Trench (Sacred Latin Patry, ed. 1864, p. 312), says: "The hymn coheres intimately in all its partia, and in cassing to be a hymn. In Patications Excitation it would loss its chiefest beauty. It is most truly a hymn 'of degreese' ascending from things carthly to things heavenly, and making the first to be interpretate of the last. The prevailing intention in the buildings and the dedication of a church, with the rites thereto apperianing, was to carry up man's thoughts from that Temple built with hands, which they saw, to that other built of living stones in heaven, of which this was but a weak shadow (Durandus, Hatconsle. i. 1)... This prom wincesees for its own true inspiration, in the fact that it has proved the source of manifold inspiration in circles beyond its own. gests that st. vii., viii. are inappropriate; but how any

Dr. Neak's opinion on this matter is set forth in his Mediacral Hys. 1861, p. 28. "Daniel imagines these stanzas to be a later addition. "Duniel imagines these stanzas to be a later addition, when the hymn, originally general, was adapted to die Dedication of a Church. Mr. Trench, on the contrary, will have the whole poem to be of one date: and alleges, evry truly, that this mixture of the earthly and heavenly temple is usual in hymns and sequences on a similar subject. Nevertheless, I think that Daniel is right. 1. Because there is a clear difference in the style and language of the two last and seven first stanzas. 2. Because the terration from one west to the other in cause the transition from one part to the other is so unusually abrupt. 8. Because, at the end of the sixth stanss, there is a quasi-dexclogy as if to point out that the hymn originally concluded there."

This hymn possed into many mediaeval Breviaries, always for the Dedication of a Church, and sometimes given as a whole, but often divided into two parts, with sta. v.-viii., as a separate hymn, beginning Angularis tunds-mentum. So in the older Roman (Venico, 1478), Paris of 1643 and 1786 (in both cases beginning Urbs Jerusalem besta), Sarum, York, Aberdeen, and others. Occasionally st. vii., viii, are given esparately as Hos in templo, summe Deus.

- 2. In the revised Roman Brev., 1632, it is recast, very much to its disadvantage, as follows :-
- "Coalestia urba Jerusalem, Beata pacis vialo, Quas celsa de viventibus Saxie ad astra tollecis, Sporsacque ritu cingeris Mille angelorum millibus.
- (2) " O corte musta prospera, Dotata Patris gioria, Respersa Sponei gratia, Regina formosissima Christo Jugata principi Coell corusca civitas.
- (3) "Hic margaritis emicant, Patentque cunctis ostia: Virtute namque praevia Mortalis Illuc ducitur, Amore Christi percitus Tormenta quisquis sustinet.
- (4) "Scalpri salubris ictibus, Et tunsione plutima, Fabri polita malleo Hanc saxa molem construmt, Aptisque juncta nexibus Locantur la fastigio.
- (6) "Alto er Olympi vertice Summi Parentis Filius, Cen monte descetus lapis Terras in imas decidens, Domus supernae, et infimee Utrumque junxit angulum.
- (6) "Sed illa sedes cocilium Samper resultat laudibus, Deumqua trinum et unicum Jugi canore praedicat: Illi canentes jungimur Almae Stonia semult.
- (1) "Haec templa, Rex coelestium, Imple benigno lumine; Huc o rogatus adveni, Piebisque vota suscipe Et nostra corda fugiter Perfunde coell gratia.
- (8) "Hie impetrent fidelium Vocas precesque supplicum Domus bestas munera, Partisque donis gandeant: Donec soluti corpore Sedes bestas impleant.
- (9) "Decus Parenti debitum Sit usquequaque altissimo, Natoque Patris unico, Et inclyto Paractito, Cui laus, potestas, gioria, Asterna sit per saecula."

This form is in Daniel, i. No. 219, Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1838 and 1865, &c. Both in the Hymni Breviarii Romani, Rome, 1629 (p. 87), and in the Breviary of 1632 the doxology is printed at the end of each part.

3. The Paris Breviary text of 1643 and 1736 differs but slightly from the original as above. The 1736 text begins thus :-

" Urbs Jerusalem benta Dicta pacis visio, Quae construitur in coelis Vivis ex lapidibus, Et ovantum coronata Angelorum agmine!"

This text is given in full in J. Chandler's Hye, of the Primitive Church, 1837, Nos. 105. 106.

- 4. Another form of the text is given in the Breviarium Metropolitanae ae primatialis ecclesiae Senonensia . . . Senonis MOCCANVI. Pars Hiemalis, p. lazaviii. as follows:---
- Urbs beats, vers pacis Visio, Jerusalem, Quanta surgis; cess aaxis Conditur viventibus; Quae polivit, base coaptat Sedibus mis Deus.
- Singulis ex margaritis Singulae portae nitent : Murus comis fulget auro, Fulget unionibus : Angularis petra Christus Fundat urbis moenia.
- Eius est sol caesus Agnus, Eius est templum Deus : Acmulantes bio Beatl, Puriores Spiritus. Laude jugi numen unum Terque sanctum concinunt,
- Undequagne sunt aperta Civitatis ostia : Quisquis ambit huc venire, Inscrique mosnibus, Ante duris hic probari Debnit laboribus.
- Sit perennis leus Perenti, Sit perennis Filio : Laux tibi, qui nectis ambos, Sit perennis, Spiritus : Chrisma cujus nos inungeus, Viva templa consecrat,"

This is the text to which Dr. Neals refers in his Mediaeval Hys., 1851 and 1867, as:

"There is in the Paris Braviary, a rifacimento of this hymn; very inferior, it is true, to the original, but much superior to the Roman reform."

It is however an error to call this the Paris Brev. text, as it is neither in the Paris Brev. of 1643, 1736, nor 1778. This form has been aseribed to Sebastian Beanault (p. 138, ii.), many of whose hymns are included in the Sens Brev. of 1728. [J. M.)

The translations of the various forms of this hymu are:

i. Original Text: (i.) Urbs beata Hierusalem ; (ii.) Angularis fundamentum.

- L. (a.) Blessed city, heavenly Salem, Vision dear of peace and love, &c. Pt. i. (b.) Christ is made the sure Foundation. Pt. ii.
- By J. M. Nesle. This was given as one hymn in Mediacoal Hys., 1851, but in the H. Noted, 1852, it was revised and divided into two parts as above (Nos. 43, 44). The ir. as thus divided was given in the Salisbury H. Bh., 1857, and in H. A. & M., 1861, with alterations in each case. Dr. Neale's comment on some of these alterations in the 3rd ed. of his Mediacoal Hys., 1867. p. 22, is :-
- "This hymn, divided as in the Breviary, after the fourth verse, was inserted, with some corrections, in the Hymnol Noted. Thence, with a good many alterations, it was copied in the Serven Hymnol [Satirbary H. Bk., 1857]; one of these changes seems true and happy: v.

Who, the two walls underlying, Bound in each, binds both in one.

In Hymns Ancient and Modern it is very slightly attend: and some of the changes can hardly be thought improvements, e.g., 'Thither faithful souls do soar.' [Neale 'Thither faithful souls may soar']. It is curious to observe how both one and the other soften the second line of the second verse: [Neale 'Ready for the nuptial bed '] the Sarum has:—

Grace and glory round her shed.'
Hymna Ancient and Modern (much better)—

The second part of the translation, 'Christ is made the sere Foundation,' has been adopted as a dedication hymn with so much general favour, that it would be unthankful not to mention the fact."

Amongst those collections which include both parts of this tr. as in the H. Noted, but giving in almost every instance variations, chiefly from H. A. & M., are Pott's Hymns, &c., 1861; Kennedy, 1863; People's H., 1867; Surum, 1868; the Hymnary, 1872; Thring's Coll., 1882, and several others in G. Britain and America. There are also a few collections which take only Pt. i., and others, greater in number, Pt. ii. There are centes also from both parts in C. U., beginning with the opening line of Pt. i., as in the Parish H. Bk., 1863-75; the Hy. Comp., and others. The position taken by Dr. Neale's tr. of this hymn is thus prominent and important. In popularity and extensiveness of use it is unanproached by any other.

2. (a.) Happy city, boly Salom. Pt. i.

- (b.) Christ, the key-stene of the corner. Pt. ii. By W. J. Blew, in his Ch. Hy. and Tune Bh., 1852-55, H. Sessons, 1, 2, and Rice's Sci. from the same, 1870, Nos 114, 115.
  - 3. (a.) A bleet city is Jerusalem, Pt. i,
    - (b.) Ohrist is laid the sure Foundation. Christ is the tried [And the precious], &c. Pt. iî.

These renderings in the English Hymnal, 1856 and 1861, are by the editor, J. A. Johnston, based upon Dr. Neale, as above.

- 4. (a.) Bisssed City, Heavenly Salom, Peaceful vision, &c. Pt. i.
- (b.) Deeply laid a sure Foundation. Pt. ii. By Archbishop Benson, tr. at Rugby, and used at the Dedication of Wellington College Chapel, July 16, 1863. It had previously appeared in the Wellington College H. Bk., 1860. It is also given in the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871.
  - 5. (a.) Blossed Salem, long expected. Pt. i.
  - (5.) Christ is laid the sure Foundation, Christ the Head, &o. Pt. ii.
- By W. Mercer, in the Oxford ed. of his Church Featter and H. Bk., 1864.
  - 6. (a.) Blossed City, Heavenly Salem, Vision fair of peace and rest. Pt. l.
    - (5.) Christ is laid the sure Poundation, Cornerstane fram, &c. Pt. ii.
- By R. C. Singleton, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868 and 1871.
- 7. Built on Christ, the firm Youndstion. Pt. ii. Apon, in the Ohio Evang. Listheran Hyl., 1880.

Other tra. are:

- 1. Jermalem O cittle blest, That of peace, &c. Pri-
- mer. 1599. 2. Jerusalem, that place divine, The vision, &c. Primer. 1615.
  3. God bath tald the sure Foundation, Pt. II. A. Z.
- 1851
- 4. Blessed City, holy Salem, Vision fair, &c. J. D. tambers. 1857. In full.
- 4. Bleased City, holy Salem, Vision fair, &c. J. D. Chassbers. 1857. In full. 5. (a) O Jerusalem, the blow'd. Pt. 1. (b) Christ the Corner-stone is made, Pt. 11. J. W. Hessett. 1859. 6. Vision's peaceful consumation. H. Eymatton. 1862. 7. Bleased City, holy Salem, Home of peace, &c. H. H. B., in Lyra Mystica. 1865. In part only. 3. Hall Jerusalem the bleased, peaceful city, vision dans. D. T. Morgon. 1871 and 1880. In full.
- ii. The Roman Breviary Text: (i.) Coelestis urbs Jerusalem ; (ii.) Alto ex Olympi vertice.
  - 1. (c.) City of heaven, Jerusalem. Pt. i.
    - (b.) From loftiest peak of heavenly light. Pt, ii,

By W. J. Copeland, in his Hys. for the Week, &c., 1848, p. 133. In 1850 pt. i. was given in Stretton's Church Hys. In Johnston's English Hyl., 1856, both parts are altered as, (1) "Celestial seat, Jerusalem," (2) "Christ for the Corner-stone is giv'n."

- 2. (a.) Jerusalem, then city blest. Pt. 1.
- (b.) From highest beaven, the Father's Son.

p. 225, and his Hys. and Poems, 1873, p. 119. This tr. passed into Murray's Hymnal, 1852, and

3. Thou heavenly, new Jerusalem. Pt. i. By W. J. Irons, in the H. Noted, 1852, No. 41. This was repeated in Dr. Irons's Hymns, 1866, slightly altered in his Ps. & Hymns, 1873-75, and in several other collections.

4. City of peace, Jerusalem. Pt. i. Anon, in the Hyl. for the Use of St. John the Econgelist. Abordeen, 1870.

Other tra. are :

 Jerusalem, Celestial place. Primer. 1686.
 (a) Hierusalem whose Heavinly Misn (Pt. 1.). 1706.

3, (b) From high Olympus Top the Son (Pt. II.). Prin

4. Jerusalem, whose Name contains. Evening Office.

5. (a) City of heaven, Jerusalem (Pt. i.), A. J. B. How pe. 1844. In part only.

6. Promised home of peace and love (Pt. i.). R. Comp.

bell. 1880.
7. (a) Jerusalem, thou city grand (Pt. f.). By T. J.
Potter, in the Catholic Prolonist, 1888.

8. (a) Celestial City, Salem blest (Pt. 1.). (b) From lefty summit of high beaven (Pt. 11.). J. Wallace. 1874.

iil. The Paris Breviary Text, 1736 : (i.) Urbs Jerusalem beata ; (ii.) Angularis fundamentum.

1. (a.) The bely Jerusalam. Pt. i.
(b.) Christ is set the Corner-stone. Pt. ii.
By I. Williams. Of these Pt. i. was given in the British Magazine, Aug. 1833, and Pt. ii. in the same, July 1837 (vol. xii. p. 80), and both parts were included in Williams's Hys. tr. from the Parisian Breviary, 1839, p. 333.

1. (a.) O Gity of our God. Pt. i.

(b.) Christ is our Corner-stone, On Him alone we build. Pt. ii.

By J. Chaudler, in his Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, p. 119: Pt. i. is very rarely used, but Pt. ii. is the most popular of any tr. of that portion of the hymn, and is in very extensive use in G. Britain and America. It sometimes begins, "O Christ, our Corner-Stone." The hymn "Here, Gracious God, do Thou," in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1840 and 1873, is from this ir.. beginning with st. iii.

3. 0 heavenly Queen, high Salem. Pt. i. By W. J. Blew, in his Church Hy. and Tune Bk., 1852-55, H. Seasons, 53, and again in Rice's Sel. from the same, 1870, No. 126.

iv. The Sens Breviary Text, 1726; Urbs

beata, vera pacie.

A fr. of this text, by A. R. Thompson, is given in Duffield's Latin Hymn-writers, 1889, as, "Blessed city vision true."

Ut jucundas cervus undas, aestuans desiderat. Bernard of Cluny (?). [B. V. M.] This is the opening of a poem, or rather cycle of poems or hymns, known as the Marials. Up to 1600 it generally passed under the name of Bernard or of St. Bernard, though it was also ascribed to St. Thomas of Aquino (d. 1274); to Hildebert, archbishop of Tours (d. 1134), and to others. After 1600 it (or rather a cento from it beginning "Omni die die Mariae") passed current under the name of St. Casimir of Poland (d. 1484). It has recently been ascribed to St. Anselm of Aosta, who, in 1063, was appointed Prior, and, in 1078, Abbot of Bec in Normandy; became Pt. ii. Archoishop of Canterbury in 1993; and d. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, April 12, 1109. The ascription to St. Auselm has been upheld by Father Ragey of the Marist Order, who in 1884 pub. an ed. of the full text es Sancti Anselmi Cantuariensis Archiepiscopi Mariale, &c. (London, Burns & Ostes), with a preface and introduction dated April 21, 1888. This ed. is out of print, but Father Ragey kindly presented the present writer with a copy, and also with copies of his articles on the Marials in the Annales de Philosophie Chrétienne (Paris), May and June 1883, and in the Controverse et Contemporain (Lyons), Nov. 1887. There, in the Revus des Questions historiques (Paris), Oct. 1886 and July 1887, and in the works referred to in these articles, the subject may be studied in detail. Here we can give only a brief outline of the subject, dealing (i.) with the MSS., (ii.) with the Asthornhip, and (iil.) with the Conton and Translations.

(i.) MSS. The Mariale exists in at least five use not later than 1200. Two of these are in the British Museum, viz., the Add. 21927, and the Harl. 2882.

The former of these (a Paulier apparently written for a Renedictine monastery in the province of York) contains only a portion of the text, beginning at £ 405 with the words "Ount die die Maries," and is entitled "Leas et oratio de séa Maria." This am, has sometimes been assigned to the end of the 11th cant., but the British Museum authorities, on being requested by the present writer to re-examina it, agree in considering that it is not earlier than 1175. The Barleson MS. (a complete and excellent one, apparently written in England), is dated in the Catalogue as of the 12th cent., but the similarly ellicited onelon of the British Massum authorities is that elicited opinion of the British Museum authorities is that it is not earlier than 1200.

The other three was, are in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris, viz., Lat. 2445 A., Lat. 10522, and Lat. 16565.

M. Leopold Delisle, the Principal Librarian, has kindly re-examined these, and has come to the conclusion that none of them is se early se 1145. The 2445 A is the carliest, and may possibly date soon after 1150.

The Marials is also found in a considerable variety of use of later date, in the Brit. Mus. and in various French and German libraries, but these need not here be mentioned in detail. The verse form, a variety of the trochaic catalectic tetrameter, is not earlier than about 1050.

- (ii.) Authorship.—These facts, and the other evidence adduced in the works noted above. clearly point to the conclusion that the poem was written, either in France or in England, not earlier than 1050 and not later than 1150. The possible authors are thus reduced to four, viz.: St. Anselm of Canterbury, St. Bernard of Clairvoux, Bernard of Cluny, and Hildebert of Tours. St. Thomas of Aquino (to whom it is ascribed in a 14th cent. ms., cited by Mone, if. p. 258) was only born in 1225.
- p. 256) was only born in 1229,

  (a) Hildsbert. For Hildsbert there is only the ascription in a miscellaneous as, volume of the 15th or 14th tent., formerly belonging to the monastery of St. James at Liege, and now in the Darmestadt Library (No. 2777. The text of this as,, which contains nearly the whole of the Mariate, is privated by F. W. E. Roth, in his Lat. Hymen, 1837, No. 263). The Mariate is not contained in the Benedictine ed. of Hildsbert's Opera (Paris, 1708), and M. Haurfan, who has recomity interested hundled in the study of Hildsbert, secribes it not to him, but to Bernard of Ciuny.

  (b) 8th Bernard of Cauryensy. The ascription to St.

to Bernard of Cinny.

(b) St. Bernard of Chairvaux. The ascription to St. Bernard also rests on a very slight foundation. The Bernard to whom the early Mes. escribed the Marials was clearly not the abbot of Chairvaux, but the monk of Chairy. (See M. Hauréau's articles in the Journal des Savents for 1882, reprinted as the Poèmes Lotins attribute is first Remard. Parts, 1860.)

buts a Saint Bernard, Paris, 1890.)
(c) St. Anselm of Canterbury. The principal specific reasons (beyond the general contention that it harmonises in sentiment and expression with St. Aussim's character, and with his works), which led Ragey to think that it was by blm are :---

(1) The fact of its being in very early was. But, as shown above, no ms. of it is as early as 1140, and consequently it cannot be adjudged from Bernard of Cluny sequently it cannot be adjudged from Bernard of Cleny on that ground. (3) The fervour of its devotion to the B, V, M. But St. Anselm was not alone in his devotion to her. (3) The frequent resemblances to passages in the works undoubtedly by St. Anselm. In the first ed. of the Agricule these parallel passages are printed at the foot of the pages containing the corresponding portions of the text. But the parallels are not very close, and even if they were closer they might be accounted for otherwise, for it is closely by certain that. Expand had access to the for it is tolerably certain that Bernard had access, in the for it is tolerably certain that Bernam has access, in the library at Cluny, to at least a fairly complete set of the works of so well-known an ecclesiastic and theologian as St. Anseim. (4) The fact that in the Barl. MS. 2882 it occurs in a section which otherwise contains nothing but nieces which are undoubtedly by St. Anselm. This is places which are undooutedly by St. Amelin. This is not a very conclusive argument, especially as the other places are all in prose. (5) Certain allusions which Ragey thinks were meant to refer to contemporary events in England, under the rule of William Engla (1078-1109). The allusions are however not distinct enough to found an argument upon.

To the present writer the great difficulties in the way of ascribing the Mariale to St. Anselm are firstly that of accreting the mercure to be. Abecim are many time.

F. Bagey relies too much on subjective evidence, and secondly that the other poems ascribed to him are of such annual importance, and nowhere show any evidence of postical talent or of the power to compose such a long poem in so difficult a metre.

The Muricle had indeed been ascribed to St. Anselm The Mariate had indeed been secribed to St. Anselm much earlier than by Father Ragoy, viz., in a sa. of about the end of the 13th cent., now in the Bibl. Not. at Paris (Lat. 1849s, f. 343), where it is entitled "Meditationes Anselmi de besta Virgine." But the mere factor its appearance with that title in this solitary, and not very ancient, Man., has not convinced M. Hurwan (1850, 87) that it is really by St. Anselm, nor is the present writer inclined to regard it as conclusive evidence of his authorable.

withouth of films. The carliest us. of the poem now known is the Lat. 3445 A. at Paris, written circa 1150. Here it is soutiled "Invocatio divinas Saptentias facts a Bernardo in laudem monacho perpetus Virginis." The cpithet monachus is evidently meant to point to Bernard of Cluny, for long before 1180 St. Bernard, from a simple monk, had become Abbot of Clair-venz. The scription to Bernard is found in various other of the early Mas. As time went on and the fame of St. Bernard of Clairvaux increased, while the name of Bernard of Cluny was forgotten, we find the mes. ascribe the Mariale distinctly to St. Bernard. So in two mas. of the Markate distinctly to St. Bernard. So in two mas. of the 14th cani., written in France, and now in the Brit. Mus. (Reg. T A. vi., and Reg. 8 H.1), the author is styled "Bernardus doctor," and in a ms. of the 15th cznt., now also in the Belt. Mus. (Add. 30958, f. 3636), the poems are styled "Crationes saugit Bernard devoké doctoris," and sppointed for the Octave of the Assump-tion of the B. V. M.

To show the structure of the poem we print here the opening of its best-known part:

"Omul die, die Marias, mes, laudes, antera; Kjus festa, ejus gesta cois epiendidinsima. Contemplare, et mirare ejus calsitudinsem; Die Salicem Genitricem, die Beatam Virginem."

On comparing his with the De contempts musuic (pp. 137, ii. and 533, ii. ), which is the undoubted work of Bernard of Cluny, we see in both an equal mastery of a difficult and somewhat similar metre. The poet who could write the one was certainly capable of writing the other. Whatever may be the theological prepossemions of the critic it is altogether unfair to deny that the De contempts and the Hartale are both the work of a firstrate poet, and it is idle to depreciate the De contempts in rate post, and it is tills to depreciate the De contempts in order to exait the Mariads. The De contempts indeed contains much that might well have been spared, but the first part, for hundreds of lines, has in its way nothing to equal it in beauty in the whole range of Latin sacred poetry. If the De contempts may be accused of want of progress and of eddying round its subject, then this is precisely what may justly be said of the extent.

Therefore, on the grounds of the early ascription to Bernard of Cluny, of the fact that no Mos. can be found which are sufficiently early to disprove the ascription to him, and of his talents as a post and master of Latin verse, we incline to regard the Mariote as his. St. Anselm was indeed a distinguished theologian and ecclesisatic, but we have really no reason to regard him as a poet of any merit.

(iii.) Centos and Translations. The complete text of the poem is, in Ragey's edition, arranged in 15 parts, viz. a Processium, a Praevia Meditatio, and 13 Hymns. It is not necessary however to print the first lines of these as Ragey's 2nd ed. (Tournay: Desclee, Lefebvre & Co., 1885) is easily accessible, as well as cheap, and very prettily printed. Here we give only the beginnings of the different forms or centes which we have noticed. adding the page references to Ragoy's 1885 cd. 'These forms and centos are:—

- i. Jesse proies, pelle moles. p. 104.
  ii. Jesse Christe, per quem iste. p. 123.
  iii. Jesu Verbun, qui superbum. p. 170.
  iv. Lingsa mea, die trophaea. p. 14
  v. Lux sanctorum, spes lapsorum. p. 37.
  vi. O felicem gendiricem. p. 33.
  vii. O Maria, vitas via. p. 107.
  viii. O Maria, vitas via. p. 107.
  viii. O mut die, die Marias. p. 16.
  ix. Pulchra tota, sine nota. p. 28.
  x. Splendor Patris, factor Matris. p. 44.
  xi. Ut jucundas cervus undes. p. 3.

Of these Nos. i., ii., iii., v., vii., x. are given by Mone (Nos. 566-571) from various mes. of the 14th and 15th cent., and seem to have been meant for use at private devotions. other forms may be here noted somewhat more fully, viz. :-

iv. Lingua mee, die trophaes virginis puerperse. A cento beginning thus was tr. as :-

0 my tongue, the praise and honours. By T. I. Ball for the 1863 Appx. to the H. Noted, No. 205. This is repeated in the Office H. Bk., 1889. In the St. Margarot's Hyl. (East Grinstead), 1875, it is in two parts, the second beginning "O thou ever pure, yet fruitful."

vi. O felicem genitricem, oujus sacra viscera. This is the only portion of the poem which seems to have come into public use in Pre-Reformation times. It is included in various Missals of the 15th and 16th cent., such as the Lübeck, c. 1480; the Trier, c. 1490; the Prag of 1507; the Naumburg of 1517, and others. Also in Wackernagol, i. p. 192; Daniel, ii., p. 205; Kehrein, No. 315, &c. It is tr. as:-

Blessed Mother o'er all other. By A. D. Wackerbarth, in his Lyra Ecclesiastica, 1842, p. 27.

viii. Omni die, die Mariae, mea, laudes, anima. The popular form of this is the cente made from the poem by St. Casimir of Poland (b. 1458, d. 1484). A Ms. copy of this arrangement is said to have been found in his grave when that was opened in 1604; and in the 17th cent., and indeed till recently, he was generally thought to be its author. It is given in his life in the Bollandist Acta Sanctorum (1668), for March 4; in the Parnassus Marianus, Douay, 1624, p. 364; in J. M. Horst's Paradisus animae Christianae, Cologne, 1630, p. 500 (1644, p. 462); in Daniel, ii. p. 372, &c. Various tre. of it are included in German Roman Catholic hymn-books from 1613 on, it was tr. into French at least as early as 1630, and there are also trs. in Italian, Spanish, Polish, Hungarian, &c. It has also been to into English as ;-

