MASONIC TEACHING

Masonry teaches the practice of charity and benevolence, to protect chastity, to respect the ties of blood and friendship, to adopt the principles and reverence the ordinances of religion, assist the feeble, guide the blind, raise up the downtrodden, shelter the orphan, guard the altar, support the government, encourage wisdom, inculcate morality, promote learning, love man, fear God, implore His mercy, and hope for happiness and immortality.

OPENING AND CLOSING THE LODGE.

The hour for opening the Lodge, as specified in the by-laws (or as indicated, if the meeting be a special one), having arrived, the Worshipful Master will take his station in the East and say:

“Officers, take your respective stations and places; brethren, be clothed.” (One blow of the gavel is then given.)

Care is taken that none be present but members and brethren who are properly vouched for, followed by the precaution that the avenues be securely guarded, and the Tiler informed of his duty, and also the qualifications necessary for those who seek to pass. The officers and members are then reminded, by the Master, of their duties in the Lodge and to each other, and of his intention to proceed to business, a prayer to the Supreme Architect of the Universe is offered, and the Lodge is declared open for the transaction of business.

It is proper here to remark that the Master who would have a successful administration should never fail to open the Lodge at the time specified in the by-laws, for by first fulfilling the law himself, he can with better propriety demand its fulfillment at the hands of the other members.

The Lodge must always be opened and closed on the third degree, and in due form, for the transaction of any business, or for work and instruction. This rule applies to both stated and special communications.

The first business after opening, if it be a stated communication, is the reading of the minutes of the preceding communication, for the information of the brethren.

The record of the transactions of the evening should always be read before the Lodge is closed, that the brethren may know that they have been properly recorded, and then duly approved. "And when so approved they cannot be altered or expunged." (Vide Book of Constitutions, Section 62.)

PRAYERS.

At the Opening of the Lodge.

Most holy and glorious Lord God, the Great Architect of the Universe, the Giver of all good gifts and graces, Thou hast promised that, "where two or three are gathered together in Thy name, Thou wilt be in their midst and bless them." In Thy name we have assembled, and in Thy name we desire to proceed in all our doings.

Grant that the sublime principles of Freemasonry may so subdue every discordant passion within us, so harmonize and enrich our hearts with Thine own love and goodness, that the Lodge, at this time, may humbly reflect that order and beauty which reign forever before Thy throne. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

* May the favor of God, refreshing as the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion, abide with and govern us, in all our proceedings. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

May the favor of Heaven be upon this meeting; and, as it is happily begun, may it be conducted with order and closed in harmony. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

 Wherever small print is used throughout the Monitor the language is optional*

At the Closing of the Lodge.

Almighty Father, we ask Thy blessing upon the proceedings of this communication, and, as we are about to separate, we ask Thee to keep us under Thy protecting care until again we are called together. Teach us, O God, to realize the beauties of the principles of our time-honored institution, not only while in the Lodge, but when abroad in the world. Subdue every discordant passion within us, and enable us to love one another in the bonds of union and friendship. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

Supreme Architect of the Universe, accept our humble thanks for the many mercies and blessings Thy bounty has conferred on us, and especially for this friendly and social intercourse.

Pardon, we beseech Thee, whatever Thou hast seen amiss in us since we have been together, and continue to us Thy presence, protection, and blessing

Make us sensible of the renewed obligations we are under to love Thee, and, as we are about to separate, and return to our respective places of abode, wilt Thou be pleased so to influence our hearts and minds, that each one of us may practice, out of the Lodge, those great moral duties which are inculcated in it, and with reverence study and obey the laws which Thou hast given us in Thy Holy Word. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

Benediction.

May the blessing of Heaven rest upon us and all regular Masons. May brotherly love prevail, and every moral and social virtue cement us. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

DUTIES OF THE TREASURER.

To receive all money from the Secretary, keep a just and accurate account of the same, pay it out by order of the Lodge when signed by the Worshipful Master, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Constitution of the Grand Lodge.

DUTIES OF THE SECRETARY.

To observe the proceedings of the Lodge, make a fair record of all things proper to be written, receive all money due the Lodge, pay the same to the Treasurer, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Constitution of the Grand Lodge.

ENTERED APPRENTICE.

SECTION I.

When the candidate for initiation shall have entered the preparation room, the Secretary of the Lodge, or some other officer or member, shall, by direction of the W. M., repair thither, and may address him as follows:

"Mr. —, somewhat of your motives, in applying for admission into our ancient and honorable Fraternity, we have learned from the declaration, over your signature, contained in your petition; but, in order that you may not be misled as to the character or the purpose of the ceremonies in which you are about to engage, the Lodge addresses to you these preliminary words of advice. Freemasonry is far removed from all that is trivial, selfish, and ungodly. Its structure is built upon the everlasting foundation of that God-given law, the brotherhood of man in the family whose Father is God. Our ancient and honorable Fraternity welcomes to its doors and admits to its privileges worthy men of all creeds and of every race, but it insists that all men shall stand upon an exact equality and receive its instructions in a spirit of due humility, emphasizing, in demeanor, in conduct, in ceremony, and in language, the helpless, groping nature of man at his birth, and his need of reliance upon Divine guidance through all the transactions of life. You will here be taught to divest your mind and conscience of all the vices and superfluities of life, and the Lodge into which you are now to be admitted expects you to divest yourself of all those worldly distinctions and equipments which are not in keeping with the humble, reverent, and childlike attitude it is now your duty to assume, as all have done who have gone this way before you."

The candidate shall thereupon, previous to his reception, be asked the following questions, to which he is required to give his full assent:

1. Do you declare, upon your honor, that, unbiassed by the improper solicitation of friends, and uninfluenced by mercenary motives, you freely and voluntarily offer yourself a candidate for the mysteries of Freemasonry?

2. Do you declare, upon your honor, that you are prompted to solicit the privileges of Freemasonry by a favorable opinion conceived of the institution, a desire for knowledge, and a sincere wish of being serviceable to your fellow-creatures?

3. Do you declare, upon your honor, that you will cheerfully conform to all the ancient usages and established customs of the Fraternity?

* * * *

Let no man enter upon any great or important undertaking without first invoking the aid of Deity.

* * * *

PRAYER.

Vouchsafe Thine aid, Almighty Father of the Universe, to this our present convention, and grant that this candidate for Masonry may dedicate and devote his life to Thy service, and become a true and faithful brother among us. Endue him with a competency of Thy Divine Wisdom, that, by the influence of the pure principles of our Fraternity, he may be better enabled to display the beauties of holiness, to the honor of Thy Holy name. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

SCRIPTURE LESSON.

“Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

“It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron’s beard, that went down to the skirts of his garments;

“As the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life for evermore.” (Psalm cxxxiii.)

* * * *

“In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.” Genesis I. 1-3.

In humble commemoration of that august event,

* * * *

THREE GREAT LIGHTS.

The Holy Bible is given us as the rule and guide for our faith and practice; the Square, to square our actions; and the Compasses to circumscribe our desires, and keep our passions in due bounds with all mankind, especially the brethren.

The three Lesser Lights are the Sun, Moon, and Master of the Lodge, and are thus explained:

As the Sun rules the day and the Moon governs the night, so should the Worshipful Master, with equal regularity, rule and govern the Lodge.

The representatives of the three Lesser Lights are three burning candles, or tapers, placed upon candlesticks, or pedestals, situated East, West, and South.

* * * *

I particularly direct your attention to the Great Light in Masonry, the Holy Bible. Howsoever men differ in creed or theology, all good men are agreed that within the covers of the Holy Bible are found those principles of morality which lay the foundation upon which to build a righteous life. Freemasonry, therefore, opens this Book upon its altars, with the command to each of its votaries that he diligently study therein to learn the way to everlasting life. Adopting no particular creed, forbidding sectarian discussion within its Lodge rooms, encouraging each to be steadfast in the faith of his acceptance, Freemasonry takes all good men by the hand, and, leading them to its altars, points to the open Bible thereon, and urges upon each that he faithfully direct his steps through life by the Light he there shall find and as he there shall find it. If, from our sacred altars, the atheist, the infidel, the irreligious man, or the libertine, should ever be able to wrest this book of Sacred Laws, and thus remove, or even obscure, the greatest Light in Masonry, that light which for centuries has been the rule and guide of Freemasons, then could we no longer claim for ourselves the great rank and title of Free and Accepted Masons; but, so long as that sacred light shines upon our altars, so long as it illuminates the pathway of the Craftsman by the golden rays of truth, so long, and no longer, can Freemasonry live and shed its beneficent influence upon mankind. Guard then, that Book of sacred and immutable law as you would guard your very life. Defend it as you would the flag of your country. Live according to its divine teachings, with its everlasting assurance of a blessed immortality.

* * * *

APRON.

MY BROTHER, I now present you with a lamb-skin or white leather apron. It is an emblem of innocence and the badge of a Mason, more ancient than the Golden Fleece or Roman Eagle, more honorable than the Star and Garter, when worthily worn.

Let its pure and spotless surface be to you an ever-present reminder of a "purity of life and rectitude of conduct," a never-ending argument for nobler deeds, for higher thoughts, for greater achievements. And when at last your weary feet shall have come to the end of their toilsome journey, and from your grasp shall fall forever the working tools of life, may the record of your life and actions be as white and spotless as the emblem which I place in your hand to-night. May it be your portion to hear from Him who sitteth as the Judge Supreme the welcome words, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

* * * *

DEMAND.

* * * *

TWENTY-FOUR-INCH GAUGE.

As you are now * * * *

The Twenty-four-inch Gauge is an instrument used by operative masons to measure and lay out their work; but we, as Free and Accepted Masons, are taught to use it for the more noble and glorious purpose of dividing our time. It, being divided into twenty-four equal parts, is emblematical of the twenty-four hours of the day, which we are taught to divide into three equal parts, whereby are found eight hours for the service of God and a distressed worthy brother, eight for our usual vocations, and eight for refreshment and sleep.

COMMON GAVEL.

The Common Gavel is an instrument used by operative masons to break off the corners of rough stones, the better to fit them for the builder's use; but we, as Free and Accepted Masons, are taught to use it for the more noble and glorious purpose of divesting our hearts and consciences of all the vices and superfluities of life, thereby fitting our minds, as living stones, for that spiritual building, that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The newly initiated brother then receives his first lesson in moral architecture, teaching him ever to walk uprightly before God and man.

* * * *

CAUTION.

* * * *

SECTION 2.

My brother, the second section of this degree rationally accounts for the forms and ceremonies through which you have passed.

This section is composed of a lecture of two parts, the first tracing these forms and ceremonies, the second explaining the reasons therefor.

LECTURE.

PART I.

* * * *

PART II.

* * * *

At the building of King Solomon's Temple there was not heard the sound of ax, hammer, or other metal tool. * * * * The stones were hewn, squared, and numbered in the quarries where raised; the timber, felled and prepared in the forests of Lebanon, conveyed by sea, in floats, to Joppa, thence by land to Jerusalem, where they were set up by the aid of wooden instruments prepared for that purpose; and when the building was completed, every part thereof fitted with such exact nicety, that it resembled more the handwork of the Supreme Architect of the Universe than that of human hands.

* * * *

Masonry regards no man on account of his worldly wealth or honors; it is the internal, and not the external, qualifications that recommend a man to Masons.

* * * *

We read in the book of Ruth concerning their manner of changing and redeeming, that "To confirm all things, a man plucked off his shoe and gave it to his neighbor." That was testimony in Israel. This, therefore, we do, testifying thereby in the strongest manner possible the sincerity of our intentions in the work in which we are engaged.

* * * *

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

* * * *

Before entering upon any great or important undertaking we ought always to invoke the aid of DEITY.

* * * *

* * * *

The right hand, by our ancient brethren, was deemed the seat of fidelity; the ancients worshipped a deity named Fides, sometimes represented by two right hands joined, at others by two human figures holding each other by the right hand.

The right, therefore, we use in this great and important undertaking, testifying thereby in the strongest manner possible the fidelity of our purposes in the work in which we are engaged.

* * * *

The lamb, in all ages, has been deemed an emblem of innocence. The lambskin was, therefore, to remind me of that purity of life and conduct so essentially necessary to my gaining admission into the Celestial Lodge above, where the Supreme Architect of the Universe presides.

SECTION 3.

This brings us to the third and last section of the degree, which explains the nature and principles of our constitution. Here, too, we receive instruction relative to the form, supports, covering, furniture, ornaments, lights, and jewels, of a lodge; how it should be situated, and to whom dedicated.

A Lodge may be defined as a certain number of Free and Accepted Masons, duly assembled, furnished with the Holy Bible, Square, and Compasses, together with a charter or dispensation from some Grand Body of competent jurisdiction empowering it to work.

THE CHARTER.

The Holy Bible, Square, and Compasses have been partially explained to you; the Charter has not. It pleased the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, over which body M. . W. . _____, Grand Master, at present presides, to grant to this Lodge the Charter now in its possession, empowering it to confer the three degrees of Masonry, which power we are now partly exercising.

LODGES, WHERE HELD.

Our ancient brethren held their Lodges on high hills or in low vales the better to observe the approach of cowans and eavesdroppers, ascending or descending. Lodge meetings, at the present day, are usually held in upper chambers, probably for the better security which such places afford.

The custom may have had its origin in a practice observed by the ancient Jews when building their temples, schools, and synagogues, on high hills, a practice which seems to have met the approbation of the Almighty, who said unto the Prophet Ezekiel, "Upon the top of the mountain, the whole limit thereof, round about shall be most holy."

FORM.

The form of a Lodge is * * * * in length from east to west, in breadth between north and south, as high as Heaven and as deep as from the surface to the center.

It is said to be thus extensive to denote the universality of Freemasonry, and teaches that a Mason's charity should be equally extensive.

SUPPORTS.

A Lodge, is supported by three great pillars, denominated Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty, for there should be wisdom to contrive, strength to support, and beauty to adorn, all great and important undertakings. They are represented by the three principal officers of the Lodge, the pillar Wisdom, by the Worshipful Master in the East, who is presumed to have wisdom to open and govern the Lodge; the pillar Strength, by the Senior Warden in the West, whose duty it is to assist the Worshipful Master in the discharge of his arduous duties; and the pillar Beauty, by the Junior Warden in the South, whose duty it is to call the Craft from labor to refreshment, superintend them during the hours thereof, carefully to observe that the means of refreshment are not perverted to intemperance or excess, see that they return to their labor in due season, that the Worshipful Master may receive honor, and they pleasure and profit, thereby.

COVERING.

The covering of a Lodge is no less than the clouded canopy, or starry-decked heaven, where all good Masons hope at last to arrive, by aid of that ladder which Jacob in his vision saw extended from earth to Heaven, the principal rounds of which are denominated FAITH, HOPE, and CHARITY, which admonish us to have faith in God, hope of immortality, and charity to all mankind. The greatest of these is CHARITY. For our faith may be lost in sight, hope end in fruition, but charity extends beyond the grave, through the boundless realms of eternity.

FURNITURE.

Every regular and well-governed Lodge is furnished with the Holy Bible, Square, and Compasses, together with a Charter, or Dispensation.

* * * *

The Holy Bible is dedicated to the service of God, because it is the inestimable gift of God to man, * * * *; the Square to the Master, because it is the proper Masonic emblem of his office; and the Compasses to the craft, for, by a due attention to their use, they are taught to circumscribe their desires and keep their passions in due bounds.

ORNAMENTS.

The Ornaments of a Lodge are the Mosaic Pavement, the Indented Tessel, and the Blazing Star.

The Mosaic Pavement is a representation of the ground floor of King Solomon's Temple; the Indented Tessel, of that beautiful tessellated border or skirting which surrounded it. The Mosaic Pavement is emblematical of human life, checkered with good and evil; the Indented Tessel, or tessellated border, of the manifold blessings and comforts which constantly surround us, and which we hope to enjoy by a firm reliance on Divine Providence, which is represented by the blazing star in the center.

LIGHTS.

A Lodge has three symbolic lights, situated East, West, and South. The North we Masonically term a place of darkness.

JEWELS.

A Lodge has six jewels, three movable and three immovable.

The Immovable Jewels are the Square, the Level, and the Plumb. They are so termed because they are appropriated to particular parts of the Lodge where alone they should be found, the Square to the East, the Level to the West, and the Plumb to the South.

The Square teaches morality; the Level, equality; and the Plumb, rectitude of conduct.

The Movable Jewels are the Rough Ashlar, the Perfect Ashlar, and the Trestle-Board.

The Rough Ashlar is a stone in its rude and natural state, as taken from the quarry; the Perfect Ashlar, one prepared by the workmen, to be adjusted by the working tools of Fellow Craft; and the Trestle-Board is for the Master Workman to draw his designs upon.

By the Rough Ashlar we are reminded of that rude and imperfect state which is ours by nature; by the Perfect Ashlar, of that state of perfection at which we hope to arrive by education, our own endeavors, and the blessing of Deity. And as the operative workman erects his temporal building in accordance with the designs laid down upon the Trestle-Board by the Master Workman, so should we, both operative and speculative, endeavor to erect our spiritual building in accordance with the designs laid down by the Supreme Architect of the Universe in the great Book of revelation, which is our Masonic trestle-board.

HOW SITUATED.

A Lodge is situated due east and west, because King Solomon's Temple was so situated.

Moses, by Divine command, having conducted the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, through the Red Sea, into the wilderness, erected a Tabernacle to God, which he situated due east and west, to commemorate to the latest posterity that miraculous east wind which wrought their mighty deliverance. King Solomon's Temple is said to have been a representation of that Tabernacle.

TO WHOM DEDICATED.

Lodges were anciently dedicated to King Solomon, as he is said to have been our first Most Excellent Grand Master; but speculative Masons dedicate theirs to the memory of St. John the Baptist, and St. John the Evangelist.

Since their time, there is represented, in every regular and well-governed lodge, a certain POINT WITHIN A CIRCLE, the point representing the individual brother, the circle, the boundary line of his conduct to God and man, beyond which he is never to suffer his passions, prejudices, or interests to betray him on any occasion. This circle is bordered by two perpendicular parallel lines representing these saints, and upon the vertex rest the Holy Scriptures, which point out the whole duty of man. In going around this circle, we necessarily touch upon these two lines, as well as upon the Holy Scriptures, and while a Mason keeps himself thus circumscribed, it is impossible that he should materially err.

PRINCIPAL TENETS.

The principal Tenets of our profession are threefold, including the inculcation and practice of those truly commendable virtues, Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth.

By the exercise of Brotherly Love, we are taught to regard the human race as one family, the high, the low, the rich, the poor, who, as created by one Almighty Parent, and inhabiting the same planet, should aid, support, and protect one another. On this principle, Masonry unites men of every country, sect, and opinion, and promotes true friendship among those who might otherwise have remained perpetually at a distance.

To relieve the distressed is a duty incumbent on all men, particularly upon Masons, who are linked together by a chain of sincere affection. To soothe the unhappy, to sympathize with them in their misfortunes, to compassionate their miseries, and to restore peace to their troubled minds, are aims we have in view. On this basis, we form our friendships and establish our connections.

Truth is a divine attribute, and the foundation of every virtue. To be good and true is the first lesson we are taught in Masonry. Hence, while influenced by this principle, hypocrisy and deceit are unknown among us; sincerity and plain dealing distinguish us; and the heart and tongue join in promoting each other's welfare, and rejoicing in each other's prosperity.

is that noble and steady purpose of the mind, whereby we are enabled to undergo any pain, peril, or danger. This virtue is equally distant from rashness and cowardice, and should be deeply impressed upon your mind as a safeguard or security against any attempt that may be made, by force or otherwise, to extort from you any of the secrets with which you have been so solemnly intrusted. This virtue was emblematically represented upon your first admission into the Lodge, when you were * * * * teaches us to regulate our lives and actions agreeably to the dictates of reason, and is that habit by which we wisely judge and determine on all things relative to our present, as well as our future happiness. This virtue should be your characteristic, not only in the government of your conduct while in the Lodge, but also when abroad in the world. You should be particularly cautious, in all strange and mixed companies, never to let fall the least sign, token, or word, whereby the secrets of Freemasonry might be obtained, ever bearing * * *

TEMPERANCE

is that due restraint upon the passions which renders the body tame and governable, and frees the mind from the allurements of vice. This virtue should be your constant practice, as you are thereby taught to avoid excess, and the contracting of any licentious or vicious habit, the indulgence of which might lead you to disclose those secrets which you have promised to conceal and never reveal, the betrayal of which would subject you to the contempt and detestation of all good Masons, if not * * * *

is that standard which enables us to render to every man his due, without distinction. This virtue is not only consistent with Divine and human law; but is the very cement and support of society; and, as justice, in a great measure, distinguishes the good man, so should it be your practice to be just, ever remembering * * * *

CHALK, CHARCOAL, CLAY.

Entered Apprentices should serve their Masters with freedom, fervency, and zeal, which are emblematically represented by —, —, and —.

There is nothing freer than —, the slightest touch of which leaves a trace; there is nothing more fervent than —, for to it, when properly ignited, the most obdurate metals will yield; there is nothing more zealous than —, our mother earth, for it, alone of all the elements, has never proved unfriendly to man. Though constantly harassed, more to furnish the luxuries than the necessaries of life, she never refuses her accustomed yield, strewing our pathway with flowers and spreading our table with plenty; though she produces poison, still she furnishes the antidote, and returns with interest every good committed to her care. And when at last we are called upon to pass through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, she once more receives us, and tenderly enfolds our remains within her bosom, thus admonishing us that, as from earth we came, so to earth we must surely return.

Entered Apprentices should serve their Masters with freedom, fervency, and zeal, which are emblematically represented by —, —, and —. There is nothing freer than —, the slightest touch of which leaves a trace; nothing more fervent than —, for to it, when properly ignited, the most obdurate metals will yield; and nothing more zealous than —, our Mother Earth, whose produce is constantly employed for man's use, and is as constantly reminding him that from earth he came and to earth he must surely return.

CHARGE.

BROTHER: As you are now introduced into the first principles of Freemasonry, I congratulate you upon being accepted into this ancient and honorable Fraternity—ancient as having subsisted from time immemorial, and honorable as tending in every particular so to render all men who will be conformable to its precepts. No institution was ever raised on a better principle, or more solid foundation; nor were ever more excellent rules and useful maxims laid down than are inculcated in the several Masonic lectures. The greatest and best of men, in all ages, have been encouragers and promoters of the art, and have never deemed it derogatory to their dignity to level themselves with the Fraternity, extend its privileges, and patronize its assemblies. There are three great duties, which, as a Mason, you are charged to inculcate—to God, your neighbor, and yourself. To God, in never mentioning His name but with that reverential awe which is due from a creature to his Creator, imploring His aid in all your laudable undertakings, and esteeming Him as the chief good; to your neighbor, in acting upon the square, and doing unto him as you wish he should do unto you; and to yourself, in avoiding all irregularity and intemperance, which may impair your faculties, or debase the dignity of your profession. A zealous attachment to these duties will insure public and private esteem.

In the State you are to be a quiet and peaceable citizen, true to your government and just to your country. You are not to countenance disloyalty or rebellion, but patiently submit to legal authority, and conform with cheerfulness to the government of the country in which you live.

In your outward demeanor, be particularly careful to avoid censure or reproach.

Although your frequent appearance at our regular meetings is earnestly solicited, yet it is not meant that Masonry should interfere with your necessary vocations, for these are on no account to be neglected; neither are you to suffer your zeal for the Institution to lead you into argument with those who, through ignorance, may ridicule it.

During your leisure hours, that you may improve in Masonic knowledge, you are to converse with well-informed brethren, who will be always as ready to give, as you will be to receive, instruction.

Finally, keep sacred and inviolate the mysteries of the Fraternity, as these are to distinguish you from the rest of the community, and mark your consequence among Masons. If, in the circle of your acquaintance, you find a person desirous of being initiated into Masonry, be particularly careful not to recommend him, unless you are convinced that he will conform to our rules; that the honor, glory, and reputation of the Institution may be firmly established, and the world at large convinced of its good effects.

CHARGE.

My BROTHER, whatever may hitherto have been your moral attitude towards the God of man, you, by your voluntary action this evening, have proclaimed openly your belief that He really is, and rightfully rules.

The title by which I have just addressed you is Masonically given because of His Fatherhood. You have now entered upon a new tie with Him; you look up to Him as our Fraternity's God. As such you have, at yonder Altar, sworn in His name and asked His help to be an upright man and Mason. That means your duty to Him, and duty means a debt.

I know not your former estimation of the reverence due to Him. I do know that from this time forth your oath of allegiance demands steadfast fealty to His laws, and extreme reverence for His great and sacred Name.

The world itself styles him who knows no God a heathen. He is a menace to society and a moral blank in himself. The Mason who acknowledges God in the lodge-room and ignores or blasphemes out of it insults the Craft as he violates his oath. Your Masonry must be proven by your real attitude towards our Supreme Grand Master. The tongue, which takes the obligation of the Mason, should not demean the Mason's God.

Restrain the curse against your Father in heaven as you would resent a curse against your father on the earth. Strive to be a Mason who will fashion bravely his loyal sonship. Care little for the jibes of men, but heed the sting of conscience.

Go out from this evening's ceremonies a loyal Mason, a worthy brother, an Apprentice entered upon a new field of labor, with a new sense of duty, and bound by a solemn vow ever to walk and act uprightly, and speak reverently His name before whom all Masons should humbly, reverently, and devoutly bow.

FELLOW-CRAFT.

SECTION 1.

The Brother is instructed, on his entrance, that the square of virtue should be a rule and guide for his practice through life.

An angle of 90 degrees, or the fourth part of a circle.

* * * *

SCRIPTURE LESSON.

“Thus He shewed me: and, behold, the LORD stood upon a wall made by a plumbline, with a plumbline in His hand.

“And the LORD said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, a plumbline.

“Then said the Lord, Behold, I will set a plumb-line in the midst of my people Israel: I will not again pass by them any more.” (Amos, vii., 7, 8.)

* * * *

PLUMB, SQUARE, AND LEVEL.

As you are now * * * *

The Plumb is an instrument used by operative Masons, to try perpendiculars, the Square, to square their work, and the Level, to prove horizontals; but we, as Free and Accepted Masons, are taught to use them for more noble and glorious purposes. The Plumb admonishes us to walk uprightly in our several stations before God and man, squaring our actions by the Square of Virtue, ever remembering that we are traveling upon the Level of Time, to “that undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveler returns.”

The Attentive Ear, the Instructive Tongue, and the Faithful Breast. * * * *

The attentive ear receives the sound from the instructive tongue, and the mysteries of Freemasonry are safely lodged in the repository of the faithful breast.

SECTION 2.

The second section of this degree has reference to the origin of the Institution, and views Masonry under two denominations, Operative and Speculative.

By Operative Masonry we allude to a proper application of the useful rules of Architecture, whence a structure will derive figure, strength and beauty, and whence will result a due proportion and a just correspondence in all its parts. It furnishes us with dwellings and convenient shelter from the vicissitudes and inclemencies of seasons; and while it displays the effects of human wisdom, as well in the choice as in the arrangement of the sundry materials of which an edifice is composed, it demonstrates that a fund of science and industry is implanted in man, for the best, most salutary, and beneficent purposes.

By Speculative or Free Masonry, we learn to subdue the passions, act upon the square, keep a tongue of good report, maintain secrecy and practice charity. It is so far interwoven with religion, as to lay us under obligation to pay that homage to Deity, which at once constitutes duty and our happiness. It leads the contemplative to view, with reverence and admiration, the glorious works of creation, and inspires them with the most exalted ideas of the perfection of their Divine Creator.

The second section of this degree also refers to the origin of the Jewish Sabbath, as well as to the manner in which it was kept by our ancient brethren.

In six days God created the heaven and the earth, and rested on the seventh day. The seventh, therefore, our ancient brethren consecrated as a day of rest from their labor.

At the building of King Solomon's Temple there were 80,000 * * * *

"And thine house and thy kingdom shall be established forever before thee."—(II. SAMUEL, vii. 16.)

"Also he made before the house two pillars of thirty and five cubits high, and the chapter that was on the top of each of them was five cubits."—(II. CHRONICLES, iii. 15.)

The chapters were ornamented with leaves of lily-work, net-work, and chains of pomegranate.

The Lily, from its extreme whiteness, as well as the retired situations in which it grows, denotes Peace; the Net-work, from the intimate connection of all its parts, Unity; and the Pomogranate, from the exuberance of its seed, Plenty.

PEACE, UNITY, AND PLENTY.

Peace, that here on the broad platform of brotherly love, the high, the low, the rich, the poor, may meet together with one common purpose, the perpetuation of each other's friendship and each other's love.

Unity, being linked together by a chain of sincere friendship.

Plenty, that though it may be given to some to have more of the world's goods than others, still the man that has his health, strength, and ambition has indeed his plenty.

GLOBES.

These pillars are surmounted by two artificial spherical bodies, on the surface of which are represented the countries, seas, and various parts of the earth, the face of the heavens, and the planetary revolutions. Contemplating these bodies we are inspired with reverence for God and His works, and are encouraged to study astronomy, geography, navigation, and the arts dependent upon them, by which mankind has been so much benefited.

THREE STEPS.

* * * *

FIVE STEPS.

* * * *

ORDER IN ARCHITECTURE.

BY ORDER IN ARCHITECTURE is meant a system of all the members, proportions, and ornaments of columns and pilasters; or, it is a regular arrangement of the projecting parts of a building, which, united with those of a column, form a beautiful, perfect, and complete whole.

From the first formation of society, order in architecture may be traced. When the rigor of seasons obliged men to contrive shelter from the inclemency of the weather, we learn that they first planted trees on end, and then laid others across, to support a covering. The bands which connected those trees at top and bottom are said to have given rise to the idea of the base and capital of pillars; and, from this simple hint, originally proceeded the more improved art of architecture.

The five orders are thus classed: the TUSCAN, DORIC, IONIC, CORINTHIAN, and COMPOSITE.

THE TUSCAN

is the most simple and solid of the five orders. It was invented in Tuscany, whence it derives its name Its column is seven diameters high; and its capital, base, and entablature have but few mouldings The simplicity of the construction of this column renders it eligible where ornament would be superfluous.

THE DORIC, which is plain and natural, is the most ancient, and was invented by the Greeks. Its column is eight diameters high, and has seldom any ornaments on base or capital, except mouldings, though the frieze is distinguished by triglyphs and metopes, and triglyphs compose the ornaments of the frieze. The solid composition of this order gives it a preference in structures where strength and a noble simplicity are desired. The Doric is the best proportioned of all the orders. The several parts of which it is composed are founded on the natural position of solid bodies.

THE IONIC

bears a kind of mean proportion between the more solid and the more delicate orders. Its column is nine diameters high; its capital is adorned with volutes, and its cornice has dentils. There are both delicacy and ingenuity displayed in this pillar, the invention of which is attributed to the Ionians. The famous temple of DIANA, at Ephesus, was of this order.

THE CORINTHIAN,

the richest of the five orders, is deemed a masterpiece of art. Its column is ten diameters high, and its capital is adorned with two rows of leaves, and eight volutes, which sustain the abacus. The frieze is ornamented with curious devices, the cornice with dentils and modillions. This order is used in ornate structures.

THE COMPOSITE

is compounded of the other orders and was contrived by the Romans. Its capital has the two rows of leaves of the Corinthian and the volutes of the Ionic. Its column has quarter-rounds, as have the Tuscan and Doric orders; it is ten diameters high, and its cornice has dentils, or simple modillions. This pillar is generally found in buildings where strength, elegance, and beauty are displayed.

The ancient and original orders of architecture, revered by Masons, are three, the Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian, which were invented by the Greeks. To these the Romans have added two, the Tuscan, which they made plainer than the Doric, and the Composite, which is more ornamental than the Corinthian.

THE FIVE HUMAN SENSES

are Hearing, Seeing, Feeling, Smelling, and Tasting. The first three of which have ever been deemed prerequisite * * * *

THE SEVEN STEPS.

* * * *

THE SEVEN LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

are Grammar, Rhetoric, Logic, Arithmetic, Geometry, Music, and Astronomy.

GRAMMAR.

Grammar is the science which teaches us how to express our ideas in correct language, which we afterwards beautify and adorn by means of Rhetoric; while Logic instructs us how to think and reason with propriety.

RHETORIC.

It is by Rhetoric that elegance of diction is taught. To be an eloquent speaker, is far from being either a common or an easy attainment; it is the art of being persuasive and commanding; the art, not only of pleasing the fancy, but of appealing both to the understanding and to the heart.

LOGIC

is that science which teaches us how to form clear and distinct ideas, and prevents us being misled by similitude or resemblances. This science should be cultivated as the foundation or groundwork of our inquiries; particularly in the study of those sublime principles which claim our attention as Masons.

ARITHMETIC

is the science of numbers, or that branch of mathematics which considers the properties of numbers in general. We have but a very imperfect idea of things without quantity, and as imperfect an idea of quantity itself without the aid of Arithmetic. All the works of the Almighty are expressed in number, weight, and measure; therefore, to understand them rightly, we ought to understand arithmetical calculations; and the greater the advancement we make in the mathematical sciences, the more capable we shall be of considering such things as are the ordinary subjects of our conception, and be thereby led to a better knowledge of our great Creator, and the works of His creation.

GEOMETRY

treats of the powers and properties of magnitudes in general, where length, breadth, and thickness are considered—from a point to a line, from a line to a superficies, and from a superficies to a solid.

A point is that which has position, but not magnitude, and is the beginning of all geometrical matter.

A line has length without breadth.

A surface is that which has length and breadth without thickness.

A solid is a magnitude which has length, breadth, and thickness.

By this science the architect is enabled to construct his plans and execute his designs; the general, to arrange his soldiers; the engineer, to mark out grounds for encampments; the geographer, to give us the dimensions of the world, and all things therein contained, to delineate the extent of seas, and specify the divisions of empires, kingdoms, and provinces. By it, also, the astronomer is enabled to make his observations, and to fix the duration of times and seasons, years and cycles.

* * * *

Organ.—The Organist will now commence playing with tremolo, as soft as possible, gradually increasing and diminishing until the word "WAR," then play the chorus of "The Star-Spangled Banner" with full organ; then very soft until the words "plaintive strain," then play four lines of "Home, Sweet Home," with tremolo; then very soft and plaintive until the word "universe," when the entire Lodge will unite in singing, "Be Thou, O God," etc., tune "Old Hundred."

MUSIC

is that science which affects the passions by sound. There are few who have not felt its charms, and acknowledged its expressions to be intelligible to the heart. It is a language of delightful sensations, far more eloquent than words; it breathes to the ear the clearest intimations; it touches and gently agitates the agreeable and sublime passions, it wraps us in melancholy, and elevates us in joy; it dissolves and inflames; it melts us in tenderness, and excites us to war:

The musical score is arranged in three systems, each with a treble and bass staff. The key signature is B-flat major (two flats) and the time signature is 4/4. The first system shows the beginning of the piece with a treble staff starting on a G4 and a bass staff starting on a G2. The second system continues the melody and accompaniment. The third system concludes with a final cadence marked with a double bar line and repeat dots.

The martial strains of national airs heard on the field of battle have thrilled the soldier's heart, causing him to burn with an emulous desire to lead the perilous advance, and animating him to deeds of heroic valor and sublime devotion; amidst the roar of cannon, the din of musketry, and the carnage of battle, he sinks to the dust; raising himself to take one long, last look of life, he hears in the distance that plaintive strain:

Softly.

pp

and the mellowing tides of old cathedral airs vibrating through aisles and arches have stilled the ruffled spirit, and sweeping away the discordant passions of men, have borne them along its resistless current, until their united voices have joined in sounding aloud the chorus of the heaven-born anthem,

“Peace on Earth, good will toward men;”

but it never sounds with such seraphic harmony as when employed in singing hymns of gratitude to the Creator of the Universe.

(Lodge called up.) All unite in singing:

ff

Be Thou, O God, exalted high,
And as Thy glory fills the sky
So let it be on earth displayed,
Till Thou art here, as there, obeyed.

(Lodge seated.)

ASTRONOMY

is that science which treats of the heavenly bodies, their motion, magnitudes, distances, and physical constitutions. How eloquent of DEITY is the celestial hemisphere, spangled with the most magnificent heralds of His infinite glory! They speak to the whole universe, for there is no people so barbarous as to fail to understand their language, nor nation so distant that their voices are not heard among them.

“The spacious firmament on high,
With all the blue ethereal sky,
And spangled heavens, a shining frame,
Their great Original proclaim.

“Th’ unwearied sun from day to day,
Does his Creator’s power display,
And publishes to every land
The work of an Almighty Hand.

“Soon as the evening shades prevail,
The moon takes up the wondrous tale,
And nightly, to the listening earth,
Repeats the story of her birth;

“While all the stars around her burn,
And all the planets in their turn
Confirm the tidings as they roll,
And spread the truth from pole to pole.

“What though in solemn silence all
Move round the dark terrestrial ball;
What though no voice nor minstrel sound
Among their radiant orbs be found;

“With saints and angels they rejoice,
And utter forth their glorious voice;
Forever singing as they shine,
‘The hand that made us is Divine.’”—Addison.

What does it denote?

Plenty.

How represented?

By a sheaf of corn, suspended near a waterford, which teaches us that while we have bread to eat and pure running water to drink, we have all that nature requires.

By whom was this — instituted?

By Jephthah, a Judge of Israel, in a war with the Ephraimites. The Ephraimites had long been a stubborn and rebellious people, whom Jephthah had striven to subdue by mild and lenient measures, but without effect. They, being highly incensed at Jephthah for not being called to fight and share in the rich spoils of the Ammonitish war, gathered together a mighty army, crossed the river Jordan, and prepared to give Jephthah battle; but he, being apprised of their approach, called together the men of Israel, went forth, gave them battle and put them to flight. To make his victory more complete, he stationed guards at the different passes along the bank of the river, and said unto them, "If you see any strangers pass this way, say unto them * * * *." The Ephraimites, being of a different tribe, could not frame to pronounce * * * *, and there fell that day on the field of battle, and at the different passes along the bank of the river, forty and two thousand, after which Jephthah ruled quietly in Israel until the time of his death, in all, six years. * * * *

MORAL ADVANTAGES OF GEOMETRY.

Geometry is the basis of Freemasonry. By Geometry we may curiously trace Nature through her various windings to her most concealed recesses. By Geometry we discover the power, wisdom, and goodness of the Great Architect of the Universe, and view with awe the proportions of this vast system. By Geometry we discover how the planets move in their respective orbits, demonstrate their various revolutions, and account for the return of the seasons and the variety of scenes which each season displays to the discerning eye. About us are numberless worlds, which move through the vast expanse, all framed by the Divine Creator, and all conducted by the unerring laws of nature.

A survey of nature, and the observation of her beautiful proportions, first determined man to imitate the Divine plan, and study symmetry and order. This gave rise to societies, and birth to every useful art. The architect began to design; and the plans which he laid down, improved by time and experience, have resulted in works which have been the admiration of every age.

The lapse of time, the ruthless hand of ignorance and the devastations of war, have laid waste and destroyed many valuable monuments of antiquity, upon which the utmost exertions of human genius had been employed. Even the Temple of Solomon, so spacious and magnificent, and constructed by so many celebrated artists, escaped not the unsparing ravages of barbarous force. Freemasonry, notwithstanding, still survives. The attentive ear receives the sound from the instructive tongue, and the mysteries of Freemasonry are safely lodged in the repository of the faithful breast. Tools and implements of architecture, and symbolic emblems, most expressive, are selected by the Fraternity; to impress upon the mind wise and serious truths; and thus, through a succession of ages, are transmitted unimpaired the most excellent tenets of our institution.

If every brother admitted within the sacred walls of this middle chamber will heed the lessons here inculcated, and remember that as a Freemason he is also a builder, not of a material edifice, but of a temple more glorious than that of Solomon, a temple of honor, of justice, of purity, of knowledge, and of truth, and that these emblems of the operative mason's art indicate the labors he is to perform, the dangers he is to encounter, and the preparations he is to make, in the uprearing of that spiritual fabric wherein his soul shall find rest forever, and forever more.

CHARGE TO FELLOW CRAFT.

BROTHER:—Being advanced to the second degree of Freemasonry, I congratulate you on your preferment. The internal, and not the external, qualifications of a man are what Masonry regards. As you increase in knowledge, you will improve in social intercourse.

It is unnecessary to recapitulate the duties which, as a Fellow Craft, you are bound to discharge, or to enlarge on the necessity of a strict adherence to them, as your own experience must have established their value. Our laws and regulations you are strenuously to support; and be always ready to assist in seeing them duly executed. You are not to palliate, or aggravate, the offenses of your brethren; but in the decision of every trespass against our rules, you are to judge with candor, admonish with friendship, and reprehend with justice.

Your past behavior and regular deportment have merited the honor which we have now conferred;

and in your new character, it is expected that you will conform to the principles of the Order, by steadily persevering in the practice of every commendable virtue. Such is the nature of your engagement as a Fellow Craft, and to these duties you are bound by the most sacred ties.

CHARGE.

Upon the very name of this degree is based the charge which now the instructive tongue conveys to the attentive ear, with the hope that it may be lodged within the faithful breast, "Fellow-Craft—the craft of fellow-workmen.

In the providence of God, with the breath of life each of us became a member of the human family. In maturity we stand facing the needs and responsibilities of life. As Fellow-crafts, we are especially pointed to our duty to our neighbors. God never brought us into being to live in the narrow groove of a selfish individualism, but as brethren one of another in mutual dependence and support. Nothing does the Holy Bible, the rule and guide of our faith and practice, more strenuously teach; nothing does Masonry more inflexibly demand. No household can fashion the home where dissension and selfishness knell the death of unity and peace. No community can protect character where petty strife is born of mischievous tongues. No city can become a place of prosperous growth whose citizens care little and do less for its advancement. No state can derive the benefit of its own resources whose people obey but the one law of individual inclination and greed. No government can stand firm whose adherents are blind to the unalterable law, "in union is strength, in harmony is peace." Although but one man among many, you cannot escape or shirk your share in this great responsibility. Your personal contact with others may be circumscribed by the limit of the circle within which your daily life is lived; but your influence, passing through and from those whom that circle may surround, will reach further than you shall conceive. Masonry bids you do your best in that which lies nearest to you; to see in your neighbor what you desire your neighbor should see in you, to remember that there is no term so often used within our midst, no words more freighted with the strength of man's very best characteristics, no claim so glistening with the ties of honest affection, as our password of greeting, "My brother"!

SCRIPTURE LESSON.

“Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not.

“Nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them; while the sun, or the light, or the moon, or the stars, be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain:

“In the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men shall bow themselves,

“And the grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out of the windows be darkened, and the doors shall be shut in the streets,

“When the sound of the grinding is low, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of music shall be brought low;

“Also, when they shall be afraid of that which is high, and fears shall be in the way,

“And the almond tree shall flourish, and the grasshopper shall be a burden, and desire shall fail:

“Because man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the streets: or ever the silver cord be loosed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern.

“Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was: and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it.” (Eccl. xii., 1-7.)

WORKING TOOLS.

As you are now * * * *, which are all the tools of Masonry, especially the Trowel, an instrument used by operative Masons to spread the cement which unites the several parts of the building into one common mass; but we, as Free and Accepted Masons, are taught to use it for the more noble and glorious purpose of spreading the cement of Brotherly Love and Affection, that cement which unites us into one sacred band or society of friends and brothers, among whom no contention should ever exist, save that noble contention, or rather emulation, of who best can work and best agree.

RECEPTION.

MUSIC. “PLEYEL’S HYMN.”

Solemn strikes the funeral chime
Notes of our departing time,
As we journey here below,
Through a pilgrimage of woe.

Here another guest we bring;
Seraphs of celestial wing,
To our fun’ral altar come,
Waft our friend and brother home.

Lord of all! below—above—
Fill our hearts with truth and love;
When dissolves our earthly tie,
Take us to thy Lodge on high.

PRAYER.

Thou, O God! knowest our down-sitting and our uprising, and understandest our thoughts afar off. Shield and defend us from the evil intentions of our enemies, and support us under the trials and afflictions we are destined to endure, while traveling through this vale of tears. Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth as a flower, and is cut down; he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not. Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months is with Thee; Thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass; turn from him that he may rest, till he shall have accomplished his day. For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not cease. But man dieth and wasteth away; yea, man giveth up the ghost and where is he? As the waters fail from the sea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up, so man lieth down, and riseth not, till the heavens be no more. Yet, O Lord! have compassion on the children of Thy creation; administer them comfort in time of trouble, and save them with an everlasting salvation. Amen. So mote it be.

OR THIS :

O God the everlasting, who hast made death to be the going from darkness into light, the step from danger to safety, the turning of the leaf of mystery to the pages of knowledge, the gate from life temporal into the life eternal, teach us to believe in its mission of friendliness rather than the accusations of its enmity. Whatever may be the manner of its approach, give us the will to proclaim the creed of sorrow's trust. "God knoweth best." May we look beyond its veil of mourning until we touch its wings of deliverance.

Father, Thou knowest the battle of life, the conflict with evil, the struggle for the mastery. Thine own nature is to pity, to encourage, and to rescue. When we despond, cheer us: when we stumble, guide us: when we journey, go before us. when we stand just outside Thy door bid us enter in and be welcome, Home.

So shall our hearts and lips be attuned from the discords of earth's jangles into the wondrous harmonies of Heaven's songs of adoration, and we shall be Thine and Thou wilt be ours through the glories of the Eternal ages, because Thou art our God from everlasting, and our God which ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

OR THIS :

Thou, O God knowest our downsitting and our uprising, and understandest our thoughts afar off. Shield and defend us from the evil intentions of our enemies, while traveling through this vale of tears.

As the seed which we sow must die in order that a new life may be its own, a richer fruitage and a more glorious harvest the result, so must we die unto our sinful nature in order that we may rise to a newness of life, a life of faith, of hope, of noblest and truest love for our fellow-men.

Grant, we beseech Thee, that in so far as the lesson of the resurrection of the body, and the immortality of the soul (which this present moment is intended to typify) is exemplified in accordance with Thy holy will and purpose, to bless it to our waiting hearts to night.

And Thine, O righteous Father, be all the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

SECTION 3.

Sacred history informs us that it was determined in the councils of infinite wisdom that a Temple should be founded at Jerusalem, which should be erected to God, and dedicated to His Holy name. The high honor and distinguished privilege of performing this sacred service was denied to David, King of Israel, because (as the Scriptures inform us) he had made great wars and shed blood abundantly. We also learn from the same sacred source that the God of Israel had promised David that out of his loins He would raise up seed to serve Him. This divine and memorable promise was afterwards fulfilled in the person of Solomon, and in his splendid and unexampled career of prosperity. After David had been gathered to his fathers, and the last honors paid to his memory, Solomon wielded the scepter of Israel, peace reigned within her borders, and the children of Israel looked forward with peculiar satisfaction for the display of that wisdom which was destined to astonish and amaze the world. In the second month of the fourth year of his reign, Solomon commenced the erection of this edifice, the curious workmanship of which was calculated to excite the wonder and admiration of all succeeding ages. It was located on Mount Moriah, near the place where Abraham was about to offer up his son Isaac, and where David met and appeased the destroying angel, which was visible over the threshing-floor of Ornan, the Jebusite. About this time, King Solomon received a congratulatory letter from * * * * offering him every assistance in his power, and manifesting a strong desire to participate in the high honors then clustering around the Throne of Israel. Thus was the building progressing, with the assistance of * * * * and under the immediate supervision of our ancient operative * * * * and was well-nigh completed, when several of the Craft in an attempt to extort from * * * * Thus for a short period was the building impeded in its progress.

It is said to have been supported by fourteen hundred and fifty-three columns, and two thousand nine hundred and six pilasters, all hewn from the finest marble. There were employed in its erection three Grand Masters, three thousand three hundred Masters, or Overseers of the work, eighty thousand Fellow Crafts, or hewers in the mountains and quarries, and seventy thousand Entered Apprentices, or bearers of burdens. All these were classed and arranged in such manner, by the wisdom of King Solomon, that neither envy, discord, nor confusion interrupted or disturbed the peace and good fellowship which prevailed among the workmen.

EMBLEMS.

THE THREE PILLARS

were explained in a preceding degree, and there represented Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty. They are here more fully explained. They represent our three ancient Grand Masters, Solomon, King of Israel, Hiram, King of Tyre, and Hiram Abif. The pillar Wisdom, Solomon, King of Israel, by whose wisdom the Temple was erected which has so honored and exalted his name; the pillar Strength, Hiram, King of Tyre, who strengthened King Solomon in his great and important undertaking; and the pillar Beauty, Hiram Abif, the widow's son, of the tribe of Naphtali, by whose cunning workmanship the Temple was so beautified and adorned.

* * * *

SEVEN.

* * * *

FIVE.

* * * *

THREE.

THE THREE STEPS

usually delineated upon the Master's carpet are emblematical of the three principal stages of human life, youth, manhood, and age. In youth, as Entered Apprentices, we should occupy our minds in the attainment of useful knowledge; in manhood, as Fellow Crafts, we should apply our knowledge to the discharge of our duties to God, our neighbor, and ourselves; so that in age, as Master Masons, we may enjoy the happy reflection consequent upon a well-spent life, and die in the hope of a glorious immortality.

THE POT OF INCENSE

is an emblem of a pure heart, always an acceptable offering to Deity, and as this glows with heat, so should our hearts continually glow with gratitude to our beneficent Creator for the manifold blessings and comforts we enjoy.

THE BEE HIVE

is an emblem of industry, teaching the practice of that virtue to all men. As we came into the world rational and intelligent beings, so should we ever be industrious, never content to be idle, while our fellow creatures are in want, if it is in our power to relieve them. When we take a survey of nature, we view man in his infancy, more helpless than the bruté creation. He lies languishing for days, months, and years, totally incapable of providing sustenance for himself, of guarding against the attack of the wild beasts of the field, or sheltering himself from the inclemencies of the weather. It might have pleased the great Creator of heaven and earth to make man independent of all other beings, but as dependence is one of the strongest bonds of society, men were made dependent on one another for protection and security, whereby they enjoy better opportunities to form the ties of love and friendship. Thus was man formed for social and active life, the noblest work of God; and he that will so demean himself as not to endeavor to add to the common stock of knowledge and understanding, may be deemed a useless member of society, unworthy of our protection as Masons.

THE BOOK OF CONSTITUTIONS

guarded by the Tiler's Sword reminds us that we should ever be watchful and guarded in our thoughts, words, and actions, particularly when in presence of the enemies of Masonry, ever remembering those truly Masonic virtues, Silence and Circumspection.

THE SWORD POINTING TO A NAKED HEART illustrates that justice will sooner or later overtake us; and although our thoughts, words, and actions may be hidden from the eyes of men, yet that

ALL-SEEING EYE,

whom the sun, moon, and stars obey, and under whose watchful care even comets perform their stupendous revolutions, searches the inmost recesses of the human heart, and will reward us according to our merits.

THE ANCHOR AND THE ARK

are emblems of a well-grounded hope, and a well-spent life. They are emblematical of that divine Ark, which bears us over this tempestuous sea of troubles, and the Anchor which shall safely moor us in the peaceful harbor where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest.

THE FORTY-SEVENTH PROBLEM of Euclid teaches Masons to be general lovers of the arts and sciences.

HOOR GLASS.

The Hour-glass is an emblem of human life. Behold, how swiftly the sand runs, and how rapidly our lives are drawing to a close! We cannot without astonishment behold the little particles which are contained in this machine; how they pass away almost imperceptibly, and yet, to our surprise, in the short space of an hour they are all exhausted. Thus wastes man! To-day, he puts forth the tender leaves of hope; to-morrow, blossoms, and bears his blushing honors thick upon him; the next day comes a frost which nips the shoot; and when he thinks his greatness is still aspiring, he falls, like autumn leaves, to enrich our mother earth.

SCYTHE.

The Scythe is an emblem of time, which cuts the brittle thread of life, and launches us into eternity. Behold, what havoc the scythe of time makes among the human race! If by chance we should escape the numerous ills incident to childhood and youth, and with health and vigor arrive, to the years of manhood; yet, withal, we must soon be cut down by the all-devouring scythe of Time, and be gathered into the land where our fathers have gone before us.

* * * * *

CHARGE TO THE CANDIDATE.

BROTHER, your zeal for the institution of Masonry, the progress you have made in the mystery, and your conformity to our regulations, have pointed you out as a proper object of our favor and esteem.

You are now bound by duty, honor, and gratitude to be faithful to your trust, to support the dignity of your character on every occasion, and to enforce, by precept and example, obedience to the tenets of the Fraternity.

In the character of a Master Mason, you are authorized to correct the errors and irregularities of your uninformed brethren, and to guard them against a breach of fidelity. To preserve the reputation of the Fraternity unsullied must be your constant care, and for this purpose it is your province to recommend to your inferiors, obedience and submission; to your equals, courtesy and affability; to your superiors, kindness and consideration. Universal benevolence you are always to inculcate, and, by the regularity of your own behavior, afford the best example for the conduct of others less informed. The ancient landmarks of the Fraternity, entrusted to your care, you are carefully to preserve, and never suffer them to be infringed, or countenance a deviation from the established usages and customs of the Fraternity.

Your virtue, honor, and reputation are concerned in supporting with dignity the character you now bear. Let no motive, therefore, make you swerve from your duty, violate your vows, or betray your trust, but be true and faithful. and imitate the example of that celebrated artist whom you have this evening represented. Thus you will render yourself worthy of the honor which we have conferred, and merit the confidence we repose in you.

CHARGE.

MY BROTHER, each of our three degrees has its respective paramount duty. That of the Entered Apprentice is your duty to God; that of the Fellow-craft is your duty to your neighbor; and that of this, the Master Mason degree, is your duty to yourself. There is no strained reversal of order in this, nor does Masonry differ with nature or revelation in her sequence of teaching. God comes first always, for in Him we live and move and have our being. Our neighbor comes second because God Himself has so ordered in those ten greater Commandments written with His own finger of Divinity. We ourselves, come last because without duty to God we should lack the strength to perform, and without duty to our neighbor we should lack the Golden Rule, which alone shows us the demand of a duty to ourselves. Your manhood does not depend upon your position, but upon your character in life. The establishment as well as the acknowledgment of true manhood is in your own hands. Too many think that reputation ensures it; do not wait for that. Seek the true definition of a man and then exemplify it. Do not have two characters, one for your fellows and another for privacy. Be a true man in your own home as well as out in life. Scorn to debase yourself because the door of publicity is locked. Let even your own solitude keep company with the gentleman within it. Speak the same language to men that you do to your mother. Look upon women as you would have other men look upon your sisters. Resent the unclean speech as a challenge against your claim to good breeding. Demand respectful treatment from your neighbor, but first command your own self-respect. Let nothing be more intolerable in your sight than the letting down of yourself to a lower level. Bid men come up to you, but refuse to descend a single step to them. Do not measure your importance by your titles or your money, but by the texture of your character and the cleanliness of your speech. Make others to know always that a gentleman stands before them. The teaching of this degree, then, is that it is your duty to make the most and the best of yourself. It is your duty as a man among men; as a son, or husband, or father; as a citizen of this great Republic; as a duly obligated Master Mason; as the most glorious climax of all created things; for the true man is the human image of the Mason's God.

INSTALLATION OF LODGE OFFICERS.

The installation of the officers of new lodges is done by the Grand Master or his proxy; in existing lodges, it is the prerogative of the retiring Worshipful Master, but may be done by his proxy.

The installing officer should be addressed by his title of Worshipful and his assistant as Brother Marshal. At no time should a Master or Past-Master be addressed as Most Worshipful or Right Worshipful unless he shall have such title.

Every officer should be installed with the full ceremonial.

The following order may be inverted at the discretion of the installing officer, when the ceremony will commence with the installation of the Tiler.

The Marshal conducts the Worshipful Master elect to the altar and says:

Marshal.—Worshipful Master, I present for installation Brother ——, who has been elected Worshipful Master of this Lodge for the ensuing year.

Installing Officer.—Brother Marshal, have you carefully examined the brother, and do you find him qualified to discharge the duties of the office to which he has been elected?

Marshal.—Worshipful Master, I have carefully examined and so find him.

Installing Officer.—My brother, previous to your investiture, it is necessary that you should signify your assent to those ancient Charges and Regulations which point out the duty of a Master of a Lodge.

I. You agree to be a good man and true, and strictly to obey the moral law?

II. You agree to be a peaceful citizen, and cheerfully to conform to the laws of the country in which you reside?

III. You promise not to be concerned in plots or conspiracies against the government, but patiently submit to the law and the constituted authorities?

IV. You agree to pay a proper respect to the civil magistrates, to work diligently, live creditably, and act honorably by all men?

V. You agree to hold in veneration the original rulers and patrons of Masonry, and their regular successors, supreme and subordinate, according to their stations, and submit to the awards and resolutions of your brethren, in Lodge convened, in every case consistent with the Constitutions of the Fraternity?

VI. You agree to avoid private piques and quarrels, and to guard against intemperance and excess?

VII. You agree to be cautious in carriage and behavior, courteous to your brethren, and faithful to your Lodge?

VIII. You promise to respect genuine brethren, and discountenance impostors and all dissenters from the original plan of Masonry?

IX. You agree to promote the general good of society, to cultivate the social virtues, and to propagate the knowledge of the art?

X. You promise to pay homage to the Grand Master for the time being, and to his officers when duly installed, and strictly to conform to every edict of the Grand Lodge that is not subversive of the principles and groundwork of Masonry?

XI. You admit that it is not in the power of any man, or body of men, to make innovations in the body of Masonry?

XII. You promise a regular attendance on the committees and communications of the Grand Lodge, on receiving proper notice, and to pay a proper attention to all the duties of Masonry, on convenient occasions?

XIII. You admit that no new Lodge shall be formed without permission of the Grand Lodge; and that no countenance be given to any irregular Lodge, or to any person clandestinely made therein, being contrary to the ancient usages of the Fraternity?

XIV. You admit that no person can be made a Mason in, or admitted a member of, any regular Lodge, without previous notice, and due inquiry into his character?

XV. You agree that no visitors shall be received into your Lodge without due examination, and producing proper vouchers of their having been initiated in a regular Lodge?

These are the regulations of Free and Accepted Masons. Do you submit to these Charges, and promise to support these Regulations, as Masters have done in all ages before you?

The Master answers "I do."

Installing Officer.—My brother, in consequence of your conformity to the Charges and Regulations of the Order, you are now to be installed Master of this Lodge, in full confidence of your skill and capacity to govern the same.

The Master is then regularly invested with the jewel of his office, and the furniture and implements of the Lodge are placed in his charge. The various implements of his profession are emblematical of his conduct in life, and upon this occasion should be carefully explained as follows:

Installing Officer.—The Holy Writings, that great light in Masonry, will guide you to all truth, will direct your path to the temple of happiness, and point out to you the whole duty of man.

The Square teaches us to regulate our actions by rule and line, and to harmonize our conduct by the principles of morality and virtue.

The Compasses teach us to limit our desires in every station, that, rising to eminence by merit, we may live respected, and die regretted.

The Rule directs that we should punctually observe our duty, press forward in the path of virtue, and, inclining neither to the right nor to the left, in all our actions have eternity in view.

The Line teaches us the criterion of moral rectitude, to avoid dissimulation in conversation and action, and to direct our steps in the path which leads to immortality.

The Book of Constitutions you are to search at all times. Cause it to be read in your Lodge, that none may pretend ignorance of the excellent precepts it enjoins.

You now receive in charge the Charter, by the authority of which this Lodge is held. You are carefully to preserve the same, and duly transmit it to your successor in office.

You also receive in charge the By-Laws of your Lodge, which you are to see carefully and punctually executed.

The new Master is now placed on the right of the Installing Officer, until the other officers are installed.

The other officers are then severally presented by the Marshal to the Installing Officer, who delivers to each his appropriate charge.

SENIOR WARDEN.

Installing Officer.—Brother — —, you have been elected Senior Warden of this Lodge. Do you solemnly promise that you will serve the Lodge as Senior Warden for the ensuing year, and perform all the duties appertaining to that office, to the best of your ability? (He consents.) You will now be invested with the jewel of your office.

The Level teaches that we are descended from the same stock, partake of the same nature, and share the same hope, “that we are all children of one common father, heirs of the same infirmities, and exposed to the same vicissitudes.” It also reminds us, that although distinctions among men are necessary to preserve subordination, no eminence of station should make us forget that we are brethren, and that in the Lodge and our Masonic associations, we are on a level. The level teaches us that a time will come when all distinctions but that of goodness will cease, and death, the leveler of all human greatness, will reduce us to the same state.

Your regular attendance on the stated and other meetings of the Lodge is necessary. In the absence of the Master, you are to govern the Lodge, and in his presence assist him in the government of it. Hence you will perceive the necessity of preparing yourself for the important duties which may devolve upon you. LOOK WELL TO THE WEST.

He is conducted to his proper station by the Marshal.

JUNIOR WARDEN.

Installing Officer.—Brother — —, you have been elected Junior Warden of this Lodge. Do you solemnly promise that you will serve the Lodge as Junior Warden for the ensuing year, and perform all the duties appertaining to that office to the best of your ability? (He consents.) You will now be invested with the jewel of your office.

The Plumb admonishes us to walk uprightly in our several stations, to do unto others as we would have others do unto us, to observe the just medium between intemperance and pleasure, and make our conduct conform to the line of our duty.

In the absence of the Master and Senior Warden, upon you devolves the government of the Lodge, but to you is especially committed the superintendence of the Craft during the hours of refreshment. It is, therefore, necessary that you be temperate and discreet in the indulgence of your own inclinations, and carefully observe that none of the Craft convert the purposes of refreshment into intemperance or excess. LOOK WELL TO THE SOUTH.

He is conducted to his proper station by the Marshal.

TREASURER.

Installing Officer.—Brother — —, you have been elected Treasurer of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office.

It is your duty to keep a faithful account of all money received for the use of the Lodge, and pay it out upon the order of the Worshipful Master, with the consent of the Lodge. Your own honor, and the confidence the brethren repose in you, will inspire you to that faithfulness in the discharge of the duties of your office which its important nature demands.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

SECRETARY.

Installing Officer.—Brother — —, you have been elected Secretary of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office.

It is your duty to keep a correct record of the proceedings of the Lodge, to receive all money and pay it into the hands of the Treasurer, and to issue summonses at the Master's direction. Your love for the Craft and attachment to the Lodge will induce you cheerfully to discharge the duties of your office. In so doing, you will merit the esteem of your brethren.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

CHAPLAIN.

Installing Officer.—Brother — —, you have been appointed Chaplain of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office.

It is your duty to perform those solemn services which we should constantly render to our infinite Creator, and which, when offered by one whose profession is "to point to heaven and lead the way," may, by refining our souls, strengthening our virtues, and purifying our minds, prepare us for admission into the society of those above, with whom our happiness will be endless and perfect.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

SENIOR AND JUNIOR DEACONS.

Installing Officer.—My Brothers, you have been appointed Deacons of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office. It is your duty to attend on the Master and Wardens, to act as their proxies in the active duties of the Lodge, such as the reception of candidates, and the introduction and accommodation of visitors. These duties I entrust to your care confident of your vigilance and attention.

They are conducted to their proper places by the Marshal.

MASTERS OF CEREMONY.

Installing Officer.—My Brothers, you have been appointed Masters of Ceremony of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office. You, as proxies for the Senior Deacon, are to see that candidates for the several degrees are duly and truly prepared. In the Preparation Room you are to permit no levity, but are expected to conduct your work therein so as to leave an impression on the minds of those seeking Masonic "Light," that our institution is dignified and refined, and that its ceremonies have in reality symbolic meaning.

They are conducted to their proper places by the Marshal.

STEWARDS.

Installing Officer.—My Brothers, you have been appointed Stewards of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office. You are to assist the Senior Deacon and Masters of Ceremony when requested, in conducting candidates, and to so provide for the Craft while at refreshment, that the harmony and decorum thereof shall not be disturbed, and that when labor shall be resumed, the Worshipful Master may have honor, and the Craft pleasure and profit therefrom.

They are conducted to their proper places by the Marshal.

MARSHAL.

Installing Officer.—My Brother, you have been appointed Marshal of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the badge of your office. It is your duty to have charge of and conduct the processions of the Lodge, and to assist the Senior Deacon whenever that officer may require your services. On all such occasions the good order that may be displayed mainly depends upon your zeal, knowledge, and discretion.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

ORGANIST.

Installing Officer.—My Brother, you have been appointed Organist of this Lodge for the ensuing year, and will now be invested with the badge of your office. Your duty will be to preside at the organ and provide appropriate music for every communication. It is, therefore, necessary that you be punctual in your attendance, and that you co-operate cordially with the Master, so that the ritual may be most attractively rendered, and those present have added pleasure and profit from your work.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

TILER.

Installing Officer.—My Brother, you have been appointed Tiler of this Lodge, and will now be invested with the implement of your office. The Sword is in your hands to enable you to guard against the approach of cowans and eaves-droppers, and to suffer none to pass, or repass, except such as are duly qualified. Your regular and punctual attendance will afford the best proof of your zeal for the institution.

He is conducted to his proper place by the Marshal.

The Installing Officer now hands the gavel to the Worshipful Master, and resigns the chair to him. He calls up the Lodge. Then is offered by the Chaplain the following or other suitable

PRAYER :

Almighty and Eternal God, vouchsafe Thine aid to these solemn rites, and grant that the brother who is now numbered among the rulers of the Craft, may be endowed with wisdom to comprehend, judgment to define, and firmness to enforce, obedience to Thy law. Sanctify him with Thy grace. Strengthen him with Thy power, and enrich his mind with genuine knowledge, that he may be enabled to enlighten the brethren, and consecrate our meetings to the honor and glory of Thy most holy name. Amen.

All respond.—So mote it be.

Installing Officer.—Worshipful Master, behold your brethren! Brethren, behold your master!

The Grand Honors are then given the Worshipful Master by the Lodge, the Installing Officer leading in the ceremony. A procession is then formed, and the brethren pass round the Lodge, signifying their respect and obedience by the usual distinctive marks in the different degrees; during which the following or other appropriate installation ode may be sung:

“Support to the Master that rules by the Square,
Let sons of the Light to the East now repair;
With hearts for his aid, united and free,
Obedient we labor and kindly agree.

“Support to the Warden, installed in the West,
Who works by the Level, where sorrows may rest;
With hearts for his aid, united and free,
Obedient we labor and kindly agree.

“Support to the Warden, by Plumb still upright,
Whose sun in the South never hides its fair light;
With hearts for his aid, united and free,
Obedient we labor and kindly agree.”

The brethren are now seated. Then the Installing Officer may deliver an address, or read the following charges in his discretion.

Installing Officer.—Worshipful Master, having been chosen to preside over this Lodge, you cannot be insensible to the obligations which devolve upon you. The honor, reputation, and usefulness of your Lodge will materially depend upon the skill and ability with which you manage its concerns. As Master of this Lodge, it will be your especial duty to attend to the administration of its ceremonies, preserve the ancient landmarks of the Order now committed to your care, and permit no innovation in the principles or rites of the Order.

Upon all suitable occasions remind the brethren that Masonry is founded upon the great moral principles set forth in the sacred volume, which we receive as the rule and guide for our faith and practice. Exhort them to govern themselves by these principles, as well with the world at large as with each other. Teach them to reverence the three great lights, comprehending the Holy Bible, the perfect square, and the extended compasses, the beautiful symbolism of which, is familiar to you, and the explanations of which include some of the most important duties inculcated in our fraternity.

The leading objects of our fraternity are to promote sound morality, to keep men honest and upright, true to their God, and faithful to their country, and to unite them by the strong bonds of charity, friendship, and brotherly love. Great care, therefore, should be taken in the admission of members, lest by the introduction of bad materials the fraternity might be corrupted. It should be constantly borne in mind that the respectability and usefulness of a Lodge depend not on the number, but on the character, of its members.

It is better that no workman be added to the roll than that even one unworthy foot be permitted to cross the threshold of the Lodge. The uninitiated judge Masonry by the conduct of its individual members. You should be as careful of the reputation of your Lodge as of that of your family; and as you would admit none of bad character to your family, so should you carefully exclude such from your Lodge.

BROTHERS SENIOR AND JUNIOR WARDEN, to you are committed the pillars of strength and beauty. It is your duty, therefore, to set before the brethren the Corn of Nourishment, the Wine of Refreshment, and the Oil of Joy, symbols of the moral lessons of our fraternity, taught from your respective stations in the Lodge. In your own persons you should give evidence that you are governed by the principles of the fraternity, as it is only by a due regard for them in your own lives and conduct that you may expect obedience in others.

You are to assist the Master in the discharge of his trust, diffusing light and imparting knowledge to all whom he shall place under your care. In the absence of the Master, you will succeed to higher duties; your acquirements must, therefore, be such that the Craft may never suffer for want of proper instruction. The spirit which you have heretofore evinced in your attendance to the duties of Freemasonry leaves no doubt that your future conduct will be such as to merit the approbation of your brethren, and that the just reward which is due for meritorious services will be rendered in your advancement to higher stations.

TO THE BROTHERN OF THE LODGE.

Brethren of the Lodge, such is the nature of our Constitution, that some must of necessity rule and govern, others must submit and obey. The officers you have chosen, and who have been solemnly installed, are sufficiently acquainted with the rules of propriety, and the laws of the institution, to avoid exceeding the powers with which they are entrusted. The harmony of the Lodge will materially depend upon the good order you may preserve in the conduct of its business, and the courtesy and forbearance you may observe toward each other in its deliberations.

I charge you, then, as you shall answer at the last day, that you act worthy of the vocation with which you are called, and suffer no faults, no imperfections on your part, to tarnish the lustre of your jewels, or bring discredit on the Craft. Recommend Masonry to the world by the rectitude of your conduct. To this end make yourselves intimately acquainted with all its principles and obligations, and practice in your lives all its duties and requirements. Divest yourselves, brethren, of coldness and apathy, so fatal to your best interests. Shun those affections and groveling passions unworthy of a soul that claims affinity with the "Sons of Light," and put forth all your energies to grasp whatever is noble or elevating in thought, and whatever can reveal new and sublime ideas pertaining to our lofty destiny. Guard against dissensions among yourselves. Let no root of bitterness spring up to trouble you. Use all your exertions to preserve your Lodge pure, and prevent the introduction of vice or error in its thousand forms. If, in the frailty of humanity, a brother should fall under the influence of unholy feelings, or wander into forbidden paths, seek the wanderer out, bring him back to the fold, and show him the superior loveliness of virtue. Much may be accomplished by the force of good example, and by offering good counsel in a friendly spirit, ever remembering that

"To err is human, to forgive Divine."

Finally, brethren, be of one mind; live in peace. Let nothing disturb that pure, warm, and holy love which our ritual enjoins. Follow these injunctions, and your Lodge will flourish. May the tenets of your profession be transmitted through your Lodge unimpaired from generation to generation.

PROCLAMATION.

Marshal.—In the name of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York I proclaim the officers of ——— Lodge, No. ———, duly elected, appointed, and installed in their proper stations and places.

(This proclamation to be made in the South, West, and East.)

The Chaplain then pronounces the BENEDICTION.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting GOD, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, send down upon Thy servants here assembled the healthful spirit of Thy grace, that they may truly please Thee in all their doings. Grant, O Lord, power of mind and great understanding unto those whom we have this day clothed with authority to preside over and direct the affairs of this Lodge, and so replenish them with the truth of Thy doctrine, and adorn them with humility of life, that, both by word and example, they may faithfully serve Thee, to the glory of Thy holy name, and to the advancement of our beloved institution. Amen.

All respond.—So mote it be.

The Lodge may now proceed to business, and in due time be closed, and the proceedings of the occasion ended.

BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS.

1. No Freemason can be buried with the formalities of the Fraternity, unless it be at his own request, or that of some of his family, communicated to the Master of the Lodge of which he died a member, foreigners or sojourners excepted, and from this rule there can be no exception.
2. No Lodge, or body of Masons, can unite in the obsequies of a person not a Mason, without permission of the Grand Master, or consent of the Grand Lodge.
3. The Master of the Lodge, having received notice of the death of a brother, and of his request to be buried with the ceremonies of the Craft, fixes the day and hour for the funeral (unless previously arranged by the friends or relatives of the deceased), and issues his order to the Secretary to notify the Lodge. Members of other Lodges may be invited, but they should join with the Lodge performing the ceremonies.

4. Upon the death of a sojourner who had expressed a wish to be buried with Masonic ceremonies, the duties prescribed in Article 3 will devolve upon the Master of the Lodge within whose jurisdiction the death may have occurred, unless there be more than one Lodge in the place, and if so, the funeral services will be performed by the oldest Lodge, unless otherwise mutually arranged.

5. Whenever other societies, or the military, unite with Masons in the burial of a Mason, the body of the deceased must be in charge of the Lodge having jurisdiction, and the services should, in all respects, be conducted as if none but Masons were present.

6. If the deceased was a Grand or Past Grand Officer, the Officers of the Grand Lodge should be invited, when the Master of the Lodge having jurisdiction will invite the Grand Officer present who has attained the highest rank to conduct the burial service.

7. The pall-bearers should be Masons, and should be selected by the Master, with the approval of the family of the deceased. If the deceased was a member of a Chapter, or other Masonic body, a portion of the pall-bearers should be taken from these bodies severally.

8. The proper clothing to be worn at a Masonic funeral is black or dark clothes, high black hat, a black neck-tie, white gloves, a band of black crape around the left arm above the elbow, a sprig of evergreen on the left breast, and the apron if so ordered by the Master. The Master's gavel, the Wardens' columns, the Deacons' and Stewards' rods, the Tiler's sword, the Bible, the Book of Constitutions, and the Marshal's baton, should be trimmed with black crape.

9. As soon as the remains are placed in the coffin, there should be placed upon it a plain white lambskin apron.

10. If a Past or Present Grand Master, Deputy Grand Master, Grand Warden, Grand Treasurer, or Grand Secretary, should join the procession of a private Lodge, they take place after the Master of the Lodge. Two deacons, with white rods, should be appointed by the Master to attend a Grand Warden; and when the Grand Master or Deputy Grand Master is present, the Book of Constitutions should be borne before him, a Sword-Bearer should follow, and the Deacons, with white rods, on his right and left.

11. When the head of the procession shall have arrived at the place of interment, or where the services are to be performed, the lines should be opened, and the highest officer in rank, preceded by the Marshal and Tiler, pass through, and others follow in order.

12. Upon arriving at the entrance of the cemetery, the brethren should march in open order to the tomb or grave. If the body is to be placed in the former, the Tiler should take his place in front of the open door, and the lines be spread so as to form a circle. The coffin should be deposited within the circle, and the Stewards and Deacons should cross their rods over it. The bearers should take their places on either side, the mourners at the foot of the coffin, and the Master and other officers at the head. After the coffin has been placed in the tomb, the Stewards should cross their rods over the door, and the Deacons over the Master. If the body is to be deposited in the earth, a square should be formed around the grave, the body being placed on rests over it; the Stewards should cross their rods over the foot, and the Deacons the head, and retain their places throughout the services.

13. After the clergyman shall have performed the religious services of the church, the Masonic services should begin.

14. When a number of Lodges join in a funeral procession, the position of the youngest Lodge is at the head or right of the procession, and the oldest at the end or left, excepting that the Lodge of which deceased was a member shall have the place of honor.

15. The procession must return to the Lodge-room in the same order that it marched to the grave.

16. A Lodge in procession is to be strictly under the discipline of the Lodge-room; therefore, no brother can enter the procession or leave it without express permission from the Master, conveyed through the Marshal; nor shall Aprons be publicly worn except when in actual procession.

17. It is advisable that only the Committal Service be used at Masonic funerals.

18. If the remains of the deceased are to be removed to a distance where the brethren cannot follow to perform the ceremonies at the grave, the procession will return to the Lodge-room.

19. The brethren having assembled at the Lodge-room, the Lodge will be opened briefly on the third degree, the purpose of the communication must be stated, and remarks upon the character of the deceased may be made by the Master and brethren. The hour having arrived, the funeral procession is then formed under the direction of the Marshal, which moves forward in following order, and halts at the outer door of the building:

Tiler, with drawn sword;
 Two Stewards, with white rods;
 Musicians, if they are Masons. If not they precede the Stewards;
 Master Masons, two and two;
 Treasurer and Secretary;
 Two Wardens with their columns;
 Past Masters, two and two;
 The three Great Lights of Masonry,
 on a cushion covered with black cloth,
 borne by an old and venerable brother;
 Chaplain;
 THE MASTER,
 Supported by two Deacons, with white rods;

[The procession is afterwards completed thus:]

The * * * * Body;
 * *
 * *
 Upon the coffin lies * * a Master Mason's apron;
 * *
 * *
 Pall Bearers; * * * * Pall Bearers.

20. When more than one Lodge is in procession as a Lodge, the Lodges go according to the respective dates of their charters, the younger preceding the elder, but the Lodge which has the funeral pro- ceedings in charge occupies the place of honor, in the rear, and the Master of that Lodge governs the proceedings of the day. If the Grand Master or Deputy Grand Master is present, he of course takes precedence over all, and the same respect is usually shown to any officer of the Grand Lodge present.

alarmed our outer door, and another spirit has been summoned to the land where our fathers have gone before us.

MASONIC FUNERAL SERVICE.

PRAYER.

Most glorious God, Author of all good, and Giver of all mercy, pour down Thy blessings upon us, and strengthen our solemn engagements with the ties of sincere affection. May the present instance of mortality remind us of our approaching fate, and draw our attention toward Thee, the only refuge in time of need, that when the awful moment shall arrive, when we are about to quit this transitory scene, the enlivening prospect of Thy mercy may dispel the gloom of death; and after our departure hence in peace and in Thy favor, we may be received into Thine everlasting kingdom, to enjoy, in union with the souls of our departed friends, the just reward of a pious and virtuous life. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

The following exhortation is given by the Master :

BRETHREN, the solemn notes that betoken the dissolution of this earthly tabernacle have again

For use at grave only.

Again we are called to assemble among the habitations of the dead, to behold the "narrow house appointed for all living." Here, around us, in that peace which the world cannot give or take away, sleep the unnumbered dead. The gentle breeze fans their verdant covering, they heed it not, the sunshine and the storms pass over them, and they are not disturbed, stones and lettered monuments symbolize the affection of surviving friends, yet no sound proceeds from them, save that silent but thrilling admonition, "Seek ye the narrow path and the strait gate that lead unto eternal life."

We are again called upon to consider the uncertainty of human life, the immutable certainty of death, and the vanity of all human pursuits. Decrepitude and decay are written upon every living thing. The cradle and the coffin stand in juxtaposition to each other, old age and youth touch hands, and it is a melancholy truth, that so soon as we begin to live, that moment also we begin to die. It is passing strange that notwithstanding the daily mementoes of mortality that cross our path, notwithstanding the funeral bell so often tolls in our ears, and the "mournful procession" goes about our streets, that we will not more seriously consider our approaching fate. We go on from design to design, add hope to hope, and lay out plans for the employment of many years, until we are suddenly alarmed at the approach of the Messenger of Death, at a moment when we least expect him, and which we properly conclude to be the meridian of our existence.

What, then, are all the externals of human dignity, the power of wealth, the dreams of ambition, the pride of intellect, or the charms of beauty, when nature has paid her just debt? Fix your eyes on the last sad scene, and view life stripped of its ornaments, and exposed in its natural meanness, and you must be persuaded of the utter emptiness of these delusions. In the grave all fallacies are detected, all ranks are leveled, all distinctions are done away. The monarch at whose bidding nations pay obeisance, and the beggar shivering at the gate, are equals in the house of death.

While we drop the sympathetic tear over the grave (or coffin) of our deceased brother, let us cast around his foibles, whatever they may have been the broad mantle of Masonic charity, nor withhold from his memory the commendation that his virtues claim at our hands. Perfection on earth has never yet been attained; the wisest, as well as the best of men, have gone astray. Suffer, then, the apologies of human nature to plead for him who can no longer plead for himself.

Our present meeting and proceedings will have been vain and useless if they fail to excite our serious reflections, and strengthen our resolutions of amendment. Be then persuaded, my brethren, by the uncertainty of human life, and the unsubstantial nature of all its pursuits, and no longer postpone the all-important concern of preparing for eternity. Let us each embrace the present moment, and while time and opportunity offer, prepare for that great change, when the pleasures of the world shall be as poison to our lips, and the happy reflection consequent upon a well-spent life affords the only consolation. Thus shall our hopes be not frustrated, nor we hurried unprepared into the presence of that all-wise and powerful Judge, to whom the secrets of all hearts are known. Let us resolve to maintain with greater assiduity the dignified character of our profession. May our faith be evinced in a correct moral walk and deportment; may our hope be bright as the glorious mysteries that will be revealed hereafter; and our charity boundless as the wants of our fellow-creatures. And having faithfully discharged the great duties which we owe to God, to our neighbor, and ourselves, when at last it shall please the Grand Master of the universe to summon us into his eternal presence, may the trestle-board of our whole lives pass such inspection that it may be given unto each of us to "eat of the hidden manna," and to receive the "white stone with a new name," that will insure perpetual and unspeakable happiness at his right hand.

The Master then presenting the apron, continues:

The lambskin or white leather apron is an emblem of innocence, and the badge of a Mason. It is more ancient than the Golden Fleece or Roman eagle, more honorable than the Star and Garter, when worthily worn.

The Master then deposits it in the grave (or, on the coffin):

This emblem I now deposit in the grave (or, on the coffin) of our deceased brother. By it we are reminded of the universal dominion of Death. The arm of Friendship cannot interpose to prevent his coming, the wealth of the world cannot purchase our release, nor will the innocence of youth or the charms of beauty propitiate his purpose. The mattock, the coffin, and the melancholy grave, admonish us of our mortality, and that, sooner or later, these frail bodies must moulder in their parent dust.

The Master holding the evergreen, continues:

This evergreen, which once marked the temporary resting-place of the illustrious dead, is an emblem of our faith in the immortality of the soul. By this we are reminded that we have an immortal part within us, that shall survive the grave, and which shall never, never, NEVER die. By it we are admonished that, though like our brother, whose remains lie before us, we shall soon be clothed in the habiliments of DEATH and deposited in the silent tomb, yet, through our belief in an all-wise and merciful God, we may confidently hope that our souls will bloom in eternal spring. This, too, I deposit in the grave (or, on the coffin). Alas, my brother!"

The brethren then move in procession around the place of interment, and severally drop the sprig of evergreen into the grave, exclaiming, Alas! my brother; after which the Masonic funeral honors are given:

The honors are given by extending the hands toward the grave with the palms up; all the brethren repeating in unison:

“To the grave we consign the mortal remains of our deceased brother.”

The arms are crossed over the breast, the left above the right, the fingers touching the shoulders, all repeating in unison:

The hands are then raised above the head, and looking upward, all repeating in unison:

“His spirit we commend to God who gave it.”

The hands are then dropped to the side.

NOTE.—It is proper to give the funeral honors but once.

The Chaplain will recite the following or some other appropriate

PRAYER.

Our Father, Which art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

The following, or some other suitable ode, may now be sung:

MUSIC—Pleyel's Hymn.

Solemn strikes the fun'ral chime,
Notes of our departing time,
As we journey here below,
Thro' a pilgrimage of woe.

Here another guest we bring;
Seraphs of celestial wing,
To our fun'ral altar come,
Waft our friend and brother home.

Lord of all! below—above—
Fill our hearts with truth and love;
When dissolves our earthly tie,
Take us to Thy Lodge on high.

The Master then continues the ceremony.

Friends, from time immemorial, it has been the custom among the fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, upon request, to accompany the remains of a Brother to the place of interment, and there to deposit them with the usual formalities.

In conformity to this usage, and at the request of our deceased brother, whose memory we revere, and whose loss we now deplore, we have assembled in the character of Masons, to offer before the world the last tribute of our affection, thereby demonstrating the sincerity of our past esteem for him, and our steady attachment to the principles of the Institution.

The Great Creator having been pleased, out of His infinite mercy, to remove our brother from the cares and troubles of this transitory existence, to a state of endless duration, thus severing another link from the fraternal chain that binds us together, may we, who survive him, be more strongly cemented in the ties of union and friendship; that, during the short space allotted us here, we may wisely and usefully employ our time, and, in the reciprocal intercourse of kind and friendly acts, mutually promote the welfare and happiness of each other. Unto the grave we have consigned the body of our deceased brother, earth to earth (earth being sprinkled on the coffin), ashes to ashes, dust to dust, there to remain till the trump shall sound on the resurrection morn. We can cheerfully leave him in the hands of a Being, who has done all things well, who is glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders.

To those of his immediate relatives and friends, who are most heart-stricken at the loss we have all sustained, we have but little of this world's consolation to offer. We can only sincerely, deeply, and most affectionately sympathize with them in their afflictive bereavement. But we can say, that HE, who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, looks down with infinite compassion upon the widow and fatherless, in the hour of their desolation, and that the Great Architect will fold the arms of His love and protection around those who put their trust in Him.

Then let us improve this solemn warning, that at last, when the sheeted dead are stirring, when the great white throne is set, we shall receive from the Omniscient Judge the thrilling invitation: "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

The Master or Chaplain will repeat the following or some other appropriate

PRAYER.

Almighty and most merciful Father, we adore Thee as God of time and eternity. As it has pleased Thee to take from the light of our abode one dear to our hearts, we beseech Thee to bless and sanctify unto us this dispensation of Thy providence. Inspire our hearts with wisdom from on high, that we may glorify Thee in all our ways. May we realize that Thine all-seeing eye is upon us, and be so influenced by the spirit of truth and love that we may enjoy the Divine approbation here below. And when our toils on earth shall have ended, may we be raised to the enjoyment of fadeless light and immortal life in that kingdom where faith and hope shall end, and love and joy prevail through the eternal ages. And Thine, O righteous Father, shall be the glory forever. Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

The service will be closed with the following benediction:

“The peace that passeth all understanding rest and abide in you now and forever.” Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

THE EHLERS SERVICE.

On arriving at the place of interment the brethren will form parallel lines, the Master, Wardens and Chaplain at the head, and the family and mourners at the foot of the grave. The coffin having been deposited in the grave, the Master will say:

Master.—From time immemorial it has been the custom of the Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, upon request, to accompany the body of a deceased brother to the place of interment, and there to deposit it with the usual formalities.

In conformity to this ancient usage, we have assembled at this time in the character of Masons to offer before the world the last tribute of our affection, and thereby to demonstrate in the strongest possible manner, the sincerity of our past esteem for him, and our steady attachment to the principles of the Fraternity.

Man that is born of a woman is of few days and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not. In the midst of life we are in death. Of whom may we seek succor but of Thee, O Lord, who for our sins art justly displeased.

LET US PRAY.

Chaplain.—Most glorious and merciful Lord God, Author of all good, and Giver of every perfect gift: vouchsafe, we implore Thee, Thy blessing: and under the solemnities of this occasion bind us closer in the ties of brotherly love and affection. May the present example of mortality sensibly remind us of our approaching end; and may it tend to wean our affections from the things of this transitory world, and to fix them more devotedly upon Thee, the only sure refuge in time of need. And at last, Great Architect of the Universe, when our journey shall be near its end: when the silver cord shall be loosened and the golden bowl be broken: O, in that moment of mortal extremity, may the “lamp of Thy love” dispel the gloom of the dark valley; and may we be enabled to “work an entrance” into the Celestial Lodge above, and in Thy glorious presence, amid its ineffable mysteries, enjoy a union with the souls of our departed friends, perfect in the happiness of Heaven, and durable as eternity. Amen.

Brethren.—So mote it be.

Here the following may be sung:

Solemn strikes the funeral chime,
Notes of our departing time,
As we journey here below
Through a pilgrimage of woe.

Here another guest we bring:
Seraph of celestial wing
To our funeral altar come;
Waft this friend and brother home.

LORD of all! below—above—
Fill our hearts with truth and love;
When dissolves our earthly tie
Take us to thy Lodge on high.

Master.—“The hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out in the Spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones,

“And caused me to pass by them round about; and, behold, there were very many in the open valley; and, lo, they were very dry.

“And he said unto me, Son of Man, can these bones live? And I answered, O LORD God, thou knowest.

“Again he said unto me, Prophecy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the LORD.

“Thus saith the LORD God unto these bones: Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live.

“And I will lay sinews upon you and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

“So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

“And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh came up upon them, and the skin covered them above: but there was no breath in them.

“Then said He unto me, Prophecy unto the wind: prophecy, Son of Man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the LORD God: Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live.

“So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.”

Brethren, we are again called upon by a solemn admonition to regard the uncertainty of human life, the certainty of death, and the vanity of all earthly ambitions. Decrepitude and decay are written on every thing. But a span—a heart-beat—a breath—divides the cradle from the grave; and it is a melancholy truth, that so soon as we begin to live, that moment also we begin to die. Frailty and imperfection are the incidents of our earthly condition; the Almighty fiat has gone forth—“Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.” What an eloquent commentary is here exhibited upon the instability of every human pursuit: and how touchingly does it echo the sad sentiment of the immortal maxim, “vanity of vanities, all is vanity.”

The city of the dead, my brethren, has a devout emphasis in its solemn silence. It tells us of the gathering within its embrace of parents' fondest hopes; of the severance of all earthly ties which bound us to the departed ones who gave us birth; of the darkness which has enshrouded the bright prospects of the loving husband and the devoted wife; of the unavailing grief of the affectionate brother and tender sister; and of the sleep of death which here envelops many an early, many an instantaneous call into eternity—given in the midst of health, of gaiety and of brightest hopes.

The last offices we pay to the dead are useless except as they constitute lessons to the living. The cold, marble form enclosed in the "narrow house" before you, is alike insensible to our sorrows and our ceremonies. It matters not now to him whether two or three gather around the grave to perform these funeral rites: or that hundreds have assembled, with the banners and insignia of our Fraternity, to deposit him in his final resting place. It is of little moment how, or in what manner, his obsequies are performed: whether the wild winds chant his requiem, or it be accompanied with rare and costly music and the minstrelsy of many voices. His spirit has gone to accomplish the destiny of all our race; while his body, in the slumber of the grave, will be resolved into its original elements.

What, then, are all the externals of human dignity—the power of wealth, the dreams of ambition, the pride of intellect, or the charms of beauty—when nature has paid her just debt? Look on the last scene and view humanity stripped of its ornaments; and you must needs be persuaded of the utter emptiness of all human delusions. The monarch, at whose bidding nations pay obeisance, and the beggar at his gate, are equals in death. The one must part with his sceptre and his crown—the other with his staff and his rags—both are indebted to their mother earth for a common sepulchre. In the grave all fallacies are forgotten, all ranks are leveled, and all distinctions are obliterated.

It is of record, in the volume of Eternal Truth, that perfection on earth can never be attained. The best of men have erred, and the wisest of our race gone sadly astray. Suffer, then, the apologies of human nature to plead for him who can no longer plead for himself.

While we drop the sympathetic tear over the grave of our departed brother, let us not withhold from his memory the commendation that his virtues claim at our hands.

Master presenting the Apron continues:

The Lambskin or White Apron, is an emblem of innocence and the badge of a Mason. It is more ancient than the Golden Fleece; more honorable than the Star and Garter.

This emblem I now deposit in the grave of our deceased brother. By this we are reminded of the universal dominion of death. The arm of friendship cannot interpose to prevent his coming: the wealth of the world cannot purchase our release: nor will the innocence of youth, nor the charms of beauty propitiate his purpose. The mattock, the coffin, and the melancholy grave, admonish us of our mortality; and that, sooner or later, these frail, weak bodies must moulder in their parent dust.

Master holding the Evergreen continues:

This evergreen is an emblem of our faith in the immortality of the soul. By this we are reminded of our high and glorious destiny beyond the "world of shadows," and that there dwells within our tabernacle of clay an imperishable, immortal spirit, over which the grave has no dominion, and death no power.

NOTE.—Master then drops the sprig into the grave exclaiming "Alas! My Brother!" and likewise each brother in turn, beginning at the right of the Master.

HONORS.

The funeral honors are given by extending the hands toward the grave with the palms up, the brethren repeating in unison

"To the grave we consign the mortal remains of our deceased Brother."

The arms are then crossed over the breast, the left above the right, the fingers touching the shoulder, the brethren repeating in unison

"We cherish his memory here."

The hands are then raised above the head and looking upward all repeating in unison

"His spirit we commend to God who gave it."

The hands are then dropped to the side.

Master.—Forasmuch as it has pleased Almighty God, in his inscrutable Providence, to take out of the world the soul of our deceased brother, we therefore commit his body to the grave—earth to earth (casting a handful of earth in the grave).

Sen. Warden.—Ashes to ashes (casting a handful of earth in the grave).

Jun. Warden.—Dust to dust (casting a handful of earth in the grave).

Master.—Looking for the general resurrection in the last day, when the earth and the sea shall give up the dead.

We consign him to the grave—to the long sleep of death; and so profound will be that sleep that the giant tread of the earthquake even shall not disturb it. There will he slumber until the Arch-angel's trump shall usher in that eventful morn, when by our Supreme Grand Master's word he will be raised to that blissful lodge which no time can remove, and which to those worthy of admission will remain open during the boundless ages of eternity. In that Heavenly Sanctuary the Mystic Light, unmingled with darkness, will remain unbroken and perpetual. There amid the sunbeam smiles of Immutable Love, Almighty God, in His infinite mercy, grant that we finally meet to part no more.

There is an hour of peaceful rest,
 To mourning wanderers given;
 There is a home for souls distressed,
 A balm for every wounded breast,
 'Tis found alone in heaven.

To those of his immediate relatives and friends who are most heart-stricken at the loss we have all sustained, we have nothing of this world's consolation to offer. We can only sincerely, deeply, and most affectionately sympathize with them in their afflictive bereavement; and commend them to the Infinite Father who looks down with compassion upon the widow and fatherless in the hour of their desolation: He will fold the arms of His love and protection around those who put their trust and confidence in Him.

Then let us each in our respective stations, so improve this solemn warning, that at last, when the volume of the record of our life is opened, we may receive from the Omniscient Eternal Judge the thrilling invitation, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

LET US PRAY.

Chaplain.—Almighty and most merciful God,
 in whom we live and move and have our being,
 and before whom all men must appear to render an account for the deeds done in the body: we do most earnestly beseech Thee, as we now surround the grave of our deceased brother, to impress deeply upon our minds the solemnities of this hour. May we ever remember that "in the midst of life we are in death," and so live and act that we shall be fittingly prepared to die when the hour of our departure is at hand.

And oh, Gracious Father, vouchsafe to us, we pray Thee, divine assistance to redeem our misspent time; and in the discharge of the duties Thou hast assigned us in the erection of our moral edifice, may we have wisdom from on high to direct us; strength commensurate with our task to support us, and the beauty of holiness to adorn and render all our labors acceptable in Thy sight. And at last when our work on earth is done, when the messenger of death shall call us from our labors, may we obtain an everlasting rest in that Spiritual House not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. Amen.

Brethren.—So mote it be.

The Master then approaches the head of the grave (or the entrance to the tomb), and says:

Soft and safe to thee, my brother, be this earthly bed! Bright and glorious be thy rising from it! Fragrant be the acacia sprig that here shall flourish! May the earliest buds of spring unfold their beauties o'er this thy resting place, and here may the sweetness of the summer's last rose linger longest! Though the cold blasts of winter may lay them in the dust, and for a time destroy the loveliness of their existence, yet the destruction is not final; and in the spring-time they shall surely bloom again. So, in the bright morning of the world's resurrection, thy mortal frame, now laid in the dust by the chilling blast of Death, shall come again into newness of life, and expand in immortal beauty in realms beyond the skies. Until then, dear brother—until then—farewell!

The grave will now be filled with earth and the service closed with the following benediction:

“The peace that passeth all understanding rest and abide in you now and forever.” Amen.

Response.—So mote it be.

A SHORTER FORM OF BURIAL SERVICE.

On arriving at the place of interment the brethren will form parallel lines, the Master, Wardens and Chaplain at the head, and the family and mourners at the foot of the grave. The coffin having been deposited in the grave, the Master will say:

PREROGATIVES AND DUTIES

OF THE WORSHIPFUL MASTER.

By the prerogatives of the Worshipful Master are meant the inherent right and authority he possesses by reason of the position he occupies, giving him, as it does, extraordinary powers and privileges, which belong to the presiding officer of no other association. In all cases his decision on points of order is final in the Lodge, for it is a settled principle of Masonic law that no appeal can be taken to the Lodge from the decision of the Master. The Grand Lodge alone, or the Grand Master, can overrule his decision on any point of order.

The prerogatives of the W. M. are too numerous and varied to be all enumerated. Some of the principal ones are here presented, coupled with some of the more important of his duties, which are plainly in harmony with his prerogatives.

FIRST PREROGATIVE.—To convene his Lodge, set it to work, and give it proper instruction for its labor.

The W. M. is the judge of the emergency that may require a special or called meeting, and without his consent, except at the times for stated or regular communication, the Lodge cannot be convened, and any business transacted at a special communication without his sanction is illegal and void.

FIRST DUTY.—To attend regularly the communications of his Lodge.

This duty is so plain as to hardly need a comment. Few things weaken and demoralize the Lodge so much as the Master's frequent absence.

SECOND PREROGATIVE.—To preside at all communications of his Lodge.

This is a self-evident proposition, and follows as a natural consequence of his installation. There is this peculiarity attached to the Master of a Masonic Lodge; when once duly installed, he cannot resign nor can he be deprived of his right to preside, by any power residing in the Lodge itself. He is bound, however, to pay homage to the Grand Master; hence, when the Grand Master, or his Deputy, or other duly appointed representative, appears in the Lodge, the right of the Master to preside temporarily disappears, unless the superior authority waive the right.

The W.'.M.'. may call upon an experienced Past Master to preside, but he remains responsible to the Grand Lodge for the proceedings, as fully as though he held the gavel in person. He may resume the East at any moment, in his discretion.

In his absence, the S. W. opens, and presides over, the Lodge. In the absence of both the W.'. M.'. and the S. W., these powers devolve upon the J. W. In the absence of all three, the Lodge cannot be opened, and in all cases the Lodge cannot legally be opened unless the charter is present.

SECOND DUTY.—To open his Lodge at the time specified in the By-laws, and close it at a suitable hour.

There is nothing more discouraging than the tardiness of the W.'. M.'. in opening his Lodge. Carelessness and indifference on his part beget the same in the members. The Master is the sole judge of the time to close the Lodge, but communications should not be unduly prolonged.

THIRD PREROGATIVE.—To fill temporarily all vacancies that may occur in the Lodge offices.

As it is his duty to set the craft at work, it is necessary that he have the active coöperation of all the officers, and if any are absent he has full power to select from the brethren present such as he may deem competent to discharge the duties. There is no advancement by right. If the S. W. is absent, the J. W. does not ex-officio fill the West. The W.'. M.'. appoints a S. W. pro tem.

THIRD DUTY.—To preserve order in the Lodge.

His very name, MASTER, suggests the authority with which he is invested to keep order. The GAVEL, placed in his hand when he was installed, is an emblem of power and control, and if properly wielded will insure cheerful obedience and secure perfect order and decorum.

FOURTH PREROGATIVE AND DUTY.—To regulate the admission of visitors.

One of the duties of the W.'. M.'. is the preservation of harmony among the brethren by the exercise of vigilance against the admission of cowans, or of those brethren who would by their presence disturb the peace of the Lodge and hinder its work. In the discharge of this duty the W.'. M.'. should exercise his prerogative and refuse admission to any visitor whose presence would be objectionable to any member. It would be a poor incentive to peace and harmony to admit one who would cause offense.

FIFTH PREROGATIVE.—To control and terminate discussions.

This right is not to be exercised in a haughty, arbitrary, or dictatorial manner, but with determination to administer impartial justice, to the end that the peace and harmony of the Lodge may be preserved, and its prosperity secured. This prerogative is a landmark essential to the position of the W.'. M.'. the only method by which he can sustain himself in his responsibility to the Grand Lodge, and, happily for his position, one that will rarely bring him into conflict with his brethren, while the good sense of obedience, inculcated in every degree of Masonry, will bend the minds of the brethren to support the W. M. in a judicious exercise of power. It is his right to discuss all questions without leaving the chair.

FIFTH DUTY.—To preserve peace and harmony in the Lodge, and by his deportment both in his Lodge and out of it, to set an example to his brethren.

The W. M. should impress upon the members of his Lodge the dignity and high importance of Masonry, admonish them never to disgrace it, charge them to practice out of the Lodge those duties which they have been taught in it, and by amiable, discreet, and virtuous conduct, convince mankind of the excellence of the institution, so that, when any one is said to be a Freemason, the world may know that he is one to whom the brotherhood may pour forth its sorrows, to whom distress may prefer its suit, whose hand is guided by justice, and whose heart is expanded by benevolence.

SIXTH PREROGATIVE AND DUTY.—To be the custodian of the charter of the Lodge, and transmit it to his successor.

At his installation the W. M. receives in charge the charter of his Lodge, which is by him transmitted to his successor in office. Under its authority alone can the Lodge be organized, and its presence is necessary to the legality of all meetings. It is his duty carefully to preserve it, as its loss would cause serious inconvenience.

SEVENTH PREROGATIVE.—To determine all questions of order, and what business shall be brought before the Lodge.

SEVENTH DUTY.—To render the ritualistic work of the Lodge and instruct the brethren therein.

The Master should be in fact master of the work, competent to render every part thereof.

EIGHTH PREROGATIVE.—To appoint all committees.

EIGHTH DUTY.—To cause to be made an investigation into all unmasonic conduct on the part of members of his Lodge, of non-affiliates and members of other Lodges resident within his jurisdiction.

NINTH PREROGATIVE.—To order the issuance of notifications to members.

The distinction between "Notification" and a "Summons" is so great that it is strange how many overlook it. The former issues from the W. M. or the Lodge, and is practically a strong Invitation. It is at the option of the brother receiving it to attend the meeting or not, as he pleases. But a "Summons" comes directly under the province of his OB., and for its neglect he may be disciplined and punished. To disobey a summons is a serious Masonic offense.

NINTH DUTY.—To visit the sick.

TENTH PREROGATIVE.—To give the casting vote in case of a tie. This is limited, however, to votes taken viva voce, or by upraised hands.

The W. M. may vote upon ordinary questions or not, as he chooses, but it is not usual for him to do so. Upon questions requiring the ballot he should always vote.

In ordinary questions, if there is a tie, he should settle questions by his vote.

TENTH DUTY.—To exercise supervision over the minutes, that nothing improper be recorded, and nothing essential to a complete record be omitted.

ELEVENTH PREROGATIVE.—To sign all drafts upon the Treasurer for the payment of Lodge disbursements, by vote of the Lodge. Nor may the Treasurer lawfully pay out funds without such order.

It is usual to give the W. M. authority to appropriate, in emergent cases of charity, small sums, without taking the consent of the Lodge, but for all other disbursements the treasury of the Lodge can only be opened by Lodge order.

TWELFTH PREROGATIVE.—To represent the Lodge in Grand Lodge.

THIRTEENTH PREROGATIVE.—To select the appointive officers of the Lodge.

FOURTEENTH PREROGATIVE.—To install his successor.

This prerogative not being a duty, it is always competent for a retiring Master to select a well qualified brother to conduct the ceremonies of installation.
