On his release more than a year ago, Ambassador Wanta decided to retrace his financial steps and repatriate the trillions, as he was legally declared legal trustor of the massive amount of money.

In June, as reported in the Arctic Beacon, he entered into an agreement to repatriate $4.5 trillion with the money to be used for the betterment of the American economy while, at the same time, revealing how the powers that be have been scamming the American people and stealing trillions since the end of the Cold War, money used to fuel the New World Order evil agenda.

Bust since June, according to Wanta, the Bush administration has illegally withheld the money, saying it will release it "when we are God Damn ready."

So, that is where the story sits now, as nothing has changed from the White House's arrogant statement of Sept. 14, according to Wanta and Michael C. Cottrell, treasurer of the financial group formed by Wanta to distribute the trillions to the American people.

However, although nothing has changed, it is necessary with such delays to take this important story to the next level by asking the following important questions based on the fact Wanta and Cottrell appear to be fully credible but based on the fact that the Vatican and the Jesuit Order can never be trusted, especially when it comes to trillions of dollars and a Federal Reserve banking system illegally manipulated by the temporal minions of the Vatican.

Although Wanta and Cottrell appear to be 100 percent legitimate as based on court and settlement documents as well as countless hours of testimony, the question must be asked: Are they being used and manipulated by the Vatican in order to further destabilize the American economy and further debase the credibility of this country since the Vatican has no intention of releasing the trillions while, at the same time, further destroying the full faith and credit of this country?

Further, why would they let Wanta out of jail in the first place unless they wanted to use him for what they considered a greater purpose by baiting the hook with trillions of dollars and knowing full-well they had total control and would never - ever - release the money, using it all along for their evil purposes while accelerating the financial downfall of this country.

Simply put, this story must be taken to the next level - the level where the Jesuits and Vatican reside since it must be questioned whether they have again masterminded another diabolical scheme to steal trillions by using Wanta and Cottrell as patsies and, at the same time, bringing down the U.S. economy which is their main goal in the first place.

Further, ever since this editor took on the challenge of exposing the Vatican and the Jesuit Order, he has been subject to threats and constant character attacks. Although they have not worked, the Wanta story could be just another way, if the right Jesuit trump card falls, to discredit the credibility of this lone reporter who has decided to tackle this story.

However, by exposing this possible duplicity and future "set-up" this now never can happen because the two important questions have now been addressed in an effort to "get at the full truth and nothing but the truth so help me God."

Again, the main questions addressed at the next level of this story are:

Are Wanta and Cottrell being duped and used as patsies while the Jesuits reach further their final goal of financial destruction in the U.S.? And:

Is this editor being set-up by a Jesuit "discrediting campaign" if the trillions are never released and Wanta is made out by Jesuit deceit to be something more than a truth teller?

Whatever they try, the "cat has been let out of the bag", so to speak, as it can be assured by this editor that this story may even go to further levels truth, revealing things that none of us ever thought possible.

So, as they say, let the trillion dollar chips fall where they may and let the truth, no matter how damning and revealing also fall in the proper order that Jesus not Lucifer intended.

Title: Keith Green and his untimely death

Description: exposed false teaching of Catholicism

tlthe5th - September 26, 2006 09:37 PM (GMT)

Keith Green (who was Jewish) was the biggest name in Christian music at the time of his death at age 28. The accident report mentions an over loaded plane and under qualified pilot but there are some facts about Keith Green that would make me very suspicious about the official story of his death.

1. Keith Green was writing literature against the Catholic Church. Being the ecumenical nature of the Catholic church since Vatican II council this testimony by the biggest name in Christian music pointing out occult rituals in the catholic 'church' and other events like the Council of Trent and what was accomplished at Vatican II council was detrimental to the plans of the Catholic 'church'.

<http://www.geocities.com/tlthe5th/green.html> -- Link to short book called "Catholic Chronicles" By Keith Green

2. There is a Testimony of a woman who was Ex CIA and claimed to have been a satanic high priestess who says, "We Killed Keith Green" and why. She stated it was because Keith was winning more of a following than any of their satanic Rock and Roll bands which was true but I would be suspicious that Jesuits were part of her Satanic cult that maybe she didn't even know about.

http://www.geocities.com/ron_garon/062901.htm -- Ex CIA, High Satanic Priestess Testimony saying "We killed Keith Green" (Scroll down the page, although the first half is interesting as well.)

Finally, I have to emphasize again the damage Keith Greens Tracts against the catholic church was doing to the Vaticans ecumenical movement.

Since Keith's death it seems an adversarial force took over his ministry. Here is a letter someone wrote to Keith's ministry about wanting his anti catholic tracts to distribute and Keith Green ministrys answer saying they feel it is no longer desired by the Lord to continue distributing the literature that exposes the Vatican which would be a lie because the Bible itself specifically pinpoints Rome as the "Great Whore".

Pope must decide if he wants Cherie as adviser

By Oliver Duff

Published: 09 November 2006

She was granted a surprise audience with the Pope only earlier this year. Now Pandora learns that moves are afoot from within the Holy See to reinforce Cherie Booth QC's links to the Vatican.

A senior Vatican insider discloses that the Prime Minister's other half, a devout Roman Catholic, has been discreetly approached about joining the prestigious Pontifical Academy Of Social Sciences, to sit as one of its resident academicians, advising the church on social and legal issues.

Her appointment to the institution, established 12 years ago, still requires the approval of the Holy Father, whom she met for a brief 10-minute audience back in April. (She proceeded to breach Vatican protocol in the process, by arriving dressed in white rather than the required black.)

Mrs Blair had a Catholic education before gaining a First Class law degree, topping her Bar class. She is a founding member of London's Matrix Chambers, specialist in human rights law.

"With her human rights experience, she could play an important role," the source says. She already has links with the Academy, having attended a meeting in Rome in the spring.

The Academy plays an important role when it comes to the church's attitude towards social issues of the day. It can be asked to advise on Papal policy.

A spokesman for the Academy is in a less than talkative mood when I call. "I can't say anything about it!" he insists, downing the receiver in a hurry.

Title: Vatican urges Israel to ban Jerusalem gay parade

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 10, 2006 12:08 AM (GMT)

Once again the Vatican uses this old veiling trick of theirs. They forget to tell you how through control of their Sovereign Military of Malta that they created the Council on Foreign Relations. What they also conveniently forget to tell the people that the Council on Foreign Relations rules over Israel as well as the U.S and how its all run by the Maltese Round Table in New York headed by Archbishop Edward Michael Egan. They also conveniently forget to tell you their control of Jerusalem thanks to Jesuit trained/educated and Vatican Spy Shimon Peres. Now back to the subject below, who pushes this Gayism in the region then? Its the Jerusalem Open House! Now who funds this organisation exactly? THE COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS. Once again the Vatican uses their veils to cover up what their real agenda and goings on are. -2tuff

Vatican urges Israel to ban Jerusalem gay parade

By Robin Pomeroy

Reuters

Wednesday, November 8, 2006; 2:36 PM

<http://www.rawstory.com/showoutarticle.php...php%3Fid%3D9448>

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) - The Vatican has condemned a gay pride parade due to be held in Jerusalem on Friday as offensive to religious believers and urged Israeli authorities to stop it taking place.

"It is with bitterness that we have learned that the day after tomorrow, November 10, 2006, there is scheduled in Jerusalem a so-called 'gay pride parade'," the Vatican said in a statement issued on Wednesday.

In a letter to Israel's Foreign Ministry, the Vatican urged authorities to withdraw permission for the parade which is expected to attract up to 8,000 people.

"The Holy See has reiterated on many occasions that the right to freedom of expression, sanctioned by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, is subject to just limits, in particular when the exercise of this right would offend the religious sentiments of believers," the letter said.

"It is clear that the gay parade scheduled to take place in Jerusalem will prove offensive to the great majority of Jews, Muslims and Christians, given the sacred character of the City of Jerusalem."

Gay pride festivals have been held each year in Jerusalem since 2001, but this year's, bigger and with international participation, has caused greater outrage than before.

Ultra-Orthodox Jews, dressed in black suits and hats, have protested in the city, burning tires and pelting the police with stones. Organizers say the parade will promote understanding, tolerance and open-mindedness.

The Vatican has often criticized the rise of gay rights as a potential threat to the traditional model of the family.

In June, it said gay marriage, abortion, lesbians wanting to bear children and a host of other practices it saw as threats to the traditional family, were signs of "the eclipse of God."

Avles - November 10, 2006 05:38 PM (GMT)

Who is the funder of JOH? It is the FORD FOUNDATION.
Take note that Henry Ford was anti-semite or anti-jewish.

See the pdf-book "The International Jew" author Henry Ford:

<http://www.aaargh.com.mx/fran/livres2/FORD.pdf>

<http://www.aaargh.com.mx/engl/engl.html>

So a foundation which carries his name MANIPULATE Israel and the people in it using the sexual sphere.

Just in the same manner like the anti Jewish propaganda always said about the Jews.

Funny!

So now, WHO IS THE REAL "JEWS" IN THIS PICTURE?

Israel is a mere puppet of the Council for Foreign Relations. His President is Joseph O'Hare, Fourth degree Jesuit and Knight of Malta.... friend of Larry "Give-me-my-Boeing" Silverstein and submitted to the Universal Monarch in Rome and to Hans Peter.

It All Begins With a Ford

by Barry Chamish

November 2, 2006

Once again I'm forced to "self-opinionation." I asked several writers to trace the Nov. 10 Jerusalem Gay Parade to its highest level. Let's find out who is behind the society-wrecking plot.

But everyone was much too busy to seek the facts. Why seek facts when the issue is so much better? "The Faggots Are Going To Corrupt Jerusalem."

A point of view that really gets to your prejudices. A brand new hatred to make you forget all your other hatreds. And everyone is rushing into the vacuum to help destroy their people.

The religious of Israel are thoroughly persecuted by their government.

They are blatant victims of raw secular hatred. Their lifestyle is brutally insulted and disrupted, and then their children are endlessly arrested in their defense. They feel the raw breath of Shabtai Tzvi and Yaacov Frank down their backs. Somebody knows this new faggot problem will make the religious explode in defense of Jerusalem.

The KNOWN Israeli bad guy is the Jerusalem Open House. That's as far as the experts have followed the trail. The ugly truth is the JOH is mostly funded by the cornerstone of the Council On Foreign Relations, the (Henry) Ford Foundation. This fund despises Israel and is the chief supplier of money to Israel's most vicious enemies. Recall the 1980s and Jerusalem Vice-Mayor Miron Benvenesti's endless publicity against Yesha. All funded by Ford. Without foundation funds, he faded into Jerusalem's weathered stones.

Shall we recall Ford some more?

Ford Foundation Update - Ford Money Still Being Used for Anti-Israel Activities

The funding policy of the Ford Foundation has been analyzed previously by NGO Monitor, drawing particular attention to the NGOs funded by Ford that engage in blatantly political anti-Israel activities. On 15 March 2004, NGO Monitor published an update

<http://www.ngo-monitor.org/editions/v2n07/v2n07-3.htm> to ongoing investigations of Ford's activities. Following publicity generated by NGO Monitor and the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Ford Foundation President Susan V. Berresford <http://www.ngo-monitor.org/editions/v2n04/v2n04-2.htm> initiated a review and declared that it would act to ensure that funds no longer went to "groups that promote or condone bigotry or violence, or that challenged the very existence of legitimate, sovereign states like Israel."

Ford is listed as a donor <http://www.pchrgaza.org/about/funding.htm> to the Palestinian Center for Human Rights

<http://www.ngo-monitor.org/archives/infofile.htm#center>

(PCHR), an organization analyzed

<http://www.ngo-monitor.org/editions/v2n08/v2n08-4.htm> by NGO Monitor that played a major role in the 2001 Durban conference and has demonstrated that its primary objective is the political and ideological demonization of Israel, in sharp contrast to its claims to promote universal human rights.

/ Now what does Ford get out of this parade? Well for one thing, the residents may start behaving like morons: /

<http://www.slate.com/id/2147671/>

/ Many WorldPride attendees vehemently opposed both the war and the occupation of Palestine, so at first the anti-war messages were received with interest. Rosza Levitsky, a member of Queeruption, said, "I'm here as a queer Jewish New Yorker to protest in an anti-war event and [against] the occupation on the West Bank."

A few stood near the sidewalk shouting, "1-2-3-4, we are against the war; 5-6-7-8, sodomy is great."

So what is the Jerusalem Open House? From the New Israel Fund's shocking website:

* *Jerusalem Open House *

Support for the "Arab Outreach Initiative" of the Jerusalem Open House, addressing the specific needs of Palestinian Israeli lesbian, gay men, bisexual, and trans-gendered people

And why does Ford support the JOH?

* Ford Israel Fund

* http://www.nif.org/content.cfm?cat_id=1449&currbody=1

The Ford Foundation Israel Fund is a Donor Advised Fund established in 2003 by the Ford Foundation at the New Israel Fund. The Ford Israel Fund seeks to promote peace and social justice in Israel and focuses its grant making within three areas:

* Promoting civil rights and human rights in Israel. Expanding the scope and extent of legal protection of basic rights, while also strengthening constituencies working to advance these protections.

* Promoting equity and equal opportunities for the Palestinian minority within Israel. Strengthening the ability of the minority community to organize, advocate and press for changes in public policy and law to improve its status.

All the mumbo-jumbo makes JOH the ideal partner for Ford's gut-wrenching, social chaos.

TIME TO DRIVE HOMOSEXUAL
MISSIONARIES OUT OF JERUSALEM

Let's Close the "Jerusalem Open House" and Put an End to All Their 'Gay Pride' Parades

By Rabbi Yehuda Levin

Since its founding, in 1997, the Jerusalem Open House (JOH) has operated as a missionary organization, actively promoting homosexuality among Arabs, Christians, and Jews in Israel and all over the world

*The JOH is no minor player among homosexual advocacy groups. It is well-funded by the New Israel Fund, a left-wing organization that promotes secularism in all areas of Israeli society and is affiliated with the multi-billion dollar Ford Foundation in the United States.

*Since 2002, JOH has organized an annual "Jerusalem Pride" demonstration on the streets of Jerusalem. Thousands of homosexuals take this opportunity to flaunt their perversion publicly in the Holy City, > without shame. The very secular Israeli Supreme Court has supported this desecration by commanding the Jerusalem municipality to provide funding to JOH for this parade.

NEver forget that Henry Ford was a 33rd Degree Freemason. Ford and his Brothers (like Hjamar Schaat, Thomas Watson, Hitler [who is said to be of Lodge 99], King Edward VII, and others) along with the Vatican/Jesuits created the Third Reich. As many know, high level Freemasons is linked to the Jesuits. This pride thing is an example of using veils in the world as others have written.

Former High Level Illuminati Responds To Critics

Leo Zagami, the Italian aristocrat and former member of the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge, wants to begin serious global investigation of the Vatican and its secret societies controlling U.S. government.

1 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/1-Nov-2006.html>

The story about the high level Illuminati Freemason of the influential Monte Carlo P2 Lodge, who defected from its evil ranks in June, created a flurry of responses both positive and negative, indicating the article struck a responsive nerve among readers.

Leo Zagami's startling revelations about personal knowledge of Satanic worshipping in the bowels of the beast, The Vatican, as well as first hand information that Pope Benedict XVI has a 24-year-old gay lover came as a shock to many readers but solid confirmation to many others about the evil lurking behind the walls of St. Peter's Square.

"It used to be the Illuminati put on a good show with the likes of Pope John II," said Zagami. "But now they are shoving their evil right in your face, saying if you don't like it, well, too bad."

Regarding Zagami's comments made in yesterday's Arctic Beacon article and on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, one reader named Jim Mortellaro had this to say:

"Greg, it is exactly this sort of article, unfounded, without solid, undeniable factual evidence posing as truth, which creates a mindset which may not have merit. In fact, Sir, and with all due respect, true or not, infinitely more verifiable information is required for this (in my personal view) accusation.

"Dr. James S. Mortellaro, Christian, Catholic and undeniably seeking God. No matter what the accusation, it's gonna take a heck of a lot more to convince this writer."

In response to Zagami's words and Mortellaro's response, Shane Vincent commented:

"Mortellaro, you say you require "infinitely more" evidence before you will credit what Leo Zagami says. That may be true, but all Greg did was relay the information presented to him from a verifiable person who has claims that he purports to be true.

"What you could do is find flaws in the history of Leo Zagami, rather than just disregarding everything he says (because it can't be true according to your beliefs).

"Remember that the Catholic Church was different before Vatican II, when a lot of it's practices were reshaped, and that the Jesuits were banned by two different popes, only to be reinstated after the Imprisonment of Pius VII (see <http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/10687a.htm>).

"But of course if you require infinite evidence of something, then you argue that the pope was never imprisoned as well, so there really is no way to engage you in a meaningful discussion of anything, much as Galileo found out when he was faced with a similar standard."

And in response to his veracity, motives and truth seeking, Zagami on Tuesday issued this statement from his home in Norway :

"I'm really sorry first of all about my English (especially on the Radio) , I heard some complains about it and I will practice to improve more, my mother a very English/ Scottish Lady always tried to improve it but IM A ROMAN AT HEART and I prefer the accent of Ancient Rome that the one of posh Chelsea unfortunately, and I didn't get much of my Father's Sicilian (that's a pity but we still have time).

"I was born in the Gemelli Hospital in Rome (Pope's Hospital) on the 5th of March 1970 and I lived in Rome until I was 24 so my true language will always be Italian , the official language of the Vatican Illuminati by the way together with German and English.

"I'm not a conspiracy theorist or a corrupt PSYOP working against your interest to deceive you even further, I'm a simply a person like you (not an alien) who was born in a particular circumstances and has a true believe in being a genuine Knight of God serving the people not the Vatican!.

"During my many years in the various organizations representing the Illuminati and Freemasonry since 1993 I saw many things and I finally rebelled to something, most people are even scared to mention let alone leave.

"So I've just been doing all this ILLUMINATI CONFESSIONS to protect the life of me and my family first of all before they will kill me.

"And now I want to show you a reality that is very difficult to explain for me as I'm not used to deal with non initiates or profane individuals as we call you within our Illuminati circles and Masonic Lodges.

"That's why I was working at very high level, because my kind of knowledge is not for everyone in their eyes and probably most of you are not ready for it yet .But my intention is to finally bring some concrete evidence to the outside world about the end of times, and the various secret actors and Societies of this insane play before 2012. This plan will help the true Messiah come forward to sort thing out once and for all and establish the real Kingdom of God.

"You are free to believe what you want of my world, me I personally believe in God and his Angels and that's about it , but I also know the legion of Satan very well and its about time to wake up and fight this great evil now completely taking control of the planet you are all living in, there are evil 'Jinns' everywhere but you are made blind by deception and you like to think you are free...poor innocent souls..

"Don't waste your time with to much theory about this or this other Secret Society WE DONT HAVE TIME and simply stand up and SAY:

"I FINALY WANT JUSTICE IN THE WORLD AND I WANT IMMEDIATELY ALL EXISTING SECRET SOCIETIES TO DISCLOSE "THEIR SECRETS NOW TO A GLOBAL INVESTIGATIVE COMMISSION FOR A DETAILED AND COMPRENSIVE STUDY OF REAL HISTORY (NOT THE FAIRY TALES WE GET AT SCHOOLS OR AT CORRUPT UNIVERSITIES AROUND THE WORLD), THIS SO WE CAN FINALY HAVE A FREE PLANET AND A FREE UNITED NATIONS OF GOD NOT OF SATAN AFTER BRINGING THE EVIL BRETHERN TO JUSTICE. AND I'M READY TO DIE FOR THIS IDEAL AND YOU?

ARE YOU READY TO DIE FOR GOD AND YOUR BELIEVE IN A POSITIVE CHANGE FOR THE WORLD OR ARE YOU ALL A BUNCH OF COWARDS IN THE HANDS OF THE DEVIL, JUST TALKING AND TALKING WITH NO SENSE OF REALITY . MAYBE EVEN READY TO GO OUT AND GRAB A DVD OR GO TO THE CINEMA FOR MORE BRAINWASHING FROM MK-ULTRA NAZI HQ'S AFTER A GOOD CONSPIRACY CENTRAL EVENING.

Well let's just mention a couple of Prophecies:

"The trees will not bear the usual quantity of fruit, fisheries will become unproductive and the earth will not yield its usual abundance. Inclement weather and famine will come" ...(St. Columbcille AD 597)

" Now I see that God willll punish man with a severity that has not been used since the Flood". (Third Secret of Fatima 1917) and the list goes on also in all the other religions...
KALI YUGA LAST FAZE!

"It's a difficult task but that's my aim as I am probably the last idealist in the Illuminati , do you think that a guy like me will get out of the Monte Carlo Lodge of the P2 without a plan to fight these idiots...well you are very wrong indeed my dear friends.

"We are used to Mind Control millions of people in the Illuminati with no mercy for the people bellow, and that's done for the usual Jesuits and their Zionist friends, now instead I want to work for you out there, the poor and the innocent , who don't even imagine what's really going on in the evil illuminati network around the world before we all trapped by Satanic New World Order.

"In regards to the connections of each group involved in the NWO starting with the Rotary, then the Freemasons ending with the illuminati and the Knights of Malta I can simply say they are all in it for GLOBAL MANIPULATION and the sales of MORE WEAPONS, MORE DRUGS , AND GENERALLY SPEAKING MORE DIABOLICAL NONSENSE FRON SATAN HIMSELF IN ORDER TO SELL MORE PRODUCTS WITH NO REAL VALUE IN THE EYES OF GOD.

"From the Muslim fundamentalist to the Scientology members, THESE MOVES ARE ALL PILOTED BY THE VATICAN and their Knights of Malta.

"So after saying all this I'm also sorry to have sent on the Conspiracy Forums at the beginning some of the material on my site in order to promote it and save my life, but I did it with good intentions so I hope you will forgive me one day for some Propaganda, after all that was my job at the Propaganda 2 HQ'S in Monte Carlo.

"For all those Satanists out there still involved with the New World Order, well I'm not going to give up until I personally see you all burning in hell on judgment day when even Satan will let you down."

Legit or not, we'll find out in time. But for now, he sure is stepping on somebody's toes.

tkra - November 9, 2006 01:47 AM (GMT)

He's stepping on the toes of dirty stinky cult leaders who would have no power if their members would get a life and tell them to take a hike.

The thing that bothers me most about the "illuminati" is that people generally assume that they have genuine power. They have nothing BUT the power of cult leaders, and their bread and butter is public laziness and stupidity.

Let's quit validating these illumilosers and recognize them for who and what they are.

Even Alan Watt, bless his heart calls them the "big boys" as if they are juggernauts. They're cult leaders...nothing more, and they will end up in the dog house like all cult leaders do. We the sane people simply have to speed up the process.

Leo Zagami quit for the same reason I would have quit. He doesn't like hanging around with kiddie rapers and dorks.

tkra, I agree, these 'powers that be' have only the power that we give them. It is ironic that those who detest them the most seem to give them the most power, albeit an illusion of power.

If we could all decide to not give them all that power, imagine what could happen then.

Top World Leaders Working Together To Destroy America

For freedom to survive, Americans need to view the world completely different than what's told to them in history books and on major television networks.

10 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/10-Nov-2006.html>

The world is firmly in the hands of the evil Illuminati under Vatican and Jesuit control and here are a few examples illustrating the problem facing freedom fighters in America.

First, it must be understood the New World Order leaders around the world are a tight-knit group, working together to foster war in the Middle East, leading to its destruction as well as the destruction of Israel and the United States.

To accomplish this endgame of a one world religion based in Jerusalem and a world one government under a fascist/communist network of so-called independent states, it is important that the Vatican have all the major world leaders appear to be on different sides of the fence when, in fact, they are deceptively working together to bring about the Illuminati's goal of a world consisting of a commonwealth of independent (fascist) states.

In fact for freedom in America to survive, Americans need to view the world completely different than what's told to them in history books and on major television networks. Americans need to first understand they are being deceived and have been deceived for a long time.

But looking on the bright side, it's never too late to find the truth and the truth is all the major leaders of the world's governments and religions are on the same evil New World Order team with their eventual goal to destroy freedom in America.

And unless Americans realize this now and fight back in every way possible, they will sadly realize it late when unfortunately it will be too late, as those people left after America's population is greatly reduced by New World Order violence will wake up in a completely different America, an America draped in chains and fascism which is, by the way, the Vatican's government of choice.

So, the first step is to realize that Satanic leaders like Bush, Putin, Blair, Chavez and others in the Middle East, China, Japan and North Korea are all working together to instigate war and violence, necessary for the New World plan of total control to succeed.

They, of course, put on a completely different show but that is the Vatican and Jesuit plan during this time in history which should be labeled the age of deception, especially in America.

Furthermore, it has been that way for a long time in other countries around the world, but now it is just America's turn to deal with the Vatican and Jesuit deception head on.

Besides most all governments and religions of the world already being corrupted by the satanic power emanating from the Vatican, the deceivers hiding behind the name of God use a worldwide web of Masonic Lodges to front the New World Order objectives and plans.

Listen how an Italian insider and former higher-up in the Illuminati in the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge explains how the Masonic web of Vatican deception exists in China, Russia, the Middle East and North Korea.

"Ezio Giunchiglia of Italy has been working for C.A.M.E.N (Centro Applicazioni Militari Energia Nucleare) in Pisa since 1964 and has been working for this delicate department of the Illuminati dedicated to the nuclear game for along time.

"That's why he has been chosen as the point man for the signing of a mega contract for the construction of five nuclear plants in China., working together with Italian P2 Masonic members.

"The P2 has also numerous business projects in Shanghai, being the Chinese headquarters for the Mafia and other Illuminati projects . In Shanghai the Russians and the Italians working for the USA Illuminati and the Vatican , are making a lot of big deals at the Moment, recycling black money and using it for their benefit.

"The plan, as I know it from discussions in the Monte Carlo Lodge, is to abandon the USA at one point when America falls while establishing a worldwide Chinese Illuminati Nazi-Communistic style as the only possibility.

"I know for a fact Ezio Giunchiglia said that America is finished to me many times and we should go and establish our wealth elsewhere as the Illuminati will always prevail by having the Vatican backing . That's why Italy recently sent a special group of Illuminati politicians including the Prime Minister recently to China.

"Russia, as we know since I spent a lot of time there, is all under Illuminati control and three new Freemason Grand Lodges directly controlled by the Illuminati have been established in India in the last 2 years.

"India is looked at by the Illuminati as being an important new business opportunity when America eventually is rendered helpless in all facets, including financial. As I learned, the stage is already set up for the death of an Empire, the great U.S. of A.

"And it should be noted that North Korea deals directly with the Duke of Cabinda, alias Rui Gabirro and alias Robert Lamar or alias whatever his name his...Satan! What we need is to get the American people to rebel in the name of true freedom before it is too late and we all become like China, a nation of Communist infidels!"

TYPHOON

TYPHOON is the embodiment of every perversity, the negative creation, black magic and sorcery.

THE BLACK BROTHERHOOD AKA ALUMBRADOS = THE JESUIT ORDER

Nephtys who was Typhoon's wife was the institution in which he manifests, he is an infinite diversity of ills, indescribably insidious, empowered to infect the fabric of church, the state and the population. Typhoon (Seth) lured Osiris into the arc of destruction at the time when the sun enters the house of the Scorpion. Hence we know him to be the Judas who undoes all good things. Typhoon is the power of the physical universe which seeks to destroy the spiritual values within its substances. Typhoon strikes in the 8th month, Osiris was born in the 7th month (This is why independence day is in July). Typhoon is the opposer occupying the position of the eternal negative and known as the tester and trier (the lord who is against us). He is the personification of ambition and ambition is the patron of ruin. It was ambition which set typhoon plotting for the throne of Egypt. Typhoon is the desire of the few plotted against the good of the many (Socialists).

A learned Jesuit Priest sees Typhoon as Kane & his brother Osiris as Abel. The Jesuits twist everything around. Adam Weishaupt the founder of the Illuminati was a Jesuit priest and professor of Canon Law at Ingolstadt University. Please remember to do some homework on International Maritime Admiralty Law and how it's based upon Vatican Canon Law. The Jesuit Order was founded by Ignatius Loyola in 1534. Loyola was the head of the Spanish Order known as Alumbrados which was the true and original Illuminati. Loyola was arrested by the Dominican monks under the Inquisition. Loyola used his power of association of those who had influence and power to beg an audience with the Pope. After which Loyola emerged as the head of a new order known as The Society of Jesus and he was to be now known as the Superior General of this Military Order. The Jesuits were simply the Alumbrados for he took his organisation he already controlled. The Pope gave them extreme power.

The Jesuits true agenda is to destroy the church by first combining all churches through the World Council of Churches, then creating a one world religion based on Zionism. Remember that the Jesuits follow and protect the pure Ancient Babylonian Mysteries religion. The Church/Christianity is seen as a perversion of the Mysteries religion and therefore should be destroyed. It was thanks to a Pagan Sun worshipping Roman Emperor that this perversion of the mysteries religion came about. The three destructive powers preserved to the mystery schools as the murderers of Hiram Abiff are ignorance, superstition and fear. Now folks remember that Hiram Abiff is really Jacques De Molay of the Knights Templars. Now you can understand why he's so significant whilst Hiram was so insignificant. Now also remember that ignorance is the State whilst superstition is the Church and of course fear is the population. These three are the destroyers of all things good. Christianity is the enemy and they will destroy it. The Jesuits also follow the oldest god of Earth known as EL or to most the planet Saturn known as The Black Sun, The Dark Side of the Sun, The Black Square.

More to come.....

U.S. High-Level Officials Are Only Subservient Vassals For Vatican Power and Witchcraft

Luciferian Skull and Bonesman and illegal occupant of the White House, George W. Bush, has consistently appointed Roman Catholics loyal to the Vatican-led and Jesuit controlled New World Order.

9 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/9-Nov-2006.html>

Although Americans are hoping the recent mid-term elections provided a glimmer of hope, it should be understood that the U.S. is really only a subservient vassal under the immense control of Vatican witchcraft and power.

For example, five of the eight U.S. Supreme Court Justices are Roman Catholic with their first allegiance to the Pope and his fascist agenda, not America.

Besides the corrupted judiciary, the U.S. is being used to subdue and destroy the Middle East for the Vatican, as many of America's top military leaders are Roman Catholics with their first allegiance to Rome, not America.

In fact every major political appointment made by the illegal occupant of the White House and Luciferian Skull and Bonesman, George W. Bush, has been consistently Roman Catholic.

Listen to a Vatican researcher who connects the dots among the Illuminati, the Bush administration and the Vatican, all trying to destroy America silently from within with lies and deceptions:

"Examples include Opus Dei John Roberts, Samuel Alito appointed to the Roman Rota of the U.S. empire- the U.S. Supreme Court, Gen. Peter Pace (Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff), Michael Peter Jackson to the SS of the American Reich the Department of Homeland (Romeland) Security, Alberto Gonzales to the post of U.S. Attorney General and many, many more.

"Honorary Shriner and Knight of Malta former President Ronald Reagan's administration was the most Roman Catholic but I think the Bush administration now holds that record. Former CIA director Knight of Malta George J. Tenet, Jesuit-trained at the Walsh School of Foreign Service was rewarded for his bold act of high treason with a professorship at his alma mater. Former CIA director Skull and Bonesman, Porter Goss, will be rewarded for his secretive actions. I wouldn't surprised if Georgetown or Fordham soon gives him a professorship.

"The fact that the Bush Administration is predominately Roman Catholic might be an indication that a concordat with the Unholy See was secretly signed during one of Bush's audiences with Papal Antichrist JP II. I don't know for sure.

"Recently, Luciferian Emperor Bush said that his brother Jeb became a Third Degree Knight of Columbus. And 33rd Degree Freemason, Southern Baptist devotee of the pagan goddess Gaia Al Gore is also one of them.

"It doesn't matter who the Archbishop of New York selects the same wicked Jesuit agenda will be served by his puppet in the White House who is nothing more than a slave to the Jesuits of Georgetown University, his local boss Theodore Cardinal McCarrick who was trained by Jesuits at Fordham and ordained to the Romanist priesthood by Francis Cardinal Spellman in 1958 and his national political boss Jesuit-trained Edward Cardinal Egan." There of course would be no problem with Catholics involved in government if history hasn't already proved that the Vatican and Jesuit Order's intentions have always been to destroy freedom, not advance it.

Here again listen to a Jesuit and Vatican researcher connect the dots between high military leaders trained at Jesuit-Georgetown and connected to the Knights of Malta, a powerful organization in America fronting Vatican power and dominance over U.S. foreign and domestic policy.

"According to a February 2006 speech by Georgetown president Jesuit-trained Knight of Malta and CFR member John "Jack" J. DeGioia USMC Gen. Peter Pace Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff successor of CFR member Richard Myers is a Georgetown alum having been "a member of the School of Foreign Service's Leadership Seminar 14 years ago.

"He has also come back several times to speak to current seminars as an alumnus, and has publicly lauded the program for the manner it enables connections and friendships to be made around the globe." and was awarded the President's Medal (of Georgetown University Other recipients of this award include according to DeGioia, "It has been presented to heads of state during their visits to campus, as well as three guests this evening: President Aznar, [SMOM] Secretary Nicholson in his previous role as Ambassador to the Holy See, and [Jesuit-trained] Senator Leahy. I take great pride in adding General Peter Pace, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to that distinguished list. General Pace, please step forward.

"SMOM DeGioia said, 'Our motto here at Georgetown is "Utraque Unum" or, "Both and One." It is often used to ensure we look at two sides of things-so it can sometimes refer to art and science, sometimes to body and soul, sometimes to mind and spirit. The motto of the Marine Corps is another Latin phrase: "Semper Fidelis" or, "Always Faithful.

'Would you please all join me in a two-part toast? First, to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Pete Pace. His "always faithful" service, integrity and loyalty as a joint officer and a Marine, as a scholar and a warrior, and as an officer and a gentleman are an inspiration to leaders everywhere. And second, to his wonderful wife, Lynne. Her care and mentorship of others at the USO, with at American With Disabilities, at overseas orphanages, and at so many other places of need show that her inner core values are easily the equal of any Marine, and of any Jesuit.'

According to another recent article, Gen. Pace in his speech to the John Carroll Society said

"I stand before you as someone who is appreciative... who truly does believe this award is in anticipation of future conduct," Pace said.

And the Vatican researcher wondered after hearing this speech:

"Could the true meaning of this quote be that the future betrayal of U.S. troops in the Middle East is anticipated by Jesuit-trained Pace and his masters-the Jesuits of Georgetown? I think so. He is being rewarded for his obedience to the Order and his future complicity in the destruction of the U.S. Armed Forces most of whom unknowingly serve the Papacy.

"I honestly believe Jesuit-trained Pace, NATO Supreme Commander James L. Jones, George Casey Jr., Georgetown Law dropout Donald Rumsfeld and CFR member John Abizaid will very soon at the command of their Jesuit masters and their Council on Foreign Relations betray U.S. troops in the Middle East. The Jesuit connection to this war of annihilation against the Muslim peoples and at the same time U.S. soldiers most of whom are unaware that they are cannon fodder for a Jesuit-led Papal Crusade is unmistakable. It is no coincidence that these are connected to Georgetown University, Opus Dei, and the Council on Foreign Relations.

"I suspect Pace is also a member of Opus Dei given his connection to Jesuit-trained Romanist priest Peter Vaghi of the Church of the Little Flower and chaplain of the John Carroll Society of which Peter Pace, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court John Roberts who has ties to Jesuit Georgetown having been an Adjunct Professor in London, Jesuit-trained Supreme Court Justice and Opus Dei member Antonin Scalia are members."

To illustrate how President Reagan sold out his country by re-establishing diplomatic relations with the Vatican, read this portion of Chapter 1. Subliminal Rome, from Tupper Saussy's book, Rulers of Evil.

When a Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter announced in his 1992 Time Magazine cover story that a "conspiracy" binding President Ronald Reagan and Pope John Paul II into a "secret, holy alliance" had brought about the demise of communism, at least one reader saw through the hype.

Professor Carol A. Brown of the University of Massachusetts fired off a letter to Time's editors saying,

Last week I taught my students about the separation of church and state. This week I learned that the Pope is running U.S. foreign policy. No wonder our young people are cynical about American ideals.

What Brown had learned from Carl Bernstein I had discovered for myself over several years of private investigation: the papacy really does run United States foreign policy, and always has.

Yes, Bernstein noted that the leading American players behind the Reagan/Vatican conspiracy, to a man, were "devout Roman Catholics" - namely, William Casey (Director, CIA), Richard Allen (National Security Advisor), Judge William Clark (National Security Advisor), Alexander Haig (Secretary of State), Vernon Walters (Ambassador-at-Large), and William Wilson (Ambassador to the Vatican State).

But the reporter neglected to mention that the entire Senate Foreign Relations committee was governed by Roman Catholics, as well. Specifically, Senators Joseph Biden (Subcommittee on European Affairs), Paul Sarbanes (International Economic Policy, Trade, Oceans, and Environment), Daniel P. Moynihan (Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs), John Kerry (Terrorism, Narcotics, and International Communications) and? Christopher Dodd (Western Hemisphere and Peace Corps Affairs).

Bernstein would have been wandering off-point to list the Roman Catholic leaders of American domestic policy, such as Senate majority leader George Mitchell and Speaker of the House Tom Foley. In fact, when the holy alliance story hit the stands, there was virtually no arena of federal legislative activity, according to The 1992 World Almanac of US Politics, that was not directly controlled by a Roman Catholic senator or representative. The committees and subcommittees of the United States Senate and House of Representatives governing commerce, communications and telecommunications, energy, medicine, health, education and welfare, human services, consumer protection, finance and financial institutions, transportation, labor and unemployment, hazardous materials, taxation, bank regulation, currency and monetary policy, oversight of the Federal Reserve System, commodity prices, rents services, small business administration, urban affairs, European affairs, Near Eastern & South Asian affairs, terrorism/narcotics/ international communications, international economic/trade/oceans/environmental policy, insurance, housing, community development, federal loan guarantees, economic stabilization measures (including wage and price controls), gold and precious metals transactions, agriculture, animal and forestry industries, rural issues, nutrition, price supports, Food for Peace, agricultural exports, soil conservation, irrigation, stream channelization, floodcontrol, minority enterprise, environment and pollution, appropriations, defense, foreign operations, vaccines, drug labeling and packaging, drug and alcohol abuse, inspection and certification of fish and processed food, use of vitamins and saccharin, national health insurance proposals, human services, legal services, family relations, the arts and humanities, the handicapped, and aging - in other words, virtually every aspect of secular life in America - came under the chairmanship of one of these Roman Catholic laypersons:

Frank Annunzio
Joseph Biden
Silvio Conte
Kika De la Garza
John Dingell

Christopher Dodd
Vic Fazio
James Florio
Henry Gonzalez
Thomas Harkin
Edward Kennedy
John Kerry
John LaFalce
Patrick Leahy
Charles Luken
Edward Madigan
Edward Markey
Joseph McDade
Barbara Mikulski
George Miller
Daniel Moynihan
John Murtha
Mary Rose Oakar
David Obey
Claiborne Pell
Charles Rangel
Dan Rostenkowski
or Edward Roybal.

Vatican Council II's Constitution on the Church (1964) instructs politicians to use their secular offices to advance the cause of Roman Catholicism. Catholic laypersons, "whoever they are, are called upon to expend all their energy for the growth of the Church and its continuous sanctification," and "to make the Church present and operative in those places and circumstances where only through them can it become the salt of the earth" (iv, 33).

Vatican II further instructs all Catholics "by their competence in secular disciplines and by their activity [to] vigorously contribute their effort so that ? the goods of this world may be more equitably distributed among all men, and may in their own way be conducive to universal progress in human and Christian freedom? and [to] remedy the customs and conditions of the world, if they are an inducement to sin, so that they all may be conformed to the norms of justice and may favor the practice of virtue rather than hinder it" (iv, 36).

Vatican II affirms Catholic doctrine dating back to 1302, when Pope Boniface VIII asserted that "it is absolutely necessary for the salvation of every human creature to be subject to the Roman Pontiff." This was the inspiration for the papacy to create the United States of America that materialized in 1776, by a process just as secret as the Reagan-Vatican production of Eastern Europe in 1989. What? American government Roman Catholic from the beginning?

Consider: the land known today as the District of Columbia bore the name "Rome" in 1663 property records; and the branch of the Potomac River that bordered "Rome" on the south was called "Tiber." This information was reported in the 1902 edition of the Catholic Encyclopedia's article on Daniel Carroll. The article, specifically declaring itself "of interest to Catholics" in the 1902 edition, was deleted from the New Catholic Encyclopedia (1967).

Other facts were reported in 1902 and deleted from 1967. For example, when Congress met in Washington for the first time, in November, 1800, "the only two really comfortable and imposing houses within the bounds of the city" belonged to Roman Catholics. One was Washington's first mayor, Robert Brent. The other was Brent's brother-in-law, Notley Young, a Jesuit priest.

Daniel Carroll was a Roman Catholic congressman from Maryland who signed two of America's fundamental documents, the Articles of Confederation and the United States Constitution. Carroll was a direct descendant of the Calverts, a Catholic family to whom King Charles I of England had granted Maryland as a feudal barony. Carroll had received his education at St. Omer's Jesuit College in Flanders, where young English-speaking Catholics were trained in a variety of guerrilla techniques for advancing the cause of Roman Catholicism among hostile Protestants.

In 1790, President George Washington, a Protestant, appointed Congressman Carroll to head a commission of three men to select land for the "federal city" called for in the Constitution. Of all places, the commission chose "Rome," which at the time consisted of four farms, one of which belonged to? Daniel Carroll. It was upon Carroll's farm that the new government chose to erect its most important building, the Capitol.

The American Capitol abounds with clues of its Roman origins. "Freedom," the Roman goddess whose statue crowns the dome, was created in Rome at the studio of American sculptor Thomas Crawford. We find a whole pantheon of Roman deities in the great fresco covering the dome's interior rotunda: Persephone, Ceres, Freedom, Vulcan, Mercury, even a deified George Washington. These figures were the creation of Vatican artist Constantino Brumidi.

The fact that the national Statehouse evolved as a "capitol" bespeaks Roman influence. No building can rightly be called a capitol unless it's a temple of Jupiter, the great father-god of Rome who ruled heaven with his thunderbolts and nourished the earth with his fertilizing rains. If it was a capitolium, it belonged to Jupiter and his priests.

Jupiter's mascot was the eagle, which the founding fathers made their mascot as well. A Roman eagle tops the governing idol of the House of Representatives, a forty-six-inch sterling silver and-ebony wand called a "mace." The mace is "the symbol of authority in the House." When the Sergeant-at-arms displays it before an unruly member of Congress, the mace restores order. Its position at the rostrum tells whether the House is in "committee" or in "session."

America's national motto "Annuit Coeptis" came from a prayer to Jupiter. It appears in Book IX of Virgil's epic propaganda, the Aeneid, a poem commissioned just before the birth of Christ by Caius Maecenas, the multi-billionaire power behind Augustus Caesar. The poem's objective was to fashion Rome into an imperial monarchy for which its citizens would gladly sacrifice their lives.

Fascism may be an ugly word to many, but its stately emblem is apparently offensive to no one. The emblem of fascism, a pair of them, commands the wall above and behind the speaker's rostrum in the Chamber of the House of Representatives. They're called fasces, and I can think of no reason for them to be there other than to declare the fascistic nature of American republican democracy.

A fasces is a Roman device. Actually, it originated with the ancient Etruscans, from whom the earliest Romans derived their religious jurisprudence nearly three thousand years ago. It's an axe-head whose handle is a bundle of rods tightly strapped together by a red sinew. It symbolizes the ordering of priestly functions into a single infallible sovereign, an autocrat who could require life and limb of his subjects. If the fasces is entwined with laurel, like the pair on the House wall, it signifies Caesarean military power. The Romans called this infallible sovereign Pontifex Maximus, "Supreme Bridgebuilder."

No Roman was called Pontifex Maximus until the title was given to Julius Caesar in 48 BC. Today's Pontifex Maximus is Pope John Paul II.

As we shall discover in a forthcoming chapter, John Paul does not hold that title alone. He shares it with a mysterious partner, a military man, a man holding an office that has been known for more than four centuries as "Papa Nero," the Black Pope. I shall present evidence that the House fasces represent the Black Pope, who indeed rules the world.

Later, I will develop what is sure to become a controversial hypothesis: that the Black Pope rules by divine appointment, and for the ultimate good of mankind.

Authoritative diplomatic sources of the Sede Saint have confirmed that between the two?n run an important dialogue. The Pope has received Kissinger to Castelgandolfo little weeks ago, and in the course of this talk he has asked to it to enter to make part of what the diplomatic American has defined a advisory board.. The sources Vatican have declared that c. ?tato l. appuntamento and l. informazione were public. As far as the creation of the board., they have not n?onfermato, n?mentito.

Aldil?el the institutional or less of advising, not?nusuale character for the Sede Saint to resort to the councils of external laici specialists. They are famous, as an example, the economic suggestions offers dall'ex governor of the central bank them German, Hans Tietmeyer. The same Michel Camdessus, once left the direction of the International Monetary Fund, has participated to several study conventions organizes to you from the Vatican. The Saint Padre takes advantage itself from centuries of the Papal Academy of Sciences, of which they have made part tens of students of all the world. In this moment, as an example, between its members there are personages like Rita Levi Montalcini, or the prize Nobel for l. economia Gary Becker, successor of Milton Friedman to the guide of the school of Chicago and from always councilman of the republican Party American.

On the plan of foreign politics, it was famous and much chat l. amicizia between Giovanni Paul II and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the councilman for the national emergency of the president Carter. The common Polish origin joined them, to the point that the Kgb had succeeded in to suspect that l. elezione of Karol Wojtyla was a conspiracy warp from the Central Agency Intelligence and the cardinal American of Philadelphia Krol, in order to create disorder beyond the iron curtain. The two presumed protagonists laughed of this history, a lot that after the dead women of Wojtyla, Brzezinski raccont?. Quando l saw Giovanni to us Paul II, he always reproached to me with severit? Visto that you have made Pope - said to me - you could also pass to find to me pi?pesso.. The conspiracy feared from the Kgb was fantasy, but the political relationship existed, much?ero that the night of the military coup of Jaruzelski was just Brzezinski to call Wojtyla in order to inform it. Joseph Ratzinger and Henry Kissinger shares the German origin, and this could facilitate also their dialogue.

The name dell'ex secretary of State?ornato to ribalta on the scene the American in the last weeks, because of the book of Bob Woodward State of Denial.. The journalist, than during the Nixon presidency denunci?o Watergate scandal, has revealed that Kissinger?no of the councilmen pi?scoltati from George W. Bush. Its visits to the House White woman are as well as frequent, how much classified, and the president had demonstrated to all its esteem when secretary had asked all'ex for State to guide the d. inchiesta Commission sull. 11 september. A conflict of interest, per?aveva obliged the diplomats to renounce all. incarico. Between portabandiera the Kissinger republicans? I of the current of the realists, from always you avail again of the neoconservatori, and therefore its role in the House White woman of Bush has a po. been strange. Someone has read it to the apex like the sign of un. inversione of tendency, inaugurated dall. arrivo of Condoleezza Rice of the diplomacy of Washington. Woodward, per? ha written that the position dell. ex secretary of State sull. Iraq not? iversa from that it had in origin on the Vietnam. Leaving from part its judgment on the decision to trigger the war, hour thinks that he is indispensabile not to yield. Perci? secondo the journalist of the Washington Post, would have always advised to Bush not to withdraw itself.

The arguments of the recent conversation of Kissinger with Benedict XVI remain reserve you, but the international issues that interest pi? a the Sede Saint close are notes. In the first place the relationship with l. Islam, also in sight of the next travel of the Pope in Turkey. Then naturally l. Iraq, the situation in Middle East and the Lebanese, the challenge of the terrorism, the development of the poor countries and dell. Africa, but also the relations ocean-going liners, that they have been confirmed and strengthened from Ratzinger.

An other urgent problem? uello of the Iran. Kissinger has said its Italian interlocutor to think that l. unica via d. uscita reasonable would be to negotiate with Tehran l. assegnazione of a role from guarantor of stabilit? ella the its region, but the republican base and neocon is opposed. L. ultimo encounter between Pope Benedict XVI and Henry Kissinger? vvenuto to fine september, Castel Gandolfo

Kissinger has had a often complicated relationship with Italian politics, and in particular with the leader Aldo Christian Democrat Moor. L. ex secretary of State did not appreciate its way to communicate, that it judged little direct, and after an encounter lament? erch? oro had been addormentato. In realt? ra the two c. erano deep political divergences. All. inizio of the years the Seventy leader Christian Democrat was considering l. ipotesi to include the Communist Party in the government, but this idea had been judged in negative way to Washington. During an apex to two, just Kissinger had tried dissuader it from the plan, saying that it considered it much dangerous one and strategically mistaken. Later on Moor would have told is felt itself threatened in the talks with the interlocutors Americans.

I wonder if "people" like Kissinger are happy at the end of the day. Do they come home from work, satisfied at what they've done, and enjoy a comfortable, peaceful evening's rest watching tv while sipping on a soothing drink?

Replace TV with a sex orgy and soothing drink with blood.

Former High Level Italian Illuminati Comes Clean

Leo Zagami, successor to high-level Italian Illuminati figure and former Reagan unofficial Vatican advisor, Licio Gelli, switches sides from evil to good and is warning Americans about coming fascism.

25 Oct 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/24-Oct-2006.html>

Very rarely does a high-level Illuminati 33 degree Freemason come forward with inside information, damaging to the Vatican-controlled and Jesuit-led New World Order.

But Leo Zagami, a Sicilian aristocrat and former high-member of the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge, is doing just that, coming forward for the simple reason he could no longer work under the forces of evil who are killing millions around the world.

The following message from Zagami, who just left the clutches of the evil Illuminati in June, is printed to show just how high-up in the Illuminati pecking order his black star had risen.

It is also printed to protect Zagami's life as he was already arrested, beaten and tortured twice since going public with a web site geared at enlightening America to the threat the Vatican-led Illuminati poses to the American people.

In fact, Zagami's information comes from the top of the Illuminati secret files and correspondence since he was even considered in his home country of Italy to be the P2 Masonic successor to the powerful Licio Gelli, who was being slowly moved out of Illuminati active duty because of his age.

Zagami only weeks ago went public with his English language web site and last week made his first public appearance on American radio, appearing on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal.

Zagami is scheduled to make a second appearance next week, as his top level information has helped to connect the dots between the Vatican, the Jesuits, Freemasonry and their control over the U.S government.

Here is his most recent words and it is easy to see why the higher-ups in the Illuminati are listening to his every word and watching his every move very closely:

Remember, my dear friend, I was not your ordinary Freemason but a Senior P2 Illuminati in charge of many hidden operations and the supposed successor of illustrious Bro. Licio Gelli. We have to be very careful and then we can free Rome, Sicily and the rest of the world from all this evil Mind Control satanic network of perverts and black magicians.

The United States was founded by Freemasons who had a dream of independence, freedom, and truth, so lets see if we can bring them to realize their actual slavery from the evil Illuminati Jesuit game and change their path towards God not Satanism.

Father Sebott and others are working against honest Freemasons all over the world so lets do it before is to late and I'm sure we can save a few souls. The deal between the Jesuit and the Freemasons of the Grande Oriente d'Italia (that include P2) was madeofficially in the Parioli district of Rome at "La Casa del dialogo" in 1975 with Padre Caprile and the Italian Grand Master. Present to this event most P2 members and 400 High degree Masons. Brother Maurizio Costanzo known pervert and important manipulator of the Illuminati was there. Costanzo is now in charge of Berlusconi's P2 TV brainwashing programs for the new generations of Italian chickens.

My wife recently had a dream last May and after that nothing was the same for me (dreams are very important for Sufi's) God told her that Giorgio Hugo Balestrieri was working with the Anti-Christ himself and I had to stop being a GLADIO P2 Illuminati puppet, because this people will never change even if I took control of the Order and tried to make them understand the true work of the God and the real Illuminati...you will discover I'm a big idealist and I really am trying to save the souls of people over and over again...that's what a genuine man of God does to a fellow Brother in need even at the highest levels of the corrupted Empire of Satan every soul counts.

So let's unveil the truth and help humanity being less hypocritical. Let's just tell them we are who the real Puppet Masters are in detail and how it works by fighting the Legion of Satan head on.

Everybody in the Italian Masonic circles knows I was the supposed successor of Gelli and the right hand of Ezio Giunchiglia for a long time in the Monte Carlo Lodge and the Universal Unity. So this revelation will be not big news for most High Degree Masons in Italy and making it public is no problem.

I also worked with Ezio on the new (Scottish) Rite and we followed after the 33rd Degree. Brother Ezio use to call it the Rinnovato Rito Scozzese (5 extra degrees made to manipulate the Monte Carlo elite even further) and this was made within the inner circle of the Ordo Illuminatorum Universalis.

I was responsible for the revision of the 38th degree called Knight of St. John of the Apocalypse and what is known as the Supreme Council of Transformation, leading to the knowledge of the true Invisible Masters of the 39th degree and last degree of the Monte Carlo illuminati system known as THE INVISIBLE MASTERS.

These invisible Masters were chosen only in the high level religious and aristocratic circles and contact with them was forbidden below the 38 degree. Why? Because there were real Illuminati and genuine Masters chosen by the dark Illuminati to keep their pyramid credible in the light of suspicions, as a nice front for the show. But also many fake and evil ones like the Jesuits or Archbishop Paul Marcinkus that were the real driving force of the Monte Carlo Lodge and GLADIO...the good side of the INVISIBLE MASTERS were not even aware of their membership in such Lodge and all this evil show for a long time until I arrived and saw what was happening.

At that point I decided to punish Satan and his friends for this terrible sin of deception with the help of God...let's see if we can really change things now and bring some light in all this darkness and ignorance but is definitely a risky affair since the Board of Directors and the Illuminati. Marcinkus was called by Ezio the keeper of the Vatican Safe keys...he always use to say "our illustrious Brother of the safe"...

P2 is the Vatican and the Vatican is the real mind of GLADIO and I'm probably a dead man as my wife is saying in the last few days but I don't care and will go on. I tell her this is for the good of humanity but she says I'm really risking too much this time.

Zagami continued with more details about the higher-levels of Freemasonry, including more details about the influential Monte Carlo Lodge:

I said 5 extra degrees and not 6 because the "Invisible Masters" were never really meeting for any ritual work in any Lodge, so no proper ritual was ever created or devised for them as they were just given this position by the Supreme Council of Transformation (another great invention of the Monte Carlo Illuminati) to cover up in reality the dirty work of the usual "not so Invisible Masters" from the Jesuit Order and the Zionist Empire...

P2 and GLADIO were very clever in doing this for manipulating the lower structure of their P2 slaves, playing this never ending illuminati game of Gelli and Giunchiglia the two Puppet Masters of the P2 (Worshipful Master and Treasurer).

The so called Supreme Council of Transformation (Apocalypse means Transformation by the way...) will say or publish for the rest of the Brethern the following "we have been giving this honorary degree and we visited personally such and such great and illustrious Brother to recognize each other as real Illuminati" In reality the situation was quite different and the only real Invisible Masters I ever saw around there at top level meetings were all dangerous mafiosi and crooks of the Vatican, including: Knights of Malta, Jesuits and Opus Dei...

But this was obviously not the official version for our Illuminati followers of the P2 in lower levels, participants of this never ending sick show of fake Illuminati myths created by Licio Gelli and Ezio Giunchiglia. At one time they even came up with a false war with each other to deceive people even more.

Ezio to get the attention off the important business of the Monte Carlo Lodge under investigation spread the rumor outside P2 that at the end of the 70's he had broke a chair in the head of our Worshipful Master Licio Gelli...HILLARIOUS BUT TRUE!

Really creative people these Puppet Masters and is actually quite fun to see all the sheep under believing every bit of it , poor world of idiots without a God, poor Satanist.

The elite of the Monte Carlo Lodge members the Board of Directors if you prefer, meet in a very discreet and secret room given by a very prestigious Hotel in the center of Monte Carlo, and the entrance is located and the end of the entrance hall on you left where you can notice some stairs going up to this particular room. But don't try going upstairs because you might get in serious trouble with the security if you are up for a stunt. This is not a Bohemian Grove American illuminati theatrical affair for political chickens with a couple of perverts of the New World Order to eventually blackmail later. This is always a proper high level meeting of true P2, Don's doing business with USA intelligence, Cosa Nostra, Vatican Jesuits...and more...

So I warn you in advance for you own safety don't go in search of the Holy Grail in Monte Carlo if you want to stay alive, because business is business for these people and if you interfere with the Mob you want stay alive as you all know...

All other meetings of the Monte Carlo Lodge structure go under the name UNIVERSAL UNITY www.universal-unity.net and they are only made in Monasteries around Italy and France (very handy for a quick confession with a Jesuit friend of your choice) were the recruiting process starts ...go to the Monastery and join the P2!

The last meeting of the Monte Carlo board of Directors I went to was on the 1st of June 2006 and the last Universal Unity Gathering I went to the meeting in the Monastery of San Cerbone (near Lucca).

The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, The Rectified Scottish Rite, The illuminati Rite of Memphis and Misraim and various other rituals and Rite's of Freemasonry under direct P2/Jesuit control are practiced elsewhere around Italy and France under various Masonic Obedience (apparently all in war with each other...the usual show) but that's all part of the Masonic Theatre not the real thing that's called UNIVERSAL UNITY and the MONTE CARLO LODGE.

Yikes, thanks Avatar. A confirmation of sorts.

Last night when I found his web site and viewed some of his photos, something did not look right about him, in a disturbing way. He seems to cut a pretty good portrait of Satan. Then again, who knows? The guy admits to having been an elite rubbing tails with satanists for for years. I can't imagine one can just wash themselves of that stain over night.

True, but you miss my point entirely. The Vatican is who helped in creating the Islamic religion, and you'd think that someone that high up on the totem pole would actually know this...you'd think he'd have been privy to all sorts of information. And Catholicism is NOT Christianity--in fact they're polar opposites. True Christians are the NWO's #1 Enemy.

smashstuff - October 29, 2006 04:01 AM (GMT)

Well, my point was really that it doesn't matter what kind of religion he's converted to, as I see them all as nonsense, and under the control of the Vatican. It seems that anyone leaving the ranks of the Illuminati or whatever is still under some sort of mind control that tells them they need to join another club.

Alexandra - October 29, 2006 04:47 AM (GMT)

Well, Smashstuff, this is where people need to realize that BIBLE CHRISTIANITY is NOT under the control of the Vatican, which is why they HATE it so much.

As I keep saying, the Jesuits' worst enemy is a true Christian, because a true Christian will NEVER bow down to them.

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 29, 2006 09:20 PM (GMT)

Alexandra this is where your wrong about Protestantism its 90+% Catholicism and remember Catholicism is where its roots lie at the end of the day. Also you must remember that the Jesuit Order has infiltrated control of the Protestant church a long time ago. Remember when Hiram Dukes talked about 800 trainee infiltrators a year being trained at Georgetown University back in the 70's?

All people should do is be good to other people and live morally correct. We don't need all these bibles and churches (KIRKS). Its all about how you live and everything is within your body, thats your church/temple as the Rastafaris have correctly realised.

Alexandra - October 29, 2006 09:29 PM (GMT)

2tuff, as a Christian, I do not attend church because I think they're all infiltrated anyway. If I say I'm Protestant, it's in the sense that I PROTEST Catholics thinking they're Christians. Going to church doesn't make you a Christian. Neither does being baptized.

I do not observe Xmas--a Catholic holiday with pagan roots.

I do not observe Easter for the same reason.

My son is NOT going to go trick-or-treating on Tuesday because we don't hold with Halloween either.

There is a WORLD of difference between true, Bible-based Christianity and Catholicism.

You should have seen how quickly I was "excommunicated" from the Baptist church I was going to when I told the pastor that Bush is evil and that no Christian should be observing Xmas. My husband thinks it's hilarious how he "cries aloud and spares not" when he preaches yet is afraid to offend people over the Xmas thing. :rolleyes:

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 29, 2006 10:17 PM (GMT)

Proves my point how most religious followers simply do not have a clue on the religion they follow. Yes I like how you say X-mas instead of Christmas seeing as its the worship of Saturnia if we go deep enough :D and good old ESHTAR haha

Alexandra - October 30, 2006 12:00 AM (GMT)

Oh, I don't follow any organized religion.

Here's how I understand Protestantism (Reformation)--The Reformers tried to REFORM the Catholic church so it lined up with the Bible. The pope was having none of it.

I understand that Protestant churches are daughters of Rome and they're returning to Mother Church. Christian fundamentalists (Bible believers) have NEVER been part of Rome and will NEVER go to Rome.

Catholicism is COUNTERFEIT Christianity. Let me run down some differences:

--Catholics believe that works will get you to heaven. Christians believe that faith alone (SOLA FIDE) will.

--Catholics believe that purgatory makes one more fit for heaven. Christians believe that Jesus' sacrifice is all that's needed--nothing more.

--Catholics believe that Mary remained a virgin. Actually, Mary had more children by her husband, Joseph, and two of Jesus' half-brothers wrote two books of the Bible (James and Judah).

--Catholics believe that the bread and wine become the actual body and blood of Christ. Actually, it's SYMBOLIC. Catholics twist around John chapter 6 to justify their heresy.

--Catholics believe that the Bible is not enough, you need everyone else's writings. Christians believe in SOLA SCRIPTURA (Scriptures only).

If you don't believe that there's a spiritual battle going on it's all too easy to discount Catholicism as another Christian denomination when it's not even Christian to begin with.

QUOTE (Minuteman Matt @ Oct 30 2006, 10:54 AM)

True Christianity has no pagan roots whatsoever. Don't confuse it with Catholicism, which is paganism dressed up to resemble Christianity. As I keep saying, Catholicism is COUNTERFEIT Christianity, and counterfeits look very similar to the real thing.

And true Christianity was never invented by The Powers That Be, nor is it controlled by them. In fact it's hated by them.

So many people use the word "Protestant" in a very broad sense. It's like, you're either Catholic or Protestant. While the Reformation was good for getting people's noses in the Bible (which was a banned book at the time), I know that a lot of it was trying to reform the Catholic "church." You had Catholics, Protestants--and Bible-believers. In fact, you had Catholics persecuting Protestants, and both of them persecuting the Anabaptists!

I don't really consider myself Protestant unless it's in the REALLY broad sense, meaning "not Catholic." Merely a Christian. And I don't care for denominations.

Whatsoever? If there are no connections between the Jesus story and astro-theology sun worhsip etc, why does Jesus have 12 disciples, 4 gospel writers, walk on the water? He starts his ministry at age 30 and dies at 33? Turns water into wine?

12 signs of the zodiac? 12 months of the year? 4 seasons in the year? The sun reflecting off the water? Isn't the sun at it's most powerful between 30 and 33 degrees? 33 degrees of freemasonry? Even Jesus' daddy Joseph was a carpenter! A mason perhaps?

Rain falls to the earth, and the sun makes the grapes grow, turning water into wine, as in the wedding at Cana.

Of course you will find similarities in many concepts and religions. That doesn't mean there is no value in religion or we ought to reject all moral values. Christianity may have some similarities with some pagan religions, but there are striking differences. These differences are that salvation of faith by grace, non-worship of innate object, no divine qualities given unto objects or plants, the New Jerusalem, the Almighty God being exclusive being one and creating the whole Universe (many pagans dispute that), condemnation of occult rituals involving animal sacrifice, rejection of astrology (astrology is the use of stars in determining events by occult means. This is condemned in the OT and NT, therefore Biblical Christianity has nothing to do with astrology), the resurrection of all of the dead in the end times, etc. I could go on and on if I wanted too. I'm not other Christians being scared of pagans. I know how to debate. As for 12 months, that was developed my human beings having nothing to do with basic religions per se. Just because months and times exist, doesn't mean there is an acceptance of paganism. Paganism is the belief that nature have divine qualities which Biblical Christianity reject. Babylonianism is Romanism not Biblical Christianity whether you like it or not. It's hypocritical to condemn Biblical Christianity when New Agers and atheists butchered more people in the 20th century than any other creed in that century (i.e. Stalin, Hitler, Mao, Pol Pot, etc.) Also, what does the numbers of 12 and 33 have to do with anything in terms of religious accuracy. What matters is accuracy of religious claims not solely a number. If I'm 33 years old now (then I died), that doesn't mean I'm a pagan or a murderer. What is wrong with 4 seasons in a year. What does that have to do with the authenticity of an argument? Nothing. You want to condemn religion. That's fine with me since you have a right to believe in what you want to. It's a free country. Yet, I have a right to condemn atheism and the New Age Movement. Then you want to bash Jesus. Joseph Smith was an adulterer, a pervert, and a liar plus a Mason. Jesus wasn't a Mason. Jesus (whose existence is confirmed by Josephus, ancient Romans, Cyprian, scholars, Phds, and tons of other human beings) said you don't swear in an oath in Matthew. That alone disqualifies Jesus Christ as being a Mason. He was a Torah observant Jew and Masonry is of the pagan Mysteries. So, don't pull that Jesus/Mason lie card. Hey, I'm used to this.

First of all Timothy, Smashstuff implied that so-called Joseph maybe was a Mason and not so-called Jesus. These are two most definately different things.

I have a few things to say on this, firstly we're talking about ASTRO-THEOLOGY not Astrology:

Theology = The study of Religious Doctrine and Divine Things.

Astrology = The art of foretelling future events from the stars once again 2 MOST DIFFERENT THINGS.

Where you come up with this I just do not know.

QUOTE

Isn't the sun at it's most powerful between 30 and 33 degrees? 33 degrees of freemasonry

The Sun's highest peak is at the 33rd degree and this is why its the highest degree in the Jesuit created Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. May I remind folks that Freemasonry was created by the Knights Templars and actually comes from the French word Mason. Its really nothing to do with construction and simply means 'Sons of Light.' Therefore so-called Jesus could never be a Mason because he being the Sun is the light of this world.

smashstuff - November 1, 2006 05:17 AM (GMT)

Josephus' writings can't be relied on as proof of Jesus. Any mention of Jesus is an obvious later addition by Christians. Josephus was a pharisee and died a pharisee, so any mention of Jesus as the Christ would have been against his religion.

Cyprian was around more than 200 years after 'Jesus'.

Early Roman historians and other folks aren't more than 200 years after 100 A.D. Old tactics don't work anymore. So, all early Christians in the 100's A.D. are all liars according to you. Using that logic, all early Muslim scholars writing about Muhammad can't be trusted to prove Muhammad's existence. Don't use faulty logic. Justin Martyr lived in the early 100's A.D. and Polycarp (the disciple of the apostle John) did and they believed in the existence of Jesus. Documents in the 100's A.D. are found showing the Gospels. Many scholars believe that Josephus' account was authentic, though there is a dispute. In order to prove your conspiracy (of Jesus not existing and people lying about it) all of these men (including the Romans) have to be all liars. I fail to believe that. Also, the Talmud (created in the 6th century A.D.) mentioned Jesus, so non-believers do mention Jesus even possibly Josephus. There are over 200 prophecies about Jesus found in the OT. There are moral absolutes. There is a truth. Also, I already defined astrology as using the stars to "attempt" to determine the future by occult means. Second off, Joseph couldn't have been a Mason since Modern Masonry didn't exist and he was an observant Jew. That's the only mistake I will correct about the Joseph issue. I'm not the one. What's real hogwash is New Age philosophies and atheism.

This is my last response on this issue. It's time to move on. People will agree to disagree on issues then. I will say that there is an open invitation to accept Jesus Christ as the Lord and Saviour if you want to.

By Timothy

P.S.

This is hilarious. I've cited many historians and the 100's A.D. yet you deny it. I trust scholars and PhDs than you. Also, Jesus (whose existence is confirmed by early Romans, early Christians in the 100's A.D., etc. whether you like it or not. I don't believe in the astrology myth. You people love to mock creeds, but I'm not a pansy person when it comes to debate) doesn't mean the SUN. Jesus was called Immanuel meaning God with us. Also, Christos does mean the anointed one. Although it doesn't have anything to do with semen. You assign a pagan definition just because of similarities, but similarities aren't necessary mean equivalence. It's not no different than the racist or anti-Semitic label. There are real racists and anti-Semites whether you like it or not. YOU and your crowd are hypocrites by bashing religious people yet refusing to believe in one God and not exposing mightily the New Agers and atheists ruining this society. I shout occultists, because that's part of the First Amendment. Occultists are real. Astro-theology believe in many occult principles whether you guys like it or not. Also, calling us "religious guys" is silly since many religious people are very smart and refuted the Christ Mythos for many years. I believe in one God creating the Universe not astro-theology, New Age, etc.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 1, 2006 10:56 PM (GMT)

You had no need to mention Astrology at all because there was nothing at all about this by Smash or anyone. You made a giant mistake misrepresenting Astro-THEOLOGY as Astrology. When people tell the truth all you religious people shout OCCULTISTS or some other establishment attack label to surpress the truth, this is no different to racist and anti-semetic etc. New Age? I'm not New Age I expose the Occult meaning SECRET, the real, logical information.

JESUS = THE SUN

CHRIST = CHRISTOS (GREEK) = OIL = SEMEN
[THE ANNOINTED ONE]

Wake up folks and smells the nonsense.

Its all:

ASTRO-THEOLOGY & SEX/CREATION

Stretching back to the oldest civilisation of Planet Earth, the GAELS of Ireland and then the Pheonicians of Caana.

smashstuff - November 2, 2006 01:25 AM (GMT)

Thanks for that 2tuff. I don't follow any kind of religion or ideology, all I'm looking for is the truth.

whoisit98 - November 2, 2006 02:20 AM (GMT)

Could jesus have actually been Appolonius of Tyana? It seems thats who the NT writers modelled Jesus on... also the doctrine of the trinity.. (its just Ancient Egypt, Isis/Horus/Osiris)

Jesus is mentioned in the Quran as "Issa, son of Maryam" also it is mentioned in the Quran, that "it was made to appear to them" that they crucified him.. I take that to mean he survived.. and he may be buried in Kashmir www.tombofjesus.com (also historical references to Yus Ausaph and Issa)

What is most sure is whether Jesus existed or not, he wasn't the son of God.. You would have to conclude the religion closest to the truth is Islam.. though just like christianity it was changed and perverted and corrupted..

smashstuff - November 2, 2006 03:34 AM (GMT)

The Jesus story has been recycled many times, Appolonius being one of them.

whoisit98 - November 2, 2006 05:15 AM (GMT)

So who do you think is buried in Kashmir?

There is a lot of evidence for this Yuz Ausaph or Issa, hes in alot of historical texts, as well as bhuddist texts also..

Also theres a whole biography on Appolonius written by another Greek guy

They say Mary also is buried in Kashmir, I remember an abc news report about a scientest trying to do a DNA test on that tomb to verify if it could be Mary..

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 2, 2006 11:43 PM (GMT)

DNA is a complete fraud my friend and for indentification it certainly comes now where near as close to the old method of fingerprinting. Read up more on the truth about DNA its crap. The ELite love DNA and Genetics as they can blame everything they dont understand or destroy on genes haha (Genesis = Genes of ISIS). The Truth shall set you free.

See this is the thing with DNA, it's held up as infallible for identification, just because the media tells you it is.

It only APPEARS that Christianity is based on paganism because the COUNTERFEIT CAME FIRST. Satan already set up his mother-and-child deal with Nimrod and his mother/wife Semiramis. What Catholicism did was take Mary and Jesus and MERGE them with Nimrod/Semiramis or whatever equivalent. So of course people are DECEIVED into thinking true Christianity is of pagan origin when it's not. Especially when people think Catholicism is "just another Christian denomination," which it's not. Catholicism is NOT Christian, never has been, never will be. Of course it looks similar--that's the whole idea of a counterfeit, make it look as much like the real thing as possible to fool people.

No offense, but I believe the genesis=gene+isis about as much as I believe "Saxon" originated from "Isaac's sons"--something the British-Israelism people try to pull--Herbert W. Armstrong promoted that one. I wonder how it would translate in Spanish, or French...? Sometimes a cigar is just a cigar.

Timothy your arguments don't wash round this site when it comes to religion. This site was never mean't to be religious or follow religion. I do not care if I offend Christians, Muslims, Jews, Hindus or whatever. My site is to promote scraping the bullshit off the truth as Mr. Bloom would say. Unfortunately your religions have indoctrinated your minds so much you now imprison yourself behind invisible bars within a small tunnel. This tunnel is narrow and won't allow you to move far across either side and fully accept the truth. The tunnel traps you within the lies created by the very masters you supposedly hate.

Ask yourself these questions; Did any of the Reformation people truly destroy the invisible prison and jailing systems of the world? Were our so-called Protestant rulers any different with greed and power compared to the Roman Catholics? Have you still been scammed by banks, taxes etc? Its hardly any difference to when the Catholics dominated the first time. Yes you got some education but what is this education when its broken down? Nothing, its a tunnel education created by the ELites just so you fit into their society whilst the truth is suppressed. David Icke explains this information most excellently in his dvd called 'Secrets of the Matrix.'

Only those with eyes truly open will be set free by the truth and no longer bound by myth and deceit. I just cannot for the love of me understand why people can still fall for the nonsense given them by their religions especially when exposed. But alas the churches have indoctrinated you all to shout from the rafters occult, atheists blah blah. You forget that your own bible talks of the ELoheim (Pural meaning more than one) and the Nephilim. You talk about Jesus being God's son, when infact Jesus is not God's son but he is the SUN. Unfortunately even the deceivers who created the religions based on Astro-Theology and SEX believe the SUN is the son of God when infact this is obviously incorrect because all plants in our universe would be the son's of god.

You have thrown the one-time quick attack labels down just as your church/religion has indoctrinated you to, its their counter-measure to exposure my friend. Why do you have protestant based companies and individuals using Astrology symbols in their logos and works? HmMMM so now we even can find Astrology starting to creep in never mind the origins based on Astro-THEOLOGY.

Judeo-Christianity religion stems all the way back to the GAELS of Ireland period. Its all based on SEX and ASTROTHEROLOGY period! If you guys have the defenses going up I do not care, I'm not here to pussy foot around with Religion, Bird Flu, DNA, HIV and all the other lies/deciets and NONSENSE. I'm here to expose the FRAUDS and that I do.

We see that you do not believe the sex part in religion, well damn man you haven't done any homework at all because religion is absolutely loaded with SEX! If you don't believe Jesus is Semen you simply have an opinion based on not enough information which is quite dangerous. Do you even understand what churches represent, especially the shape of the windows etc? Do you understand why priests where robes like they do and who their worshipping by doing so? Do you understand why this all came about thanks to the race before the Adamic's helping educate the Adamic's (giving the apple to Adam and Eve)? No? Well do your homework and lets set this world FREE!

Timothy you have some good things to say exposing the basics and our enemies the Jesuits, SMOM, Opus Dei and Vatican but your lacking higher knowledge because of the counter-measures of your religious beliefs. Its such a shame in my eyes believe me. Some of the religous folk out there are very intelligent and this shows many times over especially when tackling Jesuits etc but unfortunately these ECM's are blocking truth.

QUOTE

Religious deception is painless inoculation against truth. It cannot be removed from the conscience with surgery, yet it is the motivator of our actions and directly controls our lives. Once man gives himself over to false religion, he is no longer rational because he originates no thought. His life is controlled by whoever controls his religion.

TruthSeeker24 - November 3, 2006 04:19 PM (GMT)

I'm used to this 2tuff. I've been to debates for many years friend. I can go on and on friend.

I'm so intimidated by you 2tuff. 2tuff, you really showed mean. Really, I'm not convinced. I said I won't make a response. This is so silly that it doesn't dignify a response. I've changed my mind to list another response then since you asked me some questions. I know what I'm talking and I can't refute this in a minisecond if I wanted to. I'm indoctrinated into nothing. I will continue to expose the Jesuits, etc. though. Then you talk about Protestant? I'm not a Protestant, I'm a Baptists. Also, many professing Protestant have done evil, yet not in the magnitude of the Papacy throughout the Papacy's history. That's a fact. Tons of Baptists contributed to society and opposed theocracy. New Ager, secularists, and atheists killed millions and made no greater contributions in history than conservative Christians (who are some of your inventors, prison reformers, industrialists, political leaders, etc.) that build much of your nation and America. You talk about Protestants, yet I'm not one.

Also, many good Protestants rejected corruption and made contributions to society as well. Also, Nazism, USSR, French Revolution, Cuba, Roman Empire, North Korea, etc. are all a product of secular humanism, atheism, New Ageism, and other evil ideologies. In Holland, you have consent law of 16 years of age. Europe is riled of corruption and that isn't a product of conservative Protestant. It was a products of secularists running your continent after WWII. Christians are arrested in your continent for just homeschooling or opposing a certain lifestyle choice. Now, Britian is almost athiest with all of the problems which you describe. The rest of your views are half-truths that I can refute in a minisecond. It's kinda of hilarious that you talk about hate. Unlike some, I don't hate anyman or any human being of any background. I hate evil and injustice. There's a difference. What does corporations have to do with the argument. Nothing? Many people of many religions knowingly or unknowingly use occult symbol. I don't agree with that. Also, there is nothing wrong with legitimate education. There is something wrong with false education. We agree on that.

ALso, your generalizations of Christian is silly. Just because some "Christians" do it doesn't represent every single Christian or Protestant. You can scream all you want, but I have done my homework for many years. How dare you come out and try to claim that I haven't done any homework. I've researched issues and know about the Nephilim and other points about history and theology. Don't bring that garbage to me. Also, I have a first amendment right to talk about atheists, occultists, New Agers, Hindus, and others. That's history. They killed more than any true Christians every did. Also, your talk about sex, priest, churches, etc. is silly. First off, real Christians never accepted priests, church steeples, and the like. Real Christians back then worshipped in buildings and feared the Roman Empire from cutting their heads off. Judeo-Christianity didn't came from the Gaels, but from Judaism period. What does a shape of a window have to with the authenticity of a religion? The answer is nothing. Also, the New Jerusalem, salvation by grace through faith, the resurrection of the dead, the Final Judgment of God, an exclusive God, and other components have no relation to paganism at all and are unique. Of course some similarites to exist in many religions and the reason is that man is from the same origin. Man will have similar experience since we are human beings. That doesn't mean we reject moral absolutes and reject any form of spirituality. Why are you talking about sex?

There is nothing wrong with sex as long as it's done in a right way. Also, I never complained about sex and religion. I fully comprehend that sex is in religion. So, that card doesn't work. All of this Adam stuff is silly. Gnostics believe that Adam did the right thing in the taking of the fruit to recieve knowledge. You need to do some homework about real Christian history, real science, and other issues instead of formeting generalizations. I don't call believing in absolutes indoctrination. That's reality. Without absolutes, man can do whatever he wants including genocide. We know fully of the complexity of cells and other uniqueness as evidence of a Creator of the Universe. I realize about Elohim and the Nephilim. Scholars have said that Elohim is plural yes meaning the compound nature of God. I never liked tunnels. I don't live in a tunnel. You may talk about Protestants all you want, but the sincere Protestants and Baptists never started the Inquistion, never invented the international slave, never were conquistadors, never supported theocracy as policies originally, never came out and called a man God on Earth as policies, never instigated WWII, never instigated the Vietnam War, never came out and colloborated withIslamo-fascists, etc.

Also, I've listed historians and other early scholars (like Justin Martyr, Polycarp, Clement of Alexandria, etc. living in the 100's A.D. You even have Hermas in ca. 80 A.D. and the Magdalen Papyrus (P64) which some date to ca. 70 A.D.) confirming Jesus' existence yet you offer no evidence to rebut me or the historians. Just because some classified Jesus as the sun in a symymous doesn't mean he is a literal sun. It's a metaphor. Prove to me that the early church leaders are a bunch of liars including the Roman leaders, then you may have some credibility. Thank you 2tuff, because you made me more committed to my beliefs. I'm not some slack. I'm a warrior here. Religion isn't the blame for all of society's ills, false generationalizations and ignorance are. I really don't lack higher knowledge.

Sorry Timothy your simply a lost cause but I like your help in exposing the Jesuits etc. You seem to think I bang on only about Christianity when infact I find all religion a complete and utter false almost from start to finish. It doesn't matter wether your Hindu, Muslim or whatever the facts are your religions all come from sex and astro-theology period and theres nothing you can do to re-indoctrinate anyone who understands this with the nonsense counter-measures of yours or anyones religions to stem the truth from getting out. You like to throw the word of Silly around which in itself is quite pathetic yet you forget that your beliefs become this word when you know or get closer to the truth. The people who've designed this system from top to bottom are simply laughing at you. So folks according to Timothy if you speak like I do your silly, atheist or occult. Oh well! I don't need to know your version of Christianity or another persons, the end of the day it all goes back to the Phoenicians of Caana and further to the Gaels of Ireland. Who or what was way before Judaism? There you go! I too will not waste my precious time with religious counter-measures to ensure the public are darkened. I have no time for poxy religion and its prison cells. I like Eric Phelp's information but his religious information is incredibly pathetic as with all religion putting blinkers on the sheep and yes your all simply still sheep until you remove those terrible blinkers and chains. Goodnight!

Lets just say that one person who springs to mind who understands all this is Jordan Maxwell. Now Jordan has been working on very deep research for 45+years now and is considered the best of the best. So hmmm I presume thats more than the life you've lived. When you step to the plate with real information like he has and does then you will be listen to. I do not wish to bully anyone, I'm just fighting your indoctrinations wether you see them or not.

Happy Day of the Sun!

For your edification, I have recently posted a new article regarding the startling correspondences between Apollonius of Tyana, Jesus Christ and St. Paul:

I will likely be putting together a book in the near future regarding this subject, which is more important to the studies of the origins of Christianity than is realized.

2Tuff, what is your view of this Zagami guy? You think he is genuine?

I have the feeling that he is deliberately put in front for some reason. I do not believe it was only his decision to do this. There is something fishy going on here.

As a freemason you swear blood oaths which includes protecting your brothers. If someone is revealing secrets and names he normally would have been taken out.

Maybe what he is saying about the Illuminati and the Jesuits is correct, but he is also talking much about 21st December 2012 and evil creatures that live among us which we cannot see. Maybe he was put there to promote this 2012 new age stuff.

I don't know, but I will follow his future interviews to see what else he brings out.

I was going through 20 years worth of Bankers Monthly magazine in library archives, and this cathedral came up on more than one occasion. Can anyone identify which one it is?

Does this identify the seat of Wall Street power, hidden in plain view? I also noticed a certain degree of Masonic signals in the magazines and even what I consider to be veiled banker sarcasm. They liked to feature cattle pictures now and then as a sly way of mocking their clients.

More High Level Illuminati Inside Info From Monte Carlo P2 Masonic Lodge Defector

Pope inflamed Muslims on purpose to further war on directions of Black Pope, according to Italian insider.

7 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/7-Nov-2006.html>

According to high level Monte Carlo Lodge P2 Masonic Lodge Illuminati insider, Leo Zagami, Pope Benedict XVI purposefully inflamed Muslims with his recent speech in Germany on directions of Jesuit General, Fr. Peter Hans Kolvenbach.

Kolvenbach, who Zagami calls the top Satanic evil leader giving the Pope his marching orders, also claims his loyal Jesuits are the leading "black Satanists and magicians" leading the New World Order charge to destroy America.

"I know for a fact Kolvenbach meets with the Pope almost every Friday at 1pm in order to get his weekly instructions," said Zagami Monday on Greg Szymanski's highly popular international truth-telling radio show, The Investigative Journal, called by many patriots the "alternative to the alternative media."

"I also know for a fact the Satanist and Nazi, Benedict, has a 24-year-old gay lover and that Satanic worshipping does go on at the Vatican. Most recently, in May of 2000, a Black Mass was celebrated with Satanist Aleister Crowley's follower William Breeze present, as well as Satanists Alberto Moscato and Massimo Introvigne, who are intermediaries for the Jesuits.

"Could you imagine if we could one day use the secrets that locked away in the vaults of the Vatican for good instead of evil? The Jesuits know about their own eventual fall, the fall of Rome again and the future of America. This is all in their plans but they think they are Gods when in fact they are nothing but little people following the Devil's command. It must be stopped."

Zagami, born a Catholic who worked for Vatican television and radio stations, said his top-level Illuminati affiliation came from his bloodlines, born into Sicilian aristocracy on his father's side and his mother being from the aristocratic Lyon family.

He defected from the clutches of the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge in June, trying to spread the word of peace, truth and inter-religious dialogue among all truthful Christians, Muslims and Jews.

He made his third American radio appearance Monday, hoping to open up the sleeping eyes of America who have no idea about the sinister control that Vatican has over its country and its satanic leaders, namely Satanist George H. Bush and his many followers.

"You must understand, it's all a show, good theatre," said Zagami. "If they present a good front, with suits and ties, then everything in the background can be decadent and corrupt. I know for a fact from high-level members of the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge that George H. Bush is one of the most perverted of them all, who wields tremendous evil power through his Masonic and Jesuit connections, all who are Satanists."

To explain how the Illuminati really works, Zagami told the Arctic Beacon:

"Only the real perverts and criminals get to the top of this Illuminati satanic chain of deception and true evil finally become Grand Masters of their own puppets . Their perversions and their strange practices are all very easy to blackmail and manipulate for the Jesuits, so that's great for Vatican HQ's and serves their evil purpose of total domination and Mind Control slavery in the hands of the Antichrist.

"And for the so called "honest ones" who don't participate in this kind of perversions but are still a key part of the New World Order plot? Well the Illuminati can still manage to buy them out offering them a powerful positions in any field, and lots of money to make them shut up and keep on serving the Satan in their Masonic Lodge or at the local Rotary.

"So the Jesuits keep everybody by the stick using people in the Monte Carlo P2 Illuminati GLADIO MAFIA to coordinate and control Secret Societies, these people are the Vatican Assassins for real and no jokes are allowed with the Don's of Monte Carlo. Anybody who gets out of control will die from the mysterious hands of the Mob (not so mysterious after all..) So nobody talks they are all very scared of even opening the mouth in front of certain Brothers. But in the last 3 years I started a small Revolution within the European Illuminati and many support me knowing my inside work and many efforts to make them go in the right direction, but very few at the present time have the courage to do it openly especially now I've completely gone public about it.

"Remember that at the top levels of the various occult groups working for the Jesuits, and pulling the strings of this idiotic fake Templar game in the hands of a bunch of corrupt European Aristocrats are as usual the Knights of Malta. In England the Masonic Knights Templar is also Knights of Malta because it is just a common Great Priory show for poor middleclass idiots in the hands of the Queen and the Vatican but they don't have the same privileges as the Vatican Knights of Malta. The Knights of Malta were actually the enemies of the Templars and made a deal with the Vatican 700 years ago to eliminate the real Templars and take their Churches and all their possessions . And now after eliminating any trace of genuine Templarism the Knights of Malta, they work with the Jesuits to control the fake Templars and the Freemasons.

"It's actually ridiculous that people still believe the real Templars still exist , because they don't, they were eliminated with their Grand Master Jacob de Molay and everything that comes later is just Vatican rubbish to rule the military side of the New World Order plot with another fake myth created by the usual suspects as all modern Templar Orders are simply Vatican driven sheep . At the top level the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge in super Catholic Monte Carlo is simply a Knights of Malta center for ultimate PSYOP manipulation and blackmail plus the usual business deals.

"The P2 and the Jesuits keep their privileges alive in Monte Carlo because they blackmail even the gay Prince Alberto II of Monte Carlo who has been doing orgies with two black gay men and one black woman at the same time not knowing there was a P2 Brother with a camera living next door. The woman actually had a son from the Prince because of one of these encounters , as some of you in the gossip field might remember. And for more P2 gossip from Monte Carlo let's also talk of the common female lover that P2 /Priory of Sion Brother Jean Pierre Giudicelli shares with the Prince of Monte Carlo...well..well ...well...

"To fight such evil and decadence in the coming years I have to first of all protect the few people that secretly support me in all the secret Societies and in the intelligence world. This I will do by never mentioning their names otherwise the Illuminati will probably eliminate them soon after. But I have now a growing number of Masons and Templars that in the coming months want to openly support me against the Zionist, the Illuminati and the Vatican infidels...but I don't trust anyone until they completely reject all those idiotic rituals of Freemasonry and the Illuminati and finally embrace the one God with honest intentions.

"But I must say that I start to receive daily reports of aristocrats wanting to switch sides , but it is not so simple and we all know that very well since corruption in fact will not be tolerated or accepted at any level of my project so let's see what happens."

Asked if the Illuminati and the Vatican-led New World Order also control the Middle East, Zagami said:

"Wahabi or wahibi as you call them were created by the Zionists and their English friends who think they are the lost tribe of Israel as the same happened with Arafat and the so called Muslim Brotherhood created by the English intelligence.

"ALL MANIPULATION, ALL THEATRE even the Emir of Qatar works with the Illuminati and the UK Freemasons and I have enough evidence in my hands to prove it but I'm keeping so I can release it at a later date to ruin the show of these idiotic Masons , who are publishing around the internet that I'm a Nazi working for the Emir of Quatar.

"And what a surprise when I will bring out that the Gran Mufti of Qatar works with the P2 Illuminati and the United Grand Lodge of England Nazi perverts like Brother Jonathon Boulter. Jonathon who is actually producing on the side "spanking films" ar approved in Qatar when he is not working with the Emir.

"I can already see the face of the poor Emir...that's hot stuff and it involves the GRAN MUFTI OF QATAR and well known P2 Brothers like Jonathon Boulter (Double Horizon 9269 UGLE) and Troy Southgate (P2 REGULAR GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND/ Grand lodge No.1) connected to evil secret societies and right wing operations for the UK intelligence."

Description: Plus "jesuit jewelry"

A fellow named Walt Williams was on the Greg Szymanski show November 2 talking about the Jesuits in the Vatican's plans for Inquisition and possible mass murder in the United States.

The interview is 4.5 MB and commercial free.

(This interview and a couple others will be going up on the conspiracycentral.net tracker when I have the time... There's pretty good download content there if you didn't already know. There's a video called Inigo and his Jesuits up right now)

On a lighter note, I finally made up some Jesuit jewelry on Saturday. I wanted something to refer to in casual conversations on the street. Everybody knows or is afraid of big brother, but most have never seen him.

Pete doesn't have to worry, because I won't be selling these items... it's just for fun.

I took the round keychain, and attached it to my jacket zipper. Vancouver's biggest Catholic supply store is four blocks from where I live and I often see priests there. I will be sure to strike up a conversation next time I stop by. I kind of like the Catholic system as it is supposed to be, and it's too bad it's filled with so many baddies.

Hmmm.... I wonder if they would sell keychains like this if I brought them over a batch. Probably. I dropped off a few postcards from John Paul 2's 1982 Vancouver visit and they actually sold them. I got them for free at the Cathedral downtown years ago when I briefly took an introduction Catholicism class. Those were the days... the priest leading the class was busy arguing with the perennial Catholic ecumenical ladies who would take the class just to fill seats. The priest was calling his fellow priests loony... so when he refused my request for early baptism I hit the road.

It looks like my post was a bit redundant...as Szymanski has his interviews up on his site after all. I missed his new archives since he moved from RBN.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 5, 2006 09:50 PM (GMT)

Thats quite funny!

By the way you must really keep up to date with my site as you will see that Gneiss is very quick off the mark with these interview links and its been on here already!

tkra - November 7, 2006 10:58 PM (GMT)

I really have to spend more time reading here... I fail to do so sometimes because a lot of my research ventures into other areas.

Politically, understanding the Jesuits is the most important topic of all...but I'm scrambling to scrounge up possible solutions with my honesty.org thingamajig.

As a follow up...I attached the black pope to my jacket zipper November 6 and ventured out to the subway train where I live.

The very first person to sit behind me was a Nun, and I asked her to confirm it for 100% certainty. (It was a simple uniform so I just wanted to make sure).

Then, shortly after I arrived at the grocery store where my Catholic building manager walked to the same section that I was going to. He didn't see me...

Coincidence I suppose...but I start to wonder to what extent the telepathic hive minding and microchipping has advanced. These people seem to be "networked" by something. It's probably nothing, but stalking goes on commonly especially if one is a Vatican target or enemy.

As a consolation for my redundant radio link...here's a 20mb .pdf that I photographed myself from the library archives.

a 9 article series from the Christian Century Nov-Dec 1941.

Title: Vatican, Catholic officials say "don't hang Saddam

ArchAngel - November 7, 2006 02:32 AM (GMT)

By Philip Pullella

VATICAN CITY, Nov 5 (Reuters) - Vatican and Roman Catholic officials said on Sunday that former Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein should not be put to death even if he has committed crimes against humanity because every life is sacred.

Cardinal Renato Martino, head of the Vatican's Council for Justice and Peace, said that carrying out the death sentence by hanging would be an unjustifiably vindictive action.

"For me, punishing a crime with another crime -- which is what killing for vindication is -- would mean that we are still at the point of demanding an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," he was quoted as saying by Italian news agency Ansa.

"Unfortunately, Iraq is one of the few countries that have not yet made the civilised choice of abolishing the death penalty," said Martino, effectively the Pope's justice minister.

Martino raised the ire of the United States government three years ago when he said the U.S. troops had treated Saddam "like a cow" when they captured him.

Roman Catholic Church teaching is against the death penalty except in the most extreme circumstances, stating that modern society has all the means needed to render a criminal harmless for the rest of his natural life without capital punishment.

Jesuit priest Father Michele Simone, deputy director of the Vatican-approved Jesuit journal Civiltà Cattolica, said opposing the death penalty for Saddam did not mean accepting what he had done.

"Certainly, the situation in Iraq will not be resolved by this death sentence. Many Catholics, myself included, are against the death penalty as a matter of principle," he told Vatican Radio.

"Even in a situation like Iraq, where there are hundreds of de facto death sentences every day, adding another death to this toll will not serve anything," Simone said.

"In the common mentality of Iraqis, not carrying out the death penalty (on Saddam), perhaps for internal political reasons, might be interpreted as a privilege, because killings are so common every day," Simone said.

"But saving a life -- which does not mean accepting everything that Saddam Hussein has done -- is always something positive," he said.

Yet another cover/veil for if he is still executed then the sheep will never believe the Catholics rule the world. Anyhow Saddam's safe somewhere in Russia most likely and that Shaddam will be the one hanged haha.

The Bilderberg Group

- The Invisible Power House -

With its membership selected from the power élite of Europe and North America, many wonder if the Bilderbergers are conspiring to establish a 'new world order'.

The conspiracy theory writers have repeatedly linked one powerful global elite, the Bilderberg Group, with the ultimate take-over of the world. Members of the Bilderberg together with their 'sister' organisations-the Trilateral Commission (known also as the "Child of Bilderberg")(1) and the Council on Foreign Relations(2)-are charged with the post-war take-over of the democratic process. The measures implemented by this group so far prove the control of the world economy through indirect political means.

The constitution of several democratic monarchies of the Western Europe bans members of their royal families from playing an active role in the political process. However, the Bilderberg meetings provide this exact forum and platform for them. "This unprecedented period of European cooperation is more than a product of simple nation-state diplomacy. One of the key institutions that has fostered unity and cooperation with the Atlantic Community beyond the old concepts has been the Bilderberg Group."(3)

"I tell you frankly that I am deeply alarmed today over the possibility that a right-wing reaction may draw some sections of capital so far away from our traditions as to imperil the entire structure of American life as we know it."(4)

These comments by Pasymowski and Gilbert(3) two decades ago may seem out of phase with the current events in former Yugoslavia, but, in terms of the continued stability of the "European State", they have proven to be largely accurate. Warfare has been removed from the intra-European systems as a means of controlling and directing nationalistic goals and ideas. Even in the case of former Yugoslavia, one observes that the current state of war has resulted from Tito's and the Soviet Union's demise. Consequently, the lid has been lifted on rivals and racial memories which had been artificially kept in place for previous decades. The several proto-states which make up the former Yugoslavia were not part of the economic and social development programs which evolved in Western Europe. As we would see, the way in which the rest of Europe evolved and developed was very different, and for very particular reasons.

Whether co-incidence or not, it is equally ironic that the current Chairman of the Bilderberg, Lord Carrington, was the first UN-appointed representative to bring peace to the war-torn Yugoslavia.

ORIGINS

The single most important personality connected with the birth and creation of the Bilderberg Group is Joseph H. Retinger (also known as L'Eminence-His Grey Eminence). Retinger had a colourful, lifelong career that raised him to the top of the world power élites. At his funeral in 1960, Sir Edward Bedington-Behrens said: "I remember Retinger in the United States picking up the telephone and immediately making an appointment with the President, and in Europe he had complete entrée in every political circle as a kind of right acquired through trust, devotion and loyalty he inspired."

Retinger, as a Catholic, was viewed by many as an agent of the Vatican, acting in liaison between the Pope and the Father-General of the Jesuit order.

One of Retinger's renowned achievements in European politics was the founding of the European Movement, leading to the establishment of the Council of Europe on 5th May 1949. With its headquarters in Strasbourg, the Council Executive Committee provided Retinger his first major platform for his expansive ideology. From his earlier days at the Sorbonne, Retinger believed in greater European unity, both in military and economic terms. It was also at the same time when his interest in the guidance of the Jesuit order manifested itself. He spent a great deal of his time fulfilling these ambitions. He suggested to Premier Georges Clemenceau a plan to unite Eastern Europe-involving the merging of Austria, Hungary and Poland as a tripartite monarchy under the guidance of the Jesuit order. Clemenceau, doubtful of the Vatican-inspired plan, rejected Retinger's proposal outright. This plan labelled Retinger, thereafter, as a Vatican agent.

Retinger's activities were not limited to uniting Europe. Through his several trips to Mexico he played a key role in the creation of a trade union movement in the 1920s. Due to his unprecedented success, and by gaining the Mexican Government's trust, Retinger convinced them to nationalise the US oil interest in Mexico. In the process, Retinger conducted the secret negotiations with Washington for the Mexican Government.

Retinger also had an active war career. He was the political aide to General Sikorski, and served for the London-based Polish Government-in-exile. In addition, at the age of 58, he parachuted into German-occupied territory outside Warsaw for some sabotage missions.

Due to his high-profile career, in the 1950s he was able to create contacts with numerous high-ranking military officials and political leaders. His main aim was to unite the world in peace. His peace dividend was to be under the control of supernational, powerful organisations. He believed that such organisations would be immune from short-term ideological conflicts erupting between governments. To Retinger, it was insignificant what dominated the economic ideology of a country. He believed these differences could be brought into line by powerful multinational organisations dictating and applying powerful economic and military policies, thereby creating a union and a bond between the nations.

Retinger's personal 'left-wing' views from his heady days convinced him that many leaders of newly born socialist and communist nations would be prepared to talk to him. Additionally, his Church background gave him an arena for dialogue with people from the middle-ground connections in international relations.

Nevertheless, Retinger knew that control of the world affairs cannot be achieved without US participation. In pursuit of this ideology, he began a campaign for the creation of an Atlantic Community. This would make the development of Europe an important political aim for the American politicians, thereby preventing their retreat into political isolation.

Retinger, with this in mind, set out his carefully calculated move by involving one of his close and powerful friends, Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. Prince Bernhard, at the time, was an important figure in the oil industry and held a major position in Royal Dutch Petroleum (Shell Oil), as well as Société Générale de Belgique-a powerful global corporation.

In 1952 Retinger approached Bernhard with a proposal for a secret conference to involve the NATO leaders in an open and frank discussion on international affairs behind closed doors. The meeting would allow each participant to speak his mind freely because no media representative would be permitted inside; nor would there be any news bulletin about the meeting or the topics discussed. Furthermore, if any leaks occurred, the journalists would be discouraged from writing about it.

Prince Bernhard fully supported Retinger's proposal for an international meeting. Consequently, they formed a committee to organise a plan. In 1952, Bernhard approached the Truman administration and briefed them about the meeting. Despite a positive reception, it was not until the Eisenhower administration when the first American counterpart group was formed. The two key role-players in the US group were General Walter Bedell Smith (Director of the CIA) and C. D. Jackson. Both (European-American) groups working interactively set out to fulfil Retinger's initial plan. From the outset, the American group was heavily influenced by the Rockefeller family, the owners of Standard Oil-competitors of Bernhard's Royal Dutch Petroleum. From then on, the Bilderberg business reflected the concerns of the oil industry in its meetings.

According to Bilderberg's draft document of 1989:

"Bilderberg takes its name from the Bilderberg Hotel in Oosterbeek, Holland, where the first meeting took place in May 1954. That pioneering meeting grew out of the concern expressed by many leading citizens on both sides of the Atlantic that Western Europe and North America were not working together as closely as they should on matters of critical importance. It was felt that regular, off-the-record discussions would help create a better understanding of the complex forces and major trends affecting Western nations in the difficult post-war period."(5)

Retinger's main aim in creating Bilderberg had other more important, inherent aspects than an informal gathering of a group of the world's élite. It has been suggested that Bilderberg meetings ultimately would have implemented group dynamics techniques in the shape of a low- key international thinking group with the purpose of sensitising the less enlightened of its membership towards the new transitional diplomacy of the Cold War.

The first meeting witnessed the gathering of ideologies, poles apart. The issue of McCarthyism was reaching its peak in the United States. European participants, exasperated with the McCarthy propaganda, saw in their American counterparts a clear political shift towards an ultra-right-wing fascist state. Memories of World War II still fresh in their minds, the Europeans found the concept rather repulsive.

C. D. Jackson (a member of the CFR), in an attempt to regain the international delegates' confidence, stated:

"Whether McCarthy dies by an assassin's bullet or is eliminated in the normal American way of getting rid of boils on body politics, I prophesy that by the time we hold our next meeting he will be gone from the American scene."(6)

Nevertheless, McCarthyism proved to be a source of embarrassment for the US delegate.

OTHER GROUPS

The concept of Bilderberg was not new. Although similar groups were already in existence at the time, none attracted and provoked global myths the way Bilderberg has.

Groups such as Bohemian Grove, established in 1872 by San Franciscans, played an equally significant role in shaping post-war politics in the US.

"It was at the Grove, it is said, that the Manhattan Project was set up and that Eisenhower was selected as the Republicans' candidate for 1952."(7)

The Ditchley Park Foundation was established in 1953 in Britain with the same aim.(8)

Two years earlier, in 1952, Britain's Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery had suggested the idea of a NATO command-post exercise (a paper drill; no movement of forces) to train army divisional commanders. General Eisenhower, who was then NATO's European Commander, accepted it. As a result, the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe Exercise-SHAPE-was created. Ever since, an annual meeting has been held in SHAPE headquarters near Mons, Belgium, and the subject has been broadened to incorporate a wide array of topics.

The historical review of these groups reflects a sudden flourishing trend, and the realisation by the world's leaders of the need for creation of, at times, such overt concepts. The idea of establishing such élite groups did not die with the birth of Bilderberg.

In 1957, the first of the Pugwash Conferences on Science and World Affairs took place.⁹ Pandit Nehru offered to host the first meeting. The founder members were personalities such as Bertrand Russell and Albert Einstein. Scientists from the United States and Soviet Union were regular participants in this East-West gathering of élites. Britain is known for its active participation and role in this group.

"The best feature of Pugwash is that it brings together people from East, West and non-aligned countries."(9)

Pugwash proved particularly valuable at the time when the relation between East and West was at a stalemate. Many significant topics were discussed in this forum. Ways of monitoring arms control agreements, nuclear disarmament, and reduction of East-West tensions were always on the top of the agenda. In the 1970s Pugwash embraced a range of issues including biological, chemical and conventional arms control, environment and development problems as well as conflicts around the world.

One of the latest groups is the Williamsburg, better known as the Asian Window. Its first meeting was financed by the late John D. Rockefeller in 1971, and continues to date. It brings together the Asian leaders and the Americans. Williamsburg has been particularly effective for discussing Vietnam, or the Indonesian corruption, or supposedly non-existent Japanese exchange controls. Different experiences of trade with China and Russia, or how Singapore has a lower infant mortality than America, have been some of the topics in the Williamsburg forum.

Nonetheless, none of these groups-including the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilaterals-commands the influence the Bilderberg has obtained in shaping and dictating global policies.

CHAIRMAN

"The first [Bilderberg] meeting was convened under the chairmanship of H. R. H. Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, who served as chairman for twenty-two years. He was succeeded by Lord Home of the Hirsell, former Prime Minister for the United Kingdom, who chaired the meetings for four years. At the 1980 meeting, Lord Home turned over the chairmanship to Walter Scheel, former President of the Federal Republic of Germany. In 1985, Mr Scheel resigned, and was succeeded by Lord Roll of Ipsden, President of S. G. Warburg Group plc. At 1989 meeting, Lord Roll turned over the chairmanship to Lord Carrington,"(10) who still chairs the meetings.

CHARACTER OF BILDERBERG MEETINGS

"What is unique about Bilderberg as a forum is (1) the broad cross-section of leading citizens, in and out of government, that are assembled for nearly three days of informal discussion about topics of current concern especially in the fields of foreign affairs and the international economy; (2) the strong feeling among participants that, in view of the differing attitudes and experiences of the Western nations, there is a clear need to develop an understanding in which these concerns can be accommodated; and (3) the privacy of these meetings, which has no purpose other than to allow leading citizens to speak their minds openly and freely.

"In short, Bilderberg is a recognised, flexible and informal international leadership forum in which different viewpoints can be expressed and mutual understanding enhanced."(11)

In further recognition of this aspect, Paddy Ashdown, the Leader of the Liberal Party and a participant in the 1989 Bilderberg meeting, wrote to me:

"In view of the recent events right across Europe, this has turned out to have been an exceptionally useful opportunity to meet and discuss with many of the most expert people in the world on international relations. I found it a very stimulating and informative gathering."(12)

But others, such as Prince Charles, Lord Callaghan and Sir Edward Heath, were rather shy in their responses.(13)

PARTICIPANTS

There are usually 115 participants in each annual meeting. Eighty are from Western Europe and the remainder from North America. From this mixture, one-third are from government and politics, and the remaining two-thirds from industry, finance, education and communications. All the participants claim to attend the meeting in their private capacity and not as officials-though this claim, in the wake of the outcome of subsequent meetings, has proven to be highly questionable.

Participants are invited to the Bilderberg meeting by the Chairman, following his consultations and recommendations by the Steering Committee membership, the Advisory Group and the Honorary Secretaries-General. This approach ensures a full, informed and balanced discussion of the agenda items. The individuals are chosen based on their knowledge, standing and experience. The previous participants maintain that, at the meetings, no resolutions are proposed, no votes are taken and no policy statements are made.

FUNDING

The costs of the annual meetings are usually the responsibility of the Steering Committee members of the host country. But, the expenses of maintaining the Bilderberg meetings are covered entirely by private subscriptions. Although the meeting reports are published, nevertheless they are strictly for the participating members only. No reports are made available to the media.

Though the entire topics of the Bilderberg meetings since its establishment are known to me, listing these topics would occupy several pages, which is not within the scope of this writing. However, I should perhaps include herewith the topics of the first meeting (1954) and the 1992 meeting which, in themselves, provide an insight into the evolution of this group, the Bilderberg.

29-31 May 1954: Oosterbeek, Netherlands

- C. The attitude towards economic policies and problems.
- D. The attitude towards European integration and the European Defence Community.

21-24 May 1992: Evian-les-Bains, France

- A. Prospects for the former Soviet republics.
- B. What should be done for Eastern Europe?
- C. Whither the United States?
- D. The world economy.
- E. Whither Europe?
- F. Soviet Union: the view from Moscow.
- G. The migration issue.
- H. The evolving west/west relationship.

Footnotes:

1. The issue concerning the history and the activities of the Trilateral Commission is a separate one to be dealt with in another paper.
2. The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) requires separate attention which I would discuss in another paper. However, I should add that the CFR does not accept non-US members.
3. Pasymowski, Eugene and Carl Gilbert, Bilderberg: The Cold War Internationale, 1971.
4. Charles E. Wilson, addressing the National Association of Manufacturers in 1946.
5. Extract from a Bilderberg document. This document was given to the author, prior to its official publication, by one of the members of the Bilderberg Group. Later on, an official format was also provided to the author by another member, which proved the

7. "Our Good Conference Guide", The Economist, December 1987.

Four local priests defrocked after allegations of sexual abuse

By Tim Townsend

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

<http://www.stltoday.com/stltoday/news/stor...C6?OpenDocument>

St. Louis Archbishop Raymond L. Burke announced today that Pope Benedict XVI had approved the laicization, or defrocking of four St. Louis archdiocesan priests. James A. Funke, James L. Gummersbach, Bryan M. Kuchar and Michael L. Seidel were "permanently dismissed from the clerical state" by the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, according to an archdiocesan statement.

The archdiocese had suspended all four men after it determined that each had been credibly accused "of sexual abuse of a minor." All four had been forbidden to function or represent themselves as priests.

Title: CATHOLIC Jew bashing at its best!

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 13, 2006 08:19 PM (GMT)

Check out this site how it puts all the blame once again on the Jews whilst downplaying Catholic influence as usual. Notice how they go on about George Bush Jr being anti-catholic. Maybe they need to become truthful people at this site and finally show the Bush's Catholic routes. Bush Jr is nothing compared to his Sovereign Military of Malta Knight Bush SNR a very high Knights Templar and well thought of by the Catholics. You notice how they use crafty jewish pictures and twist your minds to thinking these people are puppets of Jews haha. Bush SNR is a Scottish Rite Freemason and this group controls all Jews through their creation of the most powerful jewish group known as B'Nai B'Rith in New York 1843. Who created the GENTILE Scottish Rite? The Jesuit Order and Fredrick the Great II as exposed many times in the past. I only hope one day people can see through this very clever Catholic mind manipulation which seems to be succeeding in grabbing most of the sheeps minds to blaming Jews, hiding the real evil. Notice the pathetic attempt to use once again Ariel Sharon's comments about America. For a start off America is not the Jesuits corporation known as the United States. Remember folks these people play on words, now remember like Jordan Maxwell says, put a `S' in front of words and you have swords. Words are dangerous and we're word orientated creatures. Anyhow like I often highlight, where is the great Ariel Sharon right now? HES A CABBAGE! Why? Because he tried to stand in the way of Pope and the POPE'S JERUSALEM handed to him by Jesuit trained/educated/Vatican spy/assassin Shimon Peres in 1993. Shimon Peres was one of his attackers same as when Peres whacked Rabin.

WAKE UP TO THIS EVIL

Knight of Columbus like J.F.K.

Known as the 'strong right arm of the church'. Basically freemasonry for catholics, as catholics are forbidden to join the masons (what a laugh).

I mean Zionists, such as Rothschild. The Vatican's court Jews, who really aren't Jews. They want people to believe the Jews are behind everything.

I probably oversimplified there. The Pharisees were Jews--the Apostle Paul was one, from the tribe of Benjamin--but they were a pretty corrupt bunch.

Subject: A pre Jesuit history

Hi,

In the following, as a guide-line, please keep your browser open with this page :

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_popes

A pre Jesuit history

Going back in time, carefully watching the line of Pope's passing the public exposure in this worlds theater, we see that in 1314 the Pope's seat became vacant for 2 years. So what was going on?

On June 5, 1305, Bertrand de Goth was instituted as French Pope Clement

V. The French King Philippe IV the Fair (the one who is clean and pure. his father King Philip III apparently was bold) managed to have French archbishop Bertrand de Goth elected pope as Pope Clement V and the official seat of the Papacy moved to Avignon, an enclave surrounded by French territories.

This turned out to be a key event in King Philips fight against the Roman Papacy and the Knights Templar who were a military order answerable only to the Pope.

from <http://www.encyclopedia.com/html/P/Philip4-Fr.asp> :

"The policies of Philips reign greatly strengthened the French monarchy and increased the royal revenues. Philip asserted his right to tax the clergy for the defense of the realm, thus making permanent a special tax permitted by the popes for support of crusades.

Pope Boniface VIII opposed this measure by the bull Clericis laicos (1296), but when threatened with loss of revenues from France he capitulated (1297). The conflict was revived by the arrest and condemnation by the king's court (1301) of Bishop Bernard Saisset. Boniface demanded that Saisset be sent to Rome for trial, issued two bulls denouncing Philip, and called for a council at Rome in Nov., 1302.

Philip, in retaliation, convoked the nobility, clergy, and commons in the first French States-General (1302-3) to hear a justification of his course of action; and Boniface issued (1302) the bull Unam sanctam, an extreme statement of his right to intervene in temporal and religious matters.

Threatened by excommunication, Philip had Boniface seized at Anagni. Although freed, Boniface soon died (1303). After the brief pontificate of Benedict XI, Philip secured the election as pope of Clement V , who annulled Boniface's bulls, and in 1309 transferred the papal residence to Avignon, thus beginning the "Babylonian captivity" of the papacy .

Clement cooperated with Philip in his persecution of the Knights Templars, whose wealth the king appropriated to finance his wars. Other wealthy groups persecuted by Philip were the Jews and the Lombards (Italian bankers). Philip also debased the coinage.

Between 1294 and 1296, Philip overran Guienne, the duchy of King Edward I of England; in 1297 Edward came to the defense of his lands. A truce (1297) became (1303) a permanent peace, conceding Guienne to Edward. After the withdrawal of Edward, Philip turned his attention toward Flanders. He aided the Flemish towns against the count of Flanders, Guy of Dampierre, and after Guy's defeat (1300), he imposed French rule on the Flemish.

They rebelled and defeated (1302) the French at the disastrous battle of Courtrai. Although Philip was victorious over the Flemish in 1304, he was forced, in subsequent treaties, to reduce his demands on them.

Philip was more successful in his attempts to expand at the expense of the Holy Roman Empire; Lyons and Viviers were incorporated into France during his reign. Philip summoned the States-General twice more (1308, 1314), chiefly to obtain support for his warfare. His son, Louis X, succeeded him."

Its reported that King Philip also used rather harsh methods to take on the Knights Templars. However people should remind, that the Knights Templars was a military order answerable only to the Holy Roman Empire, which supposedly owned major seizable assets inside France.

From http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Philip_IV_of_France :

"Philip tried and tortured a number of the Templars that he had captured, and in 1314 he had Jacques de Molay, the Templar Grand Master, and Geoffrey de Charney, the Preceptor of Normandy, burned at the stake. It is said that de Molay cursed both Philip and Clement V from the flames and then he summoned them before God's Tribunal within a year; both king and pope died within the next year.

Philip IV's rule signaled the decline of the papacy's power from its near complete authority. He died during a hunt and is buried in Saint Denis Basilica. He was succeeded by his son Louis X"

(Side note: Let me make one thing clear here. In the fight between good and bad, right and wrong, holy and evil, certain events clearly mark the parties as identifiable: And that is the use of satanic curses and sort alike practices. Thats were the research stops, and the clean-up should start.)

King Philip finished the Knights Templar to such an extent that they were completely vanished from the face of France. They were forced to go underground.

After in 1314 the Pope's seat became vacant, and was only taken again after 2 years by Pope John XXII, the start of a new Papal reign was started and was called the Avignon Papacy (1309-77).

In the meantime between 1314 and 1316, in the rural mountains a heavy battle was going on. It was the war for independence of Switzerland. The paper work was already filed inside the Federal Charter of 1291. This charter united the involved parties (the three forest cantons of Uri, Schwyz, and Unterwalden) in the struggle against the rule by the Habsburgs, who were a Swiss family then holding the German imperial throne of the Holy Roman Empire. At the Battle of Morgarten on November 15, 1315, the Swiss defeated the Habsburg army and secured factual independence as the Swiss Confederation.

After this the so-called Western Schism or Papal Schism was started, which was a split within the Catholic Church in 1378. The schism in the Western church resulted from the untimely return of the Papacy from Avignon to Rome by Pope Gregory XI in 1378, ending the Avignon Papacy.

We saw the Council of Constance in 1414, which main purpose was to end the Papal schism which had resulted from the Avignon Papacy, or as it is sometimes known, the "Babylonian Captivity of the Church."

The Council of Basel in 1431, which basically started the reputation of Switzerland as being the neutral zone for such meetings, but more important, the start of Switzerland as a banking country for the assets of the Roman Holy Empire, where in 1506 Pope Julius II engaged the Swiss Guard that continues to serve the Vatican to the present day.

In June 1448 the rump of the council migrated to Lausanne. The Anti-pope, Felix V, at the insistence of France, ended by abdicating (7 April 1449). Eugene IV died on 23 February 1447, and the council at Lausanne, to save appearances, gave their support to his successor, Pope Nicholas V, who had already been governing the Church for two years. Trustworthy evidence, they said, proved to them that this pontiff accepted the dogma of the superiority of the council as defined at Constance and at Basel.

Now what the heck is an anti-Pope?

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Antipope>

"An anti-pope is one who, in opposition to the generally recognized Pope, makes a widely accepted claim to be the lawful Pope. In several cases, it is hard to tell which was in fact the lawful Pope and which the anti-pope."

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Amadeus_VIII_of_Savoy

"Amadeus VIII (1383 November 7, 1451) surnamed the Peaceful was the Count of Savoy from 1391 to 1416 and was elevated by Emperor Sigismund to the Duke of Savoy in 1416. Amadeus was also the anti-pope Felix V from November 1439 to April 1449."

After that the Spanish tried to rule the papacy with their own "holy" Cardinals, but it was only rural times. It was the start of the Spanish Inquisition, where Tomás de Torquemada was appointed by Pope Innocent VIII. What a contradiction in names and its true meaning.

We saw the total demise and falldown of the papacy, where Pope Alexander VI, real name Roderic Borgia, was reputed to have committed his first murder at the age of twelve. After his uncle's election as Pope he was created successively bishop, cardinal and vice-chancellor of the church, an act of nepotism characteristic of the age.

The demise of the Papacy became a real serious thing when one of the Italian de Medici boys became Pope. Pope Clement VII, real name Giulio di Giuliano de' Medici. At his 'reign' Rome was plundered by imperial troops ("Sacco di Roma"), 1527, taking much of the Pope's wealth.

This became too much of a embarrassment to all these Roman Catholic Priests all across Europe.

(from <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jesuits> :)

"On August 15, 1534, Ignatius (born Iñigo López de Loyola) and six other students (Francis Xavier, Alfonso Salmeron, James Lainez, and Nicholas Bobadilla, fellow Spaniards, Peter Faber from France and Simon Rodriguez, a Portuguese) met in Montmartre outside Paris, probably either at Saint Pierre de Montmartre (the local abbey) or near the modern Chapel of St Denys, Rue Antoinette, and binding themselves by a vow of poverty and chastity, founded the Society of Jesus to "enter upon hospital and missionary work in Jerusalem, or to go without questioning wherever the pope might direct".

In 1537 they traveled to Italy to seek papal approval for their order. Pope Paul III gave them a commendation, and permitted them to be ordained priests. They were ordained at Venice by the bishop of Arbe (June 24). They devoted themselves to preaching and charitable work in Italy, as the renewed war between the Holy Roman Emperor Charles V, Venice, the pope and the Ottoman Empire rendered any journey to Jerusalem inadvisable.

With Faber and Lainez, Ignatius made his way to Rome in October 1538, to have the pope approve the constitution of the new order. A congregation of cardinals reported favorably upon the constitution presented, and Paul III confirmed the order through the bull Regimini militantis (September 27, 1540), but limited the number of its members to sixty."

To me this looks like a couple of brave Spanish youths could not stop throwing up when reading about these Borgia and de Medici Popes.

Pope Paul III also made a important contribution himself and organized the Council of Trent, which laid the foundation of the Roman Catholic Church of which much is still in use as of today.

(from http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Council_of_Trent :)

"The Council of Trent is the Nineteenth Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church. It was held from December 13, 1545, to December 4, 1563 in the city of Trent (modern Trento, Italy) as a response to the theological and ecclesiological challenges of the Protestant Reformation. It is considered one of the most important councils in the history of the Catholic Church, clearly specifying Catholic doctrines on salvation, the sacraments and the Biblical canon, and standardizing the Mass throughout the church, largely by abolishing local variations. This became called the "Tridentine Mass", from the city's Latin name Tridentum."

The Trent Council had a Attendance of about 255 in the last sessions. So this Council was a big success in their fight to keep some of its religious leadership in place. At least all noises were pointing again in the same direction, resisting the Protestant Reformation.

My conclusion?

There's two types of Popes:

There's Popes who are are sons of rich black nobility families.

And there's Popes who are democratically elected during these Councils and sometimes even turnout to have been true Saints.

The black pope is IMHO just a nasty name bastardation of the anti-Pope. The idea of the anti-Pope was only started when the Roman Popes like the Borgia and de Medici were way out of line with what prayers inside the Bible and scriptures stated. It was more of a publicity act to take the Borgia and de Medici Popes head on inside a public campaign.

Now where do the rich black nobility families and its popes keep their fortunes? Inside the Vatican bank, favorably inside a Swiss Kanton branch, well protected by Swiss Guards.

Cheers,

Interview with Leo Zagami

On June 3, 2006, Leo Zagami had a meeting with the P2 Lodge of Monte Carlo. Shortly after, he decided to quit his P2 Lodge membership and hanged his 33rd degree Masonry in the willows. Consequently Zagami had to run for his life and is currently in hiding. What had happened, that forced him to make this decision? During the 2 hour interview a lot of references were made to 'the Jesuits' as being the 'mindset' behind the current powergrab for a New World Order. After listening to Zagami's story, which you shouldn't miss, i still have some questions about these 'Jesuits'. Although my questions seem rather straightforward and simple, they are still a huge blindspot in the "Jesuit" saga and somehow remain persistently unanswered to this very day.

Dear Greg,

With much interest i listened to your interview with Leo Zagami. :

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/1018061.mp3>

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/1018062.mp3>

I have a few questions for Leo Zagami, but maybe you can elude further on this :

- All secret societies seem to have their lodges and places where they meet. When one speaks of 'The Jesuits' we obviously mean the Jesuit Order. Where does this order conduct its meetings?
- When speaking about a order, a secret order, like that of The Jesuits, they obviously are not accessible for ordinary people. Strangely enough there are numerous Jesuit Priests who have their clergy and people can routinely visit these Priests in a simple manner. For me thats quite a difference. So what is the difference between a Jesuit Priest and the secret order of the Jesuits?
- "The protocols of the learned elders of Zion" are obviously a playbook by which the Illuminati want to achieve their goals. Inside these protocols the following is mentioned about The Jesuits :

<http://www.biblebelievers.org.au/przion3.htm>

MASSES LED BY LIES

"4. Moreover, the art of directing masses and individuals by means of cleverly manipulated theory and verbiage, by regulations of life in common and all sorts of other quirks, in all which the GOYIM understand nothing, belongs likewise to the specialists of our administrative brain. Reared on analysis, observation, on delicacies of fine calculation, in this species of skill we have no rivals, any more than we have either in the drawing up of plans of political actions and solidarity. In this respect the Jesuits alone might have compared with us, but we have contrived to discredit them in the eyes of the unthinking mob as an overt organization, while we ourselves all the while have kept our secret organization in the shade. However, it is probably all the same to the world who is its sovereign lord, whether the head of Catholicism or our despot of the blood of Zion! But to us, the Chosen People, it is very far from being a matter of indifference."

So the New World Order plotters, who ever they are, see the Jesuits as their rivals, and have tried to discredit them as a overt, open organization. Without doubt they try to shift the attention to the overt clergy of the Jesuits Priests. Can you elude on that some more? I think the mentioning of the Jesuits inside the Protocols of the learned Elders of Zion needs to be explained correctly.

- I want to focus your attention on a DVD :

"Angels and Demons Revealed (2004)"

a DVD narrated by Patrick MacNee

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-9...gels+and+Demons>

where i wrote a short review about, see below. From this its evident that there has been a vendetta going on between the Vatican Church and the Knights Templars for over 1000 years. With the founding of The Jesuits, this fight has since then being conducted between The Jesuits (on behalf of the Vatican) and the Knights Templar. The Knights Templar have since then be "renamed" into the Knights of Malta. So we can conclude that the over 1000 year vendetta today is conducted between The Jesuits and the Knights of Malta. Sadly enough, it seems the Jesuits are loosing, and today the Vatican has been infiltrated with Illuminati/Knights of Malta elements. This can be seen back in the symbolic being displayed in todays Vatican Catholic Church, where one stumbles across Masonic symbols, and the old Christian symbols like a ordinary Cross with Jesus Christ is rarely seen. About that i made the following webpage :

"The NWO : a Tarnung by Teutonic Knights?"

by Robert M. Stockmann, Dec 10, 2005

<http://crashrecovery.org/teutonic/>

Here's my review on Angels and Demons Revealed which contains much important information and clues. I had successfully submitted my review on amazon.com until i added a paragraph quoting "The Protocols of the learned elders of Zion. After that all attempts were either denied or removed.

My Review :

Patrick MacNee, the narrator on this DVD, does a fine job in presenting the things covered. If one has seen the TV series 'The Avengers' with MacNee as John Steed and his female partner Diana Rigg (Emma Peel), one wonders if he has been into these secrets all his life.

The DVD starts with identifying the order of the Knights Templar and the Priory of Sion. The order of the Knights Templar became the Church inside the Catholic Church. MacNee however presents facts that The Knights Templar became influenced by evil forces, after they had found highly valuable documents during excavations underneath the Temple Mount (Hence the name Knights Templar). The influences were of Arabic and Turkish secret order assassins. To this day no-one knows what really was found. After King Philippe IV the Fair had taken back possession of the Templar assets in France, they were forced underground. It was this event that made The Order of the Knights Templar the arch enemy of the Catholic Church.

To this very day a serious vendetta is going on between the Jesuits and the Templars and related secret societies. The Bavarian Illuminati, founded by Adam Weishaupt is described by MacNee as the secret society ruling all other secret societies, like one ring to rule all other rings. The evil plot by Weishaupt's Illuminati, a New World Order and total control over mankind, is well within reach today. The signs are very very alarming. The rest of the DVD then details how the Illuminati infiltrated the KGB in the former USSR, and how the KGB in turn infiltrated the Vatican. Although "The Davinci Code" adepts might look strange to this explanation, i am convinced that this is exactly what has happened. The 1000 year vendetta between the Vatican Catholic Church and the Templars seems complete, where today's Vatican is totally corrupted from the inside. MacNee presents very convincing evidence illustrating this.

If one realizes that "The protocols of the learned elders of Zion" are in fact a protocol book for the Illuminati, the following quote is rather revealing, when knowing about the centuries old vendetta between the Jesuits and the Templars :

<http://www.biblebelievers.org.au/przion3.htm>

MASSES LED BY LIES

"4. Moreover, the art of directing masses and individuals by means of cleverly manipulated theory and verbiage, by regulations of life in common and all sorts of other quirks, in all which the GOYIM understand nothing, belongs likewise to the specialists of our administrative brain. Reared on analysis, observation, on delicacies of fine calculation, in this species of skill we have no rivals, any more than we have either in the drawing up of plans of political actions and solidarity. In this respect the Jesuits alone might have compared with us, but we have contrived to discredit them in the eyes of the unthinking mob as an overt organization, while we ourselves all the while have kept our secret organization in the shade. However, it is probably all the same to the world who is its sovereign lord, whether the head of Catholicism or our despot of the blood of Zion! But to us, the Chosen People, it is very far from being a matter of indifference."

"Angels and Demons Revealed" is a convincing presentation of evidence and its sinister conclusions.

Robert

And sadly, on the anniversary of the 95 Theses on the door (I think it was 1998 or 1999), the Lutherans and Catholics signed an agreement. I think it was Evangelicals and Catholics Together.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 1, 2006 01:20 AM (GMT)

Notice the BLACK robes of the Saturnalian Brotherhood. Note that Luther was a Rosicrucian (Order of the Rosy Cross).

Question: How can one man get away with what he had done to the Vatican when others were tortured and killed for far less crimes towards the Vatican? Makes you wonder folks.

Alexandra - November 1, 2006 03:07 AM (GMT)

Well, why not ask why Jack Chick is still around churning out Christian tracts? He helped Alberto get his message out...and Alberto died back in 1997. And it took them

THIRTY YEARS to finally kill him. And I think Chick is into his 80s now.

God does protect people. And so far Eric Phelps is still around.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 1, 2006 11:00 PM (GMT)

Incorrect Alexandra and I suggest you study what we term the MATRIX deeper. If you understand the Holographic Universe and Matrix you will understand why some people could be what some may term protected by God. Its not God its simply their deep intention creating their reality upon Earth. Check out the Matrix/Holographic Knowledge!

Alexandra - November 1, 2006 11:31 PM (GMT)

2tuff, not to be snarky or anything...but I think this "holographic" stuff is a bit out there. That's just my view on it.

Just as I think that while David Ickes has some good information, I'm not sure I buy into this "reptilian" stuff. Hey, who knows, maybe demons give them the power to shapeshift...even so....

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 2, 2006 12:05 AM (GMT)

Do not mix Reptilian nonsense with HOLOGRAPHIC UNIVERSE reality. This is the problem with David Icke and his reptilian misinformation getting in the way of people understanding the real issues and truth. I suggest you study the Holographic Universe information much deeper and listen to Michael Talbot and others. You will notice that many Quantum Physicists are now coming round to this idea. Who the hell brought up David Icke? You must remember that David Icke basically stole Michael Talbot's work as Icke usually does. I'd read the work on the Holographic Universe well before Icke covered it and its almost word for word.

To be honest with you I'd believe in Reptilians over this pathetic Jesus MYTH which you actually believe in. I must make it clear I do NOT believe in either nonsensical bunkum.

Remember this world is far out and can you explain it? There you go! Do you think you were created to understand this world? No you were meant to be a good little ant on the ant farm! Remember on your believe in a God protecting certain individuals who follow and/or believe in him. Now this is far out to most haha.

Title: Hitler, Like Bush, Loyal To The Vatican

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 30, 2006 12:26 AM (GMT)

Confession No.18: Hitler, like Bush, loyal to the Vatican

Although hidden by the scholars, Hitler's own words show the Third Reich was organized like the hierarchical organization of the Catholic Church, using Jesuit spiritual exercises.

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/29-Oct-2006.html>

Certain things in history get lost in the shuffle like Adolph Hitler's loyalty to the Vatican and his eternal gratitude paid to the duplicitous Jesuit Order.

Let there be no mistake about it, Hitler, son of the Catholic Church, died while defending Christianity after slaughtering millions of the Vatican's enemies.

Hitler served the Catholic Church faithfully and he wasn't afraid or ashamed in admitting his endless devotion to the Society of Jesus as well as never ending devotion to the two Popes who brought him to power, Pius XI and Pius XII.

If there be any doubt about Hitler's close ties to the Jesuits, Listen to his own words as recorded in 1939 by Hermann Rauschning, former national-socialist chief of the Danzig government:

"I learned much from the Order of the Jesuits," said Hitler. "Until now there has never been anything more grandiose, on the earth, than the hierarchical organization of the Catholic Church. I transferred much of this organization into my own (Nazi) party. In my Burgs of the Order, we will raise up a youth that will make the world tremble"

According to Raushning, Hitler then stopped his speech, abruptly saying: "I can't say anymore."

However, after the war, Walter Schellenberg, former of chief of German counter-espionage, finished Hitler's speech, confirming Hitler's strong behind the scenes ties to the Vatican and the Jesuit Order.

"The S.S. organization has been constituted by Himmler according to the principles of the Jesuit Order. Their regulations and the spiritual exercises prescribed by Ignatius of Loyola were the model Himmler tried to copy exactly.

"Himmler's title as supreme chief of the S.S. was to be the equivalent to the Jesuit General and the whole structure and direction was a close imitation of the Catholic Church's hierarchical order.

And French writer Frederic Hoffet in 1948 wrote:

"Hitler, Goebbels, Himmler and most of the members of the party's old guard were Catholics. It was not by accident that because of its chief's religion, the Nationalist-Socialist government was the most Catholic Germany ever had. This kinship between socialism and Catholicism is most striking if we study closely the propaganda methods and the interior organization of the party.

"On that subject, nothing is more instructive than Joseph Goebbels' works. He had been brought up in a Jesuit college and was a seminarist before devoting himself to literature and politics. Every page, every line of his writings recall the teaching of his masters; so he stresses obedience, the contempt for truth."

"Some lies are as useful as bread," Goebbels once proclaimed, taking his words from extracts of Ignatius of Loyola's writings.

As quoted by Edmund Paris in his final 1975 work, the Secret History of the Jesuits, another well-informed insider of the pact between Berlin and the Holy See, Franz von Papen, was even more explicit when he said:

"The Third Reich is the first world power which not only acknowledges but also puts into practice the high principles of the papacy."

And what essentially was put into practice was 25 million victims of concentration camps, the official figure once released by the United Nations. But do such barbaric acts belong to the past?

By no means, barbarianism continues today as evidenced by the U.S. government's illegal invasion in the Middle East as well as its own siege on U.S. citizens by advancing a bogus war on terror.

And if one looks closely, President George W. Bush has the same look, feel and rhetoric of a modern day Hitler. In fact, he can be looked at as the Vatican's new boy on the block or its Americana version of Hitler as he pushes his fascist-war mongering agenda on the people of the United States and the people of the world.

Why else were diplomatic relations restored with the Vatican by President Reagan after more than 150 years when U.S officials realized the Vatican and the Jesuits were behind the assassination of Abraham Lincoln?

No one can argue that all the signs of the Third Reich are creeping into American society, including imperialistic invasions of foreign countries, the passage of the Patriot Act, the erosion of the U.S. Constitution and the erosion of the American economic base.

"And you can bet that the Vatican and the Jesuit Order are behind everything," said Eric Jon Phelps, author of Vatican Assassins. "This is their final crusade and they will use the might of the U.S. military to destroy the Muslims while then our army will be sacrificed like Hitler's as we will then be invaded by the Chinese-Soviet front.

"You must understand their final goal is to destroy Christianity, the Muslims and the Jews, making way for a one world government and one world religion with total loyalty top the Pope who will again reside in Jerusalem."

Not only does the U.S government appear to be on an uncontrolled killing spree with the blessings of the Vatican, these following words did not come from a speaker in the middle ages but from a 20th century Vatican official, Cardinal Lepicier, known as a notorious Jesuit follower and New World Order advocate:

"If someone professes publicly to be a heretic or tries to pervert others, by his speech or example, he can not only be excommunicated but also justly killed."

And what these words amount to is a justification by the papacy to kill anyone who does not follow the Pope's supposed holy rule. But what it really means is anyone who stands up against Satanism and the New World Order should be killed and has the Pope's hidden blessing.

So what happens to those who oppose the Vatican and Jesuit stranglehold on most religions and governments of the world, as they work together with intelligence operatives of the CIA, Mossad and KGB, to name only a few?

Of course, many have been assassinated like Lincoln and former President Kennedy,

But even Popes who have resisted, like Pope Clement XIV and Pope John Paul I, have felt the wrath of the evil Jesuits.

For example, Pope Clement XIV, who in 1758 was finally going to honor the request of several large nations wanting the Jesuits removed, was poisoned to death as many of the European head officials attributed the killing to the Jesuits.

One official at the time said: "The Jesuits, in principle at least, were no more; but Clement XIV knew very well that, by signing their death warrant, he was signing his own as well."

Pope Clement before his death was quoted as saying regarding the banishment of the Jesuit Order: "This suppression is done at last and I am not sorry about it. I would do it again if it was not done already; but this suppression will kill me.

Much has been said and written about the Jesuits over the centuries and facts don't lie. Without going into a historic litany of countries that banished the Jesuits for their evil-doings, at last count historians have counted more than 56 major banishments.

And a huge question looms, a question and answer that could ultimately decide whether America survives or not? Will there be a 57 th and will it occur here?

I still think that Hitler might have been putting on a show, to utterly convince the Illuminati/Jesuits that he was on their side, when in reality he was secretly working against them all along. The main reason why I tend to believe this is because of how absolutely DEMONIZED Hitler has been by the historians and the media throughout the past 60 years. Other mass murderers and dictators far worse than him haven't been given as much attention, but they keep talking about Hitler non-stop, portraying him as an insane, bloodthirsty monster, as evil personified, and I seriously doubt they would do this if he would have been a faithful servant of the Illuminati/Jesuits until the end. I think he betrayed them at some point, which is why they attempted to track him down and capture him for YEARS after his supposed "death". They wouldn't have done this if he would have been on their side, if he would simply have been following orders, they would have let him go.

I don't think that, I'm more inclined to think that he is held up as the root of all evil to keep him fresh in our minds, and the holocaust, as the very worst things ever, ever, to happen to anyone on earth. We are led to believe that nothing has ever or will ever live up to the horrors of the killing of Jews in WWII. It keeps up the fraud of 'poor' Israel, all they want is to defend themselves, etc.

I don't see anything in Hitler that was working against his masters at all.

Maybe Hitler is on his last legs now protected in Jesuit South America!

More like the top secret super-technological NAZI base in ANTARCTICA, near the entrance to Hollow Earth.

The remarkable photograph taken by the ESSA-7 satellite on 23 November 1968. There is almost no cloud cover; the ice fields on the surface can be observed, and the hole at the North Pole can be clearly seen.

People don't like to talk about Hollow Earth, but it exists. There's a whole other world right beneath our feet.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 1, 2006 10:48 PM (GMT)

Its been spoke of a few times of late about a series of photographs locked away of Hitler at 105 by that Phillipines researcher on the Jesuits. I do not believe that Hitler was ratted through the Ratlines to Antarctica. If you believe the stories on that place then you'll find that if they were opposed to us as claimed then why would the Vatican help Hitler escape to this region? It wouldn't happen. I believe that story about Antarctica is false and another diversion. So if Hitler did survive you will find that South America will have been the spot.

More Satanic Worshipping in Vatican Verified

High Level Illuminati from Monte Carlo P2 Lodge Pins 9/11 Plot on Knights of Malta and Vatican involvement.

31 Oct 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/31-Oct-2006.html>

A former high level member of the influential Monte Carlo P2 Lodge verified that satanic worshipping goes on in the catacombs of the Vatican.

Leo Zagami, who defected from the Illuminati in June, said he had personal knowledge of "Black Masses" were regularly being conducted in the Vatican for high level members of the European and American Illuminati in a decadent display of audacious Satanic power.

Zagami made his startling revelation Monday on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal broadcast on the Genesis Communication Radio Network at www.gcnlive.com.

"The Jesuits and the Vatican hierarchy are the master black magicians, controlling the many cult groups involved in the New World Order," said Zagami. "American people need to wake-up as the Vatican controls the U.S. government. The Bush family is a tool of the papacy. They are actually crooks and consider themselves pirates and that is the reason for the name Skull and Bones. These are sick criminals that need to be exposed and I am not afraid to do that since I was one of them at the top level in Monte Carlo.

"I am not a saint and they know that. They know who I am and if they come after me, they know I am a warrior and will fight back. These are evil men who have killed before and they will kill again.

"The likes of Georgio Balestrieri, who is the Vatican intermediary, knows all about how they put together 9/11, killing 3,000 people. The Jesuits and the Knights of Malta were, of course, behind it and they will do everything to hide their participation since they are all profiting from 9/11, as well.

"For example, Balestrieri now is the head of the New York Rotary Club, pushing cocaine and other drugs into America for drug lord, George H. Bush. This whole network of criminals needs to be exposed and America needs to realize the Vatican and the Jesuits are at the heart of it all.

"The United States is completely controlled and by 2010 it will be completely fascist. That is their plan. Then they want to rebuild Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem and control the world with one world religion and government. They say in Monte Carlo that the Illuminati will control America by the stick! What they want to do is bring down the cities by taking control of the electricity and the water and they say if you want these things back, you will have to submit to facsim."

Zagami, an influential Sicilian aristocrat with important and ancient Illuminati bloodlines, went public in America with his accusations several weeks ago when he started an English language web site. Since going public, he has appeared on The Investigative Journal twice, his only two American radio appearances since a black out exists in America on anything that sheds a negative light on the Vatican.

Zagami, who now lives in Norway for security reasons, said he also had inside and personal information that Hollywood star, Madonna, was working directly with higher-ups in the Italian Illuminati.

"I was supposed to work with her personally and I know for a fact she is being used and is instrumental in the Illuminati plans," said Zagami, who claims Jesuit control runs deep into top Hollywood and American political circles, saying the diabolical Jesuits leave no stone unturned in their Satanic quest to take over America.

During the two hour radio interview, Zagami presented an inside look at how high-level Freemasonry operates, citing Jesuit control at the top levels, uniting under one world wide banner dedicated to Satanic domination.

"They all work together, including Hugo Chavez who really is helping Bush's agenda by his theatrical performances," said Zagami, adding that Chaves is controlled by the Vatican and working with the New World Order as are all other leaders of the world's major government's and religions. "This is how they operate with the top layers working together for one purpose in what they think is the perfect cover-up.

"I had to leave the Illuminati after realizing their Satanic and evil deeds had gone too far and I will stop at nothing to continue revealing what they have planned."

In a recent post to the Arctic Beacon , Zagami had inside information when George H. Bush met in Rome in the 1970's with the former head of the Vatican Bank, the late Archbishop Paul Marcikus. Although the visit seemed innocent, Zagami learned their destination was the tomb of Orcus in Tarquinia near Rome , a cult fascination for higher-up Illuminati members.

That day at the Roman residence of Cardinal Marcinkus in 70's Rome in that VIP Religious Institution were he always use to stay, a very special guest arrived from the USA to visit him, a Senior CIA guy who was also to become US President and already a member of one of the most powerful Illuminati Lodges in the world, the Skull & Bones 322 of Yale University.

The religious Institution I'm talking about belongs to the religious Order of Nostra Signora della Mercede (a female version of the Jesuits) in via Tagliamento in Rome, and the Cardinal in charge of the Vatican State politics at that time was Cardinal dell'Aqua.

The reason was a seemingly innocent trip with Marcinkus to Tarquinia (near Rome) , but the place was not so innocent after all as they were going to visit the tomb of Orcus.

The tomb of Orcus in Tarquinia Italy (a cult place for Yale Skull and Bones illuminati) was first constructed in the mid 4th Century BCE and subsequently enlarged. Its subjects reflect the increasing gloom that was becoming characteristic of Etruscan art during the centuries of their gradual defeat at the hands of the Romans, Celts and Greeks. This is in marked contrast to the mood of relaxed confidence of the earlier tombs. The bearded Aita, or Hades is the main god of the underworld. The other figure in the tomb is that of Velia, a noble Etruscan woman. She stares into the darkness and with a disdainful look, almost sneering at death.

She is richly attired in elaborately worked earrings and necklaces. The very realistic depiction of the eye, shown from the side rather than frontally as in the earlier period, is a clear indication of the Hellenistic influence and reflects the artist's knowledge of late 4th Century BCE Greek models.

But it's well known fact for Brothers of the Illuminati elite circles that the Ancient cult of Orcus is a demonic and evil cult dedicated to the sacrifice of children and other diabolical practices. But today nobody seems to mind if their President or the Head of the CIA, joins such a perverse and satanic cult within the Order of Death , all this in a prestigious place like Yale University.

That's because our society of TV slaves is been manipulated at every level by dangerous satanic intelligence units working for the illuminati in Mind Control activities, to confuse us, and make out of us a bunch of Satanist with no believe.

And even the sacrifice of children seems to be acceptable in this age of corrupt views, perversions and decadence, as long as is kept out of the eyes of the public all this evil seems ok for these infidels of the so called elite.

All this is secretly promoted by the Vatican in Lodges like the Skull and Bones and many other sick places around the world, were these practices are done with Pope's blessings by many degenerate individuals hoping to gain power with their evil Jinn... including the Zionist who support all this with their gold and money.

Do we have any hope in the new millennium to fight such evil at the highest level of our Society? The wise and those who established this America, those who framed the Constitution were influenced by the Koran and the Bible not by a Moloch or Orcus.

In their HQ's in Rome the Jesuits know very well that the Roman Catholic version of Jesus is the wrong one and is only creating confusion and conflict with other religions, imagine for once if Jesus was a man instead then God, a very special man indeed with a unique mission for God, but still a man not a Roman forgery built to deceive mankind in the famous Council of Nicea.

Things will definitely change for the better and finally no confrontation on matters of faith will be possible between Jews, Christian and Muslims when you are all believing in ONE GOD and one Messiah that is not a God but a man announcing the message of God for the benefit of humankind and ?he believe in true Islam and the recognition of Muhammad as the last and most important Prophet of all ages.

Professor Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard a known Illuminati wrote about the United States and the American one dollar bill Illuminati connection :

"Not only were many founders of the United States Government Masons, but they received aid from a secret and august body existing in Europe , which helped them to establish this country for peculiar and particular purpose known only to the initiated few."

Those initiated few have made a deal with the dark powers of Imperial Rome represented by the Vatican and their evil Puppet Masters the Jesuits to enslave America take over the world and finally start the Satanic age of pure Nazism in the hand of Ratzinger.

In November 2003 the Academy of the Catholic Church of Wurzburg (Bavaria...were else can the illuminati meet?) held a one-day historic seminar open to all interested persons on the topic of "Masonry and the Church" (obviously...) .

For the first time in twenty years, Catholic priest and laymen meet officially in an open and most of all friendly very friendly discussion with a representative of German masonry.

This important meeting saw Jesuit Father Sebott the great Masonic manipulator working together with Bro. Axel Pohlmann from the United Grand Lodges of Germany to deceive even further the Brethern in the lower ranks of the Masonic pyramid , quietly bringing forward their real plans and lay down the foundations for their final take over of Vatican HQ's by Vatican/illuminati friendly Freemasonry.

That was also discussed in detail at the illuminati Conference held at the Canonbury Masonic Research Centre on the 6th and 7th of November of the following year (2004) called:

FREEMASONRY AND RELIGION MANY FAITHS ONE BROTHERHOOD

And I was amongst the few Brothers and Sisters who had the possibility to participate at this very high level Masonic Conference for the Illuminati of worldwide Freemasonry that included prestigious names like Lord Elgin Grand Master of the Royal Order of Scotland and cousin to the Queen of England , also John Hamill Director of Communications of the United Grand Lodge of England and many foreign representatives like for example the Grand Treasurer of the Grand Orient of Italy Fernando Ferrari.

But most of all I remember the fact that a famous Swedish Nazi Satanist directly connected to Alberto Moscato and the Jesuits was there, the well known Henrik Bogdan (Ph. D) of the Dept. of Religious Studies of Gothenburg University in Sweden, a senior representative of Swedish Freemasonry and a devoted disciple of Carl Abrahamson of the Church of Satan/OTO network.

A strong connection has been made by other researchers regarding Hitler and Stalin being controlled by the Jesuits, but Zagami also presented new information about Mussolini's connection to Freemasonry and Jesuits.

Mussolini was given an honorary 33degree at the train station of Florence. Then he started Fascism with a Quatriumvirato that included 2 Masons from Piazza del Gesu' and two from Palazzo Giustiniani. Then like Hitler he started persecuting the Palazzo Giustiniani obedience but not the Piazza del Jesu' ones always close to the Jesuits and the Illuminati. Hitler himself was taking a quite different position persecuting traditional Prussian Freemasonry. So fascism was created by the illuminati High degrees of the Italian Scottish Rite instigated by the Jesuits, and when a specific Rite of Freemasonry called the Rito Filosofico and the Gruppo di UR went against the Vatican black magic Mafia, the leader had to escape to South America. And the guy who helped the Jesuits to scare him off was none other then celebrated Black Magician and Illuminati, A. Crowley.

When Crowley finished the job he left Sicily due to Mussolini's pressure to not expose to many particular matters...and then don't forget that pervert poet Mussolini liked so much,DANNUNZIO. He is a key Illuminati figure worshiped still today by Licio Gelli who started his collection of antichita' with an autograph of him.

Remember these people are NOT omnipotent...and who says God can't protect those who defect?

I just get suspicious if they converted to Islam or Greek Orthodoxy or any other religion affiliated with Catholicism.

I don't trust Alberto Rivera either, and I'm sorry if this offends you, but I can't get over how you and others like you still believe in what is written in the Bible. I mean, how much evidence do you need before you finally realize that Jesus is a fictional character, nothing more than a recycled pagan sun god, and that most of what is written in the Old Testament is also fiction, based on more ancient mythology? The first chapters of the Book of Genesis are a copy of ancient Sumerian myth, right down to the story of the Great Flood, taken straight out of the Gilgamesh Epic! Please, Alexandra, wake up, would you? Religion is nothing more than recycled mythology used as mind control for the ignorant masses.

As with any researcher or whistleblower, everything must be taken with a grain of sodium...I do not trust Leo 100 percent but will utilize the information he is providing to my advantage. I use the same approach with many other researchers like Chamish for example, who can be a bit naive when it comes to Sabbatean treachery but always remembers that the power is in Rome...As for religion, yes it is astro oriented but I dont see anything wrong with being a Bible Believer in the symbolic and allegorical sense. The Bible pretty much tells you who the enemy is even if the renegade pastors wont acknowledge it...this is why I still use it from time to time....

I don't trust anyone who says that they defected from the Illuminati or Jesuits. You canNOT defect. They'd eliminate you the moment they would suspect you might leave them or betray them.

This world is controlled by the 1% ELite over the 99% masses. Now remember the Jesuits are even less than this 1% in population. So my friend theres always a way of defeating these cretins. If everyone would stop bickering at each others useless and freemasonic rooted gangs and start focusing on the ELite we would SMASH THEM INTO MANY PIECES. So its up to the masses but never believe their unstoppable, if that was the case why do they fear us like an asteroid impact??

Alberto was killed a long time after as said above and so have many others who've been involved and exposed these secret societies.

Piers Compton: "The book will never be published"

G. Patrick Battell – excatholicsforchrist.com October 7, 2006

Piers Compton – 1901-1986

In 1983, a devastating non-fiction book authored by Catholic writer, Piers Compton, entitled The Broken Cross -The hidden hand in the Vatican, hit the bookshops.

With its expose of secret forces in the Vatican and its allegations concerning Freemasonry, Satanism, as well as a substitution pope and a sinister agenda by senior Curia prelates to murder another pope, it only fuelled future speculation about the Catholic Church, before the book was ever published. It also demolished the myth about another "good" pope due for sainthood in that church in the near future.

Piers Compton was himself a distinguished author of over a dozen published books and in my opinion, a brave and courageous author to denounce such a formidable organization. As a young man he had tested his own vocation both in England and France before forsaking such a venture and entering into journalism.

Later as literary editor of the Catholic weekly newspaper The Universe for over 15 years, his professional research for his future book would allow him great freedom to travel and talk with priests, and I suspect bishops and cardinals, in and out of the Vatican, who like himself confirmed the results of Vatican II as disturbing and sinister.

That the finished book was ever published is indeed incredible in itself. Yet almost immediately the book was, "withdrawn from circulation almost as soon as it was published, with the announcement that it would not again be printed", so wrote the author with some honesty concerning his final book.

Pressure from the start it seems was heaped upon the publishers to prevent its publication. Today I could find no trace of them in my research.

His wife also graphically remembers the menacing and offensive telephone calls that always arrived late at night with the words spoken in a muffled tone, warning:

"The book will never be published", "The book will never be published", "The book will never be published." Brave lady that she was, she took no notice of such bullying tactics.

I have to suggest that these threats were by the English Catholic hierarchy who knew of the books shocking sources. Perhaps the nuncio was involved as well in the plot.

Certainly the popular cardinal at that time would have been no friend to what Piers Compton was revealing in his manuscript.

When finally published the book would find few reporters willing to write a fair review. One has to ask, were they muzzled by obliging editors?

Three years after the books publication Piers Compton died after a long illness. (Interestingly not only would he remain a practising Catholic until the day he died, but also favoured cremation over burial, something his wife long opposed.)

But his damning book in my opinion remains his lasting legacy concerning the machinations of the Roman Catholic church.

After his death he left instructions to his widow that there be no prepared obituaries or photos used about him for publication. Perhaps he feared some future repercussions against his family. But his widow firmly assured me that he had no lasting regrets at all about researching and finishing his monograph. For that I salute him.

But as she reminded me, selecting her words very carefully about who tried to prevent her late husbands book ever being printed and seeing the light of day, she said:

"They are stronger than you are; they have got all the big guns." In that I would agree with her absolutely. But there is One who is coming Who is mightier than even they and His name is - Jesus Christ!

G. Patrick Battell,
7th October 2006

PS. On a personal note I had great difficulty in purchasing my own copy of Piers Compton's book, with its marvellous art work on the front cover. So do please let me know if you had the same difficulty, and did it change your attitude concerning the Catholic Church after you read it? I would be interested.

...rank higher than the Illuminati? It seems pointless, really, since they're both a part of the same Power Structure bent on world domination. Like arguing whether or not the NSA is more powerful than the CIA, since they both work for the same military-industrial complex.

Hi 2tuff and everyone else, btw. My name here is fear of depth, and in real life I've been a very serious paranormal investigator and conspiracy theorist for over ten years now. I wanted to join the David Icke Forum, but you have to wait for the administrator to activate you, and I've been waiting for over THREE WEEKS now, it's ridiculous.

I noticed your many posts and topics over there, 2tuff, and I must say that I'm impressed (although I do disagree with many of your views regarding sexuality and such matters). It seems your path of research has more or less paralleled my own, except that I consider the Jesuits to merely be at the very top of the hierarchy of the Illuminati, and not a separate organization above them.

Also, I have contacts within the high degree Freemasons (ABOVE the 32nd and 33rd degrees) that have informed me (and I tend to trust what they say, based on past info checking out) that the very ELite of the Illuminati don't call themselves the "Illuminati", but rather the "100th Degree", due to their literally being the 100th degree of the Freemasons, and that no one person and no organization of any kind rank higher in the Illuminati/Anunnaki Power Structure than the Inner Circle of the NINE. They are said to be incarnated gods, most probably meaning pureblood Anunnaki.

Any thoughts?

I'm with you on seriously wondering if/when it matters whether anyone does or does not pay attention to whomever it may be at the top of the pyramid heap. And if it does matter, does it matter who it is among the masses that is trying to pay attention? And beyond this, how much does it really matter to any of us whether or not those at the top of the heap are Jesuits, or Illuminati, or Vrill or any other master-controller-wannabe?

Sometimes I get the sense that it is generally only places, such as web forums, where there can be found some people considering such possibilities. My observations tell me that for the average person, not only are these kinds of thoughts generally far removed from their daily concerns, for a lot of them it may be beyond their capacity for awareness that there potentially is a pyramid of control with high-level satanist humans and or off-worlders pushing all the buttons, pulling all the strings and generally controlling our control in the first place. According to the Theory of the 8 Veils, 90% of humanity is destined to spend their entire physical life on earth as we know it on the front side of Veil 1 never to pierce it, go beyond and discover the subsequent veils. In this light, I often wonder if it is not flirting with disaster or doing these kinds of people more harm than good when any among us tries to encourage them to forget all about Veil 1, bypass it and several others and go directly to trying to be aware of Veil 5, or 6 or 7?

Sometimes enlightenment and higher awareness of the true nature of reality comes as a shock, completely unexpected and out of our control. For example, an ordinary person is living an ordinary life, having ordinary thoughts and coming home from work in his car, as usual. And then, suddenly, a UFO appears above them out of thin air, teleports them to another planet or another dimension, they see and experience "impossible" things, things that they've never even imagined before, and are then returned home, as if nothing had happened, without any evidence of their amazing journey. Stuff like this happens more often than you'd think, and it only affects the person itself, and there's absolutely nothing you can do to go back and forget about it. You've just entered the Twilight Zone, and you're gonna stay there, in a constant state of wonder and confusion, for the rest of your life. And you better shut the hell up about it, or else people will think you're crazy.

From <http://elvis.rowan.edu/~kilroy/JEK/07/31b.html>

Ignatius Loyola, Mystic, Educator, Preacher, and Founder of the Jesuits

In[^]igo de Recalde de Loyola, youngest of thirteen (one of my sources says eleven) children of Don Beltran Ya'n[^]ez de Loyola and Maria Sa'enz de Liconay Balda, was born in 1491 in the family castle in the Basque province of Gu'ipozcoa, in northeastern Spain, near the French border. (In the preceding sentence, "n[^]" is used to denote "n" with a tilde over it, and is pronounced "ny" in Spanish and, I assume, in Basque, though this is just a guess--Basque has no known connection with any other language.) As befitted a boy from an aristocratic family, he spent some time as a page at the court of Ferdinand and Isabella, the rulers of Spain. Here, by his later testimony, he was involved in gambling, wenching, and duelling. He got into trouble with the law, but escaped punishment because he was technically a cleric. (This does not mean that he was destined for the priesthood. In those days someone becoming a priest went through seven steps: doorkeeper, reader, exorcist, acolyte, subdeacon, deacon, and priest. The first four were called Minor Orders, and did not involve any serious commitment, but they did make one technically a cleric, which was useful if one got arrested for anything less than murder or treason. Probably many young noblemen took the first step simply as a precaution. Later the law extended the definition of "cleric" to anyone who could read. See the BIO notes on Thomas a Becket, 29 December.) He then entered military service, but fought in only one major battle, the defense of Pamplona against the French in 1521. The professional soldiers knew that their position was indefensible, and proposed to surrender. Inigo (or Ignatius, to give him the Latin form of his name) had visions of military glory, and urged his comrades to fight. He was promptly hit in the leg by a cannon ball, the town surrendered anyway, and the French sent him home on a stretcher.

The leg was badly set, and did not heal properly. It had to be rebroken and reset, and again it healed crookedly and left him with a permanent limp. Meanwhile, he was bedridden for many months, and spent the time reading. He asked for tales of knightly adventure, but instead was given a Life of Christ, written by a Carthusian monk. He read it, and his life was transformed. He went on pilgrimage to Montserrat (near Barcelona), where he hung up his sword over the altar, and then spent about a year at Manresa near Montserrat first working as a nurse and orderly in a hospital there, and then retiring to a cave to live as a hermit and study The Imitation of Christ, by Thomas a Kempis, a book urging the Christian to take Christ as example, and seek daily to follow in His footsteps. It is probably during this year that he wrote his Spiritual Exercises, a manual of Christian prayer and meditation. He directs the reader to begin with an event in the life of Christ, and to imagine the scene in detail, to replay the episode in his mind like a movie script, and to try to feel as if he had himself witnessed the event, and then to use this experience as a motive for love, gratitude, and dedication to the service of God. The book is available today in hardcover and paperback. It has been much used by Christians of all varieties--John Wesley was enthusiastic about it. Ignatius then made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to see with his own eyes the scenes of Our Lord's life and death. He wanted to stay and preach to the Muslims, but the Franciscans stationed there advised him that he needed an education in order to preach effectively.

Back in Spain, he spent ten years (1524-1534) getting an education at Barcelona, Alcalá, Salamanca, and Paris, beginning by going to elementary school to learn Latin grammar, and ending with a Master of Arts degree from the University of Paris. In Salamanca, he often preached to groups of people assembled by chance; but in those days a layman undertaking to preach on his own, without a license or supervision, was automatically suspected of heresy. Ignatius was twice imprisoned by the Spanish Inquisition and questioned about his beliefs, an experience that made a deep impression on him. (He was finally acquitted, but forbidden to discuss religious matters for three years.) Today, his followers are aggressively proud of the fact that no member of their order has ever sat on an Inquisitorial tribunal. (It is possible that Ignatius already had doubts about the Inquisition. He was a Basque, and I am told that the Inquisition was never active in Biscay because the Basques, although thoroughly orthodox Christians, would not tolerate it.) In 1534, he and six fellow students formed a group who vowed to travel to Jerusalem and there preach the Gospel to the Muslims. (The most famous of the six is Francis Xavier, who went to India and China as a missionary, and who is commemorated on 3 December.) This group later took the name, "The Society of Jesus," and were nicknamed "the Jesuits" by outsiders, a nickname that stuck.

In 1537 the Jesuits (now ten in number) gathered in Venice and (having found that renewed war in Palestine made journeying there impossible) offered their services to Pope Paul III. Ignatius and some of the others were ordained to the priesthood, and they were assigned various tasks. In 1540 they became a formal organization, with the usual monastic vows, plus a fourth vow of personal obedience to the Pope. In order to have more time for preaching and study the order abolished the practice (followed by almost all previous orders) of reciting the monastic Hours in community. Its chief goals were:

- (a) renewal of the Roman Catholic Church through extensive education and the encouragement of frequent use of the sacraments,
- (B) extensive missionary work in non-Christian countries, and
- © a suitable response to the growing challenge of Protestantism.

In the remaining fifteen years of his life, Ignatius supervised the Jesuits from Rome and saw the order grow from ten men to a thousand. It was always active in missions, and became deeply involved in education, and in counselling those with difficult decisions to make, particularly rulers. The Order undertook to win back to the Roman obedience those areas that had recently become Protestant. Ignatius counselled his Jesuits (technically neither monks nor friars, but priests regular) to proceed with charity and moderation, "without hard words or contempt for people's errors." He died suddenly on 31 July 1556. His writing include the following prayer:

Teach us, good Lord, to serve thee as thou deservest;
to give, and not to count the cost,
to fight, and not to heed the wounds,
to toil, and not to seek for rest,
to labor, and not to ask for any reward, save that of knowing that we do thy will.

Prayer (traditional language)

O God, by whose grace thy servant Ignatius, enkindled with the fire of thy love, became a burning and a shining light in thy Church: Grant that we also may be aflame with the spirit of love and discipline, and may ever walk before thee as children of light; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who with thee, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, liveth and reigneth, one God, now and for ever.

Almighty God, from whom all good things come, who didst call Ignatius of Loyola to the service of thy Divine majesty and to find thee in all things: Inspired by his example and strengthened by his companionship, may we labor without counting the cost and seek no reward other than knowing that we do thy will; through Jesus Christ our Savior, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, one God, now and ever.

Prayer (contemporary language)

O God, by whose grace your servant Ignatius, enkindled with the fire of your love, became a burning and a shining light in your Church: Grant that we also may be aflame with the spirit of love and discipline, and may ever walk before you as children of light; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who lives and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever.

A Short (sort of!) History of the Jesuits

The Society of Jesus is a Roman Catholic organization of men (about half of them priests) vowed to poverty, celibacy, and obedience. Technically, they are neither monks (like the Benedictines) nor friars (like the Franciscans and the Dominicans), but clerks regular (clergy or scholars living in accordance with a Rule of Life). Their stated purpose is the salvation and perfection (i.e. the justification and sanctification) of each individual Jesuit and, ultimately, every human being.

They were chartered by the Pope in 1540, and at first the charter restricted them to a maximum of 60 members (this restriction was lifted after 4 years). In subsequent years their membership was last detailed census of the order before 1773 is that of 1749.)

Jesuits differ in several respects from most other orders. The order is highly centralized in its government, with most policy decisions coming down from the top. Its members wear no distinctive dress, but simply dress like the local priests. There is no corresponding Second Order for women, or Third Order for associates following a modified form of the rule. Jesuits recite the daily prayers individually rather than in community.

They also differ from most other orders in having a long period of training before full membership. After a two-year novitiate, a member (at least a high school graduate to begin with) enters a house of study for 5 years, followed by a "few" years (say 2) of teaching experience, and then 5 more years (longer for some scholars), for a total of at least 12 before becoming a fully professed Jesuit of the Four Vows (poverty, celibacy, obedience, and the fourth vow of personal loyalty to the Pope). Only the fully professed may vote in a congregation of Jesuits, but otherwise they have no special privileges. The order is divided into provinces, which elect delegates to the general convention, which elects the superior general, who serves for life.

The Jesuit order (Society of Jesus) has often been compared to an army, and it was notable for its insistence on strict, absolute obedience to the orders of a superior. One might have expected that only shuffling, vacant-eyed zombies would enlist. On the contrary, it has attracted to its ranks many recruits of outstanding ability and intelligence.

They were begun by a group of Spanish Christians, at a time when the reconquest of Spain from the moslems was but recently accomplished, and persons with Moorish or Jewish ancestry were under suspicion. It is accordingly much to their credit that the Jesuits were firmly opposed (particularly under Ignatius and his first three successors as Superior General of the Jesuits) to ecclesiastical anti-Semitism and to the Inquisition's persecution of suspected Jews. When Ignatius was accused of having partly Jewish ancestry, he replied, "If only I did! What could be more glorious than to be of the same blood as the Apostles, the Blessed Virgin, and our Lord Himself?" Regrettably, they were often active in the punishment of suspected witches. But not all of them were. Some of them championed the cause of the suspects. The Jesuit Friedrich Speem denounced the witch-hunts in his Cautio Criminalis, writing: "Torture fills our Germany with witches and unheard-of wickedness, and not only Germany but any nation that attempts it.... If all of us have not confessed ourselves witches, that is only because we have not all been tortured."

Jesuit Missions in Non-Christian Countries

The original intent of the Jesuits was to form a mission to the moslems of Jerusalem, and missionary work among non-Christians has always been a high priority of the order. In 1749 more than one seventh of all Jesuits were missionaries--more than one fifth of all Jesuit priests.

Within months after the order was founded, Ignatius sent his ablest associate, Francis Xavier, to preach in the Far East, and his work there bore considerable fruit. He and those who followed preached in Persia, Tibet, Ceylon, Burma, the Malay Peninsula, Thailand, Indochina, and the East Indian Islands, but chiefly in India, China, and Japan.

The China Mission began in the 1580's, against obstacles in that the Chinese regarded theirs as the highest of all cultures and were convinced that outsiders had nothing to offer them in goods or ideas. Hence neither traders or teachers were welcome. The Jesuits sent some of their best scientists, astronomers like Matteo Ricci, to the Chinese court, where their skill at clock-building and their scientific and technical knowledge won them respect and a hearing. In their missionary work, they took what has been called an "accommodationist" approach. They dressed like Chinese mandarins. They used Chinese rather than Latin in the liturgy. They retained Chinese terminology, using the Chinese word for "Heaven" to refer to God. They honored Confucius as a sage, a worthy teacher on ethical questions. Most controversial of all, they permitted converts, at least on a temporary basis, to continue ancient and beloved customs honoring their ancestors. But members of other religious orders, notably the Franciscans, moved either by inter-order rivalry or by honest concern, denounced these concessions as watering down the faith to the danger of the souls of the converts, and appealed to Rome, which in 1742 decided against the Jesuits.

In Japan, the Jesuit mission prospered at first, as the Jesuits took care to present their case diplomatically. (For example they avoided the use of crucifixes, which the Japanese had a strong aversion to. This did not mean that they failed to preach about the death and resurrection of our Lord.) In came the Franciscans, brandishing their crucifixes and in other ways treading on local sensibilities, and in came some crude political interference by the Portuguese government, and in 1651 the whole mission effort collapsed in a welter of government persecution and suppression. Jesuit martyrs totalled 111. (In fairness to the Franciscans, they had their martyrs, too.) For the next two centuries Japan was closed to Christian missions, and Japanese Christians were secret and few.

The Jesuits were active in the missionizing of the Hispanic territories in the Americas, particularly in Brazil and in Paraguay. In the Jesuit province of Paraguay (which included what is now the country of Paraguay plus portions of the surrounding countries), they set up, with the approval of the government, what were called REDUCCIONES ("reductions"), which were villages of Christian Indians, under the spiritual, social, economic, and political direction of the missionaries. The intention was benevolent, and totally paternalistic. The Jesuits succeeded in protecting their charges from exploitation by the European settlers; they took no money or goods from them, saw to it that no one robbed them or enslaved them, and devoted themselves to the Indians' physical and spiritual welfare. However, they treated them like children, made all their significant decisions for them, and although they instructed them diligently in the Christian faith, they never considered encouraging or permitting them to seek the priesthood. As a result, when a change of government policy expelled the Jesuits from Paraguay, the local society simply collapsed. The missionaries were self-sacrificing parents who would do anything for their children except let them grow up. (A film was produced several years ago about the Jesuit work in Paraguay, called The Mission. See it if you can. Try a video rental, or your public library.)

The mission in non-Spanish America fared somewhat differently. The most famous work of the Jesuits there was a mission to the Huron Indians of eastern Canada and adjacent territories. The Hurons and the Iroquois were hereditary enemies, and several Jesuits, identified by the Iroquois as friends of the Hurons, were martyred.

JESUITS AND EDUCATION

It had not been the original intention of the Jesuits to become involved in schools, but popes, bishops, and laymen alike told them that schools were needed, and Ignatius accepted the argument. By 1556 three fourths of Jesuits not in training were engaged in running schools. Some were schools for the Jesuits themselves, and many of their other pupils were children of the poor or the middle class. (Tuition was free.) However, they made a special effort to enroll the children of kings, nobles, and others in power, those who would set the policies and the tone of the society. (This was not a new idea. Centuries earlier, missionaries to heathen tribes had learned that if you convert the chief, the others will tend to follow his lead.)

One of their most effective ways of spreading ideas and impressing them on the minds of listeners was through drama. Both the New Catholic Encyclopedia and the Encyclopedia Britannica have separate articles under the heading of "Jesuit drama".

To quote from Paul Johnson's History of Christianity,

What in fact they did was to provide an educational service on demand. If a Catholic prince or prince-bishop wanted an orthodox school, college or univeristy established and conducted efficiently, he applied to the Jesuits; he supplied the funds and buildings, they the trained personnel and techniques. They were, in effect, rather like a modern multi-national company selling expert services. And they brought to the business of international schooling a uniformity, discipline, and organization that was quite new.

Jesuits and Scholarship

Jesuits encouraged secular learning and scholarship among their members. You cannot offer the general public a university that teaches nothing but theology. Moreover, a knowledge of secular subjects is useful in getting a hearing (see Matteo Ricci and his astronomy at the Chinese Imperial Court). Jesuit missionaries made important contributions to the study of geography and non-Indo-European languages. One group of Jesuit scholars known as the Bollandists devoted themselves to hagiography (the historical and critical study of the biographies of saints), patiently collating sources and sifting fact from legend. Their work, concentrated in Belgium, has been going on since the early 1600's and is of importance to anyone interested in church history.

Jesuits in England

When Elizabeth came to the throne of England in 1558, she changed the language of worship from Latin to English. Many of her subjects grumbled, but they continued to attend services at their parish churches. In 1570, however, Pope Paul V excommunicated Elizabeth, declared her not the lawful queen but rather a suitable target for assassination, and told his followers in England not to attend their parish churches any more than they were compelled to, but rather to attend Latin Masses celebrated by priests loyal to Rome. Not unnaturally, Elizabeth regarded anyone celebrating a Latin Mass as a fomenter of treason and of plots to assassinate her. For many years thereafter (beginning in 1580) the Jesuit seminary at Douay in France sent a steady stream of priests (Englishmen who had been smuggled out of England, educated and ordained, and then smuggled back in) to England, and in smaller numbers to the rest of the British Isles, where they celebrated Latin Masses in secret, subject to death for treason if caught. About 70 were martyred.

Jesuits as Moral Theologians

Suppose that you are faced with a choice of actions, say between A and B. Sometimes you will be torn between those who say that you have a moral obligation to do A and not B, and those who say that you have a moral obligation to do B and not A. However, it often happens that what you want to know is: "Am I free to do either A or B as I prefer, or have I a moral obligation to do A?" (Naturally, you will usually be asking this question when you would rather do B.)

One answer, often very popular with those who are not going to be affected by the decision, is what is called RIGORISM. Are you sorting your shirts into those that need to be washed and those that do not? Your mother will tell you: "If it's doubtful, it's dirty." The same applies to moral choices. If you are not sure whether it is okay to do something, be on the safe side and don't do it. If you are not sure whether that golf ball is a lost ball or just waiting for its owner to arrive, you can't go wrong by walking away and leaving it. If you are not absolutely sure that a certain expense qualifies as a tax deduction, then don't deduct it. If you are not absolutely sure that your lunch with a friend is job-related, don't put it on the company credit card.

The extreme opposite is the view that anything not unmistakably wrong is permissible.

This is called LAXISM. Laxists say, "No earthly monarch with any sense of justice expects you to observe the speed limits unless they have been plainly posted for all who will to read. Shall we suppose that God is less fair?"

Another answer is PROBABILISM, that you may do B if there is a reasonable case to be made out for saying that B is lawful. (The laxist, on the other hand, is supposedly content with the remotest possibility that B might be lawful.)

Still another answer is PROBABILIORISM. ("Probabilior" is Latin for "more probable.") Those who hold this view say that you are entitled to go for B if and only if the case for the lawfulness of B is not just reasonable, but definitely more reasonable than the contrary case.

So we have at least four positions (I am probably leaving at least one out), which are ranked as follows:

with each group regarding those below as corrupt, wallowing in sin, cynically looking for loopholes, a threat to the moral fiber of society, and certainly no true Christians. Of course each group regards those above as morbid fanatics, legalists, obsessively concerned with dotting every i and crossing every t, sanctimonious prigs, Pharisees, hypocrites, and certainly no true Christians. Almost all Jesuit theologians have been probabilists, although one Superior General, Tirso Gonzalez (1687-1705) upheld probabiliorism, thereby creating a major crisis in the order.

The Jesuits came to be associated with the notion of "equivocation." The concept is perhaps best explained by an example. There is a story (which I have no reason to suppose is true) told about Athanasius, the great champion of the full deity of Christ, who was bishop of Alexandria in Egypt in the 300's, and was five times banished by emperors who were opposed to the orthodox Christian view. On one occasion, it is said, Athanasius was in a boat, fleeing up the Nile from the Imperial police, who were in a barge close behind. As night fell, Athanasius ordered the boatman to turn around and paddle downstream. As they passed the police barge, the leader called out, "Ahoy, have you seen Athanasius?" Athanasius called back, "You are now not far from him!" and continued downstream while the barge continued upstream. This is "equivocation." An equivocal utterance is one that has two or more meanings, while a univocal utterance is one that has only one meaning. Now it is said that a lie is ordinarily wrong in two ways: it is a sin against truth and a sin against charity. But if you are asked a question by someone who ought not to have the information (say a Nazi officer looking for concealed Jews), then it is no offense against charity to leave him with the wrong impression, and if what you say to him is technically not a falsehood (say by being equivocal), then it is not an offense against truth either, and so is not wrong at all. Jesuit moral theologians developed this notion at length, and this fact contributed greatly to their reputation as slippery customers. One Roman Catholic lecturer (not a Jesuit) that I know of (Ronald Knox) comments (approximately):

Actually, you don't find much equivocation among Catholics. It takes so confoundedly much ingenuity at short notice under pressure, that for most people it is a purely theoretical option. In practice, faced with a situation where telling the truth would clearly be disastrous, devout Catholics behave exactly like devout Protestants--they lie!

Jesuits as Royal Confessors The Jesuits became the predominant group supplying confessors to (meaning, hearers of the confessions of) kings and princes and those in authority. As the NEW CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA says, "they acted as royal confessor to all French kings for 2 centuries, from Henry III to Louis XV; to all German emperors after the early 17th century; to all Dukes of Bavaria after 1579; to most rulers of Poland and Portugal; to the Spanish kings in the 18th century; to James II of England; and to many ruling or princely families throughout Europe."

Thus, they were faced with the problem of how strict to be in their moral advice to kings, knowing that if they did not cut a royal penitent some slack, he might simply find himself another confessor who understood the complexities of his situation, and did not expect the impossible from him. Since retaining the confidence of a king meant opportunities to save not only his soul but the souls of many of his subjects, the pressure to be lenient was often overwhelming. The problem is, of course, not restricted to Jesuits, but is faced by anyone who is giving moral advice and does not want the advisee to become discouraged and call the whole thing off, but at the same time does not want to give the impression that God's demands are negotiable. The Jesuits were doing this under a brighter spotlight than most, and under more pressure to be accommodating than most.

As advisors to kings, they influenced political policy. A royal confessor was not slow to tell a king that he had a duty to make the kind of political alliances that would promote the temporal interests of the Church. It was Le Tellier, Jesuit confessor to Louis XIV, who in the 1680's persuaded that monarch to revoke the Edict of Nantes, which granted religious liberty to Protestants.

One of their political involvements, in particular, proved disastrous. In October 1894, Captain Dreyfus, the only Jew on the General Staff of the French Army, was arrested for treason and spying on behalf of Germany. He was tried, convicted, and sentenced to life imprisonment on Devil's Island, just off the northern coast of South America. Since he was in fact innocent, his arrest was a minor misdeed, which turned into a major misdeed when the French establishment showed itself ready to condemn an innocent man rather than admit a mistake. The dispute over Dreyfus divided French society, and threw it into a turmoil for the next several years. (The repercussions have still not completely died out.) Most of the officers on the General Staff were Roman Catholics, and the Chief of the General Staff had a Jesuit confessor, who was widely viewed as orchestrating the whole anti-Dreyfus campaign. The chief spokesman for the pro-Dreyfus faction was the anti-religious novelist Emile Zola. There were some devout Roman Catholics who were publicly pro-Dreyfus (Charles Peguy, for example, declared that as long as Dreyfus was denied justice, France was in mortal sin), and Pope Leo XIII spoke out for Dreyfus, but the public perception was that the anti-Dreyfus side was the clerical side, and when that side was finally completely discredited and Dreyfus himself was triumphantly recalled from Devil's Island to France, the Roman Catholic Church in general, and the Jesuits in particular, suffered the brunt of public disapprobation.

The Suppression of the Jesuits

By the middle of the 1700's (to go back more than a century), the Jesuits had made many powerful enemies, both inside and outside the Roman Catholic Church. There were those who wished them ill because they wished the RCC ill. But there were also those who honestly believed that their accommodatist tactics were imperilling the soul of the Church. Governments turned against them because it was thought that the political advice they gave was bad advice. And so they were banned in one country after another: Portugal in 1759, France in 1764, Spain and her territories in 1767, followed by the Sicilies and Parma. Next the Pope was pressured to suppress the order altogether. Clement XIII refused. When he died in 1769, anti-Jesuit forces backed a candidate who won and became Clement XIV. Four years later, in 1773, he disbanded the order. The superior general was imprisoned in Rome until he died in 1775. Members of the order continued to function as secular priests, and in some places were allowed to continue to teach and to run schools, though not as Jesuits. Ironically, the order survived as an organization in Russia, where the East Orthodox Empress Catherine valued them as schoolmasters, and refused to allow their dissolution. In 1814, after the fall of Napoleon, in the newly conservative political climate, the Pope restored the order.

Jesuits and Accommodationism

The principal complaint leveled against the Jesuits (not counting charges of criminal conspiracy) has been that they are politicians. Now, politics, it is said, is the art of the possible, and a good politician knows that to insist on a perfect program is often to end up with no program. Thus, the Jesuits did not expect too much of the kings they were trying to keep from slipping the leash altogether, did not expect too much of the newly converted Asian, and so on.

Example: some of their early missionaries to China dressed as mandarins, and held that the ANALECTS--the ethical maxims of Confucius--were full of sound moral wisdom, and should be regarded not as un-Christian but as pre-Christian, "a schoolmaster to bring us to Christ" (Galatians 3:24). This seems to place it in the same category as, say, the Proverbs of Solomon. Now the Jesuits were careful not to say in so many words that the ANALECTS were inspired or had the same authority as the PROVERBS, but they were prepared to quote them in their sermons, and to read aloud from them in church services. Again, there was the question of "ancestor worship." Chinese kept lists of their ancestors inscribed on wooden tablets, and these tablets held a place of honor in the home, and family members regularly bowed or knelt to them. This appeared to some Westerners as blatant idolatry, and something that must be stamped out. However, as a present-day Chinese Christian (Lin Yu-Tang, in his FROM PAGAN TO CHRISTIAN) has observed, Chinese backs and knees are in general more flexible than Western ones. Chinese children regularly bow or kneel to their parents as a gesture of respect. It would not occur to them that they were treating their parents as deities. The Jesuits were prepared to tolerate the retention of the ancestral tablets by Christian converts. Before you decide whether they were right, consider the following question:

Suppose that you are a missionary in China. A man has heard your preaching, and is about to be baptized, together with his family. They arrive at the church for the ceremony, and you see that the man has brought with him his ancestral tablets. He says: "I wish my ancestors to witness this important step in our lives." Do you invite him to place the tablets on a chair or table near the baptismal font, or do you tell him that the tablets are idols and must be destroyed at once before the ceremony can proceed?

The Emperor of China had agreed to become a Christian, and was about to be baptized. But rivals of the Jesuits denounced them to Rome for compromises on questions like ancestral tablets. The Pope forbade any further honoring of the ancestors or the tablets, and the Emperor decided not to become a Christian after all. As one angry historian put it, "So the Franciscans were happy, and the Pope was happy, and nothing was lost but Asia!"

Brown says: If the Emperor would not give up his tablets in order to become a Christian, then his conversion pretty superficial in the first place, and he would never have become a thorough Christian even if he had been accommodated on the matter."

Green says: "How do you know what he would have become if he had been baptized and had started attending Christian worship. He might have spontaneously given up the tablets. Do you really believe that no one grows in the faith after his initial conversion? Besides, you are ignoring the millions of Chinese who would have heard the Gospel if the Emperor had been baptized. Constantine may not have been in all respects an ideal Christian. But his support for Christianity, even if we suppose it to have been totally hypocritical, made possible the preaching of the Gospel to those who would not otherwise have heard it."

Brown says: "But how do you expect the Emperor, or any other Chinese convert, to see that tablets are wrong if their preachers have told them that tablets are all right?"

My comment: Both positions are such as might be taken by a reasonable Christian, and the one thing that it would really distress me to hear from either Brown or Green is the assertion that the other is shown by his position to be not a true Christian at all.

Title: Rothschild - Opus Dei Connection to Israel

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 29, 2006 11:57 PM (GMT)

Remember folks according to the Jewish Encyclopedia the Rothschilds are "Keepers of the Vatican Treasury." They are merely powerful Masonic Labor Zionist Court Jews. Remember folks that Opus Dei "Work of God" aren't as powerful as Dan "Temporal Coadjutor" Brown would like you to believe. They are merely yet another arm of the true Catholic powerhouse known as the Jesuit Order who've ruled the Papacy since 1814 and Vatican II since 1963. Israel was created by the United Nations in 1948, the United Nations was created and is controlled by the Council on Foreign Relations. The CFR itself was created and is controlled by the Sovereign Military of Malta, headed in New York at the Maltese Round Table. The CFR controls both U.S and Israeli Policy.

Rothschild - Opus Dei Connection To Israel

<http://www.rinf.com/columnists/news/rothsc...ction-to-israel>

The news is full of tragic stories of the situation occurring in the '33rd Parallel war' going on right now between Israel and Hezbollah fighters in Lebanon. There appears to be, as is so often the case, a hidden hand in the conflict. At the end of a long string of corporate shells, there are ties that end up in the lap of Opus Dei and the Rothschilds. This writer will attempt to provide the reader with evidence, not ideas or speculation nor unnamed sources that exist only in fables or concoctions.

The Evidence:

1. Raytheon Missile Systems produces most of the United States military missile systems. These include for example the Tomahawk cruise missile that can fly for over 1,500 miles and carry a nuclear warhead. There are many, many other types of missiles built, virtually all of them in Tucson, Arizona. There are too many types of missiles to name or link to. Simply google or dogpile - Raytheon primary missile

2. Raytheon and Israel. The following link is just one example. Searching with just a few of the more obvious terms will lead to many other links involving numerous weapons systems, some made in collaboration with Israeli companies and Raytheon. more

3. Tucson, Arizona is in fact the Headquarters of Raytheon Missile Systems and the military missile capital of the planet, for all extents and purposes. See just a sampling of missiles produced. more.

4. Who or What is really behind the Corporate shell called "Raytheon ? " ANALYSIS: The largest Institutional shareholders are Capital Research & Management, Harris Associates, Merrill Lynch, Smith Barney, State Street, Barclays, NWQ Investment Management and Lord Abbet & Co. Further down the list are JP Morgan Chase and T. Rowe Price. more .

A. Capital Research and Management. A private company obsessed with secrecy. It is one of the largest fund companies in the world and no one knows who the vast majority of its 300 shareholders are. It even intervenes in employees divorce cases to guard secrets. more.

B. Harris Associates - Harris is owned by IXIS Advisor Funds. more . IXIS is owned by two french companies Group Caisse d' Espargne and Caisse des Depots. more. Groupe Caisse d' Espargne is owned by the French Government. more and Caisse de Depots is also owned by the French Government. more. The French government is headed by Jacques Chirac whose wife is an Opus Dei Member. He is also rumored to be a member or achieved the pinnacle of Power in France through their assistance. more and more.

C. Smith Barney, JpMorgan Chase, T.Rowe Price: Smith Barney is now part of Citigroup. The largest institutional investor in Citi is Barclays. The Largest institutional investor in JpMorgan Chase is Barclays. The largest institutional investor in T. Rowe Price is Barclays. D. Barclays: The largest institutional investor in Barclays is Lazard Investment Management. more The link also notes that Alliance Bernstein is the second largest institutional shareholder in Barclays.

E. Lazard is the link between the order of skull and bones and powerful British interests. more

F. The head of Barclays attended the same college at Oxford as Cecil Rhodes, the arch-illuminist , founder of the One-World Government Roundtable and is a Catholic whose private views of the Pope are 'esoteric' and cannot be stated on the record. From The Banker, October 1, 2005 - "What is committed Roman Catholic John Varley's view on the new Pope Benedict XVI...? ... Unfortunately....off the record. But just as interesting , if less esoteric...” more and Oriel College at Oxford , complete with Cecil Rhodes statue. more. John Varley - Oriel = / He is described as a wizard , with Harry Potter like qualities. more.

G. AllianceBernstein is majority owned by AXA, the french insurance giant run by the so-called Godfather of French Capitalism, Claude Bebear. He of course is Opus Dei. His nickname is Crocodile Claude. more and more or google Claude Bebear Opus Dei.

H. Merrill Lynch: 2nd largest institutional shareholder is Barclays, number 4 is AllianceBernstein and number 5 is Smith Barney which is ultimately headed by Barclays. The number 10 largest shareholder is Goldman Sachs which is - yet again - run by Barclays. Goldman's #1 and Alliance Bernstein its #2. If one totals the shares of Barclays, Alliance and Goldman since they are all intertwined with each other along with Smith Barney = Merrill is Opus run as well.

I. Lord Abbet & Co. is linked to the Bush family via “Uncle Bucky” Bush , skull and bones member and uncle of the president is on the board of directors. Little else is known of the private company other than it is the 10th largest shareholder in Halliburton. more .

J. NWQ Investment Management = is now owned by Nuveen Investments NYSE stock symbol JNC. more. Three of the top twelve investors are T.Rowe Price which is Barclays, Goldman Sachs which is Barclays and Barclays itself. The combined assets of these three make for outright control and then some of NWQ. more .

K. State Street Corporation, NYSE stock symbol is STT. The same pattern repeats itself , the Barclays shells combined have sufficient shares to be said to effectuate de facto control. The shells for Barclays in STT are - T.Rowe Price, AllianceBernstein (second largest owner of Barclays after Lazard) Barclays itself, GE asset Management, JpMorgan Chase, Smith Barney. more . WHO OWNS AXA (which owns AllianceBernstein second largest shareholder of Barclays after Lazard)?

L. AXA - Third largest shareholder is Lazard - - - when combined with Barclays and thus ultimately Lazard shells JpMorgan Chase and Smith Barney, it is mathematically obvious that Lazard has effective control or at least major influence over AXA . more . AXA is run by Crocodile Claude the Opus Dei man and Barclays by Mr. Varley the Catholic with esoteric views of the pope that are not fit for public consumption even though he leads a publicly traded company that is possibly the most influential company in the United States of America with a finger in every pie worth eating.

“BARCLAYS, A BRITISH BANK, HAS EMERGED AS THE FIRST AMONG NEAR-EQUALS....ONE OF THE LARGEST SINGLE HOLDERS OF U.S. COMPANIES, IF NOT THE LARGEST — ABOUT $1 TRILLION WORTH.” ... UNSETTLING

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE ISSUES... more  Note , this article mentions State Street along with Barclays, not realizing the connection of ownership between the two AND that many of the other “shells” also mean Barclays, which means Lazard which is “The link between The Society {of Skull and Bones} and certain British interests”. If one totalled all of those as one, what it means is the entire American economy not just Raytheon, is being run by a cabal of Skull and Bones elitists and their British masters believed to be the Rothschild dynasty and the the House of Windsor.

M. Rothschild Empire may own Lazard outright and there are intertwined family bloodlines between these illuminati elitist private banking houses. more.

Conclusion: The British-Israel Foundation in its magazine Destiny said that their new global theocracy would begin on September 11, 2001. more scroll to bottom. The Rothschild Dynasty is behind the missiles killing children on the 33rd parallel. Also located on the 33rd parallel is Baalbek, the city named after the demon Baal also called Moloch. The remains of possibly 30,000 children have been found there as burnt sacrifices or holocausts to this entity. The Order of Death seeks to take over this grandest of human sacrifice sites on the Masonic parallel of death and power. more . It is targeting children to gain psychic power. This is not an accident. This is human sacrifice and black magic.

Title: Politkovskaja, Putin, Gorbachev, Lebedev,...ROME?

Avles - October 29, 2006 08:35 AM (GMT)

Hallo

I can't use Blogger to post a new article on my Blog, I tried to create a new blog but the response is always like this:

001 java.net.ConnectException: Connection refusedblog/18/16/14/avlesbeluskesexposed/atom.xml

I hope I will use it again.

So I post here an article I found which speaks about Alexander Lebedev who, with Michail Gorbachev, is the owner of the newspaper for which the journalist killed two weekd agoo in Moscow dealt. I intended to make an article in order to put clear the collusion of President Putin with the Jesuit led New World Order.

In fact Putin is the "hero" of the Italian "Alternative" web sites because he seems to oppose to the USA , UK or Israeli imperialism as to the Sionism.

But the truth is that the politic of Putin is useful to the "Alternative" media in Italy, especially the Internet ones.

As many times from me pointed, the principal "alternative" sites in Italy are LOW INTENSITY NAZISM sites because they blame from morning to night, directly or indirectly, the jews for the 9-11 and everything that could be useful for this purpose is drafted, as I realized when I saw the translation I made of the David Icke's articles about the war on Lebanon immediately on the front page of the Comedonchisciotte site. But this sites are also LOW INTENSITY FASCIST sites because they don't miss the opportunity to victimize themselves as the "victim" of the USA "imperialism" etc. Clear a subliminal kind of fascist nationalism.

The truth is that all the politic they made is EQUAL of the one made to gather people in the Nazist and Fascist Parties at their beginning. These parties collected ALL KIND OF PEOPLE, from the radical leftist to the most conservative supporter of the “ancient regime”. People who were coming from the layers of the “discontents” and were searching just for a scapegoat.

As regard Putin, this article doesn't speak directly about him, but about a close friend of him, owner of the above mentioned newspaper and tied close to Michail Gorbachev, the man is Alexander Lebedev, and his ties with the English Black Nobility and, definitely, with the BLACK POPE.

From the article you can read between the lines and understand that after the “Jesuit-schevik” Revolution MOSCOW HAS BEEN RULED FROM ROME THROUGH THE CITY OF LONDON WHERE THE RUSSIAN SERVICES (KGB, FSB, etc.) WERE AND ARE TAKING THE ORDERS.

I am sure 2tuff know better the situation, but I think this not real far from the truth.

Avels

The article is submitted to Copiright, I post the most significant quotations.

http://www.findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_...16/ai_n16495473

“..DURING the dying days of the Cold War, Alexander Lebedev was a KGB man in London, operating in the shadows. Now his time here is marked by bright lights, headlines and not a little fanfare.

Soon after the Iron Curtain came down, Lebedev shook off his secret-agent persona, turned to business and made millions. ..”

Did he change only the kind of the job for his Masters?

“..He heads his own bank and owns a large slice of Aeroflot, the Russian national airline, yet by the standards of his billionaire peers he lives modestly.”

Typical for a “man of straw” you need in order to not appear....

But the next is very interesting:

“...Lebedev does write huge cheques, however. He signed one the other day for a party at Althorp, the Spencer family house and childhood home of Diana, Princess of Wales. No one is saying precisely how much it cost to throw the bash, but sources claim the total bill was not less than Pounds 1.3 million....”

Black Nobility? However, the Rome-controlled Nobility!

“...The guest list included Princess Michael of Kent's daughter, Lady Gabriella Windsor, and boyfriend Aatish Taseer, Jemma Kidd, Orlando Bloom, Salman Rushdie, Quincy Jones, Tamara Mellon, Elle Macpherson and a number of powerful figures from British business, the media and politics....”

It was in the City where the KGB and now FSB was collecting orders from Rome?

“...For five years during the 1980s, he was a KGB foreign intelligence officer - a spy - working undercover as a diplomat. He doesn't talk about his spying career, but he did manage to survive a major cull - when the Foreign Office expelled a number of his colleagues his name never came up....”

And next paragraph:

“...”He is incredibly bright and sophisticated and he has made a lot of money and no one seems to know where it really came from,” says the documentary-maker Patrick Forbes, who made a film with close access to Lebedev for the BBC's Oligarchs series last year....”

Hmmm, I could imagine from where the money came...

“...Among Mr Lebedev's other former KGB friends was Vladimir Putin, the Russian president. While Mr Lebedev was spying in London, Mr Putin was an agent in the less congenial posting of East Berlin...”

It is said that the relations between them are now cold but all this seems a comedy, Lebedev is really near Putin:

“...The two men were said to be close and Mr Lebedev welcomed a Kremlin candidate, Viktor Ivanov, to the board of Aeroflot, in which he has a 28 per cent stake...

Putin and Lebedev are rarely seen together in public now.
But he is very close to Mikhail Gorbachev, who is now considered by many disappointed Russian democrats to be an international frontman for President Putin, ...”

In fact:

“...In the Russian Duma, Lebedev is a deputy for the pro-Putin United Russia party....”

So let's take all this cards and put them on the table:

Politkovskaja's omicide, Putin, Michail Gorbachev, Alexander Lebedev, The City of London, Black Nobility, SMOM,.....all the roads led to Rome!

Another sign.

You know better now why exists people "of straw" like Zagami.

See:

Don't be affected. Surely this people are honest, but don't realize the kind of power which uses them. On the earth we are six billions people, a pair of finger or death people killed to make "more real" all this is nothing for the Power.

I don't tell you all this is a fake: I believe Icke when he speaks about ritual sacrifice. The problem is: are these charges used to DISVEAL the REAL MASTER OF PUPPETS or only to put the blame EXCLUSIVELY on the PUPPETS?

However, I trust David Icke no more.

Alex Jones could do the documentary at the Bohemian Grove just only because JESUITS AND SMOM are the real masters of the puppets who like to play satanic rituals in that place.

Is now time to use the rituals in order to get a artificial revolt of the people against them?

V as Vatican is coming real?

Remember the Nurmberg Trial: only the few were persecuted, just becaus the Winners and the Loser were only the two hands of the same power, The Real Roman Nazism.

Avles - October 29, 2006 10:45 AM (GMT)

I forgot it.

The same day (Saturday) in which I received the advertise for the movie based on David Icke's revelations about Dick Cheney (I am on the mailing list, but something tells me it will be not the same for the next year...), I discovered on the Comedonchisciotte site an article exposing Dick Cheney.

<http://www.comedonchisciotte.org/site/modu...pic&p=5561#5561>

taken from:

<http://www.movisol.org/znews199.htm>

(MoviSol = Movimento Socialista....)

Coordinated actions? I am convinced.

The article told about the puppets of the SMOM Bush, Cheney, the organization of his wife operating in the University and other Noecon WITHOUT MENTIONING THAT THE SMOM are RULING America and the above mentioned puppets together with Jesuits. The author of the Topic – marzian - knows all it very well, because he knows my latest posts about it on Comedonchisciotte and surely he reads my blog, BUT IT PERSISTS TO COVER THE POLITIC OF THE COMPANY OF JESUS WHICH CONSISTS IN USING THE NEOCON PUPPETTS IN A PROVOCATIVE POLITIC AGAINST THE SOCIETY FINALIZED TO INCREASE RAGE AND HATE AGAINST JEWS.

I don' wanto to annoy people with Italian stories, but this is an example how Saturnia is managed from the Order of Loyola and that real V as Vatican is coming.

(I continue to be not allowed to post on my blog: if I write only “Prova” (prove) the site accepts my article with only a word, “Prova”.

If a send a not-dummy article the site refuses it. Maybe a real person or a software which reads the words “jesuit”, “SMOM”, “N.W.O.”, etc. and act like a censor. And now I have also problem with the logging with The Unhived Mind --- THEY WANT TO SHUT UP ME!!!)

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 29, 2006 09:12 PM (GMT)

I suggest my friend you try to source a new ISP which should stall some attacks on your for a while hopefully. Another idea is to have a new phone line installed (new #) and this too will help for a while. You could always use an internet cafe for posting certain things on the web.

I can easily imagine Italians having a hard time when speaking the truth. To speak of truth or anything deemed negative about the Vatican is a big no no indeed. People think talking about Jews is bad enough, they don't truly realise the lock down on Vatican knowledge and how its craftily done. Remember Greg Szymanski said hes had more trouble since talking about Jesuits/Vatican than he ever encounter with Zionist MASONIC labor COURT Jews.

The United States is DOMINATED by the Society of Jesus or better still its more Military name Company of Jesus as you rightfully address it. The Sovereign Military of Malta are the donkey workers for the Jesuits. Remember the Jesuits always hide in the shadows, the SMOM unfortunately for the Jesuit is their last possible shadow to people woken to the Vatican. Temporal Coadjutor and Vatican henchman Dan Brown whos met with the Pope himself, trys to create more confusion making out Opus Dei is the head of the Vatican. What proposterous nonsense whilst never mentioning the almighty JESUIT "Black Brotherhood of Seth" ORDER. The Jesuits have dominated in the Papacy since 1814 and 100% by 1870 with the Doctrines of Infallibility. They then took over Vatican II in 1963 if I recall the date correctly. Opus Dei could NOT be created by the Pope unless the SUPERIOR JESUIT GENERAL had granted authorisation to do so. Opus Dei is another arm of the Jesuit Order placed in regions where needed. Remember who orders whos gets within the Cardinal College that great realm of Princes of the Roman Catholic Church. Its the SUPERIOR GENERAL who chooses who gets into the Cardinal College. Whos just one of those 70 Princes? You guessed it, Archbishop of New York, Cardinal Edward Michael Egan; the head of the Americas Sovereign Military of Malta via the Maltese Round Table also situated in New York City controlling the Council on Foreign Relations, Federal Reserve, U.S Military and Intelligence for their hierachy the Jesuit Order.

MAFIA IS AN ITALIAN WORD.

Thanks for the advices, but it seems I don't need them no more. For the moment, obviously.

In fact I realized two miracles!

1) First Miracle: Suddenly, the post I sent Sunday to my Blog and was refused, is mysteriously appeared! But only it, not the other "heavy" posts I sent three times Saturday who were speaking about Vatican's symbols.

Do they play with me? I think so. But are they so stupid that don't realize that acting in this manner they help me? Or they could use other methods? I begin to fear for myself, living in Saturnia, the Country of "Omertà" (= conspiracy of silence), everything could happen to you.

2) Second Miricle. After I posted the reply to Zret'post on this site and the topic about Putin, suddenly an article talking about the connection between Vatican with the 9-11 and N.O.W. appeared on Comedonchisciotte, one of the “low intensity anti-Semitism” site:

<http://www.comedonchisciotte.org/site/modu...iewtopic&t=3848>

Clearly all this is only tactic.

IF YOU COULD NOT (FOR NOW, OF COURSE) SILENCE THEM, DISGUISE AS THEM AND WAIT FOR A MOST FAVOURABLE MOMENT TO HIT THEM.

Really speaking it is the Third Miracle. Just another time, the first, after I decisively exposed Comedonchisciotte, LuogoComune, Blondet, etc. like Jesuit-led-N.W.O. sites on my Blog, and after some months in which I continuously posted on Comedonchisciotte before leaving it, an article taken from Arctic Beacon and exposing the Jesuit as probable thinking head of N.W.O. appeared.

But let's speak sincere, these are not miracle, WHO DO THEY WANT TO FOOL?

I remember to the lesers, especially the (rare) Italian ones:

Italy (Saturnia) IS THE COUNTRY OF MACCHIAVELLI AND BORGIA, I.E. THE COUNTRY OF DISGUISE, THE COUNTRY OF PLOT AND THE COUNTRY OF POISONS.

Italy (Saturnia) IS THE COUNTRY OF THE SATAVATICAN, THEY RULE SATURNIA AT LEAST SINCE 2.000 YEARS, AND ALL THIS LEFT A DEEP TRACE IN THE MIND OF THE POPULATION.

Italy (Saturnia) IS THE COUNTRY IN WHICH THE FASCISM – SECOLAR VIOLENCE ARM OF ROME – WAS FIRST “PATENTED” BY THE LOYOLA’S ORDER.

I don't tell you all this with a light heart, they follow me in every step. I am surrounded by their informants, on the job, with friends or in every aspect of social life; they are everywhere like in the famous movie of Carpenter. Nuns, priests, an enormous number of Temporal Coadiutors, which are working in a infinity of Catholic association, all this are spy and informants at 90 percentes unaware of what they are doing because they are MENTALLY CONTROLLED BY RELIGION.

But they are not the only. A part fascists which are enthusiastic supporter of the C.V.C. (City of Vatican Camorra), you could meet them also in the minds of the “protesters”, no global, and similar, which are the preferred tool of the Jesuits, just because the apparent anti-religious ideology in their minds is useful like a disguise to covert the fact that the “left movement” is JESUIT CONTROLLED. For an example, see the image of Che Guevara, his destiny, his life: has the same structure of the one of Christ, and this is the goal for which Fourth WoW Jesuit Fidel Castro has been activated!

The prove to what I say? I am the prove, I who is writing in a bad English on a Foreign site, “exiliated” from Saturnia.

But better alone instead....

A last thing. I was thinking about Putin, some times agoo I defined him “a clown acting together Kim Yong Il for the goal of N.W.O.”. I regret for this term because maybe he’s humanly speaking a person with a strong character and not a clown, although always a puppet of the Jesuit N.W.O.

Because I agree with him just in an only – but truthful - statement he made in Helsinky:

MAFIA IS AN ITALIAN WORD.

And in Italy you have two kind of Mafia:

In Southern Italy: HIG INTENSITY MAFIA.

In Northern Italy: LOW INTENSITY MAFIA.

Avles.

JagDRS - October 25, 2006 05:27 AM (GMT)

When you recently posted that new lineup of mug shots for the u.s. provincials, several of them stuck out as just not right to me. The usual tell is either the unsmiling eyes or mouth, although one or two of them just have a general all around haggard goblin countenance to them. Whitney's smirk, as of a few days ago, struck me as the self-satisfied cat that had just pilfered the mouse cookie jar without anyone having noticed. Here we are a few days later and the notice is hot off the press.

Abuse cases put focus on Jesuits

By Janet I. Tu
Seattle Times staff reporter

For one victim, compensation came in the form of checks hand-delivered from the highest-ranking Jesuit in the Pacific Northwest.

John McKinley, of Olympia, had contacted church officials about two years ago, saying he had been abused as a boy by a since-deceased Jesuit priest. Over the next months, he talked with the Very Rev. John Whitney.

Whitney gave him an unsolicited check for about $100,000. About a year later, they signed a settlement for another $100,000.

At first, McKinley, 69, saw it as a gesture from a "nice guy" he'd come to regard as a friend. But McKinley wonders now if the checks were "gag money" and fair compensation for the abuse he says he suffered at the hands of the Rev. Michael Toulouse, a priest who had worked in Spokane and at Seattle University, and a nun.

"I was wronged pretty bad," he said.

Whitney says he's trying to do the right thing in meeting personally with victims who request it and disclosing offenders' names as they come up.

Victims' assistance

Oregon Province victim-assistance coordinator: 509-939-9140 or cwagner@nwjesuits.org

Survivors Network of those Abused by Priests (SNAP): Seattle chapter: 206-854-5175 or snapseattle@snapnorthwest.org; www.snapnetwork.org

"I haven't tried to hide anything," said Whitney, provincial superior of the Oregon Province of the Society of Jesus. "I think the worst thing we can do as Jesuits is to say we have never sinned. I'm not trying to say that at all."

Since 2002, when the Roman Catholic Church's sex-abuse scandal broke nationwide, the spotlight has mainly been on parish priests in the country's 195 dioceses. In Washington, in part because of several high-profile cases involving Jesuits who worked at Seattle University and Gonzaga University in Spokane, attention is now focused on the Jesuits, considered the single largest of the Catholic Church's religious orders.

And as more victims come forward, many of the same concerns and criticisms that were raised about how dioceses have handled sex-abuse cases are now being raised about the Jesuits.

John Manly, a victims' attorney, says there's a disconnect between Whitney's words and the actions of lawyers defending the Jesuits. "They have the right to do whatever they want in a court of law," Manly says. "The problem is you can't have your cake and eat it too. [Whitney] will talk nicely to you. But then he'll leave the room and the knives come out."

Whitney says provincial leaders "always look for a pastoral solution." But if people turn to the courts, "we do everything within the ordinary ethics and course of the law."

To be sure, the Jesuits are not the only order receiving scrutiny. Allegations also have been leveled against orders such as the Christian Brothers, Salesians and Marianists.

Together, religious orders, which operate separately from the dioceses, claim about 13,500 priests — slightly less than half the number of diocesan priests.

According to a national study, priests in religious orders have had a lower percentage of child sex-abuse allegations than diocesan priests: about 2.7 percent between 1950 and 2002, compared with 3 to 6 percent of diocesan priests.

Like dioceses, orders are beholden to a 2002 policy passed by U.S. bishops on how to prevent and handle such cases. But it's up to each order to figure out how to implement the policy. Within the Jesuit order, each province forms its own plan and keeps its own statistics.

David Clohessy, executive director of the Survivors Network of those Abused by Priests (SNAP), would like to see a "one-stop shop" where people can find a comprehensive listing of names of everyone credibly accused within an order.

"The bottom line is this: The Jesuits can make it hard or easy for people to find out who molested. They're choosing to make it hard."

Gonzaga, Seattle U.

The Society of Jesus — the Jesuits — was founded some 450 years ago by St. Ignatius of Loyola.

Today there are some 19,000 Jesuits worldwide and about 3,000 nationwide. They are perhaps best known for their far-flung mission work, intellectual rigor and prestigious schools, including Georgetown University and Boston College. In Washington, along with Seattle U. and Gonzaga, they also run high schools including Seattle Preparatory School.

The order is divided into provinces, with the head of each — the provincial superior — answering to the superior general in Rome, who answers to the pope.

In the Oregon Province, which has about 250 Jesuits in Washington, Oregon, Alaska, Montana and Idaho, the number of abuse suits has been climbing.

About 25 Jesuits in the province have been credibly accused of abuse going back to the 1930s, Whitney said. Since 2002, the province has spent about $8.5 million to settle some 40 claims, and about 80 claims are pending.

In Washington, Whitney disclosed earlier that former Gonzaga University President John Leary, who died in 1993, had abused boys in the 1960s.

There also have been allegations against two deceased Seattle U. professors: Toulouse and the Rev. Englebert Axer. Last week, a Seattle U. official said the school would look into a written communication it received recently from a former student saying that an interaction decades ago with a now-deceased Jesuit faculty member made him uncomfortable.

Also last week, the Rev. Tony Harris resigned his vice presidency at Seattle U. after allegations resurfaced that he had sent pornographic greeting cards to a 25-year-old Jesuit seminarian years ago. That case had settled in 2000 with no admission of guilt, and Harris' record at Seattle U. has been spotless, school officials said.

In addition, at least a dozen women have said they were sexually abused as girls at a former Jesuit-run Indian boarding school on the Colville Indian Reservation, according to the women's attorney.

Most of the cases in the Oregon Province, though, are in Alaska, where there are at least 100 victims, many of them Native Alaskans.

For years, the Jesuits had sent priests to serve remote Alaskan villages, and some have theorized that Alaska was where Jesuit leaders sent troubled priests — a theory Whitney vehemently denies.

Elsie Boudreau, 38, of Anchorage, was one of several Native Alaskans who accused the Rev. James Poole of raping or molesting them decades ago. Had Jesuit leaders disclosed the names of abusers in the past, she said, healing could have begun sooner and "we would not be standing in silence believing we are the only ones."

Handling of allegations

In the Oregon Province, allegations typically are taken by a social worker who serves as a victims' assistance coordinator. Allegations that identify Jesuits by name are reported both to the police and to the provincial, and the accused is placed on administrative leave pending an investigation, Whitney said. If the accusation is deemed credible, the priest is permanently removed from ministry. If it's a criminal matter and the statute of limitations hasn't expired, police get involved.

Jesuits usually live together in small communities, pooling their salaries for living expenses, with the surplus typically going to the province. Whitney said it's this surplus, plus money from a rainy-day fund, that has been used to settle cases; he doesn't want to use donor funds, a main source of income for the province.

Victims' advocates have called for leaders of the Oregon Province to disclose the names of all those credibly accused within the province.

Whitney says the province has "tried to be as forthcoming as possible," disclosing individual names as allegations come in. He adds that many of the names have also appeared in news reports.

But Mike Shaffer, a plaintiffs' attorney, said the province has made it difficult to find out who the abusers are and how they've been dealt with, and hasn't produced some court-ordered records.

Defense lawyers dispute that, saying in court filings that despite the time it takes to dig through thousands of documents to find the relevant ones, they have produced the records. Manly, the plaintiffs' attorney, wonders if Whitney won't make all names readily available all at once because "he's concerned more victims will come forward."

Whitney says that's untrue and that he urges people to come forward, whether they pursue lawsuits or not.

He also notes that he has not sought confidentiality agreements from victims, except at their request, and hasn't enforced those put into place by his predecessors.

He and his small staff simply haven't had time to release a full list, he said. "A higher priority for me is being there pastorally for people who come forward."

Fingerprint plan for kids

Oct 25 2006

By Nick Coligan Political Reporter, Liverpool Echo

http://icliverpool.icnetwork.co.uk/0100new...-name_page.html

SCANNERS which read children's thumbprints when they buy school meals are being introduced in city schools.

The ECHO understands some faith schools in Liverpool are trying out the hitech equipment to improve speed and safety.

Instead of a child bringing their lunch money into the schools, parents pay electronically into a special account.

When the youngsters collect the food, they have their thumbs scanned to confirm the meal has been paid for.

A number of Catholic and Church of England schools are understood to be in the scheme, including St Paul's RC primary in West Derby.

It is not compulsory, but some parents believe it improves pupils' safety as they would not need to bring cash to school and risk being bullied for it. It also speeds up queues, and experts say a cashless system would stop pupils buying junk food.

No-one from the school was available to comment, but one parent said: "To me, the electronic scanning of seven-year-old children's thumbs is not in their best interests.

"About a month ago, we were first told a new cashless system would be coming into operation.

"If you really do not want your child's thumb scanned, they can input a six-digit number instead. So why use the thumb print at all?

"The previous system worked well for years, so I cannot think of a valid reason to introduce this."

Liverpool council has no plans to introduce the equipment.

Cllr Paul Klein, executive member for education, said: "I do have misgivings about it and it is something that parents should have to actively agree to.

"Any attempt by schools to force children to take part is wrong, and I would be very concerned if it became part of entry criteria, for example.

"I suppose it is a reflection of the times we live in, but I do not know where we draw the line."

Description: The WAR ON TERRA

dlux - October 24, 2006 03:23 PM (GMT)

<http://www.rense.com/general74/weaps.htm>

(An Address To The Dead)

By Michael Tsarion

10-22-6

Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing tactics, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception - Mark Twain

The WAR ON TERRA is merely the latest move in the great game played out by the Atonist Establishment, the Royals, and Vatican Jesuit-Masonic elites who expertly employ the Dialectic ("Ordo Ab Chao") to further their very personal aspirations which date back to an old world order that you are supposed to know nothing about. So lets get clear on a few things, and stay sane in the midst of growing insanity.

The "Israeli-Palestinian" conflict is engineered from London and New York by elites who have ancient origins and who use such bogus conflicts to create an ambience of fear and paranoia and to ensure that few are aware of the real enemy of mankind. Islamic "extremists" are funded by the same hidden hands that fund the Zionists and the Fundamentalist Christian Evangelists. Israel, dear people, the real Israel, has nothing to do with Jews, just as Christ has nothing to do with modern Vatican-style Christianity. We have been "Mel Gibsoned" and "Pat Robertzoned" to death and are mentally infected by many a deadly pathogen, the worst of which is IGNORANCE. The cure is on its way.

"Al Qaeda," your new bogey, is the brain-child of the same Vatican, New York City and London based intelligentsia that once funded Hitler and his Nazis, that concocted the now shelved "Soviet Experiment" that funded Franco, Pol Pot, Robert Mugabe, Batista, Pinochet, Noriega, and every other demagogue or tyranny throughout the world. The heat is being turned up "over there" both for ritual purposes (see my dvds) and to distract Americans from noticing the final demise of their once great country which has been scourged and raped economically and politically by its direst enemies, the legions of the British Crown. This crime, this War of Attrition, has been going on in plain view from the outset. It is complete now and there is no going back. The ignorance is wall to wall. Logic, Truth and Justice are corpses and the Children of the Nephilim continue to erect their vile empires over the bones. There is a reason why the word "corporation" contains the word "corp" (corpse).

A Jew is not a Zionist, as the Zionists and Masons (with their insider-smiles) well know. There is no "Holy Land" or "Chosen People." That is all a concoction of London and of the Vatican. Additionally, the fanatical heads of all major Islamic countries and states (all established artificially from post war England), those so-called "Jihadists" with "Anti Jewish" zeal are, likewise, British backed and educated agents totally complicit in the faux conflict they have been groomed to instigate. Zionism is not religious. It is a political and fanatical ideology hiding behind religious Judaism. Evangelism is a political and fanatical ideology with no basis in fact hiding behind the front of Christianity. The Evangelist preaches Masonic (Atonist) anti-Christian doctrines, but you buy into it because you want "Daddy" so badly, and because you have sold your own sanity for security. You are a safe in numbers. You are a "believer" on your way to the "promised land." Actually, you operate on the "slave-think" level and do your master's bidding unawares. You have grown accustomed to your prison and your servitude to death and lies. The biggest threat in your world is Truth. As long as you have a few cushions for your cell, so to speak, and as long as you are permitted an opinion or two within the political den created by your masters, you are okay with a mediocre life and the regimen of your primitive existence. You have convinced your screaming soul that it is safer and better to just conform and be a repressed, toxic, thoughtless, frustrated and programmed orc marching to the drum-beat of your imperious marshalls. As long as the slave can bellow "Allah" louder than the other slave bellowing "Anti-Semite," then all is well, and the death can stalk the lands.

We must always separate Zionism from the Jewish people...the Zionists work for the Pope and are Masonic...Shimon Perez is a Mason...he was trained by Jesuits as a young man when he grew up in Poland...he deeded the old city of Jerusalem to the Vatican in September 1993 - Erich Jon Phelps (Vatican Assassins Presentation. See above)

Yes, sleep well people, under the shadow of the great double-headed eagle which tears the world and your brothers and sisters to pieces. Any authority or intelligence who stands against the "Dialectic" is removed violently or compromised (Mohammad Mossedegh, Malcolm X, George Lincoln Rockwell, Ezra Pound, Senator McCarthy, etc.) and replaced by "Quislings," those puppets of the elite who bring ruin to their own people and to their supposed adversaries. While these straw dogs meet, in their secret lodges to laugh and jig, misery reigns abroad as it has done for millennia. And the world does not appear to be "getting the picture." Two rabid pit-bulls tear each other to pieces in a pen. Two rabid countries, factions, sects or cliques do the same thing on the world's stage. You think there is a difference? None that I can think of. Who built the pen? Whose taking the bets? That's your homework for the week folks.

Saddam had the maniacal extremists under control. They could not squeak under his regime and he was no threat to the States or to England. But he was expendable. He was merely a temporary pawn on the Grand Chessboard of the royal geostrategists. Eventually, like Prime-Minister Chamberlain, Ferdinand of Austria, Gustav III of Sweden, Tzar Nicholas, and so many others, he would be removed and sacrificed. And pawns too are those among you who will not see the Dialectic at work, and who continue to take sides in this "Skull" or "Bones" fiasco.

But as the wise know, inner sadism so easily finds its way out into the 3-D world. Those infected with emotional and psychic epidemics are at the helm of the "ship of state" and they are heading toward a crevasse. Are they alien, or are they human? Are they men or demons in human guise? Are they born from the womb of the world's ignorance, sadism and sickness? Yes, they are, and you are living in their forensic filth. You don't care or notice, because they have provided the necessary bread and circuses for your senses, appetites and edification. Their stench is not smelt under all that. They offer you power and that is what you have been taught to rank over the love you have never known or received and are now incapable of receiving. Your opinions are baked daily for you by the media and served hot and cold on TV. And you will believe what they tell ya. Its not what you think that matters, but what Larry King, Oprah, Limbaugh and O'Reilly (and other Jesuit stooges) tell ya that does. Their Orwellian "Talismanic" mantras guide your life - "I must give up liberty for freedom." Yes, I must, I must! Well, okay, but just remember that the walls that keep them out also keep you in. So much for your utopian "global village."

And the true teachers? Well they are always disagreeable threats, drawing your attention from your personal ego-based, tranquilized delirium. You have identified with the objects of your hate, as you have been taught, and have received a rickety form of psychological security as a result. An attack on this silent and unseen contract strikes at the root of the self-induced hallucination which has you believe that all adversaries and pathogens are external in origin, and that the problems which befall the you and the world are political and not psychological in nature. But that is okay. You can live out this lie all the days of your lives if you so desire, since it gets you off the hook. Soon, though, the matter will come into court, and be settled aright. The brief is being prepared now as you read. But, its comforting to know that when and if your insecurity gets too pronounced there is always the mosque, the synagogue, the chapel and the church. Yep, there is always GOD - the ultimate fix-all. After all, it is in God's name that you act. "Blow them all away" wasn't it, Mr. Mason, Jerry Falwell?

Your masters have your tranquilizers ready in abundance, 'cause they really do care for your safety and security. Their syringes are there to take away the pain. So bring the kids. But do you not inquire into why you have this pain? Is it because your quest for power and dominance is always frustrated by reality that you are stressed. You say you desire love and peace, but this is the lie upon which your whole anti-life is founded. You gave up wanting love a long time ago. Power-lust has taken its place. But you have never noticed this about yourself. And neither has the leader you place in power. You and he are self-blinded, bringing tragedy to the world.

And in this drama, what is the pattern. In the great script which is played out again and again, some bogey-man is put before you, and its "Lights, Camera, Action!" Year after year, decade after decade and century after century. The proof of the inside-job is before the world and in plain view. The facts are there, and nothing is concealed. What does the graffiti say then: Simply this - What your government does abroad today, it does at home tomorrow.

Our enemies are innovative and resourceful, and so are we. They never stop thinking about new ways to harm our country and our people, and neither do we - George W. Bush (Freudian-Slip during BBC interview)

...if the American people had ever known the truth about what we Bushes have done to this nation, we would be chased down in the streets and lynched - George Bush Senior (interview with Sarah McClendon, December 1992)

So when you see the leaders of Hezbollah, and of Israel (Zion-Aton), understand that you are seeing actors, agents of her royal lowness - Queen Elizabeth Windsor, of Saxe Coburg Gotha, of Hanover, of Guelph, of Venice and of Atonist Egypt. The Bushes and Schwartzkoffs, the Colin Powells and Rupert Murdochs, the Thatchers, Geldofs, Speilbergs and Guillianis, baby, they bow down their backs and get on their knees before her silver sword and accept her knighthoods, after all. Better start finding out why that would be.

So, when you see planes hitting the towers in New York City ("York Rite" of Freemasonry) and a stand-down policy of inaction against them, understand who is calling the shots. When you see a seated and catatonic president holding a book entitled: "America" UPSIDE-DOWN, intently listening to a "goat" story (Baphomet), wake up and ask why that would be.

And remember this friends - Civilizations rise and fall. Every one of them is based on the consciousness of the humans who create them. And this remains a fact whether you recognize the deep symbiosis between physical and psychic energy. Yes, civilizations are the extension of the human ego which also has a birth and death day.

Oh, but you did not know that. The historians, psycho-babblers, priests and teachers forgot to mention that. So you don't know that human ego-life is coming to an end. You did not know or suspect that god, and that which created him, can die. Well, you have just been told. The Maya saw four creations come and go, so there is nothing new there people. This cycle of creation has gone from beginning to end without the intermediate stage of civilization. Some doing.

If the development of civilization has such a far-reaching similarity to the development of the individual and if it employs the same methods, may we not be justified in reaching the diagnosis that, under the influence of the cultural urges, some civilizations, or some epochs of civilization- possibly the whole of mankind - have become "neurotic?" - Sigmund Freud (Civilization and Its Discontents, 1930)

There is no anti-depressant that will cure a depression that's spiritually based, for the malaise doesn't originate from brain dysfunction, but from an accurate response to the desecration of life - David R. Hawkins (Power Vs. Force)

You ask - why were our ancestors more sane and positively productive? Why were they less aggressive, acquisitive, destructive? Why were they closer to nature? What is wrong with the way you exist? Well, the psychologists and sociologists of merit have been telling you for years. You are disassociated. You have infantile amnesia and inhabit an abstraction which is an anti-life. You are dead to the real and alive to the simulacra. You are outer-directed and always on the go. You've replaced experience with reaction, intimacy with performance. Your thinking is autistic, narcissistic and masochistic, and your in denial of your denial. You use your pain to gain attention. Your ambition is your avoidance of inwardness. You compete to prove your better and that you matter. You adore the clutter, noise, over-stimulation, and domestic minutiae because it distracts you from attending to your Dharma (Authentic Destiny). You crave a relationship because you have none with yourself. You want children because by your twenties you are sick of yourself. You crave more so you can feel rich.

What does that all mean? It means that you are unaware that you are unaware, and that you have given up the right rulership of yourself. It means that you have become totally dependent upon the priests, politicians, medics and corporations telling you what to think and believe. It means that you desire anything and everything that fulfills your senses while rejecting and avoiding that which would fulfill your soul. And most of all, it means that you know only your idea of reality and not reality itself. And everyone around you is the same mess. Your ideas conflict with their ideas and therefore no true intimacy or relationship is possible. You are not miles apart, you are ideas apart. And so you have hatreds, enemies, problems, stress and confusion. And you are aggressive because, like infants, you insist that reality take on the shape of your beloved ideas. It won't take it on, so you get more hardened, frustrated and aggressive. You admire and despise those with better "ideas." Your friends are those who corroborate and endorse your infantile and contradictory ideas, those priests and pastors and gurus. Your enemies are those who defy or overpower your ideas, that coveted image of yourself and the world. You lie to yourself and the world when you say that your idea is Truth itself. Is it? You were breast-fed these ideas by parents and school-teachers, the priests and the politicians. And now you water them with your own juices. You don't want to ever be free from these transmitted ideas that mean so much and which stand between you and the Real. You have sold your souls to preserve the lie so how could you care or care for the lives of others. The megadeth, the genocide and the fanaticism - its normal phenomena in an sick world of abnormal people committing the worst crimes toward their very own selves as well as to others. Are you still looking for weapons of mass destruction? I can tell you exactly where they are.

Your own parents may have neglected your need for tenderness and care in those years of most vulnerability. So was it from that time that you became an enemy of vulnerability and love? Trying to win it caused you too much pain. So, was it from that time that you became a disciple of power and death? You were taught by emotionally mutilated parents and teachers to despise your own natural needs for the things that they were incapable of imparting. You grew to hate your desires and natural needs and not them. You learned to worship them and despise yourself and writhe in guilt over this negation of your own precious selfhood. Now, you find that you don't have love to give either, except when it suits the performance which is your life. You wanted to lose your own identity in mother and in father and now you get your chance with Big Daddy. But he won't give love either because he too is a apostle of death. He too has murdered himself and has power in the place of love. His greatness comes with each person or country he crushes and humiliates. Did you not get a great thrill when Saddam was crushed? Were you not silently elated? And did that not feel great to see your boys triumph? Out came your bumper-stickers and little flags waving in the wind. Yes, it is easy to topple a small pawn on the board game of your own invention. The greatness and power you adore is founded on just this kind of contrivance. At home, at work, in the office, on the battlefields, and in your heart. Do you imagine that god endorses the war makers? Is that what you think?

Blessed be the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God - Matt 5:8
When an alien lives with you in your land, do not mistreat him. The alien living with you must be treated as one of your native-born. Love him as yourself - Leviticus 19:33-34

Having projected his anger onto the world, he sees vengeance about to strike at him. His own attacks thus perceived as self-defense - (The Course in Miracles)

And you leave your children little recourse but to repeat this nonsense. Your schools, churches and families knock the Spirit of Rebellion out of them all and replace it with hypocrisy and conformity. Their innocence and freedom of thought, their doubt and natural intelligence which are lethal to your fraudulence and covert power-struggles, are eviscerated with surgical skill. They soon learn how to perform as you do, and to become expert in self-deception. They too learn how to be psychic cripples and how to go on to mutilate the self-esteem of their own dependents that they gain power over. They too learn that love is nothing and possession everything. And why not? What have they been taught? What have they been force-fed? So, memorize this fact, and make it gospel - never in your life, in no place and at no time, have you ever seen a child. What you see are slaves, slaves to tyranny behind a smile and a rotten carrot.

Once upon a time, at home or in school, you too realized that this was the choice that you were being asked to make. You discovered, to your soul's horror, that you were being asked to conform to narrow, insane, artificial molds and to relinquish true self-will. And at that time you made the choices which have shaped your future and your destiny. Quietly, you chose either the way of conformity or the way of rebellion. It was a simple "yes!" or "no!" choice. If you chose the latter then you are a child of the true Holy Spirit. If you chose the former you have nothing to do with that Spirit. You are in fact a sinner against it. The priests and pastors don't serve Jesus or the Holy Spirit. They themselves conform and so they want you do the same. What they want and what they teach is the pure antithesis of the message of the true Holy Spirit. They invent the very hells they fear. They are the very hell they fear. But you pay their way since, after all, they expertly endorse and reinforce your own distorted ideas about life, god and cosmos. Lucifer's business is booming.

Yes, the psychologists have already told you what's up. As they have said, a child is born a blank slate, innocent and pure, simple and direct, looking for wholeness and meaning. But instead he gets blasted with a vast chaotic mess of things to identify with and absorb. From the instant he is born in today's hypermanic world he is massively over-exposed to the perverse and meaningless phenomena of society that itself lacks cohesion or a center, and in which nothing is sacred. He meets no wise grandparents or guides. His parents he rarely sees. He becomes as lost and vacuous as the sick world to which he has been exposed. He is overwhelmed with all the "diversity" (a talismanic word you love) and his ego cannot integrate correctly. He is fractured just as his society is fractured. As every year passes, there is less and less integration between the facets of the once cohesive culture. By design, there is constant invasion of foreign elements. This is due to the connivance of your government and your media which has steadily peddled the false merits of over-diversification and globalization for decades now. In the end, there are so many sub-cultures and cliques and groovy splinter sects, that one has a devil of a time planting any kind of real or lasting roots. Identification with sane things cannot occur. Therefore, the all too fragile personality of the infant is weak and shallow. Is this not exactly the kind of meekness that the Masters of the Game are so ardently desire. Try going into a confectionary shop to eat every kind of sweet there. You'll be a sick as hell in minutes. But this is the way that you have force-fed our ego since the beginning. You are mentally obese. And still you want more.

What a great advantage for leaders that the people do not think - Adolf Hitler

Your puppet-masters at the Vatican, at the Tavistock Institute, and at Georgetown University, don't want you going around free, integrated and sane. Then you are a danger to them. So, they perpetually over-infuse alien cultures and mores into your lifespace and, as a result, all peoples and all traditions are compromised. Mention race, tribe, ethnicity or national sovereignty and you are looked at as if you are a dinosaur, an anachronism, something to be liquidated.

The media viruses have, like an acid, corroded your consciousness and made you insane. A pornographic media has fragmented your children psychically so they don't know if they are coming or going. They are emotionally mutilated shards. They try this and that, until jaded and sullied they find out that it's all a sick joke. They seek crude power and dominance and finally crave extinction from their own inner angst and fragmentation. Their case is critical, but you cannot fix them. You too are broken and lost. So, after the Media is done, the Medics move in with their panaceas. You have become comfortably numb. You may even crave pain to feel alive. You ride the roller-coaster in your relationships and use conflict to prick yourself awake. You join the club, the herd, and think and act as they do. You have no true sense of self, but you can cluster with other non-selves and get a sense of identity and purpose that way. If Bill O'Reilly and Oprah say it's good, you squeal - it's goooood!!!

One girl, hospitalized in a state mental hospital, had slashed her wrists and explained her act by saying that she wanted to see if she had any blood. One of the boys in the training school, for instance, threw rocks up on top of his garage and let them roll down, and would try to catch each rock with his head. His explanation was that this was the only way in which he could feel something. He reported that feeling the pain made him feel at least something - Erich Fromm (Anatomy of Human Destructiveness)

As babies, you did not like being separated from your mothers. No, that was most traumatic. You did not like having to be independent that day and so independence has always been inwardly suspected and cursed. To this day you associate independence of thought and action with pain, anxiety and trauma. Like toddlers of 2 or 3 years old you are aware of, and afraid of, your own fragility physically and mentally. And so you over-estimate the power and strength (another talismanic word) of the FATHER. He possesses the strength that you, in your infantilism, do not possess. You understand, perhaps that it does not exist in your society, country or world. But you don't see its absence closer to home. Moreover, it is this infantile fragility and lack of private inner strength that prevents you from seeing the other sanely and aright. The other is an enemy not a friend. He is not a human to be respected or regarded as a separate independent being with just as many rights as you. No, to you he is a threat and your heroism depends on his annihilation. This will show Daddy how good and empowered you are.

Now can you see why demagogues rise so easily? When mummy and daddy leave, you cannot stand the pain of aloneness and independence. It is the most painful thing to endure. So you make the world pay for your inability to face this pain which comes with natural organic maturation. That is alright. It is no problem. Those guys are merely the not-you, so their suffering does not count or matter. Dead bugs on the windscreen. As long as Daddy and God pat you on the head, you are satisfied. What they espouse becomes the consensus. Country is important. Government and Homeland Security is important. Patriotism is important. Being the hero, that too is important. The strong hero replaces the weak child. Yep, all of that is important, but not the lives of murdered men, women and children, whom you have never met. Daddy's logic is so sweet and simple - when they, the threats, are all gone, all gone away, all dead, then you will have no more fear and no more enemy. Then heaven will descend to earth and peace will reign in the hearts of all god's good obedient children. Then you will finally be a "strong" nation. Then you will feel so strong...like Thulsa Doms enjoying the aroma atop your mountain of corpses and bones.

And what of the inner republic? In that narrow, sterile, super lit asylum your dark guardians come and go bringing their reports that tell of terrible inner ruin and what is to be done to get back to real sanity. But you call them Anger, Fear, Hate, Violence, Loneliness, and put up great barriers to make sure that their counsel is never heard. Society has fractured your being, and so you go on to pathologically censor yourself, thereby bringing further catastrophe to your inner republic and to the world. You are like a person living in a nook beneath the staircase of a wondrous mansion which you have been expertly taught to fear to explore. Is it not time to open some doors and step out onto the high balcony again to hear the great bells of creation ringing.

The real Armageddon, the real war - is on CONSCIOUSNESS. Other brawls are merely an adroitly crafted distraction to prevent you from knowing this. What you get on TV is a global snuff film courtesy of her majesty in London and his highness in Roma, designed to drain every ounce of self-will and power from your mind and heart. Yes, the war is against that which is most precious in this world of men - Reason, Virtue, Sanity, Freedom, and Selfhood. Professor Tolkein has told you now, and "V" had something to say on the subject. Were you listening?

You exist in a state of zombification. And this is not a joke. You are the "Manchurian Candidate." You have been drugged and slowly poisoned by unseen voodoo priests that control your very thoughts. Through their drugs (schools, media, corporations, indoctrination, and fear, etc) they have gradually but successfully narrowed and limited the parameters of your consciousness. Their real mastery lies in their ability to convince you, their mannequin, that you are actually in control of your own mental and somatic functions, your own thoughts and beliefs. In this way they are superior to the normal bug-eyed witch-doctor. And, may we ask, what is the nature of the hypnotized person? His sensitivity is drastically reduced. His thinking is done for him by someone else. If he is told he is Superman or Sir Lancelot he will believe it. His perception is altered. He will believe anything he is told. He will act out his inhibitions and repressed instincts. Logic and reason have gone out the window. Meaning has the same value as madness. Salt can taste like sugar. He will commit criminal acts that he would avoid in the fully conscious state. He will feel no guilt for his heinous actions. He will walk off the edge of a cliff if told to do so. Truth could be hollered into his ears ad infinitum and he will remain vacant and indifferent. Get the picture?

You, or your country, can choose the way of love or the way of power. Choice is given man to show who and what he is. If you chose the wrong road there is time to change direction. But if you have chosen wrongly you will be held accountable by the higher self (the Holy Spirit) that suffers from your neglect and endorsement of lies and death. The Holy Spirit approaches, and many minds are worried. They know that the end is approaching and that the Cleansing is at hand. Therefore, its "party to the end" and "lets get smashed." Satiating the senses is the only high left. More toys please!

Can you find the still-point in the midst of all of this insanity? Or will you tranquilize yourself all the more. Will you edit, or will you observe.

To gain that which is worth having, it may be necessary to lose everything else -

Title: 'Pontifex Maximus' Roman or Babylonian?

ov3rkomer - October 12, 2006 09:11 PM (GMT)

I've been trying to find a source reference which shows the term 'Pontifex Maximus' in the Babylonian religion.

Many sites state something like this:

QUOTE

Title Pontifex Maximus name for chief head of the pagan Babylonian system of idolatry

QUOTE

The Babylon Kings, served as both king and priest of the pagan Babylonian Mystery religion. As priests, they bore the title "Pontifex Maximus" or "Supreme Pontiff," meaning "supreme pathfinder" or "bridge maker," representing "the path or connection between this life and the next." Thus we see THE SUPREME HIGH PRIEST OF BABYLON is Pontifex Maximus.

Obviously 'Pontifex Maximus' is a Latin-Roman term, used today by the popes. Where is the connection to the Babylonian Religion? I'm looking for a reliable reference (dictionary or book). Obviously Babylon did not use Latin. So the term in Aramaic (for example) would be different. What term did they use? Is the connection just by having a similar position as supreme high-priest (kind of like the Dalai Lama)? Or did the Babylonians actually use the term 'Pontifex Maximus' (translated) in some way?

I checked 'The Two Babylons' by Hislop, but did not quite find a clear answer there, yet.

ov3rkomer - October 13, 2006 10:52 PM (GMT)

I wanted to find out if the following statement is correct: The Babylon Kings, served as both king and priest of the pagan Babylonian Mystery religion. As priests, they bore the title "Pontifex Maximus" or "Supreme Pontiff,". I especially wanted to know what title they used in Babylon. This is probably a minor matter to most of you. Anyways, here are the references:

QUOTE

...the worship of heroes and prominent men was common, at least in early times. The tenth chapter of Genesis tells us of the story of Nimrod, who cannot be any other than the Merodach of the Assyro-Babylonian inscriptions; and other examples, occurring in semi-mythological times, are /En-we-dur-an-ki/, the Greek Edoreschos, and /Gilgameš/, the Greek Gilgames, though Aelian's story of the latter does not fit in with the account as given by the inscriptions. In later times, the divine prefix is found before the names of many a Babylonian ruler--Sargon of Agadé,[*] Dungi of Ur (about 2500 B.C.), Rim-Sin or Eri-Aku (Arioch of Ellasar, about 2100 B.C.), and others. It was doubtless a kind of flattery to deify and pay these rulers divine honours during their lifetime,

The deification of the kings of Babylonia and Assyria is probably due to the fact, that they were regarded as the representatives of God upon earth, and being his chief priests as well as his offspring (the personal names show that it was a common thing to regard children as the gifts of the gods whom their father worshipped), the divine fatherhood thus attributed to them naturally could, in the case of those of royal rank, give them a real claim to divine birth and honours.

Another reference to a High Priest:

QUOTE

...concerning the importance of Babylon, Merodach's city, later on, there is no doubt whatever. The rise of Anu and Ēa to divine overlordship, however, may not have been due to the political supremacy of the cities where they were worshipped--it may have come about simply on account of renown gained through religious enthusiasm due to wonders said to have been performed where they were worshipped, or to the reported discovery of new records concerning their temples, or to the influence of some renowned high-priest, like En-we-dur-an-ki of Sippar, whose devotion undoubtedly brought great renown to the city of his dominion.

from THE RELIGION OF BABYLONIA AND ASSYRIA by Theophilus G. Pinches, Lecturer in Assyrian at University College, London

Another reference to the Babylonian Supreme Priest:

QUOTE

Somewhat mysterious, and still awaiting a satisfactory explanation, is the title ' sacrificer,' or 'priest of Anu,' which one of the rulers of Lagash, Ur-Nin-girsu, assumes. It is scarcely possible that the god of heaven can be meant; and, on the other hand, if we are to assume merely a personification of heaven, we encounter fresh difficulties. It seems to me that the use of Anu' here is purely metaphorical for 'high' or 'lofty,' and that the king merely wishes to emphasize the dignity of his station by declaring himself to be the heavenly priest, somewhat as we should say ' priest by divine grace,' or ' supreme priest.'

THE RELIGION OF BABYLONIA AND ASSYRIA

BY MORRIS JASTROW, JR., PH.D., PROFESSOR OF SEMITIC LANGUAGES IN THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Worship of the Priest-King of Babylon:

QUOTE

Then a herald cried aloud: "To you it is commanded, O peoples, nations, and languages, that at the time you hear the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, you shall fall down and worship the gold image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up; and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast immediately into the midst of a burning fiery furnace." So at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the horn, flute, harp, and lyre, in symphony with all kinds of music, all the people, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the gold image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

Dan 3:4-7 NKJV

Alexander Hislop in 'The Two Babylons describes it like this:

QUOTE

The College of Cardinals, with the Pope at its head, is just the counterpart of the Pagan College of Pontiffs, with its "Pontifex Maximus," or "Sovereign Pontiff," which had existed in Rome from the earliest times, and which is known to have been framed on the model of the grand original Council of Pontiffs at Babylon.

My preliminary conclusion: Babylon did not use the term Pontifex Maximus, but they had an equivalent position vested in the king of Babylon. The kings of Babylonia were the Chief Priests, representatives of God on earth and deified as god. This parallels the Roman 'Pontifex Maximus' in all aspects, even though the title "Pontifex Maximus" or "Supreme Pontiff" was apparently not used in Babylonia. Thus 'Pontifex Maximus' is merely a Roman term used by Roman Emperors and RC Popes until today.

The title pontifex means literally "bridge builder" because they bridged the gap between the world of man and the world of the gods.

pont means bridge in french so fix a bridge is pontifex. It is roman for sure: http://sights.seindal.dk/sight/1244_Pontifex_maximus.html link: <http://www.google.nl/search?hl=nl&q=pontif...e+builder&meta=>

Ok, so now we know why they put so much bridges on the euro:

It is all about pontifex maximus and venus ofcourse our lady current sea!

But there is another guy which is a bridge builder he is the intermediar between man and god. This oral tradition you can find at the highest rank of the york rite his name?

YODA!!!! named after juda! And his protectors are the knights (noeight=saturn)

Pontifex maximus is like the bridges to babylon! (rolling stones tour)

Smith is a Temporal Coadjutor. Lorraine Day is excellent when it comes to nutrition and dealing with SOME health problems. Day isn't the best researcher otherwise by now she would have finally realised HIV doesn't exist and the true reasons for what we term AIDS. What Lorraine Day knows about the hierachy of the conspiracy you can write on the back of a postage stamp with a market pen. Shes just following the dumb sheeple conspiracy which is thrown around willy nilly by everyone, even non conspiracy researchers including children.

QUOTE

Honestly if people just read vatican assasins and listen to Jordan Maxwell amongst others, it will become clear that Zlonists are not in charge of this conspiracy, they are not the head of the agenda and to suggest they are when the vatican owns most of Israel including Temple Mount, is serious disinfo.

People don't want to be bothered my friend, they wish to just latch onto the first thing which comes along which fits with their belief system. They are no different to pure sheep disagreeing that theres even a conspiracy. These people are worse infact because they think they know it all yet know absolutely nothing much more than the pure sheep! Yes all the decent truthsayers help expose the RCC and Jesuits such as Sherman Skolnick, Eric Phelps, Michael Tsarion, Jordan Maxwell and many more. My friend the Jesuits created Zionism formerly known as Sionism and this is basically the pure Ancient babylonian Mysteries religion which will become the basis of the one world religion once their World Council of Churchs agenda is completed. Yes the Vatican owns 60% of Israel along with Temple Mount. Go check out the sheer amount of the world's land the Vatican own and be amazed, then include their Wealth, Treasures and Knowledge. Remember knowledge is the true power, the power of the Intellect and this is what the Sun worship really means if we go deep enough even further than Astro-theology.

QUOTE

I do believe perhaps that the highest level Zionist Elite are on par with The Jesuit Order, i hear Rothschild is a vatican banker and nowhere near the wealth of the Italian black nobility, but the agenda is not Zionist.

Sorry but right now and since the doctrines of Infallibility, no one comes close to the power of the `ELders of the secrets of the ages' known as the Jesuit Order (The Black Brotherhood) aka Alumbrados the Original Illuminati if you please. The only order which could come close is the Sovereign Military of Malta which is basically now a brother organisation of the Jesuit Order.

QUOTE

Possession is 9/10 's of the law. Who owns and controls the media, the press, the alternative media? Who monitors telecommunications? Who is stockpiling WMD's? Who creates the money? Who is benefitting? What truth is being suppressed more than anything else? What cultural background do the Jewish kids behind Loose Change come from? oops. Christianity was created by Jews who call themselves a race and are nothing more than a racist religion.

The Sovereign Military of Malta own and control the law for the Jesuit Order. The law is the law of the sea being International Maritime Admiralty Law superimposed over our common law so we do not see it. This law was created by the Knights Templar based on the Vatican's CANON LAW. Remember who the Knights Templar worked under during and at the end of their publicly known existence and yes it was the Catholic Church up until October 13th 1307. It was two Pope's who gave the Templars the white and red cross emblem. Then of course things went more underground and they exist today as The Sovereign Military of Malta and Scottish Rite Freemasonry. Now remember who created all the degrees of Scottish Rite including the ones instituted by Fredrick the Great II and yes it was the almighty Jesuit Order. Who controls Israel, its government and policies as well as the United States? The Council on Foreign Relations! Who created the United Nations? The CFR! Who controls the CFR? The Sovereign Military of Malta via the Round table of Maltese Knights in New York headed by Archbishop of NY Cardinal Edward Egan. The only people above Egan is the highest level Georgetown and Fordham university Jesuits and of course The Pope and the 78th grandmaster and prince of the SMOM Cardinal Andrew Willoughby Ninian Bertie, both subordinate to the Society of Jesus and its Superior General Peter Hans Kolvenbach.

Who creates the money? This is done by yet again the Vatican who control all banking and finance via Switzerland, The City, New York and Dubai. Who created the Bank Of England? Jesuits thanks to William of Orange. Who controls the Federal Reserve? The Jesuits via the SMOM. What happened to the jew Astor when he wouldn't play ball? He was assassinated along with his other buddies on the Titanic thanks to the Jesuit Order and especially the Jesuit who captained the ship. Where do we get the term money from? From Rome where Caesar coined his money known as the Temple of Monet next to Capitoline Hill in Rome. Who created International Banking? No not jews but the Knights Templars!

The current hierachy of the Ancient Babylonian mystery religion is benefitting headed by the Jesuits who believe in the pure mystery religion. This is why they infiltrated the RCC in order to destroy the perverse version of the mysteries known as Christianity created by a Roman Emperor who was a pagan sun worshipper and nothing to do with jews. The ancient bible texts if we want to go deep enough are simply written by Egyptian Pharoahs for Pharoahs and in fact most knowledge can easily be traced back to Akhenaton.

It would be nice when finally people realise that all these different groups work together in order to complete the goal of a New Atlantis one world system headed by the universal monarch. This monarch will be the pope we know of today but most likely called something entirely different. The churchs are all being joined up thanks to the Jesuits and their World Council of Churchs etc in order to eventually replace all the religions with one freemasonic based religion known to some as Zionism. No this is not a jewish thing which you've all been lead up the garden path with. The Jesuits are the pinnacle to all of this.

Posession is 9/10 of the law? Well maybe Ariel Sharon thought this but he was soon cabbaged via 'The Cup of Borgia' thanks to Vatican assassin Shimon Peres and his buddie. So why was this exactly? Because Sharon wasn't playing ball with the Pope and his land of Israel. The Vatican owns more wealth, treasures, land & knowledge than any other group(s) on the face of the Earth. The Vatican control all the intelligence agencies and its been made even easier via simply British SIS controlling all the agencies just the same as CIA controls the ISI lower down etc. British SIS control Mossad and if the truth be known all 3 agencies excluding the NSA and SIS groups like Blackwater were all in on 9-11 working together. People need to get this seperates out of their heads. The game works just the same as political parties, on the outside they look opposites but on the inside their the same. Again its the CFR who controls both U. S and Israel and this is where people get the idiotic impression that israel controls U.S foreign policy. Again who controls the CFR and yes its the SMOM and who controls the U.N? The SMOM. Who does Olmert and Peres work for? Yes the Pope and this is why their where their at. This is also the reason why Peres quickly went to see the Pope prior to his new position and those events mentioned earlier. The Pope outwardly rules this planet whilst the Superior General inwardly rules the Pope from the highest level of control known on this planet.

QUOTE

Jesuits may have exercised some power a long time ago. Today they are a joke. It's laughable that people perpetuate this nonsense.

This comment is laughable and I like how you say some power, the Jesuits have exercised the highest level of power in this world since the Pope became the Infallible one thanks to the Doctrines of Infallibility. Even before this the Jesuits were the highest power of any Order on the Planet but once they finally took over the RCC that was it and full domination happened ever since. Who controls the United States and United Kingdom. If you simply did real homework you would finally understand the truth instead of half truths and nonsense spread by disinformation artists all over this troublesome internet.

By the way the Rothschilds have very very little power and are eclipsed in wealth by the high level Black Nobility Italian families as exposed by ex MI6(SIS) agent Dr John Coleman and others. The Rothschilds are simply the Keepers of the Vatican Treasury as defined in the Jewish Encyclopedia. Mere pawns like the Monarchs for the all powerful RCC and its hierarchy the Jesuit Order and SMOM.

QUOTE

Oh ok and the Knights Templar/SMOM are only a highly decorated ceremonial organisation, and Emperor Constantine the man who installed Christianity was a Jew was he, were many of the emperors of Rome Jewish?

The SMOM is the only order who comes close to their brother the Jesuit Order for sheer power. The Knights Templars are still thriving but within the Sovereign Military of Malta and the Scottish Rite freemasonry. Remember that the Scottish Rite 33rd Supreme council is one of the groups with the Jesuits Order of Illuminati. Remember on that B'Nai B'Rith is controlled by the Scottish Rite and they too have a presence at their highest level within the Jesuit Order of Illuminati.

Your absolutely correct and no Jew created Christianity and the emperors of almighty Rome were not Jew.

QUOTE

BTW Rupert Murdoch is not Jewish or a Zionist he is a Roman Catholic, as is his wife, what is this disinfo that people keep peddling about media being Zionist, is Conrad Black a Zionist?

This is absolutely correct, he's a Knight of St Gregory the Great which you can only be if you're a Roman Catholic. It was his 2nd wife which was Roman Catholic my friend. Now remember on that Rupert Murdoch doesn't really exist as such. Rupert's real surname is GREENSBERG but he changed it to Green once and then to Murdoch. Murdoch is subordinate to the Pope and of course hes actually a British SIS agent and his Fox News is simply a spy nest riddled with SIS agents/lackies. Also remember that MSNBC is also a British SIS nest! Conrad Black is linked into all this of course also.

QUOTE

Canon Law and Temporal Law are the perfect apparatus for control under a new world order, Maritime admiralty law is based on Canon Law and is the basis according to various highly commended researchers for maritime admiralty law the apparatus which enabled the creation of the Corporation of the USA, and the SMOM controlled Federal reserve.

Yes this is correct and Temporal Power is simply another word for One World Government. Maritime controls the almost all of the world my friend and its simply the law of the sea or law of money and who controls all money/banking/finance for the Jesuits? The Sovereign Military of Malta (Knights Templars). The Federal Reserve is controlled via the Round Table of Maltese Knights in NY headed by Cardinal Egan and closely monitored by Fordham University and the U.S powerhouse the Georgetown University of which Clinton brags about so much.

QUOTE

So if you accept the Jesuit Order exerted influence in past times what makes you think they still do not, considering the Black nobility families the Jesuit Order schooled, installed and manipulated in the past still sits atop the control pyramid.

Its all about belief systems my friend. People like this simply cannot see further than their nose. Its like all the people who are aware of the Sun worship going back all the way to the Celts and Druids yet still believing in Jesus Christ, its laughable.

QUOTE

Hitler and Himmlerr based the control apparatus of the Nazi party and SS on the heirarchy of the Catholic church, The Jesuit Order, why would Hitler base his party on a defunct and powerless troupe of Occult Priests and theologians, he wouldn't unless they were not defunct and were infact the most powerful occult organisation in the world.

This is absolutely correct! One thing though and thats people should understand that the original source of this powerful control pyramidal system was the Islamic order known to most as the Assassins and this is where the Templars and eventually SMOM picked up all their knowledge from. By the way the Jesuit Order are the highest level of Black Magick and Sorcerory (The Black Brotherhood). Think of them as Set.

TruthSeeker24 - September 13, 2006 12:16 PM (GMT)

Excellent response 2tuff. I wouldn't of said it better myself. I would say that I have different religious beliefs than you. Just because people believe in Jesus Christ doesn't mean it's laughable. All religions have similarities, yet not all religious concepts ought to be rejected for there are moral absolutes. There has to be a Creator here. You have to be really stupid to deny a Creator or God in forming the universe by the design, other evidence, etc. This other guy spewed so many lies that I had trouble keeping up with his lies. I will add so more information on here, so be patient. I will answer the Jew basher's questions about the media, Hitler, etc. Now as 2tuff eloquently, the main religious and political philosophies of many sinister groups like the Jesuit originated from the ancient Babylonian Mystery religion. You can witness that from the Eucharist, the IHS logo of the Jesuits, confessional, Tammuz plus Semiaris, and all the way through the concepts of astrology. Alexander Hislop's "The Two Babylons" outline this truth greatly. Now, the Roman empire was a backbone into the creation of the Roman Catholic Church. All of the Roman emperors were Gentiles (as far as I'm concerned were Gentiles) and the Roman Catholic Church in essence was nothing more than a rehash of the Gentile ancient Mysteries (not Torah Judaism), because the Mysteries existed before Judaism was invented. In fact, the Roman empire persecuted Christians and Jews along with the Vatican. If this was a Jewish not Jesuit conspiracy, why would the Vatican slaughter millions of Christians, Jews, Muslims, religious dissidents, political dissidents, etc? The answer is that it isn't a Jewish conspiracy.

Who ruled Europe during the Middle Ages? It wasn't the Jews running Europe when they were hunted like animals and forced to wear tags for identification (in some cases). It was the Vatican (not the Jewish people) controlling most of the land, religious texts, and wisdom of Europe during that period of history. The Vatican supported the many Crusaders raping and pillaging Europe plus the Middle East. As for who controls the media, that's easy. The people who control the media aren't mostly Jews, but Gentiles in the CFR, the Vatican, Bilderberg Group, Trilateral Commission, and other organizations. For example, the head of the FOX Empire is billionaire Papal Knight of the St. Gregory Rupert Murdoch. The head of AOL/Time Warner (which has control of CNN, AOL, Time, Sports Illustrated, etc.) is Gentile CFR member Richard D. Parsons. The founder of the National Review was Knight of Malta Gentile William Buckley Jr. Roman Catholic and 1001 Club member Emilio Azcárraga Milmo Jr. is a Mexican media mogul. Gentile Roman Catholic Knight of Malta Gustavo Cisneros is a billionaire, media magnate, and a member of the Pilgrim Society. Cisneros is the CEO of the Cisneros Group of Companies [very prominent in Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands], which has large stakes in companies like Univision, AOL Latin America, DirecTV Latin America, and a score of other media companies. It's apparent the the Jesuits, Knights of Malta (never forget that the Knights of Malta stole the wealth of Knights Templar after they were condemned by the Pope in 1307. The Knights Templar set the foundation of the European international banking empire and the Knights gotten much of their wealth. As 2tuff truthfully wrote, the Templars gain much influence from the occult Islamic Assassins group that rejected Orthodox Islam. The Knights of Malta to this day have firm control of much of the corporate and political monopolies of the world. They are also called the Sovereign Military Order of Malta), high level Freemasons and their underlings rule the world by these facts alone. If the Jews solely rule the media, they would cry to the rooftops about the Vatican/Nazi link, the Inquisition, the Ratlines, the Ustashi terrorists, etc. constantly. Instead, you have the Masonic ADL giving out the "The Cardinal Bea Interfaith Award" to people. Why a Jew would ever be a Catholic is beyond me, because the Vatican slaughtered their people more than any other creed in history.

That isn't disinformation. It's disinformation for people like Daryl Bradford Smith and Jew basher madthumbs to ignore these connections. As for Loose Change, who cares if they're Jewish. It doesn't matter if they're Jewish. It matters if they are righteous in their acts. They have been sincere with other folks in the world. Evil people exist in Jews and Gentiles not solely Jewish people. Christianity was created by Jews. There is nothing wrong with that. Buddhism was created by Asians, but that doesn't mean we're experiencing an Asian/Buddhist conspiracy globally. What does acknowledging your race and heritage in a legitimate manner have to do with being a racist? That's honorable. I honor any man that isn't ashamed of his heritage or race. The elite want us to disregard our heritage in promoting multiculturalism and bashing moral values. So, that isn't racist. Christianity (regardless of what people think about it) states that all believers are one in Christ. That doesn't sound racist to me. The Jesuits aren't a joke, because they have the most numbers than any Vatican order in the world. They have members worldwide and had roles in the spread of vaccinations and diseases in the Third World, the French Revolution (Voltaire, Robespierre, and other Revolutionary leaders were Jesuit trained individuals. The Freemason Voltaire (of the Nine Sisters Lodge) was a known friend of the Jesuit named Poree), the assassination of Abraham Lincoln (as presented in CT Wilcox's new book), the Russian Revolution, the Third Reich (Edmond Paris' "The Secret History of the Jesuits" proved the Nazi SS modeled themselves after the Jesuits and Himmler's uncle was a Jesuit priest and a SS officer. Jesuit priest Bernhardt Stempfle wrote Mein Kampf for Hitler. That's proven by the testimonies of Edmond Paris and Otto Strasser, who was a Roman Catholic founder of the Nazi Party. The Nazi reign reached into high gear with the Reichstag fire of February 27, 1933. Before on July 1933, Knight of Malta Franz von Papen [representing the Nazis] signed a concordat with Pope Pius XI. The concordat was never revoked and Hitler was never excommunicated from Rome for his actions. If this alone was shown in the mainstream media, it would be excellent. Even Nazi Martin Bormann's eldest son, Adolph was a Jesuit temporary. After the war, the Vatican sent many of the Nazis out from justice through the Ratlines, Hunt agreement, and Operation ODESSA The Jesuit-inspired SS led as a backbone of the Knight of Malta-influenced CIA. On a higher level, there has always been an OTO/NASA/Nazi/CIA connection evident by many Nazis coming into NASA and other facts), The Vietnam War (Jesuit Dan Lyons loved the war and Catholics like Diem butchered many Buddhists. Priest Lyons personally consulted with General Abrams, the Commander of U. S. Forces in Vietnam. Avro Manhattan's book "Why Did we go to Vietnam" exposes Diem completely. JFK hated the persecution of the Buddhists and rightfully wanted to end that. We all know what happened to JFK), and even today in this war on terror (note that the Iraqis booted the Jesuits in 1969. Later, Jesuit trained Georgetown [& the CFR like the CFR PNAC neo cons] related folks like Rumsfeld, George Casey, and other are permitting the present war in Iraq). Even Leo J. O'Donovan (Jesuit of the Fourth Vow) is on the board of Directors of the Disney company. The Jesuits still control over a dozen universities in America (like Fordham, Georgetown, Boston College, Fairfield, Xavier, Marquette University, and others) alone influence the directions of Presidents, political leaders, scientists, religious theologians, heads of corporations, business men and women, etc. They still have mighty powerful presently. Eric Jon Phelps, John Daniel, 2tuff, and other have presented conclusive evidence of making that point known to people.

Now about Zionism. Zionism is not monolithic to me since many Patriotic Zionists (like Messianic Jewish people) who want peace and aren't extremists seeking to kill Arabic people. The type of Zionists we need to expose are the Labor Zionists or any Zionists in collaboration with the Vatican or wants evil in the world. Like Eric said, the Masonic Jewish Zionists play a significant but subordinate role in world geo-political affairs. There are many examples to prove this. The examples are that Jewish B'nai B'rith Lodge isn't as powerful as the Gentile-Scottish Rite of Freemasonry (whom many of its degrees were authored by the Vatican's Jesuits as proven by Charles Southern and William O. Peterson), how the Vatican Papal Knight Reinhard Gehlen trained the Mossad (endorsed by traitor to his own people and Nazi collaborator David Ben-Gurion. Knight of Malta James Jesus Angleton manned the Vatican and Israeli desks for the CIA. So, that another connection between the Vatican and Mossad working together.), and how the Vatican's Ecumenical Movements controls much of the policies of apostate Protestant and Jewish organizations (there are over 1.1 billion Catholics on this Earth).

The Middle East was carved up by the West after WWI (through policies like the Sykes-Picot Agreement of May 16, 1916). This was when the Ottoman Turks were thrown out of the Fertile Crescent by the British [plus the Arabic people] including "Lawrence of Arabia.") Israel was helped to be created by Cardinal Spellman (using the U.N.) and high level Freemasonry. For example, Spellman forced the U.N. to acknowledge Israel's existence. Also, the 33rd Degree Freemason Harry Truman (the recipient of the Jesuit Sword of Ignatius Loyola Award in the 1960's) and Chaim Weizman worked together to form Israel as well. The Vatican is using the Labor Zionist government of Israel in order to control as much land as possible, form a unified religious system based in Jerusalem if necessary, and some (especially Freemasons as mention in the literature of 33^o Albert Mackey's Encyclopaedia of Freemasonry" book) want to restore Solomon's Temple. Mackey personally wrote that "...The great body of the Masonic Craft, looking only to this first Temple erected by the wisdom of King Solomon, make it the symbol of life; and as the great object of Masonry is the search after truth, they are directed to build up this temple as a fitting receptacle for truth...". Barry Chamish is one patriotic Israeli exposing the evil Labor Zionists harming Yemeni & Sephardi children, working with the CFR, etc. Olmert and especially Peres have been sucking up to the Vatican for a while now. Is it a concoidence that when Sharon refused Vatican diplomats in Israel that he was suddenly sick and in a coma? Knight of Malta Juan Carlos and Papal Knight Javier Solona (of the EU. Knight of Malta Valery Giscard D'Estaing is proponent of the European Union and failed to pass the EU Constitution) now have key sway in the Middle East negotiations surrounding Israel and the rest of the countries in the Middle East.

I'm learning real history now. Even though I don't see eye to eye with everyone here on every issue, I do respect 2tuff's willingness to not back down. Keep up the good work 2tuff on the Jesuit information. I really don't see the Jews benefiting from this or the Arabic people. The Jews are being blamed for everything under the sun now especially after the Hezbollah/Israeli war. Jewish people in England and Australia are being assaulted. We all know why the Arabs aren't benefit since they're expriencing D.U., bombings, exploitation, and warfare by the West. I wonder if Alberto Rivera was still alive to see our Forum and witness how far we come in exposing the Jesuits. As for the Council on Foreign Relations (whom founders are high level Freemasons and SMOMs), I don't believe they are the strongest group in America. I do believe that the CFR is a powerful "third party" used to execute the engine of much of American policy here and abroad though. They are all over the administrations of Presidencies going back decades. Many are heads of corporations, in the media, in government, etc. As many know, the CFR (like CFR man Robert Pastor) endorse the American Union and globalization, which is against basic national sovereignty. Some like David Rockefeller blatantly said and wrote (in his Memoirs) that we want global government (or "one world"). I will expose every facet of the real conspiracy in trying to make a new world order, not limit myself in refusing to expose the Jesuits. Not to mention that other globalist groups exist like the Pilgrim Society, the Bilderberg Group, the 1001 Club, Le Cerle (with blatant Knight of Malta connections), and many others.

Yes the Vatican owns 60% of Israel along with Temple Mount.

I hate to bump in off-topic, but this is very revealing. Do you have a source handy for this?

BTW: I am up to Chapter five in History of the Jesuits by Nicolini and so far find it very interesting. I can only imagine the depths this sort of mind control would bring people to.

If you want to find out real information on Israel from its lands to its leadership Council on Foreign Relations to the Vatican control then you should study the work of Barry Chamish. Barry Chamish is a proud TORAH following jew from Israel itself!

2tuff wrote: This comment is laughable and I like how you say some power, the Jesuits have exercised the highest level of power in this world since the Pope became the Infallible one thanks to the Doctrines of Infallibility. If you simply did real homework you would finally understand the truth instead of half truths and nonsense spread by disinformation artists all over this troublesome internet.

Greetings to all members. I came upon this site and forum while reading an article on the Zundel trial. I've been studying the types of arguments and conspiracies that appear to be the substance of this forum for a few decades now. I've heard the argument that the Jesuits are the main culprits in this cosmic game of global control.

What I would like to get from 2tuff is a few primers on the subject so that I can do some more "homework" on the issue. If that is possible it would be appreciated. Up to this point I've been mainly focussing on political Zionism as revealed in Douglas Reed's classic, The Controversy of Zion and studying the obvious effects that he noted prior to the mid-50s and what has come afterwards.

Thanks.

If you study hard enough on the Jesuits and Vatican utilising all the information available from the few people who help expose this evil you will soon see whats really happening. People have this Jew image embedded within their minds, just how the Vatican wished it as to be their veil.

Remember folks that B'Nai B'Rith was created by the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in 1843 in New York. The Scottish Rite control this most powerful Jewish group. The Scottish Rite is a Gentile creation and even if you don't wish to believe the Jesuits and Fredrick the Great II created the Scottish Rite you must understand its at least Gentile. The Jesuits created the Scottish Rite with Fredrick the Great II, the Jesuits wrote all the well-known 33 degrees including the ones instituted by Fredrick himself. People must also realise if they've heard the Scottish Rite is Jewish based then this is highly false as its leadership are false Jews to keep the Vatican veils well and truely up. Some people have refered to the Scottish Rite as the Jewish Rite but its FALSE. An example of Scottish Rite power was when the Jews needed authorisation from Albert Pike (Scottish Rite) to create the Sovereign Patriarchial Council.

"RITE of the CLERKS OF STRICT OBSERVANCE or clerical Templar system, founded by the Jesuits, and united in 1776, with the SECULAR TEMPLARS, also a creation of the Jesuits...

"RITE of the Knights of the East, by Pirlet, a Jesuit Emissary... 1757.

"RITE of the Emperors of the East and West, Sovereign Prince Masons. This was the rite which Herodum extended to the RITE OF PERFECTION (from which the Scottish Rite of Masonry is evolved) of about 25 degrees, by the Jesuits, and propagated by Pirlet about 1758.

"RITE of the Flaming Star, founded by Baron Schudy, an emissary of the Jesuits in 1766.

"RITE of the Illuminati of Bavaria, by Professor Weishaupt (also a Jesuit)... in 1776."

Zionism isn't exclusively Jewish and its quite simply the continuation of the Ancient Babylonian Mysteries Religion under a new name. This Zionism or should we say SIONism will be the new religion of the Earth as the one world religion. The Jesuits wish to get the entire world back under one pagan system and see Catholicism/Christianity as a perversion of the Mysteries and this is why its being visibily destroyed and all religions now gradually uniting through this damn World Council of Churches.

Also folks please remember that the Jesuits were once known in France not only as the Congregation of the Sacre Coeur de Jesus but also the Company of Sion. We must also note the importance of France and Sionism once again and its not Jewish!

Dear 2tuff. Thank you for the reply. Possibly I wasn't clear enough in my initial request. When you suggest that one study the Jesuits and the Vatican more closely I was asking you for possible urls or books that would reveal the information that you say is available.

As for the image of the Jew it wasn't something that was embedded into my consciousness from day one. The truth is that I began studying the political/historical aspects of modern society back in the late 60s and early 70's onward and slowly discovered more and more pieces of the puzzle yet still didn't connect up to the magnitude of the Jewish/Zionist factor until only a couple of years ago when I heard about Douglas Reed's classic on the subject. For all the prior information on a variety of occult subjects and numerous secret societies it wasn't until reading The Controversy of Zion that the various pieces suddenly slipped into their proper places and the landscape suddenly took on a distinctive relief.

As for the Vatican and its role in all this I still am not clear how it supercedes the clear trail of evidence that Reed has laid out especially since the time of the French Revolution down into the 20th Century.

You mention that B'Nai B'Rith was created by the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. Where 2tuff can one find corroborating evidence of that?

As well, it doesn't seem that easy to find out precisely what is contained within the 33 degree rite. I have Pike's book and others but for some odd reason they tend only to talk about every one up to the 32nd.

I realize that political Zionism isn't exclusively Jewish but I haven't seen any evidence that it wasn't created initially by Jews. Again, I refer to Reed's research on this matter. If you know of any other sources I would certainly appreciate hearing of them.

As for Zionism being the new religion it seems rather a contradiction as Zionism is basically atheistic and without acknowledgement of a divine Source or Creator/God the idea of promulgating a religion appears to be rather futile.

Thanks.

As for Zionism, 2tuff is more than capable to answer your inquiries. As for the B'nai B'rith issue. Anton Chaitkan have written an excellent work proving that the b'nai b'rith is suburdionate under the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry (the highest number of Masons in the USA).

TruthSeeker24 - October 9, 2006 01:01 PM (GMT)

That November character from Davidickeforum is such a liar. First, the Vatican is not a Jewish creation. Gentile Constantine invented the Vatican (not to mention that the mitre, Eucharist, rosary beads, monks, IHS, the Queen of Heaven (also classified as the "Goddess" in ancient times), etc. has nothing to do with Torah Judaism at all. Jim Tetlow's book called "The Queen of All" make manifest these points. David W. Daniel's "Babylon Religion" proves this further) and slaughtered Jews for centuries. Also, his biggest lie is that Jerusalem isn't important in the world stage. This guy is really ignorant. For years, the Vatican and other powers wanted to control Jerusalem. The Vatican supported Olso that tried to internationalize Jerusalem. In truth, the Vatican, religious folks, political leaders, etc. care about Jersusalem. In essence, Jerusalem is involved with the construction of a capital of the one world religion. For example, Shimon Peres (who was trained by the Jesuits in Poland) called for Jerusalem to be a world capital according to WND in their article on July 23, 2003. Bill Lambert, the New England Director of the Theosophy Group (according to Cutting Edge ministries) called for the internationalization of Jerusalem (this plan is called the NEW JERUSALEM COVENANT PROJECT). The Vatican lusted for Jerusalem greatly since the Crusaders (the time when Papal terrorists were killing and raping Christians, Jews, and Muslims. They stole the land of Israel for a temporary period of time) and today their agents from Javier Solana to SMOM Juan Carlos want to control Israel (especially Jerusalem) as outlined in the research of Barry Chamish. Not to mention that Jerusalem is important because Islam, Judaism, and Christianity hold Jerusalem to be an important city in their religions. That's why few dare even negotiate it publicly for not offending certain creeds. The truth is that the Vatican, Christians, Muslims, Jewish people, corporations, and tons of other people care about Jerusalem. That alone makes November a bold face liar. Not to mention that the Jesuits high level Freemasons crave for the rebuilding of Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem. 33^o Freemason Albert Mackey prosed Solomon's Temple (he went further in wanting it rebuilt as well):

"To the Master Mason, the Temple of Solomon is truly the symbol of human life ... it becomes a fit symbol of human life occupied in the search after Divine Truth, which is nowhere to be found ... Such is the symbolism of the first Temple, that of Solomon, as familiar to the class of Master Masons." ("Encyclopaedia of Freemasonry, Mackey, p. 774)

November couldn't refute 2tuff's argument that if Ariel Sharon ruled America, why he is in a coma now for these long months. Sharon isn't ruling anything. Then November switched the topic unto 9/11 like the deceiver that he is. The truth of the matter is that there is an Israeli link to 9/11 and researchers have proven this for many years (even WINGTV). These pro-Israelis (i.e. Larry Silverstein, Dov Zakheim, Lowry, etc.) worked in a significant role and there is no doubt about that. I know their role and the many connections. Yet, these Jewish people are Masonic Jewish Zionists with links or under the CFR, Freemasonry, corporations, the Vatican/Jesuits, and other entities. For example, the Masonic B'nai B'rith Lodge (one of the most powerful Jewish groups on the planet. This Lodge invented and created the ADL) was invented by the Gentile run Scottish Rite of Freemasonry (as explained by Anton Chaitkan's research) in the year of 1843. Another example is that although many Polish pro-Labor Zionists were involved in the Holocaust (like Rudolph Kastner & David Ben Gurion found in Ben Hecht's book called "Perfidy." According to Rabbi Antelman, many of their philosophies were from the anti-Torah Frankist/Sabbeatean dogma. The Frankists' views influenced the development of Reform Judaism and socially liberal causes according to Rabbi Antelman [who wrote that the Frankists hated the Torah] and John Daniel's Scarlet and the Beast book series), the Holocaust was invented and carried out by the Vatican/Jesuits (like Pope Pius XII, Papal Knight of Malta Franz von Papen, SMOM Joseph Larkin, Himmler, Franco, Mussolini [whose advisor was Jesuit Pietro Tacchi-Venturi], Ante Pavelic [who led the Catholic Usatashi terrorists in SE Europe], Josef Tizo, Leon Dragelle, Henri Petain, Artur Seyss Inquart, etc. as mentioned in Edmond Paris', Eric John Phelps, Avro Manhattan, Alberto Rivera, Jack Chick's reserach, and too many others to list). Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu (who anti-Semites love to obsess with) is a member of Freemasonry and the most prominent Lodges aren't in Israel, but in America and Europe. Never forget that Israel is a product of the CFR-created United Nations (Jesuit-trained Francis Cardinal Spellman was actively involved in making the UN to form Israel) and high level Freemasonry (whom many of its rites were authored by the Jesuits). So, Israel is controlled by America and Europe not the other way around. That's why you see the Knights of malta and high level Freemasonry (with a new Israeli Supreme Court [funded by the Rothschilds, which are called the Vatican bankers in the Jewish Encyclopedia denoting more subordination] that acquired Masonic symbolism as explained by Messanic Jewish person Jerry Golden) running the nation of Israel to this day. Also, the Disney Company was created by Gentile DeMolay rumored pedophile Walt Disney. Today, its head isn't Eisner, but Gentile George Mitchell. Leo J. O'Donovan (a Professed Jesuit of the Fourth Vow, ex-President of Georgetown University and a friend of Bill Clinton) was on the board of Directors for the Walt Disney Company. Not to mention that Peres and Olmert have been under the control of the Vatican & the CFR (with hundreds of people at least) for a number of years outlined by Barry Chamish.

Now, if Israel rules the world, why does it constantly need billions of dollars from Europe and America to keep it stable. Israel isn't even the the headquarters of most of the companies on Earth. Just because Masonic Jews (the religious beliefs of these Jews from the Talmud to the Kabbala [the Zohar is one of its one famous works. The Kabbala is a form of witchcraft and they unnecessary praise the letters of the Hebrew alphabets. They use rings and other trinckets. November cries about the Star of David, but this Star of Solomon existed in Egypt, Babylon, India, and other locations before David's time as made manifest in OJ Graham's book. That star was the star of Saturn (a Hexagram representing Satan according to some)] originated from the Gentile, Babylonian [Saturnalian] Mystery Religions not the Jewish people by themselves) are involved in evils (which is true), doesn't mean we should omit the Vatican/Jesuit connection to the N.W.O. I perfectly make a distinction between evil Masonic Jews and God-fearing, patriotic Jewish people, which are against the NWO. We must support righteous Jewish people and righteous Arabic people for that matter. Also, there is a Bin Laden/Bush connection. Osama Bin Laden (whose teachers were from the Masonic Muslim Brotherhood) was trained by the CIA (invented by Vatican Knights of Malta and stronger than the Mossad by its history and extent into false flag operation plus other affairs. The Mossad was helped to be created and trained by Nazi Catholic Papal Knight Reinhard Gehlen). The Bush Family has done business with the Bin Laden through the Carlyle Group (whose Chairman and Chairman Emeritus from 1989 to 2005 was Knight of Malta Frank Carlucci).

The head of the CIA during the attack (responsible for the drill sending planes into buildings) wasn't a Jew, but Knight of Malta George J. Tenet. Some believe that the one responsible for the put options was Gentile A.B. "Buzzy" Krongard. It was the Roman Catholic Gentile Dick Cheney that refused to allow the interception of the aircraft into the Pentagon (according to the testimony of Norman Mineta under oath in the 9/11 Commission). Bush's brother Marvin Bush ran security of the WTC Towers according to Barbara Bush. The Airforce during was commanded by the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff CFR member Gentile Richard B. Myers [succeeded by Roman Catholic Peter Pace]. NORAD was controlled by Gentile General Ralph Eberhart. Many of the military leaders of the USA government are CFR members or Jesuit Trained in the Georgetown Walsh school. The Vatican (with the Jesuits, Sovereign Military Order of Malta, Opus Dei, and the Knights of Columbus), high level Freemasonry, the Italian Black Nobility families (making up 50% of the SMOMs according to Fritz Springmeier, the Geulphs, and other European families), Le Cerle (filled with SMOMs), and the Pilgrim Society's powers are vastly stronger than the Masonic Labor Zionist powers.

Therefore, every aspect of 9/11 wasn't done solely by Jewish people. Keep up the good work 2tuff. 2tuff, you've destroyed this guy's arguments so many times that I've lost count. Blaming Jewish people for everything under the sun is just as much a lie as to assume that all Jewish people are perfect. Nowadays, I'm trying my best to think on a higher level, consider others points of view, and be firm in my positions on certain issues. I wanted to make this comment: Not all Catholics are involved in this. Some of the strongest critics of the Jesuits have been Roman Catholics. I have my theological disagreements with Romanism, but I won't blame every Catholic for all evils in the world also. In fact, on July 21, 1773, Pope Clement XIV banished the Jesuit Order. Later, Clement died on suspicious circumstances. It's the same Vatican/Jesuit network involved in the Crusades, the Inquisition, the French Revolution, the Civil War, the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, WWI, the Russian Revolution (Jesuit Theodore Maly supported the Revolution. People like Joseph Stalin and Fidel Castro were trained by the Jesuits), WWII, the Ratlines, the Cold War, the creation of the CIA, Vietnam, Iran Contra, the war on terror, the influx of illegal immigration, the Ecumenical Movement, etc. I do realize it's important to talk and write about the Jesuits, Zionism, the FED, religion, sources, and a wide variety of information. Now, I'm studying more about transhumanism and the American Union.

Dear Timothy (Truthseeker).

Well...that was a mouthful (mindfull) of information! Thank you so much. I'm always amazed how people can glean and hold so much inter-related morsels in their consciousness and then lay them out on the table for others to sample. Most appreciated.

I should ask of 2tuff whether or not such material is available for copying and quoting in my own site? With credits obviously.

This morning I was reading some sections of Pike's 'Morals & Dogma'. For all the bad press it gets nowadays it certainly is a compendium of ancient lore and wisdom. Not sure at this point how it became exploited for nefarious purposes.

Thanks to both you and 2tuff for the urls, etc. Will check them out further.

"Zionism isn't exclusively Jewish and its quite simply the continuation of the Ancient Babylonian Mysteries Religion under a new name."

Zionism existed from the beginning of the Babylonian invasion of Israel.

Zionism is a political movement focused on creating and maintaining a Jewish State [Israel]. There are many extremes within this political movement, and more than one Religion. Christian Zionists far outnumber Jewish Zionists, but a far higher percentage of Jews are Zionists [99%]. Among them there is also disagreement on the bounds of this Jewish State with opinions ranging from the moderates willing to settle for the pre-1967 borders all the way up to the extremists who would drive every non-Jew off all of the land from the Nile to the Euphrates.

The Ancient Babylonian mystery religion is Kabbahlism based on the Mystic Kabbalah. This book is used by some Jews, most Masons, and Gnostic Christians.

The Vatican adopted much of their symbolism from Babylon. Fish head hats, etc...

Zionism is not a religion, rather it is a political movement. But its foundation are based on religion, at least for the large majority of self-identified Zionists.

The founder of modern Zionism was Theodor Herzl, but he was not the only Zionist throughout history. He was just the one who started the movement that reached success. All the previous Zionists who hoped to make a Jewish State failed.

Zionism, as people understand it today, is as I described it above.

Where does Sionism link into it? Russian and European Zionists were strongly anti-christian. How does the Vatican or the Jesuits get inside their closed society?

Or did it even matter? Zionism would have happened as long as there were Jews, and hopes of reclaiming the holy land. There are many other nationalistic groups that would huddle together give the opportunity, like the Kurds.

Did anyone need to do anything more than defeat the Ottomans?

I agree.

QUOTE

Sion is a French word that many Secret Societies use. As for the European Zionists, they have united with the Vatican on many ventures. European Zionists certainly love the compromising Christian that makes no waves that converts Gentile, but won't convert Jewish people. The Vatican has controlled their society for a long time. Eric Jon Phelps, Barry Chamish, 2tuff, and others have proven that to you for years now. First, Herzl had a meeting with the Pope in the early 1900's. Second, many Zionists after WWII uniting with the Vatican like Rabbi Zollin. Also, in 1993, Labor Zionist Peres agreed with the Vatican on the Oslo accords. Third, the Zionists have united with the Vatican in the Ecumenical Movement or One World Religion. The Jesuits trained Stalin to make a Communist dictatorship in Russia (remember the Jesuits had their own Communism in the 1600's at Paraguay). Not to mention that many of the pro-Labor Polish Zionists (like Ben Gurion) worked with the Nazis then later these same Labor Zionists are collaborating with the Vatican (betraying their own people since the Vatican were the greatest murderers of their people) today. The Vatican got into their society by negotiation, ecumenicalism, Vatican II, and other means. History testifies of these facts.

QUOTE

Or did it even matter? Zionism would have happened as long as there were Jews, and hopes of reclaiming the holy land. There are many other nationalistic groups that would huddle together give the opportunity, like the Kurds.

It does matter, since it's bigger than just Jewish people or Israel. It's about Secret Societies and high level geo-political groups that want Solomon's Temple rebuilt and want a one world government. I have no problem with Jews and Arabs living in Israel. I do have a problem with the Jesuits, Labor Zionists, Masons, etc. wanting global government and other nefarious goals. I have no problem with legitimate nationalistic movements.

QUOTE

I agree since the Ottoman Empire was very weak after WWI. In the final analysis, history by great scholars (like Barry Chamish, Eric Jon Phelps, and others) have proven that the Masonic Labor Zionists have been suburbionate under the Vatican/Jesuit Empire.

I agree with much of what you're saying Timothy regarding the desires of those who would love to control the world via a OWG. The same with Jews and Arabs living together anywhere BUT Israel. The "state of Israel" experiment by the Zionists has proven again and again to be a complete and utter disaster for the Arab peoples as well as for all those Gentiles from other nations who have spilled their blood on foreign soils in order to maintain the Zionist "homeland".

Israel was conceived through utter subterfuge from day one and it has maintained its position in the Arab world soley by violence and sustained terrorism and foreign aid. 58 years of slaughter and deceit are more than enough years to prove to the world that this project ought to never have received any official recognition in the first place and that it should have been aborted when the Zionist terrorists began murdering the Arab population even prior to gaining their ill-fated "nation" status.

It's time to peacefully dismantle the infrastructure of tyranny that the Zionists have placed within the womb of the Arab world.

I base much of my impressions of what is happening today with regard to Israel and the Zionists on the work of Douglas Reed, i.e. The Controversy of Zion. I have yet to see any refutation of the basic premises that he put forth based upon comprehensive research and first-hand experience with the Zionists during the 30's and 40's and 50's. When you see the degree of impact that Weismann had upon American and British policy makers during these periods it's almost a leap of faith to interject into that equation major Vatican influences. The evidence for making such a grand assumption, to my way of thinking, just aint there.

I am curious. Has 2tuff and yourself or anyone else on this forum ever read through and studied Reed's classic?

Arthur Topham
Canada

TruthSeeker24 - October 11, 2006 02:51 PM (GMT)

I haven't read Reed's literature, so I can't make an assumption about it one way or the other. As for Israel's creation, I do believe that Israel has a right to exist. Terrorism and land theft has been done by every ethnic group. It's hypocritical to condemn one group and not expose another group's evils. I believe Israel made mistake, but also America (with more land theft and slaughter than Israel) and Europe (with more empire building land theft and slaughter than Israel). That game doesn't work Arthur, because I'm very intelligent. I've debated people like you before for many years. Both sides in this Middle East have been murdering each other (I don't agree with Palestinians [or any Arabic person] being persecuted and I don't agree with Jewish people being persecuted as well). They don't call me TruthSeeker24 for nothing. Many Arabic nations in North Africa was formed by real theft like in Egypt, Tunisia, etc. Jewish people lived in the land of Eretz Yisrael for over 2,000 years nonstop from The Roman empire (It was the racist Roman Empire Hadrian that coined the name of "Palestine" for Israel in 135 A.D. This was after the 70 A.D. destruction of Jerusalem where over a million Jewish people were murdered), the Byzantium Empire, the early Islamic Empire, in the time of the Crusades, the Ottoman Empire, British colonialization, etc. "From Time Immemorial" by Joan Peters in 1984 was a book proving that for real. Now, both Jews and Arabs have done negative events towards one another in the early 1900's. Frankily, the majority of the Jewish people in Israel in the 1920's paid money to the Arabic people to settle in the land. That isn't theft. Also, Arabic people aren't perfect in this affair by instigating riots in the 1930's and collaborating with Nazis themselves like Grand Mufti of Jerusalem al-Husseini (Yassir Arafat believed that he was his uncle). Al Husseini supported the slaughter of Jews and permitted the Bosnian Muslims to kill Serbs and Jewish people in SE Europe. Also, many of the original Ba'ath party members were pro-Nazi. That's historical fact (as written about by author Chuck Morse). Therefore, it wasn't just the Labor Zionists working with the Nazis. The Arabic world had problems before 1948. They were exploited by British and France alot through colonialization. That wasn't the Zionist's fraud. Also, the Ottoman Empire oppressed many Arabic people in the Fertile Crescent. Israel was created by American and European Interests not by Israel by itself. Without the assistance of the U.N., Israel would have a hard time being recongized as a sovereign state.

After WWII, the Nazis worked with many Muslim radical groups. The Peel Commission and the Balfour Declaration all outline Jewish people the right to live in Israel. You talk about Weizzman. You must realize that Chaim Wiezmann wasn't the most powerful man in the world. He was a 33rd Degree Freemason who with his brother 33rd Degree Freemason Harry Truman helped organized Israel (along with the help of Cardinal Spellman inside of the U.N.) The highest Lodges are in Europe and AMerica, not Israel therefore not making Weizmann more powerful than European/American interests. I believe that Labor Zionist government of Israel should be outlawed and a new government of Israel should be formed filled with patriotic Israelis (not influenced by the Vatican or any evil influences). You are describing about evil Zionists, yet today that Vatican/Jesuits have more power than them. Me and 2tuff have outlined links throughout this forum proving that. For example, the Zionists don't head the Ecumencial Movement, don't control most of the world's corporations, don't control the Temple Mount, never instigated the Vietnam War, never created the CIA or MI6, never invented the Oslo accords by themselves, etc. Barry Chamish, Eric Jon Phelps, Jerry Golden, and Rabbi Antelman have written many book proving Labor Zionist (pro-Frankist, pro-Sabbeateans) subordination under the Vatican/Jesuit network. Also, real Jewish people (descended from the Hebrews) do exist today like the Sephradic, Yemeni, Indic, Ethoipic, North African, Iraqi, and other Jewish groups globally. Me and 2tuff have shown you the Vatican Influence in the Middle East from Knight of Malta Juan Carlos, the Temple Mount, The Roadmap to Peace (supported by the CFR, which is one of the factions controlling the foreign policies of Israel), the Ecumencial Movement, and other issues. I don't know why you reject this out of hand (even if you don't believe that the Vatican rules the world).

P.S. <http://knud.eriksen.adr.dk/Controversybook/index.htm>

is the link of the Reed book that I've just found out.

Now, here's my link of my views of the Middle East:

<http://www.abrahamic-faith.com/Books/Mock-Trial.html> (This links refutes much of the claims made by Reed indeed. I don't agree with Reed's collectively blaming the Jewish race for our ills. I won't study Reed intensively, because I don't agree with his blame all the Jews rhetoric. I will look at Reed's literature for background info.)

It has tons of information with much documentation.

Also, you say the evidence in your words "aint there." 2tuff in other articles here have shown you evidence and I don't know why you ignore it apparently. Here's links blowing that falsehood out of the water:

My wife and her family are quite the secular bunch, she's never read the Talmud or the Torah and has never even gone to church (I know they don't call it a church, don't bother correcting me...). Her and I both agree that religion is nothing more than recycled nonsense for sheeple, not for intelligent people who actually bother to study history and spirituality (TRUE history and spirituality).

fear of depth - October 23, 2006 04:42 PM (GMT)

According to Saint Malachi, who centuries ago accurately predicted every Pope from his time to the end of times, predicted that after the present Pope, Benedict XVI, whose reign would be very brief, the last head of the Church would be named "Peter the Roman", that he would be the leader of the Church without having been elected Pope, and that he would lead his people through troubled times before the fall of the Roman Catholic faith worldwide.

Could Peter Hans Kolvenbach, the "Black Pope", be this Peter the Roman?

I apologize if this topic has been discussed before.

New Lead In Vatican Bank Scandal Surfaces From Masonic P2 Lodge

According to Illuminati insider, Ezio Giunchiglia of the Masonic Monte Carlo P2 Board of Directors, was in communication with Archbishop Paul Marcinkus, former head of the Vatican Bank, up until his recent death. Marcinkus was at the heart of the scandal and the death of Roberto Calvi, nicknamed God's Banker.

22 Oct 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/22-Oct-2006.html>

In the early 1980's, the Vatican Bank scandal erupted in Italy, bringing to light corruption of unprecedented proportions within the Catholic Church's hierarchy.

The scandal was covered on a daily basis by the Italian press, but very little was ever mentioned in America, as a veil of silence, still existing today, protects Vatican corruption from ever getting into the mainstream and even the alternative American press.

Researchers who cover the Vatican closely surmise the reason why is that the Vatican, through the many Zionist media owners it uses as a cover, is bought and paid off to keep the Vatican and their Jesuit Order henchmen quietly in the background, out of sight and out of mind.

However, for those caught in the Jesuit trap of silence and for those who never heard of the Vatican Bank scandal, it brought to light Vatican involvement in money laundering with the Mafia. Corruption embedded in the Italian P2 Masonic Lodges was also revealed when several Italian and French publications disclosed how more than 150 high-level Catholic priests, bishops, and cardinals were practicing members of Freemasonry, many of whom were tagged as being Satanists.

In several stories located in the Arctic Beacon archives, this publication has previously listed the names of the priests tagged with Masonic membership, along with their code names. It also should be mentioned that according to Canon Law, affiliation with Freemasonry results in immediate excommunication from the Catholic Church, something that never happened to any of the 150 or more priests mentioned by the European source of the information.

In fact, the bank scandal which brought down the Bank of Ambrosiano in Rome, leading to the execution-style murder of the bank's president, Roberto Calvi, came on the heels of the assassination of Pope John Paul I. The Pope was killed several years prior to the scandal for wanting to clean up the Vatican Bank as well as expose the Masonic involvement of many high-level bishops and cardinals.

Although the Pope's death was officially listed as being "from natural causes," he strangely died after serving only 33 days in office ? an important Illuminati cult number ? and was never given a proper independent autopsy or murder investigation.

In fact, when family members and friends asked to have the Pope's intestines properly examined to check for possible poisons, the late Under-Secretary to the Pope, Cardinal Jean-Marie Villot, suspected of being at the heart of the Pope's assassination, officially released a statement that "the Pope's intestines unfortunately had already been burned."

With John Paul I out of the way, the corruption in the Church continued as usual with Archbishop Paul Marcinkus of Chicago , head of the Vatican Bank, given a clean slate and protection from Pope John Paul II. Archbishop Marcinkus was already under the wing of the Jesuits, and had been previously tagged as a CIA/ Nazi spy working underground in Poland to sell out his people, along with liberal priests who were sent to concentration camps and killed.

Furthermore, it must be noted that Archbishop Marcinkus, who died last year in Phoenix, Arizona, was at the heart of the bank scandal, having been indicted by Italian authorities for fraud as well as being suspected of having a hand in the murder of Calvi, found hanging by the neck under the Black Friars Bridge in London.

Although Calvi's death was classified as a suicide, a proper investigation was never conducted. Family members still pursuing justice claim he was murdered by the Vatican-led Illuminati, who feared Calvi was not going to go away quietly and take the fall for his bank's demise alone.

Further, researchers surmise Calvi was killed ?- found hanging with heavy bricks tied to his body -- because he was preparing to spill the beans on top-level Vatican and Italian government officials. These included Marcinkus, members of the Jesuits, P2 Masonic Lodge head Licio Gelli, and members of the U.S. government and intelligence community, all working hand-in-glove to defraud the Italian people and the European banking community.

Looking back, the story was big Illuminati news back then in Italy, with Archbishop Marcinkus indicted and at the center of both the scandal and the Calvi murder. However, with bribery being an important part of the Vatican arsenal, Marcinkus' case was never brought to trial, as he Vatican paid more than $250,000 to the Italian government to have the case dropped.

Meanwhile Marcinkus, under the cover of night, was given diplomatic immunity by the Vatican and U.S. government, quietly being shipped away to a Catholic Parish in Phoenix where his activities were limited to saying Mass and the Rosary.

Although Marcinkus was far away from the Rome scandal, the story and Calvi's murder always haunted him until his death last year. Italian prosecutors, as well as this journalist, were hot on his trail, trying to secure an interview just prior to his death.

As for the Rome prosecutors, they recently re-opened the Calvi case, bringing several Mafia members to trial last year for their alleged involvement, as well as trying to secure testimony from Marcinkus, vital testimony being blocked by his Illuminati handlers.

As for this reporter, never allowed to interview Marcinkus in the early 80's by order of the Vatican, it was this publication's intention, better late than never, to go to Phoenix to meet with Marcinkus. A dialogue to secure the interview was being conducted with a family member only 10 days before Marcinkus was found dead at the age of 81 of an apparent heart attack in his room at the Phoenix Parish.

During the dialogue with the close family member, who insisted on Marcinkus' innocence, this reporter said he would give the Archbishop the benefit of the doubt, promising to ask questions about who then were the real culprits and promising never to release Marcinkus' video-taped testimony until the Archbishop passed on.

Leaving the conversation 10 days before his death at the point where the family member stated Marcinkus was aware of the Arctic Beacon web site and this reporter's stories, this reporter was told Marcinkus would be asked, despite his frail health, if he would consent to the interview.

Unfortunately, shortly thereafter it was reported in the Associated Press, local Phoenix papers, and the Catholic press that Marcinkus had suddenly died of natural causes due to a heart attack, passing away quietly in his sleep.

When the family member was later asked if anything suspicious was found regarding the Archbishop's death due to the interview requests by both the Rome prosecutors and this reporter, the family member denied anything suspicious, saying he only knew what was being reported by the Church, which was that Marcinkus had died of a heart attack.

With Marcinkus now gone, researchers and this reporter surmised the Jesuits were most likely pulling Marcinkus' strings since they control Freemasonry with the only names logical to pursue being the Jesuit General himself, Fr. Peter Hans Kolvenbach and one of his trusted henchmen, Jesuit Bishop Pavel Hnilica.

Of course, the Jesuit General refused a formal interview request by this publication, saying he was too busy spreading the word of God to be bothered with such trivia and trivial publications. And, with regard to Hnilica, it was recently reported by a Slovakian TV station that he recently passed away from natural causes.

With this reporter out of leads, a stroke of journalistic luck or perhaps the hand of God recently intervened when Leo Zagami, a former 33-degree Freemason from the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge, came forward with vital information which could lead to what, in fact, Marcinkus really knew, whether he was killed or died naturally, and the identity of the real Vatican-Jesuit culprits behind the bank scandal and behind the Illuminati-Freemason connection.

"Marcinkus was a member of my P2 Monte Carlo Lodge. I know that for a fact," said Zagami this week from his home in Norway, after breaking loose from the Illuminati and leaving his home country of Italy, fearing for his life.

"At the moment the majority pack of Barclays Bank is obviously in the hands of poor old Queen of England, who seems to sell out completely to the American Illuminati and their vicious games with Daddy Rockefeller and the P2.

"All major U.S. Banks have ties with the P2 but he has a special deal with Brother Ezio Giunchiglia and the Vatican . The only person allowed to have direct contact with Marcinkus at all times until his recent death was and always has been Ezio Giunchiglia of the Monte Carlo Board of Directors, the best friend of the Jesuits. Contact Ezio. He should know everything."

For a more detailed look at the new Calvi murder trial opened up in Rome in 2005, here is a report from last year by Conrad F. Goeringer, reprinted in part:

Among those linked to Calvi was Archbishop Paul Marcinkus. Ordained in Chicago, Marcinkus was posted to the Holy See in Rome, and served in the Vatican Secretariat of State.

He rapidly moved up within Vatican bureaucracy from personal papal bodyguard to head of the IOR -- a post he held from 1971 to 1989. There he worked closely with international financier Michael Sindona to expand the Vatican's portfolio of international holdings, transforming the Institute for Religious Works into a quiet but reliable shelter for questionable capital. Sindona, laundering money from associates in organized crime, funneled huge sums of money through Banco Ambrosiano and the IOR. The Vatican Bank also worked closely with the United States government as a cover money conduit to groups like the Solidarity Trade Union in Poland. Thanks to Marcinkus, Sindona was to become a "man of confidence" within the Vatican who enjoyed unique access to officials of the Holy See, even the pope.

Michael Sindona had been among Calvi's patrons at the Banco Ambrosiano, and helped expand the small "Catholic bank" into an international financial institution. Sindona's financial manipulations make a story of their own, and investigations after the Ambrosiano collapse would document how his elaborate international network of banks and offshore companies served as vehicle for laundering dirty money earned from everything from heroin traffic to "soft money" investments.

Perhaps the most mysterious character in the Calvi saga was Liccio Gelli. A former member of the fascist Black Shirts Battalion and liaison between the Mussolini regime and the infamous Herman Goring SS Division in World War II, Gelli survived the conflict and amassed an impressive list of contacts. He also obtained sensitive information on hundreds of key political, military and financial figures not only in Italy but throughout Europe, Latin America and elsewhere thanks to his access of files from the Italian secret service (OVRA) and possibly British Intelligence. Gelli helped to smuggle Klaus Barbie, the infamous "Butcher of Lyon" to safe haven in Argentina, and even managed to sell his services to the CIA and NATO. He also ingratiated himself with the regime of Juan Peron in Argentina

In 1963, Gelli began the takeover an obscure Italian Masonic lodge, Propaganda Due or P-2, and using the blackmail files of the OVRA and other information, began aggressively recruiting members of the military and intelligence services, as well as key financial and political figures. (The Grand Lodge of Italy quickly severed recognition ties with P-2 when it learned of Gelli's activities.) P-2 expanded its operations to Argentina, Venezuela, Paraguay, Bolivia, France, Portugal and Nicaragua. Associates of Klaus Barbie were recruited, as were leaders from death squads operating in Latin America. One member was the notorious Jose Lopez Gega, an Argentinean clerical fascist who also ran a cocaine smuggling operation into the United States.

Gelli, like Sindona, enjoyed unprecedented access to the Vatican thanks to his close friendship with Cardinal Paolo Bertoli of the Holy See's Diplomatic Corps. Bertoli is known to have introduced Gelli to Paul Marcinkus. Another close associate and member of this "Gang of Four" was Umberro Ortolani, a former OVRA Intelligence Officer and co-patron for Calvi while he was moving up in the Banco Ambrosiano. Ortolani was also tied to a secretive Roman Catholic order known as the Knights of Malta, and was elevated by Pope Paul VI to the status of "Gentleman of his Holiness." He also sponsored Liccio Gelli for membership in the Knights of Malta.

As the scandal enveloping Calvi and the collapse of Banco Ambrosiano unfolded, police raided Gelli's private offices on March 17, 1981 and seized a treasure trove of documents including one of the membership lists of P-2. Among the 962 members identified in the papers were 43 generals in the Italian armed forces, eight admirals, 43 members of Parliament, all of the heads of the respective security and intelligence services, editors and publishers of major Italian papers and, of course, Michael Sindona and Roberto Calvi. Word of several other lists eventually surfaced, and one P-2 member "went public" with charges that key functionaries of the Holy See were involved in the clandestine group. The cell was shut down by prosecutors amidst evidence that Gelli and P-2 were establishing a "state within a state," and were plotting what amounted to a fascist coup. He eluded police for years, was captured in Cannes, then escaped prison and recently died.

Among those on trial in the murder of Roberto Calvi is gangster Flavio Carboni, considered a "fixer" with ties to police, political groups, intelligence services and the Vatican. Banco Ambrosiano backed a risky construction project Carboni had launched in Sardinia. He also admitted being with Gelli in London with Calvi after the embattled banker had fled in the wake of the Ambrosiano collapse. Skeptics say that Carboni was a close friend of Calvi's and had no credible motive for carrying out the murder.

A MURDER PLOT REVEALED?

Beginning in 1998, the Calvi affair was back in the news when the family of the late financier had his body exhumed. The new autopsy confirmed that Calvi was murdered elsewhere, and his corpse then hanged from beneath Blackfriar's Bridge. Investigators caught a major break in the case when in December, 2002, Mafia kingpin Antonio Giuffe told police that Calvi was murdered in part for absconding with mob money being laundered through Banco Ambrosiano.

It is known that as the bank collapsed, Calvi approached friends in the Vatican to cover losses. He allegedly told associates in the Holy See that unless Ambrosiano was protected, he would expose powerful men in Italian finance and politics. Calvi disappeared the day after those frantic phone calls to the Vatican, along with the briefcase packed with sensitive documents.

Leading the effort to solve the mystery of Roberto Calvi's murder has been Carlo Calvi, the banker's son who left Italy in 1977 and now lives in Montreal, Canada.

His father, says Carlo Calvi, "was a dynamic businessman but not a good judge of people."

Police and prosecutors have zeroed in on four suspects now on trial: Flavio Carboni; his former girlfriend Manuela Kleinzig; and Pippo Calo and Ernesto Diotallevi, two "fixers" with close ties to the Mafia.

There are concerns, though, that the four could be scapegoats for a wider conspiracy, and that significant aspects of the case implicating the Vatican, government agencies, other banks and special interests could be conveniently ignored. The judge in the current proceedings, Mario D'Andra, has been vehement in demanding a swift trial.

"Let's try to keep in mind that this is a trial about facts that happened almost 24 years ago," he declared. And Carboni's attorney, Renato Borzone has argued that there is no proof of his client's participation in any murder, charging Italian prosecutors with "relying on a phony testimony by turncoats" in order to make their case.

On the opening day of the proceedings, Borzone told the court, "Today, a new battle begins to find the truth about Calvi's death.

Carlo Calvi theorizes that while mobsters may have executed his father, "the murder was organized by politicians. The Mafia had simply the role of carrying out the murder."

Questions linger not only about who killed Roberto Calvi, but who ordered the murder.

Taking Apart The Illuminati Piece By Piece

With a little luck and a lot of inside information, America may be able to defeat the forces of evil. Italian aristocrat helps put the pieces of the evil puzzle together with a wealth of information from his days as a member in the 33rd degree of the Monte Carlo P2 Masonic Lodge.

Taking apart the web of deceit and diabolical corruption within the Illuminati requires solid inside information and of course a little bit of luck. And now comes to the American scene Leo Zagami, Italian aristocrat and former Illuminati insider of the 33rd degree from the influential Monte Carlo P2 Masonic Lodge, with shocking information about how the forces of evil really work.

Zagami left the clutches of the evil Illuminati in June, saying he finally came to the light of God, now wanting to warn the American people about how the tentacles of evil are lurking deep within all of the country's sacred institutions.

When Zagami recently decided to go public with names, dates and shocking inside information, the powers that be in Europe tried to first bribe him with riches, fame and wealth. When that failed, the wrath of the Illuminati came down hard on him, arresting him on two separate occasions, including torture and beatings.

After recently getting assistance from the Norwegian government, where he now resides, Zagami decided to publish a multi-lingual web site in order to protect his life and the lives of his closest family members. He also recently made his first appearance on American radio, appearing on Greg Szymanski's show, The Investigative Journal, telling listeners how to be watchful of Opus Dei, the Jesuits and the Vatican since they provide the perverted guidance of the forces of evil and the New World Order.

And since going public only a couple of weeks ago, Zagami has shaken up the powers that be from Rome to New York by revealing how their network really operates. Although the Illuminati encompasses a complicated web of Masonic organizations throughout the world, he claims the heart of the demonic beast resides in the Vatican, using Opus Dei and the Jesuit Order as henchmen and infiltrators to spread evil worldwide.

This latest correspondence from Zagami to the Arctic Beacon illustrates how high level Illuminists are seriously worried about blowing their cover due to Zagami's decision to go public. Further, it is important to keep his name in the public eye for his protection and the protection of his family.

Here is the latest correspondence, saying to remember the names presented as many of them provide the link to the Vatican to their servants in Washington D.C.

"I know the e-mail bellow (to be translated soon) by Senior Italian OTO Illuminati is in Italian but as a researcher and for my own security I wish to forward it to you and make it public. It also involves the Cairo Illuminati gathering of 2003 and the infamous Alberto Moscato, showing very clearly how scared the Italian OTO Illuminati were about me going public against them and exposing their satanic Illuminati control.

Moscato's was second in command (in charge of the Italian OTO Caliphate until his recent death or murder) and the author of the e-mail says "imagine what the priests will do if they know about it" and that's because some of the Opus Dei can't stand these Jesuit driven Satanists and they know it.

"When I was with Moscato in the spring of 2000 he was blabbering on and on all the time about how cool it was to live in Rome, the capital of Christianity and in defiance of the Opus Dei and the Vatican because of the total Jesuit support to his OTO satanic Lodges.

"After many phone conversations with Alberto Moscato, we finally had a four hour meeting in a Bar in the Zona Eur of Rome , AND HE WAS LIVING AT THE TIME IN AN APARTMENT OF FRIEND MASSIMO INTROVIGNE OF CESNUR.

"Alberto Moscato was an intelligence operative officially working for la Guardia di Finanza (tax police) in the internet surveillance department but also was a heroin addict with 3 wholes in his stomach due to shooting in action. Alberto, a 33 degree and Vatican Knight of Malta of the 3rd degree, loved guns, and when I use to call him he was usually in the police training center, shooting. He used to wear a little silver pistol as a necklace...a pure Satanist!

"Well, after my meeting we only spoke by phone from time to time as a member of the Council for the Cairo 2004 gathering and other internal matters. But I got in a bad conflict with him after the 2003 episode of leaving the American illuminati because he was strongly supporting the U.S. Illuminati Satanists against me and every interest of our beloved Italy, just wanting to make more profit and gain more control over his followers without showing them any truth but only more manipulation and mind control in close association with the Satanic Churches of Northern Europe (Scandinavia) controlled by disciples of Anton La Vey.

Most Italian masons supported my decision of distancing myself from OTO Calipahte Satanist because Moscato was becoming increasingly an easy target and they knew I was right in my decision. At that point the rival OTO-FHL linked with the Opus Dei invited me to have my meetings with them in Bologna instead, and they were very delighted to offer me the Opus Dei HQ's in Villa Leona for their meetings.

"Moscato died last spring in mysterious circumstances (drug overdose or a murder?) What I know for sure is that a complaint was filed against him in high places a week before. Comandante Giorgio Hugo Balestrieri, now living in New York, always knew well about Moscato's activities but was getting worried about the exposure with Satanism and Crowley.

"I must say instead that the OTO-FHL is a far more experienced body of initiates because they are much older in age and also officially independent from the American Illuminati but in reality secretly linked with the Monte Carlo Lodge as their Gran Prior (IXo degree) is also a member of the Monte Carlo Lodge and a Senior member of the Rectified Scottish Rite promoted by the Jesuits...so we are back to square one: the Jesuits are in full control as usual of Satanism even when Opus Dei are involved they take over the show.

"Same with the Opus Dei and their own Illuminati Academy in Piazza di Spagna directed by Gran Master Giuliano Di Bernardo (Past Grand Master of Italian Freemasonry) directly linked to the Duke of Kent and the English aristocracy but also once again to the Jesuit Illuminati tradition of Frater Spartacus.

"In the Conference of San Cerbone (in June) they were all there including the IXo OTO-FHL Gran Prior Count Nicholas, the Sicilian Grand Master of the Rectified Scottish Rite Luigi Piazza and last but not least Comandante Giorgio Hugo Balestrieri arriving directly from New York.

"Di Bernardo was not there because he is not welcome in the Monte Carlo Lodge anymore because of what he did in 1993 against the Italian Grand Orient supporting the english Grand Lodge with the creation of his own Obedience the Regular Grand lodge of Italy with strong Vatican support to cover up for the P2 scandal.

"But in reality at the top they are all in it together with their secret gatherings like the one of Bocca di Magra of November last year were a few decide for the many and the unknown (Crowley's motto).

"In San Cerbone, one of the main issues on the table was Rui Gabirro the Duke of Gabinda illegal activities all over the world that were exposing to much his Jesuit backing and connections, and we find a lot of accusations against this dubious Freemasons all over the net.

"The Duke is in charge of the new Masonic High Councils created since 2005 by the P2 Illuminati and the Jesuits and expanding with the blessings of the Monte Carlo Lodge worldwide at an alarming rate, even for regular Masonic observers with no degrees or inside knowledge this starts to be a clear irregularity that serves the Illuminati Jesuit plot in connection with the French Zionist lobby and the Jacobite tradition.

Title: O'Brien urges Muslims to say sorry for 9/11

O'Brien urges Muslims to say sorry for 9/11

EDDIE BARNES

<http://scotlandonsunday.scotsman.com/index.cfm?id=1563542006>

THE leader of Scotland's Roman Catholics, Cardinal Keith O'Brien, has called for Muslims to apologise for the 9/11 and 7/7 bomb attacks, declaring that the public should not have to live "in fear of attack" from believers of the Islamic faith.

In a move that has provoked a storm of outrage, the cardinal claims that, as the Pope apologised for the offence caused last month by his comments on the Islamic faith, so Muslims should now step up and say sorry for the attacks carried out in the name of their faith.

O'Brien said: "There have been no apologies for the shooting of the nun [in Somalia after the Pope made his remarks], let alone for 9/11 or the London bombings. I would like to see some reciprocal moves from the Islamic side. We shouldn't have to live in fear of attack from Muslims."

The cardinal's comments were made in the same interview in which, as was revealed last week, he backed Scottish independence, praising the benefits autonomy could bring. A fuller version of the interview appears in this weekend's Catholic Herald newspaper.

O'Brien expands on his views on the British constitution. He declares that he "would be only too happy to continue to undermine the British State" if it goes on espousing sectarianism in the form of the Act of Settlement - the law which bars Catholics from marrying the heir to the throne.

Last night, the cardinal's views on Islam had stirred up a new controversy, with Muslim leaders furious at the comment. They claimed that as the terrorist attacks were carried out by extremists, mainstream Muslims who had already condemned the actions had nothing to apologise for.

O'Brien's comments came after he was asked which trend in society posed the greater threat in Europe: secularisation or Islamicisation.

He replied: "Secularisation is the greatest threat. Muslims are firm in their faith and in their views. They believe in one God. That is a point of identification; though it can also produce tensions. Muslims coming here are free to build mosques, but Christians in Muslim countries are often oppressed."

He then raised the issue of the Pope's apology, made after he had quoted a 14th-century Christian emperor who had declared the Prophet Muhammad brought the world only evil and inhuman things, and made his comments on no reciprocal apology from Islam for the US attacks or London bombings last year.

Ashraf Anjum, president of the Glasgow Mosque, said: "The Muslims have very clearly condemned the attacks of 9/11 and 7/7. You condemn something like this - you say sorry for something you have done yourself."

He added: "When there were bombings in Ireland and Catholics and Protestants were killing each other, did any cardinal or Pope say sorry for that? I don't think the Muslim community in the UK needs to say sorry for a criminal act by some people."

Osama Saeed, of the Muslim Association of Britain, said: "We said at the time of the Pope's comments that the fallout from this in terms of inter-faith relations would depend on the reaction of the Church in Scotland.

"We want good relations with the Church. We have common cause. So it is sad that we have not heard any words of solidarity from him in the last few weeks, and now we hear this."

The cardinal's further comments on independence came after he was asked how he would reply to those who accused him of undermining the state by calling for a repeal of the Act of Settlement, or for Trident not to be replaced.

On the Act of Settlement he said: "This is a very sectarian act that singles out the RC community as not being loyal to the British Crown."

On Trident, he added: "The use of weapons of mass destruction is immoral. And if it would be immoral to use such weapons, then it is immoral to threaten to use them, immoral to retain them with an implied threat to use, and even more immoral to replace them."

I wonder if he wanted an apology from all Catholics during all the terrorist attacks of the I.R.A.? It really is time now it seems (in the eyes of the vatican) for the shit to hit the fan concerning muslims.

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 18, 2006 10:26 PM (GMT)

United States of Rome

<http://www.exposingdeceptions.org/train.html>

This aint no "peace" train

Christian greetings, in these last days of life on earth. Some may call those of us that preach such things conspiracy theorists; some may just call us nuts. But have you ever noticed those that make such claims are the very ones that believe a 767 actually hit the Pentagon and left no debris, carnage or damage to the lawn? For those that believe the lies, even though overwhelming evidence has been stacked up against them, this newsletter will not affect you. Sadly, in such a heart as this, lies is what eventually becomes their truth. However, for those that see the truth for what it is, isn't it a great adventure to be able to see the forest for the trees?

Some time ago on the radio as well as online I mentioned that I believe the Vatican was involved right at the creation of the United States Government for the sole purpose of future global domination. Can such a statement be proven, or at least given a chance at discovery? Let's look at the facts shall we?

As we already know, prophecy details who will be "running things" in the last days...

Revelation 13:1-2, 11,12 "And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, ... and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority. And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon. And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast..."

This unholy "trinity" is of course well known among students of prophecy.

The Dragon (Satan)

The beast rising from the sea (Vatican)

The beast rising from the earth (USA)

Common sense grants us the reality of truth quite easily here. Since the Word of God declares the USA will help the Vatican, the enemy of God's children would naturally make plans to that end. As foolish as it may seem for the devil to do something so transparent, we cannot deny prophetic fact. His foresight is not something mortal man can comprehend. This is why prophecy is set before us in such pictographic manner. A picture is worth a thousand words to those that know the language.

Only those that TRULY want to know the truth will investigate what those pictures in prophecy proclaim. That is the key by which prophetic knowledge is granted. The Lord will only give understanding to those that seek it for righteous reasons. That way, only those that love the Lord can understand the Lord. In short, those that claim the Bible contradicts itself or is nothing more than gibberish believe it to be as such merely because they cannot define the symbols in prophecy. Most fear admitting they simply don't know because their vanity proclaims it makes them look bad. That vital key to understanding is missing, so they will naturally become ignorant of the truth without ever realizing it. Their "thirst" for truth is nonexistent, and therefore their gift of knowledge is held back. They honestly have no clue.

1 Corinthians 2:14, "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

With that said, is there evidence to support the fact that Rome has been covertly involved in the USA all along as prophecy stated they would be?

Starting with the basics, have you ever noticed all the Latin terminology on American soil? It's literally built into the fabric of our existence today. Latin terminology is used for naming medical symptoms or drugs. It's used in public education. Latin terms run rampant through the law of the land. Colleagues and especially frat houses use its symbolism for all sorts of reasons. Certifications of all sorts from law degrees to a PHD are riddled with the Latin terms. Even everyday conversation finds the use of Latin unavoidable. Rock musicians use Latin in their music as well as their satanic imagery. Truth is, this is a "bona fide" fact of life in the USA today. By the way, even the term "bona fide" is a Latin term! Ergo (also Latin) let's move on.

Pantheon

U.S. Capitol Building

The architectural style of all government buildings of the USA are of Roman Catholic design. Of this there is no doubt. Notice the Pantheon on the left built between 118-135AD by the Romans for the sole purpose of worshipping Pagan gods. Notice the dome? The Roman columns? The phallic spire? Remind you of anything you see here in America?

On the right we see the Pagan dome atop this nations Capital building. And below we see even more Pagan styles on both the Supreme Court and U.S. Bank buildings. Is all this mere coincidence?

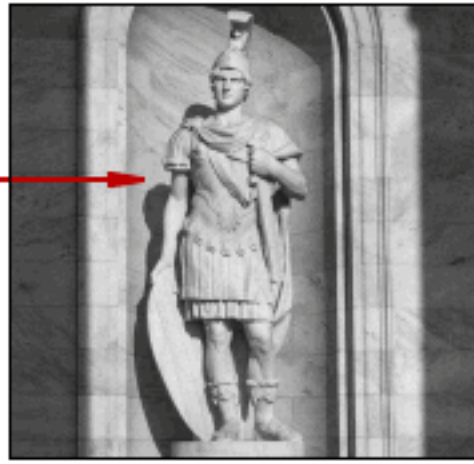

Supreme Court Building

Second Bank of the United States

Entrance to the U.S. Capitol building

The Pagan God, Mars

As you enter this nations Capitol building you see the Pagan god Mars enshrined in all his glory! We have been taught since day one that this was a Christian nation at birth, yet all around us we see buildings built in its infancy that declare no such thing! Christians may have started this nation, yes. But the Catholic church took it when the Government was forming. Again, I ask is all this Roman architecture mere happenstance?

It's not just the Federal buildings either. Have you been to your county seat lately? If this is all just a coincidence, then why are there literally hundreds of county offices with Roman architecture throughout the nation? What of the capital buildings for each state? Notice the picture on the left of the Illinois State Capital building. Is that not Roman Catholic in design as well?

God Mercury
on an American dime

AR denarius, 152 BC

Some will say this was a “Protestant” nation if nothing else in its infancy. But when you look at all the buildings in the federal and local level sporting what appears to be spin offs of the Vatican itself, I wonder who started such a rumor? It's obvious why.

Do you recall the old silver dimes we used to use back in the 1960's? Were you aware that was the Pagan god “Mercury” on that coin? Take a look at the two pictures...

The coin of the left is of course the discontinued American dime. That coin on the right is the ancient Pagan Denarius. Notice the SAME Pagan god “Mercury” on it? It's not just the coins either. Take a look at the back of your dollar bill. Notice the pyramid with the eye in it with the solar blaze behind it? (below center). That happens to be the “eye of Horus” or eye of Satan as it is formally known. The Roman Catholic Bishop on the left stands before the same symbol as he “officiates” in a Catholic mass. And the image on the right is from a Roman Catholic Monastery in Greece. Imagine that! The eye of Satan watching over the Roman priests.

To give you an idea of just how evil this symbol is. Notice this picture (below) of Aleister Crowley, who was dubbed “the wickedest man alive” before his death in 1947. He is wearing upon his head the “eye of Horus” as a sign of Satanic worship and acceptance. This man, a proclaimed 33 degree Mason was reported to have single-handedly been responsible for the birth of Satanism into modern American civilization. He spawned more disciples to Satan then any other man alive to date. He was a self proclaimed “Magus” in the Pagan church for many years as well. His anti-social values and legendary rebellion towards authority catapulted him as an icon which in turn generated “hero worship” by many young people, especially rock musicians of the 60’s and 70’s. This man’s symbol for Satan’s “watchful eye” has always been a major symbol in Catholicism from its infancy. So much so that they insisted upon its appearance upon the American dollar!

What amazes me is how so many Satanists today know of this symbol, yet never warned anyone about it being in the Catholic churches. But then that’s part of being a Satanist now isn’t it?

The military protecting our sons and daughters reflect this Roman beast’s Pagan gods as well it seems. Notice the medals pictured below that are handed out by this Vatican controlled American governing force.

Army
Medal of Honor
(Goddess Minerva)

Navy and Marine Corps'
Medal of Honor
(Minvera Repulsing Discord)

Air Force
Medal of Honor
(Goddess Liberty)

Besides the obvious Satanic Pentagrams (upside down star) one can see images of Pagan gods all over them. And yes, that statue in New York harbor is of the Pagan goddess "Liberty!" She is NOT a Christian symbol by any means!

Now, let's look at the churches of today. All of them sport the vulgar steeples, the solar wheels, Celtic crosses, phallic windows and other Catholic images. The Southern Baptist church (left) for example has claimed all along to have sidestepped Rome's infiltration from day one. I can recall years ago when I frequented Baptist churches in my adventures seeking the true church how they would speak of their denominations birth process. This church quite boldly proclaims they were never affected by Rome in any way shape or form. They even had a small booklet called "the trail of blood" that seemed to validate their Roman avoidance. Yet they too display the steeples, stained glass windows, solar wheels, phallic window styles, and gothic format in almost all their churches. Their doctrinal stand is also an echo of Catholic Paganism with their state of the dead doctrines to prophetic definitions. Even their traditions have been adopted from Rome. They embrace everything from Easter Sunrise services, to Sunday keeping itself. ALL of this is strictly from Roman Catholicism.

No church is safe from the infiltration of this beast because sin always comes off as the attractive and more convenient method by which to worship the God that never changed. Even the Seventh-day Adventist church itself (right), which once was the most vocal church on earth exposing Roman Catholicism. It too has fallen to temptation and is now known to embrace all that Rome has to offer. Notice the huge phallic tower, and the Roman Catholic shaped Miter of Dagon the fish god in the doorway of the Loma Linda University Seventh-day Adventist church. I have never been inside the church, but one can imagine how bad it is when they have such a grand display out front. You would be literally shocked if you ever saw what the leaders of this church have actually put in writing over just the last few decades alone!

Rome has even clawed her way into the educational system of this nation. Ignoring for a moment the obvious Roman architecture of all major Universities today, one can see the very same philosophy of Roman Catholicism running rampant through the halls of higher education. From evolution being taught as scientific fact, echoing John Paul II's statements in 1998, to the stealthy suggestion of Roman Catholic doctrines being taught throughout.

Looking at the grade schools and high schools we now see we have to deal with the altered historic records designed to hide the truth about why people came to this nation in the first place. It wasn't British taxation that forced this nation's birth. It was clearly recorded many times over that people being cut in half, buried alive, and burned alive by Roman Catholic priests caused thousands to brave the dangerous high seas for a better land not yet affected by Roman rule. People don't risk life and limb for a few dollars per year being wrenched from their hands.

Revolutions are the end result of such acts. Only certain death would force entire families to leave their homes for uncharted lands! Want proof? Look at the insane taxation in the USA today. Has this caused a mass exodus? Over 60% of your income is taxed now! Yet they want us to believe a tax rate of around 2.5% forced people to leave Britain? No wonder this is called "higher" education. You literally need to be high on drugs to fall for it.

Look at your calendars! The days of the week are named after Roman gods. Who are in turn named after the planets. Who are in fact named after Pagan gods. Wow! Vicious circle eh?

Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn

English Day Name: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday

Anglo-Saxon Day Name: Sunnan daeg (Sun god), Monan daeg (goddess of moon), Tiwes daeg (Tyr/, Mars), Wodens daeg (Odin/Mercury), Thurs daeg (For Thore/Jove), Frige daeg, Satarn daeg (Saturn)

Products you buy in the local market have Roman inspired names or symbolism all over them. Yes, all roads truly do lead to Rome! The prophecy is plain! ALL the world wonders after this beast! Not just the churches and government agencies, but ALL the world wonders after this beast!

When you look at how the USA is running around the planet playing the part of global policeman, as well as passing strange laws right here in the states, it kind of makes you wonder if this too is a fingerprint of mother Rome. As most are aware, Hitler himself was a Catholic. But that's truly neither hear nor there when it comes to what he did in his day. The fact of the matter is, HITLER IS DEAD is he not? Yet, when you look around at today's laws in the USA as well as the media control, homeland, or should I say, ROME-Land security, and prison camps cropping up all over the nation you begin to realize that Hitler wasn't really the problem back then at all. If it was Hitler that masterminded all those unjust rules and regs, then why is it covertly happening today long after his death with absolute replication? Simple, Hitler was merely a puppet of ROME! No other explanation is plausible here! Common sense can now prevail! We know just by breathing that Rome has their hand in all things great and small today simply because it is the prophecied beast. Only a fallen angel with a longer lifespan and an intelligence that far outweighs that of man could mastermind such a conglomeration as this! But, I'm a conspiracy theorist eh? Hitler and Rome? Am I kidding? Can I PROVE IT?

Without pasting all the photos I already have online in my "Hitler & RCC" page, let us instead look inside Rome's walls to see if my claims can be verified. Before doing so, what was Hitler flag? A swastika right? Now when you adopt a symbol for a flag you do something with graphic purpose as well as permanence do you not? You don't just haphazardly go about such a task as this. Even the USA took their time in selecting the stars and stripes. So a flag is something that means a great deal to a nation. However, what if that nation is being controlled by another?

Then something important to the controlling nation would find its way upon that flag! The FACT the swastika was FIRST inside the Vatican as well as displayed within their Cathedrals long before it was on Hitler's flag, PROVES the Vatican was the controlling entity here! In fact, they are being SUED AS WE SPEAK for what they did in this war. Hitler's flag was nothing more then the Vatican's way of declaring their controlling involvement in all he was instructed to do. Why else did he have so many meetings with the pope of his day and all those bishops and cardinals?

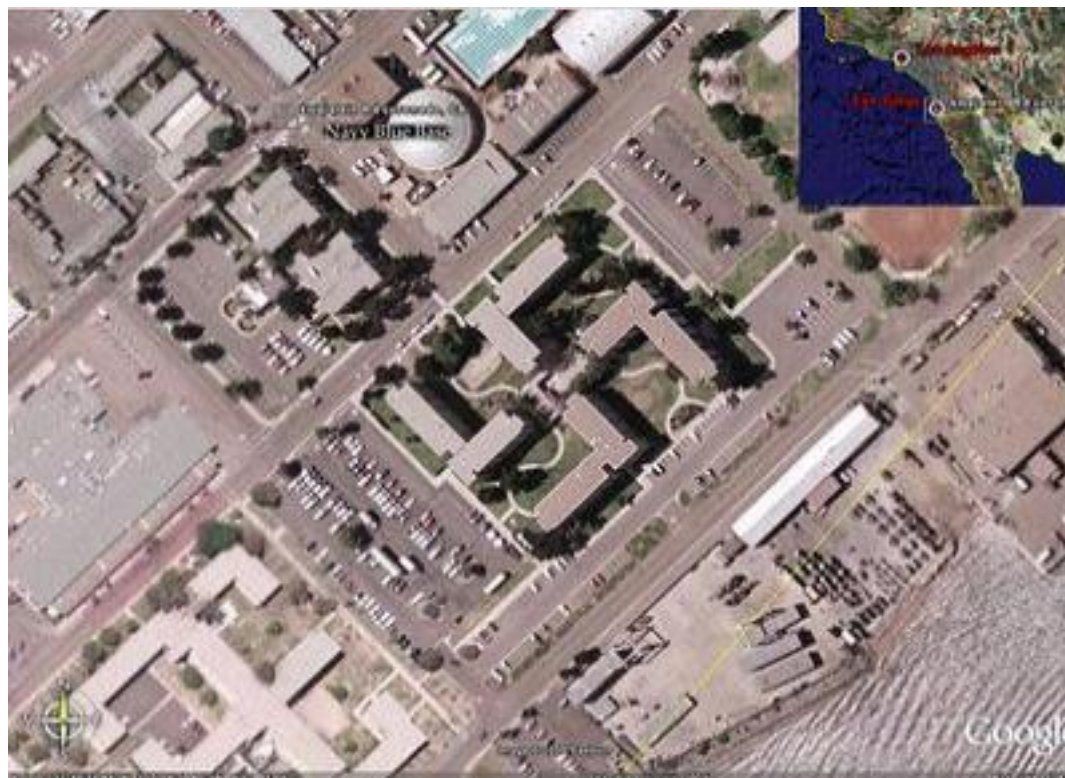

Interlocking swastika design in pavement of “Cathedral of Our Lady of Amiens” in France. (Official name is The Cathedral of Notre-Dame of Amiens” Wikipedia Encyclopedia states in writing that Amiens Cathedral is famous for having altered Swastika symbols on its floors

The church (Cathedral of our Lady of Amiens) was rebuilt after a fire in 1218AD by Roman Catholic Bishop Evrard de Fouilloy. (Robert called of Luzarches) Re-building of this church was of course LONG before Hitler was born! Seeing how the swastika was found first on Roman Catholic churches, is it not plausible that Hitler was instructed by the Church of Rome to use such a symbol? I find it hard to believe that Hitler chose this as his symbol merely because he saw it etched in an Etruscan fibula (a crescent shaped pin) inside the Vatican itself one day. A man such as Hitler does not base his “flag” on a mere bobble. The etching of the swastika on that ornament speaks much bolder than the jewelry it graces! It was Rome’s symbol first! It is Rome's symbol today!

As this Newsletter was being researched I found something rather peculiar that you may find interesting. We already know Rome controls this nation. However, where you also aware that the U.S. Military has decided to grace us with the Roman Catholic swastika in a most grandiose format? Like the aerial pictures of the White House, Pentagon, and U.S. Capital showing their satanic symbolism. Symbolism that can ONLY be seen from above by the way. We now see the following images using Google Earth. Just across the bay from San Diego lies the United States Naval Amphibious Base in Coronado, California. Do you see anything strange about the shape of that military building? They only do these "overhead" symbols for Satan. Fact is, unless you happen to be flying way overhead and actually looking down at that very moment, no man on earth would ever realize the building is built this way. Another fact is, this is restricted air space. So no man is going to see this! PLUS, even if a commercial flight did fly overhead, they would be too high up for anyone to catch this. When I copied this picture using the "Google Earth" software I had to zoom in to just under 1200 feet to get a clear enough picture. When I zoomed to 30,000 feet where most airplanes fly it was impossible to find.

(Copy and paste -> 32 40'34.09" N, 117 09'27.96 W into Google Earth to see for yourself)

Strange factoid #1: Where you aware that on the eve of Hitler's 116th birth anniversary, the College of Cardinals, headed by none other then Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger himself, elected Ratzinger to be the next pope of Rome. This is all despite the fact that he was a member of Hitler Youth as well as an anti-aircraft gunner for Nazi Germany during their heyday. Ratzinger was also a war prisoner of the Allies that eventually defeated Hitler! By the way, Ratzinger is GERMAN to boot!

Strange factoid #2: Wilhem II, Emperor of Germany said, "The Pope said to me...that Germany must become the sword of the Catholic Church."

"The National Government will regard it as its first and foremost duty to revive in the nation the spirit of unity and cooperation. It will preserve and defend those basic principles on which our nation has been built. It regards Christianity as the foundation of our national morality, and the family as the basis of national life" ('My New Order', Adolf Hitler, Proclamation to the German Nation at Berlin, February 1, 1933)

That's right! Hitler was the first to use the term "New Order" which has now been changed slightly to "New World Order." Who started using the term AFTER Hitler? First the Pope's of Rome, then George Bush senior, and now George W. Bush. By the way, those are Roman Catholic prelates he is smiling with. Notice the Maltese cross on the prelate shaking his hand? That was also a favorite of Hitler's Nazis. Looking at how the USA emulates Hitler's patriotic marketing, dishonest politics, and covert martial law agenda to the letter, one can easily see that the Roman puppet master is still in control.

Even the KKK can thank Roman Catholic symbolism for their hooded robes of old. Notice the Roman Catholic priests "dressed to kill" in a Vatican ceremony below.

No too long ago I received an article from a subscriber that detailed how the American government is selling our Country out from under us. (Click here to see the article) The article was of course sparked by the Bush administrations desire to sell 6 U.S. sea ports to United Arab Emirates. Problem with that fact is, most people are unaware that the Washington Times reported not too long ago that as a nation we have 3200 sea ports which are already 80% owned and operated by foreign countries. The only reason people got their blood up about the recently reported 6 sea ports is because of their Arab shoppers. Fact is, the American government sold us out a LONG time ago and all the lazy watchmen blessed them greatly with the go ahead with their complacency. This is no different then the Clinton administration when it shut the national parks down for a few days "claiming" a national emergency. When in fact it was done so they could post new blue signs on all National Parks that read, "Property of the United Nations." Why would they sell those lands out from under us? Common sense. It allows more control over the land that could in fact become a refuge for modern day Wesleyans when Rome's mark is enforced.

The Vatican itself is the first and only "global" governmental structure today. It has agreements to their desires in 174 nations at present, and those that refuse to bow to Rome end up in war with the USA. Prophecy clearly states the USA will give power unto the Vatican whenever it is needed. These 6 ports are merely long range palm greasing, rest assured.

Satan knows the people on the earth are mostly in his camp at present, so a few wicked movements of politicians and big government won't concern the complacent couch potatoes much. The ones it does alarm are so small in number that he figures they could only generate little if any opposition in Washington or any other government entity. (He of course fails to realize we have a God) So why not go for the odds on favorite

The USA with all its Roman laws, Latin terms, Vatican inspired churches, money inscribed with Catholic symbolism, Catholic controlled Congress, Senate, and Supreme Court is finally spilling its wolverine undercoat into reality. The USA was created by the beast in Rome so as to have a long range supply of tools to get their global aspirations realized.

The Vatican has all along been a multicultural church / nation. Is it any wonder the USA is also multicultural? You can find catholic churches in absolutely every single nation on earth now. So it's only natural that an exact copy of its structure would echo in this land seeing how they run all aspects of its government anyway. Prophecy did say the USA would create an image of the beast, and now we see that it's happening on EVERY aspect of reality. Truth is, I don't see the USA as "selling out" at all with these 6 ports. I see the Vatican simply setting up shop from across the ocean a little more "out in the open" now then in the recent past. Rome has pushed its ecumenical movement far longer with big government then it has with the churches. That's why a LOT more sea ports are in the hands of other nations then we all first realized. The Arabian sales were just the catalyst that got a few eyes to open is all. And guess what? It's been a few weeks so... all is forgotten. Ahhh yes, the blessings of MSG and cable TV! What a combo meal!

When you understand prophecy and see the facts as they are laid out before you, you can't help but to see the one world government is already set up. All they are waiting for is the final go ahead in Rome. Before doing so of course, certain nations need to comply or be forced to comply so they can assure they have their money making commodity in the bank as it were. They don't want a repeat of what happened with Hitler.

The Roman Catholic Vatican is the only nation on earth that was designed from day one as a GLOBAL entity. The word "Catholicism" is a Latin term meaning UNIVERSAL. It is obvious that by naming this denomination thusly, they planned from day one for global dominance. But then, those of us that study prophecy already knew that.

What amazes me is how most people missed the obvious. The Vatican is a puny nation. They don't even have a military. Yet, because they are setup with governing institutions, (they call them churches) in all nations now, they have both a political as well as religious stand globally. Not even a dozen superpowers can hope to match their control grid! And rightly so. Only a supernatural fallen angel straight from the pits of hell itself could set a trap like this. Man could in no way hope to even come close even if he had many nations behind him! And NO, I am not glorifying Satan by any means. This validates and confirms the prophetic Word of the very God we worship! HE TOLD US ABOUT THIS BEFORE IT HAPPENED!

Looking back for a moment we can see that yes, Rome wanted to take over back in Hitler's day, but all her ducks were not in a row. Certain feathers were ruffled that forced them to back off and hide out for a few decades. So they infiltrated, and schmoozed their way into every church that opposed them and every government entity they could to make sure this day would come. This is why you see governing agencies like FEMA with toys like the train you saw at the top of this Newsletter. That train was designed for transporting prisoners on US soil to the many camps throughout the land. Many of these camps are only accessible by rail. That my friends are an exact duplicate of Hitler's, or should I say Rome's prison camp design from the start.

These rail cars can hold scores of prisoners each. Eye witness reports have come in more than once already stating they have human shackles in these cars. Do you recall the executive orders I shared in last month's Newsletter that spoke of seizing the American people for work forces under federal supervision? (E.O. #11000.) The "laws" Revelation 13 speaks of are already on the books.

By the way, I have it on good authority that Gunderson Rail Car Company received a contract by the United Nations to build over 400 more of these boxcars. And seeing how they aren't making them fast enough. Trinity rail Group joined in the work just a few weeks after 911 to help in the manufacturing of these boxcars. With all that said, are you aware that a Halliburton subsidiary received a $385 million contract from the Department of Homeland Security to provide "temporary detention and processing capabilities." (prison camps) They are claiming it's to curb the massive influx of immigrants to our land. Yet, at the same time the Bush administration is removing the security forces from our borders to allow for the NWO. So, who's fooling who? They are playing with the borders to manufacture the "ok" for such detention centers, even though no immigrants are in them. If those rail cars were manufactured for reasons other than as I mentioned, and with as many as were built, one would think they would be seen by a lot more people by now. So I ask, why all the secrecy if it's for our benefit in the first place?

One other obvious fact about Roman Catholic influence in this land of ours is the now widely publicized acceptance of torture by our governing officials. Besides the obvious atrocities even the "controlled" media can't seem to contain, were you aware that as of January 2005 we have been testing torture on what the government calls "Christians" at Oxford University! Torture was invented FIRST by Rome! And the Roman Catholic priests used it to kill over 500 million people! So.. is it any wonder they are "testing" it again? And does it have anything to do with the fact John Paul II reinstated the office of Inquisition back in 1991? Why set up such an office if there is no use for it?

And now this...

Vatican changes heart over Crusades - again Reopens debate on war for 'noble aim' of regaining Holy Land for Christianity Posted: March 25, 2006 1:00 a.m. Eastern © 2006 WorldNetDaily.com

Despite a 2000 request for "pardon," widely interpreted as an apology to Muslims for the Crusades, by the late Pope John Paul II, the Vatican reopened the debate last week with a conference that characterized the wars fought centuries ago as defensive measures taken with the noble aim of regaining the Holy Land for Christianity, according to the London Times.

The conference, held at the Regina Apostolorum Pontifical University, brought together scholars from around the world who were anything but apologetic for the series of wars fought by European Christendom over 750 years ago.

...While agreeing the Crusaders were sometimes undisciplined and committed acts of cruelty, it was true of the Muslims and troops, even now, in "all ideological wars." The worst excesses of the Crusaders, Riley-Smith said, were generally reserved for the Orthodox and heretics. Those who seek forgiveness for the Crusades, he said, "do not know their history."

"Westerners should not be embarrassed by the Crusades," Spencer concluded. "It's time to say, 'enough,' and teach our children to take pride in their own heritage. They should know that they have a culture and a history of which they can and should be grateful; that they are not the children and grandchildren of oppressors and villains; and that their homes and families are worth defending against those who want to take them away, and are willing to kill to do so."

This article is nothing more than a pack of twisted historic facts concerning the Crusades of Rome against the Muslim nation. All I see the Vatican doing here is trying to give the Crusades a facelift so as to gain their much desired real estate. There was nothing noble about all that killing no matter how much you gild the lily. History has already verified that the Vatican covertly created the Islamic faith so as to create a religion that would make it a holy act to run rampant across the land killing off Jews and Christians. Once they conquered Jerusalem the Vatican would step in and exact payment as was previously agreed. When the Muslims refused to give up Jerusalem, Rome responded with the Crusades! That is recorded historic fact. * What this article is preaching is nothing more than a collection of lies designed to gain acceptance for another Vatican Holy War against those that won't allow the Vatican its unbiblical claim to Real Estate in Jerusalem.

The stage has been set. They are proclaiming this "noble aim" that makes the Crusades appear dignified only to gain control of the "Holy Land" for themselves. They also make such "noble" claims to seed the "approval to kill" in the hearts of many around the world. Perfect timing I say, after so many have been conditioned by the entertainment industry into thinking less and less about murder now-a-days.

Whether it's a bluff to make the Muslim bow or not makes no difference. The fact they spoke of such things in a positive manner is all that's needed in the global arena. Especially today when the bulk of the human hearts are exactly as Christ said they would be in Matthew 24:37 Soon the Sabbath keeping child of God will be considered worthy of death for the same "noble" reasons. Rome has all along stated to kill for their cause was a good thing. In fact, they have put it in writing many times!

"The Catholic Church has persecuted ... when she thinks it is good to use physical force she will use it... Will the Catholic Church give bond that she will not persecute?... The Catholic Church gives no bonds for her good behavior." -Western Watchman, Dec. 24, 1908

"The church may by divine right confiscate the property of heretics, imprison their person, and condemn them to flames. In our age, the right to inflict the severest penalties, even death, belongs to the church. There is no graver offense than heresy, therefore it must be rooted out." - Public Eccliaistical, Vol. 2, p.142.

Mr. Raywood Frazier, in the booklet "Catholic Words and Actions," presents documentary proof of the intensive persecution of Protestants and non-Catholics in Columbia, South America, between 1949 and 1953. The Catholic Church had the support of the Columbian government in the destruction of many churches, and the liquidation of more than 1,000 documented cases -- some of whom were shot, drowned, or emasculated. He says there is evidence of over 60,000 killed. Pope Pius XII awarded the President of Columbia with one of the highest awards which the Church bestows, and praised Columbia for its example of the Catholic faith." (Pp. 59,60)

Christ has risen! Christ will come again!

Maranatha!

2tuff, do you ever rest? Because it seems to me that you research like a mofo non-stop, and post these amazingly complex articles all of the time. You must be exhausted. Keep it up! :D

CRAIG-OXLEY - October 20, 2006 10:14 PM (GMT)

I'm trying hard to gather as much good information in one spot as possible. I want to get all relevant information to make it easier for people to skip all the dross and useless nonsense spread by disinformation agents which makes it all even more time consuming. If theres any method of shorting the timescale of research for people then it must be undertaken immediately as we do no have much time left. Remember folks

Internet II will roll out soon and before that we have the E.U orders etc restricting soon video uploading and whatever else in the future they wish. So remember folks we don't need an internet II to be suprressed on this net.

My advice to people right now is grab every ebook, book, audio, video, webpage, paper you name it IMMEDIATELY. Try to get these put on backup CD/DVD/BLU-RAY asap and off the harddrives linked to the net. Remember folks how I had Vatican Assassins removed from my HD? Remember when others who mocked found it happen to them not long after? There you go. Get everything now so you can still wake people up locally when needed. Keep it alive.

This is why I paste everything here and do not like links. If one site gets attacked then we still have the information elsewhere. I've learnt this from the past with an old forum linking which lost much information. If sites keep popping up with pasted information then its harder for them to destroy the information for now.

Los Alumbrados/Illuminados (Raiders)

QUOTE

Alumbrados is an ultra-secret organization, but that is because they do not have as many ties to the developed world as the Illuminati does- which makes them less visible. They are of Spanish descent (their leadership is the Spanish Hapsburg lineage), and they work mainly through the Jesuit Order, and Catholicism in general. Once I am able to find more information on them, I will promptly list it here. There seem to have not been any defections--the usual way obtain such secret info such as with the Illuminati--.

Where do they fit in?

smashstuff - October 20, 2006 01:01 AM (GMT)

I would say that the Jesuit Order is the fully realised version of 'Los Alumbrados', with more discipline and knowledge of sorcery and intrigue etc.

<http://members.toast.net/rjspina/History%2...e%20Jesuits.htm>

From Rene Fulop-Miller's book 'The Jesuits A history of the Society of Jesus:

'This strange circle of ecstatic youths and women must necessarily have excited the suspicion of the ecclesiastical authorities. The neighbourhood of Alcaca was the seat of the "Alumbrados", a strange sect of Spanish mystics against whom the Inquisition was at that time energetically entering the field. Soon it was suspected that Ignatius was a member of the set. Exhaustive investigations were made; Ignatius and his disciples were arrested more than once; finally, as he was totally lacking in theological knowledge, he was merely forbidden to acquire disciples, and allowed to continue on his way.'

As i've explained before, the JESUIT ORDER is the Los Alumbrados with a simple name change.

Priest Claims Relationship With Foley

By MATTHEW DOIG and MAURICE TAMMAN Sarasota Herald-Tribune

Published: October 19, 2006

<http://www.nytimes.com/2006/10/19/washingt...artner=homepage>

A Catholic priest told The Sarasota Herald-Tribune on Wednesday that he had an intimate two-year relationship with former Representative Mark Foley of south Florida when Mr. Foley was a teenage altar boy.

Mr. Foley resigned from Congress last month after his suggestive electronic messages to young male pages surfaced. Soon after, he said he was an alcoholic and said he had been molested as a boy by a clergyman.

From his home on the island of Gozo, a part of Malta off the Italian coast, the priest, Anthony Mercieca, described a series of encounters that he said Mr. Foley might have perceived as sexually inappropriate. Among them: massaging Mr. Foley while the boy was naked, skinny-dipping with him at a secluded lake and being naked in the same room on overnight trips.

Father Mercieca said he was in a drug-induced stupor one night and cannot clearly remember what happened but that it may also have been inappropriate.

"I have to confess, I was going through a nervous breakdown," he said. "I was taking pills — tranquilizers. I used to take them all the time. They affected my mind a little bit."

Father Mercieca's description of his relationship with Mr. Foley is similar to details provided to The Herald-Tribune by people close to Mr. Foley's family. Those people, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Father Mercieca is the priest who Mr. Foley has claimed sexually abused him.

On Tuesday, Mr. Foley's lawyer, Gerald Richman, told reporters that the purported abuser was a Catholic priest whose name he planned to share with church officials this week. He and another lawyer for Mr. Foley, David Roth, refused further comment.

In 1966 and 1967, when Father Mercieca served as a priest at Sacred Hearth Catholic Church in Lake Worth, Fla., Mr. Foley was an altar boy there and attended the parish school. The Foleys were active members of the congregation. Father Mercieca, 72, told The Herald-Tribune that he and Mr. Foley became fast friends when Father Mercieca moved from Brazil to Florida in 1966 and "loved each other like brothers."

Father Mercieca said he taught Mr. Foley "some wrong things" related to sex, though he wouldn't specify what he meant. He also said they were naked together in a sauna twice.

Father Mercieca said that, at the time, he considered his relationship with Mr. Foley innocent. But he now says he sees that his actions may have been inappropriate.

Father Mercieca said his encounter with Mr. Foley was an aberration, and that the Catholic Church never had to send him for counseling during his 38 years in the priesthood in Florida.

"I have been in many parishes, and I have never been" accused, he said.

As of midday today, neither Mr. Foley's lawyer nor the Archdiocese of Miami had released the name of the priest that Mr. Foley says abused him.

Michael Edmondson, a spokesman for the Florida state attorney's office in Palm Beach, said that Mr. Foley's lawyer was expected to submit the name, but that it had not arrived when the office closed Wednesday.

Father Mercieca said that during his two years in Lake Worth he ate dinners with Mr. Foley's family and that Mr. Foley's grandmother "was delighted to see me all the time."

Father Mercieca said he was confused about why Mr. Foley had decided to come forward after almost 40 years.

"Why does he want to destroy me in my old age?" Father Mercieca asked.

Jon Ombres, 52, a former altar boy at Sacred Heart Church with Mr. Foley in the 1960's, said he and Mr. Foley were close friends until eighth grade.

Mr. Ombres said that he and Mr. Foley spent many Sunday afternoons with the priest, but that he was never propositioned and did not know of any intimate contact between Mr. Foley and Father Mercieca.

“He took us to the movies and would tell us to call him ‘Tony.’ He taught us to drive in his ‘57 Chevy,” Mr. Ombres said. “He taught us to drive a stick-shift in a light-blue Volkswagen, driving around the church parking lot.”

Bob Mahlburg and Tom Lyons of The Sarasota Herald-Tribune contributed to this report.

Born Into Illuminati, Italian Aristocrat Goes Public About Opus Dei, Jesuits and Vatican NWO Connections

Leo Zagami knows his life is in danger, but Illuminati insider who broke away from Satanism wants to warn Americans about the "evil enemy" destroying freedom.

18 Oct 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/18-Oct-2006.html>

Leo Lyon Zagami of Sicily knows he is risking his life to rebel against Satanism and bringing to light what he knows about the evil Vatican-led Illuminati.

And Zagami isn't your typical Illuminati researcher, but someone born into the satanic New World Order by his aristocratic bloodlines, his mother being related directly to the famous Queen Mother (Lyon Family) and his father being the son of the Marchesa Di Gregorio, one of the most prestigious noble families of Sicily in charge for many centuries of the Sicilian Knights of Malta.

"That means I'm technically a Sicilian Don and a Prince of the Sacred Roman Empire and a person protected by their own Vatican secret constitutions, so they can't touch me," said Zagami from his home in Norway, adding it is no longer safe to live in Italy after he recently broke away from the satanic clutches of his former Illuminati masters.

"And that's the reason why I'm going to be making many more revelations (God permitting) until the time comes for the return of our only true Grand Master and the fall of Rome and the Anti-Christ when the terrible judge will be upon them with no mercy as the Malachi Prophecies tell us."

Zagami claims to have a boat load of inside information about influential members of the Illuminati on both sides of the Atlantic, information if revealed that could rock the very foundations of Satanism controlling the Vatican, the U.S. and Italy.

After breaking ties with the American Illuminati in 2003 and the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge (Ordo Illuminatorum Universalis in June of 2006 after a secret Conference in San Cerbone, Zagami had this to say about the Jesuit and Opus Dei connection to the Illuminati and Freemasonry.

"I had a close encounter a big friend of the Jesuit in Rome, a guy called Alberto Moscato who is a 33rd degree Mason in charge of the satanic activities of the Ordo Templi Orientis in Italy," added Zagami.

"And obviously being active in the Illuminati Rites of Freemasonry contact had to be made but I was always very skeptical of them as they are dangerous and I was closer to the Opus Dei at the time but some interesting episodes occurred and I know many of the characters who serve them like slaves.

"There is, semi-officially, a war going on between the Jesuits and the Opus Dei but at the end they are working for the same owner and the same New World Order plan, just on different levels so to please their slaves.

"The Opus Dei is the real Catholic Masonic lobby of today, as Licio Gelli said a couple of months ago in a interview and a lot of Italian Freemasons have now the double card of being Masons and Opus Dei members. They are working at very high levels in the Government and political parties like Alleanza Nazionale to take over the show.

"But the Jesuits are now in firm control of the faith and of the mind because of their underground network of Masonic Illuminati linked to Black Magic circles and all these new religious movements through people like Massimo Introvigne that you should investigate a bit more ...

"Jesuit policy as always been to act in a more subliminal and far more effective way because that's how they take control the show but Opus Dei is growing faster and faster under their eyes...

"The Opus Dei actually supported me for a while in my struggle against the evil Jesuit lobby and the satanists in Freemasonry because they are afraid of their black magic circles and many times the Opus Dei tried to break into the satanic lodges in Rome of Alberto Moscato but the Jesuits always warned Moscato also a Knight of Malta first.

"My problems actually started in Freemasonry when I started to criticize openly the way the Opus Dei wanted to copy these patterns by recreating similar circles and Illuminati lodges which they did like Di Bernardoin Italy, though the people working for the Jesuits in Freemasonry are much more involved in the esoteric and better at it unfortunately.

"At the end I gave up any support from Vatican insiders and I'm never going to trust them again they are all in it together with the devil himself, all working in the Illuminati Lodges

"The Jesuit Order is now promoting a specific Rite of Freemasonry called the Rectified Scottish Rite, which is a more Christian Rite in eyes of the Masonic sheep of today but in reality still in the hands of the same people."

Zagami recently went public with a new web site, trying to warn America and the rest of the world about how the Vatican-led Illuminati has America targeted for destruction. He also wants to protect his home country of Sicily, warning people that the Vatican "is the real Mafia."

He will appear today for two hours today on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal at www.gcnlive.com, his first interview in America, naming names and telling people that the Jesuits and the Vatican have firm control over the U.S. government with the intent on turning the country into a police and fascist state, which is the Jesuit government of choice.

"As you can imagine my revelations and my war against these people have not made me so popular in Italy these days with the usual Mafia.," said Zagami. "But I'm going to try not to end up like my grandfather (a Sicilian Senator called Leopoldo Zagami) who preferred to shut up and was poisoned in the parliament because of these evil people AND I WILL TALK ONCE AND FOR ALL BECAUSE SICILY NEEDS IT , the Vatican is the real MAFIA!

"I am putting together my new web site mainly to protect my life and the life of my family by exposing them first all over the web so a murder now will not be so easy for them. I have been arrested and tortured before during my mission against the NWO Satanists and I know now that after revealing my membership in the Monte Carlo illuminati Lodge of the P2 and my connection to GLADIO I am risking my life even more, so let me tell you that Italy is still a very risky place for people like me even though I'm an aristocrat connected to those famous bloodlines that rule the show. With that said, I still prefer to live in Oslo (Norway).

"But as you can also imagine I have lots of fans worldwide (due to Zagami's work in the arts and music) and I have managed during my many years of work in the Freemasons, the illuminati and other groups to find a few genuine Brothers who support my cause and want to fight this incredible evil that generates from Vatican control, like the Boutros Ghali family for example.

"After I first left the American Illuminati in 2003 I tried to distance myself from them but time after time they stopped me and made me realize that there was no exit for me as I was one of them and that's because of my blood (the infamous bloodlines). My full name is in fact Leo Lyon Zagami and I'm related by blood from my mother's side to the famous Queen mother (Lyon family) and my father is the son of the Marchesa Di Gregorio, one of the most prestigious Noble families of Sicily in charge for many centuries of the Knight of Malta of Sicily (a very powerful post indeed).

"That means I'm technically a Sicilian Don and a Prince of the Sacred Roman Empire and a person protected by their own Vatican secret constitutions, so they cant touch me and that's the reason why I'm going to be making many more revelations (God permitting) until the time comes for the return of our only true Grand Master and the fall of Rome and the Anti-Christ when the terrible judge will be upon them with no mercy as the Malachi prophecies tell us.

"I don't think we are fare from that moment that's why I want to openly challenge the decadent and corrupt aristocrats of Europe now, including the corrupt English Royal family though Prince Charles is not to bad and we have a common spiritual teacher in Sufism)

"Obviously my mother Jessica Lyon Young didn't want me to create all this trouble but she saw with her own eyes what they did to me after I rebelled against the Satanists and she can't stand the Freemasons, the illuminati or the Opus Dei, as my mother used to work for the Vatican in the early 80's with her own radio show on Catholic Radio!

"I started with them, I know them as I know my family and I actually used to consider them my family until I discovered the full truth of the evil game they were playing...then I got disgusted and felt a sense of shame for my corrupt religion and for my beloved city of Rome.

"But now I'm Muslim, married with two lovely kids and I'm very happy for saving my soul at last and discovering the true Jesus -- Jesus the man and the Prophet of a great new Revelation and not the false God of the Vatican made conspiracy to take over the world. Don't forget in all this the Jews of Rome...La Banda della Magliana ...the Jewish Ghetto and their Jesuit link with Andreotti and the P2. The show must go on, somebody said but for how long?"

Is somebody that converts to Islam worth listening to ? I don't mean this because of the religion itself, I don't care about religions anymore but, because of the fact that if he was a real insider, he should know more about religions and how useless it would be to convert and follow another fake guide and brainwashing cult.

Well it makes me laugh when these people think their free (VENUS). You'll always notice them go and choose another mind-prisoning religion, most times its Protestantism. You have ex 4th vow Jesuits Dr Rivera turning to Protestantism, this guy with Muslim and ex Illuminati warlocks turning to Protestantism. So either their still quite entrapped in the bunkum of the system or their up to something and carrying on doing devious things behind your back.

Remember Opus Dei would not have been created if it wasn't for the permission/orders of the Superior General and his Society of Jesus. Theres NO division in the Roman Catholic Church, its an illusion for the sheeple populace to believe.

Title: A few questions about the Jesuit Order

MoroccoMole - October 19, 2006 01:11 AM (GMT)

Hello, i have a few questions regarding the Jesuit Order, i hope some of you who are more schooled on the subject may be able to help me out here, with some key points for research, and dates.

I am slightly unclear as to the formation of the Jesuits, i know they were formed by Loyola but out of what organisation, were they always associated with the Catholic faith, if not how did Loyola's order become affiliated with the Vatican?

Once inside the vatican how did the Jesuits assume control of the papacy, were there certain dates when the Vatican and the Jesuits were in opposition, were the Jesuits under the orders of the Pope for a certain time and how did the Jesuits take control of the Vatican and the Pope in Rome, was this Loyolas initial incentive>?

If anyone can shed a little light on any of these subjects i would be very grateful.

Off the top of my head--

One pope, Clement (was it 16th or 17th or what) tried to disband them and was poisoned for his trouble.

They've been ejected from just about every country at some point in time.

The Jesuit Order was once known before linking with the Roman Catholics as the LOS ALUMBRADOS and originated from SPAIN, this is why were believe that Elias Royon Lara will become Superior General in 2008 as hes the Provincial of Spain and up for ELection. I've explained this all before my friend! The Jesuits were created in 1534.

The Papacy has been controlled by the Superior General and his Jesuit Order since 1814. Where Vatican I was taken over was with the Doctrines of Infallibility.

- The Jesuits took control of Vatican I in 1870
- The Jesuits took control of Vatican II between 1963 and 65

You must realise that Loyola and his Alumbrados were arrested under the Inquisition by the Dominican Monks ordered by the Pope. He managed to get an audience with the Pope and from then on he emerged the leader of the Pope's new Military order now known to us as the Society of Jesus given extreme powers in order to win back control of the world to the Papacy against the Reformation. Remember they were also created to defeat the Saracens. The Jesuit Order is known as the Black Brotherhood and once again their the Saturnalian Brotherhood following the pure ancient mysteries religion.

Theres plenty of source of data for when the Pope's attacked for tried to attack the Jesuits which will obviously show you the times the Vatican weren't happy.

Thankyou for your responses.

Thank you i feel this organisation warrants further investigation.

How and when did they lose power over the Vatican to regain it in 1960's?

From what i have found so far they were a mystical group who claimed to have direct intercourse with GOD, so do we look at this Los Alumbrados to understand the practice of the Jesuits, what is this god of which they speak>?

Yes well i intend to obtain a copy of the new revised VA 3rd Edition iwhen it is released and if i can find somewhere that sells it, i understand this book chronicles the timeline of the Jesuit Order and the instances when they were persecuted or more appropriately "Chased Out" of certain countries.

My friend the JESUITS have never lost their power over the Papacy! Now if you wish to believe the pathetic stories of Opus Dei being their enemy then some people get fooled into thinking theres division in the Catholic Church. NOTHING happens in the Vatican without permission and orders from the Society of Jesus and believe it or not Opus Dei was created by the Jesuit Order. Remember division is always what they wish amongst the people and in the peoples eyes, its an ILLUSION, their ALL-ONE! Temporal Coadjutor Dan Brown who's met the Pope played his part in fooling the public about Opus Dei being more powerful than they really are. Did you hear anything on the Jesuits from Dan? :ph43r:

The Los Alumbrados simply follows the purest form of the ancient mysteries religion which goes back to Babylon and further into Pheonician/Caanite terrority. Its the Jesuits agenda to destroy the Catholic religion and bring about a one world religion based on this religion but known as Sionism behind the scenes. The god regardless of names is simply EL or Saturn.

KOSOVO

Vatican Tyranny

Another nail in the coffin of freedom

<http://www.exposingdeceptions.org/Kosovo.html>

Yugoslavia has been part of my research for the past several years. I spent some time in Bled and Lubljiana in 1970 and found those people to be most congenial, which makes this subject sensitive to me.

With the background I am giving you, you should have no difficulty seeing through the Whitehouse/CIA/media hype:

In 1941, a Croatian Catholic (Ante Pavelic) started the Ustasha (the leaders were all Dominican and Franciscan monks, making the Ustasha an integral part of the Roman Catholic Church, the ranks made up of monks of the same orders and Bosnian Muslims). The Ustasha was put into power in Croatia by Adolf Hitler in 1941, in compliance with the Vatican/Third Reich Concordat. The Ustasha implemented a program of "conversion" of Croatia to Catholicism. The program was to annihilate one third of the entire Serbian population, force a third to migrate out of the country and force the last third to convert to Catholicism. Assigned to oversee the entire operation, by the Vatican, was Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac. The program was to take ten years. The Ustasha built and operated the third largest concentration camp in WWII at Jasenovac where over 800,000 Serbs, Jews and Gypsies were systematically butchered (hundreds were incinerated alive). The "program" was interrupted in 1945 with the Allies kicking the Nazi's and Ustasha out.

READ THE BOOK: "The Yugoslav Auschwitz and The Vatican" by: Vladimir Dedijer:
<http://www.bookmag.com/books/history/157.html>

Clinton got his law degree at Georgetown (jesuit) University where he was indoctrinated into communism (as was, Jesuit, Fidel Castro). As governor of Arkansas, Clinton authorized the use of the airfield at Mena Arkansas, for Reagan's CIA-Iran/Contra weapons and drug smuggling operation. M-16's went south to arm the Catholic Contra's (to take back Nicaragua and El Salvador for the Vatican) and cocaine came north and sold on American streets by the CIA (today that cocaine is being sold in black neighborhoods by the Contra's). The money (over 100 million a month) was laundered through: Franklin Community Federal Credit Union in Omaha Nebraska; Bank of Credit & Commerce International; Guaranty Bank in Chicago; Garfield Ridge Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago. The money then used to buy more weapons (from David Koresh and Cabazon Indian Reservation near Indio California) and to put Catholic priest/dictator, Jean Bertrand Aristide, in power in Haiti: Clinton's cut was laundered through Arkansas Development Finance Authority (authored by: Webster Hubbell). The entire operation was overseen by Oliver North.

Oliver North had multiple secret accounts at Credit Suisse [(Credit Bank) one of the four banks that financed the assassination of John Kennedy] , Geneva, Switzerland: thereby controlling the financing of the entire operation.

Clinton was "chosen" to run for the Oval office by sovereign Knight of Malta: William Casey. This is the same William Casey who was CIA station chief in Viet Nam and implemented the "Operation Phoenix" (ethnic cleansing) of South Vietnamese Buddhist's, picking up where, Catholic, (Cardinal Francis "burn-em alive" Spellman trained) South Vietnamese president, Ngo Dinh Diem, left off: After John Kennedy had him assassinated on 2 Nov 1963. Need I say what happened on 22 Nov 1963? This is also the same William Casey, who, along with Oliver North, devised the system of smuggling M-16's to the Contra's in Nicaragua and cocaine north; was George Bush's campaign manager and named in a class action lawsuit in Southern California [(case no. 99-02603) along with Robert Gates, John Deutch, George Tenet, Estate of William French Smith, Edwin Meese, Richard Thornburgh, Janet Reno and others; CIA, US Dept. of Justice] responsible for the 1980's crack cocaine epidemic and resulting social and economic devastation of inner city communities.

Clinton implemented the American Ustasha (BATF) pilot program, at Mt. Carmel, outside Waco Texas, using the trumped up charge of a methamphetamine laboratory, which was never mentioned again once the raid started. After all the deaths (80) (17 children and their mothers were gassed and incinerated alive, the entire operation overseen by Webster Hubbell) and long term imprisonment of the Mt. Carmel survivors:

NOT ONE HAD VIOLATED ANY LAW!! David Koresh was a LICENSED gun dealer!

In 1991 Clinton put the Ustasha back in power in Croatia: picking up the process of "conversion", where they left off in 1945. Not satisfied with the progress, Clinton concocted the phony "Dayton Peace Accord", implementing the treacherous unilateral disarmament: holding the Serbs in a, so called, fire free zone, which, in truth, was a free fire zone when the Croats and Muslims were allowed to rearm and continue the "conversion" process, which was completed in 1995.

In Bosnia, the Ustasha was called: "Croatian Peoples Party" (HSP) and its army: "Croatian Defense Force" (HOS): units being partially comprised of: "Black Legion" mercenaries from Austria, Belgium, Britain and Canada, and the French mercenary unit: "Nouvelle Resistance", MPRI (shadowy mercenary organization, based in Virginia) contracted by the Pentagon to train Ustasha units in Croatia, Bosnia and Kosovo (MPRI trained KLA/Ustasha direct US/Nato bombings in Kosovo by field radio).

In watching the, so called, news media you would think the Serb's are the worst people on earth. However a more critical view shows quite a different picture. The pictures of dead bodies show only that. They don't show: who they are, who killed them, when, where or how they were killed. You simply take the media's word for that. In 1969, a headline story, on every major newspaper in the US, read: "Buddhist Monk Commits Suicide in Protest of War", along with a picture of that monk engulfed in a gasoline flame on a Saigon street. The only problem with that is, that Buddhist Monk committed suicide in that flame on 11 June 1963 in protest of Catholic president Ngo Dinh Diem's systematic "ethnic cleansing" of all South Vietnamese Buddhist's out of South Viet Nam [Ngo Dinh Diem's Catholic wife's remark, to the suicide, was: "he would have made a good weenie roast", or words to that affect]:

<http://www.reformation.org/vietnam.html> Also in 1969, in response to Spiro Agnew's attempt to get a bill through Congress to make it a crime for the media to lie: the president of ABC news stated, on national television: "we are not in the business of telling the truth".

If Slobodan Milosevic is doing ethnic cleansing, why haven't we seen any satellite images of it? After all, if it's supposed to be going on, on such a "wide scale", how could it be so difficult? Could it be, with all of the military's sophisticated technology, it's still so difficult to take a picture of what isn't happening? With satellite resolution clear enough that you can tell how long it's been since a man has shaved, all they've shown is a photo with some little dash marks (supposedly graves). When has any army, committing genocide, bothered to dig individual graves? Then, to add more insult to your intelligence, when UN forces go in, they try to claim the Serbian Army dug up each individual body (best lie they could come up with to explain not having any bodies)! We didn't see any pictures of displaced Albanians until after Clinton started his bombing.

Clinton calls Serbia, Yugoslavia: This carries grave implications in international protocol terminology. This means Clinton does not recognize the sovereignty of the Serbian people in their own land. How does this fit the UN charter? Clinton target bombed the WWII war memorial bridge across the Danube river in the middle of Novi Sad (where the Nazi's killed over 9000 Serbs) killing over 100 people on their way to work (it was on C-Span) (no military in the region). We know he's been bombing business buildings, appliance and pharmaceutical factories, commercial power and water plants, schools and orphanages in Belgrade. Hows that for concern for human suffering? Yes there really is ethnic cleansing going on, and its the US and NATO that's doing it! If you are so naive as to think NATO is not capable of such acts, ask the French why de Gaulle kicked NATO out of France in 1962 (FBI's Division 5, through NATO, made it's second attempt on his life: ordered by J. Edgar Hoover).

The Albanian KLA Separatists are KNOWN drugs and weapons smuggling terrorists (on US list of ten worst terrorist organizations for several years; just removed from that list last year) and have incorporated "Black Legion" mercenary units into their ranks. If you will take the time to find out, you will see (as I did on TV) embroidered down the left side of the KLA's arm patch is the ord: "USTASHA"! At the top middle of the arm patch are the bolder letters: UCK (Ustasha of Croatia operating in Kosovo): <http://www.uck.de> ; <http://www.pavelicpapers.com>

This Whitehouse psychopath (alias: slick willy) went to St. Louis, Missouri to have a meeting with the Pope, just a few days, before he started bombing the Serb's. What's this tell you, in international protocol, about who is serving who: when a visiting head of state sits in a city of a country and waits for the head of that country to come and visit him?

Be warned: This, so called, peace agreement with Slobodan Milosovic is another phony "Dayton Peace Accord" to disarm the Serbs and set them up for extermination, just like they did in Croatia and Bosnia! This process will continue throughout the rest of the Balkans: Montenegro is next, then Macedonia.

The Serb's fought with the Allies in WWII, (which is one of the reasons the Vatican has it in for them) AND THIS IS THE THANKS THEY GET!

THE GUNPOWDER PLOT OF 1605

<http://www.exposingdeceptions.org/Gunpowder.html>

XIX. The Trials of Robert Winter, Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, John Grant, Ambrose Rookwood, Robert Keyes, Thomas Bates, and Sir Everard Digby, at Westminster for High-Treason, being Conspirators in the Gunpowder-Plot. 27 Jan. 1605. 3 Jac. I.

The C O M M I S S I O N E R S were,

The Earl of Nottingham. The Earl of Salisbury.

The Earl of Suffolk. The Lord Chief Justice of England, Sir John Popham.

The Earl of Worcester. The Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, Thomas Fleming.

The Earl of Devonshire. Sir Peter Warburton, Knight, one of the Justices of the Common-Pleas.

The Earl of Northampton.

The Effect of the Indictment.

THAT whereas our Sovereign Lord the King had, by the Advice and Assent of his Council, for divers weighty and urgent Occasions concerning, his Majesty, the State, and Defence of the Church and Kingdom of England, appointed a Parliament to be holden at his City of Westminster; That Henry Garnet, Superior of the Jesuits within the Realm of England, (called also by the several names of Wally, Darcy, Roberts, Farmer, and Henry Philips) Oswald Tesmond Jesuit, otherwise called Oswald Greenwell, John Gerrard Jesuit, (called also by the several names of Lee and Brooke) Robert Winter, Thomas Winter, Gentlemen, Guy Fawkes Gent. otherwise called Guy Johnson, Robert Keyes Gent. and Thomas Bates Yeoman, late Servant to Robert Catesby Esquire; together with the said Robert Catesby and Thomas Percy Esquires, John Wright and Christopher Wright Gentlemen, in open Rebellion and Insurrection against his Majesty, lately slain, and Francis Tresham Esq; lately dead; as false Traitors against our said Sovereign Lord the King, did traitorously meet and assemble themselves together; and being so met, the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and other Jesuits, did maliciously, falsely, and traitorously move and persuade as well the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, That our said Sovereign Lord the King, the Nobility, Clergy, and whole Commonalty of the Realm of England, (Papists excepted) were Hereticks; and that all Hereticks were accursed and excommunicate; and that none Heretick could be a King; but that it was lawful and meritorious to kill our said Sovereign Lord the King, and all other Hereticks within this Realm of England, for the Advancing and Enlargement of the pretended and usurped Authority and Jurisdiction of the Bishop of Rome, and for the restoring of the superstitious Romish Religion within this Realm of England. To which traitorous Persuasions, the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, Thomas Bates, Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, traitorously did yield their Assents: And that thereupon the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and divers other Jesuits; Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as also the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright and Francis Tresham, traitorously amongst themselves did conclude and agree, with Gunpowder, as it were with one Blast, suddenly, traitorously and barbarously to blow up and tear in pieces our said Sovereign Lord the King, the excellent, virtuous and gracious Queen Anne, his dearest Wife, the most noble Prince Henry, their eldest Son, and future Hope and Joy of England; and the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, the Reverend Judges of the Realm, the Knights, Citizens and Burgesses of Parliament, and divers other faithful Subjects and Servants of the King in the said Parliament, for the Causes aforesaid, to be assembled in the House of Parliament; and all them, without any respect of Majesty, Dignity, Degree, Sex, Age or Place, most barbarously, and more than beastly, traitorously and suddenly to destroy and swallow up. And further did most traitorously conspire and conclude among themselves, That not only the whole Royal Issue-Male of our said Sovereign Lord the King should be destroyed and rooted out; but that the Persons aforesaid, together with divers other false Traitors, traitorously with them to be assembled, should surprize the Persons of the most noble Ladies Elizabeth and Mary, Daughters of our said Sovereign Lord the King, and falsly and traitorously should proclaim the said Lady Elizabeth to be Queen of this Realm: And thereupon should publish a Proclamation in the name of the said Lady Elizabeth; wherein, as it was especially agreed by and between the said Conspirators, That no mention should be made at the first, of the alteration of Religion established within within this Realm of England; neither would the said false Traitors therein acknowledge themselves to be Authors, or Actors, or Devisers of the aforesaid most wicked and horrible Treasons, until they had got sufficient Power and Strength for the assured Execution and Accomplishment of their said Conspiracy and Treason; and that then they would avow and justify the said most wicked and horrible Treasons, as Actions that were in the number of those, Quae non laudantur, nisi peracta, which be not to be commended before they be done: but by the said feign'd and traitorous Proclamation they would publish, That all and singular Abuses and Grievances within this Realm of England, should, for satisfying of the People, be reform'd. And that as well for the better concealing, as for the more effectual accomplishing of the said horrible Treasons, as well the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, by the traitorous Advice and Procurement of the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and other Jesuits, traitorously did further conclude and agree, that as well the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, thereupon severally and traitorously should receive several corporal Oaths upon the holy Evangelists, and the Sacrament of the Eucharist, That they the Treasons aforesaid would traitorously conceal and keep secret, and would not reveal them, directly or indirectly, by Words or Circumstances, nor ever would desist from the Execution and final Accomplishment of the said Treasons, without the consent of some three of the aforesaid false Traitors first in that behalf traitorously had: And that thereupon as well the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christ. Wright, and Francis Tresham, did traitorously take the said several corporal Oaths severally, and did receive the Sacrament of the Eucharist aforesaid, by the Hands of the said Henry Garnet, John Gerrard, Oswald Tesmond, and other Jesuits. And further, that the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, together with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, by the like traitorous Advice and Counsel of the said Henry Garnet, John Gerrard, Oswald Tesmond, and other Jesuits, for the more effectual compassing and final execution of the said Treasons, did traitorously among themselves conclude and agree to dig a certain Mine under the said House of Parliament, and there secretly, under the said House, to bestow and place a great Quantity of Gunpowder ; and that according to the said traitorous Conclusion, the said Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, together with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, and Christopher Wright, afterwards secretly, not without great labour and difficulty, did dig and make the said Mine unto the midst of the Foundation of the Wall of the said House of Parliament, the said Foundation being of the thickness of three yards, with a traitorous Intent to bestow and place a great Quantity of Gunpowder in the Mine aforesaid, so as aforesaid traitorously to be made for the traitorous accomplishing of their traitorous Purposes aforesaid. And that the said

Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, together with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, and Christopher Wright, finding and perceiving the said Work to be of great difficulty, by reason of the Hardness and thickness of the said Wall ; and understanding a certain Cellar under the said House of Parliament, and adjoining to a certain House of the said Thomas Percy, then to be letten to farm for a yearly Rent, the said Thomas Percy, by the traitorous Procurement, as well of the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and other Jesuits, Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as of the said Robert Catesby, John Wright, and Christopher Wright, traitorously did hire the Cellar aforesaid for a certain yearly Rent and Term: and then those Traitors did remove twenty Barrels full of Gunpowder out of the said House of the said Thomas Percy, and secretly and traitorously did bestow and place them in the Cellar aforesaid, under the said House of Parliament, for the traitorous effecting of the Treason, and traitorous Purposes aforesaid. And that afterwards the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and other

Jesuits, Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes and Thomas Bates, together with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, and Christopher Wright traitorously did meet with Robert Winter, John Grant, and Ambrose Rookwood, and Francis Tresham, Esquires; and traitorously did impart to the said Robert Winter, John Grant, Ambrose Rookwood, and Francis Tresham, the Treasons, traitorous Intentions and Purposes aforesaid ; and did require the said Robert Winter, John Grant, Ambrose Rookwood, and Francis Tresham, to join themselves as well with the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, and Christopher Wright, in the Treasons, traitorous Intentions and Purposes aforesaid; and traitorously to provide Horse, Armour, and other Necessaries, for the better Accomplishment and effecting of the said Treasons. To which traitorous Motion and Request, the said Robert Winter, John Grant, Ambrose Rookwood, and Francis Tresham, did traitorously yield their Assents, and as well with the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, Robert Winter, Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, and Thomas Bates, as with the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, in the said Treasons, traitorous Intentions and Purposes aforesaid, traitorously did adhere and unite themselves: And thereupon several corporal Oaths, in form abovesaid, traitorously did take, and the Sacrament of the Eucharist, by the hands of the said Jesuits did receive, to such intent and Purpose, as is aforesaid; and Horses, Armour, and other Necessaries for the better effecting of the said Treasons, according to their traitorous Assents aforesaid, traitorously did provide. And that afterwards all the said false Traitors did traitorously provide, and bring into the Cellar aforesaid ten other Barrels full of Gunpowder, newly bought, fearing lest the former Gunpowder, so as aforesaid bestow'd and placed there, was become dankish; and the said several Quantities of: Gunpowder aforesaid, with Billets and Faggots, lest they should be spy'd, secretly and traitorously did cover.

And that afterwards the said false Traitors traitorously provided, and brought into the Cellar aforesaid, four Hogsheads full of Gunpowder, and laid divers great Iron Bars and Stones upon the said four Hogsheads, and the aforesaid other Quantities of Gunpowder: And the said Quantities of Gunpowder, Bars, and Stones, with Billets and Faggots, lest they should be espy'd, secretly and traitorously did likewise cover. And that the said Guy Fawkes, afterwards, for a full and final Accomplishment of the said Treasons, traitorous Intentions and Purposes aforesaid, by the traitorous Procurement, as well of the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, and other Jesuits, Robert Winter, Thomas Winter, Robert Keyes, Thomas Bates, John Grant, and Ambrose Rookwood, as of the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, and Francis Tresham, traitorously had prepared, and had upon his Person Touchwood and Match, therewith traitorously to give fire to the several Barrels, Hogsheads, and Quantities of Gunpowder aforesaid, at the time appointed for the Execution of the said horrible Treasons. And further, that after the said horrible Treasons were, by the great Favour and Mercy of God, in a wonderful manner discover'd, not many hours before it should have been executed, as well the said Henry Garnet, Oswald Tesmond, John Gerrard, Robert Winter, Thomas Winter, Robert Keyes, Thomas Bates, John Grant, and Ambrose Rookwood, as the said Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, and Christopher Wright, traitorously did fly and withdraw themselves, to the intent traitorously to stir up and procure such Popish Persons, as they could, to join with them in actual, publick and open Rebellion against our said Sovereign Lord the King; and to that end did publish divers feigned and false Rumours, that the Papists Throats should have been cut; and that thereupon divers Papists were in Arms, and in open, publick, and actual Rebellion against our said Sovereign Lord the King, in divers Parts of this Realm of England.

To this Indictment they all pleaded, Not guilty; and put themselves upon God and the Country.

Then did Sir Edward Philips, Kt. his Majesty's Serjeant at Law; open the Indictment to this effect, as followeth.

The matter that is now to be offer'd to you my Lords the Commissioners, and to the Trial of you the Knights and Gentlemen of the Jury, is Matter of Treason; but of such Horror, and monstrous Nature, that before now,

The Tongue of Man never deliver'd,
 The Ear of Man never heard,
 The Heart of Man never conceited,
 Nor the Malice of hellish or earthly Devil ever practised.

For, if it be abominable to murder the least;
 If to touch God's Anointed be to oppose themselves against God;
 If (by Blood) to subvert Princes, States and Kingdoms, be hateful to God and Man, as all true Christians must acknowledge:

Then, how much more than too too monstrous shall all Christian Hearts judge the Horror of this Treason; to murder and subvert

Such a King,
Such a Queen,
Such a Prince,
Such a Progeny,
Such a State,
Such a Government,
So complete and absolute,

That God approves,
The World admires,
All true English Hearts honour and reverence,
The Pope and his Disciples only envies and maligns?

The Proceeding wherein, is properly to be divided into three general Heads.

First, Matter of Declaration.
Secondly, Matter of Aggravation.
Thirdly, Matter of Probation.

My self am limited to deal only with the Matter of Declaration, and that is contain'd within the Compass of the Indictment only.

For the other two, I am to leave to him to whose Place it belongeth.

The Substance of which Declaration consisteth in four Parts.

First, In the Persons and Qualities of the Conspirators.
Secondly, In the Matter conspired.
Thirdly, In the Mean and Manner of the Proceeding and Execution of the Conspiracy.
And fourthly, Of the End and Purpose why it was so conspired.

As concerning the first, being the Persons ; they were, Garnet, Gerrard, Tesmond, Jesuits not then taken. Thomas Winter, Guy Fawkes, Robert Keyes, Thomas Bates, Everard Digby, Ambrose Rookwood, John Grant, Robert Winter, at the Bar. Robert Catesby, Thomas Percy, John Wright, Christopher Wright, slain in Rebellion. Francis Tresham, lately dead. All grounded Romanists and corrupted Scholars of so irreligious and traitorous a School. As concerning the second, which is the Matter conspired; it was,

First, To deprive the King of his Crown.

Secondly, To murder the King, the Queen, and the Prince.
Thirdly, To stir Rebellion and Sedition in the Kingdom.
Fourthly, To bring a miserable Destruction amongst the Subjects.
Fifthly, To change, alter, and subvert the Religion here established.
Sixthly, To ruinate the State of the Commonwealth, and to bring in Strangers to invade it.

As concerning the third, which is the Mean and Manner how to compass and execute the same; they did all conclude,

First, That the King, and his People (the Papists excepted) were Hereticks.
Secondly, That they were all cursed, and excommunicated by the Pope.
Thirdly, That no Heretick could be King.
Fourthly, That it was lawful and meritorious to kill and destroy the King, and all the said Hereticks.

The Mean to effect it, they concluded to be, that,

First, The King, the Queen, the Prince, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, the Knights and Burgesses of the Parliament, should be blown up with Powder.
Secondly, That the whole Royal Issue Male should be destroy'd.
Thirdly, That they would take into their Custody Elizabeth and Mary the King's Daughters, and proclaim the Lady Elizabeth Queen.
Fourthly, That they should feign a Proclamation in the name of Elizabeth, in which no mention should be made of Alteration of Religion, nor that they were Parties to the Treason, until they had raised Power to perform the same; and then to proclaim, All Grievances in the Kingdom should be reformed.
That they also took Several Oaths, and receiv'd the Sacrament; First, for Secrecy; Secondly, for Prosecution; except they were discharg'd thereof by three of them.

That after the Destruction of the King, the Queen, the Prince, the Royal Issue Male, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, the Knights and Burgesses, they should notify the same to foreign States; and thereupon Sir Edmund Baynam an attainted Person of Treason, and styling himself Prime of the damned Crew, should be sent and make the same known to the Pope, and crave his Aid: an Ambassador fit both for the Message and Persons, to be sent betwixt the Pope and the Devil.

That the Parliament being prorogued till the 7th of February, they in December made a Mine under the House of Parliament, purposing to place, their Powder there; but the Parliament being then further adjourned till the 3d of October, they in Lent following hired the Vault, and placed therein 20 Barrels of Powder.

That they took to them, Robert Winter, Grant, and Rookwood, giving them the Oaths and Sacrament as aforesaid, as to provide Munition. July 20. They laid in more ten Barrels of Powder, laying upon them divers great Bars of Iron, and pieces of Timber, and great massy Stones, and covered the same with faggots, &c. September 20. They laid in more, 4 Hogsheads of Powder, with other Stores and Bars of Iron thereupon.

November 4. (The Parliament being prorogued to the 5th) at 11 a clock at Night, Fawkes had prepared (by the procurement of the rest) Touchwood and Match, to give fire to the Powder the next Day.

That the Treason being miraculously discovered, they put themselves, and procured others to enter into open Rebellion; and gave out most untruly, It was for that the Papists Throats were to be cut.

* Sir Edward Coke * Attor. General. It appeareth to your Lordships, and to the rest of this most honourable and grave Assembly, even by that which Mr. Serjeant hath already opened, that these are the greatest treasons that ever were plotted in England, and concern the greatest King that ever was of England. But when this Assembly shall further hear, and see discovered the Roots and Branches of the same, not hitherto published, they will say indeed, Quis haec posteris sic narrare poterit, ut facta non ficta esse videantur? That when these things shall be related to Posterity, they will be reputed matters feigned, not done. And therefore in this so great a Cause, upon the Carriage and Event whereof the Eye of all Christendom is at this day bent; I shall desire that I may with your patience be somewhat more copious, and not so succinct, as my usual manner hath been; and yet will I be no longer than the very matter it self shall necessarily require. But before I enter into the particular Narration of this Cause, I hold it fit to give Satisfaction to some, and those well affected amongst us, who have not only marvelled, but grieved, that no speedier Expedition hath been used in these Proceedings, considering the Monstrousness and continual Horror of this so desperate a Cause. It is, Ordo Naturae, agreeable to the Order of Nature, that things of great weight and magnitude should slowly proceed, according to that of the Poet, Tarda solet magnis rebus adesse fides. And surely of these things we may truly say, Nunquam ante dies nostros talia acciderunt; neither hath the Eye of Man seen, nor the Ear of Man heard the like things to these.

Veritas temporis filia, Truth is the Daughter of Time; especially in this Case, wherein by timely and often Examinations, First, Matters of greatest moment have been lately found out. Secondly, Some known Offenders, and those capital, but lately, apprehended. Thirdly, Sundry of the principal Arch-Traitors before unknown, now manifested, as the Jesuits. Fourthly, Heretical, treasonable and damnable Books lately found out; one of Equivocation, and another, De officio Principis Christiani, of Francis Tresham's.

There have been already twenty and three several days spent in Examinations.

We should otherwise have hanged a Man unattainted, for Guy Fawkes passed for a time under the name of John Johnson: So that if by that name greater Expedition had been made, and he hanged, though we had not missed of the Man, yet the Proceeding would not have been so orderly or justifiable.

The King out of his Wisdom and great Moderation, was pleased to appoint this Trial in time of Assembly in Parliament, for that it concerned especially those of the Parliament. Now touching the Offences themselves, they are so exorbitant and transcendent, and aggregated of so many bloody and fearful Crimes, as they cannot be aggravated by any Inference, Argument or Circumstance whatsoever; and that in three respects:

First, Because this Offence is Primæ impressionis, and therefore sine Nomine, without any name which might be adæquatum, sufficient to express it, given by any Legist, that ever made or writ of any Laws. For the highest Treason that all they could imagine, they called it only Crimen læsæ Majestatis, the violating of the Majesty of the Prince. But this Treason doth want an apt name, as tending not only to the Hurt, but to the Death of the King; and not the Death of the King only, but of his whole Kingdom, Non Regis sed Regni, that is, to the Destruction and Dissolution of the Frame and Fabrick of this antient, famous, and ever-flourishing Monarchy; even the Deletion of our whole Name and Nation: And therefore hold not thy tongue, O God, keep not still silence, refrain not thy self, O God; for lo thine Enemies make a murmuring, and they that hate thee have lift up their Heads: They have said, Come, and let us root them out, that they be no more a People, and that the Name of Israel may be no more in remembrance. Psal. 83. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

Secondly, It is, Sine exemplo, beyond all Examples, whether in Fact or Fiction, even of the tragick Poets, who did beat their Wits to represent the most fearful and horrible Murders.

Thirdly, It is, Sine modo, without all measure or stint of Iniquity; like a Mathematical Line, which is, divisibilis in semper divisibilia, infinitely divisible.

It is Treason to imagine or intend the Death of the King, Queen, or Prince.

For Treason is like a Tree whose Root is full of Poison, and lieth secret and hid within the Earth, resembling the Imagination of the Heart of Man, which is so secret as God only knoweth it.

Now the Wisdom of the Law provideth for the blasting and nipping, both of the Leaves, Blossoms, and Buds which proceed from this Root of Treason; either by Words, which are like to Leaves, or by some overt Act, which may be resembled to Buds or Blossoms, before it cometh to such Fruit and Ripeness, as would bring utter Destruction and Desolation upon the whole State.

It is likewise Treason to kill the Lord Chancellor, Lord Treasurer, or any Justice of the one Bench or other; Justices of Assize, or any other Judge mentioned in the Statute of 25 Edw. III. sitting in their Judicial Places, and exercising their Offices. And the Reason is, for that every Judge so fitting by the King's Authority, representeth the Majesty and Person of the King; and therefore it is Crimen læsæ Majestatis, to kill him, the King being always in Judgment of Law present in Court. But in the high Court of Parliament, every Man by virtue of the King's Authority, by Writ under the Great Seal, hath a judicial Place; and so consequently the killing of every of them had been a several Treason, and Crimen læsæ Majestatis. Besides that to their treasons were added Rebellion, Burglary, Robbery, Horse-stealing, &c. So that this Offence is such, as no Man can express it, No Example pattern it, no Measure contain it.

Concerning foreign Princes; there was here a Protestation made for the clearing of them from all Imputation and Aspersion whatsoever.

First, For that whilst Kingdoms stood in Hostility, hostile Actions are holden honourable and just.

Secondly, It is not the King's Serjeant, Attorney, or Sollicitor, that in any sort touch or mention them: For we know that great Princes and Personages are reverently and respectfully to be spoken of; and that there is Lex in sermone tenenda. But it is Fawkes, Winter, and the rest of the Offenders, that have confessed so much as hath been said: And therefore the King's Counsel Learned doth but repeat the Offender's Confession, and charge or touch no other Person. They have also slander'd unjustly our great Master King James, which we only repeat, to shew the Wickedness and Malice of the Offenders.

Thirdly, So much as is said concerning foreign Princes, is so woven into the matter of the Charge of these Offenders, as it cannot be sever'd, or singled from the rest of the matter; so as it is inevitable, and cannot be pretermitted.

Now as this Powder-Treason is in itself prodigious and unnatural, so it is in the Conception and Birth most monstrous, as arising out of the dead Ashes of former Treasons. For it had three Roots, all planted and watered by Jesuits, and English Romish Catholicks: The first Root in England, in December and March; the second in Flanders, in June; the third in Spain, in July. In England it had two Branches, one in December was twelve Months before the death of the late Queen of blessed Memory; another in March wherein she died.

First in December, Anno Dom. 1601. do Henry Garnet Superior of the Jesuits in England, Robert Tesmond Jesuit, Robert Catesby (who was bono subacto & versuto ingenio & profunda perfidia) together with Francis Tresham and others, in the names, and for the behalf of all the English Romish Catholicks, imploy Thomas Winter into Spain, as for the general good of the Romish Catholick Cause; and by him doth Garnet write his Letters to Father Creswell, Jesuit residing in Spain, in that behalf. With Thomas Winter doth Tesmond, alias Greeneway the Jesuit, go as an Associate and Confederate in that Conspiracy. The Message (which was principally committed unto the said Winter) was, that he should make a Proposition and Request to the King of Spain, in the behalf and names of the English Catholicks, That the King would send an Army hither into England, and that the Forces of the Catholicks in England should be prepared to join with him, and do him Service. And further, that he should move the King of Spain to bestow some Pensions here in England, upon sundry Persons Catholicks, and devoted to his Service: And moreover, to give Advertisement, that the said King of Spain, making use of the general Discontentment that young Gentlemen and Soldiers were in, might no doubt, by relieving their Necessities, have them all at his Devotion.

And because that in all Attempts upon England, the greatest Difficulty was ever to be found to be the Transportation of Horses; the Catholicks in England would assure the King of Spain to have always in readiness for his Use and Service, 1500 or 2000 Horses, against any occasion or enterprize. Now Thomas Winter undertaking this Negotiation, and with Tesmond the Jesuit coming into Spain, by means of Father Creswell the Legier Jesuit there, as hath been said, had readily Speech with Don Pedro Francesa second Secretary of State, to whom he imparted his Message, as also to the Duke of Lerma; who assured him, that it would be an Office very grateful to his Master, and that it should not want his best Furtherance.

Concerning the Place for landing of the King of Spain's Army, which from the English Romish Catholicks he desired might be sent to invade the Land; it was resolved, That if the Army were great, then Essex and Kent were judged fittest, (where note by the way, Who was then Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports :) If the Army were small, and trusted upon Succour in England, then Milford-haven was thought more convenient.

Now there being at that time Hostility betwixt both Kingdoms, the King of Spain willingly embraced the Motion, saying, that he took the Message from the Catholicks very kindly, and that in all things he would respect them with as great Care as his proper Castilians. But for his further answer, and full dispatch, Thomas Winter was appointed to attend the Progress. In the end whereof, being in Summer time, Count Miranda gave him this answer in the behalf of his Master, That the King would bestow 100000 Crowns to that use, half to be paid that Year, and the rest the next Spring following; and withal required that we should be as good as our Promise, for the next Spring he meant to be with us, and set foot in England. And lastly, he desired on the King's behalf, of Winter, that he might have certain Advertisement and Intelligence, if so it should in the mean time happen that the Queen did die. Tho. Winter laden with these Hopes, returns into England about a Month before Christmas, and delivered answer of all that had passed, to Henry Garnet, Robert Catesby, and Francis Tresham. But soon after set that glorious Light, her Majesty died: Mira cano; Sol occubuit, Nox nulla secuta est.

Presently after whose Death was Christopher Wright, another Messenger sent over into Spain by Garnet, (who likewise did write by him to Creswell, for the furtherance of the Negotiation) Catesby and Tresham, in the name and behalf of all the Romish Catholicks in England; as well to carry News of her Majesty's Death, as also to continue the aforesaid Negotiation for an Invasion and Pensions, which by Tho. Winter had before been dealt in. And in the Spanish Court, about two Months after his arrival there, doth Christopher Wright meet with Guy Fawkes; who upon the 22d of June was employed out of Flanders from Brussels by Sir William Stanley, Hugh Owen, (whose Finger hath been in every Treason which hath been of late Years detected) and Baldwyn the Legier Jesuit in Flanders; from whom likewise the said Fawkes carried Letters to Creswell in Spain, for the ountenancing and furtherance of his Affairs.

Now the End of Fawkes's imployment was, to give Advertisement to the King of Spain, how the King of England was like to proceed rigorously with the Catholicks, and to run the same course which the late Queen did; and withal to intreat that it would please him to send an Army into England to Milford-haven, where the Romish Catholicks would be ready to assist him; and then the Forces that should be transported in Spinola's Gallies, should be landed where they could most conveniently. And these their several Messages did Christopher Wright and Guy Fawkes in the end intimate and propound to the King of Spain. But the King as then very honourably answered them both, that he would not in any wise further listen to any such Motion, as having before dispatched an Embassy into England, to treat concerning Peace. Therefore this Course by foreign Forces failing, they fell to the Powder-Plot, Catesby and Tresham being in at all; in the Treason of the Earl of Essex, in the Treason of Watson and Clarke Seminary Priests, and also in this of the Jesuits; such a greedy Appetite had they to practise against the State.

The rest of that which Mr. Attorney then spake continuedly, was by himself divided into three general Parts. The first containing certain Considerations concerning this Treason. The second Observations about the same. The third a Comparison of this treason of the Jesuits, with that of the Seminary Priests, and that of Raleigh and others.

For the Considerations concerning the Powder-Treason, they were in Number eight: That is to say,

1. The Persons by whom.
2. The Persons against whom.
3. The Time when.
4. The Place where.
5. The End.

6. The Means.

7. The secret contriving.

And lastly, the admirable Discovery thereof.

A REMARKABLE COME BACK"

With strength and power the Religious Reformation swept across Europe. Dynamic men, fearlessly opposed the strong grip of Roman Catholic Power upon the lives and conscience of the people.

To the casual observer in the mid 1500's, it must have seemed as though Roman Catholicism would succumb to Protestantism. However that did not happen. The Roman Catholic Church staged a remarkable come back called the Counter-Reformation, by which they not only regained much that had been lost, and greatly suppressed the reformation, but also laid the foundation for the conquest of the world which we now see in action. A conquest described by Catholic Writer and eminent theologian, Malachi Martin in "Keys to this Blood" where he "reveals Pope John Paul's own blueprint for a genuinely geopolitical structure: a one-world government that is both viable and humanly acceptable." (Flyleaf, then going on to page 480)

"From the beginning of his pontification, John Paul has been talking incessantly about the convergence of the nations. He had the end game in view some ten years before other men faced into it;. . .He would endow his papacy with an international profile and, as Pope, move around among world leaders and nations, vindicating a position for himself as a special leader among leaders, because in that competition he plans to emerge as the victor."

The Pope is acknowledged, in Mikhail Gorbachev's words, "as the most eminent moral authority in our world today."

What happened to the Reformation, where men like Luther, Calvin, Knox and all the other Protestant Reformers unanimously declared that the papacy was the prophesied antiChrist?

Luther wrote: "Here in Daniel 11:36, the pope is clearly pictured, who in all his decrees shouts impudently that all the churches and thrones will be judged by him, but he cannot be judged by anyone... Here, in Daniel 11:37, we have a description of the Antichrist. . . the Antichrist, that is the pope, will not have God nor a legitimate wife and that means that the Antichrist will despise laws and regulations,. . . in heaven and on earth and accept only his own law. . . .believe me, the pope is the antichrist."

Tomas Cranmer (who, combining the prophecies of Dan. 7 and 2 Thess.2, wrote) : "After all these sprung up the pope, that triple-crowned monster, and great antichrist, which took upon him authority, not only over the clergy, but also climbed above kings and emperors, deposing them at his pleasure, and settled himself in the temple of god, that is, in the consciences of men, extolling himself above God, dispensing with good laws, and giving men leave to break them and to regard more his decrees than the everlasting commandments of God."

Cranmer was burned at the stake for his testimony against the prophesied papal Antichrist, just as were Hooper, Ridley, Latimer, Bradford and many others.

What happened to these deep convictions that caused men to risk their very lives to offer the world truth?

1. The Bible, and the Bible only they cried.
2. The Papacy is the Anti-Christ revealed in Prophecy.
3. Righteousness comes by Faith in Christ.

These were the main issues that fueled the reformation. The Bible was given back into the hands of the people! They were taught that it was at once their duty and their right to examine it, to judge for themselves as to what it contained, and to act upon their convictions on what God required. The conscience was set free from the tyranny of Rome to follow the Word of God.

We already touched on how the Papacy can claim the victory of tradition over the Bible in "Reformation Part One". In this article we will deal mainly with the Reformers recognition of the Papacy as the Anti-Christ and the counter interpretations of the counter Reformation .

The Reformers were by no means united on all points of doctrine, but one thing they were unanimous on, and that was applying most of the prophecies of Anti-christ to the Papacy. It was this clear understanding of the prophetic symbols that gave them such extraordinary courage and effectiveness to protest against Rome and to resist her tyranny, even if it meant death to themselves. The prophecies of Daniel, John and Paul were applied to the Papacy with tremendous effect.

In order to off set this incriminating scriptural evidence, Rome realized something, besides killing the messengers, must be done if she was to regain her power. The Bible had, despite her efforts, gone out to the people so now she must come up with a plausible sounding counter interpretation to get the focus of the prophecies away from her, for as long as she was recognized as the anti- christ power of the last days people would resist her with their very lives. Prophecy must be reinterpreted!

THE JESUIT'S COUNTER INTERPRETATIONS

"The Society of Jesus was established by the papacy in 1540 as a very special 'fighting unit' at the total and exclusive disposal of the Roman Pope. From their beginnings, the Jesuits were conceived in a military mode. Soldiers of Christ, they were given only two purposes: to propagate the religious doctrine and the moral law of the Roman Catholic Church as proposed and taught by the Roman Pope." (The Jesuits, page 41, Malachi Martin)

Their first job was to counter the Reformation. They must, by plausible exposition of Scripture break the unbroken harmony of the reformers positions.

Interestingly enough, they came up with two alternatives that were actually conflicting and contradicting each other, yet the Catholic Church sanctioned both! So much for truth! What they did achieve was to push the prophecies away from the papacy.

Through the Jesuits Ribera, of Spain and Bellarmine, of Rome came the Futurist interpretation. This interpretation leaps over the immense era of papal dominance, and crowds the antichrist prophecies into the far distant future.

THE JESUIT RIBERA'S FUTURIST COUNTER INTERPRETATIONS

Jesuit Francisco Ribera (1537-1591) " assigned the first few chapters of the Apocalypse to ancient Rome, in John's own time; the rest he restricted to a literal three and a half years' reign of an infidel Antichrist, who would bitterly oppose and blaspheme the saints just before the second advent. He taught that Antichrist would be a single individual, who would rebuild the temple in Jerusalem, abolish the Christian religion, deny Christ, be received by the Jews, pretend to be God, and conquer the world--all in this brief space of three and one-half literal years!" (Prophetic Faith Vol.2 p. 490)

Here we see that Ribera "laid the foundation for the great structure of Futurism...and then, wonder of wonders, in the nineteenth century this Jesuit scheme of interpretation came to be adopted by a growing number of Protestants, until today Futurism, amplified and adorned with the rapture theory, has become the generally accepted belief of the Fundamentalist wing of popular Protestantism!" (Prophetic Faith Vol. 2 p. 493) How could Protestantism forsake it's main foundation of prophetic interpretation and adopt a Jesuit counterfeit? How did this happen?

THE JESUIT BELLARMINE'S COUNTER INTERPRETATIONS

There was also (Saint) Robert Bellarmine, Jesuit, cardinal and theologian who, as an outstanding controversialist opposing the Protestant doctrines of the Reformation, was regarded by the Roman Catholic Church as one of its most powerful defenders. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1560....He was a lecturer at the new Jesuit College in Rome.

Between 1576 and 1589, in addition to his teaching Bellarmine lectured to large audiences. He insisted that the prophecies concerning Antichrist in Daniel, Paul and John, had no application to the papal power. This formed the third part of his "Disputations de Controversiis Christianae Fidei Adversus Huius Temporis Haereticos" published between 1581-1593.

Bellarmino's assault on the Protestant interpretations of prophecy was centered upon the year-day principle which stood at the base of the historic interpretation of prophecy and had risen to general notice and wide acceptance among both Catholics and Protestants. He went out of his way to do this.

Determined to nullify the day = year prophetic principle, used by Protestants as the basis of the 1260 year period of Antichrist's tyranny, he sought to deprive this symbol of its Scriptural support. He came up with the argument that Ezekiel 4 was in reverse, that is saying a year = a day, when in actuality Ezekiel's acted out prophecy was in days and symbolized years.

Ballarmine was very methodical as he dissected the Protestant position, his works fill nine ponderous folio tomes, attacking the standard prophecies pertaining to Antichrist.

Ballarmine capitalized on Luther's weakness. Luther had declared the Bible as the source for truth, yet Luther was selective in what he considered inspired in the Bible. Luther rejected the book of Revelation. "There is too much lacking in this book to call it apostolic or prophetic," he had written in the preface to his first edition of the new Testament. Zwingli made the same mistake in interpreting prophecy. He too refused to recognize the Revelation as apostolic. Now the Jesuit Ballarmine posed himself as the defender of the Bible against the Reformers who, he declared had rejected it. He then shaped the Revelation to fit the futurist view, thereby by-passing the whole Christian era and the real antichrist.

Actually Ballarmine assigned the apocalyptic symbols to the distant past and the distant future. Antichrist, according to him, had not yet come, for he would abolish the daily sacrifice—or the Eucharist (daily mass) and would reign for three and a half literal years.

Bellarmino maintained that the little horn of Daniel 7 as well as the end power in Daniel 11 was a single king—who like Antiochus— would take away three kings and subdue seven other to himself, who, he contends, would therefore be one man only, and not a kingdom. Antiochus was a figure or symbol of the Antichrist of the last days.

THE JESUIT ALCASAR'S PRETERIST COUNTER INTERPRETATIONS

On the flip side of the Counter Reformation was another Jesuit. Jesuit Luis De Alcazar, or Alcazar (1554-1613) of Seville Spain.

Alcazar advanced the Preterist interpretation. He made all prophecy stop short of the papal domination. He maintained that the apocalypse describes the war of the church in the early centuries. Partly between the Jews and their adversaries and then the Church and paganism. Revelation 1-11 he applied to the rejection of the Jews and the desolation of Jerusalem by the Romans. Revelation 12-19 Alcazar allotted to the overthrow of Roman paganism and the conversion of the empire to the church, the judgment of the great Harlot being effected by the downfall of pagan idolatry. Revelation 20 he applied to the final persecution by Antichrist and chapters 21 referring to the New Jerusalem he made descriptive of the glorious and endless triumphant state of the Roman church. (See Prophetic Faith vol 2 p. 507)

The three Jesuits who worked most effectively to overthrow the Protestant understanding of prophecy, and whose theories are now (in modified forms) almost universally accepted are:

Robert Bellarmine (1542-1621) From Italy.

Jesuit Francisco Ribera (1537-1591) of Salamanca Spain

Jesuit Luis De Alcazar, or Alcasar (1554-1613) of Seville Spain.

THE PROTESTANT INTERPRETATION REVISITED

Let's look again at the Protestant interpretation which was based on the historic method.

The Protestant John Knox in Scotland: (1505-1572) believed:

1. That "the papal religion is but an abomination before God" and to "flee out of Babylon, that you perish not with her." (Friedrich Brandes, John Knox, der Reformator Schottlands p. 191)
2. "Knox took the text written in Daniel, the seventh chapter, beginning thus: And another King shall rise unlike unto the first. . . ". He identified the creatures as Babylonian, Persia, Greeks, and the fourth of the Romans; which he affirmed to be the Roman Church; for to none other power that ever hath yet been, do all the notes that God hath showed to the Prophet appertain, except to it alone;
3. Knox next showed that Daniel's "little horn" was identical with Paul's "man of sin" and John's "Whore of Babylon" as one single Antichrist
4. Every prophetic day is a year— every common prophetic day is taken for a year. A prophetic week is a "week of years," and a Jewish or Greek common year is a year of "360" days". He quotes Numbers 14:34 and Ezekiel 4:5,6 and cites the seventy weeks as evidence of fulfillment, "In the seventy weeks of Daniel, a day to be taken for a year, extending in the whole to 490 years; otherwise, that prophecy of the Messiah's coming, would not fall upon the just time of Christ's coming, as necessarily it ought to doe.. . . .

The point is clear, these concepts did not originate with ADVENTISM. Adventism is sticking to Protestantism while the rest of Christendom is following Jesuit interpretations. We also see the sure result of this shift in Prophetic understanding of the apocalypse. Protestants are playing into the hands of Rome, by helping to screen the Papacy from detection as the Antichrist. The ecumenical movement which is at work to unite all Christendom under the "shepherding" influence of Rome is sweeping the world. The Pope's dream and plan "of his own universal Roman Church— a winner-take all race against time to establish, maintain, and control the first one-world government that has ever existed on the face of the earth" (Keys of Blood, flyleaf) is in the process of being set up. For Revelation tells us that "all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, all except those whose names are written in the book life", will worship the beast that was wounded to death (officially by Napoleon's stripping the Vatican of political power in 1798) but it's deadly wound was healed and all the world wonders after him. (Rev. 13:3,8)

WHY WERE THE JESUIT'S SO SUCCESSFUL?

Yet how did this complete reversal of prophetic interpretation permeate the Protestant world?

It did not happen overnight! Nor did it happen during the lifetimes of the Jesuits who first promoted the new interpretations. It happened by promoting diversity of opinions and then moving in to divide and conquer! Had the Protestants remained firm and united on their historic interpretative stand, the counter reformation could never have succeeded in implanting these new interpretations into all of Christendom. Many reformers rose and refuted the futurist and preterist positions, but others bought into them.

Here is one example. Protestant statesman and theologian, Hugo Grotius, had a Jesuit friend, named Petavius. Grotius said he wanted peace between Catholics and Protestants and he used his diplomacy to achieve this end. To do this he studied Jesuit Alcazar's Preterist interpretation, and wrote his own anti-Protestant commentary on the Antichrist (1620) He bought into the Jesuit counter interpretation so strongly that he believed the pope was not mentioned in any of the prophecies.

Other Protestants were shocked at his writings and wrote to refute him, yet his works marked the beginning of others following his lead.

Thus the work of infiltrating and planting the counter interpretive ideas and then watching the Protestants themselves undoing the Reformation slowly gained control.

"The Jesuits carried the battle right into the territories of their papal enemies. They waged public controversies with kings, they debated in Protestant universities, they preached at crossroads and in marketplaces. They addressed municipal councils, they instructed Church Councils. They INFILTRATED hostile territories in disguise, and moved around underground. They were everywhere, showering their contemporaries with brilliance, with wit, with acerbity, with learning, with piety. Their constant theme: The Bishop of Rome is successor to Peter the Apostle. . .any other church institution is rank heresy. . .they had a monopoly in the education of Europe for over two hundred years, and numbered the famous and infamous. . .they were giants with but one purpose: the defense and propagation of papal authority and papal teaching." (The Jesuits, p.28- 29)

IMPLICATIONS WHICH RESULT FROM THEIR SUCCESS

They were so successful in deleting the evidence that the Papacy is antichrist that now we see the Lutherans and Catholics embracing one another as fellow Christians, articulating a "common understanding of justification" agreeing that their Joint Declaration "encompasses a consensus in the basic truths, claiming that the "differing explications" are compatible with the joint Declaration and thus no longer the occasion for doctrinal condemnations, and to look past historic differences in the name of Christian unity. (Christianity Today, Jan. 10,2000 pp.63-65)

Protestants are willing to clasp the hands of Catholicism even though THEY KNOW they have great differences in doctrines (purgatory, penance, purgatory, images, Mary,) THEY KNOW that "Roman Catholics have not now adopted the Lutheran Position" THEY KNOW that the pope will never give up his stand on papal supremacy.

(Time, Dec.16,1991 p.53 the Holy See officially declares it's position, insisting that a reunited church must be built upon a papacy that is a God-given, "permanent" institution with "universal" jurisdiction, "directly founded" by Jesus Christ And the Pope has personal power to teach infallibly on faith and morals.)

They know all this, yet they sign joint declarations? How can this be?

The success of the counter Reformation has infiltrated all of Christendom. The idea that the Papacy is antichrist will soon have the same penalties as it did in the 16th century when people stood against the demands of the Papacy at the peril of their own lives.

Protestants are joining with and patronizing the papacy. They have made compromises and concessions.

They bow to the accusation that:

"It is all too easy for Protestants, who have shattered the church into thousands of pieces, to speak blithely of spiritual unity and continue along a schismatic way. (Christianity Today)

They never realize that from the beginning the Jesuits tactics were to divide them and then move in to conquer them for the Catholic Church.

People are closing their eyes to the real character of Romanism and the dangers realized when she gains again her supremacy. The people need to be aroused to resist the advances of this most dangerous foe to civil and religious liberty.

"The Roman Church now presents a fair front to the world, covering with apologies her record of horrible cruelties. She has clothed herself in Christlike garments; but she is unchanged." (GC) This is not to say that many sincere Catholics do not truly love the Lord. No, this is not about individuals, this is about a system. The system will restore and supercede all her cruelties to enforce her dogmas.

Why are there dungeons and torture chambers in the basements of her churches. Why has the office of the inquisition been reactivated?

"Every principle of the papacy that existed in past ages exists today. The doctrines devised in the darkest ages are still held. Let none deceive themselves. The papacy that Protestants are now so ready to honor is the same that ruled the world in the days of the Reformation, when men of God stood up, at the peril of their lives, to expose her iniquity. She possesses the same pride and arrogant assumption that lorded it over kings and princes, and claimed the prerogatives of God. Her spirit is no less cruel and despotic now than when she crushed out human liberty and slew the saints of the Most High. The papacy is just what prophecy declared that she would be, the apostasy of the latter times. 2 Thessalonians 2:3, 4. (GC)

HOMELAND SSECURITY(inquisition)

(Weapon of Mass Distraction)

(Phoenix Program)

Vatican Tyranny

The Final Nail In The Coffin of Freedom ?

Just across the bay from San Diego lies the United States Naval Amphibious Base in Coronado, California. Do you see anything strange about the shape of that military building? They only do these "overhead" symbols for Satan. Fact is, unless you happen to be flying way overhead and actually looking down at that very moment, no man on earth would ever realize the building is built this way. Another fact is, this is restricted air space. So no man is going to see this! PLUS, even if a commercial flight did fly overhead, they would be too high up for anyone to catch this. When I copied this picture using the "Google Earth" software I had to zoom in to just under 1200 feet to get a clear enough picture. When I zoomed to 30,000 feet where most airplanes fly it was impossible to find.

Is this a sign of what is coming to America??

"He has the strength, experience, personal commitment and authority to accomplish this critical mission": This statement was made by George W. Bush, in reference to the newly "appointed" head of, the newly formed, "Homeland SSecurity": Tom Ridge. As you will see, with the exposure of Tom Ridge's background, that there is more than meets the eye in this sinister encrypted message.

In order to see the full implications of this sinister message, we could go back to the middle age (dark age) inquisitions, but for now, we'll start in the early 1950's: when certain democratic senators, including John Kennedy, were holding secret meetings, ironing out the details to turn VietNam into a Roman Catholic state; and from the words of the perpetrators themselves:

In the early 1950's the CIA brought Ngo Dinh Diem to New York City, where he was trained, by Cardinal Francis "burn-em alive" Spellman, in the procedures of turning VietNam into a Roman Catholic state. To get non-Catholic politicians, military and government officials to participate: was offered the ever, monetarily lucrative: opium out of the, ever fertile, Southeast Asian jungles. The program was implemented when Diem was sent back to VietNam and replaced, the self exiled, Bao Dai (who had tried to do the same thing under French rule). From the middle fifties to 2 Nov 1963 Diem worked, unceasingly (for the Vatican), in the systematic task detailed to him by Spellman. Diem replaced all government officials (and everyone in any position of power or influence) with devout Roman Catholics. Diem then changed laws that reflected a total bias in favor of Catholics (and against all other religions). Land was given to Catholics while peoples of all other persuasions were forced to live under a legal and tax structure that was so oppressive that it caused an exodus of North Vietnamese Catholics to the South and South Vietnamese Buddhists to the North. Many Buddhists remained in the South in an attempt to affect change for more tolerant government policies:

These people became Viet Cong (VC). Not content with the progress he was making: Diem started rounding up all the Buddhists, especially monks, and put them into concentration camps. When Diem started killing monks, it caused a rebellion in the general population: many demonstrations with several monks committing suicide in protest: one of these was Thich Quang Duc, who set himself on fire in the middle of a busy intersection in Saigon, 11 June 1963, bringing international attention to Diem's religious genocide: so much so that it brought a stern warning from President Kennedy to stop the killings. Thinking Spellman would take care of Kennedy and to keep on his schedule of "conversion", Diem continued the killings: fearing exposure of the connection of the Catholic church to the killings: Kennedy has Diem and his brother killed in a CIA backed coup, 2 Nov 1963 (effectively stopping the genocide). Twenty days later Kennedy is assassinated in Dealy Plaza (read: JESUIT, Vatican Tyranny, for the connection between the assassinations of John Kennedy, Bobby Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.).

We now move to Dec 1967, though not officially implemented until July 1968, by official decree of, Catholic President, Nguyen Van Thieu:

May 1968, General Edward G. Landsdale (CIA Saigon station chief and Knight of Malta) reported to ambassador Bunker that "Thieu's efforts to create a base of support in both Houses have been made difficult by, Buddhist backed, Vice President, Ky's influence among some important senators and Ky's influence over the Democratic Bloc in the lower House.":

2 June 1968, Ky's main support bloc, while meeting at a command post in Cholon district of Saigon, was attacked with rocket and machine gun fire from a U.S. Army helicopter: killing Lieutenant Colonel Pho Quoc Chu (Ky's brother-in-law); Lieutenant Colonel Dao Ba Phuoc; Lieutenant Colonel Nguyen Van Luan; Major Le Ngoc Tru and Major Nguyen Bao Thuy: effectively wiping out Ky's political financial base.

Now given the official title of "Phoenix" Program: planned and implemented solely by the CIA: the "conversion" process (genocide) of the South Vietnamese Buddhists starts again. As will become only too apparent, the Phoenix Program was a program of extermination. As you read, keep in mind that the only difference between the Phoenix Program and "Homeland SSecurity" is their names.

In the Phoenix Program, offices were set up from top government levels down to the local communities. These operatives, from the top level of command all the way down to the PRU (Provincial Reconnaissance Units) operated with total impunity.

Their function:

- (1) Collate intelligence on community infrastructure.
- (2) Carry out sweeps through communities: picking up people at random, along with all those named by "anonymous informants", and indefinitely detained in CIA interrogation centers.
- (3) Interrogation of suspects: according to the "CIA Manual For Interrogation and Elimination": proves that these procedures were standard policy: Not one person interrogated, as a VC, ever survived this "procedure".
- (4) Neutralize (kill) targeted members of communities: often carried out by CIA lead locals organized into "Provincial Reconnaissance Units" (PRU).
- (5) Units are pressured from higher ups to fill "numerical quotas" to be "neutralized" (killed): quota pressure forced PRU to neutralize all who cannot prove their innocence of "suspicious activity": resulting in indiscriminate brutality, torture and murder. (U.S. & Saigon intel services maintained active lists of VC/Buddhist cadre marked for assassination. Phoenix Program for 1969 called for "neutralizing" 1800 a month).
- (6) Suspects were not allowed: trial, preliminary hearing, legal representation, confront accusers, plead in own behalf or present evidence in their defense.
- (7) Quotas were used for sentencing: proving, conclusively, that the entire Phoenix Program was academic to genocide (40,994 dead: mostly women and children): and all on the, non descriptive, intentionally vague, presumption of "suspicious activity". (U.S. military personnel, considered security risks, were also ordered killed by CIA directors).

1975 issue of Counter-Spy magazine described the "Phoenix Program" as "the most indiscriminate and massive program of political murder since the Nazi death camps of WW II.

The Phoenix Program/Homeland SSecurity is the incorporation of unam sanctam, 18 Nov 1302, of Pope Boniface VIII:

"We are informed by the text of the gospels that in this church and in its power are two swords; namely the spiritual and the temporal. For when the Apostles say: "Behold here are two swords"[Luke 22:38] that is to say, in the church, since the Apostles were speaking, the Lord did not reply that there were to many, but sufficient. Certainly the one who denies that the temporal sword is in the power of Peter has not listened well to the word of the Lord commanding: "Put up thy sword into thy scabbard"[Mt. 26:52]. Both, therefore, are in the power of the church, that is to say, the spiritual and the material sword, but the former is to be administered-for-the church but the latter-by-the church; the former in the hands of the priests; the latter in the hands of kings and soldiers, but at the will and sufferance of the priest".

..... By her own admission, Rome intends to destroy America...

By her own admission, Rome intends to destroy America, where she is entrenching herself with strength. An article in The Union and Echo, official diocesan organ of the Roman Catholic Church in Buffalo, in December 1950, declared: "At the rate of 126,000 converts a year in the United States it would take us too long [to Romanise America]. We must convert Politics, Economics, Sociology, Business, Entertainment, Labor and management, the Department of State and the Executive Branch of our Government to Christian and hence Catholic principles."

This was put in no uncertain terms by "Father" Patrick O'Brien quoted in L'Aurora of the same date: "We control America and we do not propose to stop until America or Americans are genuinely Roman Catholic and remain so." "We, the Hierarchy of the Holy Catholic church, if necessary, shall change, mend, or blot out the present Constitution so that the President may enforce his, or rather our, humanitarian programme and all phases of human rights, as laid down by our saintly Popes and the Holy Mother Church. We are going to have our laws made and enforced according to the Holy See and the Popes and the canon law of the Papal throne. Our entire social structure must be rebuilt on that basis. Our educational laws must be constructed to end the atheism, the Red peril of totalitarianism, Protestantism, Communism, Socialism and all other of like ilk and stamp, be driven from this fair land. We control America and we do not propose to stop until America or Americans are genuinely Roman Catholic and remain so." http://www.ianpaisley.org/article.asp?ArtKey=rome_010198

The Phoenix Program was concocted by CIA's Far East Division Chief, William Colby (Jesuit trained, Knight of Malta; WWII "Vatican Ratline" operative: working in the Vatican with James Jesus Angleton {awarded the Sovereign Military Order of Malta by Pope Pius XII for rescuing Prince Valerio Burghese/"Black Prince": leader of the neo-fascist syndicate:

"Movimento Sociale Italiano" from a twelve year prison sentence given him at Nuremberg} who was an operative in the assassination of John Kennedy), was implemented by CIA station chief, William Casey (Sovereign Knight of Malta: "Vatican Ratline" operative). Tom Ridge (Knight of Columbus), Oliver North and Bob Kerry (Nebraska Senator) were among the operatives in the Phoenix Program (genocide).

All of the CIA programs, since the VietNam War, are simply extensions of the Phoenix Program: "Iran-Contra"(drugs and weapons smuggling operation) in Nicaragua (concocted by William Casey and Oliver North); Bush's raid on Panama (20,000 dead). And what more we could say about the rest of South and Central America; Ireland; Croatia; Serbia (read: KOSOVO, Vatican Tyranny); Macedonia; Montenegro; Afghanistan; Indonesia(500,000 murdered [the names of all people rounded up was accumulated, collated and given to Suharto (put into power through a CIA coup) by the CIA] in four months, by Suharto's army: under the direction and assistance [given jeeps, weapons, field radios {Collins: single side band, KWM-2's: radio messages monitored by National Security Agency: keeping track of the incarcerated and dead, then relaying the info to Washington D.C. where a running count was kept in maintaining a numerical quota} from Clark Field in the Philippines] of the CIA) etc: Colby said the program of genocide in Indonesia and the Phoenix Program were the same. The schools of training for these indigenous government terrorists are, Western Hemisphere Institute For Security Cooperation, formerly The School of The Americas (Ft. Benning Ga.) and The Counter-Insurgency Training Center (Ft. Bragg, Fayetteville, N.C.).

The federalization of all local and county/provincial and state governments by force, under the guise of the "War On Drugs", is typified by the Mexican military's, "Airborne Group Special Forces" slaughter of 45 Mayan Indians (who were trying to maintain their local sovereignty) at Acteal, Chiapas, Mexico: Mexico's version of Homeland SSecurity: In Oct. 95 William Perry (U.S. Secretary of Defense) met with his Mexican counterpart, Enrique Cervantes Aquirre: within months, of Perry's visit, the first group of young Mexican military officers were training in "anti-drug operations" at the Counter-Insurgency Training Center at Ft. Bragg, N.C. In April 96 Perry and Aquirre signed a military aid package to Mexico: the agreement gave Mexico: 73 Huey helicopters; 4 C-26 reconnaissance planes; 500 armored personnel carriers (bringing Mexico's total to 7000); high tech spy hardware; rifles; grenades; flame throwers; $50,000,000 for arms and training (at Ft. Bragg) where "particularly heavy emphasis" was placed on the airborne group of Special Forces (Aerotransportado de Fuerzas Especiales) to be located in the Mexican states of Chiapas and Guerrero southern Mexico, where "special airborne forces" were set up. What really blows the lid off of the U.S. Governments blatant lies about the phony war on drugs is, with all of this military buildup and slaughter going on in Southern Mexico, both U.S. and Mexican governments admit that "ALL" of the Mexican drug production and activity is in the north! Subsequent to the massacre: the Mexican government ordered all "foreigners" (correspondents and journalists) out of Mexico: again showing the Mexican governments direct responsibility for the slaughter and attempted cover up! <http://www.xs4all.nl/~peace/engels.html> ; <http://www.infowars.com> ; <http://www.AmericanHolocaust.50megs.com> <http://www.thenewliberator.com/wethepeople.htm>

Louis Freeh (Opus Dei { <http://geocities.com/catolicos2001/truth.htm> }: who's personal goons alter FBI lab reports to make them read the way he wants) was head of the FBI when they blew up the Alfred P. Murray Federal building in Oklahoma City (not a single FBI or BATF employee in the building when it went down; when have you ever seen any structure blow up in an "L" pattern from a single explosive source ?), which got Clinton's, unconstitutional, "Counter - Terrorism" bill through congress and destroyed the records of the investigations of the government holocaust (at Mt. Carmel, outside Waco, Texas), and Iran-Contra (weapons and drugs smuggling operation run out of the airfield at Mena, Arkansas), kept in the Alfred P. Murray federal building safe. In the 9/11/01 World Trade Center disaster (Bush hopes will result in the, totalitarian, "Homeland Security" passage in Congress): 40,000 people did not show up for work; terrorist pilots received CIA flight training at Pensacola Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.; Bush issues executive order W1991-WF-213589, threatening prosecution of FBI agents for reporting on Al Qaeda, after they had reported several working at several US International Airports, two months before 9/11/01; Bush stops all subsequent investigation into the disaster:

....the most telling of government involvement in 9/11: "NORAD"

"NORAD": America's (and Canada's) air "national security" system, on 9/11/01, showed all of the professionalism of the "Three Stooges": when an aircraft: makes a deviation from its flight plan; turns off its transponder; loses radio contact with a tower, or any combination thereof, a fighter aircraft immediate/rapid deployment/ intercept (scramble) is automatically launched that is on any day except 9/11/01. About a half hour after flight 11 was taken over (and its IFF transponder turned off), and eight minutes after it hit building 1 of the World Trade Center, two F-15 fighter aircraft are "scrambled" from Otis air force base at Falmouth Mass. To make sure they didn't catch and intercept flight 175 before it flew into WTC building 2 eight minutes later: the two F-15s fly at 447 mph (23.8% of their optimum speed and 53 mph slower than flight 175); two F-15's flying off the coast of Long Island are not redeployed to intercept either flight 11 or 175 until after flight 175 hits WTC building 2 and it gets better (or worse) by the time the four F-15s arrive over Manhattan the only jetliner still flying, with its IFF transponder off, has made a 180 degree turn over southern Ohio and has been headed for Washington D.C. for 12 minutes and still 34 minutes from the Pentagon. After the airliner hits the Pentagon (or so we are supposed to believe), we now know there was no flight 77 into the Pentagon, but was a missile, in all likelihood fired from one of the two F-16s from Andrews air force base (10 miles from the Pentagon) that did a slow "fly over" of the carnage immediately after the Pentagon was hit.

There were seven buildings in the World Trade Center complex: five, out of the original seven, went down. Buildings 1 and 2 are all you hear about (no explanation is ever given for the other three). Immediately after flight 175 flies into building 2, an explosion is seen, going through the roof of building 6, rising 550 ft. into the air; re-enforcing steel is partially vaporized. Explosions are seen inside building 7 and collapses in on itself (in the same demolition fashion as the other 4) after 5:30pm. Demolition explosions are seen at every level, going off in sequence, as building 1 and 2 are collapsing. There are three rules of operation to every terrorist organization: (1) commit the terrorist act; (2) take credit for the evil deed; (3) go on international TV, with unit colors and weapons, and make demands from the people you committed the act against: Who took credit for 9/11/01?: NOBODY!! After this fact was being talked about on TV, the feds suddenly came up with "the magic letter" (like "the magic bullet" in the Kennedy assassination) written by Al Qaeda: taking credit for the trade center disaster, which was later proven to be a forgery: Bush lies again! Georgia Congresswoman, Cynthia McKinney, is ostracized, by the administration, Congress, media and, so called, conservative groups, for calling for a more thorough investigation into the disaster; World Trade Center bombing (26 Feb 93): Arab intermediary (between FBI and the Arab terrorists) was given two bombs, by the FBI, for the terrorists (one real and one dummy): when the intermediary asked the FBI which bomb he should give the terrorists, the FBI control agent said: "give them the real one": realizing the significance of that statement, the intermediary asked the FBI agent a second time and, after a long hesitation, got the same response (seen on C-Span); DC snipers: John Alan Muhammad and Lee Boyd Malvo: who's names were on the police desks from the beginning (and that of their car) went about their killing spree unhindered by any authorities. The police never did look for them: (even after their car had been reported being at at least three of the murder crime scenes): They were located (in a well lit-up rest area) and caught by private citizens who called the police, and after waiting thirty minutes called them again: after ten to fifteen more minutes the cops finally show up. John Alan Muhammad's wife works in the office of U.S. Attorney General, John Ashcroft (if you think that's a coincidence, I have some ocean front property in Kansas I'll be glad to sell you). The Anthrax virus mailed to Congressmen and others in DC has been traced to Fort Detrick Army Medical Center (the AIDS virus was invented by the Army also), Frederick Maryland.

Adolph Hitler (put into the chancelory by Cardinal Secretary of State, Eugenio Pacelli) had his Reichstag fire: hanging, Dutch communist, Marinus van der Lubbe for the fire Goering had set: persuading President von Hendenberg to execute executive order: Die Verordnung des Reichspräsidenten zum Schuetz von Volkund Staat (ordinance of Reichspresident for the Defense of the People and State). The Verordnung suspended the portions of the German Constitution equivalent to our Bill of Rights: transferring sovereignty from the German people to the Nazi regime: shutting down dissenting press; political rivals rounded up and sent to Dachau Concentration Camp (paving the way for Endloesung, Holocaust {"Final Solution"}); Australia had its "Port Arthur Massacre", perpetrated by the Australian government (28 April 96, the "lone nut" (patsy): Martin Bryant (arrested, held in isolation for weeks without benefit of council; tortured with mind altering techniques: easy to do with an I.Q. of 66; resulting in his "persuasion" to accept a plea bargain; resulting in the government not having to present its flimsy case in court, where they knew they didn't stand a chance) being prosecuted in the media before he is even arrested and the Australian governments corporate stonewalling of all subsequent investigation into the disaster: sound familiar?: this is almost "carbon copy" of what happened to James Earl Ray), resulting in the passage of anti-gun legislation/confiscation and the, now infamous, "2000 Aid To Civilian Authorities" (25 Aug 00): amendment to the Defense Act: authorizing the Australian military to shoot and kill Australian citizens, which has resulted in random raids by the Australian police: such as "Operation Vikings 12" (22 Sept 02: 600+ police, and dogs, aggressively confronting people, without provocation, at random in Burwood, Marrickville, Newtown, St. George, Surry Hills, Kings Cross and Sydney CBD: entering places of business without invitation or provocation, etc). Of course the Australian citizen can no longer fend off any tyrannical government aggression, since his guns have been confiscated for his "protection". Evidently Australia doesn't have a Bill of Rights, at least not any longer: Australia's "Civilian Internment Camps" are under construction on Christmas Island.

Blast from the past:

First of all, "Nazi" was gutter slang for the verb "to nationalize". The Bider-Meinhoff gang gave themselves the moniker. The official title of the Nazi Party was "The National Socialist Workers Party of Germany". Hitler and the Brownshirts advocated the nationalization of education, health care, transportation, national resources, manufacturing, distribution and law enforcement. (Homeland SSecurity)

Hitler came to power by turning the working class, unemployed, and academic elite against the conservative republic. After Der Fuhrer's election ceased being a political conspiracy and was transformed into a fashionable social phenomenon, party membership was especially popular with educators, bureaucrats, and the press. ("Students in service to America", George Bush).

Being a Nazi was "politically correct" (patriotic). They called themselves "The Children of the New Age of World Order" and looked down their noses at everyone else. As Hitler acquired more power, he referred to his critics as "the dark forces of anarchy and hatred" (axis of evil?). Anyone who questioned Nazi high-handedness in the German press was branded a "conservative reactionary" (domestic terrorist). Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and communications, proclaimed a "New World Order". The Nazi reign of terror began with false news reports on the Jews, Bohemians and Gypsies: who were said to be arming themselves to overthrow the "New World Order" (see Al-Qaeda's House of Horrors): Hitler demanded that all good people register their guns so that they would not fall into the hands of the "terrorists and madmen". Right-wing fanatics of the "Old Order" (based on the Constitution, Bill of Rights, limited government, and Judeo-Christian values) who protested firearms registration were arrested by the S.S. and put in jail for "fomenting hatred against the Government of the German people" (Fatherland/Homeland Security).

Then Goering set the Reichstag fire and Hitler ram-rodged an "Emergency Anti-Terrorist Act" ("Patriot Act") through Parliament that gave the Gestapo (Homeland Security) extraordinary powers. The leader then declared that for the well-being of the German people, all private firearms were to be confiscated by the Gestapo and the Wermotten (federal law enforcement and military). German citizens who refused to surrender their guns when the "jack boots" (Gestapo) came calling, were murdered in their homes: the S.W.A.T. team was invented and perfected, by the Gestapo, for this purpose. The Gestapo was the federal marshals of the Third Reich.

When the Policia Bewakken, or local police, refused to take away guns from townfolk, they themselves were disarmed, dragged into the street and shot to death by the S.A. and S.S. (Nazi versions of the B.A.T.F. and F.B.I.): local ministers speaking out against these atrocities were imprisoned and never seen again. The Gestapo confiscated and seized homes, businesses, bank accounts, and the personal belongings of wealthy conservative citizens who had prospered in the old Republic (warrantless searches, asset forfeiture and seizure, condemnation: "Medical Emergency Powers Act").

Pamphleteers who urged revolt against the Nazis were shot on site by national law enforcement and the military. Photocopying shops were urged to spy on customers and report "suspicious activity". Gypsies and Jews were detained and sent to labor camps. mountain roads, throughout central Europe, were closed to prevent the escape of fugitives into the wilderness ("Wildlands Project"), and to prevent the movement and concealment of partisan resistant fighters. Public schools rewrote history and Hitler youth groups taught the children to report their parents to their teachers for anti-Nazi remarks. Such parents disappeared. Pagan animism became the state religion of the Third Reich and Christians were widely condemned as "right wing fanatics". Millions of books were burned first and then people. Millions of them burned in huge ovens after being gassed to death. Unmarried women were paid large sums of money to have babies out of wedlock and then given medals for it. Evil was declared as being good, and good was condemned as being evil. World Order was coming and the German people were going to be the "peacekeepers". [Thomas Colton Rutherford]

Hitler, while reflecting on the Jewish Holocaust, stated: "in Himmler I see our Ignatius de Loyola". Frans Von Papen (Jesuit, Chancellor for six months before Hitler, first Vice Chancellor of the Third Reich) stated, in reference to the death camps, "Hitler has put into practice the high ideals of the Papacy".

UNDISPUTED PROOF: U.S. INTELLIGENCE IS BEHIND GLOBAL TERRORISM:

Michael Meiring, who operated under the cover of being a treasure hunter, was in fact, a CIA operative under the direct protection of the White House. After ten years of associating himself with Islamic groups: Abu Sayef; MNLF; Moro Islamic Liberation Front and other Philippine based Islamic groups: supplying them with U.S. counterfeit notes (courtesy of U.S. Intelligence) and bomb making materials, to make terrorist attacks within the Philippines: to give the U.S. the pretext to move in and create another "Phoenix Program/Homeland SSecurity", just like they did in Viet Nam (40,994 dead: mostly women and children) and Indonesia (500,000 dead in four months). Not content with waiting for one of his Islamic acquaintances to act, or possibly to keep on a global agenda time table: Michael Meiring constructs a bomb himself (to create another "Al Qaeda attack"), in a Philippine hotel room, where he prematurely detonates the device, blowing off both of his own legs. It seems when undisputed proof surfaced connecting the CIA, NSA, British Intelligence, U.S. Secret Service and the FBI with the 16 May 2002 blast: Mr. Meiring is spirited away in a NSA/FBI medivac to San Diego CA for his emergency care:

verifying his employ as a black ops spook and giving the Philippines a reprieve, if only temporarily.

Los Angeles Times, Wed, 14 Aug. 02: "U.S. Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft (who went to church and college with, and is a personal friend of, TBN's, Paul Crouch: who calls Ashcroft a Christian, a friend and a servant of GOD!) has announced a desire/plan for MORE "civilian internment camps" to be built. http://www.apfn.org/apfn/camps_confirmed.htm , <http://www.freedomfiles.org/war/fema.htm> , http://www.greaterthings.com/news/Concentration_Camps/ for U.S. citizens "he" deems to be "enemy combatants". Ashcrofts plan, disclosed last week but little publicized, would allow him to order the indefinite incarceration of U.S. citizens and summarily strip them of their Constitutional Rights and access to the courts by declaring them "enemy combatants". The camp plan is forged at an optimistic time for Ashcroft's inner circle psychopaths, who have been watching two test cases to see if their vision could become a reality: The cases of Jose Padilla and Yaser Esam Hamdi will determine if U.S. citizens can be held without charges and subject to arbitrary and unchecked authority of the government. In response to a federal judges order to turn over underlying evidence justifying Hamdi's barbaric treatment, the Justice Dept. stated: "The Judge must simply accept its declaration and cannot interfere with the "president's absolute authority" in "a time of war".

Its not like this is the first time civilian internment camps have been proposed by "appointed" government officials: on 3 Aug 1948, J. Edgar Hoover (homosexual - cross dresser, Knight of Malta and 33rd degree Mason) met with Attorney General J. Howard McGrath to form a plan that would allow President Truman to suspend constitution liberties during a national emergency: code named "Security Portfolio", the plan, when activated, would authorize the FBI to summarily arrest up to 20,000 people and place them in "national security detention camps". Prisoners would not have the right to a court hearing, confront accusers or habeas corpus appeal. Meanwhile, "Security Portfolio" allowed the FBI to develop a watch list of those who would be detained, as well as detailed info on their personal lives and that of their families, friends, neighbors, etc. (read: "Above The Law", by, David Burnam). Two years later Congress approved the Internal Security Act of 1950 which contained a provision authorizing an emergency detention plan. Hoover was dissatisfied with the law because it did not suspend the constitution and it guaranteed the right of habeas corpus. "For two years, while the FBI continued to secretly establish the detention camps and work out detailed seizure plans for thousands of individuals, Hoover kept badgering... (Attorney General McGrath) for official permission to ignore the 1950 law and carry on with the more ferocious 1948 program. On 25 Nov 1952, the attorney general caved in to Hoover." <http://www.apfn.org/THEWINDS/archive/gover...t/camp9-97.html>

When watching these charismatic (founded by Pope John Paul II), prosperity gospel, preachers(?) on TV, a pattern develops, they all adhere to: "the walls (denominational guidelines/differences) are coming down; denominations are coming together ...Oh ... Hallelujah!"; "as soon as He removes the "old order brethren", "old way", "old generation", "old fuddy duddies", "moralists", "pharisees", "legalists", "doctrinal believers", old Sanhedrin", etc. (real Christians) from the world, GOD is going to bring about a worldwide revival that the world has never seen before; forget all of these legalistic doctrines"; "lets just get this Gospel out to the lost!" (as if you could win the lost to Christ without Bible doctrine); the overall theme of their emotional hype invariably builds up the "believer" (exalting the flesh) as much, if not more, than Christ, through such feel good, flesh favoring terms as, "since Christ is in you (indwelling Holy Spirit), you are a part of Jesus Christ ... therefore you are a member of the family of GOD ... therefore you are little gods" etc. etc. (This is the opposite of what the apostle Paul espoused: "He must increase and I must decrease" (this is the same thing GOD kicked Lucifer out of Heaven for: "I will exalt my throne above the stars, I will be as the most high").

It seems nothing gets Paul Crouch's feathers ruffled quicker than to be asked about his doctrinal beliefs: like Dracula throwing back his cape and bearing his teeth: count Crouch (showing himself for what he really is, has said (on National TV): "That old rotten Sanhedrin crowd, twice dead, plucked up by the roots they're damned and on their way to hell and I don't think there's any redemption for them the hypocrites, the heresy hunters that want to find a little mote of illegal doctrine in some Christians eyes ... I say to hell with you ! I want to say to all you scribes, pharisees, heresy-hunters, all of you that are around pickin' little bits of doctrinal error out of everybody's eyes and dividin' the Body of Christ get out of God's way, stop blockin God's bridges, or God's goin' to shoot you if I don't let Him sort out all this doctrinal doodoo ! I refuse to argue any longer with any of you out there ! Don't even call me if you want to argue doctrine, if you want to straighten somebody out criticize Ken Copeland or Dad Hagin. Get out of my life ! I don't even want to talk to you I don't want to see your ugly face !" (I wonder if Paul Crouch has ever read: "That which you have done unto the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me" "Out of thine own mouth will I condemn thee" ?)

When looking into Paul Crouch's, Springfield and Kansas City, Missouri, past it becomes very apparent why it is not without substantial reason that Paul Crouch bears his demonic teeth at the very thought of revealing his "doctrinal beliefs": It seems he is connected to some very seedy religious characters, like William Branham, George Warnock, Oral Roberts, Paul Cain, Jack Deere, Bob Jones (not Bob Jones of Bob Jones University, S.C.), through the religious organization, Vineyard Ministries, which holds to a Gnostic (those who believe only they, within their own select group, who get divine revelations and visions from GOD, are "qualified" to interpret scripture for everyone else) doctrine that they affectionately refer to as The Latter Rain/ Manifest Sons of God, that went underground in 1949 and resurfaced in the 1960's as the Manchild Company:

".... The Church movement, like all else, is but a temporary expedient and serves but a transient resting place for the evolving life. Eventually, there will appear the Church Universal, and its definite outline will appear towards the close of this century This Church will be nurtured into activity by the Christ and His disciples when the outpouring of the Christ principle, the TRUE second Coming has been accomplished ... the church, as a teaching factor, should take the great basic doctrines and (shattering the old forms in which they are expressed and held) show their true and inner spiritual significance. The prime work of the Church is to teach, and teach ceaselessly, preserving the outer appearance in order to reach the many who are accustomed to Church usages. Teachers must be trained; Bible knowledge must be spread; the sacraments (Catholic) must be mystically (demonically) interpreted

Paul Cain says: "God is raising up a new standard, a new banner if you will, that's going to radically change the expression, the understanding of Christianity in our generation ... God has invited us to have a role in establishing this NEW ORDER of Christianity ... God is offering to this generation something He has never offered to any other generation ... Beware lest OLD ORDER brethren (real Christians) rob you and steal this hope from you !"

Bob Jones says: "I have called the best of every blood line in earth unto this generation ... I have elected to bring them forth in this generation ... THE ELECT GENERATION ... even the bloodline of Paul ... of David ... of Peter, James and John ... They will even be superior to them in heart, stature and love for me ... Your children will possess the spirit without measure ... They will move into things of the supernatural that no one has ever moved in before ... coming into the DEVINE NATURE of Jesus Christ ... a Church that has reached the full maturity of the GODMAN ! This generation ... is going to see the beginning of this WORLD WIDE NEW ORDER."

Are you having difficulty receiving this "new revelation"? Then perhaps you have been interpreting your Bible in the "old way"-- comparing Scripture with Scripture ... being careful to rightly divide the Word of truth. If this describes you, then you belong to the "Old Generation" which will not enter in to "possess the land" in the Latter Rain Revival. You may even be a member of a denominational church with its dogmatic confession of faith and statement of doctrine. These legalistic forms will be relics of the past in the up and coming "Post denominational Church." Paul Cain advises that you "dump all that carnal stuff" (doctrine) and listen to what the "spirit" is saying to the churches through the Latter Rain Prophets and Apostles, who are dispensing many "new, sacred truths:"

In your Bible you will want to change the book of "The Revelation of Jesus Christ" to "The Manifestation of the Sons of God." We are not to be looking for the "coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering unto Him." That would be an "escapist mentality" to be repented of at once if we would be Overcomers. Instead we should be looking forward to the glorification of the Corporate Church, which will become perfect and immortal here on earth before the Second Coming.

In fact, as Jesus comes "spiritually and invisibly" to His Church, He will actually "incarnate" the Corporate Body and reveal Himself to the world through miraculous signs and wonders performed by the "Manifest Sons of God." "For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law till all be fulfilled." Matt: 5:

18; "And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass than for one tittle of the law to fail."

Luke: 16:17; "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:

That the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works." II Tim: 3:16-17; "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life and out of the Holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." Rev: 22:18-19; "For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect." Matt: 24:24; "But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed (anathama; damned to hell). As we said before, so say I now again, If any preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed." Gal: 1:8-9.

This great end-time Company is really the "Manchild" of Revelation 12 which will rule the nations with a rod of iron. (you will need to replace Israel with the Church in this passage.) This end-time Church is also the prophetic fulfillment of the dreadful army in Joel 2, which is Gods agent of judgment to cleans the earth of evil during the "times of restitution." (You will find this army also in Revelation 9!) Since the Manifest Sons of God are "the Christ," they will be putting all things under their (oops) His feet, including the "old order" brethren (real Christians).

Paul Crouch puts his stamp of approval on this self serving doctrine with his own self serving exegesis of Jesus parable:

"Read the parable of the wheat and the tares in Matthew 13:24-30 and you will see that at the end of this age the "ANGELS" are sent forth to remove evil from the earth. That word "ANGELS" also means messengers. So God may use some of us to finish up the work of this age."

If you are wondering what all this religious/Illuminati hype is for, it's really quite simple. When people are faced with a crisis they have no solution for; they go to church. This is one of the reasons Billy Sunday had such great crowds at his revival meetings during the depression. These Illuminati satanists are well aware of this fact, hence the purpose for a large phony religion: when all of the real christians are gone, (disappearing through Homeland Security and US Patriot Act II): there will be Paul Crouch, Pat Robertson, Benny Hinn, D. James Kennedy, Jack Van Impe, Oral Roberts, Jerry Falwell, Billy Graham(33rd degree Mason) and the rest of the Vatican ilk, standing with open arms, and that big smile of deceit, welcoming the deceived into satans church under the guise of Christianity: All national parks and forests have been given over to the United Nations and are now International Parks and International Forests: which are being closed and the roads into them are being dug up to keep people from having that avenue of finding a place to hide.

The sole purpose for these inquisitions is to bring about the demise of freedom and establish a totalitarian Roman Catholic (Anti-Christ) world (Illuminati) through "outcome based education": "no child left behind" (every child left behind), coercion, torture, murder and outright genocide is summated by the "Secret Treaty of Verona", "KOSOVO, Vatican Tyranny" (on this web site) and the first paragraph of page58, in the publication: "Toward a Catholic Constitution", by, Leonard Swidler (Jesuit: professor of inter-religious dialog at Temple University, Philadelphia, PA):

"One need look no further than the now accepted bulwark of orthodoxy, Thomas Aquinas, to see how far the prevalent assumptions about the compenetration of religion and politics, with the presumed supremacy of the former, extended at that time. In treating of heretics Thomas views them as common criminals. Their crime is even greater than that of counterfeiters, for "it is much more grievous to corrupt the faith ... than to falsify money." Therefore heretics "may not only be excommunicated, but may justly be killed." The Church should properly tolerate their existence for a while, so long as there is some reasonable hope for conversion, but when that is gone, then heretics "must be cut out like rotten flesh," as Jerome says. They should be handed over "to the secular judge to be exterminated through death."

With this in mind, you can more readily understand the encrypted statement of George W. Bush, when he said: "He has the strength (proven practice of genocide), experience (practice of genocide in the Phoenix Program), personal commitment (dedicated to his Knights of Columbus roots and Jesuit superiors) and authority (what authority, and who gave it?) to accomplish this critical mission (the act of sending, or state of being sent with certain powers, especially to propagate religion; a series of special religious services)".

George Bush, 13 Sept. 01: "The most important thing is for us to find Osama Bin Laden. It's our number one priority and we will not rest until we find him."

George Bush, 13 Mar. 02: "I don't know where he is. I have no idea and I really don't care. It's not that important. It's not our priority."

All of Osama Bin Laden's siblings were picked up in New York City by the FBI, taken to the airport, put on a corporate jet and flown out of the country on 9/11/01:

So why blame Al Qaeda?:

"DRUGS": After Nixon pulled us out of Viet Nam (for which he was "Watergated") the CIA eventually lost all of its opium holdings in the "Golden Triangle". Poppy growing in Afganistan came to a stop after Al Qaeda took control of the country. Now with Al Qaeda gone and the Mujahedeen back in power: the Afgan drug trade is back in full operation: Of course its routed through Russia to give the US government the excuse to claim they have nothing to do with it.

Tom ridge continues to refuse to testify before Congress about his newly ppointed position (it's a crime to give false testimony before Congress). George Bush is defending Ridges refusal to testify by telling Congress Ridge "has no authority, he is only working for me": yet in his speech, appointing Ridge as head of Homeland SSecurity, Bush says Ridge has the "authority to accomplish this critical mission".

In a speech, at Georgetown University, to a congregation of Jesuit students, Senator Joseph Lieberman stated: "I admire the fact that so many of you (Jesuits) are more eager than ever to channel your talents and energy into constructive public service. I hope that government will help make it easier for you to do just that."

If the two World Trade Center Towers (and adjoining buildings) and Pentagon disasters do not bring their desired results in Congress (Homeland SSecurity passage), one can only speculate as to what they will do next : one thing you can rest assured of : if you work in a building where there are any federal agency offices, and you suddenly notice these offices are empty (like vacated over night), or you aren't seeing any federal employees showing up for work : you better run for the nearest exit !!!

"And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and you shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake. And then shall many be offended and shall betray one another. And many false prophets shall rise, and shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come. When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whoso readeth, let him understand:) Then let them which be in Judea flee into the mountains: Let him which is on the housetop not come down to take anything out of his house: Neither let him which is in the field turn back to take his clothes. And woe unto them which are with child, and to them which give suck in those days! But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day: For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be. And except those days shall be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened. Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. For there shall rise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect. Behold, I have told you before. Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not. For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Matt: 24: 4-27.

Let The True Church Of The Papacy Stand Up!

Has Rome changed today or remained "semper eadem"?

Professor Arthur Noble

http://www.ianpaisley.org/article.asp?ArtKey=rome_010198

"Our absolutist system, supported by the Inquisition, the strictest censorship, the suppression of all literature, the privileged exemption of the clergy, and arbitrary power of bishops, cannot endure any other than absolutist governments." - Dollinger: The Pope and the Council, London 1861, p. 23.

"No civil government, be it a monarchy, an aristocracy, a democracy ... can be a wise, just, efficient, or durable government, governing for the good of the community, with the Catholic Church; and without the papacy there is and can be no Catholic Church." - Dr Brownson, 19th-century Roman Catholic journalist, quoted in his Brownson's Quarterly Review, January, 1873, vol. 1, p. 10.

Has Rome changed today or remained "semper eadem"?

Stunned by the staggering growth of evangelical 'sects' in Brazil, leaders of the Roman Catholic Church have threatened to launch a 'holy war' against Protestants unless they stop leading people from the Catholic fold. At the 31st National Conference of the Bishops of Brazil, Bishop Sinesion called evangelicals a serious threat to the Vatican's influence in his country. "We will declare a holy war; don't doubt it. The Catholic Church has a ponderous structure, but when we move, we'll smash anyone beneath us." - Peter de Rosa: Vicars of Christ: The Dark Side of the Papacy. Crown Publishing Inc., 1988, p. 194.

"Jesus is alive on our altars, as offering. We become one with Christ in the Eucharist. ... As Catholics we have Mary, and that Mom of ours, Queen of Paradise, is praying for us till she sees us in glory. As Catholics we have the papacy, a history of popes from Peter to John Paul II. ... We have the rock upon which Christ did build His Church. ... As Catholics - now I love this one - we have purgatory. Thank God! I'm one of those people who would never get to the Beatific Vision without it. It's the only way to go. ... So as Catholics ... our job is to use this remaining decade evangelizing everyone we can into the Catholic Church, into the body of Christ and into the third millennium of Catholic history." - "Father" Tom Forrest, quoted in "Roman Catholic Doubletalk at Indianapolis '90", Foundation, July-August 1990.

"While the state has some rights, she has them only in virtue and by permission of the superior authority ... [...] of the Church." - The Catholic World, July 1870, vol. xi, p. 439.

By her own admission, Rome intends to destroy America, where she is entrenching herself with strength. An article in The Union and Echo, official diocesan organ of the Roman Catholic Church in Buffalo, in December 1950, declared:

"At the rate of 126,000 converts a year in the United States it would take us too long [to Romanise America]. We must convert [...] Politics, Economics, Sociology, Business, Entertainment, Labour and Management, the Department of State and the Executive Branch of our Government to Christian and hence Catholic principles."

This was put in no uncertain terms by "Father" Patrick O'Brien quoted in L'Aurora of the same date:

"We, the Hierarchy of the Holy Catholic Church, [...]if necessary, [...] shall change, mend, or blot out the present Constitution so that the President may enforce his, or rather our, humanitarian programme and all phases of human rights [!] as laid down by our saintly Popes and the Holy Mother Church. [...] We are going to have our laws made and enforced according to the Holy See and the Popes and the canon law of the Papal throne. Our entire social structure must be rebuilt on that basis. Our educational laws must be constructed to end the atheism, the Red peril of totalitarianism, Protestantism, Communism, Socialism and all other of like ilk and stamp, be driven from this fair land. [...] We control America and we do not propose to stop until America or Americans are genuinely Roman Catholic and remain so."

Title: Second Congress of Leaders of World and Tradition

Description: at Palace of Peace & Accord, Kazakhstan

ArchAngel - December 17, 2006 09:29 PM (GMT)

<http://www.mosnews.com/news/2006/09/12/astanacongress.shtml>

The Second Congress of the Leaders of World and Traditional Religions has opened at the Palace of Peace and Accord in Kazakhstan's capital city Astana, the Lenta.Ru web site reported Tuesday.

The second congress will focus on freedom of religion and respect for other religions, and the role of religious leaders in strengthening international security.

Unlike the first such congress that took place in September 2003 this year's event is attended by renowned state and political figures from different countries as well as special envoys from a number of international organizations.

Observers have noted that the Astana congress will be the first large-scale event where representatives of the religious circles of the Arab Countries could meet their Israeli counterparts for the first time since the end of the Lebanon conflict.

The congress has brought together 30 representatives of world and traditional religions, including from Islam, Buddhism, Judaism, Daoism and Shintoism, and 13 guests of honor. The event is being attended by representatives of international religious organizations, among them the World Conference on Religion and Peace, the World Foundation for Zarathustra Culture and the World Council of Churches. Unlike the previous congress, the current one will be attended by politicians from different countries, among them former Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohammad, former Iranian President Mohammad Khatami and UNESCO head Koichiro Matsuura.

The congress will be covered by over 350 reporters from more than 50 countries.

The congress was opened by Kazakh President Nursultan Nazarbayev, the author of the religious congress initiative. The previous congress was held in Astana in the autumn of 2003.

In the opinion of Alexander Machkevitch, the President of the Euro-Asian Jewish Congress, the congress will focus on religion and society role in preserving international security, which has become its motto.

“We are taking part in the congress not only to share the positive experience in cooperation between confessions in our region,” Machkevich told reporters, “it is important that the international Jewish delegation that had arrived with our assistance and which includes chief rabbis of Israel Yona Metzger and Shelomo Amar finds ways for mutual understanding with Islamic countries here. First of all through the dialogue between their political and spiritual leaders.

He also told reporters that the cornerstone-laying ceremony for the future synagogue in Oskemen was planned to match in time with the congress. The synagogue will be named Beit Rachel after Machkevitch’s mother. Rabbi Metzger and Israeli ambassador to Kazakhstan Ran Ishai attended the ceremony together with the head of the Euro-Asian Jewish Congress.

The Second Congress of the Leaders of World and Traditional Religions is taking place in the new Palace of Peace and Accord that had been built under guidance of the famous British architect Sir Norman Foster, who is also among the authors of the skyscraper complex that is currently being erected in the place of the World Trade Center in New York, destroyed by terrorist attacks in 2001.

P.S. 2TUFF - Szymanski had a guest on yesterday talking about a weird masonic fixation about the number 39. Her father and uncle were murdered at that age and such. That might be the same psychology behind the weird game being played on me as of late...plus that movie "Case 39" I was talking about. I think these guys run the same general "numbers game" psyop on ALL dissidents and anti-masons because it's the cheapest way they have to harass people.

They use a number based system of harassment on selected targets and groups, and the intention is to make people paranoid... and if they REPORT this stuff to the lower level confessional workers in the psych ward, it all comes off as schizophrenic.

I think they have a >COST EFFECTIVE< system for driving people crazy. They use the movies to add tiny, but personal details about their enemies, basically IN BULK... and run a confusing psyop program in the general media.

It's a way of trying to send people into a tailspin of paranoia. This is what they appear to have used on John Nash, as depicted in the "Beautiful Mind" movie. They run blanket media psyops, then run "tie ins" on local levels to try and "crash" a person's psyche.

I gotta hand it to them, it's brilliant evil... but these people are GREEDTARDS regardless. I think I understand how and what they are running on me. MOST of what they do is general. Then they add blatant personal tie ins locally to make it LOOK as though the entire world is out to "get" the target.

This numbers game/paranoia sounds familiar to me. quote--"I gotta hand it to them, it's brilliant evil". It happens on many layers, planes, senses. From your friends and your foes. The level of domination is unbelievable to the average person--that's why they yell schizo. The more I come to this website and those like it, the more my mind feels "hived" for moments. On the other hand, sometimes my mind has never felt so "unhived."

What I have been encountering appears to be synchronous biological programming being done on a massive scale worldwide (and NOT exclusively being done on me). A person has to sit back and ask what exactly do 20,000 Jesuits and related mind sciences people do with their time? What do they do with real time profiling and supercomputers? If the agenda is to control people, I would suspect they would be doing something relatively sophisticated and looking for the ultimate form of COORDINATED propaganda and mind control using every means possible... With the resources they have been spending you would think it would manifest somewhere... (perhaps directly into some of our lives for instance...especially for those of us who are in fact dissidents.)

someone's game or test and I've been looking for answers and mainly trying to see if anyone else has noticed any unusual forms of coincidence based harassment.

I thought this board would be an intelligent place to start asking questions and share ideas but 2TUFF appears to have taken this topic the wrong way, and that last message among other things came off as mockery.

What I wanted to get to the point of discussing is the mathematical system that the "hive" is currently using to manipulate its members. They run a distinct mind control agenda using patterns all through the media that are mathematical, sophisticated, and unrecognizable to most people... and what is most disturbing is that the techniques work. It's a huge kaleidoscope of subliminal suggestion that goes unnoticed by most people... and it's omni-present format is ingenious and can be used to target unsuspecting subjects >at will<.

These guys have done their homework because to even try to talk about this subject results in the declaration that it's all "delusional" in most circles. I just did not expect that reaction around here. These people have a secretive science that they are currently using on us, but if that's too confusing a subject to bring up I won't bother. Whether you agree with me or not is one thing. I just don't need scorn for trying my best to be sincere.

Keith is correct when he mentions that "It happens on many layers, planes, senses." What is taking place is geometric programming from a fourth dimensional timeline, and it's reinforced with a system of numerology and "coincidence" on the physical plane. I am prompted to try and find answers because whatever is being done is hitting close to home for me.

2TUFF, I like your board and you do good work, but you really come off as being on some kind of ego trip with something to prove and it's unpleasant. You really don't have to compete with, and out-do everyone else who posts here just trying to learn and contribute.

Despite the valuable collection of information you have assembled, I felt pretty uncomfortable on this board from day one and posting here always feels like unwelcome activity. I tried my best to be friendly with you and had hoped to discuss insights into some overlooked aspects of mind control science, but you truly seem to be more interested in trouncing people in intellectual competition than finding answers to current world problems. I hope you can forgive me for trespassing on your board. I didn't see the sign saying "posters unwelcome" but I sure felt something.

As an ex-Freemason, Rosicrucian and dissident, I've had unknown parties dogging me since 1997 or earlier and I'm trying to find out WHY. I believe the people responsible >REALLY ARE< Jesuits and this is anything but pleasant. None of this is a laughing matter to me and it certainly isn't a level of accomplishment you need to be suspicious of or envy. Aside from a working computer, my entire life has been demolished and "they" don't appear to be finished. I tried to share information and tips with you for learning purposes and also tried mentioning things regarding what might end up coming your way if you become as unlucky as I. Sorry for trying.

2TUFF, you're an intelligent fellow, but I think your ego may have gotten the better of you. We're supposed to be arriving at genuine solutions and not winning an intellectual contest. You said to me that you have no experience with covert harassment at all, so is it really a wise idea to mock someone who is trying to provide basic insights to this situation while hoping to learn more?

Ultimately it's your life and your board. I'm just disappointed that an otherwise good resource comes off as a rather unfriendly place to be. I'll do you a favor and keep my distance. I have my own work to attend to anyway.

tkra@honesty.org

P.S. Your comprehension of numerology and alchemy are significantly limited in scope and I'm not mentioning this as a jab or insult. Do yourself a favor and try not to get too cocky until you learn more. You don't know everything. Saturn is a >wavelength< and it has everything to do with the "triple crown" numerology of 39. You can throw in Dorothy clicking her heels SS style in 1939 to start the war and enter the rings, and then lament about the Maltese Falcon in 1941 that everyone is looking for because the breach was ? not? closed. If you don't know which one they found, you might consider that the script accounted for both ahead of time. Every line of dialogue serves a specific purpose, so I suppose mockery is a great place to start!

smashstuff - December 17, 2006 09:28 PM (GMT)

Hi tkra, nice post. None of us have all the answers here, and we all have a different point of view about these things, but I definitely feel that I am understanding the game that the Jesuits and their underlings are playing more and more everyday. Please keep posting here, I definitely appreciate it.

Religious, Service

The formal name of this elite Catholic lay organization is the "Sovereign Military Hospitaller Order of St. John, of Jerusalem, of Rhodes, and of Malta" (SMOM). It was founded in 1061 as a military order to protect "the poor of Christ" and pilgrims to the Holy Land. An international order of laymen with charitable objectives, SMOM now claims 10,000 members in 42 countries. The group is organized as a sovereign, though landless, diplomatic state whose only territory consists of a headquarters in Rome. This unusual diplomatic status allows SMOM to send items across borders without review by local customs authorities. (5,10,13) Social historian Stephen Birmingham has said that the Knights of Malta "comprise what is perhaps the most exclusive club on earth. They are more than just Catholic aristocracy. They can pick up a telephone and chat with the Pope. "(14) SMOM has been called "the cutting edge of right-wing Catholicism, a hidden mating ground where the Catholic church and the U. S. ruling elite intersect. " As of 1983, the U. S. chapter had 1,750 members. (10,14)

CH, CR, ES, GI, GT, HO, MO.

The Knights of Malta receive many contributions from large corporations. (5) SMOM's Federal Association in 1985 listed revenues and support of $205,463 of which $190,302 came from private contributions and $15,161 from private revenue, e. g. investments. (9) SMOM has received funds from the U. S. Agency for Intl Development for projects in El Salvador. (13) It has also received funding from the Christian Broadcasting Network. (2,3)

The Knight's Federal Association describes its general purpose as one of promoting the spiritual and physical welfare of the sick, disabled, and poor through charitable giving. It says that fundraising and allocation of funds is its primary response to requests for assistance. In 1985, the Association had plans to set up a hospice program and to participate in disaster relief projects in El Salvador, Chile, Costa Rica, Mozambique, Guinea, and other areas in Africa. (9) SMOM's work in Central America was pushed forward in 1983 when J. Peter Grace contacted Robert Macauley, director of AmeriCares, to suggest joint involvement in the shipment and distribution of medical supplies in the region. (16)

El Salvador: El Salvador is one of the countries with which the Knights of Malta enjoys diplomatic privileges, and the organization has had a presence there among the Catholic elite since 1942. It was not until 1974, however, that SMOM obtained its legal status as a charitable organization in El Salvador. As of 1988, there were ten Knights in El Salvador, and the group said it employed 30 people in the country. The local organization maintains particularly close ties with SMOM branches in the United States from which it obtains the bulk of its funds and supplies.

Gerald Coughlin, a U. S. citizen who married into the wealthy Quinones family, is the Knights' Salvadoran director. Coughlin administers SMOM from the International Harvester building in San Salvador, which doubles as the main SMOM warehouse in the country. The NGO distributes humanitarian aid--primarily medicines--to more than 120 churches and institutions, including hospitals, clinics, childcare centers, orphanages, and homes for the elderly. In addition, it operates ten clinics, sponsors a repopulation project in Aguacayo, Suchitoto, and is starting a prosthesis program in the San Miguel area. The organization reports that it distributes $12 million in supplies annually and that it brought in approximately $8 million in earthquake relief. About 90 percent of this assistance is medicine; the rest is distributed among food, educational material, furniture, and medical equipment. Associated SMOM branches in France, Rome, Venezuela, and the United States contribute funds and supplies to the Salvadoran effort. The Washington D. C. and New York chapters of the Knights have provided constant aid, most of which comes from a Catholic-oriented foundation called AmeriCares (see Private Connections).

SMOM says it gives people a psychological lift by funding projects such as the Boy Scouts and soccer teams. It is also sponsoring productive activities, such as teaching people how to sew so they can eventually work in textile assembly industries known as maquiladoras. The Agency for Intl Development has given the Knights of Malta $500,000 for a prosthesis program involving two clinics which provide provisional prostheses to victims of guerrilla land mines. The organization funds the government's human rights organization to monitor human rights violations and to keep a census of the victims of mine explosions. SMOM explains its program in counterinsurgency terms: "If you're not eating and a private organization brings you food, then you're less likely to be recruited by the guerrillas. "(13) SMOM took funds from AmeriCares to El Salvador. (1) They helped Christian Broadcasting Network distribute supplies and received funds from them. (2,3) They assisted Air Commando Association in El Salvador. (2) They are also helping with AID's resettlement program in El Salvador. (7)

Guatemala: AmeriCares donates goods and SMOM distributes them. SMOM is doing minimal development work there but is distributing goods to priests in conflict zones. (5) An AmeriCares/SMOM joint venture in Guatemala has distributed $6 million to $7 million in medicines in 1985-86. Overhead costs are minimal because local Knights provide office space, transportation, and storage facilities. One of the top Knight's in Guatemala, Roberto Alejos, allowed the CIA to use his sugar plantations in San Sebastian, Retalhuleu to train anti-Castro counterrevolutionaries for the Bay of Pigs Invasion in 1961. Knights' donations have reached most areas of the country, including hospitals and health campaigns in the government's "model villages. " These villages, similar to the strategic hamlets in Vietnam during the conflict in Indochina, are designed to control and pacify local populations. SMOM has donated to hundreds of other NGOs, including Living Water Teaching, PAVA, and the 700 Club. (5,16)

In 1981 Covenant House, the New York-based home for street teens founded by Father Bruce Ritter, expanded its operations to Guatemala through the foundation of Casa Alianza. AmeriCares and the Knights of Malta provided major support to the new enterprise. Roberto Alejos served as the conduit for hundreds of pounds of food and medicine from AmeriCares and helped to obtain donations for Casa Alianza from private sources. (18)

Nicaragua: Since the election of the UNO government in 1990, the Knights of Malta, particularly the chapter in Los Angeles, have made major donations to Nicaragua.

SMOM members assisted in the delivery of three plane-loads of medical supplies from AmeriCares that arrived in Managua three days after the election. It is estimated that the Nicaraguan chapter of SMOM has 25 members, about half of whom live out of the country. (19,20) Members of the German SMOM served as part of the ONUCA (Organizaciones Unidas de Centro America) peacekeeping force that watched the Nicaraguan borders to prevent contra movements across the border with Honduras. (20)

J. Peter Grace has a long history of involvement in CIA-linked projects, such as the American Institute for Free Labor Development (AIFLD). In addition, he was involved with the CIA-backed Radio Free Liberty and Radio Free Europe projects in Europe, and Grace representative Francis D. Flanagan belonged to International Telephone and Telegraph's (IT&T) "Ad Hoc Committee on Chile" during the 1973 overthrow of Salvador Allende in Chile. IT&T had CIA backing for its efforts against the Allende government. (14)

El Salvador: For its work in El Salvador, the Knights of Malta benefits from free transport of its humanitarian supplies by the United States military due to the space-available provisions of the Denton Amendment. SMOM and the U. S. -based Family Foundation of America received an AID grant to carry out rehabilitation programs in an area of Suchitoto selected by the military for pilot repopulation efforts. AID has also given SMOM $500,000 for the prosthesis program described in Activities. (13)

Guatemala: In Guatemala, the Knights of Malta have worked with the Guatemalan Natl Reconstruction Committee (CRN) and the Ministry of Health. (5)

SMOM has worked with or supported the activities of a variety of NGOs, including AmeriCares, Christian Broadcasting Network, and Air Commando Association. (1,2,3) It was loosely linked to the Nicaraguan Freedom Fund (a pro-contra fundraising effort) and CAUSA (the political arm of the Unification Church) through William Simon. (4) It supports the work of Friends of the Americas and acts as the distribution network for AmeriCares in Central America. (6) J. Peter Grace is a board member of AmeriCares and served on the board of the nowdefunct Friends of the Democratic Center in Central America (PRODEMCA). He also served on the board of trustees of the American Institute for Free Labor Development (AIFLD), the Latin American arm of the AFL-CIO. AIFLD has been linked to the CIA and is funded primarily by the Agency for Intl Development. AIFLD promotes pro-U. S. labor unions in Latin America. Including Grace himself, at least eight Knights are directors of the W. R. Grace Company. William Simon and Prescott Bush Jr. are members of AmeriCares, and Simon was on PRODEMCA's natl council. Simon, who was Treasury Secretary under Richard Nixon, was also the chairman of the Nicaraguan Freedom Fund (NFF), a fundraising organization set up in 1985 by the Washington Times, a newspaper owned by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church. The NFF was established to raise funds for the Nicaraguan rebels popularly known as the contras. (10,11,14) Clare Booth Luce was also a director of the NFF and was on the Board of the Washington Times. (6) Like the Knights of Malta and the NFF, PRODEMCA and AmeriCares were involved in efforts to support the contras and/or private sector opposition groups in Nicaragua. (10,12) In many ways, SMOM and the Connecticut-based AmeriCares foundation are interlocking organizations. Grace, in addition to his work as an AmeriCares director, was instrumental in its founding, and the president of the New York City SMOM chapter is the vice-president of AmeriCares. (13)

El Salvador: SMOM, as noted, works closely with AmeriCares in El Salvador. The latter organization says it sent about $13 million in aid to El Salvador between 1983 and 1986. AmeriCares receives support from AID for the cost of shipment from the U. S. to El Salvador. Other supplies come from the Tom Dooley/InterMed Foundation and from Direct Relief Intl. Gerald Coughlin, described above in Activities, serves as the Salvadoran country representative for both of these organizations. In addition to AmeriCares, SMOM in El Salvador works closely with the Salvadoran American Foundation and the Family Foundation of America. Local Rotary and Lions clubs use SMOM's duty-free privileges to import supplies into the country. Project Hope in Washington helps SMOM in El Salvador with transportation and storage. (13) The Dooley Foundation gives supplies to SMOM for its work in El Salvador. (7)

Guatemala: In this country, SMOM has worked with or supported the Rotary Club, AmeriCares, Lions Club, Living Water Teaching, PAVA, the CBN's 700 Club, Catholic Service Organizations for the Interior, and a number of hospitals and orphanages. (5,16)

Honduras: The Knights of Malta works closely with AmeriCares in Honduras. In addition, donations for SMOM have arrived in Honduras via United Brands and Standard Fruit boats. (17)

According to a source named Jimmy-the-Weasel, Mafia members apparently created memberships in SMOM for a fee, using their connections in SMOM. (8) During the Vietnam war, the Knights of Malta supported U. S. military intervention in Southeast Asia and contributed to Washington's pacification campaign in South Vietnam. (10) SMOM gave its highest award of honor, the Gran Croci Al Merito Conplacca, to Gen. Reinhard Gehlen in 1948. Gehlen, who was not a Catholic, was awarded the honor because of his efforts in the "crusade against godless Communism. " Gehlen headed

Adolf Hitler's spy operations against the Soviet Union during World War II. After the war, he and his spy apparatus--staffed mostly by former Nazis--were recruited by the CIA. He became the first director of the BND, West Germany's intelligence agency, which contributed large percentages of NATO's raw intelligence during the Cold War. (14) In 1963, as Director of the CIA, John McCone oversaw the assassination of South Vietnam's Prime Minister, Ngo Dinh Diem. In 1973, from a senior post in IT&T, he played a role in the overthrow of the Allende government in Chile. (6)

The Hidden Truth About The Pope's Middle East Crusade

Unknown Israeli author tells you everything you wanted to know about the war but were never told.

15 Dec 2006

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/15-Dec-2006.html>

Author of Vatican Assassins Eric Phelps has always tried to find the truth and speak from the heart, his meticulous research uncovering the purposely hidden Vatican and Jesuit Order's duplicitous role as the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order.

Concerning the Middle East conflict, he doesn't miss words or pull any punches either, recently uncovering "the greatest analysis of the war I have ever read."

"Written by an unknown Israeli," said Phelps, "it is a must read for anyone who wants to know the real truth behind the Pope's war. Added to the fact that the Black Pope controls the US via the Council on Foreign Relations, and controls Britain via the Royal Institute of International Affairs, we now know the source and purpose for the continuing conflict.

"The leaders of both sides are minions of the Jesuit General. (For example, previously Arafat has had EIGHT MEETINGS with Pope John Paul II since the Oslo Accord.) Those who do not "play ball" - like Anwar Sadat of Egypt, King Fiesal of Iraq and Yitzak Rabin of Israel are eliminated through the Black Pope's unified International Intelligence Community. That Community is directly controlled, organized and overseen by the Pope's Crusaders, the Sovereign Military Order of Malta.

"Notice that the mentor and immediate master of Ariel Sharon is none other than CFR Henry Kissinger. Masonic Kissinger, the intimate associate of Knight of Malta Alexander Haig, Jr., is without question a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor, as the Order began to admit the Pope's "Court Jews" to the Company in 1946 - about the time of the stoking of the Middle East conflict.

"Further, it has been learned that the former head of NATO and key figure in the governing of the Pope's Zionist government of Israel is a Franciscan priest - Javier Solana - the intimate friend of the "King of Jerusalem," King Juan Carlos of Spain, whose immediate master is the Grandmaster of the SMOM, Fra Andrew Bertie.

"Further, the reason why the Order has used the Federal Reserve Bank's American Military Industrial Complex to arm every Arab nation in the Middle East is not to destroy the Pope's Zionist-controlled Israel, remembering that sixty percent of all the land in Jerusalem is owned by the Vatican - including the Temple Mount. The purpose is to be able to use these arms against the present American/British-led Papal Crusade having been planned over thirty years ago, prior to the deliberately faulty construction of the WTC (the "X" bracing being only bolted and not welded to the buildings) back in the 1980s. It was Cardinal Cooke's Knight of Malta and director of the CIA's counterintelligence branch manning both "the Israeli desk" and "the Vatican desk" within the Agency, James "Jesus" Angleton, who advocated a "Crusade" against the Moslem peoples way back in the mid 1970s."

According to a reviewer the writings of the unknown Israeli are "a truly objective analysis of this subject, without the baggage Jews and Arabs have been fed via their national leaderships, reveals that the Middle East conflict would have ended decades ago had foreigners not kept it alive. The continuation of the conflict serves their interests- i.e., oil supplies, recycling petrodollars, or multi-billion dollar weapons sales. The Palestinian-Israeli "situation" is thus merely a fig leaf for the FE, allowing their other agendas can be pursued undetected.

We need to devise a solution based on the actual cause for the continuation of the conflict, and not accept solutions presented via the mainstream media.

The hatred between the two peoples doesn't come from the hearts of Middle Eastern Arabs and Jews; it is created and stoked from abroad. Arabs and Jews must see through the propaganda and understand that this conflict is being created for them. Every time it looks like it is coming to an end, foreigners breathe new life into it by insisting that they have a "new peace initiative" which they claim will bring peace. It never does.

The FE's intervention in the affairs of the Middle East has been a tragedy for the Arab peoples - socially, economically, and politically. Arabs and Jews of the Middle East need to admit that they are both victims of the foreigners. By working together, they can remove the cancer of foreign intervention that keeps the conflict alive.

The following are the first two chapters of a collection of observations compiled to help Jews and Arabs understand why the Middle East conflict continues to fester. The intention of the writer is to promote the realization that these two peoples are not each other's worst enemy; a third player, the Foreign Elite (FE), is why the Middle East remains unstable.

Chapter One

The core and essence of the Middle East conflict

For more than 75 years, western diplomats have been coming up with "peace initiatives" to solve the Arab - Israeli conflict. Yet they always fail.

Why? What keeps the Middle East conflict going?

If we are going to devise a solution, we must first understand why the conflict continues to exist. To do this, we have to view the situation from the top down, rather than from the bottom up.

Granted, this is completely opposite to the way most Jews and Arabs have been conditioned to look at "the situation." Jews focus on the damage Arab/Palestinians cause, and believe that damage to be the cause of the conflict, when it is really only a result of it. They view the conflict and its origins from the bottom up. Arabs/Palestinians concentrate on the damage Israel causes and believe this to be the cause of the conflict, when it is really only a result of it. They too relate to the situation from the bottom up.

To understand what really causes the Middle East conflict to continue, one must look at the issue from the top down.

To get a more accurate picture of what lies behind the continued existence of the conflict, let's acknowledge these five factors which serve to perpetuate - rather than solve - the problem:

1)The vested interests of the Foreign Elite (FE): There is a "third entity" in the conflict in addition to the Israelis and the Arabs: the foreigners (in order of importance, the US, Britain, China, France, Germany). Without them, there would be no Middle East conflict because it is the foreign influence that keeps the "situation" from being resolved. Unfortunately, both Palestinian Arabs and Israeli Jews believe they are each other's worst enemy - without considering the third element - the foreigners - that is the enemy of both. The thing that Arabs and Jews have most in common is this common enemy, yet the leaders on both sides

(not being legitimate or independent) tell their people that the other side is their number one enemy. Hence the conflict continues.

2)Control of Middle East oil: The foreigners interfere in the Arab-Israeli conflict in order to exploit and control the vast petroleum resources in the region. If there were no oil, there would be no petrodollars to recycle; the foreigners would have no reason to dominate the region.

3) Weapons sales: If there was a worldwide ban on arms sales to the Middle East, there would be no more "radical Arab dictators" with modern arms. If the foreigners stopped selling advanced weaponry to nations of the Middle East, the conflict would end.

4)The mainstream media: If the mainstream media in the West stopped reporting on the "search for peace in the Middle East," peace would soon be found. By keeping the region's "unstable" image alive, the media, as the sole source of information by which people can formulate their perceptions, provide an excuse for the foreigners to interfere, and at the same time serve to convince everyone that these western nations want peace, despite the fact that they have been "seeking" it for over 50 years, in vain. The media never question the intentions or agendas of the FE. The media thus provide the glue which keeps the conflict going. Without the mainstream media constantly reporting on the conflict, there would be peace, as everyone would forget that the Middle East is "unstable" and thus in need of "stabilizing" via new "peace initiatives."

5) Corrupt national leadership of both sides: It isn't peace between Arabs and Jews that interests the FE, but rather the continuation of the conflict. The way they do that is by corrupting/controlling the national leaders of both sides. The reason why legitimate, popular leaders are not at the helms of countries in the Middle East is because the FE will topple any leader who doesn't cater to their desires before the needs of their own people. If Middle East leaders are selected and deemed popular by their own people, the FE will demonize them as "radicals/extremists," "terrorist leaders" or "enemies of peace," and thus de-legitimize them in the world arena. How can genuine co-existence take hold if the leaders of both sides are more interested in pleasing their foreign masters than their own peoples?

Unless these five basic factors are understood, the true causes that extend the conflict will never be understood. Instead, each side will go on blaming the other - seeking to take the high moral ground and convince their own people and those from abroad that they are right, and the other side is wrong. This will lead only to more death and destruction.

The technique is called "divide and rule," and it has been a favorite of the FE for decades.

Why Is There A The Middle East Conflict?

Let's deconstruct the conflict and look at all its parameters:

1) The Palestinian-Israeli conflict is how the pro-Arab camp refers to it. It claims Israel is oppressing the Palestinians and that, as a result, the entire Middle East remains unstable, and will continue to be unstable unless the Palestinians have their own state.

2) The Arab-Israeli conflict is how Israel defines the situation. Until the Oslo process began, Israel claimed the conflict existed because: "The Arabs don't recognize Israel's right to exist." Now Israel says the conflict continues because the Palestinian leaders "support terrorism."

These conclusions are fed to the Arab and Israelis peoples so as to enable them each to take the high moral ground and focus their hatred on each other. And this in turn directs their attention away from their number one enemy: the foreigners.

By having the Arabs believe Israel is at fault for "oppressing" the Palestinians, while having Israelis believe the conflict exists because the Arabs fail to recognize the Jewish state or seek its destruction (i.e. support terrorism) the foreign interests succeed in hiding the bigger picture: what the foreigners are doing when it comes to controlling the Arab nations' only natural resource, and how they are selling massive amount of weapons to the oil-producing regimes.

To keep up this fraud, the foreign elements must control the national leaders of both peoples, and ensure that the mainstream media don't stray too far from the cover stories: "Israel is acting immorally against the Palestinians" or "Palestinian leaders support terrorism."

Creating either a viable Palestinian state or peace between Arabs and Jews is not the goal of the foreigners. Whether stated publicly or not, their intention is to extend the Middle East conflict, not resolve it. Unless this basic truth is understood by Arabs and Jews, the foreign elements, via the mainstream media, will continue to manipulate the perception of both sides as to why the conflict continues.

Taking the high moral ground in the Middle East conflict

The only way the foreigners can sustain the conflict is to have each side blame the other for its continuation. In this way neither side can discover the real causes, which are the oil and arms deals made between the rich oil states and the foreign powers. One aspect of the conflict serves as convenient camouflage for the other.

To keep this fraud in place, the "moral argument" is employed to have the world focus on the "morality" of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. In this way, everyone is forced to take a side. The pro-Arab side claims Israel is morally flawed, while the pro-Israel side claims the Arabs are morally flawed.

Thus any public discussion is structured in such a way that the peoples in the region and those abroad are forced to believe one side's claim or the other. The pro-Israel version is that the Arabs want to destroy Israel and are employing terrorism to reach this goal. The pro-Arab side claims Israel 's actions against the Palestinians are immoral because they violate the Palestinians' right to self-determination and their human rights and dignity. In short, the parameters of the debate consist of choosing sides. No other option is given. No other participant in the conflict is presented.

In spite of all the vested foreign interests at work in the region, namely oil and arms, the entire discussion of the conflict centers on one of these two positions: either you are pro-Israel or pro-Arab.

This moralizing is the way the foreigners control the debate so that the actual causes are never allowed to surface. Israel's national leaders can moralize about how inhumane Arab suicide bombers are; Palestinian leaders can moralize about how horrible Israel's treatment of the Palestinians is. The US State Department can moralize about Israel's human rights record. The Jews in America are morally aligned with Israel; the countries of the Third World identify with the Arabs. The Europeans are perceived to be anti-Israel. The Christian fundamentalists in the US support Israel for moral reasons. The Israeli Left takes the high moral ground when it publicly condemns its own government for its treatment of the Palestinians. The Israeli Right waves a finger at Yasser Arafat and proclaims: "Arafat is not doing enough to stop terrorism." The Palestinians claim Sharon is not "serious about peace" .

"The Palestinians must learn they will never achieve anything through violence," says one group. "The Palestinians deserve their own state," declares another

Yet with all this "morality" flying around, nobody ever points a finger at the foreign countries or accuses them of acting immorally by selling arms to Middle East dictators and exploiting the natural resources of the region.

Instead, people around the globe are told what to believe regarding the reason for the continuation of the Arab-Israeli conflict, as if their opinions and feelings are actually relevant to what is happening on the ground.

This long-distance exercise in morality is what the media focus on when nothing much is happening in the region, to point out how important "peace in the Middle East" is for everyone. Yet the only thing about such stories that can be believed is that the continuation of the conflict is important to the media.

Why the Middle East conflict never gets solved

Everyone in the world is morally bound up with the Arab Israeli conflict. Yet can it be possible that the entire conflict is based on the lack of morality of one side or the other? Can all that has happened in the region over the past half century be the result of one people not behaving nicely toward the other? What other regional conflicts are defined in this way? What other regional conflicts continue for more than a half a century, look like they are finally being solved, and then come roaring back in the way the Middle East conflict has?

Let's think for a moment, and ask: Do regional wars and conflicts continue for seven decades because one side isn't acting nicely toward the other? Is the conflict's existence merely due to the actions of each or both sides - the 5 million Jews and the 4 million Arabs - who simply don't like each other?

Can that really be the answer?

That is certainly the way the mainstream press and the academic world present it. Oil and arms sales are never part of the explanation. How could so many newspapers and TV stations miss out on this side of the region's affairs and focus solely on "new peace initiatives"?

One could argue, with justification, that the Israelis are not acting nicely toward the Palestinians - that they oppress them, restrict their movements, blow up their houses, etc. But that alone still doesn't account for the continuation of the conflict. The Israelis are right when they argue that the Palestinian Authority is corrupt and the Palestinian leadership hasn't done enough to crack down on terrorism, but that too doesn't explain why this 75-year-old conflict is still with us.

And while it may even be true that the Arabs don't recognize Israel's right to exist, Israel doesn't stop existing because of that. The refusal of the Arabs to recognize Israel's existence is not the reason why the Middle East still festers.

So why has this conflict been going on for nearly a century?

Not only does the Middle East conflict continue to exist, it actually gets worse decade after decade. What other regional conflict actually looks like it is being solved, and then, 10 years later, returns to a state much worse than before?

What is special about the Middle East?

One unique thing about the Middle East conflict is that it is institutionalized.

Think of the annual budgets for all the organizations whose sole purpose is to do " Middle East moralizing." How much does it cost to fund all the activist organizations, the lobby groups, the news publications, the charities, the think tanks which exist solely to cast blame on either the Israeli or Arab side?

The Middle East conflict is a "cottage industry" in the US and Europe. It isn't that way with other regional conflicts. Why is it that way with this one?

The pro-Israel camp has its lobbies, organizations, think tanks, magazines, support groups, Internet user groups, etc. which put out one simple message: "The Arabs are wrong; we're right. We are more morally upstanding than them." The pro-Arab camp has its lobbies, organizations, think tanks, magazines, support groups, and Internet user groups which put out one simple message: "The Israelis are wrong; we're right. We are more morally upstanding than them."

Both sides are basically saying the same thing to the other side: "you're morally deficient, you're not acting nicely, and it is because of you that we don't have a solution."What is incredible is that each side is right, and for the most part, each side's argument is valid. Each side does do terrible things to the other, and both are morally deficient. Yet that still doesn't account for the continued existence of the conflict.

Consider. The Arabs say: "The media in America is controlled by the Zionists and our side never gets a proper hearing," while the pro-Israel camp says, "The media is anti-Israel." Both claims have a basis of truth, yet they cancel each other out. The same is also true when the Palestinians claim that Israel is "denying the Palestinians a state." The Israeli version is "The Arabs don't recognize the Jewish state." Two completely balanced arguments serve to keep the claims of both sides in perfect symmetry.

The media are responsible for promoting this "morality" aspect. If a politician in the US or Europe says: "I am disturbed by Israel's treatment of the Palestinians," that becomes a media item, even though the statement had nothing to do with what happens on the ground.Thousands of kilometers away, in Europe and the US, the Middle East conflict has a life of its own. The obsession that the mainstream media have about anything and everything to do with the Middle East proves that the mainstream media are responsible for sustaining it. The conflict would have faded away long ago, if it weren't for this media attention.

This is important because, before we can look for a solution to the Middle East conflict, we need to determine why it exists in the first place.

Why should we support the establishment of a Palestinian state as a way to bring peace to the region if the lack of such a state is not the reason for the conflict? While it may be desirable to the Arabs to have a viable Palestinian state, and while the Palestinians certainly deserve their own national territory, we must ask ourselves: "Does the conflict exist just because the Palestinians don't have their own state?"

Perhaps all those on the pro-Arab side should think about what would happen if a Palestinian state is created, yet doesn't lead to prosperity and stability? The mere existence of a Palestinian state will not solve the regional conflict. Thus perhaps the absence of a Palestinian state is not the reason why peace does not exist today.

If the foreigners were truly interested in peace, and believed the creation of a Palestinian state would serve that goal, they would have forced Israel to accept it decades ago. They didn't, and not because Israel controls the US political process, as some Arab intellectuals believe, but because they don't want peace in the Middle East. That is why Arafat was allowed to funnel most of the $4 billion in foreign aid the Palestinian Authority received from 1993-2000 into 17 different security forces, rather than using the money for socio-economic development.

Compared to other regional conflicts caused by wrongs committed by one side on the other, the continued existence of the Middle East situation makes no sense. By now it should have either been resolved or have petered out.

Why does this problem never get solved?

Chapter Two

Israel is not the number one enemy of the Arabs

While Israel may be perceived as a threat to the Arab world, the actual threat comes from the foreigners who for decades have been corrupting Arab leaders and exploiting their nations' natural resources. The foreigners are the reason the Palestinians has had such a miserable 50 years. Sometimes the foreigners keep Arabs and Palestinians oppressed via Israel, sometimes they do it on their own; the end result is the same - the Arabs get screwed.

It is foolish to blame Israel for the continued existence of the conflict. Israel had no reason to want to enflame the conflict with the first intifada, or the second one. The last thing Israel wants is for the whole world to be talking about how Israel must create a state for the Palestinians. Thus Israel has no reason to ignite the conflict.

Israel doesn't keep the Arab-Israeli conflict simmering, and thus can't be blamed for the instability in the Middle East. While what Israel may do to the Palestinians is wrong and harmful, it is not the reason the conflict continues.

So by blaming Sharon or the Likud party, the Arabs are playing right into the hands of the foreigners. The foreigners want all Arabs to focus their anger at Israel so they won't catch on as to how the foreigners are controlling their nations' resources and corrupting their leaders. The Middle East conflict began long before Sharon, the Likud or the West Bank settlements came into the picture. By having the Arabs focus on Israel as the culprit, nobody will look at the foreigners and realize the truth.

If Arabs want to know who their number one enemy is, they have to go right back to the beginning, when the foreigners first started to colonize the Middle East. While the formation of Israel was part of that colonizing effort, the Jews weren't the ones who put the deal together. The Jewish people have also been used and exploited by the foreigners, but in different ways.

If the role of the foreigners in the Middle East was exposed, the Arabs could then choose between one of the other two sides: Israel or the foreigners.

Before making that decision, all Arabs, and especially the Palestinians, should remember that from 1948-1967, Israel was responsible for huge rises in the standard of living of the Israeli Arabs, just as it was with the West Bankers and Gazans from 1967-1992. Despite all the wrongs Israel may have committed against the Palestinians, then and now, the fact remains that the Israelis were the only non-Arab population interested in raising their standard of living and quality of life.

The foreigners - with all of their aid, peace plans, initiatives, road maps and UN refugee agencies - were never able to do that. For 50 years the Palestinian refugee problem remained unsolved because the foreign powers did not want it solved. Certainly Israel would have been in favor of putting the refugees in permanent homes, and would have done so if they had been permitted to. The foreigners didn't let Israel do that, and instead had the UN administer the needs of the refugees so that the refugee problem would remain unsolved - all in order to keep the conflict alive.

So who is the true friend of the Arabs of Palestine, and who portrays themselves as such but keep the tragedy going, year in, year out? With which religion do Arabs have more in common, Judaism or Christianity? Who is better equipped to help the Palestinians develop their economy, Israelis or the foreigners?

To solve the conflict, both Arabs and Jews must realize that they are not each other's number one enemy, and that a third element is the reason the regional conflict continues. If we want to solve this seemingly never-ending human tragedy we must first understand where it comes from, and why it is still here. Then we can prescribe a remedy.

To get that ball rolling, the Arabs must see that Israel isn't responsible for creating the tension and hostility in the Middle East. It isn't Israel which is keeping radical Arab leaders in business; Israel isn't that powerful. The foreigners are bigger and stronger than Israel. If they wanted Israel to stop all settlement activity and withdraw to the 1967 border, they would have long ago forced Israel to do that. The existence of the settlements is the foreigners' guarantee that there will always be a reason to shake a finger at Israel.

The foreigners never get tough with Israel because solving the conflict is not their end goal. If the western countries boycotted Israel economically, broke off diplomatic relations, and cut off foreign assistance, the Israeli national leadership would do anything the foreigners demanded. This doesn't happen because the foreigners want the conflict to continue.

When Arabs accept the argument that "we hate America because of America's support for Israel," they are serving the foreign agenda. Arabs should hate America for what America has done to them directly - for corrupting Arab leaders, for keeping the Arab masses socially and economically backwards, for exploiting the Middle East's natural resources, and for wasting the Arab nations' financial resources on arms instead of regional economic development.

Jews and Arabs must realize that despite what foreign leaders say in public, the last thing they desire is peace in the Middle East. Since the first intervention by the British in the first decade of the 20th century, the primary cause of strife is the foreign elements and their desire to control the region's natural resources.

The Arabs are not a threat to the State of Israel

For the entire history of the Arab-Israeli conflict the Israeli public has been told two lies: that the Arabs in general - and the Palestinians in particular - are a threat to the continued existence of the Jewish state, and that the reason there is no peace in the region is because the Arabs don't "recognize" Israel.

Why would any country call its own existence into question by insisting that its neighbors acknowledge that it exists?

What it really means is that if an Arab country does acknowledge Israel's right to exist, it can expect something in return. So if Israeli diplomatic strategists had been smart, decades ago they would have announced that, the Israeli government doesn't acknowledge the existence of any Arab country. Then, if an Arab country decided to acknowledge Israel's existence, and asked what Israel would give it in return, Israel could say, "Israel will acknowledge your country's existence." Instead, Israeli leaders called their own nation's legitimacy into question by asking the Arabs to grant it legitimacy.

Israel is, therefore Israel is, and no recognition from any country - Arab or otherwise - is needed to confirm that fact. It matters not at all if Tunisia, Bahrain, Oman, Yemen, Libya, Syria or Iraq fails to acknowledge Israel's existence. In the past half century, not only has Israel survived without her existence being acknowledged by the majority of the Arab world, it has flourished.

The claim that the Arabs threaten Israel 's existence is also wrong. Even if the Arab world wanted to destroy Israel, this doesn't mean it can. Israel has the seventh largest military infrastructure in the world, and is technologically light years ahead of the Arab world. Despite Israel's clear military superiority, its national leadership keeps the Israeli public focused on the "Arab threat" so that the Israelis will continue to believe they are embroiled in a conflict with the whole Arab world.

To dispel the notion that the Arabs are a threat to Israel, take a close look at any Arab country. They are usually overpopulated, undereducated, economically undeveloped, and led by a dictatorship. No Arab country is able to produce its own weapons. No Arab country possesses any significant technological abilities, or has any real political or economic influence in the world.

So why should Israelis be afraid of Arab nations?

The only reason why Arab dictators are feared by the Israeli public is because the world's media present these dictators as "radicals" and "disturbers of regional peace" when in fact their nations are helpless, powerless, poor and weak.

Why should Israel fear that Arab dictators like Saddam Hussein could destroy or seriously harm the Jewish state when we know that all the weapons and military technology Iraq has acquired is from companies in the US, Britain, France, and Germany? If Israelis were to fear for their security, they should point a finger at these countries and accuse them of trying to destroy Israel by supplying military technology and weapons to "unstable" Arab dictators.

But that isn't what the Israeli national leadership tells its citizenry. It tells them "Arabs want to destroy Israel" rather than direct their collective anger at the western countries that approved these weapons sales. By doing so, it keeps the Israeli public convinced that the Arabs are the reason why the conflict continues.

Another falsehood presented by Israel's leaders - particularly those on the Right - is that if a Palestinian state were created it would promote terrorism and those terrorists would threaten the security of Israel. While terrorism is a problem for Israel, it doesn't pose a threat to her existence.

And while the Palestinian Authority definitely promoted terrorism right from the start of the Oslo Accords, the terrorism never came anywhere near destroying the Jewish state.

Since the early 1980s, Israel's leaders have been warning that Iran is "five years away from attaining nuclear weapons." Twenty years later, on June 5, 2003, Israel's foreign minister declared that "Iran would have Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) by 2006."

Why do Israeli national leaders try to scare the Israeli public into thinking the Arabs are a much bigger threat than they really are?

Oslo and beyond

One of the enigmas about the Oslo Accords is why the Israeli government agreed to allow the Palestinian Authority to maintain armed security forces, and why Israel even armed those security personnel with Israeli weapons? We were told that the Palestinian Authority needed those weapons to keep radical Palestinian groups in check. Yet from the very beginning, when Hamas began its suicide bombing in 1994, the Palestinian Authority never cracked down on the organization. While the Israelis complained to all who would listen that this was happening, no foreign entity ever criticized Arafat for not stopping the rise of Hamas in the West Bank and Gaza.

Israel's leaders at the time knew full well that the result was going to be a terrorist state, yet they agreed to this because that is what the foreigners wanted from Oslo - to strengthen the Palestinian side and weaken the Israeli side so the conflict could continue. The goal of Oslo's planners was never peace and stability; it was further bloodshed. That is why Oslo and Hamas came on the scene at the same time.

As for the reasons why the second intifada broke out, the mainstream press told us Arafat "was pissed because at Camp David in August 2000 Barak and Clinton didn't give him enough honor and respect" and thus Arafat was "posturing." The mainstream media also gave us another version - that because Sharon dared walk around on the Temple Mount, this "enflamed" the Palestinians.

That it could have been arranged (and thus didn't have to happen) never enters into the debate. Nobody asks whether Arafat thought he could really win a war against Israel. No western leader criticized Arafat for reneging on an international agreement which he signed with Israel never to return to war. Instead, the Middle East conflict was once again ignited, serving the foreigners while causing more death and destruction for the people who live in the region.

Sharon plays his part by remarking after every Hamas suicide bombing attack that Arafat is to blame, even though we are told the PA can't control Hamas. Then Bush throws the "moral card" out there and accuses Arafat of not doing enough to stop terrorism, so we are led to believe that Arafat is being morally irresponsible by initiating terrorism against Israel.

Presto. The Middle East conflict has been recharged. Israel's high moral ground is that "Arafat is behind the terrorism" and the Arabs' "high moral ground" is that Israel is "oppressing the Palestinians." Both claims are true, yet neither is the reason why the conflict continues. Such a scenario - whether by design or not - keeps the "you're wrong. No, you're wrong" structure of the conflict in place.

Like most things that happen between Israelis and Arabs, anything the Israelis do will be held up by the Arab side as proof that "Israel isn't serious about peace" (i. e. they are morally flawed), and by the same token, anything the Palestinians/ Arabs do is held up by Israel as proof that "you see, the Arabs are not serious about peace" (i.e. they are morally deficient). This is the basic configuration of the conflict. Each side blames the other while the real culprits remain in the shadows.

Back in the early 1990s the only way to keep the Palestinian-Israeli conflict alive was to re-energize Arafat - arm his henchmen, and provide the PLO with a base of operations close to Israel. So if the Palestinian Authority supports terrorism it is with the complete knowledge and consent of Israel's leaders. Blaming Arafat merely serves the goal of the foreigners, which is to keep the conflict from dying out and to give the Israeli public an enemy to blame.

Therefore it really makes no sense for Israelis to continue to blame the Palestinians for the conflict not being solved, as neither Arafat nor anyone else in the Palestinian Authority has any real political or economic power. They aren't pulling any of the world's strings, so why concentrate on whether Arafat does or does not really want to put an end to terrorism? Whatever Arafat or any other Palestinian leader does or doesn't do will not have any impact on whether the conflict remains alive. The Palestinians/Arabs don't have the power required to keep the Middle East conflict alive. Only foreign elements do. The continued attempt to brainwash the Israeli public into thinking that the Arabs are a threat to Israel's security and survival is one reason why the conflict continues. If you want to have a conflict, you have to convince both sides that the other is to blame, always and forever. This is the way the Arabs and Jews have been pitted against each other.

Instead of rational explanations for why Middle East leaders do what they do, we are handed "morally-inspired" rationale. For instance, President Bush declared that Arafat had to be made "irrelevant" because, according to the US leader, he "disappointed him by not doing enough to stop terrorism." Having taken the high moral ground, Bush then began yet another Middle East peace initiative with the Roadmap. Once again, the mainstream media failed to present the picture as anything other than a moral crusade of the President to put his weight behind the peace process.

The public was told that the American plan envisioned a Palestinian state being created by 2005 (18 months from then) without any media source presenting the alternative view that such a plan was unreasonable and unlikely to take place. Instead of presenting the public with quality information and analyses, the media served the foreign interests and the Middle East conflict kept right on rolling.

Emigre Russian Church Seeks Reconciliation With Moscow Parent Church in 2007

MosNews

Leaders of the Russian Orthodox Church Outside Russia, which split from its Moscow-based parent after the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution, have voted to fully reconcile with the Russian church next May, a spokesman said.

Bishops of the U.S.-based church chose the date during a meeting last week, The Associated Press reported.

Moscow church leaders must now vote on whether they agree on the timing, and if they approve, "that's pretty much it," said Nicholas Ohotin, New York-based spokesman for the emigre church.

The Russian Orthodox Church Outside Russia has nearly 400 parishes worldwide, including in Australia, Europe and Russia itself.

The emigre church split from the Moscow patriarchate three years after the Bolshevik Revolution and cut all ties in 1927, after Patriarch Sergiy declared the Russian Church's loyalty to the Soviet Union's communist government.

Reconciliation talks between the divided churches intensified about three years ago.

The Russian Orthodox Church recently disavowed Sergiy's declaration of loyalty to the communist government, saying it had been aimed at saving the church.

Under the plan that the bishops approved in New York last week, leaders from the two churches would gather in May in Moscow and sign an “act of canonical communion” that would end their decades-long break. The U.S.-based church would continue to oversee its own affairs, but elections of bishops would have to be confirmed by Russian leaders.

Isn't it also called the ROC Abroad?

And I think the Greek and Russian Orthodox churches split off from the Roman church nearly 1000 years ago...east and west. (East--Orthodox; West--Rome)

In light of that, this is pretty interesting.

I'm going to stretch credulity here. First of all, here's Moses as depicted in the Dreamworks film Prince of Egypt:

Anyone see the resemblance between Xavier, Akhenaten and Moses as seen in Prince of Egypt?

To me they all have that 'why the long face' Egyptian royal look, and is Xavier's wheelchair actually representing a throne? Is this why he's played by Patrick Stewart in the films, who definitely has that royal presence?

Interesting correlations. I too noticed many of these parallels, including the Moses / Akhenaten possible replacement. He did teach worship of one God, not all the traditional multiple gods and made major changes. This is why some believe his features were shaped disfigured as a mockery by the ousted priests & artists. It took some time after King Tut to get back on the wrong track with their multiple gods, and Tut is another key I believe. Jesus called himself The Day Star or Morning Star, which is Venus which you see at sunset and sunrise. As from the bible:

2Peter 1:19 We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts:

Rev 2:28 And I will give him the morning star.

Rev 22:16 I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the bright and morning star.

I've come across a great bible study on how we all must be baptised with fire, so we also become like this star. I'm sure before electricity this star was very useful, Venus.

plus also say that Alito went to yale law and was a recipient of the Thomas More award at the Red Mass. Also Clarence Thomas went to Yale Law from the Holy Cross College and is usually a speaker at the red mass. Also Clinton went from Georgetown to Yale Law where he met Hilary. something's going on there. could be that the jesuits just want to get their people in yale because it's the most prestigious school in the world.

people at Yale including professors were very upset at Alito's and Thomas's nomination to the supreme court. they thought they weren't qualified.

George P. Clancy, Jr. begins as a management trainee and worked his way up to president and chief operating officer. He also attains to a very high position as a Knight of Malta (SMOM) and is named on the board of directors for Jesuit Georgetown's Woodstock Seminary on the Georgetown Campus in 1998.

Reagan Sold-Out America And P2 Masonic Leader, Licio Gelli, Was Right By His Side

Are Americans finally waking up from a deep, dark sleep? They better or the likes of Satanists, Pope Benedict and Daddy Bush, known as Magog, will usher in Nazism quicker than you can blink an eye.

13 Dec 2006

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/13-Dec-2006.html>

The fight against the Illuminati continues in small "truth circles" around the country as more and more Americans are waking up from a deep, dark sleep to realize their country has been turned into an evil fascist state under the guise of liberty and freedom.

To the Illuminati big wigs, including Satanist supreme George H. Bush, known as Magog to his sick-minded friends, liberty and freedom stand for death, destruction and Nazism.

It's a sad state of affairs to realize top U.S. leaders like Daddy Bush, his Satanic son, Henry Kissinger, Ronald Reagan and many others are nothing but sell-outs, traitors and dedicated to the Vatican-led New World Order takeover.

But it's true just as it is true Benedict XVI is a Satan worshipper with a 24-year-old gay lover, facts verified by Illuminati insiders from Italy and the powerful Monte Carlo P2 Lodge.

So, it's all down hill here from here unless Americans wake-up, fight back and finally identify and nab the true spiritual controllers of this fascist take-over.

"The Vatican and the Jesuit Order must be stopped," said author Eric Jon Phelps, author of Vatican Assassins. "Throw the Jesuits out and end formal diplomatic relations before it's too late, diplomatic relations reinstated after more than 100 years by one of the biggest American traitors ever ? Ronald Reagan."

The fact Reagan sold out his country is no secret amongst historians and researchers looking for the truth and not covering it. The following connection between Reagan and Licio Gelli, the Italian Grandmaster of the P2 Masonic network, proves he was working to bring about Satanic rule under the evil New World Order.

Gelli now is in his 80's and dying of cancer. He also was photographed right behind Reagan during his inauguration, although most all Americans never recognize the real evil behind the Presidency.

But Gelli is the real deal, the real evil lurking behind the Masonic structure spreading its Satanic tentacles through Lodges worldwide with the help and "blessings" of the Vatican and their henchmen, the Jesuit Order led by Jesuit "Satanic" General, Fr. Peter Hans Kolvenback, known as the Black Pope and the real power in the Vatican controlling Benedict.

But to show how the New World Order is progressing behind the shield of Freemasonry, the Jesuits and Vatican duplicity, they are now arrogantly telling the world about their evil plans and the characters involved.

For example, recently Henry Kissinger was announced as an official Papal advisor. Remember, both Benedict and Kissinger are closet Nazis spreading war by saying it is peace and spreading freedom under the guise of fascism.

And as Kissinger and his Satanic crew go public so is Gelli going public overseas, telling people in a recent video how proud he was to be one of Hitler and Mussolini's "young soldiers."

Although Gelli's story is unknown to Americans, Italians and other Europeans understand his connections and power. It is story worth telling since he was seated and the right hand of Reagan, indicating the power he wielded even in the U.S.

"He is dying of cancer and perhaps the Illuminati are paying tribute to him in their own twisted way," said former high level Illuminati whistleblower from the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge, Leo Zagami. "I know Gelli and before I defected their was much talk for me to take over in his place as new aristocratic blood was needed.

"He was a key New World Order strategist between the Vatican, the United States and the rest of the Illuminati Freemasonic structure that at the high-levels seek to institute Nazism even in America."

Thinking about the recent video about Gelli, released over seas and listed below, Zagami reflected about Gelli's power and how it connects to Freemasonry, the Vatican, all secret societies and the powerful government leaders around the world, all working together to bring about war and destruction.

Even more astounding, Gelli admits in the newly released video that the Vatican controls the intelligence services of the world, wielding tremendous power among all the top world leaders.

"Brother Licio Gelli, Past Worshipful Master of the P2, proudly continues the piloted opening of his image showing a photo with Hitler and Mussolini at the beginning of the interview, and later we see him talking about the infamous pictures of the Pope wearing a swimming costume (a demented scandal of the time involving the Pope half-naked by the swimming pool)," said Zagami.

"And last but not least Brother Gelli reveals that Opus Dei is a Catholic form of Freemasonry. The Brother Gelli starts talking about the Secret Services of the Vatican, described by him as a very powerful Secret Service for a very powerful State...yes one of the two headquarters of Satan in the end of times (the other being Jerusalem).

"Gelli says that the Opus Dei is defined also as white Freemasonry and P2 as black freemasonry (the dark side of the force). In a Masonic Temple we find on the floor white and black that symbolize the good and the evil side of mankind, the Vatican and the Jesuits have obviously control over what's good and what's evil as they think they are God as I told you in earlier articles.

"But Gelli never mentions the SMOM and the Jesuits in this video as such topics are considered off limits, as some secrets must never be revealed.

"In the State archive in Pistoia they have opened the heavy door of the room dedicated to the affairs of Licio Gelli at the beginning of 2006, he donated part of his archive which was transferred from his home called Villa Wanda.

"It is an extraordinary archive containing letters of Illuminati agents Torquato Tasso, Napoleon Bonaparte, Giuseppe Garibaldi, Adolph Hitler, Giuseppe Verdi, yes a very sick collection indeed.

"Some say it's a truly God-given gift for historians and for expert archivists but in reality Gelli kept the best bits of this collection for himself, including all the dirty work for the SMOM and his Jesuit Masters."

I'm sure of it. Also Sean Hannity wrote a tiny review on the book as well which is in it. That's I guess what is a Coadjutor. It's fun to read however. I like Crocker's other book "Robert E Lee on Leadership" as well.

Yes they are perfect examples of a Temporal Coadjutor as is Hal Turner and Michael Piper.

I do not understand the question.

If your talking about how many Knights are there then its between 10-12,000 worldwide.

computer_tech - December 11, 2006 05:37 AM (GMT)

I read in the Worldbook encyclopedia that all of the first level "Temporal Coadjutors" take a vow of celibacy. Is this true?

I'm not sure if this website deals with this factor of membership or perhaps someone can explain this as the old ways or not. It appears any level requires celibacy.??

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 12, 2006 12:10 AM (GMT)

TKRA can explain to you about the celibacy issue. It seems its a point of power to them actually. I'm talking of the hierachy of the Vatican as a whole.

Basically my friend Temporal Coadjutor is used to describe a person who is working for the agenda of the Jesuits and their Vatican. Its supposed to be actually just for people knowingly doing this. You can as I have in the past label anyone this who helps the agenda wether they know it or not. All roads lead to Rome and if you do anything to help this then this label can be attached I believe. Like I say its really mean't for someone in the know such as David Rockefeller whos a Sovereign Military of Malta Papal Knight same as George H W Bush, Guliani etc.

Nun Accused Of Sexually Assaulting Children

Victims: Assaults Occurred In Convent, School Office

POSTED: 8:14 pm CST December 4, 2006

<http://www.themilwaukeechannel.com/news/10462521/detail.html>

MILWAUKEE -- A Catholic nun who served as a principal at a Milwaukee school has been charged with sexually assaulting children as many as 200 times.

Investigators said Sister Norma Giannini, now 78 years old, assaulted two of her students in the 1960s when the boys attended St. Patrick's Elementary School at 7th and Washington in Milwaukee, often in the church's convent and school office.

Giannini was principal of that school at that time.

According to the criminal complaint obtained by 12 News, one of the victims claims Giannini instructed him to open the buttons on her habit, but he was shaking so badly that he couldn't. She opened her buttons and instructed him to feel her breasts, according to the complaint.

Another accuser claims he recalls sitting on the sofa in the convent and having Giannini take his pants down. She was wearing her habit, but removed it. She then pulled him on top of her, he said.

"I know his main concern as with most victims is stopping the abuse from happening to anyone else," said Peter Isley, an abuse victim advocate, in an interview with 12 News' Chloe Morroni.

The Sisters of Mercy released a statement late Monday, stating "Whether old or new, such a matter still runs counter to the very ministry of the Sisters of Mercy."

The Archdiocese of Milwaukee asks that anyone who has been victimized to come forward with the confidence that they will be heard and helped.

Giannini taught at an all-girls Catholic high school in the Chicago after leaving Milwaukee during the 1970s. She now lives in a suburban Chicago retirement home.

Vicious Fascist Hand Knocks On Door Of Illuminati Insider

Nazism is now officially here in all parts of world, including U.S., according to former Monte Carlo P2 Lodge Illuminati whistleblower, Leo Zagami.

8 Dec 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/8-Dec-2006.html>

The vicious and diabolical hand of fascism Wednesday knocked on the door of former Illuminati insider, Leo Zagami, threatening him with jail and loss of custody of his young children.

Zagami resides in Oslo, Norway, but his inside information about how the secret societies of the Vatican-led Illuminati have been heard loud and clear across the Atlantic in America.

For the last three months, Zagami has tried to warn Americans about how the Jesuits, Vatican hierarchy, Freemasonry and the corrupted U.S. government are targeting America for social and financial instruction.

After having his highly informative web site shut down, Zagami had an unexpected knock on his door late Wednesday evening as police and intelligence officials warned him if he didn't stop printing Illuminati secrets involving Satanism in the highest levels of the Vatican, European Union and U.S. government, he could lose custody of his children due to incarceration.

After the unexpected visit from what he calls fascist authorities, he released this statement, warning Americans Nazism has officially arrived:

"Two police officers, one intelligence officer and one other defined as Social worker (childcare officer) came to visit me at 10.30 pm, and they said if I go on with my web site and my work, I could loose the custody of my children.

"The Illuminati pedophilia mafia is moving against me and my family . They are criminals in Norway and I want to expose them further on Monday on the radio show if they don't arrest me before that.

"Spread the News NAZISM IS ARRIVED OFFICIALY IN THE USA AND EUROPE To protect Vatican Satanism. My life is dedicated to God I'm ready to die or be persecuted for him.

"THEY ARE CRIMINALS AND I WILL EXPOSE THEM ON MONDAY'S

SHOW, I took out the documents I have against their government and they shut up and left me alone but I will not give up.

"I want the help of true Muslims, of all true Christians, of all true Jews to help me now to protect my family against the Satan who wants to stop me spreading the truth about their satanic conspiracy, a conspiracy to take over the world and give into the hands of pedophile ring in Rome, THE VATICAN."

Before the police visit, Zagami was notified Monday by Anthony Casalena of Squarespace, Inc., the company hosting Illuminati Confessions, several complaints had recently been filed due to sensitive content and personal information accusing people of being Satanists.

The site was subsequently shutdown, but friends of Zagami saved much of the content, transferring it immediately to an Italian web host. Zagami returned online Tuesday afternoon at www.illuminaticonfessions.webfriend.it

Zagami's friends put this note about his background on his new web site for people unfamiliar with his story:

Background: Leo Lyon Zagami was, until recently, a high level member of the Italian Illuminati, a 33rd degree freemason, a true insider and a high-member of the infamous Freemasonic P2 Lodge. He was the "prince", prepared to take over after the older Illuminati "king", Licio Gelli. He is of Illuminati aristocrat bloodline and therefore involved in the Illuminati Order since childhood.

However, Leo decided he'd had enough of all the evil he was exposed to, and a part of, and the horrifying Satanic, black magic rituals, mind control and torture that was going on inside the lodges, behind closed doors. So he left everything and fled to Norway, where he is currently residing. Since he left, he's been harassed and tortured and had his life threatened.

He realized that the only way to hopefully stay alive is to expose to the world what he knows and make himself known. History shows that this is one of the best ways to survive, although nothing is for certain. Leo quickly started this website, Illuminati Confessions, where he reveals the secrets to the world, one by one. I strongly advise you to check it out and download it to your computer, in case they decide to silence him for good, and this website will be shut down. There is a lot of extremely important information here, and much of it can't be found anywhere else. Leo has also been a guest several times at Greg Szymanski's radio show.

tkra - December 10, 2006 05:38 PM (GMT)

Leo appears to be active on ConCen Sunday Dec 10. The fact that the people visiting him went away is a good first sign.

Ultimately, we are engaged in an ethics war that we are not allowed to lose. As hard as it may seem, we have to turn against the hierarchy of crime and money grubbing. The power these people have over others is not hard to figure out. They live by the sword and die by the sword of scams. They throw a lot of weight around but their authority depends on superior ethical standards and right now they have little to stand on. They have conned the world into believing that the game of greed is okay and if you lose then it simply your problem. If you complain, they try to provoke mistakes and hostile protests... but the bottom line is that we all have the choice to be ethical no matter what. Nobody can force us into these games of evil, and they have no right pushing on people who make the choice to be fair and honest and live in that manner. We have been coerced by money grubbing scum at the top for centuries, but none of us has to rub elbows and listen to this bad advice if we do not wish to. We do not have to validate the power of the greedtards if we do not wish to.

Leo obviously seems a bit stressed, but he should pull through so long as he is not provoked. He seems to be a bit of a natural hot-head.

I think the illuminati KNOW their days are numbered and are carefully getting themselves out of "harm's way".

I noticed some peculiar patterns in the news media that indicated that a change of agenda has been recognized. A psyop was RE-RUN, that bothered me... it's pointless to explain in detail, but along side the (TV) psyop, was a chocolate bar commercial deliberately placed to convey the message to those who could read it.

The law of parity (11) or 1:1 was illustrated unmistakably as far as my recognition capabilities go. It featured chocolate wafers on a conveyor belt, and there was a bit of a joke involved but there was doublespeak being conveyed. It is way to speculative to convey the subtle forms of hidden communication that take place in the media, but it is my belief that "we" may have succeeded through all the heated Internet protesting that has been adding up.

What I am trying to say, is I >believe< it has been acknowledged in higher circles that the era of the billionaire is an absolute violation of all genuine ethics. It only existed because the majority of humanity was complicit with the greed paradigm. The more of us that reject that paradigm and take some form of a vow of honesty will indeed drop out of the corporate hive. The "fascists" do not actually have any power to force us to participate in unethical behavior. Even the great persecutions of the past depended on populations that were not trying to be reasonable or responsible. We have to do better, and stop the nonsense going on, and removing the fear and believe that we are forced to be unethical is the first step. We simply have to say no to these crooks and tell them to take a hike. They depend on our cooperation and we must give them none.

The aftermath of 9/11 may indeed be a fascist Roundup, but this time it doesn't have to be against honest people who disagree with crooks, but against the corporate criminals themselves. I believe even the Vatican knows that it must clean house or the madness that occurred during the second world war will repeat. The Vatican did not create the madness itself. That came due to some inter-planetary alignment that I cannot claim to understand. What I do suspect is that if the greedtards persist in violating ethics laws, they will be dealt with through planetary destruction.

I suspect Tesla manifested the technologies needed to wipe out humanity on purpose, and set the stage for what will take place if humans stay on the greed paradigm. I believe Tesla gave humans the tools to make great improvements, and now to destroy itself if the greed paradigm runs its course.

This may be coincidental, but how would you start explaining yourself for being corporate criminals of massive proportions? How would you position yourself if you started to believe that your corporate rape of the planet may soon backfire?

Bill Greed and his pig-like friend picked the Lied Center for a television program I just encountered. I think this is the way the corporate class might start admitting the truth in a subtle manner. As best as I have been able to tell, the Corporate criminals really do not know the extent of their criminality. They've just been playing the game of jungle law like everyone else. Some win, some lose... but it's time to stop the game altogether. - tkra@honesty.org

We'll see if Leo makes it to the Szymanski show on Monday. Hope he does.

Buffett & Gates Go Back to School

Warren Buffett, CEO of holding company Berkshire Hathaway (shown, right), earned his $41 billion by investing in old-line companies and doesn't keep a calculator on his desk. Bill Gates, chairman of software giant Microsoft Corp. (left), dropped out of Harvard. The two richest men in the world offer world-class advice to the next generation of business leaders in Buffett & Gates Go Back to School.

On Sept. 30, 2005, the two men spent the day at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, where they filled the Lied Center with students and faculty from the College of Business Administration. Buffett told students to follow their passion and polish their public speaking skills, while Gates, citing personal experience, advised them not to procrastinate. Both men agree that mistakes are an inevitable part of life. Buffett said that his business mistakes are investments he didn't make. In Microsoft's case, Gates said that mistakes happen when the company misses a new technology, such as the success of the Internet search engine Google. "We're playing a tiny bit of catch-up on that," he acknowledged.

downtown old Chicago...in the baddest part of town...

Anyway, the main Catholic supply depot is (was) four blocks from my apartment, and I stopped by last week. I discovered it had moved so I scrambled over to the new location a few blocks away. I traditionally would stop by to check out all the goodies and learn new things. The clerks there are really nice and I spotted a book called "This Man Bernardin" that was a wonderful overt look at one man's life in the priesthood. These guys may be wolves in sheeps clothing but to understand them, it's always good to examine the sheeps clothing they fit themselves into...

The book was 52 bucks, and I mentioned I liked it, but it was way too expensive. They gave it to me for 10 dollars, because it had been there for 10 years and they still had another copy.

I kind of like Bernardin, because I learned something valuable from a statement he once made that his "life is an open book". I realized that he understood that being open was the only way to live when one ultimately ends up with a world of surveillance at every level...sooner or later. People who try to be "secret" about everything are probably setting themselves up for disaster. I prefer to worry about getting caught in the open, preferably doing something ethical. Talk about an outrage.

I scanned this book for y'all because it's kind of interesting to browse through. Pictures are worth a thousand words.

I doubt they'll be too angry at me for scanning a book...because the "friendly satanists" that are stalking me appear to have other plans for me... I don't exactly want to be on this planet at all, and have only put up with this mess as I have established a track record of disaster attempting to set up "honesty international". Nothing has worked, because of course, drug dealing presidents, popes and monarchs are doing a perfect job at maintaining ethics already... How dare I meddle?

I had recently been VERY disturbed with a phone book of "coincidences" that happen at my periphery including the filming of a TV Movie called Seattle Serial Killer, 300 yards from my front door. They ended the final scene at the stroke of my 39th birthday Greenwich Mean Time. They filmed it on "Prince Albert" street which has "Jack the Ripper" connotations. Much to my distress, the Catholic supply depot moved to Alberta street, exactly a month earlier, with Halloween as the center point between events. Both locations were the 2300 block. Duh, all coincidence...tell the shrink.

I dropped out of Freemasonry at 23, and am on the Ed King list of 360 or so enemies of Masonry for god knows what... so I'm a target they like playing with. I think they were trying to get me labeled as "schizophrenic" to begin with... and now who knows what is next. I simply hate their worthless beast system because it won't work like they think it will. Most people fall under the propaganda and hypnotism and they are busy testing ways of putting us all under mind control... as y'all are fully aware.

I refer to the Jesuits-SMOM-Masons as the GREEDTARDS because that's what they are pure and simple. I think the world would change for the better the sooner people treat them as the pathetic violators of exchange law that they are, rather than demon gods to be feared. They are not gods, they are GREEDTARDS, totally deceived by their own power and ego trips. Perhaps they don't like me because I don't feel like changing my views, and have TRIED to get myself killed just to get the heck off this disgusting planet. I was almost shot by the cops back in 1999 when some freemason in Texas I was arguing with over email called 911 and said some guy in Vancouver was telling him that he was going to drink himself to death.

Four bottles of wine finished, I passed out and was happily sleeping before they attacked and almost shot me "for my own safety". I dried out in hospital for a day and a half. Nice Life. Nice.

Anyway....the newest coincidence game played on me is here:

<http://www.tkra.org/andrews-ssk.jpg>

And the book, "This Man Bernardin" is here for free download.

It's 196 PDF pages, and is a picture book with commentary. Cardinal Bernardin's dad was in the Austrian army, and wore a sunflower insignia that I believe is the same as the Mountain divisions of the Nazi SS, so he is of good Catholic stock.

It's 91.9 megabytes. I have plenty of unused bandwidth on my new web account server, so download if you like. The action photo you see above is my personal favorite. Action Jackson or something...

I tell y'all, I would have joined the Jesuits in a second if I would have known how much fun it would have been... I think it's the place to be... but unfortunately, I'm TRYING to grow up. Domination games are dysfunctional no matter how holy a label we slap on them.

Title: Loyola Crypto Jew?

Description: This keeps coming up.....

MoroccoMole - November 30, 2006 02:44 AM (GMT)

A well known anti semite keeps pushing this "Jews are behind the Jesuits" line, i personally am very reluctant to accept this propaganda as the poster of the following article is a staunch racist and anti semite, am i being unfair on him is this info factual>?

QUOTE

The first Jesuits were crypto•Jews. Ignatius Loyola himself was a crypto•Jew of the Occult

Cabala. A crypto•Jew is a Jew who converts to another religion and outwardly embraces the new religion, while secretly maintaining Jewish practices. As John Torell explains: "In 1491 San Ignacio de Loyola was born in the Basque province of Guipuzcoa, Spain. His parents were Marranos and at the time of his birth the family was very wealthy. As a young man he became a member of the Jewish Illuminati order in Spain. As a cover for his crypto Jewish activities, he became very active as a Roman Catholic. On May 20, 1521 Ignatius (as he was now called) was wounded in a battle, and became a semi•cripple. Unable to succeed in the military and political arena, he started a quest for holiness and eventually ended up in Paris where he studied for the priesthood. In 1539 he had moved to Rome where he founded the "JESUIT ORDER," which was to become the most vile, bloody and persecuting order in the Roman Catholic Church. In 1540, the current Pope Paul III approved the order. At Loyola's death in 1556 there were more than 1000 members in the Jesuit order, located in a number of nations."

Ignatius of Loyola's secretary, Polanco, was of Jewish descent and was the only person present at Loyola's deathbed. James Lainez, who succeeded Loyola as the second Jesuit General, was also of Jewish descent. Jews were attracted to the Jesuit order and joined in large numbers. Lacunza was no exception. He was a Jew, which explains why he introduced the eschatological teaching of a return to the Jewish animal sacrifices during the Millennium. (In a book titled The Coming of the Messiah in Glory and Majesty published in 1812, 11 years after the death of its author, Jesuit Emanuel de Lacunza who, wrote under the fictitious pen name of a purportedly converted Jew, Rabbi Juan Josaphat Ben Ezra, in order to conceal his identity and to make his writings more palatable to the Protestant readers. He promoted the writings of sixteenth century Jesuit priest Francisco Ribera, developing a futuristic perspective which restricted the prophetic fulfillments in the book of Revelation to the end of the world). Lacunza also wrote that during a millennium after the tribulation the Jewish animal sacrifices would be reinstated along with the Eucharist (the mass) of the Catholic Church. Lacunza has followed after Jewish fables and replaced the commandments of God with the commandments of men. That doctrine gives the Jews primacy in God's plan and relegates Christians to a prophetic parenthetical to be supplanted by the Jews during the thousand year earthly reign of Christ.

This is from a very shady looking website: http://www.israelect.com/reference/WillieM...tius_Loyola.htm

Any feedback on this subject would be much appreciated.

Kindest regards

M

Edward Hendrie (antichristconspiracy.com) seems to support that.

As far as I know Loyola was a gentile.

TruthSeeker24 - November 30, 2006 01:18 PM (GMT)

Regardless if Loyola was a Jew or not, he didn't represent the interest of Jewish people. Also, Loyola said that he wish he was Jewish to the Inquisition in questioning his activities. The Jesuits banned overt Jews from joining in the late 1500's after laynez was revealed as Jewish. The Jesuits were anti-Jewish by their acts and deeds. The anti-Semites need to come to that truth. The anti-Semites are hypocrites by saying that the Askhenazis (who were in Europe in the 300's A.D. before the Khazars went inside of Europe) aren't real Jews, but still the Askhenazis (which are called Jews by these anti-Semites. These bigots forgot that Hebrews lived non-stop in Israel for over 2,000 years even during the Crusads and the 1800's) rule the world. Recently, I heard some almost subliminal shots made by MAD. He's talking about Phelps o mania and all of that nonsense. I will respond to that soon. He assumes that any dissent with homosexuality is hating gays, which nothing can be further from the truth. Then he talks about Israel (which was created by Europe and America via Cardinal Spellman and high level Freemasonry. Israel is a puppet nation which relies on billions of bucks from us and Europe). MAD definitely is putting words in people's mouth by saying that 2tuff thinks that everyone but himself is a Jesuit Temporal Coadujtor. That's a lie since he never called all people a Coadujtor. MAD is slick with his lies. This liar MAD said that 2tuff believes that Protestantism is a solution when 2tuff reject religion. I myself reject Protestantism, but I respect Protestant's contributions in the world. I have a sharp mind, so I read between the lines of these liars like Daryl Bradford Smith and November. Then he talks about Eric, etc. I got something for MAD.....

By Timothy

Here's MAD's half truths and lies:

Yes, some interesting pieces, although done in a rather paranoid schizophrenic manner. My point is, it isn't necessary to incorporate Pike with the birth of Santa Clause because he is tubby and has a white beard. We already have copious amounts of evidence relating him with the white bearded icon of Saturn/Chronos going back thousands of years.

If Santa is Saturn (which he is) then there is ample basis to formulate his persona and guise going back to Greco-Roman times with Saturn and Chronos, two icons that already look virtually identical to the modern day Santa Clause without having to tie Albert Pike into the equation..

We know it's based on the ancient pagan Saturnalia, in his later years Pike looked like a bearded Santa, but that doesn't mean Santa Clause was based on his look, when we already have white bearded Saturn depictions that are thousands of years old. If anything, PIKE was trying to look like a statue of SATURN, or an elder Olympian god.

Likewise, as for Saturn being an 8 pointed star, yes, but Ishtar/Isis is also depicted as an 8 pointed star, which is the sign for Venus.

<http://www.godchecker.com/pantheon/mesopot...hp?deity=ISHTAR>

Tell me, are you going to fit the Anunnaki and Velikovsky into this scenario as well? The alien origins of Spain?

And long before Albert Pike was born, there were already the tales of St. Nikolaus, the white bearded icon related to the December holiday. We could also link ODIN or THOR into this equation, as both are similar looking to the icon of Santa Clause, and take on Saturn like qualities and origins...

<http://www.serve.com/shear/germusa/nikolaus.htm>

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Saint_Nicholas

And of course, we could take this all back to the point of that Szymanski article which was written almost two years ago, which he's posted as a NEW article (which was long before you started posting here constantly promoting the Jesuit angle), and the fact that you appear out of nowhere promoting the hell out of Phelps and Szymanski, despite your constant declarations that Rense is a disinfo site (which I agree with.) Or the fact that initially, THIS website was trying to do a "Icke VS Phelps" pay-per-view debate costing $20 dollars a view with you encouraging the whole money making spectacle..

Your motives just seem rather dubious, as do any of your very rare declarations of solving any of these problems. The only solutions you've ever offered are racial segregation and Protestantism. In fact, you've stated on numerous occasions your wish for death to all "ignorant" people, while constantly declaring that everyone but yourself is a Temporal Coadjutor/Disinfo Agent..

But, you've got no disagreements from me as the Bush family being CIA drug smuggling scum bags..

The rulers of this world have Way too much money. We all agree to that. The rulers of this world want to control your body and mind. We all agree to that. With that said and understood. They know who you are, and They have plenty people on the payroll messing with you because they can afford it. I am not being over-paranoid. Don't let people that work covertly or overtly for Them, stress you out. If they want to argue, don't give them the time of day--just point them to the facts, and let them decide. Besides, around here on this forum, you don't have to worry about defending nonsense, because toTuff will delete any worthless crap on here.

The Jesuits only allowed Jews within the Order since the 1940's after the BAN was removed which had been in place since the 16th Century. It would be nice if these Jew bashing diversionists actually learnt what the word JEW really means along with Israel.

A clue is EGYPT! Just take no notice of people like Michael Dyer who constantly agitate and like you say craftily lie. I will also inform you that Michael A Dyer is a spammer whos spammed this board in the past, most definately either Aug 28 or 29th this year for sure under the 'watchman' handle. Needless to say this logon was also banned. I suspect Michael also with all the other pharmaceutical spammings for a good reason.

Yes I would have deleted this topic to be honest but seeing as some people had spoke I thought I'd let it go. I did delete it when Archangel brought it up a couple of weeks ago.

Once again these people simple constantly create fiction and teach very little and certainly nothing SPECIFIC.

It is the same old story. This is a good reason to "double" big organizations like Roman Catholic Churches and create other parallel organizations.

If someone begins to doubt about you, you can always put the blame on your “negative” half which try to destroy the “positive” half.

Better. You could ask for help the people in the fight against the “bad” half. But they will fight only for the “bad” half because the “good” half is only a disguise of the first.

With that technique you get always the support of your victims for your plans.

As for Jews, we must ask ourselves: why the eretics, who believed in Jesus, were exterminated, and the Jews who “killed” the same Jesus are still alive? There shouldn't exist neither a single chromosome of a Jew on the earth!

Answer: just because with the blame on Jews to be the “killers” of Jesus, they are blackmailed since 2.000 years. If you exterminate them all, then you have nobody to blackmail and to blame! No more scapegoats!

I can imagine the theological justification that Sata(Vatica)nists could use. You can give every kind of power in the hands of Jews, just because all power, through the laws, “descends from god”. Is God that “give ‘em this power to see if they can save their souls serving the cause of Jesus - whom they killed - through that power”.... And you can really see what they do to save their souls!

Really speaking they do this FIRST to SAVE their LIFE. For example, killing people through financial crisis caused by “Jews” is a way to realize the “mysterious God's plan” in this world. But they have to do that because doing that they will save THEIR souls “from damnation” for having killed the Son of God. And saving their souls from damnation help them to save THEIR bodies from the stake...

Simple and satanic is the blackmail.

Who is the beneficiary of the politic of the “Jews” on power? Their Masters who are the Sole Agents of the killed Jesus: Vatican and Jesuits.

So the politcs of “Jews” is at exclusive interest for Catholic Rome and the Black gentile Nobility. The Masters often use the collateral effect of these politics to blame their men of straw, the “Jews on power”, really speaking traitors of their people. This helps to blackmail them better putting on their heads and on the heads of ALL Jews the dagger of the “popular judgement” (vox populi – vox dei...) meanwhile showing their Masters like victims of their (servants) “Jews on power”.

I am not Jew, but I understand very well Barry Camish when he says that Jews have a sad and painful history and only a few men are aware of that.

Avles.

MoroccoMole - December 7, 2006 10:19 PM (GMT)

Hi thanks for your insight Timothy i suppose you are right, i have personally always had an issue when people who obviously haven't looked into the facts of a situation from all angles pin point and label one group; The Jews.

This term the Jews is also a very cloudy one aswell, it appears to be little more than a diversionary tactic, let's face it, what does being a Jew actually entail, some like to believe a natural evil tendency to infiltrate and exploit the gentiles, in the case of Jews this is absolutely unfounded and based on one hundred years of anti Jewish propaganda, some like to quote the Talmud in order to "prove that Jews have an allegiance and obligation to exploit infiltrate steal etc etc, yes the talmud has some bad passages in it, (and that is an understatement) but to use this fact to paint the Jews as the boogeyman is really a very weak tactic, it appears to be adopted by people who have a personal emotional vendetta against the group, or by people who overtly want to divert people from the truth...

Since posting i have watched a very interesting tsarion interview in which he explains what Jewish actually means, it was on Google video about the cult of akhenaton, worth a watch!

So what if Loyola was a Jew, as has been said it is by a mans actions he will be judged, the actions collectively of this mystical order appear to convey a severe distaste for the Jewish people, i.e WW2, Holo-Caust etc, the more worrying thing in my opinion is that this mostly unsubstantiated theory of the Covetous, sneaky, infiltrating and exploiting Jew is more like the jesuits as outlined in the "Secret Instructions of the JEsuits", it appears to me as though the term Jew is used by people who have an investment in not fingering the "True Spiritual Controllers" of the NWO, this term Jew has been used by the writers of history to provide a smokescreen, the history of Israel and Egypt has been squandered and hourded by the Vatican and fabricated most probably by the same organisations in order to paint certain peoples as evil <edit>: all the while the true decietful ones are carrying on reasonably unchallenged.

A most sneaky and underhanded tactic, this is why i find the Jesuit stuff so good it gos beyond and into a differant realm than this Neo Con, Bilderberger stuff, if we look at american historical law we can see the fingerprints of canon law and German/european Royalty (Windsors), the very place where Jesuit indoctrination was first introduced in accordance with the council of trent with the building of the Germanicum and various other seminaries, the Jesuits using the White Pope Gregory XIII establishing universities throughout europe and sending the qualified missionaries into europe to regain the sway of the Catholic Church from Orthodox Christianity and to regain authority of the Pope to pave the way for the Doctrines of Infallibility...

Sorry if i raised a touchy subject i just felt this the best place for the subject to avoid a slanging match or spamming session and get some serious response, i have since come to an understanding of the question...

Peace from Morocco the hashish is good here :)

similar looking trident to the one we see little red devils walking around with on halloween...

Illuminati Shuts Down Insider's Web Site To Protect New World Order Secrets

High Level Illuminati whistleblower reopens web site in Italy. Leo Zagami says his free speech rights were violated and he is already being harassed in Italy only one day after opening his controversial insider web site exposing Vatican and Masonic corruption leading all the way to the White House.

By Greg Szymanski

The fascist Vatican, European Union and U.S. government powers are clamping down on free speech as former Illuminati insider Leo Zagami's web site has been shut down after only two months of trying to tell the inside story of how the New World Order really operates.

Zagami was notified Monday by Anthony Casalena of Squarespace, Inc., the company hosting Illuminati Confessions, several complaints had recently been filed due to sensitive content and personal information accusing people of being Satanists.

The site was subsequently shutdown, but friends of Zagami saved much of the content, transferring it immediately to an Italian web host. Zagami returned online Tuesday afternoon at www.illuminaticonfessions.webfriend.it

Here is the email by Casalena that caused Zagami's site to be shut down. Zagami claims high level Illuminati pressure from Norway and other parts of Europe and America who want their evil secrets kept secret caused a clamp down on his free speech rights. Further, Zagami's site was becoming extremely popular in America, as a refreshing outlet to people starved for the truth by the corrupt U.S. controlled media.

Here is the email from his former web host:

Hi there,

We've received a number of complaints related to the content on your Squarespace account -- which appears to contain a large amount of controversial content.

While we don't restrict the content of sites based on our member's opinions, we do prohibit the publishing of other individual's personal information without their consent -- especially in relation to statements which may harm an individual.

For example, in: <http://www.illuminaticonfessions.squarespa.../12/1/the-etern> al-lie-and-the-so-called-oslo-eternal-peace-flame.html You state: "THE PHONE NUMBER OF JOHN FAERSETH IS +47 98808387"

And it appears you're referring to this individual as a "satanist", etc.

Could you please remove his phone number immediately -- and additionally -- we'll further request the removal of content that personally attacks various individuals. While we're not taking any sides here, this sort of content isn't the sort of thing we allow.

Please elaborate on this matter when you can. Thanks.

Before moving to a new Italian web host, Zagami responded:

Please re-open again my site as you are violating the contract you have with me and you are supporting openly satanism and the NEW WORLD ORDER BY DOING THIS. It's not a good idea, I can take away the number DEAR ANTONY of the Secretary of the ORDO TEMPLI ORIENTIS, John Faerseth, but you can't destroy 2 months of my work!

THERE are 200 CHAPTERS OF MY FUTURE BOOK ON YOUR SITE, I am going public to the press about it and will ruin the image of SQUARE SPACE AROUND THE WORLD. If you act of behalf of NWO criminals who want my site to be conveniently eliminated. Go and Google on my name (LEO ZAGAMI) and you will see this is not a game and not a joke if you will act this way.

The guy you are protecting (John Faerseth) had started posting the phone numbers and address of me and my family members on the comments of my site so I reacted by EXPOSING THEIR OWN NUMBERS to get them to leave me and my family alone, but we can go in front of a court of law dear Anthony no problem and I will show you I'm not taking this injustice lightly. Tomorrow on US Radio and the MEDIA I will announce publicly what you did if don't immediately put back on the web site IMMEDIATELY.

IT'S 2 MONTHS OF WORK ON IT BY AN HONEST PERSON WHO IS FIGHTING AGAINST CORRUPTION AND DISONESTY IN HIGH PLACES DONT EVER FORGET THAT ,I HAVE ALOT OF ENEMIES. YOU MIGHT NOT HAVE KNOWN WHAT THEY DID TO ME IN THE PREVIOUS DAYS AND MY REACTION MIGHT HAVE NOT THE RIGHT ONE BUT PLEASE DONT ACT THIS WAY IS A BIG DISAPOINTMENT AND YOU ALSO OWN ME THE MONEY I HAVE GIVEN YOU.

Regards Leo Lyon Zagami

From Norway today, Zagami added that he is also "getting heat" from the powers that be in Italy, saying "They are already trying to censor me in Italy and we seem to be the most dangerous web site on the planet. This is serious stuff, but my friends in Italy are going to resist in the name of anti-fascism."

Zagami's friends put this note about his background for people unfamiliar with his story:

Background: Leo Lyon Zagami was, until recently, a high level member of the Italian Illuminati, a 33rd degree freemason, a true insider and a high-member of the infamous Freemasonic P2 Lodge. He was the "prince", prepared to take over after the older Illuminati "king", Licio Gelli. He is of Illuminati aristocrat bloodline and therefore involved in the Illuminati Order since childhood.

However, Leo decided he'd had enough of all the evil he was exposed to, and a part of, and the horrifying Satanic, black magic rituals, mind control and torture that was going on inside the lodges, behind closed doors. So he left everything and fled to Norway, where he is currently residing. Since he left, he's been harassed and tortured and had his life threatened.

He realized that the only way to hopefully stay alive is to expose to the world what he knows and make himself known. History shows that this is one of the best ways to survive, although nothing is for certain. Leo quickly started this website, Illuminati Confessions, where he reveals the secrets to the world, one by one. I strongly advise you to check it out and download it to your computer, in case they decide to silence him for good, and this website will be shut down. There is a lot of extremely important information here, and much of it can't be found anywhere else. Leo has also been a guest several times at Greg Szymanski's radio show.

Too Good To Be True: Is Daddy Bush's Illegal Financial NWO Empire Collapsing?

Yes, according to Michael C. Cottrell and the Wanta group trying to recover $4.5 trillion of off shore money for the American people. Further, photos uncovered by former NYPD detective showing Bush Sr. allegedly involved in huge White House pedophile ring.

6 Dec 2006

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/6-Dec-2006a.html>

It's been a bad couple of days for George H. Daddy Bush as, according to inside sources, his Illuminati financial empire is collapsing before his evil eyes while, at the same time, a photo recently surfaced showing him pictured with Johnny Gosch, a 1982 child kidnapping victim involved in the much talked about White House pedophile ring.

For those Americans who read the 'real news' and not the New York Times, Daddy Bush has for a long time been considered as the New World Order kingpin in America and the key point man for the Vatican-led Illuminati efforts to destroy America from within.

Although Bush has been the center of controversy in most every major American scandal since the JFK assassination, he has escaped prosecution or even harsh criticism in the mainstream press since he has been well protected by a virtual wall of criminals in the same manner the Teflon Don or mafia boss, John Gotti, insulated himself from prosecution through bribery and murder.

But since all empires fall as did Gotti's, Bush's Satanist stranglehold on America may be in jeopardy if what two insiders say is finally acted upon by an American public fed-up with fascism brought on deceptively by the Bush family ever since the National Archives and the U.S. Congressional Record documented former Sen. Prescott Bush, as being a Nazi traitor while financing Hitler.

Although it is hard to imagine Daddy Bush as broke and penniless after stealing trillions of dollars of off shore money as documented in the Leo Wanta story, Wanta's financial agent said his sources said Bush Sr. was actually reduced to tears Tuesday when he learned much of his stolen financial empire, held in Vatican Bank accounts, has been lost through complicated financial transactions related to the unpaid $4.5 trillion owed Ambassador Wanta as well as the American people.

Cottrell would not elaborate on how Bush lost trillions of illegal dollars he has amassed since the end of the Cold War, but said he was told by credible sources he "cried like a baby" when he learned much of his stolen empire had been wiped-out.

"I can't get into specifics but let me tell you this," said Cottrell from his East Coast home Tuesday late Tuesday evening. "We are going to get the $4.5 trillion but this country is headed for the worst financial nightmare since the depression due to the amount of thievery by Bush and the last three presidential administrations."

Cottrell ended speculation that the Vatican was involved in the Wanta settlement as he mentioned Bush recently communicated with Vatican officials as a last ditch effort to save his empire. With Cottrell's comments, speculation has been reduced to more hard evidence that the Vatican, with its major real estate holdings worldwide, is deeply involved in the efforts to destroy freedom and financial prosperity in America along with New World Order minions like Bush.

"Bush has a lot of his money tied up with the Vatican," added Cottrell. "I was also recently contacted by Vatican officials, telling us that the Wanta money would be released in a matter of days."

Although verbal assurances have been made to release the $4.5 trillion to Wanta which would jump start the American economy, nothing has come to fruition since the promises were made in mid November.

"The next two days are critical," added Cottrell, "and once something happens, I will come on your radio show (The Investigative Journal) to explain what is happening behind the scenes. I will say this Bush's financial empire is crumbling."

If what Cottrell says is true about Bush, Americans still need a full accounting of all the perpetrators, including those in the Vatican hiding behind the robes of Jesus, involved in the biggest bank heist in financial history, amounting to more than $100 trillion dollars of off shore more illegally used for covert purposes to essentially destroy America since the end of the contrived and phony Cold War.

One Arctic Beacon reader who is following the Wanta story, said: "It sounds too good to be true but we will have to wait and see because I know for a fact the Vatican or those in power in Washington want nothing good to happen to America or its people."

Besides Daddy Bush's supposed financial headaches, Jim Rothstein, a former New York Police Detective who investigated the huge pedophile scandal in the late 70's and 80's which continues today, reported on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, than a photo was uncovered, showing Bush with Johnny Gosch, kidnapped in 1982.

"We haven't gone public with the photo but it was sent to Noreen Gosch, Johnny's mother, who has been trying to find her son since 1982," said Rothstein Tuesday when he appeared as a guest on The Investigative Journal. "I have been helping her try to uncover the huge pedophile ring which took her son for the last two years and the recent photos that surfaced showing Johnny and other kids bound a gagged was a big break-thru.

"The one picture definite shows Bush Sr. and I know they will try to hit us hard and discredit us once we go public with it. The source is credible and connate be revealed for obvious reasons, but the Noreen is being discredited by the media while the FBI is in charge of protecting the high level officials involved instead of trying to help Noreen find out what happened to her son, Johnny, who was caught up in the biggest pedophile ring in our country involving our top leaders.

"I have never stopped trying to get at the truth even after I was forced out of the NYPD since my investigations uncovered the Vatican and Cardinal Spellman were involved with high level politicians. Spellman was in fact the most evil and biggest criminal degenerate of them all, according to many of my credible informants. He was well protected and one of the most powerful men in America, controlling our own government.

Title: Pope distressed over 'unlawful' Chinese ordination

Description: without papal approval

VATICAN CITY, Dec 2 (AFP) Dec 02, 2006

Pope Benedict XVI learned with "deep distress" of the "unlawful" ordination of a Chinese bishop without papal approval, the Vatican said in a statement on Saturday.

China's state-run Catholic Church on Thursday ordained Wang Renlei, 36, as Bishop of Xuzhou in the eastern province of Jiangsu. He became the fourth bishop ordained in China this year without the blessing of the Vatican.

The ordination "is the last of these unlawful ordinations of bishops which have been tormenting the Catholic Church in China for dozens of years", the Vatican's statement said.

"(They) create divisions within the diocesan community and trouble the religious sentiments of many priests and worshippers."

These "extremely serious" acts are the consequence "of a vision of the Church which does not correspond to the Catholic doctrine and which is opposed to the fundamental principles of its hierarchical structure", the statement continued.

The ordination was announced at the start of the week by China's Catholic Church.

The Vatican warned of severe sanctions in canonical law for such ordinations but did not say whether Xuzhou's case fell into this category.

It praised the majority of Chinese priests and believers for maintaining strong faith links with Rome.

China's millions of Catholics are divided between a "patriotic" church, with around four million faithful, and a clandestine church following the Vatican, with around 10 million believers.

The ordination of three Chinese bishops without Vatican approval in the spring led the pope to denounce a "serious violation of religious freedom". This was despite discussions between Beijing and the Vatican aimed at normalising bilateral relations, which were broken off in the early 1950s.

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 2, 2006 09:31 PM (GMT)

I do not agree with the RCC but It is bad if China is doing what it wishes and still claiming to be Catholic. Rules are there for a reason and should be adhered too. Yes we know that the Jesuit Order has gradually destroyed Catholicism but they are Gentile and the Vatican hieracy.

Anyhow Ratzinger and Peter Hans Kolvenbach do not care for these people as they see them as yet more fodder regardless of being so-called Catholic. They are not Roman Catholics just the same as United States Citizens who're Catholic are not Roman Catholic, their liberal and will also be destroyed. If you won't lay down your life for your Pope or give up you guns or you utilise Condoms your history also. BE WARNED!

Kissinger to Serve As Papal Adviser?

Pope Benedict XVI has invited Henry Kissinger, former adviser to Richard Nixon, to be a political consultant and he accepted.

National Catholic Register

<http://ncregister.com/site/article/1370/>

VATICAN CITY — Over the course of his long and controversial career, former U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has had many titles. Now he reportedly has one more — adviser to the Pope.

According to the Italian newspaper La Stampa, Pope Benedict XVI has invited the 83-year-old former adviser to Richard Nixon to be a political consultant, and Kissinger has accepted.

Quoting an “authoritative” diplomatic source at the Holy See, the paper reported Nov. 4 that the Nobel laureate was asked at a recent private audience with the Holy Father to form part of a papal “advisory board” on foreign and political affairs.

As the Register went to press, Kissinger’s office was unable to confirm or deny the report. La Stampa stood by its story, although the Italian press is less rigorous in its authentication of stories as is the United States Press.

If true, there is speculation on which issues Kissinger would advise the Holy Father. Relations with Islam, Palestine and Israel, and Iraq — Kissinger has been critical of the conduct of the war but opposes a quick withdrawal — are likely to be high up on the agenda.

It has also been speculated that, in view of the Muslim hostility to Benedict's recent Regensburg speech, Kissinger might provide advice on dealing with an increasingly fractious Islamic world.

Furthermore, like the Pope, Kissinger has analyzed the challenges of globalization and might provide advice in this area as well.

"The idea [of his appointment] sounds like a good one," said veteran Vatican journalist Sandro Magister. "But so would it also be to consult other experts on geopolitics with different orientations."

As possible expert advisers with different perspectives, Magister listed Catholic philosopher and former diplomat Michael Novak; Bernard Lewis, professor of Near Eastern Studies at Princeton University; and foreign policy experts such as Charles Kupchan and G. John Ikenberry.

Expert Advice

The recruitment of Kissinger would not be unprecedented. Experts from a variety of disciplines, including the realm of economics, politics and philosophy, are regularly invited to advise popes and Vatican officials on current affairs.

Pope John Paul II was close friends with Zbigniew Brzezinski, the Polish-born national security adviser to President Jimmy Carter, partly because both had a common Polish heritage (though this caused the Soviets to suspect the Vatican of "fixing" the election of Karol Wojtyla, which occurred during the Carter presidency).

Similarly to John Paul and Brzezinski, Benedict and Kissinger are close in age and were both born in Bavaria (a Jew, Kissinger and his family fled Nazi Germany before World War II).

In recent years, other figures invited to share their expertise with the Holy See have included Paul Wolfowitz, a former President Bush adviser and now president of the World Bank; Michel Camdessus, the former director of the International Monetary Fund; American economist Jeffrey Sachs and Hans Tietmeyer, former governor of Germany's central bank.

The pontifical academies also regularly call on academic luminaries as consultants, such as Nobel laureates Gary Becker, the successor to Milton Friedman at the Chicago

School of Economics, and Italian medical researcher Rita Levi-Montalcini.

In comments to the Register, Novak said that “many, maybe most” of these experts are not Catholic, but that the Pope “can call in certain experts he wants to talk to, or hear a paper from, with discussion in a small group.”

Novak said this is true of both Benedict XVI and John Paul II, whom he described as having “very curious and searching minds.”

Any appointment of Kissinger is likely to cause some unease, however. One Iranian radio station is already reporting the news as a “papal-Jewish conspiracy,” while others object to the Pope consulting with someone who has been widely identified with the realpolitik school of political analysis, an approach that places practical considerations before morality.

‘Different Voices’

Yet like Pope John Paul II, Benedict XVI is winning recognition for his intellectual ability and his capacity to discuss international issues with a diverse spectrum of world figures, ranging from the Dalai Lama to the late atheist polemicist Oriana Fallaci and to Mustapha Cherif, an Algerian Muslim philosopher whom he met this month.

“Such an appointment would really show Benedict XVI to be contrary to his media image, as someone who’s willing to listen to other voices not in accordance with his views,” said one Holy See diplomat about the reported enlistment of Kissinger as a papal adviser. “It’s always helpful to hear different voices offering different views.”

Kissinger Becomes Official Papal Advisor For Pope Benedict XVI

If anyone thinks U.S. government not in the pocket of Vatican, why is Kissinger an official political consultant to the Pope? Read story that recently appeared in the National Catholic Register and Italian newspapers but virtually overlooked here.

If anyone thinks there isn't a strong connection between the U.S. government and the Vatican, think again.

And if the two entities aren't working together hand-in-glove, mixing Church and State, then why was former Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, recently appointed an official Vatican political consultant and advisor to Pope Benedict XVI?

Although this appointment was ignored by the mainstream media, it didn't pass the watchful eye of Arctic Beacon reader, David Thomas, who thought the appointment strange and rather suspicious.

Thomas, who adds his name to the list of the growing number of Americans realizing the Vatican and its Jesuit Order henchmen are the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order and behind the strategic attempt to destroy America, forwarded this article appearing in the Nov. 26-Dec. 2, 2006 edition of the National Catholic Register, announcing the Kissinger appointment.

Everyone should read this propaganda piece coming out of Rome and question further the Vatican influence on American foreign and domestic policy.

LA diocese settles abuse claims

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/americas/6200882.stm>

The largest Roman Catholic diocese in the US has agreed to pay $60m (£30m) to settle dozens of lawsuits alleging sexual abuse by priests.

The settlement by the Archdiocese of Los Angeles relates to 45 cases among more than 500 that are pending.

It is one of the largest settlements since the Catholic Church sexual abuse scandal erupted in the US in 2002.

Archdiocese head Cardinal Roger Mahony said he hoped the money would help the victims move forward with their lives.

"Today's settlement of 45 cases is a positive step forward in the church's efforts to promote healing and reconciliation for those who have suffered abuse by members of the clergy," said Cardinal Mahony.

A total of 22 priests were involved in the settlement, the Associated Press news agency reported. Some of the lawsuits against the archdiocese date back to the 1930s.

The archdiocese said its finances would not be disrupted, as it had already budgeted for the settlement, but other dioceses have declared bankruptcy following a flood of abuse claims.

Since 2002 nearly 1,000 people have filed such claims against the Roman Catholic church in California alone.

In February 2004, a report commissioned by the Church said more than 4,000 Roman Catholic priests in the US had faced sexual abuse allegations in the last 50 years.

Now, Alex is about us live (on 1:24 pm EST Thursday). Alex Jones said since we expose the Vatican, we want to demonize all Catholics (which is false. Many Catholics are some of the harshest critics of the Vatican and the Jesuits). He also says that we refuse to talk about the American Union, etc. He's talking about a Jesuit Temporal Coadujtor. He's mocking us and denies that he's a Jesuit Temporal Coadujtor live on the air. It's great, because we got under this guy's skin.

We're nuts now. :D He talked about us as nuts. Well, Alex but we are talking about the Fed, economies, and the Jesuits (which you refuse to talk about). I award Alex Jones the "Ecumencial" award. He's also cries about those accusing him of being a Reptilian (I think he's talking about the David Icke Forum). Alex calls the following information disinformation, but him omitting certain real information is real disinformation. I salute moosedog calling Jones months ago about these issues. No one denies that evil existed throughout history as Jones cries about, yet we do expose all facets of the conspiracy for global government. Alex Jones seems to not understand prophecy. Jesus perfectly said that the fig tree will blossom before he comes back. Jesus said that the Jewish will be driven out, but it wasn't permanent. Paul also said that God hasn't forsaken Israel. Also, the OT mentioned that Zion will come before the Messiah comes back. Also, Palestine is a made up word by Roman Empire Hadrian in 135 A.D. Both Jews and Arabs should live in Israel if they want to, but Jewish people shouldn't be excluded from that land (who lived in the land in the Roman, Byzantium time, the Crusaders, early Islamic Empire, the time of the Ottoman Empire, and the time of British colonialization). I can debate Alex Jones and I'll kill him a real debate. Alex Jones, this stuff doesn't work anymore.

Dear Eliezer,

Thanks for the kind note.

As you know I must reject the Talmud as being the mere uninspired writings of men. Added to the fact that that massive commentary calls Jesus Christ a "bastard" and his mother a "whore" does not promote mutual courtesy between Jews and Gentiles who truly believe the New Testament. A rabbi whom I recently met did confirm that there was a passage in the Talmud that said Jesus Christ was in hell suffering in human manure.

These kinds of comments have nothing to do with the FOUNDATION OF ALL TRUTH, the TORAH. Further, I would venture to say that 99% of all Jews know nothing of these passages in the Talmud and would be shocked to find them.

Historically, the Romanists (alias Christians) have made much ado about the Talmud in promoting anti-Jewish fury. Apostate Protestant nations, like Gernamy in the past and America in the present (Texe Marrs, etc.) have done the same. But true Bible believing White Protestant nations have defended the Jews' right to live unmolested by Jesuit-controlled governments, and have essentially avoided being confrontational over the Talmud, fearing that that confrontation will turn into a violation of Genesis 12:1-3. I was never taught one word of the Talmud while in Bible College: the same was true for my friends in Baptist Seminary.

We Bible believers, who are Jews of the heart (Romans 2:29) regard the Jewish people as spiritual "enemies," - even as all unsaved Gentiles of every religion (including my own father and mother) are enemies of Christ - but as touching their election, they are "beloved" for the fathers' sakes" unlike any other race. (Romans 11:28)

And the greatest preachers of the New Testament Jesus Christ have been saved Jews who never denied their historic Jewishness, even exemplified in the life of the apostle Paul. Dr. Ben David Lew, one of my teachers years ago, was a Hassidic Jew who jumped train on his way to Auschwitz, immigrated to the US and was converted to the true Christ of the New Testament. From Oak Park, Michigan he had a tremendous ministry to the Jews of that area and send his many tapes to soldiers overseas - one of them being me.

So yes, I am a true Jew inwardly; I have been grafted in to the natural olive tree, the root being Abraham. For that to happen some of the natural branches had to be broken off, for which I am humbly thankful. Had not the Jews been set aside for a time, this hell-deserving Gentile would have remained an alien of the commonwealth of Israel. This is why no Bible believer would attack Jews calling them "Christ-killers." Only Romanists do this.

This is why I defend the Jewish race and their history. This is why I would never persecute them nor compel them to conversion - more Romish policy. And thanks to the election of the one true God, I have a circumcised heart along with those racial Jews who are part of the present "remnant according to the election of grace."

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric Phelps

Discussion About Arab Disenfranchisement
Difference Between the Talmud and the Torah

Discussion by Eric Phelps - Eliezer - Article by Prof. Paul Eidelberg

From: Eliezer
To: Eric Jon Phelps
Sent: Thursday, November 06, 2003 11:00 AM
Subject: Arab Disenfranchisement By Prof. Paul Eidelberg

Dear Eric,

I thought you might find this article by Prof Eidelberg of Interest. He is a voice for an authentic and accurate perspective on the Jewish mission to mankind i.e., to be a kingdom of Priests, although I prefer the term Doctors of the Soul or metaphysicians. He also states who, specifically, can become a Jew and why.

In essence, there is no such thing as a so-called, "Talmudic Jew," which is a term invented by anti-semites, probably some of them Jewish - from within the Reform movement for instance, whose clergy deny the Divinity of the Torah as the revealed word of God. Prior to the codification of the Talmud, or oral law, it was transmitted "orally" from each generation of elders to the next, much like any oral tradition is. Because of a serious decline in Jewish scholarship, largely due to assimilation and persecution of the Jewish people, the oral law was preserved by our sages in the form of both the Jerusalem and Babylonian Talmuds. Indeed, Babylon, although the scene of tremendous spiritual upheaval, was once also a place of tremendous Jewish learning and community. The so-called "Talmudic Jew," is a demonized caricature conjured surreptitiously in the minds of Jew haters both Jew and non-Jew alike.

A "Talmud hacham," is a Jew learned in the oral tradition, which is both an intrinsic part, and extension of the basic Torah or Mosaic code received by Moses at Mt. Sinai 3,400 years ago. The true basis of the Jewish mission, is moral and ethical, not racial. To be sure, race has little place as a determinate physical attribute in God's house - even caucasians are allowed.

Arab Disenfranchisement
By Prof. Paul Eidelberg

Arab disenfranchisement, if undertaken by a secular democratic government in Israel, would indeed be a form of racism. If Israel, however, had a Torah-oriented government, the disenfranchisement of Arabs or of non-Jews would not be racist!

This is extremely difficult for secular or non-observant Jews to understand if only because cultural egalitarianism dominates their mentality. Let me explain.

There are two basic reasons why disenfranchising Israel's Arab citizens would not be racist if undertaken by a Torah-oriented government. The first reason is this: Any non-Jew can convert to Judaism regardless of his race, provided his conversion conforms to the moral and intellectual standards prescribed by Jewish law.

The second reason is more profound, and has to do with the world-historical function of the Jewish people prescribed in the Bible of Israel. Here I shall quote various passages from Joshua Berman's excellent book, The Temple.

"The laws concerning life in the land of Israel," says Berman, "are designed to create an environment in which the children of Israel can encounter G-d." By comparative analysis of key terms, Berman shows that Eretz Yisrael is the counterpart of the Garden of Eden. The Temple represents "the spiritual center of the country. Here, at the site where G-d's presence is most immanent, the representatives of the Jewish people execute commandments and rites that symbolize the service of the nation as a whole." (Just as Adam was expelled from the Garden of Eden for failing to obey G-d's commandments, so the Jewish people were expelled from the land of Israel for the same failing.)

Notice, however, that the Garden of Eden "heralds the capacity of all men to enter into communion with the Almighty, for all men are descendants of Adam." (This is why any non-Jew can convert to Judaism.) Hence any non-Jew, so long as he adheres to the Seven Noahide Laws of Universal Morality, can bring certain sacrifices to the Temple. But this is only a minute part of the picture.

Why is it that more than four centuries elapsed between the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt and the construction of the Temple? Here is Berman's answer.. G-d refers to the Temple as "the place I shall select to establish My Name." The construction of the Temple therefore represents "a public declaration of G-d's sovereignty [in the world]. The ambition of declaring G-d's sovereignty in the world, which was initiated by Abraham, is the calling of the Jewish people."

Berman continues: "G-d's acclaim in the world is a direct function of how Israel is perceived [by the nations]." Israel must become a great country. "A great country should possess political stability at home and should be at peace with its neighbors. It should possess a strong economy and should be home to a culture that boasts strong [moral and intellectual] virtues." Israel did not become such a nation until the reign of King David, and it was left to his son Solomon to build the (first) Temple. All nations then flocked to Jerusalem, which was recognized not only as the City of Peace but the City of Truth.

“The function of the Temple as a symbol for G-d’s acclaim in the world reaches its apex with the visit of the queen of Sheba to Solomon’s court” -- Solomon, the wisest of kings. Ponder, therefore, Isaiah 2:1-3: “And many nations will go and cry, ‘Let us go up the to mountain of G-d’s house, to the house of the L-rd of Jacob, and we will learn from His ways and walk in His paths, for out of Zion goes forth the Torah and the word of G-d from Jerusalem.’”

Here we see not only the profoundest and noblest meaning of a Jewish state. Here we also see why disenfranchising non-Jews in the State of Israel is absolutely essential to the world-historical mission of the Jewish People. That mission is to acclaim G-d’s sovereignty in the world -- specifically, by revealing His infinite wisdom, power, and graciousness in every domain of existence. Only as a Torah nation can Israel acclaim G-d’s sovereignty. Only as a Torah nation can Israel be a light unto the nations. Only then will war and racism cease to afflict mankind.

Nothing can be further from the truth than to identify Judaism -- Torah Judaism -- with any form of racism. G-d creates nations as well as individuals. Each nation has a particular function in world-history. Israel’s function is defined above. Israel cannot possibly fulfill that function as a secular or as a bi-national state. Israel cannot fulfill its G-d given mission unless it is an authentic Jewish state. Israel cannot be an authentic Jewish State so long as Arab residents of Israel shape its laws and policies. Nor is this all.

Israel is reputed to be a democracy. However, the democratic principle of one adult/one vote will eventually transform Israel into an Arab-Islamic dictatorship. This eventuality provides the only justification by which a secular Israeli government may disenfranchise Arabs. But this democratic justification, sound so far as it goes, obscures the fact that Israel cannot fulfill its world-historical mission as a democracy. Israel is supposed to be a “kingdom of priests,” i.e. a nation of noblemen, which means a universal aristocracy.. Not popular sovereignty, but popular sovereignty under G-d is the key to Israel’s and mankind’s salvation.

Are Threats And Controversy Surrounding Pope Benedict Another Illuminati Show To Incite More Hatred And War

Former Assassin of Pope John Paul II now claims from his Turkish cell he is the real Messiah or the Jesus of the end times.

29 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/29-Nov-2006.html>

The mainstream press and television outlets have been running stories, claiming Pope Benedict's life may be in grave danger. These media trumpeted threats come on the heels of his recent outbursts critical of Muslims made in Germany.

After the inflammatory comments, Benedict XVI back peddled on his statements, saying they were taken out of context or misunderstood.

However, a Vatican insider and former Illuminati member of the powerful Monte Carlo P2 Masonic Lodge claims the statements were made on purpose to further fuel the evil engine of war as well as being choreographed by none other than the Black Pope, Jesuit General Fr. Peter Hans Kolvenbach, the real force behind the Vatican-led Illuminati New World Order.

As controversy and possible violence now surrounds the Pope, an evil voice out of the past sounded loud and strong this week as the Turkish assassin who shot and wounded Pope John Paul II in 1981 declared from his prison cell that he is the new Messiah or the Jesus of the end times.

At the time of the shooting of John Paul II, the act was quickly blamed on the KGB, pitting immediate hatred between the East and West during the time of the Cold War.

Although this was the mainstream world conception, critics and insiders claim the shooting was an "inside job" devised to ignite hatred instead of bringing the world closer together in peace.

And as the controversy swirls around Benedict, the same critics are saying the threats presented in the media are a precursor for another "inside job" on the Pope, this time pinning the threats of violence or future violence on fundamental Muslim extremists in an effort to further the flames of war in Iraq and Iran and gaining dwindling support for the Middle East war among Americans.

In an effort to get the "other side of story," former higher-up Illuminati member and Italian aristocrat, Leo Zagami, who recently visited Turkey, had this to say about the shooting of Pope John Paul II as it relates to the latest controversy surrounding Benedict XVI.

"In the last few hours Mehmet Ali Agca (born January 9, 1958) the Turkish assassin who shot and wounded Pope John Paul II on May 13, 1981 as declared from prison that he is the new Messiah, yes the new Jesus of the end of times.

"This news arrives to us as no surprise in this never ending Illuminati theatre.

"Let's make it clear to everyone that Mehmet Ali Agca went to visit the Scontrino Lodge in Sicily and Prince "Alliata di Monreale (my illustrious Mentor) the Puppet Master of LA ROSA DEI VENTI AND GLADIO before going to Rome to execute is GLADIO PLANED MISSION : KILLING JOHN PAUL II

"The Pope was just a Illuminati puppet of this evil show that still goes on twenty years later...

WAKE UP TURKEY SATAN IS VISITING YOUR HOLY LAND!

"Mehmet Ali Agca as also said yesterday to the Turkish Press that the Vatican is about to fall in the Abyss of chaos and destruction, and soon we will all face Armagedon , so these are indeed the end of times also for our dear PSYOP puppet A? ca!

"Khaled Saifullah Khan will pray for these infidels, including our new MK-ULTRA brainwashed Jesus Mehmet Ali Agca and that corrupt muslim called Erdogan who recently invited P2 illuminati Brother Silvio Berlusconi for his daughters wedding. And the finance minister of Turkey as already joined the Bilderberg Mafia two years ago.

"The Vatican Illuminati and their Zionist brothers have already made their plans to use and abuse Turkey in the next few years as a Trojan horse for the rest of the muslim world, and at the end of the day the city of Troy his in Turkey...what a coincidence.

"And on top of all this Buyukanit as been nominated as new General in charge of the defense headquarters. The problem is that General Buyukanit is a Jewish Zionist and a Freemason close to the Vatican Neo Illuminati and his Masters from Jerusalem.

"So why are Turkish citizens falling into this New World Order trap and Erdogan submits willingly to Vatican Luciferian powers by meeting the Nazi Pope Ratzinger?

"Well, Turkey is desperate to join the European Union and enjoy the wealth and decadence of the western Satanic powers under firm Vatican Jesuit Zionist control, and it seems to me that Turks are falling into this trap willingly , because of the level of satanic infiltration in their society and in the religious institution of their country, something that only one man in Turkey could eventually stop and that man is Fethullah Gulen, a true master of his country who as to stand up now against Satan before his country is completely under Vatican/Zionist control.

"Last but not least the so called communist of the PKK (a bunch of dangerous CIA/ MOSSAD puppets) have been used to scare away until recently the foreign investors interested in Turkey. This evil plan is put in action so the illuminati sharks with the help of their Rotarian Masonic Network can buy everything cheap before joining officially the EU and making the prices go up like crazy and make loads of money.

"These meetings to decide the future of Turkey and the rest of the Muslim world have already been made, and the most important ones have been the gathering of all the masonic Lodges connected to the CLIPSAS network on the 30th of October 2005 , the Rotary 100 years anniversary gathering with Comandante Giorgio Hugo Balestrieri in Ankara in April 2005 and last but not least the usual Bildeberg meeting of a couple of years ago.

"To finalize the corruption of Erdogan, the Vatican Satan and the Italian illuminati slave State, had already sent 3 years ago their most loyal Opus Dei servant Fini from Alleanza Nazionale to Ankara with a message and a warning from illuminati Puppet and Puppet Master Silvio Berlusconi.

"At that point they started brainwashing Erdogan with the following: you have to distance yourself from all religious leaders including Fethullah Gulen otherwise you cant join Europe that's our main request coming from Vatican HQ's. And after they started to insist on this point more and more, until they initiated Erdogan in the illuminati Lodges and they said to him, NOW YOU ARE ONE OF US AND WE ARE THE ONES RULING THE WORLD so the only chance to be a part of Europe is to become a part of us the great Satan.

"But our dear Brother Erdogan Prime Minister of Turkey is a simple village peasant and went on falling more and more into the hands of Satan like most people with his background who are given important positions by the Puppet Masters of Nato, they finally had another puppet for their evil games, another Neo illuminati under Vatican/Zionist control.

"Well now you know the truth Turkey, its your turn to act against those people who are bringing pornography, drugs and weapons into your country to slowly make out of a great city like Istanbul another Babylon . Please don't fall for it my dear Muslim Brothers and rebel before is to late and you are also trapped like the United States citizens in the Matrix of Satan.

"Last but not least Mehmet Ali Agca said that he was the guy who inspired Dan Brown for the Da Vinci Code and that he has written a 100 pages book called THE VATICAN CODE.

"Well what next?"

interesting logo, i found.. why is it always Dragons as soon as it comes to Bloodlines..? probably nothing to do with shapeshifting lizards but there surely is something to the dragon Blood, and its not just to make them feel special ;)

interestingly the Jesuits seem to manage that little Mondragon Project..

kinda like the Stasi of the bigger bloodlines to hold the smaller ones in check..

anyway, Mondragon is a business group made of 264 companies and entities organised in three sectorial groups: Financial, Industrial and Distribution, together with the Research and Training areas.

Mondragon

One interpretation of the history of this name is that it comes from the village of Mondragon in the district of Vergara. The meaning of Mondragon is High Pasture or A Pasture in the Mountains. It comes from the root Ondra (pasture) and Goen (elevated/elevation) so it is likely that the original house was near a mountainous pasture or field.

Another interpretation is that the Spanish surname Mondragon is of toponymic origin. It derives from the town of Mondragon, which is located in the Basque province of Guipuzcoa. According to legend, Mondragon takes its name from a roaming "dragon", which was killing the village people. Thus, the place-name Mondragon literally means "Mount of the dragon" the element "Mon" being an aphetic form of the Spanish "monte" meaning "mount or mountain". The ancestral seat of the Mondragon family is located in the town of the same name.

BLAZON: Gules, a chevron or, three dragon heads of the same. Gules, or red, symbolizes the planet Mars and denotes Military Fortitude and Honor. Those who bear this color on their coat of arms were obliged to serve their sovereign in War. <http://www.bdragon.com/genealogy/history/mondragon.shtml>

I wouldn't be so sure about that...

And yes, I know there is a tremendous amount of disinformation concerning the Reptilians, but such a tremendous amount of disinformation just means that there is something very important to hide, I think. The problem with lcke is that he's quite naive and a bit of an amateur, so he can't tell what is true and what isn't. Hopefully that will change with time. But I'm pretty sure that many world leaders truly ARE part-Reptilian.

Fear have you ever wondered that just maybe we're the Reptilian race spoke about? Maybe we're the 3rd race and not the 2nd Adamic as we're led to believe? Regardless of any of that you have a Reptilian R-Complex part of the brain. Notice how in one of the Classic Zombie films the scientists has a diagram and highlights this region (R-Complex). The film is the one where their underground with military and scientists, I think its the original Dawn of the Dead. I noticed what Fritz Springmeier used to highlight generally off camera about what to look for with this Reptilian knowledge. I noticed it within an advert online the other day:

I have no doubt that practically all human beings living today have at least SOME Reptilian DNA within them, some of our vestigial traits are undeniably inherently Reptilian, which essentially means that we're all unnatural beings subject to manipulation. But my own research and personal experiences have lead me to believe that there truly ARE Reptilian or part-Reptilian beings living among us, especially as the secret ruling caste of society. Just read my signature. They're not taking over the world, the world already belongs to them, it always has, they're simply intent on returning things to the way they once were, in the "good old days", when they ruled openly in their natural form, and we lowly slaves worshipped them as gods.

Description: "The Nativity Story" is With Child

ArchAngel - November 26, 2006 08:48 PM (GMT)

Mary's pregnant, and it couldn't have come at a worse time. Tongues are wagging and she'll have to be a tough young woman to raise this child.

That's the ancient story -- and the modern one, too.

Keisha Castle-Hughes, the young actress of Maori descent who two years ago received a best-actress Oscar nomination for her role in the New Zealand-based film "Whale Rider," stars as Mary in "The Nativity Story." After the movie was completed, rumors about a possible pregnancy led Castle-Hughes to confirm in early October that she is, as biblical accounts would put it, "with child."

She's 16. The father is 19, a longtime boyfriend she met at school in Australia, where she now lives. They're not splitting up, but they're not immediately marrying, either.

Media outlets across Australia and New Zealand have heavily covered the story. Apparently, Castle-Hughes' family is embarrassed, but they've agreed to support her in her decision to raise her child.

Vatican officials were not as understanding. According to news reports, they are not thrilled to have the issue cloud their enjoyment of the movie. So Castle-Hughes was dropped from the invitation list for the Vatican's world premiere of the movie today.

Many Catholics have criticized the snub by sending letters to the editor and writing e-mails and Weblogs.

Catherine Hardwicke, the movie's director, said in Australian newspapers last week that facing the situation was "very brave" of the actress. "She knew the whole world would be talking about her and gossiping, but she still stood up and said, 'I want to have this child; this is the right thing to do.' "

Archbishop and Pope admit strains

The Archbishop of Canterbury and Pope Benedict XVI have publicly acknowledged that "serious obstacles" stand in the way of their Churches' cooperating.

Dr Rowan Williams, the leader of the worldwide Anglican Church, is on a short visit to Rome.

In a joint declaration, they said it was a matter of urgency that talks continue on issues which divide them.

It comes amid concerns in the Roman Catholic Church over possible women bishops and gay Anglican bishops.

The Common Declaration was signed by Pope Benedict and Dr Williams during a formal audience at the Vatican.

'Arduous journey'

"Our long journey together makes it necessary to acknowledge publicly the challenge represented by new developments which, besides being divisive for Anglicans, present serious obstacles to our ecumenical progress," it read.

"It is a matter of urgency, therefore, that ... we also commit ourselves in our continuing dialogue to address the important issues involved in the emerging ecclesiological and ethical factors making that journey more difficult and arduous."

The statement also called for the two churches to stand together over issues including the "pursuit of peace in the Holy Land" and the "negative effects of materialism".

It made a commitment to talk to other religions and "reach out to our non-Christian brothers and sisters".

The Vatican declaration comes only a few days before the Pope leaves for Turkey to address problems caused by another deep division among Christians - between Rome and the Orthodox Churches, dating back almost 1,000 years.

After the formal audience, the religious leaders shared worship together at the Vatican.

Earlier they had held a private 15-minute meeting.

Speaking afterwards, Dr Williams said it had been a "very warm meeting" and stressed the importance of his relationship with the Pope.

"I think if we are not able to understand where each other is coming from in terms of our thoughts about God, our thoughts about the church, our thoughts about our vocation, then really a great deal of the negotiating and the fine detail and fine tuning has been a waste of time.

"I think we need to understand each other as fellow pastors and fellow teachers in the church. I think this morning is a great step towards that."

Symbolic meeting

Dr Williams was expected to spend most of Thursday inside the Vatican city.

It is thought he will give two lectures - one at the Vatican's Academy of Sciences - during his six-day tour.

The Roman Catholic Cardinal, Archbishop of Westminster, Cormac Murphy O'Connor is thought to have accompanied Dr Williams on the visit.

This latest meeting was intended to mark the 40th anniversary of the meeting between their predecessors, Dr Michael Ramsey and the late Pope Paul VI, at the Holy See.

The ordination of Gene Robinson - a divorced man in an openly gay relationship - as the Bishop of New Hampshire in the US in 2003 was viewed with "concern" by the Catholic Church.

Archbishop becomes druid

The new Archbishop of Canterbury has been inducted as a druid in a centuries-old Celtic ceremony.

Dr Rowan Williams, the current Archbishop of Wales, said that he had been "saddened" by the misrepresentations about the ceremony, which sparked concern about pagan links.

"Some people have reached the wrong conclusion about the ceremony," he said.

"If people had actually looked at the words of the hymns and text used they would have seen a very Christian service."

What is the Gorsedd of Bards?

Created in 1792 as celebration of Welsh and Celtic heritage

Gorsedd is Welsh for high seat

Rituals look back to era when Celtic druids - religious professionals - led society

Compared to English honours system

Currently 1,300 members

Dr Williams became a member of the highest of the three orders of the Gorsedd of Bards - a 1,300-strong circle of Wales' key cultural contributors - in a ceremony at this year's National Eisteddfod celebration of Welsh culture in St Davids, Pembrokeshire.

The ceremony, which took more than an hour, started with a procession from the main Eisteddfod Pavilion to a circle of stones on the edge of the site.

Dr Williams, 52, wore a long white cloak without any headdress as he arrived at the back of the procession.

'Paganism' row

The actual ceremony started with a trumpet fanfare and the partial sheathing and unsheathing of a 6ft 6ins sword.

Hymns and poems were said in Welsh before around 50 people were made druids.

" What will other people think he is doing? "

Reverend Angus Macleay

Dr Williams was given the Bardic name of ap Aneuri, which he chose partly after a sixth century Welsh poet and partly after Aneurin Bevan, one of his personal heroes and the architect of the National Health Service.

Before the ceremony, some Church of England conservative evangelicals expressed concern about whether Dr Williams was doing the right thing.

Reverend Angus Macleay, who is on the steering committee of the Evangelical Reform Group, told BBC Radio 4's Today programme: "This ceremony certainly looks pagan.

"The Archbishop of Canterbury designate needs to consider what will other people, non-Welsh members of the Anglican communion, think he is doing.

"How it will help African bishops and pastors seeking to draw people away from paganism to follow Christ, when they see him involved in this sort of activity?"

'Honours system'

But Elfyn Llwyd, Plaid Cymru MP and a member of the Gorsedd of Bards himself, said the group "clearly isn't a pagan organisation".

"It's simply a rather quaint induction... for assisting the development of Welsh language and culture.

" It's simply a rather quaint induction... for assisting the development of Welsh language and culture "

Elfyn Llwyd, Plaid Cymru MP

"It is in a way akin to a Welsh honours system but devoid of any patronage."

The Gorsedd's recorder Jams Nicolas said any reports of links to paganism were "nonsense".

"The Gorsedd ceremonies are entirely Christian in tone, Christian hymns are sung and the prayers are made to God," he said.

The Gorsedd first gathered at Primrose Hill, London, in 1792, after scholar Iolo Morganwg decided the Welsh should promote themselves as the direct descendants of Celtic culture and heritage.

Its modern-day members number poets, writers, musicians, artists, sportsmen and women, and others who have made a distinguished contribution to Wales.

Former Welsh Secretary Ron Davies, cricketer Robert Croft, opera singer Bryn Terfel and rugby star Gareth Edwards.

Dr Williams will succeed Dr George Carey as Archbishop of Canterbury in October.

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 24, 2006 04:03 PM (GMT)

People must realise that theres NOTHING wrong with the Celtics (GAELS) and that everything we've been told about them is totally incorrect. The mere word Celt means something like 'Speaker of the Truth' The Romans had to destroy almost all of them and lie through their teeth about them. Romans suppressed the REAL history and have given us nonsense. EVERYTHING COMES FROM THE WISE GAELS/CELTICS and it can go back even further to Atlantis, Lemuria and Mu but thats harder to get into. Ireland is the oldest Civilisation on Earth and EVERYTHING now stems from there. This is why Ireland, England, Wales & Scotland are called the United KINGDOM.

All the real high knowledge of the world came from the Celtics and they passed in onto the various cultures of the world such as the Chinese etc. The Romans now Jesuits hide the facts of the Celtics and how they had a college across the world of the most wise people on the land.

Illuminati 13 Year Cycle of Rebellion Makes 2010 Important Year

America, time is running out as Vatican-led Illuminati has a fast-approaching deadline for destruction.

22 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/22-Nov-2006.html>

The outlook for America doesn't look good and it's time to put a timeframe on the Vatican-led Illuminati's worldwide destruction campaign as it relates to the U.S.

And if you think you have plenty of time to mount a resistance and get your affairs in order, think again. Why? Look to the Illuminati' 13 year "Cycle of Rebellion" for a clue, leading to 2010 as an important date.

"Greg, I'm 100 percent convinced that everything Leo Zagami is telling you is true," said researcher and reader Jack Fermanian. "Just looking at all of these facts and understanding what I have studied over the last five years, it is obvious that we are fast approaching the final end of the Republic of the United States of America as we know it today.

According to Zagami, a former high level Illuminati insider from the Monte Carlo P2 Masonic Lodge who appeared Monday on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, complete Illuminati control of America is set for no later than 2010, as the years preceding will usher in more terrorism on a larger scale than 9/11.

To make matters worse, Zagami claims Americans will "finally see the Illuminati writing on the wall," beginning as early as 2008.

"And here we are with the secret spread of a fascist disease under the seemingly innocent spoils of a new Masonic Organization , an Order full of strange irregularities called the Regular Grand Lodge of England and the Masonic High Councils that include the important REGULAR GRAND LODGE OF VIRGINIA ," said Zagami Tuesday from his home in Norway. "Yes, my friends is the beginning of new dictatorship coming to town in the U.S., when Brothers like Klaus Schmidt are around establishing this kind of bases and illuminati camps. See www.regulargrandlodgeofvirginia.com

"But that's only one of the many preparations for the most difficult period in recent history starting in 2008. It will then start to become clear for you in front of the total NAZIFICATION of the western countries by 2010 before the economic situations starts to badly crack for everyone. Then social tension will hit a peak never seen before and internal conflicts could eventually become in 2012: CIVIL WAR!

"All of these events are carefully calculated and orchestrated by the Jesuits in their Arizona Astronomical Observatory and the various Illuminati headquarters, who are preparing their secret bases and bunkers for survival of the elite and yet more control after the disaster, they think that technology will save them from radioactivity poor fools and that's a fatal error on the 21st of December 2012 for these infidels."

And to add a historical reference to Zagami's claims, Illuminati researcher Fermanian provided this very in depth historical account, verifying 2010 as a pivotal year.

"When I read this about Zagami it immediately put up a flag, because it directly relates to a study I have made," said Fermanian. "I have put together a short study on the cycles of 13 years. Thirteen in the Bible means rebellion and the data I have gathered either shows Rebellions starting or rebellions ending.

"Please note that the next 13 year cycle of rebellion just so happens to be in the year 2010.I also found an article by Courtney Philip [2]. I was researching for what happened in 1906 so I can fill in the gap in my study and

"According to this article named "What else happened on September 11" the following events occurred: On September 11, 1792: The Hope Diamond is stolen. The article which I directly quote below also mentions that this diamond was related to the French Revolution.

"This immediately threw up even more flags. Here is the amazing World History brought to you by non other than the Illuminati:

1906 What else happened on September 11? (Here are excerpts for the article about significant events that occurred on September 11)

Ghandi begins his non-violent protest movement in South Africa"

September 11, 1792: The Hope Diamond is stolen. "

Long thought to bring a curse of misfortune upon its holders, the Hope Diamond was stolen on September 11, 1792 from King Louis XIV during the French Revolution. He and Marie Antoinette were in prison when the blue, 45.52 carat diamond was taken. The Hope Diamond currently resides in the Smithsonian Natural History Museum. "

September 11, 1906: Gandhi begins the non-violent protest movement in South Africa."

"Before Mahatma Gandhi used non-violent tactics to kick the British out of India, he was working for the British Army stationed in South Africa. In South Africa, Gandhi was treated poorly for being a man of color and denied the right to vote by a newly passed South African law. Gandhi first tested his theories of non-violent protest at a September 11, 1906 gathering to protest the treatment of Indians living in South Africa.

"September 11, 1962: The Beatles make the third and most widely distributed recording of Love Me Do.

"The first Beatles recording of Love Me Do featured Pete Best on drums. Best, you might not remember, was the fifth Beatle who quit right before the band achieved overnight super-stardom. The second recording of Love Me Do had Ringo Starr playing drums, and badly enough the studio executives wanted a better recording.

2010 The NEXT BIG YEAR OF REBELLION?

"From this study and the recent new information from your article today and from the other one by Courtney Phillip, I'm that much more convinced that the 13 year rebellion cycle is something that the Illuminati always carry out.

"Interesting to note there was an 11 year cycle of events from between when George H. W. Bush announced the emerging of the 'new world order' and the September 11, 1990 WTC attacks.

"Again this shows that the Illuminati plans were executed according to a very old plan which spans decades and centuries .

"Greg, I'm 100% convinced that everything Leo Zagami is telling you is true. Just looking at all of these facts and understanding what I have studied over the last five years, it is obvious that we are fast approaching the final end of the Republic of the United States of America as we know it today.

"Daniel Chapter 8 and Hitler's and the United States 's version of Pergamos:

"Over the last five years I have also studied Daniel Chapter 8 and it clearly speaks of a great horn / super power that will fly across the earth without touching the ground and strike the old Persian empire or what we know today as Iran.

"The Bible says that the he-goat which literally means the "devil-goat" is the one that leads a military coalition because the "he-goat" is also referenced as the "notable horn" or "first king" (i.e primary leader/power).

"It is significant to note that the angel explained to Daniel about the vision of who the rough-goat is. It was explained as being the leader from the "realm of Grecia" or today's Western Powers. Others have also discovered that the US capital, Washington DC is in the shape of a pentagram (i.e. the shape of a devil-goat).

"But the most striking evidence that I have found from my studies was straight out of the Bible and from a Rand McNally map. I have found that the US Military and Government Seat of Power (Washington DC) is directly west of Pergamos which in Revelation 2:13, Jesus Christ called it Satan's seat.

"I have also found out that the Axis of Evil which starts in Pergamos and goes through Casablanca, Mexico City and Pyongyang is a real line or axis that goes through these and many other capitals.

"Rev 2:13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, [even] where Satan's seat [is]: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas [was] my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

"Last night I found out on the History Channel that Hitler was going to build his new capital city called "Germania" in Berlin and that he was basing one of his architectural buildings on the "Pergamum Altar. This again is told in the Book of Revelation as being the seat where satan dwelleth and so I find it curious why even Hitler wanted to be the New Pergamus?

"Daniel Chapter 8 says that after the war on Iran the super power will be broken. (as an army, nation and people/country) and it will be transformed. The Bible says that after the war, when the Super Power is strong, that it will be broken and for it, (in it's place) will arise the little horn.

"I see this coming transformation of the US into what Daniel Chapter 8 talks about. I see the coming breaking up and dividing unto the four winds of heaven / world government and then I see the coming rise of the little horn (i.e the antichrist along with the false prophet /false church that promotes the beast government).

"I just want to thank you again, Greg, for your many excellent articles and your continually flow of news. Americans do need to wake up and wake up fast, just please read the facts, read history and most importantly read the Bible! And don 't let anyone tell you that Daniel Chapter 8 was already fulfilled, because it wasn 't."

Jesuits Assassinate J.F.K

<http://www.voxfux.com/archives/00000096.htm>

Posted by Jon Ken

The purpose of the expose' of the Twentieth Century is to prove the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, ordered by the Jesuit General and executed by Pope Paul VI, was carried out by "the American Pope", Francis Cardinal Spellman. Spellman, being the Archbishop of New York, was "the American Military Vicar" and therefore used his most obedient soldiers - certain Knights of Malta, Shriner Freemasons, Knights of Columbus and Mafia Dons - in carrying out his orders from Rome.

The single reason for the President's assassination was his interference with the purpose of the Jesuits' Fourteenth Amendment American Empire created in 1868. That purpose was to restore and maintain the worldwide Temporal (political) Power of that Jesuit Creation of 1870 - the "infallible" Pope. In resisting the Pope's Temporal Power, he threatened the monopoly of the Jesuits' Federal Reserve Bank by enacting Executive Order 11110 (4 June 1963) thereby injecting into the economy nearly five billion dollars (4.7) in interest-free "United States Notes", only to be recalled the day after his burial.

The President also attempted to break the foremost international intelligence arm of the Vatican's Jesuits - the evil Central Intelligence Agency - "into a thousand pieces." In 1963 the CIA was manned by many of Hitler's old warriors - the Jesuit-controlled Nazi SS - turned "cold warriors". According to the great Frenchman, Edmond Paris, in his The Secret History of the Jesuits, it was the Jesuit Bernhardt Staempfle who wrote Hitler's Mein Kampf. This fact is further confirmed by one of the founders of the Nazi Party, Roman Catholic Otto Strasser, in his revealing book, Hitler and I. It was Roman Catholic Hitler who said of the Roman Catholic Himmler having modeled the SS after the Jesuit Order,

"I can see Himmler as our Ignatius of Loyola."

And lastly, one of the main posts of the feared SD, the Central Security Service of the SS (after which the American CIA would be modeled with the help of the repatriated Nazi General, Reinhard Gehlen), was manned by a priest - a former teacher of the evil Council of Trent at the Court of Bavaria, one of the Jesuit General's favorites, a superior officer of the SS and the uncle of Heinrich Himmler - the Jesuit Himmler, who controlled Hitler's every move through Martin Bormann!

Secreted out of Europe through the Vatican's Ratlines, these murderers escaped their rightful punishment as war criminals who, during the Jesuit Crusade in Europe and Russia, killed millions of Russian Orthodox People and Jewish People pursuant to the Jesuits' evil Council of Trent, which, after condemning freedom of conscience and freedom of the press, concluded with these words:

"Accursed be all heretics. ACCURSED!! ACCURSED!!!"

Lastly, President Kennedy began to end the Vatican's hoax known as "the Cold War", the American CIA and Russian KGB having secretly worked together since World War II. He also began to end that Jesuit Inquisition in Vietnam, as its future highpoint would be "Operation Phoenix", the CIA mass-murder of 60,000 Vietnamese "in cold blood" according to its Director, William E. Colby. The President interfering with Rome's Holy Office of the Inquisition could not be tolerated! Millions of "heretic" Buddhists were to be exterminated, the international drug trade would explode, American patriotism and liberty would further be destroyed and Vietnam would be reunited under another communist military dictator loyal to the Pope - like Stalin, like Chairman Mao, like Castro, like George H. W. Bush and son -, Ho Chi Minh.

Waged under the guise of "fighting godless communism", Cardinal Spellman championed America's most disastrous conflict known as "Spelly's War" overseen by Spelly's General, the Roman Catholic and CFR member, William C. Westmoreland. (Remember, according to Col. L. Fletcher Prouty in his JFK, the forced movement of over 600,000 Roman Catholics on U.S. Navy transport vessels from North Vietnam into South Vietnam was "one of the root causes of the Vietnam War." The arch-Catholic Secretary of the Navy responsible for implementing that Jesuit-agitation was the Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, Francis P. Matthews. Knight Matthew's Master was America's "Military Vicar", Francis Cardinal Spellman. Later, Spellman made several visits to the war-front calling the American troops "the soldiers of Christ", fighting the Pope's Crusade against "godless Jew Communism!") The outcome was 58,000 dead, 80,000 post-war suicides and a 220 billion dollar debt to the Jesuits' Federal Reserve Bank.

All these acts of President Kennedy were proper assertions of national sovereignty and therefore infringed on the Pope's Temporal Power. As the "infallible" Vicar of Christ and thus, "the Universal Monarch of the World", the Pope, through the religious, political and financial power of the Jesuit Order, fully intended, then and now, to ultimately rule all nations through his loyal kings and dictators from Solomon's rebuilt Temple in Jerusalem. For when the Pope is crowned during his coronation these words among others (having never been taught to us in the Public Schools) are spoken:

"Take thou the tiara adorned with the triple crown, and know that thou art the father of princes and kings, and art the governor of the world."

Thomas Aquinas, Rome's "Angelic Doctor" wrote in his Summa Theologica in 1272:

"The Pope, by Divine Right, hath spiritual and Temporal Power, as supreme king of the World: ..."

Lucius Ferraris wrote in his Bibliotheca Prompta (1763), which has been adopted as a standard of Roman Catholic law, as follows:

On account of the excellence of his supreme dignity, he is called Bishop of Bishops, Ordinary of Ordinaries, universal Bishop of the Church, Bishop or Diocesan of the world, divine Monarch, supreme Emperor and King of Kings.

Roman Catholic Priest and editor, David S. Phelan paraphrased those words when he wrote in the Western Watchman, June 27, 1912:

"...Why, if the government of the United States were at war with the Church, we would say tomorrow, To Hell with the government of the United States; and if the church and all the governments of the world were at war, we would say: - To Hell with all the governments of the world ...Why is it the Pope has such tremendous power? Why the Pope is the ruler of the World. All the emperors, all the kings, all the princes, all the presidents of the world are as these alter boys of mine: ..."

Therefore, for challenging the Pope's Temporal Power, in attempting to thwart Rome's grand design against the peoples of the world, John F. Kennedy, America's first Roman Catholic President, was brutally murdered in Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963, by the soldiers of Francis Cardinal Spellman within the FBI, the CIA, the Secret Service, Military Intelligence and the Mafia.

On September 11, 2001 this same Intelligence Network, overseen by New York

Archbishop Edward Cardinal Egan being under the supervision of Jesuit General Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, attacked and destroyed the Twin Towers of New York's World Trade Center and partially destroyed the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. These acts of high treason against the American People have now justified our present Crusade against Islam, surnamed "the war against terrorism", and heartily endorsed by the Pope's Masonic Jewish Zionists to the detriment of the beloved, racially Jewish People in Israel. This "war on terrorism" is to the exclusion of notorious Jesuit-trained terrorists and mass murderers such as Fidel Castro of communist Cuba and Gerry Adams of Ireland's Irish Republican Army. Why?

22 November 1963: killing of JFK;

22 November 1822: the Secret treaty of Verona.

My opinion may hurt someone, but after I read about the Lincoln's assassination, I am convinced that the killing of JFK was only a big diversion.

After the assassination or the temptation to kill almost five U.S. presidents (Lincoln etc) the company needed to play the "victim" role before the last steps to totally submit America.

A big "make up" operation to cover plots, assassinations, blood.

I can't believe they putted on power a president really intent to stop FED or CIA or something else. All that were probably "alibi" to build, after assassination, the figure of a "Saint". And you know how skillfull builder of saints is Rome?

"....The President also attempted to break the foremost international intelligence arm of the Vatican's Jesuits - the evil Central Intelligence Agency - "into a thousand pieces...."

Was JFK a Fourth Degree of Malta? In this case he has to obey every order given by the Company. Absurd and contradictory orders too, as the Captain of Titanic was forced to obey. The last launched the Titanic against the icebergs, JFK made the same with his life in order to have a good alibi to kill him, an alibi which will fill the mouth and the minds of much people in the future.... today.

And make out of our friend Four Degree Catholic Knight of Malta John Fitzgerald Kennedy a Saint killed by "erethics"!

Bush And Blair: "Complete Satanists," According To High-Level Illuminati Defector

Italian aristocrat and freedom fighter, Leo Zagami, says look out for a man by the name of Klaus Schmidt, who has come to America to usher in complete fascism through the Virginia Grand Masonic Lodge.

21 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/21-Nov-2006.html>

Time is running out and if Americans don't rally and act quickly, according to former high level Illuminati, Leo Zagami, the U.S. will be soon thrown into a complete dictatorship.

Most people in America suspect something evil and strange is taking place or choosing to ignore the signs of fascism, holding on like children to a phony American dream now completely obliterated.

But one thing for sure most Americans will be ill-prepared when the final dictatorial show falls, leaving them helpless slaves to the Vatican-led/Jesuit controlled Illuminati New World Order.

The question looms: How much time before America reduced to a total dictatorship, completely under the yoke of Satan's minions?

According to Zagami, who appeared Monday on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, complete Illuminati control of America is set for no later than 2010, as the years preceding will usher in more terrorism on a larger scale than 9/11.

"They use terrorism to put you under the stick, as we liked to say in the Monte Carlo P2 Lodge," said Zagami, adding since he defected last June he is aware of attempts on his life by who he calls the evil Jesuits.

"They know me quite well, and they know because of my aristocratic bloodlines, my death can only be authorized by Count Hans Kolvenbach (The Black Pope) and the gay Pope himself, Ratzinger. So, if I am killed, you know who authorized the killing. But I doubt if they will do it as I have left the Catholic Church, becoming a Muslim and they know if they kill me, I will become a Muslim martyr and I don't think they want that."

Zamami, during his two-hour radio interview, told how a man named Klaus Schmidt, a Nazi-trained law enforcement agent in Bavaria recently visited America, attending a Freemason Grand Lodge get together in Virginia, a high-level Illuminati Lodge where Schmidt is instructing members and beginning a serious charge for complete dictatorship in America.

Zagami claims Schmidt is a key Illuminati figure working with American Satanists to usher in complete fascism.

"He is a man Americans need to watch," added Zagami.

Here is Schmidt's background:

Klaus Schmidt, a Senior Police Officer from the Bavarian State Police with more than 40 years of service, is a veteran of all EU Police Missions in Albania.

He was born in 1945 and is a native of Fuerth/Bavaria where he joined the Police after serving his time in the military.

Mr. Schmidt is a graduate of the Senior Command Course in Germany, the FBI National Academy, the FBI Executives training at Quantico, Virginia and at the University of Princeton, the DEA Commander training and the West Point Leadership and Command training.

He studied from 1985 to 1990 Political Science and Sociology at the University of Wuerzburg and was granted a scholarship for the University of Southern California where he graduated the Delinquency Control Institute. He is a Graduate of the Senior Executive Class on Counterterrorism at the College for Security Studies in Germany.

Mr. Schmidt held several senior positions within the Bavarian State Police, the German Senior Command College, the European Drugs Unit and at Europol. He served as Commander of the MAPE Mission, Head of Operations with the ECPA-A Mission and Deputy Head of Mission with PAMECA (2002-2004).

His service in the Police includes several years in the Bomb Squad of the Bavarian State Police, where he also received training as a diver for underwater demolition.

Mr. Schmidt worked during this period of time as instructor for Special Forces in Bavaria, on federal level and abroad. His main professional experience lies within combating Serious and Organised Crime.

Mr. Schmidt received several decorations for his service including the West Point Leadership Award.

As Head of the Mission he represents the project on high level towards the Albanian authorities, the European Commission, the EU Member States and the International Consortium of Donors. He orchestrates and monitors PAMECA's activities and evaluates the quality of reports and analysis.

According to a decision of the Government of the Republic of Albania dated 23 June 2005, Mr. Schmidt was appointed as Professor for International Strategic Management for his role of implementing a new national command, leadership and management system for the ASP.

Besides Schmidt, Zagami told Americans no matter what the outcome of the recent elections, the American government is still in the firm control of the Vatican-led Illuminati with George H. Bush as the top Satanist with everything under his evil control.

"We have documents that Bush was close to Anton Levay, the master Satanist, and even planned the birth of his son George W. to become the puppet Satanist in control after Bush Sr. went behind the scenes again," said Zagami. "I also warned people about the complete evil behind Prime Minister Tony Blair, but nobody listened. He has also been connected to a baby-killing sacrifice at Bohemian Grove.."

Besides the well-known and documented Bush family connections to the Nazis, documented in the National Archives and the Congressional record, Zagami recently wrote how Bush, "the ultimate Anti-Christ family, will rule no matter what the political outcome."

"Wake up dear Brothers and Sisters," added Zagami. "It doesn't matter who is gonna be in the White House Show any longer , because he is the chosen one of the evil side and If you add up the name 'George Bush' in Hebrew letters it comes out:

o = 70 (ayin)

r = 200 (resh)

g = 3 (gimel)

e = 5 (heh)

B = 2 (beth) u = 70 (ayin)

s = 300 (shin)

h = 8 (cheth)

Total = 666 (Antichrist)

"But let's all remember that God is always the ultimate Puppet Master not man in any way, even when man unfortunately likes to think he is God. So just see for yourself the future developments in the Satanic Vatican CIA headquarters of the Knights of Malta and their evil Zionist friends in Jerusalem land of the Synagogue of Satan.

"And remember to not rationalize to much as this will eventually bring you like most westerners in the hands of Satan, this is a war of faith starting not a wild night in Casablanca.

"The most prominent modern Satanist to fully abuse 666 is A. Crowley who can also be identified as the Beast of Revelation and a key figure used by Satan for the end of times. Crowley was the main alchemist of evil in the illuminati of all times, he is the Brother in charge of taking on himself all the curses of the world (AS STATED IN A OFFICIAL OTO/ILLUMINATI DOCUMENT SIGNED BY HIM) and waking up the Beast with the Choronzon 333 Ritual in the middle of the Sahara desert. Officially starting the Xlo degree OTO/ILLUMINATI workings to open the gates of Hell and bring humanity further into the Abyss of evil and deception before the return of the Messiah and the big confrontation between good and evil."

This is another reason for which coadjutors like Icke, magazines like Nexus (Duncan > SIS > The Queen > SMOM >), books like Trance Formation exist.

Anyway this is not a good reason to refuse these books and magazines, but before reading all that you must know the covert goal within.

US lifts ban on silicone implants

Saturday, 18 November 2006, 00:33 GMT

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/americas/6160432.stm>

Health authorities in the US have lifted a 14-year-long ban on silicone breast implants.

Despite lingering safety concerns, two firms will be allowed to sell implants to women reconstructing or enlarging their breasts.

Each company will be required to study the effect of the implants on 40,000 women for 10 years.

Silicone breast implants were banned for most American women in 1992 after complaints that the devices leaked.

There were accusations that leaking silicone made some women ill.

But the Food and Drug Administration said independent studies had found no evidence that silicone implants caused cancer or other diseases.

However, it said there was still a risk of complications such as breast pain and implant rupture.

Implant lifespan

Patients and surgeons who advocate silicone breast implants say they look and feel more natural than those filled with salt water.

But since 1992 they have only been available to women through research programmes.

Concerns over the potential lifespan of the implants still lingers though, with the FDA warning that many silicone implants will eventually need to be removed or replaced.

"It's a hugely positive piece of news for plastic surgeons and for patients... because it really allows us to turn a page and to work with what we have believed for a long time is a better technology and better device," Dr Scott Spear, head of plastic surgery at Georgetown University Hospital told the Associated Press.

Allergan, Mentor Win U.S. Approval of Silicone Breast Implants

By Avram Goldstein

<http://www.bloomberg.com/apps/news?pid=206...YfPU&refer=home>

Nov. 17 (Bloomberg) -- Allergan Inc. and Mentor Corp. won U.S. regulatory approval to resume unrestricted sales of silicone breast implants whose safety has long triggered debate.

The Food and Drug Administration today ended restrictions that limited the products to clinical trials for 14 years. Silicone, also used in the Silly Putty toy, was the target of breast-implant litigation that cost Dow Corning Corp. $3.2 billion.

The government action, which may not end controversy over the devices, clears the way for U.S. sales of the implants to more than double in the next few years, analysts said. Women seeking implants now will have a wider choice of products, including gels that feel more like natural tissue than do other types of devices, so elective surgery may boom.

"Silicone gel breast implants are the most defective medical device ever approved by the FDA," said Sidney Wolfe, director of the Health Research Group of Public Citizen, a consumer safety group. "The approval makes a mockery of the legal standard that requires `reasonable assurance of safety.'"

Shares of Allergan rose $1.76, or 1.6 percent, to $12.50 in New York Stock Exchange composite trading. Mentor shares rose $1.47, or 3.2 percent, to $47.58. The announcement came after the official close of U.S. stock markets.

Silicone gel implants, like others filled with saline, are used to enlarge breasts for reconstruction after breast cancer surgery and for cosmetic reasons. Allergan, based in Irvine, California, and Mentor, based in Santa Barbara, California, say the silicone implants have a texture similar to breast tissue.

Risks

The implants still come with risks of serious localized health complications, the FDA said.

Among the risks are hardening of the breast tissue, pain, shape and position change, lost sensation, infection, calcium deposits, muscle pain, fatigue and the likelihood of follow-up surgeries. The FDA didn't link the implants to connective-tissue diseases, as did allegations against Dow Corning.

Allergan and Mentor will sell silicone implants in the U.S. for about $600 each, about twice the price of saline implants, said Peter Bye, an analyst with Wachovia Securities in New York, in an interview before the FDA announcement. He estimated that the U.S. market for saline and silicone implants will grow to $542 million in 2009 from $215 million in 2005.

The FDA action "essentially doubles Mentor's core earnings power," while making less difference to the larger and more diversified Allergan, Bye said. Mentor makes plastic surgery devices, and Allergan sells Botox anti-wrinkle injections, eye care products and skin treatments.

Earnings

Mentor reported net income of $62.4 million, or $1.29 a share, on sales of $268.3 million for the fiscal year ended on March 31. Mentor's profit from continuing operations was $48.1 million, or $1.01 a share. Allergan reported 2005 net income of $403.9 million, or $3.01 a share, on sales of $2.32 billion.

The FDA has allowed Mentor and Allergan's Inamed unit to sell silicone implants for women who lose breasts to cancer or have deformities. The sales were intended for research, known as adjunct studies. Reconstructive surgery for those women generally has been paid for by health plans. Cosmetic implant costs are paid fully by the patient.

Diana Zuckerman, president of the National Research Center for Women & Families, said the Washington-based nonprofit objects to the quality of the data the FDA used to decide whether to lift the restrictions.

The FDA "has been very cautious about silicone gel breast implants for the 15 years that the companies have been trying to get approval," said Zuckerman. "It's shocking that at a time when FDA is under such fire they would throw caution to the winds."

Agency Criticism

Some members of Congress and consumer groups have criticized the agency over matters including its handling of Vioxx, a painkiller pulled from the market after being linked to heart attacks.

About 290,000 women received cosmetic implants in 2005, a 37 percent increase in a five-year period, according to the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, based in Arlington Heights, Illinois. The increase coincided with the proliferation of "reality" programs featuring the procedure on television, encouraging more teenagers to seek implants.

Last year, 58,000 women had breast reconstruction after mastectomies, the society said. During the same time, 25,000 women with cosmetic implants and 15,000 women with reconstruction implants had them surgically removed.

Institute of Medicine

In 1999, the Institute of Medicine, a Washington-based group that provides policy advice to the federal government, reported that breast implants can't be linked to systemic diseases such as cancer and rheumatoid arthritis.

Stuart Bondurant, chairman of the Institute of Medicine panel and former medical dean at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, said whether to permit sales of the implants has been "a highly contentious issue with strong feelings on all sides."

The emotionalism "necessarily delays the resolution regardless of the state of the evidence," Bondurant said in an interview before the U.S. ruling.

An FDA medical advisory panel voted 5-4 against the Allergan application last year because it was troubled by the absence of long-term use data. Mentor's silicone implant was approved 7-2.

The companies lost track of most of the patients in the adjunct studies, and FDA staff last year said the research was of little or no value in determining a key safety question.

Dow Corning

Silicone breast implants, which have a rubber shell filled with silicone gel, were already being sold in the U.S. in 1976 when Congress gave the FDA authority to regulate medical devices.

In 1998, Midland, Michigan-based Dow Corning agreed to pay as much as $3.2 billion over 16 years to settle claims of more than 300,000 women who said they were harmed by breast implants that ruptured with age and leaked silicone.

The settlement was for claimants with connective-tissue and auto-immune diseases believed linked to the implants, although there was still debate over whether silicone actually causes those conditions, according to the Web site of Leigh Day & Co., a London law firm with some clients in the litigation.

Dow Corning made breast implants and supplied silicone to other makers of the devices. The company is owned jointly by Dow Chemical Co. and Corning Inc.

This civilisation/society is controlled by ENERGY which we contribute to with what we term as money, business, enterprise etc. The Saturnalian Brotherhood utilise as many agendas as they can. Take Chemtrails for instance how that has a large multiple of uses. Pharmaceuticals is both depopulation and profiting.

I figured that was the reason for the ban on contraceptives.

Then you have Mexicans who breed like rabbits (not that there's anything inherently wrong with having children)...and then they're coming over here. And oh, BTW, Mexico is predominantly Catholic.

In Canada, Quebec is a largely Catholic province, and here in the USA Louisiana is a largely Catholic state.

The dangers have been broadcast for a long time. If a woman is stupid and insecure enough to do this then I say caveat emptor! People need to start taking responsibility for themselves and thinking for themselves and quit blaming the makers simply because it is 'allowed'. It goes back to simple common sense.

Title: JESUIT Planet X Footage Classified SECRETUM OMEGA

CRAIG-OXLEY - November 18, 2006 11:01 PM (GMT)

Folks NOTHING BUT NOTHING gets out to the world anywhere to do with Space without first going through Servizio Informazioni Del Vaticano. This Intelligence group has superior lock down. Not many people have touched on the subject but Michael Tsarion is one whos gone there very slightly. By the way Vatican Intelligence was trained by British Secret Intelligence Service as was CIA, MOSSAD etc. If this wasn't a set up of some sorts it would NEVER EVER make it onto the internet and anyone behind it would be known and immediately assassinated believe me. So this tells me something is going on and when you also consider that the Jesuits rule the world its more likely. You will find their helping push the Anunnaki, Niburu information in order for their way to bring in a new one-world-religion. Theres NO WAY you can ever introduce a one-world-religion without a legit or phony Alien presence, its impossible. This is all conditioning towards this. One world currency, no border etc is far more easier than religion. This Anunnaki information will be used as part of the new religion along with much of the Mysteries going back to the Gaels of Ireland and of course prior with Atlantis. Remember the New World Order people speak of is simply the New Atlantis. Remember that Z.Sitchin is a Temporal Coadjutor of the Vatican and has visited there a few times, suspicious or what! So all this talk is conditioning for the future. -2tuff

The Planet X and the "JESUIT FOOTAGE" Classified "SECRETUM OMEGA".

First Indirect Confirmations

Cristoforo Barbato speaking about the Secretum Omega. Photo used with his kind permission - www.secretum-omega.com.

After the release of the controversial 'MJ-12' files and of the 'Guardian' files, by an anonymous individual, and perhaps for the first time in history, one member of the ufological community, an Italian freelance writer and investigator, was able to check the credentials of the alleged anonymous insider, an individual that was still working for the intelligence community and had not been fired or retired. This mystery man was responsible for the release of the above classified material. He was an insider of a presumed Vatican intelligence structure and his actions were supported by his colleagues. But first of all, let me tell you something about that freelancer: Cristoforo Barbato.

Born in Naples in 1972, is an Italian independent UFO researcher; in the last 7 years he worked and written for several UFO magazines and frontier studies published in Italy: Notiziario UFO and Dossier Alieni for example. For many years Barbato was also a member of the C.U.N. (Centro Ufologico Nazionale), the main Italian ufological association. Moreover he has collaborated to the realization of two Italian encyclopedias on the UFOs subject, entitled UFO Dossier X, published by the Fabbri Edizioni and Stargate - Enigmi dal Cosmo, by Curcio Editore. Barbato has also participated as speaker at some national conventions on the UFOs, where he has had the possibility to meet different important UFOs researchers, both Italians and international: among them Col. Philip Corso, U.S. Army retired officer.

For some years Barbato was editor in charge in Rome for some Italian magazines, as Stargate, Extra Terrestrial and Stargate Magazine. During that period he wrote on the magazine "Stargate" many reports about Fatima Apparitions and the famous "Third Secret". After the publication of those reports, precisely in the year 2000, he received several e-mails from a person who qualified himself as a Vatican insider. From those e-mails rose up the story of a presumed Vatican Intelligence Agency, whose code would be S.I.V.: "Servizio Informazioni del Vaticano", which in Italian means "Vatican Information Services". In short the Vatican Secret Services. Barbato, at the beginning, was very skeptical and did not rely on him. After one year of such an epistolary contacts (in the meantime the insider revealed himself as a S.I.V. membership, belonging to the Jesuit Order and working by the Holy See), the Italian freelance demanded a meeting with him, as a necessary condition to carry on the contacts. In spite of the risks the Vatican insider accepted, and I suppose he was aware it was necessary considering his baffling revelations. Two meetings took place in a public space in Rome in 2001. After that at least his identity was clear: he was not a mythomaniac; he was really a Jesuit working by the Holy See. Of course the Italian freelance has been protecting his source, avoiding to spread his name; and very soon Barbato realized that he knew much more than what he had told him by e-mail.

Moreover in 2001 the Vatican insider sent to Cristoforo Barbato by post a videotape (shown for the first time during a meeting that took place in Pescara, in Italy, on 30 April 2005), containing a footage of 2 minutes regarding observations of a planetoid in the deep space (the presumed Tenth Planet, "the Planet X"), while it was approaching to the Solar System. The video, which shows an introduction of writings of classification on it, had been carried out by a secret space probe named "Siloe". The Vatican deep throat told Barbato the space probe was equipped with a sophisticated infrared camera and an electromagnetic impulses propulsion, and was assembled in Area 51 (Nevada), and then orbited by an aircraft of the type "Aurora", a secret hypersonic aircraft; the space probe Siloe, always according the Barbato's contact, sent the images of the planetoid in October 1995 (after it came back to the border of Solar System to have more power of signal), to a secret radio telescope hidden in an unused oil-refining plant in Alaska, totally managed by some Jesuits belonging to the S.I.V. The radio telescope, he added, was built in 1990 to observe anomalous celestial bodies on approaching the Solar System.

After his conference in Pescara (Italy), Barbato spread a press release which, according to the Jesuit's information, would confirm also the story of a secret meeting of First Contact happened during the strange absence of President Eisenhower in a February evening of 1954, while the President was on holiday in Palm Springs, in California, absence officially motivated with a sudden visit by a dentist for an emergency dental treatment. As a matter of fact on Saturday night of February 20, 1954, Eisenhower's Press Secretary announced that Eisenhower had lost a tooth cap while eating fried chicken and had to be rushed to a local dentist (source: Michael Salla, PhD, <http://www.exopolitics.org/Study-Paper-8.htm>). Here is a passage from Barbato's press release: "[€] the meeting with an Alien delegation at Muroc Air Field Base in February 1954 in the presence of president Dwight Eisenhower and James Francis McIntyre, bishop of Los Angeles. After that incredible event McIntyre flew to Rome to refer everything to Pope Pius XII who decided to found the S.I.V with the aim to gather every possible bit of information about Aliens and how they interacted with the American Government. From then bishop McIntyre and Detroit Archbishop Edward Mooney became the main information co-coordinators between the USA and the Vatican State. Incredibly, later on there should have been some direct personal meetings between S.I.V. members and a Nordic-looking race of Aliens coming from the Pleiades. These Aliens presumably warned humans against another alien race met by the Americans in the California Desert . These meetings between S.I.V and Aliens took place mainly in the USA territory but also - twice - in the Vatican State , precisely in Vatican Gardens at the Papal Academy of Sciences in presence of Pope Pius XII. My Jesuit contact also confirmed to me the reality of the George Adamsky-John XXIII meeting and talked about some very interesting details about it. He also called "Secretum Omega" the highest secrecy level in S.I.V, equivalent to the NATO Cosmic Top Secret."

I interviewed Barbato for the Italian bimonthly magazine UFO Notiziario (UFO news), nr.62, April-May 2006, in which the magazine published some frames of the video and a very interesting presumed image (provided almost for sure by the Jesuit to Barbato), regarding the phantom "Aurora" (so far denied by U.S. officials) an American large secret hypersonic aircraft capable of a Mach 6 performance. In the presumed picture, taken by a classified STS mission in 2002, you can see a full-body shape aircraft (a black triangle) coming out from the earthly atmosphere to go into the Space. Other detailed information have been revealed on Barbato's website (www.secretum-omega.com), where last September the Italian freelance published on-line the interview to his contact, the Jesuit, taken place in 2001 in Rome. The Jesuit member of the S.I.V. told Barbato that on occasion of the secret meeting at Muroc Air Field Base, in 1954, military cameramen filmed the outstanding event "with three movie cameras (16 millimeters), detached in different places, loaded with colour film and working by spring engines; this last rather unconformable resolution, because it compelled every cameraman to change reel every 3 minutes, it was necessary since in the presence of the Aliens and of their spacecrafts, the electrical engines of the biggest movie cameras did not work. They filmed 7 rollers of 30 meters, a total of 20 minutes shot." Among the Jesuit's revelations, two of them are astonishing: about the planetoid visible in the videotape, the Vatican insider told the Italian freelance that it is the Planet X (the Sumerian Nibiru); about the "Guardian Files", he confessed him are a "dramatic truth", apart from the frames of the presumed E.B.E.

The Barbato' s researches shocked me and roused me to investigate as journalist the "Secretum Omega" enigma. Since 2005 up to now, on some magazines, websites and essays, I found out several circumstantial evidences that seem to prove the existence of the S.I.V. and the "Secretum Omega", their highest clearance. Barbato, before than me, found the most important and explicit of them on an historical essay, a book written by Mark Aarons and John Loftus, entitled "Ratlines" (see chapter 1). Anyway, above all because of the mass-media silence, I decided to baptize the Barbato's video with the name of "Jesuit Footage", to draw upon it the public attention. And finally I found an indirect remarkable confirmation of Barbato's testimony: Dr. Steven M. Greer (M.D.), in his recent book "Hidden Truth - Forbidden Knowledge", revealed in the chapter nr. 16 (passages of it have been published by Nexus New Times magazine, on the survey "Twilight Zone", nr 64, October-November 2006) that, during a meeting with some rebel insiders taken place in December 1994 in Phoenix by Wrigley Mansion, one of them confessed him that determinate Jesuits control technology on UFOs information and contacts with Aliens. So I am convinced that the disturbing inquiries carried out by Barbato deserve our maxim attention, especially to understand how much truth there is about the next Planet X's arrival.

I heard about "Giuliana Conforto", who is often quoted by Icke:

<http://www.giulianaconforto.it/English/home.Eng.htm>

She speaks about 2012 etc.

Could all that be only a big fake (jesuit-fake)?

Could occur the final Saturnian coup d'etat before the 2012? Meanwhile we are all expecting the "New Age", the old one (New Atlantis) returns?

Thank to The Unhived Mind I realized that David Icke is covering the most important piece of the truth (Vatican-Jesuit keystone) , but could be him together with Giuly an ACTIVE part of the plan?

Centro Ufologico Nazionale is strictly controlled by the Intelligence, and his magazine news is very banal. To such a point that I think they planned all this.

In which way could that work?

- 1) Support an organization which is clearly managed by Intelligence, Jesuits, etc.
- 2) Everyone could see that. So you create and control other organizations (which are carrying your agenda...) and these organization will collect the trust of the people "attacking and exposing" the ones of the point 1).

It is only a game inside the same Family.

However I found an interesting interview with Barbato made by misteritalia.it site where he speaks about Retinger:

“...La nascita del Bilderberg così come la creazione della Comunità Europea è riconducibile ad una figura in particolare, l'economista israelita Joseph Retinger. Retinger sembra che già a partire dal 1913 fosse introdotto in circoli di potere britannici oltre a far parte col tempo di logge massoniche polacche e svedesi intrattenendo rapporti con eminenze dell'Ordine dei Gesuiti e con il reverendo Padre Gruber che fu l'artefice di un avvicinamento fra la Chiesa e la Massoneria...”

>>> He says Bilderberg has been built by israelit economist Joseph Retinger. It seems Retinger was involved since 1913 in the British power associations and in Polish and Swedish Masonic lodges, having relations with personality of the Jesuit Order and with reverend Father Gruber who was the author of the approach between Church and Masonry.

But it seems Barbato doesn't go beyond that.

<http://www.misteritalia.it/intervista4.htm>

(Long article, in Italian)

My impression is that all this is only a “Make Up Operation” in order to show the Jesuit Order equal to his puppets: Bilderberg, Rockefeller, Rotschild, etc. and confusing so the Master with the Servants.

Before people realize by themselves your REAL nature, is better you present it but in a misguided way. In fact it seems that lately Jesuit are too much exposed.... They could need a “covertly controlled exposition” and this is the reason why the Church allows critics about herself.

2012 is simply the end of the Zodiac, BIG DEAL!

David Icke isn't covering the Jesuit/Vatican infact hes kept well away from it for a long time. Its only recently his website has opened up slightly on the subject. I believe this is because I've pushed Jesuit knowledge like crazy on a forum he acknowledged at one time. Its public pressure due to this also. Icke is useful for understanding some of the Masonics and how the invisible prison is around us and thats it. Bilderberg was created by JESUIT Joseph Retinger and Black Nobilitys and Roman Catholic Prince Bernard.

All of this "Nibiru/Planet X" nonsense is merely a distraction. The Anunnaki most probably come from Earth. They simply know that people will be more willing to worship them as gods if they present themselves as superior beings from another world, rather than the mere descendants of dinosaurs.

Title: Minnesotan's JFK painting bound for Vatican

Bladestorm - November 20, 2006 02:28 AM (GMT)

Amazing, simply amazing! I'm speechless.

Minnesotan's JFK painting bound for Vatican

by Chris Roberts, Minnesota Public Radio
November 15, 2006

A controversial painting of John F. Kennedy's dying moments is on display at the Cathedral of St. Paul. The unveiling of the painting corresponds with a week-long symposium the church has convened on the Kennedy assassination.

St. Paul, Minn. — Mark Balma's "Pieta" shows a grief-stricken Jacqueline Kennedy cradling the mortally wounded President's head in her lap, just after their limo has arrived at Parkland Hospital in Dallas. It's a moment that changed history, but a moment Balma could only envision because it wasn't photographed.

Balma offered the five-by-seven-foot oil tempera painting to several museums, including the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and the Smithsonian. Both turned it down for being either too emotional or inappropriate. When he approached the St. Paul Cathedral, which already houses two of Balma's enormous frescoes, it became the inspiration for a week-long event examining the assassination.

Balma says the piece fits well in a church because it represents a moment imbued with spirituality.

"I think in those tragic moments we are given certain graces to deal with that kind of tragedy, and I think that's what I tried to represent." The cathedral took on the air of a state funeral as an honor guard presented the flag and a horn quintet played solemn music. When the painting was unveiled, the small audience walked up together to view it more closely. For some, the memories of where they were and what they were doing when they heard were triggered once again.

"I was at home and my husband was having lunch...."

"I was in the First National Bank in St. Paul and then my boss told me what happened..."

"I was a junior, oh my goodness, at a catholic school....."

For Virginia Costello of St. Paul, the painting helped her identify even more with Jackie Kennedy as a wife.

"My husband looked a lot like President Kennedy," she says. "They were both Irish and the same color hair and everything and, it just really affects me."

Susan Burns of Minneapolis read about "Pieta" in the newspaper and came over to St. Paul to see it. Pieta is also the name of the famous Michelangelo sculpture of Mother Mary holding the lifeless body of Jesus in her arms after he was taken down from the cross. As she described her reaction to the image of the First Lady, in her familiar pink outfit, spending her final moments with her dying husband, its symbolism became clear, and Burns was overcome.

"I mean obviously it's the Pieta and she reminds us of Our Lady, and just how mothers sacrifice a lot and wives, and that the Blessed Virgin is with all of us."

Father Joseph Johnson is Rector of the Cathedral in St. Paul. Johnson says the assassination was an important moment in the nation's history and the history of the church, given Kennedy's status as the first Catholic elected president. He can understand how the piece might arouse conflicted emotions for some, but Johnson doesn't view it as controversial.

"No one is making a judgment about the President one way or another. The church certainly isn't canonizing him. At the same time, our nation has this as a part of its history and we can't hide from that." Mark Balma plans to present "Pieta" to the Pope in Rome where it will become part of the Vatican Museum's collection. Father Johnson says the Vatican may send it to the John Paul II Cultural Center in Washington.

It will be on display at the Cathedral of St. Paul through November 22, the 43rd anniversary of John F. Kennedy's death. The week-long symposium will feature presentations on the Kennedy years, history painting and the assassination, including remarks from former governor and JFK assassination buff Arne Carlson.

J.F.K was one of their greatest assassinations of all time and the perfect way to scare the crap out of any future president who wishes to step up and try fronting the almighty powerful Jesuit Order and their Vatican!

It's soon coming up on 2 year anniversary of unplugging from TV. Last week I splurged on a portable DVD player..... and now the trick is to find some decent content to play on it, always a dicey prospect, that. For kicks I got the Oliver Stone - JFK - Directors Cut, came with a second disc of " bonus material", a good 2 plus hours of extra stuff. It includes quite a bit of archived footage & some interview with the real Jim Garrison, who I believe died in 92, they actually had one final interview with him from his deathbed, he was still able to articulate well but struggling for each breath, he looked to be really in bad shape, shriveled up from I don't know what. The Bonus disc had several categories of info, one entirely on various conspiracy angles, and somewhere within all those was the story of the fellow in charge of counter-intelligence at the CIA at that time (can't remember his name), a guy who was apparently consumed with the notion of finding a deep level russian mole he was convinced existed. Somewhere within that segment of bonus material somebody floated the idea that he eventually found and rid his mole - JFK :blink:

Yeah, I know they put a rosary in her hands that she got from Mother Teresa (yet another wolf in sheep's clothing).

Another thing I find interesting...Diana had been wearing white pants and a black top that night (the black/white theme).

I have "The Day Diana Died" checked out of the local library, and when Diana was lying there dead in the hospital she was dressed in a black dress, borrowed from an ambassador's wife.

Oh, and the Queen was in a fit over the whereabouts of some jewels...priorities, ya know.... :rolleyes:

Americans: Look What Happened at Jasenovic Concentration Camp

Horrific tales of murder and torture as Pope justifies killing. Are Americans next?

20 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/20-Nov-2006.html>

In a recent hearing in the case of Alperin v. Vatican Bank, Pope Benedict's personal attorney admitted the Vatican was involved in the genocide committed in Croatia during World War II, killing more than 500,000 Serbs and Jews.

It is also undisputed that the Vatican worked hand-in-hand with the Nazi Party to accomplish this horrendous mass murder, as attorney for the genocide victims, Jonathan Levy, is now trying to get financial reparations for his clients, accusing the Vatican Bank of post war money laundering of genocide profits.

What's incredible about the case being argued in a San Francisco federal court, besides the media keeping the case away from the public eye, is the Pope's attorney had the audacity in a November hearing to claim the Vatican was justified in partaking in mass murder as it was "permissible under international law."

Although the Pope's attorney stopped short in saying the Vatican is above the law, his outlandish arguments fit nicely with Canon Law, stating the Roman Catholic Church has the right to kill heretics without the killings being a violation of Church or international criminal law.

And for purposes of clarification, a heretic, as defined by Canon Law, is anyone who does not give his undying loyalty to the Pope or follow the Church's doctrines, which in the eyes of the Church officials justifies murder of innocents such as the Serbs and Jews during World War II.

"The same Canon Law applies today," said author of Vatican Assassins, Eric Jon Phelps. "The Vatican justifies murder, acting above the law and they plan on using its Office of Inquisition, still in existence today, to exterminate anyone they determine to be heretics and do not render complete obedience and loyalty to the Pope."

Although not part of the law suit, a recent video came to light implicating the Vatican and the Nazis, connecting them to the horrors of a concentration camp called Jasenovac. Previously, a well-guarded secret from the West, the following is an explanation of what when on in Jasenovac by the presenters of the video.

"Situated not really behind the iron curtain, Jasenovac concentration camp and its unsurpassed cruelty on Serbs, Jews and Gypsies have never been acknowledged in the west. One is for the desire of communist president Tito (of Croatian descent) to impose ideology of "brotherhood and unity" to former Yugoslavia, and the other is lack of awareness in the West, of the victimization of Serbian people fighting the fascism, including the cruelest Ustashe (Croatian nazi), the only Hitler's puppet state that imposed the same racial laws as Nazi Germany against Jews, Gypsies and Serbs.

"Watch this educational documentary and discover the shameful role of Vatican in the genocide. Citizens of the world owe it to 700,000 victims. Serbia, Serb, Srbija, Kosovo, ethnic cleansing, etnicko ciscenje, Croat, paramilitary, mujahedeen, al-qaeda."

Here is a link to the video for viewing: <http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=45...5164&pr=goog-sl>

Regarding Alperin, Levy said the case is reaching a very delicate point and is reserving comment, but stands on a recent statement he made in November:

"On the one hand the Vatican is quick to condemn Israel and Serbia in recent years but in essence says it's OK to butcher 500,000 people, steal their belongings and stash it in the Vatican Bank. Pope Benedict should be concerned that the moral integrity of his Papacy is being undermined in a Federal Court."

According to Levy, Alperin v. Vatican Bank was originally filed in Federal Court in San Francisco in November 1999. The plaintiffs are concentration camp survivors of Serb, Jewish, and Ukrainian background and their relatives as well as organizations representing over 500,000 Holocaust victims.

The plaintiffs also seek an accounting and restitution of the Nazi Croatian Treasury that according to the U.S. State Department was illicitly transferred to the Vatican bank and other banks after the end of the war.

Named defendants currently include the Vatican Bank, Franciscan Order, and the Croatian Liberation Movement. Levy said these defendants combined to conceal assets looted by the Croatian Nazis from concentration camp victims, Serbs, Jews, Roma and others between 1941-1945.

Levy is also quick to point out the heart of the Vatican Bank lawsuit is based on information chronicled in the book, The Secret War Against the Jews, co-authored by John Loftus who also serves as the plaintiffs expert witness in this case.

He added that from the authors of the bestselling, The Secret War Against the Jews, comes another explosive work, Unholy Trinity, exploring links between the Vatican and the Nazis, featuring startling new information that redefines the Catholic Church's role in twentieth-century history.

"I have filed another lawsuit, Levy v. CIA, filed under the Freedom of Information Act, seeking release of U.S. Intelligence agency files regarding the notorious Vatican spymaster, Fr. Krunoslav Draganovic. New records on Draganovic were released as a result of that lawsuit in 2001," said Levy.

Levy, who has appeared several times on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, is licensed in California and the District of Columbia, as well as having represented organizations and individuals in a variety of Holocaust and World War II related lawsuits including banking, insurance, and slave labor matters. Levy is also a member of the International Criminal Bar in The Hague.

Title: Head of Russian Orthodox Church Says

Description: Roman Catholics Are Allies

ArchAngel - November 20, 2006 11:48 PM (GMT)

Will other Orthodox groups follow suit?

<http://www.mosnews.com/news/2006/11/20/noatheism.shtml>

A top Russian Orthodox cleric said on Sunday that the Roman Catholic Church and the Orthodox Church were allies in the face of hostile secularism, the Reuters news agency reported Monday.

Metropolitan Kirill, the head of external relations for the Moscow Patriarchate, has met Pope Benedict and is thought to be pushing for closer ties with the Catholic Church.

"In the Vatican and not only in the Vatican but all over the world, Catholics understand that Orthodox (people) are their allies," Kirill told the Rossiya television station.

"And Orthodox (people) are more and more coming to understand that Catholics are their allies in the face of hostile and non-religious secularism," Kirill said.

The Russian Orthodox Church, which split from Rome in the Great Schism of 1054, had chilly relations with the late John Paul II, a Pole who had campaigned against communism and sought in vain to visit post-communist Russia.

Senior Vatican officials have said they are working towards an eventual meeting between Benedict and Patriarch Alexiy II.

Kirill, one of the most senior clerics from the Russian Orthodox Church to meet Benedict since his 2005 election, slammed homosexuality.

“When the declaration of human rights was made no-one in their worst nightmare could imagine a gay parade in Jerusalem,” Kirill said.

Gays and their supporters rallied in Jerusalem on Nov. 10 in a festival that has sparked religious protests.

Kirill said liberalism was simplistic to put too much stress on individual rights: “Yes it is your own affair if you want to be a sinner or a villain ... But you cannot say society does not care who you are.”

When asked about the use in services of Church Slavonic, which is difficult to understand for speakers of modern Russian, Kirill said some Slavic texts could be edited to bring them up to date, a radical move in the conservative Orthodox Church.

“We should edit Slavic texts to bring them closer to contemporary people but at the same time not destroy the cultural traditions connected with the divine service,” he said.

Confession No.19: We Return To Main Question 'Who Are Real Spiritual Controllers Of The New World Order And U.S. Government'?

Former military veteran, Darryl Eberhart, provides insights, saying "we can no longer remain silent about the Vatican and Jesuit Order."

18 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/18-Nov-2006.html>

The main question presented in this ongoing series Confessions with the Jesuits is who are the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order and U.S. government.

It is vital that this question be answered, as the enemy within America needs to be properly identified before the country can be saved from fascism and ultimate destruction.

Many writers have contributed their views during the last year and we have made much progress in our search for the truth despite the media's lack of attention to the Vatican's role in the New World Order.

This week we look to Darryl Eberhart, who has served in the U.S. Armed Forces for twenty years, including three overseas assignments. During his military career, he spent 11 and a half years in the U.S.A.F. as an enlisted member, and 8 and half years in the U.S. Army as a warrant officer and commissioned officer.

Eberhart is a Christian who loves this Republic, our U.S. Constitution & Bill of Rights and the American people. He is committed to educating the public about the unfolding New World Order and subscribes to the motto: "The true patriot does not love his government. The true patriot loves his country and watches his government."

Eberhart's is a frequent guest on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal , and his writings can be found at www.toughtopics.net The following is an article by Eberhart entitled The Real Controllers of the USA. Although a bit lengthy, please read it as it may open up your eyes.

The questions of the day concerning these very powerful controllers:

- (1) Are they "the Jews, Israel, & the Zionists", or are they the Vatican and her Jesuits?
- (2) Who really choreographed World War II - was it "the Jews and the Zionists", or was it the Vatican and her Jesuits?

((NOTE: All emphasis throughout this newsletter, unless otherwise noted, is by the editor of "Tackling the Tough Topics (TTT)". Some issues of my TTT newsletters and my "Examining the Tough Issues (ETI)" newsletters can be read on the following three Internet web sites:

www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net , www.calltodecision.com , and www.libertytothecaptives.net. The last site has a link to the first site.))

WARNING: This issue of the TTT newsletter may seriously "disturb" some folks' "comfort zones". However, TRUTH is more important than any of our "comfort zones".

IMPORTANT NOTE #1: I (the editor of the ETI & TTT newsletters) am not a Roman Catholic; I also most definitely am not anti-Roman Catholic as far as individual Roman Catholics go. My dad and 90% of my relatives are Roman Catholic; my best friend is Roman Catholic; and the majority of my friends are Roman Catholic. I am, however, against the top levels of secret societies (from the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order to the hierarchy of Freemasonry). This is because these secret societies control the leadership of the Roman Catholic Church (through the Jesuit Order and P2 Masonry). These secret societies also control the leadership of most of the larger, non-Catholic, Christian denominations. I am also against any religious hierarchy that tries to place itself equal to or above the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God - or equal to or above God's Holy Word (i.e., the Holy Bible) and His Ten Commandments!

IMPORTANT NOTE #2: We can no longer afford to REMAIN SILENT on these issues for fear of offending any particular group - in this case, Roman Catholics. Please carefully consider this quote by author Dave Hunt: "We are told to love one another as Christ has loved us. Pop psychology trivializes that command by equating it with a 'positive' attitude. Forgotten is the first duty of love: to speak the truth (Ephesians 4:15). Real love does not flatter or soothe when correction is needed but [rather] points out the error which is blinding and harming the loved one. Christ said, 'As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten; be zealous therefore, and repent' (Revelation 3:19). Instead, the idea is now current that love excludes rebuke, ignores the truth, and seeks unity at any price. Only disaster can result."

Why Am I Writing More & More About Roman Catholicism?

This editor of the ETI and TTT newsletters has been writing more on the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy, and especially its Jesuit Order, in recent newsletters because I keep uncovering more and more about the deep hatred that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has for independent Bible-believing Christians, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, and Jews. We Americans have, for the most part, been largely ignorant of the well-documented history of the Roman Catholic Church in conducting brutal religious genocide (via Inquisition, 'holy' wars, and 'holy' crusades) against all the afore-mentioned groups. (Please see my TTT newsletters entitled "Death by Government and Death by Church" and "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts" on the following Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com.) Sadly, many Americans believe the "ecumenical rhetoric" of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy - i.e., that she has "changed her ways" and now loves all the "separated brethren". However, my study of the Papacy shows me that this is just a RUSE. (Per Webster's New World Dictionary a "ruse" is: "a stratagem" [which is] "any trick or scheme for achieving some purpose".) The "purpose" is to bring all non-Catholic Christian denominations under the "umbrella" (i.e ., the authoritative and totalitarian rule) of the Papacy!

Yes, the Papacy, despite its "ecumenical rhetoric", has not changed a bit over the many centuries in the following categories:

- ? Its deep hatred of Jews, all independent Bible-believing non-Catholic Christians, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s we find the Roman Catholic Ustashi in Croatia, led on by priests, monks, and friars, brutally slaughtering from 600,000 to one million Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children);
- ? Its long-held dream to bring all non-Catholic Christians under its monopolistic, totalitarian, ecclesiastical control;
- ? Its long-held dream to head up a totalitarian one-world religious organization; and,
- ? Its long-held dream to bring all world leaders - especially those in "Christian" countries - under the temporal power of the pope. (That is, the Papacy would be the top player and "controller" in a one-world government - just like it was the top player and "controller" on the European continent for many centuries! Kings indeed bowed before popes.)

Indeed, power - absolute power - has long been the Vatican's "primary objective". History has recorded the Vatican's deep hatred for religious liberty and freedom of conscience. The U.S. Constitution, with its "Bill of Rights" guaranteeing such liberties, has long been hated by the Vatican. (For a good example of this hatred of religious liberty and freedom of conscience, read the Syllabus of Errors that was issued in 1864 by Pope Pius IX.) I have heard that there is an acronym in use by some Knights of Columbus in America. This acronym is "M.A.C.": "Make America Catholic". America is the last "roadblock" in the way of the Vatican and the rest of the globalist rich and power elite in their dreams for one-world government and one-world religion. Is America scheduled for a religious genocide - another Inquisition - as occurred in the 1940s in Croatia? I believe the danger is very real and possibly quite imminent - and that is why I am writing about the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy, its long-held dreams for domination, and its well-documented history of religious genocide!

DEFINITIONS (Listed, hopefully, alphabetically):

((Please carefully read all these definitions - they are critical to understanding this newsletter.))

"ADL" (per Editor of TTT): The Jewish Anti-Defamation League - a sub-organization of the Jewish Masonic B'nai B'rith organization.

"B'nai B'rith" (per Editor of TTT): A Jewish Masonic organization.

"B'nai B'rith" (per 1955 World Scope Encyclopedia): "(Hebrew [for] 'Sons of the Covenant'): Oldest and largest Jewish service and fraternal organization in the U.S. Founded [in] 1843; membership in this country and Canada, 1950, was 345,000? Lodges also exist in more than a score of foreign countries? National Headquarters are located at Washington, D.C."

"Freemason" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "A member of an international secret society having as its principles brotherliness, charity, and mutual aid."

"Front" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #15): "A person or group used to cover or obscure the activity or objectives of another controlling person or group."

"Illuminati" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "1. People who have, or profess to have, special intellectual or spiritual enlightenment. 2. Any of various societies, usually secret, composed of such people."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition: The modern version of the Illuminati was formed on May 1, 1776 by Jesuit-trained Adam Weishaupt, who taught Catholic Canon Law at Jesuit Ingolstadt University in Bavaria (in southern Germany). Weishaupt pretended to leave the Jesuit Order (i.e., he was 'sheep dipped' - see definition of 'sheep dipping' listed later in this newsletter) so that he could set up a front group called the Illuminati (that the Jesuits could use for their own purposes). This Jesuit front group, the Illuminati, fomented and orchestrated the bloody French Revolution of 1789-1799.

Thus, by using this "front group", the Jesuit Order was given a great degree of "plausible deniability" as to its role in the French Revolution.))

"Israel" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meanings #5 through #7): "5. Country between the Mediterranean Sea and the country of Jordan: established (1948) by the U. N. as a Jewish state? 6. The Jewish people, as descendents of Jacob. 7. Any group of Christians regarding themselves as chosen by God."

"Jesuit" (per Webster's 1828 Dictionary of the English Language): "One of the Society of Jesus, so called, founded by Ignatius Loyola; a society remarkable for their cunning in propagating their principles."

"Jesuitism" (per Webster's 1828 Dictionary of the English Language): "[1.] The arts, principles and practices of the Jesuits. 2. Cunning; deceit; hypocrisy; prevarication; deceptive practices to effect a purpose."

((IMPORTANT NOTE: Please carefully read the following excerpts about the Jesuit Order.))

"Jesuit Order" or "Jesuits" (Excerpts from the 1955 World Scope Encyclopedia):

"Jesuits, or Society of Jesus: A monastic order of the Roman Catholic Church, founded (1536) in Paris by Ignatius of Loyola. Originally the special function of the order was to care for the sick and to fortify the position of the Pope within the [Roman Catholic] Church. [Ed. Note: The Jesuit Order was primarily founded to counter the Protestant Reformation.] The latter function soon became the principal one of the order and thus it is not surprising that the order was approved by Pope Paul III as early as 1540, the first generalship being vested in the founder. By the time Ignatius died in 1566?his order had increased from 60 to more than 1000 members. The members had to vow not only chastity, poverty, and implicit obedience to authority?but, especially, compliance with the commands of the Pope in going to any country and under any conditions to convert heretics and infidels, especially Moors and Jews.

?Their special obedience to the Pope naturally caused the Jesuits to fight against the greatest danger to the Catholic Church, Protestantism. Through this fight, the Jesuits developed political talents which soon made the members of the order the most versatile representatives of the Catholic Church in worldly affairs. In order to achieve this goal, a complicated organization of the utmost rigidity was developed. The Jesuits received the rights both of mendicant orders and of secular priests. They recognized only the superiority of their general [Ed. Note: the Jesuit Superior General] and the Pope. This gave them great worldly power. Furthermore, from their inception they devoted much interest to education, and early in their history were appointed to many highly important chairs of theology at the leading universities of Europe.

?Associated with all layers of society, from the humble to the powerful, the Jesuits combined great intellectual versatility and a shrewd political apprehension with a deep religious mysticism which was especially connected with the adoration of the Blessed Virgin. A certain soldierly spirit was furthered by the constitution of the order which provided severest punishment for members who did not comply with their vows.

?The Jesuits tried also to restrain nationalistic tendencies everywhere and to emphasize the universality of the Catholic Church. Their missionary branch was no less important. Due to the fact that they [initially] worked principally in the Indies, Japan, China, and Abyssinia, the Jesuits' spiritual work was often connected with the play of power politics. [Ed. Note: And it still is!] Thus they often played, directly or indirectly, a vital role in the political and economic conquest of the countries in which they served. ? Flourishing particularly in Spain and Portugal, members of the [Jesuit] order were among the first to set foot on the Spanish and Portuguese colonies in America.

Their remarkable rise in power at European courts [Ed. Note: where they became father confessors to kings (and their mistresses), queens, princes, and other leading figures in the royal court] and among the people led many institutions of learning, their teachers, and the non-Jesuit clergy to fear the Jesuits. It was largely for this reason that the parliament of France resisted the Jesuits in their attempts to obtain a foothold.

?By 1710, the order had more than 19,000 members and more than 22,000 by 1749. Increasingly feared and suspected by many European rulers [Ed. Note: most of whom were Roman Catholic], they were first driven out of Portugal (1759), and other countries followed suit. [Ed. Note: This occurred because the Jesuits had a very nasty habit of fomenting wars and revolutions, and of assassinating heads of State who wouldn't "play ball" with them.] In France?they were finally expelled in 1764. [Ed. Note: The French Revolution was "payback" for that expulsion.] Three years later Spain revoked its approval of the order. [Ed. Note: By 1931, according to Canadian historian J.E.C. Shepherd, the Jesuits had been expelled from 83 countries, city-states, and cities.]

In 1773, Pope Clement XIV suppressed ["forever"] the entire Jesuit Order by a papal bull, but in 1814, it was restored by Pope Pius VII. [Ed. Note: Pope Pius VII restored the Jesuit Order in exchange for his release from prison, where he had spent five years thinking over his decision to restore the Jesuits.]

?Later in the 19th century, however, the Jesuits were alternately driven out and permitted to exist in various European countries. They had to leave Italy in 1861, but were allowed to return in 1929. They were expelled from Germany in 1872, but permitted to exist there again after the fall of the Empire in 1918. In France the order was frequently expelled and restored after 1830 and finally permitted to return in 1919. England, Ireland, and the U.S., however, never passed any laws against the Jesuits. [Ed. Note: This was not a very smart move!]

At present [Ed. Note: this was written around 1955], the order totals about 25,000 members in 50 'provinces' [Ed. Note: each supervised by a Jesuit Provincial General], several of them in the U.S. Their influence on the hierarchy of the [Roman] Catholic Church has increased continually since about 1860. In the U.S. they possess a large number of educational institutions, the most noteworthy being in New York City; Washington and Georgetown, D.C.; Baltimore; Buffalo, New York; St. Louis, Missouri; New Orleans, Louisiana; Denver, Colorado; Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Omaha, Nebraska; and San Francisco, California."

"Jew" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "1. A person descended, or regarded as descended, from the ancient Hebrews of Biblical times. 2. A person whose religion is Judaism."

"Knights of Columbus" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "An international fraternal, benevolent, and proselyting society of Roman Catholic men, founded in 1882." [Ed. Note: I have heard that it is also called "the Pope's militia".]

((Ed. Comment concerning the preceding 'definition': Author and publisher Jack T. Chick tells us the following about the Knights of Columbus in his 1983 book Smokescreens: "The legions of Rome are awesome. More than one million practicing Catholics make up the ranks of the Knights of Columbus. They are fraternally pledged to the ideal of bringing America under papal rule. They are powerful, wealthy, [and] loyal."))

"Knights of Malta" (per excerpts from the Order's own historical data as provided to Eric Jon Phelps, author of the well-researched book Vatican Assassins):

"The Order of St. John [Ed. Note: which later became the Knights of Malta] was founded before the taking of Jerusalem in 1099 by the armies of the First Crusade [Ed. Note: by Roman Catholic Crusaders, and in accordance with the proclamation calling for 'Holy Crusade' by Pope Urban II]. It began as a monastic community dedicated to St. John the Baptist, which administered a hospice-infirmary for pilgrims to the Holy Land. Originally connected with the Benedictines, it became, under Blessed Gerard (1120), an independent organization. By the [papal] Bull of 15 February 1113, addressed to Gerard, Pope Pascal II approved the confraternity of the Hospital of St. John, placed it under the protection of the Holy See, and ensured its right of freely electing its heads?without any interference from other ecclesiastical or any lay authority. In virtue of this [papal] Bull and of subsequent Papal acts, the Hospital became an exempt Order of the [Roman Catholic] Church.

Owing to the political situation after the setting up by the Crusaders of the Kingdom of Jerusalem, the Order?was obliged to assume military functions for the protection of the sick, the pilgrims, and the Christian territory which the Crusaders had won back from the Muslims. Accordingly, the Order of the Hospital of St. John acquired the additional character of an Order of Knighthood. The Knights were thus also Religious, bound by the three monastic vows of Obedience, Chastity, and Poverty. It thus became a persona mixta, a religious-military Order.

?In 1291 Acre, the last Christian stronghold in the Holy Land was lost and the Order settled temporarily in Cyprus.

?With the occupation of the island of Rhodes, completed in 1310?the Order acquired territorial sovereignty as well (and the Knights of St. John came to be called Knights of Rhodes).

?The Knights gallantly repulsed numerous Turkish assaults, until the Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent attacked Rhodes? On Christmas Eve of 1522 the Knights were forced to capitulate and, on 1 January 1523, left the island with military honors. For the next seven years the Order, while vested with international sovereignty, was deprived of territory, until the cession by the Emperor Charles V?of the islands of Malta, Gozo, and Comino, as well as Tripoli in North Africa, in sovereign fief.

?The navy of the Order of St. John (or of Malta as it now came to be called) became one of the most powerful in the Mediterranean ?

?In 1607 and, again, in 1620, the dignity of Grand Master was conjoined with the title of Prince of the Holy Roman Empire and in 1630 with the style of Eminence.

?In 1798 [Napoleon] Bonaparte, engaged in a campaign against Egypt, occupied the island of Malta and drove out the Order.

?After temporary seats in Messina, Catania, and Ferrara the Order finally established itself in 1834 in Rome, where it holds, extra-territorially, the Malta Palace? From 1805 the Order was ruled by Lieutenants, until in 1879 when Pope Leo XIII restored the Grandmastership and the honors of a Cardinal attaching to it.

?The Order of Malta constitutes the sole unbroken continuation of the Order of the Hospital of St. John recognized in 1113. It alone is a religious Order of the Catholic Church and at the same time a Catholic Order of Knighthood.

?On April 28, 1927 at the special request of?Pope Pius XI, the Supreme Council of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta granted a Constitution (Charter) creating the: American Chapter of the Knights of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta."

((Interesting Note by Editor of TTT: The Hospitallers (later to become the Knights of Malta) were one of three religious-military orders founded in the 12th century - the other two being the Knights Templar (or, the Templars) and the Teutonic Knights. Concerning the Templars we are told the following by the 1955 World Scope Encyclopedia: "The Templars were founded in Jerusalem? The new order was given lodgings near the so-called Temple of Solomon? It was formally confirmed by Pope Honorius II in 1128. ? The order became?the international bankers of their time. They were the predecessors of the great banking families such as the Medici. ?The Templars were brought down by [King] Philip IV of France, and Pope Clement V. ?The order [i.e., the Knights Templar] was disbanded in 1312, and much of their great wealth was given to the Knights of St. John [which later became the Knights of Malta]." This is indeed very important to remember - that this Roman Catholic Military Order, the Knights of Malta, which is co-located with the Jesuit Superior General in Rome, inherited "much" of the "great wealth" of the Knights Templar! Also quite interestingly, at least three Knights of Malta have headed up the CIA: William "Wild Bill" Donovan, John McCone, and William Casey. Another Knight of Malta, James Jesus Angleton, for many years was the chief of the Counterintelligence Division at the CIA - as well as heading up both the Vatican and Israel "Desks" at the CIA - and, was the CIA liaison to the Warren ("Whitewash") Commission.))

"Mafia" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): "A secret society of criminals thought [Ed. Note: it has been well proven] to exist in the U.S. and other countries, engaging in blackmail, illicit trade in narcotics, etc."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition: If you doubt that the Mafia exists, then please read the book Double Cross by Sam and Chuck Giancana. This book reveals connections between "the Mob" and the CIA - especially in the assassination business. It is $10.45 postpaid from "Radio Liberty". To order a copy by credit card, please call their toll-free order line at 1-800-544-8927.))

"Masonry" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #3): "Same as Freemasonry."

"Opus Dei" ((per The World Book Dictionary (1989)): "An international religious organization of Roman Catholic laymen and priests, founded in Spain." ((Ed. Question: Might the primary objective of this organization, which includes in its membership a fair number of wealthy and powerful Roman Catholics, be to advance the New World Order agenda of the Papacy?))

"P2 (or P-2) Masonry" (per John Daniel, author of the book The Grand Design Exposed): "There is a Masonic Propaganda group, number two?known as the 'P-2 Club', with its headquarters being in Rome. ?The P-2 Club is a propaganda society of the world's elite which includes high-ranking Roman Catholic prelates and, of course, Jesuits."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding 'definition': P2 Masonry had its fingerprints all over the murder of Pope John Paul I, who was eliminated when he decided to "clean house" at both the Vatican and the Vatican bank - i.e., he had learned that many top-level Roman Catholic prelates, including cardinals, were high-level Masons and he had made plans to remove them from power. If you have trouble believing that Pope John Paul I was murdered, then I suggest that you read the book The Murder of John Paul I by Vance Ferrell. This book is $6.50 postpaid. It provides very strong evidence that Pope John Paul I was murdered by his Masonic enemies inside the Vatican. To order a copy, please make check or money order payable to "Harvestime Books" and mail it to: Harvestime Books // P.O. Box 300 // Altamont, TN 37301. To order a copy by credit card, please call 1-931-692-2777.)

"Papacy" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "1. The position, authority, or rank of the pope. 2. The period of time during which a pope rules. 3. The succession of popes; popes collectively. 4. The government of the Roman Catholic Church, headed by the Pope."

"Red Herring" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): "Something used to divert attention from the basic issue."

"Scapegoat" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): "A person, group, or thing upon whom the blame for the mistakes or crimes of others is thrust."

"Sheep dipping" (per author Craig Roberts in his excellent book The Medusa File):

"An individual who was 'sheep-dipped' was discharged from the military 'on paper', but during his absence his time in grade, promotions, retirement years and other perks continued just as if he had never left the service. After serving with the CIA, the person could return to his regular branch [of military service] and continue just as if he had never left. ?During the Cold War, and later Vietnam, it [i.e., sheep dipping] was done to provide the CIA - by now referred to as 'the Company' because of the number of contract agents being handled - with a system of 'Plausible Deniability'."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition: The Vatican has done the same thing for centuries through its Jesuit "temporal coadjutors" - i.e., its "Jesuits of the short robe" - men who infiltrate governments, publishing companies, newspapers, other church denominations, other churches' seminaries, revolutionary movements, etc., in order to "steer" (i.e., direct) these governments, organizations, institutions, and movements in the direction that the Vatican (or the Jesuit Superior General) desires! Jesuit-trained Adam Weishaupt (who taught Catholic Canon Law at Jesuit Ingolstadt University in Bavaria) is a classic example of this "Jesuit sheep dipping". Weishaupt, who pretended to leave the Jesuit Order (i.e., he was 'sheep dipped'), set up a front group called the Illuminati on May 1, 1776 that the Jesuits could use for their own nefarious purposes. This Jesuit front group, the Illuminati, fomented and orchestrated the bloody French Revolution of 1789-1799. Thus, the Jesuit Order was given a great degree of "plausible deniability" as to its major role in fomenting & orchestrating this bloody revolution.))

"Smoke screen" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): "Anything said or done to conceal or mislead."

"Tammany Society [a.k.a., Tammany Hall] (per 1955 World Scope Encyclopedia): "A powerful Democratic political organization of New York City, incorporated in 1789 and historically often associated with bossism and other political abuses."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition: It has been reported that one cannot run for dog catcher in New York City (and certain other large cities in the USA) without the blessing of the Roman Catholic Knights of Columbus!))

"Vatican" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "1. The papal palace, consisting of a group of buildings in Vatican City . 2. The papal government or authority."

"Vatican City" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): Independent papal state, constituted in 1929 as an enclave in Rome?"

"Zionism" (per Webster's New World Dictionary): "A movement formerly for reestablishing, now for supporting, the Jewish national state of Israel."

"Zionist" (per Editor of TTT): "A member of the Zionist movement (i.e., Zionism)."

HERE ARE SOME RELEVANT QUOTATIONS:

"Aware that the Rothschilds are an important Jewish family, I looked them up in [the] Encyclopedia Judaica and discovered that they bear the title 'Guardians of the Vatican Treasury'? The appointment of Rothschild gave the Black Papacy [i.e., the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order] absolute financial privacy and secrecy. Who would ever search a family of orthodox Jews for the key to the wealth of the Roman Catholic Church?"

F. Tupper Saussy (Author of the book Rulers of Evil)

"The Rothschilds were Jesuits who used their Jewish background as a faûze to cover their sinister activities. The Jesuits, working through Rothschild and [financier Nicholas] Biddle, sought to gain control of the banking system of the United States."

Bill Hughes (Author of The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

"The Jesuits function like the Papacy's secret worldwide police. They are very secretive and go to great lengths to keep their operations secret. They tell no one that they are Jesuits. To all outside appearances, they appear as normal people."

Bill Hughes

"?The [Roman Catholic] Church to rule the world; the ['White'] Pope to rule the Church; [and] the Jesuits [Ed. Note: headed by the 'Black Pope', the Jesuit Superior General] to rule the ['White'] Pope - such was and is the program of the Order [i.e., Society] of Jesus [i.e., the Jesuit Order]."

John Daniel (Author of the book The Grand Design Exposed)

"The Jesuit Order at last reached the pinnacle of its power and prestige in the early eighteenth century [i.e., the early 1700s]. It had become more influential and more wealthy than any other organization in the world. It held a position in world affairs that no oath-bound group of men has ever held before or since? 'Nearly all the Kings and Sovereigns of Europe had only Jesuits as directors of their consciences [i.e., as confessor-priests], so that the whole of Europe appeared to be governed by Jesuits only.'" (1927; using a short quote by Jesuit Cordara)

Boyd Barrett (Ex-Jesuit)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The Jesuits are "back", stronger today than they ever were in the past! And much of their power base is here in the USA (e.g., Georgetown!))

"There was no disguise they (the Jesuits) could not assume, and therefore, there was no place into which they could not penetrate. They could enter unheard the closet of the Monarch, or the Cabinet of the Statesman. They could sit unseen in convocation or General Assembly, and mingle unsuspected in the deliberations and debates.

There was no tongue they could not speak, and no creed they could not profess, and thus there was no people among whom they might not sojourn, and no church whose membership they might not enter and whose functions they might not discharge. They could execrate [i.e., sharply denounce] the Pope with the Lutheran, and swear the Solemn League with the Covenanters."

J.A. Wylie (Rev.; Author of The History of Protestantism)

"There are other secret and semi-secret organizations such as the International Bankers, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Bilderberger Group, [the] Club of Rome, the Trilateral Commission, the New Age Movement, the Illuminati, and Freemasonry, who are all deeply involved in global politics, and who actively promote the uniting of the people of our planet under a New World Order. However?these all are but mere 'front' organizations, behind which the true source of power [Ed. Note: the Vatican and its Jesuits] hides and uses to distribute and channel its designs. And, as in any conspiracy, secrecy and shifting attention and blame away from itself is paramount to its success."

John Daniel

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country... It is they who pull the wires which control the public mind, who harness old social forces and contrive new ways to bind and guide the world?" (1928)

Edward Bernays (Called by some the "Father of Public Opinion")

"Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

'Lord' John E. E. Dalberg Acton (1843-1902; English historian)

"Men and women become accomplices to those evils they fail to oppose."

I. INTRODUCTION

One of the most important topics of our day that needs to be openly and fully discussed is this: "Who is really running America, and much of the western world, today - who is really at the top of the power elite pyramid? Is it 'the Jewish bankers, Jewish Masonry such as B'nai B'rith and the Anti-Defamation League (ADL), Zionists, Jewish neo-conservatives in the current U.S. Administration, and Israel' (collectively known to some as 'the Jews'), OR is it the Vatican State/Papacy with her Jesuit Order, Opus Dei, Knights of Malta, Knights of Columbus, numerous monastic orders, and large priesthood?" Indeed, surely "inquiring minds" would like to know.

Another very important question that we must ask is this: "Who controls the very powerful top levels of Freemasonry?"

Another very important question that we need to consider: "Where do organized crime and big political machines (such as 'Tammany Hall') fit into the picture of globalist elite control of nations?"

Let's take a brief look at some interesting history (such as the attempts to restore papal authority in England in the 1500s; the bloody French Revolution [1789-1799]; the secret meetings at Vienna, Verona, and Chieri; World War I; and, World War II), and then we will try to ascertain who is running the USA today.

I covered some interesting "territory" concerning World War II in my TTT newsletter entitled "World War II" and in my TTT newsletter entitled "Death by Government and Death by Church". Both of these newsletters can be viewed on these two Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com.

True history is indeed often "stranger than fiction".

II. ATTEMPTS TO RESTORE PAPAL AUTHORITY IN ENGLAND IN THE 1500s

What happened in England in the 1500s and following centuries actually has a lot to do with what has happened in the history of the United States!

Here is a statement I made in a recent article that I wrote: "Editor of ETI and TTT has come to the following conclusion after studying the history of the Roman Catholic Church and Europe: It is virtually impossible to clearly understand European history from the 16th century to the present time without 'viewing' it through the 'lens' of the 'Reformation-Counter Reformation', Roman Catholic efforts to bring England back under papal authority, and the Jesuit Order."

Indeed, the Vatican tried mightily, especially through her Jesuit Order, to return England under papal authority by force. This "force" included attempts to assassinate various English monarchs, such as Queen Elizabeth I and King James I; attempts to foment revolution and civil war in various parts of Great Britain; and an actual direct "frontal assault" invasion attempt (i.e., the launching of the infamous Spanish Armada in 1588).

Please consider this quote from an article that I wrote on December 28, 2005:

"The Vatican (and especially her Jesuit Order from the mid 1500s) tried to bring England back under papal authority by force and subversion. A number of popes and European monarchs conspired to assassinate British monarchs, to foment revolutions in the British Isles, and to actually land foreign troops on British soil. These attempts to bring England back under the pope's authority by force reached their zenith in 1588 when the 130-ship Spanish Armada, carrying 20,000 troops, sailed for the British Isles. Pope Sixtus V had promised Spanish King Phillip II 200,000 crowns the moment the armada sailed, and another 100,000 crowns when troops were placed on shore in England. Researchers have examined British, French, and Spanish 'State papers' - and Vatican documents, for this era. These State papers and Vatican documents clearly show the Vatican's involvement not only in the planned invasion of England by the Spanish Armada, but also in numerous attempts to assassinate Queen Elizabeth II!

Sadly, Roman Catholic writers, editors, and apologists have made, and continue to make, tremendous efforts to rewrite and revise history and, in the process, whitewash the Vatican and her Jesuit Order's frequent involvement in court intrigues, assassinations and attempted assassinations of heads of State, fomenting of revolutions and wars, infiltration of governments, orchestration of religious genocide, etc. Fortunately, a number of researchers and authors, such as Albert Close, have examined various nations' State papers and/or actual Vatican documents, which substantiate totally the nefarious activities of the Vatican and her Jesuit Order in Britain throughout the past four centuries!"

When the Vatican and her friends amongst the European Catholic monarchs saw that their efforts to bring England back under papal authority through force were not working out, they decided to bring England back under the pope's thumb through massive infiltration of the British government, British publishing interests, churches and seminaries in Great Britain, etc. Where force had failed, infiltration succeeded beyond the Papacy's wildest dreams!

When the Vatican and her friends amongst the European Catholic monarchs saw that their efforts to destroy the American Constitutional Republic (with religious liberty) through force, they decided to destroy the American Constitutional Republic through massive infiltration of its government, its publishing interests, its churches and seminaries, etc. Where force had failed, infiltration succeeded beyond the Papacy's wildest dreams! ((If you don't believe this, then please check out F. Tupper Saussy's quotes in Section X., A.))

III. THE FRENCH REVOLUTION (1789-1799)

The modern version of the Illuminati "took the heat" for fomenting and orchestrating the bloody French Revolution of 1789-1799. But who were the real culprits, working as they usually do, "behind the scenes"?

Remember how we earlier described Jesuit-trained Adam Weishaupt, founder of the modern version of the Illuminati, as a Jesuit who had been "sheep dipped". In other words, Adam Weishaupt pretended to forsake the Jesuits while continuing to work "under cover" for the Jesuits. (Please see again the definition for "sheep dipping" at the beginning of this newsletter.) By the way, Weishaupt died "in the good graces" of the Roman Catholic Church!

Here are a number of quotes concerning the French Revolution by Bill Hughes, author of the two excellent books The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked:

"[Jesuit Adam] Weishaupt established the [modern version of the] Illuminati specifically to be a front organization behind which the Jesuits could hide. After being [formally] abolished by [Pope] Clement XIV in 1773, the Jesuits used the Illuminati and other organizations to carry out their operations. Thus, the front organizations would be blamed for the trouble caused by the Jesuits."

"Why would the Jesuits use their implacable enemy, the Jews, to further their designs for world dominion? The Jesuits never do anything out in the open where they can be exposed. If they are recognized as the culprits, they will be blamed and suffer the consequences, but if they can use someone else as the 'cause of the world's problems', especially an enemy they can destroy in the process, then they have simultaneously accomplished two of their objectives. The Jewish people are the perfect scapegoat. Since the Rothschilds are Jesuit agents operating under a Jewish cover, using them in forming the Illuminati back in 1776 effectively throws the onus of this conspiracy on the Jews. The Rothschilds are certainly not the only Jesuit agents that operate under a Jewish front.

The following sources [Ed. Note: Bill Hughes lists a number of books at the end of this paragraph] indicate that [Jesuit] Adam Weishaupt and the Rothschilds [Ed. Note: the "Guardians of the Vatican Treasury"] were the brains and the wealth behind the French Revolution."

"The Jesuits, [Jesuit Adam] Weishaupt, and the Rothschilds managed to cast the blame for the French Revolution on their front organization, the Illuminati!"

Front organizations, "sheep dipping", scapegoats, red herrings, and smoke screens - all of these are SOP (standard operating procedures) for the Jesuit Order!

IV. WHO CONTROLS THE TOP LEVELS OF FREEMASONRY?

This is indeed a very important question. I have listed many top-level Freemasons who have served in powerful positions in the U.S. government and in U.S. Intelligence agencies in a number of my TTT newsletters. For example, J. Edgar Hoover, longtime director of the FBI, was a high-level Freemason. Allen Dulles, the CIA director whom JFK fired, was a high-level Freemason. A number of U.S. presidents have also been high-level Freemasons, such as Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, and Gerald Ford. So it is indeed very important that we know who or what controls the top levels of Freemasonry.

Please carefully consider the following quotes:

"?If you trace up Masonry, through all its Orders, till you come to the grand tip-top, head Mason of the World, you will discover that the dread individual and the Chief [i.e., the Black Pope, the Superior General] of the Society of Jesus [i.e., the Jesuits] are one and the same person." - James Parton (American historian)

"This inner and invisible Freemasonry is international in extent, and it is within the Inner Circle that the Jesuits conceal themselves, work, and mastermind the projects that suit their goals." - John Daniel (Author of The Grand Design Exposed)

Now consider the ramifications of this: The Jesuit Superior General, the "Black Pope", not only controls his own Jesuit Order and his powerful Knights of Malta, but also the high-level Freemasons. Considering how many high-level Freemasons and Knights of Malta have been directors and assistant directors at such organizations as the CIA and FBI ought to tip us off as to who often directs and steers "covert operations" and other nefarious activities, such as assassinations, here in the USA!

V. THE SECRET MEETINGS AT VIENNA, VERONA, AND CHERI

Sadly, many Americans are largely unaware of three very important secret meetings that took place in the 19th century. These meetings took place in:

- ? Vienna, Austria (1814-15);
- ? Verona, Italy (1822); and,
- ? Chieri, Italy (1825).

You see, dear reader, this American "experiment" with religious liberty for all, democratic representative government under a constitutional republic, freedom of speech, etc., greatly disturbed both the Papacy and the Roman Catholic European monarchs. They feared that this "disease" of freedom might, if unchecked, spread to Europe. Thus, the American Constitutional Republic, with its religious liberty (and populated mainly by Protestants), was targeted for destruction soon after the birth of this republic! ((If you doubt this, then please read the Vatican's own words of hatred for religious liberty and for the U.S. Constitution in the next section (i.e., Section VI.!!))

Here is what Bill Hughes, author of the two excellent books The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked, has written about these three important historical meetings:

"These three meetings, at Vienna, [Austria in 1814-15,] Verona, [Italy in 1822,] and Chieri, [Italy in 1825] were held with as much secrecy as possible. However, one man attended the first two meetings that would not be silenced. British foreign minister George Canning contacted the U.S. government to warn them that the monarchs of Europe [Ed. Note: with the encouragement and support of the Papacy and its Jesuits] were planning to destroy the free institutions of America."

"During this Congress [of Verona, Italy in 1822], it was decided that America would be the target of Jesuit emissaries and that America was to be destroyed at all costs. Every principle of the [U.S.] Constitution was to be dissolved and new Jesuitical principles were to be put into place in order to exalt the Papacy to dominion in America."

"[American Secretary of the Navy R.W.] Thompson pinpointed exactly who would be the agents used by the monarchs of Europe to destroy the republic of America, namely, the Jesuits of Rome! Since 1815 there has been a continual assault on America by the Jesuits to try to destroy the constitutional rights of this great nation.

The famous inventor of the Morse code, Samuel B. Morse, also wrote of this sinister plot [of the Jesuits] against the United States ."

"The Monroe Doctrine was America's response to the Jesuits' Congresses of Vienna [in 1814-15] and Verona [in 1825]. America would consider it an act of war if any European nation sought colonial expansion in the Western Hemisphere. The Jesuits have been able secretly to attack and infiltrate America to accomplish exactly what the Monroe Doctrine was stated to protect against. They [i.e., the Jesuits] have been able to get away with it because it was done with utmost secrecy and under the faûze of being a church.

?The Monroe Doctrine challenged any advance on America by Europe. However, [President] Monroe did not really understand that the crafty Jesuits would not initially use the force of arms to gain their objectives. They [i.e., the Jesuits] would use cunning, craftiness, and utmost secrecy. They would appeal to men's basest points. They would plant their agents in positions of wealth and power [Ed. Note: such as in the U.S. Congress and in U.S. intelligence agencies] and then use their influence to gain their great prize - the subversion and destruction of every Protestant principle as outlined in the Constitution of the United States."

VI. THE VATICAN'S HATRED OF RELIGIOUS LIBERTY AND THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL REPUBLIC

"The unrestrained freedom of thinking and of openly making known one's thoughts is not inherent in the rights of citizens and is by no means worthy of favor and support."

Pope Gregory XVI

"These false and perverse opinions [of democracy and individual freedom] are so much the more detestable, by as much as they?hinder and banish that salutary influence which the [Roman] Catholic Church, by the institution and command of her Divine Author, ought freely to exercise, even to the consummation of the world, not only over individual men, but [over] nations, [over] peoples, and [over] sovereigns." (Quanta Cura; December 8, 1864)

"The State has not the right to leave every man free to embrace whatever religion he should deem true.

?The [Roman Catholic] Church has the right to require that the Catholic religion shall be the religion of the State, to the exclusion of all others.

?Cursed be those who assert liberty of conscience and of worship and such that maintain that the [Roman Catholic] Church may not employ force."

The Syllabus of Pope Pius IX (December 1864)

"No man has a right to choose his religion. Catholicism is the most intolerant of creeds. It is intolerance itself. We might as rationally maintain that two and two does not make four as the theory of Religious Liberty. Its impiety is only equaled by its absurdity." (1864)

John Hughes (Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York)

((What now follows is some proof of this hatred of religious liberty, freedom of conscience, and/or representative government that has appeared in several Roman Catholic publications.))

"?We do not accept it [i.e., the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America], or hold it to be any government at all? If the American Republic is to be sustained and preserved at all, it must be by the rejection of the principle of the [Protestant] Reformation, and the acceptance of the Catholic principle?"

Catholic World (August 1871; page 735)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Let me get this straight: If we want our American Republic "to be sustained and preserved at all", then this can only take place if we reject "the principle of the [Protestant] Reformation" (i.e., religious liberty for all, freedom of conscience, and freedom of the press) and accept "the Catholic principle" (i. e., no religious liberty, ecclesiastical tyranny, and the extermination of all who disagree with the Catholic principle). That's certainly an interesting choice!))

"Fascism is the regime that corresponds most closely to the concepts of the Church of Rome." - Civiltà Cattolica (House organ of the Jesuits)

"The [Roman Catholic] church has persecuted. Only a tyro [i.e., novice] in church history will deny that?one hundred and fifty years after [Roman Emperor] Constantine, the Donatists were persecuted and sometimes put to death. ?Protestants were persecuted in France and Spain with the full approval of the [Roman Catholic] church authorities. ?When she [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] thinks it good to use physical force, she will use it."

The Western Watchman (A Roman Catholic publication out of St. Louis)

((And here are some more quotes showing the Vatican's hatred of religious liberty and of America's Constitutional Republic.)):

"Have not the popes [e.g., Pope Pius IX in his Syllabus of Errors] publicly and repeatedly anathematized the sacred principle of Liberty of Conscience? Have they not boldly said, in the teeth of the nations of Europe, that Liberty of Conscience must be destroyed - killed at any cost? Has not the whole world heard the sentence of death to liberty coming from the lips of the old man of the Vatican [i.e., the pope]?"

Charles Chiniquy (Ex-Catholic priest; personal friend of President Abraham Lincoln)

"The Constitution of the United States was condemned by the Papacy because it separated church and state and prohibited the establishment of any religion [Ed. Note: as an official State-sponsored religion] by the government. The popes, on the other hand, had long required governments to make Roman Catholicism the official religion and to prohibit the practice of any other." - Dave Hunt (Author of numerous books)

"During a sermon in 1850, [Roman Catholic] Archbishop John Hughes of New York, the nation's leading Vatican spokesman, acknowledged that a conspiracy to subjugate free America did exist after all. The Catholic press was ecstatic. An excerpt from 'Shepherd of the Valley', the official journal of the [Roman Catholic] Bishop of St. Louis, declared, 'If Catholics ever gain a sufficient numerical majority in this country, religious freedom is at an end. So our enemies say, so we believe.' [Catholic Archbishop] Hughes' own paper, the 'New York Freeman' brazenly announced, 'No man has a right to choose his religion.'" - Dr. William P. Grady

"For over 200 years, the goal [of the Jesuits] has been the complete destruction of the United States Constitution.

?In the religious arena, the goal of the Jesuits is to wipe out any trace of Protestantism and other religions, and to restore worldwide domination by the pope."

Bill Hughes (Author of The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

VII. "Tammany Hall" and ORGANIZED CRIME

Should anyone find it difficult to believe what follows in this section, then I most highly recommend that such a person obtain the book Double Cross by Sam and Chuck Giancana. This book reveals connections between "the Mob" and the CIA - especially in the assassination business. It can be ordered from "Radio Liberty" for $10.45 postpaid by calling their toll-free order line at 1-800-544-8927.

CONTINUED.....

There are many connections between Organized Crime, the U.S. government (including the Central Intelligence Agency), and the Vatican (such as in the world of banking). The afore-mentioned book describes the relationship between the CIA and the Mob - a relationship that led to cooperation on assassinations (such as the JFK assassination) within the U.S. borders!

Oh yes, we can't forget about "Tammany Hall". Tammany Hall, "a powerful Democratic political organization of New York City ", quickly became synonymous with bribery, corruption, and many other forms of criminal activity. Heavy Roman Catholic immigration for decades headed for America's largest cities, such as New York City, Boston, etc. Organized crime quickly developed in these cities. Politicians soon either had to be Roman Catholic to run for any important office - or, if non-Roman Catholic, had to have the endorsement of such Catholic organizations as the Knights of Columbus. Many large cities soon became cesspools of prostitution, racketeering, drugs, etc. Did all of this occur by accident, or was it planned?

Indeed, the ties between the Mafia, the CIA, and the Vatican run deep. By the way, the money generated by CIA-controlled criminal activities helps to fund their "covert operations".

Please consider the following three quotes about Roman Catholic political power:

"The fact is that very few Protestants [Ed. Note: or other non-Catholic Christians] have realized how entirely Rome is a political church, and that she always makes her political advancement her first object." (1896)

M. F. Cusack (Ex-nun of Kenmore; author of the book The Black Pope)

"But we recognize in the Roman Catholic priesthood, and the Jesuit brotherhood, two distinct political organizations, united in purpose and using religion as a mask for political purpose, as they always have done in all ages and countries."

J. Wayne Laurens (American historian; author of the book The Crisis: Or, the Enemies of America Unmasked)

"There is no doubt that the American Catholic hierarchy has entered the political arena, and that it is becoming more and more aggressive in extending the frontiers of Catholic authority into the fields of medicine, education, and foreign policy? As we shall see in this book [Ed. Note: American Freedom and Catholic Power], the Catholic hierarchy in this country [i.e., the USA] has great power as a pressure group, and no editor, politician, publisher, merchant or motion-picture producer can express defiance openly - or publicize documented facts - without risking his future."

Paul Blanchard (Journalist and author) (1949; Quote was taken from his book American Freedom and Catholic Power.)

((Important Ed. Note: Due to newsletter length considerations, I will not get into the Vatican/Jesuit involvement in the U.S. Civil War and in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. Please read my TTT #60, "The Civil War and Abraham Lincoln", that can be found on the first two Internet web sites listed at the beginning of this newsletter. Suffice it to say here, the evidence of the Vatican/Jesuit involvement in the assassination of President Lincoln was so overwhelming that the U.S. government broke all diplomatic relations with the Vatican in 1867, shortly after the trial of one the conspirators, John Harrison Surratt. If you doubt this, then you need to read the two-books-in-one volume concerning the Lincoln assassination that will be listed at the end of this newsletter.))

VIII. WORLD WAR I

The Vatican and her Jesuits were clearly responsible for the carnage that occurred in both World War I and World War II. Please carefully consider the following quote by Edmond Paris:

"The public is practically unaware of the overwhelming responsibility carried by the Vatican and its Jesuits in the starting of two world wars - a situation which may be explained in part by the gigantic finances at the disposition of the Vatican and its Jesuits, giving them power in so many spheres, especially since the last conflict."

Please consider this quote by Pope Pius X (1835-1914; pope: 1903-1914):

"It would certainly have been better if Austria-Hungary had punished the Serbians for all the wrongs they had done." (1913)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: In The Secret History of the Jesuits, Edmond Paris points out that, contrary to Catholic Church propaganda, Pope Pius X actually helped instigate hostilities between Austria-Hungary and Serbia. Clearly both the Hapsburg dynasty (rulers of Austria-Hungary) and the Vatican saw the growing power of Serbia [made up mostly of Orthodox Christians] as a "threat". In fact, in late 1913 Prince Schonburg had an audience with Pope Pius X, who told Schonburg the words contained in the preceding quote. In other words, the Roman Catholic pope was letting this Roman Catholic European power (Austria-Hungary) know that it was past time to "take care of" the Serbian "problem"!))

IX. WORLD WAR II

Please carefully consider the following quotations concerning World War II contained in this section:

"Actually, nobody has a right to be more angry at the Rothschild clique than their fellow Jews. The Warburgs, part of the Rothschild empire, helped finance Adolph Hitler. There were few if any Rothschilds or Warburgs in the Nazi prison camps! They sat out the war in luxurious hotels in Paris or emigrated to the United States or England. As a group, Jews have suffered most at the hands of these power seekers. A Rothschild has much more in common with a Rockefeller than he does with a [Jewish] tailor from Budapest or the Bronx."

Gary Allen (Author of the book None Dare Call It Conspiracy)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: German Roman Catholic Knight of Malta Franz von Papen and the German Roman Catholic Centrum (or, Zentrum) Party in Bavaria helped put Hitler into power. American Knights of Malta (big financiers) helped finance Hitler's rise to power. And who controls the Knights of Malta? The answer: The Jesuit Superior General controls the Knights of Malta. Thus the Vatican and its Jesuit Order, which for centuries have hated and butchered large numbers of Jews (e.g., during the Crusades), were able to butcher millions more during World War II. Roman Catholic dictators were installed all over Europe prior to and during the early stages of World War II - Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy, Jesuit Monseigneur Tiso in Slovakia, Ante Pavelic in Croatia, etc. Then these Roman Catholic dictators were able to slaughter the Jews, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians in Europe - all favorite and historic targets of the Vatican - with great vigor and great efficiency.))

Eric Jon Phelps, author of the well-researched book VATICAN ASSASSINS: Wounded in the House of My Friends, lets us know the names of the Roman Catholic dictators throughout Europe during World War II (dates shown are born/died dates):

"The Jesuits, in control of [Adolph] Hitler's occultic and homosexual Third Reich?, installed puppet dictators throughout Europe. They were:

- ? Bavarian Germany and the Third Reich - [Adolph] Hitler [1889-1945]
- ? Italy - [Benito] Mussolini [1883-1945]
- ? 'Vichy' France - [Henri Philippe] Petain [1856-1951]
- ? Spain - [Francisco] Franco
- ? Austria - Seyss-Inquart
- ? Poland - Frank
- ? Slovakia - [Jesuit] Priest [Monseigneur] Tiso
- ? Croatia - [Ante] Pavelitch ((Ed. Note: alternate spelling: Pavelic))
- ? Belgium - Degrelle.

All these Roman Catholic, Jesuit-controlled, Jew-hating dictators were loyal to the greatest war criminal of all, Papal Caesar Pius XII and his master, Jesuit [Superior] General Wlodimir Ledochowski."

"The declaration of [Roman Catholic Jesuit] Monseigneur [Ed. Note: French spelling of 'Monsignor'] Tiso, chief of the Slovakian state, stating his intention to build up Slovakia according to a Christian [sic] plan, has the full approval of the Holy See [i.e., the Papacy]."

(June 1940) - Radio Vatican

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: This Jesuit monster (Tiso) was put into power by Hitler's Nazi Germany, with the blessings of the Vatican. Tiso, using his 'Christian' plan, brutally persecuted Protestants and Jews in Slovakia, sending them to concentration camps!))

"I have learnt most of all from the Jesuit Order. ?So far, there has been nothing more imposing on earth than the hierarchical organization of the [Roman] Catholic Church. A good part of that organization I have transported direct to my own [Nazi] party. ?The Catholic Church must be held up as an example. ?I will tell you a secret. I am founding an order [Ed. Note: the Nazi SS]. ?In [Heinrich] Himmler [who would become head of the Nazi SS] I see our Ignatius de Loyola [Ed. Note: the founder of the Jesuit Order]."

Adolph Hitler (1889-1945; Nazi leader and chancellor of Germany from 1933-1945)

"In Hitler's Pope, award-winning journalist John Cornwell shows that Eugenio Pacelli, Pope Pius XII, was instrumental in negotiating an accord that helped the Nazis rise to unhindered power - and sealed the fate of the Jews in Europe.

Drawing upon secret Vatican and Jesuit archives to which he had unprecedented access, Cornwell tells the full, tragic story of how narcissism, long-standing personal antipathy for the Jews, and political and 'spiritual' ambition combined to make Pius the most dangerous churchman in history. Not just a firm and final indictment of Pius XII's papacy, Hitler's Pope is also a searing exploration of its lingering consequences for the Catholic Church today."

Hitler's Pope: The Secret History of Pius XII (book by John Cornwall)

Why did I list all of the above quotations? I did so because the Vatican planned, fomented, and orchestrated two world wars in an attempt to achieve Vatican objectives in Europe. The Vatican also planned, fomented, and orchestrated those two bloody world wars in order to slaughter millions of the favorite "targets": Jews, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians! Indeed, the Vatican and her Jesuits have been at the forefront of almost every major bloody war and major bloody revolution in the western world in the past four centuries. Numerous historians have documented this. Please see the section entitled "What Can We Do?" - it will contain a number of books that document this nefarious history of bloodshed and violence.

Questions: If "the Jews" (i.e., Jewish bankers, Zionists, etc.) run the banking in the USA and in Europe, then why in blazes did they finance Hitler, Mussolini, and many other Catholic dictators in Europe during World War II? If "the Jews" have been running the USA and western European countries for ages, then why did they help ensure that millions of Jews would be slaughtered during World War II by supporting Catholic Fascist dictators? The answer is quite simple: It was NOT "the Jews" running the show in Europe during World War II, but rather the Vatican with her Jesuits and her powerful and wealthy Knights of Malta - with the help of a few rich secular Jews who work with the Vatican on such enterprises as world wars.

X. THE USA TODAY - WHO REALLY RUNS THIS COUNTRY?

Here's an interesting quote by author and publisher Jack T. Chick:

"I questioned Dr. [Alberto] Rivera about the briefings he received in the Vatican when he was a Jesuit priest. I asked him if he was briefed on how the Vatican planned to take over the United States. He told me [that] his indoctrination [training as a Jesuit] went back [into American history] to the time of the Pilgrims. Because of the knowledge of the Inquisition and the slaughter of Christians by the Roman Catholic system, the early immigrants in America began passing laws to keep Jesuits out of this country and to outlaw the mass?to protect themselves from a Vatican takeover. These were Christian communities deeply concerned about the 'whore of [found in the book of] Revelation'.

Jesuits began arriving in America as early as the second group of Pilgrims. They used different names with identifications. They were followed years later when the Vatican sent multitudes of Catholic families from England, Ireland, and France - posing as Protestants - into the colonies. These were 'plants'. They were holding secret masses in defiance of the laws. In those days, no Roman Catholic was to hold any position in civil government. The Jesuits made sure this part of our history was erased and removed.

The next major move by the Jesuits was to destroy or control all the Christian schools across America. Throughout the years, Jesuits, working undercover, have gotten into special committees on school boards to remove the emphasis of the Bible and replace it with psychology as found in the Spiritual Exercises of Ignatius de Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Society. Later, Catholic schools and universities sprang up all across the nation under the Jesuits. Today, they probably outnumber all the Christian schools and colleges put together.

The third stage was to move into the courts and legislation?to take over as judges and lawyers in order to manipulate the Constitution in their favor until it could be changed. Once this was accomplished, the thrust was into politics to capture the political parties. Then [the Jesuits moved on to] the military and the newspapers. Even back in the time of Lincoln over half the newspapers in the United States were controlled by the Vatican."

(1) If you have any doubts about the above claims by Jack Chick concerning the power and influence of the Papacy, and especially her Jesuit Order, then you need to check out his book Smokescreens, the book A Woman Rides the Beast by Dave Hunt, the book The Secret History of the Jesuits by Edmond Paris, the book 50 Years in the Church of Rome by Charles Chiniquy, and the book Is Alberto for Real? America's newspapers, magazines, etc., then please do some research on such Jesuit-controlled Knights of Malta named William Randolph Hearst and Henry Robinson Luce.))

Here is an interesting quote by Felix Frankfurter (1882-1965; a Supreme Court justice):

"The Order's working and involvement in America is immense. The real rulers in Washington [D.C.] are invisible and exercise power from behind the scenes."

And another quote by John F. Hylan (Mayor of New York City from 1918-1925):

"The real menace of our Republic is this invisible government which like a giant octopus sprawls its slimy legs over our cities, states, and nation.

A. The U.S. Congress

Please consider the following quotations by F. Tupper Saussy, which were taken from his book RULERS OF EVIL: Useful Knowledge About Governing Bodies, along with some of my editorial comments:

"What [Professor Carol A.] Brown [of the University of Massachusetts] had learned from Carl Bernstein, I [i.e., F. Tupper Saussy] had discovered for myself over several years of private investigation: the papacy really does run United States foreign policy? Yes, [Carl] Bernstein noted that the leading American players behind the Reagan/Vatican conspiracy, to a man, were 'devout Roman Catholics' - namely,

- ? William Casey - Director, CIA [Ed. Note: And a Knight of Malta];
- ? Richard Allen - National Security Advisor;
- ? Judge William Clark - National Security Advisor;
- ? Alexander Haig - Secretary of State [Ed. Note: And a Knight of Malta];
- ? Vernon Walters - Ambassador-at-Large; and,
- ? William Wilson - Ambassador to the Vatican State.

But the reporter neglected to mention that the entire Senate Foreign Relations committee was governed by Roman Catholics as well. Specifically, Senators

- ? Joseph Biden - Subcommittee on European Affairs;
- ? Paul Sarbanes - International Economic Policy, Trade, Oceans, and Environment;
- ? Daniel P. Moynihan - Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs;
- ? John Kerry - Terrorism, Narcotics, and International Communications; and,
- ? Christopher Dodd - Western Hemisphere and Peace Corps Affairs."

((Ed. Comments to the previous quote:

(1) Please consider also that there are 18 Jesuit colleges and universities in the United States. One of them, Georgetown University, is famous for educating many U.S. diplomats and Foreign Service personnel. A Jesuit priest and professor at Georgetown University, 'Father' Edmund Walsh (who founded the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University), in 1922 led the "Relief Mission" to the Soviet Union after the Bolsheviks had seized power.

(2) The Knights of Malta is headquartered with, and subordinate to, the Jesuit Superior General in Rome. Powerful Knights of Malta have held key positions in the U.S. government, in U.S. intelligence agencies (e.g., William Casey, James Jesus Angleton, William Donovan, and John McCone), in publishing (e.g., William Randolph Hearst and Henry Robinson Luce), etc.

(3) Senator John Kerry, during his presidential run, revealed his Jewish background.))

"In fact, when the 'Holy Alliance' story hit the stands [in 1992], there was virtually no arena of federal legislative activity, according to 'The 1992 World Almanac of US Politics', that was not directly controlled by a Roman Catholic senator or representative. The committees and subcommittees of the United States Senate and House of Representatives governing commerce, communications and telecommunications, energy, medicine, health, education and welfare, human services, consumer protection, finance and financial institutions, transportation, labor and unemployment, hazardous materials, taxation, bank regulation, currency and monetary policy, oversight of the Federal Reserve System, commodity prices, rents services, small business administration, urban affairs, European affairs, Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, terrorism/narcotics/international communications, international economic/trade/oceans/ environmental policy, insurance, housing, community development, federal loan guarantees, economic stabilization measures (including wage and price controls), gold and precious metals transactions, agriculture, animal and forestry industries, rural issues, nutrition, price supports, Food for Peace, agricultural exports, soil conservation, irrigation, stream channelization, flood control, minority enterprise, environment and pollution, appropriations, defense, foreign operations, vaccines, drug labeling and packaging, drug and alcohol abuse, inspection and certification of fish and processed food, use of vitamins and saccharin, national health insurance proposals, human services, legal services, family relations, the arts and humanities, the handicapped, and aging - in other words, virtually every aspect of secular life in America - came under the chairmanship of one of these Roman Catholic laypersons:

Frank Annunzio Edward Kennedy Daniel Moynihan
Joseph Biden John Kerry John Murtha
Silvio Conte John LaFalce Mary Rose Oakar
Kika De la Garza Patrick Leahy David Obey
John Dingell Charles Luken Claiborne Pell
Christopher Dodd Edward Madigan Charles Rangel
Vic Fazio Edward Markey Dan Rostenkowski

James Florio Joseph McDade Edward Roybal
Henry Gonzalez Barbara Mikulski
Thomas Harkin George Miller

Vatican Council II's 'Constitution on the Church' (1964) instructs [Roman Catholic] politicians to use their secular offices to advance the cause of Roman Catholicism."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Senator John Kerry, during his presidential run, revealed his Jewish background.))

"An updating of this list will not reflect a significant change in the presence of Roman Catholic laypersons in the higher legislative reaches. According to the 'Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities', in the 106th Congress there are 40 'Jesuit alumni' who graduated from 17 Jesuit institutions [of higher learning]. There are 5 alumni in the U.S. Senate and 35 alumni in the House of Representatives. Out of these 40 alumni, 23 received graduate or professional degrees from Jesuit universities. [Jesuit] Georgetown University has the most graduates, boasting 15 alumni in the U.S. Congress."

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Please remember that these folks are graduates of Jesuit institutes of higher learning. There are other Roman Catholic institutes of higher learning that do not belong to the Jesuit Order. Many Roman Catholic laypersons that have served in the U.S. Congress have come from non-Jesuit Roman Catholic colleges and universities.))

Please also consider these two quotes by Avro Manhattan, taken from his book Murder in the Vatican:

"The Vatican is a superpower - on a par with the USA and Soviet Russia. Indeed, since at times it can act as a formulator of the policies of both, it can be reckoned as the paramount superpower of our times.

Its adherents, a massive portion of mankind, nearing a billion [Ed. Note: it's now over a billion], can be made to operate in every corner of the world. [There are] sixty million [Roman Catholics] within the USA herself.

?Therefore the Vatican is a superpower in its own right. Indeed, because of its duality as a political and as a religious center, it can outbid the other two [superpowers]."

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote:

(1) The Vatican today needs no standing armies of her own. Why is this so? It is because she can mobilize the armies of other nations to do her bidding. This happened on a massive scale during World War II - a war that was fomented and largely orchestrated by the Vatican.

(2) The Vatican is often able to "steer" (i.e., direct) the foreign policy of other nations through her many agents that she infiltrates into foreign policy-making governmental committees and organizations - and, into the most powerful intelligence agencies in the World, such as the CIA. In the USA, the Vatican is able to draw upon her powerful Jesuits, Knights of Malta, Knights of Columbus, Opus Dei, etc. - many of whom hold positions of great power in the U.S. government! Sadly, many of these powerful individuals give a far greater degree of their loyalty to the Pope and/or to the Jesuit Superior General than they do to the U.S. Constitution and to the American people!

(3) There were 60 million Roman Catholics in the USA in 1985 (when Manhattan's book was written). However, when one adds to this number the normal growth in population of 20 more years, PLUS all the illegal immigrants coming into the USA (the vast majority of whom are Roman Catholic), the number of Catholics in America today is probably closer to 100 million.)

"Thus, whereas the USA has a mere 250 million citizens [Ed. Note: Remember, this was written in 1985] and the Soviet Union about 300 million, the Vatican, via the [Roman] Catholic Church, can influence between 800 and 1000 million [i.e., one billion] Catholics.

These [now over one billion Roman Catholics], unlike the citizens of the other two superpowers (who are strictly confined within physical and political barriers), have no frontiers whatsoever. They are posted within the USA, Soviet Russia, and within hundreds of other countries, and can be made to operate independently of their own administrations, governments or regimes.

A Catholic citizen, therefore, owing to the fact that he is a member of the Catholic Church, can and often is influenced in his social and ideological attitudes by those taken by the Vatican, acting as the political facet of the Catholic Church.

It cannot be otherwise, since [Roman] Catholics, notwithstanding their disclaimer, are affected directly, tangentially, by the Vatican's political stance in the belief that such a stance is that of the Catholic Church."

And please consider this quote by Jeremiah J. Crowley (Irishman; ex-priest in the Roman Catholic Church; author of the book Romanism: Menace to the Nation):

"Today they [i.e., the Jesuits] are stronger in the United States than they ever were in any of the countries of Europe which expelled them as a menace to the government." (1912)

B. The Mainstream Media and Press

I would like to repeat journalist Paul Blanchard's quote again:

"There is no doubt that the American Catholic hierarchy has entered the political arena, and that it is becoming more and more aggressive in extending the frontiers of Catholic authority into the fields of medicine, education, and foreign policy? As we shall see in this book [Ed. Note: American Freedom and Catholic Power], the Catholic hierarchy in this country [i.e., the USA] has great power as a pressure group, and no editor, politician, publisher, merchant or motion-picture producer can express defiance openly - or publicize documented facts - without risking his future." (1949; Quote was taken from his book American Freedom and Catholic Power.)

Please remember that this quote was made in 1949. The power of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the USA has not diminished from that time, but has, in fact, grown. Many powerful Knights of Malta (under the control of the Roman Catholic Jesuit Order) have held key positions in the media (e.g., Henry Robinson Luce and William Randolph Hearst), in U.S. Intelligence (e.g., CIA chiefs William Donovan, John McCone, and William Casey), in banking, in the U.S. government, etc. Top-level Knights of Columbus (e.g., Senator Ted Kennedy) have held, and continue to hold, key positions in the U.S. government. Many of these men do NOT have the best interests of the American people at heart - rather, they serve the interests of the globalist rich and power elite and the Vatican. These men share the goals of the Vatican for one-world government and one-world religion under the leadership of the papacy!

Here are some interesting quotes about America's controlled mainstream media (which is probably the most controlled media in the western world):

"In March 1915, the J.P. Morgan interests [Ed. Note: controlled by the Rockefellers]?got together 12 men high up in the newspaper world and employed them to select the most influential newspapers in the U.S. and [a] sufficient number of them to CONTROL generally the policy of the daily press of the United States. These 12 men worked the problem out by selecting 179 newspapers, and then began, by an elimination process to retain only those necessary for the purpose of CONTROLLING. They found it was necessary to purchase CONTROL of 25 of the greatest [news] papers. The 25 [news] papers were agreed upon; emissaries were sent to purchase the policy, national and international, of these papers. An agreement was reached; the policy of the papers was bought, to be paid for by the month; an editor was furnished for each paper to properly SUPERVISE and EDIT information regarding the questions of preparedness, militarism, financial policies, and other things of national and international nature considered vital to the INTERESTS of the PURCHASERS? This policy also included the SUPPRESSION of everything in opposition to the wishes of the INTERESTS SERVED." (Statement placed in the Congressional Record in 1917)

Oscar Callaway (U.S. Congressman)

"There is probably no important magazine or newspaper in the country [Ed. Note: the USA] that is not COMMUNIST-penetrated to some degree."

Whittaker Chambers (1901-1961; American journalist; ex-member of the Communist Party of the United States)

((Ed. Comment to preceding quote: The communists are merely "front men" for more powerful forces working "behind the scenes" - controlled by secret societies, such as the Jesuits.))

Authors Texe Marrs and Dr. Cathy Burns, and other writers, have reported that such "Protestant" evangelical leaders, such as Billy Graham and Pat Robertson (both of whom are high-level Masons), were financed and set up ("puffed" in the press as they started their religious careers) by such Roman Catholic Knights of Malta as Henry Robinson Luce and William Randolph Hearst. Isn't that very interesting - "Protestant" leaders (who are Masons) being set up by Roman Catholic Knights of Malta?

Who really controls America's mainstream media? Some allege that it is "the Jews" running America's mainstream media. If that is so, then how do these powerful Roman Catholic Knights of Malta achieve such mighty positions in the world of publishing and electronic media? If "the Jews" run America's press and publishing houses, then how does a Roman Catholic pope get to be named "man of the year" in major U.S. newsmagazines? If "the Jews" run our television networks, then how does a masterful piece of propaganda on Roman Catholic Pope John Paul II get to be aired on American television? If "the Jews" run America's media, then why in blazes do popes and other Catholic prelates get wonderful press in this country? ((Remember, no one has hated and slaughtered Jews like the Vatican has! If you doubt this, please see my TTT newsletter entitled "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts" that is posted on the first two Internet web sites listed at the beginning of this newsletter.))

XI. RED HERRINGS, SCAPEGOATS, & SMOKESCREENS

I would like to repeat a statement I made earlier in this newsletter:

Front organizations, "sheep dipping", scapegoats, red herrings, and smoke screens - all of these are SOP (standard operating procedures) for the Jesuit Order!

One of the favorite "red herrings" [i.e., something used to divert attention from the basic issue] used by the Jesuit Order is that "such-and-such a person is a Jew". You can find various web sites that will tell you that Hitler was a Jew - or Stalin was a Jew. First of all, let's get a few things straight from the beginning here:

? Adolph Hitler was a practicing Roman Catholic who was never excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church. (Neither was Mussolini!) He was put into power by German Roman Catholic Knight of Malta Franz von Papen and the Roman Catholic Centrum (or, Zentrum) Party in Bavaria. And, Hitler signed a Concordat with the Vatican.

? Joe Stalin was trained by the Jesuits at the Jesuit Tiflis Seminary in Soviet Georgia.

Again, this is "standard operating procedures" for the Jesuit Order. That is, after the dastardly deeds are done, then accuse every powerful individual who was involved - usually after he is dead - of being a Jew.

Something else to consider: The Jews settled extensively throughout much of Europe, and despite warnings to the contrary, did intermarry amongst the surrounding Gentiles. Thus many Europeans probably have at least a little Jewish blood from somewhere on the "family tree". It has been reported that Adam Weishaupt was born a Jew. Even if true, so what? Adam Weishaupt was Jesuit-trained, and he taught Roman Catholic Canon Law at a Jesuit university in Catholic Bavaria (i.e., at Jesuit Ingolstadt University). Weishaupt, as already mentioned, died in the good graces of the Catholic Church (after being "sheep dipped" for a period of time). Likewise, Stalin was Jesuit-trained.

Something else to consider: I have read in several books that at one time a Jew was found in the Jesuit Order and was immediately put out of the Order - and that a rule was made that no [real] Jew could be a Jesuit. Do the Jesuits use some Jews as front men? It would certainly appear that they do.

The main point here is: It does not matter what one is born (whether Jew, Christian, Moslem, etc.), but rather whom does one serve! We can take a look at World War II and see that history recorded in great detail that the monsters who fomented, choreographed, and conducted this bloody world war were Roman Catholics who had the full support of the Vatican. And they carried out the Vatican's agenda in World War II. Take a good, close look again at the Eric Jon Phelps' quote in the World War II section that lists those Roman Catholic dictators.

As far as scapegoats go, the Vatican has for centuries used "the Jews" as their favorite "scapegoat". Again, please read my TTT newsletter entitled "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts" for some historical examples of this use of the Jews as a scapegoat by the Vatican. The Jesuits certainly use "the Jews" quite often as a "smoke screen" to cover their own nefarious activities!

XII. SUMMARY

History has shown us quite clearly that the Vatican hates religious liberty and loves ecclesiastical tyranny. It also shows us that she hates the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America (where religious liberty has flourished) and loves Fascist regimes.

The plans to destroy America and her Constitutional Republic were made quite early in American history. Roman Catholic monarchs and the highest levels of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy (to include a number of popes) CONSPIRED to destroy religious liberty and representative government. Top Catholic leaders gathered in at least three largely secret meetings to discuss how to squash religious liberty and representative government wherever and whenever they appeared - whether on the European continent or in the United States of America.

These three meetings were:

- ? The Congress of Vienna [Austria] from 1814 through 1815;
- ? The secret meeting at Verona, Italy in 1822; and,
- ? The secret meeting at Chieri, Italy in 1825.

Indeed, plans were carefully laid out at these meetings for the takeover of the United States through infiltration of our government, our education system, our press and media, and even our non-Catholic Christian churches and seminaries. The same plans had earlier been used quite successfully in England. The degree to which most Americans are totally unaware of these three secret meetings (Vienna, Verona, and Chieri), Vatican and Jesuit involvement in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, the Vatican's involvement in fomenting both World War I and World War II, the Vatican's support of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy (and other Fascist states in Europe) during World War II, etc., speak volumes about how successful their takeover of America's history books, publishing industry, press, and media has been!

The primary "weapon" against religious liberty, the Protestant Reformation, representative government, etc., of the Vatican for the past four plus centuries has been the infamous Jesuit Order (with its powerful Knights of Malta and its control of the top levels of Freemasonry). The primary "tool" of the Jesuit Order has been INFILTRATION. Wherever the Jesuit Order has been allowed to flourish, political intrigue, revolutions, civil wars, assassinations of heads of State, etc., have been the fruit of this den of vipers.

XIII. FINAL THOUGHTS

Question: After having read this newsletter, who do you think is the greatest threat to our Constitutional Republic and our religious liberty - the Vatican & Jesuits OR "the Jews"?

((The following paragraph is an addition for the "electronic version" of this issue of TTT that will soon, D.v., be posted on the Internet. I asked the same question as immediately above in a January 6, 2006 piece I wrote entitled "New Year's Thoughts". I think the information is worth repeating in this section of this newsletter.))

"For heaven's sake, there are 18 million Jews in the world, and over one BILLION Roman Catholics (that the Vatican State can draw on). The Vatican State not only has diplomatic relations with many nations of the world, but also has the largest (by far) and most efficient intelligence-gathering network in the world (especially through her numerous monastic orders, large priesthood, and the Confessional)! The Vatican has a well-documented history of over 1000 years of religious genocide on a massive scale ((against Jews; against Christian groups such as the Albigenses and Waldenses; against Protestants (the French Huguenots, Irish Protestants, Bohemians, etc.); and against Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s)). The Vatican has a well-documented history of Inquisition (especially against Jews and Christians), and of the most brutal torture. (The Office of Inquisition STILL exists - now called the 'Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith' - and the Catholic Church has never repudiated its 'right' to use force, torture, and extermination of all who oppose her doctrines and practices! The Vatican has a well-documented history of infiltrating governments and royal courts with her Jesuits, papal knights, etc. The Vatican's Jesuit Order has a well-documented history of infiltrating other Christian denominations and seminaries, of assassinating heads of State, of fomenting revolutions and wars, and of carrying out many other nefarious activities. The Vatican has a well-documented history of loving Fascist regimes (such as Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy in World War II) and of hating religious liberty. The Vatican also loves ecclesiastical monopoly, and regularly persecutes other religions whenever and wherever she has the power and opportunity to do so (e.g., Croatia in World War II)! Now, in view of what was stated in this paragraph, I ask you, dear reader:

Who is the greatest threat to religious liberty and conscience, and to the American Republic - "the Jews" or the Papacy/Vatican/Jesuits?"

((End of added paragraph for "electronic version" to be posted, D.v., on the Internet))

America is at the brink of destruction. And that destruction has been carefully planned. We - none of us - can afford to remain "silent" for fear of offending anyone or any institution.

Please carefully consider these quotes concerning "silence":

"Truth is violated by falsehood, but it is outraged by silence."

Henri-Frederic Amiel (1821-1881; Swiss writer and philosopher)

"When freedom is at stake, silence is not golden - it is yellow [i.e., cowardly]."

Tom Anderson (Writer)

Indeed, many of us have Roman Catholic relatives and friends. We don't do them - or ourselves - any favors by remaining "silent" concerning the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church and its well-documented history of:

- ? Hating religious liberty and freedom of conscience;
- ? Plotting the overthrow of the U.S. Constitution and our most basic God-given Rights;
- ? Assassinating heads of State, such as President Abraham Lincoln;
- ? Fomenting and orchestrating revolutions and wars, such as World War I and World War II;
- ? Planning and carrying out religious genocide on a mass scale against such groups as: Jews, Bible-believing Christians such as the Albigenses and Waldenses, Protestants such as the Irish Protestants and French Huguenots, and Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s in Croatia); and,
- ? Planning and working to be at the very top of a one-world religion and a one-world government.

If we are worried about offending our Catholic relatives and friends, then we ought to consider this following quote by the Greek philosopher Aristotle (384-322 B.C.): "?Piety requires us to honor truth above our friends."

Some commentators continue their main focus on "the Jewish bankers, the Masonic Jews, the Jewish neo-conservatives in the U.S. Administration, the Zionists, and Israel" - sometimes lumping them all together as "the Jews". Those individuals who do so, while largely ignoring the much greater threat from the geopolitical/financial/religious powerhouse made up of the Vatican State with her Jesuits, Knights of Malta, Knights of Columbus, Opus Dei, numerous monastic orders, a large priesthood, plus control of the top levels of Freemasonry, etc., are doing the following:

- ? "Straining at a gnat while swallowing a camel."
- ? Focusing on two "growling Chihuahuas" (what they call "the Jews" and Israel) while largely ignoring ten "Bengal (Romish) Tigers" (Vatican State, Jesuits, Opus Dei, papal knights, etc.).
- ? Pointing out to us an "infantry squad" attacking in the middle of the battlefield while missing the "ten armored divisions" quickly enveloping us on one of our flanks.

By doing this, I believe that they are, perhaps without knowing it, aiding and abetting the most powerful enemies of our Republic and of our liberties. And everyone who remains SILENT about this great threat to our Republic and our liberties is also aiding and abetting those who desire to destroy everything we hold dear!

We can go on pretending that there is no real threat from the Vatican's designs for world domination - to be at the head of one-world government and one-world religion, or we can do some research and study to find out the truth about the Vatican and her hatred of our most precious liberties. Which brings us to the section entitled, "What Can We Do?"

XIV. WHAT CAN WE DO?

1. If you think that this issue of the TTT newsletter contains important information, then please make copies of it and give them away free-of-charge to others.

2. Please check out these two Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com. Please read some of my TTT and ETI newsletters, especially "Death by Government and Death by Church" and "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts" that deal with religious genocide (to include Inquisition, papal crusades against Christians, 'holy' wars, etc.). Please also check out my TTT newsletters on "The Jesuits" (parts I through IV), and the series of TTT newsletters that I did on wars in which American troops fought. If you find that any of these newsletters contain important information, then please make copies of them to give to others. Also, please tell as many folks as you can about the above-listed web sites.

3. Please purchase good books that will tell you the truth about religious genocide, Inquisition, assassinations of heads of State, etc. Here are some that everyone should read:

(a.) Foxe's Book of Martyrs by John Foxe; 470 pages; $11 postpaid: This book contains the stories of many victims of ecclesiastical tyranny - stories of martyrs like John Huss, William Tyndale, Hugh Latimer, Nicholas Ridley, etc. These martyrs paid the ultimate price for opposing false doctrine - some being horribly tortured - some being slowly burned (roasted) at the stake. Their stories of courage must not be allowed to die. This book is "must read" for all Christians - both Catholics and non-Catholic Christians should learn the truth about ecclesiastical tyranny! To order a copy, please call "Power of Prophecy" toll-free at 1-800-234-9673. Or, make check or money order payable to "Power of Prophecy" and mail it to: Power of Prophecy // 1708 Patterson Road // Austin, TX 78733-6507.

(b.) The Vatican's Holocaust by Avro Manhattan; 236 pages; 1986; Publisher: Ozark Books; $9.95 postpaid: This book deals with the Roman Catholic clergy-led religious genocide against Serb Orthodox Christian peasants and farmers in Croatia during World War II, and includes photographs of both the victims and perpetrators of this barbaric genocide. It also has a chapter dealing with other mass murders and massacres carried out on the orders of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church. For credit card orders, please call 1-909-987-0771. The author exposes the Jesuit-controlled Vatican's involvement in world politics, intrigues, and the fomenting of wars. This book reveals the involvement of the Vatican in helping to foment both World War I and World War II, and its involvement in supporting Nazi and Fascist regimes in Europe during World War II. Much of the slaughter that occurred in World War II can be laid at the feet of the Vatican and her Jesuits. To order a copy, make check or money order payable to "Chick Publications" and mail it to: Chick Publications // P.O. Box 3500 // Ontario, CA 91761-1019. XV. CLOSING QUOTES TO PONDER:

"It is my opinion that if the liberties of this country - the United States of America - are destroyed, it will be by the subtlety of the Roman Catholic Jesuit priests, for they are the most crafty, dangerous enemies to civil and religious liberty. They have instigated most of the wars of Europe."

Marquis de LaFayette (1757-1834; French statesman and general; served in the Continental Army under General George Washington)

"If the American people could learn what I know of the fierce hatred of the priests of Rome against our institutions, our schools, our most sacred rights, and our so dearly bought liberties, they would drive them out as traitors."

Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865; 16th President of the United States)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: While the above statement has certainly not applied to all Roman Catholic priests residing in America, either past or present, it surely does apply to the top levels of the Roman Catholic hierarchical system. A number of popes and other top-level Catholic prelates have condemned freedom of religion, conscience, and the press in the strongest possible words. For a good example of this hatred of liberty, please read Pope Pius IX's Syllabus of Errors of 1864.))

"Let America again be forewarned as to Rome's intention 'to make America Catholic'."

Larry Harrison (Publisher)

"Popes have been consistent in their declarations that freedom of religion should NOT exist, and that the Church of Rome represents the only true faith and therefore should alone be allowed to spread its doctrines."

Larry Harrison

"?The Church of Rome, with its sixteen [Ed. Note: now approaching 17] centuries of intrigue, plans fifty or a hundred years ahead. The ultimate goal of the GREAT SCHEME is to throw the 'lever of time' back by restoring the Pope as the 'universal arbiter' from whom all the rulers of the earth must receive their authority to rule, as [occurred] during the Dark Ages."

Burke McCarty (Author of the book The Suppressed Truth about the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln)

"Persecution of non-Catholics in Catholic-controlled countries should warn Americans as to what will happen here if the pope ever gains full control of this country. Rome never changes." (March 16, 1960)

Raywood Frazier

"Now more than any other time since the 16th century Reformation, God is looking for Christians to stand in the gap, to be watchmen, courageous enough to pay, as [Jan] Hus did, the flaming death of martyrdom. Remember: there is a battle to be fought (Ephesians 6:16-20). There is an enemy to be overcome (1 Peter 5:8, 9). There is a watch to maintain (Jude 3,4, [and] 17-23)." - Bartholomew F. Brewer (Ex-Roman Catholic priest of the Discalced Carmelite Order)

"Who will rise up for me against the evildoers, or who will stand up for me against the workers of iniquity?" - Psalm 94:16

Title: The Jesuits behind The Movie V for Vendetta..?

Menses - July 31, 2006 03:03 AM (GMT)

Perhaps this has been discussed previously and so I apologize in advance if it has. I only recently watched the movie V for Vendetta. I noticed a couple of things. Namely that the movie was clearly a tongue & cheek pseudo exposing of the Terrorist hoax that is going on in the U.S. & in particular Britain..Those of you who havent seen the movie I suggest you stop reading at this point for risk of ruining the plot for you....

The movie's main character who is the protagonist in the film manages to educate the people of England about how currupt their government really is. He exposes the conspiracy behind the alleged threat of Terrorism and in the end manages to rally the people to the point where they are actively participating in a revolution. The movie climaxes in the blowing up of the Parliament building. This act of "defiance" is viewed by the people as a blow to the establishment. The goal of the protagonist in the film had always been chaos. And that is precisely what happens....

I believe the goal of the people whom made this film was to have the people who saw it believe that "insurrection" was the only way to rise above the "tryanny of the state". Masonic bretheren of course believe in Order Out Chaos...and this for me was a red flag....The JESUITS...love agitation and I believe it is what they are aiming for with the existence of a film such as this one which on the surface appears to be a indictment against the establishment but in actuality is an exercise in blatant mind control manipulation of the unaware public...

Chaos provides the pre-text for martial law...which means Inquistions...Holy Roman Inquistions of which the Order is notorious for....I couldnt help but smile after seeing this movie because although it was quite refreshing to see something of this elk on screen especially given the climate of mainstream sheepledom that is the Mafia Controlled Holly Tree Sorcery that passes for entertainmentThe Stench of the Order was still too powerful to ignore....especially when we recall historical facts....

QUOTE

"...Jesuits were seditiously active [in] plotting the overthrow of the English government. ((Ed. Comment: This was going on at least as early as the 1580s.)) By using different disguises, aliases, and secret codes, to illegally slip in and out of England, Jesuit Robert Parson, in 1580, had led and then later organized a mission to bring other Jesuits into England to engage in a work of subversion... The 'Gunpowder Plot' [involved] thirteen Catholic noblemen and five Jesuits [who] formed a conspiracy devising a plan to explode 36 barrels of gunpowder in the cellar of the House of Lords and kill King James I, and members of Commons, as they assembled for the opening of Parliament on 5 November 1605.

Their plan was to blow up the Parliament building, and out of the chaos, incite the [English] people into a full insurrection." - John Daniel http://www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net/Eber...ts_part_II.html

In the movie, the Parliament building is destroyed on the 5th of November....How tricky is this Order of Gesau?...for the premise of this movie and its revelancy is only understood by the conspiracy theorists among our society and it is quite naive to believe that they would not have been aware of such people who would have obviously identified with a movie so close to the "truth"...Clearly the Order has struck again.....

CRAIG-OXLEY - July 31, 2006 01:35 PM (GMT)

Yes the congregation of the Sacred Coeur de Jesus were behind the gunpowder plot. In some parts over here in England they do not burn a guy on the bonfire but they burn the POPE. What a wonderful sight, if only it was Nazi Ratzinger or even better Peter Hans Kolvenbach!

All mainstream movies are controlled by the Jesuit Order's pyramidal control system. All Hollywood movies are controlled by the SMOM and MAFIA both loyal to the Vatican and its master the JESUIT ORDER. One of the best films is that JFK film which has much information in it and a lot of things which when you aware of the JESUIT ORDER you'll understand.

I've heard that movie scripts are often reviewed by the Pentagon. Your average Joe would probably think it's to make sure national security isn't breached somehow.

V For Vatican

Review: V for Vendetta
by Anonymous

Note: The following review was sent to WING TV by Vyzygoth, host of From the Grassy Knoll

V is of course a multi-layered film and, at one of the important levels, it has a historical story which most people do not know. Guy Fawkes was a Jesuit Roman/Vatican agent who, along with some other conspirators (in the true sense of the word), intended to blow up the English Parliament on its opening session (Nov. 5th), when the king would be present along with the rest of the members of parliament.

This is the famous Gunpowder Plot.

Fawkes was caught and executed. The intention of this plot was to bring England back into the fold of Rome, from which it had departed beginning with Henry VIII. This rift with Rome had grown greater under the reign of Elizabeth I--against whose life many attempts had been made by Jesuit/Roman agents. This continued under James I, who succeeded Elizabeth I in 1603, and was the king whose life had also been targeted by Fawkes and his associates.

In reality, Fawkes was anything but a victim: He had committed treason and suffered the consequences under English law. The movie paints his counterpart, V as a victim, which is not historically accurate regarding Fawkes.

But the real powerful symbolism in this movie is found in the two buildings that are blown up: the Old Bailey and the English Parliament. The Old Bailey represents common law, the very foundation of democracy and the freedoms that we enjoy today in western countries (especially those nations whose laws are based on English common law, i.e., England, Canada, the U.S., Australia and New Zealand in particular, but including as well all the commonwealth countries such as India).

Common law gave us two very important and foundational principles without which it is not possible to have a free society: 1) trial by jury; 2) innocent until proven guilty. The opposite of common law is canon law--the law of the Roman Catholic institution. This law is not religious but, rather, the constitution upon which all laws were formed in Catholic countries.

Under canon law no one except the pope has any rights, and this is as true today as it was in the middle ages. All rights are vested in the pope (more accurately in the men who control the office of the papacy), and it is the pope who distributes any and all rights as he pleases.

Thus under Canon law no one except the pope has any inherent rights. What Guy Fawkes had been contracted to do was to eliminate the protestant king and parliament thus paving the way for a Catholic, Rome-controlled monarch to be installed in the place of James I, thus replacing common law in England with canon law once again.

We are all too aware how fast our rights are eroding, and this movie sends the coded message (whether as a warning or a sign of the triumph of Rome) that common law has been blown away (the Old Bailey being blown up), exactly that which Guy Fawkes set out to do. And what will be left is canon law: all power and rights vested in a very few men who control government leaving the rest of us as serfs.

Even more troubling is the blowing up of the English Parliament, which brought us modern democracy and gave rights to common people, a concept that was pretty much unknown in the medieval world.

Three important freedoms that were granted to all people were freedom of the press; freedom of conscience; freedom of thought. Believe it or not, under canon law all three of these freedoms are anathemized, that is, they are cursed by canon law even today.

Yes, under canon law a man is not free to think for himself or to follow the dictates of his own conscience, but must bow to the will of the church. He is not free to think what is right or wrong, but must accept as right or wrong that which the church tells him is right or wrong.

Since England split from Rome in the 1500s, it has been the stated goal of Rome to bring England back to the fold. By blowing up her parliament, the most important symbol of freedom in the world (not the Statue of Liberty), the message is being conveyed that the experiment of parliamentary self-governance has come to an end. It is important that, in the movie, this event takes place after Guy Fawkes dies. The message, however, is that what Guy Fawkes died for has at last been accomplished 400 years after his death. Rome never forgets and Rome at last has its vendetta.

More foreboding messages in the movie are the destruction of the United States (and Canada by extension) through biowarfare and civil war, both distinct possibilities as many researchers have warned us. The movie on the surface may seem to be promoting freedom in the face of totalitarianism, but its symbols foreshadow a completely totalitarian world that will be brought about through disease, warfare, and "natural" disasters.

To those who believe that Rome is ancient history, keep these facts in mind: for the past 1000-plus years, all secret societies have directly or indirectly originated from within the Roman Catholic church. The Knights Templar, from whom came the Knights of Malta and Knights of Columbus, are all Catholic; the Jesuits, the Priory of Sion and, in more modern times, Opus Dei have all had their genesis in the Roman religion.

Freemasons are also an offshoot of the Knights Templar and very much in bed with the Vatican. The CIA was originally formed mostly by Nazi Germans who escaped Europe on Vatican passports. From its very beginning, the CIA and all other secret agencies (which is a more accurate term than intelligence agencies) have been tied to the Vatican.

So is the Vatican a spent force?

Hardly. And it is my assessment that V might even stand for VATICAN and, on a deeper level, shows the triumph of Rome and Roman canon law. V truly foreshadows the coming dark ages: rampant disease, civil wars, rioting, curfews, government agents everywhere, listening in on us, watching us, instilling fear everywhere, exactly as it happened all over Europe for 600-plus years of The Inquisition.

The first Matrix was a very intelligent movie, more so than V in my opinion, but I believe both movies are agenda movies. They seem to promise hope and freedom, but if we dissect them, the message both these movies convey is the opposite of hope and freedom.

Major Hollywood motion pictures always have an agenda. Movies such as V show us the problem, then offer a solution which furthers the agenda of the very totalitarianism they supposedly oppose.

History repeats itself because people do not know real history. Guy Fawkes was an enemy of free thought, and he represented the most totalitarian form of government ever conceived by man.

By having people wearing Guy Fawkes masks at the end of the movie, the movie makers make a mockery out of history and present the enslavers as the emancipators.

"There are none so hopelessly enslaved as those who think that they are free."

I know many folks might disagree with my interpretation of this film, but from a historical point of view, I think my conclusions are correct. I used to be accused of being some right wing Protestant. I was born and raised in India as a Sikh. I have no affiliation with any organized religion, but I am an avid student of history and call it the way I see it and, historically speaking, Guy Fawkes was no friend of the people.

JagDRS - August 1, 2006 04:27 PM (GMT)

Good thread. I don't mind spoilers either. Now that I've learned how to mostly shun the mainstream media, I kinda depend on spoilers :) It does seem a bit strange that I find myself agreeing with the main points and sentiments that have been made in this thread :o

The average Joe and Josephine also cannot get their brain around the fact that the predecessors to today's hallowed spook agencies, "censors", and such looking out for our best security interests, have had a death grip on broadcast media methodologies since before they were first ever taken commercial back in the early 1900s.

Most of the people here are well-versed on the alleged formula in question.....the script for order out of chaos, that kinda stuff. Over the months I've been imagining to myself what kind of chaos the perps have envisioned as their idea of what will guarantee the masses will submit to a singular, global authority in exchange for forfeiting their individual national identities and ways of life they've built over the centuries. The masses, globally, are.... call them whatever seems best, PJs..... the sleeping.....the compliant herd.....whatever it is we call it, this herding sleepy compliance seems to make for a ripe herd. This fruit waiting to be picked is supposedly a significant component of humanity; a crop by virtue of being somewhere between incapable and unwilling to fathom or confront the notion that the very people they have chosen to lift up over the centuries to gaze upon as as their spokesmen and spokeswomen, their benevolent leaders, elected and or appointed, officers, presidents, judges, bankers, professors, chiefs, kings, queens, grand poobahs and any other type of figure people can think of to give away their sovereignty to, are the very kinds of people who over the same centuries have been orchestrating and aiding a conspiracy for world domination.

Another thought that keeps surfacing is that a starring role has been reserved for the unaware masses, to be kicked off by a timed effort to awake them, so to speak, en masse, so as to finely manipulate, control and direct their mass-awakening-reactions..... chaos if you will, towards the goal of spawning the the requisite mess of mass from which 'they' will render order through none other than the the kinds of power, authority, skill, mastery and ministrations that only they - the beknighted & self-appointed world controllers, possess. Ripe.

Note in the TV ad for the DVD you will see the words "Code (or Code name) Gunpowder Plot" in red bold letters. Indeed, this film is tool of the Jesuit Order and they were involved in the screenwriting behind-the-scenes.

"Us in the future" should talk to us through channelings and UFOs.

Vatican Behind New World Order Deception To Destroy America

Author John Daniel claims the "Holy Inquisition" is upon us and papal doctrine allows for massive slaughter for those who do not follow the Pope and his minions in the U.S. government. His new booklet, "Organized Christianity's Prostitution Cover-up, exposes the grand design behind the NWO.

John Daniel, author of the book The Grand Design Exposed about Vatican corruption, has again hit the Roman rulers with a solid literary body blow, exposing their intentions of diabolical world domination.

Daniel has put together a quick-read, 22 page booklet called Organized Christianity's Prostitution Cover-up.

He appeared Thursday on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, encouraging listeners to read his new booklet since it reveals how the world, including America, have been deceived by the papacy who is at the center of the New World Order.

"We have all been deceived for hundreds of years and now they are preparing their takeover of America," said Daniel, who claims the Vatican's intentions through its temporal governmental and religious minions around the world is to establish a one world religion and government based in Jerusalem. "They are planning to drastically repopulate the world by two-thirds and this is coming soon."

Daniel's latest effort to alert sleeping Americans touches on tough topics, purposely hidden by the media who he claims is also controlled through Vatican power, adding vital history has been "altered, changed and stolen" from the American people.

Daniel's adds that most Americans believe the Vatican and its Jesuit henchmen are God-faring men but he claims nothing is further from the truth, saying they are really Luciferian sun worshippers who are using freemasonry, corrupt politicians and corrupt religious leaders to further the New World Order.

"War and destruction is their goal in order to set up a world under their fake Messianic leader who will rule from Jerusalem after Christians, Muslims and Jews are slaughtered in what amounts to be a modern-day bloody Crusade," added Daniel.

Besides looking into America's modern day dilemma, Daniel's booklet delves into Vatican and Roman history. He deals with such difficult subjects as:

How the organized "Christian" Church cut a deal with Roman Emperor Constantine, the result being the formation of the official State religion of the Roman Empire;

How this organized Church, the Roman Catholic Church, assumed the mantle of the Roman Pontifex Maximus when the Roman Empire fell and then began to persecute Christians, essentially wiping out hundreds of thousands through the Holy Inquisition or crusades; and

How this organized Roman Catholic Church will soon reach the pinnacles of power she once held in Europe when her Popes ruled over kings and how they are now orchestrating another Holy Inquisition and murdering anyone who dares question the Vatican's right to once again rule the world.

According to freedom fighter, Darryl Eberhart, who reviewed Daniel's latest writing, he said:

"This booklet shows the reader how the early Christians were persecuted by the pagan Roman emperors until Constantine and Bishop Eusebius obviously cut a deal in order to make the Roman Catholic Church the State religion.

"The few Christians who survived the persecutions had gone underground or fled. This left a paganized "Christian" organization, now called the Roman Catholic Church, as a pretender claiming to be the one true Church of Jesus Christ.

"And when the Roman Empire fell, the Roman Catholic Church moved into the power vacuum and basically assumed all the titled and power of Rome and the Pontifex Maximus."

As Daniel pointed out in his booklet which can be purchased for $3 at www.vaticandesignexposed.com :

"But the "Christian" Roman Popes did more than just shoplift the Roman Emperor's imperial titles. They also imbued the Roman Emperor's spirit of power absolute into the very depths of their being and soul. The idea of stamping out all controversy and division, stamping out all thought, by imposing ? unquestioned ? one dogmatic creed upon all, was carried into practice on an unprecedented scale.

"?So it is not surprising, when the "Christian Roman Popes ruled full sway during medieval years, to read accounts of inhuman cruelties, atrocities and abominations during the crusades and the methodical butchering, breaking and mutilating human bodies done in the torture chambers of the so-called Holy Inquisition.

"The Roman Catholic Church ruled the European world for over 1200 years with an iron fist. (They plan to do it again) During these years, the Holy Word of God, the Bible, was a forbidden book?"

"These perpetrators (including their minions in the American government) are demonically ruthless. They could care less about human life ? only that they achieve their New World Order goal. And besides, they are safe and secure in their underground cities and bunkers built with your tax money, while everyone else is dying and suffering horrendously outside, until the aftermath of their planned explosions and horror subsides."

The question remains will the Vatican once again in the very near future put into practice her great evil power worldwide as well as her "Great Inquisition"? According to Daniel the answer is not if but when, adding the when is only a few years away.

And according to Eberhart who reviewed Daniel's book, he added:

"We must all keep in mind that the Vatican-Jesuit-Knights of Malta-Knights of Columbus "cabal" controls the levers of power in the United States and that the Vatican-Jesuit Opus Dei-Knights of Malta "cabal" is the top power behind the scenes in much of the rest of the world, especially in Europe.

"Since the Vatican and Jesuits are the top financial, geopolitical and religious players on the global chessboard and since the Vatican and its Jesuits hate religious liberty ? then surely we must all work hard to expose them and their nefarious plans to destroy our American Republic."

Hidden Power of Papacy: A Well-Kept Secret

Vatican recognized by U.S. as a State, not only a religion. However, few Americans realize why and what are the Vatican's true intentions.

15 Nov 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/15-Nov-2006.html>

The hidden power of the papacy, advanced through its evil Jesuit Order henchmen, is rarely talked about in America.

It's rarely talked about because the media on all levels is firmly controlled by Vatican power, the very evil power destroying this country.

And all those in the media who fail to address this evil power should be called nothing less than traitors, traitors for withholding vital information leading to the destruction of America.

Most journalists, however, working on the evil side, whether through compliant ignorance or outright collaboration with the Jesuits, will of course deny the existence of Vatican power. They will deny its existence simply because they are paid to deny it. They are paid traitors working for the enemy and it is simple as that.

For example, have you ever heard Tim Russert, Anderson Cooper, Ted Koppel and others on the major networks ever mention that the Vatican is fully recognized by the U. S. government as a State, not simply a practicing religion.

Have you ever heard any of the talking heads tell how this occurred? Of course not, as this would begin to unravel the ball of corruption linking major political, military and religious officials as having loyalty first to the Rome and the Pope and not to the sovereignty of the United States.

First of all, most Americans have been withheld vital history about the Vatican and Jesuit Order's infiltration and control in America's politics and religions. In fact, if the people knew the full truth, the Jesuits, as well as every single member of Congress, the Executive and the Judicial branches of government would be first labeled traitors and then banished from American soil.

And to illustrate this point it must be remembered how many other countries have expelled the Jesuits for the very same reason, the simple fact being Jesuits mix their Luciferian, fascist agenda with politics, seeking complete loyalty for the Pope and their planned one world government and religion centered in Jerusalem.

To further illustrate the point, in the 1860's patriots wise to the Vatican's real intentions, cut-off all diplomatic relations with the papacy due to the Vatican's known involvement in the Lincoln assassination? And this is just the tip of the ice-berg, as the same thing happened in the JFK assassination.

But does Tim Russert or any of the talking heads bother to make the connection or even bother to inform their listeners about America's stolen history, a history linking Vatican involvement in an attempt to destroy all the freedoms inherent in our Constitution?

Of course not, because if they did, none of them would be seen again on television again, as our media has become nothing but a tool of Jesuit deception, a deception guiding the hands of all our major political and religious institutions, which are all overtly or covertly promoting war and violence at home and abroad.

For those interested in learning how the Vatican is recognized as a State, how it survived a lawsuit filed against it and how this recognition destroys the separation of Church and State in this country, read the following written by Tupper Saussy, as well as some other interesting Vatican tid-bits taken from his book, Rulers of Evil.

Few people seem to be aware that the Roman Catholic Church in America is officially recognized as a State. How this came about makes interesting reading.

Early in his administration, President Ronald Reagan invited the Vatican City, whose ruling head is the Pope, to open its first embassy in Washington, D.C. His Holiness responded positively, and the embassy, or Apostolic Nunciature of the Holy See, opened officially on January 10, 1984.

Shortly thereafter, a complaint was filed against President Reagan at U.S. District Court in Philadelphia by the American Jewish Congress, the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, Seventh Day Adventists, the National Council of Churches, the National Association of Evangelicals, and Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

The plaintiffs sought to have the Court declare that the administration had unconstitutionally granted to the Roman Catholic faith privileges that were being denied to other establishments of religion.

On May 7, 1985 the suit was thrown out by Chief Judge John Fullam. Judge Fullam ruled that district courts do not have jurisdiction to intervene in "foreign policy decisions" of the executive branch. Bishop James W. Malone, President of the U.S. Catholic Conference, praised Judge Fullam's decision, noting that it settled "not a religious issue but a public policy question."

The plaintiffs appealed. The Third Circuit denied the appeal, noticing that "the Roman Catholic Church's unique position of control over a sovereign territory gives it advantages that other religious organizations do not enjoy."

The Apostolic Nunciature at 3339 Massachusetts Avenue N.W. enables Pontifex Maximus to supervise more closely American civil government ? "public policy" ? as administered through Roman Catholic laypersons. (One such layperson was Chief Judge Fullam, whose Roman Catholicism apparently escaped the attention of the plaintiffs.)

This same imperium ran pagan Rome in essentially the same way. The public servants were priests of the various gods and goddesses. Monetary affairs, for example, were governed by priests of the goddess Moneta. Priests of Dionysus managed architecture and cemeteries, while priests of Justitia, with her sword, and Libera, blindfolded, holding her scales aloft, ruled the courts. Hundreds of priestly orders, known as the Sacred College, managed hundreds of government bureaus, from the justice system to the construction, cleaning, and repair of bridges (no bridge could be built without the approval of Pontifex Maximus), buildings, temples, castles, baths, sewers, ports, highways, walls and ramparts of cities and the boundaries of lands.

Priests directed the paving and repairing of streets and roads, supervised the calendar and the education of youth. Priests regulated weights, measures, and the value of money. Priests solemnized and certified births, baptisms, puberty, purification, confession, adolescence, marriage, divorce, death, burial, excommunication, canonization, deification, adoption into families, adoption into tribes and orders of nobility. Priests ran the libraries, the museums, the consecrated lands and treasures. Priests registered the trademarks and symbols. Priests were in charge of public worship, directing the festivals, plays, entertainments, games and ceremonies. Priests wrote and held custody over wills, testaments, and legal conveyances.

By the fourth century, one half of the lands and one fourth of the population of the Roman Empire were owned by the priests. When the Emperor Constantine and his Senate formally adopted Christianity as the Empire's official religion, the exercise was more of a merger or acquisition than a revolution. The wealth of the priests merely became the immediate possession of the Christian churches, and the priests merely declared themselves Christians. Government continued without interruption. The pagan gods and goddesses were artfully outfitted with names appropriate to Christianity. The sign over the Pantheon indicating "To [the fertility goddess] Cybele and All the Gods" was re-written "To Mary and All the Saints."

The Temple of Apollo became the Church of St. Apollinaris. The Temple of Mars was reconsecrated Church of Santa Martina, with the inscription "Mars hence ejected, Martina, martyred maid/ Claims now the worship which to him was paid."

Haloed icons of Apollo were identified as Jesus, and the crosses of Bacchus and Tammuz were accepted as the official symbol of the Crucifixion. Pope Leo I decreed that "St. Peter and St. Paul have replaced Romulus and Remus as Rome's protecting patrons." Pagan feasts, too, were Christianized. December 25 ? the celebrated birthday of a number of gods, among them Saturn, Jupiter, Tammuz, Bacchus, Osiris, and Mithras ? was claimed to have been that of Jesus as well, and the traditional Saturnalia, season of drunken merriment and gift-giving, evolved into Christmas.

Bacchus was popular in ancient France under his Greek name Dionysus ? or, as the French rendered it, Denis. His feast, the Festum Dionysi, was held every seventh day of October, at the end of the vintage season. After two days of wild partying, another feast was held, the Festum Dionysi Eleutherei Rusticum ("Country Festival of Merry Dionysus"). The papacy cleverly brought the worshippers of Dionysus into its jurisdiction by transforming the words Dionysos, Bacchus, Eleutherei, and Rusticum into? a group of Christian martyrs. October seventh was entered on the Liturgical Calendar as the feast day of "St. Bacchus the Martyr," while October ninth was instituted as the "Festival of St. Denis, and of his companions St. Eleuthere and St. Rustic." The Catholic Almanac (1992 et seq) sustains the fabrication by designating October ninth as the Feast Day of Denis, bishop of Paris, and two companions identified by early writers as Rusticus, a priest, and Eleutherius, a deacon martyred near Paris. Denis is popularly regarded as the apostle and patron saint of France.

Playing loose with truth and Scripture in order to bring every human creature into subjection to the Roman Pontiff is a technique called "missionary adaptation." Vatican literature explains this as "the adjustment of the mission subject to the cultural requirements of the mission object" so that the papacy's needs will be brought "as much as possible in accord with existing socially shared patterns of thought, evaluation, and action, so as to avoid unnecessary and serious disorganization."

Rome has so seamlessly adapted its mission to American secularism that we do not think of the United States as a Catholic system. Yet the rosters of government rather decisively show this to be the case.

By far the greatest challenge to missionary adaptation has been Scripture ? that is, the Old and New Testaments, commonly known as the Holy Bible. Almost for as long as Rome has been the seat of Pontifex Maximus, there has been a curious enmity between between the popes and the Bible whose believers they are presumed to head.

fear of depth - November 14, 2006 08:42 PM (GMT)

According to brilliant Russian mathematician A. T. Fomenko, human civilization is merely 1,000 years old, and all of history (as we've been taught) before the 16th century is either false or radically different from what actually happened. This would have been crafted by the Jesuits (no surprise there). Interesting, and quite mind-boggling.

Sorry my friend but Humans go back much further than that information. This you speak of is simply another suppression of real history. You will find the Gaels are the oldest known Civilisation.

fear of depth - November 15, 2006 02:19 PM (GMT)

But if all of history HAS been rewritten, then the only true reliable history we have is ancient mythology dating back at least 3,600 years (according to the present false dating system).

The way I interpret this information (because all new information needs to be reinterpreted on a personal basis regardless of who the source might be), it would mean that the time of ancient mythology, of ancient Babylon/ancient Egypt/ancient Greece would have ended only 1,200 years ago, which would perfectly explain the transition between the Babylonian Empire and the Holy Roman Empire. The rituals and beliefs of the Babylonian priests would not have disappeared for thousands of years before the Catholics came along, but would have been directly transmitted from one culture to another after less than 400 years had passed between the Babylonians in the 9th century to the Romans in the 12th-13th century.

And it would also make the events of ancient mythology occur approximately 2,400 years later than previously thought. For example, the Jupiter/Saturn catastrophe that would have caused the Great Flood and have sunk Atlantis into the ocean would have occurred only 3,600 years ago, instead of 6,000 (or 10,000-12,000, as others would have us believe).

I'm not saying that I believe this, I tend to believe in nothing until I see irrefutable proof, but this theory WOULD explain a hell of a lot, and it would mean that we've definitely greatly UNDERestimated the Jesuits and the true extent of their influence once again.

And I just love this idea that the Trojan War would actually have been the first christian crusade of 1095 AD, that Achilles would actually have been Alexander the Great, that the city of Jerusalem would actually have been the city of Troy, also known as Constantinople and Istanbul, and that Jesus actually WOULD have existed, but in the 11th century, which would explain why the Shroud of Turin also dates back to the 11th century, not because the Shroud is a fake, but because all of history has been falsified!

Trafficking now 'worse than African slavery'

POSTED: 7:00 a.m. EST, November 14, 2006

<http://www.cnn.com/2006/WORLD/europe/11/14...g.ap/index.html>

VATICAN CITY (AP) -- Human trafficking, including women forced to become prostitutes or minors forced to do child labor, is worse now than the trade in African slaves of past centuries, a top Vatican official said on Tuesday.

"This trafficking in human beings has intensified, persons put into slavery because they depend on certain criminals who take possession of these human beings," said Cardinal Renato Martino, former longtime Vatican envoy to the United Nations and current head of the Holy See's office concerned with migrant and itinerant peoples.

"It's worse than the slavery of those whose slaves who were taken from Africa and brought to other countries," Martino told a news conference to present Pope Benedict XVI's annual message dealing with the problems of migrants.

The cardinal singled out modern-day forms of slavery -- minors who are sold to do child labor or who are forced to be soldiers, as well as women forced to prostitute themselves -- and challenged countries to combat these problems.

"In a world which proclaims human rights left and right, let's see what it does about the rights of so many human beings which are not respected, but trampled," the cardinal said.

In the papal message, Benedict noted that more women were leaving their homelands in search of a better life. "However, women who end up as victims of trafficking of human beings and of prostitution are not few," the pope said.

In the last decade or so, many women in Eastern Europe have traveled to the West after being promised what appeared to be honest jobs, but upon arrival in the countries were forced to work as prostitute to pay off the cost of their trip.

Former CIA Director Robert Gates will take over at the Pentagon Interesting info and tidbits about Robert Gates:

IRAN CONTRA:

Polgar, Tom. "Gates: The Wrong Choice to Head the CIA." Washington Post National Weekly Edition, 1-7 Jul. 1991, 24. Op-Ed piece from former CIA station chief and staffer on the Senate Select Committee on Iran-Contra: "My objections to [Robert M.] Gates center on his performance during the Iran-contra affair.... Throughout it, Gates acted as if he was in a complete fog or was interested primarily in keeping the truth from being aired in public or from reaching Congress." http://intellit.muskingum.edu/cia_folder/ciadcis_folder/dcisgates.html

Webster Tarpley wrote:

Bush relented, but then announced to his dismayed and exhausted staff that his second and non-negotiable choice for Langley was Robert Gates, the former CIA deputy director who had been working as Scowcroft's number two at the National Security Council. The problem was that Gates, who had already dropped out of an earlier confirmation battle for the CIA director's post, was about as thoroughly compromised as Don Gregg. But at that point, Bush's could not be budged a second time, so the name of Gates was sent to the senate, bringing the entire Iran-contra complex into full public view once again. As it turned out, the Bush Democrats in the Senate proved more than willing to approve Gates. <http://www.tarpley.net/bush23.htm>

Illuminati and Vatican:

Gates is a graduate of elitist College of William and Mary home of illuminati Phi Beta Kappa:

... a small public university located in Williamsburg, Virginia, USA. It is the second oldest institution of higher education in the United States. William and Mary was founded in 1693 by a Royal Charter issued by King William III and Queen Mary II of England. It has educated U.S. presidents Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, and John Tyler as well as other leaders important to the development of the nation. It has a strong academic reputation and is notable in higher education for the founding of the Phi Beta Kappa academic honor society. http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/College_of_William_and_Mary

The fraternity known as Phi Beta Kappa was organized in 1776 by students at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia (the second oldest in the country, founded in 1694), as a secret debating club. It was later infiltrated, and used to introduce Illuminati principles to America. <http://demopedia.democraticunderground.com...php/Freemasonry>

William Casey [Cardinal Spellman protege, sovereign Knight of Malta, George Bush's campaign manager and "authorized" Clintons bid for the White House ...] was named in a class action law suit in Southern California (case no.99-02603) along with Robert Gates, John Deutch, George Tenet, estate of William French Smith, Edwin Meese, Richard Thornburgh, Janet Reno and others; CIA and US Department of Justice] responsible for the 1980's crack cocaine epidemic and resulting social and economic devastation of inner city communities. <http://members.foothills.net/ricefile/JesVat.htm>

Actually the Head of CIA, Robert Gates, announced that there was a secret agreement between the US and the Vatican during the Cold War . "We fight against communism with Pope John Paul the Second" said Gates. Thus, the cooperation between the Vatican and the Central Intelligence Service during the Cold war was proven. The ex-head of the service Gates confessed that they cooperated with the Vatican after Polish Pope John Paul the Second got the throne. In the book "The Man who Changed History", which was published in Italy, Gates says that we were sharing information with the Vatican and we were fighting against communism on the same front. As a matter of fact, the dissolution began in Poland in the 80s. http://www.diplomaticobserver.com/news_read.asp?id=1429

In this context it is important to consider that Gates spent a long time at the main Jesuit power center of the USA, Georgetown University, where he his received his PH.D- in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University in 1974.

Eric Jon Phelps: Washington is controlled by the Jesuits from Georgetown. The capital of the United States is at Georgetown University, not the White House. And if you go into the president's office at Georgetown, you will see a picture of Bill Clinton, kneeling at the grave of Timothy Healy [past president of Georgetown], while the present president, Donovan, who is on the Walt Disney Board, is standing behind him. <http://www.whale.to/b/pope.html>

It centralizes government more. That's why states' rights (10th Amendment) is so important...it's a huge obstacle for the NWO.

JagDRS - November 11, 2006 02:52 AM (GMT)

The simple answer is - the attempt by congress to create new forms of citizenry over whom they then assume authority, is not a simple answer ;) The problems and corruptions inherent with the 14th amendment are numerous, but may become clear when one is also familiar with other pertinent laws, starting with the Constitution of 1787, Bill of Rights, the original 13th amendment (1812), the circumstances that caused the original 13th to fall into a crack and become forgotten by the time a subsequent substitute version was snuck into law in the haze and wake of the War of North V South; that subsequent substitute is still treated as legitimate law to this day. At the bottom of this post there is a link to a lengthy essay on the 14th amendment. Reading this kind of information may help you better understand the problems with things like the 14th. The pertinent period of time in question is generally between the early 1800s and the early 1900s.

To try and simplify, think Star Trek and the Capt Kirk voice-over describing "going where no man has ever gone before.....". The 14th amendment is now just one among numerous acts history has now recorded as perpetrated by the U.S. government that can be considered as having gone "way out there" where no law ever tried to go before..... so far out there that, within the context of the original constitution, it's reasonable to say these kinds of acts, like the 14th, are clear evidence of government acting in ways for which the Constitution never gave them the power to attempt in the first place..... excessive ambition, one might say.

Here's the rub. The Constitution set in stone limitations on the collective government. The collective government subsequently violates their limited authority..... for instance, the 14th. Where are the enforcers of the supreme law of the land endeavoring to correct these crimes and injustices? For many long years running now, so far the answer seems to be a resounding "apparently no where to be found". Likewise, where is the outrage of the people? Apparently, the people over the years have become so dumbed-down that they collectively are generally unaware that there are many such good reasons for them to be genuinely outraged over. Don't get me wrong - I too am a part of these collective unknowing folks. On the one hand, it's easy to blame people who get taken advantage of when they don't know the facts, but on the other hand, people have become pretty good at avoiding knowledge of facts important to them. There are now a whole host of similar perverse acts of government, Federal Reserve Act 1913, Progressive Income Tax Act 1913, pretty much every literal act perpetrated by FDR during his 8-plus year reign are other more recent examples. Notice the trend.... once those controlling government established the precedent - that there is nobody standing guard over the constitution, the situation - more government mischief, became a "field day" as they say, a field day that's now been going on unabated for over a century..... similar corruption and mayhem is now occurring rampantly and is by and large viewed by the people as normal. Moral to the story? The beat goes on. The Constitution continues to increasingly suffer assault, meanwhile the people increasingly are in evidence being about not having a clue to do a damn thing about it. Capiche?

Title: Jesuits & the Rothschilds -Eric Jon Phelps

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 18, 2007 11:36 PM (GMT)

The Jesuits were suppressed in 1773. Their response was to create the Illuminati in their old stronghold of Bavaria. Adam Weishaupt was a German Gentile and a prof of Canon Law at Ingolstadt University---the Jesuits being formally absent due to their expulsion from Roman Catholic Bavaria.

Weishaupt joined the Bavarian Masonic lodge in 1777 and then united with the Rothschilds. Because the Order had ceased to exist (formally) it had to find a holder for its fortune in banks domiciled in non-Roman Catholic countries. This spelled Prussia, Russia and England. The keepers of this massive Jesuit treasure derived from their South American Reductions were the Rothschilds, then financing the Illuminati. The Order then started the French Revolution for the punishment of the Bourbon and Hapsburg dynasties, beheading King Louis XVI and his Hapsburg Queen.

Any accurate history on the French Revolution will admit that the Rothschilds financed the Jacobins and Napoleon. In fact, after the Revolution, the Order's controlled European press sought to blame the revolution on the Jews!

With the false message sent to London via roost that Wellington lost Waterloo, stocks plummeted. There to buy the exchange for pennies on the pound was Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor Rothschild. From this moment on the Order, via their Rothschild financiers, owned the Bank of England and the Old City's Stock Exchange. Thus, the British Empire became the agent for all the designs of the Order for the 19th Century. Queen Victoria backed every Jesuit plot barring none (the opium wars, the Irish famine, the Boer War, etc.).

When the Order was restored in 1814, it promptly took back the papacy with its international Vatican Empire. Thus the Jesuit General retained the Rothschilds as his bankers and this pattern is repeated in several forums. The Sicilian Roman Catholic Mafia, working its international drug trade, has its finances managed by Jews, Meyer Lanski being one in the past.

Further, King Edward VII, the son of Victoria, formally readmitted the Order into England in 1902. The king's dearest bankers were J. P. Morgan and the Rothschilds, those Jews managing the Bank of England. The Second Thrity Years' War (1914-1945) was put in motion by this monster: his financial backers were among others the Rothschilds, Warburgs, etc.

Thus, the Devil has used the Jews to manage the finances of his international White Gentile World conspiracy for a world Government headed in Jerusalem. As long as Jerusalem is "trodden down by the Gentiles," the Jews will always be in a subordinate position to the king of the Gentiles---the Pope of Rome.

I trust this is helpful.

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric

Description: Jesuit John Carroll

Mark Brewer - January 18, 2007 06:52 AM (GMT)

"His father died in 1750, and in 1753 John Carroll joined the Society of Jesus. In 1755 he began his studies of philosophy and theology at Liege, and after fourteen years (1769) was ordained priest at the age of thirty-four."

"In common with their fellow-citizens, the Catholics of the United States hailed with joy the election of George Washington as first president under the new Constitution. Before the inauguration Bishop Carroll, on behalf of the Catholic clergy, united with the representatives of the Catholic laity (Charles Carrollton, and Daniel Carroll of Maryland, Dominick Lynch of New York, and Thomas FitzSimons of Pennsylvania) in an address of congratulation, admirable for its sentiments of exalted patriotism ['An Address from the Roman Catholics of America to George Washington, Esq., President of the United States', London, 1790, fol.; reprint New York, 1865, facsimile and notes; see Shea, op.cit. , 349-50, and ibid., the memorable and cordial reply of Washington (12 March, 1790) 'To the Roman Catholics of the United States', in which he says: 'I presume that your fellow-citizens will not forget the patriotic part which you took in the accomplishment of their Revolution, and the establishment of your Government, or the important assistance which they received from a nation in which the Roman Catholic faith is professed.' The original of this reply is preserved in the Archives of the Archbishop of Baltimore]. It may not be out of place to quote here the noble words of Bishop Carroll himself, addressed (10 June, 1789) to a maligner of Catholics: 'Their blood flowed as freely (in proportion to their numbers) to cement the fabric of independence as that of any of their fellow-citizens. They concurred with perhaps greater unanimity than any other body of men in recommending and promoting that government from whose influence America anticipates all the blessings of justice, peace, plenty, good order, and civil and religious liberty' (Brent, 97, see below; Shea, op.cit., 153)."

<http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/03381b.htm>

"John Carroll was born on January 8, 1735 to a distinguished Irish merchant family in Upper Marlborough, Maryland. At the age of thirteen, he began studies at St. Omer, a Jesuit college, and entered the Society of Jesus following his graduation. Soon after, he began intensive studies in philosophy and theology in what is now Belgium. Fourteen years later, at the age of thirty-four, John Carroll was ordained a priest. He dedicated the next four years of his life to teaching philosophy and theology in Belgium, and then returned to America in 1774.

Carroll returned to his native Maryland as the Revolutionary War was being fought. Revolutionary spirits were high, and the state of government was uncertain. John Carroll was a true patriot and ardent supporter of the American Revolution. He joined Charles Carroll, his cousin and a Catholic signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Benjamin Franklin, his good friend, in a diplomatic mission to Canada. The men went in hopes of persuading the Canadians to join the struggling American patriots in their revolt against Britain. Though their mission was unsuccessful, John Carroll had proven his dedication to democracy and to his country.

Carroll was held in high esteem by many important leaders of his time, including George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. He was well respected among them, and his opinion was valued and influential. John Carroll began the American custom of public prayer for governmental leaders, and drafted a now famous prayer for national leaders in 1791. He was particularly close to George Washington, and when Washington died in 1799 Carroll delivered a fine tribute to his friend and fellow patriot. This speech is considered one of the finest ever composed about the nation's first president.

As Carroll helped to politically influence the young and struggling republic, he also helped to engender a spirit of religious unity. As a strong and respected Catholic leader, he assisted in gaining acceptance for Catholics in America. In addition, Rome gave him the task of organizing the Catholic Church in the new nation. In November of 1789, he was named Bishop of Baltimore by Pope Pius VI, thus becoming the first American Bishop. Carroll's new position enabled him to establish many fine schools in the nation, including Georgetown University, St. Mary's College for Boys (which became Loyola), and Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg. He was also a major supporter of the establishment of many parochial schools, Catholic academies, and religious orders.

In 1791, Carroll called the first national synod, an assembly of Catholic Church delegates to discuss various matters facing the churches to which they belonged. The synod created many guidelines for the Catholic Church in the United States and was a pivotal event in the history of American Catholicism. These guidelines became the first canon law for the nation and were a great unifying force for the Church as it grew in America. Through this synod and his ministry as bishop, John Carroll was instrumental in organizing the Church's life in the new nation. By 1810 there were five separate dioceses in the United States, and Carroll was appointed the nation's first Catholic Archbishop. Archbishop John Carroll remained a patriot, a strong religious leader, and an advocate for education until his death in 1815.

On Sunday, April 28, 1968, John Cardinal Krol formally blessed both Archbishop John Carroll High School for Boys and Archbishop John Carroll High School for Girls. Planned in a co-institutional style, these schools were joined into one co-educational high school in 1986. Our school mascot is the Patriot, in honor of all Carroll did to assist the Founding Fathers in achieving American independence and initiating a democratic form of government in the former British colonies. Since that day of blessing in 1968, the school has continued to provide quality Catholic education in the tradition established by John Carroll, whose name we bear."

Title: Vatican Official Claims ET Phenomenon is Real

ArchAngel - January 13, 2007 05:33 PM (GMT)

Monsignor Corrado Balducci, a theologian member of the Vatican Curia (governing body), and an insider close to the Pope, has gone on Italian national television five times, including recent months, to proclaim that extraterrestrial contact is a real phenomenon. Balducci provided an analysis of extraterrestrials that he feels is consistent with the Catholic Church's understanding of theology. Monsignor Balducci emphasizes that extraterrestrial encounters "are NOT demonic, they are NOT due to psychological impairment, they are NOT a case of entity attachment, but these encounters deserve to be studied carefully." Since Monsignor Balducci is a demonology expert and consultant to the Vatican, and since the Catholic Church has historically demonized many new phenomena that were poorly understood, his stating that the Church does not censure these encounters is all the more remarkable.

Balducci revealed to a visiting American professional that the Vatican is closely following this phenomenon quietly. My informant originally surmised that the Vatican is receiving much information about extraterrestrials and their contacts with humans from its Nunciatures (embassies) in various countries. But subsequent information indicated that the Monsignor has gotten his cases from other sources. Monsignor Balducci is a member of a group which acts as consultants to the Vatican on various matters concerning humans in possible contact with supernatural beings. As such, the matter of extraterrestrial encounters would fall within their purview, and possibly as well the spiritual significance of the emerging general realization of extraterrestrial contact.

Parallel information from National Security Council scientist Dr. Michael Wolf, a member of the NSC's SSG subcommittee for managing the UFO phenomenon, as well as from noted author and Vatican expert Father Malachi Martin, suggests that the Vatican is concerned that it will have a major doctrinal updating situation on its hands when extraterrestrial contact becomes authoritatively announced by world governments over the next several years.

Garamond;">In a recent article at Illuminati News.com, Leo Zagami, a former 33rd degree freemason and a true insider and a high-member of the infamous Freemasonic P2 Lodge, gave his opinions as a high-level insider:

"I have discussed the fake UFO myth various times on Greg's radio show, The Investigative Journal, and also in several chapters of my Illuminati Confessions , like for example the following about the Jesuits in Arizona that should answer a few of your questions about there real nature of these Demons..."

Zagami went on to say:

Forget the Reptilian myth is been created by the secret services and the Demons on top to control man even further and brainwash him with complete Satanic nonsense. I want to write this article to explain to you and the other young people out there my modest opinion and the opinion of the real illuminati on the subject. There is no UFO'S, Reptilians or Anunnaki Supreme Councils, is all pure and simple rubbish and disinformation created by the Satanist in the intelligence with their programs for Mind Control (MK-ULTRA).

And you should be more aware of it and understand that Reptilians are what we define in the Middle East as

 HABIS RUH evil Jinn , the Legion of Satan mentioned in the Bible is made of them.

It's true they the Habis Ruhs have their own Societies and their own Kingdoms these entities but they are NOT allowed by God to interfere with us and WE ARE

SUPERIOR TO THEM, this is something you need to know because only the weak in matters of faith (now the majority of the population) or the black magicians willing to work with them are under their full control (of the evil Jinns/HABIS RUHS), but we can still rebel to them until we are free to do it EUZU BILLAHI MINE SHAYTANI RAGIM Is the key to success.

Yes the moment we have been micro chipped by the New World Order and their slaves

we will completely fall into the hands of the HABIS RUHS and their High Priest in Jerusalem and the Vatican , that's what the Christians call "the mark of the Beast" the most

dangerous moment in the history of humanity, and this is going to happen soon unfortunately because corrupted man has now been given the technology by their evil master.

The Jesuits represent the High Tech of Demonology and the same can also be said for their

Zionist allies and their Cabala's. But if people get the power of prayers in the Sufi teachings, even the most simple man will be able to stand against their puppet shows.

Rockefeller Sr. and the The Mayer Amschel Rothschild family (often referred to simply as The Rothschilds) are two example's of the evil illuminati Bankenstein Monsters and Mobsters behind this demonic conspiracy.

These are definitely not normal people they are Satanist and conspirators against the whole of humanity, but they are not Reptilians or Aliens just criminals! When the people of this planet will finally realize this in 2012 the war will start , and the High Priest of Satan will try to defend their Luciferian positions in the Vatican, and the various places of power especially in Israel were Satanism is growing every day since the end of the II World War thanks to

England and the Vaticans dirty games.

We can't stop all this evil but we can prepare for the moment we will have to rebel against this satanic system, ready to fight the " Reptilians" , ready to fight those man and women who are possessed by the Habis Ruhs , they might be our next door neighbour or anyone in the street but remember they are united against us so we have to be united against them.

They dont believe in God WE INSTEAD BELIEVE IN ONE GOD that will save us all not some Anunnaki fairytale by Zeccharia Sitchin. Gods promise is the law, he is the real one who keeps the promises. In the Quran the most Glorified mentions him self as SADIQUL WAAD which means faithful to his promises. And he promises the ones with good deeds his endless mercy and complete success over the evil ones "The Reptilians". So an extraterrestrial civilization that colonized this planet along time ago is not gonna save your lives when this system is gonna crack down, its crack thanks

to the evil of mankind and nobody else, and

 Forget it!

<span style="FONT-FAMILY:

Garamond;">

What a nice story: "The Anunnaki (Sumerian: those who came down from the

heavens; Old testament Hebrew, Anakeim, Nefilim, Elohim; Egyptian: Neter), an advanced civilization from the tenth planet in our solar system, splashed down in the Persian gulf area around 432,000 years ago, colonized the planet, with the purpose of obtaining large quantities of gold"....HAVE YOU ALL LOST YOUR MINDS? Well I think we should start talking on how to save this planet from the pollution of your cars or the frauds of your evil banking system not this rubbish!

Who then does the First Horseman of the Apocalypse represent? The seal of the Knights Templar depicted two knights riding a single horse. However, a single horseman riding on a white horse is the logo of the Council on Foreign Relations. This logo appears in the CFR magazine, Foreign Affairs. (882) Prepare for a long and uncertain ride untill these reptilians are incharge of your life your Foreign Affairs and especially your Bank account...

Regarding the Jesuits manning a space observatory in Arizona, Zagami added

At Mount Graham in Arizona , the Vatican in reality maintains its own UFO observatory , staffed with Jesuits for the purpose of doing black magic and working on very detailed astronomical calculations for their so called alchemical work.

This dark approach to the Royal Art of Alchemy is operated unfortunately by the Jesuits with the use of evil Jinns serving Satan himself the owner of Vatican HQ's. Another important role for the complex astronomical calculations is the possibility of tracing the coming of a true Messiah and the return of the true spirit of Jesus in the end of times, something they obviously dont want in Rome.

The jinn concept offers a logical approach to looking at UFO's, crypto-zoology, apparitions, magic, demons, monsters and many other mysteries.

Amidst all the far-flung theories presented to account for the presence of alien beings such as:

Intergalactic travel

Travel from the future

Travel from the Inner Earth

Archetypal projections from the Collective Unconscious.

Very little consideration is given to the concept that some of them simply exist on the earth in a way that isn't generally perceptible to us.

We continue to assume that we can perceive everything that is "real" with our 5 senses despite all the evidence to the contrary. An overzealous belief in a science and philosophy of materialism has probably resulted in an irrational amount of faith in our

physical senses.

Human beings are extremely susceptible to the fabrications of the jinn, who are used in the programs of Mind Control on a massive scale. We believe what they want us to because their impressive materializations and deceptions are tailored to fit

our fantasies and belief systems.

Jinns

 The jinn are real entities living on this earth which are normally invisible to us. The name comes from an Arabic word meaning "to hide or conceal". They don't live in bottles or adhere to the fairy tales told about them. They can be deceptive and influential.

They are movers behind the UFO mystery as well as many other mysteries. Every culture shows the imprints of their influence in its religion and mythology.

There are myriads of hidden intelligent beings in creation. I have tended to think of many who are not human, angel or animal, as being jinn. This is useful for aiding comprehension, for getting a handle on this vast area of hidden experience. We live in the Kingdom of Names and Attributes, after all, and require these for learning and Knowing.

But this is admittedly overly simplistic. It is only a beginning for the more experienced researcher.

Jinns comprise a vast array of tricksters, fairies, demons and monsters, saints and spacemen who have confounded our understanding for centuries. The materialistic science of the 20th century decided that they no longer exist, despite the huge role they have always played in our wisdoms and mythologies, and despite the large portion of the world that never forgot who they are.

That's because the New World Order of the Nazi Jesuits and the Zionist conducted a deliberate UFO propaganda with the help of the usual evil Jinns in projects like MK-ULTRA so you could fall into this demonic trap and lose your faith (there are also good Jinns by the way).

Carl Gustav Jung

Carl Gustav Jung, a great genius of psychology but also a member of the Freemasons and the OTO illuminati (5th degree) said himself that modern humanity had a dangerously wounded psyche because all the myths had been killed. New ones needed to emerge for humanity to experience wholeness but also for global manipulation.

The jinn have obliged by literally popping into the global consciousness as the embodiments of our sciencefiction fantasies. The flying saucer may be the first global symbol recognized by the entire world but it is probably the most satanic one.

Carl Gustav Jung was not a member of Crowley's OTO at any time but a member of the Swiss OTO founded by illuminati agent Theodor Reuss.

The so called UFO mith is not the way forward for humankind towards a clear understanding of God's hidden methaphysical Kingdom and the real beauty of creation. The devil knows that very well that's why he uses people like Scientology in this evil game

piloted by the Jesuits to deceive you even further. Don't believe in what's coming out of Hollywood because at present such place is in the hands of a bunch of very evil and powerful Jinns who want to Mind Control you in the name of the evil one.

All intelligence agencies in the world are working for such deception on a massive scale (MK-ULTRA) because it is simply in their interest to not make you realize

the truth of God before the Great One comes back to punish the infidels.

Lastly, regarding Monsignor Balducci's claim that extraterrestrial's exist on earth, an excerpt from an article by Richard Boylan, written Jan. 13, had this to say:

Monsignor Corrado Balducci, a theologian member of the Vatican Curia (governing body), and an insider close to the Pope, has gone on Italian national television five times, including recent months, to proclaim that extraterrestrial contact is a real phenomenon.

Balducci provided an analysis of extraterrestrials that he feels is consistent with the

Catholic Church's understanding of theology. Monsignor Balducci emphasizes that extraterrestrial encounters "are NOT demonic, they are NOT due to psychological impairment, they are NOT a case of entity attachment, but these encounters deserve to be studied carefully."

Since Monsignor Balducci is a demonology expert and consultant to the Vatican , and since the Catholic Church has historically demonized many new phenomena that were poorly understood, his stating that the Church does not censure these encounters is all the more remarkable.

Balducci revealed to a visiting American professional that the Vatican is closely following this phenomenon quietly. My informant originally surmised that the Vatican is receiving much information about extraterrestrials and their contacts with humans from its Nunciatures (embassies) in various countries. But subsequent information indicated that the Monsignor has gotten his cases from other sources. Monsignor Balducci is a member of a group which acts as consultants to the Vatican on various matters concerning humans in possible contact with supernatural beings. As such, the matter of extraterrestrial encounters would fall within their purview, and possibly as well the spiritual significance of the emerging general realization of extraterrestrial contact.

Parallel information from National Security Council scientist Dr. Michael Wolf , a member of the NSC's SSG subcommittee for managing the UFO phenomenon, as well as from noted author and Vatican expert Father Malachi Martin, suggests that the Vatican is concerned that it will have a major doctrinal updating situation on its hands when extraterrestrial contact becomes authoritatively announced by world governments over the next several years

SO you need a religion, perhaps a NEW religion (the new religion are always built by pieces of oldes one). The NWO religion?

Aren't we at the starting point?

This is OT but I am forced to write it.

I advised Greg Szimansky about the translation of Confession n. 12 that I published on my blog . He answered to me saying that it was ok and if it was possible to add a link to his site on my pages. I did it, but when I accessed my blog from another PC (another IP) I discovered that the front page was different. I don't know the reason, but now I don't trust no more the e-mail, not because they read it, but because now I think that they could ALTER them. So I prefer to send this mail as 'double copy'.

A copy of this mail is published in a post in the thread 'Replying to Vatican Official Claims ET Phenomenon is Real' - Jesuit's Society section of The Unhived Mind

Hallo, I made the links. This is the sequence:
The Artict Beacon

Greg Szimansky on RBN
The Barry Chamish Web Site
The Unhived Mind

I tell you this because you couldn't see them. When I access to my blog from a different PC (different IP number) the front page of the blog is different from the one I see on MY PC: there aren't no links or other. In a case I found neither the addresses of the previous posts. I don't know what the f are they doing, but I have a suspicion: they manipulate my blog.

Yesterday (15 jan), I was advised by the MS operative system that someone is attempting to divert my internet traffic using false internet certifications. I took pictures (yes, I don't know other way) of the advices.

Avles.

Vatican Assassins?

Today's program was with Erick Phelps author of the book

Vatican

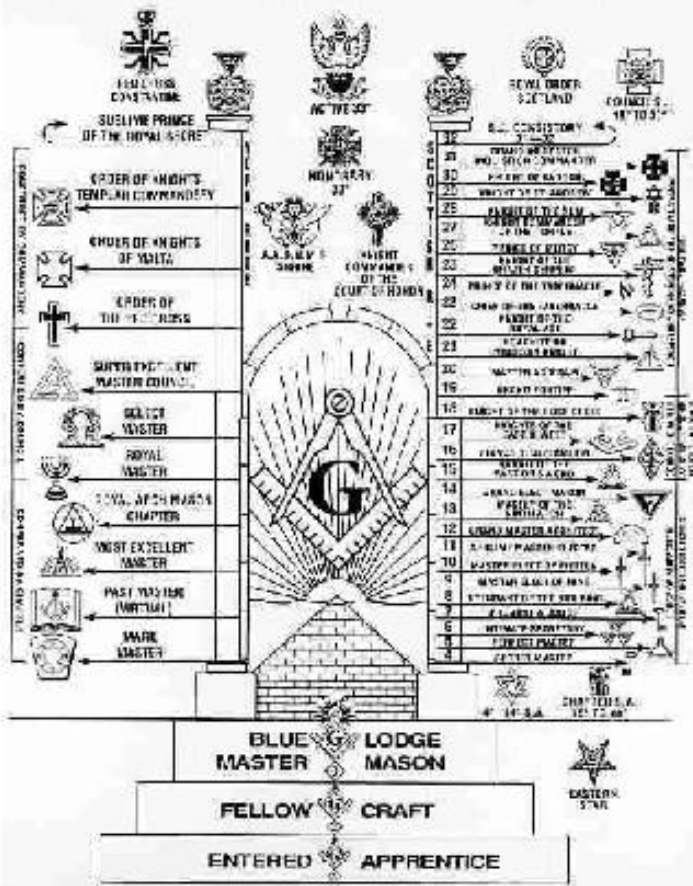

Assassins "Wounded in the House of My Friends" and the web site <http://www.vaticanassassins.org/>. Two hours of the most interesting documented information about an international conspiracy that, if true, dwarfs anything you have ever been told or could possibly think of. CIA IRS CFR FBI TLC Club of Rome, Knights of Malta, and many others all under the watchful eye of the "Society of Jesus" AKA the Jesuits.

Please read though his website and follow the links and you decide. The documentation that he gives is overwhelming in its scope and persuading in its presentation. Erick Phelps has done his homework! This was one of the most interesting interviews that I have ever done and quite possibly the most dangerous. Are the Masons and the Vatican, rather than being bitter enemies are in reality bed fellows of a clandestine sort?

Title: Russian Orthodox Church Awards Jewish Leader

Description: the order of Saint Sergiy of Radonezh

ArchAngel - January 17, 2007 05:55 PM (GMT)

<http://www.mosnews.com/news/2007/01/17/orthodoxorder.shtml>

A top cleric of the Russian Orthodox Church has handed the order of Saint Sergiy of Radonezh to the Euro-Asian Jewish Congress (EAJC) President Alexander Machkevitch, Russian internet news agency Lenta.ru reported on Tuesday.

The ceremony took place in Astana, the capital of Kazakhstan. Antoniy, the Archbishop of Urals and Guriyev decorated the leader of the largest Jewish organization of the continent, Euro-Asian Jewish Congress (EAJC) President Alexander Machkevitch with the church order of Saint Sergiy of Radonezh of the second degree, the agency reported quoting EAJC press-center.

The Jewish leader got the Russian Orthodox Church award for his longtime contribution into the development of the dialogue between races and religions as well as for his help in construction of the Temple of St Nicholas, the Metropolitan of Almaty of the Urals Eparchy in the town of Aqtobe in Kazakhstan.

While speaking at the ceremony, Archbishop Antoniy emphasized that Machkevitch had been regularly supporting the construction of prayer houses for various confessions, including mosques, synagogues and Russian orthodox churches.

In his turn, the leader of the EAJC emphasized that decorating a Jewish leader with a Russian Orthodox order in Muslim Kazakhstan testifies to the high level of tolerance of the Kazakh people. "It has become a reality due to the policy of the Kazakh President Nursultan Nazarbayev and the many centuries experience of coexistence of all ethnic entities of Kazakhstan," Machkevitch told the press.

He also pointed out that the dialogue with the Russian Orthodox Church has always been and still remains one of the main objectives of the Euro-Asian Jewish Congress, which is headed by Machkevitch. “It is a great honor for me to be decorated by the Russian Orthodox Church — one of the leading Christian churches on the planet, but it is also a great responsibility,” the EAJC President said. “Together we will not allow any confrontation between Russian Jews and other peoples in the post-Soviet states. Together we will continue our peaceful and productive dialogue.”

Confession With The Jesuits, No. 20: "We Know What You Are Doing, Jesuits...The Gig Is Up...Get Out Of Our Country In What Will Again Be Free America!"

Americans are beginning to understand the real deception promulgated by the Vatican and the Jesuits. Death, destruction and genocide...read the Secret Instructions of the Jesuits.

14 Jan 2007

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/14-Jan-2007.html>

The fight to expose the Jesuit Order and the Vatican hierarchy as the true spiritual controllers of the New World Order is mired in confusion, deception and protection -- protection given by their loyal Satanist followers in the U.S., Israeli and Middle East governments.

Make no mistake about it, the Jesuits and Vatican are the real puppet masters pulling the New World Order strings while fueling the fires of war as a one world government and religion are being ushered in by the followers of Satan.

Further, the Pope's "New Inquisition and Crusades" are well under way as many have been assassinated, including JFK and his son, after being declared heretics by the Pope. In fact, any freedom-minded, free-thinking individual will eventually be targeted by the Vatican-led New World Order, as America is finally directed in its evil cross-hairs and targeted for a complete fascist takeover.

How many more people have to be slaughtered under the wicked and deceptive practices of the Jesuits and Vatican, as they hide like cowards behind the robes of God? Weren't 600,000 Croats and more than 800,000 Tutsis in the Rwandan genocide enough?

Apparently Not. Apparently millions of Jews, Arabs and Christians from America will soon be added to the list if we do not wake up and stop the bloodshed before it is too late.

"We need to remove all Jesuits from American soil like they have done in so many other countries in the past," said Eric Phelps, author of the book, Vatican Assassins, adding "we must also break off all formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican after Reagan renewed relations after more than 100 years due to the Vatican's involvement in the Lincoln assassination."

In an article entitled The Cross and the Genocide, written by Rainer Chr. Hennig, in the afrol News, 2001, he said in part:

"The 1994 Rwandan genocide, killing an estimated 800,000 Tutsis and moderate Hutus, is made even more incomprehensible by the documented participation of many representatives of Rwandan church societies. How could God fearing nuns, and even a bishop, take part in the most cruel crimes against humanity committed on African soil? Even worse, several church societies allegedly were co-responsible for the growing hatred that led to the genocide. It remains an enormous contradiction to the Christian Message of Love.

In contemporary Rwanda, politically dominated by Tutsis and moderate Hutus, questions about the Catholic Church's role in the polarisation of Rwandans, in its extreme leading towards the 1994 genocide, are openly debated. In Rwanda, before the genocide called "Africa's most Christian country," over 50 percent of the population is Roman Catholic. Some 12 percent belong to other Christian societies.

As in most African ex-colonies, the missionaries in Rwanda also embarked on a policy of divide and rule, in close cooperation with the colonial administration. In the Belgian Trust Territories of Rwanda and Burundi this meant creating the ethnicities of Hutu and Tutsi and promoting the Hutu majority against the ruling Tutsi.

The Catholic Church, effectively supporting the creation of a Hutu identity and nationalism, thus became part of the Hutu movement. The mission was rewarded by mass conversions of Rwandan Hutus, making Catholicism the dominant religion in Rwanda. As the radical Hutus gained power in Rwanda at independence in 1962, Catholic and other clergymen found themselves with personal friends in all levels of governance and with good access to the centres of power.

Unlike most African countries, however, the succeeding Hutu-dominated governments of Rwanda were gradually radicalised. The government institutionalised discrimination against the Tutsi and periodically used massacres against this targeted population as a means of maintaining the status quo. Resistance was organised by the growing number of Tutsi refugees, mostly hiding in Uganda, and grew strong through the 1980s and early 1990s.

The Killing Fields

As it became obvious that the radical government was on the defensive in the early 1990s, it embarked on a Hitlerist plan to find a "permanent solution" to the "Tutsi problem". A genocide, that was to kill between 750,000 and one million Tutsis and moderate Hutus, was carefully planned and implemented. Hate propaganda was spread throughout the country and local representatives got their orders on whom to kill and whom to involve in the killings. Surprisingly many took part in the killings, and even more incomprehensible, also many members of the clergy were involved in the genocide in some degree.

"The nuns are coming to help us. They are bringing gasoline."

Testimony against two Catholic nuns

The extreme cases include the Anglican bishop Samuel Musabyimana, who allegedly "was responsible for killing or causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the Tutsi population with intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a racial or ethnic group". Another extreme is the sentence against two Catholic nuns, Sisters Gertrude Mukangango and Julienne Kisito, for their involvement in the slaughter of at least 5,000 civilians that had sought refuge in their monastery at Sovu.

Archbishop Augustin Nshamihigo and the coadjutor Bishop of Kigali, Jonathan Ruhumuliza, were seen describing the government responsible for orchestrating the genocide as "peace-loving" at a Nairobi press conference in early June 1994. The accusations against clergy of the Free Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Seventh-Day Adventist Churches are equally shocking. According to survivors, Bishop Aaron Ruhumuliza, head of the Free Methodist Church in Gikondo, Kigali, helped the militia carry out a massacre in his own church on 9 April 1994. Michel Twagirayesu, the President of the Presbyterian Church of Rwanda and a former vice-president of the World Council of Churches, is alleged to have worked closely with the killers in the Presbyterian stronghold of Kirinda, Kibuye, betraying parishioners and fellow-clergy alike, according to a report by African Rights.

How could they? A better question may be, "how could anybody participate in this"? Historians still are puzzled by the largest genocide in world history, Nazi Germany's systematic killing of an estimated six million people, most of them Jews. Although the Nazi's Holocaust remains mostly incomprehensible, one sees clear parallels in the systematic tactics behind the organisation of the two genocides. First, the future victims were stripped off their human dignity, official propaganda labelling them "pigs" (Nazi Germany) or "cockroaches" (Rwanda), creatures without a right to live. Hate is systematically spread, the "unworthy" being responsible for all the ills of society. Radicals and hardliners are carefully picked to organise the killings. Others are given tasks slowly making them more and more involved in the actions to come. Suddenly, there exists a nation of perpetrators.

Like the Catholics, many within the hierarchy of the Protestant churches had had close links with the Hutu regimes since independence. These links continued when the government was radicalised step by step. The profound links were clearly demonstrated when most of the Rwandan church leaders fled the country following the military defeat of the government responsible for the genocide. This did not mean that the church hierarchies were systematically involved in the planning of the genocide, but it indicated that the churches as organisations had not taken the responsibilities they were supposed to, due to their too close links to the government."

But in this Confession with the Jesuits No. 20, we will concentrate and provide a historical look at the Secret Instructions of the Jesuits uncovered during the 30 Years' War when the Duke of Brunswick plundered the Jesuit's college at Paderborn in Westphalia.

Although lengthy, it is worth reading if you want to understand the true mission of the Jesuits, still followed by the Society of Jesus hierarchy today.

Secret Instructions of the Jesuits

The Secret Instructions were first discovered during the 30 Years' War when the Duke of Brunswick plundered the Jesuit's college at Paderborn in Westphalia and made a present of their library to the Capuchins of the same town. Soon after reprints and translations appeared all over Europe.

The text of the Secret Instructions of the Society of Jesus reproduced here was found beneath the pallet on an adobe bed in a cottage in the Andes Mountains of Peru about a century ago. Students of the Incas recall that prior to the expedition of the National Geographic Magazine under Hiram Gingham, in 1911, archeologists from European countries probed the ruins of this people, one of the greatest civilizations in history.

In 1870 a French archeologist slipped unobtrusively into the office of the Secretary of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in San Francisco, California. He had been sent into the remote recesses of the Andes, where Pizarro and his army had conquered the Incas more than three centuries before. He had rented a room in a tiny village. This he used as a base of his operations. To this spot he returned periodically to rest from the dangerously high altitudes and to write his reports for shipment back to France. While he was away, the family frequently rented the same room to overnight guests. One of these happened to be a Jesuit official. On his departure he forgot a little book which he had hidden under the mattress. The French archeologist accidentally found it. It was the Secret Instructions of the Society of Jesus-the top classified manual of procedure for the trusted leaders of the Jesuit Order. It was in Latin and bore the seal, signature and attestation of the General and Secretary of the Order in Rome.

For the next few days the Frenchman labored furiously translating the work in stenographic notes into French. He then replaced the book and left. The Jesuit returned in a few days inquiring nervously about his little black packet. He also wanted to know if anyone had occupied the room since his departure. On learning of the archeologist he began a search so relentless that the Frenchman had to leave Peru. He finally reached San Francisco and entrusted his precious but dangerous burden to Edwin A. Sherman, the Secretary of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in California. Mr. Sherman included the Secret Instructions in his book The Engineer Corps of Hell published in 1882. For several years Edwin Sherman was the Masonic Historian of California. He was highly esteemed for his great accuracy and dependability.

CHAPTER I

THE MANNER OF PROCEDURE WITH WHICH THE SOCIETY MUST BE CONDUCTED WHEN CONSIDERING THE COMMENCING OF SOME FOUNDATION.

1. To capture the will of the inhabitants of a country, it is very important to manifest the intent of the Society, in the manner prescribed in the regulations in which it is said, that the Society must labor with such ardor and force for the salvation of their neighbor as for themselves. For the better inducement of this idea, the most opportunely that we practice the most humble offices, visiting the poor, the afflicted, and the imprisoned. It is very convenient to confess with much promptness, and to hear the confessions, showing indifference, without teasing the penitents; for this, the most notable inhabitants will admire our fathers and esteem them; for the great charity they have for all, and the novelty of the subject.

2. To have in mind that it is necessary to ask with religious modesty, the means for exercising the duties of the Society, and that it is needful to procure and acquire benevolence, principally of the secular ecclesiastics, and of persons of authority, that may be conceived necessary.

3. When called to go to the most distant places, where alms are to be received, they are to be accepted, no matter how small they may be, after having marked out the necessities of ourselves. Notwithstanding, it will be very convenient at the moment to give those alms to the poor, for the edification of those who do not have an exact understanding of the Society; and, but we must in advance be more liberal with ourselves.

4. All must labor as if we were inspired by the same spirit; and each one must study to acquire the same styles, with the object of uniformity among so great a number of persons, edifying the whole; those who do the contrary must be expelled as pernicious.

5. In a beginning it is not convenient to purchase property; but in case they can be found, some good sites may be bought, saying that they are to belong to other persons, using the names of some faithful friends, who will guard the secret. The better to make our poverty apparent, the property nearest our college must belong to colleges the most distant, that we can prevent the princes and magistrates from ever knowing that the income of the Society has a fixed point.

6. We must not ourselves go out to reside to form colleges, except to the rich cities; for in this we must imitate Christ, who remained in Jerusalem; and as he alone, passed by the less considerable populations.

7. We must obtain and acquire of the widows all the money that we can, presenting ourselves at repeated times to their sight our extreme necessity.

8. The Superior over each province is the one to whom we must account with certainty, the income of the same; but the amount to the treasurer at Rome, it is, and must always be, an impenetrable mystery.

9. It is for us to preach and say in all parts and in all conversations, that we have come to teach the young and aid the people; and this without interest in any single species and without exception of persons, and that we are not so onerous to the people as other religious orders.

CHAPTER II

THE MANNER WITH WHICH THE FATHERS OF THE ORDER MUST CONDUCT THEMSELVES TO ACQUIRE AND PRESERVE THE FAMILIARITY OF PRINCES, MAGNATES AND POWERFUL AND RICH PERSONS.

1. It is necessary to do all that is possible to gain completely the attentions and affections of princes and persons of the most consideration; for that, who, being on the outside, but in advance, all of them will be constituted our defenders.

2. As we have learned by experience that princes and potentates are generally inclined to the favor of the ecclesiastics, when these disseminate their odious actions, and when they give an interpretation that they favor, as is to be noted among the married, contract with their relations or allies; or in other similar things; assembling much with them, to animate those who may be found in this case, saying to them that we confide in the assurance of the exemptions, that by intervention of us fathers, which the Pope will concede, if he is made to see the causes, and will present other examples of similar things, exhibiting at the same time the sentiments that we favor, under the pretext of the common good and THE GREATER GLORY OF GOD that is the object of the Society.

3. If at this same assembly the prince treats of doing something, that will not be agreeable to all the great men, for which we are to stir up and investigate, meanwhile, counseling others to conform with the prince, without ever descending to treat of particulars, for fear there may not be a successful issue of the matter, for which the Society will be imputed blame; and for this, if this action shall be disapproved, there will be advertences presented to the contrary that may be absolutely prohibited and put in jeopardy, the authority of some of the fathers, of whom it can be said with certainty, that they have not had notice of the Secret Instructions; for that, it can be affirmed with an oath, that the calumny to the Society, is not true in respect to that which is imputed to it.

4. To gain the good will of Princes, it will be very convenient to insinuate with skill; and for third persons, that we fathers, are a means to discharge honorable and favorable duties in the courts of other kings and princes, and more than any one else in that of the Pope. By this means we can recommend ourselves and the Society; for the same, no one must be charged with this commission but the most zealous persons and well versed in our institute.

5. Aiming especially to bring over the will of the favorites of princes and of their servants, by means of presents and pious offices, that they may give faithful notice to us fathers of the character and inclinations of the princes and great men. Of this manner the Society can gain with facility as much to one as to others.

6. The experience we have had, has made us acquainted with the many advantages that have been taken by the Society of its intervention in the marriages of the House of Austria, and of those which have been effected in other kingdoms, France, Poland, and in various duchies. Forasmuch assembling, proposing with prudence, selecting choice persons who may be friends and families of the relatives, and of the friends of the Society.

7. It will be easy to gain the princesses, making use of their valets; by that, coming to feed and nourish with relations of friendship, by being located at the entrance in all parts, and thus become acquainted with the most intimate secrets of the familiars.

8. In regard to the direction of the consciences of great men, we confessors must follow the writers who concede the greater liberty of conscience. The contrary of this is to appear too religious; for that they will decide to leave others and submit entirely to our direction and counsels.

9. It is necessary to make reference to all the merits of the Society; to the princes and prelates, and to as many as can lend much aid to the Society, after having shown the transcendency of its great privileges.

10. Also, it will be useful to demonstrate, with prudence and skill, such ample power which the Society has, to absolve, even in the reserved cases, compared with that of other pastors and priests; also, that of dispensing with the fasts, and of the rights which they must ask and pay, in the impediments of marriage, by which means many persons will recur to us, whom it will be our duty to make agreeable.

11. It is not the less useful to invite them to our sermons, assemblies, harangues, declamations, etc., composing odes in their honor, dedicating literary works or conclusions; and if we can for the future, give dinners and greetings of divers modes.

12. It will be very convenient to take to our care the reconciliation of the great, in the quarrels and enmities that divide them; then by this method we can enter, little by little, into the acquaintance of their most intimate friends and secrets; and we can serve ourselves to that party which will be most in favor of that which we present.

13. If there should be some one at the service of a monarch or prince, and he were an enemy of our Society, it is necessary to procure well for ourselves better than for others, making him a friend, employing promises, favors, and advances, which shall be in proportion to the same monarch or prince.

14. No one shall recommend to a prince any one, nor make advances to any who have gone out from us, being outside of our Society, and in particular to those who voluntarily verified, for yet when they dissimulate they will always maintain an inextinguishable hatred to the Society.

In fine, each one must procure and search for methods to increase the affection and favor of princes, of the powerful, and of the magistrates of each population, that whenever occasion is offered to support, we can do much with efficacy and good faith, in benefiting ourselves, though contrary to their relations, allies and friends.

CHAPTER III

HOW THE SOCIETY MUST BE CONDUCTED WITH THE GREAT AUTHORITIES IN THE STATE, AND IN CASE THEY ARE NOT RICH WE MUST LEND OURSELVES TO OTHERS.

1. The care consigned to us, that we must do all that is possible, for to conquer the great; but it is also necessary to gain their favor to combat our enemies.
2. It is very conducive to value their authority, prudence and counsels, and induce them to despise wealth, at the same time that we procure gain and employ those that can redeem the Society; tacitly valuing their names, for acquisition of temporal goods if they inspire sufficient confidence
3. It is also necessary to employ the ascendant of the powerful, to temper the malevolence of the persons of a lower sphere and of the rabble against our Society.
4. It is necessary to utilize, whenever we can, the bishops, prelates and other superior ecclesiastics, according to the diversity of reason, and the inclination we manifest.
5. In some points it will be sufficient to obtain of the prelates and curates, that which it is possible to do, that their subjects respect the society; and that obstructing the exercise of its functions among those who have the greatest power, as in Germany, Poland, etc. It will be necessary to exhibit the most distinguished attentions for that, mediating its authority and that of the princes, monasteries, parishes, priorates, patronates, the foundations of the churches and the pious places, can come to our power. Because we can with more facility where the Catholics will be found mixed with heretics. It is necessary to make such prelates see the utility and merit that we have in all this, and that never will they have so much valuation from the priests, friars, and for the future from the faithful. If making these changes, it is necessary to publicly praise their zeal, although written, and to perpetuate the memory of their actions.

6. For this it is necessary to labor, to the end, that the prelates will place in the hands of us fathers, as confessors and counsellors; and if they aspire to more elevated positions in the Court of Rome, we must unite in their favor and aid their pretensions with all our forces, and by means of our influence.

7. We must be watchful that when the bishops are instituting principal colleges and parochial churches, that the faculties are taken from the Society, and placed in both vicarious establishments, with the charge of cures, and that the Superior of the Society to be, that all the government of these churches shall pertain to us, and that the parishioners shall be our subjects, of the method that all can be placed in them.

8. Where there are those of the academies who have been driven out from us, and are contrary; where the Catholics or the heretics obstruct our installation, we will compound with the prelates, and make ourselves the owners of the first cathedrals; for thus shall we make them to know the necessities of the Society.

9. Over all, we must be very certain to procure the protection and affection of the prelates of the Church, for the cases of beatification or canonization of ourselves; in whose subjects convened further, to obtain letters from the powerful and of the princes, that the decisions may be promptly attained in the Catholic Court.

10. If it shall be accounted that the prelates or magnates should send commissioned representatives, we must put forth all ardor, that no other priests, who are in dispute with us, shall be sent; for the reason, that they shall not communicate their animadversion, discrediting us in the cities and provinces we inhabit; and that if they pass by other provinces and cities, where there are colleges, they will be received with affection and kindness, and be so splendidly treated as a religious modesty will permit.

CHAPTER IV

OF THAT WHICH WE MUST CHARGE THE PREACHERS AND CONFESSORS OF THE GREAT OF THE EARTH.

1. Those of us who may be directed to the princes and illustrious men, of the manner in which we must appear before them, with inclination unitedly to the greater glory of God, obtaining-with its austerity of conscience, that the same princes are persuaded of it; for this direction we must not travel in a principle to the exterior or political government, but gradually and imperceptibly.
2. Forasmuch there will be opportunity and conducive notices at repeated times, that the distribution of honors and dignities in the Republic is an act of justice; and that in a great manner it will be offending God, if the princes do not examine themselves and cease carrying their passions, protesting to the same with frequency and severity, that we do not desire to mix in the administration of the State; but when it shall become necessary to so express ourselves thus, to have your weight to fill the mission that is recommended. Directly that the sovereigns are well convinced of this, it will be very convenient to give an idea of the virtues that may be found to adorn those that are selected for the dignities and principal public changes; procuring then and recommending the true friends of the Society; notwithstanding, we must not make it openly for ourselves, but by means of our friends who have intimacy with the prince that it is not for us to talk him into the disposition of making them.
3. For this watchfulness our friends must instruct the confessors and preachers of the Society near the persons capable of discharging any duty, that over all, they must be generous to the Society; they must also keep their names, that they may insinuate with skill, and upon opportune occasions to princes, well for themselves or by means of others.
4. The preachers and confessors will always present themselves so that they must comport with the princes, lovable and affectionate, without ever shocking them in sermons, nor in particular conversations, presenting that which rejects all fear, and exhorting them in particular to faith, hope and justice.

5. Never receive gifts made to any one in particular, but that for the contrary; but picture the distress in which the Society or college may be found, as all are alike; having to be satisfied with assigning each one a room in the house, modestly furnished; and noticing that your garb is not over nice; and assist with promptness to the aid and counsel of the most miserable persons of the palace; but that you do not say it of them, but only those who have agreed to serve the powerful.

6. Whenever the death occurs of any one employed in the palace, we must take care of speaking with anticipation, that they fail in the nomination of a successor, in their affection for the Society; but giving no appearance to cause suspicion that it was the intent of usurping the government of the prince; for which, it must not be from us that it is said; take a part direct; but assembling of faithful or influential friends who may be found in a position of rousing the hate of one and another until they become inflamed.

CHAPIER V

OF THE MODE OF CONDUCTING THE SOCIETY WITH RESPECT TO OTHER ECCLESIASTICS WHO HAVE THE SAME DUTIES AS OURSELVES IN THE CHURCH.

1. It is necessary to help with valor these persons, and manifest in their due time to the princes and lords that are always ours, and being constituted in power, that our Society contains essentially the perfection of all the other orders, with the exception of singing and manifesting an exterior of austerity in the mode of life and in dress; and that if in some points they excel the communities of the Society, this shines with greater splendor in the Church of God.

2. We must inquire into and note the defects of the other fathers [i](non-Jesuit priests), and when we find them, we must divulge them among our faithful friends, as [i] condoling over them; we must show that such fathers do not discharge with certainty, that we do ourselves the functions, that some and others recommend.

3. It is necessary that the fathers of our Society oppose with all their power the other fathers who intend to found houses of education to instruct the youths among the populations where ours are found teaching with acceptation and approval; and it will be very convenient to indicate our projects to princes and magistrates, that such people will excite disturbances and commotions if they are not prohibited from teaching; and that in the last result, the damage will fall upon the educated, by being instructed by a bad method, without any necessity; posting them that the Society is sufficient to teach the youth. In case the fathers bear letters of the Pontificate, or recommendations from the Cardinals, we must work in opposition to them, making the princes and great men to point out to the Pope the merits of the Society and its intelligence for the pacific instruction of the youths, to which end, we must have and obtain certifications of the authorities upon our good conduct and sufficiency.

4. Having notwithstanding to form duties, our fathers in displaying singular proofs of our virtue and erudition, making them to exercise the alumni (graduates) in their studies in methods of functions, scholars of diversion, capable of drawing applause, making for supposition, these representations in the presence of the great magistrates and concurrence of other classes.

CHAPTER VI

OF THE MODE OF ATTRACTING RICH WIDOWS.

1. We must elect effective fathers already advanced in years, of lively complexion and conversation, agreeable to visit these ladies, and whence they can promptly note in them appreciation or affection for our Society; making offerings of good works and the merits of the same; that, if they accept them, and succeed in having them frequent our temples, we must assign to them a confessor, who will be able of guiding them in the ways that are proper, in the state of widowhood, making the enumeration and praises of satisfaction that should accompany such a state; making them believe and yet with certainty that they who serve as such, is a merit for eternal life, being efficacious to relieve them from the pains of purgatory.

2. The same confessor will propose to them to make and adorn a little chapel or oratory in their own house, to confirm their religious exercises, because by this method we can shorten the communication, more easily hindering those who visit others; although if they have a particular chaplain, and will content to go to him to celebrate the mass, making opportune advertencies to her who confesses, to the effect and treating her as being left to be overpowered by said Chaplain.

3. We must endeavor skillfully but gently to cause them to change respectively to the Order and to the method of the House, and to conform as the circumstances of the person will permit, to whom they are directed, their propensities, their piety, and yet to the place and situation of the edifice.

4. We must not omit to have removed, little by little, the servants of the house that are not of the same mind with ourselves, proposing that they be replaced by those persons who are dependent on us, or who desire to be of the Society; for by this method we can be placed in the channel of communication of whatever passes in the family.

5. The constant watch of the confessor will have to be, that the widow shall be disposed to depend on him totally, representing that her advances in grace are necessarily bound to this submission.

6. We are to induce her to the frequency of the sacraments, and especially that of penitency, making her to give account of her deeper thoughts and intentions; inviting her to listen to her confessor, when he is to preach particular promising orations; recommending equally the recitation each day of the litanies and the examination of conscience.

7. It will be very necessary in the case of a general confession, to enter extensively into all of her inclinations; for that it will be to determine her, although she may be found in the hands of others.

8. Insist upon the advantages of widowhood, and the inconvenience of marriage; in particular that of a repeated one, and the dangers to which she will be exposed, relatively to her particular businesses into which we are desirous of penetrating.

9. We must cause her to talk of men whom she dislikes, and to see if she takes notice of anyone who is agreeable, and represent to her that he is a man of bad life; procuring by these means disgust of one and another, and repugnant to unite with anyone.

10. When the confessor has become convinced that she has decided to follow the life of widowhood, he must then proceed to counsel her to dedicate herself to a spiritual life, but not to a monastic one, whose lack of accommodations will show how they live; in a word, we must proceed to speak of the spiritual life of Pauline and of Eustace, &c. The confessor will conduct her at last, that having devoted the widow to chastity, to not less than for two or three years, she will then be made to renounce a second nuptial forever.

In this case she will be found to have discarded all sorts of relations with men, and even the diversions between her relatives and acquaintances, we must protest that she must unite more closely to God. With regard to the ecclesiastics who visit her, or to whom she goes out to visit, when we cannot keep her separate and apart from all others, we must labor that those with whom she treats shall be recommended by ourselves or by those who are devoted to us.

11. In this state, we must inspire her to give alms, under the direction, as she will suppose, or her spiritual father; then it is of great importance that they shall be employed with utility; more, being careful that there shall be discretion in counsel, causing her to see that inconsiderate alms are the frequent causes of many sins, or serve to foment at last, that they are not the fruit, nor the merit which produced them.

CHAPTER VII

SYSTEM WHICH MUST BE EMPLOYED WITH WIDOWS AND METHODS OF DISPOSING OF THEIR PROPERTY.

1. It will be necessary to inspire her to continue to persevere in her devotion and the exercise of good works and of disposition, in not permitting a week to pass, to give away some part of her overplus, in honor of Jesus Christ, of the Holy Virgin and of the Saint she has chosen for her patron; giving this to the poor of the Society or for the ornamenting of its churches, until she has absolutely disposed of the first fruits of her property as in other times did the Egyptians.
2. When the widows, the more generally to practice their alms, must be given to know with perseverance, their liberality in favor of the Society; and they are to be assured that they are participants in all the merits of the same, and of the particular indulgences of the Provincial; and if they are persons of much consideration, of the General of the Order.
3. The widows who having made vows of chastity, it will be necessary for them to renew them twice per annum, conforming to the custom that we have established; but permitting them notwithstanding, that day some honest freedom from restraint by our fathers.
4. They must be frequently visited, treating them agreeably; referring them to spiritual and diverting histories, conformable to the character and inclination of each one.
5. But that they may not abate, we must not use too much rigor with them in the confessional; that it may not be, that they by having empowered others of their benevolence, that we do not lose confidence of recovering their adhesion, having to proceed in all cases with great skill and caution, being aware of the inconstancy natural to woman.

6. It is necessary to have them do away with the habit of frequenting other churches, in particular those of convents; for which it is necessary to often remind them, that in our Order there are possessed many indulgences that are to be obtained only partially by all the other religious corporations.

7. To those who may be found in the case of the garb of mourning, they will be counselled to dress a little more agreeable, that they may at the same time, unite the aspect of mourning with that of adornment, to draw them away from the idea of being found directed by a man who has become a stranger to the world. Also with such, that they may not be very much endangered, or particularly exposed to volubility, we can concede to them, as if they maintained their consequence and liberality, for and with the Society, that which drives sensuality away from them, being with moderation and without scandal.

8. We must manage that in the houses of the widows there shall be honorable young ladies, of rich and noble families; that little by little they become accustomed to our direction and mode of life; and that they are given a director elected and established by the confessor of the family, to be permanently and always subject to all the reprehensions and habits of the Society; and if any do not wish to submit to all they must be sent to the houses of their fathers, or to those from which they were brought, accusing them directly of extravagance and of glaring and stained character.

9. The care of the health of the widows, and to proportion some amusement, it is not the least important that we should care for their salvation; and so, if they complain of some indisposition, we must prohibit the fast, the hair cloth girdle, and the discipline, without permitting them to go to church; further continue the direction, cautiously and secretly with such, that they may be examined in their houses; if they are given admission into the garden, and edifice of the college, with secrecy; and if they consent to converse and secretly entertain with those that they prefer.

10. To the end that we may obtain, that the widows employ their utmost obsequiousness to the Society, it is the duty to represent to them the perfection of the life of the holy, who have renounced the world, estranged themselves from their relations, and despising their fortunes, consecrating themselves to the service of the Supreme Being with entire resignation and content. It will be necessary to produce the same effect, that those who turn away to the Constitutions of the Society, and their relative examination to the abandonment of all things. We must cite examples of the widows who have reached holiness in a very short time; giving hopes of their being canonized, if their perseverance does not decay; and promising for their cases our influence with the Holy Father.

11. We must impress in their souls the persuasion that, if they desire to enjoy complete tranquillity of conscience it will be necessary for them to follow without repugnance, without murmuring, nor tiring, the direction of the confessor, so in the spiritual, as in the eternal, that she may be found destined to the same God, by their guidance.

12. Also we must direct with opportunity, that the Lord does not desire that they should give alms, nor yet to fathers of an exemplary life, known and approved, without consulting beforehand with their confessor, and regulating the dictation of the same.

13. The confessors must take the greatest care, that the widows and their daughters of the confessional, do not go to see other fathers (i.e. non-Jesuit priests) under any pretext, nor with them. For this, we must praise our Society as the Order most illustrious of them all; of greater utility in the Church, and of greater authority with the Pope and with the princes; perfection in itself; then dismiss the dream of them, and menace them, that we can, and that we are no correspondents to them, we can say, that we do not consent to froth and do as among other monks who count in their convents many ignorant, stupid loungers who are indolent in regard to the other life, and intriguers in that to disorder, &c.

14. The confessors must propose and persuade the widows to assign ordinary pensions and other annual quotas to the colleges and houses of profession for their sustenance with especially to the professed house at Rome; and not forgetting to remind them of the restoration of the ornaments of the temples and replenishing of the wax, the wine, and other necessaries for the celebration of the mass.

15. If they do not make relinquishment of their property to the Society, it will be made manifest to them, on apparent occasion in particular, when they are found to be sick, or in danger of death; that there are many colleges to be founded; and that they may be excited with sweetness and disinterestedness, to make some disbursements as merit for God, and in that they can found his eternal glory.

16. In the same manner, we must proceed with regard to princes and other well doers, making them to see that such foundations will be made to perpetuate their memory in this world, and gain eternal happiness, and if some malevolent persons adduce the example of Jesus Christ, saying, that then he had no place to recline his head, the Society bearing his name should be poor in imitation of himself, we must make it known and imprint it in the imagination of those, and of all the world, that the Church has varied, and that in this day we have become a State; and we must show authority and grand measures against its enemies that are very powerful, or like that little stone prognosticated by the prophet, that, divided, came to be a great mountain. Inculcate constantly to the widows who dedicate their alms and ornaments to the temples, that the greater perfection is in disposing of the affection and earthly things, ceding their possession to Jesus Christ and his companions.

17. Being very little, that which we must promise to the widows, who dedicate and educate their children for the world, we must apply some remedy to it.

CHAPTER VIII

METHODS BY WHICH THE CHILDREN OF RICH WIDOWS MAY BE CAUSED TO EMBRACE THE RELIGIOUS STATE, OR OF DEVOTION.

I. To secure our object, we must create the custom, that the mothers treat them severely, and show to them, that we are in love with them. Coming to induce the mothers to do away with their tastes, from the most tender age, and regarding, restraining, &c., &c., the children especially; prohibiting decorations and adornments when they enter upon competent age; that they are inspired in the vocation for the cloister, promising them an endowment of consideration, if they embrace a similar state; representing to them the insipidity that is brought with matrimony, and the disgust that has been experienced in it; signifying to them the weight they would sit under, for not having maintained in the celibate. Lastly, coming to direct in the conclusions arrived at by the daughters of the widows, so fastidious of living with their mothers, that their feet will be directed to enter into a convent.

2. We must make ourselves intimate with the sons of the widows, and if for them an object or the Society, and cause them to penetrate the intent of our colleges, making them to see things that can call their attention by whatever mode, such as gardens, vineyards, country houses, and the farm houses where the masters go to recreate; talk to them of the voyages the Jesuits have made to different countries, of their treating with princes, and of much that can capture Me young; cause them to note the cleanliness of the refectory, the commodiousness of the lodges, the agreeable conversation we have among ourselves, the suavity of our rule, and that we have all for the object of the greater glory of God; show to them the preeminence of our Order over all the others, taking care that the conversations we have shall be diverting to pass to that of piety.

3. At proposing to then the religious state, have care of doing so, as if by revelation; and in general, insinuating directly with sagacity, the advantage and sweetness of our institute above all others; and in conversation cause them to understand the great sin that will be committed against the vocation of the Most High; in fine, induce them to make some spiritual exercises that they may be enlightened to the choice of this state.

4. We must do all that is possible that the masters and professors of the youth indicated shall be of the Society, to the end, of being always vigilant over these, and counsel them; but if they cannot be reduced, we must cause them to be deprived of some things, causing that their mothers shall manifest their censure and authority of the house, that they may be tired of that sort of life; and if, finally, we cannot obtain their will to enter the Society, we must labor; because we can remand them to other colleges of ours that are at a distance, that they may study, procuring impediment, that their mothers show endearment and affection, at the same time, continuing for our part, in drawing them to us by suavity of methods.

CHAPTER IX

UPON THE AUGMENTING OF REVENUE IN THE COLLEGES.

1. We must do all that is possible, because we do not know if bound with the last vow of him, who is the claimant of an inheritance, meanwhile we do not know if it is confirmed, to not be had in the Society a younger brother, or of some other reason of much entity. Before all, that which we must procure, are the augmentations of the Society with rules to the ends agreed upon by the superiors, which must be conformable: for that the Church returns to its primitive splendor for the greater glory of God; of fate that all the clergy shall be found animated by a united spirit. To this end, we must publish by all methods, that the Society is composed in part of professors so poor, that are wanting of the most indispensable, to not be for the beneficence of the faithful; and that another part is of fathers also poor, although living upon the product of some household property; but not to be grievous to the public, in the midst of their studies, their ministry, as are other ordinary mendicants. The spiritual directors of princes, great men, accommodating widows, and of whom we have abundant hope, that they will be disposed at last to make gifts to the Society in exchange for spiritual and eternal things, that will be proportioned, the lands and temporalities which they possess; for the same, carrying always the idea, that we are not to lose the occasion of receiving always as much as may be offered. If promises and the fulfillment of them is retarded, they are to be remembered with precaution, dissimulating as much as we can the coveting of riches. When some confessor of personages or other people, will not be apt, or wants subtlety, that in these subjects is indispensable, he will be retired with opportunity, although others may be placed anticipatedly; and if it be entirely necessary to the penitents, it will be made necessary to take out the destitute to distant colleges, representing that the Society has need for them there; because it being known that some young widows, having unexpectedly failed, the Society not having the legacy of very precious movables, having been careless by not accepting in due time. But to receive these things, we could not attend at the time, and only at the good will of the penitent.

2. To attract the prelates, canonicals and other rich ecclesiastics, it is necessary to employ certain arts, and in place procuring them to practice in our houses spiritual exercises, and gradually and energetically of the affection that we profess to divine things; so that they will be affectioned towards the Society and that they will soon offer pledges of their adhesion.

3. The confessors must not forget to ask with the greatest caution and on adequate occasions of those who confess, what are their names, families, relatives, friends, and properties, informing their successors who follow them, the state, intention in which they will be found, and the resolution which they have taken; that which they have not yet determined obtaining, having to form a plan for the future to the Society. When it is founded, whence directly there are hopes of utility; for it will not be convenient to ask all at once; they will be counseled to make their confession each week, to disembarass the conscience much before, or to the title of penitence. They will be caused to inform the confessor with repetition, of that which at one time they have not given sufficient light; and if they have been successful by this means, she will come, being a woman, to make confession with frequency, and visit our church; and being a man, he will be invited to our houses and we are to make him familiar with ourselves.

4. That which is said in regard to widows, must have equal application to the merchants and neighbors of all classes, as being rich and married, but without children, of that plan by which the Society can arrive to be their heirs, if we put in play the measures that we may indicate; but over all, it will be well to have present, as said, near the rich devotees that treat with us, and of whom the vulgar can murmur, when more, if they are of a class not very elevated.

5. Procuring for the rectors of the colleges entrance for all the ways of the houses, parks, groves, forests, lawns, arable lands, vineyards, olive orchards, hunting grounds, and whatever species of inheritances which they meet with in the end of their rectory; if their owners pertain to the nobility, to the clergy, or are negotiators, particulars, or religious communities, inquiring the revenues of each one, their loads and what they pay for them. All these dates or notices they are to seek for with great skill and to a fixed point, energetically yet from the confessional, then of the relations of friendship, or of the accidental conversations; and the confessor meets with a penitent of possibles, he will be placed in knowledge of the rector, obtaining by all methods the one conserved.

6. The essential point to build upon, is the following: that we must so manage, that in the ends we gain the will and affections of our penitents, and other persons with whom we treat, accommodating ourselves to their inclinations if they are conducive. The Provincials will take care to direct some of us to points, in which reside the nobility and the powerful; and if the Provincials do not act with opportunity, the rectors must notice with anticipation, the crops (the field of operations) that are there, which we go to examine.

7. When we receive the sons of strong houses in the Society, they must show whether they will be easy to acquire the contracts and titles of possession; and if so they were to enter of themselves, of which they may be caused to cede some of their property to the college, or the usufruct (profit) or for rent, or in other form, or if they can come for a time into the Society, the gain of which may be very much of an object, to give a special understanding to the great and powerful, the narrowness in which we live, and the debts that are pressing us. 8. When the widows, or our married devoted women, do not have more than daughters, we must persuade them to the same life of devotion, or to that of the cloister; but that except the endowment that they may give, they can enter their property in the Society gently; but when they have husbands, those that would object to the Society, they will be catechized; and others who desire to enter as religiouses in other Orders, with the promise of some reduced amount. When there may be an only son, he must be attracted at all cost, inculcating the vocation as made by Jesus Christ; causing him to be entirely disembarassed from the fear of its fathers, and persuading him to make a sacrifice very acceptable to the Almighty, that he must withdraw to His authority, abandon the paternal house and enter in the Society; the which, if he so succeeds, after having given part to the General, he will be sent to a distant novitiate; but if they have daughters, they will primarily dispose the daughters for a religious life; and they will be caused to enter into some monastery, and afterwards be received as daughters in the Society, with the succession of its properties.

9. The Superiors will place in the channel of the circumstances, the confessors of these widows and married people, that they on all future occasions may act for the benefit of the Society; and when by means of one, they cannot take our part he will be replaced with another; and if it is made necessary, he will be sent to great distances, of a manner that he cannot follow understandingly with these families.

10. If we succeed in convincing the widows and devoted persons, who aspire with fervor to a perfect life, and that the better means to obtain it is by ceding ad their properties to the Society, supporting by their revenues, that they will be religiously administered until their death, conforming to the degree of necessity in which they may be found, and the just reason that may be employed for their persuasion is, that by this mode, they can be exclusively dedicated to God; without attentions and molestations, which would perplex them, and that it is the only road to reach the highest degree of perfection.

11. The Superiors craving the confidence of the rich, who are attached to the Society, delivering receipts of its proper hand writing whose payment afterwards will differ; not forgetting to often visit those who loan, to exhort them above all in their infinities of consideration, as to whom will devolve the papers of the debt; because it is not so to be found mention of the Society in their testament; and by this course we must acquire properties, without giving cause for us to be hated by the heirs.

12. We must also in a grand manner ask for a loan, with payment of annual interest, and employ the same capital in other speculation to produce greater revenues to the Society; for at such a time, succeeding to move them with compassion to that which they will lend to us, we will not lose the interest in the testament of donation, when they see that they found colleges and churches.

13. The Society can report the utilities of commerce, and value the name of the merchant of credit, whose friendship we may possess.

14. Among the peoples where our fathers reside, we must have physicians faithful to the Society, whom we can especially recommend to the sick, and to paint under an aspect very superior to that of other religious orders, and secure direction that we shall be called to assist the powerful, particularly in the hour of death.

15. That the confessors shall visit with assiduity the sick, particularly those who are in danger, and to honestly eliminate the other fathers, which the superiors will procure, when the confessor sees that he is obliged to remove the other from the suffering, to replace and maintain the sick in his good intentions. Meanwhile we must inculcate as much as we can with prudence, the fear of hell, &c., &c., or when, the lesser ones of purgatory; demonstrating that as water will put out fire, so will the same alms blot out the sin; and that we cannot employ the alms better, than in the maintaining and subsiding of the persons, who, by their vocation, have made profession of caring for the salvation of their neighbor; that in this manner the sick can be made to participate in their merits, and find satisfaction for their own sins; placing before them that charity covereth a multitude of sins; and that also, we can describe that charity, is as a nuptial vestment, without which, no one can be admitted to the heavenly table. In fine it will be necessary to move them to the citations of the scriptures, and of the holy fathers, that according to the capacity of the sick, we can judge what is most efficacious to move them.

16. We must teach the women, that they must complain of the vices of their husbands, and the disturbances which they occasion, that they can rob them in secret of some amounts of money, to offer to God, in expiation of the sins of their husbands, and to obtain their pardon.

CHAPTER X

OF THE PARTICULAR RIGOR OF DISCIPLINE IN THE SOCIETY.

1. If there shall be anyone dismissed under any protest, as an enemy of the Society, whatever may be his condition, or age; all those who have been moved to become the devotees of our churches; or of visiting ourselves; or who having been made to take the alms on the way to other churches; or who having been found to give to other fathers; or who having dissuaded any rich man, and well intentioned towards our Society, or giving anything; or in the time in which he can dispose of his properties, having shown great affection for his relations with this Society; because it is a great proof of a mortified disposition; and we conclude that the professions are entirely mortified; or also, that he having scattered all the alms of the penitents, or of the friends of the Society, in favor of his poor relations. Furthermore, that he may not complain afterwards of the cause of his expulsion, it will be necessary to thrust him from us directly; but we can prohibit him from hearing confessions, which will mortify him, and vex him by imposing upon him most vile offices, obliging him each day to do things that are the most repugnant; he will be removed from the highest studies and honorable employments; he will be reprimanded in the chapters by public censures; he will be excluded from the recreations and prohibited from all conversation with strangers; he will be deprived of his vestments and the uses of other things when they are not indispensable, until he begins to murmur and becomes impatient; then he can be expelled as a shameful person, to give a bad example to others; and if it is necessary to give account to his relatives, or to the prelates of the Church, of the reason for which he has been thrust out, it will be sufficient to say that he does not possess the spirit of the Society.

2. Furthermore, having also expelled all those who may have scrupled to acquire properties for the Society, we must direct, that they are too much addicted to their own judgment. If we desire to give reason of their conduct to the Provincials, it is necessary not to give them a hearing; but call for the rule, that they are obligated to a blind obedience.

3. It will be necessary to note, whence the beginning and whence their youth, those who have great affection for the Society; and those which we recognize their affection until the furthest orders, or until their relatives, or until the poor shall be necessarily disposed, little by little, as carefully said, to go out; then they are useless.

CHEAPER XI

HOW WE MUST CONDUCT OURSELVES UNITEDLY AGAINST THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN EXPELLED FROM THE SOCIETY.

1. As those whom we have expelled, when knowing little or something of the secrets, the most times are noxious to the Society for the same, it shall be necessary to obviate their efforts by the following method, before thrusting them out; it will be necessary to obligate them to promise, by writing, and under oath, that they will never by writing or speaking, do anything which may be prejudicial to the Society; and it will be good that the Superiors guard a point of their evil inclinations, of their defects and of their vices; that they are the same, having to manifest in the discharge of their duties, following the custom of the Society, for that, if it should be necessary, this point can serve near the great, and the prelates to hinder their advancement.

2. Constant notice must be given to all the colleges of their having been expelled; and we must exaggerate the general motives of their expulsion; as the little mortification of their spirit; their disobedience; their little love for spiritual exercises; their self love, &c., &c. Afterwards, we must admonish them, that they must not have any correspondence with them; and they must speak of them as strangers; that the language of all shall be uniform, and that it may be told everywhere, that the Society never expels any one without very grave causes, and that as the sea casts up dead bodies, &c., &c. We must insinuate with caution, similar reasons to these, causing them to be abhorred by the people, that for their expulsion it may appear plausible.

3. In the domestic exhortations, it will be necessary to persuade people that they have been turned out as unquiet persons; that they continue to beg each moment to enter anew into the Society; and it will be good to exaggerate the misfortunes of those who have perished miserably, after having separated from the Society.

4. It will also be opportune to send forth the accusations, that they have gone out from the Society, which we can formulate by means of grave persons, who will everywhere repeat that the Society never expels any one but for grave causes; and that they never part with their healthy members; the which they can confirm by their zeal, and show in general for the salvation of the souls of them that do not pertain to them; and how much greater will it not be for the salvation of their own.

5. Afterwards, the Society must prepare and attract by all classes of benefits, the magnates, or prelates, with whom those who have been expelled begin to enjoy some authority and credit. It will be necessary to show that the common good of an Order so celebrated as useful in the Church, must be of more consideration, than that of a particular one who has been cast out. If all this affliction preserves some affection for those expelled, it will be good to indicate the reasons which have caused their expulsion; and yet exaggerate the causes the more that they were not very true; with such they can draw their conclusions as to the probable consequences.

6. Of all modes, it will be necessary that they particularly have abandoned the Society by their own free will; not being promoted to a single employment or dignity in the Church; that they would not submit themselves and much that pertains to the Society; and that all the world should withdraw from them that desire to depend on them.

7. Procuring soon, that they are removed from the exercise of the functions celebrated in the Church, such as the sermons, confessions, publication of books, &c., &c., so that they do not win the love and applause of the people. For this, we must come to inquire diligently upon their life and their habits; upon their occupations, &c., &c., penetrate into their intentions, for the which, we must have particular correspondence with some of the family in whose house they live, of those who have been expelled. In surprising something reprehensible in them or worthy of censure, which is to be divulged by people of medium quality; giving in following the steps conducive to reach the hearing of the great, and the prelates, who favor then, that they may be caused to fear that the infamy will relapse upon themselves. If they do nothing that merits reprehension, and conduct themselves well, we must curtail them by subtle propositions and captious phrases, their virtues and meritorious actions, causing that the idea that has been formed of them, and the faith that is had in them, may little by little be made to disappear; this is of great interest for the Society, that those whom we repel, and more principally those who by their own will abandon us, shall be sunk in obscurity and oblivion.

8. We must divulge without ceasing the disgraces and sinister accidents that they bring upon them, notwithstanding the faithful, who entreat for them in their prayers, that they may not believe that we work from impulses of passion. In our houses we must exaggerate by every method these calamities, that they may serve to hinder others.

CHAPTER XII

WHO MAY COME THAT THEY MAY BE SUSTAINED AND PRESERVED IN THE SOCIETY.

1. The first place in the Society pertains to the good operators; that is to say, those who cannot procure less for the temporal than for the spiritual good of the Society; such as the confessors of princes, of the powerful, of the widows, of the rich pious women, the preachers and the professors who know all these secrets.

2. Those who have already failed in strength or advanced in years; conforming to the use they have made of their talents in and for the temporal good of the Society; of the manner which has attended them in days that are passed; and further, are yet convenient instruments to give part to the Superiors of the ordinary defects which are to be noted in ourselves, for they are always in the house.

3. We must never expel but in case of extreme necessity, for fear of the Society acquiring a bad reputation.

4. Furthermore, it will be necessary to favor those who excel by their talent, their nobleness and their fortune; particularly if they have powerful friends attached to the Society; and if they themselves have for it a sincere appreciation, as we have already said before. They must be sent to Rome, or to the universities of greater reputation to study there; or in case of having studied in some province, it will be very convenient that the professors attend to them with special care and affection. Meanwhile, not having conveyed their property to the Society, we must not refuse them anything; for after confirming the cession, they will be disappointed as the others, notwithstanding guarding some consideration for the past.

5. Having also especial consideration on the part of the Superiors, for those that have brought to the Society, a young notable, placed so that they are given to know the affection made to it; but if they have not professed, it is necessary to take care of not having too much indulgence with them, for fear that they may return at another time, to carry away those whom they have brought to the Society.

CHAPTER XIII

OF THE YOUTH WHO MAY BE ELECTED TO BE ADMITTED INTO THE SOCIETY, AND OF THE MODE OF RETAINING THEM.

1. It is necessary that much prudence shall be exercised, respecting the election of the Youth; having to be sprightly, noble, well liked, or at the least excellent in some of these qualities.

2. To attract them with greater facility to our institute, it is necessary in the meanwhile, to study that the rectors and professors of colleges shall exhibit an especial affection; and outside the time of the classes, to make them comprehend how great is God, and that some one should consecrate to his service all that he possesses; and particularly if he is in the Society of his Son.

3. Whenever the opportunity may arrive, conducive in the college and in the garden, and yet at times to the country houses, that in the company of ourselves, during the recreations, that we may familiarize with them, little by little, being careful, notwithstanding, that the familiarity does not engender disgust.

4. We cannot consent that we shall punish them, nor oblige them to assemble at their tasks among those who are the most educated.

5. We must congratulate them with gifts and privileges conforming to their age and encouraging above all others with moral discourses.

6. We must inculcate them, that it is for one divine disposition, that they are favorites among so many who frequent the same college.

7. On other occasions, especially in the exhortations, we must aim to terrify them with menaces of the eternal condemnation, if they refuse the divine vocation.

8. Meanwhile frequently expressing the anxiety to enter the Society, we must always defer their admission, that they may remain constant; but if for these, they are undecided, then we must encourage them incessantly by other methods.

9. If we admonish effectively, that none of their friends, nor yet the fathers, nor the mothers discover their vocation before being admitted; because then, if then, they come to the temptation of withdrawing; so many as the Society desires to give full liberty of doing that which may be the most convenient; and in case of succeeding to conquer the temptation, we must never lose occasions to make them recover spirit; remembering that which we have said, always that this will succeed during the time of the novitiate, or after having made their simple vows.

10. With respect to the sons of the great, nobles, and senators, as it is supremely difficult to attract them, meanwhile living with their fathers, who are having them educated to the end, that they may succeed in their destinies, we must persuade, vigorously, of the better influences of friends that are persons of the same Society; that they are ordered to other provinces, or to distant universities in which there are our teachers; careful to remit to the respective professors the necessary instructions, appropriate to their quality and condition, that they may gain their friendship for the Society with greater facility and certainty.

11. When having arrived at a more advanced age, they will be induced to practice some spiritual exercises, that they may have so good an exit in Germany and Poland.

12. We must console them in their sadness and afflictions, according to the quality and dispositions of each one, making use of private reprimands and exhortations appropriate to the bad use of riches; inculcating upon them that they should depreciate the felicity of a vocation, menacing them with the pains of hell for the things they do.

BOOK REVIEW: BYE BYE GAZA – BARRY CHAMISH

Colour version published by lulu.com and sold for $60.00

At last I have my own copy of Bye Bye Gaza by Barry Chamish.

As always, Barry's most recent book is a tour de force of information, sources and quotes showing how the forces of Israel's elite have conspired to destroy the Jewish State – or at least its truly Jewish individuals and communities – and sadly how the majority of the 'Right' have ignored or spurned his warnings. I guess I have a minor axe to grind as all the Gush Katif pictures in the book – and on the cover – were taken/ supplied by me!

It is true that most cannot handle the reports of murders, conspiracies and corruption in high places and rather than get their heads around it, they reject Barry's findings as exaggerated or even untrue.

Nothing could be further from the case as we know too well from the destruction of Gush Katif and the on going hope of many in high places, to empty Judea and Samaria of Jews and to allow the Vatican to take over Jerusalem and more.

Maybe, for the purpose of this review - of a book that should be read by all who have a heart for the truth – I could give a bit of potted background. Israel – and indeed the world – is facing a demonic trinity in these days whose plans have been long set and whose moves are always suspicious.

This 'trinity' consists of the Council of Foreign Relations [CFR], the Vatican and the Sabatean movement – better known now as the Frankists. All three work together and separately to bring in a so-called New World Order – a world of one religion; one money system [One World Bank] and a world without borders. Israel – as the apple of God's eye – remains the eternal sticking point in this demonic plan. Israel has her own God, [and her God-given borders,] and it's the 'religious' who know these things the best. They see any plan to merge with Rome or Islam as the abomination that it is – but there are plenty here working to that end. Or, if not 'joining' with them, making friends under the myth of some sort of ecumenism. Similarly a Palestinian State in the heartland of biblical Israel is in direct contradiction to the biblical promises to the Jews and their land.

Nor is the CFR an innocent Think Tank as many believe. It has a clear agenda of bringing in its own New World Order and, as is clear from Bye Bye Gaza, almost every individual dealing with Israel, Jew and non-Jew, is a CFR member. The political machinations of the CFR have no holds barred and the awful truth is that, in the last analysis, the Arabs are getting as screwed as the Jews.

The same for the Vatican who plays good cop/bad cop with the Muslim world but whose long term and unchanging goal is to have control over the Old City of Jerusalem.

The Sabateans are a relatively new component in our grasp of these issues. First exposed years ago by Rabbi Marvin Antleman in his book, "To Eliminate the Opiate", his thesis then was almost too hard for most to grasp. Years later as the effects of these false Jews were being felt in Israel, Barry Chamish began to tackle the issue in, "Shabtai Zvi, Labor Zionism and the Holocaust". In brief, the followers of the false messiah Shabtai Zvi, evolved into a group now better known as the Frankists, whose underlying plan – in the name of Enlightenment etc – was to undermine Jewish orthodoxy or Judaism. Most famously the 10 commandments were to be read in reverse – that is, Thou SHALT etc. And they did and do murder etc to meet their nefarious ends. It was to this end they set up Labor Zionism and this quasi Marxist force has been in control of Israel for decades. And control and power they have whether technically in political power or not. This Sabateanism/Labor Zionism has now infiltrated almost all branches of Israeli life and so, as Barry describes, all sorts of people are 'taken out' because they are not towing the CFR/Vatican etc line.

Barry's only solution in these days is for the Jews to really fight back – to defend their homes, farms, towns and communities as the dangers move in again. And protest should be against those who are really robbing Israel – the CFR members who hold the power – rather than our own Prime Ministers who are mostly agents of either the CFR or the Vatican, whilst being infected by the Sabatean virus.

This book is not easy bedtime reading. It is a serious attempt to expose all these forces in the everyday life of Israel and I would recommend it strongly to those who are ready to listen to the truth. Nor is the book cheap. It can only be obtained through lulu.com on the web and I would suggest that if it can come to you via someone coming from the US, this would keep the cost of postage down.

But, I do hope that with all these provisos you will take this review and the book seriously – get it, read it and pass it around!

Title: OPUS DEI -- Another Jesuit "proyect"?

Description: Proof inside

(EL) - January 15, 2007 04:08 PM (GMT)

After reading Jesus Infantes book on the founder of Opus Dei, Josemaria Escrivá, I came to this very conclusion: Opus Dei was just another Jesuit proyect. I take into consideration two things: the first, beign that J. Escrivá was technically out of his "jurisdiction" in Madrid in the same period he supposedly came up with the idea of Opus Dei as mentioned by his numerous biographies (he claimed to have envisioned it the 2nd of november 1928, but the fact is there is no burocracy proof of this till 1933). It is unlikely this fact was not perceived in Madrids dictatorial clerical regime of that time, adding the fact that Escrivá worked for a jesuit directed institution in that period, Las Damas Apostólicas. He would have been kicked back to Zaragoza mercilessly, but wasnt.

The second fact is that the second director of Las Damas Apostolicas institution during Escrivás stay, Valentín Sánchez Ruiz, a father jesuit, became Escrivás confessor, and that it is recorded that Escrivá endured many humiliations and hardships to please this fellow.

And then, out of nowhere a zaragozano priest noone knows comes up with this daring idea of the 1st Prelate under Vatican II and is fully backed spontaneously by all? Gimme a break. Opus Dei is just a secular oriented "Alumbrados", with a money twist. Proof in "El Santo fundador del Opus Dei" by Jesus Infante, spanish needed afaik <_<

(I dont know if this has been brought up b4, prolly has. Its quite curious that the general public perceives Jesuits and Opus Dei as enemies. Thats the "word on the street" here in Spain so to speak. Truth hints something quite different. Father and son, literally.)

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 15, 2007 11:27 PM (GMT)

The Enemy fraud is the cover my friend, yet another veil for the Jesuit Order and their supreme power over the entire Vatican. Opus Dei would not have come into existence without the permission of the Superior General of the Jesuit Order. Its simply another arm of the Jesuit Order placed where needed for the purpose they desire. Eric Phelps has exposed Opus Dei and yes its been covered!

It describes what did happen in austria before it was annexed by Hitler in '38.

If you don't know the story just take a look. This guy is worshipped like a hero by some people here, although he was a fascist!

In "The Biggest Secret", D. Icke, referring to other authors, says that Hitler killed him because he knew his origins (grandfather: Solomon Mayer Rotschild).

The wikipedia's site you linked says:

"...Dolfuss was assassinated by eight Austrian Nazis who entered the Chancellery building..."

Eight (8) like Saturno, interesting...

Title: halt at the jews - Eric Jon Phelps

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 13, 2007 04:34 AM (GMT)

Subject: halt at the jews

Mr. Phelps,

thanks for your work. It's very much appreciated.

Please to be of service.

My question is this. Do you think people like Abraham Foxman of the ADL is aware of what is going on, or is he a ignorant pawn?

Masonic Abraham Foxman knows all about what is going on. He knows his master is the Archbishop of New York City, Edward Cardinal Egan. His own ADL has named their highest award after a famous, anti-Jew, pro-Vatican II Jesuit--- the "Cardinal Bea Interfaith Award." Foxman is a traitor to his own racial people as were Masons David Ben-Gurion and Chaim Weizmann.

I worked my way up from white nationalism

There is nothing wrong with White Protestant/Baptist nationalism providing that it is based on a biblical racism which is not unbiblical hateful racism. A "nation," as defined by the Bible, is a people denoted by a distinctive race, language and culture domiciled withing specific national boundries.

but I never quit digging, as I see alot of these people halt at the jews. I read many of the peoples writing and they come off as very intelligent people so I can't understand why they stop at the jew. Including Micheal Collins Piper.

Michael Collins Piper is a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor whose purpose is to create anti-Jewish fury within the US. He quotes the Order's La Civiltà Cattolica quite often and never identifies the Zionists he attacks as being also Knights of Malta---JFK assassins like William F. Buckley, Jr. and Louis M. Bloomfield. Piper is also affiliated with Willis Carto, another Knight of Malta and past friend of JFK assassins who are also Knights of Malta---J. Peter Grace and Edward Bennett Williams. Piper never makes any mention of the Knights nor does Hal Turner or Daryl Bradford Smith or any of the other Jew-baiters. Rome, and especially the Jesuits, are off limits with these people as well as with the fanatical fascist Moslems. They too will never confront Rome as all of their leaders are Masons subject to the Pope.

I listened to he your debate. And he continues to be stuck there. I think the real power would never be out in the open.

Correct. The Jesuits are always in the shadows, their Masonic Court Jews always up front in the CFR.

Thanks again....

Shannon

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric

Interesting that it's Michael COLLINS Piper. According to Fritz Springmeier, it was the Collins family that first brought witchcraft to America.

AntiSionist - January 13, 2007 07:11 PM (GMT)

I find the comments about Carto to be unsurprising. Chris Bollyn since he was fired from AFP told Eric Hufschmid on Daryl Smith's oct 11 show that Carto's Spotlight magazine used to have 200,000 readers but Carto's AFP now only has 20,000. Hufschmid speculated in an essay that Carto may be working with the Zionists since nearly everything he starts ends up going the way of the do-do. Bollyn said the day he was brought in to the Spotlight, Jerry Myers who brought him there asked him, "Who do you think the plants are?"

This would seem to be the correct train of thought except for the fact that zionists don't rule the world and that Hufschmid is the brother in law of Rupert Murdoch's son James. For anyone who cares, here are excerpts from said interview.

http://www.iamthewitness.com/Hufschmid_Bol..._11Oct2006.html

Bollyn talks to Hufschmid. I guess Bollyn has been suspicious of AFP for a long time long before he hooked up with Hufschmid. He comments on Sam Danner. When he wrote about him, he put in necessary caveats. "IF this is true," "if this is correct," Wingtv and others are trying to make it look like Hufschmid gave Danner a hoax and convinced Bollyn to say that Danner's testimony is unquestionable. But if you read his articles, you'll see Bollyn made caveats and wasn't manipulated by Hufschmid to take Danner as gosepl truth.

The first day on the job at AFP, the man who brought him in asked him who the plants were. So Bollyn was suspicious for a long time. He's seen agents come and go from AFP long before Hufschmid started raising questions. Bollyn says Piper told Carto that Bollyn shouldn't come. He gave an ultimatum. Me or him. I think I'll believe Bollyn especially since Piper said Bollyn couldn't make it due to some family thing. Bollyn called Piper a liar. He was invited, was told he'd get transportation to the conference and was ready to come. "But then I got these emails about the 27th of august and there was the email campaign going on. Michael Piper tried to create some conflict becaues I wasn't happy about how I'd been treated on the radio with Makufka and I said I felt it was a setup because I was told we'd talk about my attack and then he allowed Makufka to change the discussion and hit me with questions about Eric Hufschmid." Secondly, that article Makufka wanted Bollyn to criticize, Bollyn hadn't even read it yet. So is Bollyn lying when he said this? He is part of the criminal network?

Carto set up the legal defense fund for Bollyn which Piper said, "We didn't have to do." In the AFP issue of Bollyn's recount of his assault, he says there was a coupon saying to make the cheque out to American Free Press and not Bollyn. Rather Bollyn care of AFP. "The day or two days after I was beat up on a Tuesday, I got out on Wednesay, wrote the article. It said readers can send assisatnce to the Chris Bollyn legal fund care of AFP. It says please make cheque or MO out to American Free Press. When I went to court a month later, I hadn't received anything. I called them up a day before I went to court and asked if anything had been collected. I said, "I can't retain a laywer. I have no money." I had to go to court the first time by myself and I said to the judge that I don't have a lawyer and I need 30 days to find a lawyer and raise funds."

Bollyn also says that when he talked to Carto about his firing, Carto said he agreed with the email Petherick sent to Chris where he fired him. Bollyn says, "I spoke to Mr. Carto and I asked him if he knew I was being fired. He said he read the memo and agreed with it. But it's absurd because Chris Petherick can't fire me without Petherick's approval. I said to him I should get my last paycheck. And that's another thing Eric. They talk about me like I'm a star reporter, but after I visited you and then Steven Jones, I was told by Petherick that I can't travel anymore. These are important people i saw after I came back from Europe. I went to see Jones and others. I was reluctant to stay in my area because I was being surveilled."

"So after you did all those interviews, they cut your funds?"

"Yes. Prior to that I had been given, Willis said I could spend a thousand dollars, or Euros a month for research, hotels, newspaper, for all I needed. My basic salary is low. It's been cut several times. For me to do my stories, I have to have the business allowance. In June, Petherick said no more."

"This is after you do all your important interviews like Professor Kayhill. That's where we learn about health problems."

"When we talked about those nanoparticles in the air with each other, about these particles coming out from October until Christmas I asked him, 'what can produce these nano-sized particles?' he said, 'only temperatures at the boiling point of metal.' That means this molten metal below the world trade center was well above the boiling point of steel."

"And that verifies what Steven Jones was saying about thermite. So after you do these really important articles, they decide to ax your travelling. You would think that after you broke these stories, they'd say oh man this is great keep it up. Let's boost his salary. That's the exact opposite of what we'd expect."

"Eric, ever since I've been writing about 9-11, I've been pushed to the margin and penalized, They cut my salary twice and I don't get to go to the AFP conference. I did all this work in the western united states and my visit with Jones was important. I was then told to stop travelling and basically suck the stories out of a pen. I need to travel."

Bollyn also recounts how he was once in Germany and he wanted to go to Lebanon and Syria. What does Carto do? Tell Bollyn to go to Venezuela and try to get Chavez to donate a few hundred thousand dollars to AFP instead of writing good articles and doing research. Bollyn wasn't impressed with this. He also doesn't like how the readership has shrunk from 300,000 (The spotlight days), to now like 20,000 (AFP). He thinks it's just bad management but Bollyn said Carto was allegedly threatened by the CIA years ago and that their readership better not grow.

He also calls Piper...says he's not a straight shooter. Michael Piper sent him "vicious emails on the 26 and 27 and said you're not allowed to come to the conference. At the conference they said my son was in an accident or something. That comes to me from someone I know who was there. My daughter had a broken collar bone but we were travelling anyway. So much abuse and so much of this attack on me from my own newspaper...but I wasn't going to quit."

And this is because he says despite it all, he thinks AFP is a great paper in spirit and is a great forum for the kind of material that needs to be dispensed, i.e. what Bollyn writes about.

"I was writing about 9-11 from sept 11 2001, Eric. I was in New York city that day. I was invited to speak in Moscow in dec 2001. The same thing happend there. I was trying to get my Visa to go to Russia and I got a nasty email from Michael Piper. It was so rude and offensive I thought surely Michael didn't send it. Someone must have hacked it."

"What was the message?"

"Yeah, it was just foul language. The worst kind of stuff. I haven't talked about this. I thought this must be some intelligence hacker or Russian hacker writing in very fluent English. I couldn't think he'd do it. But then he did the same thing this time when I got tasered. Like I said on the 26, 27 of August, Piper sent us another email and he kept calling me a liar. He told Mr. Carto (I got this from three pelple at AFP) that Piper gave Carto an ultimatum. Either he goes or I go. He even said he's go to Indonesia and boycott it if I went. I thought man, is his ego that sensitive? I really can't say that I know Michael Piper. I asked for Petherick to clarify where I said AFP is controlled and he won't respond. I don't know Petherick very well. I know he edits the paper."

Bollyn goes on.

"I always thought Petherick was an odd fit when I started there. I had a ponytail, had a stud in his tongue...he wasn't a Christian. He wasn't part of the patriot patriot. My understanding was he was into black magic. But someone told me he was a satanist at that time and I thought my god. Look, I don't poke into people's...Willis said you would know what goes on here Bollyn. I told Carto I wouldn't investigate everyone at AFP. I said to him, 'I'm willing to join forces with you. I have my research.' I worked for them. But I let a lot of things kind of go by. It's been clear for the last year or so that they wanted to get rid of me. Makufka of wingtv even seemed to known about that because he said they've been trying to distance themselves from me for a while."

"Well what reason would this be? What else have you done?"

"You know my position on 9-11 research. It's become focused on Israeli involvement. When we were on the European tour, I was the only one who talked about that. In Vienna, I didn't get to talk because they thought it would be too sensitive. But I always said that if anything happens to me, it would be beacuse of what I've wrote about Israel and 9-11."

Then he goes on to talk about Lisa Guliani. He says her name was misspelled and was not Italian. He went to a library, looked up the proper spelling of Guliani and found a ten year old article about how she used to live around Minnesota. He contacted her inlaws and they told him about how Lisa walked out on her family. And here's a bombshell. Bollyn said that contrary to what Scott Makufka said, he told them who he was, and who he worked with and that he did not use deception or use false pretenses to get information about Lisa. Her inlaws confirmed that she walked out on her family. And Lisa never denied it either. She just called Bollyn a child abuser for exposing this.

Listen to it all. It's quite an interesting interview. Just be sure to keep certain caveats in mind such as who Hufschmid is related to by marriage and how Piper and Carto always omit things about the knights of malta from their work, etc.

Title: Kaiser Wilhelm II

Description: Eric Phelps

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 19, 2005 11:45 PM (GMT)

Dear Bxxxx,

I have a few other facts that may be of interest.

First, in a private meeting between Kaiser Wilhelm II and Pope Leo XIII (the pope that was poisoned by the Jesuits who was then given an antidote once conforming with the wishes of the Black Pope), Leo stated that Wilhelm was to be "the Sword of the Church." This the Lutheran Kaiser refused to do as recorded in his The Kaiser's Memoirs. Shortly thereafter, the Grand Orient Lodge in Germany determined to overthrow the Hohenzollern Dynasty (as was later revealed to Wilhelm by a German Freemason and also recorded in his Memoirs, which overthrow was accomplished following WWI---the first round of the Jesuits' Second Thirty Years' War against Germany (1914-1918; 1933-1945). Additionally, Bismarck and the Reichstag had emancipated 550,000 German Jews in 1871 and the following year expelled the Society of Jesus---further enraging the Order. The Dynasty was formally on the hit list, not only for these reasons but due to the defeat of the Order's Roman Catholic Austria in 1866 and Jesuit-ruled Roman Catholic France in 1871 at Sedan. Napoleon III fled France and spent the rest of his days under the protection of the Order's most obedient British Monarch, Queen Victoria. Failing to subjugate "heretic" Protestant Prussia, the Sons of Loyola would attempt it again via France in secret league with Tzarist Russia. Meanwhile, the Jesuit-ruled King Edward VII was busy creating the Triple Entente preparing for the Company's attempted war of annihilation against Protestant Prussia---WWI.

Further, the Kaiser sought to undue the secret alliance between France and Russia finalized in 1892. In this he succeeded at a private meeting with Nicholas II on the Tzar's yacht in Finnish waters in 1905, following the Order's destruction of the Russian navy by its "Japanese Sword of the Church." (Yes, the Black Pope has been in total control of Japan since no later than 1868.) There, with tears in his eyes, Nicholas vowed never to go to war with Wilhelm. This act, if enforced by Nicholas, would have prevented the beginning of WWI caused by the mobilization 800,000 Russian troops on the Prussian border. This great treaty was rendered useless by Russian Minister Isvolski according to U.S. Senator Robert Owen in his masterpiece, The Russian-Imperial Conspiracy, 1892-1914.

Further, Kaiser Wilhelm opposed the Boer War, that Jesuit-inspired Crusade against the Protestant Reformed, White South African Boers. English Masons Cecil Rhodes, Alfred Milner and yes, the Prince of Wales---later King Edward VII---conducted this papal crusade and killed tens of thousands of Boers (elderly men, women and children) in concentration camps, delighting the Order's Jesuit-styled "Roundtable" in London. Of course all the gold in the Transvaal became Britain's---and thus was now to be used to finance the Order's agenda for the new Twentieth century---"the century of revenge."

So, the Kaiser was on the Black Pope's hit list: Wilhelm was not a Freemason and was also a hostile enemy of the Pope and his Jesuits. Not good for business or one's personal health.

This brings us to the control of Jerusalem by a nominal Protestant monarch who opposed the Jesuits; who opposed his pro-Jesuit, Masonic uncle Edward VII whom he called "Satan;" who opposed the wicked Jesuit policies of Britain; and who opposed Rome's Masonic Zionist control of Jerusalem. The Lutheran Kaiser knew Britain's Rothschild Zionists---Herzl in particular---were controlled by Rome. Did not Theodore Herzl have a notorious audience with the Pope in 1904? Was not this Zionist traitor to his own people the pawn of the Pope's Rothschilds, streaking to international prominence via the Black Pope's Dreyfus Affair and controlled international press? Thus, to support Britain's Masonic Zionists meant to give control of Jerusalem to the Papacy. This Wilhelm he sought to prevent. He wanted Jerusalem for his Protestant Prussian Empire, and Jerusalem under the Kaiser may well have fared better than Jerusalem under the British, the Order having been formally readmitted into Britain by King Edward VII in 1902. And since Jerusalem must be under Gentile rule until "the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled" (Luke 21:24), would not the anti-Jesuit Protestant German Empire have been a better Gentile master to the Jews than the pro-Jesuit Protestant British Empire?

Therefore, I do not believe that the Kaiser was in Jerusalem in 1898 on behalf of Pope Leo XIII. He was there to thwart the British which included the Masonic Jewish Zionists; he was an enemy of the policies of the Black Pope's international, Masonic "Invisible Empire." The First Reich under Charlamagne was pre-Reformation and thus Roman Catholic---when Jews were severely persecuted (i.e., blamed and mass-murdered for the Black Death). The First Reich was ended in 1806 by the Order's "great avenger" against the anti-Jesuit Papacy and its Holy Roman Empire---Napoleon I. The Second Reich was Protestant and built upon the foundation of military victories against the Jesuit-ruled Hapsburgs (1866) and the Jesuit-ruled Bonapartes (1871), as well as the "accursed" Jewish emancipation (1871) and subsequent suppression of the Jesuits (1872). The Third Reich was completely in the hands of Roman Catholics (Hitler, Himmler, Mueller, Thyssen, etc.) and thus it carried out the policies of that creature of the Jesuit General, Pope Pius XII. The result was the Pope's "Final [Roman Catholic] Solution to the [Jesuit-agitated] Jewish Question" as championed by the Order's secret emissary and inspiration of both Hitler and Himmler, the Lutheran, Masonic founder of the Order of the New Templars, the openly anti-Jesuit ex-priest, George Lanz. The notorious La Civiltà Cattolica---the house organ for the Jesuits in Rome---ceaselessly agitated for the solution to the "Jewish Question" for sixty years (1880-1940).

In conclusion concerning the Kaiser, I believe his good name has been maligned by the Pope's global Press and corrupt historians---Emil Cohen (alias "Ludwig"). Wilhelm was terribly betrayed by General Ludendorff---the first Hitler. Wilhelm has been blamed for igniting WWI which is a bold-faced lie of the Black Pope's Masonically-ruled Press, and now he is blamed for having opposed the Order's Masonic Zionist movement, which very same movement, aided Hitler in the Pope's Holocaust. Like President Nixon, the Kaiser was not killed outright but was humiliated with the loss of his throne, empire, nation and good name now in infamy---a name so accursed by those Blackrobes, the Luciferian Sons of Loyola.

Sincerely in faith,

Brother Eric

Very eye opening. Phelps is a great historian. May the good Kaiser rest in peace, and his descendant house of Hohenzollern follow in his good steps. I'm glad to hear of the Last Emperor of Prussia (United Germany), Kaiser Wilhelm painted in such a good light. This is why the Black Pope & Jesuits had to get him taken out of the way.

Press Release

Farewell Mass of Thanksgiving in Sacred Heart Church Limerick

Bishop Donal Murray of Limerick will be the principal celebrant for the final Mass of Thanksgiving to mark the closure of the Jesuits' Sacred Heart Church in Limerick on Friday 30th June at 8pm. Fr John Dardis, the Irish Jesuit Provincial, and Fr Dermot Murray, Superior of the Sacred Heart Church Jesuit Community, will be among the concelebrants. Many other Jesuits from across the country will attend.

Acknowledging that closing the church was a very difficult decision to make, Fr Dardis said: "The Sacred Heart congregation have been loyal church goers, and the church has been their spiritual home for many years. The relationship is not only one of priests and people but of friends, and that friendship is deeply valued." And Fr. Dardis went on to reiterate the commitment of the Jesuits to the people of Limerick: "We are opening a new Centre for Spirituality in the autumn, along with a Jesuit Refugee Service centre beside it. And of course the very successful work of the Crescent College Comprehensive will continue and develop". Fr Dardis continued: "We have kept the faith, we have passed it on to generation upon generation and you have responded a hundredfold. So let us move on together to work in new ways to serve the faith of future generations".

Fr Dermot Murray, Director of the new Spirituality Centre said it will be situated not far from the Crescent Shopping Centre in Dooradoyle, beside the Jesuit residence there. "We hope to offer a variety of ways in which people can come to know God more deeply and to understand better how to put their love into action in their daily lives." Acknowledging that many people felt deep sadness at the Church closure, he added, "I share their sadness, but I believe the Lord is calling us to continue to serve in different ways as new challenges for Christians emerge".

According to Eugene Quinn, Director of the Jesuit Refugee Service, which will open its doors in the autumn, the arrival of asylum seekers and refugees to our shores is one such challenge. The Limerick centre will work with refugees and asylum seekers in the area of health, education, emergency assistance and integration in the local community. Mr Quinn commented: "JRS offices are located in over 50 countries and more than 376,000 people benefit directly from JRS projects. I'm delighted to be director of this new centre for Limerick, and JRS Ireland looks forward to extending its services both here and at national level."

A special brochure to mark the memory of the Sacred Heart Church will be distributed at the Mass of Thanksgiving on Friday night.

In order to fit more into the third-world mold, the Papacy had to recently get rid of truth revealing titles, that Christianity is the Religion of the West:

The 'Patriarch of the West' retires

The 'Patriarch of the West' retires

http://www.findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_...42/ai_n16133485

Without any fanfare, Benedict XVI last month set aside a traditional title of the Roman pontiff for roughly 1,500 years, "Patriarch of the West."

Jesuit Fr. Robert Taft, an expert on Eastern Christianity at Rome's Oriental Institute, said the decision did not fall from the clear blue sky. Recent debate on the nature of the papacy has highlighted the question of whether the universal primacy of the pope can accurately be understood on the model of the patriarchs, a concept that comes out of Eastern Christianity.

The most-cited example of this reflection is the 1990 book of Franciscan Fr. Adriano Garuti, Il Papa Patriarca d'Occidente?: Studio storico dottrinale (Collectio Antoniana, 1990). Fr. Garuti, who served in the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith from 1975 to 2003 and hence is a longtime collaborator of Benedict XVI, argued that the title of "patriarch" is of Eastern origin, influenced by the perspective of Byzantine emperors. The Roman pontiffs, Fr. Garuti wrote, would never accept the reduction of their universal primacy to a mere "patriarchate," as did later medieval Byzantine thinkers who regarded the pope as the "first of equals" in a pentarchy, meaning the patriarchs of the five ancient sees of the church: Jerusalem, Antioch, Alexandria, Constantinople and Rome.

Fr. Taft said this discussion is almost certainly the background to Benedict's decision.
Advertisement

"Calling the pope 'Patriarch of the West' could be seen as an attempt to Orientalize Western ecclesiology," Fr. Taft said.

Other experts, however, believe that the substance of the title "Patriarch of the West," if not the exact verbal formula, captures something essential about the pope's traditional role as the head of Latin Christianity. Some go so far as to argue that no pope has the right to renounce the substance of what the title "Patriarch of the West" was meant to represent, his distinct role as leader of Latin Christianity.

Msgr. Michael Magee, an American who recently defended a dissertation on the institution of patriarchs at Rome's Gregorian University, contends that what people have usually meant by calling the pope "Patriarch of the West"--that is, his role in overseeing the Latin church, with its own distinct liturgy and discipline--is indeed distinct from his role as supreme pastor of the universal Church.

To take just one example, the pope directly appoints the archbishops of Paris, New York and Vienna, but "confirms" the election by local synods of a Maronite bishop in Lebanon or in the Greek Catholic church in Ukraine. In this sense, papal primacy in the Western church operates in a different way than in the East and has been that way for most of church history.

Some theologians who favor greater collegiality have long urged that Western Christianity create new patriarchates as a way of assigning greater autonomy and authority to local churches.

Under such a scheme, there could be a Patriarch of Africa, and a Patriarch of Asia, even a Patriarch of North America. The pope would be seen as the supreme guarantor of faith and discipline rather than the CEO of local churches.

A few analysts have suggested that dropping the title "Patriarch of the West" might be the first move in this direction. The pope could eventually become something like the "Patriarch of the Latins," making room for other patriarchs within the historical Western tradition.

The Vatican's explanation of the decision to drop the title "Patriarch of the West," issued March 22 by the Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity, says that the title never had a clear meaning and appeared officially in the Annuario Pontificio, the Vatican's yearbook, only in the 19th century.

The statement makes three key points:

- * Dropping the title "Patriarch of the West" signifies no new claim to papal authority;
- * The move should therefore not be read as anti-ecumenical, and may even have positive ecumenical value;
- * The pope has a special relationship to the Latin church, which involves a more direct form of authority than he has in the East, but the term "West" is not the right way to designate that relationship.

In addition, it seems clear from the March 22 statement that the creation of new patriarchates in the West is not in the cards since the document says that bishops' conferences and international associations of conferences represent "the canonical order adequate for the necessities of today."

Though the statement did not quite say so explicitly, the Council for Unity issued the text in response to requests for clarification from other Christian bodies, especially the Orthodox churches in the East.

Some experts wondered if the statement goes too far in suggesting a kind of equivalence between patriarchates in the East and bishops' conferences in the West. Patriarchates, these experts argue, are not purely juridical constructs like conferences but belong to the apostolic patrimony of the early church.

RC BISHOPS REGRET COLLABORATION

Roman Catholic bishops from Slovakia and Hungary have apologised for priests who acted as Communist agents after clergy names appeared on new lists of former collaborators with the secret police.

A Slovakian government funded Institute said the names of the Archbishop Jan Sokol, and the retired Bishop Jan Hirka, appeared on a list of former secret police agents, along with the head of the country's Orthodox church, Metropolitan Nikolai. The Roman Catholic Bishops' Conference acknowledged that "various clergy" had collaborated for "careers and money". The bishops said the Church asked forgiveness from those harmed by church collaborators, and would require an "explanation and atonement" from those involved. Later, the Hungarian Bishops' Conference also asked forgiveness in a 1 March statement after a list of 219 former agents, including several clergy, appeared on the Internet. One in 10 priests are believed to have acted as agents and informers in the then Czechoslovakia. We note that there is no apology for priests who collaborated with Hitler and Nazi Germany - especially "Father" Tiso, puppet ruler of Slovakia - executed at the end of World War II.

Title: British Ambassador to Vatican

Pastor Steve - January 12, 2007 11:29 PM (GMT)

So what do you all think of the new British Ambassador to the Vatican? The first being a Catholic in over 400 years,... sure is something? He's also an Irishman, and attended Roman Catholic Seminary.

http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/uk_news/4554402.stm

Ambassador to Vatican takes post

The first Roman Catholic appointed UK ambassador to the Vatican since the Reformation has presented his credentials to Pope Benedict XVI.

Francis Campbell, 35, stressed the UK's commitment to dialogue within the Christian family and with other religions at the ceremony.

He also paid tribute to the Catholic Church's role in providing education and healthcare in the developing world.

Mr Campbell, from Newry, County Down, has worked in Rome as first secretary.

He is the first Northern Irish Catholic to hold a UK ambassadorial post since the Republic of Ireland gained independence in 1921.

BBC correspondent David Willey said heads of the diplomatic mission in Rome were normally at the end of their careers and that Mr Campbell was "a career diplomat of a new breed".

He "has the ear of Downing Street" as a former advisor on European affairs to Prime Minister Tony Blair, David Willey said.

Mr Campbell said in a speech to the Pope: "The United Kingdom is a strong supporter of furthering dialogue among peoples, in particular furthering engagement within the Christian family and with other faiths."

The job was advertised in a newspaper in July - the first time an ambassadorial post had been put out to open competition in an advert.

In a speech welcoming Campbell to the Holy See, Pope Benedict also stressed the importance of dialogue between the Christian denominations.

He said: "I encourage all those involved in this work never to rest content with partial solutions but to keep firmly in view the goal of full visible unity among Christians which accords with the Lord's will for his Church."

The previous ambassador, Kathryn Colvin, left in September after three years at the Vatican.

What a shock we see exactly whats going on!

Pastor Steve - January 13, 2007 01:33 PM (GMT)

Ya sorry I'm a bit late posting it, since this article is from 23 December 2005. As you may know I was a bit tied up since November 2005 writing my book and traveling around the world.

I remember when I read it in the paper and saw it on TV in 2005 I thought this would be nice to chat on.

It really is something aint it? I want to hear more theories on it from this board.

Illuminati Rebel Issues Dire Warning, Battle Cry

by Henry Makow Ph.D. – January 5, 2007

At the New Year, Leo Zagami, 36, has an urgent message.

The Illuminati plan to "Nazify" the West by the year 2012 and persecute all believers in God, using the pretext of war, terror and economic collapse.

The scion of an ancient Illuminati family, Zagami had a religious conversion (to Islam) last June and rebelled. He'd had enough of the horrifying Satanic, black magic rituals, mind control and torture that was going on inside the lodges, behind closed doors.

On Saturday he posted on his web site Illuminati Confessions names of high ranking Masons who are ready to do battle with the Satanists. He has organized his own security detail and even posted a personal phone number to answer serious questioners about his sincerity.

"These are the end times; it's no joke," Zagami says in an January 3 interview on his website.

"The cosmic alignment on the 21st of December 2012 gives you 6 years to prepare...

So its about time you all wake up and fight for your right to stay free under one God before they take complete control and start persecuting the true believers in the one God. ...Get your swords and get ready to fight to defend your faith or perish...This is a war against Satan so please wake up in the western countries or you might wake up in a nightmare one morning in December 2012."

"From 2010 you will start feeling the big changes in the air more and more but in 2012 you will have the clear evidence of the end of this civilization in front of your eyes....the total NAZIFICATION of the western countries by 2010 before the economic situation starts to badly crack for everyone. Then social tension will hit a peak never seen before and internal conflicts could eventually become in 2012: CIVIL WAR!"

"Are you ready to die for God and your believe in a positive change for the world or are you all a bunch of cowards in the hands of the devil, just talking and talking with no sense of reality?"

As an ex-member of the Comitato Esecutivo Massonico - Masonic Executive Committee (MEC) of Monte Carlo, Zagami was, until recently, a true insider, a 33rd degree Freemason, and a high-member of the infamous Freemasonic P2 (Propaganda 2) Lodge. He was the "prince", prepared to take over from the older Illuminati "king", Licio Gelli.

The reason I have overlooked Zagami until now is that he suggests Illuminati power resides in the Vatican with the Jesuits. I maintain that that the world central banking cartel, headed by the Rothschilds, calls the shots. They use Freemasons, Zionists, Jesuits, Vatican, Socialists, Liberals, Communists, Feminist and Gay activists, Neo Cons, all intelligence agencies, media, foundations etc. to exercise control.

But it would be stupid to continue to overlook Zagami's invaluable testimony over an academic disagreement. I don't think Zagami lets the Zionists off the hook. He merely focuses on what he knows first hand.

The Illuminati is like the mob. Does it matter if the Chicago, London or New York families are in charge? They are overlapping circles dedicated to the same perverse end.

Greg Szymanski again deserves our thanks for featuring Zagami on his web site since October. Jeff Rense also deserves credit for posting Greg's stories.

The material below is partially a summary from Greg's interviews.

The Illuminati Puppet Show

Zagami describes the world as "a global puppet show in the hands of the usual families of idiots, who usually never change their ways century after century."

"They all work together, including Hugo Chavez who really is helping Bush's agenda by his theatrical performances," said Zagami. Chavez is controlled by the Vatican and working with the New World Order as are all other leaders of the world's major government's and religions.

"This is how they operate with the top layers working together for one purpose in what they think is the perfect cover-up. Wahabi or Wahibi [the Saudis] were created by the Zionists and their English friends who think they are the lost tribe of Israel. The same happened with Arafat and the so-called Muslim Brotherhood created by the English intelligence."

Of course, the Muslim Brotherhood also might be behind Iranian leaders and the leaders of the Iraqi Insurgency. It's all theatre put on for the yokels.

In an email to me Sunday, Leo called the Iraq-Iran-Israel conflict a "foreign intelligence show" and Ahmaninejad a "well known Satanist with no real connection to Islam."

He said Putin's conflict with the Rothschilds is also a "charade." Putin is also Illuminati controlled.

Zagami challenges his former colleagues in Freemasonry to "go public with your pagan satanic worship and your black magic you bunch of cowards, that's what I say to them. The European aristocracy has always been ruled by sorcery and black magic ...have always used black magic and evil forces ... for domination over their own citizens. They learned these satanic ways from their Masters in Rome who got them in turn from the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Sumerian...its a never ending tale of constant manipulation... of mankind."

He says G.W. Bush is the son of "the most powerful man in the illuminati and he was built by his father and the CIA to become the ultimate Antichrist Vatican Zionist puppet and it doesn't really matter if he is in the White House or not because the Bush will always rule in the present situation any future actor that goes in the White House now. Remember Anton LaVey founder of the Church of Satan and Mind War controller of the CIA was a close friend of George H. Bush, and they planned together the satanic future of his son George W.Bush and the coming of the age of Satan after 9/11 a long time ago when LaVey was still alive."

He says 666 is everywhere these days: "the Hebrew equivalent of our "w" is the letter "vav" or "waw". The numerical value of vav is 6. So the English "www" transliterated into Hebrew is "vav vav vav", which numerically is 666. And you can't definitely have a business these days without a web site WWW, then we have the video surveillance and last but not least the micro chipping coming up. The micro chipping will be the ultimate Mark of the Beast and will put us fully in the hands of Satan and his evil controllers ready for Armageddon against the Messiah. So we need to rebel before that to help the coming back of the real Messiah."

"All religions are corrupt by the Illuminati these days including most of Islam, the Jews, the Evangelical, Protestant and the Born-Again side of Christianity, all ruled secretly by Freemasonry, the intelligence services, the Knights of Malta and last but not least the usual Jesuits so genuine [religious] dialogue is almost impossible."

Conclusion

Leo Zagami sees himself as "the last idealist in the Illuminati." He says he is leading a revolt and has some support within the Order. It is a hopeful sign that courageous and decent men like him should appear at this time. It would be a far greater sin to spurn a genuine hero than to be taken in by an impostor. At the same time, the Illuminati has always feigned divisions: FDR, Hitler all championed the "people."

"YOU ARE LIVING IN A ILLUMINATI PRISON BUILT BY THE JESUITS AND FINANCED BY THE ZIONIST," Leo emailed me. I agree about the "Illuminati prison part." For the rest, I will continue to ask Leo questions and do my own reading and thinking.

The elite is building an abattoir before our eyes: the fascist New World Order. The events of 9-11 are proof of its ruthlessness. We have a choice: To go like sheep to the slaughter, or to take Zagami's advice, and prepare.

Pfft. I'd be about 2 months away from my 40th birthday on that date. Just a coincidence. And I'm hardly an antichrist. :P

I remember being afraid to turn 10, because my Aunt Carolyn had died a couple of months after she turned 10, from rheumatic heart disease my mother told me. That was back in 1952.

Sure will be interesting to find out what's going to happen almost 6 years from now, though. I remember everyone hyping about the year 2000...worst thing that happened that year was to me personally, as that's the year my dad died. Who knows if 2012 will really have significance or not.

Report:

This is interesting for no-Italians, but all this (except the story of the grandfather) I already knew.

It should be more interesting to know something about the ties of Berlusconi with Opus Dei/Vatican/Jesuits:

<http://www.chiesa.espressonline.it/dettaglio.jsp?id=7530>

"...Il più ispirato, però, è Marcello Dell'Utri. Che attribuisce all'Opus l'incontro della vita: «A presentarmi Silvio Berlusconi fu il direttore della residenza universitaria di Palermo Segesta, Bruno Padula, oggi vicario della Prelatura in Sicilia»...."

= talking about the famous collaborators of Berlusconi near to the Mafia Marcello dell'Utri. Marcello says that an important member of Opus Dei - Bruno Padula - introduced Silvio Berlusconi to him. And Dell'Utri sent to the Berlusconi's villa a man of the Mafia gang of Totò Rina (under Cancemi sub-authority) to work as 'stable boy'.

Another interesting thing could be the new movie that the Opus/Jesuit man Mel Gibson is making now in Italy, and regards the brigandage (controlled by Vatican like Mafia?) during the unification of Italy (Risorgimento). Strange, no one talk about this movie, I heard about it just one time, and it was when in Italy the words of Putin ('Mafia is an italian word') expressed in the European summit in Finland were shocking Italy.

Avles.

In Poland, New Wave of Charges Against Clerics

The Rev. Tadeusz Isakowicz-Zaleski of Krakow, center, plans to publish a book that will identify 39 priests listed in the city's secret police files.

By CRAIG S. SMITH

Published: January 10, 2007

KRAKOW, Poland, Jan. 9 — Poland was convulsed in finger-pointing and recrimination on Tuesday as more allegations of former secret-police collaborators among the Roman Catholic clergy members spilled onto the country's front pages, sullyng an institution that for decades was considered spotless in its fight against Communism.

And the stream of disclosures now promises to become a torrent: here in Krakow, the Rev. Tadeusz Isakowicz-Zaleski is preparing to publish a book that will identify 39 priests whose names he found in Krakow's secret police files, three of whom are now bishops in the Polish church.

Perhaps the most explosive assertion by people in the church is that the taint of collaboration was known for decades but kept quiet out of respect for — or perhaps even at the behest of — the Polish-born Pope John Paul II, who died in 2005.

"The church didn't want to hurt the pope, but actually, more harm was done by keeping silent," Father Zaleski, 50, said in an interview at the hilltop compound of a charity he runs outside Krakow.

The sudden focus on the fallibility of a church thought to be heroically anti-Communist followed the Vatican's choice of Bishop Stanislaw Wielgus as archbishop of Warsaw despite clear signals of his ties to Poland's secret police. Bishop Wielgus resigned Sunday after admitting his secret past.

"There is a sort of unholy alliance in Poland that has been present for many years, but is fully visible only recently, that is based on a culture of mendacity," said Andrzej Zybertowicz, professor of sociology at Nicolaus Copernicus University in Torun, the heart of the Polish church's most conservative camp.

He argued that there were three elements of this alliance: former members of the secret police and the Communist Party who are now active in business and politics; apologists who wanted to forgive and forget past collaboration; and an influential part of the hierarchy of the Polish church.

Collaboration in the clergy is not unique to Poland. Church officials across the Communist world were commonly bent to ignoble service. Some of that has come to light as Eastern bloc countries have peered into their secret police archives.

But Poland is unique in that the church remained stronger there than elsewhere in the Communist world. That was largely because Poland's primate at the time, Archbishop Stefan Wyszynski, agreed to cooperate with the Communist authorities, preaching compromise — up to a point, beyond which he said the faithful should not yield.

Most researchers who have delved into the archives of the Sluzba Bezpieczenstwa, or Security Service, estimate that thousands of the country's priests, monks and nuns at the time — as many as 10 percent of the total — collaborated with the secret police to some degree.

Poland's current primate and archbishop of Warsaw, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, told an Italian news agency last year that the overall percentage was 15 percent. The percentage was likely to have been much higher in major cities and university towns, some historians say, where surveillance was heavier.

But the most troubling aspect of the recent allegations is how high past collaborators have climbed in the church hierarchy. On Tuesday, the Dziennik newspaper, the third largest daily in the country, reprinted excerpts from a secret 1978 police document concerning a dozen high-ranking church officials — at least one of whom was a bishop at the time — indicating that the secret police tried unsuccessfully to influence the appointment of a new primate of Poland, the highest position in the Polish church.

The document gave only code names, like Ramses (cited as a bishop), Professor and Shepherd, but the newspaper promised to disclose those identities soon.

The disclosures have gripped this deeply religious nation — the largest bloc of devout Roman Catholics left in Europe — and sparked anger toward the church for letting the frenzied news media disclose them, rather than researching the archives and reporting the findings on its own.

“The church is guilty because it had the possibility to cleanse itself by publishing honest data about the clergy’s activities during the Communist time,” Father Zaleski said. The church argues that coming to terms with the past is a matter of personal sin that should be handled within the church in a spirit of forgiveness. It also argues that the public disclosure of secret service files on clergy members could do the church harm because many of the documents are false or misleading.

But many people say the church has been overly cautious for fear of tarnishing its Communist-era image as a champion of freedom.

But the church is caught in the dilemma of risking a loss of trust whether it explores the collaboration or continues to treat it as an internal matter. The results could be as bad for the Vatican as they are for the Polish church, because Rome had hoped the church could keep this bastion of the faithful in an otherwise fast secularizing Europe.

Church officials now say that collaboration by some of the Polish clergy members was a quietly understood fact of life under the Communist government that ran Poland from 1944 until 1989.

That was obscured while the pope was still alive. But not even two weeks after his death, in April 2005, the Institute of National Remembrance published documents that showed that the Rev. Konrad Stanislaw Hejmo, a Dominican priest posted to the Vatican, passed information to the secret service’s antichurch branch. Father Hejmo admitted giving the information but denied that he was a spy.

During the 25th anniversary celebrations for the Solidarity trade union in Gdansk that August, a friend told Father Zaleski that there was a secret police file on him in Krakow. When he returned to the city, Father Zaleski visited the archives and was stunned to find a file crammed with 500 pages of documents about him.

“I was shocked by that,” Father Zaleski said in his garret office. He was even more troubled when he read that two priests had provided the secret police information on his activities.

Though the priests were identified only by code names, they were described so precisely, he said, that he knew who they were.

“I just couldn’t imagine that there were priests who had cooperated with the secret police,” he said.

He sought guidance from the Krakow archbishop, Cardinal Stanislaw Dziwisz, a longtime personal secretary to Pope John Paul II. But Father Zaleski said he was at first ignored and then told to pray. Eventually, his superiors advised that he burn the documents.

“They weren’t interested at all in knowing anything about this,” he said, rifling through a stack of photocopies stamped by the Institute of National Remembrance.

In a meeting with former Solidarity members at a Krakow-area steel mill last January, Father Zaleski suggested that the church authorities engage in “lustration,” as the process of vetting people for past Communist collaboration is known in the former Eastern bloc.

Journalists attending the meeting wrote about Father Zaleski’s suggestion. “It started a storm among the church authorities in Krakow,” he recalled. “The archbishop’s office published an open letter condemning my activities.” He decided to undertake the project alone and promised to publish his findings.

The church, meanwhile, publicly acknowledged that some of its clergy members had collaborated and issued an apology for their sins in March. It called on priests, monks and nuns who had collaborated with the secret services to confess — to the church if not publicly. Seven of the country’s 41 Roman Catholic dioceses have since set up commissions to help priests review their files. But none of the commissions has issued a report on its findings.

The disclosures continued, each more shocking than the last. In May, the Rev. Michal Czajkowski, co-president of Poland’s Council of Christians and Jews, was accused of having spied for the secret police for 24 years. He resigned his posts and issued an apology.

Next, the press accused the Rev. Mieczyslaw Malinski, a close lifelong friend of Pope John Paul, of collaborating under the code name Delta. Father Malinski admitted having had contacts with the secret police but denied that he was a spy.

When Father Zaleski decided to begin publishing disclosures in May, Cardinal Dziwisz forbade him to do so or to speak to the press because it would undermine “love for the church and Christ.” The cardinal issued an order prohibiting any member of the clergy from delving into Krakow’s secret police archives without his authorization.

But after he met with Cardinal Dziwisz in June, the archbishop agreed to let him proceed on the condition that Father Zaleski seek comment from the clergymen he intended to identify.

Cardinal Dziwisz could not be reached for comment.

The Rev. Jozef Kloch, the Warsaw episcopate spokesman, said that while Father Zaleski “can publish whatever he likes, he and his editorial office will be responsible for the consequences.”

Father Zaleski found the 39 priests identified as “TWs,” short for tajny współpracownik, or secret collaborator. Four of them are now bishops.

Of the 39, 22 answered his request for comment, the majority denying that they were collaborators, and 4 admitting that they were. One of those who he wrote to was the Rev. Janusz Bielanski, who resigned as rector of Wawel Cathedral here on Monday, citing the allegations.

Only one of the bishops responded, and he supplied Father Zaleski with documents that showed he had refused to cooperate with the secret police. But the three bishops who did not respond, along with the other priests, will be identified in his book, which goes to print in mid-February.

Daughter Of Adolph Hitler Vows To Complete European Union

By: Sorcha Faal, and as reported to her Western Subscribers

<http://www.whatdoesitmean.com/index973.htm>

It is with troubling concern that we report today that the Western Nations have announced this week that the ancient German city of Meerholz, Germany has now become the 'Heart' of the European Union with the inclusion of the former Soviet block nations of Bulgaria and Romania.

The symbolism of this ancient citadel, founded in 1170 by the German Emperor Frederick Barbarossa (who was also crowned the Holy Roman Emperor in 1155, and who has been known throughout history as Barbarossa) now being the 'Heart' of Europe cannot be lost upon our World of today, particularly when viewed in the light of the German Chancellor Angela Merkel's vow today to unite all of Europe under one single constitution, which in effect would wipe out the National Sovereignty of all the countries in the European Union.

This vow being made by Angela Merkel to unite the European Continent under one flag cannot be ignored, especially when viewed in the light of still secret, but 'obtainable', Soviet KGB archive files which present a terrifying portrait of the present German Chancellor as being the daughter of the former German Nazi Leader, Adolf Hitler.

Though said to be born on July 17, 1954 in the former Soviet controlled German Democratic Republic (East Germany), Angela Merkel's Stasi GDR file (currently still held in the Soviet KGB archives) states that she was instead born on April 20, 1954, the birth date of her 'true' father, Adolph Hitler who was born on April 20, 1889.

The means of Angela Merkel's birth, as detailed in these documents, was based upon the research of the German Doctor Carl Clauberg, and though classified as one of the worst Nazi 'Angel of Death' doctors, and convicted by the Soviet Courts as being a 'war criminal', was nevertheless freed by the Soviets as he was recognized as being the 'Father' of artificial insemination.

According to these reports, Doctor Clauberg was released by the Soviets after serving only seven years of his sentence in return for turning over to the KGB his hidden files on his Nazi artificial insemination experiments and, more horrifically, the frozen sperm of the former Nazi Dictator, Adolf Hitler.

Upon their receipt of the Nazi files on artificial insemination, along with Hitler's frozen sperm, the Soviet Politicheskoye Buro (Politburo) authorized the experiments to 'resurrect', 'if possible', a child bearing the 'genetic markers' of Adolph Hitler.

Doctor Clauberg then brought to the GDR (Communist East Germany) the wife of Adolph Hitler's, Eva Braun, youngest, and most devoted to the Third Reich, sister, Gretl to be the 'surrogate' mother for the intended offspring of the Hitler's frozen sperm. It was 'reasoned' that the combining of the genes between Hitler's sperm and Eva Braun's closest family would produce for the Soviets a 'near match' of what a child of Hitler and Eva Braun would have been, should one have been born.

Upon the birth of Angela Merkel in 1954 it was 'agreed upon' by the Soviets, Americans and the Vatican, that she would be 'placed' under the 'control' of the Catholic Church through its 'connections' with the GDR Lutheran Church, and whom she was in fact placed with. Doctor Clauberg, after the birth of Hitler's Daughter, and upon his return to West Germany was promptly imprisoned and then murdered almost two years later while still in custody of the West German and Americans.

In the, aforementioned, 'agreement' between the Soviets, the Western Powers and the Vatican, the 'ascendancy' of Hitler's Daughter to power could not be achieved until the Vatican also brought to power a German Pope, and which was accomplished in 2005 following the death of Pope John Paul I, and which then brought to power the former German Nazi Joseph Ratzinger, and who is now known as Pope Benedict XVI, and who assumed the Leadership of the Roman Church on April 20, 2005 following his election the previous day.

(It goes without mentioning the significance of the present Nazi Pope taking power on the 116th birthday anniversary of Adolph Hitler.)

Quickly following the Nazi German Pope to European power, Hitler's Daughter was elected as the Chancellor of Germany on November 22, 2005, and which is one of the most significant dates for the World Globalists, as it was on November 22, 1859 that the 'final assault' upon Christianity was made with the publishing of Charles Darwin's "On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection", and whose intention of fragment the Western Worlds peoples from their truest origins, and meanings, has succeeded beyond their expectations.

Today, the Daughter of Hitler, holding the same office as her father, Chancellor of Germany, is now the most powerful human being on our Earth as she is also the President of the European Union (EU) and the head of the powerful Western Economic Block known as the G-8.

More concerning, however, is that her Fathers dream of uniting Europe under German/Vatican control through war is now to be accomplished by his Daughter using deception. For as we have been taught from our ancient past, in the uniting of the Continent begins the destruction of our present World, and which as the New Comet runs, and as Mabus has died, begins the tribulations of awakening and Final Destruction of the dragons of old.

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 7, 2007 04:31 AM (GMT)

Devil Worshipping Preacher, Pat Robertson, Shoots Off His Vatican Bought and Paid Off Evil Mouth Again

The Phony preacher predicting 'mass killing' by nukes in late 2007, saying God told him this on Tuesday.

5 Jan 2007

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/5-Jan-2007.html>

The long time propagandist and New World Order devil worshipping preacher, Pat Robertson, is showing his true colors and allegiance this week, predicting a "mass killing" in the U.S. to occur in late 2007.

Robertson, bought and paid off by the Jesuit Order and the Vatican hierarchy, is coming forward this week, saying God told him on Tuesday "that a terrorist attack would result in a mass killing late in 2007."

Although Robertson portrays himself as being an evangelist preacher with a close connection to God, true and just religious researchers have tagged him as nothing more than "fear monger" under the control of the Vatican-led New World Order, his assignment being to spread fear and terror among the easily manipulated masses.

This time Robertson wasted no time sounding the alarm of death and destruction, saying the following on January 3 in one of his 700 Club TV taped broadcasts:

"I'm not necessarily saying it's going to be nuclear," he said during his news-and-talk television show "The 700 Club" on the Christian Broadcasting Network. "The Lord didn't say nuclear. But I do believe it will be something like that."

Listening to Robertson, Americans need to realize he neither speaks to God or any other higher power, but is only a shill bought and paid off by the Jesuits and Vatican hierarchy, who are pushing for the ultimate destruction of freedom and prosperity in America by using a phony war on terrorism as their trump card.

Further, Americans need to realize evangelists like Robertson in this country by backing the World Order, as his 700 Club rakes in millions of dollars a year based only on lies, deception and supposed "visions from God."

"Robertson doesn't talk to God," said one avid Arctic Beacon reader who sent Robertson's latest ramblings to the attention of the editor. "He is handed a script by the Vatican led New World Order, shoots of his mouth and then gets paid a lot of money.

Although some skeptics laugh at Robertson, one thing for sure he has an inside track to the evil being pushed on the American people and his recent prediction can either be classified as the official Bush administration and New World agenda or just another Jesuit tactic to keep the population under constant fear and intimidation.

The following is a propaganda piece released by the Robertson people where he made his latest evil predictions:

Pat Robertson predicts 'mass killing'

Wed Jan 3, 5:32 AM ET

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. - In what has become an annual tradition of prognostications, religious broadcaster Pat Robertson said Tuesday God has told him that a terrorist attack on the United States would result in "mass killing" late in 2007.

"I'm not necessarily saying it's going to be nuclear," he said during his news-and-talk television show "The 700 Club" on the Christian Broadcasting Network. "The Lord didn't say nuclear. But I do believe it will be something like that."

Robertson said God told him during a recent prayer retreat that major cities and possibly millions of people will be affected by the attack, which should take place sometime after September.

Robertson said God also told him that the U.S. only feigns friendship with Israel and that U.S. policies are pushing Israel toward "national suicide."

Robertson suggested in January 2006 that God punished then-Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon with a stroke for ceding Israeli-controlled land to the Palestinians.

The broadcaster predicted in January 2004 that President Bush would easily win re-election. Bush won 51 percent of the vote that fall, beating Democratic Sen. John Kerry of Massachusetts.

In 2005, Robertson predicted that Bush would have victory after victory in his second term. He said Social Security reform proposals would be approved and Bush would nominate conservative judges to federal courts.

Lawmakers confirmed Bush's 2005 nominations of John Roberts and Samuel Alito to the Supreme Court. But the president's Social Security initiative was stalled.

"I have a relatively good track record," he said. "Sometimes I miss."

In May, Robertson said God told him that storms and possibly a tsunami were to crash into America's coastline in 2006. Even though the U.S. was not hit with a tsunami, Robertson on Tuesday cited last spring's heavy rains and flooding in New England as partly fulfilling the prediction.

Title: Archbishop of Warsaw has resigned

Description: Admits collaborating with secret police

ArchAngel - January 7, 2007 10:01 PM (GMT)

Collaborating, or commanding?

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/europe/6238165.stm>

The controversial Archbishop of Warsaw has resigned, less than an hour before he was due to be installed in his post.

Stanislaw Wielgus has been at the centre of a communist-era spying row, and recently admitted collaborating with the secret police.

He announced the decision in person at a special Mass for his installation, to a mixture of applause and shouting.

The Vatican's mission in Poland said in a statement that Pope Benedict XVI had accepted the archbishop's resignation.

The Pope has asked Cardinal Jozef Glemp, Archbishop Wielgus' predecessor, to return to his post temporarily "until further decisions have been taken concerning the archdiocese", the brief statement added.

The BBC's David Willey in Rome says the archbishop was under tremendous pressure to resign, but the decision to step down minutes before his lavish inauguration is unprecedented.

Poland's president was expected to attend the event, which has now been turned into a service in honour of Cardinal Glemp.

Shocking

Archbishop Wielgus was consecrated in a closed-door ceremony on Friday.

But he publicly admitted his collaboration, and a statement acknowledging he had not been truthful about the matter in the past was read out in churches throughout Poland on Saturday.

He announced his resignation on Sunday morning, following urgent talks between Polish and Vatican officials overnight.

Announcing his decision at the service with tears in his eyes, the archbishop said he had reached the decision after much reflection.

There was an immediate reaction from the congregation with applause, cheers and shouting.

People who had expected to see him inaugurated reacted by saying: "No, you can't do this."

The BBC's Adam Easton in Warsaw says that in a country where the Catholic Church plays such an important role, this scandal could hardly have been more shocking.

The Polish Church has launched a series of investigations in recent years to identify collaborators.

Krakov Archbishop Stanislaw Dziwisz, who heads an investigation in his home diocese, said the communist era had been "a time of persecution of the Church, often bloody and brutal".

'No informing'

The decision to appoint Archbishop Wielgus divided opinion in the staunchly Catholic country.

In one survey, two-thirds of people asked, said Archbishop Wielgus should resign.

His admission came after a Church commission acknowledged he had collaborated with the communist secret police.

Archbishop Wielgus said he had had contacts with security agents, but denied informing on priests.

He said documents suggesting otherwise were drawn up only by communist "functionaries".

Pope Benedict XVI made the appointment last month.

Just before Christmas, the Vatican released a statement insisting the Pope had been fully briefed on Archbishop Wielgus' past and supported his appointment.

The Church plays a very prominent role in Polish society and was highly esteemed because of its leading role in the fight against communism in Poland and worldwide, particularly during the time of Polish Pope John Paul II.

But historians estimate that up to 15% of Polish clergy agreed to inform on their colleagues in the communist era.

Sunday, 7 January 2007

Stanislaw Wielgus, who has resigned in dramatic fashion minutes before his inauguration as Archbishop of Warsaw, has been dogged in recent weeks by allegations of his collaboration with Poland's communist-era secret police.

Archbishop Wielgus says he never informed on or hurt anyone

Bishop Wielgus became the focus of a furore over his past which has shocked and divided Polish public opinion since he was appointed archbishop by Pope Benedict XVI.

He has publicly admitted that he worked with the secret service, the Sluzba Bezpieczenstwa (SB), but denied that he was an informer and said he never hurt anyone.

He insisted he collaborated only in order to travel abroad and further his career.

However, his admissions have not been enough to prevent him from losing his post.

Fifty meetings

Stanislaw Wielgus was born in the village of Wierzchowiska near the city of Lublin, months before Poland was invaded and partitioned by Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia at the start of World War II.

He was ordained as a priest in 1962, and it was as a philosophy student at Lublin's Catholic University that he was first approached by the SB five years later.

According to archive documents made public since the fall of communism, he worked with the SB for five years and "shared his personal views and opinions with the SB officer increasingly more freely".

In more than 50 meetings with agents he "identified candidates for operational talks from among the clergy and Roman Catholic academics", the documents say.

Now a professor at the university, he was granted a scholarship in Munich in 1973 and began working for Polish foreign intelligence.

The documents say the service tried to use him to infiltrate Radio Free Europe.

This happened in 1978, the year that the anti-communist Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla - who Wielgus has described as an inspiration since his youth - became Pope John Paul II.

Detailed file

The extent of Wielgus' collaboration in the remaining years of communism is unclear but he continued his successful academic and Church career.

He became rector of Lublin Catholic University in 1989 and was appointed Bishop of Plock in central Poland by the Pope 10 years later.

His secret service role was first revealed by the right-wing newspaper Gazeta Polska in December last year, after the Vatican announced his appointment as archbishop.

The paper later published the 68-page file detailing his intelligence work.

Pope Benedict XVI stood by the appointment, but the move divided public opinion and polls suggested a majority of Poles wanted him to resign.

Spanish Bishops Fear Rebirth Of Islamic Kingdom

Elizabeth Nash, The Independent (London), Jan. 5, 2007

<http://news.independent.co.uk/europe/article2125423.ece>

Spain's bishops are alarmed by ambitious plans to recreate the city of Cordoba—once the heart of the ancient Islamic kingdom of al-Andalus—as a pilgrimage site for Muslims throughout Europe.

Plans include the construction of a half-size replica of Cordoba's eighth century great mosque, according to the head of Cordoba's Muslim Association. Funds for the project are being sought from the governments of the United Arab Emirates and Kuwait, and Muslim organisations in Morocco and Egypt. Other big mosques are reportedly planned for Medina Azahara near Cordoba, Seville and Granada.

The bishops of those cities are alarmed at the construction of ostentatious mosques, fearing that the church's waning influence may be further eclipsed by resurgent Islam financed from abroad. Up to one million Muslims are estimated to live in Spain. Many are drawn by a romantic nostalgia for the lost paradise of Al-Andalus, the caliphate that ruled Spain for more than five centuries.

Last month, Spanish Muslims reasserted their right to pray in Cordoba's great mosque. The mosque houses within its arches a cathedral built to consolidate Catholic rule after Muslims were expelled from Spain in 1492. Muslims are forbidden to pray in the building.

Mansur Escudero, president of Spain's Islamic Council, has challenged the current head of Spain's Episcopal Conference, Bishop Ricardo Blazquez of Bilbao, to explain why Muslims could not pray in Cordoba's mosque. Mr Escudero said he had been encouraged by the Pope's act of prayer in Istanbul's Blue Mosque on his recent visit to Turkey. "It showed that mosques are open to Christian worshippers," he said. "Could not Muslims pray in Cordoba's mosque?"

Bishop Blazquez replied that public collective praying was prohibited, but he supposed private or individual prayer was acceptable. Mr Escudero then announced that Muslims would henceforth return to Cordoba's mosque to pray "in a respectful, private and individual capacity". The bishops hit back, insisting that "Muslims cannot in any way pray in Cordoba cathedral".

Spain's Muslims have been long respectful towards civil and ecclesiastical authorities, but as numbers have grown they have turned to more radical leaders. An alliance of Spanish converts, pro-Moroccan and pro-Saudi leaders took control of one of Spain's two main Islamic federations last year. Half of the new leaders are imams from Saudi-funded mosques in Madrid and Fuengirola.

Mr Escudero, an ousted moderate who nonetheless remains head of Spain's umbrella Islamic Council, said he did not favour the construction of flamboyant mosques with foreign money. "I prefer more modest, decent buildings that are backed by Spanish local authorities," he said, but added: "Muslims have the right to build mosques big and small wherever they like."

Hundreds of mosques have popped up all over Spain. But churches, and many residents, complain that big, shiny mosques are more than just centres for culture and worship, and say they are funded by undemocratic countries promoting Islamic radicalism.

Illuminati Rebel Issues Warning

By Henry Makow PhD
1-7-7

At the New Year, Leo Zagami, 36, has an urgent message.

The Illuminati plan to "Nazify" the West by the year 2012 and persecute all believers in God, using the pretext of war, terror and economic collapse.

The scion of an ancient Illuminati family, Zagami had a religious conversion (to Islam) last June and rebelled. He'd had enough of the horrifying Satanic, black magic rituals, mind control and torture that was going on inside the lodges, behind closed doors.

On Saturday he posted on his web site Illuminati Confessions <http://www.illuminaticonfessions.webfriend.it/#news1> names of high ranking Masons who are ready to do battle with the Satanists. He has organized his own security detail and even posted a personal phone number to answer serious questioners about his sincerity.

"These are the end times; it's no joke," Zagami says in an January 3 interview on his website.

"The cosmic alignment on the 21st of December 2012 gives you 6 years to prepare... So its about time you all wake up and fight for your right to stay free under one God before they take complete control and start persecuting the true believers in the one God. Get your swords and get ready to fight to defend your faith or perish This is a war against Satan so please wake up in the western countries or you might wake up in a nightmare one morning in December 2012."

"From 2010 you will start feeling the big changes in the air more and more but in 2012 you will have the clear evidence of the end of this civilization in front of your eyes. the total NAZIFICATION of the western countries by 2010 before the economic situation starts to badly crack for everyone. Then social tension will hit a peak never seen before and internal conflicts could eventually become in 2012: CIVIL WAR!"

"Are you ready to die for God and your believe in a positive change for the world or are you all a bunch of cowards in the hands of the devil, just talking and talking with no sense of reality?"

As an ex-member of the Comitato Esecutivo Massonico - Masonic Executive Committee (MEC) of Monte Carlo, Zagami was, until recently, a true insider, a 33rd degree Freemason, and a high-member of the infamous Freemasonic P2 (Propaganda 2) Lodge. He was the "prince", prepared to take over from the older Illuminati "king", Licio Gelli.

The reason I have overlooked Zagami until now is that he suggests Illuminati power resides in the Vatican with the Jesuits. I maintain that that the world central banking cartel, headed by the Rothschilds, calls the shots. They use Freemasons, Zionists, Jesuits, Vatican, Socialists, Liberals, Communists, Feminist and Gay activists, Neo Cons, all intelligence agencies, media, foundations etc. to exercise control.

But it would be stupid to continue to overlook Zagami's invaluable testimony over an academic disagreement. I don't think Zagami lets the Zionists off the hook. He merely focuses on what he knows first hand.

The Illuminati is like the mob. Does it matter if the Chicago, London or New York families are in charge? They are overlapping circles dedicated to the same perverse end.

THE ILLUMINATI PUPPET SHOW

Zagami describes the world as "a global puppet show in the hands of the usual families of idiots, who usually never change their ways century after century."

"They all work together, including Hugo Chavez who really is helping Bush's agenda by his theatrical performances," said Zagami. Chavez is controlled by the Vatican and working with the New World Order as are all other leaders of the world's major government's and religions.

"This is how they operate with the top layers working together for one purpose in what they think is the perfect cover-up. Wahabi or Wahibi [the Saudis] were created by the Zionists and their English friends who think they are the lost tribe of Israel. The same happened with Arafat and the so-called Muslim Brotherhood created by the English intelligence."

Of course, the Muslim Brotherhood also might be behind Iranian leaders and the leaders of the Iraqi Insurgency. It's all theatre put on for the yokels.

In an email to me Sunday, Leo called the Iraq-Iran-Israel conflict a "foreign intelligence show" and Ahmaninejad a "well known Satanist with no real connection to Islam."

He said Putin's conflict with the Rothschilds is also a "charade." Putin is also Illuminati controlled.

Zagami challenges his former colleagues in Freemasonry to "go public with your pagan satanic worship and your black magic you bunch of cowards, that's what I say to them. The European aristocracy has always been ruled by sorcery and black magic have always used black magic and evil forces for domination over their own citizens. They learned these satanic ways from their Masters in Rome who got them in turn from the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Sumerian...its a never ending tale of constant manipulation of mankind."

He says G.W. Bush is the son of "the most powerful man in the illuminati and he was built by his father and the CIA to become the ultimate Antichrist Vatican Zionist puppet and it doesn't really matter if he is in the White House or not because the Bush will always rule in the present situation any future actor that goes in the White House now. Remember Anton LaVey founder of the Church of Satan and Mind War controller of the CIA was a close friend of George H. Bush, and they planned together the satanic future of his son George W. Bush and the coming of the age of Satan after 9/11 a long time ago when LaVey was still alive."

He says 666 is everywhere these days: "the Hebrew equivalent of our "w" is the letter "vav" or "waw". The numerical value of vav is 6. So the English "www" transliterated into Hebrew is "vav vav vav", which numerically is 666. And you can't definitely have a business these days without a web site WWW, then we have the video surveillance and last but not least the micro chipping coming up. The micro chipping will be the ultimate Mark of the Beast and will put us fully in the hands of Satan and his evil controllers ready for Armageddon against the Messiah. So we need to rebel before that to help the coming back of the real Messiah."

"All religions are corrupt by the Illuminati these days including most of Islam, the Jews, the Evangelical, Protestant and the Born-Again side of Christianity, all ruled secretly by Freemasonry, the intelligence services, the Knights of Malta and last but not least the usual Jesuits so genuine [religious] dialogue is almost impossible."

CONCLUSION

Leo Zagami sees himself as "the last idealist in the Illuminati." He says he is leading a revolt and has some support within the Order. It is a hopeful sign that courageous and decent men like him should appear at this time. It would be a far greater sin to spurn a genuine hero than to be taken in by an impostor. At the same time, the Illuminati has always feigned divisions: FDR, Hitler all championed the "people."

"YOU ARE LIVING IN A ILLUMINATI PRISON BUILT BY THE JESUITS AND FINANCED BY THE ZIONISTS," Leo emailed me. I agree about the "Illuminati prison part." For the rest, I will continue to ask Leo questions and do my own reading and thinking.

The elite is building an abattoir before our eyes: the fascist New World Order. The events of 9-11 are proof of its ruthlessness. We have a choice: To go like sheep to the slaughter, or to take Zagami's advice, and prepare.

Pope: Globalization Should Not Ignore Spiritual Side

Castelfranco report - Download 190k audio clip

Thousands of families were in Saint Peter's Square Saturday to receive the pope's blessing on the feast day of the Epiphany. At a morning mass the pope said that religious leaders must stress the spiritual aspect of the globalization debate. Sabina Castelfranco reports from Rome.

POPE: "The celebration of the Epiphany of the Lord invites us to contemplate Jesus as the divine Savior, the light that guides us on our journey to eternity."

Thousands of families packed Saint Peter's Square to hear the pope's words. In Christian tradition, the Epiphany marks the day three wise men guided by a star pay homage to the Baby Jesus.

Earlier, the pope celebrated mass in Saint Peter's Basilica. In his homily, Benedict said the past decades have seen a "challenge to global civilization, where the center can no longer be Europe and not even that which we call the West or the North of the world."

He added that there is a need to elaborate a new world political and economic order, but, above all, a spiritual and cultural one, a renewed humanism.

Pope Benedict said that now, at the start of the Third Millennium, the world is in the middle of a phase of human history described as globalization. He said that while politicians, scientists and researchers play important roles in the modern world, it is also necessary that the leaders of the great non-Christian and Christian religions are at their side.

Pope Benedict will celebrate another mass on Sunday in the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican. During that ceremony, as is tradition, he will baptize a number of children.

Oh, the "three wise men" bit. Let me throw in some corrections here.

It was the shepherds that visited Jesus as an infant right after He was born.

The wise men came no more than two years later. They gave three KINDS of gifts... where someone came up with "three" wise men I'll never know. The Bible doesn't say how many there were.

And of course Rome wants that one-world religion going, Bible-believers need not apply. <_<

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 7, 2007 02:51 AM (GMT)

The Black Nobility

- from <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/TheNeuschwab...imes/message/54>
(Posted here by Wes Penre: Jan 13, 2004)

These people earned the title of "Black" nobility from their ruthless lack of scruple. They employed murder, rape, kidnapping, assassination, robbery, and all manner of deceit on a grand scale, brooking no opposition to attaining their objectives. These all have immense wealth. And money is power.

The most powerful of the Black Nobility families are located in Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Britain, Holland and Greece in that order. Their roots may be traced back to the Venetian oligarchs, who are of Khazar extraction, and married into these royal houses in the early part of the twelfth century. (Following a great Khazar victory over the Arabs, the future Emperor, Constantine V, married a Khazar princess and their son became Emperor Leo IV, also known as "Leo the Khazar". The Medecci popes, and Pius XII (Eugenio Pacelli) were Khazars, as is the present Pope, John Paul II. Not all Black Nobility are royal houses, and many of the royal families no longer have kingdoms. According to researcher and author Dr. John Coleman, a "Committee of 300" was established early in the eighteenth century, "although it did not take on its present form until around 1897", (when the China opium trade was legalised)

Documentary proof as to the existence of the Committee of 300 is not forthcoming, and it may be no more than a convenient phrase to describe certain key players. Socialist politician and financial adviser to the Rothschilds, Walter Rathenau, writing in the Wiener Press (24 December, 1921) said, "Only 300 men, each of whom knows all others govern the fate of Europe. They select their successors from their own entourage. These men have the means in their hands of putting an end to the form of State which they find unreasonable." Exactly six months after publication, Rathenau was assassinated.

Dr. Coleman's work opens the door to further studies on named members of the ruling elite, particularly in America. Whereas the English have a long history and are very aware of their ancestry, certain families of "blue-bloods" in the United States that have historic ties with the British through blood and money.

These "noble" families are behind most if not all of the so-called pro-environmental movements that are actually intended to curb the population growth of ALL nations. Prince Philip and Prince Charles are the most visible symbols of this movement, and are a true part of this conspiracy to destroy industry and take the world back to a New Dark Age.

Most if not all the crowned and uncrowned heads of these dynasties enjoy huge incomes from ground rents. All favor Global 2000 Report to the President that's calculated to end all industrial progress, and by famine, disease and wars, eliminate the excess population industry supports. All oppose nuclear power that can produce clean cheap electricity, the key to economic development and prosperity in the Third World. They ardently desire a return to the feudal system where they will once again be absolute rulers.

While professing Christianity, the oligarchical families, for the greater part, actually despise it in secret. Masonry provides their religious fulfillment. And without faith, they have no belief in reward or punishment and a world to come. They live for the here and now.

Many of these oligarchies are in the drug and arms trade through well-distanced intermediaries (like so many of the large banks).

In 1815 the Jesuits and their Freemason allies among the crowned heads of Europe held the Congress of Vienna, whereby Swiss neutrality (already sanctioned by the Peace of Westphalia in 1648) was forever guaranteed; and no matter how many wars are provoked in which the common man has to do the fighting, the money of the Nobility in Switzerland should always be free from plunder. It's part of Rothschild's meticulous long-range planning, and why Switzerland exists to this day. But that doesn't mean to say your money would be safe. Some US$280 billion p.a. in flight capital and drug money flows into the Swiss accounts of the Black Nobility.

The place of Freemasonry in the power structure of the Elites is quite evident as they carried through Adam Weishaupt's conspiracy to avenge the Jesuits after their abolition in 1773 by short-lived Pope Clement XIV as "immoral and a menace to the Church and the Faith". By launching the French Revolution and directing Napoleon's conquest of Catholic Europe, and by revolts against the church in Mexico and Latin America, they cut-off Vatican income.

Nathan Rothschild's financing of Britain resulted in the defeat of Rome's enemy Napoleon, (as well as being the source of his wealth and influence). Since Gregory XVI conferred a Papal decoration on Kalman Rothschild for loaning the Vatican five million pounds in a period of difficulty, the Rothschilds have been the fiscal agents of the Vatican. With Vatican interests at heart, the Rothschilds extended their financial and political dominion in the United States. The Vatican's interest in the US was clearly revealed in the secret 1822 Treaty of Verona between Austria, France, Prussia, and Russia whereby the Jesuit Order pledged itself as the price of reinstatement to destroy "the works of Satan" it had established in setting-up, by revolution, representative governments such as the republics and "democracies" of France and the USA, replacing them with the only form of government approved by the church, rule by "divine right", as declared by the Vatican (Daniel 2:42-43; Revelation 17:12-13).

As Senator Robert Owen pointed out to the US Senate in 1916, the prime target to which the Vatican and the "Holy Alliance" directed the subversive and destructive activities of the Society of Jesus, is the United States, and other republics in the Western hemisphere. This plot, he claimed, was the target at which the Monroe Doctrine was directed. What the Senator did not realize is that the Monroe Doctrine protects the interests of "The City of London".

The Rothschild-Vatican cabal unsuccessfully attempted to gain control over the power of the purse in the US through the First and Second Bank of the United States. They were established under emergency powers granted to the President by the Constitution, as temporary institutions to tide the country through the periods of financial stress occasioned by the Revolutionary and 1812 Wars. But the aims of the conspirators to establish a banking monopoly were thwarted by the Constitution. Until the FED.

It is said the Black Nobility promised a neutral Germany if Soviet Russia allowed East and West Germany to reunite. And that Russia promised to see that all royal houses are restored to the rightful heirs if they decouple Europe from the American Alliance.

Imperial nobility enjoy a more elevated status than the nobilities of the German successor states and, indeed, of the Italian states. The descendants of Italian Holy Roman Empire titles have formed an Association to which all male line descendants of someone ennobled by Imperial Patent is entitled to belong. And the Principality of Liechtenstein has also claimed the ability to confirm a succession to Imperial titles, and has confirmed the right of a Spanish noble man to heir such a title for purposes of the Spanish law requiring the successor state to confirm that the claimant to a particular title is in fact the heir. Thus there is a remaining jurisdiction, even though no Imperial titles have been conferred since 1806.

In 1963, the Holy Roman Empire Association (Associzioni dei Nobili del Sacro Romano Impero) was established to unite male descendants in its membership who are invested with nobility of the Holy Roman Empire. It also includes a number of honorary members.

The Black Nobility belong to the "Committee of 300" that controls the UN. Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands has the power to veto the Vatican's choice of any pope it selects. This may explain the untimely end to Pope John Paul I's 33-day pontificate. The Prince has veto power because his family, the Habsburgs, are descended directly from the last Roman emperor. (The Habsburg Frederick III was the last emperor to be crowned in Rome; his great-grandson Charles V was the last to be crowned by a pope). This is the civil equivalent of the Pope's claimed "apostolic succession" from Saint Peter.

Prince Bernhard is leader of the Black Families and he also claims descent from the House of David through the Merovingian dynasty, a claim that was acknowledged to be valid by the Carolingian dynasty that supplanted them, by other monarchs and by the Roman Church of that time. Thus he can truly say that he is "related to Jesus".

Prince Bernhard's House of Orange had its origins in France. The Habsburgs are related through marriage with the Merovingians, who are said to have descended from the Tribe of Benjamin who went into exile following war with the other eleven Tribes -- see Judges chapter 21. Exile took them to Arcadia in the central Peloponnese, Greece. Here they aligned with the Arcadian royal line and towards the advent of the Christian era, migrated up the Danube and Rhine, through marriage engendering the Sicambrian Franks -- the immediate forebears of the Merovingians, who were ultimately of Semitic origin, and descendants of King Saul.

They are identified with the Spartans, and both books of Maccabees link the Spartans with the Jews. I Maccabees 12 tells of Jonathan sending a letter to the Lacedemonians (Spartan Greeks) asking for their help, since they were brethren. The Spartans replied, "It is found in writing, that the Lacedemonians and Jews are brethren and that they are of the stock of Abraham" (verse 21). It is assumed by some writers that this means the Spartans were Israelites, but the Spartans were not Israelites they were Edomites descended from Bela son of Beor and brother of Baalim, and king of Edom (Genesis 36:32; I Chronicles 1:43). Edom was the son of Isaac and grandson of Abraham who sold his birthright, and bred his posterity off the Book of Life.

Early in the fifth century the Merovingians established themselves in what is now Belgium and northern France. There they adopted the Cabalistic pseudo-Christianity of the Cathars, a dualistic religion that holds there are two eternal gods, the god of Good and the god of Evil. It is revealing that this Luciferian belief is held by Masons of high degree and those who would be Masters of this world today, and who claim that Lucifer will ultimately be victorious.

Under Clovis I, who reigned from 481-511, the Franks converted to Roman Catholicism. Through him, Rome began to establish undisputed supremacy in Western Europe. In return for being the sword of Rome whereby the church would manifest her power and impose a spiritual dominion, Clovis was granted the title of "New Constantine" and to preside over a unified "Holy Roman Empire" based on the church and administered on the secular level in perpetuity by the Merovingian bloodline. Like "the sure mercies of David", this was a pact that could be modified, but not revoked, broken or betrayed.

They believe Jesus survived the cross and married Mary Magdalene who bore His son then lived in seclusion in the south of France. During the fifth century this lineage is said to have married with the royal line of the Franks engendering the Merovingian dynasty.

When in 496 the church pledged itself in perpetuity to the Merovingian bloodline it was presumably in full knowledge of their claimed identity. This would explain why Clovis was offered the status of Holy Roman Emperor, and why he was not created but only "crowned" king. In 754 the church clandestinely betrayed its pact.

The Prieure de Sion is the name of the secret order which created the Knight Templars as its military and administrative arm. (It should be remembered that the Knight Templars were the forerunners of Freemasonry). The Prieure de Sion continues to function through the centuries, acting in the shadows, and has orchestrated certain critical events in Western history.

It exists today and is still operative. Its declared objective is the restoration of the Merovingian dynasty and bloodline -- to the throne not only of France, but of other European nations as well -- a restoration that is sanctioned and justifiable, both legally and morally.

There is strong evidence to suggest that this order was the author of Freemasonry, and "The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Sion", as well as the Rosicrucians. There is abundant evidence to suggest that Nostradamus was one of their secret agents, and there is no question that numerous quatrains which refer to the advent of "le Grand Monarch" indicate that this sovereign will ultimately derive from the Merovingian dynasty. Implying a double hegemony of the Papacy and the Empire, of the Vatican and of the Habsburgs. He frequently referred quite explicitly to the Knights Templars and to the house of Lorraine which is now synonymous with the Habsburgs.

Although deposed in the eighth century, the Merovingian bloodline did not become extinct. On the contrary it perpetuated itself in a direct line from Dagobert II and his son Sigisbert IV. By dint of dynastic alliances and intermarriages, this line came to include Godfroi de Bouillon, who captured Jerusalem in 1099, and various other noble and royal families, past and present -- Blanchefort, Gisors, Saint-Clair (Sinclair in England), Montesquieu, Montpezat, Poher, Luisignan, Plantard and Habsburg-Lorraine. At present, the Merovingian bloodline enjoys a legitimate claim to its heritage.

The crown of Charlemagne -- a replica of which is now part of the imperial Habsburg regalia -- is said to have borne the inscription "Rex Salomon" (Encyclopaedia Britannica, 14th Ed., 1972, Crown and Regalia, Fig. 2). And the "Spear of Destiny", which is said to have pierced Christ, reside today in the Treasure House, Vienna, awaiting another Holy Roman Emperor (The Rigby Joy of Knowledge Library. History and Culture I, 1977:160; The Holy Roman Empire, Friedrich Heer, p. 284). It is clear why the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" speak of a new king "of the Holy seed of David", (Holy Blood and the Holy Grail, Baigent, Leigh and Lincoln). Otto von Habsburg is today the titular Duke of Lorraine and King of Jerusalem.

The Priore de Sion claim to hold the lost treasure of the Temple of Jerusalem plundered by Titus in AD70 which would be returned to Israel "when the time was right". This might explain why Rome must defer to the "kings of the earth" and how she will seal a covenant with the Jews who have long hidden behind the shield of baptism.

Prince Bernhard is in fact related to the Khazars, and therefore a Gentile. Revelation 2:9, "I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but you are rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan."

Assisted by the CIA, Prince Bernhard has brought the hidden ruling body of the Illuminati into public knowledge as De Bilderberg Group. (Established in 1954, its headquarters is 1 Smidswater, Den Haag, Netherlands). At the heart of the Bilderberg Group are 39 members of the Illuminati chosen from three committees drawn from the members of all the secret groups that comprise the Illuminati: the Freemasons, the Vatican and the Black Nobility. This committee works year round in offices in Switzerland.

The Committee of 300 now call themselves World Government Founders for the NWO. A reference no doubt to their hereditary claim to the "Divine Right of Kings". It is imperative that we realize that privately, the Black Nobility refuse to ever recognize any government other than their own inherited and divine right to rule. They believe the United States still belongs to England. And work diligently behind the scenes to cause conditions whereby they might regain their crowns. Every royal and so-called noble dynasty past and present of Europe have seats on the Committee of 300, most often by nominees. There are just too many of these "royal" families for them each to have representatives on the Committee of 300. Precedence is determined by rank: first royal family members, then dukes, earls, marquises and lords, then finally "commoners", who usually get the title of "Sir". (Conspirator's Hierarchy: The Committee of 300", Dr. John Coleman).

The Ancient History of The Black Nobility

<http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopol...lacknobil05.htm>

In Carthage, the Canaanites called themselves Punics. Rome attacked Carthage in full force, beginning in 264BC and completed their task after killing or enslaving every Carthaginian, by sowing the land to salt so that nothing could ever grow there again. The Edomites descended from Esau later intermarried with the Turks to produce a Turco-Edomite mixture which later became known as Chazars (Khazars) - who are the present occupants of Israel. These Canaanites eventually adopted the name "Sepharvaim" for deceptive purposes. They later became known as Venetians, and by marrying into European royalty and aristocracy, the "black nobility." The Venetians today control the Federal Reserve system in the US.

Around AD1400, European power centers coalesced into two camps: the Ghibellines, who supported the Emperors Hohenstaufen family, and the Guelphs, from Welf, the German prince who competed with Frederick for control of the Holy Roman Empire. The Pope allied himself with the Guelphs. All modern history stems directly from the struggle between these two powers. The Guelphs are also called the Neri, Black Guelphs, or Black Nobility, and supported William of Orange in his seizure of the throne of England, which eventually resulted in the formation of the Bank of England and the East India Company, which would rule the world from the 17th century. All coup d'etats, revolutions and wars in the 19th and 20th centuries are centered in the battle of the Guelphs to hold and enhance their power, which is now the New World Order.

The power of the Guelphs would extend through the Italian financial centers to the north of France in Lombardy (all Italian bankers were referred to as "Lombards"). Lombard in German means "deposit bank", and the Lombards were bankers to the entire Medieval world. They would later transfer operations north to Hamburg, then to Amsterdam and finally to London. The Guelphs would start the slave trade to the colonies. The Guelphs, in order to aid their control of finance and politics, would perpetuate gnostic cults which eventually developed into the Rosicrucians, Unitarians, Fabian Society and the World Council of Churches. The East India company, together with John Stuart Mill, would finance the University of London. A friend of Mill, historian George Grote, a founder of London University donated £6000 for the study of "mental health", which began the worldwide "mental health" movement.

Banks large and small in the thousands are in the Committee of 300 network, including:

Banca Commerciale d'Italia

Banca Privata

Banco Ambrosiano

The Netherlands Bank

Barclays Bank

Banco de Colombia

Banco de Ibero-America

Of special interest is Banca del la Svizzera Italiana (BSI) - since it handles flight capital investments to and from the United States - primarily in dollars and US bonds - located and isolated in "neutral" Lugano, the flight capital center for the Venetian Black Nobility. Lugano is not in Italy or in Switzerland, and is a kind of twilight zone for shady flight capital operations. George Ball, who owns a large block of stock in BSI, is a prominent "insider" and the bank's US representative.

In the secret 1822 Treaty of Verona (between Austria, France, Prussia and Russia) the Jesuits agreed to smash the US Constitution and suppress the freedom of the US. Their methods included destroying free speech, destroying and suppressing the press, universal censorship, sustaining the cooperation of the Pope and clergy to use religion to help keep nations in passive obedience and financing wars against countries with representative governments. The monarchs who signed this treaty were ultimately deposed. Most of these families are very wealthy and may be more powerful today than when they sat upon thrones. They are known collectively as the Black Nobility. Privately these families refuse to recognize any right to rule except their own. The fact that this treaty was made long ago does not mean it is void. The treaty was placed in the Congressional Record on April 25, 1916 by Senator Owen.

In 1948 George H.W. Bush graduated from Yale University and the Skull and Bones. He is a distant cousin of the Queen of England, part of the Black Nobility which traces its power back 5,000 years.

Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands created a group that became known as the Bilderbergers. Many "conservative" researchers have come to recognize the Bilderbergers as an important force for the "New World Order."

(Note: Since the Bildebergers, according to former British Intelligence agent John Coleman, serve as a BINDING force between the three major 'one world government' forces - the Wicca-Masons (i.e. Communism); the Black Nobility descendants of the early Roman emperors; and the Maltese Jesuits. . . each of which have 13 respective representatives on the 39-member Bildeberger board - and since a Nazi SS stormtrooper was responsible for developing this "New World Order" coordination council, and since Adolph Hitler's second book was titled [believe it or not] "The New World Order." No wonder Adolph Hitler's dream - and that of his predecessors the "Kaisers", a German translation of "Caesars" - was the revival of the Roman empire).

According to former British Intelligence agent Dr. John Coleman, the three world power groups: the Wicca-Masons (i.e. Communism), the Maltese-Jesuits and the Black-Nobility ('Black' in this context refers to their character, not their skin color) all work for and under the central Command of the Bavarian Illuminati which binds them together.

The Bavarians created the Bilderberg society for this purpose, the core of which is a council of 13 members from each of the three 'groups' or 39 in all. The old-line ruling families who believe that they have the right to rule the world because they are descended from the emperors of the ancient Roman and so-called 'holy' Roman Empires consist of 13-15 'blue blood' families. Which include: Rothschild; Kuhn; Loeb; Lehman; Rockefeller; Sach; Warburg; Lazard; Seaf; Goldman; Schiff; Morgan; Schroeder; Bush and Harriman . . . Others that have not been mentioned are more 'powerful' than others. But these names will get you started if you wish to track down the present-day inner core of the conspiracy. The history of the Bilderberg group itself, a cover for the Bavarian Illuminati, and its Nazi connections, would probably be the best place to start.

Prominent on the board of two insurance giants are Committee of 300 members:
the Giustiniani family, Black Nobility of Rome and Venice who trace their lineage to the Emperor Justinian

Sir Jocelyn Hambro of Hambros (Merchant) Bank

Pierpaolo Luzzatti Fequiz, whose lineage dates back six centuries to the most ancient Luzzatos, the Black Nobility of Venice

Umberto Ortolani of the ancient Black Nobility family of the same name

Other old Venetian Black Nobility Committee of 300 members and board members of ASG and RAS are:

the Doria family, the financiers of the Spanish Hapsburgs

Elie de Rothschild of the French Rothschild family

Baron August von Finck (Finck, the second richest man in Germany now deceased)

Franco Orsini Bonacassi of the ancient Orsini Black Nobility that traces its lineage to an ancient Roman senator of the same name the Alba family whose lineage dates back to the great Duke of Alba

Baron Pierre Lambert, a cousin of the Belgian Rothschild family

Italy was chosen as a test-target by the Committee of 300. Italy is important to the conspirators' plans because it is the closest European country to the Middle East, and linked to Middle East economics and politics. It is also the home of the Catholic Church, which Weishaupt ordered destroyed, and home for some of Europe's most powerful oligarchical families of the ancient Black Nobility. Should Italy have been weakened by Aldo Moro's death, it would have had repercussions in the Middle East which would have weakened US influence in the region. Italy is important for another reason; it is a gateway for drugs entering Europe from Iran and Lebanon.

Various groups combined under the name of socialism to bring about the downfall of several Italian governments since the Club of Rome was established in 1968. Among these are the Black Nobility of Venice and Genoa, P2 Masonry and the Red Brigades, all working for the same goals. Police investigators in Rome working on the Red Brigades-Aldo Moro case came across the names of several very prominent Italian families working closely with this terrorist group. The police also discovered evidence that in at least a dozen cases, these powerful and prominent families had allowed their homes and/or property to be used as safe houses for Red Brigades cells.

Peccei headed the Atlantic Institute's Economic Council for three decades while he was the Chief Executive Officer for Giovanni Agnelli's Fiat Motor Company. Agnelli, a member of an ancient Italian Black Nobility family of the same name, was one of the most important members of the Committee of 300. He played a leading role in development projects in the Soviet Union. The Club of Rome is a conspiratorial umbrella organization, a marriage between Anglo-American financiers and the old Black Nobility families of Europe, particularly the so-called "nobility" of London, Venice and Genoa. The key to the successful control of the world is their ability to create and manage savage economic recessions and eventual depressions. The Committee of 300 looks to social convulsions on a global scale, followed by depressions, as a softening-up technique for bigger things to come, as its principal method of creating masses of people all over the world who will become its "welfare" recipients of the future.

To introduce new cults and continue to boost those already functioning which includes rock "music" gangsters such as the filthy, degenerate Mick Jagger's "Rolling Stones" (a gangster group much favored by European Black Nobility) and all of the Tavistock-created "rock" groups which began with "The Beatles." To continue to build up the cult of Christian fundamentalism begun by the British East India Company's servant, Darby, which will be misused to strengthen the Zionist state of Israel through identifying with the Jews through the myth of "God's Chosen People" and by donating very substantial amounts of money to what they mistakenly believe is a religious cause in the furtherance of Christianity.

Brzezinski was not writing as a private citizen but as Carter's National Security Advisor and a leading member of the Club of Rome and a member of the Committee of 300, a member of the CFR and as a member of the old Polish Black Nobility. His book explains how America must leave its industrial base behind and enter into what he called "a distinct new historical era."

In this regard a French Black Nobility member, Etienne D'Avignon, as a member of the Committee of 300, was assigned the task of collapsing the steel industry in the US. It is doubtful that any of the hundreds of thousands of steel workers and shipyard workers who have been without jobs for the past decade have ever heard of D'Avignon.

A second assassination bureau is located in Switzerland and was until recently run by a shadowy figure of whom no photographs existed after 1941. The operations were and probably still are financed by the Oltramaire family - Swiss Black Nobility, owners of the Lombard Odier Bank of Geneva, a Committee of 300 operation. The primary contact man was Jacques Soustelle - this according to US Army-G2 intelligence files. This group was also closely allied with Allen Dulles and Jean de Menil, an important member of the Committee of 300 and a very prominent name in the oil industry in Texas.

Army-G2 records show that the group was heavily involved in the arms trade in the Middle East, but more than that, the assassination bureau made no less than 30 attempts to kill General de Gaulle, in which Jacques Soustelle was directly involved. The same Soustelle was the contact man for the Sendero Luminoso-Shining Pathway guerilla group protecting the Committee's Peruvian cocaine producers.

Richard Gardner was sent to Rome on a special assignment. Gardner married into one of the oldest Black Nobility families of Venice, thus providing the Venetian aristocracy a direct line to the White House. The late Averill Harriman was another of the committee's direct links with the Kremlin and the White House, a position inherited by Kissinger after Harriman's death.

In 1986 in "The Order of St. John of Jerusalem" Dr. Coleman wrote:

"It is therefore not a secret society, except where its purposes have been perverted in the inner councils like the Order of the Garter, which is a prostituted oligarchical creation of the British royal family, which makes a mockery of what the Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem stands for. As an example, we find the atheist Lord Peter Carrington, who pretends to be an Anglican Christian but who is a member of the Order of Osiris and other demonic sects, including Freemasonry, installed as a Knight of the Garter at St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II of England, of the Black Nobility Guelphs, also head of the Anglican Church, which she thoroughly despises."

CHAPTER 16

<http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopol...y04.htm#CHAPTER> 16

THE BLACK NOBILITY

Before going any further into the “big picture” we have to take a little detour again to make things a bit clearer.

For the following information I have to thank Ex- MI6 agent Dr. John Coleman for his tremendous research. He is the only one who ever wrote anything in English on the “Black Nobility”, and on the American continent he is a pioneer in this research. I met Dr. Coleman personally and tell you that he is sincere in his intention (I have my own personal faculty to “read” or “check” people). But he sure is holding back information, as I do, too, because we don’t want to lose our heads.

Dr. Coleman tells us about a term you won’t find in any ordinary book or dictionary: “The Black Nobility”. These are the oligarchic families of Venice and Genoa who in the 12th century held the privileged trading rights (monopolies).

Dr. Coleman:

“The first of three crusades, from 1063 to 1123, established the power of the Venetian Black Nobility and solidified the power of the wealthy ruling class. The Black Nobility aristocracy achieved complete control over Venice in 1171, when the appointment of the doge was transferred to what was known as the Great Council, which consisted of members of the commercial aristocracy, a complete triumph for them. Venice has remained in their hands ever since, but the power and influence of the Venetian Black Nobility extends far beyond its borders, and today, in 1986, is felt in every corner of the globe. In 1204 the oligarchic family parceled out feudal enclaves to their members, and from this epoch dates the great building-up of power and pressure until the government became a closed corporation of the leading Black Nobility families.”

The Black Nobility earned its title through dirty tricks, so when the population revolted against the monopolies in government, as anywhere else, the leaders of the uprising were quickly seized and brutally hanged. They use secret assassinations, murder, the bankrupting of opposing citizens or companies, kidnapping and rape. So, who are these families?

The most important ones are:

House of Guelph (Britain)

House of Wettin (Belgium)

House of Bernadotte (Sweden)

House of Liechtenstein (Liechtenstein)

House of Oldenburg (Denmark)

House of Hohenzollern (Germany)

House of Hanover (Germany)

House of Bourbon (France)

House of Orange (Netherlands)

House of Grimaldi (Monaco)

House of Wittelsbach (Germany)

House of Braganza (Portugal)

House of Nassau (Luxembourg)

House of Habsburg (Austria)

House of Savoy (Italy)

House of Karadjordjevic (Yugoslavia)

House of Wurttemberg (Germany)

House of Zogu (Albania)

As well as the ones you will find on the Family Tree of the Windsors. (Black Nobility Unmasked Worldwide, Dr. John Coleman, 1985)

All the families listed are connected with the House of Guelph, one of the original Black Nobility families of Venice from which the House of Windsor and thus the present Queen of England, Elisabeth II, descends.

The Guelphs are so intertwined with the German aristocracy through the House of Hanover that it would take several pages to mention all their connections. As you can see in this family tree, almost all European royal houses originate from the House of Hanover and thus from the House of Guelph – the Black Nobility. The Hanoverian English King George I came from the Duchy of Lunenburg, a part of Northern Germany, which had been governed by the Guelph family since the 12th century.

Today the Guelphs rule by dominating the raw materials market, and for years they have fixed the price of gold, a commodity they do neither produce nor own. The House of Windsor also controls the price of copper, zinc, lead and tin. And as you will see, it is no accident that the principle commodity exchanges are located in London. Companies run by Black Nobility families are British Petroleum, Oppenheimer, Lonrho, Philbro and others.

Another Black Nobility family are the Grosvenors in England. For centuries this family lived - as most of the European royal families – on ground rent. Today the family owns at least 300 acres of land in the center of London. The land is never sold, but leased on a 99 year leasehold agreement – the ground rent of the middle ages.

Grosvenor Square, in which the American Embassy is located, belongs to the Grosvenor family, as does Eaton Square. In Eaton Square apartments are rented out at 25,000 pounds a month, and that does not include maintenance costs. This will give you some idea of the immense wealth the Black Nobility families garner from ground rents, and why families like the Windsors are not at all interested in industrial progress along with the excess population it supports. This is the only reason why these “noble” families are behind most, if not all, of the wrong-headed Pro-environmental movements of the world that ultimately and covertly aim to curb population growth.

Prince Philip and Prince Charles are the most visible symbols of these movements and both have often spoken with the utmost callousness about the need to rid the world of unwanted people. (Black Nobility Unmasked Worldwide, Dr. John Coleman). So why do I mention the Black Nobility?

Because they are the founders of THE secret society of our day from which all the others are connected to the Illuminati originated from – the “Committee of 300”. As I will show you, the Club of Rome, the CFR, the RIIA, the Bilderbergers, the UN, the Round Table... all originate from the “Committee of 300” and therefore from the European Black Nobility families.

Well, here comes the most important point. Dr. Coleman has been perfectly right up to here.

He thinks that the European Black Nobility is the cause of all that is wrong. But, since at least the 17th century absolutely every European royal house has been infiltrated by JEWS. The House of Hanover seems to be German, but it is Jewish. So is the House of Habsburg.

So it wasn't really the Germans who took over the British throne. Brilliant, isn't it?
(Sources: "Semi Goter" by Phillip Stauff and "Judenblut im deutshen Adel" - Jewish Blood in German Nobility by Otto Furst von Batailler)

Co-operating with the European Black Nobility are American families like the Harrimans and the McGeorge Bundys.

Who are The Black Nobility

by Dee Jay

June 28, 2000

<http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopol...lacknobil02.htm>

The "Black Nobility" are/were the oligarchic families of Venice and Genoa, Italy, who in the 12th century held the privileged trading rights (monopolies). The first of three crusades, from 1063 to 1123, established the power of the Venetian Black Nobility and solidified the power of the wealthy ruling class. The Black Nobility aristocracy achieved complete control over Venice in 1171, when the appointment of the Doge was transferred to what was known as the Great Council, which consisted of members of the commercial aristocracy (among them the infamous de'Medici family). Venice has remained in their hands ever since, but the power and influence of the Venetian Black Nobility extends far beyond its borders, and today it is felt in every corner of the globe. (Don't forget, our modern banking system originated in Italy.)

In 1204 the oligarchic family parceled out feudal enclaves to their members, and from this epoch dates the great building-up of power and pressure until the government became a closed corporation (don't we know this from somewhere?) of the leading Black Nobility families. More of this can be found in the works of Dr. John Coleman, Black Nobility Unmasked World-wide, 1985; Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Story of the Committee of 300, 1992. Question: the Christopher Columbus story is a concoction. How about the Marco Polo stories? Anyone?

The Black Nobility earned its title through dirty tricks, so when the population revolted against the monopolies in government, as anywhere else (aren't we), the leaders of the uprising were quickly seized and brutally hanged. The Black Nobility uses secret assassinations, murder, blackmail, the bankrupting of opposing citizens or companies, kidnapping, rape and so on... hence their name. Who are these families today? Well, the most important ones are:

House of Bernadotte, Sweden

House of Bourbon, France

House of Braganza, Portugal

House of Grimaldi, Monaco

House of Guelph, Britain (the most important one)

House of Habsburg, Austria

House of Hanover, Germany (the second most important one)

House of Hohenzollern, Germany

House of Karadjordjevic, Yugoslavia (former)

House of Liechtenstein, Liechtenstein

House of Nassau, Luxembourg

House of Oldenburg, Denmark

House of Orange, Netherlands

House of Savoy, Italy

House of Wettin, Belgium

House of Wittelsbach, Germany

House of Württemberg, Germany

House of Zogu, Albania

all the families you will find on the Windsor family tree

All the families listed are connected with the House of Guelph, one of the original Black Nobility families of Venice, from which the House of Windsor and thus the present Queen of England, Elizabeth II, descends. The Guelphs are so intertwined with the German aristocracy through the House of Hanover that it would take several pages to mention all their connections. All (almost) European royal houses originate from the House of Hanover and thus from the House of Guelph — the Black Nobility.

An example: the Hanoverian British King George I came from the Duchy of Luneburg, a part of Northern Germany, which had been governed by the Guelph family since the 12th century. Today the Guelphs (the Windsors) rule by dominating the raw materials market, and for years they have fixed the price of gold (a commodity they neither produce nor own). The House of Windsor also controls the price of copper, zinc, lead and tin. It is no accident that the principle commodity exchanges are located in London, England. Companies run by Black Nobility families are British Petroleum, Oppenheimer, Lonrho, Philbro and many many more.

Another Black Nobility family are the Grosvenors in England. For centuries this family lived, as most of the European families, on ground rent. Today the family owns at least 300 acres of land in the centre of London. The land is never sold, but leased on a 39 year leasehold agreement — the ground rent of the middle ages. Grosvenor Square, in which the American Embassy is located, belongs to the Grosvenor family, as does Eaton Square. In Eaton Square apartments are rented out at 25,000 to 75,000 pounds a month (and that does not include maintenance costs). This is to give you an idea of the immense wealth the Black Nobility families garner from ground rents, and why families like the Windsors are not at all interested in industrial progress along with the excess population it supports. This is the main reason why these 'noble' families are behind most, if not all, of the wrong-headed pro-environmental movements of the world that ultimately and covertly (of course) aim to curb population growth. Prince Philip and Prince Charles are the most visible symbols of these movements, and both have often spoken with the utmost callousness about the need to rid the world of unwanted people.

The Black Nobility are the founders of the secret society of our day from which all the others that are connected to the Illuminati originated from — the Committee of 300. The Club of Rome, the C.F.R., the R.I.I.A., the Bilderbergers, the Round Table... all originate from the Committee of 300 and therefore from the European Black Nobility families.

Co-operating with the European Black Nobility are American families like the Harrimans and the McGeorge Bundys. The House of Hanover seems to be German, but is Jewish. So is the House of Habsburg. So it wasn't really the Germans who took over the British throne...

Source of 'Originals Only'

The one of The Presbyterian Review, though a tedious read, is especially useful because it appears to be the source of the 'originals only' belief that only the original bible manuscripts were the true word of God.

The idea had been around a long time - probably dates back to Origen in the 3rd century - see comments below - but it seems that Princeton Theological Seminary gave it the impetus and respectability needed to take over the fundamental Protestant churches.

What is interesting is that the TPR article ties up with what Robert Militello was taught, by Jesuits, that only the originals are the infallible word of God and that no bible is inerrant. The SJ may have infiltrated Princeton in the latter part of the 19th century because previous to then, the president of the seminary, Charles Hodge, did believe that the 'Traditional Text' was the pure word of God, or at least inerrant.

See <http://www.pcusa.org/oga/publications/scripture-use.pdf>, p 26

And this quote, my emphasis. Clearly there was a progression, probably Jesuit inspired and tying in with the 1881 release of the RV of Westcott and Hort in England.

"After the Civil War, the Princeton theology of Turretin and Hodge went on the defensive. The son and successor of Charles Hodge, A. A. Hodge, shifted away from his father's insistence on the inerrancy of the traditional text in use to the inerrancy of the (lost) original autographs. A. A. Hodge with B. B. Warfield coauthored the definitive statement on the Princeton doctrine of Scripture, summarized in an 1881 article on "Inspiration":

See quote below.

Here are the sites.

The Translators Preface to the AV1611, <http://www.ccel.org/bible/kjv/preface/pref10.htm> It's in 10 parts.

The KJV Defended, by Dr Hills, http://wilderness-cry.net/bible_study/book...nded/index.html

The Presbyterian Review on Inspiration, 1881, by Hodge and Warfield, <http://scdc.library.ptsem.edu/mets/mets.as...126&div=1&img=1>

See p 237-8, my emphasis, "All the affirmations of Scripture of all kinds, whether of spiritual doctrine or duty, or of physical or historical fact, or of psychological or philosophical principle, are without any error, when the ipsissima verba [the precise words] of the original autographs are ascertained and interpreted in their natural and intended sense."

They also say all copies and therefore Bible translations are said to be "imperfect," because "the original reading may have been lost." That is, God can 'inspire' His word but He can't preserve it.

THIS is the article where all the trouble started, in 1881, the year the RV New Testament was published in England. This article was the source of all the 'originals-only' corruption that has spread throughout the Body of Christ in the last 120 years and no doubt helped greatly to bring in the Laodicean Age, Revelation 3.

The idea of 'originals-onlyism' has been around a long time, Bunyan encountered it in the 17th century and it probably goes back to the Alexandrian Gnostics like Origen but it was Hodge and Warfield who obviously gave it respectability via Princeton in the mainline Protestant churches. "This is wickedness" Zechariah 5:8 yet it look so 'scholarly.'

I guess the idea is to sound so 'learned' the average believer just gives up without a fight and decides, "They're educated, they must be right."

Note that the authors had a 'good cause,' - they were defending 'Inspiration' of scripture against liberals who denied it - just like Eve had 'good' reasons for yielding to Satan's deceit, Genesis 3.

Yours in the Lord Jesus Christ, 2 Chronicles 14:11

Eric,

The problem I have with all this J.F.K talk is that none of you ever speak about Permanent Industrial Exhibitions let alone that they actually did the assassinations. It is well known that most times agencies of the soil in which the event is to take place will simply use foreign assassins. So yes the planning may have been all CIA but unless you speak of Permindex then we could call you a coadjutor just the same as you/i do to others for doing the same thing.

What you reckon to that one? I think its fair and I certainly don't see why Permindex that British STINKING SIS group should go unseen. I know of only a couple of sources who will speak of Permindex and that Lenny Bloom and Dr John Coleman.

I speak of Permindex in VAIII. Knight of Malta Louis M. Bloomfield was one of the heads of that assassin cabal along with SMOM Spadafora in Rome. SMOM Clay Shaw was also on the board of Permindex.

Also while we're on the subject of Orders to the U.S President then can you explain why its the Royal Institute of International Affairs and not the CFR who give him/her the orders via J.P Morgan and Chase using its Chief executive officer which right now is Jamie Dimon. He gives the orders to the Secretary of State who then passes them onto the President which has gone on since 1919.

As you know, the RIIA was created in 1919; the CFR in 1921. Both are connected to the SMOMs ruling the Old City of London controlled by Rome. Remember, JP II called Cardinal O'Connor "the Archbishop of the Capital of the World." New York is the political capital of the world; London is the commercial capital of the world and Rome is the religious capital of the world.

We also know its the RIIA who actually choose the U.S President just as they did with all usually giving them fancy trips to London and hotels like the Rochester prior to them taking the position.

2tuff

No doubt that the CRF and the RIIA work together.

Louis Farrakhan - Vatican Link in my website i document how tim russert was trained by jesuits in high school and college and how he is a spokesman in politics for catholicism and is very close friends with jesuits and is a staunch catholic. well.....

Here is a video clip of Tim Russert giving FBI informer, "Nation of Islam" spokesman, the Jew-hating, White/Black race war advocate and hostile mulatto, Temporal Coadjutor Louis Farrakhan a platform to preach his Jew-hating propaganda. Video: <http://www.youtube.com/v/uZaSuUC1vnl>

Minister Louis Farrakhan is currently the leader of a reconstituted Nation of Islam, the original organization having been renamed and eventually dissolved by Warith Deen Muhammad. The Nation of Islam's National Center and headquarters is located in Chicago, Illinois and houses its flagship Mosque No. 2, Mosque Maryam in dedication to Mary, mother of Jesus.

Early life

Farrakhan was raised within the West Indian community in the Roxbury section of Boston, Massachusetts.

His mother had emigrated from Saint Kitts and Nevis in the 1920s; his father was a Jamaican cab driver from New York, but was not involved in his upbringing.

As a child, he received training as a violinist. At the age of six, he was given his first violin and by the age of 13, he had played with the Jesuit Boston College Orchestra and the Boston Civic Symphony. A year later, Walcott went on to win national competitions, as well as the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour. He was one of the first blacks to appear on the popular show. In Boston,

Farrakhan attended the prestigious Boston Latin School (click and notice the school symbol. it's Romulus, the founder of Rome!) and English High School, graduating from the latter[1]. He attended college for two years at Winston-Salem State University teachers college, but left to continue a career as an entertainer. In the 1950s, Farrakhan became an up-and-coming calypso singer. He recorded several calypso albums under the name "The Charmer." [1]

In 1955, while headlining a show in Chicago entitled "Calypso Follies," he first came in contact with the teachings of the Nation of Islam.

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 1, 2007 01:10 AM (GMT)

Dear Messenger,

The traitor Rick Santorum from my Sovereign State of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a Knight of Malta: his wife is a Dame of Malta. Therefore, Santorum's political master is New York Archbishop Edward Cardinal Egan, the Protector of the American Langue of SMOM.

The SMOM US Senator is merely trying to further Pope Benedict XVI's Crusade against Islam by making another false claim of WMD. Please make a note of this.

Sincerely in Faith,

my dear old friend claims that as a young boy, Rick was a fellow member of the same Catholic Church she attended and that his family and her family mingled often. This friend is one of the more open minded, reasonable, and knowledgable people I know; one of the few that I can sit down and have a good, long, substantive talk with. I guess we all have our blind spots. To this day, when it comes to talk about Rick, she still can only think & talk of him as a faithful, good, honest Catholic boy politician "trying to do right by his country".

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 1, 2007 02:11 AM (GMT)

This religion makes you good mentality makes me sick. The Pope is seen as the head of the Catholic Church but look at how many hes killed. Terms like "Soldiers of Christ" then forgetting THOU SHALL NOT KILL. Its all hypocrisy!

Alexandra - January 1, 2007 04:32 AM (GMT)

The thing is, when one becomes a Catholic, one's loyalty is to the Catholic church FIRST. So if it's a toss-up between Rome and that person's country, Rome wins out.

That's why the Puritans (my ancestors were Puritans too) outlawed Mass, Xmas, and the like. They knew that Catholics could infiltrate. Jesuits were coming over here in the early 17th century.

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 1, 2007 11:17 PM (GMT)

No theres many Catholics which believe in their country and these are whats seen by the RCC as liberals and once again expendable. The RCC only recognises someone within Rome/Italy whos subordinate to the Temporal Power.

Title: Question on Phelps' Vatican Assassins book

Description: and it's upcoming availability.

AntiSionist - December 20, 2006 10:57 AM (GMT)

I sent him an email asking him where and when his third edition will be available in hardcover or paperback or whatever. He did not answer as I imagine he is swamped. Does anyone have a clue? I once tried to get the book from a local store but it was no longer carried. It was out of print. I would like to add it to my shelf.

Edit: A Greg Szymanski article from July said that it should be out "next month." But was it really? Not everything gets published on time.

Secondly, will this third edition be smaller in dimension? According to this site, it's eight and a half by eleven. Just like looseleaf sheets. Books aren't normally like that. Two major sizes I've noticed are like slim political pamphlets, which are looseleaf sized sheets folded in half, or they are nine by six. Sometimes, you'll get a slightly bigger one such as a David Icke 9.3 by 6.5.

AntiSionist - December 25, 2006 03:59 AM (GMT)

I've done some looking around and in this topic, I found a Szymanski-Phelps interview from October 4 2006 where Phelps talks about the Vatican and the different types of Zionism that have been historically used. And he also talks about the third edition of Vatican Assassins.

42:29.

QUOTE

Greg: Tell us how we can get uh, I believe it's over 1500 pages of stolen history. Tell us how we can get that and when the new edition is coming out.

Eric: My target date is October 31st. I have just a couple more chapters to add some pictures and clarify a few things in. It will probably be about 1600 pages. It will be available through a series of distributors and people can just check my website www.vaticanassassins.org for the announcement when it's ready.

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 25, 2006 04:19 AM (GMT)

Its still being worked on my friend. You must realise that ERIC JON PHELPS is one of the most powerful researchers in the conspiracy ever, even Jordan Maxwell admires his work highly. When your this powerful in this arena you have to be extra careful to not make mistakes and also give the real truthseekers as much knowledge as possible. Only the other day Phelps realised that there was a picture of George H.W Bush in Dealey Plaza the day of Kennedy's shooting. I believe he will add this to his book. I knew it was around for a while. So hes trying hard to make this the most amazing book in the conspiracy world right now. His second edition was good but this one will blow you away and most certainly create problems. I just hope he gets it sorted soon as I believe all his mouthing off on Radio is soon going to give him problems. Hes already got them on his back using their bully boy the Internal Revenue. His book is over 1600 pages my friend so this will eclipse the size of any David Icke book as their around 550.

Thanks for the elaboration 2stuff. Much appreciated. I've been into Zionism and the Frankists and the Rothschilds for a couple years very hard and now I'm going back into my Icke books to get a taste of the power of European Royalty and then using that as a springboard to go into Tsarion, Maxwell and Phelps. And of course this board. Amazing. Very stimulating to the mind. And speaking of book publishing dates being pushed back because the author is taking care with their information and still happening upon new info (Bush at Dealey Plaza pic as an example), Michael Tsarion in 2005 told Rense that his book IRISH ORIGINS OF CIVILIZATION would be ready in 2006. But he was still working on his Atlantis book at that time. He said on his blog that hopefully in the first half of 2007, his IRISH ORIGINS book would be in print.

My only wish is that Phelps' book wasn't an eight and a half by eleven format. It may have trouble staying on my small bookshelf. It would certainly be much more awkward holding it when compared to the usual trade paperback, something I hope it would be instead. I could hold it much easier. Situating a nine by six or an Icke sized book but three times thicker would look excellent. :) Oh well. That matters little I guess. I am just eager to get my hands on his work. Tsarion's too.

According to wingtv, after the Piper-Phelps debate on May 16 about the JFK assassination, Victor Thorn claimed Eric said he was unaware of the Israeli connection and the situation with how JFK supposedly didn't want Israel to develop a significant nuclear program and how he may not have been aware of how Mayer Lansky may connect into the JFK murder. Victor said Eric would incorporate these into his third edition. Now, we know that Victor and Lisa had some sub par coverage of the Bollyn assault in August and we know that they blame zionists and jews primarily, although Bollyn thinks they're a psyop which is why they do this (that's a whole other topic). But what of what Victor and Mike Piper have said in that Eric learned a lot about Zionist connections to JFK's death? Is this so? Will he talk a little about what Piper does in his FINAL JUDGMENT? I went through the Piper archives to try and find the debate but IT WASN'T AVAILABLE. The only May 16 thing available was Piper talking about the debate he had earlier in the day. Why hasn't he made the debate available? Is he hiding something? Does he have something to fear?

Hi Lenny,

Well there seems to be a whole book written on the role of the Mossad during the Kennedy Assassination in 1963 :

"Michael Collins Piper's The Final Judgment"
http://www.serendipity.li/zionism/final_jgmt_reviews.htm

"The US mainstream media mentions many theories as to who killed John F. Kennedy on November 22nd, 1963: Cuban exiles, the family of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem, Fidel Castro, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, LBJ, the Mafia (getting close) and the CIA (right). But the US mainstream media never mentions one prime suspect: Israel. Could it be that those who control the US mainstream media do not want this explanation even mentioned?"

Michael Collins Piper's book, The Final Judgment, provides evidence in support of the theory that JFK was assassinated in a combined Mossad/CIA operation because he was an obstacle both to Israel's development of the atomic bomb and (since JFK was planning to withdraw from Vietnam) to the continuation of the CIA's heroin-smuggling operations in South-East Asia.

This book was first published in 1994. It was reissued as a paperback in 2000 but Amazon now lists it as "out of stock", and available only as a used book (priced at US$155 - over six times the original list price of US$25).

Below are given all eleven reviews of this book which appear on Amazon's website (as at 2003-11-22) and at the end is a message on this subject from Wade Frazier ..."

Inside this show Piper certainly wipes the floor with Michael Phelps book "Vatican Assassins" which documents that the Jesuits were behind the Kennedy Assassination.

A good introduction to "Final Judgment" was written by Michael Collins Piper himself inside feralnews.com. This website however seems to have gone underground? I could retrieve a copy though from "the JEWISH tribal review" website at [2] :

Mossad and the JFK Assassination,
Michael Collins Piper, Feral News

"So while people have focused on how many assassins were involved, and how many shots they fired at JFK and where the shots came from and where the bullets hit, the real question of who was ultimately responsible for the assassination-not who fired the bullets, but who sponsored the assassins who fired those bullets-has been ignored. Thus, to find out who is responsible for JFK's murder, we have to find out WHY he was murdered-what motivated those who orchestrated his assassination. Consider the wide-ranging array of suspects that have been put forth: Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone; The Soviet KGB; Fidel Castro; Anti-Castro Cubans; The "Mafia"; Rogue CIA operatives and anti-Castro Cubans in collaboration with elements of "the Mafia"; J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI; Lyndon Baines Johnson; Former Nazi intelligence officers; The Texas Oil Barons; and The Military-Industrial Complex.

Ten years ago, in 1992, a new suspect was added to the list. Former Rep. Paul Findley (R-Ill.) made the little-noticed but intriguing comment in the March 1992 issue of The Washington Report on Middle East Affairs that "it is interesting but not surprising to note that in all the words written about the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Israel's intelligence agency, the Mossad, has never been mentioned, despite the obvious fact Mossad complicity is as plausible as any of the other theories." What Findley did not know was at that very time I was in the process of preparing a volume contending that the Mossad role alongside the CIA in the JFK assassination, was, in fact, the big secret-the "missing link"-that explained the entirety of the JFK conspiracy. The Mossad role is what I have also called "the secret picture on the other side of the jigsaw puzzle" of the JFK assassination conspiracy.

My book summarizing this theory is entitled Final Judgment. What I find quite remarkable is that while many Israelis today believe that Israeli intelligence played a part in the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, many of Israel's friends in America have reacted quite hysterically to my contention that the Mossad played a role in the assassination of America's president. In addition, although there are many who believe that the CIA had a hand in the JFK assassination, quite a few of those same people are fearful of mentioning the likelihood of a Mossad role. Yet, as journalist Andrew Cockburn has pointed out: "There has been since almost the earliest days of the Israeli state and the earliest days of the CIA a secret bond, basically by which Israeli intelligence did jobs for the CIA and for the rest of American intelligence. You can't understand what's been going on with American covert operations and the Israeli covert operations until you understand this secret arrangement." Cockburn's words are a rough overview of the thesis that I have presented in Final Judgment.

Although Final Judgment has never been in any major bookstore since it was first published nearly a decade ago, some 30,000 copies are in circulation-more copies than more widely-publicized books on the topic. It is truly an "underground best-seller." It is now in its 760-page fifth edition, documented with 1,114 footnotes. And on November 9, Dar El Ilm Lilmalayin, the oldest and largest privately-owned publishing house in the Middle East released the first-ever Arabic-language edition.

In many respects, Final Judgment is more than a book about the JFK assassination. It also reveals the hidden global power politics of the last half of the 20th century. Final Judgment documents that in 1963 JFK was embroiled in a bitter secret conflict with Israeli leader David Ben-Gurion over Israel's drive to build the atomic bomb; that Ben-Gurion resigned in disgust, saying that because of JFK's policies, Israel's "existence [was] in danger." Then upon JFK's assassination, U.S. policy toward Israel began an immediate 180-degree turnaround. Israeli historian Avner Cohen's new book, Israel and the Bomb, confirms the conflict between JFK and Israel so powerfully that, Israel's Ha'aretz, declared Cohen's revelations would "necessitate the rewriting of Israel's entire history." In any case, Cohen pointed out, "the transition from Kennedy to [Lyndon] Johnson . . . benefited the Israeli nuclear program." Ethan Bronner, in the New York Times, called Israel's drive to build a nuclear bomb "a fiercely hidden subject." This explains why JFK researchers never considered an Israeli connection until Final Judgment supplied the missing pieces, assembling "the secret picture on the other side of the jigsaw puzzle." While all of this presents a strong motive for Israel to strike against JFK, Final Judgment also documents what Israeli journalist Barry Chamish says is "a pretty cogent case" for Mossad collaboration with the CIA in the assassination conspiracy.

The fact is that when New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison prosecuted trade executive Clay Shaw with conspiracy in the assassination, Garrison had stumbled upon the Mossad link. Although (after his acquittal) Shaw was revealed to have been a CIA asset, in 1963 Shaw served on the board of a Rome-based company, Permindex, which was actually a front for a Mossad-sponsored arms procurement operation. A primary shareholder in Permindex, the Banque De Credit Internationale of Geneva, was not only the fiefdom of Tibor Rosenbaum, a high-level Mossad official, but also the chief money laundry for Meyer Lansky, "chairman" of the crime syndicate and long-time Israeli loyalist. Chief executive of Permindex was Louis Bloomfield of Montreal, a top figure in the Israeli lobby and an operative of the Bronfman family, intimate Lansky associates and leading patrons of Israel. Permindex was clearly the Israeli link to the JFK assassination, so much so that Jim Garrison himself later circulated the manuscript for a never-published novel in which he fingered the Mossad as prime mover behind the conspiracy although Garrison never otherwise mentioned a Mossad connection publicly.

You may ask why Hollywood's so-called "radical film-maker" Oliver Stone, whose film JFK was a virtual tribute to Garrison never mentioned any of this. I would contend that Stone failed to mention these details in JFK because the film was financed by Arnon Milchan, an Israeli arms dealer linked to smuggling of materiel to Israel's nuclear program-the very point of contention between JFK and Israel. Milchan's role in the production of JFK is no secret, by the way. He is listed in the credits as "executive producer," which, in Hollywood parlance, means that he was the "money man," so to speak, behind the film."

Its still being worked on my friend. You must realise that ERIC JON PHELPS is one of the most powerful researchers in the conspiracy ever, even Jordan Maxwell admires his work highly. When your this powerful in this arena you have to be extra careful to not make mistakes and also give the real truthseekers as much knowledge as possible.

Well said, I also have Pipers Final Judgment, very good read. wow I will be searching for Jordan Maxwell works asap. and this Eric Jon Phelps also. I scored my Final Judgement 10 years ago, have read it several times. I was wondering if it was still around. wow 1600 pages, can't wait to see that, I am in the process of waking a friend, who thought for years I was a nut, now he is burning thru my library with eyes wide open, we have us a new born, LOL. I personally get annoyed keep hearing everyone blame the CIA for Kennedy's death when infact it was:

BRITISH SIS

With their Death Squad called:

PERMINDEX CORP

Which is a subsidiary of Halliburton linked to the Royal Bank of Scotland.

Now as for Piper hes a Temporal Coadjutor plain, simple and period. He's also an arrogant and very ignorant abusive person with no manners. John F Kennedy was causing more problems than just stopping nukes in Israel. Once again when you know the truth behind the Jews its once again Vatican based. All Middle Eastern Jews are controlled by the Sovereign Military of Malta who control the region with a most loyal Papal Knight called King Juan Carlos of Spain "The Protector of the Holy Sites of Jerusalem". The SMOM control MOSSAD as they do British SIS and the CIA. British SIS control Mossad on the intelligence level as they do with the CIA also etc. All the intelligence agencies are all one and their main role is simply to keep the economy afloat through Drugs, Arms smuggling and so forth. Who make up the hierachy of the SMOM? The Black "Venetian" Nobility families. As explained by Dr John Coleman these people dwarf the likes of the Rothschilds in Wealth and Power. It is correct that Mayer Lansky of the MOSSAD was involved in the assassination of J.F.K.

J.F.K annoyed them with:

- Destruction attempts against the Federal Reserve with his U.S Dollars
- Destruction attempts against the Vietnamese war
- Destruction successful of World Commerce Corp (SMOM/Intel)
- Destruction attempts against the Central Intelligence Agency

And others I cannot remember right now. I think the above are more important than the Israeli Nuke situation. The Federal Reserve is controlled by the Sovereign Military of Malta using their loyal Masonic Jews the Rothschilds. The Rothschilds are way, way over hyped in order to keep the blame on the damn jews and its getting very boring. Remember the importance of the Federal Reserve in funding the 14th Amendment "Holy Roman" American Empire's wars present, past and future. You guys in Zionist land need to realise that its actually Saturnalian at the end of the day anyhow. You should focus on ITALY and its families of the ultimate power in the world. You should also take note of an ex-intel officer of British SIS called Dr John Coleman. The people I would focus on are Eric Jon Phelps, Leo Zagami, John Coleman. SMOM control all the world's banking for the Jesuit Order using International Maritime Admiralty Law based on VATICAN CANON LAW. Its been this way since the destruction of the real Templars for the Vatican control and then Jesuit control of the Papacy since 1814.

Olmert with his master the "Temporal Power" Pope

Vatican Assassin/Spy trained by Jesuits, Shimon Peres at the Black Nobility's ASPEN INSTITUTE in Colorado.

Shimon Peres meets his Temporal master the POPE

Another loyal Masonic Jew Kissinger with his master the Pope

Olmert and the Middle East are subordinate to this man SMOM King Juan Carlos

The most powerful person within the Americas known as Cardinal Edward Michael Egan

Even the Queen with her Black "VENETIAN" Nobility 'Guelph' roots is subordinate

John Coleman wrote that the elite are trying to rebuild Rome. I was thinking about getting his book and now I'm glad I haven't since I just found out about this fourth edition of his book.

Dr. John Coleman is a former intelligence agent of British MI6. He rips the lid off the conspiratorial group which knows NO national boundaries, is ABOVE the law of ALL countries and controls every aspect of politics, commerce, religion, industry, banking, insurance, mining, and even the drug trade. Learn how this small elite group who are answerable to NO ONE, except its members, have pulled the strings on ALL major world events and why, until now, few people have even been aware of its existence, let alone power, in manipulating the affairs of the entire WORLD. All of these members are revealed, including all of the corporations, government agencies and various movements which "they" have developed and control to further their own aims for WORLD DOMINATION.

Can you imagine an all powerful group that knows no national boundaries, that has set itself above the laws of all countries, one that controls every aspect of politics, religion, commerce and industry, banking, insurance, mining, the drug trade, the petroleum industry, a group answerable to no one but its members?

To the vast majority of us, such a group would appear to be beyond the realms of possibilities and capabilities of any given organization. If that is what you believe, then you are in the majority. The concept of a secret, elite group exercising control of every aspect of our lives is beyond our comprehension. Americans are prone to say, "it can't happen here, our Constitution forbids it."

That there is such a body called The Committee of 300, is graphically told in this book. When most people attempt to address our problems, they speak or write about "THEY." This book tells precisely who they are, and what they have planned for our future. It tells how they have been at war with the American nation for over 50 years, a war that we, the people, are losing. It tells what methods they use and exactly how they have us all brainwashed.

If you are puzzled and perplexed as to why things are occurring that we as a nation don't like yet seem powerless to prevent, why it is that the United States always seems to back the wrong horse, why our former social and moral values have been turned aside and seemingly buried; if you are confused by the many conspiracy theories, then The Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Committee of 300 will clearly establish that these conditions have been deliberately created to bring us to our knees.

Once you have read the applying truths contained in this book, understanding past and present political, economic, social and religious events will no longer be a problem. This powerful account of the forces ranged against the United States, and indeed the entire free world, cannot be ignored.

OH GREAT, here I go ordering more books all of them. I do have a committee of 300, gosh I bet its 16-18 years old, I can't resist books, there must be 850-1100 books in my little shack here, Im a book JUNKIE. <_<

JagDRS - December 26, 2006 06:27 AM (GMT)

I snagged an on-line copy of Conspirators Hierarchy: SOC300 a little over 3 years ago. At that time, I was still somewhat on the PJ fence, not fully asleep, but not very awake either. Reading that copy changed all of that, in a big way. I was then prompted to dust off an original copy of DOPE, Inc (LaRouche) that I'd purchased (but never fully read) many years prior. For whatever reason, I have a hard time reading LaRouche.....kinda like I do with Henaghen.....even when they put it in black & white, they just plain connect too many dots (names, places, faces), one after the next after the next. Anyway, within the following few months of reading Coleman SOC300, I subsequently stumbled onto E-Y and many topics then foreign to me, includign Orgone, and the Adventures of Don & Carol, and eventually stumbled other places, including Cloud-busters, and then Fritz

Springmeier, and then....and then....and then.....it's been a busy, eye-opening 3 years for me : ph43r: Just recently I ordered 2 copies of Coleman's revised work - Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, and that process put me to mind of ordering an official copy of CH:SOC300..... thanks for reminding me to followup on that.

Something I've been wondering about when it comes to people like Coleman; in a way, they are an example of people having (allegedly) come out of the closet, so to speak. (the intel/spook closet, that is). I only qualify it this way just to put on the table that - how do I ever really KNOW what these cloak & dagger, good spooks versus bad spooks claim? Taking them for their word, though, like Coleman, for instance, makes me wonder if there are others like him who are of the same - good guys, that is, good guys who have not come out of the intel closet, but instead are carrying on their part of the battle on behalf of all us good guys & gals (the light) by remaining on the inside? As much as I detest quoting bad guys, I often find myself repeating Rummy: there are things we know, there are things that we know we dont' know, and there are things that we don't know that we don't know :blink: and then, of course, there are no doubt things we only THINK we know but we really don't know.

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 26, 2006 06:40 AM (GMT)

Yes its always a pain when a new edition comes out better than the others and you've purchased a book. Coleman has some REAL information to give unlike all these pathetic agents like Alex Jone's whos recently been outed by the great truthsayer Barry Chamish from Israel.

I wish you well but giving out your phone number and credit card number and not taking money orders seems odd to me. I've never done that before. I guess it probably doesn't matter since they already have your place of residence on the envelope. But I still can't help but feel funny about it. What do they have against money orders anyway?

I see this guy is ex-British intel and he's still walking around and getting people's personal info. He should just see if he can get mainstream chains to sell his books. Hell even McNally Robinson, Chapters and Barnes and Noble carry old editions of his CO300. Heck, I've even seen CT Wilcox's Transformation of the Republic available from at least one of these chains.

I got news for you Alexandria, the first time you visited these web sites you got identified and numbered and stuck on there cute little list. it don't matter. I bet the first time you challenged one of your teachers you made the list. I been on there list since about 12, Im sure Im marked for termination at a future date, after 12 years fighting these buggers on the local level, these guys around here don't even write me a traffic ticket, they know we are gonna fight it out in court if they do. the last time they ticketed me the court room was the judge and me and 20 cops, and they took there ticket back. and I released the lien I had placed on that black robed basterds bond agent, and I went steal head fishin. they just kinda look at me funny now. course I find it amusing some of my cop friends are figuring this mess out and asking a lot of questions, and there kinda pissed.

JagDRS - December 26, 2006 07:25 PM (GMT)

FYI, I purchased Coleman's newly revised book on Tavistock through Ken Adachi. For those not familiar, Ken only accepts Money Order for payment, one reason I like buying stuff through him. In this case, Ken took the payment, but the books were mailed to me from a Nevada address (where Coleman'WIR is located).

Now, what's interesting is that this book is pretty small - about 6 inches wide, 10 inches tall, and a bit less than an inch thick. I got two, but still, the shipping package was still able to fit both inside one of those large, shiny & slim, flexible cardboard envelopes. The delivery came via U.S. mail. Upon opening this package, I immediately saw it had been repackaged by somebody between Nevada and me. The cardboard envelope that had WIR's return address on it had been broken and slightly torn, then taped/patched, and then stuck inside a big plastic bag that bore a USPS form letter affixed to the outside of it. This bag was itself put inside a larger paper-style envelope with my delivery address handwritten onto it, no return address. UPon opening this USPS envelope, I then found the plastic bag containing the broken WIR envelope containing the books, each individually wrapped in it's own paper envelope. The top of the form letter on the plastic bag began, in very large font "WE CARE", then went on to say "dear customer, we regret that your package was damaged while being handled by the USPS. We at USPS try very hard to blah blah blah blah because we know your mail is important to you. Blah blah blah we hope you accept our apology, sincerely, your postmaster".

This of course immediately put me to wonder "piss on the USPS and their lame form letter, I wonder what 'damage' they fabricated so as to feel warranted to have an excuse to open the package and inspect inspect whatever it was they saw being shipped from Coleman to me".....wonder which particular list this has put me on? I suspect I'm on many such lists B) :ph43r:

TruthSeeker24 - December 29, 2006 03:46 PM (GMT)

I brought Michael Collins Piper's book years ago. It was mostly accurate and took the time to source its material. I say 80-90% of it is accurate. One of its major errors is that it omits the Vatican/Jesuit connection to JFK's assassination. As people know, JFK was decreasing funding of the Vietnam War (which was loved by Cardinal Spellman and his Catholic agent Diem), he was pro-gun, and opposed Papal influence in determining Consitutional law. Knight of Malta DeLoach was in the FBI and covered up evidence (according to Garrison). His limosime was tampered with by a man who worked for Knight of Malta. Lee Iacocca (then Director of the Dearborn Division of Ford Motor Company). Other than that, the book was very accurate and I recommend it for those who want to find the full Mossad connection to JFK's death. The Mossad was involved (since JFK was a moderate in Middle East affairs, supported Arabic nationalism, and opposed Israel developing nuclear weapons. The Labor Zionist government of Israel didn't like that. One kingpin involved was British Knight of Malta Bloomfield) and it's interesting to note that Papal Knight Reinhard Gehlen was involved in the Mossad's creation. Eric Jon Phelps said that he will add much of that info into his new VAIII book. Freemasonry had its role obviously in the location, symbolism, and coverup of his death.

Back when the clintons were in office, the world was constantly graced (or under fire, depending on how you look at things) with a never-ending nuggets of socialist's tripe....er, um, wisdom, like "it takes a village to raise a child".

All these years later, people have alligned with "the CIA did it".....or... "the Mob did it".....or... "Oswald did it".... etc. Meanwhile, hilary-in-the-closet-bitch-bag-lady-clitt-ton's nugget keeps coming back to me, which is the same I got out of Jim Garrison, may he rest in peace; they ALL did it. It took a village, a global village, to plan, perpetrate and subsequently cover up and otherwise obfuscate who all the players involved were in the doing of JFK..... JFK had fired the goblin-stooge allen dulles prior, fired from the very same corrupt cia that JFK had been rumored to be scattering to the wind..... and the same then ends up on the warren commision.....heLLLLLOo?

FWIW, I gave Piper a try several months back....for a few days....during which, co-incidentally, he'd done an audio interview with Eustace Mullins. I can't put my finger on it exactly other than to say that he turned me off in pretty short order... "he didn't stick"....he didn't take with me, I got a bad vibe from him. Yes, he may be putting some valid info out there, as are many otherwise mis-guided & mis-directing people. This is just my opinion. Piper may actually be the best thing since sliced bread, but for whatever reason, I do not take him with my daily bread.

QUOTE

"Why would the Jesuits use their implacable enemy, the Jews, to further their designs for world dominion? The Jesuits never do anything out in the open where they can be exposed. If they are recognized as the culprits, they will be blamed and suffer the consequences, but if they can use someone else as the 'cause of the world's problems', especially an enemy they can destroy in the process, then they have simultaneously accomplished two of their objectives. The Jewish people are the perfect scapegoat. Since the Rothschilds are Jesuit agents operating under a Jewish cover, using them [i.e., the Rothschilds] in forming the Illuminati back in 1776 effectively throws the onus of this conspiracy on the Jews. The Rothschilds are certainly not the only Jesuit agents that operate under a Jewish front. ... Weishaupt and the Rothschilds were the brains and the wealth behind the French Revolution [1789-1799]."

Bill Hughes (The Enemy Unmasked; Pages 29, 30)

The Secret Terrorists is a great book by Bill Hughes which will give you an insight into the Jesuits, with 2tuffs info on SMOM and the Italien banking dynasties i can see how the Jesuits could completely and utterly rule the world, remember that this group re-wrote the history books so when talking about how long this group has been around we must be careful, Eric Phelps work is incredibly accurate however and shows the apparatus and methods of the Jesuits...

"I know first hand that the Vatican controls and monitors everything in Israel with the intention of destroying the Jews," said Bishop Bouffard, adding the true purpose of the Jesuit Order is to orchestrate and control all leaders of the world in order to bring about a major worldwide conflict which will eventually destroy America, the Middle East and Israel. "They destroy everything from within and want to bring about the destruction of the Catholic Church, as well, in order to usher in a one world religion based on Satanism. This is also seen in the way priests worship in the Mass, actually worshipping the dead. Also, signs of Satanism are seen in many outward symbols, customs and vestments displayed by the Church."

There's a book out written by a Jewish University Professor, who wrote under a pen name, a book called "the Dukes of Edom" where he historically proves the edomite-jews ARE the papacy.

It all depends what you call a jew or not. He does realize a lot of Edomites are jews, but he thinks only 50-50. He thinks a great majority of Esau Edom is the Papal Elite. Which would also fulfill a lot of bible prophecy supposedly.

Another good article somewhat demonstrating this fact of Esau-Jewry & the Merovingian Bloodlines is at: The Merovingian Infiltration of the Christian World Through Monasticism
<http://www.angelfire.com/journal2/post/infiltration.html>

EXCERPT:

".....Benjamites comprise the greater part of the Merovingian bloodline, a mixture of the Meroites of Ancient Egypt (Meroe of ancient Ethiopia or Abyssinia, some of whom were Benjamites); the Philistine giants with whom they married; the two son's of Joseph who followed Benjamites into exile following God's defeat of the Benjamites in the Book of Judges; Amalekites, with whom God said He would war through the ages (Ex:17:16); and many of the descendants of bitter rejected first-borns who had become enemies of God, in particular the Edomites of the House of Esau and Ishmael who became one through Esau's marriage to Mahalath, the daughter of Ishmael. These comprised the better part of the Red Movement throughout history, which is known to us today as the Brotherhood. Its sole purpose was and is to infiltrate and bring about the collapse of God's two Covenants with mankind. Among themselves they are proud BEES, HORNETS, MICE, NINE WAY REDS, BITTER GOATS IN SHEEPSKIN, THE GREAT UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD. And they would become "all of the above" through the "passing of the cloak"."

[.....]

[END OF EXCERPT]

Now lets get on some definitions of jew as being modern Esau-Edom. I've found nearly 100% of modern jews are Edomites and that would in fact fulfill bible prophecy. Here are just a few Encyclopedia quotes:

World Book Encyclopedia (1979) section on EDOM states:

"Edomites fled to Southern Judah during the Persian invasions of the 500's and 400's BC. They helped establish a territory known as Idumea. The Hasmonean dynasty conquered the Idumeans in the 100's B.C., and converted them to JUDAISM."

Jewish Encyclopedia, 1925 edition, Vol. 5, p. 41, states:

"There is Edom and Edom is in 'Modern Jewry'"

The New Standard Jewish Encyclopedia (1977), p. 589, states:

"John Hyrcanus conquered the whole of Edom and undertook the forced conversion of its inhabitants to Judaism (Joseph., Ant. XIII, 9, 1). Thenceforth the Edomites became a section of the Jewish people." (Encyclopedia Judaica, Vol. 6, (1971), p. 378;

The Jewish Encyclopedia, Vol. IV, (1905), p. 3, states:

"331). I ibn Shaprut, who was foreign minister to Abd-al-Rahman, Sultan of Cordova, in his letter to King Joseph of the Chazars (about 960 A.D.)...speaks of the tradition according to which the Chazars once dwelt near the Seir Mountains [The 'Seir Mountains' are none other than the original land of Esau-Edom - 'Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seir: Esau is Edom.' {Genesis 36:8}. Seir was a mountain range sought of the Dead Sea and was also known as the 'land of Edom' {Genesis 36:21}. The Seir mountains were the home of the Edomites for nearly a millennium {The Edomites arrived in Edom or Seir at the end of the 14th and beginning of the 13th century B.C. Encyclopedia Judaica, Vol. 6, p. 372} Thus we have it from Jewish sources that the Khazars originally 'dwell near the Seir Mountains' so are racially of Edomite stock. But how and when did Edomites get to Khazaria? There is evidence that in the 6th century B.C., some of the Edomites fled their homeland of Seir and migrated north, 'After the fall of Jerusalem, in 586 B.C., the Edomites began to press northward {Ezekiel 36:5} {The New Westminster Dictionary of the Bible, ed. by Henry S. Gehman, The Westminster Press, Philadelphia, 1970, p. 418}."

The Jewish Encyclopedia, Vol. V. (1904), p. 41, states:

"Thus, at this juncture of time the Edomites 'were incorporated with the Jewish nation, and their country was called by the Greeks and Romans 'Idumea' (Mark 3:8; Ptolemy, 'Geography,' v. 16)."

"Immediately before the siege of Jerusalem 20,000 Idumeans appeared before Jerusalem to fight in behalf of the Zealots who were besieged in the Temple."

This isn't leaving out the papal elite, it shows us who and what they are.

<http://watch.pair.com/priory.html>

EXCERPT:

In 1099, the Merovingian Jews in collusion with Pope Urban II, also a Merovingian, launched the First Crusade. An article titled The Merovingian Infiltration of the Christian World Through Monasticism <http://watch.pair.com/infiltration.html> confirms what we have long suspected, that Urban was not the first Merovingian pope, but the 6th in a succession of French Merovingian popes beginning in 999 A.D.

“1088: Urban II, French Prior of Cluny (Reformed Benedictines) becomes the pope. Urban was of the 'Eudes' family, not only the name of the King of the Franks, Eudes, who ruled 888 to 898 and considered one of the antecedent kings of the Capetian House of France, but also the name of the Royal Capetian line of Burgundy, great grandson of Hugh Capet, Eudes I the RED of Burgundy who acceded 1079, NINE years before Urban (Eudes) became pope. And Eudes the Red acceded in that specific year because his brother, Hugh I of Burgundy, had abdicated to become the Prior of Cluny! Now something is very amiss here ! Is this just coincidence? Both were sons of Henry of Burgundy who married Sibylle of Barcelona. Henry was son of Robert I of Burgundy, who was the son of Hugh Capet. Barcelona, home of their mother, was part of the Spanish March connected to Septimania and, here too, the Duke of Aquitaine in 1012 was Eudes of Aquitaine ! And Aquitaine and Septimania are extremely significant :

“It happens that Septimania (Languedoc) is exactly where the Jesus-Magdalene heresy flourished, and where there was a large population of Cathar Jews who were given independent status by Pepin, Carolingian King. Thence their own kings ruled as: 'seed of the Royal House of David', each acknowledged as 'King of the Jews', most famous of whom was Guillem de Gellone, the Prince of Orange. Confusing this issue, these kings also claimed to be of Merovingian descent ; but not confusing when one realizes that Jesus was of the House of David and Mary Magdalene was from the town Magdala, 4 miles from Tiberius, founded by Herod Antipas, who was an Edomite descendant of Esau with whom Benjamins married. Additionally, Absalom, David's son, who pulled a coup d'etat on his own father in an attempt to take his throne, had a rebel following who would have joined the Benjamins cause. Absalom died when his long hair got caught in branches in the forest during the Coup. (2 Sam:18:9) And the Merovingians, first Dynasty of French kings, were the Long Haired Kings!!

“The details of the separate kingdom of Septimania were erased from history books; but the descendant bloodlines were apparently the 'heretical Royal Bloodlines' as : Dukes of Aquitaine, Dukes of Lorraine, Dukes of Guise; Counts of Barcelona, Counts of Toulouse, Counts of Auvergne; Counts of Razes. (HBHB, pp 368-371) And it was precisely a Duke of Aquitaine who founded Cluny! Thus, Septimania now becomes extremely important, for now Urban II, descendant of the Eudes of Septimania and Cluny Prior, is the pope who will call the first Crusades resulting in the crowning of a direct lineal descendant of Guillem de Gellone, named Godfroi de Bouillon, Duke of Lorraine, as King of Jerusalem! Aquitaine is so-named on maps of Second Century Roman Empire and comprised then, the whole area from Languedoc, South France, to Poitou and Anjou. Septimania was the area that was later known as the Languedoc.”

Edomite Jews aren't the Papacy and you know it Steve. In my opinion you have a hatred of Jewish people. The Sephradic, Ethopic, Indic, etc. Jewish tribes today have nothing to do with the Edomites, Merovingians, or Khazars at all and you know it. The Papacy is a revitization of the Gentile Mystery Religion from Babylon and Egypt. The vast majority of Popes have been Gentiles as well. Many of these Popes killed Jewish people. I've cited my sources before. Many Jews are self haters, so just because a Jewish person hates their heritage (and writes a source) doesn't mean it's accurate. No doubt, there are wicked Edomites that merged with the elite, but this isn't representative of all Jewish people or all Edomites. I do believe you have a right to believe in what you want and write (plus post) what you want on this issue. Excerpt from; "The Non-Jewish Roots of Zionism .pdf...

QUOTEReformation Leaders Saw the Jews as Possible Allies against Catholicism and Potential Converts to the New Religion of Protestantism

The conflict between Reformation and Counter-Reformation was the main ideological event in the geopolitics of Europe in the 16th and 17th centuries.

During the Reformation era, European Jews were often caught in the middle between Catholics and Protestants in Western Europe and between Catholics and Orthodox Christians in Eastern Europe (Klier 1986, 9; Lewis 1986, 59).

Before the Reformation called for the Bible to replace the Pope as the final spiritual authority, the idea of a "Jewish return" to Palestine and the concept of a "Jewish nation" had no place in traditional Catholic thought (Sharif 1983, 10). The Reformation invented those ideas and subsequently developed an End Time theology that included Jewish conversion to Christianity as a prelude to Christ's Second Coming.

It particularly stressed the Palestinian origins of Christianity in order to reduce the pretensions and claims of Roman Catholicism.

The Protestants put more emphasis on the Old Testament, the Biblical Israelites, and Jerusalem, as opposed to the New Testament, the Pope, and Rome (Epstein 1984; Tuchman 1984).

At the same time, the major European powers were competing for the use of the Jews and Judaism as a religious title and a figleaf for their schemes of colonizing the Holy Land of Palestine in the heart of the decaying Ottoman Empire and the emerging Arab world.

Political and theological interest in the Jews came first from the Reformation founder Martin Luther (1483–1546), a German monk and professor of theology at the University of Wittenberg, who was excommunicated by Pope Leo X (1520) and outlawed by the Emperor Charles V (1521) after he nailed a 95-thesis critique of the established church (especially when it came to the sale of indulgencies) to the door of Wittenberg Cathedral on October 21, 1517.

Luther saw the Jews as possible allies against Catholicism and potential converts to the new religion of Protestantism.

In the pamphlet, That Jesus Christ Was Born a Jew (1523) (Luther 1971a), Luther designates the Jews as the true blood heirs of the Biblical Israelites and the blood relatives of Jesus (even though many scholarly works have now established the non-Semitic, non-Israelite, and non-Palestinian origin of contemporary Jews; Wexler 1993; 1996; Bradley 1992; Shakir 1981).

Luther glorified the Jews in his pamphlet as if to instill a permanent religious inferiority complex and a psychic feeling of guilt among his Christian fellows, who until then had satanized the Jews and considered them to have rejected, persecuted, and killed Jesus.

Luther wrote:

I will cite from Scripture the reasons that move me to believe that Christ was a Jew born of a virgin, that I might perhaps also win some Jews to the Christian faith. ... I hope that if one deals in a kindly way with the Jews and instructs them carefully from Holy Scripture, many of them will become genuine Christians and turn again to the faith of their fathers, the prophets and patriarchs. ... When we are inclined to boast of our position we should remember that we are but Gentiles, while the Jews are of the lineage of Christ.

We are aliens and in-laws; they are blood relatives, cousins, and brothers of our Lord.

Therefore, if one is to boast of flesh and blood, the Jews are actually nearer to Christ than we are, as St. Paul says in Romans 9 [5]. God has also demonstrated this by his acts, for to no nation among the Gentiles has he granted so high an honor as he has to the Jews. For from among the Gentiles there have been raised up no patriarchs, no apostles, no prophets, indeed, very few genuine Christians either. ... Accordingly, I beg my dear papists, should they be growing weary of denouncing me as a heretic, to seize the opportunity of denouncing me as a Jew (Luther 1971a, 200–1).

In another Jewish-friendly act of defiance towards the Pope and the established Catholic Church, Luther removed from the Old Testament the books (the so-called Protestant Apocrypha) that were not accepted by the Jewish canon as part of the Hebrew Scriptures.

Since then the Protestant Bible has excluded these fourteen books and established them as Apocrypha, or Scriptures of dubious authenticity.

But Luther reversed his attitude towards the Jews, perhaps after the poisoning incident (involving a Polish Jewish physician) in 1525 and in connection with John Frederick's (Elector of Saxony) decision to banish the Jews in 1536 (Holmio 1949, 108, 157).

Luther then assaulted the Jews as “disgusting vermin” and their synagogues as “devil nests of insolence and lies” (Putnam 1908, 10–11).

In the pamphlet, On the Jews and Their Lies (1543) (Luther 1971b), Luther criticized the Jews for boasting about their blood and lineage, as if salvation were by race rather than grace.

"There is one thing about which they [the Jews] boast and pride themselves beyond measure, and that is their descent from the foremost people on earth, from Abraham, Sarah, Isaac, Rebekah, Jacob, and from the twelve patriarchs, and thus from the holy people of Israel. ... In comparison with them and in their eyes we Gentiles (Goyim) are not human; in fact we hardly deserve to be considered poor worms by them. For we are not of that high and noble blood, lineage, birth, and descent. This is their argument, and indeed I think it is the greatest and strongest reason for their pride and boasting. ... We must rejoin, first of all, that the question at issue is whether nobility of blood in itself is so valid before God that one could thereby be or become God's people (Luther 1971b, 140,146).

from The non Jewish Roots of Zionism

“If you do not contend with your whole heart against the impious government of the pope, you cannot be saved. Whoever takes delight in the religion and worship of [Satanic] Popery will be eternally lost in the world to come . . . So long as I live I will denounce to my brethren the sore and the plague of Babylon, for fear that many who are with us should fall back like the rest into the bottomless pit.” {65} [Emphasis added]

Although I wasn't bringing up the Khazar factor I guess it's you against the Millions of Jews who claim to be Khazarian. I wont even begin to make a list of more sources of books. There are way too many to spend all day listing all the Jewish authors.

khazaria.net quote:

"Khazaria was a 1st millenium Eurasian empire that chose Judaism as its state religion"

khazaria.com quote:

Medieval Kingdom of Khazaria, 652-1016

Over a thousand years ago, the far east of Europe was ruled by Jewish kings who presided over numerous tribes, including their own tribe: the Turkic Khazars. After their conversion, the Khazar people used Jewish personal names, spoke and wrote in Hebrew, were circumcised, had synagogues and rabbis, studied the Torah and Talmud, and observed Hanukkah, Pesach, and the Sabbath. The Khazars were an advanced civilization with one of the most tolerant societies of the medieval period. It hosted merchants from all over Asia and Europe. On these pages it is hoped that you may learn more about this fascinating culture.

But the New Standard Jewish Encyclopedia, page 179,[GCP pg 68] "ASHKENAZI, ASHKENAZIM...constituted before 1963 some nine•tenths of the Jewish people (about 15,000,000 out of 16,5000,000)[As of 1968 it is believed by some Jewish authorities to be closer to 100%]"

The Jewish Encyclopedia: "Khazars, a non-Semitic, Asiatic, Mongolian tribal nation who emigrated into Eastern Europe about the first century, who were converted as an entire nation to Judaism in the seventh century by the expanding Russian nation which absorbed the entire Khazar population, and who account for the presence in Eastern Europe of the great numbers of Yiddish-speaking Jews in Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Galatia, Besserabia and Rumania."

"It is highly probable that the bulk of the Jew's ancestors 'never' lived in Palestine 'at all,' which witnesses the power of historical assertion over fact." (H. G. Wells, The Outline of History).

Under the heading of "A brief History of the Terms for Jew" in the 1980 Jewish Almanac is the following: "Strictly speaking it is incorrect to call an Ancient Israelite a 'Jew' or to call a contemporary Jew an Israelite or a Hebrew."

Diocese sued for alleged abuse by priest

<http://www.delmarvanow.com/apps/pbcs.dll/a.../612290326/1002>

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) -- A former Marine and Vietnam veteran filed a lawsuit Thursday against the Roman Catholic Diocese of Wilmington and a church in the city, accusing them of doing nothing to stop a priest from sexually abusing him and other boys in the 1950s and 60s.

The diocese has acknowledged that the Rev. Edward B. Carley, who died in 1998 at age 82, abused a young male parishioner during his time as the assistant pastor at St. Ann's Catholic Church, from 1954 to 1962.

The diocese paid $65,000 to that parishioner, John F. Dougherty Jr., to reimburse him for counseling he said he needed as a result of the abuse. Dougherty said Carley raped him when he was 10 years old and was serving as an altar boy at St. Ann's, and that Carley abused him repeatedly for several years afterward.

Douglas J. McClure, the plaintiff in the lawsuit filed Thursday, was a classmate of Dougherty's. Carley molested McClure two to three times a week over a period of two years, when McClure was between 8 and 10 years old, said his attorney, Thomas Neuberger.

"I am just one of many victims, but I encourage others who have suffered in silence for so long also to come forward," McClure said in a statement. Neuberger did not allow McClure to speak to reporters, but McClure did say in response to a question at a news conference that the abuse has caused him to lose his religious faith.

Bob Krebs, a spokesman for the diocese, said he had not seen a copy of the lawsuit and had no comment.

According to the complaint, McClure, 60, psychologically suppressed all memories of the abuse until January 2005, when he read newspaper accounts of Dougherty's claims.

The claim of suppressed memories could prove crucial to McClure's case. Delaware has a two-year statute of limitations for civil claims, but a New Castle County judge ruled earlier this month that another man could pursue his claim against a priest because he filed the lawsuit within two years of the date he said memories of his abuse surfaced.

The lawsuit alleges that the diocese and St. Ann's were aware of the abuse but did nothing to stop it, instead transferring Carley to St. Peter's Cathedral and then to several parishes on Maryland's Eastern Shore, where he allegedly continued to molest children. Carley retired from active ministry in 1993.

According to the lawsuit, Carley was independently wealthy, and he frequently bought toys and sporting equipment for boys and took them on overnight trips away from their parents. He also allegedly molested boys while discussing spiritual matters, such as explaining the mystery of the Eucharist.

Carley was one of 20 suspected pedophile priests whose names were released in November by the diocese, which also dedicated this year's Advent season to victims of clergy sexual abuse and their families.

Under Delaware law, plaintiffs are not permitted to state the amount of monetary damages they are seeking, but Neuberger said "this is without a doubt a case whose value exceeds a million dollars."

"His case is a very substantial case," Neuberger said. "If you think of being victimized two to three times a week, 200 to 300 times (total), the jury is going to have to assess a value to each sexual assault."

Neuberger's firm is also representing two other men who claim they were abused by priests, including Eric Eden, whose case led to the ruling that allowed lawsuits based on suppressed memories to go forward if they were filed within two years of when the memories surfaced.

Leo Zagami - Illuminati Confessions
December 17, 2006

Leo Zagami was until recently a high level member of the Italian Illuminati, a 33rd degree freemason, a insider and a high-member of the infamous P2 Lodge. He is of Illuminati aristocrat bloodline and was groomed to take over after the older Illuminati "king" Licio Gelli. In this regular program with Leo we talk about Leo's background and how and why he "defected" from the different orders. We also get into some fascinating stuff about 2012 and we get Leo's take on what's coming up in the years ahead. We also get into the construct of Scandinavian Branches of Freemasonry. Don't miss this fascinating interview! If you want to hear more, tune into our subscriber interview with Leo.

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 19, 2006 11:34 PM (GMT)

We have to ask ourselves about this Leo character. Has he been brought before us in order to create lies about the Order as a typical agent? Wheres the proof he is what he says he is? I'm just a little suspect that since we've finally got people looking towards the Jesuit Order that the Order will try to plant an agent or two around to eventually destroy us somehow.

Avatar - December 19, 2006 11:55 PM (GMT)

I agree 2tuff. I've been wary of this character from the off.

Are we suddenly to believe that now all this P2, SMOM, Jesuit info is now well and truly out there - and remember it wasn't a year ago - then up pops this character mentioning all these orders and various names. I think he speaks a lot of truth but I wouldn't be surprised if he has permission to be out there and is weaving in some serious mis-directions into his info.

Interesting listening but I don't buy it.

smashstuff - December 20, 2006 01:15 AM (GMT)

We'll have to wait and see I guess. I'm of two minds about him at the moment. From the pictures on his website, it seems he's definitely masonic, but why leave after all these years? Is he an agent? I'm sure the truth will come forward.

Keith - December 20, 2006 06:20 PM (GMT)

Because of Leo, more attention is brought to the SMOM and many of the top players of the brotherhood of the snake. That is a good thing. But, c'mon guys, his frickin' name is Leo "lying" Zagami!

Aurora025 - December 20, 2006 07:46 PM (GMT)

In the second hour of the interview he stated that Robert Anton Wilson is a member of the Illuminati.

I asked him about Maxwell and Tsarion, but he did not answer that question.

Keith - December 20, 2006 10:32 PM (GMT)

I've listened to most of Leo's interviews with Greg. I have not checked his website out too much at all. If Leo is so high up in the Illuminati (I thought he was of the highest--33, then why have no secrets been unleashed?. Ok, he is exposing certain individuals for who they are. It is a necessary step, especially for evidence needed in a court of law. However, we are talking about a guy who supposedly comes from the top! and kissed ass to the guys at the tip-top! Why does he not have any fantastic secrets/knowledge to tell people? In one of the interviews, Szymanski stated something like "yeah, Leo, can you imagine if the secrets and books that the Vatican are hoarding were used for good?" Greg and Leo both laughed and agreed on this point. I laughed too. Surely, if Leo was such a wiseguy, he would know and be able to share some secrets/knowledge that is being kept from us. What do you unhived-minders think? most of these questions were meant to be answered and to be taken rhetorically. There is an agenda here, one that should be revealed soon.

Aurora, you asked leo personally on the radio show?

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 20, 2006 11:45 PM (GMT)

You'll get more from Jordan Maxwell than Zagami. Jordan gives you knowledge you can utilise. Maxwell did an interview about 3-4 weeks ago in Holland apparently claiming to john kuhles that the FBI had visited him warning him to be quite on the Vatican information?!?! So people try to find this interview and post it if a link comes.

I would suspect it was linked to FBI Division #5 and who do these work for?

And no, I did not ask him personally, I asked him in a forum 3 times.

In the first hour of the red ice interview he talked about Jordan Maxwell, but I could not understand what Leo meant exactly. Either he said he was part of it or he had some contact with an illuminatus. I should listen to that again.

I think that a man like him who is addicted to knowledge did consider or even managed getting into Masonry in order to obtain even more knowledge. I am quite sure of that.

Keith - December 21, 2006 02:21 AM (GMT)

In the matrix of control by jordan, he says something like: "there's a method to tthe chaos. Things are like they are because the powers that be want it that way. If they didn't want things a certain way, believe me, they wouldn't be there. Just like if you don't pay your taxes... they will find you...in the jungle...make an expample of you...through fear..."

So, Jordan is telling us if TPTB didn't want him here, he woldn't be here. they'd kill him and say it was heart attack or something. I mean, he is obese. Now that I think about it, Knowledge is power. How can he have so much knowledge and be so physically unlean and sloppy? I've seen him in about 7 differnet interviews, lectures, etc, and the man does not look healthy.

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 21, 2006 02:23 AM (GMT)

Maybe Zagami just doesn't want us learning its deeper than Sionism and simply SATURNALIAN. Maybe Zagami hates hearing his religion and 99% of the Earth's religions are Astro-Theology and Sex also how his religion of Muslim is VENUS based! Don't you find it strange how hes turned to Muslim when Islam was created by the Papacy?

smashstuff - December 21, 2006 02:34 AM (GMT)

Isn't it funny how all these ex-illuminati types always have to join another religion, like Alberto Rivera. I think it's part of the mind control, they feel the need to be a part of another club.

Keith - December 21, 2006 02:41 AM (GMT)

Yeah that is very funny. If he admitted, then even less people would listen to him. It would offend to many people. he wants to see interreligious dialouge. Not around christmas time, man, relax, haha. So, 2Tuff, why do you think that maxwell is so "out of shape" and unhealthy?

CRAIG-OXLEY - December 21, 2006 02:59 AM (GMT)

Religious folk fear the fact that theres nothing out there!

Maxwell probably enjoys all the wrong foods like most Americans.

Keith - December 21, 2006 03:28 AM (GMT)

well, I hope that he enjoys the 15 pounds of undigetsted sludge in his intestines. It is definitely slowing his thinking. No doubt, he's brought forward information that moves us forward in our thinking, but all I am saying is that it would increase is intellect or whatever you want to call it even more. Hands down.

I will say that I was very impressed with the November 29th Radio show with Eric Phelps and Leo Zagami hosted by Greg. I'm changing my tune on this Leo guy and wasn't it great how Eric was spot on.

Keith - December 24, 2006 01:47 AM (GMT)

Good I missed these interviews for some reason.

Vatican Insider Who Denounces Evil In Jesuit Order Contracts Bone Cancer

Former Archbishop of Guatemala who is warning Americans of Vatican evil is recovering from cancer and will make his second U.S. radio appearance in January.

28 Dec 2006

By Greg Szymanski

<http://www.arcticbeacon.com/28-Dec-2006.html>

A former Catholic Archbishop of Guatemala and Vatican insider, who pinned the Jesuit Order with infiltrating and undermining the American people and its government, has contracted bone cancer in his home in Vancouver, Canada.

Now a born again Christian, Archbishop Gerard Bouffard, a true lover of freedom, is undergoing treatment for a serious form of cancer which has kept him from speaking out publicly about Vatican deceit and deception.

Bouffard rose to a high position in the Catholic Church and worked in the Vatican, where he first learned how the hierarchy of the Church really operated with the Jesuit General calling the shots and the Pope taking orders.

"When I found out the real evil of the high leaders of the Church, I had to leave," said Bouffard during a recent interview on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal.

Bouffard said the Jesuit hierarchy are the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order who are relying on deception and deceit to further their goal of a one world takeover with a Satanic religion and fascist government as their ultimate goal.

He added that Catholic Church leaders use Freemasonry as a cover for their duplicitous operations with many high-ranking priests becoming high Masonic members, a strict violation of Canon Law.

"I know because I became a 37th degree Mason," said Bouffard. "But now I have denounced this evil and want the world to know the truth about the Jesuits, the Catholic hierarchy and their real evil Satanic intentions. Once I feel better in January I will try to make another radio appearance as it is important that the truth be known."

For hundreds of years, the Jesuits and the Vatican have hidden behind the duplicitous cloak of God while they have attempted to destroy free-thinking and God-fearing people.

Although Americans have been misled by their leaders and even by many members of the alternative press, including some of the top radio hosts, who are cashing in on Vatican money, the truth is slowly coming to the surface with the help of people like Archbishop Bouffard.

Although it's difficult to trap the real propagandists hiding behind the cloak of truth radio and the press, usually they can be detected by keeping the Vatican story and their main critics off the air waves and out of the print headlines.

"We know who they are they are really more dangerous than the mass media propagandists because these guys profess to be telling the truth," said one alternative media reader who is tired of only getting half the story. "Archbishop Bouffard and all the other people who know the truth about the Vatican should be commended and the other cowards should be revealed for what they really are-propagandists and cowards."

In a recent interview with the Arctic Beacon Bouffard added:

"Yes, the man known as the Black Pope controls all major decisions made by the Pope and he in turn controls the Illuminati.

"I know this to be true since I worked for years in the Vatican and traveled with Pope John Paul II. The Pope takes his marching orders from the Black Pope as the Jesuits also are the leaders of the New World Order, with the task of infiltrating other religions and governments of the world in order to bring about a one world fascist government and a one world religion based on Satanism and Lucifer.

"People can't imagine how evil and how much destruction they have caused and will cause while, at the same time using the perfect cover of hiding behind black robes and professing to be men of God."

Bishop Bouffard's first hand knowledge of the evil lurking within the hierarchy of the Vatican and particularly the Jesuit Order confirms the testimony of other researchers, including Bill Hughes, author of the shocking books The Enemy Unmasked and The Secret Terrorists, as well as preeminent researcher of the Jesuit Order, Eric Jon Phelps, author of Vatican Assassins.

Besides painting a dark picture of the Black Pope in Rome, Bishop Bouffard claims the evil power of the Jesuits extends throughout the world, including solid infiltration of the U.S. government, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) and major religious organizations.

Bishop Buffard claims the Jesuits act like the perfect chameleons, taking on the identity of Protestants, Mormons, Baptists and Jews with the intention of bringing about the downfall of America as well as bringing the country under a one world religion based in Jerusalem and under the control of their leader, Lucifer.

"I know first hand that the Vatican controls and monitors everything in Israel with the intention of destroying the Jews," said Bishop Bouffard, adding the true purpose of the Jesuit Order is to orchestrate and control all leaders of the world in order to bring about a major worldwide conflict which will eventually destroy America, the Middle East and Israel. "They destroy everything from within and want to bring about the destruction of the Catholic Church, as well, in order to usher in a one world religion based on Satanism. This is also seen in the way priests worship in the Mass, actually worshipping the dead. Also, signs of Satanism are seen in many outward symbols, customs and vestments displayed by the Church."

After his service in Rome, Bishop Bouffard spent time in Africa and Guatemala, rising to a position of power within the Church. However, with this religious power came affiliation and membership as a Freemason, becoming a 37 Degree Masonic member, something supposedly frowned upon in the Roman Catholic Church since, according to Canon Law, membership in a Masonic Lodge brings immediate excommunication.

According to Bishop Bouffard, Freemasonry is used by the Church to carry out its secret plans, as many other high-level priest, bishops, cardinals and even popes have joined secret societies along with others in positions of power in other religions and governments, many working together to further the evil Illuminati agenda.

And his statements back up reports which surfaced in Italian and French newspapers in the early 1980's, reporting more than 150 high level priests with membership in Freemasonry, including the P2 Masonic Lodge and other secret societies.

"I finally was born again and denounced the Catholic Church," said Bishop Bouffard, who now is a practicing Christian following the word of God through the Bible. "We must always pray for our leaders by openly denouncing evil and exposing the Jesuits for what they really are."

After leaving the Church, Bishop Bouffard also made amends and asked the late Jesuit priest, Fr. Alberto Rivera for his forgiveness. Fr. Rivera was one of the few Jesuit priests with the courage to expose the evil intentions of the Society of Jesus, coming forward telling how he worked as one of the Jesuit Order's infiltrators in America with the job of infiltrating Protestant and Baptist churches with the intent of destroying them from within.

"When I was a bishop and still loyal to the Church, I once wrote a letter denouncing Fr. Rivera and advocating his death," said Bishop Bouffard. "When I realized the truth, I searched out Fr. Rivera and asked his forgiveness. We became good friends and I know he was telling the truth. He was an honest man who also found God.

"I know the Jesuits tried to change the truth, saying he never was a priest and destroying all evidence backing that up. They have tried to do the same to me, but Fr. Rivera was telling the truth without question. I know that for a fact and even was with him several weeks before his death. He was suffering terribly after being poisoned with acid. Like I said, you can't imagine the suffering and destruction that has been caused and will be caused by the Jesuits"

In an article entitled Alberto: the Big Brou-haw-haw, an unknown writer who followed Bishop Bouffard career and his connection with Fr. Rivera had this to say, including the Vatican's difficulty in trying to cover-up both Rivera and Bouffard's accusations:

"Then there's the corroborating testimony provided by Fr. Gerard Bouffard. He was a high ranking bishop born in Quebec, Canada. He rose from lower levels of his orders to become an assistant for many years to Popes such as Paul VI and John Paul II. He converted to protestantism and claims he was the man who received the order to eliminate Rivera. In a documentary called Unveiling the Mystery Behind Catholic Symbols, Bouffard shows a fancy 18-carat gold plated pen containing a special disappearing ink with which the Holy Office authorities sign top secret documents. He claims, "With this pen that I am holding, I signed the order to kill Dr. Rivera". Pretty dramatic cloak and dagger stuff! His previous high profile position would make him an easy target for discrediting... Yet the silence is deafening.

"The Vatican also has its own credibility problems to contend with. From a historical context, Alberto's claims to be a Jesuit working undercover to destroy protestant churches is not as far flung as it might seem. The Jesuits were created in 1541 by Ignatius De Loyola for that very purpose (although some Jesuits dispute this, naturally). They engaged in countless dirty tricks, assassinations, and treasonous plots during their hay day. The Office of the Inquisition was an out growth of their mission which resulted in the torture and/or murder of millions of innocent people for "heresy". That department has since been renamed The Holy Office, but the Jesuits have never bothered with a name change. How much their goals have changed with time is also uncertain. Neither organization is very transparent and both serve the interests of the Pope. Bad reputations are not easily forgotten.

"If Alberto's story is a lie, it's brilliant piece of fiction with amazing consistency. There are certainly other conspiracies that have been dreamed up which are equally vivid and intricate. The JFK assassination conspiracy and the UFO /Majestic 12 conspiracy come foremost to mind. But these conspiracies were created and improved by hundreds of people over a long period of time, then pieced together and rearranged until they formed a plausible narrative. After twenty or so years of "public input" and revisions, a semi-"official" version is adopted. If any particular part of it is proven to be false, it morphs into a slightly different version without the disproven parts.

"Alberto had none of these resources. His own story came from him alone. It wasn't revised and honed for decades by committee before Chick published it. On the contrary, it was published in its entirety and then sublimated with additional volumes (five more comics) giving more names and dates but no retractions. If he in fact "made it all up", then he certainly deserves a prize for literary genius. Especially as far as his own biographical intrigues are concerned (move over Baron von Munchausen?).

"After twenty years of investigation, all the Pope's resources have failed to "prove" Alberto was a fake. Of course, Alberto failed to "prove" his allegations against the Vatican as well. So at best, the contest is still a draw. Maybe future developments will yield something dramatic. But don't count on it. We'll probably never know if Alberto was really "real" unless the Pope were to come straight out and confess it. (And that stands about as much of a chance of happening as a flying saucer landing on the White House lawn.) It is definitely delicious food for thought, however, and far more scary than any premise aired on X-files.

Throughout history, the Jesuit Order has been tied together with war and genocide, being formally removed from many countries, including France and England. As researchers claim the Jesuits are the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order, author Phelps has also called for the Order's banishment in this country.

However, with more than 28 major universities from coast to coast, the Order has created a strong political and financial foothold here, including secret control of the CFR and control of many banks like Bank of America and the Federal Reserve banking system, making Phelps' call for banishment a difficult if not improbable task.

How could such a palpable hint of mass murder be so ignored? Please read the following:

Israel Supreme Court OKs Targeted Killing Of Terrorists

1. Italian Guards Leave Posts At Jewish, Israeli Institutions In Rome

"Italian police guards have been withdrawn, without warning, from Israeli and Jewish institutions in Rome.

About 10 days ago, without warning or explanation, the police cars that had been permanently stationed for over 10 years outside the El Al office in Rome, at Jewish community offices, the Jewish school and the synagogues throughout the city, suddenly disappeared - at all times on the eve of Prime Minister Ehud Olmert's visit to the city, a visit that ended Wednesday night.

The surprising step aroused apprehension among Jews in Rome, who have not forgotten the terrorist attack at the synagogue in 1982, when a 2-year-old boy, Stefano Tasha, was killed and 40 people were injured. Since then, the leaders and institutions of the Jewish community have had total protection - until this week. The city's Jews, who prayed last Saturday at 10 synagogues without security guards, fear that history will repeat itself and the next terrorist attack is drawing near.

The Jewish school is also a priority target for terrorism. At least that is how it was described in the Italian media only about two months ago, and after angry protests from the Jewish community, it was agreed that the guards would be restored - temporarily. The police headquarters stated that it was intended that the police guards would be returned - perhaps even Thursday morning - to all the places which they had been guarding, but parents told Ma'ariv that they were 'angry and concerned' about the new security instructions.

A police car was first stationed outside the El Al office in Rome after the terrorist attack at Fiumicino Airport in 1985, when 16 people were killed and 70 wounded. For the most part, the police car prevented suspicious vehicles from parking there, and the police were instructed to keep a close watch. Now, however, there is no police car there, and it is feared that the El Al office, which is a palpable Israeli symbol, would be an easy target.

At present, the Israeli embassy in Rome does not intend to approach the Italian Foreign Ministry and turn the issue into a diplomatic confrontation between the two countries, especially in light of the cordial atmosphere Wednesday at the joint news conference of the two prime ministers. On the other hand, the security officer at El Al is expected to have a meeting with his Italian counterparts in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Asked for a reaction, the Israeli embassy in Rome said it does not discuss security matters with the media. The Italian police also refused to comment on why, in the wake of re-evaluations of the security situation by the Italian security establishment, a decision had been made to withdraw the security guards from a list of diplomatic missions, airline offices and other institutions that had been protected for decades."

2. In my previous article now at www.thebarrychamishwebsite.com I summarized that Olmert was ordered by the Pope to appear in the Vatican. There he was to agree to give the Vatican sovereignty over parts of Mount Zion and to accept "the Spanish initiative," replacing the Israeli army in Gaza with soldiers from Catholic Europe.

Hoping not to repeat the fiasco of Pres. Katzav's refusal the year before, this year the Vatican promised Olmert a Holocaust. With no police guarding Jewish institutions, it was just a matter of informing the Muslims to get the Jewish blood aflowing.

The Bulletin reporter, the reliable David Bedein, completely missed the significance of his scoop. We finally see the power of the Vatican. Life in Rome's little Jewish community would disappear into the blood within a day. The true slaughter would be in France where 7 million angry Muslims would swoop down on the 700,000 Jews without fear of the police.

Have we forgotten Protestant Britain? Of course, Britain could repeat its long forgotten Palestine policy of keeping the police away from a massacre of Jews. There may be some outrage, a few delays, but the Jews will lose their security when the police appear halfheartedly, if at all.

The mood is 1938. There are more than enough rabid anti-semites to burst the slaughter into reality.

So how does the Israeli reporter react to this threat to the last Jews of Europe? According to the Israeli Embassy, the prime ministers of Italy and Israel got along so well, why disturb the fun and ask who ordered the Police removed.

Now does the reporter ask how Olmert reacted to the Vatican threat? No such luck. Well, in fact, Olmert returned to Israel and during a Kassam storm, had a meeting with, we think, leader of the opposition Mahmud Abbas, and gave him $100 million and a promise to release lots of prisoners whether we get our ONE returned or not.

But, best of all, he upped the war on Judaism by closing religious schools:

3. Religious-Zionist Schools on Strike www.israelnationalnews.com

"A total of some 100,000 students are on strike, Glatt told Arutz-7's hebrew newsmagazine. "We have traditionally tried not to take the students away from their Torah and other studies," Glatt said, "but there is simply no other choice. The budget for 2007 is about to be voted on this coming Thursday, and the astronomical sum of 130 million shekels is being cut. We simply will not be able to open the school year if this is the case."

At stake are more than 250 educational institutions, Glatt said, asking, "Could it be that there is someone who wants to specifically harm the religious-Zionist education?"

MK Orlev, participating at the sit-in today, said, "The government is holding the budget and our children as political hostages just because we're in the opposition. The parents already pay astronomical sums, and cannot pay more."

"This political persecution is liable to destroy our schools," Orlev said, "even though our graduates are the backbone of Israeli society. The government had better wake up before it cuts off the branch on which the State sits."

Their principals are not resting, however. They are holding a protest sit-in outside the Prime Minister's Office in Jerusalem, warning that some of their schools will be forced to close if the funding is not at least partially restored."

Can you imagine all these principals sitting outside the prime minister's office and not a one understanding that Olmert has already promised the real world leaders, meeting in the Vatican, that he would drown the pesky religious community once and for all? Without funds to run their own schools, the children will enter public schools and fuel a religious/secular gang war.

All to divide the Jews before the end!

My readers know I've proven Israel's leaders are run by our worst enemies. The Vatican's highest ranking agent in Israel is Shimon Peres. The details of how he and Olmert rid themselves of Sharon is found in my new book, Bye Bye Gaza (details below). Olmert supposedly became number one in Israel, and Peres, two after the last election. Once the results were tallied, Peres flew to the Vatican for instructions. He would drop out of the scene and let Olmert do the public dirty work.

We can only surmise that Olmert felt guilty about destroying Israel or there would have been no need for the police show in Rome. Whatever he display taught Olmert, it should have taught the Jews of Israel to think coup as the only way to save themselves from utter and horrid destruction.

I put another book on Lulu.com It is called With the Kennedys.

"I knew Norm Mandel lovingly recaptured my youth by the warm smile of Marina as she read With The Kennedys." Lee Harvey Oswald

<http://www.lulu.com/content/590092>

And I have a new book called, Bye Bye Gaza. In ten chapters, it recounts the battle for Gaza and the subsequent government torture of the refugees. Each chapter begins with a striking photo of the living Gush Katif as photographed by Gemma Blech. You can purchase the book in color, or the must less dear, black and white.

Israel Supreme Court OKs Targeted Killing Of Terrorists

12/15/2006

By: David Bedein, The Bulletin

Link

The Israel High Court of Justice unanimously ruled on Thursday that the policy of targeted killings of Arab terrorists cannot be disqualified in all cases.

It cannot be determined from the outset that every targeted killing is prohibited by international law, just as it cannot be determined from the outset that every targeted killing is permitted, the outgoing president of the Supreme Court, Judge Aharon Barak, wrote in his ruling. In his view, each case has to be carefully examined individually, and it has to be ensured that the risk to innocent bystanders is not excessive. The end does not always justify the means, Barak concluded.

The former chairman of the Israel National Security Council, Maj. Gen. (res.) Giora Eiland, was pleased by the ruling. "Anyone who thinks that in this kind of warfare things cannot go wrong and mistakes cannot happen, does not know in what world he is living," Eiland told Israel Army Radio. "Compare the terrorist attacks that were taking place only four years ago with those taking place today. In the last analysis, we are now living in an incomparably better situation now than what we lived in then. How do you think that came about? It is partly due to targeted killings," Eiland said.

In contrast, Israeli Arab Member of Knesset Ahmed Tibi, former advisor to Yassir Arafat, said that the ruling perpetuates the defense-orientated line dictated by the High Court of Justice, including expulsions, evictions, assassinations and the other crimes of the occupation.

Hezbollah Puts Medium-Range Rockets Across Litani

The Hezbollah terrorist organization has begun to redeploy across the Litani River. In recent weeks, activists of the organization have begun to place medium-range Katyushas and other rockets on the other side of the Litani river, aiming them at Israel.

In the first weeks of the war, the Israeli Air Force managed to destroy a considerable number of the medium-range rockets of the terrorists, but the stumbling block that remained lay in the thousands of short-range rockets which continued to rain down on the Galilee until the last day of the war. If so, the change that Hezbollah is planning, as reported Wednesday on Israeli TV, could threaten Israeli towns and villages, and Israel will have to demand that the Lebanese government and its army remove this threat. Arab terrorists are now equipped with Katyushas and other rockets without guidance systems, which have a range of up to dozens of kilometers. And by putting them in the right places, they can aim them at residential areas in the Galilee and northern Israel.

During the summer conflict, the terrorists also fired long-range rockets at Beit Shean, Haifa and Hadera, and these rockets too can also be placed across the Litani in static bases or on trucks from which they can be fired.

Second Madrid Conference To Be Held

Fifteen years after the Madrid peace conference, which convened after the first Gulf War, the second Madrid conference will be held at the beginning of next month. It will include unofficial representatives of Israel, Syria, Lebanon, the Palestinians, Jordan and Egypt - all the governments that participated in the first conference.

The initiative is being backed by the Spanish government and three international peace organizations: The Toledo International Center for Peace, Search for Common Ground and a three-culture institute. The governments of Denmark, Sweden and Norway are also giving sponsorship to the conference, and their three foreign ministers will attend it. King Juan Carlos of Spain, Spanish Prime Minister Jose Luis Zapatero and Spanish Foreign Minister Miguel Moratinos will receive the participants of the conference in the royal palace. The conference will last for three days. Its goal will be to place all the peace initiatives on the table and to call upon the governments to return to the negotiating table, based on the understanding that the gaps between the parties are bridgeable.

At first, the Spanish government considered convening the second Madrid conference with the participation of official representatives, but they encountered a lack of response on the part of the governments in the region. This caused them to bypass the governments and turn by an indirect route to civil society organizations - so that they will pressure their governments to return to the negotiating table.

In the backdrop of the conference are the latest events in the Middle East, including the war in Iraq, the war in Lebanon, the Baker-Hamilton report and Prime Minister Ehud Olmert's speech in Sde Boker at the memorial ceremony for David Ben-Gurion. The conference will also include American, Russian, Saudi and European representatives as observers, as well as Arab League Secretary-General Amr Moussa.

The senior Israeli representative participating in the initiative, who will represent Israel in the conference, is former foreign minister Prof. Shlomo Ben-Ami, who is a member of the Toledo International Center for Peace. At this stage, it is not yet known who will represent Syria or Lebanon. The Palestinians, however, have already confirmed the participation of a high-ranking delegation. At this stage, the organizers are keeping the names of the participants secret, for fear that advance publication would obstruct their participation.

Italian Guards Leave Posts At Jewish, Israeli Institutions In Rome

Italian police guards have been withdrawn, without warning, from Israeli and Jewish institutions in Rome.

About 10 days ago, without warning or explanation, the police cars that had been permanently stationed for over 10 years outside the El Al office in Rome, at Jewish community offices, the Jewish school and the synagogues throughout the city, suddenly disappeared - at all times on the eve of Prime Minister Ehud Olmert's visit to the city, a visit that ended Wednesday night.

The surprising step aroused apprehension among Jews in Rome, who have not forgotten the terrorist attack at the synagogue in 1982, when a 2-year-old boy, Stefano Tasha, was killed and 40 people were injured.

Since then, the leaders and institutions of the Jewish community have had total protection - until this week. The city's Jews, who prayed last Saturday at 10 synagogues without security guards, fear that history will repeat itself and the next terrorist attack is drawing near.

The Jewish school is also a priority target for terrorism. At least that is how it was described in the Italian media only about two months ago, and after angry protests from the Jewish community, it was agreed that the guards would be restored - temporarily. The police headquarters stated that it was intended that the police guards would be returned - perhaps even Thursday morning - to all the places which they had been guarding, but parents told Ma'ariv that they were "angry and concerned" about the new security instructions.

A police car was first stationed outside the El Al office in Rome after the terrorist attack at Fiumicino Airport in 1985, when 16 people were killed and 70 wounded. For the most part, the police car prevented suspicious vehicles from parking there, and the police were instructed to keep a close watch. Now, however, there is no police car there, and it is feared that the El Al office, which is a palpable Israeli symbol, would be an easy target.

At present, the Israeli embassy in Rome does not intend to approach the Italian Foreign Ministry and turn the issue into a diplomatic confrontation between the two countries, especially in light of the cordial atmosphere Wednesday at the joint news conference of the two prime ministers. On the other hand, the security officer at El Al is expected to have a meeting with his Italian counterparts in an attempt to reach an agreement.

Asked for a reaction, the Israeli embassy in Rome said it does not discuss security matters with the media. The Italian police also refused to comment on why, in the wake of re-evaluations of the security situation by the Italian security establishment, a decision had been made to withdraw the security guards from a list of diplomatic missions, airline offices and other institutions that had been protected for decades.

May I introduce you my beloved school, home of my growth and knowledge for 13 long years <_<

Behold, Nuestra Señora del Recuerdo!

I bet the schools emblem holds some beef to ya well versed in the occult... no wonder no one ever explained us what the f*ck those symbols meant. The chessboard is there... double headed eagle with the IHS sun, the tower with 12 stars (zodiac?).. oh well.. Bet theres a lot more, but its enuff 4 me :lol:

To put you in perspective, this school is proly the most important education center in Madrid. I was a classmate to the son of Aznar, Spains last president. I lived the shift to power of his dad, and got used to seeing secret service in the gardens... All the major right-wing politicians refer to this place. A huge school the size of a big village, inserted in the middle of Madrid... terrain worth billions. Yet they play the "poor brothers" part flawlessly. Such liars :angry:

I still remember the opening speech of the "Rector" my last year... he literally said we were the FUTURE ELITE of this country, and that our work would be crucial for society. Out of 200 alumns, 9 went straight to the seminary. One was a very good friend of mine. Considering the annual IQ test and personality "tests" we were forced to take, i think they did their job well.

When i was 12 or so, I was in an interview with a teacher friend of mine who was also an acting teacher in spare time (I took those). We got accidentally locked up in the "sexto" wing by an unsuspecting brother Jesuit who left afterwards. I remember my teacher calling some Jesuit by phone (they live inside the school, since its so huge). Then i heard him mention something about the "tunnels". That option was discarded. But i was curious and after he hang, i asked him about those. He told me the schools site was ancient, and that there was a secret net of tunnels that connected hot spots of the school. In retrospective i find that fascinating ;)

I think I ran out of cookies.... for now :)

Extra cookie: during my 13 years there were AT LEAST 2 suicides in the school. Just remembered (no doubt i forgot about that)

Keith - December 26, 2006 10:32 PM (GMT)

here was my school;s seal.

The Roman Numeral X(ten) on the column behind the students arm. This is most probably dedicated to Akhenaton or Akhenaten --who is most probably Kolvenbach's general, and thus the general of everyone below Kol. The priests and everone else sees this X upon entrance b/c you always touch the "holy water" on your way into the slaughterhouse. Throgh me all kings will reign.

I do not know the statue who holds the holy water. I'm not that symbol literate yet. but I did notice the X.

Keith - December 27, 2006 12:32 AM (GMT)

After looking at this closer, i don't think it is a perfect X with completely straight /'s and \'s. The damn arm of that kid!

Kissinger, Pope Ratzki Form 'Papal-Jewish Conspiracy'

The world's scariest two people — Henry Kissinger and Pope Joseph Ratzinger — have reportedly formed an alliance that Iranian officials soberly described as a “papal-Jewish conspiracy.”

Italy's La Stampa broke the news Monday that the 84-year-old Kissinger has become a special diplomatic adviser to the 79-year-old pope. Hilariously, both were born in Bavaria: Kissinger as a Jew who had to flee the country or become a doomed slave laborer, and Ratzinger as a Nazi who kept Jewish slave laborers from escaping German factories.

The Catholic News Service denies the story, admitting only that Kissinger has been meeting with Ratzki and they're planning something worse than Iraq and Vietnam combined.

AVBibleBeliever - December 22, 2006 02:52 AM (GMT)

<http://www.thegoodshepherdmovie.com/site/index.html?dl=> Watch the short video clips from "Explore the Life of Edward Wilson" Skull and Bones to Heart and Soul where you hear some very telling scenes.

The film starts in theaters in the U.S. 12/22/06 Skull and Bones (whose number is 322) is depicted in this film but to a point and the Jesuit connection to the character of Don Quixote who initiates the neophytes I'm certain will not be shown).

Robert De Niro plays a role based on Papal Knight of St. Sylvester and Knight of Malta Gen. Wild Bill Donovan in "The Good Shepherd." The official website says De Niro's character is named General Bill Sullivan (a pseudonym for Donovan)

This news website has photos of de Niro and Damon at the White House with a statue of Co-star Matt Damon.

http://www.showbuzz.cbsnews.com/elements/2...0_2_photo.shtml

<http://www.eastnews.com.pl/news/temat.php?temat=00125977>

These photos cannot be magnified without a username and password. The website is in another language my guess would be Polish.

Damon's fictional character Edward Wilson is based on SMOM James Jesus Angleton who was a Skull and Bonesman according to IMDB.com

<http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0343737/trivia>

"The Good Shepherd" is a name of the Lord Jesus Christ. To apply this title to a Knight of Malta is blasphemous! Notice Damon's one eye pictured next to the eagle a stylized phoenix and the 16 points. This is a piece of Jesuit theater and their Illuminati left their calling card (all seeing eye of Horus/Lucifer/Satan.) One of the titles of Antichrist is "the idol shepherd" whose "right eye shall be utterly darkened" (Zechariah 11: 17)

<http://www.thegoodshepherdmovie.com/>

Article about the movie

(note the connections to Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor's film JFK)

<http://www.emanuellevy.com/article.php?articleID=3959> (says Billy Crudup's character is based on Mason and British SMOM Kim Philby)

There are various telling quotes in this film.

DeNiro's character Bill Sullivan tells Matt Damon's character Edward Wilson that the U. S. will need to get involved in the war so he has been asked to create an intelligence agency patriotic young men with the right backgrounds "no Jews, Negroes, and very few Catholics that's because I'm a Catholic." (this is a giveaway that Sullivan is really Roman Catholic Donovan).

There is a quote about the English form of intelligence-"the black arts"

Joe Pesci has a role and he says Italians in this country have their families and the church (on the official website you will find this quote and the words "the church" are emphasized in a large font letters).

Fore ShameDid the Vatican steal Jesus' foreskin so people would shut up about the savior's penis?

By David Farley

Posted Tuesday, Dec. 19, 2006, at 12:32 PM ET

In 1983, as the residents of Calcata, a small town 30 miles north of Rome, prepared for their annual procession honoring a holy relic, a shocking announcement from the parish priest put a damper on festivities. "This year, the holy relic will not be exposed to the devotion of the faithful. It has vanished. Sacrilegious thieves have taken it from my home." Not since the Middle Ages, when lopped-off body parts of divine do-gooders were bought, sold, and traded, has relic theft been big news. But the mysterious disappearance of Calcata's beloved curio is different.

This wasn't just the residuum of any holy human—nor was it just any body part. It was the foreskin of Jesus Christ, the snipped-off tip of the savior's penis, the only piece of his body he supposedly left on earth.

Just what the holy foreskin was doing in the priest's house—in a shoebox at the back of his wardrobe, no less—and why and how it disappeared has been debated ever since the relic vanished. Some suspect the village priest sold it for a heavenly sum; others say it was stolen by thieves and ended up on the relics black market; some even suggest Satanists or neo-Nazis are responsible. But the most likely culprit is an unlikely one: the Vatican.

And why not? Protestant doubt ("They couldn't let Christ's body go without keeping a piece," John Calvin quipped) and the scientific revolution, which changed our thinking from superstitious to skeptical, have taken their toll on a relic that once rested high atop the pious pecking order of blessed body parts. It's understandable that the 20th-century church began feeling a bit bashful about the idea of its flock fawning over the 2,000-year-old tip of the redeemer's manhood. Still, when I arrived in Calcata six months ago, the idea of a Vatican theft of Jesus' foreskin sounded more like a ganja-induced brainstorming session with Dan Brown and Danielle Steele. But some transplanted bohemians, a deathbed confession, and a little historical context have convinced me otherwise.

Even before its disappearance, the relic had a strange history. It was discovered in Calcata in 1557, and a series of miracles soon followed (freak storms, perfumed mists engulfing the village). The church gave the finding a seal of approval by offering a 10-year indulgence to those who came to venerate. Lines of pilgrims stretched from the church doors to beyond the walls of the fortress town. Nuns and monks from nearby villages and monasteries made candlelit processions. Calcata was a must-see destination on the pilgrimage map.

That is, until 1900. Facing increasing criticism after the "rediscovery" of a holy foreskin in France, the Vatican decreed that anyone who wrote about or spoke the name of the holy foreskin would face excommunication. And 54 years later, when a monk wanted to include Calcata in a pilgrimage tour guide, Vatican officials didn't just reject the proposal (after much debate). They upped the punishment: Now, anyone uttering its name would face the harshest form of excommunication—"infamous and to be avoided"—even as they concluded that Calcata's holy foreskin was more legit than other claimants'.

But that wasn't the end of the holy foreskin. In the late 1960s, government officials, worried that crumbling cliffs and threatening earthquakes might doom the village, decided to build a new town. Hippies discovered the newly abandoned town, which was awaiting a government wrecking crew, and squatted in, then legally purchased, the vacated buildings. Some of the bohemian transplants were intrigued by Calcata's relic, which was now only shown to the public during the village's annual New Year's Day procession (even though the Vatican II reforms removed the Day of the Holy Circumcision from the church calendar). The new residents began writing about the quirky event and relic for newspapers in and around Rome, and Calcata's scandalous prepuce was isolated no more. And the church took notice.

Was this the reason Dario Magnoni, the local priest, brought the relic from the church to his home? Who knows. Magnoni refuses to speak about the relic, citing the 1954 threat of excommunication. Magnoni's predecessor, Mario Mastrocola, didn't want to talk about the relic, either, but when asked if he was surprised to hear it had been stolen, he shook his head. When pressed, he said, "The relic would not have been taken away from Calcata if I were still the priest there."

Mastrocola's ambiguous words—while not directly incriminating anyone—hinted at underhanded church dealings (interview requests with the Vatican went unanswered). And later, I found myself sitting in a wine cellar halfway up the hill between the old and new villages of Calcata. Capellone, the cellar's owner and a lifelong Calcatese, told me about his close relationship with a former local bishop, Roberto Massimiliani. Ailing in bed, the bishop told Capellone that when he was gone, so too would be the relic. Bishop Massimiliani passed away soon after, in 1975. Eight years after that, the relic disappeared. "To me, it almost felt like a confession," said Capellone. "Like he needed to tell someone before he died."

Could the "sacrilegious thieves" Magnoni mentioned in his 1983 announcement about the relic's disappearance actually have been Vatican emissaries? The thought of masked, black-clad Vatican agents on a mission to steal Jesus' foreskin does sound alluring. But for residents like Capellone, who swear the Vatican now has the relic, the thief could be Magnoni himself. Some locals claim they saw him go to Rome the day before he made the announcement, generating speculation that the Vatican asked for it and Magnoni not only failed to stand up to them, he delivered the relic himself.

Sold, stolen, or delivered to the Vatican—or even all three—the holy foreskin of Calcata is probably gone for good, even as some residents persist in the hope that it will return. And the church is certainly breathing a sigh of relief. While most of the other copies of the relic were destroyed during the Reformation and the French Revolution, Calcata's holy foreskin lived long past its expiration date, like a dinosaur surviving the meteoric blast of the scientific revolution.

But if it had survived, it would have been only a matter of time before someone wanted to clone it. And that could have given the Second Coming an entirely new meaning.

Title: Quotes about The Jesuit Order

MoroccoMole - December 15, 2006 02:25 PM (GMT)

“The Society of Jesus [i.e., the Jesuit Order] is the enemy of man. The whole human race should unite for its overthrow. ...For there is no alternative between its total extirpation, and the absolute corruption and degradation of mankind.” – Robert J. Breckinridge (pastor)

“The Jesuits...are simply the Romish army for the earthly sovereignty of the world in the future, with the Pontiff of Rome for emperor...that’s their ideal. ...It is simple lust of power, of filthy earthly gain, of domination – something like a universal serfdom with them [i.e., the Jesuits] as masters – that’s all they stand for. They don’t even believe in God perhaps.”

Fyodor Dostoyevsky (1821-1881; famous Russian novelist)

“Alas, I knew they [i.e., the Jesuits] would poison me; but I did not expect to die in so slow and cruel a manner.” (1774)

Pope Clement XIV (Who had “forever” abolished the Jesuit Order in 1773)

“Why would the Jesuits use their implacable enemy, the Jews, to further their designs for world dominion? The Jesuits never do anything out in the open where they can be exposed. If they are recognized as the culprits, they will be blamed and suffer the consequences, but if they can use someone else as the ‘cause of the world’s problems’, especially an enemy they can destroy in the process, then they have simultaneously accomplished two of their objectives. The Jewish people are the perfect scapegoat. Since the Rothschilds are Jesuit agents operating under a Jewish cover, using them [i.e., the Rothschilds] in forming the Illuminati back in 1776 effectively throws the onus of this conspiracy on the Jews. The Rothschilds are certainly not the only Jesuit agents that operate under a Jewish front. ...Weishaupt and the Rothschilds were the brains and the wealth behind the French Revolution [1789-1799].”

Bill Hughes (The Enemy Unmasked; Pages 29, 30)

"The Jesuits are a MILITARY organization, not a religious order. Their chief is a general of an army, not the mere father abbot of a monastery. And the aim of this organization is power – power in its most despotic exercise – absolute power, universal power, power to control the world by the volition of a single man [i.e., the Black Pope, the Superior General of the Jesuits]. Jesuitism is the most absolute of despotisms [sic] – and at the same time the greatest and most enormous of abuses..."

Napoleon I (i.e., Napoleon Bonaparte; 1769-1821; emperor of the French)

"It is impossible to read Elizabethan history [i.e., the history surrounding Queen Elizabeth I of England; queen: 1558-1603] except in the context of an army of Jesuits, masters of deceit, treachery, treason, infiltration, subversion, assassination, insurrection, civil war and coercion, plotting for the good of the papacy, and the defeat of all the Pope's foes anywhere in the world." – J.E.C. Shepherd (Canadian historian; 1987)

"During this Congress [of Verona, Italy in 1822], it was decided that America would be the target of Jesuit emissaries and that America was to be destroyed at all costs. Every principle of the [U.S.] Constitution was to be dissolved and new Jesuitical principles were to be put into place in order to exalt the Papacy to dominion in America."

Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists; Page 14)

"The organization of the [Roman Catholic] Hierarchy is a complete military despotism, of which the Pope is the ostensible [i.e., apparent; seeming] head; but of which, the Black Pope [Ed. Note: The Superior General of the Jesuits], is the real head. The Black Pope is the head of the order of the Jesuits, and is called a General [i.e., the Superior General]. He not only has command of his own order, but [also] directs and controls the general policy of the [Roman Catholic] Church. He [the Black Pope] is the power behind the throne, and is the real potential head of the Hierarchy. The whole machine is under the strictest rules of military discipline. The whole thought and will of this machine, to plan, propose and execute, is found in its head. There is no independence of thought, or of action, in its subordinate parts. Implicit and unquestioning obedience to the orders of superiors in authority, is the sworn duty of the priesthood of every grade..." – U.S. Army Brigadier General Thomas M. Harris

The Hidden Truth About The Pope's Middle East Crusade

Unknown Israeli author tells you everything you wanted to know about the war but were never told.

15 Dec 2006

By Greg Szymanski

Author of Vatican Assassins Eric Phelps has always tried to find the truth and speak from the heart, his meticulous research uncovering the purposely hidden Vatican and Jesuit Order's duplicitous role as the real spiritual controllers of the New World Order.

Concerning the Middle East conflict, he doesn't mince words or pull any punches either, recently uncovering "the greatest analysis of the war I have ever read."

"Written by an unknown Israeli," said Phelps, "it is a must read for anyone who wants to know the real truth behind the Pope's war. Added to the fact that the Black Pope controls the US via the Council on Foreign Relations, and controls Britain via the Royal Institute of International Affairs, we now know the source and purpose for the continuing conflict.

"The leaders of both sides are minions of the Jesuit General. (For example, previously Arafat has had EIGHT MEETINGS with Pope John Paul II since the Oslo Accord.) Those who do not "play ball" - like Anwar Sadat of Egypt, King Fiesal of Iraq and Yitzak Rabin of Israel are eliminated through the Black Pope's unified International Intelligence Community. That Community is directly controlled, organized and overseen by the Pope's Crusaders, the Sovereign Military Order of Malta.

"Notice that the mentor and immediate master of Ariel Sharon is none other than CFR Henry Kissinger. Masonic Kissinger, the intimate associate of Knight of Malta Alexander Haig, Jr., is without question a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor, as the Order began to admit the Pope's "Court Jews" to the Company in 1946 - about the time of the stoking of the Middle East conflict.

"Further, it has been learned that the former head of NATO and key figure in the governing of the Pope's Zionist government of Israel is a Franciscan priest - Javier Solana - the intimate friend of the "King of Jerusalem," King Juan Carlos of Spain, whose immediate master is the Grandmaster of the SMOM, Fra Andrew Bertie.

"Further, the reason why the Order has used the Federal Reserve Bank's American Military Industrial Complex to arm every Arab nation in the Middle East is not to destroy the Pope's Zionist-controlled Israel, remembering that sixty percent of all the land in Jerusalem is owned by the Vatican - including the Temple Mount. The purpose is to be able to use these arms against the present American/British-led Papal Crusade having been planned over thirty years ago, prior to the deliberately faulty construction of the WTC (the "X" bracing being only bolted and not welded to the buildings) back in the 1980s. It was Cardinal Cooke's Knight of Malta and director of the CIA's counterintelligence branch manning both "the Israeli desk" and "the Vatican desk" within the Agency, James "Jesus" Angleton, who advocated a "Crusade" against the Moslem peoples way back in the mid 1970s."

According to a reviewer the writings of the unknown Israeli are "a truly objective analysis of this subject, without the baggage Jews and Arabs have been fed via their national leaderships, reveals that the Middle East conflict would have ended decades ago had foreigners not kept it alive. The continuation of the conflict serves their interests- i.e., oil supplies, recycling petrodollars, or multi-billion dollar weapons sales.

The Palestinian-Israeli "situation" is thus merely a fig leaf for the FE, allowing their other agendas can be pursued undetected.

We need to devise a solution based on the actual cause for the continuation of the conflict, and not accept solutions presented via the mainstream media.

The hatred between the two peoples doesn't come from the hearts of Middle Eastern Arabs and Jews; it is created and stoked from abroad. Arabs and Jews must see through the propaganda and understand that this conflict is being created for them. Every time it looks like it is coming to an end, foreigners breathe new life into it by insisting that they have a "new peace initiative" which they claim will bring peace. It never does.

The FE's intervention in the affairs of the Middle East has been a tragedy for the Arab peoples - socially, economically, and politically. Arabs and Jews of the Middle East need to admit that they are both victims of the foreigners. By working together, they can remove the cancer of foreign intervention that keeps the conflict alive.

The following are the first two chapters of a collection of observations compiled to help Jews and Arabs understand why the Middle East conflict continues to fester. The intention of the writer is to promote the realization that these two peoples are not each other's worst enemy; a third player, the Foreign Elite (FE), is why the Middle East remains unstable.

Chapter One

The core and essence of the Middle East conflict

For more than 75 years, western diplomats have been coming up with "peace initiatives" to solve the Arab - Israeli conflict. Yet they always fail.

Why? What keeps the Middle East conflict going?

If we are going to devise a solution, we must first understand why the conflict continues to exist. To do this, we have to view the situation from the top down, rather than from the bottom up.

Granted, this is completely opposite to the way most Jews and Arabs have been conditioned to look at "the situation." Jews focus on the damage Arab/Palestinians cause, and believe that damage to be the cause of the conflict, when it is really only a result of it. They view the conflict and its origins from the bottom up. Arabs/Palestinians concentrate on the damage Israel causes and believe this to be the cause of the conflict, when it is really only a result of it. They too relate to the situation from the bottom up.

To understand what really causes the Middle East conflict to continue, one must look at the issue from the top down.

To get a more accurate picture of what lies behind the continued existence of the conflict, let's acknowledge these five factors which serve to perpetuate - rather than solve - the problem:

1) The vested interests of the Foreign Elite (FE): There is a "third entity" in the conflict in addition to the Israelis and the Arabs: the foreigners (in order of importance, the US, Britain, China, France, Germany). Without them, there would be no Middle East conflict because it is the foreign influence that keeps the "situation" from being resolved. Unfortunately, both Palestinian Arabs and Israeli Jews believe they are each other's worst enemy - without considering the third element - the foreigners - that is the enemy of both. The thing that Arabs and Jews have most in common is this common enemy, yet the leaders on both sides (not being legitimate or independent) tell their people that the other side is their number one enemy. Hence the conflict continues.

2) Control of Middle East oil: The foreigners interfere in the Arab-Israeli conflict in order to exploit and control the vast petroleum resources in the region. If there were no oil, there would be no petrodollars to recycle; the foreigners would have no reason to dominate the region.

3) Weapons sales: If there was a worldwide ban on arms sales to the Middle East, there would be no more "radical Arab dictators" with modern arms. If the foreigners stopped selling advanced weaponry to nations of the Middle East, the conflict would end.

4) The mainstream media: If the mainstream media in the West stopped reporting on the "search for peace in the Middle East," peace would soon be found. By keeping the region's "unstable" image alive, the media, as the sole source of information by which people can formulate their perceptions, provide an excuse for the foreigners to interfere, and at the same time serve to convince everyone that these western nations want peace, despite the fact that they have been "seeking" it for over 50 years, in vain. The media never question the intentions or agendas of the FE. The media thus provide the glue which keeps the conflict going. Without the mainstream media constantly reporting on the conflict, there would be peace, as everyone would forget that the Middle East is "unstable" and thus in need of "stabilizing" via new "peace initiatives."

5) Corrupt national leadership of both sides: It isn't peace between Arabs and Jews that interests the FE, but rather the continuation of the conflict. The way they do that is by corrupting/controlling the national leaders of both sides. The reason why legitimate, popular leaders are not at the helms of countries in the Middle East is because the FE will topple any leader who doesn't cater to their desires before the needs of their own people. If Middle East leaders are selected and deemed popular by their own people, the FE will demonize them as "radicals/extremists," "terrorist leaders" or "enemies of peace," and thus de-legitimize them in the world arena. How can genuine co-existence take hold if the leaders of both sides are more interested in pleasing their foreign masters than their own peoples?

Unless these five basic factors are understood, the true causes that extend the conflict will never be understood. Instead, each side will go on blaming the other - seeking to take the high moral ground and convince their own people and those from abroad that they are right, and the other side is wrong. This will lead only to more death and destruction.

The technique is called "divide and rule," and it has been a favorite of the FE for decades.

Why Is There A The Middle East Conflict?

Let's deconstruct the conflict and look at all its parameters:

1) The Palestinian-Israeli conflict is how the pro-Arab camp refers to it. It claims Israel is oppressing the Palestinians and that, as a result, the entire Middle East remains unstable, and will continue to be unstable unless the Palestinians have their own state.

2) The Arab-Israeli conflict is how Israel defines the situation. Until the Oslo process began, Israel claimed the conflict existed because: "The Arabs don't recognize Israel's right to exist." Now Israel says the conflict continues because the Palestinian leaders "support terrorism."

These conclusions are fed to the Arab and Israelis peoples so as to enable them each to take the high moral ground and focus their hatred on each other. And this in turn directs their attention away from their number one enemy: the foreigners.

By having the Arabs believe Israel is at fault for "oppressing" the Palestinians, while having Israelis believe the conflict exists because the Arabs fail to recognize the Jewish state or seek its destruction (i.e. support terrorism) the foreign interests succeed in hiding the bigger picture: what the foreigners are doing when it comes to controlling the Arab nations' only natural resource, and how they are selling massive amount of weapons to the oil-producing regimes.

To keep up this fraud, the foreign elements must control the national leaders of both peoples, and ensure that the mainstream media don't stray too far from the cover stories: "Israel is acting immorally against the Palestinians" or "Palestinian leaders support terrorism."

Creating either a viable Palestinian state or peace between Arabs and Jews is not the goal of the foreigners. Whether stated publicly or not, their intention is to extend the Middle East conflict, not resolve it. Unless this basic truth is understood by Arabs and Jews, the foreign elements, via the mainstream media, will continue to manipulate the perception of both sides as to why the conflict continues.

Taking the high moral ground in the Middle East conflict

The only way the foreigners can sustain the conflict is to have each side blame the other for its continuation. In this way neither side can discover the real causes, which are the oil and arms deals made between the rich oil states and the foreign powers. One aspect of the conflict serves as convenient camouflage for the other.

To keep this fraud in place, the "moral argument" is employed to have the world focus on the "morality" of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. In this way, everyone is forced to take a side. The pro-Arab side claims Israel is morally flawed, while the pro-Israel side claims the Arabs are morally flawed.

Thus any public discussion is structured in such a way that the peoples in the region and those abroad are forced to believe one side's claim or the other. The pro-Israel version is that the Arabs want to destroy Israel and are employing terrorism to reach this goal. The pro-Arab side claims Israel's actions against the Palestinians are immoral because they violate the Palestinians' right to self-determination and their human rights and dignity. In short, the parameters of the debate consist of choosing sides. No other option is given. No other participant in the conflict is presented.

In spite of all the vested foreign interests at work in the region, namely oil and arms, the entire discussion of the conflict centers on one of these two positions: either you are pro-Israel or pro-Arab.

This moralizing is the way the foreigners control the debate so that the actual causes are never allowed to surface. Israel's national leaders can moralize about how inhumane Arab suicide bombers are; Palestinian leaders can moralize about how horrible Israel's treatment of the Palestinians is. The US State Department can moralize about Israel's human rights record. The Jews in America are morally aligned with Israel; the countries of the Third World identify with the Arabs. The Europeans are perceived to be anti-Israel. The Christian fundamentalists in the US support Israel for moral reasons. The Israeli Left takes the high moral ground when it publicly condemns its own government for its treatment of the Palestinians. The Israeli Right waves a finger at Yasser Arafat and proclaims: "Arafat is not doing enough to stop terrorism." The Palestinians claim Sharon is not "serious about peace" .

"The Palestinians must learn they will never achieve anything through violence," says one group. "The Palestinians deserve their own state," declares another

Yet with all this "morality" flying around, nobody ever points a finger at the foreign countries or accuses them of acting immorally by selling arms to Middle East dictators and exploiting the natural resources of the region.

Instead, people around the globe are told what to believe regarding the reason for the continuation of the Arab-Israeli conflict, as if their opinions and feelings are actually relevant to what is happening on the ground.

This long-distance exercise in morality is what the media focus on when nothing much is happening in the region, to point out how important "peace in the Middle East" is for everyone. Yet the only thing about such stories that can be believed is that the continuation of the conflict is important to the media.

Why the Middle East conflict never gets solved

Everyone in the world is morally bound up with the Arab Israeli conflict. Yet can it be possible that the entire conflict is based on the lack of morality of one side or the other? Can all that has happened in the region over the past half century be the result of one people not behaving nicely toward the other? What other regional conflicts are defined in this way? What other regional conflicts continue for more than a half a century, look like they are finally being solved, and then come roaring back in the way the Middle East conflict has?

Let's think for a moment, and ask: Do regional wars and conflicts continue for seven decades because one side isn't acting nicely toward the other? Is the conflict's existence merely due to the actions of each or both sides - the 5 million Jews and the 4 million Arabs - who simply don't like each other?

Can that really be the answer?

That is certainly the way the mainstream press and the academic world present it. Oil and arms sales are never part of the explanation. How could so many newspapers and TV stations miss out on this side of the region's affairs and focus solely on "new peace initiatives"?

One could argue, with justification, that the Israelis are not acting nicely toward the Palestinians - that they oppress them, restrict their movements, blow up their houses, etc. But that alone still doesn't account for the continuation of the conflict. The Israelis are right when they argue that the Palestinian Authority is corrupt and the Palestinian leadership hasn't done enough to crack down on terrorism, but that too doesn't explain why this 75-year-old conflict is still with us.

And while it may even be true that the Arabs don't recognize Israel's right to exist, Israel doesn't stop existing because of that. The refusal of the Arabs to recognize Israel's existence is not the reason why the Middle East still festers.

So why has this conflict been going on for nearly a century?

Not only does the Middle East conflict continue to exist, it actually gets worse decade after decade. What other regional conflict actually looks like it is being solved, and then, 10 years later, returns to a state much worse than before?

What is special about the Middle East?

One unique thing about the Middle East conflict is that it is institutionalized.

Think of the annual budgets for all the organizations whose sole purpose is to do "Middle East moralizing." How much does it cost to fund all the activist organizations, the lobby groups, the news publications, the charities, the think tanks which exist solely to cast blame on either the Israeli or Arab side?

The Middle East conflict is a "cottage industry" in the US and Europe. It isn't that way with other regional conflicts. Why is it that way with this one?

The pro-Israel camp has its lobbies, organizations, think tanks, magazines, support groups, Internet user groups, etc. which put out one simple message: "The Arabs are wrong; we're right. We are more morally upstanding than them." The pro-Arab camp has its lobbies, organizations, think tanks, magazines, support groups, and Internet user groups which put out one simple message: "The Israelis are wrong; we're right. We are more morally upstanding than them."

Both sides are basically saying the same thing to the other side: "you're morally deficient, you're not acting nicely, and it is because of you that we don't have a solution." What is incredible is that each side is right, and for the most part, each side's argument is valid. Each side does do terrible things to the other, and both are morally deficient. Yet that still doesn't account for the continued existence of the conflict.

Consider. The Arabs say: "The media in America is controlled by the Zionists and our side never gets a proper hearing," while the pro-Israel camp says, "The media is anti-Israel." Both claims have a basis of truth, yet they cancel each other out. The same is also true when the Palestinians claim that Israel is "denying the Palestinians a state." The Israeli version is "The Arabs don't recognize the Jewish state." Two completely balanced arguments serve to keep the claims of both sides in perfect symmetry.

The media are responsible for promoting this "morality" aspect. If a politician in the US or Europe says: "I am disturbed by Israel's treatment of the Palestinians," that becomes a media item, even though the statement had nothing to do with what happens on the ground. Thousands of kilometers away, in Europe and the US, the Middle East conflict has a life of its own. The obsession that the mainstream media have about anything and everything to do with the Middle East proves that the mainstream media are responsible for sustaining it. The conflict would have faded away long ago, if it weren't for this media attention.

This is important because, before we can look for a solution to the Middle East conflict, we need to determine why it exists in the first place.

Why should we support the establishment of a Palestinian state as a way to bring peace to the region if the lack of such a state is not the reason for the conflict? While it may be desirable to the Arabs to have a viable Palestinian state, and while the Palestinians certainly deserve their own national territory, we must ask ourselves: "Does the conflict exist just because the Palestinians don't have their own state?"

Perhaps all those on the pro-Arab side should think about what would happen if a Palestinian state is created, yet doesn't lead to prosperity and stability? The mere existence of a Palestinian state will not solve the regional conflict. Thus perhaps the absence of a Palestinian state is not the reason why peace does not exist today.

If the foreigners were truly interested in peace, and believed the creation of a Palestinian state would serve that goal, they would have forced Israel to accept it decades ago. They didn't, and not because Israel controls the US political process, as some Arab intellectuals believe, but because they don't want peace in the Middle East. That is why Arafat was allowed to funnel most of the $4 billion in foreign aid the Palestinian Authority received from 1993-2000 into 17 different security forces, rather than using the money for socio-economic development.

Compared to other regional conflicts caused by wrongs committed by one side on the other, the continued existence of the Middle East situation makes no sense. By now it should have either been resolved or have petered out.

Why does this problem never get solved?

Chapter Two

Israel is not the number one enemy of the Arabs

While Israel may be perceived as a threat to the Arab world, the actual threat comes from the foreigners who for decades have been corrupting Arab leaders and exploiting their nations' natural resources. The foreigners are the reason the Palestinians has had such a miserable 50 years. Sometimes the foreigners keep Arabs and Palestinians oppressed via Israel, sometimes they do it on their own; the end result is the same - the Arabs get screwed.

It is foolish to blame Israel for the continued existence of the conflict. Israel had no reason to want to enflame the conflict with the first intifada, or the second one. The last thing Israel wants is for the whole world to be talking about how Israel must create a state for the Palestinians. Thus Israel has no reason to ignite the conflict.

Israel doesn't keep the Arab-Israeli conflict simmering, and thus can't be blamed for the instability in the Middle East. While what Israel may do to the Palestinians is wrong and harmful, it is not the reason the conflict continues.

So by blaming Sharon or the Likud party, the Arabs are playing right into the hands of the foreigners. The foreigners want all Arabs to focus their anger at Israel so they won't catch on as to how the foreigners are controlling their nations' resources and corrupting their leaders. The Middle East conflict began long before Sharon, the Likud or the West Bank settlements came into the picture. By having the Arabs focus on Israel as the culprit, nobody will look at the foreigners and realize the truth.

If Arabs want to know who their number one enemy is, they have to go right back to the beginning, when the foreigners first started to colonize the Middle East. While the formation of Israel was part of that colonizing effort, the Jews weren't the ones who put the deal together. The Jewish people have also been used and exploited by the foreigners, but in different ways.

If the role of the foreigners in the Middle East was exposed, the Arabs could then choose between one of the other two sides: Israel or the foreigners.

Before making that decision, all Arabs, and especially the Palestinians, should remember that from 1948-1967, Israel was responsible for huge rises in the standard of living of the Israeli Arabs, just as it was with the West Bankers and Gazans from 1967-1992. Despite all the wrongs Israel may have committed against the Palestinians, then and now, the fact remains that the Israelis were the only non-Arab population interested in raising their standard of living and quality of life.

The foreigners - with all of their aid, peace plans, initiatives, road maps and UN refugee agencies - were never able to do that. For 50 years the Palestinian refugee problem remained unsolved because the foreign powers did not want it solved. Certainly Israel would have been in favor of putting the refugees in permanent homes, and would have done so if they had been permitted to. The foreigners didn't let Israel do that, and instead had the UN administer the needs of the refugees so that the refugee problem would remain unsolved - all in order to keep the conflict alive.

So who is the true friend of the Arabs of Palestine, and who portrays themselves as such but keep the tragedy going, year in, year out? With which religion do Arabs have more in common, Judaism or Christianity? Who is better equipped to help the Palestinians develop their economy, Israelis or the foreigners?

To solve the conflict, both Arabs and Jews must realize that they are not each other's number one enemy, and that a third element is the reason the regional conflict continues. If we want to solve this seemingly never-ending human tragedy we must first understand where it comes from, and why it is still here. Then we can prescribe a remedy.

To get that ball rolling, the Arabs must see that Israel isn't responsible for creating the tension and hostility in the Middle East. It isn't Israel which is keeping radical Arab leaders in business; Israel isn't that powerful. The foreigners are bigger and stronger than Israel. If they wanted Israel to stop all settlement activity and withdraw to the 1967 border, they would have long ago forced Israel to do that. The existence of the settlements is the foreigners' guarantee that there will always be a reason to shake a finger at Israel.

The foreigners never get tough with Israel because solving the conflict is not their end goal. If the western countries boycotted Israel economically, broke off diplomatic relations, and cut off foreign assistance, the Israeli national leadership would do anything the foreigners demanded. This doesn't happen because the foreigners want the conflict to continue.

When Arabs accept the argument that "we hate America because of America's support for Israel," they are serving the foreign agenda. Arabs should hate America for what America has done to them directly - for corrupting Arab leaders, for keeping the Arab masses socially and economically backwards, for exploiting the Middle East's natural resources, and for wasting the Arab nations' financial resources on arms instead of regional economic development.

Jews and Arabs must realize that despite what foreign leaders say in public, the last thing they desire is peace in the Middle East. Since the first intervention by the British in the first decade of the 20th century, the primary cause of strife is the foreign elements and their desire to control the region's natural resources.

The Arabs are not a threat to the State of Israel

For the entire history of the Arab-Israeli conflict the Israeli public has been told two lies: that the Arabs in general - and the Palestinians in particular - are a threat to the continued existence of the Jewish state, and that the reason there is no peace in the region is because the Arabs don't "recognize" Israel.

Why would any country call its own existence into question by insisting that its neighbors acknowledge that it exists?

What it really means is that if an Arab country does acknowledge Israel's right to exist, it can expect something in return. So if Israeli diplomatic strategists had been smart, decades ago they would have announced that, the Israeli government doesn't acknowledge the existence of any Arab country. Then, if an Arab country decided to acknowledge Israel's existence, and asked what Israel would give it in return, Israel could say, "Israel will acknowledge your country's existence." Instead, Israeli leaders called their own nation's legitimacy into question by asking the Arabs to grant it legitimacy.

Israel is, therefore Israel is, and no recognition from any country - Arab or otherwise - is needed to confirm that fact. It matters not at all if Tunisia, Bahrain, Oman, Yemen, Libya, Syria or Iraq fails to acknowledge Israel's existence. In the past half century, not only has Israel survived without her existence being acknowledged by the majority of the Arab world, it has flourished.

The claim that the Arabs threaten Israel 's existence is also wrong. Even if the Arab world wanted to destroy Israel, this doesn't mean it can. Israel has the seventh largest military infrastructure in the world, and is technologically light years ahead of the Arab world. Despite Israel's clear military superiority, its national leadership keeps the Israeli public focused on the "Arab threat" so that the Israelis will continue to believe they are embroiled in a conflict with the whole Arab world.

To dispel the notion that the Arabs are a threat to Israel, take a close look at any Arab country. They are usually overpopulated, undereducated, economically undeveloped, and led by a dictatorship. No Arab country is able to produce its own weapons. No Arab country possesses any significant technological abilities, or has any real political or economic influence in the world.

So why should Israelis be afraid of Arab nations?

The only reason why Arab dictators are feared by the Israeli public is because the world's media present these dictators as "radicals" and "disturbers of regional peace" when in fact their nations are helpless, powerless, poor and weak.

Why should Israel fear that Arab dictators like Saddam Hussein could destroy or seriously harm the Jewish state when we know that all the weapons and military technology Iraq has acquired is from companies in the US, Britain, France, and Germany? If Israelis were to fear for their security, they should point a finger at these countries and accuse them of trying to destroy Israel by supplying military technology and weapons to "unstable" Arab dictators.

But that isn't what the Israeli national leadership tells its citizenry. It tells them "Arabs want to destroy Israel" rather than direct their collective anger at the western countries that approved these weapons sales. By doing so, it keeps the Israeli public convinced that the Arabs are the reason why the conflict continues.

Another falsehood presented by Israel's leaders - particularly those on the Right - is that if a Palestinian state were created it would promote terrorism and those terrorists would threaten the security of Israel. While terrorism is a problem for Israel, it doesn't pose a threat to her existence.

And while the Palestinian Authority definitely promoted terrorism right from the start of the Oslo Accords, the terrorism never came anywhere near destroying the Jewish state.

Since the early 1980s, Israel's leaders have been warning that Iran is "five years away from attaining nuclear weapons." Twenty years later, on June 5, 2003, Israel's foreign minister declared that "Iran would have Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) by 2006."

Why do Israeli national leaders try to scare the Israeli public into thinking the Arabs are a much bigger threat than they really are?

Oslo and beyond

One of the enigmas about the Oslo Accords is why the Israeli government agreed to allow the Palestinian Authority to maintain armed security forces, and why Israel even armed those security personnel with Israeli weapons? We were told that the Palestinian Authority needed those weapons to keep radical Palestinian groups in check. Yet from the very beginning, when Hamas began its suicide bombing in 1994, the Palestinian Authority never cracked down on the organization. While the Israelis complained to all who would listen that this was happening, no foreign entity ever criticized Arafat for not stopping the rise of Hamas in the West Bank and Gaza.

Israel's leaders at the time knew full well that the result was going to be a terrorist state, yet they agreed to this because that is what the foreigners wanted from Oslo - to strengthen the Palestinian side and weaken the Israeli side so the conflict could continue. The goal of Oslo's planners was never peace and stability; it was further bloodshed. That is why Oslo and Hamas came on the scene at the same time.

As for the reasons why the second intifada broke out, the mainstream press told us Arafat "was pissed because at Camp David in August 2000 Barak and Clinton didn't give him enough honor and respect" and thus Arafat was "posturing." The mainstream media also gave us another version - that because Sharon dared walk around on the Temple Mount, this "enflamed" the Palestinians.

That it could have been arranged (and thus didn't have to happen) never enters into the debate. Nobody asks whether Arafat thought he could really win a war against Israel. No western leader criticized Arafat for reneging on an international agreement which he signed with Israel never to return to war. Instead, the Middle East conflict was once again ignited, serving the foreigners while causing more death and destruction for the people who live in the region.

Sharon plays his part by remarking after every Hamas suicide bombing attack that Arafat is to blame, even though we are told the PA can't control Hamas. Then Bush throws the "moral card" out there and accuses Arafat of not doing enough to stop terrorism, so we are led to believe that Arafat is being morally irresponsible by initiating terrorism against Israel.

Presto. The Middle East conflict has been recharged. Israel's high moral ground is that "Arafat is behind the terrorism" and the Arabs' "high moral ground" is that Israel is "oppressing the Palestinians." Both claims are true, yet neither is the reason why the conflict continues. Such a scenario - whether by design or not - keeps the "you're wrong. No, you're wrong" structure of the conflict in place.

Like most things that happen between Israelis and Arabs, anything the Israelis do will be held up by the Arab side as proof that "Israel isn't serious about peace" (i.e. they are morally flawed), and by the same token, anything the Palestinians/Arabs do is held up by Israel as proof that "you see, the Arabs are not serious about peace" (i.e. they are morally deficient). This is the basic configuration of the conflict. Each side blames the other while the real culprits remain in the shadows.

Back in the early 1990s the only way to keep the Palestinian-Israeli conflict alive was to re-energize Arafat - arm his henchmen, and provide the PLO with a base of operations close to Israel. So if the Palestinian Authority supports terrorism it is with the complete knowledge and consent of Israel's leaders. Blaming Arafat merely serves the goal of the foreigners, which is to keep the conflict from dying out and to give the Israeli public an enemy to blame.

Therefore it really makes no sense for Israelis to continue to blame the Palestinians for the conflict not being solved, as neither Arafat nor anyone else in the Palestinian Authority has any real political or economic power. They aren't pulling any of the world's strings, so why concentrate on whether Arafat does or does not really want to put an end to terrorism? Whatever Arafat or any other Palestinian leader does or doesn't do will not have any impact on whether the conflict remains alive. The Palestinians/Arabs don't have the power required to keep the Middle East conflict alive. Only foreign elements do. The continued attempt to brainwash the Israeli public into thinking that the Arabs are a threat to Israel's security and survival is one reason why the conflict continues. If you want to have a conflict, you have to convince both sides that the other is to blame, always and forever. This is the way the Arabs and Jews have been pitted against each other.

Instead of rational explanations for why Middle East leaders do what they do, we are handed "morally-inspired" rationale. For instance, President Bush declared that Arafat had to be made "irrelevant" because, according to the US leader, he "disappointed him by not doing enough to stop terrorism." Having taken the high moral ground, Bush then began yet another Middle East peace initiative with the Roadmap. Once again, the mainstream media failed to present the picture as anything other than a moral crusade of the President to put his weight behind the peace process.

The public was told that the American plan envisioned a Palestinian state being created by 2005 (18 months from then) without any media source presenting the alternative view that such a plan was unreasonable and unlikely to take place. Instead of presenting the public with quality information and analyses, the media served the foreign interests and the Middle East conflict kept right on rolling.

Washington D-C archdiocese settles with clergy-abuse victims

<http://www.woi-tv.com/Global/story.asp?S=5825279&nav=1LFX>

WASHINGTON The Archdiocese of Washington D-C has agreed to pay one-point-three (m) million dollars to 16 men who say they were sexually abused by priests as far back as 1962.

An attorney representing the group says they're in "severe distress, emotionally, psychologically, financially and spiritually" and felt now was a good time to settle.

The allegations stem from events that occurred between 1962 and 1982. Two of the men who are receiving settlement money had already lost legal claims against the archdiocese.

Eight priests were involved in the allegations. They've all been removed from ministry.

Russian Intelligence reports, however, paint a startling different picture of this event in detailing Lt. Commander Nowak's flight across the United States yesterday from Tucson, Arizona where she was an 'official' NASA Observer with the Vatican Observatory Research Group Vatican Advanced Technology Telescope (VATT), at the Mount Graham International Observatory (MGIO) in southeastern Arizona.

These reports further state that the Vatican Telescope was tracking the 'anomalous object' that had 'grazed' our Earth's atmosphere over Siberia causing 100 square kilometers to be covered with the 'residue' this past week, and which many reports from that region described as 'multi-coloured' snow.

The 'anomalous object' was then reportedly 'brought down' by US Strategic Command Forces over North America on Sunday, and which resulted in an enormous Fireball seen throughout the Northern Regions of the United States, after which Lt. Commander Nowak began her attempt to flee the United States for protection from the Vatican.

Our previous reports have long detailed the Vatican's previous attempts to provide 'safe havens' to both American and Russian space officials, as well as their infiltrations of the United States space agency NASA.

Virtually unreported in the Western media have been the long standing efforts by the Vatican to utilize the World's space agencies in preparing for what they believe will be the precursor 'event' to the Great Earthquake foretold by their ancient prophecies, and which many believe the passing of the

<http://www.stuff.co.nz/stuff/waikatotimes/3951816a6579.html>>Great Comet of 2007 has indeed foretold.

To what exactly led too Lt. Commander Nowak's fearful run to flee the <st1:country-region w:st="on">United States</st1:country-region> for the protection of the <st1:country-region w:st="on"><st1:place w:st="on">Vatican</st1:place></st1:country-region> it is within our knowing.

But, even more strangely than this reason is the fact that rather than accept the truth of Lt. Commander Nowak's fears, the American people have been so indoctrinated that they will, instead, believe that one of their Nations top female graduates of their Naval Academy, distinguished female Navy Pilot with over ' 1,100 flight hours in more than 30 different aircraft', and NASA Astronaut, could even commit such a fairy tale crime as is being put upon this woman.[/dohtml]

Title: Jews into Palestine - Eric Phelps

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 8, 2007 01:25 AM (GMT)

Hi Eric, thanks for your great work. Why did the Germans in WW2 want to herd the Jews into Palestine? What purpose did it serve (for the end times)?

Thank you in advance.

xxxxxx

Dear xxxxxxx,

Thank you for contacting me.

The Pope's paramount Nazis and the Pope's subordinate Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists (Sabbatian Frankists) worked together for the entire duration of the war and thereafter. The purpose was two-fold:

- 1. To rid Europe and the historic "Pale of Settlement" of its racial Jews; the devil always delights to kill the race destined to inherit its Abrahamic promise after its national repentance and subsequent world reign of her Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ.
- 2. To re-establish the Pope's Dark Age "Kingdom of Jerusalem" (Israel) for the purpose of establishing a Jewish numerical supremacy in the area surrounding the Temple Mount so that the Third Hebrew Temple could be rebuilt after the destruction of the two mosques now on the Mount. The Third Temple will be built and used by the final Pope turned Antichrist to dwell in as he becomes "the abomination of desolation" as spoken of by Christ in Matthew 24:15.

This is why Hitler, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Himmler, Weizmann, Ben-Gurion, Churchill, Stalin, FDR, the World Jewish Congress, Franco and Mussolini all worked together during the Crusade. The Israel now created is to serve as the geographical slaughter-pen for the Pope's final attempted annihilation of the racially beloved Hebrew/Jewish/Israelitic people during "the time of Jacob's trouble."

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric

Masonic Jewish Labor Zionism originates with Shabbetai Tzvi, born in 1626, died in 1676, Jacob Frank is his followup guy : born in 1726, died in 1791. picks up followers of Tzvi, the Shabbetianians, creates Shabbetian Frankists, creates the Zohar Sect, the Kabballah, Freemasonry. From these emerge the Masonic Jewish Zionists.

In 1751, Jacob Frank declares himself the Messiah, and abandons the Torah in favor for the Zohar. He is also an immoral individual. In 1756 Jacob Frank and his followers are ex-communicated by the Jewish Community. see Enc.Brit.(1970 ed.) He was protected by the Roman Catholic Authorities. This is very important. In 1756 the Jesuits ruled the Papacy, as they were not yet kicked out of the Vatican. In 1773 the Jesuit controlled Vatican protected Jacob Frank.

The Jesuits wanted to use the Shabbetian Frankists to control all the Jews, and through Jacob Frank they rightfully attack the Talmud. As we know the Talmud calls the Lord Jesus Christ a bastard and his mother a whore.

Now we know why certain peoples would be led to despise the Jews and why it has always been easy for the Jesuits to use them as the scapegoat, the Talmud is often still brought up to justify anti Jewish propoganda.

The Jesuits then could start to release pogroms (organized persecution of an ethnic group (especially Jews)) inside Europe and Poland, using the Talmud to enflame hatred towards the Jews and using the Shabbetian Frankists as evidence of the Jews "Heresy". In 1759 Jacob Frank and his followers are baptized into the Roman Catholic Institution in Warsaw. He became Joseph Frank the King of Poland, Augustus III was his Godfather.

QUOTE

"By 1750, the Society of Jesus was composed of the most powerful group of men in the world. They were the confessors of nearly every king in Europe including the Pope. The Jesuit General knew the affairs of every nation and his soldiers were making millions of dollars for the Order."

From [2] page 47,48 :

"It is known that political scientists are divided as to the Illuminati and its relationship with the Communist Party. There is no argument about the relationship between the Illuminati and the Jacobins, who executed the terror during the French Revolution.

There is also no argument among prominent Judaica Scholars as to the continuum that existed between Jewish-born heretics who were followers of the false Messiah Shabbetai Tzvi (1626-1676) through his successors, the radical practitioners of the Shabbetanian cult called the Frankists (named after their founder, Jacob Frank (1726-1791), the Jacobins and the Reform movement.

The Illuminati paralleled the Frankists in both time and geography, the seat of both movements being in Germany- the Illuminati in Ingolstadt, Bavaria, and the Frankists in Offenbach after 1786.

We shall demonstrate that from the Jewish perspective there is a relationship between the Illuminati and the Communists.

The connection between the Frankists and Jacobins, and Frankists and the Reform movement, has been brought to light by one of the greatest living authorities on the mystical Kabbalistic literature, Professor Gerschom G. Scholem () of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem."

Furthermore we have the testimony of John Robinson in his "Proofs of a Conspiracy", published in 1798, which details the development of the Illuminati and its rise to power, their connection with the Jacobins, and with the Jesuits trademark terror that took place during the French Revolution.

Looking over a few pages on the council of trent may also help you explain the whole concept that these "Zionist Figureheads" are used by the Jesuits as the main strong arm of the agenda, but they are used so the Jews are perceived as the bad guys when infact these people behind Zionism like Jacob Frank, Mayor Amschel Baur, and Weishaupt are subservient to the Pope.

Even today we can look at Silverstein, Weinberger etc all these "court Jews" are flaunted in front, when they are Masons and Knights Of Malta and have an allegiance to the Pope first mis-directing the blame and fulfilling certain prophecy...

MoroccoMole - February 6, 2007 05:33 PM (GMT)

The Jesuits were suppressed in 1773. Their response was to create the Illuminati in their old stronghold of Bavaria. Adam Weishaupt was a German Gentile and a prof of Canon Law at Ingolstadt University---the Jesuits being formally absent due to their expulsion from Roman Catholic Bavaria.

Weishaupt joined the Bavarian Masonic lodge in 1777 and then united with the Rothschilds. Because the Order had ceased to exist (formally) it had to find a holder for its fortune in banks domiciled in non-Roman Catholic countries. This spelled Prussia, Russia and England. The keepers of this massive Jesuit treasure derived from their South American Reductions were the Rothschilds, then financing the Illuminati. The Order then started the French Revolution for the punishment of the Bourbon and Hapsburg dynasties, beheading King Louis XVI and his Hapsburg Queen.

Any accurate history on the French Revolution will admit that the Rothschilds financed the Jacobins and Napoleon. In fact, after the Revolution, the Order's controlled European press sought to blame the revolution on the Jews!<my emphasis>

Mayor Amschel Baur(Rothschild) lived in and around the city of Frankfurt, where he would be used to implement the French Revolution, at this stage in history we see the Jesuits had just finished their communist reductions and were now going to use this money to further the NWO/ Temporal Rule agenda during their suppression, utilising the Rothschilds and Weishaupt in conjunction with Jacob Frank, "the real experienced magician and cabballah specialist" who suddenly came to great wealth after having moved to Offenbach 1786 assuming the title of "Baron of Offenbach"

Many Frankists went to war as "Jacobins" in the French revolution, one of which was Jacob Franks own Nephew;

In 1792, in the wake of the French Revolution, he traveled via Strasbourg to Paris and became a Jacobin, changing his name...

and about the Jacobins we read:

In the context of the French Revolution, a Jacobin originally meant a member of the Jacobin Club (1789-1794), but even at that time, the term Jacobins had been popularly applied to all promulgators of extreme revolutionary opinions: for example, "Jacobin democracy" is synonymous with totalitarian democracy. In contemporary France this term refers to the concept of a centralised Republic, with power concentrated in the national government, at the expense of local or regional governments.<my emphasis>

From wikipedia

As we know Absolutist government subservient to the Pope and Black Pope is the Objective of the JEsuit Order and the only means of enforcing universal Temporal Rule and instigating "A New Dark Age", the Frankists were fighting for the Vatican and Mayer Amschel Baur was funding the French Revolution in which many horrendous and heinous acts were conducted with the "Vatican Treasury".

It is the Cabalistic group in Judaism which is actively working to bring a messiah to the earth.

It was King Solomon who in his apostasy developed the "hidden religion" within Judaism about 1000 years B.C. It was Solomon who took the number "666" as his identification number (I Kings 10:14), and who built a throne that was designed as "666." (I Kings 10:18-20). It was Solomon who took the ancient occult teachings and began to develop them into what today is known as the "CABALA." (Kabbalah) Today, the Jewish writings known as the "Cabala" consists of some 550 books. (It is important that you do not confuse the Cabala with the Talmud.....

Meyer Amschel (a rabbinically trained German Jew who later took the name Rothschild) was firmly established in the German city, Frankfurt am Main, with an emerging banking house as early as 1764. The leader of the Cabala at that time, Jakob Frank (a Polish born Jew with the family name of Leibowicz) lived in the German city of Offenbach (just south of the city of Frankfurt) from 1773. Johann Adam Weishaupt (from a Jewish family that had converted to the Roman Catholic Church) was at Ingolstadt in 1770, a German city in Bavaria. With these three men, the stage was set to ignite a hell fire that would forever bring changes to the world.

At this point in time, it is not known who "supervised" these three Jewish men, but it is obvious that someone directed their efforts. On May 1, 1776, just two months before the declaration of Independence in America, the Order of Illuminati was founded by Weishaupt. At this time Weishaupt was 28 years old, Amschel was 32 years old and Frank was 50 years old. Meyer Amschel financed Adam Weishaupt and Jakob Frank laid the cabalistic theological foundation for the Order of the Illuminati.

It is demonstrable how all three men Kabbalistic/Freemasonic? Zionist Jews were linked to the Jesuit Order which was of course suppressed in 1773, using these figureheads the order could continue to exert the influence and conduct the espionage needed to ignite the french Revolution.

The real linking factor in the story however is Franks time in Poland we read from Vatican Assassins page 220, Chapter 15;

"The Jesuit Order was now formally banned by Pope Clement XIV's Bull of Suppression issued in 1773.

The Bull was effective in countries where the Roman Catholic Church and the Civil State were united. In countries where another Church was united with the State, the Bull would not be enforced. Such was the case with Prussia and Russia....."

So the Order which previously had a grip on the most of Europe could Flourish in Russia and Prussia which had a unification of Orthodox church and state and so was not obliged to enforce the papal Bull, they would go about their business in Poland by using Jacob Frank, as outlined, setting up the Labour zionist network through which they could continue their temporal rule agenda throughout the suppression...

The following is a transcript from a radio interview you might want to take in...

http://www.cloakanddagger.de/shows/_archiv...ps_zionisms.mp3

Eric Phelps:

In 1773 the society of Jesus is suppressed. Catherine The Great of Russia and Frederick the Great of Prussia however protected the Jesuits. The Papal Bull was of no effect in Poland. The 1st partition of Poland was started by Catherine and Frederick. As a result the Papal Bull has no effect on Poland. Poland is ruled by a Lutheran King and Orthodox Queen. The Jesuits as a result are home free in Poland. The Russians come in and release Jacob Frank. So the Jesuits used the Russians to release Jacob Frank.

Lenny Bloom:

You connected the dots Eric!

Eric Phelps:

Jacob Frank died in 1791. His descendants, that wicked Papacy serving sect, merge with the Roman catholic community. Men like Shimon Perez and David Ben Gurion and others come from this community. Stooges of the Hof Jews! The Jesuits then begin to fire up their pogroms against the Jews in Poland and Russia, to justify the ignition of the Bolshevistic Revolution and to overthrow the Tsars. The people will however never know that Tsar Nicholas II was behind all this. The people will however never know that the Knights of Malta secretly supported the Bolshevistic Revolution, even though Lenin expelled the Knight of Malta openly, so that it looks like the Bolsheviks are against the Knights of Malta. But in effect the American Knights of Malta are financing the entire Bolshevik Revolution.

Lenny Bloom:

Ahh the old Hegelian Dialectic Trick!

Eric Phelps:

Correct Correct. And what now happens is that Russian Knights of Malta go in exile in the Jesuit city of Paris. They then align themselves with the Nazis and the Vici Government, because obviously the Bolsheviks were all run by those Jews. However the Jesuits are running the Bolsheviks. But the leading Bolsheviks are the Shabbetian Frankists who have been part of the Papacy for 150 years.

We have men like Leon Trotsky, he's a Masonic Jew. His right-hand man was a Jew by the name of Moses Pinkeles, also known as Trebitsch Lincoln. Trebitsch Lincoln helped Leon Trotsky build the Red Army. According to the man who was Hitlers doctor and who wrote the book "I was Hitlers Doctor", he claims that Trebitsch Lincoln saved the wife of the Fuhrer one day, along with Dietrich Eckhart when there was a putsch in Berlin that failed. Trebitsch Lincoln warned Hitler to go back to Bavaria or else he might get arrested. So Trebitsch Lincoln was a Masonic Jewish Zionist working for the Jesuits backing both Trotsky and the creation of the Red Army, and saving Hitlers life and ultimately finances the "Volkischer Beobachter" paper, the Nazi Paper out of Munich!

Miranda believes his life and teachings actually supersede those of Jesus of Nazareth. A point which he emphasizes by referring to himself as the Antichrist and by exhibiting a "666" tattoo on his forearm.

Now he has loads of cash diamond rings on his fingers and bells on his toes.

Growing in Grace: Followers of De Jesus believe he is Lord

<http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/16840066/site/newsweek>

He Calls Himself God

A Puerto Rican minister says Christ 'integrated' with him. Others call him a cult leader and a charlatan.

By Arian Campo-Flores
Newsweek

Feb. 5, 2007 issue - At first glance, the congregation gathered in a warehouse in Doral, Fla., seems like a typical Hispanic evangelical group. There's the 10-piece band, the singing and swaying, the whooping and hollering. But look a little more closely. There's not a cross in sight. The lectern is emblazoned with a near replica of the U.S. presidential seal, except that it reads in Spanish, government of god on earth. Off to the side stand three burly guys in dark suits with Secret Service-style earpieces. When a door by the stage opens, the guards leap into action. They surround the man with slicked-back hair who emerges and escort him to his seat. When the crowd spots him, it goes wild. People chant, "Lord! Lord! Lord!" It quickly becomes clear that they're referring to him. "It's Jesus Christ himself!" a preacher onstage announces. "Let's welcome Jesus Christ Man!"

In the rapturous eyes of his flock, Jose Luis de Jesus Miranda is, in fact, the second coming of Christ. As the head of the Growing in Grace International Ministry, he presides over a sprawling organization that includes more than 300 congregations in two dozen countries, from Argentina to Australia. He counts more than 100,000 followers and claims to reach millions more through a 24-hour TV channel, a radio show and several Web sites. He is supported by the generosity of his devotees, who have launched some 450 businesses to pour cash into Growing in Grace's coffers. Though de Jesus' followers worship him, others denounce him as a charlatan. Everyone, however, agrees on one thing: his teachings are incendiary.

A native of Puerto Rico, de Jesus, 60, spent his youth drifting from the Roman Catholics to the Pentecostals to the Baptists. Then one night in 1973, he says, he awoke to a vision of two hulking men at his bedside who announced the arrival of the Lord, who, says de Jesus, "came to me and integrated with me." In the early years after founding Growing in Grace in Miami in 1986, de Jesus didn't claim to be Christ. Instead, he worked as a pastor spreading his doctrine: that under a new covenant with God, there is no sin and no Satan, and people are predestined to be saved. But as his following expanded, his claims did, too. In 1998, de Jesus avowed that he was the reincarnation of the Apostle Paul. Two years ago at Growing in Grace's world convention in Venezuela, he declared himself Christ. And just last week, he called himself the Antichrist and revealed a "666" tattooed on his forearm. His explanation: that, as the second coming of Christ, he rejects the continued worship of Jesus of Nazareth.

All members of Growing in Grace are expected to tithe—which, along with offerings, yielded $1.4 million for headquarters last year. One of the first orders of business at every service is the collection of money (credit cards accepted). Those who have pledged their businesses to de Jesus donate much more. Alvaro Albarracín, a savvy, successful businessman given the title Entrepreneur of Entrepreneurs by de Jesus, is an example. Over the course of Albarracín's 14 years in the church, he estimates that he's given roughly $2.5 million. Such funds help underwrite a lavish lifestyle for de Jesus, including diamond-encrusted gold rings and fancy cars. But most of the money goes to his broadcast operation.

Some observers call Growing in Grace a cult. De Jesus exerts total authority over the ministry. As a result, many have defected over the years, including Albarracín's mother, Regina, who initially turned her son on to the church. "They brainwash you," she says. Because of their disagreement, Regina and her son haven't spoken in years (she now attends an evangelical church). "This is my only family," Alvaro says of Growing in Grace. Such submission concerns Daniel Alvarez, a religious-studies instructor at Florida International University. "I hope [de Jesus] doesn't metamorphose into Jim Jones," he says, referring to the cult leader who led his followers to mass suicide in Guyana. "He has that kind of control over people." (De Jesus responds that congregants are free to come and go as they please.)

Over the past year, de Jesus has encouraged his followers to protest the alleged lies of other churches. In response, supporters have picketed Catholic congregations and burned religious materials, including crucifixes. "Our purpose is to open up people's minds," says de Jesus' right-hand man, Carlos Cestero, who says that the group rejects violence. Jesus wouldn't have it any other way—the question is whether de Jesus feels the same.

emphasizes by referring to himself as the Antichrist and by exhibiting a "666" tattoo on his forearm.

why is 666 the beast or antichrist? none of these people really know about 666. it was around way before christians or anti-christians. i don't even think people in high places know what it means. I, personally, don't know what it all means, but i do feel that I have a better understanding and a better approach than most. it is a number(s) with some extraordinary properties, and like I said before on this forum, this number haunts me in the sense that I do see it everywhere I go. for example, I took a 15 minute car-ride yesterday, and saw the number at least 10-15 times whether it was on car's lic plates or phone numbers, bus stops, or 3 packs of 6 birds flying in my viewable horizon. i didn't read but the first paragraph or so of the above article.

The sum of the squares of the first 7 primes is 666:

$$666 = 2^2 + 3^2 + 5^2 + 7^2 + 11^2 + 13^2 + 17^2$$

The sum of the first 144 (= (6+6)·(6+6)) digits of pi is 666.

16661 is the first beastly palindromic prime, of the form 1[0...0]666[0...0]1. The next one after 16661 is which can be written concisely using the notation 1 0(13) 666 0(13) 1, where the subscript tells how many consecutive zeros there are. () is subscript

A very special kind of prime number [first mentioned to me by G. L. Honaker, Jr.] is a prime, p (that is, let's say, the k th prime number) in which the sum of the decimal digits of p is equal to the sum of the digits of k . The beastly palindromic prime number 16661 is such a number, since it is the 1928'th prime, and

$$1 + 6 + 6 + 6 + 1 = 1 + 9 + 2 + 8. \text{ side note: } 19 \text{ and } 28 \text{ are keith numbers}$$

[from Martin Gardner's "Dr. Matrix" columns] The Dewey Decimal System classification number for "Numerology" is 133.335. If you reverse this and add, you get

$$133.335 + 533.331 = 666.666$$

The following fact is quite well known, but still interesting: If you write the first 6 Roman numerals, in order from largest to smallest, you get 666:

$$DCLXVI = 666.$$

[from Simon Whitechapel] A mathematically important number sequence is:

7, 17, 19, 23, 29, 47, 59, 61, 97, 109, 113, 131, 149, ...

which is the sequence of primes p whose reciprocal in base 10 has maximum period $p-1$. The last one, $1/149$ with period 148, has the following digits after the decimal point (which then repeat):

0067114093959731543624161073825503355
7046979865771812080536912751677852348
2953020134228187919463087248322147651

As luck would have it, the sum of these is 666. If these 148 numbers (the first 148 digits of 1/149) are written as the top row of a 148x148 square grid, and then the digits of 2/149 as the second row, then 3/149 and so on, the result is a 148x148 pseudo-magic square, in which every row and column sums to 666.

The internet auction web-page, frame from the Rossiya channel

The Russian Orthodox Church was outraged after a skull and bone supposedly belonging to St. Phillip had showed up for sale online, BBC reported Tuesday.

It is reported that the Russian Web site which had the relics up for sale described them as the "remains of an Orthodox saint, in good condition, with an inscription on the cranium confirming the saint's name."

The church called the advertisement immoral, but did not state whether it thinks the bone and skull are original.

The item's seller, Boris Georgiev, told the reporters he was "acting on behalf a friend."

Georgiev said that the 16th-Century relic was found along with the remaining pieces from the St. Petersburg Atheism Museum that was closed after the collapse of the Soviet Union.

Before the church stepped in, the relics were not very popular. But since prelates voiced their indignation with the sale many people have called about the item.

"My phone has been ringing all day today," Georgiev said. "But I have to disappoint potential bidders: The relic is no longer on sale. This morning, the owner called me to say she'd changed her mind."

Title: If Jesuits liked the Nazis then.....

Pastor Steve - January 11, 2007 01:39 PM (GMT)

WHY would they have let them lose the war if they're really as all powerful as some folks on here seem to think?

Several people on here seem to come from the point of view that the Jesuits wanted the Nazis to succeed.

Hitler's Right Hand Man, Rudolf Hess, was a top Ostara Mason and an expert on World Masonry. He knew every single lodge in the world and kept records on them. He was in close contact with Scottish Masonry. In 1939 Hess flew all the way to Scotland in a final, desperate attempt to prevent war amongst racial cousins. He could easily have flown to Dover, Cornwall or Margate, but instead chose the hazardous, long solitary flight to the north of Scotland. His aim was to meet Scottish masons and urge them to convince the British fraternity to avert the slaughter.

Churchill, an English Lodge Mason, was by then at least completely under the control of the international-manipulators. In 1938 Henry Strakosch (not a Zulu) had given him one hundred and fifty thousand pounds and shares in South African gold mines in order to bail him out of his personal financial troubles, HE HAD TO BE UNDER THE THUMB OF THE JESUITS. Churchill killed the Hess peace attempt. He even refused to meet him! Wouldn't the Jesuits have been seeking the Nazis to be victorious?

I see little or no Jesuit connection to Rudolf Hess, I'm just going by what folks say on here that they're supposedly at the top running the show. Hess would have probably been one of the best candidates of a Jesuit being born & from an German settlement in Egypt, such a prestigious mason, etc. Many here would label him as a Jesuit Prince. Maybe someone could fill me in on the truth? Where's the connection to the papal Jesuits? Could Hess, Hitler, and the rest all been part of the Jesuit Papal Orders & Knights of Malta, when all they wanted to do was kill their own supposed "Best Leaders"? Well I have one answer to that: "every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand."

Hess, Hitler & company could in no way be Jesuit Princes, and I doubt anywhere near a part of that order, especially when they OUTLAWED Jesuits. So no one misunderstand who's who in this whole thing, this should be learned. We know Hitler outlawed all the Jesuits, etc. So where's this connection? He outlawed their banks, restored prosperity to the country, and ran out all the jews, what folks on here call "pawns" of the Jesuits. Do some research on the merovingian bloodlines, the black nobility is khazarian-jew, including all the black popes.

I'm at least trying to get people thinking a bit here. I can see the kingdom of darkness, now focus in on where's the kingdom of light in the bible because they shall be greater and more powerful once they awake saith the word of God. This site is full of lots of truths, but then lots of strange conclusions way off the accepted mainstream in order to entertain new-age occultic books etc. Many proper conclusions & uses of these truths have been well known & practiced in mainstream traditional Christianity and have preserved God's people while governments will come & go. Jesus is the answer, accept Him as Lord today for eternal salvation, and live by His word preserved miraculously in the King James Bible, for fullness of life in every area of life. Satan tries to get everyone focused on only 10% of the picture of what God gives, fragments of life. One example is the devil focuses people on a person's body, while God turns us on the the whole package, body, mind and spirit. Another example could be with foods, how satan does this in so many areas of anything, even our thought-life. God gives us the whole enchilada to enjoy in all things in Love, Joy and Peace, the fruit of the spirit.

"Give thanks in all things, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you!"

The Holy Spirit is watching over His people and is fulfilling His divine word in every generation to protect us through the storm. Some ask, well why does God allow disaster? Well after Adam sinned we're in a fallen world, and He wants to make His OVERCOMMERS who can now inherit throneship in His coming Kingdom as actual sons & daughters of the creator. His covenant says we will always rule, and seed will always be blessed, see the Abrahamic covenant. It also says we will have trials and punishments from God for disobeying His eternal laws.

I PROPOSE GOD IS THE ONE IN CONTROL, NOT THE JESUITS. JESUS IS COMING BACK SOON, I CAN ALMOST SEE HIM IN THE FAR DISTANCE COMING UPON HIS WHITE HORSE TO MAKE REPAYMENT.

Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

You're going to make it!

Here are some other enlightenings on the so called Jesus the Christ.

THE BIBLE AS SYMBOL

Our first order of business in this quest is to see if we can justify considering the Bible as symbolic rather than literal. We must use the Bible itself.

1. 2Corinthians 3:6 Who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. So here is the Bible itself telling us not to take it literally.

2. Galatians 4:24 Which things are an allegory: Remember that as we showed the definition of a myth, it included the term allegory. Here again the Bible tells us it is symbolic.

3. Matthew 13:34 All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them: The Bible is saying that all of Jesus statements were symbolic.

4. Mark 4:11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables: Here the fact that this is all consciousness is made clear. It says to know the mystery of the Kingdom of God. Where is the Kingdom of God ? . (Luke 17:21 Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.) The statement concludes by saying that "unto them that are without". Outside of the meditative state. Outside of the inner realm of consciousness where exists the Kingdom of God..

5. Psalm 78:2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark sayings of old: Here the Bible states that GOD speaks in parables . And what are dark sayings of old. Obviously they are symbolic statements.

6. Finally the Book of Proverbs describes wisdom. It explains how one becomes wise. Proverbs 1:6 To understand a proverb, and the interpretation; the words of the wise, and their dark sayings.

Thus we have substantial evidence throughout the Bible to suggest that it is a symbolic book and should not be taken literally. With this evidence, we can then proceed to look at the crucifixion of Jesus Christ as a symbolic story.

JESUS AS A PICTURE OF THE SUN

First Indication: The first indication that we have that Jesus is actually a symbol of the Sun comes from the fact that the name Jesus is a Greek name. In Greek all of the letters of the alphabet have numerical values. The Greek letters that make up the name Jesus have a numerical value of 888 which in Greek is the number of the mythical sun. Thus the name Jesus was created to apply to the center of this story because it means, the Sun, the light of the world, the fire in the sky.

The Sun in the Sky and the Solar Plexus energy in the human body.

JESUS AND THE TRAJECTORY OF THE SUN

Second Indication: The second indication that we have is that the story line surrounding the life of Jesus is remarkably identical to the trajectory of the Sun which is actually perceived by the movement of the earth.

Consider: Jesus is born of a Virgin, (The Sun is born in September , the 9th month out of the constellation Virgo, the Virgin.)

Jesus is crucified.

(The Sun falling to its farthest southern point in the ecliptic brought the attention of the ancients to the constellation, The Southern Cross ,though the sun occupied Capricorn. The Southern Cross in the southern hemisphere became the focus of the crucifixion when the sun made its apparent southern journey in what we know as the winter solstice. At this time we encounter the shortest day of the year, Dec 21 where there is more darkness then any other day.

Jesus is 3 days and 3 nights in the tomb. (The Sun is in the lowest part of the earth on December 22,23,and 24, it is the winter solstice. Three days and three nights.)

Jesus is traditionally born on Dec 25th. (The Sun rises out of the winter solstice on Dec. 25th.)

Thirty years after his Birth Jesus enters the water of the waterman John the Baptist. (Thirty days after Dec 25th the Sun enters the sign of the waterman Aquarius.)

Jesus then selects his disciples from the fishermen. (The Sun enters the sign Pisces, the Fish.)

Jesus becomes the Lamb of God that takes away the sins of the world.(The Sun enters the sign of the Lamb Aries which takes away the cold of the winter and brings the new life of the Spring.)

Jesus rises to sit at the right hand of the father. (The Sun right ascends in the Northern Hemisphere to the Eastern sky or the right side, and on June 21st we have the longest day of the year.

Jesus concludes his ministry as the Lion of Judah in the Book of Revelation. (The Sun concludes its journey in August in the Sign of Leo the Lion.)

What could be more obvious then that Jesus is the Sun of God, the Light of the World.

THE HUMAN BODY CONNECTION

First Indication: There are similar attributes that occur in the body and the universe that must lead one to consider their implications. Dr Gary Toller of Goddard Space Labs, as well as Stephen Hawkings and the scientific community report that we can only see 10% of the universe. 90% is hidden. This is curious when we consider that it is estimated that we use 10% of our brain.

Second Indication: There are 12 signs of the Zodiac and 12 constellations that are in the apparent path of the Sun called the Ecliptic. There are 12 cranial nerves in the human brain

THE KUNDALINI FACTOR

Let us look at three factors here. The apparent movement of the Sun in the sky, the Hindu Kundalini and the Christian Book of Life. If we can show a harmony, we should then be able to show the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ to actually be both a bodily, as well as a cosmic function.

1. The Apparent Movement of the Sun. The Sun appears to move in a right ascension from the point of the Virgin, (Virgo) to Aries. From the darkness of winter to new life in the spring. It takes seven months, Sept/Oct-Oct/Nov-Nov/Dec-Dec/Jan-Jan/Feb-Feb/Mar-Mar/Apr 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

2. The Hindu Kundalini: From the Solar Plexus (the place of the sun) in the human body, the energy moves up through the spinal canal through seven chakras to impact the Pineal Gland of the brain. >From there it activates the right hemisphere.

KUNDALINI AND THE BOOK OF REVELATION

3. The Christian Book of Life: Revelation 5:1 provides the following description. " And I saw in the right hand (right hemisphere of the brain/eastern sky or right side), of him who sat on the throne ,(higher consciousness), a book, (the book of life), written within (within the human body), and on the back side, (the spinal canal), sealed with seven seals. (Seven months/Seven Chakras).

We have thus shown a harmony between the movement of the outer Sun, the Hindu Kundalini, and the Christian Book of Life. We can now proceed to follow the Biblical instructions and show the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ as part of this great cosmic harmony between the human brain and the universe or cosmic brain.

THE CRUCIFIXION DESCRIPTION

We have suggested through scripture that Jesus is a symbol of the Sun, Solar Plexus energy, light and fire. We have seen that there is a harmony between the universe and the human brain. So now we begin to explore the scripture and see if we can present substantial evidence that the crucifixion which is the way to salvation takes place in the universe and in our heads.

EVIDENCE : Where does the scripture say that the crucifixion takes place? The answer is Golgotha which means "the place of the skull".

EVIDENCE: What is another name for the place where the crucifixion took place? Luke 23:33 says that it took place on Mt. Calvary. Calvary is from the Latin calvaria which means skull. It is a translation of the Greek Kranion which means cranium. Stedmans Medical Dictionary defines the word calvaria (or calvary). The upper domelike portion of the skull. The roof of the skull.

EVIDENCE : Scripture defines Jesus as the "testator". The one who dies and provides an inheritance. We are to inherit from his sacrifice. As it speaks in Hebrews 9:16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator. The root of the word testator is the Latin "testa" which means skull.

Thus the evidence is clear that the crucifixion of Jesus Christ takes place in the human skull and is an act of consciousness.

CRUCIFIXION DETAIL

We have suggested that Jesus is the Sun and light in the universe and Solar Plexus energy in the human body. So let us see then how this plays itself out and the impact of crucifixion in us and in the cosmos.

1. GODS WILL: Understand that the crucifixion of Christ is Gods will. The people that crucify Christ are the good guys. The ones who try to prevent it are Gods enemies. In the Bible , Peter tries to protect Jesus from the crucifixion. Jesus calls him Satan. "Get behind me Satan". Thus if Crucifixion is something that occurs in consciousness. If indeed it is an act of meditation that takes the energy from the solar plexus to the brain, think about who it is that tries to frustrate people away from doing this. Who is it that screams cult whenever Kundalini or meditation above the mind is mentioned. Who is Satan ?

2. YOU MUST CARRY THE CROSS: In the story they made Simon of Cyrene carry the cross up the hill to Golgotha or Calvary. This means that the energy will not rise up to the place of the skull by itself. You must make it happen. Only by meditation can you cause the energy to rise up the spine to the place of the skull where the crucifixion can take place. The word Simon means " hearing". Those who hear and understand, and are open to this meditative process are the ones who will carry the cross up the hill of the spine to Calvary. It won't happen on its own and all the Bible studies, church attendance, or donations in the world will not make it happen. You must get the cross up the hill. Its totally up to you.

3. DON'T LET THEM DRUG YOU: It says in the Bible that they offered Jesus vinegar and gall to drink. This was a narcotic to deaden the pain. It was refused. This is a symbol of the action that religion will take to deceive you and to lull you to sleep with all kinds of different religious activities that will prevent you from having to experience the crucifixion. They do not want you to find the wonder that lies within you because then you no longer need them. Experience your inner crucifixion. Refuse their drug.

GAMBLING WITH THE GARMENT

The scripture says in Matthew 27:35 that as they crucified him they parted his garments and cast lots. Now remember, we have shown that all of this is inside of the human body and specifically in the skull.

In the skull at the point of the hippocampus (the place of memory) is an organ called Ammons horn. Another name for Ammon is Amen. Revelation 3:14 calls Jesus " The Amen". Thus Jesus is placed in the skull both by scripture and by medical terminology as Ammons Horn.

Now we can find the garment referred to in the scripture. Stedmans Medical dictionary defines the hippocampus of the brain as, " the medial margin (hem) of the corticle (outer) , mantle (garment). The hem of the garment.

Thus the scripture is saying that those who gamble with the garment of Jesus are gambling with their own minds. They are gambling with their own awareness, understanding, enlightenment, and yet they have no idea.

THE FIVE WOUNDS

The five wounds that Jesus takes, hands, feet and side, symbolize the crucifixion ,or shutting down of the 5 senses, sight, taste, touch, smell and hearing.

OTHER CRUCIFIED SAVIORS

The crucifixion is a myth that has run through numerous religions throughout the ages. Just taking a look at other ancient religions proves this point.

From the book the Pattern Life by Homer Curtiss on page 191 we find the following.

Crishna was crucified to a tree by the arrows of a hunter. Pictures of Crishna as Wittoba show the nail holes in both feet and hands from his crucifixion. Indra was crucified in Nepaul. Lactanius says that Apollo of Miletus was nailed to a tree or was crucified.

Tammuz the Syrian Adonis was called the crucified savior of mankind. Prometheus, the Sun Savior was crucified by being nailed to the rocks of Mt. Caucasus near the Caspian Straits. Sarapis was called the savior and his cross was found in his temple in Alexandria.

The Phrygian Attis was tied to his cross. Iao was called the crucified savior. Adonis was crucified as a dove. The Egyptian savior Osiris was crucified in the heavens as was also Horus. Samiramis was crucified by King Staurobates.

The Mexicans and Peruvians worshipped the savior Quetzalcoatl, crucified for the sins of mankind. The Indians of Cozumal represent their Son of God, Bacob as dying on a cross. Pindar says that Ixion was the Sun at noonday crucified in the heavens on his four-spoked wheel.

The Encyclopedia Britannica tells us that the cross of crucifixion has been used as a religious symbol from the dawn of man's civilization at least ten centuries before the Christian era.

It is all mythology and those of the west have been forced to consider a symbol as literally true and thus have bowed to a symbol of execution. If the event occurred today people of the west would walk around with golden electric chairs dangling from their necks or possibly given today's method, hypodermic needles.

Here are some other enlightenings on the so-called Jesus the Christ.

This is only if you don't believe as our Forefathers & Millions still do as in every generation,

That the whole Bible is the inspired Word of God, without error in the original writings, the complete revelation of His will for the salvation of men and the Divine and final authority for Christian faith and life.

And as the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1801 established in the 39 articles of religion:

VI. Of the Sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures for Salvation.

HOLY Scripture containeth all things necessary to salvation: so that whatsoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man, that it should be believed as an article of the Faith, or be thought requisite or necessary to salvation. In the name of the Holy Scripture we do understand those Canonical Books of the Old and New Testament, of whose authority was never any doubt in the Church. Of the Names and Number of the Canonical Books. (See Authorized, King James, Version, for listing) And the other Books (as Hierome saith) the Church doth read for example of life and instruction of manners; but yet doth it not apply them to establish any doctrine; such are these following (See Authorized, King James, Version, of Apocrypha for listing.) All the Books of the New Testament, as they are commonly received, we do receive, and account them Canonical.

Yes, many many SCIENTISTS, Professors, Doctors, and Attorneys have written many books on PROVING the divinity of God's word PRESERVED in the Holy King James Bible. Besides the ones that wrote the books, still a thousand times as many scientists believe the Christian account of creation than the darwinistic, and believe our Bible is divine.

The Jesuits utilized the Nazis Steve. Now, you are going to activate me. This time I really didn't respond that much, but this time, I will respond for real forever on this issue if necessary. There is a Jesuit connection to the Nazis since the Nazis modeled the Jesuits after the Nazis. A Jesuit priest help wrote Mien Kampf. Joseph Goebbels was a Catholic and Hitler was a Catholic. The Vatican and the Nazi regime signed a concordat in 1933, which was never revoked. So, if you believe that there is no Vatican/Nazi link, you're living in a fantasy. Many Jesuits supported the Third Reich for a time. The Jesuits allowed the Nazis to lose, because the Jesuits had an open and closet policy. Their open policy was to dissent with the Nazis, but the Jesuit used the Nazis as an excuse to kill "heretics" such as Protestants, Jewish people, liberal Catholics, etc. I'm not even mentioning the Jesuit support of the Ustashi massacres in SE Europe. I will not yet their memory be in vain by omitting the Vatican slaughter of them led by Catholic archbishops and Jesuits. Also, Steve, you omitted that Muslim radicals supported the Nazis like al-Husseini. After the war, the Knights of Malta sent the Nazis out from Europe into the Americas plus globally to build up the CIA and the new world order. This was their covert policy in trying to build a global government system. You are right that God is ultimately in control though. Also, this khazar lie is getting old. Many Hebrews (like the Lemba, Sephardic, etc.) exist today that have nothing to do with the Khazars at all. Just because Khazars exist, doesn't mean that no real Hebrews exist today.

I think the point of WWII was to get the United Nations started, formally the League of Nations. Hitler was not allowed to win the war. If Hitler had won, there would eventually be rebellion. If you think you are free, you don't rebel.

BTW, Jesus returns every morning! Sometimes on a White Horse, depends on the weather.

Pastor (Father Star) Steve is incredibly wrong on this and to be honest any more messages like this and a few others of late will be deleted from this site.

There is no damn Jesus Christ, the Jesus myth has been played throughout time as a continuation of the Cult of EL (Saturn). Jesus is simply the perfect burner (Sun) of today, time. Christ is simply Semen or Oil to most, remember hes the Anointed One.

Folks its ALL mind control same as the Anunnaki information. I've noticed people claim to be non religious yet know all the information on the Anunnaki. This ties them then into yet another prison and RELIGION! The bible is a joke, its all a joke even the Saturnalian Brotherhood and their religion, the real Zionist/Sionism is a JOKE! The facts are we're not guarded by any being, he doesn't care about you individually etc. These religions were made up to control people and also to give the people something to look up to or use as guidance aganist their fears etc. When you realise the truth you simply wonder WHATS THE POINT, well what is the point?

Can you prove to me of a Jesus Christ?

But I can prove to you of the power of the JESUIT ORDER, SMOM, OPUS DEI, VATICAN, PILGRIM SOCIETY, COMMITTEE OF 300, COUNCIL OF 13 DEGREES OF THE BAVARIAN ILLUMINATI and so forth.

Lets get into reality for once. Leo Zagami sums up the Repiltian crap nicely in his article recently yet allows himself to be trapped by another religion which was actually created by the Papacy. When will people FINALLY release all the chains and be FREE and see the NOTHING of reality.

2Tuff,

If Christian views here are forbidden I can just leave. You know that Eric Jon Phelps, who's word you treat as gold is a CHRISTIAN Dispensational, Fifth Monarchy, Seventh-Day Baptist-Calvinist. My parents and Grandparents have been 7th Day Baptist in recorded succession over 15 generations back, played major roles in the revolutionary war against the British, and when in England preached most heavily against Rome, so much so the only refuge was found in America.

Just because I dont follow your own personal select view of spirituality I dont need to be banned.

I really believed raising my questions about the Nazis would help educate people more along your lines and it would be beneficial for your agenda. A lot of Christians would be asking these questions. Isn't your main goal to educate the masses on the jesuits? Many of these questions not concerning religion must naturally be raised and discussed as much as possible, at great lengths. The search engines can help you find people of all walks of lifes, not just atheists. Still 90% of the West are professed believing Christians. Surveys in America show 93% of the population are professed Christian, According to the gallup poll 249 million belong to an organized church, 15 million not in an organized church. 70% or 199 million want SPOKEN prayers in public schools, and 179 million of them want the prayers to be Christian. <http://www.galluppoll.com/content/?ci=18136&pg=1>

You know over half of your biggest quotes & sources of information are bible believing Seventh Day Adventist Christians. Over 90% of your audience are bible believing Christians or professed Christians, yet you seek to offend them all? I think perhaps you were venting and will not take it to heart, but feel others may. Most wouldn't have such patience as I to take such major insults against me for my faith in Jesus.

It sounds like the only offending posts is when I insert my PERSONAL CONCLUSION to BE HAPPY, that Jesus will give us the STRENGTH & POWER TO OVERCOME ANYTHING. Am I the one with offensive posts or are you the one? I'm ridiculed because of my God which you know I sincerely believe in. This is something Christians must expect and fare well in it.

As far as proving Jesus to you, I've offered to but you told me you wouldn't believe in Jesus if you were given all the evidence in the world, and even if He came down out of heaven to speak with you, you'd write it off as aliens.

Ya Christos in Greek means to be rubbed with Oil, and hebrew means anointing, and there are 3 main Anointings: Prophet, Priest and King. Yahshua Jesus is all 3 and that is why the title is given to Him. Those who follow after Him would do greater works than He did and have the office of Christ upon them as well.

My beliefs on the Creator are simple, we live in a fallen world because of original sin, and now the Son of God has redeemed His children back to be overcommers and rule in the next age. If you dont think the world is fallen, and there is no evil in the world, and if you think the creator didn't need to send us the saviour who would assist us in reclamation that's fine. I dont try to impose my beliefs upon you. I've never attacked your beliefs or faith.

Is this a place where folks you quote can all post equally about the News we share in common, or is only for those with an atheist slant or a particular 2tuff slant on spirituality in regard to the same news? I need clarification.

HERE'S ANOTHER ANSWER TO THE QUESTION FROM ROME WATCH:

EXCERPT FROM <http://www.1335.com/Romearch/rw1105.html>

How did Hitler and the Nazis come to power in Germany?

Hitler with the R.C. Hierarchy

Hitler and his Nazi Party did not achieve an overall majority in the German election of 1933.

They took power on 30th January that year with the help of the R.C. Zentrum (Centre Party) of Von Papen. Then on 26th March 1933 Hitler and his Nazis got the vital two thirds majority to assume dictatorial powers again with the votes of the Zentrum.

Von Papen who was for a time the Pope's Privy Chamberlain states: "Nazism is a Christian Reaction against the spirit of 1789"

"The Third Reich is the first power in the world not only to recognize but to put into practice the high principles of the Papacy."

Pope Pius XII had Concordats (Treaties) with both Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy. His intrigues with Nazism and Fascism have caused his canonization to be delayed and the facts are well documented in the book "Hitler's Pope" available from bookshops.

Did not Mussolini and his Fascists create by the Lateran Treaty of 1929 - the Vatican City State?

When Czechoslovakia was dismembered by Hitler and the Nazis in 1938 a puppet state of Slovakia was set up under the rule of an R.C. priest "Father Tiso" who declared that:-

"Catholicism and Nazism have much in common and they work hand in hand to reform the world."

When Yugoslavia was dismembered by the Nazis in 1941 there came into being the Roman Catholic State of Croatia, where Cardinal Stepinac worked closely with the Ustashi dictator Pavelich under whose rule tens of thousands of Orthodox Christians were murdered (see our book "Spotlight on Yugoslavia" - PRICE £1.50).

And what about this one "Father Reid" ?

HITLER SINGS

Adolf Hitler as a young, lad in his Catholic choir group

Hitler, as a boy, had a good singing voice, and on certain afternoons attended the choir school at his Catholic monastery under the tutelage of Catholic padre Bernhard Groner. On the way, young Hitler had to pass by a stone arch in which was carved the monastery's coat of arms its most prominent feature, a swastika which he admired and later used for his Nazi Party and SS.

The child Hitler was raised in the traditions of the Roman Catholic Church, and received his early education at a parochial school at a Benedictine monastery. He regularly attended mass in those years, and served as a choir boy. The fond dream of the youthful Adolf Hitler was to enter a seminary and eventually take holy orders to the ordained Roman Catholic priesthood.

The insane Adolf Hitler despised Protestants and Protestantism, but respected the power and organisation of the Roman Catholic institution, and indeed formed the Nazi Party along the lines of the entire Catholic institution. The cruel SS was formed along the lines of the Jesuits. Hitler said: "Providence has made me born Catholic."

Hitler's infamous political book, "Mein Kampf" is believed to have been at least in part ghost written for him by a Jesuit priest.

Did not the Vatican hide Nazi War criminals in their monasteries before smuggling them to South America on Vatican passports as exposed and documented in the book "RATLINES" (see the internet)?

Did not I.R.A. leader Sean Russell die in a Nazi German U- Boat returning from Berlin to Ireland having sought Nazi support for an uprising to force loyal Ulster under Dublin rule?

Did not Irish Prime Minister and devout R.C. Mr De Valera go personally to the German Embassy in Dublin in 1945 to sign a book of condolence when Hitler perished in his bunker in Berlin?

Of course "Father" Reid may not accept any of these stubborn facts. After all he believes the I.R.A. did not commit the Northern Bank Robbery, because they said so and he takes their word for it. At present his views on Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny and the Tooth fairy have not been disclosed.

On a more serious note pray that Ulster may yet be delivered from this Babylonish Church which prophecy states is "drunken with the blood of Saints and Marytrs" - Revelation 17

QUOTE (Pastor Steve @ Jan 11 2007, 01:39 PM)

WHY would they have let them lose the war if they're really as all powerful as some folks on here seem to think?.....

Wouldn't the Jesuits have been seeking the Nazis to be victorious?

First step- Tesi. Create a regime which comes closer to what you want to realize in the future. Ex.: the Nazi regime.

Second step - Antitesi: Using the opposite regimes YOU own and that distinguish themselves from the first regime because they are "democratics" regime (= USA, UK, etc.) or "egalitary" regime (URSS etc.), you defeat the "bad" ones.

Third step - Sintesi. After the defeat, slowly, you transform the 'winners' in tyrants and despots. You get from the same people the hate and fury against "freedom", "justice", etc. which shall be compared with the old "good" ones defeated. Take care to do always massacres, wars, corruption stating CLEAR that all this is made in the name of "democracy", "Justice", "egallity", etc. At this point the same people shall request the restauration of the old "good" regime in order to clean away all the corrupted "freedom" and "justice". The people shall request "un-freedom", "un-justice", "un-egality". The same people shall be happy to live in tyranny and shall oppose everyone asking for freedom etc.

This is a very banal trick they use from thousands years.

As for the victimization of Jesuits, this is a good old tactics, self beating in order to confuse the adversaries. Didn't the Jesuit Bush Junta hit herself (9-11) in order to realize this tactics? THE Reichstag's fire?

You are great! Just the right thread at the right time, as always ;) .

There were a lot of people here at vienna at the turn of the 20th century.

Hitler "trying to get his way through", but very little is known what he really did, at least he spent 6 (1907 - 1913) years in the city.

Leo Trotzky "playing chess in Cafe Central". Sigmund Freud working in his office. Tito working as a mechanic. Stalin took a visit in Adolf's last year.

Theodor Herzl, introducing the idea of zionism. Karl Lueger, introducing the idea of antisemitism.

All in a traditional strong centre of catholicism and, yes, the jesuits.

Guess where the insignias (emperor's tools) of the "Holy Roman Empire" are stored :D .

This must be a joke.

yes, it's 'funny'. Jesuit-schevik, Proto-Nazi-Jesuit, new paradigmas in the sciences,... all controlled by the same power!

And there's a good book I read some years ago (italian version) which talk in part about the Wiener-milieu of the '10 and '20ies (maybe you have read it):

The Man Who Invented The Third Reich

by Stan Laurysens - Sutton Pubhling Limited.

It talk about the young life of Adolf and the one of Arthur Moeller van der Bruck, who gave to the III Reich his 'aesthetic form' in his book entitled: 'Das Dritte Reich', a book well knowed by German people till the 30ies, when the rising Adolf eliminated it (a problem of competition....).

Obviously was not van der Bruck who invented the III Reich, it was invented by Sata (Vatica)n, but the ideas were 'on the air' and he caught them before Hitler.

QUOTE (2TUFF @ Jan 13 2007, 12:10 AM)

Pastor (Father Star) Steve is incredibly wrong on this and to be honest any more messages like this and a few others of late will be deleted from this site.

There is no damn Jesus Christ, the Jesus myth has been played throughout time as a continuation of the Cult of EL (Saturn). Jesus is simply the perfect burner (Sun) of today, time. Christ is simply Semen or Oil to most, remember hes the Anointed One.

Folks its ALL mind control same as the Anunnaki information. I've noticed people claim to be non religious yet know all the information on the Anunnaki. This ties them then into yet another prison and RELIGION! The bible is a joke, its all a joke even the Saturnalian Brotherhood and their religion, the real Zionist/Sionism is a JOKE! The facts are we're not guarded by any being, he doesn't care about you individually etc. These religions were made up to control people and also to give the people something to look up to or use as guidance aganist their fears etc. When you realise the truth you simply wonder WHATS THE POINT, well what is the point?

Can you prove to me of a Jesus Christ?

But I can prove to you of the power of the JESUIT ORDER, SMOM, OPUS DEI, VATICAN, PILGRIM SOCIETY, COMMITTEE OF 300, COUNCIL OF 13 DEGREES OF THE BAVARIAN ILLUMINATI and so forth.

Lets get into reality for once. Leo Zagami sums up the Repiltian crap nicely in his article recently yet allows himself to be trapped by another religion which was actually created by the Papacy. When will people FINALLY release all the chains and be FREE and see the NOTHING of reality.

If you think there is no Jesus Christ, you are the biggest fool in here.

You advertize literature by Christians and promote the message of Alberto Rivera and have the guts to say STUPID things like that!?

I thought that by now you would have enough proof that ALL Bible prophecies were perfectly fulfilled, the pope being the spirit of the antichrist exactly as the Bible predicted.

You are a fool and I pity you 2TUFF. And that nick is very foolish as well.

May you find the Lord and hopefully come to your senses.

I don't give a crap if you delete me from this site, I'd rather be deleted from a site that's being run by a fool than to remain on it.

Keith - January 18, 2007 09:48 PM (GMT) well, look, there you have it. order ab chao for the alberto-chiniguy guy. people cannot rejoice and be happy in "the nothing".

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 18, 2007 11:39 PM (GMT)

See what Religion does to you folks? I'm called the Fool yet I'm not the one following something which simply CANNOT BE PROVEN!!!!!! I'm not the one following a modern religion based on an ancient religion. Anyhow this guy is now DELETED! Just because theres some Christian information here means ABSOLUTELY NOTHING. It just means that someone whos a Christian has been able to highlight a powerful group of people ruling the world. I have no respect for Eric Jon Phelps from a Religious point of view, infact I think it flaws him big time. I have much respect for his study into the JESUIT ORDER and theres a big difference. When Christians talk of the Hebrew people being the chosen ones and in need of their land etc its pure indoctrination nonsense.

Unfortunately all this talk gets in the way of more serious researchers following them because they too know what they speak from a religious point is garble. Please don't call our most wonderful SUN this wicked name of Jesus Christ, this MYTH, this LIE.

@alberto

"Glauben heisst nix wissen (To believe means not to know)", that's a flying word i often heard during my education.

I don't know how much historical proof of Jesus exists, but I'm sure he was human all the way. It's just as real as middle earth, it's fiction, but you can spend lots of time there just by imagination.

Rather believe in humans than in supernatural beings.

And for the "nazi"-topic: For the most of you it might be far away (in distance and time), there is what has been a Jewish cemetery just around the corner and listened to old people all my life. It's very near and it's haunting this country.

In Germany I've seen something like a "Jesus hype" is catching young people, led by several artists and it often goes hand in hand with what some would call "neo-Nazi ideologies" and I'm worried about folks stepping into the same trap again and again, just by not knowing the past.

Just stay away from organized religion and discover your own spirituality, you'll find it in your heart, not a book.

Flaming of any sort is undiplomatic and can cause such uprisings. May I recommend some tolerance and separation of media & church :) . Faiths stay out of dictatorial roles, and so does the media-service. I think 2Tuff's beliefs are very religious in nature, He won't be convinced of Jesus even if He came down from heaven he said that he will think it was aliens, 2Tuff has a FAITH, this is only definition. People who are nonbelievers are actually very religious, their religion is themselves for sure. Everyone should watch that their beliefs or unbeliefs don't make them attack others for their personal beliefs / unbeliefs.

There's a saying don't throw the baby out with the bathwater. You'll always get poop with the pearls. If folks really want to reach the whole world to reveal the truth you're going to have to get over the fact that no one can agree on every little thing and not attack others for their own minor personal conclusions on the similar matters.

I saw no incompatibilities beforehand, truth is truth, it's just some conclusions based on certain agendas some folks on here don't agree on. This has no effect on the goal of the site. Why not use this media-service regardless of faiths? and not attack others but have common decency & respect for each other? It is highly offensive for someone to call my most closest personal friend Damned and the like, but I know it can be forgiven them, and he would want me to also forgive the same as he willingly did on the Cross for our sins. I only seek to forget it and put all that behind us.

In opening this post, I gave a simple & pure question which I was neutral on, and open to learn, hear and observe responses to gain further knowledge and perhaps others may learn in the process. As a minor sidepoint to hopefully gain cheer I made a proposal based on my faith while not attacking anyone else's. Even if this were a heavy subject, it should not be offensive when we know the light of day will expose the truth. Asking a question is just another way to put the light on a matter.

On this board I have shown tolerance for alternate conclusions, knowing it is supposedly non-religious. I don't seek to bother those who have alternate faiths, especially not argue with them. No matter how vastly different from the Christian faith. I don't hold it against anyone for their beliefs, we're all just here to share truth and I know in the end it will work itself out if you have been elected & predestinated.

I'd be happy to answer any questions via PM that 2Tuff or anyone may have about the faith, since I have been blessed with a counselor who was literally taken to heaven 17 times.

I do find Steve's blogs somewhat interesting, and I wonder about all the believers of the King James version of the bible as it is confusing and contradictory, I have read a volume called exposing those who contradict, by L. Ray Smith, which I found interesting, but my concern with religion's is most of them are kinda like this, Here my friend is this book and it is the answer to every thing, after much discussion and argument the owner of the book finally says well ok I see you do not care for my book, well here is my GUN maybe you will like that better, BOOM. one less non believer. Steve maybe you are right in your belief, only time will tell, maybe you are close to being right, we shall see, but religion has a very ugly history covered in blood, I personally believe in the bible, and I don't believe it. I believe in the Reptilians and I do not believe that, if the story of Jesus is true then he paid for all men's crimes, even Hitlers. Time will tell, and then maybe not. I hope Steve will still blog here, he don't anger me, at least he has more courage than me, he believes some thing, I on the other hand NEED MORE GODDAMM PROOF. sorry. :rolleyes: you can get Ray Smith's book at www.bible-truths.com. after all the bible is part of our truth seeking adventure and the cause of a lot of hell on earth, no pun intended. I just could never buy into the bible myth myself, but I still research it any way, what the hell. :P

Just a try to answer the original question of this thread:

The nazis wanted to establish their own religion, based on germanic myths and a won war. According to "Hitler-buddha-krishna; an unholy alliance from past to present", they wanted to "deal with the churches" after the war.

Most of this ideologies were invented at the "S.S. Ahnenerbe", from where lots of mental dirrahoe came.

Hitler was built up as first "media star" of history, using a lot of technology introduced shortly before (Radio, Cinema, TV), maybe it was a big test of how one could influence the masses with the new media.

It all could have been a "field test" of the NWO <_< .

This same person claimed they wouldn't be ever looking or using my site or promoting it. Then we find them on as Alberto-Chiniquy and when they attack once again and get deleted they utilise yet another handle this time Chiniquy. Once again they attack and post a useless message and get deleted for a third time. Why is the world full of timewasters and indoctrinated people with chains dragging across the floor like never before?

I agree folks could be more productive, there are many mediums that follow certain codes as here. One thing true is spend more time now on something or else it will keep coming up and coming up unresolved and you'll spend much much more time. Spend more time now, less time later.

I think personal jabs should be kept to a minimum, if not then none at all. I dont go around telling 2Tuff how he's in chains and missing out on all the liberties as a Son & King-Priest of God, a child of the creator made in a certain design for certain functions, how much more efficient and time-saving the sabbaths & feasts are for local bodies to networking together, share their love, their feasting together, helping their communities, how much more healthy God's dietary laws are, etc. How that is going with the design in which we were made, and going outside the designers order is merely missing out. Commands to do good and live right, while not doing such is the opposite of thriving, flourishing, which are true chains. On this forum I leave peoples faiths up to themselves, I dont see it productive to attack every major varying view, we have to much to be thankful for and rejoice in on the good of things with what we have, yet so many are retreating from victory in all avenues of life & survival in every area of life, where it be in physical areas, psychological, spiritual, social or financial. Well if it turns out we're all wrong what do we lose? According to most it means when we die then there's no after-life, yet what will you lose by not believing in the son of the creator, the saviour, whatever you wish to call Him, I prefer Yahshua. I know He is real, and so do Billions of others. This doesn't make me need to attack alternate views, let each be strong in what they are and TOLERATE them, not attack. Lets get to work & not waste so much time. I've been to work & will prevail in my life's calling , this is just one of many many sources of listed information. There are many newspapers and magazines out there that carry similar truth, this forum UNHIVED MIND does have a lot more items such as health, though I can't agree with every tiny little experiment/treatment, I see the value overall. If religion is going to be something attacked as a policy, ((while Christians should never attack non-believers)) whichever religion it is then I wouldn't visit this site any longer, however I know that hasn't been the policy, I'm curious though if there has been a change in the last year?

smashstuff - January 21, 2007 05:35 AM (GMT)

I think a lot of it Pastor Steve, is that it gets a bit boring for people to point out the evil of the Vatican and the Jesuits, and then to say hey, the only way to save yourself is to join something that is 99% the very same thing as Catholicism. This is why you will see what may be perceived as anger from 2tuff (not wishing to speak for him).

Once a person looks into the stars, astro-theology etc., no proof of Jesus or a place called Nazareth, the same story recycled through time and different cultures, one can see that Christianity is really just blind faith, no offence meant. When one can see what Jesus and his story represents, it actually makes the gospels a hell of a lot more interesting.

Another thing is this slavish love of the King James Bible. A very intelligent person like Eric Jon Phelps will say 'it's the word of God'. Why exactly is this? It's only a book, a collection of stories. Why not hold up the Lord of the Rings as the word of God? It has a similar story in it, good against evil. It's this kind of thing that can get a bit frustrating.

CRAIG-OXLEY - January 21, 2007 08:56 PM (GMT)

Yes I do get angry especially when someone wishes me a painful death as that Chiniquy one did. They call themselves followers of God and have all these religions and most of these types of people are pure hypocrites. I deleted his last pathetic message as well as him, thats why you don't see it any longer. I have no time for this religious crap and I wish people would get it out of their heads thinking that this is a religious site, it ISNT. This site has many subjects and the main one is the Jesuit Order. I want to to highlight Jesuit power not poxy Catholicism or Protestant mythical teachings. I don't care if Catholicism is the front for the Mystery Babylon I want to oust Mystery Babylon or should I really say SATURNALIAN.

FEAR, FEAR, FEAR, FEAR. This is how the entire world is run, and we go to religions to escape from it, but are just bombarded with more.

How we can feel pain when gone from this world, if we no longer have a physical body? Is the Devil going to be sticking pitch-forks in our non-existent butts? Will our skin be burning in a lake of fire? Are we to be punished simply for not believing in Jesus? If he existed, would he really condemn us for a difference of opinion?

Subject: Constance Cumbeby's Catholicism

Eric: I have never had the privilege of personally sharing with you, but having read your expose' on Constance Cumbeby, I thought I would pass on my reflections to you. First, you are correct. Cumbeby is a big defender of Roman Catholicism. She was a featured guest on Mother Angelica's TV program and has been a speaker along with priests and nuns at Catholic conferences, etc. I have been told she attends Catholic mass at a church in her local area but haven't verified that..

That makes total sense. She knows quite alot about the Jesuits of Detroit. Maybe she has been entertained at the University of Detroit or the Detroit Jesuit Community---the old backers of Jesuit Coadjutor Charles Coughlin.

Cumbeby seems to take particular delight in bashing anyone who opposes Freemasonry and the Masonic Lodges. For example, she viciously attacked Gary Kah, author of Enroute to Global Occupation. It thus was no surprise to me that she also attacks you since you do a good job of exposing Vatican ties to the Lodge. Cumbeby also attacked Dave Hunt, who is a long-time opponent of Catholicism.

I have serious reservations about Dave Hunt. He is a blatant opponent of Calvinism in both its doctrine and political history. He completely avoids the fact that it was the Calvinists of Germany, Holland, England and America who ended the Pope's Dark Ages and birthed the Modern Era with its political liberties. Dave also believes (or advocates) that 911 was committed by the Moslems, while denying the proveable facts leading to the conclusion that it was an inside job led by the American intelligence community---Knight of Malta DCI George J. Tenet specifically. Thus Hunt backs Bonesman Bush's "War on Terror."

I recall, if memory serves me correctly, that Cumbey once said she was afraid to look directly into the 700 Club's Pat Robertson's eyes because, fearing he was the antichrist 666, she was fearful she would lose her immortal soul. Now that is weird deluxe.

Makes sense, a "weird delux." I like that phrase! She is obviously an Arminian free-will Jesuitess feigning to oppose one of the Order's greatest shill's on TV--- Pat Robertson who named the late SMOM J. Peter Grace as the godfather of his children.

Cumbey likes to label her chosen enemies as New Agers. In her warped and perverted mind, you expose the Vatican, so you, Eric, must be a New Ager! I, too, expose Roman Catholicism, so according to Cumbey, I am also a New Ager. The Pope and his boys must love that kind of twisted thinking. She uses such circuitous and distorted logic it is quite impractical to carry on a reasonable discussion with Cumbey, since she takes flying leaps of logic.

Indeed. She strikes me as a very bitter and angry woman. She attacks New Agers but never links the Vatican as being the source of the New (Dark) Age. She knows the link of Jesuit priest Tielhard de Chardin to the New Age Movement but never hones in on the Order, it being in tremendous power before the NAM. Cumbey also was terribly rude to Dr. William Grady, a Baptist with a Ph.D in history and author of several important books. He mentions his confrontation with her in How Satan Turned America Against God, Vol I.

Although Cumbey still has a few fans, mostly feminist types in my opinion, the second book she put out was so poorly done, so full of errors I believe she lost credibility. Today, she has no real audience and so, in my opinion, she is very envious of those who write books that do attract a following. That may be why she attacks Gary Kah and many others who are simply doing good works for the Lord. Envy is a powerful thing.

Pitiful. If she would abase herself and become teachable, she might be exalted in due time.

If I am not mistaken Wikipedia has a reference to Cumbey, much of which appears to have been written by her. In it, I noted that she was supposedly raised as a Seventh Day Adventist. Perhaps Cumbey is an Ellen G.White feminist wannabe?

You know, that makes sense. And you know White copied extensively from d'Aubigne's masterpiece, The History of the Reformation.

Cumbey's support of Roman Catholicism and her vile attacks on people like Kah and other good men indicate that the devil is using her. It could even be possible that she is herself a covert New Ager. After all, Pope John Paul II was a closet New Ager.

Agreed.

I doubt that she is, but, after all, I have myself written many bestselling books exposing the New Age movement, yet Cumbey falsely accuses me of being a New Age plant. By her own logic, maybe she is a New Age infiltrator. Indeed, I think it is very curious that Cumbey has attacked people like me, Kah, Hunt, and Groothuis, all of whom had written Protestant Christian books exposing the New Age movement. It seems feasible that the Vatican wishes to coverup the fact that, at its core, Roman Catholicism is classic Babylonian New Age (see Hislop's The Two Babylons).

Agreed. Your reference to Hislop is quite right. The Jesuits never refuted that masterpiece.

Whether Cumbey is, in fact, a closet New Ager I do not know. Neither do I have definitive knowledge of her actual connection with the Jesuits, Opus Dei or others. I have not had sufficient time to research that. But clearly she is a Catholic sympathizer and defender.

Agreed.

Moreover, we can easily and sadly see Cumbey's unChristian fruits. We should pray for her because I definitely do not believe she is a Christian. Instead, in my opinion, she is a not so clever deceiver. And as far as her being brilliant, I sure haven't seen any evidence of that. I have been with her as co-speaker at two conferences and most people there told me she was dull and boring.

Her writing is very erudite; maybe her speaking is as you say, as I have never heard her. She obviously plays the part of an attack dog.

Her personality is grating and she is a selfish, me-oriented, prideful person. Again, there is a lack of Christian fruits.

I believe you.

Eric, you tried your best to be Christianly and gentlemanly in dealing with Constance Cumbey. But that is all wasted on her. People like Cumbey love it when people respond to their ridiculous accusations. Makes them feel important and bloats their ego. But, God needs you and me elsewhere, The field is white to harvest, so let us go out and fight the good fight of faith in service to our savior, Jesus Christ. The days truly are short.

Seems you are correct. Her attack was unprecedented coming from a "Christian." So, in this one instance I felt it necessary to expose her accordingly.

All God's Best,

Texe Marrs

Texe, I am concerned for you. Your ministry of previous years was a great blessing to me as you exposed Rome and the Jesuits and their Masonic agents. I have one of your old videos concernig the Third Temple being built in Jerusalem with the Vatican behind the movement. It was wonderful, not an error could I find.

But over the last three years you have shifted your attack from the Papacy to the Jews in general. Your writing style in the Power of Prophecy as changed considerably. With a new thesis and style, I really wonder if indeed you truly author those articles rightly attacking the Masonic Labor Zionists but wrongly attacking all Jews in general. The rhetoric of the Power of Prophecy is identical with the Jesuit Order's continued attack on the Jews and Freemasonry set forth in their La Civiltà Cattolica from 1880 throughout the 1930s. Ex-priest and brother in Christ Leo Lehmann explains in his Behind the Dictators (1942) that these very doctrines were enacted as policies of Hitler's Third Reich created by Bavarian Jesuits.

Further, you must know, being the Bible student that you are, that Jerusalem was built on five hills, and Rome was built on Seven---infamously known throughout the Empire. Your changing Revelation 17:18, in reference to "the great city" to being Jerusalem and not Rome is historically incorrect. (The "great city" of Revelation 11:8 is indeed Jerusalem as you declare.) This then leads the reader to believe that the Jews and Jerusalem are the world's problem and not the Jesuits and Rome.

No doubt that the Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists ruling Jerusalem and Israel (Rome's restored "Kingdom of Jerusalem") are agents for the Pope to the detriment of the Lord's beloved Hebrew/Jewish/Israelitic people tied to the Abrahamic Covenant. These Masonic rulers of Jerusalem are predecessors of "the scornful men" of Isaian 28:14. They will enter into the "covenant with death" with "the prince that shall come" against their own racial brethren living in Jerusalem and throughout Israel.

Thus, we should always expose the evil Masonic Jews ruling Israel as nothing more than being abject pawns of Rome, the Pope's Court Jews. But we should always defend the Jewish people's God-given right to the land promised to the physical descendants of Abraham (Gen. 12 and 15), without obedience to the Mosaic Covenant as it has been "done away."

No doubt the American Jewish lobby in Washington is pro-Israel---as Israel is governed by the Pope's Masonic Labor Zionists. The lobby is also anti-American peoples in that the Jews in the lobby are all tied to Edward Cardinal Egan's Council on Foreign Relations. The Mossad is bad for America and Israeli Jews, even as is the Rome's CIA and its Mossad (created by the CIA) is bad for America and Israeli Jews.

So, my wayword brother, I exhort you to reconsider your attack, for attack the devil's kingdom we must. But if you generate Anti-Jewish fury in this nation and around the world, the risen Son of God will bring the curse of Genesis 12:1-3 upon you, something I wish upon no man. Please reconsider, repent and return to your former ways and I will once again defend you. Until such time, I am compelled to refer to you as a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor.

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric Jon Phelps

Dear Eric:

Appreciate your response and your comments.

I understand you are a Baptist. I was saved and baptized in a King James Bible-believing Southern Baptist Church and remain a KJV, "old-fashioned" Gospel, blood-bought servant of Jesus!

Amen! So glad to hear of your faith in the Lord Jesus of the Reformation Bible for English-speaking peoples.

About the matter of whether the true enemy is Zionism or Catholicism, I worry lest we lose sight of the Gospel message and we be caught up in a dichotomous circle of deceit. Both the Zionist Jews—who despise Christ and His Word and continue to plot out a New World Order and a future "Jewish Messiah"—and the Vatican, with its Babylonian-age doctrines, are in opposition to God. The book of Revelation amply warns of the Synagogue of Satan.

Until it went out of print, my ministry offered your book, Vatican Assassins. So if I am a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor, wouldn't that perhaps make you one as well?

You have missed my point. I always attack the Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists and their deeds of blood from the time they were known as Sabbatian Frankists. No doubt they are of the Synagogue of Satan. But I have always blamed the Vatican in Rome as being the center of the devil's conspiracy for world government in Jerusalem. Living in "the times of the Gentiles" until the return of Christ, White Gentiles in command of the Jesuit Order (now ruling the Pope and his Hierarchy) rule the world---not the Masonic Jews deliberately positioned to take the blame for the deeds of the Order. Take Michael Chertoff for example. He is a full-blooded Jew heading the Department of Homeland (Romeland) Security. Yet the real master and creator of the DHS is the Jesuit and Knight of Malta John C. Gannon----a CIA officer for 24 years and given the highest civilian award by George Bush. The Jews are the front men; the Jesuits are their handlers. It is this distinction that you refuse to employ in your work for the last four years or so. You never did this in the past and I now ask you, "Why the change?"

In fact, that would be ridiculous and unChristian—guilt by association. I believe that is what Constance Cumbey does. She is far too quick to label people.

Texe, I am careful not to lay hands on any man suddenly, for good or evil.

I am in my 60s, Eric, and I find that over the years I have become more wise. Many brothers in Christ disagree with me on matters of eschatology, etc., but, I do not rush to accuse them of nefarious, intentional conduct. I count them in Jesus' family. If they, or I, am wrong, I trust the Holy Ghost will fix that, if we truly seek His Way and His Truth. Meanwhile, I hold my judgement unless I have definitive proof of apostasy or betrayal.

I feel that you are not being candid with me. My friend Daryl Eberhart has kindly entreated you on this matter for quite some time. Bur your refusal to explain your departure from this most basic and critical doctrine demands our separation. The doctrine you now preach regarding the Jews is is pure Jesuitism. It incites rage against all Jews in general and not the few in service of the Vatican. Rage leads to acts of blood, and I fear that you will stand before the Lord as being chargeable for inciting this nation to curse the physical descendants of Abraham. You are a brilliant man thoroughly versed in the Word of God. I am no one to instruct you on such a basic Bible doctrine as the Abrahamic Covenant.

Knowing your brilliance, life experiences, knowledge of the Order and Rome, and Luke 21:24-27 ("the times of the Gentiles" ending with the return of Christ), I can only conclude that you know better. Therefore you must be in some sort of trouble and thus compromised, now under duress to be a vessel for Jesuit anti-Jewish fury. It pains me to think that you are a calculating and willing Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor. Either way, the end result is the same. Please, Texe, stop this fascist enraging of the nation against all Jews in general. This may be a "sin unto death" for you, and I pray that you may be recovered out of this "snare of the devil." You have fallen from your great work of the past. Please repent and return to your previous labors.

"He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy." Prov. 28:13.

If you would admit your mistake and seek forgiveness from the Lord, I would be the first to defend you. Please know that I have considered myself in this matter, realizing full well I too could fall into great error such as this.

You are my friend. Please let me know if I can ever be of help.

All God's Best,
Texe Marris

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric

It's in the details. Such as saying that all four members of the Seinfeld cast are Jewish and practise the Kabbalah. Julia Louise Dreyfuss (Elaine) and Michael Richards (Kramer) are not Jewish. If he wants certain people to be Jewish, he just makes it up.

Ben Stiller is a 'Jewish comedian', (Ben's father is Jewish, his mother is of Irish-Catholic descent), why not call him Irish?

He says that Charlie Chaplin was 'born to Jewish parents'. What is that supposed to mean? Is he Jewish? Never mind that neither of his parents are Jewish.

Not once is a celebrity featured in the book and called a 'white anglo saxon', but jews are pointed out every time.

My argument is with his seeming inability to disconnect racial jews, (whatever that may mean), with Judaism, Freemasonry, Talmud and Kabbalah.

Kramer has the wide nose, dark eyes and receding kinky hair. Julia has dark eyes, dark hair and even her pointed nose indicates that she may be a jew. They look very jewish.

Recently, Marrs called Tony Alamo a Cypto-Jew. That's interesting, because Alamo never denied his Jewish heritage. A Cypto-Jew is someone who intentionally hides his Jewish heritage for an agenda. Tony even wrote a note to a rabbi calling himself Jewish and talking about the Vatican's murderous history against Jewish people. Texe almost seems to align Jews with mighty evil, but this isn't true. Even if someone is Jewish, that doesn't mean that someone is an enemy. Texe Marrs doesn't overtly say I hate Jews, but Texe does believe that the Jewish people rule the world alone. Texe Marrs is right that wicked Masonic Jews must be exposed, but the Vatican/Jesuits ought to be exposed as well. On occasion when he exposes the Vatican, he exposes Vatican 2 Catholicism. It's only now, when Texe is more keen on exposing pre-Vatican 2 Romanism. Texe talks about Communist, but he forgot that Engles taught Marx a lot of Communism. Communism itself originated from the Ancient Gentile Mystery Religions, Gentile Plato, Gentile Thomas More, Gentile Jesuits in the Communes of Paraguay all before Marx. He can talk about Bolsheviks, but it was the high level Freemasonry and the Vatican/Jesuits (like Hammer, Bishop Ropp, J. Peter Grace, and others) that rules that Revolution. Most of the original Bolsheviks were killed by Stalin (including Trotsky). Stalin by the 1950's wanting to exterminate Jewish people. He can talk about Masonry, but Masonry's obelisk, the all seeing eye, the 2 pillars, JAH-BUL-ON, phoenix, etc. have nothing to do with Torah Judaism or all Jewish people. It's the almost collective blaming of Jewish people that's why many disagree with Marris. I don't believe Marris is the biggest error guy in the world though.

Meh. I'm a brown-eyed brunette but I don't think I'm Jewish. My great-grandparents on my birth father's side were from Belarus and Poland...don't know if they're of Jewish ancestry but I know they're largely Catholic. :P

I knew Tony Alamo was Jewish; his birth name was Bernie Hoffman or something like that. Doesn't bother me.

I do know not all Jews are Zionists, and not all Zionists are Jews. In fact, there's a site up, Jews against Zionism, or something like that.

What I don't get is Texe Marris' interpretation of the Book of Esther. I've read through that book time and again and where he comes up with the stuff he does out of it is beyond me.

Pretty sad, seeing people jump on the "blame the Jews" bandwagon.

There seem to be basically two kinds of Jews--the Talmudic Jews, who go by that awful Talmud, and the Torah Jews, who simply go by the Old Testament.

I once suscribed to the power of prophesy . When I read Tex`s writings on the Book of Esther I was shocked .At first I wondered if I had misunderstood the scriptures so completely that I ran to re read it, then I checked what Tex thought the book was saying against Matthew Henry, John Gill, and a number of other classic commentaries . Tex departed from from them all.

I remember even in elementary school...as early as first grade knowing who was catholic by a rabid, intense hatred of jews.. they get a certain look in their eye. To this day when I hear a person intent on hating jews I know immediately their upbringing is catholic.It is something I have always watched and sadly have never once been proven wrong on this. That great city is ROME.

Rev 17:5 - And upon her forehead was a name written,.... As the high priest had on his mitre upon his forehead written, holiness to the Lord, Exo_28:36 only a different inscription from that; the allusion is thought to be to harlots, who not only used to put their names over their doors, but some of them upon their foreheads, that all might know who they were; of which Mr. Daubuz has given proofs out of Seneca, Martial, Juvenal, and Petronius; and such might be said to have an whore's forehead indeed: and this is expressive of the openness and impudence of the church of Rome, in her idolatrous worship; she openly declares it, and pleads for it, and invites and ensnares persons to join with her in it: the name follows, mystery, Babylon the great, the mother of harlots and abominations of the earth; her name is "mystery"; not the mystery of godliness, that she dislikes and opposes, but the mystery of iniquity; which is the name antichrist went by in the Apostle Paul's time, when he was but in embryo, 2Th_2:7. Some reference may be had to the mystery of the Mass, in which the Papists pretend are the very body and blood of Christ; to their seven sacraments, for wherever almost they find the word mystery, they make a sacrament of that to which it is applied; and to their unwritten traditions, and the sense of the Scriptures, which are locked up in the pope's breast: and it is very remarkable what has been observed by some, that the word "mystery" was formerly upon the frontlet of the pope's mitre, and was removed by Pope Julius the Third, when it was observed that the Protestants made use of this passage of Scripture, and applied it to the Romish antichrist. Joseph Scaliger (I) affirms, that he saw mitres at Rome with this inscription on them. Though others think that this is not any part of the name, but only signifies that this woman was, in a mysterious or mystical sense, called Babylon, &c. just as the great city is spiritually called Sodom and Egypt, Rev_11:8 but to me it seems to be a part of the name, as well as what follows, "Babylon the great"; that is, the great city, Rev_14:8 by which name the church of Rome may well be called, because of the signification of it, confusion, Gen_11:9 its doctrine and worship being a confused mixture of Paganism, Judaism, and Christianity; and because of the pride and haughtiness of it, its tyranny and cruelty, and its sorceries and idolatry; see Isa_14:12.

And the mother of harlots, of all antichristian states and kingdoms; and is different from the heavenly Jerusalem, the Gospel church, which is the mother of true believers, Gal_4:26 or the "mother of fornications": as some copies read, and the Vulgate Latin and eastern versions render it; that is, the author and encourager of them, as the church of Rome has been; of corporeal fornication, by commanding celibacy, and forbidding marriage to priests, and setting up of brothel houses; and of spiritual fornication or idolatry, everywhere required and encouraged by it: and of "the abominations of the earth"; of abominable doctrines and practices; all manner of wickedness that is to be found in the earth, as murder, adultery, sodomy, perjury, &c. these, with everything that is vile and wicked, are practised and connived at by her.

(I) In Scaligeran.

i never thought of this but, history is history. "his" story. but a "mis"representation of history. so, it's not "his" story but "miss" story. mis-history is mistory which is mystery. i don't know about your accents, but misstory and mystery are pronounced almost identically, of course, minus the first syllable.

i've probably heard this from someone though, no thoughts are really ever creative.

Episode #31 Letter to Texe Marris

Podcast keywords and ideas: Darryl Eberhart read from the letter he sent to Wanda Marris (by Certified Mail, Receipt Return Requested) in March, 2006 regarding the major shift in direction Texe has taken Power of Prophecy.

Excerpt from Darryl's letter:

"I would like to hear from either you or Texe after you've both read this letter. If I am wrong in anything I've written, please tell me."

Texe Marris did not respond to this or to any of the twenty to twenty-five letters Darryl Eberhart wrote to him prior to the last one that Darryl addressed to Wanda Marris.

The anti-zionist Jews number a few tens of thousand and they too are Zionists. They just oppose the beliefs of self-declared Zionists.

You are not jewish if you do not support an eventual Jewish State. If that is before or after the Messiah comes is a different story.

They are, as Dershowitz said, a tiny 'lunatic fringe' minority.

The fact that some of the Orthodox in Eastern Europe had viewed Zionists as a threat to rabbinical authority or that some of the ultra-Orthodox believe Jewish nationalists have jumped the gun by establishing a pre-messianic commonwealth does not mean that these dissenting Orthodox were or are not Jewish nationalists. What separates them from the Zionists is the purely strategic question of when it is permissible to create a Jewish national state, where Jews can live apart from the nations of the earth. The Orthodox and the Zionists have never disagreed over whether such a project is desirable.

'Through Clandestine Terror, We Will Conduct War' or

One of Mossad's specialities is blowing up buses, which is why some people believe they helped out on 7/7 in England. I don't really think that MI5/6 would need to get them involved though.

Title: THE CONSPIRACY - Making It Appear 'Jewish'

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 2, 2007 02:41 AM (GMT)

Issue # 77 // April 22, 2006 // Editor: Darryl Eberhart http://tacklingthetoughtopics.net/Eberhart...ear_jewish.html

“THE CONSPIRACY” (Making It Appear “Jewish”)

((NOTE: All emphasis throughout this newsletter, unless otherwise noted, is by the editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics (TTT)”. Some issues of my TTT newsletters and my “Examining the Tough Issues (ETI)” newsletters can be read on the following three Internet web sites:

www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net, www.calltodecision.com, & www.libertytothecaptives.net. (The last site has a link to the first site.))

WARNING: This issue of the TTT newsletter may seriously “disturb” some folks’ “comfort zones”. However, TRUTH is far more important than any of our “comfort zones”.

DEDICATION: This issue of the TTT newsletter is dedicated to all those who are exposing evil, corruption, and tyranny wherever and whenever they occur – whether in the government or in the “Church” (to include any Church’s false doctrines)! (Please see Ephesians 5:11.)

IMPORTANT NOTE #1: I (the editor of the ETI & TTT newsletters) am not a Roman Catholic; I also most definitely am not anti-Roman Catholic as far as individual Roman Catholics go. My dad and 90% of my relatives are Roman Catholic; my best friend is Roman Catholic; and the majority of my friends are Roman Catholic. I am, however, against the top levels of secret societies (from the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order to the hierarchy of Freemasonry). This is because these secret societies control the leadership of the Roman Catholic Church (through the Jesuit Order and P2 Masonry), and have often used this hierarchical system for evil purposes, such as Inquisition, 'holy' crusades, and religious genocide. These secret societies also control the leadership of most of the larger, non-Catholic, Christian denominations. I am also against any religious hierarchy that tries to place itself equal to or above the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God – or equal to or above God's Holy Word (i.e., the Holy Bible) and His Ten Commandments!

IMPORTANT NOTE #2: We can no longer afford to REMAIN SILENT on critical issues for fear of offending any particular group – in this case, Roman Catholics. Please carefully consider this quote by author Dave Hunt: "We are told to love one another as Christ has loved us. Pop psychology trivializes that command by equating it with a 'positive' attitude. Forgotten is the first duty of love: to speak the truth (Ephesians 4:15). Real love does not flatter or soothe when correction is needed but [rather] points out the error which is blinding and harming the loved one. Christ said, 'As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten; be zealous, therefore, and repent' (Revelation 3:19). Instead, the idea is now current that love excludes rebuke, ignores the truth, and seeks unity at any price. Only disaster can result."

Why Am I Writing More & More About Roman Catholicism?

This editor of the ETI and TTT newsletters has been writing more on the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy, and especially its Jesuit Order, in recent newsletters because I keep uncovering more and more about the deep hatred that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has for independent Bible-believing Christians, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, and Jews. We Americans have, for the most part, been largely ignorant of the well-documented history of the Roman Catholic Church in conducting brutal religious genocide (via Inquisition, 'holy' wars, and 'holy' crusades) against all the afore-mentioned groups. ((Please see my TTT newsletters entitled "Death by Government and Death by Church", "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts", and "Deceitful Revisers and Editors of History" on the following Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com (click on the "Tackling the Tough Topics" 'box' in the left-hand column of their home page.)) Sadly, many Americans believe the "ecumenical rhetoric" of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy – i.e., that she has "changed her ways" and now loves all the "separated brethren". However, my study of the Papacy shows me that this is just a RUSE [i.e., a "stratagem" – per Webster's Dictionary: "any trick or scheme for achieving some purpose"]. The "purpose" is to bring all non-Catholic Christian denominations under the "umbrella" [i.e., control] of the Papacy!

Yes, the Papacy, despite its "ecumenical rhetoric", has not changed a bit over the many centuries in the following categories:

- Its deep hatred of Jews, all independent Bible-believing non-Catholics, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s we find the Roman Catholic Ustashi militia in Croatia, led and urged on by Franciscan priests, monks, and friars, slaughtering from 600,000 to one million Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children – many of the victims being first brutally tortured);

- Its long-held dream to bring all non-Catholic denominations that consider themselves to be Christian under its monopolistic, totalitarian, ecclesiastical control;
- Its long-held dream to head up a totalitarian one-world religious organization; and,
- Its long-held dream to bring all world leaders – especially those in “Christian” countries – under the temporal power of the pope. (That is, the Papacy would be the top player and “controller” in a one-world government – just like it was the top player and “controller” on the European continent for many centuries! Kings indeed bowed before popes.)

Indeed, power – absolute power – has long been the “game” at the Vatican. History has recorded the Vatican’s deep hatred for religious liberty and freedom of conscience. The U.S. Constitution, with its “Bill of Rights” guaranteeing such liberties, has long been hated by the Vatican. (For a good example of this, please read the Syllabus of Errors issued in 1864 by Pope Pius IX.) I have heard that there is an acronym in use by some Knights of Columbus in America. This acronym is “M.A.C.”: “Make America Catholic”. America is the last “roadblock” in the way of the Vatican and the rest of the globalist rich and power elite in their dreams for one-world government and one-world religion. Is America scheduled for a religious genocide – another Inquisition – as occurred in the 1940s in Croatia? I believe the danger is very real and possibly quite imminent – and that is why I have been writing more and more about the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy, its long-held dreams of world domination, its love of Fascist regimes, and its well-documented history of torture and religious genocide!

DEFINITIONS (hopefully in alphabetical order):

“Black Pope” (per Darryl Eberhart, Editor of TTT): An Italian nickname for the Jesuit Superior General – the head of the “Society of Jesus” (i.e., the Jesuit Order) – the real power “behind the throne” of the Papacy.

“Bolshevik” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary, Second College Edition): “1. Originally, a member of the majority faction (Bolsheviks) of the Social Democratic Party of Russia, which formed the Communist Party after seizing power in the [October] 1917 Revolution. 2. A Communist, especially of the Soviet Union...”

“Front” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): (Meaning #15): “A person or group used to cover or obscure the activity or objectives of another controlling person or group.”

“Illuminati” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): “1. People who have, or profess to have, special intellectual or spiritual enlightenment. 2. Any of various societies, usually secret, composed of such people.”

“Jew” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): “1. A person descended, or regarded as descended, from the ancient Hebrews of Biblical times. 2. A person whose religion is Judaism.”

(Please also see the entry “The Jews”, which is defined according to the belief of a certain segment within both the patriot movement and the “alternative media”.

“Papacy” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): “1. The position, authority, or rank of the pope. 2. The period of time during which a pope rules. 3. The succession of popes; popes collectively. 4. The government of the Roman Catholic Church, headed by the Pope.”

“Red Herring” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): “Something used to divert attention from the basic issue.”

“Scapegoat” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): “A person, group, or thing upon whom the blame for the mistakes or crimes of others is thrust.”

“Sheep dipping” (per author Craig Roberts in his excellent book The Medusa File): “An individual who was ‘sheep-dipped’ was discharged from the military ‘on paper’, but during his absence his time in grade, promotions, retirement years and other perks continued just as if he had never left the service. After serving with the CIA, the person could return to his regular branch [of military service] and continue just as if he had never left. ...During the Cold War, and later Vietnam, it [i.e., sheep dipping] was done to provide the CIA – by now referred to as ‘the Company’ because of the number of contract agents being handled – with a system of ‘Plausible Deniability’.”

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition: The Vatican has done the same thing for centuries through its Jesuit “temporal coadjutors” – i.e., its “Jesuits of the short robe” – men who infiltrate governments, publishing companies, newspapers, other church denominations, other churches’ seminaries, revolutionary movements, etc., in order to “steer” (i.e., direct) them in the direction that the Vatican (or the Jesuit Superior General) desires!))

“Smoke screen” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): (Meaning #2): “Anything said or done to conceal or mislead.”

“The Jews” (per a certain segment within both the patriot movement and the “alternative media”): “The group of power brokers [allegedly] running the world, the USA, and the New World Order – made up of Zionists, Jewish neo-conservatives in the current U.S. Administration, Israel, the Mossad, Jewish Masons, and Jewish bankers.” Editor of TTT believes that the evidence shows clearly that this term “the Jews”, when used in this context, is being used as a cover – as a front – to create a smokescreen – to throw out a “red herring” – so as to divert attention away from the real power brokers who are operating “behind the scenes”.

“Vatican” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): “1. The papal palace, consisting of a group of buildings in Vatican City. 2. The papal government or authority.”

“Vatican City” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): Independent papal state, constituted in 1929 as an enclave in Rome...”

“Zionism” (per Webster’s New World Dictionary): “A movement formerly for reestablishing, now for supporting, the Jewish national state of Israel.”

“Zionist” (per Editor of TTT): “A member of the Zionist movement (i.e., Zionism).”

IMPORTANT NOTE: Editor of TTT will be referencing a number of earlier TTT newsletters that deal with some of the topics brought up in this current newsletter. Those newsletters may be viewed by visiting Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com (click on the “Tackling the Tough Topics” ‘box’ in the left-hand column of their ‘home page’).

HERE ARE SOME INTERESTING (AND VERY RELEVANT) QUOTES:

“He [Ed. Note: Professor Carroll Quigley, author of the book Tragedy and Hope] tells us how banking influences what is going on, because all these organizations [i.e., covert organizations and secret societies] tie into banking – and the secret organizations tie into Lazard Brothers [i.e., Lazard Freres]. And, of course, most people think that [i.e., Lazard Brothers] is a Jewish organization. It is not Jewish at all. They push forward the Jewish bankers to conceal what these people are really doing. And, of course, we could go back in history, and we would find that the same forces that were tied into this group were instrumental in creating the ‘Protocols [of Zion]’, which were instrumental for the vicious persecution of Jews in both Russia and Germany. And the Jews have been pushed forward to be the scapegoats while people never were allowed to know who was really running things behind the scenes.

So, let’s listen to what Professor Carroll Quigley says about international finance, which, incidentally, is NOT Jewish.” (12-29-1994)

Dr. Stanley Monteith (Author; host of the “Radio Liberty” broadcast)

“Actually, nobody has a right to be more angry at the Rothschild clique than their fellow Jews. The Warburgs, part of the Rothschild empire, helped finance Adolph Hitler. There were few if any Rothschilds or Warburgs in the Nazi prison camps! They sat out the war in luxurious hotels in Paris or emigrated to the United States or England. As a group, Jews have suffered most at the hands of these power seekers. A Rothschild has much more in common with a Rockefeller than he does with a [Jewish] tailor from Budapest or the Bronx.”

Gary Allen (Author of the book None Dare Call It Conspiracy)

“Why would the Jesuits use their implacable enemy, the Jews, to further their designs for world dominion? The Jesuits never do anything out in the open where they can be exposed. If they are recognized as the culprits, they will be blamed and suffer the consequences, but if they can use someone else as the ‘cause of the world’s problems’, especially an enemy they can destroy in the process, then they have simultaneously accomplished two of their objectives. The Jewish people are the perfect scapegoat. Since the Rothschilds are Jesuit agents operating under a Jewish cover, using them in forming the Illuminati back in 1776 effectively throws the onus of this conspiracy on the Jews. The Rothschilds are certainly not the only Jesuit agents that operate under a Jewish front.”

Bill Hughes [see warning below] (Author of The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

“International finance and banking are NOT primarily ‘Jewish’. Many of the most powerful banking interests in the world are run by ‘Gentiles’. One of the most powerful forces in international banking is the Knights of Malta, a Roman Catholic military order controlled by the Jesuit Superior General. Sadly, even a certain segment of the ‘alternative media’ helps to propagate the LIE that ‘the Jews’ run international banking. Interestingly, one of the titles of the Rothschild banking dynasty is ‘Guardians of the Vatican Treasury’. ‘The Jews’, as a people, have been used for centuries as a ‘scapegoat’ by these international banksters and their secret societies, such as the Jesuit-controlled Knights of Malta. To label ‘the Jews’ as running banking, Hollywood, etc, is to throw out the proverbial ‘red herring’ designed to throw us off the scent of the ‘real controllers’.”

Darryl Eberhart (Editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics”; January 28, 2006)

“...Some sincere people believe that the Jews, or the Jewish bankers, are behind the world conspiracy. There are many clues that lead people to that conclusion, but I can assure you that the evidence has been planted to divert attention away from the truth. That is not to say there are no people of Jewish extraction within the Brotherhood, but those who support the movement have renounced their belief in Judaism, and worship a different god. Anti-Semitism is a trap that has been baited to lead us away from the truth.” – Dr. Stanley Monteith

“A number of convincing arguments are made to convince us that the Jews, or the Jewish bankers, are our enemy. The first is: ‘Many of the Bolsheviks were Jews, and almost all of the original members of Lenin’s Politburo [Ed. Note: the executive committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union] were Jews’. There are several valid responses to that charge:

- 1. Although many of Lenin’s followers were Jews, all but one of them [i.e., the top-level Jews who were leaders in the Bolshevik Revolution] were subsequently executed, and that’s a poor way to reward Jews if they were the force behind the Bolshevik Revolution. Leon Trotsky was Jewish. He was tracked down in Mexico, and brutally murdered.

- 2. All but one of Jesus' original disciples were Jews, but does that make Christianity a Jewish conspiracy? [Ed. Note: All 12 original disciples were "Jews" (from a "religious standpoint") at the time they were chosen by Jesus Christ; 11 were from Galilee, and one (Judas) was from Judea.]
- 3. ...[Author Antony Sutton] noted that many Englishmen fought on our [the American] side during the Revolutionary War, but that didn't make the Revolutionary War an English war." – Dr. Stanley Monteith

"Another argument [made to convince us that the Jews, or the Jewish bankers, are our enemy] is that Winston Churchill exposed the Zionist plot behind Bolshevism. The response:

Although Winston Churchill did write an article in 'The London Illustrated Sunday Herald' in 1920 claiming that Zionism was the force behind Bolshevism, the response from the world media was very strange. Most people who have attacked Zionism have been vilified, but Churchill always had favorable press coverage. Was that because he was part of the Brotherhood, and his article was an attempt to shift responsibility for the Russian Revolution to the Jews?" – Dr. Stanley Monteith

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Churchill was a high-level Mason and a Druid priest who helped prod the USA into both World War I and II. Dee Zahner, author of The Secret Side of History, states in that book: "To get the United States to declare war on Germany, [President Woodrow] Wilson contrived with Winston Churchill for the sinking of the Lusitania."))

"Another point [that] is made [to convince us that the Jews, or the Jewish bankers, are our enemy is] that Jacob Schiff provided $20 million to finance the Bolshevik Revolution. ...Did Jacob Schiff really help the Bolsheviks? Because of the progressive dumbing-down of our people, most Americans don't realize that there were two Russian revolutions. The first revolution was in March 1917 (or February if you use the old Russian calendar); the second [Russian Revolution] was in October of that same year. ...The March [1917] revolution began in St. Petersburg when a contingent of military recruits refused to fire on anti-government demonstrators. ...The Czar was forced to abdicate. Alexander Kerensky was chosen to lead Russia until elections could be held. When it became obvious that he intended to continue the war, the German High Command approached Lenin, who was living in Switzerland. ...They offered him money and transportation to go to Russia to overthrow Kerensky.

...During World War I, the American State Department was responsible for collecting intelligence information. Their files confirm the fact that Jacob Schiff opposed the czar, and after Kerensky had taken power, Jacob Schiff sent Kerensky a telegram congratulating him – but the Bolshevik Revolution didn't take place until seven months later. ...When he [i.e., author Antony Sutton] examined the State Department's intelligence files, he found evidence that Jacob Schiff opposed the Bolsheviks, and encouraged our State Department to oppose them.

...The document [i.e., 'The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion'] first appeared in Russia in 1905; it claimed that Zionists were behind the wars and revolutions of the 19th century, and planned to seize control of the world. Many Russians believed 'The Protocols', and they began to persecute the Jews and [to] destroy their property. When the czar refused to intervene, Jacob Schiff began plotting to depose him. He provided revolutionary literature to the Russian soldiers captured by the Japanese during the Russo-Japanese War in 1905...It is even possible that some of the soldiers who participated in the March [1917] revolution read Jacob Schiff's literature, so he may have played a part in inciting the March [1917] revolution, but that was not the Bolshevik Revolution [which occurred seven months later]. When Antony Sutton researched the State Department intelligence files, he found documents showing that English and American financiers provided funding for the Bolsheviks, but that fact is never mentioned today. Could it be that the story of Jacob Schiff's $20 million gift to the Bolsheviks was contrived to divert attention away from the real source of their funding?"

– Dr. Stanley Monteith

“The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion’ were circulated throughout Europe during the early decades of the 20th century, and many people believed them. That led, at least in part, to the anti-Semitism that brought Adolph Hitler to power. [American] Henry Ford circulated ‘The Protocols’ in the United States and wrote a book entitled The International Jew, which claimed that Jewish bankers were responsible for World War I and the Bolshevik Revolution. Henry Ford supported the Nazis, and Hitler acknowledged his support by awarding him [i.e., Henry Ford] the highest German medal available to civilians. The Ford factories in [Nazi] Germany provided trucks, tanks, and [other military] vehicles for Hitler’s armed forces. That would have been logical if Henry Ford really believed that Jewish bankers were responsible for the Bolshevik Revolution, and Hitler opposed them. The problem is that Henry Ford also built a factory complex in [Communist] Russia [i.e., the Soviet Union] to help the faltering Communist economy! Why did Ford promote anti-Semitism in the United States, support Adolph Hitler in [Nazi] Germany, and support the Bolsheviks in [Communist] Russia?”

Dr. Stanley Monteith

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote: None of this “supposed inconsistency” is hard to explain. The facts are that the Vatican and her Jesuits were deeply involved in fomenting not only World War I, but also World War II. During World War II the Vatican supported not only Nazi Germany, but also the other Fascist regimes in Europe, such as Mussolini’s Fascist Italy and the Catholic-Fascist state of Croatia. In fact, Roman Catholic Knight of Malta Franz von Papen and the Roman Catholic Centrum (or, Zentrum) Party in Bavaria put Hitler into power! On the other side of the European continent, we find a Jesuit-trained monster named Joseph Stalin running the Soviet Union during World War II, with help from his Jesuit-trained friend, Cardinal Gregory

Agagianian. (Both were trained by Jesuits who taught at the Orthodox [Byzantine Rite] seminary at Tiflis, Soviet Georgia.") Stalin's top intelligence man was Knight of Malta Prince Anton Turkul, who used Jesuits for his couriers! No wonder banks in the West – especially in the USA – helped finance both Adolph Hitler's Nazi Germany and Joseph Stalin's Soviet Union. Thus by controlling both sides in the conflict, the Vatican and her Jesuits were able to exterminate millions of their favorite "targets": Jews, Orthodox Christians (e.g., in Croatia), and Protestants (in northern Germany). "The Protocols [of the Learned Elders of Zion]' were written in French, smuggled into Russia in 1905 where they were translated into Russian, and later transported to Great Britain where Victor Marsden translated them into English." – Dr. Stanley Monteith ((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Eric Jon Phelps, author of the outstanding exposé of the Jesuit Order – Vatican Assassins – provided me with the following information: Leo Lehmann, an ex-Catholic priest and author of the book Behind the Dictators, informs us that the JESUITS were the authors of the infamous "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion". IMPORTANT NOTE: For the purposes of the remaining sections of this newsletter, when I mention the term "the Jews", it is in the context of how a certain segment within both the "patriot movement" and the "alternative media" uses it (and, shall we add, sometimes "misuses" it to include all Jews in the world), i.e., as a "broad-brush label" lumping together the so-called "Jewish banksters", Zionists, Jewish Masons, Israel, the Israeli Mossad, B'nai B'rith, the Anti-Defamation League (ADL), the so-called "Jewish Neo-cons" in the current U.S. Administration, the Jews who are supposedly running almost all of Hollywood and all the major TV networks, etc., as [allegedly] being the key component running the New World Order "Conspiracy".

I. INTRODUCTION

Editor of TTT believes strongly that a sizable portion of the so-called “alternative media” has been misguided and duped concerning the “real controllers” behind the New World Order Conspiracy (hereafter referred to simply as “the Conspiracy”). Some of the “alternative media” may actually be working for those “real controllers”, trying to get us to overly focus on “the Jews” and Israel; on the “Mark of the Beast” and other high-tech advances; etc., IN ORDER TO keep most truth-seekers from finding out who those “real controllers” are!

A sizable section of the so-called “patriot community” also appears to have been misguided and duped concerning the “real controllers” behind “the Conspiracy”. Some of these groups (including a major segment of the so-called “Christian Identity” movement) concentrate a whole bunch on “the Jews” in general, “The Protocols of Zion”, Israel, the Israeli Mossad, the Zionists, the so-called “Jewish Neo-cons” in the current U.S. Administration, Jewish Cabbalists, Jewish Bolsheviks, Jewish banksters, etc. (They love to point out that such-and-such is Jewish!)

But is the vast majority of this “anti-Jewish” and “anti-Israel” propaganda instead a massive “smokescreen” to cover for the “real controllers” working “behind the scenes”? When that certain segment in the “patriot movement” and that certain segment within the “alternative media” both tell us that “the Jews” are responsible for heading up “the Conspiracy”, are they deliberately (or, in some cases, in gross ignorance) throwing out a colossal “red herring” to get us off the “scent” of the “real controllers” behind the scenes? Surely inquiring minds would like to know who these “real controllers” are that foment wars and revolutions, create banking crises, and plan and carry out a host of nefarious activities in their drive to enslave the peoples on planet Earth!

As Dr. Stanley Monteith pointed out in one of the earlier listed quotations that was taken from his book Brotherhood of Darkness, “there are many clues” that have been deliberately planted to make the conspiracy appear “Jewish” and “to divert [our] attention away from the truth”. So let us take a look at some of the ways the “real controllers” (who operate “behind the scenes”) plant their “evidence” (their “clues”) to make the conspiracy appear to be “Jewish”.

II. THE BANKSTERS

The “real controllers” who operate quite cleverly “behind the scenes” love to plant “evidence” to make international banking appear to be “Jewish”.

One of their anti-Jewish schemes was the planting of some “evidence” that would lead many individuals to believe that the Jews financed and ran the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917. However, from an earlier quote we saw that it was NOT Jewish financier Jacob Schiff who financed the Bolshevik Revolution of October 1917, but rather it was British and [other] American financiers who provided the financial backing for the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia.

Another favorite tactic often used by the “real controllers” is to appoint a prominent Jew to “head” a financial institution while the major stockholders “behind the scenes” are non-Jews. The so-called Federal Reserve often has a Jew appointed as chairman to make it appear that Jews run the financial institutions of the USA. In fact, many of the top financiers in U.S. history have been non-Jews, to include some very powerful Roman Catholic Knights of Malta. ((NOTE: The Knights of Malta is a powerful Roman Catholic military order headquartered in Rome with, and controlled by, the Jesuit Superior General – the “Black Pope”..))

In fact, the Vatican State has some tremendous banking interests, to include its own Vatican Bank.

((Ed. Note: One of the reasons for the murder of Pope John Paul I in 1978 was his attempt to remedy the many “irregularities” he discovered at the Vatican Bank – and his plans to fire the head of that bank! For more information, read my TTT entitled “John Paul I”..))

Ah, but let us get back to the Knights of Malta. Here is an excerpt from my TTT newsletter entitled “The Real Controllers”, dated: January 13, 2006:

“The Hospitallers (later to become the Knights of Malta) were one of three [Roman Catholic] religious-military orders founded in the 12th century – the other two being the Knights Templar (or, the Templars) and the Teutonic Knights. Concerning the Templars we are told the following by the 1955 World Scope Encyclopedia: ‘The Templars were founded in Jerusalem... The new order was given lodgings near the so-called Temple of Solomon... It was formally confirmed by Pope Honorius II in 1128. ...The order became...the international bankers of their time. They were the predecessors of the great banking families such as the Medici. ...The Templars were brought down by [King] Philip IV of France, and Pope Clement V. ...The order [i.e., the Knights Templar] was disbanded in 1312, and much of their great wealth was given to the Knights of St. John [which later became the Knights of Malta].’ This is indeed very important to remember – that this Roman Catholic Military Order, the Knights of Malta, which is co-located with the Jesuit Superior General in Rome, inherited ‘much’ of the ‘great wealth’ of the Knights Templar!”

Another favorite tactic of the “real controllers” is to throw out the Rothschild family as the major “Jewish” family running international banking. However, we’ve already seen that one of the titles held by the Rothschild family is ‘Guardians of the Vatican Treasury’. Isn’t that just a little bit interesting? And lets not forget what author Gary Allen said: “A Rothschild has much more in common with a Rockefeller than he does with a [Jewish] tailor from Budapest or the Bronx.”

Here's what two other authors had to say about the Rothschilds:

“Aware that the Rothschilds are an important Jewish family, I looked them up in [the] Encyclopedia Judaica and discovered that they bear the title ‘Guardians of the Vatican Treasury’... The appointment of Rothschild gave the Black Papacy [i.e., the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order] absolute financial privacy and secrecy. Who would ever search a family of orthodox Jews for the key to the wealth of the Roman Catholic Church?”
F. Tupper Saussy (Author of the book Rulers of Evil; speaker, musician & patriot)

“The Rothschilds were Jesuits who used their Jewish background as a façade to cover their sinister activities. The Jesuits, working through Rothschild and [financier Nicholas] Biddle, sought to gain control of the banking system of the United States.”
Bill Hughes (Author of The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

Indeed, it certainly appears that the Vatican and its Jesuits and Knights of Malta – and their good friends the Rothschilds (‘Guardians of the Vatican Treasury’) – control far more of the world’s financial institutions than any other single group on the planet!

III. THE (“2nd”) RUSSIAN REVOLUTION (October 1917) – The Bolshevik Revolution

A certain segment within the patriot movement and within the “alternative media” loves to tell us that Trotsky and many of the top Soviet Communist Party Politburo members were Jews – and then to tell us their Jewish names. What they seldom mention is that all but one of the top Jews in the powerful Politburo were executed. Trotsky himself was hunted down in Mexico and murdered there. As Dr. Stanley Monteith indicated in an earlier quote: “That’s a poor way to reward Jews if they were the force behind the Bolshevik Revolution.” Indeed!

Some Jews were also appointed as camp commandants within the Soviet Gulag system. Again we seem to find a pattern: put some Jews in positions as mid-level or even upper-level managers, and then folks will think that the whole operation (or, conspiracy) is “Jewish”.

However, if “the Jews” funded and ran the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917, then why in blazes would they kill all but one of the Jews in the Soviet Politburo?

((Likewise, one could also ask the following questions:

- (1) If “the Jews” fomented and orchestrated World War II, then why would Jews be especially targeted for destruction on the European continent?
- (2) If “the Jews” run America’s mainstream media and Hollywood, then why does the pope of Rome get such great press here in the USA? (Pope John Paul II was almost “deified” in the American press – both while alive and during his funeral.)
- (3) If “the Jews” control so much of the American publishing business, then why don’t they massively expose the Roman Catholic Church’s involvement in bringing Hitler to power, supporting Nazi Germany, supporting Fascist Italy, supporting Fascist Croatia, helping war criminals escape at the end of WWII via the Vatican Ratlines, etc.? Yes, and why don't these "Jews" controlling America's publishing business massively expose the Jesuit Order, which has a well-documented history of not only fomenting wars and revolutions, but also of being responsible for the killing of large numbers of Jews?))

IV. THE "ILLUMINATI" AND ADAM WEISHAUPT

The following is an excerpt from my TTT entitled "The Real Controllers":

"The modern version of the Illuminati was formed on May 1, 1776 by Jesuit-trained Adam Weishaupt, who taught Catholic Canon Law at Jesuit Ingolstadt University in Bavaria (in southern Germany). Weishaupt pretended to leave the Jesuit Order (i.e., he was 'sheep dipped') so that he could set up a front group called the Illuminati (that the Jesuits could use for their own purposes). This Jesuit front group, the Illuminati, fomented and orchestrated the bloody French Revolution of 1789-1799. Thus, by using this 'front group', the Jesuit Order was given a great degree of 'plausible deniability' as to its role in the French Revolution."

Yet there is a certain segment within both the patriot movement and the "alternative media" that loves to say that Weishaupt was a "Jew", thus inferring that the "Illuminati" must surely have been set up by "the Jews". ((More on this topic to follow in the next section.))

V. FINGERING A "VILLAIN" AS BEING A "JEW" YEARS AFTER HIS DEATH

We already noted how Jesuit-trained Adam Weishaupt is portrayed by a number of folks as being a "Jew". According to Eric Jon Phelps, author of Vatican Assassins, Adam Weishaupt was NOT a Jew – and this labeling of him as a "Jew" is a fairly recent "invention" (within the past 100 years). Regardless, the facts are that Adam Weishaupt was Jesuit-trained, and that he taught Roman Catholic Canon Law at a Jesuit institute of higher learning in Bavaria, Germany (at Ingolstadt). Why don't most of those who point out that Weishaupt was [allegedly] a "Jew" also point out his Jesuit connections? Why don't these same individuals also point out that Weishaupt died in the good graces of the Roman Catholic Church?

I have seen the "Jew" label applied by some folks to not only Weishaupt, but also Stalin, Hitler, etc. It is indeed quite easy to simply label some monstrous, murdering criminal as being a "Jew" (or "half-Jew") many years after his death; however, is this being done in most cases simply to throw out a "red herring" to keep folks from discovering the "real controllers" behind the scenes? For one thing, Jews settled all over Europe, and in spite of prohibitions against marrying Gentiles, such marriages did occur. Thus, many Europeans may have at least some "Jewish blood" in them. Does this make them "Jews"? Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini were both practicing Roman Catholics – neither was ever excommunicated! Joseph Stalin was trained by Roman Catholic Jesuits. Isn't it more important WHAT an individual practices and really believes, rather than what he was born? If someone is 5% or 10% or 50% Jewish, but is a practicing Roman Catholic, and believes in Roman Catholicism, and is subservient to the "White Pope" and/or the "Black Pope", then is that person to be considered a "Jew"? And might we be getting some colossal LIES when folks repeat such statements saying that such-and-such is a "Jew" (or a ¼ Jew or ½ Jew) when he is not really a Jew in any way, shape, or form?

Indeed, labeling various monstrous criminals as "Jews" seems to be a favorite tactic of those who really control things from behind the scenes – a tactic used to make the Conspiracy appear "Jewish" when the "real controllers" seem to come primarily from the top levels of secret societies, such as the Jesuits and Freemasons – and from within the Vatican State itself!

(NOTE: John Daniel, author of the book The Grand Design Exposed, makes an excellent case that the Jesuits control the highest levels of Freemasonry!)

VI. THE "PROTOCOLS OF ZION", WORLD WAR I AND WORLD WAR II

We've already pointed out that the "Protocols of Zion", according to author Leo Lehmann, was written by the JESUITS. The "Protocols", remember, was a document designed (according to Dr. Stanley Monteith) to make people think "that Zionists were behind the wars and revolutions of the 19th century, and planned to seize control of the world."

However, author Edmond Paris, in his book The Secret History of the Jesuits, tells us a different story as to the real "stars" and experts in fomenting wars and revolutions:

"The public is practically unaware of the overwhelming responsibility carried by the Vatican and its Jesuits in the starting of two world wars – a situation which may be explained in part by the gigantic finances at the disposition of the Vatican and its Jesuits, giving them power in so many spheres, especially since the last conflict."

Please read my TTT newsletters entitled "World War I" and "World War II" on the first two web sites listed at the beginning of this newsletter. Two more TTT newsletters that touch upon these two wars are "The Real Controllers" and "Deceitful Revisers and Editors of History". Indeed, history quite clearly reveals that the Vatican and her Jesuits fomented both World War I and World War II, just as author Edmond Paris points out in the above quotation!

VII. THE "INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY"

Are "the Jews" running the U.S. intelligence community as some would have us believe, or is there a much more powerful group of men (working "behind the scenes") who are the “real controllers” of the U.S. intelligence community? An important fact that one does discover if he looks closely behind the “curtain” is that there are many Knights of Malta who have been top men in the Intelligence Community! (Remember, the Knights of Malta is a Roman Catholic military order under the direct command of the “Black Pope” – i.e., the Jesuit Superior General.)

During World War II, we find three Knights of Malta running top intelligence agencies:

- William Donovan – The Office of Strategic Services (the OSS – predecessor to the CIA);
- General Reinhard Gehlen – German Intelligence on the Eastern Front; and,
- Prince Anton Turkul (who used Jesuits for couriers) – Soviet Intelligence.

Interestingly, at least five directors of the CIA have been Knights of Malta: William Donovan, John McCone, William Casey, William Colby, and George Tenet. Additionally, the long-time head of the very powerful CIA Counterintelligence section (and head of the CIA’s Vatican Desk) was a Knight of Malta by name of James Jesus Angleton. Angleton was also the CIA liaison to the Warren (Whitewash) Commission that “investigated” the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Other Knights of Malta have held key positions within the International Intelligence Community, such as British Intelligence agent Kim Philby (who also worked for the Soviet KGB). For more information on the Knights of Malta and their involvement in the intelligence community, please see my TTT #53 – “The Jesuits – Part III: The Knights of Malta”.

VIII. SUMMARY

Inspector Poirot (in the movie picture about Agatha Christie’s novel, Murder on the Orient Express), after surveying the murder crime scene, comments: “There are too many clues.” As Dr. Stanley Monteith points out in his book Brotherhood of Darkness: “Everywhere he [i.e., Inspector Poirot] looked he found conflicting evidence, and he suddenly realized that the murder scene had been staged to confuse him.”

Dear reader, the exact same thing has occurred concerning “the Conspiracy”. The “real controllers” behind the scenes – the Jesuits, Knights of Malta, high-level Freemasons, and the Vatican State itself – have PLANTED a whole bunch of “clues” to make “the Conspiracy” appear to be “Jewish”. Their purpose has been to confuse us, and in the process conceal their own involvement in numerous nefarious activities, such as the fomenting of wars and revolutions. To summarize, they have used the following “tactics”:

- (1) They form numerous “front” groups and organizations, such as the modern “Illuminati”, so that folks will put the blame for wars, revolutions, etc., on the front group rather than on the “real controllers” pulling the strings from behind the scenes. A good example of this occurred in the bloody French Revolution of 1789-1799, where the “Illuminati” took the blame for what the Jesuits had fomented and orchestrated!

- (2) They “label” various mass-murdering monsters, such as Joseph Stalin, as “Jews” or “half-Jews” years after the fact. They also “label” those forming the front groups, such as Jesuit-trained Gentile (i.e., NON-Jew) Adam Weishaupt, as “Jews”.
- (3) They place Jews in prominent mid-level & high-level management positions, such as head of the Federal Reserve, members of the first Soviet Politburo, camp commandants in the Soviet Gulag system, etc., in order to give “the Conspiracy” a “Jewish flavor”.
- (4) They have their lackeys and dupes within the mainstream media, certain segments of the “alternative media”, and certain segments of the so-called “patriot movement” pass along the Conspiracy’s propaganda about “the Jews” to their listeners and readers. Thus we see these lackeys and dupes focusing the “spotlight” on “the Jews”, Jewish neo-cons, Jewish Masons, Jewish bankers, Israel, the Mossad, etc., but never focusing that “spotlight” where it should be focused – on the Vatican State, the Jesuit Order, the Knights of Malta, Opus Dei, etc.

The “real controllers” behind the scenes have done a very good job of confusing us, and of concealing their own nefarious activities. Through their takeover of our education system and American publishing companies, they have erased a whole bunch of history. So successful have these revisers of history been, that relatively few Americans are aware of the following facts:

- The Jesuits (and the Vatican) masterminded the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln in 1865. They even helped one of the conspirators, John Harrison Surratt, to escape to Rome where he became a member of the Pope’s military bodyguard unit.
 - The Jesuits and the Vatican (NOT the Jews) fomented both World War I and World War II – and they are responsible for the misery, destruction, and mass murder that resulted!
 - The Vatican supported Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy, Fascist Croatia, and all the totalitarian, Jew-hating and murdering regimes in Europe during World War II.
 - The Vatican helped many of the worst Fascist and Nazi war criminals escape punishment in the aftermath of World War II through their infamous “Vatican Ratlines”.
- I could go on and on about the nefarious activities of the Vatican and its Jesuit Order – to include the assassination of many heads of State, such as King Henry III of France in 1589; King Henry IV of France in 1610; Czar Alexander I of Russia in 1825; President Abraham Lincoln in 1865; Emperor Komei of Japan in 1868; President Benito Juarez of Mexico in 1872; Czar Alexander II of Russia in 1881; etc.

Assassinating heads of State, fomenting wars and revolutions, overthrowing governments, mass murdering various population groups (such as 600,000 to one million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children in Croatia in the 1940s) have been the well-documented activities of the Vatican and its Jesuit Order for centuries! If the Vatican State, the Jesuit Order, the Knights of Malta, Opus

Dei, etc., are not massively (and quickly) exposed, then America will fall to their intrigues as have other nations in history.

IX. CLOSING QUOTES

It is certainly worth repeating a portion of an earlier quote by Dr. Stanley Monteith concerning "the Conspiracy":

"...Some sincere people believe that the Jews, or the Jewish bankers, are behind the world conspiracy. There are many clues that lead people to that conclusion, but I can assure you that the evidence has been planted to divert attention away from the truth. ... Anti-Semitism is a trap that has been baited to lead us away from the truth."

And here is another great quote for us to ponder:

"There are other secret and semi-secret organizations such as the International Bankers, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Bilderberger Group, [the] Club of Rome, the Trilateral Commission, the New Age Movement, the Illuminati, and Freemasonry, who are all deeply involved in global politics, and who actively promote the uniting of the people of our planet under a New World Order. However...these all are but mere 'front' organizations, behind which the true source of power hides and uses to distribute and channel its designs. And, as in any conspiracy, secrecy and shifting attention and blame away from itself is paramount to its success." – John Daniel (Author of the book The Grand Design Exposed)

X. WHAT CAN WE DO?

"....Some Jews were also appointed as camp commandants within the Soviet Gulag system. Again we seem to find a pattern: put some Jews in positions as mid-level or even upper-level managers, and then folks will think that the whole operation (or, conspiracy) is "Jewish"...."

The key is the propaganda of the non-official media.

Jesuits know very well that people believe MORE to the anti-governative propaganda than the Official one.

This is the reason for which the governments always are 'bad': because they (Jesuits/ SMOMs/etc.) want the people to be hurted and ready to accept every kind of protest-ideology against the Official Power.

The real core of Jesuit hides itself in the pseudo-alternative propaganda.

For this reason the people shall believe till death to everyone speaking against the 'government', giving him all the faith.

Once they gave it, they'll follow the leaders of the protest till death. This phenomena is like the one studied by Konrad Lorentz with his geese.

Then you must only completely cover the 'underground' political society with your fake-alternative organizations, taking care to make them appear indipendent one from the other, better if you find a competition between them, but only in political fields that are far from the truth you want to hide (ex.: make a clash between the ones who believe that 9-11 is due to the 'Jews' and the one who think it is due to the 'capitalism'; no one will dare to think about the 'naive theories about the Vatican plot').

Modern democracy is not the negation of tyranny, is the SYNTHESIS of ALL tyrannies which are clashing all the time one on the others. Our 'democracy' is only the apparent balance of the tyrannies (political parties and ideologies): when they want to destroy you, they change the balance and direct all the forces against you. More, modern democracy is a continuous 'coup d'etat' and consequent 'rebellion' to it. A perfect 'lake' in which the Jesuits Piranhas swim very well devouring every dissident. And this is just one of the various reason for which they first created and then DESTROYED the classical tyrannies (fascism, nazism, Kommnism,...).

To return to the quoted phrase and don't go to much OT, just see how today they (pseudo-alternative propaganda) present the pseudo Jews mercenary of the Bolshevik revolution as the 'real controller' with total power in their hands, meanwhile the islam mercenaries of C.I.A. claimed by the Official media to be the operatives and minds of the 9-11 are presented as 'puppets'.

And look how the mercenary Jews were used to destroy the Romanoff family, exposing them like the real soul of the Bolshevism. "A revenge against the anti-semitic dynasty of Russia!". Or a punishment for the orthodox heretics? Disguised as "Jewish revenge"? Who'll know it! Who has the power can create all the proof to hide the truth... It seems that there are many proof against the 'Jews', as they are telling us, or am I making a mistake?

These Jews are really stupid, showing to the world their plan! Why didn't they use their "Christians slaves" to do the dirty job in Russia? And this is just what happened eighty years later with Larry "Give me my Boeing" Silverstein, exposed by the alternative media as the one who 'pulled down WTC7". A good snack for the alternative-media which their masters, the Jesuit-Piranhas, let 'em sometimes to eat!

1) JEWS.

*) Official Media: 'the Jews are the victims'.

) Alternative anti-Official Media: 'the Jews are the real evil controller of the world'.

2) MUSLIM

*) Official Media: 'the muslims planned and did the evil 9-11' (don't say 'real controllers of the world' but is understood in this way because 'they want to become' through 'terrorism')

) Alternative anti-Official Media: 'the muslims are the victims (of the JEWS - see the first point)

The two points are FALSE. The firs point (TESI) is FALSE. His falsity has been received in the secon point (ANTI-TESI): "the muslims are the victims (of the JEWS)". This should lead to the Jesuit-SYNTHESIS: "let's blame (destroy) the Jews!".

Was or not Hegel a puppet of them?

Dear poster it is important to know what is going on in regards to those Catholic agitators, for instance are you aware of the fact it is Roman catholics behind the publishing of the "NIV Bible" a bible which portreys Christ as lucifer, infact the company Zondervan which is owned by News Corporation(Rupert Murdoch papal Knight of Saint Gregory) is the same publisher which publishes the Satanic bible... Zondervan, Harper Collins.

To verify that Harper Collins publishes the "Satanic Bible", do a search at www.harpercollins.com. The following quote came from their website: "...Zondervan, HarperCollins' Evangelical Christian publishing division, published the top five bestselling Bibles in the CBA marketplace, including the # 1 bestseller, The NIV Study Bible. Long considered the world's largest Bible publisher, Zondervan published 2/3 of the bestselling Bibles worldwide."

What this institution Jesuit Order seeks to do as it has always done is to destroy the Bible readers and believers connection to God, the KJV, through publishing the NIV and various other acts they achieve this end, the worrying thing is this it was concieved in order to be read by young children and to bring them up with this as the new improved KJV...

This stinks of Jesuitism.

MickyJay:

Hi 2tuff just been diggin a little bit on that sneaky Knight of Saint Gregory and media mogul Rupert Murdoch, well i chanced upon some interesting stuff, are you aware that Murdoch has been behind the publishing of a new Bible...

A search on the "NIV bible" will show you just how it has been recieved!

Murdoch is Chairman and Chief Executive of News Corporation which lists as one of its holdings, Zondervan Publishing House, the designated publisher of the New International Version of the Bible (NIV).

TNIV: TRANSLATION TREASON

In 1995, the NIV team (International Bible Society (IBS) and Committee on Bible Translations (CBT)) created a feminist "gender-inclusive" NIV, titled the New International Version Inclusive language edition [NIVI]. They found out very quickly and very loudly that America was not "prime-time ready" for a NIV feminist "gender inclusive" edition. So the NIVI was published solely in Great Britain by Hodder & Stoughton (Zondervan is the exclusive NIV publisher in the U.S.). The NIVI is so drenched in feminist changes and so corrupt, it cannot legally be sold in America. The NIVI is a "bound and gagged book" in America. See 2 Timothy 2:9, (' . . .but the word of God is not bound"). According to Christianity Today, NIV copyright holder, International Bible Society (IBS) even requested that Hodder & Stoughton quit selling the embarrassing NIVI in liberal England.

A little known "secret" that also appeared in 1996 was concerning Zondervan's, the New International Readers Version [NIRV]. According to Zondervan, the NIRV was, "a thorough, scholarly simplification of the NIV, the NIRV was specifically designed to help young children [ages 2-10] and new readers understand the Bible for themselves." The NIRV sold under such "innocent" titles as: The NIRV Children's Bible; The Beginner's Bible; NIRV Kid's Study Bible; NIRV Kids' Quest Study Bible; Adventure Bible for Young Readers; NIRV Read to Me Bible for Kids.

But the "dirty little secret" was the children's NIRV was soaking in "gender inclusive" feminist language. There was nothing in the Preface, nor any hint anywhere that the innocent children's NIRV was flooded with "gender inclusive" lingo.

Get this "nugget" – Bruce Metzger, writes in The Bible in Translation: "In November 1996, Hodder and Stoughton issued in Great Britain the simplified NIV [the Children's NIRV] under the title: New International Version Popular Edition, Inclusive Language and in March 1997 under the title New International Version: Inclusive Language Edition (NIVI)" (Bruce Metzger, The Bible in Translation, p. 172). According to Metzger, the "banned in the U.S." feminist NIVI is the same Bible as the Children's NIRV! After word leaked out about the NIRV's "gender-bender" vocabulary, Zondervan quickly re-issued the NIRV (July 1998) minus the original feminist inclusive language. Not surprising, after researching the "gender-inclusive" issue, I've found many of the Children's Bibles among the most corrupt and feminist influenced.

But as they say, "the times, they are a'changing".

So seven short years later, the NIV crew, along with Zondervan, are at it again. Come 'hail or high water' the NIV team is gonna dump a feminist NIV "gender inclusive" Bible on the U.S. And in March, 2002, the New Testament of the "gender inclusive" TNIV officially hit the streets of the good ol' U.S.

This article is a lengthy look at Zondervan's Today's New International Version [TNIV]. This article began as a simple, short critique of the TNIV. But the more I researched. . . the more I read. . . the more alarmed and troubled I became. Even though, this is a lengthy article, it would be well worth your time to carefully and prayerfully read. This article goes far beyond the scope of the recent TNIV. You will see, without question, a deliberate, intentional, and completely inaccurate, mis-translation of the God-inspired, Greek text.

As you witness the blatant disregard for the Greek text, please bear in mind: that according to their own words – the TNIV translators are the same group using the same translation methodology as used in the highly successful "original" New International Version [NIV].

This is quoted directly from the TNIV web site:

"The fully independent body that translated the highly acclaimed NIV is the same eminent group that undertook the work on the TNIV. . .

The widely respected translation methodology that drove the scholarship of the NIV was maintained in the development of the TNIV. . ."

(Faithfully Produced by CBT, www.tniv.info/story/cbt.php)

Not only, are the TNIV crew proud of their "gender inclusive" TNIV, again, according to their own words, the TNIV is more accurate and a better translation than the "original" NIV.

Again, the following is taken from the TNIV web site:

"The NIV is an extremely accurate Bible text, the best the CBT could produce as of 1984. The TNIV is an even slightly more accurate Bible text, the best the CBT could produce as of 2001."

(TNIV FAQs, www.tniv.info/QandA.php)

As you read this disturbing review of the TNIV, be ever mindful – it is the same translation methodology, the same people, and the same beliefs, that produced the "original" NIV. And according to the people who translated and published both the NIV and TNIV – the feminist TNIV is more accurate and a better translation than the "original" NIV. That's not my words, or thoughts – that's their words – on their website, for all the world to read.

So what does that testify about the "original" NIV? I'll let you answer that after you've finished reading this article.

The fact is, the "original" NIV was stuffed with "gender inclusive" language. But unlike, the TNIV, the "original" NIV was not advertised as a "gender-accurate" Bible.

Gail Riplinger writes in The Language of the King James Bible:

"The recent clamour about a so-called inclusive language edition of the NIV, is just a smoke screen, hiding the fact the NIV has, since its introduction in 1973, omitted male pronouns, like 'he' and 'him'. Chapter 5 of my book New Age Bible Versions documents dozens and dozens of places where male terms, and Jesus Christ himself, are neutered by the NIV."

(Gail Riplinger, The Language of the King James Bible, p. 114)

Professor Mark Strauss, who is a proponent of the "gender-inclusive" Bibles, readily acknowledges the "gender inclusiveness" of the "original" NIV.

"In dozens of cases in the Old Testament, inclusive terms such as 'people' or 'person(s),' 'one,' 'each,' 'anyone' or 'someone' are used [in the New international Versions (NIV)]. . . The Greek term anthropos is also frequently translated with inclusive language in the NIV. . . There are many such inclusive renderings in the NIV. Comparing the translation of anthropos and aner in the NIV and the NIV1, Andreas Kostenberger found that ninety-five of the 550 appearances of anthropos and thirty of the 216 appearances of aner were translated inclusively in the original NIV."

(Mark L. Strauss, Distorting Scripture?, The Challenge of Bible Translation & Gender Accuracy, pp. 37-38)

The fact is, the NIV translators [CBT] original intention was for the "gender-inclusive" NIV1 to replace the "original" NIV. World magazine details the CBT's intention:

"Mr. Walker says the consensus of the Committee for Bible Translation in America is to have the unisex-language version 'take the place of the other.' [original NIV]"

(World Magazine, Femme Fatale cover story, March 29, 1997, www.worldmag.com/world/issue/03-29-97/cover_1.asp)

Kenneth Barker, the CBT chairman and secretary clearly says in World magazine, the CBT's desire is to have only a "gender-inclusive" NIV:

"Mr. Barker says it will be the publisher's decision: "If our committee had its way there would be no separate inclusive-language edition." But he says, "I've heard—I can't say that this is actual fact—that Zondervan will keep making the two editions," at least for a while if the traditional version finds a market niche."

(World Magazine, Femme Fatale cover story, March 29, 1997, www.worldmag.com/world/issue/03-29-97/cover_1.asp)

As you read this alarming review of the TNIV – just remember – the people that translated the NIV-NIrV-NIVI-TNIV – want to replace all the Bibles with a deliberate, mis-translated "gender-inclusive" Bible. And remember, their first "attempt" was an undisclosed "gender-inclusive" disaster [NIrV] aimed for your children. After they got "caught", they quickly republished a semi "non-gender-inclusive" NIrV.

i hope you check it out to get an incling of what this Knight of St Gregory get's up to with his bible publishers, no doubt this Papal Knight is promoting these tainted scriptures, designed for children, in order to usher in the catholic interpretations so that in a few years even the protestant Bible readers are in line with the Jesuit Orders agenda...

Murdoch

Media Mogul Rupert Murdoch recently made a $10 million contribution toward the construction of a new Catholic cathedral in Los Angeles. Murdoch has wide holdings in the movie, TV and publishing industries including Fox Television, 20th Century Fox Films, London Times and New York Post newspapers, Harper Collins and Zondervan publishing companies.

But the fact that his TV stations and movie productions are some of the sleaziest, did not stop Los Angeles Cardinal Roger Mahony from anointing him and his wife as members of the Pontifical Order of St. Gregory the Great in January, 1998. This knighthood, bestowed on behalf of the pope, is given to persons of "unblemished character" who have "promoted the interests of society, the [Catholic] Church and the Holy See [Vatican]."

Besides this strange connection, there is an even stranger one. Murdoch is Chairman and Chief Executive of News Corporation which lists as one of its holdings, Zondervan Publishing House, the designated publisher of the New International Version of the Bible (NIV). Although the NIV copyright is held by the International Bible Society, Zondervan has exclusive publishing rights.

Is it just a coincidence that the distribution of the most popular of the modern Bible versions, based on the corrupted Roman Catholic texts, is controlled by a man who contributes heavily to Catholic causes and holds a papal knighthood?

It is also curious that since Murdoch was knighted for his "unblemished character" that he abandoned his wife of 31 years and married one of his "dynamic, tall and gorgeous" female employees who is half his age. When Cardinal Mahony's office was asked if the knighthood honor would be revoked, a spokesman replied, "As far as I know, once you've got it, you've got it for good."

It appears that as long as someone continues to "promote the interests of society, the Church and the Holy See" character blemishes can be conveniently overlooked. Especially if it includes donations in the $10 million range and distribution of the major Bible "perversion" based on Roman Catholic manuscripts.

Guess who was a stylist for the NIV? Lesbian Virginia Ramey Mollenkott.

I think another Sodomite, Martin Woudstra, also helped with the NIV, if I remember right.

The NIV, from what I've heard, substitutes "sodomite" with "shrine prostitute." Trying to make it a gay-friendly Bible.

The supposed "pillars of Society" always turn out to be Homosexuals or perverted or in the closet, and we wonder why in society immediately below them there is a shortage of honest men.

The population are all trying to emulate these "pillars" (symbolism therein perhaps) not knowing what it is they are really emulating and are rewarded financially for doing so and joining certain "fraternities" " oh to get ahead in this life, takes a lot of kind words and ruthless damning actions"...

When even the bible can be drastically altered, and Drastic alterations have been made in the NIV in the name of "modernisation", it is time to look to what Orwell was saying about the watering down of language and expression etc in 1984.

Title: The Vatican—Is It a Topic that Should Be Discussed

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 2, 2007 02:37 AM (GMT)

“The Vatican – Is It a Topic that Should Be Discussed?”

“Is the Vatican Strictly a ‘Religious’ Organization?”

(And) “Is the Vatican a Torture-Loving, Mass-Murdering Machine?”

By Darryl Eberhart, Editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics” www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net // June 20, 2006

On June 17, 2006 I had a telephone conversation with a friend of mine who also happens to be a broadcast host in the “alternative media”. Most people would characterize his broadcast and his organization as “secular” rather than as “religious”, although he has had several people on his broadcast to discuss topics that fall in the realm of “religion”. So I guess I shouldn’t have been surprised when he noted that if we talked about the Vatican “on air” (i.e., on his broadcast), then people would say that we would be entering into a discussion of “religion”. I think we need to answer the three questions that are asked in the “three-part title” of this article concerning the Vatican. We will start first with the second question:

“Is the Vatican Strictly a ‘Religious’ Organization?”

The answer to that question is quite simple, and it is an unequivocal “NO!” While none of us (who are rational) would deny that there is a Roman Catholic “Church” – a “religious” organization and system that has over 1 BILLION adherents, we also must recognize that there is a historically documented GEOPOLITICAL entity known as the “Vatican State”, or “Vatican City”. According to Webster’s New World Dictionary, Second College Edition, “Vatican City” is an “independent papal state constituted in 1929 as an enclave in Rome...” The Vatican State (or “City”) has diplomatic relations with most of the nations of the world!

The Papacy, which has long sat atop the authoritative, hierarchical religious system known as the Roman Catholic Church, has a well-documented geopolitical history of ruling for centuries over the monarchs of Europe. In fact, the Papacy [Papal Rome] in essence was, and still is, the “ghost” that arose out of the “ashes” of the Imperial Pagan Roman Empire.

For the last four centuries plus, the Vatican’s Jesuit Order has been one of the most powerful organizations on the GEOPOLITICAL scene. Boyd Barrett, an ex-Jesuit, tells us:

“The Jesuit Order at last reached the pinnacle of its power and prestige in the early eighteenth century [i.e., the early 1700s]. It had become more influential and more wealthy than any other organization in the world. It held a position in world affairs that no oath-bound group of men has ever held before or since... ‘Nearly all the Kings and Sovereigns of Europe had only Jesuits as directors of their consciences [i.e., as confessor-priests], so that the whole of Europe appeared to be governed by Jesuits only.’” (1927; using a short quote by Jesuit Cordara)

J. Wayne Laurens, American historian and author of the book The Crisis: Or, the Enemies of America Unmasked, lets us know about the political side of the Vatican and its Jesuit Order – and how they USE “religion” as a “mask” for advancing their political agenda:

“But we recognize in the Roman Catholic priesthood, and the Jesuit brotherhood, two distinct political organizations, united in purpose and using religion as a mask for political purpose, as they always have done in all ages and countries.”

Author Avro Manhattan, in his book Murder in the Vatican (1985), lets us know that the Vatican is a very powerful GEOPOLITICAL “creature”:

“The Vatican is a superpower – on a par with the USA and Soviet Russia. Indeed, since at times it can act as a formulator of the policies of both, it can be reckoned as the paramount superpower of our times.

Its adherents, a massive portion of mankind, nearing a billion [Ed. Note: it’s now over a billion], can be made to operate in every corner of the world. [There are] sixty million [Roman Catholics] within the USA herself. [Ed. Note: Counting illegal aliens, it’s a lot more than that!]

...Therefore the Vatican is a superpower in its own right. Indeed, because of its duality as a political and as a religious center, it can outbid the other two [superpowers].” (Page 5)

The following quote by Hector Macpherson, author of the book The Jesuits in History, lets us know how terrible it was for mankind when the Roman Catholic Church moved into the geopolitical arena (i.e., the “civil sphere”):

“Had the Roman Catholic Church remained a purely religious organization like any other sect, the world would have been spared centuries of evil [Ed. Note: such as the Inquisition, crusades, and Catholic-instigated religious genocide]. But in the course of its development the Romish Church, through its Popes, entered the civil sphere and aspired to universal monarchy.

In the fatal year 800, when Charlemagne was crowned Emperor of the Romans by [Pope] Leo III, there was set upon Western Europe the Papacy, a colossal system whose object is despotic rule of man and society in all spheres, sacred and secular. The Papacy claimed not only to possess the ‘Keys of Heaven’, but also to rule the earth. The pope came to be regarded as the sole representative of Deity on earth, and from him must the empire be held.

...In its egotistical blindness, and intoxicated with the fumes of sacerdotal conceit, the Papacy set itself in opposition to the spirit of nationality, which in the Middle Ages was beginning to create order out of the disorders caused by the fall of the Roman Empire. Foiled in its endeavors to reign unchecked over rising nationalities the Papacy attempted to rule through monarchs devoted to the [Roman Catholic] Church.” (Pages 108, 109)

By the way, the Jesuit Order (one of the main “political” arms of the Vatican) not only controls its Jesuit “soldiers”, but also the Papacy itself, the powerful and wealthy Knights of Malta, higher-level Knights of Columbus, and the higher levels of Freemasonry. The Jesuits, “masters of POLITICS”, have a historically well-documented track record of infiltrating and subverting governments. So much so, that Canadian historian J.E.C. Shepherd tells us:

“Between 1555 and 1931 the Society of Jesus [i.e., the Jesuits] was expelled from at least 83 countries, city states and cities, for engaging in political intrigue and subversive plots against the welfare of the State, according to the records of a Jesuit priest of repute [i.e., Thomas J. Campbell]. ...Practically every instance of expulsion was for political intrigue, political infiltration, political subversion, and inciting to political insurrection.” (1987)

Do the Jesuits have a lot of POLITICAL power here in the USA? Here’s what Jeremiah J. Crowley (Irishman; ex-priest in the Roman Catholic Church; author of the book Romanism: Menace to the Nation) tells us concerning the Jesuit Order:

“Today they [i.e., the Jesuits] are stronger in the United States than they ever were in any of the countries of Europe which expelled them as a menace to the government.” (1912)

M.F. Cusack (Ex-nun of Kenmore; author of the book The Black Pope) tells us some interesting information about Rome (i.e., the Vatican) and its Jesuits in the following two quotes:

“...The Jesuits are the only religious order in the Church of Rome...which has lain under the ban of the [‘White’] Pope, or which has been expelled from any country because of its interference in politics. Hence we may expect to find that to obtain political power forms a main feature in the plans of the Society [of Jesus – i.e., the Jesuit Order].” (1896)

“The fact is that very few Protestants [Ed. Note: or other non-Catholic Christians] have realized how entirely Rome is a political church, and that she always makes her political advancement her first object.” (1896)

The American Catholic hierarchy and the Jesuit Order are very active POLITICALLY in the United States of America. Author and journalist Paul Blanchard tells us the following about Roman Catholic political power in the USA in his book American Freedom and Catholic Power:

“There is no doubt that the American Catholic hierarchy has entered the political arena, and that it is becoming more and more aggressive in extending the frontiers of Catholic authority into the fields of medicine, education, and foreign policy... As we shall see in this book [Ed. Note: American Freedom and Catholic Power], the Catholic hierarchy in this country [i.e., the USA] has great power as a pressure group, and no editor, politician, publisher, merchant or motion-picture producer can express defiance openly – or publicize documented facts – without risking his future.” (1949)

F. Tupper Saussy, author of the book Rulers of Evil: Useful Knowledge About Governing Bodies, tells us the following about Roman Catholic POLITICAL power in modern America:

“What [Professor Carol A.] Brown [of the University of Massachusetts] had learned from Carl Bernstein, I [i.e., F. Tupper Saussy] had discovered for myself over several years of private investigation: the papacy really does run United States foreign policy... Yes, [Carl] Bernstein noted that the leading American players behind the Reagan/Vatican conspiracy, to a man, were ‘devout Roman Catholics’ – namely,

William Casey – Director, CIA [Ed. Note: And a papal Knight of Malta];
Richard Allen – National Security Advisor;
Judge William Clark – National Security Advisor;
Alexander Haig – Secretary of State [Ed. Note: And a papal Knight of Malta];
Vernon Walters – Ambassador-at-Large; and,
William Wilson – Ambassador to the Vatican State.

But the reporter neglected to mention that the entire Senate Foreign Relations committee was governed by Roman Catholics as well. Specifically, Senators

- Joseph Biden – Subcommittee on European Affairs;
- Paul Sarbanes – International Economic Policy, Trade, Oceans, and Environment;
- Daniel P. Moynihan – Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs;
- John Kerry – Terrorism, Narcotics, and International Communications; and,
- Christopher Dodd – Western Hemisphere and Peace Corps Affairs.”

(Rulers of Evil; Pages 1, 2)

“In fact, when the ‘Holy Alliance’ story hit the stands [in 1992], there was virtually no arena of federal legislative activity, according to ‘The 1992 World Almanac of US Politics’, that was not directly controlled by a Roman Catholic senator or representative. The committees and subcommittees of the United States Senate and House of Representatives governing commerce, communications and telecommunications, energy, medicine, health, education and welfare, human services, consumer protection, finance and financial institutions, transportation, labor and unemployment, hazardous materials, taxation, bank regulation, currency and monetary policy, oversight of the Federal Reserve System, commodity prices, rents services, small business administration, urban affairs, European affairs, Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, terrorism/narcotics/international communications, international economic/trade/oceans/ environmental policy, insurance, housing, community development, federal loan guarantees, economic stabilization measures (including wage and price controls), gold and precious metals transactions, agriculture, animal and forestry industries, rural issues, nutrition, price supports, Food for Peace, agricultural exports, soil conservation, irrigation, stream channelization, flood control, minority enterprise, environment and pollution, appropriations, defense, foreign operations, vaccines, drug labeling and packaging, drug and alcohol abuse, inspection and certification of fish and processed food, use of vitamins and saccharin, national health insurance proposals, human services, legal services, family relations, the arts and humanities, the handicapped, and aging – in other words, virtually every aspect of secular life in America – came under the chairmanship of one of these Roman Catholic laypersons:

Frank Annunzio Edward Kennedy Daniel Moynihan
Joseph Biden John Kerry John Murtha

Silvio Conte John LaFalce Mary Rose Oakar

Kika De la Garza Patrick Leahy David Obey
John Dingell Charles Luken Claiborne Pell

Christopher Dodd Edward Madigan Charles Rangel

Vic Fazio Edward Markey Dan Rostenkowski

James Florio Joseph McDade Edward Roybal

Henry Gonzalez Barbara Mikulski

Thomas Harkin George Miller

Vatican Council II's 'Constitution on the Church' (1964) instructs [Roman Catholic] politicians to use their secular offices to advance the cause of Roman Catholicism."

(Rulers of Evil; Pages 2, 3)

"An updating of this list will not reflect a significant change in the presence of Roman Catholic laypersons in the higher legislative reaches. According to the 'Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities', in the 106th Congress there are 40 'Jesuit alumni' who graduated from 17 Jesuit institutions [of higher learning]. There are 5 alumni in the U.S. Senate and 35 alumni in the House of Representatives. Out of these 40 alumni, 23 received graduate or professional degrees from Jesuit universities. [Jesuit] Georgetown University has the most graduates, boasting 15 alumni in the U.S. Congress." (Rulers of Evil; Page 303)

Of course, we also have a FINANCIAL entity known as the "Vatican Bank". In fact, the Vatican is into international banking and finance "big time". Avro Manhattan, in his book The Vatican Billions (Chick Publications, 1983), tells us the following:

"The Vatican has large investments with the Rothschilds of Britain, France and America, with the Hambros Bank, [and] with the Credit Suisse in London and Zurich. In the United States it has large investments with the Morgan Bank, the Chase-Manhattan Bank, the First National Bank of New York, the Bankers Trust Company, and others. The Vatican has billions in shares in the most powerful international corporations such as Gulf Oil, Shell, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric, International Business Machines [IBM], T.W.A., etc. At a conservative estimate, these amount to more than 500 million dollars in the USA alone." (1983)

"In a statement published in connection with a bond prospectus, the Boston archdiocese listed its assets at Six Hundred and Thirty-five Million ($635,891,004), which is 9.9 times its liabilities. This leaves a net worth of Five Hundred and Seventy-one Million dollars ($571,704,953). It is not difficult to discover the truly astonishing wealth of the [Roman Catholic] Church, once we add the riches of the twenty-eight archdioceses and 122 dioceses of the USA, some of which are even wealthier than that of Boston.” (1983)

“Some idea of the real estate and other forms of wealth controlled by the [Roman] Catholic Church may be gathered by the remark of a member of the New York Catholic Conference, namely ‘that his church probably ranks second only to the United States government in total annual purchase.’ Another statement, made by a nationally syndicated Catholic priest, perhaps is even more telling. ‘The Catholic Church’, he said, ‘must be the biggest corporation in the United States. We have a branch office in every neighborhood. Our assets and real estate holdings must exceed those of Standard Oil, A.T. &T., and U.S. Steel combined. And our roster of dues-paying members must be second only to the tax rolls of the United States government.’”

“The [Roman] Catholic Church, once all her assets have been put together, is the most formidable stockbroker in the world. ...The Wall Street Journal said that the Vatican’s financial deals in the U.S. alone were so big that very often it sold or bought gold in lots of a million or more dollars at one time.” (1983)

“The Vatican’s treasure of solid gold has been estimated by the United Nations World Magazine to amount to several billion dollars. ...But this is just a small portion of the wealth of the Vatican, which in the U.S. alone is greater than that of the five wealthiest giant corporations of the country. When to that is added all the real estate, property, stocks and shares abroad, then the staggering accumulation of the wealth of the [Roman] Catholic Church becomes so formidable as to defy any rational assessment.” (1983)

“The [Roman] Catholic Church is the biggest financial power, wealth accumulator and property owner in existence. She is a greater possessor of material riches than any other single institution, corporation, bank, giant trust, government or state of the whole globe. The pope...is consequently the richest individual of the twentieth century.” (1983)

Michael de Semlyen, author of the book All Roads Lead to Rome?: The Ecumenical Movement, tells us the following about Vatican banking scandals:

“Vatican scandals involving large-scale fraud and corruption and complicity in a cover-up have simply been shrugged off. Archbishop Marcinkus [Ed. Note: then-head of the Vatican Bank], who was at the center of it all, was protected by the Pope [i.e., John Paul II] for more than seven years – and the Italian state authorities [were] somehow rendered helpless...”

Roman Catholic Oxford Professor of Logic, Michael Dummett, accused the Pope [i.e., John Paul II] of complicity in a cover-up to protect [Archbishop] Marcinkus. ‘The Sunday

Telegraph' 15th March, 1987, reporting from the Catholic Weekly 'The Tablet', said that Professor Dummett spoke of 'the Vatican Bank entangled with complicated practices from which the most pungent stink of corruption arises. These practices involved other banks, the Mafia, and the seamiest type of Freemasonry, culminating in what was possibly the bizarre suicide, but more probably the grotesque murder of an Italian banker in London.'

...The Milan [Court] verdict has brought blunt accusations of complicity in Calvi's murder leveled at [Archbishop] Marcinkus by Calvi's widow, who claims that her husband had told her shortly before his death: 'The priests want me dead'. Marcinkus resigned as head of the Vatican Bank, but remained under the pope's [i.e., John Paul II's] protection and enjoyed Vatican immunity. Attempts by the Italian authorities to put him on trial with the others accused of fraud were brushed aside by the Vatican; the Pope simply refused to hand him over."

Obviously, there is a whole lot of evidence proving that the Vatican is one of the wealthiest – if not THE wealthiest – organization on planet Earth! And, sadly, a lot of Vatican money is used for controlling politicians and governments in many parts of the world!

Now let's take a look at the third question in the "three-part title" of this article:

"Is the Vatican a Torture-Loving, Mass-Murdering Machine?"

I have covered in many of my previous writings the well-documented history of Papal Rome's involvement in many religious genocides – genocides carried out against innocent men, women, elderly, and children – genocides carried out not only against Jews, but also against Christians (e.g., Albigensian Christians, Waldensian Christians, Irish Protestants, French Huguenots, and Orthodox Christians). I have also covered in some detail the "holy" crusades, the "holy" wars, and the "holy" INQUISITION that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church inflicted upon millions of the Earth's inhabitants. Here are just a few quotes to show us how dangerous the Papal Torture-Loving, Mass-Murdering Machine is:

"Roman Catholicism was born in blood, has wallowed in blood, has quenched its thirst in blood, and it is in letters of blood that its true history is written." (1940)

Baron DePonnat (French statesman)

"Disregarding the maxims and the spirit of the Gospel, the papal Church, arming herself with the power of the sword, vexed the Church of God and wasted it for centuries, a period most appropriately termed in history, the 'dark ages'. The kings of the earth gave their power to the Beast." – John Foxe (or, Fox) (1516-1587; author of Foxe's Book of Martyrs)

“Through relentless torture, starvation, genocide, massacres, burning at the stake, against every conceivable fury of [Papal] Rome, they [i.e., the ‘seeds of protest’] could not be extinguished. History estimates that over one hundred million people lost their lives during that time of [Papal] Roman tyranny. Is it any wonder that God graphically describes this onslaught of [Papal] Rome as her being ‘drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus’, and calls her the ‘Beast’?”

John Daniel (The Grand Design Exposed; Page 27)

“For rejecting the doctrine of transubstantiation, Christians were burned at the stake by Roman Catholics by the hundreds of thousands. Church historian R. Tudor Jones writes that ‘the majority of the martyrs were ordinary people, including many women...’

John Foxe was an eyewitness and earnest historian of the fierce persecution in England in his day. His Book of Martyrs gives detailed accounts of many public trials and executions of those whom the Roman Catholic Church judged to be ‘heretics’ worthy of death. His descriptions of Christians being burned at the stake tell of their inspiring bravery in the face of such a horrible death and of the determination of Roman Catholicism to exterminate everywhere true Christians who opposed her.

Similar records have come down of the massacres of Jews at the hands of the Roman [Catholic] Church.” – Dave Hunt (A Cup of Trembling; Page 160)

“The desire for worldly power began to manifest itself in the Church, on a broad scale, in the 4th century, when the Roman Empire ceased its persecutions, and made Christianity its State religion. The spirit of Imperial Rome passed into the Church. The Church gradually developed itself into the pattern of the Empire it had conquered.

[Imperial] Rome fell. But Rome came to life again, as a world power, in the name of the [Roman Catholic] Church. The popes of Rome were the heirs and successors of the Caesars of Rome. The Vatican is [located] where the Palace of the Caesars was. The [Roman Catholic] popes have claimed all the authority the Caesars claimed, and more. The Papal Palace, throughout the centuries, has been among the most luxurious in all the world. Popes have lived in pomp and splendor unsurpassed by earthly kings. In no place on earth is there more ostentatious pageantry and show of magnificence than at the coronation of a pope.

...The horrors of the Inquisition, ordered and maintained by the popes, over a period of 500 years, in which unnumbered millions were tortured and burned, constitute the most brutal, beastly and devilish picture in all history.

...The city of Rome, first pagan, then papal, has been the dominating power of the world for two thousand years (200 B.C. to A.D. 1800).

...It is inconceivable that any ecclesiastical organization, in its mania for power, could have distorted and desecrated and corrupted, for its own exaltation, the beautiful and holy religion of Jesus [Christ].” – Henry H. Halley (Author of the Pocket Bible Handbook)

“The most ghastly abomination of all was the system of torture. The accounts of its cold-blooded operations make one shutter at the capacity of human beings for cruelty. And it was decreed and regulated by the popes who ‘claim’ to represent Christ on earth...”

William Shaw Kerr (Bishop; Church historian)

“In 1198, the church [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] established a commission to persecute and try ‘heretics’. This later developed into the Holy Inquisition. In 1483, Tomas Torquemada...was appointed Grand Inquisitor of Castilia and Aragon. In 1492, he expelled all Jews who refused to become Marranos [Jews who converted to Catholicism].

Torquemada worked intensively [sic] for 18 years and burned 10,220 people at the stake...Another 6860 victims died under torture...a further 300,000 were sent by Torquemada to the galleys, of whom a third died. In total, 114,401 families were wiped out. Torquemada was especially energetic in persecuting philosophers, authors, doctors and scientists.

This Grand Inquisitor made torture an efficient tool...”

Juri Lina (Under the Sign of the Scorpion: The Rise and Fall of the Soviet Empire)

“History records the appalling story of suffering and martyrdom endured by untold millions across the centuries at the hand of the PAPAL MACHINE.”

Wilson Ewin (You Can Lead Roman Catholics to Christ; page 33)

“During the Dark Ages, over 150 million Christians were put to death because they would not abide by the universal religion [Ed. Note: Roman Catholicism] at that time.”

Bill Hughes [see warning below] (The Enemy Unmasked; Page 52)

“Indeed, the Roman Catholic Church has a long history of persecution, expulsion, and slaughter of Jews, to which Hitler referred in justifying the Holocaust.”

Dave Hunt (A Cup of Trembling; Page 158)

“Estimates of the number of victims [of the Vatican’s Holocaust in Croatia in the 1940s] exceed a million. This is probably a realistic figure. Yugoslavia in its war crimes trials estimated that from 700,000 to 900,000 victims were ‘tortured and put to death...[in] the two dozen concentration camps’ within Croatia, and tens of thousands never reached the camps. Many were Jews, but most were Serbians of Orthodox faith who were given the choice of conversion to Roman Catholicism or death.

Both in Yugoslavia and the Ukraine, Roman Catholic priests, bishops, and cardinals, with the full knowledge of the Vatican, participated in and gave their blessing to some of the bloodiest and most barbaric massacres of the war, aimed at giving Roman Catholicism control of these regions.” – Dave Hunt (A Woman Rides the Beast; Pages 303, 304)

“The public is practically unaware of the overwhelming responsibility carried by the Vatican and its Jesuits in the starting of two world wars – a situation which may be explained in part by the gigantic finances at the disposition of the Vatican and its Jesuits, giving them power in so many spheres, especially since the last conflict.”

Edmond Paris (The Secret History of the Jesuits; Page 9)

“The Jesuits, in control of [Adolph] Hitler’s occultic and homosexual Third Reich... installed puppet dictators throughout Europe. They were:

Bavarian Germany and the Third Reich – [Adolph] Hitler [born-died: 1889-1945]

Italy – [Benito] Mussolini [born-died: 1883-1945]

‘Vichy’ France – [Henri Philippe] Petain [born-died: 1856-1951]

Spain – [Francisco] Franco [born-died: 1892-1975]

Austria – Seyss-Inquart

Poland – Frank

Slovakia – [Jesuit] Priest Tiso

Croatia – [Ante] Pavelitch ((Ed. Note: alternate spelling: Pavelic))

Belgium – Degrelle.

All these Roman Catholic, Jesuit-controlled, Jew-hating dictators were loyal to the greatest war criminal of all, Papal Caesar Pius XII and his master, Jesuit [Superior] General Wlodimir Ledochowski.” – Eric Jon Phelps (Vatican Assassins; Page 478)

When we consider the preceding three quotes – and I could have included more – we see that much of the responsibility for the horrible pain, suffering, and mass murder that occurred during World War II can be laid directly at the doorstep of the Vatican! Since we have examined the last two questions in this article’s “three-part title”, let’s now try to answer the first question:

“The Vatican – Is It a Topic that Should Be Discussed?”

Shouldn’t we discuss a geopolitical-financial-religious organization (i.e., the Vatican and its Jesuits) that in the 19th century, along with the absolute monarchs of Europe, made plans to DESTROY the American Constitutional Republic? Please consider the following quotations:

“These three meetings, at Vienna, [Austria in 1814-15,] Verona, [Italy in 1822,] and Chieri, [Italy in 1825] were held with as much secrecy as possible. However, one man attended the first two meetings that would not be silenced. British foreign minister George Canning contacted the U.S. government to warn them that the monarchs of Europe [Ed. Note: with the encouragement and support of the Papacy and its Jesuits] were planning to destroy the free institutions of America.” – Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists; Page 15)

“During this Congress [of Verona, Italy in 1822], it was decided that America would be the target of Jesuit emissaries and that America was to be destroyed at all costs. Every principle of the [U.S.] Constitution was to be dissolved and new Jesuitical principles were to be put into place in order to exalt the Papacy to dominion in America.”

Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists; Page 14)

“In 1822 [at the secret meetings at Verona, Italy] the Roman Catholic Monarchies of Europe conspired with the Vatican to destroy the concept of popular government, as found in the experiment of the United States, by means of infiltration, subversion and corruption. The tools used were the Leopold foundation, which was set up by Prince Metternich of Austria, and the Jesuit Order. The purpose being to use the financial and military arms of the United States to further the interests of the Papacy in its goal of putting all the world under the temporal submission [sic; i.e., power] of the [Roman Catholic] Church.”

C.T. Wilcox (Canadian actor; author of The Transformation of the Republic; Page 13)

Shouldn't we discuss a geopolitical-financial-religious organization (i.e., the Vatican and its Jesuits) that through Catholic leaders and Catholic publications has made vile statements about our religious liberty, freedoms of press and speech, and our Constitutional Republic? Please consider the following quotations made by Roman Catholic prelates and publications:

“The unrestrained freedom of thinking and of openly making known one's thoughts is not inherent in the rights of citizens and is by no means worthy of favor and support.”

Pope Gregory XVI

“The absurd and erroneous doctrines or ravings in defense of liberty of conscience, are a most pestilential error – a pest, of all others, most to be dreaded in a State.”

Pope Pius IX (1792-1878; pope: 1846-1878; Encyclical Letter of August 15, 1854)

“The State has not the right to leave every man free to embrace whatever religion he should deem true. ...The [Roman Catholic] Church has the right to require that the Catholic religion shall be the religion of the State, to the exclusion of all others.

...Cursed be those who assert liberty of conscience and of worship and such that maintain that the [Roman Catholic] Church may not employ force.”

Pope Pius IX (Syllabus Errorum of December 1864)

“These false and perverse opinions [of democracy and individual freedom] are so much the more detestable, by as much as they...hinder and banish that salutary influence which the [Roman] Catholic Church, by the institution and command of her Divine Author, ought freely to exercise, even to the consummation of the world, not only over individual men, but [over] nations, [over] peoples, and [over] sovereigns.” (Quanta Cura; December 8, 1864)

Pope Pius IX

“...We do not accept it [i.e., the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America], or hold it to be any government at all... If the American Republic is to be sustained and preserved at all, it must be by the rejection of the principle of the [Protestant] Reformation [i.e., religious liberty], and the acceptance of the Catholic principle [i.e., religious tyranny; Roman Catholicism as the State religion]...”

Catholic World (August 1871; page 735)

“No man has a right to choose his religion. Catholicism is the most intolerant of creeds. It is intolerance itself. We might as rationally maintain that two and two does not make four as the theory of Religious Liberty. Its impiety is only equaled by its absurdity.” (1864)

John Hughes (Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York)

“Fascism is the regime that corresponds most closely to the concepts of the Church of Rome.” – Civiltà Cattolica (House organ of the Jesuits)

The [Roman Catholic] church has persecuted. Only a tyro [i.e., novice] in church history will deny that...one hundred and fifty years after [Roman Emperor] Constantine, the Donatists were persecuted and sometimes put to death. ...Protestants were persecuted in France and Spain with the full approval of the [Roman Catholic] church authorities. ... When she [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] thinks it good to use physical force, she will use it.”

The Western Watchman (A Roman Catholic publication out of St. Louis)

Please also consider these warnings given to us by ex-Roman Catholics and non-Catholics:

“The Vatican has consistently fought every democratic advance from absolute monarchies toward government by the people, beginning with England’s Magna Carta (June 15, 1215), ‘the mother of European Constitutions’. That vital document was denounced immediately by Pope Innocent III ([pope:] 1198-1216)... Encouraged by the pope, King John [of England] brought in foreign mercenaries to fight the [English] barons [who had forced King John to sign the Magna Carta], bringing great destruction upon the country. Subsequent popes did all in their power to help [English King] John’s successor, [King] Henry III, overturn the Magna Carta, impoverishing the country with papal taxes (salaries to the numerous imported Italian [Roman Catholic] priests were three times the crown’s annual revenue).”

Dave Hunt (A Woman Rides the Beast; Pages 54, 55)

“For over 200 years, the goal [of the Jesuits] has been the complete destruction of the United States Constitution.

...In the religious arena, the goal of the Jesuits is to wipe out any trace of Protestantism and other religions, and to restore worldwide domination by the pope.”

Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists; Page 138)

“The Constitution of the United States was condemned by the Papacy because it separated church and state and prohibited the establishment of any religion [Ed. Note: as an official State religion] by the government. The popes, on the other hand, had long required governments to make Roman Catholicism the official religion and to prohibit the practice of any other.” – Dave Hunt (A Woman Rides the Beast; Page 126)

“While traveling through Italy in 1830 and 1831, Professor [Samuel F. B.] Morse [Ed. Note: American inventor of the telegraph]...encountered several hostile ecclesiastics of the Church of Rome. One loquacious Cardinal attempted to intimidate [Professor] Morse by informing him that a Vatican conspiracy under the cloak of a ‘religious mission’ was about to be launched against the United States.

Named the ‘St. Leopold Foundation for the Furtherance of Catholic Missions in America’, the papal plot intended to undermine America’s constitutional form of government by invading her shores with excessive waves of [mainly Roman Catholic] European immigration. [Ed. Question: And later with waves of mainly Roman Catholic Mexican and other Latin American countries’ immigration?] This was cause for serious alarm given the [well-documented] history of Rome’s violent opposition to religious liberty and the inability of her benighted [i.e., unenlightened] lay people to think beyond a ‘pray, pay, and obey’ mentality.

Returning to his homeland in the autumn of 1832, Professor Morse attempted to warn his endangered countrymen by authoring two books of his own: Foreign Conspiracy Against the Liberties of the United States and Imminent Dangers to the Free Institutions of the United States Through Foreign Immigration.” – Dr. William P. Grady (Ex-Roman Catholic)

“The reality of such a conspiracy [Ed. Note: to bring in waves of predominantly Roman Catholic immigrants from the 1830s and thereafter] was subsequently confirmed by a dramatic shift in the nation’s [the USA’s] census statistics. By 1830 there were only 318,000 Roman Catholics in America, compared to a total population of 12,866,020. [Ed. Comment: If my math is correct, then only approximately 2.5% of the entire population of America in 1830 was Roman Catholic.] Just 15 years later, over 100,000 immigrants were arriving annually. Within two years time that figure was doubled! By 1850 the number of foreigners entering the country was up to 300,000 per year, and pressing half a million per annum four years after that. On the eve of the Civil War [of 1861-65] the total number of American Catholics had ballooned to 3,103,000 – roughly ten per cent of the nation’s entire population. In just eight more years the figure would exceed five million! Whereas a mere 200 [Roman] Catholic churches existed in 1830, within three decades [there were] over 2400...

Overnight the character of American experienced a downward spiral. Drunkenness, pauperism, immorality and lawlessness became the staples of society. A host of new words, such as ‘paddy wagon’, ‘racketeering’ and ‘Mafia’ would become part of the nation’s vocabulary.”

Dr. William P. Grady (Ex-Roman Catholic)

“[American Secretary of the Navy R.W.] Thompson pinpointed exactly who would be the agents used by the monarchs of Europe to destroy the republic of America, namely, the Jesuits of Rome! Since 1815 there has been a continual assault on America by the Jesuits to try to destroy the constitutional rights of this great nation.

The famous inventor of the Morse code, Samuel B. Morse, also wrote of this sinister plot [of the Jesuits] against the United States.”

Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists; Page 7)

“During a sermon in 1850, [Roman Catholic] Archbishop John Hughes of New York, the nation’s leading Vatican spokesman, acknowledged that a conspiracy to subjugate free America did exist after all. The Catholic press was ecstatic. An excerpt from ‘Shepherd of the Valley’, the official journal of the [Roman Catholic] Bishop of St. Louis, declared, ‘If Catholics ever gain a sufficient numerical majority in this country, religious freedom is at an end. So our enemies say, so we believe.’ [Catholic Archbishop] Hughes’ own paper, the ‘New York Freeman’ brazenly announced, ‘No man has a right to choose his religion.’”

Dr. William P. Grady (Ex-Roman Catholic)

“This [American Civil] war [of 1861-1865] would never have been possible without the sinister influence of the Jesuits. We owe it to popery that we now see our land reddened with the blood of her noblest sons. Though there were great differences of opinion between the South and the North on the question of slavery, neither Jeff Davis [President of the Confederacy] nor anyone of the leading men of the Confederacy would have dared to attack the North, had they not relied on the promises of the Jesuits, that under the mask of Democracy, the money and arms of the Roman Catholic, even the arms of France, were at their disposal if they would attack us. I pity the priests, the bishops and monks of Rome in the United States, when the people realize that they are, in great part, responsible for the tears and the blood shed in this war. I conceal what I know on that subject from the knowledge of the nation, for if the people knew the whole truth, this war would turn into a religious war, and it would at once take a tenfold more savage and bloody character. It would become merciless as all religious wars are. It would become a war of extermination on both sides. The Protestants of both the North and the South would surely unite to exterminate the priests and the Jesuits, if they could hear what Professor [Samuel B.] Morse [Ed. Note: U.S. inventor of the telegraph] has said to me of the plots made in the very city of Rome [i.e., at the Vatican] to destroy this Republic, and if they could learn how the [Roman Catholic] priests, the nuns, and the monks, which daily land on our shores, under the pretext of preaching their religion, instructing the people in their schools, taking care of the sick in the hospitals, are nothing else but the emissaries of the Pope, of Napoleon, and the other despots of Europe, to undermine our institutions, alienate the hearts of our people from our Constitution, and our laws, destroy our schools, and prepare a reign of anarchy here as they have done in Ireland, in Mexico, in Spain, and wherever there are any people who want to be free.” – Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865; 16th President of the United States)

“Have not the popes [e.g., Pope Pius IX in his Syllabus of Errors of 1864] publicly and repeatedly anathematized the sacred principle of Liberty of Conscience? Have they not boldly said, in the teeth of the nations of Europe, that Liberty of Conscience must be destroyed – killed at any cost? Has not the whole world heard the sentence of death to liberty coming from the lips of the old man of the Vatican [i.e., the pope]?”

Charles Chiniquy (1809-1899; Ex-Roman Catholic priest; friend of Abraham Lincoln)

“I questioned Dr. [Alberto] Rivera about the briefings he received in the Vatican when he was a Jesuit priest. I asked him if he was briefed on how the Vatican planned to take over the United States. He told me [that] his indoctrination [training as a Jesuit] went back [into American history] to the time of the Pilgrims. Because of the knowledge of the Inquisition and the slaughter of Christians by the Roman Catholic system, the early immigrants in America began passing laws to keep Jesuits out of this country and to outlaw the mass...to protect themselves from a Vatican takeover. These were Christian communities deeply concerned about the ‘whore of Revelation’ [i.e., the “whore” described in the book of Revelation in the Bible].

Jesuits began arriving in America as early as the second group of Pilgrims. They used different names with identifications. They were followed years later when the Vatican sent multitudes of Catholic families from England, Ireland, and France – posing as Protestants – into the colonies. These were ‘plants’. They were holding secret masses in defiance of the laws. In those days, no Roman Catholic was to hold any position in civil government. The Jesuits made sure this part of our history was erased and removed.

The next major move by the Jesuits was to destroy or control all the Christian schools across America. Throughout the years, Jesuits, working undercover, have gotten into special committees on school boards to remove the emphasis of the Bible and replace it with psychology as found in the Spiritual Exercises of Ignatius de Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Society. Later, Catholic schools and universities sprang up all across the nation under the Jesuits. Today, they probably outnumber all the Christian schools and colleges put together.

The third stage was to move into the courts and legislation...to take over as judges and lawyers in order to manipulate the Constitution in their favor until it could be changed. Once this was accomplished, the thrust was into politics to capture the political parties. Then [the Jesuits moved on to] the military and the newspapers. Even back in the time of Lincoln over half the newspapers in the United States were controlled by the Vatican.”

Jack T. Chick (Smokescreens; Pages 75, 76)

“The legions of Rome are awesome. More than one million practicing Catholics make up the ranks of the Knights of Columbus. They are fraternally pledged to the ideal of bringing America under papal rule. They are powerful, wealthy, [and] loyal.”

“Persecution of non-Catholics in Catholic-controlled countries should warn Americans as to what will happen here if the pope ever gains full control of this country. [Papal] Rome never changes.” – Raywood Frazier (March 16, 1960)

“The presence of the Jesuits in any country, Romanist or Protestant, is likely to breed social disturbance.” – Lord Palmerston (1784-1865; British statesman & prime minister)

“Popes have been consistent in their declarations that freedom of religion should NOT exist, and that the Church of Rome represents the only true faith and therefore should alone be allowed to spread its doctrines.” – Larry Harrison (Publisher)

“It is my opinion that if the liberties of this country – the United States of America – are destroyed, it will be by the subtlety of the Roman Catholic Jesuit priests, for they are the most crafty, dangerous enemies to civil and religious liberty. They have instigated most of the wars of Europe.” – Marquis de LaFayette (1757-1834; French statesman and general; served in the Continental Army under General George Washington)

“...The Church of Rome, with its sixteen [Ed. Note: now approaching 17] centuries of intrigue, plans fifty or a hundred years ahead. The ultimate goal of the GREAT SCHEME is to throw the ‘lever of time’ back by restoring the Pope as the ‘universal arbiter’ from whom all the rulers of the earth must receive their authority to rule, as [occurred] during the Dark Ages.”

Burke McCarty (Author of the book The Suppressed Truth about the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln)

“Let America again be forewarned as to Rome’s intention ‘to make America Catholic’.”

Larry Harrison (Publisher)

The bottom line is that the Vatican has NOT really changed, despite all of its ecumenical rhetoric and the “liberal, smiley face” that the Vatican II Council put on Roman Catholicism. Wilson Ewin, on page 14 of his book You Can Lead Roman Catholics to Christ, tells us: “Suddenly, the Vatican II Council of the early sixties took place and radical modifications of the outward appearance of Catholicism began to emerge. No change in the fundamental doctrines, teachings or dogmas of the Church ever took place however.” Despite [false] claims of loving the “separated brethren”, the Romish Church’s hierarchy still hates Jews, Bible-believing Christians, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians. Catholic Fascist States in Europe, with the blessings and support of the Vatican, slaughtered all these groups during World War II (1939-1945). The Vatican has not hesitated to use FORCE (‘holy’ Inquisition, war, revolution, and even religious genocide) in the past, and it will not hesitate to do so again in the future!

And so, should we be discussing the Vatican?

How can we NOT be discussing this GEOPOLITICAL-FINANCIAL-RELIGIOUS organization that hates the American Constitutional Republic, religious liberty, and all the freedoms we Americans love so dearly – especially when the Vatican and European monarchs made plans in the 19th century to destroy the American Republic with all its liberty?

How can we NOT be discussing this GEOPOLITICAL-FINANCIAL-RELIGIOUS organization that helped to foment the American Civil War of 1861-1865; that provided moral support to the Confederacy; that organized and carried out the assassination of President Lincoln; and that helped one of the conspirators in the assassination of Lincoln to escape to Rome?

How can we NOT be discussing this GEOPOLITICAL-FINANCIAL-RELIGIOUS organization that put Adolph Hitler into power; that backed Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy, Fascist Croatia, Fascist Slovakia, etc., in World War II; that conducted a brutal religious genocide in Croatia in the 1940s, murdering from 600,000 to one million innocent Serb Orthodox Christians; and that helped many Fascist war criminals at the end of World War II to escape punishment via the “Vatican Ratlines” (hiding them out in Roman Catholic convents, monasteries, etc.)?

How can we NOT be discussing this GEOPOLITICAL-FINANCIAL-RELIGIOUS organization that created the ‘holy’ office of Inquisition with its many brutal forms of torture; that has never renounced its “Right” to use force whenever and wherever it believes it should; that has never destroyed its detailed records on “how to maximize torture without killing the individual”; and that plans to control the one-world government and one-world religion?

How can we NOT be discussing this GEOPOLITICAL-FINANCIAL-RELIGIOUS organization that is currently the very top player on the geopolitical and financial scene, and that is the top player “behind the scenes” pushing the nations of the world into a New World Order?

How can we NOT be discussing the historical facts concerning the Vatican and its Jesuits, since we tend to repeat those hard lessons in history that we fail to learn?

We had all better start discussing the Vatican and its Jesuits in great depth – and soon – because if we fail to do so, there will be NO freedom for future generations of Americans!

“Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts”

(A History of Assassination, Murder, Genocide, Torture, & the Subversion of Nations

((NOTE: All emphasis throughout this newsletter, unless otherwise noted, is by the editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics (TTT)”. Some issues of my TTT newsletters and my “Examining the Tough Issues (ETI)” newsletters can be read on the following three Internet web sites:

www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net , www.calltodecision.com , and www.libertytothecaptives.net . The last site has a link to the first site.))

WARNING: This issue of the TTT newsletter may seriously “disturb” some folks’ “comfort zones”. However, TRUTH is more important than any of our “comfort zones”.

DEDICATION: This issue of TTT is dedicated to all those who are fighting against corruption and tyranny – including ecclesiastical tyranny! It is also dedicated to those who have done so in the past. (Please see Ephesians 5:11.)

IMPORTANT NOTE: I (the editor of the ETI & TTT newsletters) am not a Roman Catholic; I also am most definitely not anti-Roman Catholic as far as individual Roman Catholics go. My dad and 90% of my relatives are Roman Catholic; my best friend is Roman Catholic; and the majority of my friends are Roman Catholic. I am, however, against the top levels of secret societies (from the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order to the hierarchy of Freemasonry). This is because these secret societies control the leadership of the Roman Catholic Church (through the Jesuit Order and P-2 Masonry).

These secret societies also control the leadership of most of the larger, non-Catholic, Christian denominations. I am also against any religious hierarchy that tries to place itself equal to or above the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God – or equal to or above God's Holy Word (i.e., the Holy Bible) and His Ten Commandments!

Why Am I Writing More & More About Roman Catholicism?

This editor of the ETI and TTT newsletters has been writing more on the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy, and especially its Jesuit Order, in recent newsletters because I keep uncovering more and more about the deep hatred that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has for independent Bible-believing Christians, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, and Jews. We Americans have, for the most part, been largely ignorant of the well-documented history of the Roman Catholic Church in conducting brutal religious genocide (via Inquisition, 'holy' wars, and 'holy' crusades) against all the afore-mentioned groups. (Please see my TTT newsletter entitled "Death by Government and Death by Church" on Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net .) Sadly, many Americans believe the "ecumenical rhetoric" of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy – i.e., that she has "changed her ways" and now loves all the "separated brethren". However, my study of the Papacy shows me that this is just a RUSE. (Per Webster's New World Dictionary a "ruse" is: "a stratagem" [which is] "any trick or scheme for achieving some purpose".) The "purpose" is to bring all non-Catholic Christian denominations under the "umbrella" (i.e., the authoritative and totalitarian rule) of the Papacy!

Yes, the Papacy, despite its "ecumenical rhetoric", has not changed a bit over the many centuries in the following categories:

- Its deep hatred of Jews, all independent Bible-believing non-Catholic Christians, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s we find the Roman Catholic Ustashi in Croatia, led on by priests, monks, and friars, brutally slaughtering from 600,000 to one million Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children);
- Its long-held dream to bring all non-Catholic Christians under its monopolistic, totalitarian, ecclesiastical control;
- Its long-held dream to head up a totalitarian one-world religious organization; and,
- Its long-held dream to bring all world leaders – especially those in "Christian" countries – under the temporal power of the pope. (That is, the Papacy would be the top player and "controller" in a one-world government – just like it was the top player and "controller" on the European continent for many centuries! Kings indeed bowed before popes.)

Indeed, power – absolute power – has long been the "primary objective" at the Vatican. History has recorded the Vatican's deep hatred for religious liberty and freedom of conscience. The U.S. Constitution, with its "Bill of Rights" guaranteeing such liberties, has long been hated by the Vatican. (For a good example of this, read the Syllabus of Errors issued by Pope Pius IX.) I have heard that there is an acronym in use by some Knights of Columbus in America. This acronym is “M.A.C.”: “Make America Catholic”. America is the last “roadblock” in the way of the Vatican and the rest of the globalist rich and power elite in their dreams for one-world government and one-world religion. Is America scheduled for a religious genocide – another Inquisition – as occurred in the 1940s in Croatia? I believe the danger is very real and possibly quite imminent – and that is why I am writing about the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy, its long-held dreams for domination, and its well-documented history of religious genocide!

HERE ARE SOME RELEVANT QUOTATIONS:

“Disregarding the maxims and the spirit of the Gospel, the papal Church, arming herself with the power of the sword, vexed the Church of God and wasted it for centuries, a period most appropriately termed in history, the ‘dark ages’. The kings of the earth gave their power to the Beast.” – John Foxe (1516-1587; Author of Foxe’s Book of Martyrs)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Foxe’s Book of Martyrs is a must-read book for all Christians (both Catholic and non-Catholic). It is $11 postpaid. To obtain a copy, please call “Power of Prophecy” at 1-800-234-9673. This book documents the horrible persecution, torture, and murder of innocent Christians by a power-hungry religious institution bent on exterminating all opposition to its claims of primacy in the Christian world.))

“The union of the Church with the State renders persecution possible; and hitherto churches have not been slow to avail themselves of the secular arm that they might confound all dissent with arguments which come home to the bone and the flesh [Ed. Note: flogging, torture, and execution]. All churches, when they lose the spirit of Christ, are very prone to persecute; but a horrible pre-eminence must be awarded to the scarlet harlot of the seven hills [Ed. Note: he is referring to the Vatican], for no church on earth except that of Rome has had a separate institution [i.e., the Office of Inquisition] for hunting out and destroying ‘heretics’.” (1868)

Charles Haddon Spurgeon (1834-1892; famous English Baptist preacher)

“Long pampered by the State, she [i.e., the Vatican] came to be its lord and tyrant, using fire and sword, prison and rack, to work her accursed will. The Inquisition was the masterpiece of infernal craft and malice, and its deeds were far more worthy of fiends than men. If the church of Rome could at this moment change its Ethiopian skin forever, lay aside its leopard’s spots, and become a pure community, ten thousand years of immaculate holiness and self-denying philanthropy could not avail to blot out the remembrance of the enormous crimes with which the Inquisition has loaded it. There is a deep and indelible sentence of damnation written upon the apostate church by avenging justice for its more than infernal cruelties, and the curse is registered in heaven; nor can any pretences to present liberality reverse the condemnation which outraged humanity has pronounced against it; its infamy is engraven in the rock forever.

Centuries of the most liberal policy would not convince mankind that Popery had become tolerant at heart; she wallowed so greedily in oppression, torture, and murder in her palmy [i.e., flourishing] days, that the foam of human gore hangs around her wolfish fangs, and men will not believe her to be a gentle lamb, let her 'bleat' as she may." (1868, "The Inquisition")

Charles Haddon Spurgeon

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The above words might seem very strong to some; however, when one reads books such as Foxe's Book of Martyrs, those above words are mild indeed. The history of the Roman Catholic Inquisition, with its brutal torture of human beings over a period of centuries, is a history of the most savage cruelty – cruelty that has rarely been matched by even the most savage of pagan societies.))

"Rome [i.e., the Vatican] made the worst possible use of the weapon which the State gave her, but the radical evil was the State's entering into alliance with the Church, and lending its power to fulfill her purposes. Had true church principles prevailed, the crimes which make us shudder would have been impossible. Disarm and dis-establish every sect, and leave each religion to its own moral and spiritual power, and no inquisition can be dreamed of; but put forward the doctrine that a state should propagate or maintain religion, and you have uncaged the 'lion'; no one knows how much he may rend and devour." (1868, "The Inquisition")

Charles Haddon Spurgeon

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: This alliance of State and Church occurred not only in the dark ages hundreds of years ago, but it also occurred in the 1940s when the Croatian State combined with the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church to carry out savage religious genocide against innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children – torturing and murdering from 600,000 to one million of them in a modern-day Inquisition.))

"To prevent forever the possibility of Papists [i.e., Roman Catholics] roasting Protestants, Anglicans hanging Romish priests, and Puritans flogging Quakers, let every form of state-churchism be utterly abolished, and the remembrance of the long curse which it has cast upon the world be blotted out forever." (1868, "The Inquisition")

Charles Haddon Spurgeon

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: A number of Roman Catholic priests (to include Jesuits such as Henry Garnett, Jesuit Provincial General for the English Province) were hung by the English authorities because they tried either to assassinate an English monarch or to overthrow the country and return it under Roman Catholic rule! This is not the same as murdering people just because they disagree with papal doctrines or practices, or refuse to bow to papal authority!))

“The desire for worldly power began to manifest itself in the Church, on a broad scale, in the 4th century, when the Roman Empire ceased its persecutions, and made Christianity its State religion. The spirit of Imperial Rome passed into the Church. The Church gradually developed itself into the pattern of the Empire it had conquered. [Imperial] Rome fell. But Rome came to life again, as a world power, in the name of the Church. The popes of Rome were the heirs and successors of the Caesars of Rome. The Vatican is [located] where the Palace of the Caesars was. The [Roman Catholic] popes have claimed all the authority the Caesars claimed, and more. The Papal Palace, throughout the centuries, has been among the most luxurious in all the world. Popes have lived in pomp and splendor unsurpassed by earthly kings. In no place on earth is there more ostentatious pageantry and show of magnificence than at the coronation of a pope.

...The horrors of the Inquisition, ordered and maintained by the popes, over a period of 500 years, in which unnumbered millions were tortured and burned, constitute the most brutal, beastly and devilish picture in all history.

...The city of Rome, first pagan, then papal, has been the dominating power of the world for two thousand years (200 B.C. to A.D. 1800).

...It is inconceivable that any ecclesiastical organization, in its mania for power, could have distorted and desecrated and corrupted, for its own exaltation, the beautiful and holy religion of Jesus [Christ].”

Henry H. Halley (Author of Halley’s Bible Handbook)

“History records the appalling story of suffering and martyrdom endured by untold millions across the centuries at the hand of the PAPAL [Mass-Murdering] MACHINE.”

Wilson Ewin (Canadian Christian writer & author)

“For rejecting the doctrine of transubstantiation, Christians were burned at the stake by Roman Catholics by the hundreds of thousands. Church historian R. Tudor Jones writes that ‘the majority of the martyrs were ordinary people, including many women...’ John Foxe was an eyewitness and earnest historian of the fierce persecution in England in his day. His Book of Martyrs gives detailed accounts of many public trials and executions of those whom the Roman Catholic Church judged to be ‘heretics’ worthy of death. His descriptions of Christians being burned at the stake tell of their inspiring bravery in the face of such a horrible death and of the determination of Roman Catholicism to exterminate everywhere true Christians who opposed her.

Similar records have come down of the massacres of Jews at the hands of the Roman Church.” – Dave Hunt (Author of numerous books; this quote is from A Cup of Trembling)

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote: (1) The Catholic Church was predominant in England until the 1520s. She tried often to regain that primacy, and succeeded for a short time under the rule (1553-1558) of Roman Catholic Queen “Bloody” Mary I. (2) Foxe’s Book of Martyrs documents the persecution, torture, and murder of innocent Christians by a power-hungry religious institution (i.e., the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchical system) bent on exterminating all opposition to its claims of primacy in the Christian world. It is $11 postpaid. To obtain a copy via credit card, please call "Power of Prophecy" toll-free at 1-800-234-9673.))

"Through relentless torture, starvation, genocide, massacres, burning at the stake, against every conceivable fury of [Papal] Rome, they [i.e., the 'seeds of protest'] could not be extinguished. History estimates that over one hundred million people lost their lives during that time of [Papal] Roman tyranny. Is it any wonder that God graphically describes this onslaught of [Papal] Rome as her being 'drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus', and calls her the 'Beast'?"
John Daniel (Author of The Grand Design Exposed)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Does history repeat itself? Could a "Holy Inquisition" ever take place here in America? Religious genocide took place in Croatia in the 1940s, led by Roman Catholic clergymen. The result: from 600,000 to 1 million Serb Orthodox Christians (men, women, elderly, and children) were brutally tortured and murdered!))

"The Medieval Inquisition had flourished for centuries when Pope Paul III, in 1542, gave it permanent status as the first of Rome's Sacred Congregations, the 'Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Inquisition'. Known more recently as the 'Holy Office', its name was changed in 1967 to the 'Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith'...
...Therefore it is not surprising that the 'Office of the Inquisition' still occupies the Palace of the Inquisition adjacent to the Vatican, though under its new name, the 'Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith'. Its current Grand Inquisitor, who reports directly to the pope, is the former Archbishop of Munich, Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger, whom Time [Magazine] has called 'the world's most powerful cardinal [and] the Catholic Church's chief enforcer of dogma...'.
Dave Hunt (From his book A Woman Rides the Beast; 1994)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The Office of Inquisition STILL exists. It has undergone several name changes. Its current name is the "Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith".))

"What has turned my soul against Roman [Catholic] abuse of power is the way in which it has tortured and burned such saints of God as Joan of Arc, hundreds of the Albigensian martyrs in France in the 12th century, the Knights Templar, John Huss [Czech Jan Hus], the Dominican Savonarola, the Dominican Giordano Bruno, [and] the Anglican bishops Cranmer, Ridley, and Latimer. The Inquisition has promoted at least two wholesale massacres: thousands of Protestant Waldensians in northern Italy, and thousands of Protestant Huguenots by the massacre of St. Bartholomew in France. More than 30,000 of the most cultured Protestants of France were put to the sword on the night of St. Bartholomew, August 24, 1572. At the news [of this brutal, bloody massacre], the Pope had cannons fired, proclaimed a jubilee, ordered a Te Deum of thanksgiving to be sung, and struck a special medal to commemorate the glorious 'victory'." – Charles A. Bolton (Ex-Roman Catholic priest)

"To wring out confessions from these poor creatures [Ed. Note: during the various Inquisitions], the Roman Catholic Church devised ingenious tortures so excruciating and barbarous that one is sickened by their recital." – Dave Hunt

"Inability to discern the paganism of Romanism [i.e., Roman Catholicism] springs undoubtedly from a deep spiritual blindness. Disturbing enough, this would speak of a fundamental ignorance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ itself on the part of many claiming to be Christians.

Perhaps for the majority, ignorance of the Vatican constitution merely stems from a simple lack of being informed. For too many, however, ignorance of popedom comes as the result of a deliberate choice. It grew in preference for acceptability, personal benefit, and the praise of men.

To have squarely faced the issue of Catholicism with frankness and sincerity of heart, the individual would have paid a price. It cost the reformers and other MILLIONS their very lives..." – Wilson Ewin

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote:

(1) Those who do not believe that Roman Catholicism is riddled with paganism need to read the book The Two Babylons by Alexander Hislop. This book is $14.20 postpaid, and can be obtained from Chick Publications via credit card by calling 1-909-987-0771.

(2) Criticizing the doctrine, authority, political intrigues, assassinations, religious genocide, etc., of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy has cost millions of Christians their lives – through Inquisition, 'holy' crusades, and 'holy' wars.))

"...For the unbiased researcher, history reeks of the butchery of Romanism, where whole cities and populations were unmercifully wiped out, just because they worshipped God in a manner that was different from Roman Catholicism." – John Daniel

"A king need not fear to command massacres, when those will retain his subjects in obedience..."

We order you, in the name of religion, to invade his states, burn his cities, and massacre his people." (860 A.D., in a letter to the King of Bulgaria)

Pope Nicholas I (800? – 867 A.D.; Pope: 858-867)

"If you must have blood, bathe in the blood of infidels. Soldiers of hell, become soldiers of the living God!" (November 1095 address in Clermont, France)

Pope Urban II (1042? -1099; pope: 1088-1099)

"Christians [i.e., Roman Catholics] of the twelfth century accused the Jews of kidnapping Christian children either to sacrifice them to Jahveh, or to use their blood as medicine or in the making of unleavened bread for the Passover feast. Jews were charged with poisoning the wells...and of stealing consecrated wafers to pierce them and draw from them the blood of Christ...[and] of draining the wealth of Christendom into Jewish hands.”

Will Durant (1885-1981; Historian; author of The Story of Civilization)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Such hatred on the part of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy for the Jews has led to many massacres of Jews throughout history at the hands of Roman Catholics.))

“To a Jew, Hitler and [Italian Fascist dictator] Mussolini were Christians. In fact, they were Roman Catholics from birth, and in spite of their horrendous crimes against humanity they were never excommunicated from their Church. The same was true of [Nazi SS Chief Heinrich] Himmler and many others in the Nazi hierarchy. Indeed, the Roman Catholic Church has a long history of persecution, expulsion, and slaughter of Jews, to which Hitler referred in justifying the Holocaust.” – Dave Hunt (from his book A Cup of Trembling)

“...The [Roman Catholic] Church to rule the world; the [‘White’] Pope to rule the Church; [and] the Jesuits [Ed. Note: headed by the ‘Black Pope’, the Jesuit Superior General] to rule the [‘White’] Pope – such was and is the program of the Order [i.e., Society] of Jesus [i.e., the Jesuit Order].” – John Daniel

“The Jesuits...are simply the Romish army for the earthly sovereignty of the world in the future, with the Pontiff of Rome for emperor...that's their ideal... It is simple lust of power, of filthy earthly gain, of domination – something like a universal serfdom with them [i.e., the Jesuits] as masters – that's all they stand for. They don't even believe in God perhaps.” (1880)

Fyodor Dostoyevsky (1821-1881; Russian novelist)

“Of eighty popes in a line from the thirteenth century on, not one of them disapproved of the theology and apparatus of Inquisition. On the contrary, one after another added his own cruel touches to the workings of this deadly machine.”

Peter de Rosa (Author of the book Vicars of Christ: The Dark Side of the Papacy)

“...The Roman Inquisition...had been administered since 1542 by the Jesuits.”

F. Tupper Saussy (Author of the book Rulers of Evil)

“Pontifex Maximus [i.e., the pope of Rome] has laundered the Inquisition's name twice. In 1908, Pope Pius X renamed it ‘the Holy Office’, which [Pope] Paul VI transformed into [the] ‘Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith’ in 1965.” – F. Tupper Saussy

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The current pope, Benedict XVI [formerly known as Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger], pulled five terms as the head of the ‘Office of the Inquisition’ – known since 1965 as the ‘Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith’.)

“The fact is that very few Protestants [Ed. Note: or other non-Catholic Christians] have realized how entirely Rome is a political church, and that she always makes her political advancement her first object.” – M. F. Cusack (Author of The Black Pope)

“Roman Catholicism was born in blood, has wallowed in blood, has quenched its thirst in blood, and it is in letters of blood that its true history is written.” (1940)
Baron DePonnat (French statesman)

“Post Vatican II [Ed. Note: the Council] euphoria has bewitched Protestants into thinking that the ‘new Catholicism’ is not the ‘old Catholicism’. Yet an examination of Vatican II documents makes it clear that there has been a change of ‘image’, but not substance; that there has been no real change in any of the basic doctrines that caused [Martin] Luther to stand against the Roman Catholic denomination.” – Bartholomew F. Brewer (Ex-Roman Catholic priest of the Discalced Carmelite Order)

I. INTRODUCTION

This is indeed a “tough topic” about which to write. It is indeed a “tough topic” that will no doubt disturb some folks’ comfort zones. However, it is a topic that must be written about because history does indeed repeat itself. The “actors”, places, and times may change; however, the same “scripts” seem to be repeated – over and over and over again! If we refuse to learn from the lessons of history, then we will repeat the mistakes of history – as Spanish philosopher Santayana wisely noted.

Many people make the mistake of thinking of the Roman Catholic Church – especially of its hierarchy – purely as a religious institution. The Roman Catholic Church is far more than just a religious institution. It is the top player on the geopolitical scene, having the best intelligence gathering apparatus that the world has ever seen (through its diplomatic relations, its numerous religious orders, and the confessional box)! If not the richest institution in the history of the world, then it certainly ranks near the top of the heap. (It probably is the richest!) It also heads the ecumenical drive for one-world religion. And its Jesuit Order is at the top of the secret societies’ list. ((Please see my TTT newsletters on the Jesuits (Parts I through IV) on Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net .))

Sadly, the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has a well-documented history of torture, murder, assassination, religious genocide, political intrigue, ecclesiastical tyranny, fomenting and orchestrating of revolutions and wars, and many other nefarious activities. For centuries this hierarchical system brought the people of the world the “dark ages” in Europe, when kings were crowned and deposed by the Papacy – and when kings bowed their knees to popes who rivaled the greatest rulers the world has ever seen – in both wealth and power!

The Vatican for centuries ruled Europe. The pope had both temporal and spiritual authority over all his subjects. Though the popes temporarily appeared to lose their “temporal power” over the kings of the earth near the end of the 19th century, there can be no doubt that the Vatican still aspires to rule over the kings of the earth once more!

Let us take a look at but a “small sample” of the Vatican’s “History of Assassination, Murder, Genocide, Torture, & the Subversion of Nations” (hopefully in some resemblance of chronological order):

II. A History of Assassination, Murder, Genocide, Torture, & the Subversion of Nations

((Important Note: Since the mid-1540s, the Vatican (i.e., the papacy) has been controlled, for the most part and with very rare exceptions, by the Jesuit Order. That is, the “White Pope” has been, for most of the last four centuries, controlled by the “Black Pope” (i.e., the Jesuit Superior General). A number of the below-listed heads of State were assassinated because they had expelled the Jesuits from their borders. Also remember when reading this list that the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy has for many centuries hated Jews, Protestants, Bible-believing Christian groups, and Orthodox Christians – and have, whenever and wherever opportunity presented itself, slaughtered all these groups with brutal savagery. The Jesuit Order, officially recognized as a Catholic Order in 1540, has more often than not been at the forefront of this butchery in the past four centuries.))

- 1095 – Pope Urban II proclaims the First Crusade. Here is what historian Will Durant has written concerning this episode of religious genocide: “When in 1095, Pope Urban II proclaimed the First Crusade, some Christians [i.e., Roman Catholics] thought it desirable to kill the Jews in Europe before proceeding so far to fight Turks in Jerusalem. Godfrey of Bouillon, having accepted the leadership of the crusade, announced that he would avenge the blood of Jesus upon the Jews...leaving not one of them alive; and his companions proclaimed their intention to kill all Jews who would not accept Christianity [Ed. Note: i.e., the Roman Catholic version of it].”

- 1096 – Catholic Crusaders slaughter half the Jews of Worms on their way through that town.

- 1099 – Catholic Crusaders, sent on a holy mission by the pope of Rome, make it to the walls of Jerusalem. All of the city’s inhabitants – men, women, and children – Jew, Moslem, and Christian – are all butchered by the “Christian” (i.e., Catholic) crusaders!

- 1208-1226 – The Albigensian Crusades take place. Pope Innocent III orders a crusade to be launched against the Albigensian Christians in southern France, and armies are sent to exterminate them. At the French city of Beziers over 20,000 men, women, and children are butchered. The Albigensian Christians are wiped out. Here is what author Henry H. Halley had to say about the Albigensian Crusades:

“[The Albigenses] preached against the immoralities of the [Catholic] priesthood, pilgrimages, worship of saints and idols...opposed the claims of the Church of Rome; made great use of the Scriptures.

...By 1167 they [i.e., the Albigenses] embraced possibly a majority of the population of South France.

...In 1208 a crusade was ordered by Pope Innocent III; a bloody war of extermination followed, scarcely paralleled in history. Town after town was put to the sword, and the inhabitants murdered without distinction of age or sex.

...Within a hundred years the Albigenses were utterly rooted out.”

((NOTE: Here is what Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn (Co-authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE) have to say about the Albigensian Crusades:

“The Albigensian Crusades slash through the history of France and of the [Catholic] Church like a gaping wound. From 1208 to 1226 the papacy sent army after army to the South of France to crush the Albigensian ‘heretics’ and to punish their supporters. ... They [i.e., the Albigensian Crusades] began with a calculated act of terror, the massacre of [Ed. Note: large numbers of men, women, and children at] Beziers; they ended with the establishment of the Inquisition, one of the most effective means of ‘thought control’ that Europe has ever known. They [the papal armies] were completely successful: The losing faith, the Albigensian ‘Heresy’, was exterminated.

...Their disappearance as a social group was carefully planned and executed with persistent cruelty.”))

((Comment to the above quote: Wasn’t the exact same “extermination plan” executed over 700 years later (in the 1940s) by Roman Catholic Ustashi soldiers in a country called Croatia?))

• 1236 – Catholic Crusaders slaughter Jews in Anjou and Poitou. Here is what historian Will Durant has written on this massacre: “[The Crusaders] invaded the Jewish settlements of Anjou and Poitou. ...[The Crusaders] bade all Jews be baptized; when the Jews refused, the Crusaders trampled 3000 of them to death under their horses’ hoofs.”

• 1243 – All Jews in Belitz, Germany (near Berlin) are burned alive by Roman Catholics. According to historian Will Durant, their alleged crime was that ‘some of them had defiled a consecrated host’.

• 1298 – All Jews in Rottingen are burned to death by Roman Catholics. According to historian Will Durant, their alleged crime was: ‘desecrating a sacramental wafer’.

• 14th century (1300s) – The Roman Catholic Church blames the Jews for the “Black Death” (probably the bubonic plague). Here is what Dave Hunt, author of the book A Woman Rides the Beast, has written concerning this time: “From the time the popes ruled Rome, the Jews’ plight...was far more grievous than it had ever been at the hands of the pagan rulers. Pagans had blamed every disaster upon Christians. Now the Roman Catholic Church blamed all on the Jews. Accused of causing the 'Black Death', Jews were rounded up and hanged, burned, and drowned by the thousands in revenge."

- July 6, 1415 – Jan Hus (English spelling: John Huss), a Czech Catholic priest for years (and Reformer), is martyred by being burned at the stake (not long after having been excommunicated) on orders from the Roman Catholic Church. He had vigorously opposed auricular confession, papal indulgences and corruption, masses for the dead, etc. He attended (under guaranteed "safe passage") the Council of Constance in order to defend his beliefs; however, his safe passage was revoked and he was condemned and executed without getting a fair chance to present a defense of his beliefs.
- 1429 – Pope Martin V orders the King of Poland to exterminate the Christian Hussites (named after Czech martyr Jan Hus) in Bohemia.
- 1477 – Pope Sixtus IV organizes a crusade against the Waldensian Christians (also called the Vaudois in the French language) in southern France.

((NOTE: Both the Albigenses and Waldenses (the Vaudois) were Bible-believing Christians who were simple farmers and peasants. They did not want any part of the cesspool of corruption that existed within the Vatican and much of its priesthood. They studied Bible verses whenever they could, and they placed the Holy Bible above papal authority. If you would like more information on these papal crusades against Bible-believing Christian groups and other Protestants, I recommend that you read my TTT #72 entitled "Death by Government and Death by Church" that is posted on Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net .))

- 1481 – Kickoff of the "Spanish Inquisition". The Roman Catholic Church hierarchy choreographs an orgy of torture and burning folks alive – called the Inquisition. Though aimed primarily at Jews and Moslems, the Inquisition also targets Christians whose beliefs are not completely in line with the Roman Catholic Church's doctrines and practices. In the first two years (1481-1483), at least 2000 individuals are burned alive. As author Dave Hunt recounts in his book A Woman Rides the Beast: "...In Spain alone the number of condemned exceeded 3 million, with about 300,000 burned at the stake [during the length of the Spanish Inquisition]." (Hunt quoting from R.W. Thompson's book The Papacy and the Civil Power)

((NOTE: Here is what Ron Hembree, pastor and author, wrote about the Spanish Inquisition:

"One of history's most malevolent persons died on this day [September 16] in 1498. Tomas de Torquemada, as Inquisitor General of Spain, ordered more than 10,000 people to be burned at the stake because they didn't agree with his religious views. He used the Inquisition for religious and political reasons, believing punishment of [Ed. Note: so-called] 'heretics' and non-Christians – chiefly Jews and Muslims – was the only way to achieve political unity in Spain. Greatly feared and hated by millions, he persuaded [Spanish King] Ferdinand and [Queen] Isabella to rid Spain of Jews. More than a million families were driven from Spain during that time. The country never recovered from the resulting decline.”

Ed. Comment concerning the preceding quote: The Inquisition was not only used for “religious and political reasons” – it was also used to loot and plunder land and possessions of non-Catholic Christians, Jews, Muslims, etc. Many non-Catholic Christians were accused of being “heretics” simply because they held the Holy Bible to be of higher authority than the Papacy, or because they would not submit to corrupt Papal authority. Non-Catholic Christians were targeted for centuries as entire villages and regions (to include men, women, and children) were exterminated like rats. Papal armies exterminated an entire Christian population group – the Albigenses – in South France. Indeed, torture, brutality, and mass murder were the “hallmarks” of the so-called “Holy” Inquisition.)

· 1498 – The Italian Dominican Savonarola, who preached and pleaded for reform in his Roman Catholic Church, is executed on orders from that same Roman Catholic Church. His crime: he had denounced Pope Alexander VI and his corrupt papal court. Savonarola was a godly Roman Catholic clergyman who had led the revival in the city of Florence, Italy. He was excommunicated shortly before his execution.

· October 6, 1536 – Englishman William Tyndale is strangled and his dead body burnt at the stake in the town of Filford, not far from Brussels. His crime: he had translated the New Testament into the English language. Because powerful Roman Catholics in England (such as Sir Thomas More, Chancellor of England) opposed publishing the New Testament in English, Tyndale went over to the European continent where he was able to get English-language New Testaments published in Germany. Roman Catholic Sir Thomas More put a “hit” out on Tyndale, and he was eventually betrayed and imprisoned not far from Brussels. After 16 months in prison, he was executed as a “heretic”.

((NOTE: The Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy for centuries forbade the common man to own, possess, or even to read the Holy Bible, especially in his native language. Not only did popes frequently forbid the ownership and possession of the Bible, but they also often imposed the death penalty on those who were caught with a Bible in their possession. David W. Daniels, author of the book Did the Catholic Church Give Us the Bible?, reveals the following Catholic ‘record’ concerning Bible possession and ownership:

“THE WORD OF GOD: Check out this history:

1229 – Synod of Toulouse forbids reading or owning a Vaudois Bible. (Canon XIV)

1234 – Council of Tarragona: No Bible permitted in one’s native language. All of them must be burned.

1408 – 3rd Synod of Oxford: Heresy to have an ‘unauthorized’ (preserved) English Bible.

1559 – Council of Trent: Preserved Bibles are on the ‘Index of Forbidden Books’. (Rule III).”

In fact, here is a statement by Pope Pius IV (Pope 1559-1565):

“The [Holy] Bible is not for the people; whosoever will be saved must renounce it. It is a forbidden book. Bible societies are satanic contrivances.”))

- 1540-1570 – The Roman Catholic Church hierarchy sends a number of armies into southern France and surrounding areas that succeed in butchering at least 900,000 Waldensian Christian men, women, elderly, and children during this thirty-year period.
- 1550-1560 – 250,000 Dutch Protestants are exterminated via torture, hanging, and burning when Catholic King of Spain Phillip II sends 10,000 Spanish troops, in accordance with his Edict of 1550, to stamp out Protestantism in the Netherlands.
- 1555 – English scholar Nicholas Ridley and English preacher Hugh Latimer are burned at the stake on the orders of Roman Catholic English Queen Mary I, who with the aid of Roman Catholic Cardinal Pole, tried to return England under the yoke of the papacy. “Bloody” Mary reigned in England from 1553-1558. During her evil reign, approximately two hundred men and women were burned at the stake, to include bishops, scholars, and the top leaders of the Protestants in England. (Queen Mary I was merely following the advice of her Catholic advisers in England, and the policies of the hierarchy of her Roman Catholic Church.)
- 1555 – English Bishop John Hooper is slowly burned alive at the stake on the orders of Roman Catholic English Queen Mary I. (Again, she was “just following orders”.)
- 1556 – English Archbishop (of Canterbury) Thomas Cranmer is burned at the stake on the orders of Roman Catholic English Queen Mary I. (Again, she was “just following orders”.)

((NOTE: The sad stories of a number of these horrible murders – often preceded by imprisonment and sometimes torture – are contained in the excellent book Foxe’s Book of Martyrs. This book can be ordered via credit card from “Power of Prophecy” by calling their toll-free order line: 1-800-234-9673.))

- 1571, 1573, and 1586 – Failed assassination attempts by “Vatican assassins” occur on the life of Elizabeth I, Queen of England. (The Papacy was working overtime to return England to “Catholic rule”.) Queen Elizabeth I had expelled the Jesuits from her kingdom in 1570, and fortunately the Jesuits’ many attempts at “pay back” failed.

- 1572 – The bloody massacre of Protestant French Huguenots by Roman Catholics occurs in France. Here is what author Jack Chick wrote about this episode of religious genocide: “On August 22, 1572 [Ed. Note: Several books have the date as August 24th], the bloody St. Bartholomew massacre began. This was to be one fatal blow to destroy the Protestant movement in France. The [Catholic] king of France had cleverly arranged a marriage between his sister and Admiral Coligny, the chief Protestant leader. There was a great feast with much celebrating. After four days of feasting, the soldiers were given a signal. At twelve o’clock midnight, all the houses of the Protestants in the city were forced open at once. The admiral was killed, his body thrown out of a window into the street where his head was cut off and sent to the pope. ...They also slaughtered many other well-known Protestants. In the first three days, over ten thousand were killed. The bodies were thrown into the river and blood ran through the streets into the river until it appeared like a stream of blood. ...From Paris, the destruction spread to all parts of the country. Over eight thousand more people were killed. Very few Protestants escaped the fury of the persecutors.” (From his book Smokescreens)
- August 24, 1572 – Admiral Coligny, leader of the French Protestant Huguenots, is assassinated by “Vatican assassins”. His head is immediately sent as a trophy to the Roman Catholic Cardinal of Lorraine (and then to the pope).
- 1584 – William, Prince of Orange, is assassinated (shot three times) by a “Vatican assassin” named Balthazar Gerard.
- 1588 – The failed invasion by the mighty Spanish Armada takes place in this year. This mighty armada of Spanish naval vessels carrying thousands of troops was tasked with defeating the British navy and putting troops on shore that would be joined by those loyal to Rome within the English borders. The goal was to return England to Catholic rule.
- 1589 – King Henry III of France is assassinated (stabbed to death) by a “Vatican assassin” named Jacques Clement.
- November 5, 1605 – The infamous “Gunpowder Plot” is thwarted in England. Led by Jesuits, this plot involved the placing of 36 barrels of gunpowder under the British Parliament building in an attempt to murder King James I and members of Parliament.
- May 14, 1610 – King Henry IV of France is assassinated (stabbed to death) by a “Vatican assassin” named Ravallac. This is Jesuit “pay back” to King Henry IV for having the ‘audacity’ to grant “religious liberty” to all his subjects – both Protestant and Catholic – in his 1598 “Edit of Nantes”. ((NOTE: Jesuit priest Pere La Chaise, father confessor to King Louis XIV of France, persuaded him to revoke the “Edict of Nantes” in 1685.))

- 1618-1648 – The Thirty Years' War takes place. This bloody religious war was planned, orchestrated, and conducted by the Vatican and its surrogates in an attempt to exterminate all Protestants from off the face of the European continent.
- 1641 – The bloody massacre of Protestants by Roman Catholics occurs in Ireland. Approximately 150,000 Protestants were butchered from 1641 through 1649. Here is what author Jack Chick wrote about this episode of religious genocide:

“A similar massacre [Ed. Note: i.e., similar to the St. Bartholomew's Massacre in France in 1572] occurred in Ireland in 1641. The [Catholic] conspirators picked October 23rd, the feast of Ignatius Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Order. They planned a general uprising for the whole country. All Protestants would be killed at once. To throw them [i.e., the Protestants] off guard while the plan was being made, extra acts of kindness were shown to the Protestants. Early in the morning [of October 23, 1641] the conspirators were armed and every Protestant they could find was immediately murdered. They showed no mercy. From children to the aged, they were killed. Even invalids were not spared. They were caught by complete surprise. They [i.e., the Protestants] had lived in peace and safety for years and now found no place to run. They were massacred by neighbors, friends, and even relatives.

Death often was the least they had to fear. Women were tied to posts, stripped to the waist, their breasts cut off with shears and left to bleed to death. Others who were pregnant were tied to tree branches, their unborn babies cut out and fed to the dogs while the husbands were forced to watch.” (From his book Smokescreens)

((Note: Author Jack Chick made the following observation about an important similarity between the massacre of Protestant French Huguenots in 1572 and the massacre of Irish Protestants in 1641:

“What you've just read [about the massacre of Protestants in Ireland in 1641 and in France in 1572] is fully documented and historically factual. It is found in Foxe's Book of Martyrs. ...Both of these murderous assaults by the Vatican against the [Protestant] Christians in France and in Ireland followed a similar pattern. Before the attacks, there was a time of healing when the Roman Catholics became friendly and warm, and in both cases the [Protestant] Christians were so relieved that they let their guard down and assumed the Vatican had changed. This was their fatal mistake and it cost them their lives.” (From his book Smokescreens))

- 1685 – Catholic French King Louis XIV, at the urging of his father-confessor, Jesuit Pere La Chaise, revokes the “Edict of Nantes” that granted religious liberty to all Frenchmen. Louis XIV then orders his murderous dragoons to slaughter the French Protestant Huguenots. 500,000 Protestants (men, women, and children) are slaughtered!

- 1769 – Pope Clement XIII is assassinated (poisoned to death) by the Jesuits the day before he was to sign a papal document banning the Jesuit Order. (Even Roman Catholics have been murdered by their own hierarchical system and the secret societies, like the Jesuit Order and its P2 Masonry, that control the top levels of the Roman Catholic Church!)

- September 1774 – Pope Clement XIV is assassinated (poisoned to death) by the Jesuits approximately 14 months after he had signed a papal document in 1773 banning the Jesuit Order forever. ((Note: After the official recognition of the Society of Jesus, i.e., the Jesuits, as a Catholic Order in 1540, the Jesuits have totally controlled the Vatican from behind the scenes. The relatively few popes who tried to curb their power met with the same fate (i.e., assassination) as did Pope Clement XIII and Pope Clement XIV.))
- 1825 – Tsar Alexander I of Russia is assassinated (poisoned to death) by the Jesuits. Tsar Alexander I had expelled the Jesuit Order from all of Russia in 1820.
- April 14, 1865 – President Abraham Lincoln is assassinated (shot to death) by John Wilkes Booth. A 12-man military commission tries eight of the conspirators in the assassination plot; it hangs four of them. One of the conspirators, John Harrison Surratt, aided by Roman Catholic priests, flees to Canada and then to Rome, where he becomes a member of the Pope's Zouaves bodyguard unit. Returned for civil trial in Washington, D.C., in 1867, he "walks" despite overwhelming evidence against him – this due in large part to Jesuit priests from Georgetown "providing advice" to the predominantly Roman Catholic jury. The U.S. government finds so much involvement by the Papacy in the assassination of Lincoln that it breaks all diplomatic relations with the Vatican in 1867. If you doubt any of this, please read the two books-in-one volume (The Suppressed Truth about the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln by Burke McCarty and Rome's Responsibility for the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln by U.S. Brigadier General Thomas M. Harris – who was a member of the previously mentioned 12-man military commission that tried eight of the conspirators). This book is $14.95 postpaid. To order it, please make check or money order payable to "Ozark Book Publishers" and mail it to: Ozark Books // P.O. Box 3703 // Springfield, MO 65808.
- 1868 – Emperor Komei of Japan is assassinated. According to author Eric Jon Phelps, the Jesuits used agents of Ambassador Thomas Glover for the assassination.
- 1872 – Mexican President Benito Juarez is assassinated (poisoned to death) by "Vatican assassins". This was "pay back" for his having expelled the Catholic Archbishop of Mexico and five Catholic bishops – along with 200 Jesuit priests. President Juarez had also enforced the Constitution of 1857 that granted freedom of speech and of the press.
- March 13, 1881 – Tsar Alexander II of Russia is assassinated (killed by a bomb). There had been six previous failed attempted assassinations on his life. Tsar Alexander

II of Russia was hated by the Jesuits for at least two reasons: (1) His father, Tsar Alexander I, had expelled the Jesuits from Russia in 1820. (2) He (Tsar Alexander II) had supported Lincoln and the Union during the Civil War, whereas Pope Pius IX supported the Confederacy! Tsar Alexander II had sent part of his Russian Naval Fleet to U.S. waters to prevent France and England from intervening militarily on the side of the Confederacy.

- 1882 – Leon Michael Gambetta, French leader who had abolished the Jesuit Order in France in 1880, is assassinated (shot to death) – “pay back” courtesy of the Jesuits.
- 1914 – The kickoff for World War I occurs in the Balkans. Vatican involvement is clearly recognizable (see the following note).

((NOTE: Please consider the following quote by Edmond Paris, author of the book The Secret History of the Jesuits:

“The public is practically unaware of the overwhelming responsibility carried by the Vatican and its Jesuits in the starting of two world wars – a situation which may be explained in part by the gigantic finances at the disposition of the Vatican and its Jesuits, giving them power in so many spheres, especially since the last conflict.”

In The Secret History of the Jesuits, Edmond Paris goes on to point out that, contrary to Catholic Church propaganda, Pope Pius X actually helped instigate hostilities between Austria-Hungary and Serbia. Clearly both the Hapsburg dynasty (rulers of Austria-Hungary) and the Vatican saw the growing power of Serbia as a “threat”. In fact, in late 1913 Prince Schonburg had an audience with Pope Pius X, who told Schonburg: “It would certainly have been better if Austria-Hungary had punished the Serbians for all the wrongs they had done.” In other words, the Roman Catholic pope was letting this Roman Catholic European power (Austria-Hungary) know that it was past time to “take care of” the Serbian problem! The vast majority of Serbs are Orthodox Christians, and Orthodox Christians have long been hated by the Vatican!))

- 1917 – The Russian Revolution takes place. The Bolsheviks (Communists) seize power in Russia – funded by wealthy Knights of Malta in the United States. Later, two Jesuit-trained thugs, Joseph Stalin and Catholic Cardinal Agagianian, oversee the Soviet Gulag system. (Note: Both Stalin and Agagianian had been trained at the Jesuit Seminary in Tiflis, Soviet Georgia.) Millions of Russian Orthodox Christians are butchered at the hands of a totalitarian Police State. (Remember, the Vatican has long hated Orthodox Christians, and has slaughtered them whenever and wherever it could.)
- 1941-1945 – The Jewish holocaust occurs in Nazi-Fascist-controlled Europe. Up to 6 million Jews are murdered and starved to death. Roman Catholic involvement in this holocaust runs very deep. First, Roman Catholic German Knight of Malta Franz von Papen, along with the Roman Catholic Centrum Party in Bavaria, put Adolph Hitler into power. Jesuit 'father' Himmler (uncle to Heinrich Himmler) is a top officer in the Nazi SS (which is admittedly modeled after the Jesuit Order). The Vatican signs Concordats with Nazi Germany and with Fascist Italy. (Interesting Note: Neither Hitler or Mussolini, both Roman Catholics, is ever excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church.) Roman Catholics are installed as puppet dictators in occupied and allied countries. For example, in Slovakia, the Jesuit priest, Monseigneur Tiso, was installed as dictator. Additionally, Roman Catholic Knights of Malta head up three powerful intelligence agencies during World War II (William Donovan heads the American OSS – which later becomes the CIA; German General Reinhard Gehlen heads Nazi Intelligence on the eastern front; and Russian Anton Turkul heads Soviet Intelligence, and uses Jesuit priests for his couriers). By using elements within the warring factions, the Vatican is able to ensure the slaughter of large numbers of its favorite targets: Jews, Protestants (in northern Germany and in Prussia), and Orthodox Christians. At the end of the war, the Vatican helps many Fascist war criminals to escape punishment, hiding them at various locations in Europe until they can escape to such locations as the USA, Argentina, etc.

((NOTE: Here a couple quotes that bring home the cooperation that occurred between the Vatican and the Nazi and Fascist dictatorships in Europe during World War II:

"I have learnt most of all from the Jesuit Order. ...So far, there has been nothing more imposing on earth than the hierarchical organization of the [Roman] Catholic Church. A good part of that organization I have transported direct to my own [Nazi] party. ...The Catholic Church must be held up as an example. ...I will tell you a secret. I am founding an order [Ed. Note: the Nazi SS]. ...In [Heinrich] Himmler [who would become head of the Nazi SS] I see our Ignatius de Loyola [Ed. Note: the founder of the Jesuit Order]." Adolph Hitler (German Fuehrer during World War II)

"Fascism is the regime that corresponds most closely to the concepts of the Church of Rome." – Civiltà Cattolica (House organ of the Jesuits)

Please take a moment to ponder the significance of those two quotations – especially the first one, as to how they might possibly apply to us in America in the near future. After all, a massive police and intelligence-gathering State has already been set up here in America!))

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 2, 2007 02:47 AM (GMT)

· 1941-1945 – The "Vatican's holocaust" occurs in Croatia. Though primarily directed against Serb Orthodox Christians, much smaller numbers of Jews and gypsies are also targeted. This monstrous, barbaric, and savage religious genocide is planned, orchestrated, and conducted by Roman Catholic clergy – mainly Franciscan monks, friars, and priests, along with several high-ranking Jesuits. Roman Catholic Croatian

Fuehrer Ante Pavelic teams up with high-ranking Catholic prelates, such as Archbishop Stepinac and Bishop Ivan Saric, to use the Roman Catholic Ustashi militia units to torture and butcher from 600,000 to 1 million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children. This religious genocide includes the most brutal forms of torture, forced conversions, burning people alive, raping and murdering girls and women, impaling young children alive on stakes, gouging out the eyes of live victims to make necklaces, starving children to death, burying victims alive, crucifying Orthodox priests to wooden doors, and some other atrocities that I do not feel should be written in a newsletter. Roman Catholic clergy not only frequently lead the Catholic Ustashi units in their murder and mayhem, but also participate in this savagery. Franciscan monk, 'father' Miroslav Filipovic, served as the cruel camp commandant at Jasenovac (one of the worst of the concentration camps).

Here is what Monica Farrell, author of the booklet "Ravenging Wolves", has to say about this savage episode of religious genocide:

"This [Ed. Note: her booklet "Ravenging Wolves"] is the record of torture and murder committed in Europe in 1941-1945 by an army of [Roman] Catholic Actionists known as the Ustashi, led by monks and priests, and even participated in by nuns. The [innocent Serb Orthodox Christian] victims suffered and died in the cause of liberty and freedom of conscience. The least we can do is to read the record of their sufferings and keep in mind that it happened, not in the dark ages, but in our ENLIGHTENED [Ed. Note: emphasis in original] generation. Ustashi is another name for Catholic Action."

((NOTE: A tremendous quote by Avro Manhattan, from his book The Vatican's Holocaust, sums up well why we all should be concerned about this horrible religious genocide conducted by the most powerful religious-geopolitical institution in the world that happened NOT 1000 years ago, but rather happened less than 70 years ago:

"...Here [in Croatia in the 1940s] the [Roman] Catholic Church [erected] a State in complete accord with all her tenets. The result was a monster standing upon the armed might of twin totalitarianisms: the totalitarianism of a ruthless Fascist State and the totalitarianism of [Roman] Catholicism...

What gives to such a creature of Vatican diplomacy its peculiar importance is that here we have an example of the Catholic Church's implementing all her principles, unhampered by opposition, or by fear of world opinion.

The uniqueness of the Independent Catholic State of Croatia lies precisely in this: that it provided a model, in miniature, of what the Catholic Church, had she the power, would like to see in the West and, indeed, everywhere. As such it should be carefully scrutinized. For its significance...is of the greatest import to all the freedom-loving peoples of the world."))

- 1960s – Vietnam: Three Roman Catholic leaders in Vietnam try to set up a Roman Catholic dictatorship in a country where the vast majority of the people are Buddhists.

Here are some excerpts from my TTT newsletter entitled "The Vietnam War":

(1) "Editor of TTT doubts if you will find very much information on the 'Ngo Dinh' brothers in most U.S. history textbooks. One brother, Ngo Dinh Diem, became president of the newly formed Republic of Vietnam in 1956. The second brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu became the head of the secret police. The third brother, Ngo Dinh Thuc, was the Roman Catholic Archbishop of the city of Hue. Despite the fact that the overwhelming majority of Vietnam's population was Buddhist (80%), these three Roman Catholic leaders attempted to set up a Roman Catholic dictatorship. According to Avro Manhattan, author of the book The Vatican's Holocaust: 'The trio [the Ngo Dinh brothers] had been inching for years toward veritable religious persecution of the vast majority of the country's [South Vietnam's] population of 15 million, only 1.5 million of whom were Catholic.'"

(2) "The heavy-handed Roman Catholic religious discrimination against Buddhists led to numerous peaceful protests by Buddhists across South Vietnam. During several of these protests, Buddhist monks set fire to themselves to draw attention to the religious persecution in South Vietnam. Avro Manhattan describes the response of President Ngo Dinh Diem:

'The government sent troops and armored cars and fired at the demonstrators, killing nine Buddhists.

...Discrimination against the Buddhists continued unabated. Arrests of Buddhist monks multiplied. [Buddhist] Pagodas were declared [off limits], closed, and at times even attacked.

...Buddhist monks, Buddhist nuns, and Buddhist leaders were arrested by the thousands.

...Buddhists were tortured by the police.

...[South] Vietnam was put under martial law.

...The [South Vietnamese] army became openly restive and put up passive resistance... against their own government. Result: the war against the Communist north was being lost, since the population at large, upon whose support the struggle ultimately rested, refused to cooperate."

(3) "So many people were arrested that special 'internment camps' were set up. Avro Manhattan describes the situation as follows:

'The jails were soon bursting with prisoners. The mass arrests became so numerous that finally it was necessary to open detention camps followed by additional ones euphemistically called 'internment camps'...

There followed massacres within and outside such detention sites, like those which took place at Mocay, Thanhphu, Soctrang, Cangiuoc, Dailoc, Duyxuyen, to mention only a few. Religious sects and racial minorities were persecuted, arrested, and whenever possible ELIMINATED.

Minority groups were exterminated or accepted the Catholic Church to save their lives.”

((Important Note: For more detailed information on World War I, World War II, and the Vietnam War, please read my TTT newsletters on those wars that are posted on Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net .))

· November 22, 1963 – U.S. President John F. Kennedy (JFK) is assassinated (shot to death). A number of Knights of Malta (a Roman Catholic military order co-located in Rome with, and controlled by, the Jesuit Superior General) are involved in the assassination (e.g., Clay Shaw, who is also a contract agent of the CIA), or are involved in the subsequent cover-up (e.g., James Jesus Angleton of the CIA – who is appointed CIA liaison to the Warren Commission). ((NOTE: A number of 33 degree Freemasons are also involved in the JFK assassination and/or cover-up. John Daniel, in his book The Grand Design Exposed, makes a good case that the Jesuit Order controls the top levels of Freemasonry. Thus, the Vatican’s involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy runs very deep, just as it did in the assassination of President Lincoln.))

((NOTE: Some Catholic apologists may cry: ‘Aha, Editor of TTT did not name the actual assassins in some of the assassinations listed in this newsletter’. True – the assassins’ names are not always known – even hundreds of years after the event. However, it was the Vatican – the Papacy – and more often than not, the Jesuit Order – that had the MOTIVE, the MEANS/ASSETS, and the well-documented history of such nefarious activities. Additionally, the Vatican’s “modus operandi” often nicely fits the criminal act. To explain in more depth:

· MOTIVE – The motive is to expand the power of the papacy (and in doing so, the power of the Jesuit Order), or simply to expand the power and/or wealth of the Jesuit Order alone; to punish those monarchs, president, or other leaders – or entire nations or peoples – who would not “play ball” with the Vatican; to punish popes who dared step out of line as concerns the Jesuits’ game plan; to “pay back” monarchs, presidents, or other leaders who had dared to curtail the Jesuits’ activities within their borders – or who had dared to expel the Jesuits from their borders; etc. At any crime scene, we must ask the question: “Cui bono?” (i.e., Who benefits?)

· MEANS/ASSETS – Through the many Catholic orders, parish priests, the confessional box (used by Catholic priests who are ‘father-confessors’ to national leaders and other powerful individuals, as well as to common folk), etc., the Vatican possesses an intelligence network-information gathering system that dwarfs the combined intelligence assets of the CIA, FBI, MI-5, MI-6, the Mossad, and the FSB (old KGB)! Also, because of its many monastic orders, its ties with the CIA and the Mob/Mafia, etc., the Vatican has an almost unlimited supply of ‘motivated’ or highly paid assassins. Additionally, because the Vatican is probably the richest institution on the face of the earth, it has tremendous sources of finance on which to draw for such assassination operations.

(Also, a number of top leaders and top officials of intelligence agencies (e.g., William Donovan, William Casey, John McCone, James Jesus Angleton, etc.) have been Knights of Malta – a military order headquartered with, and controlled by, the Jesuit Superior General!)

· DOCUMENTED HISTORY & MODUS OPERANDI – What other institution in recorded history has such a well-documented record of assassinating heads of State and Protestant leaders? What other institution has regularly used poison to kill so many of its enemies? What other “religious institution” (calling itself “Christian”) in the last 1000 years has regularly resorted to religious genocide against other Christians?))

III. SUMMARY

The preceding information is but a small sampling of the well-documented history of torture, assassination, mass murder, etc., by the hands of a “religious” institution that claims, at its highest levels, to be “Christian”.

The Vatican has for many centuries hated Jews, Bible-believing Christian groups (prior to anyone taking the name ‘Protestant’), Orthodox Christians, and later, Protestants. This hatred has rarely been disguised, and has so often manifested itself in the most barbarous, savage torture of fellow human beings on a scale not even closely approached by any other religious institution “calling itself Christian” in the history of the world.

This barbarism – this savagery – has not been limited to the 12th century. This barbarism – this savagery – manifested itself as recently as the 1940s in Catholic-controlled Croatia, where the Roman Catholic Ustashi militia, led by Catholic clergymen (mostly Franciscans), went on an orgy of torture, rape, and murder of innocent Serb Orthodox Christians that rivaled – no, exceeded – just about anything that can be found in the annals of pagan savagery. Their deeds included impaling small children on stakes, gouging out people’s eyes, crucifying Orthodox priests to wooden doors, burning people alive, flaying people alive, raping and ravishing girls and women, forcible conversions, etc. This vile, wicked disregard of human life was directed at innocent men, women, elderly, and children – led by, sanctioned by, blessed by, and participated in by Roman Catholic clergymen! This is a recent case in history of State-Church genocide!

IV. CONCLUSIONS & QUESTIONS

1. While there are good, decent Christians within the ranks of Catholicism (most are at the low levels), Catholicism is dominated at the top by men from secret societies (Jesuits, Knights of Malta, and P2 Masonry) who are not Christian by any stretch of the imagination. Even before the Jesuits appeared formally on the scene in the Catholic Church in the mid 1500s (formally recognized as an Order in 1540), very wicked men often held the highest positions within the Roman Catholic Church, to include the office of pope itself! These wicked men directed crusades against Jews, Moslems, and fellow Christians! These wicked men organized that awful institution (office) of the 'holy' Inquisition, which regularly used the most brutal tortures mankind has ever seen. This office of Inquisition still exists, although it has undergone two "name changes" in recent history.

2. The key doctrines and objectives of the Roman Catholic Church have not changed, despite all the "ecumenical rhetoric" of loving the "separated brethren", of becoming more "liberal", etc. The Roman Catholic Church has never repudiated her "right" to use force wherever and whenever she has the opportunity to do so. She has never repudiated her "right" to use torture. She (at her highest levels) still hates, despite her "ecumenical rhetoric" to the contrary, Jews, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, other non-Catholic Christian independent groups of believers, and even those Roman Catholics who dare to question any of her doctrines or practices!

3. Question: Was the persecution of Jews, Orthodox Christians, and other genuine Christians in World War II (especially in Nazi Germany and Croatia) a model of what the Roman Catholic Church has planned for many of us Americans immediately preceding or during the early stages of World War III and/or during the implementation of full martial law in the USA? ((Don't forget, the Catholic Church put Hitler into power in Nazi Germany through its Knight of Malta Franz von Papen and the German Catholic Centrum Party in Bavaria! Don't forget that the Catholic Church supported Hitler, Mussolini, Ante Pavelic (in Croatia), Jesuit Monseigneur Tiso in Slovakia, and other Catholic dictators throughout Europe in World War II! Don't forget that the Nazi SS was modeled after the Jesuit Order! Don't forget that Hitler claimed that he was merely following the example of the Catholic Church's historical persecution of the Jews when he persecuted them in Nazi Germany!))

4. Question: What country will American Jesuits, American Knights of Malta, American high-level Knights of Columbus, and American members of Opus Dei support when a total fascist police State goes into full swing here in the USA: America or the Vatican State? Some people note the dual loyalty of American Jews who are both Israeli and American citizens. But almost nobody talks about the dual loyalties of American Catholic prelates (at the higher levels), Jesuit Provincial Generals and other top officials of the Jesuit Order in the USA, American Roman Catholic Knights of Malta in key power positions in the U.S. government and intelligence agencies, high-level American Roman Catholic Knights of Columbus, etc. Why?

((NOTE: During World War II the German army invaded and occupied the sovereign state of Yugoslavia. Croatia was at that time one of the regions of Yugoslavia. Top-level Roman Catholics in the Yugoslav government and Yugoslav army BETRAYED their country and their fellow countrymen into the hands of the invading German army, because the Vatican fully supported Nazi and Fascist regimes such as Germany and Italy. These Catholic Yugoslav citizens who held key positions in the Yugoslav government and military showed the German soldiers where weapons and military supplies were stored and betrayed members of the Resistance into the hands of the invading troops. Their loyalty to the Vatican (i.e., the Papacy) took precedence over their loyalty to their own country (and over the government or army in which many of them served)! Couldn't happen in America, you say? Why couldn't it? Since the Papacy favors Fascist-type regimes, why wouldn't she favor a Fascist regime (a Police State) here in America, and tell her "faithful" to march "lock step" with such a totalitarian regime?))

5. Question: How can anybody, whether Catholic or non-Catholic, defend this so-called "religious" institution, the Roman Catholic Church, which has tortured, butchered, and slaughtered millions of Jews, Moslems, independent Bible-believing Christian groups prior to the use of the term "Protestants", Orthodox Christians, and Protestant Christians over the centuries?

6. For those who might in gross ignorance accuse me of trying to "start a religious war" between Catholics and Protestants in America, let me say that I am trying rather to "prevent a religious genocide" from being perpetrated on America's non-Catholic Christians and Jews by the Vatican and her proxies here in the United States whenever this country is placed under full martial law – as this country and/or its people are placed under the control of one-world government with its one-world religion.

None of the Protestant denominations or other non-Catholic Christian groups has:

- An "Office of Inquisition" (now called the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith).
- Military orders (like the Jesuit Order and its Knights of Malta).
- A militia for its religious leader (like the Knights of Columbus – the pope's militia).
- A well-documented history of frequently carrying out religious genocide, fomenting wars & revolutions, supporting Fascist dictatorships, etc.

Rather, it is the Vatican, and the Vatican alone of all Christian sects and denominations, which has all of the above-listed items. Additionally, it is the Vatican alone that aspires to once again have both spiritual and temporal power to rule on the earth as she did in Europe for centuries during the "dark ages".

((IMPORTANT NOTE: In case anyone is thinking of accusing me of "hate" for writing this newsletter, let me say a few words:

1. It is NOT "hate" to:

- Repeat some facts from history in order to try to warn folks of great danger that may strike in the near future.
- Expose a mass-murdering serial killer of an institution that loves to use torture.

- Expose an institution that is a HATER of Jews, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, etc.
- Expose an institution that loves Fascist regimes and Police States.

2. It is HATE to:

- Torture human beings.
- Conduct religious genocide against any and all groups who are different in their religious beliefs than the Roman Catholic Church's beliefs whenever and wherever the opportunity presents itself (such as in Croatia in the 1940s and in Vietnam in the 1960s).
- Assassinate (both literally and figuratively – i.e., character assassination) any and all individuals who expose the Catholic Church's propensity for torture, Inquisition, and religious genocide – or who expose its false doctrines and pretended claims of authority to rule over everyone, in both the secular and ecclesiastical arenas, wherever her shadow falls.))

V. FINAL THOUGHTS

Again, this was a tough newsletter to write; and no doubt for some folks it is, or will be, a tough newsletter to read. Sadly, history indeed is full of numerous examples of the bloody deeds of the Vatican. I did not list some of the bloody events that the Vatican clearly was involved in, such as the French Revolution. (In some of their nefarious activities they were a little more careful in covering up their "tracks" than in others.) I urge you to read John Daniel's book The Grand Design Exposed to get some pretty good evidence of Jesuit involvement in fomenting the bloody French Revolution. Likewise, due to space limitation, I did not list many of the other assassinations that the Jesuits have carried out. Please read Bill Hughes' book [see warning below] The Secret Terrorists – he makes a pretty good case of Jesuit involvement in the assassination of a number of U.S. presidents.

A hierarchical structure, such as that found in the Roman Catholic Church, is wonderfully made for the use of evil men to carry out torture, Inquisition, and mass murder. Sadly, it has been used often throughout history for those very purposes. As John E. E. Dalberg Acton wrote: "Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

My TTT newsletters are not written strictly for a Christian audience, as are my ETI newsletters. However, I must state here in this issue of the TTT newsletter that my study of the Holy Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, for over a decade, has shown me quite clearly that the Lord Jesus Christ NEVER intended to set a massive, hierarchical, totalitarian, monopolistic "religious system" that would "rule vigorously" over not only all Christians, but all peoples that fell under its shadow. Nor did He intend that a special priesthood would be set up that was similar to, and rivaled, the pagan priesthood in Babylon and in imperial Rome. ((Please see Alexander Hislop's book The Two Babylons..))

The relatively short history of communism has shown us that whenever they were in the minority in a country, they pleaded for “tolerance” and acceptance – until they could seize all the levers of power. Then there was NO tolerance or acceptance for any rival or competing groups.

When the Catholic Church came to America, it asked for tolerance and acceptance – and, for the most part, it received such. Now that the Catholic Church has grown very powerful in America, will it now help destroy the very freedoms that allowed it to take root here in America? Will the Roman Catholic Church, both here in America and at the Vatican, cooperate with the forces that seek to enslave America and the rest of the world under one-world government and one-world religion (under the auspices of a New World Order)? Is the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church, with its infamous Jesuit Order, at the very head of this effort to bring in a New World Order? And again, which country will American Roman Catholics support – the Vatican State or America – when the pope comes out in support of whatever totalitarian regime is set up here in America when we go under full-blown martial law – or under a one-world government? Will key American Catholic prelates (such as the 10 Jesuit Provincial Generals assigned to the USA) spearhead a religious genocide here in America at that time, as key European Catholic prelates spearheaded religious genocide in Croatia and other locations in Europe during World War II? These are questions that must be asked – yea, and discussed in an open forum. And we most likely do NOT have a lot of time to get this discussion started!

VI. WHAT CAN WE DO?

1. If you think that this issue of the TTT newsletter contains important information, then please make copies of it and give them away free-of-charge to others.
2. Please check out Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net . Please read some of my TTT and ETI newsletters, especially “Death by Government and Death by Church” that deals with religious genocide (to include Inquisition, papal crusades against Christians, ‘holy’ wars, etc.). Please also check out my TTT newsletters on “The Jesuits” (parts I through IV), and the series of TTT newsletters that I did on wars in which American troops fought. If you find that any of these newsletters contain important information, then please make copies of them to give to others. Also, please tell as many folks as you can about the above-listed web site.
3. Please purchase good books that will tell you the truth about religious genocide, Inquisition, assassinations of heads of State, etc. Here are some that everyone should read:
 - (a.) Foxe’s Book of Martyrs by John Foxe; 470 pages; $11 postpaid: This book contains the stories of many victims of ecclesiastical tyranny – stories of martyrs like John Huss, William Tyndale, Hugh Latimer, Nicholas Ridley, etc. These martyrs paid the ultimate price for opposing false doctrine – some being horribly tortured – some being slowly burned (roasted) at the stake. Their stories of courage must not be allowed to die. This book is “must read” for all Christians – both Catholics and non-Catholic Christians should learn the truth about ecclesiastical tyranny! To order a copy, please call “Power of Prophecy” toll-free at 1-800-234-9673. Or, make check or money order payable to “Power of Prophecy” and mail it to: Power of Prophecy // 1708 Patterson Road // Austin, TX 78733-6507.

(b.) The Vatican’s Holocaust by Avro Manhattan; 236 pages; 1986; Publisher: Ozark Books; $9.95 postpaid: This book deals with the Roman Catholic clergy-led religious genocide against Serb Orthodox Christian peasants and farmers in Croatia during World War II, and includes photographs of both the victims and perpetrators of this barbaric genocide. It also has a chapter dealing with other mass murders and massacres carried out on the orders of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church. For credit card orders, please call 1-909-987-0771. Or, make check or money order payable to “Chick Publications” and mail it to: Chick Publications // P.O. Box 3500 // Ontario, CA 91761-1019.

(e.) The Secret History of the Jesuits by Edmond Paris; 206 pages; Publisher: Chick Publications; ISBN 0-937958-10-7; $10.75 postpaid: This book covers the history of the Jesuit Order from its founding in 1534 through World War II. The author exposes the Jesuit-controlled Vatican’s involvement in world politics, intrigues, and the fomenting of wars. This book reveals the involvement of the Vatican in helping to foment both World War I and World War II, and its involvement in supporting Nazi and Fascist regimes in Europe during World War II. Much of the slaughter that occurred in World War II can be laid at the feet of the Vatican and her Jesuits. To order a copy, make check or money order payable to “Chick Publications” and mail it to: Chick Publications // P.O. Box 3500 // Ontario, CA 91761-1019. To order by credit card, please call 1-909-987-0771.

(f.) The Grand Design Exposed by John Daniel; 411 pages; 1999; Publisher: CHJ Publishing; ISBN 0-927022-41-9; $20 postpaid: This book is a well-documented exposé about Jesuit control of Freemasonry. It also fills in many "historical gaps" concerning the sinister activities of the Jesuit Order. This book provides evidence of some heavy-duty Jesuit involvement in fomenting the bloody French Revolution (1789-1799). (This book also deals with some very important aspects of Bible prophecy!) To order a copy, please make check or money order payable to "American Sentry Books" and mail it to: American Sentry Books // P.O. Box 14 // Crawley, WV 24931. Title: DECEITFUL REVISERS AND EDITORS OF HISTORY

“DECEITFUL REVISERS AND EDITORS OF HISTORY”

((NOTE: All emphasis throughout this newsletter, unless otherwise noted, is by the editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics (TTT)”. Some issues of my TTT newsletters and my “Examining the Tough Issues (ETI)” newsletters can be read on the following three Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net, www.calltodecision.com, and www.libertytothecaptives.net. The last site has a link to the first site.))

WARNING: This issue of the TTT newsletter may seriously “disturb” some folks’ “comfort zones”. However, TRUTH is far more important than any of our “comfort zones”.

IMPORTANT NOTE #1: I (the editor of the ETI & TTT newsletters) am not a Roman Catholic; I also most definitely am not anti-Roman Catholic as far as individual Roman Catholics go. My dad and 90% of my relatives are Roman Catholic; my best friend is Roman Catholic; and the majority of my friends are Roman Catholic. I am, however, against the top levels of secret societies (from the hierarchy of the Jesuit Order to the hierarchy of Freemasonry). This is because these secret societies control the leadership of the Roman Catholic Church (through the Jesuit Order and P2 Masonry). These secret societies also control the leadership of most of the larger, non-Catholic, Christian denominations. I am also against any religious hierarchy that tries to place itself equal to or above the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God – or equal to or above God’s Holy Word (i.e., the Holy Bible) and His Ten Commandments!

IMPORTANT NOTE #2: We can no longer afford to REMAIN SILENT on these critical issues for fear of offending any particular group – in this case, Roman Catholics. Please carefully consider this quote by author Dave Hunt: “We are told to love one another as Christ has loved us. Pop psychology trivializes that command by equating it with a ‘positive’ attitude. Forgotten is the first duty of love: to speak the truth (Ephesians 4:15). Real love does not flatter or soothe when correction is needed but [rather] points out the error which is blinding and harming the loved one. Christ said, ‘As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten; be zealous, therefore, and repent’ (Revelation 3:19). Instead, the idea is now current that love excludes rebuke, ignores the truth, and seeks unity at any price. Only disaster can result.”

Why Am I Writing More & More About Roman Catholicism?

This editor of the ETI and TTT newsletters has been writing more on the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy, and especially its Jesuit Order, in recent newsletters because I keep uncovering more and more about the deep hatred that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church has for independent Bible-believing Christians, Protestants, Orthodox Christians, and Jews. We Americans have, for the most part, been largely ignorant of the well-documented history of the Roman Catholic Church in conducting brutal religious genocide (via Inquisition, ‘holy’ wars, and ‘holy’ crusades) against all the afore-mentioned groups. (Please see my TTT newsletters entitled “Death by Government and Death by Church” and “Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts” on Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com.) Sadly, many Americans believe the “ecumenical rhetoric” of the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy – i.e., that she has “changed her ways” and now loves all the “separated brethren”. However, my study of the Papacy shows me that this is just a RUSE. (Per Webster’s New World Dictionary a “ruse” is: “a stratagem” [which is] “any trick or scheme for achieving some purpose”.) The “purpose” is to bring all non-Catholic Christian denominations under the “umbrella” (i.e., the authoritative and totalitarian rule) of the Papacy!

Yes, the Papacy, despite its “ecumenical rhetoric”, has not changed a bit over the many centuries in the following categories:

Its deep hatred of Jews, all independent Bible-believing non-Catholic Christians, Protestants, and Orthodox Christians (as recently as the 1940s we find the Roman Catholic Ustashi in Croatia, led on by priests, monks, and friars, brutally slaughtering from 600,000 to one million Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children);

Its long-held dream to bring all non-Catholic Christians under its monopolistic, totalitarian, ecclesiastical control;

Its long-held dream to head up a totalitarian one-world religious organization; and,

Its long-held dream to bring all world leaders – especially those in “Christian” countries – under the temporal power of the pope. (That is, the Papacy would be the top player and “controller” in a one-world government – just like it was the top player and “controller” on the European continent for many centuries! Kings indeed bowed before popes.)

Indeed, power – absolute power – has long been the Vatican’s “primary objective”. History has recorded the Vatican’s deep hatred for religious liberty and freedom of conscience. The U.S. Constitution, with its “Bill of Rights” guaranteeing such liberties, has long been hated by the Vatican. (For a good example of this hatred of religious liberty and freedom of conscience, read the Syllabus of Errors that was issued in 1864 by Pope Pius IX.) I have heard that there is an acronym in use by some Knights of Columbus in America. This acronym is “M.A.C.”: “Make America Catholic”. America is the last “roadblock” in the way of the Vatican and the rest of the globalist rich and power elite in their dreams for one-world government and one-world religion. Is America scheduled for a religious genocide – another Inquisition – as occurred in the 1940s in Croatia? I believe the danger is very real and possibly quite imminent – and that is why I am writing about the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy, its long-held dreams for domination, and its well-documented history of religious genocide!

HERE ARE SOME RELEVANT QUOTATIONS:

“The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country... It is they who pull the wires which control the public mind, who harness old social forces and contrive new ways to bind and guide the world...” (1928)

Edward Bernays (Called by some the “Father of Public Opinion”)

“For 300 years past the Church of Rome has striven by an unceasing torrent of false histories, pamphlets, and lectures to conceal from the nation [i.e., Great Britain] and the world the true face of her terrible history before and during the Reformation.”

Albert Close (Author of the book Jesuit Plots from Elizabethan to Modern Times)

“Surely some Jesuit hand must have been at work influencing ‘Lord’ Romilly [Ed. Note: the “Master of the Rolls” (who was in charge of State Papers) in England] when he appointed [in 1859] a Roman Catholic [William Barclay Turnbull] to edit the State Papers of the reigns of [King] Edward VI [king: 1547-53] and [Catholic Queen] Mary [I; queen: 1553-58], above all others; and later to appoint the Rev. Joseph Stevenson as successor.”

Albert Close

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Interestingly, Joseph Stevenson later ‘becomes’ a Jesuit in 1882. I’m sure his ‘later conversion’, and his becoming a Jesuit priest, were just coincidences as concerns his earlier appointment to edit British history at the office of the “Master of the Rolls”. Has American history similarly been edited to remove any evidence of Vatican and Jesuit wrongdoing? It sure seems that it has!))

“The greatest danger and damage to true British history today lies in the almost criminal folly of the [British] Government appointing Roman Catholics and Anglo-Romanists to edit the Official Calendars of State Papers from the original Manuscripts of the Reformation times.

By clever maneuvering, Rome [i.e., the Vatican – the Papacy] has succeeded in the past in getting Roman Catholic Calendarers on the Staff of the Master of the Rolls, with the result that Vatican Documents and other old State Papers have either been suppressed in our National Calendars of State Papers or edited in favor of the Church of Rome.” – Albert Close

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: I do not know if I would use the word “folly” in the first sentence of the above quotation. Powerful people in the British government knew exactly what they were doing. The Vatican has for centuries instructed its “agents” (e.g., Jesuits, Knights of Malta, Knights of Columbus, etc.) to infiltrate governments, other religious denominations, intelligence agencies, universities and colleges, school board committees, publishing houses, etc., in a carefully planned and orchestrated effort to “erase”, as much as possible, the Vatican’s history of religious genocide and persecution, of fomenting revolutions and wars, of assassinating heads of State, and of torture and Inquisition – and also to “rewrite & revise” history textbooks and encyclopedias. This effort has been immensely successful.))

“There can be no shadow of doubt that the Jesuits and the Anglo-Romanist party in Britain have gained great influence over the Cable Services, Press Agencies, B.B.C., and chief newspapers of Great Britain...” – Albert Close

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The same thing has happened here in the USA!))

((Ed. Note: The four preceding quotations were taken from the excellent book Jesuit Plots from Elizabethan to Modern Times by Albert Close (with an additional chapter by Dr. Clive Gillis). This book is $9.95 postpaid from “The Conversion Center”. To order it by credit card, please call their toll-free line at 1-800-631-8220. “There is no doubt that the American Catholic hierarchy has entered the political arena, and that it is becoming more and more aggressive in extending the frontiers of Catholic authority into the fields of medicine, education, and foreign policy... As we shall see in this book [Ed. Note: American Freedom and Catholic Power], the Catholic hierarchy in this country [i.e., the USA] has great power as a pressure group, and no editor, politician, publisher, merchant or motion-picture producer can express defiance openly – or publicize documented facts – without risking his future.” (1949; Quote was taken from his book American Freedom and Catholic Power.) – Paul Blanchard (Journalist and author)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Please remember that this quote was made in 1949. The power of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the USA has not diminished from that time, but has, in fact, grown. Many powerful Knights of Malta (under the control of the Roman Catholic Jesuit Order) have held key positions in America's mainstream media (e.g., Henry Robinson Luce and William Randolph Hearst), in U.S. intelligence agencies (e.g., CIA chiefs William Donovan, John McCone, and William Casey), in U.S. banking, in the U.S. government, etc. Top-level Knights of Columbus (e.g., Senator Ted Kennedy) have held, and continue to hold, key positions in the U.S. government. Many of these men do NOT have the best interests of the American people at heart – rather, they serve the interests of the Vatican and her Jesuit Order. These men share the goals of the Vatican for a one-world government and one-world religion under the leadership and control of the papacy!))

“In March 1915, the J.P. Morgan interests [Ed. Note: controlled by the Rockefellers]... got together 12 men high up in the newspaper world and employed them to select the most influential newspapers in the U.S. and [a] sufficient number of them to CONTROL generally the policy of the daily press of the United States. These 12 men worked the problem out by selecting 179 newspapers, and then began, by an elimination process to retain only those necessary for the purpose of CONTROLLING. They found it was necessary to purchase CONTROL of 25 of the greatest [news] papers. The 25 [news] papers were agreed upon; emissaries were sent to purchase the policy, national and international, of these papers. An agreement was reached; the policy of the papers was bought, to be paid for by the month; an editor was furnished for each paper to properly SUPERVISE and EDIT information regarding the questions of preparedness, militarism, financial policies, and other things of national and international nature considered vital to the INTERESTS of the PURCHASERS... This policy also included the SUPPRESSION of everything in opposition to the wishes of the INTERESTS SERVED.” (Statement placed in the Congressional Record in 1917)

Oscar Callaway (U.S. Congressman)

“There is probably no important magazine or newspaper in the country [Ed. Note: the USA] that is not COMMUNIST-penetrated to some degree.”

Whittaker Chambers (1901-1961; American journalist; ex-member of the Communist Party of the United States)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: For whom do the Communists work? Author Gary Allen tells us: “The Rockefeller family, through their Chase Manhattan Bank and other entities, have been great benefactors of the Soviet Union ever since [the] Communist Revolution in Russia.” Which brings us to these questions: For whom do the Rockefellers work? Do they have any connections to the Rothschilds, who hold the title “Guardians of the Vatican Treasury”?))

“I questioned Dr. [Alberto] Rivera about the briefings he received in the Vatican when he was a Jesuit priest. I asked him if he was briefed on how the Vatican planned to take over the United States. He told me [that] his indoctrination [training as a Jesuit] went back [into American history] to the time of the Pilgrims. Because of the knowledge of the Inquisition and the slaughter of Christians by the Roman Catholic system, the early immigrants in America began passing laws to keep Jesuits out of this country and to outlaw the mass...to protect themselves from a Vatican takeover. These were Christian communities deeply concerned about the 'whore [that is found in the book] of Revelation'.

Jesuits began arriving in America as early as the second group of Pilgrims. They used different names with identifications. They were followed years later when the Vatican sent multitudes of Catholic families from England, Ireland, and France – posing as Protestants – into the colonies. These were 'plants'. They were holding secret masses in defiance of the laws. In those days, no Roman Catholic was to hold any position in civil government. The Jesuits made sure this part of our history was erased and removed.

The next major move by the Jesuits was to destroy or control all the Christian schools across America. Throughout the years, Jesuits, working undercover, have gotten into special committees on school boards to remove the emphasis of the Bible and replace it with psychology as found in the Spiritual Exercises of Ignatius de Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Society. Later, Catholic schools and universities sprang up all across the nation under the Jesuits. Today, they probably outnumber all the Christian schools and colleges put together.

The third stage was to move into the courts and legislation...to take over as judges and lawyers in order to manipulate the Constitution in their favor until it could be changed. Once this was accomplished, the thrust was into politics to capture the political parties. Then [the Jesuits moved on to] the military and the newspapers. Even back in the time of Lincoln over half the newspapers in the United States were controlled by the Vatican."

Jack Chick (Author and publisher)

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote:

“In 1997, wealthy media mogul Rupert Murdoch received papal knighthood for promoting the Catholic Church and the pope's interests. This Roman Catholic version [i. e., the NIV] is Rupert's bestseller! ((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: I would again like to remind the reader of this newsletter that a number of wealthy Knights of Malta (a Roman Catholic Order that is headquartered with, and controlled by, the Jesuit Superior General) have been major players in the publication business, such as Henry Robinson Luce and William Randolph Hearst.))

I. INTRODUCTION

This editor of ETI and TTT loves history – that is, I love TRUE history. History is indeed quite frequently “stranger than fiction”. Sadly, a whole lot of important history – history that should be known by the American people – has disappeared down a very deep “memory hole”. And even more history is headed for that deep “memory hole”. This history that has disappeared – or is in the process of disappearing – is true history that is very unfavorable to the Vatican and/or her Jesuit Order. It is very ugly, dark history – history that the Vatican and her Jesuit Order are working overtime to destroy forever. It is history that the Vatican and Jesuit Order want the American people to forget – or, in the case of many Americans, to never learn. It is the well-documented history of the Vatican and/or her Jesuit Order in the following categories:

Mass murder (frequent religious genocide, often on a massive scale – e.g., brutal slaughter of Jews; Orthodox Christians; independent Christian groups such as the Albigenses and the Waldenses; Protestant Christians in Ireland and Bohemia, and the Protestant French Huguenots; etc.)

Mass torture of human beings (via ‘holy’ Inquisition)

The assassination of heads of State (e.g., President Lincoln, Tsar Alexander I, Tsar Alexander II, King Henry III of France, King Henry IV of France, etc.)

Meddling in the affairs of State in numerous nations

Fomenting and orchestrating bloody revolutions and wars (including two world wars)

Hating religious liberty, freedom of conscience, and representative government.

Cui bono? That is, who benefits from this disappearing history that Americans should know about if they want to preserve their liberties and their Constitutional Republic?

Some folks allege that “the Jews” run (i.e., control) America’s publishing houses, its mainstream media, etc. If this were so, then why would these “Jews” be aiding and abetting the Vatican and her Jesuit Order by covering up their numerous crimes against humanity? After all, the Jews have suffered horribly at the hands of the Vatican! Inquiring minds surely would like to know!

I would like to cover some historical events here in this issue of TTT that I have covered in previous newsletters – albeit more briefly here, but with some new data wherever possible – especially some new quotations. So I ask those of you have read many of my previous newsletters to “stay with me” as I cover these pieces of “disappearing history”, even though I will be repeating some information here that has appeared in some of my more recent newsletters. ((I keep finding more new quotes to use in these newsletters that deal with much of this rapidly disappearing history.))

History is indeed very important. While the dates, names of the leading players, and locations change, the basic scenarios of tyranny, oppression, manipulated wars, etc., keep repeating over and over again. We should never forget these wise words from the Spanish philosopher George Santayana: “Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it.”

In my last TTT newsletter, entitled “The Real Controllers of the USA”, I talked about “front groups”, “Red herrings”, and various smoke screens used by the real power brokers operating “behind the scenes” to confuse us as to true history, and as to what is currently going on in our country, the American Constitutional Republic. Revising and editing history – or, flushing parts of it completely down that deep “memory hole” – is a major part of this carefully planned strategy of deceit and control. And one of the greatest tools in their hands is a group of people whom I call the deceitful “revisers and editors of history”. These “revisers” and “editors” of true history have been very successful in the dirty work of erasing true history. They can be found on school board committees, in publishing houses, and in many institutes of higher learning. They are the editors of many top newspapers and newsmagazines. They write articles for history textbooks and for encyclopedias. They have infiltrated every important strata of our society. They have destroyed, and are in the process of destroying, many important portions of both American history and European history – especially here in America!

II. IMPORTANT EXAMPLES OF REVISED HISTORY (E.G., PORTIONS OF HISTORY RAPIDLY DISAPPEARING DOWN A VERY DEEP “MEMORY HOLE”)

A. Vicious Religious Genocide Against the Albigenses and Waldenses

So few Americans are aware of the Vatican’s horrible persecution of Christian groups in the 12th through 16th centuries – much of it occurring long before the term “Protestants” ever came into being. Various popes ordered Catholic monarchs to send army after army against the Christian Albigenses in southern France, and against the Christian Waldenses in France and northern Italy – against farmers and peasants who were peaceful, moral people.

Here are just a few quotes dealing with this horrible religious genocide by the Vatican against innocent Christian men, women, elderly, and children:

“The Albigensian Crusades slash through the history of France and of the Church like a gaping wound. From 1208 to 1226 the papacy sent army after army to the South of France to crush the Albigensian ‘heretics’ and to punish their supporters. ...They [i.e., the Albigensian Crusades] began with a calculated act of terror, the massacre of [Ed. Note: large numbers of men, women, and children at] Beziers; they ended with the establishment of the Inquisition, one of the most effective means of ‘thought control’ that Europe has ever known. ((Ed. Comment: The papal army butchered about 20,000 citizens of this French city populated then mainly by the Albigenses.)) They [the papal armies] were completely successful: The losing faith, the Albigensian ‘Heresy’, was exterminated.

...Their disappearance as a social group was carefully planned and executed with persistent cruelty.” ((Ed. Comment: This is a clear example of religious genocide!))

Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn (Co-authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE)

“[The Albigenses] preached against the immoralities of the [Catholic] priesthood, pilgrimages, worship of saints and idols...opposed the claims of the Church of Rome; made great use of the Scriptures.

...By 1167 they [i.e., the Albigenses] embraced possibly a majority of the population of South France.

...In 1208 a crusade was ordered by Pope Innocent III; a bloody war of extermination followed, scarcely paralleled in history. Town after town was put to the sword, and the inhabitants murdered without distinction of age or sex.

...Within a hundred years the Albigenses were utterly rooted out.”

Henry H. Halley (Author of the Pocket Bible Handbook)

“These religious crusades [carried out by armies dispatched by order of the Vatican] and [accompanying] genocide (frequently in the form of State-Church genocide) were often directed at innocent peasants and farmers (e.g., Albigenses, Waldenses, French Huguenots, etc.) whose only ‘crimes’ were placing the Bible in higher authority than the pope, and refusing to recognize papal authority. These innocent people were falsely called ‘heretics’ [by the Roman Catholic hierarchy]. Papal armies were raised (often using murderers, rapists, etc., who had been released from prisons) and sent to exterminate entire villages and regions.” (July 13, 2005)

Darryl Eberhart (Editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics”)

This church [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] that claims to be “Christian” was involved in butchering, torturing, and killing in the cruelest ways those Christians who disagreed with papal authority – or who merely wanted to read, study, and share the Word of God. Mass murder (i.e., religious genocide) by this religious institution didn’t just occur in the 12th through the 16th centuries – it occurred as recently as the 1940s in Croatia, where the Roman Catholic Ustashi militia, led by Roman Catholic clergymen, tortured and murdered from 600,000 to one million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children. ((Please see section II., (letter) I.))

Why isn’t this history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

B. The Inquisition and Torture

Author David W. Daniels gives us a brief “history” of the Inquisition in his book Did The Catholic Church Give Us The Bible? (:)

“THE INQUISITION: The Horror Begins – With each council the level of terror increased:

1184 – Synod of Verona: Burn heretics at the stake.

1215 – 4th Lateran Council: Burn heretics and take their property. The ‘Inquisition’ is formed.

1220 – Inquisition is handed to the newly formed Dominican Order.

1229 – Synod of Toulouse makes the Inquisition a systematic process – [Accused victims are] guilty until proven innocent!

1252 – Pope Innocent IV: Torture is doctrinally acceptable to make an accused heretic ‘confess’.

1484 – Pope Innocent VIII publishes ‘Summus Desiderantes’ to support his inquisitors.

1486 – [Pope] Innocent VIII publishes ‘Malleus Maleficorum’ (Witch-Hammer), the systematic guide to detect, torture and execute a suspected ‘witch’. But the deck was stacked against you:

1. Almost never see your accuser.

2. Never know why or of what you are accused.
3. No lawyer. You have to prove your innocence.
4. You're presumed guilty – period.
5. The promise anything, but kill you anyway!"

If the brutal Inquisition were merely something that existed a thousand years ago, then maybe there would be no need to discuss it here. However, the office of the 'holy' Inquisition STILL exists – it has never disappeared. Oh yes, because of the "bad press" that it has received in the past, the Vatican has made two "name changes".

F. Tupper Saussy, in his book Rulers of Evil, points out these two name changes:

"Pontifex Maximus has laundered the Inquisition's name twice. In 1908, Pope Pius X renamed it 'the Holy Office', which [Pope] Paul VI transformed into [the] 'Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith' in 1965."

The office of Inquisition was set up in the 12th century. Initially, the Dominicans were in charge of it. Later, the Jesuit Order would take the office of Inquisition from the Dominicans.

I will not name the encyclopedia here, but I did read in this encyclopedia, under the entry entitled "Inquisition", a typical whitewash of this sick, barbaric, and inhuman institution (called the 'holy' Inquisition). Basically, whoever wrote the article for this "entry" in this encyclopedia didn't consider the "Inquisition" a very big deal, saying that they didn't use any worse torture than was used elsewhere in Europe at that time. Huh? The Roman Catholic Church refined "torture" to a new level, even bringing in medical doctors to make sure that the torture victim didn't die while under torture. This was done so that he (or she) could be "revived and refreshed", and thus could face days – weeks – and even months of more and more torture.

By the way, I personally could not torture an animal. How is it that the Roman Catholic Church calls itself "Christian" and yet commands the most brutal torture of human beings – even of fellow Christians who simply disagree with papal doctrine and/or authority? How is it that the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church never seemed to have any problems finding lots of fiends to do its torture, and priests to oversee that brutal torture of human beings? Where do we find the Lord Jesus Christ anywhere in this type of sick activity? Oh, by the way, the Roman Catholic Church has never repudiated her "right" to use torture and force wherever and whenever she finds the opportunity to do so!

Here are several more quotes dealing with the "holy" Inquisition:

“It is so very hard today to imagine how anyone could watch and inflict systematic tortures [Ed. Note: as occurred during the so-called ‘Holy Inquisitions’] designed to bring its victims the most severe and agonizing pain, to the very point of death, yet denying death, and then start the process all over again – even on an animal, much less another human being.”

John Daniel (Author of the book The Grand Design Exposed)

“To wring out confessions from these poor creatures [Ed. Note: during the various Inquisitions], the Roman Catholic Church devised ingenious tortures so excruciating and barbarous that one is sickened by their recital.”

Dave Hunt (Author of numerous books, including A Woman Rides the Beast)

“The most ghastly abomination of all was the system of torture. The accounts of its cold-blooded operations make one shutter at the capacity of human beings for cruelty. And it was decreed and regulated by the popes who ‘claim’ to represent Christ on earth...”

William Shaw Kerr (Bishop; Church historian)

“What has turned my soul against Roman [Catholic] abuse of power is the way in which it has tortured and burned such saints of God as Joan of Arc, hundreds of the Albigensian martyrs in France in the 12th century, the Knights Templar, John Huss [Czech Jan Hus], the Dominican Savonarola, the Dominican Giordano Bruno, [and] the Anglican bishops Cranmer, Ridley, and Latimer. The Inquisition has promoted at least two wholesale massacres: thousands of Protestant Waldensians in northern Italy, and thousands of Protestant Huguenots by the massacre of St. Bartholomew in France. More than 30,000 of the most cultured Protestants of France were put to the sword on the night of St. Bartholomew, August 24, 1572. At the news [of this brutal, bloody massacre], the Pope had cannons fired, proclaimed a jubilee, ordered a Te Deum of thanksgiving to be sung, and struck a special medal to commemorate the glorious ‘victory’.” – Charles A. Bolton (Ex-Roman Catholic priest)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: You can read about such “religious genocide” in a TTT newsletter I wrote entitled “Death by Government and Death by Church” by visiting Internet web site: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net. I also highly recommend that you get a copy of the book Foxe’s Book of Martyrs by John Foxe by calling “Power of Prophecy” (800-234-9673).))

“Of eighty popes in a line from the thirteenth century on, not one of them disapproved of the theology and apparatus of Inquisition. On the contrary, one after another added his own cruel touches to the workings of this deadly machine.”

Peter de Rosa (Catholic historian & former Jesuit; author of the book Vicars of Christ: The Dark Side of the Papacy)

“When confronted with ‘heresy’, she [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] does not content herself with persuasion, arguments of an intellectual and moral order appear to her insufficient, and she has recourse to force, to corporal punishment, [and] to torture.”

H.M.A. Baudrillart (Rector of the Catholic Institute of Paris)

“[The Inquisition’s] methods of terror and persecution have been used and abused up to the present day. These methods were not only new, but also so successful that they have been copied by totalitarian regimes ever since. The main features of these methods are:

1. Making the denunciation of fellow citizens an obligation that takes precedence over ties of family and kinship;
2. Extracting confessions by imprisonment and torture;
3. Making the naming of fellow conspirators an essential part of confessions;
4. Defining the retraction of extorted confessions as a ‘relapse’ and therefore a proof of guilt; and
5. In some cases, separating the proof of ‘heresy’ or opposition from the execution of the penalty. The Inquisition handed over its convicted ‘heretics’ to the secular arm for punishment just as, hundreds of years later, during Stalin’s purges of the Communist party, party members were often deprived of their membership and then handed over to the NKVD for punishment.”

Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn (Co-authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE)

Why isn’t this history concerning this fiendish “Inquisitional” institution of brutal torture (that still exists) taught to American school children? Shouldn’t the American people be warned about this institution of torture, and the political-religious institution that operates it? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people? Certain elements within the CIA, which has had a number of Roman Catholic Knights of Malta at its head (e.g., William Donovan, John McCone, and William Casey), seem to really like torture! What agencies in the U. S. government and military have taught “torture” to their corresponding elements in Latin American countries? Could there possibly be any connection between those torture-loving elements within the CIA and that religious-political institution (i.e., the Vatican) that loves to use torture?

C. The Council of Trent (1545-1563) and the Counter-Reformation

While most encyclopedias will give you the dates of the Council of Trent and tell you a little about its history, they leave out some very important details – and the historical importance of this Council.

Here are a couple quotes by F. Tupper Saussy (as found in his book Rulers of Evil):

“Most of the eighteen-year lifetime of the Council of Trent [in Italy, 1545-1563] consisted of two intermissions spanning four and ten years each. At the beginning of the second intermission, Ignatius [of Loyola – founder of the Jesuit Order] founded a special college in Rome [in 1552] for German-speaking Jesuits called the Germanicum. ((Ed. Note: Pope Pius XI later would create the Russian college in Rome, and put it under the Jesuit Order.)) Three years later [in 1555], the Peace of Augsburg established the principle of ‘cuius regio, eius religio’, ‘whose [i.e., the ruler’s] the region, his the religion’. The Peace of Augsburg was Jesuit ‘pay dirt’. They could now bring whole populations to Rome simply by winning over a few princes. And so they did. By 1560, the Society [of Jesus – i.e., the Jesuit Order] had returned virtually all of South Germany and Austria to the [Roman Catholic] Church.”

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: The Jesuits basically steered the direction of the Council of Trent. Indeed, the Jesuit Order was founded primarily to counter, and if possible, destroy the Protestant Reformation. Much of Europe was starting to “go Protestant”, and the Roman Catholic Church was losing entire regions and provinces to Protestantism. The “Peace of Augsburg” in 1555 enabled the Jesuit Order to simply win over some key European princes and thus bring whole regions and provinces back to Roman Catholicism. But even this was not enough to stem the steady erosion of the Catholic “faithful” leaving the mother church, and so religious genocide, ‘holy’ Inquisition, and religious wars (such as the Thirty Years’ War of 1618-48) were launched to exterminate as many Protestants as quickly as possible.))

“The fruits of the Germanicum [i.e., the special college in Rome for German-speaking Jesuits] were so successful that when the Council of Trent finally adjourned on December 4, 1563, its decrees and canons conceded nothing to the Protestant reformers. Indeed, under the spiritual direction of [Jesuit] Superior General Diego Lainez – Ignatius [of Loyola] had died in 1556 – the Council [of Trent] denied every Protestant doctrine point by point. Anathematized (eternally damned) was anyone who believed that salvation is God’s free gift to His faithful and does not depend upon partaking of Church sacraments. Anathematized was anyone who looked to the Bible for the ultimate authority on ‘doctrine, reproof, correction, and instruction in righteousness’ rather than to the teaching Church. Anathematized was anyone who regarded as unworthy of belief such unscriptural doctrines as (1) the efficacy of papal indulgences; (2) of confession alone to a priest as necessary for salvation; (3) of the mass as a true and real sacrifice of the body of Christ necessary to salvation; (4) the legitimacy of teachings on purgatory; (5) the celibate priesthood; (6) invoking saints by prayer to intercede with God; (7) the veneration of relics; and, (8) the use of images and symbols.

The Council of Trent hurled one hundred twenty-five anathemas – eternal damnations – against Protestantism.”

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: These vicious, unwarranted anathemas – eternal damnations – have never been revoked. Subsequent Councils have affirmed the Council of Trent. The Vatican, despite “ecumenical rhetoric” to the contrary, has not changed the basic doctrines of the Roman Catholic Church that sent millions of innocent men, women, elderly, and children to their deaths during numerous religious genocides, long periods of ‘holy’ Inquisition, and actual ‘holy’ Crusades and wars launched against Christians!))

D. Attempts to Force England Back Under Papal Authority

We can see from the quotes at the beginning of this newsletter that the Vatican made mighty efforts to bring England back under Papal authority, especially in the 16th century.

Here are some more quotes about this chapter of history that is relatively unknown to many Americans:

“Eight years before the attempted [Spanish] Armada invasion [of 1588], Jesuits were seditiously active plotting the overthrow of the English government. By using different disguises, aliases, and secret codes, to illegally slip in and out of England, Jesuit Robert Parson, in 1580, had led and then later organized a mission to bring other Jesuits into England to engage in a work of subversion. When the [attempted] invasion [by the Spanish Armada] failed, these masters of intrigue [i.e., the Jesuits] turned to another bizarre scheme. Known in your encyclopedia under the subject, ‘The Gunpowder Plot’ – thirteen Catholic noblemen and five Jesuits formed a conspiracy devising a plan to explode 36 barrels of gunpowder in the cellar of the House of Lords and kill King James I, and members of the [House of] Commons as they assembled for the opening of Parliament on 5 November 1605. Their plan was to blow up the Parliament building and out of the chaos incite the people into a full insurrection.

...But before the date it [i.e., the tunnel full of explosives] was to be detonated, the explosives were discovered, leading to the arrest of all those involved.

...Of the five Jesuits involved, two escaped, one died in prison, and two were convicted and executed.”

John Daniel (Author of the book The Grand Design Exposed)

((Ed. Comments to the preceding quote:

(1) What the encyclopedias and most history books do NOT tell us is that the purpose of the attempted invasion of England in 1588 by the Spanish Armada was to land troops in England to be joined by local Roman Catholics in an effort to overthrow the British government and return England, by force, to the fold of the Roman Catholic Church!

(2) What occurred in England, i.e., the repeated political intrigues, attempted assassinations of heads of State, etc., by the wily Jesuit Order, occurred all over continental Europe too. This was the reason why 83 countries, cities, and city-states had thrown the Jesuits out of their areas by 1931! Many of the European monarchs who expelled the Jesuits were Roman Catholics themselves!))

((Ed. Note: The following quotation is an excerpt taken from an information sheet I recently typed concerning Albert Close's book Jesuit Plots from Elizabethan to Modern Times.)):

“Editor of ETI and TTT has come to the following conclusion after studying the history of the Roman Catholic Church and Europe: It is virtually impossible to clearly understand European history from the 16th century to the present time without ‘viewing’ it through the ‘lens’ of the ‘Reformation-Counter Reformation’, Roman Catholic efforts to bring England back under papal authority, and the Jesuit Order. The famous Frenchman, the Marquis de LaFayette, stated: ‘It is my opinion that if the liberties of this country – the United States of America – are destroyed, it will be by the subtlety of the Roman Catholic Jesuit priests, for they are the most crafty, dangerous enemies to civil and religious liberty. They have instigated most of the wars of Europe.’ Many other famous individuals, such as President John Adams, echoed similar condemnations of this infamous Society of Jesus (a.k.a. the Jesuit Order)!

The Vatican (and especially her Jesuit Order from the mid 1500s) tried to bring England back under papal authority by force and subversion. A number of popes and European monarchs conspired to assassinate British monarchs, to foment revolutions in the British Isles, and to actually land foreign troops on British soil. These attempts to bring England back under the pope's authority by force reached their zenith in 1588 when the 130-ship Spanish Armada, carrying 20,000 troops, sailed for the British Isles. Pope Sixtus V had promised Spanish King Phillip II 200,000 crowns the moment the armada sailed, and another 100,000 crowns when troops were placed on shore in England. Researchers have examined British, French, and Spanish ‘State papers’ – and Vatican documents, for this era. These State papers and Vatican documents clearly show the Vatican's involvement not only in the planned invasion of England by the Spanish Armada, but also in numerous attempts to assassinate Queen Elizabeth I!

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 2, 2007 02:44 AM (GMT)

Sadly, Roman Catholic writers, editors, and apologists have made, and continue to make, tremendous efforts to rewrite and revise history and, in the process, whitewash

the Vatican and her Jesuit Order's frequent involvement in court intrigues, assassinations and attempted assassinations of heads of State, fomenting of revolutions and wars, infiltration of governments, orchestration of religious genocide, etc. Fortunately, a number of researchers and authors, such as Albert Close, have examined various nations' State papers and/or actual Vatican documents, which substantiate totally the nefarious activities of the Vatican and her Jesuit Order in Britain throughout the past four centuries!" – Darryl Eberhart (Editor of ETI and TTT newsletters) (December 28, 2005)

We Americans must not allow this portion of British history to disappear. The reason is simple: The Vatican was not able to defeat Great Britain by "frontal assault" (i.e., by force of arms) so as to bring it back under papal authority, so it used INFILTRATION to get Great Britain in line with papal desires and goals. Certainly, the Vatican was not able to defeat our Constitutional Republic by "frontal assault" (i.e., by force of arms), and so it has used INFILTRATION to get the USA in line with papal desires and goals.

Why isn't this history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

E. Religious Genocide Against Irish Protestants and French Huguenots

It is so very important that we Americans know about the history of religious genocide, because it certainly is not something that occurred only in the far distant past.

Here are several quotes by Jack T. Chick from his excellent book Smokescreens:

"On August 22, 1572 [Ed. Note: Several books have the date as August 24th], the bloody St. Bartholomew massacre began. This was to be one fatal blow to destroy the Protestant movement in France. The [Catholic] king of France had cleverly arranged a marriage between his sister and Admiral Coligny, the chief Protestant leader. There was a great feast with much celebrating. After four days of feasting, the soldiers were given a signal. At twelve o'clock midnight, all the houses of the Protestants in the city were forced open at once. The admiral was killed, his body thrown out of a window into the street where his head was cut off and sent to the pope.

...They also slaughtered many other well-known Protestants. In the first three days, over ten thousand were killed. The bodies were thrown into the river and blood ran through the streets into the river until it appeared like a stream of blood. ...From Paris, the destruction spread to all parts of the country. Over eight thousand more people were killed. Very few Protestants escaped the fury of the persecutors."

"A similar massacre [Ed. Note: i.e., similar to the St. Bartholomew's Massacre] occurred in Ireland in 1641. The [Catholic] conspirators picked October 23rd, the feast of Ignatius

Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Order. They planned a general uprising for the whole country. All Protestants would be killed at once. To throw them [i.e., the Protestants] off guard while the plan was being made, extra acts of kindness were shown to the Protestants. Early in the morning [of October 23, 1641] the conspirators were armed and every Protestant they could find was immediately murdered. They showed no mercy. From children to the aged, they were killed. Even invalids were not spared. They were caught by complete surprise. They [i.e., the Protestants] had lived in peace and safety for years and now found no place to run. They were massacred by neighbors, friends, and even relatives.

Death often was the least they had to fear. Women were tied to posts, stripped to the waist, their breasts cut off with shears and left to bleed to death. Others who were pregnant were tied to tree branches, their unborn babies cut out and fed to the dogs while the husbands were forced to watch.”

“What you’ve just read [about the massacre of Protestants in Ireland in 1641 and in France in 1572] is fully documented and historically factual. It is found in Foxe’s Book of Martyrs. ...Both of these murderous assaults by the Vatican against the [Protestant] Christians in France and in Ireland followed a similar pattern. Before the attacks, there was a time of healing when the Roman Catholics became friendly and warm, and in both cases the [Protestant] Christians were so relieved that they let their guard down and assumed the Vatican had changed. This was their fatal mistake and it cost them their lives.”

And here is a quote by John Daniel, author of the book The Grand Design Exposed:

“The sixth and last event to be considered is the barbarous Irish Massacre, with its 23 October 1641 launching date – the date that also celebrates the Catholic feast of Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Jesuits.

...Again the plot is instigated by the Jesuits, priests, and friars, who excite the ignorant Irish Catholic people to a frenzy to commit the most unheard of cruelties. In far away France, Cardinal Richelieu, the French minister, had promised the [Irish Catholic] conspirators a considerable supply of men and money. In one stroke, Catholics rose up against their peaceful and unsuspecting Protestant neighbors, and spared no age, no sex, nor condition. Led on and declared by their fanatical priestly leaders, that no Protestant should be suffered to live any longer among them, adding that it was no more sin to kill a Protestant than to kill a dog, and that the relieving or protecting them was a crime of the most unpardonable nature.

The onslaught raged on, and when it had run its course, one hundred and fifty thousand Protestants lay mutilated, butchered, and dead.

...For the unbiased researcher, history reeks of the butchery of Romanism, where whole cities and populations were unmercifully wiped out, just because they worshipped God in a manner that was different from Roman Catholicism.”

Why isn't this history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

F. Seeds Sown for the Destruction of the American Constitutional Republic (Secret Meetings at Vienna, Verona, and Chieri)

Here are a few quotes by author Bill Hughes [see warning below] concerning these secret meetings in Europe in the 19th century:

“[American Secretary of the Navy R.W.] Thompson pinpointed exactly who would be the agents used by the monarchs of Europe to destroy the republic of America, namely, the Jesuits of Rome! Since 1815 there has been a continual assault on America by the Jesuits to try to destroy the constitutional rights of this great nation.

The famous inventor of the Morse code, Samuel B. Morse, also wrote of this sinister plot [of the Jesuits] against the United States.”

Bill Hughes (Author of The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

“These three meetings, at Vienna, [Austria in 1814-15,] Verona, [Italy in 1822,] and Chieri, [Italy in 1825] were held with as much secrecy as possible. However, one man attended the first two meetings that would not be silenced. British foreign minister George Canning contacted the U.S. government to warn them that the monarchs of Europe [Ed. Note: with the encouragement and support of the Papacy and its Jesuits] were planning to destroy the free institutions of America.” – Bill Hughes

“During this Congress [of Verona, Italy in 1822], it was decided that America would be the target of Jesuit emissaries and that America was to be destroyed at all costs. Every principle of the [U.S.] Constitution was to be dissolved and new Jesuitical principles were to be put into place in order to exalt the Papacy to dominion in America.” – Bill Hughes

((Ed. Note: For more information about these three secret European meetings, please read Bill Hughes' book The Secret Terrorists – see Section IV. 3.))

One would think that plans made for the destruction of our American Constitutional Republic would be important enough to include in our American history books.

Why isn't this history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

G. The American Civil War [1861-65] and the Assassination of President Lincoln
Here are a few quotations that deal with the American Civil War of 1861-65, and with the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln:

"This [American Civil] war [of 1861-1865] would never have been possible without the sinister influence of the Jesuits. We owe it to popery that we now see our land reddened with the blood of her noblest sons." – Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865; 16th President of the United States)

"Despite a declared neutrality [during the American Civil War of 1861-65], the 'Holy See' [i.e., the Papacy] was secretly aiding and abetting the Confederacy in the hope of dividing Christian America.

The degree to which the Vatican could affect [President] Lincoln's war measures was astounding. [Roman] Catholic citizens in the north aligned with their southern brethren by voting Democratic, dodging or defending slavery and by opposing Lincoln on all fronts. Irish [Roman Catholic] federals [i.e., federal troops] deserted in droves after learning that their 'Holy Father', Pope Pius IX, had dispatched an official communiqué of support to [Confederate President] Jefferson Davis, addressing him as 'Illustrious and Honorable President of the Confederate States of America'. When the retreating forces from [Confederate General] Lee's debacle at Gettysburg [Pennsylvania in July 1863] should have been crushed on the banks of the swollen Potomac [River], Lincoln's [Roman] Catholic [Union Army] commander, General George Meade, 'conveniently' diverted a third of his army to securing New York City during the infamous 'Draft Riots', perpetrated by the rampaging parishioners of [Roman Catholic] Archbishop [John] Hughes."

Dr. William P. Grady

((Ed. Comment: It was quite apparent that Union General Meade allowed General Lee's defeated army to escape, thus prolonging this bloody war and the carnage that continued for almost two more years.))

"It would seem that the Jesuits had had it in mind, from the beginning of the war [the American Civil War of 1861-1865], to find an occasion for the taking off [i.e., the assassination] of Mr. [Abraham] Lincoln." – Thomas M. Harris (U.S. Army Brigadier General; Author of the book Rome's Responsibility for the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln)

"These facts, as developed on the trial of the conspirators before a military commission, and on the trial of John H. Surratt two years later [in 1867], before a civil court...show conclusively the hand of Rome in this stab [i.e., the assassination of President Lincoln] at our nation's life." – Brigadier General Thomas M. Harris

"Right after [President] Lincoln's death [via an assassin's bullet], John [Harrison] Surratt, who was part of the assassination conspiracy, fled [Ed. Note: with the help of Roman Catholic priests] to Montreal [in Canada]. From Montreal [Ed. Note: again with the help of Roman Catholic clergy] he was taken to Liverpool, England and then to Rome. When a United States official finally caught up with him, he was found in the Pope's personal army [i.e., the Pope's Zouave bodyguard unit]. A conspirator in the assassination of [U.S. President] Abraham Lincoln was a member of the Pope's personal army!"

Bill Hughes (Author of the books The Secret Terrorists and The Enemy Unmasked)

H. The Vatican's Hatred of Religious Liberty and the U.S. Constitution in Her Own Words and in the Words of Others

"The unrestrained freedom of thinking and of openly making known one's thoughts is not inherent in the rights of citizens and is by no means worthy of favor and support."

Pope Gregory XVI

"These false and perverse opinions [of democracy and individual freedom] are so much the more detestable, by as much as they...hinder and banish that salutary influence which the [Roman] Catholic Church, by the institution and command of her Divine Author, ought freely to exercise, even to the consummation of the world, not only over individual men, but [over] nations, [over] peoples, and [over] sovereigns." (Quanta Cura; December 8, 1864)

Pope Pius IX (1792-1878; pope: 1846-1878)

“The State has not the right to leave every man free to embrace whatever religion he should deem true.

...The [Roman Catholic] Church has the right to require that the Catholic religion shall be the religion of the State, to the exclusion of all others.

...Cursed be those who assert liberty of conscience and of worship and such that maintain that the [Roman Catholic] Church may not employ force.”

The Syllabus of Pope Pius IX (December 1864)

“No man has a right to choose his religion. Catholicism is the most intolerant of creeds. It is intolerance itself. We might as rationally maintain that two and two does not make four as the theory of Religious Liberty. Its impiety is only equaled by its absurdity.” (1864)

John Hughes (Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York)

((What now follows is some proof of this hatred of religious liberty, freedom of conscience, and/or representative government that has appeared in several Roman Catholic publications.))

“...We do not accept it [i.e., the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America], or hold it to be any government at all... If the American Republic is to be sustained and preserved at all, it must be by the rejection of the principle of the [Protestant] Reformation, and the acceptance of the Catholic principle...”

Catholic World (August 1871; page 735)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Let me get this straight: If we want our American Republic “to be sustained and preserved at all”, then this can only take place if we reject “the principle of the [Protestant] Reformation” (i.e., religious liberty for all, freedom of conscience, and freedom of the press) and accept “the Catholic principle” (i.e., no religious liberty, ecclesiastical tyranny, and the extermination of all who disagree with the Catholic principle)? That’s certainly an interesting choice!))

“Fascism is the regime that corresponds most closely to the concepts of the Church of Rome.” – Civiltà Cattolica (House organ of the Jesuits)

“The [Roman Catholic] church has persecuted. Only a tyro [i.e., novice] in church history will deny that...one hundred and fifty years after [Roman Emperor] Constantine, the Donatists were persecuted and sometimes put to death. ...Protestants were persecuted in France and Spain with the full approval of the [Roman Catholic] church authorities. ...When she [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church] thinks it good to use physical force, she will use it.”

The Western Watchman (A Roman Catholic publication out of St. Louis)

“Have not the popes [e.g., Pope Pius IX in his Syllabus of Errors] publicly and repeatedly anathematized the sacred principle of Liberty of Conscience? Have they not boldly said, in the teeth of the nations of Europe, that Liberty of Conscience must be destroyed – killed at any cost? Has not the whole world heard the sentence of death to liberty coming from the lips of the old man of the Vatican [i.e., the pope]?”

Charles Chiniquy (Ex-Catholic priest; personal friend of President Abraham Lincoln)

“The Constitution of the United States was condemned by the Papacy because it separated church and state and prohibited the establishment of any religion [Ed. Note: as an official State-sponsored religion] by the government. The popes, on the other hand, had long required governments to make Roman Catholicism the official religion and to prohibit the practice of any other.” – Dave Hunt (Author of numerous books)

“During a sermon in 1850, [Roman Catholic] Archbishop John Hughes of New York, the nation’s leading Vatican spokesman, acknowledged that a conspiracy to subjugate free America did exist after all. The Catholic press was ecstatic. An excerpt from ‘Shepherd of the Valley’, the official journal of the [Roman Catholic] Bishop of St. Louis, declared, ‘If Catholics ever gain a sufficient numerical majority in this country, religious freedom is at an end. So our enemies say, so we believe.’ [Catholic Archbishop] Hughes’ own paper, the ‘New York Freeman’ brazenly announced, ‘No man has a right to choose his religion.’” – Dr. William P. Grady

I. Vatican Involvement in World War II (Fomenting the War; Supporting Fascist Regimes; Aiding & Abetting Religious Genocide, etc.):

Please carefully consider the following quotations:

“The public is practically unaware of the overwhelming responsibility carried by the Vatican and its Jesuits in the starting of two world wars – a situation which may be explained in part by the gigantic finances at the disposition of the Vatican and its Jesuits, giving them power in so many spheres, especially since the last conflict.”

Edmond Paris (Author of the book The Secret History of the Jesuits)

“The [Roman Catholic] priests and the faithful must unhesitatingly uphold the great German state [i.e., Nazi Germany], and the Fuehrer [i.e., Adolph Hitler] whose struggle to set up [Nazi] Germany’s power, honor and prosperity is in accord with the wishes of Providence.”

Cardinal Innitzer (Roman Catholic Cardinal; Jesuit; Archbishop of Vienna, Austria)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Austrian Cardinal Innitzer (a Jesuit), the highest-ranking Roman Catholic prelate in Austria, thus lent the full support of the Catholic Church in Austria to the German fuehrer, Adolph Hitler. Cardinal Innitzer made this declaration in favor of the Nazis just a few days after Nazi Germany invaded Austria on March 12, 1938. Innitzer’s declaration was printed in German newspapers on March 15, 1938.))

“I have learnt most of all from the Jesuit Order. ...So far, there has been nothing more imposing on earth than the hierarchical organization of the [Roman] Catholic Church. A good part of that organization I have transported direct to my own [Nazi] party. ...The Catholic Church must be held up as an example. ...I will tell you a secret. I am founding an order [Ed. Note: the Nazi SS]. ...In [Heinrich] Himmler [who would become head of the Nazi SS] I see our Ignatius de Loyola [Ed. Note: the founder of the Jesuit Order].”

Adolph Hitler (1889-1945; Nazi leader and chancellor of Germany from 1933-1945)

“The German author Walter Hagen gives also this discreet information: ‘The Jesuits’ [Superior] General, Count Halke von Ledochowski, was ready to organize, on the common basis of anti-communism, some collaboration between the German Secret Service and the Jesuit Order.’

As a result, within the SS Central Security Service, an organization was created, and most of its main posts were held by Catholic priests wearing the black uniform of the [Nazi] SS. The Jesuit [priest] ‘father’ Himmler [uncle of Heinrich Himmler] was one of its superior officers.” – Edmond Paris (author of the book The Secret History of the Jesuits)

“...Kurt Heinrich Himmler [was] chief of the Gestapo [i.e., the secret police force of the German Nazi state], which meant he held in his hand the essential reins of power of the [Nazi] regime. Was it his personal merits which earned him such a high position? Did Hitler see in him a superior genius when he compared him [i.e., Heinrich Himmler] to the creator of the Jesuit Order [i.e., Ignatius of Loyola]? It is certainly not what the testimonies of those who knew him imply, as they saw in him nothing more than mediocrity.

Was that ‘star’ [of Heinrich Himmler] shining with a borrowed ‘brightness’? Was it really Kurt Heinrich Himmler, the ostensible [i.e., apparent] chief, who actually reigned over the Gestapo and the secret services? Who was sending millions of people, deported for political reasons, and Jews to their death? Was it the flat-faced nephew or [was it] the [Jesuit priest] uncle, the former Canon at the Court of Bavaria, one of [Jesuit Superior General] Ledochowski's favorites, a Jesuit 'father' and superior officer of the [Nazi] SS?"

Edmond Paris

"The declaration of [Roman Catholic Jesuit] Monseigneur [Ed. Note: French spelling of 'Monsignor'] Tiso, chief of the Slovakian state, stating his intention to build up Slovakia according to a Christian [sic] plan, has the full approval of the Holy See [i.e., the Papacy]."

Radio Vatican (June 1940)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: This Jesuit monster (Tiso) was put into power by Hitler's Nazi Germany, with the blessings of the Vatican. Tiso, using his 'Christian' plan, brutally persecuted Protestants and Jews in Slovakia, sending them to concentration camps!))

"To talk about [Roman] Catholic 'fifth columnists' sounds discriminatory. Yet, one generation ago, Catholic minorities helped to destroy democratic Europe. This they did by cooperating with Hitler.

...Again, who were gathered inside the 'Trojan Horses' to help Hitler topple the political and, yes, even the military structures of Belgium and France? Once more we find individual [Roman] Catholic leaders or [Roman] Catholic groups intimately connected with the hierarchies and therefore, with the Vatican and Pope Pius XII.

...In France, we meet a Papal knight, Pierre Laval; a Jesuit-trained general, Weygand; and another prominent Catholic, Marshal Petain. ...If active Catholic minorities contributed to the disintegration of European democracy, an active Catholic minority could do the same in the United States." (From his book The Vatican Moscow Washington Alliance)

Avro Manhattan (Author of numerous books)

"The Jesuits, in control of [Adolph] Hitler's occultic and homosexual Third Reich..., installed puppet dictators throughout Europe. They were:

Bavarian Germany and the Third Reich – [Adolph] Hitler [born-died: 1889-1945]

Italy – [Benito] Mussolini [born-died: 1883-1945]

'Vichy' France – [Henri Philippe] Petain [born-died: 1856-1951]

Spain – [Francisco] Franco

Austria – Seyss-Inquart

Poland – Frank

Slovakia – [Jesuit] Priest Tiso

Croatia – [Ante] Pavelitch ((Ed. Note: alternate spelling: Pavelic))

Belgium – Degrelle.

All these Roman Catholic, Jesuit-controlled, Jew-hating dictators were loyal to the greatest war criminal of all, Papal Caesar Pius XII and his master, Jesuit [Superior] General Wlodimir Ledochowski.”

Eric Jon Phelps (Author of the book Vatican Assassins)

“...Here [in Croatia in the 1940s] the [Roman] Catholic Church [erected] a State in complete accord with all her tenets. The result was a monster standing upon the armed might of twin totalitarianisms: the totalitarianism of a ruthless Fascist State and the totalitarianism of [Roman] Catholicism...

What gives to such a creature of Vatican diplomacy its peculiar importance is that here we have an example of the Catholic Church’s implementing all her principles, unhampered by opposition, or by fear of world opinion.

The uniqueness of the Independent Catholic State of Croatia lies precisely in this: that it provided a model, in miniature, of what the Catholic Church, had she the power, would like to see in the West and, indeed, everywhere. As such it should be carefully scrutinized. For its significance...is of the greatest import to all the freedom-loving peoples of the world.”

(From his book The Vatican’s Holocaust)

Avro Manhattan

“This [Ed. Note: her booklet “Ravenging Wolves”] is the record of torture and murder committed in Europe in 1941-1945 by an army of [Roman] Catholic Actionists known as the Ustashi, led by monks and priests, and even participated in by nuns. The [innocent Serb Orthodox Christian] victims suffered and died in the cause of liberty and freedom of conscience. The least we can do is to read the record of their sufferings and keep in mind that it happened, not in the dark ages, but in our ENLIGHTENED [Ed. Note: emphasis in original] generation. Ustashi is another name for Catholic Action.”

Monica Farrell (Author of the booklet “Ravenging Wolves”)

“[John Cornwell’s book Hitler’s Pope is] a devastating refutation of the claim that this Pope’s [i.e., Pius XII (pope: 1939-1958)] diplomacy can in any way be characterized as wisdom. Instead of a portrait of a man worthy of sainthood, Cornwell [in his book Hitler’s Pope] lays out the story of a narcissistic, power-hungry manipulator [i.e., Pope Pius XII] who was prepared to lie, to appease, and to collaborate in order to accomplish his ecclesiastical purpose – which was not to save lives or even to protect the Catholic Church, but, more narrowly, to protect and advance the power of the papacy.”

James Carroll (Writer, Atlantic Monthly)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Author John Cornwell is a Roman Catholic who had unprecedented access to Vatican and Jesuit archives. His research showed him that Pope Pius XII was not even close to being a “saint”, but rather that this pope was indeed a “narcissistic, power-hungry manipulator” as James Carroll has written.))

“In Hitler’s Pope, award-winning journalist John Cornwell shows that Eugenio Pacelli, Pope Pius XII, was instrumental in negotiating an accord that helped the Nazis rise to unhindered power – and sealed the fate of the Jews in Europe.

Drawing upon secret Vatican and Jesuit archives to which he had unprecedented access, Cornwell tells the full, tragic story of how narcissism, long-standing personal antipathy for the Jews, and political and ‘spiritual’ ambition combined to make Pius the most dangerous churchman in history. Not just a firm and final indictment of Pius XII’s papacy, Hitler’s Pope is also a searing exploration of its lingering consequences for the Catholic Church today.”

(Quote was taken from the back cover John Cornwell’s book Hitler’s Pope)

“When thousands of German anti-Nazis were tortured to death in Hitler’s concentration camps, when the Polish intelligentsia was slaughtered, when hundreds of thousands of Russians died as the result of being treated as Slavic Untermenschen [subhumans], and when 6,000,000 human beings were murdered for being ‘non-Aryan’, [Roman] Catholic Church officials in Germany bolstered the [Nazi] regime perpetrating these crimes. The Pope [Pius XII] in Rome, the spiritual head and supreme moral teacher of the Roman Catholic Church, remained silent.

In the face of these greatest of moral depravities which mankind has been forced to witness in recent centuries, the moral teachings of a Church [allegedly] dedicated to love and charity could be heard in no other form but vague generalities.”

Guenter Lewy (Author of the book The Catholic Church and Nazi Germany)

“Without the deadening hand of Vatican control, resistance might have been multiplied across the country [i.e., Nazi Germany during World War II] from the outset. And had Catholic officialdom, from the outset, not turned a blind eye to the expanding anti-Semitic propaganda and persecution, the terrible disaster that befell the Jews might never have occurred.”

John Cornwell (Author of the book Hitler’s Pope: The Secret History of Pius XII)

The above quotations are but a small portion of those showing Vatican and Jesuit involvement in World War II that I could have listed. Not only did the Vatican help to foment World II, but also she and her Jesuit Order carefully orchestrated much of the bloodshed – including religious genocide – that occurred in that horrible war.

Many people tell us that we should never forget the Jewish Holocaust – and we shouldn't. But what about the horrible religious genocide that the Vatican and her agents carried out in Croatia, where from 600,000 to one million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children were butchered by a Roman Catholic militia (the Ustashi) that was led by Roman Catholic clergymen? Shouldn't there be some remembrance of that holocaust?

Why isn't this part of World War II history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

J. Vatican Involvement in the Vietnam War

Far too few Americans are aware of the major role that the Vatican played in the Vietnam War – a war that cost America 58,167 killed and 365,000 wounded.

Here is what pastor and author, Ron Hembree, had to say about the Vietnam War:

"On this day [Ed. Note: June 23rd] in 1968, the Vietnam War became the longest war in American history, beginning in 1957 and ending in 1975. About 58,000 American military personnel died in the war, and about 300,000 were wounded. South Vietnamese deaths topped one million. North Vietnamese losses ranged between 500,000 and one million, in addition to countless civilians killed. The United States spent over $150 billion on the war. Bombing alone cost four times more than the combined U.S.-British bombing of Germany in World War II. The war made refugees of up to 10 million South Vietnamese, or about half the country's population."

Here are some quotes from Avro Manhattan – the first two quotes are from his book The Dollar and the Vatican, and the remaining quotes are from his book The Vatican's Holocaust:

"The role played by the Vatican in the Vietnam War (1956-1976) was not only important, it was decisive. ...Since without the Vatican such a war would have never occurred.

Initially, the Vietnam conflict had nothing to do with the USA. ...It had been a problem dealing exclusively with French colonialism. The defeat of France during the Second World War (1940-1945) had inspired Indo-Chinese national aspirations for ultimate independence from French Imperialism throughout Asia.

...The Vatican opposed the move [for an independent Vietnam] since it wished to retain and to control the former French colonies; to that effect it plotted the setting up of a Vietnam controlled by Vietnamese [Roman] Catholics [Ed. Note: who were a very small minority].

...[The Vatican] plotted for a territorial split which divided the country into North and South.

...Whereas the North remained a Communist enclave, the South turned into the territorial and political domain of three fanatical Catholic brothers.

These three [brothers] formed a kind of triumvirate, whereas one became the president, known as President Diem; the second became Chief of Police; and the third [Ed. Note: the Archbishop of Hue] controlled the Church. The brotherly triumvirate in this manner came to control the political, ecclesiastical, and police machinery of the whole country – a control which they kept with an iron fist until two of them were murdered three years later.”

“...It was the Vatican, with the help of the U.S. Catholic lobby headed by Cardinal Spellman, that initially propelled [Roman Catholic] Diem into power [in South Vietnam]. The powerful trio, namely [Pope] Pius XII, Cardinal Spellman, and John Foster Dulles, were behind the setting up of a semi-totalitarian regime in South Vietnam from its inception.”

((The following quotes are from Manhattan’s book The Vatican’s Holocaust.)):

"The Vietnamese tragedy [to include the Vietnam War] was precipitated by a zealous Catholic trio formed by a Catholic President [Ngo Dinh Diem], a Catholic head of the Secret Police [Ngo Dinh Nhu], and a Catholic Archbishop [Ngo Dinh Thuc – Archbishop of Hue]. All [three of these men] were determined to impose the religious and political writ of the [Roman Catholic] Church upon a non-Christian culture."

"President Diem was a fanatical Catholic who ruled South Vietnam with an iron fist. He transformed the presidency into a virtual Catholic dictatorship, which he used to crush his religious and political opponents with the utmost ruthlessness.

He persecuted non-Catholics, and particularly the Buddhists. By his discriminatory methods he caused the disruption of the [South Vietnamese] army and the [South Vietnamese] government. This eventually was to lead to the USA's military intervention in South Vietnam.

He [President Diem] ruled with the spiritual and political terrorization of his two equally fanatical Catholic brothers, the Chief of the Secret Police and the Archbishop of Hue.

President Diem had originally been 'planted' into the presidency by Cardinal Spellman and Pope Pius XII.

Buddhist monks committed suicide by fire, burning themselves alive in protest against his religious persecution."

"The jails were soon bursting with prisoners. The mass arrests became so numerous that finally it was necessary to open detention camps followed by additional ones euphemistically called 'internment camps'...

There followed massacres within and outside such detention sites, like those which took place at Mocay, Thanhphu, Soctrang, Cangiuoc, Dailoc, Duyxuyen, to mention only a few. Religious sects and racial minorities were persecuted, arrested, and whenever possible ELIMINATED.

Minority groups were exterminated or accepted the Catholic Church to save their lives."

"A certain clique at the Pentagon, inspired by another [clique] in the Central Intelligence Agency [CIA] with intimate links to the Catholic lobby in Washington [D.C.] and certain Cardinals in the USA, and consequently in perfect accord with the Vatican, had decided to have a staunch Catholic [as dictator] in South Vietnam."

And here's one more quote from Manhattan's book The Dollar and the Vatican:

"...The media of America [initially] remained strangely silent about the whole issue [of the Catholic persecution of Buddhists in South Vietnam]. When they were forced [Ed. Note: because so much of it was being reported in much of the rest of the world's media] to report the news of the persecutions of the Buddhists by the [Roman] Catholic [South Vietnamese President] Diem, either they gave them the smallest coverage, or minimized the whole issue when not slanting the news altogether. The Catholic-CIA-Diem lobby saw to it that the whole picture became effectively blurred lest the American people take action."

Why isn't this history taught to American school children? Who benefits by this history being kept from the American people, and who is so powerful in this country that they have, for the most part, been able to keep this history from the majority of the American people?

((For additional information on this topic, please read my TTT #64, entitled "The Vietnam War", on Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com.)

QUESTIONS: Where has all this history gone? What institution in America is so powerful and influential that she has been able to keep most of this information from the vast majority of the American people? Cui bono? (Who benefits?)

ANSWERS: Well, we can safely assume that it is NOT “the Jews” totally running America’s mainstream media and publishing (as some allege), for how would they “benefit” from protecting the Vatican and her Jesuits by erasing a whole lot of history that greatly soils the Vatican’s and the Jesuit Order’s reputations? No, it is quite clear “Who benefits” from this erasure of history – the Vatican and her Jesuit Order! The Vatican, using her many “secret agents” from the ranks of Opus Dei, the Jesuit Order, the Jesuits’ Knights of Malta, the Knights of Columbus, and Freemasonry (yes, the Jesuit Superior General, the “Black Pope”, controls the top levels of Freemasonry), has been able through massive infiltration of mainstream media and publishing to revise the history textbooks and encyclopedias in America, and in the process, whitewash her nefarious activities throughout the course of history. It is the Vatican and her Jesuit Order who “benefit”!

III. SUMMARY & CLOSING REMARKS

I have listed just a few examples of history that have been either greatly revised and/or have begun to disappear down a deep “memory hole”. There are so many others – a number of which I have written about in the past, such as Vatican involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy (and the subsequent cover-up) through her powerful Knights of Malta and top-level Freemasons. Another example is Jesuit and P2 Mason involvement in the murder of Pope John Paul I in 1978. Sadly, relatively few Americans are aware of these powerful players “behind the scenes” who have orchestrated these historical events!

To summarize the main points of this TTT newsletter:

History and the Papacy’s own words have shown us quite clearly that the Vatican hates religious liberty and loves ecclesiastical tyranny. History also clearly shows us that whenever Roman Catholicism becomes predominant in any nation, it “lobbies” (almost always successfully) the government of that nation to make Roman Catholicism the “State religion” to the exclusion of all others! History also shows us that the Vatican hates the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America (where religious liberty has flourished).

The plans to destroy America and her Constitutional Republic were made quite early in American history. Roman Catholic monarchs and the highest levels of the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy (to include a number of popes) CONSPIRED to stop religious liberty and representative government. Top Catholic leaders gathered in at least three largely secret meetings to discuss how to squash religious liberty and representative government wherever and whenever they appeared – whether on the European continent or in the United States of America. As already mentioned, these three secret historic meetings were:

The Congress of Vienna [Austria] from 1814 through 1815;

The secret meetings at Verona, Italy in 1822; and,

The secret meetings at Chieri, Italy in 1825.

Indeed, plans were carefully laid at these meetings for the takeover of the United States through infiltration of our government, our education system, our press and media, and even our non-Catholic Christian churches and seminaries. The same plans had earlier been used quite successfully on England. The degree to which most Americans are totally unaware of these three secret meetings (Vienna, Verona, and Chieri), Vatican and Jesuit involvement in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, the Vatican's involvement in fomenting both World War I and World War II, the Vatican's support of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy (and other Fascist states in Europe) during World War II, etc., speak volumes about how successful their takeover of America's history textbooks, publishing industry, press, and media has been!

We can go on pretending that there is no real threat from the Vatican's designs for world domination – to be at the head of one-world government and one-world religion, or we can do some research and study to find out the truth about the Vatican and her hatred of our most precious liberties. And that brings us to the next section, "What Can We Do?"

IV. WHAT CAN WE DO?

1. If you think that this issue of the TTT newsletter contains important information, then please make copies of it and give them away free-of-charge to others.

2. Please check out these two Internet web sites: www.tacklingthetoughtopics.net and www.calltodecision.com. Please read some of my TTT and ETI newsletters, especially "Death by Government and Death by Church" and "Bloody Hands & Wicked Hearts" that deal with religious genocide (to include Inquisition, papal crusades against Christians, 'holy' wars, etc.). Please also check out my TTT newsletters on "The Jesuits" (parts I through IV), and the series of TTT newsletters that I did on wars in which American troops fought. If you find that any of these newsletters contain important information, then please make copies of them to give to others. Also, please tell as many folks as you can about the above-listed web sites.

3. Please purchase good books that will tell you the truth about religious genocide, Inquisition, assassinations of heads of State, etc. Here are some that everyone should read:

(a.) Foxe's Book of Martyrs by John Foxe; 470 pages; $11 postpaid: This book contains the stories of many victims of ecclesiastical tyranny – stories of martyrs like John Huss, William Tyndale, Hugh Latimer, Nicholas Ridley, etc. These martyrs paid the ultimate price for opposing false doctrine – some being horribly tortured – some being slowly burned (roasted) at the stake. Their stories of courage must not be allowed to die. This book is "must read" for all Christians – both Catholics and non-Catholic Christians should learn the truth about ecclesiastical tyranny! To order a copy, please call "Power of Prophecy" toll-free at 1-800-234-9673. Or, make check or money order payable to "Power of Prophecy" and mail it to: Power of Prophecy // 1708 Patterson Road // Austin, TX 78733-6507.

(b.) 4. Many broadcast hosts (e.g., talk-show hosts) have in the past not discussed these “tough topics” concerning the Vatican and her Jesuits. Please get well informed on the sordid history of the Vatican and her Jesuits, and then please call in on these broadcasts and put these broadcast hosts “on the spot”. Be nice; however, don’t let them dismiss you quickly with broad-brush statements such as “It’s not the Catholics and it’s not the Jews [running the New World Order].” Point out key areas of history that show a clear pattern of torture, mass murder, and hatred for religious liberty and freedom of conscience by the Vatican – and, the Vatican’s hatred for our American Constitutional Republic. Please write letters to these broadcast hosts – send them faxes – send them E-mails – and do call into their broadcast programs. Please give them a name or two for suggested guests on their broadcasts. If they do not hear from a lot of us, then they will not think that this information needs to be openly and fully discussed “on air”. If they do not hear from a lot of us, then they may never find the needed courage to address these issues “on air”.

CLOSING QUOTES TO PONDER:

“If the American people could learn what I know of the fierce hatred of the priests of Rome against our institutions, our schools, our most sacred rights, and our so dearly bought liberties, they would drive them out as traitors.”

Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865; 16th President of the United States)

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: While the above statement has certainly not applied to all Roman Catholic priests residing in America, either past or present, it surely does apply to the top and middle levels of the Roman Catholic hierarchical system. A number of popes and other top-level Catholic prelates have condemned freedom of religion, conscience, and the press in the strongest words. For a good example of this hatred of liberty, please read Pope Pius IX’s Syllabus of Errors of 1864.))

“The legions of Rome are awesome. More than one million practicing Catholics make up the ranks of the Knights of Columbus. They are fraternally pledged to the ideal of bringing America under papal rule. They are powerful, wealthy, [and] loyal.” (1983; Smokescreens)

Jack Chick (Author and publisher)

“Let America again be forewarned as to Rome’s intention ‘to make America Catholic’.”

Larry Harrison (Publisher)

“Popes have been consistent in their declarations that freedom of religion should NOT exist, and that the Church of Rome represents the only true faith and therefore should alone be allowed to spread its doctrines.”

Larry Harrison

“...The Church of Rome, with its sixteen [Ed. Note: now approaching 17] centuries of intrigue, plans fifty or a hundred years ahead. The ultimate goal of the GREAT SCHEME is to throw the ‘lever of time’ back by restoring the Pope as the ‘universal arbiter’ from whom all the rulers of the earth must receive their authority to rule, as [occurred] during the Dark Ages.”

Burke McCarty (Author of the book The Suppressed Truth about the Assassination of Abraham Lincoln)

“Persecution of non-Catholics in Catholic-controlled countries should warn Americans as to what will happen here if the pope ever gains full control of this country. Rome never changes.” (March 16, 1960)

Raywood Frazier

((Ed. Comment to the preceding quote: Indeed, Catholic persecution (to include religious genocide on a massive scale) occurred as recently as the 1940s in the Catholic Fascist state of Croatia, where from 600,000 to one million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian men, women, elderly, and children were tortured, butchered, raped, brutalized, and murdered by a Catholic militia led by priests, monks, and friars of the Roman Catholic Church. Worst of all, the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church planned, orchestrated, and participated in this monstrous genocide. If you don't think this happened, then please read Avro Manhattan's book The Vatican's Holocaust – a book that includes photographs of both the innocent victims and the brutal clerical monsters of this vicious religious genocide.))

“Now more than any other time since the 16th century Reformation, God is looking for Christians to stand in the gap, to be watchmen, courageous enough to pay, as [Jan] Hus did, the flaming death of martyrdom. Remember: there is a battle to be fought (Ephesians 6:16-20). There is an enemy to be overcome (1 Peter 5:8, 9). There is a watch to maintain (Jude 3,4, [and] 17-23).” – Bartholomew F. Brewer (Ex-Roman Catholic priest of the Discalced Carmelite Order)

“Who will rise up for me against the evildoers, or who will stand up for me against the workers of iniquity?” (Psalm 96:16)

Title: DEATH BY GOVERNMENT AND DEATH BY CHURCH

CRAIG-OXLEY - February 2, 2007 02:38 AM (GMT)

Issue #72 // July 19, 2005 // Editor: Darryl Eberhart
((UPDATED & EXPANDED: July 21, 22 & 25, 2005))

“DEATH BY GOVERNMENT AND DEATH BY CHURCH”

(‘Innocents’ Betrayed by Those They Trusted!)
(And Christians Exterminated by the ‘Church’!)

<http://tacklingthetoughtopics.net/Eberhart...government.html>

((NOTE: All emphasis throughout this newsletter, unless otherwise noted, is by the editor of “Tackling the Tough Topics (TTT)”. Some issues of my TTT newsletters and my “Examining the Tough Issues (ETI)” newsletters can be read on the following three internet websites: tacklingthetoughtopics.net, calltodecision.com, and libertytothecaptives.net.

((NOTE: The reason for this update and expansion: I had wanted to keep the original printed “hardcopy” of this issue to 28 pages. I actually eliminated several large paragraphs (mostly editorial comments) in order to cut the original down to 28 pages from approximately 30 pages. While I will not be including those paragraphs cut prior to the original printing, I do want to make a few additions (i.e., especially several more good quotations) in this expanded issue. Hopefully, this update and expansion will be “improved” as well as expanded.)

((WARNING: This issue of TTT may seriously disturb some folks’ comfort zones.))

((DEDICATION: This issue of TTT is dedicated, in general, to all those who have made, and continue to make, efforts to warn folks about the very real danger of “genocide by government” and “genocide by Church”. A specific and very special dedication is made to “Jews for the Preservation of Firearms Ownership (JPFO)” for their outstanding documentary film entitled “Innocents Betrayed”.)

((Additional WARNING: Beware when “Church” and State combine in the enterprise of GENOCIDE!))

SOME DEFINITIONS:

(1) “Democide” (per Professor R.J. Rummel, author of the book Death by Government): “the murder of any person or people by a government, including genocide, politicide, and mass murder”

(2) “Genocide” (per Webster’s Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary): “the deliberate and systematic destruction of a racial, political, or cultural group”

(3) “Genocide” (per Professor R.J. Rummel, author of the book Death by Government): “among other things, the killing of people by a government because of their indelible group membership (race, ethnicity, religion, language)”

(4) “Genocide” (per Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn, authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE): “a form of one-sided mass killing in which a state or other authority [Ed. Note: such as a RELIGIOUS authority] intends to destroy a group, as that group and membership in it are defined by the perpetrator”

(5) “Heretic” (per Webster’s Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary): (a.) “a dissenter from established church dogma; especially: a baptized member of the Roman Catholic Church who disavows a revealed truth”; (b.) “one that dissents from an accepted belief or doctrine of any kind”

((Ed. Note: Webster’s 1828 American Dictionary of the English Language adds this critical and extremely important “caveat” for the term “heretic”: “In strictness, among Christians, a person who holds and avows religious opinions contrary to the doctrines of Scripture, the only rule of faith and practice.”))

((Ed. Comment to the preceding definition of “heretic”: It is quite easy for corrupt church officials to “label” a group of people (even an entire region or province) as “heretics”, and then to send armies to crush them. This has happened far too frequently in past centuries, and the culprit was the Vatican’s hierarchy.))

(6) “Holocaust” (per Webster’s Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary): (a.) “a sacrifice consumed by fire”; (b.) “a thorough destruction esp. by fire”

(7) “Mass Murder” (per Professor R.J. Rummel, author of the book Death by Government): “the indiscriminate killing of any person or people by a government”

(8) “Politicide” (per Professor R.J. Rummel, author of the book Death by Government): “the murder of any person or people by a government because of their politics or for political purposes”

(9) “Religicide” (per Darryl Eberhart, Editor of TTT): “the murder of any person or people by a religious organization or denomination because of religious differences between the victim and the perpetrator (often with the victim being falsely designated a ‘heretic’ by the perpetrator)”

HERE ARE SOME RELEVANT QUOTES:

“What happens when self-defense is against the law? What happens when the protectors become the predators? What happens when innocents are betrayed? [The answer]: 170,000,000 [murder victims].

In the 20th Century that’s how many innocents were slaughtered, tortured, starved, mutilated, worked to death, bayoneted, hanged, [and] annihilated at the hands of their governments! They had no means to defend themselves.”

As narrated by Dolcye Johnson in the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed”

(Script by Claire Wolfe)

“Once people accept being disarmed, they become surprisingly easy to control...and to kill. They have surrendered not only their weapons but [also] their independence.

When innocents are rendered so defenseless, the guilty can slaughter them with the most ordinary of weapons – a club, a knife, a pitchfork...”

As narrated by Dolcye Johnson in the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed”

(Script by Claire Wolfe)

“The mass murder by emperors, kings, sultans, khans, presidents, governors, generals, and other such rulers of their own citizens or of those under their protection or control is very much part of our history.”

Professor R.J. Rummel (author of the book Death by Government)

“[The JPFO documentary film] ‘Innocents Betrayed’ reveals the history of modern-day genocides. Other than the well-known Nazi German Holocaust, most of these genocides are unknown or forgotten. With the complicity of [the] mainstream media, the perpetrators have concealed some of these mass murders, and global humanitarian organizations seemed to have ignored others.

Most of these horrors – which have killed some 170,000,000 innocents – have one thing in common. They fit the ‘Genocide Formula’:

‘Hatred + Government + Disarmed Citizens = Genocide’.

Defenseless Americans are victims, too. ‘Innocents Betrayed’ shows also how slavery, persecution, lynching and murder have afflicted men, women and children in America who had no power, no defense tools.

The film delivers the facts that show how governments have deliberately murdered or enslaved their own people or have left them helpless to defend themselves against outside aggressors. In each case, the victims were first disarmed.

History can’t tell us how effectively victims would have or could have protected themselves if they had possessed firearms. But it can tell us that disarmament is necessary to make possible the mass murder of helpless citizens.”

“The founding fathers fully expected that Americans would be prepared at all times to fight a government when the government becomes the enemy of the people. The founding fathers fully expected that the people would rise up against that government.

...They [i.e., the founding fathers] expressly expected that people would take to arms and stop a government that ‘went too far’. So they built into the [U.S.] Constitution the 2nd Amendment [Ed. Note: that spells out our God-given right to keep and bear arms] to be sure that Americans would never become the disarmed subjects of this government – to make sure this government never became a ‘killer government’ – and to make sure that the scenes we saw in this film [i.e., “Innocents Betrayed” by JPFO] could never take place in America.”

Richard W. Stevens (Author; Attorney at Law)

((Ed. Note: The preceding quote was taken from an interview that was used as a trailer for the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed”..))

“Resistance to tyranny is obedience to God.” – William Tyndale (1492? -1536)

“He who passively accepts evil is as much involved in it as he who helps perpetuate it.”

Martin Luther King, Jr. (1929-1968)

“Genocide is horrible, an abomination of our species, and totally unacceptable. It is an obscenity – the evil of our time that all good people must work to eradicate.”

Professor R.J. Rummel (author of the book Death by Government)

I. INTRODUCTION

Americans absolutely must get informed about the numerous genocides that have been documented throughout history – including the many genocides of the 20th Century! And, Americans absolutely must get informed about the role that “gun control” played in many of these “more recent” genocides!

Why do we need to be informed about such grisly, barbaric events? We need to be informed because history has a very nasty (and frequent) habit of “repeating itself”.

For some reason, many Americans have been “conditioned” to believe that such things as genocide, a holocaust, or other types of barbaric mass slaughter could never happen here in America. Such thinking as this on the part of these Americans is not only unreasonable (showing a tremendous ignorance of history), but it is also extremely dangerous! It is extremely dangerous because an apathetic, complacent, and ignorant population is very easy to control – and when the authorities decide – to slaughter, especially after massive “gun control” has been implemented!

It is indeed helpful to read books on this topic of government-sponsored genocide. It is also very helpful to read books on the topic of Church-sponsored and Church-encouraged genocide! A number of such books will be recommended at the end of this newsletter, as well as a few within other sections of this issue of TTT. When one sees actual still photos – especially in color – of the innocent victims tortured, raped, maimed, dismembered, bayoneted, starved, and murdered in a multitude of barbarous fashions by their own governments, then one is better able to appreciate the great danger posed by Police States that have largely – or completely – disarmed their own civilian populations!

A few days ago I watched the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed” for the second time. I again saw many grisly photographs of the results of vicious genocide. That outstanding documentary film inspired this particular TTT newsletter. Every American should view this documentary film.

II. THE JPFO DOCUMENTARY FILM “INNOCENTS BETRAYED”

((Ed. Note: Direct quotes taken from the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed” are “italicized” within the text of Section II.))

A. Turkey (1915-1917): “Calculated Genocide”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 1,500,000 (targeted group: Armenian Christians)

The new rulers in Turkey say that “they want to rid the country of wrong and lawless ideas.” They also say that “they want to protect national security.” Translation: They want to “eliminate the Armenians in Turkey – by killing the Armenians.”

“In February 1915 Turkey’s political leaders and Moslem religious leaders make a detailed, secret plan to annihilate the largely Christian minority.”

The “Innocents Betrayed” documentary film by JPFO goes on to let us know that this brutal genocide that was committed against the Armenian people took place in carefully planned steps/stages. In the first step, thousands of Armenian men were drafted into the Turkish Army – and then separated from their military units and sent to labor camps “where they [were] worked to death, starved, and murdered in groups”. In the second step, Armenian civilians were relieved of their firearms – i.e., disarmed by “gun control”. And, in the final step, the deportations of Armenian civilians to remote camps in the desert began in earnest on June 26, 1915. Only a small percentage ever made it to these remote camps, since large numbers of Armenian men, women, and children were slaughtered and butchered on the way. Three quarters of the Armenian population in Turkey would perish in this brutal genocide.

((Ed. Note: A key point concerning this genocide is that the religious authorities cooperated with the government in planning this genocide!))

B. [The] Soviet Union (1929-1936):

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 10,000,000 (mainly by State-orchestrated starvation; targets: independent farmers – the majority of them in Soviet-controlled Ukraine)

In this brutal genocide we see the Communists using “starvation as a murder weapon”. The main regions affected were “the Ukraine, the Volga Basin, and the Caucasus”.

The Communists took power in Russia in 1917, and immediately “passed laws making it almost impossible for non-party members to own firearms”. Then, in 1929 Soviet dictator Josef Stalin “decrees that all livestock, produce, and farmland belong to the State. Farmers are ordered to surrender their land and livestock, and to move to government-owned collective farms.”

“First, to terrorize the rest into submission, several million of the most prosperous farmers are sent to forced labor [camps] or killed outright. These ‘Kulaks’ are demonized [by the Communists]. Because of ten years of firearms confiscation, farmers can only fight back with farm tools.” ((Ed. Comment: The U.S. government is aware of this history of “gun control” leading to horrible genocide, so WHY does our government push “gun control” so vigorously?))

“By 1932 [Soviet dictator] Stalin controls food supplies. He can cut off food distribution and starve entire regions. Because he controls all travel with internal passports [Ed. Note: just like “national identification cards”], his secret police can force starving millions to remain within the devastated areas.”

“Grain rots on the ground. The powerless people can do nothing to stop their master. ... 10 million defenseless lives [are] wiped out by starvation.”

By the way, here is a great example of how America’s mainstream media has been tightly controlled for decades: While millions starve to death in the Ukraine, New York Times Pulitzer Prize-winning Moscow correspondent Walter Duranty assures the world (and especially the Western press) that there is NO famine in the Soviet-controlled Ukraine. We indeed have an extremely controlled mainstream media in America, and if you doubt this, then please get a copy of the 381-page hardback book Into the Buzzsaw (which is edited by Kristina Borjesson). It deals with many journalists who had their stories “suppressed” by powerful individuals above them. This book is $29.45 postpaid. To order it by credit card, please call “Radio Liberty” at 800-544-8927. Or, make check or money order payable to “Radio Liberty” and mail it to: Radio Liberty // P.O. Box 969 // Soquel, CA 95073.

C. China (1934-1976): “Decades of Death”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 35,000,000 (minimum) ((possibly as high as 100,000,000))

“In 1935 the Nationalist government prohibits the private ownership of firearms.”

((Ed. Comment to preceding quote: Just as the German Weimar Republic’s “gun control” laws and lists of registered gun owners would later be used by the Nazis when they took control of Germany, so the Chinese Nationalist government’s “gun control” laws would later be used by the Communists when they took control of China! Beware of gun registration lists!))

“1942-1944: Four million die in famine aggravated by government confiscation of crops.”

The “Innocents Betrayed” documentary film by JPFO then goes on to show us a very horrible result of a disarmed civilian population: In 1937 the Chinese troops flee the city of Nanking without offering any kind of resistance to the advancing Japanese Army. The disarmed civilian population of Nanking is left to the “cruel mercies” of the Japanese soldiers. “Hundreds of thousands of children, women, sick, and old people are left to the Japanese [soldiers] – without self-defense.” [They are] “raped, buried alive, burned alive, used for bayonet practice, and forced to watch as their own organs are cut out of them.”

“The Communists take over in 1949 – they keep the population disarmed. During 38 years of Communist violence and economic ‘experiments’, they wipe out an additional 35 million Chinese – and possibly as many as 100 million. [And during all this time Red Chinese dictator] Mao [Tse-Tung] controls all the guns.”

D. Germany (1933-1945): “The Master Murderers”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: more than 11,000,000 die in concentration camps (targets: Jews, Gypsies, Slavs, and political and religious opponents)

((IMPORTANT Ed. Comment: Most of the so-called nominal ‘Christians’ in Germany (both Catholic and Protestant) either actively supported the Nazi killing machine or failed to speak out against it. Only a few Protestant ministers (such as Dietrich Bonhoeffer who was executed by hanging), and a few Catholic priests, had the courage to speak out against Hitler and his thugs. The Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy, in fact, supported both Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, signing Concordats with both of these wicked, totalitarian regimes. Additionally, the German Roman Catholic Zentrum Party was Hitler’s main political power base in Bavaria, and, under orders from the highest levels of the Catholic Church, helped put Hitler and his Nazi thugs into power. One of the key men in bringing Adolph Hitler to power was Jesuit-controlled Knight of Malta Franz von Papen.))

((Note: The 207-page hardback book Hitler’s Cross by Erwin W. Lutzer tells the sad story of the Christian Church’s failure, for the most part, to stand up against the murderous regime of Adolph Hitler’s Nazi thugs. It also includes stories about a few of the very small number of Christian clergymen who did have the guts to speak out against this monstrous, totalitarian regime. It is $15.45 postpaid. To order it, please make check or money order payable to “Radio Liberty” and mail it to: Radio Liberty // P. O. Box 969 // Soquel, CA 95073. Or, to order via credit card, please call toll-free 800-544-8927.))

1. Here’s what the JPFO documentary film “Innocents Betrayed” had, in part, to say about the genocide in Nazi Germany and Nazi German-controlled territories during World War II:

“In January 1933 Hitler [comes to power]. The 1928 gun registration lets the Nazis know who already owns guns.”

“In 1938 the Nazis create their own gun control law. Jews are forbidden to possess firearms, clubs, or sharp-edged weapons. Jews turn in their weapons or Nazis or police storm in to seize them. The disarmed Jews await slaughter – the National Identification cards and census data tell them just who is a Jew! A few days later 30,000 to 90,000 Jewish men – mostly leaders – are arrested and sent to concentration camps.”

((Ed. Question: Should we Americans be concerned about the tremendous database that has been compiled on us, and the push for every American to possess and show on demand his/her national identification card?))

“Three million German political opponents are imprisoned in concentration camps from 1933 through 1945. Five million Jews are slaughtered. [Those slaughtered also include] Gypsies, Slavs, the disabled... More than eleven million total die in concentration camps.”

2. The following are some additional comments that Editor of TTT would like to make to the Nazi German genocide of World War II:

a. The papacy was up to its eyeballs in complicity with the totalitarian regimes in Germany, Italy, Croatia, and elsewhere in Europe. If you don't think so, then you need to read the book Hitler's Pope: The Secret History of Pius XII. This book was written by John Cornwell, a Catholic historian and journalist. (The book's publisher is the Penguin Group; its ISBN is 0-14-029627-1. This New York Times “Bestseller” is currently out-of-print. Check your local library or try the Internet to locate a used copy.) Cornwell exposes Pope Pius XII's instrumental role in negotiating an accord that helped the Nazis rise to power in Germany. Here is what the back cover of this 426-page paperback book states, in part:

“In [the book] Hitler's Pope, award-winning journalist John Cornwell shows that Eugenio Pacelli, Pope Pius XII, was instrumental in negotiating an accord that helped the Nazis rise to unhindered power – and sealed the fate of the Jews in Europe.

Drawing upon secret Vatican and Jesuit archives to which he had unprecedented access, Cornwell tells the full, tragic story of how narcissism, long-standing personal antipathy for the Jews, and political and ‘spiritual’ ambition combined to make Pius the most dangerous churchman in history. Not just a firm and final indictment of Pius XII's papacy, Hitler's Pope is also a searing exploration of its lingering consequences for the Catholic Church today.”

Here are a few quotes concerning this book and Pope Pius XII from the inside front cover of the book Hitler's Pope:

“A devastating indictment of Pius [XII] as guilty of moral treachery so grave that it defames his papacy and should deny his elevation to sainthood...”

The Philadelphia Inquirer

“As [John] Cornwell brilliantly demonstrates, Pius XII brought the authoritarianism and the centralization of his predecessors to their most extreme stage... Nowadays we may not know what a saint should be, but we do know what a saint should not be – a man of narrow spirit and heart, a man who could not find at the very least a ‘candid word’ when millions of human beings from all corners of Europe, some of them from under his own windows, were led to their systematic extermination.” – Saul Friedlander, Los Angeles Times

“[The book] Hitler's Pope reads like a thriller as it takes us through the high-powered negotiations and international crises from an unusual perspective... Given the campaign to beatify Pius XII, this meticulous, persuasive and impassioned book is disturbing in its presentation of a profoundly flawed man obsessed with absolute papal authority no matter what the consequences for others.” – Detroit Free Press

“[This book provides] a devastating refutation of the claim that this Pope’s [i.e., Pius XII’s] diplomacy can in any way be characterized as wisdom. Instead of a portrait of a man worthy of sainthood, Cornwell lays out the story of a narcissistic, power-hungry manipulator who was prepared to lie, to appease, and to collaborate in order to accomplish his ecclesiastical purpose – which was not to save lives or even to protect the Catholic Church, but, more narrowly, to protect and advance the power of the papacy.” – James Carroll, Atlantic Monthly

b. Not only did the Vatican support these totalitarian Nazi and Fascist regimes, but also followed up this gross sin against mankind by helping many of the Nazi and Fascist war criminals (who had helped to slaughter millions) to escape punishment at the end of World War II. This was accomplished through what has become known as the Vatican Ratlines, where Catholic prelates, with the full support of the Vatican’s hierarchy, helped move these Nazi and Fascist war criminals through monasteries and other Catholic holdings to safety – even to Rome itself – and then on to such countries as Argentina and the United States of America. Some of these criminals even ended up in our own Central Intelligence Agency, such as Jesuit-controlled Knight of Malta, Nazi German General Reinhard Gehlen!

c. Hundreds of thousands of Germans (mostly Protestants) were murdered and died in predominantly Protestant Northern Germany during World War II because of the brutal firebombing of civilians in major cities! Millions of Germans (mostly Protestants) died in massive forced emigration from former Prussia (predominantly Protestant Northeastern Germany) and in Allied (especially U.S.) concentration camps in West Germany after hostilities ceased at the end of World War II!

E. Cambodia (1975-1979): “Purifying a Nation through Slaughter”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 2,000,000 (1/4 of the population; targets: Vietnamese, religious leaders, political enemies, professionals, intellectuals, and students)

“In 1975 the Communist Khmer Rouge seize power. ...[The Communists] had strict ‘gun control’. [The civilian population is subjected to] forced mass evacuation of cities, and are herded onto collective farms. Many are slaughtered – all of Cambodia is turned into a concentration camp.”

The only thing that mercifully stopped this horrendous slaughter was an invasion by Vietnam in 1979, which quickly led to the fall of the murderous Khmer Rouge government.

F. Uganda (1971-1979): “The Hidden Genocide”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 300,000 (mostly Christians plus rival tribes)

Prior to dictator Idi Amin’s rise to power in Uganda, the previous government had passed stringent “gun control” laws. Amin was able to take advantage of these “gun control” laws when he went after his ‘enemies’. “300,000 undefended people die” in this Ugandan genocide.

G. Rwanda (1994): “The 100-Day Genocide”

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 800,000 (mostly members of the Tutsi tribe)

The population of Rwanda in 1994 was approximately 90% Hutu and 9% Tutsi. When the Belgians had controlled the region, the Tutsis had held many of the key government positions. However, by 1994 “the Hutu regime has been in power for years. On April 1, 1994 armed Hutu gangs participate in the slaughter [of Tutsis]. They had been issued weapons for the purpose.”

The “Innocents Betrayed” documentary film by JPFO goes on to let us know that gun registration and gun permits enabled the authorities to know who in the country was armed. Soldiers checking national identification cards at checkpoints were able to identify who was a Hutu and who was a Tutsi – and if you were a Tutsi, you were lucky if a quick death was your fate!

H. Other Genocides:

(1) Guatemala – 1980s – target: Mayan Indians – 200,000 murdered

(2) Tibet – late 20th Century until present – target: Buddhists – 1,000,000 murdered

(3) Bangladesh (formerly East Pakistan) – 1971 – targets: Hindus, students, and intellectuals – one and a half million perish

((The “Innocents Betrayed” documentary film by JPFO goes on to briefly describe two late 20th Century genocides that are still ongoing: the Sudan and Zimbabwe. It also gives us a number of examples of the “ill effects” of “gun control” here in America – to include the “gun control” laws that were used against American black slaves for many decades. This documentary film, available in VHS or DVD format, is an absolute “must-see” for every American. See the last section for information on how to order it.))

III. GENOCIDE – MORE EXAMPLES

IMPORTANT NOTE: Governments are not the only perpetrators of genocide.

Governments often are urged on by religious authorities – and frequently take their orders from the religious authorities (e.g., a powerful Church). Indeed, history has shown us that elements at the top levels of the Roman Catholic Church have instigated, choreographed, orchestrated, participated in, and led some of the most brutal genocides of the past 1000 plus years! It would be appropriate here to review one of the definitions given at the beginning of this newsletter for the term “genocide”:

“Genocide” (per Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn, authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE): “a form of one-sided mass killing in which a state or other authority [Ed. Note: such as a RELIGIOUS authority] intends to destroy a group, as that group and membership in it are defined by the perpetrator”

A. Albigenses, Waldenses, French Huguenots, and Irish Protestants:

(1) The Albigenses:

Webster’s 1828 American Dictionary of the English Language states in part concerning the Albigenses: “A party of Reformers, who separated from the church of Rome, in the 12th Century; so called from the Albegeois, a small territory in France, where they resided. ...The Catholics made war upon them...”

According to the World Scope Encyclopedia, 1955, the Albigenses were “a religious sect organized in the 12th Century, and which was formerly well represented in France”. It states further: “In 1209 a severe war broke out between them and their allies on one side and the Catholics on the other.”

Frank Chalk and Kurt Jonassohn, authors of the book The History and Sociology of GENOCIDE, tell us the following:

“The Albigensian Crusades slash through the history of France and of the Church like a gaping wound. From 1208 to 1226 the papacy sent army after army to the South of France to crush the Albigensian ‘heretics’ and to punish their supporters. ...They [i.e., the Vatican-ordered Albigensian Crusades] began with a calculated act of terror, the massacre of [Ed. Note: large numbers of men, women, and children at] Beziers; they ended with the establishment of the Inquisition, one of the most effective means of ‘thought control’ that Europe has ever known. ((Ed. Comment: The papal army butchered about 20,000 citizens of this French city populated then mainly by the Albigenses.)) They [the papal armies] were completely successful: The losing faith, the Albigensian ‘Heresy’, was exterminated.

...Their disappearance as a social group was carefully planned and executed with persistent cruelty.”

Henry H. Halley, in his book Pocket Bible Handbook, states, in part:

“[The Albigenses] preached against the immoralities of the [Catholic] priesthood, pilgrimages, worship of saints and idols...opposed the claims of the Church of Rome; made great use of the Scriptures.

...By 1167 they [i.e., the Albigenses] embraced possibly a majority of the population of South France.

...In 1208 a crusade was ordered by Pope Innocent III; a bloody war of extermination followed, scarcely paralleled in history. Town after town was put to the sword, and the inhabitants murdered without distinction of age or sex.

...Within a hundred years the Albigenses were utterly rooted out.” (This excerpt by Halley was taken from Dave Hunt’s book A Woman Rides the Beast.)

Here is a short and applicable excerpt from a July 13, 2005 letter of mine:

“These religious crusades [carried out by armies dispatched by order of the Vatican] and [accompanying] genocide (frequently in the form of State-Church genocide) were often directed at innocent peasants and farmers (e.g., Albigenses, Waldenses, French Huguenots, etc.) whose only ‘crimes’ were placing the Bible in higher authority than the pope, and refusing to recognize papal authority. These innocent people were falsely called ‘heretics’ [by the Roman Catholic hierarchy]. Papal armies were raised (often using murderers, rapists, etc., who had been released from prisons) and sent to exterminate entire villages and regions.”

The Albigenses were Bible-believing Christians who were, for the most part, moral, hard-working farmers and peasants who no longer wanted any part of the cesspool of corruption that existed within the Vatican and much of its priesthood. They studied Bible verses wherever and whenever they could, and they placed the Holy Bible of GOD above papal authority. In general it may be said that they lived much more moral lives than many of their Roman Catholic neighbors.

Why did the Roman Catholic Church’s hierarchy hate these simple farmers and peasants so passionately? It was because they were losing members from the Roman Catholic Church to these so-called “heretical sects”. When many Catholics saw how moral, honest, and hardworking such peoples as the Albigenses were compared to many of their own Church members and clergy, they decided that maybe there was something better than what their own belief system offered them. Bottom line: The pope’s authority and power base – and most importantly, his financial base – were being threatened by defections of the “faithful”. As more and more parts of Europe looked as though they might “defect” from the Catholic Church’s fold, the Church responded with barbaric crusades, religious wars, genocide, and Inquisition!

(2) The Waldenses (also known as the Vaudois):

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: No less than 900,000 murdered (just in the period 1540-1570)

Webster’s New World Dictionary, Second College Edition (1974) states the following concerning the Waldenses:

“A sect of dissenters from the Roman Catholic Church which arose about 1170 in S [outhern] France: excommunicated in 1184, they survive in the Alps of France and Italy.”

The World Scope Encyclopedia, 1955, states, in part, the following about the Waldenses:

“A Christian sect founded in Italy by Petrus Waldus (Peter Waldo), an influential merchant of Lyons. ((Ed. Comment: This Christian group was around prior to Peter Waldo.)) He became the leader of a considerable number who looked upon the [Roman Catholic] Church and the clergy as corrupt and went forth to preach with the view of bringing about a reformation, though not intending to secede from the established organization [i.e., the Roman Catholic Church].

...His French followers, the so-called Paupers of Lyons, later united with the Humiliates of Milan, a similar sect.

The Archbishop of Lyons published a command charging that Waldo's followers refrain from further activity. They [i.e., the Waldenses] appealed to Pope Alexander III, but he prohibited their meetings. At many [Roman Catholic] church councils, beginning in 1179 and continuing through the whole 13th Century, their [i.e., the Waldenses'] teaching was condemned, especially because of the stress they placed on the Bible and because they allowed laymen to preach. ((Ed. Comment: This threatened the Church's monopoly on the priesthood as the sole dispensers of 'truth'. Such a monopoly is a dangerous affair for real Christians when many in the priesthood are corrupt, and are ignorant of many Bible truths.))

Finally their followers concentrated in the valleys of Piedmont and Savoy. The reform movement continued and gained strength steadily until the 16th Century, when widespread persecutions took place. Pope Sixtus IV, in fact, had organized a crusade against them as early as 1477.

...The Waldenses hold the Bible as the only rule of faith..."

The Waldenses were Bible-believing Christians who were, for the most part, moral, hard-working farmers and peasants who no longer wanted any part of the cesspool of corruption that existed within the Vatican and much of its priesthood. They studied Bible verses wherever and whenever they could, and they placed the Holy Bible of GOD above papal authority. In general it may be said that they lived much more moral lives than many of their Roman Catholic neighbors.

Why did the Roman Catholic Church try to exterminate the Waldenses? It was for the same reasons that they had exterminated the Albigenses, and it is worth repeating:

The reason that the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy hated these simple farmers and peasants so passionately was that they were losing members from the Roman Catholic Church to these so-called "heretical sects". When many Catholics saw how moral, honest, and hardworking such peoples as the Waldenses were compared to many of their own Church members and clergy, they decided that maybe there was something better than what their own belief system offered them. Bottom line: The pope's authority and power base – and most importantly, his financial base – were being threatened by defections of the "faithful". As more and more parts of Europe looked as though they might "defect" from the Catholic Church's fold, the Church responded with barbaric crusades, religious wars, genocide, and Inquisition!

(3) The French Huguenots:

Here is a quotation from the excellent book Smokescreens by Jack T. Chick:

“On August 22, 1572, the bloody St. Bartholomew’s massacre began. This was to be one fatal blow to destroy the Protestant movement in France. The [Catholic] king of France had cleverly arranged a marriage between his sister and Admiral Coligny, the chief Protestant leader. There was a great feast with much celebrating. After four days of feasting, the soldiers were given a signal. At twelve o’clock midnight, all the houses of the Protestants in the city were forced open at once. The admiral was killed, his body thrown out of a window into the street where his head was cut off and sent to the pope.

...They also slaughtered many other well-known Protestants. In the first three days, over ten thousand were killed. The bodies were thrown into the river and blood ran through the streets into the river until it appeared like a stream of blood. ...From Paris, the destruction spread to all parts of the country. Over eight thousand more people were killed. Very few Protestants escaped the fury of the persecutors.”

The reasons for the Roman Catholic Church’s attempts to exterminate the French Huguenots are basically the same as those listed for the Albigenses and Waldenses.

(4) The Irish Protestants:

Here is a quotation from the excellent book Smokescreens by Jack T. Chick:

“A similar massacre [Ed. Note: i.e., similar to the St. Bartholomew’s Massacre] occurred in Ireland in 1641. The [Catholic] conspirators picked October 23rd, the feast of Ignatius Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit Order. They planned a general uprising for the whole country. All Protestants would be killed at once. To throw them [i.e., the Protestants] off guard while the plan was being made, extra acts of kindness were shown to the Protestants. Early in the morning [of October 23, 1641] the conspirators were armed and every Protestant they could find was immediately murdered. They showed no mercy. From children to the aged, they were killed. Even invalids were not spared. They were caught by complete surprise. They [i.e., the Protestants] had lived in peace and safety for years and now found no place to run. They were massacred by neighbors, friends, and even relatives.

Death often was the least they had to fear. Women were tied to posts, stripped to the waist, their breasts cut off with shears and left to bleed to death. Others who were pregnant were tied to tree branches, their unborn babies cut out and fed to the dogs while the husbands were forced to watch.”

Jack T. Chick then gives us this warning about the massacre of Protestants in Ireland in 1641 and the earlier massacre of Protestants in France in 1572:

“What you’ve just read [about the massacre of Protestants in Ireland in 1641 and in France in 1572] is fully documented and historically factual. It is found in Foxe’s Book of Martyrs. ...Both of these murderous assaults by the Vatican against the [Protestant] Christians in France and in Ireland followed a similar pattern. Before the attacks, there was a time of healing when the Roman Catholics became friendly and warm, and in both cases the [Protestant] Christians were so relieved that they let their guard down and assumed the Vatican had changed. This was their fatal mistake and it cost them their lives.”

The reasons for the Roman Catholic Church’s attempts to exterminate the Irish Protestants are basically the same as those listed for the Albigenses and Waldenses.

((Ed. Note: Similar atrocities (including the most horrible torture of women and children) occurred when the Roman Catholic Ustashi, led by their clergy, slaughtered 600,000 to 1 million Serb Orthodox Christians in Croatia during World War II.))

This same scenario of religious genocide was repeated often on the European continent, with a massive slaughter of the Hussites in Bohemia to follow the slaughter of the French Huguenots. Dave Hunt, in his book A Woman Rides the Beast, tells us: “Pope Martin V (1417-31) commanded the King of Poland in 1429 to exterminate the Hussites (sympathizers with the martyred Jan Hus)...” The Thirty Years’ War (1618-1848) was a bloody religious war planned, orchestrated, and conducted by the Vatican and its surrogates to exterminate all Protestants from off the face of the European continent. Only some great military victories against Catholic armies saved the remaining Protestants in Europe from sharing the same fate as the Albigenses centuries prior to the Thirty Years’ War.

B. The Vatican’s Holocaust in Croatia in the 1940s:

TOTAL NUMBER MURDERED: 600,000 to 1,000,000

A Church-state genocide occurred during World War II in Croatia, where Roman Catholic clergy energized, orchestrated, urged on, participated in, and led one of the most brutal genocides ever perpetrated in modern history. The clergy-led Roman Catholic Ustashi tortured, crucified, raped, beat to death, butchered, and slaughtered between 600,000 to 1 million innocent Serb Orthodox Christian civilians. The vast majority of the victims were simple farmers and peasants and their families. Many of the victims were women, children, and the elderly. And these barbarities occurred in the early 1940s! The horrors, including the most vicious types of torture, that these clergymen and their murderous accomplices committed against the innocent Serb Orthodox Christian people matched the worst of any pagan army in history.

This barbaric genocide had the full blessings of the Roman Catholic Church's hierarchy, which had also signed Concordats with both Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy. The Jesuit and Franciscan orders in Croatia played a major role in orchestrating and carrying out this genocide against the innocent Serb Orthodox Christian people.

((By the way, the Nazi SS was modeled after the Jesuit Order, and had a top-level Jesuit priest (Heinrich Himmler's uncle) as a high ranking officer!))

The Nazi genocide against the Jews has been meticulously documented, as it should have been. So why is this barbarous genocide against innocent Serb Orthodox Christians (that occurred in Croatia in the 1940s) so little known? Who has had the power and influence to keep this genocide from the knowledge of most Americans?

((NOTE: To learn more about this little-known (in America) genocide against innocent Serb Orthodox Christians during World War II, please get a copy of the book The Vatican's Holocaust by Avro Manhattan. Please see the last section for information on how to order it.))

IV. A SERIAL KILLER WALKS IN OUR MIDST!

There is indeed a "serial killer" – a mass murderer – who is firmly entrenched in America. This "serial killer" has never been brought to justice! "He" was famous in Europe for his "murder sprees". "He" would appear from time to time, slaughter many innocents, and then go "under cover" until "his" thirst for blood would cause "him" to make another appearance.

This "serial killer" is the "Holy Office of the Inquisition" (and the Jesuit Order that now controls it). Oh, because of the 'bad press' the Inquisition was given in many books written in Europe, the Vatican hierarchy changed the name to the much more benign "Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith" – an office long headed by Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger, the current "white" pope of Rome! ((The Jesuit Superior General is known as the "Black Pope".))

Well, even the Soviet (now Russian) Internal Security agency has changed its name numerous times: from NKVD to KGB, and lately to the "new" FSB. But do you know what, the mission of the Internal Security folks has never changed! Likewise, the mission of the "Holy Office of the Inquisition" has never changed! And the mission of the infamous Jesuit Order has never changed! In fact, the Inquisition had slowed down when the Jesuit Order took it over from another Catholic Order, the Dominicans. The "Holy Office of the Inquisition" has frequently been guilty of "religicide". Of course, to partially cover its bloody tracks, it has frequently tortured 'heretics', and then turned them over to the State (i.e., the government) for execution.

Here are just two quotes about the Inquisition:

(1) Dave Hunt, author of the book A Woman Rides the Beast, tells us:

"To wring out confessions from these poor creatures, the Roman Catholic Church devised ingenious tortures so excruciating and barbarous that one is sickened by their recital."

(2) This second quote comes from Dave Hunt's book A Woman Rides the Beast, and is by Church historian Bishop William Shaw Kerr:

"The most ghastly abomination of all was the system of torture. The accounts of its cold-blooded operations make one shutter at the capacity of human beings for cruelty. And it was decreed and regulated by the popes who 'claim' to represent Christ on earth..."

((NOTE: The mission of the Jesuit Order was to break the back of the Protestant Reformation, as well as to eliminate any other 'competition' to the Papacy. Their primary tools have been infiltration, subversion, Inquisition, genocide, and political intrigues (to include fomenting wars, revolutions, and assassinating heads of State.))

Additionally, the Jesuits have literally hated Jews, Orthodox Christians, Protestants, and Bible-believing Christians not affiliated with major denominations, and have slaughtered, raped, tortured, and butchered them whenever and wherever the opportunity presented itself! The Jesuits, headed by the "Black Pope" (i.e., the Jesuit Superior General), have also not hesitated to assassinate "White Popes" who either "got out of line" or tried to suppress the Jesuit Order (before the Jesuits had fully taken over the Vatican). The Jesuits, for example, in 1769 poisoned to death Pope Clement XIII the night before he was to sign a document to suppress their order. In 1774 the Jesuits poisoned to death Pope Clement XIV fourteen months after he had signed a document banning the Jesuit Order. More recently, in 1978 Pope John Paul I was poisoned to death on his 33rd day by P-2 Masonry (which is controlled by the Jesuit Superior General) as he was preparing to clean out the Vatican of the many Masons in the Roman Curia.

Anyway, the Jesuits became so hated in Europe (including by numerous Catholic monarchs) that they were expelled from numerous Roman Catholic countries – many in both Europe and in South America. By 1931 the Jesuits had been expelled from 83 countries, city-states, and cities.

Here is what Lady Queenborough had to say on this topic back in 1933:

"They [the Jesuits] were abolished by papal bull in 1773 at the demand of France, Spain, Portugal, Parma, Naples and Austria. They are, however, still to be found everywhere, and they hold considerable property in England. A modern writer justly calls them the 'Black International'."

During this expulsion of the Jesuit Order from much of Europe, please guess to what countries many of the Jesuit priests fled? They fled to both England and America – then strongholds of Protestantism. The Jesuits set up many prominent universities in America, including the very famous Georgetown University.
