The second slab (pl. xl, 2) commemorates the god's entrance into Attike. He stands, a comely youth dressed in chiton, panther-skin, himation, and kóthoroi, beside his own altar beneath a spreading vine. His left hand held a thýrsos, his right hand probably a phiale. Approaching the altar is Ikarios, who drags a goat for sacrifice with one hand and dangles a grape-bunch in the other. The old Attic hero is attended by his hound Maira and followed by his daughter Erigone, who carries a tray of cakes and fruit. Her figure is balanced by that of a Satyr with panther-skin and crook, standing on tip-toe in the pose known as aposkopeton.

On the third slab (pl. xl, 3) we have, if I am not mistaken¹, a scene of great interest—the marriage of Dionysos and the Baslinna or 'Queen' of Athens². A young man of large but somewhat soft and effeminate build, easily characterised as Dionysos by means of attributes, stands beside a young woman draped in a Doric péplos, who pulls forward an ample veil with a gesture familiar to us as that of a bride. To the right of the youthful pair is a broad matronal figure, who bears a cornu copiae in her left hand and most likely held a sceptre in her right. She pl. 12, 1, Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. pl. 123 fig. 104, Reinach Rép. Stat. i. 22 no. 2, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 171, 177 f., 576 f.).

¹ F. Matz loc. cit., followed in the main by J. R. Wheeler loc. cit., held that the third slab represents, from left to right, Hestia, Theseus, Eirene; the fourth slab, Eirene, Theseus, Hestia, Dionysos. Eirene and Hestia stood together in the Prytaneion (Paus. i. 18. 3), and might perhaps have symbolised the public and private happiness of the citizens; but the Greeks never hit upon a distinctive art-type for Hestia (A. Preuner in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 2653), and the younger goddess of the third slab is obviously conceived as a bride.

J. N. Svoronos loc. cit. thinks that the two slabs show Ptolemy Philometor Soter ii and his family paying homage to Dionysos, and that the figures, from right to left, should be identified as follows: (1) his mother Kleopatra ii with sceptre; (2) Ptolemy Philometor Soter ii with club; (3) his wife, name unknown, with sceptre and cornu copiae; (4) his favourite daughter Berenike iii with sceptre and cornu copiae; (5) his young son Ptolemy king of Kypros; (6) his other daughter Kleopatra Tryphaina; (7) his youngest son Ptolemy Auletes, whose figure may have been cut away either on political grounds or because he had irreverently assumed the title Dionysos (Loukian. de calumn. 16). This very ingenious hypothesis rests on the assumption that the reliefs came from a thymèle erected in the orchestra of the theatre, for the performance of such competitions as had been previously held in the Oideion burnt by Aristion (85 B.C.), at the expense of Ptolemy Philometor Soter ii—a king who is known to have conferred many benefits upon the Athenians (Paus. i. 8. 6 ff.). But the existence of such a thymèle, in spite of Svoronos' long and learned advocacy, is still highly problematic.

² Supra p. 686. An Attic oinochóe of fifth-century style, now in the British Museum, has another rendering of the same scene (Farnell Cults of Gk. States v. 260).

has long since been recognised as Tyche¹, that late successor of the old-world mother-goddess². To the left a whole figure has been carefully chiselled away from the background. Since that part of the base on which it stood has been removed along with it, we may surmise that it was carried off as being a piece of exceptional beauty, to be set up again in some rich man's house. And since the marks on the back-wall indicate a slender male figure with something raised on the spectator's left, I have restored it as Eros with wings³. Tyche carrying the horn of Amaltheia was paired with a winged Eros at Aigeira⁴; and coins of the town struck by Plautilla prove that the former stood grasping a sceptre in her right hand, while the latter with crossed legs held a long torch or staff pointing upwards in both hands⁵. Together they would be appropriate witnesses of the ritual marriage.

Not less interesting is the fourth slab (pl. xl, 4), on which we see Dionysos finally installed in his own theatre. He sits in an attitude of easy dignity on a gorgeous marble throne, recalling that of the priest who personated him in the front row of the auditorium. The background shows the broken surface of the Akropolis-rock, and above its edge rise the eight columns of the Parthenon's façade. It is probable that a thýrsos or sceptre once rested against the god's left shoulder. Of the three figures before him two are already known to us. His bride, the 'Queen,' still fingering her veil, perhaps held out a wreath towards him. Tyche is present, as before, with cornu copiae and sceptre. And between them stands a short but sturdy figure with himation and club—Theseus, the embodiment of the Athenian people assembled in the theatre to pay homage to Dionysos on his throne.

The Greek genius even in its decline knew how to build old materials into new and significant shapes. This series of reliefs ostensibly illustrates the infancy, the advent, the marriage, and the installation of Dionysos. But the art-types employed are redolent of old associations. Thus the Kouretes take our thoughts

¹ J. R. Wheeler loc. cit. p. 141.

² Supra p. 136 n. 6, cp. p. 597 n. 4, infra ch. i § 8 (a).

³ It is tempting to conjecture that this was the very statue to which a famous but of course apocryphal story attached: Athen. 591 A και Πραξιτέλης δὲ ὁ ἀγαματοποιὸς ἔρων αὐτῆς (sc. Phryne) τὴν Κνιδίαν Ἀφροδίτην ἀπ' αὐτῆς ἐπλάσαστο, καὶ ἐν τῇ τοῦ Ἐρωτος βάσει τῇ ὑπὸ τὴν σκηνὴν τοῦ θεάτρου ἐπέγραψε· Πραξιτέλης ὃν ἔπασχε διηκριβῶσεν ἔρωτα, | ἐξ ἰδίης ἔλκων ἀρχέτυπον κραδίης, | Φρόνῃ μισθὸν ἐμεῖο διδοὺς ἐμέ. φίλτρα δὲ βάλλω | οὐκέτ' οὐστεύων, ἀλλ' ἀπενιζόμενος (cp. Anth. Plan. 204 Simonides!). See, however, W. Klein Praxiteles Leipzig 1898 p. 219 ff.

⁴ Paus. 7. 26. 8. See further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1086 n. 3 med.

⁵ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. ii. 91 pl. S, 8 f., Frazer Pausanias iv. 179 fig. 24.

back to Crete and remind us that Dionysos himself was but a rebirth of Zeus¹. Ikarios' goat recalls the ancient custom of dancing round a he-goat at Ikaria²; and the presence of the Satyr suggests the aboriginal goat-dances of south Europe³. Similarly the marriage⁴ and the enthronement⁵ of the young god are reminiscent of half-forgotten sanctities. In short, the whole frieze might serve as an epitome of the development that we have been studying throughout the last seven sections.

We cannot here pursue Roman parallels. But a passing allusion must be made to the cult of Vediovis, the youthful Iupiter⁶. Among the few things known for certain about this god is the statement of Gellius⁷ that in his temple between the Arx and the Capitolium the cult-statue held arrows and in consequence was often dubbed Apollo; further, that the ritual involved the sacrifice of a she-goat as if it were a human being⁸; and lastly, that the effigy of this animal stood beside that of the god. All this suggests comparison with Dionysos, e.g. with the Tenedian Dionysos Anthroporrhaites, to whom a calf dressed in buskins was sacrificed, presumably in lieu of a human victim⁹. The Dionysiac character of Vediovis seems to have struck the Romans themselves, if we may argue from certain republican coins, which

¹ Supra pp. 398 f., 647. ² Supra pp. 678, 689 n. 1, 705. ³ Supra p. 703 ff.

⁴ Supra pp. 649 n. 7, 650, 686, 694 f. ⁵ Supra pp. 153, 398, 646 f., 650, 661.

⁶ Ov. fast. 3. 437 Iuppiter est iuvenis: iuvenalis aspice voltus, 445 ff. nunc vocor ad nomen: vegrandia farra colonae | quae male creverunt, vescaque parva vocant; | vis ea si verbi est, cur non ego Vediovis aedem | aedem non magni suspicer esse Iovis? Paul. ex Fest. p. 379 Müller, p. 519 Lindsay vesculi male curati et graciles homines. ve enim syllabam rei parvae praeponabant, unde Vediovem parvam Iovem et vegrandem fabam minutam dicebant.

⁷ Gell. 5. 12. 11 f. simulacrum igitur dei Vediovis, quod est in aede, de qua supra (5. 12. 2) dixi, sagittas tenet, quae sunt videlicet partae ad nocendum. quapropter eum deum plerumque Apollinem esse dixerunt; immolaturaque ritu humano capra, eiusque animalis figmentum iuxta simulacrum stat. Cp. Ov. fast. 3. 438 ff. aspice deinde, manu fulmina nulla tenet. | fulmina post ausos caelum adfectare Gigantes | sumpta Iovi. primo tempore inermis erat (this is, I think, compatible with the supposition that the statue really held a thunderbolt, which was mistaken for a mere bundle of arrows—harmless, of course, without their bow)...stat quoque capra simul: Nymphae pavisse feruntur | Cretides; infanti lac dedit illa Iovi.

⁸ The expression ritu humano (supra n. 7) is thus understood by Frazer *Golden Bough*² ii. 168, *ib.*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild i. 33—rightly, as I conceive.

⁹ Supra p. 659 f. Cp. also the case of Embaros, who, after promising to sacrifice his daughter to Artemis on condition that his family should become hereditary priests of the goddess, concealed the maiden in the temple and sacrificed a she-goat dressed in her garments instead (Pausanias the lexicographer ap. Eustath. in Il. p. 331, 25 ff., Append. prov. 2. 54, Soud. s.v. Ἐμβάρως ἐλευ: see further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3226 f., J. Escher-Bürkli in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 2482, and on the substitution of goats for human victims Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 166 n. 1, *ib.*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild i. 249).

are commonly believed to represent that deity¹. Denarii issued by L. Caesius c. 91 B.C. have as their obverse type the head and shoulders of a young god, who is brandishing a thunderbolt of three tines (fig. 525)². A bolt of this form might be popularly viewed as a bundle of arrows; and a youthful archer would inevitably be taken for Apollo³. Denarii of C. Licinius Macer c. 85 B.C. repeat the type⁴. About the same date other and more obviously Apolline renderings of the head are found on coins of M'. Fonteius (figs. 526⁵, 527⁶). That this too was intended for a young head of Jupiter is clear from the thunderbolt added beneath it. But the god wears a bay-wreath, not a mere fillet; and that trait, if original, would give a further reason for the confusion of Vediovis with Apollo⁷. We cannot, ¹ This is the opinion expressed by E. Babelon, P. Gardner, H. Grueber, and numismatists in general. It is called in question by H. Jordan in the Commentationes philologicae in honorem Theodori Mommseni Berolini 1877 p. 365, Preller—Jordan *Röm. Myth.*³ i. 264 n. 3, H. Jordan Topographie der Stadt Rom im Alterthum Berlin 1885 i. 2. 116 n. 118, A. Klügmann in the Arch. Zeit. 1878 xxxvi. 106 f.

Fig. 525.

Fig. 526.

Fig. 527.

² Babelon Monn. rép. rom. i. 281 f. fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. ii. 290 pl. 94, 10, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 200 Münzt. 3, 4. I figure a specimen in my collection. The reverse has the two Lares Praestites seated on a rock with a dog between them (P. Gardner in W. Warde Fowler The Roman Festivals London 1899 p. 351 f., cp. p. 101 n. 1).

³ The monogram is not, however, a ligature of ΔP for Apollo (T. Mommsen Histoire de la monnaie romaine Paris 1870 ii. 370, Babelon loc. cit.), but a compendium of the word Roma (G. B. Zannoni Reale Galleria di Firenze illustrata Florence 1817 iv. 3. 176, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 200, A. Klügmann loc. cit., H. Montagu in the Num. Chron. Third Series 1895 xv. 162, P. Gardner loc. cit., H. Grueber in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 322 n. 2).

⁴ Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 132 f. fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 320 pl. 38, 8. The reverse has Minerva in a galloping quadriga.

⁵ Babelon Monn. rép. rom. i. 505 ff. no. 11 fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 323 pl. 38, 13, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 200 Münzt. 3, 5—6. I illustrate a specimen in the Fitzwilliam Museum.

⁶ Babelon Monn. rép. rom. i. 505 ff. nos. 9 f. figs., cp. nos. 12 f. figs., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 322 f. pl. 38, 11 f., cp. p. 323 pl. 38, 14 and fig. I illustrate a specimen in my collection.

⁷ Yet another reason for the mistake was the goat at Vediovis' side. On the relations of the animal to the Greek Apollon see L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pét. 1869 however, put much faith in the accuracy of the die-sinker; for he varies loose locks (fig. 526) with archaistic ringlets (fig. 527). The reverse of Fönteius' coins shows Cupid riding on a goat¹. This subject, which is fairly frequent in Hellenistic art², seems to have arisen within the Dionysiac circle³. The thyrsos beneath the goat likewise confirms our impression that the Romans, under the all-pervading influence of Greece, had come to regard Vediovis as a sort of Dionysos. The former was to Iupiter what the latter was to Zeus.

Indeed few facts in the religious history of the Mediterranean peoples are more striking than the vitality displayed by this belief in the re-born Zeus or Dionysos. A bronze medallion of Antoninus Pius (fig. 528)⁴ has the infant god riding his goat to an altar, which stands beneath a tree and is adorned with festoons and an eagle in relief. A coin of Gallienus in base silver⁵ and coins of his son Saloninus in p. 100 ff., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 833 n. 1, p. 1243 n. 2, p. 1246 n. 5, Farnell Cults of Gk. States iv. 254 f., 309.

Fig. 528.

I take this opportunity of figuring a well-preserved specimen, now in my collection, of the Laconian tetradrachm with obv. head of King Areus? (309—265 B.C.), rev. the cult-stature of Apollon at Amyklai (fig. 529): cp. Head Coins of the Ancients p. 79 pl. 43, 27, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Nom. Comm. Paus. ii. 59 pl. N, 16, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 121 pl. 24, 1, P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 178 pl. 15, 28, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Apollon pp. 6—8 Münztaf. 1, 14—16, K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 43, Montagu Sale Catalogue 1896 i. 55 no. 414 pl. 6 = 1897 ii. 30 no. 215 pl. 3, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 434 fig. 238.

Fig. 529.

¹ Not 'Le Génie ailé d'Apollon Vejovis' (Babelon), nor 'der Genius des Vejovis' (Overbeck), nor even 'Infant winged Genius' (Grueber), but just a commonplace Cupid.

² To the examples collected by L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pét. 1863 p. 155 n. 3, ib. 1869 p. 88 n. 6, cp. ib. 1873 p. 84 n. 1, add a second relief in the Louvre (Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. pl. 192 fig. 162 = Reinach Rép. Stat. i. 80 no. 1) and a wall-painting in the house of the Vettii at Pompeii (Herrmann Denkm. d. Malerei pl. 35 Text p. 46 Eroses fighting on goat-back).

³ See e.g. L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pét. 1861 pp. 20, 26 n. 4, ib. 1863 p. 154 f., ib. 1869 p. 55 ff.

⁴ Gnechci Medagl. Rom. ii. 16 nos. 60 f. pl. 50, 4, Fröhner Méd. emp. rom. p. 68 fig., Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² ii. 379 f. no. 1132 fig.

⁵ Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 876, Suppl. iii. 154, Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² vii. 120, 398, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 381 n. 380. Other coins of Gallienus in base silver show an infant suckled by a goat (Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 1325, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 416 no. 781 PIET·SAECVLI; Rasche ib. PIETAS SAECVLI). A medallion of Gallienus and Salonina struck in gold (Gnechci Medagl. Rom. i. 8 no. 1 pl. 3, 7) and silver (ib.

gold¹ and base silver (fig. 530)², to be dated not long after the year 253 A.D. when the former assumed the title of Augustus and the latter that of Caesar, show the same infant with the legend Iovi crescenti, 'to the growing Jupiter.' A bronze medallion of Saloninus (fig. 531)³ has a similar design inscribed Iovi exorienti,

Fig. 530.

Fig. 531.

'to the rising Jupiter,'—an inscription which suggests that the young prince was viewed as a sun-god. The general significance of these designs, a fond hope that the prince in question would inaugurate a new and brighter age, is illustrated by a relief near the hippodrome on the Appian road⁴. The child seated on the goat is flanked by two standing figures—Sol with torches and Mercurius with a horn of plenty. The monument is dedicated 'to the Good Hope of Augustus⁵'.

Sometimes the babe on whom such hopes centred⁶ is definitely characterised as Dionysos. Small bronze coins bearing a

i. 54 no. 1 pl. 27, 8, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 492 no. 9) or billon (Kubitschek Röm. Medaillons Wien p. 18 no. 162 pl. 10) has an infant suckled by a goat, while a second infant (who?) is seen between the forelegs of the same goat: in front, an eagle; above, a tree and the legend PIETAS FALERI (= valeri for Valeriana); beneath in the exergue, a thunderbolt.

¹ Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 876 f., Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 519 no. 25.

² Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 877, Suppl. iii. 154, Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² vii. 422, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 200 f. Münztaf. 3, 7, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 520 nos. 26—28, 29 fig., 30—32. I figure a specimen in my collection.

³ Gneocchi Medagl. Rom. iii. 61 no. 4, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 201 Münztaf. 3, 8, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 520 f. no. 33 fig.

⁴ Gruter Inscr. ant. tot. orb. Rom. iii. 1075 no. 1 with pl. after Boissard Antiqq. iv. 138 ('in via Appia, non procul ab Hippodromo castrensi') BONAE·SPEI | AVG·VOT | PP TR, Preller—Jordan *Röm. Myth.*³ ii. 254 n. 2, cp. Wissowa *Rel. Kult. Röm.*² p. 330 n. 1. I have not reproduced the plate, as Boissard's illustrations are notoriously unreliable.

⁵ Cp. also a coin of Gallienus in base silver, which shows the infant seated on a goat with the legend LAETIT·TEMP (Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² v. 384 no. 421).

⁶ The case is somewhat different with Hadrian's favourite Antinoos, who was represented most frequently as a Dionysos (see e.g. C. v. Levezow Ueber den Antinoos dargestellt in den Kunstdenkmälern des Alterthums Berlin 1808 pls. 7, 8, 9, 10 and the list of statues, busts, and coins by K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2441).

child's head wreathed in vine-leaves and grapes (fig. 532) are referred by H. Cohen¹ to M. Annii Verus, the infant son of M. Aurelius and the younger Faustina². This little fellow died in 169 A.D. after an operation at Praeneste, when only seven years of age. His death occurred during the celebration of the games of Jupiter Optimus Maximus. The emperor would not interrupt them, but had statues decreed to the boy, a golden bust of him carried in procession at the ludi CIRCENSES, and his name inserted in the chant of the Salii³. With him, or with some other young hopeful of the imperial house, we may connect a remarkable bust of rosso antico, now at Berlin (fig. 533, 1—3)⁴. It is the portrait of a child represented as the young Dionysos wearing a garland of ivy and ivy-berries blended with vine-leaves and grapes. Attached to the child's occiput there is the head of a calf—an interesting reminder that, despite all the associations of Greek tragedy⁵, Dionysos was still regarded from time to time as no goat but a bull⁶.

Fig. 532.

¹ Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² viii. 270 no. 31 'Buste d'un enfant à droite, couronné de pampre et les épaules couvertes de raisins. (Annius Vérus?),' cp. ib. no. 30 'Buste d'enfant à droite voilé et couronné de roseaux. (Annius Vérus?).' I figure a specimen in my collection.

² On other coins of M. Annii Verus see Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² vii. 82—87. The brothers Commodus and Verus were identified with the Kabeiros of Syros, and their heads appear on coins inscribed KABIPΩN · CYPIΩN (id. ib., cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 125 f. pl. 28, 7 f., Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 211, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 492).

³ Iul. Capit. v. M. Ant. philos. 21. 3—5.

⁴ Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 61 no. 134 fig., E. Gerhard in the Arch. Zeit. 1851 ix. 371—373 pl. 33, Welcker Alt. Denkm. v. 39, E. Thraemer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1151, A. W. Curtius Das Stiersymbol des Dionysos Köln 1892 p. 18 fig. 16.

Height 0·26^m. Restored: neck and chest, nose, chin, both lips, large parts of the ears, grapes over the right cheek, two leafy sprays over the brow; also the muzzle and right eye of the calf. The red marble was doubtless chosen as appropriate to the god of wine.

⁵ Supra p. 665 ff.

⁶ The bull-connexion had in fact never been wholly dropped (F. T. Welcker in the Mon. d. Inst. vi—vii pl. 6, 1—3, Ann. d. Inst. 1857 xxix. 153—160, id. Alt. Denkm. v. 36—39 pl. 2, E. Thraemer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1149—1151, A. W. Curtius op. cit. passim). Even at Athens the bull figured in the festivals of the god. At the City Dionysia in 334/3 B.C. oxen were sacrificed and their hides sold (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 2 no. 741 A, a 16 f. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 620 a 16 f. = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 824 i 16 f.); later a bull was taken in procession by the épheboi and sacrificed év τῷ λεπῷ (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 471, 13 c. 112/1? B.C.; ib. no. 469, 15 110/9? B.C.; ib. no. 466, 14 c. 100? B.C.; ib. no. 467, 17 f. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 521, 17 f. = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 610, 17 f. 100/99 B.C.; Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 468, 11 f. 94/93 B.C.). At the Dionysia in the Peiraieus too in 334/3 B.C. oxen were sacrificed and their hides sold (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 2 no. 741 A, a 6 f., Dittenberger xxii. Animals sacrificed to Zeus.

Fig. 533.

'Down to the close of Greek religion,' says Dr Farnell¹, 'the animal-sacrifices were the chief part of the ritual of Zeus.' And *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 620 a 6 f., Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 824 i 6 f.); and later a bull was paraded by the éphēboi and sacrificed to Dionysos (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 469, 13 f. 110/9? B.C.; ib. no. 467, 16 f. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 521, 16 f. = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 610, 16 f. 100/99 B.C.; Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 468, 10 f. 94/3 B.C.).

¹ Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 101.

the victims slain for him were, as a rule, either rams¹ or more often oxen². We are not here concerned to detail the sacrificial rites, but merely to ask why these beasts rather than others³ were chosen for the sacrifice. It is of course easy to reply that rams and oxen were the costliest victims that a pastoral or cattle-breeding people could offer. No doubt that was a consideration which, at least in classical times, partly determined the choice⁴. Nevertheless our prolonged investigation into the ram-cults and bull-cults of antiquity has led us to conclude that the ultimate reason why both ram and bull were associated with sky-gods in general and with Zeus in particular lay in the fact that these animals possessed to an exceptional degree Zeugungskraft or fertilising force⁵. It would therefore probably be truer to say that bulls and rams were sacrificed to Zeus because, according to the belief of early days, the gift of so much virility increased his power to fertilise and bless. If so, it would appear that the

¹ Supra pp. 39, 348, 407 ff., 416 f., 420 ff., 422 ff., Aristoph. av. 568.

² Il. 2. 402 ff., 7. 314 ff., 8. 236 ff., 11. 772 ff., 15. 372 ff., 22. 170 ff., Od. 13. 24 ff., 22. 334 ff., Hes. theog. 535 ff., Dem. in Mid. 53, Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 6. 214, 12 ff., alib. Cp. the Διὸς βοῦς at Miletos (infra ch. ii § 9 (h) i), the oxen sacrificed to Zeus Πολιεὺς and to Zeus Μάχανεύς in Kos (ib.), the βοῦφόνια at Athens (infra ch. ii § 9 (h) ii), and the epithet of Zeus Hekatómbaios (supra p. 545 n. 2).

Both a bull and a ram figured in the rites of Zeus Sostopolis at Magnesia on the Maiandros (O. Kern Inscripfen von Magnesia am Mäander Berlin 1900 p. 82 no. 98, id. in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1894 ix Arch. Anz. p. 78 ff., Dittenberger Syll. inscr. Gr. 2 no. 553, Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 23 ff.). Cp. also the taurobolium and criobolium of Kybele and Attis (G. E. Marindin in Smith—Wayte—Marindin Dict. Ant. ii. 762 f., E. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 1718 f., H. Hepding Attis seine Mythen und sein Kult Gieszen 1903 p. 199 ff.), who was identified with the Phrygian Zeus (supra p. 399 n. 3). In view of my subsequent contention that Poseidon was originally a specialised form of Zeus, it is to be noticed that his favourite victims were 'bulls and rams' (Od. 1. 25, cp. Il. 2. 550 of Erechtheus) or 'a ram and a bull and a boar that mates with swine' (Od. 11. 131, 23. 278).

³ A goat was sacrificed to Zeus Askratos at Halikarnassos (infra ch. ii § 9 (h) i) and probably at Pedasa (ib.). The same sacrifice is presumably implied by the cult-title of Zeus Aigophagos (et. mag. p. 27, 51 f. Αἰγοφάγος· ὁ Ζεὺς, ὡς παρὰ Νικάνδρῳ ἐν Θηρακοῖς (Meineke cj. Θηβαῖκοῖς)), as L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pétr. 1869 p. 116 surmised, if not also by the myth of Amaltheia. A she-goat was slain for Vediovis (supra p. 711). But the flamen Dialis might not touch nor even mention a she-goat (Gell. 10. 15. 12). And in general cp. Arnob. adv. nat. 7. 21 si caper caedatur Iovi, quem patri solemne est Libero Mercurioque mactari, ...quid facinoris in hoc erit?...ego...audire desidero...quid applicitum Iuppiter ad tauri habeat sanguinem, ut ei debeat immolari, non debeat Mercurio, Libero? aut natura quae capri est, ut his rursus adcommoda, Iovialibus conveniens sacrificiis non sit?

A young pig was sacrificed to Zeus Bouleus at Mykonos (supra p. 668), a porker to Zeus Eubouleus at Delos (supra p. 669 n. 2).

On the sacrifice of horses to Iupiter Menzana see supra p. 180 n. 5.

⁴ See e.g. Alkiphr. ep. 3. 35 cited infra ch. ii § 9 (h).

⁵ Supra pp. 429 f., 634 f.

primitive conception of the Hellenic Zeus was closely analogous to that of the Vedic Dyaus¹.

¹ A. A. Macdonell Vedic Mythology Strassburg 1897 p. 22 says of Dyaus: "The only essential feature of the personification in the RV. is in fact his paternity. In a few passages Dyaus is called a bull (1, 160²; 5, 36⁵) that bellows (5, 58⁶). Here we have a touch of theriomorphism inasmuch as he is conceived as a roaring animal that fertilizes the earth." My friend Prof. E. J. Rapson has most kindly supplied me (October 12, 1907) with the following translation of, and commentary on, the passages in question:—

"Rig-Veda 1. 160. 3. "To Heaven and Earth."

*Sa vahnih pitrah pitroh pavitravan punati dhīro bhuvanāni māyavā:
dhenum ca pṛṣṇim vṛṣabham suretasam vīśvāhā śukraṃ payo asya duḥṣata.*

"The swift-comer, the son of these two parents, the purifier, the wise one, purifieth (or enlighteneth) the worlds through his power;
From the speckled cow and from the bull rich in seed he milketh ever his gleaming fluid."

Dyaus, the Heaven, is the bull rich in seed: and Pṛthivī, the Earth, is the speckled cow. The son of Heaven and Earth is the Sun-god. The gleaming fluid is the rain. R.V. v. 36. 5. "To Indra."

*Vṛṣā tvā vṛṣaṇam vardhatu Dyaus:
vṛṣā vṛṣābhyaṃ vahase haribhyaṃ.
Sa no vṛṣā vṛṣarathah susīpra vṛṣakrato vṛṣā vajrin bhare dhah.*

"May the bull, the Heaven, cherish thee, the bull:
As a bull thou drivest with thy two mighty (bull-like) horses.
Do thou the bull, with bulls in thy chariot, O fair-lipped one,
O thou who hast the strength of a bull, do thou, O god of the thunderbolt, as a bull give us (booty) in the battle."

There is a constant play here on the two meanings of vṛṣan = (1) a mighty one, (2) a bull; and it is difficult to know which meaning to select in each case. I have translated it by "bull" in every case, except in reference to the two horses, where it must mean "mighty" or "like a bull."

R V. v. 58. 6. "To the Maruts."

*Yat prāyāsiṣṭa pṛṣatībhīr aśvair vīḷupavubhīr, Maruto, rathebhīh, kṣodhanta āpo, vipate tvānāny.
Avosriyo vṛṣabhah krandatu Dyauch.*

"When ye go forth with speckled deer for your steeds, in chariots with strong wheels, O ye Maruts,
the waters raise themselves, and the floods well forth;
Then let the Heaven, the tawny bull, thunder."

The words for "bull," viz. vṛṣan and vṛṣabha, are probably derived from the root vṛ = "to water," from which the ordinary word for "rain" varṣā comes. A secondary meaning is "to impregnate," and this is the meaning which underlies that of vṛṣan, which always has the idea of "male." The word is so constantly used when the idea of masculine strength is intended, that it is not easy to know when, as applied to deities, it has or has not the further specific idea of "bull." It is applied to gods, in this general sense, almost indiscriminately—to Agni, Indra, the Maruts and to Soma for instance.

I should scarcely have thought that Dyaus was ever conceived by the Vedic poets as

(h) The Sun as a Bronze Man.

i. Talos in Crete.

We pass next from the theriomorphic to the anthropomorphic conception of the sun. The transition is best seen in the case of the Cretan Talos. His name, according to Hesychios, denoted 'the Sun'¹; and he was commonly described as a bronze man². Apollodoros, however, to whom we owe the most detailed account of him, writes: 'He was a man of bronze, but others describe him as a bull.'³ Talos, therefore, 'the Sun,' being regarded sometimes as a bull, more often as a man, fittingly illustrates the aforesaid transition of ideas.

Talos belonged to the bronze generation⁴, or was given by Hephaistos to Minos⁵, or was made by Hephaistos and given by Zeus to Europe⁶. He had a single vein extending from his neck to his ankles: the vein was closed at its end by a bronze nail thrust through it⁷. Thrice a day this bronze man ran round the island of Crete as its guardian⁸. When the Argonauts wished to put in there, Talos observed them and flung stones at them⁹. But he was slain by the guile of Medeia, who drove him mad, some said, by her potions, while others maintained that she promised to make him immortal and then pulled out his nail so that all the ichor flowed forth from him and he died. A a bull. All that these passages seem to indicate is that the Heaven impregnates the earth with its rain like a bull, and that it thunders like a bull roaring.

I cannot find any other passages in which Dyaus is likened to a bull. I should have thought that the simile was applied much more often to many other deities.

So far as I know, neither Dyaus nor any other Vedic divinity is ever represented as a ram.'

[E. J. R.]

¹ Hesych. Ταλῶς· ὁ ἥλιος.

² Spenser in The Faery Queen naturally makes Sir Artegall's Talus an 'iron man' armed with an 'iron flail.'

³ Apollod. 1. 9. 26 δὲ ἦν χαλκοῦς ἀνὴρ, οἱ δὲ ταῦρον αὐτὸν λέγουσιν. So R. Wagner prints the passage: A. Westermann and the older editors prefer Ταῦρον as a proper name.

⁴ Apollod. 1. 9. 26, Ap. Rhod. 4. 1639 f. with schol. ad loc., Zenob. 5. 85.

⁵ Apollod. 1. 9. 26, Simonid. ap. schol. Plat. rep. 337 A, Zenob. 5. 85.

⁶ Schol. Od. 20. 302, Eustath. in Od. p. 1893, 9, Ap. Rhod. 4. 1641.

⁷ Apollod. 1. 9. 26, Zenob. 5. 85. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1643 ff. makes it an artery (σύριγξ αἱματόεσσα) closed by a fine skin or membrane (ὕμην).

⁸ Apollod. 1. 9. 26, Zenob. 5. 85. Plat. Minos 320 c, in a rationalising passage, makes Talos go the round of the Cretan villages thrice a year with Minos' laws inscribed on tablets of bronze.

⁹ Apollod. 1. 9. 26 (τοῖς λίθοις), Ap. Rhod. 4. 1637 (πέτρας), 1656 (πετράων), 1675 f. (βαρείας...λάγγας).

third version said that he was shot in the ankle by Poias and thus came by his death¹.

Silver coins of Phaistos, struck in the fourth century B.C., exhibit Talos as a youthful winged figure striding towards the left; he hurls one stone with his right hand and holds another ready in his left: the reverse type is that of a charging bull (fig. 534)². Third-century bronze coins of the same town show Talos in a similar attitude hurrying to the right (fig. 535)³: the reverse here has a hound on the scent, probably the golden hound of Crete⁴. The resemblance of the stone-throwing Talos on coins of Phaistos to the stone-throwing Minotaur on coins of Knossos (fig. 536)⁵ is noticeable: the stones in either case may represent ¹ Apollod. i. 9. 26, Zenob. 5. 85. According to Ap. Rhod. 4. 1651 ff., Medeia fixed her evil glance on Talos, who in trying to raise his heavy stones struck his ankle with a projecting fragment of rock. Thereupon his ichor ran out like so much molten lead, and he fell. Cp. Agatharchid. de mari Erythr. i. 7 (Geogr. Gr. min. i. 115 Müller) ap. Phot. bibl. p. 443 b 24 f. τὴν δὲ ζωὴν μόνον τῶν ἐμφύχων τοῦτον ἐν τῷ σφυρῷ κεκτῆσθαι.

Fig. 534.

Fig. 535.

Fig. 536.

² J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne Macon 1890 i. 264 pl. 24, 24, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 64 pl. 15, 11, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 194 pl. 42, 15, P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 163 f. pl. 9, 9, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 47 pl. 23, 40. The legend at the feet of Talos in the specimen figured is Τ Α Λ Ω (N). The Hunterian specimen extends the left hand without a stone, and reads Ν Ω Λ Α Τ.

³ J. N. Svoronos op. cit. i. 264 f. pl. 24, 25 f., Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 64 pl. 16, 6, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 194. Fig. 535 is from a specimen in my collection.

⁴ A golden hound was set by Rhea to guard the goat that nurtured the infant Zeus in Crete. Zeus afterwards made the goat immortal, and its image is still to be seen among the stars. The hound he caused to guard the holy place (τὸ ἱερόν) in Crete. Pandareos, son of Merope, stole it, brought it to Sipylos, and gave it to Tantalos, son of Zeus and Pluto, to keep. After a time Pandareos returned to Sipylos and claimed the hound; but Tantalos denied that he had received it. Zeus punished Pandareos for his theft by turning him into a stone where he stood, Tantalos for his perjury by hurling him down and placing Sipylos above his head (Ant. Lib. 36). Variants are collected and discussed by W. H. Roscher in his Lex. Myth. iii. 1502 ff. See also P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1899 xxiii. 584 ff. and Miss J. E. Harrison in her *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 299 f., who illustrate the myth from a black-figured pyxis at Athens. Probably the golden hound was a theriomorphic epiphany akin to the golden lamb of Atreus (supra p. 405 ff.), the golden ram of Athamas (supra p. 414 ff.), the dazzling bull of Minos (supra p. 467 ff.).

⁵ J. N. Svoronos op. cit. i. 65 ff. pl. 4, 23—32, Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 1. 1331 ff. pl. 62, 21—23, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 18 pl. 4, 7—9, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 11 pl. 6, 32.

720

Kratér from Ruvo

720² of Talos.

See page 721.

permission of Messrs F. Bruckmann A.-G., Munich.]

suns, or stars¹, and such may have been the original significance of the stone-throwing Kyklops of the eastern² and western islands³, though other interpretations are equally possible and perhaps more probable.

A magnificent kratér with volute-handles, found in the nekropolis of Ruvo and now in the Jatta collection, represents the death of Talos (pl. xli)⁴. This vase is of special interest to the mythologist, because it appears to depict a form of the story not otherwise preserved to us⁵. The Argonauts have reached the Cretan coast. Zetes and Kalais are seen still on board their vessel. But a landing-ladder is put out from her stern across the water, which is suggested by a dolphin. A young hero, shrinking back in alarm from the central scene, springs up the ladder. On shore Kastor and Polydeukes with their horses have already pursued and caught Talos⁶. Polydeukes grasps him, still attempting to run, within the circle of Medeia's magic spells. Medeia herself stands by, fixing her victim with her evil eye, while she holds a basket full of potent herbs and mutters her fatal formula. Talos, overcome despite himself, falls backwards in a swoon. The nymph Krete flees in terror at the death of her watcher. Above her, in the background, appear Poseidon and Amphitrite as patrons of Argonautic prowess.

ii. Talos in Sardinia.

Two different versions of the Talos-myth are attributed to Simonides. On the one hand, he is said to have stated that Talos before coming to Crete had dwelt in Sardinia, where he had destroyed many persons, that they grinned when they died, and that this was the origin of the expression a 'sardonic smile.'⁷ On the other hand, Simonides is reported to have affirmed that, when the Sardinians tried to cross the sea to Minos, Talos, being wrought of bronze by Hephaistos, sprang into a fire, clasped them to his breast, and slew them gaping⁸. Both versions agree in connecting Talos with the Sardinians.

The matter was sufficiently sensational to appeal to the imagination of the later Greeks, and further information is forthcoming.

¹ See W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2751 n., and cp. supra pp. 493 ff., 524.

² Supra p. 309 n. 5.

³ Supra pp. 313 n. 8, 320, 323.

⁴ Furtwängler—Reichhold Gr. Vasenmalerei i. 196—203 pls. 38—39.

⁵ See O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 784.

⁶ Talos, unlike the other figures in this exceedingly skilful composition, is painted white, the modelling of his body being indicated in a thin brown varnish. The artist has thus sought to mark him out from the rest as the man of bronze.

⁷ Zenob. 5. 85.

⁸ Soud. s.v. Σαρδάνιος γέλως, cp. schol. Plat. rep. 337 A.

Demon the antiquarian c. 300 B.C. stated in a work On Proverbs that the Sardinians, being settlers from Carthage, on certain days sacrificed to Kronos not only the handsomest of their captives but also such of their own elders as were above seventy years of age, and that the victims were expected to welcome their fate and even to laugh, tears being regarded as base and cowardly¹. Timaios the Sicilian historian, a contemporary of Demon, informs us that the Sardinians, when their parents grow old, bring them to the burial-ground, seat them on the edge of pits dug for the purpose, and push them over, every man beating his own father with a stick of cleft wood; further, that the old folk went to their death with cheerfulness and laughter—a fact which occasioned the Greek *dictum*². Lastly, Kleitarchos, who is probably to be identified with Kleitarchos of Aigina, author of a famous geographical Lexicon (first century A.D. or earlier)³, has yet another explanation of the proverb to offer. He states that the Phoenicians in general and the Carthaginians in particular worshipped Kronos. If they desired to obtain of him some great favour, they vowed to present him with one of their children. A bronze statue of the god stood with its hands held out over a bronze furnace. In the embrace of this statue the child perished miserably. The flame licked its body, shrivelled its limbs, and distorted its mouth into a ghastly semblance of a smile⁴.

The foregoing accounts show that the Cretan sun-god Talos was by some authorities at least identified with the Phoenician Kronos⁵, a form of the Semitic deity El⁶. The identification was perhaps facilitated by another point of resemblance. Talos was sometimes regarded as a bull⁷; and his likeness to the Minotaur⁸ suggests that in process of time he had become bull-headed, a god half theriomorphic, half anthropomorphic. But the

¹ Demon frag. 11 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 380 Müller) ap. schol. Od. 20. 302 and ap. Zenob. 5. 85 (see O. Crusius Anal. critic. ad paroemiogr. Gr. p. 148, Trag. Gr. frag. p. 125 f. Nauck²), Soud. s.v. Σαρδάνιος γέλωσ, Phot. lex. s.v. Σαρδόνιος γέλωσ.

² Timaios frag. 28 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 199 Müller) ap. Tzetz. ad Lyk. Al. 796 and schol. Loukian. asin. 24. Also Timaios frag. 29 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 199 Müller) ap. Soud. s.v. Σαρδάνιος γέλωσ, Phot. lex. s.v. Σαρδόνιος γέλωσ, schol. Od. 20. 302, Eustath. in Od. p. 1893, 15 ff., Zenob. 5. 85, schol. Plat. rep. 337 A, cp. Tzetz. ad Hes. o.d. 59 (Io. Tzetzes here states that the parents were killed with clubs and stones, and then flung from a rocky height).

³ W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*³ München 1898 p. 801.

⁴ Kleitarchos ap. schol. Plat. rep. 337 A, Soud. s.v. Σαρδάνιος γέλωσ, Phot. lex. s.v. Σαρδόνιος γέλωσ. Cp. Plat. Minos 315 B—C, Diod. 13. 86, 20. 14, Plout. de superst. 13, Iust. 18. 6. 11 f. Diod. 20. 14 says that the hands of the bronze statue sloped downwards so that the child placed upon them rolled off into a chasm full of fire.

⁵ M. Mayer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1504 f.

⁶ E. Meyer ib. i. 1228.

⁷ Supra p. 719.

⁸ Supra p. 720.

Talos and the Bronze-founder's Art 723

Phoenician deity too, according to Rabbinic authors¹, had a bovine head². Identification was almost inevitable. Indeed, the two gods may have been strictly analogous.

Excavations now in progress beneath the ancient church of Santa Anastasia in southern Sardinia are said to have disclosed a large subterranean temple with a spring locally known as the 'Fount of Pains,' sacred images, and mural decorations. 'These indicate the worship of an earth goddess, and the prevalence of bull worship, as there is a ponderous statue in basalt of a male divinity with a bull head³.' Was this the Sardinian Talos?

iii. Talos and the Bronze-founder's Art.

It is tempting to explain certain traits in the myth of Talos along rationalistic lines. The single vein running from his neck to his ankles and closed by a bronze nail thrust through it⁴ vividly recalls the cire perdue method of hollow-casting in bronze, a process which was invented at a remote period and lasted throughout the whole history of Greek art⁵. A rough model in clay or plaster,

¹ M. Mayer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1505 f. draws attention to the old Rabbinic descriptions of Moloch, adduced by J. Selden De dis Syris syntagmata ii Londini 1617 p. 78 ff. and T. Godwin Moses and Aaron: etc.⁹ London 1667 p. 144 ff., e.g. Selden op. cit. p. 78 f. 'Doctissimi Pauli Fagij verba de Moloch, in Chaldaem paraphrasin Leuitici scripta, & ex Ebraeorum etiam monumentis sumpta, adiungam. Fuit autem Moloch Imago concaua habens septem conclauia. vuum aperiebatur simile offerendae: aliud Turturibus: tertium Oui: Quartum Arieti: Quintum Vitulo: Sextum Boui: Qui verd volebat offerre filium huic aperiebatur septimum cubiculum, et facies huius idoli erat vt facies vituli. Manus planè dispositae ad recipiendum ab astantibus. et saltabant interim quo pueri (leg. puer) in idolo successo igne cremabatur, percutientes tympana ne pueri eiulatus audiretur. Habuit hæc ille ex libro Ialkut cuius autor R. Simeon. Sed ex ære conflata imaginem esse ait R. Salomon ad Ieremiæ VII.''

F. X. Kortleitner De polytheismo universo Oeniponte 1908 p. 221 n. 3 quotes from the Midrash Echa rabbathi on Lam. i. 9: 'Molochi imago non constituta erat intra urbem Hierosolymorum, quemadmodum idola alia, sed extra urbem. Imago fuit in intimo septem cavearum; facies eius fuit instar vituli et manus protensae, quemadmodum qui aliquid accepturus est palmam protendit. Incendebant eam; sacerdotes (כַּמְרִין) infantem sumebant et manibus Molochi imponebant, ubi animam efflabat.' Id. ib. p. 222 n. 3, p. 225 e, p. 227 f β compares similar descriptions from other Rabbinic sources.

² Cp. Cypriote statuettes with bovine heads (L. P. di Cesnola Cyprus: its ancient cities, tombs, and temples London 1877 p. 51 fig., Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art iii. 606 fig. 414 = Ohnefalsch-Richter Kypros pp. 243, 423 pl. 94, 22).

³ So the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle for Sept. 10, 1913, writing from Milan on Sept. 9. He also mentions 'the uncovering at Ortu Commidu, alongside some ancient copper mines, of a great prehistoric foundry with all the furnaces for smelting, and moulds for casting, just as they were abandoned...in the transition period between the ages of stone and of bronze.' I am indebted for this newspaper-cutting to the kind offices of Mr F. M. Cornford and Miss Harrison.

⁴ Supra p. 719.

⁵ H. Blümner Technologie und Terminologie der Gewerbe und Künste bei Griechen und Römern Leipzig 1887 iv. 285 ff., 325 ff., id. in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 607 ff.,

carefully coated with wax, was worked over by the sculptor till it satisfied him in every detail. The whole was next covered with a thin slip of finely powdered pottery. This was followed by other layers of increasing thickness and coarseness, which together formed the outer mould. The shapeless mass was then exposed to a furnace or lowered into a pit with a fire at the bottom. The wax, thus melted, ran out through triangular holes left in the exterior. Bronze rods half an inch square in section had been stuck through the wax into the core and allowed to project like pins in a pin-cushion. These now held the outer and inner moulds apart. Into the intervening space molten bronze was poured through a hole in each foot of the statue, thereby taking the place of the wax driven out by the heat. Ultimately, when the figure had cooled, the outer mould was chipped away, the ends of the bronze rods cut smooth, the core extracted through the soles of the feet, and the whole surface touched up with minute accuracy. In this technical process the hollow from head to heel, pierced with its bronze pins, was—one may suspect—the fact underlying the fiction of Talos' vein¹. Perhaps, too, the fiery pit into which the mould was lowered explains Simonides' statement that Talos sprang into a fire².

iv. Talos at Athens.

The Athenian myth of Talos likewise connected him with various advances in the mechanical arts. It was he who invented the compasses³ and the potter's wheel⁴. And we may note in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 1019 n. 17, Forrer Reallex. p. 115, H. B. Walters in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Bronzes p. xxxi ff.

¹ For an example of nail-driving as an artistic, if not a mythological, motif cp. a Graeco-Phoenician stámmos from Tamassos (c. s. ix B.C.) in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Cat. Vases i. 2. 140 f. no. C 736 pl. 5), which at the time of its discovery in 1885 showed more completely than it does now a scene that has been interpreted as Perseus slaying the Gorgon (H. B. Walters in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Vases loc. cit. after S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1887 i. 76 ff. with figs., ii. 89 ff.=Chroniques d'Orient i. 294 ff., 360 ff., cp. C. Clermont-Ganneau Recueil d'Archéologie orientale Paris 1888 i. 172—175 'Pégase et ΠΗΓΝΥΜΙ') or less probably as Herakles and Iolaos killing the Hydra (Ohnefalsch-Richter Kypros pp. 36 f., 62 ff., 445 figs. 37 f., 71, 75 pl. 137, 6).

² Supra p. 721.

³ Diod. 4. 76, Ov. met. 8. 247 ff., Hyg. fab. 274, Serv. in Verg. georg. 1. 143, Serv. in Verg. Aen. 6. 14, Sidon. epist. 4. 3. 5.

⁴ Diod. 4. 76. Kritias ap. Athen. 28 c states that Athens first discovered pottery, 'the offspring of wheel and earth and oven.' Others ascribed the invention of the wheel to Hyperbios of Corinth (Plin. nat. hist. 7. 198, schol. Pind. Ol. 13. 27) or Anacharsis the Scythian (Plin. nat. hist. 7. 198, Diog. Laert. 1. 105, Soud. s.v. 'Ανάχαρσις). The potter's wheel had reached Crete by the 'Early Minoan ii' period (see e.g. E. Reisinger Kretische Vasenmalerei vom Kamares-bis zum Palast-stil Leipzig—Berlin 1912 p. 2 f.). It is mentioned first in Il. 18. 600 f.

passing that a contrivance for describing a circle or a machine consisting in a rotatory disk was naturally attributed to one who, as the Sun¹, was himself at once circular and discoidal. Indeed, if we may trust an obscure passage in Servius, Talos was actually called by some Circinus or 'Compass².' Less obvious is his recorded discovery of the saw. Latin authors state that he copied the back-bone of a fish³. But the Greeks declared that he got the idea from the jaw of a snake⁴. Be that as it may, the Athenian Talos stood in some relation to the snake. For Daidalos, his mother's brother, jealous of a younger rival, pushed him over the edge of the Akropolis, and later, when asked whom he was burying, replied 'A snake⁵.' Possibly, too, though this is the merest conjecture, his relation to the snake is responsible for the fact that he was often called Kálos, not *Tálos*⁶. The change,

¹ Supra p. 719.

² Interp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 6. 14 ab illo et usum serrae de osse interiore piscis et circinum propter nomen suum <inventum>. nam aliquibus Circinus putatus est appellatus, vel ut quidam organum inventum tradunt. We have already compared Talos son of Daidalos' sister with Daidalion the 'hawk' (supra p. 342 f.). I would suggest that Talos too according to one version of his story was transformed into a hawk (κίρκος, cp. modern Greek κιρκινέζι 'kestrel') and that this was the reason why certain persons attributed to him the invention of the compasses (circinus). As to the saw, ancient Babylonian art likewise shows the sun-god with saw in hand (I. Löw in Or. Lit. 1912 xv. 305 f., Am. Journ. Arch. 1913 xvii. 534).

³ Ov. met. 8. 244 ff., Hyg. fab. 274, Serv. in Verg. Aen. 6. 14, Isid. orig. 19. 19. 9.

⁴ Apollod. 3. 15. 9, Diod. 4. 76, Tzetz. chil. 1. 494 ff.

⁵ Diod. 4. 76 ἔφησεν ὄφιν καταχωννύειν. The words involve a joke: καταχωννύω is 'I bury beneath a mound of earth,' but καταχωνεύω is 'I pour molten metal into a mould,' a phrase appropriate to the cire perdue process described above; hence Daidalos' remark would suggest, not only 'I am burying a snake,' but also 'I am hollow-casting a snake,' 'I am applying to Talos the treatment that is peculiarly his own.' Diod. ib. says τὸν παῖδα ἐδολοφόνησε, cp. Hellanic. frag. 82 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 56 Müller) ap. schol. Eur. Or. 1648 ἀδελφιδούν τὸν Τάλων ἀποκτείναντος δολέοντι θανάτῳ. Apollod. 3. 15. 9 ἀπὸ τῆς ἀκροπόλεως βαλὼν τὸν τῆς ἀδελφῆς [Πέρδικος] υἱὸν Τάλω (so Tzetz. chil. 1. 492 f., Ov. met. 8. 250 f., Serv. in Verg. georg. 1. 143) is more precise. Hyg. fab. 39 summo tecto deiecit is not incompatible with the usual account. Schol. Galean. Ov. Ibis 498 (R. Ellis P. Ovidii Nasonis Ibis Oxford 1881 p. 86) praecipitavit in mari is a more substantial variant, cp. the death of Aigeus (K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 954 and D. G. Roberts in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1912 xxxii. 105 ff.).

The supposed representation of Daidalos and the dead Talos in a Pompeian wall-painting (Helbig Wandgem. Camp. p. 359 f. no. 1480, E. Gerhard in the Arch. Zeit. 1850 viii. 177 ff. pl. 17, 1) is explained away by C. Robert in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 2006.

⁶ Schol. Soph. O. C. 1320 τὸν Ταλαοῦ ὃν ἔνοιον διὰ τοῦ κ Καλαῶν προσαγορεύουσι καθάπερ Ἀριστάρχος ὁ Τεγεάτης καὶ Φιλοκλῆς ἱστοροῦσι, συγγραφέων δὲ Ἐκαταῖος ὁ Μιλήσιος (Aristarch. frag. 5 Nauck², Philokl. frag. 3 Nauck², Hekal. frag. 361^a (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 627 Müller)). The form Kálos is used by Paus. 1. 21. 4, 1. 26. 4, Soud. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερὸν, Phot. lex. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερὸν (MS. Καλός), Apostol. 14. 17 (MSS. Κάλλως), perhaps also by Hellanic. frag. 82 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 375 Müller) ap. schol. Eur. Or. 1648, where the reading of codd. A. M. μετὰ δὲ τὴν Δαιδάλου δίκην καλοσοφίας (T: κάλλος σοφίας) περιαιγομένου ἀδελφιδούου ἀποκτείναντος was corrected by R. Holland which is contrary to the known laws of phonetics, must be due to folk-etymology of some sort. Now in northern India a snake is, for superstitious reasons, habitually called a 'string' or a 'rope': for example, if a snake bites you, you should not mention its name, but remark 'A rope has touched me'!¹ If, therefore, Talos was in any sense a snake, he might be euphemistically called kálos, a 'rope.'

Latin authors narrate that, when Daidalos flung his nephew to the ground, the youth was in mid air changed by Athena into a partridge². In fact, they commonly call him Perdix, or 'Partridge,' not Talos³. The name was applied to him by the Greeks as early as the fifth century B.C.; for it occurs in a play of Sophokles⁴. According to a version preserved by the Greek lexicographers, Perdix was the mother of Talos or Kalos, who, when he was killed, hanged herself and was honoured at Athens with a sanctuary beside the Akropolis⁵. Since the grave of Talos⁶ or Kalos was on the way from the theatre to the Akropolis⁷, it is likely that the sanctuary and the grave were close together⁸. The myth of Talos transformed by Athena into a partridge was probably popular in Periclean Athens. For a curious historical echo of it has been detected by L. Mercklin⁹.

Die Sage von Daidalos und Ikaros (Abh. zu dem Ber. der Thomas-schule) Leipzig 1902 p. 21 into Κάλω σοφίας περί αγωνιζόμενον and* by O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1947 into Κάλω σοφία περιγινόμενον. Cp. Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 8. 3 Perdix Calai filius Atheniensis.

¹ Frazer *Golden Bough*² i. 456 f., *ib.*³ Taboo p. 401 f., cp. pp. 399 (Cherokee Indians), 400 (Arabs), 401 (Herero), 408 (Malays), 411 (Javanese).

² Ov. met. 8. 251 ff., Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 8. 3.

³ So Hyg. fab. 39, 244, 274, Serv. in Verg. georg. 1. 143, Serv. in Verg. Aen. 6. 14, Sidon. epist. 4. 3. 5, Isid. orig. 19. 19. 9, Schol. Galean. and Phil. in Ov. Ibis 498, Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 8. 3, cp. Ov. met. 8. 237, 255. Fulgent. myth. 3. 2, Myth. Vat. 1. 232, 2. 130, 3. 7. 3 call him Perdica, Perdiccas, Perdicca, Perdix (?). The mother of Talos is Perdix in Apollod. 3. 15. 9 (R. Wagner, after Heyne, brackets the name as a gloss), Perdika in Apollod. epit. 3. 15. 9 and in Tzet. chil. 1. 493. The mother of Kalos is Perdix in Soud. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερόν, Phot. lex. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερόν, Apostol. 14. 17 (supra p. 725 n. 6).

⁴ Soph. Camici frag. 300 Nauck² ap. Athen. 388 F Σοφοκλῆς Καμικοῖς ὄρνιθος ἤλθ' ἐπώνυμος | πέρδικος ἐν κλεινοῖς Ἀθηναίων πάγοις, cp. Soud. and Phot. lex. and Apostol. loc. cit. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερόν... Σοφοκλῆς δὲ ἐν Καμικοῖς (κωμικοῖς MSS.) τὸν ὑπὸ Δαιδάλου ἀναιρεθέντα Πέρδικα εἶναι τοῦνομα. In the Sophoclean verse S. Mekler cj. κλεινοῖσι Θησιδῶν, A. Nauck κλεινοῖσι Κερκσιδῶν.

⁵ Soud. and Phot. lex. s.v. Πέρδικος ἱερόν, cp. Apostol. 14. 17.

⁶ Loukian. rise. 42. The schol. ad loc. says: ὁ μὲν Τάλως ἦρος παλαιὸς ἐν τῇ Ἀκροπόλει τεθαμμένος. ⁷ Paus. 1. 21. 4.

⁸ See O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1950, W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 282.

⁹ L. Mercklin 'Die Talos-Sage und das sardonische Lachen' in the Mémoires de l'Académie des sciences de St. Pétersbourg, Mémoires des savants étrangers 1854 vii. 74 f.

During the erection of the Propylaea on the Akropolis the best of the workmen missed his footing and fell. When Perikles was discouraged by this accident, Athena appeared to him in a dream and prescribed a remedy, by means of which Perikles speedily cured the man. He commemorated the event by erecting on the Akropolis a bronze statue of Hygieia Athena, or 'Health' Athena, by the side of an already existing altar. So much we learn from Plutarch¹. Pliny completes the story, though with material differences throughout. A favourite slave of Perikles—he says—was building a temple on the Akropolis, when he fell from the top of the pediment. Athena showed herself to Perikles in a dream and prescribed the herb perdicium, the 'partridge-plant,' which in honour of herself was thenceforward known as parthenium, the 'Virgin's-plant.' Pliny adds that the portrait of this same slave was cast in bronze and served for the famous statue of the splanchnóptes or 'entrail-roaster².' Whatever the details of the occurrence may have been, it seems clear that the prescription of the 'partridge-plant' was due to a reminiscence of Talos' transformation into a partridge³.

But why this connection between Talos and a partridge? On bird-metamorphoses in general I have elsewhere said my say⁴. Here it must suffice to observe that the partridge in particular was notorious for its generative propensities⁵. Hence it was regarded as sacred to Aphrodite⁶. And the same reason will

¹ Plout. v. Per. 13. This statue can hardly be identified with that by the Athenian sculptor Pyrrhos, the base of which with its inscription (Corp. inscr. Att. i no. 335 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 585) is still to be seen on the Akropolis immediately adjoining the S.E. angle-column of the Propylaea: see Frazer Pausanias ii. 277 ff., W. Judeich op. cit. p. 220 ff.

² Plin. nat. hist. 22. 43 f. The statue of the splanchnóptes was by Styppax of Kypros (Plin. nat. hist. 34. 81): on existing copies see M. Mayer in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1893 viii. 218 ff. figs. 1—3 and pl. 4, and A. von Salis in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 352 ff. pl. 22.

³ Ov. met. 8. 236 ff. states that as a partridge he watched from a branching oak-tree Daidalos burying his son Ikaros. In 237 garrula ramosa prospexit ab ilice perdix (so the mss.) editors have taken offence at the notion of a partridge up a tree. An anonymous grammarian of the seventh century A.D. or later quotes the line thus: garrula limoso prospicit elice perdix (H. Keil Grammatici Latini Lipsiae 1868 v. 587). Hence R. Merkel prints limoso...elice, A. E. Housman ej. lamoso...elice. But see P. Burmann ad loc.

⁴ Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 385 ff.

⁵ Aristot. in the passages cited by H. Bonitz Index Aristotelicus Berolini 1870 p. 578 a, b s.v. πέρδιξ, Ail. de nat. an. 3. 5, 3. 16, 4. 1, 7. 19, 17. 15, Antigon. hist. mir. 81, Athen. 389 a ff., Plin. nat. hist. 10. 101.

⁶ Lyd. de mens. 4. 64 p. 117, 20 ff. Wünsch. Ail. de nat. an. 10. 35 ἄθυμα δὲ ὁ πέρδιξ τῆς Διὸς καὶ Ἀθηναίης ὡς ἔστιν ἄλλοι λέγουσιν would make it sacred to Artemis (or Selene: see W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 97 ff. and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3171).

account for its association with Talos, who, as being the Sun¹, was essentially a fertilising power.

A remarkable variant of the Perdix story is preserved by the Latin mythographers². Perdix, the inventor of the saw, fell in love with his own mother Polykaste and pined away because of her. Fenestella, who wrote his Annals in the reign of Tiberius, commented on this myth³. According to him, Perdix was a hunter, who tired of the chase, especially as he observed that his young comrades Aktaion, Adonis, and Hippolytos all came to a bad end. He therefore abandoned his life as a hunter and devoted himself to agriculture. Hence he was said to have loved his mother, i.e. Mother Earth, and to have pined away, i.e. to have worn himself thin over her. Her name Polykaste might be spelled Polykarpe and rendered the 'Very Fruitful One.' As for the saw, that denoted the harsh tongue with which he abused his former occupation. Fenestella's rationalism is of course absurd. Nevertheless his account appears to contain elements that are far older than the rise of rationalism. Perdix, who loved Polykaste, variously identified with Mother Earth⁴ or the Mother of the gods⁵ or Diana⁶—Perdix, who is expressly compared with Aktaion, Adonis, and Hippolytos, an ill-fated trio—Perdix, who dreaded the dangers of a woodland life, is a figure ominously like the human favourite or partner of more than one ancient goddess. His love for Polykaste was, as Claudian says, inspired by herself⁷. And there is perhaps a special significance in the fact that her lover bore the name of a bird, of that bird which was 'the plaything of the daughter of Zeus and Leto⁸'.

v. Talos identified with Zeus.

Talos the 'Sun'⁹ was in Crete identified with Zeus. A Hesychian gloss explains the epithet Talaiós to mean 'Zeus

¹ Supra p. 719.

² Fulgent. myth. 3. 2, Myth. Vat. 1. 232, 2. 130, 3. 7. 3.

³ Fulgent. myth. 3. 2 Fenestella in Archaicis and Myth. Vat. 2. 130 Fenestella Martialis should, I think, be corrected into Fenestella in Annalibus. On Fenestella see M. Schanz *Geschichte der römischen Litteratur*² München 1901 ii. 2. 201 ff. and G. Wissowa in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 2177 ff.

⁴ Fulgent. myth. 3. 2, Myth. Vat. 1. 232, 2. 130, 3. 7. 3. Cp. the joint-cult of the earth-mother and Talos (?) in Sardinia (supra p. 723).

⁵ Myth. Vat. 2. 130.

⁶ Myth. Vat. 3. 7. 3 Perdicem quoque primo Dianae, deinde incesto matris suae amore dicunt intabuisse.

⁷ Claud. epigr. 19 de Polykaste et Perdice 3 f. pectore dum niveo puerum tenet anxia nutrix, | illicitos ignes iam fovet ipsa parens.

⁸ Supra p. 727 n. 6.

⁹ Supra p. 719.

in Crete¹. And that this gloss is trustworthy appears from more than one Cretan inscription. The inhabitants of Dreros in eastern Crete swore by a series of deities including Zeus Tallaíos and Helios to oppose the inhabitants of Lyttos². At Olous too, a town close to Dreros, there was a sanctuary of Zeus Tallaíos, where a decree inviting Knossos to arbitrate between Lato and Olous was set up³, as was also a decree in honour of a certain physician from the island of Kasos, who had helped the Olontians in time of plague⁴. Coins of Olous, struck in the latter part of the fourth century B.C., have as their obverse type a head of Britomartis with fillet, bay-wreath, necklace and quiver, and as their reverse Zeus enthroned with an eagle on his right hand, a sceptre in his left (fig. 537)⁵. Perhaps the same deity was worshipped on Mount Ide; for a versified inscription, found near Retímo at the foot of the mountain, records a dedication to

Fig. 537.

¹ Hesych. Ταλαιός· ὁ Ζεὺς ἐν Κρήτῃ.

² Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 463, 14 ff. ὁμνῶ | τὴν Ἐστίαν τὴν | ἐμ πρυτανείῳ | καὶ τὸν Δῆνα τὸν | Ἀγοραῖον καὶ τὸν Δῆνα τὸν Ταλλαῖον | καὶ τὸν Ἀπέλλων(α) | τὸν Δελφίνιον καὶ | τὴν Ἀθαναίαν τὴν | Πηλιοῦχον καὶ τὸν Ἀπέλλωνα τὸμ Πόλιον | καὶ τὴν Λατοῦν καὶ τὴν Ἄρτεμιν καὶ τὸν Ἄρεα | καὶ τὴν Ἀφορ(δ)ίταν καὶ | τὸν Ἐρμῆν καὶ τὸν Ἄλιον | καὶ τὴν Βριτόμαρ(τι)ν | καὶ τὸμ Φοῖνικα καὶ τὴν Ἀμφι[ώ]ναν καὶ τὰ γ Γᾶν | καὶ τὸν Οὐρανὸν καὶ | ἦρωας καὶ ἦρώσσας | καὶ κράνας καὶ ποταμοὺς καὶ θεοὺς πάντας | καὶ πάσας κ.τ.λ.=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 23 A 14 ff.=Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 239 ff. no. 4952 A 14 ff. The inscription was found in 1854 on a hill called Xῶρες near the church of St Antonios. It appears to date from a period shortly before 220 B.C. (L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1699).

³ Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 514, 14 ἐν δὲ Ὀλόντι ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τῷ Ζηνὸς τῷ Ταλλαίω=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 28, 14. The inscription, which belongs to the second half of the second century B.C., was found at Delos (T. Homolle in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 290 ff. pl. 6 bis).

⁴ J. Demargne in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1900 xxiv. 227 no. 1 C 57 ff. ἀναγράψαι δὲ τὸδε | τὸ ψάφισμα ἐς τὸ | ἱερὸν τοῦ Σηνὸς (sic) | τοῦ Ταλλαίου κα[ι] | ἐς τὸ τοῦ Ἀσκλη[πι]οῦ. The inscription was found in 1898 on the site of a Byzantine church at Olous, and this portion of it dates perhaps from s. ii B.C.

⁵ J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne Macon 1890 i. 249 pl. 22, 23 (cp. ib. 250 pl. 22, 27), Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 60 pl. 14, 12, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 192, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 472.

Hermes 'established on the Tallaian heights¹, and we know that the mountain as a whole was famous for its cult of Zeus².

As in Crete, so in Lakonia, Talos the sun-god came to be identified with Zeus. Mount Taletón, the culminating peak of Mount Taygeton³, was sacred to the Sun, and amongst the sacrifices there offered to him were horses⁴. It would appear, therefore, that the Laconians too had a sun-god akin to Talos. But Zeus, whose worship spread by degrees over most of the mountain-tops of Greece⁵, naturally usurped the position of this ancient deity. A Spartan inscription links together Zeus Taletitas with Auxesia and Damoia⁶. These were goddesses of fertility⁷, and Zeus Taletitas was presumably coupled with them as being himself a fertilising force⁸.

§ 7. Zeus in relation to the Moon.

(a) Direct identifications of Zeus with the Moon.

We have next to enquire whether Zeus as god of the bright sky stood in any special relation to the second of the celestial luminaries. Direct identification, indeed, of Zeus with the moon is hardly to be looked for on Greek soil; for the Greeks, at least in historical times⁹, consistently regarded the moon as feminine. It is only in quasi-Greek districts that Zeus appears as a

¹ Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2569 = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. i. 237 οὔρεσι Ταλλαίοισιν (Ταλλείοισιν Gruter) ἰδρυμένε κ.τ.λ.

² Append. B Crete.

³ Supra p. 155 f.

⁴ Paus. 3. 20. 4, supra p. 180 f.

⁵ Append. B.

⁶ Lebas-Foucart Peloponnèse no. 162 k add. ...Δι Ταλετίτα [καὶ Αὐξή]σια καὶ Δαμοία κ.τ.λ. = Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 363, 1 f. See Append. B Lakonike.

⁷ F. Dümmler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 2616 ff.

⁸ Supra p. 291. H. Usener Götternamen Bonn 1896 p. 130f. regarded Zeus Ταλλαῖος, Ταλετίτας, as gods corresponding with the goddesses Θαλλώ, Θαλα, and ingeniously compared the Zeus Θαλῆς of Aquileia (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 2337 an altar found at Aquileia in 1830 Δι Θαλῆ | Τι Ἰούλιος | Μαμερτίνοσ | ἀνέθηκεν). For the interchange of T and Θ he referred to H. L. Ahrens De dialecto Dorica Gottingae 1843 p. 83 (Hesych. τρίσιος· θέρουσ. Κρήτες) and quoted Πύτιος, Πότιος, for Πύθιος (E. Boisacq Les dialectes doriens Paris 1891 p. 92, who adds ἀῖτω for αῖθις in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 261 ff. no. 4991 iv 3 f.).

⁹ H. Usener Götternamen Bonn 1896 p. 36 conjectures that the Greeks originally regarded the moon as masculine, not feminine, as Μῆν, not Μῆνη, and that the early conception survived in the Phrygian moon-god Μῆν (on whom see W. Drexler's exhaustive article in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2687—2770). This, in view of the fact that the moon is masculine in the Celtic, Germanic, Slavonic, Old Indian, and Zend languages, appears to me not improbable.

Direct identifications of Zeus with the Moon 731 moon-god¹. Thus silver tetradrachms of Antiochos viii Grypos, king of Syria, struck between 121 and 96 B.C., have as their reverse type Zeus standing erect within a laurel-wreath: he holds a long sceptre in his left hand, an eight-rayed star, possibly meant for the planet Jupiter, in his right; and on or over his head is the crescent moon (figs. 538, 539)².

Fig. 538.

Fig. 539.

Fig. 540.

¹ E. Siecke Drachenkämpfe Leipzig 1907 pp. 28—42 attempts to show that Zeus was originally a moon-god: but his arguments (the birth of Zeus on various mountains; his grave in Crete; his epithets Πανόπτης, Ἀστέριος, Χρυσάωρ, Ἐπόπιος, Λύκαιος; his connexion with the double-axe, 'horns of consecration,' eagle, goat, ram; his fight with the Titans; his temporary defeat by Typhoeus, etc.) are far from convincing.

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 88f. pl. 24, 1, Hunter Cat.

When Zeus appears in conjunction with the god Men, as in a relief from Maionia (fig. 540)¹, he is to be regarded as a solar rather than a lunar deity².

(b) Zeus paired with Selene (Pandîa ?).

Again, Zeus was paired with Selene, the Greek moon-goddess, as the father of Nemea³, while Dionysos, according to some authorities, was an offspring of the same union⁴. As early as the seventh century B.C. Alkman described certain flowers or plants,

Which the Dew, daughter of Zeus
And of Selana nutureth⁵.

A late Homeric hymn to Selene tells how—

With her once Kronos' son in love lay locked,
And she conceiving bare the maid Pandeie
Of form conspicuous mid the immortal gods⁶.

Hyginus too records the same genealogy⁷; and Photios states that the Attic festival Pandia derived its name either from Pandia the daughter of Selene or from Pandion the eponym of the tribe Pandionis, adding that it was held for Zeus⁸. It seems probable that, as W. H. Roscher conjectured⁹, Pandia was originally an epithet of Selene rather than her daughter¹⁰; but that the festival Pandia was ab initio connected with this Selene Pandîa is far from clear.

Coins iii. 99 f. pl. 69, 18 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 770. Fig. 538 is from a specimen in the Fitzwilliam Museum, fig. 539 from one in my collection.

¹ Supra p. 642 n. 2 and n. 4.

² Supra p. 193 fig. 142.

³ Supra p. 456 n. 5.

⁴ Supra p. 457 n. 5.

⁵ Alkm. frag. 48 Bergk⁴ οἷα Διὸς θυγάτηρ | ἔρσα τρέφει καὶ Σελάνας [δίας] ἀρ. Plout. symp. 3. 10. 3, quaest. nat. 24, de fac. in orb. lun. 25, cp. Macrob. Sat. 7. 16. 31, Natalis Comes mytholog. 3. 17 p. 131 ed. Patav. quidam tradiderunt Lunam fuisse uxorem Aeris, e quo Korem filium conceperit ac genuerit, ut ait Alkman melicus in eo carmine: ἀγρωστῶν δρόσος ἀΐξει μὲν μήνης τε καὶ ἀέρος υἱός. Natalis appears to be quoting, not Alkm. frag. 48, but a corrupt hexameter passage, which I would restore as follows: ἀγρωστῶν | ἀΐξει μὲν Μήνης τε καὶ Ἀέρος υἱός (glossed by δρόσος).

⁶ H. Sel. 14 ff.

⁷ Hyg. fab. praef. p. 12, 9 Schmidt ex Iove et Luna Pandia (pandion cod. F, corr. Schmidt).

⁸ Phot. lex. s.v. Πάνδια. So et. mag. p. 651, 21 f., Bekker anecd. i. 292, 10 f.

⁹ W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 100 and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3172.

¹⁰ Ulpian in Dem. in Mid. 8 Πάνδια δὲ οἱ μὲν Διὸς ἑορτὴν ἐνόμισαν· οἱ δὲ Πανδίαν τὴν Σελήνην νομίζουσιν κ.τ.λ., schol. Dem. in Mid. 8 Πάνδια καὶ Πάντια, ἢ Σελήνη, κ.τ.λ. Maximus περὶ καταρχῶν 22, 146, 208, 281 uses the expression πανδία Σελήνη, ib. 463 πανδία Σεληναίη, and ib. 123, 294, 327, 393 even πανδία alone of the moon. Orph. frag. 11, 8 Abel has πανδία Σεληναίη.

The festival itself was held on or about Elaphebolion 14, and appears to have formed the concluding act of the City Dionysia¹. Its name is an extension of *Dîa*² comparable, as Pollux saw, with Panathénaia, Paniónia, Panaitólia, *Pamboiótia*³. Mommsen⁴ and Gruppe⁵ suppose with much probability that the Pandia was celebrated at the time of the full moon. Now this was the time when, according to Greek belief, dew fell thickest; and dew, as we shall prove further on, was one means by which the sky-father impregnated the earth-mother⁶. Hence I venture to infer that the Pandia stood for the union of Zeus with Semele, whose name gave rise to frequent confusion with Selene⁷. On this showing the City Dionysia began with dithyramb, which commemorated the union of Zeus with Semele⁸, and ended with the Pandia, which brought that union to effect. Ten lunar months later, at the Lenaia, Dionysos son of Zeus by Semele was born⁹.

(c) Zeus paired with Io, Pasiphae, Europe.

When Zeus came to be paired with Selene, we may fairly assume that it was as a sun-god with a moon-goddess¹⁰. The same conception has been thought to underlie several of the love-tales told about him and already in part discussed by us. Scholars ancient and modern have regarded Io as the moon¹¹. And, if so, her lover might well be the sun. Pasiphae and her bull almost certainly represented moon and sun in some sense¹². Europe, borne off from Phoinike to Crete by Zeus, apparently by Zeus *Astérios*¹³, is another case in point. For Zeus Astérios seems

¹ Dem. in Mid. 8 f., Harpokr. and Soud. s.v. Πάνθεια. See further Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen pp. 432 f., 441, 445, 448, G. E. Marindin in Smith—Wayte—Marindin Dict. Ant. ii. 333, E. Cahen in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iv. 313.

² E. Cahen loc. cit. Another extension of Δία is to be seen in Δάδια: the simple form occurs as the name of a festival in Teos (supra p. 423 n. 2).

³ Poll. 6. 163. We need not suppose with E. Pfuhl De Atheniensium pompis sacris Berolini 1900 p. 30 n. 188 (after U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorf Aus Kydathen Berlin 1880 p. 133) that the Pándia implies an early unification of several Zeus-cults. The prefix may be due to false analogy, Pándia signifying no more than a glorified Dia.

⁴ Mommsen op. cit. p. 432 n. 4, p. 441.

⁵ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 938 n. 1.

⁶ Infra ch. ii § 8 (a). Note that at Miletos on Artemision 14 (= Elaphebolion 14) an offering was made Δι Νούτω, i.e. Norw, cp. Zeus 'Térios (A. Rehm in Milet iii. 162 ff., 400 f.).

⁷ Supra p. 457 n. 5.

⁸ Supra p. 681 f.

⁹ Supra p. 669 ff.

¹⁰ M. Mayer Die Giganten und Titanen Berlin 1887 p. 79 ff., W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 pp. 8 f., 100 f. and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3172 f.

¹¹ Supra p. 454 ff.

¹² Supra pp. 521 ff., 543 ff.

¹³ Supra p. 545 ff.

to have been—as C. Robert¹, M. Mayer², and W. H. Roscher³ surmised—not merely a star-god but also a sun-god⁴.

I must, however, insist even at the risk of some repetition that not one of these myths affords any valid proof that Zeus was ab origine a sun-god, consort of a moon-goddess. We cannot assert that Io was from the outset lunar⁵. Pasiphae may have been⁶: but it is probable that her bull, though solar, was not originally Zeus⁷. Finally, Europe as the moon⁸ and Zeus Astérios as the sun⁹ were Phoenician rather than Hellenic divinities.

(d) Zeus paired with Antiope.

In the Homeric *Nekyia*¹⁰ Odysseus interviews the shades of fourteen famous heroines, the list being probably the work of an interpolator who belonged to the Hesiodic school¹¹. We are concerned with but one of his characters—

Antiope,
Asopos' daughter, who in truth did boast
That she had lain even in the arms of Zeus.
Two sons she bare him, Zethos and Amphion,
Who founded first Thebes of the seven gates
And walled the same, since not without a wall
Could they, though stout of heart, hold wide-wayed Thebes¹².

In Euripides' Antiope Amphion says to his mother :

Nay, I cannot think
That Zeus in secret copying the shape
Of an evil-doer so drew nigh thy couch
As might a man¹³.

¹ Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 136.

² M. Mayer op. cit. p. 80.

³ W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 pp. 132, 138 f. and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3193.

⁴ Supra pp. 493 ff., 545 ff.

⁵ Supra p. 454 ff.

⁶ Supra p. 521 ff.

⁷ Supra pp. 522 f., 543 ff.

⁸ Supra pp. 524, 538 ff.

⁹ Supra p. 545 f.

¹⁰ Od. 11. 225 ff.

¹¹ G. C. W. Warr The Greek Epic London 1895 p. 194 n., M. Croiset *Histoire de la littérature grecque*² Paris 1896 i. 279 f., W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*⁵ München 1908 i. 56.

¹² Od. 11. 260 ff. The passage is paraphrased and expanded in Ap. Rhod. 1. 735—741.

¹³ Eur. Antiope frag. 210 Nauck² ap. Clem. Al. strom. 5. 14 p. 401, 5 ff. Stählin (= Euseb. praep. ev. 13. 13. 38) οὐκ οὐκ ἐτι κατὰ τὴν τῶν πολλῶν δόξαν περὶ τοῦ θεοῦ ὑποληπτέον. οὐδὲ γὰρ λάθρα δοκῶ | φωτὸς (θηρὸς cj. F. W. Schmidt) κακούργου σχήματ' ἐκμμούμενον | σοὶ Ζῆν' (cj. Valckenaer, τήνδε codd., τήνδ' Euseb.) ἐς εὐνήν ὡς περ ἀνθρώπων μολεῖν, Ἀμφίων λέγει τῆ' Ἀντιόπη.

But Hermes as deus ex machina declares :

Thou who didst tell her that it was a man,
Not Zeus, who wooed and won her—howsoe'er
She might deny it—what couldst thou have said
More hateful to the heart of Zeus himself,
Dishonouring thus the very bride of Zeus?¹

The story was localised in Boiotia² and took on a Dionysiac colouring, Antiope being represented as a Maenad³ and Zeus as a Satyr⁴. It is not, however, till Roman times that Zeus is

Fig. 541.

¹ Eur. Antiope frag. ultimum 44 ff. (H. v. Arnim Supplementum Euripideum Bonn 1913 p. 21) καὶ πρ[ω]τα μὲν σφ[ι] δὴ λέγων ἀνθρώπος [ὡς] | οὐ Ζεὺς ἐμείχθη, [κἀν ἀ]παρνήσαι τάδε— | τί δῆτ' ἂν εἶπες, Ζεὺς δ' μᾶλλον ἤχθετο, | Ἰηνὸς μολοῦσα <ν> λέ[κτρον ὦδ'] ἀ[τι]μάσας;

² Antiope was born at Hyria (Hes. frag. 78 Flach ap. schol. Il. 2. 496, Eustath. in Il. p. 265, 5, Herodian. i. 300 Lentz, Steph. Byz. s.v. Ὑρία). Her father Nykteus founded Hysia (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ὑσία, Eur. Antiope frag. 180 Nauck² ap. Harpokr. s.v. Ὑσία, cp. Herodian. i. 300 Lentz, Steph. Byz. s.v. Ὑρία).

³ On Antiope as a Maenad in literature (Paus. 9. 17. 6) and art (O. Jahn in the Arch. Zeit. 1853 xi. 65—105 pl. 56 f.) consult L. Weniger in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2411 f. She is described as a daughter of Lykourgos in the Kypria ap. Prokl. chrestom. 1 (p. 18 Kinkel) τὴν Λυκούργου (Λύκου c. Heyne) θυγατέρα. See further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 67 f., who remarks (p. 68 n. 1) that late writers regard Lykourgos, the persecutor of Dionysos' nurses (Il. 6. 130 ff.), as a Boeotian (Firm. Mat. 6. 6 ff., Kephallion frag. 5 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 628 Müller) ap. Io. Malal. chron. 2 p. 42 ff. Dindorf, Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 21).

⁴ Rufin. recogn. 10. 22, Dracont. 2. 24 (Poet. Lat. min. v. 129 Baehrens), Nonn. Dion. 7. 123, 16. 242 f., Myth. Vat. i. 204, Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. 9. 423, schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1090. K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2497 holds that of the various monuments, which have been supposed to represent Zeus as a Satyr with Antiope, two only have been rightly so interpreted, viz. an Etruscan mirror of late style in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Cat. Bronzes p. 116 no. 697 = Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 83 f. pl. 81, 2) and a scene from the great mosaic on the Piazza della Vittoria at Palermo actually said to have played the Satyr. The language of Euripides suggests rather that he courted Antiope in the shape of an ordinary man. A variant tradition, which emphasises the analogy between Europe and Antiope, makes the latter, like the former, wooed by Zeus in the form of a bull¹. The bull-connexion reappears in a curious local custom recorded by Pausanias². When the sun was in the sign of Taurus, the Thebans used to mount guard over the tomb of Zethos and Amphion; for if the men of Tithorea in Phokis could at that time steal some of the earth from the said tomb and place it on the tomb of Antiope, then the district of Tithorea would be fertile, that of Thebes barren. The belief was based on the following passage in the oracles of Bakis:

But whensoever to Zethos and Amphion
One of Tithorea's men upon the ground
Shall pour a soothing gift of drink and prayer,
What time the Bull is warmed by the great sun's might,
Then verily beware of no small bane
That comes upon the city; for the fruits
Dwindle within it, when men take of the earth
And to the tomb of Phokos bear the same.

The tomb of Phokos comes in as something of a surprise. We are expecting the tomb of Antiope. So Pausanias hastens to explain:

'The wife of Lykos (Dirke) honoured Dionysos above all the gods. Therefore, when she suffered what tradition says she suffered (being bound to a bull by Zethos and Amphion and thus dragged to death), Dionysos was wroth with Antiope. Are not the gods jealous of excessive vengeance? Antiope, men say, went mad and bereft of her wits wandered through Hellas till Phokos, son of Ornytion, son of Sisypchos, fell in with her, healed and married her. Hence Antiope and Phokos share the same grave³.'

(J. Overbeck in the Ber. sächs. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1873 pp. 98, 105 pl. 2). But the Etruscan mirror is, both by H. B. Walters and by E. Gerhard (loc. cit.), interpreted of Zeus with Semele: it represents Zeus with a crown of lilies (supra p. 622 f.) on his head and a thunderbolt in his left hand embracing a winged female figure in the presence of a tailed Satyr with two flutes. The mosaic, which may be dated c. 100 A.D., shows (fig. 541) Antiope as a Bacchant with thyrsos and timbrel advancing towards the left, while Zeus as an ithyphallic Satyr with lagobólón and fawn-skin (?) follows her from the right. Finally it may be noted that a painting by Correggio in the Louvre (no. 1118) gives Zeus as a young Satyr discovering Antiope asleep with Eros beside her (H. Schulze Das weibliche Schönheitsideal in der Malerei Jena 1912 p. 243 fig. 108, Reinach Rép. Peintures iii. 754).

¹ Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. 7. 189 (Antiope) a Lyco expulsa per Dircen a Iove in taurum verso compressa est, unde Zethus et Amphion feruntur progeniti.

² Paus. 9. 17. 4 ff., cp. Steph. Byz. s.v. Tithopala, who wrongly places the grave of Zethos and Amphion at Tithorea: on its real position see Frazer Pausanias v. 57.

³ Paus. 9. 17. 6. At a place in Daulis called Tronis there was a shrine of the hero

Note that the constellation Taurus is here connected with Antiope as it was connected with Europe¹. Moreover, the analogy subsisting between Europe and Antiope is strengthened rather than weakened by the marriage of the heroine with the local chief: Phokos, the eponym of Phokis, is to Antiope what Asterion, the Cretan king, was to Europe².

At Sikyon the story of Antiope was told in a different way³. Antiope, daughter of Nykteus the regent of Thebes, or, as rumour had it, daughter of the river Asopos, was famous for her beauty. Epopeus, son of Aloeus and grandson of Helios⁴, who had come from Thessaly and succeeded Korax as king of Aigialeia (later called Sikyon), was enamoured of Antiope and carried her off. Thereupon the Thebans sallied out to fight him. In the fight both Nykteus and Epopeus were wounded, but Epopeus won. Nykteus was carried back to Thebes, and on his death-bed entrusted the regency to his brother Lykos. Epopeus also died of his hurt, and was succeeded by Lamedon, who surrendered Antiope. As she went to Thebes by way of Eleutherai, she gave birth by the road-side—an incident commemorated by the old epic poet Asios:

Antiope the daughter of Asopos,
Deep-eddying stream, bare Zethos and Amphion
The god-like, having met in wedlock's bond
Zeus and Epopeus shepherd of the folk⁵.

The statement that Epopeus, king of Sikyon, and Zeus had the same wife is very noteworthy and, when compared with similar cases, points to the belief that the king was an embodiment of Zeus⁶. If so, his name was appropriate. Ερροπεύς, 'He who sees all,' is but another form⁷ of the cult-titles *Ερρόπτες*⁸, *Ερρόσιος*⁹, *Ερροπεύς*¹⁰ borne by Zeus.

Founder (ἡρώων ἦρω Ἀρχηγέτου), who was variously identified with Xanthippos, a famous warrior, and with Phokos, son of Ornytion, son of Sisyphos. The Phokians daily honoured him: they brought victims, poured the blood through a hole into the grave, and consumed the flesh on the spot (Paus. 10. 4. 10).

¹ Supra p. 549.

² Supra p. 546 f.

³ Paus. 2. 6. 1 ff. Variants in Apollod. 3. 5. 5, schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1090, Hyg. fab. 8, Myth. Vat. 1. 204; Hyg. fab. 7; Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. 4. 570, schol. Pers. sat. 1. 77, Myth. Vat. 1. 97, 2. 74 Antiope...ab Εραρφο...stuprata; Κύπρια ap. Prokl. chrestom. 1 (p. 18 Kinkel); Soud. s.v. Ἀντιόπη.

⁴ Paus. 2. 1. 1.

⁵ Asios frag. 1 Kinkel ap. Paus. 2. 6. 4.

⁶ Cp. supra p. 247 f.

⁷ J. Escher-Bürkli in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 245.

⁸ Hesych. Ἐρρόπτης· Ζεὺς· ἡ θεατῆς, Corn. theol. 9 p. 9, 20 Lang, Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 f. Διὸς...ἐφόρον, ἐπόπτου, ἐπηκόου.

⁹ Hesych. Ἐρρόσιος· Ζεὺς· καὶ Ἀπόλλων, Kallim. h. Zeus 82, Ap. Rhod. 2. 1125 Ζηρὸς Ἐρροσίου, 1135, Orph. Arg. 1035.

¹⁰ Hesych. Ἐρροπεύης· Ζεὺς παρὰ Ἀθηναίους.

Antiope's tomb at Tithorea was honoured when the sun was in the sign of Taurus¹. Her partner at Sikyon was Epopeus, grandson of Helios². Late authorities made her a priestess of Helios; Antiope, therefore, stood in some relation to the sun. At Corinth that relation was much more clearly recognised. For Eumelos in his Korinthiaka (c. 740 B.C.) represented Antiope, not as wife of Helios' grandson, but as wife of Helios himself and by him mother of Aloclus and Aietes³. Diophanes too, better known as Diophantos, in his Pontic History (s. iii B.C.)⁴ made Antiope the mother of Aietes⁵, and therefore presumably the wife of Helios. Now if Antiope as early as the eighth century B.C. was the wife of the Sun, it is reasonable to conjecture that she was a moon-goddess. Antiope, as O. Gruppe observes⁷, is 'a highly suitable appellation for the full moon, which at its rising exactly faces the sun.' For Antiope means 'She who looks over against, or faces' another; and Nonnos, for example, speaks of—Phaethon balancing the full-faced (antôpis) Moon⁸.

W. H. Roscher⁹, who regards Antiope as a 'moon-heroine' or 'hypostasis of the moon-goddess,' draws attention to her rape by Epopeus¹⁰, to her vaunted beauty¹¹, to the names of her father Nykteus, the 'Nocturnal,' and his brother Lykos, the 'Light'¹², to

¹ Supra p. 736 f.

² Supra p. 737.

³ Kephallion frag., 6 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 628 Müller) ap. Io, MalaL chron. 2 p. 45 Dindorf.

⁴ Eumel. frag., 2 Kinkel ap. schol. Pind. Ol. 13. 74, Tzetzi. in Lyk. Al. 174, schol. Eur. Med. arg. 3 (iv. 4 Dindorf).

⁵ E. Schwartz in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1051.

⁶ Diophantos frag., 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 397 Müller) ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 3. 242, Eudok. viol. 37. In both sources the MSS. read Διοφάνης, not Διόφαντος.

⁷ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 938 n. 2.

⁸ Nonn. Dion. 6. 76 και φαέθων ισόμορος ἔην ἀντῶπιδι Μήνη.

⁹ W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 140 ff. and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3197 ff.

¹⁰ Paus. 2. 6. 2 ἀρπάξει. Kypria ap. Prokl. chrestom. 1 (p. 18 Kinkel) φθείρας, etc. On the rape of the moon-goddess see W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 78 and in his Lex. Myth. ii. 3159.

¹¹ Ap. Rhod. 4. 1088 εὐώπιδα (cp. Pind. Ol. 10. 90 f. εὐώπιδος [Σελάνας, etc.]), Paus. 2. 6. 1, Prop. 1. 4. 5, Hyg. fab. 8. On the beauty of the moon-goddess see W. H. Roscher Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 22 f., id. Nachträge zu meiner Schrift über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1895 p. 21, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3131 f. or, better still, see herself.

¹² Supra p. 65. S. Eitrem 'Die göttlichen Zwillinge bei den Griechen' in the Skrifter udgivet af Videnskabselskabet i Christiania 1902 ii Historisk-filosofisk Klasse Christiania 1903 no. 2 argues that in the original form of the myth the twins Amphion and Zethos carried off Antiope and her sister Dirke from a second pair of twins, Lykos (Lykourgos, Epopeus) and Nykteus. The myth would thus be parallel to that of the rape her connexion with Orion¹, and to her sons Amphion and Zethos, the Theban Dioskouroi, whom he believes to be the morning-star and the evening-star respectively². This last point is of very doubtful validity³. Nevertheless the analogy of Kastor and Polydeukes⁴ predisposes us to think that Amphion and Zethos may have stood in some relation to stars. And, if so, we obtain another illustration of the old-world idea that the stars are the offspring of a union between the sun and the moon⁵.

(e) Zeus and his Lunar Consorts.

On a review of the foregoing evidence it appears that Zeus, who consorted with Selene at Nemea, was elsewhere paired with a variety of heroines—Antiope, Europe, Io—who sooner or later acquired lunar characteristics. That the moon should be called by half a dozen different names in Greece, is by no means surprising—witness its numerous appellations among the peasants of modern France⁶ and Germany⁷. Observe, too, that the Greek names for the moon—Pasiphae, Pandia (?), and the like—were of local, not universal, significance. Athens spoke of Pandia; Argos and Euboia, of Io; Knossos and Thalamai, of Pasiphae. Nor was there, except perhaps with Antiope and Europe in Phokis and Boiotia, any overlapping of lunar names:

What has been said will suffice to establish a further and a more important contention. The combination of a solar Zeus with a lunar consort is restricted to certain well-defined areas. It occurs in Crete and in the eastern half of central Greece, but hardly anywhere in the rest of the Greek area. This may be taken to show that Zeus was not essentially the husband of a lunar bride. His association with her savours rather of non-Hellenic influence.

One other feature of these myths deserves to be mentioned. There is in them a decided tendency towards representing Zeus as a bull and his partner as a cow. The bull Zeus mates with the cow Io⁸. Poseidon or Zeus sent, or, as later writers put it, of the Leukippides by the sons of Aphareus and the Dioskouroi (Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 394 f.).

¹ Pind. frag. 73 Christ ap. Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 34, Strab. 404.

² Welcker Gr. Götterl. i. 614 f.

³ Infra p. 771.

⁴ Infra p. 760 ff.

⁵ Supra p. 523 n. 6.

⁶ P. Sébillot Le Folk-Lore de France Paris 1904 i. 37 ff.

⁷ J. Grimm Teutonic Mythology trans. J. S. Stallybrass London 1883 ii. 701.

⁸ Supra p. 438 ff.

Zeus was the bull that had connexion with Pasiphae in her cow¹. Zeus sent, or, according to the usual version, Zeus was the bull that bore Europe away to Crete²; and she in her turn appears at Thebes as a cow marked on either flank with a white full moon³. Lastly, Antiope is said by the scholiast on Statius to have been driven out by Lykos owing to the designs of Dirke, and then to have been won by Zeus, who had transformed himself into a bull for the occasion⁴: there was thus a certain poetic justice about the vengeance that Antiope's sons wreaked upon Dirke, when they bound her to a bull⁵. It can hardly be doubted that these bull-and-cow myths hang together with the conception of the sun as a bull and the horned moon as a cow.

§ 8. Zeus in relation to the Stars.

Zeus as god of the bright sky was brought into various relations with the stars also, though these minor manifestations of his brightness did not often find definite expression in cult, literature, or art.

(a) Zeus Astérios, Zeus Seirén, Zeus Oromásdes.

Late authors attest the Gortynian cult of Zeus *Astérios*⁶, whose title may have meant originally 'god of all the Celestial Lights'⁷ but in the Hellenistic age would doubtless be understood as 'god of the Stars' only⁸, perhaps with special reference to the constellation Helike⁹.

Other indications connect Zeus with Seirios. Once, when the dog-star was scorching the island of Keos, Aristaios is said to have made a great altar for Zeus Ikmaïos and to have sacrificed on the mountains to Seirios and to Zeus¹⁰. The combination perhaps gave rise to a separate conception. Antimachos of Kolophon (c. 400 B.C.) 'called Zeus Seirén on account of the star¹¹.'

¹ Supra pp. 464 ff., 544.

² Supra pp. 524 ff., 544.

³ If I am right in my surmise supra p. 539 ff.

⁴ Supra p. 736 n. 1.

⁵ Supra p. 736. The tauriform Zeus perhaps acted as his own executioner.

⁶ Supra p. 545 ff. K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1786 argues from the existence of the hypostases Asterion and Asterios that the cult of Zeus Astérios was early. But see supra p. 547.

⁷ Supra p. 495.

⁸ Supra p. 547.

⁹ Supra p. 547 ff.

¹⁰ Ap. Rhod. 2. 516 ff. See further infra ch. ii § 8 (c).

¹¹ Antim. frag. 94 Kinkel ap. et. mag. p. 710, 30 f. ὁ δὲ Ἀντιμάχου σείρινα (Σειρήνα c).

Small copper coins of Kypros dating from the Ptolemaic period have as their obverse type a laureate head of Zeus, as their reverse Zeus standing with corn-ears in his right hand, a sceptre in his left, and a large star above his head (fig. 542)¹. In view of other Cypriote coppers, which connect the star with Aphrodite and her dove², we may venture to identify it with the planet Venus rather than with the planet Jupiter³.

Fig. 542.

Finally, stars played an important part in the cult of Zeus Oromásdes, the Hellenised Auramazda⁴, who was represented, like Men⁵ vir doctus in Classical Journal vii. 234, Σελπιον cj. Schellenberg) τὸν Δία ἐφη διὰ τὸ ἄστρον, cp. Eustath. in Od. p. 1709, 55 f. ἐν δὲ ἠητορικῶ λέξικῶ εἴρηται καὶ ταῦτα· Σελπίηδες, τὰ ἄστρον. See also U. von Wilamowitz-Möllendorff Timotheos die Perser Leipzig 1903 p. 44 and D. Mülder in Philologus 1906 lxxv. 217 f. cited by O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 601. Supra p. 299 n. 2.

¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Cyprus p. lxxxi. I figure a specimen in my collection.

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Cyprus p. lxxviii pl. 22, 8 and pl. 24, 16.

³ In the case of tetradrachms struck by Antiochos viii Grypos (supra p. 731 figs. 538, 539) I interpreted the star held by the god as the planet Jupiter. But the moon is so constantly associated with the evening-star in oriental art that it is at least equally possible to regard the star in question as the planet Venus.

⁴ Supra p. 10 n. 1. As to the name Auramazda my friend the Rev. Prof. J. H. Moulton in his Early Religious Poetry of Persia Cambridge 1911 p. 73 n. writes: 'Hommel's discovery of the name Assara Mazas in an Assyrian record of the middle of the second millennium B.C. takes the divine name back to the Aryan period, or to Iranian antiquity prior to the change of s to h....The Boghazkeui Indra and Násatia might be Indó-Aryan, but Mazas cannot. It seems probable therefore that Mazdâh was a cult epithet of a great Ahura—some would say the Vedic Varuṇa—long before Zarathushtra.' Id. ib. p. 56:...'Having thus discarded conceptions of Deity which failed to satisfy his spiritual sense, Zarathushtra proclaimed his own conceptions in their stead. One inherited name for God was good enough for him. Ahura in the Gâthâs already means "Lord," its etymological meaning "spiritual" having apparently died out before the division of the Aryans. Who or what was "the Lord"? His relation to Nature is wholly in accord with the Bible itself. "Who covereth Himself with light as with a garment" is almost a quotation from the Gâthâs. But his own nature is something higher yet. He is "the Wise" (Mazdâh), which seems specially to denote the "knowledge of good and evil," the unerring instinct that can distinguish between Truth and Falsehood, which for the Prophet were the most vital aspects of good and evil.' Id. ib. p. 57 f.: 'The elements of the combination Ahura Mazdâh in the Gâthâs are declined as separate words, arranged indifferently, and either word may be used alone. "The Wise Lord" will probably represent it to us better than "Ahura Mazdâh." It soon became fixed as a proper name. By the time of the great Darius, the first Zarathushtrian King of Persia (it would seem), the name has become a single word, Auramazda, with flexion only at the end.' See further J. H. Moulton Early Zoroastrianism London 1913 pp. 30 ff., 61, 90 ff., 106 ff., 422 ff., alib.

It is reasonable to suppose that the Hesychian gloss Μαζεύς· ὁ Ζεὺς παρὰ Φρυγίᾳ preserves in a Grecised form the cult-title Mazdâh.

⁵ A. M. Migliarini in the Ann. d. Inst. 1843 xv. 392 f. pl. O, p 2, Reinach Pierres Gravées p. 135 no. 20 pl. 123, Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 141 nos. 3177 f. pl. 26, p. 197 nos. 4914—4917 pl. 35, W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2692, 2745.

or Attis¹ or Mithras(?)², wearing a stellate tiara. We are unusually well informed about this deity, thanks to the systematic exploration of the Nemroud Dagh, an outlying spur of Mount Tauros in the region of the upper Euphrates. Here in 1881 the engineer K. Sester discovered a remarkable tumulus, which in 1882 and 1883 was investigated by two expeditionary parties, that of the Germans (O. Puchstein, K. Humann, F. von Luschan)³ and that of the Turks (Hamdy Bey, Osgan Effendi)⁴. Their results may be briefly resumed.

Antiochos i of Kommagene (69—38 B.C. or later), who in his inscriptions announces himself as 'The great King Antiochos, the Just God Made Manifest, Friend of the Romans and Friend of the Greeks', resolved to be buried on the highest mountain-peak of his domain. On the summit of the Nemroud Dagh, at an altitude

¹ Ioul. or. 5. 165 Β τὴν δὲ (sc. Μητέρα τῶν θεῶν) τὰ τε ἄλλα πάντα ἐπιτρέψαι αὐτῷ (sc. τῷ Ἀττίδι) καὶ τὸν ἀστερωτὸν ἐπιθέειναι πῖλον, ib. 170 D f. ὁ γὰρ Ἄττις οὗτος ἔχων τὴν κατάστικτον τοῖς ἀστροῖς τιάραν εὐδῆλον ὅτι τὰς πάντων τῶν θεῶν εἰς τὸν ἐμφανῆ κόσμον ὀρωμένης λήξει ἀρχὰς ἐποιήσατο τῆς ἑαυτοῦ βασιλείας, Sallustius περὶ θεῶν καὶ κόσμου 4 ἐρᾷ μὲν ἢ Μητῆρ τοῦ Ἄττεως καὶ οὐρανίου αὐτῷ διδῶσιν δυνάμεις· τοῦτο γὰρ ἔστιν ὁ πῖλος.

Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 226 no. 746 pl. 13, 6, cp. no. 747 (Ankyra in Galatia); ib. p. 226 f. nos. 748—750 pl. 13, 7—9, cp. no. 751 (Pessinous), R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 i. 63 f. fig. 11; E. Pernice—F. Winter Der Hildesheimer Silberfund Berlin 1901 pl. 5, Reinach Rép. Reliefs i. 159, 2, W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2741.

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 84 pl. 19, 3 f., Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 227 pl. E, 16, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 136 pl. 18, 5 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 505 fig. 264.

³ K. Humann and O. Puchstein Reisen in Kleinasien und Nordsyrien Berlin 1890 p. 97 ff. with figs. in text and Atlas of 3 maps and 53 pls.

⁴ O. Hamdy Bey and Osgan Effendi Le Tumulus du Nemroud-dagh (Voyage, Description, Inscriptions avec Plans et Photographies). Constantinople 1883 with Frontisp., 33 pls., and 2 plans.

⁵ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 272 i a 1 ff. (=Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 383, 1 ff.), p. 325 1 ff., p. 320 f. 1 ff., p. 327 1 ff., p. 319 1 ff., p. 303 1 ff., p. 302 1 ff., p. 304 1 ff., p. 304 f. 1 ff., p. 283 1 ff., p. 306 f. 1 ff., p. 285 1 ff., p. 307 f. 1 ff., p. 287 1 ff., p. 313 1 ff., p. 311 f. 1 ff., p. 356 1 ff. (=Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. nos. 383, 1 ff., 384, 1 ff., 385, 1 ff., 386, 1 ff., 387, 1 ff., 388, 1 ff., 389, 1 ff., 390, 1 ff., 391, 1 ff., 392, 1 ff., 393, 1 ff., 394, 1 ff., 395, 1 ff., 396, 1 ff., 397, 1 ff., 401, 1 ff., 402, 1 ff.), V. W. Yorke in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1898 xviii. 312 f. no. 14, 1 ff. Samosata (=Dittenberger op. cit. no. 404, 1 ff.): Βασιλεὺς μέγας Ἀντίοχος Θεὸς Δίκαιος Ἐπιφανὴς Φιλορωμαῖος καὶ Φιλέλλην, cp. Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure iii no. 136 d, 1 ff. Ephesos (=Dittenberger op. cit. no. 405, 1 ff.) Βασιλέα Ἀντίοχον Θεὸν Δίκαιον Ἐπιφανῆ Φιλορωμαίων | καὶ Φιλέλληνα, and the slight variant in Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 311 1 ff. (=Dittenberger op. cit. no. 400, 1 ff.) [Βασίλ]εὺς μέγ[ας] | [Ἀντίο]χος Θεὸς Δ[ίκαιος] | [Ἐπιφ]ανῆς Φι[λέλλη]ν | [καὶ Φιλορωμαῖος].

Since a dedication Θεῷ Δικαίῳ Μίθρα has come to light at Kilissé Hissar, i.e. Tyana in Kappadokia (J. H. Mordmann in the Ath. Mitt. 1885 x. 12 citing Rizo Καππαδοκικά 113), O. Puchstein in Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 341 f. suggests that the divine titles of Antiochos were a popular designation of Mithras. But F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 564 shows that the cult-epithets "Ὅσιος καὶ Δίκαιος," "Ὅσιος Δίκαιος," or "Ὅσιος alone, were used throughout Asia Minor etc. of a variety of gods and goddesses. And, as we shall see, Antiochos claimed to be a human counterpart of Zeus Oromásdes rather than of Mithras.

Fig. 543.

of between 6800 and 7100 ft¹, a prodigious cairn of stones was piled containing c. 264,750 cubic metres of material (fig. 543). Various attempts to penetrate the vast mass and rifle the dead king's chamber have been made in modern times and have failed². Antiochos set forth his intentions in a pompous inscription :

'When I had determined to construct the foundations of this sacred monument beyond the reach of time's wasting hand, hard by the heavenly throne, to the end that here the body of my outward form, having lived till old age in felicity and sent forth a soul beloved of the gods to the heavenly throne of Zeus Oromásdes, might sleep for endless ages, then of a truth I chose to make this spot the sacred seat of all gods in common, that so not only this heroic company of mine ancestors which thou seest might be established by my care, but also the divine shapes of manifest deities sanctified on a holy summit, and that they might have this place as a witness by no means bereft of my piety. Wherefore, as thou seest, I have established these godlike effigies of Zeus Oromásdes and Apollon Mithras Helios Hermes and Artagnes Herakles Ares and mine all-nurturing country Kommagene. Moreover, made of the self-same stone-work with gods that answer prayer and throned together with them, I have set up the fashion of mine own form, and have caused the ancient honour of great deities to become coeval with a new Tyche, thereby preserving a just representation of the immortal mind which has many a time been seen to manifest itself in my support and to lend me friendly help in the carrying out of my royal projects³. Etc., etc.

The concluding sentences of this passage refer to the fact that east and west of the cairn were two terraces, each of which had a similar series of five seated statues—ungainly colossal figures, built up of limestone blocks to a height of some 26 ft. Hamdy Bey, who saw the tumulus half-covered with snow, compares its clumsy guardians with a set of snow-men⁴. The central statue, somewhat larger than its neighbours, was that of Zeus Oromásdes in Commagenian costume with a short bundle of rods, the Persian baresman

¹ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 236.

² Eid. ib. p. 240 f.

³ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 272 f. i b 13 ff. (= Dittenberger Oriental. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 383, 36 ff.) ἐπεὶ δὲ ἱεροθεσιον τοῦδε κρη|πεῖδα ἀπόρθητον χρόνου λύμαις | οὐρανίων ἀγχιστα θρόνων κατασ|τήσασθαι προενοήθην, ἐν ᾧ μα|καριστὸν ἄχρι [γ]ήρας ὑπέξαν σῶμα | μορφῆς ἐμῆς πρὸς οὐρανίου Διὸς | Ὠρομάσδου θρόνου θεοφιλεῖ ψυχῆν | προπέμψαν εἰς τὸν ἄπειρον αἰῶνα κοιμήσεται· τότε δὴ καὶ τόνδε | χῶρον | ἱερὸν ἀπάντων κοινὸν ἀναδείξει | θεῶν ἐνθρόνισμα προειλάμην, ὅπως | μὴ μόνον ἐμῶν προγόνου οὗτος ἐν ὄρεσ ἡρώ(ο)ς λόχος ἐμαῖς ἐπιμελείαις ὑπάρ|χη καθιδρυμένος, ἀλλὰ καὶ | δαιμόνων ἐπιφανῶν θεῶς τύπος ἐν | ἀγίοις λόφοις καθοσιωθείς, μηδὲ τόν|δε τὸν τόπον ὄρφανὸν ἐ|μῆς εὐσεβείας ἔχη μ|ά|ρτυρα· διόπερ | ὡς ὄρεσ Διὸς τε Ὠρομάσδου καὶ Ἀπόλλωνος Μίθρου Ἥλιου Ἑρμοῦ καὶ Ἀρτά|γνου Ἡρακλέους Ἄρεως ἐμῆς τε πατρίδος | παντρόφου Κομμαγενῆς θεοπρε|πή ταῦτα ἀγάλματα καθιδρυσάμην | ἀπὸ τε λιθείας μᾶς δαίμοσιν ἐπηκόοις | σύνθρονον χαρακτηῖρα μορφῆς ἐμῆς | συνανέθηκα καὶ Τύχης νέας ἡλικιώ|τιν ἀρχαίων θεῶν μεγάλων τιμῆς ἐποιήσάμην, μίμημα δίκαιον φυλάσ|σων ἀθανάτων φροντίδος, ἣ πολλάκις ἐμοὶ παραστάτις ἐπιφανῆς εἰς βοήθειαν ἀγώνων βασιλικῶν εὐμενῆς | ἐωράτο. κ.τ.λ. J. H. Moulton Early Zoroastrianism London 1913 p. 107 f. detects in these last clauses a clear reference to the Fravashi or 'double' of Persian belief.

⁴ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 252—259, 293—298 pls. 23—31, Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. pp. 15—19 pls. 12, 12¹, 14—19, 19¹, 20—22.

or *barsom*¹, in his left hand and a high tiara on his head: this tiara in front and behind had a vertical stripe on which round disks were worked in low relief, while about its edge was a diadem adorned with a row of upright winged thunderbolts (fig. 544)². On the right of Zeus sat Kommagene, conceived as a Tyche with a kálathos and a corn-wreath on her head, a horn of plenty in her left hand, and a bunch of corn-ears, grapes, pomegranates and a pear-shaped fruit in her right³. On the left of Zeus was

Fig. 544.

¹ J. H. Moulton Early Religious Poetry of Persia Cambridge 1911 p. 127: 'The barsom (baresman) is a Magian ritual instrument, a bundle of twigs held before the face: cf. Ezekiel viii. 17. It adapts the name of an Aryan institution of a very different kind, the Indian barhis, or carpet of grass on which the sacrifice was laid.' Id. Early Zoroastrianism London 1913 pp. 68 f., 189 ff., 198 f., 408 f. See further O. M. Dalton The Treasure of the Oxus etc. London 1905 p. 46 f.: 'the baresman or barsom, a small bundle of rods supposed to be composed of branches of the date, pomegranate, and tamarisk, the gathering of which Ormuzd describes to Zarathustra in the nineteenth chapter of the Vendidad³.

(³[A.] Hovelacque, [L'Avesta, Zoroastre et le Mazdéisme Paris 1880], p. 425; M. Dieulafoy, [L'Acropole de Suse [Paris 1893], p. 393 n. 4; see also note to no. 48.) It was the constant accompaniment of almost every ritual act, and in his daily prayers before the sacred fire, as Strabo noted of the Magi in Cappadocia, the priest always held it in his hand⁴. (⁴Ῥάβδων μυρικίων λεπτῶν δέσμην κατέχοντες, Strabo, xv. 733; [J. G.] Rhode, [Die heilige Sage und das gesammte Religions-System der alten Baktrer, Meder, Perser etc. Frankfurt 1820], p. 509.) The texts do not seem to imply that the rods were used for purposes of divination, but there is some authority for believing that this was at one time the case...The bundle of rods seems to be shown in the hands of the two statuettes nos. 1 and 2 [p. 75 f. pls. 2 and 12], the second of which may well represent a magus of high rank; a number of the figures upon the gold plaques (see plates xiii and xiv) also hold it, and attention may be called to the fact that the object held by the deity in the Sassanian rock sculpture, fig. 42, has some resemblance to a bundle of rods.' A Graeco-Persian relief of c. 425—400 B.C., found near Daskyleion, shows two priests in Persian dress with covered mouth and nose and uplifted barsom (?), offering a ram's head and a bull's head on a pyre (?) of slender sticks (T. Macridy in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1913 xxxvii. 348 ff. fig. 4 pl. 8).

² Fig. 544 shows the seated Zeus of the east terrace (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 255 f. pls. 25—27 and 29, 5 f., Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. p. 15 f. pls. 12 and 15) completed with the help of the head from its counterpart of the west terrace (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 296 f. pl. 31, 3, Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. p. 19 pl. 19).

³ Kommagene is the one figure whose head, though not quite in the original position, still rests upon its shoulders. She, in common with many another Asiatic Tyche (supra p. 136 n. 6, cp. p. 597 n. 4 and p. 710), may be regarded as a late modification of the ancient mountain-mother, who after all had the longest, if not the best, claim to be honoured on such a site. Hence Antiochos (supra p. 744) was careful to describe himself a beardless effigy of Antiochos, in pose and costume closely resembling Zeus, except that the diadem round his tiara was decorated with alternate disks and lozenges in relief. Beyond Kommagene was Apollon Mithras Helios Hermes¹; beyond Antiochos was Artagnes Herakles Ares². Both these deities bore a general likeness to Zeus; but, whereas Apollon held the bundle of rods, Artagnes carried a short club leaning against his shoulder. The series was terminated at either end by statues of an eagle and a lion standing on a common base. On the backs of the thrones was the long inscription, part of which has been cited above, including a preamble to explain the purpose of the whole precinct and a law to regulate its cult³.

Over against the statues of the east terrace were the remains of a large rectangular altar, once decorated with sculpture, and two long bases or walls, north and south of the terrace, in which stélai as the new Tyche, whose cult was thenceforth to be associated with that of the older divinities (see Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 339 n. 1).

¹ Apollon Mithras Helios is presumably a solar deity. His further identification with Hermes may be attributed to the fact that the planet Mercury was connected by the Persians with Mithras, by the Greeks either with Apollon or with Hermes (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 335 n. 4). Note also that the rôle of ψυχοποιός was played alike by Mithras and by Hermes (F. Cumont in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3055, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 383 n. 20).

² Artagnes is the Avestan Verethraghna, the genius of 'Victory' (on whose name see J. H. Moulton Early Religious Poetry of Persia Cambridge 1911 pp. 39 f., 146), as was observed by P. de Lagarde in the Nachr. d. kön. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Göttingen Phil.-hist. Classe 1886 p. 148 ff. (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 282 n. 1). The identification with Herakles and Ares may be due to the fact that the planet Mars, which the Persians connect with the god Bahrām (=the earlier Verethraghna), was by the Greeks assigned sometimes to Herakles, sometimes to Ares (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 335 n. 4, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 383 n. 21). Further, Artagnes was perhaps represented as Herakles in Mithraic art (F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 i. 143 and in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. Suppl. i. 144) and on coins of Hooerkes (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Greek and Scythic Kings p. 138 pl. 27, 15 ΗΡΑΚΛΕΩ, p. 154 pl. 29, 1 ΗΡΑΚΛΑΟ (?), Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 282 n. 1), and as Ares by Strab. 727 ἔθρον 'τε θύουσι (sc. οἱ Καρμάνιοι) τῷ Ἄρει, ὅνπερ σέβονται θεῶν μόνον, καὶ εἰσι πολεμισταί.

³ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 259 ff., Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. p. i ff., Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 383. The principal enactments are that the birthday of Antiochos, viz. the 16th of Audnaios (a Macedonian month answering to the Athenian Poseideon), and his coronation day, viz. the 10th of Loïos (the Macedonian equivalent of the Athenian Hekatombaion), are to be observed throughout the kingdom as festivals in honour of his divine guardians; that the corresponding days, viz. the 16th and the 10th, of each month shall be honoured by the priests; that on all these occasions the priest of the gods and heroes is to wear Persian attire, to crown all (sc. the gods and heroes) with golden crowns, and to offer on the altar of the latter frankincense and perfumes, while he honours the former with rich sacrifices; that, moreover, he is to furnish the holy tables with fitting viands and jars of wine, and so to entertain citizens and strangers alike, reserving a special portion for himself and allowing every guest to take his share and consume it where he will. Etc., etc.

Fig. 545.

representing the ancestors of Antiochos had been set up, each with its own small altar before it¹.

The west terrace also had two base-walls for the erection of similar stélai. These were placed along its western and southern sides². The line of the seated statues was here continued northwards by means of a third base-wall, the reliefs of which were fairly preserved. They represented, from left to right, the following figures—Antiochos receiving a bunch of grapes, apples, corn etc. from Kommagene, Antiochos greeted by Apollon Mithras Helios Hermes, Antiochos greeted by Zeus Oromásdes, Antiochos greeted by Artagnes Herakles Ares, the horoscope of Antiochos in the form of a star-spangled lion. Of these five reliefs the first four bore dedicatory inscriptions on their backs, the last was inscribed in front. The whole series was flanked by an eagle and a lion at either end, arranged as in the case of the seated *colossi*³.

The central and largest relief (fig. 545)⁴ portrays Zeus Oromásdes in Commagenian dress giving the right hand of fellowship to Antiochos, who is similarly attired. The god sits on a gorgeous throne, decorated above with a pair of eagles, on either side with oak-leaves and acorns, below with Chimaira-heads and leonine claws. He holds a sceptre in his left hand. His tiara has a beaded edge and a diadem with upright winged thunderbolts on it: it is

¹ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 245—250, Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. pp. 11—15.

² Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 292 f., 298 ff., Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. pp. 19 f., 24—28.

³ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 317—336, Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. pp. 20—24.

⁴ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 324—327 pl. 39, 1 and 1a (= my figs. 545, 546), Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. p. 23 f. pl. 27 f., F. Cumont Textes et monuments nusurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 ii. 187 f. fig. 11 and in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1054 f. fig. 2, R. Eisler Weltentmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 i. 64 fig. 12, Reinach Rep. Reliefs i. 195, 5. The slab has a maximum height of 3.04^m, and is 2.17^m broad and 0.28^m thick (exclusive of the relief). When first discovered by

Fig. 546.

O. Puchstein, it was lying on its face with stones heaped upon it. He copied the inscription on its back and replaced the stones. Hamdy Bey dug it up again and, since it lay with the foot-end still resting on the base-wall, tilted it over on its head. The result is that it now lies upside down exposed to the weather. Worse than that, the lower part of the relief has broken off, and the two parts do not accurately fit together. A fragment (fig. 546) found by a Turk in 1884 and brought by him to F. von Luschan is now at Berlin: it shows part of the diadem together with the left brow of Zeus; height 0.22^m. The inscription chiselled on the back of the slab is: Βασιλεύς ἑγὼς Ἀντίοχος Ὀρὸς Δίκαιος Ἐπιφ[α]νής [Φ]ιλορωμαῖος καὶ Φιλέλληγ. | ὁ ἐγὼ βασιλεύ[ω]ς Μισσαδῶτων Καλλιόνων καὶ βασιλέ[ω]σσης Λαοδίκης Ουἱᾶς Φιλαδέλφου. | Δία Ὀρομάσδη (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 325, Dittenberger Oriental. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 384).

also plentifully sprinkled with six-rayed stars, among which is visible another winged bolt. His foot-gear, leg-coverings, etc. show the oak-pattern. Altogether he is a skilful blend of the

Fig. 547.

Commagenian and the Greek. Puchstein rightly observes that Antiochos is decked, wherever possible, with the symbols of Zeus. His crown-topped tiara¹ displays a large winged bolt between ¹ Cp. the head-dress of Antiochos i of Kommagene on bronze coins struck by him (fig. 550, cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. pp. xlv f., 105 pl. 14, 8, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 120, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 775) with that of Tigranes, king of Armenia, on his silver and copper moneys (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 103 ff.

Fig. 548.

Fig. 549.

Fig. 550.

pl. 27, 5 ff. (fig. 548=pl. 27, 6), Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 1 ff. pl. 63, 1 ff., *Head Hist. num.*² p. 772 f. fig. 342, G. F. Hill Historical Greek Coins London 1906 p. 163 ff., pl. 13, 96). Figs. 549, 550 are from specimens in the Leake collection = W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1856 Kings and Dynasts p. 38.

oak-leaves. His diadem, the upper edge of his coat-of-mail, his shoulder-clasps, all have the same design of thunderbolts. Tiara-flaps, girdle, dagger-sheath, and shoes are embellished with oak-leaves and acorns. Lastly the short-sleeved jerkin is covered with stars set in a kind of network or trellis. Clearly the king wished to be regarded as the human embodiment of Zeus Oromásdes, 'the Just God Made Manifest.'

Antiochos' horoscope (fig. 547)¹ shows a lion with the crescent moon beneath his neck and nineteen stars so disposed about him as to correspond closely with the pseudo-Eratosthenes' account of the constellation Leo². These stars have eight rays apiece. Distinct from them are three larger stars above the lion's back, which are sixteen-rayed and inscribed 'the Fiery Star of Herakles,' 'the Gleaming Star of Apollon,' 'the Brilliant Star of Zeus.' The whole slab, therefore, indicates a conjunction of the planets Mars, Mercury, and Jupiter in the sign of the Lion. Now apart from Kommagene, who on this site probably represents the ancient mountain-mother³, Zeus, Apollon, and Herakles are the only deities recognised by Antiochos. It is therefore practically certain either that the king's choice of gods was determined by his own horoscope or that the king's horoscope was cast in accordance with his choice of gods. The former hypothesis is at least as likely as the latter. Prof. Tietjen of Berlin had elaborate calculations made by P. Lehmann, which pointed to July 17, 98 B.C., as the day most in accordance with the astronomical data⁴. Since the king's birthday was on Audnaios 16, i.e. in December or January, Puchstein concludes that the horoscope was cast for the conception, not for the nativity of Antiochos, whom he takes to have been a seven months' child born at the beginning of the year 97 B.C.⁵ U. Wilcken suggests that the horoscope had reference rather to the king's accession on Loios 10, which may well be equated with July 17, 98 B.C.⁶

¹ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 329—336 pl. 40 (=my fig. 547), Hamdy Bey—Osgan Effendi op. cit. p. 21 f. pl. 24, Reinach Rép. Reliefs i. 196. The slab measures 1·75^m in height, 2·40^m in breadth, 0·47^m in thickness. It is inscribed: Ἱερβεῖς Ἡρακλέους, Στῆλων Ἀπόλλωνος, Φαέθων Διός (Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 329).

² Pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 12 ἔχει δὲ ἀστέρας ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς γ', ἐπὶ τοῦ στήθους <α', ὑπὸ τὸ στήθος> β', ἐπὶ τοῦ δεξιοῦ ποδὸς λαμπρὸν α', ἐπὶ μέσης <τῆς κοιλίας> α', ὑπὸ τὴν κοιλίαν α', ἐπὶ τοῦ ἰσχίου α', ἐπὶ τοῦ ὀπισθοῦ γόνατος α', ἐπὶ ποδὸς ἄκρου λαμπρὸν α', ἐπὶ τοῦ τραχήλου β', ἐπὶ τῆς ῥάχews γ', ἐπὶ μέσης τῆς κέρκου α', ἐπ' ἄκρας λαμπρὸν α', [ἐπὶ τῆς κοιλίας α']: <τοὺς πάντας ἰθ'>. I follow the text of A. Olivieri (1897).

³ Supra p. 745 n. 3.

⁴ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. pp. 331—333. Serious difficulties have, however, been pointed out by A. Bouché-Leclercq L'astrologie grecque Paris 1899 pp. 373, 439 fig. 41 (Reinach Rép. Reliefs i. 196).

⁵ Humann—Puchstein op. cit. p. 333 f.

⁶ U. Wilcken in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2487 f.

In any case it is obvious that astrology played no small part in the Commagenian cult of Zeus Oromásdes.

(b) Zeus as god of the Starry Sky.

Zeus is occasionally, but not often, brought into connexion with the stars in ancient literature and art.

He is more than once conceived by Euripides as dwelling in the starry sky. The Satyrs associate him with the stars and Orion¹. Menoikeus swears 'by Zeus and all his stars'²—a phrase that impressed Plutarch³. Kreousa's handmaidens sing of the night-procession from Athens to Eleusis on Boedromion 20—

What time the star-eyed sky of Zeus himself Joins in the dance⁴.

Achaios went one step further, perhaps we should say one step further back, and spoke of 'Zeus the starry-eyed'⁵. Finally, Nonnos tells how Zeus stooped from heaven to earth for the sake of Semele:

Then Zeus of the air quitted his starry home
For Semele's side⁶.

But it will be observed that these are all poetic fancies with little or no support in actual cult.

When Propertius describes the temple of Zeus at Olympia as 'imitating the sky'⁷, he is in all probability alluding to a coffered ceiling⁸ with gilt stars on a blue ground⁹—a device common to

¹ Eur. Cycl. 211 ff. (supra p. 6 n. 4).

² Eur. Phoen. 1006 μὰ τὸν μετ' ἀστρῶν Ζῆν' Ἄρη τε φοίνιον, κ.τ.λ. The schol. ad loc. takes Ζῆνα here to be the sun (schol. A.B.M.I. τὸν ἥλιόν φησι καὶ τὸν Ἄρη τὸν τοῦ ἔμοῦ φόνου αἰτίον. κ.τ.λ., schol. C.M. τὸν ἥλιόν φασὶ δεσπότην τῶν ἀστρῶν, τὸν ὄντα ἐν τοῖς ἀστροῖς θεόν, τὸν αἰτίον τοῦ ἔμοῦ φόνου). But he is certainly wrong (cp. supra p. 187).

³ Plout. de aud. poet. 6.

⁴ Eur. Iou 1078 f. (supra p. 65 n. 4).

⁵ Achaios Azanes frag. 2 Nauck² (supra p. 65 n. 3).

⁶ Nonn. Dion. 7. 312 f. ἀστερόεν τότε δῶμα παρέστιχεν ἡέριος Ζεὺς | εἰς Σεμέλης ὑμέναιον, cp. 7. 359 τί πλέον ἤθελες ἄλλο μετ' αἰθέρα καὶ πόλον ἀστρῶν ;

⁷ Prop. 3. 2. 18 nec Iovis Elei caelum imitata domus.

⁸ Cp. Manil. 5. 288 f. sculptentem faciet sanctis laquearia templis | condentemque novum caelum per tecta Tonantis (with 1. 532 f.), Stat. silv. 4. 2. 30f. (on Domitian's palace) fessis vix culmina prendas | visibus auratique putes laquearia caeli, Mart. ep. 7. 56. 1 ff. astra polumque pia cepisti mente, Rabiri (Domitian's architect), | Parrhasiam mira qui struis arte domum. | Phidiaco si digna Iovi dare templa parabit, | has petat a nostro Pisa Tonante manus.

With regard to the inner ceiling in the temple of Zeus at Olympia W. Dörpfeld in Olympia ii. 11 writes: 'Wie die aus Holz bestehende Decke im Einzelnen gebildet war, lässt sich nicht bestimmen; in den Ergänzungen [pls. 11, 2, 12] sind deshalb einfache Balken und eine glatte Verschalung angenommen.'

⁹ H. Thédénat in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 903, A. Marquand Greek Architecture New York 1909 p. 236 ('The recessed cofferings were ornamented in various Greek with Egyptian art¹. If so, we may suppose that the decoration of the roof was deliberately chosen to mark the celestial character of the god.

A notable coin-type of imperial date shows Zeus as cosmic lord surrounded by the signs of the zodiac. Several varieties of the type are found. Thus a magnificent copper coin of Nikaia in Bithynia, struck by Antoninus Pius and now in the Paris cabinet, has (fig. 551)² Zeus enthroned with sceptre and thunderbolt between the chariots of the Sun and, of the Moon; at his feet on either side are two reclining figures, Gaia with corn-ears and a horn of plenty, Thalassa with a stern-ornament and a rudder: round the whole is the zodiac, its twelve signs all clearly expressed. Even more ambitious is a copper coin of Perinthos in Thrace, struck by Severus Alexander and now in the British Museum (fig. 552)³. Within a dotted circle sits Zeus with sceptre, phiale, and eagle. In the field above him Helios drives a team of four horses, Selene a team of two bulls, the former accompanied by the crescent of the latter, the latter by the star of the former. Beneath Zeus are Gaia ways. The Theseion affords a simple example. The soffits of the coffer each present a single star, painted probably in gold against a blue ground, and hence called ὄψαυός, or ὄψαυόσκος....The Parthenon and the Propylaia show doubly recessed coffer....Some of the plates of cofferings from the Propylaia still show stars' etc.), A. H. Smith in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture ii. 84 ('When found the lower side of the lacunar stone [of the Mausoleum] was painted bright blue.' Cp. Durm *Baukunst d. Gr.*³ p. 330 fig. 316). The coffering of the Erechtheion is restored in gold and colours by Durm *ib.*² p. 261 pl. opposite p. 252 (*ib.*³ p. 341 pl. opposite p. 316 worse).

Fig. 551.

Fig. 552.

¹ See J. Pennethorne The Geometry and Optics of Ancient Architecture London and Edinburgh 1878 p. 173 f. pt. 5 pl. 3 (a comparative series of Egyptian tomb-ceilings from Thebes and of Greek temple-ceilings from the 'Theseum' and Erechtheion, fully coloured and gilded).

² Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 155, 160 f. Münztaf. 2, 13, Waddington — Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 407 pl. 68, 2, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 517.

³ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thrace etc. p. 157 fig. (= my fig. 552), J. N. Svoronos in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1894 xviii. 104 fig. 3, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 271.

and Thalassa recumbent: Gaia holds a cornu copiae; Thalassa wears a head-dress of crab's-claws and is equipped with a rudder and a prow. The whole design is enclosed by the zodiac, as before. An autonomous bronze coin of Sardeis, described by Eckhel¹, had Zeus with Nike in his hand enthroned amid the signs of the zodiac. An imperial coin of Tios or Tion in Bithynia, mentioned by B. V. Head², again shows Zeus with the zodiac. On a bronze coin of Amastris in Paphlagonia, struck by Iulia Maesa, Zeus and Hera, both holding sceptres, stand facing each other within the same border (fig. 553)³. Two bronze coins of Alexandria, struck by Antoninus Pius in 145 A.D.⁴, play further variations on the same theme: one of them duplicates the zodiacal belt and places in the centre jugate busts of Sarapis wearing his kálathos and Isis wearing her disk and horns⁵; the other substitutes for the inner zodiac a circular band adorned with busts of Kronos, Helios, Selene, Ares, Hermes, Zeus, Aphrodite—the deities representing the days of the week—and gives as the central figure Sarapis wearing his *kálathos*⁶. It will be observed that all the coins on

Fig. 553.

¹ Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² iii. 115, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 161 n. a.

² Head *Hist. num.*² p. 518. Cp. Steph. Byz. s.v. Τίος... Δημοσθένης δ' ἐν Βιθωνιακοῖς (the fragment should be added to the Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 384 f. Müller) φησι κτιστὴν τῆς πόλεως γενέσθαι Πάταρον (Arrian. frag. 37 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 593 Müller) ap. Eustath. in Dionys. per. 322), ἐλόντα Παφλαγονίαν, καὶ ἐκ τοῦ τιμᾶν τὸν Δία Τίον προσαγορεύουσα. The great cult of the place, to judge from its coin-types, was that of Zeus Συργάστης or Συργαστήϊος (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 203 ff. pl. 36, 5 and 10, Rasché Lex. Num. ix. 1367 ff., Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 64 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 518). The meaning of the title is unknown (see Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. viii. 1502 B—C and M. Schmidt on Hesych. Συργάστωρ· σοφοφόρος· καὶ ὄνομα βαρβαρικόν). But the cult appears to have travelled westwards; for at Adzilaré near Philippopolis a certain Thracian proved his gratitude to a god called Σουρεγέθης (Arch.-ep. Mitth. 1895 xviii. 112 Ἀγαθῆι τύχηι· θεῷ Σουρεγέθῃ ἐπηκώ Κό[τυς] Ῥοιμηζεύος εὐχαριστήριον cited by Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4078), and at Renzano on the Lacus Benacus a Greek paid a vow to Sargasteus and Patrus, i.e. to the chief deity and the founder of Tios (Corp. inscr. Lat. v no. 4206 = Orelli—Henzen Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 5915 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4078 dis paternis | Surgasteo | magno | Patro, | Q. M. Tryphon | v. s. l. m.).

³ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 89 pl. 20, 13, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 155 pl. 21, 15, Anson Num. Gr. vi pl. 2, 127, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 506.

⁴ See G. Dattari in the Rivista Italiana di Numismatica 1901 xiv. 157—183.

⁵ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria p. 126 no. 1078 pl. 12, Anson Num. Gr. vi pl. 2, 130, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 863 (who cites as another astronomical type at Alexandria: 'Zodiac in circle round busts of Helios and Selene').

⁶ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria p. 127 no. 1079 pl. 12, J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1899 ii. 84 pl. Z', 1, Anson Num. Gr. vi pl. 2, 129, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 863.

which Zeus is ringed with the zodiac belong to the period 138—235 A.D. and to towns that fall within, or border on, the north-west corner of Asia Minor. Hence we may ascribe them to the far-reaching influence of Mithraism, which constantly employed the zodiac as the framework of its ritual reliefs¹. Oromasdes, as F. Cumont points out², travelled in connexion with the Mithraic mysteries from east to west, and is seen on Mithraic monuments as a Roman Iupiter with thunderbolt, sceptre, and eagle. Not improbably the coins in question intercept his progress and give us a glimpse of him as a Greek Zeus. After all, Zeus, Iupiter, and Oromasdes were essentially kindred figures, whose art-types were readily blended.

(c) Zeus in Astronomy and Astrology.

Astrology has been defined by A. Bouché-Leclercq as a method of divination using astronomy as its means³. Accepting this definition, we may agree with E. Riess that the Greeks were first definitely influenced by Babylonian and Egyptian astrology towards the end of the fourth century B.C.⁴, though O. Gruppe has rightly insisted that astrological notions of a sort are to be found in Greece long before the age of Alexander the Great—astro-meteorology already bulks big in Hesiod, and even astrology in the strict sense of the term is presupposed by Greek mystic teaching of the sixth century B.C. and by sundry passages of Herakleitos, Euripides, and Herodotos⁵.

In the course of the third and following centuries B.C. the Greeks partly borrowed and partly developed a very complete series of constellations. Each of these had its own myth or myths and was, more often than not, said to have been placed in the sky by Zeus. Thus the Katasterismoi ascribed to Eratosthenes of Alexandria (c. 275—195 B.C.) enumerates some thirty-three

¹ F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 i. 109 ff., id. *Die Mysterien des Mithra*² trans. G. Gehrich Leipzig 1911 p. 110, id. in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1952. Supra p. 516 fig. 389.

² F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 i. 88 ff., 137 ff., id. *Die Mysterien des Mithra*² trans. G. Gehrich Leipzig 1911 p. 99 f., id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1055, id. in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1951.

F. Cumont in the Festschrift für Otto Benndorf Wien 1898 p. 294 n. 5 cites for 'Jupiter—Caelus' a gem representing Iupiter with a sceptre seated to the right on an eagle, his head surrounded by a large nimbus, or [more probably an overarching] mantle, within which are seven stars (C. Lenormant Nouvelle galerie mythologique (Trésor de numismatique et de glyptique) Paris 1850 p. 86 no. 14 pl. 13).

³ A. Bouché-Leclercq L'astrologie grecque Paris 1899 p. 70.

⁴ E. Riess in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1810f.

⁵ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1588 ff., id. Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 211.

Zeus in Astronomy and Astrology 755

constellations as the work of particular Greek deities: of this number Poseidon made one¹, Apollon² Artemis³ Dionysos⁴ and Hermes⁵ two apiece, Hera two⁶ and the Milky Way⁷, Athena four⁸; but no less than seventeen are said to have been created by Zeus⁹, who was further intimately connected with the myths of at least seven others¹⁰.

If it be asked why Zeus rather than any other deity arranged the constellations, we must again take into account oriental leading. Babylonian astrology assigned the several planets to different divinities thus¹¹:

Planet.	Divinity.
Iupiter.	Marduk.
Venus.	Ištar.
Mercury.	Nabu.
Saturn.	Ninib.
Mars.	Nergal.

The Greeks of the fourth century followed suit and exchanged their old descriptive names of the planets for those of various gods corresponding more or less closely with the Babylonian series.

¹ Delphin.

² Sagitta, Hydra with its Corvus and Crater.

³ Ursa Minor (pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 2), Equos (id. ib. 18, but Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 18 refers it to Iupiter).

⁴ Corona, Asini.

⁵ Deltoton, Lepus.

⁶ Serpens (pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 3, but Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 3 refers it also to Minerva), Cancer. Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 16 refers Aquila (=the Coan king Merops) to Iuno.

⁷ Supra p. 624.

⁸ Cepheus, Andromeda, Perseus, Argo.

⁹ Ursa Maior, Engonasin, Ophiuchus, Scorpius, Arctophylax or Bootes, Gemini, Leo, Heniochus or Auriga, Capra, Taurus, Lyra (pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 24, but Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 7 says a Musis), Cygnus or Olor, Capricornus, Sagittarius, Orion (pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 32, but Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 34 refers to Diana), Canis, Centaurus.

¹⁰ Ursa Minor (= Phoinike, a companion of Artemis loved by Zeus; or Kynosoura, an Idaean nymph, nurse of Zeus; or Helike, a Cretan nurse of Zeus), Virgo (= Dike, daughter of Zeus and Themis; or Demeter, or Isis, or Atargatis, or Tyche), Deltoton (= Δ the initial of Διός), Pliades (of whom Elektra, Maia, and Taygete were loved by Zeus: according to Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 21, Iupiter placed them all among the stars), Aquarius (= Ganymedes, the cup-bearer of Zeus), Aquila (the sacred bird of Zeus: according to Aglaosthenes Naxiaca frag. 2 (supra p. 164 n. 4), Zeus placed it among the stars), Ara (the altar at which the gods took their oath, when Zeus attacked Kronos).

¹¹ P. Jensen Die Kosmologie der Babylonier Strassburg 1890 p. 134 ff., A. Bouché-Leclercq L'astrologie grecque Paris 1899 p. 40 ff., M. Jastrow Aspects of Religious Belief and Practice in Babylonia and Assyria New York and London 1911 p. 217 ff., id. Die Religion Babylonien und Assyrien Giessen 1912 ii. 1. 444 ff. and the literature cited ib. i. 1. 426 n. 2 f., 427 n. 1 f., especially F. X. Kugler Sternkunde und Sterndienst in Babel i (Entwicklung der Babylonischen Planetenkunde von ihren Anfängen bis auf Christus) Münster in Westfalen 1907.

The earlier Babylonian order is Iupiter, Venus, Saturn, Mercury, Mars: the later (c. 400 B.C.) is Iupiter, Venus, Mercury, Saturn, Mars (Kugler op. cit. i. 13).

756 Zeus in Astronomy and Astrology

Aristotle in his work On the Universe draws up a list, which gives both the earlier and the later names arranged in the Greek order¹:

Planet.	Earlier name.	Later name.
Saturn.	Phainon (the 'Shining').	Kronos.
Jupiter.	Phaëthon (the 'Brilliant').	Zeus.
Mars.	Pyrroëis (the 'Fiery').	Herakles or Ares.
Mercury.	Stilbon (the 'Gleaming').	Hermes or Apollon.
Venus.	Phosphóros (the 'Light-bringer').	Aphrodite or Hera.

The Babylonians assigned Jupiter to their chief deity Marduk, not because Jupiter appeared to them as the largest of the planets² (that would rather have been Saturn), but because his bright golden disk shone so steadily and was visible for so long in the sky³. The fifth tablet of the creation-epic represents Marduk, under the name of Nibiru, as exercising a control over all the stars and especially as ordering the constellations:

'He established the stations for the great gods.
The stars, their likeness, he set up as constellations.'

Further, Marduk as the paramount god of the Babylonian pantheon had taken over from Enlil of Nippur the title Bél or 'Lord'⁴. Hence the Greeks, equating him with their own supreme deity, spoke of him as Zeus *Bélos*⁵. And the Romans attributed the

¹ Aristot. de mundo 2. 392 a 23 ff.

² M. Jastrow The Religion of Babylonia and Assyria Boston etc. 1898 p. 459.

³ M. Jastrow Die Religion Babylonien und Assyrien Giessen 1912 ii. 1. 444 after Kugler op. cit. i. 8 and 14.

⁴ M. Jastrow The Religion of Babylonia and Assyria Boston etc. 1898 pp. 434, 459.

⁵ Id. ib. p. 117 f., id. Aspects of Religious Belief and Practice in Babylonia and Assyria New York and London 1911 pp. 19, 38, 100, id. Die Religion Babylonien und Assyrien Giessen 1912 ii. 2. 1081 Index s.v. 'Marduk,' A. Jeremias in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2341 f., 2372.

⁶ Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4482, 10 (Palmyra) τὸν ναὸν τὸν [τοῦ] Διὸς [Βῆλου ἐ]ν τῷ τ[.....], no. 4485, 14 ff. (Palmyra) καὶ νυνεὶ λαμπρῶς συμποσίαρχον τῶν τοῦ Διὸς Βῆλου ἰε[|ρ]ῶν [γενόμενον?], Dion Cass. 78. 8 ὡς περ καὶ ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ Βῆλος ὀνομαζόμενος καὶ ἐν τῇ ('Απαμεία τῆς Συρίας τιμώμενος, Hdt. 1. 181 (at Babylon) Διὸς Βῆλου ἱερὸν χαλκῶς πύλον κ.τ.λ., Eustath. in Dionys. per. 1005 Βῆλος δὲ ἦν βασιλεὺς Βαβυλωνίως, υἱὸς Διὸς, ἀφ' οὗ καὶ πύλαι Βαβυλωνίως Βηλίδες, ἣ καὶ ὁ Ζεὺς αὐτὸς κατὰ τινας. διὸ καὶ Ἡρόδοτος ἱερὸν εἶναι αὐτῶν λέγει Βῆλου Διὸς, Ktesias ap. Diod. 2. 8 (a bronze statue) Διὸς, ὃν καλοῦσιν οἱ Βαβυλωνίως Βῆλον, 2. 9 ἱερὸν Διὸς, ὃν καλοῦσιν οἱ Βαβυλωνίως καθάπερ εἰρήκαμεν, Βῆλον, Berossos Babyloniaca sive Chaldaica frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 498 Müller) ap. Agath. hist. 2. 24 (supra p. 10 n. 1) Βῆλον μὲν τὸν Δία, Philon Bybl. frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 568 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 26 Ζεὺς Βῆλος, Hesych. s.v. Βῆλος· οὐρανός. καὶ Ζεὺς καὶ Ποσειδῶνος υἱός, Bekker anecd. i. 225, 29 f. Βῆλος· ὁ οὐρανός, βαρυτόνωος, καὶ Ζεὺς, καὶ Ποσειδῶνος υἱός, Nonn. Dion. 3. 291 Ζῆνα Αἰβυν τέκε Βῆλον, 40. 392 f. Βῆλος ἐπ' Εὐφρήταο, Αἰβυν κεκλημένος Ἀμμων, | Ἄπις ἔφους Νειλῶος, Ἀραψ Κρόνος, Ἀσσύριος Ζεὺς. See further K. Tümpel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 259 ff.

invention of astrology to Iupiter *Belus*¹. Late writers found it easy to drop the cult-title and to credit the Greek Zeus or the Roman Iupiter rather than their oriental counterpart with the ordering of the universe. Aristeides the rhetorician (117—c. 180 A.D.) describes the courses of moon and stars as the 'arrangement of Zeus².' And Martianus Capella (c. 400 A.D.) puts into the mouth of Harmonia the following hymn addressed to Iupiter as ruler of the starry sky³:

Thee, Iupiter, in my star-sounding song,
 Thee first I name and worship. For through thee
 The sacred revolution of the sky
 Is wont to wheel again in order due
 The jewelled constellations. Thou Almighty
 Beneath thy sceptred diadem dost bind
 And sway thy kingdom, Sire of every god,
 While the great universe rolls on, rolls ever,
 Thanks to the mind fed by thy starry force.
 As sparks on tinder that will burst aflame,
 The scattered stars declare thy handiwork.
 Phoebus proclaims thee, while with task divine
 His rays renew the purple dawn for men
 And give their glory to the ambrosial day.
 Cynthia, queen of night, month after month
 Waxes with horns of gold. Beneath thine eye
 Through fires that light the Wain the Serpent shines
 And drives apart the Bears of Arcady.
 So the hard Earth soft-wrapped in circling Air Rests on its axis, and by either pole
 Rules and is ruled; so Nereus knows the bounds
 Of ocean, so for food laps upper Fire,
 That all things thrive with no discordant strife
 And, parted, love the everlasting league,
 Fearing the chaos that might break their peace.
 Thou, King of Heaven, thou, Father, Best of all,
 Who in thy love dost clasp the stars together,
 And to thy children givest perpetual life,
 All hail—my lute uplifts its lay to thee
 For whom full-sounding songs sound yet again.

¹ Plin. nat. hist. 6. 121 durat adhuc ibi (sc. Babylone) Iovis Beli templum; inventor hic fuit sideralis scientiae, Solin. 56. 3 Beli ibi (sc. Babylone) Iovis templum, quem inventorem caelestis disciplinae tradidit etiam ipsa religio, quae deum credit, Mart. Cap. 701 ibi (sc. Babylone) Iovis Beli templum, qui inventor fuit disciplinae sideralis. Cp. Iul. Val. res gest. Alex. 3. 56 quod ubi factum est, Iovis quoque Babylonii simulacrum motari (mutare corr. ex natare cod. Ambros.) coepit.

² Aristeid. or. 1. 7 (i. 9 Dindorf) καὶ ἡ ἡλίου τε ἀπαστος κίνησις ὑπὲρ γῆς τε καὶ ὑπὸ γῆν Διὸς ἐστὶ πρόρρησις ἡλίῳ προειρημένη ὑπὲρ τῆς τοῦ παντὸς κόσμου φανέρητος, καὶ σελήνης δρόμοι καὶ χορείαί πάντων ἀστρων Διὸς ἐστὶ διάκοσμος.

³ Mart. Cap. 911 f.

Centuries later Ioannes Tzetzes speaks of 'Zeus the astrologer-king'¹ or even of 'Zeus the star-gazer'², assuming in his Euhemeristic way that the sky-god must have been not only a king³ but also a diviner of repute. It is curious to reflect that, just as Zeus at his first beginning appeared in the guise of a human magician⁴, so Zeus at his latter end relapsed to the level of a human astrologer. Old age for him, as for us, meant second infancy.

For astrological purposes the planets were classified as good (Jupiter, Venus) or bad (Saturn, Mars) or both (Mercury). We hear also of stars that are diurnal (the Sun, Saturn, Jupiter) or nocturnal (the Moon, Mars, Venus) or both (Mercury). There was a distinction, too, between stars that are masculine (the Sun, Saturn, Jupiter, Mars) or feminine (the Moon, Venus) or both (Mercury). But these and other such subtleties⁵—though for long ages they were regarded as matters of moment by a public that believed in horoscopes, and though in some cases they have left a permanent trace upon the language of modern almanacs—we need pursue no further. They belong to the history of sidereal divination in general rather than to that of a particular divinity⁶. I shall therefore content myself with quoting Bouché-Leclercq's summary⁷ of

¹ Tzetz. chil. 2. 159 (Herakles the reputed son of Amphitryon) τῆ δ' ἀληθεία τοῦ Διός, ἀνακτος, ἀστρολόγου (cp. ib. 168 ὁ μάγος βασιλεὺς ἐκείνος ἀστρολόγος), 2. 696 ff. τοῦ Πολυδεύκου. δ' ὁ πατὴρ ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ ἀστρολόγος | τοῖς ἀστροῖς κατηστέρισε τοὺς παῖδας τεθνηκότας | καὶ τοὺς Διδύμους κέκληκεν Κάστορα, Πολυδεύκη, alleg. II. 18. 169 f. ἡ ἀστρολόγῳ τῷ Διὶ ἐκείνῳ στεφνήφωρον | οὐ καὶ Ὀρφεὺς πον μέμνηται, 18. 179 Διὶ τῷ ἀστρολόγῳ δὲ καὶ βασιλεῖ μοι φίλον, 18. 400 ff. οὐδ' Ἡρακλῆς ὁ φίλος γὰρ Διὶ τῷ ἀστρολόγῳ | ἡ τῷ ἡλίῳ νῦν Διὶ ἡ καὶ τῷ οὐρανῷ δε | (ἔργα κλεινὰ γὰρ καὶ λαμπρὰ ζῶν Ἡρακλῆς ἐτέλει, | καὶ οὐρανῷ δὲ φίλος ἦν ὡς ἀστρολόγος οἶος) | τὴν κῆρα καὶ τὸν θάνατον ἐξέδραμε τῆ τέχνη, 19. 56 (Herakles the reputed son of Amphitryon) ἔργῳ Διὸς δὲ ἀνακτος ὄντος καὶ ἀστρολόγου, 19. 62 ὁ Ζεὺς ἐκείνος βασιλεὺς ὁ μέγας ἀστρολόγος, alleg. Od. 11. 140 f. Ζηνὸς... βασιλέως, | καὶ ἀστρολόγου μάντεως, μάγου, σοφοῦ τοῖς πᾶσι (cited by Bruchmann Epith. deor. p. 126).

² Tzetz. alleg. Od. 1. 156 ὦ Ζεῦ Ὀλύμπιε, σοφὲ ἀστεροσκοπε (cited by Bruchmann Epith. deor. p. 135).

³ See the Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 409 and Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 303 f.

⁴ Supra pp. 11—14.

⁵ E. Riess in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1802 ff.

⁶ The clearest outlook over the whole subject is still that given by A. Bouché-Leclercq Histoire de la divination dans l'antiquité Paris 1879 i. 205—257, id. in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 302—305, and especially id. L'astrologie grecque Paris 1899 passim. A great mass of fresh material is listed and in part published in the Catalogus codicum astrologicorum Graecorum Brussels 1898— by D. Bassi, F. Boll, F. Cumont, W. Kroll, E. Martini, and A. Olivieri. This is turned to good account by F. Boll Sphaera (Neue griechische Texte und Untersuchungen zur Geschichte der Sternbilder) Leipzig 1903, id. Die Lebensalter (extr. from the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altert., Gesch. u. deutsch. Lit. xxxi) Leipzig and Berlin 1913. On recent astrological research in general see the well-informed survey of Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 pp. 206—215.

⁷ A Bouché-Leclercq L'astrologie grecque Paris 1899 p. 97 f.

Zeus in Astronomy and Astrology 759

the powers ascribed by astrologers to the planet Υ^1 , i.e. the Greek Phaëthon or Zeus, the Roman Jupiter :—

‘The brilliant planet that bears the name of Jupiter has received from astrologers as many praises—and the same—as Zeus himself, “father of gods and men,” received from his worshippers. Jupiter is a star naturally benevolent and beneficent, a pleasant contrast to the Babylonian Marduk. If his influence alone were dominant, earth would be a paradise : Firmicus holds that men would be actually immortal². Ptolemy expresses this psychological character in physical terms : he emphasises the essentially temperate nature of the planet, which is at once hot and moist, the former to a greater degree than the latter, and so constitutes a just mean between the frosts of Saturn and the fires of Mars. Moreover, he attributes to Jupiter the peculiar characteristic of arousing “winds that fertilise³.” Whence came these vapours and moist blasts ? Ptolemy does not explain ; probably he did not know. It may be that Jupiter inherited these attributes from Marduk. In the fourth tablet of the Chaldean cosmogony we read how Marduk, when he went to fight with Tiamat, let loose a fearful tempest, “the four winds, the seven winds that he engenders.” Further on Marduk is called “the god of the good wind⁴.” As god of the atmosphere, of rain and storm, the Graeco-Latin Jupiter would be readily assimilated to such a deity⁵. In the winds “that fertilise” we have the isolated relic of a once wide-spread superstition. We shall see later that the astrologers attributed to the three superior planets and to Venus an orientation of their own corresponding with the four cardinal points. The north devolved upon Jupiter. And it was the north wind, Boreas, which was credited with such procreative virtue that female animals sometimes found themselves spontaneously impregnated by it⁶.

¹ This symbol is usually explained as the first letter of the name Zeus, or (with more probability) as a form of thunderbolt (id. ib. p. xix).

² Firmic., ii, 13, 6 Kroll. Jupiter is a solar divinity, the Egyptian ‘Όσίριδος άστήρ’ Ach. Tat., Isag., 17). Astrologers assign Cancer as his Ώψωμα, Capricornus as his ταπεινώμα, an arrangement which would suit the Sun (see, below, ch. vii).

³ Διά δὲ τὸ μάλλον εἶναι θερμαντικός, γονίμων πνευμάτων γίνεται ποιητικός (Ptol., Tetrab., i, 4). Heat was supposed to produce by way of reaction the northern or etesian winds, which blew after the dog-days. At the time when he wrote his Φάσεις (ap. Wachsmuth pp. 199—276 ed. 2), and was not as yet an astrologer, Ptolemy attributed heat to Venus, moisture to Jupiter, and moist winds to Mercury (ibid., p. 209). He changed his labels.

⁴ Jensen, Kosmologie, pp. 283 and 295.

⁵ The astrological Jupiter is γλυκέων υδάτων χορηγός (Anon., In Tetrab., p. 70) and lodges in Pisces.

⁶ Boreas impregnating mares (Hom. Iliad., xx, 223 ff.) ; Zephyr fertilising Lusitanian mares—a thing reported as res incredibilis, sed vera by Varro (R. rust., ii, 1, 19), Pliny [nat. hist. 8. 166] and Columella [de re rust. 6. 27] ; the alleged non-existence of male vultures, the females being regularly fecundated ἐκ τοῦ πνεύματος (Euseb., Pr. Ev., iii, 12, 3) [see further the references collected by Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 442 n. 3 and E. S. Hartland Primitive Paternity London 1909 pp. 22 f., 35, 149 f.] : all these claimed to be facts so well-attested that Lactantius, with a shocking lack of taste, used them as an argument to explain the Incarnation of Jesus Christ : Quosdi animalia quaedam vento et aura concipere solere omnibus notum est, cur quisquam mirum putet cum Spiritu Dei, cui facile est quidquid velit, gravatam esse virginem dicimus? (Lactant. Inst. Div., iv, 12). According to Proclus (in Anal. Sacr., v, 2, p. 176 Pitra), Boreas produced males, Notus

However that may be, Ptolemy assigns to Jupiter the epithet that best defines his kind of influence by describing it as "temperate" (εὐκρατον ἔχει τὸ ποιητικὸν τῆς δυνάμεως)¹.

(d) Zeus transformed into a Star.

A tradition fathered upon Clement of Rome² and cited also by Tzetzes³ says that Zeus transformed himself into a star, when he begot Kastor and Polydeukes. We are reminded of the passage in the Iliad, which tells how Zeus sent Athena like a meteorite from heaven to earth:

And even as crook-witted Kronos' son
Sendeth a star—a sign to mariners
Or some broad host of men—a brilliant star, Wherefrom springs many a spark, like unto that Pallas Athene darted down to earth⁴.

This may be no more than a simile. But in the Hymn to the Pythian Apollon we have a case of actual metamorphosis. Apollon, having reached Krisa on board a vessel manned by Cretans from Knossos, leapt ashore—

Like to a star at midday, and therefrom
Flew many a spark, and lo the light reached heaven⁵.

It is, then, possible that the tradition with regard to Zeus was not merely a late invention. Nevertheless it is reasonable to suppose, with O. Gruppe⁶, that it was motived by the frequent association of the Dioskouroi with stars.

(e) The Dioskouroi as Stars.

On the original significance of the Dioskouroi this is not the place to dilate⁷. My concern is merely with their epiphany as stars.

females. See, below (ch. vii), Jupiter's "winds that fertilise" invoked to fix his ὕψωμα in Cancer.

¹ This is the traditional refrain: Sub Jove temperies et nunquam turbidus aer (Lucan., Phars., x, 207). The meteorological influence of Jupiter tempering the cold in winter, the heat in summer—rabidos et temperat aestus (German., Arat. Progn., iv, 11). Before the time of Ptolemy Pliny had written of Jupiter's position between Mars and Saturn interjectum ambobus ex utroque temperari Jovem salutareque fieri (Plin., ii, § 34), and Pliny was copying Cicero (above, p. 95, 2 [Cic. de nat. deor. 2. 119, cp. Vitruv. 9. 1. 16]). All this seemed reasonable enough, and no further evidence was demanded.

² Clem. Rom. hom. 5. 13 (ii. 184 Migne) Νεμέσει τῇ τοῦ Θεοστοίου, τῇ καὶ Λήδα νομισθεισῇ, κύκνος ἢ χῆν γενόμενος (sc. ὁ Ζεὺς) Ἑλένην ἐτεκνώσατο, καὶ αὐτῆς, ἀστὴρ γενόμενος, Κάστορα καὶ Πολυδεύκην ἐξέφηνεν.

³ Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 88 <έν> ἄλλοις δέ τισιν εὖρον ἱστορικοῖς ὅτι ὁ Ζεὺς ἀστρῶ (ἀστέρι codicum classis ii) εἰκασθεὶς καὶ μίγεις Λήδα Κάστορα καὶ Πολυδεύκην γεννᾷ, ὕστερον δὲ οὖτως, ὡς ἐφηνεν, τὴν Ἑλένην.

⁴ Il. 4. 75 ff.

⁵ H. Ap. 441 f.

⁶ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 727 n. 7.

⁷ Neither am I the right man to do so. My learned and brilliant friend Dr J. Rendel

And here it will be best to quote the available evidence before considering the various interpretations that have been put upon it.

i. The dedication of Stars after the battles of Salamis and Aigos Potamos.

In the battle of Salamis (480 B.C.) the Æginetans distinguished themselves above the rest of the Greeks for their bravery¹. The Delphic Apollon therefore demanded of them a special thank-offering for the victory, and they erected at the corner of his temple three golden stars on a bronze mast². H. Pomtow in his plan of the Pythian precinct places the mast with its three stars close to the south-east angle of the temple-platform³. Herodotos, our sole informant, says nothing about the Dioskouroi; nor do we know that they were specially worshipped in Aigina. But an analogous incident, which occurred three quarters of a century later, brings them well to the fore. After the battle of Aigos Potamos (405 B.C.) the victorious Spartan general Lysandros set up at Delphoi a magnificent trophy made from the spoils of the vanquished Athenians. It included a great assemblage of bronze statues, which in time became covered with a patina of exquisite blue, and visitors commented on the appropriateness of the colour⁴. Pausanias gives a list of the thirty seven statues⁵, and important remains of the oblong chamber in which they stood, together with their inscribed bases, have been discovered by the French excavators near to the principal entrance of the sanctuary on the right hand side of the Sacred Way⁶. Pausanias' list of the statues in Harris has for years past made the subject peculiarly his own, and his contributions towards the elucidation of divine twins in general and the Dioskouroi in particular (The Dioscuri in the Christian Legends London 1903 pp. 1—64, The Cult of the Heavenly Twins Cambridge 1906 pp. 1—160 with 7 pls., 'Sons of Thunder' in the Expositor 1907 pp. 146—152, 'Some Points in the Cult of the Heavenly Twins' in the Transactions of the Third International Congress for the History of Religions Oxford 1908 ii. 175 f., 'The Cult of the Heavenly Twins' in The Contemporary Review 1909 xcv. 50—61, Boanerges Cambridge 1913 pp. 1—424) have aroused a wide-spread interest in the subject: see the comments of Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 pp. 57 f., 314 ff., 481 f., 563 f.

¹ Hdt. 8. 93: see further G. Busolt Griechische Geschichte Gotha 1895 ii. 2⁷¹⁶ n. 2.

² Hdt. 8. 122.

³ H. Luckenbach Erläuterungen zur Wandtafel von Delphi München and Berlin 1904 pp. 12 (perspective view by C. Schuster), 13 (plan by H. Pomtow).

⁴ Plout. de Pyth. or. 2 ἀτεχνῶς θαλαππίους τῆ χροῶ καὶ βυθίου ἐστῶτας.

⁵ Paus. 10. 9. 7 ff.

⁶ T. Homolle in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1894 xviii. 186, ib. 1897 xxi. 284—288, ib. 1898 xxii. 572—579, and in the Comptés rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1901 pp. 668—686, H. Bulle and T. Wiegand in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1898 xxii. 332 f., H. Pomtow in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1902 xvii Arch. Anz. pp. 14 ff., 80 f., and in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 492—563, A. Furtwängler in the Sitzungsber. d.

question is headed by the Dioskouroi: then follow Zeus, Apollon, Artemis, Poseidon, Lysandros crowned by Poseidon, the seer Agias, Hermon the helmsman of Lysandros; behind these is ranked a series of twenty eight captains from various states, who helped Lysandros to win the day. The artists of the statues are duly recorded, the Dioskouroi being the work of Antiphanes the Argive. Plutarch, who knew Delphoi well, mentions along with these statues the 'golden stars of the Dioskouroi, which disappeared before the battle of Leuktra'.¹ He further states that, according to some persons, when Lysandros' ship was sailing out of the harbour to attack the Athenians, the Dioskouroi were seen shining as stars on the steering paddles; and that, according to others, the meteor that fell at Aigos Potamos was a sign of this slaughter². H. Pomtow concludes that at Delphoi the 'golden stars of the Dioskouroi' were in all probability attached to the heads of the twin-deities³. Cicero says that shortly before the fight at Leuktra (371 B.C.) these stars 'fell down and were not found'⁴—an omen, doubtless, of the overthrow of Sparta at the hands of Thebes. Now, in view of the express connexion between the stars dedicated by Lysandros and the appearance of the Dioskouroi on the admiral's vessel, it can hardly be questioned that the stars erected on a mast by the Æginetans were likewise symbolic of help received from the Dioskouroi at the battle of Salamis⁵.

kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1901 pp. 397—400, ib. 1904 pp. 365—368, A. Trendelenburg Die Anfangsstrecke der heiligen Strasse in Delphi Berlin 1908, F. Poulsen 'La niche aux offrandes de Marathon' in the Bulletin de l'Académie royale des Sciences et des Lettres de Danemark 1908 pp. 389—425, G. Karo in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1909 xxxiii. 219—239, ib. 1910 xxxiv. 201—207, and above all É. Bourguet in the Fouilles de Delphes iii. 1. 24—41, id. Les ruines de Delphes Paris 1914 pp. 41—46.

¹ Plout. v. Lys. 18.

² Plout. v. Lys. 12. So Cic. de div. i. 75. On the meteor see the marm. Par. ep. 57 p. 17 Jacoby, Aristot. meteor. i. 7. 344 b 31 ff., Diog. Laert. 2. 10, Philostr. v. Apoll. 1. 2, Tzetz. chil. 2. 892 ff., Plin. nat. hist. 2. 149, Amm. Marc. 22. 16. 22.

³ H. Pomtow in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 563. A bronze statuette of one of the Dioskouroi, found at Paramythia and now in the British Museum, has a hole in its cap, probably for the insertion of a star (Brit. Mus. Cat. Bronzes p. 37 no. 277 pl. 6, 3). But see infra p. 764 n. 6.

⁴ Cic. de div. i. 75. It is noteworthy that the great inscription recording the accounts of the ναοροιοι at Delphoi mentions among other items of expenditure under the archonship of Peithagoras (342 B.C.) the sum paid to a certain Kephalon 'for the model of the wooden star' (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 140, 111 f. = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 591, 111 f. = Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. ii. 652 ff. no. 2502, 111 f. τοῦ ξίυλ[ι]νου ἀστέρου τοῦ παραδειγματος στατήρης τέτοπος, δ[ρ]α[χ]μ[ά]). But this may have been, as É. Bourguet and W. Dittenberger ad loc. suppose, a piece of architectural decoration: cp. supra p. 751 f.

⁵ My friend Dr W. H. D. Rouse in his Greek Votive Offerings Cambridge 1902 p. 135 n. 1 complains that this hypothesis does not account for the fact that there were

ii. The Dioskouroi as Stars in Hellenic Literature.

Literary allusions fully bear out this conception of the Dioskouroi as helpful deities, whose signs bring relief to the storm-tossed mariner¹. The Homeric Hymn to the Dioskouroi, which Mr E. E. Sikes dates 'at least as early as the fourth or third century B.C.,' gives a fine description of a storm at sea²—

when the winds of winter
Hurry across the rough deep, and on ship-board
Men cry aloud to the sons of mighty Zeus
With white lambs, climbing up the after-deck,
Which the great wind and wave of the sea plunge deep
Into the brine, till on a sudden they come,
Darting on brown wings through the upper air,
And straightway stay the blasts of labouring winds
And lay the white surf smooth upon the main—
Fair signs of trouble over³: those that see them
Rejoice at heart and cease from sorry toil.

The Dioskouroi here, quite exceptionally, appear as birds⁴, or at least as brown-winged forms. On Etruscan mirrors also they are occasionally winged⁵. To Euripides they were star-like deities, dwelling among the stars, and hastening thence to the rescue of the voyager. In the Helene (412 B.C.) Teukros says of them:

In fashion made as stars men name them Gods⁶.

And a chorus of Greek maidens in the same play invokes their blessing upon Helene's home-coming:

And ye, in your chariot o'er highways of sky
O haste from the far land
Where, Tyndareus' scions, your homes are on high Mid the flashings of starland:

three stars, nor yet for their erection on a mast. But the third star may have been Apollon (supra p. 760) or, more probably, Helene (infra pp. 764, 769); and the mast is obviously appropriate to a memorial of a sea-fight, especially if the Dioskouroi and Helene were believed to appear as stars on the mast of the ship (infra p. 771 ff.).

¹ For a full collection of passages see K. Jaisle Die Dioskuren als Retter zur See bei Griechen und Römern und ihr Fortleben in christlichen Legenden Tübingen 1907 pp. 1—73, reviewed by R. Wünsch in the Archiv f. Rel. 1911 xiv. 554.

² H. Diosk. 7 ff. The passage is imitated by Theokr. 22. 8 ff.

³ I follow the emendation of Prof. J. B. Bury, who corrects ναύταις σήματα καλά πόνου σφίσαντ'· οἱ δὲ ἰδόντες into σήματα καλά πόνων ἀπονόφισιν· οἱ δὲ ἰδόντες (Class. Rev. 1899 xiii. 183).

⁴ On the contention of S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1901 ii. 35—50 = id. Cultes, Mythes et Religions Paris 1906 ii. 42—57 that 'les Dioscures, comme Apollon et Kyknos, sont des hommes-cygnés' (sons of Zeus transformed into a swan and Leda, i.e. the Phrygian Lada, 'a woman'; born from an egg; later conceived as λευκοπέλω with egg-shell piloi; etc.) see Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 480. J. Rendel Harris Boanerges Cambridge 1913 p. 17 ff. would connect the Twins with a variety of 'thunder-birds.'

⁵ E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1109.

⁶ Eur. Hel. 140 ἄστροις σφ' ὁμοιωθέντε φάσ' εἶναι θεῶ, trans. A. S. Way.

Ye who dwell in the halls of the Heavenly Home,
 Be nigh her, safe guiding
 Helen where seas heave, surges comb,
 As o'er waves green-glimmering, crested with foam,
 Her galley is riding¹!

Similarly in Euripides' Elektra (413 B.C.) the women of Argos salute Klytainestra as follows:

Hail, Queen of the Argive land!
 All hail, O Tyndareus' daughter!
 Hail, sister of Zeus' sons, heroes twain
 In the glittering heavens mid stars who stand,
 And their proud right this, to deliver from bane
 Men tossed on the storm-vest water².

In the Orestes (408 B.C.) Helene shares their prerogative:

For, as Zeus' daughter, deathless must she live,
 And shall by Kastor and Polydeukes sit
 In folds of air, the mariners' saviour she³.

iii. The Dioskouroi with Stars in Hellenistic Art.

The art-type of the Dioskouroi, with their heads surmounted by a couple of stars, though common enough in Hellenistic times (fig. 554)⁴, especially on coins (fig. 555)⁵, has not as yet been discovered on monuments of the strictly Hellenic period⁶. Diodoros, who drew his information from the Argonautika or Argonautai of

¹ Eur. Hel. 149⁵ ff. trans. A. S. Way. The poet adds ναύτρας εὐαεῖς ἀνέμων | πέμποντες Διόθεν πνοάς, which marks their connexion with Zeus.

² Eur. El. 988 ff. trans. A. S. Way. Cp. Eur. ib. 1241 f., 1347 ff., Hel. 1633 ff., frag. adesp. 133 Bergk¹ (= Pind. frag. 140^o Schroeder) ap. Plout. non posse suar. vivē sec. Epiv. 23, de def. or. 30.

³ Eur. Or. 1635 ff. trans. A. S. Way. Cp. Eur. ib. 1683 ff., Isokr. Helene 61.

⁴ Fig. 554 a, b representing a pair of bronze statuettes (heights 5 $\frac{1}{8}$ and 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches) at Arosen (R. Gaedechens Die Antiken des Fürstlich Waldeckischen Museums zu Arosen Arosen 1862 nos. 173, 174) is drawn from casts in the Cambridge collection. The lowered hands hold sheathed swords; the raised arms doubtless leant upon lances. The right foot of fig. 554 b is restored. For variations on the same theme see e.g. Reinach R'p. Stat. i. 487 no. 2, ii. 109 nos. 3, 6, 7, 10, iv. 59 no. 5, id. Rép. Reliefs ii. 344 no. 1, iii. 248 no. 5. Cp. supra p. 35 fig. 8.

⁵ The type dates from the third century B.C. (A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1176 f.). I figure by way of example a silver coin of the Bruttii after Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 183 pl. 124, 12.

⁶ A. Furtwängler loc. cit. i. 1171 f. This makes it doubtful whether we can admit H. Pomtow's surmise that the statues of the Dioskouroi at Delphoi by Antiphanes of Argos (soon after 405 B.C.) had stars on their heads (supra p. 762).

Polyain. 2, 31, 4 states that Aristomenes the Messenian and a friend once tricked the Lacedaemonians by appearing suddenly in the guise of the Dioskouroi, mounted on white horses and wearing golden stars on their heads (cp. 1, 41, 1, 6, 1, 3, Frontin. strat. 1, 11, 8, 9, cited by K. Jaisle op. cit. p. 16 n. 6). But little confidence can be placed in the historical accuracy of this trick, and none in its details.

Dionysios Skytobrachion (s. ii B.C.)¹, relates that, when the Argonauts were overtaken by a terrible storm, Orpheus prayed to the gods of Samothrace, that straightway the wind ceased, and that, to the amazement of all, two stars fell upon the heads of the Dioskouroi; wherefore storm-tossed mariners ever afterwards prayed to the gods of Samothrace and interpreted the presence of the stars as an epiphany of the Dioskouroi¹. This late tale with its confusion of the Samothracian Kabeiroi² and the Dioskouroi need not detain us. It may be pure invention on the part of Dionysios, whose credit was none of the best³. But in any case the conception of the Dioskouroi with stars hovering over their heads was a natural development from the earlier conception of the Dioskouroi as stars themselves⁴: the progress of anthropomorphism, everywhere dominant in Greek religion, could have led to no other issue.

Fig. 554.

Fig. 555.

¹ E. Schwartz in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 929.

In passing I would draw attention to a little-noticed series of Etruscan mirrors (s. iii—ii B.C.), on which the Dioskouroi are associated with a star or stars. The simplest variety of the type (fig. 556)⁵ shows them as two youths facing one another with a star between them. Each is clad in Phrygian cap, short chiton, and belt, has one arm only visible and that resting on his hip, and stands beside his shield, which is grounded. Their attitude of arrested motion suggests an original group by Polykleitos or some other sculptor of the Argive school. Further examples unite the twins by means of one? (fig. 557)⁶, two (fig. 558)⁷, or three (fig. 559)⁸ cross-bars, sometimes omitting star or shields or both. These designs recall the dókana or 'beams' of the Dioskouroi as described by Plutarch⁹ and figured on Spartan reliefs¹⁰. And, whatever may

¹ Diod. 4. 43, cp. 4. 48.

² L. Bloch in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2530 f., E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1097 f., H. Graillot in the Rev. Arch. 1904 i. 345 ff., K. Jaisle op. cit. pp. 22—25.

³ E. Schwartz ib. v. 929.

⁴ The older notion lingers in Kallim. lavacr. Pall. 24 f. οἶα παρ' Εὐρώτῃ τοῖ Λακεδαιμόνιοι | ἀστέρες, Hor. od. 1. 3. 2 sic fratres Helenaee, lucida sidera, Loukian. ναυίγ. 9 καὶ τινὰ λαμπρὸν ἀστέρα, Διοσκόρων τὸν ἕτερον, ἐπικαθίσαι τῷ καρρησίῳ κ.τ.λ.

⁵ Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 33 f. pl. 45, 4 (Berlin).

⁶ Id. ib. iii. 35 f. pl. 46, 2 (Bologna, two specimens). Gerhard supposes that the connexion here consists of two bars touching each other.

⁷ Id. ib. iii. 35 f. pl. 46, 3 (from the Thorwaldsen collection).

⁸ Id. ib. iii. 35 f. pl. 46, 6 (Berlin).

⁹ Plout. de frat. am. 1 τὰ παλαιὰ τῶν Διοσκούρων ἀφιδρύματα οἱ Σπαρτιᾶται δόκανα καλοῦσιν· ἐστὶ δὲ δύο ξύλα παράλληλα δυσὶ πλαγίοις ἐπέσειγμένα, καὶ δοκεῖ τῷ φιλαδέλφῳ τῶν θεῶν οἰκέον εἶναι τοῦ ἀναθήματος τὸ κοινὸν καὶ ἀδαιρέτον, cp. Eustath. in Il. p. 1125, 59 ff. *παράγωγον δὲ δοκοῦ καὶ τὰ παρὰ τοῖς παλαιοῖς δόκανα, ὧν χρῆσις καὶ παρὰ Ἰηλουτάρχῳ (Favorin. lex. p. 524, 9 f.). ἦσαν δὲ αὐτὰ Διοσκούρων ἀφιδρύματα, ὡς ἐκεῖνος καὶ ἰστορεῖ καὶ ἐκφράζει, el. mag. p. 282, 5 ff. (copied by Zonar. lex. s.v. δόκανα, interp. Soud. s.v. δόκανα, and Favorin. lex. p. 523, 23 f.) δόκανα· τάφοι τινὲς ἐν Λακεδαιμονίᾳ, παρὰ τὸ δέξασθαι τὰς (leg. τοὺς) Τυνδαρίδας, φαντασίαν ἐχούσας (leg. ἐχόντες) τάφων ἀνεψωμένων. ἢ παρὰ τὸ δοκεῖν, δόκανον. The curious statement that the δόκανα looked like opened tombs perhaps refers to the juxtaposed amphorae of the Dioskouroi, which sometimes have snakes coiled about them and might suggest graves of the 'Dipylon' type.*

¹⁰ M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace A Catalogue of the Sparta Museum Oxford 1906 p. 113 f. fig. 14 and p. 193 no. 588.

For gems possibly representing the δόκανα see (1) Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine be the ultimate explanation of the *dōkana*¹, it seems probable that we have here a humanised form of them in which the side-posts

Fig. 556.

Fig. 557.

Fig. 558.

Fig. 559.

Berlin p. 30 no. 305 pl. 6 = id. Ant. Gemmen i pl. 13, 29, ii. 64 a chalcedony scaraboid from Melos showing two pillars linked together—good work of s. v. B.C.; (2) id. Gesch. Steine Berlin p. 236 no. 6464 pl. 45 a black stone showing two Egyptising pillars connected by a loop; (3) id. ib. p. 243 no. 6617 pl. 47 a striped sardonyx showing two pillars, each surmounted by a radiate globe with a star above it and equipped with a lance and a sword; between them is a tripod (?) with a crescent moon above it. This gem is published on a scale of $\frac{2}{3}$ by its former owner E. Gerhard Über das Metroon zu Athen etc. Berlin 1851 (extr. from the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1849 Phil.-hist. Classe p. 459 ff.) p. 32 no. 7 pl. 2.

¹ As an object of religious significance this structure of two side-posts with a connecting bar or (for stability's sake) two connecting bars, themselves sometimes connected by have become anthropomorphic¹, the connecting bar or bars being retained and perhaps accepted in lieu of the missing arms.

Another variety complicates the scene by adding a central pillar. This pillar tapers upwards (fig. 560)² or downwards (fig. 561)³, or takes the shape of a lotus-column (fig. 562)⁴ or even of a tree topped by a bird? (fig. 563)⁵. The heads of the heroes may be connected by a regular pediment (figs. 561, 563); and the star between them may be accompanied by two other stars (fig. 563).

several vertical ties, is found over a wide area from west to east. It is akin to some forms of the gateway which in the wall-paintings of Pompeii turns a tree into a temple (e.g. Boetticher Baumkultus pp. 155 f., 541, 543, figs. 36, 56, 58, 59, etc.: cp. Schrader Reallex. pp. 855—863), to the tigillum sororium at Rome (H. Jordan—C. Hülsen Topographie der Stadt Rom in Alterthum Berlin 1907 i. 3. 322 n. 2, O. Richter *Topographie der Stadt Rom*² München 1901 p. 311), and to the ingum under which conquered troops were made to pass (Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 369). It resembles, as Miss Harrison has observed (M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace A Catalogue of the Sparta Museum Oxford 1906 p. 193 n. 1), the façade of the temple of the Paphian Aphrodite on coins of Kypros etc. (E. A. Gardner in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1888 ix. 210—215, G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Cyprus p. cxxvii). Further, it is very like a Buddhist tomb at Bangkok (J. Fergusson Rude Stone Monuments London 1872 p. 413 f. fig. 177) and the carved toran or portal of many an Indian 'tope' (J. Fergusson History of Indian and Eastern Architecture rev. by J. Burgess and R. Phené Spiers London 1910 i. 62 ff. figs. 12 and 38). Closer still is its analogy to the p'ai-lou or memorial gateways of China (id. ib. i. 118 f., ii. 456, 472 ff. figs. 501, 502, 503) and the countless torii of Japan (R. A. Cram Impressions of Japanese Architecture London 1906 pp. 88, 109 f. pl. 18, F. Hadland Davis Myths & Legends of Japan London 1912 p. 225 ff.). The possible connexion of these types is a theme deserving of serious investigation, but not one to be undertaken in a footnote.

My friend Prof. H. A. Giles has most kindly supplied me with a note (Sept. 26, 1913) on the p'ai-lou, which may at least serve as a suggestive contribution to the subject:

'P'ai-fang and P'ai-lou are popular names for the honorific gates put up by the Chinese in honour of chaste wives, filial children, and others. The former is simple in style, consisting of uprights and horizontals; the latter is more ornate, with a roofing turned up at the corners. Neither term is given in the Concordance to Literature (P'ei wen yün fu).

'It seems to have been customary, since about B.C. 1000, for the suzerain in feudal times, and for the Emperor in later days, to reward distinguished men and women by the bestowal of some mark of favour, such as a banner, which would be exhibited at the gate of the town or village where the recipient was born. Stone animals are also mentioned; e.g. the horse, lion, and elephant. In every case, it was the local gateway which was embellished, the idea being that the fellow-townsmen of the distinguished person should each share in the honour accorded. I can find no record of the date at which isolated gates were first set up, nor any clue to their meaning or symbolism; but it seems very probable that the modern honorific gate is nothing more than the old village gate which was so long associated with the honour that it came eventually to stand for the honour itself.'

¹ The resultant type of the Dioskouroi was, I suspect, not uninfluenced by that of the Kouretes, who—though their origin was very different—were likewise represented as flanking-figures with shields.

² Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 35 f. pl. 46, 4 (Gerhard's collection).

³ Id. ib. iii. 37 ff. pl. 47, 6 (Naples).

⁴ Id. ib. iii. 36 f. pl. 46, 9 (London).

⁵ Id. ib. iii. 36 f. pl. 46, 8 (Paris).

Now several Spartan reliefs of the second century B.C. show the Dioskouroi standing on either side of a pillar-like female figure¹, which has been interpreted as an archaic image of Helene². It is

Fig. 560.

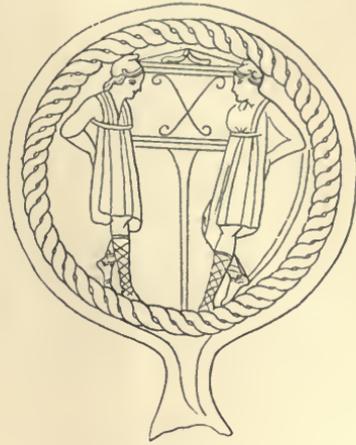

Fig. 561.

Fig. 562.

Fig. 563.

therefore probable that the pillar on our mirrors too is the aniconic form of the same goddess, whose star is here seen flanked by her brothers.

¹ A. Conze and A. Michaelis in the Ann. d. Inst. 1861 xxxiii. 39 f. pl. D, 1 and 2, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1167 fig., M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace A Catalogue of the Sparta Museum Oxford 1906 p. 158 nos. 201—203 figs. 38.f.

² A. Conze and A. Michaelis loc. cit., A. Furtwängler loc. cit.

The lotus¹ and tree not improbably point to a fertility-cult; and on an isolated mirror (fig. 564)² the twins have a thunder-bolt³(?) between them, and their amphorae are modified into vessels from which a stream of water descends to a lotus-bloom below.

Fig. 564.

Fig. 565.

Finally, another variety of type (fig. 565)⁴ treats the whole group with much greater freedom, e.g. introducing Leda's swan, but still retains the side-posts of the dókana in the form of cippi and, grotesquely enough, joins head to head by a decorated architrave.

iv. The Dioskouroi identified with the Heavenly Twins in Hellenistic Literature.

But we have yet to ask, what were the stars with which the Dioskouroi are associated?

Eratosthenes, or the pseudo-Eratosthenes, identified them with the celestial Twins⁵, as did other writers of a late date⁶. Recently

¹ A lotus-bud is the central ornament of the dókana as figured on a Spartan relief in M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace op. cit. p. 193 no. 588 fig. 68.

² Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 36 f. pl. 46, 7 (Gerhard's collection).

³ The Τυνδαρίδαι are sons of Τυνδάρεως, the 'Shatterer' (infra p. 780 n. 5), an obvious source of thunder and lightning.

⁴ Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 39 ff. pl. 48, 2 (Naples?), cp. ib. pl. 48, 1 (Rome, Museo Gregoriano?).

⁵ Pseudo-Eratosth. cat. astr. 10.

⁶ Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 22, cp. Ov. fast. 5. 693 ff., Serv. in Verg. Aen. 6. 121.

this view has been championed by O. Gruppe, who holds that the Dioskouroi were originally none other than the Heavenly Twins¹ and seeks support for his view in the fact that Assyrian mythology gave to the same constellation the name tuamu rabuti or 'the Great Twins².' But, as Dr J. Rendel Harris makes clear, many features of the Kastor and Polydeukes tradition are of vastly greater antiquity than the zodiac: 'we are at an earlier date in human history than star-gazing and star-naming³.'

v. The Dioskouroi identified with various Stars by modern writers.

F. G. Welcker, comparing the Ásvins of the Veda and analogous pairs of twins found in other Indo-Europæan mythologies, argued that the Dioskouroi were personifications of the morning-star and the evening-star regarded as two, not one⁴. A. Jeremias⁵ and H. Winckler⁶ would equate them with the sun and moon; O. Gilbert, with day and night⁷. E. Bethe holds that they were not a definite pair of stars, but any stars that shone out through a rift in the storm and seemed to promise safety to the mariners in their distress⁸. But these conjectures are devoid of ancient support and must therefore remain at best purely conjectural.

vi. The Dioskouroi identified with Saint Elmo's Fire in Hellenistic Literature.

In the Hellenistic age, and probably long before that⁹, the stars of the Dioskouroi and of their sister Helene were identified with the electrical discharges ('corposants') that play about the spars of ships in stormy weather¹⁰. This phenomenon is known to have

¹ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 164, 727, id. Myth. Lit. 1908 pp. 56 f., 480.

² P. Jensen Die Kosmologie der Babylonier Strassburg 1890 pp. 64 f., 82, cp. M. Jastrow Die Religion Babyloniers und Assyriens Giessen 1912 ii. 2. 680 n. 1.

³ J. Rendel Harris The Cult of the Heavenly Twins Cambridge 1906 p. 7.

⁴ Welcker Gr. Götterl. i. 606 ff.

⁵ A. Jeremias *Das Alte Testament im Lichte des Alten Orients*² Leipzig 1906 p. 64 ff.

⁶ H. Winckler Die Weltanschauung des alten Orients (Ex Oriente lux i. 1) Leipzig 1905 p. 28.

⁷ Gilbert Gr. Götterl. p. 201 ff.

⁸ E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1096.

⁹ Cp. the stars dedicated at Delphoi after the battles of Salamis and Aigos Potamos (supra p. 761 f.).

¹⁰ I have been unable to procure an actual photograph of these electrical lights. But F. T. Bullen's article on 'St Elmo's Fires' in Marvels of the Universe, published by Hutchinson and Co., London, pt. 2 p. 63 f. (a reference supplied to me by my nephew Mr E. N. Cook) has an illustration by A. Twidle showing two such lights on a mast-head attracted the attention of the Greeks as early as the sixth century B.C.; for Xenophanes (c. 576—480) offered a physical explanation of it¹. It is first expressly referred to the Dioskouroi by Seneca the philosopher, who says:

* In a big storm stars as it were are wont to appear sitting on the sail. Men believe that then in their peril they are being succoured by the divine power of Pollux and Castor. They therefore take heart again, for it is already clear to them that the storm is weakening and the winds dropping: otherwise the fires would be borne about and not stationary².

Many other authors of the imperial age mention the stars of the Dioskouroi as appearing on the rigging of ships at sea³. Occasionally the apparition was ascribed to a different source: Polemon, like Diodoros⁴, seems to have spoken of the Kabeiroi in this connexion⁵, and Arrian says that off the island of Achilles in the Euxine sea Achilles was seen on the mast or on the tip of the yard in place of the Dioskouroi⁶.

vii. The Stars of the Dioskouroi and of Helene as a good or bad omen.

Different opinions were entertained with regard to the propitious or unpropitious nature of these signs. Euripides treated Kastor, Polydeukes, and Helene as alike beneficent powers⁷. But a gradual change seems to have come over classical beliefs in this respect.

and a yard-arm. Mr Bullen says: 'St. Elmo's Fire...often covers like a halo the head of a seaman engaged in work aloft, and I myself have several times seen it streaming from my fingers when holding them up for the purpose. I cannot help confessing to a curious feeling of the uncanny on witnessing this phenomenon...Only appearing on the blackest of nights, moving from point to point without apparently passing through the intermediate space, unaffected by fiercest wind or heaviest rain, and insusceptible of being touched or moved, St Elmo's Fires form what is probably the most mysterious and lovely of all the wonderful phenomena belonging to the ocean.' Sir J. J. Thomson informs me (Sept. 22, 1913) that one night in stormy weather he saw St Elmo's fires glimmering on the topmost points of King's College Chapel, Cambridge.

¹ Act. 2. 18. Ἡ Ξενοφάνης τοῖς ἐπὶ τῶν πλοίων φαινόμενοις οἷον ἀστέρας, οὓς καὶ Διοσκουροῖς καλοῦσιν τινες, νεφέλια εἶναι κατὰ τὴν ποίαν κίνησιν παραλάμποντα = Plout. de plac. phil. 2. 18. 1.

² Sen. nat. quest. 1. 1. 13.

³ E.g. Plin. nat. hist. 2. 101, Loukian. navig. 9, diat. decor. 26. 2, Charid. 3, de mercedi conductis 1, Max. Tyr. 15. 7, Lyd. de ostent. 5. To the list given by T. H. Martin 'La foudre et le feu Saint-Elme' in the Revue archéologique 1866 N.S. xiii. 168 ff. K. Jaïsle op. cit. p. 12 adds the papyrus romance published by J. P. Mahaffy in the Rendiconti d. Lincei 1897 Classe di Scienze Morali, Storiche e Filologiche (Serie Quinta) vi. 93.

⁴ Supra p. 765 f.

⁵ Polemon frag. 76a (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 137 Müller) ap. schol. Eur. Or. 1637.

⁶ Arrian. peripl. pont. Eux. 34 (Geogr. Gr. min. 1. 399 Müller).

⁷ Supra p. 763 f.

A distinction was first drawn between the Dioskouroi and Helene. According to Sosibios (c. 250 B.C.), the epiphany of Helene was an evil omen¹—a view perhaps based on a real² or fancied etymology of her name³. The same thing is said by Solinus (c. 250 A.D.)⁴. Pliny⁵ and the scholiast on Statius⁶ speak of the stars of Pollux and Castor as favourable signs, but describe the star of Helena in terms which point rather—as T. H. Martin showed⁷—to ball-lightning. Pliny writes:

'On mariners' yard-arms and other parts of ships such stars settle with an audible sound, changing their position like birds from perch to perch⁸. When they come one at a time, they are dangerous, indeed they sink ships and, if they fall to the lower parts of the hull, they set it on fire. But twin stars are a good sign and announce a prosperous voyage. It is said that at their approach the dread and threatening star called Helena is put to flight: hence this exhibition of divine power is ascribed to Pollux and Castor, and men invoke them at sea.'

The scholiast on Statius gives much the same account of the matter, adding that the star of Helena is known as Urania, that it makes a hole in the mast, that it bores through the ship's bottom, and that even bronze is melted by its heat. By degrees the Dioskouroi themselves took on the sinister character of their sister. Artemidoros of Ephesos (c. 160 A.D.) reflects the transition, when in his Oneirokritika he observes:

'The Dioskouroi are a presage of storm to men on a voyage. To men ¹ Sosibios frag. 16 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 628 Müller) ap. schol. Eur. Or. 1637.

² 'Ἐλένη, as was shown by F. Solmsen Untersuchungen zur griechischen Laut- und Verslehre Strassburg 1901 pp. 196, 248 f., is probably to be connected with ἐλάνη, ἐλένη, 'a torch' (Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 135 f., Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 237).

³ Aisch. Ag. 687 f. Ἐλέναν; ἐπεὶ πρεπόντως ἐλένας Ἐλανδρος ἐλέπολις κ.τ.λ.—Browning's 'Ship's-Hell, Man's-Hell, City's-Hell.'

⁴ Solin. i. 57.

⁵ Plin. nat. hist. 2. 101.

⁶ Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. 7. 792. The distinction is made by Statius himself (Theb. 7. 791 ff., silv. 3. 2. 8 ff.).

⁷ T. H. Martin loc. cit. p. 173.

⁸ Lyd. de ostent. 5 λιγυρόν τι σίργμα προσηχούντες καὶ ὀρνέων δίκην εἰς τόπον ἐκ τόπου τῆς νεὸς μεθιστάμενοι. This may explain the winged Dioskouroi of the Homeric hymn and of Etruscan art (supra p. 763). R. Basset in Mélusine 1884—85 ii. 189 writes: 'D'après Mas'oudi (Prairies d'or, éd. Barbier de Meynard, t. i, ch. xvi, p. 344—345), en temps d'orage, on aperçoit en haut du mât, un objet qui a la forme d'un oiseau lumineux et qui jette une clarté si vive qu'on ne peut le fixer. Dès qu'on l'aperçoit, la mer se calme, cet objet disparaît sans qu'on sache ce qu'il est devenu. Le fait fut attesté à Mas'oudi par des marchands de Basrah, de l'Oman et de Siraf. Dans la Méditerranée, on appelait cet objet Es sari (le voyageur de nuit), dans la mer de Chine Ed douli.' In the north-east of Scotland these electrical discharges are known as 'Corbie's aunt' (the Rev. W. Gregor in the Folklore Journal 1883 p. 396, cp. The Folk-lore of the North-East of Scotland London 1881 p. 137), presumably a popular distortion of the name 'corpasant.'

ashore they are a sign of tumult, law-suits, war, or grievous disease. But at the last they let men go scatheless from all dangers, and such as are already involved in any of these alarms they speedily deliver. For the gods are saviours, but saviours of those that have previously been in some fear or peril¹.

Porphyrius notes that in his day (the third century A.D.) sailors regarded the stars of Castor and Pollux as commonly hostile to ships². Fulgentius the mythographer (c. 480—550 A.D.), after moralising in his tasteless way about Iupiter and Leda, continues:

‘But Castor and Pollux stand for perdition, wherefore at sea too they spoke of the signs of the Castores, which create danger³.’

In modern times the process of degradation has gone further still. Mr G. F. Abbott in his Macedonian Folklore remarks that the electric phenomena once ascribed to the Dioskouroi ‘are by the modern Greek mariners called [Telónia]⁴ or “Devils” and treated as such: the sailors look upon them as presages of disaster and try to frighten them away by dint of exorcisms and loud noises—an instance of beneficent pagan deities degraded to the rank of malignant demons⁵.’ The name Telónia has had a curious history⁶. N. G. Polites states that it meant originally demons acting as publicans or custom-house officials and so hindering souls from a free entrance into heaven. The same authority informs us that these Telónia are believed to snap the mast and sink the ship: hence, directly they appear, the sailors have recourse to prayers, burn incense, recite incantations from the Key of Solomon, discharge fire-arms, pull the tails of pigs, in short do anything and everything calculated to scare away the dreaded powers⁷.

viii. Saint Elmo’s Fire.

Throughout the Mediterranean and the western coasts of Europe the same phenomenon is viewed sometimes as a good, sometimes as an evil sign⁸. It is commonly called the ‘fire of Saint Elmo’—a name which has many variants⁹ and has been

¹ Artemid. oneirocr. 2. 37.

² Porphyr. in Hor. od. 1. 3. 2: see, however, F. Hauthal ad loc.

³ Fulgent. myth. 2. 16, cp. Myth. Vat. 3. 3. 6.

⁴ Τελώνια.

⁵ G. F. Abbott Macedonian Folklore Cambridge 1903 p. 241.

⁶ B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 171 ff.

⁷ N. G. Polites in Mélusine 1884—85 ii. 117. For ancient apotropaics see Solin. 1. 54—57, cp. Plin. nat. hist. 28. 77.

⁸ P. Sébillot Le Folk-lore de France Paris 1904 i. 96.

⁹ These are collected in Mélusine 1884—85 ii. 112 f. (cp. ib. 112 ff., 138 ff., 189, 255 f., 382): e.g. Italian fuoco di Sant’ Elmo, luce di Santo Ermo, Sant’ Ermo, Sardinian fogu de S. Elmu, Genoese fêugo de Sant’ Emo, French feu Saint-Elme, sailors’ French feu Saint-Erme, Provençal fué Sant’ Eoumé, fio de Sant’ Èime, lume Sant’ Èime, Bouches-du-explained in more ways than one. Apart from the inevitable 'Semitic guess', modern scholars have sought to derive it from elmo, the Italian form of the German *Helm*², or from *Hermes*³, or even from *Helena*⁴. Others again advocate a connexion with Saint *Erasmus*⁵, a mediaeval patron of mariners, and K. Jaisle has succeeded in citing the intermediate forms Santeramo, Santeremo, *Santermo*⁶. Finally, Dr J. Rendel Harris argues that 'St Erasmo ... is a modification of St Remo, i.e. of the Roman Twin'.⁷ Probably the last word in this interesting controversy has not yet been written. Be that as it may, Saint Elmo's fire is also attributed to Saint Nicolas⁸, Saint Clara⁹, etc. And, just as ancient Italian sailors referred one star to Helena, two to Castor and Pollux, so modern French sailors ascribe two to Saint Elme and Saint Nicolas, three or four to the added presence of Sainte Anne or Sainte Barbe¹⁰.

It appears, therefore, that for nearly two thousand years the stars of the Dioskouroi and of Helene have been identified with these ominous electrical phenomena. To me it seems probable that from the first they bore the same meaning. If Zeus was the god of the bright sky, such atmospheric illuminations might well be referred to his children. I am, however, very far from thinking that we have reached the ultimate significance of the Dioskouroi when we have succeeded in connecting their stars with the fire of Saint Elmo. It would be truer to say that we have been reading the last and in some respects the least interesting chapter of a lengthy story. The contents of the previous chapters must be sought in the keen-witted works of my friend Dr Rendel Harris¹¹.

Rhône fo de Sant Antèime, English Ferne's fire. See also A. Jal Glossaire Nautique Paris 1848 p. 692 f., and F. Kluge Seemannssprache Halle 1911 pp. 217—220.

¹ Frazer Pausanias iii. 13 f. 'In the middle ages and in modern times such lights have been known as the fire of Saint Elmo or Saint Telmo. My friend the late W. Robertson Smith informed me that the name Telmo resembles a Phoenician word meaning "twins."'

² K. Jaisle op. cit. p. 67.

³ K. Jaisle op. cit. p. 63 quotes the forms: S. Erme (c. 1582), S. Heremo (1669), S. Hermen (1688).

⁴ J. K. G. Jacobssohn Technologisches Wörterbuch Berlin 1782 ii. 250 b. Cp. the following variants: French feu d' Hélène (1678), Sainte Hélène (1754), English Saint Helen's fire, German Helmenfeuer, Helenenfeuer, Flemish Elmsvuer, Helensvuer, Breton Tan santez Helena. For the change of sex see supra p. 172 ff.

⁵ So first in the Acta Sanctorum ed. Bolland. Iunius i. 218 f. (1695). See also D. H. Kerler Die Patronate der Heiligen Ulm 1905 p. 330.

⁶ K. Jaisle op. cit. pp. 67—72.

⁷ J. Rendel Harris in the Transactions of the Third International Congress for the History of Religions Oxford 1908 ii. 176. See further his Boanerges Cambridge 1913 p. 206 f.

⁸ K. Jaisle op. cit. p. 58 f. Cp. the Italian fuoco di San Niccola, French Saint Nicolas.

⁹ K. Jaisle op. cit. p. 59 f. In Old French the fires were ascribed to Sainte Claire.

¹⁰ P. Sébillot op. cit. i. 96.

¹¹ Supra p. 760 n. 7.

§ 9. General Conclusions with regard to Zeus as god of the Bright Sky.

Having advanced thus far in our main enquiry we must pause to take our bearings afresh. A brief survey of the ground already traversed will enable us to apprehend better the position that we have reached, and will fittingly close the first stage of our journey.

Zeus, whose name means 'the Bright One,' was originally conceived in zoistic fashion as the bright sky itself—a conception that has left its mark on the language and literature of ancient Greece¹.

The change from the zoistic to the anthropomorphic Zeus was occasioned, not by any despair of magic, but rather by a naïve attempt to express heaven in terms of earth. The divine sky, as supreme weather-maker, was represented under the guise of an ordinary human magician or weather-ruling king². This transition, which had been accomplished well before the end of the second millenium B.C., meant that Zeus was no longer worshipped as the sky but as the sky-god. Yet his earlier character can still be surmised from the çult-titles and art-types of a more sophisticated age. Behind Zeus Aithérios and Zeus Aithrios, if not also behind Zeus Amários, Zeus Díos, and Zeus Lýkaios, we detect the old-world cult of the day-light sky³. Again, when Hellenistic artists portray Zeus with a blue nimbus round his head⁴, a blue globe at his feet⁵, a blue mantle wrapped about his loins⁶, what are these attributes, taken together, but an indication that the god so portrayed was once the blue sky and the blue sky only?

As god of the bright or burning sky, Zeus dwelt in aithér, the most exalted portion of the celestial vault⁷. And, since high mountains were supposed to rise above the lower zone of aér and to penetrate the upper zone of aithér, mountain-tops were regarded as in a peculiar sense the abode of Zeus⁸. His mountain-cults can be classified in a roughly chronological series according as they involved a mere altar, or an altar with a statue of the god, or an altar with a statue enclosed in a temple⁹. Further, the mountain that dominated the district was often looked upon as his throne—a prerogative that he appears to have inherited from Hittite predecessors¹⁰. Mythology associated Zeus with the mountain in a variety of ways. There he had been born¹¹. There he consorted

¹ Supra pp. 1—8.

² Supra pp. 9—14.

³ Supra pp. 4, 14—33, 63—99.

⁴ Supra pp. 33—41.

⁵ Supra pp. 41—56.

⁶ Supra pp. 56—62.

⁷ Supra p. 25 f.

⁸ Supra pp. 100—117.

⁹ Supra pp. 117—123.

¹⁰ Supra pp. 124—148.

¹¹ Supra pp. 148—154.

with his partner, the mountain-goddess¹. There, in one famous case, he lay buried². And, when paganism, outwardly at least, succumbed to Christianity, Zeus the mountain-god was superseded by Elias the mountain-saint³.

Apart from the luminous dome of heaven, there are in normal circumstances three definite manifestations of the burning sky. To the mind of the Greek, sun, moon, and stars were made of the same fiery stuff as the aithér itself⁴. Zeus, therefore, must needs stand in relations of peculiar intimacy towards these special exhibitions of his own brightness. This was probably the consideration that, to the more thoughtful portion of the community, justified the rapprochement, which from a very early period in the history of Greece began to contaminate the pure worship of Zeus with a whole medley of solar, lunar, and stellar elements. In various districts of the Mediterranean area the sun was popularly viewed as an eye⁵, a wheel⁶, a bird⁷, a ram⁸, a bull⁹, a bronze man¹⁰, or what not? But each of these manifold and in part barbaric notions was sooner or later absorbed into the all-comprehensive cult of the Greek sky-god. Again, here and there the moon as Selene¹¹, as Io¹², as Pasiphae¹³, as Europe¹⁴, as Antiope¹⁵, was paired with Zeus—a pairing which implies that he was credited with solar powers. For this batch of myths non-Hellenic influence is even more largely responsible. Lastly, Zeus figures on occasion as ruler of the starry sky¹⁶. The Greeks, mediately or immediately following the lead of the Babylonians, assigned to him as their foremost god an important rôle in their astronomy and astrology¹⁷. They also associated, perhaps as early as the fifth century before our era, his adoptive sons the Dioskouroi with the electric stars now known as Saint Elmo's fire¹⁸.

In short, Zeus was brought into close connexion with any and every celestial luminary. But, though this is undoubtedly the case, it must be steadily borne in mind that genuine Hellenic religion never identified Zeus with sun or moon or star. If an

¹ Supra pp. 104—106, 154—157.

² Supra pp. 157—163.

³ Supra pp. 163—186.

⁴ See O. Gilbert Die meteorologischen Theorien des griechischen Altertums Leipzig 1907 p. 20. In abnormal circumstances (storms etc.) lightning is another manifestation of the aithér (id. ib. p. 20 f., and infra ch. ii § 3 (a)).

⁵ Supra p. 196 f.

⁶ Supra pp. 197—341.

⁷ Supra pp. 341—346.

⁸ Supra pp. 346—430.

⁹ Supra pp. 430—665.

¹⁰ Supra pp. 719—730.

¹¹ Supra pp. 732 f., 739.

¹² Supra pp. 453—457, 733, 739 f.

¹³ Supra pp. 521 ff., 543 ff., 733, 739 f.

¹⁴ Supra pp. 524 ff., 537 ff., 544 ff., 733 f., 739 f.

¹⁵ Supra pp. 734—740.

¹⁶ Supra pp. 751 ff., 757.

¹⁷ Supra p. 754 ff.

¹⁸ Supra p. 771 ff.

inscription records the cult of Zeus Helios¹, if a coin represents Zeus with the moon on his head², if a myth tells of Zeus transforming himself into a star³, we may be reasonably sure that inscription, coin, and myth alike belong to the Hellenistic age, when—as Cicero puts it⁴—a Greek border was woven on to the barbarian robe.

To disentangle the complex threads of syncretism is seldom an easy task; and here I cannot hope to have attained more than a limited measure of success. Still, it seemed worth while to attempt the analysis of such far-reaching cults as those of Zeus *Ammon*⁵, Zeus *Sabázios*⁶, Iupiter *Heliopolitanus*⁷, Iupiter *Dolichenus*⁸,—cults which swept across the ancient world from north to south, from east to west.

Zeus Ammon was found to be a Graeco-Libyan god, originally worshipped in the Oasis with rites similar to those of Zeus Náios at Dodona⁹, but later fused firstly with the Theban *Ámen-Râ*¹⁰ and secondly with the Punic *Ba'al-hammân*¹¹. Zeus Sabázios proved to be a Phrygian deity¹² closely resembling the Orphic Zeus, the parallelism of Phrygian and Orphic cults being explained by the fact that both alike were offshoots of the old Thracio-Phrygian religion¹³. Further, since the Graeco-Libyan Zeus Ammon and the Thracio-Phrygian Zeus Sabázios were ram-gods of identical character, it appeared probable that ultimately the former was akin to the latter; and it was conjectured that sundry traces of the same remote original might be seen scattered up and down in the cults and myths of classical Greece and Italy¹⁴.

Iupiter Heliopolitanus was the Roman name of Zeus Adados, the great god worshipped at Baalbek or Heliopolis¹⁵. Zeus Adados in turn was essentially a Grecised (and subsequently Egyptised) form of the Syrian Adad, who both at Heliopolis and at Hierapolis had not improbably succeeded to the position once occupied by the Hittite father-god *Tešub*¹⁶. The cult-image of Zeus at Heliopolis stood with a bull on either hand¹⁷. That of Zeus at Hierapolis is described as 'sitting upon bulls' and figured with two bulls as

¹ Supra pp. 186—195, 361 n. 6.

² Supra p. 731.

³ Supra p. 760.

⁴ Cic. de rep. 2. 9 ita barbarorum agris quasi atexta quaedam videtur ora esse Graeciae.

⁵ Supra pp. 346—390.

⁶ Supra pp. 390—403.

⁷ Supra pp. 549—593.

⁸ Supra pp. 604—633.

⁹ Supra pp. 361—371.

¹⁰ Supra pp. 346—353.

¹¹ Supra pp. 353—358.

¹² Supra pp. 390—398.

¹³ Supra pp. 398—400.

¹⁴ Supra pp. 401—428.

¹⁵ Supra pp. 549—567.

¹⁶ Supra pp. 576—589.

¹⁷ Supra pp. 567—576.

the supporters of its throne¹. Obviously the Heliopolitan and the Hierapolitan gods were near relatives; and kindred deities flanked by a pair of recumbent bulls occur on the coinage of other Syrian towns². Again, Zeus Dolichaios, better known as Iupiter Dolichenus, the god of Doliche in Kommagene³, appears to have borrowed the bull on which he habitually stands from Tešub, who on Hittite monuments has a bull either at his side or beneath his feet⁴. On this showing it is possible, and even probable, that both Iupiter Heliopolitanus and Iupiter Dolichenus have preserved to us essential features of the Hittite father-god.

The discussion of the foregoing cults served to bring out a certain analogy subsisting between the ram and the bull in Levantine religion⁵. These two beasts had been treated from time immemorial as embodiments of procreative power, the former by a pastoral, the latter by a cattle-breeding population. As such they were associated in primis with the fertilising sky-god⁶; and I have suggested that the victims sacrificed to Zeus were commonly either oxen or rams just because these animals more than others⁷ were charged with Zeugungskraft and would therefore be thought to increase the power of the god to fertilise and bless⁸.

Indeed, it may be claimed that throughout the present volume this conception of Zeus as a procreative god has come gradually into greater prominence. From first to last he was worshipped as a Father: and the invocation Zeu pater, familiar to us from the Homeric poems, became stereotyped on Italian soil as the name *Iupiter*⁹.

Two other results of general significance have emerged from the mass of detail considered in this book. Zeus as sky-father is in essential relation to an earth-mother. Her name varies from place to place and from time to time. Sometimes she is a mountain-goddess with little or no disguise—Mousa¹⁰, Koryphe, Aitne, Kyllene, Taygete, or the like¹¹. Sometimes she is an earth-goddess that has developed into a vegetation-goddess—Demeter,

¹ Supra pp. 583 f., 586.

² Supra p. 590.

³ Supra pp. 604—633.

⁴ Supra pp. 604—606, 639—644.

⁵ Supra p. 430.

⁶ Supra pp. 428—430, 633—635.

⁷ Yet in Crete (supra pp. 401, 501) and in Karia etc. (supra p. 717 n. 3) Zeus was associated with the goat, as was Dionysos in Lakonike, at Metapontum, etc. (supra pp. 674 f., 705)—doubtless for the same reason.

⁸ Supra p. 716 ff.

⁹ Supra p. 14. Geographically intermediate between the Greek Zeus πατήρ and the Latin Diespiter is the Stymphæan Δειράδριπος (supra p. 681 n. 4).

¹⁰ Supra pp. 104—106.

¹¹ Supra pp. 154—157.

it may be, or Persephone¹, or Nemesis². Sometimes she has lapsed from the position of an earth-goddess or a vegetation-goddess into that of a heroine—Semele³, or Europe⁴. But everywhere and always, either patent or latent, the earth-mother is there as the necessary correlative and consort of the sky-father.

Finally, the union of the sky-father with the earth-mother did not remain unfruitful. In the Dorian states the twin sons of Tyndáreos, the 'Shatterer'⁵, were aptly affiliated to Zeus, and at least as early as the seventh century B.C.⁶ were renamed the *Dios-kouroi*⁷. But in the region occupied by the ancient Thraco-Phrygian stock Zeus begat a son in his own image, Dionysos the god of animal and vegetable life⁸, whose worship little by little spread through the whole of Greece and everywhere inspired fresh triumphs of religion, literature, and art. Not once, nor twice, but many times in our survey of the Mediterranean lands—in the Archipelago⁹, at Kyrene¹⁰, in Magna Graecia¹¹, in Crete¹², at *Baalbek*¹³, and elsewhere—we have had occasion to notice the younger god side by side with the older god, of whom he was in a sense the second self.

The sky-god, the earth-goddess, and their offspring the life of the world are thus already before us; but as yet in imperfect outline. The more definite and detailed account of their inter-relations we must reserve for another volume.

¹ Supra pp. 392—399.

² Supra pp. 272—285.

³ Supra pp. 155, 457 n. 5, 682 n. 1, 733, cp. schol. B II. 24. 615.

⁴ Supra pp. 524—541.

⁵ H. Usener in the Rhein. Mus. 1898 liii. 340 ff. (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 270 f.), E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1088, Walde Lat. etym. Wörterb. p. 642 s.v. 'tundo.'

⁶ Supra p. 142 n. 12.

⁷ Wide Lakon. Kulte p. 317 ff., E. Bethe loc. cit.

⁸ Supra pp. 390—400.

⁹ Supra p. 371 f.

¹⁰ Supra pp. 371—376.

¹¹ Supra p. 372.

¹² Supra pp. 644 ff., 708 ff.

¹³ Supra pp. 564—566.

ADDENDA

Page 10 note 1: on the Persian sky-god. Prof. J. H. Moulton pursues the topic in his recent and masterly work Early Zoroastrianism London 1913 p. 391 n. 3. I quote the following: 'There is now a full discussion of the point in Bartholomae, Zum Air Wō, 172—4, starting from a note in Hesychius, Δῖαν· μεγάλην ἢ ἐνδοξον· τὸν οὐρανὸν Ἡέρσαι. Clearly, if the old lexicographer was thinking of Herodotus he had some reason for dissociating Δία there (and Δί) from Ζεὺς, for he selects the accusative of the fem. adj. δία, common in Homer. Now *Δῖαν would represent the acc. of O.P. *Diyauš almost exactly. May we not conjecture that Hesychius had evidence prompting him to desert the obvious Ζεὺς in Herodotus, even though Δί just before would not fit δία? We have strong reason for expecting to find Dyauš in Persia, since he belongs to the Vedic pantheon, though his cult is evidently dying. Bartholomae cites Διᾶεις, the name of a Persian noble in Æschylus, Perse, 977. It is either *divai·χσιš, "ruling in the sky," or *divai·šiš, "dwelling in the sky." (I think divai and dyavi may be alternative forms of the locative, related like χθονί and χαμαί, with Skt divi = Διί as a mixture.) Bartholomae suggests that the Thracian sage Ζάμολξις had a Scythian (and so Iranian) name, zamar·χσιš, "qui regnat in terra." (Since the cognate Thracian had the required λ in the name for Earth, witnessed by Σεμέλη, we need not perhaps make Zamolxis a foreigner in Thrace.) But what were those Persian aristocrats thinking of when they named their infant, on either etymology? Can we explain qui regnat in celo by the doctrine of the Fravashi? If the heavenly counterpart had royal rank, the rank of the earthly double should correspond, and match the parents' ambition.'

Page 37 note 1: on the great altar of Zeus at Olympia. See now L. Weniger 'Der Hochaltar des Zeus in Olympia' in the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altertum 1913 xxxi. 241—260 with 3 figs.

Page 45: on the type of Iupiter Capitolinus in the temple rebuilt by Titus and Domitian. Two bronze medallions of Hadrian, published by Gneccchi Medagl. Rom. iii. 20 nos. 98 f. pl. 146, 6 (=my fig. 566) and 5, have as reverse type the three Capitoline deities. Behind Iupiter is Victory, wrongly described by Gneccchi as an eagle, holding a wreath.

Fig. 566.

Page 45: on Iupiter Capitolinus with globe in right hand, sceptre in left. In the 'Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1912 p. 263 f. figs. 1, 1' K. K. Phylaktou publishes a rock-crystal from Kypros engraved with a Iupiter of this type: Victory flies towards him, an eagle is perched on his footstool, and a star fills the space behind his throne. Mr Phylaktou's interpretation (Iulius Caesar as a bearded Zeus Olympios with the Iulium sidus) is improbable.

Page 48 fig. 21 sarcophagus-relief in the Capitoline Museum. See now Reinach Rép. Reliefs iii. 206 no. 1 and the Mus. Capit. Cat. Sculpt. p. 264 Stanza dei Filosofi no. 109 pl. 62. The latter characterises the relief as 'Rough Roman work' and, like the former, suggests Hebe as a possible name for the shield-bearing figure. I adhere to my view that she is more probably Victory.

Page 58 note 1: on Jupiter Purpurio. Cp. Corp. inscr. Lat. xiv no. 3469 (alla chiesa di S. Giovanni di Agosta, prossim alla fonte) Iovi opt. [max. Purpuri] oni Iunoni Mine[rvae] C. Servilius etc., where Purpurioni was a suggestion of Mommsen.

Page 80 note 4: on were-wolves. To the bibliography add now Elliott O'Donnell Werewolves London (1913) pp. 1—292.

Page 92 f.: on a kýlix representing Zeus Lýkaios. My friend Mr P. N. Ure informed me some time since that the Museum at Taranto possesses a 'Laconian' kýlix closely resembling that in the Louvre (supra p. 93 fig. 65). On a recent visit to Taranto he kindly examined the cup on my behalf and reports (March 18, 1914) that it was found at Bascino di Carrivagio, fuori la città along with a Corinthian arýballos, and that its design is practically the same as that of the Louvre kýlix, the only noteworthy differences being: (a) Zeus faces to left; the ornamentation of his clothes is simpler; his seat appears to be a chair rather than an altar; and he has no footstool. (b) The bird is somewhat larger and flies to right. (c) The field is plain, without rosettes.

Page 109: on Axieros, Axiokersa, Axiokersos W. H. Buckler and D. M. Robinson in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1913 xvii. 367 propose a new derivation of these names: 'Ἀξίκερσος (= "snake-ram"; from anghw, snake, and the root of képas, horn)...and Ἀξίεπος (= "snake sheep," from anghw and the root of épos or fépos wool-).' Their suggestion is highly precarious.

Page 147 f.: on the pillar-throne at Phalasarna. In the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1907 pp. 589—598 with 3 figs. S. Ronzevalle publishes a small limestone throne of Hellenistic date, found near Tyre. The supports of the throne are two winged sphinxes, Egyptian in character. The seat is treated as an Egyptian cornice, below which is carved a symbolic vegetable design in Egypto-Assyrian style. Projecting from the front side of the throne-back are two round-topped stélai, which bear two figures facing each other in low relief, viz. a goddess and a beardless dedicant, with very similar costume (tunic, sleeved mantle?), attribute (sceptre), and gesture (benediction and greeting?). The plinth is inscribed

לרבתי לעשתרת אש בנו הקרב
אש לי אך עבדבסת בן בדבעל

Ronzevalle renders: 'A ma dame, Astarté, ici figurée, a été consacrée ma propre effigie, à moi, Abdoubast, fils de Boubaal.' My friend Mr N. McLean would prefer to translate: 'To my lady Ashtoreth who is within (? the throne) has been offered that which is mine—I Abdubast son of Bodbaal.' Ronzevalle notes the obvious attempt on the part of the royal or priestly worshipper to assimilate himself as far as possible to the goddess, whose throne he shares.

Page 177 note o: on Saint George as Zeus Georgós. That Zeus Georgós was superseded by Saint George at Lydda (Diospolis) is maintained also by E. Krause Die Trojaburgen Nordeuropas Glogau 1893 p. 206 f.

Page 178 note o: on Saint George as dragon-slayer. To the bibliography add now J. B. Aufhäuser Das Drachenwunder des heiligen Georgs (Byzantinisches Archiv v) Leipzig and Berlin 1911 pp. 1—254 with 19 figs., Géza Róheim Drachen und Drachenkämpfer (Erweiterter Separat-Abdruck aus "Jung-Ungarn," Jahrgang 1911) Berlin 1912 pp. 1—56, N. G. Polites Τὰ δημόδη Ἑλληνικά ἄσματα περὶ τῆς δρακοντοκτονίας τοῦ Ἁγίου Γεωργίου (extr. from Λαογραφία iv) Athens 1913.

Page 216 fig. 159 red-figured kýlix at Berlin. L. Malten in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1912 xxvii. 254 fig. 11 (on p. 257) publishes a photograph of this vase, but does not deal at length with its interpretation (Dionysos? Hephaistos? Triptolemos?).

Page 223: on Triptolemos with the plough. In the Roman villa at Brading, Isle of Wight, a mosaic on the floor of room no. 12 shows in one of its panels Demeter presenting corn-ears to Triptolemos: she is clad in chitón and himátion, and holds sceptre in left, corn in right hand; he has a chlamýs over his shoulders and grasps a plough with his left hand. See further Transactions of the Royal Institute of British Architects 1880—81 p. 138 f. with pl.

Kýlix at Taranto: Zeus Lýkaios.

See page 782.

[From a photograph kindly supplied by Mr Q. Quagliati, Director of the Museum at Taranto.]

Page 227 fig. 166 relief from Gharfin. R. Dussaud Notes de mythologie syrienne Paris 1905 p. 153 f. fig. 36 regards this as a representation of Adonis-Esmun identified with Triptolemos.

Page 232 ff.: on a coin of Gaza (?). Mr G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Palestine pp. lxxxvi ff. 181 pl. 19, 29 describes the series to which this coin belongs as 'Philisto-Arabian.'

Page 240 f.: on the hawk as a solar bird. A fragment of a hawk found at Apollonia (Arsuf) with a disk round its neck inscribed ΙΟΥΛΙΑΝΟΣ (C. Clermont-Ganneau Mission en Palestine et en Phénicie p. 134 no. 121 pl. 2, II) is taken by R. Dussaud to be an emblem of the emperor Julian as sun-god (R. Dussaud in the Mission dans les régions désertes de la Syrie moyenne p. 478 n. 1 and in the Rev. Arch. 1903 i. 351).

Page 241: on the hawk as sacred to solar deities in Egypt. See now T. Hopfner Der Tierkult der alten Ägypter nach den griechisch-römischen Berichten und den wichtigeren Denkmälern (Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1913 ii Abh.) Wien 1913 pp. 107—113.

Page 259 note 3: on lynx-wheels in temples. The vase cited as illustrating the temple of Hera at Thebes(?) is explained by F. Hauser in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1913 xv. 169 fig. 108 as representing the Locrian maidens in the temple of Athena at Ilion.

Page 285 note 1: on the magical disk from Pergamon. R. Ganschinietz in the Archiv f. Rel. 1914 xvii. 346 f. cites parallels.

Page 296 fig. 219 a Thraco-Macedonian coin. J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1913 xv. 201 ff. figs. 1—13 attributes this coin to the Paiones and, like P. Gardner, interprets its type as the sun-god carrying his disk: 'On peut donc conclure que l'ineffable symbole n'est rien d'autre que le Soleil, solis rota, le στρέφων κύκλος, κόσμος τὸ περιδρομον ὄμμα, χρυσέας ἡμέρας βλέφαρον, πανόπτης κύκλος Ἥλιου, Διὸς ὀφθαλμὸς mundi oculus (Comparez les monnaies de Skione où le symbole ☉ prend la forme complète d'un œil, [Babelon pl. LI, 4]) etc. et servait à indiquer au public que les pièces qui le portaient sortaient des ateliers péoniens renommés pour leur excellent métal et que leur pureté métallique était sous la garantie et surveillance du Διὸς ὀφθαλμὸς. En outre ce signe conservait son caractère sacré qui se rapportait au grand dieu de ce peuple, le Soleil. Celui-ci avait son culte central sur le sommet du Pangée même, source de la richesse des Péoniens. C'est là...qu'on a frappé la pièce...au type de la figure qui représente probablement le Soleil même portant son disque.'

Page 299 note 6: on ὁ καλούμενος αὐλός, ἡ ἀρχὴ τοῦ λειτουργούντος ἀνέμου. R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 365 n. 2 explains this αὐλός by reference to Anaximander frags. 21 Diels (τὸν ἥλιον) κύκλον εἶναι...ἀρματεῖω τροχῷ παραπλήσιον, τὴν ἀψίδα ἔχοντα κοίλην, πλήρη πυρός, κατὰ τι μέρος ἐφαινούσαν διὰ στομίον τοῦ πῦρ ὡσπερ διὰ πρηστήριος αὐλοῦ, 11 Diels τὰ δὲ ἀστρα...κύκλον πυρός, ...περιληφθέντα δ' ὑπὸ ἀέρος. ἐκπνοῆς δ' ὑπάρξει πόρους τινὰς αὐλώδει, καθ' ὅσιν φαίνεται τὰ ἀστρα. Eisler takes both the so-called Mithrasliturgie and the teaching of Anaximander to be dependent upon Persian ideas.

Page 310 f.: on Aristophanes' speech in Platon's Symposium. K. Ziegler 'Menschen- und Weltenwerden' in the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altertum 1913 xxxi. 529—573 traces the views of the Platonic Aristophanes to a contamination of Empedoclean ideas with an Orphic, and ultimately Babylonian, anthropogony.

Page 338 note 2: on the Persian chariot of Zeus. Cp. the Zoroastrian account in Dion Chrys. or. 36 p. 92 ff. ἕτερος δὲ μῦθος ἐν ἀπορρήτοις τελεταῖς ὑπὸ Μάγων ἀνδρῶν ἄδεται θαυμάζομενος, οἱ τὸν θεὸν τοῦτον (sc. τὸν Δία) ὑμνοῦσιν ὡς τέλειόν τε καὶ πρῶτον ἠέλιον τοῦ τελειοτάτου ἄρματος. τὸ γὰρ Ἥλιου ἄρμα νεώτερόν φασιν εἶναι πρὸς ἐκεῖνον κρινόμενον, φανερόν δὲ τοῖς πολλοῖς, ἅτε προδήλον γιγνομένης τῆς φασῆς. ὅθεν κοινῆς φήμης τυγχάνειν, ὡς ἔοικεν, ὑπὸ πρῶτων σχεδόν τι τῶν ποιητῶν, ἀνατολὰς καὶ δύσεις ἐκάστοτε λεγόντων, καὶ κατὰ ταῦτα πάντων ἐξηγουμένων ζευγνυμένους τε τοὺς ἵππους καὶ τὸν Ἥλιον αὐτὸν ἐπιβαίνοντα τοῦ δίφρου. τὸ δὲ ἰσχυρόν καὶ τέλειον ἄρμα τοῦ Διὸς οὐδεὶς ἄρα ἔβησεν ἀξίως τῶν τῆδε, οὔτε Ὀμηρος, οὔτε Ἡσίοδος, ἀλλὰ Ζωροάστρης, καὶ Μάγων παῖδες ἄδουσι παρ' ἐκείνου μαθόντες· ὃν Πέρσαι λέγουσιν ἔρωτι σοφίας καὶ δικαιοσύνης ἀποχωρήσαντα τῶν ἄλλων καθ' αὐτὸν ἐν ὄρει τιθῆναι· ἔπειτα ἀφήναι τὸ ὄρος, πρὸς ἀνωθεν πολλοὺ κατασκήψαντος, συνεχῶς τε καίεσθαι. τὸν οὖν βασιλεῖα σὺν τοῖς ἔλλογιμοτάτοις Περσῶν ἀφικνεῖσθαι πλησίον, βουλόμενον εὐχασθαι τῷ θεῷ· καὶ τὸν ἀνδρὰ ἐξελεῖν ἐκ τοῦ πυρός ἀπαθῆ, φανέντα δὲ αὐτοῖς ἴλεων θαρρῆναι κελύσαι καὶ θῦσαι θυσίας τινὰς, ὡς ἤκοντος εἰς τὸν τόπον τοῦ θεοῦ. συγγενέσθαι τε μετὰ ταῦτα οὐχ ἅπασιν, ἀλλὰ τοῖς ἀρίστα πρὸς ἀλήθειαν πεφυκόσι καὶ τοῦ θεοῦ ζυγνείαν δυναμένοις, οὓς Πέρσαι Μάγων ἐκάλεσαν, ἐπισταμένους θεραπεύειν τὸ δαιμόνιον· οὐχ, ὡς Ἕλληνες, ἀγνοοῖα τοῦ ὄντοματος, οὕτως ὀνομάζουσιν αὐτοὺς γόητας. ἐκείνοι δὲ τὰ τε ἄλλα δρῶσι κατὰ λόγους ἱεροῦ καὶ δὴ τῷ Διὶ τρέφουσιν ἄρμα Νισαίων ἵππων· οἱ δὲ εἰσι κάλλιστοι καὶ μέγιστοι τῶν κατὰ τὴν Ἀσίαν· τῷ δὲ γε Ἥλιφ ἓνα ἵππον. κ.τ.λ.

Page 360: on snakes in Egyptian religion. See now T. Hopfner Der Tierkult der alten Ägypter nach den griechisch-römischen Berichten und den wichtigeren Denkmälern (Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1913 ii Abh.) Wien 1913 pp. 136—149.

Page 379 note 7: on recent journeys to the Oasis of Siwah. To the bibliography add now J. C. Ewald Falls Swah, Die Oase des Sonnengottes in der libyschen Wüste Mainz, Kirchheim 1910 (noted by A. Wiedemann in the Archiv f. Rel. 1914 xvii. 206 f.) and J. C. Ewald Falls (Kaufmann expedition) Three Years in the Libyan Desert trans. E. Lee London 1913 pp. 262—290 ('With the Viceroy to the Oasis of Amon—an historic progress through the desert in the steps of Alexander the Great'). Falls figures Ain Mûsa, Umma beida, a sculptured lion from the Ammôneion now in the Frankfurt Museum, etc.

Page 396 note 1: on the snake as phallic. See now E. Ktister Die Schlange in der griechischen Kunst und Religion Giessen 1913 p. 84, p. 99 n. 6, p. 149 ff.

Page 418 note 1: on the ram as figure-head of Phrixos' ship. So also schol. Plat. Menex. 243 A.

Page 430 ff.: on the bull and the sun in Egypt. See now T. Hopfner Der Tierkult der alten Ägypter nach den griechisch-römischen Berichten und den wichtigeren Denkmälern (Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1913 ii Abh.) Wien 1913 p. 68 ff. (pp. 76—86 Der Apis, p. 86 f. Der Mnevis, p. 88 Der Bakis, p. 88 f. Der Onuphis).

Page 442: on priests and priestesses with animal names. E. Neustadt De Jove Cretico Berlin 1906: 'Theraea... exstat inscriptio (J. G. XII 3, 418) de qua Hiller v. Gaertringen haec adnotat: "Prope ecclesiam Χριστός appellatam versus occidentem quinque sellae sive arae ex ipsa rupe exsculptae sunt. Praeter eas duo foramina stelis recipiendis idonea ibi incisa sunt." Ibi inscriptum est: ΤΣ ΔΑΜΑΤΡ[Ο]Σ [ΚΑΙ (?) Κ[Ο]Ρ[Α]Σ]. "Ante T nulla litterarum vestigia vidi. Quamobrem supplementum [Ιερε]ῦς reiciendum esse censeo." Ac profecto hic quodlibet supplementum ad irritum cadit; primum enim utique de ἱερεῖα tantum agi potest; deinde id quod homines prava coniectura inferre volunt exhibetur: ὄς enim Cereris certo non aliter intellegi debet quam πῶλοι Cereris, ἄρκτοι Dianae, βέες Bacchi,' etc. But in Inscr. Gr. ins. iii Suppl. no. 418 F. Hiller von Gaertringen says: '[Ιερε]ῦς reposui Thera 1 200, ubi imago est photographica (S G D I 4758).' F. Blass in Collitz-Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 176 no. 4758 prints ΤΣ Δάματρ[ο]ς... K. P... and comments: 'Τς Δάματρος [καί] Κ[δ]ρ[α]ς HvG.; doch sei für καί der Raum eigentlich zu klein. Vor ΤΣ habe er keine Spuren von Schrift bemerkt; also nicht [Ιερε]ῦς. Doch Ιερεῦς nach Thera 1. 200 (wo Abbildung).'

Page 482 note 1: on the κεράτιος βωμός of Delos. F. Courby 'L'autel de cornes à Délos' in the Mélanges Holleaux Paris 1913 pp. 59—68 would identify this altar with the apsidal monument in the western part of the precinct of Apollon. But??

Page 501 f.: on a bell-krater representing Herakles in Olympos. This vase should have been described as Campanian, not Athenian.

Page 504: on a coin of Nysa showing a bull carried by six youths. Variants are listed by Rasche Lex. Num. v. 1641 f. and by K. Regling in W. v. Diest Nysa ad Maeandrum (Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. Ergänzungsheft x) Berlin 1913 p. 86 f. nos. 152—154 pl. 13, 153, who says of the British Museum specimen: 'Der Mann mit dem Strick irrig flute-player genannt.'

Page 508 ff.: on the evolution of the horned altar. My suggestion that the horned altars of the Mediterranean area presuppose bull-shrines is to some extent confirmed by W. H. Ward The Seal Cylinders of Western Asia Washington 1910 pp. 307—310. Mr Ward in a chapter of great originality and acumen shows that a series of coarsely-cut haematite cylinders, probably of Syro-Hittite origin and referable to a period of c. 1500 B.C., represents an altar in the form of a bull. In some cases a flame is kindled on its back (fig. 567), in others a bird is perched upon it (fig. 568), in others again two human arms project from the quadruped's body (fig. 569). Mr Ward compares the image of Moloch, which had the arms of a man but the head of a calf (supra p. 723 n. 1). And it may be added that we have already seen reason to assume 'at various Hittite centres the cult of a life-sized bull, of which copies on a smaller scale were multiplied' (supra p. 641).

Page 585: on the snake-entwined statues at Hierapolis. P. Gauckler in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1909 pp. 117 ff., 424 ff., 617 ff. illustrates these statues by a remarkable statuette of gilded bronze (ib. p. 425 fig. 1) found lying in the cavity of a triangular altar, which forms the centre-piece of an octagonal chapel in the fourth-century Syrian sanctuary on the Ianiculum. The statuette shows a deity (Atargatis?) cased like a mummy and encircled by the seven coils of a crested snake. Seven hen's-eggs deposited between the coils recall the myth of the Syrian Venus (supra p. 584 n.) and incline Gauckler to think 'que la statuette...représente la Nativité d'Atargatis.'

Fig. 567.

Fig. 568.

Fig. 569.

Page 660: on coins of Praios showing Zeus suckled by a cow. My friend Prof. R. C. Bosanquet informs me (Jan. 5, 1914) that he has always taken the beast represented on these coins to be a sow, not a cow, and compared the story told by Agathokles (supra p. 653). It would certainly be a gain if we could regard the coins as illustrating the story in question. But fig. 507 is described by E. Babelon as 'Taureau' (sic), by J. N. Svoronos as 'Vache (?)', by B. V. Head as 'Cow'; and the rendering of a sow on Greek and Roman coins is very different (see Inghoof-Blumer and O. Keller Tier- und Pflanzenbilder auf Münzen und Gemmen des klassischen Altertums Leipzig 1889 p. 26 pl. 4, 19, 20, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 1 f. Abakainon, ib. Italy p. 397 Tuder, Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 11 pl. 22, 1 b, p. 58 pl. 75, 16, Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 471, Morell. Thes. Num. Imp. Rom. ii. 298 pl. 10, 31). As to fig. 508, H. Weber says 'Cow (?) or mare,' and Prof. Bosanquet admits that it looks 'more like a mare'; but B. V. Head is content to describe this too as a 'Cow.'

Page 676 f.: on the Orphic formula $\epsilon\rho\iota\phi\omicron\varsigma \epsilon\varsigma \gamma\alpha\lambda\acute{\iota}\nu \epsilon\pi\epsilon\rho\omicron\nu$. Dr L. R. Farnell in The Year's Work in Class. Stud. 1913 p. 135 draws attention to an article by Delatte in the Musée Belge 1913 p. 125, who 'proposes a new and attractive explanation of the cryptic formula $\epsilon\rho\iota\phi\omicron\varsigma \epsilon\varsigma \gamma\alpha\lambda\acute{\iota}\nu \epsilon\pi\epsilon\rho\omicron\nu$, as meaning "I entered earthly life as a Dionysos-Kid," milk being in Orphic-Pythagorean myth the object of desire which lured souls into birth, and which was used by magicians to evoke souls (he quotes Plut., De gen. Sacr., c. 16; Porph., Antr. Nymph., 28; Papyr. Berlin., i. 20).'

Page 676 f.: on the ritual use of milk among the Thracico-Phrygians. C. Avezou and C. Picard in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1913 xxxvii. 97 ff. publish a quadrangular altar of white marble (height 1.02^m) from the neighbourhood of Thessalonike. On the left side is carved a pedum, on the right a caduceus. In front, between two antae, is the following inscription (s. iii A.D.?): | ἄρχιμαγ[ε]ῖ|ρεὺς καὶ ἀρχιϰ[α]τῆρος καὶ πατῆρ | σπηλιέων καὶ Αὐρ. | Σωσιπᾶτρα ἢ γαλα|κτηφόρος, κισταφο|ρήσασα <ν> ἔτη Χ | τὸν βωμὸν ἐκ τῶν | ἰδίων ἀνέθηκαν. | εὐτυχῶς. The precise nature of the cult in question is doubtful.

Page 677: on the bath of boiling milk as a means of ritual rebirth. Mr F. M. Cornford in his recent book The Origin of Attic Comedy London 1914 (a contribution of capital importance to our understanding of Greek drama) discusses the examples of rejuvenation in Aristophanes' plays and infers (p. 89) 'that these stories reflect a rite of regeneration or resurrection, which has an established place in the cycle of Dionysiac ritual.' He justly observes (p. 90) that my hypothesis 'is strengthened by the instance of Demos in the Knights, who renews his youth in the Sausage-seller's cauldron and emerges as a new King and (as the parallel cases allow us to add) a new God, ready for his marriage.' Mr Cornford has also kindly brought to my notice a valuable article by E. Maass in the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altertum 1913 xxxi. 627 ff. on the Trophoi of Aischylos, in which Medea was represented as boiling the attendants of Dionysos, both male and female, in order to make them young again (Aisch. frag. 50 Nauck² ap. schol. Eur. Med. argum. and schol. Aristoph. eq. 1321). A propos of Medea's rejuvenating cauldron Maass writes

(p. 633): 'Das Bad in siedender Milch, das von einem Zauberperde kühl geblasen wird, belegt R. Koehler aus Sizilien, der Walachei und anderswoher in den Anmerkungen zu L. Gonzenbachs "Sizilianischen Märchen" Nr. 83 II 256... und in den "Kleinen Schriften" I 468 (Zigeunermärchen).'

Page 681: on Dionysos as conceived at the City Dionysia and born at the Lenaia. I am indebted to Mr F. M. Cornford (Dec. 3, 1913) for a possible parallel in Roman religion. Ov. fast. 5. 229 ff. tells the story of the conception of Mars under the date May 2; and March 1, ten months later, is noted as the birthday of Mars in the calendar of Philocalus. If we may assume that the Roman year originally consisted of lunar months (cp. Censorin. de die nat. 20. 4), the interval becomes significant. But this is a somewhat doubtful assumption. See W. Warde Fowler The Roman Festivals London 1899 p. 1 ff. and also p. 36 ff.

APPENDIXES

- A KAIROS
- B THE MOUNTAIN-CULTS OF ZEUS
- C KORINTHOS SON OF ZEUS
- D THE WHEEL AS A COIN-TYPE
- E THE KYKLOPS IN FOLK-TALES
- F THE DIOSKOUROI AND HELENE IN FOLK-TALES

will be printed at the end of Volume II.

INDEX I

PERSONS PLACES FESTIVALS

The contents of each item are arranged, as far as possible, under the following heads: Cults Epithets Festivals Oracles Rites Priests Personations Myths Metamorphoses Genealogy Functions Etymology Attributes Types Identifications Assimilations Associations Comparisons Relations Supersedure.

In the Genealogies f. = father, m. = mother, s. = son, d. = daughter, b. = brother, st. = sister, gf. = grandfather, gm. = grandmother, h. = husband, w. = wife.

The larger numerals refer to pages, the smaller numerals to foot-notes.

- Aalen See Aquileia in Upper Germania
- Abantes 24₀
- Abraxax (?) 234₁
- Abraxas, horse of Helios 337₃
- Abydos 304 415
- Achaean League, coins of 17 f.
- Achaeans in Crete 15 invade Egypt 362 receive portent from Zeus 26
- Achaia
Cults: Zeus 'Αμάριος 16 ff. Zeus Πανόπτης 461
- Acharaka
Cults: Plouton and Kore 503
Rite: bull carried 504
- Acharnai
Cults: Athena 'Τρυελα 231₈ Dionysos Κισσός 671₉
- Acheloios
Cult: Phaleron 112₃
Myths: cornu copiae 502₁ Herakles 502₁
Genealogy: f. of Eurymedousa 533₀
- Achilles
Myth: Trojan leap 483₀
Functions: St Elmo's fire 772
— hut of 259₅ island of 772 statue of 592₀
- Actaeon, horse of Helios 337₃
- Acumincum (?)
Cult: Iupiter Dolichenus 611 f.
- Adad
Cults: Ashur 581 Delos 549 f. Dion in Dekapolis 572₁ 590 Eleuthropolis 72₁ Gabala 590 Heliopolis in Syria 550 ff. 584 635 778 Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff. 778 Ianiculum 551 Neapolis in Samaria 572₁ Nikopolis in Iudaea 572₁ Rhosos 590
Epithets: 'Ακροπέτρης 551₂ Birku 577 Αιβανέωρης 551₂ Ramman 577
- Adad (cont.)
Oracles: 552 f.
Functions: agriculture 559₁ βασιλεύς θεῶν 549₃ fertility 591 mountain 551 567₂ sky 576₄ sun 549 ff. 553 577 ff. storm 570 577 ff. 634 f. thunder 553₃ 591
Etymology: 553 553₃
Attributes: bull 576 ff. 633 ff. two bulls 567 ff. corn-ears 552 569 572 fir-cone (?) 569₁ globe (?) 572 jewels (?) 569 kálathos 568 f. 571 f. 574 576 radiate nimbus 572₁ rays slanting downwards 553 solar disk 569 (?) 571 thunderbolt 552 577 golden thunderbolt 581 whip 552 568 ff.
Types: bull (?) 577 579 charioteer with whip and corn-ears standing between two bulls 567 ff. charioteer with whip, thunderbolt, and corn-ears 552 Egyptising 572 ff. sitting upon bulls 582 ff.
Identified with Helios 550 f. 635 Iupiter 549 ff. Zeus 549 ff.
Assimilated to Helios 550₅
Associated with Atargatis 549 591 Atargatis, Asklepios 550 Atargatis, Seimios 553 f. Sin, Šamaš, Istar 577
In relation to Ramman 576₄ Šamaš 577 ff.
— eye of 569₄ finger of 570₀ kidney of 569₄
See also Ramman
- Adada 305
- Adados See Adad
- Adana 597₄
- Adanos
Genealogy: s. of Ouranos by Ge 597₄

- Adargatis See Atargatis
 Adatos
Cult: Delos 549
Epithet: Πάρριος 549₇
 Adionnius Tauros 468 635
 Adodos
Epithet: βασιλεὺς θεῶν 237₁ 549₃
 See also Adad and Zeus Ἄδαδος
 Adonaī 234
 Adonia 559₁
 Adonis
Cults: Kypros 651 Syria 651
Festival: Adonia 559₁
Rites: effigy or animal substituted for human victim 651 gardens of Adonis 530₂ 559₁ human ἔριφος 675 human representatives slain periodically or occasionally 651
Personated by priestly kings or princes 651
Function: autumn 234₄ (?)
Associated with Aphrodite 345₁ 645 646₀
Compared with Hippolytos, Perdix, Aktaion 728 Zeus, Tammuz 645
In relation to Zeus 157₃ 468₈ 530₂ 645 f. 651 f. 663₂ 675
 — Cretan name of (?) 468₈ Etruscan names of 468₈ gardens of See Rites
 Adrasteia
Cults: Babylon 262₅ Kyzikos 112₅
Identified with Nemesis 269₁
 Adrasteia, a Cretan Nymph 112₃
 Adrasteia, a Phrygian Nymph 112₄
 Adrastos 74₀
 Adriatic
Cult: Artemis 245₃
 Adymnus (Atymnos?)
Cult: Gortyna 525₃
 Aer
Genealogy: f. of Drosos (?) by Mene 732₅
 Aerita
Cult: Zeus Ἄνικητος Ἥλιος Θεὸς Ἄϊμος 193₁
 Aerope
Genealogy: w. of Atreus 405
 Aesculapius
Cult: Pfünz (?) 630₃
Rite: incubation 407₄
 See also Asklepios
 Aetes, ghost of 252 See also Aietes
 Aethon, horse of Helios 337₃
 Aethops See Aithops, horse of Helios Africa, Central 325
 Africa, North 347₄ 353 ff.
 Africa, South 325
 Africa, South-west 330
 Africa, West 323₄
 Agallis on Triptolemos 224
 Agamede 14₁
 Agamedes
Cult: Lebadeia 407₄
Myth: Delphoi 450 f. 563₃
 Agamemnon
Myth: gathering of Greeks at Aigion 17
 Agathokles, triskelēs as signet of 305₉ triskelēs on coins of 306 f.
 Agdistis 155
 Agdos, Mt
Genealogy: m. by Zeus of Agdistis 155
 Agenor
Genealogy: f. of Europe, Kadmos 538 f. of Kadmos 540
 Aglaia 592₀
 Aglaophon 456₀
 Agni 190₃ 718₁
 Agra
Cult: Dionysos 692
Rites: Lesser Mysteries 219 692
 Agrai See Agra
 Agraina
Cult: Zeus Ἄνικητος Ἥλιος Θεὸς Ἄϊμος 193₁
 Agraalos
Cult: Salamis in Kypros 659₄
Rite: human sacrifice (?) 659₄
 Agreis
Cult: Anazarbos 597₄
 Agrigentum
Cults: Zeus Ἀραβύριος 643 Zeus Ἰολεὺς 122
 Agrigentum, temple of 'Concordia' at 122₂
 Agriope See Argiope
 Agrippina (?) as Demeter 228₁
 Agrotos 559₁
 Agroueros 559₁
 Ahalyā
Myth: Indras 395₂
 Ahura Mazdāh See Auramazda
 Aia 253
 Aiaia 239₂
 Aias
Myth: body cast up on beach 299
 Aias, s. of Teukros, high-priest of Zeus Ὀλβιος 304₁
 Aietes
Myths: Corinth 245 f. Phrixos 417
Genealogy: f. of Chalkiope 416 s. of Helios 253 s. of Helios by Antiope 245 738 s. of Helios by Perseis 416 b. of Kirke 238 b. of Kirke, Pasiphae 416 f. of Medeia 246
 See also Aetes
 Aiga, d. of Olenos 529₁
 Aiga, in Achaia 529₁
 Aiga, in Haimonia 529₁
 Aigai, in Achaia 529₄
 Aigeira, coins of 710
 Aigeus 467 shoes and sword of 519₂
 Aigialeia, older name of Sikyon 737
 Aigina
Cult: Aphaia 526₁ 623₀
 — coin of 305
 Aigion
Cults: Aphrodite 16 f. Athena Ἄμωρα 16 f. Demeter Παναχαΐδ 17 Hestia 17 Kore 17 Poseidon 17 Zeus 529₄

- Aigion (cont.)
Zeus Ἄμυριος 16 f. Zeus Ὀμαγύριος 17
- Aigisthos 39
- Aigos Potamos, meteor of 762 trophy for battle of 761 f. 771₀
- Aigyptos, twin brother of Danaos 341
- Aigyptos
Myth: sons of Aigyptos pursue daughters of Danaos 438
Genealogy: s. of Belos 439
- Ain el hammam 381 f.
- Ain el-Hayât 206 f.
- Ain Mûsa 382
- Ainos, Mt
Cult: Zeus 165
- Aiolos
Genealogy: f. of Athamas 415
- Aion 191
- Aischylos 33
- Aison, vase-painter 474₃ 475₁
- Aither
Myth: makes the eye 198
Genealogy: b. of Hemera 27₃ f. of Pan by Oineis 27₃ f. of Pan by Oinoë 27₃ f. of Zeus 27₃
Identified with Zeus 32
Associated with Gaia 26₇ Hemera 27₃
- Aithiopes 186 275
- Aithiopes Endioi
Cult: Ammon 350₇
- Aithiopia 66 195 348₁ 350₇
- Aithiops, horse of Helios 195 290
- Aithiops, s. of Hephaistos 195
- Aitho, horse of Helios 337₃
- Aithon, f. of Ixion 199 s. of Helios 328₅
- Aithon, name of Odysseus 328
- Aithon, eagle of Prometheus 328₁
- Aithops, horse of Helios 290 337₃
- Aitne, nymph 106₂ 106₃ 106₄
Genealogy: w. of Zeus. 106₂ 106₃ 106₄
Associated with Zeus 156 779
- Aitne, Mt 156
Cult: Zeus Αἰτναῖος 91 121
Myths: Kyklopes 312₁ Thaleia 105 f.
- Akakallis, d. of Minos 366
- Akastos 74₀
- Akmoneia
Cults: Nemeseis 278 Zeus 151 f.
- Akragas See Agrigentum
- Akraia, d. of Asterion 445
- Akrisios
Myths: Danaë 414 Kyklopes 321₁
- Akrokorinthos
Cult: Helios 640
Myth: Alkyoneus 640
- Aktaion
Myth: 680₁
Compared with Adonis, Hippolytos, Perdix 728
- Akte 51
- Albani 147
- Albunea
Cult: Tibur 407₁
Oracle: 407₁
- Aletes 525₅
- Alexander the Great
Myths: Nemeseis 278 f. guided by ravens 367₁ guided by two serpents 360₈ s. of a serpent 359₀
Personates Zeus 57 279
— known as Iskender in Oasis of Siwah 386 portrait of, by Pyrgoteles 357 visits Oasis 353 387
- Alexandria
Cults: Apollon and the Muses 132 gods of the week (Kronos, Helios, Selene, Ares, Hermes, Zeus, Aphrodite) 753 Isis 753 Nemesis 269₃ Sarapis 360 f. 753 (Zeus) Ἄμμων 74₃ Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₁ Zeus Sarapis 188₁
— coins of 753
- Alexandros
Myth: Antheus 74₀
See also Paris
- Alexarchos 51
- Alkibiades on knees of Nemea 456₀
- Alkidameia
Associated with Hermes 246
- Alkinoe 112₁
- Alkmene
Genealogy: m. of Herakles by Zeus 624
Associated with Zeus 624
- Alkyoneus
Myths: drives cattle of Helios from Akrokorinthos 640 from Erytheia 410 Compared with Autolykos 640
- Aloadai
Myth: bind Ares 690₅
- Alobe (?) See Alybe
- Aloews
Genealogy: f. of Epopeus 246 737 s. of Helios 245 737 by Antiope 738
- Alope (?) See Alybe
- Althaimenes
Myth: Rhodes 117 123 643₅
- Altis 39
- Alá 645
- Alybe 631
- Alybes (?) See Alybe
- Amaltheia
Myths: cradle of Zeus 530₀ cp. 534 Kouretes 530₀ nurse of Zeus 112₃ 501 f. 717₃
- Amaltheia, horn of 108 502 710
Type: goat suckling Zeus 529₁
- Amara 18₅ 581
- Amarion 16 f.
- Amaros (?) 18₅
- Amaseia
Cult: Zeus Σερπίριος 91 602₂
- Amastris
Cults: Apis 637 Hera 753 Zeus 753
— coin of 753
- Amazons: Lykastia (?) 99₉
Myth: helps Dionysos 376₁
- Ambrose 167

- Ambrosie 111₀
Amen
Cults: Oasis of Siwah 389 Thebes in Egypt 315 347 350 360
Function: king of the gods 349
Attributes: horns of Khnemu 347 ram's horns 361
Types: green 349₂ horned 386₁ ram 347 ram-headed 347 362 ram-horned 347
Identified with Râ 315 Zeus 361
Amen-hetep iv See Amenophis iv
Amen-Râ
Cults: Oasis of El-Charge 348 Oasis of Siwah 386 f. Thebes in Egypt 358 387
Oracle: 387₁
Genealogy: h. of Mut 387
Functions: king of the gods 347 light 315 ram-god 348 ff. sun 348 ff. 349₂
Attributes: double plumes 386 sceptre 387 solar disk 386 f. symbol of life 387 uraeus 387
Types: blue 349₂ enthroned 386 human-headed 387
Identified with Shu 348 Zeus 348 ff. 363 368₃ 387 429₂ 778 — eye of 315 emerald obelisks of 356 f. hymn to 315
Amenophis iv 315 f.
Ameria
Cult: Men Φαρνάκου 642
Amisos
Cult: deity wearing wolf-skin 99₀
Ammon, king of Egypt 348₁
Ammon
Cults: Aithiopes Endioi 350₇ Gythion 360₁ Kyrenaïke 350₀ Kyrene 358 f. 360 Libye 350₇ shores of Syrtis 365 Thebes in Boiotia 362₄
Epithets: Αἰθυκός 362₁ Αἰθυσ 362₁
Myth: marries Krete 376₁
Metamorphosed into serpent 358 f. snake 392
Genealogy: f. of Dionysos 373 s. of Zeus by Pasiphaë 522 544₂
Function: setting sun 358
Attribute: snakes 392
Types: bearded 371 ff. 402₀ beardless 371 ff. 402₀ four rams' heads 386₁ pantheistic 361 seated 386
Identified with Belos, Apis, Kronos, Zeus 756₀
Associated with Asklepios 360₁ Herakles 348₁ — grove of 364 ff. masks of 370 seed of 623
Ammonion See Oasis of Siwah
Ammonia (?) 359₁
Amorgos
Cult: Zeus Helios (?) 194 f.
Amorion
Cult: Demeter 229₈
Amorites 549 582
- Amphiaraios
Cults: Oropos 407₄ Rhamnous 275₇, 275₈
Oracle: 407₄
Amphidamas 469
Amphion
Myth: Dirke 736 740
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Antiope 734 ff.
Function: morning-star (?) 739
 — tomb of 736
Amphione
Cult: Dreros 729₂
Amphipolis
Cults: Artemis Ταυροπόλιος 538₅ Attis 104 f.
Amphithemis See Garamas
Amphitres 108₁
Amphitrite
Associated with Poseidon 721
Amphitryon
Myth: Pterelaos 344
Amurru, the god
Genealogy: h. of Ashirta 582₁
Functions: storm- and thunder-god 582₁
Amurru 549 576₄
Amyklai
Cult: Apollon 713₀
Amyklas 522
Amykos 169
Aminos 227₃
Ana (?) 599
Anakes 107₇
Anakoi 107₇
Anaktes 107₇ ep. 107₆
Anapos 567₂
Anatolian cult of mother and son 645 645₂ 648
Anax, s. of Ge 544₀
Anaxagoras 33 51
Anaxenor 57 58₆
Anaximander 783
Anaximenes 29₃
Anazarbos
Cults: Ares 597₄ θεοὶ Ἀγρείς 597₄ θεὸς Καραϊβάτης 597₄ Hera Γαμηλίνα 597₄ Tyche 598₀ Zeus 597₄ Zeus Ὀλύβριος or Ὀλύβρις 597₄
Anchesmos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἀρχέσμος 121
Anchiroe 112₂
Anchises
Associated with (Aphrodite) 646₀
Andautonia
Cult: Nemesis Regina 276₄
Androgeneia 493₁
Androgeos 319 as dance-theme 481
Andromache, statue of 592₀
Andromeda 755₈
Andron 379₈
Angel of Jehovah
Identified with Apollon 233₇
Ankyra in Galatia
Cults: Attis 742₁ Demeter 229₈ Zeus 124 Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₂

- Anne, St
Function: St Elmo's fire 775
- Antenor 74₀
- Anthana 74₀
- Anthas 73 ff.
- Anthas (?)
Associated with Zeus 74 f.
- Anthas, eponym of Anthedon in Boiotia 75₁
- Anthas or Anthes, s. of Poseidon founds Halikarnassos 74
- Antheadai 74
- Anthedon, eponym of Anthedon in Boiotia 74₀ 75₁
- Antheia 227
Cult: Demeter Ποθηριόφορος 228₁
- Antheias 74₀
Myth: 227
Genealogy: s. of Eumelos 227
Compared with Phaethon 227 f.
- Anthes 73 f.
- Anthes, eponym of Anthana 74₀
- Anthes, eponym of Anthedon in Boiotia 75₁
- Anthesphoroi 440₆
- Anthesteria 671₀ 683 ff. 693₄
Etymology: 687
- Antheus 73
- Antheus, s. of Antenor 74₀
- Antheus, prince of Halikarnassos 74₀
- Anthios, eponym of Anthedon in Boiotia 75₁
- Anthos 71 73 ff.
Genealogy: s. of Autoonos by Hippodameia 73, 75 eponym of Anthedon 74₀
- Anthrakia 112, 112₂
- Antichrist 185
- Antikleia
Genealogy: d. of Autolykos 639 f. and of Mestra 328₃ w. of Laertes 640₀ m. of Odysseus by Sisyphos 639 f.
- Antilibanos, Mt 550
- Antiphantes (sic), s. of Sikanos 321₁
- Antiocheia on the Orontes 236 f.
Rite: θυροκοπία 237₁
- Antiocheia in Pisidia
Cult: Men 642₁
- Antiochos i of Kommagene
Epithets: Θεός Δίκαιος 742₃ 748₁ 'Επιφανής 742₃ 748₃ Φιλέλλην 742₃ 748₄ Φιλορωμαίος 742₃ 748₄
Festivals: Birthday 746₃ Coronation-day 746₃
Personates Mithras (?) 742₃ Tyche 744 746₀ Zeus Ὀρομάδος 742₃ 748 ff.
Attributes: tiara 749 f. oak-leaves and acorns 749 f. stars 750 thunderbolts 750 — funeral monument of 742 ff. horoscope of 748 750
- Antiochus iv Epiphanes 233
- Antiope
Epithet: εὐώπις 738₁₁
Myths: Boiotia 735 ff. Eleutherai 737
- Antiope (cont.)
 Epaphos 737₃ Epopeus 737 f. original form (?) 738₁₂ Zeus 734 ff.
Genealogy: m. of Aloeus and Aietes by Helios 738 d. of Asopos 734 737 Lykos (?) 735₃ Lykourgos 735₃ Nykteus 735₂ 737 w. of Phokos 736 m. of Zethos and Amphion by Zeus 734 ff.
Function: lunar 738 f.
Etymology: 738
Type: Maenad 735
Associated with Helios 245 Zeus 535₁ 734 ff. 739 777
Compared with Europe 736 f.
 — tomb of 736 738
- Antiphanes 762 764₅
- Antium
Cult: Fortunae 552
- Antops (?) 405₅
- Anu 599
- Aones 539
- Aonia 539
- Apaisanton, Mt
Cult: Selene (?) 457₃
- Apaisantos 457₃
- Apameia in Phrygia
Cult: Zeus 151 f.
 — coins of 483
- Apameia in Syria
Cult: Zeus Βῆλος 756₆
- Apelles 279
- Apemolyne
Myth: 643₃
Associated with Hermes 643₃
- Aphaia
Cult: Aigina 526₁ 623₆
Myth: 623₆
- Aphareus
Myth: rape of Leukippides 738₁₂
- Aphrodisias in Kilikia (?), coins of 297₂ 602
- Aphrodite
Cults: Aigion 17 Corinth 292 Delos 481 550 Dreros 729₃ Gaza 149₁ Heliopolis in Syria 554 Knidos 710₃ Kypros 356 741 768₀ Leukas 345 Ouranopolis 51 291 Paphos 768₀ Peiraieus 442 Thalamai 522₄
Epithets: Ἀγνή 550 Κυθήρη See Kythera Κυπρογένεια 253 Οὐρανία 51 291 583 Πασιδάη 522₄ Παφία 768₀ Πελαγία 175 176₀ πορφυρέη 176₀
Personated by Iobakchoi 679₁₇
Myths: ἰγνυ 253 phalloi of ass 623 changes Kerastai into bullocks 75 personates Kirke 238 Leucadian leap 345₄ Proitides 451 453₁
Metamorphosed into eagle 279₄
Genealogy: m. of Harmonia by Ares 540
Functions: Friday 753 friendship 31 lunar 522₄ planet Venus 756
Attributes: blue nimbus 40₄ dove 39₁

Aphrodite (cont.)

- 741 ἴνυξ 253 258 440, kestós 583
partridge 727 ram 429, sceptre
575 sceptre surmounted by circle
291 star 575 741
Types: bust 575 chariot drawn by two Erotes 231₃, ὀμφαλός 356
Praxiteles 710₃, seated on globe 51
291 Identified with Atargatis 550 582
Hathor 437
Associated with Adonis 345₄, 645 646₀
Anchises 646₀, Ares 540 Eros 38 f.
408 459₅, Helios 292 550₆, Phaon
345 Zeus 'Αμάριος and Athena
'Αμαρία 16 f.
Compared with Nemesis 284
In relation to Atargatis 583
Survival of as Κυρά Φροδίτη 174₀
Superseded by St Pelagia 175
— temple of, at Paphos 768₀

Aphrodite, the planet

- Attributes*: bronze 626₀, dove 625₅ 626 626₀, pimpernel 626 cp. 625₅ tin 625 f. 626₀

Aphroditopolis

Cult: cow 437

Aphroditos

- Epithet*: Τύχων 175 f. 176
Identified with Tychon 176,
Superseded by St Tychon 175 f.

Aphytis

Cults: Dionysos (?) 373 f. Zeus "Αμμων
352 371

Apis 431 ff. 784

- Cults*: Amastris 637 Germanikopolis
637 Hadrianothera 637 Memphis
188₁, 433 Mytilene 637 Neiloupolis 433 Nikaia in Bithynia 637 Nikomedeia 637
Festivals: Birthday 434 the 'Running round of Apis' 434
Oracles: 434
Myths: Argos 458₃, avenged by Argos
458

Genealogy: f. of Argos 458₃
Functions: lunar 431 ff. 538 solar 432
436 635

Identified with Belos, Ammon, Kronos,
Zeus 756₆, Horos 435₄, Osiris 435
Attribute: solar disk 435 f.

Type: as bull ridden by Nike 538
In relation to Ba-en-ptah 633₃, Epaphos
438 633 Osiris 633 Ptah 435₆, 633 — influence of 635 ff. marks of 432 f. 468 540₂, cp. 537₁₁

Apis of Osiris

Identified with Sarapis 188

Apollo

- Attribute*: hatchet 538₄
Type: Sol with star above him 538₄ Identified with Vediovis 711₇, 712 — statue of 609

Apollon

Cults: Alexandria 132 Amyklai 713₀

Apollon (cont.)

- Argos 139 373₁, 448 461 Athens
545 Boiotia 291 681₄ (?) Chios 7₆
Delos 481 (?) 513 784 Delphi 259₃
296₃, 450 f. 563₃, Didyma 483₁₁
Dreros 729₂, Gaza 149₁, Gythion
351 Hermonthis 436 Hierapolis in Syria (?) 585 f. Klaros 278 Kolo-phon 234 Kyrene 373 Lakonike 681₄, Lebadeia 524 Leukas 344 ff.
Magnesia on the Maiandros 483
Nemroud Dagh 744 ff. 748 750
Phaleron 112₃, Rhodes 132 Tarsos
586₂, Thera 142 f. 143

- Epithets*: ἀγγελος πρωτεύων 233₇, 'Αγή-τωρ 373₁, ἀγρός 372₈, 'Αγρείος 372₈,
'Αγρεύς 53₂, Δελφίνιος 729₂, 'Επιόνιος
737₉, Θοραίος 681₄, Θοράτης 681₄,
Κάρειος 351 351₇, 372 f. 409₃,
Κλάριος 234 Λευκάτας 345 Λευκάτης
345₈, Λύκειος 64₃, Λύκιος 64₃, 139
302 448 Μαλεάτας 143₁, Νόμιος 372₃,
Ολκείας (?) 351₇, πλουτοδοτήρ 503₄,
Πότιος (= Πύθιος) 729₂, 730₈, Πύθιος
112₃, 415 461 Πύτιος (= Πύθιος) 730₈,
Σμίνθιος 442₀, Φαναίος 7₆, Φοίβος 450
Festivals: Daphnephoria 291 Karneia
352₀, Pyanepsia 339 Thargelia 339
Oracles: 196 f. 234 234₃, 278 345₄, 376
468 f. 470 539 f. 584 f. (?)

Rites: Κορό 291 Leucadian leap 345 f.

Priest: ἀρχιβουκόλος 442₀

Priestess: human μέλισσα 443 f.

Myths: birth 649₃, Daidalon 241 342
Daphne 522 Hydra 755 κερατών at Delos 482₁, Sagitta 755 transforms Anthon into bird 73₄, Tro-phonios and Agamedes 450 f.

Metamorphosed into hawk 241 star (?)
760

Genealogy: f. of Garamas by Akakallis
366 of Korybantes by Rhytia 106₈
by Thaleia 106

Functions: angel of Zeus 'Ιάω 233₇, begetter 681₄, divination 552 god of the chase 372₈, Mercury the planet 746₁, 750 756 pastoral god
372₃, ram-god 351 373 solar (?) 7₆, 345₈, 483 585 746₁, not originally solar 258 absorbs solar magic 258 ff.

Attributes: aigis 585 barsom 746 bow
345₈, blue nimbus 40₄, breast-plate (?)
585 cock 713₀, deer 542₅, eagles (?)
585 flower (?) 585 goat 712₇, hawk
241 626₀, kálatbos (?) 585 omphalos
586₂, quiver 345₈, ram 351₇, stag 36₄, spear (?) 585 swastika 483 torch 345₈, two bulls 586₂, Victory (?) 585 wheel 262

Types: clothed and bearded (?) 585 holding two wolves 586₂, hawk on head or hand 241 Kanachos 36₄, 542₅, with quiver, bow, and torch 345₈, standing with goat at his side 713₀

Apollon (cont.)

Identified with angel of Jehovah 233, Helios 241 Horos 241₇ Lycian god of light (?) 302 Mithras Helios
Hermes 744 ff. 748 Zeus (?) 373 409₃

Assimilated to Ares 585

Associated with Akakallis 366 Artemis
173₀ Kyrene (?) 95₃ 95₄ Leukates
343₄ Paian 233 Poseidon 74₄ Zeus
73₄ Zeus Ἄμμων 373 Zeus Ἄμμων, Asklepios, Demeter, Poseidon
Γαῖαχρος 351

In relation to Zeus 373 373₁ 409₃

— altar of 262₁ favourite of 351₇ messenger of (hawk) 241 statue of, at Delphoi 762 temple of 259₃ 296₃ throne of, at Argos 139

Apollonia in Illyria

Cult: Helios 410 ff.

— sheep of Helios at 410 ff.

Apollonios of Tyana 258

Apollonis in Lydia

Cult: Demeter 229₃

Apsyrtos 225₄

Myth: Medeia 680

Apulum

Cults: Bonus Eventus 630₀ Iupiter
Dolichenus 630₀ Sarapis Iupiter Sol
190₀

Aquarius 755₁₀Aquila 755₀ 755₁₀

Aquilaia in Upper Germania

Cult: Iupiter Dolichenus 619 626

Aquilaia in Venetia

Cult: Zeus Θαλής 730₃

Aquineum

Cults: Iupiter Dulcenus Heliopolitanus
551₅ 633₂ Nemesis 275 f.

Ara 755₁₀

Arabia

Cults: Azizos 706₂ Ramman (?) 576₄
Kronos 756₆

Arachnaion, Mt

Cult: Zeus and Hera 117 Zeus superseded by St Elias 177 f.

Aratos the Achaean general 16

Aratos of Soloi 29 f.

Arcadians as acorn-eaters 77

Archegetes

Cult: Tronis 736₃

Archelaos of Priene 129 ff.

Archinos 446₈Archonides 379₃Archophylax 755₉

Ares

Cults: Anarbos 597₁ Biaunos 623₆
Dreros 729₂ Karmanioi 746₂ Kolchoi
415 Nemroud Dagh 744 746 748
Thebes in Boiotia 540

Epithets: Πολιοῦχος 597₁ φολίμος 751₂

Festival: Hekatomphonia 623₆

Rite: sacrifice of ass 746₂

Myths: bound by Aloadaï 690₅ golden ram 417₁₄ Kadmos 540 Otos and Ephialtes 623₆

Ares (cont.)

Genealogy: f. of Harmonia by Aphrodite 540 f. of snake 540

Functions: enmity 31 Mars the planet
746₂ 756 Tuesday 753

Attributes: club 746 helmet 571 575 lance 575 oak-tree 416 417₁₄

Type: helmeted bust 572(?) 575

Identified with Artagnes Herakles 744
746 748

Associated with Aphrodite 540 Zeus and Hera Γαμηλα 597₄

In relation to Apollon (?) 585 — grove of 416 417₁₄ spring of, at Thebes in Boiotia 540 temple of 417₁₄

Ares, the planet

Attributes: iron 625₅ 626 626₀ jackdaw 626₀ mixed metal 626₀ violet 625 f. wolf 625₂ 626

Argaios, Mt 102₅ 520₂ 603₂

Cult: Kaisareia in Kappadokia 102₅

Argos 303₂ 312 314 317 f. 318₄ 462

Argilopos 318

Argiope, m. of Europe

Function: lunar (?) 537

Etymology: 537

Argo 755₈

Argonauts

Myths: Amyklos 169 Argos 459 Cir-caean Plain 533 Kyzikos 310₀ Talos
719 721

Argos

Cults: Apollon Ἀγήτωρ 373₁ Apollon
Καρρείος as Zeus (?) 373 409₃
Apollon Λόκιος 448 Apollon Πύθιος
461 Dionysos Κρήσιος 651₂ Hera
134 f. 440₇ 445 ff. 467 532 624₄
Hera Ἀκραία, Ἀκρία (?) 445₁₀ Hera
'Αργελα 456₄ Hera βασίλεια 453₃
Hera Εὐβοία 463 Hera Ζευξίδια
458₃ three-eyed Zeus 320 462 Zeus 134 f. Zeus Ἀφείσιος 117 Zeus Λαρισαίος 122 f. Zeus Νέμειος 448 456
Zeus Πανόπτης 461

Festivals: Hekatombaia 446 f. 447₁
451 Heraia 22₄ 446 the Shield
from Argos 446

Myths: Apis 458₃ Cretan bull 467
Danaë 414 Io 739 Kleobis and Biton 447 ff. Kyklopes 321₁

— coins of 304 624₄

Argos, persons named 32

Identified with Zeus 32

Argos, eponym of town Argos 32

Argos, watcher of Io 32

Epithet: Πανόπτης 320 439 459 461 f.

Myths: avenges Apis 458 slays Arcadian bull 458 Arcadian Satyr 458 Echidna 458 Euboia 462 herds cattle of Hera at Nemea 446 slain by Hermes 439 ff. 462 introduces wheat from Libye and
Sicily 458₃

Metamorphosed into peacock 440₇

- Argos, watcher of Io (cont.)
Genealogy: s. of Arestor 459 s. of Apis 458_s s. of Ge 439
Functions: agriculture 458_s divinised after death 459₄ fertility 458 at once human and divine 457 ff. prototype of priestly βουκόλος 457 f. solar (?) 461
Etymology: 32 311₆ 458
Attributes: bull's hide 458 f. 459₆ other hides 459₅
Types: three-eyed 320 462 four-eyed 311₆ 462 many-eyed 494 seated on mountain 459₅
Associated with Io 459₅
Compared with Phanes 311₆ Zeus 32 458
In relation to Io 459 Zeus 457 ff.
 — grave of 458 sacred wood of 458
 Argos, the Kyklops 462 See also Arges
 Argos, s. of Phrixos 416
 Argoura 462
 Ariadne
Myths: Daidalos 481 Dionysos 480 Minotaur 24₀ receives crown from Dionysos 492 Theseus 480 f.
Attribute: crown 492 f.
Associated with Dionysos 375₂ (?) 566 — as dance-theme 481 495 crown of 492 f. terra-cotta coffin of 651₂
- Aricia
Cult: Diana 282₁ 282₃
 Aries 370 373₀ 409 419 429₃
 Arinna
Cults: sun-god 635₁₃ thunder-god 635₁₃
 Arion 170
 Aristaios (?) 95₄
Cult: Arkadia 372
Myths: Keos 372₇ 740 Kyrene 372
Function: shepherd-god (?) 372 372₁₀
Attributes: fish 373₀ pedum 373₀ ram 373₀ sheep 373₀
In relation to Zeus 372
 Aristonous 622
 Arkadia
Cults: Aristaios as Zeus 372 Hermes 84₁ Pan 87 Zeus Αιδέριος (?) 26 Zeus Ἐκατόμβαιος 545 Zeus Κυναιθεύς 299 Zeus Λύκαιος 63 ff. Zeus Πάσιος 520₂ Zeus Πατρώος 520₂ Zeus Στορπᾶος 520₂
Rites: human sacrifice 70 ff. rain-making 14₁
Myths: bull slain by Argos 458 Satyr slain by Argos 458 — were-wolves in 80 f.
 Arkadia in Crete
Cult: Zeus Ἀμμων 402₀
- Arkas
Myths: Chrysopeleia 77₃ Lykaon 79
Genealogy: twin of Pan (?) 702₀ s. of Zeus (?) 702₀
 Arkesine in Amorgos
Cults: Demeter 669₂ Kore 669₂ Zeus Εἰβουλεύς 669₂ Zeus Helios (?) 194 f.
- Arkton, Mt 112 310₀
 Arktos 28
 Armenia
Cult: Nabat 136
 Arne
Genealogy: m. of Boiotos by Poseidon 539
Associated with Poseidon 539
 Aroe 227
 Arpi 300₄
 Arsaphes See Her-shef
 Arsinoe 111₆
 Artagnes
Cult: Nemroud Dagh 744 746 748
Function: 'Victory' 746₂
Etymology: 746₂
Attribute: club 746
Types: as Ares (?) 746₂ as Herakles (?) 746₂
Identified with Herakles Ares 744 746 748
 Artemidoros, precinct of, at Thera 117₁
 Artemidos, St 172
 Artemis
Cults: Amphipolis 538₅ Athens 421 f. 422 Aulis 417 Aureliopolis 245 Crete 542₄ Delos 542₄ Dieros 729₂ Ephesos 141 172₆ 443 Ikaros 282₂ island in Adriatic 245₃ Karthaia 173₀ Keos (?) 172 172₆ Phaleron 112₃ Sikyon 520₂ Tauroi 417 Thasos 442 Thera 143
Epithets: Ἀγροτέρα 535 Βραυρωνία 421 f. 442 Βαρθμαρτις 542₄ Δικτυννα 570₄ (See also Diktyinna) Εφεσία 272₁₀ (?) 443 cp. 574₁ (?) καλή 512₂ Κουροτρόφος 172₆ Λοχία 112₃ Μουνιχία 421 Παιδοτρόφος 172₆ παῖς 542₂ Πατρώα 520₂ Πρωτοθρονίη 141 Πωλώ 442 τὰς κυνίσκας ἔχουσα 542₂ Ταυροπόλος 417₇ 538 Ταυρῶ 417₇ ὄδιων μείλιχος 25₁ φιλομέραξ 172₆ φωσφόρος 543₃ Χιτώνη 422
Festivals: Artemisia 542₄ Brauronia 422
Rites: dedication of hair 24₀ ἀμφιφώντες 421 human ἀρκοί 421 f. 442 453₅ 784 human sacrifice 417 sacrifice of lamb 405 of ram 408 of she-goat dressed as maiden 711₀
Priests: 210 ἐσθήνες 443 hereditary 711₀ ἰστιάτορες 443
Priestesses: 244 μελισσονόμοι 443
Myths: birth 649₃ Equos 755 golden lamb 405₂ Orion 755₃ shoots goats on Mt Kynthos 482₁ 513 Ursa Minor 755
Metamorphosed into bear 422
Genealogy: d. of Leto 495₃ d. of Zeus by Leto 727₆
Functions: huntress 542₁ lunar 245 455 524 543
Attributes: bear 417 bow 408 bull 417 crescent 245 partridge (?) 727₆ phidle 408 puppies 542₂ quiver 576

- Artemis (cont.)
 snake-drawn chariot 244 245 stag 417
Types: archaic 409 bust 576 log 282₂ pillar 520₂ riding bull 538 Identified with Britomartis 542 Diktynna 542₂ Hekate 245 Nemesis 275 f. Onpis 275
Associated with Apollon 173₀
Compared with Nemesis 284
In relation to Atagartis 583 Britomartis 527₁ Diktynna 524
Superseded by the Virgin 172 — hollow image of 244 statue of, at Delphoi 762
- Artemisia 542₁
Arthur 243
Asbystai
Cults: Zeus 363
Ascanius 483
Ashirta
Genealogy: w. of Amurru 582₁
Compared with Astarte 582₁
Ashur, city 207
Cult: Adad 581
Ashur, god 207
Function: sun (?) 207₆
Identified with Zeus 197₄ 207
- Asia, North-east 330
Asini 755₁
Askalon
Cult: Derketo 583₄
Askaros 622
Asklepios
Cults: Delos 550 Gythion 351 360 Kyrene 351 f. 360₁ Olous 729₄
Myth: Hippolytos 680
Attribute: serpent-staff 361
Associated with Adad and Atargatis 550 Ammon 360₁ Zeus 351 f. Zeus "Αμυων, Apollon Κάπρειος, Demeter, Poseidon Γαιάχυος 351
Identified with Zeus 361
In relation to Zeus 646₁
 — spring of 351
 See also Aesculapius
- Asoka 266
Asopos
Genealogy: f. of Antiope 734 737 s. of Zeus by Eurynome 155
Aspendos 304
Assara Mazas 741₁ See also Auramazda
Assesos 108₁
Assyria
Cults: Šalmánu 519 Zeus 207 756₆
Astarte
Cults: Sidon 538 Syria 237₁ Tyre 356₄ (?) 782
Epithet: μεγίστη 237₁
Rite: annual search for Astarte 237₁
Functions: fertility 237₁ mother-goddess 354
Attributes: bull's head 237, bovine horns 237₁ lunar disk 237₁
Types: horned 445 cp. Isis 237₁
- Astarte (cont.)
Identified with Europe 538 Io 454₂ Selenaiia 538
Associated with Zeus "Αστέριος (?) 546₁
Compared with Ashirta 582₁
Aster (?), Cretan king 547₂
Asteria, name of Crete 543₆
Asteria, name of Delos 543₆ 544₀
Asteria, island near Ithake 544₀
Asteria, name of Rhodes 544₀
Asteria, Titaness 544₀
Myths: Poseidon 544₀ Zeus 544₀
Metamorphosed into quail 544₀ star 544₀
Genealogy: m. of Hekate and the Phoenician Herakles by Zeus 544₀
Associated with Poseidon 544₀ Zeus 544₀
Asterie, Titaness 544₀
Asterioi 544₀
Asterion 740₆
Asterion, Cretan king 546 f. 737
Myth: rears Minos, Sarpedon, Rhadamanthys 464
Asterion, river near Argos 445 624₄
Asterion, the Minotaur 493 ff.
Asterion, s. of Iupiter by Idea (=Idaia) 493₂ 544₂
Asterios 740₆
Asterios, s. of Anax 544₀
Asterios, Cretan king 546 f.
Asterios, s. of Minos by Androgeneia 493₁
Asterios, the Minotaur 465 493 ff.
Asteris 544₀
Asterope 238
Asteros, Cretan king 546 f.
Astrape, horse of Helios 337₃
Astypalaia 686
Ásvins
Compared with Dioskouroi 771
Atabyrion, Mt., in Galilee See Tabor, Mt
Atabyrion, Mt., in Rhodes
Cult: Zeus "Αταβύριος 117 123 132
 See also Atabyron, Mt., in Rhodes
Atabyris See Atabyron, Mt., in Rhodes
Atabyron, Mt., in Rhodes
Cult: Zeus "Αταβύριος 643
Etymology: 643
 — bronze cattle on 643
 See also Atabyrion, Mt., in Rhodes
Atargatis
Cults: Delos 549 578₂ Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff. Ianiculum (?) 551₁₁ 785 Rome (?) 551₁₁
Epithets: "Αγνή 550₆ Παρλα 549₇
Festivals: Descents to the Lake 592₀ Pyre or Toreh 592₀
Rites: climbing of φαλλός 591₃ seawater brought to temple 592₀
Priests: 592₀
Functions: earth 553 nature 591 ff. Virgo 755₁₀ Assimilated to Aphrodite 583 Artemis

Atargatis (cont.)

583 Athena 583 Hera 583 the Moirai 583 Nemesis 583 (Aphrodite) Ὀπάρα 583 Rhea 583 Selene 583 Tyche (?) 551₁₁

Associated with Adad 549 591 Adad and Asklepios 550 Adad and Saimios 553 f. Helios 578₂ Zeus Ἄδαδος 578; Kybele 591₂

Identified with Aphrodite 582 Aphrodite Ἀφροδίτη 550 the Assyrian Hera 582 Hera 591 Rhea 582 591₂

Attributes: corn-ears 581₂ cornu copiae (?) 551₁₁ jewels 583 kestós 583 lions (?) 551₁₁ 553 583 f. 581₂ 586 f. mural crown (?) 551₁₁ rays 583 rudder (?) 551₁₁ sceptre 583 581₂ 586 spindle 583 turreted headdress 583 581₂ 586 (?) tympanum 581₂

Types: carried by lions 582 ff. rays turned upwards 553 seated on lion, holding sceptre and tympanum 581₂ seated on throne between two lions, holding tympanum 581₂ seated on throne between two lions, holding tympanum and corn-ears 584₃ snake-entwined mummy (?) 785 standing between lions with attributes of Tyche (?) 551₁₁ — temple of, at Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff.

Ate, hill of 468

Athen

Cult: Heliopolis in Egypt 315

Function: sun 315 f.

Attribute: emblems of life and sovereignty 316

Type: rays with hands 315 f.

Athamantia 116

Athamantine Plain 116

Athanias

Myths: Dionysos 671 flogs she-goat as Ino 671₆ golden ram 121 414 ff. 720₁ Ino 671 671₆ Learechos 416 671 madness 416 674

Genealogy: s. of Aiolos 415 f. of Learechos and Melikertes by Ino 415 f. f. of Phrixos and Helle by Nephele 415

Ateneia

Cults: Acharnai 231, Arkadia 155 Athens 231, 727 Corinth 525 Dreros 729₂ Erythrai 350, Ilion 533 783 Lakonike 231, Lampsakos 231, Marathon 526₆, Messenia 155₁₀, Pergamon 118 Tegea 112, Thebes in Boiotia 540 Thera 113

Epithets: Ἄνα 112₁ Ἀμαρία 16 γλαυκῶπις 141; ὀράκαιρα 231, Ἐλλωρίς 525 526₆, Ἐργάνη 231, Κορία 155 Κορινθαία 155₁₀, Κυρθία 123 Νικηφόρος 118 Ὀγγα 540 Παλλὰς 760 Παρμία 231, Πόκαις 118 Πόλεισθχος 729₂ Τυγία 231, Τυγία 727 Φημια 350.

Athena (cont.)

Festivals: Helotia 525 Panathenaia 339 733

Rites: aigis 14₁ bull hung on olive-tree 533 Locrian maidens 783 sacrifice of cow 540

Myths: Andromeda 755 appears to Perikles in dream 727 Argo 755 birth from head of Zeus 585 Cepheus 755, greets Theseus beside Labyrinth 475₁ helps Dionysos 376₁ invents four-horse chariots 155 judgment of Paris 231 Perseus 755 Prometheus 324 Serpens 755₆ strife with Poseidon 147 transforms Talos into partridge 342 726

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Koryphe 155 m. of Korymbantes by Helios 106.

Function: solar (?) 585

Attributes: aigis 576 helmet 576 lance 576 olive 533 owl 144; snake 102₁ wheel 231, wolf-skin or dog-skin cap 100₆

Types: Albani 100₆ bust 576 with lance and owl 231, owl-eyed, owl-faced 144; in snake-drawn chariot 231

Associated with Hephaistos 324 Zeus 350, Zeus Ἀδάπιος and Aphrodite 16 f.

Compared with meteorite 760

In relation to Atargatis 583

— helmet o. 231, horned altar of 511₁ temple of 296; 783

Athenes

Cults: Apollon Ἐκατόμβαιος 545 Artemis Βραυρωνία 421 f. 442 Artemis Μοιρινχία 421 Athena 231, Athena Τυγία 231, 727 Demeter 229₆ Dionysos 680 ff. 705₆, Dionysos Ἀθάπιος 667 Dionysos Ἐλευθερεὺς 682₂ 684 Eileithyia 175₁ Eirene 670 709₁ Erechtheus 717₂ Hestia 709₁ Iakehos 669 f. 695 Iobakehos 457 f. Iupiter Heliopolitanus 551₄ 554₁ Lykos 99, Mercurius 551₄ 554₁ Meter 676 f. Muses 104₂ Semele 669 f. 695 Tritopatreis 171 Venus Heliopolitana 551₄ 554₁ Zeus Ἀγχιόσιμος 121 Zeus Ἄμμων 359₁ (?) 362 Zeus Ἐπιωπετής 737₁₀ Zeus Γεωργός 176₂ Zeus Κτήσιος 422 f. 128 Zeus Μεαδίχιος 422 f. 428 Zeus Ὑπατος 77 Zeus Ὑψιστος 147

Festivals: Ammonia 359, Anthesteria 671₆ 683 ff. Apatouria 24₆, Bouphonia See Rites: Βουφῶνια City Dionysia 666 684 ff. 692; 733 Diasia 423₂ 733₂ Galaxia 676 Iobakehia 686 Lenaia 666 ff. 681 ff. 733 Panathenaia 733 Panāia 423₆ 682₁ 732 f. Rural Dionysia 666 Theognia 686 Thesmophoria 685₆

Rites: Βασίλειος presides at drinking-competition 684 Βασίλιννα married

Athens (cont.)

to Dionysos 672, 686 709 f. Βασίλωνα administers oath to Γεραίαι 684 ff. Βουφόνια 469, 717₂ bull-fights 497 bull paraded by épheboi and sacrificed to Dionysos 716, bull taken in procession by épheboi 715₀ Dionysiac κῶμος 683₃ Dionysiac πομπή 683₃ dithyramps 692₄ 733 fertility 14₁ 687 hair-clipping 24₀ human ἄρκτοι 453, human ἵπποι of the Iobakchoi 442 κῶμος 687 Lenaean ode 695 night-procession to Eleusis on Boedromion 20th 751 oxen sacrificed to Dionysos 715₀ πανσπερμία 687 passion-play (?) 678 ff. πιθογία 684 σπαραγμός of Dionysos commemorated in Lenaean ode 688 torchlight procession escorting Dionysos from ἐσχάρα to theatre 686₆ φαλλαγία 683₀ phallic 682 f. 684 ff. 688 χόες 684 χίτροι 684 687 f.

Myths: Pandia 739 Talos 342 ff. 724 ff.

— Dionysion ἐν Αἰναίς at 672₀ 684 Dipylon gate at 671 Erechtheion at 475₁ Iakcheion at 427 Lénaion at 666 f. 671 prytaneion at 709₁ rock-cut seats at 145 'Theseum' at 122₂ coins of 305 f. 534₃ 670

Athos, Mt 82₁ 103

Cult: Zeus Ἄθως 121

Myth: Thoösa (?) 321₁

Atlas 156

Myth: supports sky 632₃

Genealogy: f. of Pasiphae 522 544₂ f. of Pluto 156 s. of Zeus 156

Atreus

Myth: golden lamb 409 409₄ 412 414 430 720₄ golden or purple lamb 405 ff.

Genealogy: h. of Aerope 405 s. of Pelops 405 407 b. of Thyestes 405 407

Attike

Myth: Marathonian bull 467

Attis

Cults: Amphipolis 104 f. Ankyra in Galatia 742₁ Bithynia 399₃ Pessinous 742₁

Epithet: Ἰδρας 399₃

Myths: finds temple of Atargatis (Ihea) 591₂ mutilates himself 591₂

Rites: criobolium 717₂ taurobolium 717₂

Genealogy: h. of Kybele 104

Function: mountain-god 399₃

Etymology: 399₃

Attributes: ram 429₄ stellate tiara 742

Identified with Phrygian Zeus 399₃ 717₂

Assimilated to Zeus Σαβάζιος 399

Associated with Kybele 591₂ Kybele 717₂ Mctcr 742₁ Rhea 394₃ cp. 646₀

Compared with Kombabos 591₂

Atunis, Atuns See Adonis

Atymnos 225₄ See also AdymnusAuainos, stone of 195₃Augustonemetum 273₀

Augustus

Types: as Iupiter 43₃ as Cretan Zeus 547 f.

Associated with Iupiter 288₃

— triumphal car of 59[~]

Aulis

Cults: Artemis 417

Aumos

Identified with Zeus Helios 193

Auramazda 10₁

Cults: Issos 208₃ Kilikia 208 Mallos 208₅ Persepolis 208 Soloi 208₅ Tarsos 208₅

Functions: moon 208₂ sun 208

Etymology: 741₄

Attributes: lotus-flower 208 wreath 208

Identified with Iupiter 754 Zeus 208 741 ff. 754

In relation to Mithras 754

Aurelian, solar monotheism of 166

Aurelii 629 f.

Aureliopolis

Cult: Artemis 245

Auriga 755₀

Aurora 404

Autolykos

Myth: steals cattle of Sisyphos 639 f.

Genealogy: f. of Antikleia 328₃ 639 f.

Compared with Alkyoneus 640

Autonoos 73₄ 75

Auxesia

Cult: Sparta 730

Function: fertility 730

Associated with Damoia and Zeus 730

Auximum

Cult: Iupiter Sol Serapis 190₀ Zeus Helios Serapis 190₀

Axieros 329₀

Etymology: 109 782

Axiokersa 329₀

Etymology: 109 782

Axiokersos 329₀

Etymology: 109 782

Axiothea, w. of Prometheus 329₀

Azizos

Cults: Arabia 706₂ Edessa 706₂ Syria 706₂

Function: morning-star (?) 706₂

Etymology: 706₂

Associated with Monimos 706₂

Baal of Baitokaike

Identified with Zeus Βαιτοκαικεύς or Βαιτοκαίκτης 565₂

Baal of Libanon

Cult: Kypros 551₁

Ba'albek See Heliopolis in Syria

Ba'al-hammán

Cults: Caesarea Iol (?) 354 Carthage 309 354 Hispania 309 Kypros 598₁ Sicca Venerca 308 Vacca 308

Functions: sky 308 sun 308

Etymology: 308 354 356

- Ba'al-hammān (cont.)
Attributes: cornu copiae 598₁ pillars 354 two rams 354 598₁
Types: enthroned 354 ὀμφαλῶς set with emeralds 355 ff. cp. 358₅ ram's horns 354 360
Identified with Herakles 356₂ Zeus 363 778
Associated with Tanit 354
In relation to Zeus 353 ff.
 — emeralds of 355 ff.
- Ba'al-Marqod
Cult: Deir el-Qala'a 571₂
Epithets: Gennaueus Dominus 571₀ 571₂ Κύριος Γενναῖος 571₀ 571₂ Μηγρῖν 554₁ 571₂ Function: lord of the dance 570₁
- Ba'al-šamin 191
Cult: Palmyra 191₄
Functions: 'Lord of Heaven' 191 sun-god 191 f. cp. 337₃
Identified with Zeus 8
 See also Beelsamen
- Ba'al-tars
Identified with Herakles 598 f. Triptolemos 227 Zeus 595 ff.
 See also Sandas
- Ba'al Zebub 533₀
- Babylon
Cults: Adrasteia 262₅ Iupiter Belus 757₁ Sarapis 188₁ Zeus Βῆλος 756₀
 — inyges at 262 ff.
- Bacchants
Associated with Dionysos 565 f.
Type: dancing 565
- Bacchic rites derived from Egypt (?) 437 f.
- Bacchis See Bacis
- Bacchus
Identified with Jehovah 234₁
- Bacis, the bull of Hermonthis 436 470 f. 784
Functions: solar 436 470 f. 635
Attributes: mountains of sunrise and sunset 437 438₂ plumes 437 solar disk 437 uraeus 437 438₂
- Ba-en-ptah 633₅
- Bahrām
Function: Mars the planet 746₂
- Bailo, coin of 638₀
- Baitokaike
Cults: Zeus Ἅγιος Οὐράνιος 565₂ Zeus Βαιτοκαϊκεύς or Βαιτοκαϊκής 565₂
- Bakchai 667₄ 670₂
Rites: omophagy of goats 665 f. of oxen 665
Personated at Athens 688 at Ephesos 657₁
 See also Maenads
- Bakchoi 667₄
- Bakchos See also Dionysos
Etymology: 438
- Bakis
Oracles: 736
- Balmarcodes See Ba'al-Marqod
- Balmarkodes See Ba'al-Marqod
- Balmarkoth See Ba'al-Marqod
- Balor 321₂
- Baluklaou
Cults: Hermes Μέγιστος 193₃ Zeus (Helios?) 193₃
- Bambyke 582 See also Hierapolis in Syria
- Ba-neb-Tettu
Cult: Mendes 346 f.
Identified with Khnemu 346 f.
- Barata 136
Cults: Tyche 136₀ Zeus 136₀
- Barbe, St
Function: St Elmo's fire 775
- Bargylia
Cult: Zeus Κυμῳριος 20₂
- Barnabas 194₀
- Basileios, St, the younger 170
- Bassarides 665₄
- Bast
Function: sun 315₁ 315₄
Identified with eye of Rā 315₁ of Tem 315₄
- Battos (?) 95₄
- Baubo
Cult: Paros 669₂
- Bedr Bāsim 240
- Beelsamen
Cult: Phoinike 191
Identified with Zeus 191
- Beirūt See Berytos
- Bel, horse of Helios 337₃
- Bellerophon
Superseded by St Niketas (?) 170
- Belos
Genealogy: f. of Danaos and Aigyptos 439 s. of Inachos 237₁ s. of Libye 439 s. of Poseidon 756₀
Function: sky 756₀
Identified with Ammon, Apis, Kronos, Zeus 756₀
- Belos, king of Babylon
Genealogy: s. of Zeus, if not Zeus himself 756₀
- Berytos
Cults: Gennaïos 571₂ (Zeus) Ἀμμων 74₈
 — coins of 571₂
- Bes
Cult: Gaza 235 f.
Type: grotesque face 235 f.
- Bethel
Cult: golden calf 581
- Biadike 415₂
- Bianna
Cult: Biannos 623
Myth: disappears into the ground 623₀
Function: earth-power 623
Attribute: lily (?) 623
- Biannos
Cults: Ares 623₀ Bianna 623 Zeus Βέννιος 623₀ Zeus Τεμίλιος 623₀ Otos and Ephialtes 623₀
 — coins of 623
- Biennos, one of the Kouretes 623₀
- Biennos, town in Crete See Biannos
- Biennos, town in Gaul 623₀

- Biris
Cult: Thera 143
- Birytos
Cult: Kabeiros 328
 — coin of 304
- Bisaltis 418₀
- Bithynia
Cults: Attis Πάπας 399₃ Zeus (?) 124
 Zeus Πάπας 399₃
- Bitias 448 See Biton
- Biton
Myths: 447 ff. 503₁
- Blaundos
Cult: Zeus Σαάξιος 400₂
- Boghaz-Keui, Hittite rock-carvings at 87
 599₆ 603 604 f. 634 636
- Boiotia, formerly called Aonia 539
Cults: Apollon 291 Apollon Θορπίος (?)
 681₄ Demeter 175₀ Dionysos 735 f.
 Kabeiros 705₀ Zeus Ἐλικώνιος 132
 Zeus Ἰπταρος 123
Festival: Daidala 526₀
Rite: goat-dances (?) 704₃
Myths: Antiope 735 ff. Lykourgos
 735₃
Etymology: 539 541
- Boiotos
Genealogy: s. of Poseidon and Arne 539
- Bokchoris 431 f. 438₇
- Bokchos, Bocchus 438₇
- Bona Spes 714
- Bonus Eventus
Cult: Apulum 630₀
Associated with Iupiter Dolichenus
 630₀
- Bootes 755₀
- Boreas
Epithet: Σωσθένης (?) 169 Myths: impregnates mares 759₀ produces males 759₆
Function: procreative 759
- Bosporos
Cult: Hera Ἀκράλα 445₁₀
Myth: Io 441
- Bouchis 635 See Bacis
- Boukoloï as dance-theme 679₁
- Bounos 246
- Bouphonia See Zeus: Rites
- Bousiris 435
- Bouzyges 469₃
- Bran 239
- Branchidai
Oracle: 369₁
- Brasias
Myth: Ino nurses Dionysos in cave
 674₀
- Brauronia 422
- Briareos
Epithet: ἐκατόγχειρος 314₂
Genealogy: s. of Gaia and Ouranos 314
- Britamartia 542₄
- Britomartis
Cults: Chersonesos (?) in Crete 542
- Britomartis (cont.)
 Crete 542₃ Delos 542₄ Dreros 729₂
 Olous 729
Festival: Britamartia 542₄
Rite: temple entered with bare feet
 542₆
Myths: disappears in grove at Aigina
 623₆ Minos 524 527₁ 623₆
Function: moon 543
Etymology: 542₃ 543₁
Attributes: bay-wreath 729 hind 542 necklace 729 quiver 729 Types: Daidalos 542₆ enthroned with hind erect on hand 542
Identified with Artemis 542 Diana
 542₃
Associated with Minos 524 527₁ 541
 543
In relation to Artemis 527₁ Dikte 541₄ Diktyinna 527₁ 542
- Bromie 111₆
- Bronte, horse of Helios 337₃
- Brontes 303₂ 312₁ 314 317 f. 318₄
- Brouzos
Cult: Demeter 229₈
- Brunhild 489₄
- Bruttii, coin of 764₅
- Byblos
Cults: Men (?) 227 Triptolemos 227
- Byčiskála Cave 638 f.
- Byrsa
Etymology: 471₄
- Byzantium
Cults: Dioskouroi 168 Poseidon 169
 Helios 92 Selene 92
- Cacus
Myth: steals Geryones' oxen 482₀
- Caelus
Cult: Rome 59
Epithets: Aeternus 59₁₁ Optumus Maxi-mus 59₁₁
Genealogy: f. of Iupiter 59 gf. of
 Iupiter 59
Types: bust (?) 573₁ half-length with arched mantle 59 ff. holding circle of sky 62 seated on eagle with sceptre and starry mantle (?) 754₂
Identified with Iupiter 59
Associated with Iupiter 60
- Caerleon-on-Usk
Cults: Iuno 611₂ Iupiter Dolichunus
 611₂
- Caesar Augusta, coins of 638₀
- Caesarea Iol
Cult: Ba'al-hammán (?) 354
- Callirhoe (?) 453₈
- Cancer 66 235₂ 759₂ 760₀
- Canis 755₀
- Capitolias
Cult: Iupiter 45 f.
- Capra 720₄ 755₀
- Capricornus 755₀ 759₂
- Carmel, Mt 181 f.
Cult: St Elias 181₃

- Carnuntum
Cults: Iupiter Dolichenus 612 ff. 626
 633₁ Iupiter Heliopolitanus 551₆
 633₁ Nemesis 276 ff. Venus Victrix
 551₆ — shrine of Iupiter Dolichenus at 612 ff.
- Carthage
Cults: Ba'al-hammân 309 354 Iupiter
Hammon Barbarus Silvanus 353₄
 Iupiter Optimus Maximus Ammon
 353₄ Kronos 722 Tanit 354
Rite: human sacrifice 722
Etymology: 471₄
- Carvoran See Magna
- Cascantum, coins of 637₉
- Castores 774
- Cathonea 212
- Cautes 516₁
Attribute: raised torch 516₁
- Cautopates 516₁
Attribute: lowered torch 516₁
- Celts
Cults: Esus 482₀ cp. 533 Iupiter 288 f.
 482₂ Mercurius 482₀ Rosmerta (?)
 482₀ Tarvos Trigaranus 482₀ Volcanus 482₀ ram-headed serpent
 430₀
Myths: Otherworld-visit 239 243 f.
 303 one-eyed giant 321
 See also Gauls
- Centaurus 755₉
- Centemmanus 314₂
- Cepheus 755₈
- Cercei See Circei
- Cerceius, Mt See Circeius, Mt
- Ceres
Function: earth 393₀
Attributes: corn-ears 403₆ snake 403₆ torch 403₆
Type: enthroned 403₆
 — snake-drawn chariot of 229₂
- Chaironeia
Cult: Zeus 121
Myth: Kronos swallows stone 154
- Chaldaioi 631
- Chaldoi 631
- Chalke
Cults: Zeus and Hekate 141 f.
- Chalkidike
Myth: Kyklopes (?) 321₁
- Chalkiope 416
- Chalkis in Euboea
Cult: Hera 463
Myths: Kouretes 24₀ Kyklopes (?) 321₁
- Chalkis sub Libano
Cult: Zeus (?) 521₀
- Chalybe (?) See Alybe
- Chalybes 631 f. cp. 648
- Chaonia 363 f.
- Charadra in Argos
Cult: Demeter Αιβουσα 458₈
- Charisia 70₃
- Charisiai 70₃
- Charisios 70₃
- Charites
Cult: Thera 143
Festivals: Charisia 70₃ Charitesia 70₃ Genealogy: daughters of Zeus by Eurynome 155
- Charitesia 70₃
- Charon 165
 — cave of 503
- Cheirogastores 302 309 311 314 316 f.
- Cheiron
Cult: Thera 142
- Chersonesos in Crete
Cults: Britomartis 542 Zeus (?) 542
Rite: temple of Britomartis entered with bare feet 542₆
- Chinese gateways 768₀ legend 304₁₃
- Chione, d. of Daidalion 342
- Chios
Cult: Apollon Φαναϊος 7₆ Dionysos
Ἠμάδιος 656 Zeus Αἰθιοψ 195 289 f.
 330 Zeus Γυράψιος 289 f. 330 Zeus
Ἐφπνος 290₂ Zeus Μειλιχιος 290₂
 Zeus Πατρώος 290₂ Zeus Πελωαῖος
 290₂ Zeus Φαναῖος (?) 7₆
 — coins of 297₂ Sphinx of 537
- Chipa
Cult: Hittites 526₂ 606 644
Attributes: festoon or flowery kirtle
 526₂ 606 644 winged arch 644
Types: standing on bull held by Tešub 644 standing on erect bull
 644 standing on recumbent bull
 526₂ 606 644 Tešub 644
 — prototype of Europe 526₂ 606
 644
- Christus Patiens 166₄
- Chrodebertus 289₁
- Chrodo 289₁
Attributes: basket of fruit and flowers
 289₁ fish 289₁ wheel 289₁
- Chronos, horse of Helios 337₃
- Chryse 525 525₅
- Chrysippos 29₃ 29₄ 30₇
- Chrysis (?) 447₅
- Chrysopeleia 77₃
- Chytos Limen 310₀
- Cilicians 362
- Cimbri
Cult: bronze bull 639
- Circaean Plain
Rites: 533 See Kolchis: Rites
- Circei 244
- Circeius, Mt 244
- Circinus See Talos
- Circus (?) Perifonitoid 260₃
- City Dionysia 666 681 ff. 692₄ 733
- Çiva
Cult: India 637
Attribute: bull 637
- Clara, St
Function: St Elmo's fire 775
- Claudia-Seleucia
Cult: Demeter 229₈
- Claudius in guise of Triptolemos 228
- Clitor See Kletor

- Clusium, Labyrinth at 483₁₂
 Commodus as Jupiter 276 276₃
Cult: Ianiculum (?) 551₁₁
Associated with Jupiter Heliopolitanus 551₁₁
 Connla 239
 Corigliano, gold tablets from 675 ff.
 Corinth
Cults: Aphrodite 292 Athena 'Ελλωρίς 525 Helios 292 Hera 246 Hera 'Αρπία 445₁₀ Hera Βουναία 246₁ Mother of the gods 148₂ Sisyphos 639 f.
Festival: Hellotia 525
Myths: Hellotis 525 Medeia 245 ff. Sisyphos 246 — kings of, personate Zeus (?) 247 f. palace of Kreon at 296₄ tomb of Laïs at 429₄ Cormac 239
 Corona 492 755₄.
 Corvus 755₂
 Crater 755₂
 Crete formerly called Asteria 543₆
Cults: Artemis Βουθύμαρτις 542₄ Bellerophon (?) 170 Britomartis 542₃ Diana 542₃ double axe 660 Eileithyia 175, Europe 525 525₂ Korymbantes 650₂ Kouretes 650₂ Orphic Zeus 647 ff. 654 Rhea 148₂ 695 Zagreus 442₀ cp. 457 644 ff. 695 Zeus 58 157 ff. 181₀ 401 ff. 655₂ Zeus 'Αστέριος 665₀ Zeus 'Ιδαίος 558₅ 663 ff. Zeus Κρηταγενής 149₁ Zeus Ταλαύς 728 f.
Festival: Hellotia 525
Rites: bull-fights 497 ff. bovine omphagy 695
Myths: Amaltheia 501 f. Amaltheia hangs cradle of Zeus on a tree 530₀ cp. 534 birth of Zeus 650₂ bull 464 ff. Europe 733 Glaukos 469 ff. golden hound 720 Helike 548 Minos 464 ff. Minotaur 464 ff. Pasiphae 464 ff. Talos 719 ff. Zeus a prince slain by wild boar and buried in Crete 645 652 663₂
 — day called Zeús in 15 dialect of 15 population of 15 tomb of Zeus 157 ff. triskelés from (?) 307
 Crumissa 418₀
 Cuchulain 239
 Cupido
Metamorphosed into fish 584₀
Types: with lance and shield 628 riding on goat 354 713 713₂ on ram 354
 Cydonians in Crete 15
 Cygnus 755₀
 Cynthia 212
 Cynthia 757
 Cyprian 110
 Cypriote word for 'time' 16
 Daeira d. of Okeanos 212
Associated with Hermes 212
- Dagon
Cult: Philistines 238₀
Epithet: Στρον 238₀
Identified with Zeus 'Αρότριος 238₀
 Daidalion
Myth: 241 342 344
Metamorphosed into hawk 342 725₂
Genealogy: s. of Lucifer 342₁₃
Etymology: 342
Compared with Talos 342 f. 725₂
 Daidalos
Myth: 464 ff. buries Ikaros 727₃ Labyrinth 343 490₁ 496 makes dancing-ground at Knossos for Ariadne 481 works at Chersonesos 542₀
Genealogy: uncle of Talos 342 f. b. of Talos' mother 725
 — as dance-theme 481
 Daimon 663₂ 680₄
 Daktyloi
Cult: Mt Ide in Crete 646
 Dalmatia (?)
Cult: Sol Iupiter 191₀
 Damarchos 72 f.
 Damianos, St 168 f.
 Damoia
Cult: Sparta 730
Function: fertility 730
Associated with Auxesia and Zeus 730
 Dan
Cult: golden calf 581
 Danaans 363
 Danaë
Myth: 414
 Danaïdes 200 225₄ 341 f. 371₁ 438
 Danaos
Myths: daughters of Danaos flee from sons of Aigyptos 438 founds precinct of Zeus 'Αμμων 371₁
Genealogy: twin of Aigyptos 341 s. of Belos 439 — throne of 139
 Daphne 522
Epithet: Ηασιφάα (?) 522
Myth: Apollon 522
Identified with Pasiphae (?) 522
 Dardanians 362
 Daskyleion 745₁
 Daunia
Cults: Kalchas 407₄ Podaleirios 407₄
 David
Etymology: 553₃
 Dea Dia 4
 Deioneus
Genealogy: f. of Kephalos 345₄
 Deipatyros
Cult: Stymphaioi 681₄ 779₀
Etymology: 681₄
 Deiphobos 74₀
 Deir-el-Lében
Cult: Zeus 'Ανίκητος "Ηλιος Θεός Αδμος 193₁
 Deir el-Qala'a
Cult: Ba'al-Marqod 571₂

*Deiathyros

Etymology: 681₄

Delos formerly called Asteria 543₆ 544₀

Cults: Adad 549 f. Adatos 549 Aphrodite 481 Aphrodite Ἀφροδίτη 550 Apollon 481 (?) 513 784 Artemis 542₄ Asklepios 550 Atargatis 549 578₂ Athena Κυβέβα 123 Britomartis 542₄ Demeter 669₂ Helios 578₂ Kore 669₂ Meter Μεγάλη ἡ πάντων κρατούσα 550₄ Zeus Ἄδαδος 578₂ Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 669₂ 717₃ Zeus Κύνθιος 123

Festivals: Artemisia 542₄ Britamartia 542₄ Galaxia 677₀

Myths: Apollon builds κερατῶν 482₁ Artemis shoots goats on Mt Kynthos 482₁ 513 Theseus 481 f.

Rites: contest 482 γέφανος-dance 481 f. — altar of horns at 482 513 784

Delphin 755₁

Delphoi

Cults: Apollon 259₃ 296₃ 450 f. 563₃ Muses 104₂

Oracles: 77 369₁ 411 416 539 f.

Rite: hair-clipping 24₀

Myths: Kleobis and Biton 447 ff. Kronos swallows stone in place of Zeus 520₂ Neoptolemos 261 f. 483₀ 680 Trophonios and Agamedes 450 f. 563₃

— adyton of five stones at 563₃ bronze temple at 258 the Corycian cave at 132₃ dedication of stars at 761 f. 764₆ 771₉ tynges at 258 ff. oracular cave at 132₃ Polygnotos' fresco of Underworld at 537 race-course at 262; statues at 761 f. 764₆ stone of Kronos at 520₂ temple of Apollon at 258 ff. 296₃ temple built by Trophonios and Agamedes at 563₃ throne of Midas at 139

Deltoton 755₅ 755₁₀

Demainetos 71₂ 72 f.

Demeter,

Cults: Aigion 17 Amorion 229₈ Ankyra in Galatia 229₈ Antheia 228₁ Apollonis 229₈ Arkesine in Amorgos 669₂ Athens 229₆ Boiotia 175₀ Brouzos 229₈ Charadra in Argos 458₈ Claudia-Seleucia 229₈ Delos 669₂ Eleusis 173₁ 229₀ 397₄ 669₃ Erythrai in Ionia 229₈ Gordus-Iulia 229₈ Gythion 351 Hadriano-polis in Thrace 229₈ Hierapolis in Phrygia 229₈ Hyrkanis 229₀ Ionian League 229₈ Kelenderis 229₈ Korakesion 229₈ Kretia-Flaviopolis 229₈ Kyzikos 229₈ Lakonike (?) 442 Lebadeia 525 Magnesia ad Maeandrum 229₈ Magnesia ad Sipylum 229₈ Maionia 229₈ Messene(?) 442 Mykonos 668 f. Nikaia in Bithynia 229₈ Nikomedea 229₇ Nysa in Lydia 229₈ Paros 669₂ Pergamon 513₅ Pessinous 229₈ Sardeis 229₈ 229₀

Demeter (cont.)

Selinous 512₃ Smyrna 275₂ Stratonikeia 229₈ Tegea 521₀ Thessalonike 229₈ Thracio-Phrygians 695

Epithets: Βριμώ 394 Ἐλευσινία 229₁ Εὐρώπη 525 Θεομορφός 669₂ Λιβύσσα 458₈ Παναχαΐα 17 Ποθηριόφρος 228₁

Festival: Thesmophoria 685₀

Rites: Corn-thom(?) 397₄ sacrifice of pregnant sow 668 669₂ sacrifice of young pig 669₂

Priestesses: human μέλισσαι 443 human πῶλος 442 784 human ὄς (?) 784

Personated by Agrippina (?) 228₄ Messalina 228

Myths: consorts with Zeus 393 Iambe 425₅ nurses Trophonios 525 search for Persephone 175₀ 228 ff. 231 transforms Menthe 257₅ Triptolemos 211 ff.

Genealogy: offshoot of Gaia (?) 396 f. 401 m. of Kore or Pherephatta 394 w. of Zeus 393 f. cp. 396

Functions: earth 398 Virgo 755₁₀

Attributes: blue nimbus 41₀ corn-ears 224 228 229 fleece 425 kiste 425 plough 223 plume of wheat-ears 427₅ poppies 228 f. roll 228 sceptre 220 f. 224₂ 229 575 f. snake 392₄ 425 stephane 220 224₂ torch 230 torches 229 230 veil 575

Types: bust 575 f. on coins 229 Praxiteles 427 on sarcophagi 229 ff. seated on kiste 425 triple iconic herm 521₀ in snake-drawn chariot 228 ff. with winged snakes 230 cp. 217₁ 226₃

Identified with Isis (?) 427₅

Associated with Helios (?) 231₆ Kore 442 784 Kore and Dionysos 692 Kore and Iakchos 425 Kore and Plouton 669 Kore and Zeus Βουλεύς 668 f. Kore and Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 669 Poseidon and Zeus 521₀ Triptolemos 228 Zeus 398 695 779 Zeus Ἄμμων, Apollon Κάριος, Asklepios, Poseidon Γαϊάδχος 351

Superseded by St Demetrios 173 175₀ (?)

— chariot of, drawn by horses 231₆ by snakes 228 ff. mysteries of 443

Demetra, St, folk-tale of 173₁

Demetrium, St 175₀

Demetrios, St 173 175₀

Epithet: Στεφανός 175₀

Supersedes Demeter (?) 175₀

Demetrios Poliorketes

Personates Zeus 58

Type: upborne by Oikoumene 51₃

Demodike 415

Demophon 211

Superseded by Triptolemos 211

Demos

Types: bearded head 503₀ youthful head 706

- Deo
Epithet: Βριμώ 394
Rite: ὑπὸ τῶν παστῶν ἰπέδων 650₀
Priestesses: human μέλισσαι 443₇
Myth: consorts with Zeus 393 f.
Genealogy: m. of Kore or Pherephatta 394 w. of Zeus 393 f.
 See also Demeter
- Deorgreine 239
- Derketo
Cults: Askalon 583₄ Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff.
Etymology: 582₃
Type: with face of woman but body of fish 583₄
 See also Atargatis
- Derrones 306
- Despoina
Epithets: βασίλειά 650₀ χθονία 650₀
Rite: Δεσποίνας δὲ ὑπὸ κόλπων εἶδεν χθονίας βασιλέας 650₀
- Deukalion of Knossos 653₁
- Deukalion
Myths: escape from flood 117 Hierapolis in Syria 584₁ 591₃ standard at Hierapolis in Syria 583
- Dia, an island off N. coast of Crete 165
- Dia, w. of Ixion 198
- Dia, festival in Teos 423₂ 733
- Diana
Cults: Aricia 282₁ 282₃ Crete 542₃ Nemus 273 ff. See also Dianaticus Epithets: Nemesis Augusta 275 f. Nemoensis 273 ff. 278 281 ff.
Rites: apple-boughs 274 cakes on green tray 274 cask 274 divining-rod 282 kid 274 puppies wreathed 274 torches 274 weapons laid aside 274
Priest: 282 f.
Functions: beasts 273 f. huntress 274 trees 273 f. woodland 273 ff.
Attributes: apple-branch 275 hinds 274 stags 275
Types: log 282 standing with apple-branch, bowl of apples, and stag 274 Identified with Britomartis 542₃ Nemesis 275 f. Polykaste 728
Associated with Nemesis 276 ff. Silvanus 275₃
- Dianaticus 283
- Dias, a rock off coast of Kephallonia 165
- Diasia
Etymology: 423₂ 733₂
- Dido
Etymology: 553₃
- Didyma
Cult: Apollon 483₁₁
 — Labyrinth at 483₁₁
- Diespiter 10₁ 64₃ 393₀ 779₀
- Diipoleia See Diipolieia
- Diipolia See Diipolieia
- Diipolieia
Etymology: 681₄
- Diisoteria
Etymology: 681₄
- Dike 252₃
Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Themis 755₁₀
Functions: Virgo 755₁₀
- Dikte, Mt
Cult: Zeus 15₀ 161 652
Myths: Diktyinna 527₁ cp. 541 birth of Zeus 149 653 Zeus carries off Europe to 155 Zeus reared for a year in a cave 647 Zeus slain by boar (?) 652 Zeus suckled by sow 653
 — the Dictaeon Cave on 150₂ tomb of Zeus on 157 Zeus born on 151
- Dikte, eponym of Mt Dikte
Assimilated to Britomartis 541₀
- Dikton, Mt 541 647 See also Dikte, Mt
- Diktyinna
Cults: Mt Diktyinnaion 541₅ Mt Tityros 534₂ 541₅
Epithets: Βριτόμαρτις (?) 542₃ καλή 542₂ οὐρέα 541₅ 542₂ παῖς 542₂ Σεβαστή 535₁ 542₁ τὰς κυνίσκας ἔχουσα 542₂
Myth: Minos 524 527₁
Genealogy: d. of Leto 542₂
Functions: huntress 542₁ lunar 524 (?) 543 mountain-mother 541
Etymology: 541 543₃
Attributes: bow 542₁ hound 542₁ puppies 542₂
Type: seated on rocks nursing infant Zeus 541
Identified with Artemis 542₂
Assimilated to Artemis 524 542
Associated with Kouretes 541 Minos 524 541 543
In relation to Britomartis 527₁ 542
- Diktyinnaion, Mt
Cult: Diktyinna 541₅
- Diktys 541₆
- Diogenes of Apollonia 31₀
- Diokles or Dioklos 211
- Diomedes
Cult: Salamis in Kypros 659₄
Rite: human sacrifice (?) 659₄
- Dion, promontory in Crete 165
- Dion, town in Crete 165
- Dion in Dekapolis
Cults: Adad 572₁ 590 Iupiter Helio-politanus 572₁ Zeus Ἀδαδος 572₁ Zeus (Ἀδαδος) 590
- Dion in Euboeia 123₀
- Dion in Makedonia 102
Cult: Zeus 102₄
- Dione 670₂
Associated with Zeus Νάιος 370
- Dionysia 423₂ 669₃
 See also City Dionysia, Rural Dionysia
- Dionysios, St 103 113 171 f.
- Dionysios 170
- Dionysoi, a variety of 457

Dionysos

Cults: Acharnai 671₀ Agra 692 Aphytis 373 f. Athens 666 ff. 680 ff. 705₀ Boiotia 735 f. Chios 656 Eleusis 669₃ Eleutherai 682 684₁ Ephesos 657₁ Etruria 107 f. Halikarnassos 667₄ Heliopolis in Syria 564 ff. 582₁₀ Histiaia (?) 463 Korythets 673₇ Kynaitha 503 Lakonike 674 cp. 676 705 Lesbos 656 Magnesia in Ionia (?) 153 Meroe 376 Metapontum 674 f. cp. 676 705 Mykonos 668 f. Mytilene 373 f. Naxos 428 Nysa in Lydia 503₀ Mt Olympus 104 ff. Siga 502 Sikyon 674₃ Tenedos 656 659 f. 659₀ Tenos 373 f. Thebes in Boiotia 457 671 671₀ Thespiai (?) 464 Thrace 400₂ Thracio-Phrygians 669 695 705 f. 780

Epithets: [ἀγάθ]υρσε, θεῶν ληναγέτα Βακχᾶν 667₄ ἀγρεῖς 651₁ Ἀγριώνιος 657₁ Ἀκρωρεῖτης 674₃ ἀναξ 216 651₄ Ἀνθρωποραλότης 469₁ 659 f. 711 Βάκχος 395₂ 667₄ βασιλεὺς 647₃ Βρόμιος 536₂ 682₁ δευτέρως ἄλλος... ἰέτιος Ζεὺς 398 f. 647₀ Διθύραμβος 681₄ εἰλαπιναστής (See νέω κ.τ.λ.) Εἰραφιῶτης 674₂ Ἐλευθερεῖς 682 682₂ 684 692₄ Ἐριβόας 682₁ Ἐριφος 674 676 Ἐριφος 674 f. 674₂ (?) 676 Ἐσείνος 686₂ Ἐριμβοδιθύραμβος 681₄ Θρίαμβος 681₄ Ἰόβακχος 457₇ Ἰνυγίης 258₂ Ἰνυγίῦ 258₂ Ἰνυγίης (?) 258₂ κισσοδαής (?) 682₁ Κισσός 671₀ Κρήσιος 651₂ ληναγέτας (See [ἀγάθ]υρσε κ.τ.λ.) Λήναιος 667 Ληναῖος 671 (See also Λήναιος) Ληνεῖς 668 f. ἐν Λίμναις (See Dionysos, temple of) Αναῖος 657₁ Μαυόλης 657₁ Μελάναιγος 689₅ Μειλίχιος 428 657₁ Μοσχοφάγος 673₃ (See also Ταυροφάγος) Μύσσης 673 νέω καὶ νηπιῶ εἰλαπιναστῆ 647₃ Νυσήιος 687₅ Ὀρθός 671 Περικιόνιος 671 671₀ Πλουτοδότης 504 Σαβάζιος 395₃ Σαβός 395₃ σκηπτουχος 656₃ ταυρόκερος 466₀ Ταυροφάγος 665₄ 673 (See also Μοσχοφάγος) τριετής 656₃ φιλόθεμος 195₅ Χαριδότης 657₁ Χορείος 657₁ Ὠμάδιος 656 659₀ Ὠμηστής 657 657₁ Ὠμητής (?) 657₁ ὠριος 657₁ Ζαγρεῖς 398

Festivals: Anthesteria 671₀ 683 ff. City Dionysia 666 681 ff. 692₄ 733 786 Dionysia 423₃ Iobakcheia 686 Lenaia 666 ff. 681 ff. 733 786 Rural Dionysia 666 671₀ 673 (?) 683 f. 688 ff. Theognia 686

Rites: αἰγίξεν 665₅ annual drama in Crete 662 f. 673 ἀσκωλαισμός 689₁ birth 399₂ bophony omphagy 662 f. 673 bull carried 503 bull paraded by ἐρθεβοὶ and sacrificed 716₀ bull taken in procession by ἐρθεβοὶ 715₀ chorus of human τράγοι (?) 705 comparison of τράγοι or σάτυροι

Dionysos (cont.)

with Iuperci 677₄ διθύραμβος 681 f. 692₄ 733 flute-playing 700₂ human ἔρφοι (?) 705 785 human sacrifice 656 f. human 'stag' slain and eaten 67₃ 674 ἰθύμβος 681₄ κῶμος 683₃ 687 marriage with Βασίλωνα 672₀ 686 709 f. mysteries 399₂ 690 692 f. νευρόσπαστα 591₃ nocturnal 399₂ Xanthias attacked by Acharnians (?) 689 omophagy (?) 656 f. passion-play (?) 678 ff. πειθογία 684 πομπή 683₃ sacrifices 399₂ sacrifice of calf in buskins 469₁ 659 711 sacrifice of goat 709 sacrifice of oxen 715₀ sacrifice of yearling 668 σπαραγμός commemorated in Lenaeian ode 672 688 f. torch-light procession from ἐσχάρα to theatre 686₀ τραγηφόροι 665₅ 704₁ trieteric 662 690 ff. 695₈ φαλλαγωγία 683₀ φαλλοὶ 682 f. χόες 684 χύτροι 684 687 f.

Priests: 710 βουκόλοι 441 457 δαδούχος 669

Priestesses: Αἴναι 667 f.

Worshippers: Βάβαξ 395₃ Βάκχος 395₃ Βαδάκτης 395₃ human βόες (?) 442₁ 784 Σαβάζιος 395₃ Σαβός 395₃

Personated by Antinoos 714₀ Iobakchoi 679₇ priest at Athens 710 Ptolemy Auletes (?) 709₁

Myths: Ariadne 480 Aries 369 f. Asini 755 Athamas and Ino 674 attacked by Titans 689 birth from thigh of Zeus 622 f. 693 (?) Brasiaí 674₀ Corona 755 dedicates φαλλοὶ to Hera 591₃ Eriphē 674₀ first yokes oxen 399₂ founds oracle of Zeus Ammon 376₁ founds temple of Zeus Ἄμμων 369 f. 373 gives crown to Ariadne 492 Hammon 368 373 Hera 674 Hermes 674 India 667₄ introduces agriculture 399₂ Iupiter Hammon 419₀ king of Egypt 457 nursed by Eriphē 674₀ nursed by Ino 674 f. cp. 674₀ nursed by Maenads 111 nursed by Muses 111 nursed by Nymphs of Dodona 111₀ places crown among stars 492 Proitides 451 Rhea (?) 375 f. slain in bovine form 660 slain by Titans 647 standard at Hierapolis in Syria 583 torn asunder by Maenads 679 vanquishes the Titans 376₁

Metamorphosed into bull 660 goat 675 kid 674 f.

Genealogy: s. of Ammon 373 s. of Eirene (?) 670₂ s. of Kabeiros 112₀ s. of Persephone 457₅ f. of Satyros and Telete by Nikaia 536 s. of Selene 457₅ 671 675 s. of Zeus 166 429 687 s. of Zeus by Io 457 f. by Isis 346₅ 457₅ by Kore 695 by Phersephone 398 399₂ by Selene 457₅ (?) 732 by Semele 457₅ 681 f.

Dionysos (cont.)

Functions: bovine 441 chthonian 398 647 fertility 704 f. god of animal and vegetable life 780 hunter 651₁ as rebirth of Zeus 398 f. 399 647 673 711 713 ff. the second self of Zeus 780 vegetation 680₁ year (?) 680

Etymology: 400₂

Attributes: bull 457 f. 463 (?) 502 f. 506₂ 715 blue nimbus 41₀ bunch of grapes 374 502 calf 715 cornu copiae (?) 503₀ cows 441 f. cup 375₂ double axe 216 flat cake 671 goat 502 674 ff. 705 ff. 779; horn 503₀ horns 107₄ ivy-sprigs 671 ivy-wreath 374 kántharos 214 216 374 kid 674 ff. kóthornoi 709 lyre 375₂ nárthex 657₁ panther-skin 709 pillar 375 (?) 671 672₀ ram 429₁ thyrsos 502 655 vine 566 709 vine-branches 214 vine-wreath 374 wreath of vine or ivy 655

Types: arrival in Attike 709 ff. bearded mask on pillar 671 672₀ bovine horns (?) 374 as bull (?) 549₂ bust of child with head of calf attached 715 as double axe (?) 659 f. education 659₂ effeminate (?) 599₁ enthronement in theatre 710 f. herm 374 horned 373 ff. 399₂ horned infant 695 infancy 708 ff. infant carried by Hermes 708 f. by Maenad 671 by Semele 670 infant guarded by Kouretes 709 infant riding on goat 713 infant seated on pantheress 566 infant seated on throne with Kouretes round him 646 f. lead figures 570₂ marriage with Βασίλῳα 709 ff. ram's horns 373 ff. resembles Hephaistos 216₂ resembles Triptolemos 214 ff. 231 suckled by Nymph 565 surrounded by Kouretes 153 on wheeled seat 214 ff. 231 xóanon 684₁

Identified with Hades 667, Helios 292 Her-shef 346, Jehovah 234, Kabeiros 107 f. younger Kabeiros 112 Osiris 376₂ 437 Sabazios 399₂ Zeus 112₂ Zeus, Hades, Helios 187₄ 234₄ Zeus, Helios 187₁₀

Associated with Ariadne 566 Bacchantes 565 f. Demeter and Kore 692 Maenads 503₀ 565 f. Muses 111₅ Pan 565 Satyrs 565 Silenoi 503₀ Zeus 566 Zeus Ἄδαδος 564 ff.

Compared with Vediovis 711 ff.
In relation to Zeus 373 ff. 401 428 429 706 ff. 780

Superseded by St Dionysios 113 (?) 171 f.
— Attic festivals of 680 ff. conception of 681 f. 683 f. 686 ff. 786 cp. 693 733 education of 659₂ mask of 671 mysteries of 441 f. 457 rearing of 672 688 f. survivals of, in northern Greece 420₁ 694 temple of, ἐν Λίμναις 684 as king of Asia 112₀ as king of Egypt 368 M. Antonius greeted as, at Ephesos 657₁

Dionysos (cont.)

Dio-Pan 603

Cult: Kaisareia Paneas 603₀

Epithet: φιλεῖσχος 603₀

Associated with Echo (?) 603₀

Dios (?) 4₂

Dios Gonai 535₀

Dioskouroi

Cults: Byzantion 168 Etruria 766 ff.

Euxine 306₅ Istros 306₅ Rhosos

590 Sparta 766₀ Tarentum (?) 35₀

Thebes in Boiotia 739

Epithets: ἀγαθῷ 764 εὐαεῖς ἀνέμων | πέμποντες Διὸθεν προῶς 764₁ Λακεδαιμόνιοι | ἀστέρης 766₁ λευκοπόλω 763₄ cp. 764₀ lucida sidera 766₄ οἱ φλογεράν αἰθέρ' ἐν ἀστροῖς | γαιονσι 764 οὐράνιοι 764 σωτήρης 764 τιμὰς σωτήρας ἔχοντες 764 Τυνδαρίδαι 763 766₀

Rite: sacrifice of white lambs 763

Personated by Aristomenes and a friend 764₀

Myths: accompany Iason (?) 250 birth from egg 763, Leda 279₁ Nemesis 279₁ rape of Leukippides by sons of Aphareus and Dioskouroi 738₁₂

Genealogy: sons of Tyndareos 279 f. sons of Zeus by Leda 763₄ by Nemesis 279

Functions: calm the sea 763 f. 772 f. day and night (?) 771 morning-star and evening-star (?) 771 portend victory in sea-fight 761 f. presage of storm, tumult, etc. 773 f. send favourable wind 763 764₁ any stars shining through rift in storm (?) 771 sun and moon (?) 771

Attributes: amphorae 766₀ cp. 770 bákchoi 221 caps with stars 590 chariot 763 cippi 770 horses 392, lances 35₀ cp. 764₁ piloi 250 763₄ sheathed swords 764, shields 766 stars 221 250 762 762₃ (?) 764 ff. thunderbolt (?) 770 white horses 763₄ 764₀ (myrtle-)wreaths 221

Types: accompanied by stars 221 250 766 ff. as birds (?) 763 dákana 766 ff. driving in chariot drawn by horses 763 influenced by that of Kouretes (?) 768₁ on vases 219 221 250 252 721 standing on either side of Helene (?) 769 stars 760 ff. 761 ff. 766₁ 772₁ with stars on their heads 35₀ 762 (?) 762₃ (?) 764 ff. two young male heads in juxtaposition 306₅ (?) two youths facing each other with pillar or tree between, their heads connected by pediment 768 ff. and united by

- Dioskouroi (cont.)
 one (?), two, or three cross-bars
 766 ff. winged 763
Identified with Heavenly Twins 770 f.
 Kleobis and Biton (?) 449 St Elmo's fire 771 ff. 777
Associated with Selene 449 Zeys 356
 392₁ 590
Compared with Ásvins 771
Degraded to rank of Telúia 774
In relation to Kabeiroi 765 f. 772
Superseded by Kosmas and Damianos
 168 f.
 — initiation of 219 ff. stars of, a bad omen 773 f. a good omen 772 f. statues of, at Delphoi 761 f. 764₆
 See also Tyndaridai
- Diospolis, name of Laodikeia in Phrygia 706 of Lydda in Samaria 177₀ 782 of Thebes in Egypt 348₁
- Dipoleia See Diipolieia
 Dipolia See Diipolieia
 Diipolieia See Diipolieia
- Dirke
Myth: Zethos and Amphion 736 740
Genealogy: w. of Lykos 736
- Dis
Cults: Mauretania Caesariensis 355₁
Identified with Iupiter 188₃ Sarapis
 188₃
Associated with Tanit 355₁
- Di-Sandas (?) 603
- Diskos See Zeus Δίσκος
- Disoteria See Diisoteria
- Dis pater 96 ff.
Attributes: bowl 96 ff. mallet 96 ff.
 wolf-skin 96 ff.
- Dithyrambos 681 f.
Etymology: 681₁
- Dius Fidius 4₂
- Djebel Barishā
Cult: Zeus Βωμός 519 f.
- Djebel-Dokhan
Cult: Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₁
- Djebel-Fateereh
Cult: Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₁
- Dodo 148₃
- Dodon
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Europe 524
 Dodona, called "Ελλα (?) 148₃
Cults: Europe (?) 524₇ Euryopa (?)
 524₇ Gaia 524₈ Ge 370 Nymphs
 111₆ Zeus 85 f. 148₃ 370 f. Zeus-Náios 363 ff. 524₇ 778
Oracle: 411
Priestesses: human πελειάδες (?) 443₂
Myths: speaking oak 367 two doves found oracles of Zeus 364 — doves of 39₁ 364 367
- Dodonides 111₆
- Dodonos
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Europe 524
 Doliche 630
Cults: Zeus Δολιχαῖος or Iupiter Do-lichenus 606
- Dolichos 211
- Dolocenum 608 610₀
- Domitia Longina, son of, as Zeus 51 547
- Domitian
Personates Iupiter 751₈
- Donar 185
- Dorians in Crete 15
- Dorstadt
Cult: Iupiter Sol 191₀
- Douai 285 f.
- Doumatenoi
Rite: boy sacrificed and buried beneath altar 519
- Douris 493 f.
- Draogha 489₄
- Dreros
Cults: Amphione 729₂ Aphrodite 729₂
 Apollon Δελφίνιος 729₂ Apollon
 Πόρτιος (= Πόρθιος) 729₂ Ares 729₂
 Artemis 729₂ Athena Πολιοῦχος
 729₂ Britomartis 729₂ Ge 729₂
 Helios 729 Hermes 729₂ Hestia
 729₂ Leto 729₂ Ouranos 729₂ Phoinix 729₂ Zeus Ἄγοραῖος 729₂ Zeus Ταλλαῖος 729
- Drion, Mt in Daunia
Cult: Kalchas 407₄
- Drios, Mt, in Naxos
Cult: Zeus (?) 154 163 ff.
- Drosos (?)
Genealogy: s. of Aer by Mene 732₅
- Druho 489₄
- Druids, wicker-work images of 286₁
- Druja 489₄
- Dryas
Compared with Oinomaos 225₄
- Drynemeton 273₆
- Dyauš 190₃
Epithet: bull 718₁
Factions: fertilises earth 718₁ heaven
 718₁ paternity 718₁
- Dysaules 212
- Ea 188₁
- Ebora Cerialis 309
- Echidna
Genealogy: d. of Tartaros and Ge 458
- Echo
Cult: Kaisareia Paneas (?) 603₆
Genealogy: m. of Lynx 257 440₇
Associated with Dio-Pan (?) 603₆
- Edessa
Cults: Azizos 706₂ Helios 706₂ Moni-mos 706₂
- Edfú
Cult: Horos 206 341
- Edonoi 75
- Egypt
Cults: Io 237₁ Isis 237₁ Osiris 227
 Triptolemos 212 222 f. 227 Zeus
 Κάριος 123
Rite: procreation of bees from buried ox 514 f.
Myths: Io 441 Typhoeus attacks the gods 370₁ 445 675

- Egypt (cont.)
 — invaded by Mediterranean peoples
 362 f. Zeus, king of 376₁
- Egyptians, solar disk over sacred doorways of 205 f. 293
- Eikadios 170
- Eileithyia
Cults: Athens 175₁ Crete 175₁ Phale-ron 112₃
Superseded by St Eleutherios 173 f.
 175₁
- Eioneus 198 f.
- Eious Gamoi 535₀
- Eirene
Cults: Athens 670 709₁
Epithets: βοτρυδωρος 670₂ πλουτοδό-τερα 670₂
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos (?) 670₂
Type: carrying infant Ploutos 670
Associated with Hestia 709₁
- E-Kur 580
- El
In relation to the Phoenician Kronos 722
- Elagabalos
Cult: Emesa 520₂ 604
Priest: 607
Function: solar 520₂ 604 607
Identified with Iupiter 520₂ Zeus 520₂
 — stone of 520₂ 604
- Elam 580
- Elare
Associated with Zeus 156₂
- Elektra
Myth: Orestes and Aigisthos 39
- Elektra, the Pleias
Associated with Zeus 755₁₀
- Elephantine 233₁
Cult: Khnemu 346 347₅ 387
- Eleusinia 423 ff. 427
- Eleusinus 212
- Eleusis, f. of Triptolemos 211
- Eleusis
Cults: Demeter 173₁ 229₀ (?) 397₄ 669₃
 Dionysos 669₃ Iakchos 692 Kore
 397₄ 669₃ Plouton 669₃ Triptolemos
 211 ff.
Festivals: Dionysia 669₃ Haloia 693
 June 24 338
Rites: Corn-maiden (?) 397₄ cornmother (?) 397₄ ἐπαρχή Δημητρὶ καὶ Κόρη καὶ Πλούτωνι 669₃ Ἐπιθήμια θύσαι 669₃ Greater Mysteries 692
 Midsummer fire 338 πλημοχόη 424 protomaiá 338 ταυροκαθάψια 498₃
Myths: initiation of Herakles 219 ff.
 425 ff. Triptolemos 211 f.
 — Anáktoron at 260₁ mysteries at 219 ff. 609 sacred drama at 218
 Telestérion at 218 221 wall-painting from 2₂
- Eleusis, hero
Genealogy: s. of Hermes by Daeira
 212
- Eleusius 212
- Eleutherai 67 689₅
Cult: Dionysos 682 684₁
Myth: Antiope 737
- Eleutherios, St 173 f.
Supersedes Eileithyia 175₁
- Eleutheropolis
Cults: Adad 572₁ 590₁ Iupiter Helio- politanus 572₁ 590₁ Zeus Ἄδαδος
 572₁ 590₁
- Elias, St
Cults: Mt Carmel 181₃ Kastellorizo
 182 f. Mt Lykaion 81 Neokaisareia
 641 Mt Olympos 103 Mt Taygeton
 180
Epithets: Dry 184 f. Wet 184 f.
Festivals: June 20 641 July 20 180 185₁ rain-charm 182 f. summer solstice 641
Functions: celestial brightness 182 fertility 186 hail 186 mountain-power 177 ff. 777 rain 181 f. thunder
 183 ff.
Attributes: arrows 184 chariot 183 f.
 lance 184 raven 182₇ wheel 182₁₂
Type: translation 40 179 f.
Supersedes Donar or Thor 185 Helios (?)
 178 ff. Odysseus 170 f. Perun or Perkun 185 Zeus 163 ff. 177 ff.
 777
- Elijah 181 f. See also Elias
- Elis
Cults: Helios 455₈ Hera 624 Selene
 455₈ Sospolis 58
 — coins of 624 phálara from 336
- Eilil See En-lil
- Elmo, St
Etymology: 775
 — fire of 771 f. 774 f. identified with stars of Dioskouroi and Helene 771 ff. variants of 774₀
- Embaros
Myth: 711₀
- Emesa
Cult: stone of Elagabalos 520₂ 604
- Empedokles 31 f. 311 462 578 623 f. 687₃ 783
- Enalos 170
- Encheirogastores 309 f. 319
- Engastrocheires 309 f.
- Engonasin 755₀
- En-lil
Cult: Nippur 580 756
Epithets: Bēl 756 Councillor 580 created in the mountains 580 crouching like a bull 580 endowed with strength 580 father 580 full of splendour 580 great creator and sustainer of life 580 Great Mountain 580 lord of the grain fields 580 lord of the harvest lands 580 powerful chief of the gods 580 ruler of great strength 580 sturdy bull 580
Functions: fertility 580 mountain-god 580 storm-god 580 635 sun-god 580

- En-lil (cont.)
Etymology: 580
Attribute: bulls 580 f. 635
Types: crouching bull with human face (?) 580 bull with glittering horns 580
Associated with Nin-lil 580
In relation to Ninib 580
- Enna 623₁
- Eos. See Heos
- Eous, horse of Helios 337.
- Epakria
Cult: Zeus Ἐπακρίας 75
- Ephalos
Myths: Antiope 737; born in Euboa 462
Genealogy: s. of Io 462 s. of Zeus by Io 438 ff. s. of Zeus 633
Etymology: 438₁₀, 439
In relation to Apis 438 633
- Epeiros, carnival-plays in 694 folk-tale from 343; 412 ff.
- Ephesos
Cults: Artemis 172₁, Artemis Ἐφεσία 413 Artemis Πρωτοθρονική 141 Dionysos Μεγάλσιος 657₁, Dionysos Χαριδότης 657₁, Kouretes 649₁; Leto 649₁; Poseidon 442 Zeus 134
Rites: human ταύροι 442 ταυροκαθάψια 498₁
 — coins of 134 558₅
- Ephialtes
Myth: Ares 623₁
- Epidauros, tholos at 476₁
- Epiktosis 535 ff.
Personated by woman of same name 537
Type: seated beneath tree 535 ff.
Associated with Euthenia and Telete 535 ff.
- Epilonaia 669₁
- Epimenides on the Cretan Zeus 157₃; 518₉ (?) 663 ff.
- Epimetheus 329₁
- Epopeus
Personates Zeus (?) 247 737
Myth: Antiope 737 f.
Etymology: 737
Genealogy: s. of Aloens 246 737 f. of Marathon 246 247
- Equos 755₁. See also Hippios
- Erasmo, St
Function: patron of mariners 775
In relation to St Elmo (?) 775
- Erato, Nymph of Dodona 111₁
- Erechtheion (?) 324 475₁
- Erechtheus
Cult: Athens 717₂
Rite: sacrifice of bulls and rams 717₂
- Eretria
Cult: Hera (?) 463
 — coins of (?) 463
- Ere'imos 481₁, 696
- Eridanos 419
- Erigone 709
- Erinyes 202₁ (?)
Cult: Thera 143
- Erinys 200 202 203₁; (?) 252₃
Attributes: sword 250 torch 250
Type: nimbus 250
- Eriopis 537₁
- Eriphle 674₁
- Eriphia 111₁
- Eris
Function: enmity 31
- Eros
Myth: Platonic 310 f.
Attributes: typha 258 torch 710
Types: crossing sea 200₁; on goat 354 Praxiteles 710₁; on ram 354 in quadriga 200₁
Associated with Aphrodite 38 f. 459₁
- Erotos, two 354 506 547 564
Types: fighting on goat-back 713₂; garland-bearing 564 vintaging 565
- Erytheia 410
- Erythraeus, horse of Helios 337₁
- Erythrai
Cults: Athena Φρημία 350, Demeter 229, Zeus Φήμιος 350₁
- Erythrios 416
- Esman
Attributes: pillars 354 serpents 354 360
- Esus
Cult: Celts 482₁
Attribute: axe 482₁
- Etenna 305
- Eteo-Cretans in Crete 15 at Phaistos 660
- Etruria 238
Cults: Dionysos 107 f. Dioskouroi 766 ff. Hades 99 Tinia 53 622 f.
Myth: Kyklopes 312₂
 — boundary-stones of 53 golden or purple ram of 403 Grabphalli of 53, grave-stelai of 53
- Euadne 318
- Euainetos 260₁
- Euandros 87
- Euboa
Cults: Hera 463 Zeus Πατρώος 117 123
Epithet: ἀργείοιος 462
Myths: Argos and Io 462 birth of Erapchos 462 to 739 Kyklopes 310 310₁, 321₁ Phorkys 321₁
Etymology: 462
- Euboa, d. of Asterion 445
- Euboa, Mt 445
- Eu boukus 212 221 (?)
Genealogy: s. of Dysaules 212 b. of Triptolemos 212 s. of Trochilos by an Eleusinian wife 212
 See also Zeus, Epithets: Εὐβουλεύς
- Euenios
Compared with Polyphemos 411
- Euhemeros, account of Zeus given by 662 ep. 758
- Eumelos, king of Patrai 74₀ 227
Associated with Triptolemos 74₀ 227

- Eumolpos 211 220 f. (?)
Rite: eiresiōne 339₆
- Euphemos 350₈
- Euphrates, egg found in 584₆
- Euporia
Cult: Peiraieus 442
Epithet: Βελήλα 442
- Euripides on Zeus 32 f. Bacchae of, imitated in the Christus Patiens 166₄
- Europe
Cults: Crete 525 525₂ Dodona (?) 524₇ Gortyna 401₇ Phaistos 660 f. Sidon 538
Epithets: Ἐλλωρίς 339₄ 525 644 Φοινικογενής 648₁, Τυρία (?) 648₁
Festival: Hellotia 525
Rite: big wreath. 525 644
Myths: Asterion or Asterios or Asteros 546 f. carried off to Crete by Zeus as a bull 538 f. 544 Gortyna 543 influenced by that of Pasiphae (?) 527₀ older form (?) 527₀ Phoinike 538₇ Talos 719 Thebes in Boiotia 740 washes in miraculous brook 545₃ Zeus 472 524 ff. 644 733 740
Metamorphosed into cow (?) 540 541 740
Genealogy: d. of Agenor 538 d. of Argiope 537 m. of Dodon or Dodonos by Zeus 524 st. of Kadmos 538 539 m. of Karnos by Zeus 351₇ m. of Minos, Sarpedon, Rhadamanthys by Zeus 464 m. of Minos by Zeus 467 d. of Phoenix 525₃ 527₀ 539 648 d. of Telephassa 537
Functions: earth 401₇ 524 ff. funereal (?) 525₃ huntress 538 lunar 524 (?) 537 ff. 541 544 f. 733 f. 739 vegetation 254 ff. willow (?) 530
Etymology: 531₃ 537
Attribute: basket 441 530 f.
Types: as the Argive Hera 532 on bull crossing sea 471 499 547 on bull escorted by Eros and koitroi 506 grasping horn of bull 526 greeting the bull 660 f. holding flower 526 riding on bull 526 531 537 644
Assimilated to Astarte 524₈
Identified with Astarte 533
Associated with Zeus 155 351₇ 401₇ 524 ff. 544 644 660 f. 733 f. 739 770 780 Compared with Antiope 736 f.
 — bones of 525 garland of 525 as dance-theme 481 495
- Europeia 531
- Eurymedousa
Genealogy: d. of Acheloios 533₀ d. of Kleitor 533₀ m. of Myrmidon by Zeus 533₀
Associated with Zeus 533₀
- Eurynome, the Bassarid 665₄
- Eurynome, the Oceanid 155
Associated with Zeus 155
- Euryopa
Cult: Dodona (?) 524₇
- Euryphaessa
Genealogy: m. of Helios 444₃ 537₁₀
Etymology: 537
- Eurystheus 406 f. (?)
Myth: Cretan bull 467
- Eurytion 504₇ (?)
- Eurytion 525₅
- Eurytos 117
- Euthenia 535 ff.
Epithet: Σεβαστή 535₄
Associated with Telete and Epiktēs 535 ff.
- Euxine
Cult: Dioskouroi 306₅
- Eyuk, Hittite sculptures at 636 639 641
- Fames 229₂
- Fata
Epithet: Scribunda 268₂
- Fatum
Attribute: wheel 268₂
- Faustina the elder, consecratio of 62
- Fors Fortuna 272
Cult: Rome 285
Festival: June 24 285
- Fortuna
Cults: Netherby (?) 611₃ Ostia 272₁₄ Praeneste 272 Rome 272
Epithets: Barbata 272 Mammosa 272 Muliebris 272 Primigenia 272 Redux 268 Sancta 272₁₄ Virginalis 272 Virgo 272 Virilis 272 Viscata 272
Functions: destiny 271 earth 271 fertility 272 generation 271 latrines 272 luck 271 vegetation 271
Etymology: 272
Attributes: cornu copiae 268 268₂ 272 modius 272 rudder 268 268₂ wheat-ears 272 wheel 268 268₂ 271
Types: enthroned 268 many-breasted (?) 272₁₀ standing 268₂
Associated with Mater Matuta 272
In relation to Nemesis 271₆
 — on coins 268
- Fortunae
Cult: Antium 552
- Freyra 489₄
- Furrina, grove of 551
- Gabala
Cults: Adad 590 Zeus (Ἄδαδος) 590
- Gabriel 233
- Gaia
Cult: Dodona 524₈
Epithet: μελάμφυλλος (χθών) 541
Rites: cow sacrificed 541
Genealogy: m. of Garamas 366 f. 370 of Iarbas (?) 366; of iron (?) 631 of Kottos, Briareos, Gyēs 314 of Kyklopes 314 of silver (?) 631
Function: fertility 524₃

Gaia (cont.)

- Attributes*: corn-ears 752 cornu copiae 752 f.
Associated with Aither 267 Zeus 429
Differentiated into Demeter and Kore 396 f.

In relation to Ouranos 8₁ Zeus-8₁

See also Ge

Galahad 243

Galatai 321₁

Galateia, w. of Polyphemos 321₁

Galates, eponym of Galatia

Genealogy: s. of Kyklops and Galatia (Galateia) 321₁

Galatia 321₁

Cults: Zeus 124 155

Galatia, w. of Kyklops 321₁

Galaxia 676 676₅

Galloi 394₂

Ganymedes

Myths: Minos 527₁ Zeus 408 527₁ 755₁₀

Garamas, named Amphithemis 366

Genealogy: s. of Apollon by Akakallis 366

Garamantes 366

Cult: Zeus 'Αμμων 366₄

Garamas

Genealogy: s. of Gaia 366 f.

Garanus 482₀

Gargaros 156

Gasterocheires 309

Gauls

Cult: three-horned bull 639

See also Celts

Gawain 243

Gaza

Cults: Aphrodite 149₁ Apollon 149₁
 Bes 235 f. Hadran (?) 232₁ Hekate 149₁
 Helios 149₁ Heros (?) 149₁ Io 236
 Kore 149₁ Marnas 149₁ 167₃ 478
 Tyche 149₁ 236₃ Zeus 233 (?) Zeus
 Κρηταγενής 149₁ 478 478₄ Zeus
 Κρηταίος 149₁

Myths: Io (?) 236 f. Minos 235 Triptolemos (?) 236 f.

— coins of 232 ff. (?) 478

Gargaros 117

Ge

Cults: Dodona 370 Dreros 729₂ Mykonos 668 f. Thera 143

Epithets: πάντα 647₅

Festivals: Genesia 423₂ Nekysia 423₂

Rite: sacrifice of black yearling 668 f.

Myths: Argos 440₇ provides grass for Isis 462 saves Nyktimos by supplicating Zeus 79₁₀ cp. 79₁₂ parent of female sex 310

Genealogy: m. of Adanos by Ouranos 597₄ of Anax 544₀ of Argos 439 of Echidna by Tartaros 458 of Iapetos by Ouranos 597₄ of Kronos by Ouranos 597₄ of Olymbros by Ouranos 597₄ of Ostasos by Ouranos 597₄ of Rhea by Ouranos 597₄

Ge (cont.)

of Sandes by Ouranos 597₄ of Triptolemos by Okeanos 212

Associated with Okeanos 212 Ouranos 597₄ Tartaros 458 Zagreus 647₅ Zeus χθόνιος 668 f.

See also Gaia

Gemini 755₀ 758₁

Genea 191

Genesia 423₂

Genius Forinarum

Cults: Ianiculum (?) 552₀ Rome 552₀

Associated with Jupiter Heliopolitamus Augustus 552₀

Gennaïos

Cults: Berytos 571₂ Heliopolis in Syria 571₂

Types: lion's head 571 575 lion with globe on head 571₂ lion with radiate head 571₂ lion-shaped 571₂

See also Ba'al-Marqod, Genneas

Genneas, probably one with Malakbel 571₂

Cult: Palmyra (?) 571₂

Epithet: Πατρώος 571₂

See also Gennaïos

Genos 191

George, St 176

Cult: Diospolis or Lydda 177₀ 782

Epithet: Green 177₀

Festival: April 23 177₀

Functions: agriculture 177₀ pastoral 177₀

Myth: dragon-slayer 178₀ 782

Attribute: pillar 177₀ 178₀

Supersedes Zeus Georgós (?) 176 782

Gerairai 672₀ 693₄

Geraistai

Cult: Phaleron 112₃

Geraistiades 112₃

Geraistion 154₁₁

Geraistos, village and promontory of Euboa 319

Geraistos, eponym of Geraistos in Euboa

Genealogy: s. of Zeus 156 319 f.

Geraistos, the Kyklops or s. of the Kyklops

Myth: 319 f.

Gerizim, Mt

Cult: Zeus Ἐλληγιος 233 Zeus Ξένιος 233

Germanicus as Triptolemos 228₁

Germanikopolis

Cult: Apis 637

Germans

Myth: one-eyed giant 321

Geryones or Geryoneus

Myths: Herakles 410₇ oxen stolen by Cacus 482₀

Gigantes

Myth: Gigantomachia 119 711₇

Gilgamesh

Myths: vanquishes the bull Alú 645 vanquishes lion 645

Type: lifting lion above his head 645

- Girgenti See Agrigentum
 Glauke, Arcadian Nymph 112;
 Glauke, d. of Kreon 251;
 Glaukos
Myth: 469 ff.
Genealogy: s. of Minos by Pasiphae 469 f.
 — as dance-theme 481
 Gnostics 396, amulets of 235 357₄ formulae of 581 581₈ gospel of 235₀
 Gomphoi
Cult: Zeus 'Ακραῖος 124
 Gordus-Iulia
Cult: Demeter 229₈
 Gordyene
Cult: Triptolemos 212 237
 Gordys, s. of Triptolemos 237₃
 Gorgon
Myth: slain by Perseus 724₁
Attribute: skin cap 100₀
 Gorgoneion 292 f. 293₅ 306 f.
 Gorgopis 415
 Gortyna, men of called Kartemnides 471
Cults: Adymnus (Atymnos?) 525₃
 Europe 401₇ 525₃ Geraistiades 112₃
 Helios 410 471 f. 546 635 Zeus 112₃ 401₇; Zeus 'Αστέριος 545 ff. 740
 Zeus 'Εκατόμβαιος 545
Myths: Zeus and Europe 472 526 ff. 543 Zeus nurtured by Geraistiades 112₃ Festivals: Τίσυροι (?) 401₇ Tityroi (?) 534 f.
 — cattle of Helios at 410 471 f. 546 635 coins of 527 ff. 544₀ 661
 Labyrinth at (?) 472₆
 Gortys 471₄
 Goulas 150₁
 Gournia
Cult: snake-goddess 402
 Graccurrus, coin of 638₀
 Graeco-Libyans
Cult: Zeus 361 ff. 428 778
 See also Libyo-Greeks
 Gratian 167
 Great Goddesses
Cult: Megalopolis 112₂
 Gundestrup, bowl from 289₁
 Gwalchaved See Galahad
 Gwalchmei See Gawain
 Gyarus 632₅
 Gyas
Epithet: centimanus 314₂
 Gyes 314
 Gythion
Cults: Ammon 360₁ Apollōn 373
 Apollon Κάρυειος 351 Asklepios 351 360₁ Demeter 351 Poseidon Γαλαχχος 351 Zeus 'Αμμων 351 373
 Zeus Καππώτας 520₂
 Hadad See Adad
 Hadadrimmon See Adad and Ramman
 Hades or Haides
Cults: Etruscans 99 Thera (?) 142
 Hades (cont.)
Myths: Menthe or Minthe 257₅ rape of Persephone 175₀
Functions: darkness 29 earth 31 winter 234
Attributes: chariot 230, wolf-skin cap 99
Identified with Dionysos 667₄ Iao 234
 Zeus, Helios, Dionysos 187₄ 234₄
 Zeus, Helios, Sarapis 187
Associated with Demeter and Kore 669 Menthe or Minthe 257₅ — chariot of 230₄ palace of 259₄ 293₅ 296₄ cp. 413₀ 541
 Hadran
Cults: Gaza (?) 232₁ Mamertini 232₁
 Syria 232₁
 Hadrianopolis in Thrace
Cult: Demeter 229₈
 Hadrianothera
Cult: Apis 637
 Hadryades
Cult: Mt Kithairon 511₁
Rite: sheep sacrificed 511₁
Associated with Zeus 511₁
 Hageladas 122
 Haghia Triada 297
 Hagia Barbara
Cult: Kouretes 471₄
 Hagno 76 f. 112₁ 112₂
 Haimonios 502
 Haimos, Mt
Myth: Io 441
 Halia 444₃
 Halikarnassos
Cults: Dionysos 667₄ Poseidon 74 Zeus 'Ασκραῖος 717₃ Zeus Κώμυρος 20
Rite: sacrifice of goat 717₃
Myth: Athens 74₀
 Halizones 631
 Haloia 693
 Halos
Cult: Zeus Λαφύστιος 416
 Hammon
Epithet: corniger 365₁
Myths: Dionysos 368 373 discovers sheep 368
Type: horned 368
 — grove of 366₁
 See also Ammon and Zeus 'Αμμων
 Harmonia 757
Genealogy: d. of Ares and Aphrodite 540
 Harpalyke 447₁
 Harschaf See Her-shef
 Hathor
Functions: cow 515 523 622 Under-world 515 622 fertility 622 sun 315₁
Identified with Aphrodite 437 eye of Râ 315₁
 Hatti 595
Cult: thunder-god 635₁₃
 Hawara, Labyrinth at 472 f. 491₁ 496
 Heavenly Twins
Identified with Dioskouroi 770 f.

- Hebe 259₇ 365₂ (?) 782 (?)
Festival: Kíssotomoi 534₃
Associated with Herakles and Zeus 501₆ (?)
- Heddernheim
Cult: Iupiter Dolichenus 619 ff. 626 ff.
- Hekabe, statue of 592₀
- Hekate
Cults: Chalke 141 f. Gaza 149₁, Rhodes 142
Epithet: φιλοκύνητος 245₃
Rite: ἀμφιφώντες 421
Priests: βουκόλοι 442₀
Myth: institutes cult of Artemis 245₃
Genealogy: grand-d. of Helios 245 m. of Medeia 245 d. of Zeus by Asteria or Asterie 544₀
Function: lunar 455
Attribute: snake 392₄
Identified with Artemis 245
Associated with Phersephone 430₀, Zeus 141 f. ? 543₁ — rock-cut thrones of 141 f. shrines of 421
- Hekatombaia 446 f.
- Hekatomphonia 623₆
- Hekatoncheires 314
- Hektor
Myths: ransomed 260₂, Zeus 26 117
 — statue of 592₀
- Helan, Helena See Helene
- Helene
Epithets: Κάστορι...Πολυδεύκει τ' ἐν αἰθέρος πρυγαῖς | ξύμβακος...ναυτίλος σωτήριος 764
Myths: birth 279₄ 760₂ 760₃ home-coming 763 f.
Genealogy: d. of Tyndareos 279 f. d. of Zeus by Nemesis 279 760₂
Functions: ball-lightning (?) 773 calms the sea 764 772 solar (?) 489₄
Etymology: 773
Attribute: star called Urania 773
Types: pillar (?) 769 pillar-like female flanked by Dioskouroi (?) 769
In relation to St Elmo (?) 775
 — raiment of 31 f. star of 771 ff. statue of 592₀
- Helike, in Achaia 529₄
- Helike, in Arkadia (?) 529₄
- Helike, d. of Olenos 529₄
- Helike, Nymph in Crete
Myths: nursed Zeus 112₃ 529 548 755₁₀
Etymology: 529 f.
- Helike, the constellation 548 740
- Helikon, Mt
Cults: Muses 104₂ Orpheus 536 f. Telete 536 f. Zeus' Ἐλικώνιος 117 132
Myth: Muses 257 f.
Etymology: 536 f. 537
 — mysteries on 672
- Heliopolis in Egypt 341₈ 478₄ (?) claims connexion with Heliopolis in Syria 550
- Heliopolis in Egypt (cont.)
Cults: Aten 315 Leon 571₂ Tem 315
- Heliopolis in Syria
Cults: Adad 550 ff. 584 Aphrodite 554 Atargatis 584 Dionysos 564 ff. 582₁₀ Gennaïos 571₂ Hermes 565 Iupiter Heliopolitanus 550 ff. 578 635 Mercurius 554 Seimios (?) 553 f. Venus 554 Zeus' Ἀδαδος 550 ff. 578 584 586₂ 778 f. Zeus' Ἡλιοπολίτης 552 635
Rite: religious prostitution 554
 — the Balanion at 555₃ coins of 558 561 565 566 f. description of ruins at 555 ff. divination at 552 f. history of 550 f. 550₃ 554 f. Trilithon at 562 f.
- Helios
Cults: Akrokorinthos 640 Alexandria 189₁ Ankyra in Galatia 189₂ Apollonia in Illyria 410 ff. Auximum 190₀ Byzantion 92 Corinth 292 Delos 578₂ Djebel-Dokhan 189₁ Djebel-Fateerh 189₁ Dreros 729 Edessa 706₂ Elis 455₃ Gaza 149₁ Gortyna 410 471 f. 546 635 Kypros 187 Lykia 301 Mytilene 189₁ Nemroud Dagh 744 ff. 748 Ostia 189₁ Palmyra 191₄ Pergamon 334₀ Praeneste 189₁ Rhodes 181₀ 331 f. 306₅ 643 Rome 189₁ Sidyma 189₂ Stratonikeia 189₂ Mt Taleyton 180 730 Thalamai 522 Tyre 197
Epithets: Ἀδιούνιος ταύρος 635 αἰθού 195₅ Ἀπόλλων 241 Ἀταβύριος (?) 336₄ γενετήρ 430₂ γενέτης 430₂ γενέτωρ 430₂ γεννητής 430₂ γεννητής θεῶν 461₇ γεννῶν 430₂ γονεῖς 430₂ εἰδῖος 197₃ 522₆ ζωογόνος 430₂ κλυτόπωλος 196₅ κόσμον τὸ περίδρομον ὄμμα 522₆ Μέγας Κύριος Σεβάσιος Ἅγιος 400₆ cp. 429₁ παργενέτωρ 187₁₀ 430₂ πανόπτης 461 πανταλός 187₁₀ παντόπτας 461₃ πασιφαῖς 197₃ 522₆ πατήρ 430₂ προπάτωρ 430₂ Σωτήρ 361₆ τεκνοποιός 430₂ τοκεύς 430₂ τρέφων 430₂ τροφεύς 430₂ φερέσβιος 430₂ χρυσεοφεγγής 187₁₀
Rites: eiresiōne 341 sacrifice of horses on Mt Taleyton 730
Priestesses: 243₁ 738
Myths: Demeter 231 lends solar cup to Herakles 225 353₃ Mithras 516 ff. parent of male sex 310 Pikoloos 241₁₅
Genealogy: f. of Aietes 245 253 by Perseis 416 of Aithon 328₅ of Aloens 245 737 and of Aietes by Antiope 738 s. of Euryphaessa 444₃ 537₁₀ f. of Kirke 238 of Korybantes by Athena 106₈ cp. 107₁ gf. of Hekate 245 f. of Lampetie 410 gf. of Medeia 244 245 419 h. of Neaira 410 f. of Pasiphæe

Helios (cont.)

by Perseus 464 of Phaethon 410
s. of Zeus 27₃

Functions: πατήρ πάντων 461₇ summer
234 Sunday 753

Attributes: amber 626₀ barsom 746 blue nimbus (?) 41₀ chariot on gable 45 f. crescent (?) 752 cup 358₃ gold
625 f. 626₀ hawk 626₀ lion 625₅
626 quadriga 752 rays 336 455₃
576 rose 625 f. 625₃ snake 392₄ snake-drawn chariot 248 thunderbolt 337

Types: bull 468 bust 573 575 bust with nimbus 571 charioteer 335 ff. disk on pole 291 drawn by four horses 752 drives chariot up sky
179 f. hawk 240 ff. lead figures (?) 570₂ lion 240₇ lizard 240₇ in quadriga 200₈ quadriga in boat 358₃ radiate 455₃ radiate head 336 rayed bust 576 rider on horse-back 333₅ serpent 240₇ swift limbs 311 two young male heads in juxtaposition 306₅ winged 342

Identified with Adad 550 f. 635 Apollon
241 Apollon Mithras Hermes 744 ff.
748 Dionysos 292 Iao 233 ff. Sarapis 361 435 Zeus 181₁ 186 ff.
194 f. (?) 361 400₆ 429₁ Zeus Aumos
193 Zeus, Dionysos 187₁₀ Zeus,
Hades, Dionysos 187₄ 234₄ Zeus,
Hades, Sarapis 187 Zeus, Mithras,
Sarapis 190 Zeus, Sarapis 189 f.
Zeus Serapis 190₀

Associated with (Aphrodite) 'Αγνή 550₆
Antiope 245 738 Aphrodite 292 Atar-gatis 578₂ Demeter 231₆ Pasiphae
522 Selene 358₃ 455₈ 522 Zeus 187

Superseded by St Elias (?) 178 ff.

— animals dedicated to 330 ff. boat of 358₃ cattle of 409 ff. 471 f. 546
635 639 f. chariot of 180 200₆ (?) 248 259₆ (?) 338₂ 358₃ 392₁ 752 783 chariot of, winged 248; chariot of, drawn by horses 231₆ chariot of,
drawn by winged horses 226 f.
chariot of, drawn by snakes 231₆ 238 chariot of, enclosed in solar disk 336 f. fountain of 368 369 381 f. horses of 195 337₃ 338₂ 784 horses of, on vases 226 f. quadriga of 293 293₃ rising of, on vases 226 f. sheep of 409 ff. cp. 404
throne of 585

Hella See Dodona

Helle

Myth: golden ram 121 414 ff.

Associated with Poseidon 418₀

Compared with Phaethon 419

Hellespontos 415 f.

Hellotia 525

Hellotis 525 644

Myth: 525₅

See also Europe

Hemera

Genealogy: st. of Aither 27₃

Associated with Aither 27₃

Heniochus 755₉

Heos 242₈

Epithets: ἠργέμεια 239₂

Type: in quadriga 200₆

Hephaistos

Cults: Memphis 433 Methana 328

Myths: Delphoi 258 makes crown of Ariadne 492 makes sceptre of Zeus
406 Prometheus 324 Talos 719 721

Genealogy: f. of Aithiops 195 s. of Talos 330₅ f. of Rhadamanthys
330₅

Attributes: anvil 202 double axe (?)
216₂ hammer 200 ff. 204 pincers
202

Types: resembles Dionysos 216₂ resembles Triptolemos 216₂ (?) 328

Identified with Ptah 433

Associated with Athena 324

In relation to Prometheus 324 328

— smithy of 302

Hera

Cults: Amastris 753 Anazarbos 597₄

Mt Arachnaion 117 Argos 224

440₇ 445 f. 445₁₀ 453₃ 455 ff. 458₈

463 467 532 624₄ Bosporos 445₁₀

Chalkis 463 Corinth 246 246₁ 445₁₀

Elis 624 Eretria (?) 463 Euboia

463 Karystos (?) 463 Knossos 522 f.

Kos 446₆ 447 Lebadeia 525 Mykenai 446 Olympia 370 Panamara

20 ff. Paros 669₂ Mt Pron 134 f.

Prosymna 445₀ Samos 440₇ 444 f.

Stratonikeia 20 ff. Thebes in Boiotia (?) 259₃ Thebes in Egypt 370₃

Tiryus (?) 454₀

Epithets: 'Ακραία 246₁ 445 445₁₀

'Αμμωνία 370 'Αργεία 447 453₈ 456₄

'Αργολίς 453₈ 'Ασσυρία 582 βασιλεία

453₈ Βουναία 246₁ βοῶπις 444 446

451 455 537₈ Γαμηλία 597₄ γλαυκῶπις (?) 455₈ Εὐβοία (?) 445 f. 451

463 Εὐρώπη 532 'Ηνιόχη 525 Ζευξίδια 458₃ Καλλιθέσσα (?) 459 Πολυόχος 597₄ πότνια 444 456 Πύρρονια

445 Προσυμναία 445₀ 454₀ ταυρώπις

(?) 455₆ Τελεία 20 φερέσβιος 31

Festivals: Anthesphoroi 440₆ Hekatombaia 446 f. 447₁ 451 Heraia

20 ff. 446 πενταετηρίς 21 the Shield

from Argos 446

Rites: distribution of money 22 of wine 22 games 21 marriage 21 f.

with Zeus 522 f. mysteries 21 sacrifice of cows 446 f. 451 votive cows

446 451

Priests: human βόες (?) 451₁₃ Kleobis

and Biton (?) 451₁₃

Priestesses: human βόες (?) 441 451

453 453₆ Io Καλλιθέσσα 453₇ Ky-dippe or Theano 447 ff. 451 Proitides

452 f.

Hera (cont.)

Personated by Medea (?) 248 priestess 22

Myths: Aquila 755, gives Argos an extra eye 462 Argos herds cattle of Hera at Nemea 446 Athamas 446 Cancer 755 Cretan bull 467 Dionysos 674 suckles Herakles 624 Io 438 ff. 441 451 Ixion 198 transforms Lynx 257 440, Kombabos 591, Metops 755, Milky Way 621 755 rears Nemean lion 456 Palikoi 106, Pheidros 451 ff. Serpens 755 rouses Titans to attack Zagreus 398 attacked by Typhoeus takes refuge in Egypt 445 hung up by Zeus 25 f.

Metamorphosed into cow 445 451 675, Functions: air 31 lunar 449 f. 455 ff. 522 f. earth 623 f. mountains 246, nature 591 ff. patron of women, marriage, child-birth, etc. 455 the planet Venus 756

Attributes: cow 44 ff. 451 cuckoo-sceptre 134 532 lily 623 f. ox-head (?) 403 peacock 440, pear-tree 453, the plant ἀστρίπιον 624, sceptre 134 532 753 snake (?) 445, stephane 532 624

Types: carried by lions 582 ff. cow (?) 446 cow-eyed, cow-faced 444 451 double busts of Zeus Ἰακχων and Hera Ἰακχωνία (?) 370, enthroned with stephane and cuckoo-sceptre 532 handles her veil 279 head on Ionic column 463 heads of Zeus Ἰακχων and Hera Ἰακχωνία jugate 370 influences that of Europe 532 pillar 453, dressed up post with cow's horns (?) attached to it 444 f. 451 Polykleitos 134 f. in quadriga 231, seated on conical stone with phiale and sceptre 463 rhombon 451 f. Identified with Atargatis 582 591 Isis 445 451

Associated with Hestia, Zeus, etc. 149, Iason 248 Isis 454 Zeus 117 133, 134 f. 154 f. 345, 348, 370, 459, 591, 522 f. 591 753 Zeus Ἰακχων 370 Zeus and Ares 597, Zeus Νεῦρος 456

In relation to Atargatis 583 Herakles 457, 667 Io 453 ff. Zeus 658, — anger of 106, 156 248 438 ff. 452 649, 674 cattle of 446 flowers of (corn) 458, head-gear of 445, mill of 624 nurses of 445 temple of 259, ep. 783

Heraklannon 348,

Heraia 446

Herakleia 351,

Math: three-eyed guide 320

Herakleitos, the Ionian 28 ff. 358-667, 754

Herakleitos, the Stoic 30, 31,

Herakleionpolis

Cults: Her-shef 346 Khnemu 346

Herakles, the Hæcan Daktylos

Cult: Megalopolis 412₂

Herakles

Cults: Kappadokia 603, Nemroud Dagh 744 746 748 750 Phoinike 544, 603, Phrygia 399, Tarentum 36 Tarsos 535, 598 ff. Tyre 356

Epithets: Ἀνικητος 399, Desanous (?) 603₃

Festival: Ortygothera (?) 535₀

Rite: οὐροστίψα 24₀

Personated by Ptolemy Philometor Soter ii (?) 709₁

Myths: Acheloiros 592, Cretan bull 467 crosses sea in solar cup 225 Eurystheus (?) 406 f. founds Olympic games 39 Geryoneus 410, Hydra 724 imports sheep 347, initiation at Eleusis 219 ff. 425 ff. on Mt Koniaion 117 leaves Kos 447 Prometheus 329, rescues Athamas 415 sees Zeus in ram-skin 347 f. solar cup 358, suckled by Hera 624

Genealogy: seven Herakles 27₃ s. of Zeus 27₃ by Astera or Asterie 544, Function: Mars the planet 746, 750 756

Attributes: bakchos 220 club 576 746 cornu copiac 592, lion-skin 576 myrtle-wreath 220

Types: bearded bust 571 (?) bust 571₀ (?) 576 capturing Cretan bull 499 feasting in Olympos 501 f. 784 Lansdowne 204 Lysippos 36 204

Identified with Artagnes Ares 744 746 748 Ba'al-hammân 356, Melqarth 356 Sandas 535, 598 f. Shu 348 387 Zeus 356₂

Associated with Ammon 348, Plouton (?) 502, Zeus 399, 502, Zeus and Hebe (?) 501₆

In relation to Hera 457, 467 — emerald stêle of 356 greed of 521, initiation of 219 ff. pyre of 600 f.

Hercules

Attribute: club 616

Type: bust 616

Hermes

Cults: Arkadia 84, Dieros 729, Helio-polis in Syria 565 Mt Ide in Crete 729 f. Mt Kyllene 103, Kolchoi 415 Mt Lykaion 84, Nemroud Dagh 744 ff. 718 Phaistos 661, Samos (?) 172 Thera 143

Epithet: Τέχων 175 f.

Myths: Apemosyne 643, caduceus 398 Delotot 755 Dionysos 674 Lepus 755 golden lamb 405, golden ram 417, kills (Argos) Πανόπτης 462 lifts cattle of Helios 410 sent to Aietes 405 sent by Zeus to Aietes 417 slays Argos 439 ff.

Genealogy: f. of Bounos 246 f. of Eleusis by Dacira 242 f. of Euan-dros 87 f. of Myrtilos 405, s. of Zeus Ηἰκος 237₁

Hermes (cont.)

Functions: conducts procession of deities 707 fertility 704 f. gate-keeper 565 567 Mercury the planet 746₁ 756 phallic 429₄ ψυχροπομπός 746₁ Wednesday 753

Attributes: barsom 746 caduceus 422₇ 661₁ 698 699 chitoniskos 83 chlamys 83 forked stick 698₁ 699 hárpe 441₁ magic wand 441₁ pan-pipes 441₁ pétasos 83 661₁ pilos 83 ram 429₄ winged pétasos 575

Types: awaiting áwodos of earth-goddess (?) 699 beardless 83 bust 575 with caduceus glancing round 204 carrying infant Dionysos 670 708 f. evoking dead from burial-jar 469; herm with kálathos 570 f. lead figures 570₂ Lysippos 204 nude bust 571 (?) on Spartan kýlix 93 ff. Polykleitos (?) 84₁ seated on tree-stump (?) 661₁

Identified with Apollon Mithras Helios 744 ff. 748 Thoth 433

Associated with Alkidameia 246 Apemosyne 643₅ Daeira 212 Pherephatta 699 Satyroi 699 Zeus 567 570 570₂

In relation to St Elmo (?) 775

Superseded by St Tychon 175

— Paul taken for 194₀

Hermes the planet

Attributes: anemone 625₅ 626 bronze 625 f. iron 626₀ lead 626₀ madder 625₅ 626 snake 625₅ 626 swan 626₀ tin 626₀

Hermias 170

Hermione 135 344 519₂

Hermokles of Rhodes 591₂

Hermon, Mt

Cult: Leukothea 420₀

Hermonthis

Cults: Apollon 436 Bacis, Bacchis, or Bouchis 436 f. 470 f. Zeus 436

Herodes Attikos 2₂ 275

Heroës

Attribute: snakes 392₁

Heros

Cult: Gaza (?) 149₁

Herse

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Selene 732₅

Her-shef

Cults: Herakleoupolis 346 Oasis of Siwah 389

Etymology: 346₅

Type: ram-headed 346 389

Identified with Dionysos 346₅ Khnemu 346

— gold statuette of 346₅

Heru-behutet 206

Hesiod 170

Hesperides 275₂

Hesperos

Associated with Selene 449

Hestia

Cults: in the Amáron 16 f. Athens 709₁ Dreros 729₂ Phaleron 112₃

Associated with Eirene 709₁ Zeus, Hera, etc. 149₂ Zeus 330₁

Hiberi 417

Hierapolis in Phrygia 588₁

Cults: Demeter 229₃ Kabeiroi 109 f.

Hierapolis in Syria, called Bambouch

588 Bambuche 589 Bambych 588

Bambyke 582 587₀ Mabog 582 587

Mabug 587₀ Mambog 587 Mambug

587₀ Mumbij 588 f. Munbedj 589

Cults: Adad 582 ff. 778 Apollon (?) 585 f.

Atargatis 582 ff. cp. 785 Derketo

582 ff. Zeus ("Adados") 582 ff. 598₂

Rites: human böes 442₁ incubation

407₁ sea-water poured out in temple

584₁ young men offer first beards, girls leave tress uncut 593₀

Myths: Deukalion 583 584₁ 591₃

Dionysos 583 Kombabos 591₂ Semiramis 583

— coins of 584₂ 586 f. description of ritual at 591₃ description of ruins at 588 f.

Hierapytna 305

Cult: Zeus Κρηταγενής 149₁

Hierax 440

Hieron, potter 513₄ 513₀ 706 f.

Himeros

Attribute: ίγυα 258

Hioma 212

Hippa 395₃

Hipparchos

Type: 56

Hippodameia, w. of Antonoos 73₄ 75

Hippodameia, d. of Oinomaos

Myth: Pelops' race with Oinomaos 36 ff. 407 ff.

Hippokrene 117 170

Hippolytos

Cult: Troizen 225₄ 593₀

Myths: 225₄ 680₄ Asklepios 680

Compared with Perdix, Aktaion, Adonis 728

Superseded by St Hippolytos 172

Hippolytos, St 172

Hippos 30₂ See also Equos

Hippotes 251

Hippothon 218

Hippothontis 218

Hirpi Sorani 63₃

Hispania Baetica

Cult: Ba'al-hammán 309

Histiaia

Cult: Dionysos (?) 463

— coins of 463

Hittites

Cults: bronze bull (?) 641 ff. 784 bull

636 639 ff. Chipa 526₂ 644 father-god

604 f. 631 634 636 at Heliopolis (?)

and Hierapolis (?) in Syria 584 lightning-god 635 mountain-mother

631 Sandas 593 ff. 635₁₃ (?) son-god

- Hittites (cont.)
 599₆ 604 631 f. sun-god 635 Tešub
 526₂ 604 f. 639 ff. 644 thunder-god
 635₁₃ — fight Rameses ii 362 rock-carvings of, at Boghaz-Keui 87 rock-cut thrones of 135 ff. 776 sculptures of, at Fraktin and Yarre 587₄
 See also Arinna, Boghaz-Keui, Eyuk, Hatti, Ivriz; Chipa, Sandas, Tešub
- Homer, apotheosis of 129 ff.
- Homogyros
Myths: first yokes oxen to plough 459₄ 469₃ struck by lightning 459₄
- Horai 242₈ 688
Rite: eiresiōne 341
Types: four 517₀ two 112₂ 222
- Horeb, Mt 181 f.
- Horos
Cult: Edfū 206 341
Functions: face of heaven 315 moon 315 sky 341 sun 315
Genealogy: s. of Osiris 223₅ s. of Rā 206
Attributes: falcon 341 hawk 241 pschent 574 sparrow-hawk 341
Type: head of sparrow-hawk 387
Identified with Apis 435₄ Apollon 241- Rā 315 341
 — eyes of 315
- Hyades 111₆
- Hyakinthos, daughters of 319
- Hybris 252₃
- Hydaspes, lychnis found in 583₃
- Hydra
Myth: slain by Herakles and Iolaos 724₁
- Hydra, the constellation 755₂
- Hydrous See Hydruntum
- Hydruntum 623₆
- Hygieia
Cult: Priansos (?) 402
Identified with Nemesis (?) 270₅
- Hymettos, Mt
Cult: Zeus 'Τμήτριος 121 — convent on 233₅ spring on 429₄
- Hypatos, Mt 123
- Hyperboreoi 244
- Hyperes 74₀
- Hyperion 238
- Hypnos 26
Attribute: blue nimbus 41₀
- Hypseus 416
- Hyria 735₂
- Hyrkaniš
Cult: Demeter 229₉
- Hysia 735₂
- Iajta 307
- Iakchos
Cults: Athens 669 f. 695 Elensis 692
Epithets: ἀβρός (?) 234₄ πλουτοδότης 504₃ 670₁ Σεμελῆσιος 504₃ 670₁
Genealogy: s. of Semele 670 f. s. of Zeus by Semele 693
- Iakchos (cont.)
Attributes: bakchos 425 nebris 425
Type: Praxiteles 427
Associated with Demeter and Kore 425
 — evocation of 669 f. 672₅
- Iambe 425₅ 681₄
- Ianiculum
Cults: Adad 551 Atargatis (?) 551₁₁ 785
 Commodus (?) 551₁₁ Genius Forinarum (?) 552₀ Iupiter Heliopolitanus (?) 551₁₁ Iupiter Heliopolitanus Augustus (?) 552₀ Iupiter Heliopolitanus Conservator Imperii (?) 551₁₁
- Ianus
Type: dragon devouring its own tail 192₁ (?)
- Iao 188; 232₁ 233 ff.
Epithets: ἀβρός 234₄ Sabao(th) 235 φωσφόρος 234₄
Functions: autumn 234 light 234₄ sun (?) 236 cp. 337₃
Etymology: 188₁ 233₅ 234₄
Type: golden calf 236
Identified with Hades 234 Helios 233 ff. Zeus 233 ff.
- Iao, horse of Helios 337₃
- Iacouee 234
- Iapetos
Genealogy: s. of Ouranos with Ge 597₄ f. of Prometheus 324₃ 325
- Iarbas 366₇ (?)
- Iasily Kaya See Boghaz-Keui
- Iasion
Genealogy: f. of Korybas by Kybele 106
- Iason 417
Myth: at Corinth 246 ff. pursues Medea from Corinth 249 ff.
Personates Zeus (?) 248
Type: grappling Colchian bulls 499
Associated with Hera 248
 See also Argonauts
- Iasos 170
- Idaean Cave, bronze 'shield' from 645
 651 rock crystal from 649₃
- Idaia
Genealogy: w. of Minos 493₂ 544₂
- Ide, Nymph 112₁
- Ide, a Cretan Nymph 112₃
- Ide, a Phrygian Nymph 112₄
- Ide, Mt, in Crete 112 647
Cults: Daktyloi 646 Hermes 729 f. Kouretes 645 Zeus 161 529 645 652 Zeus 'Ιδαῖος 118 648 ff. Zeus Ταλλαῖος (?) 729 f. Zeus and Hera 708₃ Zeus nursed by Helike 529 f.
 — Idaean Cave on 135 150 150₂ 529 tomb of Zeus on 157 Zeus born on 151
- Ide, Mt, in Phrygia 100 116
Cults: Zeus 102 102₅ 154 338₁ 520₂ Zeus 'Ιδαῖος 117 126 Zeus Πατρώος 116
Myths: judgment of Paris 125 Zeus married to Hera 154 nursed by nymphs 112

Idea See Idaia

Idomeneus

Myths: colony of Sallentini 181₀ return from Trojan War 652 f.

Genealogy: s. of Deukalion of Knossos 653₁

Compared with Jephthah 653₁

Idothea 112₃

Ieù

Epithet: Sabaoth 235₀

Function: light 235₀

Ikaria in Attike, now called Dionysio 171₄

Rite: dance round he-goat 678 705 711

Ikaria, the island near Samos 344

Cult: Artemis 282₂

Ikarios 214₁ (?) 345 709

Myth: slew he-goat, inflated its skin, and instituted dance round it 678₄ 689₁

Ikaros, otherwise called Ikarios 345₃

Ikaros

Myth: 344 ff. buried by Daidalos 727₃ Labyrinth 343

Functions: morning-star (?) 343₂ Orion (?) 343₂ sun (?) 343 346

— tomb of 344 as dance-theme 481

Ikonion, rock-cut throne near 136

Ilion

Cult: Athena 533 783

Rites: bull hung on olive-tree 533 Locrion maidens 783

Myth: Ilos 468 f.

— Athena's olive at 533

Illyria or Illyricum

Cults: Kronos (?) 181₀ Poseidon 181₀

Rite: horse flung into water 181₀

Myth: Io 441

Illyrioi 321₁

Illyrios 321₁

Ilos

Myth: 468 f.

Etymology: 468

Inachos

Myth: 237₁ 237₃

India

Cults: Çiva 637 Dionysos 667₄ Sarapis 637₈

Indians

Myth: fight with the gods 318

Indra 190₃ 741₄

Epithet: bull 718₁

Myth: Ahalyâ 395₂

Function: thunder 341₇ 718₁

Attribute: eagle 341₇

In relation to ram 395₂

Indulgentia Augusti

Attributes: cornu copiae, rod, wheel 268

Type: stands leaning on column 268

Ino

Oracle: 522

Myths: Athamas 674 674₆ becomes Leukothea 674 Brasiai 674₆ Dionysos 674 674₆ Melikertes 416 674 Phrixos 415 f. 418₂

Ino (cont.)

Genealogy: d. of Kadmos and Harmonia 415

Identified with Pasiphae (?) 522

See also Leukothea

Io

Cults: Egypt 237₁ Gaza 236 Nineveh 237₃ (?) Syria 237₁

Epithets: βοῶπις 454 Καλλιθία 454₀

Καλλιθέα 236 454₀ Καλλιθήη 453₈

Καλλιθέσσα 453 459 Καλλιθήη (?)

454₀ Καλλιθία 453₈ λαμπαδηφόρε

237₁ μάκαρα 237₁ ταυρώπις 455₆

Oracle: 522₃ (?)

Rite: knocking on doors 237₁

Myths: Argos 739 Epaphos 438 ff.

Euboia 462 739 gad-fly 532 532₁₀

Hera 438 ff. Iynx 257 wanderings

236 f. Zeus 257 438 ff. 457 ff.

Metamorphosed into a cow 438 ff. 441

451 453 462 470 532 549₂ 739 f.

Genealogy: m. of Dionysos by Zeus

457 f. of Epaphos 462

Functions: hypostasis or by-form of Hera (?) 453 lunar 236 237₁ 454 ff.

470 733 f. (?) 739 priestess of Hera

438 441 453

Etymology: 454 f.

Attribute: cow 236

Types: with bull or cow 236₃ with cow's horns and cow's ear 459₅

horned 237₃

Identified with Astarte 454₂ Isis 237₁

441 453 Pasiphae 522₃ (?)

Associated with Argos 459₅ Zeus 438 ff.

457 681₄ 733 f. 739 777 Zeus Ηἰκος

237₁

In relation to Argos 459 Hera 453 ff.

— marriage of (scene in mysteries?)

535₀ See also Eios Gamoi

Iobakcheia 686

Iobakchoi 457 f. 686

Rites: Aphrodite 679₁₇ Dionysos 679₁₇

Kore 679₁₇ Palaimon 679₁₇ Pro-teurythmos 679₁₇

Priests: ἀνθιρεύς 679₁₇ ἀρχίβακχος

679₁₇ βουκολικός 679₁₇ ιερεύς 679₁₇

ἱπποὶ 442 ταύμας 679₁₇

Iobakchos

Cult: Athens 457 f.

Epithet: χορομανής 457₇

Priest: βουκολικός 457 f.

Etymology: 458₃

Attribute: bull 458

Iolaos

Myth: Hydra 724₁

Iole 117

Iolkos 244 246

Ione

Cults: Zeus Ἐπικάρπιος 236₁₀ Zeus

Νέμειος 236₁₀

— foundation of 236 cp. 237₁

Ionia

Rites: dances of Τῦρᾶνες, Κορίθῶνες,

Σάτυροι, βουκόλοι 679₁

- Ionian Gulf
Myth: Io 441
 Ionian League
Cult: Demeter 229₃
 Ionians(?) 362
 Iopolis, foundation of 236 cp. 237₁
 Iphianassa 452
 Iphigenia
Myth: sacrifice to Artemis 417
 Iris 200 ff.
Myth: binds lion with her girdle 457₃
Type: with nimbus 203₂
 Isis
Cults: Alexandria 753 Egypt 237₁
Epithets: Némeis 271₅ Tύχη 271₅
Rite: gilded cow wrapped in black mantle 581₁₂
Myth: Osiris 435
Metamorphosed into cow 462
Functions: cow-goddess 237₁ lunar 237₁ 454 Virgo 755₁₀
Attributes: busts of Sun and Moon 271 corn-ears 271 cow 454 disk and horns 753 double cornu copiae 271 fruit 271 head-dress of solar disk and feathers 427₅ 620 (?) purse 271 ram with disk on its head 346₃ rudder 271 sceptre 620 sistrum 620 snake 271 wheel 271
Types: cow 581₁₂ serpent 360 standing on hind(?) 620
Identified with Demeter(?) 427₅ Hera 445 454 Io 237₁ 441 453 Nemesis 271₅ Selene 454₇ Tyche 271₅
Associated with Sarapis 360 Triptolemos 222 f. Zeus 346₅ 457₅ Zeus Helios Sarapis 454 — head-dress of 271 worshipped by Commodus 607
 Isityche 271₅
 Issos
Cult: Auramazda 208₅
 Istar
Genealogy: d. of Sin 237₁
Function: planet Venus 577 755
Associated with Ramman 577₀ Sin, Samaš, and Adad 577 Tammuz 645 646₀
Attribute: dove 584₀
In relation to Semiramis 584₀ — descent of 237₁
 Istros, the river 245₃
 Istros, the town
Cults: Dioskouroi(?) 306₅ Helios 306₅
 Itabyrion See Tabor, Mt
 Italia
Type: seated on globe 52
 Italians, golden or purple ram of 403 ff.
 Italy
Myths: Kyklopes 312 Liber 693₄
 Ithake 328 328₃ 544₀
Cult: Odysseus(?) 328
 Ithakos, eponym of Ithake 328₃ 328₄
 Ithas or Ithax 327 f.
Epithet: Προμηθεύς 327
 Ithome, Mt
Cult: Zeus 154 Zeus 'Ιθωμάρας 121
Myth: Zeus nursed by Nymphs 154
 Iulus 488
 Iuno
Cults: Caerleon-on-Usk 611₂ Netherby 611₃ Rome 59₁₁ 611₁ Syene 353₄
Epithets: Hēra 609₉ Lacinia 82₁ Regina 59₁₁ 353₃ 611₁ 611₃(?) Sancta 609₉ 610₅ Saturnia 449₃
Functions: lunar 455 mountain 353₄
Festival: Nonae Caprotinae 694₀
Attributes: cow 619 patra 289₁ peacock 289₁
Type: on cow 619
Assimilated to Venus 617 f.(?)
Associated with Jupiter Dolichenus 610 f. 611 619 Jupiter and Minerva 60 — anger of 661
 Iuno, queen of Crete 661 f.
 Iupiter
Cults: Acumincum(?) 611 f. Apulum 190₀ 630₉ Aquileia in Upper Germania 619 626 Aquincum 551₅ 633₂ Athens 551₁ 554₁ Auximum 190₀ Babylon 757, Caerleon-on-Usk 611₂ Capitolias 45 f. Carmentum 353₁ 551₀ 612 ff. 626 633₁ Carthage 353₄ Celts 288 f. 482₀ Cirta 41₅ Dalmatia(?) 191₀ Dion in Dekapolis 572, Doliche 606 Dorstadt 191₀ Eleutheropolis 572₁ Herdenheim 619 ff. 626 ff. Heliopolis in Syria 550 ff. 578 635 Ianiculum(?) 551₁₁ Kommagene 612₂ Lambaisa 188₃ Latovici 551 551₅ 633₁ Lussonium 615 ff. 620 ff. 626 Lutri 189₁ Magna 552₃ Massilia 552₁ 611 Mauretania Caesariensis 354 f. Neapolis in Samaria 45 572₁ Nemausus 552₂ Netherby 611₃ Nikopolis in Iudaea 572; Pfünz 630₃ Portus Romanus 551₁₀ 567₅ Puteoli 551₉ Rome 42 ff. 53 f. 58 189₁ 190₀ 191₀ 194₁ 351₁₁ 353₄ 608 ff. 630₅ Sallentini 180₅ Sassoferrati 190₀ Siscia 551₇ Syene 353₄ Trigisamum 617 ff.
Epithets: Aeternus 59₁₁ 191₀ 608₇ 609₃ aetherius 26 cp. 27₃ 102 Ammon 365₂ (See also Hammon) Angelus 551₁₀ 567₅ Augustus 552₀ 609₃ Balmarcodes 571₀ Barbarus 353₄ Belus 757₁ Capitolinus 34₃ 42 ff. 53 f. 194₁ 234₁ 781 Chubis 353₄ Conservator 276₇ Conservator Imperii 551₁₁ Conservator Totius Poli 608₇ 633 corniger 365₁ Crescens 714 Defensor 276₅ deus Dolichenus 611₃ (See also Dolichenus) Deus Paternus Comma-genus 612₂ Dignus (?) 609₉ cp. 609₃ Doliceus 615₀ (See also Dolichenus) Dolichenus 25₂ 194₁ 520₂ 551₃ 604 ff. 634 778 ff. Dolichumus 611₂ (See also Dolichenus) Dolychenus

Iupiter (cont.)

610₅ (See Dolichenus) Dulcenus 551₅
 616₂ Dulicenus 630₃ (See also Dolichenus) Exhibitor Invictus 608₇ 633 Exoriens 714 Exsuper(antis- simus) 276₅ 598₁ Hannnon 353 ff.
 353₄ 419₀ (See also Ammon) Hel- liopolitanus 194₁ 549 ff. 617 632 ff.
 778 f. Iuvenis 276₅ Libertas 194₁
Menzana 180₅ 717₃ Molossus 366₁ natus ubi ferrum exoritur 630₀ (See also ubi ferrum nascitur) Numen
Praestantissimum 608₇ Optimus 609₀
Optimus Maximus 191₀(?) 288₃ 353₄
 551₄ 551₅ 551₆ 551₇ 551₈ 551₉ 551₁₀
 551₁₁ 552₀ 552₁ 552₂ 552₃ 554₁ 558₂
 561₂ 571₀ 598₁ 608₇ 609₁ 609₈ 611₁
 611₂ 611₃ 612₂ 614 614₂ 614₃ 627₂
 627₅ 628₂ 628₃ 630₃ 630₀(?) 633₁ 633₂
 715 782 Optimus Maximus 59₁₁ pater optimus 757 Praestantissimus 609₀
 cp. 609₈ Propagator (?) 552₂ Pro- pitius (?) 522₁ Purpurio 58 782 rector
superum 757 Sabazius 23₄ Sanctus
 (?) 609₀ Saturnius 45₅ Sebazius
 393₀ Silvanus 353₄ Sol 609₀ Summus
 598₁ Terminus 53 520₂ Tonans 751₈ ubi ferrum nascitur 627₂ 630₃ 630 ff.
 (See also natus ubi ferrum nascitur) verveceus 395 Victor 41₅

Festival: Sebadia 393₀

Oracles: 552 f.

Rites: games 715

Priests: Anrelii 630 flamen Dialis
 717₃ kandidatus 608₃ 610₀ lecti- curius 609₁ pater 609₂ princeps
 609₃ sacerdos 610

Personated by Augustus 43₃ Commo- modus 276₅ Domitian 751₃ an emperor of the first cent. A.D. 43₃ Nerva 43₃ Roman emperor 46 f. Scipio
 58 f.

Myths: Pisces 584₀ suckled by goat
 711₇ swallowed by Saturn 53 f.

Genealogy: f. of Asterion by Idea (= Idaia) 493₂ gr.-s. of Caelus 59
 s. of Caelus 59 f. of Thebe 365₂

Functions: atmosphere, rain, and storm 759 the day-light 14 fertility 609 622 633 fire-drill (?) 330 giver of life 757 god dwelling in aether
 26 god of precious metals 629 mountain 181₀ (?) 353₄ 621 f. oak 1₃ rain 393₀ ruler of starry sky 757 the sky 3₂ 6₃ 10 f. 609 solar 288 f.
 552 578 609 632 714 (?) storm 570 thunder 632 f. and lightning 621

Etymology: 14 779

Attributes: bull 576 ff. 611 631 633 ff. butterfly 598₁ club 289₂ coat of mail 628 corn-ears 552 569 572
 617 (?) cornu copiae 598₁ crown 289₁ double axe 631 eagle 62 eagle on globe with wreath in his beak
 628 fir-cone (?) 569₁ flower-shaped

Iupiter (cont.)

disk 617 globe 41₅ 43 ff. 572 ff. (?)
 grape-bunch (?) 617 helmet 289₂ jewels (?) 569 kálathos 568 f. 571 f.
 574 576 598₁ lily 612 621 ff. nine
 S-shaped pendants 289₁ oak-crown 41₅ patera 598₁ pillar 62₄ 611 (?) purple cloak 58 radiate nimbus
 572₁ ram's head 612 seven stars
 276₅ shield 289₂ silver 626 ff. snake issuing from tree-trunk 289₀ solar disk 569 (?) 571 spear 41₅ 276₅ star 616 620 (?) starry robes 59 toga picta 59 tree with leaves and fruit 619 tunica palmata 59 two bulls 567 ff. Victory 41₅ 616 617 (?) 620 (?) 628 wheel 288 f. whip 552
 568 ff. wreath 43₂

Types: advancing towards Giant (?)
 517₀ Apollonios 42 f. archaistic 598₁ with arched mantle 59 f. as beardless charioteer with whip, thunderbolt, and corn-ears 552 as charioteer with whip and corn-ears standing between two bulls 567 ff.
 delegating globe to emperor 46
 Egyptising 572 ff. holding wheel
 288 f. infant riding on goat 713 f.
 protecting emperor 276₅ pyramid 520₂ radiate 194₁ in Roman military costume 289₀ 289₁ as Roman soldier with Phrygian cap holding double axe and thunderbolt and standing on back of bull 611 ff. seated with globe and sceptre 45 f. 781 seated on pillar 62₄ 521₂ seated with sceptre (?), thunderbolt (?), globe (?) 42 f.
 seated with sceptre on eagle, his head surrounded by starry mantle 754₂ seated with thunderbolt and sceptre, left foot on globe 47 ff.
 standing behind foreparts of two bulls 617 619 (?) standing on bull with double axe and thunderbolt
 606 youthful 289₁ (?) youthful head
 712 f.

Associated with Augustus 288₃ Bonus
Eventus 630₀ Caelus 60 Commodus
 551₁₁ Genius Forinarum 552₀ Iuno
 611 Iuno and Minerva 45 60 781 f.
Iuno Sancta 610₅ Iuno Sancta Hera
 609₀ 610 (Iupiter) Deus Paternus
Commagenus 612₂ Iupiter Dolichenus with Iupiter Heliiopolitanus 551₈
 633₁ cp. 551₅ 552₃ Libertas 194₁
Nemausus 552₂ 569 Silvanus 353₄
Sol 609₃ Tanit 355₁

Identified with Adad 549 ff. Auramazda
 754 Caelus 59 Dis (i.e. Sarapis)
 188₃ Elagabalos 520₂ Iupiter Dol- ichenus with Iupiter Heliiopolitanus
 551₅ 552₃ 633₃ cp. 551₈ 633₁ Jehovah
 234₄ Libertas 194₁ Marduk 755 f.
Pluto Serapis 188₃ Sarapis Sol 190₀
 191₀ 609₀

Jupiter (cont.)

Associated with Venus Felix and Mercurius Augustus 554₁ Venus Heliopolitana and Mercurius Heliopolitanus 551₁ 554₁ Venus and Mercurius 554₁ Venus Victrix 551₆ 554₁ Vesta 330

Supersedes Hittite father-god 604 631 Hittite son-god 604 631 f.

— spring of 419₉

Jupiter, king of Crete 661 f.

Jupiter, the planet 545₃ 616 (?) 731 741 750 755 f. 758 f.

Epithet: temperate 760

Functions: fertilising winds 759 moisture 759₃ ep. 759₅ solar 759₂

Ivriiz

Cult: Sandas 598₂

— Hittite rock-carvings at 594 f. 603

Ixion 198 ff. 254 288

Genealogy: s. of Aithon 199 s. of Phlegyas 199 199₃

Function: sun 199 ff. 254

Compared with German elves 199₂

— on a gem 199 on a mirror 204 on a sarcophagus 204 f. on vases 199 ff. on a wall-painting 202 ff. wheel of 198 ff.

Iynx 253 ff.

Myths: Hera 257 inspires Zeus with love for Io 440₇

Metamorphosed into stone 440₇ wry-neck 440₇

Genealogy: d. of Echo 257 440₇ d. of Peitho 440₇

Identified with Mintha 257

Jehovah

Attributes: eagle 232 hawk (?) 232 winged wheel 232 f.

Type: as a solar Zeus 232 f. seated on winged wheel 232 f.

Identified with Bacchus 234₄ Dionysos 234₄ Iupiter Capitolinus 234₄ Iupiter Sabazius 234₄ Liber pater 234₄ Zeus 233₇

— name of, trilateral 232 f. under the name Iao 233 ff.

Jephthah

Compared with Idomeneus 653₁

Jerusalem

Cults: Moloch 723₁ Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 233

John the Baptist, St

Festivals: June 24 286 ff. 338 f.

Juktas, Mt

Cult: (Rhea) 645

— tomb of Zeus on 158 ff. 645 f. 646₀

Julian 187 637 783

Justinian 167

Kabeirion, vases from Theban 654

Kabeiroi

Cults: Etruria 107 f. Hierapolis in Phrygia 109 f. Magnesia on the Kabeiroi (cont.)

Maiandros 110 Mt Olympos 107 ff. Pergamon 110 120 (?) Phrygia 108₁ Samothrace 109 120 Syros 715₂

Epithet: Σύριοι 715₂

Personated by Commodus and Verus 715₂

Myths: two brothers slay third 107 f. witnessed birth of Zeus 110 120 Function: St Elmo's fire 772 ep. 765 f.

Attribute: rings 329₀

Identified with Korybantēs 106 107 Zeus and Dionysos 112

Associated with Zeus 120

In relation to Dioskouroi 765 f. 772 Prometheus 328

See also Kabeiros

Kabeiros

Cults: Birytos 328 Boiotia 705₀ Thebes 112₆ 328₈ Thessalonike 108 ff. 513

Rite: omophagy 108 f.

Personated by Nero 108₃

Genealogy: f. of Dionysos 112₆

Attributes: double axe 108 ff. 329₀ horn or horns 108 f. 513 rhytōn 108 ring 108 ff.

Type: 328

Compared with Kyklops and Prometheus 328₀

Identified with Dionysos 107 f. 112 Zeus 112

See also Kabeiroi

Kadmos

Myths: drives cow (Europe?) 539 ff. founds Thebes 469 539 f. kills snake at Thebes 540 sacrifices to Zeus and the Hadryades 511₁ servitude of eight years 540₁

Genealogy: s. of Agenor 538 540 b. of Europe 538 539 s. of Phoinix 539

Kairos 25₀

Kaisareia in Kappadokia

Cult: Mt Argaios 102₅ 603₂

Kaisareia Paneas

Cults: Dio-Pan 603₆ Echo (?) 603₆

Kaisariani 233₅

Kalais 721

Kalamis 352 362

Kalaureia 74₀

Kalehas

Cult: Mt Drion in Daunia 407₁

Oracle: 407₁

Kalchedon 254

Kallaiithya See Io

Kalliope 105 f.

Genealogy: m. of the Korybantēs by Zeus 105 f.

Kalliroe

Cult: Phaleron 112₃

Kallisto

Associated with Zeus 155

Kallistratos, St 170

Kallithea See Io

- Kallithoë See Io
 Kallithye See Io
 Kallithyessa See Io
 Kallithyia See Io
 Kalos See Talos
 Kalypso
Epithets: δευή θεός ἀδύεσσα 241
 — doublet of Kirke 241₁₄
- Kamaritai 667₄
 Kameiros, votive bronzes from 330 ff.
 Kanachos 36₄ 542₅ 622 (?)
 Kanobos
Myth: Io 438 f.
 Kapaneus 318
 Kappadokia
Cults: Herakles Δισανδός (?), Desan- das (?), Desanaus (?) 603₅
- Karchedon
Cult: Kronos 76₃
- Karia
Cult: Zeus Πανάμπος 18–25
- Karmanioi
Cult: Ares 746₂
Rite: sacrifice of ass 746₂
- Karneia 352₀
 Karneios
Epithet: Οικέρας 351₇
- Karnos 351₇
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Europe
 351₇
- Karpathos 323₄
 Kartemnia (?) 471₄
 Kartemnides See Gortyna
- Karthaia
Cult: Artemis 'Εφεσία 173₀
- Kartys (?) 471₄
 Karystos
Cult: Hera (?) 463
 — coins of 463
- Kassandra
Epithet: Πασίφά 522
Genealogy: d. of Priam 522
Identified with Pasiphae 522
- Kasion, Mt
Cult: Zeus Κάσιος 123
- Kasiope
Cult: Zeus Κάσιος 123
- Kasos, the hero 237₁
 Kasos, the island 729
- Kassandros 51
- Kastellorizo
Cult: St Elias 182 f.
- Kastor
Cult: Byzantion 168
Myths: Prometheus 329₀ Talos 721
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Leda 760₃
- Kataibates
Cult: Anazarbos 597₄ See also Zeus
Kαταβάτης
Associated with Persephone 597₄
- Katakekaumene, Zeus born in 152
- Katreus
Myth: 117 643₅
- Kaukasos, Mt
Myth: Prometheus 329₀
- Kaulonia 305
Cult: Zeus 'Αμύριος 17
- Kaunos 237₃
- Kefr-Nebo
Cults: Leon 571₂ Seimios 571₂ Symbetylos 571₂
- Kekrops 77
Myth: sends Argos to Libye and Sicily 458₃
- Keleai, Anáktoron at 260₁
- Kelenderis
Cult: Demeter 229₃
- Kelcos 175₀
Genealogy: f. of Demophon by Meta-neira 211 f. of Triptolemos 175₀ 218 226
Etymology: 226
- Keltai 321₁
- Kenaion, Mt
Cults: Zeus Παρθῶς 117 123 St Elias
 177 f.
- Kentauroi 198
Type: confused with Silenoi (?) 696₃
- Keos
Cults: Artemis 172 (?) 172₀ St Artemidos 172 Seirios 740 Zeus 'Ικμαίος
 740 Myths: Aristaios 372₇ 740
- Kephalenia 165 328₃
- Kephalos
Genealogy: s. of Deïoneus 345₄
- Kephisodotos 670
- Kephisos
Cult: Phaleron 112₃
- Kerastai 75
- Kerata, rock-cut throne on 145
- Keten
Identified with Proteus 496
- Khnuma
Cults: Elephantine 346 347₅ 387
 Herakleoupolis 246 Mendes 346 f.
 S. Egypt 346
Functions: Nile 349₂ phallic 429₄ water 349₂
Attributes: horns of Amen 347 ram 429₄ ram's horns 361 serpent 357₁ solar disk 347₅
Types: blue 347₅ 349₂ horned 386 pantheistic 429₄ as ram 346 ram-headed 346 387
Identified with Ba-neb-Tettu 346 f.
 Her-shef 346 Râ 346 Zeus 361
- Khnemu-Râ
Attribute: solar disk 346
Types: as ram 346₃ ram-headed 346
- Khut-Âten 315
- Khut-en-Âten 315 f.
- Kibyra, in Phrygia, coins of 530₂
- Kilikia
Cults: Auramazda 208 Ba'al-tarz 227
 Triptolemos 227 Zeus Βόρειος 142₁₀
 Zeus 'Ολβιος 125
- Killas 225₄
- Kimmeria
Myth: Io 441

- Kirke 71 238 ff.
Cult: Italy 243 f.
Epithets: Αλαή 242₈ δεινή θεός αυ-δήεσσα 241
Myths: carried off from Kolchis 238 influenced by that of Medeia (?)
 238₃ 238₄ love for Pegasus 241 f.
 Pikelos 241₁₅
Genealogy: st. of Aietes and Pasiphae
 416 d. of Helios 238 st. of Medeia
 244 aunt of Medeia 244
Functions: lunar (?) 242 solar 238 ff.
 241
Etymology: 240 ff. 342
Attributes: blue nimbus 41₀ 238 halo 238 lion 242₈ rayed crown 238 f.
 solar chariot 238 swine 242₈ wolf
 242₃
Type: 238 f.
 — doublet of Kalypso 241₁₄ as a hawk 241 ff. mortar of 244₅ χάνα non of 244₃
- Kisseis 111₆
 Kissotomoi 534₈
 Kithairon, Mt
Cults: Hadryades 511₁ Zeus 511₁ Zeus
Κιθαίρωνος 117 f.
Rites: mysteries 672
Myths: Zeus married to Hera 155
 Zeus consorts with Leto 155
- Klaros
Cult: Apollon 278
 Klazomenai 51
 Kleantes 29₃ hymn of 665₀
 Kleobis and Biton
Myth: 447 ff.
Identified with the Dioskouroi (?) 449
 — as human βέες (?) 451₁₃
- Kleoboa 74₀
 Kleomenes 74₀
 Kleops 448 See Kleobis
 Kletor
Genealogy: f. of Eurymedousa 533₀
 Klitias 481₀ 696
 Klymene, m. of Prometheus 324₃ 444₄
 Klymenos 669
 Klytaimestra
Genealogy: d. of Tyndareos 764
- Kneph
Attribute: hawk 241₂
- Knidos
Cult: Aphrodite 710₃
- Knossos 729 760
Cults: Hera 522 f. Minotaur 297 Rhea
 649₃ serpent 402 508₁ Zeus 522 f.
 Zeus Ἄμμων 402₀
Rites: crown-prince masquerades as solar bull 490 ff. 496 marriage of Zeus and Hera 522 f. queen in wooden cow married to bull 522 f.
 youths and maidens devoured by
 Minotaur 491
Myths: Daidalos 481 Idomeneus 652₆
 Meriones 652₈ Pasiphae 543 739
 Titanes 649₃
- Knossos (cont.)
 — coins of 472₅ 476 f. 478 488 494 495₀ 720 f. Labyrinth at 472 ff. tomb of Zeus at 157
 Koiranos, f. of Polyidos 470
 Koiranos, rider on dolphin 170
 Kojiki, tradition 305₀
 Kokkygion, Mt
Cult: Zeus 134 f.
Myth: Zeus married to Hera 155
- Kolchis
Cults: γη 534₀ οὐρανός 534₀
Rites: dead men wrapped in ox-hides and hung on trees; dead women buried in ground 533
Myths: Aietes 246 Kirke 238 Medeia 244
- Kolchoi
Cults: Ares 415 Hermes 415
Myth: Phrixos 415
- Kolophon
Cult: Apollon Κλάριος 234
 Kom el Chougafa 540₂
 Komaitho 344
 Kombabos
Myth: 591₂
Types: in feminine attire 591₂ feminine form in masculine attire 591₂
Compared with Attis 591₂
 — statues of 591₂ 592₀
- Kombe
Genealogy: m. of Korybantēs by Sokos
 106₈
- Kömlöd See Lussonium
- Kommagene, the country
Cult: (Iupiter) Deus Paternus Commagenus 612₂
- Kommagene, the goddess
Cult: Nemroud Dagh 744 f. 748 750
Epithets: Πάντροφος 744
Attributes: corn-ears, grapes, pomegranates, etc. 745 cornu copiae
 745 kálathos 745 wreath of corn 745 Identified with Tyche 745
- Komyrion 20 f., 23
- Konjica
Cult: Mithras 443₁
- Konstantinos, St 123₀
- Korakesion
Cult: Demeter 229₈
- Korax, king of Aigialeia 737
- Kore
Cults: Acharaka 503 Aigion 17 Arkesine in Amorgos 669₂ Delos 669₂
 Eleusis 397₄ 669₃ Gaza 149₁ La-konike (?) 442 Messene (?) 442
 Mykonos 668 f. Paros 669₂ Thera
 143 Thraco-Phrygians 695
Epithet: μελετώδης 443₆
Rites: Corn-maiden (?) 397₄ sacrifice of ungelded boar 668
Priestesses: human πῶλος 442 human ♂ (?) 784
Personated by Iobakhoi 679₁₇
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos by Zeus
 695 offshoot of Gaia 396 f. 401 m.

Kore (cont.)

of Korybas without a father 106₃
d. of Zeus by Deo 394 w. of Zeus
394 cp. 396

Attribute: snake 392₄

Type: Praxiteles 427

Associated with Demeter 442 784

Demeter and Dionysos 692 Demeter and Iakchos 425 Demeter and Plouton 669 Demeter and Zeus
Βουλεύς 668 f. Demeter and Zeus
Εὐβουλεύς 669 Plouton 503 Zeus
394 398 f. 695

See also Persephone, Pherephatta, Pherophatta, Phersephone, Proserpina

Koreos, Mt

Cult: Zeus 134

— rock-cut throne on 140 f.

Koria 155

Korinthos, personification of Corinth 247

Korinthos, s. of Marathon 246 247

Korinthos, s. of Zeus 4₂ 247

Korkyra

Cults: Zeus Κάσιος 123 Zeus Μηλώ-σιος 164₃ 520₂

Koronis 111₆

Korybantēs 106 f. 150 ff.

Cults: Crete 650₂ Etruria 107 f. Mt
Olympos 107 ff.

Myths: birth 664₁ two brothers slay third 107 f. sprung from ground as trees 106 f.

Epithet: τρικέρυβες 650₂

Rites: mysteries 107

Priests: Ἀνακτορῆσαι 107

Genealogy: sons of Apollon by Rhytia 106₃ sons of Apollon by Thaleia 106 sons of Helios by Athena 106₃ cp.
107₁ sons of Kronos and Rhea 106₃
cp. 107₁ sons of Sokos by Kombe
106₃ sons of Zeus by Kalliope 105 f.

Etymology: 107 107₂ 115₀

Identified with Kaberoi 106 107

— as dance-theme 679₁

Korybas

Myth: ἑλίον springs from his blood 107

Metamorphosed into snake 113

Genealogy: s. of Iasion by Kybele 106
s. of Kore without a father 106₃

Korykos, Mt, Zeus born in Corycian Cave on 152 f.

Koryphe, near Aleppo

Cults: Selamanēs 519 Zeus Μάδβαχος
519

Koryphe, the mountain-goddess

Associated with Zeus 155 779

Korytheis

Cult: Dionysos Μόστης 673₇

Kos

Cults: Hera Ἀργεία 446₀ 447 Hera
Βασίλεια 446₀ Hera Ἑλεία 446₀ Zeus
Μαχανεύς 717₂ Zeus Ηλιοεύς 717₂

Rite: Coan women wear horns 447

Kos (cont.)

Myth: Herakles 447

— statue of Alexander the Great in 624₀

Kosmas, St 168 f.

Kosti 216₃

Kottos 314

Kotys

Rite: thunder-making 650₁

Kotyto

Cult: Corinth (?) 525₅

Function: a Thracian Artemis 526₀

See also Kotys

Koures

Cult: Thera 142 144

Epithet: Δέυρες (?) 142 144₀

Associated with Zeus 142 144

Kouretēs 109 150 ff. 358₃ 376₁ 623₀ 649₃
710 f.

Cults: Chalkis 24₀ Crete 650₂ Ephesos
649₃ Hagia Barbara 471₄ Mt Ide in Crete 645 Pluti 471₄ Mt Solmissos 649₃

Epithet: Δικραῖοι 647₈

Oracle: 469 f.

Priests: βουκόλοι 442₀

Myths: birth 664₁ clash shields and spears round tree on which cradle of Zeus was hung 530₀ clash weapons round tree on which cradle of Zeus was hung 534 deceive Kronos 647₈
Leto 649₃ reigning in Crete 376₁

Genealogy: sons of Rhea 650₃

Etymology: 23₆

Functions: akin to Satyrs 534 guardians of kine 471₄

Attributes: shields 709 spears 530, sword 358₃

Types: clashing weapons 150 ff. 358₃
649₃ 659 709 f. escort Europe (?) 506 guard infant Dionysos 709 influence that of Dioskouroi (?) 768₁ round infant Zeus or Dionysos enthroned 150 ff. 646 f.

Associated with Diktynna 541 Zeus
Κρηταγενής 149₁ infant Zeus 150 ff.
646 f. 710 f.

— bridal chamber of the 650₀ 650₂

Kouretis (=Euboia) 310₀ 321₁

Krannon

Rite: ταυροκάθψια (?) 497₄

— coins of 497₄

Krates 29 f.

Kremnia (?) 471₄

Kreon 251 296₄

Myth: banishes Medeia 248

Kreonteia 251

Kreousa 251₃

Kres, f. of Talos 330₃

Krete, d. of one of the Kouretēs 376₁

Krete, the nymph 721

Kretonia 117

Krethens 415₂

Kretia-Flaviopolis

Cult: Demeter 229₈

Krios, a paidagogós 418₁
 Krios, s. of Theokles 351₇
 Krisa 760
 Kritias 165
 Kronos

Cults: Arabia 756₈ Carthage 722 Illyricum (?) 181₀ Karchedon- 76₃ Lebadeia 524 Phoinike 722 Sardinia 722 Mt Silpion 237₁

Epithet: ἀγκυλομήτης 14₁, 760

Rite: human sacrifice 76 722

Myths: attacks Ammon 376₁ attacked by Zeus 755₁₀ deceived by Kouretes 647₈ dethroned by Zeus 329₀ devours horse instead of Poseidon 181₀ swallows stone in place of Zeus 154 299 520₂

Genealogy: f. of Korybantēs 106₃ s. of Ouranos by Ge 597₄ f. of Pan 702₆ f. of Plouto 156₁₂ f. of Zeus 732

Functions: the planet Saturn 756 rain 398 Saturday 753 solar (?) 298

Attributes: bill-hook 575 bull's head 298 disk 298

Types: bust 573 575 Janiform 297 f. winged 297 f.

Identified with Belos, Ammon, Apis, Zeus 756₃ Talos 722

Associated with Rhea 376₁

Compared with Minotaur 722 f.

In relation to Minotaur 298 the Semitic El 722 Talos 298

Supersedes Ophion 155

— stone of 154 299 520₂

Kronos, the planet

Attributes: ass 625₅ 626 bronze 626₀ crow 626₀ hyacinth 625 f. lead 625 f. 626₀

Kroton

Cult: Zeus 'Αμάριος 17

Kybebe

Associated with Attis 591₂

Compared with Atargatis 591₂

Kybele

Rites: criobolium 717₂ taurobolium 717₂

Priestess: human μέλισσα 444

Genealogy: m. of Korybas by Iasion 106 w. of Attis 104

Associated with Attis 646₀ 717₂

— rock-cut altars of 136 f.

Kydicpe 447 ff. 449 f.

Kydonia 534₂

Kyklopes, three kinds of 302 ff. of East and West 309 ff. 313 f. 317 721

Epithets: Γαστερόχειρες 309 Γηγενέες 309₅ Ἐγγαστρόχειρες 309 f. Ἐγγεοργάστορες 309 f. 317 Ἐκατόγχειρες (?) 314 Χειρογάστορες 302 309 311 314 316 f.

Myths: Mt Aitne 312, Argos 321, Chalkidike (?) 321, Chalkis (?) 321, Etruria 312₂ Euboia 310 310₀ 321, Italy 312 Kyzikos 310 310₀ Leontinoi 321, Lipara 312, Lykia 303 309 Mykenai 309₃ 310 310₀ Nauplia

Kyklopes (cont.)

483₁₂ Naxos in Sicily 321, Odyssey 302 Sicily 312 320 321, Thessaly 309₅ 310 Thrace 310 310₀ 321, Tiryns 303 309 321, make thunderbolt of Zeus 310₃ 314 317 318 wield the thunder and lightning of Zeus 318 318₄

Functions: builders 303 lightning (?) 313₃ lunar (?) 313 sky 313 302 f. solar (?) 310 313 throwing stones, i.e. suns or stars (?) 721 underground smiths 302 volcanos (?) 313₃

Genealogy: offspring of Nemean Lion 310₀ sons of Gaia and Ouranos 314

Types: one eye 312 two eyes 312 three eyes 312 320 462

In relation to Zeus 317 f.

— Labyrinths of the 483₁₂

See also Kyklopes

Kyklops

Cult: Lykia (?) 302 ff.

Myth: blinding 321 ff. 327

Functions: sky 320 sun (?) 320 323 462

Genealogy: f. of Galates 321, h. of Galateia 321, s. of Ouranos 302 313 s. of Sikanos 321₁

Etymology: 309

Attributes: pointed cap (?) 318 f. thunderbolts (?) 318 f. 320

Type: grotesque bearded head (?) 318 f. Compared with Prometheus and the Kabeiros 328₃

See also Kyklopes

Kyklops, king of the Thracian tribe
Kyklopes 310₀ 321₁

Kyllene, Mt 82₁ 103

Cult: Hermes 103₃

Associated with Zeus 779

Kyllou Pera 429₄

Kynados, Mt

Cults: Zeus superseded by St Elias 177 f.

Kynaitha

Cults: Dionysos 503 Zeus 299₂

Rite: bull carried 503

Kynosoura, a Cretan Nymph 112₃ 755₁₀

Kynosoura, a Cyzicene goddess 112₃

— Bakchoi of 112₆

Kynthos, Mt

Cults: Athena Κυνθία 123 Zeus Κύνθιος 123

Myth: Artemis 482₁ 513

Kypris

Function: friendship 31

Kypros

Cults: Adonis 651 Aphrodite 356 741 Aphrodite Παφία 763₀ Ba'al-hammân 598₁ Baal of Libanon 551₁ Helios and Zeus 187 Zeus 741 Zeus Είλαπιαστής 654₄ Zeus Είλητι 527₀ Zeus Είλητιος 527₀ Zeus Ξένιος (?) 75 Zeus Σπλαγχνοτόμος 654₄

Kypros (cont.)

— coins of 741 768₀, fennel-stalk used in 323₄, folk-tale from 343₄, gold plate from 297₂, male figure with head and tail of wolf from 99₀

Kyrenaïke

Cult: Ammon 350₀

Kyrene

Cults: Ammon 358 f. 360₁, Apollon Κάρπειος 373 Asklepios 360₁, Zeus (?) 350 Zeus Ἄμμων 350₀ 371 373 376 Zeus Ἐλιούμενος 92 350₈, Zeus Εἰσηγέμος (?) 350₈, Zeus Λύκαιος 89 ff. 350₈, Zeus Σωτήρ 350₈

Myth: Aristaïos 372

In relation to Arkadia 89

Kyrene, the Hesperid (?) 95₃ 95₁

Kyros, town in Karia 237₃

Kyros, hero 237₃

Kyrros

Cult: Zeus Καταιβάτης 124

Kythera

Epithet: Πασιφάεσσα 522₄

Kytisoros 416

Kyzikos

Cults: Adrasteia 112₅, Demeter 229₈, Rhea 169

Myths: Argonauts 310₀, Kyklopes 310 310₀, nurses of Zeus 112₅

— Bouleutérion at 649₄

Lab 240

Labrandos, one of the Carian Kouretes 18₄

Labyrinth at Clusium 483₁₂, at Didyma

483₁₁, at Gortyna (?) 472₀, at Hawara

472 f. 490₁, 496 at Knossos 472 ff.

635 in Lemnos (?) 483₁₂, near Nauplia

483₁₂, at Priene (?) 499₂, in Samos (?) 483₁₂

Rite: bull-fights (?) 498 f.

Myths: Daidalos 496 Daidalos and Ikaros 343 made by Daidalos for the Minotaur 466 f. Minos 496

Types: palace with patterned band

474 f. cp. 481₂, patterned column

475 patterned oblong 475 f. swastika

476 ff.

— as country maze 490 as dance-theme 481 495 as mosaic 477₁

484 ff. 489 f. taken over from paganism by Christianity 484 ff.

Lachesis

Etymology: 273

Function: lot 273

Lade 544₀

Laegaire mac Crimthainn 239

Laertes

Genealogy: h. of Antikleia 640₀

Lais 429₄

Lakedaimon, s. of Zeus by Taygete 155

Lakonike

Cults: Apollon Θεράτης 681₄, Athena

Ἰλαρεία 231₈, Demeter and Kore (?)

442 Dionysos Ἐριφος 674 676 705

Rite: human πῶλοι 442

Lambaisa

Cult: Iupiter Pluto Serapis 188₃

Lamedon 737

Lampetie 410

Lampos, horse of Helios 337₃

Lampsakos

Cult: Athena 231₈

Lanuvium 2₂

Laodike, d. of Antiochos viii Grypos

Epithet: Θεὰ Φιλάδελφος 748₄

Laodikeia on the Lykos

Cults: Zeus 151 f. Zeus Ἄσεις 706

Laphystion, Mt, in Boiotia

Cult: Zeus Λαφύστιος 121

Myth: golden ram 417

Lapiths 24₀

Lappa, coins of 445₀ 619₁

Lares

Epithet: Praestites 712₂

Type: seated on rock with dog 712₂

Larisa at Argos

Cult: three-eyed Zeus 320

Larisa on the Orontes

Cult: Zeus 124 f.

Larissa in Thessaly

Cult: Zeus Ἐλευθέριος 498₁

Rite: ταυροκαθάρσια (?) 497₄ 498 498₃

— coins of 497₄

Larissa

Associated with Zeus 156

Larisse (?)

Associated with Zeus 156₂

Lartos, rock-cut throne near 142

Las

Cult: Zeus Ἄμμων (?) 351

Latium 483

Lato in Crete 149₂ 729

Latovici

Cults: Iupiter Dolichenus 551₈ 633₁

Iupiter Heliopolitanus 551₈ 633₁

Learchos

Myth: Athamas 416 674

Lebadeia

Cults: Agamedes 407₄, Apollon 524

Demeter Εὐρώπη 525 Hera Ἥνωχθη

525 Kronos 524 Trophonios and his sons 524 Zeus Βασιλεύς 524 f.

Lebanon, Mt 176₀

Leda

Myth: egg 279₄, Zeus 279₄ 770 774

Genealogy: m. of Dioskouroi by Zeus

760₃ 763₄

Function: doublet of Nemesis 279₄

Attributes: blue nimbus 41₀, swan

770

Etymology: 763₄

Identified with Nemesis 279₄

Associated with Zeus 760₃ 763₄ 774

Leleges

Cult: sun-bird (?) 345₇

Lemnos

Myths: Prometheus 324

— Labyrinth in 483₁₂ (?)

Lenai 667 f. 672₀ 679 See also Bakchai,

Maenads

- Lenaia 666 ff. 681 ff. 733
Rite: passion-play(?) 678 ff.
Etymology: 667 f. 672₀
- Lenaion, site of the 666 f. 671
- Leo 231 545₅ 750 755₀
- Leodamas 108₁
- Leon
Cults: Heliopolis in Egypt(?) 571₂
 Kefr-Nebo 571₃ Leontopolis(?) 571₂
Epithet: Παρῳός 571₃
Associated with Seimios and Symbetylos 571₂
- Leonidas 74₀
- Leontinoi
Myth: Kyklopes 321₁
- Leontopolis(?)
Cult: Leon 571₂
- Lepus 755₅
- Lesbos
Cults: Dionysos 656 Zeus Αἰθέριος 26
 Zeus Ἄμμων 371 Zeus Εἰσφῆμος 350₃
Rites: Corn-maiden 397₄ human sacrifice to Dionysos 656
 — fennel-stalk used in 323₄
- Leto
Cults: Dreros 729₂ Ephesos 649₃
 Ortygia, near Ephesos 649₃ Phaleron 112₃
Myths: bears twins 649₃ Kouretes 649₃
Metamorphosed into quail 544₀
Genealogy: m. of (Artemis) 495₃ m.
 of Diktyнна 542₂
Associated with Zeus 155 544₀ 727₆ 728
 — cypress-grove of 649₃
- Leukadios 345
- Leukas
Cults: Aphrodite 345 Apollon Λευκάδας
 344 ff.
Rite: the Leucadian leap 345 f.
Myths: Aphrodite 345₄ Zeus 345₄
- Leukas, personification of the colony 247
- Leukates 345₄
- Leukippides
Rite: 'human colts' 442
Myth: rape by sons of Aphareus and Dioskouroi 738₁₂
- Leukon 416
- Leukothea
Cults: Mt Hermon 420₀ Moschoi 416
Rite: caldron of apotheosis 419₁₀ 420₀
 674 f.
Myth: boils Palaimon in caldron 674
 679
Metamorphosed into gull 241₁₄
 See also Ino
- Libanos, Mt 550 f. 561₁
- Liber
Cults: Italy 693₄ Rome 693₄
Epithet: Pater 234₁
Festival: Liberalia 693₄
Rites: phallic 693₄ sacrifice of goat 717₃
Priestesses: 693₄
Myths: Aries 419₀ (Euhemeristic) 661 f.
Function: procreative 693₄
Identified with Jehovah 234₄
- Libera 393₀ 661 f.
- Liberalia 693₄
- Libertas
Cult: Rome 194₁
Attribute: Phrygian cap 194₁
Identified with Iupiter 194₁
Associated with Iupiter 194₁
- Libyans 362 387
- Libye, the country
Cults: Ammon 350₇ Zeus Ἄμμων 74₃
Rite: shrine of Zeus taken into Libye
 348₁
Myth: Argos 458₃
- Libye, the heroine
Genealogy: d. of Pikos Zeus by Io 237₁
 m. of Belos 439
- Libyo-Greeks
Cult: Bakchos(?) 438
 See also Graeco-Libyans
- Lipara
Myth: Kyklopes 312₁
- Lobrine See Rhea
- Lobrinon, Mt 394₃
- Lochaia Damia
Cult: Thera 142
- Lokroi Epizephyrioi
Cult: Zeus 598₁
- Loukianos, St 170
- Lousios 154₁₁
- Lucetius 64₃
- Lucifer
Genealogy: f. of Daidalion 342₁₃
- Ludi Circenses 552 715
- Luna, the town in Etruria
Cult: Selene(?) 244₅
- Luna, the moon-goddess
Epithet: bicornis 455₃
Rite: sacrifice of bull 455₅
Myth: Mithras 516 ff.
Attributes: chariot 517₀ crescent 620 horns 618 radiate nimbus 620 torch
 617 whip 620
Types: bust with crescent 616 ff. 620 bust with nimbus or radiate nimbus 620 horned bust in crescent 618 riding on ox 538₄
Associated with Sol 60 616 f. 620
- Lupercal 677₄
- Lupercalia 87 677₄
- Lupercus
Cult: Rome 677₄
Rites: luperci or crepi 677₄
Festival: Lupercalia 677₄
Type: girt with goat-skin 677₄
Compared with Zeus Λόκαιος 63₆
- Lussonium
Cult: Iupiter Dolichenus 615 ff. 620 ff.
 626
- Lutri
Cult: Iupiter Sol Sarapis 189₁
- Lycians 362
- Lydia
Cults: Triptolemos 227 Tylos 227
Myth: birth of Zeus 150 f.
 — coins of 571₂

- Lykaia 63₀ 68 70 76 f. 76₂ 76₃ 87
 Lykaion, Mt 81 ff.
Cults: Zeus Λύκαιος 63 ff. 65₄ St Elias 177 f.
Rite: human sacrifice 65₄
Myths: birth of Zeus 15₄ Zeus seduces Kallisto 155
 Lykaion 63 64₀ 64₂ 64₃ 65 77 ff.
 Lykas 99₀
 Lykastia(?) 99₀
 Lykia
Cults: Helios 301 Kyklops 302 ff.
Myth: Kyklopes 303 309
 — solar symbol of 299 ff.
 Lykos, Athenian hero 99₀
 Lykos, Boeotian hero
Genealogy: f. of Antiope(?) 735₃ h. of Dirke 736 b. of Nykteus 65 737
Etymology: 738
 Lykos, god of light (?) 64₃
 Lykosoura 65
 Lykourgos, Boeotian hero
Genealogy: f. of Antiope 735₃
 Lykourgos, Nemean king, palace of 259₄
 Lykourgos, Thracian king
Myth: persecutes nurses of Dionysos 735₃
 Lyra 755₀
 Lyrkos 237₃
 Lysandros and the cult of Zeus "Αμμων 352
 Lysippe 452
 Lysippos 35 f. 204
 Lyssa 252₃
 Lyttos 298₁₀ 729
Cult: Zeus 652 656 Zeus Βιδάρας 150₂
Rite: human sacrifice to Zeus 652 ff. 656
Myths: return of Idomeneus 652 f. Zeus as princely hunter slain by wild boar(?) 652
 — coins of 652
 Mabog 582 See Hierapolis in Syria
 Madhu 329₁
 Mael-Duin 239
 Maenads 111 671 707₂(?)
Epithet: Θεωρίδες 111₃
Types: omophagy 465, with kid(?) 674₃
Associated with Dionysos 503₀ 565 f. Silenoi 698, 699₀
 See also Bakchai
 Maeonians(?) 362
 Magi 262 338₂ 783
 Magna
Cult: Iupiter Dolichenus(?) 552₃ 633₂
 Iupiter Heliopolitanus 552₃ 633₂
 Magna Graecia
Cult: Zeus Ἄμμιος 17
Rites: Orphic and Pythagorean 403
 Magnesia ad Maeandrum
Cults: Apollon 483 Demeter 229₈ Dionysos(?) 153 Kabeiroi 110 Zeus(?) 153 Zeus Σωσιπόλις 57 717₂
Rite: bull collapses at entrance of cave 50₄ — coins of 483 πρόπυλον at 296₂
 Magnesia ad Sipylum
Cults: Demeter 229₈ Zeus 139 151₂ — coin of 102₅
 Magon 379₈
 Magos 227₃
 Maia
Associated with Zeus 755₁₀
 Maionia
Cults: Demeter 229₈ Men 193 732 Men Τιδμων 642₁ 642₄ Zeus 152 732 Zeus Μασφαλασθηνός 193 642₄
 Maira 709
 Makedonia
Cults: Muses 111 Zeus 126 ff.
 — carnival-plays in 694 coins of 304
 Malakbel See Genneas
 Malaos 225₃
 Malatia, Hittite relief at 634 640₄
 Malla
Cult: Zeus Μουρίτιος 298
 Mallos
Cults: Auramazda 208₅ sun 296 ff.
 — coins of 297 f. 602(?)
 Maltai 576₅
 Mamertini
Cult: Hadran 232₁
 Mandylas 367
 Manthu 329₁
 Marathon, the deme
Cult: Athena Ἐλλωρίς 526₀
Myth: bull 467 549₂
 Marathon, the hero
Personates Zeus(?) 247
Genealogy: s. of Epopeus 246 247 f. of Korinthos 246 247 f. of Sikyon 246
 Marduk
Epithets: Bēl 756 god of the good wind 759 Nibiru 756
Myth: fight with Tiamat 759
Function: the planet Iupiter 755 f. cp. 759
Identified with Iupiter Belus 755 f. Zeus Βήλος 756
 Margarita, St 176₀
 Margarito 176₀
 Marnas
Cult: Gaza 149₁ 167₃ 478
Identified with Zeus 149₁
 Marros 496
 Mars
Attributes: goose 618 f. helmet 618 619(?) shield 618 f. spear 618
Type: standing with helmet, spear, and shield 618 f.
 — birth of 786 conception of 786
 Mars, the planet 755 f. 758 f.
 Marsyas 128 f.
 Martinianos, St 170
 Mar-Tu 549₁
 Maruts 718₁
 Massilia
Cults: deus Dolichenus 611 Iupiter Heliopolitanus Prop(itius? agator?) 552₁

Mater

Epithet: Magna 444₂

Priestesses: Melissae 444₂

Mater Matuta

Associated with Fortuna 272

Mauretania Caesariensis

Cults: Dis 355, Iupiter Hammon 354 f.

Tanit 354 f.

Medeia 14₁ 244 f.

Myth: Apsyrtos 680 Argonauts 244 f.

attendants of Dionysos 785 Iason

253 f. influences that of Kirke (?)

238₃ 238₄ influenced by that of Triptolemos 245 Pelias 419 419₁₀

Talos 719 721

Personates Hera (?) 248

Genealogy: grand-d. of Helios 244

419 st. of Kirke 244 d. of Aietes

246 niece of Kirke 244

Attribute: halo 238

Type: oriental dress 252

Associated with Zeus 248

— mortar of 244₅

Medionemetum 273₆

Medousa 292

Megalopolis 16 112

Cults: Great Goddesses 112₂, Herakles

the Idaean Daktylos 112₂, Zeus

Λύκαιος 83 Zeus Φίλιος 112₂

Megara

Cult: Zeus 2₂

Myth: Nisos and Skylla 344

— coins of 304

Megrin See Ba'al-Marqod

Meh-urt

Function: sun 315₁

Identified with eye of Râ 315₁

Meidias, the potter 125

Melampous 112₁

Myth: Proitides 452 f.

Melanthos slays Xanthos 639₅

Melas, s. of Phrixos 416

Melcarth See Melqart

Melia, w. of Inachos 237₁

Melikertes

Myth: Ino 416 674 called Palaimon

170 674

Melissa, nurse of Zeus 112₃

Melissa, priestess of the Mater Magna

444₂

Melissens or Melissos 112₃ 112₄

Melite, former name of Samothrace 109

Melite, the Attic deme, lesser mysteries at 219

Melos, coin of 305

Melqart or Melgarth

Cult: Tyre 356 601₃

Festival: 601

Identified with Herakles 356

— emerald stèle of 356

Memphis

Cults: Apis 188₁ 433 Hephaistos 433

Nemesis (?) 269₃ Pthah 433

Men

Cults: Ameria 642 Antiocheia in Men (cont.)

Pisidia 642, Byblos (?) 227 Maionia

193 642₁ 642₄ 732 Neokaisareia (?)

641 f. Nysa in Lydia 642₁ Phrygia

400₅ 730₀ Sagalassos 642₁ Temeno-thyrai 642₁

Epithets: Πλουτοδώτης 503₄ Τιάμου

193₃ 642₄ Τύραννος 193₃ Φαρνάκου 642

Priests: Ιερόδουλοι 642

Function: lunar 193 400₅ 642

Attributes: bull 642 pine-cone 642

stellate tiara 741

Types: bull's head beside him 642₁ drawn in car by two bulls 642₁ standing with bull beside him 642₁ treads on prostrate bull 642₁ with foot on bull's head 642 642₁

Identified with Sabazios 400₅ Tripto-

lemos 227 Zeus (?) 400₅

Associated with Tyche Βασιλέως 642

Zeus 732 Zeus Μασφαλατηρός 642₄

Compared with Sabazios 642₁

Mendes, Egyptian king 496

Mendes, Egyptian town

Cults: Ba-neb-Tettu 346 f. goat 347₈

Khnemu 346 f.

Rite: sacrifice of sheep but not goats

347

Mene

Epithets: ἀνρώπις 738 ταυρώπις 455₀

Genealogy: m. of Drosos (?) by Aer

732₅ m. of Nemean lion 457₃

Menelaos 503₁

Myth: in Crete 545₅

Menneh See Maionia

Menthe

Myth: Hades 257₅

Associated with Hades 257₅

See also Mintha or Minthe

Mercurius

Cults: Athens 551₄ 554₁ Celts 482₀

Heliopolis in Syria 554 Netherby

611₃ Samos (?) 172

Epithets: Augustus 554₁ Heliopoli- itanus 551₄ 554₁ Sanctus 611₃

Rite: sacrifice of goat 717₃

Attributes: caduceus 482₀ cornu copiae

714 goat (?) 482₀ purse 482₀ ram (?)

482₀

Associated with Iupiter Heliopolitanus

and Venus Heliopolitana 551₄ 554₁

Iupiter Heliopolitanus and Venus

Felix 554₁

Superseded by St Merkourios 172

Mercury, the planet 746, 750 755 f. 758

Function: moist winds 759₃

Merdocha

Cults: Zeus 'Ανίκητος "Ηλιος Θεός Αἰ-μος (?) 193₁

Merkourios, St 172

Meroe

Cults: Dionysos 376 Zeus "Αμμων 350

376 376₃ 428

Merope, m. of Kreonteia 251 251₆Merope, m. of Pandareos 720₄

Merops

Metamorphosed into eagle 755₀

Mesembria, coins of 254

Messalina, in guise of Demeter 228

Messene

Cults: Demeter and Kore 442(?) Zeus

'Ἰθωμάτας 121 f. 154

Rite: human πῶλοι 442(?)

Myth: infancy of Zeus 154

Messogis, Mt, Zeus born on 151

Mestra 14₁ 328₅

Metaneira 175₀ 211

Metapontum

Cults: Dionysos 'Επιφίος 674 ff. 705

Zeus 'Αμμων 372 376

Meter

Cults: Athens 676 f. Delos 550₁ Peiraieus 442

Epithets: ἡ πάντων κρατούσα 550₄

'Ἰδέια (sic) 400₀ Μεγάλη 400₀ 550₄

'Οπάλα (sic) 442

Festival: Galaxia 676 f.

Rites: barley boiled in milk 676 rebirth 677

Associated with Attis 742₁ Zeus ὁ πάντων κρατῶν 550₄

See also Mother of the gods

Methana

Cult: Hephaistos 328

Michael 169 233

Midas 111₁ 137 throne of, at Delphoi 139

Midgardh-serpent, the 185

Miletos 74₀

Cult: Zeus Νόσιος 733₀

Rite: Διὸς βοῦς 717₂

Milky Way

Myth: 624 755

— in folk-lore 624₁ in modern art 624₄

Mimallones 667₄

Mimas (?) 156₁₂

Minerva 619

Cult: Rome 59₁₁

Attributes: helmet 616 lance 616 shield 324

Types: bust 616 thoughtful 34₃ in quadriga 712₄

Associated with Jupiter and Iuno 60

Minerva, a Cretan princess 662

Minos

Epithet: δλοφῶρων 657₂

Myths: 464 ff. Britomartis 524 623₀ dazzling bull 720₁ death of Glaukos

469 ff. Diktyнна 524 founts Gaza

235 Ganymedes 527₁ Labyrinth

496 as ogre (?) 657 f. Talos 719

719₈ 721 war with Athens 319

Metamorphosed into eagle (?) 527₁

Genealogy: f. of Akakallis 366 f. of Asterios by Androgeneia 493₁ f. of Glaukos by Pasiphae 469 f. h. of

Idaia 544₂ h. of Idea (= Idaia)

493₂ h. of Pasiphae 416 s. of Zeus

'Αστέριος 545₅ 547 s. of Zeus by

Europe 464 467 648

Minos (cont.)

Functions: divine king 662₁ hypostasis of Cretan Zeus (?) 527₁

Attributes: bay 235 sceptre 493

Type: helmeted head (?) 235 helmeted warrior holding bay 235

Associated with Britomartis 524 527₁

541 543 Diktyнна 524 541 543

— panegyric of Zeus made by 157₃ 663₂ tomb of 158₂

Minotaur 490 ff.

Cult: Knossos 297

Epithets: 'Αστέριος 465 493 ff. 524 543

546 'Ασπερίων 493 ff. 524 543 546

Myths: 464 ff. devours youths and maidens 319 658 slain by Theseus

24₀ 492 ff. 496

Genealogy: s. of Pasiphae 465 f. 491

Functions: Knossian crown-prince masquerading in solar dance (?)

491 658 god of sun, moon, and stars 495 solar 297 490 ff. 546 635

stellar 524

Attributes: mask 492 staff 492 star (?)

493 ff. 495₀

Types: bull-headed child (?) 466₀ bull-headed figure throwing stones 720 f.

bull's tail but human head 496 496₂ dragged by Theseus out of Labyrinth 474 ff. flecked 493 spangled with stars 493 sprinkled with eyes

493 f. surrounded by dots (stars?)

494 f.

— as dance-theme 496

Associated with Pasiphae 466₀

Compared with Cilician disk-bearing god 297 f. Phoenician Kronos 298(?)

722 f. Talos 297 f. 720 ff.

Mintha or Minthe

Genealogy: d. of Peitho 257

Identified with Iynx 257

See also Menthe

Minyans 689₅

Mitani 190₃

Mithraic(?) cult of Diskos 299

Mithras 190₃

Cults: Konjica 443 Nemroud Dagh

742₅ (?) 744 ff. 748 Tyana 742₅

Epithets: Δίκαιος 742₅ τριπλόσιος 516₁

Rites: λεοντικά 443 sacrifice of bull

516 ff.

Personated by Antiochos i of Kommagene (?) 742₅

Myth: 502₀ 516 ff.

Functions: god of friendship 190₃ light 190₃ mediator 190₃ Mercury the planet 746, rain (?) 190₃ solar (?)

190₃ 190₄ 746₁ god of truth 190₃ upper air (?) 190₃ ψυχιοπομπός 746₁

Etymology: 190₃

Worshippers: αετός, gryphus, heliodromus, ἰέραξ, κόραξ, λέαινα, λέων, miles, pater, pater patratrus, pater

patrum, Perses 443₁

Attributes: barsom 746 bull 516₁ crow

- Mithras (cont.)
 516, dog 516, kratér 516, Phrygian cap 516, 518, snake 516, stellate tiara (?) 742 tree with snake coiled round it 516, zodiac 754
Types: appearing out of tree (cypress?) 517, as child emerging from rock 518, dragging bull 517, slaying bull 516 f. shooting arrow 516 f. mounting chariot of Sol 517, with kneeling Sol 517, with standing Sol 517, 518, as youth seizing branches of bush 518, Identified with Apollon Helios Hermes 744 ff. 748 Zeus 181, Zeus, Helios, Sarapis 190
Associated with Sol 517, 518,
In relation to Anramazda 754 — mysteries of 442 f. 516 ff. worshipped by Commodus 607
- Mnemosyne
Genealogy: m. of Muses by Zeus 104 f.
Associated with Muses 112, Zeus 104
- Mnevis 431 f. 784
Function: solar 431 436 635
Types: bull with solar disk and uraeus 431 human with bull's head 431
In relation to Osiris 431
- Moirai
Cult: Mt Olympus 114
In relation to Atargatis 583
- Moloch
Cult: Jerusalem 723,
Rites: sacrifice of flour, turtle-doves, sheep, ram, calf, ox, child 723, Type: calf-faced figure of bronze with outstretched hands 723, cp. 784
- Molos 652,
Momemphis
Cults: Aphrodite 437 cow 437 Hathor 437
- Momos 348 f.
- Monimos
Cult: Edessa 706,
Function: evening-star (?) 706,
Associated with Azizos 706,
- Morges 646
- Moschoi
Cult: Leukothea 416
- Moses 51
 See also Ain Músa
- Mosychlos, Mt 324
- Mother of the gods
Cults: Corinth 148, Phrygia 553
Functions: central fire 303, earth 553
Type: carried by lions 553
Identified with Polykaste 728
 See also Meter
- Mousa
Genealogy: w. of Zeus 104
Etymology: the 'Mountain'-mother 104
Associated with Zeus 104 ff. 779
- Muses 104 ff. 128 130 ff.
Cults: Alexandria 132 Athens 104
- Muses (cont.)
 Delphi 104, Mt Helikon 104, Mt Olympus 104,
Epithet: Θοῦριδες 111
Myths: contest on Mt Helikon 257 f. dance round altar of Zeus Ἐλακώ-νιος 117 Lyra 755, sing at marriage of Kadmos and Harmonia 540
Genealogy: daughters of Zeus by Mnemosyne 104 f.
Function: mountain-deities 622,
Attribute: wreaths of lilies 622,
Associated with Dionysos 111, Mnemosyne 112, 131 Zeus 104 ff. 130 ff.
Type: Philiskos 131
 — akin to Maenads 111
 See also Kalliope, Thaleia
- Mut
Function: mother-goddess 387
Genealogy: w. of Amen-Râ 387
Attributes: crowns of South and North 387
- Myia See Ba'al Zebub
- Mykenai
Cults: Hera 446 Zeus 296,
Rite: bull-fights 497
Myth: Kyklopes 309, 310 310,
 — cow's head from 523 619, gold ring from 623 precinct of Zeus at 296, terra-cotta cows found at 446
- Mykerinos 523
- Mykonos
Cults: Demeter 668 f. Dionysos Ἀγ-νέος 668 f. Ge Χθούλα 668 f. Kore 668 f. Poseidon 169 Semele 668 f. Zeus Βουλεύς 668 f. 717, Zeus Χθού-νιος 668 f.
- Mylitta 554,
Myrmidon
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Eurymedousa 533,
Myrmidones 533,
Myrtilos 37 ff. 262, (?) 408
Myth 225,
Genealogy: s. of Hermes 405, s. of Phaethousa 225,
Attribute: wheel 225, 260,
Compared with Phaethon 225,
Myrtoessa 112,
Mysians 362
Mytilene
Cults: Apis 637 Dionysos (?) 373 f. Zeus Ἀμμων 372 Zeus Helios Sarapis 189,
- Naassenes 394,
Nabu
Function: the planet Mercury 755
- Nahat, throne of 136
- Naia, spring at Teuthrone 369,
Naiades See Nymphs; Naiads
- Nandi, footprint of 637
- Nasamones, chalcedony found in land of 583,
Násatiá or Násatyá 190, 741,

Naupaktos 170

Nauplia

Myth: Kyklopes 483₁₂
 — Labyrinths near 483₁₂

Naxos

Cults: Dionysos Μειλίχιος 428 Zeus
 154 163 ff. Zeus Μηλώσιος 164
 420₁ Zeus Όλύμπιος 164₅
 — folk-tale of St Dionysios in 171₅

Naxos in Sicily

Myth: Kyklopes 321₁

Neaira 410

Neapolis in Campania, coins of 620₀

Neapolis in Samaria

Cults: Adad 572₁ 590₁ Iupiter Capi- tolinus 45 Iupiter Heliopolitanus
 572₁ 590₁ Zeus Ἄδαδος 572₁ 590₁

Neda 112₁ 112₂

Neilos

Epithet: διπετέος ποταμοῦ 349₂

Myth: Io 441

Attribute: cornu copiae 361

Identified with Zeus 361

Associated with Triptolemos 222 f.

Neiloupolis

Cult: Apis 433

Nekhebet 206 386 387

Nekysia. 423₂

Nemausus, the town

Cult: Iupiter Heliopolitanus 552₂
 — fountain at 569

Nemausus, the town personified

Associated with Iupiter Heliopolitanus
 552₂ 569

Nemea, the goddess

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Selene
 456 732

Function: woodland (?) 280₂

Etymology: 446

Associated with Zeus 280₂ 456₅

— with Alkibiades on her knees
 456₆

Nemea, the town

Cults: Zeus 448 Zeus Νέμειος 558₅
Myths: Argos herds cattle of Hera
 446 451 lion 456 f. Lykourgos 259₄
 Zeus and Selene 739

Nemean Lion

Myth: Hera 456

Genealogy: f. of Kyklopes 310₀ offspring of Selene 456 f.

Nemesia 423₂

Nemesiaci 281 ff.

Nemesis 269 ff.

Cults: Akmonia 278 Alexandrea 269₃
 Andautonia 276₁ Aquincum 275 f.
 Carnuntum 276 ff. Memphis (?) 269₃
 Peiraeus 269 Rhamnous 273 ff.
 284 f. Sebennytos (?) 269₃ Smyrna
 273 275₂ 278 f. 284 f. Teurnia 276₄

Epithets: ἀθανάτα 269 ἄνασσα 269₁
 Augusta 275 f. εἰσπερος 269 κύκλον ἔχουσα πύλου 269 πανδαμάτειρα 269₁ πτερόεσσα 269₁ Regina 276 ff. 276₄
 278₁

Nemesis (cont.)

Festival: Nemesia 423₂

Oracles: 273

Rite: divining-rod 282

Priest: 282 f.

Myths: Alexander the Great 278 f. wooed by Zeus as a goose 279₁ 760₂ by Zeus as a snake 270₅ 279₄ by Zeus as a swan 279₄ 760₂

Metamorphosed into fish etc. 279₄ goose
 279₄

Genealogy: m. of Dioskouroi and Helene 279 d. of Thestios 279₄
 760₂

Functions: birth and death (?) 284 distribution (?) 272 f. 284 f. doublet of Leda 279₄ earth (?) 273 indignation (?) 272 f. 284 f. vegetation
 284 woodland 273 275

Etymology: 272 ff. 285

Attributes: apple-branch 270 275 275₂
 281 285 bowl 275 branch (?) 271 bridle 279 cubit-rule 279 (See also measuring-rod) griffin 270 276 281 measuring-rod 269 271 moon and disk 276 phidie 281 plane-tree 278 f.
 285 rudder 269₁ 276 serpent 269
 stags 275 281 sword 276 Victories 281 wheel 269 ff. 271 276 whip 276 wreath (?) 271

Types: bridal gesture 274 275₂ 279 as Diana 276 in snake-drawn car 270 f.
 two Nemeses 273 278 f. Pheidias 275 running 270 standing with apple-branch and stag 274 standing on man 269 statue at Rhamnous 280 f. swathed figure (?) 203₃ winged 269 ff.

Identified with Adrasteia 269₁ Artemis
 275 f. Diana 275 f. Hygieia (?) 270₅
 Isis 271₅ Leda 279₄ 760₂ Oupis 275
Associated with Diana 276 ff. 278₁ Silvanus 275₃ Zeus 278 ff. 760₂ 780
 king personating Zeus 280

Compared with Aphrodite 284 Artemis
 284

In relation to Atargatis 583 Fortuna
 271₆ Tyche 271₆

Nemet 273₆Nemetes 273₆Nemetiales 273₆

Nemetona 273

Nemroud Dagh, description of funeral monument of Antiochos i of Kommagene on the 742 ff.

Cults: Apollon 744 ff. 748 750 Ares
 744 746 748 Artagnes 744 746 748
 Helios 744 ff. 748 Herakles 744 746
 748 750 Hermes 744 ff. 748 Kommagene 744 f. 748 750 Mithras
 742₅ (?) 744 ff. 748 Tyche Nea 744
 746₀ Zeus Ἠρωμάσδης 741 ff.

Festivals: Birthday of Antiochos i of Kommagene 746₃ Coronation-day of Antiochos i of Kommagene 746₃

- Nemus
Cult: Diana Nemorensis 273 ff.
 Neokaisareia in Pontos
Cult: Men (?) 641 f.
 Neoptolemos
Myths: Delphoi 261 f. 680 kills Priamos 39₂ 40₀ Trojan leap 483₀
 Nephelai (?) 202
 Nephele 203 f. (?)
Genealogy: m. of Phrixos and Helle by Athamas 415 f.
 Neptunus
Genealogy: f. of Trinacrus 305₀
 Nereids 165 172₀
 Nereus 757
Myth: lends solar cup to Herakles 225
 Nergal
Function: the planet Mars 755
 Nero as Iupiter 59
 Nerva as Iupiter 43₃
 Nestis
Function: water 31
 Netherby
Cults: Fortuna (?) 611₃ Iuno (Regina?) 611₃ Iupiter Dolichenus 611₃ Mercurius Sanctus 611₃
 Nibiru See Marduk
 Nicolas, St
Function: St Elmo's fire 775
 Nihongi tradition 305₀
 Nikai (?) 202₂ See also Nike
 Nikaia in Bithynia
Cults: Apis 637 Demeter 229₈ Zeus 752 Zeus Ἀγοραῖος 37₁ Zeus Ἀιταῖος 38₀
 — coin of 752
 Nikaia, m. of Satyros and Telete by Dionysos 536
 Nike
Attribute: *ixn*x 440₇
Types: heading sacrificial procession 565 plume on head (?) 297₂ riding on bull Apis 538
Associated with Tyche 44₄
 See also Nikai
 Niketas, St 170
 Nikolaos, St 169 f.
 Nikomedeia
Cults: Apis 637 Demeter 229₇
 Nikopolis in Iudaea
Cults: Adad 572₁ 590₁ Iupiter Helio-politanus 572₁ 590₁ Zeus Ἀδαῶς 572₁ 590₁
 Nikopolis in Moesia
Cult: Zeus Ἥλιος Μέγας Κύριος Σεβάζιος Ἅγιος 400 428
 Nikosthenes 503₀ 513₃
 Niksar See Neokaisareia
 Nile See Neilos
 Nimrod 651
 Nineveh
Cult: Io (?) 237₃
 Ninib
Cult: Nippur 580
Functions: the planet Saturn 755 storm-god 580 sun-god 580
 Ninib (cont.)
In relation to En-lil 580
 Nin-lil
Epithet: Nin-khar-sag 580
Etymology: 580
Associated with En-lil 580
 Nippur
Cults: En-lil 580 756 Ninib 580 Nin-lil 580
 Nireus, statue of 592₀
 Nisos
Myth: Megara 344
Metamorphosed into sea-eagle 344
Function: solar (?) 346
 Nonae Caprotinae 694₀
 Notos
Myth: produces females 759₀
 Nu
Functions: sky 314 sun 314
 — eye of 314
 Nuceria Alfaterna
Cult: Zeus Ἄμμων 372
 Nut
Functions: moon 314 sky 314 387 sun 314
Genealogy: w. of Seb 387
 — eyes of 314
 Nykteus
Myth: 65 737
Genealogy: f. of Antiope 735₂ 737 b. of Lykos 737
Etymology: 738
 Nyktimos 64₂ 65 79 79₁₀
 Nymphs
 — Cretides 711₇
 — Dodonides 111₆
 — Dryades: 41₀ Britomartis (?) 527₁ Chrysopeleia 77₃
 — Dymanian 144
 — Geraistai 112₃
 — Geraistiades 112₃
 — Hadryades 511₁
 — Heliades: Lampetie 410 Phaethousa 410
 — Hesperis: Kyrene (?) 95₃ 95₄
 — Hyades: 111₀ Dione 111₆
 — Idaeans: 112 529 755₁₀ See Adrasteia, Amaltheia, Helike, Ide, Idothea, Kynosoura — Naiades: 667₄ Mintha 257 Nikaia 536
 — Nereis: Halia 444₃
 — Oreiades: 41₀ 229₂ Aitne 106₂ 106₃ 106₄ Thaleia 105 f. Thoosa (?) 321₁
 — Pleiades: 405₅ 755₁₀ See Elektra, Maia, Taygete
 — Thourides 111₂
Associated with Dionysos and his followers 667₄ 688 Panes 702₀
 Nysa in Lydia
Cults: Demeter 229₈ Dionysos (?) 503₀ Men 642₁ Ploutos (?) 503₀
 — coins of 504 642₁ 784
 Nysa, Nymph of Dodona 111₆

- Oases of E. Sahara 366
 Oasis of El-Charge
Cult.: Amen-Râ 348
 Oasis of Siwah, as described by Diodorus 369 from s. iv to s. xviii A.D. 376 ff. in modern times 378 ff. 784 described 380 ff.
Cults.: Amen 389 Amen-Râ 386 f. Ba'al-hammân 355 ff. Her-shef 389 Graeco-Libyan Zeus 361 ff. Zeus "Αμμων 350
Rites: βαφάδος carried in golden boat 355 ff.
 — doves of 364 f. 367 f. Fountain of the Sun in 368 381 f. temple at Agermi in 387 ff. temple at Umma beida in 382 ff. 390₁
- Oaxians (?) 363
 Oceanus (?) 517₀
 Oche, Mt
Cult.: Zeus superseded by St Elias 177 f.
Myth.: union of Zeus with Hera 155
 Odrysaï, mysteries on mountains of 672
 Odysseus 320
Cult.: Ithake (?) 328
Epithets.: Αθων 328 Ἰθακήσιος 328 "Ιθακος 328
Myths.: axes 329₀ consults Teiresias 407₄ Kyklops 312₁ 327 Nekyia 734 cattle to Penelope 328 steals cattle of Helios 640
Genealogy.: s. of Antikleia 328₅ s. of Sisyphos by Antikleia 639 f.
Functions.: fire (?) 327 f. sun (?) 313₈
Type.: 328
Compared with Prometheus 327 f.
Superseded by St Elias 170 f.
- Ogenos
Genealogy.: h. of (Tethys) 675₂
- Oichalia 117
 Oidipous 680₄
 Oikoumene 51₃
- Oineis
Genealogy.: m. of Pan by Aither 27₃ m. of Pan by Zeus 27₃
- Oinoe 112₁
Genealogy.: m. of Pan by Aither 27₃
- Oinomaos
Myth.: chariot-race with Pelops 36 ff. 407 ff.
Compared with Dryas 225₄
- Oinopion
Myth.: 290₃
Genealogy.: f. of Talos 290₃
- Oistros 252
- Okeanos
Myth.: lends solar cup to Herakles 225 358₃
Genealogy.: f. of Daeira 212 f. of Triptolemos by Ge 212
Associated with Ge 212
- Olba
Cult.: Zeus "Ολβιος 125 304₁
 — coins of 304
- Oleiai 689₅
 Olene or Olenos in Achaia 529₄
 Olenos in Aulis 529₄
 Olenos, f. of Aiga and Helike 529₄
 Olor 755₀
 Olous 149₂ 150₂
Cults.: Asklepios 729₄ Britomartis 729
 Zeus Ταλλαιος 729
 — coins of 729
- Olympos
Genealogy.: s. of Ouranos by Ge 597₄
Identified with Zeus 597₄
- Olympia
Cults.: Hera "Αμμωνια 370 Zeus 2 2₂ 24⁰ 37₁ 85 f. 131 292 407 622 751 781 Zeus "Αμμων 370
Rite.: black ram slain for Pelops 407
 — boxing-match at 72 Heraion at 292 votive bronzes from 37₁ 381₁ 381₂ 381₄ 334 f.
- Olympos, various mountains called 100 development in meaning of 113 ff.
Etymology.: 100 115
- Olympos, Mt
 — in Arkadia 67 ff. 82₁ 100
 — in Attike 100
 — in Elis 100
 — in Euboa 100
 — in Galatia 100
 — in Karpathos 100
 — in Kilikia 100
 — in Kypros 100
 — in Lakonike 100
 — in Lesbos 100
 — in Lydia 100
 — in Lykia 100
 — in Makedonia 101 ff. 113 f. 126 ff. 338₁
Cults.: St Elias 177 f. Kabeiroi 107 ff. Korybantes 107 ff. Moirai 114 Muses 104₂ Orpheus 111₁ Zeus 100 ff. 102₅ 520₂ Zeus "Ολύμπιος 116
Rites.: mysteries 110 f.
Myths.: meeting-place of heaven and earth 157 ruled by Ophion and Eurynome 155
 — in Mysia 100 102₅ 116₈ 124¹
Cult.: Zeus "Ολύμπιος 116
 — in Panchaia 100
 — in Skyros 100
 — in Troas 100 116
- Olympos, the mountain-god (?) 117₀
 Olympos, s. of Zeus (?) 156
 Omarion, cult of Zeus and Athena at 17₃
 Omophagia 666₀ See also Index ii s.v.
 Omophagy
 On See Heliopolis in Egypt
- Onnes 108₁
 Onomakritos 655₂
 Onouphis 437 784
 Opheltion, Mt 457₃
 Ophion 155
 Ophites 394₂
 Ophinchus 755₉
 Orchomenos in Arkadia 16

- Orchomenos in Boiotia 82
Cults: Zeus Λαφύστιος 121 416
Rites: bull-fights (?) 497 Φολάειαι and
 'Ολείαι 689₅
- Oreiaides See Nymphs: Oreiades
- Orestes
Myths: death 262₁ 680 680₄ kills Aigisthos 39 kills Neoptolemos 261 f.
- Orion
Myth: blinded by Oinopion 290₃
 Orion, the constellation 755₉
- Ornis 30₂
- Ornytion, s. of Sisyphos 736
- Oropos
Cult: Amphiaraios 407₄
- Orpheus
Cults: Mt Helikon 536 f. Mt Olympos 111₁
Myths: burial 111₁ death 111₁ plays for Muses 111₁ teaches Midas 111₁
Genealogy: s. of a Muse 111₁
Types: in Catacombs 166₁ leaning against willow 537
Associated with Dionysos 166 Telete 536 f.
- Orphic Dionysos
Cult: Thrace 654 ff.
Myth: slain in bovine form 660
- Orphic mystery in Thrace 695
- Orphic rites derived from Egypt (?) 437
- Orphic sun-god 8₀ 342
- Orphic tablets 650₀
- Orphic Zeus
Cult: Crete 647 ff. 654
Myth: consorts with Phersephone or Kore 398 695 consorts with Rhea or Demeter 398 695
Metamorphosed into snake 398 403 (?)
Function: pantheistic 33 197
Identified with Phanes 8₀
Compared with Zeus Σαβάγιος 398 f. 778
- Ortygia, name of Delos 544₀
- Ortygia, near Ephesos
Cult: Leto 649₃
- Ortygothera 535₀
- Oserapis or Osirapis 188₁
- Osiris
Rites: annual mourning 523 annually confronted with Shu (?) 348
Myth: slain by Typhon 435
Etymology: 346₅
Attributes: hawk 241 plough 223 star of 759₂
Identified with Apis 435 Dionysos 437 Triptolemos 223 227
In relation to Apis 633 Mneuis 431 Shu 348
- Osiris-Apis 188₁ 435
- Osorapis 188₁
- Osormneuis 431
- Ossa, Mt 100
- Ossetes 186
- Ostasos
Genealogy: s. of Ouranos by Ge 597₄
- Ostia
Cults: Fortuna Sancta 272₁₄ Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₁
- Otos
Myth: Ares 623₆
- Opus 275
Epithet: 'Ραμνουσιάς 275₅
Identified with Artemis 275 Nemesis 275
- Ouranopolis
Cult: Aphrodite Ούρανία 51 291
 — coins of 51 291
- Ouranos
Cults: Dreros 729₂ ep. Kolchis 534₀
Genealogy: f. of Adanos by Ge 597₄
 f. of Iapetos by Ge 597₄ f. of Kronos by Ge 597₄ f. of Olymbros by Ge 597₄ f. of Ostasos by Ge 597₄ f. of Rhea by Ge 597₄ f. of Sandes by Ge 597₄ f. of Kottos, Briareos, Gyes 314 f. of Kyklopes 302 313 f. of Kyklopes 314 gf. of Zeus 8
Function: the starry sky 8
Type: half-length with arched mantle 59 ff.
Associated with Gaia 8₁ Ge 597₄
- Paian
Associated with Apollon 233
- Paiones
Cult: disk on pole 291 Helios 291 783
- Palaikastro
Cults: snake-goddess 402 Zeus Δικταίος 15
- Palaimon
Cult: Tenedos 675
Epithet: Βρεφοκτόνος 675₂
Rite: human sacrifice 675
Personated by Iobakchoi 679₁₇
Myth: boiled in caldron by Leukothea 674 679 brought ashore by dolphin 170
- Palaxos, one of the Carian Kouretes 18₁
 See Spalaxos
- Palikoi
Genealogy: sons of Zeus by Aitne 156 by Thaleia 106
- Palladion 296₁
- Pallantion in Arkadia 87
- Pallantion on the Palatine 87
- Palmyra
Cults: Ba'al-šamin 191₄ Genneas (?) 571₂ Helios 191₄ Zeus Βήλος 756₀
- Pamboiotia 733
- Pamphylia
Cult: Zeus Δρύμνιος 289 f.
- Pan
Cults: Arkadia 87 Mt Lykaion 69 Messana 70₁ Rome 87
Epithets: κήλων 697₄ Λύκαϊος 69 87
Festival: Lykaia (?) 87
Myth: golden lamb 405₅
Genealogy: s. of Aither by Oineis 27₃ twin of Arkas (?) 702₆ s. of Kronos 702₃ s. of Zeus 702₆ s. of Zeus by Oineis 27₃

- Pan (cont.)
Attributes: bay-branch 375 lagobolon 69 syrinx 69 70₂
Types: seated on rock with lagobolon, hare 70₁ seated on rock with lagobolon, syrinx 69 with goat's horns 375 ep. 69
Associated with Dionysos 565 Horai, Apollon, etc. 112₂
- Panagia Gorgoepekoos 175₁
Panaitolia 733
Panamara
Cult: Zeus Πανάμαρος, Πανήμερος, Πανημέριος 18 ff.
- Panamoros 18
Panamoros, one of the Carian Kouretes 18₄
Panathenaia 339 733
Panchaia 100
Cult: Zeus Τριφύλιος 662
- Pandareos
Myth: golden hound 720₄
Genealogy: s. of Merope 720₄
- Pandēie See Pandia
- Pandia, festival at Athens 423₂ 682₁ 732 f.
Etymology: 423₂ 733
Pandia, lunar goddess (?)
Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Selene 732 739
- Pandion, eponym of tribe Pandionis 732
Pandora
Function: earth 700
Type: decking 699₀ 700
- Panepi (?) See Ba-en-ptah
- Panes, plurality of (?) 702₆
Personated by men and boys at Ephesos 657₁
Associated with Nymphs 702₆
 — as dance-theme (?) 679₁
- Pangaion, Mt 75
Panionia 733
Panopolis 314₃
Panormos
Cult: Zeus (?) 91
 — triskelēs on coins of 227 307
- Pantia See Pandia
- Papas
Etymology: 399₃
- Paphie (?)
Cult: Thalamai 522₄
- Parion, altar at 513₆
Paris
Myth: judgment 125 125₇ 231
 — statue of 592₀
- Parmenides 313
Parnassos, Mt
Cults: Apollon 233 Muses 132₃ Paian 233 Zeus Ανκώρειος 63₆
Myth: Daidalion 342
- Parnes, Mt
Cults: Zeus 165 Zeus Ἀπήμιος 121 Zeus Ὀμβριος 121 Zeus Παρνήθιος 121 Zeus Σημαλέος 121
- Paros
Cults: Baubo 669₂ Demeter Θεσμο-
- Paros (cont.)
 φόρος 669₂ Hera 669₂ Kore 669₂ Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 669₂
- Pasiphae
Cult: Thalamai 739
Oracle: 521 f.
Myth: 464 ff. 543 549₂ 739 f.
Genealogy: st. of Aietes and Kirke 416 m. of Ammon by Zeus 522 544₂ d. of Atlas 522 544₂ m. of Glaukos by Minos 469 f. d. of Helios by Perseis 464 w. of Minos 416 m. of Minotaur 491
Function: lunar 521 ff. 522₃ 733 f. 739
Identified with Daphne (?) 522 Ino (?) 522 Io (?) 522₃ Kasandra 522
Compared with the Proitides 452
Associated with Helios 522 the Minotaur 466₀ Zeus 522 733 f. 777
 — as dance-theme 481 495
- Pataros 753₂ See also Patrus
- Patrai 227
Patrus
Cult: Renzano 753₂ See also Pataros
Epithet: deus paternus 753₂
 Paul, St 51 60 166 f. 194₀
 — quotes Minos' description of the Cretan Zeus 663 ff.
- Pedasa
Cult: Zeus 717₃
Rite: sacrifice of goat 717₃
- Pedasians 362
- Pegasos, the hero, introduces cult of Dionysos Ἐλευθερεὺς 682
- Pegasos, the horse 170 724₁
- Peion, Mt 70₄ 134
- Peiraeus
Cults: Aphrodite Euporia Βελήλα 442 Nemesis 269 (Meter) Ὀπάλα (sic) 442 Συρία θεός 442
 Peiras or Peirasos 453₈
 Peithenios 411₀
 Peitho 38₁ (?) 459₆ (?)
Genealogy: m. of Iynx 440₇ m. of Mintha 257
Attributes: iynx 258 whip 253
- Pelagia, St 175
 Pelagia, St, dancer of Antioch 176₀
 Pelagia, St, virgin of Antioch 176₀
 Pelagia, St, of Tarsos 176₀
 Pelagius, monk 176₀
 Pelagon 38 469 540
 Pelasgians in Argos (?) 438 Arkadia (?) 77
 Crete 15 Dodona 111₀ Skotoussa 111₆ various burghs named Larissa 156
- Pelasgos, king of Argos 438
Pelasgos, king of Arkadia 77
Pelasgos, s. of Zeus by Larissa 156
- Peleus
Genealogy: h. of Thetis 419₁₀
- Peliades 245 679
Pelias
Myths: boiled by Medea 244 f. sends Iason to Kolchis 419

- Pelias (cont.)
Compared with that of Pelops 679
Etymology: 679₁₃
 — subject of plays by Thespis, Sophokles, Euripides 679
- Pelinnaion, Mt
Cult: Zeus Πελinnaίος 290₂
- Pelion, Mt
Cults: Zeus 'Ακραίος 421 f. 428 Zeus 'Ακραίος 164 f. 420 ff. 428
 — carnival-plays in district of 694 May-day festival on 420₁
- Pelopidai 407 412 414
- Pelops
Rite: sacrifice of black ram 407
Myths: boiled 419₁₀ chariot-race with Oinomaos 36 ff. 407 ff. compared with that of Pelias 679 Myrtilos 225₄ 262₁
Genealogy: f. of Atreus 405 407 f. of Thyestes 405 407
 — chariot of 260₁ subject of tragedies 679 throne of, on Mt Sipylus 137 ff.
- Pelopoe 328
- Pentheus
Myth: omophagy 466₀
 — subject of plays by Thespis, Aischylos, Euripides, Iophon, Chairemon, Lykophron 679 cp. 680₄
- Percivale, Sir 243₆
- Perdica, Perdicca, Perdiccas See Perdicax
- Perdika See Perdix, m. of Talos
- Perdikkas 401₀
- Perdix
Myth: Polykaste 728
Genealogy: s. of Calaus (Kalos) 726₀
Compared with Aktaion, Adonis, Hippolytos 728 See also Talos
- Perdix, m. of Talos 725₅ 726 726₃
- Peredur Paladr-hir See Percivale, Sir Pergamon
- Cults*: Athena Νικηφόρος 118 Athena Πολιάς 118 Demeter 513₅ Helios 334₀ Kabeiroi 110 120 (?) Trajan 118 Zeus 110 118 ff. 135 154
Myth: birth of Zeus 110 120 154 — great altar at 110 118 ff. 135
- Perikles
Personates Zeus 230
- Perillos 643
- Perimede 14₁
- Perinthos
Cult: Zeus 752 f.
- Periphas 38
- Perknn 185
- Perrhaiboi
Rite: ταυροκάθυσια (?) 497₄
 — coins of 497₄
- Perseis 464
- Persephone
Cults: Priansos (?) 402 Selinous (?) 403
Epithet: μελιτώδης 443₆
Myths: rape by Hades 175₀ 231 623₆
- Persephone (cont.)
 sought by Demeter 228 ff. 231 transforms Menthe 257₅
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos 457₅ offshoot of Gaia 396 f. m. of Zagreus 402
Attributes: column 220 snake 402 torch 220 f. 223 f.
Type: seated on rock (?) 403
Associated with Kataibates 597₄ Plouton (?) 501₆ Zagreus (?) 465₁ Zeus 780
 See also Kore, Pherephatta, Pherophatta, Phersephone, Proserpina
- Persepolis
Cults: Auramazda 208 Zeus 'Ωρομάσδης 208
- Perseus
Myth: slays Gorgon 26 724₁
Genealogy: s. of Zeus and Danaë 414
Attribute: cap of Hades (?) 100₀
Type: driving nail into Gorgon's neck (?) 724₁
- Perseus, the constellation 755₈
- Persia
Cult: Zeus 338₂ 783 f.
 — winged disk in 207 f.
- Persians 9 f. 781 See also Artagnes, Auramazda, Bahram, Magi, Mithras, Zeus Μαζεύς, Zeus 'Ωρομάσδης
- Perun 184 f.
- Pessinous
Cults: Attis 742₁ Demeter 229₈
- Peter, St 51 60
- Petrachos, Mt
Cult: Zeus 121 154
Myth: stone swallowed by Kronos 154
- Petronell See Carnuntum
- Petsofa 646₁
- Pfünz
Cults: Aesculapius (?) 630₈ Jupiter Dulicenus 630₈
- Phaethon
Myths: drives solar chariot (?) 337 falls from solar chariot 225₄ 419
Function: morning-star 343₂ (?) 738
Compared with Antheias 227 f. Helle 419 Myrtilos 225₄
 — doublet of Phaon 345
- Phaethon, horse of Helios 337₃
- Phaethon, the planet Jupiter 750₁ 756 759 f.
- Phaethousa, d. of Helios 410
- Phaethousa, m. of Myrtilos 225₄
- Phaidra 591₂
 — as dance-theme 481
- Phainon, the planet Saturn 756
- Phaistos
Cults: Europe 660 f. Hermes 661₁ Talos 297 Zeus 660 f.
 — coins of 660 f. 661₁ 720 disk found at 643₅
- Phalanthos 170
- Phalaris 122
 — bull of 643 f.

- Phalasarua
Cults: Rhea (?) 147 f. Zeus (?) 147 f.
 — sandstone thrones at 147 f. ep. 782
- Phaleron
Cults: Acheloios 112₃ Apollon Πύθιος
 112₃ Artemis Λοχία 112₃ Eileithyia
 112₃ Geraistai 112₃ Hestia 112₃
 Kalliroe 112₃ Kephisos 112₃ Leto
 112₃ Rhapsos 112₃
- Phanai 7₆
 Phanes
Functions: day 8₀ light 8₀ sun 8₀ 342₂
Etymology: 8₀ 311₆
Types: bi-sexual 311 four-eyed 311 462 golden wings 311 heads of rams, bulls, snake, lion 311 398₄ two-bodied (?) 311 with thunderbolt
 8₀ Identified with Helios 311
Compared with Argos 311₆
- Phaon
Associated with Aphrodite 345
 — doublet of Phaethon 345
- Pharkadon
Rite: ταυροκαθάψια (?) 497₄
 — coins of 497₄
- Pharnakia 631
- Pheidias 2 f. 2₂ 42 91 f. 275 622 751₈
 cp. 350
- Pherai
Rite: ταυροκαθάψια (?) 497₄
Myth: Anthos 74₀
 — coins of 497₄
- Pherekydes of Leros 311 462
- Pherekydes of Syros 27 f.
- Pherephatta
Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Deo 394 w. of Zeus 394 cp. 396
Function: fertility 705
Types: rising from grotto 698₁ 699 rising from ground 699
Associated with Hermes 699 Satyroi
 699 Zeus 394 cp. 399
 See also Kore, Persephone, Phero-
 phatta, Phersphone, Proserpina
- Pherophatta 670₇
- Phersphone
Cult: near Mykenai 430₀
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos by Zeus
 398 399₂ d. of Zeus by Rhea
 398 Type: horned child with four eyes and an extra face 398
Associated with Zeus 398
 See also Kore, Persephone, Phero-
 phatta, Phersphone, Proserpina
- Philaichme 74₀
- Philemon 30
- Philippopolis
Cult: Souregethes 753₂
 See also Gomphoi
- Philiskos of Rhodes 131 f.
- Philistines 363
Cults: Dagon 238₀ Zeus Ἀρόριος 238₀
- Philogaeus, horse of Helios 337₃
- Philologia 197₄
- Philomele
Type: woman 592₀
- Phlegon, horse of Helios 337₃
- Phlegrai 410
- Phlegyai
Myth: Kadmos 540
- Phlegyas, f. or b. of Ixion 199
- Phlious
Festival: Kissotomoi 534₈
 — coins of 305 305₁₅
- Phobios 74₀
- Phoebus 757
- Phoenicians 364 644 f. 651
- Phoinike
Cults: Beelsamen 191 Europe (?) 524
 538 ff. Herakles 544₀ Herakles De- sanaus (?) 603₅ Herakles Δισανδός (?)
 603₅ Kronos 722 moon-goddess 524
 538 ff. Slnm 519 Zeus 191 Zeus
 Ἀστέρπος 734
Rite: human sacrifice 722
Myths: Europe 538₇ 733 Zeus 755₁₀
 — winged disk in 206 f.
- Phoinix
Cult: Dreros 729₂
Genealogy: f. of Europe 525₃ 527₀ 539
 648
- Phokis
Myth: Kadmos 540
- Phokos, s. of Ornytion 736 f. tomb of 736
- Phorbas, subject of play by Thespis 679
- Phorkys
Myth: Euboa 321₁
Genealogy: gf. of Polyphemos 321₁ f. of Thoös 321₁
- Phoroneus 237₃
- Phosphoros, the planet Venus 200₆ 358₃ (?) 756
- Phrixa 112₁
- Phrixos
Myths: founds sanctuary of Leukothea
 416 golden ram 121 414 ff. 430
- Phrontis 416
- Phrygia
Cults: cow (?) 468 f. earth-mother 397
 Herakles Ἀνίκητος 399₃ Kabeiroi 108₁ Men 400₅ 730₀ Mother of the gods 553 Πάριος Zeus Σωτήρ 399₃ sky-father 397 Zeus 390 ff. 598₂
 Zeus Βαγαῖος 400₁ Zeus Βροντῶν
 399₃ Zeus Δίος 4 Zeus Μαξεύς 741₁
 Zeus Πάριος 399₃ Zeus Πάριος 399₃
 Zeus Πατήρ 399₃ Zeus Σαβάζιος 113
 Zeus Σωτήρ 399₃
Myths: birth of Zeus 151 f. Ilos 468 f.
Etymology: 415
 — rock-cut thrones in 136 f.
- Phryne 710₃
- Phylomedousa 444₁
- Picus 241 f.
- Pieria 257
- Pieros 257
- Pikoloos 241₁₅
- Pikulas or Pikullos 241₁₅

- Pindar as worshipper of Zeus Ἄμμων 352
 dedicates statue of Ammon 352
 362₄ writes Hymn to Zeus Ammon
 352 366 f.
- Pindos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἀκραῖος 123 f.
- Pisa
Cults: Zeus 407 ff. Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 116
Rite: ram sacrificed to Zeus 407 ff.
- Pisces 584₀ 759₅
- Pisidia
Cult: Zeus Σολυμείος 123
- Plastene 139
- Platon 310 f. 357₄ 664₀
- Pleiades 405₅ 755₁₀
- Plota See Plouto
- Plotis See Plouto
- Plouto
Genealogy: d. of Atlas 156 m. of Tan-talos by Zeus 156 720₄
Associated with Zeus 156 720₄
- Plouton
Cults: Acharaka 503 Eleusis 669₃
Epithets: μεγαλόδωρος 503₅ πλουτοδότης 503₅ πλουτοδοτῶν γενεῆν βροτέην καρποῖς ἐνιαυτῶν 503₅
Myths: rape of Persephone 623₆
Function: giver of wealth 503₅
Etymology: 503 f.
Attribute: cornu copiae 504₁
Identified with Sarapis 188₃
Associated with Demeter and Kore 669
 Herakles(?) 502₀ Kore 503 Persephone(?) 501₆
 See also Hades, Pluto
- Ploutos
Cult: Nysa in Lydia(?) 503₀
Attribute: cornu copiae 220
- Plute See Plouto
- Pluti
Cult: Kouretes 471₄
- Plutis See Plouto
- Pluto
Cult: Lambaisa 188₃
Identified with Iupiter Serapis 188₃
 See also Hades, Plouton
- Pnyx 147
- Podaleirios
Cult: Daunia 407₄
Oracle: 407₄
- Poias
Myth: Talos 719
- Pollux and Castor See Dioskouroi, Kastor, Polydeukes
- Polybos 251₆
- Polydeukes
Cult: Byzantion 168
Myth: Talos 721
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Leda 760₃
- Polyeidos as dance-theme 481 See also Polyidos
- Polygnotos 133 537 700 f.
- Polyhymno 111₈
- Polyidos 470 See also Polyeidos
- Polykarpe See Polykaste
- Polykaste
Myth: Perdix 728
Function: earth 728
Identified with Diana 728 Mother of the gods 728
- Polykleitos 84₁ 134 f. 204₂ 766
- Polyphemos
Myth: 302 312₁ 312 f. 320
Genealogy: f. of Galas 321₁ h. of Galateia 321₁ f. of Illyrios 321₁ f. of Keltos 321₁ grand-s. of Phorkys
 321₁ s. of Poseidon 320₀ s. of Sikanos 321₁ s. of Thoōsa 321₁
Function: star(?) 313₃
Compared with Euenios 411
 See also Kyklopes, Kyklops
- Polyrhention
Cult: Zeus Κρηταγενής 149₁
- Polyxeinos 211
- Pompeii
Cult: trees 768₀
 — mosaic from 338₂
- Pontos
Rites: dances of Τιτᾶνες, Κορύβαντες,
 Σάτυροι, Βουκόλοι 679₁
- Populonia 255
- Porphyria, St 176₀
- Porosenna, tomb of 483₁₂
- Portus Romanus
Cult: Iupiter Angelus Heliopolitanus
 551₁₀ 567₅
- Poseidon
Cults: Aigion 17 Byzantion 169 Ephesos 442 Gythion 351 Halikarnassos 74 Illyricum 181₀ Isthmos 2 My-konos 169 Priene 132 Tegea 521₀
 Thera(?) 142 Troizen 74
Epithets: ἀναξ 506₁ Γαῖαόχος 351 Ἐλικώνιος 132 506₁ Φυτάλιμος 74
Festivals: Panionia 132
Rites: bull-dragging 506₁ drowning of horse every year in Illyricum(?) 181₀ drowning of four horses every ninth year in Illyricum 181₀ human sacrifice(?) 653₁ sacrifice of boar 717₂ sacrifice of bulls 717₂ sacrifice of rams 717₂ ταυροκάθψια(?) 498
Priests: 74₄
Myths: Asteria or Asterie 544₀ Delphin
 755 golden ram 417₁₄ strife with Athena 147
Metamorphosed into ram 418₀
Genealogy: f. of Anthes 74₀ f. of Belos 756₆ f. of Boiotos by Arne 539 f. of Polyphemos 320₀ f. of golden ram by Theophrane 418₀ Functions: originally a specialised form of Zeus 717₂ vegetation-god 74 Attributes: bull 442 464 498₂ 739 f.
 trident 361 575
Types: bust 575 chryselephantine statue 2₂ seated 408 triple iconic herm 521₀
Identified with pantheistic Zeus 361

Poseidon (cont.)

- Associated with Amphitrite* 721 Apollon
74, Arne 539 Asteria or Asterie 544₀
Demeter and Zeus 521₀ Helle 418₀
Theophane 418₀ Zeus "Ἄμμων,
Apollon Κάπρειος, Asklepios, Demeter 351
- Superseded by Saint Nikolaos* 169 f.
— cattle of 665₄ statue of at Delphi 762 at Isthmos 2₂
- Pothos (?) 459₅
- Praeneste
Cults: Fortuna Primigenia 272 Zeus
Helios Sarapis 189₁
- Praios
Cults: pig 653 Zeus 660 660₃ Zeus
Δικραϊος 660
Myth: Zeus suckled by cow (?) 660 665 785 by sow 653 785
— coins of 660 660₃ 785
- Pramanthu 329₄
- Praxiteles 427 670 710₃
- Priamos
Myth: killed by Neoptolemos 39₃ 40₀
Genealogy: f. of Kasandra 522
- Priansos
Cults: Hygieia (?) 402 Persephone (?)
402 Zeus Βαδάρης 150₂
- Priene
Cults: Poseidon Ἐλικώνιος 132 Zeus
Ἀθῆριος 26 f.
— coins of 483 Labyrinth at (?) 499₂
- Priskos, St 169
- Priyavrata 329₄
- Proitides
Myth: 451 f.
Metamorphosed into heifers 453₃
Compared with Pasiphae 452
- Proitos 303 310₀ 321₁ 451 f.
- Prokne
Type: woman 592₀
- Prometheus
Myths: bound to Mt Kaukasos 461
Erechtheion (?) 324 first killed ox
469₄ freed from Mt Kaukasos 329₀
Herakles and Kastor 329₀ invents alphabet 329₁ invents fire-sticks
325 Lemnos 324 makes man 324
Satyr 702, theft of fire 323 ff.
Epithet: πυρκαῖός 702₁
Genealogy: h. of Axiothea 329₀ s. of Iapetos 324₃ 325 s. of Klymene
324₃
Function: fire 327 f.
Etymology: 329
Attributes: axe 329₀ ring 329₀ two rings 329₀ willow- (?) wreath 329₀
Compared with Kyklops and the Kabeiros 328₀ Odysseus 327 f.
In relation to Hephaistos 328 the Kabeiroi 328
— as an eagle (?) 205₁
- Pron, Mt
Cult: Hera 134 f.
- Propontis 310₀

- Proserpina 393. See also Kore, Persephone, Pherephatta, Pherophatta, Phersephone
- Prosymna, d. of Asterion 445
- Prosymna, district near Argos
Cult: Hera 445₀
- Proteurythmos
Personated by Iobakchoi 679₁₇
- Proteus 496₃
Identified with Keten 496
- Protogonos 191
- Prousa in Bithynia
Cult: Zeus (?) 116₃ 124 Zeus Ὀλύμπιος
117₀
- Pῤῥhivi
Epithet: speckled cow 718₁
Function: earth 718₁
- Psoloeis 689₅
- Psyche
Myth: golden sheep 404 f.
- Ptah
Cult: Memphis 433
Identified with Hephaistos 433
In relation to Apis 435₀ 633
- Pterelaos
Myth: 344 346
Genealogy: descended from Zeus 328₃
f. of Ithakos and Neritos 328₃
Function: sun (?) 346
Etymology: 344 345₇
See also Pterelas
- Pterelas 345₁ 345₇ See also Pterelaos
- Ptoōs 416
- Puteoli
Cult: Iupiter Heliopolitanus 551₀
- Pyanepsia 339
- Pyrgoteles 357
- Pyroeis, the planet Mars 750₁ 756 cp. 759
- Pyrois, horse of Helios 337₃
- Pyrrhos, sculptor 727₁
- Pythagoras 135 646 669
— symbol Y of 283₀
Type: 55 f.
- Pythagoreans 66 303 303₅ 330₄ 358₃ 403
437 558₅
- Pytho 233 258 540 See Delphi
- Rā
Cult: Thebes in Egypt 346
Epithet: ram 346
Genealogy: f. of Horos 206 f. of Shu
348
Function: sun 314 f. 341 346
Attributes: falcon 341 hawk 241
sparrow-hawk 341
Identified with Amen 315 Horos 315
341 Khnemu 346 Tem 315
In relation to Bacis, Bacchis, or Bouchis 436 f.
— eye of 314 f.
Identified with Bast 315₁ Hathor
315₁ Meḥ-urt 315₁ Sekhet 315₁
- Ramman
Functions: fertilising 579 lord of justice 579 sky 576₄ storm 582₁ 634 f.

- Ramman (cont.)
Etymology: 576 577₁
Attributes: bull 576 ff. 633 ff.
Types: bull (?) 577 579 planting one foot on bull 576 645 standing on back of bull 576 606
Associated with Istar 577₁
In relation to Adad 576₁ Šamaš 577 ff.
 See also Adad
- Rar 212
- Rarian Plain 212
- Raros 212
- Recarantus (?) 482₁
- Remo, St
In relation to St Erasmo 775
Supersedes Remus 775
- Remus
Superseded by St Remo 775
- Renzano
Cults: Patrus 753₂ Surgastus 753₂
- Reparata, St 176₁
- Rhadamanthys
Myth: 461
Genealogy: s. of Hephaistos 330, s. of Zeus Ἀστέριος 515, 517 s. of Zeus by Europa 461
Function: judge of dead 330,
Etymology: 330.
- Rhamnoss
Cults: Amphiaros 275; 275, Nemesis 273 ff. 281 f.
Myth: Nemesis 279₁ 280
- Rhapso
Cult: Phaleron 112.
- Rhca
Cults: Crete 148₂ 695 Knossos 649; Kyzikos 169 Phalasarua (?) 147 f.
Epithets: Λοβρίνη 394; μήτηρ ὄρειος 648₁
Rites: deposition of genitalia 394; torches carried over mountain 648; 650
Myths: Ammon 376₁ Dionysos (?) 375 f. golden hound 720₁
Metamorphosed into snake 398
Genealogy: m. of Korybantēs 106, cp. 107₁ m. of Kouretes 650₂ d. of Ouranos by Ge 597₁ m. of Pherephone by Zeus 398
Function: mountain-mother 645 648; 650
Attributes: cypress 649
Associated with Attis 394₂ Kronos 376₁ Zeus 398 645 cp. 112₁
Identified with Atargatis 582 591₂
In relation to Atargatis 583
Supersedes Euryome 155
Superseded by Mary Mother of God 169
Worshipper: Κάβητος 395₂
 — cypress-grove of 649; house of 649 mysteries of 402 temple of 648 f. throne of (?) 147 f. torches of 648₁ 650
- Rhodanos 623₁
- Rhode 332 f.
- Rhodes, called Asteria 544₁
Cults: Apollon 132 Hekate 142 Helios 181₁ 306₂ 331 f. 613 Zeus Ἀραβῆπος 123 132
Rite: quadriga flung into sea 181₁
Myths: Althaimenes 117 Korybantēs 106, — coins of 625, rock-cut throne in 112
- Rhoikos 483₁₂
- Rhoiteion 304
- Rhosos
Cults: Adad 590 Dioskouroi 590 Zeus (Ἄδαδς) 590
- Rhytia
Genealogy: m. of Korybantēs by Apollon 106.
- Rimmon See Ramman
- Rome
Cults: Atargatis (?) 551₁₁ Fors Fortuna 285 Fortuna Fiscata 272 Genius Forinarum 552₁ Iuno Regina 611₁ Iupiter Dolichenus 608 ff. 630, Iupiter Hammon 353₁ Iupiter Heliopolitanus 551₁₁ Iupiter Libertas 194₁ Iupiter Sol 191₁ Iupiter Sol Sarapis 189₁ Liber 693₁ Lupercus 677₁ Pan 87 Sol 630₁ Sol Serapis Iupiter 190₁ Vediovis 711 Volcanus 656₂ Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₁ Zeus Ὀλύβριος or Ὀλύβριος 597₁
Festivals: Liberalia 693₁ Lupercalia 677₁ Nonae Caprotinae 694, Saturnalia 693₁
Rites: homicide stands on ram 423 human sacrifice 659₃ — coins of 44 ff. 51 f. 56 62 133 f. 268 276₂ 307 538 712 ff. tigillum sororium at 768₁
- Romulus
Myths: disappears in thunderstorm 656₂ torn to pieces by senators 656₂
- Rosmerta (?)
Cult: Celts 482₁
- Rural Dionysia 666 671₁ 673 (?) 683 f. 688 ff.
- Sabadios 400₂ See also Sabazioz
- Sabaoth: the κύριος Σαβαώθ identified with Sabazioz 125₂ cp. 231₁ and 400₁
- Sabatium 113
- Sabazioz 390 ff. 400 642₁
Cult: Phrygia 390
Rites: golden adder 392 mystic 395 425₁ orgiastic 400₂ sacrifice of virility 394 f.
Priests: 391 (?)
Myth: 392 ff. 695
Metamorphosed into puff adder 392
Functions: ram 392 396 snake 396 solar 400₂ vegetation 400₂
Etymology: 400₂

Sabazios (cont.)

Attributes: 392₁ puff adders 392
Types: ram (?) 392 seated or standing with feet on ram's head 391 with foot on ram's head 391 f. 642₁

Identified with Dionysos 399₂ the κῦριος Σαβαώθ 425₂ cp. 234₁ and 400₆
 Men 400₅

Compared with Men 642₁
 — mysteries of 395 425₂

Saboi 395 400

Sabos 400

Etymology: 400₂

Sagalassians 362

Sagalassos

Cult: Men 642₁

— coin of 642₁

Sagitta 755₂

Sagittarius 755₀

Sais 523

Salamis, trophy for battle of 761 f. 771₉

Salamis in Kypros

Cults: Agrauros 659₁ Diomedes 659₁

Rite: human sacrifice 659₁

Salii 715

Sallentini

Cult: Iupiter Menzana 180₅

Šalmānu

Cults: Assyria 519 Phoinike 519

Šalmoneus 12 318

Samaš

Cult: Sippar 262 ff.

Priest: 263

Function: sun 553₅ 577 f.

Attributes: disk and bar 263

Types: enthroned 263 rayed 553₅

Associated with Sin, Ištar and Adad
 577

In relation to Adad 577 ff. Ramman
 577 ff.

Samos

Cults: Hera 440₇ 444 f. Hermes (?) 172

St Merkourios 172

— Labyrinth in 483₁₂

Samothrace

Cult: Kabeiroi 109 120

Function: calm the sea 765

Sanchouniathon 191

Sandas

Cults: Arinna (?) 635₁₃ Hatti (?) 635₁₃

Hittites (?) 635₁₃ Irviz 594 f. 598₂

Tarsos 535₀ 595 ff.

Epithets: Desanaus (?) Desandus (?)

Δισανδᾶς (?) 603₃

Festivals: Ortygothera (?) 535₀ Pyra (?)
 600 f.

Functions: fertility 595 600 solar 302₁
 302₁ 604 thunder (?) 635₁₃

Genealogy: s. of Ouranos by Ge 597₄

Attributes: bovine horns 595 bow-case
 600 branch 600 corn-ears 595 596
 598₃ double-axe 600 cp. 600₀ 631 f.
 eagle 596 600 602 604 eagle-sceptre 596 flower 600 602 grapes 598₃ grape-bunches 595 596 602 lion 599

Sandas (cont.)

cp. 599₀ lotos-sceptre 596 plough (?)
 595 598₂ pyramid topped by eagle
 600 ff. star 604 sword 600 cp. 600₀ tall head-dress 600 cp. 600₀ wreath 600

Types: enthroned as Zeus 595 ff.
 pyramid 600 ff. standing on lion
 599 f.

Identified with Herakles 535₀ 598 f.
 Zeus 597 f.

Assimilated to Zeus 595 ff.

In relation to Zeus 603

— localised forms of (?) 635₁₃ prototype of 598 603 pyre of (?) 600 f.

Sandes 302₁ See Sandas

Saudon 302₁ See Sandas

Sarapis

Cults: Alexandria 188₁ 189₁ 360 f.

753 Ankyra in Galatia 189₂ Apu-lum 190₀ Auximum 190₀ Babylon

188₁ Djebel-Dokhan 189₁ Djebel-

Fateerh 189₁ India 637₃ Lambaisa

188₃ Lutri 189₁ Mediterranean seaboard 435 Mytilene 189₁ Ostia 189₁

Præneste 189₁ Rome 189₁ 190₀

Sassoferrati 190₀ Sidyma 189₂

Sinope 188₁ Stratonikeia 189₂

Tripolis in Lydia 188₁

Epithets: Ἀνίκτηρος 190₀ Μέγας 189 f.

Functions: ^a chthonian 188 435 sun

188 ff. 435 f.

Etymology: 188₁

Attributes: agrenón 360 kálathos 360

753 kiste 360 modius 360 rayed

crown 188

Types: bust 620 bust of Zeus Ἀμμων

and Sarapis (?) 366₂ pantheistic

361 as serpent 360 seated with modius on head and Kerberos at feet 188₁ standing with modius on head and Kerberos at feet 188₁

Identified with the Apis of Osiris 188

Helios 361 435 Iupiter Pluto 188₃

Iupiter Sol 190₀ Plouton 188₃ Zeus

181₁ 188 ff. 197₄ 361 435 Zeus,

Hades, Helios 187 Zeus, Helios

189 f. 190₀ Zeus, Helios, Mithras

190

Associated with Isis 360 454 Zeus

366₂ (?)

Sardanapalos as an effeminate Zeus or Dionysos snapping fingers at Herakles (?) 599₄

— statues of 272₁₁ (?) 592₀

Sardeis

Cults: Demeter 229₈ 229₉ Zeus 151₃ 753

— coin of 753

Sardians (?) 362

Sardinia

Cults: earth 723 723₄ Kronos 722

Talos (?) 723 728₄

Myth: Talos 721 ff.

Rite: human sacrifice 722

Sardinians (?) 362

- Sarpedon.
Myth: 464
Genealogy: s. of Zeus Ἀστέριος 545₅ 547 s. of Zeus by Europe 464
- Sassoferrati
Cult: Iupiter Sol Sarapis 190₀
- Saturn, the planet 755 f. 758 f.
- Saturnalia 693₄
- Saturnus
Festival: Saturnalia 693₄
Type: fire-breathing dragon devouring its own tail 192₁
 — victim of (?) 693₄
- Satyroi
Personated by men and boys at Ephesos 657₁
Myths: Arkadia 458 Prometheus 702₁ Satyr touches fire 702₁ Zeus takes the form of Satyr to court Antiope 734 ff.
Functions: akin to Kouretes 534
Etymology: 534₄
Attributes: crook 709 two flutes 736₀ panther-skin 709
Types: ἀποσκοπεῖων 709 double herm of Zeus Ἀμμων and Satyr 374 goat-creatures 696 ff. 702 702₁ (?) Hellenistic 697 horse-creatures 696 701 f. ithyphallic goat-man with cornu copiae (?) 704₃ lashed by Silenos 659₂ Roman 697
Associated with Dionysos 565 667₄ 672 711 Hermes 699 Hermes, Io, Argos, etc. 459₅ Maenads 465₁ Pherephatta 699
 — as dance-theme 679₁ plurality of 702₆ See also Tityroi
- Satyros
Genealogy: s. of Dionysos by Nikaia 536
- Sauadai 400₂
- Sauazios 400₂ See also Sabazios
- Saudoi 400₂
- Schoineus 416
- Scipio 58 f.
- Scorpius 755₀
- Scythia 229₂
Cult: Triptolemos 212
- Searbhan Lochlannach 321₂
- Seasons See Horai
- Seb
Function: earth 387
Genealogy: h. of Nut 387
- Sebadia 393₀
- Sebáu 315
- Sebazios 400 See also Sabazios
- Sebek
Function: crocodile-god 472₁₀
- Sebennytos
Cult: Nemesis (?) 269₃
- Securitas
Type: 34₃
- Segesta 122₂
- Seilenoi See Silenoi
- Seimios
Cults: Heliopolis in Syria (?) 553 f. Kefr-Nebo 571₂
Epithet: Πατρώος 571₂
Associated with Adad and Atargatis 533 f. Symbetylos and Leon 571₂
- Seiren
Type: plume on head 297₂
 See also Zeus Σειρήν
- Seirios
Cult: Keos 740
In relation to Zeus 740
 — dog-star so called 299 sun so called 299 rising of 420
- Seker
Attribute: hawk 241
- Sekhet
Function: sun 315₁
Identified with eye of Rà 315₁
- Selamanes
Cult: Koryphe near Aleppo 519
Epithet: Πατρώος 519₅
- Selenaia
Identified with Astarte 538
 See also Selene
- Selenaion, Mt, in Argolis 457₃
- Selenaion, Mt, in Etruria 244₅
- Selene
Cults: Mt Apaisanton (?) 457₃ Byzantium 92 Elis 455₈ Luna (?) 244₅ Thalamai 522
Epithets: ἀμφίκερως 455₈ ἀνασσα 455₀ δια (?) 732₅ δίκερως 455₈ ἐνκέραος 455₈ εὐώπις 738₁₁ ἠύκομος 456 κεραή 455₀ 455₈ κερασφόρος 455₈ κερατώπις 455₈ κεραώψ 455₈ κερδέσσα 455₀ 455₈ κύκλωψ 313₃ ὄμμα... ταυρωπὸν ἔχεις 455₀ πανδία 522₆ 732 (?) 732₁₀ Πασιφάη 522 πασιφαῆς 522₀ ταυροκράνος 455₀ ταυρόκερως 455₈ ταυρώπις 455₀ ὑψίκερως 455₈ χρυσοκέρως 455₈
Priestess of 243₁
Myths: parent of androgynous sex 310 helps Hera against Herakles 457₃ Mithras 516 ff. Nemea 739 Nemean Lion 456
Metamorphosed into cow 455₇ puppy 455₇
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos 457₅ 732 m. of Herse (ἔρσα) by Zeus 732₂ m. of Nemean Lion 456 f. m. of Nemea by Zeus 456 732 m. of Pandeie (Pandia) by Zeus 732 d. of Zeus by Leto 727₀
Functions: γενέσεως προστάτις 518₂ huntress 538 magician 457₃ Monday 753
Attributes: blue nimbus 41₀ chariot drawn by two bulls 752 cow 625₅ 626 crystal 625 f. horse 250 narcissus 625 f. partridge (?) 727₀ silver 626₀ star (?) 753 Types: in biga 449 (?) bovine 455 bust 573 bust with crescent 571 575 in chariot drawn by bulls or

- Selene (cont.)
 cows 456 537 f. drawn by two bulls 752 horned 455 on horseback
 200₀ nimbus 250 quadriga in boat 358₃ riding bull 456 537 f. riding horse 250
Identified with Isis 454₇
Associated with the Dioskouroi 449
 Helios 358₃ 455₈ 522 Hesperos
 449 Zeus 456 732 f. 739 777
Compared with Hera 455
Confused with Semele 733
In relation to Atargatis 583 bull 518₂ — boat of 358₃ chariot of 358₃
 449 (?) 456 537 f. 752
 See also Selenai
 Seleukeia on the Kalykadnos
Cult: Zeus 152 f.
 Seleukeia Pieria
Cult: Zeus Κάριος 521₀
 Seleukos
Attributes: horn of bull 511₁ horned elephants 511₁ horned helmet 511₁ horned horses 511₁
 Selge 305 306
 Selinuos 335₃
Cults: Demeter 512₃ Persephone (?)
 403 Zeus (?) 403
 Semele
Cults: Athens 669 f. 695 Mykonos
 668 f. Thracio-Phrygians 669
Festival: Lenaia 669 ff.
Rites: mysteries 695₃ sacrifice of yearling 668 τράπεζα 695₃
Myths: Thebes 398₄ wooed by Zeus
 398₄
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos 671 675
 m. of Dionysos by Zeus 681 f. m.
 of Iakchos 670 f. m. of Iakchos
 by Zeus 693
Type: carrying infant Dionysos 670
Associated with Zeus 155 398₄ 681
 733 736₀ 751 780
Confused with Selene 733
 Semiramis
Myths: 583₄ standard at Hierapolis in Syria 583 Zeus Ἀμμων 367
Metamorphosed into dove 367 583₄
Etymology: 583₄ 584₀
Assimilated to Istar 584₀ — sign of 583 statues of 592₀
 Septimius Severus
Personates Zeus 278
 Serapis See Sarapis
 Serpens 112₃ 755₆ cp. 757
 Sisyphos See Sisyphos
 Set
Identified with Typhon 387
 Shamash See Samaš
 Shu
Genealogy: s. of Rā 348 h. of Tefnut 387 Functions: atmosphere 348 dry atmosphere 387
Identified with Amen-Rā 348 Herakles 348 387
 Sicea Venera
Cult: Ba'al-ḥammān 308
 Sicily
Cult: Zeus Λύκαιος 88₃
Myths: Argos 458₃ Kyklopes 312 320
 321₁ Sikanos 321₁
 — triskelēs as emblem of 305₉
 cp. 306 f.
 Sicno-Pelasgians (?) 363
 Sidon
Cults: Astarte 538 Europe 538
Myth: rape of Europe 538 ff.
 — coins of 539
 Sidyma
Cult: Zeus Helios Serapis 189₂
 Siga
Cult: Dionysos 502
 Sikanos
Genealogy: f. of Kyklops, Antiphantes
 (sic), Polyphemos 321₁
 Sikyon
Cults: Artemis Παρψα 520₂ Dionysos
 Ἀκρωεΐτης 674₃ Zeus Μελάχιος
 520₂ Zeus Στοιχεύς 143₁₅
Rite: φαλλοφόροι 690₀
Myth: Antiope 737 f.
 See also Aigialeia
 Sikyon, the eponymous hero
Genealogy: s. of Marathon 246
 Silenoi
Types: asses (?) 696₃ confused with Kentauri (?) 696₃ horse-creatures
 696 f. 699 701 f.
Associated with Dionysos 503₀ 667₄
 cp. 400₂
 — plurality of 702₀
 Silenos
Cult: Thracio-Phrygians (?) 697₄
Etymology: 697₄
Type: lashing Satyr 659₂
 Silenus, tutor of Liber 662
 Sillax 655₂
 Sillon 655₂
 Silpion, Mt 236 f.
Cult: Kronos 237₁
 Silvanus
Function: protector of flocks and herds 518 cp. 518₀
Associated with Diana 275₃ Jupiter
 353₄ Nemesis 275₃
 Simmas 583₄
 Sin
Genealogy: f. of Istar 237₁
Function: moon 237₁ 577
Associated with Samaš, Istar, and Adad 577
 Sinai, Mt
Cult: golden calf 571
 Sinjerli 576₅
 Sinope
Cults: Sarapis 188₁ deity wearing wolf-skin 99₀
 Sinopion 188₁
 Sippa
Cult: Šamaš 262 ff.

- Sisylos, Mt
Myth: Tantalos 138 156 f. 720; Zeus born 151 Zeus married to Semele 155 Upe: 102, rock cut throne on 137 ff.
- Sirens: 258. See also Seiren
- Siscia
Cult: Jupiter Heliopolitanus 551₇
- Sisyphos
Cult: Corinth 639 f.
Myth: Corinth 246 Autolykos 639 f. Under-world 201 f.
Genealogy: h. of Merope 251₆ f. of Odysseus by Antikleia 639 f. f. of Ornytion 736
Function: sun 639 f.
Etymology: 639 655₂
- Skione 783
- Skirophoria 423
- Skopas 204₂ 665 f.
- Skotoussa
Cult: Zeus 111₆
Rite: ταυροκατάζα(?) 497₁
 — coins of 497₁
- Skylla
Myth: Megara 344
Metamorphosed into heron 344
- Skyllaion 344
- Skythia
Myth: Io 141
 See also Scythia
- Smilis 483₁₂
- Smyrna
Cults: Demeter(?) 275₂ Nemesis 273 275₂ 278 f. 281 f.
 — gilded statues of Zeus or Zeus Sarapis from 2₂
- Soanes, catch gold in fleeces 418
- Sokos
Genealogy: f. of Korybantēs by Kombe 106.
- Sol
Cults: Apulum 190₆ Auximum 190₆ Dalmatia(?) 191₆ Dorstadt 191₆ Lutri 189₁ Rome 189₁ 190₆ 191₆ 630₃ Sassoferrati 190₆ Thraee 400
Epithets: Deus Genitor 191₆ Deus Magnus(?) 191₆ Dignus 609. Invictus 166 190₆ 191₆ 610₁ Liber 400 Proconstantissimus 191₆(?) 609, ep. 609₆ Rupe Natus 191₆ Seadius 400
Attributes: bovine horns 620 chariot 517₁ grape-bunch 518₆ radiate crown 517₆ radiate nimbus 517₆ 620 torches 714 whip 518₆ 617(?) 620
Types: bust 616 f. 620 bust with radiate nimbus 620 rayed bust 610 619 with star above him 538₁
Myth: Mithras 516 ff.
Identified with Jupiter 191₆ Jupiter Dolichenus 609₆ Jupiter Sarapis 190₆ Serapis Jupiter 190₆
- Sol (cont.)
Associated with Jupiter Dolichenus 609. 619 Luna 60 616 f. 620 Mithras 517₆ 518₆ — flocks of 404
- Solmissos, Mt
Cult: Kouretes 649₂
- Soloi
Cult: Anramazda 208₅
- Solymos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Σολυμῶς 123
- Solymos, s. of Zeus 156
- Soma 718₁
- Sosipolis
Cult: Elis 58
Attribute: starry chlamys 58
- Sosthenes 169
Superseded by Michael 169
- Soter, horse of Helios 337₃
- Souregethes
Cult: Philippopolis 753₂
Epithet: Ἐπήκοος 753₂ See also Sourgasteus
- Spalaxos, one of the Carian Kouretes 18₁
 See Palaxos
- Sparta
Cults: Auxesia and Damoia 730 Dioskouroi 766₆ Zeus Ἀγῆτωρ 373₁ Zeus Ἀμμων 352 Zeus Λακεδαίμων 8 Zeus Λόκαος 92 ff. Zeus Οὐράνιος 8 Zeus Πλοῦσιος 504₂ Zeus Ταχεύτας 730
- (Spartoi) 540
- Sphairos 225₁
- Sphinx
Types: bull-sphinxes 636 with Hathor-head 636₂ with human head 535 with plume on head 297₂
- Sterope 38₁ 39(?)
- Sterope, horse of Helios 337₃
- Steropes 303₂ 312₁ 314 317 f. 318₁
- Sthenoboa 591₂
- Stilbon, the planet Mercury 750₁ 756
- Stoichos 143₁₅
- Stoics 29 ff.
- Stratonikeia
Cults: Demeter 229. Zeus Helios Sarapis 189₂ Zeus Πανάμωπος, Πανήμωπος, Πανημίπιος 18 ff.
- Stymphaioi
Cult: Deipatyros 681₁ 779₆ Zeus 681₁
- Styppax 727₂
- Suessa Aurunea 305
- Sumanus 329₁
- Surgasteus
Cult: Renzano 753₂
Epithets: deus paternus 753₂ Magnus 753₂
 See also Souregethes
- Sūrya
Function: sun 240 341₇
Attribute: eagle 341₇
 — as a bird 240
- Sybaris
Cult: Zeus Ἀπάριος 17

- Syene 66
Cults: Iuno Regina 353, Iupiter Optimus Maximus Hammon Chnubis 353₄
- Symbetylos
Cult: Kefr-Nebo 571₂
Epithet: Ἰατρώπος 571₂
Associated with Seimios and Leon 571₂
- Synnada
Cult: Zeus 152
- Syra, folk-tale from 243₁
- Syracuse
Cult: Triptolemos 212
 — coins of 260₃ 305₃ 306 f.
- Syrkastor See Souregethes, Surgasteus
- Syria
Cults: Adonis 651 Astarte 237₁ Azizos 706₂ Caelus 59 Hadran 232₁ Io 237₁ Iupiter 59 Zeus 191 ff. Zeus Καραβάρις 124
 — coins of 731 741₃
- Syria theos
Cults: Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff. 591₃ Peiraieus 442
- Syros 334 f.
Cult: Kabeiroi 715₂
- Syrtis, shores of Cult: Ammon 365
- Szalan-kemen See Acumincum
- Tabor, Mt
Etymology: 643
- Tadg 239
- Tainaron, sheep of Helios at 410
- Tainaros, s. of Zeus 156
- Taleton, Mt 155
Cults: Helios 180 730 Zeus superseded by St Elias 177 f. 181
Rite: sacrifice of horses to Helios 730
- Talos
Cult: Phaistos 297
Epithets: Circinus (?) 725 Κάλως (?) 725 f. Perdix 726 ff. Ταῦρος or ταῦρος 468 635 719₃ 722
Myths: Athens 342 ff. 724 ff. Crete 719 ff. Sardinia 721 ff.
Metamorphosed into hawk (?) 725₂ part-ridge 342 f. 726 ff.
Genealogy: s. of Daidalos' sister 342 f. 725 f. of Hephaistos 330₅ s. of Kres 330₅ s. of Oinopion 290₃
Functions: fertility 728 sun 297 342 f. 719 721 (?) 725 728
Etymology: 468 719
Attributes: compasses 724 f. potter's wheel 724 f. saw 725 728 snake 725
Types: bull-headed (?) 722 f. youthful winged figure hurling stones 720 f.
Identified with Kronos 722 Zeus 633₁₀ 728 ff.
Associated with earth-mother (?) 723 728₄
Compared with Daidalion 342 f. 725₂ Minotaur 720 ff.
In relation to Kronos 298
 — grave of 726 as dance-theme 481
- Tammuz
Associated with Ištar 645 646₀
Compared with Adonis and Zeus 645
- Tan (?) 655₂
- Tanit
Cults: Carthage 354 Mauretania Caesariensis 354 f.
Epithet: Panthea 354 f.
Function: mother-goddess 354
Attributes: horns of sheep 513₁ mural crown 354
Associated with Ba'al-hamman 354 Dis 355₁ Iupiter Hammon 355₁
- Tantalus 138
- Tantalos
Myths: Sipylos 138 720₄ Under-world 204 f.
Genealogy: near akin to Zeus 116 s. of Zeus by Plouto 720₄
- Taphos 344
- Taras 170
- Tarentum
Cults: Dioskouroi (?) 35₀ Herakles 36 Zeus 35 f. Zeus Καραβάρις 520₂ 521₁
- Tarkuattes (?) or Tarkyanas (?) 136
- Tarquinius Priscus 53
- Tarsos
Cults: Apollon 586₂ Auramazda 208₅ Herakles 535₀ 598 ff. Sandas 535₀ 595 ff. Zeus Τέρσιος 595 ff.
Festivals: burning of Herakles or Sandas (?) 600 ff. Ortygothera (?) 535₀ Pyra 600 f.
Etymology: 597₃
 — called Tersos 597₃ coins of 586₁ 595 ff. foundation of 236
- Tartara 412₂
- Tartaros
Genealogy: f. of Echidna by Ge 458
Associated with Ge 458
- Tarvos Trigaranus
Cult: Celts 482₀
Attribute: willow 482₀
- Tauroi
Cult: Artemis 417
- Tauros, Mt
 — rock-cut effigy of Sandas on 594 f. 603 rock-cut throne on 136
- Tauros, i.e. Talos 468 635 719₃ cp. 722
- Tauros, king of Crete 539
- Taurus 549 549₂ 579 736 f. 755₀
- Taygete
Associated with Zeus 155 755₁₀ 779
- Taygeton, Mt 155 730
Cults: St Elias 180 Winds 180₅
 — Promontory of 293
 See also Taleton, Mt
- Tefnnt
Genealogy: w. of Shu 387
Function: moisture of sky 387
Type: lion-headed 387
- Tegea
Cults: Athena 'Αλέα 112₁ Demeter 521₀ Poseidon 521₀ Zeus 521₀ Zeus

- Tegea (cont.)
 Πάσιος 520₂ Zeus Παρρῶος 520₂
 Zeus Στροπῆος 520₂
 See also Korytheis
- Teiresias 407₄
- Telephassa or Telephae See Telephassa
- Telephassa, m. of Europe
Function: lunar(?) 537
Etymology: 537
- Telephe See Telephassa
- Telete 535 ff.
Cult: Mt Helikon 536 f.
Genealogy: d. of Dionysos by Nikaia 536
Attributes: castanets 536₂ timbrel 536₂
Associated with Euthenia and Epiktetesis 535 ff. Orpheus 536 f.
- Tem
Cult: Heliopolis in Egypt 315
Function: sun 315
Identified with Râ 315
 — eye of 315
Identified with Bast 315₄
- Temenothyrai
Cult: Men 642₁
 — coins of 642₁
- Temesa 99₉
- Tenages 225₄
- Tenedos
Cults: Dionysos 'Ανθρωποπαλορης 469₄
 659 f. 711 Dionysos ('Ωμάδιος?) 656
 659₆ double axe 659 f. Palaimon 675
Rite: sacrifice of calf in buskins 659
 711
 — first inhabited by Asterioi 544₀
- Tenos
Cults: Dionysos (?) 373 f. Zeus 'Αμμων 371 f.
- Teodoro, S. 51
- Teos
Cult: Zeus 423₂ 733₂
Festival: Dia 423₂ 733₂
- Teredon 632₅
- Tereus
Type: bird 592₀
- Terina 305
- Terminus 53 f. See also Jupiter Terminus
- Terpon 696₇
- Terra Mater 60₄ 106
Attribute: cornu copiae 60₄
 See also Gaia, Ge, and in Index II
 Earth-mother
- Tersos See Tarsos
- Tešub (cont.)
Cult: Hittites 526₂ 604 f. 639 ff. 644 778
Rite: sacrifice of goat 641₀
Functions: lightning 639 641₀ (?) sky
 640 sun 639
Attributes: bow 641₀ bull 526₂ 605 f.
 631 634 f. 636 640 641 644 bundle of weapons 605₂ club 526₂ 644 crook 526₂ 644 goat(?) 605₁ high headdress 605 640₄ horned cap 605 mace 604₁₀ sword 605₀ trident-fork (?) 605₀ 641₀
- Tešub (cont.)
Types: holding bull by leash 605 f.
 holding bull on which stands Chipa 644 with bull at his side 604 f. 779 standing on back of bull 606 779 standing on two attendants 604₁₀ treading on mountains 526₂ 644
Associated with Chipa 644
Superseded by Zeus Δολιχαῖος or Iupiter Dolichenus 604
- Tethys
Epithet: Τηρηψ 675₂
Myth: Zeus warned not to marry her
 329₀
Genealogy: w. of Ogenos 675₂
- Teucrians 363
- Teukros 763
- Teukros, f. of Aias, high-priest of Zeus
 'Ολβιος 304₁
- Teurnia
Cult: Nemesis 276₄
- Teuthrania 118
- Teuthrone 369₂
- Thalamai
Cults: Aphrodite (?) 522₄ Helios 522
 Paphie (?) 522₄ Pasiphæe 521 f. 739
 Selene 522
- Thalassa
Attributes: head-dress of crab's-claws 753 prow 753 rudder 752 753 stern-ornament 752
- Thaleia 105 f.
Genealogy: m. of Korybantēs by Apollon 106 w. of Zeus 106₄
 See also Thalia
- Thales 28 165 186
- Thalia 730₈ See also Thaleia
- Thallo 730₈
- Thammuz See Tammuz
- Thanatos 252₃
Attributes: wings 99₉ wolf-skin or dog-skin cap 99₉
- Thargelia 339
- Thasos
Cult: Artemis Πωλώ 442
- Thaumasion, Mt
Cult: Zeus 154
Myth: stone swallowed by Kronos 154
- Theano 447
- Thebe, d. of Iupiter 365₅
- Thebe, town in Mysia 304
- Thebes in Boiotia
Cults: Ammon 362₄ Ares 540 Athena
 'Ογγα 540 Dionysos 457 Dionysos
 Περικλῆριος 671 671₀ Dioskouroi
 (Amphion and Zethos) 739 Hera (?)
 259₃ Kabeiros 112₀ 328₈ Zeus 154
 398₄ Zeus 'Αμμων 74 f. 352 Zeus
 'Ελεῖος 181₂
Rite: Thebans guard tomb of Zethos and Amphion against men of Tithorea 736
Myths: Europe 740 founded by Kadmos 469 539 f. founded by Zethos and Amphion 734 Kadmos and

- Thebes (cont.)
 Harmonia 415 Semelo 398₄ (Spartoi) 540
 — connected with Thebes in Egypt(?) 353 Kabeirion at 654 spring of Ares at 540
- Thebes in Egypt
Cults: Amen 315 347 350 360 Amen-Râ 358 387 Hera 370₃ Râ 346 Zeus 347 ff. 370₃ Zeus Θηβαίους 387
Rites: ιερός γάμος 348₁ sacrifice of goats but not sheep 347 temple-wheel 266 Myths: two priestesses found oracles of Zeus 363 f.
 — connected with Thebes in Boiotia (?) 353
- Theisoa 112₁
 Themis
Genealogy: m. of Dike by Zeus 755₁₀
Associated with Zeus 755₁₀
- Themisto 415 f.
 Themistokles, human sacrifice by 656 f.
 Theodoros 483₁₂
 Theodosios 167
 Theognia 686
 Theokles, f. of Krios 351₇
 Theokosmos 2₂
 Theophane
Metamorphosed into sheep 418₀
 Theou prosopon 236₁
 Thera
Cults: Apollon 142 f. Artemis 143 Athena 143 Biris 143 Charites 143 Cheiron 142 Erinyes 143 Ge 143 Hades (?) 142 Hermes 143 Kore 143 Koures 142 144 Lochaia Damia 142 Poseidon (?) 142 Thero (?) 143 Zeus 142 ff. Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 117₁ — rock-cut inscriptions in 117₁ 142 ff. 784 rock-cuttings in 144 784
- Theras (?) 142
 Therma (?) 296₇
 Thermos 292₁₀
 Thero
Cult: Thera (?) 143
- Theseus
Myths: Ariadne 480 481 finds shoes and sword of Aigeus 519₂ Labyrinth 481 Marathonian bull 467 rides dolphin 170 slays Minotaur 24₀ 492 ff. 496
Genealogy: s. of Aigeus 467
Function: embodiment of Athenian people 710 cp. 709₁
Attributes: club 710 crown 492 f.
Types: dragging Minotaur out of Labyrinth 474 ff. slaying Marathonian bull 499, slaying Minotaur 499 — crown of 492 cp. pl. xl, 4 flower of 492 rock of 519₂
- Thesmophoria 635₀
- Thespiai
Cults: Dionysos (?) 464 Tauros 463 f.
 Thespis 678 f.
- Thessalonike
Cults: Demeter 229₈ Kabeiros 108 ff. 513
- Thessaly
Cults: ants 533₀ Zeus 533₀ Zeus Λαφύστιος 428
Rite: ταυροκαθάψια 497 ff.
Myths: Kyklopes 309₅ 310 Zeus and Eurymedousa 533₀
 — carnival-plays in 694
- Thestios 279₄
- Thetis
Myth: boils her children 419₁₀
Genealogy: w. of Peleus 419₁₀
- Thoösa
Myth: Mt Athos (?) 321₁
Genealogy: d. of Phorkys 321₁ m. of Polyphemos 321₁
- Thor 185
 Thorikos 480
Cult: Zeus Ἀνατήρ 195
 Thornax See Kokkygion, Mt
- Thoth
Identified with Hermes 433
- Thourioi
Cult: Zeus Προμανθεύς 289 f. 329 f. Zeus Προμηθεύς (?) 330₁
- Thourion, Mt
Etymology: 541
- Thrace
Cults: Dionysos 400₂ Orphic Dionysos 654 ff. Sol Liber Sebadius 400
Rite: human omophagy 695
Myths: Dryas 225₄ Kyklopes 310 310₀ 321₁
 — carnival plays in 694 Orphic mystery in 695 spring custom in 216₃
- Thracians, dress of 655 mysteries on mountains of 672
- Thrace-Phrygians
Cults: Demeter 695 Dionysos 669 695 705 706 780 Kore 695 Sabos or Sabazios 399 f. Semele 669 781 Silenos (?) 697₄ Zeus 428 695 706 778 780 Zeus Σαβάζιος 428
Rite: boiling of milk (?) 676 f.
- Thrinakie 409
- Thronax See Kokkygion, Mt
- Thyestes
Myth: feast 405₅ golden lamb 409₄ 414
Genealogy: b. of Atreus 405 407 s. of Pelops 405 407
 — grave of 407
- Thyiai 667₄
 Thyone 670₂
- Tiamat
Myth: fight with Marduk 759
- Tibur
Cult: Albunea 407₄
- Timandros 525₅
 Timihû 387

- Finia 53
Myth.: birth of Dionysos 622 f.
Functions: fertility 623 storm 623 Attributes: eagle-sceptre 623 winged thunderbolt 623 wreath of lilies 623
- Fion See Fios
- Fios
Cult.: Zeus Συργαστης or Συργαστηϊος
 755₂ — coin of 753
- Firyus
Cult.: Hera (?) 446 454₀
Rites: bull-fights 497 human βόες(?)
 453₁ Myths: Kyklopes 303 309 321₁ Peiras or Peirasos 453, Proitides 451 ff.
- Fišub or Tišub or Tišup See Tešub
- Tisyroi 401₁ 534 f.
- Titakidai 655₂
- Titakos 655₂
- Titanes
Myths: attack Ammon 376₁ attack
 Dionysos 647 689 attack Zagreus
 398 647 attacked by Zeus 164₁
 (Euhemeristic) 661 f. fight with Zeus 731₁ Knossos 649₃ Prometh-heus 327
Functions: deities of a bygone age 317
 656 Thracian kings 655 f.
Etymology: 655 f. 655₂ 677
Types: attacking Zagreus 659 devouring Zagreus 654 ff.
 — as dance-theme 679₁
- Titanoi (?) 655₂
- Titans See Titanes
- Tithorea
Rite: attempt to steal earth from tomb of Zethos and Amphion for tomb of Antiope 736
- Titiopolis
Cults: Tyche 598₁ Zeus 598₁
- Titon 655₂
- Tittakides 655₂
- Tityos
Genealogy: s. of Zeus 156₂
Etymology: 534₁
- Tityroi
Myth.: danced round tree in which Zeus met Europe (?) 534 f.
Function: Dionysiac 667₁
Etymology: 401₁ 534₁
Types: ithyphallic goat-man with cornu copiae (?) 704₃ ram-headed dancers (?) 704₃
- Tityroi, festival at Gortyna (?) 534 f.
- Tityros, Mt
Cult.: Diktynaa 534₂ 541₅
- Tityros, town in Crete (?) 534
- Tmolos, t. of Pluto 156₁₂
- Tmolos, Mt, Zeus born on 151
- Totaplethos (?) 668
- Totte 408₁
- Trachonitis
Cult.: Zeus Ἀρίκηντος Ἰλιος Οεὸς Αἰμος
 193
- Tragliatella, Etruscan vase from 476
- Traizmauer See Trigisammum
- Trajan
Cult.: Pergamon 118
 — column of 60
- Tralleis
Cult.: Zeus 151₁
Festivals: Dios Gorai 535₀ Eious
 Gamoi 535₀
- Transfiguration, Mt of 181
- Trigaramus (?) 482₀ See Tarvos Tri- garanus
- Trigisammum
Cult.: Iupiter Dolichenus 617 ff.
- Trikke
Rite: ταυροκαθάψια (?) 497₁
 — coins of 497₁
- Trinaerus
Genealogy: s. of Neptunus 305₀
Attribute: triskelēs 305₀
- Trinity 171
- Triopas 320
- Triops 320
- Tripolis in Lydia
Cult.: Zeus Sarapis 188₄
 — coins of 188₄ 483
- Tripolis in Phoinike
Cult.: Zeus Ἄγριος 192 400₁
 — coins of 192
- Triptolemos 211 ff.
Cults: Byblos 227 Egypt 212 222 f.
 227 Eleusis 211 ff. Gordyene 212
 Kilikia 227 Lydia 227 Seythia 212
 Syracuse 212
Personated by Claudius 228 Germanicus
 228₄
Myths: in Apollodoros 211 in Hymn to Demeter 211 influences that of Medeia 245 variants 211 f. Antheias 74₀ first ploughs and sows 458, quest of Io 236 f.
Genealogy: s. of Dysaulos 212 earth-born 212 s. of Eleusinus by Cathonea 212 s. of Eleusinus by Cynantia 212 s. of Eleusis 211 s.
 of Eleusius by Hioma 212 h. of Eubouleus 212 f. of Gordys 237₃ s.
 of Iearus (!) 212 s. of Kleos 212
 218 226 s. of Metaneira 211 s. of Okeanos by Ge 212 s. of Rar 212
 s. of Raros 212 s. of Trochilos by an Eleusinian wife 212 225 f. 236
Functions: agricultural 224 f. lunar (?)
 227 solar (?) 225 f.
Etymology: 224 f.
Attributes: bag of seed 223 corn-ears
 213 ff. corn-ears in hair 222 plough
 223 ff. 782 sceptre 214 218
Identified with Adonis-Esmun (?) 783
 Ba'al-tarz 227 Men (?) 227 Osiris
 223 227 Tylos 227
Associated with Demeter 211 f. 217 f.
 220 ff. 228 Eumelos 227 Isis 222 f.
 Neilos 222 f. Persephone 218 220 f.
 224

- Triptolemos (cont.)
Compared with Dionysos 214 ff. 231
 Hephaistos (?) 216₂
Supersedes Demophon 211
 — chariot of 74₀ 211 ff. in a folk-tale 175₀ in a relief 227 in art 212₁₅ on a cameo 228 on coins 217₁ 229₆ on vases 213 ff.
Types: bearded 213 ff. beardless 217 ff. on single wheel 225 on chariot with wheels 213 ff. on chariot with winged wheels 213₂ 217 ff. 231 342 on chariot with snaky wheels 213₂ 217 ff. on chariot with winged and snaky wheels 126 ff. on chariot with winged snakes 217₁ 226₃ cp. 230
- Triton
Type: bovine horns (?) 374
- Tritopatreis
Cult: Athens 171
Superseded by the Trinity 171
- Trochilos
Etymology: 212 225 f. 236
- Troizen
Cults: Hippolytos 225₄ 593₀ Poseidon 74 Zeus Σθέβιος 519₂
Rite: hair cut for Hippolytos 593₀
- Trojanu 489₄
- Tronis
Cult: Archegetes 736₃
- Trophonios 450 f.
Cult: Lebadeia 524
Oracle: 524
Myths: Delphoi 450 563₃ euthanasia 450 f. nursed by Demeter 525
- Tros 468
- Troy
Cult: Zeus 'Ερκεϊος 40₀
Myths: Achilles' leap 483₀ Neoptolemos 39₂ — game of 476 482 ff. 483₀ 491
 Tuamu rabuti See Heavenly Twins
- Turduli 309
- Turnus 441
- Tyche
Cults: Aigeira 710 Anazarbos 598₀ Barata 136₀ Gaza 149₁ 236₃ Nem-round Dagh 744 745₃ Ptolemais 44₄ Titiopolis 598₁
Epithets: Βασιλέως 642 Νέα 744
Personated by Antiochos i of Kommagene 744 746₀
Function: Virgo 755₁₀
Attributes: bull 236₃ cornu copiae 598₁ 709 f. cp. 236 cow 236₃ cow's head 236₃ sceptre 709 f. cp. 236 kûlathos cp. 236 turreted crown 598₀
Types: in guise of Io 236₃ veiled and turreted head 598₀
Identified with Isis 271₅ Kommagene 745
Associated with Eros 710 Men Φαρράκωv 642 Nike 44₄
In relation to Nemesis 271₆
- Tyche (cont.)
Supersedes mountain-mother 136₀ 597₄ 710 745₃ cp. 750
- Tychon
Identified with Aphroditos 176₁ Hermes 176₁
- Tychon, St 175 176₁
- Tylos
Identified with Triptolemos 227
- Tyndareos
Genealogy: f. of Dioskouroi and Helene 279 f. f. of Klytaimestra and Dioskouroi 764
Function: thunder and lightning 770₃
Etymology: 770₃ 780₅
- Tyndaridai affiliated to Zeus 780 re-named Dioskouroi 780
- Typho
Myth: scares Venus and Cupido 584₀
 See also Typhoeus, Typhon
- Typhoeus
Epithet: centimanus 314₂
Myths: attacks the gods 370₁ 445 675 defeats Zeus 731₁
 See also Typho, Typhon
- Typhon
Myth: slays Osiris 435
Identified with Set 387
 See also Typho, Typhoeus
- Tyre
Cults: Astarte 356₂ (?) 782 Helios 197 Herakles 356 Melqart 356 moon 619₄ sun 619₄
Festivals: burning of Melqart (?) 601₃ Kake Opsine 539
 — Ambrosial Rocks at 530₂ coins of 530₂
- Tyrsenians 362
- Uatchit 206 386 f.
- Urania, the star of Helena 773
- Ursa Maior 112₃ 548 755₀ cp. 755
- Ursa Minor 112₃ 755₃ 755₁₀ cp. 757
- Urtestu 389
- Vacca
Cult: Ba'al-hammân 308
- Vaphio, capture of bulls on cups from 497 499
- Varuna 190₃ 741₄
- Vediovis
Cult: Rome 711
Rite: sacrifice of she-goat ritu humano 711 717₃
Function: youthful Iupiter 711
Etymology: 711₆
Attributes: bay-wreath 712 bundle of arrows (?) 711₇ 712 goat 711 thunderbolt 712
Type: archaistic 713
Identified with Apollo 711₇ 712
Compared with Dionysos 711 ff.
- Velia 306
- Vener, St 172

- Venti 517₀
Cult: Mt Taygeton 180₅
Rite: sacrifice of horse 180₅
- Venus
Cults: Athens 551₄ 554₁ Carnuntum 551₆ Heliopolis in Syria 554
Epithets: Felix 554₁ Genetrix 176₀ Heliopolitana 551₄ 554₁ Pelagia 176₀ Purpurissa 176₀ Victrix 551₄ 554₁
Myth: sends Psyche to find golden sheep 404 f.
Metamorphosed into fish 584₀
Type: masculine 176₀
Associated with Iupiter Heliopolitans 551₆ 554₁ and Mercurius 554₁ and Mercurius Augustus 554₁ and Mercurius Heliopolitans 551₄ 554₁
In relation to Iuno 617 f.
Superseded by St Venere 172
- Venus, the planet 577 580 741 755 f.
Function: heat 759₃
- Verethraghna See Artagnes
- Vesta
Associated with Iupiter 330
- Via Traiana personified 260₃
- Victoria
Attributes: palm-branch 616 617 (?)
 619 wreath 616 619
Type: standing on globe 617 (?)
- Vienna, town in Gaul 623₆
- Vira-vrata 329₄
- Virbius 225₄ 282₁ (?)
- Virgin, the
Epithet: Panagia Gorgoepekoos 175₁
Supersedes Artemis 172
- Virgo 755₁₀
- Volcae 243₃
- Volcanus
Cults: Celts 482₀ Rome 656₂
Attribute: tongs 482₀
- Volceii 244₀
- Volci 244₀
- Volsci 243 f.
- Weland 489
- Wind-gods See Venti
- Xanthios 689₅ See Xanthos
- Xanthos, Cretan king 547₂
- Xanthos, slain by Melanthos 689₅
- Xanthos, horse of Achilles 241₁₄
- Xanthus, horse of Helios 337₃
- Xenophanes 11 772
- Xerxes, supposed throne of 145 145₄
- Zagreus
Cults: Crete 442₀ (cp. 457) 644 ff. (cp. 661 ff.) 695
Epithets: δευτερος ἄλλος...νέτιος Ζεύς 398 f. 647₆ νυκτίπολος 648₁ (cp. 667₄) θεῶν πανυπέρτατε πάντων 647₅
Rites: Bakchoi 648 ff. Kouretes 648 ff. omophagy 648₁ 650 (cp. 661 ff.)
- Zagreus (cont.)
 thunder-making 648, 649 f. torches carried over mountain 648, 650
Priests: βουκόλοι 442₀ 457
Personated by human victim (?) 657
Myth: 398 f. (Euhemeristic) 661 f. slain in bovine form 398 647 650 slain by Titans 647 (cp. 661 f.)
Metamorphosed into bull 398 647 650 Zeus, Kronos, babe, youth, lion, horse, snake, tiger, bull 398 f. 647
Genealogy: s. of Persephone 402
Functions: chthonian 398 442₀ hunter 651 Zeus reborn (?) 647 cp. 398 f.
Etymology: 651
Attributes: mirror cp. 661 rattles cp. 661 ῥόμβος 650₁
Types: bull-headed child (?) 465₁ devaloured by Titans 654 ff. horned infant 398 slain by Titans 659
Associated with Ge 647₅ Persephone (?) 465₁
In relation to Kronos 398 Zeus 398 f. 644 ff.
 — mysteries of 402 442₀ 457 spread of the name of 651 thunders of 648, 649 f. toys of 650₁ (cp. 661)
- Zagron See Zagros, Mt
- Zagros, Mt 651
- Zakynthos, folk-tales from 324₅ 343
- Zamolxis 781
- Zan 303 646 See Zeus
- Zarathushtra 10₁ 741₄ 745₁. See also Zoroastres
- Zas 27 See Zeus
- Zen 28 f. See Zeus
- Zenon of Kition 29₂ 29₃ 29₄
- Zeno-Poseidon 603
- Zephyros
Myth: fertilises Lusitanian mares 759₆
- Zetes 721
- Zethos
Myth: Dirke 736 740
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Antiope 734 ff.
Function: evening-star (?) 739
 — tomb of 736
- Zeus
Cults: Achaeans 16 ff. 461 529₄ Aerita 193₁ Mt Agdos (?) 155 Agraina 193₁ Agrigentum 122 643 Aigion 17 529₄ Mt Ainos 165 Aitne 91 121 Akmonia 151 f. Alexandria 74₃ 188₄ 189₁ 361 cp. 753 Amaseia 91 602₂ Amastris 753 Ammonion (See Oasis of Siwah) Amorgos 194 f. 669₂ Anazarbos 597₄ Mt Anchesmos 121 Ankyra in Galatia 124 189₁ Apameia in Phrygia 151 f. Apameia in Syria 756₆ Aphytis 352 371 Aquileia in Venetia 730₃ Mt Arachnaion 117 178 Argos 117 122 f. 320 373 448 456 461 f. Arkadia 26 (?) 63 ff.

Zeus (cont.)

(cp. 27₃) 154 299 372 520 520₂, 545
 (See Kynaitha, Mt Lykaion, Megalopolis, Tegea, Mt Thaumasion)
 Arkadia in Crete 402₀ Arkesine in Amorgos 194 f. 669₂ Asbystai 363 Assyria 207 756₀ Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes 117 132 643 Mt Atabyrion in Sicily 643 Athens 74 f. 121 147 176₂ 359₁ 362 422 f. 428 737₁₀ Mt Athos 121 Auximum 190₀ Babylon 756₀ Baitokaikē 565₂ Barata 136₀ Bargylia 20₂ Berytos 74₂ Biannos 623₀ Bithynia 116₃ (?) 124 (?) 399₃ (See Nikaia, Prousa, Tios) Blaundos 400₂ Boiotia 123 132 (See Chaironeia, Mt Helikon, Mt Hypatos, Mt Kithairon, Mt Laphystion, Orchoomenos, Petrachos, Thebes) Chaironeia 121 154 Chalke 141 f. Chalkis sub Libano 521₀ (?) Chersonesos (?) in Crete 542 Chios 7₆ (?) 195 289 f. 290₂ 330 Crete 51 f. 58 149, 157 ff. 181₀ 401 ff. 547 558₃, 655₂, 663 ff. 665₀ 728 ff. (See Arkadia, Biannos, Chersonesos, Mt Dikte, Gortyna, Hierapytna, Mt Ide, Knossos, Malla, Oλους, Palaiakastro, Phaistos, Phalasarna, Polyrhonion, Praisos) Deir-el-Lében 193, 193₂ Delos 123 578₂ 669₂ 717₃ Mt Dikte 161 652 Dion in Dekapolis 572, 590 Dion in Makedonia 102, Djebel Bārīshā 519 f. Djebel-Dokhan 189₁ Djebel-Fateereh 189, Dodona 39, 85 f. 111 148₃ 363 ff. 370 f. 524 778 Doliche 606 Dreros 729 729₂ Mt Drios 154 (?) 163 ff. Egypt 123 (See Alexandria, Djebel-Dokhan, Djebel-Fateereh, Hermonthis, Thebes in Egypt) Eleutheropolis 572, 590, Epeiros (See Dodona, Stymphaioi) Ephesos 134 Erythrai 350₃ Euboia 117 123 (See Mt Kenaion, Mt Oche) Gabala 590 Galatia 124 155 (See Mt Agdos, Ankyra) Garamantes 366, Gaza 149, 233 (?) 478 478₁ Mt Gerizim 233 Gomphoi 124 Gortyna 112₃ 401- 545 ff. 740 Graeco-Libyans 428 778 Gythion 351 373 520₂ Halikarnassos 20 717₃ Halos 416 Mt Helikon 117 132 Heliopolis in Syria 550 ff. 578 584 586₃ 598₂ 635 778 f. Hermonthis 436 Hierapolis in Syria 532 f. 598₂ Hierapytna 149, Mt Hymettos 121 Mt Hypatos 123 Mt Ide in Crete 118 150 161 402 529 558₃ 645 648 ff. 652 654 664 729 f. Mt Ide in Troad 102 (?) 102₅ (?) 116 f. 126 338₁ 520₂ (?) Mt Ithome 121 f. 154 Jerusalem 233 Karia 18 ff. (See Bargylia, Halikarnassos, Panamara, Pedasa, Priene, Stratonikeia) Kasiope 123

Zeus (cont.)

Kaulonia 17 Mt Kenaion 117 123 178 Keos 740 Kephallenia 165 Kilikia 125 142₁₀ (See Anazarbos, Olba, Seleukeia, Tarsos, Titipolis) Mt Kithairon 117 f. 511₁ Knossos 402₀ 522 f. Mt Kokkygion 134 f. Mt Koresoss 134 Korkyra 123 164₃ 520₂ Koryphe near Aleppo 519 Kos 717₂ Kroton 17 Mt Kynados 178 Kynaitha 299₂ Mt Kynthos 123 Kypros 75 187 527₀ 654₁ 741 Kyrene 89 ff. 350 (?) 350₃ 350₀ 371 373 376 Kyrrhos 124 Lakonike (See Gythlion, Las, Sparta, Mt Taleton) Laodikeia in Phrygia 151 f. 706 Mt Laphystion 121 Larisa at Argos 320 Larisa on the Orontes 124 f. Larissa in Thessaly 498₁ Las (?) 351 Lebadeia 524 f. Lesbos 26 350₃ 371 (See Mytilene) Libye 74₃ Lokroi Epizephyrioi 598₁ Lutri 189, Lydia (See Blaundos, Magnesia, Maionia, Sardeis, Tralleis, Tripolis) Mt Lykaion 63 ff. 154 f. 178 654 Lykaonia (See Barata) Lykia (See Sidyma, Mt Solymos) Lyttos 150₀ 652 656 Magnesia ad Maeandrum 57 f. 153 (?) 717₂ Magnesia ad Sipylum 139 151₂ Maionia 152 193 642₁ 732 Makedonia 126 ff. (See Dion, Mt Olympos, Stymphaioi) Malla 298 Megalopolis 83 112₂ Megara 2₂ Merdocha 193, Meroe 350 376 376₃ 428 Messene 121 f. 154 Metapontum 372 376 Miletos 733₆ Mykenai 296₃ Mykonos 668 f. 717₃ Mysia (See Mt Olympos, Pergamon) Mytilene 189, 372 Naxos 154 163 f. 420₁ Neapolis in Samaria 572, 590, Nemea 448 558₃ Nemroud Dagh 741 ff. Nikaia in Bithynia 37, 752 Nikopolis in Iudaea 572, 590, Nikopolis in Moesia 400 428 Nuceria Alfaterna 372 Oasis of Siwah 350 361 ff. Mt Oche 178 Olba 125 304₁ Oλους 729 Olympia 2 2₂ 37, 85 f. 131 292 370 407 622 751 781 Mt Olympos in Makedonia 101 ff. 116 126 ff. 178 520₂ Mt Olympos in Mysia 116 Omarion 17₃ Orchoomenos in Boiotia 121 416 Ostia 189, Palaiakastro 15 Palmyra 756₀ Pamphyliā 289 f. Panamara 18 ff. (Panchaia) 662 Panormos (?) 91 Paphlagonia (See Amastris, Sinope) Mt Parnes 121 165 Paros 669₂ (See Mt Kynados) Pedasa 717₃ Mt Pelinnaion 290₂ Mt Pelion 164 f. 420 ff. 428 Pergamon 110 118 ff. 135 154 Perinthos 752 f. Persepolis 208 Persia 10 338₂ 781 783 f. Petrachos 121 154 Phaistos 660 f. Phalasarna (?) 147 f. Philippopolis (See Gomphoi) Philistines 238₀, Phoinike 191 734 (See Berytos, Tripolis) Phrygia 4 113 390 ff. 399 f. 399₃ 598₃ 741₄ (See Akmoneia, Apameia, Laodikeia, Synnada) Mt Pindos 123 f. Pisa 116 407 ff. Pisidia 123 Polyrhenion 149₁ Pontos (See Amaseia) Praeneste 189₁ Praios 660 660₃ 785 Priene 26 f. Prousa ad Olympum 117₀ 124(?) Rhodes 123 132 (See Mt Atabyrion) Rhosos 590 Rome 189₁ 597₄ Sardeis 151₃ 753 Seleukeia on the Kalykadnos 152 f. Seleukeia Pieria 521₀ Selinous (?) 403 Sicily 88₅ (See also Agrigentum, Aitne, Mt Atabyrion, Panormos, Selinous) Sidyma 189, Sikyon 143₁₆ 520 520₂ Sinope (?) 188₁ Sinopion 188₁ Mt Solymos 123 Sparta 8 92 ff. 352 373₁ 504₂ 730 Stratonikeia 18 ff. 189₂ Stymphaioi 681₄ 779₀ Sybaris 17 Synnada 152 Syria 124 191 ff. (See Apameia, Baitokaike, Chalkis, Djebel Barīshā, Doliche, Gabala, Heliopolis, Hierapolis, Koryphe, Kyrrhos, Larissa, Palmyra, Rhosos, Seleukeia) Mt Taleton 178 181 Tarentum 35 ff. 520 520₂ 521₁ Tarsos 595 ff. Tegea 520₂ 521₀ Tenos 371 f. 376 Teos 423₂ 733₂ Mt Thaumasion 154 Thebes in Boiotia 74 f. 154 181₂ 352 398₄ Thebes in Egypt 347 ff. 370₃ 387 Thera 117, 142 ff. Thessaly 428 533₀ (See Gomphoi, Halos, Omarion, Mt Pelion, Philippopolis, Mt Pindos, Stymphaioi) Thorikos 195 Thourioi 289 f. 329 f. 330, Thrace (See Perinthos, Thraco-Phrygians) Thraco-Phrygians (?) 4 428 695 706 778 780 Tios 753₂ Titiopolis 598₁ Trachonitis 193 (See Aerita, Agraina, Deir-el-Lében, Merdocha) Tralleis 151₄ Tripolis in Lydia 188₄ Tripolis in Phoinike 192 400₆ Troas (See Mt Ide, Troy) Troizen 519₂ Troy 40₀

Zeus (cont.)

Epithets: 'Αγῆτωρ 373₁ 'Αγιος 192 400₆ 565₂ 'Αγοραῖος 729₂ 'Αγχεσμιος 121 'Αδαδος 194₁ 549 ff. cp. 590 f. 634 778 ἀθανατος 197₃ 'Αθῶος 121 αἰγολοχος 14₁ Αἰγολόφος 717₃ Αἰγύπτιος 197₄ 299 Αἰθέρσιος 26 cp. 102 776 αἰετοκράτωρ 26₁₀ Αἰθῆρ (?) 31 cp. 196 Αἰθίοψ 195 289 f. 330 Αἰθριος 26 ff. 33 776 Αἰτναῖος 91 121 'Ακραῖος 123 124 421 f. 428 'Ακραῖος 164 f. 420 ff. 428 'Αλεξίκακος 422₇ 'Αμάριος 14 ff. 64₃ 776 'Αμάρσιος (?) = 'Ομάρσιος 16₄ 'Αμμων 57 74 f. 194₁ 338₃ 346 ff. 401 428 521₀ 778 'Αμούν 348 376₃ ἀναξ 758₁ ἀνεφέλιος 197₄ 'Ανθαλεῖς 75 'Ανθας (?) 74 f. 'Ανίκητος 193 'Απήμιος 121 'Απόμμιος 533₀ ἀργῆς

Zeus (cont.)

31 f. 317 f. 462 ἀργικέρανος 31₄ 'Αργύρου 25₃ 625₂ 'Αρισταῖος 372 'Αρότριος 238₀ 'Ασβύσσης 363₃ 'Ασεῖς 196 'Ασκραῖος 194 717₃ 'Ασσύριος 707₄ 207 299 cp. 756₆ 'Αστέριος 545 ff. 665₀ 731₁ 733 f. 740 ἀστέροπος or ἀστεροπός 65 751 ἀστεροκόπος 758₂ ἀστρολόγος 758₁ 'Αταβύριος 117 123 132 643 'Αναντήρ 195 'Αφέσιος 117 ἀφθιτα ἡδεα εἰδύς 14₁ Βαγαῖος 400₁ 401 Βαιτοκαϊκεῖος or Βαιτοκαϊκης 565₂ Βασιλεῖς 10₁ 524 f. 758₁ Βῆλος 756₆ Βιδάτας 150₂ Βιέννιος 623₆ βιοδῶτωρ 196₀ Βορραῖος (?) 142 Βόρειος 142₁₀ Βουλεῖς 668 f. 717₃ Βροντῶν 317 f. 399₃ Βωβυῖος 519 f. 'Γεωργός 176 782 great 664₀ Γυράσιος 289 f. 330 *Δείθυρος (See *Deithyros) Δειπάτυρος (See Deipatyros) δέυτερος 398 f. 647₆ Δημαροῦς 237₁ Δίκαιος (See Antiochos i of Kommagene) Δικταῖος 15 150₃ 660 660₃ διόπτηρ 461₆ Δίος 4 776 Δίσκος 299 Δολιχαῖος 194₁ 604 ff. 779 Δολοχρῆνος 604 Δρύμιος 289 f. Δωδωναῖος 369₉ εἰλατινασῆς (?) 647₃ 654₁ Εἰλήτι 527₀ Εἰλήτιος 527₀ 'Εκατόμβαιος 545 717₂ 'Ελευθέριος 498₁ Eleus 751₇ 'Ελιεύς 181₂ 'Ελικώνιος 117 132 'Ελάνιμιος 92 350₈ 'Ελλάγιος 233 234₁ 'Εναινός (?) 16₃ 'Επῆκοσος 737₃ 'Επικάρπιος 236₁₀ 'Επιφανῆς (See Antiochos i of Kommagene) 'Επόπτης 737₈ 'Επόπιος 731₁ 737₀ 'Επωπετής 737₁₀ 'Ερκαῖος 40₀ 'Εσπέριος 363₄ Εὐβουλεῖς 669 717₃ εὐρίστα (See Euryopa (?)) 537₈ Εὐφάμιος 350₃ Εὐφῆμιος 350₃ 'Εφῆμιος 290₂ 'Εφορος 737₈ ἥριος 26₁₀ 751₆ 'Ηλιοπολίτης 570₄ 'Ηλιος (See Identifications) 'Ηλιουπολίτης 552 635 ἡλιωπός 196₄ ζωοδότης 197₁ Θαλῆς 730₈ Θεσπρωτός 148₃ Θηβαῖος 347 f. 350 363 387 Θηβαῖος 347₇ 'Ίάω 233₇ 'Ίδαος in Crete 118 402 558₅ 648 650₀ 654 664 'Ίδαῖος in Troad 117 126 'Ίσωμάτας 121 'Ίκέσιος 143 'Ίκαῖος 740 Καλλιτικός (?) 37₁ Καππώτας 520₂ Καραῖος (?) 280₄ καραῖος (?) 280₄ Κάσιος 123 133 f. 521₀ Καταιβάτης 124 520₂ 521₁ κατόπτης 461₆ Κεραῖος 74 f. Κηραῖος 123 Κλάδεος (?) 37₁ Κλάρσιος (?) 37₁ κεραυνός 28 Κοῖριος (See Κύριος) Κουρής (?) 144 κουρήτων 647₈ Κρηταγενῆς 149 478 547 cp. 51 f. Κρηταῖος 149₁ Κρητογενῆς 149 Κρονίδης 148₃ 732 Κρονίων 545₁ Κρόνου πάις ἀγκυλομήτωρ 14₁ 760 Κρήσιος 422 f. 428 Κύκλωψ (?) 320 Κυμῶριος 20₂ Κυναιθέος 299 Κύνθσιος 123 Κύριος 400₈ 642₄ Κῶμυρος 20 Λακεδαιμων 8 Λαρισταῖος 122 f. Λαφῶστιος 121 417 428 Λιβυκός 362₁ Λίβυς 362₁ 756₆ Λύκαος 63 ff. 350₈ 521₂ 731 776 Λυκῶριος 63₀ μάγος 758₁ Μάδβαχος

Zeus (cont.)

519 Μαζεύς 741₁ μακάριος (?) 280₁
 μάντις 758₁ Μασφαλατνός 193 642₁
 Μαχραεύς 717₂ μέγας 233₇ 400₆ 504₂
 648₁ 758₁ 763 μέγιστε κούρε...Κρόνιε
 15 645 Μέγιστος 10₁ Μειλιχίος 290₂
 422 f. 428 520₂ (See also Μηλιχίος) Μεμφίτης 188₁ Μηλιχίος 144 (See also Μειλιχίος) Μηλώσιος 164 164₅ 520₂ μητέρα 14₁ μητίβιος 14₁ Μοννί-τιος 298 Μόριος 196₉ Νάιος 363 369
 369₁ 370 524 778 Νέμειος 236₁₀ 280₂
 448 456 558₅ νεφεληγερέτα 14₁
 Νόσιος=Νότιος 733₃ Ξένιος 75 (?)
 233 234₄ 280₄ 'Ολύβιος 75 125 304₁
 'Ολύβριος or 'Ολύβρις 597₁ 'Ολύμπιος 37₁ 102₄ 116 f. 117₁ 121 233
 234₄ 758₂ 'Ομαγύριος 17 'Ομάριος (?) 16₁ 16₅ 16₁₀ 17 'Ομβριος 121 ó πάντων κρατῶν 550₁ our Father
 664₀ Ουράνιος 8 565₂ 647₇ ούρανός
 8 παγκρατὲς γάνος 15 Πανάμαρος,
 Πανήμερος, Πανήμερος 18 ff. 581
 Πανόπτης 459 461 f. 731 παντεπότης 461₀ παντόπτας 459; Πάπας
 399₃ Παπίας 399₃ Παρνήθιος 121
 Πάσιος 520₂ Πατήρ 399₃ Πατρώος
 116 f. 123 143 (?) 290₂ 519₅ 520₂
 Πελασγικός 545₁ Πελινναίος 290₂
 Πελώριος (?) 142 Πίκος 158₂ 237₁
 Πιλούσιος 504₂ Πιλουόδότης 503 f.
 504₂ Πολιεύς 122 142 143 (?) 147
 498₁ 717₂ Πολιούχος 597₄ Προμανθεύς
 289 f. 329 f. Προμηθεύς (?) 330₁
 Σαάξιος 400₂ Σαβάξιος 113 293₃
 390 ff. 399 399₃ 428 650₇ 778 Σαβός
 395 Σεβάξιος 400₆ Σειρήν 740 Σείριος
 740₁₁ Σημαλέος 121 Σθένιος 519₂
 Σιωπιτής 188₁ Σολυμεύς 123 σοφός
 758₂ σοφός τοῖς πᾶσι 758₁ Σπλαγχο-τώμος 654₄ στεροπηγερέτα 317 f. στε-φηφόρος 758₁ Στοιχαδεύς 143₁₅ Στοιχαῖος 143 Στοιχείος 143₁₅ Στοιχεύς
 143₁₅ Στορπάος 520₂ Στράτιος 91 602₂
 641 Σωσίπολις 57 f. 717₂ Σωτήρ 350₅
 361₀ 399₃ 459₂ Ταλαῖος 181₀ 194₁
 633₁₀ 723 f. Ταλετίτας 181₀ 194₁ 730
 730₈ Ταλλαῖος 181₀ 194₁ 633₁₀ 729
 730₈ Τέλειος 25₁ Τεμίλιος 623₃ Τέρμων
 520₂ Τέρσιος 597 τραγωδός 702₁ Τριφόλιος 662 Τύραννος 642₄ δέτιος 398 f.
 647₀ Τμητίιος 121 Τπατος 123
 Τψιστος 147 646₁ wonderful 664₀
 Φαναῖος 7₀ Φήμιος 350₈ Φιλέλλην (See Antiochos i of Kommagene) Φίλιος 112₂ Φιλορωμαῖος (See Antiochos i of Kommagene) Φρύγιος 398 Φύξιος 416
 417 Χθόνιος 668 f. Χρυσάωρ (?) 731₁
 'Ορομάσδης 10₁ 208 741 ff.

Festivals: Ammonia (?) 359₁ ἡ ἀνά-βασις τοῦ θεοῦ 21 ἡ ἀνοδος τοῦ θεοῦ
 21 Bouphonia (See Rites) Dia 423₂
 733₂ Diasia 423₂ 733₃ Diipolieia
 681₄ Diisoteria 681₄ ἡ ἐπίδημα τοῦ θεοῦ 20 ἡ τοῦ ἵππου εἰσοδος 20

Zeus (cont.)

Komyria 20 ff. Lykaia 63₆ 68 70
 76 f. 76₂ 76₃ Maimakterion 20th
 176₂ Panamareia 20 Pandia 423₂
 682₁ (?) 732 f.
Oracles: Aphytis 352 Dodona 39₁
 363 ff. 367 368₄ 369 Heliopolis in Syria 357 552 f. Hierapolis in Syria (?) 357 584 ff. Oasis of Siwah
 352 f. 355 357 363 ff. 376
Rites: Bakchoi 648 ff. βοῦφόνια 469₄
 717₂ bovine omophagy 659 ff. bull carried 503 f. dedication of hair 23 f. 25₁ of horse 21 Dictaeen hymn 15 681₄ Διὸς βοῦς 717₂ Διὸς κώδιον 422 ff. 689; distribution of meat 21 of money 21 of wine 21 funeral sacrifice 646 human consort
 348₁ 396 human sacrifice 70 ff. 75
 415 ff. 417 652 ff. 654 656 ἱερὸς γάμος 21₅ f. 22₄ 57 348₃ 396 522 f.
 526 ff. 534 f. (?) 543 708₃ initiates of Zeus Σαβάξιος pass a golden adder through their bosoms 394 Kouretes 648 ff. marriage (See ἱερὸς γάμος) mysteries 21 113 390 ff. 402 648 ff. 650₀ 663 ff. (See also Index II s.v. Mysteries) ναστὸς ἐπιπεπλα-μένος 176₂ omophagy 648₁ 650
 651 ff. 659 ff. πανκαρπια νηφάλιος
 176₂ πῶπανον ὀρθνῶφανον δωδεκῶφαλον 176₂ procession bearing Διὸς κώδιον (?) 422 procession up Mt
 Olympus 289 103 113 procession up Mt Pelion 420 422 sacrifice of black yearling 668 f. of bulls 467 511₁ 717₂ 779 (See also oxen) of goats 347 717₃ of horses 180₅ 717₃ of oxen 82 338₂ 545₂ 717₂ cp. 467 511₁ 717₃ of pigs 82 668 669₂ 717₃ of rams 39 348 407 ff. 416 f. 420 ff.
 422 ff. 717₁ 717₂ 779 cp. 75₂ of sheep 75₂ (See also rams) of young pig 668 669₂ silence observed during sacrifice 592₀ ταυροκαθάρια (?) 498₁ throne annually strown 646 thunder-making 648₁ 649 f. torques carried over mountain 648₁ 650 votive limbs dedicated in the Idaean Cave 645 f.
Priests: ἡ ἀπόθεσις τῶν στεφάνων 22
 μυσταγωγός 21₂ ἡ παράληψις τοῦ θεοῦ 22 ἡ παράληψις τοῦ στεφάνου 22
 ὑποφῆται 530₀ of Zeus Αἰθέριος 26
 Zeus Ἀκραῖος 421 Zeus Ἀκταῖος 420
 Zeus Ἄμμων 355 389 Zeus Θηβαῖος
 363 Zeus 'Ολύβιος 304₁ Zeus Σαβάξιος
 391 Zeus Σωσίπολις 57
Priestesses: at Dodona 111₀ 364 in the Oasis of Siwah 364 at Skoutosia
 111₀ at Thebes in Egypt 363 f.
Personated by Alexander the Great
 57 279 Antiochos i of Kommagene
 742₅ 748 ff. Augustus 547 f. cp.
 43₃ 59 Demetrios Poliorketes 58

Zeus (cont.)

Epopheus (?) 247 737 Homer (?) 131
131₂ Iason (?) 248 Iulius Caesar (?)
781 kings of Corinth (?) 247 f.
737 kings of Crete 545₅ 547 662
Marathon (?) 247 Minos (?) 527₁
cp. 545₅ Pelops (?) 139 Perikles
280 priest 22 Septimius Severus
278 son of Domitia Longina 51
547 Tyndareos (?) 279 f. cp. 770₃
780

Myths: Agdistis 155 Aithiopes 186
187₃ 348₁ Amaltheia and her cornu copiae 501 f. 717₃ Amaltheia hangs cradle on a tree in Crete 530₀ cp.
534 Aquarius 755 Aquila 755 Ara
755 Arcophylax 755 Asterion or Asterios or Asteros 546 f. attacked by wheel-shaped beings 310 f. 317
Auriga 755 begets bull 394 birth of Athena 585 birth of Dionysos 622 f.
693 Bootes 755 born in Crete 650₂ 665 665₀ (See also Epithets Κρητα-γενής, Κρηταίος, Κρητογενής) born in a cave of Mt Dikte 149 151 653 born on Mt Drios (?) 154 born in a cave of Mt Ide in Crete 150 f.
born on Mt Ide in the Troad (?)
154 born in Katakekaumene 152 born on Mt Korykos 152 f. born in Lydia 150 f. born and reared on Mt Lykaion 154 born on Mt Messogis 151 born in Naxos 154 born at Pergamon 120 154 born in Phrygia 151 f. born on Mt Sipylos
151 born at Thebes in Boiotia 154 born on Mt Tomelos 151 buried in Crete 157 ff. 645 f. 646₀ 663 burns his hand 702₁ Canis 755 Capra 755 Capricornus 755 causes Hera to suckle Herakles 624 Centaurus
755 chains Prometheus to Mt
Kaukasos 329₀

consorts with Mt Agdos 155 with Aitne 106₃ 106₃ 106₃ 156 779 with Alkmene 624 with Amara (?) 581 f.
with Antiope 535₁ 734 ff. 739 777 with Astarte (?) 546₁ with Asteria or Asterie 544₀ with Danae 414 with Demeter 393 396 398 401 668 f. 695
779 with Dione 370 with Elare (?) 156₂ with Elektra 755₁₀ with Europe 155 351₇ 401₇ 464 467 472
524 ff. 538 f. 544 546 f. 644 648
660 f. 733 f. 739 f. 777 780 with Eurymedousa 533₀ with Eurynome 155 with Ge 26 with Ge Xθονία 668 f. with Hekate (?) 141 f.
543₁ with Hera 134 f. 154 f. 348₁
370 370₃ 522 f. cp. 20 ff. 22₄ 117
133₁ 345₄ 456₄ 459₅ 501₆ 591 597₄
708₃ 753 with Idaia 544₂ with Io
237₁ 257 438 ff. 457 ff. 462 f. 532₁₀
681₄ 733 f. 739 777 with Isis 346₅
454 457₆ with Kalliope 105 f. with

Zeus (cont.)

Kallisto 155 with Kore 394 398 f.
401 695 with Koryphe 155 779 with Larissa 156 with Larisse (?) 156₂ with Leda 279₄ 760₃ 763₄ 770 774 with Leto 155 544₀ 727₆ 728 with Maia 755₁₀ with Mnemosyne 104 f.
with Mousa 104 779 with Nemea (?) 280₂ 456₅ with Nemesis 270₅ 278 ff.
760₂ 780 with Pasiphae 522 733 f.
777 with Persephone 394 398 399₂
780 with Phoinike 755₁₀ with Plouto 156 720₄ with Rhea 398 645 with Selene 456 457₅ (?) 732 f. 739
777 with Semele 155 398₄ 457₆
681 f. 693 (?) 733 736₀ 751 780 with Taygete 155 755₁₀ 779 with Thaleia
105 f. 106₃ with Themis 755₁₀ cradle hung on tree round which Kouretes clash weapons 534 Cyg-nus 755 Danaos 371₁ defeated by Typhoeus 731₁ Deltoton 755 destined to be dethroned by s. of Hekate 543; dethrones Kronos 329₀

Dionysos founds temple of Zeus
Ἄμμων 369 f. 373 Dionysos sewn up in thigh of Zeus 674₂ Elektra
755₁₀ Engonasin 755 Epaphos
438 ff. Equos 755₃ Ganymedes 408
527₁ gelds ram 394 Gemini 755
Gigantes 119 gives ring to Prometheus 329₀ goes up into mountain with golden calf and silver knife 581 golden hound 720₄ golden or purple lamb of Atreus 405 ff. golden ram 121 Hammon brings sheep to Dionysos 368 373 He-niochus 755 Hera 25 f. 106₄ 156 198
248 257 398 438 ff. 440₇ 467 624
658₃ λεπὸς γάμος (See Rites) Indians
318 Ixion 198 Iynx 257 440; judgment of Paris 125 f. king of Egypt
376₁ Kronos 154 f. 299 329₀ 520₂
755₁₀ Leo 755 Leucadian rock 345₄
Lyra 755 married on mountain tops 154 ff.

nursed by Adrasteia 112₃ 112₄ by Aiga 529₄ by Alkinoo 112₁ by Amaltheia 112₃ 501 f. 717₃ by Ambrosie
111₆ by Anchiroe 112₂ by Anthrakia
112₁ 112₂ by Arsinoe 111₆ by Bromie 111₆ by Erato 111₆ by Eriphia 111₆ by Geraistiades 112₃ by Glauke 112₁ by Hagno 112₁ 112₂ by Helike 112₃ 529 f. 548 755₁₀ by Hyades 111₆ by Ide 112₁ 112₃ 112₄ by Idothea 112₃ by Kisseis 111₆ by Koronis 111₆ by Kynosoura 112₃
755₁₀ by Melissa 112₃ by Myrtoessa
112₂ by Neda 112₁ 112₂ by Nymphs on Mt Arkton 112 by Nymphs in Crete 112₃ 755₁₀ by Nymphs of Do-dona 111 by Nymphs on Mt Ide in Crete 112 by Nymphs on Mt Ide in Phrygia 112 by Nymphs on Mt

Zeus (cont.)

Ithome 154 by Nymphs at Megalopolis 112 by Nymphs at Tegea 112 by Nysa 111₀ by Oinoe 112₁ by Phrixa 112₁ by Polyhymno 111₀ by Theisoa 112, nurtured by bees 150 by cow (?) 660 665 785 by doves 150 182 by goat 112₂ 112₃ 150 529₄ 653₃ 665 720₄ by sheep (?) 401 by sow 150 653 785

Olor 755 Ophiuchus 755 Orion 755 Persephone 126 ff. Phaethon (?) 337 Pliades 755 pretends castration 394 prevents Ares from slaying Kadmos 540 prince slain by wild boar and buried in Crete 157 645 652 663₂ Prometheus' theft of fire 323 ff. reared in Naxos 164₄ receives omen from eagle 164₄ Sagittarius 755 sceptre made by Hephaistos 406 Scorpius 755 Semele 155 398₄ (See also Semele) Semiramis 367 shows himself in ram-skin to Herakles 347 f. spares Nyktimos in answer to supplication of Ge 79₁₀ cp. 79₁₂ stone swallowed by Kronos 154 299 520₂ strife of Athena and Poseidon 147 succeeds Kronos and Rhea 155 329₀ swaddled at Geraiston 154₁₁ Talos 719 Tantalos 116 720₄ Taurus 755 thunderbolt made by Encheirogastores 317 thunderbolt made by Kyklopes 310₃ 314 317 f. Titanes 164₄ 661 f. 731₁ transforms Anthos into bird 73₄ Dionysos into kid 674 f. Helike and Kynosoura into bears 112₃ Leto into quail 544₀ Palikos into eagle 106₄ tug-of-war 113₈ Typhoeus 370₁ 731₁ Ursa Maior 755 Ursa Minor 755 Virgo 755 warned not to marry Tethys 329₀ washed in the Lousios 154₁₁

Metamorphosed into ant 533₀ bull 393 399 438 f. 458 f. 464 468 (?) 472 499 527₀ 535₁ 537₁₁ 544 660 f. 681₄ 736 739 f. eagle 164₄ 532 544₀ fly (?) 532 533₀ gad-fly (?) 532₁₀ golden lamb (?) 412 414 golden rain 414 golden ram 419 golden or purple or white ram (?) 467 goose 279₄ 760₂ man with bull's horns, lion, leopard, puff-adder 392 396 quail 544₀ ram 370₁ 419 422 423 428 430 675₃ Satyr 734 ff. serpent 112₃ 270₆ 279₄ 358 f. 392 394 396 398 398₄ 401 402 (?) 403 428 shepherd 104 star 760 778 stranger 79₀ swan 279₄ 760₆ 763₄ 770 vulture 106 white bull (?) 468 working-man 79₀

Genealogy : f. of Agdistis by Mt Agdos 155 s. of Aither 27₃ 65 h. of Aitne 106₂ 106₃ 106₄ f. of Ammon by Pasiphae 522 544₂ f. of Arkas (?) 702₀ f. of Artemis by Leto 727₀

Zeus (cont.)

f. of Asopos by Eurynome 155 f. of Asterion by Idaia 544₂ f. of Athena by Koryphe 155 f. of Atlas 156 f. of Belos, if not Belos himself 756₀ f. of Britomartis by Hekate (?) 543₁ f. of Charites by Eurynome 155 h. of Demeter 393 f. h. of Deo 393 f. f. of Dike by Themis 755₁₀ f. of Dionysos 166 346₅ 429 687 f. of Dionysos by Io 457 by Isis 457₅ by Kore 695 by Phersephone 398 399₂ by Selene (?) 457₅ 732 by Semele 457₅ 681 f. f. of Dioskouroi and Helene by Nemesis 279 f. of Dioskouroi by Leda 763₄ f. of Dodon or Dodonos by Europe 524 f. of Epaphos by Io 438 ff. 633 f. of Gargaros 156 f. of Geraistos 156 319 f. f. of Hekate by Asteria or Asterie 544₀ f. of Helene by Nemesis 279 760₂ f. of Helios 27₃ f. of Herakles by Alkmene' 624 f. of Hermes 237₁ f. of Herse (Ἑρσα) by Selene 732₅ f. of Iakchos by Semele 693 f. of Karnos by Europe 351₇ f. of Kastor and Polydeukes by Leda 760₃ f. of Kore or Pherephatta 394 f. of Korinthos 247 f. of the Korybantes by Kalliope 105 f. s. of Kronos 14₁ 732 f. of Lakedaimon by Taygete 155 f. of Libye by Io 237₁ f. of Minos 158₂ f. of Minos by Europe 467 545₅ 547 648 f. of Minos, Sarpedon, Rhadamanthys, by Europe 464 h. of Mnemosyne 104 h. of the Muse 104 f. of Muses by Mnemosyne 104 f. f. of Myrmaidon by Eurymedousa 533₀ f. of Nemea by Selene 456 732 f. of Olympos (?) 156 gr.-s. of Ouranos 8 f. of Palikoi by Aitne 156 f. of Palikoi by Thaleia 106 f. of Pan 702₀ f. of Pandie (Pandia) by Selene 732 f. of Pelasgos by Larissa 156 forefather of Pelopidai 407 f. of Persens by Danaë 414 f. of Phersephone by Rhea 398 f. of the Phoenician Herakles by Asteria or Asterie 544₀ forefather of Pterelaos 328₃ f. of Rhadamanthys 545₅ 547 f. of Sarpedon 545₅ 547 f. of Selene by Leto 727₀ f. of Solymos 156 f. of Tainaros 156 f. of Tantalos 156 f. f. of Tantalos by Plouto 720₄ f. of Tityos by Elare (?) or Larisse (?) 156₂ h. of Thaleia 105 f. 106₄ f. of Zethos and Amphion by Antiope 734 ff. three Zeuses 27₃ Functions : aër 30 31₀ agriculture 176₂ aithër 25 ff. 65 195 585 776 animal and vegetable fertility 75 apotropaic 422, astronomy and astrology 751 754 ff. begetter 681₄ 733 779 f. brilliance 15 celestial lights 733 f.

Zeus (cont.)

740 (chthonian?) 63₀ 188 668 f. clouds 318 day-light 15 ff. 65 776 days 16 Dionysiac 399 f. dog-days (?) 299₂ drawing lots 57 earth 33 187₁₀ earthquake 2 f. 14₁ exiles (?) 63₆ father 39₃ 681₁ 733 779 f. fertility 75 429₄ 545 (?) 591 598 623 730-779 fills markets, seas, and havens with his name 664₀ fire 27 28 f. 31 31₃ 323 fire-drill 329 f. gives good signs to men 664₀ giver of wealth 504₂ healer 645 f. (?) 646₁ heat 31₃ heaven 8 565₂ 647₁ 664₀ hunter 651 652 Jupiter the planet 750 756 king 58 758 king of Crete 545₃ king of the gods 233 279 (See also Epithets: ἀναξ, Βασιλεύς, Τόρανος) life 11₅ 28₃ 29₄ 31₃ 196 f. light 7 29 63 ff. 66₁ 68 472 lightning 1₃ lunar 208₂ 730 f. magician 14₁ 758 meteorites 760 mountain 102₅ 290₂ 348₁ 399₃ 520₂ 551 777 moves men to work 664₀ oak 1₃ 289 f. ordains all that is visible and invisible 664₀ orders the constellations 754 ff. ovens 290₂ pantheistic 33 planet Jupiter 750 756 procreative 681₁ 733 779 f. rain 121 134 398 f. 545₃ 647₀ rain-maker 14₁ sea 187₁₀ setting sun 358 sky 1 f. 29 f. 33 65 80 182 338₂ 348₁ 758 776 (blue sky 33 ff. bright sky 730 775 f. burning sky 25 ff. 195 585 776 starry sky 751 ff.) solar 7₂ 19 (?) 66₁ 166 181₀ 186 ff. 298 f. 338 358 400 401 428 ff. 454 461 f. (?) 522 f. 545 ff. (?) 549 ff. 578 633 635 642 732 ff. 751₂ 758₁ 777 spring 234 stellar 547 ff. 665 665₀ 740 ff. 751 ff. 757 777 storm 338 398 f. 570 623 streaming water 369 summer heat 195 three-fold god (?) 301 thunder-bolt 28 591 Thursday 753 time (?) 16 transition from sky to sky-god 9 ff. 776 tribal god (See Epithets: Παρρῶος) vegetation 74 wealth 504₂ (See also Epithets: Κρήσιος, Πάσιος) wind 142 764₁ wolf (?) 63 ff. woodland (?) 280₂ years 16₃ 187₈

Etymology: 1 ff. 16 31₃ 776

Attributes: aigis 14₁ 398 barsom 745 bay-wreath 149₁ 376 blue globe 33 41 ff. 349₂ 776 (See also globe) blue mantle 33₁ 56 ff. 349₂ 776 blue nimbus 33 f. 40 f. 349₂ 776 box (?) 360₁₁ bull 501 576 ff. 633 ff. 660 f. 739 f. bulls 567 ff. 586₂ 590 buskins 112₂ calf 581 Chimaira-heads 748 clouds 57 club 356₂ cornu copiae 361 501 f. 598₁ corn-ears 68₀ 74₆ (?) 552 569 572 590 596 598₂ 741 couch 662 cow 660 665 crescent moon 35₆ 731 crooked stick 87₂ cruz ansata 590 f. cup 112₂ cypress 649 cypress-wood sceptre 558₅ diadem of palmettes and lotos-buds 622₁₁ Dionysiac 2₁ double axe 606 ff. 731₁ (See also Index II s.v. Axe) doves 39₁ 364 f. 367 f. eagle 34 ff. 40 56₄ 84 ff. 88 ff. 102₁ 103 ff. 117₁ 191 f. 596 731 eagles 66 83 f. eagle on pine-tree 91 on rock 90₆ eagle-sceptre 590 596 623 fawn-skin (?) 736₀ fir-cone (?) 569₁ fruitful poplar 529 globe 56₄ 136₀ (?) 547 572 (?) (See also blue globe) goat 401 501 547 665 706 ff. 717₃ 731₁ 779₁ golden calf 581 fleece 419 422 ff. grapes 4₂ 596 598₂ himation decorated with animals and lilies 622 horns 74 f. 590 (See also Epithets: ἄρμων) 'horns of consecration' (?) 731₁ inscribed golden pillar 662 jewels (?) 569 kalathos 568 f. 571 f. 574 576 590 (See also modius) Kerberos 188₄ lagoblon 736₀ lilies 622 ff. lily-sceptre 623₁ lituos 86 f. 90 f. (?) lotos-sceptre 596 Lycian symbol (?) 301 mem 478₁ modius 188₁ 361 (See also kalathos) moon 35₀ 731 mouse 425 Nike 2₂ 590 753 oak-leaves and acorns 748 f. oak-tree 1₃ 364 ff. 401 omphalos 521₁ phidie 19 35₀ 102₄ 281 (?) 752 pillar 34 ff. 44₄ (?) 62₄ 279₄ 409 520₂ 662 pillars 66 521₃ pillars surmounted by eagles 83 f. pine-cone 392₁ plough 4₂ 598₂ poplar 529 puff-adders 392 radiate crown 19 188 194₁ 361 radiate nimbus 572₁ ram 346 ff. 390 401 417 428 ff. 429₄ 731₁ ram's head as footstool 391 f. ram's horns 361 371 ff. rainbow 57 f. cp. 51₀ sceptre 2₂ 19 34 39 56₄ 102₄ 575 (?) sceptre tipped with eagle 590 596 623 sceptre tipped with lily 623₁ sceptre tipped with lotos 596 sceptre tipped with votive hand 392₁ serpent 102₄ 113 358 ff. 429₄ serpents 102₄ 113₂ 392 394 396 serpent coiled in circle 191 f. serpent-staff 361 seven stars 149₁ cp. 276₅ 547 ff. silver knife 581 snake (See serpent) solar disk 360₁₁ 569 (?) 571 spear cp. 276₅ 621 star 731 741 751 ff. 781 star (sun?) 35₀ stellate tiara 741 f. 745 748 f. thunderbolt 31 39 f. 56₄ 84 ff. 88 102₄ thýrsos with eagle on it 112₂ tiara adorned with disks and thunderbolts 745 tiara adorned with pearly edge, stars, and thunderbolts 748 trident 361 two bulls 567 ff. 586₂ 590 two eagles 34 748 two thunderbolts 299₂ veil 57 Victory 2₂ 590 753 vine-branch 91 cp. 92₄ wheel 288 ff. whip 552 568 ff. willow 529 f. wreath 56₄ wreath of bay 18 69 149₁ 298₁₀ 376 731 cp. 712 wreath of flowers 622

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

wreath of lilies 622 f. 623₁ 736₀ wreath of oak cp. 41₅ wreath of pomegranate-flowers (?) 623₁ zodiac
752 f.

Types: advancing with thunderbolt and eagle 84 ff. Archelaos 129 ff.
Aristonous 622 Askaros 622 Assyrian 645 bearded 371 ff. 402₀ beardless 371 ff. 402₀ 652 (See also youthful) beardless charioteer with whip, thunderbolt, and corn-ears 552 as bull bearing off Europe 499 as bull in radiate circle 472 bust 575 bust in front of rock 597₄ carrying infant Dionysos 707 carrying infant Dionysos with goat beside him 706 as charioteer with whip and corn-ears standing between two bulls 567 ff. child seated on globe with goat and stars 52 f.
547 colour of hair 2₂ in Commagenian costume 745 748 crowned with lilies 736₀ Dionysiac 2₂ 112₂ 131 (?) 373 ff. cp. 4₂ 400 596 598₂ double busts of Zeus "Αμμων and Dionysos 374 double busts of Zeus
"Αμμων and Hera "Αμμωνία (?) 370₄
double busts of Zeus "Αμμων and Sarapis (?) 366₂ double herm of Zeus "Αμμων and Satyr 374 driving chariot 338 effeminate (?) 599₄ Egyptising 572 ff. enthroned with sceptre and cornu copiae 598₁
Hageladas 122 heads of Zeus
"Αμμων and Dionysiac (?) goddess jugate 370₄ heads of Zeus "Αμμων and Hera "Αμμωνία jugate 370 as Herakles 356₃ cp. 288₃ horned 74 f.
590 (See also Epithets: "Αμμων) horned serpent (?) 430₀ on horseback with phiale and sceptre 19 infant nursed by Diktyinna 541 by Neda 112₂ by Oinoe 112₁ by Rhea
152 infant nurtured by cow (?) 660 by goat 529₄ by sheep (?) 401 by sow (?) 660 infant seated on globe with goat beside him 547 infant seated on throne with Kouretes round him (?) 646 f. infant with two Kouretes 150₄ 541 infant with three Kouretes 150₄ 151 ff. inscribed golden pillar on couch 612 ithyphallic Satyr 736₀ Kalamis 352
362 laureate head 18 69 149, 298₁₀
376 cp. 712 and 731 lead figures
570₂ Lysippos 35 f. masks of Zeus
"Αμμων 370 omphalos 520₂ 521₀
pantheistic 361 Pheidias 2 f. 2₂
36 42 91 f. 280 f. 350 (?) 622 751₃ pillar 36 ff. 520₂ 521₀ Polygnotos (?)
133₁ Polykleitos 112₂ portrait as Zeus "Αμμων 374 pyramid 520₂ 521₀ cp. 164₅ 600 ff. 615 ff. pyramid on pillar 520₂ 521₀ radiate 19 188 194₁

Zeus (cont.)

361 572₁ in ram-drawn chariot 338, ram-faced 348 ram's ears 350 ram's ears and ram's horns 372₃ ram's horns 350 Satyr 735 736₀ seated on altar 93 521₂ seated before ani-conic pillar 34 520 f. seated on bulls 582 ff. 778 f. seated on couch
92 seated with eagle and sceptre
17 68 seated with feet on ram's head 390 f. seated with lituus and thunderbolt 86 f. seated with modius on head and Kerberos at feet 188₁ seated on a mountain 124 ff. 459₅ seated with Nike in hand 753 seated with Nike and sceptre 2₂ 17 f. seated among other denizens of Olympus 43 seated with phiale and sceptre 19 seated on a rock 124 ff. 708 seated with sceptre 200 ff.
seated with sceptre in easy attitude 90 ff. seated with sceptre, eagle, and pillar 34 ff. seated with sceptre and thunderbolt, eagle 68 seated with thunderbolt and sceptre, eagle, globe, Nike 42 seated with thunderbolt and sceptre, eagle, Nike 42 seated with thunderbolt and sceptre 69 seated on winged wheel 232 f. serpent 403 428 cp. 360 f. standing on bull with double-axe and thunderbolt 606 standing between two bulls 567 ff. 778 f. standing with corn-ears in right hand, sceptre in left, and star above head 741 standing with crescent moon on head and star in right hand 731 778 standing with eagle and sceptre 68 f. standing with one foot on ram's head 390 f.
391 f. standing with feet on ram's head 390 f. standing with goat beside him 706₄ standing with modius on head and Kerberos at feet 188₁ standing with Nike and sceptre 17 f. standing with phiale and sceptre, eagle 102₄ standing in shrine 293₃ 392₁ standing with thunderbolt 88 standing with thunderbolt and eagle 84 standing with thunderbolt and sceptre 102₄ surrounded by seven stars 51 f. 149 547 ff. surrounded by zodiac 752 ff.
'Talleyrand' 622₁₁ thoughtful 34 three-eyed 320 462 treading on bull and lifting lion above his head 645 triple iconic herm 521₀ youthful 57
371 ff. 645 (See also beardless)

Identified with Adad 549 ff. Aither 32
Amen 361 Amen-Rā 348 ff. 363
368₃ 387 429₂ Apollon Κάπριος (?)
373 409₃ Argos 32 Ashur 197₁ 207
Asklepios 361 Attis 399₃ 717₃ Auramazda 10₁ 208 741 ff. 754 Baal of Baitokaike 565₃ Ba'al-hammān 363
Ba'al-samin 8 Beelsamen 191

Zeus (cont.)

Belos 756₈ Belos, Ammon, Apis, Kronos 756₆ Dagou 238₀ Dionysos 2₂ 112₂ 376₂ (See also Types: Dionysiac) Dionysos, Helios 187₁₀ Dis pater (?) 99 Elagabalos 520₂ Hades, Helios, Dionysos 187₄ 234₄ Hades, Helios, Sarapis 187₇ Helios 181₁ 186 ff. 194 f. (?) 361 400 778 Helios Aumos 193 Helios, Mithras, Sarapis 190 Helios, Sarapis 189 f. 190₀ 454 Helios Σεβάσιος 400₆ 429₁ Helios Σωτήρ 361₆ Herakles 356₂ Iao 233 ff. Jehovah 233₇, elder Kabeiros 112 Khnemu 361 Marduk 756 Marnas 149₁ Men (?) 400₆ Mithras 181₁ the moon (?) 730 f. 731₁ Neilos 361 Olymbros 597₄ Phanes 8₀ Poseidon 361 Sandas 597 f. Sarapis 2₂ 181₁ 188 ff. 197₄ 361 435 sun 186 ff. sun and moon 197 Talos 633₁₀ 728 ff. various parts of the cosmic whole 197

Assimilated to Apis 537₁₁

Associated with Mt Agdos 155 Aitne 106₂ 106₃ 106₄ 156 779 Alkmene 624 Amara (?) 581 f. Anthas (?) 74 f. Antiope 535₁ 734 ff. 739 777 Apollon 73₄ 373 Apollon Κάρρειος, Asklepios, Demeter, Poseidon Γαλαῶχος 351 Asklepios 351 f. Astarte (?) 546₁ Asteria or Asterie 544₀ Atargatis 578₂ Athena 17₃ 350₈ Athena Ἀμαρία and Aphrodite 16 f. Athena Κυβέλη 123 Auramazda 10, Auxesia and Damoia 730 Danaë 414 Demeter 393 396 398 401 695 779 Demeter and Kore 668 f. Dione 370 Dionysos 564 ff. 566 Dioskouroi 35₆ 392₁ 590 earth-mother 1₃ 401 (?) 429 779 f. Elare (?) 156₂ Elektra 755₁₀ Europe 155 351₇ 401₇ 464 467 472 524 ff. 538 f. 544 546 f. 644 648 660 f. 733 f. 739 f. 777 780 Eury-medousa 533₀ Eurymene 155 Gaia 26 Ge Χθονία 668 f. Hadryades 511₁ Hekate (?) 141 f. 543₁ Helios 187 Hera 21 f. 22₁ 117 133₁ 134 f. 154 f. 345₃ 348₁ 370₃ 455₆ 501₆ 522 f. 591 708₂ 753 Hera Ἀμμωνία 370 Hera Ἀργεῖα 456₁ Hera Γαμηλία and Ares 597₄ Hera Τελεία 20 Herakles 399₃ 502₀ Herakles and Hebe (?) 501₆ Hermes 567 570 570₂ Hestia, Hera, etc. 149₂ Hestia 17₁ 330₄ Idaia 544₂ Io 237₇ 257 438 ff. 457 f. 462 f. 532₁₀ 681₄ 733 f. 739 777 Isis 346₅ 454 457₅ Kabeiroi 120 Kalliope 105 f. Kallisto 155 Kore 394 398 f. 401 695 Koryphe 155 779 Koures 142 144 Kouretes 149₁ Kyllene 779 Larissa 156 Larisse (?) 156₂ Leda 279₄ 760₃ 763₄ 770 774 Leto 155 544₀ 727₆ 728 Maia 755₁₀ Medeia 248 Meter Μεγάλη ἡ πάντων

Zeus (cont.)

κρατούσα 550₄ Men 732 Men Τάμου 642₄ Mnemosyne 104 f. Mother Earth (See earth-mother, Ge) Mousa 104 779 Nemea (?) 280₂ 456₅ Nemesis 270₅ 278 ff. 760₂ 780 Pasiphae 522 733 f. 777 Persephone 780 Pherephatta 394 cp. 399 Persephone 398 Phoinike 755₁₀ Plouto 156 720₄ Poseidon and Demeter 521₀ Rhea 398 645 Sarapis (?) 366₂ Selene 456 457₅ (?) 732 f. 739 777 Semele 155 398₄ 457₅ 681 f. 693 (?) 733 736₀ 751 780 Taygete 155 755₁₀ 779 Thaleia 105 f. 106₄ Themis 755₁₀

Compared with Adonis and Tammuz 645 Argos 32 458

In relation to Adonis 157₃ 468₈ 530₂ 645 f. 651 f. 663₂ 675 Apollon 373 Apollon Κάρρειος 373₄ 409₃ Argos 457 ff. Aristaios 372 Asklepios 646₁ Ba'al-hammân 353 ff. the bovine figures of Cretan mythology 543 ff. Dionysos 373 ff. 398 f. 401 428 429 647 706 ff. 711 713 ff. 780 earth-mother 779 Hera 658₃ Ixion 288 Kyklopes 317 ff. the moon 730 ff. Sandas 603 Seirios 740 the stars 740 ff. the sun 186 ff. Zagreus 398 f. 644 f.

Superseded by Aphendi Christos 162₁ St Elias 103 163 ff. 177 ff. 777 St George (?) 176 782

— Barnabas taken for 194₀ bird of 341 birth of (scene in mysteries?) 535₀ (See also Myths) chariot of 187₁₃ 338 338₈ 783 f. circular temple of 478 cp. 400 conical stone of 164₅ counters of 147₂ cradle of 530₀ 534 cup-bearer of 755₁₀ emerald obelisks of 356 eye of 187₀ 196 f. 783 ferocious language of 658₃ fire of 323 fleece of 422 ff. 689, on Gnostic amulets 235 golden shrines of 348, grave of (See tomb of) grove of 364 ff. 511₁ 558₅ horses of 338₂ 784 house of 303 330₁ 632₃ immoralties of, attacked by Christian apologists 167₁ interpreters (ὑποφῆται) of 530₀ laughter of 318 mysteries of (See Rites: mysteries) nod of 2 f. 369₁ omphalós of 521₀ ox of 717₂ pyre of 602₂ spring of, at Dodona 368 f. spring of, in Oasis of Siwah 368 ff. 381 f. rays of 7₂ 187₈ road of 303 sceptre of 406 558₅ seats of 147 statues of (See Types) survivals of the name of 159 161 ff. temples of (See Cults) tenants of 565₂ throne of 147 f. (?) 398 407₁ 647 744 748 tomb of 157 ff. 645 f. 646₀ 663 731₁ tower of 303 watch-tower of 303 vote of 147₂ well of, in Oasis of Siwah 387 389 woodman of 407

Zeus (cont.)

See also Dios Gonai, Zan, Zas, Zen

Zeus, the planet

Epithet: temperate 760

Functions: connected with certain animals (men, lions, clean birds), vegetables (wheat, barley, rice, spelt, astringent fruits), and minerals (tin, beryl and all white stones, red arsenic, sulphur, etc.) 626₀ fertilising winds 759 solar 759₂

Attributes: amber 626₀ bronze 626₀ eagle 625₅ 626 626₀ gold 626₀ lily 624 ff. silver 625 f.

Zeus, king of Crete 662 See also Iupiter, king of Crete

Zilmissos 400

Ziu (?) 178₀

Zoroastres 265 783 See also Zarathushtra

Zu

Genealogy: f. of fertilising bull 579

Function: storm-bird 579

INDEX II

SUBJECTS AUTHORITIES

The larger numerals refer to pages, the smaller numerals to foot-notes.

- Abbott, G. F. 170 177₀ 179₀ 338₅ 694 774
 Abstinence from animal food 648₁
 Acanthus 336
 Acorns 77 366₇ 367
 Adders of Zeus Sabázios 392 394 396
 Adolescence, phenomenal 647
Adyton at Ba'albek 564 ff. at Delphoi 563₃ at Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff.
 Ahrens, H. L. 257₆ 603₅ 730₈
Aigis 14₁
Aithér, eye of 196
Aithér in relation to aér 101 776
 Albers, C. 64₃
 Alberti, J. 442₅ 468₇ 471₄ 527₀ 675₃
 Allcroft, A. H. 488₂
 Allen, J. Romilly 326₂
 Allen, T. W. 410₁₀
 Altar as object of cult 518 ff. bronze 592₀ bull-shaped 784 Egyptising 540₂ floating 592₀ triangular 785
 Altar, horned, among Dinka tribes 508 ff. in Greece 511 ff. 'Minoan' 506 ff. 511 649₃ 784 at Parion 513₅ Semitic 507 in Spain 507 ff. of Athena 511₁ of Demeter 513₅ of Zeus 39 of Zeus and Hadryades 511₁ on vase-paintings 37 106
 Altar of Apollon at Delos 482 513 784 at Delphoi 262₁ of Athena 511₁ of Athena Aléa 112₁ of Demeter 512₃ 513₅ of Hestia 16 f. of Iupiter Dolichenus 614 of Iupiter Heliopolitanus 559 of the Unknown God 663₂ of Zeus at Nikaia in Bithynia 38₀ at Olympia 37₁ 121 on Mt Olympos in Makedonia 102 f. at Pergamon 118 ff. 567₆ with pillar inscribed Diós 37 of Zeus Hágios 192 of Zeus Agoraios 37₁ of Zeus Áadaos 559 of Zeus Aithrios 26 f. of Zeus Atabýrios 117 of Zeus Aphésios 117 of Zeus Dios 4₂ of Zeus Helikónios 117 of Zeus Idaios in Crete 118 of Zeus Idaios in Troad 117 of Zeus Kallimikos (?) 37₁ of Zeus Kithairónios 117 f. cp. 511, of Zeus Kládeos (?) 37₁ of Zeus Klários (?) 37₁ of Zeus Litaos 38₀ of Zeus Lýkaios 66 78 79 81 ff. 92 f.
- Altar (cont.)
 of Zeus Olýmpios at Olympia 37₁ 121 781 of Zeus Ómbrios and Apémios 121 of Zeus Patrôios 117 of Zeus Sthénios 519₂ of Zeus Semaléos 121 of Zeus Hyméttios 121 of Zeus Hýpatos 77 f. of Zeus Oromásdes 746 of Zeus and Hadryades 511₁ of Zeus and of Hera 117
 Altar (?) -shaped weights inscribed Διός etc. 37₁
 Alviella, Count Goblet d' 205₁ 206₃ 207 267 316₃ 478₇
 Amber 626₀
Ambrosia, lily called 624₄
 Amelung, W. 130₁
Amphiphóntes 421
 Ancestor-worship at Nemroud Dagh 748
 See also Dead, cult of the Anderson, F. 199₇
 Anderson, J. G. C. 74 f.
 Andrae, W. 581₅
 Anemone 625₅ 626
 Aniconic representations of Zeus as a stone 520₂ cp. 662
 Animal names given to priests and priestesses 441 ff. 451 453 453₅
 Animals sacrificed to Zeus 716 ff.: bulls 467 511₁ goats 347 717₃ horses 180₅ 717₃ oxen 82 338₂ 545 pigs 82 668 669₂ 717₃ rams 39 348 407 ff. 416 f. 421 f. (?) 422 ff. sheep 75₃
Ánodos of earth-goddess 670 698₁ 699
 Anson, L. 296₂ 602₄ 602₅ 624₄ 753₃ 753₅ 753₆
 Anthropomorphism affects mountain-cults of Zeus 121 evolved through three stages 13 f. rise of 11 f. tendency towards 241 304 310 ff. 333 350 355 f. 360 f. 374 392 502 719 766 ff. 776
 Anthropophagy See Omophagy, human Ant in Mithraic myth 518 worshipped in Thessaly 533₀ Zeus becomes 533₀
 Apotheosis in caldron 420₀ 674 ff. indicated by lily 624₆ of Homer 129 ff. of kings 662 (see also King called Zeus) of Orphic votary 675 ff. on pyre 602₂

- Apotrópaia* 292 ff. 336 339 360 422, 424 565 634, 774
- Apples 748
- Apple-branch 270 275 275₂ 281 285
- Arbois de Jubainville, H. d' 321₂ 639₂
- Armfield, H. T. 86₅
- Arneth, F. von 168₂
- Arnold, B. 701₄
- Arnold, E. V. 190₃
- Arsenic, red, and Zeus, the planet 626₀
- Arundell, F. V. J. 503₂
- Arvanitopoulos, A. S. 520₂
- Ashby, T. 272₁₄
- Ashes, altars of 121 512₃ divination by 103 not blown away from altar 82₁
102 f. sanctity of 82₁
- Aspelin, J. R. 489₁
- Ass 331 (?) 625₃ 626₀ 696₃ phallós of 623
- Astrology in Babylonia 754 ff. in Egypt 496 754 in Greece 754 ff. in Italy 756 ff.
- Astronomy, relation of, to astrology 756
- Aubrey, J. 487₁
- Aufhauser, J. B. 782
- Aust, E. 567₅
- Avezou, C. 785
- Axe, double, 'Chalyb' 648 f. combined with bovine horns 635 combined with life-symbol 646₀ of Dionysos 216 659 f.
of Hephaistos (?) 216₃ of Hittite son-god 599 f. 604 f. 631 f. of Iupiter Doli- chenus 606 ff. of Kabeiros 108 ff. 329₀ of Prometheus 329₀ of Sandas 599 f.
604 f. 631 f. of Triptolemos (?) 216₃ of Zeus Dolichaios 606 ff. 'ox-slaughtering' 216 cp. 659 used for felling timber in Crete 648 f. worshipped (?) 632 659 f.
- Babelon, E. 68₀ 151₄ 194₁ 228₄ 232₁ 235 f.
235₄ 296₇ 297₂ 301 f. 305₀ 305₀ 305₁₅
495₀ 497₄ 538₄ 571₂ 583₂ 583₃ 590₅ 596₁
596₂ 596₃ 596₄ 596₅ 596₆ 597₁ 597₂ 599₃
602₂ 602₄ 602₅ 637₁ 637₂ 637₃ 637₄ 660₄
712₁ 712₂ 712₃ 712₄ 712₅ 712₆ 713₁ 720₅
742₂ 752₂ 753₃ 785
- Baumeister, A. 273₀
- Baer, E. von 489
- Baethgen, F. 354₂
- Baitylon* or Ba'al-hammân
355 ff.
- Bákchos* 220 f.
- Baldachin 119 565 601
- Ball, C. J. 262₀
- Bapp, K. 327 329₀ 330₁
- Baresman* See Barsom
- Baring-Gould, S. 53₂ 80₄ 81₃ 292₆
- Barley and Zeus, the planet 626₀ boiled in milk at Galaxia 676
- Barley-meal 668
- Barnett, L. D. 640₀
- Barre, A. 354
- Barré, M. L. 57₇
- Barrett, Sir W. F. 283₀
- Barsom* 745₁
- Basket containing heart of Liber 662 containing member of Dionysos 107 f.
- Basket (cont.)
in Dionysiac procession 565 707 cp.
688₇ 698₁ of Europe 530 f. of figs 688₇ of Selene 457₃ on coins of Kibyra in Phrygia 530₂
- Bassi, D. 753₀
- Bast, F. J. 559₁
- Bath at Ba'albek 555₃ 559₃ of boiling milk 676 f. 785 f. of mare's broth 678
- Bather, A. G. 679₃
- Baudissin, Count W. W. 191₃ 233₀ 233₇
234₄ 235₀ 354 354₂ 354₁₀ 354₁₁ 356₂
541 551₁
- Baumeister, A. 202₁ 202₂ 494₁
- Baumgarten, F. 430₀
- Bäumlein, W. 66₁
- Baumstark, A. 631₇
- Baunack, J. 497₄
- Baur, P. 704₃
- Bay as eiresiōne 339 metamorphosis into 687₃
- Bay-wreath 18 69 149₁ 298₁₀ 376 712
729 731
- Bazin, H. 570₄
- Bears kept at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀ of Mt Arkton 112₅ sacrificed to Artemis at Aulis 417
- 'Bears,' worshippers of Artemis Brau- ronia called 421 f. 442 784
- Bechtel, F. 498₁ 667₄ 669₂ 729₂ 730₈ 762₄
- 'Bee-keepers,' priestesses of Artemis called 443
- 'Bees,' name of, given to priestess of Apollon 443 f. priests of Artemis 443 initiates and priestesses of Demeter
443 priestess of Kybele 444 the Moon
518₂
- Bees, procreation of, from buried ox 514 f.
518₂ 532 souls as 469₇ 514 518₂ 532₁₂
- Beetle 432
- Beger, L. 365₃
- Behheading on wheel 209 f.
- Bekker, I. 279₄
- Beleth, J. 287₁
- Bell, Miss G. 136
- Beloch, G. 643₃
- Belon, P. 158
- Bender, F. 239₀
- Benedictio Latina* 391₃
- Bénédite, G. 205₁ 341
- Benetoklis 412₂
- Benndorf, O. 120₃ 292 292₀ 292₁₀ 467₂
476
- Bent, J. T. 164 172 172₀ 175₀ 175₁ 183₂
323
- Bentley, R. 458₃ 495₃ 648₁
- Benzinger, I. 643₂
- Bérard, V. 63 206₄ 313₃
- Berger, P. 354 354₄
- Bergk, T. 198₂ 259₀ 366₇ 406₁ 648₁
- Bernays, J. 625₅
- Bernhardy, G. 257₀
- Bernoulli, J. J. 55₁ 56₁ 56₂ 56₃
- Bertrand, A. 197₇ 289₁ 478₂ 482₀
- Beryl and Zeus, the planet 626₀

- Bethe, E. 218₆ 248₅ 252₃ 474₃ 763₅ 766₂
 771 780₅ 780₇
 Beulé, E. 229₀ 467₂
 Bevan, A. A. 240₄
 Bie, O. 104₂ 105₂
 Bieber, Fräulein M. 700₅ 700₆ 701₁ 701
 Biliotti, Sir A. 330
 Bill-hook 575
 Birds hung on trees 592₀ in Babylonian religion 579 ep. 265 of Chipa 526₅ of Europe (?) 526₁ of Zeus, the planet 626₀ on bull-shaped altar 784 on coin of Hierapolis in Syria 587₇ on coins of Kilikia 602 on coins of Tarsos 596
 Birlinger, A. 288₁
 Birth tabooed 648₁
 Bischoff, E. 677₀
 Bison 500
 Bissing, F. W. von 266 540₂
 Black bull 431 f. 437 ram 407 407₄ sheep 407₄
 Blanchet, A. 232₁
 Blass, F. 686₂
 Blinkenberg, C. 390 392₁
 Bloch, I. 554₂
 Bloch, L. 106₃ 106₄ 698₁ 766₂
 Blue globe 33 41 ff. nimbus 33 f. 40 f. patina of bronzes at Delphoi 761 vault 262 ff.
 Blümner, H. 622₁₀ 723₃
 Boar, ungelded, sacrificed to Kore 668 wild 157 645 651 f. 663₂
 Boat, solar 355 357 f. 358₃
 Bochart, S. 533₀ 581₃ 584₀
 Bode, G. H. 324₄ 419
 Boeckh, A. 270₃ 415₂
 Boehlau, J. 93 ff.
 Boetticher, A. 292₈
 Boetticher, C. 339₅ 374₃ 535₂ 649₁ 687₃ 768₀
 Bohn, R. 118₄
 Boisacq, É. 242₀ 285₂ 290₂ 328₁ 537₁ 634₇ 681₄ 687₆ 697₄ 730₃
 Boissard, J. J. 714₄
 Boissonade, J. F. 115₅
 Boll, F. 758₆
 Bölte, 537₁
 Bondürand, E. 570₄
 Bones burnt 286 of Europe in wreath 525 of Trajan brought back to Rome 553
 Bonhote, J. L. 257₂
 Bonitz, H. 727₅
 Bormann, E. 276₃ 614₁ 614₂ 614₃
 Bormann, R. 292₈
 Bosanquet, R. C. 15 150₂ 160₃ 163₁ 471₄ 480 483₁₁ 526₃ 587₄ 660₂ 785
 Bose, E. 485₃
 Bothe, F. H. 648₁
 Böttiger, C. A. 218₆
 Bouché-Leclercq, A. 188₁ 503₂ 654₁ 750₄ 75₄ 755₁₁ 758₆ 758 ff.
 Bourguet, É. 762₀ 762₄
 Bourrinet, P. 703 703₂
 Boutin 378
 Bradley, H. 242₉
 Bramble 470
 Bran in rites of Sabazios 392₄
 Branch of sacred tree 87 90 f.
 Brand, J. 287₁
 Brandis, C. A. 625₅
 Brasiers, Hellenistic 318 f.
 Brauchitsch, G. von 231₈
 Braun, E. 129₃ 150₄ 466₀ 475 512₃ 697₂ 699₀
 Bréal, M. 285₂
 Breasted, J. H. 632₃ 635₁₂
 Breastplates of priests of Zeus Sabázios 391 f.
 Breasts, goddess clasping her 589₄ mutilated 394₂
 Breuil, H. 703₁ 703₂ 703₃
 Brizio, E. 698₁
 Bronze, cire perdue method of casting 723 f. 725₅ cows 446 gong 592₀ hands 391 plates or pyramids 615 ff. sky 632₃
 Bronze and the planets Aphrodite 626₀ Hermes 625 f. Kronos 626₀ Zeus 626₀
 Bronze-age remains 334 497 ff. 506 ff. 513₁₂ 619₄ 620₂
 Bronzes from Argos 441₀ 446 Athens 336₀ Calaceite 333 Dodona 336₀ Egypt 360 f. Eleutherai 336₀ Etruria 204 622 f. 766 ff. Gallia 96 ff. 288 f. Idaean Cave 644 f. Kameiros 330 ff. 335 336₀ Mt Lykaion 84 ff. Olympia 37₁ 331₁ 331₂ 331₁ 334 f. 336₀ Paramythia 762₃ Syria 572 ff. 581 592₀ (?) Trundholm 334₂
 Brook, miraculous 545₃ See also Spring
 Brown, A. C. L. 243₅
 Brown, R. 242₀
 Browne, E. G. 240₄
 Browne, W. G. 378 380 383 390₁
 Bruchmann, C. F. H. 8₃ 455₈ 758₁
 Brückner, A. 119₀ 130₃ 533₂
 Brugmann, K. 1₁ 681₄
 Brugsch, H. 206₁ 341₈ 348₂ 348₆ 360₃ 388 f.
 Brunn, H. 70
 Buck, C. D. 16₂ 171₄
 Buckler, W. H. 782
Bucranium 279 515 See also Bull's head
 Budge, E. A. Wallis 188₅ 206₁ 230₅ 241₂ 263₁ 314₄ 314₅ 314₆ 315₁ 315₂ 315₃ 315₄ 315₆ 315₇ 315₈ 316₁ 316₂ 341₃ 341₅ 341₆ 346₃ 346₄ 346₅ 347₁ 360₃ 362₂ 362₃ 363₁ 431₁ 434₄ 435₀ 435₃ 435₆ 436 436₃ 437 515 632₃ 635₁₂
 Bugge, S. 677₄
 Bull Alú 645 Apis 431 ff. 633 635 Bacchis, Bacis, Bouchis 436 f. 635 Minotaur 465 ff. 635 Mnevis 431 f. 635 Onouphis 437
 Bull of Apollon 586₂ Athena 533 Dionysos 441 f. 457 f. 502 f. 506₂ 715₆ Gilgames 645 Hera 467 Iupiter Dolichenus 604 ff. Iupiter Heliopolitanus 567 ff. Mithras 502₆ 516 ff. Phanes 311 398₃ Poseidon 464 Selene 537 f. Tešub 605 f. Zagreus 398 647 Zeus 467 472 499 511, 567 ff.

- Bull in Assyria 581 645 Crete 401 464 ff. 472 483₁₀ 499 521 ff. Egypt 430 ff. 784 Kolchis 499 Marathon 467 499₄ Persia 581 Syria 567 ff. Troy 533
- Bull with crescent above it 587 637₃ with crescent on flank 540₂ 637₅ 637₆ with star on flank 540₂ 620₀ with two stars over horns and neck 637; with three horns 639 with rosette between horns 619 619₄ cp. 576₃ with triangle on forehead 432 638 638₂ with wings 576₅ 581
- Bull and crane 482₀
- and moon 431 455₃ 455₆ 455₇ 455₈ 456₁ 518₂ 537 f. 539₃ 619₄
- and sun 430 ff. 468 ff. 472 521 ff. 543 544₃ 549 ff. 577 ff. 619₄ 620 633 635 784
- Bull as altar 784 as dance-theme 481 495 carried 448 503 ff. 784 caught by Herakles 467 499 charged with fertilising force 500 514 ff. 533 633 ff. 717 f. 779 dragged 506₁ hung on olive-tree 533 kept at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀ paraded at Athens 715₀ 716₀ possessing prestige among cattle-breeding peoples 634 779 slain by Theseus 467 499₄
- Bull-cult compared with ram-cult 430 717 779 in relation to river-cult 483₁₀ prevalent throughout Levant 633
- of Celts 639₂ of Dinka 508 ff. of Hittites 636 639 ff. 784 in India 637 in Moravia 638 f. in Spain 637
- Bulle, H. 82₁ 761₆
- Bullen, F. T. 771₁₀
- Bull-fights of Athens 497 Crete 497 ff. Egypt 431 f. 433 France 498 Mykenai 497 Orchomenos in Boiotia (?) 497 Spain 498 Thyrens 497
- Bull-roarer 650₁
- Bulls, black 431 f. 437 526₁ bronze 176₀ 639 641 ff. of changing colours 436 radiate 472 white 467 522 537 f.
- Bulls, humped, at Hierapolis in Syria 587 at Magnesia on the Maiandros 483 504 at Pergamon 119 f. at Tarsos 596 Bulls, man-headed 298 620₀
- 'Bulls,' cup-bearers of Poseidon called 442
- Bull's ears 649₅ genitals 649₅ testicles 431 516₁ 518
- Bull's forepart worn by kings of Egypt 496 by dancer (?) 704₀ on coins of Phaistos 661₁
- Bull's head 335 458 482₀ 482₁ 507 596 634-642₁
- Bull's hide in Rhodian myth 643, made into drums 650₁ made into glue 648 f. 649₅ sold 715₆ worn by Argos 458 f. 459₅ wrapped round dead 533
- Bull's horns 374 398₄ 502 508 ff. 511₁ combined with double axe 635 compared with horns of moon 539₃ grasped 499 ff. cp. 511₁ See also Cow's horn
- Bunte, B. 678₄
- Buondelmonti, C. 158
- Burchardt, H. 379;
- Bürchner, L. 55₁ 482₁ 729₂
- Buresch, K. 234₂ 234₄
- Burgess, J. 768₀
- Burial beneath altar 519 in 'Dipylon' cemetery 766₀ in Labyrinth 484₀ cp. 472 in ox-hides hung on trees 533 in pithos 469; tabooed 648₁
- Burkitt, F. C. 175₂ 550₃ 555₃ 555₄ 599
- Burmans, P. 727₃
- Burnet, J. 28₄
- Burning on wheel 209 f.
- Burnouf, E. 180₁
- Burrows, R. M. 660₂
- Burton, R. F. 240₃ 240₄
- Bury, J. B. 253₃ 763₃
- Buskins, calf in 659
- Busolt, G. 761₁
- Butin See Boutin
- Butler, H. C. 519₄
- Butterfly 532₁₂ 598₁
- Buttmann, P. 452₅
- Bybilakis, E. 175₁
- Byrne, F. D. 404₃
- Cabré, J. 333₂
- Caduceus at Heliopolis in Syria 564 ff. between cornua copiae 535₁ grasped by eagle 564 f. in rites of Zeus Meilichios 422; with ram's heads 430₀
- Caetani-Lovatelli, Countess E. 427₁
- Cahen, E. 497₄ 498₁ 733₁ 733₂
- Cailliaud, F. 378 ff. 384₅
- Calder, W. M. 193₃
- Caldron as prize at Argive festival 446₃
- of apotheosis 420₆ 675 for Demos 785 for attendants of Dionysos 785 for Melikertes 674 674₁ 679 for sons of Peleus 419₁₀ for Pelias 245 679 for Pelops 419₁₀ 679 in rites of Leukothea 420₆ 674 f.
- Calf, bronze figure with face of 723₁ golden 236 581 in buskins 659 of changing colour 470 (see also Bull, Cows) sacrificed to Moloch 723₁ See also Bull, Cattle, Cows
- Camerarius 522₄
- Campana, G. P. 425₈
- Campbell, J. F. 178₀
- Campbell, L. 433 f.
- Canino, Prince de 218 513₅
- Cannibalism See Omophagy
- Capart, J. 267
- Capitan, L. 703₁ 703₂
- Carapanos, C. 86₃
- Carnival-plays of northern Greece 694 f. 699
- Carnix* or Gallic trumpet 569
- Carnoy, H. 171₅
- Carolidis, P. 706₂
- Carpet in Dionysiac procession 565
- Cart-wheels, old-fashioned 214₂
- Cartailhac, E. 703₃
- Carter, J. B. 272 272₁₀ 272₁₁ 272₁₂ 455₃
- Casaubon, I. 259₀
- Cassas, L. F. 556₂

- Cattle of sun-god stolen by Alkyonens 110 610 Autolykos 639 f. Hermes 410 Odysseus 640
- Cave at Anazarbos 597₁ in Boiotia 521 at Brasii 67₁; at Byëiskala 638 f. on Mt Dikte 150, 647 in Dordogne 500 703 in Enboia 462 on Mt Ide in Crete 135 150 150₂ 529 in Naxos 164 f. at Rome 677₁ at Thera 144 of earth-goddess 670 699 of Mithras 516 ff. of Trophaios 524 of Zeus 135 150 150₂ 529 647
- Cavdomi, V. C. 194₁
- Cedar 558₃ (?)
- Ceiling vaulted like sky 261 with gilt stars on blue ground 751 f.
- Cerquand, J. F. 242
- Cesnola, L. P. di 723₂
- Chalcolithic remains 512₁ 513₁₂
- Chamois-dancers on 'baton de commandement' 703
- Chantepie de la Saussaye, P. D. 185₂
- Chapot, V. 571₂
- Charikles, D. A. M. 183₂
- Chariot, evolution of snake-drawn 227 evolution of solar 333 ff.
- Chariot of Artemis 244 f. Demeter 228 ff. 231₆ Dioskouroi 763 Elias, St 183 f. Eros 200, Hades 230₁ Helios 180 200, 226 f. 231₆ 238 248 259₆ (?) 293 293₃ 336 f. 338₂ 358₃; 392, 419 752 783 Luna 517₀, Men 642, Minerva 712₁, Nemesis 270 f. Pelops 260, Phaethon 337 419 Selene 449 (?) 358₃, 456 499 (?) 537 f. 752 Sol 517₀, Zeus 187₁₃, 338 338₂ 783 f.
- Charioteers who came to an untimely end 225₁ who lost a wheel 225₁
- Chariot-throne 213 ff. 216₃ 232 f. 338₂
- Charvet, J. 271
- Cheese, cakes of 421
- Chesney, Lieut.-Col. 589
- Chest, golden lamb in 405
- Children sacrificed to Moloch 723₁
— sine patre: Korybas 106.
- Chipiez, C. 416₁ 447₁ 476₂ 501₂ 594₁ 599₆ 619₁ 622₇ 623₁ 636₂ 636₃ 636₆ 641₁ 645₃; 704₁ 723₂
- Christ, W. 31₂ 191₁ 259₀ 444₆ 647₅ 657₁ 722₃ 734₁₁
- Christmas compared with Lenaia 681 grafted upon Saturnalia 693₁
- Chryseipliantine statues 2₂ 134 622
- Cicliains, C. 60₁
- Clarae, C. O. F. J. B. Comte de 708₁ 709₀ 713₂
- Clarke, E. D. 173₁
- Clarke, Somers 515₂
- Clay, A. T. 549₁ 580₁
- Clay in rites of Sabazios 392₁ in rites of Zagreus 655₂ 662 See also Gypsum, Mud
- Clément-Ganneau, C. S. 232 f. 420, 519 f. 551₂ 571₂ 721₁
- Cloud in semblance of Hera 198
- Cobet, C. G. 198₂
- 'Cock,' priest at Hierapolis in Syria called 592₀
- Cocks as part of Lycian symbol 300 on statue of Apollon at Anyklai 713₀ on wheel-base 331₁
- Cohansen, A. von 619₂
- Cohen, H. 713₁ 713₃ 714₁ 714₂ 714₃ 714₅ 715
- Collignon, M. 57, 118₁ 475₃ 494₀ 703₁ 704₀
- Collitz, H. 667₁ 669₂ 729₂ 730, 762₁
- Colossal building-stones at Ba'albek 562 ff. used in fertility-magic (?) 563₁
- Colossal statues Antiochos i of Kommagene at Nemroud Dagh 744 f. Apollon Mithras Helios Hermes at Nemroud Dagh 744 ff. Artagnes Herakles Ares at Nemroud Dagh 744 746 Helios at Rhodes 35₁ Herakles at Tarentum 36 Kommagene at Nemroud Dagh 744 f. Zeus at Olympia 2 f. 35 f. 42 Zeus at Tarentum 35 Zeus Oroniosides at Nemroud Dagh 744 ff.
- 'magnify' the god 563₃
- Colossal temples of Zeus 563 f.
- Colour of Poseidon's hair 2₂ of ritual garb 422 592₀ 648 of royal robes 58 of Zeus' hair 2₂
- Colours: blue for black 2₂ blue for purple 58 blue globe 33 41 ff. blue mantle 33 56 ff. blue nimbus 33 ff. purple cloak 107₁ 592₀ purple for red 58 purple waist-bands 109 red bust of wine-god 715₁ red for blood 58 scarlet cloak 523 white clothing 592₀ 648₁
- 'Colts,' priestess of Demeter and Kore called 442 784 priestesses of the Leukippides called 442 priest or priestess in Ptolemaic Egypt called 442
- Combe, T. 232₁
- Commelin, H. 469₇
- Comparetti, D. 481₁
- Compasses, invention of 724 f.
- Constabile, G. 99₇
- Constellations 754 f. 770 f. See also Zodiac
- Contenson, L. de 604
- Conway, R. S. 660₂
- Conze, A. 110 118 120₃ 319₁ 769₁ 769₂
- Cook, A. R. 508 f. 510₁
- Cook, E. N. 771₁₀
- Cook, S. A. 555₃ 582₁
- Corn, patch of sacred (?) 559
- Corn, wreath of 745 ep. 222
- Corn-crake (?) 344₁
- Corn-ears 68₃ (?) 74₆ (?) 213 ff. 222 228 f. 397₁ 503₀ 518 552 558 f. 565 569 572 584₂ 590 595 f. 598₂ 617 (?) 741 745 748
- Cornford, F. M. 139₃ 275₂ 420, 649; 650₁ 679 688₃ 723₃ 785 f.
- Corn-mother and corn-daughter 397 397₄
- Cornu capiae* of Acheloiotes 502, Amaltheia 501 f. Atargatis (?) 551₁₁ Ba'al-hammân 598₁ Berenike iii (?) 709; Dionysos 503₀

Cornu copiae (cont.)

- 670 Fortuna 272 goat-man 704₃ Herakles 502₀ Iakchos 670 Isis 271 Kabeiros (?) 108 Kommagene 745 Mercurius 714 Neilos 361 pantheistic Zeus 361 Plouton 502₀ (?) 504₁ Ploutos 220 670 Tyche 698₁ 709 f. 745 wife of Ptolemy Philometor Soter ii (?) 709₁ Zeus 501 f. 598₁ cp. 361
- Courby, F. 784
- Cousin, G. 18 ff.
- Couve, L. 475₃ 494₀ 654₀
- Cow suckles Zeus 660 665 785 tended like woman in child-bed 659 with moon on flanks 540 f. 740 See also Bull, Calf, Cattle
- Cow and moon 432₃ 455 f. 521 ff. 537 f. 543 625₅ 626 739 f.
- and sun 523
- 'Cow-herds,' Gortynians called 471 priest of Apollon called 442₀ priests of Dionysos called 441 457 f. priests of Hekate called 442₀ priests of Zagreus and the Kouretes called 442₀
- Cowley, A. E. 233₁
- Cow's head, silver 523 619₁ with stars on horns etc. 619₁
- Cow's horn 501 See also Bull's horns
- Cows, bronze 331 638₂ black 441 470 golden 441 581₁₂ cp. 523 three-coloured 470 variegated 468 violet 441 470 white 440 445 446 451 462 467 470
- Cows of Hera 445 675₅ Ilos 468 f. Io 236 438 ff. 462 739 Kadmos 469 539 ff. Pasiphae 464 ff. 740 Selene 537 f. 625₅ 626
- Cows, hekatomb of 447 sacrifice of 446 votive representations of 308 331 446 wooden effigies of 464 ff. 522 f. 740
- 'Cows,' children at Hierapolis in Syria called 442₁ 593₀ priestesses of Hera called (?) 441 451 453 453₅ worshippers of Dionysos called (?) 441 f. 784
- Cradle 530₀ 534
- Cram, R. A. 768₀
- 'Crane,' Delian dance called 481 f.
- Cranes and bull 482₀
- and solar disk (?) 482₀
- Crescent and star 235₂
- Creuzer, F. 63₀ 65 423₇ 438₃ 498₁ 604₁ 707₂
- Criobolium* 717₂
- Cripps, J. M. 173₁
- Croiset, A. and M. 451₁₅ 452₂ 734₁₁
- Crook 709 See also Lagobolion
- Crooke, W. 326₁
- Cross, 'Celtic' 291 crux ansata 590 f. 606₀
- Cross-roads 421 422₇
- Crow, eight-handed 304₃ of Kronos, the planet 626₀ three-legged 304₁₃
- Crowfoot, J. W. 587₄
- Crown, radiate 19 41₀ 60₃ 188 517₀ turreted 598₀ worn by priest 22 cp. 354
- Crown of Ariadne 492 f. Hera 532 624 Jupiter 41₅ 289₁ Nemesis 275 281 Sol 517₀ Theseus 492 f. cp. pl. xl, 4 Tyche 598₀ Zeus 19 188 736₀
- Crucifixion 211 693₁
- Crusius, O. 539₅ 722₁
- Crypt at Ba'albek 564
- Crystal of Selene 625 f.
- Cuckoo 134 f. 532
- Cumont, E. 592₀ 641₃ 641₄ 641₆
- Cumont, F. 59₁₀ 60₀ 190₃ 190₆ 191₃ 191₆ 192₁ 230₀ 238₀ 443₁ 502₀ 516₁ 518₁ 553₁ 565₂ 571₀ 582₅ 592₀ 598₁ 604₃ 607₁ 607₃ 607₄ 608₃ 608₆ 610₁ 631 641 f. 642₃ 706₃ 717₂ 742₅ 746₇ 746₃ 748₄ 754 754₁ 754₂ 758₀
- Cuper, G. 131₁ 457₅
- Cups, royal, decked with animal forms 406 406₃
- Curle, J. 289₃
- Curtin, J. 321₂
- Curtius, A. W. 549₂ 715₁ 715₀
- Curtius, E. 301
- Curtius, G. 115₅
- Cypress-grove 558 (?) 558₅ 648 f. 649₃
- Cypress-tree 134 517₀ 558 (?)
- Cypress-wood, coffin of 558₅ roof of 558₅ 648 sceptre of 558₅
- Dähnhardt, O. 172₀ 183₃ 184₁ 184₂
- Dalton, O. M. 36₃ 41₁ 51₀ 100₀ 745₁
- Dance, cyclic 480₂ géranos 481 f. kórdax 480 labyrinthine 479 ff. rope 480 square 480₂
- Dancers, goat-like 697 ff. 711 horse-like (See Horse-creatures) ram-like 704₃
- Dance-themes, mythical 481 495 f.
- Daumet, H. 102₁ 111₁
- Dates 378 745₁
- Davies, G. S. 60₃
- Davis, E. J. 594₁
- Davis, F. Hadland 530₀ 768₀
- Davis, Miss G. 437₁₀ 651₁
- Dawkins, R. M. 92₇ 100₇ 163₄ 216₃ 660₂ 694 694₁
- Dead, cult of the 93 ff. 458 508 ff. 523 737₀ 742 ff.
- Decharme, P. 33₁
- Déchelette, J. 225₁ 289₁ 289₂ 332₁ 333₅ 337₁ 478₇ 507 f. 507₃ 508₂
- Deecke, W. 476₂
- Deissmann, G. A. 233₀
- Delamarre, J. 195 269₃
- Delatte 785
- Delbet, J. 636₂ 636₃ 636₃
- Delehaye, H. 168₂
- Dell, J. 612 612₄ 614₁ 614₂ 614₃ 615₁ 615₂
- Demargne, J. 150₇ 729₄
- Demoulin, H. 457₄
- Deschamps, G. 18 ff.
- Desjardins, E. 616₁ 616₃
- Desor, É. 381
- Dessau, H. 59₁₁ 353₁ 366₁ 607₂ 608₂ 608₅ 608₀ 609₃ 609₅ 609₉ 611₁ 630 630₂ 630₃ 630₄ 630₅ 630₆ 633₁ 633₂ 753₂
- Deubner, L. 169₁ 678₀ 697₃
- De-Vit, V. 100₁₁ 156₇ 609₁ 609₃
- Dew daughter of Zeus by Selene 732₅ son of Aer by Mene 732₅ thickest at full moon 733

- 'Diablotins' on 'bâton de commandement' 703
 Diadem, priestly 354 cp. 22
 Diels, H. 480₃ 664₁
 Dieterich, A. 18₃ 53, 165 f. 168₂ 188₁ 299₀
 339 396 442₁ 581 592₀ 655₂ 675 f. 680
 687₃
 Dieulafoy, M. 745₁
 Dillon, E. 624₅
 Dilthey, K. 655₁
 Dindorf, L. 355₂ 622₁₀
 Dindorf, W. 452₅ 457₅ 583₁
 Disk, magic 285₁
 Disk, solar 205 ff. 291 ff. 341 569 (?) 571
 617 (?) 620
 — in pediment 259 292 ff.
 Dithyramb 680 ff. 733
 Dittenberger, W. 17₂ 362₀ 420₀ 442₇ 442₈
 668₃ 719₀ 716₀ 717₂ 727₁ 729₂ 729₃
 742₅ 744₃ 746₁ 746₂ 746₃ 748₄ 762₄
 Divination at Ammoneion 355 357 at Ba'al-bek 357 552 f. at Hierapolis in Syria 357 in Kypros (?) 654₄
 — by fire 657₁ by stars 758 ff.
 Divining-glass 128
 Divining-rod 282₇
 Divining-rods 745₁ (?)
 Divining-wheel 285
 Divinity of king (see King) of queen
 591₂ of Zeus 14
 Djinn 571
 Dobree, P. P. 686₁
 Dodwell, E. 101₁ 101₃
 Doerpfeld, W. 480₁ 513₅ 533₂ 751₈
 Dog 455₇ 542₁ 542₂ 677₄ 698₁ 704₂ 709
 712₂
 Dókana 766 ff.
 — structures resembling 767₁
 Dolphins 336 344 472 570₄ (?) 721
 Domaszewski, A. von 554₁ 598₀ 598₁ 610₃
 616₁ 616₃ 617₂ 618₁
 Dombart, B. 281₅ 282₁ 282₂ 282₃ 282₄
 Donaldson, T. L. 44₃ 293₃ 558₀ 567₂
 Donne, W. B. 555 f.
 D'Ooge, M. L. 708₁
 Dottin, G. 639₂
 Doublet, G. 549₀
 Doves of Aphrodite 39₁ 741 of Aphrodite, the planet 625₅ 626 626₀ of Semiramis 583 of Zeus at Dodona 39₁ 364 367 of Zeus in Oasis of Siwah 364 f.
 367 f.
 — on Hittite pillar-altar 587₄ on ram's head 364 365₃ (?) 368 on standard at Hierapolis in Syria 583 f. 586 f. on standards of Assyrian kings (?) 584₀ — feed Zeus 182 sacrificed to Moloch
 723₁ worshipped in Syria 583₄ 584₀
 593₀
 'Doves,' priestesses of Zeus called (?) 443
 Dowser 282₇
 Dragon devouring its own tail 192₁ slain by St George 178₀ 782
 Dragons flee from Midsummer fires 286
 Dragon-slayer 178₀ 540 782
- Drama, comic, at Anthesteria (?) 687 f.
 precedes tragedy at City Dionysia
 682 f. later attached to Lenaia 682 f.
 689 and Rural Dionysia 689
 — the origin of 682 f. 687 690₀ 785
 Drama, satyric 695 ff. at Chytroi (?) 688₂ in Crete (?) 534 f. in north Greece (?)
 694 in Ionia and Pontos (?) 679₁ at
 Thebes in Boiotia (?) 654
 Drama, tragic, based on Dionysiac ritual 680 not of dithyramb 680 ff. but of Lenaia 672 ff. 681 f. precedes comedy at Lenaia 683 later attached to City
 Dionysia 682 f. and Rural Dionysia
 689 at Panathenaia (?) 688₂ in Crete
 662 f. 673
 — the origin of 665 ff. 688 689₅ 694 f.
 699
 Dress, change from masculine to feminine
 591₂ 593₀ Thracian 655
 Dressel, H. 59₀
 Drexler, W. 102₅ 149, 271₄ 346₁ 346₃ 346₅
 357₄ 360₇ 431₆ 431₈ 445₂ 454₂ 454₃
 454₇ 533₀ 549₅ 553₂ 553₃ 603₇ 642₁ 642₃
 706₂ 721₁ 730₀ 741₅ 742₁
 Drinking-horn 108 500
 Driver, S. R. 445₁
 Droop, J. P. 92 96₂ 511₃
 Drosinos 623
 Drovetti, B. 379₁ 387₅
 Dubois, J. J. 698₂
 Dubois, M. 194 f.
 Du Cange, C. d. F. 52₇ 169₄
 Ducks 331 332₁
 — as part of Lycian symbol (?)
 300 f.
 Dufour, M. 444₀
 Dugas, C. 255₃
 Duhn, F. von 58₂ 59 59₅
 Dümmler, F. 525₃ 730₇
 Dumont, A. 95₃
 Duplication of Dionysiac festivals 690 ff. of goddess 396 ff.
 Durand, J. 485₂
 Durandus, G. 286 f.
 Durm, J. 293₃ 480₁ 482₁ 484₀ 562₃ 563₄
 564₁ 752₀
 Dussaud, R. 334₀ 500 f. 549₅ 551₂ 553₃
 554₁ 555₅ 558 561₄ 565₂ 567₇ 567₈
 569₁ 569₃ 570₄ 571₁ 571₂ 572₁ 572₄
 573₁ 574₂ 576₁ 576₄ 581₇ 604 604₃
 604₄ 619₄ 645₂ 706₂ 783
 Dütschke, H. 449₅
- Eagle bears caduceus of Hermes 564 f.
 bears thunderbolt of Zeus 164₁
 Eagle of Elagabalos 604 of Indra 341₇ of Jehovah (?) 232₁ of Sandas 596 600
 602 604 of sun-god 565 600 602 604 of Sūrya 341₇ of Zeus Lýkaios 83 ff.
 88 ff. of Zeus Masphalatenós 732 of Zeus Olympios 102₄ 103 f. 117₁ of Zeus Oromásdes 746 748 of Zeus
Térsios 596 of Zeus, the planet 625₅
 626 626₀

- Eagle on altar 713 on branch 90 f. on bull's head 611 f. on column 66 83 on globe 628 in pediment 259 on pillar 34 f. 35₀ 612 on pine-tree 91 on pyramid of Sandas 600 602 604 on pyramidal roof of Zeus Kásios 602 on ram's head 365₃ on rock 90₀ on sceptre 590 596 623 on snake 191 f. on standards 617 on stone of Emesa (?) 604
- Eagle as form of Zeus 105 f. 164₁ placed among stars by Zeus 164₃
- Eagles kept at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀ look at sun 104₁
- 'Eagles,' worshippers of Mithras called 443
- Early Iron-age remains 507 638 f.
- Earp, F. R. 485₁
- Earth-mother as correlative of sky-father 779 f. differentiated into Demeter and Kore 396 f.
- Earthquakes 3₁ 14₁
- Eater of this or that, deity described as 657 (Dionysos Ometés) 673 (Dionysos Taurophágos) 673₃ (Dionysos Moschophágos) 717₃ (Zeus Aigophágos)
- Ebeling, H. 3₅ 14₁
- Eckhel, J. 152₃ 235₅ 373₁₂ 403 558₅ 586₄ 706₄ 713₅ 714₂ 715₃ 753
- Egg 279₁ 584₀ 785
- Eight years' servitude of Kadmos 540
- Eiresióne* 339 341
- Eisele 390 391₃ 391₄ 391₅ 392₄ 399₃ 400₅ 403₀ 425₂
- Eisler, R. 8₀ 58₃ 59₀ 264₁ 358₁ 519₈ 742₁ 748₃ 783
- Eitrem, S. 351₄ 352₀ 429₄ 624₁ 738₁₂
- Elderkin, G. W. 475₁
- Elephants draw Augustus in chariot 548 honorific 768₀ horned 511₁
- Emasculation 394 f. 591₂
- Emeralds 355 f. 583₂
- Emeralds of Amen-Râ 356 f. of Atargatis 583 of Ba'al-hammân 355 ff. of Herakles 356 of Melqarth 356 of Zeus 356 of Zeus Ammon 357
- Engelmann, R. 258₃ 455₁
- Enneeteris* of Poseidon 181₀
- Éntheos*, twofold sense of the word 673
- Enthronement 153 398 646 f. 650 661 710 f.
- Epiphany, carnival-plays at 694
- Erfurd, C. G. A. 198₁
- Erman, A. 206, 206₂ 241₂ 266 316₂ 341₀ 341₈ 347₁ 358₃ 436₁
- Erman, G. A. 186₂
- Escher-Bürkli, J. 253₂ 414₃ 438₀ 499₀ 524₇ 526₁ 527₀ 531₃ 538₇ 711₀ 737₇
- Eunuch priests 334 f. 592₀ 593₀ cp. 591₂
- Euphemism 726
- Euthanasia 450 f.
- Euting, J. 232₅
- Evans, Sir A. J. 148₂ 148₃ 150₁ 161 f. 401 401₅ 428 473 f. 477 478₅ 479 479₃ 481₂ 499 499₂ 501 506 f. 602₀ 622₇ 623₄ 643₅ 645₁₂ 649₃ 660₂ 704₀
- Evans, Sir J. 620₁
- Evil eye 720₁ 721
- Faber, T. 674₂
- Fabricius, E. 118₃
- Falcon 341
- Falls, J. C. Ewald 784
- Farnell, L. R. 19₃ 80₁ 102₃ 117₂ 194 f. 258₄ 275 283 f. 394 ff. 396 f. 399₃ 422₂ 422₃ 438₅ 445 453₀ 455₁ 498₂ 498₃ 502₄ 502₅ 504₁ 519₈ 520₂ 524₃ 525₅ 542₃ 543₂ 545 f. 624₁ 624₄ 624₆ 651₄ 659₀ 666 666₀ 667₃ 668₁ 673 678₄ 679₃ 682₂ 684₅ 686₅ 687₁ 687₂ 689₅ 690₄ 692₄ 692₀ 709₂ 713₀ 716 785
- Fawn-skin in rites of Sabazios 392₄ worn by Zeus (?) 736₀
- Feather head-dress 297 386 387 389 620
- Feet, bare 542₀
- Felicianus, I. B. 443₁
- Felkel, Dr 638
- Fennel-stalk as fire-stick of Prometheus 323 in rites of Sabazios 392₄
- Fennell, C. A. M. 259₀
- Fergusson, J. 490₂ 763₀
- Fertility-rites 258 394 ff. 684 ff. 703 f.
- Fick, A. 63 100₁ 148₃ 156₃ 242₈ 345 f. 400₂ 531₃ 537₁ 639 642 f. 690₄
- Figs 688₇
- Fire-cone 569₁ (?)
- Fire beneath sacred oak 365 burns hand of Zeus 702₀ in rite of purification or initiation 211₃ kindled at midsummer 180 285 ff. 338 f. 341 525 on head of Egyptian king 496 on portable hearth or altar 338₂ stolen by Prometheus 323 ff. touched by Satyr 702₆
- Fire-bearers at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀
- Fire-drill 325 ff.
- First-fruits 669₃
- Fischer, W. 81₀
- Fish 279₄ 472₁₀ 583₄ 588 592₀ 687₃ 725
- Fleeces, black 407₄ 646 668 f. coloured 403 f. 406 419 golden 403 ff. 405 ff. 412 ff. 414 ff. 420 ff. of Zeus 422 ff. cp. 348 417 419 ff.
- Flogging as religious rite (?) 211 of boy (?) 659₂ of Saturnus' victim (?) 693₃ of Satyr 659₂ of young women etc. 677₄ on wheel 209 f.
- Flood at Hierapolis in Syria 584₁ 591₃
- Flour sacrificed to Moloch 723₁
- Flowers on coin of Argos 624₁ on coin of Hierapolis in Syria 587₇ on sheath of Jupiter Heliopolitanus 569 572 (?) 573 575 (?) 576 (?) strown on mountain for Zeus and Hera (?) 348₁
- Flute-player 504 699₀ 700 700₄
- Fly 469₇ 532 See also Butterfly, Gadfly
- Foerster, R. 230₁
- Footprints of Nandi 637 of Sisyphos' cattle 639
- Forester, T. 678₁
- Forrer, R. 41₂ 41₃ 178₀ 488₇ 507₃ 638₁ 638₂ 724₀
- Forster, E. S. 660₂
- Fossey, C. 420₀

- Foucart, P. 16₁ 16₅ 16₆ 17₁ 17₄ 19₃ 730₆
 Foucher, A. 293₃
 Fougères, G. 233₁
 Foundation-myths of Ammonion 363 ff.
 367 f. Cretan town(?) 468 Dodona
 363 ff. 367 Gordyene 237 Ilion 468 f.
 Ione or Iopolis 236 f. Tarsos 236
 Thebes in Boiotia 469 539 ff.
 Foundation-sacrifice 450
 Fountain of the Sun 368 381 f.
 Fowler, W. Warde 3₂ 271 f. 285₃ 285₅
 469₁ 678₀ 693₁ 712₂ 786
 Fox-skins 655₁
 Fränkel, C. 696₆ 697₁ 697₃
 Fränkel, M. 119₀ 442₁
 Frauberger, H. 556₂ 564₃
 Frazer, J. G. 1₃ 12 13₁ 17₂ 23₆ 59₂ 66 f.
 75₀ 79₁₄ 79₁₅ 79₁₆ 121₂ 137 ff. 175₀ 177₀
 178₀ 231₈ 260₁ 278₃ 283₂ 286 287 f. 287₁
 288₃ 324₃ 325₃ 326 f. 326₃ 330 343₃ 343₄
 345 394₁ 395 397₁ 422₂ 430₀ 445₅ 449₁
 450₈ 467₂ 469₄ 491 f. 496₃ 496₅ 522₈ 524
 535₀ 540₃ 541 554₄ 594₁ 595₁ 601 601₃
 609₅ 622₁₀ 646₂ 649₁ 650₀ 650₁ 651 671₀
 673₁ 673₈ 674₃ 676 676₃ 686₆ 692₂ 693₄
 708₁ 710₅ 711₈ 711₀ 726₁ 727₁ 736₂ 775₁
 Frickenhaus, A. 86₃ 445₇ 454₀ 624₁ 666₁
 667₀ 671 671₂ 671₃ 671₄ 671₈ 671₉ 684₀
 686₅ 686₆ 707 707₀
 Friederichs, K. 268₂ 535₂ 708₁
 Friedhof 178₀
 Friedländer, L. 168₁
 Friedländer, P. 453₅
 Fritze, H. von 533₂
 Frobenius, L. 313₈
 Froehner, W. 552₁ 698₁ 713₄
 Frothingham, A. L. 645₂ 645₄ 645₆
 Fruits, astringent, and Zeus, the planet
 626₀
 Funeral feast 662 737₀ jars 469₇ 766₀
 Furtwängler, A. 36 36₃ 87₉ 99₉ 202₁ 202₂
 204₂ 216₂ 216₃ 220₁ 222₀ 226₀ 251₁ 252₄
 252₅ 268₂ 271₁ 274 292₁ 319 350₃ 357₂
 357₁ 362₅ 474₂ 474₃ 495₁ 499₁ 499₄ 499₅
 526₁ 623₄ 670₆ 696₄ 697₁ 697₃ 701₂ 701₅
 702 703₄ 704₀ 704₂ 721₄ 741₅ 761₆ 764₅
 764₆ 766₁₀ 767₀ 769₁ 769₂
 Gabrici, E. 512₂
 Gad-fly 439 441 532
 Gaedechens, R. 764₁
 Gaidoz, H. 197₂ 267₄ 285₅ 286₁ 288
 Gaisford, T. 423₁
 Galeozzo, Commendatore 698₁
 Ganschinietz, R. 783
 Gardner, E. A. 226₁ 708₁ 768₀
 Gardner, P. 194₁ 204 232 254₄ 281₁ 296₈
 301₅ 304₆ 402 449₁ 467₂ 527₁ 599₄ 600₇
 624₃ 624₄ 670₃ 674₃ 710₅ 712₁ 712₂ 712₃
 713₀ 720₂ 783
 Garnett, Miss L. M. J. 104₁ 175₀ 450₈
 Garrucci, R. 598₁ 620₀ 764₅ 785
 Garstang, J. 87₅ 136 362₇ 584 584₂ 586₅
 587₄ 595 595₀ 598₃ 600₀ 604₁₀ 605₁
 635₁₂ 636₂ 636₃ 636₃ 639₃ 640₄
 Gateways, Chinese 768₀, Egyptian 205 f.
 Hittite 636 Indian 768₀, Japanese 768₀,
 Phoenician 206 f. Syrian 564 f.
 — protected by winged disk 206 turn trees into temples 768₀
 Gauckler, P. 477₁ 551₂ 785
 Geldart, E. M. 239₅
 Gelenium, S. 73₀
 Gelzer, H. 136
 Georgeakis, G. 450₈
 Gerber, A. 102₅
 Gerhard, E. 60₁ 212₁₅ 223₈ 226₁ 298₄ 330₁
 358₃ 368₃ 429₄ 468₈ 494₁ 535 623₁ 627
 628₃ 628₄ 696₅ 715₄ 725₅ 735₄ 766₅ 766₆
 766₇ 766₈ 767₀ 768₂ 768₃ 768₄ 768₅ 770₂
 770₄
 Gerhard, G. A. 442₆
 Gerland, G. 239₀ 523₆
 Gesenius, W. 308
 Giant, corpse of 544₀
 Gilbert, O. 343₂ 420₃ 545₁ 578₃ 690₁ 771
 777₄
 Gildersleeve, B. L. 254₁
 Giles, H. A. 768₀
 Giles, P. 24₀ 104₂ 107₂ 224 f. 423₂
 Ginsburg, C. D. 232₁ 233
 Ginzel, F. K. 690₂
 Giraldu Cambrensis 678
 Girard, J. 681₁ 686₅
 Globe, blue 33 41 ff. surmounted by cross
 52 surmounted by Victory 52 winged
 235₂
 Glover, T. R. 168₂
 Glue of bull's hide 648 f.
 Gneecchi, F. 268₄ 268₆ 713₄ 713₅ 781
 Goat as sacred animal in Crete 401 501
 703₃ among Dinka tribes 509 at Ikarria
 678 711 at Mendes 347₈
 Goat of Apollon 712₇ Dionysos 502 673 ff.
 688₇ 706 ff. 713 Tešub (?) 605₁ Zeus
 112₃ 150 501 529₄ 665 706 ff.
 Goat sacrificed as human being 711 by luperci 677₁ in clothes of maiden 711₀ to Artemis 711₉ to Dionysos 709 to St Elias 186 to Tešub 641₀ to Vediovis
 711 717₃ to Zeus 347 717₃
 Goats danced round 678 711 devoured
 665 f. hung on trees 592₀ ridden by Cupid 713 by Dionysos 713 by Eros
 354 713₂ by Jupiter 713 f.
 Goats, wild (agrini) 501 704₄ See also Chamois
 'Goats,' luperci called 677₁
 Goats, foreparts of, on wheel-base 331 worn by dancers 703₄
 Goat's horn 501
 Goat-creatures: Satyroi 696 ff. 702 Tity-roi (?) 704₃
 Goat-skin inflated (ἀσκολιασμός) 689₁ stylised 701 worn by Bakchai 665₃ 704 worn by dancers 703 f. worn by luperci
 677₁
 God and worshipper bearing the same name 395₃
 Godwin, T. 723₁

- Goetling, K. W. 307₆
 Goetz, F. L. 421₉
 Gold in relation to Helios 625 f. 626₀ cp.
 336 to Zeus 626₀ 632 to Zeus, the planet 626₀ See also Mines
 Golden bust of M. Annii Verus 715 calf made by Aaron 581 calf sacrificed by Zeus 581 calves set up by Jeroboam
 581 statue of Adad 582 f. statue of Atargatis 582 f. statue of Hera 582 f. statue of Zeus 582 f. tablets from Orphic graves 650₀ 675 ff. thunderbolt from Ashur 581
 Gomme, G. L. 239₄
 Gong 592₀
 Gonzenbach, L. 786
 Goose 279₁
 Gordon, General, of Cairness 441₀
 Gorlay, A. 268₂
 Gow, A. S. F. 485₁
Grabphalli 53₁
 Graef, B. 204₂ 475₄ 476₁ 706₅ 707₂
 Grail, the Holy 243
 Grailot, H. 766₂
 Granger, F. 581₈
 Grapes 4₂ 374 400 502 503₀ 518₀ 595 f.
 598₂ 602 670₀ 745 748
 Gray, G. B. 500₄
 Green, F. W. 432₂ 515
 Griffin 223 270 276 281 297₂
 Griffith, A. S. 206₁ 241₂
 Grimm, J. 184₃ 185 f. 197₇ 268₁ 287₁ 321₃
 321₁ 739₇
 Grimm, W. 312₁ 313₈ 320 323
 Grove of Ares 416 417₁₄ of Argos 458 of Diana 273 ff. of Nemesis 273 ff. of Rhea 649₃ of Zeus 511₁ of Zeus
Amários 16 of Zeus Ammon 364 ff. of Zeus Náios 365₂ of Zeus Némeios 558₅
 Grueber, H. A. 194₁ 712₁ 712₃ 713₁
 Grünau, C. von 379₇
 Grundy, G. B. 175₀
 Gruppe, O. 1₃ 9₁ 16₄ 23₀ 58₇ 63₆ 78 80₃ 81₂
 99₁ 104₂ 107₂ 111₁ 111₅ 111₆ 112₅ 137₁
 149₁ 168₂ 169₃ 188₁ 191₁ 212₁₄ 226₃
 227₆ 227 f. 228₂ 233₀ 237₁ 238 257₅
 271₂ 273 290₂ 292₄ 310₀ 311₅ 331₀ 333₅
 343₁ 343₂ 343₃ 344 348₁ 351₂ 352₁ 353
 353₅ 360₀ 394₅ 395₀ 402₀ 422₂ 422₄ 435
 438₁ 438₆ 446₀ 453₈ 455 455₁ 462₁₅
 463₃ 464₃ 469₇ 480₃ 502₂ 502₄ 502₅ 504₁
 519₃ 522₄ 531₃ 532₂ 538₇ 539₅ 542₃
 543₂ 603₃ 604₃ 622₃ 624₀ 624₁ 624₆ 626₀
 640₂ 640₃ 642₁ 642₃ 650₁ 666₀ 673₈ 677₁
 679₁₃ 690₁ 692₂ 692₆ 710₁ 713₀ 733 735₃
 738 739₀ 754 758₆ 759₆ 760 763₄ 771
 Gruter, J. 714₁
 Gubernatis, A. de 395₂ 429₃ 456₃ 549₁
 622₈ Guillaume, E. 636₂ 636₃ 636₈
 Gull 241₁₄ 344₄
 Gundel, W. 548₉
 Gurlitt, W. 570₄ 572₃ 573₁ 576₂
 Gypsum, image of, containing heart 662
 Orphic votaries smeared with 655₂
 Gypsum (cont.)
 Titans smeared with 656₀ 679 See also Clay
 Haddon, A. C. 214₂ 291₁ 478₇
 Hahn, J. G. von 171₅ 197₆ 239 343₄ 412
 414 414₂
 Haigh, A. E. 248₅ 479₁ 666₂ 667₀ 683₃
 699₈
 Hair dedicated at puberty 23₀ 593₀ to Artemis 24₀ to Dymanian Nymphs
 144 to Hippolytos 593₀ to Zeus Paná- maros 23 ff. to Zeus Téleios and Artemis 25₁
 Hair, hero's life in 344 hero's strength in 343₃ mode of wearing 23₀ 93 peculiar
 432 436 f.
 Halbherr, F. 526₃ 645₄
 Hall, H. R. 297₃ 354₃ 362₇ 362₈ 363₁ 472
 515₅ 632₃ 635₁₂ 636₂
 Halliday, W. R. 211₃ 654₄
 Hamdy Bey 742 744 745₂ 746₃ 748₁ 748₂
 748₃ 748₄ 750₁
 Hamilton, J. 379 382₄ 387
 Hamilton, Miss M. 167₂ 168₂ 171₄ 172₀
 172₁ 172₃ 173₀ 175₅ 175₁ 179₀ 180 180₀
 181₃ 182 f. 338₅ 338₆
 Hands, A. W. 232₁
 Hanging 211 726
 Hansen 690₄
 Hanssen 282₄
 Hares 526₂
Hárpe 441₁
 Harper, E. T. 579₃ 579₄
 Harris, J. Rendel 157₃ 169₁ 172₅ 177₀ 645
 651₄ 663₃ 664₄ 760₇ 763₄ 771 775
 Harrison, Miss J. E. 24₀ 37₁ 84₁ 206₄ 240
 259 329 330₅ 337₁ 351 358₃ 422₂ 423₁
 423₂ 426₂ 427₁ 453₆ 458₂ 459 459₃ 467₂
 469₇ 474₂ 483₀ 500₅ 512₀ 512₂ 533₂ 634₆
 649₅ 649₇ 650₀ 650₁ 652₂ 655₂ 670 670₆
 670₇ 681₄ 687₂ 696₃ 697₄ 698₁ 707₃ 708₁
 720₄ 723₃ 768₀
 Hartland, E. S. 554₄ 759₀
 Hartmann, R. 592₀
 Hartung, J. A. 63₄ 63₆
 Hartwig, P. 307₆ 697 698₁ 702
 Hasluck, F. W. 112₅ 394₃
 Hassenstein, B. 379₇
 Haug, F. 178₀ 619₁
 Haupt, M. 149₁
 Hauser, A. 120₃
 Hauser, F. 129₃ 425₅ 425₀ 426 426₁ 427₂
 474₂ 474₃ 526₁ 697₃ 698₁ 701₅ 783
 Haussoullier, B. 483₁₁
 Hauthal, F. 774₂
 Hauvette-Besnault, A. 549₀ 550₇
 Hawk in Argive mythology 440
 Hawk of Apollon 241 626₀ of Helios 240 ff.
 626₀ of Horos 241 341 of Jehovah (?) 232₁ of Julian 783 of Kneph 241₂ of Osiris 241 of Rá 241 of Seker 241
 'Hawks,' worshippers of Mithras called 443 Hazzidakis, J. 161

- Head, B. V. 19 70 91₅ 117₀ 208₅ 232 235₄
 254 275₂ 281₁ 296₁ 305₁₁ 305₁₅ 306₅
 353₃ 372₅ 372₀ 402 403₀ 449₁ 463₂ 463₆
 478₄ 495₀ 497₁ 503₀ 504₆ 504₇ 527₁ 530₂
 531₀ 534₁ 535₀ 538₅ 542₀ 548 548₂ 548₃
 548₄ 571₂ 584₀ 586₂ 590₂ 590₃ 590₅ 596₁
 598₁ 599₁ 599₂ 600₇ 602₄ 602₀ 623₅ 624₃
 624₄ 637₁ 637₂ 652₃ 660₃ 660₄ 660₅ 661₁
 706₃ 713₀ 715₂ 720₂ 720₅ 729₅ 732₀ 742₂
 752₂ 752₃ 753 753₃ 753₅ 753₀ 785
- Headlam, W. 58₂
- Heart of Liber in image of gypsum 662
- Hearth, cult of 330 portable 338₂
- Heberdey, R. 597₄
- Hecker, A. 455₀
- Heiss, A. 309₁ 637₀
- Helbig, W. 57₁ 57₂ 57₃ 57₉ 99₈ 202₂ 204₅ 243₃
 312₂ 427₁ 471₂ 476₃ 476₃ 659₂ 725₅
- Helmet 235 571 575 f. 618 f. horned
 511₁
- Hemsterhusius, T. 526₄
- Henderson, G. 178₀
- Henninius, H. C. 289₁
- Henry, V. 639₆
- Henzen, W. 567₅ 753₂
- Hepding, H. 394₁ 395₀ 399₃ 717₂
- Heracleian knot 398
- Hermann, G. 559₁
- Hermolaus Barbarus 693₄
- Heron 341₈ 344
- Héron de Villefosse, A. 119₂ 288₃ 289₁
- Herrlich 203₃
- Herrmann, P. 57₄ 202₃ 203₃ 464₅ 465₀ 670₇
 698₁ 713₂
- Hertlein, F. 178₀
- Hertz, W. 81₀ 81₂
- Herwerden, H. van 235₀ 421₂ 468₈ 531₀
 531₃ 547₂ 686₃
- Hettner, F. 100₀ 178₀ 289₁
- Heuzey, L. 101₂ 101₃ 102₄ 103₅ 111₁ 113₆
 114 580₆
- Heydemann, H. 47₂ 466₀ 499₃ 502₀ 512₃
 592₀ 697₃ 698₁ 701₁ 702₀
- Heyne, C. G. 726₃ 735₃
- Hicks, E. L. 443₃ 597₄
- Hieropoioi* at Delos 669₂ Mykonos 668
- Hild, J. A. 678₀
- Hill, G. F. 19₆ 22₁₃ 69₃ 70₄ 192₃ 281₁ 281₂
 281₃ 304₁ 305₀ 307 356₂ 478₁ 527₁ 530₂
 534₃ 545₀ 571₂ 599₃ 600₇ 602₄ 624₃ 768₀
- Hiller, E. 366₇
- Hiller von Gaertringen, F. 117₁ 141 142₃ f.
 143₁₀ 144 372₈ 686₅ 705₀ 784
- Hind (?) of Isis 620
- Hind, head of, on 'bâton de commandement' 703
- Hirschfeld, G. 210₇ 552₁ 667₄
- Hirschfelder, W. 268₁
- Hirt, H. 1₁ 1₂ 244₀ 291₁ 430₃ 484₀
- Hitzig, H. 622₁₀
- Hoeck, K. 524 539₃
- Hoernes, M. 291₁ 325₃ 430₃ 507₃ 512₁
- Hoeschel, D. 701₂
- Höfer, O. 18₃ 18₅ 18₇ 19₃ 20 20₅ 20₈ 74₄
 75 149₁ 164₆ 297₃ 343₄ 344₄ 351₇ 369₂
- Höfer, O. (cont.)
 425₃ 503₁ 504₂ 519₇ 595₀ 604₁ 642₃ 711₀
 726₀ 726₈ 741₀
- Hoffmann, G. 519₇
- Hoffmann, O. 16 107₂ 111₃ 400₃ 527₀ 681₄
- Hogarth, D. G. 150₂ 446 478₀ 571₂ 587₉ 588₃ 588₅ 589 594₁ 640₄
- Hogg, H. W. 190₃
- Holder, A. 273₆
- Holland, H. 101 103₅
- Holland, R. 343₂ 725₃
- Holzinger, C. von 299₂ 547₂
- Hommel, F. 741₄
- Homolle, T. 447₄ 482₁ 729₃ 761₆
- Honey 469 469₇ 470 591₂
- Hope, T. 501
- Hopf, L. 242₅ 242₇ 264 264₇
- Hopfner, T. 783 f.
- Hopkins, E. W. 240₆ 329₁ 333₃
- Hornemann, F. C. 377₁ 378 383 384₄
- Horns as ritual furniture 506 ff. 649₃ forming altar 482 513 784 grasped 499 ff. harden corn 502₃ in earthenware 513₁₂ in stone 513₁₂ of altar 507 (see also Altar, horned) of bull and of moon 539₃ of consecration 506 ff. 649₃ of Seleukos 511₁
- Horoscope of Antiochos i of Kommagene 748 750
- Horses destroy heroes 75 flung into sea by Illyrians 181₀ by Rhodians 181₀ honorific 768₀ horned 511₁ kept at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀ solar 333 ff.
 used in taurokathápsia 497 f.
- Horses of Demeter 231₆ of Helios 231₀
 332 f. 784 of Hera 231₈ of Zagreus
 398 of Zeus 338₂ 784
- Horses on 'bâton de commandement' 703
- Horses sacrificed to Helios 180 332 f.
 338₂ to Iupiter Menzana 180₅ to the winds 180₅ to Zeus Taletitas (?) 181₀
- 'Horses,' officials of the Iobakchoi called 442 officials of the orgeñnai of Euporia etc. called 442
- Horse-annulets 336
- Horse-creatures: Satyroi 696 701 f. Silenoi 696 f. 699 701 f.
- Hoskins, G. A. 379
- Houghton, W. 265
- Hound, golden 720₁ See also Dog
- Housman, A. E. 727₃
- Hovelacque, A. 745₁
- How, W. W. 362₇
- Huddilston, J. H. 250 f. 251₁ 252₁ 512₃
- Hülsem, C. 53₅ 194₁ 244₂ 608₂ 608₄ 610₄
 611₁ 768₀
- Hulst, Mrs C. S. 178₀
- Hultsch, F. 16₄ 54₃
- Human sacrifice 70 ff. 75 76 ff. 245₃ 415 ff.
 465₁ 491 519 651 652 ff. 657₁ 659₃ 659₄
 675 693₄ 695 722 723₁ substitutes for 417 651 659 659₄ 661 f. 695 711 (?) 711₀
- Humann, K. 118 139 606₆ 606₇ 742 742₅
 744₁ 744₂ 744₃ 744₄ 745₂ 746₆ 746₇ 746₂
 746₃ 748₁ 748₂ 748₃ 748₄ 750₁ 750₄ 750₅

- Hunt, A. S. 190₁
 Hutton, Miss C. A. 86₁
 Hyacinth 625 f.
- Ideler, S. 378₄
 Ihm, M. 273₆
 Ilberg, J. 345₄
- Imhoof-Blumer, F. 68₅ 68₉ 69₁ 69₄ 70₂
 117₀ 278₂ 297₂ 298 449₁ 467₂ 503₆ 527₁
 535₄ 542₆ 586₃ 586₄ 586₅ 586₆ 590₁ 590₃
 590₄ 590₅ 597₄ 598₁ 600₂ 600₃ 600₄ 602₄
 604₃ 623₅ 637₆ 642₁ 670₃ 674₃ 704₀ 706₃
 706₄ 710₅ 713₆ 742₁ 742₂ 753₂ 785
- Immerwahr, W. 63₆ 73₀ 76₂ 372₋
 Immisch, O. 107₂ 241₁₄ 650₃
- Immortality conferred by milk of Hera 624
- Impaling 211
- Impersonation of Adonis by priestly kings or princes 651 of Aphrodite by Iobakchoi 679₁₇ of Bakchai by women 657₁ of Boukoloi by dancers 679₁ of Demeter by empress etc. 228 228₄ of Dionysos by Antinoos 714₀ by Iobakchoi 679₁₇ by king (?) 709₁ by priest 710 of Dioskouroi by Aristomenes and friend 764₆ of Epiktes by woman 537 of Hera by heroines (?) 248 453 f. by priestesses 22 453 f. of Herakles by king (?) 709₁ of Iupiter by emperors 43₃ 46 f. 276₅ 751₃ by triumphing general 58 f. of Kabeiroi by emperors 108₃ 715₂ of Kore by Iobakchoi 679₁₇ of Korybantes by dancers 679₁ of Mithras by king (?) 742₅ of Palaimon by Iobakchoi 679₁₇ of Panes by men and boys 657₁ of Satyroi by dancers 679₁ by men and boys 657₁ 696 f. of Titans by dancers 679₁ of Triptolemos by emperor etc. 228 228₄ of Tyche by king 744 746₀ of Zagreus by human victim (?) 657 of Zeus by emperors 278 547 f. 781 (?) by great man 280 by heroes 139 (?) 247 f. (?) 527₁ (?) 737 (?) by kings 57 f. 279 f. 742₅ 748 ff. by poet 131 131₂ by priest 22 by prince 51 547
- Impregnation by means of dew 733 by means of fire 651₀
- Inauguration of kings in Tirconnell 678
- Incubation 407₄ 503 522₁ cp. 593₀
- Inghirami, F. 707₂
- Initiates as husbands of the deity 394 ff. 649₇ as wives of the deity 396 become one with their deity (ἐνθεοί) 673
- Initiation at Eleusis (?) 423 ff. by fire (?) 211₃ in rites of Sabazios 392₄ of Zagreus 648 ff. of Zeus Idaios 648 ff.
- Initiation of the Dioskouroi 219 ff. of Herakles 219 ff.
- Iron, double axe of 648 f. meteoric (?) 632₃ sky made of 632₃ tabooed 649₄ terrestrial in relation to celestial 632₃ See also Mines
- Iron and the planet Ares 625₅ 626 626₀ and the planet Hermes 626₆ and Iupiter Dolichenus 630 ff.
 'Island-stones' 703 f. cp. 500
- Ivy worshipped as Dionysos 671₀
 Ivy-leaves or -sprays 565 654 671 707₂
 Ivy-wreath in rites of Dionysos 374 671₀
 672 672₄ 672₆ 697₅ 699₀ 707₂ 715 of Liber 693₄ of Orphic Dionysos (?) 655 of Sabazios (?) 392₄
- Íynx*-wheel 226 243 253 ff. 296 342 783
- Jablonski, P. E. 432₋
- Jackdaw of Ares, the planet 626₀
- Jacobssohn, J. K. G. 775₄
- Jacoby, F. 72₂ 73₀
- Jahn, O. 59₅ 60₅ 60₆ 63₀ 95₃ 253₁ 336₃
 512₃ 526₁ 530₃ 531₁ 634₇ 640₀ 696₇ 698₁
- Jaisle, K. 763₁ 764₆ 766₂ 772₃ 775 775₂
 775₃ 775₈ 775₉
- Jal, A. 775₀
- James, E. B. 588₁
- Jameson, R. 305₁₄
- Jan, L. 73₀ 234₄ 436₃
- Janiform deity on coins of Mallos 297 f.
- Jastrow, M. 207₀ 237₁ 549₅ 553₅ 576₄ 578 f.
 578₁ 580 f. 580₂ 580₃ 581 603₃ 606₁ 644₂
 644₃ 645₇ 645₈ 755₁₁ 756₂ 756₃ 756₄
 756₅ 771₂
- Jebb, R. C. 198₁ 324₁ 502₁
- Jenner, Mrs H. 40₃ 233₅
- Jennings-Bramley, W. 379₋
- Jensen, P. 579 579₃ 595 755₁₁ 759₄ 771₂
- Jeremias, A. 230₀ 549₅ 553₃ 576₄ 579₃ 605₂
 639₃ 645₇ 645₈ 756₅ 771
- Jessen, O. 17₂ 32 107₋ 290₂ 541₆ 542₃ 640₁ 670₂ 695₈ 706₂ 721₅
- Jevons, F. B. 211₃ 397₄
- Johns, C. H. W. 553₃ 577₄ 632₃
- Joly, N. 325₃ 326₃
- Jomard 379₋
- Jones, H. Stuart 659₂
- Jordan, H. 53₅ 58₁ 194₁ 271₇ 608₂ 608₃
 608₄ 611₁ 677₄ 712₁ 714₄ 768₀
- Jordan, W. 379₆ 380
- Judeich, W. 149₁ 666₅ 668₀ 726₈ 727₁
- Julius, L. 708₁
- 'Jupiter-columns' 178₀
- Jurgiewicz, V. 63₆
- Kabbadias, P. 360₉ 360₁₀ 361
- Kaegi, A. 329₁
- Kaibel, G. 5₄ 453₈
- Kalkmann, A. 204₂
- Kan, A. H. 604₈ 604₉ 606₇ 607₁ 607₂ 607₃
 607₄ 608₂ 608₃ 608₅ 609₂ 609₃ 609₉ 610₂
 610₄ 610₅ 611₁ 611₂ 611₆ 612₃ 612₄ 614₁
 614₂ 615₀ 615₁ 615₂ 616₁ 616₃ 617₂ 618₁
 619₁ 619₃ 620₄ 620₅ 628₃ 628₄ 629₁ 630
 630₃ 630₉ 631₁ 631₂ 633₁ 633₂
- Kandidatus* 608₃
- Karo, G. 646₁ 762₀
- Kay, C. de 240₅
- Kekulé von Stradonitz, R. 86₃ 279₄ 280₀
 598₁

- Keller, O. 222₆ 273₆ 347₁ 527₁ 600₂ 600₃
600₄ 604₅ 623₅ 704₆ 785
- Kemble, J. M. 287₁
- Kennett, R. H. 425₂ 599
- Kenyon, F. G. 67₃ 190₂ 234₁ 234₄
- Keraelkeis* 506
- Keratesseis* 506
- Kerler, D. H. 182₇ 775₅
- Kern, O. 109 f. 176₁ 222 f. 225₀ 339₅ 441₅
442₁ 450₆ 502₂ 664₁ 671₉ 681₁ 690₁ 704₃
717₂
- Kestós* of Aphrodite Ourania 583 of Atargatis 583
- Kid, Adonis-worshipper as 675 Dionysos as 674 f. Dionysos-worshipper as 675 ff. Orphic votary as 675 ff. 785 represented on altar 707 See also Goat
- Kiepert, H. 610₁ 611₁
- King, L. W. 262₆
- King as priest 8 595 641₀ 651 called Zeus 247 (?) 545₅ 547 (?) 662 737 (?) divinity of 131 139 547 f. 587 held responsible for weather and crops 79 pretends to be animal 678 cp. 496 put to death in time of drought etc. 79 substitute for life of 79 f. 651
- Kings of Corinth regarded as embodiments of Zeus (?) 247 f. 737 of Egypt masked as lions, bulls, snakes etc. 496 of Pontos swear by Tyche Bastileos and Men Pharnákou 642 of TircConnell, inauguration of 678
- Kingsley, Miss M. H. 323₄
- Kips, A. 118₄
- Kirchhoff, A. 233₇
- Kiste* of Demeter 425 of Dionysos 565 684₀ of Iupiter Heliopolitanus (?) 552₂ of Sarapis 360
- Klaproth, H. J. von 186₁
- Klein, W. 92₇ 494₁ 696₇ 710₃
- Klement, K. 170₃
- Kluegmann, A. 202₁ 202₂ 712₁ 712₃
- Kluge, F. 243₃ 775₀
- Knaack, G. 310₁ 343₁ 453₇ 453₈
- Knielauf* 204₄ 296
- Knuckle-bone as symbol at Tarsos 596
- Koch, M. 118₁
- Koehler, R. 786
- Koehler, U. 667₄
- Koldewey, R. 512₃
- Kondylakes, I. D. 163
- Kontopoulos, K. 83
- Koraes, A. 16₅ 16₆
- Kornemann, E. 550₀
- Koerte, A. 4₂ 53₁ 136
- Koerte, G. 53₃ 261₁ 261₂ 262₁ 690₀ 702
- Kortleitner, F. X. 230₆ 555₃ 723₁
- Kourouniotes, K. 81 81₄ 81₅ 82₁ 83 83₂ 84
87 87₈ 87₉
- Kramer, G. 16₁ 16₃ 16₆ 667₄
- Kratér* in rites of Sabazios 392₄
- Krause, E. 485₃ 488 489 489₁ 489₂ 489₃ 489₄
- Krecker, D. 562₂
- Kreokopia* of Apsyrtos 680 Liber 661 f. Pelias 245 679 Pelops 679 ram 245
- Kreokopia* (cont.)
Romulus 656₂ 694₀ Zagreus 657 ff.
694₀ cp. 661 f.
- Kretschmer, P. 400₁ 696₆ 696₇ 697₁ 697₂
697₄
- Kroll, W. 264₆ 758₀
- Kteis* 634₇
- Kubitschek, W. 268₁ 633₁ 714₀
- Kugler, F. X. 755₁₁ 756₃
- Kuhn, A. 242 313₈ 323 325 329₁ 330₁
330₃ 333₃ 333₅
- Kuhn, E. 237₁
- Kuhnert, E. 696₃ 697₅ 701₄ 702₆
- Kumanudis, S. A. 668₃
- Küster, E. 784
- Küster, L. 362₁ 675
- Labatut, E. 634₇
- Laborde, A. de 226₇
- Labyrinth, distribution of 490 evolution of 472 ff. as design on state robes of emperors 484 as mosaic in basilica at Orléansville 484 as mosaic etc. in continental churches 485 f. 490 as stone maze in northern Europe 488 ff. as turf maze in Great Britain 486 ff. 490 See also Index I
- Lady Day compared with City Dionysia 681
- Lafaye, G. 188₁ 209 ff.
- Lagarde, P. de 746₂
- Lagercrantz, O. 697₄
- Lagobólon* 736₀ See also Crook
- Lagrange, M. J. 496₁ 508₁
- Laistner, L. 199₃
- Lajard, F. 208 209₃ 262₃ 558₄ 558₅ 572₁
577₀ 590₂ 590₄ 605₂ 649₁
- Lalanne, G. 500
- Lamb, golden 405 ff. 430 467 purple 405 f. 467 scarlet 404 white 763
- Lambropoulos, A. 624₁
- Lamp, perpetual 170
- Lang, A. 496₃
- Langdon 580₄ 580₅
- Langlès 377₁ 377₂ 377₃ 377₄ 377₅ 378₂ 378₃
378₄
- Langlois, V. 597₄
- Lanzone, R. 346₁ 347₂ 348₃ 348₄ 431₇ 431₈
437₁ 497₂ 515₄
- Larcher 432₃
- Larfeld, W. 608₆
- Lattermann, H. 705₀
- Latyschew, W. 668₃
- Lauer, J. F. 64₃
- Launay, L. de 632₃
- Laurel See Bay
- Lawson, J. C. 81₁ 115₀ 168₂ 171₄ 173₀
175₀ 338₅ 343₃ 412₂ 450₈ 694
- Layard, A. H. 207₃ 207₄ 577₅
- Lead figures from Ba'albek 570₂ divining wheel 285 in relation to Hermes, the planet 626₀ to Kronos, the planet 625 f. 626₀
- Leaf, W. 25₁
- Leake, W. M. 371₂

- Leap, Lencadian 344 ff. Trojan 483₀
 Le Bas, P. 193₃ 642₄ 730₆ 742₅
 Lec, S. 550₃
 Leemans, C. 623₃
 Legrand, A. 666₀ 697₁
 Lehmann, P. 750
 Lehmann-Haupt, C. F. 188₁ 188₂ 233₀
 584₀ Lenormant, C. 212₁₅ 214 216 218 223₈
 335₅ 699₀ 754₂
 Lenormant, F. 173₁ 175₀ 227₂ 227₃ 402
 423 426₀ 465₁ 569₃ 659₁ 666₀ 707₂
 Leonhard, W. 394₂ 641
 Leonine deities 571₂
 Leopard 398₄
 Lepsius, C. R. 233 362 387₂ 523₃
 Leroux, G. 474₃
 Leubuscher, R. 81₀
 Lévesque, P. C. 253₁
 Levezow, C. v. 714₀
 Lévy, I. 106₂ 188₁
 Levy, M. A. 552₃
 Lidzbarski, M. 519₈
 Lightning, ball- (?) 773
 Lightning as the arrows of Ilya 184 as the eye of Kyklopes (?) 313₈ as the eye of Zeus 196₆ as the lance of Ilya
 184 in relation to the sun 578 f. 578₃
 Lightning, man struck by, thought lucky 186 or divinised 459₄
 Lightning-charm 259
Liknon in rites of Demeter and Persephone
 426 of Sabazios 392₄
 Lilies in relation to Ammon 623 Aphrodite
 623 Hera 624 Iupiter Dolichenus 616
 621 ff. cp. 620 Persephone 623₀ Selene
 (?) 336 Tinia 622 f. Zeus 622 f. 736₀
 Zeus, the planet 624 ff.
 Limbs, votive 645 f. 646₁
 Lincoln, F. W. 268₅
 Lindsay, W. M. 677₄
 Lion, honorific 768₀ lunar 456 f. solar 230 f. 235 (?) 571₂ 625₅ 626 star-spangled 748 750 winged and horned
 599 f.
 Lion, fore-part of, worn by dancer 704₀ by kings of Egypt 496 metamorphosis into 687₃
 Lioness 429₄ 599₀ 603
 Lions of Atargatis 553 Chippa 526₂ Gennaios 571₂ Gilgames 645 Helios 625₅
 626 Kirke 242₈ Mother of the gods
 553 Nemea 456 f. Phanes 311 398₄ Zagreus 398 Zeus 398₄ Zeus, the planet 626₀
 Lions kept at Hierapolis in Syria 592₀ represented at Nemroud Dagh 746 748 at Tarsos 596
 'Lions' and 'Lionesses,' worshippers of Mithras called 443
 Lion-skin on which Herakles sits 426
 Lippert, P. D. 538₀
 Littres, gods carried on 552 609₄
 Littmann, E. 519₇ 519₈ 520
Lituos 86 f. 90 f. 636 636₈ 641₀
 Lobeck, C. A. 234₁ 311₄ 311₅ 311₀ 321₁
 398₃ 421₁ 457₅ 625₃ 647₂ 647₃ 656₀
 Loescheke, G. 617₂ 618₂ 619₃ 620 620₃
 620₇
 Lorichs, G. D. de 309₁
 Lorimer, Miss H. L. 214₂
 Lotos-buds 645 770 770₁
 Lotos-column 768 770
 Lotos-flower 574
 Lotos-work 336
 Love-charm 253 ff.
 Löw, I. 725₂
 Lucius, E. 168₃
 Luckenbach, H. 761₃
 Ludwig, A. 67₃ 626₀ 631₈
 Ludwig, E. 282₁ 282₄
 Lüpke, T. von 556₃ 556₄ 556₀ 559₂ 560₁
 561₁ 562₁ 563₃ 564₂
 Luschan, F. von 742 748₄
 Luynes, Honoré d'Albert duc de 232₁
 599₄ 622₁₁ 707₂
 Lyeian symbol 299 ff. 342
 Maass, E. 144 169₂ 175₂ 321₁ 350₇ 442₇
 667₃ 785 f.
 McClean, J. R. 217₁ 291₄ 305₁₄ 306₂ 371₂
 532₀ 601₅ 661₁
 MacCulloch, J. A. 239₃ 321₂ 639₂
 Macdonald, G. 102₅ 232₁ 278₅ 463₂ 497₄
 527₁ 601₀
 Macdonell, A. A. 240₀ 329₂ 333₃ 341₇ 718₁
 Mackay, E. 472₁₀ 507₃ 619₄
 Mackrodt 68₂ 113₈
 McLean, N. 555₃ 599 599₁ 782
 Macpherson, J. R. 177₀
 Macridy, T. 442₃ 745₁
 Madden, F. W. 293₃ 296₂
 Madder 625₅ 626
 Maddox, H. E. 325
 Maeander-pattern 475 ff.
 Magic 11 ff. as an expression of will-power 11 f. in relation to personality 12, not prior to religion 13, 776 in Homeric poems 14₁
 Magical circles 243 dances 703 f. disks 285₁
 783 drums (?) 650₁ horn (?) 500 rattles (?) 512₀ ring 329₀ shield (?) 512₀ stones
 445₀ 563₃ wand 441₁
 Magician, rôle of 12 Zeus as 14₁ 758 776
 Mahaffy, J. P. 772₃
 Mai, A. 324
 Malan, S. C. 178₀
 Malten, L. 350₀ 372₀ 782
Mana 12, 634
 Mannhardt, W. 63₄ 63₀ 287 287₁ 288₁
 333₃ 523₀ 677₄
 Marcellus, Count de 197₄
 Mare, sacrifice of white, in Tirconnell 678
 Marette, R. R. 9₂ 12₁ 27₄
 Mariette, A. 434₁₄
 Marindin, G. E. 482₂ 717₂ 733₁
 Markland, J. 555₃
 Marquand, A. 292₈ 480₁ 751₀

- Marriage of Dionysos with Basilinna at Athens 67₂ 686 709 f. of Hitite father-god with mother-goddess 604₁₀ of Kadmos with Harmonia 540 of Phrygian mother-goddess with worshipper 394 ff. of Sky and Earth in Crete 526 ff. 543 in Greece 733 in India 718₁ of Sun and Moon in Crete 521 ff. 543 of Zeus with Europe in Crete 526 ff. 543 with Hera at Argos 22₄ in Crete 522 f. on Mt Ide 708₃ at Panamara 21 f. of Zeus Sabázios with worshipper 396
- Marshall, F. H. 81₄ 285₁ 336 628₂
- Martin, T. H. 772₃ 773
- Martini, E. 758₆
- Marucchi, O. 610₃
- Masks in Carnival-plays 694 at Rural Dionysia (?) 688; in Satyr-plays 700₄ 701₅ cp. 697₅ in Tragedy 678₅ votive, from Antheion (?) 697₅
- Masks of Dionysos 671 of Minotaur 490 ff. of Zeus 56₄
- Maspero, Sir G. 197₇ 208₃ 262₆ 308₂ 314₆ 315₆ 315₆ 316₂ 341 341₅ 341₆ 341₈ 350₆ 362₇ 362₃ 363₁ 387₂ 432₁ 434₁₄ 496 553₅ 576₄ 579 635₁₂ 636₂
- Matz, P. 153₅ 222 708₁ 709₁
- Mau, A. 57₄ 203₃ 465₀
- Maundrell, H. 588
- Maury, L. F. A. 64₃ 66₁ 103₂
- May-day festival, Carnival-plays at 420₁ 694 miller and sweep at 689 690₀ protomaiá at 338 f.
- May-garland 338 ff. 492 525
- May-pole 291 339 526₀
- Mayer, M. 76₃ 227₆ 289₁ 298₃ 302₅ 320 344₄ 410₇ 462 497₄ 655₂ 671 722₅ 723₁ 727₂ 733₁₀ 734
- Mayor, J. B. 366₂
- Mayor, J. E. B. 59₃ 283₀
- Maze evolved from swastika 476 f. See also Labyrinth
- Megalithic remains 490
- Meineke, A. 280₃ 280₄ 461₆ 660₀ 702₁ 717₃
- Meissner 207₆
- Mekler, S. 726₁
- Meltzer, H. 355 ff. 361₇
- Menant, J. 209
- Merklin, L. 726
- Merkel, R. 727₃
- Merry, W. W. 320₀
- Messerschmidt, L. 594₁ 604₁₀
- Metamorphosis into animal sometimes implies animal-priesthood 453 into birds 727 See also Shape-shifting
- Metamorphosis into ant 533₀ babe 398 f. bear 422 bull 393 398 f. 438 f. 458 f. 464 468 472 499 527₀ 535₁ 537₁₁ 544 647 660 f. 681₄ 736 739 f. cow 438 ff. 445 451 453 453₃ 455₇ 462 470 532 540 f. (?) 549₃ 675₅ 739 f. dog 455₇ dove 367 583₄ eagle 164₄ 279₃ 344 527₁ (?) 532 544₀ 755₆ fish 279₄ 584₀ fly (?) 532 533₀ gad-fly (?) 532₁₀ goat
- Metamorphosis (cont.)
- 674 f. goose 279₄ 760₂ gull 241₁₄ hawk 241 342 725₂ heron 344 horse 398 kid 674 f. lamb (?) 412 414 leopard 398₄ lion 398 398₄ man with bull's horns 398₄ partridge 342 f. 726 ff. peacock 440; puppy 455₇ quail 544₀ rain 414 ram 370₁ 418₀ 419 422 f. 428 430 467 (?) 675₅ Satyr 734 ff. sea-eagle 344 serpent 112₃ 113 270₅ 279₄ 358 f. 392 394 396 398 398₃ 401 402 (?) 403 428 shepherd 104 star 544₀ 760 778 stone 440; stranger 79₀ swan 279₄ 760₂ 763₃ 770 tiger 398 vulture 106 working-man 79₆ wryneck 440₇ youth 398 Zeus 398 f. 647
- Metempsychosis 687₃
- Meteorites 520₂ 521₀
- Meyer, E. 19₃ 64₃ 71₂ 190₃ 237₁ 308₂ 345₁ 347₂ 354₂ 354₄ 354₀ 435 553₃ 553₄ 595₁ 604₃ 616₁ 722₀
- Meyer, E. H. 1₃ 199₂ 321₃ 333₃
- Meyer, L. 273₆ 299₂ 328₁ 345₆ 438₁ 534₁ 634₇ 687₆
- Meyer, R. M. 333₃
- Meyer, W. 485₃ 496₂
- Mice eat gold 632₅ eat iron 632₅ in rites of Zeus Sabázios 424 f. cp. pl. xxvii pursued by Glaukos 469
- Michaelis, A. 42 128₇ 173₁ 204₂ 502₀ 769₁ 769₂
- Michel, C. 424₁ 668₃ 672₄ 715₆ 716₀ 762₄
- Michel, K. 175₁
- Midsummer fires 180 285 ff. 338 f. 341 525
- Migliarini, A. M. 358₃ 741₅
- Migne, J. P. 106₂
- Milani, L. A. 53₃ 53₄ 467₂ 592₀ 645₁ 645₆ 704₂
- Milchhöfer, A. 145 704₀
- Miles, C. A. 693₄
- Miliarakis, S. 527₁
- Milk of Hera confers immortality 624 in Dionysiac rites (?) 676 f. in rites of Iuperci 677₄ in Orphic rites 675 ff. 785 ritual boiling of 676 785 f.
- Miller, W. 480₁
- Millet 638
- Millin, A. L. 501₆ 590₄
- Millingen, J. 625₃
- Minervini, G. 39₁ 671
- Mines, gold- 632 cp. 418 iron- 630 ff. silver- 631 f.
- Mint 257₆
- Minutoli, H. von 366₃ 379 382₅ 383 384 385 387
- Mionnet, T. E. 558₅
- Mirror as toy of Liber 661 held by eagle on Mt Olympus 104
- Mirrors, Etruscan 204 622 f. 623₁ 735₄ 766 ff. Greek 247
- Mithraic cult modified into solar monotheism 166 myth reconstructed from monuments 516 ff.
- Mogk, E. 116₃

- Möller, H. 541₂
 Mommsen, A. 220₁ 421 672₄ 673 676₅ 681₂
 681₃ 682₂ 683₂ 683₄ 683₅ 684₅ 686₂ 686₅
 686₆ 687₂ 687₄ 689₂ 693 693₃ 733 733₁
 Mommsen, Th. 103₁ 109₃ 608₈ 630₈ 690₂
 693₄ 712₃ 782
Mondbilder or Mondsichel 507
 Montagu, H. 712₃
 Montelius, O. 620₂
 Montfaucon, B. de 192₁ 235₁ 235₂ 268₂
 289₁ 450₁
 Months, intercalary, in oktaeteris 692 in trieteteris 690 ff.
 Montlezun 572₁
 Moon as cow 236 470 (?) 521 ff. as eye of Horos 315 of Nut 314 of Zeus 197
 Moon called by many names in France,
 Germany, Greece 739 identified with Zeus 197 cp. 400₅ 730 f. 731₁ in relation to Zeus 730 ff. regarded as masculine 730₉
 Moon, man in the 470
 Moon and bull 431 455₅ 455₆ 455₇ 455₈
 456₁ 518₂ 539₃
 Moon-charm (?) 253₃
 Mordtmann, J. H. 742₅
 Morell, A. 538₅ 785
 Moret, A. 496
 Morgan, J. de 205₁
 Morin-Jean 620₆
 Mosaic at Athens 480 at Brading 56₃ 782 at Palermo 735₄ from Pompeii 56₂ from Sarsina 56₂ of Minotaur 477₁
 484 ff. 489 f.
 Moser, G. H. 457₅
 Mosso, A. 479₃ 497₂ 507₃ 513₁₂
 Mother-kin, shift from, to father-kin
 396
 Moulton, J. H. 10₁ 190₃ 190₄ 240₁ 741₄
 744₃ 745₁ 746₃ 781
 Mountain as birth-place of Zeus 148 ff.
 731₁ 776 as burial-place of Zeus 157 ff.
 777 cp. 742 ff. as marriage-place of Zeus 154 ff. 776 f. as throne of Zeus 124 ff. 776 dedicated to Zeus 102₅ 520₂ represented by pyramid (?) 603 by zikkurat 603
 Mountain-cults of Hathor 515 of Zeus
 117 ff. 776 cp. 399₃
 Mourning for Isis 581₁₂ for ram 348
 Mouse See Mice
 Movers, F. C. 603₃
 Mud, bull-shrine of 508 ff. See also Clay
 Muelder, D. 320₉ 322 741₀
 Mulberry-tree 470
 Mules 448₂ 696₃
 Müller, C. 72₂ 72₃ 74₆ 302₅ 367₇ 452₄ 541₅
 Müller, G. A. 178₀
 Müller, H. D. 63₆ 459
 Müller, K. O. 64₃ 66₁ 228₄ 345 345₂ 616₃
 619₃ 698₁
 Müller, L. 90 92₄ 301 371₃ 373 373₁₂
 502₇
 Müller, S. 289₁ 430₃
 Müller, W. Max 635₁₂
 Muncker, T. 419₀
 Munro, N. Gordon 291₁ 302₁ 305₀ 482₀
 Münsterberg, R. 617₂ 617₃ 618₁ 618₂
 Mure, Col. W. 155 f.
 Murray, A. S. 494₁
 Murray, G. 14₁ 15₄ 15₅ 258₅ 634 649₇ 650₀
 677₂ 680 f. 680₄ 686₅ 695 f. 705
 Musgrave, S. 459₇
 Musurus, M. 677₀
 Myers, F. W. H. 283₀
 Myres, J. L. 472₁₀
 Myrrh 591₂
 Myrtle-wreath at Argive festival 446₃ at Hellotia 525 of Europe 525 of Herra-
 kles 220
 Mysteries at Agra 219 ff. in Crete 402
 646 ff. 690 ff. at Eleusis 219 ff. 609 on Mt Helikon 672 on Mt Kithairon 672 at Melite 219 ff. in Mykonos 668 on mountains of Odrysaï and Thracians 672 on Mt Olympos 107 110 f. at Panamara 21 in Phrygia 390 ff. at Tralleis 535₀
 Mysteries of Demeter 443 668 of Deo 650₀ of Dionysos 166 441 f. 457 672 690
 692 f. of Hera 21 of Io 535₀ of Mithras
 442 f. 516 ff. of Morges 646 of Orpheus
 166 654 f. 695 of Pythagoreans 166 of Sabázios 113 390 ff. 650₀ of Semele
 695₃ of Zeus at Tralleis 535₀ of Zeus
Idaios, the mountain-mother, and Zagreus 402 648 ff. 663 ff.
 Mysteries denounced by Herakleitos 667₄ tended to overthrow cult of Olympians 166
 Mystics See Initiates
 Naber, S. A. 461₁
 Nail-driving on Graeco-Phoenician vase
 724₁
 Nails, bronze 719 723 f. tabooed 649
 Names of animals borne by priests and priestesses 441 ff. 451 cp. 675 ff.
 Names, new, given to officials of Eleusiniau mysteries 609 to performers in rites of Iobakchoi 679₁₇ to priests of Jupiter Dolichenus 609
 Narcissus 625 f.
 Nauck, A. 461₁ 461₆ 537₁₁ 648₁ 726₄
 Naville, E. 206₁ 348₄ 358₅
 Negelein, J. von 66₅
 Neolithic remains 489₄ 512₁ 513₁₂
 Neubauer, A. 232₁ 233
 Neumann, F. 586₅
Neurispasta 591₃
 Neustadt, E. 492 529₄ 784
 Newton, Sir C. T. 129₃
 New Year, Carnival-plays at 694
 Nicole, G. 496₂ 700₅
 Niemann, G. 120₃ 140
 Nilles, N. 180₂ 182₃
 Nilsson, M. P. 18₃ 18₅ 20₂ 21 21₁₃ 446₇
 447₁ 498₂ 498₃ 498₄ 525 525₅ 526₀ 533₂
 534₃ 554₄ 667₃ 668₂ 669₃ 717₂

- Nymphs* 250 571 751₂ (?) blue 33 f. 40 f. radiate 517₂, 572₁, 620 ep. 541₂
- Norton, R. 589
- Nurses of Dionysos 111 111₂, 671 f. 674₂, 785 of Hera 115 of Zeus 111 f. 529 f.
(See also Zeus Myths)
- Nutt, A. 244₂
- Nuttall, Z. 478₂
- Oak, evergreen (φρῆγός, ilex) 364 400₁ 472 727₂ (?) wild (πρῶταλος) 533 other species of 365₁
- Oak-tree in Circæan Plain 533 in Crete 472 527₁ at Dodona 364 f. 368₂, 369 at Gortyna 172 in Oasis of Siwah 364 ff.
401 in Phrygia 400₁ 401
- Oak-tree of Ares 116 117₁ of the earth-mother 1; of Perdix (?) 727₂; of Zeus 1;
of Zeus Ammon 364 ff. 401 of Zeus
Iapetos 400₁ 401 of Zeus Ighkaios 71
76 f. 87 of Zeus Niños 364 f. 368₂, 369
- Oak-tree, kinship of Arcadians with 77 on sarcophagus of Kleobis and Biton 119
- Oak-wreath of Jupiter 41₂
- Oaken spear of Kadmos 540
- O'Donnell, E. 782
- Odours on head of Egyptian king 496
- Oehler, F. 282₁
- Ogress 313, 321₂ 657 f.
- Ogress 313.
- Ohnefalsch-Richter, M. 553₂, 598₁ 649₁
723₂ 724₁
- Oklasma* 700₁
- Olek, F. 649₁
- Oldenberg, H. 333₂
- Olearius, A. 186
- Olive-branch as virescens 339
- Olive-tree in Oasis (?) 365 at Tyre 530₂
- Olive-tree of Athena at Troy 533 of Io 440 of Telete (?) 535
- Olivieri, A. 750₂ 758₂
- Olympians, worship of, shaken by three great movements 165 ff.
- Omnophagy 108 f. 648₁ bovine 650 659 ff.
673 695 hircine 665 f. human 165₁ 491
551 (?) 651 ff. 657₁ 661 f. 679 (?) 694₂
695 porcine (?) 664₁
- becomes men banquet 695
- Omphalós* in Ammonicon 355 ff. 521₂ at Athens (?) 670₂; at Chalkis sub Libano
521₂, at Delphoi 262₁ at Sclenkeia
Pieria 521₂, at Tyre 356
- O'Neill, J. 177₂
- Oppé, A. P. 60₂ 132.
- Orchestra* at Athens 480 at Knossos 479 f.
490 at Taormina 480 f. at Thorikos 480
- Orelli, J. C. 753₂
- Orada* 12₁
- Oriental cults tended to overthrow worship of Olympians 166
- Orosi, P. 513₂ 645₁
- Ozgan Effendi 742 744₁ 745₂ 746₂ 748₁
748₂ 748₃ 748₄ 750₁
- Otherworld-visit, the, in Celtic tales 239
243 f. 303 in Greek tales 239 239₂, in Indian tales 239₂, in a Mongolian tale
239₂ in The Thousand and One Nights 2
Otto, W. 272.
- Overbeck, J. 31₁, 37₁, 91₂, 96 99₁, 117₂, 128₂, 128₃, 223, 226₂, 261₁, 361 f. 371₂, 374 403₂,
418₂, 426₂, 459₂, 472₂, 512₂, 520₂, 526₁, 547₂,
604₁, 611₂, 612₂, 616₁, 616₂, 619₂, 623₁, 624₁,
666₁, 670₂, 707₂, 708₁, 709₂, 712₂, 712₃, 712₄, 713₂, 713₁, 711₂, 711₃, 736₂, 752₂, 753₁
- Overbeck, J. J. 555₁
- Owner-marks on cattle of Sisyphos 639;
- Oxen, white 148 white with golden horns
110 See also Bulls, Cattle, Cows
- Oxen buried for the procreation of bees
511 f. 518₂ 532 devoured by Bakehoi
665 (see also Omnophagy, bovine) lifted en route for sacrifice etc. 503 ff. raised over altar 503₁ sacrificed to Athena 533 540 to Attis 717₂; to Dionysos 469₁,
659 711 715₂, 716₂, to Gaia 511 to Hera
446 f. 451 to Luna 455; to Mithras
516 ff. to Moloch 723₁; to Poseidon
717₂ ep. 506₂; to Zeus 82 338₂ 467 511,
545 717 717₂ suspended on olive-tree
533 to kill, a capital offence 469
- 'Oxen,' children called 593₂
- Ox-herds 643₂ See also 'Cow-herds'
- Ox-hide See Bull's-hide
- Ozanam, A. F. 484₁
- Pacho, J. R. 373₂
- Paget, R. E. F. 205₁
- P'ai-fang* or P'ai-lou 768₁
- Palace, Labyrinth as 474 f. of Ammonian king 369 ep. 389 of Hades 259₁ 296₁ of Kron 296₁ of Lykourgos 259₁ of Zeus 114 disks or shields suspended in 296 wheels suspended in 259₁ 296
- Palaeolithic remains 500 703 705 711
- 'Palettes,' Egyptian 358₂ 619₁
- Pallat, L. 480₂
- Palm-tree 500 (?) 592₂
- Palmerius, J. 622₁₀
- Pamofka, T. 32₂, 108₁ 199 320 336₁ 337
357₁ 466₂, 640₂, 708₁
- Pan-pipes 441₁
- Pantheistic types 361 429₁
- Panther 599₂
- Pantheress 566
- Pantinus 657₁
- Panzer, F. 288₁
- Papabasileiou, G. A. 123₂
- Papadakes, A. 163
- Papadopoulos-Keramevs 176₁
- Paribeni, R. 507
- Parthenium* 727
- Parthey, G. 233 353₂, 362 369₁ 377₁ 377₂
377₃ 377₄ 377₅ 377₆ 378₂ 378₃ 378₄
378₅
- Partridge 726 ff.
- Paruti, P. 91₁
- Pashley, R. 147 158 ff.
- Passow, A. 412₂

- Patroni, G. 202₃
 Paucker, C. von 301
 Peacock 440₇
 Pears (?) 745
 Pear-tree 453₃
 Pediments decorated with moon and stars
 628 with snaky or fishy figures 293₅
 449 with solar symbols 292 ff. 392₁
 637 (?) with wreath 627
 Peet, T. E. 513₁₂
 Pellegrini, G. 693₁
 Pellerin, J. 586₄
 Penka, K. 401₅
 Pennethorne, J. 752₁
Perdicium 727
 Perdrizet, P. 104 f. 269₃ 271₅ 400₅ 554₁
 565₂ 572₂ 572₄ 574₁ 642₁ 720₄
 Pernice, E. 495₁ 742₁
 Perrot, G. 446₄ 447₄ 476₂ 501₂ 594₁ 599₆
 619₄ 622₇ 623₄ 636₂ 636₃ 636₅ 641 645₃
 704₆ 723₃
 Petavius, D. 461₆ 461₇
 Peter, R. 271₇ 285₄
 Petersen, E. 671₉ 684₉ 686₂
 Petrie, Sir W. M. Flinders 266 346₅ 363
 472₁₀ 507₃ 619₄ 632₃
 Pettazzoni, R. 109₁
 Peyrony, D. 703₃ 703₃
 Pfuhl, E. 339 422₈ 733₃
Phalara 336
Phallos 53, 107 f. 258₂ (?) 351₃ 394 f. 396₁
 429₄ 534₁ 591₂ 591₃ 592₀ 623 634₇ 649₅
 682 f. 684 ff. 688 690₆ 693₄ 784 combined with bull's head 634; ending in ram's head 429₄ ithyphallic equine figures 696 f. ithyphallic hircine figures 697 ff.
 Philpot, Mrs J. H. 530₆
 Phoenix 341
 Phylaktou, K. K. 781
 Physical explanation of myths 410
 Picard, C. 785
 Piccolomini 625₅
 Piccolos, N. 196
 Pickard-Cambridge, A. W. 667₀ 683₃ 699₃
 Pietschmann, R. 346₂ 347₂ 347₃ 347₆ 350₁
 350₀ 354₄ 354₄ 434₁₁ 437₅ 623₃
 Pigeon 587₄
 Pig eaten sacramentally in Crete (?) 664₁ nurtured infant Zeus 150 653 785 sacrificed to Demeter 668 669₂ to Zeus
Bouleis 668 717₃ to Zeus Eubouleis 669₂ 717₃ to Zeus Lykaios 82 tail of, pulled to scare Telônia 774 used for purification at Eleusis 426 worshipped at Praios 653 See also Boar, Sow
 'Fig,' priestess of Demeter and Kore called (?) 784
 Pilcher, E. J. 232₁ 236₁
 Pillar on couch 662 behind throne 34
 520 f. beside throne 34 f. on throne 147 f. cp. 662 (pillar-thrones) beside tree 535 ff. 646₀
 Pillar of Dionysos 671 672₀ of St George
 177₀ 178₀ of Hera 453₃ 463 (?) of Io
 237₁ of Judas 184 of Mother of the Pillar (cont.)
 gods 148₂ of Zeus as described by Euhemerus 662 of Zeus at Tarentum
 35 of Zeus on well-mouth at Naples
 34 f. of Zeus in Pompeian painting 34 of Zeus on Roman gem 35 of Zeus on Attic vase 279₄ of Zeus on Apulian vases 36 ff. 409 of Zeus on Campanian vase 39 f.
 Pillars, two, of Esmun 354 of Zeus
Lykaios 66 83 f. linked together 767₀ surmounted by stars etc. 767₀ with serpents twisted round them 354
 Pillar-altar of Hittites 587₄
 Pillar-thrones of Crete 662 of Tyre 782
 Pimpernel 626 cp. 625
 Pinches, T. G. 262₀
 Pineau, L. 450₈
 Pio, J. 412₁ 412₂ 414₂
 Piper, F. 60₆ 168₂ 179₂
 Pistolesi, E. 374₀ 374₁₁
 Pizzati 222
 Planck, M. 325₃
 Plane-tree 278 f. 285 404 f. 526 ff. 535 (?) evergreen 526 526₃ 526₄
 Planets, animals assigned to 625₅ 626
 626₀ minerals assigned to 625 f. 625₅
 626₀ vegetables assigned to 625 f. 625₅
 626₀ seven 664₀
 Planets attributed to different deities by Babylonians 755 755₁₁ by Greeks 756 by Romans 755 f. classified as good, bad, both; diurnal, nocturnal, both;
 masculine, feminine, both 758
 Plasma 357₄
 Plaumann, G. 361₀
Plemochêe 424
 Plough of Argos 458₃ of Demeter 223 f. of Homogyros 459₄ of Osiris 223 of Triptolemos 223 ff. 458₃ 782 of Zeus
Dios 4₂ 400
 Ploughing, ritual 224₄
 Plume on head 297
 Poccoke, R. 503₂ 556₂ 588
 Polites, N. G. 81₁ 114₄ 115₀ 159₂ 162₃ 169₆
 171₁ 171₅ 175₀ 178 180₁ 180₃ 183₁ 183₂
 195 197₅ 239₃ 774 782
 Pollak, L. 336₁
 Pomegranates 95 f. 134 281₃ 305₁₄ 745
 745₁
 Pomegranate-flower 596 623₁ (?)
 Pomtow, H. 761 f. 761₆ 764₄
 Ponton d'Amécourt 268₅
 Pontremoli, E. 118₄
 Poplar, fruitful, in Idaean Cave 529 white, in rites of Sabazios 392₄
 Poppy 426 503₀ 565
 Porcher, E. A. 350₈
 Posnansky, H. 269₂ 270₂ 270₃ 270₄ 270₅
 271₅ 271₆ 272₁₈ 275₂ 279₄ 280₃
 Pott, A. F. 107₂ 329₁ 330₁
 Potter, J. 290₅
 Potter's wheel, invention of 724 f. 724₁
 Pottier, E. 95₃ 423₀ 471₂ 494₁ 600₀ 619₄
 692₀

- Poulsen, F. 255₃ 645₁ 645₃ 762₀
 Pouqueville, F. C. H. L. 177₀
 Pourtalès-Gorgier, Comte de 218
 Poynter, A. M. 480₅
 Predynastic remains in Egypt 619₄
 Preller, L. 64₃ 111₁ 259₆ 271₇ 279₄ 358₃
 498₃ 635₀ 655₂ 677₄ 712₁ 714₄ 734₁
 Prellwitz, W. 5₅ 16₃ 273₆ 285₂ 299₂-328₁
 345₆ 534₄
 Premerstein, A. von 275₃ 275₄ 447₁
 Prentice, W. K. 519₄ 519₇ 519₈ 520₁
 Preuner, A. 709₁
 Prévost, F. 484₃
 Priests and priestesses with animal names 441 ff. 451 453 453₃ 592₀ 705 784 with new names 609
 Pringsheim 427
 Prinz, H. 392₂ 402₈ 526₂ 606₂ 644
 Prost, A. 178₀
 Prostitution, religious 550₈ 554 554₂
Protomaiá 338 f.
 Prot, H. von 535₃ 667₃ 668₂
 Prot, J. von 442₇ 526₀ 668₃ 669
 672₄
 Psichari, J. 175₀
 Puchstein, O. 110 512₂ 550₀ 555₂ 555₃
 556 556₃ 556₄ 556₅ 556₆ 558₁ 559₂ 560₁
 561₁ 562₁ 563₁ 563₄ 564₂ 565₂ 566₃ 567₂
 570₁ 570₃ 606₆ 606₆ 742 742₅ 744₁ 744₂
 744₃ 744₄ 745₂ 746₀ 746₁ 746₂ 746₃ 748₁
 748₂ 748₃ 748₄ 750 750₁ 750₄
 Purification by fire (?) 211₃ by pig 426 by ram-skin 422 f. 646 (?) by thunder-stone 646 by water 559 646 (?)
 Purity, ceremonial 648₁ 651 684 f.
 Pursler, L. C. 686₅
 Pycraft, W. P. 257₂
 Pyramid represents mountain (?) 603
 Pyramids at Amaseia (?) 602₂ at Hawara
 472 at Kaisareia in Kappadokia (?) 603₃ in Kilikia 602 at Sikyon 520₂ at Tarsos (?) 603 at Tegea 520₂
 Pyramids of Iupiter Dolichenus 520₂ 615 ff.
 632 of Sandas 600 602 604 of Zeus
Kásios 602 of Zeus Meilichios 520₂ of Zeus Pásios 520₂ of Zeus Patrôios
 520₂ of Zeus Storpâos 520₂ of Zeus
Strátios (?) 602₂
 Pyre of Herakles (?) 600 ff. of Roman consecratio 602₂ of Sandas 600 ff. of Zeus Strátios 602₂
- Quail in myths of Asteria or Asterie 544₀ of Delos 544₀ of Leto 544₀ of Ortygia
 544₀ of Poseidon 544₀ of Zeus 544₀
 Quail-hunt 535₀
 Quandt, W. 690₄
 Queens of Athens married to Dionysos 672₀ 686 709 f. of Egypt buried in cow-shaped sarcophagi 523 of Knossos married to bull (?) 522 f.
- Rain-making 14₁ 65 76 87 182 f. 264 357₄
 420₃ 512₀ 650₁
 Ralston, W. R. S. 184 185 530₀
- Ram, black 407 646 cp. 668 f. golden 121
 403 ff. 414 ff. 419 430 467 purple
 403 ff. 419 467 saffron 404 white 419
 421 f. (?) 467 with Apis-like marks 636₈
 Ram as fountain-jet 429₄ funeral 407 429₄
 gelded by Zeus 394 in 'Minoan' art 347 procreative 429 f. 635₁ 717 779 ridden by Eros 354 sacrificed to Attis
 717₂ to Moloch 723₁ to Zeus 39 348
 407 ff. 416 f. 420 ff. 717₁ 717₂ 779
 cp. 75₂ sleeps on one side 429₃ testicles of 392₅ 394 395₂ votive 331 331₄
 Ram in Armenia 407₂ in Crete 401 402₀ in Egypt 346 ff. 401 in Etruria 403 in Greece 351 f. 405 ff. in India 395₂ in Italy 403 ff. in Phrygia 390 ff. 407₂
 Ram and dove 364 f. 368
 — and eagle 365₃
 — and serpent 401 429₄ 782 (?)
 — and sun 346 ff. 401 419 421 f. 428 ff.
 467
 Ram's head and dove 364 f. 368 and eagle
 365₃ as footstool of Iupiter Dolichenus
 612 of Zeus Sabázios 391 f. 426 as arm of throne for Zeus etc. 407₁ beside foot of Herakles as Eleusinian initiate 426 on Mondbilder 507
 Ram's horns affixed to altar 513 dove between 364 f. cp. 368
 Rams of Ámen 347 390 of Attis 429₄ of Ba'al-hammán 354 598₁ of Eros 354 of Hermes 429₄ of Khnemu 347 of Phanes 311 398₄ of Phrixos 414 ff.
 430 of Zeus 346 ff. 361 371 ff. 390 ff.
 401 417 428 ff. 429₄ 731₁
 Ram-cult compared with bull-cult 430
 717 779 Graeco-Libyan, related to Thracio-Phrygian (?) 401 ff. 778
 Ram-headed dancers 704₃
 Ram-skin used for incubation 407₄ for initiation 423 ff. for purification 422 f.
 646 (?) in Macedonian pillar-cult 428 worn as charm 429₄ worn by worshippers of Zeus 420 422 worn by
 Zeus 347 f. 419
 Ramsay, Sir W. M. 4₂ 136 137 139 139₄
 193₃ 594₁ 706₂
 Rapp, A. 333₃ 333₅ 451 526₀ 666₀
 Rapson, E. J. 329₄ 637₈ 718₁
 Rasche, J. C. 538₅ 548₃ 558₅ 567₂ 586₅
 602₂ 637₅ 637₇ 706₄ 713₅ 714₁ 714₂
 753₂ 784
 Rassam, Hormuzd 262
Ratapa (?) 703₃
 Rationalism of Greek philosophy tended to overthrow worship of Olympians
 165 f.
 Rationalistic explanations of Perdix and Polykaste 728 Talos 719₃ 723 f. the golden lamb of Atrous 406 409₄ the golden ram of Phrixos 418 418₁ 784
 the procession in ram-skins up Mt
 Pelion 420 the rape of Europe 539
 Rattles 592₀ 661 f.
 Raven as messenger of Sun 518

- Ravens feed Elijah 182
 'Ravens,' worshippers of Mithras called 443
- Rawlinson, G. 209 316₂
 Rawlinson, H. C. 580₅
 Rebirth, ritual of 675 ff. 679 705 785
 Reed (?) of Prometheus 324
 Regling, K. 784
 Rehm, A. 733₆
 Reichel, A. 444₄ 497 f. 499₁
 Reichel, W. 93₂ 139 144 f. 172₅ 521₂
 Reichhold, K. 474₂ 474₃ 526₁ 696₄ 697₃ 721₄
 Reid, J. S. 659₃
 Reinach, A. J. 150₁
 Reinach, S. 33₁ 75₁ 99 130₁ 172₄ 193₃ 200₃ 200₄ 200₅ 200₆ 202₂ 205₁ 216₂ 259 288₃ 289₁ 289₂ 339₅ 360₁₀ 375 424 430₀ 459₅ 467₂ 471₂ 476₂ 482₀ 494₁ 501₆ 521₂ 547₅ 572₂ 572₃ 598₁ 604₃ 610₃ 611₅ 616₁ 616₃ 620₁ 624₅ 638₁ 638₂ 639₂ 640₀ 642₁ 659₁ 696₃ 696₅ 697₂ 698₁ 699₀ 701₄ 701₅ 703₃ 707₂ 708₁ 708₃ 709₆ 713₂ 724₁ 736₀ 741₅ 742₁ 748₁ 750₁ 763₁ 764₄ 782
- Reinach, T. 602₂ 637₁ 637₂ 637₃ 637₄ 742₂ 752₂ 753₃
- Re-incarnation of Apis 435 of Osiris 435 of the dead in vegetation (?) 687
- Reisch, E. 121₂ 480₁ 521₁ 689₁ 702₀
 Reisinger, E. 622₂ 724₄
 Reiske, J. J. 601₁
- Rejuvenation of Demos 785 of Medeia 244 f. of Pelias 244 f. 419 679 See also Kreokopia
- Religion, not subsequent to magic 13₁
 Renan, E. 206 f.
- Renouf, Le Page 206₂
- Resurrection 647₁ 695 705 785
 Revolving Castle 243 f. 303
- Rhode, J. G. 745₁
- Rhomaïos, K. A. 520₂
Rhombos See Bull-roarer
- Rhÿs, Sir J. 197₇ 243 243₅ 244₀ 244₁
- Ribbeck, O. 667
- Rice and Zens, the planet 626₀
- Richter, O. 768₀
- Ridder, A. de 86₄ 223₈ 226₅ 231₃ 465₁ 574₂ 576₁ 576₃ 707₂
- Ridgeway, W. 93₃ 418₂ 463₂ 674 689₅ 694₅ 702₁
- Riemann, O. 444₆
- Riese, A. 178₀
- Riess, E. 581 754 758₅
- Rings, magic 329₀ 'Minoan' 646₀ of Kabeiros 329₀ of Kyklops 329₀ of Prometheus 329₀
- Rizo 742₅
- Rizzo, G. E. 426₁ 426₄ 427₁ 427₂ 427₆
- Robecchi-Bricchetti, L. 379₇
- Robert, C. 47₂ 47₃ 48₂ 49₁ 60₅ 64₃ 249₂ 249₃ 250 251₁ 259₈ 343₁ 358₃ 410₇ 494₁ 498₂ 635₀ 640₀ 640₃ 671 673₇ 698₁ 725₅ 734
- Roberts, D. G. 725₅
 Roberts, E. S. 194₂ 292₀
- Robertson, D. S. 649₅ 686₀
 Robert-Tornow, W. 469₇ 514₂
 Robinson, D. M. 782
 Robinson, E. 177₀
 Robinson, E. 226₀
 Rochette, R. 47₂ 48₂ 49₁ 199₇ 200₂ 200₃ 200₆ 259₆ 260₁ 261₁
- Rock, Mithras emerging from 518₀
 Rocks, Ambrosial, at Tyre 530₂
 Rodd, Sir Rennell 162₂
 Rodenwaldt, G. 204
- Rods of Persians 338₂ of Rhadamanthys 330₅ See also Barsom
- Roeder, G. 348₁
 Roehl, H. 88₅ 194₂
 Rohde, E. 239₀ 441₅ 687₃
 Rohden, H. von 150₄ 425₄ 426₀ 426₄ 427
- Röheim, G. 782
- Rohlfis, G. 367₅ 379 380 380₁ 380₃ 381 381₁ 381₃ 382 382₂ 382₄ 385 386 386₁ 387 388 389 390 390₁ 390₂
- Rolland, E. 257₁ 357₃
 Rómer, F. 616₁ 616₃
- Ronzevalle, S. 554₁ 567 569₁ 569₃ 782
- Roscher, W. H. 63₈ 65₃ 65₈ 68 68₂ 68₃ 81₀ 99₃ 242₀ 244₅ 313₃ 319 321₁ 435 455 456₁ 456₂ 523₆ 524 537 f. 538₁ 543₅ 640₂ 642₁ 642₄ 720₄ 727₆ 732 733₁₀ 734 738 f. 738₁₀ 738₁₁
- Roscoe, J. 523₆ 676₄
 Rosenmüller, E. F. C. 533₀
- Roses 517₀ 625 f. 625₃
- Ross, L. 455
- Roszbach, O. 269₂ 270₃ 271₁ 272₁₈ 275₁ 279₄ 500₁ 703₄
- Rossi, G. B. de 41₄ 51₁ 51₂
- Rost 207₆
- Rouse, W. H. D. 23₆ 25₁ 84₁ 171₁ 397₁ 428 762₅
- Rouvier, J. 574₂ 581
- Roux, H. 57₇
- Rubensohn, O. 223 223₃ 227₃
- Ruge, W. 631₅
 Ruhnken, D. 677₀
- Sachau, E. 233₁
 Sacrifice before marriage 653 on birthday 746₃ on coronation-day 746₃ on home-coming 652 f. 653₁
- Sacrificial victim burnt 722 723₁ flung from height 344 ff. 593₀ 722₂ cp. 725₅ hung on tree 533 592₀ laid on carpet of grass 745; raised above altar 503₁ See also Human sacrifice, Animals sacrificed to Zeus, and the various species of animals concerned
- Saffron ram 404 robes 422
- Saglio, E. 87₂ 256₁ 258₃ 292₂ 511₁ 515₃ 689₁
- Saints worshipped in place of gods and demigods 167 ff.
- Sakellarios, A. A. 343₁
 Salis, A. von 727₂
- Salt in Oasis of Siwah 380 f.
 Salzmann, A. 330

- Samarelli, F. 513₁₂
 Sanctis, G. de 147 f. 471₄
 Sandys, Sir J. E. 500₃
 Sarauw, G. 325₃
Sarcophagi representing Ixion 204 f.
 Kleobis and Biton 449 f. Medeia
 249 ff.
 — cow-shaped 523
 'Sardonic smile,' origin of 721 f.
 Sarre, F. 136
 Saulcy, F. de 478₃ 478₄ 558₂ 558₃ 558₅
 561₃ 566₁ 590₁ 590₂
 Savignoni, L. 147 f. 226₈
 Savile, Lord 274₁
 Saw, as attribute of sun-god 725₂ invention of 725 728
 Sayce, A. H. 136 233₁ 594₁ 595
 Scaliger, J. J. 393₀ 453₇
 Sceptre, a conventionalised tree 87₆
 Sceptre of Agamemnon 406 of Aphrodite 291 575 of Atargatis 583 584₂ 586 of Atrous 406 of Demeter 220 f. 224₂ 229
 575 f. of Eurystheus (?) 406 f. of Hera
 134 532 753 of Hermes 406 of Isis
 620 of Pelops 406 of Thyestes 406 of Zeus 406 (See also Index I Zeus Attributes)
 Sceptre surmounted by cuckoo 134 f.
 by eagle 251 590 596 by hand 392₁
 by lily 623₁ by lotos 596
 Sceptre-bearer (σκηπτροφορούσα) 597₄
 Schanz, M. 451₁₃ 728₃
 Scheffer, J. 419₉
 Scheffelowitz, I. 500₁ 500₇ 577₆ 634₇
 Scheil, F. V. 496₁
 Schellenberg, C. A. G. 741₀
 Scherer, C. 99₈ 435₁₀ 504₁
 Schirmer 493₃
 Schlegel, G. 549₁
 Schleicher, A. 523₆
 Schlemm, Fräulein J. 507₃
 Schliemann, H. 446 446₂
 Schmidt, B. 67₁ 114₅ 162₁ 162₃ 163₀ 165₇
 175₁ 343 343₄ 412₂ 450₈ 774₆
 Schmidt, E. 204₄ 296₆
 Schmidt, F. W. 734₁₃
 Schmidt, J. 329₂
 Schmidt, M. 149₁ 195₅ 258₂ 401₀ 468₇
 471₁ 527₆ 656₁ 667₄ 732₇ 753₂
 Schmitthenner, C. J. 366₃
 Schmitz, W. 634₇
 Schneider, O. 257₆ 674₆
 Schneider, R. von 59₅
 Schneidewin, F. G. 259₀ 366₇ 406₁
 Schöll, R. 428₇ 442₁
 Schönfeld, M. 273₆ 289₁
 Schrader, H. 535₂ 702₆
 Schrader, O. 1₁ 291₁ 430₃ 768₀
 Schrammen, J. 118₃ 118₅ 120 f.
 Schreiber, T. 427
 Schroeder, B. 351₃
 Schroeder, O. 259₀
 Schubart, J. H. C. 622₁₀
 Schuchhardt, C. 623₄
 Schultz, W. 329₁
 Schultze, V. 168₂
 Schulz, E. G. 40
 Schulze, H. 736₀
 Schulze, W. 655₂
 Schuster, C. 761₃
 Schwartz, E. 73₀ 652₄ 653₂ 738₅ 765
 766₃
 Schwartz, F. L. W. 456₃
 Schwartz, W. 313₃
 Schwenck, K. 64₃ 66₁ 429₃
 Scorpion 516₁ 518 592₀
 Scott-Moncrieff, P. D. 188₂ 437₁₀
 Sea-eagle 344
 Sébillot, P. 81₃ 321₂ 523₆ 624₅ 739₆ 774₈
 775₁₀
 Seebohm, H. E. 80₁
 Seeliger, K. 238₁ 240 241₁₅ 244₂ 245₅ 248₂
 249₂ 250₄ 414₃ 449₃
 Seidl, Custos 604₈ 611₆ 612₂ 616₁ 616₃
 619₃ 620₅
 Selden, J. 723₁
 Seligmann, C. G. 509 f.
 Sélimon 107 107₃
 Seltman, E. J. 528₁ 542₅
 Serpent as part of Lycian symbol 300 called 'string' or 'rope' 726 coiled in circle 191 f. coiled round female figures 585 785 coiled round pillars 354 drawn through lap (ὁ δὲ δὴ κἀλπον θεός) 393₀ 394 forepart of, worn by Egyptian kings 496 horned 430₆ in Egyptian religion 784 in Mithraic myth 518 in relation to tree 516₁ 535 on 'bâton de commandement' 703 phallic 396₁ 784 sacred to various deities and heroes 392₄ solar 205 ff. 293 ff. 571 575 spring guarded by 540 teeth of, sown 540 winged 217₁ 226₃ 230 with ram's head
 430₀ with two heads 84₁
 Serpent of Ammon 358 ff. 401 of Ares 540 of Asklepios 361 of Athena 231₈ of Ceres 403₆ of Cretan goddess 508₁ of Demeter 425 of Esmun 354 360 of Hermes, the planet 625₅ 626 of Isis
 360 of Iupiter 289₀ of Mithras 516₁ of Nekhebet 206 386 of Nemesis 269
 271 ep. 279₁ of Phanes 311 398₁ of Sarapis 360 of Uatchit 206 386 of Zagreus 398 of Zeus 102₄ 113 113₂
 191 f. 279₁ 398₁ of Zeus Ammon 358 ff.
 401 of Zeus Sabázios 392 394 401
 Sester, K. 742
 Sethe, K. 341₂ 346₁ 346₂ 346₃ 347₅ 349₂
 437₁
 Sex, androgynous 310 f. change of 172
 173 175 176₀ 396 775₄
 Shadow for soul 66 f.
 Shape-shifting of Dionysos 398 647 of Keten 496 of Proteus 496 of Selene
 455₇ of Zagreus 398 647 of Zeus 398₄
 Sharpe, S. 129₃
 Sheep, golden 403 ff. parti-coloured 404 purple 403 f. See also Ram Sheep hung on trees 592₀ sacrificed to Moloch 723₁ to Zeus 75₃.

- Sheep of Hammon 368 of Helios 409 ff.
 of Sol 404
 Sheep's horns 513₁ See also Ram's horns Sheep-skin, mask of 420₁ used for incubation 407₄ 428 ep. 646 used in cult of Zeus at Korkyra (?) 164₅ in Mykonos 668 f. in Naxos (?) 164 on Mt Pelion 164 f. ep. in Idaean Cave 646 669 worn over head of worshippers at Hierapolis in Syria 593₀ See also Ram-skin
 Shield, as prize at Argos 446 cult of sacred (?) 512₀ 646₀ in pediment 296₂ oval 569
 Ship, cosmic 358 358₃
 Shorey, P. 702₁
 Siecke, E. 178₀ 456 731₁.
 Siegel, C. 171₅
 Sikes, E. E. 5₃ 211₃ 323₄ 410₁₀ 453₆ 763
 Silver connected with Selene 626₀ with Zeus 25₃ 615 617 632 with Zeus, the planet 625 f. See also Mines
 Simpson, W. 197₇ 256 266 f. 267₄
 Sintenis, C. 280₄
 Siret, L. 87₄ 508
 Sittig, E. 667₄
 Sittl, C. 3₄ 46₂ 51₃ 52₃ 279₁ 323₄
 Six, J. 53₄ 57₄
 Six, J. P. 232₁ 235 281₁ 281₃ 305₁₅
 Sixt, G. 619₁
 Skeat, W. W. 243₈
 Sky, made of bronze 632₃ made of iron
 632₃
 Sky-father as correlative of earth-mother
 779 f.
 Sleep beside river 646 beside sea 646 on ground 593₀ on sheep-skins 407₄ 428
 646 See also Incubation
 Smith, A. H. 129₂ 129₃ 132₄ 482₁ 698₁ 752₀
 Smith, Sir C. 192₃ 199₇ 466₀ 642₁ 654 f.
 654₅ 685₀
 Smith, C. Roach 293₃ 296₂
 Smith, R. Gordon 530₀
 Smith, R. Murdoch 350₃
 Smith, Sir W. 689₁
 Smith, W. Robertson 63₆ 80₃ 445₁ 469₄
 513₁ 519 520₂ 546₁ 775₁
 Snake See Serpent
 Sogliano, A. 57₄ 37₅ 57₆ 202₃ 203₃ 465₀
 Solar worship combined with lunar and stellar worship 543 in relation to worship of storm-god 578 ff. under Aurelian 166 See also Sun and Index I s.v. Helios
 Solmsen, F. 24₀ 534₄ 537₁ 655
 Solstice-festivals 63₀ 641 ep. 681 and 693₄
 Soltan, W. 168₂
 Sommerbrodt, J. A. 679₁
 Soping, G. 656₁
 Sorlin-Dorigny 641
 Soul as ant 532₁₂ as bee 469₇ 514 532
 532₁₂ as butterfly 532₁₂ as fly 469₇
 532₁₀ as gad-fly 439 ff. 532 embryonic (?) 703₃ feminine 396₁ in trees on graves (?) 687₃
 Soutzo, A. 162
 Sow, pregnant, sacrificed to Demeter 668
 suckles Zeus 150 653 785
 Sparrow-hawk 341 387 See also Hawk
 Spearing, H. G. 500₅ 600₀
 Spelt and Zeus, the planet 626₀
 Spiegelberg, W. 436₄
 Spiers, R. Phené 768₀
 Spinal marrow 514 518
 Spindle of Atargatis 583 586
 Spiral on head 297
 Spiro, F. 622₁₀
 Spit-rests 512
Splanchnóptes 727
 Spon, J. 235
 Spratt, T. A. B. 147 170
 Spring, miraculous, at Dodona 368 in Oasis of Siwah 368 381 f. See also Brook
 Spring, sacred, at Gortyna 526₄ on Mt
 Lykaion 76 f. at Nemausus 569 in Sardinia 723 on Mt Tabor 643₂ at Thalamai 522 at Thebes 540
 Squire, C. 243₅ 243₇ 321₂
 Stackelberg, O. M. von 226₄
 Stade, B. 235₀ 236₀ 500₄
 Staes, B. 86₃ 523 535₂
 Stag of Apollon 36₄ 542₅ on wheel-base
 331₂ head of, on Mondbilder 507
 'Stags,' human 67 67₃ 674
 Stage See Theatre
 Stamatakis, P. 623
 Standards of Ashur 207 at Hierapolis in Syria 583 f. 586 f. of Rome 230 f.
 Stark, K. B. 235₅
 Stars above Aphrodite 575 above Apis
 637₇ above Apollo 538₄ above Dioskouroi 36₀ 590 764 ff. above young god 41₀ above Zeus 741 between Dioskouroi 766 ff. in pediment 391₁ on bull 540₂ 620₀ on ceiling 751 f.
 ep. 262 ff. on globe 49 51 f. 56 on lion 740 750 on mast 761 f. on paddles 762 on robe 58 f. 62 750 on tiara 741 f.
 745 748 f. round Augustus 548 round son of Domitia Longina 51 547 round
 Zeus 51 f. 149 547 ff. ep. 752 ff.
 781
 Stars as children of Sun and Moon 523 f.
 523₀ 543 739 dedicated after the battle of Aigos Potamos 761 f. 771₉ of Salamis 761 771₉ in relation to Zeus 740 ff. 777 f. See also Zodiac, and the names of the constellations in Index I
 Steatopygy 500
 Stein, H. 348₂ 360₃ 432₆ 432₇ 436₁
 Steindorff, G. 378₁ 379₇ 379₀ 381₄ 382
 382₄ 386 f. 389 390₁
 Stengel, P. 422₀ 498₄ 503₁ 533₂ 677₀
 684₃
 Stephani, L. 34₂ 40 212₁₆ 336 361₃ 373 ff.
 374₇ 375₂ 429₄ 493₅ 499₀ 503₀ 521₂ 526₁
 531₁ 539₃ 544₆ 547₅ 598₁ 712₀ 713₂ 713₃
 717₃

- Stephanus, H. 649, 697, 753₂
 Steuding, H. 482₀ 706₂
 Stevenson 205₁
 Stevenson, J. 326
 Stevenson, S. W. 293, 296₂
 St John, Bayle 379 382₄ 385 390₁
 Stokes, G. T. 178₀ 554₃
 Stoll, H. W. 73
 Stone of Auanos 195₈ of Elagabalos 520₂
 604 (?) of Kronos 53 f. 54₂ 154 520₂ of Terminus 53 f. 520₂ of Zeus Kappôtas
 520₂ of Zeus Melôsius 164₅ 520₂ of Zeus Térmon 520₂
 Stones, deities emerging from 518₀ 620
 622 god seated on 69 70₄ 124 708 goddess seated on 541 623 swallowed by Kronos 53 f. 154 520₂ thrown by Minotaur 720 f. thrown by Talos
 719 ff.
 Stones, gigantic, at Ba'albek 562 ff.
 Stones, precious 355 357₄ 569 569₄ 583
 626₀ See also Beryl, Emeralds Stones, sacred, classification of 520₂ evolution of 520 f.
 Stoning 67 719 ff.
 Storks of St Demetra 174₀ three on solar disk (?) 482₀
 Storm-god, in relation to sun-god 578 ff.
 Strachan-Davidson, J. L. 17₁
 Strong, Mrs E. 474₂
 Strube, C. 212₁₅ 214₁ 216₁
 Struck, A. 171₃ 175₄ 480₁
 Stuart-Glennie, J. S. 27₄ 104₁ 450₈
 Studemund, W. 428₇
 Studniczka, F. 92 95₃ 95₄ 148₁ 350₄ 372₁₀
 512₃ 513₅ 513₇ 569₃ 576₂
 Stukeley, W. 487 488
 Sulphur and Zeus, the planet 626₀
 Sun as a bird 206 f. (?) 341 ff. 777 as a boat 358₃ as a bronze man 719 ff. 777 as a bull 236 490 521 ff. 635 739 f. 777 as a chariot with one wheel 225₄ cp.
 333 ff. as a cup 358₃ as a disk 291 ff.
 431 435 f. 523 569 (?) 571 575 as the eye of Amen-Râ 315 of Horos 315 of Nu 314 of Nut 314 of Râ 314 f. of Tem
 315 of the world 197₃ 522₀ of Zeus
 196 f. 313 777 783 as a hawk 240 ff.
 342 f. cp. 783 as a horse 333 as a lion 230 f. 240, 571₂ as a lizard 240; as a serpent 240; cp. 257 as a star 36₀ (?) 477 (?) 491 f. (?) 538₄ 604 (?) 605₀ (?) cp. 495 as a wheel 197 f. 225₁ 253 ff.
 285 ff. 306₅ 324 330 ff. 342 483₀ 777 as a wheeled seat 225 342 as a winged disk 205 ff. cp. 342
 Sun and bull 430 ff. 468 ff. 490 ff. 549 ff.
 577 ff. 619, 620 639 f. 777
 — and ram 346 ff. 401 419 421 f. 428 ff.
 467 777
 Sun in relation to lightning 578 f. 578₃ in relation to Zeus 186 ff. sets in east 405
 Sun-charm 253 ff.
 Svoronos, J. N. 149₁ 298 402 427 427₀
- Svoronos, J. H. (cont.)
 427₁ 427₂ 452₂ 472₄ 472₅ 493₄ 494₂ 495₀
 527₁ 530₃ 535 535₄ 537 541₇ 544₆ 547₇
 548 548₁ 548₂ 548₃ 619₄ 620₀ 623₅ 652₃
 660₃ 660₄ 661₁ 708₁ 709₁ 720₂ 720₃ 720₅
 729₅ 752₃ 783 785
 Swainson, C. 257₁ 257₃
 Swans and solar wheel (?) 332₁ as part of Lycian symbol (?) 300 f. attribute of Hermes, the planet 336 f. in myth of Leda or Nemesis 279₄ 770 on 'baton de commandement' 703
 Swastika 301 329₁ 336 f. 337₁ 483₁₁ as revolving sun 478 develops into Labyrinth or Maze 474 ff. 492 develops into maeander 483₁₀
 Sweating image of Apollon at Hierapolis in Syria 585
 Swine in myth of Kirke 242₈ neither sacrificed nor eaten 593₀
 Sybel, L. von 670₂
 Syncretism produces various types of solar Zeus 166 349 f. 361 777 ff.
- Table of Dionysos develops into stage
 672 of Semele 695₈ of Uros Ljkaios
 83
 Table Round 243 f.
 Tablets, Eleusinian 221 (?) Orphic 650₀
 675 ff.
 Taboo on birth 648₁ bull 717₃ burial 648₁ goat 717₃ nails 649 pig's flesh 653 pines (?) 641 she-goat 717₃
 Tamarisk 745₁
 Taramelli, A. 160 f.
 Tattooing 593₀
Taurobolium 717₂
Taurokathâpsia 497 ff.
Telônia 774
 Testicles of bull 431 516₁ 518 of Indras
 395₂ of ram 392₅ 394 395₂ of Zeus
 392₅
Tet 478₄
Thâlamos at Hierapolis in Syria 582 ff.
 Theatre at Athens 480 667 707 ff. Knossos
 479 f. Lênaiôn 667 Tauromenion 480 f.
 Thorikos 480
 Theatre, orchestra of, marked with mazy lines 479 f. oblong 479 f. stage of, developed out of Dionysiac table 672 stage of Phaidros in Athenian 708 ff.
 pl. xl. thyméle (?) in 709₁
 Thédénat, H. 87 751₀
 Theriomorphism 241 304 350 407 419 430
 467 507 718, 719 720₄ See also Zoô-morphism
 Thiersch, H. pl. xxxv
 Thomas, E. 301
 Thompson, D'Arcy W. 73₄ 104₁ 106₄ 242₂
 253₃ 258₂ 264 341₈
 Thompson, M. S. 512₁
 Thompson, R. Campbell 80₃
 Thomson, Sir J. J. 772₀
 Thorn-bush in the moon 470
 Thraemer, E. 715₄ 715₆

- Three cranes, Celtic cult of 482₀
 Three-eyed figures in Greek religion and mythology 320 462
 Thronos of Antiochos i of Kommagene 745 of Apollon Ijkhios (?) 139 of Apollon Mithras Helios Hermes 745 f. of Artagnes Herakles Ares 746 of Artemis Protothronie (?) 141 of Ba'al-tars 596 ff. of Danaos 139 of Dionysos 152 f. (?) 398 647 of Hekate 141 f. of Helios 585 of Hera 134 of Kommagene 745 of Midas 139 of Nahat 136 of Pelops 137 ff. of Plastene (?) 139 of Rhea (?) 147 f. of Xerxes 145 of Zagreus 398 647 of Zeus 34 f. 42 ff. 56 ff. 124 ff. 152 f. 398 407₁ 521 647 of Zeus Akraios 124 of Zeus Ólbios 125 of Zeus Oromásdes 744 ff. of Zeus Térsios 596 ff.
 Thronos, rock-cut 135 ff. 776
 Thunder, mimetic 648 ff. 650₁ subterranean 650₁
 Thunderbolt plated with gold 581 silvered 615 See also Index I s.v. Zeus Thunder-stone 646
 Tietjen, Prof. 750
 Tiger of Zagreus 398
 Tillyard, E. M. W. 501₀ 700₄ 701₅
 Tin in relation to Aphrodite, the planet 625 f. 626₀ to Hermes, the planet 626₀ to Zeus, the planet 626₀
 Tischbein, W. 501₆ 701₅
 Tod, M. N. 95₅ 96₁ 497₄ 766₁₀ 768₀ 769₁ 770₁
 Toelken, E. H. 366₃ 384₁
 Tomaschek, W. 401₀
 Topes 768₀
 Töpffer, J. 73 74₅ 655₂
 Toran 768₀
 Torches of Apollon Leukátes 345₈ of Cautes and Cautopates 516₁ of Ceres 403₀ of Demeter 229 f. of Eumolpos (?) 220 of Hera 449 of Persephone 220 f. 223 f. of Prometheus 324 f. of Rhea 648₁ 650 of Sol 714
 Torches carried over mountain 648₁ 650 carried round fields 286 650₄ in bridal processions 651₀ kindled by spring at Dodona 368 stuck round cakes 421
 Torch-bearer at Athens 669 at Eleusis 220 (?) 221 423 f. 426 f.
Torii 768₀
 Torr, C. 474₃ 643₀
 Tortoise (?) 670₆
 Torture 209 ff. 662
 Totemism (?) 63₀ 77
 Tragau, C. 276₂
 Tragedy, masks of 678₅ origin of 665 ff. See also Drama
 Trede, T. 168₂ 178₁ 182₁₂
 Trees, animals etc. hung on 533 592₀ bird on (?) 768 corpses hung on 533 of Mithras 516₁ 517₀ ep. 518₀ on graves as vehicles for souls (?) 687₃ on head of Egyptian king 496 shrine of 472₁₀ 646₀ 768₀
 'Tree of life' 645
 Trendelenburg, A. 118₃ 762₀
 Treu, G. 24₀ 39₅ 666₁
 Trident in folk-tale 344
 Trieteric rites 662 690 ff. 690₄ 695₈
 Trifoliate design 636 636₈
 Trinity, Lycian (?) 301 of trees 649₃ supersedes Tritopatreis 171
 Tripods as prize at Argos 446₈ as prize at Priene 132 as winged vehicle 335 votive, at Olympia 334 f. votive, at Teos 130₃
Triskelés 304 ff. superposed on eagle 304 342 superposed on lion 304 with central wheel 304 with corn-ears 227 307 with Gorgóneion 306 f. with winged Gorgóneion 307 with palmettes 306 with solar face 307 ff. with wings 306 423
 Trollope, E. 485₀ 486₁ 486₄ 487₄ 488₁
 Tropea, G. 403₀
 'Troy-town,' etc., mazes called 488
 Tsountas, Ch. 334₁ 512₁
 Tümpel, K. 176₀ 225₄ 525₃ 542₃
 Türk 341₈ 414₃
 Twidle, A. 771₁₀
 Tylor, E. B. 67₁ 325₃ 326₃ 326₄ 326₅ 523₆
Týmpana 645 ep. pl. xxxv 650 650₁ 701₅ 723₁ 736₀
 Underworld, Egyptian 358 515 Greek, represented on sarcophagus 204 f. on vases 200₆ 222₅ souls come up from, at Anthesteria 687
 Ure, P. N. 464₁ 782
 Urlichs, C. L. 461₁
 Urlichs, L. von 249₄ 250
 Usener, H. 4₂ 64₃ 65 170₃ 175₂ 176₁ 241₁₃ 272 f. 522₆ 541₆ 543₃ 603₈ 689₅ 730₈ 730₉ 780₅
 Ussing, J. L. 693₄
 Vaglieri, D. 272₁₄
 Valckenaer, L. C. 106₂ 734₁₃
 Vaniček, A. 630₇
 Vases: Apulian 36 ff. 128 f. 133 200 f. 221 f. 249 ff. 255 f. 292 ff. 336 f. 358₃ 374 ff. 375₂ 512₃ 521₂ 521₄
 — black-figured 213 ff. 231 293₅ 307₆ 335 336₀ 358₃ 406 f. 475 f. 493 496 503₀ 512₂ 513₂ 592₆ 671 696 698₃ 720₄
 — 'Cabiric' 654
 — 'Caeretan' hydriai 471 513₁
 — Campanian 39 f. 202 521₄ 784
 — Corinthian 494 f. 782
 — Cypriote 619₄
 — 'Cyrenaic' 92 ff. 297₂ ep. 782
 — 'Dipylon' 255 511 ep. 766₀
 — Egyptian 507₃ ep. 363₂
 — Etruscan 476
 — 'François' vase 297₂ 481₆ 696
 — Graeco-Phehician 724₁

Vases (cont.)

- Lucanian 701₅
 — Middle 'Minoan' 363₂ cp. 645 f.
 — Late 'Minoan' 363₂
 — Panathenaic 213₂ 231₈
 — red-figured 40, 199 216 ff. 223 f. 231 279₁ 307₆ 358₃ 423 ff. 465₁ 474 f. 493 f.
 499₁ 504 ff. 513₃ 513₄ 513₅ 513₆ 521₄
 531₁ 547 654 f. 671 684₉ 696 ff. 707
 721 782
 — Rhodian pinakes 297₂
 — Tanagra 699₉
 — with white ground 526₁
 Vegetation attributed to agency of the dead 687
 Vine 463 518 553 566
 Vine-leaves 565 654
 Vine-staff 553
 Vine-wreath 374 655 (?) 715
 Violets 625 f.
 Visconti, E. Q. 59
 Visick, C. H. C. 336
 Vogüé, C. J. M. de 191₄
 Voigt, F. A. 666₀ 686₅
 Voigt, T. 405₃
 Vollgraff, C. W. 461 539₅ 682₂
 Volney, C. F. 556₂
 Voss, I. 471₄

- Wace, A. J. B. 23₀ 92₇ 95₅ 96₁ pl. ix 114₄
 420₁ 512₁ 694 766₁₀ 768₀ 769₁ 770₁
 Wachsmuth, C. 162₄ 172₀
 Wackernagel, J. 104
 Waddington, W. H. 602₂ 637₁ 637₂ 637₃
 637₄ 642₁ 742₂ 742₅ 752₂ 753₃
 Wagler, P. 77₁
 Wagner, E. 178₀
 Wagner, R. 203₃ 719₃ 726₃
 Wainwright, G. A. 472₁₀ 507₃ 619₄
 Waitz, T. 523₆
 Walde, A. 1₂ 87₆ 273₆ 541₂ 630₆ 630₇ 634₇
 780₅
 Waldstein, Sir C. 441₀ 446 624₄
 Walker, F. G. 486₃ 487₃
 Wallet, E. 486₁
 Wallis, G. H. 274₁ 274₂ 274₄
 Walters, H. B. 36₅ 36₇ 37₁ 38₁ 95₃ 204
 218₅ 307₆ 466₀ 494₁ 633₅ 640₀ 654₆ 697₅
 701₁ 724₀ 724₁ 736₀
 Walz, C. 622₁₀ 657₁
 Wankel, H. 638₁ 638₂
 Ward, W. H. 526₂ 577₀ 605₂ 606₁ 606₃
 644₂ 644₃ 645₇ 784
 Warr, G. C. W. 734₁₁
 Waser, O. 535₂
 Watzinger, C. 129₃ 131 ff. 130₃ 131₂
 Weather-king, the earthly, prototype of the heavenly 12
 Weber, H. 660₅ 785
 Week, gods of the 753
 Weicker, G. 297₃
 Weights inscribed Dios etc. 37₁
 Weil, R. 232₁
 Weitz, H. P. 360₇ 361₁
 Weizsäcker, P. 38₁ 202₂ 261₁ 408 f. 700₃

- Welcker, F. G. 64₃ 65₃ 81₀ 96 218₀ 299₂
 336₁ 358₃ 373₀ 410 477₁ 498₂ 501₆ 715₄
 715₆ 739₂ 771
 Wells, J. 362₇
 Welzel, P. 64₃ 76₂
 Weniger, L. 656₀ 735₃ 781
 Wentzel, G. 181₀ 446₀ 665₃
 Were-wolves 80 f. 782 See also Wolf
 Wernicke, K. 32 34₃ 108₅ 117₀ 232₁ 252₄
 373₅ 410₇ 453₆ 493₁ 501₁ 538₅ 541₆ 542₃
 543₂ 603₅ 616₃ 619₃ 640₃ 665₃ 697 ff.
 698₁ 702 713₀ 714₆ 725₅ 735₁ 740₆
 Wesseling, P. 355₂
 Wessely, C. 190₅ 233 234₄ 581₈
 Westermann, A. 469₇ 719₃
 Weston, Miss J. L. 243₅ 243₆
 Wheat and Zeus, the planet 626₀
 Wheel as ornament 701₃ 701₅ as punishment 209 ff. hanging from roof 259 ff.
 in divination 285 in Midsummer customs 285 ff. in temples 265 ff. lost by solar hero 225₄ prophylactic 39
 259 ff. 296
 Wheel of Ixion 198 ff. = 342 of Myrtilos
 225₄ 260₃ 408
 Wheeler, J. R. 92₇ 708₁ 709₁ 710₁
 Whip of Adad 552 of Iupiter Heliopolita- nus 552 of Iuperci 677₄ of Sol 518₀ of Zeus Adados 552
 White, A. Silva 379₇
 White bulls 467 522 537 f. clay 655₂ clothing 648₁ cows 440 445 f. 451 462 467 470
 Wide, S. 8₂ 351₂ 351₆ 351₇ 373₁ 442₁ 442₅
 458₂ 679₁₇ 686₁ 780₇
 Wiedemann, A. 205₁ 206₁ 206₂ 341₈ 346₃
 347₆ 349₂ 784
 Wiegand, T. 483₁₁ 761₆
 Wieseler, F. 228₄ 375₂ 521₂ 616₃ 619₃
 698₁
 Wilamowitz-Moellendorf, U. von 15 142₂
 279₄ 454₀ 547₂ 666₄ 733₃ 741₀
 Wilcken, U. 750
 Wilhelm, A. 172₅ 597₄
 Wilisch, E. 415₂
 Wilken, G. A. 23₆
 Wilkins, A. S. 690₂
 Will-power in relation to magic 12₁ 14₁
 Willow in folk-tales 530₀ on Circean
 Plain 533
 Willow of Esus 482₀ cp. 533 of Europe
 527 ff. 549 of Helike 529 f. 548 f. of Orpheus 537 of Prometheus (?) 329₀ of Tarvos Trigaranus 482₀ of Zeus
 529 f.
 Willow-leaf as constellation 549₁
 Wilmanns, G. 608₅ 609₂
 Wilpert, J. 41₁
 Wilson, T. 337₁ 478₆
 Winckelmann, G. 426₄
 Winckler, H. 605₂ 771
 Winds, etesian 759₃ fertilising, attributed to Iupiter the planet 759 impregnating animals 759₆
 Wine 21 697₄ 746₃

- Wine-press 668 672
 Winnefeld, H. 86₃ 118₃ 150₄ 425₄ 426₀
 426₁ 427 654₆
 Winter, F. 704₃ 742₁
 Wissowa, G. 3₂ 53₅ 59₀ 271₇ 272₅ 272₆
 272₁₈ 355₁ 677₄ 693₁ 714₄ 728₃
 Witte, J. de 212₁₅ 223₈ 335₅ 374₇ 423 466₀
 698₁ 699₀ 701₁
 Woldrich, J. N. 638₂
 Wolf, hero in form of 99₀ See also Werewolves Wolves attack sheep in Athamantia 416 destroy sheep of Helios 411
 Wolves in relation to Apollon 586₂ to Ares the planet 625₅ 626 to Kirke
 242₃ to Zeus Lýkaios 63 f. 70 ff. 77 ff.
 96 ff.
 Wolf-skin, deity clad in 96 ff. 99₀ hero clad in 99₀
 Wolff, G. 522₃ 567₅
 Wolters, P. 144 474₂ 475 f. 535₂ 570₄
 708₄
 Wood, J. G. 325 325₃ 326₄ 326₅
 Wood, J. T. 443₃
 Wood, R. 556₂ 563 564₃
 Woodcutter 365₂
 Woodpecker connected with Zeus 237₁
 — (Picus) loved by hawk (Kirke)
 241 f.
 Wool, black 135 646 of ram 429₄ on
eiresióne 339
 Worshipper and god bearing the same name 395₃ 438₁ 457₇ 673 ff. 677₄ 705
 ep. 441 ff. 451
 Wower, J. 394₀
 Wreath, solar 338 ff.
 Wreath of bay 18 69 298₁₀ 376 712 729 731 of corn 745 ep. 222 and 338 of flowers 173₁ 339 622 of flowers and corn 338 of lilies 622 f. 622₃ 623₁ Wreath (cont.)
 of myrtle 220 446₈ 525 of oak 41₅ of pomegranate-flowers (?) 623₁
 Wright, J. 488₂
 Wright, T. 487 678₁
 Wright, W. 604₁
 Wroth, W. 402 527₁ 533₂ 534₈ 542₅ 567₂
 590₅ 598₁ 660₃
 Wry-neck 253 ff. 440₇
 Wundt, W. 9₂ 67₁
 Wunsch, R. 109₁ 178₀ 188₁ 285₁ 361₆ 763₁
 Xanthoudides, S. 421₀ 497₂
 Year (ἐνιαυτός) formerly of eight years' (ἔτη) duration 540₁ Roman, originally of lunar months (?) 786
 Yorke, V. W. 587₀ 742₅
 Zahn, W. 34₁ 42₁ 57₁
 Zangemeister, K. 627 627₁ 627₄ 628₁ 628₃
 Zannoni, G. B. 712₃
 Zeller, E. 28₁ 28₁ 33₂ 578₃
 Ziegler, K. 783
 Ziehen, L. 442₇
 Zielinski, F. F. 328₅
 Zielinski, T. 84₁ 89₁ 366₇
Zikkurat represents mountain 603
 Zingerle, J. 276₂ 352₁
 Zittel, K. A. 381
 Zodiac 58 516₁ 664₀ 752 ff. 771 duplicated 753
 Zoega, G. 268₂ 659₁
 Zoism defined 27₄
 Zoistic conception of bright sky 121
 776 of burning sky 27 ff. of mountain
 102₅
 Zolotas, G. I. 537₄
 Zoömorphism 533₀ See also Theriomorphism

0

Cambridge:

PRINTED BY JOHN CLAY, M.A.

AT THE UNIVERSITY PRESS

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE CARDS OR SLIPS FROM THIS POCKET

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO LIBRARY

BL
820
J8C66 1914 v.1 c.1
ROBA

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

3 1761 01509446 9

cont.

ber

ZEUS

A STUDY IN ANCIENT RELIGION

VOLUME II

PART II

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
LONDON: Fetter Lane

NEW YORK
The Macmillan Co.
BOMBAY, CALCUTTA and MADRAS
Macmillan and Co., Ltd.
TORONTO
The Macmillan Co. of Canada, Ltd.
TOKYO
Maruzen-Kabushiki-Kaisha

All rights reserved relig. H

c

ZEUS

A STUDY IN ANCIENT RELIGION

BY

ARTHUR BERNARD COOK

II

FELLOW AND LECTURER OF QUEENS' COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE READER IN CLASSICAL ARCHAEOLOGY TO THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

VOLUME II

ZEUS GOD OF THE DARK SKY (THUNDER AND LIGHTNING)

χά Ζεὺς ἄλλοκα μὲν πέλει αἴθριος, ἄλλοκα δ' ὕει

THEOKRITOS 4. 43

PART II

APPENDIXES AND INDEX

216952
23/9/27

Cambridge :
at the University Press

1925

BL
820
J8C66 1914 v.2
pt.2

APPENDIX A.

KAIROS.

Kairos as a distinct personification first emerges in the middle of s. v B.C., when Ion of Chios composed a hymn in his honour. Pausanias¹ mentions it à propos of an altar to him in the north-eastern part of the Altis: 'Hard by the entrance into the Stádion are two altars. One they call the altar of Hermes Enagónios, the other that of Kairos. I am aware that Ion of Chios actually made a hymn to Kairos and in his hymn gives the genealogy of Kairos as the youngest of the sons of Zeus.' It has been conjectured with some probability that this hymn was written for the original dedication of the Kairos-altar at Olympia².

Whether Kairos was definitely worshipped elsewhere, we cannot say. Menandros 'spoke of him as a god³;' and Lysippos 'enrolled him among the gods⁴' by making his famous effigy. But neither phrase can be pressed to imply a practical cult.

Of the Lysippean Kairos numerous late descriptions and copies are extant⁵. These, however, differ widely among themselves: some must, many may, all might, refer to subsequent modifications of the type. Our earliest and most trustworthy source is Poseidippos (c. 270 B.C.), who devotes an epigram to the statue⁶. He informs us that it was fashioned by Lysippos of Sikyon, that it stood on tip-toe as a runner with wings attached to its feet, that it carried a razor in its right hand, that it was long-haired in front but bald behind, and that it was set up 'in the vestibule'—presumably of some Sicyonian building.

But how came Lysippos, the sculptor of athletes, to attempt such a curious piece of allegory? That is a problem which has never been squarely faced. My own conviction is that the statue was not, to speak strictly, allegorical at all. Lysippos, who excelled in the rendering of graceful male forms and is said to have paid special attention to the hair⁷, wished simply to portray the Age of Puberty. He therefore modelled a youthful runner, with wings⁸ on his feet, holding the razor⁹ that had shorn his votive tress for the well known puberty-

¹ Paus. 5. 14. 9.

² O. Benndorf 'Über eine Statue des Polyklet' in the Gesammelte Studien zur Kunstgeschichte, eine Festgabe zum 4 Mai 1885 für Anton Springer Leipzig 1885 p. 11.

³ Anth. Pal. 10. 52. 1 (Palladas) εὖ γε λέγων τὸν Καίρον ἔφησ θεόν, εὖ γε, Μένανδρε, | κ.τ.λ.

⁴ Himer. eccl. 14. 1 ἐγγράφει τοῖς θεοῖς τὸν Καίρον, κ.τ.λ.

⁵ The fullest list is given by Lamer in his admirable article in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 1508—1521.

⁶ Anth. Pal. 16. 275. 1 ff. (Poseidippos).

⁷ Plin. nat. hist. 34. 65.

⁸ These may of course have been a later addition; but similar wings are attached to the feet of the 'Resting Hermes' at Naples (Guida del Mus. Napoli p. 208 f. no. 841, Brunn—Bruckmann Denkm. der gr. und röm. Sculpt. pl. 282), which—in the opinion of most critics (e.g. M. Collignon Lysippe Paris 1904 pp. 112, 115 with fig. 24)—emanated from the school, and reflects the style, of Lysippos.

⁹ Lamer loc. cit. p. 1516 on grounds which to me seem inadequate denies that Lysippos' Kairos held a razor, and hence infers that even Poseidippos was not describing the original statue.

rite¹. The resultant figure took the popular fancy, and moralists soon² discovered a deep significance in the contrast between the front hair and the back, a significance hardly intended by the sculptor. A further aptitude was perhaps found³ in the fact that the name Kairós is related to the verb keiro, 'I shave'⁴.

Symbolism, once introduced, grew apace. Gems of the Hellenistic age⁵,

Fig. 796.

Fig. 798.

Fig. 797.

when Eros and Psyche were prime favourites⁶, added wings on the shoulders (fig. 796 ff.) and a butterfly on the hand (fig. 796 f.). The globe beneath the foot⁷ (fig. 798) and the balance suspended in the air (fig. 796 f.) or poised on the razor's edge (fig. 798), are attributes appropriate to divinities of fate such as Nike⁸ and

¹ Supra i. 23 n. 6.

² First in Poseidippos' epigram (Anth. Pal. 16. 275. 7 ff.).

³ Cp. Poll. 2. 33 ἀκαρῆς κairós and context.

⁴ So P. Persson in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1895 xxxiii. 288 (κairós < κair-ῖο-). Dr Giles too told me (Oct. 22, 1911) that, starting from the root of κairῶ in the weak grade κair-, we could assume κair-ῖο- > κair-ῖο-s > κairós, cp. κῆρ-ῖο > χαιρ-ῖω > χαιρῶ.

⁵ (a) Convex cornelian in the collection of C. Newton-Robinson. Kairos, bearded, with forelock and bald head, wings on shoulders and heels, steps towards the right, holding a butterfly in his right hand and supporting with his left the depressed pan of a balance suspended before him (Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 43, 49 (=my fig. 796), ii. 207).

(b) Gem with the design of (a) reversed (Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 43, 51, ii. 208). This gem appears to be identical with (b').

(b') Gem from the Blacas collection. 'Kairos, bearded, with wings on shoulders and on heels, holding out pair of scales, and a butterfly' (Brit. Mus. Cat. Gems p. 143 no. 1199. My fig. 797 is from a cast kindly furnished by Mr A. H. Smith).

(c) Convex gem in an unknown collection. Kairos, bearded, with wings on shoulders and heels, runs towards the right. His right foot rests on a ball. His right hand carries a razor, on the edge of which is poised a balance. His left hand is held beneath one of its pans (Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 43, 50, ii. 207 f.). This gem appears to be identical with (c').

(c') Convex onyx from the Blacas collection. 'Kairos, bald on back of head, bearded, wings on shoulders and heels; runs to r. [with right foot on ball], holding out scales in front [balanced on razor], but without butterfly' (Brit. Mus. Cat. Gems p. 143 no. 1200. My fig. 798 is from a cast kindly furnished by Mr A. H. Smith).

⁶ Infra Append. G sub fin. and supra p. 645 n. 4.

⁷ Kallistrat. ἐκφράσεις β. 1—4 ('On the statue of Kairos at Sikyon') states that the figure wrought by Lysippos for the Sicyonians was a bronze boy in the bloom of youth, for the most part resembling Dionysos, but with unusual hair—long in front and at the sides, free of tresses at the back—and with winged heels set on a sphere. Nothing is said of razor or scales.

⁸ F. Studniczka Die Siegesgoettin Leipzig 1898 p. 20 pl. 4, 23, 26 f. See also supra i. 48 f. figs. 20, 22.

Nemesis¹. But the most remarkable innovation of the period remains to be mentioned. The gems in question all represent the nude and agile figure, not merely with well-marked forelock and smooth occiput, but also with a full beard. This can only mean that the verbal misuse of kairós for *chrónos*² has led to a corresponding typological confusion of Kairos with Chronos.

It is, indeed, likely that confusion became more confounded, since Chronos was constantly interchanged with Kronos³ and Kronos too appears as a bald-headed god hastening along with a sickle-knife in his hand⁴. Thus we reach the singular result that Kairos 'youngest of the sons of Zeus' has actually been transformed into a figure resembling that of his own grandfather Kronos⁵, while by a further surprising coincidence Krónos, as we have seen⁶, is derivable from the same root as Kairós.

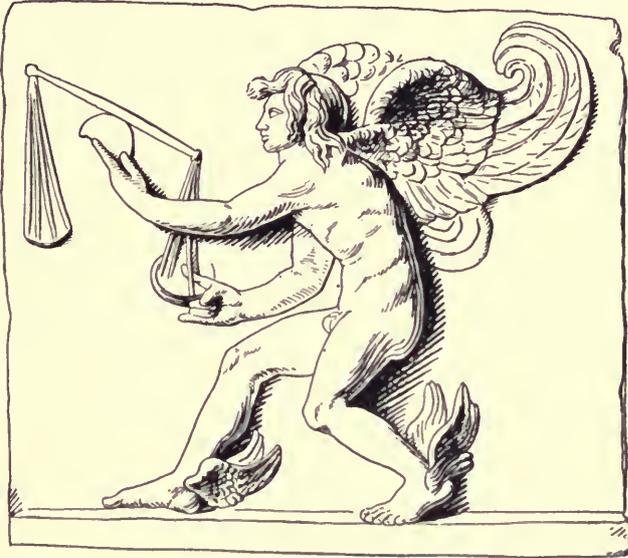

Fig. 799.

Others distinguished the types and continued to portray Kairos as a youthful god. A relief at Turin (fig. 799)⁷ shows him, with forelock and tonsure, balancing ¹ H. Posnansky Nemesis und Adrasteia Breslau 1890 p. 113. See also supra pp. 99 n. 1, 734 n. 3.

² C. A. Lobeck in his ed. of Soph. Ai. Lipsiae 1835 p. 85 n.*.

³ Supra p. 374.

⁴ Supra p. 550 fig. 426.

⁵ We are almost reminded of Zagreus the shape-shifter, who appeared now as a youthful Zeus, now as an aged Kronos (supra i. 398 f., 647).

⁶ Supra p. 549 n. 6.

⁷ A. Rivautella—J. P. Ricolvi Monumenta Taurinensia Augustae Taurinorum 1747 ii. 4 ff. no. 22 with pl., E. Curtius 'Die Darstellungen des Kairos' in the Arch. Zeit. 1875 xxxiii. 5 f. pl. 1, 1 (photograph of cast = my fig. 799), H. Heydemann Winckelmannsfest- Progr. Halle 1879 p. 35 Turin: Museo Lapidario no. 1 (thinks the slab a modern copy of an ancient relief: unconvincing), H. Dütschke Antike Bildwerke in Oberitalien Leipzig 1880 iv. 73 f. no. 117, Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 751 no. 1897, A. Baumeister the scales on the edge of a razor and depressing one pan with his finger¹. The would-be archaic wings, floating tresses, muscular body, and barocco pose all point to Pergamene influence.

Equipoise on the razor was a trait naturally suggested by the old Greek proverb 'it stands on the razor's edge'². An engraved cornelian of imperial date in the Berlin collection figures Kairos himself, scales in hand, treading gingerly along the narrow loom of a steersman's paddle (fig. 800)³. And Phaedrus must have seen similar representations in which the light-footed god even trod the razor's edge—*cursu volucris, pendens in novacula*⁴,—unless indeed we venture with G. Thiele⁵ to translate the last phrase 'weighing on the razor's edge,' in which case Phaedrus and the Turin relief would be in exact agreement.

Fig. 800.

The recognition of Kairos on Italian soil was attended by a certain grammatical awkwardness. Phaedrus describes the god in words of the masculine gender⁶, but names him Tempus in the neuter⁷, and says that he signifies *occasionem rerum...breve*⁸. Occasio, as the Latin equivalent of Kairós, was in fact the name current during the third⁹ and fourth¹⁰ centuries of our era; and, being a feminine term, it entailed a change of sex. Ausonius in one of his epigrams¹¹ professes to expound a group of Kairos and Metanoia carved by in his Denkm. ii. 771 f. fig. 823 ('aus spät-römischer Zeit, aber unzweifelhaft echt'), B. Sauer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 900 fig., F. Durrbach in Darenberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 787 fig. 4251 ('la reproduction d'un original grec'), Reinach Rép. Reliefs iii. 423 no. 3. Italian marble. Height 0.60m; breadth 0.65m.

For an exact replica on sale at Florence see Friederichs—Wolters op. cit. p. 751 f. no. 1898 n.; and for a fragmentary relief of the same type at Athens, E. Curtius loc. cit. 1875 xxxiii. 6 pl. 2, 4, L. von Sybel Katalog der Sculpturen zu Athen Marburg 1881 p. 375 no. 5987, Friederichs—Wolters op. cit. p. 751 f. no. 1898.

¹ Cp. Himer. ecl. 14. 1 ποιεῖ (sc. ὁ Λύσιππος) παῖδα τὸ εἶδος ἄβρον, τὴν ἀκμὴν ἐφθιβον, κομῶντα μὲν τὸ ἐκ κροτάφων εἰς μέτωπον, γυμνὸν δὲ τὸ ὄσον ἐκείθεν ἐπὶ τὰ νῶτα μερίζεται· σιδήρῳ τὴν δεξιὰν ὠπλισμένον, ζυγῷ τὴν λαίαν ἐπέχοντα, πτερωτὸν τὰ σφυρά, οὐχ ὡς μετάρσιον ὑπὲρ γῆς ἄνω κουφίζεσθαι, ἀλλ' ἵνα δοκῶν ἐπιφαίνειν τῆς γῆς λαυθάνη κλέπτων τὸ μὴ κατὰ γῆς ἐπερείδεσθαι.

² First in Il. 10. 173 ἐπὶ ξυροῦ ἴσταται ἀκμῆς. See further Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. v. 1692 B—D.

³ Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 273 no. 7358 pl. 55, E. Curtius in the Arch. Zeit. 1875 xxxiii. 4 pl. 2, 2 (=my fig. 800).

⁴ Phaedr. 5. 8. 1.

⁵ G. Thiele 'Phaedrus-Studien' in Hermes 1906 xli. 577 ff. Dr J. P. Postgate in a letter to me (Aug. 30, 1917) says: 'The absolute use of pendere is certainly possible though at first strange, and this perhaps has led to the belief that the participle comes from pendere. The expression of the thought is compressed in other respects; and Havet reads Cursor uolucris pendens in novacula, Calvus comosa fronte, nudo occipitio for cursu.' Dr Postgate adds that in Il. 10. 173 ἴσταται 'should I suppose be understood of "weighing,"' a common meaning of ἴστημι, though the commentators do not say so.'

⁶ Phaedr. 5. 8. 2 f.

⁷ Id. 5. 8 titulus, 5. 8. 7.

⁸ Id. 5. 8. 5.

⁹ Cato disticha 2. 26. 2 fronte capillata, post est Occasio calva.

¹⁰ Paulin. Nolan. epist. 16. 4 (lxi. 230 B Migne) unde et Spes et Nemesis et Amor atque etiam Furor in simulacris coluntur, et occipiti calvo sacratur Occasio, et tua ista Fortuna lubrico male nixa globo fingitur (figuratur codd. F.P.U.). nec minore mendacio Fata simulantur vitas hominum nere de calathis aut trutinare de lancibus.

¹¹ Aus. epigr. 33 Peiper.

Pheidias (!). Metánoia is comfortably Latinised as Paenitentia. But the god Kairós must needs become the goddess Occasio, poised on a little wheel¹, with winged feet and the traditional coiffure.

¹ Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 30, 38, ii. 149 publishes a gem, on which Kairos as a nude youthful runner, with wings on shoulders, winglets on ankles, small round mirror (?) in right hand and whip in left, sets one foot on a four-spoked wheel. Inscription: L · S · P.

A limestone relief (height on left 0·40^m, breadth at bottom 0·27^m) of s. iii or iv from Thebes, now at Cairo, shows a youthful figure in military costume, with wreath, shoulder-wings, knife, wheel, and balance, running towards the right. Below are two females, one flying at the same pace, the other left behind in an attitude of dejection. J. Strzygowski Koptische Kunst (Service des Antiquités de l'Égypte: Catalogue général des Antiquités Égyptiennes du Musée du Caire) Vienne 1904 p. 103 f. no. 8757 fig. 159 calls them Kairos, πρόνοια and μετάνοια. Cp. A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1905 viii. 150 fig. 5, O. M.

Fig. 801.

Dalton Byzantine Art and Archaeology Oxford 1911 p. 158 with fig. 65 (= my fig. 801). But P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1912 xxxvi. 263 ff. fig. 1 takes the subject to be Nemesis trampling on Hybris (supra i. 269 fig. 195), with Metanoia behind. Cp. Lamer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 1514. The latter interpretation is probably correct, though the type of Nemesis here is influenced by that of Kairos.

A relief from Thasos, now at Constantinople, has two niches side by side. In the one stands a youthful winged figure in short chiton and himation, with balance in right hand and wheel beneath feet. In the other is a pair of draped females, touching bosom of dress with right hand and holding short rod in left. A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1906 ix. 212 ff. fig. 1 viewed them as Kairos (or Bios) with Pronoia and Metanoia. But O. Rossbach in Having rung the changes from youth to old and from male to female, this Protean personage reappears in Byzantine letters and art, sometimes under the old name of Chronos, sometimes under the new name of Bios.

Georgios Kedrenos (c. 1100 A.D.) states that the masterpieces collected in the House of Lausos¹ at Constantinople included 'the figure by Lysippos representing Chronos, bald behind, long-haired before.'² Kedrenos' statement is very possibly true³, though Lamer infers from the name Chronos that we have here to do, not with the original Lysippean figure, but with a bearded copy of it⁴. Again, Ioannes Tzetzes (born c. 1110 A.D.) in his historical poem twice over informs us that, when Alexander had let slip an opportunity, Lysippos of Sikyon made him an effigy of Chronos 'Deaf, bald behind, wing-footed on a sphere,

And offering naught but a knife to his follower⁵.'

Tzetzes further spends a score of lines on insisting that this was Chronos, not, as sundry wiseacres maintained, Bios⁶. He had already said the same thing in greater detail in one of his letters⁷. And, after him, Nikephoros Blemmydes (1197/8—1272 A.D.) describes the group in almost identical terms⁸. We gather Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 157 f. fig. 6 proved that they are Nemesis and the Nemeseis; and P. Perdrizet loc. cit. p. 267 suggested the Nemesis of Alexandria and the Nemeseis of Smyrna (supra i. 270 fig. 197, 273). Cp. A. Legrand in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iv. 54 fig. 5300, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 174 no. 3, Lamer loc. cit.

¹ On this see Kodinos de signis Constantinopolitanis 21 c (p. 37 f. Bekker) = Anonymos πάτρια 2. 36 (p. 170, 4 ff. Preger).

² Kedren. hist. comp. 322 c (i. 564 Bekker) καὶ τὸ τὸν χρόνον μιμούμενον ἀγαλμα, ἔργον Λύσιππου, ὅπισθεν μὲν φαλακρὸν, ἔμπροσθεν δὲ κομῶν.

³ See A. Frickenhaus in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1915 xxx. 127.

⁴ Lamer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 1511 f.

⁵ Tzetz. chil. 8. 428 ff., 10. 264 ff.

⁶ Tzetz. chil. 10. 275 ff.

⁷ Tzetz. epist. 70 (p. 61 Pressel) Ἀλεξάνδρῳ ποτὲ τῶν Μακεδόνων τῷ βασιλεῖ παραδραμὸντι καιρὸν καὶ μεταμέλου πείραν λαβόντι παρῶν ἐκεῖνος ὁ πλάστης ὁ Λύσιππος, Σικυώνιος ὃ ἦν ὁ ἀνὴρ, θεοῦτατε δέσποτα, ὡς οὐτ' ἀκινδύον ἑώρα τὸν βασιλεῖα ἐλέγχειν, οὔτε μὴν πάντη ἀζήμιον τὸ μὴ τὴν ἑτέρων διαμαρτίαν ἑτέροις ποιεῖσθαι διδάσκαλον, τὴν ἀμφοτέρων κακίαν ἐκπεφευγὸς σοφῶς ἀμφότερα ἔδρασεν. ἐν εἰκόνι καὶ γὰρ τὸν χρόνον ἀγαλματώσας τὸν τε βασιλεῖα τῷ μὴ δοκεῖν ἐλέγχειν κοσμίως ἐξήλεγε καὶ τῷ κοινῷ τῶν ἀνθρώπων πρακτικὴν τοῦ λοιποῦ τὴν εἰκόνα παραίνεσιν καταλέλοιπεν. ἔχει δὲ οὕτως τὸ εἰκόνισμα. ἀνθρωπὸς τις ὁ Χρόνος ἐκεῖνῳ δεδημιούργηται προκόμιον ἔχων βραχὺ, τὰ δ' ἄλλα ὀπισθοφάλακρος καὶ κωφὸς ἰκανῶς, ὡς ἐστὶν εἰκάσαι, καὶ γυμνὸς ἐστὶν ὡς διολισθαίνων καὶ ἀναφῆς· βέβηκε δὲ ἐπὶ σφαίρας εὐδρόμου τινὸς μεταριπτάζων αὐτοῦ τοῖς ποσὶν ἐκείνην ὀξυκινήτως, ὡς ἡ τῶν ποδῶν ὑπανίπτεται πτέρωσι. ἐκείνου δὲ κατόπιον ἕτερος δεδημιούργηται ἀνθρωπος εὐτόνω κεχηρμένος βαδίσματι, χεῖρά τε ἰδίαν ἐκτείνων, ἐκείνον ὡς συλληψόμενος καὶ τοῦτον μετακαλούμενος, ὡς τὸ ἀνεσπασμένον αὐτοῦ τῶν χειρῶν δηλοῖ· ὃ δὲ παρέρχεται τε καὶ ὄχεται καὶ κωφεύων οὐκ ἔπαίει, μάχαιραν δὲ ὀρέγει πρὸς τὸ κατόπιον ἐπανατείνων τὴν χεῖρα, κατακαρδίουσ πηλῆας αἰνιττήμενος, αἴπειρ ἐγγίνονται τοῖς χρόνον καθυστερίζουσι. οὕτω πως σοφῶς ὁ Λύσιππος ἐνουθέτησε μὴ καθυστερίζειν καιροῦ, τοιαύτη τὸν Χρόνον ἀνασθηλώσας γραφῆ, κἂν ἀκαιρηγοροῦντες δοκῆται τινὲς ἀκρίτως εἶναι βίον ταύτην παραληρώσιν εἰκόνησιν, μὴ συνιέντες ὡς κ.τ.λ. Cp. epist. 95 (p. 86 Pressel) κωφὸν· ὁλον τὸν παροχόμενον χρόνον Λύσιππος μὲν ἐξωγράφησε, κ.τ.λ. with schol. A.B. ἐξωγράφησε· ἀντὶ τοῦ ἠρδριαντοῦργησεν· ὁ Λύσιππος γὰρ ἀνδριαντοποιός, οὐ ζωγράφος.

⁸ Nikeph. Blemmyd. oratio qualem oporteat esse regem 10 (in A. Mai Scriptorum veterum nova collectio Romae 1827 ii. 638) λέγουσὶ τινας ὅτι καὶ Λύσιππος ὁ ζωγράφος ἐκεῖνος ὁ Σικυωνίους (leg. Σικυώνιος) βουληθεὶς ζωγραφῆσαι καὶ ὡς ἐν παραδείγματι δεῖξαι (leg. δεῖξαι) that some copy of Lysippos' runner, mounted on a ball, had been amplified by the addition of a second figure portraying the man who has allowed his opportunity to pass by and now pursues it in vain.

Among the wisecakes denounced by Tzetzes must be reckoned his contemporary Theodoros Prodromos (first half of s. xii A.D.), who in an extant epigram¹ describes Bios as a naked man, with wheels beneath his feet and wings about his shins, bearing a balance in his hand, and easily escaping from his pursuer, though holding out hopes of return. The poem is well illustrated by a fragmentary relief (fig. 802)² let into the pavement under the steps of the ambo in ὅποιον ἔχει τὴν φυγὴν ὁ χρόνος ἐποίησε τοῦτον κωφόν, ὀπισθοφάλακρον (leg. ὀπισθοφάλακρον), πτερόποδα, καὶ ἐπάνω τοῦ τροχοῦ βεβηκότα, μάχαιραν διδόντα κάτωθεν ἱσταμένῳ τινί· κωφὸν μὲν, ὡς πρὸς τοὺς αὐτὸν φωνοῦντας, μηδαμῶς αἰσθανόμενον· φαλακρὸν δὲ τὰ ὄπισθεν, ὡς ἀδυνάτου ὄντος ὄπισθεν διώκοντα τινὰ κρατῆσαι αὐτόν· πῶς δὲ τις αὐτὸν παραδραμόντα φθάσαι ἰσχύσειε πτερόποδα ὄντα καὶ ἐπὶ σφαίρας ἱστάμενον; διδόντα δὲ ξίφος, διότι οἱ μῆτε δυνάμενοι τῆς κόμης κρατῆσαι μῆτε φθάσαι φεύγοντα τιτρώσκονται τῷ βέλει τῆς λύπης ὡς τῆς ζημίας ἐπαισθανόμενοι. Id. βασιλικὸς ἀνδρίας 10 (ii. 667 Mai) Λύσιππος ὅθεν ὁ Σικυνώσιος, ὃ τι ποτὲ ἔστιν ὁ χρόνος καλῶς συμβολογραφῶν, κωφὸν αὐτὸν ἠγαλμάτωσεν, ὀπισθοφάλακρον, πτερόποδά τε κἀπὶ σφαίρας βεβηκότα, μάχαιράν τινι πρὸς τὸ κατόπιν ὀρέγοντα, δηλῶν ἐντεῦθεν ὡς οὐκ ἂν ἐπιστραφείη καλούμενος, διότι κενώφενκεν· οὔτε τις αὐτὸν ἐκ τοῦ ὀπίσω παρακατάσχοι δεδραγμένος τῆς κόμης, τὸ γὰρ ὀπισθόκρανον κατεψίλωτο· πῶς δὲ καὶ ὄλως παραδραμόντα τις καταλήψαιτο, τὴν δὲ ξυκινησίαν τοσαύτην φέροντα κἀκ τῶν ποδῶν κἀκ τῆς βάσεως; ρομφαίαν (ins. ἀν) σπᾶσαιτο λύπης ὥστε θυμὸν ἀμόσσειν ὁ τῆς ζημίας αἰσθόμενος.

¹ Theod. Prodr. eis εἰκονισμένον τὸν βίον (cxxxiii. 1419 A—1420 A Migne)

ἐμὲ τὸν βίον, ἄνθρωπε, δέξαι σου παρανέτην.
 ἔτυχες, εἶρες, ἔλαβες, κατέσχες μου τὰς τρίχας;
 μὴ πρὸς ῥαστώνην ἐκδοθῆς, μὴ πρὸς τρυφὴν χωρήσης,
 μηδὲ φρονήσης ὑψηλὰ καὶ πέρα τοῦ μετρίου.
 γυμνὸν με βλέπεις· νόησον γυμνὸν μου καὶ τὸ τέλος.
 ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας μου τροχοί· φρίττε μὴ κυλισθῶσι.
 περὶ τὰς κνήμας μου πτερά· φεύγω, παρίπταμαί σε.
 ζυγὰ κατέχω τῇ χειρί· φοβοῦ τὰς μετακλίσεις.
 τί με κρατεῖς; σκιάν κρατεῖς· πνοὴν κρατεῖς ἀέμου.
 τί με κρατεῖς; καπνὸν κρατεῖς, ὄνειρον, ἔχνος πλοίου.
 ἐμὲ τὸν βίον, ἄνθρωπε, δέξαι σου παρανέτην.
 οὐκ ἔτυχες, οὐκ ἔλαβες, οὐκ ἔσχες μου τὰς τρίχας;
 μὴ σκυθρωπᾶσης τοῦ λοιποῦ, μηδὲ δυσελπιστήσης.
 γυμνὸς εἰμι, καὶ τῶν χειρῶν ἐξολισθῆσας τούτων ἴσως μεταρρήσομαι πρὸς σὲ καὶ μεταπέσω.
 ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας μου τροχοί· τάχα σοι κυλισθῶσι.
 περὶ τὰς κνήμας μου πτερά· τρέχω, προσίπταμαί σοι.
 ζυγὰ κατέχω· τάχα σοι τὴν πλάστιγγα χαλάσω.
 μὴ τοῖνον ἀποπροσποιοῦ τὰς ἀγαθὰς ἐλπίδας.

There is a line lost from the second of the two stanzas, which were clearly meant to correspond.

² O. Jahn in the Ber. sächs. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1853 pp. 49—59 pl. 4, E. Curtius 'Die Darstellungen des Kairos' in the Arch. Zeit. 1875 xxxiii. 6 f. pl. 1, 2, Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 752 no. 1899, A. Baumeister in his Denkm. ii. 772 fig. 824, B. Sauer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 900 fig., F. Durrbach in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 787 f. fig. 4252, A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1904 vii. 132 ff. fig. 4, O. M. Dalton Byzantine Art and Archaeology Oxford 1911 p. 158 f. fig. 91, Reinach Rép. Reliefs iii. 422 no. 3.

A further fragment of the relief, found by the architect R. Cattaneo in a mason's shop at Venice, was published by him in the drawing here reproduced (R. Cattaneo L'architettura the Duomo at Torcello near Venice. The relief, which may be dated c. 1100 A.D., represents Bios as a half-naked youth hastening on winged wheels from right to left. His left hand, stretched forward, carries the scales; his right, drawn backward, brandishes a knife. In front of him stands a young man, who succeeds in grasping his hair. Behind him stands an old man, who fails in the attempt. To the left of the former is Nike with wreath and palm; to the right of the latter is Metanoia in an attitude of despair. Less elaborate is the symbolism of a later epigram on the same subject by Manuel Philes (c. 1275—c. 1345), who speaks of life (bios) as a nude youth, with bald head and winged feet, admonishing a frustrated follower¹.

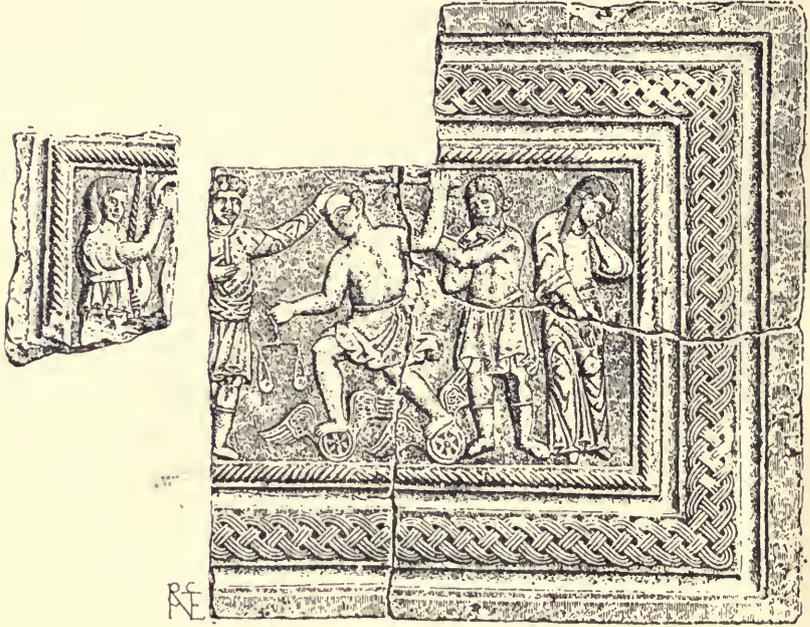

Fig. 802.

in Italia dal secolo VI al mille circa Venezia 1888 p. 287 fig., trans. Contessa I. Curtis-Cholmeley in Bermani London 1896 p. 334 ff. fig. 165 = my fig. 802) and by A. Muñoz from a photograph (A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1906 ix. 214 f. fig. 2). The completed design is discussed by R. von Schneider 'Ueber das Kairosrelief in Torcello und ihm verwandte Bildwerke' in the Serta Harteliana Wien 1896 pp. 279—292 with figs., P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1912 xxxvi. 264 ff. fig. 2, Lamer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 1513 f.

R. Cattaneo loc. cit. was the first to assign this relief to its right place among the decorative sculptures of s. x and s. xi A.D. A. Muñoz loc. cit. first showed that the central figure was that of Bios.

¹ Philes carm. 67 (i. 32 Miller) εἰς μεράκιον γυμνόν, εἰκόνα φέρον τοῦ βίου φεύγω, περωτός εἰμι· τί λαβεῖν θέλεις;
τὰς τρίχας; ἀλλ' ἔρρευσαν. ἀλλὰ τοὺς πόδας;
καὶ πῶς περωτοῖς εὐρεθέντας ἂν λάβοις;
τὸ σῶμα; γυμνόν ἐστὶ· τί σπεύδεις μάτην;

Yet another turn of the kaleidoscope, and this shifting personality puts on, if not a fresh form, at least a new colouring. Bios the naked runner on winged wheels, who has hitherto, in accordance with pagan thought, been represented as a good thing eagerly pursued by mankind, is now, within the pale of the medieval Church, viewed as a bad thing itself in hot pursuit of men. A Vatican manuscript of the Ladder of Paradise by Saint John Klimax¹, written about the close of s. xi A.D., has two relevant miniatures. In the one² Bios, a naked youth on wheels, makes after a monk, who bearing a small basket on his shoulder and looking behind him in terror does his best to escape, under the escort of a woman in blue and violet dress called Aprospátheia, 'Indifference to the World.' In the other (fig. 803)³ Bios again appears on his roller-skates, extending a hand to seize the monk, who stands irresolute, hesitating whether or not to abandon for Aprospatheia's sake his wife and children and happy home. A notable picture— one wonders if John Bunyan had somewhere seen the like.

Fig. 803.

We have traced the career of Kairos alias Chronos alias Bios for close upon eighteen centuries. It is possible that further investigation might find him with us still, 'offering' as of old 'naught but a knife to his follower.' 'It would be interesting to know,' says Prof. E. A. Gardner⁴, 'whether the scythe of Time is the ultimate development of this same symbol, and his hour-glass of the balance.'

ἄνθρωπε ταλαίπωρε, λήξον τοῦ δρόμου, μὴ κατενεχθῆς τῷ δοκεῖν τι λαμβάνειν.
σκιά γάρ εἰμι, κἂν δοκῶ τέως μένειν.
ἀφίπταμαί σου καὶ πρὸς οὐδὲν ἐκτρέχω,
καὶ γίνομαι βροῦς ἂν συνέξῃς δακτύλοις.

Another ms. of Philes (cod. Paris.) has the lemma εἰς τὸν βίον μειράκιον ἐξωγραφημένον, whence A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1904 vii. 131 n. 2 justly concludes that the poem alludes to some work of art.

¹ Supra p. 134 f. The ms. is cod. Vat. Gr. 394.

² A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1904 vii. 132 with fig. 2. The three characters are inscribed ὁ βίος, ὁ μοναχός, and ἡ ἀπροσπάθεια, above whose name is written ἡ φυγὴ κόσμου.

³ A. Muñoz in L'Arte 1904 vii. 132 with fig. 3 (part of which = my fig. 803). The inscriptions are ἡ γυνὴ τοῦ μοναχοῦ, οἱ παῖδες τοῦ μοναχοῦ, ὁ βίος, ὁ μοναχός, and in the field ἀπελθε μοναχέ εἰς καταλύσαν ἀπροσπάθειαν and ὁ δὲ βίος σκιά καὶ ἐνύπνια.

⁴ E. A. Gardner A Handbook of Greek Sculpture London 1897 ii. 411 n. 1.

The scythe of Time¹ should, I think, rather be derived from the scythe of Death, who was often conceived as a reaper or mower² and in folk-celebrations of Mid-Lent was sometimes represented by a straw puppet with a scythe in his hand³. The hour-glass of Time likewise copies the hour-glass of Death so frequently figured in the *Danse Macabre*⁴ of the Middle Ages. But Time himself is presumably the lineal descendant of the Byzantine Chronos or Bios. And it may well be that the knife, if not the balance, of Bios was modified to suit the popular effigy of Death. After all, the Church's idea of Life has often borne a suspicious resemblance to the world's idea of Death. *τίς δ' οἶδεν εἰ τὸ ζῆν μὲν ἐστι καθανεῖν, | τὸ καθανεῖν δὲ ζῆν κάτω νομίζεται*⁵;

If the main lines of the pedigree are as I have supposed, a further point may be described. As at the first the razor of Kairos, so at the last the scythe of Time, was a symbol drawn from ritual usage. Such symbols live longest.

APPENDIX B.

THE MOUNTAIN-CULTS OF ZEUS.

Since the mountain-cults of Zeus have not, even in Germany, been made the subject of separate and detailed investigation⁶, it seemed worth while to collect the evidence both literary and monumental bearing upon them. The inferences that can be drawn from the evidence have for the most part been already stated⁷.

The Greeks worshipped Zeus Óreios 'of the Mountain'⁸, Zeus Koryphaíos

¹ Ancient, medieval, and modern representations of Time are discussed by F. Piper Mythologie und Symbolik der christlichen Kunst Weimar 1851 i. 2. 389—409.

² J. Grimm Teutonic Mythology trans. J. S. Stallybrass London 1883 ii. 848, 1888 iv. 1558, K. Simrock *Handbuch der Deutschen Mythologie*³ Bonn 1878 p. 479.

³ J. Grimm op. cit. 1883 ii. 772, W. Mannhardt *Wald- und Feldkulte*² Berlin 1904 i. 155 f., 412, 418, 421, cp. 420, Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 247.

⁴ On the various forms of the Danse Macabre see F. Douce The Dance of Death London 1833 with 54 pls., E. H. Langlois Essai historique, philosophique et pittoresque sur les Danses des morts Rouen 1852 in 2 vols. with 54 pls. and many figs., J. G. Kastner Les Danses des morts Paris 1852 with 20 pls. Bibliography in H. F. Massmann Literatur der Todtentänze Leipzig 1840 and E. Vinet Bibliographie méthodique et raisonnée des beaux-arts Paris 1874 pp. 116—121.

⁵ Eur. Polyeidos frag. 638 Nauck². See further F. H. M. Blaydes on Aristoph. ran. 1477, infra Append. N init.

⁶ R. Beer Heilige Höhen der alten Griechen und Römer Wien 1891 pp. x, 86, written as a supplement to F. v. Andrian Der Höhengcultus asiatischer und europäischer Völker Wien 1891, is a slight and disappointing book. C. Albers De diis in locis editis cultis pud Graecos Zutphaniae 1901 pp. 1—92 is likewise quite inadequate (see Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 pp. 115, 316). The lists given by Welcker Gr. Götterl. i. 169 ff., Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 116 f., Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 50 ff., 152 ff., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1103 f., though useful, are incomplete.

⁷ Supra i. 117 ff. et passim.

⁸ Zeus Óreios. E. Renan Mission de Phénicie Paris 1864 p. 396 f. recorded two identical inscriptions on blocks of gritstone formerly used for the lintel of the church-door at Halalieh: ἔτους ζυς', μηνὸς Ἀπελλαίου ιέ', Θερεπτίων (N)είκωνος τοῦ Σωσίππου τοῦ δύο | λέοντας Δι' Ὀρεῖω, κατ' ὄναρ, ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων, εὐσεβῶν ἀνέθηκεν. The year 257 in the Seleucid era would be 55 B.C., in that of Antioch 209 A.D., in that of Sidon 147 A.D. Renan held that the last date agrees best with the lettering. He pointed out that a little lion in white stone, found in 1863 at the foot of the hill on which the church stands, may well have been one of the two lions here mentioned. G. F. Hill in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1911 xxxi. 57 notes that 'the lion, as an inhabitant of the mountain rather than the plain, is naturally sacred to the mountain deity' [cp. 2 Kings 17. 25 f.], in this case to the Mountain Baal, Hellenised as Zeus 'Opeios, whose consort Astarte (?) rides a lion on coppers of Sidon struck by Severus Alexander (G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phoenicia pp. cxiii n. 6, 198 pl. 25, 8).

'of the Peak¹, Zeus Aktaios 'of the Point², Zeus Akraios 'of the Summit³,

Zeus 'Orompatas. E. Sittig in Hermes 1915 l. 158 f. publishes a dedication on a block of dark limestone at Amathous in Kypros: $\text{Κυπρ} \text{|||||} \text{Πολυξένου: Αινιάν[ος θυ]γάτηρ: Εὐβίωτα | Παναίτιον Πολυξένου Αινιάνα, | Διὸς 'Ορομπάτα ἱερέα, τὸν αὐτῆς ἄνδρα, | αὐτῆ καὶ τὰ παιδία.}$ The lettering suggests s. iii B.C.; and Sittig regards 'Orompatas as = δρειβάτης ('Offenbar neigte das Kyprische dazu, β spirantisch zu sprechen; da in dem Dialekte der Ainianen β Verschlusslaut blieb, vollends in einem sakralen Worte, so half man sich bei der Schreibung so, dass man MII statt des B setzte, mit dem die Eingeborenen einen anderen Lautwert verbanden'). This is ingenious; but, apart from the fact that μπ for β is unexampled at so early a date, δρειβάτης is an epithet which suits Pan (Anth. Pa. 16. 226. 1 (Alkaios of Messene)) rather than Zeus. I suspect that Zeus 'Orompatas was a god of streams worshipped by the Ainianes. We hear of Ainianes as settled in Kirrha the harbour of Delphoi (Plout. quaestt. Gr. 13 and 26), and of δρεμπότης as a Delphic term for 'river' (Plout. de Pyth. or. 24 ἀπέπανσε δὲ τὴν Πυθίαν ὁ θεὸς πυρρικούου μὲν ὀνομάζουσιν τοὺς αὐτῆς ποταμούς, ὀφιοβόρους δὲ τοὺς Σπαρτιάτας, ὀρεάνας δὲ τοὺς ἄνδρας, ὀρεμπότας δὲ τοὺς ποταμούς). On this showing Zeus 'Orompatas resembles his neighbour Zeus Naios, a god 'of Streaming Water' (supra i. 369). The head of Zeus on coins of the Ainianes (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 10 ff. pl. 2, 1, 4, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 292), which in the case of coppers struck c. 168—146 B.C. often has a thunderbolt in the field (so on two specimens in my collection), may be that of Zeus 'Orompatas.

¹ Zeus Korupaios. Seleukeia Pieria, at the foot of Mt Koryphaion (Polyb. 5. 59. 4), had a priest of Zeus 'Olympios and Zeus Korupaios (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4458, 3f., 3ff., = Dittenberger Oriente. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 245, 3f. Διὸς 'Ολυμπίου | καὶ Διὸς Κορυφαίου, 27 ff. Διὸς 'Ολυμπίου [καὶ] | τῶν θεῶν τῶν | Σωτήρ[ων] καὶ Διὸς | Κορυφαίου, cp. Liban. legat. ad Iulian. 79 (ii. 152, 10f. Foerster) τὸν Δία τὸν τε ἐπὶ τῆς κορυφῆς καὶ τὸν ἐν ἄστει, παρ' ὃν εἰσῆλθεσ ὑπατος, ὅθεν ἐξῆλθεσ θαρρῶν, ᾧ γέγονας ὀφειλέτης). Philadelphia in Lydia, at the base of Mt Tmolos, also had a cult of Zeus Korupaios (supra p. 285 n. o no. (3) and Addenda ad loc.), whose head is seen on an imperial bronze coin of the town (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 190 pl. 21, 9 = my fig. 804 (from a cast), Head *Hist. num.*² p. 655). The title has a variety of meanings in Paus. 2. 4. 5 (Corinth) ὑπὲρ δὲ τὸ θέατρον ἔστιν ἱερὸν Διὸς Καπετωλίου φωνῆ τῆ 'Ρωμαίων· κατὰ Ἑλλάδα δὲ γλῶσσαν Κορυφαῖος ὀνομάζοιτο ἄν, Aristeid. or. 1. 8 (i. 11 Dindorf) οὗτος βασιλεὺς, πολιεὺς, καταιβάτης, βέτιος, οὐράνιος, κορυφαῖος, πάνθ' ὅσα αὐτὸς εἶρε μεγάλα καὶ ἐάντῳ πρόποντα ὀνόματα, Max. Tyr. diss. 41. 2 Dübner τὸν Δία...τὸν κορυφαῖον τῆς τῶν ἀστρων περιφορᾶς καὶ δινήσεως καὶ χορείας καὶ ὄρθρου, cp. Ioul. or. 7. 230 D ἀγαγῶν δὲ αὐτὸν ἐπὶ τι μέγα καὶ ὑψηλὸν ὄρος, 'Ἐπὶ τούτου, ἔφη, τῆς κορυφῆς ὁ πατήρ πάντων κάθηται τῶν θεῶν, Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 59 (Minerva) quarta Iove nata et Coryphe, Oceani filia, Clem. Al. protr. 2. 28. 2 p. 21, 1f. Stählin (supra i. 155 n. 10, to which add Arnob. adv. nat. 4. 14 and 16), Orph. h. Poseid. 17 b. 3 (Poseidon) ὁσ ναίεις κορυφαῖος ἐπ' Οὐλύμποιο κερήνων, Paus. 2. 28. 2 ἐπὶ δὲ τῆ ἄκρα τοῦ ὄρους (sc. of Mt Koryphon near Epidaurus) Κορυφαίας ἔστιν ἱερὸν Ἀρτέμιδος, Steph. Byz. s.v. Κορυφαῖον ὄρος ἐπὶ τῷ Ἐπιδαυρίῳ, ἐν ᾧ τιμᾶται Ἄρτεμις Κορυφαία.

Fig. 804.

² Zeus 'Aktaios. Dikaiarch. 2. 8 (Geogr. Gr. min. i. 107 Müller) ἐπ' ἄκρας δὲ τῆς τοῦ ὄρους (sc. of Mt Pelion) κορυφῆς σπηλαιὸν ἔστι τὸ καλούμενον Χειρῶνιον, καὶ Διὸς Ἀκταῖος
[³ For note 3 see p. 871.]

(F. Osann, followed by C. Müller, cj. Ἀκραίου ἱερῶν, ἐφ' ὃ κατὰ κινδὸς ἀνατολήν κατὰ τὸ ἀκμαιότατον καύμα ἀναβαίνουσι τῶν πολιτῶν οἱ ἐπιφανέστατοι καὶ ταῖς ἡλικίαις ἀκμάζοντες, ἐπιλεχθέντες ἐπὶ τοῦ ἱερέως, ἐνεξωσμένοι κώδια τρίποκα καινὰ· τοιοῦτον συμβαίνει ἐπὶ τοῦ ὄρους τὸ ψῶχος εἶναι. On this passage see supra i. 420 f. The sanctuary of Zeus Ἀκταῖος has been located and partially explored by A. S. Arvanitopoulos in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1911 pp. 305—312 fig. 5 (= my fig. 805). The discoveries there described may be here summarised (brief notice also in Am. Journ. Arch. 1913 xvii. 109):

The highest peak of Pelion (1635^m), now called Plisssidi or Pliasstidi, has been repeatedly ransacked by treasure-seekers, some of whom coming from Drákeia are said to have been devoured by wolves. The rocky eastern side of the summit shows traces of ancient hewn habitations, like those of Demetrias, Pagasai, Phthiotic Thebes, etc., with holes for roof-timbers and coarse tiles perhaps manufactured on the spot. These dwellings are called by the shepherds Skoleiói, because they resemble the benches in a school.

Close by is a ruined gate of hewn stone (E) with two towers (Π, Π), continued as a wall some 3^m thick, which forms a large elliptical precinct and probably had another gate on the south, though most of the stones have here disappeared. The wall and towers may date from s. v B.C. Adjoining this precinct, on the south-east, is another, of whose wall nothing remains beyond a small portion of the eastern side. The two precincts are separated by a wall of small stones (Γ), again 3^m thick, which was roofed on both sides so as to make a stoá for the sale of commodities during festival seasons.

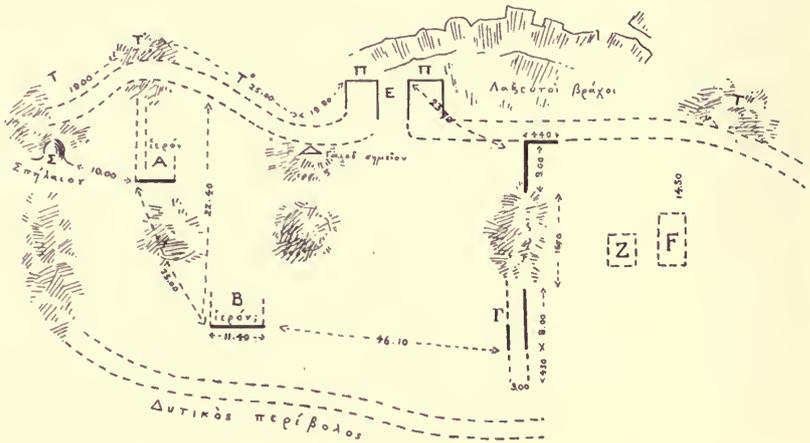

Fig. 805.

At the north-west end of the large precinct is a steep rock-face, in which is the mouth of a cave (Σ), 2^m across, blocked with stones by the natives in recent times. The walls of the cave appear to have been hewn. Near it are traces of a building (A), which seems to have been of apsidal or horse-shoe shape, like the temple of Athena Polías at Gonnoi (Arvanitopoulos loc. cit. p. 316 fig. 6), and was presumably the temple of the divinity worshipped in the cave. Further west was the quadrilateral temple (B) of another related deity: this was on a larger scale, one side partly excavated reaching a length of 11.40^m with a wall 0.55^m thick. Both buildings were carefully constructed of clay, the roofs being supported on trunks of trees. Numerous red tiles and black cover-tiles remain. Miscellaneous finds in this area include small cups of s. v—iv B.C., a copper coin of Chalkis of s. iv, butts and blades of iron lances, a flat unpainted idol like those of island make, three fragments of votive marble stélai, six amphorae buried full of embers and ashes. In the gateway (E) was a fragmentary stèle of hard white limestone inscribed in lettering of s. iv B.C. [οἱ δέϊνες ἀνέθηκ]αν Μ[ούσ(?)]αις.

Inside the second precinct are two buildings (F and Z). Of these one (F) is a rectangular structure, built of large hewn blocks, with many roof-tiles. It stands on a slight elevation and, as the finest building on the site, is probably to be identified with the temple of Zeus 'Ακραῖος. Its position outside the large precinct is curious [and may imply that Zeus was a later comer than the deity worshipped in the cave—Cheiron son of Kronos and Philyra (?) A. B. C.]. Arvanitopoulos was unable to complete the excavation of this temple, because at midnight on Aug. 15, 1911, a storm burst on the summit of the mountain, inundated his tent, and forced him to beat a retreat. The small neighbouring structure (Z) was left wholly unexcavated.

³ Zeus 'Ακραῖος. (1) The cult of Zeus 'Ακραῖος on Mt Pelion is attested by an inscription found near Burha on the Gulf of Pagasai and now in the Museum at Volo (J. v. Protta and L. Ziehen Leges Graecorum sacrae ii no. 82, 1 ff.=O. Kern in the Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 2 no. 1110, 1 ff. [---- παριστάναι τὰ θύματα λευκὰ ὀλόκληρα [κα][θαρὰ ἃ δεῖ θύ]εσθαι τῷ θεῷ και τὰ ἄλλα τὰ ἐθιζόμενα καθῶς [καλ] | [πρὶν ἐ]γίνετο, τὰς δὲ τούτων δωρὰς πωλεῖσθαι ἀπὸ τοῦ [νῦν χρῶ][νου κα]' ἐνιαυτῶν ὑπὸ κήρυκα τῆ ἐκτεῖ ἐπὶ δέκα τοῦ 'Αρτεμισιῶνος μῆ]νός πρὸ τῆς ἐκκλησίας γνωμῆνης ἐννόμου ἀπὸ τοῦ ---- ῥιόν ὑπὸ τῶν προγεγραμμένων ἀρχόντων, συμπαραρῶτων καὶ τοῦ ἱερέως τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ 'Ακραίου καὶ τῶν ἐξεταστῶν, καὶ τὸ ἐκ τούτων | γενόμενον διάφ[ορον ἱερὸν εἶναι] τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ 'Ακραίου. . . .]νου τὰς ἀγορὰς ---- αμα τῷ θεῷ συναχθεῖση | --- κ.τ.λ. (eight lines badly mutilated)): on this see supra i. 421 f. In s. ii B.C. the priest of Zeus 'Ακραῖος was a personage of importance, who proposed decrees along with the chief magistrates of the Magnetes (Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 307, 7 f.=Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 2 no. 1103, 7 f. 'Αδαῖος 'Αδύμο[υ] ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ ['Α]κραίου, ib. iii. 2 no. 1105, 11, 6 f. Θηβαγένης 'Απολλωνίου ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ] 'Ακραίου, Michel op. cit. no. 309, 6=Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 2 no. 1108, 6 [Λυ]σίας 'Επιτέλου ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ 'Ακραίου). About 100 B.C. the priest of Zeus 'Ακραῖος was eponymous magistrate of the Magnetes, and those who were charged with the up-keep of the oracle of Apollon Κοροπαῖος took oath by Zeus 'Ακραῖος, Apollon Κοροπαῖος, and Artemis 'Ιωλκία (Michel op. cit. no. 842 A, 1 ff., B, 5 ff., 21 f.=Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 1157, 1 a, 1 ff., 1 b c, 54 ff., 11, 70 f.=Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 2 no. 1109, 1, 1 ff. ἱερέως Κρίνωνος τοῦ Παρμενίως, μῆνός 'Αρείου δεκάτη, | Κρίνων Παρμενίως 'Ομολιεύς ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ 'Ακραίου κ.τ.λ., 54 ff. (cited supra p. 730 n. 0 sub fin.), 11, 70 f. ἱερέως Κρίνωνος τοῦ Παρμενίως, μῆνός 'Αρτεμισιῶνος δεκάτη, | Κρίνων Παρμενίως 'Ομολιεύς ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ 'Ακραίου κ.τ.λ.). Cp. Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 2 no. 1128, 1 ff. Ἀύρ. Τειμασιθεὸς | Κενταύριος ὁ ἱερ[ε]ῦς τῷ 'Ακραίῳ Δε[ι].

(2) On the Pindos range between Thessaly and Epeiros there was a sanctuary of Zeus 'Ακραῖος (Liv. 38. 2 templum Iovis Acraei), whose figure seated on a rock or throne appears on coins of Gomphoi or Philippopolis (supra i. 124 figs. 90—92).

(3) At Trapezous in Arkadia, beneath Mt Lykaion, sacrifices were offered to Zeus 'Ακραῖος (Nikol. Damask. frag. 39 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 377 Müller) ταχὺ δὲ καὶ τοὺς υἱεῖς (sc. Κρεσφόντου) ἤθελον (sc. οἱ ἐγχώριοι ἀποκτεῖναι), οὐς τότε ὁ μητροπάτωρ (sc. Κύψελος) ἄμα τῇ θυγατρὶ κνούση θύειν μέλλων Διὶ 'Ακραίῳ εἰς Τραπεζοῦντα μετεπέμψατο).

(4) At Praisos in eastern Crete, where there was a temple of Zeus Δικταῖος (supra i. 660), the god seems to have borne the second appellative 'Ακραῖος. He appears on silver coins of the town (supra i. 660 n. 3) enthroned with sceptre and eagle and accompanied by the title ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ (first correctly deciphered by C. T. Seltman); fig. 806 is from a specimen in my collection. Since the coins in question go back to a date c. 400 B.C., this is the earliest known example of ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ as a numismatic legend.

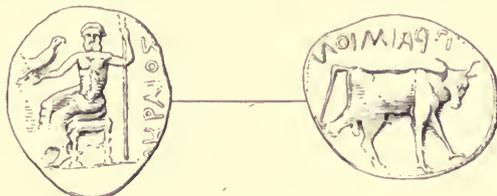

Fig. 806.

(5) At Halikarnassos Aphrodite, who shared a temple with Hermes on high ground beside the spring Salmakis (Vitr. 2. 8. 11), probably bore the title Ἄκρατα, since the Halicarnassians are known to have built a temple of Aphrodite Ἄκρατα beneath the akrópolis of their mother-city Troizen (Paus. 2. 32. 6). Zeus too was worshipped at Halikarnassos under the same title (Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 501 Διονύσιος | Διὶ Ἄκραται εὐχῆ[ν]). T. Bergk Exercitationum criticarum specimen VI Marburgi 1850 p. vi (= id. Kleine philologische Schriften ed. R. Peppmüller Halle a. S. 1886 ii. 297), K. Keil in Philologus 1854 ix. 454, and G. Wentzel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1193, would read Ἄκρατω for Ἄσκρατω in Apollon. hist. mir. 13 ἐν τῷ κατὰ τόπους μυθικῷ ἐν Ἄλικαρνασσῷ θεοσλας τινὸς τῷ Διὶ τῷ Ἄσκρατῳ συντελουμένης ἀγέλην ἀγίων ἀγεσθαι πρὸ τοῦ ἱεροῦ καὶ ἴστασθαι τῶν δὲ κατευχῶν συντελεσθειῶν προβαίνειν μίαν αἶγα ὑπὸ μηθενὸς ἀγομένην καὶ προσέρχεσθαι τῷ βωμῷ, τὸν δὲ ἱερέα λαβόμενον αὐτῆς καλλιερεῖν. But I have argued in the Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 415 f. that Zeus Ἄσκραῖος, to whom the Lydians brought their first-fruits (Plout. animine an corporis affectiones sint peiores 4 οὗτοι συνεληθῆσασιν... οὐκ

Fig. 807.

Fig. 808.

Fig. 809.

Fig. 810.

Fig. 811.

Ἄσκρατῳ Διὶ Λυδίων καρπῶν ἀπαρχὰς φέροντες), had a cult in Halikarnassos also; that he was an oak-Zeus (Hesych. ἄσκρα· δρῦς ἄκαρπος, cp. O. Schrader Prehistoric Antiquities of the Aryan Peoples trans. F. B. Jevons London 1890 p. 226, Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 59, Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 90); and that he is to be seen on imperial coppers of the town as a bearded god crowned with rays and standing between two oak-trees, on each of which is a bird (raven? dove?) (Brii. Mus. Cat. Coins Caria, etc. p. 110 no. 83 pl. 19, 2 (= my fig. 807) Trajan, no. 85 (= my fig. 808) Antoninus Pius, p. 111 no. 88 (= my fig. 810) Septimius Severus, W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1854 Asiatic Greece p. 64 (= my fig. 809) Commodus, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 210 f. Münztaf. 3, 12, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 619 fig. 305. Fig. 811 Gordianus Pius is from a specimen in my collection). It is of course possible that Ἄκραῖος was a second appellative of Zeus Ἄσκραῖος (cp. supra no. (4)).

(6) W. R. Paton in the Class. Rev. 1907 xxi. 47 f. publishes an inscription, in lettering of about s. i B.C. or s. i A.D., found at Myndos: [Πο]σίδεος Κλεωνόμου καθ' ὑποθεσίαν | [δὲ] Ποσίδεον καὶ ἡ γυνὴ Ἡδέα Ἀπολλωνίδου | [καὶ] οἱ υἱοὶ Κλεώνυμος καὶ Ἀπολλωνίδης | [Ἄλ]ικαρνασσεῖς Διὶ Ἄκρατῳ. Paton proposes Ἄκρατῳ for Ἄσκρατῳ, not only in Apollon.

Zeus Epákrios 'on the Summit¹, Zeus Karaiós 'of the Head², Zeus Lopheites loc. cit., but also in Plout. loc. cit. Both passages were emended in the same manner 224 years before by G. Cuper Apotheosis vel consecratio Homeri Amstelodami 1683 p. 16.

(7) Imperial coppers of Magnesia ad Maeandrum show Zeus 'Ακραίος as a nude standing figure, with right hand supported on sceptre, left holding thunderbolt (Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 120 no. 312 ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ ΜΑΓΝΗΤΩΝ Geta, id. Kleinas. Münzen i. 79 no. 27 ΜΑΓΝΗΤΩ Ν ΖΕΥC ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ Antoninus Pius).

(8) At Smyrna Ulpius Traianus, father of the emperor Trajan, brought an aqueduct to the precinct of Zeus 'Ακραίος (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 3146, 1 ff. ἐκ τοῦ εἰσαχθέντος | ὕδατος ἐπὶ τὸν Δία τὸν | 'Ακραίων ἐπὶ Οὐλλπίου | Τραϊανοῦ τοῦ ἀνθυπάτου, | κ.τ.λ.). Quasi-autonomous and imperial coppers show the god's head, usually inscribed ΖΕΥC ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ or ΖΕΥC ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ or ΖΕΥC ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Ionia p. 253 ff. pl. 27, 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 368 ff. pl. 52, 8, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 594).

Fig. 812.

Fig. 813.

Fig. 814.

Fig. 812 is from a specimen of mine), or seated figure holding Nike and sceptre, sometimes inscribed ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ or ΑΚΡΑΙΟΣ (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Ionia pp. 250 pl. 26, 8, 266, 272 pl. 28, 15, 287 pl. 29, 12 (= my fig. 813), 297, 302 pl. 39, 5, 307 pl. 39, 11 (= supra p. 319 fig. 201), Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 378 no. 202, 379 no. 203, 389 pl. 52, 18, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 594).

(9) At Temnos in Aiolis, on a hill above the Hermos, quasi-autonomous coppers of s. iii A.D. bear the bust of Zeus 'Ακραίος, inscribed ΖΕΥC ΑΚΡΑΙΟ C (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Troas, etc. p. 145 no. 22, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 311 no. 7, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 557. Fig. 814 is from a specimen of mine).

(10) L. Holstein on Steph. Byz. s.v. Μυτιλήνη (ed. Lipsiae 1825 ii. 457) says: 'In Cimeliarchio Mediceo nummus habetur, in cuius uno latere circum Iovem, Neptunum et Plutonem: ΘΕΟΙ ΑΚΡΑΙΟΙ ΜΥΤΙΑΗΝΑΙΩΝ. in averso circum caput Iovis: ΖΕΥC ΒΟΥΛΑΙΟΣ. quinam sint θεοὶ ἀκραῖοι...docet Pollux lib. ix. cap. 5. his verbis: Τὰ δὲ δημόσια, ἀκρόπολις· ἦν καὶ ἄκρον ἂν εἴποις καὶ πόλιν· καὶ τοὺς ἐν αὐτῇ θεοὺς, ἀκραίους καὶ πολιεῖς.' This coin, cited by numismatists from Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² ii. 504 to *Head Hist. num.*¹ p. 488 inclusive, has disappeared from *Head Hist. num.*² p. 562 f.

(11) At Akrai (Palazzolo) in Sicily the Museum of Baron Judica had a base inscribed ΔΙΟΣ | []ΡΑΙΟΥ. J. Schubring in the Jahrb. f. Philol. u. Pädag. Suppl. 1867 iv. 672 fig. 2 supplies [Ἄγο]ραλου. But U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorff in the Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 203 with greater probability cj. [Ἄκ]ραλου.

See further Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 'Ἐπιθετα Διός (20) ἀκραλου, Kallim. h. Zeus 81 f. ἴζο δ' αὐτὸς | ἄκρης ἐν πολιεσσιν, l. isteid. or. 1. 6 (i. 7 Dindorf) τὰς ἀκρόπολεις ἐξεῖλον Δεί, κ.τ.λ.

¹ Zeus 'Ἐπάκριος. Polyzelos Μουσῶν γοναί frag. 1 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 869 f. Meineke) ap. et. mag. p. 352, 49 ff. 'Ἐπάκριος Ζεὺς· ἐπ' ἄκρας γὰρ τῶν ὀρῶν ἰδρῶντο βωμοὺς τῷ Δεί, ὅλον τοῦ Ἰμηττίου, τοῦ Παρρηθίου. Πολύζηλος Μουσῶν γοναῖς· "ιερόν γὰρ ὄν (A. Meineke cj. ἱερεὺς γὰρ ὦν, cp. Metagenes Αὔραι frag. 4 Meineke ap. schol. Aristoph. av. 873) πετύχηκας Ἐπακρίου Διός." So Hesych. s.v. Ἐπάκριος· Ζεὺς. ὁ ἐπὶ τῶν ἄκρων τῶν ὀρῶν

[² For note 2 see p. 874.]

'of the Crest!.' These titles, and perhaps certain others², proclaim him to be a ιδρυμένος. ἐπὶ γὰρ τῶν ὀρῶν τοὺς βωμοὺς αὐτῷ ἰδρῶν ὡς ἐπιπολύ, Eustath. in Od. p. 1747, 59 ὅθεν καὶ Ζεὺς ἐπάκριος, ᾧ ἐπ' ἄκρων ὀρέων ἰδρῶντο βωμοί. E. Ziebarth in the Rhein. Mus. 1900 lv. 502 f. published an inscription from Athens, in which certain ὀργεῶνες let on lease (?) [τὸ ἱερόν τ]οῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ἐπα[κρίου]. But the reading of the appellative is doubtful: ΕΠ/ are the only surviving letters.

² Zeus Kapaïós. Hesych. s.v. Kapaïós· Ζεὺς παρὰ Βοιωτοῖς οὕτω προσαγορεύεται· ὡς μὲν τινὲς φασὶ διὰ τὸ ὑψηλὸς εἶναι, ἀπὸ τοῦ κάρα, Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3208 on a small unfluted column at Orchomenos in Boiotia [Δι] Kapaïoῖ | [· · · · · · · ἀρχ]οντος Κλιωνίω (W. Dittenberger ad loc. says: 'Vocem ἀρχοντος (aut ἱαραρχιοντος, ἱαρατευοντος) mediam sumpsi interpositam fuisse inter nomen proprium et adiectivum patronymicum. Sed id quoque fieri potest, ut [Δι]οντος, [Σπένδ]οντος aut aliud simile nomen proprium fuerit'). Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 6 draws attention to the proper names derived from this appellative: Kapaïóγειτος (Thespiæ), Kapaïs (Anthedon), Kapaïόχος (Lebadeia, Orchomenos), Kapaïων (Orchomenos). E. Sittig De Graecorum nominibus theophris Halis Saxonom 1911 p. 13 extends the list, adding Kapaïoῖς (Corp. Inscr. Att. ii. 2 no. 1045, 5 (Athens), Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 729, 16 (Hermione), F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 235 f. no. 4942 a, 10 (Aptarà in Crete)). The title suits a mountain-god, cp. Il. 20. 5 κρατὸς ἀπ' Οὐλύμποιο, 1. 44 κατ' Οὐλύμποιο καρῆρων (Eustath. in Il. p. 1193, 9 f., Apollon. lex. Hom. p. 95, 22 ff. Bekker), alib. On Kratinos Nemesis frag. 10 see supra i. 280 n. 4. Phot. lex. Κάριος Ζεὺς· ἐν Θεσσαλίᾳ καὶ Βοιωτίᾳ refers more probably to the Carian Zeus (supra p. 577), cp. the Boeotian name Καρίων (Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 2787, 5 Kopai, 2974 Koroneia).

Zeus Klários (Aisch. suppl. 359 f. ἴδοιτο δῆτ' ἄνατον φυγὰν | ἱεσία Θέμις Διὸς Κλαρίου, Paus. 8. 53. 9 f. τὸ δὲ χωρίον τὸ ὑψηλόν, ἐφ' οὗ καὶ οἱ βωμοὶ Τεγεάταις εἰσὶν οἱ πολλοί, καλεῖται μὲν Διὸς Κλαρίου (καρίου codd. Vb. M.), δῆλα δὲ ὡς ἐγένετο ἢ ἐπέκλησις τῷ θεῷ τοῦ κλήρου τῶν παίδων ἕνεκα τῶν Ἀρκάδος. ἄγουσι δὲ ἑορτῆν αὐτότι Τεγεᾶται κατὰ ἔτος· κ.τ.λ.). Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 56, 71 takes Klários to mean 'he who sanctified the original allotment of land,' 'the god of allotments' (κλήροι) (so already Paus. loc. cit. and schol. Aisch. loc. cit. παντάπασι (H. Weil corr. πάντα πᾶσι) κληροῦντος καὶ κραίνοντος). W. Pape—G. E. Benseler *Wörterbuch der griechischen Eigennamen*³ Braunschweig 1875 i. 666 cite Hesych. κλάρες· αὐτὸ ἐπὶ ἐδάφου(ς) ἐσχάροι, which might be held to justify Klários = ἐφέστιος (O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1212). But F. Solmsen in the Rhein. Mus. 1898 liii. 157 f., observing that the Tegeate tribe Κλαρεῶτις (Paus. 8. 53. 6: Schwedler cj. Κλαριῶτις) had tribesmen Κραριῶται (F. Bechtel in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 351 ff. no. 1231, 357 ff. no. 1247), and that the names of the three other tribes Ἴπποθοῖτις, Ἀπολλωνιάτις, Ἀθανεᾶτις are all derived from deities, contends that Zeus Klários is for Zeus *Κράριος, 'ein "höchster Zeus" oder ein "Zeus der Bergeshöhe."' His view is accepted by Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. xi. 552 and may well be right.

Zeus Klários of Eustath. in Dionys. per. 444 λέγεται δὲ καὶ Διὸς Κλαρίου μαντεῖον εἶναι αὐτόθι (sc. at Κλάριος near Kolophon) must not be confounded with Zeus Klários.

¹ Zeus Loféitēs. A cult of this deity at Perinthos (later known as Herakleia) on the Propontis is evidenced by the following inscriptions: (1) on the back of a rectangular marble altar, between Rodosto and Eregli (Perinthos), in letters of s. ii A.D. Διὶ Λοφέιτῃ Ε[ἰ]δ[ι]ῶν Φιλλύδ[ου] | ἱερὸς νέος λυ|·····ρίοις δῶρον (E. Kalinka in the Arch.-ep. Mitth. 1896 xix. 67 f., F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 565. Kalinka suggests that the altar was a gift to a corporation of νέοι ἀνόρροιοι). (2) From Perinthos: Διὶ Λοφέιτῃ | ὑπὲρ Οὐα(τ)ειρίου Καλλιμά|χου οἱ φίλοι καὶ | οἰκιακοὶ εὐχὴν (A. Baumeister in Philologus 1854 ix. 392 f. no. 15, F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 565, id. ib. 1908 xxxiii. 161 f. Baumeister wrongly supposed that this inscription had come from Herakleia, the small island off the coast of Naxos). (3) From Perinthos: gable with garland, beneath which [Δι] Λοφέιτ(η)ι καὶ | [συ]ναγωγῆι -ΝΑ | ···ων νέων Πρε[ε]|[σκ]ος ἐκ τῶν (εἰδ)ίων | καθιέρω[σε]ν (F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Ath. Mitth.

[² For note 2 see p. 875.]

god of mountain-tops. And, when he is called Hýpatos 'the High'¹ or 1908 xxxiii. 162 suspects an allusion to the νέοι αὐράριοι (?) of (1) and proposes [σ]υ[να]γωγή (τῶν) Α[ὐ] — [ρ]ί[ων] νέων). The title Λοφέτης was due to the situation of the town: ἡ γὰρ Πιέρνθος κείται μὲν παρὰ θάλατταν ἐπὶ τινοῦ αὐχένος ὑψηλοῦ χερρονήσου, σταδίαίον ἐχούσης τὸν αὐχένα· τὰς δ' οἰκίας ἔχει πεπυκνωμένας καὶ τοῖς ὕψει διαφερούσας. αὐταὶ δὲ ταῖς οἰκοδομαῖς αἰεὶ κατὰ τὴν εἰς τὸν λόφον ἀνάβασιν ἀλλήλων ὑπερέχουσι, καὶ τὸ σχῆμα τῆς ὄλης πόλεως θεατροειδὲς ἀποτελοῦσι (Diod. 16. 76). For Zeus Ἐπιλόφιος at Naissos see infra Moesia.

² Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1103 n. 2 suggests that Zeus Φαλακρός at Argos (Clem. Al. Protr. 2. 39. 2 p. 29, 6 f. Stählin οὐχὶ μὲντοι Ζεὺς φαλακρὸς ἐν Ἀργεῖ, τιμωρὸς δὲ ἄλλος ἐν Κύπρῳ τετίμησθον;) was a mountain-god. This is probable enough, for the summit of Mt Ida was called Φάλακρον, Φάλακρα, Φαλάκρα, Φαλάκραι, a promontory in Korkyra Φάλακρον, Φαλακρὸν ἄκρον, another in Epeiros Φάλακρον, another in Euboiá Φαλάκραι (Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. viii. 604 B—D). For Zeus Κλάριος see supra p. 874 n. 2.

¹ Zeus Ἵπατος was worshipped (1) on Mt Hypatos above Glisas in Boiotia (Paus. 9. 19. 3 ὑπὲρ δὲ Γλισῶντός ἐστιν ὄρος Ἵπατος καλούμενον, ἐπὶ δὲ αὐτῷ Διὸς Ἵπάτου ναὸς καὶ ἀγάλμα). The mountain, now called Sagmatás, rises to a height of 749^m: 'it is bold and rocky, and has a flat summit which is crowned with a monastery of the Transfiguration, founded by Alexis Comnenus. The church of the monastery contains fine mosaics, and stands on the foundations of the temple of Zeus. Both the church and the monastery, as well as two neighbouring chapels, contain many considerable fragments of antiquity built into the walls. The dome of the church is supported by two ancient monolithic columns, with their bases and capitals' (Frazer Pausanias v. 61). The view from the monastery embraces the three lakes Kopais, Hylike, Paralimne, the Euboean sea, and on the horizon a whole series of mountains—Messapion, Dirphys, Parnes, Kithairon, Helikon, Sphingion, Parnassos, Ptoion (H. N. Ulrichs Reisen und Forschungen in Griechenland Berlin 1863 ii. 28 f.). Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 6 notes the frequent Boeotian name Ἵπατόδωρος. E. Sittig De Graecorum nominibus theophoris Halis Saxonum 1911 p. 13 f. quotes examples of Ἵπατόδωρος from Thebes, Tanagra, Delphoi, Smyrna, of Ἵπατίας from Thebes, of Ἵπατοκλῆς from Rhodes.

(2) He had an altar, founded by Kekrops 'in front of the entry' to the Erechtheion at Athens, where he was served with cakes but no wine- or animal-offerings (Paus. 1. 26. 5 ἔστι δὲ καὶ οἶκημα Ἐρέχθειον καλούμενον· πρὸ δὲ τῆς εἰσόδου Διὸς ἔστι βωμὸς Ἵπάτου, ἐνθα ἐμψυχον θύουσιν οὐδὲν, πέμματα δὲ θέντες οὐδὲν ἔτι οἶνον χρῆσασθαι νομίζουσιν, 8. 2. 3 ὁ μὲν γὰρ (sc. Κέκροψ) Δία τε ὠνόμασεν Ἵπατον πρῶτος (πρῶτον cod. La.), καὶ ὀδῶσα ἔχει ψυχὴν, τούτων μὲν ἤξίωσεν οὐδὲν θύσαι, πέμματα δὲ ἐπιχώρια ἐπὶ τοῦ βωμοῦ καθήγισεν, ἃ πελάγους καλοῦσιν ἔτι καὶ ἐς ἡμᾶς Ἀθηναῖοι). He was on occasion associated with Athena Ἵπάτη and other deities (Dem. c. Macart. 66 (a Delphic response) συμφέρει Ἀθηναίους περὶ τοῦ σημείου τοῦ ἐν τῷ οὐρανῷ γενομένου θύοντος καλλιερεῖν Διὶ Ἵπάτῳ, Ἀθηναῖ Ἵπάτῃ, Ἡρακλεῖ, Ἀπόλλωνι Σωτήρι, καὶ ἀποπέμπειν Ἀμφιόνεσσι). Cp. Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 1. 201. 1 ff. = Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 170, 2 ff. Ἵψιμέδων Ἵπατε, πάτερ εἰρήνης βαθυκά[ρπου], | σὸν Ἐλῖαον (for Ἐλλέου) βωμὸν ἱκετεύομεν ἡμεῖς, (scansion!) | Ὁρήϊκες οἱ ναῖοντες ἀγάκλιτον ἄστου τὸ [Σά]ρδε[ων(?),] | κ.τ.λ.

(3) The tetrapolis of Marathon sacrificed to him in Gamelion (R. B. Richardson in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1895 x. 209 ff. col. 2, 13 Διὶ ὑπ[άτω] οἷς Δ|Τ|Τ(?)) = J. de Prot Leges Graecorum Sacrae Lipsiae 1896 Fasti sacri p. 46 ff. no. 26, v 13 Διὶ Ἵπ[άτω] — — —).

(4) At Sparta he had a statue of hammered bronze by Klearchos of Rhegion (Paus. 3. 17. 6 (supra p. 739 n. 1), 8. 14. 7 τοῦ ἐς Σπαρτιάτας λόγου τὰ ἐπὶ τοῦ ἀγάλματος τοῦ Ἵπάτου Διὸς).

(5) In Paros on the top of Mt Koundós the little church of the Prophet Elias has built into its boundary-stones belonging to Zeus Ἵπατος, to Aphrodite, to Histie Δημῆ (O. Rubensohn in the Ath. Mitth. 1901 xxvi. 215). The first of these, a rough block of white marble, is inscribed in lettering of s. v B.C. [θ]ρος Ἵπάτω· ἀ[τε][λ]ῆ[ς]τοι οὐ θέμ[ε]ι[s] οὐδὲ γυναι[κ]ί (sc. εἰσελεῖν) (Inscr. Gr. ins. v. 1 no. 183 with fig.).

Hypsistos 'the Most High¹', there is reason to suspect that the epithet had originally a literal rather than a metaphorical sense.

(6) At Rome the road between the Curia and the Basilica Aemilia yielded a block inscribed Δι' Ἰπάτωι (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 994).

(7) An honorary inscription of s. ii A. D. found at Priene contains the clause ἀναγραφῶ (sic) (τό)δε [τ]ὸ ψήφισμα εἰς στήλην λευκοῦ λίθου καὶ ἀνατεθῆ[τ]ω ἐν τῶι ἱερῶ[ι τ]οῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ἰπάτου (sc. in Thessaly (?)) (F. Hiller von Gaertringen Inscriptionen von Priene Berlin 1906 no. 71, 28 f.).

(8) M. Schweisthal 'L'image de Niobé et l'autel de Zeus Hypatos au mont Sipyle' in the Gaz. Arch. 1887 xii. 224 argues that Zeus on Mt Sipylos was invoked under the name of Ἰπάτος, cp. Nonn. Dion. 13, 533 ff. ὁψὲ δὲ δύσσιφονοῖδμα καὶ ὑδατέεσαν ἀνάγκην | Ζεὺς ὑπάτος (ὑδάτος codd. F. M.) πρήννε, καὶ ἐκ Σιπύλοιο καρήνων | κλυζομένης Φρυγίης παλι-ἀργετον ἤλασεν ὕδωρ. But ὑπάτος is a commonish epithet of Zeus in the poets (Bruchmann Epith. deor. p. 141) and is used elsewhere by Nonnos (Dion. 33. 162 Ζεὺς ὑπάτος καὶ θεοῦρος Ἄρης καὶ θέσιμος Ἐρμῆς) without local significance.

Fig. 815.

A leaden anchor, found off the coast of Kyrene and now in the British Museum, bears in relief the ship's name ΣΕΥΣ ΥΠΑΤΟΣ (C. Torr Ancient Ships Cambridge 1894 p. 71 f. pl. 8, 45, 46 and 47 (= my fig. 815)). The lettering points to s. i A. D.

According to schol. T. II. 13. 837 some persons understood Διὸς ἀγάς as denoting τὰ ὑψηλά τῶν ὀρέων!

¹ Examples of this appellative have been collected, classified, and discussed by E. Schürer in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1897 pp. 200—225 and F. Cumont Hypsistos (Supplément à la Revue de l'instruction publique en Belgique, 1897) Bruxelles 1897 pp. 1—15, id. in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 444—450 s.v. "Τψιστος. I am under deep obligation to their labours, as the following list will show.

Zeus "Τψιστος was worshipped (1) at Athens in the Pnyx. For a good survey of the problems that cluster about this much-disputed site see in primis J. M. Crow and J. Thacher Clarke 'The Athenian Pnyx' in Papers of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens 1885—1886 iv. 205—260. The view adopted from H. N. Ulrichs by

F. G. Welcker Der Felsaltar des Höchsten Zeus oder das Pelasgikon zu Athen, bisher genannt die Pnyx Berlin 1852 pp. 1—75 with pl., id. 'Pnyx oder Pelasgikon' in the Rhein. Mus. 1856 x. 30—76, id. 'Ueber C. Bursians "Athenische Pnyx"' ib. 1856 x. 591—610, and defended especially by E. Curtius Attische Studien i Pnyx und Stadtmauer in the Abh. d. gött. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1862 xi. 53—132 with pls. 1, 2, viz. that the so-called Pnyx was an ancient sanctuary of Zeus Ἰψιστος with the so-called bêma for its altar, is nowadays discredited. But it is generally admitted that in imperial times, when the Pnyx had long ceased to be used for public assemblies, a cult of Zeus Ἰψιστος as a healing god was here carried on. In the rock-cut back-wall of the Pnyx, between its eastern angle and the bêma, there are more than fifty rectangular niches cut to receive tablets. Many of the tablets that had been in the niches were found by Lord Aberdeen in 1803 buried in the earth at the foot of the wall and are now in the British Museum (Corp. inscr. Gr. i nos. 497—506, C. T. Newton in The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum Oxford 1874 i nos. 60—70, Corp. inscr. Att. iii. i nos. 147—156, 237, 238). They are dedications, mostly by women of the lower class, to Zeus Ἰψιστος (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. i no. 148 Σύντροφος | Ἰψίστω Δι | χαριστήριον,

Fig. 816.

no. 153 Ὀνησίμη εὐχὴν | Δι Ἰψίστω with relief representing a female breast) or to θεὸς Ἰψιστος (ib. no. 237α θεῶ Ἰψ[ίστω] | [ε]ὐχὴν with relief of part of a shoulder) or more often to Ἰψιστος alone (ib. no. 149 Εὐδοσ Ἰψίστω εὐχὴν with relief of a pair of eyes (cp. ib. no. 238=C. T. Newton loc. cit. no. 69), no. 150 Ὀλυμπιάς Ἰψίστω | εὐχὴν with relief of a woman's abdomen, no. 151 Τερτία Ἰψίστω | εὐχὴν with relief of a face from the bridge of the nose downwards, no. 152 Κλαυδία Πρέπουσα | εὐχαριστῶ Ἰψίστω with relief of a pair of arms, no. 154 Εὐρυχίς Ἰψίστω εὐχ(ήν) with relief of a female breast (=my fig. 816), no. 155 Ελισιάς Ἰψ[ίστω] | εὐχ(ήν) with relief of a female breast).

Sporadic inscriptions attest the existence of the same cult elsewhere in Athens. L. Ross Die Pnyx und das Pelasgikon in Athen Braunschweig 1853 p. 15 cites three inscriptions discovered in the foundations of a house on the northern slope of the Akropolis (Ann. d. Inst. 1843 xv. 330ff.) and now at Berlin (Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 270 no. 718 Εὐρυχία | Ἰψίστω | εὐχὴν with relief of a female breast, no. 719 Εὐπραξι[s] | εὐχὴν with relief of a female breast, no. 720 Ελισδότη Δι Ἰψίστω with relief of eyebrows, eyes, and bridge of nose. Cp. no. 721 an unscribed relief from the same spot, representing the middle part of the body of a nude female). A column of Pentelic marble, found to the west of the Propyläia, has Γλαῦκος, | Τρύφαινα, | Λέων | [Ἰ]ψίστω | [εὐχὴν] ὑπὲρ | [τῶν γονέων(?)] (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 146). A small Ionic capital from the southern slope of the Akropolis is surmounted by a broken eagle, beneath which is inscribed ἀγαθὴ τύχη. | Ἰουλ(ία) Ἀσκληπιανῆ | θεῶ Ἰψίστω ὑπέ[ρ] | Μαξιμου τοῦ υἱ[οῦ] | εὐχαρισστήριον ἀνέθ[ηκεν].

(2) At Thebes near the Hypsistan Gates (Paus. 9. 8. 5 πρὸς δὲ ταῖς Ἰψίσταις Διὸς ἱερὸν ἐπικλησίον ἐστὶν Ἰψίστου). H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc. note that these Gates are assumed to have been on the south-western side of the city, where they are shown, adjoining a hill of Zeus Ἰψίστος, in the map given by Frazer Pausanias v. 32.

(3) At Corinth three statues of Zeus stood in the open air. One of them had no special title; the second was Χθόνιος; the third, Ἰψίστος (Paus. 2. 2. 8 τὰ δὲ τοῦ Διὸς, καὶ ταῦτα ὄντα ἐν ὑπαίθρῳ, τὸ μὲν ἐπικλησίον οὐκ εἶχε, τὸν δὲ αὐτῶν Χθόνιον καὶ τὸν τρίτον καλοῦσιν Ἰψίστον). We are hardly justified in asserting with Welcker Alt. Denkm. ii. 87 that the nameless Zeus was 'ohne Zweifel ein...Zenoposeidon,' or in conjecturing with P. Odelberg Sacra Corinthia, Sicyonia, Phliasia Upsala 1896 p. 7 that he was a Zeus ἐνάλιος. Such a god would surely have had a distinctive appellation. See, however, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1094 n. 27, supra p. 582 ff.

(4) At Argos Smyrna, the wife of Maenius Apollonius and apparently priestess of Zeus, in an interesting epitaph describes her tomb as a barrow adjoining the sanctuary of Zeus Ἰψίστος (Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 620, 4=Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 2. 286. 8 Ἰψίστου δ' ἤριον ἔ[γχε] Διὸς).

(5) At Olympia Zeus Ἰψίστος had a couple of altars on the way to the Hippodrome (Paus. 5. 15. 5 πλοσίον δὲ καὶ Μοιρῶν βωμός ἐστιν ἐπιμήκης, μετὰ δὲ αὐτὸν Ἐρμοῦ, καὶ δύο ἐφεξῆς Διὸς Ἰψίστου. K. Wernicke's cj. μετὰ δὲ αὐτὸν δύο ἐφεξῆς Ἐρμοῦ καὶ Διὸς Ἰψίστου is unnecessary).

(6) In Skiathos is a marble slab inscribed with a dedication [Δι] Ἰψίστω καὶ τῇ Πόλει | κ.τ.λ. (Inscr. Gr. ins. viii no. 631).

(7) At Hephaestia in Lemnos is a round altar of white marble inscribed in lettering of s. ii or iii A.D. Ἐπηκόω | θεῶ Ἰψίστω | Βεῖθυσ ὁ καὶ | Ἀδωνίς | εὐχὴν (Inscr. Gr. ins. viii no. 24).

(8) In Imbros was a slab of white marble, broken at the right side, with the inscription Δι Ἰψίστω | Ἀθηναίῳ | Ἀρίστω[ος] | εὐχ<ης> ἦν (A. Conze Reise auf den Inseln des Thrakischen Meeres Hannover 1860 p. 90 pl. 15, 2, Inscr. Gr. ins. viii no. 78. In line 4 Conze suggests εὐχῆς (ἐ)ν[εκα]. Wilamowitz says: 'Fortasse Δι ὑψίστωι [ὑπὲρ τοῦ δήμου τῶν vel καὶ τῶι δήμῳ τῶι] Ἀθηναίῳ τῶν ἐν Ἰμβρω ἀνέθηκεν' Ἀρίστων [patris ἐξ] εὐχῆς ἦν [εὐξάτο ὁ δεῖνα] ').

(9) Macedonia has furnished dedications from Aigai (L. Duchesne—C. Bayet Mémoire sur une mission au mont Athos Paris 1877 no. 136 Δι Ἰψίστῳ εὐχὴν Μάρκος Λιβύριος Οὐάλης, no. 137 Δι Ἰψίστῳ Πο. Αἴλιος Τερεντιανὸς Ἀττικὸς κατ' ὄναρ), Kerdyllion (P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1895 xix. 110 M. Λευκελίω[ς] | Μακλᾶς θεῶ[ι] | Ἰψίστωι χα[ρισ]τήριον), and elsewhere (Delacoulonche Le berceau de la puissance macédonienne no. 20 to Zeus Ἰψίστος, cited by P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1898 xxii. 347 n. 2).

(10) In Thrace we have inscriptions from Anchialos (C. Jireček in the Arch.-ep. Mitth. 1886 x. 173 no. 3 ΔΗΥΨΙΣΙΙΔΕΣ | ΓΗΠΟΥΠΡΟΣ | ΟΝΤΕΙΝΩΝ ΚΑΙΣ | ΑΥΤΟΥΕΥΧΑΡΙΣΗ | ΡΙΟΝ, which is read by O. Benndorf ib. n. 32^a as Δι ὑψίστωι | ἐ[πόπ]τη(?) Πολύ[β]ιω[ς] τῶν τέ[κ]νων καὶ | ἐ[α]υτοῦ εὐχαριστήριον) and Selymbria (R. Cagnat Inscriptions Graecae ad res Romanas pertinentes Paris 1911 i. 255 no. 777 Θεῶι ἀγίῳ ὑψίστωι | ὑπὲρ τῆς Ῥοιμη[τάλκου καὶ Πυθο]δωρίδος ἐκ τῶν κατὰ τὸν Κοιλα[λη]τικὸν | πόλεμον κινδύνου | σωτηρίας εὐξάμενος | καὶ ἐπιτυχῶν Γάιος | Ἰούλιος Πρόκ(λ)ος χαρι[σ]τήριον).

(11) Moesia. An altar of reddish limestone, found among Roman remains between the villages of Selenigrad and Miloslavci, and now in the Museum at Sofia, is inscribed Ϝ θεῶι Ἰψί[στωι] | ὑπὲρ Ἀδφιδίων οἰκων | [..... Ἀν]φίδιο[ς]..... (E. Kalinka Antike Denkmäler in Bulgarien Wien 1906 p. 133 f. no. 145). A limestone altar at Piprot reads ἀγαθῆ [τύ]χη | Θεῶ ἐπηκόω ὑψίστω | εὐχὴν ἀνέστησαν | τὸ κοινὸν ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων διὰ ιερέως | Ἐρμογένους καὶ προ|στάτου Ἀγνουστιανοῦ | Ἀχιλλεύς, Ἀνρήλις, Διό(ς), Ἀλέξανδρος, Μόκας, Μο[κ]ιανός, | Δομήτις, Σοφείνος, Πανλείνος, Πύρος, Ἀπολινάριος, Μοκιανός, [Σ(?)]ῆλυς | καὶ Ἀλέξανδρος Ἀσκληπιέδου· θια[σος(?)] Σεβαζιλανός θη[··]τους | — (A. von Domaszewski in the Arch.-ep. Mitth. 1886 x. 238 f. no. 2).

(12) Korkyra (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 1869 Φαιακοσίνη Διελ' Ἐψίστω | εὐχήν).

(13) Rome. A round base in the Galleria Lapidaria of the Vatican is inscribed Θεῶι Ἐψίστωι εὐχήν ἀνέθηκεν | Κλαυδία Πίσση (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 995).

(14) Crete. T. A. B. Spratt Travels and Researches in Crete London 1865 ii. 414 no. 1 pl. 1, 1 Κο[λ]ρανος θεῶι Ἐψίστωι | εὐχήν δημόσιος (C. Babington's reading ib. is wrong) from Knossos.

(15) Kypros. Dedications to the Θεὸς Ἐψίστος have come to light at Hagios Tychon near Amathous (M. Beaudouin—E. Pottier in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 167 a round ciprus inscribed Θεῶ Ἐψίστω | Νεκρόδημος | κατ[ά] χρηματισμῶν), Golgoi (P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1896 xx. 361 ff. published a series of tablets in yellowish tufa, with holes for suspension, said to have come from a spot near Athienau and then in the hands of Z. Malis at Larnaka: no. 1 Θεῶ Ἐψίστω ἀνέθηκεν Πρόκτυος εὐξαμέ[ν]η with relief of two female breasts, no. 2 Θεῶ Ἐψίστω εὐξαμέ[ν]η — — with two eyes painted in black, cp. no. 3 three square tablets with phallós in relief but without inscription, no. 4 several fragmentary tablets of larger size with remains of painting or drawing, e.g. horse), and Kition (Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure iii no. 2740 read by Perdrizet loc. cit. [Θεῶ Ἐψίστω Θεῶν οἰκοδόμος εὐχήν]).

(16) Pisidia. At Oinoanda is a dedication built into the wall near the town-gate (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii Add. no. 4280 n² Χρ(ω)μα[ι]τις θεῶ | Ἐψίστω | τὸν λύχρον | εὐχ[ή]ν) = Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 1231). At Termessos a ciprus, which once supported a votive foot (commemorating a visitation or epiphany of the god), is inscribed Θεῶ ἐπηκόω Ἐψιστότυχος ὁ καὶ Ἀτταλιανός Ἐρ(μαλου)β' | Σύρου πατ[ρ]ὰ κέλειςιν | αὐτοῦ ἔστη | ὅ σεν ὅ | σὺν τῷ ἐπόντι | Ἰχνη θεοῦ (K. Lanckoroński—G. Niemann—E. Petersen Städte Pamphyliens und Pisidiens Wien 1892 ii. 76 fig. 27, 220 no. 178. Eid. ib. p. 32 rather doubtfully take the name of the dedicator to be 'Hephaistotychos.' F. Cumont Hypsistos (Supplément à la Revue de l'instruction publique en Belgique, 1897) Bruxelles 1897 p. 14 reads Θεῶ ἐπηκόω Ἐψίστω(ω) Τυχ(ί)ος and Σύρου πα(ἰ)που(?)).

(17) Karia. Zeus Ἐψίστος had cults in Iasos (B. Haussoullier in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1884 viii. 456 a boundary-stone of white marble inscribed Διὸς Ἐψίστου. Zeus had a temple at Iasos (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2671, 26 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 462, 26)), Lagina (C. Diehl—G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1887 xi. 159 no. 67 Διὸ Ἐψίστω | καὶ θειωτ[···]σιλικω Σ[τε]φανῶν ὑπὲρ | αὐτοῦ καὶ | τῶν ἰδίων | πάντων εὐχαριστήρι[ον]. I should conjecture Θεῖω (as at Stratonikeia: see below) τῷ βασιλικῷ, 'the royal Zeus Ἐψίστος καὶ Θεῖος'), Miletos (O. Kern in the Ath. Mitth. 1893 xviii. 267 no. 1 a column of white marble, found at Palatia near the big mosque, inscribed Διὸς Ἐψίστου, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 755 built into a Byzantine church τὸν ἱερέα τοῦ ἀγιωτάτου [Θεοῦ Ἐψίστου] Σωτήρος | Οὐλπιον Κάρπον | βουλευτὴν ὁ στατίων (sc. assembly) | τῶν κατὰ πόλιν κηπουρῶν τὸν ἴδιον εὐεργέτη[ν] | ὑπὲρ τῆς αὐτῶν σωτηρί[ας], no. 756 built into the same Byzantine church Οὐλπιον Κάρπον, | τὸν προφήτην τοῦ ἀγιωτάτου Θεοῦ | Ἐψίστου, | ὁ στόλος τῶν σωληνοκεντῶν (sc. spikers of razor-fish) τὸν ἴδιον εὐεργέτην διὰ πάντων. T. Wiegand in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1904 p. 87 infers from these two inscriptions that in early Byzantine days a Christian church was founded on the site of a temple dedicated to the Θεὸς Ἐψίστος), Mylasa (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2693 e, 1 f. = Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 416. 1 f. = A. Hauvette-Besnault—M. Dubois in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1881 v. 107 ff. no. 11, B, 1 f. ἐπὶ στεφανηφόρου | Ἀριστέου τοῦ Μέλανος τοῦ Ἀπολλωνίου ἱερέως Διὸς Ἐψίστου καὶ Τύχης Ἀγαθῆς), Panamara (G. Deschamps—G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1888 xii. 271 f. no. 57 [Διὸ Ἐψίστω | καὶ Ἐκάτη Σω[τε]ρα] | [καὶ] Διὸ Καπε[τω]λιῶ | [καὶ] Τύχη τοῦ με[γ]ίστου) | [Ἀυτ]οκράτορος Κα[ίσαρος] | [Τίτου] Αἰλίου Ἀδριανοῦ [Ἀντω]νίου Σεβαστοῦ | [···κα] ταῖς τοῦ Δι[ὸς]··· | [·····] τολξ — —)], Stratonikeia (Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 515 on a stèle in the form of an altar, with a horse (supra i. 20) advancing below, Διὸ Ἐψίστω καὶ |

Ἄγαθῶ Ἀγγέλῳ, | Κλαύδιος Ἀχιλ(λ)εύς καὶ Γαλατ[ι]α ὑπὲρ σωτηρ[ας] | μετὰ τῶν ἰδίων | πάντων, χαριστ[ή]ριον, A. Hauvette-Besnault—M. Dubois in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1881 v. 182 f. no. 3 Διὶ Ἐψίστῳ | καὶ Θεῷ Ἀγγέλω Νέων | καὶ Εὐφροσύνῃ ὑπὲρ τῶν | ἰδίων, no. 4 [Διὶ(?) Ἐψίστῳ καὶ | Θεῷ Φρόνιμος καὶ | Πειθῶ κα[ι] (sic) | ὑπὲρ τῶν [ι]δίων χαριστήριον, G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1891 xv. 418 f. no. 1 at Djidi [Διὶ Ἐψίστῳ] | καὶ Θεῷ Εὐτύχῃ καὶ Σ[υν]φιλοῦσα, Ἀνδρέας, Ἀντίοχος ὑπὲρ ἐαυτῶν | καὶ τῶν ἰδίων χαριστήριον), and Tralleis (I. Misthos in the Μουσείον καὶ Βιβλιοθήκη τῆς Εὐαγγελικῆς Σχολῆς ἐν Σμύρνῃ 1873—1875 p. 95 no. 89 Θεῷ Ἐψίστῳ | κατ' ἑναρ on a small quadrilateral stèle).

(18) Kos. W. R. Paton—E. L. Hicks The Inscriptions of Cos Oxford 1891 p. 116 no. 63 record a small stèle, with aedicula and rosette, inscribed Θεανὸς | Θεῷ Ἐψίστῳ εὐχῆν.

(19) Delos. Two votive inscriptions, the one certainly, the other probably, from Rheneia, both dating from the close of s. ii B.C. and couched in terms so similar as to be practically identical, record prayers to the Θεὸς Ἐψίστος for speedy vengeance on behalf of two Jewish maidens named Marthine and Heraklea respectively (the names recur in the Corp. inscr. Gr. ii Add. no. 2322 ⁶⁷⁸ and no. 2322 ⁶⁸⁹ = Lebas—Foucart Œs no. 2041 and no. 2039), who had been done to death by violence or witchcraft. The Marthine-inscription, much mutilated, is now in the National Museum at Athens (best published by A. Wilhelm in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1901 iv Beiblatt p. 9 ff. fig. 2). The Heraklea-inscription, better preserved, is in the Museum at Bucharest (id. ib. p. 9 ff. fig. 3 = my fig. 817): its text and relief are repeated on the back as well as on the front of the stèle (Dittenberger Syll. inscr. Gr. 3 no. 1181, 1 ff. ἐπικαλοῦμαι καὶ ἀξίῳ τὸν Θεὸν τὸν | Ἐψίστον, τὸν κύριον τῶν πνευμάτων | καὶ πάσης σαρκός, ἐπὶ τοὺς δόλω φονεύσαντας ἢ φαρμακεύσαντας τὴν ταλαίπωρον ἄωρον Ἡράκλειαν, ἐχχέαν|τας αὐτῆς τὸ ἀνάτιον αἷμα ἀδίκως, ἵνα οὕτως γένηται τοῖς φονεύσασιν αὐτὴν ἢ φαρμακεύσασιν καὶ | τοῖς τέκνοις αὐτῶν, κύριε ὁ πάντα ἐ|φορῶν καὶ οἱ ἄγγελοι Θεοῦ, ᾧ πᾶσα ψυ|χὴ ἐν τῇ σήμερον ἡμέρᾳ ταπεινοῦται | μεθ' ἡκετάς, ἵνα ἐγδικήσῃς τὸ αἷμα τὸ ἀνάτιον ζητήσεις καὶ τὴν ταχίστην (Dittenberger op. cit. 2 on no. 816 says: 'Exspectes ἵνα ζητήσῃς τὸ αἷμα τὸ ἀνάτιον καὶ ἐγδικήσῃς τὴν ταχίστην.' The Marthine-text, however, runs: ἵνα ἐγδικήσῃ[s] | τὸ αἷμα τὸ ἀνάτιον καὶ τὴν ταχίστην[ν], Marble stèle from Panormos near Kyzikos, now in the British Museum, with dedication to Zeus Hypsistos and votive reliefs representing Zeus, Artemis (?), Apollon and a banquet.

Fig. 817.

See page 881.

omitting the second verb altogether. A. Deissmann, who has a detailed discussion of both stélai in his Licht vom Osten Tübingen 1908 pp. 305—316 figs. 55—57, thinks that the archetype had ἵνα ἐγδικήσῃς τὸ αἷμα τὸ ἀναίτιον καὶ ζητήσῃς τὴν ταχίστην). The uplifted hands are those of the suppliant : cp. infra no. (33) Aegyptos.

(20) Lydia. Hierokaisaieia (A. M. Fontrier in the Μουσείον καὶ Βιβλιοθήκη τῆς Εὐαγγελικῆς Σχολῆς ἐν Σμύρῃ 1886 p. 33 no. φί = P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1887 xi. 95 no. 16 at Sasoba Δούκιος Θεῶν Ἰψίστω εὐχῆν). Koloe in Maionia (M. Tsakyroglou in the Μουσείον καὶ Βιβλιοθήκη τῆς Εὐαγγελικῆς Σχολῆς ἐν Σμύρῃ 1878—1880 p. 161 no. τκδ' Ἀπολλωνίσκος | ὑπὲρ τοῦ υἱοῦ Ἐρμιογένους Θεῶν Ἰψίστω εὐχῆν). Philadelphia (Ala-Shehir) (J. Keil—A. von Premerstein 'Bericht über eine Reise in Lydien und der südlichen Aiolis' in the Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1910 ii Abh. p. 27 no. 39 on a stèle with gabled top ἔτους σξθ' (269 of Actian era = 238/9 A.D., of Sullan era = 184/5 A.D.), μη(νός) | Αὐδ(ν)αλου ἰ. Φλαβία Θεῶν Ἰψίστω | εὐχῆν. Sari-Tsam (A. M. Fontrier ib. 1886 p. 68 no. φνζ' = P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1887 xi. 84 f. no. 4, a Τειμόθεος Διαγόρου | Λαβραντίδης (Foucart justly cp. the epithet Λαβρανδεύς καὶ Μόσχιου) | Τειμοθέου ἡ γυνὴ αὐτοῦ | Θεῶν Ἰψίστω εὐχῆν τὸν | βωμόν, ὃ (by another hand) Διαγόρας, Τειμόθεος, Πύθεος | οἱ Τειμοθέου τοῦ Διαγόρου υἱοί | Λαβραντίδαι τὰς λυχνάφλας | Ἰψίστω ('Ἰψίστωι Fontrier) ἀνέθηκον). Silandos (Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 708 Θεῶν Ἰψίστω | εὐχῆν ἀνέθηκε Ἐλένη ὑπὲρ Θρασυβοῦλου τοῦ υἱοῦ | Θρασυβοῦλου). Tchatal Tere (K. Buresch Aus Lydien Leipzig 1898 p. 119 no. 57 on a small marble altar Θεῶν Ἰψίστω Ἀγαθόπου καὶ | Τελέσειρα εὐχῆν ἔτους σν' | μη(νός) Δαισίον κ'). Phata, three hours east of Theira (A. M. Fontrier in the Μουσείον καὶ Βιβλιοθήκη τῆς Εὐαγγελικῆς Σχολῆς ἐν Σμύρῃ 1876—1878 p. 32 on an altar-step Θεῶν Ἰψίστω. | Νεικηφόρος Ἐρμοκράτου ἱερε[ῖ]ς σὺν καὶ Ἐρμου[κρ]άτει τῷ ἀδ[ελ]φῶν τὸν βωμόν [[ἀνέσ]τησαν' | [ἔτ]ους σκ'). Thyateira (A. Wagener in the Mémoires de l'académie royale des sciences, des lettres et des beaux-arts de Belgique Série in 4^e Classe de Lettres 1861 xxx. 39 = A. M. Fontrier in the Revue des études anciennes 1902 iv. 239 no. 4 a relief of an eagle : on the base is inscribed Μοσχιανὸς Βασιλεὺς | Ἰψίστω Θεῶν εὐχῆν. J. Keil—A. von Premerstein 'Bericht über eine zweite Reise in Lydien' in the Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1911 ii Abh. p. 17 f. no. 28 on a small altar of bluish marble in lettering of the end of s. ii or s. iii A.D. Εὐελ(πι)στ[η] | [Θ]εῶν Ἰψ[ίσ]τ[ω] εὐχῆν | [[ἀν]έθηκον] | [εὐτ]υχῶ[ς], no. 29 on a small altar of similar material and date [Τ]ρυφῶσα | [Θ]εῶν Ἰψίστω | εὐχῆν). Cp. Ak Tash (Temenothyrai?) (ib. p. 129 no. 237 on a stèle of whitish marble with gabled top, in lettering of s. ii A.D., beneath an incised wreath Τύρανις Ἀφ[φ]ιδόος Ἰψ[ίσ]τω | εὐχῆν) and Gjölde near Koloe (ib. p. 97 no. 189 on a stèle of whitish marble, in lettering of s. i or ii A.D., beneath a sunk panel representing in front view a male (?), with chiton and himation, raising the right hand in adoration and holding a staff in the lowered left Θεῶν Ἰψίστω Γλύκων | εὐχῆν). The references to J. Keil—A. von Premerstein were kindly furnished to me by Mr A. D. Nock.

(21) Mysia. At Kyzikos a small cubical base of pink St Simeon marble, found near the theatre, reads [Σ]ω[φ]ί[νης] (?) | Νεικάνδ[ρου] | Δι' Ἰψίστω | εὐχῆν (Sir C. Smith—R. de Rustafjaell in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1902 xxii. 207 no. 14, F. W. Hasluck Cyzicus Cambridge 1910 p. 271 no. 11). From Panormos (Panderna) near Kyzikos came a votive stèle of white marble, presented by A. van Branteghem in 1890 to the British Museum (A. H. Smith in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture i. 374 f. no. 817, F. H. Marshall in The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum London 1916 iv. 2. 153 no. 1007 with fig. I am indebted to Mr Smith for the photograph by Mr R. B. Fleming from which my pl. xxxix is taken). This relief, which has aroused much interest (see e.g. A. S. Murray in the Rev. Arch. 1891 i. 10f. no. 1, H. Lechat—G. Radet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1893 xvii. 520f., F. Cumont Hypsistos Bruxelles 1897 p. 12 no. 3 pl., P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1899 xxiii. 592f. pl. 4, E. Ziebarth 'XOTΣ' in the Ath. Mitth. 1905 xxx. 145f., F. Poland Geschichte des griechischen Vereinswesens Leipzig 1909 p. 370, F. W. Hasluck Cyzicus Cambridge 1910 pp. 207, 271 no. 13, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 493 no. 3), represents three deities standing side by side in a sunk panel—Zeus in chiton and himation, with a phiale in his right hand, a sceptre in his left; Artemis (Persephone, or perhaps Hekate, according to Murray loc. cit. Dionysos, according to Smith and Reinach loc. cit.) in short chiton, chlamys, and high boots, with a phidole in her right hand, a torch in her left; Apollon in long chiton and himation, with a phidole in his right hand, a kithara in his left, and a snake-twined omphalos beside him. Beneath, in low relief, is a banquet of six men, who recline on cushions placed upon a long mattress. On the right a cup-bearer, in a short chiton, holds an oinochoe in one hand, an askos in the other, and draws wine from a large kratér partially sunk in the floor. On the left a seated musician plays two flutes, one straight, one curved, while his feet beat time with kroupézai. In the centre a girl, stark naked, is dancing, and a man in the costume of a mime-performer, with a pair of long krótala in his hands, is running round her at a lively pace. The pediment above is filled with an inscription, whose ligatures point to a date in s. ii A. D. Δι. ι. Τ. ψιστω. κ(αι). | τῷ χῶρῳ Θάλλος | ἐπάνυμος. τὸν. | τελαμῶνα. ἀπέδωκα, 'I Thallos, 'T. ψιστω. κ(αι). | τῷ χῶρῳ Θάλλος | ἐπάνυμος. τὸν. | τελαμῶνα. ἀπέδωκα, 'I Thallos, the name-giver (of the thlasos), duly presented the relief to Zeus Most High and to the Place (where the thiasotai assemble).' So Marshall loc. cit. Perdrizet loc. cit. under- stood: 'Thallos, magistrat éponyme, a voué ce cippe à Zeus céleste et au bourg,' Murray, Smith, and Cumont loc. cit. thought χῶρῳ a blunder for χορῶ (to which not one of them gives the right accent). Ziebarth loc. cit., following T. Reinach in the Rev. Et. Gr. 1894 vii 391, will have it that χῶρῳ was the name of the thlasos, cp. T. Wiegand in the Ath. Mitth. 1904 xxix. 316 an altar-shaped base of white marble from Nuserat, one hour south of Kébsud in Mysia, inscribed τὸν Βρομίου μύστην | [Ι]ερῶν, ἀρξάντα χοῦ, | κ.τ.λ. At Pergamon the Θεὸς Ὑψιστος, presumably Zeus (M. Fränkel Die Inschriften von Pergamon Berlin 1895 ii. 243 f. no. 331 on a small altar of white marble Τλόκινα | Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ | εὐχὴν ἀνέθηκα, ἐρωμέτη μετὰ τὸν | [ὄνειρον(?) ---] | [-----] (the last two lines covered with white daub)), was further identified with Helios (id. ib. ii. 243 no. 330 on a small altar of white marble from the precinct of Athena [Ἡλ]ιω, | Θε[ε]ῶ | Ὑψ[ι]στῳ, | Τάτιον | [εὐ]χῆν). At Plakia near Kyzikos was another thank-offering to the Θεὸς Ὑψιστος (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 3669 ἀγαθῆ τύχη. | Γ. Πασκέννιος Ὀνήσιμος | Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ σωθεὶς ἀνέθηκα ἐκ μεγάλου κινδύνου μετὰ τῶν ἰδίων. | νέκτης εὐχαριστήριον | ἀναθεῖναι (the last two lines are incomplete: sc. ἐπέταξεν ὁ θεὸς or the like). On the remarkable dedication to Zeus Ὑψιστος Βρονταῖος, now in the Tchিনিli Kiosk at Constantinople, but probably derived from the Cyzicene district, see supra p. 833 ff. fig. 793.

(22) Lesbos. Several dedications to the Θεὸς Ὑψιστος have been found at Mytilene (Inscr. Gr. ins. ii no. 115 on a large base or altar of white marble, above and below a relief representing an eagle with spread wings in a great olive-wreath Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ ε[ὐ]χῆν, | Πομπήιος Λυκάων μ[ε]τ[ε]ρ[ε]σ[τ]ῶν τῆς συμβίου Φοιβῆς | καὶ τῶν ἰδίων, no. 119 on a small base or altar Γ. Κορηλί(ο)ς | Χρηστίων, Κορηγία Θάλλουσα, Γ. Κορη<ι>ήλιος | Σεκοῦνδος χειμασθέντες ἐν | πελάγει Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ χρηστήριον (the last word a blunder for χαριστήριον), no. 125 (= A. Conze Reise auf der Insel Lesbos Hannover 1865 pp. 5, 12 pl. 5. 3) Θεῷ | Ὑψιστῷ | Π. Αἴλιος Ἀρβιανὸς Ἀλ[ε]ξανδρὸς, | βουλευ(τῆς) | Δακίας κολιβαρίας | Ζερμύξε[ε]θούσης, εὐχῆ[ν] | ἀνέθηκεν, and one of these by adding the title Κεραύνιος makes it clear that Zeus is meant (supra p. 807 n. 3 no. (3)).

(23) Phrygia. * Here too the Θεὸς Ὑψιστος had a considerable vogue—at Aizanoi (Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 987 = Corp. inscr. Gr. iii Add. no. 3842 d [ὁ δεῖνα] Ἄλεξ[α]νδρῶν [Ε]ἰόνιος ([Π]ειόνιος Lebas. Cp. Πειονίου = Pionii in Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 1363, 5 ff., Πιονίου in the Corp. Inscr. Gr. iv no. 8866, 9. A. B. C.) | [Θεῷ vel Δι] Ὑψιστῷ εὐχῆν, at Hadji-keui near Aizanoi (A. Körte in the Ath. Mitth. 1900 xxv. 405 no. 9 on an altar of half-marble Αὐρ. Ἀσκληπιᾶδ[ης] | ἐλεθεῖς ἀπ' ἑλλων (!) τῶν παθημάτων | εὐξάμενος Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ μετὰ | τῶν εἰδίων (so Körte. Better ἀπό <πο>λλων by lipo-graphy. A. B. C.), at Yenije near Akmonia (W. M. Ramsay The Cities and Bishoprics of Phrygia Oxford 1897 ii. 652 f. no. 563 [ἐάν δέ τις ἕτερον σῶμα εἰσενέγκη, ἐσ]ται αὐτῷ πρὸς τὸν θεὸν τὸν ὕψιστον, καὶ τὸ ἀρᾶς δρέπανον εἰς τὸν ὄκον αὐτοῦ [εἰσελθούτο καὶ μηδέναν ἐγκατα-λείψατο], where the formula ἔσται αὐτῷ πρὸς τὸν θεὸν and the phrase τὸν θεὸν τὸν ὕψιστον suit the epitaph of a Jew or perhaps a Jewish Christian), at Hadji-Eyub-li near Laodikeia (W. M. Ramsay op. cit. 1895 i. 78 no. 14 [. . . .]s Θεῷ Ὑψιστῷ εὐχῆν), at Nakoleia (Seidi Ghazi) (W. M. Ramsay in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1884 v. 258 n. 2 no. 9 on a small slab of marble Θεῶ Ἰψίστῳ εὐχὴν Ἀὐρήλιος | Ἀσκλάπῳ, ἦν ὁμολόγησεν εἶν | Ῥώμη), at Arslan Apa in the upper valley of the river Tembrogios or Tembrios (J. G. C. Anderson in W. M. Ramsay Studies in the History and Art of the Eastern Provinces of the Roman Empire Aberdeen 1906 p. 211 no. 9 on an altar with a garland in relief [. . . η] Νικο[μ(α?)]χου [. . .] | [ἔτους] τλη' (= 253/4 A.D.). Ἀὐρ. Ἰδῶν Θεῶ Ἰψίστῳ εὐχὴν). The Θεὸς Ἰψίστος was here, as Anderson saw, Zeus Βέννιος or Βεννεύς the native god of the district (W. M. Ramsay in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1884 v. 259 f. no. 11 on a marble cippus from Karagatch Euren near Altyntash, below a relief representing a bunch of grapes, an eagle, and a radiate head of the sun-god Διὶ Βεννίῳ | Διογένης ὑπὲρ | Διογένους πάππου | καὶ Κλ. Χρυσίου | μᾶμμης καὶ τῶν | κατοικούντων | ἐν Ἰσκόμῃ καθιέρωσεν. | Ἀπολλώνιος Ἰσχυραῆος ἔποιε. Ramsay refers the cippus 'most probably to the second century after Christ,' adding 'I understand this inscription to be placed by Diogenes on the grave of his grandparents; in preparing the grave Diogenes considers that he is dedicating the spot to Zeus Bennis. The grave is a shrine of Zeus, and the funeral offerings to the dead were considered at the same time as offerings to Zeus.' Id. ib. p. 258 f. no. 10 on a stèle at Serea (Kuzujak), three hours north-west of Nakoleia Μάρκος | Μάρκον | Διὶ Βροντῶν|τι καὶ Βεννέ | Σεραεῶ στ|έφανον. Ramsay remarks: 'Here it is evident that Bennis, or Zeus Benneus, the god of the western side [of the mountains], and Pappas, or Zeus Bronton, the god of the eastern side, are expressly identified.' Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure no. 774 = Corp. inscr. Gr. iii Add. no. 3857 l = G. Perrot—E. Guillaume—J. Delbet Exploration archéologique de la Galatie et de la Bithynie etc. Paris 1872 i. 122 f. no. 86 on a cylindrical cippus at Altyntash ὑπὲρ τῆς αὐτοκράτορος | Νερούα Τραϊανοῦ Κάλσαρος | Σεβαστοῦ Γερμανικοῦ | Δακικοῦ νεκρῆς Διὶ Βεννίῳ | Μηνοφάνης Τειμοδόου | τὸν βωμὸν ἀνέστησεν | Βεννεσισηνῶν. W. M. Ramsay The Historical Geography of Asia Minor (Royal Geographical Society: Supplementary Papers iv) London 1890 p. 144 f. (cp. S. Reinach Chroniques d'orient Paris 1891 p. 498) was the first to read the concluding line aright as Βεννέ Σονῶν, Soa being the chief town of the Praipennisis in the neighbourhood of Altyntash, whose priests, the Βεννεῖται, are mentioned in another inscription from the same locality (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 3857 between Aizanoi and Kotiaeiou Τρόφον Μενίσκου Διὶ | καὶ τοῖς Βεννεῖταις). W. M. Ramsay in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1887 viii. 512 f. takes Zeus Βέννιος or Βεννεύς to mean 'he who stands on a Car,' cp. the Gallic (Paul. ex Fest. p. 32, 14 Müller, p. 29, 24 f. Lindsay benna lingua Gallica genus vehiculi appellatur, unde vocantur conbennones in eadem benna sedentes), Messapien (W. Deecke in the Rhein. Mus. 1882 xxxvii. 385 f. no. 22), and Thraco-Illyrian word benna (Steph. Byz. s.v. Βέννα, πόλις Θράκης, κ.τ.λ., Thes. Ling. Lat. ii. 1907, 48 f. Bennisus, 69 f. Bensus).

(24) Bithynia (?). J. H. Mordtmann in the Arch.-ep. Mitth. 1885 viii. 198 no. 18 publishes a miniature base from the coast of Asia Minor inscribed ἀγαθῇ τύχη· | Θεῶ Ἰψίστῳ | Ἀσκληπιόδοτος Σωσιπάτρου κατὰ δ'ναρ.

(25) Paphlagonia. Inscriptions from the district of Sinope record the cult of the Θεὸς Ἰψίστος (G. Doublet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1889 xiii. 303 f. no. 7 = D. M. Robinson in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1905 ix. 306 no. 29 Θεῶ Ἰψίστῳ | Ἄλιος Θρεπτιῶν, | Ποντιανός, Σεουήρος, Μάκερ, οἱ | ἀδελφοὶ ('brethren' in a religious sense) εὐξάμενοι) or Θεὸς Μέγας Ἰψίστος (G. Mendel in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1903 xxvii. 333 no. 49 = D. M. Robinson loc. cit. p. 304 no. 26 with fig. on a marble altar pierced to serve as base for a post at Emrilé near Chalabdé Θεῶ Μεγάλῳ | Ἰψίστῳ εὐχῆς | χάρῳ ἀνέ|θηκε . . . [λ]ος | μετὰ [τῆς γυ]ναί[κ]ος Που[φ]ει[νης]).

(26) Pontos. J. G. C. Anderson—F. Cumont—H. Grégoire Recueil des Inscriptions grecques et latines du Pont et de l'Arménie (Studia Pontica iii) Bruxelles ii no. 284 Sebastopolis (cited by F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 448).

(27) Bosphoros Kimmerios. Gorgippia (Anapa) (B. Latyschev Inscriptiones antiquae Orae Septentrionalis Ponti Euxini Graecae et Latinae Petropoli 1890 ii. 208 ff. no. 400, 1 ff. (manumission of a slave) Θεῶ Ἰψίστῳ παντοκράτορι εὐλογητῷ, βασιλεύοντος βασιλέως [Πολέμωνος] φιλο|γερωμα|νικῆ καὶ φιλοπατρίδος, ἔτους η'λτ' (338 of the Bosphoran era = 41 A.D.), μηνὸς Δελίου, Πόθος Στ[ρ]άτωνος ἀνέθηκεν <ἐν> | τῆι [προσ]ευχῆι κατ' εὐχ[ῆ]ν θρεπτήν ἑαυτοῦ, ἧ ὄνομα Χρῦσα, ἐφ' ᾧ ἡ ἀνέπαφος καὶ ἀνεπηρέαστος | ἀπὸ παντὸς κληρον[όμ]ου ὑπὸ Δία, Γῆν, Ἥλιον. "Ἡλιον" (cp. supra p. 729 n. ο), no. 401, 1 ff. = R. Cagnat Inscriptions Graecae ad res Romanas pertinentes Paris 1911 i. 299 no. 911 (manumission of a slave) [Θεῶ Ἰψίστω παν] [τοκράτ]ορι εὐλο[γῆ] [τ]ῶ βασιλεύοντ[ος] | βασιλέως Τιβερίου Ἰ<ω>|ουλλου<λου> Σαυρομά[του] (sc. Tib. Iulius Sauromates ii, king of Bosphoros in the time of Caracalla) φιλοκαίσαρος καὶ φιλωρμαίου εὐσεβοῦς | Τειμύθεος Νυμφαγύρου Μακαρίου σὺν | ἀδελφῆς Ἥλιδος γυναικὸς Νανοβαλαμύρου κατὰ εὐχὴν | πατρὸς ἡμῶν Νυμφαγύρου Μακαρίου | ἀφελόμεν τὴν θρηπ[τὴν ἡμῶν Δ]ωρέαν | [Ἐλευθέραν --], B. Latyschev op. cit. Petropoli 1901 iv. 249 ff. no. 436 b, 4 Θεῶ Ἰψίστω --, 15 [-] Θεῶ Ἰψίστω Ποθῆ[ν]ος --] i.e. the name of the god inserted twice in a list of his worshippers).

Tanais (B. Latyschev op. cit. Petropoli 1890 ii. 246 ff. nos. 437—467, R. Cagnat op. cit. i. 300 ff. nos. 915—921, of which some samples must serve: no. 437, 1 ff. = no. 915, 1 ff. (topped by relief of gable with shield inside and eagle on apex: see L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pé. 1870—1871 p. 230 f. fig.) [Θεῶ Ἰψίστωι ζ εὐχῆ]. | [β]ασιλεύοντος βασιλέως Τιβερίου | [Ἰ]ουλίου Ῥοιμητάλκου (sc. Tib. Iulius Rhoemetalces, king of Bosphoros in the time of Hadrian) φιλοκαίσαρος καὶ | φιλωρμαίου εὐσεβοῦς, ἐν τῷ... ἔτει. | μηρὸς Περειτίου ἧ, [ἡ σύνοδος ἡ περὶ] | ἱερέα Πόπλιον Χαρ[ίτωνος (?) καὶ πατέρα συν]όδου Ἄντ[ιμαχον] τοῦ δέωνο --], no. 447, 1 ff. ἀγαθῆ τύχη | Θεῶ Ἰψίστω ἐπηκόω ἡ σύνοδος περὶ Θεὸν Ἰψίστον καὶ ἱερέα Χόφρασμον | Φοργαβάκου καὶ συναγωγὸν Εὐπρέπην | Συμφόρου καὶ φιλάγαθον Ἄντιμαχον Πα[σίωνος καὶ παραφιλάγαθον Σύμφορον Δημητρίου καὶ γυμνασιάρχην Βαλλῶδιν Δημητρίου καὶ νιανισκάρχην Σανάνων Χοφράσμον καὶ οἱ | λοιποὶ θιασῶται. κ.τ.λ., no. 449, 1 ff. = no. 918, 1 ff. (with incised decoration of two eagles and a wreath between them: see L. Stephani loc. cit. p. 254 ff. fig.) Θεῶι [Ἰψίστωι] | βασιλεύοντος βασιλέως Τιβερίου | Ἰουλίου Ῥησκουπθρίδος (sc. Tib. Iulius Rhescuporis, king of Bosphoros 212—229 A.D.) φιλοκαίσαρος καὶ φιλωρμαίου εὐσεβοῦς | Ἰσποιητοῖ (= εἰσποιητοί, 'adoptives') ἀδελφοὶ σεβόμενοι | [Θεὸν] Ἰψίστον ἀι[έστησαν τὸν] | τελαμῶνα ἐνγ[ράψαντες ἐαυτῶν] | τὰ ὄνματα. κ.τ.λ., no. 452, 1 ff. = no. 920, 1 ff. ἀγαθῆ τύχη | Θεῶ Ἰψίστω εὐχῆ. | βασιλεύοντ[ος] βασιλέως Τιβερίου | [Ἰ]ουλίου Κό[τ]υος (sc. Tib. Iulius Cotys, king of Bosphoros c. 228—234 A.D.) φιλοκαίσαρος καὶ φιλωρμαίου εὐσεβοῦς εἰσποιητοὶ | ἀδελφοὶ σεβόμενοι Θεὸν Ἰψίστον | ἐνγρ[άψαντες] ἐαυτῶν τὰ ὄνματα καὶ περὶ πρεσβύτερον (sc. the senior of the adoptive brethren) Μ..... Ἡρακλεῖδου καὶ Ἀρίστωνα [Μ]ενεστράτου καὶ Καλλίγ[έν]ην Μύ[ρ]ωνος, Ἀλεξίωνα Πατρόκλου, κ.τ.λ. (list of names), 17 τὸν δὲ τελαμῶ[ν]α ἐδώρησατο τοῖς ἀδελ[φ]οῖς Σαμβίω[ν] Ἐλπίδιωνος. Φούρτας Ἀγαθοῦ, Ἀγαθήμερος Ποπλιου. | ἐν τῷ ἐκτῷ ἔτει (525 of the Bosphoran era = 228 A.D.), Γορπάλου α', no. 454, 1 ff. ἀγαθῆ τύχη | Θεῶ Ἰψίστω ἐπηκόω εὐχῆ ἡ σύνοδος περὶ | ἱερέα Πάταν Χρήστου καὶ [σ]υναγωγὸν Νυμφέρωτα Ὀχωζιάκου κ[α]ὶ φιλάγαθον Θέωνα | Φαζινάμου κ[α]ὶ παραφιλά[α] (γ)αθον Φαζιναμίου Καλλιστ[ε]ωνος καὶ γυμνασιάρχην Μακάριον Μαστοῦ καὶ νιανισκάρχην Ζῆθον Ζήθου | κ[α]ὶ οἱ λοιποὶ θιασῶται. κ.τ.λ.

These inscriptions have been studied by L. Stephani, I. V. Pomjalónskij, V. V. Látyshev, E. Schürer, E. H. Minns, and others. L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pé. 1870—1871 p. 228 ff. argued that the Θεὸς Ἰψίστος, whose emblem was an eagle, must have been the Greek Zeus, but that the regular omission of the name Zeus implies an incipient Christianisation of his cult. I. V. Pomjalónskij in the Transactions of the Sixth (1884) Archaeological Congress at Odessa (published in Russian) Odessa 1888 ii. 24 ff. compared the god with Zeus Σωτήρ, Zeus Στράτιος, Zeus Λαβράνδος, Zeus Χρυσαιορέως, etc. and saw no reason to regard his epithets Ἰψίστος, Ἐπήκοος as indicative of Christian influence. B. Latyschev op. cit. Petropoli 1890 ii 246 f., in view of the dedication Θεῶ Ἐπηκόω Ἰψίστω by a θιασος Σεβαζιανός (supra no. (11)), concluded that here too the god worshipped was Sabázios—a possible link between Zeus and the κύριος Σεβαζῶθ (supra i. 234 n. 4, 400 n. 6, 425 n. 2). But E. Schürer 'Die Juden im bosporanischen Reiche und die Genossenschaften der σεβόμενοι θεὸν Ἰψίστον ebendasselbst' in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1897 p. 200 ff. (followed e.g. by E. H. Minns Scythians and Greeks Cambridge 1913 p. 620 ff. and F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 448) has made it clear that the worshippers were Bosphoran Jews, who however did not scruple to use the gentile formula ὑπὸ Δία, Γῆν, Ἥλιον. Their worship was a compromise between the strictly Semitic and the strictly Hellenic ('weder Judenthum noch Heidenthum, sondern eine Neutralisierung beider'). At Tanais, for example, there were several small religious societies (θλασοί, συνόδοι), each comprising some 15 to 40 members (θιασῶται, θιασῖται, θιεσεῖται, συνοδέται). These members were either of recent introduction (εἰσποιητοὶ ἀδελφοί) or of senior standing (πρεσβύτεροι). Their officers in descending order were ιερέυς, πατήρ συνόδου, συναγωγός, φιλάγαθος, παραφιλάγαθος, γυμνασιάρχης, νεαυκακάρχης, γραμματεὺς (omissions and transpositions occur). Their aims included the cult of the θεός Ὑψιστος, the education of the young, and (to judge from similar inscriptions at Pantikapaion) the due burial of the brethren.

(28) Kappadokia. An analogous blend of Jewish and Persian beliefs is found in the case of the Ὑψιστάριοι, according to Gregory of Nazianzos, whose own father had belonged originally to this sect (Greg. Naz. or. 18. 5 (xxxv. 989 D—992 A Migne) *ἐκείνοι τοίνυν... ῥίξεις ἐγένετο βλάστημα οὐκ ἐπαυετής... ἐκ δυοῖν τῶν ἐναντιωτάτων συγκεκραμένης, Ἑλληνικῆς τε πλάνης καὶ νομικῆς τερατείας· ὧν ἀμφοτέρων τὰ μέρη φυγῶν ἐκ μερῶν συνετέθη. τῆς μὲν γὰρ τὰ εἰδῶλα καὶ τὰς θυσίας ἀποπεμπόμενοι τιμῶσι τὸ πῦρ καὶ τὰ λύχνα· τῆς δὲ τὸ σάββατον αἰδούμενοι καὶ τὴν περὶ τὰ βρώματα ἔστιν ἄμικρολογίαν τὴν περιτομὴν ἀτιμάζουσιν. Ὑψιστάριοι τοῖς ταπεινοῖς ὄνομα, καὶ ὁ Παντοκράτωρ δὴ μόνος αὐτοῖς σεβάσμιος). Gregory of Nyssa speaks of the same sect as Ὑψιστιανοί (Greg. Nyss. contra Eunomium 2 (xlv. 481 D—484 A Migne) ὁ γὰρ ὁμολογῶν τὸν πατέρα πάντοτε καὶ ὡσαύτως ἔχειν, ἕνα καὶ μόνον ὄντα, τὸν τῆς εὐσεβείας κρατῖναι λόγον... εἰ δὲ ἄλλον τινὰ παρὰ τὸν πατέρα θεὸν ἀναπλάσσει, Ἰουδαίους διαλεγέσθω ἢ τοῖς λεγομένοις Ὑψιστιανοῖς· ὧν αὕτη ἔστιν ἡ πρὸς τοῖς Χριστιανοῖς διαφορά, τὸ θεὸν μὲν αὐτοῖς ὁμολογεῖν εἶναι τινα, ὃν ὀνομάζουσιν Ὑψιστον ἢ Παντοκράτορα· πατέρα δὲ αὐτὸν εἶναι μὴ παραδέχσασθαι). See further C. Ullmann De Hypsistariis, seculi post Christum natum quarti secta, commentatio Heidelbergae 1823 pp. 1—34, G. Boehmer De Hypsistariis opinionibusque, quae super eis propositae sunt, commentationem etc. Berolini 1824 pp. 1—102, W. Boehmer Einige Bemerkungen zu den von dem Herrn Prof. Dr. Ullmann und mir aufgestellten Ansichten über den Ursprung und den Charakter der Hypsistariier Hamburg 1826 pp. 1—75, G. T. Stokes in Smith—Wace Dict. Chr. Biogr. iii. 188 f.*

(29) Syria. Palmyra (Tadmor) (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4503 = Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure iii no. 2571 b on a bilingual altar now at Oxford Δι' Ὑψίστῳ καὶ [Ε]πὴκῶς Ἰου(λίος) Ἀνρ(ήλιος) Ἀνρ(ήλιος) Ἀνρ(ήλιος) ἄνρ(ήλιος) καὶ | Ἀλαφῶνας Ἀαίλαμεί του Ζηροβ[ι]ου του Ἀκοπάου | εὐξάμενος ἀνέ[θ]ηκεν, ἔτους δμϛ', | Ἀύδυναίου κδ' (=Jan. 24, 233 A.D.) = C. J. M. de Vogüé Inscriptions sémitiques Paris 1868 p. 74 no. 123*a* iii with translation of the Palmyrene text 'Action de grâces à celui dont le nom est béni dans l'éternité' etc. Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4502 = Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2571 c = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. no. 634 on an altar near the great sulphurous spring at the entrance to the town Δι' Ὑψίστῳ Μεγίστῳ Ἐπηκῶς Βωλάνος Ζηροβ[ι]ου | του Αἰράνου του Μοκίμου του Μαθθά, ἐπιμελητῆς | αἰρεθῆς Ἐφκας πηγῆς (I. Benzinger in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 2859) ὑπὸ Ἰαρβιάου του θεοῦ (supra p. 814 n. 3) τὸν βω(μ)δ(ν) | ἐξ ἰδίων ἀνέθηκεν, ἔτους δου', μηνὸς Ὑπερβερεταίου κ' (=Oct. 20, 162 A.D.). Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2572 on an altar in the Mohammedan cemetery Δι' Ὑψίστῳ καὶ Ἐπηκῶς τὸν βωμὸν ἀνέθηκεν Ἰούλιος Σ.ιυς ἀπέλευθερο(s) Γαῦου <S> | Του[λ]λου Βάσσου ὑπὲρ σω[ω]τηρίας Ἰλείβας υἱοῦ(ῦ) | αὐτοῦ, ἔτους μν', μηνὸς Ξανδικοῦ (=April 179 A.D.). Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2573 on a fragmentary altar from the same site Δι' Ὑψίστῳ Α[ύρ.] Διογένης Σωσιβίου ἅμα | Δόμνη εὐξάμενος καὶ ἐπακουσθέν[τες] [- - -] | [- - -]. Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2574 on a small altar from the same site Δι' Ὑψίστῳ | καὶ Ἐπηκῶς | εὐξάμενος | ἀνέθηκεν | Α...ευρος καὶ | Σῶπατρος καὶ | Θεῶ Μεγάλῳ | Σαλλούγτῳ (?) | Ἐνεουάρει (?) | [- - -]. Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2575 on a small bilingual altar from the same site Δι' Ὑψίστῳ καὶ Ἐπηκῶς τὸν βωμὸν ἀν[έ]θηκεν εὐχαριστ[ῶ]ν ὁ δεῖνα | [- - -] = C. J. M. de Vogüé op. cit. p. 68 no. 101, who reads εὐχαριστ[ω]ν[ς] [- - -] and renders the Palmyrene text 'Que soit béni son nom à toujours : le bon et le miséricordieux !' etc. M. Sobernheim Palmyrenische Inschriften (Mitteilungen der Vorderasiatischen Gesellschaft 1905 x, 2) Berlin 1905 p. 38 f. no. 31 on a stèle built into the western wall of the steps leading up to the roof of the 'Fahnenheiligtum'; the pilasters of the stèle have Corinthian capitals adorned with filleted wreath and winged thunderbolt [Δι' Ὑψί]στ[ω] καὶ | Ἐ[π]ηκῶς - - - | [- - -] τῶν κα[ρ]πῶν, οὐς [έ]κ [ταύτ]ης [τῆς χώρας] | [- - -] κατ' ἔτος τ[ε] ἀ[γ]αθῆ ἡμέρα διὰ π[α]ντὸς ε[- - -] |

[— — ετους] δου', μηνὶ Ξανδικῶ 5 (= April 6, 163 A.D.). M. Sobernheim op. cit. p. 40 no. 20 on a cippus built into the eastern wall of the small court in front of the 'Fahnenheiligtum' Διὶ Ὑψίστῳ καὶ Ἐπηκῶ ὁ δεῖνα | ὁ καὶ Ἰαριβω[λέης τοῦ δεῖνα]. M. Sobernheim op. cit. p. 40 ff. no. 34 pls. 16, 17 on a bilingual cippus in the court before the 'Fahnenheiligtum' Διὶ Ὑψίστῳ καὶ Ἐπηκῶ τὸν βωμὸν | ἀνέθηκεν Ζαβδὼβ[λος τοῦ Ἰαριβωλέους] | τοῦ Λισαμαλοῦ τοῦ Αἰ[ράνου ὑπὲρ τῆς] | ὑγείας αὐτοῦ καὶ τέκνων[καὶ] | ἀδελφῶν, ετους δμου' Ὑ[περβεραλοῦ] (= October 132 A.D.) followed by a Palmyrene text, which he translates 'Diesen [Altar] brachte dar dem, dessen Namen in Ewigkeit gesegnet sei,' etc. Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4500 = Lebas—Waddington op. cit. iii no. 2627. Some 3½ hours from Palmyra on the road to Emesa are three large altars of similar size placed close together; that on the east has a relief representing a large thunderbolt and a bilingual inscription; that on the west has a similar relief and inscription, except for a variant in the Palmyrene text; that in the centre is damaged and appears to have a different emblem but the same inscription Διὶ Ὑψίστῳ καὶ Ἐπηκῶ ἡ πόλις εὐχὴν· | ετους εκύ', Δύστρου ακ' (= March 21, 114 A.D.), ἐπι ἀργυροταμιῶν Ζεβελδου Θαιμοσαμέδων καὶ Μοκίμου Ἰαριβωλέους καὶ Ἰαριλου Νουρβήλου καὶ Ἀνανίδος Μάλαχου = C. J. M. de Vogüé op. cit. p. 74 f. no. 124, who renders the Palmyrene text 'La ville (de Thadmor) a élevé (cet autel) à celui dont le nom est béni à toujours,' etc. R. Dussaud Mission dans les régions désertiques de la Syrie (extr. from the Nouvelles Archives des missions scientifiques et littéraires x) Paris 1903 p. 238 no. 2 a dedication, south of Damaskos, Διὶ Μεγίστῳ Ὑψίστῳ (quoted by F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 445). The Syrian Zeus Ὑψιστος is probably Ba'al-shamin (M. Sobernheim op. cit. pp. 41, 43, 44 f.; supra i. 8, 191 f.).

(30) Phoinike. Sanchouniathon of Berytos (supra i. 191) in Philon Bybl. frag. 2. 12 f. (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 567 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. i. 10. 14 f. κατὰ τοὺτους γίνεταί τις Ἐλιοῦν καλούμενος Ὑψιστος καὶ θήλεια λεγομένη Βηρούθ, οἱ καὶ κατ'ἴκον περι Βύβλου. ἐξ ὧν γεννᾶται Ἐπίγειος ἢ Αὐτόχθων (W. Dindorf reads Ἐπίγειος αὐτόχθων), δν ὕστερον ἐκάλεσαν Οὐρανόν· ὡς ἀπ' αὐτοῦ καὶ τὸ ὑπὲρ ἡμᾶς στοιχείον δι' ὑπερβολῆν τοῦ κάλλους ὀνομάζειν οὐρανόν. γεννᾶται δὲ τούτῳ ἀδελφῆ ἐκ τῶν προειρημένων, ἡ καὶ ἐκλήθη Γῆ, καὶ διὰ τὸ κάλλος ἀπ' αὐτῆς, φησὶν, ἐκάλεσαν τὴν ὀνόνημον γῆν. ὁ δὲ τούτων πατὴρ ὁ Ὑψιστος ἐν συμβολῇ θηρίων τελευτήσας ἀφιέρωθη, ᾧ χοὰς καὶ θυσίας οἱ παῖδες ἐτέλεσαν. Here Ἐλιοῦν is but the Phoenician for Ὑψιστος, who naturally weds Βηρούθ because he is the solar Ba'al of Berytos (R. Dussaud Notes de mythologie syrienne Paris 1905 p. 140 f.). W. W. Baudissin Adonis und Esmun Leipzig 1911 p. 76 supposes a blend of Adonis (killed by the boar) with the 'Kronos' of Byblos. Two votive hands of bronze formerly in the collection of M. Péretié at Beirut are dedicated to the θεὸς Ὑψιστος (M. Beaudouin—E. Pottier in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 265 no. 20 [ἡ δεῖνα] | εἰξ[α]μένῃ ὑπὲρ αὐτῆς[s] | καὶ Θ[ε]οῦ ὀδῶ[ρον ἀνδρῶ[s]] | καὶ τέκνων | Θεῶ Ὑψίστῳ, ib. no. 21 Θεῶ Ὑψίστῳ Γηριῶν ἐξά[μ]ενος ἀνέθη[κ]εν in dotted letters), as is a third described in the Catalogue de la Collection Hoffmann, Bronzes, no. 570 (F. Cumont in R. Dussaud Notes de mythologie syrienne p. 122). The god in question is presumably Adad or Rammān, the Zeus or Iupiter of Heliopolis (R. Dussaud ib. p. 123 f., F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 445). Possibly some confusion of Rammān (supra i. 576) with Rama, Ramath, Ramatha, 'Height' (Beer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i A. 132), underlies the glosses in Hesych. ράμα· ὑψηλή, ράμας· ὁ ὕψιστος θεός, and the aetiological tale in Steph. Byz. s.v. Λαοδίκεια· πόλις τῆς Συρίας, ἡ πρότερον Λευκὴ ἀκτὴ λεγομένη καὶ πρὸ τούτου Ῥάμιθα. κεραυνωθεὶς γὰρ τις ἐν αὐτῇ ποιμὴν ἔλεγε ραμάνθας, τουτέστιν ἀφ' ὕψους ὁ θεός· ράμαν γὰρ τὸ ὕψος, ἄθας δὲ ὁ θεός. οὕτω Φίλων. At Sahin, five hours from Antarakos (Tortosa, Tartús), is the dedication [Θε]ῶ Ὑψίστῳ Οὐρανίῳ Ὑπάτω καὶ Ἠλίῳ Ἀνικήτῳ (?) | [Μί]θρα ὁ βωμὸς ἐκτίσθη[.....] | [ὁ]ρθῶς ἐν τῷ κφ' (= 208 A.D.), ἐπικρατεῖται (?) | [ὑπὲρ] σωτηρίας Θεοφ[ρά]στου | ἐπι ἀρχῆς Σολωμαν[οῦ.....] (E. Renan Mission de Phénicie Paris 1864 p. 103 f., F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 ii. 92 no. 5).

At Abédut above the door of the church of Mar-Eusebios is a block inscribed ἀγαθῆι τύχη· | ετους ιζ' Καίσαρος Ἀντωνίου τοῦ κυρίου, | μηνὸς Δῶνου (= August 154 A.D.), Διὶ Οὐρανίῳ Ὑψίστῳ Σααρναίῳ (a title derived from the ancient name of the village (?)) Ἐπηκῶ | Γ. Φλάουιος [Γ]λάφυρος ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων τὸν βωμὸν ἀνέθηκα (E. Renan op. cit.

p. 234 ff. = R. Cagnat—G. Lafaye Inscriptiones Graecae ad res Romanas pertinentes Paris 1906 iii. 406 no. 1060. At Byblos (Djebeil), some six hours north of Berytos, is a square statue-base lettered Διὶ Ὑψίστῳ | Πεκουλιάριος | Μάρθας Δ(ημ)η(τρ)λου (?). The upper part of the base shows in relief a bust of the god, facing. He is bearded, and clad in chiton and himation, with thunderbolt and sceptre to his right and left (R. Dussaud in the Rev. Arch. 1896 i. 299 f. with fig. (inadequate), S. Ronzevalle in the Revue biblique internationale 1903 xii. 405 ff. with photographic cut). Ronzevalle loc. cit. contends 'que l'Hypsistos de Byblos n'est autre que l'antique Moloch-Kronos de la même ville': cp. W. W. Baudissin op. cit. p. 76 n. 4.

(31) Samaria. On Mt Argarizon (Gerizim) near Neapolis (Nablûs) was a sanctuary of Zeus Ὑψίστος, to whom Abraham had devoted himself (Marinos in Damask. v. Isid. ap. Phot. bibl. p. 345b 18 ff. Bekker ὅτι ὁ διάδοχος Πιρόκλου, φησίν, ὁ Μαρίνος, γένος ἦν ἀπὸ τῆς ἐν Παλαιστίνῃ Νέας πόλεως, πρὸς θρεῖ κατωκισμένης τῷ Ἀργαρίξῳ καλουμένην. εἶτα βλασφημῶν ὁ δυσσεβῆς φησὶν ὁ συγγραφεὺς, ἐν ᾧ Διὸς Ὑψίστου ἀγιώτατον ἱερὸν, ᾧ καθιέρωτο Ἀβραάμ ὁ τῶν πάλαι Ἑβραίων πρόγονος, ὡς αὐτὸς ἔλεγεν ὁ Μαρίνος); cp. Deut. 11. 29, 27. 12 with Gen. 12. 6f.: Jehovah, from the heathen point of view, was 'a god of the hills' (1 Kings 20. 23). Sanballat built a temple on Mt Gerizim (Ioseph. ant. Iud. 11. 8. 4), which during the persecutions of Antiochos iv Epiphanes was dedicated to Zeus Ἐλληγιος (id. ib. 12. 5. 5, Zonar. 4. 19 (i. 317 Dindorf)) or Ξένιος (2 Macc. 6. 2, Euseb. chron. ann. Abr. 1850 versio Armenia (ii. 126 Schoene) = Hieron. chron. ann. Abr. 1849 (ii. 127

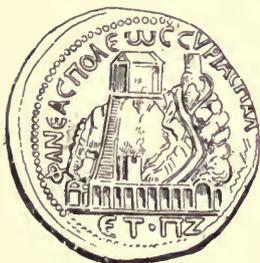

Fig. 818.

Fig. 819.

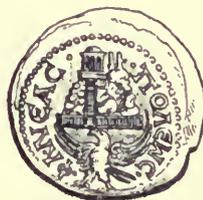

Fig. 820.

Schoene) in Samaria super verticem montis Garizi Iovis Peregrini delubrum aedificat, ipsis Samaritanis ut id faceret praecantibus). Sanballat's temple was destroyed by Ioannes Hyrkanos i in 129 B.C. (Ioseph. ant. Iud. 13. 9. 1). But the mountain remained the centre of Samaritan worship (John 4. 20 f.), and coins of Flavia Neapolis from the reign of Antoninus Pius to that of Volusianus show it topped by a temple (Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² iii. 433 ff., T. L. Donaldson Architectura Numismatica London 1859 p. 116 ff. no. 33, G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Palestine pp. xxviii ff., 48 f. pl. 5, 14—16 Antoninus Pius, 59 pl. 6, 12 Macrinus, 60 f. nos. 94—100 Elagabalos, 63 nos. 112—115 Severus Alexander, no. 116 f. Philippus Senior, 66 f. pl. 7, 5 Philippus Senior and Philippus Iunior, 68 no. 135 Otacilia Severa, 69 pl. 7, 9 Philippus Iunior, 70 f. pl. 7, 13 Trebonianus Gallus, 73 pl. 7, 19 Volusianus; cp. pl. 39, 7 f., 12, pl. 40, 1, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 278 pl. 77, 25 Antoninus Pius, 281 pl. 77, 27 Volusianus, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 803. My figs. 818 and 820 are from F. De Saulcy Numismatique de la terre sainte Paris 1874 p. 247 f. pl. 13, 1 Antoninus Pius and pl. 14, 2 Volusianus. Fig. 819 is from a specimen struck by Macrinus, in my collection. Mt Gerizim is often supported by an eagle (e.g. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Palestine pp. 63 no. 116 f. Philippus Senior, 66 f. pl. 7, 5 Philippus Senior and Philippus Iunior, 69 pl. 7, 9 Philippus Iunior, 73 pl. 7, 19 Volusianus) and sometimes flanked by a star (sun?) on the left and a crescent (moon) on the right (ib. p. 71 no. 153 f. Trebonianus Gallus): eagle and heavenly bodies would alike suit the worship of Zeus). Mr G. F. Hill loc. cit. p. xxviii f. describes the coin-type as follows: 'It shows two distinct peaks, the steepness of which is certainly exaggerated. On the left-hand peak is the temple which, since it first appears on coins of Pius, is doubtless the temple of Zeus Hypsistos built by Hadrian [E. N. Adler—M. Sélignoh 'Une nouvelle chronique samaritaine' in the Revue des études juives 1902 xlv. 82 'le roi Hadrien vint à Sichem et fit du bien aux Samaritains; il fit construire pour lui un grand temple près du mont Garizim et le nomma Temple de Saphis...Le roi Hadrien prit les battants d'airain qui avaient été mis à la porte du temple de Salomon, fils de David, et les plaça à la porte du temple de Saphis,' ib. p. 233 'les battants d'airain que les gens de l'empereur Hadrien avaient enlevés du temple des Juifs à Jérusalem et placés dans le temple construit sur l'ordre d'Hadrien dans l'endroit choisi, le Mont Garizim...les battants d'airain enlevés par Hadrien au temple juif et placés par lui au temple qu'il a construit au pied du Mont Garizim.' Cp. the parallel passages in E. Vilmar Abulfathi annales Samaritani Gothæ 1865 and T. G. J. Juynboll Chronicon Samaritanum, Arabice conscriptum, cui titulus est Liber Josuae Lugduni Batavorum 1848 cap. 47 p. 188. But the chroniclers' description can hardly refer to a temple on the mountain-top. And C. Clermont-Ganneau in the Journal des Savants Nouvelle Série 1904 ii. 40 f., in view of the variants sagaras lib. Jos., sapîs, sîpas Abu'l Fath, sapîs chron. Adler, concludes that the god established by Hadrian was Jupiter Sarapis. This is certainly better than Jupiter Sospes the conjecture of E. N. Adler—M. Sélignoh loc. cit. p. 82 n. 2 or Caesaris the suggestion of T. G. J. Juynboll op. cit. p. 334 f.]. Behind it is a small erection which may be an external altar. On the other (right-hand) peak is a construction which seems again to be rather an altar than a small temple. Since the mountain is doubtless supposed to be seen from the town, i.e. from the north, this smaller peak must lie to the west of the larger. We may perhaps identify it with the spur west of the main summit on which are the ruins known as Khâr bet Lôzeh or Luzah, where is still the Samaritans' sacrificing place. The 300 steps by which, in the time of the Bordeaux Pilgrim (A.D. 333), one ascended to the summit [Palestine Pilgrims' Text Society: Itinerary from Bordeaux to Jerusalem trans. A. Stewart annot. Sir C. W. Wilson London 1887 p. 18], are indicated on the coins, with chapels at intervals, as on many another sacro monte; but no trace of them has been recorded as surviving to the present day. Along the foot of the mountain was a long colonnade; an opening gave access to the foot of the stair and to the road, perhaps for wheeled traffic, which wound up the hill between the two peaks, branching about half-way up.' Prokop. de aed. 5. 7. 2 states that the Samaritans worshipped the actual mountain-top, but denies that they had ever built a temple on it (τοῦτο δὲ τὸ ὄρος κατ' ἀρχὰς μὲν οἱ Σαμαρείται εἶχον ὡς εὐδόμοι τε ἀνέβαινον ἐς τὴν τοῦ ὄρους ὑπερβολὴν, οὐδένα ἀνιέντες καιρὸν ὄυχ ὅτι ἐνὸν τινα ἐνταῦθα ᾠκοδομήσαντο πώποτε, ἀλλὰ τὴν ἀκρῶρειαν αὐτὴν σεβόμενοι ἐτεθήπεσαν πάντων μάλιστα). He goes on to say (ib. 5. 7. 7) that Zenon, emperor of the East, expelled the Samaritans from the mountain, handed it over to the Christians, and built on the summit a church dedicated to the Virgin (τῇ θεοτόκῳ) with a wall, or rather a fence, about it. The Chronicon Paschale 327 B (i. 604 Dindorf) for the year 484 A.D. remarks ὁ δὲ βασιλεὺς Ζήνων εὐθέως ἐποίησε τὴν συναγωγὴν αὐτῶν τὴν οὖσαν ἐς τὸ καλούμενον Γαργαρίδην εὐκτήριον οἶκον μέγαν τῆς δεσποίνης ἡμῶν τῆς θεοτόκου καὶ ἀειπαρθένου Μαρίας = Io. Malal. chron. 15 p. 382 f. Dindorf. For an account of the ruins still traceable on the mountain see Sir C. W. Wilson 'Ebal and Gerizim, 1866' in Palestine Exploration Fund: Quarterly Statement for 1873 pp. 66—71 with plan, and for modern celebrations on the site J. A. Montgomery The Samaritans Philadelphia 1907 p. 34 ff. with photographic view (ib. pp. 322—346 Samaritan bibliography). I. Benzinger in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 767 comments: 'Der Berg verdankt den heiligen Charakter seiner kosmischen Bedeutung: Ebal und G. zusammen sind für Palästina der doppelgipfelige Weltberg, der Gottesberg mit dem Pass dazwischen'—a dogmatic statement of a possible (cp. supra p. 422 ff.), but by no means proven, hypothesis.

(32) Ioudaia. The Hebrew Godhead in the later books of the Old Testament, in the Apokrypha, and in the New Testament is often styled (ὁ) Ὑψιστος, sometimes (ὁ) Θεὸς (ὁ) Ὑψιστος or Κύριος (ὁ) Ὑψιστος (details and statistics by E. Schürer in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1897 p. 214 f.). Cp. Philon in Flaccum 7 ὁ τοῦ Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ νεὺς, leg. ad Gaium 23 ἀπαρχὴν τῷ Ὑψίστῳ Θεῷ, 40 θυσίας ἐντελεῖς ὀλοκαυτὸς τῷ Ὑψίστῳ Hýpsistos, however, was obviously susceptible of a less material interpretation. Accordingly, in Hellenistic times, the name of Zeus Hýpsistos became attached to the supreme deity of more than one non-Hellenic area. In Syria it meant Ba'al-šamin. In Samaria it meant Jehovah. Further denationalised, but still recognisable by his eagle (Athens, Thyateira, Mytilene, Tanais), the Theòs Hýpsistos—often called Hýpsistos and nothing more—was worshipped throughout the Greek-speaking world in early imperial days. The propagation of his cult was due, partly perhaps to a general trend towards monotheism, but mainly to definite Jewish influence. The Jews of the Dispersion, accustomed to use the term Hýpsistos of their own august Godhead, carried it with them into Gentile lands, where they formed small and—truth to tell—somewhat accommodating circles of worshippers (Moesia, Bosphoros Kimmerios, Kappadokia). Here and there they continued to light their ceremonial lamps (Pisidia, Lydia); but they could hardly be described as whole-hearted devotees of the Mosaic law. Thus

Θεῶ καθ' ἐκάστην ἡμέραν, Ioseph. ant. Iud. 16. 6. 2 ἀρχιερέως Θεοῦ Ὑψίστου, Celsus ap. Orig. c. Cels. 1. 24 μετὰ ταῦτά φησιν ὅτι οἱ ἀπὸλοι καὶ ποιμένες ἕνα ἐνόμισαν θεόν, εἶτε Ὑψίστου εἶτ' Ἀδωνατ εἶτ' Οὐράνιον εἶτε Σαβαώθ, εἶτε καὶ ὄπη καὶ ὄπωσ χαίρουσιν ὀνομαζόντες τόνδε τὸν κόσμον, 5. 41 οὐδὲν οὖν οἶμαι διαφέρειν Δία Ὑψίστου καλεῖν ἢ Ζῆνα ἢ Ἀδωναίων ἢ Σαβαώθ ἢ Ἄμουν, ὡς Αἰγύπτιοι, ἢ Παπαῖον, ὡς Σκύθαι, 45 Κέλσος οἰεταί μηδὲν διαφέρειν Δία Ὑψίστου καλεῖν ἢ Ζῆνα ἢ Ἀδωναίων ἢ Σαβαώθ ἢ, ὡς Αἰγύπτιοι, Ἄμουν ἢ, ὡς Σκύθαι, Παπαῖον, Lyd. de mens. 4. 53 p. 110, 4 ff. Wunsch καὶ Ἰουλιανὸς δὲ ὁ βασιλεὺς, ὅτε πρὸς Πιέρσας ἐστρατεύετο, γράφων Ἰουδαίους οὕτω φησίν· ἀνεγείρω γὰρ μετὰ πάσης προθυμίας τὸν ναὸν τοῦ Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ, A. Dieterich 'Papyrus magica musei Lugdunensis Batavi' in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. Suppl. 1888 xvi. 797 verse 23 ff. κατ' ἐπιταγήν τοῦ Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ Ἰάω Ἀδωνατ ἀβ[λα]ναθαναβα (cp. A. Audollent Defixionum tabellae Luteciae Parisiorum 1904 p. 500 f.), | σὺ εἶ ὁ περιέχων τὰς χάριτας | [ἐ]ν τῇ κορυφῇ λαμπρῇ, C. Wessely Griechische Zauberpapyrus von Paris und London Wien 1888 p. 47 pap. Par. 1068 καλὸν καὶ λερόν φῶς τοῦ Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ, ib. p. 104 Brit. Mus. pap. 46. 45 ff. = F. G. Kenyon Greek Papyri in the British Museum London 1893 i. 66 no. 46, 44 ff. καὶ διατήρησόν με καὶ τὸν παῖδα | τοῦτον ἀπημάντους ἐν ὄναμι | τοῦ Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ, oracl. Sib. 2. 245 Geffcken ἤξει καὶ Μωσῆς ὁ μέγας φίλος Ὑψίστοιο. Aisch. frag. 464. 12 Nauck² ap. Iust. Mart. de monarch. 2 δόξα δ' Ὑψίστου Θεοῦ (δ' om. Clem. Al. strom. 5. 14 p. 415, 15 Stählin = Euseb. praep. ev. 13. 13. 60) is a Jewish forgery.

(33) Aigyptos. The Jews of Athribis (Bencha) in Lower Egypt dedicated a house of prayer to the Θεὸς Ὑψίστος (S. Reinach in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1889 xiii. 178 ff. no. 1, cp. id. Chroniques d'Orient Paris 1891 p. 579, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 96 ὑπὲρ βασιλέως Πτολεμαίου (sc. Ptolemy v Eriphanes (205—181 B.C.) or Ptolemy vi Philometor (181—146 B.C.)) | καὶ βασιλίσσης Κλεοπάτρας | Πτολεμαῖος Ἐπικύδου | ὁ ἐπιστάτης τῶν φυλακτικῶν | καὶ οἱ ἐν Ἀθριβεῖ Ἰουδαῖοι | τὴν προσευχὴν | Θεῶι Ὑψίστωι). A woman of Alexandria invokes his aid (Bulletin de l'Institut Égyptien 1872—1873 no. 12 p. 116 f. cited by E. Schürer in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1897 p. 213 and by J. G. C. Anderson—F. Cumont—H. Grégoire Recueil des Inscriptions grecques et latines du Pont et de l'Arménie (Studia Pontica iii) Bruxelles 1910 i. 17 Θεῶ Ὑψίστω καὶ πάντων Ἐπόπτῃ καὶ Ἠλιῶ καὶ Νεμέσεισι ἀρει Ἀρσεινὴ ἄωρος τὰς χεῖρας· ἢ (=εἰ) τις αὐτῆ φάρμακα ἐποίησε ἢ καὶ ἐπέχαρῃ τις αὐτῆς τῷ θανάτῳ ἢ ἐπιχαρεῖ, μετέλθετε αὐτοῦς. For the raised hands cp. supra no. (19) Rheneia).

(34) Africa. At Hadrumetum in Byzacium several curse-tablets invoke the Deus Pelagicus Aerius Altissimus Ἰάω (A. Audollent Defixionum tabellae Luteciae Parisiorum 1904 p. 403 ff. no. 290 ff., e.g. no. 293, B adiuro te demon | quicunque es et de|mando tibi ex hanc | die ex hanc ora ex oc | momento ut crucietur; adiuro te per eum | qui te resolvit ex vite | temporibus deum pelag|icum aerium altissim[um] | Iaw oi ou iaiasa iowiwe | o oriw aha | Lynceus (sc. the name of the horse to be cursed)). Altissimus = Ὑψίστος (F. Cumont in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 449).

their milieu on occasion provided a congenial soil for the growth of the Christian church. Indeed, it is sometimes difficult to decide whether a given dedication to the Theòs Hýpsistos was the work of a Jew or of a Jewish Christian (Phrygia). After all, Hýpsistos was a title that any honest man could use with a clear conscience¹.

Zeus appears as a mountain-god in connexion with the following localities:

Lakonike

Mount Taleton, a peak of Mount Taygeton².

The Akrópolis at Sparta³.

Cape Malea⁴.

Cape Tainaros (?)⁵.

Messene

Mount Ithome⁶.

¹ For ὑψιστος as applied to Zeus by the Greek poets see Bruchmann Épith. deor. p. 142.

² A broken stèle of white marble, now at Sparta (M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace A Catalogue of the Sparta Museum Oxford 1906 p. 43 f. no. 222), mentions Zeus Taletritas along with Auxesia and Damoia (J. de Protot Leges Graecorum sacrae Lipsiae 1896 Fasti sacri p. 35 f. no. 14, 1 f. = Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 363, 1 f. cited supra i. 730 n. 6). The god derived his title from Mt Taleton (supra i. 155 f. pl. xiv), on which horses were sacrificed to Helios (Paus. 3. 20. 4 ἀκρα δὲ τοῦ Ταῦγέτου Ταλετόν ὑπὲρ Βρυσεῶν ἀνέχει. ταύτην Ἡλίου καλοῦσιν Ιεράν, καὶ ἄλλα τε αὐτόθι Ἡλίω θύουσι καὶ ἵππους· τὸ δὲ αὐτὸ καὶ Πέρσας οἶδα θύειν νομιζοντας. Supra i. 180 n. 5); cp. the Cretan sun-god Talos (supra i. 719 ff.). The goddesses, Peloponnesian equivalents of Demeter and Kore, were worshipped at the foot of the mountain in Bryseai (Kalybia Sochiotika), where traces of an Eleusinian have come to light (H. von Prott in the Ath. Mitth. 1904 xxix. 8. Id. ib. p. 7 holds that Taleton was not the very summit of Taygeton, but a lower and more accessible crest).

³ Zeus Ἰπτατος (supra p. 875 n. 1 no. (4)).

⁴ Zeus Μαλειαιὸς (Steph. Byz. s.v. Μαλέα · ... καὶ ἀπὸ τοῦ Μάλεια Μαλειαιὸς Ζεὺς).

⁵ Tainaros, who founded the Taenarian temple of Poseidon, was the son of Zeus (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ταίναρος). Supra i. 156.

⁶ Zeus Ἰθωμάτας had a cult, but no actual temple (D. Fimmen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 2306 quoting Oikonomakis Τὰ σωζόμενα Ἰθώμης, Μεσσηνίας 1879 p. 14 f.), on the top of Mt Ithome, where he had been brought up by the nymphs Ithome and Neda (Thouk. 1. 103, Paus. 4. 3. 9, 4. 12. 7 ff., 4. 27. 6, 4. 33. 1 f.). Water was carried daily from the spring Klepsydra to his sanctuary (Paus. 4. 33. 1). The statue of him made by Hageladas for the Messenians of Naupaktos was kept in the house of a priest annually chosen (Paus. 4. 33. 2 cited supra p. 741 n. 4); its type is reflected on coins of Messene (supra p. 741 f. figs. 673, 674). At Messene (M. N. Tod in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1905 xxv. 53 f. no. 11, 1 f. = Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 1399, 1 f. τειχιόεσσα παρ' ἀγαλῶν | ἱρὸν Ἰθώμης Μεσσηνίας) in s. i—ii A.D. the priest of Zeus Ἰθωμάτας was eponymous magistrate (Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 1468, 4 ff. ἐπὶ Ιερέος τοῦ | Διὸς τοῦ Ἰθωμάτου Ἀπελλίλιωρος τοῦ Φιλίππου, cp. ib. no. 1467, 1 and no. 1469, 1). The yearly festival (ib. nos. 1467—1469 record as its officials ἀγωνοθέτης, Ιεροθύται, γραμματεῦς, χαλειδοφόρος (= ἀκρατοφόρος, cp. χάλις, 'pure wine')) was called Ἰθωμαία (Paus. 4. 33. 2), Ἰθωμαία or Ἰθωμαῖς (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἰθώμη · ... καὶ Ζεὺς Ἰθωμάτας, καὶ ἑορτὴ Ἰθωμαία καὶ Ἰθωμαῖς). It dates back to the time of Eumelos (s. viii B.C.), and originally involved a musical competition (Paus. 4. 33. 2 *ἀγῶνι δὲ καὶ ἑορτὴν ἐπέτειον Ἰθωμαία· τὸ δὲ ἀρχαῖον καὶ ἀγῶνα ἐτίθεισαν μουσικῆς. τεκμαίρεσθαι δ' ἔστιν ἄλλοις τε καὶ Εὐμήλου τοῖς ἔπαισιν· ἐποίησε γοῦν καὶ τάδε ἐν τῷ προσοδίῳ τῷ ἐς Δῆλον (Eumel. frag. 13 Kinkel, cp. Paus. 4. 4. 1, 5. 19. 10)· 'τῷ γὰρ Ἰθωμάτῳ καταθύμιος ἔπλετο Μοῖσα | ἀκαθάρων κίθαρην (ins. T. Bergk; but see H. W. Smyth ad loc.) > καὶ ἐλεύθερα σάμβαλ' ἔχουσα.' οὐκοῦν ποιῆσαι μὲν δοκεῖ τὰ ἔπη καὶ μουσικῆς ἀγῶνα ἐπιστάμενος τιθέντας). A tradition of human sacrifice (Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 32) attached*

Elis

Mount Olympos¹.Olympia².

Arkadia

Mount Lykaion³.

to Mt Ithome, as to Mt Lykaion (supra i. 70 ff.); for Aristomenes is said to have slain 300 persons, including Theopompos king of Sparta, as an offering to Zeus Ἰθωμάτας (Clem. Al. protr. 3. 42. 2 p. 31, 23 ff. Stählin (=Euseb. praep. ev. 4. 16. 12) Ἀριστομένης γούν ὁ Μεσσηνίος τῷ Ἰθωμήτῃ Διὶ τριακοσίου ἀπέσφαξεν, τοσαύτας ὁμοῦ καὶ τοιαύτας καλλιερεῖν οἰόμενος εκατόμβας· ἐν οἷς καὶ Θεόπομπος ἦν <ὁ (Euseb.) > Λακεδαιμονίων βασιλεὺς, ἱερεῖον εὐγενές, Kyriell. Al. c. Iul. 4 (lxxvi. 696 D—697 A Migne) Ἀριστομένης μὲν γὰρ ὁ Μεσσηνίος τῷ ἐπίκλιτῃ Ἰθωμήτῃ Διὶ τριακοσίου ὁμοῦ νεκροὺς ἐχαρίζετο· προσετίθει δὲ τοῦτοις καὶ τῶν Λακεδαιμονίων βασιλεύσαντα· Θεόπομπος οὗτος ἦν· ἀξιάγαστος ἐντεῦθεν ὁ τῶν θεῶν ὑπατός τε καὶ ὑπέρτατος· ἐπεμειδία γὰρ κατὰ τὸ εἰωθὸς ἀνδράσιν ἀθλῶς διαλωλῶσι, καὶ πλήρη βλέπων τὸν ἐκείνων βωμῶν δαιτὸς εἴσης· ἐντρυφᾶν γὰρ ἔθος αὐτοῖς τῶν ἀνθρώπων συμφοραῖς). Philippos v of Makedonia (in 214 B.C.?) sacrificed to Zeus on Mt Ithome, took the entrails of the ox in both hands, and showed them to Aratos of Sikyon and Demetrios of Pharos, asking each for his interpretation of the omens (Plout. v. Arat. 50). The latest notice of Zeus Ἰθωμάτας is in Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 Ἐπίθετα Διὸς (51) ἰθωμήτου, 266 Ἐπίθετα Διὸς (43) ἰθωμήτου. Nowadays on the highest peak of Ithome the traveller sees a ruined monastery, a branch from that at Fourkano: its paved threshing-floor is the scene of the annual festival of the Panagia [Aug. 15], at which the peasants dance crowned with oleander-blossom (Frazer Pausanias iii. 437). Among the ruins lives a solitary monk (D. Fimmen loc. cit. p. 2307).

Wide Lakon. Kulte p. 22 infers a tree-cult of Zeus Ἰθωμάτας at Leuktron or Leuktra (Leftro) in Lakonike from Paus. 3. 26. 6 δ δὲ οἶδα ἐν τῇ πρὸς θαλάσση χώρᾳ τῆς Λευκτρικῆς ἐπὶ ἔμοῦ συμβάν, γράψω. ἀνεμὸς πῦρ ἐς ἕλην ἐνεγκῶν τὰ πολλὰ ἠφάνισε τῶν δένδρων· οἱ δὲ ἀνεφάνη τὸ χωρίον ψιλόν, ἀγαλμα ἐνταῦθα ἰδρμένον εὐρέθη Διὸς Ἰθωμάτα. τοῦτο ὡς Μεσσηνίολ φασι μαρτύριον εἶναι σφισι τὰ Λεῦκτρα τὸ ἀρχαῖον τῆς Μεσσηνίας εἶναι. δύναιτο δ' ἂν καὶ Λακεδαιμονίων τὰ Λεῦκτρα ἐξ ἀρχῆς οἰκούντων ὁ Ἰθωμάτας Ζεὺς παρ' αὐτοῖς ἔχει τιμάς. He justly cp. the figure of Dionysos found in a plane-tree broken by the wind at Magnesia ad Maeandrum (A. E. Kontoleon in the Ath. Mitth. 1890 xv. 330 ff. no. 1 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 856). We might also cite in this connexion a modern parallel from Ithome itself. Miss M. Hamilton (Mrs G. Dickins) Greek Saints and Their Festivals Edinburgh and London 1910 p. 170 f. writes: 'According to the popular legend, the monks of the monastery of St. Basil on Mount Eva, opposite Ithome, saw one night a flaming tree on the opposite ridge. They crossed the valley and found this ikon of the Panagia on a tree, with a lighted candle beside it. They conveyed it across to their monastery, but it transferred itself miraculously back to the place at which it was found, and the monks believed themselves forced to change to the other ridge. Since then the monastery of St. Basil has been deserted. The trunk of the tree was made into the lintel of the monastery door, and it is said that at the festival it is hacked by the faithful, who take pieces of it as a cure for fever. The ikon is inscribed with reference to the legend—The Guide to the Hill of Ithome—Ὁδηγήτρια τῷ θρει Ἰθωμάτει. In celebration of the festival this ikon makes a short tour of the country. On 12th August it goes up from Voulkano to its old home with pomp and ceremony, accompanied by the monks and its worshippers, a goodly company, comprising a large number of babies brought to be baptised on the top of Ithome ... On the 15th a solemn procession reconducts the ikon to the lower monastery, and nine days later it is taken to Nisi, near Kalamata, where a fair ends the celebrations of the district. The rest of the year the ikon remains at Voulkano.'

¹ Supra i. 100, ii. 758.² Zeus Ἰψιστος (supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (5)).³ Zeus Λύκαιος (supra i. 63—99, 154 f., 177 f.).

- A hill near Tegea¹.
 Trapezous².
 Korinthos
 Corinth³.
 Phliasia
 Mount Apesas⁴.
 Argolis
 The Larisa at Argos⁵.

¹ The high place on which stood most of the altars of the Tegeates was called after Zeus Κλάριος (Paus. 8. 53. 9 f. cited supra p. 874 n. 2). Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc. identify this eminence with the hill of St Sostis. See further supra p. 807 n. 2.

² Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 871 n. ο no. (3)).

³ Zeus Ὑψίστος (supra p. 878 n. ο no. (3)).

⁴ Apesas (Phouka) is a mountain which rises north of Nemea to a height of 873^m. It figured in two distinct myths. On the one hand, Perseus here sacrificed for the first time to Zeus Ἀπεσαντίος (Paus. 2. 15. 3 καὶ ὄρος Ἀπέσας ἐστὶν ὑπὲρ τὴν Νεμέαν, ἐνθα Περσεὺς πρῶτον Διὶ θύσαι λέγουσιν Ἀπεσαντίῳ, cp. Stat. Theb. 3. 460 ff., 633 ff.), also known as Zeus Ἀπέσας (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἀπέσας· ὄρος τῆς Νεμέας, ὡς Πίνδαρος (frag. 295 Bergk⁴) καὶ Καλλιμαχος ἐν τρίτῃ (frag. 29 Schneider), ἀπὸ Ἀφέσαντος (sic) ἥρωος βασιλεύσαντος τῆς χώρας, ἣ διὰ τὴν ἀφῆσιν τῶν ἀρμάτων ἢ τοῦ λέοντος· ἐκεῖ γὰρ ἐκ τῆς σελήνης ἀφείθη. ἀφ' οὗ Ζεὺς Ἀπεσαντίος. Καλλιμαχος δὲ ἐν τοῖς ἰάμβοις (frag. 82 Schneider) τὸ ἐθνικὸν Ἀπέσας φησὶ 'κοῦχ ὦδ' Ἀρείων τῶ Ἀπέσαντι παρ Διὶ | ἔθυσεν Ἀρκὰς ἵππος'). On the other hand, Deukalion on escaping from the deluge here built an altar of Zeus Ἀφέσιος (ct. mag. p. 176, 33 ff. Ἀφέσιος Ζεὺς ἐν Ἄργει τιμᾶται. εἰρηται δὲ ὅτι Δευκαλίων τοῦ κατακλιυμοῦ γενομένου διαφυγῶν καὶ εἰς τὴν ἄκραν τὴν Ἄργου (so H. Usener for Ἄργου) διασωθεὶς ἰδρύσατο βωμὸν Ἀφεσίου Διός, ὅτι ἀφείθη ἐκ τοῦ κατακλιυμοῦ. ἣ δὲ ἄκρα ὕστερον Νεμέα ἐκλήθη ἀπὸ τῶν (τοῦ add. cod. V) Ἄργου βοσκημάτων ἐκεῖ νεμομένων. οὕτως Ἀρρειανὸς ἐτυμολογεῖ ἐν τῷ β' τῶν Βιθυνιακῶν (Atrian. frag. 26 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 591 Müller))). H. Usener Die Sintfluthsagen Bonn 1899 pp. 65 ff., 233 (cp. id. in the Rhein. Mus. 1901 lvi. 482 ff. = Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 383 ff.) contends that Δευκαλίων presupposes a simpler form *Δεῦ-καλος (whence Δευκαλίδαι), 'kleiner Zeus,' 'Zeusknäblein.' Other views are collected by K. Tümpel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 275 f. and Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 446 n. 7, 718 e, 1100 n. 1, 1608 n. 3, id. Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 456. Imperial coppers of Kleonai represent Mt Apesas as a rock surmounted by an altar with an eagle perched upon it (Rasche Lex. Num. Suppl. i. 1836 Septimius Severus, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 155 pl. 29, 8 = Anson Num. Gr. v. 9 no. 57 pl. 2 Julia Domna, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 154 no. 1 Geta, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 33 f. Septimius Severus, Julia Domna, Geta). Traces of the altar of Zeus are still to be seen on the flat rocky summit (É. Puillon Boblaye Recherches Géographiques sur les ruines de la Morée Paris 1836 ii. 41 'M. Peytier y a vu quelques ruines qui doivent avoir appartenu à l'autel de Jupiter Apésantius,' E. Curtius Peloponnesos Gotha 1852 ii. 505 'der Apesas, auf dem sich bei einer verfallenen Kapelle Paláa Ekklesia genannt, noch Ruinen vom Heiligthume des Zeus Apesantios finden').

⁵ Zeus Λαρισαῖος had a roofless ναὸς with a wooden statue on the top of the Larisa at Argos (Paus. 2. 24. 3 ἐπ' ἄκρα δὲ ἐστὶ τῇ Λαρίσῃ Διὸς ἐπικλήσιν Λαρισαίου ναὸς, οὐκ ἔχων δροφον· τὸ δὲ ἄγαλμα ξύλου πεποιημένον οὐκέτι ἐστηκὸς ἦν ἐπὶ τῷ βᾶθρῳ). Near it was a ναὸς of Athena containing a three-eyed χόανον of Zeus, said to have been the paternal god of Priamos (Paus. 2. 24. 3 f. continues καὶ Ἀθηναῖς δὲ ναὸς ἐστὶ θεῶς ἄξιος· ἐνταῦθα ἀναθήματα κείται καὶ ἄλλα καὶ Ζεὺς ξόανον, δύο μὲν ἢ πεφύκαμεν ἔχον ὀφθαλμούς, τρίτον δὲ ἐπὶ τοῦ μετώπου. τοῦτον τὸν Δία Πριάμῳ φασὶν εἶναι τῷ Λαομέδοντος πατρῶον, ἐν ὑπαίθρῳ τῆς αὐλῆς ἰδρυμένον, καὶ ὅτε ἤλισκετο ὑπὸ Ἑλλήνων Ἴλιον, ἐπὶ τούτου κατέφυγεν ὁ Πριάμος τὸν βωμὸν. ἐπεὶ δὲ τὰ λάφυρα ἐνέμοντο λαμβάνει Σθένελος ὁ Καπανέως αὐτὸν, καὶ ἀνάκειται μὲν διὰ τοῦτο ἐνταῦθα· τρεῖς δὲ ὀφθαλμοὺς ἔχειν ἐπὶ τῷδε ἂν τις τεκμαίροιο αὐτόν. Δία γὰρ ἐν οὐρανῷ βασιλεύειν, οὗτος μὲν λόγος πάντων ἐστὶν ἀνθρώπων. δν δὲ ἄρχειν φασὶν ὑπὸ γῆς, ἐστὶν ἔπος τῶν Ὀμηρῶν (Il. 9. 457) Δία ὀνομάζον καὶ τοῦτον· 'Ζεὺς τε καταχθόνιος καὶ ἐπαινή Περσεφόνεια.' Δισχύλος δὲ ὁ Εὐφορίωνος (frag. 436 b Dindorf, who cp. Prokl. in Plat. Crat. 148 p. 83, 28 f. Pasquali ὁ δὲ δεύτερος διαδικῶς καλεῖται Ζεὺς ἐνάλιος καὶ Ποσειδῶν) καλεῖ Δία καὶ τὸν ἐν θαλάσῃ. τρισὶν οὖν ὄρωντα ἐποίησεν ὀφθαλμοῖς ὅστις δὴ τῆς ὁ ποιήσας; ἀτε ἐν ταῖς τριῶν λεγομέναις λήξουσιν ἄρχοντα τὸν αὐτὸν τοῦτον θεόν. This remarkable figure is mentioned also in schol. Eur. Tro. 16 τὸν δὲ ἔρκειον Δία ἄλλοι ἱστορικοὶ ἀναγράφουσιν ἴδιαν τιὰν σχέσιν περὶ αὐτοῦ ἱστοροῦντες, τρισὶν ὀφθαλμοῖς αὐτὸν κεχρησθῆαι φασιν, ὡς οἱ περὶ Ἄγλαν (frag. 3 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 292 f. Müller) καὶ Δερκύλον (frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 386 Müller)). I formerly accepted Pausanias' explanation of the three eyes (Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 174 f., 1904 xviii. 75 f., 325), but later came to the conclusion that it was merely a sophisticated attempt to account for a very primitive feature, plurality of eyes implying superhuman powers of sight and three being a typical plurality (Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 282 ff., 1905 xvi. 275 f.). Excavations in the large court of the Venetian castle on the Larisa have brought to light the tufa foundations (11·70^m broad) of a building orientated towards the east. On the rock were sherds of geometric ware, and 14^m east of the building was a fifth-century inscription mentioning the Ἰλλεῖς (W. Vollgraff in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1904 xxviii. 429 no. 11). On the lower terrace of the Larisa, to the east, are the ruined foundations of a second building. These two may well be the temples of Zeus Λαρισσαῖος and of Athena respectively (id. ib. 1907 xxxi. 149). Steph. Byz. s.v. Λάρισσα·...καὶ ἡ ἀκρόπολις τοῦ Ἄργου Λάρισσα. καὶ ὁ πολῆτης Λαρισσαῖος καὶ Λαρισεύς Ζεὺς.

Phalakron (?)¹.
Mount Kokkygion².

¹ Zeus Φαλακρός (supra p. 875 n. 2).

² There was a sanctuary of Zeus on the top of Mt Kokkygion (Paus. 2. 36. 2 ἱερά δὲ καὶ ἐς τὸδε ἐπὶ ἄκρων τῶν ὄρων, ἐπὶ μὲν τῷ Κοκκυγίῳ Διός, ἐν δὲ τῷ Ἰρωνί ἐστὶν Ἥρας), where Zeus had become a cuckoo in order to woo Hera (schol. vet. Theokr. 15. 64 Ἄριστοτέλης δὲ ἐν τῷ περὶ τῶν Ἑρμιόνης ἱερῶν (frag. 287 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 190 f. Müller) = Aristokles frag. (ib. iv. 330 f. Müller): but Grashof's cj. Ἄριστοκλῆς (cp. Ail. de nat. an. 11. 4) for Ἄριστοτέλης codd. is far from certain) ἰδιωτέρως ἱστορεῖ περὶ τοῦ Διός καὶ [τοῦ τῆς (om. Wilamowitz)] Ἥρας γάμου. τὸν γὰρ Δία μυθολογεῖται ἐπιβουλεύειν τῇ Ἥρᾳ μιγῆναι, ὅτε αὐτὴν ἴδοι χωρισθεῖσαν ἀπὸ τῶν ἄλλων θεῶν. βουλόμενος δὲ ἀφανῆς γενέσθαι καὶ μὴ ὀφθῆναι ὑπ' αὐτῆς τὴν ὄψιν μεταβάλλει εἰς κόκκυγα καὶ καθέζεται εἰς ὄρος, ὃ πρῶτον μὲν Θρόναξ (Hemsterhuys cj. Θόρναξ (cp. Paus. 2. 36. 1)) ἐκαλεῖτο, νῦν δὲ Κόκκυξ. τὸν δὲ Δία χειμῶνα δειῶν ποιῆσαι τῇ ἡμέρᾳ ἐκείνῃ· τὴν δὲ Ἥραν πορευομένην μόνην ἀφικέσθαι πρὸς τὸ ὄρος καὶ καθέζεσθαι εἰς αὐτό, ὅπου νῦν ἐστὶν ἱερὸν Ἥρας Τελείας. τὸν δὲ κόκκυγα ἰδόντα καταπετασθῆναι καὶ καθεσθῆναι ἐπὶ τὰ γόνατα αὐτῆς πεφρικότα καὶ ῥιγῶντα ὑπὸ τοῦ χειμῶνος. τὴν δὲ Ἥραν ἰδοῦσαν αὐτὸν οἰκτεῖν καὶ περιβαλεῖν τῇ ἀμπεχόνῃ. τὸν δὲ Δία εὐθέως μεταβαλεῖν τὴν ὄψιν καὶ ἐπιλαβέσθαι τῆς Ἥρας. τῆς δὲ τὴν μίξιν παραιτουμένης διὰ τὴν μητέρα, αὐτὸν ὑποσχέσθαι γυναῖκα αὐτὴν ποιήσασθαι. καὶ παρ' Ἄργεῖος δέ, οἱ μέγιστα (οἱ μέγιστοι codd. Hemsterhuys cj. οἱ μέγιστον vel μάλιστα. Ahrens cj. οἱ μέγιστα) τῶν Ἑλλήνων τιμῶσι τὴν θεόν, τὸ [δὲ (om. Hemsterhuys)] ἄγαλμα τῆς Ἥρας ἐν τῷ ναῷ καθήμενον ἐν [τῷ (om. Wendel)] θρόνῳ τῇ χειρὶ ἔχει σκήπτρον, καὶ ἐπ' αὐτῷ τῷ σκήπτρῳ κόκκυξ = Eudok. viol. 414^b, cp. Paus. 2. 17. 4, 2. 36. 1). For the chryselephantine statue by Polykleitos see Overbeck Schriftquellen p. 166 f. nos. 932—939, *id. Gr. Plastik*⁴ i. 509—511, Collignon Hist. de la Sculpt. gr. i. 509—512, 516, C. Waldstein (Sir C. Walston) 'The Argive Hera of Polykleitos' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1901 xxi. 30—44 with pls. 2, 3, A. B. Cook 'Nephelokokkygia' in Essays and Studies presented to William Ridgeway Cambridge 1913 pp. 213—221 with pl. Cp. supra i. 532. The old name of the mountain, Θόρναξ or Θρόναξ, is said to have meant 'foot-stool' (Hesych. s.v. θόρναξ) and perhaps implies an ancient throne-cult (supra i. 134 f.). On Mt Thornax in Lakonike was a statue of Apollon Θορνάκιος (Hesych. s.v. θόρναξ, cp. Steph. Byz. s.v. Θόρναξ) or Ἰλυθαεὺς resembling that at Mount Arachnaion¹.

Epidauros².

Aigina

The mountain of Zeus *Panhellénios*³.

Amyklai (Hdt. i. 69, Paus. 3. 10. 8), i.e. standing on a throne (Frazer Pausanias iii. 351 ff.). The hero Bouphagos shot by Artemis on Mt Pholoe was the son of Iapetos and Thormax (Paus. 8. 27. 17).

¹ Mt Arachnaion above Lessa had altars of Zeus and Hera, on which sacrifices were offered when there was a dearth of rain (Paus. 2. 25. 10 cited supra p. 467 n. 2). Frazer Pausanias iii. 233 f. says: 'This is the high, naked range on the left or northern side of the road as you go to the Epidaurian sanctuary from Argos. The most remarkable peak is Mt. Arna, the pointed rocky summit which rises immediately above the village of Ligourio. It is 3540 feet high. The western summit, Mt. St. Elias, is a little higher (3930 ft.)... The name Arachnaea is said to have been still used by the peasantry in the early part of this century. The altars of Zeus and Hera... appear to have stood in the hollow between the peaks of Arna and St. Elias, for there is here a square enclosure of Cyclopean masonry which would appear to have been an ancient place of worship.'

² Zeus Káσιος (P. Kabbadias in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1883 p. 87 no. 22 = W. Prellwitz in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 150 no. 3330 = Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1287 a rectangular base of limestone inscribed Διὶ Κασίω | Ἐλληνοκράτης | Ἡρακλείδου with the numeral λα' and the symbol

, on which see infra Append. L init.).

M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i. 286 observes: 'Iuppiter Casius notus erat in Graecia, postquam Traianus spolia e victoria contra Getas reportata in eius templum in Cario (sic) monte ad Euphratem situm dedicavit [infra Append. B Syria]... Hadriani fere aetate collocatus fuerit imperator.'

³ The highest peak in Aigina (531^m), a landmark for many miles around, is known nowadays as the Oros, sometimes also as Hagios Elias from the little chapel that crowns its summit. A. Furtwängler Aegina München 1906 i. 473 f. reports that excavations carried out in the spring of 1905 discovered an ancient settlement on the mountain-top. The site yielded a quantity of local ware, not unlike that from Troy, and also imported vases of late Mycenaean make. The inhabitants appear to have been Myrmidones, a division of the Thessalian Hellenes (C. Mueller Aegineticorum liber Berolini 1817 p. 14 ff.), whose heroes were Aiakos and the Aiakidai. They brought with them the cult of their Zeus Ἐλλάνιος, and Pindar represents the sons of Aiakos, when they prayed for the welfare of Aigina, as standing πὰρ βωμῶν πατέρος Ἑλλανίου (Nem. 5. 19). Zeus being a weather-god (supra p. 1 ff.); his mountain served as a public barometer (Theophr. de signis tempest. 1. 24 καὶ ἐὰν ἐν Αἰγίνῃ [καὶ (om. J. G. Schneider)] ἐπὶ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ἑλλανίου νεφέλη καθίζηται, ὡς τὰ πολλὰ ὕδωρ γίνεται). Tradition said that during a great drought the foremost Hellenes besought Aiakos, as son of Zeus by Aigina daughter of Asopos, to intercede with his father on behalf of all, that Aiakos did so with success, and that on the spot where he had prayed the whole people raised a common sanctuary (Isokr. 9 Euagoras 14 f., Diod. 4. 61, Apollod. 3. 12. 6, Clem. Al. strom. 6. 3 p. 444, 13 ff. Stählin, schol. Pind. Nem. 5. 17, Eudok. viol. 13). Accordingly this came to be called the sanctuary of Zeus Πανελλήνιος (Paus. 1. 44. 9 cited infra p. 895 n. 1, 2. 29. 7 f., 2. 30. 3 f.). Frazer Pausanias iii. 265 describes the site: 'On the northern slope of Mt. Oros..., in a wild and lonely valley, there is a terrace supported upon walls of great blocks of trachyte. On this terrace there is a ruined chapel of the Hagios Asomatos (the Archangel Michael), which is entirely built of fine pieces of ancient architecture. About the middle of the terrace there are a number of large flat stones laid at equal intervals, as if they had been the bases of columns.' In the ruins of St Michael's chapel was found a stone block bearing an archaic Greek inscription (Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 352, Roberts Gk. Epigr. i. 146 f. no. 120, F. Bechtel in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 195 no. 3408, Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 6 Κωλιάδαις Ἀβλίων ἐποίησε Ἀπίλλου), perhaps the base of some offering to Zeus, whose cult was in time superseded by that of the Archangel (cp. G. F. Hill 'Apollo and St. Michael: some analogies' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1916 xxxvi. 134 ff., especially p. 145). It was however reserved for Furtwängler by the latest excavations of 1905 to produce definite epigraphic evidence that the terrace of Hagios Asomatos was indeed the sanctuary of Zeus Πανελλήνιος (A. Furtwängler op. cit. i. 5 f. with the excellent map by H. Thiersch appended to the volume). For Zeus Ἑλληνίος in the wider sense of the 'Hellenic,' i.e. national as opposed to foreign, god see O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 176.

Megaris

A height near Megara¹.

¹ Paus. i. 44. 9 ἐπὶ δὲ τοῦ ὄρους τῆς ἄκρα (above the Scironian Rocks) Δίος εἰσὶν Ἀφείσιον καλούμενον ναὸς· φασὶ δὲ ἐπὶ τοῦ (H. Hitzig cj. ἐπὶ του) συμβάντος ποτὲ τοῖς Ἑλλήσιν αὐχμοῦ θύσαντος Αἰακοῦ κατὰ τι δὴ λόγιον τῷ Πανελληνίῳ Διὶ ἐν Ἀλγίῳ κομισάντα δὲ ἀφείναι καὶ διὰ τοῦτο Ἀφείσιον καλεῖσθαι τὸν Δία. Many attempts have been made to mend this broken passage. T. Panofka Der Tod des Skiron und des Patroclus Berlin 1836 pp. 4, 17 would read κομισάντα δὲ <ἄετον (sic) τὴν χελώνην> ἀφείναι on the strength of an engraved chalcedony at Berlin (Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 121 f. no. 2614 pl. 23, T. Panofka op. cit. p. 23 pl. 4, 7, E. Brann in the Ann. d. Inst. 1836 viii. 317 f., Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 267 Gemmentaf. 3, 10 = my fig. 821), which represents Zeus with a sceptre in his left hand, a tortoise in his right, and an eagle at his feet. This is ingenious; for ἠφίει... ἀφείνεντα... used in Paus. i. 44. 8 of Skiron and his tortoise prepare us for a second tortoise-story in explanation of the title Ἀφείσιος: but, as Frazer Pausanias i. 567 f. points out, the sentence remains ungrammatical. C. L. Kayser in the Zeitschrift für die Alterthumswissenschaft 1848 vi. 503 cj. ἐν Ἀλγίῳ <καὶ εὐξαμένου ὕδαρ ἀφείναι ἐς τὴν Ἑλλάδα γῆν ὑπα> κομισάντα τε ἀφείναι. H. G. Lolling in the 'Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1887 p. 214 proposed ἐν Ἀλγίῳ <ἄετον ἀρπάσαι τὸ ἱερίον εἰς δὲ τὴν ἄκραν> κομισάντα ἀφείναι, cp. schol. Aristoph. nuβ. 52. L. C. Valckenaer (see H. Hitzig in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. 1889 xxxv. 819) had suggested κομισάντα <ἐνθά> δε, which 'would still leave the verb ἀφείναι without either subject or object' (Frazer loc. cit.). And J. F. Facius in his edition (Lipsiae 1794 i. 173) had cj. Ἀλγίῳ καὶ θσαντὰ τε ἀφείναι. After all this stirabout H. Hitzig and F. Spiro are content to print the passage as it stands.

Fig. 821.

In 1887 H. G. Lolling recognised the site of this sanctuary, about an hour and a half to the south-west of Megara, at a place called Sta Marmara, some 850 ft above sea-level, though far below the mountain-crest (H. G. Lolling in the 'Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1887 p. 213 ff. with sketch-plan). D. Philios, who excavated it in 1889, discovered a small prostyle temple (6.40^m × 4.75^m) facing south-east. Of this nothing remained except three foundation-courses and the pavement; but the temple appears to have been of stone and certainly had stone triglyphs. To the north was a Christian tomb (T), long since rifled, showing that sanctity still attached to the spot in Byzantine times: terra-cotta lamps were found, marked with a cross. To the south was a cistern (N), and further east a circular structure (K), three bases (Θ), and a large oblong altar (?) (II). Adjoining this was a line of plinths (M) and a wall (II—P). West of the precinct, if so it may be termed, lay a complex of chambers built round a court-yard. One chamber (A), which had stone couches set against its walls, contained two pits (α, β) full of ashes. Two other chambers (7 and 8), entered from a stoá with bases for pillars (τ, υ, φ (?)), were likewise lined with stone couches. A short staircase led from the stoá into another room (9), the centre of which was occupied by a shallow circular depression with a flooring of baked brickwork. From this a channel of baked brick ran into a pit about 0.10^m deep. On the rim of the large sinking, towards the north, was set a square base 0.50^m high. The next room (10) again disclosed a pit 0.13^m deep and beside it a base about 0.50^m high. The largest chamber of all (11) was probably entered from the court by a door on the south. Round three sides of it were remains of stone seats. The north-east and north-west corners showed traces of a rough mosaic paving. The middle of the floor had five slabs, which had probably served as bases for pillars. Six lesser apartments (1—6) at the south-east angle were built of small stones bonded with clay and were clearly of later construction. The court also contained a hearth of baked bricks (o), another pit full of ashes (v), etc. The western portion of the building was protected against water pouring down from a higher level by an extra wall (Γ—B—Δ), part of which (B—Δ) was specially strong. And on the southern side the foundations were strengthened by a retaining wall (E—Z). Miscellaneous finds (at Ω and elsewhere) included the relief of a griffin in limestone, animals in clay (leonine foot, pig's snout), the head of a dove (?) in Pentelic marble, etc. No Mycenaean vases were discovered, but fragments of large pitthoi with impressed geometric designs, also Corinthian ware in some abundance, and sherds of black-figured and red-figured technique. A few broken vases etc. were inscribed (Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i nos. 3492—3497), of which the most important were a kylix-foot incised ΦΕΞ or ΦΕΣ=[Διὸς 'Α]φεσ[λου], or [Δι 'Α]φεσ[λω] (no. 3494) and a stone slab reading ΗΒΡΟ.....="Ηρω[ος] or "Ηρω[ι] (no. 3492). See further D. Philios in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1890 pp. 35 ff. (with careful plans and illustrations: pl. 4, 3=my fig. 822), 63 f., H. G. Lolling ib. 1890 p. 55 ff., D. Philios in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ.

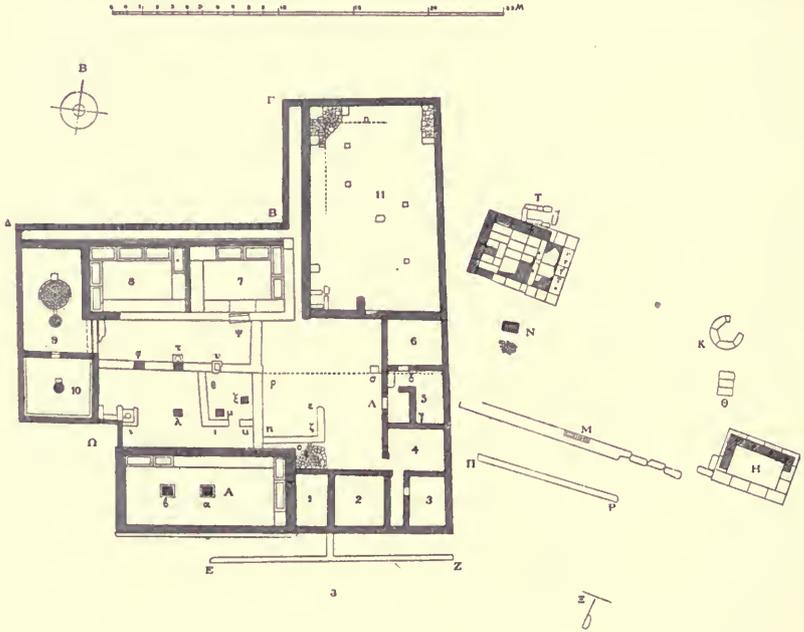

Fig. 822.

ἐτ. 1889 p. 26, W. Doerpfeld in the Ath. Mitth. 1889 xiv. 327, and Frazer Pausanias ii. 550 f.

The interpretation of the western group of buildings is disputed. H. G. Lolling held that it was originally a private dwelling-house, to which a sanctuary had afterwards been attached; D. Philios, that it was from the first an edifice containing chambers for the priest and the temple-attendants (cp. Paus. 10. 34. 7). I incline to think that the chambers with stoue couches (A, 7, 8) were used for incubation, and that the rooms with circular Mount Gerania (?)¹.

Attike

The Akrópolis at Athens².

The Pnyx at Athens³.

Mount Anchesmos⁴.

Mount Hymettos⁵.

Mount Parnes⁶.

pits and rectangular bases (9, 10) betoken a chthonian cult. On this showing the worship of Zeus 'Αφείσιος was associated with that of a local Megarian hero (cp. F. Pfister Der Reliquienkult im Altertum Giessen 1909 i. 1 ff. 'Die mythische Königsliste von Megara'), who not improbably had been regarded as Zeus incarnate. A similar combination occurs e.g. at Olympia, and the surviving inscriptions [Διὸς 'Α]φείσ[του] and Ἡρω[ος] are decidedly suggestive.

¹ Paus. i. 40. 1 τὰς δὲ Σιβνίδας νύμφας λέγουσι Μεγαρεῖς εἶναι μὲν σφισιν ἐπιχωρίας, μῆ δὲ αὐτῶν [θηγατρί (secl. C. G. Siebelis)] συγγενέσθαι Δία, Μέγαρόν τε παῖδα ὄντα Διὸς καὶ ταύτης δὴ τῆς νύμφης ἐκφυγεῖν τὴν ἐπὶ Δευκαλιωνὸς ποτε ἐπομβρίαν, ἐκφυγεῖν δὲ πρὸς τὰ ἄκρα τῆς Γερανίας (Makri Plagi 1370^m above sea-level), οὐκ ἔχοντός πω τοῦ ὄρους τὸ δνομα τοῦτο, κ.τ.λ. Cp. Dieuchidas of Megara frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 388 Müller) ap. Clem. Al. strom. 6. 2 p. 443, 9 f. Stählin and frag. 11 (Frag. Hist. Gr. iv. 290 Müller) ap. Harpokr. s.v. Γερανία. Et. mag. p. 228, 22 ff., telling the same tale, speaks of Μεγαρεῖς ὁ Διὸς καὶ μῖας τῶν καλουμένων θηίδων (L. Dindorf corr. Σιβνίδων) νυμφῶν.

² Zeus Ἰπταος (supra p. 875 n. 1 no. (2)). Zeus Πολιεὺς (infra § 9 (h) ii).

³ Zeus Ἰψιστος (supra p. 876 f. n. 1 no. (1)). The Siphnian Zeus Ἐπιβήμιος probably implies a statue of the god on the orator's platform (infra Append. N med.); but it would be unsafe to argue from Siphnos to Athens, and in any case it was not as mountain-god that Zeus supported the speaker (Plout. praecipit. gerend. reip. 26 κωνὸν ἐστὶν ἱερὸν τὸ βῆμα Βουλαίου τε Διὸς καὶ Πολιεῦς καὶ Θέμιδος καὶ Δίκης).

⁴ Anchesmos is commonly identified with Turkouuni, a range of rocky hills which divides the Attic plain into two unequal parts watered by the Kephisos and the Ilisos respectively (C. Wachsmuth in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2103, H. Hitzig—H. Blümner on Paus. i. 32. 2). It attains a height of 733^m. Somewhere on this range was a statue of Zeus Ἀρχέσιμος (Paus. i. 32. 2 καὶ Ἀρχέσιμος ὄρος ἐστὶν οὐ μέγα καὶ Διὸς ἄγαλμα Ἀρχεσιμίου). A. S. Georgiades in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1920 p. 59 notes foundations on its E. slopes.

⁵ On the top of Mt Hymettos (Monte Matto or Trilo-Vuni 1027·10^m) was an altar (et. mag. p. 352, 49 ff. cited supra p. 873 n. 1) and statue of Zeus Ἰμῆτιος, also altars of Zeus Ὀμβριος and Apollon Προφύσιος (Paus. i. 32. 2 ἐν Ἰμῆτι ὄρει δὲ ἄγαλμα ἐστὶν Ἰμῆτιου Διὸς· βωμοὶ δὲ καὶ Ὀμβρίου Διὸς καὶ Ἀπόλλωνός εἰσι Προφύσιου). Hesych. Ἰμῆτιος· Ζεὺς παρὰ Ἀττικοῖς. Clouds on Hymettos portended rain (Theophr. de signis tempest. 1. 20 and 24), wind (id. ib. 2. 9), and storm (id. ib. 3. 6). W. Kolbe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 138 f. thinks it very probable that the statue of Zeus Ἰμῆτιος stood on the small plateau close to the highest point of the mountain, and that the cult of Zeus Ὀμβριος is perpetuated on its ancient site by the chapel of St Elias perched upon a conspicuous crest (508^m) on the eastern slope of the main massif, above Sphettos, north of the Pirnari Pass, to which chapel in times of drought whole troops of pilgrims still resort (A. Milchhöfer in E. Curtius and J. A. Kaupert Karten von Attika Berlin 1883 Text ii. 32).

⁶ On Mt Parnes was a bronze statue of Zeus Παρνήθιος and an altar of Zeus Σημαλέος; also another altar on which sacrifices were made sometimes to Zeus Ὀμβριος, sometimes to Zeus Ἀπήμιος (Paus. i. 32. 2 καὶ ἐν Πάρνηθι Παρνήθιος Ζεὺς χαλκοῦς ἐστὶ, καὶ βωμὸς Σημαλέου Διὸς. ἐστὶ δὲ ἐν τῇ Πάρνηθι καὶ ἄλλος βωμὸς, θύουσι δὲ ἐπ' αὐτοῦ τοτὲ μὲν Ὀμβρίου τοτὲ δὲ Ἀπήμιον καλοῦντες Δία, et. mag. p. 352, 49 ff. cited supra p. 873 n. 1). Parnes (Ozea) is at once the highest (1413^m) and the most extensive mountain in Attike. C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1862 i. 252 would locate the statue of Zeus Παρνήθιος and the altar of Zeus Σημαλέος (supra p. 4) near Phyle, on the bare rocky ridge Marathon¹.

Boiotia

Mount Hypatos².

Thebes³.

Orchomenos⁴.

Mount Helikon⁵.

Mount Kithairon⁶.

which the ancients on account of its shape called the Chariot (supra p. 815 f.), but the altar of Zeus Ὀμβριος and Ἀπήμιος on some other eminence. Lightning over Parnes, Briletos, and Hymettos betokened a big storm; over two of the three, a less serious storm; over Parnes alone, fair weather (Theophr. de signis tempest. 3. 6). Clouds over the western side of Parnes and Phyle, with a north wind blowing, meant stormy weather (id. ib. 3. 10).

¹ Zeus Ὀυπατος (supra p. 875 n. 1 no. (3)).

² Zeus Ὀυπατος (supra p. 875 n. 1 no. (1)).

³ Zeus Ὀψιστος (supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (2)).

⁴ Zeus Καραιός (supra p. 874 n. 2).

⁵ Zeus Ἐλικώνιος had an altar on Mt Helikon, near the spring Hippokrene, round which the Muses danced (Hes. theog. 1 ff. with schol. ad loc. 2 ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ γὰρ ὄρει καὶ κρήνη ἦν καὶ βωμός, 4 ἐν Ἐλικῶνι δὲ ἦν ὁ βωμός, ὡς εἰρηται, τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ἐλικωνίου). On the north-eastern summit of Helikon (Zagora 1527^m) now stands a little roofless chapel of St Elias: it is surrounded by fir-trees, and its walls of small well-jointed polygonal stones probably formed in antiquity the peribolos of the altar of Zeus (C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1862 i. 239, H. N. Ulrichs Reisen und Forschungen in Griechenland Berlin 1863 ii. 99, Frazer Pausanias v. 158, Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 7). See also supra i. 132.

⁶ Mt Kithairon was sacred to Zeus Κιθαιρώνιος (Paus. 9. 2. 4 ὁ δὲ Κιθαιρῶν τὸ ὄρος Διὸς ἱερὸν Κιθαιρωνίου ἐστίν. This sentence is out of place in its context. H. C. Schubart—E. C. Walz excised it as a gloss. C. L. Kayser in the Zeitschrift für die Alterthumswissenschaft 1850 viii. 392 transposed it to stand before καθότι δὲ τοῦ Κιθαιρώνος κ.τ.λ.). Nominally every sixth year, but really at shorter intervals, the Plataeans held a festival called Δαίδαλα μικρά. Going to an oak-wood near Alalkomenai they set out pieces of boiled flesh, followed the crow that pounced on the flesh, felled the tree on which it perched, and made of it a wooden image called a δαίδαλον. Every fifty-ninth year the Plataeans joined with the Boeotians to celebrate the Δαίδαλα μεγάλα. The various townships drew lots for the fourteen wooden images provided by the Δαίδαλα μικρά. Apparently each township took its image to the river Asopos and placed it on a waggon along with a bridesmaid. Again casting lots for order of precedence, they drove the waggons from the river to the top of Kithairon. Here an altar had been built of blocks of wood with brushwood piled on it. Each township then sacrificed a cow to Hera and a bull to Zeus, and, filling these victims with wine and incense, burnt them along with the images on the altar. The result was a huge column of flame visible at a great distance. The local myth explained that Hera, enraged with Zeus, had once retired to Eubolia, and that Zeus, at the advice of Kithairon king of Plataiai, had made a wooden image and put it wrapped up on a bullock-cart, giving out that he was taking to wife Plataia, daughter of Asopos: Hera had flown to the spot, discovered the trickery, and made it up with Zeus (Paus. 9. 3. 1—8). According to Plutarch, Hera had been in hiding on Mt Kithairon (not in Eubolia), and the stratagem was suggested to Zeus by Alalkomeneus the autochthon (not by Kithairon): together they cut down a fine oak, shaped it and decked it as a bride and called it Δαίδαλη; the wedding chant was raised, the Tritonid nymphs brought water for the bath, and Boiotia furnished flutes and the band of revellers. Hera with the women of Plataiai in her train came down from Mt Kithairon in jealous anger, but laughed at the ruse and was reconciled to Zeus (Plout. ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 3. 1. 6). Aristeides before the battle of Plataiai (479 B.C.) was bidden by the Delphic oracle to pray to Zeus, Hera Κιθαιρωνία, Pan, and the Spragritid nymphs (Plout. v. Aristid. 11): Pausanias, turning towards the Heraion outside Plataiai, prayed to Hera Κιθαιρωνία and the other deities of the Plataean land (id. ib. 18). The image of Hera Κιθαιρωνία at Thespias was a lopped tree-trunk (Clem. Al. protr. 3. 46. 3 καὶ τῆς Κιθαιρωνίας "Ἡρας ἐν Θεσπείᾳ πρέμνον ἐκκεκομμένον, cp. Arnob. adv. nat. 6. 11 ramum pro Cinxia Thespias). She had a sanctuary also at Thebes (schol. Eur. Phoen. 24 ἢ ὄντι Κιθαιρωνίας "Ἡρας ἐστὶν ἐν Θήβαις ἱερόν). Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 269 Ἐπιθετα "Ἡρας (10) κιθαιρωνίας.

Mount Laphystion¹.

A mountain near Lebadeia².

In the traditional singing-match between Kithairon and Helikon (for which see Demetrios of Phaleron ap. schol. Od. 3. 267 and Eustath. in Od. p. 1466, 56 ff., Lysimachos (? Lysanias) of Kyrene frag. 26 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 342 Müller) ap. schol. Hes. o.d. p. 33, 4 ff. Gaisford, cp. Tzetz. chil. 6. 917 ff., Hermesianax of Kypros frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 428 Müller) ap. Plout. de fluv. 2. 3) the former sang of the childhood of Zeus (Korinna in the Berliner Klassikertexte Berlin 1907 v. 2. 19 ff. no. 284, cp. ib. p. 47, = frag. 1 Diehl³).

¹ On Mt Laphystion near Orchomenos was a precinct and stone statue of Zeus Λαφύστιος. It was here that Athamas was about to sacrifice Phrixos and Helle, when Zeus sent the ram with the golden fleece to aid their escape (Paus. 9. 34. 5, cp. 1. 24. 2). Higher up on the mountain-side was a Herakles Χάρωψ; for here, according to the Boeotians, Herakles had brought up the hound of Hades (Paus. 9. 34. 5). Dionysos too was worshipped on the mountain as Λαφύστιος (el. mag. p. 557, 51 f. Λαφύστιος: ὁ Διδύνατος, ἀπὸ τοῦ ἐν Βοιωτίᾳ Λαφυστίου δρους = Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 1237), and his Maenads were Λαφύστιαι (Lyk. Al. 1237 with Tzetz. ad loc.).

Laphystion has been identified with Granitsa, a steep mountain (896^m) of reddish stone with a summit like a crater and warm springs at its north-eastern foot (C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1862 i. 235 f., Frazer Pausanias v. 172, H. Hitzig—H. Blümner on Paus. 9. 34. 5).

That Λαφύστιος must be connected with λαφύσσειν, 'to devour,' is commonly admitted. But beyond this point agreement ceases. Was the god named after the mountain, or the mountain after the god? (1) U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorf in his ed. 2 of Eur. H.f. Berlin 1895 i. 34 n. 67 holds that Mt Laphystion got its name from the crater that engulfed the unwary. And doubtless Zeus Λαφύστιος could have derived his appellation from Mt Laphystion. But we have already (supra i. 416 f., 428) seen reason to think that Zeus Λαφύστιος was originally a Thessalian god, and we hear of no Mt Laphystion in Thessaly. (2) Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 8 conversely assumes that Mt Laphystion derived its name from Zeus Λαφύστιος. It is then open to us to interpret Λαφύστιος as 'Devouring' with allusion to human sacrifice. For that grim tradition attached to the cult of Zeus Λαφύστιος, not only in Boiotia, but also in Thessaly (infra Append. B Thessalia); and the Dionysos of Orchomenos had an equally sinister reputation (Plout. quaest. Gr. 38, Ant. Lib. 10, Ov. met. 4. 1 ff. Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 163 f.). See further P. Buttmann Mythologus Berlin 1829 ii. 230, W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1850 f., J. W. Hewitt in Harvard Studies in Classical Philology 1908 xix. 102 f.

² Paus. 9. 39. 4 ἀναβάσι δὲ ἐπὶ τὸ μαντεῖον (sc. τοῦ Τροφωνίου) καὶ αὐτόθεν ἰοῦσιν ἐς τὸ πρόσω τοῦ δρους, Κόρης ἐστὶ καλουμένη θήρα (καλουμένης θήρας codd. fam. L¹. K. Goldhagen cj. καλουμένης Σωτήρας. H. N. Ulrichs cj. καλουμένης "Ἡρας. F. Spiro: 'an θύρα?') καὶ Διὸς Βασιλέως ναός. τοῦτον μὲν δὴ διὰ τὸ μέγεθος ἢ καὶ τῶν πολέμων τὸ ἀλλεπάλληλον ἀφείκασαν ἡμέτερον· ἐν δὲ ἐτέρῳ ναῷ Κρόνου καὶ "Ἡρας καὶ Διὸς ἐστὶν ἀγάλματα. ἐστὶ δὲ καὶ Ἀπόλλωνος ἱερόν. The unfinished temple of Zeus Βασιλεῦς is believed to have stood on Mt St Elias, a height which rises west of the castle-hill of Livadia at a distance of half an hour from the town. Here the ground is still strewn with big building-blocks, though most of the material was carried off in Turkish times (Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc.). The temple seems to have been 46·02^m in length (E. Fabricius ap. H. Nissen in the Rhein. Mus. 1887 xlii. 54). A long inscription, of 175—172 B.C., relating to this temple was found built into the wall of a blacksmith's forge at Livadia (Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3073 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 589 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 972). It specifies the conditions under which the custodians (ναοποιοί) of the temple of Zeus Βασιλεύς are prepared to place the building-contract with the contractors (ἐργῶναι). The first section (vv. 1—89) deals with the slabs (σῆλαι) on which the specification is to be inscribed; the second (vv. 89—164) with the paving-stones to be laid in one of the external colonnades (v. 89 ff. εἰς τὸν ναὸν τοῦ | Διὸς τοῦ Βασιλέως εἰς τὴν ἔξω περίστασιν τοῦ σηκοῦ | τῶν εἰς τὴν μακρὰν πλευρὰν καταστρωτῆρων ἐργασία καὶ σύνθεσις). It appears that the temple was constructed, not by the inhabitants of Lebadeia only, but by the Boeotians in common (v. 156 f.), probably—as A. Wilhelm saw—with money supplied by Antiochos iv Epiphanes. Other fragments of the same contract are Inscr. Gr. sept. i nos. 3074—3076, A. de Ridder and Choisy 'Devis de Livadie' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1896 xx. 318—335 (v. 58 εἰς τὸ <ν> [ἡμ]κύκλιον is taken to imply an apsidal end to the temple: restoration ib. pl. 9. Other Boeotian examples at Arne, Ptoion, Kabeirion, Thespiæ are noted by F. Noack in the Ath. Mitth. 1894 xix. 424: cp. supra i. 120), A. Wilhelm 'Bauinschrift aus Lebadeia' in the Ath. Mitth. 1897 xxii. 179—182.

Mount Homoloïon (?)¹.

The Boeotians after vanquishing the Spartans at Leuktra (371 B.C.) established at Lebadeia an ἀγὼν στεφανίτης in honour of Zeus Βασιλεύς (Diod. 15. 53). These games, known as the Βασιλεια, are repeatedly mentioned in inscriptions (Inscr. Gr. sept. i Index p. 761, O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 82), one of which has ΒΑΣΙΛΕΙΑ within a bay-wreath (Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 2487). If, as seems probable, Zeus Βασιλεύς was associated with Hera Βασιλις, the games were quadriennial (ib. i no. 3097). Plutarch's story about Aristokleia the κανηφόρος of Zeus Βασιλεύς (Plout. amat. narr. 1) implies a ritual procession (Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 34).

On the relation of Zeus Βασιλεύς to Trophonios see infra Append. K.

¹ Zeus 'Ομολώιος was worshipped in Boiotia (Steph. Byz. s.v. 'Ομόλη), particularly at Thebes (Hesych. s.v. 'Ομολώιος ('Ομβλοος cod.) Ζεὺς Ἐθήβησιν οὕτω προσαγορεύεται ὁ Ζεὺς); and Aristodemos of Alexandria, who wrote a learned work on Theban antiquities, appears to have derived the name of the 'Ομολώιδες πόλιν at Thebes from their proximity to a 'Ομολώνιον ὄρος (Aristodem. Theb. frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 309 Müller) ap. schol. Eur. Phoen. 1119, cp. Steph. Byz. loc. cit.). It may be inferred, though not with certainty, that there was a cult of Zeus on this hill (see Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 9 f.). A small column, found at Thebes and now in the local Museum, has inscribed in archaic letters on its fluting Δι' Ομολῶϊοι | Ἀγειμῶνδας ἀπὸ δεκά[τας] (P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 130 ff., Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 191, R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 227 no. 665, Roberts Gk. Epigr. i. 212 no. 198, Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 2456), which is perhaps a clumsy attempt at a hexameter line. Doubtless this column once supported a votive offering in the Theban sanctuary of Zeus 'Ομολώιος. His festival the 'Ομολώια, mentioned in lists of victors from Megara (ib. i no. 48, 2) and from Orchomenos in Boiotia (ib. i no. 3196, 24 f., no. 3197, 36 f.), was specially discussed by Aristodemos (Aristodem. Theb. frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 309 Müller) ap. schol. Theokr. 7. 103). The same god was worshipped, not only in Boiotia, but also in Thessaly (Phot. lex. s.v. 'Ομολώιος Ζεὺς ἐν Θήβαις καὶ ἐν ἄλλαις πόλεσι Βιωτίας· καὶ ὁ ἐν Θεσσαλίᾳ ἀπὸ 'Ομολώιας προφήτιδος τῆς Ἐννέως, ἣν προφήτῃν εἰς Δελφούς πεμφθῆναι ὁ Ἄριστοφάνης (sic cod. S. A. Naber corr. Ἀριστόδημος, sc. Aristodem. Theb. loc. cit.) ἐν δευτέρῃ Θηβαϊκῶν· Ἴστρος δὲ ἐν τῇ δωδεκάτῃ τῆς συναγωγῆς διὰ τὸ παρ' Αἰολεῦσιν τὸ ὀνομαστικὸν καὶ εἰρηρικὸν ὄμολον λέγεσθαι (frag. 10 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 419 Müller))· ἔστι δὲ Δημήτηρ 'Ομολώια ἐν Θήβαις = Soud. s.v. 'Ομολώιος Ζεὺς, cp. Apostol. 12. 67, Arsen. viol. p. 381 Walz, Favorin. lex. p. 1358, 38 ff., Eudok. viol. 414^ε p. 314, 10 ff. (Flach). O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 2263 f. remarks that the name of the month 'Ομολώιος, 'Ομολώος, 'Ομολοῖος found in Boiotia, Aitolia, and Thessaly (E. Bischoff ib. viii. 2264) implies a wide-spread cult of deities with this appellative, such as Zeus 'Ομολώιος, Mount Petrachos¹.

Phokis

Delphoi².

Demeter 'Ομολωια (supra), and Athena 'Ομολωίς (Lyk. Al. 520 with schol. and Tzetz. ad loc.), and concludes: 'Da der Boiotien und Thessalien gemeinsame Monatsname einen gemeinsamen Kult des Zeus H. wahrscheinlich machen, dürfte Zeus H. ähnlich wie Zeus Olympios von Thessalien nach Mittelgriechenland gekommen sein.' His cult reached Eretria also; for a fragmentary slab discovered close to the western gate of Eretria is inscribed in lettering of s. iii. B.C. Διὸς 'Ομ[ο]λω[ω]τ[ω]ν (K. Kourouniotes in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1897 p. 150 n. 3, who cp. the Theban 'Ομολωίδες πόλιν). See further O. Hoffmann Die Makedonen, ihre Sprache und ihr Volkstum Göttingen 1906 p. 105 f. (Λωίος = 'Ομολωίος), E. Sittig De Graecorum nominibus theophoris Halis Saxonum 1911 p. 14 f. (collects derivatives of 'Ομολωίος, Λωίος, and infers from the occurrence of the month 'Ομολωίος at Eresos in Lesbos (Inscr. Gr. ins. ii no. 527, 44) 'Iovem omnes Aeoles, priusquam discesserint, hoc cognomine esse veneratos'), F. Bechtel Die griechischen Dialekte Berlin 1921 i. 19, 142, 264. Supra p. 857 n. 6, infra Append. B Thessalia.

¹ The Akrópolis of Chaironeia was a sharp rocky summit named Petrachos (Plout. v. Sull. 17). Here Kronos received from Rhea a stone instead of Zeus; and there was a small statue of Zeus on the top of the mountain (Paus. 9. 41. 6 ἔστι δὲ ὑπὲρ τὴν πόλιν κρημνὸς Πιτραχὸς καλούμενος· Κρόνον δὲ ἐθέλουσιν ἐνταῦθα ἀπατηθῆναι δεξάμενον ἀντὶ Διὸς πέτρον παρὰ τῆς Ῥέας, καὶ ἀγαλμα Διὸς οὐ μέγα ἔστιν ἐπὶ κορυφῇ τοῦ ὄρους). For the extant remains of Chaironeia see C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1862 i. 205 f., Sir J. G. Frazer on Paus. 9. 40. 5, and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner on Paus. 9. 40. 7; for the history of the town, E. Oberhammer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 2033 ff.

² The Delphians originally occupied a town Λυκώρεια higher up on the side of Mt Parnassos (Strab. 418, cp. schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1490, Plout. de Pyth. or. 1 where W. R. Paton cj. Λυκώρεια for Λυκουπλᾶν). H. N. Ulrichs Reisen und Forschungen in Griechenland Bremen 1840 i. 120 and C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1862 i. 179 f. found traces of Λυκώρεια in sundry Hellenic walls still visible on a height to the west of the Corycian Cave. W. M. Leake Travels in Northern Greece London 1841 ii. 579 with truer topographical instinct identified the site of the ancient city with the village of Liakouri. Here Deukalion had reigned as king (marm. Par. ep. 2 p. 3 Jacoby, ep. 4 p. 3 f.)—indeed, the town had been founded by survivors of his deluge, who followed the 'howling of wolves,' λύκων ὠρυγαίς, to the mountain-top (Paus. 10. 6. 2). Another account made its founder Λύκωρος, son of Apollon by the nymph Korykia (Paus. ib., cp. et. mag. p. 571, 47 ff.). He is called Λυκωρεὺς by schol. Ap. Rhod. 2. 711 (cp. Hyg. fab. 161), who adds ἄφ' οὗ Λυκωρεῖς οἱ Δελφοί. Finally Anaxandrides (supra p. 238 n. 1) of Delphoi, who wrote a monograph περὶ Λυκωρείας, spoke of Λυκωρεὺς as a king (Alexandrides frag. 7 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 107 Müller) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Λυκώρεια).

The town had a cult of Apollon (et. mag. p. 571, 47 ff.), who is mentioned as Phoibos Λυκώρειος (Ap. Rhod. 4. 1490), Apollon Λυκωρεὺς (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἀνεμώρεια), Phoibos Λυκωρεὺς (Euphorion frag. 53 in A. Meineke Analecta Alexandrina Berolini 1843 p. 95 f., Kallim. h. Ap. 19, Orph. h. Ap. 34. 1, oracul. ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 3. 14. 5 = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 6. 82. 9 f.), or Λυκωρεὺς alone (Anth. Pal. 6. 54. 1 (Paulus Silentiarius)). There was also a Zeus Λυκώρειος (Steph. Byz. s.v. Λυκώρεια... ἔστι καὶ Λυκώρειος Ζεὺς καὶ Λυκώρειον διὰ διφθόγγου), who was presumably worshipped on the peak known as Λυκώρειον (id. ib.) or Λυκωρεὺς (Loukian. Tim. 3, where for τῷ Λυκωρεῖ I should restore τῷ Λυκωρεῖω), later Λυκορί (schol. rec. Pind. Ol. 9. 70). The highest point of Parnassos (2459^m) is still called τὸ Λυκέρνι. J. Murray *Handbook for travellers in Greece*⁷ London 1900 p. 540 f. says: 'The...summit, locally called Lykeri (8070 ft.), is marked with a wooden cross. At the top of the mountain is a small plain, enclosed in a crater-like basin, and containing a pool generally frozen over... The view on a clear day exceeds in grandeur and interest almost every other prospect of the kind. To the N., beyond the plains of Thessaly, appears Olympus with its snowy tops brilliant in sunlight. Further W.

Euböia

Mount Oche¹.Mount Kenaion².

is seen the long chain of Pindus; on the E. rises Helicon, with other Boeotian mountains. To the S. the summit of Panachaïcon is very conspicuous; Achaia, Argolis, Elis and Arcadia are seen as in a map, while the Gulf of Corinth looks like a large pond. The Aegean and Ionian seas bound the horizon E. and W.' It appears probable that the cult of Zeus Λυκῶρειος was displaced or overshadowed by that of Apollon Λυκῶρειος. Their common epithet may be connected either with λύκος, 'a wolf' (according to H. N. Ulrichs op. cit. i. 118 wolves still haunt the woods of Parnassos: 'In Chrysó sah ich vier Hirten, von denen jeder eine Wolfshaut an einem langen Stocke trug, dessen oberstes Ende aus dem geöffneten Rachen des Thiers hervorsteckte. Sie zogen von Dorf zu Dorf und empfangen an jedem Hause freigebige Geschenke für die Befreiung von diesem gefährlichen Feinde der Herden.' Paus. 10. 14. 7, Ail. de nat. an. 10. 26, 12. 40, Plout. v. Per. 21 associate wolves with the Delphian Apollon, or with Λύκος, an ancient name for the god of the daylight (?) (supra i. 64 n. 3).

When Deukalion, after traversing the flood for nine days and nights in his ark, landed at length on Mt Parnassos, he sacrificed there to Zeus Φύξιος (Apollod. 1. 7. 2, cp. schol. cod. Paris. Ap. Rhod. 2. 1147 Φύξιον δὲ τὸν Δία οἱ Θεσσαλοὶ ἔλεγον, ἦτοι ὅτι ἐπὶ τοῦ Δευκαλίωνος κατακλυσμοῦ κατέφυγον εἰς αὐτόν, ἢ διὰ τὸ τὸν Φρέξιον καταφυγεῖν εἰς αὐτόν). This title too is found attached to Apollon (Philostr. her. p. 711 Palamedes prays Ἀπόλλωνι Λυκίῳ τε καὶ Φυξίῳ to be delivered from wolves, cp. Soud. s.v. Φύξιος).

For Zeus at Delphoi see further supra pp. 179 ff., 189 ff., 231 ff., 266 f.

¹ Popular etymology derived the name of Mt Oche ("Όχη) from the union (ὀχή=ὀχέλα) of Zeus and Hera, which was said to have taken place there (Steph. Byz. s.v. Κάραστος... ἐκλήθη δὲ τὸ ὄρος ἀπὸ τῆς ἐκεῖ ὀχέλας, ἦτοι τῶν θεῶν μίξεως Διὸς καὶ Ἡρας, ἢ διὰ τὸ τὰ πρόβατα κυίσκεσθαι ὀχευόμενα ἐν τῷ τόπῳ· οἱ γὰρ Ἀχαιοὶ τὴν τροφήν ὀχὴν φασί). The summit of the mountain (1475^m) is nowadays known as Hagios Elias (C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1872 ii. 398).

² On the top of Mt Kenaion (677^m), a height untouched by clouds (Sen. Herc. Oet. 786 f. hic rupe celsa nulla quam nubes ferit | annosa fulgent templa Cenaei Iovis), was an altar and sanctuary of Zeus Κήναιος (Aisch. Γλαῦκος πόντιος frag. 30 Nauck² ap. Strab. 447, Soph. Trach. 237 f., 752 ff., 993 ff., Skyl. per. 58 (Geogr. Gr. min. i. 47 Müller), Apollod. 2. 7. 7, Steph. Byz. s.v. Κάναι... Καναῖος Ζεὺς οὐ μόνον ἀπὸ τοῦ Καναίου, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς Κάνης, Soud. s.v. Κηναῖος· ὁ Ζεὺς, Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 Ἐπιθέτα Διὸς (57) κηναίου, 266 Ἐπιθέτα Διὸς (49) κηναίου, 274 Ἐπιθέτα Διὸς... κηναῖος κηναῖος (codd. C¹.O¹), Ov. met. 9. 136 f., Sen. Herc. Oet. 102, 786 f.). According to Sophokles, Herakles after sacking Oichalia dedicated here altars and a leafy precinct to Zeus Πατρῴος. He offered 100 victims on a pyre of oak, including twelve bulls free from blemish, and put on for the purpose the deadly robe brought to him by Lichas (Soph. Trach. 750 ff.). According to Bakchylides, he offered from the spoils of Oichalia nine bulls to Zeus Κήναιος, 'lord of the far-spread clouds,' two to Poseidon, and a cow to Athena (Bakchyl. 15. 17 ff.). Cp. Diod. 4. 37 f., Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 50 f., Eudok. viol. 436. Fragments of a volutekrater from Kerch show Herakles (... ΚΛΗΣ) holding a sacrificial fillet for one of these victims in the presence of ΛΙΧΑΣ and Hylllos (?). All these are wreathed with bay or olive. At their feet is a pile of stones; in the background, a tripod on a column and a pillar decorated with acanthus-leaves (L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pétr. 1869 p. 179 pl. 4, 1, ib. 1876 p. 161 pl. 5, 1 = Reinach Rép. Vases i. 31, 12, ib. i. 50, 3. This vase-painting was attributed by F. Hauser in Furtwängler—Reichhold—Hauser Gr. Vasenmalerei iii. 53 f. fig. 24 to the painter Aristophanes c. 400 B.C., by J. D. Beazley Attic red-figured Vases in American Museums Cambridge Mass. 1918 p. 184 to a contemporary artist, 'the painter of the New York Centaureomachy' (Hoppin Red-fig. Vases ii. 217 no. 4)). A fragmentary bell-krater in the British Museum has Herakles wreathed with olive and wearing a himátion. Behind him hangs the poisoned robe (?). In front an altar of unworked stones supports four tiers of blazing logs with the horns of some animal on the top. To left and right of this altar are two youths, Philoktetes (ΦΙΛΟΣΚΕΤ) and Lichas (ΛΙ...), holding meat on spits over the fire. By the altar is an olive-tree, from which hang votive tablets representing a Satyr, a Maenad, and two horsemen; also, the image of a goddess draped and mounted on a Doric column. To the right is a draped female figure, perhaps Nike, and beyond her Athena (... N.) with aigis, spear, and helmet (Brit. Mus. Cat. Vases iii. 300 ff. no. E 494 pl. 16). Both vases may depict the sacrifice on Mt Kenaion (A. H. Smith in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1898 xviii. 274 ff.). An inscription from the Akrópolis at Athens records an Eretrian coin belonging to Zeus Κήναος (Corp. inscr. Att. i no. 208, 8 f. [Ἐρετρικὸν | [Δι]ὸς Κηναίου). Lithada, the modern name of Mt Kenaion, is derived from Λιχάδες, the small islands off the point, and appears in Latin documents of s. xiii A.D. as Ponta (Punta) Litadi or Litaldi (C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1872 ii. 401 n. 2).

Cape Geraistos (?).¹

Thessalia

Mount Oite².

¹ Geraistos, the eponym of Cape Geraistos (Καπο Μανδίλο), was the son of Zeus and brother of Tainaros (Steph. Byz. s.v. Γεραιστός, Ταίναρος).

² Mt Oite (Katavothra) rises to a height of 2158^m (Lieut.-Col. Baker in The Journal of the Royal Geographical Society of London 1837 vii. 94 says 7071 ft). It was sacred to Zeus (Soph. Trach. 1191 τὸν Οἰτῆς Ἰηπὸς ὕψιστον πάγον), whose lightnings played about it (id. ib. 436 f., Phil. 729 Jebb); and the meadows high on the mountain, since they belonged to him, might not be mown (id. Trach. 200 ὦ Ζεῦ, τὸν Οἰτῆς ἀτομον δὲ λειμῶν' ἔχεις).

The traditional pyre of Herakles, son of Zeus, was on the south-eastern shoulder of Oite, known to the ancients as Phrygia (Kallim. h. Artem. 159 ὄ γε Φρυγίη περ ὑπὸ δρυλ γυῖα θεωθεῖς with schol. ad loc. Φρυγία ὄρος Τραχίνος, ἐνθα ἐκάθη ὁ Ἡρακλῆς, Steph. Byz. s.v. Φρυγία... ἐστι καὶ Φρυγία τόπος τῆς Οἰτῆς ἀπὸ τοῦ ἐκεῖ πεφύχθαι τὸν Ἡρακλέα) or Pyra (Theophr. hist. pl. 9. 10. 2 white hellebore gathered there for the Amphictionic πυλαία, Liv. 36. 30 M'. Acilius Glabrio offered sacrifice there to Herakles in 191 B.C.) and to the moderns as Xerovouni near Pauliane. Here, at a spot called Marmari, N. Pappadakis in 1920—1921 discovered the remains of a great precinct-wall in ῥῶος, within which was a smaller oblong (c. 20^m × 30^m) marking the limits of the pyre. A bed of ashes (0.40^m to 0.80^m thick) contained bones of animals, bronze weapons, implements, etc., and pottery ranging from archaic Greek to Roman times. Some of the black-figured sherds bore dedications ἙΡΑΚΛΕῖ or [. . .]ΚΛΕῖ, and two archaic bronze statuettes (0.09^m and 0.10^m high) represented the hero, with club and bow (?), in violent action. Miscellaneous finds comprised a bronze club, painted architectural tiles, Roman and Thessalian lamps, Megarian bowls, etc. The principal edifice was of Aetolian date, built with large blocks on an older structure of ῥῶος: of it there remains the cuthynteria, part of the west side, and one step of the south side, also part of the paving and of the stereobate for the cult-statue, which seems to have been of the late Roman period. Close by was a Doric templum in antis (14^m long) with an altar before it: Pappadakis' suggestion that this building was a treasury is hardly borne out by the presence of the altar. Coins from the site included six or seven coppers belonging to the time of the Aetolian League and silver pieces of the Roman imperial series down to Maximian (286—305 A.D.) [Diocletian, who styled himself Iovius (Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 371, Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 315), conferred on Maximian the title Herculius]. Of two fragmentary inscriptions one mentions the emperor Commodus (?) [another would-be Herakles (P. v. Rohden in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 2470, 2478 f. See also J. de Witte 'De quelques empereurs romains qui ont pris les attributs d'Hercule' in the Rev. Num. 1845 pp. 266—272 pl. 13 f.)]. Lastly, to the north at a higher level was a stoa, reconstructed in Aetolian times on the site of an older building. Seven chambers for Halos¹.

Mount Pelion².

Mount Ossa (?)³.

Mount Homole (?)⁴.

Mount Pindos⁵.

Makedonia

Mount Olympos⁶.

the accommodation of priests and pilgrims opened into a colonnade (40^m long) with octagonal columns. Sundry tiles of this stadá are inscribed ΙΗΡΑΗ or ΙΗΡΟΧ = ιερά, ιερός 'Ηρακλέους (N. Pappadakis in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1920 xliv. 392 f., 1921 xlv. 523).

¹ Halos at the foot of Mt Othrys was founded by Athamas (Strab. 433). There was here a sanctuary and grove of Zeus Λαφύστιος. Tradition said that Athamas, son of Aiolos, had together with Ino plotted the death of Phrixos. The Achaeans were bidden by an oracle to enjoin that the eldest of Athamas' descendants should never enter the Prytaneion. They mounted guard over it, and their rule was that, if any such person entered it, he might leave it only in order to be sacrificed. Many fearing the rule had fled to other lands. If they returned and entered the Prytaneion, they were covered all over with fillets and led out in procession to be slain. The reason given for this strange custom was that once, when the Achaeans in accordance with an oracle were treating Athamas as a scape-goat for the land and were about to sacrifice him, Kytissoros, son of Phrixos, came from Aia in Kolchis and rescued him, thereby drawing down the wrath of the god on his own descendants (Hdt. 7. 197, cp. Plat. Min. 315 c). When Phrixos came to Kolchis, he was received by Dipsakos, son of the river-god Phyllis and a local nymph. Phrixos there sacrificed the ram, on which he had escaped, to Zeus Λαφύστιος, and it was a custom for one of his descendants to enter the Prytaneion and sacrifice to the said Zeus (so schol. vulg. Ap. Rhod. 2. 653 καὶ μέχρι τοῦ νῦν νόμος ἕνα τῶν Φρίξου ἀπογόνων εἰσιέναι εἰς τὸ πρυτανεῖον, καὶ θύειν τῷ εἰρημένῳ Διί). But there is an important variant in schol. cod. Paris. καὶ μέχρι νῦν νόμος εἰσελθόντα εἰς τὸ πρυτανεῖον ἕνα τῶν Φρίξου ἀπογόνων θύειν τῷ εἰρημένῳ Διί. The accusative εἰσελθόντα... ἕνα is ambiguous. It might be the subject of θύειν and mean that the man sacrificed to Zeus. It might be the object of θύειν and mean that the man was sacrificed to Zeus. In view of the custom at Halos, the latter alternative is more probable than the former. If so, amend Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 165 n. 1). Supra i. 416, ii. p. 899 n. 1.

Coins of Halos show the head of Zeus Λαφύστιος, sometimes filleted, sometimes laureate (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 13 pls. 2, 6, 31, 1). On occasion a thunderbolt is added in front of the head on the obverse (W. Wroth in the Num. Chron. Third Series 1899 xix. 91 pl. 7, 1) or below Phrixos and the ram on the reverse (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 13 no. 3). The coins are coppers of two periods, 400—344 B.C. and 300—200 B.C. (Head *Hist. num.*² p. 295 f.).

² Zeus 'Ακραῖος (supra p. 871 n. 3 no. (1)) and 'Ακταῖος (supra p. 869 n. 2). A cloud on Pelion meant rain or wind (Theophr. de signis tempest. 1. 22).

³ Zeus 'Οσσαῖος (Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 'Επίθετα Διός (76) ὀσσαίου, 266 'Επίθετα Διός (68) ὀσσαίου) is not necessarily to be taken as the god of Mt Ossa (1950^m). He may be the sender of Rumour ('Οσσα) the 'messenger of Zeus' (Il. 2. 93 f. μετὰ δέ σφισιν 'Οσσα δέδεξε | δρύνουσι' ἔναι, Διὸς ἄγγελος, cp. Od. 1. 282 f., 2. 216 f., 24. 413).

⁴ Homole or Homolos, one of the northern spurs of Mt Ossa in Magnesia, on which stood the town Homolion (Stählin in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 2259 ff.), was 'the most fertile and best watered of the Thessalian mountains' (Paus. 9. 8. 6, cp. Strab. 443). The 'Ομολωίδες πόλαι of Thebes were said to have been called after it (Paus. 9. 8. 6 f.; but see supra p. 900 n. 1). It is possible that the Theban cult of Zeus 'Ομολωῖος had spread southwards from Mt Homole (Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 12 f., supra p. 900 n. 1).

⁵ Zeus 'Ακραῖος (supra p. 871 n. 3 no. (2)).

⁶ The cult of Zeus on Mt Olympos has been discussed at some length supra i. 100—

The summit of Mount Olympos.

See page 905 n. of.

[By permission of Messrs Boissonnas, Geneva.]

117. My statement that the published illustrations of the mountain are very inadequate (i. 101 n. 3) no longer holds good. A. J. Mann—W. T. Wood The Salonika Front London 1920 pl. 7 give a coloured silhouette of Olympos as seen from Mikra, the reproduction of a fine original owned by Lieut.-Col. G. Windsor-Clive. And the noble view of the summit here shown (pl. xi) is from a large heliogravure of exceptional merit published by F. Boissonnas of Geneva.

D. Urquhart The Spirit of the East London 1838 i. 398 ff. describes with much enthusiasm, but little precision, his ascent of Olympos in 1830: 'I spent no more than an hour at this giddy height, where the craving of my eyes would not have been satisfied under a week. I seemed to stand perpendicularly over the sea, at the height of 10,000 feet. Salonica was quite distinguishable, lying north-east; Larissa appeared under my very feet. The whole horizon, from north to south-west was occupied by mountains, hanging on, as it were, to Olympos. This is the range that runs westward along the north of Thessaly, ending in the Pindus. The line of bearing of these heaved-up strata seems to correspond with that of the Pindus, that is, to run north and south, and they presented their escarpment to Olympos. Ossa, which lay like a hillock beneath, stretched away at right angles to the south; and, in the interval, spread far, far in the red distance, the level lands of Thessaly, under that peculiar dusty mist which makes nature look like a gigantic imitation of an unnatural effect produced on the scene of a theatre. When I first reached the summit, and looked over the warm plains of Thessaly, this haze was of a pale yellow hue. It deepened gradually, and became red, then brown, while similar tints, far more vivid, were reproduced higher in the sky. But, when I turned round to the east, up which the vast shadows of night were travelling, the cold ocean looked like a plain of lead; the shadow of the mighty mass of Olympos was projected twenty miles along its surface; and I stood on the very edge, and on my tiptoes' (ib. i. 429 f.). On enquiry he found that the shepherds of Olympos 'had no recollection of the "Thunderer" ...but they told me,' he adds, 'that "the stars came down at night on Olympos!" "that heaven and earth had once met upon its summit, but that since men had grown wicked, God had gone higher up"' (ib. i. 437, B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 35, N. G. Polites Δημώδεις κοσμογονικοί μύθοι Athens 1894 p. 7, cp. p. 41 ff., id. Παραδόσεις Athens 1904 i. 122 no. 217, ii. 805).

Later and more scientific ascents were made by L. Heuzey (1856), H. Barth (1862), and H. F. Tozer (1864). Then followed an interval during which brigandage made mountaineering extremely hazardous: for example, in 1911 E. Richter, an engineer of Jena, had to be ransomed by the Porte at a cost of 500,000 francs. But by 1913 political changes had improved the conditions, and the series of ascents was resumed—D. Baud-Bovy and F. Boissonnas (1913), Profs. E. P. Farquhar and A. E. Phoutrides (1914), Major-General Sir W. Rycroft (1918), D. Baud-Bovy, F. Boissonnas, and the son of the latter (1920), M. Kurz and the chamois-hunter Ch. Kakkalos (1921). See further L. Heuzey Le Mont Olympe et l'Acarnanie Paris 1860, H. Barth Reise durch das Innere der Europäischen Türkei Berlin 1864, H. F. Tozer Researches in the Highlands of Turkey London 1869, E. Richter Meine Erlebnisse in der Gefangenschaft am Olymp Leipzig 1911, Profs. E. P. Farquhar and A. E. Phoutrides in Scribner's Magazine for November 1915 (good photographs), D. W. Freshfield 'The summits of Olympos' in The Geographical Journal 1916 xlvii. 293—297, C. F. Meade 'Mount Olympos' in The Alpine Journal 1919 xxxii. 326—328 (with photographs taken by Lieutenant-Colonel Wood, R. E., from an aeroplane piloted by Lieutenant-Colonel Todd, R.A.F.), D. Baud-Bovy 'The mountain-group of Olympos: an essay in nomenclature' in The Geographical Journal 1921 lvii. 204—213 (with a sketch-map of the massif of Olympos and four fine photographs of the summits by F. Boissonnas).

D. Baud-Bovy loc. cit. concludes: 'Thus, to sum up, the High Olympos is constituted by two ranges, which, though not parallel, run generally east and west. The northern range is that of Kokkino-Vrako, the southern, that of Bichtes. A high rocky barrier running north and south contains three "stones," three "pipes," or three "brothers," quite separated from each other, the Tarpeian Rock in the south, the Throne of Zeus in Mount Athos¹.

Aigai, Kerdylion, etc. (?)².

Korkyra

Kassiope³.

the north, and in the centre the Venizelos peak, the highest of the three. The point of junction between this barrier and the northern range is the St. Elias. The joint which unites the central peaks with the southern range is more complicated. It includes the Skolion, which forms the counterpart to the St. Elias on the opposite side of the Megali-Gurna, and the Isto-Cristaci more to the west. The St. Anthony and the domes of Stavoidia link these two summits to those at the western end of the southern range, of which the Sarai is the most important.' [The peaks seen in pl. xl, from left to right, are—according to Baud-Bovy's nomenclature—(a) the Throne of Zeus (capped by cloud), (b) Peak Venizelos (the true summit), (c) the Cock's Comb, (d) the Virgin, (e) the Tarpeian Rock.]

M. Kurz in The Alpine Journal 1921 xxxiv. 173 f. reports that in August 1921 he surveyed the whole mass of Olympos with a photo-theodolite and that he has in preparation a map, covering an area of c. 100 square kilometers, on a scale of 1 : 20,000. The heights calculated to date are: Skolion = Δ 2905.45^m, Pic Venizelos (Mitka, 'Needle') = 2917.85^m, Throne of Zeus (Stephan) = 2909.94^m.

¹ Zeus 'Αθῶος (Soph. Thanyras frag. 216 Nauck², 237 Jebb ap. Eustath. in Il. p. 358, 40 f. Ὁρῆσαν σκοπιᾶν Ζηνὸς 'Αθῶου, cp. Aisch. Ag. 285 'Αθῶον αἰπος Ζηνὸς ἐξεδέξατο) was worshipped on Mt Athos (Eustath. in Il. pp. 218, 3, 358, 43 f., 953, 45 f., schol. Il. 14. 229), where he had a statue (Hesych. s.v. 'Αθῶος· ὁ ἐπὶ τοῦ 'Αθω τοῦ ὄρους ἰδρυμένος ἀνδριάς, ὁ Ζεὺς) and a sanctuary on the summit (et. mag. p. 26, 47 f. 'Αθῶου Διὸς· Διὸς ἱερὸν ἐν ἄκρῳ 'Αθω τῆ δρει, 'Αθῶου καλουμένου). For beliefs concerning the mountain-top and its altars see supra i. 82 n. 1, 103 n. 4 (Solin. 11. 3 there adduced is dependent on Mela 2. 31). The presence or absence of clouds on Mt Athos betokened rain or fine weather (Theophr. de signis tempest. 3. 6, 4. 2). Other allusions are collected by W. Capelle Berges- und Wolkenhöhen bei griechischen Physikern (Στοιχεῖα v) Leipzig—Berlin 1916 pp. 1, 27, 32 n. 5, 37, 39. On the various monasteries of this 'Αγιον 'Ορος see the literature cited by E. Oberhummer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 2068 f. and by C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 p. 120.

² Zeus 'Τφιστος (supra p. 878 n. ο no. (9)).

³ Kassiope, a town and promontory (Ptol. 3. 13. 9 Κασσιόπη πόλις καὶ ἄκρα) in the north-eastern corner of Korkyra, is still called Kassiopi. As a convenient haven it figures from time to time in ancient records (L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2314 f., xi. 1413). It possessed a temple of Jupiter Cassius (Plin. nat. hist. 4. 52 et oppido Cassiope templaque Cassi Iovis), at whose altar Nero sang (Suet. Ner. 22 ut primum Cassiopen traiecit, statim ad aram Iovis Cassii cantare auspicatus certamina deinceps obiit omnia). Two dedications to Jupiter Casii have been found in Korkyra (Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 576 = Orelli Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 1224 P. Heterieus | Rufio | Iovi Casio sac(rum), Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 577 (cp. p. 989) = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4043 M. Valerius Corvi[ni] | [I. L]orico | Iovi Casio v. s.). A ship built of marble and dedicated by a merchant to Zeus Kasios was sometimes regarded as the raft of Odysseus, and is compared with the stone ship made by Tynnichos and dedicated by Agamemnon to Artemis Βολοσία at Geraistos (Prokop. de bell. Goth. 4. 22 καίτοι οὐ μονοειδὲς τὸ πλοῖον τοῦτό ἐστιν, ἀλλὰ ἐκ λίθων ὅτι μάλιστα πολλῶν ξύγκειται. καὶ γράμματα ἐν αὐτῷ ἐγκεκλόπαται καὶ διαρρήδην βοᾷ τῶν τινα ἐμπόρων ἐν τοῖς ἀνω χρόνοις ἰδρῶσασθαι τὸ ἀνάθημα τοῦτο Διὶ τῷ Κασίῳ. Δία γὰρ Κάσιον ἐτίμων ποτὲ οἱ τῆδε ἄνθρωποι, ἐπεὶ καὶ ἡ πόλις, ἐν ἧ τὸ πλοῖον τοῦτο ἔστηκεν, ἐς τὸνδε τὸν χρόνον Κασίῳ (sic) ἐπικαλεῖται. κ.τ.λ.).

Autonomous bronze coins of Korkyra from 48 B.C. to 138 A.D. often have for reverse or obverse type the figure of ΖΕΥC ΚΑCΙΟC (occasionally ΖΕΥC ΚΑCΚΙΟC) seated on a high-backed throne with a sceptre in one hand and sometimes a phidile in the other Korkyra (?)¹.

Kephallenia

Mount Ainos².

(Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 153 ff. pl. 25, 5 (=my fig. 823), 6—11, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 21 pl. 32, 4, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 328). Imperial coppers from Antoninus Pius to Geta (138—222 A.D.) repeat the type with legend ΖΕΥC ΚΑCΙΟC Antoninus Pius, ΚΟΡΚΥΡΑΙΩΝ ΚΑCΙΟC M. Aurelius, or ΚΟΡΚΥΡΑΙΩΝ M. Aurelius to Geta (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 158 ff. pl. 26, 1, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 21 no. 53, 23 nos. 65, 67, 72, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 328). Coins of Korkyra, Lakedaimon, Knidos, etc. are found countermarked with various abbreviations of the words Διὸς Κασίου and were probably dedicated in his temple (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 158 pl. 25, 14 (=my fig. 824) and 15, Babelon Monn. gr. rom. i. 1. 647, 676 f.).

Fig. 823.

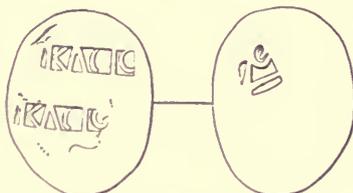

Fig. 824.

Zeus Κάσιος, an oriental deity (Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2265—2267 and A. Salač 'ΖΕΥC ΚΑΣΙΟC' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlvi. 160—189) whose cult had been introduced, perhaps vis Delos (A. Salač ib. pp. 165, 189), either from Mt Kasion on the Orontes (infra Append. B Syria) or from Mt Kasion near Pelousion (infra Append. B Aegyptos), was in Korkyra readily identified with the Zeus of Kassiope, a Hellenic god probably connected with Mt Pantokrator (911^m) behind the town. The accidental resemblance of Κάσιος to Κασσιόπη would suffice to ensure his popularity.

¹ Zeus "Υψιστος (supra p. 879 n. o no. (12)).

² Mt Ainos, the chief mountain of Kephallenia, rises to a height of 1620^m and is known as Elatovouno or Monte Nero of the dark fir-trees with which it was formerly clad (C. Bursian Geographie von Griechenland Leipzig 1872 ii. 372). On it was the sanctuary of Zeus Αἰνήσιος (Strab. 456 μέγιστον δ' ὄρος ἐν αὐτῇ <Αἶνος (ins. Nylander)>, ἐν ᾧ τὸ Διὸς Αἰνήσιου ἱερόν), to whom the Boreadaï prayed when pursuing the Harpyiαι (schol. Ap. Rhod. 2. 297 δτι δὲ ἠδξαντο οἱ περὶ Ζήτην τῷ Διὶ στραφέντες λέγει καὶ ἩσιόδοC (frag. 57 Rzach) 'ἐνθ' οἱ γ' εὐχέσθην Αἰνήτῳ ὑψιμέδοντι.' ἐστι γὰρ καὶ Αἶνος ὄρος τῆC Κεφαλληνίας, ὅπου Αἰνήσιου Διὸς ἱερόν ἐστιν· οὐ μνημονεῖται καὶ Λέων ἐν Περιπλῳ (Leon of Byzantion frag. 4 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 330 f. Müller)) καὶ Δημοσθένης ἐν τοῖC Λιμέσιν (? Demosthenes of Bithynia (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 384 Müller)). But Müller op. cit. ii. 331, iv. 365 emends the text to οὐ μνημονεῖται Κλέων ἐν τῷ Περιπλῳ καὶ Τιμοσθένης ἐν τοῖC Λιμέσιν. The emendation Κλέων is confirmed by et. gen. s. v. ἀρετάν... καὶ Κλέων ἐν τῷ Περιπλῳ (E. Miller Mélanges de littérature grecque Paris 1868 p. 41), and Kleon of Syracuse was associated with Timosthenes (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 365 Müller)).

Bronze coins of Pronnoi on the south-eastern coast of Kephallenia, from c. 370 B.C. onwards, have obv. head of Zeus Αἰνήσιος, laureate, rev. a fir-cone, sometimes with twigs (Rasche Lex. Num. i. 1205, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 89 pl. 18, 7 and 8, Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 3. 807 f. pl. 238, 26 and 27, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 428).

D. T. Ansted The Ionian Islands in the year 1863 London 1863 p. 345 f. describes his ascent of Mt Ainos: 'Through a couple of miles of forest of these noble trees, through two or three miles also of hard, granulated snow and some snow recently fallen and very soft, I made my way from the cottage to the top of the mountain. The path is long, but nowhere steep. It conducts by a succession of slopes and terraces to the culminating ridge, which is itself of considerable length, and comprises at least half a dozen points of rock, all within twenty feet of the highest point. There is a cairn of stones at the last of these, and the remains of an altar dedicated to Jupiter Enos. Numerous fragments of calcined bones have been taken from the ground at the foot of the altar, where there seems to be a large deposit. This point is not really the highest, being a little to the east of it and ten or fifteen feet lower; the culminating point is about 5,400 feet above the sea. The view from this summit when everything is favourable must be exceedingly grand, as, except the Pindus range which is distant, there is nothing to intercept the view. All around is a rich panorama of islands: Zante at one's feet in all its elegant beauty of form; Ithaca to the east; beyond it a silver strip of ocean, and then the gulf of Patras, which is seen in all its length to the bay of Lepanto, in the vicinity of Corinth. Athens is not much further in the same direction. A noble chain of snowy mountains shuts in this view towards the south east. Looking down in the direction of Argostoli a minute speck is seen in the water. On the island called Διος (Thios), that looks so small, was once a temple to the father of the gods, and when sacrifice was offered and the smoke was seen by the priests stationed at the altar on this summit, another sacrifice was here made, and the curling incense rising from this lofty point in the thin air was a sign, far and wide, of the completion of the offering. Here above remain the stones of the altar and the burnt bones of the bulls and the goats; there below, at a distance of several miles, the more solid and beautiful temple is gone—not one stone remains upon another, and there is nothing but the story, probable enough for that matter, to connect the two localities.¹

Sicily

Mount Aitne¹.

¹ Aitne, the greatest volcano of the ancient world, rises to a height of 10,758 ft (according to the geodetic survey of 1900) and covers not less than 460 square miles, its base being about 90 miles in circumference (K. Baedeker *Southern Italy and Sicily*¹⁶ Leipzig 1912 p. 423. For full details see W. Sartorius Freiherr von Waltershausen Der Aetna herausg. von A. von Lasaulx Leipzig 1880 i. ii.).

On the sea-coast at the southern foot of Mt Aitne lay the old town of Katane. And when in 476/5 B.C. Hieron I drove out its inhabitants, settled in their stead 5000 Syracusans with 5000 Peloponnesians, and renamed the place Aitne (Diod. 11. 49), he seems to have erected there a statue of Zeus Αἰτναῖος and instituted a festival called Αἰτναία (schol. Pind. Ol. 6. 162a ἐν τῇ Αἰτνῇ Διὸς Αἰτναίου ἀγάλμα ἴδρυνται, καὶ ἑορτῇ Αἰτναία καλεῖται, ib. 162 c περιπέει δὲ καὶ θεραπεύει ὁ Ἴέρων καὶ τὸ κράτος τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ κατὰ τὴν Αἰτνὴν τιμωμένου, schol. Pind. Nem. 6 Διὸς ἔνεκεν τοῦ ἐν τῇ Αἰτνῇ· Διὶ γὰρ ἀνάκειται καὶ οὗτος ὁ ἀγών· ἐν γὰρ τῇ Αἰτνῇ Διὸς ἱερόν ἐστι, ib. 7 ἐν τῷ ἀγῶνι καὶ ἐν τῇ πανηγύρει τοῦ Αἰτναίου Διὸς ἦγον οἱ περὶ τὸν Ἴέρωνα τοὺς ἐπὶ τοῖς στεφανίταις ἀγῶσι πεποιημένους ἐπιούκους καὶ ἦδον. κ.τ.λ.). Accordingly Pindar, in odes composed soon after Hieron's new foundation, dwells on the recently established cult (Nem. 1. 6 Ζητὸς Αἰτναίου χάριν, Ol. 6. 96 Ζητὸς Αἰτναίου κράτος, Pylh. 1. 29 f. Ζεῦ, ... | ὅς τοῦτ' ἐφέπεις ὄρος, κ.τ.λ., cp. Ol. 4. 6 ὦ Κρόνον παῖ, ὅς Αἰτναν ἔχεις κ.τ.λ.). In 461 B.C. the settlers at Katane, driven out in their turn by Douketios and his Sikeloï, captured the Sikel town Inessa (S. Maria di Licodia) on the southwestern slope of the mountain and transferred to it the name of Hieron's settlement Aitne (Diod. 11. 76); but whether they transferred thither the cult of Zeus Αἰτναῖος also we do not know. Perhaps they did, for in Roman times it seems to have been widely spread. E. Ciaceri Culti e miti nella storia dell'antica Sicilia Catania 1911 pp. 34f., 145f. cp. Diod. 34. 10 ὅτι ἡ σύγκλητος δευσιδαιμονοῦσα ἐξαπέστειλεν εἰς Σικελίαν περὶ τοὺς Σιβύλλης χρησμούς κατὰ Σιβυλλιακὸν λόγιον· οἱ δὲ ἐπελθόντες καθ' ὅλην τὴν Σικελίαν τοὺς τῷ Αἰτναίῳ Διὶ καθιδρυμένους βωμοὺς θυσιάσαντες, καὶ περιφράγματα ποιήσαντες, ἀβάτους ἀπέδεικνον τοὺς τόπους πλὴν τοῖς ἔχουσι καθ' ἕκαστον πολίτευμα πατρῶος θύει θυσίας.

The cult at Katane-Aitne is attested by coins of the town, issued from shortly before 476 to shortly before 461 B.C. Silver litrai have obv. the head of a bald Silenos, rev. a thunderbolt with two curled wings and the legend KATA NE often abbreviated (Brit.

Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 42 nos. 8—11, Hunter Cat. Coins i. 171 nos. 1—5, G. F. Hill Historical Greek Coins London 1906 p. 43 pl. 3, 21, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 131) or AITNAI likewise abbreviated (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 43 no. 12 fig., nos. 13—16, G. F. Hill op. cit. p. 44, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 132). And a unique silver tetradrachm in the Hirsch collection at Brussels (supra i. 90 f. fig. 62) shows obv. AITNA ION the head of a bald Silenos wearing an ivy-wreath (Eur. Cycl. 18 ff. Silenos as slave of Polyphemos dwells in a cave on Mt Aitne), with a beetle beneath (Aristoph. rax 73 Αἰτναίων μέγιστον κάρθαρον and schol. ad loc.), rev. Zeus Αἰτναῖος sitting on a throne spread with a lion-skin. He is clad in a himdtion. His right hand rests on a vine-staff (Strab. 269 ἔχειν τι οἰκείωμα πρὸς τὴν ἀμπέλον εἰκὸς τὴν Αἰτναίαν σποδόν); his left holds a thunderbolt with two curled wings. In the field is an eagle perched on a pine-tree (Diod. 14. 42 εἰς τὸ κατὰ τὴν Αἴτνην ὄρος ἀπέστειλε γέμον κατ' ἐκείνους τοὺς χρόνους πολυτελοῦς ἐλάτης τε καὶ πεύκης). On this remarkable coin, which has been taken to represent the cult-statue of Zeus Αἰτναῖος (Ziegler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2475 f.), see further Baron L. de Hirsch in the Num. Chron. Third Series 1883 iii. 165 f. pl. 9, 1, B. V. Head ib. p. 171 ff., G. F. Hill Coins of Ancient Sicily London 1903 p. 74 f. pl. 4, 13, id. Historical Greek Coins London 1906 p. 43 ff. pl. 3, 22, G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 pp. 94 f., 97 pl. 3, 6, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 131 f. fig. 70. The types of the tetradrachm recall the famous scene in Aristoph. rax 62 ff., where Trygaeos tries to reach Zeus, first by clambering up light ladders towards the sky (supra p. 130), and then by mounting an Aetnaean beetle as a sort of Pegasos. Not improbably there were Dionysiac traits in the cult of Zeus on Mt Aitne, as there were in his cult on Mt Olympos (supra i. 104 ff.).

There is, however, no evidence of a Zeus-cult on Aitne earlier than s. v B.C. Hence the paucity of myths connecting this god with the mountain. Zeus is indeed sometimes said to have piled Aitne on Typhon (Aisch. P. v. 351 ff., Pind. Pyth. 1. 13 ff., cp. Strab. 626 f.) or on Enkelados (Lucilius (?) Aetna 71 ff., Stat. Theb. 11. 8, cp. Verg. Aen. 3. 578 ff., Opp. de venat. 1. 273 ff.); but Typhon is more properly located in the land of Arima (supra p. 826) or in the Corycian Cave (supra p. 448 n. 2), and Enkelados is commonly described as the victim of Athena, not of Zeus. Again, the Palikoi, autochthonous deities (Polemon frag. 83 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 140 f. Müller) ap. Macrob. Sat. 5. 19. 26) of the two volcanic springs in the Lago dei Palici (supra i. 156. See further L. Bloch in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1281—1295), were fathered upon Zeus. Aisch. Αἰτναίας frag. 7 Nauck² ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Παλική made them the children of Zeus by Thaleia daughter of Hephaistos. Id. ib. frag. 6 Nauck² ap. Macrob. Sat. 5. 19. 24 added that Zeus had named them Παλικοί because they would 'come again' from darkness into light. The context in Macrob. Sat. 5. 19. 17 ff. preserves the Aeschylean version of their myth. The nymph Thaleia, embraced by Zeus near the Sicilian river Symaithos, became pregnant and, through fear of Hera, prayed that the earth might swallow her. It did so. But in due time it opened up and Thaleia's twin sons the Παλικοί 'came again' to light. The self-transformation of Zeus into a vulture (or eagle?) in order to win the nymph (Rufin. recognit. 10. 22 and Clem. Rom. hom. 5. 13 (ii. 184 Migne)—both cited supra i. 106 n. 2 f.) is a feature of the story, which would have appealed to Aischylos' love of spectacular effect (cp. the vase-painting supra i. 105 f. fig. 76). The so-called interpolator of Servius (Donatus?) knows the tale of Zeus and Thaleia, though he is muddle-headed about the eagle. But Servius himself makes the Palikoi the children of Zeus by the nymph Aitne (Serv. in Verg. Aen. 9. 584 Symaethos fluvius est Siciliae [a rege Symaetho dictus], haud longe ab urbe Carinensi (leg. Catinensi), circa quem sunt Palici dei, quorum talis est fabula: Aetnam nymphain [vel, ut quidam volunt, Thalam] Iuppiter cum vitiasset et fecisset gravidam, timens Iunonem, secundum alios ipsam puellam, Terrae commendavit, et illic enixa est. secundum alios partum eius, postea cum de Terra erupissent duo pueri, Palici dicti sunt, quasi iterum venientes. nam πάλιν Ικεῖον est iterum venire. In primo humanis hostiis placabantur, postea quibusdam sacris mitigati sunt et eorum immutata sacrificia. inde ergo 'placabilis ara,' quia mitigata sunt eorum numina. [Palicos nauticos deos Varro appellat. alii dicunt Iovem hunc Palicum propter Iunonis iracundiam in aquilam commutasse. alii Vulcani et Aetnae filium tradunt, sed etc.]). Another line of tradition or conjecture speaks of Hephaistos, not Zeus, as father of the Palikoi (Silenos frag. 7 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 101 Müller) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Παλική). Yet another prefers Adranos (Hesych. s.v. Παλικοί, cp. Plout. v. Timol. 12), the Syrian Hadran (supra i. 232 n. 1, ii. 630). It may be surmised that their original connexion was with the Earth rather than with the Sky.

Akragas¹.

Be that as it may, the cult of Zeus as a mountain-god in the region of Aitne is hardly of great antiquity. The ancient god of the district was the 'Minoan' Kronos (Lyd. de mens. 4. 154 p. 170, 6 ff. Wiensch cited supra p. 554 n. 3).

¹ Akragas, a joint colony from Rhodes and Gela (C. Hülsen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1188), had an akropolis named Mt Atabyrion (J. Schubring Historische Topographie von Akragas in Sicilien während der klassischen Zeit Leipzig 1870 pp. 21—28 'Die Akropolis'). On the top of it was a sanctuary of Zeus Ἀταβύριος resembling that at Rhodes (Polyb. 9. 27. 7 f. ἐπὶ δὲ τῆς κορυφῆς Ἀθηναῖς ἱερὸν ἐκτισται καὶ Διὸς Ἀταβυρίου, καθάπερ καὶ παρὰ Ῥοδίοις· τοῦ γὰρ Ἀκράγαντος ὑπὸ Ῥοδίων ἀπφικισμένου, εἰκότως ὁ θεὸς οὗτος τὴν αὐτὴν ἔχει προσηγορίαν ἣν καὶ παρὰ τοῖς Ῥοδίοις). With Zeus Ἀταβύριος must be identified Zeus Πολλεύς (J. Schubring op. cit. p. 24), whose temple on the highest point of the rocky site was built by Phalaris (Polyain. 5. 1. 1 cited supra i. 122) in the first half of s. vi B.C. Phalaris' famous bull of bronze (Pind. Pyth. 1. 95 f., alib.) seems to have been the sacred beast of Zeus Ἀταβύριος, the Hellenic successor of a Hittite bull-god (supra i. 643 f., cp. 784 f. figs. 567—569. F. Hrozny Hethitische Keilschrifttexte aus Boghazköi Leipzig 1919 i. 1 ff. no. 1 a list of Tešub-cults recording a great bull of silver (i, 34 f.) and several great bulls of iron (ii, 12, 24, 34, 41, iii, 2, 8), one of them with gilded eyes (iv. 3)). The Carthaginians, on capturing Akragas (405 B.C.), carried off the bull, which had a trap-door between its shoulders and pipes in its nostrils (Polyb. 12. 25. 3, Diod. 9. 19 ap. Tzetz. chil. 1. 646 ff.), to Carthage (Polyb. 12. 25. 3, Diod. 13. 90). Timaios, according to one account, denied that the bull at Carthage had come from Akragas, declaring that the Agrigentines had never possessed the like (Tim. frag. 116, 117 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 221 f., 222 Müller) ap. Polyb. 12. 25. 1 ff., Diod. 13. 90). But, according to another account, he stated that they had flung the original bull into the sea, and that the bull exhibited at Akragas was only an effigy of the river Gelas (Tim. frag. 118 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 222 Müller) ap. schol. Pind. Pyth. 1. 185). Scipio brought the bull back from Carthage to Akragas (Cic. Verr. 4. 73, Diod. 13. 90), where it was still to be seen c. 60 B.C. (Diod. 13. 90). See further J. Schubring op. cit. p. 24 ff., G. Busolt Griechische Geschichte Gotha 1893 i². 422 n. 4.

The temple of Zeus Ἀταβύριος or Πολλεύς is in all probability to be sought beneath the Cathedral of S. Gerlando (bishop of Agrigentum; died Feb. 25, 1101 A.D. cp. Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Februarius iii. 592 c (Pirrus e gestis S. Gerlandi) Cathedrale templum quadrato lapide ac nobili structurâ à fundamentis excitavit, illudque D. Marie (uti à D. Petro fuerat olim dicatum) & D. Iacobo Apostolo consecravit iv die Aprilis) on the highest part of modern Girgenti (C. Hülsen loc. cit.). J. Schubring op. cit. p. 24 says 'dass S. Gerlando auf den Substruktionen eines alten Tempels erbaut ist und unbedenklich erkläre ich die grossen Stufen und Quaderbauten, die aus dem Boden hervorragen, für antike Reste.' But R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein Die griechischen Tempel in Unteritalien und Sicilien Berlin 1899 i. 139, while agreeing that S. Gerlando marks the site of the temple, add: 'Leider ist von diesem Bau des Phalaris, dem einzigen sicilischen Tempel des 6. Jahrhunderts v. Chr., über den wir eine historische Nachricht haben, nichts erhalten.' Excavation may yet find traces of it. The substantial remains of a Doric hexastyle peripteral temple of s. v B.C. beneath the neighbouring church of S. Maria de' Greci were published by Domenico lo Faso Pietrasanta Duca di Serradifalco Le Antichità della Sicilia Palermo 1836 iii. 86 f. pls. 43, 44 as belonging to the temple of Zeus Πολλεύς, but should rather be identified with the temple of Athena (J. Schubring op. cit. p. 26, R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 140 ff., ii pl. 20).

On a hill (75^m high) to the west of the so-called Porta Aurea, which led through the southern wall of the lower city towards the sea (Liv. 26. 40), was the vast but unfinished temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (Polyb. 9. 27. 9 καὶ ὁ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ὀλυμπίου νεὸς παντέλειαν (so J. A. Ernesti, followed by F. Hultsch, for πολυτέλειαν codd. F.S. Cluverius cj. συντέλειαν) μὲν οὐκ εἴληφε, κατὰ δὲ τὴν ἐπιβολὴν καὶ τὸ μέγεθος οὐδ' ὅποιον τῶν κατὰ τὴν Ἑλλάδα δοκεῖ λείπεσθαι). When Theron, making common cause with Gelon, had vanquished the huge host of the Carthaginians at Himera (480 B.C.), the Agrigentines used their numerous prisoners of war to hew stone for the construction of their largest temples (Diod. 11. 25). The Olympion must have taken many years to build; indeed, it was not yet roofed when in 405 B.C. Akragas was captured by the Carthaginians, and roofless it remained (Diod. 13. 82). In 255 B.C., during the First Punic War, Karthalon besieged and took Akragas; whereupon the remnant of the population fled for refuge to the Olympion (Diod. 23. 14). This great fabric fell gradually into decay. But part of it, supported by three Giants and certain columns, did not collapse till Dec. 9, 1401 A.D. Hence the arms of Girgenti (a turreted wall resting on three naked Giants), the mediaeval line signal Agrigentum mirabilis aula Gigantum, and the popular name for the ruins Palazzo de Giganti (T. Fazellus de rebus Siculis Panormi 1558 p. 127 (dec. 1 lib. 6 cap. 1)). In modern times the temple has served as a public quarry, the mole of Porto Empedocle being built of its blocks (1749—1763 A.D.) (R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 154).

There is a detailed account of the Olympion in Diod. 13. 82 ἡ τε γὰρ τῶν ἱερῶν κατασκευὴ καὶ μάλιστα ὁ τοῦ Διὸς νεὸς ἐμφαίνει τὴν μεγαλοπρέπειαν τῶν τότε ἀνθρώπων· τῶν μὲν οὖν (so F. Vogel for γὰρ codd.) ἄλλων ἱερῶν τὰ μὲν κατεκαύθη, τὰ δὲ τελείως κατεσκάφη διὰ τὸ πολλάκις ἠλωκέναι τὴν πόλιν, τὸ δ' (so F. Vogel for δ' οὖν codd.) Ὀλύμπιον μέλλον λαμβάνει τὴν ὀροφὴν ὁ πόλεμος ἐκώλυσεν· ἐξ οὗ τῆς πόλεως κατασκαφίσεως οὐδέποτε ὕστερον ἴσχυσαν Ἀκραγαγῖνοι τέλος ἐπιθεῖναι τοῖς οἰκοδομήμασιν. ἔστι δὲ ὁ νεὸς ἔχων τὸ μὲν μήκος πῶδας τριακοσίου τεσσαράκοντα, τὸ δὲ πλάτος <ἐκατὸν (ins. T. Kidd, J. Schubring)> ἐξήκοντα, τὸ δὲ ὕψος ἑκατὸν εἰκοσι χωρὶς τοῦ κρηπιδώματος. μέγιστος δ' ὦν τῶν ἐν Σικελίᾳ καὶ τοῖς ἐκτὸς οὐκ ἀλόγως ἂν συγκρίνοιτο κατὰ τὸ μέγεθος τῆς ὑποστάσεως· καὶ γὰρ εἰ μὴ τέλος λαβεῖν συνέβη τὴν ἐπιβολὴν, ἡ γὲ προαιρεσις (so J. J. Reiske for προδιαρσεις codd.) ὑπάρχει φανερά. τῶν δ' ἄλλων ἡ μέχρι τοίχων (sic codd. J. J. Reiske cj. μετὰ τοίχων. L. Dindorf cj. μέχρι θριγκῶν. F. Vogel cj. μέχρι τεγῶν vel συνεχεῖ τοίχῳ) τοὺς νεὸς οἰκοδομούντων ἡ κύκλω κίσει (so P. Wesseling, followed by F. Vogel, for ἡ κύκλωσις or κυκλώσει codd. Stephanus cj. ἡ κίσει) τοὺς σκουῖς (so J. J. Reiske, followed by F. Vogel, for σκουοι codd. Stephanus cj. τοίχους) περιλαμβανόντων, οἷτος ἑκατέρας τούτων μετέχει τῶν ὑποστάσεων· συνυκοδομοῦντο γὰρ τοῖς τοίχοις οἱ κίονες (so L. Dindorf for οἱ τοῖχοι τοῖς κίονι codd.), ἔξωθεν μὲν στρογγύλοι, τὸ δ' ἐντὸς τοῦ νεῶ ἔχοντες τετράγωνον· καὶ τοῦ μὲν ἐκτὸς μέρους ἐστὶν αὐτῶν ἡ περιφέρεια ποδῶν εἰκοσι, καθ' ἣν εἰς τὰ διαξύματα δύναται ἀνθρώπινον ἐναρμόζεσθαι σῶμα, τὸ (L. Dindorf cj. τοῦ) δ' ἐντὸς ποδῶν δώδεκα. τῶν δὲ στοῶν τὸ μέγεθος καὶ τὸ ὕψος ἐξαισιον ἔχουσῶν, ἐν μὲν τῷ πρὸς ἑω μέρει τὴν Γίγαντομαχίαν ἐποιήσαντο γλυφαῖς (so L. Dindorf for ταῖς γλυφαῖς codd. F.K. ταῖς τε γλυφαῖς cett. codd.) καὶ τῷ μεγέθει καὶ τῷ κάλλει διαφερούσαις (so L. Dindorf for διαφερούσας codd. P.A.K. διαφέρουσαι cett. codd.), ἐν δὲ τῷ πρὸς δυσμᾶς τὴν ἄλωσιν τῆς Τροίας, ἐν ἣ τῶν ἡρώων ἕκαστον ἰδεῖν ἔστιν οἰκείως τῆς περιστάσεως δεδημουργημένον.

The temple, of which substantial remains still strew the ground, was a Doric pseudo-peripteral building with seven half-columns on the short side and fourteen half-columns on the long side. These columns (lower diameter 4'30^m, upper diameter 3'10^m), engaged externally in the wall of the naós, appear internally as rectangular pilasters. If completed, they would have the normal number of twenty flutes, flutes of so vast a size (0'55^m broad) that a man can easily stand in each as in a niche. Beneath the half-column is a moulded base, which is continued along the intercolumniation-wall as a moulded plinth. The stylobate, of four steps surmounted by a projecting cornice, rests on a stereobate measuring 113'45^m × 56'30^m. The architrave (3'20^m high) was formed of three superposed courses of stone. The metopes were single slabs left plain. The pediments were filled with groups representing the Gigantomachy at the eastern end and the capture of Troy at the western end (a few fragments only preserved). The building was throughout of yellowish shell-limestone covered with a fine skin of stucco and decorated with the usual patterns in paint.

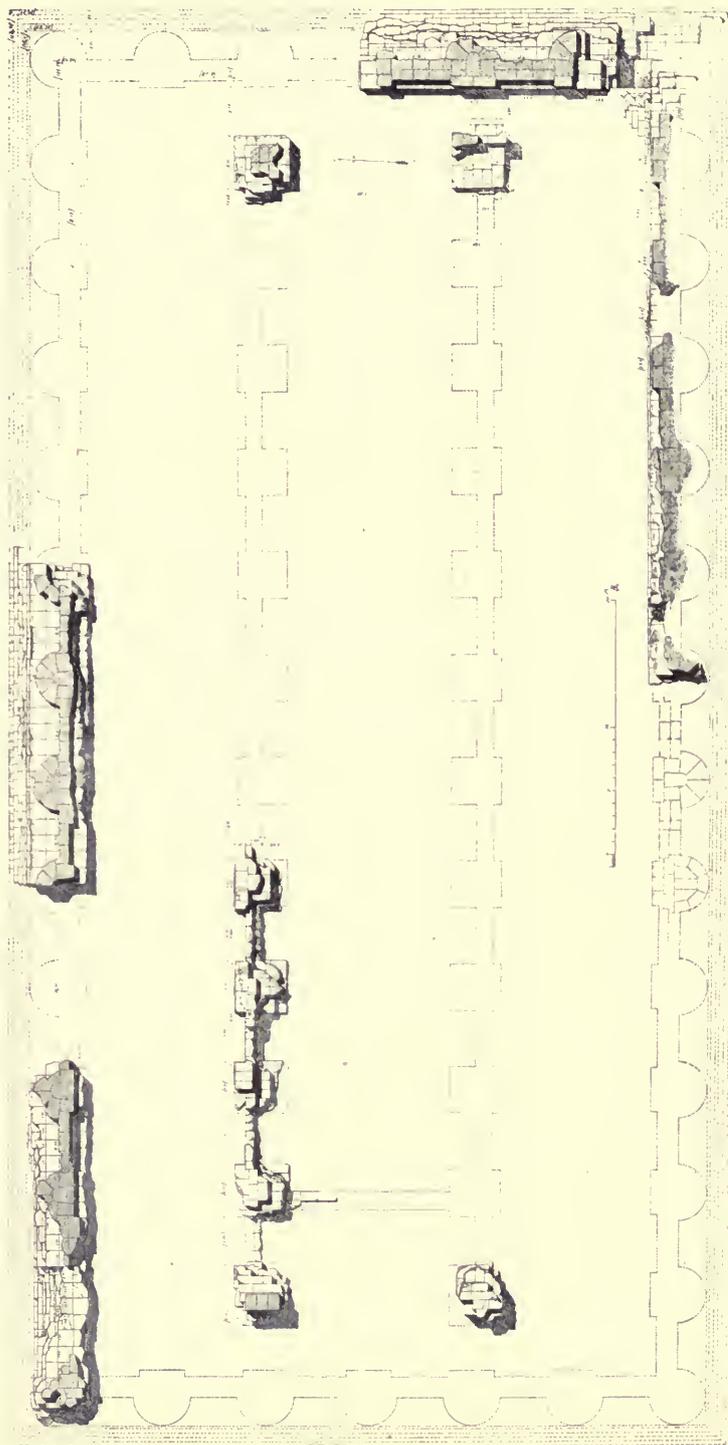

Fig. 825.

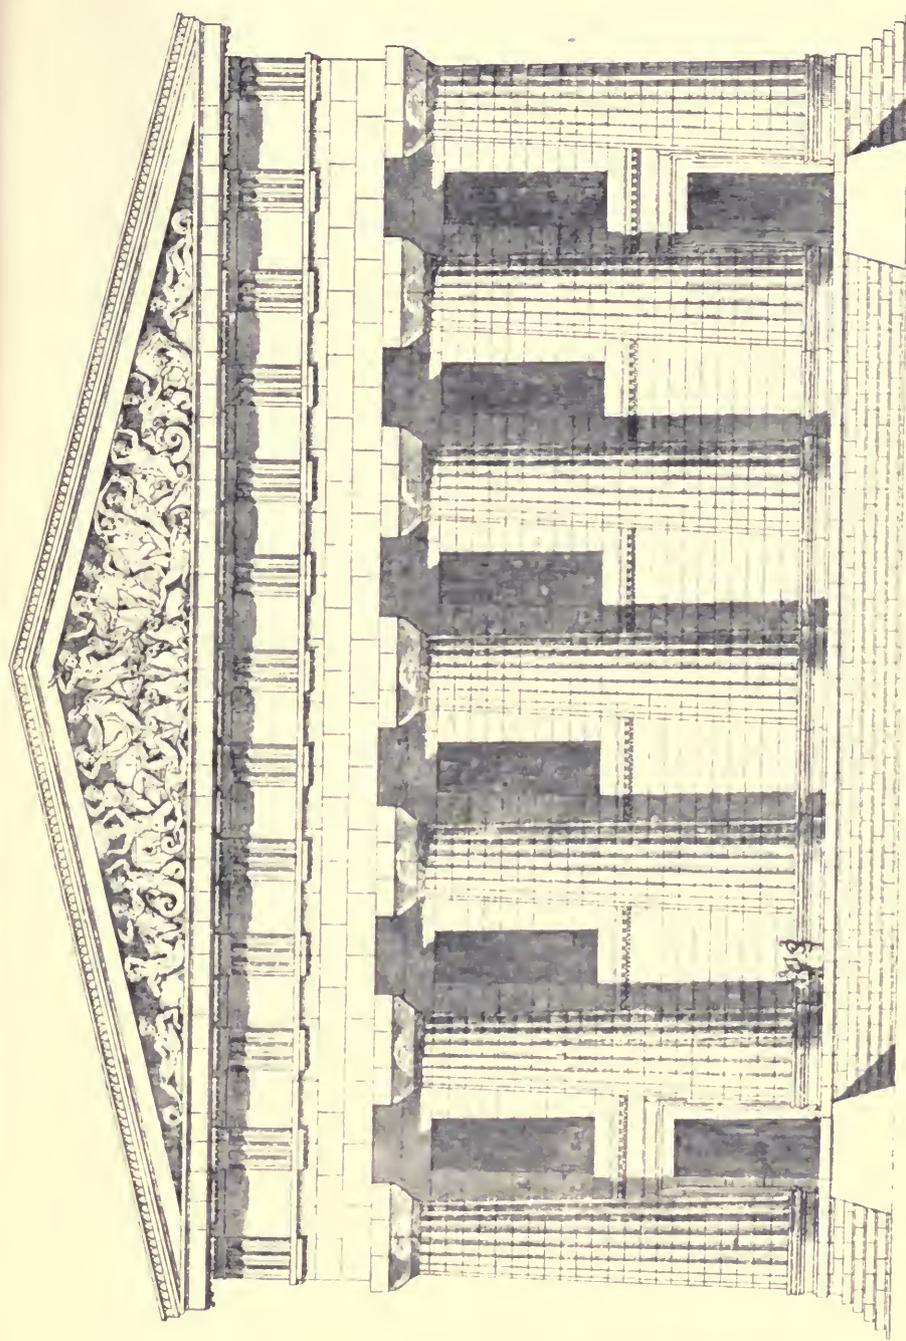

Fig. 826.

Inside, the nabs (101.16^m × 44.01^m) is divided into a nave and two side-aisles by means of two parallel walls, each of which has twelve square pillars engaged in it and forming a series of lateral niches. A cross-wall towards the western end is extant for part of its length. The great altar, as broad as the temple itself, was situated in front of the eastern façade at a distance of 50.8^m.

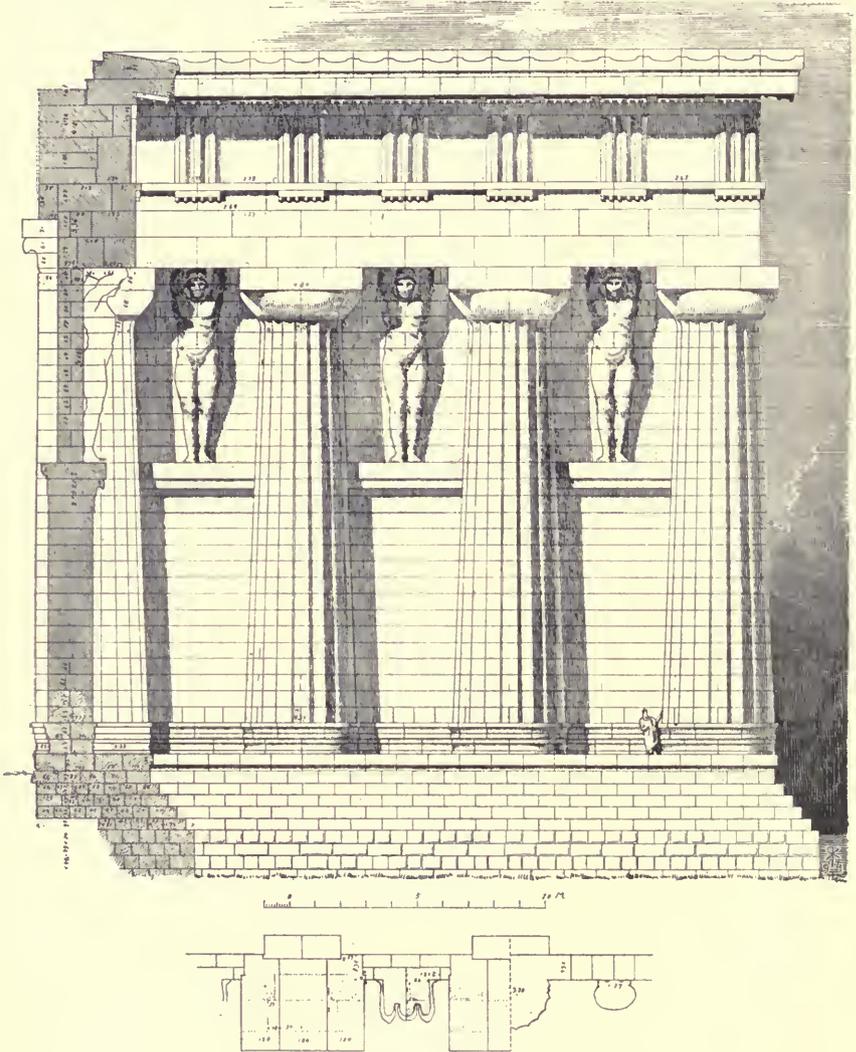

Fig. 827.

Several points are still unsettled. (1) The temple was in all probability entered at the eastern end through the two outermost intercolumniations (C. R. Cockerell, R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein), not at the western end through a large central doorway (Serradifalco, A. Holm). But it is not clear whether we should assume the existence of two ramps leading up to the side-entries (C. R. Cockerell). (2) The two walls dividing the nabs into nave and aisles were either prolonged to meet the western wall of the temple, in which case the cross-wall marked the beginning of an inner sanctuary or dáyton (R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein), or stopped before reaching the western wall, in which case the cross-wall marked the beginning of an opisthódomos (C. R. Cockerell, Serradifalco, J. Durm, G. Perrot—C. Chipiez). (3) Many sections of huge Atlantes (7·68^m high) have been found in the temple, and one reconstructed Atlas now lies on his back within the building. But they are not mentioned by Diodoros, and their original position has been much debated. C. R. Cockerell (1830) supposed that they stood above the pillars of the nave, supporting on their upturned arms an entablature intended to carry the transverse beams of the roof. Serradifalco (1836) was inclined to place them against the pillars of the nave, but at a lower level. J. Durm (1892), G. Perrot—C. Chipiez (1898), and A. Choisy (1898) reverted to the position advocated by Cockerell. But R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein (1899), observing that the southern wall of the temple had fallen outwards and that its ruins included several blocks belonging to Atlantes, proposed a fresh reconstruction according to which these gigantic figures were placed high up in the external intercolumniations, each standing on a cornice and supporting the architrave above his head. J. Durm (1910) finally accepted Puchstein's restoration in preference to his own. (4) Koldewey and Puchstein speak of Atlantes and Caryatids. The existence of the latter is inferred, partly from the survival of a single apparently female head (Serradifalco op. cit. iii pl. 25, 2), partly from the fact that the arms of Girgenti figure one female standing between two male Giants—Fama between Enceladus and Caesus (Serradifalco op. cit. iii. 3 fig.).

The Olympieion at Syracuse.

See page 915 n. 2.

Akrai¹.Syracuse².

See further C. R. Cockerell in J. Stuart—N. Revett Antiquities of Athens and other places in Greece Sicily etc. London 1830 iv. 1—10 with frontispiece, vignette, and pls. 1—8 (my fig. 826 is from part of pl. 2), Serradifalco op. cit. iii. 52—69 with pls. 20—27, Durm *Bankunst d. Gr.*³ p. 210 f. figs. 138—140 and Index p. 368, *ib.*³ pp. 104 fig. 72, 141 fig. 112, 401—406 figs. 369—372, 428 with fig. 389, Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art vii. 400 f. pl. 18 and Index p. 673, R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 153—166 with figs. 134—144 (my fig. 827 is from their fig. 143), ii pls. 22 and 23, B. Pace 'Il tempio di Giove Olimpico in Agrigento' in the Mon. d. Linc. 1922 xxviii ('in corso di stampa').

¹ Zeus Ἀκραιός (supra p. 873 n. o no. (11)).

² On a hill (60 ft. high) half-surrounded by the Fiume Ciani and overlooking the Porto Grande of Syracuse stand two weather-worn columns on a broken stylobate—all that today remains of the once famous temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος. This was a Doric peripteral structure of coarse shell-limestone. It had six columns at either end and seventeen down either side, being about three times as long as it was broad. The columns were short and thick: one, without a capital, measures c. 6·50^m in height and c. 1·85^m in diameter. They were monolithic and had no éntasis. The flutes were sixteen in number; and round the foot ran a small unfluted band, a feature possibly derived from the circular stone base of a timber prototype. Cornice and gutter were embellished with a revetment of painted terra cotta. The roofing was of large flat tiles and round cover-tiles. In short, the building shows every sign of archaism and must be dated c. 600 B.C. It is thus one of the earliest of all Greek temples and quite the oldest surviving temple of Zeus.

It has been supposed that the cult at Syracuse was descended from the cult at Olympia (R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein Die griechischen Tempel in Unteritalien und Sicilien Berlin 1899 i. 59). But this is far from clear. No doubt the rulers of Syracuse made repeated dedications in the Olympian Ἄλτις (Paus. 6. 12. 1 ff., 6. 19. 7, Olympia v. 363 ff. no. 249, 675 f. no. 661). But is it likely that the filial cult dignified the god with a stone-built temple more than a century before the parent followed suit? I would rather assume (with E. Ciaceri Culti e miti nella storia dell' antica Sicilia Catania 1911 p. 138) that the Syracusans brought the cult from their metrópolis Corinth. For just outside Corinth, on the left of the road leading to Sikyon, Pausanias noted a temple which had been burnt down. Some said that it belonged to Apollon and had been fired by Pyrrhos son of Achilles; others, that it was the temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος and had been accidentally burnt (Paus. 2. 5. 5)—an ominous occurrence which deterred the Corinthians from joining the expedition of Agesilaos against Artaxerxes Mnemon in 396 B.C. (Paus. 3. 9. 2). Of the burnt temple, if I am not mistaken, sundry fragments still subsist. An archaic column-drum and architrave-block of limestone, built into the wall of a late edifice some 500^m to the north of the 'Old Temple,' are attributed by W. Dörpfeld to an ancient Doric fane of even larger size. They resemble in dimensions (cp. W. M. Leake Travels in the Morea London 1830 iii. 247 f.) the corresponding members of the temple of Zeus at Olympia. Dörpfeld suggested that they came from the temple of Apollon mentioned by Paus. 2. 3. 6 (W. Dörpfeld in the Ath. Mitth. 1886 xi. 307 f.). But, thanks to the excavations of the American School, we now know that this temple of Apollon is none other than the extant 'Old Temple' (R. B. Richardson in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1897 i. 464, 1900 iv. 225 f., B. Powell 'The Temple of Apollo at Corinth' ib. 1905 ix. 51, 53). Accordingly I should conjecture that the archaic drum and architrave really came from the temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος on the left of the Sicyonian road, and that this was in fact the parent of the Syracusan Olympieion. Further excavation will some day test the accuracy of my surmise.

Whatever its precise pedigree, the Syracusan sanctuary was held in high esteem. Here were preserved the tribal lists of Syracuse (Plout. v. Nic. 14), and in the formula of the civic oath Zeus Ὀλύμπιος took precedence of all other deities except the venerable goddess of hearth and home (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 7 ii, 6 ff. in lettering later than the time of Hieron ii ὄρκιον βουλᾶς κα[ὶ ἀρχόντων (?)] | καὶ τῶν ἄλλων [πολιτᾶν] | ὁμνύω τὰν Ἰστίαν τῶ[ν] Συρακοσίων καὶ τὸν Ζῆνα | τὸν Ὀλύμπιον καὶ τὰν [. καὶ τὸν] | Ποσειδῶνα --]). Moreover, for some three hundred years the ἀμφίπολος or priest of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος was eponymous magistrate of the city (Diod. 16. 70 κατέστησε δὲ (sc. Timoleon in 343 B.C.) καὶ τὴν κατ' ἐνιαυτὸν ἐντιμοτάτην ἀρχήν, ἣν ἀμφίπολιαν Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου οἱ Συρακοῦσιοι καλοῦσι. καὶ ἤρθε πρῶτος ἀμφίπολος Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου Καλλιμένης, καὶ τὸ λοιπὸν διετέλεσαν οἱ Συρακοῦσιοι τοὺς ἐνιαυτοὺς ἐπιγράφοντες τοῖτους τοῖς ἄρχουσι μέχρι τῶνδε τῶν ιστοριῶν γραφομένων καὶ τῆς κατὰ τὴν πολιτείαν ἀλλαγῆς. τῶν γὰρ Ῥωμαίων μεταδόντων τοῖς Σικελιώταις τῆς πολιτείας (sc. in 44 B.C.) ἢ τῶν ἀμφιπόλων ἀρχὴ ἐταπεινώθη, διαμείνασα ἔτη πλείω τῶν τριακοσίων). Every year three candidates, chosen by vote from three clans (ex tribus generibus, on which see E. Ciaceri op. cit. p. 136 n. 1), cast lots for the office of priest—a rule of succession which was jealously guarded (Cic. in Verr. 2. 2. 126 f., cp. 2. 4. 137).

Round the temple grew up a settlement known as Πολίχνα or 'Small Town' (Thouk. 7. 4, Diod. 13. 7, 14. 72), which, never permanently fortified by the Syracusans, was frequently occupied by forces attacking their city.

Hippokrates tyrant of Gela, after vanquishing the Syracusans in the battle on the Heloros (493/2 B.C.), encamped in the sanctuary of Zeus. Having caught the priest and certain Syracusans trying to carry off various votive offerings of gold and in particular the golden himdtion of Zeus, he taxed them with sacrilege, bade them depart to the city, and would not himself lay hands on the sacred objects (Diod. 10. 28). Others, however, state that the golden himdtion, which weighed no less than 85 talents (Ail. var. hist. 1. 20), was dedicated by Gelon or Hieron after the battle of Himera in 480 B.C. and carried off by Dionysios i (405—367 B.C.), who left a woollen one in its stead with the caustic remark that in summer it would be lighter and in winter warmer wear (Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 83 (where ad Peloponnesum etc. is due to an obvious confusion), Val. Max. 1. 1. ext. 3, Lact. div. inst. 2. 4). The jest is attributed sometimes to Dionysios ii (367—343 B.C.) (Clem. Al. protr. 4. 52. 2 p. 40, 18 ff. Stählin, Arnob. adv. nat. 6. 21). If these tales are to be trusted, it would seem that Zeus Ὀλύμπιος at Syracuse had a golden himdtion long before 438 B.C., the year in which Pheidias began his chryselephantine Zeus at Olympia (supra p. 757).

The Athenians, when attacking Syracuse in 415 B.C., landed near the Olympieion and encamped there (Thouk. 6. 64 f.). After the fight the Syracusans, though defeated, sent men to guard the Olympieion, lest its treasures should be plundered by the Athenians (Thouk. 6. 70). But the Athenians returned to Katane, and did not go to the sanctuary Tyndaris¹.

(Thouk. 6. 71), or, if they did, disturbed none of the votive offerings and left the Syracusan priest in charge of them (Paus. 10. 28. 6). That same winter the Syracusans put a garrison in the Olympieion and erected a stockade on the sea-shore to prevent a possible landing (Thouk. 6. 75). In the following year (414 B.C.) a third part of the Syracusan cavalry was posted at Polichna to control the movements of the Athenians at Plemmyrion (Thouk. 7. 4).

Again, in 396 B.C. Himilkon, on his expedition against Dionysios i, took up his quarters in the temple and encamped his forces near by, at a distance of twelve stades from the city (Diod. 14. 62 f.). But Dionysios captured Polichna by storm and in turn pitched his camp at the sanctuary (Diod. 14. 72 and 74).

In 345 B.C. Hiketas tyrant of Leontinoi, in the course of his operations against Dionysios ii, fortified the Olympion with a palisade (Diod. 16. 68).

In 309 B.C. Hamilkar son of Geskon, again with a view to attacking Syracuse, seized τούς περί τὸ Ὀλύμπιον τόπους (Diod. 20. 29).

In 214 B.C. the Romans, who under M. Claudius Marcellus were then besieging Syracuse, likewise encamped ad Olympium—Iovis id templum est—mille et quingentos passus ab urbe (Liv. 24. 33).

The Olympieion was, in fact, a constant centre of military activity. Hence, when we read that Verres at Syracuse carried off ex aede Iovis religiosissimum simulacrum Iovis Imperatoris, quem Graeci Ὀθριον nominant, pulcherrime factum (Cic. in Verr. 2. 4. 128, supra p. 708), I am inclined to think that the masterpiece in question was a votive figure in the temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος, whose position enabled him to control winds and wars alike, rather than a cult-statue erected in some hypothetical temple believed to have stood near the shore adjoining the empōrion of Achradine (R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 57).

See further T. Fazellus de rebus Siculis Panormi 1558 p. 107 (dec. i lib. 4 cap. 1 'Templum hoc prostratum est hodie. Cuius iacentes plures, & erectæ quædam cernuntur columnæ, sed præterea nihil'), V. Mirabella Dichiarazioni della pianta dell' antiche Siracuse, etc. Napoli 1613 p. 72 f. ('Di questo Tempio appariscono oggi nō picciole reliquie, sendovi anco in piede molte colonne scannellate di lavor dorico'), P. Cluverius Sicilia antiqua; etc. Lugduni Batavorum 1619 p. 179 ('Exstant hodièq; eius fani...VII reliquæ columnæ prægrandes, cum aliis quadratorum saxorum fragmentis'), J. Houel Voyage pittoresque des isles de Sicile, de Malte et de Lipari 1785 iii. 95 f. pl. 192 (view of remains visible in 1770: 'Il y avoit alors plusieurs colonnes renversées par terre, avec les chapiteaux: deux seules colonnes étoient encore debout; mais elles n'avoient plus de chapiteaux'), Serradifalco op. cit. iv. 153 f. pls. 28 (view) and 29 (plan, elevation), F. S. Cavallari—A. Holm Topografia archeologica di Siracusa Palermo 1883 pp. 24, 53 f., 104, 166 ff., 263 f., 283, 327, 379 f., R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 58—60, 66—68, ii pl. 8 (careful ground-plan), P. Orsi 'L'Olympieion di Siracusa' in the Mon. d. Linc. 1903 xiii. 369—392 with figs. 1—6 and pl. 17 (= my pl. xli), E. Ciaceri op. cit. p. 136 ff.

Another handsome temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος was founded by Hieron ii in the Agorà of Achradine (Diod. 16. 83, Cic. in Verr. 2. 4. 119). The Gallic and Illyrian spoils presented to Hieron by the people of Rome (Plout. v. Marc. 8) were hung in this temple, but were commandeered by the insurgents under Theodotos and Sosis in 214 B.C. (Liv. 24. 21). The central kerkis of the Syracusan theatre bears the name of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 3, 5 ΔΙΟΣΟΛΥΜΠΙΟΥ 'litteris cubitalibus,' cp. M. Bieber Die Denkmäler zum Theaterwesen im Altertum Berlin—Leipzig 1920 pp. 49 f., 86, 181) in allusion to the god of Hieron's new temple (F. S. Cavallari—A. Holm op. cit. p. 287, R. Koldewey—O. Puchstein op. cit. i. 57).

¹ Coppers of Tyndaris struck c. 254—210 B.C. or later have sometimes obv. a female head (Tyndaris) with stephane or corn-ear (?) and veil, rev. ΤΥΝΔΑΡΙΤΑΝ Zeus, half-draped, standing to left, with a thunderbolt in his outstretched right hand and a transverse sceptre in his left (F. von Duhn in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1876 iii. 30 no. 7, cp.

Naxos

Mount Drios¹.

Paros

Mount *Kounádos*².

Delos

Mount Kynthos³.

Rasche Lex. Num. x. 527); or obv. head of Zeus, laureate, to right, rev. ΤΥΝΔΑΡΙΤΑΝ the Dioskouroi standing with, or without, their horses (F. von Duhn loc. cit. p. 30 no. 10, p. 30 f. no. 11, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 236 nos. 9 and 10); or obv. head of Zeus, laureate, to right, with star of eight rays behind it, rev. ΤΥΝΔΑΡΙΤΑΝ eagle to right, standing with open wings on a thunderbolt (F. von Duhn loc. cit. p. 31 no. 12, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 236 no. 11). See further Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 33 f., G. F. Hill Coins of Ancient Sicily London 1903 p. 201 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 190. These coins imply the cult, not only of Tyndaris (Helene) and the Tyndaridai (Kastor and Polydeukes), but also of Zeus to whom the children of Tyndareos were early affiliated (supra i. 279 f., 780).

Among the ruins of Tyndaris (for which see Serradifalco op. cit. v. 48 ff. pls. 29—35) was found a colossal statue of Zeus, finely carved in Greek marble. It is now in the Cortile Grande of the Museo Nazionale at Palermo. The head, right arm, left leg, and lower part of right leg were restored by the local sculptor Villareale. But enough of the original remains to show that Zeus stood erect, his right arm raised to hold a long spear or sceptre, his left wholly enveloped in the himátion that covered him from the waist downwards. W. Abeken 'Giove Imperatore ossia Urío' in the Ann. d. Inst. 1839 xi. 62—72 pl. A, 1—3 justly compared the figures of Zeus Στρατηγός on a coin of Amastris (supra p. 707 fig. 639) and of Zeus Οὔριος on a coin of Syracuse (supra p. 708 fig. 643)—a comparison accepted by Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 130—132 no. 25 fig. 12, who ranges the statue from Tyndaris with another colossal statue in the Louvre (Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. iii. 42 pl. 311 fig. 683) as forming the first group of his 'Vierte Classe.' Probably the inhabitants of Tyndaris had dedicated to Zeus a copy of the Syracusan masterpiece carried off by Verres (supra pp. 708, 917 n. o).

The temple of the god is said to have stood on a steep height to the west of the town, which in 1558 A.D. was still known as the Mount of Jove (T. Fazellus de rebus Siculis Panormi 1558 p. 205 (dec. 1 lib. 9 cap. 7) 'Extra vrbem occidentem versus, in colle vicino, & vndiq; præciso, qui ab accolis adhuc hodie mons Iouis appellatur, templi Iouis mirabiles cernuntur ruinae').

¹ Zeus Μηλώσιος (supra i. 164 f., 520 n. 2). F. Solmsen in Glotta 1909 i. 80 connects Zeus Μηλώσιος with *μηλώτης, cp. Hesych. s.vv. μηλατάν· τὸν ποιμένα. Βοιωτοὶ and μηλόται· ποιμένες (on which glosses see M. Schmidt ad locc.). Different is Zeus Μηλιος on an imperial copper of Nikaia in Bithynia (P. Piovene I Cesari in metallo mezzano e piccolo raccolti nel Museo Farnese Parma 1724 ix. 238 pl. 8, 21, Mionnet Descr. de méd. ant. Suppl. v. 84 no. 427 (in the Farnese collection) obv. ΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ head of Domitian, laureate, with countermark of an animal running; rev. ΖΕΥΣ ΜΗΛΙΟΣ Zeus seated, holding thunderbolt and sceptre, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 406 n. 2). O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1203 cp. Zeus Ἄρπειος (Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 264 Ἐπίθετα Διός no. (1) ἄρπειου, 266 Ἐπίθετα Διός no. (15) ἄρπειου).

² Supra p. 875 n. 1 no. (5).

³ Mt Kynthos in the centre of Delos is a granitic cone, which rises to a height of 112·60^m (Delos i pl. 1. View from the west ib. iv. 1 fig. 1). Strab. 485 describes it as ὄρος ὑψηλὸν...καὶ τραχύ, where G. Kramer alters ὑψηλόν, 'high,' into ψιλόν, 'bare.' It is true that the granite and gneiss, of which the mountain is composed (geological detail in Delos iv. 1), do not afford the earth required by tree-roots. But, for all that, ὑψηλόν is correct: Kynthos, partly because of its dominating position, partly because of its proximity to the sea, looks more of a mountain than it really is (Délos iv. 1. 196 f.). On the summit is a small plateau, which commands a magnificent view of the Kyklades. When I visited the spot in 1901, it was carpeted with crimson anemones and surrounded by stretches of azure sea.

Here in antiquity was the precinct of Zeus Kynthios and Athena Kynthia (L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 2473) first excavated by Lebègue in 1873 (J. A. Lebègue Recherches sur Délos Paris 1876 pp. 127—172 with plan on p. 127 (= my fig. 828) and list of inscriptions from the sanctuary). Three separate roads (A, B, C), probably processional paths bordered with stélai and statues, led up to the western side of the precinct, where was a gateway (E). Within was a rocky elevation (F) with cuttings for votive slabs etc. (G). The plateau was enclosed by a precinct-wall (I), much of which remains standing on the north, west, and east. At its south-eastern corner was a small temple (S) of late date.

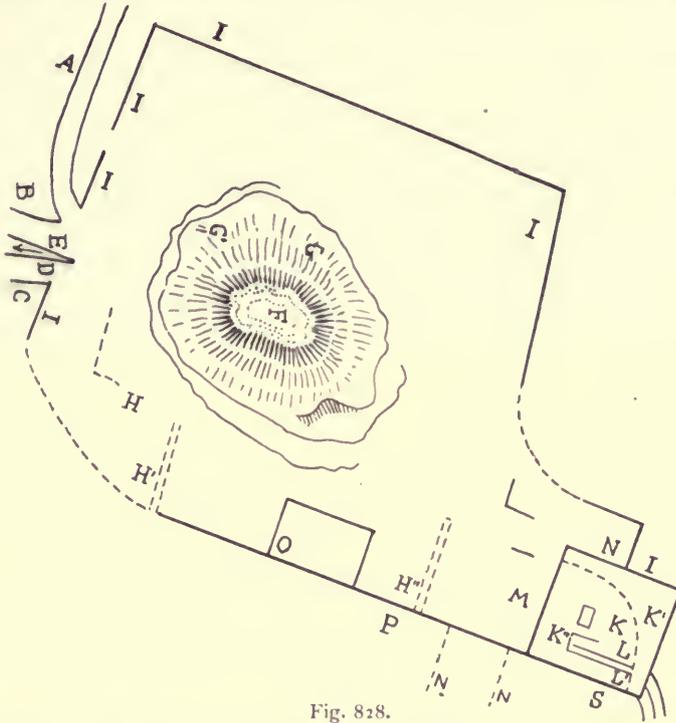

Fig. 828.

The fragments found point to a distyle templum in antis of Ionic or composite order with unfluted columns (0.42^m in diameter). At a height of 2^m above the ruins of this temple there was a sacred cistern, into which the water from the roof drained by means of a double conduit (L, L'). The cistern had a mosaic flooring, of which the greater part (K) survives, though a strip to the east (K') has been destroyed by the collapse of the terrace-wall. The mosaic consists of small white stones and fragments of brick set in cement. An inscription in bluish tesserae on a white ground with an oblong framework of bluish stones (K'') records the dedication of the cistern in Roman times (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 139 ff. no. 1 Διὶ Κυνθίῳ καὶ Ἀθηνᾷ Κυνθία | Ἀπολλωνίδης Θεογείτονος | Λαοδικεύς, ὑπὲρ ἑαυτοῦ καὶ | τῶν ἑταίρων, τὸ κατάκλιςτον ('cistern'), ἐπὶ ἱερέως Ἀριστομάχου, | ζακορέοντος Νικηφόρου (after 88/7 B.C.), | ἐπὶ δὲ ἐπιμελητοῦ Κοῦντου Ἀζηνιεύς). My fig. 829 is from photograph no. 1302 in the collection of the Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies). Adjoining the cistern was a platform (N), where ashes and fragments of bone, the débris of sacrifices, were buried. South of the rocky summit was an enclosure (O) walled in on the north by blocks of schist, on the other sides by architectural fragments, stélai, and broken statues. It contained some thirty urns filled with ashes and animal bones. The urns measured 0·60^m to 0·70^m in height, having rounded handles and a foot, not a pointed base. Miscellaneous finds included a small terra-cotta palmette from the pediment of an aedicula, a colossal hand in Pentelic marble apparently holding a thunderbolt (Zeus Kύρθιος?), a small head in Parian marble (Apollon?), the lower half of a sun-dial, several altars large and small (two decorated with bucrania and inscriptions were found at some distance from the temple: J. A. Lebègue op. cit. pp. 137, 166 f. nos. 21, 22), etc.

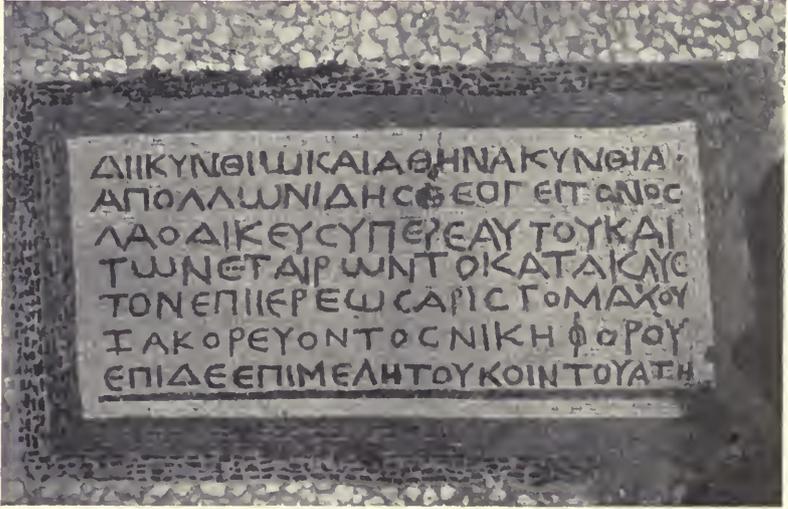

Fig. 829.

The history of the sanctuary has been well worked out from inscriptions by P. Roussel Délos Colonie athénienne Paris 1916 pp. 223—228, 290 f., 335, 434 f., whose results are here summarised (with a few additions in square brackets).

Zeus and Athena, though their association on akropolis etc. is old (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1217 f.), were not the original occupants of the summit. [In 'Minoan' times it was probably tenanted by the sky-father (Kronos) and the earth-mother (Rhea), the cave-temple beneath it (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 49 ff. pls. 1, 2) being a Delian parallel to the sacred caves of Mt Dikte and Mt Ide. The cult of Kronos, however, has left no trace, unless we can claim as such a broken sherd bearing the letters KPO, which was found buried in charcoal under a limestone slab outside the south-west angle of the cave-temple (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 65 f.). Rhea presumably had lions; and in this connexion it should be noted, not only that the late marble statue of a youthful god (Apollon?) erected on the ancient granite libation-table (?) of the cave-temple had a tree-support covered with a lion-skin (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. pp. 60, 63 ff.), but also that a whole row of lions in Naxian marble, comparable with the lions of Branchidai (Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture i. 22 f. nos. 17 and 18: no. 17 has on its back a βουστροφηδών dedication to Apollon in lettering of early s. vi B.C. (Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 483, Roberts Gr. Epigr. i. 161 f. no. 133, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1206, Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 3a) and Thera (F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1899 xiv Arch. Anz. p. 183 f., id. Die Insel Thera Berlin 1904 iii. 28 figs. 16 and 17, 57 regards as a gift to Apollon the marble lion, bearing a mutilated inscription of s. vii B.C. (Inscr. Gr. ins. iii Suppl. no. 1380), which stood on a terrace overlooking the Agorá and was later copied by Artemidoros (infra), adorned a terrace west of the Linnæ Trochoicidés (P. Leroux in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1907 pp. 348—353, ib. 1908 plan opposite to p. 162). Apparently Rhea had, here as elsewhere (Clem. Al. protr. 4. 47. 4 p. 36, 6 ff. Stählin μηδ' [sc. ἀμφιβάλλετε] εἰ τὰ ἐν Πιπάρποις τῆς Λυκίας ἀγάλματα Διὸς καὶ Ἀπόλλωνος Φειδίας πάλιν ἐκείνους [τὰ ἀγάλματα] καθάπερ τοὺς λέοντας τοὺς σὺν αὐτοῖς ἀνακειμένους εἰργασται· εἰ δέ, ὡς φασὶ τυτες, Βρυάξιος ἢ τέχνη, οὐ διαφέρομαι· κ.τ.λ., Inscr. Gr. ins. iii Suppl. no. 1346 the rock-cut relief of a lion inscribed in s. iii B.C. (supra i. 117 n. 1) α' Ἀπόλλωνι | Στεφανηφόρωι, β' [τ]εῦξ[ε] λέοντα θεοῖς κεχαρισμένον Ἀρτεμίδωρος | ἐν σεμῶι τεμένει μνημόσυνον πόλεως. Cp. a statue of Apollon, seated on a tripod over a lion, now in the Villa Albani (S. Raffaei Ricerche sopra un Apolline della Villa Albani Roma 1821, Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. iii. 216 f. pl. 486 B fig. 937 A (wrongly numbered 737 A) = Reinach Rép. Stat. i. 249 no. 6, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Apollon p. 231 ff. no. 3 Atlas pl. 23, 30, Müller—Wieseler—Wernicke Ant. Denkm. ii. 3. 309 pl. 25, 14, W. Helbig *Führer durch die öffentlichen Sammlungen klassischer Altertümer in Rom*³ Leipzig 1913 ii. 409 f. no. 1848)), passed on her lions to Apollon.]

Τὸ ἱερὸν τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Κύνθου (e.g. Inscr. Gr. Deli ii no. 161, A 77 f.) or more briefly τὸ Κύνθιον (e.g. ib. ii no. 199, A 90) does not appear in the extant documents till the very end of s. iv B.C. (ib. ii no. 145, 1 f., no. 154, A 45 f.). Early in s. iii (c. 281—269 B.C.) the precinct was to a large extent reconstructed and thenceforward contained two small οἶκοι or 'sacred buildings' (F. Dürrbach in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1911 xxxv. 250), on a platform bounded by a strong retaining-wall (Inscr. Gr. Deli ii no. 165, 33), together with a ἐστιατόριον or 'banqueting-hall' (ib. ii no. 163, A 34, cp. T. Homolle in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1890 xiv. 507). The accounts of the ἱεροποιοὶ for s. iii and s. ii record various sums spent on repairs to these buildings (Inscr. Gr. Deli iii no. 440, A 84 f.), but no expenditure on the cult, which seems to have languished (but see ib. iii no. 372, B 10). According to an inventory of 157/6 B.C., one of the οἶκοι contained a cult-statuette of bronze, eighteen inches high, on a marble base, a bronze incense-burner for professional use, a kratér of Corinthian bronze, a marble mortar, twelve wooden couches with small tables beneath them, and sundry portraits and votive paintings (P. Roussel op. cit. p. 225 n. 3); the other οἶκος contained a second dozen of wooden couches with small draw-tables beneath them, an old bronze brazier with no bottom to it, two tridents, one of which lacked a tooth, and old iron tongs (id. ib. p. 225 n. 4). Despite this poverty, the priest of Zeus Κύνθιος and Athena Κυνθία held the third place in the Delian hierarchy (P. Roussel in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1908 xxxii. 438 f. no. 64, 11 f. and op. cit. p. 202).

Better times began in 166 B.C., when Delos became an Athenian colony (P. Roussel op. cit. p. 1 ff.). An inventory of 147/6 B.C. records a pair of bronze figures, about a foot in height, representing Zeus and Athena, a table of bronze, another of marble, a tripod, lamps, linen hangings, but no couches; also a gold ring on a ribbon, and a silver incense-burner (id. ib. pp. 225 nn. 7—9, 401). Other inscriptions, ranging from 158/7 to the middle of s. i B.C. or later, show that the personnel of the cult consisted in a τερεύς, a ζακρός, and a κλειδοῦχος (lists in P. Roussel op. cit. p. 226 [Note the preponderance of well-omened names]). Of these the τερεύς held office for a year. So, probably, did the κλειδοῦχος. But the ζακρός [Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 306 suggests that ζακρός is for δακρός* < δη-κρός*, cp. νεωκρός, σηκοκρός (κορέω, 'I sweep') and δάπεδον: ζάπεδον] could have his tenure prolonged.

So far the cult seems to have had no regular temple. But c. 120 B.C. Charmikos, a native of the Attic deme Kikynna, who was priest of Zeus Κύνθιος and Athena Κυνθία, dedicated a xánon (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 160 no. 14); and in all probability it was the same native of Kikynna who dedicated the náds to Zeus Κύνθιος (id. ib. p. 161 no. 15), i.e. the small Ionic or composite temple noted above. This attracted the attention, not only of Athenians (P. Roussel in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1908 xxxii. 422 f. no. 21, 429 no. 38), but of foreigners—witness a statue of Ptolemy x Soter ii here set up by Areios a notable of Alexandria (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 156 f. no. 11, Michel Revue d'Inscr. gr. no. 1162, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 171) and an altar presented by Philostratos a wealthy banker of Askalon (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 166 f. no. 21,

Imbros

Imbros¹.

Skiathos

Skiathos².

Lesbos

Mytilene³.

Chios

Mount Pelinnaion⁴.

Rhodes

Mount Atabyrion⁵.

P. Roussel op. cit. p. 227 n. 6). Orientals would naturally regard the mountain-top as one of their own high places. Hence Zeus Kynthos came to be associated with the Egyptian divinities (A. Hauvette-Besnault in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1882 vi. 328 f. no. 23 a small column (1^m high) inscribed Διὶ Κυνθίωι, | Σαράπιδι, | Ἴσιδι, | κατὰ πρόσταγμα, | Νεοπτόλεμος | Φιλωνίδου. | ἐπὶ ἱερέως Δικαίου | τοῦ Δικαίου Ἴωνίδου, | κλειδουχοῦντος | Ἐδκράτου Διονυσίου τοῦ Σεύθου, | ζακορεύοντος | Ἀπολλωνίου | τοῦ Δικαίου), and his priest figures among the worshippers of the Syrian Aphrodite Ἀγνή (P. Roussel op. cit. pp. 227 n. 8, 266 f., 416 ff. no. 21, A col. i, 28). The sanctuary on Mt Kynthos, seemingly untouched by the catastrophe of 88 B.C. (Strab. 486, Plout. v. Sull. 11, Appian. Mithr. 28, Paus. 3. 23. 3 f.), continued to receive gifts, now a cistern-mosaic (supra), now a table etc. (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 141 ff. no. 2, P. Roussel op. cit. p. 226 n. 14). Finally, about the middle of s. i B.C. a priest published on a marble stèle the rules of ceremonial purity to be observed by all visitors entering the precinct (J. A. Lebègue op. cit. p. 158 f. no. 12, J. v. Prott and L. Ziehen Leges Graecorum sacrae Lipsiae 1906 ii. 259 no. 91, P. Roussel in the Mélanges Holleaux Paris 1913 p. 276 f. no. 4 and op. cit. p. 228 n. 4. Lines 11 ff. run: ἰέναι εἰς τὸ λε[ρὸν τοῦ] Διὸς τοῦ Κυνθίου | [καὶ τῆς] Ἀθηναῖς τῆς Κυνθί[ας, χερ]σῶν καὶ ψυχῆ καθα[ρῶ, ἐ]χοντας ἐσθῆτα λευ[κῆν, ἀνυ]ποδέτους, ἀγνεύοντα[s] | [ἀπό γυν]αικὸς καὶ κρέως. | [μηδὲ] εἰσ[φ]έρε[ν] | κ.τ.λ.).

[The Delian cult had spread to Paros as early as s. vi B.C. O. Rubensohn in the Ath. Mitth. 1901 xxvi. 216 reported that on a hill-top (200^m high) called Vigla or Kastro in the north-west of that island, the nearest point from which the inhabitants of the town Paros could get a glimpse of Delos, he had discovered a sanctuary with votive inscriptions including an archaic stèle lettered ΑΘΗΝΑΙΗΚΥΝΘΙΩΝ (Inscr. Gr. ins. v. 1 no. 210, cp. ib. nos. 211, 214). This makes it certain that Athena's connexion with Mt Kynthion was centuries older than the Athenian protectorate. Not impossibly in Delos as at Athens Athena was the legitimate successor of the old 'Minoan' goddess.]

¹ Zeus Ἵψιστος (supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (8)).

² Zeus Ἵψιστος (supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (6)).

³ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 873 n. 0 no. (10)).

⁴ Mt Pelinnaion (Hagios Elias), the highest point (1260^m) of Chios (Strab. 645, Dionys. per. 535), derived its name from the leaden grey (πελινθός, πελιδνός) colour of its rock (L. Bürchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 2288, cp. 2290). On it was a cult of Zeus Πελινναῖος (Hesych. s.v. Πελινναῖος· ὁ Ζεὺς ἐν Χίῳ), whose Christian supersessor was Saint Elias (supra i. 177 ff.).

⁵ Mt Atabyrion (Atayros), the highest mountain in Rhodes, was crowned with a sanctuary of Zeus Ἀταβύριος (Pind. Ol. 7. 87 f. ἀλλ', ὦ Ζεῦ πάτερ, νότοισιν Ἀταβυρίου | μεδέω, κ.τ.λ. with schol. vet. ad loc. ἐπάνω γὰρ τοῦ ὄρους ἴδρυται ὁ Ζεὺς (Ἀταβύριον ὄρος ὑψηλότατον Ἔρδου οὗ ἄνωθεν ἴδρυται Ζεὺς cod. C.), Strab. 655 εἰθ' ὁ Ἀτάβυρις (τάβυρις cod. F.), ὄρος τῶν ἐνταῦθα ὑψηλότατον, ἱερὸν Διὸς Ἀταβυρίου, Lact. div. inst. 1. 22 cited supra p. 588 n. 1, Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἀτάβυρον· ὄρος Ἔρδου. Ῥιανὸς ἐκ τῶ Μεσσηνιακῶν (= Herodian. περὶ καθολικῆς προσφῶδας 13 (i. 387, 8 f. Lentz)). τὸ ἐθνικὸν Ἀταβύριος, ἐξ οὗ καὶ Ἀταβύριος Ζεὺς, id. s.v. Κρητηρία· τόπος Ἔρδου, ἐν ᾧ ἴκον αἱ περὶ Ἀλθαμείνην, ὅς χρησθεὶς ὅτι τὸν πατέρα ἀποκτενεῖ ἔφυγε, καὶ νυκτὶ πλοῖω συναντᾶ ἐν Ῥόδῳ, καὶ ὡς ληστὰς νομισσας ἀναρεῖ τὸν πατέρα. εἰσι δὲ ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ τὰ Ἀταβύρια ὄρη, ἀφ' ὧν Ζεὺς Ἀταβύριος).

The mountain, as modern travellers report, is a mass of schistose limestone, well wooded below and dotted with a few large evergreen oaks and pines above. The sanctuary of Zeus is situated on a rounded crest about a hundred paces south-east of the actual summit. Here at a point 4070 ft above the sea is a walled precinct 120 ft in length, and within it a pile of ruins lying 3 to 4 ft deep. Bluish blocks quarried on the mountain, the largest of them 5 ft long, prove the former existence of a Hellenic building on the site. But no columns have survived, and only a single architrave-block with a simple moulding. The Greek temple was long since reconstructed as a monastery. But this in turn fell into decay, and nowadays even the little chapel of Hagios Ioannes, which stands in the middle of the ruins, has lost its roof. North-east of the precinct, somewhat lower down, in a hollow are the remains of other ancient structures, including a large vaulted cistern. L. Ross, followed by C. Torr, thought that here may have been a temple of Athena; but the argument which he drew from Polyb. 9. 27. 7 (cited supra p. 910 n. 1) is insecure. See further W. J. Hamilton Researches in Asia Minor, Pontus, and Armenia London 1842 ii. 61 ff. (ascent from Embona Jan. 31, 1837), L. Ross Reisen auf den griechischen Inseln des ägäischen Meeres Stuttgart—Tübingen 1845 iii. 105 ff. (ascent from Embona Sept. 27, 1843), C. Torr Rhodes in Ancient Times Cambridge 1885 pp. 1, 75, H. F. Tozer The Islands of the Aegean Oxford 1890 p. 220 f.

The local myth is told most fully by Apollod. 3. 2. 1 f. Katreus, son of Minos, was fated to be killed by one of his own sons. Althaimenes, son of Katreus, to avoid killing his father, fled from Crete to Rhodes with his sister Apemosyne. He put in at a certain place which he named Krentenia (κρητηνίαν cod. R., followed by R. Hercher and R. Wagner. κρητιλίαν codd. plerique. C. G. Heyne cj. Κρητηνίαν, cp. Steph. Byz. loc. cit.). On climbing Mt Atabyrion he got a view of Crete, and, in memory of his ancestral deities, built there an altar of Zeus Ἀταβύριος. Soon afterwards Hermes fell in love with Apemosyne and, when he could not catch her (for she was fleet of foot), strewed freshly-flayed hides in the road. On these she slipped, and thus was violated by her pursuer. Althaimenes, hearing of her fall, believed the tale about Hermes to be a mere excuse and killed his sister by leaping upon her. Later, Katreus, anxious to leave his kingdom to Althaimenes, came to Rhodes and was mistaken for a pirate by the ox-herds, who chased and pelted him. Katreus told them the truth, but could not gain a hearing because the dogs were barking. So Althaimenes all unwittingly speared him. On learning what he had done he uttered a prayer, and in answer thereto was engulfed in a chasm. Diod. 5. 59, however, probably borrowing his account not from Zenon of Rhodes (frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 177 f. Müller)) but from a later source dependent on Polykalos etc. (Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1921 p. 380), says that Althaimenes wandered in the desert till he died of grief and was afterwards, in obedience to an oracle, honoured as a hero by the Rhodians.

This myth deserves analysis. There is in it, to begin with, a substratum of historic, or at least prehistoric, fact—the intimate relations between ‘Minoan’ Crete and Rhodes (H. van Gelder Geschichte der alten Rhodier Haag 1900 p. 30 ff., D. Mackenzie in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1905–1906 xii. 222, C. Blinkenberg in Hermes 1913 xlviii. 246 f., Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1921 p. 380): Minos himself was believed to have dedicated a silver cup to Athena Πολιάς and Zeus Πολιεύς at Lindos (C. Blinkenberg Die indische Tempelchronik Bonn 1915 p. 8 ff. B., 18 ff. Μίνως ἀργύρεον ποτήριον, ἐφ' οὗ ἐπεγέγραπτο ‘Μίνως Ἀθάναι Πολιάδι καὶ Διὶ Πολιεῖ,’ ὡς φασι | Ξεναγόρας ἐν ταῖς Ἀ τὰς χρονικὰς συντάξις, | Γόργων ἐν ταῖς Ἀ τὰν περὶ Ῥόδου, Γόργουστῆνης | ἐν ταῖς ἐπιστολαῖς, Ἰερόβουλος ἐν ταῖς ἐπιστολαῖς). There is also an element of folk-tale, the story of Katreus fated to be slain by his own son recalling the motif of Odysseus and Telegonos (A. C. Pearson The Fragments of Sophocles Cambridge 1917 ii. 105 ff.) or of Laios and Oidipous (C. Robert Oidipus Berlin 1915 i. 66 ff.). Lastly there are definite points of aetiology. Apemosyne, a woman of the royal house, who flees at full speed, falls on the fresh hides, and is then brutally dispatched by her kinsman, presupposes—I think—a bygone custom or rite (? in the Rhodian month Agrianos) resembling that of the Minyan Oleiai and Psoloeis at the Agrionia of Orchomenos in Boiotia (Plout. quaestt. Gr. 38 with Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 163 f.). Her name implies that ‘freedom from trouble’ was thought to depend on her sacrifice. And the statement that she slipped on freshly-flayed hides suggests that the human victim was wrapped in the skin of the sacred animal (supra i. 67 n. 3, cp. Journ. Hell. Stud. 1894 xiv. 155 ff.).

Small bronze bulls, which probably served as offerings to Zeus, are sometimes found on Mt Atabyrion (supra i. 643 fig. 502). And we have already conjectured that Zeus had here inherited the bronze bulls of the Hittite Tešub (supra i. 642 f., ii. 910 n. 1). The common tradition was that certain bronze kine on Mt Atabyrion bellowed when any evil was about to befall Rhodes (schol. vet. Pind. Ol. 7. 159 f. εἰσι δὲ χαλκαὶ βόες ἐν αὐτῷ, αἷτινες ὅταν μέλλη ἄτοπν τι γενέσθαι, μυκῶνται, 160 c εἰσι δὲ καὶ βόες χαλκοὶ ἐπὶ τῷ ὄρει τῆς Ῥόδου, οἱ ὅταν μέλλη τι τῆ πόλει γίνεσθαι κακὸν μυκῶνται, Tzetz. chil. 4. 390—393 (= 4. 704—706) Ῥόδιόν ἐστιν ὄρος, | τὴν κλήσιν Ῥαθύριον, χαλκᾶς πρὶν ἔχον βόας, | αὐτὸν μνηστῆρ ἔξεπεμπον χωρούσης Ῥόδω βλάβης. | Πινδαρος (? Ol. 7. 87 f.) καὶ Καλλιμαχος (frag. 413 Schneider) γράφει τὴν ἱστορίαν). But one authority spoke of a single bull, that of Zeus, as uttering a human voice (Isigonos of Nikaia frag. 4 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 435) ap. Kyrill. Al. c. Julian. 3 p. 88 c Aubert (lxxvi. 636 A Migne) καὶ μὴν καὶ Ἰσιγονος ὁ Κιτιεὺς (C. Müller cj. ὁ Νικαιεὺς) ἐν Ῥόδῳ τῆ νήσῳ τὸν τοῦ Διὸς ταῦρὸν φησιν οὐκ ἀμοιρῆσαι λόγου τοῦ καθ’ ἡμᾶς). Both versions bear a sinister resemblance to the accounts of the bronze bull made by Perillos for Phalaris at Akragas (supra i. 643 f., ii. 910 n. 1) and may likewise be taken to cover a reminiscence of human sacrifice. If the early Cretans tolerated, for ritual purposes, the enclosing of their queen in a wooden cow (supra i. 523), the early Rhodians would hardly shrink from burning a pharmakós in a bronze bull. Sir J. G. Frazer Apollodorus London 1921 i. 307 concludes: ‘Atabyrian Zeus would seem to have been worshipped in the form of a bull.’ That may have been so, no doubt, in the remote past. But in classical times he was almost certainly anthropomorphic. Rhodian coppers of c. 304–189 B.C. or later have obv. head of Zeus, wearing bay-wreath, to right; rev. PO rose, often surmounted by radiate solar disk (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Caria, etc. p. 250 pl. 39, 15 and 16, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 441 no. 38, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 640. I have two specimens of the sort in my collection): the head is presumably that of Zeus Ῥαθύριος. Cp. also supra i. 132.

It was not, of course, to be expected that in busy Hellenistic times the good folk of Rhodes would toil up a steep mountain 4000 ft high in order to pay their respects to Zeus. Accordingly we find a chapel of ease built on a more manageable hill adjoining the city-wall (Appian. Mithr. 26 αὐτομόλων δ’ αὐτῷ (sc. Mithridates vi Eupator, in 88 B.C.) λόφον ὑποδεξάντων ἐπιβατόν, ἧ Ῥαθύριου Διὸς ἱερὸν ἦν, καὶ κολοβὸν τεῖχρον ἐπ’ αὐτοῦ, τὴν στρατιᾶν ἐς τὰς ναῦς νυκτὸς ἐπέβησε, καὶ ἐτέροις ἀναδοῦς κλιμακας ἐκέλευσε χωρεῖν ἐκατέρους μετὰ σιωπῆς μέχρι τινὲς αὐτοῖς πυρσεύσειαν ἐκ τοῦ Ῥαθύριου κ.τ.λ.). A relic of this urban cult is a block of bluish marble formerly ‘built into the wall of a field to the south-west of St. Stephen’s Hill, near Rhodes’ and now in the British Museum (Sir C. T. Newton in The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum Oxford 1883 ii. 121 no. 346 = Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 31 [δόγματι τοῦ κοινοῦ] | [τῶν Διοσαταβυρί]αστᾶν τῶν τᾶς πόλ[ι]ος δούλων, Εὐλί[μ]ενος γραμματεὺς | [δα]μόσιος ἱερατεῖ[σας] Διὸς Ῥαθύριου | [ὑπὲρ τῶν κνῆρων Ῥο]δίων ἀν[έ]θηκε Διὶ Ῥα[ταβυρί]ου τού(σ) βοῦς | [χαριστήρι]ον Ψ. W. Dittenberger De sacris Rhodiorum commentatio ii Halis Saxonum 1887 p. viii f. restored the opening lines as above, and proposed for the closing lines [ἀν]έθηκε Διὶ Ῥα[ταβυρί]ου τοῦ βουσι[τ]ράθμου τὸ τεῖχ[ρον], which is ingenious but less probable). Hence we learn that Eulimenes, a state slave who had been priest of Zeus Ῥαθύριος, dedicated to the god on behalf of the citizens the customary kine, i.e. small votive bulls of bronze. He describes himself as commissioned to do so by the public servants, who composed an association of Διοσαταβυριασταί.

Of such associations or religious circles there were at least two in the island. One, in

Crete

Mount Aigaion¹.

the town of Rhodes, founded by a certain Philon, was devoted to Zeus 'Αταβύριος and to the Agathos Daimon (infra Append. M) in common (Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 161, 5 f. = H. van Gelder in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 478 f. no. 3842, 5 f. ('In oppido hodierno, prope hospitium equitum D. Ioannis in basi oblonga marmoris caerulei') και ὑπὸ [Διοσ]αταβυριαστᾶν Ἀγαθοδαίμονιαστᾶν Φιλ(ω)νέλων κοινού | θαλλῶι στεφάνωι). The other, at Lindos, established by a man named Euphranor and later headed by one Athenaios of Knidos, worshipped Dionysos, Athena, and Zeus Ἀταβύριος (Sir C. T. Newton loc. cit. ii. 135 f. no. 358, 2 ff., 12 ff. = Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 937, 2 ff., 12 ff. = H. van Gelder loc. cit. iii. 1. 568 f. no. 4239, 2 ff. ('Found at Mallona near Lindos in 1862... On a circular altar or pedestal of white marble, which has been hollowed out, probably to form a mortar with a hole at the bottom') [----τ]ε[ιμα]θέντα ὑπὸ | τοῦ κοινού τοῦ Διονυσιαστᾶν Ἀθαναϊστᾶν Διοσ[αταβυριαστᾶν Εὐφρανορίων τῶν σὺν Ἀθηναίω Κνιδίω | χρυσέω στεφάνω και ἀναγορεύσειεν ἰος τὸν αἰε χρόνον. | κ.τ.λ., 12 ff. και τᾶς γυναικὸς αὐτοῦ Ἀρέτης μὲν τειμαθέϊσας ὑπὸ τοῦ κοινού τοῦ Διονυσιαστᾶν Ἀθαν[αί]στᾶν Διοσαταβυριαστᾶν | Εὐφρανορίων τῶν σὺν Ἀθηναίω Κνιδίω και ἀν[α]θεϊσας τῶ κοινῶ (τῶ) | Ἀθανα[ίστᾶν ----τῶ]ν ἀναλωμάτων [---]). A mutilated inscription on a slab of blackish marble at Nettea (Apollakia) near Lindos, where it serves as a threshold in the church of Saint Georgios, contains ritual rules in lettering of s. ii B.C. and includes a reference to Zeus Ἀταβύριος (Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 891, 7 [.....]θ[ε]ϊστᾶν | χο[ρ]εύετα[ι και Δι]᾿ Ἀτα[β]υρίω[ι---]). See further F. Poland Geschichte des griechischen Vereinswesens Leipzig 1909 pp. 58 f., 181, 237.

The cult of the Rhodian Zeus even found its way to Skythia. At Kermenchik (Neapolis?) near Symphheropol three inscriptions have come to light recording dedications made c. s. i B.C. (?) by one Posideos to Zeus Ἀταβύριος (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2103b = B. Latyschev Inscriptiones antiquae Orae Septentrionalis Ponti Euxini Graecae et Latinae Petropoli 1885 i. 216 no. 242 on a base of grey marble now in the Museum at Odessa Δι᾿ Ἀταβυρίω Ποσιδέος Ποσιδέων | χαριστήριον), to Athena Λινδία (ib. i. 216 f. no. 243), and to Achilles 'Lord of the Island' (sc. Leuke) (ib. i. 217 no. 244). E. H. Minns Scythians and Greeks Cambridge 1913 pp. 463, 476, 479 treats Posideos, not as a Rhodian, but as an Olbiopolite living at Neapolis and trading with Rhodes. See also M. Rostovtzeff Iranians & Greeks in South Russia Oxford 1922 p. 163.

¹ Rhea, when about to bear her youngest son Zeus (Ζῆνα μέγαν, cp. supra p. 344 f.), was sent by her parents Ouranos and Gaia to Lyktos, and Gaia received the child to bring him up in Crete. So Rhea came by night first to Lyktos and hid the babe in a steep underground cave on the well-wooded Mt Aigaion (Hes. theog. 477 ff. πέμψαν δ' ἐς Λύκτον γρ. δι (= δίκτον) in marg. cod. E.), Κρήτης ἐς πλοια δῆμον. | ὀππότε' ἄρ' ὀπλότατον παιδῶν τέξεσθαι ἐμέλλε (so G. Kinkel for ἤμέλλε τεκέσθαι), | Ζῆνα μέγαν· τὸν μὲν οἱ ἐδέξατο Γαῖα πελώρη | Κρήτη ἐν εὐρείῃ τραφέμεν ἀτυαλλέμεναί τε. | ἐνθα μιν (so J. G. J. Hermann for μὲν codic., cp. schol. ad loc.) Ἰκτο φέρουσα θοὴν διὰ νύκτα μέλαιναν | πρώτην ἐς Λύκτον (G. F. Schömann's cj. Δίκτην is mischievous)· κρύψεν δέ ἐ χειρὶ λαβοῦσα | ἀντρῶ ἐν ἡλιβάτῳ, ἴαθης ὑπὸ κέυθει γαίης, | Αἰγαίω (Salmasius cj. αἰγείω, Wilamowitz cj. Αἰγείω. But see G. M. Columba Aigaion (extr. from the Memorie della R. Accademia di Archeologia, Lettere e Belle Arti 1914 iii) Napoli 1914 p. 21 n. 3) ἐν ὄρει πεπυκασιμένη ὕληντι).

Hesiod's connexion of the cave on Mt Aigaion with Lyktos makes it practically certain (pace W. Aly in Philologus 1912 lxxi. 461) that this was the Psycho Cave on Mt Lasithi, some 4½ hours from the ruins of Lyktos, with which it is linked by an ancient road still traceable (so K. J. Beloch in Klio 1911 xi. 435 and especially J. Toutain in the Revue de l'histoire des religions 1911 lxiv. 290 f., followed by Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1921 p. 377). It was partially explored by F. Halbherr and J. Hazzidakis in 1886 (F. Halbherr—P. Orsi 'Scoperte nell'antro di Psycho' in the Museo Italiano di Antichità Classica 1888 ii. 905—910 pl. 13, A. Taramelli in the Mon. d. Linc. 1899 ix. 411 f.), by Sir A. J. Evans and J. L. Myres in 1894, 1895, 1896 (Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1897 xvii. 350—361 ('Inscribed Libation Table from the Diktaean Cave')), by J. Demargne in 1897 (Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos London 1921 i. 629), and fully by D. G. Hogarth in 1899—1900 (D. G. Hogarth 'The Dictaeon Cave' in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 94—116 with pls. 8—11 and figs. 27—50, id. 'The Birth Cave of Zeus' in The Monthly Review 1901 pp. 49—62 with 10 pls.). But these explorers (whom I wrongly followed supra i. 150 n. 2, ii. 530) assumed without definite proof that the Psychro Cave was the Dictaeon Cave—an assumption denounced by W. Aly Der kretische Apollonkult Leipzig 1908 p. 47 and simultaneously refuted by K. J. Beloch in Klio 1911 xi. 433—435 ('Dikte') and by J. Toutain 'L'antre de Psychro et le ΔΙΚΤΑΙΟΝ ANTPON' in the Revue de l'histoire des religions 1911 lxiv. 277—291 (see infra n. on Mt Dikte).

The Psychro Cave shows as a dark spot on the mountain-side (The Monthly Review loc. cit. pl. 6, 1) some 500 ft above Psychro, a village of the inner Lasithi-plain (ib. pl. 1, 2, pl. 2, 1 f.). It was perhaps originally a swallow-hole, at the time when the Lasithi-plain was an upland lake, and an icy pool still remains in its depths. But its religious history was a long one; for the finds begin with sherds of 'Kamares'-ware in the 'Middle Minoan ii' period (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 101 f. fig. 27) and end with sundry Roman lamps and a silver Byzantine cross. Of the votive bronzes, some are probably 'Middle Minoan' in date, many more 'Late Minoan.' Greek relics of a time subsequent to c. 800 B.C. are scarce.

The Cave itself consists of an upper grotto and a steep slope of c. 200 ft leading down to a subterranean pool and a series of stalactite halls (plan of grotto supra p. 531 fig. 401). The upper grotto contained an altar (3 ft high) of roughly squared stones, close to which lay a libation-table in steatite inscribed with three linear characters (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 114 fig. 50). An adjoining gateway gave access to a paved témenos enclosed by a massive 'Cyclopean' wall. At the back of the enclosure were the mouths of natural funnels communicating probably with the lower halls and water-channels in the heart of the hill. In the upper grotto, especially round the altar, the topmost strata yielded swords, knives, axes, bracelets, etc. of iron with remains of the earliest Hellenic pottery; the lower strata had scattered objects mainly in bronze—the model of a two-wheeled car drawn by an ox and a ram and intended to carry one or more little figurines (ib. p. 108 fig. 39), images of bulls, a knife with a handle ending in a human head (ib. p. 111 fig. 44), long hair-pins with ornate ends, lance-points, darts, knives, wire needles, rings, miniature circular shields (?) (ib. p. 109 fig. 41), etc.; also hundreds of little plain earthenware cups for food or incense; a small clay mask with lips, eyelids, and lashes painted in ochre (ib. p. 106 fig. 37, 3); a great stoup patterned with checker-work etc. and a polyp in lustreless red (ib. p. 103 f. figs 31, 32); ivory ornaments from sword-hilts, bone articles of the toilet; small altar-like tables in steatite and limestone, three of which bore linear inscriptions (ib. p. 114 pl. xi). The témenos was less rich in metal, but extraordinarily prolific in sherds of 'Minoan' pottery, e.g. fragments of large unpainted plthoi with a band of decoration in relief under the rim—embossed double-axe, head of wild goat, rows of bucrania, an altar laden with fruit, etc. (p. 104 f. fig. 34). Here too were found the skulls and bones of oxen, wild goats, sheep, large deer, swine, and dogs—clearly the débris of animal sacrifices (W. Boyd-Dawkins in Man 1902 ii. 162—165 no. 114 identifies bos domesticus creticus, capra agagrus, ovis aries, cervus dama, sus scrofa, canis familiaris).

From the talus in the lower halls came other bronzes, including a small statuette crowned with the plumes of Āmen-Rā (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 107 pl. x, 1 f.). This was good early work of the New Empire (c. 900 B.C.) and recalls the classical identification of Zeus with Āmen-Rā (supra i. 348 ff.).

From the floor of the subterranean pool were dredged many rude bronze statuettes, male and female, nude and draped, with the arms folded on the breast or with one hand raised to the head in a gesture of adoration (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 107 pl. x, 4—14); a similar figure in lead (ib. p. 107 pl. x, 3); sards and other signet stones engraved with wild goats, bulls; and a geometric labyrinth-design (ib. p. 112); rings, pins, blades, needles. At the head of the pool and in a little lateral chamber opening to the left the crevices and crannies of the stalactite columns, up to the height of a man, were found to be crammed with votive bronzes—blades, pins, tweezers, fibulae (The Monthly Review loc. cit. pl. 9), with here and there a double axe (ib. pl. 8). See supra p. 530 ff.

Mount Dikte¹.

D. G. Hogarth concludes: 'About the pre-eminently sacred character of this Cave there can remain no shadow of doubt, and the simulacra of axes, fashioned in bronze and moulded or painted on vases, clearly indicate Zeus of the labrys or Labyrinth as the deity there honoured' (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1899—1900 vi. 114).

Among the more important objects obtained from the Cave by Sir A. J. Evans are half the top of a libation-table in black steatite bearing an inscription in two lines (Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1897 xvii. 350—361 figs. 25 a—27 and tab. i), one of which is further extended by a small fragment found by J. Demargne in 1897 (Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos London 1921 i. 625—631 figs. 465—467), and a remarkable votive tablet of bronze perhaps of the period 'Late Minoan i' (id. ib. p. 632 f. fig. 470 reversed = my fig. 830). The latter, like a lentoid seal of rock crystal found in the Idaean Cave (L. Mariani in the Mon. d. Linc. 1895 vi. 178 fig. 12, Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen iii. 47 fig. 22, Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1901 xxi. 141 f. fig. 25), represents the worship of a sacred tree or trees. The ring-dove or wood-pigeon (columba palumbus), here perched on one of the three sprays rising from ritual horns, may depict the presence of the deity (? Aphrodite, or her Cretan equivalent Ariadne (cp. supra i. 481)). Sun and moon betoken the sky. But the exact significance of the remaining symbols (cp. supra i. 583 n. 4) and linear characters is obscure. The cult of a goddess associated with sacred trees is just what we should expect ἐν ὄρει πεπυκασμένῳ ὑλήεντι. Doves reappear in connexion with the Dictaeon Cave (infra n. 1).

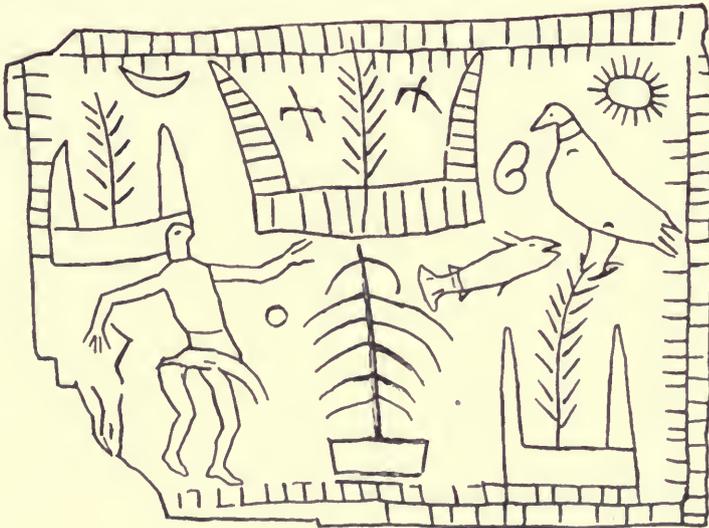

Fig. 830.

¹ Zeus Δικταῖος (Kallim. h. Zeus 4 πῶς καὶ νῦν (so O. Schneider for καὶ νῦν codd. and earlier edd. A. W. Mair cj. καὶ μιν), Δικταῖον ἀέλωμεν ἢ Λυκαῖον; Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 266 Ἐπιθετα Διὸς no. (22) δικταίου, Mart. ep. 4. 1. 1 f. Caesaris (sc. Domitiani) alma dies et luce sacratior illa, | conscia Dictaeum qua tulit Ida Iovem, Min. Fel. Oct. 21. 1 ob merita virtutis aut muneris deos habitos Euhemerus exsequitur, et eorum natales, patrias, sepulcra dinumerat et per provincias monstrat, Dictaei Iovis et Apollinis Delphici et Phariae Isidis et Cereris Eleusinae, cp. Verg. georg. 2. 536 ante etiam sceptrum Dictaei regis, Stat. Theb. 3. 481 f. ditior ille animi, cui tu, Dictaeae, secundas | impuleris manifestus aves) derived his title from a cave in Mt Dike, where he was born (Agathokles frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 289 Müller) ap. Athen. 375 F cited supra i. 653 n. 3, Apollod. 1. 1. 6 ὄργισθεῖσα δὲ ἐπὶ τοῦτοις ῥέα παραγίνεται μὲν εἰς Κρήτην, ὀπηνίκα τὸν Δία ἐγκυμοῦσα ἐτύγχανε, γεννᾷ δὲ ἐν ἄντρῳ τῆς Δίκτης Δία, schol. Arat. phaen. 33 ἐγεννήθη μὲν ἐν τῇ Δίκτῃ, μετεκομισθῆ δὲ ἐπὶ τὸ ἄντρον τῆς Ἰδης, Diod. 5. 70 τὴν δὲ ῥεάν ἀγανακτῆσασαν, καὶ μὴ δυναμένην μεταβῆναι τὴν προαίρεσιν τάνδρός, τὸν Δία τεκοῦσαν ἐν τῇ προσαγορευομένῃ Ἰδῇ (Δίκτῃ codd. C. F. G.) κλέψαι καὶ δοῦναι λάθρα τοῖς Κούρησιν ἐκθρέψαι τοῖς κατοικοῦσι πλησίον ὄρους τῆς Ἰδης... ἀνδρωθέντα δ' αὐτὸν φασὶ πρῶτον πόλιν κτίσαι περὶ τὴν Δίκταν, ὅπου καὶ τὴν γένεσιν αὐτοῦ γενέσθαι μυθολογοῦσιν· ἧς ἐκλειφθείσης ἐν τοῖς ὕστερον χρόνοις διαμένειν ἔτι καὶ νῦν ἔρματα τῶν θεμελίων, cl. mag. p. 276, 12 ff. Δίκτῃ· ὄρος τῆς Κρήτης, καὶ ἄκρα κειμένη κατὰ τὸ Λιβυκὸν πέλαγος... εἰρηται παρὰ τὸ τέκω τίκτω, τίκτα τις οὔσα, ἀπὸ τοῦ ἐκεῖ τεχθῆναι τὸν Δία) and reared (Ap. Rhod. 1. 508 f. ὄφρα Ζεὺς ἔτι κούρος, ἔτι φρεσὶ νήπια εἰδώς, | Δικταῖον βαίσκεν ὑπὸ σπέος with schol. ad loc., Arat. phaen. 30 ff. εἰ ἐτεδὸν δῆ, | Κρήτηθεν κείναι γε (sc. the two Bears) Διδὸς μεγάλου ἰότητι | οὐρανὸν εἰσανέβησαν, ὃ μιν τότε κουρίζοντα | Δικτῶ (Zenodotos of Mallos read δικτῶ=δικτάμω) ἐν εὐώδει, (Zeros σχεδὸν Ἰδαίω, | ἄντρῳ ἐγκατέθεντο καὶ ἔτρεφον εἰς ἐνιαυτὸν, | Δικταῖοι Κούρητες ὅτε Κρόνον ἐψεύδοντο with schol. ad loc., Lucr. 2. 633 f. Dictaeos referunt Curetas qui Iovis illum | vagitum in Creta quondam occultasse feruntur (cp. Sil. It. 17. 21 qui Dictaeo bacchantur in antro), Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 2. 61 cited infra, Arrian. frag. 70 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 599 Müller) ap. Eustath. in Dionys. per. 498 Ἀρριανὸς δὲ φησὶ· 'Κρής, οὗ Κρήτη ἐπώνυμος, ὃ τὸν Δία κρύψας ἐν ὄρει Δικταίῳ, ὅτε Κρόνος ἐμάστευεν ἐθέλων ἀφανίσει αὐτόν,' Serv. in Verg. georg. 2. 536 ante quam regnaret Iuppiter, qui est in Dictaeo, Cretae monte, nutritus), being fed by bees (Verg. georg. 4. 149 ff. nunc age, naturas apibus quas Iuppiter ipse | addidit expeditam, pro qua mercede, canoros | Curetum sonitus crepitantiaque aera secutae, | Dictaeo caeli regem pavere sub antro, Colum. de re rust. 9. 2 nec sane rustico dignum est sciscitari, fueritne mulier pulcherrima specie Melissa, quam Iuppiter in apem convertit, an (ut Euhemerus poeta dicit) crabronibus et sole genitas apes, quas nympphae Phryxonides educaverunt, mox Dictaeo specu Iovis exstitisse nutrices, easque pabula munere dei sortitas, quibus ipsae parvum educaverant alumnium. ista enim, quamvis non dedeceant poetam, summam tamen et uno tantummodo versiculo leviter attigit Virgilius, cum sic ait: 'Dictaeo caeli regem pavere sub antro,' Serv. in Verg. Aen. 3. 104 sane nati Iovis fabula haec est: Saturnus postquam a Themide oraculo comperit a filio se posse regno depelli natos ex Rhea uxore devorabat, quae natum Iovem pulchritudine delectata nymphis commendavit in monte Cretae Dictaeo; ubi eum aluerunt apes=Lact. Plac. in Stat. Ach. 387=Myth. Vat. 1. 104, cp. 2. 16. See further L. Weniger and W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2637 ff. s.vv. Melissa, Melissaios, Melisseus, Melissos) or a goat (supra i. 112 n. 3, 529 n. 4, 653 n. 3, 665 n. 3. See further E. Neustadt De Jove Cretico Berolini 1906 pp. 18—43 ('De Amalthea')) or a pig (supra i. 653 n. 3) or doves (Moïro of Byzantion c. 300 B.C. frag. ap. Athen. 491 A—B Ζεὺς δ' ἄρ' ἐνὶ Κρήτῃ τρέφετο μέγας, οὐδ' ἄρα τίς νιν | ἡλείδει μακάρων· ὃ δ' ἀέξετο πᾶσι μέλεσσι. | τὸν μὲν ἄρα τρήρωνες ὑπὸ ζαθέῳ τράφον ἄντρῳ, | ἀμβροσίην φορέουσαι ἀπ' Ὀκεανοῦ ῥοάων. | ἔκταρ δ' ἐκ πέτρης μέγας αἰετὸς αἰὲν ἀφύσσων | γαμφηλῆς, φορέεσκε πτόν Διὶ μητιέντι. Supra i. 182 n. 8), while the Kouretes, or by later confusion the Korybantes, drowned his infant cries with the clashing of their weapons (supra i. 150, 530 n. 0, 534, 659, 709. See further O. Immisch in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1587 ff., J. Poerner De Curetibus et Corybantibus (Dissertationes philologicae Halenses xxii. 2) Halis Saxonium 1913 pp. 245—428, Schwenn in Pauly—Wissowa xi. 1441 ff., 2202 ff.).

Ant. Lib. 19 quotes from the Ornithogonia of 'Boios' (supra p. 463 n. 1) a queer tale, which relates apparently to the Dictaeon Cave: 'In Crete, they say, there is a cave sacred to bees. Tradition has it that in this cave Rhea gave birth to Zeus, and neither god nor man may enter it. Every year at a definite time there is seen a great glare of fire from the cavern. This happens, so the story goes, when the blood from the birth of Zeus boils out (ἐκξέη with allusion to Ζεὺς (supra i. 31 n. 3)). The cave is occupied by sacred bees,

Plate XLII

Amphora from Vulci, now in the British Museum: Laos, Keleos, Kerberos, and Aigolios stung by bees in the Dictaeon Cave.

See page 929 n. o.

the nurses of Zeus. Laïos, Keleos, Kerberos, and Aigolios dared to enter it that they might draw as much honey as they could. They encased their bodies in bronze, drew the honey of the bees, and saw the swathing-bands of Zeus. Whereupon their bronze armour burst asunder. Zeus thundered aloud and raised his bolt. But the Moirai and Themis intervened; for none might die in that spot. So Zeus made them all into birds, and from them sprang the tribe of birds—blue thrushes (λάιοι), green woodpeckers (κελεοί), birds of an unknown species (κέρβεροι), and owls (αίγωλιοί). These are good birds to appear and reliable beyond all other birds, because they saw the blood of Zeus.' See further Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 388 f. A black-figured amphora in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Cat. Vases ii. 122 f. no. B 177 from Vulci), hitherto unpublished, has (a) the four marauders stung by the bees in the cave (pl. xlii from a photograph by Mr R. B. Fleming): (b) dancing Maenads and Satyrs.

Other myths attached to the same sacred cavern. Here Anchiale bore the Idaean Daktyloi (Ap. Rhod. i. 1129 ff. Δάκτυλοι Ἰδαίοι Κρηταίαιες, οὓς ποτε νύμφη | Ἀγχιιάλη Δικταίων ἀνά σπέος ἀμφοτέρησιν | δραξαμένη γαίης Οἰαξίδος ἐβλάστησεν with schol. ad loc., translated by Varr. frag. 3 Baehrens ap. Serv. in Verg. ecl. i. 66 quos magno Anchiale partus adducta dolore | et geminis capiens tellurem Oaxida palmis | edidit in Dicta, cp. Vib. Seq. p. 15 Oberlin s.v. 'Oaxes'). Here too Zeus, according to one late account, lay with Europe (Loukian. dial. mar. 15. 4 ταῦτα ἐκ Φοινίκης ἀχρι τῆς Κρήτης ἐγένετο· ἐπεὶ δὲ ἐπέβη τῇ νήσῳ, ὁ μὲν ταῦρος οὐκέτι ἐφαίνετο, ἐπιλαβόμενος δὲ τῆς χειρὸς ὁ Ζεὺς ἀπήγε τὴν Εὐρώπην ἐς τὸ Δικταῖον ἄντρον ἐρυθρίωσαν καὶ κάτω ὄρωσαν· ἥπιστατο γὰρ ἦδη ἐφ' ὅτῳ ἄγοιτο). Minos, their son, used to descend into the Dictaeon Cave and thence return with the laws of Zeus (Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 2. 61 ὦν ὁ μὲν (sc. Minos) ὁμιλητῆς ἔφη γενέσθαι τοῦ Διός, καὶ φοιτῶν εἰς τὸ Δικταῖον ὄρος, ἐν ᾧ τραφήναι τὸν Δία μυθολογοῦσιν οἱ Κρήτες ὑπὸ τῶν Κουρήτων ἔτι νεογόνῳ ὄντα, κατέβαιναν εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν ἄντρον, καὶ τοὺς νόμους ἐκεῖ συνθεῖς ἐκόμψεν, οὓς ἀπέφανε παρὰ τοῦ Διός λαμβάνειν). Lastly Epimenides claimed to have slept for years in the Cave and to have had visions there (Max. Tyr. 16. 1 ἀφικετό ποτε Ἀθηναῖζε Κρής ἀνήρ, ὄνομα Ἐπιμενίδης, κομίζων λόγον, οὕτως ῥηθέντα, πιστεύεσθαι χαλεπὸν· ἐν τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Δικταίου τῷ ἄντρον κείμενος ὕπνῳ βαθεῖ ἔτη συχνά, ὄναρ ἔφη ἐντυχεῖν αὐτὸς θεοῖς καὶ θεῶν λόγους καὶ ἀληθεῖα καὶ δική. κ.τ.λ.).

Sir A. J. Evans at first identified Mt Dikte with Mt Lasithi, the Dictaeon Cave with the Psycho Cave, and the city built by Zeus (Diod. 5. 70 cited supra) with the ruins at Goulas on an outlying spur of the Lasithi-massif (Sir A. J. Evans 'Goulas: The City of Zeus' in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1895—1896 ii. 169 ff.). This made an attractive combination and found many adherents (supra p. 925 n. 1). Unfortunately it ignored two essential factors in the situation—the definite statements of ancient topographers (in primis Strab. 478 f., Ptol. 3. 15. 3 and 6, cp. Agathokles frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 289 Müller) ap. Athen. 375 F, schol. Arat. phaen. 33 f.; in secundis Ap. Rhod. 4. 1635 ff., Loukian. dial. mar. 15. 4) and the provenance of inscriptions relating to the cult of Zeus Δικταῖος. Discussion of the evidence along these lines led K. J. Beloch in Klio 1911 xi. 433 ff. and J. Toutain in the Revue de l'histoire des religions 1911 lxiv. 277 ff. to reject the identification of Dikte with Lasithi and to insist that Dikte must have been a mountain near Praisos at the eastern end of Crete. Apparently Sir A. J. Evans has himself now given in to this view, for the map prefixed to vol. i of The Palace of Minos at Knossos adopts the new equation Aigaion = Lasithi and, rightly as I conceive, assigns the name 'Mt Dikte' to the range situated south-west of Praisos. If so, the true Dictaeon Cave is still to seek.

The cult of Zeus Δικταῖος in eastern Crete is attested by (1) the civic oath of Itanos in s. iii B.C. (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 462, 2 ff., *ib.*³ no. 526, 2 ff. = F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 324 f. no. 5058, 2 ff. found at Eremopoli [τάδε ὤμοσαν τοὶ Ἰτάνιοι πᾶ[ν][τες] Δία Δικταῖον καὶ Ἥραν καὶ θε[ο]ὺς τοὺς ἐν Δικταί καὶ Ἀθαν[α]ϊαν Πολιάδα καὶ θεοὺς, ὄσο[σ]ι[ς] ἐν Ἀθαναίαι θύεται, πᾶ[ν]τας | καὶ Δία Ἀγοραίων καὶ Ἀπόλλω[ν] Πύθιον καθ' ἱερῶν νεοκαύ[τ]ων· κ.τ.λ.): (2) the oath of allegiance taken by settlers from Hierapytna, sent probably to occupy conquered territory (Praisos?) (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2555, 11 ff. = F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 311 f. no. 5039, 11 ff. cited supra p. 723 n. 0): (3) the oath to be taken each year in the month

Dionysios by the kósmos or chief magistrate of Praisos in accordance with a treaty of s. iii B.C. between that town and Stelai (Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 440 A, 15 ff. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 427, a 15 ff., *ib.*³ no. 524, a 15 ff. cited supra p. 731 n. o. The restoration $\delta\mu\acute{\nu}\omega\ \Delta\eta[\nu\alpha\ \Delta\iota\kappa\tau\alpha\acute{\iota}\omega\varsigma]$ exactly fills the gap and is justified by Strab. 475 $\tau\acute{\omicron}\upsilon\tau\omega\varsigma$ (sc. Od. 19. 175—177) $\phi\eta\sigma\iota\ \Sigma\tau\acute{\alpha}\phi\upsilon\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ (frag. 12 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 507 Müller)) $\tau\acute{\omicron}\ \mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu\ \pi\rho\acute{\omicron}\varsigma\ \xi\omega\ \Delta\omega\rho\iota\epsilon\acute{\iota}\varsigma\ \kappa\alpha\tau\acute{\epsilon}\chi\epsilon\iota\tau\omicron\varsigma$, $\tau\acute{\omicron}\ \delta\acute{\epsilon}\ <\delta\acute{\epsilon}>$ $\nu\acute{\omicron}\tau\iota\omega\varsigma\ \text{Ἐτεοκρήτας, ὧν ἔτιναι πολὺνχιον Ἠράσον, ὅπου τὸ τοῦ Δικταίου Διὸς ἱερόν, id. 478 εἰρηται δέ, ὅτι τῶν Ἐτεοκρήτων ὑπῆρχεν ἡ Ἠράσσον, καὶ διότι ἐνταῦθα τὸ τοῦ Δικταίου Διὸς ἱερόν. κ.τ.λ.)$; (4) a long inscription, dated in 139 B.C., of which one copy was found near Itanos, another at Magnesia ad Maeandrum (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 929, *ib.*³ no. 685 = R. Cagnat Inscriptiones Graecae ad res Romanas pertinentes Paris 1911 i. 345 ff. no. 1021). It deals with a dispute between Itanos and Praisos—later between Itanos and Hierapytna—respecting the territory of Heleia and the island of Leuke. Itanos ultimately appealed to the Roman senate, which entrusted arbitration in the matter to Magnesia. The document in delimiting the territory of Itanos more than once mentions the sanctuary of Zeus Δικταίος, which must have lain on the border-line of Itanos and Praisos (ii, 37 ff. $\text{Ἰτάνιοι πῶλιν οἰκοῦντες ἐπιθαλάσσιον καὶ χώραν ἔχοντες προγονικὴν γειτονοῦσαν τῷ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Δικταίου ἱερῶι, ἔχοντες δὲ καὶ νήσους καὶ νεμόμενοι, ἐν αἷς καὶ τὴν καλουμένην Λεύκην, 47 ff. οὕτως Ἰεραπύτνιοι τῆς τε νήσου καὶ τῆς χώρας ἀμφισβητεῖν Ἰτανίοις ἐπεβάλλαντο, φάμενοι τὴν μὲν χώραν εἶναι ἱεράν τοῦ Ζητῆος τοῦ Δικταίου, τὴν δὲ νῆσον προγονικὴν ἑαυτῶν ὑπάρχειν, iii, 69 ff. τοῦ δὲ ἱεροῦ τοῦ Διὸς ἐκτὸς τῆς διαμφισβητουμένης | χώρας ἄντος καὶ περιουσομῆμασιν καὶ ἑτέροις πλειοσῖν ἀποδεικτικαῖς καὶ σημεῖοις περιλαβ[μ]ανομένοις, 81 f. νῆμοις γὰρ ἱεροῖς καὶ ἀραιῖς καὶ ἐπιτίμοις ἄνωθεν διεκεκώλυτο ἵνα μηθεὶς ἐν τῷ ἱερῶι τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Δικταίου μήτε ἐνέμημι μήτε ἐναυλοστατῆμι μήτε σπέριμι μήτε ξυλεύημι).$

Finally, excavations of the British School at Athens undertaken in 1902 at Heleia (Palaiastro) on the eastern coast, south of Itanos (Eremopolis) and east of Praisos, located the actual site of the Hellenic temple (R. C. Bosanquet in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1901—1902 viii. 286 ff.). This was partially explored in 1903 and 1904 (id. ib. 1902—1903 ix. 280, ib. 1903—1904 x. 246) and fully cleared in 1905 (id. ib. 1904—1905 xi. 298 ff.).

The site was an artificially levelled platform half-way down the south-eastern side of a hill. The témenos was enclosed by a wall of undressed stones, of which a few courses survive, and can be traced along the north and north-eastern face of the slope for a distance of 36^m. The temple itself has wholly vanished, huge blocks of freestone having been carried off by the villagers of Palaiastro about a generation ago. But the position of the altar is fixed by a bed of grey wood-ash, at least 3^m long by 0.25^m thick. Round it were found bronze bowls, miniature shields, and an archaic scarabaeoid seal.

More widely scattered were tiles and architectural terracottas of two distinct periods: (a) Archaic. Many pieces of a simā in low relief decorated with the motif of a two-horse chariot, driver, two hoplites, and hound (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1904—1905 xi. 300 ff. pl. 15). Antefixes in the form of a Gorgóneion (ib. p. 303 fig. 20). Akrotéria (?) of large birds (eagles?). The leg of a crouching or running human figure in high relief, probably from the pediment (ib. p. 300 fig. 18). Transitional in character is an antefix representing the Gorgon with two snakes rising from her shoulders and two others held in her hands—a pose which recalls that of the 'Minoan' snake-goddess (ib. p. 304 fig. 22). (b) Developed style. Fragments of a deeper simā with lion-heads etc. of the conventional sort. Fragments of palmette-shaped antefixes (ib. p. 304 fig. 21).

The votive offerings belong mostly to the archaic period (s. vii—v B.C.) and comprise: (i) Bronzes. At least four large shields decorated with zones of animals. One (0.49^m across) had as central boss the head and forepart of a lion, which pins down a couple of sphinxes and is flanked by two lions rampant on either side of a 'tree-of-life.' A dozen small shields, a miniature cuirass, a miniature helmet. Parts of about fourteen tripods. Eight bowls. Numerous small figures of oxen. (ii) Terracottas. About forty lamps and twelve torch-holders (ib. p. 307 fig. 23). About thirty large cups or bowls.

A mile to the north-west of the site there was found in 1907 a slab, which records the restoration by Hierapytna (c. 145—139 B.C.) of certain statues in the temple of Zeus Δικταῖος (R. C. Bosanquet ib. 1908—1909 xv. 340, S. A. Xanthoudides in the 'Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1908 p. 197 ff. no. 1 fig. 1 ἐπὶ τῆς Καμινίδος (sc. a tribe at Hierapytna, cp. Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἱεράπυτνα) κοσμώντων | τῶν σὺμ Βουάω τῷ Ἀμφέροντος, | ἐπεμελήθηεν ἐν τῷ ἱερῶι τῷ | [Ζ (or Τ)]ηνὸς Δικταίω, τὰ ἀρχαῖα | ἀγάλματα θαραπεύσαντες, | [θεὸς] ἐπισκευῶσαι καὶ χρυσῶ[σαι] Ἀθαναίαν, Ἄρτεμιν, Ἄτλαν[τα, τ]ῶς Σφίγγας ἀστραγαλί[σαι] ἐπὶ τῶν ὑποποδίων, καὶ | [?]Ποσ[σοῖδ]α, Δία, Ἥρας πρόσωπον, | [?] Λατῶν καὶ Νίκαν ἀναγράψαι. | [οἶδ' ἐκ]δ(σ)μῖον, Βοάως Ἀμφέ[ροντος, Ἀκ]άδσων Βραμισάλ].....s Εὐρυκάρτεος, |Εὐρυκάρτεος, |θεος, |s Μοιρίλ[ω]---). A mutilated inscription recording an agreement between Knossos and Hierapytna, which was found in the church of St Nikolaos near Palaikastro (F. Halbherr in the Museo Italiano di Antichità Classica 1890 iii. 612 ff. no. 36), must likewise have come from the precinct of Zeus Δικταῖος, where it had probably been set up during the same period of Hierapytna's supremacy.

But by far the most important epigraphic discovery connected with the site was that of the now famous hymn to Zeus Δικταῖος, first published by R. C. Bosanquet (Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1908—1909 xv. 339—356 pl. 20), restored and translated by G. Murray (ib. pp. 357—365), and expounded at large by Miss J. E. Harrison ('The Kouretes and Zeus Kouros' ib. pp. 308—338, ead. Themis Cambridge 1912 pp. 1—29 ('The Hymn of the Kouretes')). With one exception, already noted (supra i. 15 n. 6), I give the text as printed by G. Murray:

Ἴώ, Μέγιστε Κούρε, χαῖρέ μοι, Κρόνιε, παγκρατὲς γάνος, βέβακες 5 δαιμόνων ἀγώμενος· Δικταν ἐς ἐνιαυτὸν ἔρ- πε καὶ γέγαθι μολπῆ, Τάν τοι κρέκομεν πακτίσι μείξαντες ἄμ' αὐλοῖσιν, 10 καὶ στάντες δειδομεν τεδὸν ἀμφὶ βωμῶν εὐερκῆ. Ἴώ, κ.τ.λ. Ἔνθα γὰρ σέ, παῖδ' ἀμβροτον, ἀσπιδ[ηφόροι τροφῆς] 15 παρ' Ἱέας λαβόντες πόδα κ[ρούοντες ἀπέκρυσαν]. Ἴώ, κ.τ.λ. · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · 20 · · · · · · · · · · τᾶς καλᾶς Ἄο(ῶ)ς.	Ἴώ, κ.τ.λ. [ἼΩραι δὲ βρ]ύον κατῆτος καὶ βροτο(ῶ)ς Δίκα κατῆχε 25 [πάντα τ' ἀγρὶ ἄμφεπ]ε ζῶ' ἀ φίλολβος Εἰρήνηα. Ἴώ, κ.τ.λ. Ἄ[μιν θόρε, κὲς στα]μνία, καὶ θόρ' εὐποκ' ἐ[ς ποιμνία, 30 κὲς λή]ια καρπῶν θόρε, κὲς τελεσ[φόρους σίμβλους]. Ἴώ, κ.τ.λ. [Θόρε κὲς] πόλῃας ἀμῶν, κὲς ποντοφόρο(ῶ)ς νᾶας, 35 θόρε κὲς ν[έους πολ]έιτας, θόρε κὲς Θέμιν κ[αλάν].
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

This hymn, engraved c. 200 A.D. but composed c. 300 B.C., expresses in cultured poetical Greek, with a dash of Doric dialect, beliefs that had descended from much earlier times. It invokes Zeus as the 'greatest Lad of Kronos' line' to come to Dikte for the new year at the head of the daímones (perhaps the gods in general (Plat. Phaedr. 246 E στρατιὰ θεῶν τε καὶ δαιμόνων, cp. supra pp. 43, 63 n. o) rather than the Kouretes in particular (Strab. 466 δαίμονας ἢ προπόλους θεῶν)) and to take delight in the dance about his altar—a dance accompanied by harps and pipes. It goes on to tell how the Kouretes once received him as a babe from Rhea and hid him in safety with the sound of their beating feet, [how under the reign of Zeus foul Darkness was followed by] fair Dawn, the Seasons began to be fruitful year by year, Justice spread over the world, and Peace brought wealth in its train. And now once more comes the invitation to leap in the ritual dance, which shall ensure full jars, fleecy flocks, crops in the fields, and honey in the hives, prosperity alike on land and sea, youthful citizens and established Right.

Mount Ide¹.

The god here invoked is clearly thought of as coming from afar to witness, or even to join in, his worshippers' dance—a dance which very possibly originated as a piece of pure magic. But I do not on that account see in him 'a Kouros who is obviously but a reflection or impersonation of the body of Kouretes' (Miss J. E. Harrison Themis p. 27) any more than I regard the Bull Dionysos, who is invited to visit his temple at Elis (carm. pop. 5 Hiller—Crusius ap. Plout. quaest. Gr. 36), as a projection of the Elean women. The Creator Spiritus is not lightly to be identified with the spiritus creatorum.

¹ Mt Ide bore a name ("Ἰδη) which, like many mountain-names (Schrader *Reallex.*² p. 88 f.), means 'forest, wood' (F. Solmsen in the Indogermanische Forschungen 1908 xxvi. 109 ff., A. Fick Vorgriechische Ortsnamen Göttingen 1905 p. 10, id. Hattiden und Danubier in Griechenland Göttingen 1909 p. 11 f. ('Ida'), Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 365 f.). It had flourishing oak-trees (Dionys. per. 503). And it was famous for its cypresses (Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 2. 6, 4. 1. 3, Nik. ther. 585, Verg. georg. 2. 84, Plin. nat. hist. 16. 142. Claud. de rapt. Pros. 3. 370 ff. confuses Mt Ide in the Troad), which probably stood in some relation to the cult of Rhea (supra i. 649 n. 1) or of Zeus (F. Olck in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 1920, 1924, 1926, supra i. 558 n. 5); for not only were Cretan cypresses called δρυῖται (Theophr. caus. pl. 1. 2. 2), but beams of cypress were used to roof the temple in which were celebrated the rites of Rhea and Zagreus (Eur. Cretes frag. 472 Nauck² ap. Porph. de abst. 4. 19 cited supra i. 648 n. 1). A fruit-bearing poplar grew in the mouth of the Idaean Cave (Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 3. 4 ἐν Κρήτῃ δὲ καὶ ἀγχειροὶ κάρπμοι πλείους εἰσὶ· μία μὲν ἐν τῷ στομίῳ τοῦ ἄντρου τοῦ ἐν τῇ Ἰδῇ (so J. G. Schneider for τοῦ ἐν τῷ Ἰδῇ cod. U. τοῦ ἐν τῷ Ἰδῆς codd. M. V. ἐν τῇ Ἰδῇ edd. Ald. Heins.), ἐν ᾧ τὰ ἀναθήματα ἀνάκειται, ἄλλη δὲ μικρὰ πηλοῖον· κ.τ.λ., cp. ib. 2. 2. 10, Aristot. mir. ausc. 69), though Pliny describes it as a willow (Plin. nat. hist. 16. 110 salix...una tamen proditur ad maturitatem perferre solita in Creta insula ipso descensu Iovis spelunca durum ligneumque (sc. semen), magnitudine ciceris). Iron-coloured stones shaped like the human thumb were found in Crete and known as Idaei dactyli (Plin. nat. hist. 37. 170, Isid. orig. 16. 15. 12, Solin. 11. 14): if these were fossil belemnites (E. Babelon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 1465), they were doubtless viewed as thunderbolts (C. Blinkenberg The Thunderweapon in Religion and Folklore Cambridge 1911 p. 76 f. ('Thunderstones (Belemnites)')).

Mt Ide, which, as the ancients said, sees the sun before the sunrise (Solin. 11. 6, Prisc. per. 527 f. (Geogr. Gr. min. ii. 194 Müller)), was not unnaturally associated with the Hellenic sky-god. From s. v B.C. onwards we hear of Zeus Ἰδαῖος (Eur. Cretes frag. 472 Nauck² ap. Porph. de abst. 4. 19 cited supra i. 648 n. 1, Polyb. 28. 14. 3 περὶ τούτων κειμένης ἐν ὄρκου συνθήκης παρὰ τὸν Δία τὸν Ἰδαῖον, cp. Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 264 f. Ἐπιθετα Διός no. (50) Ἰδαίου, 266 Ἐπιθετα Διός no. (42) Ἰδαίου, 281 Ἐπιθετα τοῦ Διός... ἰδαῖος. In Nonn. Dion. 13. 236 καὶ χθόνα Νωδαλοῖο Διός κ.τ.λ. G. Falkenberg, G. H. Moser, and Count de Marcellus would read χθονὸς Ἰδαλοῖο. J. J. Scaliger cj. χθονὸς ὠδαλοῖο. F. Graefe cj. χθόνα Δικταλοῖο).

Zeus is never said to have been born on Mt Ide (in Diod. 5. 70 cited supra p. 928 n. o the right reading appears to be Δικτη, not Ἰδη; at most we have Mart. ep. 4. 1. 2 Dictaeum...tulit Ida Iovem); the claims of Mt Aigaion (supra p. 925 n. 1) and Mt Dikte (supra p. 927 n. 1) were too strong. He is, however, said to have been brought by the Kouretes living near Mt Ide to a cave and to have been nurtured there by the nymphs on honey and the milk of the goat Amaltheia (Diod. 5. 70 τὴν δὲ ῥέαν...τὸν Δία τεκούσαν... κλέψαι καὶ δοῦναι λάθρα τοῖς Κούρησιν ἐκθρέψαι τοῖς κατοικοῦσι πηλοῖον ὄρου τῆς Ἰδῆς. τοῦτους δ' ἀπενέγκαντας εἰς τι ἄντρον παραδοῦναι ταῖς Νύμφαις, παρακελευσαμένους τὴν πᾶσαν ἐπιμέλειαν αὐτοῦ ποιεῖσθαι. αὐταὶ δὲ μέλι καὶ γάλα μίσγονσαι τὸ παιδίον ἐθρέψαν καὶ τῆς ἀγλὸς τῆς ὀνομαζομένης Ἀμαλθείας τὸν μαστὸν εἰς διατροφήν παρέχοντο, Oν. fast. 5. 115 f. Nais Amalthea, Cretaea nobilis Ida, | dicitur in silvis occuluisse Iovem, Iuv. 13. 41 et privatus adhuc Idaeis Iuppiter antris) together with Aigokeros or Capricornus (pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 27 p. 237 f. Maass <Διγokέρωτος> οὗτός ἐστι τῷ εἶδει ὁμοῖος τῷ Ἀιγίπῳ. ἐξ ἐκείνου δὲ γέγονεν. ἔχει δὲ θηρίον τὰ κάτω μέρη καὶ κέρατα ἐπὶ τῇ κεφαλῇ. ἐτιμήθη δὲ διὰ τὸ σύντροφος εἶναι τῷ Δί, καθάπερ Ἐπιμενίδης ὁ τὰ Κρητικὰ ἱστορῶν φησιν, ὅτι ἐν τῇ Ἰδῆ συνῆν αὐτῷ, ὅτε ἐπὶ τοὺς Τιτᾶνας ἐστράτευσεν (οὗτος δὲ δοκεῖ εὐρεῖν τὸν κόχλον, [ἐν] ᾧ τοὺς συμμαχούς καθώπλισεν), <ἦ> διὰ τὸ τοῦ ἤχου Πανικὸν καλούμενον, ὃ οἱ Τιτᾶνες ἐφευγον. παραλαβὼν δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐν τοῖς ἄστροις αὐτὸν ἔθηκε καὶ τὴν αἰγα τὴν μητέρα. διὰ δὲ τὸν κόχλον τὸν θαλάσσιον παράσημον ἔχει ἰχθύος, cp. schol. Arat. phaen. 284, Arat. Lat. p. 237 f. Maass, schol. Caes. Germ. Aratea p. 407, 9 ff. Eyssenhardt, Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 28). Adrasteia his nurse made him a golden ball (Ap. Rhod. 3. 132 ff. καὶ κέν τοι ὀπάσαιμι Διὸς περικαλλῆς ἄθουμα | κείνο, τό οἱ πόησε φίλη τροφὸς Ἀδρήστεια | ἀντρῷ ἐν Ἰδαίῳ ἔτι νήπια κουρίζοντι, | σφαῖραν ἐντρόχαλον... | ... | χρύσεια μὲν οἱ κύκλα τετεύχεται· ἀμφὶ δ' ἐκάστω | διπλοῖαι ἀψίδες περιηγῆες εἰλίσσονται· | κρυπταὶ δὲ ῥαφαὶ εἰσιν· ἔλιξ δ' ἐπιδέδρομε πάσαις | κυανῆν. ἀτὰρ εἰ μιν εἰς ἐνὶ χερσὶ βάλοιο, | ἀστήρ ὡς, φλεγέθοντα δὲ ἤερος ὀλλκὸν ἴσῃσι. H. Posnansky Nemesis und Adrasteia Breslau 1890 p. 175 f. finds Adrasteia, the infant Zeus, and his ball on a coin of Laodikeia illustrated supra i. 153 fig. 129. More ad rem are the coin-types discussed supra i. 51 f. figs. 27 and 28, 547; for there the cosmic significance of the ball (K. Sittl Der Adler und die Weltkugel als Attribut des Zeus Leipzig 1884 p. 45 ff.) is apparent) and put him to sleep in a golden liknon (Kallim. h. Zeus 46 ff. Ζεῦ, σὲ δὲ Κυρβάντων ἐτάροι προσεπηχύναντο | Δικταῖαι Μελίαι, σε δ' ἐκοίμισεν Ἀδρήστεια | λικνῷ ἐνὶ χρυσέῳ, σὺ δ' ἐθήσασο πλονα μαζὸν | αἰγὸς Ἀμαλθείης, ἐπὶ δὲ γλυκὸν κηρίον ἔβρωσ. | γέντο γὰρ ἐξαπιναῖα Πανακρίδος ἔργα μελίσσης | Ἰδαίοις ἐν ὄρεσσι, τὰ τε κλείουσι Πάνακρα). Hence in the Rhapsodic theogony Adrasteia, daughter of Melissos and Amaltheia, is associated with her sister Eide (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1086 n. o: 'die Göttin Ida?') as protectress of all laws including those of Zeus and Kronos (Orph. frag. 109 Abel ap. Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. p. 148 (p. 161, 15 ff. Couvreur)). Lastly, Zeus was first served in the Idaean Cave by Aetos the beautiful child of Earth (interp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 1. 394 est et alia fabula. apud Graecos legitur, puerum quendam terra editum admodum pulchrum membris omnibus fuisse, qui Ἄετος sit vocatus. hic cum Iuppiter propter patrem Saturnum, qui suos filios devorabat, in Creta insula in Idaeo antro nutritur, primus in obsequium Iovis se dedit, post vero cum adolevisset Iuppiter et patrem regno pepulisset, Iuno permota forma pueri velut paelicatus dolore eum in avem vertit, quae ab ipso Ἄετος dicitur Graece, a nobis aquila propter aquilum colorem, qui ater est. quam semper Iuppiter sibi inhaerere praecepit et fulmina gestare: per hanc etiam Ganymedes cum amaretur a Iove dicitur raptus, quos Iuppiter inter sidera collocavit. Cp. supra pp. 751 n. 2, 777). Copper coins of Crete issued by Titus (Rasche Lex. Num. iii. 306, Suppl. ii. 262) and Domitian (J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne Mâcon 1890 i. 344 pl. 33, 22 (= my fig. 831), Head *Hist. num.*² p. 479) have for reverse type an eagle inscribed ΔΙΟΣ ΙΔΑΙΟΥ.

Other myths were readily attached to the same locality. It was 'in Idaean caves' that Hermaphroditos was reared by Naiad nymphs (Ov. met. 4. 288 f.) and that the Telchines were wont to work (Stat. silv. 4. 6. 47).

The worship of Zeus on Mt Ide, famous throughout the classical world (Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. 4. 105 Olenos Arcadiae civitas, in qua Iovem Amalthea capra dicitur nutrisse, quae in cultum Iovis Idam provocat, montem Cretae, in quo Iuppiter colitur), centred about the Idaean Cave. This was distant from Knossos some twenty miles as the crow flies; but the two were connected by a tolerable road and pilgrims could rest in the shade of trees by the wayside (Plat. legg. 625 A—B). The Cave itself was sacred to Zeus and the meadows near it were regarded as his (Diod. 5. 70 κατὰ δὲ τὴν Ἰδῆν, ἐν ᾗ συνέβη τραφῆναι τὸν θεόν, τό τε ἀντρον ἐν ᾧ τὴν δαιταν εἶχε καθιέρωται καὶ οἱ περὶ αὐτὸ λειμῶνες ὁμοίως ἀνένται περὶ τὴν ἀκρόρειαν ὄντες). He had repaid his debt to the bees by turning them gold-bronze in colour and making them impervious to wintry weather (id. ib.). Concerning the cavern-ritual we know but little. Votive offerings were to be seen in the entry (Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 3. 4 quoted supra). Pythagoras is said to have gone down into the Cave with Epimenides (Diog. Laert. 8. 3 εἰτ' ἐν Κρήτῃ σὺν Ἐπιμενίδῃ κατήλθεν εἰς τὸ Ἰδαῖον ἄντρον), who was both a Cretan and a Koures (supra p. 191). Fortunately further details are given us by Porph. v. Pyth. 17 (cited supra i. 646 n. 3). It appears that Pythagoras first repaired to the mystics of Morges, one of the Idaean Daktyloi, by whom he was purified with the thunder-stone (τῆ κεραυνία λίθω—probably a belemnite (supra)), at daybreak lying prone beside the sea and at night beside a river, his head wrapped in the fleece of a black ram. He then descended into the Idaean Cave wearing black wool, spent there the customary thrice nine days, made a funeral offering (καθήςσει) to Zeus, saw the throne which was strown for the god once a year, and inscribed on his tomb an epigram entitled 'Pythagoras to Zeus,' which begins ὦδε θανῶν κείται Ζεῶν, θν Δία κυκλήσκουσιν (supra i. 158 n. 2, 646 n. 3, ii. 341 n. 6, 345 n. 1). It is abundantly clear that the cavern-rites were concerned with death as well as birth. Zan or Zeus lay dead. Yet yearly a throne was spread for him, i.e. for Zeus come to life again as Zagreus (supra i. 646 f.). Pythagoras sought to share his death and resurrection.

Fig. 831.

Apart from the cave-sanctuary there were in s. v. B.C.—if we may trust the Cretans of Euripides—temples of Zeus Ἰδαῖος roofed with cypress-planks, which were fastened together with glue made of bull's hide. Here the mystics of the god made thunder like Zagreus, feasted on raw flesh, brandished torches for the mountain-mother, and transformed from Kouretes into Bakchoi led thenceforward a life of ceremonial purity (Eur. Cretes frag. 472 Nauck² ap. Porph. de abst. 4. 19 cited supra i. 648 n. 1). The significance of these rites has already been discussed (supra i. 648 ff.).

An archaic boustrophedon inscription recording a convention between Gortyna and Rhizenia stipulates that the Rhizeniates shall send the victims to Mt Ide, every other year, to the value of 350 statêres (F. Halbherr in the Ann. Journ. Arch. 1897 i. 204 ff. no. 23, F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 257 f. no. 4985, S. A. Xanthoudides in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1908 p. 236 θιολ. ἐπὶ τοῖδ(δ)ε Ἐπι[ττέν]σοι Γ[ορ]τυνίους αὐτ[όν]ο[μ]ο[ι] καὶ[τ]όδοικοι (space) [τ]ὰ θ[ύ]ματα παρέκοντες ἐς Βιδαν [τ]ρ[ι]οι [Ἐ]τρεῖ τριακάρτος στατέρας καὶ πεν[τέκοντα]). We infer that the celebration on Mt Ide was trieteric (supra i. 662, 690 ff., 695 n. 8).

In Hellenistic times the appellative of Zeus was spelled Βιδάρας (= Fidáras, the god of Mt Ide. So first J. Schmidt in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1863 xii. 217 Βιδάρας ('Ιδήςης?), cp. S. A. Xanthoudides loc. cit. H. B. Voretzsch in Hermes 1870 iv. 273 wrongly assumed connexion with the Phrygian and Macedonian βέδν (Clem. Al. Strom. 5. 8 p. 357, 11 ff. Stählin) and concluded that Βιδάρας meant ἕτιος, θυβριος). A treaty of c. 150 B.C. between Lyttos and Olous makes the Lyttians swear by Zeus Βιδάρας (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 549b, 5 ff. = F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 380 f. no. 5147b, 5 ff. [δμνύω τὰν Ἐστῆαν καὶ τῆνα Βιδάραν καὶ τῆνα [-] | [-καὶ Ἀπέλλω]να Πύτιον καὶ Λατῶν καὶ [Ἀ]ρ[τεμ]ιν - -] | [-καὶ τὰν Βριθμοῦρην καὶ τὸς ἄλλος θιός - -]). Another treaty, of c. 100 B.C., between Gortyna and Hierapytna on the one side and Priansos on the other, mentions a temple of Zeus Βιδάρας on the frontier of Priansos (F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 301 ff. no. 5024, 22 f. [-εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν τῶ? Τῆ] [νός] τῶ Βιδάτῶ κῆς τὰνς Ἀντρί[-]). Cp. ib. 60 and 77 (cited supra p. 723 n. o)).

The oldest cult-cavern of Mt Ide seems to have been the grotto, known locally as Maurospeilaion, high up on the two-peaked mountain of Kamares, the southernmost bastion of the Idaean massif. This was first visited in 1894 by A. Taramelli ('A visit to the Grotto of Camares on Mount Ida' in the Ann. Journ. Arch. 1901 v. 437—451 with map, elevation, plan, and section (map and plan copied by L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 859 f.)). It was thoroughly explored in 1913 by a party from the British School at Athens (R. M. Dawkins and M. L. W. Laistner 'The Excavation of the Kamares Cave in Crete' in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1912—1913 xix. 1—34 with figs. 1—8 and pls. 1 (view), 2 (plan), 3 (section), 4—12 (pottery)). The finds included a couple of neolithic sherds, a few pieces of 'Early Minoan' spouted vessels, many handsome vases of 'Middle Minoan i and ii' date, a little 'Middle Minoan iii' ware, and a very little 'Late Minoan,' the series ending with two Bügelkannen. The grotto, which is free from snow for only a few months in the year, can hardly have been a dwelling and must rather be regarded as a sanctuary, presumably of the 'Minoan' mountain-goddess Rhea.

A. Taramelli in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1901 v. 434 held that it was the cult-centre of Zeus 'Iḗaios for the whole commune of Phaistos. But there is no real evidence to connect it with Zeus at all.

The Idaean Cave of classical times has been identified beyond all doubt with the great cavern 500 ft above the plateau of Nida (τὰν Ἴδαν), a fresh grassy level lying to the east of the mountain-top. The actual summit of Ide (Psiloriti for Ἐψηλωπετης), which attains the height of 8060 ft, is occupied by a small Greek monastery of the Holy Cross (Timios Stauros). Mr T. Fyfe, who spent a night on the summit, tells me (Jan. 9, 1923) that of the monastery little now remains except the church. This has a western domed compartment (13 ft 6 ins in diameter) with a narrow door leading to an oblong nave (11 ft 6 ins long by 8 ft 3 ins broad) covered by an elliptical dome. Eastwards of this is the sanctuary, entered by a semicircular arch and containing an aumbry opposite to a shallow recess for a seat. At the extreme east end is a built-in altar-table. The whole is very roughly constructed of rubble stone-work and is probably not very ancient, though the circular western portion is said to be older than the remainder. About 3060 ft below the summit, but still at an altitude of some 5000 ft, lies Nida. And the Cave in the western side of its mountain-wall is used as a shelter both by shepherds and by travellers making the ascent from Anogeia (T. A. B. Spratt Travels and Researches in Crete London 1865 i. 9, 19. For Anogeia see supra i. 163 n. 1). In the summer of 1884 a shepherd named G. Pasparakī, grubbing in the cavern with a stick, chanced to find fragments of terra-cotta lamps, a few pieces of gold foil, and sundry small bronzes. These finds, being talked about, led to a visit the same year from E. Fabricius ('Alterthümer auf Kreta. II Die Idäische Zeusgrotte' in the Ath. Mith. 1885 x. 59—72 with plan and 9 figs., id. 'Zur Idäischen Zeusgrotte' ib. p. 280 f.) and to a systematic exploration in 1885 by F. Halbherr and G. Aeraki under the auspices of J. Hazzidakis and the Syllogos of Kandia (F. Halbherr 'Scavi e trovamenti nell'antro di Zeus sul monte Ida in Creta' in the Museo Italiano di Antichità Classica 1888 ii. 689—768 with numerous figs., pls. 11 (two photographs, of which the second = my fig. 832), 12 (a plan, b—d sections = my figs. 833—836), and an Atlas of 12 pls., P. Orsi

Fig. 832.

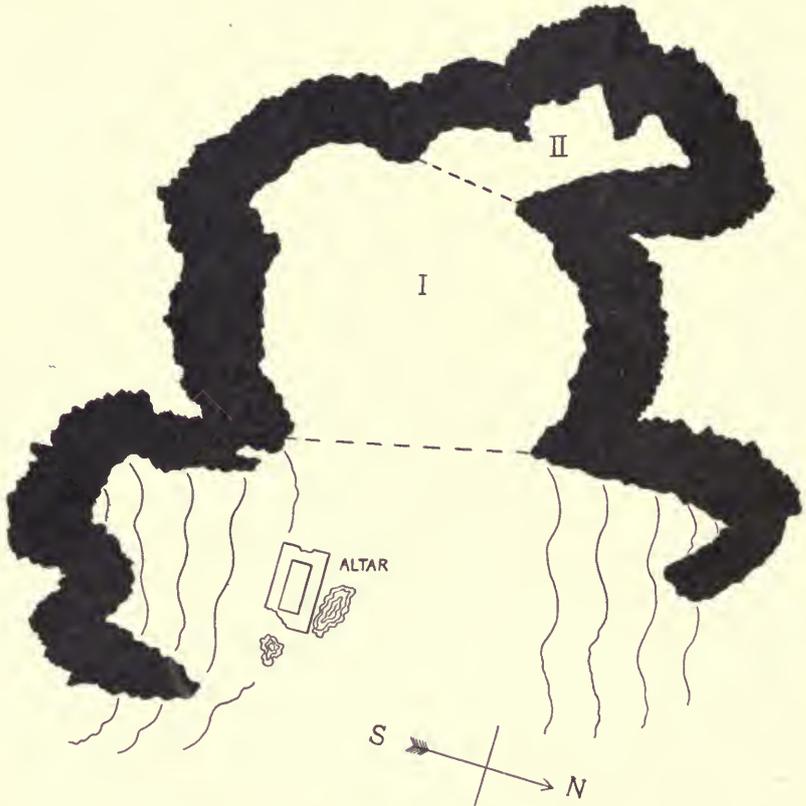

Fig. 833.

••••• Ashes, charcoal, and carbonised matter.
••••• Earth and stones fallen from the mountain.

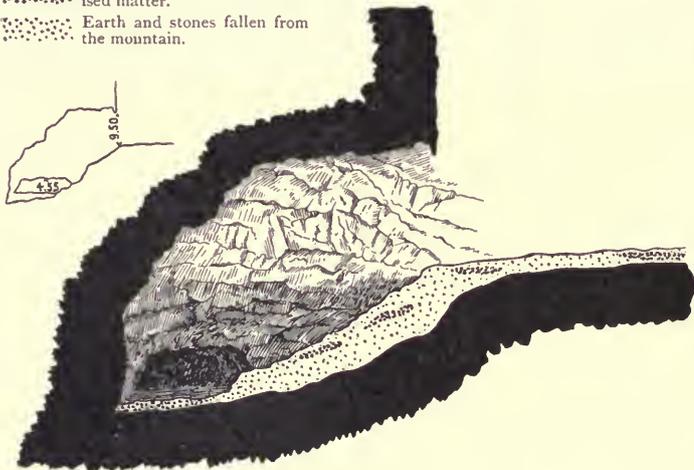

Fig. 834.

'Studi illustrativi sui bronzi arcaici trovati nell'antro di Zeus Ideo' ib. pp. 769—904 with a few figs., A. L. Frothingham 'Early Bronzes recently discovered on Mount Ida in Krete' in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1888 iv. 431—449 with figs. 13—16 and pls. 16—20, H. Thiersch 'Altkretisches Kuretengerät' in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1913 xxviii Arch. Anz. pp. 47—53 with fig. 1).

The Cave comprises three well-marked divisions: (a) the entry; (b) chamber I, the sanctum; (c) chamber II, the sanctum sanctorum.

(a) On the south side of the entry is a great fallen rock shaped into an altar, the top of which forms an oblong mass (4.80^m long, 1.95^m broad, 0.88^m high) with a wide step all round it (c. 1.45^m broad, c. 3^m high). Beside it are fragments split off from the parent block and forming deep crannies and cavities, in which many small votive offerings came to light. On the north side are limestone bases of bronze statues etc. formerly erected on the stair-like rocky slope (cp. Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 3. 4 cited supra). Immediately in front of the Cave numerous objects in bronze, silver, and gold were unearthed.

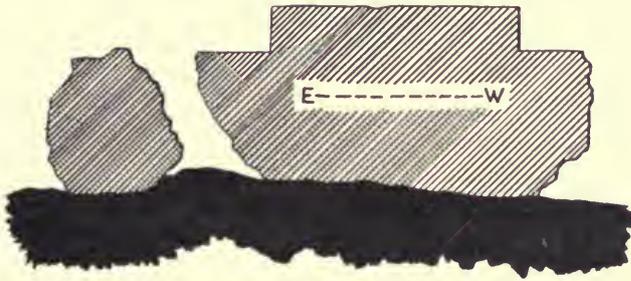

Fig. 835.

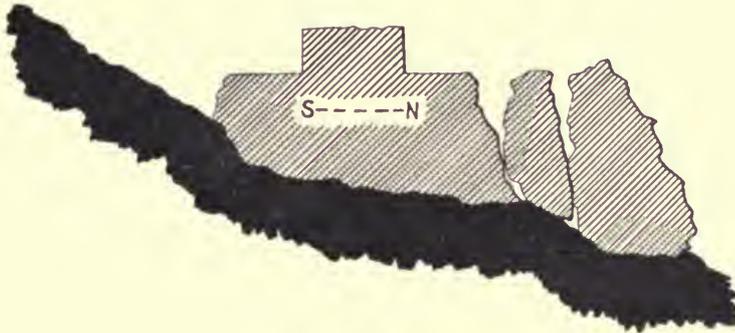

Fig. 836.

(b) The sanctum, entered through a broad yawning aperture (9.50^m high), forms a wide hall (25^m to 31^m across) with rocky walls showing no trace of artificial niches. Snow-drifts have carried down into it a thick bed of earth and stones. This contains patches of black carbonised matter, and has yielded the bulk of the articles in plate-bronze.

(c) The sanctum sanctorum is a smaller chamber (22^m long, 8^m broad, over 4.50^m high), opening out of the sanctum but almost entirely dark. The floor is covered to a depth of several feet with a layer of ashes and charcoal, in which were found fragments of animal-bones half-burnt, several ox-skulls with horns attached, and many terra-cotta lamps.

Below the Cave, on the western edge of the Nida-plain, are the foundations of a Roman house once occupied by the custodians of the sanctuary.

The only 'Minoan' object known to have been found in the Cave is a lenticular gem of rock crystal representing a woman, who blows a conch-shell before a group of three sacred trees (Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen iii. 47 fig. 22, Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos at Knossos London 1921 i. 221 fig. 167, supra i. 649 n. 3). This is interesting in view of the tradition that Aigokeros, the connutricius...Iovis (Arat. Lat. p. 237 Maass) in the Idaean Cave, was the discoverer of the conch (supra). I should conjecture that it was used to make mock-thunder in the rites of Zagreus, the re-born Zeus. It may also be pointed out that Aigokeros or Capricornus was derived from Mesopotamia, where he figures as the constellation Suhur-máš, the 'Fish-goat' (A. Jeremias Handbuch der altorientalischen Geisteskultur Leipzig 1913 p. 117 figs. 94—96 and Index p. 362, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1463 f. figs. 24, 26—29). It is therefore tempting to suppose that Aigokeros came to Crete from the same quarter and along the same route as Zagreus (supra i. 651). Further, in Mesopotamian star-lore the constellation Suhur-máš is so intimately related to the constellation Nušru, Aquila, that the 'Eagle' on occasion takes the place of the 'Fish-goat' (A. Jeremias loc. cit.); and the 'Eagle' is personified as the god Zamama (A. Jeremias Handbuch p. 129, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1492). It might be contended, without undue rashness, that we have here the ultimate reason for the Cretan association of Aigokeros with Zeus. But Jeremias goes far beyond this, when he suggests that Zamama and his 'Eagle' are actually the Urbild of Zeus and his eagle (id. ib.). Panbabilonismus!

Votive objects found in the Cave include the following: (1) Convex circular shields of thin bronze, with central boss representing lion's head, eagle or hawk, etc. in high relief and concentric zones of decoration (F. Halbherr loc. cit. p. 695 ff. nos. 1—9 Atlas pls. 2—5, 9, 1, 10, 3 f.). (2) A tympanon of thin bronze with a quasi-Assyrian representation of Zeus and the Kouretes (id. ib. p. 709 f. no. 10 Atlas pl. 1 = supra i. 645 pl. xxxv). (3) Cymbals of thin bronze (id. ib. p. 712 ff. nos. 1—10 with figs.). (4) Bronze phidlai, eight of which are embellished with low reliefs in three distinct styles—Cypriote, Egypto-Phoenician, and Mesopotamian (id. ib. p. 718 ff. nos. 1—7 Atlas pls. 6, 7, 8, 9, 2 f., 10, 1 f., 12, 8, 10). (5) Bronze oinochôai (id. ib. p. 725 Atlas pl. 12, 9, 12 f.). (6) Bronze lébetes (id. ib. p. 725 ff. nos. 1—5 Atlas pl. 12, 4). (7) Very archaic groups of decorative figures in cast bronze, e.g. war-ship with rowers, chariots, warriors, man milking cow, hounds, etc. (id. ib. p. 727 ff. nos. 1—14 Atlas pl. 11). (8) Archaic bronze statuettes of nude male and female figures (id. ib. p. 732 ff. nos. 1—5 with figs. Atlas pl. 12, 1 f.). (9) Votive animals in bronze (id. ib. p. 736 f. nos. 1 sheep (?) with fig., 2 bull, 3 bulls' horns, 4 goats Atlas pl. 12, 3). (10) Ornamental figures in bronze, e.g. sphinxes, lion, horse, doves, snakes (id. ib. p. 745 ff. with figs. Atlas pl. 12, 18). (11) Handles of vases, rings and feet of tripods, etc. in bronze (id. ib. p. 737 ff. with figs. Atlas pl. 12, 11, 14—17, 19 f.). (12) Disks of thin gold decorated with dots or rays (id. ib. p. 749 ff. with figs.). A small plaque of thin gold stamped in relief with a procession of four warriors bearing circular shields, within an oblong framework of spirals (id. ib. p. 751 with fig.): this may be of sub-'Minoan' date. Another plaque of gold inscribed ΙΟΥΩΗ | ΖΑΙΗΗ | | <ΟΟΖΑ, apparently a 'Gnostic' charm ending with [φύλ]άσσου. A few pieces of jewellery, e.g. an oblong plate of gold to which three draped female figures, with bucrania between them, are soldered; from the plate hangs a snake biting its own tail (id. ib. p. 752). (13) A small bearded (?) head in amber (id. ib. p. 753 f. Atlas pl. 12, 6). (14) Sundry objects in ivory, e.g. a bull carved in the round (id. ib. p. 754 no. 1 Atlas pl. 12, 7) and a perfume-bottle (?) in the shape of a headless female body (id. ib. p. 753 f. no. 2 with figs.): (15) Two pieces of rock-crystal shaped like plano-convex lenses (id. ib. p. 756. On the vexed question of classical lenses see H. Blümner Technologie und Terminologie der Gewerbe und Künste bei Griechen und Römern Leipzig 1884 iii. 298 ff.). (16) Two small oblong seal-stones of steatite (F. Halbherr loc. cit. p. 757 f. with fig.). (17) Phoenician or pseudo-Egyptian majolicas (id. ib. p. 758 ff. with figs.). (18) Objects in terra cotta, e.g. the archaic figurine of a bull; the two heads of a god, with a modius, and a goddess, with a diadem, embracing; lamps with acanthus-leaf handles (id. ib. p. 759 ff. with fig.). (19) Arrow-heads and lance-heads of iron (id. ib. p. 764 with figs.).

Plate XLIII

Mount Juktas, as seen from the west, showing the profile of the 'Pursuer' (Διώκτας).

See page 939 n. 1.

Mount Juktas¹.

(20) A tablet of terra cotta bearing in rubricated characters of Roman date the crucial inscription Δι' Ἰδα[ω] | εὐχῆν | Ἀστήρ [A]λεξάνδρου (E. Fabricius in the Ath. Mitth. 1885 x. 280 f., F. Halbherr loc. cit. p. 766).

Thus for more than a millennium—from 'Minoan' to Roman times—men paid their vows to Zeus Ἰδαῖος in the shadow of a great rock and turned again, well content, to the duties that awaited them in the sunlight five thousand feet below.

The cave on Mt Ide called Arkésion (supra p. 548 f.) has been identified tentatively with the Kamares grotto (L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 861). But its traditional connexion with the Kouretes (supra p. 549 n. 1) points rather to identification with the better known Idaean Cave, where in fact the Curetic λύμφανον was found (supra). The name Ἀρκέσιον has been interpreted (L. Büchner loc. cit.) as the 'Bear's Hole' (from ἄρκος, a doublet of ἄρκτος: see Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*³ p. 53, Boisacq Dict. Etym. de la Langue Gr. p. 78 f.)—a view which might be supported by the existence of a cavern usually described as that of the Bear (Arkhoudhes) in the promontory of Akrotiri, east of Kydonia (Canea) (Miss D. M. A. Bate in A. Trevor-Battye Camping in Crete London 1913 p. 248). After all, bears had some claim to be regarded as the nurses of the infant Zeus (supra i. 112 n. 5).

Mr Trevor-Battye op. cit. p. 108 ff. describes and illustrates his ascent of the mountain. He says (p. 119 ff.): 'The actual summit of Ida is a blunted cone with rounded sides. Most of the summit was clear of snow, but on the southern and western sides lay some large melting drifts. The loose stones that pave this cone are laid down flat by the wind. The summit, 8,193 feet high, is now called Stavros... On the tip-top of Ida is a "monastery": every church in Crete is called a monastery. This particular one is a tiny little building made very strong against the wind; it is built on the same principle as the mountain-shepherds' huts—of slabs of stone laid one upon the other. At one point only has any mortar been used, just at the springing of the chancel dome. There were tapers inside for the devotees to burn before the ikons... I gathered... that a priest comes once a year to hold a service in this church. The church is surrounded by a walled enclosure that also includes a well of excellent ice-cold water... Beyond the enclosure a circle had been cleared of stones, and here, said Ianni, once a year the people danced. Spratt tells how, as he went up to Ida, he saw forty ibex, and that a group were actually browsing on the summit; but that was over fifty years ago. I scanned the rocks in every direction in vain.'

¹ Mt Juktas, an isolated ridge running from south to north towards Knossos and the sea, attains a height of 2720 ft. Its modern Greek name Γιούκτας or Γιούκρας derives from an earlier Διώκτας and means the 'Pursuer' (διώκτης). Such a name of course presupposes a myth, and very fortunately the myth is preserved for us by Kallimachos, who describes the 'pursuit' (διωκτόν) of Britomartis by Minos (Kallim. h. Artem. 189 ff., supra i. 527 n. 1: cp. Diod. 5. 76 διωκομένην ὑπὸ Μίνω). The poet tells how Britomartis, to escape the embraces of Minos, plunged from the top of Mt Dikte into the sea, but omits to state what became of her disappointed lover. In all probability he was transformed into the mountain still called the 'Pursuer.' For the outline of Juktas, as seen from the west, is suggestive of a human face. A. Trevor-Battye Camping in Crete London 1913 p. 184 with pl. (my pl. xliii is reproduced from a photograph very kindly given me by Mr C. R. Haines) remarks: 'Rocks and mountains often bear a likeness to human lineaments; every traveller can recall many such resemblances, but none that I have seen have the convincing dignity of the face on Iuktas. The bearded face and the drapery or pillow on which the head reposes occupy the whole of the mountain-top. Seen in the flatness of the mid-day light it is an interesting outline and no more, but at turn of the sun the sculpturing begins. The sun works in masses, as Michelangelo worked; it carves out the planes of the face as Donatello carved them, letting detail go. So the chiselling continues, a high light here, a deepening shadow there, till with closed eyes the head has sunk down upon its pillow just as the sun is low.' Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos at Knossos London 1921 i.

156 with fig. 112 informs us 'that the long ridge of the mountain rising in successive peaks has given rise to a widespread belief in the island that it reproduces the profile of the native Zeus.' It would seem, then, that in the popular interpretation of this natural phenomenon Minos has been dispossessed by Zeus.

The same process of religious expropriation can perhaps be detected in another famous feature of Mt Juktas—the so-called tomb of Zeus. It may be that this celebrated monument really was, as the schol. Kallim. h. Zeus 8 (supra i. 158 n. 2, cited infra) declares it to have been, ab origine the tomb of Minos (cp. Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1901 xxi. 121 n. 3, id. The Palace of Minos at Knossos i. 154). The transition from king to god, always possible, becomes peculiarly probable in the case of one who was the Διὸς μεγάλου δαριστῆς (Od. 19. 179). A lawgiver who claimed to speak with the authority of Zeus might readily be regarded as Zeus incarnate (supra i. 662 with n. 1). The tomb has already engaged our attention at some length (supra i. 157—163). I shall therefore be content to collect here the ancient allusions to it—a task well, but not quite adequately, performed by J. Meursius Creta, Cyprus, Rhodus Amstelodami 1675 pp. 77—81—and to add a brief account of the excavations carried out on the site in 1909 by Sir A. J. Evans and Dr D. Mackenzie (Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos at Knossos London 1921 i. 154 ff. figs. 112—114).

Epimenides (?) ap. the Gannat Busamé (cited supra i. 157 n. 3) and ap. Isho'dad (cited supra i. 663 n. 2). Kallim. h. Zeus 8 f. Κρήτες αἰὲ ψεύσται· καὶ γὰρ τάφον, ᾧ ἄνα, σείο | Κρήτες ἐτεκτῆσαντο· σὸ δ' οὐ θάνας, ἐσσι γὰρ αἰὲ μετὰ τάφον· ἐν Κρήτῃ ἐπὶ τῷ τάφῳ τοῦ Μίνωος ἐπεγέγραπτο "Μίνωος τοῦ Διὸς τάφος"· τῷ χρόνῳ δὲ τὸ τοῦ Μίνωος (A. Meineke cj. τὸ "Μίνωος τοῦ") ἀπληίφθη (Meineke cj. ἀπληίφθη) ὥστε περιλειφθῆναι <"τοῦ (ins. O. Schneider) > Διὸς τάφος." ἐκ τούτου οὖν ἔχειν λέγουσι Κρήτες τὸν τάφον τοῦ Διὸς. ἥ ἔτι Κορύβαντες λαβόντες αὐτὸν ἐπὶ τῷ (so Meineke for τοῦ cod. E, τὸ vulg.) κρύψαι διὰ τὸν Κρήτων προσποιήσαντο τάφον αὐτῷ. Enn. sacr. hist. frag. 526 Baehrens ap. Lact. div. inst. 1. 11 Ennius in Sacra Historia descriptis omnibus quae in vita sua gessit ad ultimum sic ait: 'deinde Iuppiter postquam quinque terras circumvit omnibusque amicis atque cognatis suis imperia divisit reliquitque hominibus leges mores frumenta paravit multaque alia bona fecit, immortali gloria memoriae adfectus sempiterna monumenta sui reliquit. aetate pessum acta in Creta vitam commutavit et ad deos abiit eumque Curetes filii sui curaverunt decoraveruntque eum (W. von Hartel cj. <ut d> eum); et sepulchrum eius est in Creta in oppido Gnosso et dicitur Vesta hanc urbem creavisse; inque sepulchro eius est inscriptum antiquis litteris Graecis ΖΑΝ ΚΡΟΝΟΥ id est Latine Iuppiter Saturni.' hoc certe non poetae tradunt, sed antiquarum rerum scriptores. quae adeo vera sunt, ut ea Sibyllinis versibus confirmentur, qui sunt tales: δαίμονας ἀψύχους, νεκῶν εἶδωλα καμόντων, | ὦν Κρήτῃ καύχημα τάφους ἡ δύσμορος ξέει (= oracl. Sibyll. 8. 47 f. The passage continues, after a comma, θρησκευούσα θρήνῳσιν ἀναίσθητος νεκέσσειν). etc. Varr. ap. Solin. 11. 7 Varro in opere quod de litoralibus est etiam suis temporibus adfirmat sepulchrum Iovis ibi visitatum (C. Cichorius Römische Studien Leipzig—Berlin 1922 p. 212 argues, from a comparison of Varr. frag. 364 Bücheler ap. Non. Marc. p. 775, 14 ff. Lindsay, that Varro had himself seen the tomb). Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 53 tertium (sc. Iovem) Cretensem, Saturni filium, cuius in illa insula sepulchrum ostenditur (quoted by Lact. div. inst. 1. 11). Diod. 3. 61 γεγονέναι δὲ καὶ ἕτερον Δία, τὸν ἀδελφὸν μὲν Οὐρανοῦ, τῆς δὲ Κρήτης βασιλεύσαντα, τῇ δόξῃ πολλὸν λειπόμενον τοῦ μεταγενεστέρου. τούτου μὲν οὖν βασιλεύσαι τοῦ σύμπαντος κόσμου, τὸν δὲ προγενέστερον, δυναστεύοντα τῆς προειρημένης νήσου, δέκα παῖδας γεννήσαι τοῖς ὀνομασθέντας Κούρητας· προσαγορεύσαι δὲ καὶ τὴν νήσον ἀπὸ τῆς γυναικὸς Ἰδαίαν, ἐν ἣ καὶ τελευτήσαντα ταφῆναι, δεκνυμένον τοῦ τῆν ταφῆν δεξαμένου τόπου μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων, ib. 6. 5 Vogel (infra). Anth. Pal. 7. 275. 5 f. (Gaetulicus) τὸν ψεύσται δὲ με τύμβον ἐπὶ χθονὶ θέντο. τί θαῦμα; | Κρήτες ὄκον ψεύσται, καὶ Διὸς ἐστι τάφος (for the cenotaph of Astydamas, a Cydonian drowned between Cape Malea and Crete). Lucan. 8. 871 f. atque erit Aegyptus populis fortasse nepotum | tam mendax Magni tumulo quam Creta Tonantis. Mela 2. 112 Crete...multis famigerata fabulis...maxime tamen eo quod ibi sepulti Iovis paene clarum vestigium, sepulchrum cui nomen eius insculptum est adcolae ostendunt. Stat. Theb. 1. 278 f. (Iuno to Iupiter) placet Ida nocens mentitaque manes | Creta tuos. Tatian. or. adv. Graec. 44 τάφος τοῦ Ὀλυμπίου Διὸς καθ' ὑμᾶς δεικνύται, κἄν ψεύδεσθαι τις τοὺς Κρήτας λέγῃ. Loukian. Iur. trag. 45 εἰ δ' ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ βροντῶν ἐστί, τὸ ἄμεινον ἂν εἰδῆς ἐκείθεν ποθεν παρὰ τῶν θεῶν ἀφύγμενος, ἐπεὶ οἱ γε ἐκ Κρήτης ἦκοντες ἄλλα ἡμῖν διηγούνται, τάφον τινὰ ἐκεῖθι δεικνύσθαι καὶ στήλην ἐφεστάναι δηλοῦσαι ὡς οὐκέτι βροντήσειεν ἂν ὁ Ζεὺς πάλαι τεθνεώς, de sacrif. 10 οἱ δ' αὖ Κρήτες οὐ γενέσθαι παρ' αὐτοῖς οὐδὲ τραφήναι μόνον τὸν Δία λέγουσιν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τάφον αὐτοῦ δεικνύσθαι· καὶ ἡμεῖς ἄρα τοσοῦτον ἠπατήμεθα χρόνον οἰόμενοι τὸν Δία βροντᾶν τε καὶ ἕναι καὶ τάλλα πάντα ἐπιτελεῖν, ὃ δὲ ἐλλέθῃ πάλαι τεθνεώς παρὰ Κρησὶ τεθαμμένος, philopat. 10 ἀλλ' ἔτι ἀνεμνήσθη τὰ τῶν Κρητῶν, οἱ τάφον ἐπεδεικνύτό μοι τοῦ Διὸς σου καὶ τὰ τὴν μητέρα θρέψαντα λόχμα (so M. Solanus and F. Guyet for δόχμα), ὡς ἀειθαλεῖς αἱ λόχμαι αὐταὶ διαμένουσι, philopseud. 3 τὸ δὲ καὶ πόλεις ἤδη καὶ ἔθνη πολλὰ κοινῇ καὶ δημοσίᾳ ψεύδεσθαι πῶς οὐ γελοῖον; εἰ Κρήτες μὲν τοῦ Διὸς τάφον δεικνύοντες οὐκ αἰσχύνονται, κ.τ.λ., Τίμων ὁ ἤδη ποτὲ οὖν, ὃ Κρόνου καὶ Ῥέας υἱέ, τὸν βαθὺν τοῦτον ὕπνον ἀποσεισάμενος καὶ νῆδυμον—ὑπὲρ τὸν Ἐπιμενίδην γὰρ κεκοιμησάμενος—καὶ ἀναρριπίσας τὸν κεραυνὸν ἢ ἐκ τῆς Οἴτης ἐναναστάμενος μεγάλην ποιήσας τὴν φλόγα ἐπιδείξαιδ' ἴνα χολῆν ἀνδρώδους καὶ νεανικοῦ Διὸς, εἰ μὴ ἀληθῆ ἐστί τὰ ὑπὸ Κρητῶν περὶ σοῦ καὶ τῆς ἐκεί ταφῆς μυθολογούμενα. Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 30 p. 40 f. Schwartz (after quoting Kallim. h. Zeus 8 f.) πιστεύω, Καλλιμαχῆ, ταῖς γουαῖς τοῦ Διὸς ἀπιστεῖς αὐτοῦ τῷ τάφῳ καὶ νομῶν ἐπισκιάσειν τάληθές καὶ τοῖς ἀγνοοῦσι κηρύσσει τὸν τεθνηκότα κἄν μὲν τὸ ἄντρον βλέπῃς, τὸν Ῥέας ὑπομμνησκή τόκου, ἂν δὲ τὴν σορὸν ἴδῃς, ἐπισκοπεῖς τῷ τεθνηκότι, οὐκ εἰδὼς ὅτι μόνος αἰδῖος ὁ ἀγέννητος θεός. Theophil. ad Autol. 1. 10 πέσομαι δὲ σου καγῶ, ὡ ἀνθρώπε, πόσοι Ζήγες εὐρίσκονται· Ζεὺς μὲν γὰρ ἐν πρώτοις προσ-αγορεύεται Ὀλύμπιος, καὶ Ζεὺς Λατιάριος (leg. Λατιάριος), καὶ Ζεὺς Κάσιος, καὶ Ζεὺς Κεραύνιος, καὶ Ζεὺς Προπάτωρ, καὶ Ζεὺς Παννύχιος, καὶ Ζεὺς Πολιοῦχος, καὶ Ζεὺς Καπετώλιος· καὶ ὁ μὲν Ζεὺς παῖς Κρόνου, βασιλεὺς Κρητῶν γενόμενος, ἔχει τάφον ἐν Κρήτῃ· οἱ δὲ λοιποὶ ἴσως οὐδὲ ταφῆς κατηξιώθησαν, ib. 2. 3 πρὸς τί δὲ καὶ καταλέλοιπεν ὁ Ζεὺς τὴν Ἰδην; πότερον τελευτήσας, ἢ οὐκ ἔτι ἤρσεν αὐτῷ ἐκεῖνο τὸ ὄρος; τοῦ δὲ καὶ ἐπορεύθη; εἰς οὐρανοῦς; οὐχί· ἀλλὰ ἐρεῖς εἰς Κρήτην; ναί, ὅπου καὶ τάφος αὐτῷ ἔως τοῦ δεῦρο δεικνύται. Clem. Al. prot. 2. 37. 4 p. 28, 6 ff. Stählin ζήτει σου τὸν Δία· μὴ τὸν οὐρανόν, ἀλλὰ τὴν γῆν πολυπραγμονεῖ. ὁ Κρῆς σοι διηγῆσεται, παρ' ᾧ καὶ τέθαπται· Καλλιμαχος ἐν ὕμνοις (h. Zeus 8 f.) “καὶ γὰρ τάφον, ὦ ἀνα, σείο | Κρήτες ἐτεκτήναντο.” τέθνηκε γὰρ ὁ Ζεὺς (μὴ δυσφύρει) ὡς Λήδα (J. Markland cj. ὦ Λήδα), ὡς κύκνος, ὡς ἀετός, ὡς ἄνθρωπος ἐρωτικός, ὡς δράκων. Philostr. v. soph. 2. 4 p. 74 Kayser (Antiochos, a sophist of Aigai in Kilikia, s. ii A.D.) ἀριστα δὲ καὶ ὑπὲρ τῶν Κρητῶν ἀπολελόγηται, τῶν κρινομένων ἐπὶ τῷ τοῦ Διὸς σήματι, φυσιολογία τε καὶ θεολογία πάσῃ ἐναγωνισάμενος λαμπρῶς. Orig. c. Cels. 3. 43 μετὰ ταῦτα λέγει (sc. ὁ Κέλσος) περὶ ἡμῶν ὅτι καταγελωμέν τῶν προσκυνούντων τὸν Δία, ἐπεὶ τάφος αὐτοῦ ἐν Κρήτῃ δεικνύται, καὶ οὐδὲν ἦττον σέβομεν τὸν ἀπὸ τοῦ τάφου, οὐκ εἰδότες, πῶς καὶ καθὼ Κρήτες τὸ τοιοῦτον ποιοῦσιν. ἄρα οὖν ὅτι ἐν τούτοις ἀπολογεῖται μὲν περὶ Κρητῶν καὶ τοῦ Διὸς καὶ τοῦ τάφου αὐτοῦ, αἰνιττόμενος τροπικὰς ὑπονοίας, καθ' ἃς πεπλάσθαι λέγεται ὁ περὶ τοῦ Διὸς μῦθος· ἡμῶν δὲ κατηγορεῖ, ὁμολογούντων μὲν τετάφθαι τὸν ἡμέτερον Ἰησοῦν φασκόντων δὲ καὶ ἐγγεγέρθαι αὐτὸν ἀπὸ τοῦ τάφου, ὅπερ Κρήτες οὐκέτι περὶ τοῦ Διὸς ἱστοροῦσιν. ἐπεὶ δὲ δοκεῖ συναγορεύειν τῷ ἐν Κρήτῃ τάφῳ τοῦ Διὸς λέγων· ὅπως μὲν καὶ καθότι Κρήτες τοῦτο ποιοῦσιν, οὐκ εἰδότες, φήσομεν ἐπὶ καὶ ὁ Κυρηναῖος Καλλιμαχος, πλείστα ὅσα ἀναγνοῦσι ποιήματα καὶ ἱστορίας σχεδὸν πᾶσαν ἀναλεξάμενος Ἑλληνικὴν, οὐδεμίαν οἶδε τροπολογίαν ἐν τοῖς περὶ Διὸς καὶ τοῦ τάφου αὐτοῦ. κ.τ.λ. (a quotation and discussion of Kallim. h. Zeus 8 f., 10, 6 ff.). Min. Fel. Oct. 21. 8 eius (sc. Saturni) filius Iuppiter Cretae excluso parente regnavit, illic obiit, illic filios habuit: adhuc (C. A. Heumann cj. illic adhuc) antrum Iovis visitur et sepulcrum eius ostenditur, et ipsis sacris suis humanitatis arguitur. Cypr. de idol. van. 2 (iv. 567 A Migne) antrum Iovis in Creta visitur (uisitor cod. L. uisitor cod. C¹. uisitor cod. C². uidetur cod. P. dicitur cod. M. mittitur cod. B.), et sepulcrum eius ostenditur, et ab eo Saturnum fugatum manifestum est. Porph. v. Lyth. 17 (cited supra i. 646 n. 3). Arnob. adv. nat. 4. 14 aiunt igitur theologi vestri et vetustatis absconditae conditores, tris (v.l. tres) in rerum natura Ioves esse, ex quibus unus Aether sit patre progenitus, alter Caelo, tertius vero Saturno apud insulam Cretam et sepulturae traditus et procreatus, ib. 4. 25 apud insulam Cretam sepulturae esse mandatum Iovem nobis editum traditur? Firm. Mat. 7. 6 et a vanis Cretensibus adhuc mortui Iovis tumulus adoratur.

Serv. in Verg. Aen. 7. 180 antiqui reges nomina sibi plerumque vindicabant deorum...hinc est quod apud Cretam esse dicitur Iovis sepulcrum. Epiphani. adv. haer. 1. 3. 42 (ii. 376 Dindorf) και πάλιν φήσαντος (Titus 1. 12) “εἰπέ τις ἴδιος αὐτῶν προφήτης, Κρήτες δέει ψεύσται, κακὰ θηρία, γαστέρες ἀργαί,” ἵνα τὸν Ἐπιμενίδην δελεῖη, ἀρχαῖον ὄντα φιλόσοφον, και Μίθρα (leg. μάρτυρα) τοῦ παρὰ Κρησὶν εἰδώλου (v.l. εἰδωλλου)· ἀφ’ οὗπερ και Καλλιμαχος ὁ Δίβιος τὴν μαρτυρίαν εἰς αὐτὸν συνανέτεινε, ψευδῶς περὶ Διὸς λέγων, Κρήτες δέει ψεύσται· κ.τ.λ. (Kallim. h. Zeus 8 f.). Hieron. in ep. Paul. ad Tit. 1 (xxvii. 573 A—C Migne) sunt qui putent hunc verum de Callimacho Cyrenensis poeta sumptum, et aliqua ex parte non errant. siquidem et ipse in laudibus Iovis adversus Cretenses scriptitans, qui sepulcrum eius se ostendere gloriantur, ait: ‘Cretenses semper mendaces; qui et sepulcrum eius sacrilega mente fabricati sunt.’ verum, ut supra diximus, integer versus de Epimenide poeta ab apostolo sumptus est; et eius Callimachus in suo poemate est usus exordio. sive vulgare proverbium, quo Cretenses fallaces appellabantur, sine furto alieni operis in metrum retulit. putant quidam apostolum reprehendendum quod imprudenter lapsus sit et (alii ut), dum falsos doctores arguit, illum versiculum comprobari, quod propterea Cretenses dicuntur (alii dicunt) esse fallaces quod Iovis sepulcrum inane construxerint. si enim, inquit, Epimenides sive Callimachus propterea Cretenses fallaces et malas bestias arguunt et ventres pigros quod divina non sentiant et Iovem qui regnet in caelo in sua insula fingant sepultum, et hoc quod illi dixerunt esse verum apostoli sententia comprobatur, sequitur Iovem non mortuum esse sed vivum. Rufin. recognit. 10. 23 ipsius denique parricidae, qui et patruos peremit et uxores eorum vitiavit, sororibus stuprum intulit, multififormis magi sepulcrum evidens est apud Cretenses, qui tamen scientes et confitentes infanda eius atque incesta opera et omnibus enarrantes ipsi eum confiteri deum non erubescunt. Caesarius (youngest brother of Gregorius Nazianzenos) dial. 2. respons. ad interrogat. 112 (xxxviii. 992 Migne) οἱ δὲ τούτοις πειθόμενοι οὐ θεῶ ἀλλὰ σποδῶ προσκυνοῦσι Διὸς (so Cotelerius for διὰ) τοῦ πατραλοῦ και τῶν οἰκείων τέκνων τοὺς γάμους φθείραντος και ἐν τάφῳ παρὰ Κρησὶ (so Cotelerius for κρήσει) φθαρέντος, ὅπερ οὐκ ἔστι θεοῦ. Chrysost. in ep. Paul. ad Tit. 3. 1 (lxii. 676 f. Migne) και γὰρ ὅτε τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις διελέγετο, μεταξύ τῆς δημηγορίας φησὶν, “Ἀγνώστω Θεῶ”· και πάλιν, “τοῦ γὰρ και γένος ἐσμέν, ὡς και τινες τῶν καθ’ ἡμᾶς ποιητῶν εἰρήκασιν.” Ἐπιμενίδης οὖν ἐστὶν ὁ εἰρηκῶς, Κρής και αὐτὸς ὢν· ἀλλὰ πόθεν κινούμενος, ἀναγκαῖον εἰπεῖν τὴν ὑπόθεσιν πρὸς ἡμᾶς· ἔχει δὲ οὕτως· οἱ Κρήτες τάφον ἔχουσι τοῦ Διὸς ἐπιγραφέντα τοῦτο· “ἐνταῦθα Ζᾶν κείται, ὃν (leg. τὸν) Δία κικλήσκουσι.” διὰ ταύτην οὖν τὴν ἐπιγραφὴν ὁ ποιητὴς ψεύστας τοὺς Κρήτας κωμωδῶν, προῖων πάλιν ἐπάγει, αὖξων μᾶλλον τὴν κωμωδῶν· “και γὰρ τάφον, ὃ ἄνα, σείο | Κρήτες ἐτεκτῆναντο· σὺ δ’ οὐ θάνας, ἐσοὶ γὰρ αἰεὶ.” κ.τ.λ. Paulin. Nol. 19. 84 ff. (lxi. 515 Migne) Marcus, Alexandria, tibi datus, ut bove pulso | cum Iove nec pecudes Aegyptus in Apide demens, | in Iove nec civem coleret male Creta sepultum. Kyrril. Al. c. Iulian. 10. 342 (lxxvi. 1028 B Migne) γέγραφε δὲ πάλιν περὶ αὐτοῦ (sc. τοῦ Πυθαγόρου) Πορφύριος (v. Pylh. 17)· “εἰς δὲ τὸ Ἰδαῖον καλούμενον ἄντρον καταβάς, ξρια ἔχων μέλανα, τὰς νενομισμένας τριττὰς ἐννέα ἡμέρας ἐκεῖ διέτριψε και καθήγισε τῷ Δί, τὸν τε στορνύμενον αὐτῷ κατ’ ἔτος θρόνον ἐθεάσατο, ἐπίγραμμα τε (Auth. Pal. 7. 746 cited supra p. 345 n. 1) ἐνεχάραξεν ἐν τάφῳ, ἐπιγράψας ΠΥΘΑΓΟΡΑΣ ΤΩ ΔΙΙ, οὗ ἡ ἀρχή,—ὡδε μέγας κείται ΖΑΝ, ὃν ΔΙΑ κικλήσκουσιν.” κ.τ.λ. Nonn. Dion. 8. 114 ff. ἀλλ’ ὅτε Δικταῆς Κορυβαντίδος ὑπόθι πέτρης | γέλιτος Ἀμισοῖο λεχώιον ἔδρακεν (sc. Ἡρη) ὕδωρ, | ἐνθα οἱ ἄλλοπρόσαλλος ὀρεστιάς ἤνετο δαίμων (sc. Ἀπάτη)· | και γὰρ ἀεὶ παρέμμενε Διὸς ψευδήμονι τύμβῳ | τεροπομένη Κρήτεσσιν, ἐπεὶ πέλον ἡπεροπήης. Theodoret. interp. ep. Paul. ad Tit. 1. 12 f. (lxxxii. 861 B Migne) οὗ γὰρ Ἰουδαίων προφήτης Καλλιμαχος ἦν (αὐτοῦ γὰρ ἡ τοῦ ἔπους ἀρχή), ἀλλ’ Ἑλλήνων ἦν ποιητής. ἀλλ’ ὁ μὲν ποιητὴς διὰ τὸν τοῦ Διὸς τάφον τοὺς Κρήτας ὠνόμασε ψεύστας. ὁ δὲ θεῖος ἀπόστολος ἀληθῆ τὴν μαρτυρίαν ἐκάλεσεν, οὗ τὴν ποιητικὴν βεβαιῶν μυθολογίαν, ἀλλὰ τῶν Κρητῶν διελέγχων τὸ τῆς γνώμης ἀβέβαιον· ἀντὶ τοῦ, καλῶς ἡμᾶς προσηγόρευσε ψεύστας· τοιοῦτοι γὰρ καθεστήκατε. εἰκὸς δὲ και ἐτέρωθι τὸν καλούμενον Δία τεθνᾶναι και τούτους μάτην οἰκοδομήσαι τὸν τάφον. Sedulius Scotus in ep. Paul. ad Tit. 1 (ciii. 244 C Migne) Cretenses semper mendaces. hoc Epimenides sive Callimachus Cyrenensis de laudibus Iovis contra Cretenses dixit, qui dicebant apud eos sepultum quem raptum putabant in caelum. Schol. Bern. Lucan. 8. 872 (cited supra p. 342). Soud. s.v. Πήκος ὁ και Ζεὺς παραδοὺς τὴν τῆς δύσεως ἀρχὴν τῷ ἰδίῳ ἰῶ Ἐρμῆ τελευτᾶ, ζήσας κ' και εκατόν ἑτη· και τελευτῶν ἐκέλευσεν ἀποτεθῆναι τὸ ἑαυτοῦ σῶμα ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ τῇ νήσῳ <ἐν μνήματι>, ἐν ᾧ ἐπιγέγραπται· ἐνθάδε κείται θανῶν Πήκος ὁ και Ζεὺς. μέμνηται τοῦ τάφου τούτου πλείστοι ἐν τοῖς ἰδίοις συγγράμμασι. Kedren. hist. comf. 15 D—16 A (i. 28 f. Bekker) ὁ δὲ Κρόνος ἐξωσθεὶς τῆς βασιλείας ὑπὸ τοῦ ἰδίου υἱοῦ Διὸς, κατελθὼν ἐν τῇ δύσει κρατεῖ τῆς Ἰταλλας. εἶτα ὁ Ζεὺς ὑποχωρήσας τῶν Ἀσσυρίων παραγίνεται πρὸς τὸν πατέρα· ὁ δὲ παραχωρεῖ αὐτῷ βασιλεῦειν τῆς Ἰταλλας. και πολλοὶς ἔτεσι βασιλεύσας εἶτα τελευτήσας κατατίθεται ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ...μετὰ δὲ τὴν τοῦ Διὸς τελευτὴν Φαῦνος ὁ υἱὸς αὐτοῦ ἐβασίλευσεν, δς μετωνομάσθη Ἐρμῆς. An attempt to trace the antecedents of the version common to Soudias and Kedrenos will be found supra p. 693 n. 4. The sources that mention the burial in Crete are Cramer anecd. Paris. ii. 236, 15 ff. (=Diod. 6. 5 Vogel) μέλλων δὲ τελευτᾶν ὁ Ζεὺς ἐκέλευσε τὸ λείψανον αὐτοῦ τεθῆναι ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ νήσῳ· και κτίσαντες αὐτῷ ναὸν οἱ αὐτοῦ παῖδες ἔθηκαν αὐτὸν ἐκεῖ· ὅπερ μνήμά ἐστι μέχρι τῆς σήμερον, ᾧ και ἐπιγέγραπται, 'ἐνθάδε κατακείται Πίκος ὁ και Ζεὺς, δν και Δία καλοῦσι,' περὶ οὗ συνεγράψατο Διδώωρος ὁ σοφώτατος χρονογράφος, id. ii. 257, 33 ff. (cited supra p. 695), Io. Antioch. frag. 5 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 542 Müller) (cited supra p. 695) and frag. 6. 4 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 542 Müller) μέλλων δὲ τελευτᾶν ἐκέλευσε τὸ λείψανον αὐτοῦ ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ νήσῳ τεθῆναι· και κτίσαντες αὐτῷ ναὸν οἱ αὐτοῦ παῖδες ἔθηκαν αὐτὸν ἐκεῖ ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ ἐν μνήματι· ὅπερ μνήμα ἐστὶν ἔως τοῦ παρόντος ἐν Κρήτῃ. ἐν τῷ μνήματι ἐπιγέγραπται, 'ἐνθα κείται θανῶν Πίκος ὁ και Ζεὺς, δν και Δία καλοῦσι,' the Chronicon Paschale 44 B—C (i. 80 Dindorf) ἐν ᾧ χρόνῳ Πίκος ὁ και Ζεὺς ἐτελεύτα, ἐκέλευσεν τὸ λείψανον αὐτοῦ ταφῆν τεθῆναι ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ νήσῳ· και κτίσαντες αὐτῷ ναὸν οἱ αὐτοῦ παῖδες ἔθηκαν αὐτὸν ἐκεῖ ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ νήσῳ ἐν μνήματι· ὅπερ μνήμά ἐστιν ἐν τῇ αὐτῇ Κρήτῃ κείμενον ἔως τοῦ παρόντος, ἐν ᾧ ἐπιγέγραπται, 'ἐνθάδε κείται θανῶν Πίκος ὁ και Ζεὺς, δν και Δία καλοῦσιν'· περὶ οὗ συνεγράψατο Διδώωρος ὁ σοφώτατος χρονογράφος, δς και ἐν τῇ ἐκθέσει τοῦ συγγράμματος αὐτοῦ τοῦ περὶ θεῶν εἶπεν δτι Ζεὺς ὁ τοῦ Κρόνου υἱὸς ἐν τῇ Κρήτῃ κείται (Diod. 3. 61 supra). Psell. ἀναγωγή εἰς τὸν Τάνταλον (supra i. 158 n. 4) p. 348 Boissonade τοιαύτη μὲν και ἡ δευτέρα δόξα περὶ τοῦ Διὸς τοῖς Ἑλλησιν· ἡ δὲ τρίτη ἱστορικωτέρα, και ἴσως ἀληθεστέρα. αὐτὸν τε γὰρ και τὸν τούτου πατέρα τὸν Κρόνον οἱ μῦθοι ὀμόθεν ἀπὸ Κρήτης γεννώσι, και τὸν μὲν οὐκ ἴσασι δπου γῆς κατορῶνται, τοῦ δὲ τὸν ἐπὶ τῷ τάφῳ δεικνύουσι κολωνῶν· εἶτα, τὴν θνητὴν ὑπεραναβάντες φύσιν, ἀγχισπῶρος ποιοῦσι τῆς οὐσίας τῆς κρείττονος, και πρὸς τὸ τῆς θειότητος εἶδος μεταβιβάζουσι. τοῦτῃ δὲ τῷ λόγῳ και Ἐρμῆς προστίθεται ὁ Τρισμέγιστος. τᾶλλα γὰρ παραθεωρῶν τοὺς μύθους, τούτων δὲ μόνον γυμνὸν ἐξεδέξατο, και πρὸς τὴν ἐκείνου μῆμῃσιν τὸν ἑαυτοῦ παῖδα διερεθίζει τὸν Τάτ (so J. F. Boissonade for τα cod. A. Τάνταλον cod. B).

For references to the tomb of Zeus in writers of the Renaissance and of modern times see supra i. 158 ff. A fifteenth-century map of Crete in the British Museum (MS. Add. 15, 760, f. 11), published by F. W. Hasluck in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1905—1906 xii. 214 f. pl. 1, not only marks the Sepulcrum Iouis but adds a view of it, though—to judge from the representation of the neighbouring Laberintus as a circular maze-like structure—this is in the nature of a fancy-sketch.

A. Taramelli in 1899 published a rough plan of Mt. Juktas (supra i. 159 fig. 130), and drew special attention to the precinct-wall of 'Cyclopean' masonry, which crowns its northern summit at a height of c. 2300 ft above the sea (supra i. 160 fig. 132, 161 fig. 133). Within the wall he duly noted the scattered traces of a building, together with much broken pottery including pieces of 'Minoan' pithoi (supra i. 161 n. 1).

Sir A. J. Evans in 1909 determined the approximate date of the precinct-wall by finding in its inner interstices sherds of 'Middle Minoan i a' ware. 'Middle Minoan i' sherds were also abundant over the rocky surface enclosed by the wall. The cult here carried on passed through two well-marked phases, of 'Middle Minoan' and 'Late Minoan' date respectively.

During the earlier phase offerings were made in the open air at a great altar of ashes. This is represented by two strata—a layer of grey ashes yielding ceramic remains of the periods 'Middle Minoan i and ii,' and above it a layer of reddish burnt earth yielding sherds of 'Middle Minoan iii' date. Throughout both strata were votive relics in terra cotta—among the ashes, male and female figures, oxen, goats, human limbs (an arm perforated for suspension, two legs joined together), parts of animals (numerous clay ox-horns),

'prayer-pellets' like those of Petsofa (J. L. Myres in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1902—1903 ix. 382); in the burnt earth, larger goats and oxen, the raised arms of a worshipper, clay locks of human hair, flat shell-like coils, and a limestone ladle with traces of an inscription in linear characters (class A). A similar ladle likewise inscribed was found in a deposit of the same date on Troullos, a foot-hill of Mt Juktas (S. A. Xanthoudides in the 'Eφ. Δρχ. 1909 p. 179 ff. figs. 1—4).

The later phase of the cult ('Late Minoan') witnessed the foundation of a rectangular building with walls of ashlar blocks and outer terrace-walls of rougher construction. The building was approached by an ascent (A—A) and comprised an entrance-chamber (B 1), a magazine (?) (B 2), and an inner room (C). In the floor of B 1 a large hollow has been dug by treasure-hunters. On the walls of B 2 fragments of a plaster-facing are still to be seen. And in C are remains of a paving in white-faced cement. The whole building 'seems to have reproduced the arrangement of a small house of the early Cretan and Aegean "but and ben" type, about 16 × 10 metres in its exterior dimensions' (Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos at Knossos London 1921 i. 158 with fig. 114 = my fig. 837).

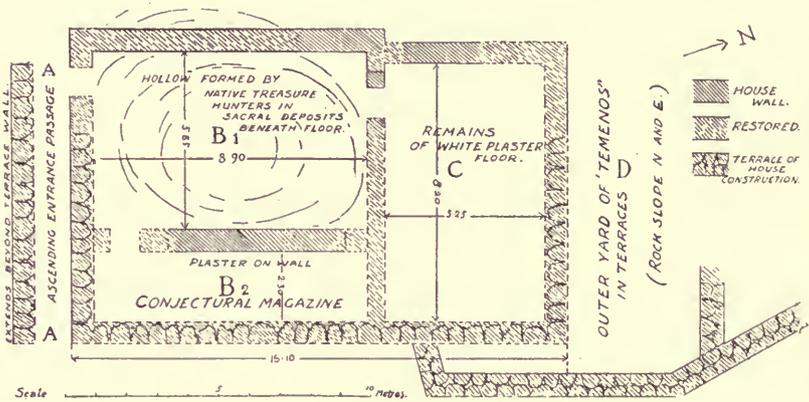

Fig. 837.

Outside the building, to the north, lay a tēmenos of roughly triangular shape supported by terrace-walls.

Here knowledge ends and conjecture begins. Sir Arthur Evans (op. cit. p. 158 ff.) surmises that the building described above 'was a little house of shelter and refectory for the Goddess on her mountain top, a "Casa Santa," etc., and that the tēmenos was 'the hypaethral part of the Sanctuary, well adapted for the exposure of a pillar form of the divinity.' Further, he thinks that a gold signet from Knossos (supra p. 48 fig. 19), referable to the period 'Late Minoan ii,' represents 'the Minoan Mother Goddess...bringing down the warrior youth, whether her paramour or actual son, in front of his sacred pillar'—a scene which 'may be even taken to foreshadow the "Tomb of Zeus,"' for 'A later age seems to have regarded these baetylic pillars as actual tombs of divinities.'

Personally I should rather suppose that, just as Kinyras and his descendants were buried in the sanctuary of Aphrodite at Paphos (Ptolemaios of Megalopolis frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 66 Müller) ap. Clem. Al. protr. 3. 45. 4 p. 35, 1 ff. Stählin and ap. Arnob. adv. nat. 6. 6), just as Erichthonios was buried in the precinct of Athena at Athens (Apollod. 3. 14. 7, alib.), just as Hippolytos was buried beside the temple of Aphrodite Kataskopta at Troizen (Paus. 2. 32. 3 f., cp. L. R. Farnell Greek Hero Cults and Ideas of Immortality Oxford 1921 p. 66)—and the list could be lengthened (see Clem. Al. protr. 3. 44. 4 ff. p. 34, 7 ff. Stählin, Arnob. adv. nat. 6. 6)—, so Minos the priestly king of Knossos lay buried within the circuit-wall of the mountain-goddess. I should conjecture that during his lifetime he had played the part of Zeus (supra i. 662 n. 1, cp. 527 n. 1), or rather of Zan the older form of Zeus (supra p. 340 ff.), and that after his death he continued to be venerated as Zan or Zeus incarnate. Hence the persistent tradition that the tomb was inscribed ZAN KRONOY (Enn. loc. cit.), TAN KRONOY (schol. Bern. Lucan. loc. cit.), or ὡδε μέγας κείται ZAN ὄν ΔΙΑ κικλήσκουσι (supra p. 345). Hence too the ingenious guess of a late grammarian that the inscription originally ran Μίνως τοῦ Διὸς τάφος (schol. Kallim. loc. cit.).

Mount Alysis (?)¹.Mount Arbios².

Paganism in due course was superseded by, or at least overlaid with, Christianity. The southern and higher summit of Mt Juktas is topped by a church of Ἀυθέντης Χριστός, 'Christ the Lord,' to which there is an annual pilgrimage on August 6, the feast of the Μεταμόρφωσις or 'Transfiguration.' The church contains a chapel of the Panagia (Sir A. J. Evans op. cit. i. 154 with n. 7, supra i. 162 n. 1).

¹ Schol. Arat. phœn. 33 Δίκτω· Δίκτων (Δίκτων om. cod. M.) ἀκρωτήριον τῆς Κρήτης πλῆσιον τῆς Ἰδῆς τοῦ Κρητικοῦ ὄρους, ἐνθα ἐστὶν Ἄλυσίου Διὸς τέμενος παρὰ τὸ παρακείμενον ἐκεῖ ὄρος Ἄλυσις (so ed. Ald. περὶ τὸ περικείμενον ἄλσος, with ἡ ἄλυσος above ἄλσος cod. A. περὶ τὸ περικείμενον ἄλσος cod. M.). E. Maass cj. ἐνθα ἐστὶν Ἄλσειου Διὸς τέμενος. <ἐκλήθη δὲ οὗτος> παρὰ τὸ περικείμενον ἄλσος. Ἄλυσίος as a hyperdoricism for Ἡλύσιος is improbable.

² Zeus Ἄρβιος (Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἄρβιος... ἐστὶ καὶ ἐν Κρήτῃ Ἄρβιος ὄρος, ἐνθα τιμᾶται Ἄρβιος Ζεὺς). C. Müller in his commentary on Ptol. 3. 15. 3 Ἰνατος πόλις... Ἰερὸν ὄρος... Ἰεράπυτνα, and on Anon. stadiasm. Mar. Magn. 320 (Geogr. Gr. min. i. 506 Müller) identifies Ἰερὸν ὄρος with the mountain of Zeus Ἄρβιος—a view accepted by L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real.-Enc. viii. 1530 ('Zeus Orbios'), ib. xi. 1814.

R. Pashley Travels in Crete Cambridge—London 1837 i. 285 and T. A. B. Spratt Travels and Researches in Crete London 1865 i. 295 give illustrations of the cleft at Arvi. Pashley op. cit. p. 275 f. would locate the cult of Zeus Ἄρβιος at a point near the shore, where—as he was assured by the villagers of Haghio Vasili—ancient walls, since chiefly used in building the church, were formerly to be seen. Spratt op. cit. i. 294 concurred in this opinion. A. Trevor-Battye Camping in Crete London 1913 p. 147 f. was even more successful; for he found the memory of Zeus yet living in the locality. He spent an uncomfortable night in a general store at the village of Kalami, where he wanted to skin birds, press plants, and write. The natives, however, dropped in to talk. 'And I am not likely'—he says—'to forget the story of the Hammer of Zeus, for a hammer used to illustrate the story frequently fell very near my head as I skinned a bird on an inverted packing-case. They said that between us and the sea was a gorge in which, in its ultimate and very narrow ravine, one heard the hammer of Zeus. They told me that when the mountain wind was well astir, blow after blow fell upon this chasm with the sound and shock of a titanic hammer. The noise of these repeated blows they said was awe-inspiring. Now the only gorge of this character near there appears to be that which lies below Peuko and runs thence to the sea.... Spratt says of this ravine, that the rock is "singularly rent from summit to base by a yawning fissure, nearly 1000 feet high*." [Travels and Researches*, I 293.] He connects this rent with volcanic action evidenced in the rocks of the neighbouring valley (Myrtos), and proceeds: "In this remarkable feature, we probably see the reason for the erection of a temple to the God of Thunder at this locality, under the name of Jupiter Arbius. To whom but the God of Thunder could a temple be so appropriately dedicated when associated with such an apparent fracture from some great volcanic movement," etc. I venture to believe that could this distinguished seaman and geologist have listened to the men in the store that night, he would have accepted their story as a much more promising explanation of the temple of Zeus the Thunderer.'

Sir A. J. Evans The Palace of Minos at Knossos London 1921 i. 630 f., à propos of 'Minoan' libation-tables, says: 'a good specimen of a mottled steatite table of similar shape, though apparently uninscribed, was obtained by me in 1894 from the Knoll of Tartari in the striking cleft of Arvi on the South Coast² [Near Viano. The libation table is now in the Ashmolean Museum.], where in later times was a sanctuary of the indigenous God under the name of Zeus Arbios.' Id. in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1894 xiv. 285 f. fig. 16 publishes a green steatite pendant, inscribed with two linear characters, which he got from an early cist-grave at Arvi. There was clearly a 'Minoan' settlement on the site.

The name 'Αρβιος is of doubtful significance. One is tempted to compare it with the Latin arbor, since the district abounds in trees. Peuko 'was once a fine pine forest,' and the hollow leading to Kalami 'is filled with ilex, myrtle, pine, oaks and poplars. Lower down near the village grow figs, pomegranates, mulberry, and other more or less cultivated trees' (A. Trevor-Battye op. cit. p. 145 f.). Besides, Zeus is known to have been a tree-god in Crete; for he bore the title 'Επιρνώτιος (Hesych. s.v. 'Επιρνώτιος· Ζεὺς ἐν Κρήτῃ), which means either metaphorically 'set over the Growing Plants' (H. Voretzsch in Hermes 1870 iv. 273, Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 130 n. 3, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1109 n. 2, O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 198) or literally 'on the Tree' (as I rendered it in the Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 413 n. 1, cp. Hesych. s.v. 'Ἐνδένδος· παρὰ Ῥοδίου Ζεὺς· καὶ Διδύσσος ἐν Βοιωτίᾳ), being derived from ἐπί + *ἔρνος for ἔρνος = ἔρνος (P. Kretschmer in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1890 xxx. 584 'von ἔρνος.' Gerhard Gr. Myth. i. 161 wrongly prefers the spelling ἐπερνώτιος).

In this connexion we should note that silver statères of Phaistos struck c. 360—300 B.C. have obv. ΖΟΙΛΑΧΛΞ A youthful, beardless god seated to the left amid the branches of a leafless tree; his right hand caresses a cock perched on his knee; his left hand rests on an animal's skin, which passes beneath him and falls over the upper part of his right leg: rev. ΠΤΣΙΑΦ or ΦΑΙΣΤΙΟΝ (ΦΑΙΣ) A bull standing to the left, or plunging to the right, sometimes with a gad-fly on its back, sometimes surrounded with a bay-wreath (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Crete etc. p. 63 pl. 15, 10 and 12, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 28 pl. 14, 37, *id. Hist. num.*² p. 473 fig. 253, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 193 no. 4, J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne Mâcon 1890 i. 259 f. pl. 23, 24—26

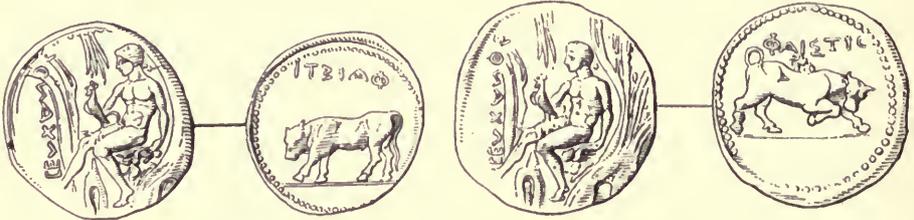

Fig. 838.

Fig. 839.

Fig. 840.

Fig. 841.

(=my figs. 839, 841, 838), Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 3. 987 ff. pl. 256, 1—3, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 197 Münztaf. 3, 3, P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 165 f. pl. 9, 17, Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 412 f. fig. 8. My fig. 840 is from a specimen in the McClean collection). Since the tree on these coins of Phaistos is clearly copied from the tree on the Europe-coins of Gortyna (supra i. 527 ff. fig. 391 ff.), J. N. Svoronos in the Rev. Belge de Num. 1894 pp. 127, 137 infers that it is an oak; but I adhere to my contention (supra i. 527 n. 1) that it is the crown of a pollard willow. Comparison with other Phaestian coins (J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne i. 260 f. pl. 24, 1 f., 6 f., Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 3. 989 ff. pl. 256, 4—8) makes it fairly certain that beneath the god is spread a lion (?)—skin, the head of which is touched by his left hand. That we have here to do with a youthful Zeus appears from Hesych. s.v. Γελχάνος (for Φελχάνος)· ὁ Ζεὺς παρὰ Κρήσιν (so J. V. Perger for κρισίω cod. Musurus cj. 'Ακρισίω). We must, I think, conclude that, as at Gortyna Zeus took Europe to wife on a willow-tree (supra i. 526 ff.), so in the neighbouring town of Phaistos he had the same or a similar willow-bride.

And here I cannot avoid adding a word on the meaning of the appellative Φελχάνος, which has been often discussed and always misunderstood. Leaving out of account impossible conjectures (for which see O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 969 f.), we have before us two more or less improbable alternatives. (1) Some scholars assume the existence of a Cretan word φέκος, a 'cock,' evidenced by the Phaestian coin-type of Φελχάνος holding a cock and by the occurrence of Γέλλκος (? Φέλλκος misread) as the name of a cock on a late Corinthian vase (Roulez Vases de Leide p. 39 n. 4 pl. 10, Reinach Rép. Vases ii. 271, Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 413). But the vase-inscription is now read as 'γεκκος?' (A. E. J. Holwerda Catalogus van het Rijksmuseum van Oudheden te Leiden. Afdeling Griekenland en Italie. 1 Deel: Vaatwerk. Leiden 1905 i. 62). And to bring in the Hesychian glosses ήικανός· ὁ ἀλεκτρύων (A. J. Reinach in L'Anthropologie 1910 xxi. 76) and σέρκος· ἀλεκτρύων. καὶ ἀλεκτροίδες σέλκος with Σελχροί· Πέσσα (T. Panofka in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1840 Phil.-hist. Classe p. 348) is only to darken counsel. (2) Others assume that Φελχάνος is related to Volcanus—an assumption made first by G. Secchi 'Giove CELANOS e l'oracolo suo nell' antro Ideo' in the Dissertazioni della Pontifica Accademia Romana di Archeologia Roma 1842 x. 331 ff., later by A. Fick in the Beiträge zur Kunde der indogermanischen sprachen 1879 iii. 166 f. ('Vielmehr ist Φελχάνος von φέκ glänzen abzuleiten, das in der Form φέκ auch in dem Gottesnamen 'ΗΓλέκτωρ 'Τπερίων der Sonnengott bei Homer wie in den mythischen Namen 'Ηλέκτρα und 'Ηλεκτρώων erscheint. Gleichen Stammes ist auch ἄβλαξ (= ἄ-βλαξ)· λαμπρός. Κύπριοι bei Hesych, welches für Digamma beweist.' He defends χ for κ as a Cretan peculiarity, cp. H. Helbig De dialecto Cretica Plaviae 1873 p. 13), *id. Vergleichendes Wörterbuch der Indogermanischen Sprachen*⁴ Göttingen 1890 i. 133 ('Φελχάνος = Vulcanus'), and last by Walde *Lat. etym. Wörterb.² p. 853 f. ('Doch sind die angeführten Stützen für ein welg- karg und etwas unsicher, dagegen der Anklang von Φελχάνος (mit seinem auffälligen χ) und Volcanus so weitgehend, dass beide wohl als identisch und als Lehnworte aus dem Orient zu betrachten sind'). The equation, however, does not satisfactorily explain the χ of Φελχάνος.

Mr B. F. C. Atkinson and I, after a joint consideration of all the data, have rejected both these alternatives and reached the conclusion (Feb. 9, 1923) that Φελχάνος means simply 'god of the Willow-tree,' being in fact akin to the English word willow (Middle English wilow, wikwe, Anglo-Saxon welig, Dutch wilg, Low German wilge). My contention that Zeus at Phaistos, as at Gortyna, was the consort of a willow-goddess is thus strikingly confirmed. Instead of his usual eagle he has a cock, because that bird as the crest of the Phaestian Idomeneus had a long-standing mythical connexion with the town. Pausanias in describing certain statues by Onatas, which the Achaeans dedicated to Zeus at Olympia, says: 'The one with the scutcheon of the cock on the shield is Idomeneus, the descendant of Minos. They say that Idomeneus was descended from the Sun, who was the sire of Pasiphae, and that the cock is sacred to the Sun and heralds his rising' (Paus. 5. 25. 9 trans. Sir J. G. Frazer). See further G. H. Chase 'The Shield Devices of the Greeks' in Harvard Studies in Classical Philology 1902 xiii. 74, 101 f. (nos. lxxvii and lxxviii = eleven vases with cock as shield-sign, one with cock and rosette) and E. Baethgen De vi ac significatione galli in religionibus et artibus Graecorum et Romanorum Gottingae 1887 p. 11 f. ('Sol—Apollo').

The cult of Zeus Φελχάνος has left traces of itself in other places beside Phaistos: (1) Hagia Triada (F. Halbherr in the Rendiconti d. Lincei 1905 xiv. 381 notes the discovery at Hagia Triada of numerous tiles incised with the name of the god Φελχάνος, a dialect form of Φελχάνος). (2) Gortyna (J. de Prot Leges Graecorum sacrae Lipsiae 1896 Fasti sacri p. 42 f. no. 20, 1 = F. Blass in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 248 no. 4963,

The Tallaia range¹.

Bosporos Kimmerios

Gorgippia².

Tanais³.

Moesia

Naissos⁴.

Pirot⁵.

1 a very archaic inscription in retrograde lettering from the Pythion (Steph. Byz. s.v. Πύθιον)—[la]pà | τετελημέ[να] υι | τῶι [F]ελχαν[ωι] -- αι | ἐν τῶι πένπτα[ι] -- | κ.τ.λ.). (3) Knossos (F. Dürnbach—A. Jardé in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1905 xxix. 204 ff. no. 67, 1 ff. a decree of Lato and Olous ἐπὶ τῶν Αἰθαλέων κοσμιόντων Κνωσοὶ μὲν τῶν | σὺν Κύδαντι [τ]ῶ(ι) Κύδαντος μηνὸς Ἑλλχανῶ, Λατοὶ δὲ ἐπὶ τῶν | σὺν Διοκλεῖ τῶ(ι) Ἡρώδα μηνὸς Βακινθῶ, ἐν δὲ Ὀλόντι τῶν σὺν Τη|λεμάχῳ(ι) τῶ(ι) Γνώμιος μηνὸς[5] Ἄ . . . νῶ, κ.τ.λ., where the month Ἑλλχάνιος probably corresponded with our May—June). (4) Lyttos (G. Doublet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1889 xiii. 61 ff. no. 6, 1 ff. ---|[τ]ῆς δόσεως τοῖς σπαρτοῖς (= στραποῖς, the classes of the Lyttian population) κατὰ | τὰ πάτρια καὶ Θεοδαισίους καὶ | Βελχανῶις· κ.τ.λ. From the sequel it seems likely that the festival Βελχάνια took place on the kalends of May). (5) Golgoi in Kypros (O. Hoffmann Die Griechischen Dialekte Göttingen 1891 i. 82 f. no. 160, 4 va la ka ni o = Φαλκάνιο nom., cp. ib. pp. 133, 193. B. Keil in the Nachr. d. kön. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Göttingen Phil.-hist. Classe 1895 p. 361 n. 1 transcribes Φαλχανῶ).

At Magnesia on the Maiandros, a colony from Crete (supra i. 483 n. 8), this youthful god was identified with Apollon (Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 438, 1 ff., 25 ff. = O. Kern Die Inschriften von Magnesia am Maeander Berlin 1900 p. 16 f. no. 20, 1 ff. an inscription dating from the end of s. iii B.C., which purports to be a decree of the ancient Cretan confederation in honour of Leukippos the founder of Magnesia πα[ρ]ὰ τοῦ κοινοῦ τῶν Κρητῶν· |[ε]δοξεν Κ[ρ]ηταιέων τῶι κοινῶι συνελ[θ]ουσῶν [τ]ῆμ πολίων πασῶν ἐς Βιλκῶνα (an unknown place in Crete) ἐς τὸ λε[ρ]ὸν τῶ Ἀπέλλωνος τῶ Βιλκῶνῶι, ἀγουμένῳ Γορτυνῶν ἐπὶ | κόσμῳ(ι) Κύδαντος τῶ Κυννῶ· κ.τ.λ., ib. 25 ff. τὸ δὲ ψάφισμα τὸδε εἰστάλαν λιθῖναν | ἀναγράψαντας ἀναθήμεν εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν τῶ |[Α]πελλῶνος τῶ Βιλκῶνῶι, κ.τ.λ. See further O. Kern Die Gründungsgeschichte von Magnesia am Maiandros Berlin 1894 p. 14 ff. and in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 472, W. Aly Der kretische Apollonkult Leipzig 1908 p. 54 n. 2).

¹ The Tallaia range, midway between Oaxos and the sea, reaches a maximum height of 1092^m. Here Hermes was worshipped (supra i. 730 n. 1) in the wonderful stalactite cavern of Melidhoni described and drawn by R. Pashley Travels in Crete Cambridge—London 1837 i. 126 ff. with pl. Zeus too bore the title Ταλαῖός (Hesych. s.v. Ταλαῖός cited supra i. 729 n. 1) or Ταλλαῖός at Dreros (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 463 (*ib.*³ no. 527), 14 ff. cited supra i. 729 n. 2) and at Olous (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 514 (*ib.*³ no. 712), 14 cited supra i. 729 n. 3, J. Demargne in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1900 xxiv. 227 no. 1 C 57 ff. cited supra i. 729 n. 4. Add F. Dürnbach—A. Jardé in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1905 xxix. 204 ff. no. 67, 18 f. a decree of Lato and Olous ἐ[ν δὲ] |[Ὀλόντ]ι ἐν τῶι ἱερῶ(ι) τῶ Ζηρὸς τῶ [Ταλλ]αῖῳ). He was thus, like the Laconian Zeus Ταλετίτας (supra i. 730, ii. 890 n. 2), related to the Cretan sun-god Talos (supra i. 728 ff.).

² Θεός Ἐψίστος (supra p. 883 n. 0 no. (27)).

³ Θεός Ἐψίστος (supra p. 884 n. 0 no. (27)).

⁴ At Naissos (Nisus) in Moesia Superior was found a limestone altar inscribed I. O. M. Pa[ter]no Ae[pil]ofio | Sanc(tinius?) Oriens, | Cor(nelia) Mide, P. | Ael(ius) Cocaius | vet(eranus) leg(ionis) VII Cl(audiae) Sev(erianae) | ex voto posu(erunt) | Maximo et Aelija[n]o co(n)s(ulibus) = 223 A.D. A. v. Premerstein and N. Vulić, who publish the inscription in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1900 iii Beiblatt p. 130 f. no. 30, take Iupiter Paternus Aepilofius to be the Latin rendering of a local Dardanian or Thracian Zeus Πατρῶος Ἐπιλόφιος ('on the Crest': cp. supra p. 873 f.).

⁵ Θεός Ἐπήκοος Ἐψίστος (supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (11)).

Between Selenigrad and *Miloslavci*¹.

Thrace

Anchialos².

Perinthos³.

Selymbria⁴.

Troas

Mount Ide⁵.

¹ Θεὸς Ἐψιστος (supra p. 878 n. o no. (11)).

² Zeus Ἐψιστος Ἐπόπτῃς (?) (supra p. 878 n. o no. (10)).

³ Zeus Λοφέλιος (supra p. 874 n. 1).

⁴ Θεὸς Ἄγιος Ἐψιστος (supra p. 878 n. o no. (10)).

⁵ Mt Ide, a long range with numerous foot-hills (Strab. 583 σκολοπενδρῶδης) and springs (πολυπίδαξ eight times in the Il., cp. Plat. legg. 682 B), derived its name (supra p. 932 n. 1) from abundant woods of pine (schol. Il. 12. 20), pitch-pine (Plin. nat. hist. 14. 128), terebinth (id. ib. 13. 54), larch (id. ib. 16. 48), ash (Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 11. 4, Plin. nat. hist. 16. 62), bay (id. ib. 15. 131, Dioskor. 4. 145 (147) p. 624 f. Sprengel), fig (Plin. nat. hist. 15. 68), and raspberry (id. ib. 16. 180). Its inhabitants were familiar with silver fir, oak, plum, filbert, maple, ash, Phoenician cedar, prickly cedar, alder, beech, and sorb (Theophr. hist. pl. 3. 6. 5). Here grew the magic herb aithiops (Plin. nat. hist. 27. 12, Dioskor. 4. 103 (105) p. 597 Sprengel) and flowers galore (Il. 14. 347 ff.). So well-wooded was the mountain that Homer even speaks of a silver fir on its summit reaching through aēr to aithēr (Il. 14. 286 ff.). A conflagration of the forests on Ide in 1460 B.C. was remembered as an epoch-making event, which led to the discovery of iron by the Idaean Daktyloī (Thrasyllos of Mendes frag. 3 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 503 Müller) ap. Clem. Al. Strom. 1. 21 p. 85, 2 ff. Stählin. Cp. the Phoronis frag. 2 Kinkel ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 1. 1129). Here too the herdsman Magnes discovered the loadstone, to which his hobnails and ferule stuck fast (Nikandros frag. 101 Schneider ap. Plin. nat. hist. 36. 127).

Diod. 17. 7 (after Kleitarchos (?): see E. Schwartz in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 683 f.) gives an interesting account of Mt Ide: 'There is a tradition that this mountain got its name from Ide daughter of Melisseus. It is the greatest of the ranges near the Hellespont and has in the midst of it a sacred cavern in which, they affirm, the goddesses were judged by Alexandros [Cp. bronze coins of Skepsis, struck by Caracalla, which show the judgment of Eros in place of Paris on Mt IDH (F. Imhoof-Blumer in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1883 x. 155 f. fig., id. in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1888 iii. 291 f. pl. 9, 20, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 549)]. It is said that the Idaean Daktyloī too were born here, the first workers of iron, who learnt their craft from the Mother of the Gods. A peculiar phenomenon attaches to this mountain. When the dog-star rises, on the topmost summit so still is the surrounding air that the peak soars higher than the breath of the winds, and the sun is seen coming up before night is over. Its rays are not rounded into a regular disk, but its flame is dispersed in diverse directions so that several fires appear to touch the earth's horizon. A little later and these gather into a single whole, which grows until it becomes 300 ft in diameter. Then, as day increases, the normal size of the sun is completed and produces daylight as usual.' Cp. Lucr. 5. 663 ff., Mela 1. 94 f. The Cretan Ide too (? by confusion with this mountain) was said to see the sun before the sunrise (supra p. 932 n. 1).

Coppers of Skamandria struck in s. iv B.C. have obv. head of Ide wreathed with fir, rev. ΣΚΑ (variously arranged) fir-tree or fir-cone (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Troas, etc. p. 79 pl. 14, 12—14, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 548). One specimen names the head [I]ΔH (Imhoof-Blumer in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1874 i. 139 no. 1 pl. 4, 15 and in his Kleinias. Münzen i. 42 no. 2 pl. 2, 2).

One of Mt Ide's summits was known as Γάργαρον or Γάργαρα—probably a Lelegian name, for the Leleges are said to have occupied the district Γαργαρῆς (Strab. 610) and the mountain-town Γάργαρος (Steph. Byz. s.v. Γάργαρα, et. mag. p. 221, 26 f. L. Birtchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 757 f. cp. Gargissa some 33 kilometers to the northeast of it). Mt Ide in general was an important centre for the cult of Cybele (A. Rapp in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1653, W. Drexler ib. ii. 2859, O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 864 f., Schwenn ib. xi. 2287), who as Μητήρ Ἰδαία (first in Eur. Or. 1453), Mater Idaea, was worshipped far and wide throughout the Roman empire (H. Graillet Le culte de Cybèle Mère des dieux à Rome et dans l'empire romain Paris 1912 Index p. 582 s.v. 'Ida (mont)'). But Gargaron in particular was connected rather with the myth and ritual of Zeus. It was on the height of Gargaron that Here found Zeus the cloud-gatherer (Il. 14. 292 f., cp. 352) and enticed him into the famous dalliance (supra i. 154). It was there that Apollon and Iris saw him sitting in the midst of a fragrant cloud (Il. 15. 152 f.). There in Homeric days Zeus had a precinct and altar (Il. 8. 47 ff. Ἴδην δ' ἴκανεν πολυπίδακα, μητέρα θηρῶν, | Γάργαρον· ἐνθα δέ οἱ τέμενος βωμὸς τε θυήεις. | ἐνθ' ἵππους ἐστήσε πατὴρ ἀνδρῶν τε θεῶν τε | λύσας ἐξ ὀχέων, κατὰ δ' ἠέρα πούλων ἔχευεν. | αὐτὸς δ' ἐν κορυφῇσι καθέξετο κύβει γαίων, | εἰσορόων Τρώων τε πόλιν καὶ νῆας Ἀχαιῶν), on which as on the top of Troy Hektor used to burn for him the thigh-pieces of oxen (Il. 22. 169 ff. ἐμὸν δ' ὀλοφύρεται ἤτορ | Ἐκτορος, ὅς μοι πολλὰ βωῶν ἐπι μηρὶ ἔκην | Ἴδης ἐν κορυφῇσι πολυπύχου, ἄλλοτε δ' αὐτε | ἐν πόλει ἀκροτάτῃ). For the altar was served by those who claimed to be akin to Zeus and to have his blood running in their veins (Aisch. Niobe frag. 162 Nauck² ap. Plat. remph. 391 E, cp. Strab. 580, Loukian. Dem. enc. 13, οἱ θεῶν ἀγχισποροὶ | οἱ Ζηνὸς ἐγγυῖς, ὧν κατ' Ἰδαίων πάγον | Διὸς πατρῶου βωμὸς ἐστ' ἐν αἰθέρι, | κοθῶ σφην ἐξίτηλον αἷμα δαυδόνων). Gargaros, eponym of the town, was the son of Zeus (Steph. Byz. s.v. Γάργαρα... ὠνομάσθη δ' ἀπὸ Γαργάρου τοῦ Διός, τοῦ ἐκ τῆς Λαρίσσης ἐν Θεσσαλίᾳ = et. mag. p. 221, 31 f. ὠνομάσται δὲ ἀπὸ Γαργάρου τοῦ Διός, ὡς δηλοῖ Νυμφίος (leg. Νύμφις) ὁ φιλόσοφος (Nymphis frag. 10 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 14 Müller)). οὕτως Ἐπαφρόδιτος ἐν ὕπομνηματι θ' Ἰλιάδος, παρατιθέμενος Κλειταρχὸν Ἀλγινῆτην λεξικογράφου). And Onetor, priest of Zeus Ἰδαῖος, was 'honoured as a god' by the Trojans (Il. 16. 604 f. Ὀνήτορος, ὃς Διὸς ἱεὺς | Ἰδαίου ἐτέτυκτο, θεὸς δ' ὡς τιετο δῆμῳ). Epicharmos in his Troes made one of his characters pray to the Zeus of Gargara (Epicharm. frag. 130 Kaibel ap. Macrob. Sat. 5. 20. 5 Ζεὺς ἀναξ, ἀν' ἄκρα (ανααδαν cod. G. Kaibel cj. ἀν' ἄκρα. F. G. Schneidewin cj. ἀν' Ἰδαν) ναίων Γαργάρων (so A. Meineke for γαργαρά cod.) ἀγάνιφα). Quintus Smyrnaeus did the same in the case of Priam (Quint. Smyrn. 1. 184 f. εὔχετ' ἐς ἱερὸν αἰπὺ τετραμμένον Ἰδαίου | Ζηνός, ὃς Ἴλιον αἰὲν εἰὸς ἐπιδέρκεται ὄσσοις); for which he had good Homeric authority, since Hekabe bade Priam, when he set out for the hut of Achilles, pour a libation and offer a prayer to Zeus Ἰδαῖος (Il. 24. 287 τῆ, σπέεισον Διὶ πατρὶ, καὶ εὔχεο οἰκαδ' ἰκέσθαι κ.τ.λ., 290 f. ἀλλ' εὔχεο σύ γ' ἔπειτα κελαινεφέϊ Κρονίωνι | Ἰδαίῳ, ὃς τε Τροίην κατὰ πᾶσαν ὄρᾳται, κ.τ.λ.), and Priam took her advice (Il. 24. 306 ff. εὔχετ' ἔπειτα στὰς μέσῳ ἔρκει, λείβε δὲ οἶνον | οὐρανὸν εἰσανιδῶν, καὶ φωνήσας ἔπος ἦδα· | 'Ζεῦ πάτερ, Ἴδῃθεν μεδέων, κύδιστε μέγιστε, | δὸς μ' ἐς Ἀχιλλῆος φίλον ἔλθειν ἠδ' ἔλειπὸν, | πέμψον δ' οἰωνῶν, ταχὺν ἄγγελον,' κ.τ.λ.). Virgil in the pseudo-Plutarch associate the cult of Zeus Ἰδαῖος with that of the Phrygian mother-goddess (Verg. Aen. 7. 139 f. Idaeumque Iovem Phrygiamque ex ordine Matrem | invocat (sc. Aeneas), Plout. de fluv. 13. 3 παράκειται δ' αὐτῷ (sc. τῷ Σκαμάνδρῳ) ὄρος Ἰδῆ, τὸ πρότερον δὲ ἐκαλεῖτο Γάργαρον· ὅπου Διὸς καὶ Μητρὸς Θεῶν βωμοὶ τινγχάνουσι). Lastly, writers of the Graeco-Roman age treat Gargaron as an appropriate background for the myth of Ganymedes (Loukian. dial. deor. 4. 2, Charid. 7) or that of Paris (Ov. her. 16. 107 f., Loukian. dial. deor. 20. 1).

Imperial bronze coins of Ilion, struck by Faustina Junior (H. von Fritze in W. Dörpfeld Troja und Ilion Athens 1902 ii. 490 f., 517 pl. 63, 65) and Iulia Domna (fig. 842 from a specimen in my collection), have as reverse type Zeus sitting, with a long sceptre in his right hand and the cult-image of Athena Ἰλιάς in his left, accompanied by the honorific formula ΔΙΑ ΙΔΑΙΟΝ ΙΛΙΕΙΟΝ. W. Kubitschek 'Heroenstatuen in Ilion' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1898 i. 187 suggests that the coin is one of a series struck by Commodus and his successors to commemorate certain statues of gods and heroes, from which at least three inscribed bases are extant. Accordingly G. F. Hill A Handbook of Greek and Roman Coins London 1899 p. 186 n. 3 would complete the formula by supplying some such word as ἀνέστησαν. See further G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 p. 170.

Zeus Ἰδαῖος was worshipped at Skepsis also. Bronze coins of the town, struck by Commodus (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Troas, etc. p. 84 no. 30) and Caracalla (ib. p. 84 pl. 16, 1 = my fig. 843), show ΖΕΥΣ ΕΙΔΑΙΟ(C) ΣΚΗΨΙΩΝ clad in a himdtion, standing with an eagle in his right hand and a long sceptre in his left. An inscription from Skepsis (Kurshunlu Tepe) records a priest of Zeus Ἰδαῖος (J. A. R. Munro in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1901 xxi. 236 on a square marble base [ἡ γ]ερονσία | [τὸν] ἱερέα τοῦ Δε[ῖ]ος τ[οῦ] Ἰδαίου καὶ | [τῶν] Σεβαστῶν Γ[α]ίων Φλάβιον Ὀλυ[μ]πι[ο]δόωρον νίδον | [Ἰ]ολ[υ]μ-πιόδωρον, | [τὸν] ἐκ προγόνων] | [τῆ]ς πατρίδος εὐ[εργέ]τ(η)ν καὶ εὐ[μ]ποσιάρχη). Demetrios of Skepsis, who c. 150 B.C. compiled an encyclopaedic commentary on Il. 2. 814—877, mentions the Trojan claim to possession of the cave where Zeus was born (schol. Ap. Rhod. 3. 134 ἀντρω ἐν Ἰδαίῳ· ἡ τῷ τῆς Κρήτης, ἡ τῷ τῆς Τροίας. ἀντιποιοῦνται γὰρ καὶ Τρῶες τῆς τοῦ Διὸς γενέσεως, καθά φησι Δημήτριος ὁ Σκήψιος): cp. supra i. 154 n. 2. Other coin-types of Skepsis referable to the same cult are a standing eagle (Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen i. 45 no. 4), an eagle with open wings in an oak-wreath (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Troas, etc. p. 83 pl. 15, 13, Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 628 no. 230 pl. 8, 6, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 549), an eagle standing beside a leafy tree (Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen i. 46 no. 5 pl. 2, 6).

Fig. 842.

Fig. 843.

A noteworthy bust of Zeus in white marble, formerly in the Stroganoff collection, represents the god upborne on the spread wings of an eagle. He is draped in a himdtion and wears a wreath of pine. Restored: nose, tip of pine-wreath, right foot of eagle. L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Plt. 1875 p. 200 ff. Atlas pl. 7, 2 (= my fig. 844) regards this as an effigy of Zeus Ἰδαῖος dating from s. i or ii A.D. The association of a Zeus-head with Attis (supra p. 297 fig. 189) prepares us to see in the pine-wreath a reminiscence of the tree that figures so largely in the religion of Attis and Kybele (Boetticher Baumkultus pp. 142—147, 263 fig. 11, J. Murr Die Pflanzenwelt in der griechischen Mythologie Innsbruck 1890 p. 117 f., H. Graillot op. cit. p. 121 ff. and Index p. 597 s.vv. 'Pin,' 'Pin (pomme de)'). And this connexion certainly seems more probable than any reference to the pine-wreath of the Isthmian victor.

Attempts have been made in modern times to locate the cult-centre of Zeus Ἰδαῖος. J. Thacher Clarke 'Gargara, Lamponia and Pionia: towns of the Troad' in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1888 iv. 291—319 notes (a) et. mag. p. 221, 26 ff. Γάργαρος· πόλις τῆς Ἰδης ἐν ὑψηλῷ τόπῳ, μικρὴν ὑπὲρ τῆς θαλάττης, ἐξ ἧς διὰ τὸ κρυῶδες ὑποκατέβησαν οἱ Γαργαρεῖς, καὶ ᾤκισαν αὐτὴν ὑπὸ πεδίον (an leg. αὐτὴν ὑποπόδιον? A.V.C.) Γάργαρον. ἐκείνη δὲ ἐρημωθεῖσα καλεῖται Παλαιὰ Γάργαρος· κ.τ.λ.: (b) Strab. 606 μετὰ γὰρ τὸ Λεκτὸν τὸ Πολυμηθίων ἐστὶ χωρίον τι ἐν τετταράκοντα σταδίοις, εἰτ' ἐν ὀγδοήκοντα Ἄσσοις (so C. Mannert for Ἄσσοις codd.), μικρὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς θαλάττης, εἰτ' ἐν ἑκατὸν καὶ τετταράκοντα Γάργαρα· κείται δὲ τὰ Γάργαρα ἐπ' ἀκρας ποιούσης τὸν Ἰδῶς Ἀδραμυττηνὸν καλούμενον κόλπον. Assuming Strabon's distances to be cumulative, not consecutive, he infers that Palaia Gargaros is the ruined town with walls of polygonal masonry still to be seen on the top of Kozlu Dag 10 kilometers east-north-east from Assos, that Gargaros on the plain below is the large field of later ruins at the foot of the slope on which lies the Turkish town of Sazly, and that the cape mentioned by Strabon is Katerga Burnu near Assos.

W. Judeich 'Gargara und der Altar des idäischen Zeus' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1901 iv. 111—125 figs. 160—163 replies that Strabon's distances are regularly consecutive, not cumulative. Hence Gargaros must be placed further east in the vicinity of Tschibne, and Palaia Gargaros should be identified with a ruined stronghold on Odjak Kaya, the most westerly summit of the Dikeli Dagh, which rises immediately behind Tschibne to a height of 780^m. Palaia Gargaros (wrongly equated by Clarke with Lamponeia) was visited by E. Fabricius, who reports that it has terrace-walls of 'Cyclopean' masonry well adapted for the erection of houses and an elliptical akrópolis enclosed by a ring-wall (now c. 1^m high, c. 3^m thick) some 500^m round. On the west side of this wall is a gateway (2·35^m wide) with a square tower. Within, the akrópolis is divided by another wall into two unequal parts. In the southern and smaller part, on the highest point of the mountain, are the foundations of a big building, probably a temple. The fragments visible are all of pre-Hellenistic date. When Palaia Gargaros was abandoned, the inhabitants of the new town found it difficult to keep up the cult on the mountain-top and chose a new site for their worship on the southern point of the neighbouring hill Adatepe (c. 260^m).

Fig. 844.

Mysia

Kyzikos¹.Mount Olympos².Pergamon³.

Here Judeich discovered a rock-cut altar (loc. cit. p. 111 ff. figs. 160 view and 161 plan (=my fig. 845)) measuring c. 13^m × 15^m and approached by three flights of steps on the west and south sides. A modern cistern constructed on the spot is believed to work cures with its water and probably preserves the sanctity of the ancient altar.

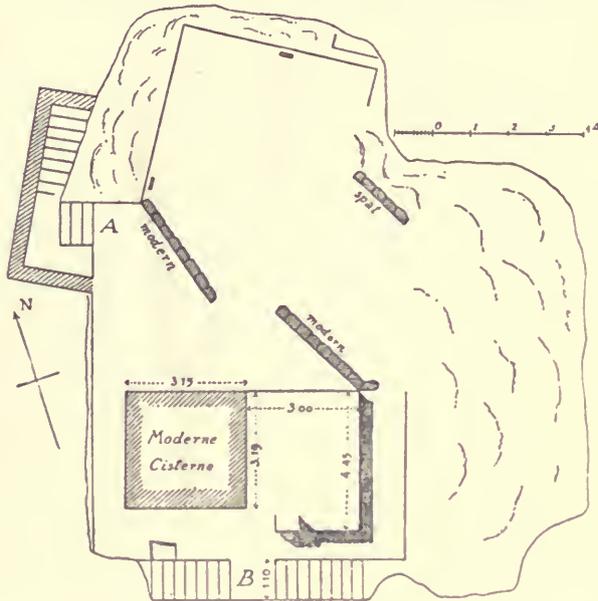

Fig. 845.

¹ Zeus "Τψιστος and Θεός "Τψιστος (supra p. 881 n. ο no. (21)).

² Zeus 'Ολύμπιος (Mnaseas frag. 30 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 154 Müller) ap. schol. T. II. 20. 234 Μναςέας μὲν φησιν ὑπὸ Ταντάλου ἠρπάσθαι (sc. Γανυμήδην) καὶ ἐν κνυηγείῳ πεσόντα ταφῆναι ἐν τῷ Μυσίῳ 'Ολύμπῳ κατὰ τὸ ἱερὸν τοῦ 'Ολυμπίου Διός). Supra i. 116 n. 8, 124.

³ The district of Pergamon was of old sacred to the Kabeiroi (Paus. i. 4. 6 ἦν δὲ νέμονται οἱ Περγαμηνοὶ, Καβείρων ἱερὰν φασιν εἶναι τὸ ἀρχαῖον), who as the most ancient deities of the land were worshipped with mystic rites and invoked in stormy weather (Aristeid. or. 55 (ii. 709 Dindorf) τοῦτό μοι (Grauert cj. μὲν πρεσβύτατοι δαιμόνων ἐνταῦθα λέγονται γενέσθαι Κάβειροι, καὶ τελεταὶ τοῖσι καὶ μυστήρια, ἃ τοσαύτην ἰσχυρὴν ἔχουσιν πεπίστευται ὥστε χειμῶνων τε ἐξαισίω (with which word the fragmentary oration ends)). Their cult, attested by the name of a prytanis Κάβειρος (M. Fränkel Die Inschriften von Pergamon Berlin 1895 ii. 177 ff. no. 251, 1 and 34. cp. E. Sittig De Graecorum nominibus theophoris Halis Saxonum 1911 p. 143 f.), was perhaps at one time carried on in connexion with the apsidal building hidden by the foundations of the great Pergamene altar (supra i. 120). They are represented on the large frieze of that altar as two youthful warriors attacking a huge bovine giant with double axe and sword respectively (supra i. 110 n. 4). Coppers of Severus Alexander (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 158 pl. 32, 3) and Gallienus (ib. p. 162 pl. 32, 8) show two youthful male figures standing on either side of an altar: one is handing to the other a ram's head. H. von Fritze in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1901 xxiv. 120 ff. and in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1910 Phil.-hist. Classe Anhang i. 63 f. pl. 6, 1 identifies them with the Kabeiroi, aptly citing a Pergamene decree first published by B. Schroeder in the Ath. Mitth. 1904 xxix. 152 ff. no. 1 (Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 764, 6 μυστηρίων κατὰ τὰ πάτρια τοῖς μεγάλοις θεοῖς Καβείροις κ.τ.λ., ib. 27 καὶ τὰ κριοβόλια τῆς τῶν ἐφήβων μεταπαιδιᾶς πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἔνεκεν). See further E. Thraemer Pergamos Leipzig 1888 pp. 263—270 ('Die pergamenischen Kabiren').

The Kabeiroi witnessed the birth of Zeus the lightning-god on the summit of Pergamon, according to an oracle of Apollon (not Apollon Γρύνοιος as F. G. Welcker *Sylloge epigrammatum Graecorum*² Bonnæ 1828 p. 231 and A. Boeckh on Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 3538 supposed, nor Apollon Χρηστήριος of Aigai as M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 239 thought probable, but Apollon Κλάριος as C. Picard in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlvi. 190 ff. and in his Éphèse et Claros Paris 1922 pp. 461 n. 4, 673 has definitely proved), which bade the Pergamenes, if they would be rid of a plague (that of 166 A.D. (Amm. Marc. 23. 6. 24)), divide their ἐφῆβοι into four groups, chant hymns to Zeus, Dionysos, Athena, and Asklepios, and then for seven days offer thighs on the altars of the same deities, sacrificing a two-year-old heifer to Athena, a three-year-old ox to Zeus, to Zeus Βάκχος (=Zeus Σαβάκιος: supra p. 287 n. 2), and to Asklepios, and feasting themselves on bull's flesh (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 3538=M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 239 f.=Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 1035=Coungy Anth. Pal. Append. 6. 172). The oracle begins:

Τηλεφίδαις, οἱ Ζηνὶ πλέον Κρονίδῃ βασιλῆϊ ἐξ ἄλλων τισκόμενοι Τευθραντίδα γαίαν ναλοῦσιν καὶ Ζητὸς ἐρισμαράγοιο γενέθλι ἡμῶν Ἀθηναίῃ πολεμηδόκῳ ἀτρυτώνῃ ἡδὲ Δι(ω)νώσει λαθικηδέι φυσίζῶι ἡδὲ καὶ εἰητήρι νόσ(ω)ν Παιήονι λυγρῶν· οἶσι πᾶρ' Οὐρανοῦ νῆς ἐθηήσαντο Κάβειροι πρῶτοι Περγαμῆς ὑπὲρ ἄκ(ρι)ος ἀ(σ)τε(ρ)ο(πητ)ή(ν) τικτόμενον Δία, μητρώων δτε (γα)στ(έρα) λῦσ(εν)· κ.τ.λ.

The later passage concerning the sacrifices to the four gods has been quoted supra p. 287 n. 2. Of the hymns prescribed one only, that to Zeus, has survived on a fragmentary stèle of white marble found on the western terrace of the Akropolis. The text, which is surmounted by a pediment containing reliefs of a phidde with two shield-like ornaments, is thus restored by M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 237 ff. no. 324:

[ἀγ]αθῆι τύχηι.

- [Οὐλύμποιο] μέτωπον, ἄκρην Τειτηνίδα, ναῖον,
[ὦ Ζεῦ δέσποτα,] χαῖρε. λιταζομένων πολητέων
[κλύθι, πάτερ μ]ακάρων τε καὶ ἀτρυγέτων ἀνθρώπων,
5 [λαμπρῶς οὐραν]ίην ἐφέπων ἴνυν αἰγλήεσαν, [δημιοεργέ βίου] πεφατισμένε σοῖς ὑπὸ φύλοις·
[τῶν ἀγαθῶν γὰρ] φαῦλα διακρίνας πάρος ὕλης
[πᾶσιν ἔδωκας χ]ρῆσιν ἐπάρκιον ἡμερλοῖσιν,
[νείμας καὶ γαῖαν] τε πολύκλυστον τε θάλασσαν,
10 [αἰθέρα καὶ πᾶ]ντ' ἄλλα, τὰ σὴ ποιήσατο μήτις.
[ἐλθέ σε κληῖ]ξοῖσι, μάκαρ, μάκαρ, εἴλαος ἡμῖν καὶ πτό[λιω ἰθύν]οῦσιν ἀμύμοσιν Περγαμίδαισιν, ἐλθέ σὺν ἰητήρι θεῶμ Παιήονι κλειτῶι θεσπεσίην Ἑγλειαν ἐς ἀγλαὰ δώματ' ἄγοντι
15 Εὐνομίηι τε καὶ Εὐστασίηι λιπαρῆι τ' Εἰρήνῃι Ἥρῃι τε ζυγίηι, ἀλόχῳ σέο κυθήεσσηι, καὶ Θέμιδι ἀρχ[εγ]όνῳι, προυφητίδι καρτεροβούλῳι, καὶ γάμον [ἀξο]μένῃι γλαυκώπιδι Τριτογενεῖηι
κ[α] [παίδων μεδ]έοντι διακτόρῳι Ἑρμῶνι 20 [καὶ Μοίραις κλυμ]ένησι μύμοσιν Ἀδ[ρηστ]είαις.

- [κοίρανος ούρα]νίαισι κεκασμένος ἦνε[κ]ες ὤραις, [ἦρι περιστέλλο]ντι κ[ό]μην εὐθρεπτον ἀ[ρ]οῦραις
 [ἡδὲ θέρει καρπὸν πολί]δοσταχυν ἀμῶντ[ι]
 [πορφύρεόν τε τρυγῶν]τι βότρυν λιπαρῶι μ[ε]θοπῶρω[ι]
 25 [καλ χειμῶνι βροτοῖς] ὤρην εὐκρητον ἀγο[ν]τ[ι], [εἰλθε πόλιν σώξ]εϊμ, μάκαρ, ὀλβιε, καλ λ[ύ]ε πῆμα,
 [ὄττι κακῶς ὠμῶς τ]ε κατὰ φρένας ἔλλ[α]βεν ἡμᾶς.]
 [ταρβέομεν γὰρ πάν]τες δει κήτεια [πέλωρα]
 [λοίμης· ἦ μάλα λ]αὸν ἀρειον ἀμ[ύ]μονα τρύχει,
 30 [ὄστρωι λυσσῆ]ντι κατ[α]σκήπτουσα πολίταις.]
 [ἀλλά σύ, κάρπιμε] Παι[άν], ---]

The older and simpler altar of Zeus, consisting of ashes from the thighs of victims sacrificed to the god (Paus. 5. 13. 8 πεποιήται δὲ (sc. the altar of Zeus at Olympia) ἱερίων τῶν θουμένων τῷ Διὶ ἀπὸ τῆς τέφρας τῶν μηρῶν, καθάπερ γε καὶ ἐν Περγάμῳ κ.τ.λ.), probably occupied the actual summit of the hill (supra i. 120 f. fig. 89). The magnificent altar built by Eumenes ii was situated near the top, on a broad terrace seventy or eighty feet below the temple of Athena (supra i. 118 ff. pl. x and figs. 87, 88). This altar has often been identified with ὁ θρόνος τοῦ Σατανᾶ (Rev. 2. 13); but the phrase refers rather to Pergamon as the centre of the imperial cult (R. H. Charles A critical and exegetical Commentary on the Revelation of St. John Edinburgh 1920 i. 60 f.).

Zeus was associated with Athena (M. Fränkel op. cit. 1890 i. 29 ff. no. 29 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1215 = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 280 a dedication of c. 223 B.C. βασιλέα Ἀτταλον (sc. Attalos i) | Ἐπιγένης καὶ οἱ ἡγεμόνες καὶ στρατ[ι]ῶται | οἱ συναγωνισάμενοι τὰς πρὸς τοὺς Γ[α]λ[λ]ῶνας | καὶ Ἀντίοχον μάχας χάρισ[τ]ήτρια | Δεί, Ἀθηναί. | Ἐ(πι)γόνου ἐργα) or more often with Athena Νικηφόρος (M. Fränkel op. cit. i. 32 ff. nos. 33—37, 43 ff. nos. 51—56, 46 no. 58, 50 f. no. 63, 52 f. no. 65 f., 54 f. no. 69, 124 ff. nos. 214—216, 130 ff. no. 225—the formula in each case being Διὶ καὶ Ἀθηναί Νικηφόρῳ). E. Thraemer Pergamos Leipzig 1888 pp. 223—227 infers from their association that the temple of Athena, which is divided by a cross-wall into two approximately equal halves (J. L. Ussing Pergamos Berlin—Stuttgart 1899 pl. 3 after Pergamon ii pl. 3), was in reality a double temple of Zeus and Athena. He notes the Pergamene coin-type of Athena's owl on the thunderbolt of Zeus (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 132 pl. 27, 13 ΑΘΗΝΑΣ ΝΙΚΗ ΦΟΡΟΥ, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 536: cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 84 pl. 19, 5, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 136 pl. 18, 8 similar type on a coin of Amastris) and suspects an allusion to their joint temple in a couplet on the base of a marble herm from the Byzantine wall on the south side of the agorá (M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 242 no. 325 Ἐρμῆν θυραῖον Ῥοῦφος ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς | εἰδρυσσε φύλακα τοῦ νεῶ καὶ ῥύτορα). But his views have not been adopted by the authors of the official Berlin publication.

Zeus figures of course in Pergamene oaths. Eumenes i and the mercenary leaders who rose against him in 263 B.C. swore by Zeus, Ge, Helios, Poseidon, Demeter, Ares, Athena Ἀρεῖα καὶ ἡ Ταυροπόλος (M. Fränkel op. cit. i. 10 ff. no. 13 = Michel op. cit. no. 15 = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 266 quoted supra p. 729 n. o no. (3)). Towards the end of s. ii B.C. public oaths were administered at the altar of Zeus Σωτήρ in the agorá (M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 177 ff. no. 251, 27 ff. = Michel op. cit. no. 519, 27 ff. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 592, 27 ff. ὅπως δὲ ταῦτα εἰς τὸν ἅπαντα χρόνον διαμένῃ | βέβαια Ἀσκληπιάδῃ καὶ τοῖς ἀπογόνοις τοῖς | Ἀσκληπιάδου, ἐπιτελεῖν ὀρκωμοσίον τῆν πόλιν | ἐν τῇ ἀγορᾷ ἐπὶ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Σωτήρος τῶι βωμῶ[ι] | καὶ ὀμοσαι τὰς τιμουχίας, ἧ μὴν ἐμμενεῖν κ.τ.λ.). Among the honours decreed to Attalos iii by Elaia was a golden equestrian statue to be set up on a marble column beside the altar of Zeus Σωτήρ in the agorá (M. Fränkel op. cit. i. 153 ff. no. 246, 9 ff. = Michel op. cit. no. 515, 9 ff. = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 332, 9 ff. στήσαι δὲ αὐτοῦ καὶ εἰκόνα χρυσοῦν ἐφιππονέπ[ι] στυλίδος μαρμαρινῆς παρὰ τὸν τοῦ Διὸς [τ]οῦ Σωτήρος βωμῶν, ὅπως ὑπάρχηι ἡ | εἰκὼν ἐν τῶι ἐπιφανεσταύω τόπωι τῆς ἀγορᾶς, κ.τ.λ.); but this must refer to the agorá at Elaia, not at Pergamon (M. Fränkel op. cit. i. 156).

Aiolis

Temnos¹.

Lydia

Mount Sipylus².

Zeus was worshipped at Pergamon under several other appellatives. The water-supply of the town was a grave matter necessitating repeated changes and improvements to meet the needs of the growing population (F. Gräber Die Wasserleitungen (Pergamon i. 3) Berlin 1913 Beiblatt 88 bird's-eye view of three conduits and aqueduct). P. Aelius Aristeides (supra p. 127) in an epideictic harangue entitled πανηγυρικός ἐπὶ τῷ ὕδατι ἐν Περγαμῷ describes how all Asia rejoiced with the Pergamenes when a copious flow of pure water was secured at last, and how he welcomed the good news as a special favour vouchsafed by Zeus Εὐαγγέλιος and Asklepios Σωτήρ (Aristeid. or. 55 (ii. 708 Dindorf) εἶναι γὰρ τὸ ὕδωρ πλήθει τε πλείστον καὶ κάλλει κάλλιστον ὄσων ἔλαχον πόλεις. ἦγον οὖν οὐχ ὄσων ἡρῆνῃν ἡμέραν, ἀλλ' οἷαν εἰκὸς ἄγειν Διὸς τε Εὐαγγέλιου καὶ Ἀσκληπιοῦ Σωτήρος πανταχῇ τιμῶντος. κ.τ.λ.). Zeus Κεραύνιος is represented by two dedications (supra p. 808 n. o no. (8)), Zeus Μέγιστος by a small altar of trachyte (M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 243 no. 328, 1 ff. Διὶ Μεγίστῳ Πύρ[ε][σ][ς][?], cp. Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4885, 1), Zeus Μέγιστος Σωτήρ by another of white marble (M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 242 no. 327, 1 ff. Διὶ Μεγίστῳ Σωτήρ|| (relief of an eagle in a niche surrounded by tendrils)||Καπίτων | κατ' ὄνειρον). L. Cuspius Rufinus, the consul of 197 A.D., was priest of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (M. Fränkel op. cit. ii. 297 f. no. 434, 1 ff. a base of white marble inscribed Δ(οῦκιον) Κοῦσπιον Πιακτουμή[ον] | Ῥουφῖνον, ὕπατον, ἱερέα Διὸς | Ὀλυμπίου καὶ κτίστην τῆς πατρίδος, | οἱ τὴν ἀκρόπολιν κατοικοῦντες), whose cult was probably introduced in the days of Hadrian the 'Olympian' (id. ib. p. 298). H. von Fritze in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1910 Phil.-hist. Classe Anhang i. 55 f. pl. 4, 8 (=my fig. 846) detects the statuary type of the god on a Pergamene coin struck by Hadrian (cp. Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 163 Münztaf. 2, 23 with eagle beside the right foot of Zeus). For Zeus Τροπαῖος see supra p. 110 n. 9 (add M. Fränkel op. cit. i. 137 f. no. 239, 2), for Zeus (?) Ψιστος supra p. 882 n. o no. (21), for Zeus Φίλιος infra Append. N med. Coins of Antoninus Pius and Marcus Aurelius, issued at Pergamon, show Zeus enthroned with Nike on his right hand and a long sceptre in his left (H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 55 pl. 4, 12, cp. Mionnet Descr. de méd. ant. ii. 602 no. 585).

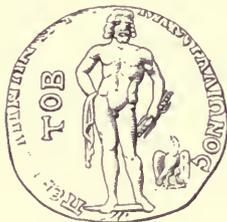

Fig. 846.

¹ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 873 n. o no. (9)).

² It has been maintained, though without sufficient reason, that there was a cult of Zeus Ῥατος on Mt Sipylus (supra p. 876 n. o no. (8)), where Zeus was said to have been born (Aristeid. or. 22. 270 (i. 440 Dindorf) τὰ μὲν οὖν παλαιὰ μύμησαι κατὰ τὴν πρώτην ἀκούσας ἀρχήν, ἣν τῷ πατρὶ συνήρχες, Διὸς τινα γένεσιν καὶ χορείας Κουρήτων καὶ Ταντάλου καὶ Πέλοπος οἰκισμὸν τῆς πρώτης πόλεως ἐν τῷ Σιπύλῳ γενομένης, cp. or. 15. 229 (i. 371 f. Dindorf) ἢ μὲν οὖν πρεσβυτάτη πόλις ἐν τῷ Σιπύλῳ κτίζεται, οὗ δὴ τὰς τε θεῶν εὐνάς εἶναι λέγουσι καὶ τοὺς Κουρήτων χοροὺς περὶ τὴν τοῦ Διὸς μητέρα, or. 20. 260 (i. 425 Dindorf) τὰ μὲν ἀρχαῖα Κουρήτων χοροὶ καὶ τροφαὶ καὶ γενέσεις θεῶν καὶ Πέλοπος διαβαίνοντες ἐνθένδε) and to have lain with Semele (schol. B. Il. 24. 615 Σιπυλὸς πόλις ἐστὶ Νυδίας καὶ Ἀχελῷος ποταμοῦ ἐκεῖ παρακειμένος. "θεῶν" δὲ "εὐνάς," ὅτι ἐκείσε Σεμέλη ὁ Ζεὺς συνκοιμήθη).

A remarkable crag on Mt Sipylus is topped by a rock-cut seat known to the ancients as the 'throne of Pelops' (Paus. 5. 13. 7 Πέλοπος δὲ ἐν Σιπύλῳ μὲν θρόνος ἐν κορυφῇ τοῦ ὄρους ἐστὶν ὑπὲρ τῆς Πλαστήνης μητρὸς τὸ ἱερόν. See further supra i. 137 ff. fig. 103), and the sceptre of Pelops was the sceptre of Zeus (Il. 2. 100 ff. ἀνὰ δὲ κρείων Ἀγαμέμνων | ἔστη σκήπτρον ἔχων, τὸ μὲν Ἥφαιστος κάμει τεύχων. | Ἥφαιστος μὲν δῶκε Διὶ Κρονίῳ ἀνακτι, | αὐτὰρ ἄρα Ζεὺς δῶκε διακτόρω ἀργεῖφόντη. | Ἑρμείας δὲ ἄναξ δῶκεν Πέλοπι πληξίππῳ, | αὐτὰρ ὁ αὐτὸς Πέλοψ δῶκε Ἀτρεΐ, ποιμένι λαῶν. | Ἀτρεὺς δὲ θνήσκων ἔλιπεν πολύαρνι Θυέστη, | αὐτὰρ ὁ αὐτὸς Θυέστ' Ἀγαμέμνονι λείπει φορῆναι, | πολλῆσιν νήσοισι καὶ Ἀργεῖ παντὶ ἀνάσειν, Paus.

- Philadelphieia¹.
Mount Tmolos².
Tralleis³.

9. 40. 11 (supra i. 406), Quint. inst. or. 9. 3. 57 invenitur apud poetas quoque (sc. gradatio) ut apud Homerum de sceptro, quod a Iove ad Agamemnonem usque deducit: et apud nostrum etiam tragicum (Trag. Rom. frag. p. 288 f. Ribbeck) 'Iove propagatus (O. Ribbeck cj. patre prognatus) est, ut perhibent, Tantalus, | ex Tantalos ortus Pelops, ex Pelope autem satus | Atreus, qui nostrum porro propagat genus' = Diom. ars gramm. 2 p. 448, 25 ff. Keil, Quint. inst. or. 9. 4. 140 (Trag. Rom. frag. p. 289 Ribbeck) 'en impero Argis, scepra (Sen. epist. 80. 7 quotes the line with regna for scepra) mihi liquit Pelops').

Coppers of Magnesia ad Sipylum, struck in s. ii—i B.C., have obv. head of Zeus (or perhaps of Mt Sipylos?) to right, laureate (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 137 pl. 15, 1 and 2, p. 139 pl. 15, 7, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 455 no. 3), or rev. Zeus standing, in chiton and himation, with an eagle on his extended right hand, a transverse sceptre in his left (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 137 pl. 15, 3), or Zeus and Hermes (?) joining hands with a spear between them (ib. p. 138 pl. 15, 4). Quasi-autonomous coppers of imperial date (M. Aurelius to Gallienus) repeat the obv. head of Zeus (or Mt Sipylos: see supra i. 102 n. 5 fig. 75) to right, laureate (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 139 ff. pl. 16, 2 f., Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen ii. 521 no. 1). A copper of Philippus Senior has rev. a naked Zeus holding a thunderbolt in his left hand and resting with his right on a spear (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 151 no. 80).

¹ Zeus Κορυφαῖος (supra p. 285 n. o no. (3), p. 869 n. 1 fig. 804).

² According to Eumelos, Zeus was born in Lydia; and on the top of Mt Tmolos, west of Sardeis, was a place called Γοναὶ Διὸς Ἰετίου and subsequently Δεῦσιον (Lyd. de mens. 4. 71 p. 123, 14 ff. Wünsch Εὐμηλος δὲ ὁ Κορινθίος (frag. 18 Kinkel) τὸν Δία ἐν τῇ καθ' ἡμᾶς Λυδίᾳ τεχθῆναι βούλεται, καὶ μᾶλλον ἀληθεύει ὅσον ἐν ἱστορίᾳ· ἐτι γὰρ καὶ νῦν πρὸς τῷ δυτικῷ τῆς Σαρδιανῶν πόλεως μέρει ἐπ' ἀκρωρείας τοῦ Τμῶλου τόπος ἐστίν, ὃς πάλαι μὲν Γοναὶ Διὸς Ἰετίου νῦν δὲ παρατραπίσης τῷ χρόνῳ τῆς λέξεως Δεῦσιον (G. Kinkel prints Δευσίον and is followed by K. Tümpel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 281) προσαγορεύετα). A bronze coin of Sardeis, struck under Iulia Domna, has for its reverse type an infant Zeus seated on the ground with an eagle hovering above him (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 261 pl. 27, 6 = supra i. 151 fig. 118). Zeus Σαβάσιος brought the babe Dionysos to Mt Tmolos (Orph. h. Sabaz. 48. 1 ff. κλύθι, πάτερ, Κρόνου υἱέ, Σαβάσιε, κύδιμε δαίμον, | ὃς Βάκχον Διόνυσον, ἐρίβρομον, εἰραφιῶτην | μηρῶ ἐγκατέραψας, ὅπως τετελεσμένος ἔλθῃ | Τμῶλον ἐς ἡγάθεον παρὰ θ' Ἴπταν (παρ' Ἴπταν codd.)) καλλιπάρῃον. So O. Kern in Genethiakov Carl Robert zum 8. März 1910 überreicht von der Graeca Halensis Berlin 1910 p. 90 f. and in his Orphicorum Fragmenta Berolini 1922 p. 222 f., W. Quandt De Baccho ab Alexandri aetate in Asia Minore culto Halis Saxonum 1913 p. 257 f.). See further K. Buresch Klaros Leipzig 1889 p. 16 f., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 284 n. 11.

³ Tralleis (Aidin) occupied a high plateau on a southern spur of Mt Messogis. Its akropolis (320^m) overlooks the little river Eudonos, a tributary of the Maiandros (map by C. Humann and W. Dörpfeld in the Ath. Mitth. 1893 xviii. 395 ff. pl. 12). The town was said to have been founded by Argives and Thracians (Strab. 649 κτίσμα δὲ φασιν εἶναι τὰς Τράλλεις Ἀργείων καὶ τινῶν Θρακῶν Τραλλίων, ἀφ' ὧν τοῦνομα, cp. Steph. Byz. s.v. Τραλλία and Diod. 17. 65). A bronze coin struck by M. Aurelius has for reverse type ΤΡΑΛΛΕΥ C ΚΤΙCCTHC (sic) Tralleus as a soldier, standing to left, with right hand outstretched and left supported on spear (Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 203 no. 642 b, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 661).

Larisa, a village higher up on the slopes of Messogis, thirty stades from Tralleis, gave its name to Zeus Λαρίσιος (Strab. 440 (in a list of towns called Λαρίσια) καὶ τῶν Τράλλειων διέχουσα κώμη τριάκοντα σταθίους ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως ἐπὶ Καύστρου πεδίων διὰ τῆς Μεσσηγίδος ἰόντων κατὰ τὸ τῆς Ἰσοδρόμης Μητρὸς ἱερὸν, ὁμοίαν τὴν θέσιν καὶ τὴν ἀρετὴν ἔχουσα τῇ Κρεμαστῇ Λαρίσῃ (so cod. A, with another σ added by the second hand. λαρίσση cett. codd.)) καὶ γὰρ εὐνδρος καὶ ἀμπελόφυτος· ἴσως δὲ καὶ ὁ Λαρίσιος (so cod. A, with another σ added by the second hand. λαρίσσιος cett. codd.) Ζεὺς ἐκεῖθεν ἐπωνύμασται), as did Larisa on the Caystrian Plain to Apollon Λαρισηνός (Strab. 620: id. ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Λάρισσα has Λαρισηνός). Pythodoros of Tralleis, the friend of Pompey, is mentioned along with Μηνόδωρος, ἀνὴρ λόγιος καὶ ἄλλως σεμνὸς καὶ βαρὺς, ἔχων τὴν ἱερωσύνην τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρισαίου (Strab. 649). The name Λάρισα seems, however, to have been assimilated to the Carian place-names Ἄρπασα, Βάργασα, Μύλασα, Πήδασα, etc. (cp. Ptol. 6. 2. 13 Λάρασα in Media); for Zeus Λαρίσιος or Λαρισαῖος regularly appears on coins and in inscriptions as Zeus Λαράσιος. His cult, the most important of all cults at Tralleis, has been well studied by J. O. Schaefer De Iove apud Cares culto Halis Saxonum 1912 pp. 455—466, to whose collection of evidence I am much indebted.

Tralleis was formerly called Δία (et. mag. p. 389, 55 f. cited supra p. 587 n. 2, cp. L. Büchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 299) and was officially described as sacred to Zeus (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2926 (of s. iii A.D.) Τι. Κλ. Γλύπτον, | Ἀνδρονίκου (υἱόν), | τὸν ἀγορανόμον, | τὸν ὑπέρατον | λογιστ(ή)ν καὶ | σωτήρα καὶ | κτίστην τῆς | πατρίδος, | τῆς λαμπροτάτης | πόλε(ω)ς τῆς νεώκρου τῶν Σεβαστῶν, | ἱερᾶς τοῦ Διός, κατὰ τὰ δόγματα τῆς | συνκλήτου Τραλλιανῶν | οἱ μύσται | τῶν ἱερῶν (Lebas—Waddington iii. 203 no. 604 read οἱ μύσται τὸν εὐεργέτην)) or to Zeus Λαράσιος (K. Buresch in the Ath. Mitth. 1894 xix. 111 ff. no. 12 (time of Caracalla) Φλάσιον Φλ | Διαδοῦμενον | (ἐπίτροπον?) | τοῦ Σεβαστοῦ ὑπ[α]ρικῶν συνηγῆ | ἡ κρατίστη <ι> > Κλαυδία | βουλή καὶ οἱ δῆ[μο]ς [τῆς] | λαμπροτάτης [μητρο]πόλεως τῆς [Ἀσίας καὶ] | νεωκόρου τῶν Σεβαστῶν) | καὶ ἱερᾶς τοῦ [Διὸς τοῦ Λα]ρασιῦ κ[ατὰ τὰ δόγματα] | τῆς ἱερῶτ[α]ς συνκλή[του] Καισα[ρέων] Τραλλια[νῶν] πόλ[εως] | διὰ τὴν (ὑ)περ[τ]ῆ[την] | ἐν ταῖς ἀρχαῖ[ς] καὶ λειτουρ[γίαις] εὐνοια[ν] καὶ | φιλοτιμία[ν]). Decrees were set up in the sanctuary of Zeus (A. E. Kontoleon in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1886 x. 516 no. 4, 2 ff. τὸ δὲ ψήφισμα | [τὸ]δε ἀναγράφαι εἰς στήλην λιθίνην καὶ στήσαι | ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τοῦ Διός, Μ. Pappakonstantinou Αἰ Τράλλεις ἦτοι συλλογῆ Τραλλιανῶν ἐπιγραφῶν Athens 1895 no. 42 (of s. iii B.C.) ὁ δῆμος ὁ Σελευκεῶν (cp. Plin. nat. hist. 5. 108) . . . ἀναγράφαι δὲ τὸ ψήφισμα τὸδε ἐν στήλῃ λιθίνῃ καὶ στήσαι ἐν τῷ [?] προ (suppl. J. O. Schäfer) νῶφ τοῦ Διὸς ἐν τῷ ἐπιφανεστάτῳ τόπῳ) or Zeus Λαράσιος (A. Fointrier in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 466 ff., v. 11 ff. (of s. iii B.C.) ἀνα[γ]ράψαι δὲ τὸ ψήφισμα τὸδε εἰς τ[ὴν] ἀσπερὶ τούτων ἐπι[σκευασθείσας] στήλας καὶ στήσαι μιαν μὲν ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρί[σ]α[ο]υ, τὴν δὲ ἑτέραν | ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τῆς Ἀθη[ν]ῶν, Μ. Pappakonstantinou in the Ath. Mitth. 1888 xiii. 411 no. 2, 5 ff. ἀνα[γ]ράψαι δ(ε) αὐτὸν καὶ εὐεργέτην τῆς πόλε[ως] κ[αὶ] τὸ ψήφισμα εἰς στήλην λιθίνην | [καὶ στή]σαι ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρισίου, κ.τ.λ., A. Rehm in Milet iii. 318 ff. no. 143, 66 ff. (a decree of Seleukeia (Tralleis) cited in a pact of 212/11 B.C. between Miletos and Seleukeia) ἐπὶ δὲ τοῖς ἐψηφισμένοις συ[ν]τελέσαι θυσία[ν] τῷ Διὶ τῷ Λαρισίῳ καὶ τῷ Ἀπόλλωνι τοὺς ἱερομνήμονας κα[ὶ] | [τοὺς] (8—10 letters missing) καὶ τοὺς θ[ε]ο[φ]ιλοῦν[τες] ἐπιγεχομένους συνενεγχείαι ἀμφοτέραις | [ταῖς] πόλεσι τὰ ἐψηφισμένα καὶ εἶναι) ἐπὶ σωτηρίαι καὶ εὐτυχίαι· ἀνα[γ]ράψαι δὲ τὸ ψήφισμα εἰς στήλην λιθίνην καὶ στήσαι ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τοῦ | [Διὸς τοῦ Λαρισίου] κ.τ.λ.), T. Macridy in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1912 xv. 59 f. (a stèle of Hellenistic date from Notion) Α, 3 ff. ἀναγράφουσι τὰ ψηφ[ί]σ[ματα] εἰς στήλας λιθίνας δύο καὶ ἰσῶσι τῆμ μὲν μιαν παρ' αὐτοῖς ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τ[οῦ] | [Διὸς τοῦ Λαρισίου] ἐν τῷ ἐπιφανεστάτῳ τόπῳ, τὴν δὲ ἑτέραν παρ' ἡμῶν κ.τ.λ.). And votive offerings to the god included a couple of eagles (C. Fellows An Account of Discoveries in Lycia London 1841 p. 19 = Corp. inscr. Gr. ii Add. no. 2923 δ = Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure iii. 200 no. 597 (beneath a well-carved eagle minus its head) Διογένης Ὀρθί[ων]ος Εὐφ[ί]στῶν τούτους | δὲ ἀετοὺς ἀνέθηκε. The formula Εὐφ Διὶ is exceptional and sounds like a Latinism, cp. Corp. inscr. Lat. vii no. 80, 1 f. deo | Iovi and the like) and an effigy of Dionysos (M. Pappakonstantinou Αἰ Τράλλεις κ.τ.λ. no. 150 ἀγαθῆ τύχη· τῷ Διὶ τὸν Διόνυσον Ἀγαθήμερος ἱερὸς (on this title see G. Cardinali 'Note di terminologia epigrafica II Ἱεροί' in the Rendiconti d. Lincei 1908 xvii. 165 ff., O. Kern 'Hieroi und Hierai' in Hermes 1911 xlvi. 300 ff., Link in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 1471 ff.)).

The priest of the city, presumably the priest of Zeus Λαράσιος, regularly dwelt in the brick palace built there by the kings of Pergamon (Vitr. 2. 8. 9 Trallibus domum regibus Attalics factam quae ad habitandum semper datur ei qui civitatis gerit sacerdotium). He held office for life (E. Loewy in the Ath. Mitth. 1886 xi. 203 f. no. 1 = A. E. Kontoleon in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1886 x. 456 f. no. 8 = J. R. S. Sterrett in the Papers of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens 1888 ii. 325 no. 379 = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 499 'On the base or capital of a column' [Γ.] 'Ιούλιον, [Γ.] 'Ιουλίου Φιλίππου ἀρχιερέως | 'Ἀσίας υἱόν, Οὐέλινρα, Φίλιππον, Ἰππέα 'Ρωμαίων (Loewy and Dittenberger give 'Ρωμαίων), τῶν ἐκλεκτῶν ἐν 'Ρώμ[η]ι δικαστῶν, | ἐπίτροπον τῶν Σεβαστῶν, πατέρα 'Ιουλί[ου] | Φιλίππου συγκλητικῆς, στρατηγῶν 'Ρωμαίων, ἱερέα διὰ βίου τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρασίου, J. R. S. Sterrett in the Ath. Mitth. 1883 viii. 330 ff. no. 11, 14 ff. = id. in the Papers of the American School 1885 i. 110 ff. no. 11, 14 ff. (c. 200 A.D.) ἐπι ἱερέως διὰ βίου τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρασίου Φλαουίου | Κλειτοσθένους τοῦ κρατίστου δις 'Ἀσιάρχου, πρώτο[υ] | 'Ἀσίας, πατρὸς ὑπατικοῦ κα[ι] | πάππου συγκλητικῶν, τῆς | θ' αὐτοῦ πενταετηρίδος, M. Pappakonstantinou Αἰ Τράλλεις κ.τ.λ. no. 12 (a similar inscription) ἐπι ἱερέως διὰ βίου τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαρασίου Φλαουίου Κλειτοσθένους κ.τ.λ., id. in the Ath. Mitth. 1901 xxvi. 239 no. 4 (on a four-sided marble base) [Τ. Φλάουιον] | Στασικλέα Μητροφά[ν]η τὸν κράτιστον | ἱερέα διὰ βίου τοῦ Διὸς | τοῦ Λαρασίου καὶ ἀγνωσθέν[η] | τῶν μεγάλων ἱερῶν | εἰσελαστικῶν εἰς ἅπασαν | τὴν οἰκουμένην ~ | ἀγῶνων πρώτων Πυθίων | ὑὸν Τ. Φλ. Κλειτοσθένους | ὑπατικοῦ ~ ἔγγονον ~ | Τ. Φλ. Κλειτοσθένους, πατρὸς | [ὑπατικοῦ - - - - -]. When, in s. ii A.D., Tralleis was visited by an earthquake, a Pythian oracle delivered to the priest Kleitosthenes represented the disaster as due to the wrath of Zeus for the city's neglect of Poseidon the earthquake-god and directed that ample atonement should be made to both deities (A. Hauvette-Bessault and Dubois in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1881 v. 340 ff. = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. Add. 6. 104 b = O. Kern in Genethiakiakon Carl Robert zum 8. März 1910 überreicht von der Graeca Halensis Berlin 1910 p. 98 ff. with pl. χρησμός τοῦ Πυθίου | δοθεὶς Κλειτοσθένει τῷ | ἱερεί τοῦ Διὸς ὑπὲρ τῆς | σωτηρίας τῆς πόλεως: |

χειλιπέτες μήνεμα πάτρης Διὸς ἐξαναλύσας μειλιχίη Σεισίχθονι ἐν ἄλσει βωμῶν ἐνείρας θύεο, μὴ διερεύνω μ' ὡ πόλις, εἰναλίω νῦν ἐννομήν Κρονίδη, φοιβῆ χειρὶ δὲ ἀρητήρος, πυρῶν καὶ καρπῶν τ' ἐπιδράγματα πάντα· καλεισθῶ ἀσφάλιος, τεμενοῦχος, ἀπτόροπος, ἱππιος, ἀργῆς· ᾧδε, πόλις, δὲ ὑμνεῖτε δεδραγμένον εἰφι βεβῶτα οὐ τε βάθρω κύκνειον ὄσοι γέρας ἀμφιπένεσθε ἐν χορῷ εὐ αἰνεῖν Σεισίχθονα καὶ Δ[ι]α μείλαξ

(The last word is a puzzle. O. Kern loc. cit. p. 101 n. 1 holds that it is either an unknown adverb or a form comparable with Hesych. μέλαξ· ἡλικία. ἐνοι δὲ μέλλαξ· καὶ παρ' Ἑρμίππῳ ἐν Θεοῖς (frag. 10 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 392 Meineke)), ἀγνοήσας Ἀρτεμίδωρος· ἐκεῖ γὰρ μέλαξ ἐστίν. δηλοῖ δὲ τὸν δημοτικόν. J. O. Schaefer op. cit. p. 464 f. prefers the first alternative and assumes μείλαξ = μειλιχίη. No allusion to the botanical μέλαξ is probable.) Another priest of s. ii A.D., Claudius Meliton, made a dedication to Zeus Λαράσιος Σεβαστὸς Εὐμενῆς (J. R. S. Sterrett in the Papers of the American School 1888 ii. 326 f. no. 381 Διὶ Λαρασίῳ Σεβαστῷ | Εὐμενεῖ Κλαυδί(ο)ς Μελί[των] ὁ ἱερεὺς | ἀποκατέ-στησεν), i.e. to the emperor Hadrian, who in 129 A.D. came to Tralleis (W. M. Ramsay ib. 1885 i. 102) and was there identified with Zeus Λαράσιος (J. B. Lightfoot The Apostolic Fathers London 1885 ii. 1. 617 n. 1, J. R. S. Sterrett loc. cit. 1888 ii. 327), just as in 128 A.D. he came to Athens and was there identified with Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (P. v. Rohden in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 509), or just as in 132 A.D. he came to Dodona and was there identified with Zeus Δωδωναῖος (id. ib. i. 512, on the strength of Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 1822 cited infra Append. M. med.).

Special interest attaches to the inscription on a small marble base from Aidin in the Pursar collection at Smyrna (W. M. Ramsay in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 276 f. no. 19, id. The Cities and Bishoprics of Phrygia Oxford 1895 i. 94 ff., 115 no. 18 [ἀγ]αθὴ τύχη· | Α. Ἀύρηλια Αἰ[μι]λία ἐκ προγόνων παλλακίδων καὶ ἀνιπποπῶδων θ[υ]γάτηρ Α. Ἀύρ. Σ[ε]κόνδου Ση[ι]λου παλλακείσα καὶ κατὰ χρ[η]σμον (space) | (space) Διὶ ᾧ). Sir William Ramsay comments: 'Aurelia Aemilia belonged to a family in which the ancient custom was retained that the women should in their youth be hetairai in the service of the temple.

This custom was common in the native religions of Asia Minor (1) [(1) Strab. p. 559 and 532-3.], but it is somewhat remarkable to find it actually practised by a family bearing Roman names perhaps as late as the third century P.C.' Cp. Ail. var. hist. 4. 1 Λυδοῖς ἦν ἔθος πρὸ τοῦ συνοικεῖν τὰς γυναῖκας ἀνδράσιν ἔταιρεῖν, ἅπασι δὲ καταφευχθεῖσας σωφρονεῖν· τὴν δὲ ἀμαρτάνουσαν ἐς ἕτερον συγγνώμης τυχεῖν ἀδύνατον ἦν (but hardly the references collected by Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 915 n. 6). The significance of such customs in general is disputed (see e.g. M. P. Nilsson Studia de Dionysiis Atticis Lundae 1900 pp. 119—121, id. Gr. Feste pp. 365—367, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 914—917, F. Cumont *Les Religions Orientales dans le Paganisme Romain*² Paris 1909 pp. 143—286, H. Ploss—M. Bartels *Das Weib in der Natur- und Völkerkunde*¹⁰ Leipzig 1913 i. 614—616, 648—654, Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Adonis Attis Osiris³ i. 36 ff., 57 ff.) and investigators have been apt to confuse similar effects produced by dissimilar causes (see E. S. Hartland 'Concerning the Rite at the Temple of Mylitta' in Anthropological Essays presented to Edward Burnett Tylor Oxford 1907 pp. 189—202). The Trallian inscription perhaps implies that women, believed to represent a mother-goddess, used to mate with men, believed to represent a father-god, their union being thought to promote the fruitfulness of the land and its occupants. If so, the παλλακίδες may have been comparable with the Egyptian παλλακίδες of Zeus Θηβαιεύς (Hdt. i. 182 (supra i. 348 n. 1), cp. Hekataios of Abdera frag. 12 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 390 Müller) ap. Diod. i. 47 ἀπὸ γὰρ τῶν πρώτων τάφων, ἐν οἷς παραδέδοται τὰς παλλακίδας τοῦ Διὸς τεθάφθαι, κ.τ.λ., Strab. 816 τῷ δὲ Δεῖ, δὴν μάλιστα τιμῶσιν, εὐειδεστάτῃ καὶ γένους λαμπροτάτου παρθένος ἱεράται, ἃς καλοῦσιν οἱ Ἕλληρες παλλάδας (Xylander cj. παλλακάς. W. Dindorf cj. παλλακίδας. But see G. Kramer ad loc.)· αὐτῇ δὲ καὶ παλλακεύει καὶ σύνεστιν οἷς βούλεται, μέχρις ἂν ἡ φυσικὴ γένηται κάθαρσις τοῦ σώματος· μετὰ δὲ τὴν κάθαρσιν δίδοται πρὸς ἄνδρα· πρὶν δὲ δοθῆναι, πένθος αὐτῆς ἀγεται μετὰ τὸν τῆς παλλακείας καιρὸν). And the ἀνικτόποδες recall the priests of Zeus at Dodona (Il. 16. 234 ff. Ζεὺ ἄνα, Δωδωναίε, Πελασγικέ, τηλόθι ναίων, | Δωδώνης μεδῶν δυσχειμέρον· ἀμφὶ δὲ Σελλοὶ | σοὶ ναῖουσ' ὑποφῆται ἀνικτόποδες, χαμαιεῦναι), who went with unwashed feet and lay on the ground in order that they might be in constant contact with Mother Earth (J. O. Schaefer op. cit. p. 462 f. I had hit upon the same explanation years before and published it in the Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 180). The combination of a rite reminiscent of Egyptian Thebes with a rite reminiscent of Dodona is not surprising in view of the analogy already traced between the usages of these two cult-centres (supra i. 363 ff.).

Coppers of Seleukeia (Tralleis) first struck late in s. iii B.C. (Head *Hist. num.*² p. 659) have obv. head of Zeus, laureate, to right; rev. humped bull, with ΣΕΛΕΥΚΕΩΝ above and magistrate's name below, all within maeander-border (F. Imhoof-Blumer Lydische Stadtmiünzen Genf—Leipzig 1897 p. 169 pl. 7, 7). Some specimens add ΔΙΟΣ above and ΛΑΡΑΣΙΟΥ below the bull (id. ib. p. 169 no. 3). One, in place of the maeander, gives ΔΙΟΣ ΛΑΡΑΣΙΟΥ ΚΑΙ ΔΙΟΣ ΕΥΜΕΝΟΥ (sic) (id. ib. p. 169 f. no. 4), cp. Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 985, 6 ff. (Philadelpheia in Lydia: s. i B.C.) Διὸς [γὰρ ἐν τούτῳ] | τοῦ Εὐμενοῦς καὶ Ἐστίας τ[ῆς παρέδρου αὐ]τοῦ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων θεῶν Σωτ[ῆρων κ.τ.λ.] and the dedication to Hadrianas Zeus Λαράσιος Σεβαστὸς Εὐμενῆς cited supra. The inference is that Eumenes i was divinised after his death as Zeus Εὐμενῆς: cp. the divinisation of Eumenes ii in Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 515, 22 = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 332, 22 θεοῦ βασιλέως Εὐμένου Σωτῆρος (ib. 24 f., 27 f., 45). Coppers of Tralleis struck in early imperial times have sometimes obv. head of Zeus, laureate, to right; rev. Δ[ΙΟ]Σ ΛΑΡΑΣΙΟΥ ΚΑΙ[ΣΑ]ΡΕΩΝ humped bull standing to left (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 339 no. 87: my fig. 847 is from a cast of this specimen). Later we find obv. ΣΕΥΚΛΑ ΡΑΚΙΟC bust of Zeus, laureate, to right, within border of dots; rev.

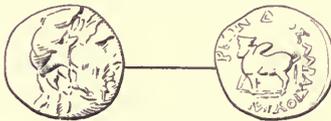

Fig. 847.

ΤΡΑΛ ΛΙΑΝΩΝ Dionysos standing to front, naked, with grape-bunch in raised right hand, kántharos in lowered left, within border of dots (ib. p. 341 no. 100), or obv. ΖΕ VC bust of Zeus, laureate, to right, within border of dots; rev. ΤΡΑΛΛΙΑΝΩΝ humped bull walking to right, within border of dots (ib. p. 342 no. 101 f.), or ΤΡΑΛΛΙΑΝΩΝ bunch of grapes, within border of dots (ib. p. 342 no. 103). Other imperial coppers represent Zeus Δαράσιος as a seated figure, who wears a himdtion round his legs, holds Nike on his outstretched right hand, and rests upon a sceptre with his left (ib. p. 340 no. 93 ΛΑΡΑΚΙΟC ΚΑΙCΑΡΕΩΝ time of Nero—Domitian, p. 345 no. 129 ΚΑΙCΑΡΕΩΝ ΝΑΡΑΚΙΟC Domitian, cp. p. 354 pl. 37, 7 Gordianus Pius, p. 357 pl. 37, 11 Philippus Senior, p. 362 pl. 41, 11 Gordianus Pius), sometimes with an eagle at his feet (ib. p. 350 pl. 37, 2 L. Verus).

Other coins of the town illustrate the myth of Zeus: (1) a copper of Antoninus Pius has rev. ΔΙΟCΓΟΝΑΙ the infant Zeus asleep on a mountain with an eagle hovering above him (Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 337 f., *Head Hist. num.*² p. 661. Supra i. 151 fig. 119, 535 n. o). Sir W. M. Ramsay The Historical Geography of Asia Minor London 1890 p. 13 rightly rejects B. V. Head's former view that the legend is Διὸς Γοῶν(ου). Cp. Aristodemos of Thebes frag. 6 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 310 Müller) ap. schol. II. 13. 1 μετὰ δὲ τὴν Ἴλου πῦρθησιν Ἐκτωρ ὁ Πριάμου καὶ μετὰ τὸν θάνατον τὴν ἀπὸ θεῶν εὐτύχησε τιμῆν. οἱ γὰρ ἐν Βοιωτίᾳ Θηβαῖοι πιεζόμενοι κακοῖς ἐμαντεύοντο περὶ ἀπαλλαγῆς. χρησμός δὲ αὐτοῖς ἐδόθη παύσεσθαι τὰ δεινὰ, ἐὰν ἐξ Ὀφρυνίου τῆς Τρωάδος τὰ Ἐκτορος δατὰ διακομισθῶσιν εἰς τὸν παρ' αὐτοῖς καλούμενον τόπον Διὸς Γοῶν. οἱ δὲ τοῦτο ποιήσαντες καὶ τῶν κακῶν ἀπαλλαγέντες διὰ τιμῆς ἔσχον Ἐκτορα, κατὰ τε τοὺς ἐπείγοντας καιροὺς ἐπικαλοῦνται τὴν ἐπιφάνειαν αὐτοῦ. ἡ ἱστορία παρὰ Ἀριστοδήμῳ = Cramer anecd. Paris. iii. 18, 7 ff. with Böhle in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 1585. (2) A copper of M. Aurelius has rev. the infant Zeus suckled by a goat (Mionnet Descr. de méd. ant. Suppl. vii. 472 no. 723). (3) A copper of Antoninus Pius has rev. the infant Zeus nursed by Rhea, with an eagle on the ground at her feet and three Kouretes clashing their shields about her (F. Imhoof-Blumer Lydische Stadtmiünzen p. 177 f. pl. 7, 15, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 347 pl. 36, 5 (supra i. 151 fig. 121 from a cast), *Head Hist. num.*² p. 661). (4) A copper of Antoninus Pius has rev. ΕΙΟΝCΓΑΜΟ[1] Io in long robe and bridal veil led towards the left by Hermes, who wears a chlamys and holds a caduceus in his right hand (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 348 pl. 36, 8, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 661). (5) A copper of Antoninus Pius has rev. a veiled figure (Io?) sitting in a two-wheeled hinged chariot, which is drawn by a pair of humped bulls and conducted by a naked figure (Hermes?) (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 348 no. 141). (6) A copper of Tranquillina, now in the British Museum, has rev. a male figure (Zeus?) clad in a himdtion extending his right hand to a fully draped and veiled female figure (Io?), who stands in the entrance of a wattle shed or hut (perhaps the βούστασις of Aisch. P. v. 651 ff. σὺ δ', ὦ παῖ, μὴ ἴπολακτίσης λέχος | τὸ Ζηνός, ἀλλ' ἐξελθε πρὸς Λέρνης βαθὺν | λειμῶνα, ποίμνας βουστάσις τε πρὸς πατρός, | ὡς ἂν τὸ Δῖον ὄμμα λωφίσῃ πῆθου) (so B. V. Head and W. Wroth in the Nun. Chron. Fourth Series 1903 iii. 337 f. no. 30 pl. 12, 1 (=my fig. 848 from a cast) with the alternative suggestion (ib. p. 338 n. 45): 'Or the scene...may possibly refer to a later incident, when Io, at the Egyptian Canobus, is restored to sanity by the gentle touch of Zeus's hand and becomes the mother of Epaphus the ancestor of the Argive Danaoi' [Aisch. P. v. 846 ff.], *Head Hist. num.*² p. 661). A propos of the whole series B. V. Head in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. cxlvi observes: 'Evidently on these coins we have representations of successive scenes in certain religious mysteries connected with the Io legend, and celebrated by the Trallians in commemoration of their Argive descent, Argos having been the original home of the Io myth.' I doubt the Io-'mysteries.' The coin-types, inscriptions and all, could be equally well explained as copying the subjects of the frescoes or reliefs with which some public edifice at Tralleis was adorned, e.g. the octostyle temple (?) of Zeus. It has an eagle in its pediment, but a caduceus beside it or within it) figured on imperial coppers (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 338 pl. 35, 1, p. 353 no. 161).

Fig. 848.

Ionia

Smyrna¹.Ephesos².

The cult of Zeus Λαρσίος spread to Miletos, where a small domestic altar dedicated to him has come to light (T. Wiegand in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1908 Phil.-hist. Classe Anhang i. 27 'am zahlreichsten sind die Zeuskulte, natürlich wiegen die karischen vor, so dass Zeus Labraundios (einmal Λαβρένδιος) durch sechs mit der Doppelaxt geschmückte Altäre vertreten ist, Larasios und Zeus Lepsynos einmal, ebenso der Ὀλύμπιος Πεισαίος, Κεράνιος Σωτήρ, Τερμινθεύς, Ὀμοβούλιος und Καταιβάτης; endlich ist ein kleiner Altar Διὸς ἐπιδῶν gefunden').

Θεὸς Ὑψίστος (supra p. 880 n. o no. (17)).

¹ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 873 n. o no. (8)).

² The Zeus-cult of the Ephesians can be traced back to the first half of s. vii B.C. (Kallin. frag. 4 Bergk⁴, 2 Hiller—Crusius ap. Strab. 633 ἦν ἵκα καὶ Σμύρνα ἐκαλείτο ἡ Ἐφεσος· καὶ Καλλίνδος ποῦ οὕτως ἀνέμακεν αὐτήν, Σμυρναλοῦ τοῦς Ἐφεσίου καλῶν ἐν τῷ πρὸς τὸν Δία λόγῳ· 'Σμυρναλοῦ δ' ἐλέησον'· καὶ πάλιν· 'μῆσαι δ' εἰ κοτέ τοι μηρία καλὰ βοῶν | <Σμυρναῖοι κατέκταν (ins. I. Casaubon)>' κ.τ.λ.). But here Zeus was always of less importance than Artemis; and the tradition which located her birth at Ortygia (the glen of Arvalia: see O. Benndorf Forschungen in Ephesos Wien 1906 i. 76 ff.) boldly appropriated his Kouretes (C. Picard Éphèse et Claros Paris 1922 pp. 277 ff., 423 ff.), installing them on Mt Solmissos (Strab. 640 ὑπέρεκται δὲ τοῦ ἄλλου ὄρου ὁ Σολμισσός, ὅπου σάντας φασὶ τοῦς Κορηῆτας τῷ ψόφῳ τῶν ὄπλων ἐκπλήξαι τὴν Ἥραν ζηλοτύπως ἐφεδρεύουσαν, καὶ λαθεῖν συμπράξαντας τὴν λοχέλαν τῇ Λητοί. κ.τ.λ.).

A bronze coin of Ephesos, struck by Antoninus Pius, has rev. Zeus enthroned on a mountain-top (Mt Koressos). He holds in his left hand a thunderbolt and pours from his raised right hand a shower of rain upon a recumbent mountain-god inscribed ΠΕΙΩΝ, who bears a cornu copiac. In front of the principal mountain, on the level of the plain, is a distyle temple, above which, in the background, are cypress-trees and two three-storeyed buildings, perched upon rocks. To the left of the same mountain is another three-storeyed building (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Ionia p. 79 pl. 13, 9 (= supra i. 134 fig. 100 from a cast), G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 p. 167 f. pl. 6, 9; A. Löbbecke in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1890 xvii. 10 no. 2 pl. 1, 17; O. Benndorf Forschungen in Ephesos i. 56 fig. 18 a Löbbecke, b Cabinet des médailles Paris, c British Museum, d Gréau collection; *Head Hist. num.*² p. 577). High up on the south-eastern side of Mt Koressos is a rock-cut throne, once perhaps regarded as the throne of Zeus (supra i. 140 f. fig. 104 f.).

Bronze coins issued at Ephesos by Domitian (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Ionia p. 75 no. 215) and Severus Alexander (ib. p. 93 pl. 14, 7 (= my fig. 849 from a cast)) show Zeus Ὀλύμπιος seated to the left, holding the cult-statue of Artemis Ἐφεσία in one hand and a long sceptre in the other. Coppers of Caracalla (ib. p. 85 no. 272) and Valerianus Senior (Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 337 no. 75) repeat the type, but omit the name of the god. He was worshipped in the Olympieion (Paus. 7. 2. 9 κατὰ τὴν ὁδὸν τὴν ἐκ τοῦ ἱεροῦ παρὰ τὸ Ὀλυμπεῖον καὶ ἐπὶ πύλας τὰς Μαγνήτιδας). And Hadrian as his vice-gent shared the honours of his festival (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2810, 17 f. Ἀδριανὰ Ὀλύμπια ἐν Ἐφέσῳ, iii no. 5913, 30 f. = Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 1102, 30 f. Ἐφεσον τριπλῆ Ἀδριανία Ὀλύμπια, Βαρβιλλη κ.τ.λ.).

A bronze coin at Ephesos struck by Septimius Severus has rev. ΖΕΥΣ ΕΦΕΣΙΟΣ ΠΡΩΤΟΣ ΑΣΙΑΣ Zeus standing with the cult-statue of Artemis Ἐφεσία (Rasche Lex. Num. iii. 675, vii. 355, xi. 1256, Eckhel Doctr. num.

Fig. 849.

Magnesia ad Maeandrum¹.

Miletos².

Karia

Halikarnassos³.

Myndos⁴.

Iasos⁵.

Lagina⁶.

Mylasa⁷.

Panamara⁸.

Stratonikeia⁹.

vet.² ii. 514). Others struck by Valerianus (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Ionia p. 101 no. 357) and Salonina (supra p. 743 n. 7 fig. 681) show Zeus naked, striding to right, with thunderbolt in uplifted right hand and eagle on outstretched left.

Finally, the cult-statue of Artemis was called Διοπετές as having fallen from Zeus (Acts 19. 35 τίς γάρ ἐστιν ἀνθρώπων ὃς οὐ γινώσκει τὴν Ἐφεσίων πόλιν νεωκόρον οὖσαν τῆς μεγάλης Ἀρτέμιδος καὶ τοῦ διοπετοῦς; Oikoumenios comm. in acta apost. 19. 18—34 (cxviii. 253 Migne) δεικνυσι πολλὴν εἶναι τὴν δεισιδαιμονίαν τῶν Ἐφεσίων ὃ γραμματεὺς ἐκ τε τοῦ κοσμεῖν τὸν ναὸν τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος καὶ τὸ εἰδῶλον αὐτῆς τιμᾶν, ὅπερ καὶ Διοπετὲς ἔλεγον ὡς ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς πεπτωκός. ἦτοι γὰρ τὸ ὄστροκον ἔλεγον ἐκεῖνο πάντες (leg. πάντως) Διοπετὲς τὸ ἐξ οὐρανοῦ παρὰ τοῦ Διὸς πεμφθέν, ἦτοι καταπτὰν καὶ γενόμενον ἀπ' οὐρανοῦ ἄγαλμα, ἦτοι τὸ Παλλάδιον, καθὼς ἐμύθεον οἱ Ἕλληες πρὸς κατάπληξιν τῶν ἀκραϊοτέρων, ὅπερ ἀνωθεν ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς διαπλασθῆναι φῶντο καὶ οὐκ ἐξ ἀνθρώπων. ἡ Διοπετοῦς τοῦ ναοῦ τοῦ Διὸς, ἦτοι τοῦ στρογγυλοειδοῦς. ἡ καὶ ἑτερον οὕτως ἐκαλεῖτο παρ' αὐτοῖς = Theophylaktos archbishop of Bulgaria expres. in acta text. alt. 29 (cxxn. 1013 Migne) 'καὶ τοῦ διοπετοῦς.' τὸ εἰδῶλον τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος ἐκαλεῖτο Διοπετὲς ὡς ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς πεπτωκός' ἦτοι τὸ ὄστροκον [ἔλεγον] ἐκεῖνο πάντως Διοπετὲς τὸ ἐξ οὐρανοῦ παρὰ τοῦ Διὸς πεμφθέν ἦτοι καταπτῶν (leg. καταπτῶν) καὶ οὐ γενόμενον ὑπὸ ἀνθρώπου ἄγαλμα τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος, καθὼς ἐμύθεον Ἕλληες, Isidoros of Pelousion 4 epist. 207 (lxxviii. 1299 Migne) οἱ παρ' Ἑλλήσι τὰ ξάνα κατασκευάσαντες, φόβον ἐμποιῆσαι τοῖς ὄρωσι βουλόμενοι, ἔφασκον ὅτι ἐξ οὐρανοῦ παρὰ τοῦ Διὸς ἐπέμφθη ἡ κατέπη, κρεῖττον ἀπάσης ἀνθρωπίνης χειρός. διὸ καὶ διοπετὲς αὐτὸ καὶ οὐράνιον βρέτας προσηγόρευον = Souid. s.v. διοπετές' ἐξ οὐρανοῦ κατερχόμενον. ὅτι οἱ παρ' Ἑλλήσι τὰ ξάνα κατασκευάζοντες, φόβον ἐμποιῆσαι βουλόμενοι τοῖς ὄρωσιν, ἔφασκον ὅτι τὸ ἄγαλμα ἐξ οὐρανοῦ παρὰ τοῦ Διὸς ἐπέμφθη καὶ κατέπη, κρεῖττον ὑπάρχον πάσης ἀνθρωπίνης χειρός καὶ ἀνάλων. ὅθεν καὶ διοπετὲς αὐτὸ καὶ οὐράνιον βρέτας ἐκάλουν, Sozom. hist. eccl. 2. 5 (lxxvii. 945 C Migne) γυμνωθέντες δὲ τῆς τοῦ πλήθους ῥοπῆς οἱ νεωκόροι καὶ οἱ λερεῖς προῦδῶκαν τὰ παρ' αὐτοῖς τιμώτατα καὶ τὰ διοπετῆ καλούμενα). Cp. the passages cited by Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. ii. 1527 C, to which add Apollod. 3. 12. 3 τὸ διοπετὲς Παλλάδιον, Konon narr. 34 τὸ διοπετὲς Ἀθηναῖς Παλλάδιον, Io. Philop. περὶ ἀγαλμάτων αρ. Phot. bibl. p. 173 b 10 f. διοπετῆ ἐπωνόμασαν. See further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 774 n. 2 and P. Saintyves 'Talismans et reliques tombés du ciel' in the Revue des Études Ethnographiques et Sociologiques 1909 ii. 175 ff., Revue d'Ethnographie et de Sociologie 1910 i. 50 ff., 103 ff.

¹ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 873 n. 0 no. (7)).

² Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)).

³ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 872 n. 0 no. (5)).

⁴ Zeus Ἀκραῖος (supra p. 872 n. 0 no. (6)).

⁵ Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)).

⁶ Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)).

⁷ Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)). For Zeus Ὅσογῶα or Ζηνοποσειδῶν see supra p. 576 ff.; and for Zeus Λαβρύνδος or Zeus Στράτιος, supra pp. 576 ff., 585 ff., 705.

⁸ Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)). For Zeus Πανάμαρος, Πανήμερος, Πανήμεριος see supra i. 18 ff.

⁹ Zeus Ὑψιστος (supra p. 879 n. 0 no. (17)).

Kos

Kos¹.

Bithynia

Prousa ad Olympum².

Phrygia

Aizanoi³.¹ Θεός Ἰψιστος (supra p. 880 n. o no. (18)).² Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (supra i. 116 n. 8, 124). The cult-statue of the god appears on a bronze coin of Prousa, struck by Trajan, with rev. ΠΡΟΥΣΑΕΙΣ ΔΙΑ ΟΛΥΜΠΙΟΝ Zeus enthroned to right, resting his right hand on a long sceptre and holding in his left a globe, on which stands a small wreath-bearing Nike (Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 577 pl. 99, 7 (=my fig. 850), *Head Hist. num.*² p. 517). A later coin-type gives two agonistic urns, with palms and five balls (? apples, cp. supra p. 490 n. o no. (5)) respectively, inscribed ΟΛΥΜΠΙΑ ΠΥΘΙΑ (Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 600 f. pl. 103, 11 Valerianus Senior, 13 Gallienus, 14 Salonina).

A copper of Caracalla shows a youthful figure, in military costume, carrying a sceptre in his left hand and with his right holding a phidie above an altar, garlanded and kindled, towards which leaps a boar beneath a fruitful fig (?)-tree with an eagle in its branches (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 197 pl. 35, 7, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 589 pl. 101, 13 (=my fig. 851)). A similar copper of Geta has

Fig. 850.

Fig. 851.

Fig. 852.

rev. ΤΟΝ ΚΤΙΣΤΗΝ ΠΡΟΥΣΑΕΙΣ (in exergue) the same figure holding his phidie above an altar, garlanded and kindled, at the foot of which are seen the head and forelegs of the sacrificial bull (? boar A.B.C.). Behind is a fruitful fig (?)-tree with an eagle in its branches; to the left, a round temple with an arched entry (ib. i. 591 pl. 101, 22 (=my fig. 852)). These coins presumably represent the eponymous hero Prousius (cp. a coin of Commodus ib. i. 582 pl. 100, 3 ΠΡΟΥΣΑΕΙΣ ΤΟΝ ΚΤΙΣΤΗΝ ΠΡΟΥΣΙΑΝ beardless head of hero to right) worshipping Zeus.

³ Aizanoi (Tchavdir-Hissar) (Αἰζάνη only Ptol. 5. 2. 17 ed. pr.), the chief town of Aizanitis in Phrygia Epiketos (Strab. 576), is situated on a high plateau (1085^m above the sea) near the sources of the river Rhyndakos. Herodian. περὶ καθολικῆς προσφῶδας 1 (i. 15, 6 f. Lentz) (cp. περὶ ὀρθογραφίας (ii. 468, 29 Lentz)) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἀζανοί stated that Aizanoi received its name from Aizen son of Tantalos. Others seem to have held that the town was founded by Azan son of Arkas (Paus. 8. 4. 3). But Hermogenes of Smyrna (?) frag. 3 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 524 Müller) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Ἀζανοί was not content with such commonplace conjectures. He reports the tradition that once in time of dearth the shepherds of the district sacrificed to the gods for fertility, but in vain, till one Euphorbos offered a fox (οὐάνου) and a hedgehog (ἐξῆν). The gods were satisfied and sent fertility again. Thereupon the people chose Euphorbos as their priest and ruler (ιερέα καὶ ἀρχοντα), the town being called Ἐξουάνου after his sacrifice. Cp. the coins of Aizanoi (second half of s. i B.C.) inscribed EZEANITΩN (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phrygia p. xxiv). Frazer Pausanias iv. 192 comments: 'The legend points to the existence of a race of priestly kings or popes, with spiritual and temporal power, such as reigned at Pessinus, Comana, and other cities of Asia Minor (W. M. Ramsay, Historical Geogr. of Asia Minor, p. 146 sq.).'

The tēmenos of Zeus, which occupies a square terrace (146.46^m × 162.96^m) contrived on a natural hill-top, had a façade of twenty-two marble-clad arches with a broad stairway (30^m across) in their midst. This gave access to a square stoa consisting of a double range of Corinthian columns with a handsome propylaion opposite to the stairway. Outside the stoa were gardens, exedrai, and statues. Inside the stoa, on a stylobate of seven steps, rose the temple, a beautifully finished Ionic structure in blue-grey half-marble, dating apparently from Hadrianic times (A. Körte 'Das Alter des Zeustempels von Aizanoi' in the Festschrift für Otto Benndorf Wien 1898 pp. 209—214 with pl. 11 (= my fig. 853)) and in various points inspired by the Athenian Erechtheion. The building was octostyle and pseudo-dipteral with fifteen columns down the long side, two in the prōnaos, and two in the opisthōdomos. These last are of interest as having a band of acanthus-leaves beneath their Ionic volutes—a feature which W. J. Anderson—R. P. Spiers The Architecture of Greece and Rome London 1902 pp. 98, 154 refer to s. i B.C. and claim as the origin of the 'composite' order. The columns are fluted monoliths (height of shaft 8.520^m: total height 9.504^m) with a small vase in relief at the top of each flute: sixteen of them are still standing, ten on the northern side and six more at the western end. Oak-leaves and acorns appear among the mouldings of the temple. Round the outside of the naōs-wall runs a frieze-like band (0.62^m high), with a moulding above and a meander below, ready to receive inscriptions and already in part inscribed (inside the right anta of the prōnaos and outside the north wall of the naōs). Under the naōs is a chamber (16.157^m × 9.120^m) with a semicircular vault, reached by steps from the opisthōdomos and probably used for the safeguarding of the temple-treasure. It is possible that some dim recollection of this treasure lingered in folk-memory; for the peasants in comparatively modern times, believing that the columns were cast in stone and full of gold, attacked them with pickaxe and hammer, nor did they desist from their futile search till they had filled the temple with faggots and fired the lot! See further C. Texier Description de l'Asie Mineure Paris 1839 i. 95—127 pls. 23—34, W. J. Hamilton Researches in Asia

Fig. 853.

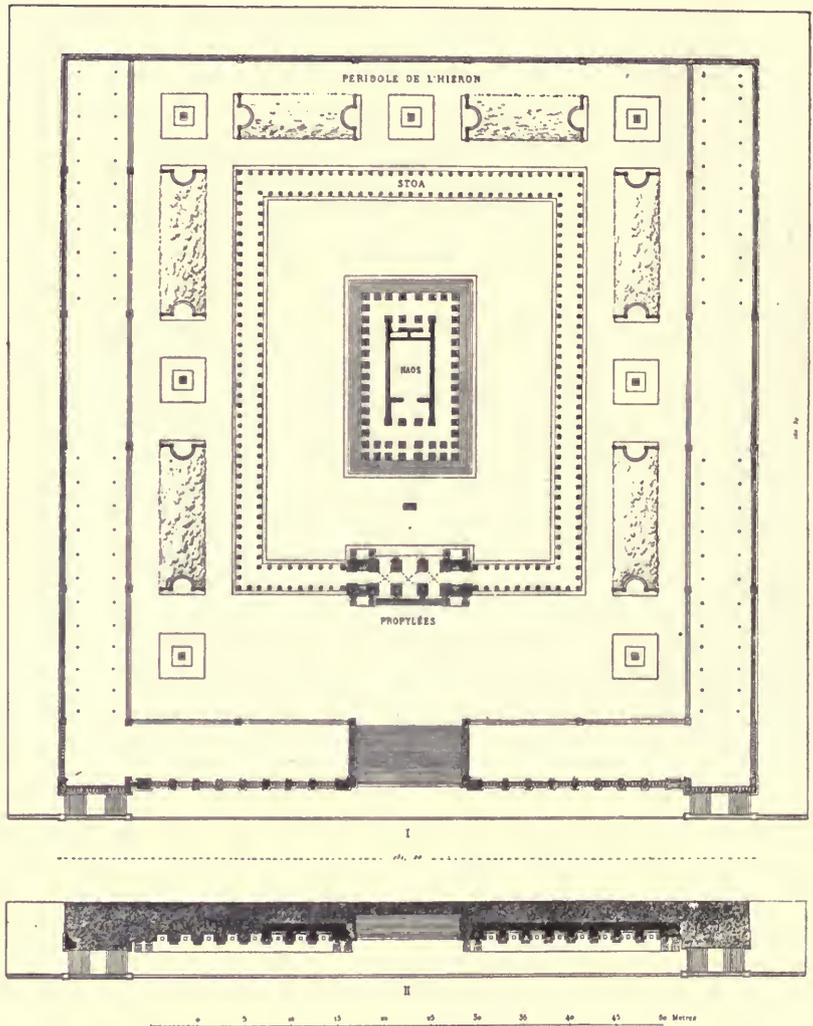

Fig. 854.

Minor, Pontus, and Armenia London 1842 i. 101—104, P. Le Bas Voyage archéologique en Grèce et en Asie Mineure Paris 1858 Architecture Asie Mineure i pls. 18—32, Lebas—Reinach Voyage Arch. p. 142 ff. Archit. i pls. 18 (= my fig. 854), 19—24, 25 (= my fig. 855), 26—32, F. von Duhn in Durm *Baukunst d. Gr.*² Register p. 367 f.

Inscriptions record a priest of Zeus (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii Add. no. 3831 a¹, 2 ff. Μηρόφιλον Νεικοστράτου | ιερατεύσαντα τοῦ Διὸς δεκάκις, no. 3831 a³, 2 ff. Μενεκλέα | Μενεκλέους, υἱὸν τῆς | πόλεως, ιερατεύσαντα | δις τοῦ Διός, no. 3831 a⁹, 7 f. ιερατεύσαντα τοῦ |

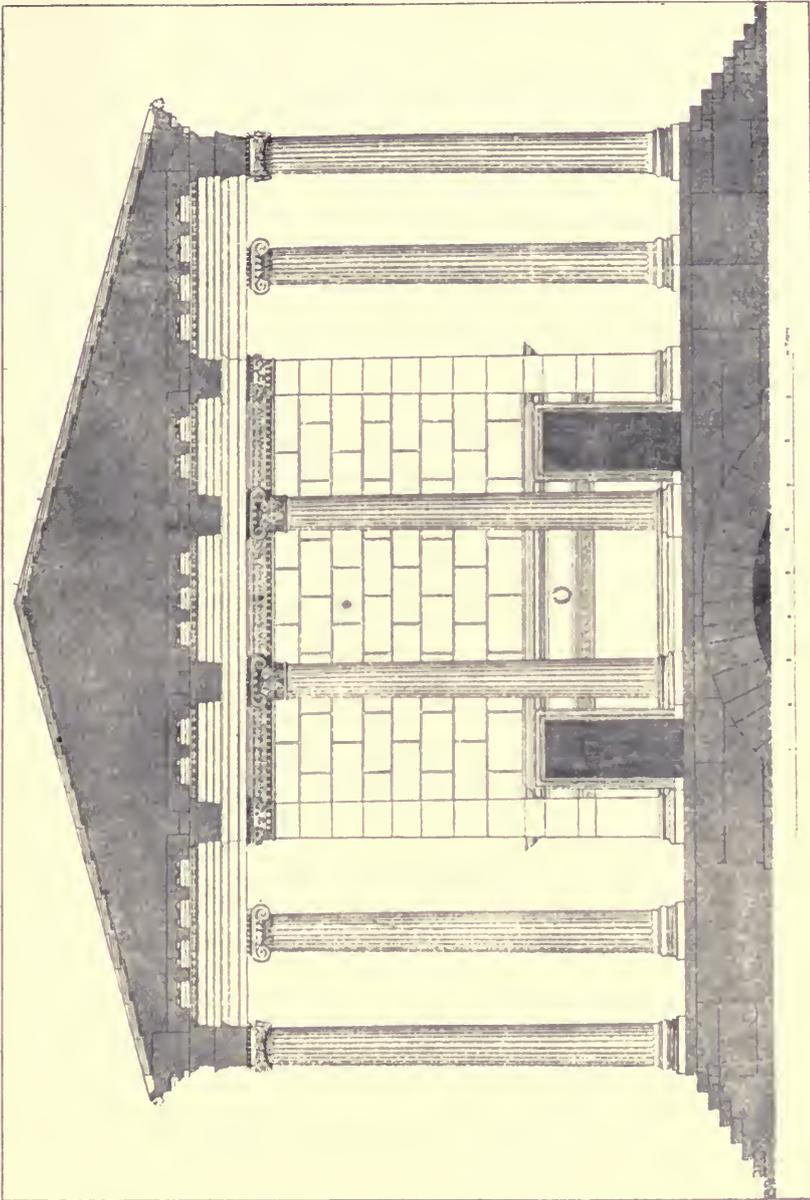

Fig. 855.

[Διός]) and a νεωκόρος of Zeus (ib. no. 3831 a⁴, 4 ff. Ἰουλιανὸν Τρύφωνος, νεωκόρον τοῦ Διός | διὰ βίου, no. 3831 a⁷, 2 f. Ὀρθ(εώ)γιον Ἀντιόχου, νε[ωκ]ό[ρο]ν [τ]οῦ Διός, cp. no. 3841 a, 8 ff. ὁ νεωκόρ[ος] | τ(οῦ) Διός, ἱερός | καὶ (ἀσυλ)ος (Α)λι(ζα)ρεῖτ δῆμος | ἐκ Akmoneia¹.

 Arameia².
 Laodikeia ad Lycum³.

τῶν ἰδίων θεοῦ, no. 3841 g, 1 ff. [τῆς ἱερᾶς καὶ] ἀσύλου καὶ | [νεωκόρου] τοῦ Διὸς | [Αἰζανει]τῶν πόλεως | [ἡ φιλοσέβα]στος βουλῇ | [καὶ ὁ νεωκόρος δῆμος | --- | ---]. Inside the right anta of the pronaos is inscribed a letter, in which Avidius Quietus, proconsul of Asia (125—126 A.D.), informs the people of Aizanoi that a long-standing dispute with regard to the temple-estates has been happily settled. He adds three Latin documents dealing with the matter—(A) the emperor's rescript, (B) his own letter to the imperial procurator, (C) the beginning of the procurator's reply (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 3835 (cp. ib. p. 1064 f.) = Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 355 = Lebas—Waddington Asie Mineure iii nos. 860—863 = Orelli—Henzen Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 6955 = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 502, 1 ff. 'Αουίδιος Κουήτος Αἰζανειῶν ἀρχουσι βουλῇ | δῆμωι χαίρειν' ἀμφισβήτησις περὶ χώρας ἱερᾶς, ἀνατέθεισος πάλαι τῷ Δί, τριεβομένη πολλῶν ἐτῶν, τῇ προνοίᾳ τοῦ | μεγίστου αὐτοκράτορος τέλους ἐτυχε. κ.τ.λ., A, 3 f. ager Aezanen[si] Iovi dicatus, B, 6 f. in ea re[lgione], quae Iovi Aezanitico dicata dicitur).

The neokorate is further evidenced by coins (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phrygia p. 28 no. 34 ἐπὶ Ἴου. Οὐλπι. Σευηρείνου ἀρχινεωκόρω (sic), no. 35 pl. 5, 6 ἐπὶ Ἴου. Σευηρείνου ἀρχινεωκόρ. with B. V. Head's remarks ib. p. xxvi. Id. ib.: 'On a coin of Commodus (Invent. Wadd., Pl. xv. 7) the city claims the title of Neokorate of this divinity (ΝΕΩΚΟΡΩΝ ΤΟΥ ΔΙΟΥ).' Head *Hist. num.*² p. 664).

A copper of Phrygia Epiketos, struck at Aizanoi (F. Imhoof-Blumer in the Festschrift für Otto Benndorf Wien 1898 p. 202) probably after 133 B.C., has obv. bust of Zeus, laureate, to right, rev. ΕΠΙΚΤΗ ΤΕΩΝ eagle on thunderbolt (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phrygia p. 200 pl. 26, 2). Quasi-autonomous and imperial coppers of Aizanoi show Zeus standing to left, half-draped in a himation, with an eagle in his right hand, and a long sceptre in his left (ib. p. 28 no. 33 f. time of Gallienus; pp. 30 ff., 38 f., 41 f. pl. 5, 8 Augustus, 9 Claudius. Fig. 856 is from a specimen, struck by Caligula, in my collection),

Fig. 856.

Fig. 857.

- also the same figure in a tetrastyle temple with arch over central intercolumniation (ib. p. 39 no. 113 M. Aurelius). There can be no doubt that we have here the cult-stature of the god. A copper issued by Commodus has rev. AIZA NEIT Ω N a goat standing to right, with head turned back, suckling the infant Zeus (ib. p. 40 pl. 6, 3 (= my fig. 857)). Another copper of Commodus, in the Löbbecke collection, has rev. AIZANEI ΤΩΝ an eagle standing to right on a column, but turning its head backwards, flanked by a flaming altar on the left and a tree on the right (Imhoof-Blumer Kleinvas. Münzen i. 191 no. 11).

Θεὸς Ἰψιστος (supra p. 882 n. o no. (23)).

¹ Infancy of Zeus on a Phrygian mountain (supra i. 151 f. figs. 122, 123). Θεὸς Ἰψιστος (supra p. 882 n. o no. (23)).

² Infancy of Zeus on a Phrygian mountain (supra i. 151 f. fig. 124).

³ Infancy of Zeus on a Phrygian mountain (supra i. 151 f. fig. 129). Θεὸς Ἰψιστος (supra p. 882 n. o no. (23)).

Nakoleia¹.Synnada².Upper valley of the Tembrogios or Tembrios³.GalatiaMount Agdos⁴.¹ Θεός Ἰψίστος (supra p. 882 n. o no. (23)).² Infancy of Zeus on a Phrygian mountain (supra i. 151 f. fig. 120).³ Θεός Ἰψίστος = Zeus Bénnios or Beuvebs (supra p. 883 n. o no. (23)).

⁴ The myth of Attis has two principal forms—a Lydian version, in which Attis is killed by a boar, and a Phrygian version, in which he mutilates himself under a pine-tree. Since the cult of the Great Mother came to Rome from Pessinous in Phrygia, the Phrygian became the official version and gradually eclipsed its Lydian rival (H. Hepding Attis seine Mythen und sein Kult Gieszen 1903 p. 121 f.). The Pessinuntine tradition has been preserved for us by Paus. 7. 17. 10—12 and Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 5—7. H. Hepding op. cit. p. 37 ff. prints the texts in parallel columns and ib. p. 103 ff. discusses their relations and respective sources. Pausanias professes to give the 'local story' (Paus. 7. 17. 10 ἐπιχώριος...λόγος); Arnobius, to derive his information from Timotheos the theologian and other equally learned persons, among whom he mentions the priest Valerius (Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 5 apud Timotheum, non ignobilem theologorum unum, nec non apud alios aequae doctos super Magna deorum Matre superque sacris eius origo haec sita est, ex reconditis antiquitatum libris et ex intimis eruta, quemadmodum ipse scribit insinuatque, mysteriis, 5. 7 quam Valerius pontifex iam nomine fuisse conscribit). A. Kalkmann Pausanias der Perieget Berlin 1886 p. 247 ff. showed that Pausanias and Arnobius are really dependent on Alexandros Polyhistor, who in turn got his facts from Timotheos, Promathidas, etc. (see Alex. Polyhist. frag. 47 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 233 Müller, cp. ib. p. 202) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Γάλλος), and that Arnobius, in addition to Polyhistor, used a Roman source, probably the priest Valerius, thereby contaminating the Pessinuntine tradition of Agdistis with current tales of the Mater Magna and Attis. Hepding summarises the resultant myth, enclosing within square brackets points of divergence between Pausanias and Arnobius:

Zeus let fall seed on the ground [in his sleep (Paus.), when attempting to lie with the Magna Mater who was asleep on the summit of Mt Agdos (Arnob.)]. In due time the earth bore a wild bisexual being named Agdistis. [The gods, fearing him, cut off his male organ of generation (Paus.). He, having irresistible strength and ferocity, did much mischief, till Liber mingled strong wine with the spring at which he used to slake his thirst and thus threw him into a deep sleep. Liber then took an ingenious noose made of bristles and slipped one end round his foot (plantae. Hepding translates: 'an einem Baum'), the other round his genitals. The monster, starting up from sleep, drew the noose tight and so castrated himself (Arnob.)] The blood flowed fast, and from the severed member sprang a fruit-tree, [an almond (Paus.), a pomegranate (malum...cum pomis...punicum) (Arnob.)] A daughter of the river Sangarios [Nana by name (Arnob.)] picked the fruit and put it in her bosom. [The fruit immediately vanished (Paus.)] and she conceived. [Thereupon her father kept her shut up and tried to starve her; but the Mother fed her on pomegranates (pomis) and other food of the gods (Arnob.)] So she brought forth an infant son, who was exposed [by Sangarios' orders (Arnob.), but tended by a he-goat (Paus.), or found by some one and nurtured on goat's milk (Arnob.: text corrupt)]. He was called Attis because the Lydian word attis means 'scitulus' or because the Phrygian attagus means 'hircus' (Arnob.). [As the boy grew up, his beauty was more than human, and Agdistis loved him (Paus.). The Mother of the gods loved him for his good looks. So did Agdistis, who ever at his side led him through the woods and presented him with spoils of the chase. Young Attis at first boasted that he had won these himself, but later, under the influence of wine, admitted that they were love-gifts from Agdistis. Hence those that are polluted with wine may not enter his sanctuary (Arnob.)] When Attis was fully grown, he went to Pessinous to wed the king's daughter, [being sent thither by his kinsfolk (Paus.), or summoned by Midas king of Pessinous, who disapproved of the alliance with Agdistis and closed the town to prevent any untoward interruption of the wedding. But the Mother of the gods, aware that the young man's safety depended on his freedom from wedlock, entered the town, uplifting its walls on her head, which has worn a mural crown ever since (Arnob.). While the bridal hymn was being sung, Agdistis appeared and drove the whole company mad. [Attis cut off his genitals and so did the father of his bride (Paus.). Gallos mutilated himself and the daughter of his concubine cut off her breasts (Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 13: the text of 5. 7 is confused. A. Kalkmann op. cit. p. 248 f. makes it probable that Gallos was king of Pessinous and father of the bride: Midas has been imported from an extraneous source). Attis snatched the pipe borne by Agdistis, and full of frenzy flung himself forth. Falling at length beneath a pine-tree he shore off his genitals and cried: 'Take these, Agdistis,—'twas for their sake thou didst stir up this storm of frenzied mischance.' Attis died from loss of blood. But the Great Mother of the gods collected the severed parts, wrapped them in his garment, and buried them in the ground. Violets sprang from his blood and wreathed the tree. Hence the sacred pines are still covered with garlands. The maiden betrothed to him—Valerius the priest calls her Ia—covered his bosom with soft wool, wept for his hard fate (Arnob.), as did Agdistis, [and then slew herself. Her blood became purple violets. The Mother of the gods dug beneath Ia (text doubtful), and up came an almond, signifying the bitterness of death. Then she carried the pine, under which Attis had mutilated himself, to her cave, and in company with Agdistis beat her breast about its trunk (text doubtful) (Arnob.)]. Zeus, when asked by Agdistis to bring Attis to life, refused, but consented that his body should remain incorruptible, [his hair always grow, and his little finger be endowed with perpetual movement. Satisfied with this, Agdistis consecrated Attis' body at Pessinous, and honoured it with yearly rites and a priesthood (Arnob.)].

Throughout this narrative (with which cp. Paus. 1. 4. 5) it is clear that Agdistis is only a Pessinuntine appellation of the Great Mother. So Strab. 469 οἱ δὲ Βερέκιντες, Φρυγῶν τι φύλον, καὶ ἀπλῶς οἱ Φρύγες καὶ τῶν Τρώων οἱ περὶ τὴν Ἴδην κατοικοῦντες Ῥέαν μὲν καὶ αὐτοὶ τιμῶσι καὶ ὀργιάζουσι ταύτην, Μητέρα καλοῦντες θεῶν καὶ Ἀγδιστιν (so I. Casaubon for ἄγιστιν epit. Palat. αἰεστίν codd. plerique) καὶ Φρυγίαν θεὸν μεγάλην, ἀπὸ δὲ τῶν τόπων Ἰδαίαν καὶ Δανδυμήνην καὶ Σιπυλήνην καὶ Πεσσιουντιδα καὶ Κυβέλλην, 567 Πεσσιουδὸς δ' ἐστὶν ἐμπόριον τῶν ταύτη μάλιστα, ἱερὸν ἔχον τῆς Μητρὸς τῶν θεῶν σεβασμοῦ μεγάλου τυγχάνων· καλοῦσι δ' αὐτὴν Ἀγδιστιν (so I. Casaubon for ἀγδιστήν codd. r.o. ἀγγιδιστήν (with ι added over the η) cod. D. ἀγγιδιστιν codd. rell. Angidistam Guarino da Verona), Hesych. s.v. Ἀγδιστις· ἡ αὐτὴ τῇ Μητρὶ τῶν θεῶν. In Plout. de flux. 13. 3 Ἀλγέσθιος ὁ γεννηθεὶς ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς φέρου, κόρης Ἰδης ἐρασθεὶς, συνῆλθεν τῇ προειρημένη καὶ ἐγέννησεν ἐξ αὐτῆς τοὺς εἰρημένους Ἰδαίους Δακτύλους. γενομένης δ' αὐτῆς ἀφρονος ἐν τῷ τῆς Ῥέας ἀδύτῳ, Ἀλγέσθιος εἰς τιμὴν τῆς προειρημένης τὸ βροσῖν Ἰδην μετωνόμασεν R. Unger acutely cj. Ἀγδιστίος (Ἀγδιστις? A. B. C.) ὁ γεννηθεὶς ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς σπόρου. The same divine name occurs in several inscriptions: (1) Corp. inscr. Gr. iii Add. no. 3886, 1 ff. = P. Paris in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1884 viii. 237 f. no. 7, 1 ff. (Eumeneia) ὁ δῆμος ἐτεῖ[μῆσεν] | Μόνιμον Ἀρίστων[ος] | τὸν λαμπαδάρχη, [ἱερέα Διὸς] | Σωτήρος καὶ Ἀπόλλ[ωνος καὶ] | Μητρὸς Ἀσκαρηοῦ [καὶ Μητρὸς] | θεῶν Ἀγγδιστεω[ς καὶ Ἀγαθοῦ] | Δαίμονος καὶ εἰ(ὶ)σε[βεστάτης Σε]βαστῆς Εἰρήνης, κ.τ.λ. (2) Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 3993, 1 ff. (Ikonion) [θ]ε(ὸ)ς ὠστηρας τήν τε Ἀγγιδιστιν καὶ τὴν Μ[η]τέ[ρα Βοη]θηάν καὶ θεῶν τῆν Μ[η]τέρα κ.τ.λ. (3) Ib. iv no. 6837 (beneath a relief of Kybele, with a pair of lions, seated in an aedicula (R. Pococke A Description of the East, and Some other Countries London 1745 ii. 2. 212 pl. 98)) Μητρὶ θεῶν Ἀγγιστεῖ Ἀμέριμος οἰκονόμος τῆς πόλεως | εὐχῆ. (4) B. Latyshev Inscriptiones antiquae Orae Septentrionalis Ponti Euxini Graecae et Latinae Petropoli 1890 ii. 32 no. 31 (of Roman date; beneath a relief representing two draped female figures facing, with a girl standing on their right) Πλουσία ὑπὲρ τῶν θυγατέρων κατὰ πρόσταγμα | Ἀγγισ(τε)ι (the stone has ΑΓΓΙΣΣΣΣΙ) ἀνέθηκε. On Agdistis see further K. Keil in Philologus 1852 vii. 198—201, W. W. Baudissin Studien zur semitischen Religionsgeschichte Leipzig 1878 ii. 204 f., 207 f., 216, G. Knaack in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 767 f., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 1528 n. 1, 1547.

Another myth connected with Mt Agdos was that of Deukalion (Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 5

Ankyra¹.

Lykia

Mount Kragos².

in Phrygiae finibus inauditae per omnia vastitatis petra, inquit (sc. Timotheus), est quaedam, cui nomen est Agdus, regionis eius ab indigenis sic vocatae. ex ea lapides sumptos, sicut Themis mandaverat praecinens, in orbem mortalibus vacuum Deucalion iactavit et Pyrrha, ex quibus cum ceteris et haec Magna quae dicitur informata est Mater atque animata divinitus). Gruppe op. cit. p. 444 n. 4 well cp. Nonn. Dion. 13. 522—545.

¹ Coin-type of Zeus seated on a rock (supra i. 124).

² Mt Kragos is a continuation of Mt Tauros, forming a promontory (Yedi-Burün, the 'Seven Capes') on the south-western coast of Lykia. North of it is the range of Antikragos. T. A. B. Spratt—E. Forbes Travels in Lycia, Milyas, and the Cihyratis London 1847 i. 300 ff. describe their ascent of Kragos (1842): 'In the afternoon we made our way to the opening of a pass leading between the summits of Cragus and Anticragus, now called Mendos and Baba-dagh; ...at daybreak, next morning, (May 27th,) we ascended to a plain which lies between the two chief peaks at a height of four thousand feet... Leaving our attendants and horses...we commenced the ascent of the highest peak of Cragus, which rose precipitously more than two thousand five hundred feet above this alpine plain. The first half of the way was through a thick zone of forest; the remainder was among precipices of bare rock, in the crevices of which lay the accumulated snow of winter... From the sharp and narrow summit of this lofty peak we enjoyed our last look over Lycia; below us lay the whole expanse of the Xanthian plain, and beyond we could see far into the gorges and yaylahs ['summer encampments'] of Massicytus... Such is the steepness of Cragus, that its precipices plunge from the snowy summit to the sea, and from the lofty pinnacle on which we stood we could see the waves breaking white against its base.' Ancient allusions are collected by W. Ruge in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. xi. 1567. Strab. 665 is worth quoting: εἰθ' ἐξῆς ὁ Ἀντίκραγος...καὶ μετὰ τοῦτον ὁ Κράγος, ἔχων ἄκρας ὀκτώ (κράγας ὀκτώ codd. ἄκρας ὀκτώ Eustath. in Dionys. per. 847. ἄκρας δύο Eustath. in Il. p. 635, 19. We should probably translate 'eight summits,' not 'eight headlands') καὶ πόλιν ὁμώνυμον. περὶ ταῦτα μυθεύεται τὰ ὄρη τὰ περὶ τῆς Χιμαίρας ἔστι δ' οὐκ ἄπωθεν καὶ ἡ Χιμαίρα φάραγξ τις, ἀπὸ τοῦ αἰγιαλοῦ ἀνατείνουσα (the glen of Avlan: see O. Benndorf—G. Niemann Reisen in Lykien und Karien Wien 1884 p. 82 f.).

Kragos had certain caverns known as the θεῶν ἀγρίων ἄντρα. These 'wild gods' appear to have been the eponym Kragos and his family (Steph. Byz. s.v. Κράγος, ὄρος Λυκίας. Ἀλέξανδρος δευτέρῳ Λυκιακῶν (Alex. Polyhist. frag. 75 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 235 Müller)). ἀπὸ Κράγου τοῦ Τρεμίλου υἱοῦ, μητρὸς δὲ Πραξιδικῆς νύμφης. ἐνταῦθα δ' εἶναι καὶ τὰ ἐπονομαζόμενα θεῶν ἀγρίων ἄντρα. ἀπαθανατισθῆναι γὰρ φασὶ τοὺς περὶ τὸν Κράγον, Eustath. in Dionys. per. 847 τὸν δὲ ἐνταῦθα Ταῦρον τὸ ὄρος καὶ Κράγον φησὶ φημίλεισθαι, ἀπὸ Κράγου τινὸς ἐπιφανοῦς ἀνδρός, ὃς αὐτόθι θανὼν τιμᾶται. ἐν τούτῳ δὲ φασὶν οἱ παλαιοὶ τῷ Κράγῳ θεῶν ἀγρίων ἄντρα εἶναι). Kragos and his kin are mentioned also in Panyasis frag. 18 Kinkel ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Τρεμίλη, in Timagenes frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 322 Müller) ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Μιλύαι, and in an important inscription from Sidyma (O. Benndorf—G. Niemann op. cit. p. 75 ff. no. 53 A, 15 ff. τῆν πρὸς ὑμᾶς καὶ Τλωεῖς καὶ | Πιναρεῖς γενεαλ[ογίαν Τρεμί][λ]ου καὶ Πραξιδικῆς, ἐξ ὧν Τλώ[ος καὶ] | [Κ]ράγος καὶ Πίναλος ἀνήκον, δι[αδῆ][λ]ης γενεαλο[γί]ας καὶ ὑπ' ἐμοῦ πολλὰκις δεδηλωμένης κατὰ τὰς Πο[λ]υχάρμου καὶ ἐτέρων ἰστορίας, ib. c. 9 ff. ἐν δὲ Σιδύμοις, κτίσματι Σιδύμου | υἱοῦ Τλώου καὶ Χελειδόνος τῆς | Κράγου, Ἀπόλλωνα τόπω πρὸς | θαλάσση Λοπτοῖς σπηλαίῳ | ἀποκρύφῳ δυσεκιστόδῳ ἐκ κορυφῆς δὲ φωτοῦλλον ἀνοιγμα | μεικρὸν ἔχοντι. μέσον εἰς δ καὶ θοπτεῦσαι θελήσασά τις ἀφῶως | ἀποφῆτι τὸν θεὸν κατηνέχθη, καὶ λίθος κείται πτώμα | φόβου δεῖγμα κατασκόπων' | διὸ καὶ κροτ[οῦν] | τε] ἐπ' ἄσματος | χαῖρε, Ἀπολλων, ὁ ἐγ Λοπτῶν' | εἰσερχόμενοι φωνοῦμεν | τῆνδε. The cave-cult of Apollon at Lopta described in this curious record may give us some notion of the θεῶν ἀγρίων ἄντρα: indeed, Apollon himself is on occasion ἄγριος (Orph. h. Ap. 34. 5). The Titans too bore the same title (Hesych. ἄγριοι θεοί· οἱ Τιτᾶνες), perhaps as being chieftains or kings (supra i. 655 f.). Lobeck Aglaophamus ii. 1186 n.¹

Mount Olympos (?)¹.

Pisidia

Prostanna (?)².

justly cp. Plout. de def. or. 21 (quoted by Theodoret. Gr. aff. cur. p. 129 Gaisford) ἐπεὶ καὶ Σολύμους πυνθάνομαι τοὺς Λυκίων προσοίκους ἐν τοῖς μάλιστα τιμῶν τῶν Κρόνον· ἐπεὶ δὲ ἀποκτείνας τοὺς ἄρχοντας αὐτῶν, Ἄρσαλον καὶ Δρύον (Ἄρουν Theodoret.) καὶ Τόσοβιν, ἔφυγε καὶ μετεχώρησεν ὅποιδήποτε (τοῦτο γὰρ οὐκ ἔχουσιν εἰπεῖν), ἐκείνον μὲν ἀμεληθῆναι, τοὺς δὲ περὶ τὸν Ἄρσαλον σκληροῦς (σκιρροῦς Theodoret.) θεοὺς προσαγορεύεσθαι, καὶ τὰς κατάρτας ἐπὶ τούτων ποιέσθαι δημοσίᾳ καὶ ἰδίᾳ Λυκίους.

It would seem, then, that Kragos and his relatives were, not only heroified, but actually deified. More than that. Kragos was eventually identified with Zeus himself. For Lyk. Al. 541 f. ἔν τε δαυτὶ καὶ θαλυσοῖς | λοιβαῖσι μειλίσσωσιν ἀστεργῆ Κράγον is thus expounded by Tzetz. ad loc.: ἀστεργῆ δὲ Κράγον τὸν Δία λέγει ἐπεὶ μὴ ἔσπερξε τὴν θυσίαν αὐτῶν. λέγονται δὲ θύοντες τοῖς ἄλλοις θεοῖς ἐπιλαθέσθαι τοῦ Διός, ὅθεν φιλονεικίαν αὐτοῖς ἐνέβαλε. Κράγος δὲ ὁ Ζεὺς ἐν Λυκία τιμᾶται.

¹ Supra i. 100 n. 11. Methodios, bishop of the Lycian town Olympos at the beginning of s. iv. A.D., claims to have seen on the summit of this mountain agnus castus growing, quite unharmed, round a fire that sprang from the earth (Method. ap. Phot. bibl. p. 298 b 23 ff. Bekker ἑθασαμῆν ἐν Ὀλύμπῳ ἐγὼ (ἄρος δὲ ἐστὶν ὁ Ὀλυμπος τῆς Λυκίας) πῦρ αὐτομάτως κατὰ τὴν ἀκρώρειαν τοῦ δρους κάτωθεν ἐκ τῆς γῆς ἀναιδόμενον, περὶ δὲ πῦρ ἄγνος φυτὸν ἐστὶν, οὕτω μὲν εὐθαλὲς καὶ χλοερὸν, οὕτω δὲ σύσκιον, ὡς ὑπὸ πηγῆς μᾶλλον αὐτὸ δοκεῖν βεβλασθηκέναι. κ.τ.λ.) The good bishop describes the phenomenon in terms reminiscent of Moses and the burning bush; and it is noteworthy that Mt Olympos, otherwise called Phoinikous (Strab. 666), is nowadays named Musa Dagh, the 'mountain of Moses.' This mountain rises to a height of c. 1000^m due south of the town Olympos on the eastern coast of Lykia. But the perpetual fire is commonly associated with Mt Chimaira (Yanür-taş), a height of some 250^m due north of the same town. Here in fact it is still to be seen—a strong jet of flaming gas that leaps up like a fountain from crevices in the rock. The immediate neighbourhood of the vent is bare of vegetation, but all around, a few paces off, is greenery in abundance. For classical references see W. Ruge in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 2281; and for modern description and discussion, E. Petersen—F. von Luschan Reisen in Lykien Milyas und Kibyris Wien 1889 pp. 138—142 ('Die Chimaira') with fig. 65 and pl. 17. In antiquity several such fiery jets were known and the site was called Hephaistion (Sen. epist. 79. 3, Plin. nat. hist. 5. 100), Hephaistia (Solin. 39. 1), or the mountains of Hephaistos (Plin. nat. hist. 2. 236). Skyl. per. 100 speaks of a sanctuary of Hephaistos above the harbour Siderous: ὑπὲρ τούτου ἐστὶν ἱερὸν Ἡφαιστοῦ ἐν τῷ ὄρει καὶ πῦρ πολὺ αὐτόματον ἐκ τῆς γῆς καλεῖται καὶ οὐδέποτε σβέννυται. Hence Hephaistos appears, forging the shield of Achilles, on a copper of Olympos struck by Gordianus iii Pius (Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 326 f. no. 10 pl. F, 14).

It was, however, only natural that in this town, which lay between Mt Olympos and Hephaistion, there should have been a joint recognition of Zeus and Hephaistos. R. Heberdey—E. Kalinka Bericht über zwei Reisen in S.W. Kleinasien Wien 1896 p. 34 no. 42 publish an inscription, in which mention is made of a fine payable θεοῖς Ὀλυμπίους Διὶ καὶ Ἡφαιστῶ. G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. p. lxxi compares with it a bronze coin of Olympos at Paris with obv. head of Athena to right, rev. the ethnic and a thunderbolt.

² Prostanna (Egherdir) was situated on the shore of Limnai, at the foot of Mt Viarus (Sir W. M. Ramsay The Historical Geography of Asia Minor London 1890 p. 407). Imperial coppers of the town have obv. Mt Viarus, rev. ΠΡ ΟC a tree (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. pp. cvi, 238 pl. 37, 9, Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 175 no. 502 pl. 10, 27), and rev. ΠΡΟCΤΑΝ ΝΕΩΝ Mt Viarus with three trees growing on it and ΟΥΙΑΡΟC below (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. p. 239 pl. 37, 13 Claudius ii) or Mt Viarus with a pine-tree on its summit and ΒΙΑΡΟC below (Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas.

Mount Solymos¹.

Münzen ii. 391 no. 10 pl. 14, 5, A. Markl in the Num. Zeitschr. 1900 xxxii. 157 no. 4 pl. 7, 4, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 709). Since another coin-type of Prostanna shows Zeus seated with Demeter (?) behind him (G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. p. cvi n. †, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 709), it is possible that the cult of the god was connected with the mountain which dominates the town (for views see A. de Laborde, Becker, Hall et L. de Laborde Voyage de l'Asie Mineure Paris 1838 p. 111).

¹ Termessos (Termessus Maior) was built, a good 1000^m above sea-level, on Mt Solymos (Strab. 630) or Solyma (id. 666), the modern Güldere Dagħ or Güllük Dagħ. It was an ideally placed stronghold of the Solymoi, whose eponym Solymos figures on imperial coppers of the town (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. pp. xc, 271 no. 27 pl. 41, 12 rev. COΛY MOC Solymos standing to left, with cuirass, spear, and short sword, 272 no. 36 pl. 41, 14 COΛY MOC Solymos enthroned to left, with crested helmet and right hand raised to face, cp. Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen ii. 410 no. 6 pl. 15, 15 and 411 no. 10 pl. 15, 17, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 712). As a warlike hero he was affiliated sometimes to Zeus (Antimachos frag. 16 Bergk⁴ ap. schol. P.T. Od. 5. 283 ἔθεν καὶ οἱ Σόλυμοι ὠνομάσθησαν (dē add. T., omissis ἔθεν καὶ οἱ Σόλυμοι) ἀπὸ Σολύμου τοῦ Διὸς καὶ Καλχηθόνιας, ὡς Ἀντιμαχὸς ὀηλοῖ, Rufin. recognit. 10. 21 (Iupiter vitiat) Chalceam nympham, ex qua nascitur Olympus (where O. Höfer cj. Chalcædonian and Solymus: see his remarks in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1154), Steph. Byz. s.v. Πισιδία: οἱ Πισιδῆαι πρότερον Σόλυμοι, ἀπὸ Σολύμου τοῦ Διὸς καὶ Χαλδῆνης), sometimes to Ares (et. mag. p. 721, 43 ff. Σόλυμοι (so T. Gaisford for Σόλυμος)· ἔθνος περὶ Κιλικίαν· ἀπὸ Σολύμου τοῦ Καλδῆνης τῆς Πισιδίον καὶ Ἀρεως· οἱ νῦν Ἰσαυροί).

The principal deity of the town in classical times was Zeus Σολυμεύς. Mionnet Descr. de méd. ant. Suppl. vii. 138 no. 228 gives (after Sestini) a coin reading ZEYC COΛYMEYC, and J. Friedlaender in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1885 xii. 6 figures another, at Berlin, with obv. ΔΙ[ΟΣ] ΣΟΛΥΜΕΩ[Σ] bust of Zeus Σολυμεύς (but see G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. p. xc n. ||). The head of Zeus appears as the normal Termessian coin-type c. 71—39 B.C., in the time of the Antonines, and from Gordian to Gallienus (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. p. 268 ff. pl. 41, 8—11, pl. 42, 1 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 712). E. Petersen in K. Lanckoroński Städte Pamphyliens und Pisidiens Wien 1892 ii. 47 ff. describes the remains of what was probably the temple of Zeus Σολυμεύς. The site is a raised terrace (1054^m) adjoining the southernmost part of the gymnasium and close to a group of other temples (N 3 on the large plan opposite p. 21). Here were found Doric column-drums, Attic bases with portions of shafts and plinths, architrave-blocks, coffering, the right-hand end-block of a pediment, statue-pedestals, and two reliefs from a frieze representing a Gigantomachy (Zeus and Apollon v. Giants with serpentine legs). These last were published by G. Hirschfeld in the Arch. Zeit. 1881 xxxix. 157—160 figs. A, B. Further, a cylindrical base (1·18^m high), which once supported a bronze statue (of Zeus?), is adorned with a relief of a priest presiding at the sacrifice of a humped bull (E. Petersen op. cit. ii. 32, 48 f. figs. 7 and 8) and bears the inscription Ὅρατις ΙΟΓΑΚ | Ιερ(ε)ῦς | Διὸς Σολυμεῖ· | Διονύσιος Ἑρακλεῖδου | Ἀλεξ[α]-δρεῦς | ἐποίησ(ε) (K. Lanckoroński op. cit. ii. 206 no. 78). Another base from the same site was set up when a certain Strabon was priest of Zeus Σολυμεύς (id. ib. ii. 206 no. 80, 15 ff. ἀνεστάθη | ἐπὶ ἱερέως | Σολυμεῶς Δι[ὸς] | Στράβωνος [β']). Another carried the statue of a distinguished priest (id. ib. ii. 206 no. 79, 1 ff. ἀρχιερέα καὶ ἱερέα Διὸς Σολ[υ]μεῶς | γενόμενον Λαέρτην Ναναμόου | Λαέρτου κ.τ.λ., cp. 207 no. 85, 2 ff. [ἀρ]χιερέα αὐτοκράτορος Καίσαρος Σεβαστοῦ | [Ιερ]έα Διὸς Σολυμεῶς διὰ βίου Λα[ε]ρτῆν | [Ναναμόου] φιλόπατρι καὶ πατέρα πόλεως). Other life-priests of Zeus Σολυμεύς are recorded (id. ib. ii. 200 no. 39, 4 f. Ti. Kl. Τειμῶδωρον, 200 no. 41, 4 Ti. Kl. Τειμῶδωρον, 201 no. 48, 6 ff. Mār. Aür. Μειδιανόν Πλατωνιανόν | Οὐᾶρον, 208 no. 93, 4 ff. Mār. | Aür. Μειδιανόν | Οὐᾶρον).

The same deity was believed to have under his special protection the tombs of the dead, for any violation of their sanctity was punished with a fine usually payable to him. Numerous inscriptions of the sort are given by G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1899

Pontos

*Βευγκ Ένλια*¹.

xiii. 165—192, 280—286 (e.g. p. 169 no. 7, 9 f. ὁ τούτων τι πειράσας ὑπεύθυνος ἔσται Διὶ Σολυμεί * α, p. 171 no. 13, 7 f. ὁ πειράσας ἐκτελεῖ Διὶ Σολυμεί * β, p. 173 no. 18, 2 δώσει ὁ πειράσας προστεῖμου Διὶ Σολυμεί * γ, p. 182 f. no. 41, 5 ff. ὁ τομῆσας | ἡ παραενχειρήσας ἀποτελεῖ | Διὶ Σολυμεί ἱεράς καὶ ἀπαραίτητους δραχμὰς δισχειλίας πεντακοσίας, p. 184 f. no. 44, 5 f. ὁ πειράσας ἐνσχεθήσεται ἐνκλήματι | τυμβωρυχίας καὶ ἐκτελεῖ Διὶ Σολυμεί * δ, p. 188 no. 52, 3 f. ὁ πειράσας ἐκτελεῖ Διὶ Σολυμεί * ε, ἡ καὶ τῷ ἱερωτάτῳ ταμειῷ * ς, p. 189 f. no. 54, 7 ff. ὁ τούτων τι πειράσας ἐνοχος ἔσται ἐνκλήματι τυμβωρυχίας καὶ ἀραις ταῖς εἰς τοὺς καττοιχομένους καὶ προσαποτελεῖ Διὶ Σολυμεί * ς. See also pp. 167 f. no. 4, 7 ff., 170 no. 10, 7 f., 171 f. no. 14, 4 ff., 172 no. 15, 8 f., 173 f. no. 20, 10 f., 175 no. 24, 2 ff., 175 f. no. 25, 10 f., 176 no. 26, 7 f., 179 f. no. 34, 7 f., 183 f. no. 43, 9 f., 185 no. 45, 3 ff., 186 f. no. 48, 9 ff., 187 no. 49, 5 ff., 187 no. 50, 3 ff., 187 f. no. 51, 9 f., 188 f. no. 53, 11 f., 191 no. 57, 5 ff., 280 f. no. 62, 6 ff., 283 no. 64, 7 ff., 284 no. 66, 10 f., 285 no. 67, 8 ff., 285 f. no. 68, 9 f.), and a few by K. Lanckoroński op. cit. ii. 217 no. 154*, 2 f., 218 no. 167, 6 ff., 218 no. 171^a (= Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4366 l), 9 f., 219 no. 173, 16 ff., 219 no. 174, 7 f.

G. F. Hill in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1895 xv. 127 f. publishes, among inscriptions copied by E. T. Daniell and Sir C. Fellows, no. 24, 3 ff. ἐκτελεῖ | τῷ ἱερωτάτῳ ταμίῳ | * μὲν κὲ τῷ Διὶ | Σολύμῳ * μὲν, adding: 'The form Σόλυμος for Σολυμῆος is unusual; it occurs again on an inscription on p. 493 [of a MS. volume transcribed by S. Birch].' The form suggests that the eponymous hero Solymos, by a process already exemplified in the case of Kragos (supra p. 971 n. 2), had been raised to the rank of Zeus.

Other inscriptions from Termessos attest a cult of Zeus and Dione (id. ib. ii. 206 no. 77 on a lintel from the southernmost part of the gymnasium [τοῦ πρώτου ἱερασαμένου Διὸς καὶ Διώνης Ἀλφείδου Μολέους | [τὸν ναὸν καὶ τ]ὰ ἐν αὐτῷ ἱερά καὶ ἀγάλματα ὁ δῆμος ἐκ τῆς | ὑποστάσεως (i.e. ἐκ τῆς ὑποστάσεως τοῦ πρώτου ἱερασαμένου κ.τ.λ.), 219 no. 175^a (= Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4366 m) completed by G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1899 xiii. 192 no. 60 on a sarcophagus at the first Gate ἱερεὺς Διὸς καὶ Διώνης | Γαῖος Διστεῖμον Ἐρ. | Τρ. Γαῖου Γεινίου Χν. τῆν | σωματοθήκην ἐαυτῷ καὶ | Ἀρτέμει καὶ Ἐρ. Τρ. Γαῖου Γεινίου Π. αὐτοῦ· κ.τ.λ.) and a cult of Zeus Ἐλευθέριος (K. Lanckoroński op. cit. ii. 203 no. 58, 26 ἱερεὺς Διὸς Ἐλευθερίου Δῶδοτος Ἐρμαίου Ἀρτεῖμον * φ', cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycia, etc. pp. lxxxix n. *I, xcii with n. *, 275 no. 55 pl. 42, 2 obv. ΤΕΡ ΜΗCCEΩΝ head of Zeus, laureate, to right, with Θ below; rev. ΕΛΕΝ ΘΕΡΑΤΕ ΡΜΗCCE ΗΤΟΚΑΠ ΟΥCΕΧΟ VCA in wreath = ἐλευθέρα Τερμησσέ | ἡ το(ὺς) κάπους ἐχουσα, which I take to be a tag from some popular chorus (hence the quasi-Doric κάπους) performed at a festival of Zeus Ἐλευθέριος).

¹ In 82 B.C. Mithridates vi Eupator, having cleared Kappadokia of the Roman forces, offered a solemn sacrifice to Zeus Στράτιος. Appian. Mithr. 66, perhaps following Nikolaos of Damaskos (T. Reinach Mithridate Eupator roi de Pont Paris 1890 p. 445 f.), describes the scene in detail (trans. H. White): 'The news of this brilliant and decisive victory spread quickly and caused many to change sides to Mithridates. The latter drove all of Murena's garrisons out of Cappadocia and offered sacrifice to Zeus Stratius on a lofty pile of wood on a high hill, according to the fashion of his country, which is as follows. First, the kings themselves carry wood to the heap. Then they make a smaller pile encircling the other one, on which they pour milk, honey, wine, oil, and various kinds of incense. A banquet is spread on the ground for those present (as at the sacrifices of the Persian kings at Pasargadae) and then they set fire to the wood. The height of the flame is such that it can be seen at a distance of 1000 stades from the sea, and they say that nobody can come near it for several days on account of the heat. Mithridates performed a sacrifice of this kind according to the custom of his country.' In 74 B.C., when about to enter Paphlagonia, Mithridates repeated the offering. Appian. Mithr. 70 (trans. White) says: 'At the beginning of spring Mithridates made trial of his navy and sacrificed to Zeus

Stratius in the customary manner, and also to Poseidon by plunging a chariot with white horses into the sea.'

Imperial coppers of Amaseia, the residence of the Pontic kings (Strab. 561), have been rightly interpreted as referring to this cult (C. Cavedoni in the Bull. d. Inst. 1840 p. 70 f.). They exhibit a large altar, sometimes of two stages and flaming. Beside it are two trees with twisted trunks. Above it on some specimens there hovers an eagle, or the sun-god in his quadriga, or both. Occasionally a bull is shown lying dead on the upper stage (supra i. 602 n. 2. I illustrate four examples. Fig. 858 = Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 38 no. 78 pl. 5, 26 (Paris) Caracalla 206 A.D. ('une victime qui paraît être un chien!'). Fig. 859 = eid. ib. i. 38 no. 79 pl. 6, 1 (Paris) Caracalla 206 A.D. Fig. 860 = eid. ib. i. 40 no. 96 pl. 6, 7 (A. Löbbecke) Geta 206 A.D. ('un taureau mort'). Fig. 861 is from a specimen, in my collection, struck by Severus Alexander in 232 A.D.).

F. Cumont—E. Cumont Voyage d'exploration archéologique dans le Pont et la Petite Arménie (Studia Pontica ii) Bruxelles 1906 pp. 136—184 devote a chapter to Amaseia, including a valuable discussion (pp. 145 f., 172 ff.) of Zeus Στράτιος and his cult. Their

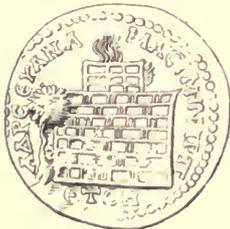

Fig. 859.

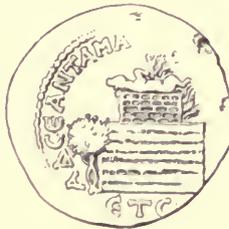

Fig. 858.

Fig. 860.

Fig. 861.

discoveries may be resumed as follows. Some four miles due east of Amaseia rises a rounded hill (1350^m) known as Beuyuk Evlia, 'The Great Saint' (map xiii), and reputed to be the burial-place of a santon or Turkish saint. Every year in May the peasants repair to this otherwise deserted height, slaughter fowls and sheep, and feast merrily in honour of the Profit Iliyā. A clump of large pines crowns the hill-top, venerable trees which are held in such respect that no one will touch them with an axe. (By way of an ancient parallel F. Cumont cites M. Tsakuroglou in the Μουσείον καὶ Βιβλιοθήκη τῆς Εὐαγγελικῆς Σχολῆς ἐν Σμύρνῃ 1878—1880 p. 164 no. τλβ' = S. Reinach Chroniques d'Orient Paris 1891 p. 157 an inscription from Divlit near Koloë (Κούλα) in Lydia ἔτους τκ', μη[νὸς] Περειτίου β', Αὐρ. | Στρατόνεικος β', ἐπειδὴ κατὰ | ἄγνοιαν ἐκ τοῦ ἄλσου[ς] ἔκοψα | δένδρα θεῶν Διὸς Σαβαζίου καὶ | Ἀρτέμιδος Ἀναίτις κολασ|θεῖς, εὐχόμενος εὐχαριστή|ριον ἀνέστησα with Tsakuroglou's note: 'Au-dessus est représenté un homme; à côté de lui, sur la droite, deux arbres, et un seul à gauche. Il est remarquable que la défense de couper du bois dans le bois sacré de Sabazios et d'Artémis Anaitis subsiste encore aujourd'hui, car les habitants turcs de Santal près de Divlit croient que celui qui coupe du bois est puni par quelque maladie.'

[See further Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Magic Art ii. 40—45.] The summit of the hill forms a flattish space c. 250^m across and was enclosed by a peribolos-wall, which can still be traced, especially to the south-west. In the middle of the open space a square mound (c. 40^m each side) evidently covers some construction, for bits of moulding and the débris of cut marble are scattered over the ground. Here in all probability stood a monumental altar. A marble base found on the spot records the name of Cn. Claudius Philon as priest for life (J. G. C. Anderson—F. Cumont—H. Grégoire Recueil des inscriptions grecques et latines du Pont et de l'Arménie (Studia Pontica iii) Bruxelles 1910 i no. 142 τὸ ἀνάθημα] (or ἀ[γαλμα]) | ἐκ τῶν τ[οῦ] | θεοῦ Γναῖ[ος] Κλ(αύδιος) Φιλῶν | ἱερεὺς διὰ βίου) and two inscriptions from the neighbouring village of Ebimi preserve dedications to Zeus Στράτιος (eid. ib. i no. 140 on a small limestone altar Διὶ | Στρατίῳ | Βασιλεὺς (a frequent name in Pontos) | εὐχῆ, no. 141 on two portions of a limestone balustrade Διὶ Στρατίῳ [ὁ δῆμος ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ] κυρία ἐπὶ τῆς συνῆ[αρχίας] Παμπρωίου. τοῦ?] Κανδίδου, νεωκοιροῦτος γ' [..... ο]υ' Ἀγριππιανοῦ, ἐκ | τῶν συν(λ)ε[λεγμένων] χρημάτων]ν Ϝ εἶτους Ϝ ρά Ϝ (= 98/99 A.D.). In line 4 συνα[θροισθέντων κ.τ.λ.] is possible). From these inscriptions we gather that in the year 99 A.D. the cult was administered by συνάρχοντες and νεωκόροι. To the west of the precinct is rising ground formerly covered with buildings. The festivities there celebrated seem to have included dramatic shows—witness the epitaph of the strolling player Gemellos, found at Ebimi (F. Cumont in the Festschrift zu Otto Hirschfelds sechzigstem Geburtstag Berlin 1903 p. 277 ff. = J. G. C. Anderson—F. Cumont—H. Grégoire op. cit. i no. 143 κείμε Γεμέλλος ἐγὼ | ὁ πολλοῖς θεάτροις | πολλὰ λαλήσας | καὶ πολλὰς ὁδοὺς | αὐτὸς ὀδεύσας, | καὶ οὐκέτι μου σῶμα | φωνᾶ[ς] ἀπολνεῖ, | οὐδὲ χειρῶν κρότος | ἔρχεσε, ἀλλ' ἀποδοῦς | τὸ δάνιον ('my debt to nature') πεπῶρευμε. | ταῦτα πάντα κόνις. The man is as full of quotations as Dikaiopolis).

Other traces of the same cult came to light at Ghel-Ghiraz, some sixteen miles west of Amaseia, on the edge of the plain Chilikomon (Soulou-Ova). Here was found a marble altar of s. i (?) A.D. dedicated to Zeus Στράτιος (eid. ib. i no. 152 Διὶ Στρατίῳ εὐ[χ]ῆς | καὶ εὐσεβίας [χ]άριον Κύρος καὶ | Φιλέταιρος οἱ | Κλάρον. The letters χ, ϛ, being crosses, have been effaced by some zealous Mohammedan) and sundry remnants of his temple (Ionic and Corinthian capitals, a column-shaft in red marble, fragments of cornice, blocks of marble) scattered through the village. The temple itself probably stood on a small polygonal plateau cut out on a spur of the mountainous heights above Ghel-Ghiraz (map xii).

Lastly, an inscription of Roman date from Athens mentions an offering to Zeus Στράτιος made by four citizens of Amaseia (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. i no. 201 ἀγαθῆ τύχη· | Διὶ Στρατίῳ | Διότιμος, Ἐψικράτης], | Δρόσερος, Σείηρος | οἱ Ἀμασεῖς).

F. Cumont justly regards the sacred pines still growing on Beuyuk Evlia as comparable with the trees beside the altar on the coins of Amaseia (supra figs. 858—861), with the two oaks planted by Herakles at Herakleia Pontike by the altars of Zeus Στράτιος (Plin. nat. hist. 16. 239 in Ponto citra Heracleam arae sunt Iovis Στρατιου cognomine, ibi quercus duae ab Hercule satae), and with the sacred plane-trees of Zeus Στράτιος at Labranda (supra p. 590). But with equal justice Cumont refuses to see in Beuyuk Evlia the scene of Mithridates' pyre, which was visible far out at sea and must therefore have been raised on some such peak as Ak-Dagh, the highest summit of the country. As to the nature of Zeus Στράτιος, after renewed consideration of the available data (cp. F. Cumont 'Le Zeus Stratiος of Mithridate' in the Revue de l'histoire des religions 1901 xliii. 47—57), he arrives at the following conclusion: 'Peut-être était-il à l'origine la divinité locale de quelque tribu indigène de la vallée de l'Iris, qui s'assemblait pour l'adorer sur le sommet d'une montagne voisine. A leur arrivée dans le pays, les colons grecs auraient alors, suivant une coutume constante, transformé cette divinité barbare en un Zeus guerrier. Puis, quand une maison d'origine iranienne fonda un royaume dans cette région, elle aurait prétendu reconnaître dans ce Zeus son Ahoura-Mazda, et lui aurait offert des sacrifices nouveaux, imités de ceux qu'accomplissaient les monarques perses. La nature du dieu serait donc composite; elle serait formée d'une réunion des trois éléments, pontique, grec et iranien, dont la combinaison caractérise la religion comme la civilisation de ces contrées.²

Kappadokia

Mount Argaios (?)¹.

To this I would add but two remarks. Doubtless, as Cumont says, the pyre of Mithridates on the Pontic mountain bears some resemblance to the perpetual fire on the mountain of Zoroastres (Dion Chrys. or. 36 p. 92 f. Reiske cited supra i. 783 f., ii. 33), and the offering of milk, honey, wine, and oil by Mithridates recalls the offering of oil, milk, and honey by the Magoi (Strab. 733). But these practices can be paralleled from Greek as well as from Persian usage. The big blaze reminds us of the bonfire on the top of Mt Kithairon kindled once in sixty years at the Great Daidala, when the oak-brides of Zeus were burnt (Paus. 9. 3. 1 ff. cited supra p. 898 n. 6). And the offering of milk, honey, wine, and oil is suggestive of the usual Hellenic gifts to the dead (see c.g. P. Stengel *Die griechischen Kultusaltertümer*³ München 1920 p. 149 'Man spendet Wein, Wasser, Milch, Honig und Öl, doch selten alles zugleich.' Is the ritual of Aisch. Pers. 610 ff. Persian or Greek?). There may after all have been some historical foundation for the folk-belief that a saint lies buried on Beuyuk Evlia.

¹ Mt Argaios (Erjâus), the culminating point of Antitauros and the highest (3840^m) peak in Asia Minor, has its summit covered with perpetual snow (Strab. 538, Solin. 45. 4). On the side facing Kaisareia (Kaiserieh) this forms a vast slope of glittering white—a fact which perhaps gave its name to the mountain (for ἀργός, ἀργός, ἀργήεις, etc. see Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 49 f., Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 74 f.).

In antiquity few persons reached the summit, and those who did declared that in clear weather they could see both the Euxine and the bay of Issos (Strab. 538)! The ascent readily won its way into the region of the mythical. W. J. Hamilton Researches in Asia Minor, Pontus, and Armenia London 1842 ii. 275 reports the following tale: 'A traveller once came from Frangistan, in search of a rare plant which grew only on the summit of Argaeus, having ten leaves round its stalk and a flower in the centre. Here it was said to be guarded by a watchful serpent, which only slept one hour out of the four-and-twenty. The traveller in vain tried to persuade some of the natives to accompany him, and point out the way; none of them would venture, and at length he made the ascent alone. Failing, however, in his attempt to surprise the dragon, he was himself destroyed. The story adds that he was afterwards discovered, transformed into a book, which was taken to Caesareia, and thence found its way back into Frangistan.'

In modern times ascents have been made by Hamilton (1837), Tchihatcheff (1848), and H. F. Tozer with T. M. Crowder (1879). See W. J. Hamilton op. cit. ii. 274 ff. (with lithographic pl. view of Mt Argaios as seen from Kara Hissar), P. de Tchihatcheff Asie Mineure Paris 1853 i. 439 ff. (with fig. 9 view of Mt Argaios, fig. 10 do. as seen from Erkelet, fig. 11 do. as seen from Tomarsé, fig. 14 plan of Mt Argaios), H. F. Tozer Turkish Armenia and Eastern Asia Minor London 1881 pp. 106—131. Tozer says of the summit (ib. p. 125 f.): 'The view was quite clear and very extensive, including the long line of the Anti-Taurus to the east, the Allah Dagh and other mountains that run down towards Lycaonia to the south-west, and to the north the vast undulating plains of the interior which we had crossed in coming from Yeuzgatt. One or two small lakes were visible.... We could also trace the depression in which the Halys runs, though the river itself was not in sight. Kaiserieh lay below us...like a dark carpet spread on the bare plain. But far the most remarkable feature was the mountain itself, for the lofty pinnacles of red porphyritic rock, rising from among the snows around and beneath us, veritable aiguilles, were as wonderful a sight as can well be conceived [Tozer here gives a striking view of these three needles, which are c. 50 feet in height]. The crater or craters, which once occupied the summit, are too much broken away to be easily traceable, the best-marked being that which faces east; but below, all round the base of the mountain, is a belt of volcanic cones. The idea that prevailed among the ancients, that on clear days both the Euxine and the Mediterranean were visible from here, is wholly impossible on account of the distance, and the height of the intervening mountains.' Tozer adds (ib. p. 126 f.): 'As we were climbing about the rocks close by, we found to our great surprise that in places they were perforated with ancient human habitations. One of these wound inwards to a considerable depth with rude niches hollowed in the sides like those which we had seen on the banks of the Halys.... Anyhow there was no question of their being artificial abodes, for besides the niches, the marks of some hard instrument were evident on the roof and sides.'

The capital of Kappadokia, built at the base of Mt Argaios, was named successively Mazaka, Eusebeia, and Kaisareia (Strab. 537 f., Steph. Byz. s.v. Καισάρεια). Bronze coins of Eusebeia, struck by Archelaos king of Kappadokia 36 B.C.—17 A.D., have rev. Mt Argaios (Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 581 no. 1 pl. 62, 15), sometimes with an eagle on its summit (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 45 no. 2 pl. 8, 1 (= my fig. 862)). Imperial coins of Kaisareia, in silver and bronze, from Tiberius to Gordianus iii, repeat the type with many interesting variations (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 46 ff. pl. 8, 8, 12, pl. 9, 6, 7, 21, pl. 10, 6, 7 (= my fig. 864), 8, 14, 17, 18, 20, pl. 11, 1 (= my fig. 865), 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 13 (= my fig. 869), 15—19, pl. 12, 1, 2, 3 (= my fig. 873), 4, 7, 9, 12, pl. 13, 1, 2 (= my fig. 875), 3, 4 (= my fig. 877), Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 582 ff. pl. 62, 16, 19, 22—24, 25 (= my fig. 868), 26—28, 29 (= my fig. 874), Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 417 ff. no. 183 ff. pl. H, 1—4, 5 (= my fig. 872), G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 p. 167 ff. pl. 6, 10, 11, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 752 f. fig. 331. Figs. 863, 866, 867, 870, 871, 876 are from specimens in my collection. See also supra i. 603 n. 2). Cp. a red jasper intaglio in the British Museum, which shows Mt Argaios with a wreath above it and a goat's head below (Brit. Mus. Cat. Gems p. 135 no. 1107), another from the Blacas collection, which represents the mountain inscribed ΑΡΓΑΙΟΣ and topped by a radiate figure holding a patera in his left hand, a sceptre in his right (ib. p. 135 no. 1105), and a third at Berlin, which crowns the summit with an eagle holding a wreath in its beak (Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 313 no. 8558 pl. 61).

This famous type has been discussed at length by W. Wroth in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. pp. xxxviii—xli and by O. Rossbach in the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altertum 1901 vii. 406—409. The general shape of the mountain with its crater above and volcanic cones below is adequately rendered. The woods which formerly fringed its sides (Strab. 538 ἀξέλου γὰρ ὑπαρχούσης σχεδὸν τι τῆς συμπόσης Καππαδοκίας, ὁ Ἀργαῖος ἔχει περικείμενον δρυμὸν, κ.τ.λ.) are represented by trees (figs. 866, 869 ff.). The game inhabiting them is suggested by the lively little picture of the hound chasing the goat or stag (fig. 863). But Argaios was more than a picturesque object or happy hunting-ground. It was to the Cappadocians καὶ θεὸς καὶ ἄρκος καὶ ἀγαλμα (Max. Tyr. diss. 8. 8 Dübner cited supra i. 102 n. 5). As an ἀγαλμα it is seen on an altar (fig. 869 ff.) or within a temple (fig. 876). It is even worn as a head-dress by Tranquillina (fig. 877), who thus appears as the Tyche of Kaisareia (II. Dressel in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1901 xxiv. 86 f.). Its claim to divinity is stated somewhat differently by Solin. 45. 4 Mazacam sub Argaeo sitam Cappadoces matrem urbium numerant; qui Argaeus nivalibus iugis arduus ne aestivo quidem torrente pruinis caret quemque indidem populi habitari deo (habitare deum cod. G) credunt. It remains therefore to ask what deity was believed to inhabit the mountain. W. Wroth rightly rules out Sarapis, though a coin at Paris shows that god holding the mountain in his hand (J. A. Blanchet in the Rev. Num. iii Série 1895 xiii. 74 f. pl. 3, 15). This, like the Egyptian symbol (? lotos: cp. supra p. 773 fig. 737) which tops the mountain on a coin of Trajan (fig. 863), merely proves that from time to time Sarapis bulked big at Kaisareia. Wroth himself concludes (as does Rossbach loc. cit. p. 407 f.) that the naked male figure, who appears on the mountain-top holding globe and sceptre (fig. 867) and sometimes wearing a crown of rays (cp. fig. 868), is the deified emperor. Accordingly he takes the eagle on the mountain (fig. 862) or on the mountain-altar (fig. 869) to be the Roman eagle, interprets the 'two or more figures' sometimes seen on the summit (figs. 870, 872) as 'Imperial personages?', and draws attention to a coin of Caracalla at Berlin (J. Friedlaender in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1884 xi. 52 pl. 1, 5, better read by B. Pick in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1898 i. 455 ff.) which shows Mt Argaios and a distyle

Fig. 862.

Fig. 863.

Fig. 864.

Fig. 865.

Fig. 866.

Fig. 867.

Fig. 868.

Fig. 869.

Fig. 870.

Fig. 871.

Fig. 872.

Fig. 873.

Fig. 874.

Fig. 875.

Fig. 876.

Fig. 877.

Kilikia

Anazarbos¹.
Mount Olympos (?)².

Kypros

Amathous, Golgoi, Kition³.
Mount Olympos (?)⁴.

Assyria

Mount Zagros⁵.

Kommagene

*Nemroud Dagh*⁶.

Syria

Chalkis sub Libano (?)⁷.

temple below with a star in its pediment and between its columns the inscription ΕΙC ΕΩΝΑ ΤΟΥC ΚΥΠΙΟΥC (= eis aiōna toūs kyplious, an acclamation of the imperial house). Wroth, however, admits 'that before the Imperial age some local divinity—perhaps a mountain-god—was worshipped in connection with Argæus.'

This is unsatisfactory. The eagle on the mountain-top occurs before the town was renamed Kaisareia (fig. 862 inscribed ΕΥΣ[Ε] ΒΕΙ[Α]), and the eagle on the mountain-altar is much too prominent to be merely a Roman eagle (fig. 869). Gerhard Gr. Myth. i. 166, 174 f. did not scruple to speak of a 'Zeus Argæos.' And, though the exact appellation has not yet been found (for Zeus ἀργής see supra i. 31 f., 317 f.), he was in all probability on the right track. At least the naked figure with globe and sceptre, the radiate crown, the sun and moon (figs. 869, 873), the star (figs. 871, 876) or stars (fig. 864)—to say nothing of the eagle—are all appropriate to a Hellenistic Zeus. At Kaisareia such an one would readily take on oriental features, e.g. the tall headdress with which he appears on a silver coin of Trajan (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 52 no. 46 ('Zeus?') pl. 9, 8 (= my fig. 878)). Besides, the two supporters with lances (fig. 870) can then be reasonably explained as the Dioskouroi. It would seem, in fact, that the three rocky pinnacles of the mountain-top were connected with Zeus and the Dioskouroi respectively. I should go further and claim that here, as elsewhere (supra pp. 160, 431 f.), the Dioskouroi are anthropomorphic sky-pillars. And I should conjecture that their older aniconic forms were perpetuated by local piety in the curious pillars to right and left of the sacred mountain (figs. 874, 875). The rays that crown these pillars are no accidental adornment. It must often have happened that Dioscuric stars (St Elmo's fires) were to be seen in stormy weather flickering about the aiguilles of the summit.

Fig. 878.

Even so we have hardly exhausted the significance of the coin-types. One of them (fig. 867) apparently attaches a goat's head to the outline of the mountain, low down on its left hand side,—a detail which recalls the goat's head on the gem in the British Museum (supra), but is not easy to explain. And what are we to make of the star-like flower or rosette that is found so frequently in the centre of the design? Is this only a stylised rendering of rocks or bushes? Or dare we surmise that popular belief connected the mountain with some magical or mythical flower such as that mentioned by W. J. Hamilton in the tale already told?

¹ Zeus Ὀλύβριος or Ὀλύβρις (supra i. 597 n. 4).

² Supra i. 100 n. 12.

³ Θεὸς Ἐψιστος (supra p. 879 n. o no. (15)).

⁴ Supra i. 100 n. 14.

⁵ Zagreus (supra i. 651), whose art-type was borrowed by the Cretan Zeus Ἰδαῖος (supra i. 644 ff. pl. xxxv).

⁶ Zeus Ὠρομάσδης (supra i. 741 ff.).

⁷ A bronze coin of s. i B.C., probably struck at Chalkis sub Libano (Anjar) near Mount Kasion¹.

Heliopolis (Ba'albek), has obv. head of Zeus, laureate, to right, rev. a temple with two columns, from each of which hangs a fillet, and two steps, on which is the inscription ΧΑΛΚΙ ΔΕΩΝ. Within the temple is a conical stone bound with a fillet (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. pp. liv, 279 no. 1 pl. 33, 10 (=my fig. 879), *Head Hist. num.*¹ p. 655 (but not *ib.*² p. 783)). W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1854 Asiatic Greece p. 41 had assigned a similar specimen in his collection to Chalkis (Kinnesrin) near Beroia (Aleppo). De Visser De Gr. diis non ref. spec. hum. p. 41 f., 167 treats this conical stone as a primitive ἀγαλμα of Zeus. And he may well be right (supra i. 521 n. o), though it should be remembered that Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 222 f. referred bronze coins with a like rev. and obv. dolphin round trident (p. 222 no. 60) or head of Hera (p. 223 nos. 63 and 64) to Chalkis in Euboia (so also *Head Hist. num.*² p. 360, Anson, Num. Gr. v. 19 nos. 133—135).

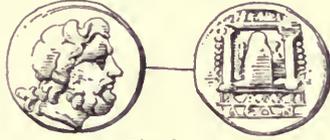

Fig. 879.

¹ Mt Kasion (Djebel-el-Akrá) rises abruptly from the sea to a height of 5318 ft. The ancients declared that from its summit the sun could be seen in the fourth watch of the night (Plin. nat. hist. 5. 80, Solin. 36. 3, Mela 1. 61 (confuses with Mt Kasion in Egypt), Mart. Cap. 680) or at second cock-crow (Amm. Marc. 22. 14. 4). According to Euhemeros the mountain derived its name from a certain king Kasios, who had entertained Zeus (Euhem. ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 2. 2. 61, Lact. div. inst. 1. 22 cited supra p. 588 n. 1). Sanchouniathon, as reported by Philon of Byblos, held that Aion and Protoponos had descendants as mortal as themselves named Phos, Pyr, and Phlox, who discovered and taught how to make fire from the friction of wood on wood. They in turn had gigantic sons, who gave their names to the mountains that they occupied—Kassion, Libanos, Antilibanos, and Brathy (cp. Plin. nat. hist. 24. 102 herba Sabina, brathy appellata a Graecis, duorum generum est, altera tamarici folio similis, altera cupresso; quare quidam Creticam cupressum dixerunt). Hence sprang Samemroumos (O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. renders 'der hohe Herr des Himmels'), also called Hypsouranios, < and Ousoös (on whom see Gruppe Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 392)>, who were named after their mothers, the women of that age being free to mingle with any whom they met (Philon Bybl. frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 566 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 9). Synkellos states that Kasos and Belos, sons of Inachos, founded Antiocheia on the Orontes (Synkell. chron. 126 A (i. 237 Dindorf), cp. Io. Malal. chron. 2 p. 28 Dindorf). Stephanos of Byzantion declares that Mt Kasion in Syria was colonised from Kasos, one of the Kyklades, which was called after Kasos the father of Kleomachos (Steph. Byz. s.v. Κάσος, but cp. id. s.v. Κάσιον where much the same is said of Mt Kasion in Egypt). The true derivation of the name is still to seek: for modern conjectures see W. W. Baudissin Studien zur semitischen Religionsgeschichte Leipzig 1878 ii. 238 f., Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2266 f.

Several myths attached to the mountain. Zeus pursued Typhon to Mt Kasion (Apollod. 1. 6. 3 cited supra p. 448 n. 2). The inhabitants of the district, when locusts devastated their crops, besought Zeus to send the Seleucides aves (Plin. nat. hist. 10. 75 Seleucides aves vocantur quorum adventum ab Iove precibus inpetrat Casii (so Hermolaus Barbarus for casini edd. vett. casmi cod. F². C. Mayhoff prints Cadmi) montis incolae fruges eorum locustis vastantibus. nec unde veniant quove abeant compertum, numquam conspectis nisi cum praesidio earum indiget). The Antiochenes honoured Triptolemos as a hero with a festival on Mt Kasion (Strab. 750). Some said that Kyparissos, a Cretan boy of great beauty and purity, fled from Apollon or Zephyros to the river Orontes and Mt Kasion, where he was changed into a cypress-tree (interp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 3. 680).

In historical times we get repeated allusions to the cult of Zeus on this mountain. When Seleukos i Nikator founded Seleukeia Pieria, he first on the twenty-third day of the month Xanthikos (April) offered sacrifice to Zeus Κάσιος upon Mt Kasion: an eagle carried off a morsel of the sacrificed flesh towards the sea-shore and so showed him the right site (Io. Malal. chron. 8 p. 199 Dindorf, cp. ib. pp. 199 f., 202 f. Infra Append. N med.). Trajan, accompanied by Hadrian, visited Seleukeia in the month Apellaios (December) 113 A.D. on his way to fight the Persians (Io. Malal. chron. 11 p. 270 Dindorf). Here Trajan dedicated to Zeus Κάσιος silver bowls and a great gilded ox-horn for his victory over the Getai (Souid. s.v. Κάσιον ὄρος), while Hadrian commemorated the occasion in a tactful epigram (Anth. Pal. 6. 332 (Adrianos) Ζητὴ τὸδ' Αἰνεῶδης Κασίῳ Τραϊανὸς ἄγαλμα, | κοίρανος ἀνθρώπων κοίραν' ἀθανάτων, | ἄνθετο, δοῖα δέπτα πολυδαίδαλα καὶ βοὸς οὐρον | ἀσκητὸν χρυσῷ παμφανώνντι κέρας, | ξζαῖτα προτέρης ἀπὸ ληίδος, ἦμος ἀπειρήs | πέρσεν ὑπερθύμους ᾧ ὑπὸ δουρὶ Γέτας. | ἀλλὰ σύ οἱ καὶ τήνδε, κελαινεφές, ἐγγυάλιξον | κρήναι ἐκλειῶs δῆρ' Ἀχαιμενίην, | ὄφρα τοι εἰσορβῶντι διάνδιχα θυμὸν ἰαλῆ | δοῖά, τὰ μὲν Γετέων σκύλα, τὰ δ' Ἀρσακιδέων). In 129 A.D. Hadrian climbed the mountain by night to witness the sunrise; but rain came on and, as he was sacrificing, a thunderbolt fell and destroyed both victim and priest (Spart. v. Hadr. 14. 3). Perhaps Lucius Verus too paid homage to Zeus Κάσιος, for a medallion, struck in 167 A.D. on account of the victories won in the east by Avidius Cassius, shows the emperor offering Nike to Zeus who is seated on a mountain (Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² iii. 197 no. 291, supra i. 133 f. fig. 99): this inference, defended by W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 971 f., is questioned by Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2265. In the spring of 363 A.D. Julian ascended Mt Kasion on a festal day and there sacrificed a hecatomb to Zeus Κάσιος (Amm. Marc. 22. 14. 4, Io. Malal. chron. 13. p. 327 Dindorf, cp. Ioul. misop. 361 D, Liban. or. 14. 69 (ii. 112, 14 Foerster)): he made the ascent at midday, saw the god (? in a dream), rose up, and received some useful advice (Liban. or. 18. 172 (ii. 310, 18 ff. Foerster) eis τὸ Κάσιον ὄρος παρὰ τὸν Κάσιον ἀναβάs Δία μεσημβρίας σταθερὰς εἶδ' ἐτε τὸν θεὸν καὶ ἰδὼν ἀνέστη καὶ συμβουλήν ἐδέξατο, δι' ἧς πάλιν διαφεύγει λόχον).

But the most interesting evidence with regard to the cult is supplied by the coin-types of Seleukeia. Coppers struck by Trajan and Antoninus Pius have rev. a shrine with pyramidal roof resting on four pillars and enclosing a sacred stone, which is filleted. On

Fig. 880.

Fig. 881.

Fig. 882.

Fig. 883.

Fig. 884.

the roof is an eagle with spread wings, and beneath the shrine ΣΕΥΚ ΚΑΣΙΟC (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 274 pl. 33, 3 (=my fig. 880) Trajan, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 216 f. pl. 74, 32 Trajan) or ΣΕΥΚ ΚΑΣΙΟC with star in field (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 275 pl. 33, 4 (=my fig. 882), Anson Num. Gr. v. 53 no. 354 pl. 8

Kyrrhos¹.
 Palmyra².
 Seleukeia Pieria³.

Phoinike

Abédar⁴.
 Berytos⁵.
 Byblos⁶.
 Libanos⁷.
 Sahin⁸.

Samaria

Mount Gerizim⁹.

Antoninus Pius). Later specimens omit the god's name (Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 217 no. 43 Commodus), but show the stone in a tetrastyle temple (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 275 no. 50 Septimius Severus, p. 276 no. 52 Caracalla) and add crescent and star in the pediment (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 277 no. 57 pl. 33, 7 Elagabalos, no. 58 pl. 33, 8 (= my fig. 884) Severus Alexander (OBO = ὀβολός), Anson Num. Gr. v. 53 no. 356 pl. 8 Elagabalos, no. 357 pl. 8 Severus Alexander). Figs. 881, 883 are from examples in my collection.

Zeus Κάσιος must not be confounded with Zeus Κεραύνιος (supra p. 809); the stone in the shrine is no thunderbolt. Nor is there any real reason to think with F. Lenormant in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 935 fig. 1206 that the stone was an aerolite worshipped as the Aramaean god Kašiu (but see Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2266) and Hellenised as Zeus Κάσιος. W. W. Baudissin op. cit. ii. 242 observes curtly: 'Der Stein ist Bild des heiligen Berges.' W. Wroth in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. lxxii says: 'the conical object has a cavity in the side, which seems further to show that the representation is that of a mountain or the agalma of a mountain.' Accordingly, he takes it to be 'the mountain Kasios—or rather an agalma of the mountain' and compares Mt Argaion on the coins of Kaisareia (supra p. 979). A. Salač 'ΖΕΥΣ ΚΑΣΙΟΣ' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlvi. 176 f. rejects the view of Baudissin and Wroth, remarking very justly that on the later coins (figs. 883, 884) the cavity in the sacred stone disappears, the resultant shape being that of an omphalos (cp. Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 553 n. 4). On the whole it seems safest to conclude that the sacred stone did duty as the god's altar (supra i. 521), the hollow in it (Pind. Pyth. 4. 206 βωμοῖο θέναρ) being used for libations (supra p. 193). A parallel might be found in the sacred stone with a cup-like top represented on some of the earliest statères of Mallos in Kilikia (?) (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lycaonia, etc. p. 95 pl. 15, 10—12, Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 1. 557 f. pl. 25, 11, Anson Num. Gr. v. 17 nos. 117 and 118 pl. 3: on the doubtful attribution see Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen ii. 435 f. and Babelon op. cit. ii. 1. 561 ff.). The pyramidal or triangular roof topped by an eagle recalls the pyramid of Sandas and would suit a mountain-god (supra i. 600 ff.).

A votive inscription from Hedderenheim—Corp. inscr. Lat. xiii no. 7330 Deo | Casio | Ovinius | v.s.l.m.—has been connected with this Syrian cult (Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2267, A. Salač loc. cit. p. 187 f.).

¹ Zeus Καταιβάτης seated on a rock (supra i. 124, ii. 15 f. figs. 3 and 4).

² Zeus "Υψιστος καὶ Ἐπήκοος, less often Zeus "Υψιστος, Zeus Μέγιστος "Υψιστος, Zeus "Υψιστος Μέγιστος Ἐπήκοος (supra p. 885 n. 0 n. (29)).

³ Zeus Κορυφαῖος (supra p. 869 n. 1).

⁴ Zeus Οὐράνιος "Υψιστος Σααρναῖος Ἐπήκοος (supra p. 886 n. 0 no. (30)).

⁵ Θεὸς "Υψιστος (supra p. 886 n. 0 no. (30)).

⁶ Zeus "Υψιστος (supra p. 887 n. 0 no. (30)).

⁷ Supra i. 551 with i. 581 f.

⁸ Θεὸς "Υψιστος Οὐράνιος "Υπατος (supra p. 886 n. 0 no. (30)).

⁹ Zeus Ἑλληνῖος or Ξένιος, Zeus "Υψιστος, Iupiter Sarapis (?) (supra p. 887 n. 0 no. (31)).

Ioudaia

Jerusalem¹.

Aigyptos

Alexandria².Athribis³.Mount Kasion⁴.

¹ Hadrian attempted to crush Christianity by erecting a statue of Aphrodite on the site of the Crucifixion and an image of Zeus on the site of the Resurrection (Hieron. epist. 58. 3 ad Paulinum (xxii. 581 Migne) ab Hadriani temporibus usque ad imperium Constantini, per annos circiter centum octoginta, in loco resurrectionis simulacrum Iovis, in crucis rupe statua ex marmore Veneris a gentibus posita colebatur, existimantibus persecutionis auctoribus quod tollerent nobis fidem resurrectionis et crucis, si loca sancta per idola polluisent. Bethlehem nunc nostram et augustissimum orbis locum, de quo Psalmista canit 'Veritas de terra orta est' (Ps. 85. 11), lucus inumbrabat Thamuz, id est Adonidis, et in specu, ubi quondam Christus parvulus vagiit, Veneris amasius plangebatur = Paulin. Nolan. epist. 31. 3 (lxi. 326 C—327 A Migne) nam Hadrianus imperator, existimans se fidem Christianam loci iniuria perempturum, in loco passionis <statuam Veneris, in loco resurrectionis (ins. A.B.C.)> simulacrum Iovis consecravit, et Bethlehem Adonidis fano profanata est, ut quasi radix et fundamentum ecclesiae tolleretur, si in iis locis idola colerentur, in quibus Christus natus est ut pateretur, passus est ut resurgeret, surrexit ut regnaret iudicatus).

So even the pagans realised that the Cross meant Love Divine and the empty Tomb Omnipotence.

² Θεός Ἰψιστος καὶ πάντων Ἐπόπτης (supra p. 889 n. o no. (33)).

³ Θεός Ἰψιστος (supra p. 889 n. o no. (33)).

⁴ Mt Kasion, a barren sand-dune adjoining Lake Sirbonis, was famous for its sanctuary of Zeus Κάσιος (Strab. 760, Lucan. 8. 858, Plin. nat. hist. 5. 68, Solin. 34. 1, Steph. Byz. s.v. Κάσιον). According to Sanchouniathon as reported by Philon of Byblos, the descendants of the Dioskouroi, when shipwrecked, were cast up on Mt Kasion and dedicated a temple there (Philon Bybl. frag. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 568 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 20 κατὰ τοῦτον τὸν χρόνον οἱ ἀπὸ τῶν Διοσκοῦρων σχεδίας καὶ πλοῖα συνθέντες ἐπλευσαν, καὶ ἐκρίφεντες περὶ τὸ Κάσιον ὄρος ναὸν αὐτῶν ἀφιέρωσαν). The story is late, but the sanctuary must indeed have received many a dedication from travellers who had escaped the dangers of the shallow sea and the shifting sand (T. Wiegand in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1920 xxxv Arch. Anz. p. 87 f.). Near this spot Cn. Pómpēius Magnus the triumvir was murdered as he stepped ashore, on Sept. 29, 48 B.C., and here he was buried (Strab. 760, Vell. Pat. 2. 53, Lucan. 8. 560 ff., Plout. v. Pomp. 78—80, Appian. bell. civ. 2. 84—86, Dion Cass. 42. 3—5, alib.). His partisans erected bronze statues to his memory near Mt Kasion (Appian. bell. civ. 2. 86). In the winter of 69—70 A.D. Titus and his army passed from Pelousion to the sanctuary of Zeus Κάσιος, and thence to Ostrakine, Rhinokoroura, etc. en route for Jerusalem (Ioseph. bell. Iud. 4. 11. 5). In 130 A.D. Hadrian, on his way from Palestine to Egypt, offered a sacrifice (ἐνήγισε) to Pompeius and rebuilt his ruined tomb (Dion Cass. 69. 11, Spart. v. Hadr. 14. 4), clearing it of sand and replacing the bronze statues, which had been removed to the adyton of the sanctuary (Appian. bell. civ. 2. 86). Hadrian's epigram on the tomb is still extant (Anth. Pal. 9. 402 (Adrianos) τῷ ναοῖς βριθοντι πῶση σάβανις ἐπλετο τύμβου).

The little town of Kasion made a spécialité of intricate woodwork; whence the proverb Κασιωτικὸν ἄμμα (Diogenean. 5. 44, Apostol. 9. 46, prov. Bodl. 527 p. 62 Gaisford, Souid. s.v. ἄμματα, Κάσιον ὄρος, Zonar. lex. s.v. ἄμματα). A papyrus of 283 A.D. mentions Casiotic joiners (B. P. Grenfell—A. S. Hunt The Oxyrhynchus Papyri London 1898 i. 112 ff. no. 55, 6 Κασιωδῶν). We might have supposed that the local manufacture of Κασιωτικὰ ἱμάτια (Steph. Byz. s.v. Κάσιον) or Κασιανὰ ὑφάσματα (Eustath. in Dionys. per. 260) rested on a blunder (ἱμάτια or ὑφάσματα for ἄμματα). But Makrisi too speaks of certain fabrics called gassiah as made on the spot (Maqrizi Description topographique et historique de l'Égypte trad. U. Bouriant Paris 1900 p. 520). Early in s. i B.C., if not in Pelousion¹.

s. ii. B.C., a native of the town made a double dedication in Delos to Zeus Κάσιος along with the Θεός Μέγας (quis? See infra Index s.v. Odessos) and Tachnepsis (a deity new to Egyptologists) (P. Roussel Les cultes égyptiens à Delos du III^e au I^{er} siècle av. J.-C. Nancy 1916 p. 95 ff. no. 16 Θεῶι Μεγάλωι | καὶ Διὶ Κασίωι καὶ Ταχνήψει | Ὀρος Ὀρου Κασιώτης | ὑπὲρ Λευκίου Γρανίου | τοῦ Ποπλίου Ῥωμαίου · | γυναῖκα μὴ προσάγειν | μηδὲ ἐν ἐρείοις ἀνδρα · | κατὰ πρόσταγμα, no. 16 his [Θεῶι] | [Μεγά]λωι | [καὶ Διὶ Κ]ασίωι καὶ | [Τα]χνήψει | [Ὀρος] Ὀρου Κασ(ι)ώτης | [ὕ]πὲρ Λευκίου Γρανίου | τοῦ Ποπλίου Ῥωμαίου, | κατὰ πρόσταγμα · | γυναῖκα δὲ μὴ προσάγειν | μηδὲ ἐν ἐρείοις ἀνδρα). Similarly a native of Berytos gave a thankoffering in Delos to Zeus Κάσιος (id. ib. p. 97 no. 17 Ξενοφῶν | Διο- νυσίου | Βηρύτιος | Διὶ Κασίωι | χριστήριον). And, as Roussel remarks, Zeus Κάσιος is again grouped with Egyptian divinities in an inscription from Athens (A. Wilhelm Beiträge zur griechischen Inschriftenkunde Wien 1909 p. 136 'sie nennt in den ersten erhaltenen Zeilen Priester verschiedener Gottheiten, so des Ὀρος, Θεός Ἀγαθός, Ζεὺς Κάσιος, Ἀπόλλων, Διόνυσος, des Διόνυσος und der Ἀριάγνη?, der Μήτηρ θεῶν, der [Οὐρανία Ἀφροδίτη Νέκκη ἐν Κανώπῳ.' A. Salač, who publishes the inscription in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlvi. 182—187, revises this list as follows: vv. 3f. [Ἀρπο]κράτους, 5 Ὀρου, 6 Ἀγαθοῦ θεοῦ, 7 Διὸς Κασί[υ], 9 Ἀπόλλωνος, 11 Διονύσο[υ] -- Μητρὸς θεῶν, 13 ἐν Κ[Α]νώπῳ (i.e. Sarapis at Kanopos (Strab. 801)) -- [Οὐρ]ανίας Ἀφροδίτης, 14 [Ἰσιδος Ταποσ]ειριάδος).

J. Clédat in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1905 pp. 602—611, ib. 1909 pp. 764—774, ib. 1911 p. 433 proves that Mt Kasion was not situated, as is commonly held, at Ras-Bouroum on the narrow strip of land between the sea and the lake, but at Mahemdiyah (Mohamedieh) some 40 kilometers further to the west, that is, about 15 kilometers east of Pelousion. Here at the western end of the lake and close to the sea rises a rounded sandhill (maximum height 13·30^m: Lucan. 10. 434 f. exaggerates), on which he detected and partially excavated (1) a large (c. 20·0^m × 20·0^m) public bath, built of gypsum and baked brick in late Roman times; (2) a small (9·60^m × 6·0^m) tetrastyle temple facing east, built of gypsum at the eastern extremity of the hill; (3) numerous tombs, some on the hill, others on the plain, belonging to two Roman and two Byzantine cemeteries. Moreover, in 1909 he noted that a cippus of Roman date bore the name of an inhabitant called ΚΑCΙΟC (loc. cit. 1909 p. 774). And finally in 1911 he was able to report 'un petit sanctuaire avec niche d'autel en albâtre portant une inscription nabatéenne au nom de Zeus Cassius' (loc. cit. 1911 p. 433).

¹ We are further indebted to J. Clédat for the discovery of a temple dedicated to Zeus Κάσιος at Pelousion (J. Clédat 'Le temple de Zeus Cassios à Péluse' in the Annales du service des antiquités de l'Égypte Le Caire 1914 xiii. 79—85 with figs. 1—3 and pl. 11). Towards the western end of an elongated mound called by the Arabs Tell el-Faramah (Coptic περεμωση) he found the walled camp (el Kasr) of the equites Stablesian and to the west of this, at a point but little raised above the level of the surrounding morass, the last remains of a temple built in rosy granite. On the ground lay two columns (7·80^m in length, 1·0^m in diameter) and two architrave-blocks (1·80^m long, 0·96^m high, 0·80^m deep) bearing the central part of a deeply incised inscription, which may be restored exempli gratia as follows: [ὑπὲρ αὐτοκράτορος Κασσαροῦ Τραϊανοῦ Ἀδριανοῦ Σε]βαστοῦ καὶ τοῦ σ[ύ]μ[μ]α[τ]τος αὐτοῦ ο[ἱ]κοῦν Διὶ Κασίω Μ[ε]γίστῳ θεῶι Πηλουσίου καὶ τοῖς συννάοις θεοῖς | [ἐπὶ Τίτου Φλαυίου Τιτιανοῦ ἐπιτροπεύοντος τοῦ ἱεροῦ ἀνέθηκεν Καί]κλι[ος] Κάσιος Δ[ί]ων Ἀπο]λλωνίου τ[ρο]--- | [τὸν σηκὸν τοῦ ἱεροῦ καὶ τὸ πρόναον καὶ τὰ ἐν] αὐτοῖς πάντα κοσ[μ]ήσα[ς] εὐνοροση[. . .] μωματ[ι]--- | [--- αὐ]τοῦ. I cannot make head or tail of the concluding words, unless we may suppose κοσ[μ]ήσα[ς], τὴν ὄροφην [τῶ κομ]μώματι [δια- ποικίλας κ.τ.λ.] or the like. A fragment found to the left of the first block is inscribed ANO with Ç! beneath it: this might be a portion of [Τραϊ]ανοῦ and [ἐπιτροπεύοντος] τ[ρο]ῦ. Another architectural block (2·50^m long, 0·49^m high, 0·90^m deep) bears the central part of a second inscription: [--- τ]οῦ προγεγραμμένου [---] | [---] ἐπὶ Τίτου Φλαυίου Τιτ[ι]ανοῦ ---].

A. Salač in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlv. 166—176 ('Zeus Kasios en Égypte'), not only improves on Clédat's reading of the temple-dedication, but also contrives to throw a good deal of light on its occasion and significance. Hadrian came to Pelousion after his journey in Arabia (Spart. v. Hadr. 14. 4), that is, in 130 A.D. (W. Weber Untersuchungen zur Geschichte des Kaisers Hadrianus Leipzig 1907 p. 246). By the fall of the thunderbolt on the Syrian Mt Kasion (supra p. 982 n. o) he had already been designated as the favourite of Zeus Κάσιος (supra p. 22 ff.)—an honour comparable with the adoption of Alexander the Great by Zeus Ἀμμων. Hence the foundation of a temple of Zeus Κάσιος at Pelousion would glorify the emperor as well as the god (W. Weber op. cit. p. 235 f.).

Salač loc. cit. further contends that the cult-statue of Zeus Κάσιος at Pelousion, a youthful figure holding a pomegranate (Ach. Tat. 3. 6 ἔστι δ' ἐν τῷ Πηλουσίῳ Διὸς ἱερὸν ἀγαλμα Κασίου· τὸ δ' ἀγαλμα νεανίσκος, Ἀπόλλωνι μᾶλλον ἑοικώς· οὕτω γὰρ ἡλικίας εἶχε· προβέβληται δὲ τὴν χεῖρα καὶ ἔχει ῥοῖαν ἐπ' αὐτῇ· τῆς δὲ ῥοῖας ὁ λόγος μυστικός. προσευξάμενοι δὴ τῷ θεῷ καὶ περὶ τοῦ Κλεινίου καὶ τοῦ Σατύρου σύμβολον ἐξαιτήσαντες (καὶ γὰρ ἔλεγον μαντικὸν εἶναι τὸν θεόν) περιήγειμεν τὸν νέον. κατὰ δὲ τὸν ὀπισθοδόμον ὄρωμεν εἰκόνα διπλῆν· καὶ ὁ γραφεὺς ἐνεγέγραπτο· Εὐάνθης μὲν ὁ γραφεὺς, ἡ δ' εἰκὼν Ἀνδρομέδα καὶ Προμηθεύς, κ.τ.λ., 8 ἐξῆς δὲ τὸ τοῦ Προμηθεύς ἐγγεγόνει. κ.τ.λ.), was modelled upon a previously existing cult-statue of Harpokrates, the youthful Horos. This contention is strongly supported by numismatic evidence. In fact, a coin of Pelousion, struck by Trajan, actually shows Harpokrates standing with a sceptre in his left hand and a pomegranate in his right, towards which a little Pan stretches out his hands (G. Dattari Numi Augg. Alexandrini Cairo 1901 i. 418 no. 6345 pl. 34). Other coins of the same town, struck by Hadrian in 126/7 A.D., have obv. head of the emperor to right, laureate; rev. head of Harpokrates to right, wearing the hem-hem crown and fillet (V. Langlois Numismatique des nomes d'Égypte sous l'administration romaine Paris 1852 p. 39 no. 69 (wrongly described) pl. 3, 1, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria etc. p. 351 nos. 44 and 45), or rev. a pomegranate (Langlois op. cit. p. 39 no. 70, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria etc. p. 351 no. 46), while coins of Alexandria, struck by Hadrian in 137/8 A.D., have obv. head of the emperor to right, laureate, with paludamentum over shoulder; rev. bust of Harpokrates of Pelousion to right, wearing hem-hem crown, with himntion over left shoulder and pomegranate in front (ib. p. 90 nos. 764 pl. 17 and 765, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 457 no. 391). An Egyptian connexion is again presupposed by the statement that Malkandros king of Byblos had a son Palaistinos or Pelousios, who was nurtured by Isis and gave his name to the town that she founded (Plout. de Is. et Os. 17. Skyl. per. 106 makes Pelousios come ἐπὶ τὸ Κάσιον; Epiphan. ancor. 106 (i. 209, 30 Dindorf) makes Kasios worshipped παρὰ Πηλουσιώταις).

But, granting this Egyptian background, we have yet to explain why Zeus in particular was chosen as the successor of the youthful Horos. And here I should conjecture that we must take into account the influence of Crete, where a youthful Zeus had long been recognised. It is noteworthy that, whereas the nursling of Isis is called Horos by Diod. 1. 25 and Pelousios by Plout. de Is. et Os. 17, he is described as Diktys by Plout. de Is. et Os. 8. The name, whatever its origin (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1283 n. 4), recalls the Cretan Diktynna and Mt Dikte and the infant Zeus (supra p. 927). It may be objected that Diktys is not expressly associated with Pelousion. But he is expressly associated with the Egyptian taboo on onions (Plout. de Is. et Os. 8 τὸ γὰρ ἐμπροσθεῖν εἰς τὸν ποταμὸν καὶ ἀπολέσθαι τὸν τῆς Ἰσιδος τρόφιμον Δικτυν τῶν κρομμύων ἐπιδραττέμενον ἐσχάτως ἀπίθανον· οἱ δὲ ἱερεῖς ἀφοσιοῦνται καὶ δυσχεραλνοῦσι τὸ κρόμμυον παραφυλάττοντες, ὅτι τῆς σελήνης φθινοῦσης μόνον εὐτροφεῖν τοῦτο καὶ τεθληναὶ πέφυκεν. ἔστι δὲ πρόσφορον οὕτε ἀγνεύουσιν οὐτε ἐορτάζουσι, τοῖς μὲν ὅτι διψῆν, τοῖς δὲ ὅτι δακρύειν ποιεῖ τοὺς προσφερομένους), and that taboo (as to which see the references collected by J. E. B. Mayor on Iuv. 15. 9) was specially characteristic of Pelousion (Plout. comm. in Hes. frag. 11. 52 Dübner ap. Gell. 20. 8. 7 'id etiam,' inquit, 'multo mirandum est magis, quod apud Plutarchum in quarto in Hesiodum commentario legi: "cepetum revirescit et congerminat decedente luna, contra autem inarescit adolescente. eam causam esse dicunt sacerdotes Aegyptii, cur Pelusiotae cepe non edint, quia solum olerum omnium contra lunae augmenta atque damna vices minuendi et augendi habeat contrarias," Loukian. Iup. trag. 42 ἰδία δὲ Μερφίταις μὲν ὁ βοῖς θεός, Πηλουσιώταις δὲ κρῆμμον, καὶ ἄλλοις ἱβίς ἢ κροκόδειλος, καὶ ἄλλοις κυνοκέφαλος ἢ αἰλουρος ἢ πίθηκος, Hieron. comm. in Isa. proph. 13 (xxiv). 450 C—D (Migne) non quo simulacra gentium in praedam bestiarum et iumentorum exposita sint; sed quo religio nationum simulacra sint bestiarum et brutorum animantium, quae maxime in Aegypto divino cultui consecrata sunt... nam et pleraque oppida eorum ex bestiis et iumentis habent nomina, Κύνων a cane, Λέων a leone, Θμοῦις lingua Aegyptia ab hirco, Λύκων a lupo, ut taceam de formidoloso et horribili caepe, et crepitu ventris inflati, quae Pelusiaca religio est, Hieron. adv. Iovinian. 2. 7 (xxiii). 296 B (Migne) coge Aegyptium ut ovium lacte vescatur; impelle, si vales, Pelusioten ut manducet caepe). Indeed we are told by Sextus Empiricus that no devotee of Zeus Κάσιος in that town would eat an onion (Sext. Pyrrhon. hyp. 3. 24. 224 κρῆμμον δὲ οὐκ ἂν τις προσενέγκαιτο τῶν καθιερουμένων τῷ κατὰ Πηλοῦσιον Κασίῳ Διί, ὥσπερ οὐδὲ ἱερεὺς τῆς κατὰ Λιβύην Ἀφροδίτης σκοροδίου γεύσεται ἂν. ἀπέχονται δὲ ἐν μὲν ἱεροῖς μίνθης, ἐν οἷς δὲ ἡδυόσμου, ἐν οἷς δὲ σελίνου). Sextus' phrase τῶν καθιερουμένων τῷ...Κασίῳ Διί coupled with that of Achilles Tatios (supra) τῆς δὲ βοῖας ὁ λόγος μυστικός may fairly be taken to imply that Zeus Κάσιος had mystic rites of initiation—another point of contact with the Cretan Zeus (supra i. 648 ff., 663 ff.).

Uncertain locality

Mount Hymnarion¹.

U. Wilcken in the Archiv für Papyrusforschung und verwandte Gebiete 1901 i. 555 draws attention to a letter, written from Pelousion by an unskilled hand at some uncertain date (? s. ii A.D.), found in the Fayoum, and now preserved at Berlin, in which mention is made of Zeus Κάσιος (Zereklī in Aegyptische Urkunden aus den koeniglichen Museen zu Berlin herausg. von der Generalverwaltung: Griechische Urkunden no. 827 (P. 7150), 1 ff. Ζοῦς Ἀπ[ολ]λιναρίῳ τῷ ἀδελ[φ]ῷ χα[ρ]μν. τὸ προσκύνημά | σου παρὰ τῷ Διί τῷ Κασίῳ. γεινώσκω σε θέλω ὅτι εὐρηκα τὴν γυναῖκα <κα> τοῦ Ἀχαρίας (?) | κα[?] δέδωκα αὐτῇ τὰ γεγραμμένα πάντα κ.τ.λ. addressed on the back ἀπό(δος) Ἀπολιναρίῳ ἀπὸ Πετρωλίου δραμιδαρίου ἀπὸ Πηλουσίου). A circular bronze stamp with long handle in the Leyden Museum shows an Egyptian head-dress, consisting of three bunches of plants with a disk on each, and is inscribed Διὸς Κασίου, Ἀθηνῶν Ἀππιανού ε[...]. (C. Leemans Description raisonnée des monuments Égyptiens du Musée d'Antiquités des Pays-Bas, à Leide Leide 1840 p. 111 no. 342, id. Animadversiones in Musei Antiquarii Lugduno-Batavi inscriptiones Graecae et Latinae Lugduni Batavorum 1842 p. 28, Corp. inscr. Gr. iv no. 7044 b, W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 973 'Bronzespiegel' (!), Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1104 n. 1 'Gemme' (!)).

W. W. Baudissin Studien zur semitischen Religionsgeschichte Leipzig 1878 ii. 243 infers from Eriphan. loc. cit. (Κάσιος δὲ ὁ ναύκληρος παρὰ Πηλουσιώταις (sc. τιμᾶται)) that Zeus Κάσιος was worshipped by sea-faring men. On which Frau Adler in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 2266 remarks: 'Daher darf wohl mit dem pelusischen Kulte ein Fund bei Palos in Spanien in Verbindung gesetzt werden; im Meere wurden antike Bleianker aufgefischt mit hebräischen, lateinischen und zwei griechischen Inschriften; die eine galt Aphrodite σώζουσα, die andere Ζεὺς Κάσιος σωζ<ων> (die Ergänzung der zwei letzten Buchstaben unsicher), Boletin d. l. Real Ac. d. Historia 1906, XLVIII 157 f.'

Baudissin op. cit. ii. 240 was inclined to derive the Pelusiac from the Syrian cult of Zeus Κάσιος, though he added: 'Es ist aber nicht unmöglich, dass der Dienst des Kasios ein altsemitischer war, welchen verschiedene semitische Völker aus der gemeinsamen Heimat herübernahmen.' Frau Adler loc. cit. adopts the latter view, 'dass beide Kulte auf gemeinsame, ursemitische Wurzel zurückzuführen sind.' But Salač in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1922 xlvi. 180, 188 definitely returns to the former view: 'En somme, le culte de Zeus Κάσιος paraît d'origine syrienne; le culte du Mons Casius égyptien semble dérivé de la Syrie.'

¹ Hesych. s.v. Ἵνναρεὺς· Ζεὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ Ἵνναρίῳ ὄρους, ἕννης· ἀξ ἀργία, ἕννη· ἀξ. καὶ τὸ τοῦ ἀρότρου σιδήριον τὸ τέμνον τὴν γῆν <ἕννη>. καὶ ἕννης ὁμοίως, ἕννης· πῶλος ὁ ἐν τῇ γαστρὶ νοσήσας, πρὶν κνηθῆναι <ἕννης>. Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 824 n. 7 concludes that Zeus Ἵνναρεὺς (sic) derived his appellative from the goat.

APPENDIX E.

THE KYKLOPS IN FOLK-TALES.

Tales resembling that of Polyphemos have, during the last seventy years, been collected and discussed by a whole series of eminent folklorists. W. Grimm (1857)¹, C. Nyrop (1881)², G. Krek (1887)³, L. Laistner (1889)⁴, G. Polívka (1898, 1918)⁵, N. G. Polites (1904)⁶, P. Sébillot (1904)⁷, W. R. Halliday (1916)⁸, F. Settegast (1917)⁹, and Sir J. G. Frazer (1921)¹⁰ have all said their say, most of them making valuable contributions to the subject. But the palm must be awarded to O. Hackman (1904)¹¹, who in an exemplary monograph has not merely summarised two hundred and twenty-one variants, but has also added a lucid and logical study of their contents.

Hackman arranges the tales in three groups—A, B, and C. Group A (124 variants) commonly involves two episodes and frequently adds a third :

- i The blinding of the giant, which is contrived
 - either (a) during his sleep by means of a red-hot stake, iron spit, knife, sword, etc. plunged into his one eye,
 - or (β) as a pretended cure for his defective sight by means of molten tin, lead, oil, pitch, boiling water, etc. poured into his eye.

The former alternative, (a), prevails in southern and western Europe ; the latter, (β), in northern and eastern Europe. It is probable that (β) was not a modification of (a), but had a separate and independent origin¹².

¹ W. Grimm 'Die Sage von Polyphem' in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1857 Phil.-hist. Classe pp. 1—30 (= Kleinere Schriften Gütersloh 1887 iv. 428—462). W. W. Merry in Appendix ii 'On some various forms of the legend of the blinded Cyclops' to his edition of the Odyssey Oxford 1886 i.² 550—554 summarises nine tales after J. F. Lauer Homeric Studies Berlin 1851 p. 319 ff. and W. Grimm loc. cit.

² C. Nyrop 'Sagnet om Odysseus og Polyphem' in the Nordisk Tidsskrift for Filologi 1881 v. 216—255.

³ G. Krek *Einleitung in die slavische Literaturgeschichte*² Graz 1887 pp. 665—759.

⁴ L. Laistner 'Polyphem' in his Das Rätsel der Sphinx Berlin 1889 ii. 1—168.

⁵ G. Polívka 'Nachträge zur Polyphem Sage' in the Archiv f. Rel. 1898 i. 305—336, 378, J. Bolte—G. Polívka Anmerkungen zu den Kinder- u. Hausmärchen der Brüder Grimm Leipzig 1918 iii. 374—378.

⁶ N. G. Polites Παράδοσις Athens 1904 ii. 1338—1342 (n. on no. 624).

⁷ P. Sébillot Le Folk-lore de France Paris 1904 i. 434 f.

⁸ W. R. Halliday in R. M. Dawkins Modern Greek in Asia Minor Cambridge 1916 p. 217.

⁹ F. Settegast Das Polyphemmärchen in altfranzösischen Gedichten, eine folkloristisch-literargeschichtliche Untersuchung Leipzig 1917 pp. 1—167. Review by J. Bolte in the Zeitschrift des Vereins für Volkskunde 1917 xxvii. 275 f.

¹⁰ Sir J. G. Frazer in Appendix xiii 'Ulysses and Polyphemus' to his edition of Apollodoros London 1921 ii. 404—455 gives an admirable selection of thirty-six variants—quite enough, as he remarks, 'to illustrate the wide diffusion of the tale and the general similarity of the versions.'

¹¹ O. Hackman Die Polyphem Sage in der Volksüberlieferung Helsingfors 1904 pp. 1—241. Review by J. Bolte in the Zeitschrift des Vereins für Volkskunde 1905 xv. 460 f. Review by A. van Gennep 'La Légende de Polyphème' reprinted in his Religions, Mœurs et Légendes Paris 1908 i. 155—164.

¹² O. Hackman op. cit. p. 166 f.

- ii The escape of the hero, who gets off either (α) by clinging under a sheep, goat, ox, etc., or more often (β) by putting on a sheep-skin, goat-skin, ox-hide, etc. Of these alternatives (α), which implies gigantic sheep, was earlier than (β), which makes less demand on the hearer's credulity.
- iii The attempt of the giant to recapture the hero by flinging after him a magical ring (Dolopathos, Italy, Argyllshire, Basses-Pyrénées, Siebenbürgen, Bohemia), a golden staff (Poland, Servia), an axe with a golden or silver haft (Russia, Lithuania, Wotyaks), a sabre (Great Russia), a copper coin (Little Russia), a white stone (Altai Mts.). This episode, which probably formed part of the original tale¹, bulks big in Russia, Galicia, Italy, and Basses-Pyrénées, but does not occur at all in Greece.

Group B (50 variants) is marked by another episode :

- iv The hero escapes detection by giving his name as 'Self' or 'Myself,' rarely as 'Nobody' (Odyssey, Anjou)². This motif belonged originally to a distinct tale, current in northern and central Europe, which told how a man injured an elfish creature of some sort—mermaid (Sweden), water-nixie (Germany), wood-nymph (Sweden), fairy (France), kobold (Rügen), dwarf (Germany), or devil (eastern Europe)—commonly by means of fire or something hot, and then eluded the vengeance of his victim's companions by giving his name as 'Myself' or the like³.

Group C (47 variants) is a late combination of i (β), the blinding of the giant by way of cure, with iv, the name-trick. It is found only in Finland, Lettland, and Esthonia⁴.

It will be seen from this analysis that the story of Polyphemos, as related by Homer, includes episode i, the blinding of the giant, in its south-European form, and episode ii, the escape of the hero, in its earlier and more miraculous aspect, but omits episode iii, that of the magical ring, altogether⁵, substituting for it episode iv, the originally alien motif of the name. Homer, in short, picks and chooses. He may tolerate a monstrous ram, but he omits mere magic, and prefers to insert a conspicuous example of human cunning.

As regards the vexed question of ultimate significance Hackman, after admitting that almost all investigators of the tale (Grimm, Krek, Jubainville, Cerquand, etc.) have taken the single eye of Polyphemos to be the sun⁶, reaches the cautious conclusion : 'Das Stirnauge des Riesen, das jedenfalls schon der Grundform angehört hat, war wohl ursprünglich ein die Sonne symbolisirendes Attribut des Himmels- oder Sonnengottes. Doch hat diese frühzeitig in Vergessenheit geratene mythologische Bedeutung des Stirnages nichts mit der Sage im Übrigen zu tun.'⁷

¹ Id. ib. p. 177 ff.

² Id. ib. p. 204.

³ Id. ib. p. 189 ff.

⁴ Id. ib. p. 206 ff.

⁵ Unless indeed we may suppose that a trace of the ring-throwing subsists in the stone-throwing of Polyphemos (A. B. C.). C. Nyrop loc. cit. p. 218 suggests e contra that the ring-episode is itself an expansion of the Homeric stone-throwing—a view rejected by Hackman op. cit. p. 177 n. 1.

⁶ Id. ib. pp. 3 ff., 217 f.

⁷ Id. ib. p. 221 (cp. also p. 218).

With this decision I find myself in substantial agreement. I have already urged, not only that the Kyklops' eye stood for the sun in heaven¹, but also that the Kyklops himself was in the far past a sky-god like Zeus². Moreover I have ventured to compare Odysseus, who plunged a heated bar into the Kyklops' eye, with Prometheus, who thrust a torch into the solar wheel³. The comparison might be further strengthened. It now appears that an integral part of the Kyklops-tale was the giant's gift to the hero of a magical ring⁴. This recalls the curious legend that Zeus presented Prometheus with a ring fashioned out of his chains⁵. In Germanic belief, too, the one-eyed Wodan possessed a gold ring from which every ninth night dripped eight other rings of equal weight⁶. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the golden rings thrown or dropped by the sky-god were at first but a naïve expression for the daily movement of the solar disk. Nevertheless I concur with Hackman's opinion that the mythological significance of these one-eyed beings had passed into oblivion long before Homer told his immortal tale. A fortiori it would be fatuous to seek any such hidden meaning in the modern Märchen. I append a few samples from Greece and Italy.

Versions from the Greek area are all more or less defective. At most they preserve episode i (α) together with its sequel ii (α) or ii (β). That is the case with a folk-tale from Athens and with another from Kappadokia :

(1) The Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Athens⁷.

Once upon a time there was a king, whose daughter was so lovely that, if—

‘She bade the sun, he would stand still,
The morning star, he 'ld twinkle.’

All the princes were eager to marry her. But she refused each one who proffered his love : only the handsomest of them, who had been blessed by his mother, touched her heart at all. In the end she agreed to wed him who should bring her the golden wand of the Famous Drakos⁸. The Famous⁹ Drakos was the strongest and fiercest of all the Drakoi ; he had one eye in his forehead, which remained open even when he was asleep, so that none could approach him without being eaten by him. His golden wand, if leant against a door, made it at once fly open. The princes on hearing the terms of betrothal shook with terror. But the handsome prince resolved to obtain the golden wand, or

¹ Supra i. 313, 323, 462.

² Supra i. 320.

³ Supra i. 325 ff.

⁴ Supra p. 989 n. 1.

⁵ Supra i. 329 n. o.

⁶ Supra p. 62 n. 1.

⁷ Text in the Δελτίον τῆς Ἱστορικῆς καὶ Ἐθνολογικῆς Ἐταιρίας τῆς Ἑλλάδος Athens 1883 i. 147 ff. Translation (here condensed) in L. M. J. Garnett—J. S. Stuart-Glennie Greek Folk Poesy London 1896 ii. 80—87, 444 f. Cp. a very similar tale from Attike in G. Drosinis Land und Leute in Nord-Euböa trans. A. Boltz Leipzig 1884 p. 170 ff. (‘Die Polyphem-Sage in modern hellenischer Gestalt aus den “Athenischen Märchen” von Frä. Maria Kampúroglu’) = Hackman op. cit. p. 9 f. no. 1 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 439 f. no. 24.

⁸ On the Δράκος or Δράκοντας of the modern Greek see B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 190—195, N. G. Polites Μελέτη ἐπὶ τοῦ βίου τῶν Νεωτέρων Ἑλλήνων Athens 1871 i. 154—172 (‘Δράκοντες’), id. Παραδόσεις Athens 1904 i. 219—228 (‘Δράκοι’), ii. 990—1002, J. C. Lawson Modern Greek Folklore and Ancient Greek Religion Cambridge 1910 pp. 280—283, W. R. Halliday in R. M. Dawkins Modern Greek in Asia Minor Cambridge 1916 pp. 219, 225 ff.

⁹ With his fixed epithet ‘Famous’ cp. the Homeric Πολύφημος.

die in the attempt. So he took the long road, and walked on till he was tired. He sat down under a tree and fell asleep. When he woke, he saw an old woman sifting flour into a great baking-pan. But the flour dropped on to the ground, not into the pan; for the old woman was blind. The prince sifted the flour for her, put it into her sack, and offered to help her carry it. Pleased with his kindness, she asked what she could do for him in return. He begged her blessing and told her of his quest. 'Listen, my son,' said the old woman: 'thou hast undertaken a hard task, but thy parents' blessing and mine will give thee courage. Go straight along this road to a place where there is much grass, for no man has ever trodden it. Beyond the rising ground to which it leads thou wilt see mountains and ravines; and thence thou wilt descry afar off a great cavern. Draw near; and, if thou hear sounds of snoring, thou wilt know that the Drakos is asleep within. Then remain at a distance till the door of the cavern opens; for he has his flocks inside, and puts in front a great rock, which no man can move. Wait till the Drakos drives out his flock, and then find means to hide thyself in the cavern. When he comes back to sleep and folds his flocks and closes the cavern again, then listen and from the snoring thou wilt know that he is no longer awake. Come down from thy hiding-place and step up to him. Tied to his beard is a golden key. Take these scissors that I give thee, and with them cut the beard and the key together. Then, when he opens the cavern, do thou too go out. Having escaped, take once more the grass-grown road. There thou wilt see a great palace. Lean the key against the door of the palace, and it will open to thee. Upstairs in a great chamber there will be a horse and a dog: before the horse are bones to eat; before the dog is straw. Change them without a word, giving the bones to the dog; and the rest thou wilt learn later from the horse.' The prince thanked the old woman, gave her some sequins, and set off. He found the cavern, but heard no snoring. He peeped in, and no one was there. But, seeing within a great caldron full of milk and a bannock as big as a mill-stone, he cut a piece of the bannock, dipped it in the milk, and ate till his hunger was satisfied. Afterwards he espied a hollow high up in the rock, climbed up, and got in. A little later he heard sheep-bells, and concluded that the Drakos was returning with his flocks. So he drew back in his hiding-place, and prayed God to help him. The Drakos entered, pulled to the rock that closed the cavern, and sat down to eat; but found that neither the milk nor the bannock satisfied him as usual. Now the old woman had given the prince a powder to throw into the *raki*¹ jar, so that the Drakos might sleep heavily. When, therefore, the Drakos had finished his meal and stirred the fire, he was soon snoring. The prince came softly down, cut the hairs, took the key, and climbed up again into his hiding-place. But, realising that the Drakos, when he found his key gone, would look for it, he got down and took a long pole, sharpened it, put it in the fire and, as soon as it was red-hot, stuck it into the eye of the Drakos. He, being blinded, began to roar. The other Drakoi came running to see what was the matter with their chief. But they could not remove the rock; and, when they heard his cries, they concluded that he was drunk and went home. Then the Drakos pushed away the stone, sat at the mouth of the cave, and began to fondle and let out his sheep one by one. There was one big, woolly, ram; and the prince placed himself on his stomach under the wool, and, while the Drakos was fondling it, managed to get out of the cave. Following the old woman's advice, he found the palace, unlocked its door with his key, and saw upstairs a splendid horse fastened with chains and a fine big dog. He duly gave the horse's pile of bones to the dog and the dog's heap of straw to the horse. Whereupon they both ate, and then began to talk. The prince related his adventures to them. And they informed him that the old woman was the Good Fate, blinded by the other Fates for her goodness and destined never to recover her sight till she found somebody to love and pity her. They further showed him a chamber containing two beautiful captive princesses, whom he was to set free. The youth did so; and the princesses gave him the golden wand as his reward. He next loosed the horse and the dog by leaning the wand against them. Then he led the princesses downstairs, placed them on the horse, and took the dog also. But, as he was leaving the palace, the horse and the dog said: 'Look out of the window and see all those different animals. They were once handsome princes, who went out hunting, found this palace door open, and stepped inside. The Drakos saw them and, sprinkling them with a liquid, transformed them into various animals. Now touch them lightly on their backs with the wand, and they will become as they were before.' The prince did as he was bidden; and the victims of the Drakos, thus restored to human shape, embraced their deliverer and set out for their respective palaces. The prince with the horse and the dog, after locking the Drakos' palace, returned the two princesses to their parents. He also changed the horse and the dog into two princes, who explained that they, in attempting to rescue the princesses of their choice from the Drakos, had been turned into animals by him, but now begged to become the king's sons-in-law. The king bestowed his daughters upon them, and escorted the prince that had saved them all to the door of the princess of whom he was enamoured. She lay dying of grief for his absence, and all the doors of her palace were shut in token of mourning. The prince at once leant the golden wand against each door in turn, reached the princess, and presented her with the wand. The princess embraced him, and they were married with music, drums, and great rejoicings.

¹ A spirit made from grapes (ράξ, βαγίζω) and flavoured with aniseed.

(2) *The Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Pharasa in Kappadokia*¹.

'In a time of old there was a priest. He went to find a goat. He went to a village. There was another priest. He said: "Where are you going?" The priest said: "I am going to find a goat." He said: "Let me come too, that I also may get a goat." They rose up. They went to another village. There was there another priest. And the three of them went to another village. They found another priest. They took that priest also (with them). They went on. They became seven priests. Whilst they were on their way to a village, there was a woman. She was collecting wood. There was also a Tepekosis². The Tepekosis hastened (and) seized the seven priests (and) carried them to his house. In the evening he cooked one priest. He ate him. He was fat. He ate him. He got drunk. The six priests rose up. They heated the spit. They drove it into the Tepekosis' eye. They blinded the Tepekosis. They went into the stable. The Tepekozis had seven hundred sheep. They entered the stable. They flayed six sheep. They left the heads and the tails (with the skins). They crawled into the skins. In the morning the Tepekozis rose up. He drove out the sheep. He took them by the head and by the tail. He drove out the seven hundred sheep. He shut the doors¹. He went inside. He looked for the six priests. He could not find them. He found the six sheep killed. The six priests took the seven hundred sheep. They went to their houses. They gave also a hundred sheep to the wife of the priest whom the Tepekozis had eaten. The woman said: "Where is my priest?" They said: "He has stopped behind to make further gains." And the six priests took a hundred sheep apiece. They went to their houses. They ate. They drank. They attained their destinies.²

¹ I am indebted for this tale to the kindness of my friend Prof. R. M. Dawkins, who took it down at Pharasa in the Antitauros district of Kappadokia (July 23-25, 1911) from the mouth of an urchin named Thomás Stephánu and dictated the above rendering to me (Nov. 21, 1911). The original is in the local dialect of Greek with some admixture of Turkish words. Text and translation in R. M. Dawkins Modern Greek in Asia Minor Cambridge 1916 p. 550 f. no. 25 (cp. W. R. Halliday ib. p. 217) = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 438 f. no. 23.

² Tepe means 'hill' and here, presumably, 'head.' Koz is for güz, 'eye.' The name, therefore, appears to be 'Head-eye' or 'Eye-in-head'—a Turkish Kyklops.

More often we meet with single episodes of the Kyklops-tale isolated from their proper context and worked into other narratives. For example, episode i (a), the blinding of the giant with a red-hot spit or the like, was a thrilling incident suitable to a variety of situations and sure to please. It occurs alone on the Greek mainland:

(3) The Blinding of the Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Gortynia².

'One of us men in olden days wanted to travel through the whole world. In a certain region he found men who were very tall but had only one eye apiece. The wife of a One-eye, in whose house he lodged, hid him in the evening; for in the daytime her husband was not there—he was a bad character and ate men. When her husband came home and entered the house, he told her that he smelt something; but his wife said it was nothing at all. The One-eye didn't believe her. He got up, groped about, found the man, and wanted to eat him. He put him in his apron along with his supper. But when he tasted his bread, without noticing, for his thoughts were elsewhere, he grasped the man too in the hollow of his hand and thrust him into his mouth. But he stuck in a hole of his tooth, without the tooth getting a real grip on him. After he had pulled him out he let him live, to please his wife, since he was hardly worth eating. But next day he changed his mind and again wanted to eat him. His wife then made her husband drunk, got the stranger out secretly and sent him packing. But, before the wife sent him off, he thrust a big burning coal into the eye of the drunken One-eye and blinded him. And so he punished the bad character, who could no longer see to eat men. When he left, the wife asked his name, and he said: "They call me World-traveller"³; for he had seen and learnt much of the world.'

¹ θύρε, plural of θύρι: cp. Od. 9. 240, 313, 340 θυρεδν μέγαν.

² Text in N. G. Politēs Παραδόσεις Athens 1904 i. 70 f. no. 134 'Ο μονομάτης, ii. 752 ff. (recorded at Lasta in the deme Mylaon in Gortynia, a district of the Morea). Translation by K. Dieterich in the Zeitschrift des Vereins für Volkskunde 1905 xv. 381 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 441 no. 26. I follow Dieterich.

At Arachova on Mt Parnassos the name Μονόματοι (or Μονόματοι) is given to a race of wild and impious men believed to inhabit a foreign land of unknown situation and to have but a single eye in their forehead. The same expression is applied to people, who in character and behaviour resemble these mythical savages (B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 203). For instance, in Akarnania the natives of Xeromeros detest the uncivilised and unsociable mountaineers of Baltos and speak of them as μονομάται, 'one-eyed' monsters (L. Heuzey Le Mont Olympe et l'Acarnanie Paris 1860 p. 259).

³ "Μέ λένε Κοσμοτριγυριστή." Cp. Od. i. 1 ff.

The same motif is woven into tales of different texture from Zakynthos and Kypros :

(4) The Blinding of the Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Zakynthos¹.

Once upon a time there was a certain king's daughter. Three days after her birth came the Fates, who declared that during the fifteenth year of her life she must hide herself from the sun, on pain of becoming a lizard, falling into the sea, and remaining there for five months. As the destined time drew near, the maid saddened and her father tried to divert his thoughts by travelling. Before he set out on his journey he asked his daughter what he could do for her. She begged him to contract a marriage on her behalf with the Giant of the Mountain². The king then went abroad and reached at last the Giant's town, where he heard say that the Giant meant to marry the fairest maiden in the world. He also made friends with the barber that clipped the Giant's beard and enjoyed the Giant's confidence. The Giant himself proved to be a one-eyed monster, who wore seven veils over his face : he lived with many others of his kind in a hollow mountain, where they dug for treasure and hewed out vast building-stones for their houses. Prompted by the barber, the king claimed to be the Giant's son, and, in proof of his assertion, let the giant strike him with a huge pole : he evaded the blow by receiving it on a big leather bag³. He then removed the Giant's veils, and was thanked for his pains. When he broached the subject of his errand, the Giant took him into a chamber apart, showed him many paintings of maidens, and asked whether his daughter resembled any of them. The king replied that these were not worthy even to wash his daughter's feet. The Giant next drew from his breast a miniature, and repeated his question. The king again answered that his daughter's chamber-maid looked like that. So the Giant agreed to wed the king's daughter, if she was as beautiful as her father declared⁴. The king went home and reported his success. His daughter made herself ready, and, in order to avoid the sun-light, came in a litter with her nurse and her nurse's daughter. But, when they were on board ship nearing the coast, the nurse dropped a costly kerchief and begged the princess to have the door of the litter opened that she might recover it. Here-

¹ Text unpublished. Translation (here summarised) in B. Schmidt Griechische Märchen, Sagen und Volkslieder Leipzig 1877 pp. 98—104 no. 13 ('Der Riese vom Berge'), 230 f. = Hackman op. cit. p. 11 f. no. 3. The tale is a variant of a type first described by R. Köhler in L. Gonzenbach Sicilianische Märchen Leipzig 1870 ii. 225 ff. as 'das M. von dem Bruder und seiner schönen Schwester' and later studied in detail by P. Arfert Das Motiv von der unterschobenen Braut in der internationalen Erzählungs-literatur Rostock 1897 : see J. Bolte—G. Polívka Anmerkungen zu den Kinder- u. Hausmärchen der Brüder Grimm Leipzig 1913 i. 79 ff., 1918 iii. 85 ff.

² τὸν ἑλγαντα τοῦ βουνῶ. In Zakynthos giants, with a long beard on their chin and a single eye that sparkles like fire in their forehead, are said to live underground, where they quarry huge stones for building towers and cause the earthquakes that are so frequent in this island. They are the children of a devil and a Lámmissa (Lamia) or a witch ; and their wives spin yarn with spindles of such monstrous size and weight that once, when the giants made war on a certain king, their wives flung these spindles at the enemy and so slew thousands (B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 200 f.).

³ For a similar incident see 'The Scab-pate,' a folk-tale from Astypalaia (J. Pio ΝΕΟΕΛΛΗΝΙΚΑ ΠΑΡΑΜΥΘΙΑ Contes populaires grecs Copenhagen 1879 p. 162 f., E. M. Geldart Folk-Lore of Modern Greece London 1884 p. 157).

⁴ A similar situation occurs in a folk-tale from Epeiros (J. Pio op. cit. p. 17, E. M. Geldart op. cit. p. 37 f. 'The Golden Wand').

upon the sun shone in, and the princess, transformed at once into a lizard, fell into the sea. The nurse, having thus gained her end, substituted her own daughter for the princess. The Giant of the Mountain came out to meet them, riding on a high horse, with a sceptre in his right hand and a sword in his left. On opening the litter, he and the father of the bride were equally astonished to find an ugly wench instead of a beautiful princess. But, as the nurse explained that in five months' time the bride would regain her good looks, the Giant received her into his mountain along with her mother, though he punished the king by making him an ostler for a term of five years. The Giant's practice was to leave the mountain at dawn and return to it in the evening. He told his young wife that she might enter all the rooms of his castle except one. Curiosity forced her to enter the forbidden apartment, where she found the mother of the giants. This portentous creature was sitting on a stool, holding in one hand a large stone set in plates of gold and in the other an iron staff. Being able to predict the future, she told the would-be queen that she would live to rue her deceit, since the real princess was yet alive and already on her track. The maid fled and told her mother, who, to secure the death of the princess, informed the Giant that his wife was ill and wished all the fish in the harbour to be burnt before her eyes. This was done; but the princess had already escaped the water and been restored to her former shape. She found her father, who brought her to the Giant. The mother of the giants bade her son treat the nurse's daughter as the nurse's daughter had been minded to treat the princess; and the false bride was accordingly burnt. The Giant then married the princess and sent her father home a free man. Some months later the giant began to ill-treat his wife, because she was more friendly with his mother than he cared to be. The Giant's wife therefore fled on a ship to her former home. The Giant himself followed her, and bribed a goldsmith to shut him in a large golden coffer and sell him as a saint's relic to the king's daughter. The king's daughter bought the coffer, and proceeded to say her prayers before it. But, while thus engaged, she heard a slight noise, zicki zicki, and detected the Giant within. She shrieked aloud. Soldiers came up, ran a red-hot spit through the key-hole of the coffer, and so bored out the eye of the Giant inside it¹. They then took him and struck him on the ankle-bones till he died.

(5) The Three-eyed Ogre in a Folk-tale from Kypros².

A woodcutter's eldest daughter once married a passing merchant, who gave her a hundred and one keys. She might open a hundred chambers in his house, but not the one over. For all that, she opened it. Looking from its window she saw a ghastly sight. First, a corpse was borne out to burial without friends or mourners. Then, her husband appeared among the tombs, made himself a head as big as a sieve, three eyes, enormously long arms and hideous nails. With these he dug up the dead body and devoured it. At this she fell sick of a fever. Her husband returned, and found reason to suspect her of entering the forbidden room. He transformed himself successively into her mother, her relatives, and her nurse. In this final disguise he induced her to say what she had seen. He then suddenly turned into a Trimmatos or 'Three-eyed' ogre again, and prepared to eat her for not having kept his secret. Kindling a brasier, the flames of which licked the sky, he thrust into it a spit till it became red-hot, and went to fetch his wife. She begged for two hours' respite, slipped out of the window, and besought first a carter and next a camel-driver to hide her from the Trimmatos. The camel-driver took pity on her and concealed her in a bale of cotton. Meantime the ogre had discovered her escape. Starting in pursuit, he soon came up with the carter, who sent him on to the camel-driver. He thrust his glowing spit into each bale belonging to the latter before he was satisfied and took his departure. The spit had wounded his wife's foot. But the camel-driver took her, still in the bale, to the king's palace and told the king her story. The royal physician cured her foot; and she showed such skill in embroidery that the king and queen chose her as their daughter-in-law. She, fearing the vengeance of the ogre, bargained that the wedding should take place at night, that a bridal chamber should be built reached by seven flights of steps, that these steps should be strewn with chick-peas, that two pits should be dug at the bottom of the lowest flight and covered with matting, and that no one should be told a word about it all. Nevertheless the matter came to the ears of the Trimmatos, who, disguised as a merchant, repaired to the palace with negroes in his sacks. His former wife saw through his disguise, and signed to the queen to ask him what wares he had brought. He replied that he had pistachio-nuts, dried apricots, and chestnuts. The bride then said that she was indisposed and would like some of these fruits. The merchant tried to put her off till the morrow; but the king's jester, who was at table, went out to sample the wares and brought back word about the negroes. These were at once put to death. The merchant, however, made his escape. The same night he took the form of a Trimmatos once more, mounted to the bridal chamber, cast the dust of a corpse on the bride-groom to make him sleep soundly, seized the bride and dragged her off to be spitted for his meal. But on the way she gave him a sudden push; he slipped on the chick-peas, and fell into the pit, where he was devoured himself by a lion and a tiger. The bride fainted on the staircase. Next morning the physician brought the happy couple to their senses again; and the subsequent festivities lasted forty days and forty nights.

¹ In a folk-tale from Syra (E. M. Geldart op. cit. p. 16 f. 'The two brothers and the forty-nine dragons') the hero kills the Drakoi by thrusting red-hot spits through the chests in which they are concealed.

² Text in A. Sakellarios Tà Κυπριακά Athens 1868 iii. 136 ff. Translation (here condensed) in É. Legrand Recueil de contes populaires grecs Paris 1881 pp. xiv, 115—131 'Le Trimmatos ou l'ogre aux trois yeux.' The tale falls under the thirtieth or 'Bluebeard'-formula of J. G. von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 i. 56, on which see T. F. Crane Italian Popular Tales London 1885 p. 77 ff. and J. Bolte—G. Polivka Anmerkungen zu den Kinder- u. Hausmärchen der Brüder Grimm Leipzig 1913 i. 13 ff., 370 ff., and especially 398 ff.

Again, episode ii (β), the escape of the hero in a sheep-skin, forms part of a wonder-voyage entitled George and the Storks, which was related to L. Ross by a native of Psara or Ipsara, an island off the west coast of Chios:

(6) The Blind Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Psara¹.

Long, long ago there lived at Therapia near Constantinople a poor sailor, who bade three of his children—Dimitri, Michael, and George—go out into the world and seek their fortunes. So they took service with a captain and made many trips to Marseilles, Leghorn, Trieste, to Smyrna, to Alexandria, and to other Mediterranean ports. After two years they joined the crew of a fine frigate bound on a voyage of discovery. Passing through the Straits of

¹ L. Ross Erinnerung und Mittheilungen aus Griechenland Berlin 1863 pp. 279—298 'Georg und die Störche' = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 10 f. no. 2 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 440 f. no. 25. I abbreviate from Ross.

Gibraltar into the ocean beyond, they were caught by a terrible storm and driven for months before it. Their provisions were spent and they were starving. When one of their company died, the rest cut up, cooked, and ate his body. Then day by day they drew lots to determine who should be killed and eaten. Some ten days had elapsed when the lot fell on George, who had just had a happy dream of reaching shore. He persuaded his shipmates to spare him till the evening, and at midday land was sighted on the horizon. The crew, overjoyed, thanked God and St Nikolaos, and hastily rowed ashore. Here the three brothers got separated from the others, lost their way, and had to spend the night up a tree. The same thing happened on the morrow, and it was not till the morning of the third day that they got out of the wood.

On the plain beyond they saw a magnificent castle. A narrow door led into a wide courtyard, in which they found a great flock of sheep, but no trace of human beings. The castle too seemed quite unoccupied. They passed from room to room till they entered a banqueting-hall, where a feast was set out. Unable to make anybody hear, they at last sat down to eat, when suddenly through the door came a monstrous, misshapen, blind Drakos. In a voice which froze the blood in their veins he cried: 'I smell the flesh of men, I smell the flesh of men!' Pale with terror, they sprang from their seats. But the Drakos, guided by the sound, stretched out his hideous long claws and seized by the neck first Dimitri and then Michael. He dashed them to pieces on the floor. George alone escaped, being nimble, and slipped out into the courtyard. He found the little door fast-closed and the walls too high to climb. What was he to do? Terror suggested a plan. Whether it was that he had heard of the famous hero Odysseus¹, or thought of it now for himself, he drew his sharp seaman's knife, killed the biggest ram in the flock, stripped off its skin, threw the carcass into a well, wrapped himself in the skin, and attempted to creep out on all fours, as if he were a ram. Meantime the Drakos had finished his horrible meal, and came waddling down the marble steps, shouting: 'You shall not escape me, you shall make me a tasty supper!' He crossed the court to the little door, threw it open, and blocked the way with his ungainly body, leaving just room enough for one sheep to pass. Then he called his ewes one by one, milked them, and let them go through. Last came the rams, with George in their midst. He approached with fear and trembling. But the Drakos only stroked his back, praised his size and strength, and set him too at liberty.

Once safely outside, George fled to the nearest wood, wandered about in it, and on the third day reached a wide plain, where there was a large town built round a king's castle. But again all seemed empty and deserted. This time he did not venture into the castle, but lodged in an ordinary house. He had stayed there for rather more than five months, when one day he caught sight of a great army crossing the plain. He fled in alarm to a bakery and hid in the kneading-trough. Here he was discovered on the third day by the baker and taken before the king, by whom he was kindly treated. For six months he lived with the baker and helped in his work. Then one morning the inhabitants all collected on the plain, and the king despatched his people in troops to England, France, Italy, Smyrna, and the Dardanelles. Before George could ask the reason, they all went off towards a broad river at some distance from the town, plunged into it, and emerged on the other side as so many bands of storks! George now woke up to the fact that this was the land of the storks. Six months later he witnessed their return. A whole cloud of them settled on the further bank of the river, dived into it, and came out on the near side as men¹. He eagerly questioned them about Therapia, and begged the king to send him thither. The king assured him that this was impossible, unless he would consent to become a stork himself. Anxious to revisit his home, George agreed. So, when spring came round, he too dived into the river of transformation, and came out as a fine stork with long red beak, white feathers, and black wings. He flew to Therapia, married a beautiful she-bird, and built his nest on the roof of his father's house. He was so tame that he was soon welcomed in, and picked up crumbs under the low table with his long beak. When his old mother stroked his head and fed him with tit-bits, he chattered his best and made a hundred grotesque gestures to show his love and gratitude. But he could not make his kinsfolk understand that he was their long-lost George. At length he resolved to play a trick upon his sister Kathinko. She had a pair of silver armlets, which she had inherited from her grandmother. Waiting his opportunity, he carried off one of these and hid it in his nest. Kathinko and her mother looked for it in vain; they never thought of the stork. Meantime summer slipped away, and the storks departed—George among them. On reaching the land of the storks he begged the king to contrive his home-coming. So some weeks later the king had a boat built, laden with food, and launched on a river which flowed behind the town. He gave George a sack full of his costliest gems, and let him drift down the strong stream. After some hours the river plunged into a katabóthra and flowed for many hundreds of miles through a rocky channel. This must have taken weeks, though George lost count of days and nights in the darkness. At last he saw in the distance a star, which proved to be the daylight at the end of the channel. His boat was swept out into the open, and he saw before him the town of Smyrna; in fact, he found himself on the river² which gushes out of the rocks near that town. He went into the town and secured a lodging, but returned to his boat the same evening and fetched his bag of precious stones. Next day he sold a dozen of them to some Jews for two tons of gold. With this he bought fine clothes, a number of necessaries, and a big frigate, in which he sailed for Constantinople. He cast anchor off Therapia, saluted his birthplace by firing a number of guns, and invited on board the elders of the place. They came in their best clothes, and it so chanced that George's old father brought their boat alongside. George welcomed them to his table, but insisted that the old sailor must join their company and gave him a seat next himself. He sent each man away with a handful of gold pieces, and bade them come and feast with him on the morrow, only bargaining that the old sailor should bring his family with him³. When the hour arrived, he set wine before them and told them all of his wonderful experiences. 'Among other things,' said he, 'I was once a stork, and that here in Therapia.' At this all laughed and thought it a mere joke. But George proved the truth of his words by bidding a servant mount the old sailor's roof and fetch thence the armlet hidden in a stork's nest. He did so, and Kathinko recognised her trinket. Hereupon the old mother would have died of surprise, had she not been kept alive by joy at the recovery of her son. George settled in Therapia, built a fine house there, and maintained his parents in plenty. He endowed his sisters well and married them to honest men. He put up monuments to his luckless brothers and gave a donation to a church for masses to be said on their behalf. His descendants are well-to-do folk still living at Therapia and in the neighbourhood.

¹ It may be thought that this allusion proves the influence of the Homeric narrative. But observe that Odysseus' expedient was not that adopted by George. The former clung on beneath a living ram (ii (a)), the latter donned the fleece of a dead ram (ii (β)).

¹ The metamorphosis of storks into men in return for their filial piety is already noticed by Alexander of Myndos (c. 1—50 A.D.) (Ail. de nat. an. 3. 23 'Ἀλέξανδρος δὲ ὁ Μύνδιος φησιν, ὅταν ἐς γῆρας ἀφίκωνται (sc. οἱ πελαργοί), παρελθόντας αὐτοὺς ἐς τὰς Ἰσκιανίδας νήσους ἀμβέβειν τὰ εἶδη ἐς ἀνθρώπου μορφήν, καὶ εὐσεβείας γε τῆς ἐς τοὺς γεωγαμένους ἄθλον τοῦτο ἴσχειν, κ.τ.λ. See further D'Arcy W. Thompson A Glossary of Greek Birds Oxford 1895 p. 129 and O. Keller Die antike Tierwelt Leipzig 1913 ii. 196 f.

² The river Meles.

³ Perhaps a reminiscence of Gen. 42. 14 ff.

Lastly, episode iv, the name-trick, is the main feature of The Three Thieves, a very much transmogrified tale from Lesbos :

(7) The Name-trick in a Folk-tale from Lesbos¹.

'Once there was a good man whose fortune was in the sun². He went out on the hill, and saw three thieves who had killed a goat. They told him to cook it. Well, as they say, "a thief among thieves, and a liar among liars³"; so he nodded without speaking, and did as he was bid. They asked him his name, and he said 'Απατός—"Mr Self." When he had cooked the goat, he beat the three thieves soundly with the spit⁴, and they ran off howling. People asked them who did it? "Self!" said they, and got laughed at for their pains.'

An Albanian version, recorded at Piana de' Greci near Palermo, recognises two Kyklopes and gives each of them two pairs of eyes :

(8) The Kyklopes in an Albanian Folk-tale⁵.

'Once on a time there were two men travelling. Night fell upon them by the way, and it rained and thundered. Poor fellows, just think what a plight they were in! They saw a light far off and said, "Let's go and see if we can pass the night where that light is." And they went and came to the cave, for a cave it was where the light shone. They went in and saw that there were sheep and rams and two Cyclopes⁶, who had two eyes in front and two behind. The Cyclopes saw them come in and said one to the other, "Go to, here we have got something to eat." And they proposed to eat the two men. The poor fellows stayed there two days; then the Cyclopes felt the back of their necks and said, "Good! We'll eat one of them to-morrow." Meantime they made them eat to fatten them. For in the evening they would take a sheep and a ram, roast them on spits over the fire, and compel the poor wretches to devour them, entrails and all, just to fatten them. And every now and then they would feel the back of their necks, and one would say to the other, "They're getting on very well!" But the two men said to each other by words or signs, "Let us see whether we can escape." Now, as I said, two days passed, and on the second day the Cyclopes fell asleep and slumbered with all their eyes open. Nevertheless, when the two men saw the Cyclopes sleeping, they took the spits on which the sheep had been roasted, and they heated them in the fire. Then they took rams' skins

¹ Reported by W. H. D. Rouse in Folk-Lore 1896 vii. 154 f. = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 107 no. 125.

² ἡ τύχη του ἦτο 'ς τὸν ἥλιον, i.e. he had no means of subsistence.

³ κλέφτης μὲ τοὺς κλέφταις, καὶ ψεύτης μὲ τοὺς ψεύταις, i.e. do at Rome as the Romans do.

⁴ An attenuated form of episode i (a).

⁵ D. Comparetti Novelline popolari Italiane Torino 1875 pp. 308—310 no. 70 = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 12 f. no. 4 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 441 f. no. 27. I transcribe Frazer's rendering.

⁶ O. Hackman op. cit. p. 13 takes ciclopi to be a popular, not a learned, appellation: he cites ciropidhu as a dialect form from Messina (ib. p. 16 no. 9 and p. 169).

and clothed themselves in them, and going down on all fours they walked about in the rams' skins. Meanwhile the spits were heated, and each of the men took two, and going softly up to the sleeping Cyclopes, they jabbed the hot spits into their eyes. After that, they went down on all fours like sheep. The Cyclopes awoke blind, and gave themselves up for lost. But they took their stand at the door, each at a doorpost, just as they were, with all the spits sticking in their eyes. They let out all the sheep that were in the cave, saying, "The sheep will go out, and the men will stay in," and they felt the fleeces of the sheep to see whether the men were going out too. But the men had the sheep-skins on their backs, and they went on all fours, and when the Cyclopes felt them, they thought they were sheep. So the men escaped with their life, and when they were some way off, they put off the skins. Either the Cyclopes died or they know themselves what they did. That is the end of the story.'

A Sicilian tale from Erice, which G. Pitrè had from the lips of a girl only eight years old, contains the same two episodes—i (a), the blinding of the giant by means of a hot poker, and ii (β), the escape of the hero by putting on a sheep-skin :

(g) *The Kyklops in a Sicilian Folk-tale*¹.

'A couple of monks, one big, the other little, were once off on their yearly round, begging for the church, when they lost their way. However, they pushed on and came to a large cave, where a strange creature, a devil if they had but known it, was engaged in making a fire. Hoping to obtain shelter for the night, they entered the cave, and found the monster killing a sheep and roasting it. He had already killed and roasted a score of them, for he kept sheep in his cave. The monster bade the monks eat. At first they refused, saying that they were not hungry. But he forced them to fall to and finish the meal. They then went to bed. The monster took an enormous rock and placed it in front of the cave. Next he seized a huge iron poker with a sharp point, heated it, and thrust it through the neck of the bigger monk. He roasted the body, and asked his companion whether he would help eat it. The little monk said that he would not, because he was already full. The monster thereupon threatened to murder him, unless he would get up and eat. So in sheer terror he sprang up, sat at the table, and took a tiny morsel, but at once cast it on the floor. "Maria!" he cried, "I'm full, I am indeed!" In the course of the night the good man himself got hold of the poker, heated it, and stuck it into the monster's eyes, which gushed out of his head. The monster cried out in pain; and the monk in alarm slipped on a sheep-skin. Afterwards the monster, feeling his way to the mouth of the cave, raised the stone by which it was shut, and let his sheep out one by one. The monk made his escape among them, and got away to the coast at Trapani, where he told his story to some fishermen. Finally, the monster went fishing, but, being blind, fell over a rock and broke his skull. The sea grew red with his blood. Thus the young man went off, while the monster stayed there.'

Italian versions of the tale, as compared with Greek, are at once more numerous and less defective—a fact which suggests that the original centre of diffusion was Italy rather than Greece. Examples from the Abruzzo and from the neighbourhood of Rome contain, not only episodes i (α), the blinding, and ii (β), the escape, but also iii, the motif of the magical ring :

¹ G. Pitrè Fiabe novelle e racconti popolari siciliani Palermo 1875 i (= Biblioteca delle tradizioni popolari siciliane iv) p. lxxxviii ff., ii. 1 ff. no. 51 'Lu munacheddu' (for the dialect see A. Traina Nuovo vocabolario siciliano-italiano Palermo 1868)=T. F. Crane Italian Popular Tales London 1885 pp. 89 f., 345 n. 31=O. Hackman op. cit. p. 15 no. 8=Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 437 f. no. 22. I translate from Pitrè.

(10) The Kyklops in a Folk-tale from Roccascalegna in the Abruzzo¹.

'Four and twenty school-boys once went out for a walk. When they had gone a good distance, night came on. "We had better return," said the youngest of them, "or our master will scold us." "No," cried all the rest, "let us go to yonder inn." They did so, and knocked at the door. A voice from within asked: "Who is it?" "Friends," they replied. "I'm so glad you've come!" said Eye-on-forehead. He then made them enter and set about cooking a sheep in a caldron without skinning it first. The boys, disgusted, would not eat. Next day Eye-on-forehead seized a boy, and set about cooking him in the caldron; but the others would not eat him either. One by one Eye-on-forehead ate them all. Only one was left, the shrewdest of them all, and he said to Eye-on-forehead: "Why do you eat human flesh?" And Eye-on-forehead answered him: "Out of spite, because I've only one eye." "Then," continued the school-boy, "if I grow you another eye², will you let me go free?" "Yes," replied Eye-on-forehead. Thereupon the boy made the spit red-hot on the hearth, and said to Eye-on-forehead: "Shut your eye." He took that spit and drove it into the eye till it came out the other side. Eye-on-forehead was furious and wanted to eat him; but how could he see where the rascal was standing? Every day he used to send his sheep out to pasture, and seated himself in the door-way so as to prevent the boy from getting past; and he felt each sheep as it went by him. One day the boy dropped into the pen, skinned a sheep, put on its fleece and tried walking on all fours. When the time for pasture had come, Eye-on-forehead, thinking he was a sheep, sent him out. Once outside, the boy began to shout: "I'm out! I'm out!" Eye-on-forehead, thus informed, took and flung a ring. This ring went straight on to the finger of the boy and he could not stir from where he stood. What could he do? Eye-on-forehead, groping round, was like to catch him again. But an idea struck him: he would cut off the finger, on which that cursed ring was; and so he did. Having cut it off, he began to hurry away. Eye-on-forehead found the finger, ate it, and said to the boy as he ran: "So you didn't want me to eat your flesh? But for all that I've had a taste of it!" The boy got back home and told his mother all about it.'

(11) The Kyklops in a Folk-tale from the vicinity of Rome³.

A master was travelling with his servant through a wide wood. They came to a great cavern, where dwelt the Occhiaro ('Bright-eye'), a monster with only ¹ G. Finamore Tradizioni popolari Abruzzesi Lanciano 1882 i (Novelle) 190 f. no. 38 'Lu fatte dell' uocchie-'n-frónde' = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 17 no. 10. I translate from Finamore. For a very similar version (i (α) + ii (β) + iii), likewise from the Abruzzo, see A. de Nino Usi e costumi Abruzzesi Firenze 1883 iii (Fiabe) 305—307 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 416 ff. no. 7.

² Episode i (α) is here crossed by episode i (β), the southern by the northern form (supra p. 988). The same contamination is found in a variant from Vasto in the Abruzzo (G. Finamore Tradizioni popolari Abruzzesi Lanciano 1886 ii (Novelle) 57 f. no. 68 'La favulette dell' ucchie-'m-brande' = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 17 f. no. 11). Episode i (β) takes the place of i (α) in a version recorded at Pisa (D. Comparetti Novelline popolari Italiane Torino 1875 pp. 192—195 no. 44 'Il Fiorentino' = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 18 f. no. 12 = Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 418 f. no. 8).

³ C. Nyrop 'Sagnet om Odysseus og Polyphem' in the Nordisk Tidsskrift for Filologi 1881 v. 239—240 = O. Hackman op. cit. p. 13 f. no. 5. I translate from Hackman.

one big brilliant eye. The Occhiaro closed the cavern with a great stone, and then slaughtered the servant and ate him up. After that he lay down and went to sleep. The master drew his sword, plunged it into the Occhiaro's eye, and so blinded him. The Occhiaro howled till the cavern rang again. In the night the man slaughtered a sheep and wrapped himself in its skin. Next morning the Occhiaro let the sheep out of the cavern one by one and felt them as he did it. The man in the sheep-skin luckily got out and then mocked at the Occhiaro. He flung him a ring, with which to make himself invisible. The man stuck the ring on his finger. Thereupon the Occhiaro cried: 'Hold fast, ring, till I come.' The man could no longer stir from the spot; so he chopped the finger off with his sword and made his escape.

To pursue the subject beyond the limits of Greece and Italy would be beside my purpose. But it must of course be borne in mind that the variants noted in classical lands are essentially similar to those collected from the rest of Europe. A single specimen will suffice to make this clear, and may at the same time show how such a tale, drifting along the current of popular mouth-to-mouth transmission, may attach itself to some landmark or salient feature of the countryside and become fixed as a local legend with names of persons and places all complete.

(12) The Kyklops in an English Folk-tale.

In 1879 S. Baring-Gould contributed the following paragraph to W. Henderson's *Folk-Lore of the Northern Counties*¹: 'At Dalton, near Thirsk, in Yorkshire, is a mill. It has quite recently been rebuilt, but when I was at Dalton, six years ago, the old building stood. In front of the house was a long mound, which went by the name of "the giant's grave²," and in the mill was shown a long blade of iron something like a scythe-blade, but not curved, which was said to have been the giant's knife³. A curious story was told of this knife. There lived a giant at this mill, and he ground men's bones to make his bread. One day he captured a lad on Pilmoor, and instead of grinding him in the mill he kept him as his servant and never let him get away. Jack served the giant many years and never was allowed a holiday. At last he could bear it no longer. Topcliffe fair was coming on, and the lad entreated that he might be allowed to go there to see the lasses and buy some spice. The giant surlily refused leave; Jack resolved to take it. The day was hot, and after dinner the giant lay down in the mill with his head on a sack and dozed. He had been eating in the mill and had laid down a great loaf of bone bread by his side, and the knife was in his hand, but his fingers relaxed their hold of it in sleep. Jack seized the moment, drew the knife away, and holding it with both hands drove the blade into the single eye of the giant, who woke with a howl of agony, and starting up ¹ W. Henderson Notes on the Folk-Lore of the Northern Counties of England and the Borders London 1879 p. 194 f., S. Baring-Gould 'The Giant of New Mills, Sessay' [Dalton is in the parish of Sessay] in Folk-Lore 1890 i. 130=O. Hackman op. cit. p. 33 no. 28=Sir J. G. Frazer loc. cit. p. 430 f. no. 18.

² S. Baring-Gould in W. Henderson op. cit. p. 196 n. adds: 'I am told by one of our servants from Dalton that at the rebuilding of the farm the mound was opened, and a stone coffin found in it; but whether this be a kistvaen or a mediæval sarcophagus I cannot tell.'

³ Id. in Folk-Lore loc. cit. says further: 'in the mill was shown...the giant's...stone porridge-basin or lather-dish.'

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1003 barred the door. Jack was again in difficulties, but he soon found a way out of them. The giant had a favourite dog which had also been sleeping when his master was blinded. Jack killed the dog, skinned it, and throwing the hide over his back ran on all fours barking between the legs of the giant, and so escaped.¹

APPENDIX F.

THE DIOSKOUROI AND HELENE IN MODERN FOLK-TALES.

Attention may here be called to a group of modern Greek and Italian folk-tales, which are related to the myth of the Dioskouroi, as I shall presently point out. The group was first recognised as such by that excellent investigator J. G. von Hahn, who included it under his fourth or 'expulsion' formula, though he failed fully to perceive its affinity with classical myths¹.

(a) Sun, Moon, and Star in a Folk-tale from Greece.

(1) A good example of the group in question is the modern Greek story of the Tzitzinaina, which runs as follows². An old woman once had three daughters, poor and hard-working girls. The eldest said: 'If I had for husband the king's pastry-man, I should eat cake.' The second said: 'If I had his cook, I should taste all the royal dishes.' The third said: 'I would like the king himself. Then I should have all his treasures, and should bear him three children, Sun, Moon, and Star.' It so chanced that the king overheard them talking and granted their several desires. But when the third sister became queen, she was hated by the king's mother. She was about to bring forth Sun, when the king was called off to a war and entrusted her to his mother. This cruel woman bade the midwife put the new-born babe in a box, fling it into the sea, and place a puppy dog instead beside the queen. The same sorry scene was enacted a second and a third time. A cat was substituted for Moon, and a snake for Star, the children being each in turn sent adrift on the sea. The king, disappointed and angry, walled up the queen in the jakes. The children one after the other were washed up at the foot of a mountain, on which dwelt a hermit. He cared for them till they were grown and then sent the two brothers Sun and Moon with their sister Star to the neighbouring town. Meantime the midwife had learnt of the children's escape and, wishing to destroy them, sought out Star and told her that she was beautiful but might be more so, if only she possessed the golden apple kept by forty dragons in a garden. Sun, who had been out to the bazar and bought of a Jew a mysterious box, now opened it, found inside a green winged horse and set out upon him to get the golden apple. The horse caused a flash of lightning and a clap of thunder, under cover of which Sun secured the apple and brought it back to Star. Again the midwife passed by and told Star that she needed, to make her more beautiful still, the golden bough on which all the birds of the world met to sing. Sun remounted his horse, which, as before, promised to lighten and thunder and advised his master to take a hatchet to cut a branch from the tree. Sun did so, and returned in safety with the golden bough. Once more the midwife passed by, and this time suggested that Star, to perfect her beauty, needed the Tzitzinaina, who knew the language of the birds and could explain their song. But to obtain the Tzitzinaina proved a harder task. For, when Sun and his horse reached her house and thrice summoned her to come forth, she turned them both into marble, first up to the knees, next up to the thighs, and then up to the waist. At this crisis the young man remembered that he had about him some hairs from the beard of the hermit, which he was to burn if ever he required assistance. He burnt one now. The hermit appeared, and bade the Tzitzinaina restore to life all those whom she had petrified. She sprinkled them with water of immortality and so recovered them. Among the rescued was Moon, whom his brother and sister had lost. The hermit now made the Tzitzinaina act as their mother. She explained to them the language of the birds and everything else that they wanted to know. One day the king met them out and asked them to dine with him on the morrow. The Tzitzinaina told them to take a puppy with them and give it a slice. They did so, and the puppy died. The young folk protested that they had no wish to be poisoned, and invited the king to dine with them on the next day. The Tzitzinaina, when the king sat down to their empty table, clapped her hands thrice and a grand meal appeared. After dinner the king asked Sun, Moon, and Star what they wished for most. They, instructed by the Tzitzinaina, craved the release of the woman hidden in the jakes. She was brought out, washed, clothed, and presented to the king by the Tzitzinaina, who told him all the facts. Thereupon the king in high delight took back his queen to the palace. But the king's mother and the midwife were fastened to four horses, which dragged them along the road and, on being lashed, tore them asunder.

¹ J. G. von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 i. 46, T. F. Crane Italian Popular Tales London 1885 pp. 17, 325. On the 'expulsion' formula see infra p. 1012.

² Text by G. Ch. B. in the Νεοελληνικά ἀνάλεκτα Athens 1871 i. 17 ff., French translation by É. Legrand Recueil de contes populaires grecs Paris 1881 pp. 77—93. I have condensed Legrand's version.

(β) Sun, Moon, and Morning-Star in a Folk-tale from Syra.

(2) A Greek tale from Syra is very similar¹. A poor old couple once had three hard-working daughters. The eldest of them wished that she had for husband the king's cook: then she would eat of the good things on his table. The next wished for the king's treasurer: then she would have plenty of money. The youngest, for the king himself: then she would bear him three children, Sun, Moon, and Morning-star. The prince² overheard them wishing, granted their desires, and married the youngest of them, much against his mother's will. When the young queen was about to bear the children, her mother-in-law bade the midwife substitute a dog, a cat, and a mouse for them, and fling the three children into the river. But the midwife had pity on the little brats and laid them down on a bed of rushes. Here a childless herdsman found them fed by one of his goats. He brought them to his wife, who tended them carefully; and, when they were grown up, he built them a tower to live in. As for the queen, at the time of her confinement the king was absent on a campaign. So his mother put her in the hen-house, and told him on his return that his wife, instead of Sun, Moon, and Morning-star, had given birth to a dog, a cat, and a mouse. The king was so upset that he did not ask what had become of the queen. For long he was inconsolable. At last one day he roused himself, went for a ride, and saw Sun and Morning-star exercising their horses near the tower and Moon watching them from a window. He thought the young folk just like those whom his wife had promised to bear, and that night he told his mother about them. She taxed the midwife with neglecting her orders. So the midwife went off, obtained by guile an entrance into the tower, and told Moon that she was indeed beautiful, but that she needed one thing to complete her happiness—the branch that makes music. Her brothers Sun and Morning-star consented to get it. They set off, and met a monk, who told them all about it. It was kept by two dragons, who would swallow them if they approached by day, but who snored with open mouth at midnight and might then be shot. The young men followed the monk's directions, shot the dragons, broke off the branch, and brought it back to their sister. The king, who on his rides past the tower had missed them, now told his mother of their return. She again sent the midwife, who paid a second visit to the tower. The girl Moon showed her a tree outside the house, which had grown apace from the planted branch making music continually and producing every morning a dishful of precious stones. The midwife, duly astonished, said that she still needed a mirror showing all towns, villages, lands, and princes. The brothers went off to seek it, and again met the monk. He told them that it was guarded by forty dragons, who by day kept watch, twenty on one side, twenty on the other, and by night slept in a row. About midnight they snored so loud that the mountains re-echoed. The brothers must then tread across their bodies with the greatest care. This they did, and brought the mirror to their sister. The king again noticed their absence and their return. He told his mother. She sent the midwife once more, who said to Moon that the only thing now lacking was the bird Dikjeretto: he understood all languages and by looking in the mirror would be able to tell her what people were saying all the world over. The brothers suspected that this quest would be the death of them. So they gave their sister two shirts, which she was to look at daily: if the shirts turned black, she would know that they had failed. This time, when they met the monk, he refused to help them. However, they pressed on, and the bird by his glance turned first one and then the other into stone. Moon knew of the disaster because the two shirts turned as black as coal. In her grief she set out on horseback to die with her brothers. The monk met her, had compassion on her, and explained that many a prince had failed in this enterprise because they had made the attempt in their clothes. She must strip herself of everything, attack the bird from behind before he was aware of her presence through the rustling of her clothes, and so grasp him by the feet. She did as she was bidden, caught the bird, and asked him where her brothers were. He showed her where they stood, and pointed out a mountain which opened at midday and contained a spring: if she were quick enough, she might slip in and get the water of life from the spring; if not, the mountain would close upon her, and they would be ruined. The maiden with the bird on her hand performed the feat with the utmost speed; but even so the mountain as it closed caught a piece of her clothing, and she had to draw her sword and cut it off. She sprinkled her brothers with the water, and they awoke as from a deep sleep. All who had been petrified on the spot were now in turn sprinkled and accompanied the happy party back to the tower, where the herdsman overjoyed at the return of his fosterlings slew forty lambs and poured out wine in abundance: the feasting lasted three days and three nights. The king, hearing of it, went out to see whether the children were there. They showed him the greatest respect, and he invited them to be his guests on the following Sunday. The bird told the young people to take him too along with them, adding that the king was their father. At the royal table both the king's mother and the midwife were present, when the bird from his cage revealed the whole tale. The king sprang up and kissed his children. His wife was fetched from the hen-house, clad in queenly garments, and brought to her children Sun, Moon, and Morning-star. The midwife had her head cut off; and the king's mother was banished from the palace.

¹ Text unpublished, German translation by J. G. von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 ii. 40 ff. I have condensed the version of von Hahn.

² In the sequel he is called king.

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1005

(γ) Morning-Star and Evening-Star in a Folk-tale from Epeiros.

(3) A tale from the village of Çágori in Epeiros has some variations of interest¹. Three sisters once sat on a balcony near the king's castle. The eldest said: 'I wish I sat at the king's table; how I should relish it!' The second said: 'I wish I were in the king's treasury; how I should help myself to money!' The youngest said: 'I wish I were married to the prince; I would bear him a boy and a girl as beautiful as the morning-star and the evening-star².' The prince overheard them wishing and granted all their wishes. But, when his young wife was about to be delivered of the children, he had to go off to a war. He entrusted her, therefore, to his mother. She, however, as soon as the little ones were born, put them in a basket and bade the midwife fling it into the river. She also slipped a dog and a cat into the cradle. When the poor wife wanted to see her offspring, she was dismayed indeed at their appearance. The prince now returned victorious from the war, but was so shocked at the news with which he was greeted that for three days he was speechless. Then he gave orders that his wife, who could deny nothing, should be walled up at the entrance of his castle so that only her head showed, and that every one who passed by should spit at her and strike her in the face. Meantime the basket in which the children lay floated to the house of certain dragons, who pulled it out of the water. They kept the children till the age of ten, then put them on a lame horse, and left them in the streets of the town to their fate. People wanted to know where they came from; and the children replied that they themselves did not know. At last the lame nag brought them to the house of a poor old woman, who out of pity took them in. Next morning she was astonished to find a handful of gold coins on the spot where the children had slept. The same thing occurred every morning, and she and they lived happily on the money. One day the king came by and noticed the morning-star on the face of the boy and the evening-star on that of the girl. He sighed and thought of the children that his wife had promised him. Indeed, he became so fond of these two that he brought them into his palace, hunted with them, and would never be without them. But his mother at once perceived who they were, and consulted with the midwife how best to get rid of them. The midwife came to the girl and said: 'You are a beautiful maiden, but you would be more beautiful still, if your brother had the winged horse of the plain.' The brother readily promised to go in quest of it. He rode forth and met an old woman, who told him of a plain near by so large that it took a man six days to cross it, though the winged horse was across it in one. The said horse ate men and beasts. If he would capture it, he must hide behind the thicket by the spring from which it drank, and at the moment when it stooped its head in drinking must leap on to its back and never dismount till it swore by its brother to serve him. The lad carried out her advice to the letter. The horse swore to serve him by its head—by its tail—by its saddle—by its foot—and lastly by its brother. The boy then dismounted, put a bridle on it, and brought it back to his sister. The king was so pleased at his success that he gave him a small kingdom. But the grandmother again plotted with the nurse for his destruction. The nurse went a second time to the girl and said: 'You are beautiful, sweetheart, but you would be more beautiful still, if you had the Beauty of the Land.' The brother set out to get her without delay. The Beauty of the Land was a woman beautiful beyond compare, who lived on the far side of a river. Whoever wanted to carry her off had to traverse the dry bed of the river: his horse must there whinny aloud, and, if she heard it whinnying, he would be able to ride through, but, if she heard it not, he and his horse would there and then be turned into stone. When the lad came to the dried up river, he bade the winged horse whinny his loudest. The horse did so, but the Beauty of the Land heard nothing. 'We are lost!' cried the horse. 'Courage!' said the lad, 'whinny once more.' This time the Beauty of the Land heard and answered. The lad rode over and carried her off; and, as they crossed the dry river-bed, a number of people who were petrified there came to life again and escorted them home, remaining with them till the marriage between the young man and the Beauty of the Land was celebrated. The king was greatly delighted at all this. But the king's mother plotted once again with the nurse to poison the young people. Soon afterwards the king invited them to a feast. Before they went, the Beauty of the Land revealed everything to her husband, counseling him not to strike in the face the poor walled up woman who was his own mother and at table to eat only of those dishes of which she herself ate. When the bride, the bridegroom, and the bridegroom's sister ate only of the dishes set before the king, the king pressed them to eat of others also. They told him that the rest were poisoned. He hurled the whole meal out of the window with his own hand and ordered another. Afterwards the Beauty of the Land begged him to send for the walled up woman. On her arrival the three young folk stood up and kissed her. The Beauty of the Land told the whole tale to the king, who embraced his children and his wife. But he had his mother and the midwife each bound to four horses and torn into quarters.

¹ Text unpublished, German translation by J. G., von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 ii. 287 ff. As before, I have condensed from von Hahn.

² πῶλια (sic) is the original word, according to von Hahn. But N. Contopoulos *Greek-English Lexicon*⁵ Athens 1903 makes πῶλια, -as, mean 'the pleiades, the seven stars in the constellation Taurus.'

(δ) Three Golden Children in a Folk-tale from Euboea.

(4) A variant hails from Hagia Anna, a small town in the north-east of Euboea¹. The third sister said: 'I would bear the prince three golden children.' She bore a golden child, while her husband was on a campaign; but the cruel mother-in-law flung it into the hen-house and substituted for it a small dog. When her son returned and asked after the child that his wife had borne, she replied: 'What is to be done? She is a dog and a dog she has borne.' And the prince made answer: 'Dog though it be, it will watch my house.' The second child she flung into the hen-house and replaced by a cat; and the prince on his return was told of it and replied: 'Cat though it be, it will clear my house of mice.' For the third child she substituted a snake. Then the prince came back and gave orders that his wife should be flung into the hen-house. There the mother-in-law, who did not want her to die of hunger, brought her food in secret. When the boys had grown up, one day the king bade his heralds summon all his people to assemble before his castle. The boys heard of it, broke their way out of the hen-house and went to the assembly. The king noticed them, and was so pleased with them that he wanted to take them into his castle. But they said that they could not come without their mother; and, when the king asked 'Who is your mother?', they replied 'She is the woman whom you shut up in the hen-house' and told him all that had happened. Thereupon he brought his wife out of the hen-house, but had his mother bound to two vicious mules and torn asunder by them.

¹ Text unpublished, German summary by J. G. von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 ii. 291 f. I translate from von Hahn.

(e) Two Sons with Apples and a Daughter with a Star in a Folk-tale from Sicily.

(5) A Sicilian parallel to the foregoing tales is entitled *The Herb-gatherer's Daughters*¹. A herb-gatherer died and left three daughters alone in the world. The eldest said: 'If I were the wife of the royal butler; I would give the whole court to drink out of one glass of water, and there would be some left.' The second said: 'If I were the wife of the keeper of the royal wardrobe, with one piece of cloth I would clothe all the attendants, and have some left.' The youngest said: 'Were I the king's wife, I would bear him three children—two sons with apples in their hands, and a daughter with a star on her brow.' The king happened to overhear them talking and sent for them next morning. The eldest and the second sister made good their promises and received in marriage the royal butler and the keeper of the royal wardrobe. The youngest became queen on condition that, if she failed to bear two sons with apples in their hands and a daughter with a star on her brow, she should be put to death. A few months before the queen's children were born the king went on a campaign. When they were born as she had foretold, the two elder sisters, jealous of her lot, bribed the nurse to substitute little dogs for them and sent word to the king that his wife had given birth to three puppies. He wrote back that she should be taken care of for two weeks and then put into a tread-mill. Meanwhile the nurse carried the babies out of doors and left them for the dogs to eat. Three fairies passed by, admired them, and gave them three gifts—a deer to nurse them, a purse always full of money, and a ring that would change colour when any misfortune befell one of them. The deer nursed the children till they were grown up. Then the fairy that had given the deer came and said: 'Now that you have grown up, how can you stay here any longer?' 'Very well,' said one of the brothers, 'I will go to the city and hire a house.' 'Take care,' said the deer, 'that you hire one opposite the royal palace.' So they all went to the city and hired a palace as directed. The aunts, seeing the apples in the hands of the boys and the star on the brow of the girl, recognised them at once and told the nurse. The nurse visited the girl and said that, to be really happy, she needed the Dancing Water. One of the brothers rode off to get it. On the way he met a hermit, who said: 'You are going to your death, my son; but keep on until you find a hermit older than I.' He met another hermit, who gave him the same direction. He met a third hermit older than the other two, who said: 'You must climb yonder mountain. On the top of it you will find a great plain and a house with a beautiful gate. Before the gate you will see four giants with swords in their hands. When the giants have their eyes closed, do not enter; when they have their eyes open, enter. Then you will come to a door. If you find it open, do not enter; if you find it shut, push it open and enter. Then you will find four lions. When they have their eyes shut, do not enter; when their eyes are open, enter, and you will see the Dancing Water.' The lad followed these instructions, filled his bottles with the Dancing Water, and returned in safety to his sister. They had two ¹ G. Pitre Fiabe novelle e racconti popolari siciliani Palermo 1875 i (= Biblioteca delle tradizioni popolari siciliane iv) 316 ff. no. 36 'Li figghi di lu Cavuliccidaru' (Palermo). There is a slightly condensed translation of this tale in T. F. Crane Italian popular tales London 1885 p. 17 ff. I have abbreviated T. F. Crane's version.

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1009

golden basons made, and the Dancing Water leaped from one to the other. Again the aunts told the nurse, and again the nurse visited the girl and said that now she wanted the Singing Apple. The same brother rode off to get it. After a time he met the first hermit, who sent him to an older one, <who sent him to an older one still>. He said: 'Climb the mountain; beware of the giants, the door, and the lions; then you will find a little door and a pair of shears in it; if the shears are open, enter; if closed, do not risk it.' The lad did so, and found everything favourable. When he saw the shears open, he went into a room and saw a wonderful tree, on the top of which was an apple. He climbed up and tried to pick the apple, but the top of the tree swayed now this way, now that. He waited until it was still a moment, seized the branch, and picked the apple. He got away in safety and, as he rode home, the apple kept making a sound. Once more the aunts told the nurse, and once more the nurse visited the girl and said that, should she set eyes on the Speaking Bird, there would be nothing left for her to see. The same brother undertook the quest. As before, he met the first hermit, who sent him to the second, who sent him to the third, who said: 'Climb the mountain and enter the palace. You will find many statues. Then you will come to a garden, in the midst of which is a fountain, and on the bason is the Speaking Bird. If it should say anything to you, do not answer. Pick a feather from the bird's wing, dip it into a jar that you will find there, and anoint all the statues. Keep your eyes open, and all will go well.' The lad soon found the garden and the bird. But, when the bird exclaimed 'Your mother has been sent to the tread-mill,' 'My mother in the tread-mill?' he cried, and straightway became a statue like all the rest. In the meantime his sister at home looked at her ring and saw that it had changed its colour to blue. So she sent the second brother after the first. Everything happened to him in the same way. He too met the hermits, found the palace, saw the garden with the statues, and heard the Speaking Bird. And, when the bird said 'What has become of your brother? Your mother has been sent to the tread-mill,' he too cried out 'Alas, my mother in the tread-mill!' and became a statue. The sister now looked at her ring again, and it was black. Thereupon she dressed herself like a page and set out. She met the hermits and received their instructions. The third ended by saying: 'Beware, for, if you answer when the bird speaks, you will lose your life.' When she reached the garden, the bird exclaimed: 'Ah! you here, too? Now you will meet the same fate as your brothers. Do you see them? One, two, and you make three. Your father is at the war. Your mother is in the tread-mill. Your aunts are rejoicing.' She made no answer, but caught it, pulled a feather from its wing, dipped it into the jar, and anointed her brothers' nostrils. The brothers at once came to life again. Then she did the same to all the other statues, the lions, and the giants: all were restored to life. After that she departed with her brothers; and all the noblemen, princes, barons, and kings' sons rejoiced greatly. When they had recovered their life, the palace disappeared; and so did the hermits, for they were the three fairies. On reaching the city they had a gold chain made for the bird; and, the next time that the aunts looked out, they saw in the window of the palace opposite the Dancing Water, the Singing Apple, and the Speaking Bird. 'Well,' said they, 'the real trouble is coming now!' At length the king returned from the war and noticed the palace opposite equipped more magnificently than his own. When he saw the brothers with apples in their hands and the sister with a star on her brow, he cried: 'Gracious! If I did not know that my wife had given birth to three puppies, I should say that those were my children.' Another day, as he stood by the window and enjoyed the Dancing Water and the Singing Apple, the Speaking Bird spoke to him and bade the sister and brothers invite him to a grand dinner on Sunday. At the dinner the bird got a counter-invitation for them all to dine with the king on the Sunday following. When they were assembled at the king's table, the bird related the whole story, ending with the words: 'These are your children, and your wife was sent to the mill and is dying.' The king at once embraced his children, and went to find his wife, who was at the point of death. He knelt before her and begged her pardon. Then he asked the bird to pronounce sentence on the aunts and the nurse. The bird sentenced the nurse to be thrown out of the window and the aunts to be cast into a caldron of boiling oil. This was done forthwith. Then the bird departed; and the king lived in peace with his children and his wife.

(5) Two Sons with a Gold Star and a Daughter with a Silver Star in a Folk-tale from Brittany.

(6) It must not be supposed that tales of this type are found only in the Greek and Italian area. Here, for example, is a version entitled The Baker's Three Daughters from Plouaret in Brittany¹. An old baker had three daughters, who one evening after supper were talking confidences. The eldest said that she loved the king's gardener. The next, that she loved the king's valet. The youngest, that she loved the king's son, and, what was more, that she would have by him three children—two boys with a gold star on their foreheads and a girl with a silver star. The prince chanced to be taking a walk that evening, accompanied by his gardener and his valet. He overheard the conversation, summoned the girls to his presence next morning, and granted the desires of them all. The young queen was delivered of a fine boy with a gold star in the middle of his forehead. But the jealous sisters, acting on the advice of an old fairy, had secured a midwife, who exposed the babe in a basket on the Seine and substituted a puppy for him. The prince was much distressed, but bowed to the will of God. The babe floated down the river, was picked up by the king's gardener, and reared by the gardener's wife. Again the queen bore a boy with a gold star on his forehead. The midwife exposed him too in a basket on the Seine, and substituted a puppy for him. The prince, who by this time owing to the death of his father was king, was again deeply distressed, but submissive to the will of God. The second boy, like the first, floated down stream, was found by the gardener, and given to the gardener's wife. Once more the queen bore a child—a girl with a silver star in the middle of her forehead. The midwife exposed her in the same manner and substituted a puppy for her. This time the king was very angry: he felt that it was not God's doing, but that there was some mystery behind it all. So he had the queen shut up in a tower, with nothing but bread and water to live upon and a little book to read. The girl, like the boys, was found on the water by the gardener and reared by his wife. In due time their foster-parents died, and the children were taken into the palace by the king, who liked to have them about him. Every Sunday they were to be seen in the royal pew at church, each wearing a head-band to cover up the star: these head-bands puzzled people. One day, when the king was out hunting, an old woman (it was the midwife disguised as a beggar) came to the palace and began to compliment the girl: she was fair indeed, but if only she had the Dancing Water, the Singing Apple, and the Bird of Truth, there would not be her like upon earth! Her eldest brother set out to seek these marvels for her, and, before he went, gave her a dagger : she was to pull it out of its sheath several times daily for a year and a day ; if ever it would not come out, she might know that he was dead. A day arrived when she failed to draw the dagger : her eldest brother must be dead. The second brother now set out to seek him, and, before he went, gave her a rosary : she was to tell the beads constantly ; if one stuck, she might know that he was dead. A day came when one did stick : he too must be dead. So she bought a horse, dressed as a cavalier, and set out herself in quest of them. She went on and on till she reached a large plain. Here in the hollow of an old tree she saw a little man with a long white beard, who saluted her as the daughter of the king of France. She denied the title, but offered to clip his beard, which must be in his way, she thought. By so doing she delivered him : for five hundred years people had passed that way and no one had helped him. He therefore gave her his blessing, and told her how to find her brothers. Sixty leagues off was a road-side inn, where she was to eat, drink, and leave her horse. Soon afterwards she would find herself close to a very high mountain, terribly hard to climb. A wild wind would burst upon her. There would be hail, snow, ice, and cruel cold to contend with. On either side of the path would be seen many stone pillars—men, who had essayed to climb the mountain, lost heart, and been petrified on the spot. Once at the top, she would see a plain covered with turf and May flowers. Beneath an apple-tree would appear a golden seat. On this she was to sit and feign sleep. A blackbird would then hop down from branch to branch of the apple-tree, and enter a cage beneath it. She was to shut the cage quickly, and would so have secured the Bird of Truth. Next she would cut a branch from the apple-tree with an apple on it ; it would be the Singing Apple. Lastly, she was to fill a phial with water from a fountain beneath the tree ; this was the Dancing Water. On her way down the mountain she was to spill a drop of water on each stone pillar : from every one would come a cavalier, her own two brothers among them. All these directions she faithfully carried out. Passing through the intense cold on the mountain-side she reached the top, where the sky was clear and the air warm, as though it were summer. She sat on the golden seat below the apple-tree, feigned sleep, and duly secured the Bird of Truth, which again addressed her as daughter of the king of France. She next cut a branch of the apple-tree with one apple on it, filled her phial with water from the fountain, sprinkled and set free all the princes, dukes, barons, and cavaliers, who had been turned into stones, and last of all restored to life her own two brothers. They did not recognise their sister : so she hurried on, and got home first. On their arrival they told her how they had failed in the quest, and spoke of a young cavalier of surpassing beauty who had freed them from their fate. Meantime the old king, who loved the children, as he supposed, of his sister-in-law, was glad to see them all back again, and invited them to a banquet. Towards the end of it the young girl placed on the table the Dancing Water, the Singing Apple, and the Bird of Truth, and bade them do their business. So the Water danced, the Apple sang, and the Bird told the whole story to the assembled company. To prove the truth of it he bade the head-bands be removed from the two brothers and their sister : whereupon it was seen that each of the lads had a gold star on his forehead, and the young girl a silver star. The king fainted away. Recovering himself, he went and fetched the queen from her solitary tower. Despite twenty years' imprisonment, she was still beautiful and gracious. She ate and drank a little, and then—died where she sat ! The king, mad with grief and rage, had a furnace heated in the field, into which his sister-in-law and the midwife were cast.

¹ Text unpublished, French translation by F. M. Luzel in Mélusine 1878 i. 206 ff. I have abridged F. M. Luzel's rendering.

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1011

(7) The Myth of Zethos and Amphion as an 'Expulsion' Tale.

It would be easy, but needless, to cite other variants. Tales of this type are, in fact, spread throughout the south of Europe, and with sundry modifications and adaptations could be traced yet further afield¹. J. G. von Hahn, regarding them as essentially tales of 'expulsion' (Verstossung), formulated their common characteristics as follows²:

- (a) Jealous relatives deprive the mother of her new-born children, who are found and brought up at a distance from the father's home by a childless foster-parent.
- (b) Beasts are substituted for the new-born children; or the mother is accused of having devoured them.
- (c) Expulsion or punishment of the mother.
- (d) The children, found again by the father, deliver the mother.

Von Hahn has done good service by thus emphasising the permanent features of the tale. But, when he states that they cannot be illustrated from Greek mythology³, he has somewhat seriously misconceived the situation and has thereby missed a certain number of interesting parallels. Ancient Greek folk-tales have for the most part come down to us through the discriminating sieve of ancient Greek literature. Sometimes, as in the case of Sophokles, that sieve had a very fine mesh, the result being that the primitive traits still to be seen in Sophoclean dramas are but few. Sometimes, as in the case of Euripides, the mesh was broad, and traits of this kind are comparatively numerous. Nevertheless, Euripides too made his appeal to one of the most aesthetically cultivated audiences of all time; and it is certain that he would not have thought the folk-tale as outlined above immediately suitable for dramatic presentation in the theatre at Athens. How, then, would Euripides, say, have manipulated such a theme to suit his purpose? We may here with some assurance hazard a twofold guess. On the one hand, he would have excised the whole of the second or bestial episode: nowhere in Greek tragedy do we find any precedent for a scene which, to Euripides' gener-

¹ See L. Gonzenbach Sicilianische Märchen Leipzig 1870 i. 19 ff. no. 5 'Die verstossene Königin und ihre beiden ausgesetzten Kinder,' ib. ii. 206 f., G. Pitre Fiabe novelle e racconti popolari siciliani Palermo 1875 i (= Biblioteca delle tradizioni popolari siciliane iv) 328 f. 'La cammissa di lu gran jucaturi e l' auceddu parlanti' (Montevago), ib. 330 'Suli e Luna' (Capaci), ib. 330 f. 'Stilla d' oru e Stilla Diana' (Casteltermini), ib. 331 'Lu Re Turcu' (Noto), ib. 331 ff., G. Pitre Nuovo saggio de fiabe e novelle popolari siciliane Imola 1873 (= Rivista di Filologia Romanza vol. i fasc. 2 f.) no. 1 'Re Sonnu' (Palermo), G. Finamore Tradizioni popolari Abruzzesi Lanciano 1882 i (Novelle) 192 ff. no. 39 'Lu fatte de le tré ssurèlle,' Il Pentamerone trans. by Sir R. Burton London 1893 i. 390 ff. 'Fifth Diversion of the Fourth Day,' F. M. Luzel 'Les trois filles du boulanger' (Plouaret) variants in Mélusine 1878 i. 209 n. 1, 210 n. 1, R. Koehler ib. 213 f., T. F. Crane Italian Popular Tales London 1885 p. 325 f., J. F. Campbell Popular Tales of the West Highlands Edinburgh 1860 i. p. lxxxiii f., J. Curtin Fairy Tales of Eastern Europe London s.a. pp. 91—119 'The Golden Fish, the Wonder-working Tree, and the Golden Bird' (a Hungarian tale of a prince with a golden sun on his breast and a princess with a golden moon on her bosom, who sought a Golden Fish, a branch cut from a Music-tree, and a Golden Bird, all kept in the Glass Mountain beyond the Crimson Sea: the old queen is burned on the public square), L. A. Magnus Russian Folk-tales London 1915 pp. 269—273 'The Singing-Tree and the Speaking-Bird' (two princes and a princess seek the Talking-Bird, the Singing-Tree, and the Water of Life on the top of a steep mountain). Most of these authors refer to further sources.

² J. G. von Hahn Griechische und albanesische Märchen Leipzig 1864 i. 46.

³ Id. ib. 'Hellenische und germanische Sage: fehlt.'

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1013

ation at least, would have been so outrageous and so unconvincing as that of the supposititious animals or the cannibalistic mother. On the other hand, the poet would have expanded such parts of the story as were susceptible of pathetic treatment, and in particular would have elaborated the final scene of recognition¹. But I need not follow out this à priori enquiry; for it so happens that there is extant, not indeed a play of Euripides, but at least the summary of a Euripidean play, on a strictly analogous theme.

Apollodoros, who is paraphrasing Euripides' *Antiope*², tells the tale of that heroine in these words³: 'Antiope was the daughter of Nykteus. Zeus consorted with her, and she, when pregnant, to avoid her father's threats, fled to Epopeus at Sikyon and married him. Nykteus in despair took his own life, after laying his behest upon Lykos to exact vengeance from Epopeus and Antiope. So Lykos made an expedition against Sikyon and captured it: Epopeus he slew, but Antiope he took captive. As she was being led along, at Eleutherai in Boiotia, she gave birth to two sons. They were exposed; but a herdsman found them and reared them, calling the one Zethos, the other Amphion. Zethos gave his attention to herds of cattle; but Amphion used to practise harp-playing, for Hermes gave him a lyre. Lykos shut up Antiope and evil intreated her, as did Dirke his wife. At last her bonds dropped off of their own accord, and she escaped by stealth to her sons' homestead, eager to be welcomed by them. They recognised their mother, slew Lykos, bound Dirke to a bull, and, when she had been killed, flung her into a spring that is called Dirke after her.'

The general similarity of Euripides' play to the 'expulsion' formula of J. G. von Hahn is sufficiently obvious. The main discrepancy lies in the fact that, according to von Hahn's formula, the father of Zethos and Amphion ought to have been Lykos rather than Zeus. But this difficulty vanishes, if with H. Usener we suppose (indeed, we have already supposed it⁴) that Lykos was an ancient god of daylight comparable with Zeus Lýkaios: the Theban Lykos will then be a doublet of the Sicyonian Epopeus, two kings bearing the name of the local god. Again, it might be objected that, on von Hahn's showing, Zethos and Amphion should have slain Dirke, but not Lykos. Here the explanation of the difficulty is simpler still. Hyginus, our ultimate authority for the Euripidean character of the narrative⁵, has a different ending to it: 'They bound Dirce,' he says, 'by her hair to a bull and slew her. When they were about to slay Lycus, Mercurius forbade them and at the same time ordered Lycus to yield his kingdom to Amphion⁶.' Euripides, in short, preserved the main outlines of the old-world tale.

¹ On ἀναγνώσις as a strong point with Euripides see e.g. M. Croiset Histoire de la littérature grecque Paris 1891 iii. 315 f. Karkinos in his Thyestes (Trag. Gr. frag. p. 797 Nauck²) ap. Aristot. poet. 16. 1454 b 21 ff. used certain congenital signs in the shape of stars (ἀστέρας) as the means of effecting such a recognition: this is a parallel to the Breton tale supra p. 1011.

² This appears from a comparison of Apollod. 3. 5. 5 with Hyg. fab. 8, which is headed eadem Euripidis, quam scribit Ennius. See also schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1090, and the remarks of A. Nauck *Trag. Gr. frag.*² p. 410 ff. An analogous version by Kephalion, a rhetorical historian of Hadrian's age, is preserved by Io. Malal. chron. 2 pp. 45—49 Dindorf.

³ Apollod. 3. 5. 5.

⁴ Supra i. 64 n. 3, 738.

⁵ Supra n. 2.

⁶ Hyg. fab. 8. So the schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1090.

(θ) Stellar names of the children in 'Expulsion' Tales.

Now Zethos and Amphion were the Theban Dioskouroi¹. It seems worth while, therefore, to consider whether the features common to the 'expulsion' tales can be paralleled from the numerous classical myths with regard to heroic twins. To begin with, one characteristic of the six 'expulsion' tales cited above is a certain peculiarity of nomenclature. The king's wife bears him children as follows:

1. A boy called Sun, a boy called Moon, a girl called Star (successively).
2. A boy called Sun, a girl called Moon, a boy called Morning-star (simultaneously).
3. A boy with the Morning-star on his face, a girl with the Evening-star on her face (simultaneously).
4. Three golden children, of whom two at least were boys (successively).
5. Two boys with golden apples in their hands, a girl with a star on her brow (simultaneously).
6. Two boys with golden stars on their brows, a girl with a silver star on her brow (successively).

The children, then, are definitely stellar; and a comparison of the last two tales shows beyond all doubt that the golden apples are tantamount to golden stars. Further, in four, perhaps five, out of the six tales the children consist of two boys and a girl. On both grounds we are forced to compare them with Kastor, Polydeukes, and Helene². Zethos and Amphion too were, as we have before seen³, intimately related to sun, moon, and stars. Even Romulus and Remus on Roman imperial coins are treated as Dioskouroi and surmounted by a couple of stars⁴.

(ι) Exposure of the children and Punishment of the mother in 'Expulsion' Tales.

J. Rendel Harris in The Cult of the Heavenly Twins argues well in defence of the thesis 'That, in the earliest stages of human evolution, twins are taboo, without distinction between them, and that their mother shares the taboo with them⁵.' In conformity with this rule the children of the 'expulsion' tales are regularly exposed as castaways:

1. They are put into boxes and flung into the sea.
2. Orders are given that they should be flung into a river; but they are actually left on a bed of rushes.

¹ Supra i. 739, ii. 317, 445.

² If this comparison be well founded, the relation of the children to horses may be more than fortuitous:

- (1) Sun rides a green winged horse, which can thunder and lighten.
- (2) Sun and Morning-star spend their time in exercising their horses: Moon also rides on horseback.
- (3) Morning-star and Evening-star are abandoned on a lame horse: Morning-star secures the winged horse of the plain, which eats men and beasts.
- (5) The brothers with golden apples and the sister with a star all ride on horseback.
- (6) The brothers with golden stars and the sister with a silver star all ride on horseback as cavaliers.

³ Supra i. 739.

⁴ Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins pp. 761, 914 f., supra p. 443 f. figs. 349—351.

⁵ J. Rendel Harris The Cult of the Heavenly Twins Cambridge 1906 p. 10 ff.

3. They are put into a basket and flung into a river.
4. They are flung into a hen-house.
5. They are thrown out for the dogs to eat.
6. They are put into baskets and floated down the Seine.

Their mother too is (1) walled up in the jakes, or (3) partially walled up at the entrance to the castle, or (6) shut up in a tower, or (5) put into a tread-mill, or (2 and 4) thrown into the hen-house. Here again classical parallels are not far to seek. According to Kephalion, Lykos had the twins Zethos and Amphion exposed near Mount Kithairon, where a childless labourer named Ordion found and reared them; Dirke took their mother Antiope to the same place, fastened a torch to the horns of a wild bull, and gave orders that Antiope should be roped to its neck and so dragged to death, when in the nick of time the twins learned the victim's name from Ordion, set free their mother, and at her request bound Dirke to the bull¹. As to Kastor, Polydeukes, and Helene, an anonymous narrative, probably drawn from the *Kypria*², said that Zeus under the form of a swan had mated with Nemesis under the form of a goose, that Nemesis had laid an egg and left it in the marsh, that a certain shepherd had found it there and brought it to Leda, who kept it carefully in a chest, and that in time Helene was born from this egg and brought up as the child of Leda³. A tradition, late in date⁴ but early in character⁵, added that Kastor and Polydeukes were born of the same egg⁶, and used the halves of it as conical caps⁷. Ibykos, a sixth-century lyrical poet, introduced some speaker, presumably Herakles, saying of the twin Moliones:

The white-horsed youths,
Sons of Molione, I slew,
Like-aged and equal-headed and one-bodied,
Both born in a silver egg⁸.

¹ Kephalion frag. 6 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 628 ff. Müller) ap. Io. Malal. chron. 2 p. 45 ff. Dindorf.

² See O. Rossbach in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 118 ff.

³ Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 88, Apollod. 3. 10. 7. The egg was left ἐν τῷ ἔλει (Tzetz.), ἐν τοῖς ἀλαεσιν (Apollod.: ἀλαεσιν cod. S. ἔλαεσιν Preller, δάλαεσιν Bekker).

⁴ A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1159.

⁵ E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1113.

⁶ Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 88, 506, schol. Kallim. h. Artem. 232, schol. Od. 11. 298, Hor. sat. 2. 1. 26, ars poet. 147 with Acron ad loc., Serv. in Verg. Aen. 3. 328, Fulgent. myth. 2. 16, Myth. Vat. 1. 78, 3. 3. 6.

⁷ Lyk. Al. 506 f., Loukian. dial. deor. 26. 1.

Another account said that Iupiter as a swan consorted with Leda, who laid two eggs, one of them containing Castor and Pollux, the other Clytemnestra and Helena (Myth. Vat. 1. 204).

In a sanctuary of Hilaeira and Phoibe at Sparta an egg, hung from the roof by ribbons, was shown as that to which Leda had given birth (Paus. 3. 16. 1). Its position, slung in mid air, suggests that it may have symbolised the moon. Neokles of Kroton stated that the egg from which Helene was born had fallen from the moon, the women there being oviparous and their offspring fifteen times as large as we are, according to Herodorus of Herakleia (frag. 28 in Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 35, where see C. Müller's note).

⁸ Ibyk. frag. 16 Bergk⁴ ap. Athen. 57 F I., cp. Eustath. in Il. p. 1321, 33 ff., in Od. p. 1686, 45 ff. According to Pherekydes frag. 36 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 81 Müller) ap. schol. Il. 11. 709, Kteatos and Eurytos were the sons of Molione, daughter of Molos, nominally by Aktor, but really by Poseidon: each of them had two heads, four hands, four feet, and one body. They thus closely resembled the composite beings, whom Plato related to the

But whether this egg, like that of Helene, was left in the wilds, we do not know. Far more familiar is the fate of Romulus and Remus. Amulius, king of Alba Longa, gave orders that they together with their mother, the Vestal Ilia, should be thrown into the Tiber. The twins were washed up on the bank, where the shepherd Faustulus found them, suckled by a she-wolf and attended by a woodpecker and a jay. He took them to his wife Acca Laurentia, who reared them. Their mother Ilia became the wife of the river-god Anien or Tiberis¹. According to another account, Amulius doomed the guilty mother to be flogged to death. Others again said that, owing to the entreaties of his daughter Antho, Amulius commuted her punishment into close imprisonment, but that after his death she was let out².

(κ) Quests undertaken by the children in 'Expulsion' Tales.

The quests undertaken by the children in the 'expulsion' tales are not regarded by J. G. von Hahn as essential to this type of story; and in point of fact they are absent altogether from the Eubœan version (4). Still, where they are present, they are likely to repay investigation. Indeed, I suspect that ultimately they will prove to be quite the most interesting portion of the whole. For purposes of comparison, let us enumerate them in order:

1. (a) A golden apple kept by forty dragons.
 (b) A golden bough, on which all the birds of the world meet to sing.
 (c) The Tzitzinaina, who knows the language of all birds and can turn men into stone.
2. (a) A branch, which makes music and is kept by two dragons.
 (b) A mirror, which shows the whole world and is kept by forty dragons.
 (c) The bird Dikjeretto, which can turn men into stone.
3. (a) The Winged Horse of the Plain, which swears by its brother.
 (b) The Beauty of the Land, who can turn men into stone.
5. (a) The Dancing Water, which is guarded by four giants and four lions.
 (b) The Singing Apple, which grows on the top of a wonderful tree with shears before it.
 (c) The Speaking Bird, which is perched on the bason of a fountain in a garden and can turn men into statues.
6. (a)+(b)+(c) The Dancing Water, the Singing Apple, and the Bird of Truth. The Dancing Water comes from a fountain beneath an apple-tree. On a branch of the tree grows the Singing Apple. A blackbird on the tree is the Bird of Truth. Beside the tree is a golden seat. All these are found in a summery plain on the top of a wintry mountain, the path up which is bordered by cavaliers turned into stone.

It will be seen that the last tale gives the most coherent account of the various objects to be sought. Moreover, it alone makes mention of one detail, the golden seat, which affords a clue to the meaning of all the rest. Whoever can sit on that golden throne thereby establishes his claim to be king, the Dancing Water, the Singing Apple, and the Bird of Truth being in some sort his regalia. But this is a matter for further investigation. For the moment I content myself with observing that traces, substantial traces, of similar quests are to be found sun and moon (supra i. 311). Cp. Plout. de frat. am. 1 τὸς Μολιονίδας ἐκείνους, συμφύεις τοῖς σώμασι γεγονέναι δοκοῦντας.

¹ Serv. in Verg. Aen. 1. 273.

² Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 1. 78f., Plout. v. Rom. 3, Liv. 1. 4. 3.

Dioskouroi and Helene in Folk-Tales 1017

throughout ancient Greek mythology. The folk-tale hero rides off to get the golden apple kept by forty dragons in a garden¹. We think of Herakles, the great twin brother of Iphikles, who seeks the golden apples of the Hesperides, apples that grow in the garden of Zeus and are kept by the dragon Ladon². The same folk-tale hero rides a green winged horse, which can thunder and lighten³. We are familiar with the winged horse Pegasos, of whom Hesiod wrote:

In Zeus' home he dwells
Bearing the thunder-peal and lightning-flash
For Zeus the wise⁴.

¹ Supra p. 1003.

² K. Seeliger in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 2594 ff.

³ Supra p. 1003.

⁴ Hes. theog. 285 f., cp. Eur. Bellerophon frag. 312 Nauck² ὄφ' ἄρουα' ἐλθῶν Ζηνὸς ἀστραπήφορεῖ. I do not know any ancient representation of Pegasos as lightning-bearer. But a very remarkable red-figured hydria at Paris (De Ridder Cat. Vases de la Bibl. Nat. ii. 343 no. 449, J. B. Biot in the Ann. d. Inst. 1847 xix. 184 ff., Mon. d. Inst. iv pl. 39, 2 (= my fig. 885), Reinach Rép. Vases i. 129, 4. R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München

Fig. 885.

1910 i. 84 n. 2 fig. 26 ('Apotropäische Darstellung einer Sonnenfinsternis') appears to represent him as a constellation in the sky. My friend Prof. E. T. Whittaker, late Astronomer Royal of Ireland, has kindly supplied me with the following note on this unique vase-painting:

'Four stars of approximately equal magnitude will be noticed forming a rectangular figure flanked by two other stars. There are in the northern sky two well known instances of stars disposed in a rectangle, viz. the body of the Plough (Ursa Major) and the great square of Pegasus. Here the addition of Pegasus himself puts the meaning beyond doubt.

The fact that the moon appears as a comparatively thin crescent shows that a time

The hero of another folk-tale captures the Winged Horse of the Plain: he waits till it stoops its head in drinking from a spring, then leaps on to its back, and makes it swear by its brother to serve him¹. He too can be paralleled by Bellerophontes, who captures Pegasus while drinking at the spring Peirene²; and Pegasus, we remember, has Chrysaor for brother³. Lastly, the folk-tale hero, who as a new-born babe is put into a box and flung into the sea, while his mother is walled up in the jakes⁴, recalls the classical myth of Danae, first shut up in an underground chamber and then sent adrift in a chest on the sea with the infant Perseus. And, when the said folk-tale hero vanquishes the Tzitzinaina that turns men into stone⁵, we can but compare Perseus decapitating Medousa and returning in triumph with her petrifying head. The fact is, these modern European folk-tales are—as E. S. Hartland expresses it—‘stuff of the kind out of which the classical and other mythologies grew⁶.’ Such correspondences between the modern illiterate folk-tale and the ancient literary myth are, therefore, to be expected. Parian marble must needs bear a certain resemblance to the Hermes of Praxiteles⁷.

Fig. 886.

either quite early or quite late in the lunation is intended. If the former, the vase must represent the western horizon soon after sunset in spring. If the latter, it represents the eastern sky shortly before sunrise in autumn. No obvious meaning attaches to the short curved lines within or without the moon’s disc. The scale on which the moon is represented is much larger than that on which the great square of Pegasus appears.’

¹ Supra p. 1006.

² Strab. 379.

³ O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 2484, H. W. Stoll in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 900, F. Hannig ib. iii. 1749. Supra p. 716 ff.

⁴ Supra p. 1003 f.

⁵ Supra p. 1004.

⁶ E. S. Hartland Mythology and Folktales London 1900 p. 35.

⁷ We must, however, bear in mind the warning uttered by that careful student of Greek

Orphic Theogonies and Cosmogonic Eros 1019

(λ) Penalties exacted by the children in 'Expulsion' Tales.

It remains but to notice the extreme savagery with which, in the folk-tales, the guilty parties are punished :

1. The king's mother and the midwife are torn asunder by horses.
2. The king's mother is banished from the palace : the midwife is beheaded.
3. The king's mother and the midwife are torn asunder by horses.
4. The king's mother is torn asunder by mules.
5. The jealous sisters are thrown into a caldron of boiling oil : the nurse is flung from the window.
6. The jealous sister and the midwife are cast into a furnace.

Even here classical mythology, for all its refinement and polish, can offer a gruesome analogy. Zethos and Amphion, as we have already heard¹, bind the ill-starred Dirke to a wild bull, by which she is dragged to death. Nay worse, the scene of her agony was a favourite subject with the sensational art of the Hellenistic age (fig. 886)².

APPENDIX G.

ORPHIC THEOGONIES AND THE COSMOGONIC EROS.

The Orphic fragments were collected and discussed with marvellous insight by C. A. Lobeck Aglaophamus Regimontii Prussorum 1829 i. 411—ii. 964. A somewhat fuller and handier collection is that of E. Abel Orphica Lipsiae-Pragae 1885 pp. 137—273, who, however, does not add a commentary and occasionally refers a fragment to the wrong context. An important supplement is G. Murray 'Critical Appendix on the Orphic Tablets' in Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² pp. 659—673 (supra p. 118 n. 2). Recently O. Kern in his Orphicorum fragmenta Berolini 1922 has produced an admirably careful and complete edition, which includes 'Testimonia' (pp. 1—79), 'Fragmenta' (pp. 80—344), bibliography (pp. 345—350), reference-tables (pp. 351—353), and 'Indices' (pp. 360—407). But the subject is even now far from being exhausted, and a Corpus of the monu-folk-tales, Prof. W. R. Halliday, in R. M. Dawkins Modern Greek in Asia Minor Cambridge 1916 p. 216 f. : 'It cannot be too strongly insisted that there is no special connexion at all between ancient mythology and modern Greek folk-tales. Wherever it has been traced, there is obvious to the impartial observer either a straining of the evidence or a palpable mistake.'

¹ Supra pp. 1013, 1015.

² See e.g. Collignon Hist. de la Sculpt. gr. ii. 532 ff., Herrmann Denkm. d. Malerei pl. 43 Text p. 55, E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1170.

I figure e.g. the principal design on an Apulian krater from Palazuolo near Syracuse, now in Berlin (Furtwängler Vasensamm. Berlin ii. 926 f. no. 3296 K. Dilthey in the Arch. Zeit. 1878 xxxvi. 42 ff. pls. 7 (=my fig. 886) and 8, Reinach Rép. Vases i. 421, 2, O. Jessen in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2184 ff. fig. 1, J. H. Huddilston Greek Tragedy in the light of Vase Paintings London 1898 p. 9 n. 1). On the left Dirke, a pathetic figure with bared breast, is dragged to death by the raging bull. On the right Lykos, caught skulking in a cave by Zethos and Amphion, is about to be dispatched, when Hermes—as in the Euripidean version (supra p. 1013)—suddenly intervenes to stay the slaughter. Antiope escapes to the right. The panther-skin hung on the wall of the cave hints at the Dionysiac character of Antiope (supra i. 735).

mental evidence is still sorely needed. Of scholars that in modern times have devoted special attention to the Orphic theogonies (P. R. Schuster De veteris Orphicae theogoniae indole atque origine Lipsiae 1869, O. Kern De Orphei Epimenidis Pherecydis theogoniis quaestiones criticae Berolini 1888, id. 'Theogoniae Orphicae fragmenta nova' in Hermes 1888 xxiii. 481—488, F. Susemihl 'Die Orphische theogonie' in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. 1874 xx. 666—676, id. De theogoniae Orphicae forma antiquissima Gryphiswaldiae 1890, id. 'Zu den orphischen Theogonien' in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. 1890 xxxvi. 820—826, id. Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur in der Alexandrinerzeit Leipzig 1891 i. 896, F. Lukas Die Grundbegriffe in den Kosmogonien der alten Völker Leipzig 1893, pp. 178—195, A. E. J. Holwerda 'De Theogonia Orphica' in Mnemosyne N.S. 1894 xxii. 286—329, 361—385, W. Kroll 'De Orphicis addendum' in Philologus 1894 liii. 561, P. Tannery 'Sur la première theogonie Orphique' in the Archiv für Geschichte der Philosophie 1897 xi. 13—17, Rohde *Psyche*³ ii. 414—417, and others) none has done better service than O. Gruppe (Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 612—675, 'Berichtigung' in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. 1888 xxxiv Anhang 1 f., 'Die rhapsodische Theogonie und ihre Bedeutung innerhalb der orphischen Litteratur' ib. 1890 Suppl. xvii. 687—747, Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 419—423, 430—432, 'Älteste orphische Theogonie' in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1120—1124, 'Die Lehre von der periodischen Welterneuerung' ib. iii. 1139—1149, Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 215 f.), whose views—with sundry modifications—are here summarised.

(1) The earliest Orphic Theogony.

Quotations in authors of the classical age (cp. H. Diels *Die Fragmente der Vorsokratiker*³ Berlin 1912 ii. 167 ff. 'Altbezeugte Fragmente') postulate the existence of an early Orphic theogony, to which even Homer, at least in the Διὸς ἀπάτην, was indebted (Il. 14. 201 cp. Plat. Cratyl. 402 B—C; Il. 14. 246 cp. Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 18 p. 20 Schwartz, Krates ap. Plout. de fac. in orbe lun. 25, Orph. h. Okean. 83. 1 f., Hippol. ref. haeres. 5. 7 p. 148 Duncker—Schneidewin, 8. 12 p. 424; but hardly Il. 14. 259 ff. cp. Damaskios quaest. de primis principiis 124 (i. 319, 8 ff. Ruelle)). The contents of the poem can be partially reconstructed as follows:—In the beginning was Nyx (Aristot. met. 12. 6. 1071 b 26 f., 14. 4. 1091 b 4 ff., Eudemos of Rhodes ap. Damaskios loc. cit., Lyd. de mens. 2. 8 p. 26, 1 ff. Wünsch). Black-winged Nyx laid a wind-egg, from which in due time sprang gold-winged Eros (Aristoph. av. 695 ff.). Apparently heaven and earth were regarded as the upper and lower halves of the vast egg (so in the later theogony of Orph. frag. 57 Kern ap. Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 18 p. 20 f. Schwartz, cp. Varro frag. 109 Funaioli ap. Prob. in Verg. ecl. 6. 31 p. 354 Lion). Uranos (Aristot. met. 14. 4. 1091 b 5) and Ge (Lyd. de mens. 2. 8 p. 26, 2 f. Wünsch) together produced as their offspring Okeanos and Tethys (Plat. Tim. 40 E). Fair-flowing Okeanos took to wife Tethys, his sister by the same mother, and so was the first to begin regular wedlock (Orph. frag. 15 Kern ap. Plat. Cratyl. 402 B—C, cp. Aristot. met. 1. 3. 983 b 30 f.). Their children were Phorkys, Kronos, Rhea, and others (Plat. Tim. 40 E, Cic. Tim. 11). The sequel can perhaps be surmised from the Διὸς ἀπάτην. Rhea took Hera to Okeanos and Tethys, who brought up the child in their abode; and Zeus thrust Kronos down below the earth and the sea (Il. 14. 200 ff.). Zeus used to visit Hera clandestinely (Il. 14. 294 ff.), repairing to Okeanos for the purpose (Orph. περὶ Διὸς καὶ Ἥρας frag. 115 Kern ap. Eustath. in Dionys. per. 1). Not improbably the poem told how, to grace this 'sacred marriage' (Dion Chrys. or. 36 p. 99 Reiske, Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 49, 13 f. Diehl cp. ib. iii. 248, 5 ff.), Ge sent up golden apples (Asklepiades of Mende frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 306 Müller) ap. Athen. 83 c) or apple-trees bearing golden fruit in Okeanos (Pherekydes of Leros frag. 33 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 78 f. Müller) ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1396), or came with branches of golden apples to the wedding and allowed Hera to plant them in her garden by Mt Atlas, where they were protected by the Hesperides and the snake (Pherekydes of Leros frag. 33a (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 79 f. Müller) ap. Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 3, schol. Caes. Germ. Aratea p. 383, 1 ff. Eyssenhardt: id. ap. pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 3 calls it the garden of the gods; others, the gardens of Zeus (Soph. Ion frag. 297 Nauck², 320 Jebb, ap. Stob. flor. 103. 10 (ed. Gaisford iii. 292) ἐν Διὸς κήποις ἀρούσθαι (T. Bergk cj. ἀρούσθαι) μόνον εὐδαιμόνος (leg. εὐδαιμόνας) ὄλβους) or the plain of Zeus (Aristoph. av. 1758 πέδον Διὸς καὶ λέχος γαμήλιον, cp. Eur. Hipp. 749 Ζανὸς μελάθρων παρὰ κοίταις (J. G. J. Hermann cj. παρ' εὐναίς)), or the gardens of Father Okeanos (Aristoph. nuθ. 271), or the meadow of Hera (Kallim. h. Artem. 164)). The poem concluded with the sixth generation (Orph. frag. 14 Kern ap. Plat. Phileb. 66 c). O. Gruppe thinks that it was probably composed towards the end of s. vii B.C. at Kroton, where Hera Lakinia had a garden (Lyk. Al. 856 ff. ὄρχαρον with Tzetz. ad loc. δῆλον τὸν κήπον λέγειν) and a temple of the Muses (Iambl. v. Pyth. 50 after Timaios?) may betoken Orphic influence.

[Here I dissent. It seems to me that clear indications point to an earlier age and a very different locality. If the Διὸς ἀπάτη really presupposes an Orphic theogony, that theogony can hardly be later than s. x (see the sober estimates of W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*⁶ München 1908 i. 59—62)—a period which accords well with the epic metre and dialect of the extant fragments, not to lay stress on the remote traditional dates of Orpheus himself (O. Gruppe in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1064—1073). Moreover, our attention is drawn eastwards rather than westwards: the scene of the Διὸς ἀπάτη is laid on Mt Ide in Phrygia (supra i. 154, ii. 950); the position assigned by the theogony to Nyx recalls the archaic (s. vi) figure of Nyx by Rhoikos at Ephesos (Paus. 10. 38. 6 f.); Okeanos and Tethys as forbears are compared by Aristotle with water as the primal substance assumed by Thales of Miletos (Aristot. met. 1. 3. 983 b 20 ff.); and the cosmic egg, not to mention other points of resemblance, occurs also in the Phoenician theogony (Sanchouniathon as translated by Philon Bybl. frag. 2. 2 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 565 Müller) ap. Euseb. praef. ev. 1. 10. 2 ἀνεπλάσθη ὁμοίως ᾧ οὐ σήματι κ.τ.λ., cp. supra i. 583 n. 4, 785, and Mochos ap. Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 125 ter (i. 323, 6 ff. Ruelle) ὦν... τὸ δὲ ὦν ὁ οὐρανός). I infer that the Orphic poem took shape somewhere in Asia Minor as the result of early Ionian speculation brought to bear on primitive Thraco-Phrygian beliefs. A trace of such beliefs may be found in the Lesbian tale of Enorches. A certain Thyestes consorting with his sister Daita or Daito (v.l. Daiso, cp. the Lesbian Theodaisia (Nilsson Gr. Feste pp. 280 n. 2, 472 n. 2)) produced from an egg a son called Enorches, who founded a temple for Dionysos and called the god after himself Dionysos Ἐνόρχης (Eudok. viol. 345, schol. Lyk. Al. 212)—a title borne by Dionysos in Samos also (Hesych. s.v. Ἐνόρχης) and obviously derived from ὄρχεις, 'testicles' (ἐνόρχης, ἐνορχος, ἐνορχίς is elsewhere used e.g. of a ram (Il. 23. 147, Synes. epist. 148) or he-goat (Theokr. 3. 4, Loukian. dial. deor. 4. 1) or bull (Aristot. hist. an. 9.50. 632 a 20)). Now the names Thyestes and Daito recall at once the banquet of Thyestes, son of Pelops the Phrygian (Bakchyl. 7. 5, Hdt. 7. 8 and 11, Telestes frag. 5 Bergk⁴ ap. Athen. 625 E—626 A, schol. Pind. Ol. 9. 15 a), and imply that in Lesbos as at Mykenai there lingered the memory of ritual cannibalism. H. D. Müller Mythologie der griechischen Stämme Göttingen

1861 ii. 154—158 argues that the Mycenaean myth points back to a human sacrifice offered to a Zeus-like deity Θυέστης, the 'Dashing' storm-god (θύω, θύελλα). This etymology is possible (Dionysios i of Syracuse ap. Phot. bibl. p. 532 b 32 ff. Bekker θυέστην τὸν δοῖδνκα ἐκάλει, a pestle being a 'dasher' or 'bruiser': see Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 355), though the Lesbian Thyestes appears in a Dionysiac context (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 660 n. 1) which relates his name to θυιάδες, θυιστάδες, Θυώνη, etc. Be that as it may, the association of human sacrifice with the cult of Dionysos takes us from Lesbos (supra i. 656 n. 4: see also the story told by Ail. var. hist. 13. 2 of the Mytilenaeon Makáreus, priest of Dionysos, and his sons, who μιμούμενοι τὴν τοῦ πατρὸς ἱερούργιαν τῷ βωμῷ τῷ πατρῷῳ προσήλθον ἔτι καομένων τῶν ἐμπύρων· καὶ ὁ μὲν νεώτερος παρέσχε τὸν τράχηλον, ὁ δὲ πρεσβύτερος ἡμελημένην εἴρων σφαγίδα τὸν ἀδελφὸν ἀπέκτεινεν ὡς ἱερεῖον) to Thrace, where the devouring of a dismembered child was not unknown (supra, i. 656). Others explained the title Ἐνόρχης by the tale of Polyhymnos (Eudok. viol. 345, Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 212: O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2657—2661, 3154 f. discusses variants). Dionysos, when his mother was struck by the thunderbolt, groped about for her. A young man named Polyhymnos undertook to show him the way to her, if allowed to consort with him. Dionysos agreed, provided that he found his mother first. Following the advice of Polyhymnos, he went down to Hades and brought her up from the spring at Lerna. Polyhymnos having died, Dionysos by way of keeping his promise attached genitals of fig-wood to himself and leathern phalloi of deer-skin. Hence his title Ἐνόρχης. The clue to the understanding of this narrative is the fact that πολύμνος was an appellative of Dionysos himself (h. Dion. 26. 7, Eur. Ion 1074 f.), kindred names being found in his entourage (Polyhymno his Dodonaean nurse (supra i. 111 n. 6), Polymnia mother of Orpheus (schol. Ap. Rhod. i. 23) and of Triptolemos (schol. Il. 10. 435, Eustath. in Il. p. 817, 32, Tzetz. in Hes. o. d. i p. 28, 6f. Gaisford)). The descent of Dionysos and Polyhymnos is therefore tantamount to a descent of Dionysos Πολύμνος; and the obscene pact between the two, which is missing in the version given by Paus. 2. 37. 5, is a piece of aetiology meant to elucidate the Lernaean Φαλλαγῶγια. The quest of Dionysos for Semele thus becomes comparable with that of Orpheus for Eurydike (see Harrison Themis pp. 420, 523) and again points Thrace-wards.]

(2) The Orphic Theogony of Hieronymos and Hellanikos.

Another Orphic theogony, distinguished as ἡ...κατὰ τὸν Ἱερόνυμον φερομένη καὶ Ἑλλάνικον, εἴπερ μὴ καὶ ὁ αὐτὸς ἔστιν, is set forth by Damaskios quaest. de primis principiis 123 bis (i. 317, 15 ff. Ruelle):—In the beginning was water and slime (Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 484, followed by F. Creuzer *Symbolik und Mythologie*³ Leipzig and Darmstadt 1842 iv. 83, rightly cj. ἰλύς for ἕλη; but cp. Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. iii. 249 B—C) which thickened into earth. Water, the combining element, and earth, the scattered, together produced a snake with three heads, in the middle that of a god, to one side that of a bull, to the other that of a lion. The snake had wings on its shoulders and was named Chronos the ageless and Herakles (cp. Orph. h. Herakl. 12). With it consorted Ananke or Adrasteia, a bodiless being whose arms stretch throughout the world and clasp its extremities: she is described as at once male and female. The snake Chronos begat intelligent (but Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 486 n. † cj. νοτερόν for νοερόν, and C. E. Ruelle ad loc. approves the change) Aither, boundless Chaos, and misty Erebus. Among these Chronos produced an egg containing male and female elements, a multiplicity of seeds, and a bodiless god (supra i. 311 n. 5: see also

Orphic Theogonies and Cosmogonic Eros 1023

O. Kern De Orphēi Epimenidis Pherecydis theogoniis quaestiones criticae Berolini 1888 p. 25 f.) with golden wings on his shoulders, the heads of bulls attached to his sides (cp. Orph. h. Protog. 6. 3 ταυροβόαν), and on his head a monstrous snake resembling all manner of wild beasts. This god is named Protogonos or Zeus the arranger of all or Pan (Πρωτόγονον ἀνυμνεῖ καὶ Δία καλεῖ πάντων διατάκτορα καὶ ὄλου τοῦ κόσμου, διὸ καὶ Πᾶνα καλεῖσθαι (cp. Orph. h. Pan. 11. 12 ἀληθῆς Ζεὺς ὁ κεράστης)). The account given by Damaskios is borne out by Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 18 p. 20, 22 ff. Schwartz and schol. Greg. Naz. or. 31. 16 (E. Norden in Hermes 1892 xxvii. 614 f.), who, however, omit the bovine head of the snake, ascribing to it the head of a god between the heads of a snake and a lion, and say nothing of Aither, Chaos, and Erebos. The snake Herakles—they declare—produced a huge egg, which, filled with his force, cracked and broke into halves—the upper heaven, the lower earth. Forth from the egg came a bodiless god (supra), Phanes by name. Athenag. loc. cit. p. 21, 1 ff. Schwartz adds the sequel. Ouranos and Ge had as their daughters Klotho, Lachesis, Atropos, as their sons the Hekatoncheires Kottos, Gyges, Briareos, and the Kyklopes Brontes, Steropes, Arges. These Ouranos bound and flung into Tartaros, having heard that his sons would dethrone him. Thereupon Ge was angered and bare the Titans, so called 'because they took vengeance (τισάσθην) on great Ouranos the starry' (Orph. frag. 57 Kern).

[As to the date and provenance of the theogony, we are reduced to guesswork. C. Müller Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 450 n.  cj. that Hieronymos was Ἱερώνυμος ὁ Αἰγύπτιος ὁ τὴν ἀρχαιολογίαν τὴν Φοινικικὴν συγγραψάμενος (Ioseph. ant. Iud. 1. 3. 6, cp. 1. 3. 9, = Euseb. praef. ev. 9. 11. 3, cp. 9. 13. 5, Kedren. hist. comp. 11 b c (i. 23 Bekker)), and he is followed e.g. by F. Susemihl Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur in der Alexandrinerzeit Leipzig 1891 i. 376 n. 6; but A. Gudeman in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 1564 enters a caveat. Hellanikos is commonly regarded as pseudo-Hellanikos; but Gudeman loc. cit. viii. 121 thinks that the theogony current under his name 'war sicher kein besonderes Buch, sondern der Bericht über die Entstehung der Welt nach einem orphischen Gedicht. H. kann ihn recht gut irgendwo gegeben haben.' If so, the Orphic poem itself cannot have been composed later than c. 450 B.C. and may have been a good deal earlier. It exhibits various traces of oriental cosmogony and of Greek philosophy. The complex monsters are more Semitic than Hellenic. The world-creating Herakles is perhaps Phoenician (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 499; but see cund. in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1141). So, as was pointed out by E. Zeller (A History of Greek Philosophy trans. S. F. Alleyne London 1881 i. 102 n. 4 fin.), is primeval slime (Sanchouniathon in Philon Bybl. frag. 2. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 565 Müller) ap. Euseb. praef. ev. 1. 10. 1 f. καὶ ἐκ τῆς αὐτοῦ συμπλοκῆς τοῦ πνεύματος ἐγένετο Μῶτ· τοῦτό τινές φασιν ἰλύν, οἱ δὲ ὕδατώδους μίξεως σῆψιν, with which Gruppe Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 386 f. well cp. Diod. 1. 10 φασὶ τοῖνον Αἰγύπτιοι κατὰ τὴν ἐξ ἀρχῆς τῶν ὄλων γένεσιν πρώτους ἀνθρώπους γενέσθαι κατὰ τὴν Αἴγυπτον διὰ τὴν εὐκρᾶσίαν τῆς χώρας καὶ διὰ τὴν φύσιν τοῦ Νείλου. τοῦτον γὰρ πολύγονον ὄντα καὶ τὰς τροφὰς αὐτοφυεῖς παρεχόμενον βράδιως ἐκτρέφειν τὰ ζωογονηθέντα... ὅταν γὰρ τοῦ ποταμοῦ τὴν ἀναχώρησιν ποιούμενου τὴν πρώτην τῆς ἰλύος ὁ ἥλιος διαξηράνη, φασὶ συνίστασθαι ζῶα, τινὰ μὲν εἰς τέλος ἀπηρτισμένα, τινὰ δὲ ἡμιτελῆ καὶ πρὸς αὐτῇ συμφυῆ τῇ γῆ, ib. 12 τὸ μὲν οὖν πνεῦμα Δία προσαγορεύσαι μεθερμηνευομένης τῆς λέξεως, ὃν αἴτιον ὄντα τοῦ ψυχικοῦ τοῖς ζῴοις ἐνόμισαν ὑπάρχειν πάντων οἰονεῖ τινὰ πατέρα... τὴν δὲ γῆν ὥσπερ ἀγγεῖον τι τῶν φυσωμένων ὑπολαμβάνοντας μητέρα προσαγορεύσαι, the Egyptian word for 'mother' being μούθ (Plout. de Is. et Os. 56) = Sanchouniathon's Μῶτ: id. Gr. Myth. Rel.

p. 431 n. 3 further cites the thickening of water into slime and earth in Mandaite speculation (A. J. H. W. Brandt Die mandäische Religion Leipzig 1889 p. 50 ff.). But a similar view was held by Anaximandros (E. Zeller op. cit. i. 255 f.), Diogenes of Apollonia (id. ib. i. 294, 296), and Anaxagoras (id. ib. ii. 356). Empedokles too had spoken of water as a combining element (frag. 34 Διὸς ἀλφειὸν ὕδατι κολλήσας). And the equation of Zeus with Pan is again suggestive of philosophical influence (E. Zeller op. cit. i. 101), conceivably that of Herakleitos (supra i. 28 ff.). On the whole we may conclude that the Orphic theogony bearing the name of Hieronymos or Hellanikos was the summary of an epic poem drafted somewhere in Ionia c. 500 B.C.]

(3) The Theogony of the Orphic Rhapsodies.

But the bulk of the Orphic fragments, quoted by neo-Platonists and others, belongs to a third theogony probably called the ἱερός λόγος (Orph. frag. 63 Kern op. et. mag. p. 231, 22 ff.) or ἱεροὶ λόγοι (Soud. s.v. Ὀρφεύς) and contained in 24 Rhapsodies ascribed by some to Theognetos the Thessalian, by others to Kerkops the Pythagorean (id. ib.). Of Theognetos nothing more is known. Epigenes in his work On poetry attributed to Orpheus (ap. Clem. Al. strom. i. 21 p. 81, 11 ff. Stählin) regarded Kerkops the Pythagorean as the author of the Orphic εἰς Ἄιδου κατάβασις and ἱερός λόγος (cp. Cic. de nat. deor. i. 107). And Pythagorean authorship is not impossible, or even improbable; for Herakleides Lembos frag. 8 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 169 f. Müller) ap. Diog. Laert. 8. 7 cites the opening hexameter of a ἱερός λόγος ascribed to Pythagoras; Iambli. v. Pyth. 146 quotes from another ἱερός λόγος or περὶ θεῶν λόγος, believed to be by Pythagoras himself or by his son Telauges, a passage of Doric prose, in which Pythagoras declares that he was initiated at Libethra in Thrace by Aglaophamos and there learnt that Orpheus son of Kalliope, taught by his mother on Mt Pangaion, had enunciated the fundamental significance of number etc.; id. ib. 258 f. tells how the rhetorician Ninon professed to divulge Pythagorean secrets contained in a work entitled λόγος ἱερός; Soud. s.v. Ἀριγνώτη = Eudok. viol. 173 speaks of a ἱερός λόγος written by the Pythagorean Arignote; and Plout. de gen. Socr. 24 makes Theaṅor the Pythagorean describe Simmias' story of Timarchos' visit to the Underworld as λόγον...ἱερόν: see further A. Delatte Études sur la littérature pythagoricienne Paris 1915 pp. 1—79 ('Un ἼΕΡΟΣ ΛΟΓΟΣ pythagoricien'). The Rhapsodic theogony, according to Damaskios quaest. de primis principiis 123 (i. 316, 18 ff. Ruelle), cp. ib. 50 (i. 100, 19 f.), 123 bis (i. 318, 6 ff.), gave the following sequence of events:—In the beginning was Chronos the ageless, father of Aither and Chaos. Then came the cosmic egg, called also 'the brilliant chitón' or 'the cloud' (ib. 123 (i. 317, 2 f.) ἦτοι τὸ κρούμενον καὶ τὸ κύον ὦν τὸν θεόν, ἢ τὸν ἀργῆτα χιτῶνα, ἢ τὴν νεφέλην), from which sprang Phanes, otherwise known as Metis or Erikepaïos. [As to the meaning of these names valuable information is preserved to us by Io. Malal. chron. 4 p. 74 Dindorf ἔφρασε δὲ ὅτι τὸ φῶς ῥῆξαν τὸν αἰθέρα ἐφώτισε τὴν γῆν καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν κτίσιν, εἰπὼν ἐκεῖνο εἶναι τὸ φῶς τὸ ῥῆξαν τὸν αἰθέρα τὸ προειρημένον, τὸ ὑπέρατον πάντων, οὐ ὄνομα ὁ αὐτὸς Ὀρφεύς ἀκούσας ἐκ τῆς μαντείας ἐξέειπε, Μῆτιν, Φάνητα, Ἐρικεπαῖον (sic). ὅπερ ἐρμηνεύεται τῇ κοινῇ γλώσσει βουλή, φῶς, ζωδοτήρ (= Kedren. hist. comp. 57 D (i. 102 Bekker) βουλή, φῶς, ζωδοτήρ, cp. Soud. s.v. Ὀρφεύς 7 βουλήν, φῶς, ζῶην = Kedren. hist. comp. 84 B (i. 148) βουλή, φῶς, ζῶή) and by Nonnos Abbas collectio et explicatio historiarum quibus Gregorius Nazianzenus in priore invectiva in Julianum usus est 78 (xxxvi. 1028 C Migne) Περὶ Φάνητος καὶ Ἐρικεπαίου. ἐν τοῖς Ὀρφικοῖς ποιήμασιν εἰσηνέχθη τὰ δύο ταῦτα ὀνόματα μετὰ καὶ ἄλλων πολλῶν. ὦν τὸν Φάνητα εἰσφέρει αἰδοῖον ἔχοντα

ὀπίσω περὶ τὴν πυγῆν. λέγουσι δὲ αὐτὸν ἔφορον εἶναι τῆς ζωογόνου δυνάμεως ὁμοίως δὲ καὶ τὸν Ἑρικεπαῖον λέγουσιν ἑτέρας ἔφορον εἶναι δυνάμεως (repeated in a corrupt form by Suid. s.v. Φάνης; see G. Bernhardt ad loc.). From this it appears that the names Μῆτις and Φάνης had an obvious sense for Greek ears, but that Ἑρικεπαῖος or Ἑρικαπαῖος had not. Presumably Μῆτις (masc.) was a Kosename either for πολύμητις, which occurs as an Orphic designation of this deity (Orph. h. Protog. 6. 10), or—and this I regard as the more probable view—for μητίετα, the epic appellative of Zeus (supra i. 14 n. 1). Φάνης was certainly taken by the Greeks to denote a god of light or daylight or sunlight (supra i. 7 n. 6): but of course it remains possible that his name was originally non-Greek; it may e.g. have been Thracο-Phrygian, cp. Auson. epigr. 48. 3 Mysi Phanacen nominant, 49. 1 Μυσῶν δὲ Φανάκης (F. Creuzer *Symbolik und Mythologie*³ Leipzig and Darmstadt 1840 ii. 226, 1842 iv. 80, Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 478 n. ¹, O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2248). Ἑρικεπαῖος or Ἑρικαπαῖος is a well-known crux (for older views see K. W. Goettling De Ericarphao Orphicorum numine Jenae 1862 (= id. Opuscula academica Lipsiae 1869 pp. 206—214); for newer, O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 452 f. and K. Beth ‘Über die Herkunft der orphischen Erikepaios’ (god of Ericibba=Eridu) in the Wiener Studien 1912 xxxiv. 288—300). If we may rely on Malalas’ interpretation ζωοδοτήρ, it is clear that the name was not Greek. I incline to think that it was Thracian or Thracο-Phrygian. Hence its occurrence as a cult-title of Dionysos at Hierokaisareia in Lydia (J. Keil—A. v. Premerstein ‘Bericht über eine Reise in Lydien und der südlichen Aiolis’ in the Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1910 ii. Abh. p. 54 f. no. 112 fig. 51=W. Quandt De Baccho ab Alexandri aetate in Asia Minore culto Halis Saxonum 1913 p. 181 a round altar of white marble inscribed in lettering of s. ii A.D. ἐπὶ ἱεροφάντου | Ἀρτεμιδῶρου τοῦ Ἀπολλωνίου Μηρόφιλος, Περηλίαις καὶ Σεκοῦνδος Ἀπολλωνίου οἱ συγγενεῖς Διοῦνύσω Ἑρικεπαῖω τὸν βωμόν with wreath below and two garlands supported on rani’s-heads). The second element in the compound might be paralleled, as O. Gruppe saw (in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2268), from Παντικάπησις the river in European Sarmatia and Παντικαπῆσιον the town in the Tauric Chersonesos. The first element, it seems to me, recurs in the name of the river Ἑριδανός (with which A. Fick Vorgriechische Ortsnamen Göttingen 1905 p. 129 and Hattiden und Danubier in Griechenland Göttingen 1909 p. 37 compared the river-names Ἀπιδανός in Thessaly, Ἰάριδανος in Lydia, Crete, and Elis). Indeed, if Ἑρι-κεπαῖος meant ‘Giver of Life,’ I would venture to translate Ἑρι-δανός by ‘River of Life’—an appellation suited to that mythical stream (Strab. 215 περὶ τὸν Ἑριδανόν, τὸν μηδαιμῶ γῆς ὄντα, πλησίον δὲ τοῦ Πάδου λεγόμενον, cp. Hdt. 3. 115, Polyb. 2. 16. 6, Plin. nat. hist. 37. 31), which was not only a river on earth but also a constellation in heaven (Hes. frag. 199 Rzach ap. Hyg. fab. 152 b, 154, schol. Stroziana in Caes. Germ. Aratea p. 174, 6 ff. (cp. p. 185, 4 ff.) Breysig, Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 2. 2 f., Arat. phaen. 359 ff. with schol. ad loc. 355, 359, pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 37, Caes. Germ. Aratea 367 ff., Cic. Aratea 143 ff. Bachrens (387 ff.), Mart. Cap. 838, 841, 842, Claudian. de sext. cons. Hon. Aug. 175 ff., Anth. Lat. i. 2 no. 679. 12 Riese (Priscianus), Nonn. Dion. 2. 326 f., 23. 298 ff., 38. 429 ff., Myth. Vat. 3. 6. 21, Eustath. in Dionys. per. 288) by some called Okeanos (Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 32) or the Nile (Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 32, pseudo-Eratosth. catast. 37, schol. Arat. phaen. 359, schol. Caes. Germ. Aratea p. 417, 19 Eyssenhardt): see further R. Brown Eridanus: river and constellation London 1883, G. Thiele Antike Himmelsbilder Berlin 1898 pp. 5, 29 f., 39 f., 49, 124 ff. fig. 50, 147, 164 ff. fig. 72, pls. 2, 4, A. Jeremias Handbuch der allorientalischen Geisteskultur Leipzig 1913 pp. 60, 189, id.

Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1468 fig. 35.] Phanes was also spoken of as Πρωτόγονος (Orph. frag. 86 Kern ap. Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. p. 141 (p. 148, 25 ff. Couvreur), Orph. frag. 85 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 33, 3 ff. Pasquali, eund. in Plat. Tim. i. 450, 9 ff. Diehl, i. 451, 11 ff., iii. 209, 1 f., Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 53 (i. 107, 13 f. Ruelle), 89 (i. 217, 26 f.), 98 (i. 251, 18 ff.), 111 (i. 286, 15 f.), Orph. h. Protog. 6. 1, h. Rhe. 14. 1, Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 20 p. 23 Schwartz, Lact. div. inst. 1. 5, Nonn. Dion. 9. 141 (cp. 157 αὐτογόνου), 12. 34 : see further O. Gruppe in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2257 f., O. Höfer ib. iii. 3183 f.), Ἀνταύγης (Orph. frag. 237, 4 Kern ap. Macrobian. Sat. 1. 18. 12, Orph. h. Protog. 6. 9), Φαίθων (Orph. frag. 73 Kern ap. Lact. div. inst. 1. 5), Διόνυσος (Orph. frag. 237, 3 Kern ap. Macrobian. Sat. 1. 18. 12 f., Orph. frag. 237 p. 250 Kern ap. Diod. 1. 11, Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 336, 15 f. Diehl, cp. Orph. frag. 239 b, 1 Kern ap. Iust. cohort. 15 and frag. 239 b Kern ap. Macrobian. Sat. 1. 18. 18 cited supra i. 187 n. 4, i. 234 n. 4 : see also O. Gruppe in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2260), Εὐβουλεύς (Orph. frag. 237, 4 Kern ap. Macrobian. Sat. 1. 18. 12 and 17, cp. Orph. h. Adon. 56. 3), Πρίηπος ἀναξ (Orph. h. Protog. 6. 9), and Ἔρως (e.g. Orph. frag. 74 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 433, 31 ff. Diehl, Orph. frag. 37 Kern ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 3. 26, Orph. frag. 82 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 101, 20 ff. Diehl, Orph. frag. 83 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Alcib. i. 66 Creuzer, Orph. frag. 170 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 336, 11 ff. Diehl and ap. eund. in Plat. Alcib. i. 233 Creuzer, cp. Orph. Arg. 14 ff.). As μονογενής he was in the time of the emperor Zenon (474—491 A.D.) compared with Christ Himself (theosoph. Tubing. 61 in K. Buresch Klaros Leipzig 1889 p. 116 f. οὐτι ἐν πολλοῖς φάνητα φερωνύμως ὁ Ὀρφέης προσαγορεύει τὸν μονογενῆ, τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ θεοῦ. κ.τ.λ.). Phanes, when he emerged from the 'white egg' (Orph. frag. 70 Kern ap. Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 55 (i. 111, 17 ff. Ruelle) ἔπειτα δ' ἔτευξε μέγας Χρόνος (so C. A. Lobeck for Κρόνος codd.) αἰθέρι διφ | ἠέον ἀργύφειον), contained within him the seed of the gods (Orph. frag. 85 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 33, 5 f. Pasquali Μῆτιν σπέρμα φέροντα θεῶν κλυτόν, ὃν τε φάνητα | πρωτόγονον μάκαρες κάλειον κατὰ μακρόν Ὀλυμπον). Being female as well as male, he begat Nyx, and subsequently consorted with her (Orph. frag. 98 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 450, 22 ff. Diehl, Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 244 (ii. 116, 4 Ruelle), cp. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 170, 4 f. Diehl, Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 209 (ii. 92, 22 f. Ruelle)) and by her had three successive pairs of children—Ge or Gaia and Ouranos (Orph. frag. 109 Kern ap. Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. pp. 141, 144 (pp. 148, 17 ff., 154, 23 ff. Couvreur)), Rhea and Kronos, Hera and Zeus (Damaskios quaest. de primis principiis 244 (ii. 116, 5 ff. Ruelle)). Nyx as queen (Damaskios quaest. de primis principiis 209 (ii. 92, 25 ff. Ruelle)) received the sceptre of Phanes or Erikepaios, and in her turn transmitted it to Ouranos, Kronos, Zeus, Dionysos (Orph. frag. 107 Kern ap. Syrian. in Aristot. met. N. 4. 1091 b 4 p. 182, 9 ff. Kroll, Alex. Aphr. in Aristot. met. N. 4. 1091 b 4 p. 821, 5 ff. Hayduck, Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 306, 12 f. and iii. 168, 15 ff. Diehl, Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. p. 143 (p. 152, 15 ff. Couvreur), Olympiod. in Plat. Phaed. 61 c p. 2, 21 ff. Norvin, Michael Ephes. in Aristot. met. N. 4. 1091 b 4 (ed. Berolin. iv. 828 a 8 ff.), Orph. frag. 101 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 54, 28 ff. Pasquali, Orph. frag. 102 Kern ap. Alex. Aphr. in Aristot. met. N. 4. 1091 b 4 p. 821, 19 ff. Hayduck, Syrian. in Aristot. met. N. 4. 1091 b 4 p. 182, 14 f. Kroll); she also had the gift of prophecy (Orph. frag. 103 Kern ap. Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. p. 140 (p. 147, 20 ff. Couvreur)). The gods saw with wonderment the light of their creator Phanes shining in the aithér (Orph. frag. 86 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 435, 3 ff. Diehl (cp. ib. iii. 83, 4 ff.), Prokl. in Plat. theol. 3. 21 p. 161 Portus, Damask quaest. de primis principiis 113 (i. 291, 18 ff. Ruelle), Herm. in Plat. Phaedr. p. 141 (p. 148, 25 ff. Couvreur), cp. Wolf anecd. iii. 209). But Zeus with a view to the ordering of all things consulted both Nyx and Kronos, whom he had already bound (Orph. frag. 164 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 206, 26 ff. Diehl, id. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 30 f.) and mutilated after making him drunk on honey (Orph. frag. 154 Kern ap. Porph. de antr. hymn. 16 παρά δὲ τῷ Ὀρφεὶ ὁ Κρόνος μέλιτι ὑπὸ Διὸς ἐνεδρεύεται· πλησθεὶς γὰρ μέλιτος μεθύει καὶ σκοτοῦται ὡς ἀπὸ (Lobeck cj. ὑπὸ οἴνου καὶ ὑπνοῖ ὡς παρὰ Πλάτωνι (symph. 203 B ὁ οὖν Πόρος μεθυσθεὶς τοῦ νέκταρος, οἶνος γὰρ οὐπῶ ἦν, εἰς τὸν τοῦ Διὸς κῆπον εἰσελθὼν βεβαρημένος ἠῖδεν) ὁ Πόρος τοῦ νέκταρος πλησθεὶς· οὐπῶ γὰρ οἶνος ἦν. φησὶ γὰρ παρ' Ὀρφεὶ ἡ Νύξ τῷ Διὶ ὑποπιθεμένη τὸν διὰ μέλιτος δόλον· εὖτ' ἂν δῆ μιν ἴδῃαι ὑπὸ δρυσὶν ὑψικόμοισιν | ἔρροισιν μεθυσάων μελισσάων ἐριβόμβων, | δῆσον αὐτὸν (Barnes cj. αὐτίκα μιν δῆσον). ὁ καὶ πάσχει ὁ Κρόνος καὶ δεθεὶς ἐκτέμνεται ὡς ὁ Οὐρανός, cp. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. pp. 54, 19 and 62, 3 ff. Pasquali). At the advice of Nyx Zeus leapt upon Phanes and swallowed him (Orph. frag. 82 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 102, 2 f. Diehl ὁ δὲ Ὀρφεὺς καὶ ἐπιπηδᾷ αὐτῷ καὶ καταπίνειν δεξιᾶσθς μέντοι τῆς Νυκτός, Orph. frag. 167 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 324, 14 ff. Diehl ταῦτα δὲ καὶ ὁ Ὀρφεὺς ἐνδεικνύμενος καταπίνεσθαι τὸν νοητὸν θεὸν ἔφατο παρὰ τοῦ δημιουργοῦ τῶν ὄλων· ...ὁ δὲ θεολόγος καὶ οἷον ἐπιπηδᾷ αὐτὸν τῷ νοητῷ καὶ καταπίνειν, ὡς ὁ μῦθος ἔφησεν). Having thus with wide open jaws devoured Phanes, Zeus had within his own belly the body of all things, and, since he had digested the power of that creative god, was himself able to create the universe anew (Orph. frag. 167 a Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 324, 29 ff. Diehl ὡς τότε Πρωτογόνοιο χανὼν μένος Ἑρικεπαίου | τῶν πάντων δέμας εἶχεν ἔη ἐνὶ γαστέρι κοίλῃ, | μίξε δ' εἰὸς μελέεσσι θεοῦ δυνάμιν τε καὶ ἀλκῆν, | τοῦνεκα σὺν τῷ πάντα (παρὰ codd. E. Abel prints παντὶ E. Diehl cj. πάντα) Διὸς πάλιν ἐντὸς ἐτύχθη. |... πάντα τάδε κρύψας αὔθις φάος ἐς πολυγηθῆς | μέλλεν ἀπὸ κραδίης προφέρειν πάλι θέσκελα ρέζων, cp. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 62, 3 ff. Pasquali). Inside Zeus were made afresh the world and all its contents, including gods and goddesses (Orph. frag. 167 b Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 313, 9 ff. Diehl τοῦνεκα σὺν τῷ πάντα (E. Abel gives παντὶ) Διὸς πάλιν ἐντὸς ἐτύχθη | αἰθέρου εὐρείης ἢδ' οὐρανοῦ ἀγλαῶν ὕψος, | πόντου τ' ἀρυγέτου γαίης τ' ἐρικυδέος ἔδρη (E. Abel has εὔρη), | Ὀκειανὸς τε μέγας καὶ νεάτα τάρταρα γαίης | καὶ ποταμοὶ καὶ πόντος ἀπείριτος ἄλλα τε πάντα | πάντες τ' ἀθάνατοι μάκαρες θεοὶ ἠδὲ θείαιαι, | ὅσσα τ' ἔην γεγαῶτα καὶ ὕστερον ὀπίσσω ἔμελλον, | ἐνγένετο, Ζητὸς δ' ἐνὶ γαστέρι σύρρα πεφύκει, cp. Prokl. in Plat. Parm. iii (p. 621 Stallbaum), Orph. frag. 169 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Parm. iv (p. 750 Stallbaum) οὕτως δὲ Ζητὸς καὶ ἐν ὄμμασι πατρός ἀνακτος | ναιούσ' ἀθάνατοὶ τε θεοὶ θνητοὶ τ' ἄνθρωποι | ὅσσα τ' ἔην γεγαῶτα καὶ ὕστερον ὀπίσσω ἔμελλε, cp. theosoph. Teaching. 50 in K. Buresch Klarios Leipzig 1889 p. 109 f.). Accordingly Zeus himself was described by the Orphists in pantheistic terms (Orph. frag. 21 a Kern ap. Aristot. de mundo 7. 401 a 27 ff. (cp. Clem. Al. strom. 5. 14 p. 409, 4 ff. Stählin) διὸ καὶ ἐν τοῖς Ὀρφικοῖς οὐ κακῶς λέγεται:—

Zeus πρώτος γένητο, Zeus ὕστατος ἀργικέρανος·
 Zeus κεφαλῆ, Zeus μέσσα, Διὸς δ' ἐκ πάντα τέτυκται·
 Zeus πυθμῆν γαίης τε καὶ οὐρανοῦ ἀστερόεντος·
 Zeus ἄρσην γένητο, Zeus ἄμβροτος ἔπλετο νύμφη·
 Zeus πνοιή πάντων, Zeus ἀκαμάτου πυρὸς ὄρμη·
 Zeus πόντου ρίζα, Zeus ἥλιος ἠδὲ σελήνη·
 Zeus βασιλεὺς, Zeus ἀρχὸς πάντων ἀργικέρανος· πάντας γὰρ κρύψας αὔθις φάος ἐς πολυγηθῆς ἐξ ἱερῆς κραδίης ἀνεγένετο μέγαρα ρέζων.

A fuller version of these lines is found in Orph. frag. 168 Kern ap. Euseb. φρασφ. ευ. 3. 9. 1—3=Stob. eccl. 1. 1. 23 p. 29, 9 ff. Wachsmuth (cp. Prokl. in Plat. Alcib. i. 233 Creuzer, id. in Plat. Parm. iii (p. 621 Stallbaum), id. in Plat. Tim. i. 313, 18 ff. Diehl, ib. i. 161, 23 ff., i. 307, 28 ff.) τὸν γὰρ Δία τὸν νοῦν τοῦ κόσμου ὑπολαμβάνοντες, ὅς τὰ ἐν αὐτῷ ἐδημιούργησεν ἔχων τὸν κόσμον, ἐν μὲν ταῖς θεολογίαις ταύτῃ περὶ αὐτοῦ παραδεδῶκασιν οἱ τὰ Ὀρφείως εἰπόντες·

Zeus πρώτος γένητο, Zeus ὕστατος ἀργικέρανος·
 Zeus κεφαλή, Zeus μέσσα, Διὸς δ' ἐκ πάντα τέτυκται·
 Zeus ἄρσην γένητο, Zeus ἄφθιτος¹ ἔπλετο νύμφη·
 Zeus πυθμὴν γαίης τε καὶ οὐρανοῦ ἀστερόεντος·
 Zeus βασιλεύς, Zeus αὐτὸς ἀπάντων ἀρχιγένεθλος.
 ἐν κράτος, εἰς δαίμων γένητο, μέγας ἀρχὸς ἀπάντων, ἐν δὲ² δέμας βασιλείον, ἐν ᾧ τάδε πάντα κυκλείται, πῦρ καὶ ὕδωρ καὶ γαῖα καὶ αἰθήρ, νύξ τε καὶ ἡμαρ, καὶ Μῆτις πρώτος γενέτωρ³ καὶ Ἔρως πολυτερπῆς· πάντα γὰρ ἐν μεγάλῳ Ζηνὸς⁴ τάδε σώματι⁵ κείται.
 τοῦ δὴ τοι κεφαλῆ⁶ μὲν ἰδεῖν καὶ καλὰ πρόσωπα οὐρανοῦ αἰγλήεις, ὃν χρύσεια ἀμφὶς ἔθειραι ἄστρον μαρμαρέων περικαλλέες ἠερέθονται· ταύρεα δ' ἀμφοτέρωθε δύο χρύσεια κέρατα, ἀντολίη τε δύσις τε, θεῶν ὁδοὶ οὐρανόων· ὄμματα δ' ἠελίος τε καὶ ἀντίωσα⁷ σελήνη· νοῦς⁸ δέ <οἱ⁹> ἀψευδής, βασιλῆϊος¹⁰, ἀφθιτος αἰθήρ, ᾧ δὴ πάντα κλύει¹¹ καὶ φράζεται, οὐδέ τις ἐστὶν αὐτῇ οὐτ'¹² ἐνοπή οὔτε¹³ κτύπος οὐδέ¹⁴ μὲν ὄσσα ἢ λήθει Διὸς οὐας ὑπερμενέος Κρονίωνος.
 ὦδε μὲν ἀθανάτην κεφαλὴν ἔχει ἠδὲ νόημα· σῶμα¹⁵ δὲ οἱ περιφεγγές¹⁶, ἀπείριτον, ἀστυφέλικτον, ἄβριμον¹⁷, ὄβριμόγυιον, ὑπερμενές ὦδε τέτυκται· ὦμοι μὲν καὶ στέρνα καὶ εὐρέα νῶτα θεοῖο αἴηρ εὐρυβίης· πτέρυγες δὲ οἱ ἐξεφύοντο, τῆς ἐπὶ πάντα ποτᾶθ'· ἰερῇ δὲ οἱ ἔπλετο νηδὺς γαῖά τε παμμήτειρ' ὕρέων τ' αἰπεινὰ κάρηνα· μέσση δὲ ζῶνη βαρυηχέος¹⁸ οἶδμα θαλάσσης καὶ πόντου· πυμάτη δὲ βάσις χθονὸς ἐνδοθι ρίζαι τάρταρά τ' εὐρώεντα καὶ ἔσχατα πείρατα γαίης.
 πάντα δ' ἀποκρύψας¹⁹ αὐθις φάος ἐς πολυνηθὲς μέλλεν²⁰ ἀπὸ κραδίης προφέρειν πάλι, θέσκελα ῥέζων.

Zeus οὖν ὁ πᾶς κόσμος, ζῶον ἐκ ζῶων καὶ θεὸς ἐκ θεῶν· Zeus δέ, καθὸ νοῦς, ἀφ' οὗ

¹ ἄμβροτος Stob.

² δὲ om. Stob.

³ So Prokl. πρωτογενέτωρ codd. A Euseb., F Stob.

⁴ Ζηνὸς μεγάλῳ Stob. Ζηνὸς μεγάλου Prokl.

⁵ δώματι Prokl.

⁶ δ' ἦτοι κεφαλῆ Prokl. δὴ τοι κεφαλὴν Euseb.

⁷ Heringa cj. ἀνταυγοῦσα.

⁸ Heringa cj. οὐς.

⁹ So Prokl. Om. Euseb., cod. F Stob.

¹⁰ Heringa cj. ἀψευδὲς βασιλῆϊον.

¹¹ κλύει cod. F Stob. and Prokl. κυκλεῖ Euseb.

¹² οὐδ' Stob.

¹³ οὐδέ Stob. οὐδ' αὖ Prokl.

¹⁴ So Prokl. οὔτε Euseb.

¹⁵ σῆμα cod. F Stob.

¹⁶ πυριφεγγές Prokl.

¹⁷ ἄτρομον Stob.

¹⁸ βαθυηχέος Prokl.

¹⁹ τάδε κρύψας Prokl.

²⁰ So cod. F Stob., cp. Prokl. μέλλει Euseb.

προφέρει πάντα καὶ δημιουργεῖ τοῖς νοήμασι. κ.τ.λ., ib. 3. 9. 10 f. δι' ὧν ἀνεπικαλύπτως ζῶον μέγα τὸν κόσμον ὑποθέμενος, καὶ τοῦτον Δία προσειπὼν, νοῦν μὲν αὐτοῦ τὸν αἰθέρα, σῶμα δὲ τὰ λοιπὰ τοῦ κόσμου μέρη ἀπεφίηματο εἶναι. τοιοῦτος μὲν τις ὁ δία τῶν ἐπῶν ἐπιγραφόμενος τυγχάνει Ζεὺς. ὁ δὲ τῶν ἐπῶν ἐξηγητῆς ἀρξάμενος μὲν τοῖς ἔπεισι ἀκολούθως λέγει, Ζεὺς οὖν ὁ πᾶς κόσμος, ζῶον ἐκ ζῶων, θεὸς ἐκ θεῶν· σαφῶς τὸν θεολογούμενον Δία οὐδὲ ἄλλον ἢ τὸν ὀράμενον καὶ αἰσθητὸν κόσμον δηλοῦσθαι διὰ τῶν ἐπῶν ἐρμηνεύσας). Having asked of Nyx how all things might be both one and divided, he was bidden to wrap aithér round the world and tie up the bundle with the 'golden cord' (Orph. frag. 165 f. Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 313, 31 ff. Diehl, ii. 24, 23 ff., ii. 112, 3 ff.: cp. Il. 8. 18 ff. with the sensible remarks of Dr W. Leaf ad loc.). In arranging the universe he was helped by Dike (Orph. frag. 158 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. remp. ii. 144, 29 ff. Kroll, in Plat. theol. 6. 8 p. 363 Portus) and Nomos (Orph. frag. 160 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 315, 11 ff. Diehl, id. in Plat. Alcib. i. 219 f. Creuzer). Rhea, as the mother of Zeus, was named Demeter (Orph. frag. 145 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. pp. 80, 10 ff. and 90, 28 ff. Pasquali, in Plat. theol. 5. 11 p. 267 Portus). Athena in full armour sprang from the head of Zeus (Orph. frag. 174 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 166, 21 ff. Diehl, cp. Orph. frag. 176 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 169, 1 ff. Diehl) and, as 'leader of the Kouretes,' taught them rhythmic dancing (Orph. frag. 185 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 112, 16 ff. Pasquali): hence the first Kouretes are said to have been wreathed with olive (Orph. frag. 186 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. remp. i. 138, 12 ff. Kroll). Athena was also the best of the goddesses at weaving and spinning (Orph. frag. 178 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 21, 13 ff. Pasquali). Being herself the wisdom of the creator and the virtue of the leading gods, she bore the name of Arete (Orph. frag. 175 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 170, 3 ff. Diehl, cp. i. 185, 1 ff.). Artemis, the lover of virginity (Orph. frag. 187 f. Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 105, 18 ff. Pasquali), was also called Hekate (Orph. frag. 188 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 106, 25 ff. Pasquali). Zeus and Dione between them produced Aphrodite, who arose—like her namesake the daughter of Ouranos—from the seed of the god falling into the sea (cp. Orph. frag. 127 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 110, 15 ff. Pasquali μήδεα δ' ἐς πέλαγος πέσεν ὑψόθεν, ἀμφὶ δὲ τοῖσι | λευκὸς ἐπιπλώουσιν εἰλίσσεται πάντοθεν ἀφρός· | ἐν δὲ περιπλομέναις ὄραις ἐνιαυτὸς ἔτικτεν | παρθένον αἰδοίην, ἣν δὴ παλάμαις ὑπέδεκτο | γεινομένην τὸ πρῶτον ὁμοῦ Ζηλῶς τ' Ἀπάτης τε of the first Aphrodite with Orph. frag. 183 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 110, 23 ff. Pasquali τὸν δὲ πόθος πλέον εἶλ', ἀπὸ δ' ἔκθορε πατρὶ μεγίστω | αἰδοίων ἀφροῖο γονή, ὑπέδεκτο δὲ πόντος | σπέρμα Διὸς μεγάλου· περιτελλομένου δ' ἐνιαυτοῦ | ὄραις καλλιφύτοις τέκ' ἐγεροσιγέλωτ' Ἀφροδίτην | ἀφρογενή of the second). Zeus also mated with his sister Hera, who was said to be ισοτελής, 'of equal rank,' with him (Orph. frag. 163 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 450, 20 ff. Diehl, cp. ib. iii. 249, 2 ff. So also Orph. εὐχὴ πρὸς Μουσαῖον 16, id. h. Her. 16. 2, id. frag. 115 Kern ap. Eustath. in Dionys. her. 1, Dion Chrys. or. 36 p. 99 Reiske). O. Gruppe (Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 637 ff., in the Jahrb. f. class. Philol. 1890 Suppl. xvii. 716 ff., Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 432, in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1140 f.) contends that the Rhapsodic theogony further included much that E. Abel (Orphica Lipsiae—Pragae 1885 p. 224 ff.) assigns to the Τελεταί, in particular the whole story of Dionysos. Zeus consorted with his own mother Rhea or Demeter, both he and she being in the form of snakes, and had by her a horned, four-eyed, two-faced daughter Phersephone or Kore, with whom he, again in snake-form, consorted and had for offspring a horned babe, the chthonian Dionysos or Zagreus (supra i. 398: other notices of the myth in Ov. met. 6. 114, Philostr. epist. 30 (58) Hercher, Nonn. Dion. 5. 563 ff., Orph. frag. 195 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 85, 19 ff. Pasquali, Orph. frag. 198 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. theol. 6. 11 p. 371 Portus, cp. Orph. frags. 180, 192 f. Kern with the remarks of Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 550 ff. and Orph. frag. 43 Kern). Zeus installed Dionysos or Zagreus on his own throne as king of the gods, allowing him to hold the sceptre and wield the lightning, the thunder, and the rain (supra i. 398 f., 647 n. 3). The decrees of the Father were confirmed by the Son (Orph. frag. 218 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 316, 3 ff. Diehl κραίνει μὲν οὖν Ζεὺς πάντα πατήρ, Βάκχος δ' ἐπέκραυε, with which Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 432 n. 1 aptly cp. Damaskios quaest. de primis principibus 245 (ii. 117, 2 ff. Ruelle) καὶ δὴ καὶ ὁ Διόνυσος ἐπικραίνει τὰ τοῦ Διὸς ἔργα, φησὶν Ὀρφεύς, ὀλοποιοῦ τοῦ Διὸς ὄντος). Apollon (Orph. frag. 211 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Alcib. i. 83 Creuzer) and the Kouretes (Orph. frag. 151 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 58, 1 ff. Pasquali, in Plat. Tim. i. 317, 11 ff. Diehl, in Plat. theol. 5. 3 p. 253 Fortus and 5. 35 p. 322 Portus) were set to keep watch and ward over the infant king, who was nurtured by the Nymphs (cp. Nonn. Dion. 24. 43 ff.) like a fruitful olive (Orph. frag. 206 Kern ap. Clem. Al. Strom. 6. 2 p. 442, 8 ff. Stählin) till his sixth (?) year (Orph. frag. 257 Kern ap. Tzetz. exeg. Il. p. 26 (ed. G. Hermann Leipzig 1812), cited in this connexion by Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 554). But Hera in anger got the Titans to trick the boy by means of certain toys (Orph. frag. 34 Kern ap. Clem. Al. Protr. 2. 17. 2 f. p. 14, 7 ff. Stählin (=Euseb. praef. ev. 2. 3. 23 f.) τὰ γὰρ Διονύσου μυστήρια τέλεον ἀπάνθρωπα· ὃν εἰσέτι παῖδα ὄντα ἐνόπλων κινήσει περιχορευόντων Κουρήτων, δόλον δὲ ὑποδύντων Τιτάνων, ἀπατήσαντες παιδαριώδεσιν ἀθύρμασιν, οἷτοι δὴ οἱ Τιτᾶνες διέσπασαν, ἔτι νηπίαχον ὄντα, ὡς ὁ τῆς Τελετῆς ποιητὴς Ὀρφεύς φησὶν ὁ Θράκιος: "κᾶνος καὶ ῥόμβος καὶ παίγνια καμπεσίγνια, | μῆλα τε χρύσεια καλὰ παρ' Ἑσπερίδων λιγυφώνων." καὶ τῆσδε ὑμῖν τῆς τελετῆς τὰ ἀχρεῖα σύμβολα οὐκ ἀχρεῖον εἰς κατάγνωσιν παραθέσθαι· ὑστράγαλος, σφαῖρα, στρόβιλος, μῆλα, ῥόμβος, ἔσοπτρον, πίκος, cp. Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 19 cuius rei testimonium argumentumque fortunae suis prodidit in carminibus Thracius talos, speculum, turbines, volubiles rotulas et teretis pilas et virginibus aurea sumpta ab Hesperidibus mala, supra i. 661: on these 'toys' see further Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 699 ff. and Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 490 f.) including a mirror made by Hephaistos (Orph. frag. 209 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. ii. 80, 19 ff. Diehl). He was looking at himself in this mirror (Plotin. enn. 4. 3. 12, Nonn. Dion. 6. 173), when the Titans, having first smeared their faces with gypsum, attacked him with a knife (Nonn. Dion. 6. 169 ff., cp. supra i. 398, 655 n. 2). To escape them he became a youthful Zeus, an aged Kronos, a babe, a youth, a lion, a horse, a horned snake, a tiger, and a bull (Nonn. Dion. 6. 174 ff., cp. supra i. 398). A bellowing in mid air from the throat of Hera was the signal for his fate: the Titans with their knife cut up his bovine form (Nonn. Dion. 6. 200 ff.) into seven portions (Orph. frag. 210 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. ii. 146, 9 ff. Diehl), one for each of themselves (Orph. frag. 114, 1 f. Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 450, 16 ff. Diehl, Orph. frag. 114, 3 ff. Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 184, 3 ff. Diehl, cp. Orph. frag. 107 p. 171 f. Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 169, 3 ff. Diehl: similarly Typhon divided the body of Osiris into fourteen (Plout. de Is. et Os. 18, 42: see Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Adonis Attis Osiris³ ii. 129 n. 4, Farnell Cults of Gk. States v. 174 ff.) or twenty-six pieces, one for each of his assailants (Diod. 1. 21=Euseb. praef. ev. 2. 1. 16: Diod. 4. 6 calls the assailants Titans)); they then set a caldron on a tripod, boiled the portions, pierced them with spits, held them over the fire (Orph. frag. 35 Kern ap. Clem. Al. Protr. 2. 18. 1 p. 14, 17 ff. Stählin cited supra p. 218, cp. Firm.

Mat. 8. 2), and finally devoured them (Firm. Mat. 6. 3 cited supra i. 661 f., Olympiod. in Plat. Phaed. 61 C pp. 2, 26 and 3, 4 f. Norvin). Thereupon Hekate went to Olympos (Orph. frag. 188 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 107, 1 ff. Pasquali), Zeus appeared, struck the Titans with a thunderbolt, and gave the limbs of Dionysos to Apollon for burial (Orph. frag. 35 Kern ap. Clem. Al. protr. 2. 18. 2 p. 14, 20 ff. Stählin cited supra p. 218). Apollon, at the behest of Zeus, arranged all the limbs in order (Orph. frag. 216 b Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 108, 17 f. Pasquali Οἶνον (= Διονύσου) πάντα μέλη κόσμῳ λαβὲ καὶ μοι ἔνεικε, Prokl. in Plat. Tim. ii. 198, 11 ff. Diehl, cp. ib. ii. 197, 18 ff.) and took them to Parnassos (Orph. frag. 35 Kern ap. Clem. Al. protr. 2. 18. 2 p. 14, 24 f. Stählin cited supra p. 218)—the Titanic caldron being identified with the Delphic tripod (supra p. 218 ff.). The Titans had left intact the heart of Dionysos, and this was rescued by Athena (Orph. frag. 210 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. ii. 145, 18 ff. Diehl, cp. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 109, 19 ff. Pasquali), who was named Παλλὰς because she brandished it (πᾶλλειν) or because it still beat (πᾶλλεσθαι) as she brought it to Zeus (Orph. frag. 35 Kern ap. Clem. Al. protr. 2. 18. 1 p. 14, 16 f. Stählin, schol. Il. 1. 200, et. mag. p. 649, 56 f., et. Gud. p. 450, 9 f., Zonar. lex. s.v. Παλλὰς, Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 355, Eudok. viol. 746, Favorin. lex. p. 1417, 26 ff.: Eustath. in Il. p. 84, 43 f. transfers the incident to the Theban Dionysos, and et. Gud. p. 450, 11 ff. makes Athena drive off the Titans by 'brandishing' her spear. Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 560 n.^o quotes Soud. s.v. κωνοφόροι for the connexion of the heart with Dionysos, and Cornut. theol. 6 p. 6, 7 f. Lang for its relation to Rhea). As to what Zeus did with the heart, opinions differed: some said that he placed it in a gypsum image of the boy (Firm. Mat. 6. 4 cited supra i. 662), but the common view was that he pounded it into a potion and gave it to Semele to drink, that she conceived thereby, and that Zagreus thus came to life again as Dionysos (Hyg. fab. 167 Liber Iovis et Proserpinae filius a Titanis est distractus, cuius cor contritum Iovis Semelae dedit in potionem. ex eo praegnans cum esset facta, Iuno in Beroen nutricem Semelae se commutavit et ait: 'alumna, pete a Iove ut sic ad te veniat, quem ad modum ad Iunonem, ut scias quae voluptas est (J. Scheffer cj. sit cp. fab. 179) cum deo concumbere.' illa autem instigata petit ab Iove, et fulmine est icta. ex cuius utero Liberum exiit et Nyso dedit nutriendum unde Dionysus est appellatus et Bimater est dictus, Orph. frag. 210 p. 231 f. Kern ap. Prokl. h. Ath. Polym. 7. 11 ff. (E. Abel Orphica Lipsiae—Pragae 1885 p. 282) ἡ κραδίην ἐσάσσας ἀμυστύλλετον ἄνακτος | αἰθέρος ἐν γνάλοισι μεριζομένου ποτὲ Βάκχου | Τιτήνων ὑπὸ χερσὶ· πόρες δὲ ἐ πατρὶ φέρουσα, | ὄφρα νέος βουλῆσιν ὑπ' ἀρρήτοιςι τοκῆος | ἐκ Σεμέλης περὶ (Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 561 prints κατὰ κόσμον ἀνηβήσῃ Διόνυσος, Nonn. Dion. 24. 47 ff. (Hydaspes to Dionysos) καὶ σὺ φέρεις Ζαγρῆος ὄλον δέμας· ἀλλὰ σὺ κείνῳ | δὸς χάριν ὀψιτέλεστον, ὅθεν πέλες· ἀρχηγόνου γὰρ | ἐκ κραδίης ἀνέτελλες, ἀειδομένου Διονύσου (H. Koehly cj. ἀεζόμενος Διονύσου, but see Nonn. Dion. 1. 12), Commod. instructiones (an acrostich LIBER PATER etc.) 1. 12. 1 ff. Liberum Patrem certe bis genitum dicitis ipsi. | I n India natus ex Iove Proserpina primum | B elligerans contra Titanas profuso cruore | E xpivavit enim sicut ex mortalibus unus. | R ursus flato (B. Dombart ad loc. notes 'spiritui; animae, vitae?' flato C (l altera (?) manu expunctum). B.A.^{m.}r.¹. fato A¹.r.v.) suo redditus (F. Oehler cj. reddiitur) in altero ventre. | P ercepit (so B. Dombart for percipit codd.) hoc Semele iterum Iovis altera moecha (Maia r. Oehler), | A bscisso (so C. Abscisso B.A.r.v.) cuius utero prope partu (partum r². Oehler) defunctae | T ollitur et datur Niso nutriendus alumnus. | E x eo bis natus Dionysus ille vocatur, | Religio cuius in vacuo falsa curatur, | etc.). Thus the upshot of the Titans' murderous onslaught was that their victim was put together again (Cornut. theol. 31 p. 62, 10 f. Lang μυθολογείται δ' ὅτι διασπασθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν Τιτάνων συνετέθη πάλιν ὑπὸ τῆς Ῥέας, κ.τ.λ. = Eudok. viol. 272 p. 210, 10 ff. Flach, Ioul. ap. Kyrril. Al. c. Iul. 2. 44 (lxxvi. 568 B—C Migne) <τῆ> μητρὶ γὰρ ὁ Ζεὺς ἐμίχθη καὶ παιδοποιησάμενος ἐξ αὐτῆς ἔγημεν αὐτὸς τὴν αὐτοῦ θυγατέρα <οὐδὲ κατέσχευεν vel simile quiddam ins. Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 562 n. f>, ἀλλὰ μυχθεὶς ἀπλῶς ἄλλῳ παραδίδωκεν αὐτήν. εἶτα οἱ Διονύσου σπαραγμοὶ καὶ μελῶν κολλήσεις) and attained a joyful resurrection (Orph. frags. 205, 213, 240 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. iii. 241, 5 ff. Diehl, Iust. Mart. apol. 1. 21 (vi. 360 A Migne), 1. 54 (vi. 410 A—B Migne), cum Tryph. Iud. dial. 69 (vi. 636 C—638 A Migne), Myth. Vat. 3. 12. 5, Macrob. comm. in somn. Scip. 1. 12. 12), whilst the aggressors were visited with condign punishment (Nonn. Dion. 6. 206 ff. makes Zeus fling them into Tartaros, as does Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 188, 26 ff., cp. Prokl. in Plat. remp. i. 93, 22 ff. Kroll; but various offenders, e.g. Atlas, were reserved for special fates (Orph. frag. 215 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 173, 1 ff. Diehl, Simpl. in Aristot. de cael. 2. 1. 284 a 1 p. 375, 12 ff. Heiberg, cp. Firm. Mat. 6. 4 cited supra i. 662). The bodies of those that had been struck by the thunderbolts were reduced to powder, hence called τίτανος (Eustath. in Il. p. 332, 23 ff.: see supra i. 655 n. 2), and from their smoking ashes men were made (Olympiod. in Plat. Phaed. 61 C p. 2, 27 ff. Norvin καὶ τούτους ὀργισθεὶς ὁ Ζεὺς ἐκεραύνωσε, καὶ ἐκ τῆς αἰθάλης τῶν ἀτμῶν τῶν ἀναδοθέντων ἐξ αὐτῶν ὕλης γενομένης γενέσθαι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους, cp. Dion Chrys. or. 30 p. 550 Reiske ὅτι τοῦ τῶν Τιτάνων αἵματος ἐσμὲν ἡμεῖς ἅπαντες οἱ ἄνθρωποι). It follows that we are part and parcel of Dionysus (Olympiod. ib. p. 3, 2 ff. Norvin οὐ δεῖ ἐξάγειν ἡμᾶς ἐαντοὺς ὡς τοῦ σώματος ἡμῶν Διονυσιακοῦ ὄντος· μέρος γὰρ αὐτοῦ ἐσμὲν, εἴ γε ἐκ τῆς αἰθάλης τῶν Τιτάνων συγκείμεθα γεσσαμένων τῶν σαρκῶν τούτου), or he of us (Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 77, 24 ff. Pasquali ὅτι ὁ ἐν ἡμῖν νοῦς Διονυσιακός ἐστιν καὶ ἀγαλμα ὄντως τοῦ Διονύσου. κ.τ.λ.). Others taught that men arose from the blood of the Giants (Ov. met. 1. 154 ff., interp. Serv. in Verg. ecl. 6. 41) or from a rain of blood-drops let fall by Zeus (Ioul. frag. epist. i. 375, 21 ff. Hertlein ἀποβλέψαντα...εἰς τὴν τῶν θεῶν φήμην, ἣ παραδέδοται διὰ τῶν ἀρχαίων ἡμῖν θεωργῶν, ὡς, ὅτε Ζεὺς ἐκόσμηε τὰ πάντα, σταγόνων αἵματος ἱερῶν πεσοσῶν, ἐξ ὧν πον τὸ τῶν ἀνθρώπων βλαστῆσειε γένος).

The Rhapsodies, which—as the foregoing summary shows—began with theogony and ended with anthropogony, are supposed by O. Gruppe (Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 430, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1141 ff., cp. Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 215) to have been put together at Athens between 550 and 300 B.C., though they did not obtain much recognition till the time of the neo-Pythagoreans. A provenance in Pisistratic Athens is suggested, he thinks, by the dedication of this Orphic poem to Mousaios (theosoph. Tubing. 61 in K. Buresch Klaros Leipzig 1889 p. 117, 3), by the identification of Phanes with Metis which allowed Athena (infra § 9 (h) ii (μ)) to be viewed as one aspect of the reborn Erikepaios, by the affiliation of Artemis or Hekate (supra p. 1029) to Demeter (Orph. frag. 188 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl. p. 106, 25 ff. Pasquali, Orph. frag. 41 Kern ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 3. 467, cp. Kallim. frag. 556 Schneider ap. schol. Theokr. 2. 12)—a genealogy known to Aischylos (supra p. 252), and by the equation of Rhea with Demeter (supra i. 398, ii. 1029) which appears also in Euripides (Eur. Hel. 1301 ff.) and other fifth-century poets (Pind. Isthm. 7 (6). 3 f, Melanippid. frag. 10 Bergk⁴ ap. Philodem. περὶ εὐσεβείας 51, 11 ff. p. 23 Gomperz: see further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1169 n. 7, O. Kern in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 2755, Farnell Cults of Gk. States iii. 32, 312). Bendis (Orph. frag. 200 Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. remp. i. 18, 12 ff. Kroll), the one barbaric deity mentioned in the poem, was worshipped at Athens in 403 B.C. (supra p. 115), if not earlier (A. Rapp in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 780, G. Knaack in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 269 f.: Gruppe in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1142 suggests that her cult was introduced 'wahrscheinlich durch Peisistratos' thrakische Unternehmungen'). M. Mayer Die Giganten und Titanen Berlin 1887 p. 239 f. (cp. ib. p. 3 n. 2) notes that Kratinos the younger, a contemporary of Platon the philosopher, in his Gigantes frag. 1 (Frag. com. Gr. iii. 374 Meineke) ap. Athen. 661 E—F ἐνθυμείσθε (so A. Meineke for ἐνθύμει δὲ codd. K. W. Dindorf cj. ἐνθυμοῦ (?) δὲ) τῆς γῆς ὡς γλυκὴ | ἔξει, καπνὸς τ' ἐξέρχεται εὐωδέστερος (T. Bergk cj. εὐωδέστατος); | οἰκεί τις ὡς ἔοικεν ἐν τῷ χάσματι | λιβανοστοπῶλης ἢ μάγειρος Σικελικός makes fun of the scene in which Zeus was attracted to the Titans' feast by the smell of roast flesh (Orph. frag. 34 Kern ap. Arnob. adv. nat. 5. 19, Orph. frag. 35 Kern ap. Clem. Al. protr. 2. 18. 2 p. 14, 20 ff. Stählin cited supra p. 218) and works in a not very appropriate allusion to the χάσμα (Orph. frag. 66 a Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. remp. ii. 138, 8 ff. Kroll, Syrian. in Aristot. met. 2. 4. 1000 b 14 p. 43, 30 f. Kroll, Simplic. in Aristot. phys. 4. 1. 208 b 29 p. 528, 14 f. Diels, Orph. frag. 66 b Kern ap. Prokl. in Plat. Tim. i. 385, 29 ff. Diehl). Further evidence as to date is at best doubtful. Platon himself has no direct allusion to the Rhapsodies¹; but it must not be inferred that therefore they are post-Platonic, for they in turn are apparently uninfluenced either by Platon or by later philosophers. Their principal trait, the conception of a world born and re-born, first created by Phanes and then re-created by Zeus, points rather—as Gruppe saw (Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 643 ff., Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 428 ff., and in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1143 ff.)—to ideas that were current in Greece (Anaximandros, Herakleitos, Empedokles) between, say, 550 and 450 B.C. On the whole, then, it may be concluded that the Rhapsodic Theogony was composed at Athens (?) c. 500 B.C. (?), and consisted in a rehandling of older Orphic materials by a Pythagorising (?) poet. Hence its vogue among neo-Pythagorean writers of the Graeco-Roman age.

(4) Conspectus of the Orphic Theogonies.

For clearness' sake I add a conspectus showing the three chief forms of Orphic theogony. The letters at the side indicate the creation (A) and re-creation (B) of the world: the numerals give the sequence of mythical generations (1—6).

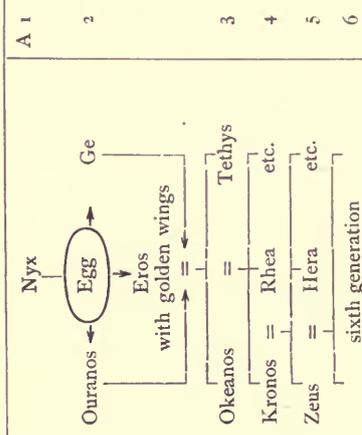

(5) The Cosmic Egg.

The most striking feature of these theogonies is the cosmic egg—a conception discussed by R. G. Latham Descriptive Ethnology London 1859 i. 439—441, J. Grimm Teutonic Mythology trans. J. S. Stallybrass London 1883 ii. 559 n. 4, Costantin in the Rev. Arch. 1899 i. 355 ff. fig. 6 f., L. Frobenius Das Zeitalter des Sonnengottes Berlin 1904 i. 269—271 ('Die Ureimythe'), M. P. Nilsson 'Das Ei im Totenkult der Alten' in the Archiv f. Rel. 1908 xi. 543 and 544 f., and especially F. Lukas 'Das Ei als kosmogonische Vorstellung' in the Zeitschrift des Vereins für Volkskunde 1894 iv. 227—243 (this author attempts, not altogether successfully, to distinguish three aspects of the egg in ancient and modern cosmogonies: (1) the world in general is egg-shaped and ¹ Mr F. M. Cornford, however, points out to me that Plat. legg. 715 E—716 A is apparently paraphrasing not only, as the schol. ad loc. saw, Orph. frag. 21 Kern Zeὺς ἀρχή, Ζεὺς μέσσα, Διὸς δ' ἐκ πάντα τέτυκται, but also Orph. frag. 158 Kern τῆ δὲ Διὸς πολυπόουτος ἐφέλετο πᾶσιν ἀρωγός—both lines being probably extant in the Rhapsodic Theogony (cp. E. Abel Orphica Lipsiae—Pragae 1885 p. 157 n. 1).

EARLY ORPHIC THEOGONY composed in Asia Minor (?) c. s. x B.C. (?) as the result of Ionic speculation on Thracio-Phrygian beliefs.

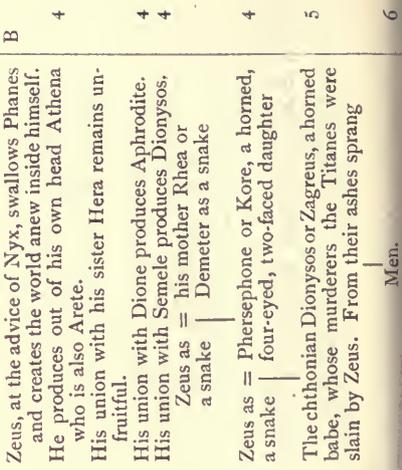

ORPHIC THEOGONY OF HELLANIKOS

i.e. Hellenikos' summary of a poem composed in Ionia (?) c. 500 B.C. (?) under the influence of oriental cosmogony and of Greek philosophy.

RHAPSODIC THEOGONY

composed at Athens (?) c. 500 B.C. (?) by a Pythagorising (?) poet in touch with the doctrines of other Greek philosophers.

Orphic Theogonies and Cosmogonic Eros 1035

was originally an egg ('Weltei'); (2) the sun in particular is egg-shaped and was originally an egg ('Lichtei', 'Sonnenei): (3) the life of all things has been developed like that of a chicken from an egg ('das Ei als Embryonalzustand').

Confining our attention to old-world examples, we note the following:

(a) EGYPT. Râ as a phoenix (supra i. 341) came out of the great egg produced by Seb and Nut (E. A. Wallis Budge The Gods of the Egyptians London 1904 ii. 95 f., 107 n. 1, 110, cp. A. Erman A Handbook of Egyptian Religion trans. A. S. Griffith London 1907 pp. 26, 81, 157). Ptah the 'Padre dei principii creatore dell' uovo del sole e della Luna' (Lanzone Dizion. di Mitol. Egiz. p. 239) was represented as a potter shaping on his wheel the cosmic egg (id. ib. p. 250 f. pl. 94, 1). Cp. Sir G. Maspero *The Dawn of Civilization*⁴ London 1901 p. 128 with id. The Struggle of the Nations London 1896 p. 168 n. 1.

(b) INDIA. In Vedic cosmogony Aditi had eight sons, but the eighth, Mārtāṇḍa, the 'Egg-born,' she cast away, having brought him forth to be born and to die (i.e. to rise and to set: see the Rig-Veda 10. 72. 8 and the remarks of E. W. Hopkins The Religions of India Boston etc. 1895 p. 208 n. 2, A. A. Macdonell Vedic Mythology Strassburg 1897 p. 13, H. Oldenberg La religion du Vēda Paris 1903 p. 156 n. 2). Again, according to the Rig-Veda 10. 121. 1 (Vedic Hymns trans. F. Max Müller (The Sacred Books of the East xxxii) Oxford 1891 p. 1), 'In the beginning there arose the Golden Child (Hiranyagarbha); as soon as born, he alone was the lord of all that is'..., on which Max Müller ib. p. 6 observes that the epithet Hiranyagarbha 'means literally the golden embryo, the golden germ or child, or born of a golden womb, and was no doubt an attempt at naming the sun'—a view endorsed by A. A. Macdonell Vedic Mythology Strassburg 1897 pp. 13, 119: 'In the last verse of this hymn, he is called Prajāpati, "lord of created beings," the name which became that of the chief god of the Brāhmaṇas.' 'This is the only occurrence of the name [Hiranyagarbha] in the RV., but it is mentioned several times in the AV. and the literature of the Brāhmaṇa period (cp. p. 13). Hiranyagarbha is also alluded to in a passage of the AV. (4, 2⁸) where it is stated that the waters produced an embryo, which as it was being born, was enveloped in a golden covering. In the TS. (5, 5, 1²) Hiranyagarbha is expressly identified with Prajāpati. In the later literature he is chiefly a designation of the personal Brahman.' A. A. Macdonell op. cit. p. 14: 'The account given in the Chāndogya Brāhmaṇa (5, 19) is that not-being became being; the latter changed into an egg, which after a year by splitting in two became heaven and earth; whatever was produced is the sun, which is Brahma'... Similarly in the Khāndogya-upanishad 3. 19. 1 ff. (The Upanishads trans. F. Max Müller (The Sacred Books of the East i) Oxford 1879 p. 54 f.): '1. Āditya (the sun) is Brahman... In the beginning this was non-existent. It became existent, it grew. It turned into an egg. The egg lay for the time of a year. The egg broke open. The two halves were one of silver, the other of gold. 2. The silver one became this earth, the golden one the sky, the thick membrane (of the white) the mountains, the thin membrane (of the yoke [sic!]) the mist with the clouds, the small veins the rivers, the fluid the sea. 3. And what was born from it that was Āditya, the sun'... Cp. the birth of Prajāpati as described in the Ṣaṭapatha Brāhmaṇa 11. 1. 6. 1 f. (The Ṣaṭapatha-Brāhmaṇa trans. J. Eggeling Part v (The Sacred Books of the East xlv) Oxford 1900 p. 12): '1 Verily, in the beginning this (universe) was water, nothing but a sea of water. The waters desired, "How can we be reproduced?" They toiled and performed fervid devotions¹ (1 Or, they toiled and became heated (with fervid devotion).), when they were becoming heated, a golden egg was produced. The year, indeed, was not then in existence : this golden egg floated about for as long as the space of a year. 2 In a year's time a man, this Praḡapati, was produced therefrom... He broke open this golden egg'... or the birth of Brahma as related in the Laws of Manu 1. 5 ff. (The Laws of Manu trans. G. Bühler (The Sacred Books of the East xxv) Oxford 1886 p. 2 ff.) : ' 5 This (universe) existed in the shape of Darkness... 6 Then the divine Self-existent (Svayambhū, himself)... appeared, dispelling the darkness... 8 He, desiring to produce beings of many kinds from his own body, first with a thought created the waters, and placed his seed in them. 9 That (seed) became a golden egg, in brilliancy equal to the sun ; in that (egg) he himself was born as Brahman, the progenitor of the whole world... 12 The divine one resided in that egg during a whole year, then he himself by his thought (alone) divided it into two halves ; 13 And out of those two halves he formed heaven and earth, between them the middle sphere, the eight points of the horizon, and the eternal abode of the waters.' Later Hinduism sometimes represented Brahma as born in a golden egg (Mahā-Bhārata 12. 312. 1—7 cited by E. W. Hopkins The Religions of India Boston etc. 1895 p. 411), and spoke of a bubble, which contained Viṣṇu as Brahma (Viṣṇu Purāṇa 1. 2. 45 f.). See further H. Jacobi in J. Hastings Encyclopædia of Religion and Ethics Edinburgh 1911 iv. 156—160 and the monograph of K. F. Geldner Zur Kosmogonie des Rigveda Marburg 1908.

(c) PERSIA. In Parsi speculation of Sassanian date Ahura the creator made heaven like an egg with the earth for its yolk. Minokhired 44. 8—11 (Dinā-i Maīnōg-i Khrad trans. E. W. West (The Sacred Books of the East xxiv) Oxford 1885 p. 84 f.) : ' The sky and earth and water, and whatever else is within them are egg-like (khâiyak-dis), just as it were like the egg of a bird. 9. The sky is arranged above the earth (L 19 adds 'and below the earth'), like an egg, by the handiwork of the creator Aûhar Mazda ; (10) and the semblance of the earth, in the midst of the sky (L 19 has 'and the earth within the sky'), is just like as it were the yolk amid the egg ; [(11) and the water within the earth and sky is such as the water within the egg.]'. Cp. Plout. de Is. et Os. 47 εἶθ' ὁ μὲν Ὀρομάζης τρις ἐαυτὸν αἰθέρας ἀπέστησε τοῦ ἡλίου τοσοῦτον ὅσον ὁ ἡλίος τῆς γῆς ἀφέστηκε, καὶ τὸν οὐρανὸν ἀστροῖς ἐκόσμησεν· ἓνα δὲ ἀστὲρα πρὸ πάντων οἶον φύλακα καὶ προόπτῃν ἐγκατέστησε τὸν σείριον, ἄλλους δὲ ποιήσας τέτταρας καὶ εἴκοσι θεοὺς εἰς ὧν ἔθηκεν. οἱ δὲ ὑπὸ τοῦ Ἀρεμάνιον γενόμενοι καὶ αὐτοὶ τοσοῦτοι διέτρησαν τὸ ὄν· ὅθεν (50 D. Wyttenbach, after Xylander, for διατρήσαντος τὸ ὄν γανωθὲν) ἀναμείκται τὰ κακὰ τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς with the comments of R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 pp. 410 n. 2 f., 414 n. 2, 537 and J. H. Moulton Early Zoroastrianism London 1913 p. 402 n. 4.

(d) PHOENIKE. Of the Phoenician cosmogony we have a threefold account. (i) Eudemos of Rhodes ap. Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 125 ter (i. 323, 1 ff. Ruelle) Σιδώνιοι δὲ κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν συγγραφέα πρὸ πάντων χρόνον ὑποτίθενται καὶ Πόθον καὶ Ὁμίχλην, Πόθου δὲ καὶ Ὁμίχλης μιγέντων ὡς δυεῖν ἀρχῶν Ἄερα γενέσθαι καὶ Αὔραν, Ἄερα μὲν ἄκρατον τοῦ νοητοῦ παραδηλοῦντες, Αὔραν δὲ τὸ ἐξ αὐτοῦ κινούμενον τοῦ νοητοῦ ζωτικὸν προτύπωμα. πάλιν δὲ ἐκ τούτων ἀμφοῖν Ὄγον γεννηθῆναι κατὰ τὸν νοῦν, οἶμα τὸν νοητόν. Ὄγρος is hardly to be identified with either of the mythical personages so named (O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1231 f.) ; nor shall we venture with Gruppe Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 349 to take the word as ὄγρος, 'the horned owl' (though this bird with crook and flail appears on the coinage of Tyre : see Imhoof-Blumer and O. Keller Tier- und Pflanzenbilder auf Münzen und Gemmen des klassischen Altertums Leipzig 1889 p. 32 pl. 5, 22, O. Keller Die antike Tierwelt Leipzig 1913 ii. 38 f. pl. 1, 8—other examples in Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phoenicia pp. cxvii, 227—233 pls. 28, 9—29, 17, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 263 pl. 76, 31, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 41 pl. 20, 46, p. 61 pl. 29, 36, *id. Hist. num.*² p. 799 fig. 352); nor yet to treat Ὠτον as a corruption of ὠόν, the cosmic 'egg' (J. Kopp in his ed. of Damaskios (Frankfurt-am-Main 1826) cj. ὠόν, and so did F. Creuzer *Symbolik und Mythologie*³ Leipzig and Darmstadt 1840 ii. 345 n. 2), though we should thereby reduce all the names in this genealogy to common Greek substantives—χρόνος, πάθος, ὀμίχλη, ἀήρ, αἶρα, ὠόν. If any change is required, I would rather correct Ὠτον to Μῶτον = the Μῶτ of Sanchouniathon's cosmogony (infra (iii)). (ii) Mochos of Sidon (W. Pape—G. E. Benseler *Wörterbuch der griechischen Eigennamen*³ Braunschweig 1875 p. 969 f.) ap. Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 125 ter (i. 323, 6 ff. Ruelle) ὡς δὲ ἔξωθεν Εὐδήμον τὴν Φοινίκων εὐρίσκομεν κατὰ Μῶχον μυθολογίαν, Αἰθὴρ ἦν τὸ πρῶτον καὶ Ἄηρ αἱ δύο αὐτὰ ἀρχαί, ἐξ ὧν γεννᾶται Οὐλωμός, ὁ νοητὸς θεός, αὐτὸ, οἶμαι, τὸ ἄκρον τοῦ νοητοῦ· ἐξ οὗ ἐαυτῷ συνελθόντος γεννηθῆναι φασὶ Χουσωρόν, ἀνοιγέα πρῶτον, εἶτα ὠόν, τοῦτον μὲν, οἶμαι, τὸν νοητὸν νοῦν λέγοντες, τὸν δὲ ἀνοιγέα Χουσωρόν, τὴν νοητὴν δύναμιν ἄτε πρώτην διακρίνασαν τὴν ἀδιάκριτον φύσιν, εἰ μὴ ἄρα μετὰ τὰς δύο ἀρχὰς τὸ μὲν ἄκρον ἐστὶν Ἄνεμος ὁ εἰς, τὸ δὲ μέσον οἱ δύο ἄνεμοι Λίψ τε καὶ Νότος· ποιούσι γὰρ πῶς καὶ τούτους πρὸ τοῦ Οὐλωμοῦ· ὁ δὲ Οὐλωμός αὐτὸς ὁ νοητὸς εἶη νοῦς, ὁ δὲ ἀνοιγεὺς Χουσωρός ἢ μετὰ τὸ νοητὸν πρώτη τάξις, τὸ δὲ Ὠόν ὁ οὐρανός· λέγεται γὰρ ἐξ αὐτοῦ βαγέντος εἰς δύο γενέσθαι Οὐρανός καὶ Γῆ, τῶν διχοτομημάτων ἐκάτερον. The names Οὐλωμός and Χουσωρός are presumably Phoenician, not Greek. Οὐλωμός is commonly regarded as the transliteration of the Hebrew עֹלָם ('olām'), 'eternity,' though Gruppe Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 514 (cp. i. 349, 642) says: 'Dies Wesen war höchst wahrscheinlich zweigeschlechtlich gedacht, da es mit sich selbst den Χουσωρός erzeugt... Demnach scheint es mir (trotz der von Schuster de vet. Orph. theog. ind. atq. or. S. 98. Anm. 1 citirten Kabbalastelle) zweifellos, dass Οὐλωμός nicht... von עֹלָם "Ewigkeit," sondern von עֹלָם "Geschlechtstrieb empfinden" abgeleitet ist.' Mr N. McLean, to whom I have referred the point, tells me (Sept. 13, 1916) that Οὐλωμός might perhaps be connected with עֹלָם ('olām'), 'the front, that which is first,' but is more probably the Grecised form of עֹלָם ('olām'), 'eternity.' Similarly Count Baudissin sees in 'Οὐλωμός (wohl עֹלָם)' 'Den Gott der Vorzeit' (W. W. Baudissin Adonis und Esmun Leipzig 1911 pp. 503 and 488). Cp. Gen. 21. 33 'And Abraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beer-sheba, and called there on the name of the LORD, the Everlasting God' with J. Skinner's note ad loc.: 'El [Ólām] presumably the pre-Israelite name of the local numen, here identified with Yahwe' etc. Χουσωρός, 'the Opener,' remains obscure. H. Ewald 'Über die phönikischen Ansichten von der Welterschöpfung und den geschichtlichen Werth Sanchouniathon's' in the Abh. d. gött. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. 1851—1852 Phil.-hist. Classe v. 17 would read Χουσωρ for Χρυσώρ in the anthropogony of Sanchouniathon as given by Philon Bybl. frag. 2. 9 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 566 Müller) ap. Euseb. praef. ev. i. 10. 11 f. χρόνους δὲ ὕστερον πολλοὺς ἀπὸ τῆς Ὑψουρανίου γενεᾶς γενέσθαι Ἀγρεία καὶ Ἀλιέα, τοὺς ἄγρας καὶ ἀλιείας εὐρετάς, ἐξ ὧν κληθῆναι ἄγρεντὰς καὶ ἀλιείας· ἐξ ὧν γενέσθαι δύο ἀδελφοὺς σιδήρου εὐρετάς καὶ τῆς τούτου ἐργασίας, ὧν θάτερον τὸν Χρυσώρ λόγους ἀσκήσαι καὶ ἐπφῶδας καὶ μαντείας· εἶναι δὲ τοῦτον τὸν Ἡφαιστον, εὐρίην δὲ καὶ ἄγκιστρον καὶ δέλεαρ καὶ ὀρμιῶν καὶ σχεδιάων, πρῶτόν τε πάντων ἀνθρώπων πλεῦσαι· διὸ καὶ ὡς θεὸν αὐτὸν μετὰ θάνατον ἐσεβύσθησαν· καλεῖσθαι δὲ αὐτὸν καὶ Δία Μελίχιον. κ.τ.λ. But Χρυσώρ may well be an attempt to make the Phoenician Χουσωρός intelligible to Greek readers. Be that as it may, Χουσωρός was doubtless 'the Opener' of the cosmic egg (so F. Creuzer *Symbolik und Mythologie*³ Leipzig and Darmstadt 1840 ii. 347, 1842 iv. 250, W. Robertson Smith in T. K. Cheyne—J. S. Black Encyclopædia Biblica London 1899 i. 942 n. 9, R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 440 n. 6). (iii) Sanchouniathon in Philon Bybl. frag. 2. 1 f. (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 565 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 1 f. τὴν τῶν ὄλων ἀρχὴν ὑποτίθεται ἀέρα ζοφώδη καὶ πνευματώδη, ἢ πνοὴν ἀέρος ζοφώδους, καὶ χάος θολερὸν, ἐρεβώδες· ταῦτα δὲ εἶναι ἀπειρα, καὶ διὰ πολλὸν αἰῶνα μὴ ἔχειν πέρας. 'ὅτε δέ,' φησὶν, 'ἠράσθη τὸ πνεῦμα τῶν ἰδίων ἀρχῶν, καὶ ἐγένετο σύγκρασις, ἢ πλοκὴ ἐκείνη ἐκλήθη πῶθος. αὕτη δὲ ἀρχὴ κτίσεως ἀπάντων. αὐτὸ δὲ οὐκ ἐγίνωσκε τὴν αὐτοῦ κτίσιν· καὶ ἐκ τῆς αὐτοῦ συμπλοκῆς τοῦ πνεύματος ἐγένετο Μῶτ· τοῦτό τινες φασὶν ἰλύν, οἱ δὲ ἰδατώδους μίξεως σῆψιν. καὶ ἐκ ταύτης ἐγένετο πᾶσα σπορὰ κτίσεως καὶ γένεσις τῶν ὄλων. ἦν δὲ τινα ζῶα οὐκ ἔχοντα αἴσθησιν, ἐξ ὧν ἐγένετο ζῶα νοερά, καὶ ἐκλήθη Ζωφασημίν (Ζωφισημῖαν cod. H.), τοῦτ' ἔστιν οὐρανοῦ κατοπταί. καὶ ἀνεπλάσθη ὁμοίως ὡὸ σχήματι. καὶ ἐξέλαμψε Μῶτ ἥλιος τε καὶ σελήνη ἀστέρες τε καὶ ἄστρα μεγάλα.' Μῶτ is another conundrum, of which very various interpretations have been given (W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3222 f.). F. C. Movers Die Phönizier Berlin 1841 i. 136 equated it with the Egyptian Μοῖθ, 'Mother' (Plout. de Is. et Os. 56: see further Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. v. 1219 C—D). H. Ewald loc. cit. v. 30 connected it with the Arabic madda, 'stuff, matter.' W. W. Baudissin Studien zur semitischen Religionsgeschichte Leipzig 1876 i. 11 f., 195 supposes מַד = מֵד 'water'; and Sir G. Maspero The Struggle of the Nations London 1896 p. 168 n. 1 likewise says: 'Môt ... is probably a Phœnician form of a word which means water in the Semitic languages (ROTH, Geschichte unserer abendländischen Philosophie, vol. i. p. 251; SCHRÖDER, Die Phönizische Sprache, p. 133).' C. C. J. von Bunsen Ägyptens Stelle in der Weltgeschichte Gotha 1857 v. 3. 257 n. 25 would correct Μῶτ to Μῶχ = מֵד 'mud.' J. Halévy 'Les principes cosmogoniques phéniciens πῶθος et μῶτ' in the Mélanges Graux Paris 1884 p. 59 f. assumes haplography ἐγένετο [TO]ΜΩΤ and takes Τομῶτ to be a Phœnician Tehômôt formed with the feminine ending from the Hebrew Tehôm, 'deep,' thus obtaining a Phœnician equivalent of the Babylonian Tiāmat. R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 440 n. 6 is content with the old (Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. v. 1219 D) transcription Μῶτ = מוֹט mavet, 'death.' Mr N. McLean, who has kindly considered the matter for me, inclines (Sept. 13, 1916) to think that מֵד (māḏ), 'rotteness,' might have an infinitival form מֵד (mōḏ), which would be represented by Μῶκ (not Μῶχ, as Bunsen proposed). He further notes that Ζωφασημίν is a fairly correct transliteration of מֵדֵשׁ 'שָׁמַיִם (šōphē šāmayim), 'observers of heaven.' The three versions of the Phœnician cosmogony may be set out as follows:

EUDEMOS	MOCHOS	SANCHOUNIATHON
Χρόνος Πῶθος = Ὁμίχλη	Ἄνεμος Λίψ Νότος or Αἰθῆρ = Ἀήρ	Ἀήρ ζοφώδης καὶ = Χάος θολερὸν, πνευματώδης ἐρεβώδες
Ἀήρ = Ἀῦρα	Οὐλωμός	(Πῶθος)
? Μῶτος	Χουσωρός	Μῶτ
	Οὐρανός ← Ὀόν → Γῆ	Ζωφασημίν
		Ὀόν

(6) The Cosmogonic Eros.

It will be observed that in several respects the Indian and the Phœnician cosmogonies recall Orphic speculation. In particular, they assign the same primary position to cosmic Desire or Love. According to the Çatapatha Brāhmaṇa (supra p. 1035) the golden egg was caused by the desire of the waters for reproduction; according to The Laws of Manu (supra p. 1036) it was occasioned by similar desire on the part of the divine Self-existent. Eudemos (supra p. 1036) spoke of Póthos as uniting with Mist to beget Air and Breeze; Sanchouniathon (supra p. 1038) applied the same term Póthos to the love of the primeval Wind. These conceptions are akin to that of Eros, who in the early Orphic scheme sprang from the wind-egg laid by Nyx. True, the theogony of Hellanikos dropped the name Eros and substituted for it Protogonos or Zeus or Pan. But the Rhapsodies retained both Eros and Protogonos as alternative appellations of their Phanes or Metis or Erikepaïos. It looks as though Eros were in some sense the very soul or self of a deity variously named. Hence his intimate connexion with Wind—a common form of soul (W. H. Roscher Hermes der Windgott Leipzig 1878 p. 54 ff., Rohde *Psyche*³ i. 248 n. 1, ii. 264 n. 2, C. H. Toy Introduction to the History of Religions Boston etc. 1913 p. 22 f., S. Feist Kultur Ausbreitung und Herkunft der Indogermanen Berlin 1913 p. 99, W. Wundt Völkerpsychologie Leipzig 1906 ii. 2. 40 ff., id. Elements of Folk Psychology trans. E. L. Schaub London 1916 p. 212 f., infra § 7 (a)). Miss J. E. Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 625 n. 3 rightly suspected that a definite doctrine underlay Aristophanes' travesty of the 'wind-egg.' We must, I think, conclude that the Orphic cosmogonies rest in part upon a primitive psychology, which explained desire (ἔπος, ἔπος) as the issuing of the soul from the mouth in the form of a small winged being. That the early Greeks should have entertained such a belief is well within the bounds of possibility: cp. A. E. Crawley The Idea of the Soul London 1909 pp. 278 and 280 'In order to see the spiritual world, the savage either anoints his eyes to acquire an extension of sight, or "sends out his soul" to see it. The latter occurs as a theory of imagination¹. (1 De Groot, The Religious System of China, iv. 105)...' 'The savage holds that when a man desires a thing his soul leaves his body and goes to it. The process is identical with imagination and with magic'... Homeric diction still shows traces of analogous notions. The stock phrase ἔπεα πτερόεντα together with certain less frequent expressions (Od. 17. 57, 19. 29, 21. 386, 22. 398 τῆ δ' ἄπτερος ἐπλετο μῦθος, and perhaps Od. 7. 36 ὠκείαι ὡς εἰ πτερόν ἢ ῥόνημα) presupposes the view that words had actual wings and flew across from speaker to listener, while the formula πόσιος καὶ ἐδητύος ἐξ ἔρον ἐντο (Il. 1. 469, 2. 432, 7. 323, 9. 92, 23. 57, 24. 628, Od. 1. 150, 3. 67, 473, 4. 68, 8. 72, 485, 12. 308, 14. 454, 15. 143, 303, 501, 16. 55, 480, 17. 99, h. Ap. 513, cp. Od. 24. 489, h. Ap. 499) or the like (Il. 13. 636 ff., 24. 227, Theog. 1064) implies, if pressed, a physical expulsion or dismissal of desire. Not improbably, therefore, the Hesiodic idea that Eros had issued from Chaos (supra p. 315), could we trace it to its ultimate origin in the mind of unsophisticated folk, would be found to involve the conviction that the vast void between heaven and earth was a gaping or yawning mouth (χάος for χάφος* connected with χαῦνος, χάσκω, etc.: cp. οὐρανός, οὐρανίσκος in the sense of 'the mouth's palate' with the remarks of Stephanus Theog. Gr. Ling. v. 2405 B—C) from which the divine soul, desirous to create, had flown forth in the guise of Eros. Since winged things in general emerge from eggs, such a belief would naturally, though illogically, be fused with an egg-cosmogony.

Some support for the opinions here advanced is furnished, not indeed by the painted tablet from Tarragona (on which see Addenda to ii. 2 n. 4), but by the occasional numismatic representation of Desire or Love as a winged mannikin proceeding out of the mouth. At Emporion (Ampurias) in Hispania Tarraconsensus the earliest coins (s. iii B.C.), copying the Siculo-Punic drachmai, show a head of Persephone on the obverse and a standing horse crowned by a flying Nike on the reverse side (fig. 887, a=A. Heiss Description générale des monnaies antiques de l'Espagne Paris 1870 pp. 86, 90 pl. 1 Emporiae 1, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 2). Later silver and copper coins of the same town exhibit a most remarkable modification of this originally Carthaginian horse. First, he is transformed into a winged and prancing Pegasus (fig. 887, b=Heiss op. cit. p. 87 pl. 1 Emporiae 2). Then there emerges from his head a small human head wearing a pétasos (Heiss op. cit. p. 87 pl. 1 Emporiae 3, cp. 4 f.=fig. 887, c, d). Finally, this little personage becomes an obvious Eros, his wing formed by the horse's ear, his back by the horse's cheek, his arm and leg by the horse's muzzle (fig. 887, e, f=Heiss op. cit. p. 87 pl. 1 Emporiae 7 f., cp. ib. p. 89 f. pl. 2 Emporiae 23—29, 31—35, p. 93 pl. 4 Emporiae 37—43, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 2). Gallic imitations of the type sometimes show the winged figure riding the horse (R. Forrer Keltische Numismatik der Rhein- und Donaulande Strassburg 1908 p. 39 fig. 68 Pictones, p. 77 f. fig. 144 Pictones).

Fig. 887.

Once launched from the lips, the small figure representing the desire of the deity might run along his arm and so fare forth into the world to work his will. Silver coins of Kaulonia from c. 550 B.C. onwards have as their obverse design a naked male with hair in long ringlets and left foot advanced. In his uplifted right hand is a stalk with pinnate leaves: on or over his outstretched left arm runs a diminutive figure carrying a similar stalk in one (fig. 888) or both hands (figs. 889, 890) and sometimes equipped with a chlamys over his shoulders and wings on his heels (fig. 888). In the field stands a stag, beneath which on many specimens is another stalk of the plant springing from the ground (figs. 889, 890). The design is repeated, incuse, on the reverse side of the coin, though here the small runner is mostly omitted. One specimen (fig. 890) is known bearing the additional legend IKETESI(A), with which festival-name cp. Od. 13. 213 Ζεύς σφειας τίσαστο ἰκερήσιος and the evidence collected by O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 1592 f. (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Italy p. 334 ff., Hunter Cat. Coins i. 126 pl. 9, 8, cp. i. 127 f. pl. 9, 9 f., Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 1. 1460 ff. pls. 70, 14 f., 71, 1—6, Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 155 f. pl. 111, 11—14, p. 186 pl. 125, 17 = my fig. 890, cp. p. 156 f. pl. 111, 15 ff., p. 186 pl. 125, 16, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 15 pl. 8, 17 = my fig. 888, cp. p. 15 pl. 8, 18, p. 30 pl. 15, 9, *id. Hist. num.*² p. 92 ff. figs. 50 f., G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 pp. 36, 97, 132 pl. 3, 7, cp. p. 132 f. pl. 5, 10. Fig. 889 is drawn from a specimen in my collection). Many and wonderful are the explanations of this remarkable

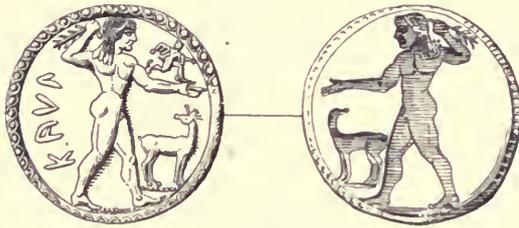

Fig. 888.

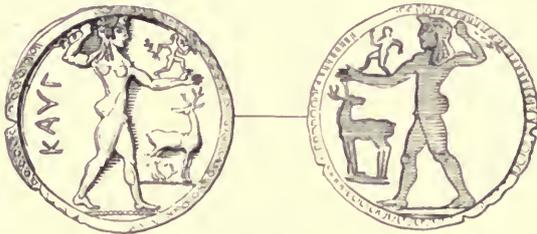

Fig. 889.

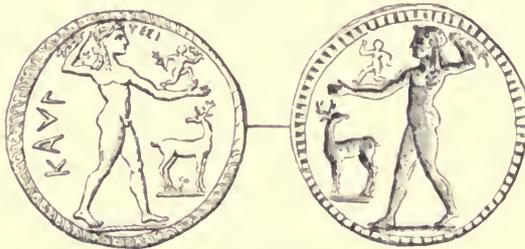

Fig. 890.

type that have been put forward (for a full list see now Oldfather in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. xi. 80—85): e.g. Iupiter Tonans brandishing a thunderbolt (J. Hardouin Nummi antiqui populorum et urbium illustrati Parisiis 1684 p. 244, A. S. Mazzocchi In Regii Herculaneensis Musei Aeneas Tabulas Heraclenses Commentarii Neapoli 1754 p. 527 f.: see Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² i. 168 f.), Dionysos with Oikropos (F. M. Avellino in the Giornale numismatico 1811—1812 ii. 24 and in his Opuscoli diversi Napoli 1833 ii. 108 ff. citing inter alia Nonn. Dion. 9. 263 f. where Ino lashes the Maenads with sprays of ivy. Note that in Hunter Cat. Coins i. 127 pl. 9, 10 = my fig. 891 the small runner is replaced by an ivy-leaf with a long stalk, an attribute which appears again on the reverse of the same coin), Herakles returning from the Hyperborei with one of the Kerkopes (F. Streber 'Ueber die Münzen von Caulonia' in

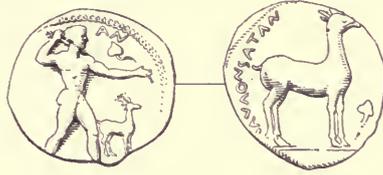

Fig. 891.

the Abh. d. bayer. Akad. 1837 Philos.-philol. Classe ii. 709 ff.), Apollon with laurel-branch and the purified Orestes (K. O. Müller *Handbuch der Archäologie der Kunst*² Breslau 1835 p. 516, id. Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 i. 8 pl. 16, 72), Apollon as καθαρῆς or καθάρσιος with Aristaios (Honoré d'Albert duc de Luynes in the Nouv.

Ann. i. 426), Apollon with Daphnis or Hyacinthos (J. de Witte in the Rev. Num. 1845 p. 400 ff. makes these suggestions, but prefers to follow T. Panofka: see infra), Apollon as καθαρῆς—or else the Demos of Kaulonia—performing the act of lustration with the genius of ἀγνισμός or καθαρμός on his arm (R. Rochette Mémoires de Numismatique et d'antiquité Paris 1840 p. 1 ff. followed by C. Cavedoni in the Bull. d. Inst. 1842 p. 90 f.), Apollon as sun-god with a lustral branch and a wind-god dispersing miasmas (W. Watkiss Lloyd 'On the types of the coins of Caulonia' in the Num. Chron. 1847 x. 1 ff. followed by P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 85 pl. 1, 1, cp. G. F. Hill A Handbook of Greek and Roman Coins London 1899 p. 171 pl. 3, 3), Apollon chasing the thief Hermes (S. Birch 'Notes on types of Caulonia' in the Num. Chron. 1845 viii. 163 ff.), the headland Kointhos with the wind-god Zephyros (Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 186), 'Some local myth, which has not been handed down to us' (Head *Hist. num.*¹ p. 79 after Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² i. 169). Specially ingenious was the view of T. Panofka 'Über die Münztypen von Kaulonia' in the Arch. Zeit. 1843 i. 165 ff.: accepting the identification of the larger figure with Apollon, he regarded the smaller as Kaulon (Steph. Byz. s.v. Καυλωνία) or Kaulos, son of the Amazon Kleite and eponymous founder of the town (interp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 3. 153), and suggested that both figures bear an olive-branch not without a punning allusion to καυλός, caulis. Head *Hist. num.*² p. 93 does not mention Panofka, but adopts and modifies his interpretation: the main figure is the founder Καῦλος, who carries as his emblem a καυλός or 'parsnip' (pastinaca sativa); the running genius is Ἄγων (G. F. Hill in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1897 xvii. 80, cp. W. Wroth ib. 1907 xxvii. 92), or Hermes Ἄγωνιος (Pind. Isthm. 1. 85, cp. Ol. 6. 133 ff. with scholl. ad locc.) or Δρόμιος (G. Doublet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1889 xiii. 69 f. publishes an inscription from Polyrrhenion Ἐρμῆι Δρομίωι, with which S. Eitrem in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 755 cp. Hesych. οἴνιος...δρομεύς), carrying apparently the same emblem, which is also shown growing beneath the stag. P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 86 came nearer to the truth, when he wrote: 'The most plausible alternative view would be to regard him [the small figure] as an embodiment of the χόλος or wrath of the Apollo, who is about to attack the enemies of the deity...' I hold that he is in fact the soul of the god sent forth to work the divine will. The god himself is Apollon, whose epithets ἐκάεργος, ἐκατηβέλτης, ἐκατηβόλος, ἕκατος, ἐκηβόλος are all connected with ἐκών (A. Fick—F. Bechtel *Die Griechischen Personennamen*² Göttingen 1894 pp. 107, 127, Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 133, Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 236 f., O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 2664 f., 2799 f., 2800 ff., F. Bechtel Lexilogus zu Homer Halle a. d. S. 1914 pp. 114—117) and betoken his magical will-power (cp. supra i. 12 n. 1, 14 n. 1). Apollon ἐκηβόλος would thus mean Apollon 'who strikes what he wills' (less probably 'who projects his will'). And I am reminded by Mr F. M. Cornford that Plat. Cratyl. 420 c sought to connect βουλή with βολή—a notion well worth weighing (Boisacq op. cit. pp. 114, 129). However that may be, the καυλός in the hand of the god or of the god's soul is presumably the magician's rod; its precise botanical character can hardly be determined.

Orphic Theogonies and Cosmogonic Eros 1043

The nearest analogue to the Cauloniate sprite occurs on a fragmentary votive pinax of terra cotta found at Rosarno in Calabria and now preserved in the Antiquarium at Munich (A. Michaelis in the Ann. d. Inst. 1867 xxxix. 93—104 pl. D, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1352 f., Christ—Lauth Führer durch d. k. Antiquarium in München 1891 p. 16 cited by O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 498 f. Fig. 892 is a fresh drawing made from the cast at Cambridge). This relief, which Furtwängler loc. cit. assigned to the period c. 450—440 B.C., shows Hermes confronting Aphrodite. The type of the goddess is obviously derived from a cult-statue—witness the rose in her hand and the thymiatérion before her. But the chief interest of the design lies in the little figure of Eros, who stands on the arm of the goddess and with outstretched hand expresses her feelings towards the god (Plout. praec. coniug. 1 καὶ γὰρ οἱ πάλαιοι τῇ Ἀφροδίτῃ τὸν Ἑρμῆν συγκαθίδρυσαν, ὡς τῆς περὶ τὸν γάμον ἡδονῆς μάλιστα λόγου δεομένης, Harpokr. s.v. Ψιθυριστῆς Ἑρμῆς· Δημοσθένης ἐν τῷ κατὰ Νεαίρας (39). ἦν τις Ἀθήνησιν Ἑρμῆς οὕτω καλούμενος· ἐτιμᾶτο δὲ Ἀθήνησι καὶ Ψίθυρος Ἀφροδίτῃ καὶ Ἔρωσι Ψίθυρος = Souid. s.v. Ψιθυριστῆς Ἑρμῆς, id. s.v. Ψιθυριστοῦ Ἑρμοῦ καὶ Ἔρωτος καὶ Ἀφροδίτης· ἄπερ πρῶτος ἐποίησεν, ὡς φησι Ζώπυρος (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 533 Müller), Θησεύς, ἐπεὶ Φαῖδρα ὡς φασιν ἐψιθύριζε Θησεῖ κατὰ Ἴππολίτου, διαβύλλουσα αὐτόν. οἱ δὲ ἀνθρωπινώτερόν φασιν Ἑρμῆν Ψιθυριστήν, παρὰ τὸ ἀνθρώπου ἐκεῖ συνερχομένου τὰ ἀπόρρητα συντίθεσθαι, καὶ ψιθυρίζειν ἀλλήλοις περὶ ὧν βούλονται = Bekker anecd. i. 317, 11 ff., Eustath. in Od. p. 1881, 1 ff. διὸ καὶ Ψιθύρου Ἀφροδίτης κατὰ Πανσανίαν (sc. the lexicographer Pausanias rather than a slip for Harpokration) ἱερὸν ἦν Ἀθήνησι καὶ Ἔρωτος δέ· οὐ καὶ Δημοσθένης, φησί, μέμνηται ἐν τῷ κατὰ Νεαίρας (39). ἐκαλεῖτο δέ, φασί, Ψίθυρος διὰ τὸ τὰς εὐχομένας αὐτῇ πρὸς τὸ οὖς λέγειν, κ.τ.λ. See further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 3198 f. The genesis of the hero Psithyros at Athens (Hesych. s.v. ψιθύρα) and of the god Psithyros at Lindos (F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1904 xix Arch. Anz. p. 185 f., H. Usener in the Rhein. Mus. 1904 lix. 623 f. (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 467 ff.) in an inscription of early imperial date found by R. F. Kinch near the north angle of the temple of Athena: τῷ Ψιθύρῳ νηὸν πολυκείονα τεύξε Σέλευκος κ.τ.λ.) appears to have resembled that of Eros himself; the whispered prayer of the worshipper (S. Sudhaus 'Lautes und leises Beten' in the Archiv f. Rel. 1906 ix. 185—200), like the heartfelt desire of the deity, was projected in visible form.

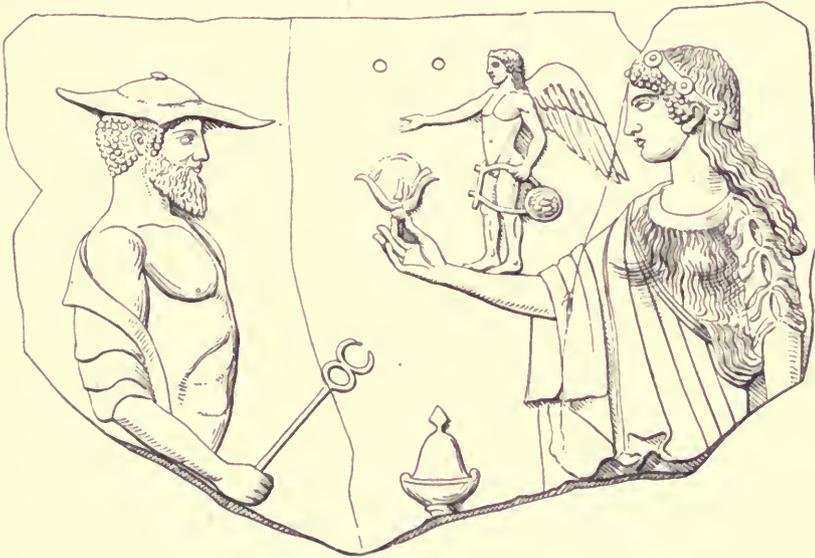

Fig. 892.

Similarly a metope from the north side of the Parthenon (slab no. xxv) shows a diminutive Eros stepping down from behind the shoulder of Aphrodite towards Menelaos, who on the adjoining metope (slab no. xxiv) drops his sword at the sight of Helene clinging to the Palladion (A. Michaelis Der Parthenon Leipzig 1870 p. 139 Atlas pl. 4, Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 265 no. 590, Overbeck *Gr. Plastik*³ i. 424 n.*, A. S. Murray The Sculptures of the Parthenon London 1903 p. 79 (misleading) pl. 12, 25 as drawn by Carrey, A. H. Smith The Sculptures of the Parthenon London 1910 p. 42 fig. 81 photographic view of the metope in situ, ib. fig. 82 photograph of Eros from the cast at Berlin, C. Präsch-niker 'Die Metopen der Nordostecke des Parthenon' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1911 xiv. 149 fig. 136 photograph, M. Collignon Le Parthénon Paris 1912 p. 29 pl. 39, 25 photograph. In this familiar scene (literary and monumental evidence in Overbeck Gall. her. Bildw. i. 626 ff. Atlas pl. 26, 2 ff, Baumeister Denkm. i. 745 ff. fig. 798 f., R. Engelmann in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1970 ff. figs., H. W. Stoll ib. ii. 2786 f. figs. 4—6, E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 2832, 2835), especially as represented on the fine red-figured oinochôe from Vulci now in the Vatican (fig. 893 = Mus. Etr. Gregor. ii pl. 5, 2^a, Overbeck Gall. her. Bildw. i. 631 f. pl. 26, 12, Baumeister Denkm. i. 745 f. fig. 798, P. Weizsäcker in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1800 f. fig. 3, J. H. Huddilston Lessons from Greek Pottery New York 1902 p. 86 f. fig. 16, Hoppin Red-fig. Vases i. 347 no. 7 (by 'The Painter of the Epinetron from Eretria in Athens')), Eros is already so far detached from Aphrodite that he signifies, not the love felt by the goddess, but the love caused by her in the heart of Menelaos. We are well on the way towards later conceptions of the love-god.

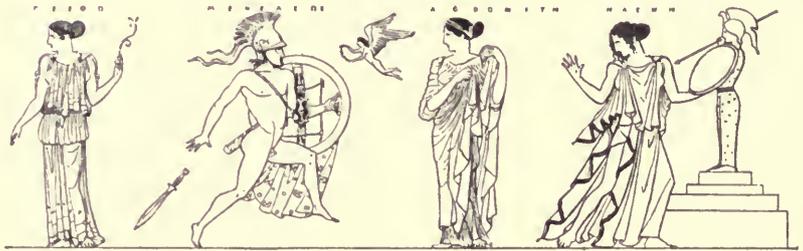

Fig. 893.

In Hellenistic times the favourite types of Eros were those of a boy (e.g. Ausgewählte griechische Terrakotten im Antiquarium der königlichen Museen zu Berlin Berlin 1903 p. 17 pl. 20, Winter Ant. Terrakotten iii. 2. 325 fig. 6 a flying Eros, said to be from Pagai in Megaris, now at Berlin, holding grapes in his raised right hand and other fruits in a fold of his chlamys: height 0.275^m) or a mere child (e.g. O. Rayet Monuments de l'art antique Paris 1884 ii pl. (40), 7 with text, L. Heuzey Les figurines antiques de terre cuite du Musée du Louvre Paris 1883 p. 21 pl. 35^{bis}, 5, M. Collignon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 1607 fig. 2188, E. Pottier Les statuettes de terre cuite dans l'antiquité Paris 1890 p. 129 fig. 44, Winter Ant. Terrakotten iii. 2. 320 no. 12 b a walking Eros, from Tanagra, formerly in the Barre collection (no. 449), now in the Louvre, with his chlamys drawn over his head: height 0'07^m) or even a babe (e.g. L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pét. 1864 p. 202 f. Atlas pl. 6, 2, Winter Ant. Terrakotten iii. 2. 313 fig. 4 Eros clinging on to the neck of a swan, found at Kerch and now in the Hermitage at Petrograd: height 0'075^m); and it is usually assumed that his progressive diminution in size was the natural outcome of fourth-century art with its well-defined penchant for youth and beauty (see e.g. the clear and sensible statements of O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 496 f., 502, 509). It must not, however, be forgotten that this tendency, which was undoubtedly a vera causa, gave fresh effect to the very ancient belief in the soul as a tiny winged form sent forth from the lover to compass his desires. That is the ultimate reason—I take it—why Eros with crossed legs and torch reversed became the commonest of all symbols for Death (A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1369, M. Collignon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 1610 fig. 2192 f., O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 508 f., F. Lübker *Reallexikon des klassischen Altertums*⁸ Berlin 1914 p. 1028, C. Robert Thanatos (Winckelmannsfest-Progr. Berlin xxxix) Berlin 1879 p. 44, Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 845, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1050 n. 5, supra p. 309): a resting Eros meant a restful soul. Again, that is why Eros was so constantly associated with Psyche (L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pét. 1877 pp. 53—219, M. Collignon Essai sur les monuments grecs et romains relatifs au mythe de Psyché Paris 1877 (inadequate), A. Zinzow Psyche und Eros Halle 1881, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1370—1372, O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 531—542 and in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 3237—3256): quasi-bird and quasi-butterfly were kindred conceptions of the soul. Finally, we may discover here one ground at least for the astonishing variety of genre occupations attributed to Eros and the Erotes in the Graeco-Roman age. Readers of these lines will probably remember an eloquent passage in which J. W. Mackail Select Epigrams from the Greek Anthology London 1890 p. 34 f. describes the wealth of imagination lavished by a single writer, Meleagros, upon the figure of Eros. The poet's words could be illustrated by scores of extant works of art, especially terra-cotta statuettes, engraved gems, and mural paintings. By way of relaxation at the end of a somewhat stiff and stodgy Appendix I subjoin a few specimens.

Eros pervaded the universe and swayed all hearts from the highest to the lowest. Time was when Alkibiades had given offence by carrying a shield of gold and ivory with the device of Eros fulminant (Plout. v. Alcib. 16, Athen. 534 E), and an onyx at Berlin dating from the first half of s. iv (?) B.C. very possibly shows this deity with his protégé (fig. 894=C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 ii. 2. 35 pl. 39, 451, Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 35 no. 355 pl. 7). But in s. i B.C. Eros was represented not merely holding a thunderbolt (Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 160 no. 3708 pl. 29 brown paste: Eros leaning on a pillar with thunderbolt (?) in right hand, sceptre in left and an altar (?) below, id. ib. p. 159 no. 3700 pl. 29 dark brown paste: Eros with thunderbolt in right hand, trident in left) but actually breaking it across his knee (fig. 895=Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 30, 31, ii. 149 a cornelian in the royal collection at The Hague, id. Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 90 no. 1628 pl. 17 paste, Reinach Pierres Gravées p. 52 no. 16, 1 pl. 51 banded agate, cp. Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 8 no. 7 fig. reverse type of a quinarius struck by L. Iulius Bursio in 88 B.C.). A sardonyx formerly in the Poniatowski cabinet shows Eros posing as Zeus himself with thunderbolt and sceptre (fig. 896=T. Cades *Collezione di N° 1400 Impronti delle migliori pietre incise, sì antiche, che moderne, ricavati dalle più distinte Collezioni conosciute dell' Europa 1^{ma} Classe, A 6, 34 'Genio di Giove': genuine? Lippold Gemmen p. 171 pl. 28, 4 says*

Fig. 894.

Fig. 895.

'Römisch'). If Eros thus usurped the position of the strongest god, a fortiori he superseded the strongest hero. Lysippos is said to have represented Herakles as stripped of his weapons by Eros (Anth. Pal. 16. 103. 1 ff. (Tullius Geminus), cp. 16. 104. 1 ff. (Philippos)); and the incident became a commonplace of later art (see e.g. M. Collignon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 1606 fig. 2184, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1366, 2248 f., O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 510, 513 f.). Hence Eros is arrayed in the hero's spoils

Fig. 896.

Fig. 897.

(fig. 897=Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 64, 19, ii. 290 a sardonyx cameo of three layers—translucent ground, figure in opaque white, upper surface brown—at Munich; of Roman date. Cp. Furtwängler ib. i pl. 62, 2, ii. 280, id. Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 73 no. 1111 pl. 14 (shown more clearly in C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 ii. 3. 13 pl. 51, 636) small convex garnet, p. 135 no. 3020 pl. 25 cornelian, p. 135 nos. 3021—3028 pl. 25 pastes, p. 160 nos. 3713—3716 pastes, p. 237 no. 6482 (G. Winckelmann Monumenti antichi inediti Roma 1821 i. 39 f. κληροῦχος! pl. 32) sardonyx), or combines them with those of Zeus in a pantheistic scheme (fig. 898 = Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 43, 61, ii. 210). In short, Eros plants his foot upon the world (C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 ii. 3. 13 pl. 51, 633, Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 276 no. 7440 pl. 55 flat cornelian of imperial date. The motif occurs also in sculpture: see A. de Ridder Les bronzes antiques du Louvre Paris 1913 i. 87 no. 613 = Reinach Rép. Stat. ii. 446 no. 7, Von Sacken Ant. Bronzen Wien pl. 14, 1 = Reinach Rép. Stat. ii. 447 no. 1, L. Urlichs in the Bonner Jahrbücher 1846 ix. 155 pl. 5, 4 = Reinach Rép. Stat. ii. 431 no. 4), or takes his seat thereon (fig. 899 = Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 30, 37, ii. 149), or with a mighty effort carries the globe as if it were a mere ball

Fig. 898.

Fig. 899.

Fig. 900.

(fig. 900 = Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 160 no. 3722 pl. 29 black paste with bluish band). We are meant to draw the moral: omnia vincit Amor; et nos cedamus Amori (Verg. ecl. 10. 69). Psyche is no match for the matchless one. Of countless illustrations I give but two: a convex banded agate in my daughter's possession shows Eros with one foot raised on a step in hot pursuit of a butterfly, the animal form of Psyche (fig. 901); and a flat cornelian in my own collection portrays him riding her round a race-course, the goals of which are marked by her butterfly and his weapons respectively (fig. 902). Such allegories, not to say 'sermons in stones,' were keenly relished in the early imperial age. If Eros thus masters the human soul, he enters into all the pleasures and pains of man. Sometimes he is represented as a veritable fay, doing the deeds of mortals with more than mortal skill. Thus, like 'the merry Grecian coaster' he sails the blue waters of the Mediterranean, but his boat is nothing more than a wine-jar—no wonder he bears the palm (fig. 903 = T. Cades op. cit. 1^{ma} Classe, A 6, 57, C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 ii. 3. 23 f. pl. 55, 702 a cornelian in the Poniatowski collection), or even a murex—a cockleshell, as we might say (fig. 904 = T. Cades op. cit. 1^{ma} Classe, A 6, 59 of unknown provenance). Sometimes, again, Erotes and Psychai play the part of ordinary men and women with no trace of divinity beyond the tell-tale wings of bird or butterfly or beetle and a certain exquisite grace that idealizes all—witness a wonderful band of decoration below the main panels on the wall of a dining-room in the house of the Vettii, which pictures Erotes and Psychai as twining garlands, making oil, coining money (?), fulling clothes, and selling wine (Herrmann Denkm. d. Malerei pls. 22, 24, 25 Text pp. 34—39, A. Mau *Pompeii its life and art*² trans. F. W. Kelsey New York 1902 pp. 331—337 figs. 163, 165—169, A. Mau Pompeji in Leben und Kunst Anhang zur zweiten Auflage Leipzig 1913 p. 48, P. Gusman Pompéi Paris 1899 p. 339 with col. pl. 11 opposite p. 388, H. B. Walters The Art of the Romans London 1911 p. 102 f. pl. 43). Eros can be the schoolmaster and wield the whip

Fig. 901.

Fig. 902.

Fig. 903.

Fig. 904.

Fig. 905.

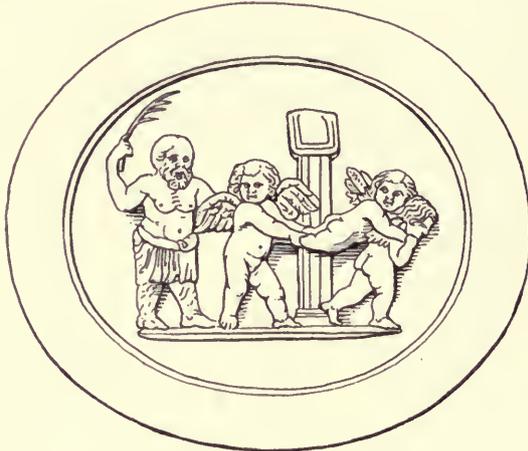

Fig. 906.

(fig. 905 = Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 50, 36, ii. 244, E. Gerhard in the Bull. d. Inst. 1834 p. 124 no. 31 a cornelian from the Nott collection); Eros can be the schoolboy and suffer the whipping (fig. 906 = T. Cades op. cit. 1^{ma} Classe, A 3, 59 'nel Museo Blacas,' Brit. Mus. Cat. Gems p. 127 no. 1005 an onyx cameo from the Castellani collection).

Fig. 907.

It seems a far call from Eros as a great cosmogonic deity to Eros as a diminutive fairy. But ξυβὸν ἀρχὴ καὶ πέρας, and the expression of the one belief may be curiously like the expression of the other. Thus a cornelian formerly in the collection of Sir Henry Russell represents the Orphic Eros seated in the world-egg, already split open to form heaven and earth (fig. 907 = C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen

1835 ii. 3. 12 pl. 50, 628, E. Gerhard in the Bull. d. Inst. 1839 p. 107 no. 100,

M. Collignon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 1595 f. fig. 2142, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1357, id. Ant. Gemmen i pl. 50, 37, ii. 244), while one of the most charming of all Pompeian frescoes shows a pair of lovers examining a nestful of tiny Erotes (G. Bechi in the Real Museo Borbonico Napoli 1824 i pl. 24, L. Hirt 'Il nido. Idillio' in the Ann. d. Inst. 1829 p. 251 ff. pl. E, 1, Herrmann Denkm. d. Malerei Text p. 26 fig. 5, Helbig Wandgem. Camp. p. 163 no. 821, Guida del Mus. Napoli p. 313 no. 1324, from the Casa del poeta tragico.

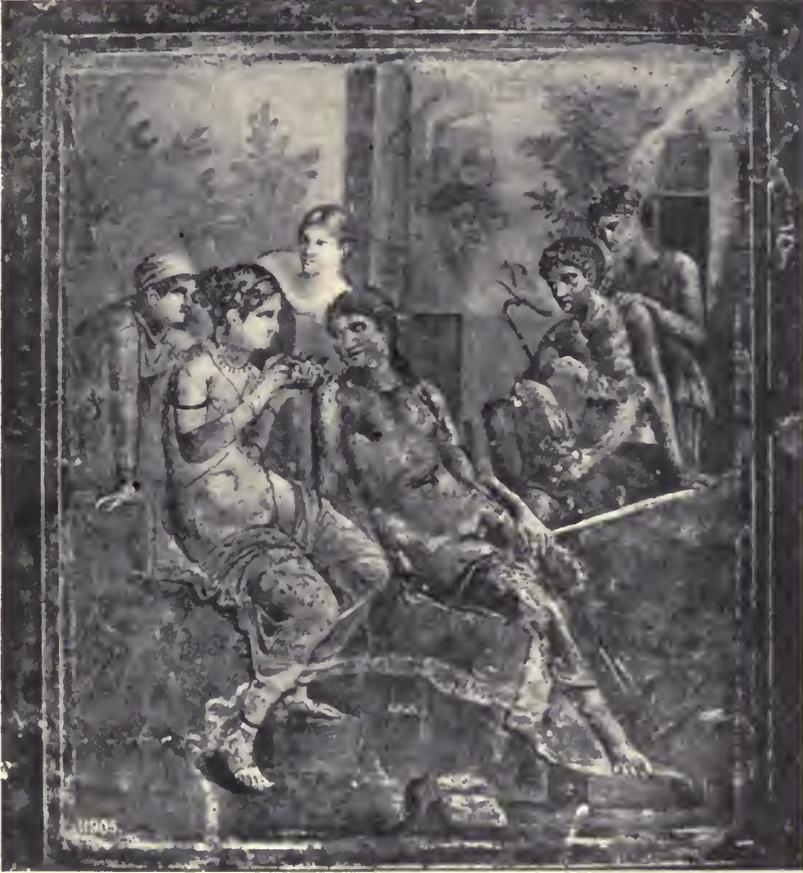

Fig. 908.

Fig. 908, a replica from Pompeii reg. vii. 12. 26, well published by Herrmann op. cit. pl. 17 Text p. 26=Helbig op. cit. p. 164 no. 823, G. Rodenwaldt Die Komposition der pompejanischen Wandgemälde Berlin 1909 p. 152 ff. fig. 25, is more completely preserved, but less fine: it has only two Erotes in the nest. A second replica, Helbig op. cit. p. 164 no 822, omits the girl in the background to the right. See also J. Overbeck—A. Mau *Pompeji*⁴ Leipzig 1884 pp. 288, 293, 581).

It was pointed out by F. Piper Mythologie der christlichen Kunst Weimar 1847 i. 214—217 that scenes representing Eros and Psyche passed from pagan to Christian sarcophagi ((1) R. Garrucci Storia della Arte cristiana nei primi otto secoli della chiesa Prato 1879 v. 12 f. pl. 302, 2—5, J. Ficker Die altchristlichen Bildwerke im christlichen Museum des Laterans Leipzig 1890 no. 181, W. Lowrie Christian Art and Archaeology New York 1901 p. 254 fig. 93, L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1909 ii. 44, 70, 72, 98 n. 1, 103 n. 1, 194, 226 fig. 45, C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 p. 498 fig. 193 = a marble sarcophagus, found near the catacomb of Praetextatus and now preserved in the Lateran Museum : it dates from the end of s. iii or the beginning of s. iv A.D. and shows on its main face the Good Shepherd, thrice repeated (bearded in centre, beardless to right and left), amid a vintage of Erotes, which includes a Psyche with butterfly-wings bringing grapes to an Eros with bird-wings. (2) A. Bosio Roma Sotterranea Roma 1632 p. 75 fig., G. Bottari Sculture e pitture sagre estratte dai cimiterj di Roma Roma 1737 i. 105 pl. 28 f., E. Z. Platner Beschreibung der Stadt Rom Stuttgart 1830—1842 ii. 1. 192 f. = a marble sarcophagus from the Vatican catacomb, now under an altar in the chapel of the Madonna della Colonna in St. Peter's : Christ, amid the apostles, adored by a man and his wife ; beneath, a large lamb flanked by twelve smaller lambs ; behind, vines and two palm-trees (phoenix on left palm) ; Christ stands in front of a gateway, the arch of which has a Psyche with butterfly-wings on the left, a wingless Eros with torch on the right. [But R. Garrucci op. cit. v. 50 f. pl. 327, 2—4 shows that these figures really represent Sol and Luna respectively.] (3) J. B. L. G. Séroux d'Agincourt Histoire de l'Art par les monumens Paris 1823 iii Sculpture p. 4 pl. 4, 3, 5 = a sarcophagus from the catacomb of S. Pietro e Marcellino (Torrepignatarra) : the column which divides the front bears a relief of Eros embracing Psyche ; the inscription reads Zacinie cesque (for quiesce) in pace. (4) E. Z. Platner op. cit. iii. 2. 450 = a sarcophagus in the Convent of S. Agnese at Rome : both ends show Eros and Psyche with reed and urn to betoken water, and a cornu copiae for earth, beneath them ; the centre has inlaid a Christian medallion of S. Agnese. [(5) R. Garrucci op. cit. v. 138 pl. 395, 3, L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1909 ii. 96 fig. 11 = a fragmentary sarcophagus-lid from the catacomb of S. Callisto at Rome with a medallion supported by two Erotes, adjoining which is the group of Eros and Psyche.] Indeed, early Christian art made constant use of Erotes, winged or wingless, in a variety of motifs derived from classical sources (see the examples collected by L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1906 i col. pl. 1, 2, 169 fig., 175 f. with 176 n. 1, 179, 1909 ii. 96 n. 3). Eros still figured largely in Byzantine carvings and paintings (e.g. O. M. Dalton Byzantine Art and Archaeology Oxford 1911 p. 216 fig. 130, p. 281 fig. 171). He survived in the putto of the early renaissance (F. Wickhoff 'Die Gestalt Amors in der Phantasie des italienischen Mittelalters' in the Jahrbuch der königlichen preussischen Kunstsammlungen 1890 xi. 41—53, S. Weber Die Entwicklung des Putto in der Plastik der Frührenaissance Heidelberg 1898, O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 516), and is still recognizable on our valentines and Christmas-cards.

It would seem, then, that from first to last Eros was simply and essentially a soul-type. If we raise the further question—Whose soul was represented by the Orphic Eros?—, we get an uncertain reply. According to the early Orphic scheme (supra pp. 1020, 1034), golden-winged Eros sprang from the egg laid by black-winged Nyx Ἐρέβους... ἐν ἀπείροσι κόλποις (Aristoph. av. 695). But who was the consort of Nyx? We are not definitely told. Presumably it was Erebus (so in Hes. theog. 123 ff., Akousilaos frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 100

Orphic Theogonies and Cosmogonic Eros 1051

Müller) ap. Damask. quaest. de primis principiis 124 (i. 320, 10 ff. Ruelle)—though schol. Theokr. 13. 1f. says Ἀκουσίλλας (Kallierges corr. Ἀκουσίλαος) Νυκτὸς καὶ Αἰθέρος (sc. νιὸν εἶπεν τὸν Ἔρωτα), Antagoras ap. Diog. Laert. 4. 26, Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 44, Hyg. fab. praef. p. 9, 3 ff. Schmidt). But the later Orphic theogonies (supra pp. 1022, 1024, 1034) appear to have regarded Chronos as the maker of the cosmic egg. In any case—and this is the main point—it was not Zeus. In the early Orphic theogony Zeus does not figure at all till the fourth generation (supra pp. 1020, 1034). In the theogony of Hellanikos he is a name for Protogonos in the second generation (supra pp. 1023, 1034). In the Rhapsodies he is one of the children of Phanes in the third generation (supra pp. 1026 ff., 1034). We may reasonably infer that the original form of the Orphic cosmogony was independent of, and perhaps anterior to, the recognition of Zeus.

The later Orphists, however, made much of Zeus and viewed him as a pantheistic power (supra p. 1027 ff.). The primitive notion of Chaos as a gaping or yawning mouth (supra p. 1039) was transferred to Zeus who, according to the Rhapsodies, opened his jaws wide and swallowed Phanes whole (supra p. 1027). Phanes himself was conceived as in some sort a Zeus (supra i. 7 n. 6); for Phanes was Protogonos (supra p. 1026), and Protogonos was 'Zeus the arranger of all' (supra p. 1023). This equation is presupposed by a relief (fig. 909), which seems to have come more than a century since from Rome and is now exhibited in the Royal Museum (no. 2676) at Modena (C. Cavedoni 'Dichiarazione di un bassorilievo Mitriaco della R. Galleria Palatina di Modena' in the Atti e Memorie delle RR. deputazioni di storia patria per le provincie Modenesi e Parmensi Modena 1863 i. 1—4 with lithographic pl., A. Venturi La R. Galleria Estense in Modena Modena 1883 p. 360 fig. 94, F. Cumont in the Rev. Arch. 1902 i. 1—10 with photographic pl. 1, R. Eisler Welltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 399 ff. fig. 47, Reinach Rép. Reliefs iii. 61 no. 1). On a thick slab of white marble (0.71^m high, 0.49^m wide) is an oval band enclosing an egg-shaped recess. The band is decorated with the twelve signs of the zodiac, and grouped about it are winged heads representing the four winds of heaven. Within the recess stands a nude youth encumbered with a plethora of attributes. Above his head and beneath his feet are the two halves of an egg, from each of which flames are bursting. A snake coiled round him rears its head on to the upper egg-shell. He has two large wings and a crescent on his back, the head of a lion growing from his front, and the heads of a goat and a ram projecting from his right and left sides. Instead of feet he has cloven hoofs. In his right hand he grasps a thunderbolt, in his left a sceptre. Cavedoni, followed by Cumont, regarded this singular figure as primarily Mithraic, though both admitted the presence of features susceptible of an Orphic interpretation. R. Eisler has done good service by insisting on its Orphic character. The egg-like recess in which the god is placed, the upper and lower shells from which he has emerged, the strange animal-heads on his flanks (supra p. 1022 f.), the snake's head appearing above his face (supra p. 1023), all mark him as Phanes. He bears thunderbolt and sceptre, because Phanes was one with Zeus. His face is that of the sun-god in Rhodian art, for Phanes was not only called Antauges and Phaethon (supra p. 1026) but also identified with Helios (supra i. 7 n. 6, 311). Cavedoni took the cloven hoofs to be those of a goat: if so, they hint that Phanes was Pan (supra p. 1023). Cumont and Eisler think them bovine: if so, they denote him as Dionysos (supra p. 1026). The relief bears two inscriptions. The first, [E]YΦHPOSY[NE ET] FELIX on the background of the recess, has been intentionally effaced. The second, P P | FELIX PATER on either side of the zodiac, must be completed as p(ecunia) p(osuit) Felix pater (sacrorum). Eisler ingeniously suggests that the relief in question originally adorned the Orphic sanctuary of a certain Felix and Euphrosyne and was subsequently re-dedicated in a Mithraic temple by Felix alone, since women were excluded from the rites of Mithras. That an Orphic monument should thus be re-consecrated in a Mithraic shrine seems likely enough in view of the fact that at Borcovicium (Housesteads on Hadrian's Wall) Mithras himself was represented in an oval zodiac with an egg-shell on his head (J. C. Bruce *The Roman Wall*³ London 1867 p. 399 with fig. on p. 398, id. Lapidarium Septentrionale Newcastle-upon-Tyne 1871 ii. 96—98 no. 188 fig., F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 i. 395 fig. 315, R. Eisler Welltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 410 ff. fig. 48 a relief, 1.40^m high, 0.77^m wide, found in situ between two Mithraic altars = Corp. inscr. Lat. vii nos. 645, 646: Mithras' body emerges from the Petra generatrix (Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. nos. 4244, 4248, 4250, cp. 4249); his arms are broken, but his right hand still holds a knife, his left hand a lighted torch), while the lion-headed god, usually described as the Mithraic Kronos or Aion, but more probably explained as Areimanios or Areimanes, the Mithraists' equivalent for Ahriman (F. Legge Forerunners and Rivals of Christianity Cambridge 1915 ii. 254 f.), appears with a snake coiled about him, wings attached to his shoulders and haunches, a sceptre held in his left hand, and a thunderbolt on his breast or at his side (e.g. Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. pl. 559 fig. 1193, Reinach Rép. Stat. i. 296 no. 3, F. Lajard Introduction à l'étude du culte public et des mystères de Mithra en orient et en occident Paris 1847 pl. 70, C. O. Müller Denkmäler der alten Kunst Göttingen 1835 ii. 4. 71 f. pl. 75, 967, F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 ii. 238 f. fig. 68, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3039 fig. 1, R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 ii. 412 f. fig. 50 a statue in white marble (1.65^m high, 0.47^m wide at base), found at Ostia in 1797 by the English painter R. Fagan and now erected at the entrance of the Vatican Library: the four wings are adorned with symbols of the seasons, viz. the left upper wing with dove and swan, the right upper wing with corn-ears, the right lower wing with grapes, the left lower wing with two palm-trees and reeds; the hands hold keys and a sceptre; the breast is marked with a thunderbolt; the supporting slab shows hammer and tongs to left, caduceus, cock, and pine-cone to right, with an inscription (Corp. inscr. Lat. xiv no. 65 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4212 C. Valerijus Heracles pat(er) | et C. Valerii | Vitalis et Nicolmes (sic) sacerdot|es s(ua) p(e)c(unia) p(o)s(ue)r(unt) | D. d. idi. Aug. imp. | Com. | VI et | Septi|miano | cos. = Aug. 13, 190 A.D.). H. Dütschke Antike Bildwerke in Oberitalien Leipzig 1878 iii. 180 f. no. 367, F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 ii. 258 f. fig. 96, id. *Die Mysterien des Mithra*² trans. G. Gehrich Leipzig 1911 p. 215 n. 1 pl. 2, 4 (= my fig. 910), Reinach Rép. Stat. ii. 477 no. 7 a statue in white Italian marble (1.15^m high, 0.35^m wide) in the Uffizi at Florence: the god wears a sleeved garment; two slot-holes in his back show where the shoulder-wings were attached; his right hand held a key, his left a sceptre; the upper part of the thunderbolt at his side takes the form of a human head; his feet with the sphere on which he stands are restored).

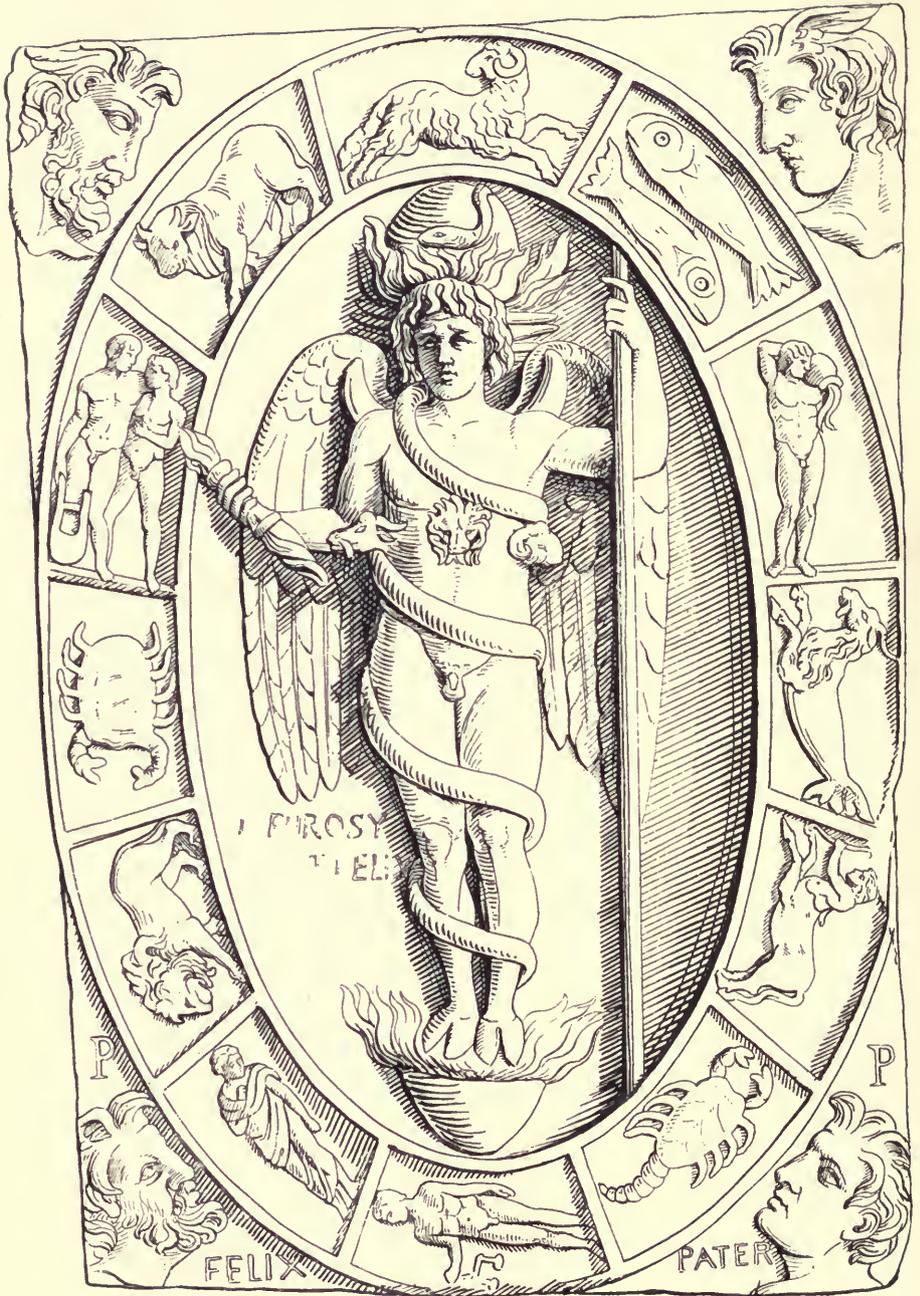

Fig. 909.

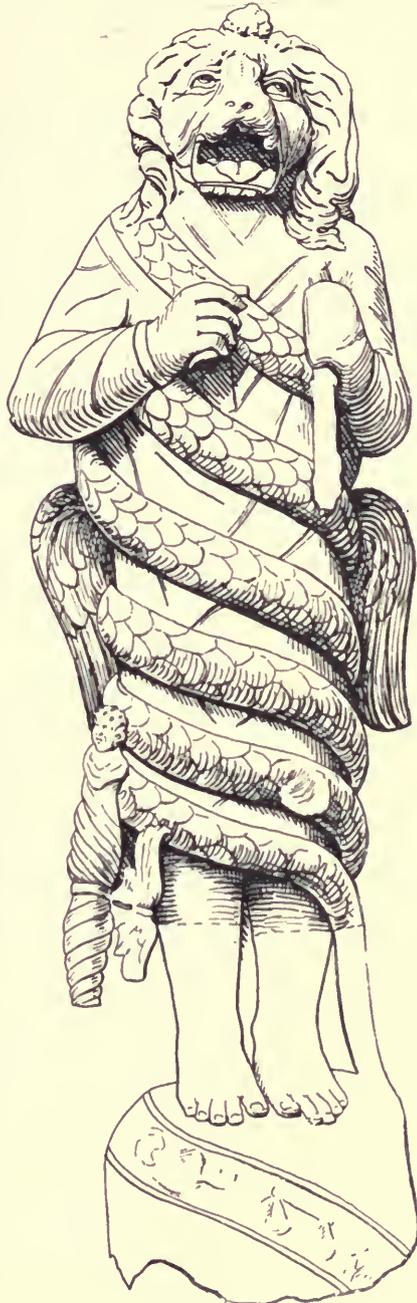

Fig. 910.

APPENDIX H.

ZEUS KTÉSIOS.

(1) The Jars of Zeus Ktésios.

Any discussion of Zeus Ktésios must start from the locus classicus in Athen. 473 B—C ΚΑΔΙΣΚΟΣ. Φιλήμων ἐν τῷ προειρημένῳ συγγράμματι (sc. Philemon the Atticist, on whom see W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*³ München 1898 p. 771 n. 3) ποτηρίου εἶδος. ἀγγείον δ' ἐστίν ἐν (M. P. Nilsson would delete ἐν) ᾧ τοὺς Κτησίους Δίας ἐγκαθιδρύουσιν, ὡς Ἀντικλείδης φησὶν ἐν τῷ Ἐξηγητικῷ (E. Schwartz in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2426, ii. 2597 f. makes it highly probable that the reference is to the Ἐξηγητικόν of Autokleides, not Antikleides,—a valuable source for traditional rites) γράφων οὕτως “Διὸς Κτησίου σημεῖα (G. Kaibel cj. σιπίνας) ἰδρῦεσθαι χρὴ ᾧδε. καδίσκον καινόν (καινόν with αι above ε cod. P.) δίωτον ἐπιθηματοῦντα στέψαι τὰ (so Villebrun and C. F. W. Jacobs for στέψαντα. K. W. Dindorf would follow Jacobs, or else read στέψαντα τὰ) ὅτα ἐρίῳ λευκῷ καὶ ἐκ τοῦ ᾧμου τοῦ δεξιῷ καὶ ἐκ τοῦ μετώπου ἑτοῦ κροκίου καὶ (K. W. Dindorf would omit καὶ) ἐσθῆναι (so codd. A. B. ἐσθῆναι cod. P. edd. V. L.) ὅ τι ἂν εὐρῆς καὶ εἰσχείαι (so J. Schweighäuser for ἔσχεαι cod. C. ἴσχεται cod. P. edd. V. L.) ἀμβροσίαν. ἢ δ' ἀμβροσία ὕδωρ ἀκραυφνές, ἔλαιον, παγκαρπία. ἅπερ ἔμβαλε.” Cod. C. epitomizes as follows: φησί που Διογένης. εἶτα εἴσχεαι ἀμβροσίαν. ἢ δ' ἀμβροσία, ὕδωρ ἀκραυφνές, ἔλαιον, παγκαρπία. ἅπερ ἔμβαλε. For the word ἑτοῦ κροκίου, which I have marked as corrupt, no very satisfactory emendation has been proposed. I. Casaubon cj. ἄωτον κρόκων κρεμανύναι, 'lanam suspendito coloris crocei.' Villebrun cj. καὶ ἐκ τοῦ ὄμου τοῦ δεξιού τε καὶ ἐκ τοῦ μετώπου τι κρόκων ἀρθῆναι (meaning ἀρτηθῆναι!), ὅ τι ἂν εὕρησ. C. F. W. Jacobs cj. καὶ ἐκ τοῦ ὄμου τοῦ δεξιού τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ ἐκ τοῦ μετώπου κρόκων κάλυμμα ἐσθῆναι. G. Kaibel cj. < καθέσθαι τὰ ἄκρα > τοῦ κροκίου, 'to let down the ends of the thread.' Tresp Frag. gr. Kultschr. p. 47 keeps ἐκ τοῦ μετώπου τοῦ κροκίου, taking κροκίου in the sense of κροκίνου, 'from its forehead smeared with saffron.' But τοῦ κροκίου is a vox nihili; and there is, to my thinking, much difficulty in ἐσθῆναι ὅ τι ἂν εὕρησ. I suspect that we ought to read καὶ ἐκ τοῦ ὄμου τοῦ δεξιού καὶ ἐκ τοῦ μετώπου κρόκινόν τι ἐκτείνειν, ὅ τι ἂν εὕρησ, and to translate the whole extract as follows: 'The right way to set up the signs of Zeus Ktésios is this. Take a new jar with two ears and a lid to it (ἐπιθηματοῦντα is adj.) and wreath its ears with white wool, and stretch a piece of yellow—anything you can find—from its right shoulder and its forehead, and pour ambrosia into it. Ambrosia is a mixture of pure water, olive oil, and all manner of fruits: empty these ingredients in.'

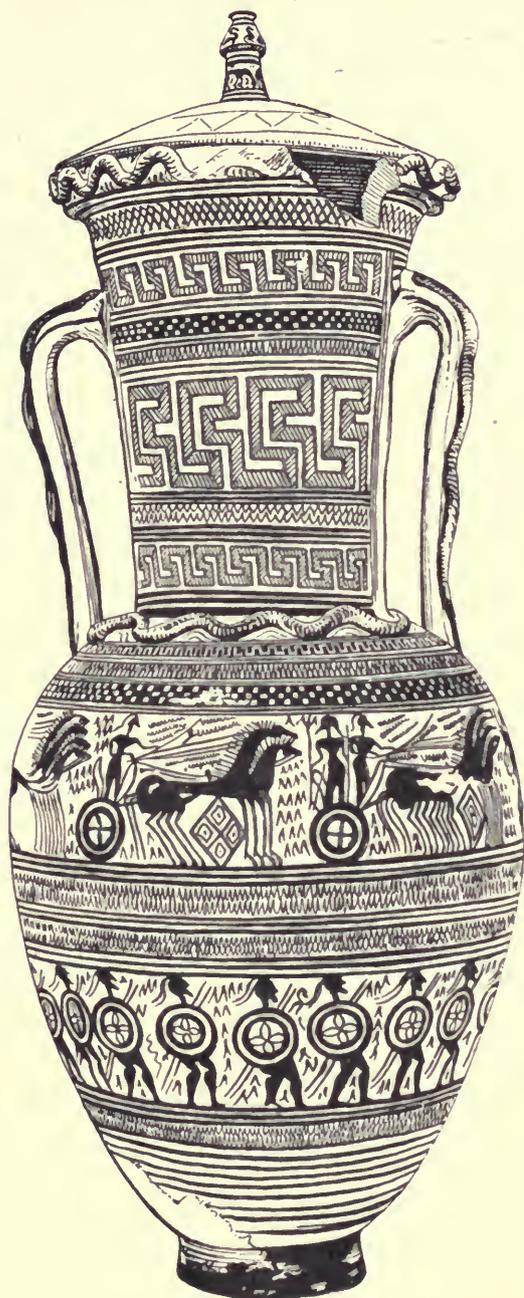

Fig. 911.

(2) The Jars of Zeus Ktésios funereal in character.

The use of the terms ῥατα, ῥμος, μέτωπον reminded Miss Harrison (Themis p. 299) 'of the anthropoid vases of the Troad.' But, though such language may have originated in connexion with Gesichtsurnen (vide Forrer Reallex. pp. 275, 419 and especially J. Schlemm Wörterbuch zur Vorgeschichte Berlin 1908 pp. 173—176 figs. a—i), we cannot safely infer that the kadiskos of Zeus Ktésios was of human or partially human shape. The description of it given above recalls rather certain vase-forms developed out of the primitive pithos (H. B. Walters History of Ancient Pottery London 1905 i. 159) such as the large lidded amphora of the 'Dipylon' style, or its lineal descendants (A. Milchhöfer in the Ath. Mitth. 1880 v. 177 f., A. Brückner—E. Pernice ib. 1893 xviii. 143 ff., P. Wolters in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1899 xiv. 128 ff., F. Poulsen Die Dipylongräber und die Dipylonvasen Leipzig 1905 pp. 18 ff., 45 ff.) the próthesis-vase of the sixth century and the loutrophóros of the fifth. Now all these vases were connected with death and the grave. The 'Dipylon' amphora, of which I figure a typical specimen (Collignon—Couve Cat. Vases d'Athènes p. 40 f. no. 196 Planches p. 5 pl. 11, A. Furtwängler in the Arch. Zeit. 1885 xliii. 131, 139 figs., Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art vii. 174 fig. 58, 226 fig. 98, S. Wide in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1899 xiv. 196 f. fig. 61. My fig. 911 is from a photograph. Height with lid 0'90^m), stood half-sunk beneath the surface of the ground (cp. A. Brückner—E. Pernice in the Ath. Mitth. 1893 xviii. 92 fig. 4 = Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art vii. 56 fig. 4) and—since its bottom is holed—served to convey liquid offerings to the dead beneath it (F. Poulsen op. cit. p. 19 'die Vase diente als Hohllaltar, durch welchen man die flüssigen Opfer Milch und Honig, Öl und Wein, vielleicht auch das Blut der Opfertiere hinabströmen lassen konnte'). The lid with its handle in the shape of a vase turned upside down is suggestive of drink-offerings. The procession of chariots above and warriors below would delight the heart of the dead. And snakes moulded in relief round the rim, round the base of the neck, and up either handle sufficiently indicate the funereal character of the whole. The próthesis-vase was likewise set up over the grave, as we see from a very remarkable example found at Cape Kolias and now at Athens (Collignon—Couve Cat. Vases d'Athènes p. 212 ff. no. 688 Planches p. 14 f. pl. 30; A. Conze in the Ann. d. Inst. 1864 xxxvi. 183 ff. with fig., Mon. d. Inst. viii pl. 4, 1^a—1^e, pl. 5, 1^f—1^h = Reinach Rép. Vases

i. 164, 1—5, 165, 1—3, H. von Rohden in Baumeister Denkm. iii. 1974 f. fig. 2114, É. Michon in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 1333 fig. 3280, É. Cuq ib. ii. 1377 fig. 3345, 1378 fig. 3346, M. Collignon ib. iii. 1319 fig. 4561, O. Crusius in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1149 fig. 5, P. Wolters in the Ath. Mitth. 1891 xvi. 379 no. 11 fig., Miss J. E. Harrison in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1899 xix. 219 fig. 4, *ead. Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 235 fig. 53, Themis p. 290 f. fig. 77. I reproduce the drawings given in the Mon. d. Inst. loc. cit. Height 0·64^m). The body of the vase shows two successive scenes: (A) the dead man, laid out on a bed, is surrounded by mourners; beside one of them is the word ΟΙΑΡΟΙ (S. Reinach

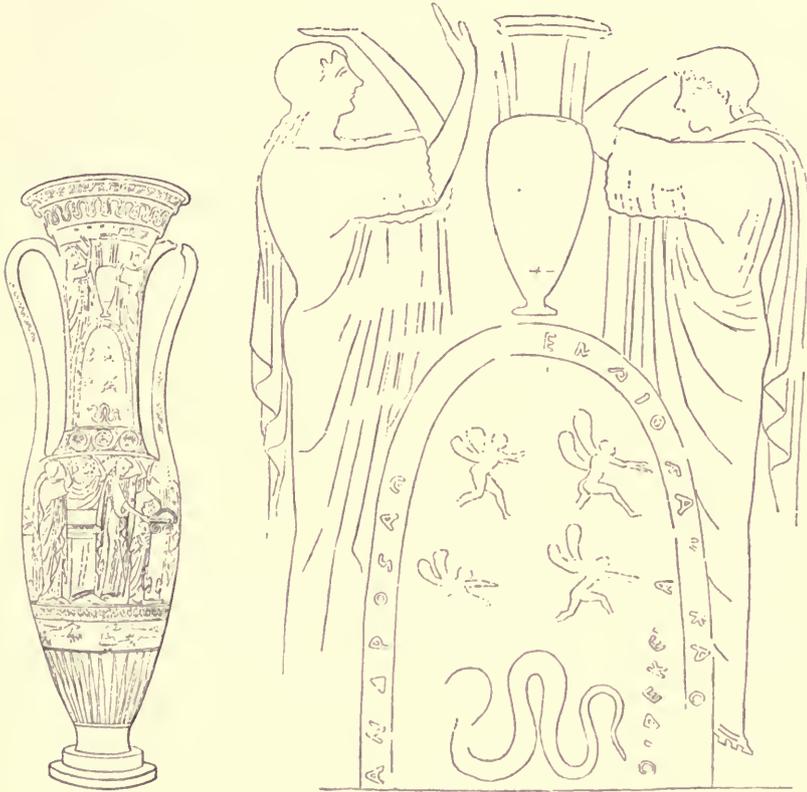

Fig. 912.

loc. cit. suggests οἶμοι (?); but cp. Soud. s.v. οἶαροι· γυναικες). (B) The coffin is lowered into the grave by four men, one of whom removes the pall. Mourners stand to right and left; and there is a tree in the background. Beneath both scenes is a race of four chariots, the goal appearing between two of them. The neck of the vase continues the same sequence of scenes: (A') In the centre rises an omphaloid tomb painted white. Within it flit four souls represented as small winged eidola; below them is a snake. Round the edge of the tomb runs an inscription, which P. Pervanoglu took to be

ΑΝΔΡΟΣΛ.....ΟΙΟΓΑΥ·ΚΑ·ΟΙΕΝΘΑΔΕ ΚΕΙΜΑΙ

S. A. Kumanudis (Ann. d. Inst. 1864 xxxvi. 197 n. 2) transcribed the latter part of it as follows :

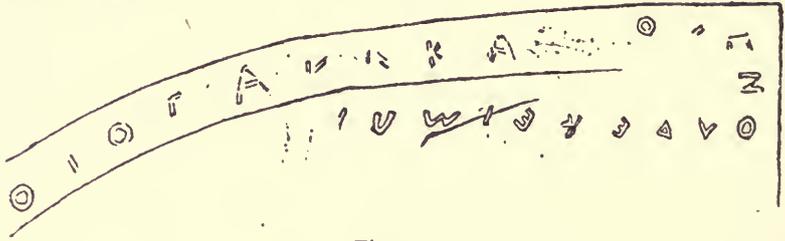

Fig. 913.

A. Conze's illustration is based on a copy by A. Postolakkas. The line was convincingly read by C. Keil: ἀνδρὸς ἀποφθιμένοιο ῥάκος κακὸν ἐνθάδε κείμει—a curiously cynical hexameter. The use of ῥάκος to denote a corpse is defended by Anth. Pal. 7. 380. 6 f. (Krinagoras) κείται δὲ τῆδε τῶλιγηπελὲς ῥάκος | Εὐνικίδαο, σήπεται δ' ὑπὸ σποδῶ, cp. ib. 5. 20. 3 (Rufinus) σῶμα ῥακῶδες and Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. vi. 2334 Df. On the tomb is placed a vase resembling in shape that which is here described; and mourners to right and left make lamentation. (B') A procession of four mourners, two of whom bear offerings (?), approaches the grave. Among the patterns surrounding the neck of the vase will be seen a wavy line clearly derived from the old sepulchral snake. The paintings of this important vase have, unfortunately, suffered much since its discovery: nothing now remains of the inscriptions, the winged souls, or the snake, and little is left of the tomb. Finally, the loutrophóros was carved or painted over the tomb of the unmarried (infra § 9 (d) ii (β)). 'So war die Grabvase, deren Entwicklung von Hohlaltar zu Monument wir verfolgt haben, aus einem Monument zum Symbol geworden' (F. Poulsen op. cit. p. 47).

The 'Dipylon' amphora, the próthesis-vase, the loutrophóros, each in turn served as the σήμα or σημείον of the dead beneath it. In view of these facts how are we to interpret the jars called by Autokleides the σημεῖα of Zeus Ktésios? They too may well have been funereal in character. Hence their prophylactic wreathing with white wool and yellow stuff(?). Hence too the necessity for filling them with a mixture of water, oil, and seeds, known as ambrosia (cp. Pausanias the Atticist ap. Eustath. in Il. p. 976, 4 f. κατὰ Πανσανίαν, ὅς λέγει καὶ ὅτι ἀμβροσία γένος τι συνθέσεως ἐξ ὕδατος ἀκραιφνοῦς καὶ μέλιτος καὶ ἐλαίου < καὶ (inserui) > πυγκαρπίας): such offerings had come to be conceived as food given by the living to the dead (see e.g. P. Stengel Opferbräuche der Griechen Leipzig and Berlin 1910 pp. 129 ff., 183 ff.), but were originally a magical means of enabling the dead to make food for the living (see Miss J. E. Harrison Themis p. 291 ff.). Similar in character was the offering made to the chthonian Zeus in Eur. frag. 912 Nauck² (from the Cretes, according to L. C. Valckenaer) ap. Clem. Al. strom. 5. 11 p. 373, 3 ff. Στάηλι σοὶ τῶν πάντων μεδόντι χοῖην | πέλανόν τε φέρω (so H. Grotius for φέρων cod. L.), Ζεὺς εἴτ' Ἀΐδης | ὀνομαζόμενος στέργεις· σὺ δέ μοι | θυσίαν ἄπυρον (so Abresch for ἀπορον L.) παγκαρπίας (so Grotius for παγκαρπίας L.) | δέξαι πλήρη προχυθείσαν (so Valckenaer for προχυτίαν L.) | σὺ γὰρ ἔν τε θεοῖς τοῖς οὐρανίδαυς | σκῆπτρον τὸ Διὸς μεταχειρίζεις (so H. van Herwerden for μεταχειρίζων L.) | χθονίων τ' (so F. Sylburg for δ' L.) Ἀΐδη (ἄϊδη L.) μετέχεις ἀρχῆς. | πέμψον δ' ἐς (so A. Nauck for μὲν L.) φῶς ψυχὰς ἐνέρων (so Nauck for ἀνέρων L.) | τοῖς βουλομένοις (Grotius cj. πέμψον μὲν φῶς ψυχὰς ἀνέρων ταῖς βουλομένοις) ἄθλους προμαθεῖν (so Grotius for προσμαθεῖν L.) |

πόθεν ἔβλαστον, τίς ῥίζα κακῶν, | τίνα (F. H. M. Blaydes cj. τίνι) δεῖ (so Grotius for δῆ L.) μακάρων ἐκθυσσάμενους (so Valckenaer for ἐκθυσσάμενους L.) | εὐρεῖν μοχθῶν ἀνάπαυλαν.

(3) Zeus Ktésios as Forefather buried in the House.

Accordingly I would venture to put forward the following hypothesis with regard to Zeus Ktésios and his jars. In Italy the forefather of the family, once buried in the house (Serv. in Verg. Aen. 5. 64 etiam domi suae sepeliebantur: unde orta est consuetudo ut dii Penates colantur in domibus, ib. 6. 152 apud maiores...omnes in suis domibus sepeliebantur. unde [ortum est ut Lares colerentur in domibus, unde] etiam umbras larvas vocamus, nam dii Penates alii sunt. inde est quod etiam Dido cenotaphium domi fecit marito, Isid. orig. 15. 11. 1 prius autem quisque in domo sua sepeliebatur. These statements are supported by the custom of burying infants less than forty days old in a subgrundarium (Fulgent. expos. serm. ant. 7; cp. Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no. 27571 = Orelli Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4545 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 7938) and by the myths concerning the birth of Romulus (Plout. v. Rom. 2), Servius Tullius (Plin. nat. hist. 36. 204), and Caeculus (Serv. in Verg. Aen. 7. 678). They are rightly emphasised by F. Granger The Worship of the Romans viewed in relation to the Roman Temperament London 1895 p. 60, id. in the Class. Rev. 1897 xi. 32 f. W. Warde Fowler ib. 1896 x. 394 f., 1897 xi. 33 ff. attempted to minimise their force. But J. E. King ib. 1903 xvii. 83 f. suggested that infants were so buried in order to ensure their re-birth, and Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Magic Art i. 105 n. 4 extends his suggestion to cover 'The widespread custom of burying the dead in the house.' A good example of this practice in the Semitic area is the case of Samuel, who was 'buried...in his house at Ramah' (1 Sam. 25. 1). At Bibracte the capital of the Aedui (Mont Beuvray in Saône-et-Loire) Gallic graves of the third La Tène period (s. i B.C.) were found beneath the houses, often under the hearth: see M. Hoernes Natur- und Urgeschichte des Menschen Wien und Leipzig 1909 ii. 128, 440, cp. J. Déchelette Manuel d'archéologie pré-historique Paris 1914 ii. 3. 948 ff. for an aperçu of the town), was known as the Lar or Genius of the home (Plaut. merc. 834 familiai Lar pater, Laberius frag. 54 ap. Non. Marc. p. 172, 26 f. Lindsay Laberius in Imagine: Genius generis nostri parens. For the identification of the Lar with the Genius see further Censorin. de die nat. 3. 2 eundem esse Genium et Larem multi veteres memoriae prodiderunt, in quis etiam Granius Flaccus in libro quem ad Caesarem de indigitamentis scriptum reliquit, interp. Serv. (i.e. Donatus, according to E. K. Rand in the Class. Quart. 1916 x. 158 ff.) in Verg. Aen. 3. 63 Appuleius de Daemonio Socratis (? a paraphrase of Apul. de deo Socr. p. 152 f. Oudendorp): 'Manes,' inquit, 'animae dicuntur melioris meriti, quae in corpore nostro Genii dicuntur, corpori renuntiantes Lemures; cum domos incursionibus infestarent, Larvae appellabantur; contra, si aequi et faventes essent, Lares familiares,' Auson. technop. de dis 9 nec Genius domuum, Larunda progenitus Lar, cp. Ov. fast. 3. 57 f. Wissowa *Rel. Kult. Röm.*² p. 175 denies their identity on grounds that seem to me inadequate) and was conceived as a Iupiter (so at least I have argued in Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 296 ff. noting that the Genius of a man corresponded with the Iuno of a woman (T. Birt in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1614 f., M. Ihm ib. ii. 615 ff.), that according to Caesius (Bassus?), who professed to follow Etruscan authorities, the Penates were Fortuna, Ceres, the Genius Iovialis, and the masculine Pales (Caesius ap. Arnob. adv. nat. 3. 40, cp. ib. 3. 43 Ceres, Pales, Fortuna, Iovialis aut Genius)—this Genius Iovialis being evidently a family god of some kind, not to be confused with the Genius Iovis (Min. Fel. Oct. 29. 5; Corp. inscr. Lat. i no. 603, 16 with tab. lith. 82=ix no. 3513, 16=Orelli Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 2488 fin., cp. no. 1730,=Wilmanns Ex. inscr. Lat. no. 105, 25=Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4906, 16) who was but the Genius of an anthropomorphic Jupiter—, that the Genius was not only affiliated to Jupiter (Fest. p. 359 a 14 f. Müller, p. 492, 6 f. Lindsay Tages nomine, Geni filius, nepos Iovis) but actually identified with Jupiter (Aug. de civ. Dei 7. 13 quid est Genius? ...hic est igitur quem appellant Iovem. This, however, is a quasi-philosophical conclusion based on the general similarity between the functions of the Genius and those of Jupiter as conceived by Valerius Soranus in his famous couplet (ib. 7. 9, cp. Myth. Vat. 3 prooem. p. 152, 28 ff. Bode): Iuppiter omnipotens, regum rerumque deumque (rerum regumque repertor Myth. Vat. G. H. Bode cj. creator) | progenitor genetrixque (genetrixque Myth. Vat.) deum, deus unus et omnes (idem Myth. Vat.), etc.), who appeared in the form of a snake (Herrmann Denkm. d. Malerei pl. 48 Text p. 59, A. Mau in the Röm. Mitth. 1896 xi. 29, *id. Pompeii: its Life and Art*² trans. F. W. Kelsey New York 1902 p. 271 f. fig. 127, A. Sogliano in the Mon. d. Linc. 1898 viii. 268, Talfourd Ely in Archæologia 1897 lv. 305 ff. a painting on the back wall of a shrine in the Casa dei Vettii at Pompeii, which shows the Genius with patera in right hand, acerra opened in left, and a face resembling that of Nero (supra p. 96); he stands between two dancing Lares, each of whom bears a goat-rhyton (cp. supra i. 108) and a pail; beneath him a great bearded and crested snake approaches an altar, on which is an egg and fruit. For the snake as a manifestation of the Genius see further T. Birt in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1623 ff. fig., J. A. Hild in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 1490 with fig. 3543, W. F. Otto in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 1161 f., E. Küster Die Schlange in der griechischen Kunst und Religion Giessen 1913 pp. 146 n. 3, 153 f.; and for the egg as an offering to the dead, M. P. Nilsson Das Ei im Totenkultus der Griechen Lund 1901 pp. 3—12 figs. 1, 2 (Sonderabdruck aus Från Filologiska Föreningen i Lund, Språkliga uppsatser ii Lund 1902)).

Similarly we may suppose without any undue temerity that in Greece the forefather of the family, once buried in the house (Plat. Minos 315 D οἱ δ' αὖ ἐκεῖνων ἐπιπρότεροι αὐτοῦ καὶ ἔθαπτον ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ τοὺς ἀποθανόντας. No other literary testimony to this custom can be cited; but the assertion here made is fully borne out by actual remains. H. Bulle Orchomenos München 1907 i. 67 f. shows that at Orchomenos in Boiotia during early Mycenaean times (c. 1700—1500 B.C.) the dead were buried as a rule inside the houses, and quotes parallels from Thorikos, Athens, and Eleusis. In the small settlement of early Mycenaean date on the summit of Mt Velatouri at Thorikos round, or in two cases oblong, holes were found hewn in the rock within the houses: the round holes had certainly served as graves, for in them stood large pithoi the upper parts of which were safeguarded by circular walls, and in these pithoi were remains of human bones (B. Staes in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1893 p. 15 f. pl. B, 3, id. in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1895 p. 228 ff. pl. 11, 3, Frazer Pausanias v. 524 f., A. J. B. Wace—M. S. Thompson Prehistoric Thessaly Cambridge 1912 p. 222). At Athens a grave of unbaked brick, dating from the same period and containing four bodies, one of them in a crouching attitude, was discovered between 'Pelagian' house-walls on the S. slope of the Akropolis (A. N. Skias in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1902 p. 123 ff. figs. 1—4, A. J. B. Wace—M. S. Thompson op. cit. p. 221). In the nekropolis at Eleusis two graves of unbaked brick were found under hearths and mistaken for small altars (A. N. Skias in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1898 p. 49 ff.

with pl., A. J. B. Wace—M. S. Thompson op. cit. p. 222). At Tiryns beneath the walls of the older Mycenaean palace five small stone-built graves with crouched bodies have come to light (W. Dörpfeld in the Ath. Mitth. 1907 xxxii p. iii, R. M. Dawkins in The Year's Work in Class. Stud. 1907 p. 14).

In Thessaly graves have been repeatedly found within houses of the bronze age (Ch. Tsountas Αἱ προϊστορικαὶ ἀκροπόλεις Διμητίου καὶ Σέσκλου Athens 1908 p. 131 'οἱ νεκροὶ ἐθάπτοντο ἐντὸς τῶν οἰκιῶν ἢ παρ' αὐτάς,' ib. p. 383 'τὸ ἔθιμον νὰ θάπτωσι τοὺς νεκροὺς ἐντὸς τῶν οἰκιῶν')), was viewed as Zeus; for in prehistoric times he had been the representative of the sky-god to his clan. Herein, I take it, lies the ultimate explanation of such cults as that of Zeus 'Αγαμέμνων, who was worshipped at Sparta, if not at Athens (Append. I), Zeus 'Αμφιάραος, who had a popular sanctuary at Oropos (Append. J), Zeus Τρεφώνιος or Τροφώνιος, the great oracular deity of Lebadeia (Append. K), and Zeus 'Ασκληπιός, the healer of Epidauros, Hermione, and Pergamon (Append. L). The same conception will afford us a clue to the cults of Zeus Μειλίχιος and Zeus Φίλιος as well as to the myth of Periphas (Append. M). Most of these buried kings appeared in the guise of snakes. And it is important to observe that Zeus Ktésios did so too. A marble stèle from Thespiæ, now in the Museum at Thebes (inv. no. 330), bears the inscription ΔΙΟΣ | ΚΤΗΣΙΟΥ in lettering of s. iii (?) B.C. and below it a relief, partially chipped away to make the block available for building purposes, but still plainly portraying a coiled snake with crest and beard (M. P. Nilsson 'Schlangenstele des Zeus Ktesios' in the Ath. Mitth.

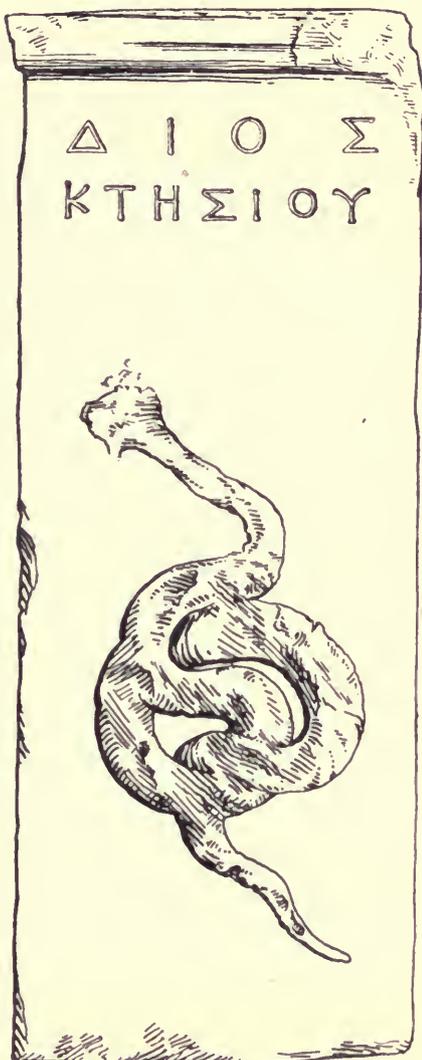

Fig. 914.

1908 xxxiii. 279—288 fig.=my fig. 914, Harrison Themis p. 297 ff. fig. 79). The discovery of this stèle confirmed, as M. P. Nilsson notes, the acute surmise of E. Gerhard Über Agathodämon und Bona Dea Berlin 1849 pp. 3, 23 (Gesammelte akademische Abhandlungen Berlin 1868 ii. 45 with n. 28) that Zeus Ktésios was probably represented as a snake.

(4) The Jars of Zeus Ktésios compared with the Jars of the Dioskouroi.

Gerhard further maintained that the jars of Zeus Ktésios were comparable with those of the Dioskouroi at Sparta (e.g. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 122 pl. 24, 6 a silver coin of 250—146 B.C. with rev. Λ Δ a lidded amphora with a snake twining round it, between the caps of the Dioskouroi surmounted by stars; in the field a monogram and A. Ib. p. 125 pl. 24, 14 a copper of 146—32 B.C. with rev. ΛΑΚΕΔΑΙ Μ·ΝΙΩΝ two amphorae with snakes twining round them; in the field two monograms. Fig. 915 = Einzelauftnahmen no. 1311, E. Cahen in the Bull. Corr.

Fig. 915.

Hell. 1899 xxiii. 599 f. fig. 1 (Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art viii. 442 f. fig. 216) an archaic relief—'sculpture par silhouettage ou découpage'—at Sparta (M. N. Tod and A. J. B. Wace A Catalogue of the Sparta Museum Oxford 1906 p. 191 no. 575 fig. 65), which has in the gable an egg (that of Leda??) flanked by two snakes, and in the space below the Dioskouroi facing each other with two lidded amphorae between them. Fig. 916—drawn from a photograph kindly given me by Miss J. E. Harrison—shows the relief of Argenidas in the Museo Lapidario at Verona (no. 555, height 0.40^m, breadth 0.72^m. Montfaucon Antiquity Ex- plained trans. D. Humphreys London 1725 Suppl. i. 103 f. pl. 27 no. 1 (inexact), S. Maffei Museum Veronense Veronae 1749 p. 47 fig. 7 (bad) with p. 56, A. Michaelis in the Arch. Zeit. 1871 xxix, 145 n. 37, Wien. Vorlegebl. iv pl. 9, 8 a, H. Dütschke Antike Bildwerke in Oberitalien Leipzig 1880 iv. 237 no. 538, A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1170 f. fig., M. N. Tod—A. J. B. Wace op. cit. p. 113 f. fig. 14, Reinach Rép. Reliefs iii. 436 no. 4, Harrison Themis p. 304 f. fig. 84). On a base to the left are statues of the Dioskouroi wearing phloi, chitônes (?), and chlamýdes (?). Before them is a rectangular altar decorated with a boar in relief. Behind the altar a large pedestal carries two lidded amphorae. On a step or low base to the right stands a man, clad in chitôn and himátion (?), who holds a phiale (see H. Heydemann Mittheilungen aus den Antikensammlungen in Ober- und Mittelitalien Halle 1879 p. 5) in his right hand extended over the altar (?). Away to the right is seen a rocky coast forming a bay, in which floats a vessel close to the shore. Near the vessel's stern are the heads of two horned animals (oxen?). On the further side of the bay two sets of dókana (supra i. 766 ff.) are set up over a cavern. In the cavern two male figures are reclining; a third raises his hand with a gesture of surprise or greeting; a fourth (?) and possibly a fifth (??) follow him into the cave. On the rocky point to the left of the cave is a cock. And from the dókana a snake makes its way towards the amphorae. The scene is accompanied by the inscriptions [ΑΝΑ]ΚΕΙΟΝ below the dókana and [Α]ΡΓΕΝΙΔΑΣ ΑΡΙΣΤΟΓΕΝΙΔΑ ΔΙΟΣΚΟΡΟΙΣ | ΕΥΧΑΝ along the lower edge of the slab in lettering of s. ii B.C. (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 1949). This relief, found in 1710 A.D. at Ateste (Este) in the country of the Veneti, had perhaps been brought thither from Venice (A. Boeckh in the Corp. inscr. Gr. loc. cit.). It records the gratitude of one Argenidas, a Spartan (?), who having crossed the sea to Venetia (?) in safety dedicates a thank-offering to the Dioskouroi. It is thus the monumental counterpart of Catullus' famous poem on his yacht (Cat. 4). The foreground of the relief shows Argenidas pouring a libation at the altar, which—like many examples of Italian aes grave (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Italy Index p. 406)—bears the figure of a boar, and the heads of two sacrificed animals lying on the rocky shore. The distance gives a very interesting view of the Anakeion (supra i. 107 n. 7) or sanctuary at Therapne (?), where the Dioskouroi lived on underground (Alkm. frag. 5 Bergk⁴ ap. schol. Eur. Tro. 210, Pind. Nem. 10. 103 f. with schol. ad loc.). The reclining figures are the buried heroes themselves. The snake containing their numen creeps across from the old sanctuary to the new, intent on tasting the libation of Argenidas), at the Spartan colony Tarentum (see e.g. Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 130 pl. 100, 48, cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Italy p. 160 nos. 1—3, Head Coins of the Ancients p. 66 pl. 33, 12, *id. Hist. num.*² p. 58, and especially M. P. Vlasto in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1899 ii. 331 f. pl. 17, 1—6 gold statères of Tarentum struck c. 281 B.C.: obv. head of Zeus to left with $\overline{\text{NIK}}$ as monogram in the field to right; rev. $\overline{\text{TAPANTIN}\Omega\text{N}}$ and $\overline{\text{NIKAP}}$ and on one specimen $\overline{\Phi\text{I}}$, eagle to right on thunderbolt with two amphorae, sometimes surmounted by stars, in the field to right, id. ib. 1899 ii. 333 f. pl. 17, 16—18 quarter statères of gold with same reverse type, but obverse showing laureate head of Apollon. The presence of the amphorae as symbols on these coins is explained by the fact that at Tarentum there was a cult of the Dioskouroi (supra i. 35 n. 6 fig. 8). In 1880 A.D. numerous terra-cottas were found at Tarentum, including a series of votive tablets studied by E. Petersen 'Dioskuren in Tarent' in the Röm. Mitth. 1900 xv. 3—61 with 2 pls. and many figs. and by G. Gastinel 'Cinq reliefs Tarentins' in the Rev. Arch. 1901 i. 46—58 with 4 figs. The tablets are in the form of naïskoi and were originally painted. As classified by Petersen, they comprise the following types:

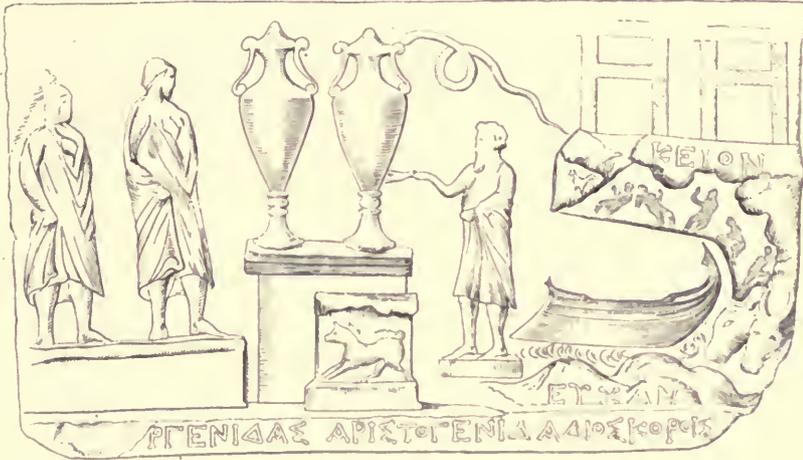

Fig. 916.

- A. The Dioskouroi standing without horses (Petersen loc. cit. p. 7 fig. 1 and p. 8 fig. 3).
- B. The Dioskouroi standing by their horses (Petersen loc. cit. p. 15 fig. 1).
- C. The Dioskouroi riding (Petersen loc. cit. p. 18 fig. 2).
- D. The Dioskouroi driving (Petersen loc. cit. p. 23 fig. 1).
- E. The Dioskouroi on horse-back coming to the Theoxénia (Petersen loc. cit. p. 24 fig. 6).
- F. The Dioskouroi reclining at the feast (Petersen loc. cit. p. 27 fig. 2).

It should be observed that the amphorae are a constant feature of the Tarentine reliefs (G. Gastinel loc. cit. p. 55 cp. the amphorae on the cake-moulds from Tarentum: supra p. 131), being placed usually on the ground, but sometimes on the dókana (cp. supra p. 158 ff. fig. 99), or on pillars), in Etruria (Gerhard Etr. Spiegel iii. 42 pl. 48, 6 and 8, cp. supra i. 770 fig. 564), and at Tauion in Galatia (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 24 pl. 5, 1, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 749 coppers of s. i. B.C.).

These Dioscuric amphorae have been variously explained. E. Petersen in the Röm. Mitth. 1900 xv. 41 calls them 'agonistisch' and supposes that jars of wine were given as prizes and contained the drink required for the Theoxénia (schol. Pind. Ol. 3 argum., 1, cp. 72: see further Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 418 ff.). A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1171 hesitates whether to regard them as 'Weinamphoren' implying a ritual use or as merely 'sepulkrale Symbole.' E. Bethé in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1108 takes them to be bottomless vessels, like the great 'Dipylon' vases (cp. supra i. 766 n. 9), set up over the grave for the reception of funereal offerings. Gerhard Gr. Myth. i. 524 f. long ago described them as 'Aschengefässe.' My friend Dr J. Rendel Harris Boanerges Cambridge 1913 p. 377 f. acutely conjectures that in them we have a Greek parallel to the pots used throughout Africa etc. for the burial of a twin or of a twin's placenta. Personally I should be content to say that the amphorae both of Zeus Ktésios and of the Dioskouroi presuppose the custom of pithos-burial, and were retained as signs of the divinised dead long after the custom in question had ceased to be. If Zeus Ktésios was, as I maintain, an early Greek king buried in his own house, it is certainly permissible to assume that he was buried in a phthos. Platon, who states that the primitive Athenians used to bury the dead in their houses (supra p. 1060), informs us in the same context that their successors among other old-fashioned burial rites 'sent for women to fill the jars' (Plat. Minos 315 C ὡσπερ καὶ ἡμᾶς αὐτοὺς οἰσθά πον καὶ αὐτὸς ἀκούων, οἷος νόμοις ἐχρῶμεθα πρὸ τοῦ περὶ τοὺς ἀποθανόντας, ἱερεῖά τε προσφάττοντες πρὸ τῆς ἐκφορᾶς τοῦ νεκροῦ καὶ ἐγχυτρίστριας μεταπεμπόμενοι with schol. ad loc. τὰς χοᾶς τοῖς τετελευτηκόσιν ἐπιφερούσας, ὡς ἐπὶ τοῦδε. ἔλεγον δὲ καὶ τὸ βλάψαι (βάψαι Zonaras. C. A. Loebck cj. θάψαι) καταχυτρίσαι (J. G. Baiter cj. ἐγχυτρίσαι), ὡς Ἀριστοφάνης (Aristoph. vesp. 289 ὄν ὅπως ἐγχυτρίεις). λέγονται δὲ καὶ ὄσαι τοὺς ἐναγείς καθαίρουσιν, αἷμα ἐπιχέουσαι τοῦ ἱερίου. ἔτι δὲ καὶ αἱ θρηνητρίαι, καὶ δὴ καὶ αἱ μαῖαι αἱ ἐκτιθείσαι ἐν χύτραις τὰ βρέφη = Souid. s.v. ἐγχυτρίστριαι = et. mag. p. 313, 41 ff. (cp. 39 f.) = Zonar. lex. s.v. ἐγχυτρίστριαι (cp. s.v. ἐγχυτρίζειν), cp. Hesych. s.vv. ἐγχυτρίεις, ἐγχυτρίζειν, schol. Aristoph. vesp. 289, Moiris lex. s.v. ἐγχυτρισμός, Thom. Mag. p. 264). It seems reasonable to infer that, when phthos-burial within the house was abandoned, offerings to the dead were still placed in memorial jars by a special class of mourning-women. My contention is that the σημεῖα of Zeus Ktésios were just such memorial jars retained in the house, though their original significance had long been forgotten. The divinity whose presence they betokened would naturally be deemed the guardian of the household stores; for the master, himself buried in a phthos, would know how to protect his own goods bestowed in other phthoi.

(5) Zeus Ktésios in Literature and Cult.

Hence his title Ktésios, 'god of Property,' which occurs in literature from s. v B.C. onwards (Aisch. suppl. 443 ff. καὶ χρημάτων μὲν ἐκ δόμων πορθουμένον | ... γένοντο' ἂν ἄλλα Κτησίου Διὸς χάρις, Hippokr. de insomniis 4 (xxii. 10 Kühn) καὶ τοῖς θεοῖς εὐχεσθαι, ἐπὶ μὲν τοῖσιν ἀγαθοῖσιν Ἡλίῳ, Διὶ Οὐρανίῳ, Διὶ Κτησίῳ, Ἀθηναῖᾳ Κτησίῃ, Ἑρμῇ, Ἀπόλλωνι, ἐπὶ δὲ τοῖσιν ἐναντίοισι τοῖσιν ἀποτροπιοῖσι καὶ Γῇ καὶ Ἥρωσιν κ.τ.λ., Hypereid. πρὸς Ἀπελλαῖον frag. 13 Blass² ap. Harpokr. s.v. Κτησίου Διὸς who adds Κτήσιον Δία ἐν τοῖς ταμείοις ἰδρυντο, Menand. Pseudherakles frag. 2, 2 f. (Frag. com. Gr. iv. 223 f. Meineke) ap. Harpokr. loc. cit. τὸν δὲ Δία τὸν Κτήσιον | ἔχοντα τὸ ταμείον οὐ κεκλεισμένον, Autokleides (?) ap. Athen. 473 B—C (supra p. 1054 ff.), Plout. de refugn. Stoic. 30 ὁ δὲ Ζεὺς γελοῖος, εἰ Κτήσιος χαίρει καὶ Ἐπικάρπιος καὶ Χαριδότης προσαγορευόμενος, ὅτι δηλαδὴ χρυσᾶς ἀμίδας καὶ χρυσᾶ κρᾶσπεδα χαρίζεται τοῖς φαύλοις, τοῖς δ' ἀγαθοῖς ἄξια δραχμῆς ὅταν πλοῦσιοι γένωνται κατὰ τὴν τοῦ Διὸς πρόνοιαν, Cornut. theol. 9 p. 9, 16 f. Lang καὶ Κτήσιον... αὐτὸν (sc. Δία) προσαγορεύουσιν, Dion Chrys. or. 1 p. 57 Reiske Κτήσιος δὲ καὶ Ἐπικάρπιος ἅτε τῶν καρπῶν αἴτιος καὶ δοτήρ πλοῦτου καὶ κτήσεως, οὐ πενίας οὐδὲ ἀπορίας, or. 12 p. 413 Reiske Κτήσιος δὲ καὶ Ἐπικάρπιος ἅτε τῶν καρπῶν αἴτιος καὶ δοτήρ πλοῦτου καὶ δυνάμεως, Souid. s.vv. Διὸς κώδιον (supra i. 423 n. 1 = Apostol. 6. 10), Ζεὺς Κτήσιος ὄν καὶ ἐν τοῖς ταμείοις ἰδρύντο ὡς πλουτοδότην, Κτήσιος ὁ Ζεὺς, Κτησίου Διὸς τὸν Κτήσιον Δία ἐν τοῖς ταμείοις ἰδρύντο, Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 266 no. 51 (Διὸς Κτησίου).

Under this title Zeus was worshipped at Athens (Dem. in Mid. 53 Διὶ Κτησίῳ βοῦν λευκόν (supra i. 717 n. 2), Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 2 no. 3854, 1 f. from the Asklepieion [.κ.]αἱ Διὸς | [Κ]τησίου) including the Peiraieus (Antiph. or. 1. 16 μετὰ ταῦτα ἔτυχε τῷ Φιλόνεω ἐν Πειραιεῖ ὄντα ἱερά (C. Wachsmuth Die Stadt Athen im Alterthum Leipzig 1890 ii. 1. 146 n. 1 would read ὄντι θένε ἱερά) Διὶ Κτησίῳ, ὁ δὲ πατήρ ὁ ἐμὸς εἰς Νάξον πλεῖν ἔμελλεν. κάλλιστον οὖν ἐδόκει εἶναι τῷ Φιλόνεω τῆς αὐτῆς ὁδοῦ ἅμα μὲν προπέμψαι εἰς τὸν Πειραιᾶ τὸν πατέρα τὸν ἐμὸν φίλον ὄντα ἑαυτῷ, ἅμα δὲ θύσαντα τὰ ἱερὰ ἐστιᾶσαι ἐκείνον, ib. 18 ἐπειδὴ γὰρ ἐδεδειπνήκησαν, οἷον εἰκὸς, ὁ μὲν θύων Διὶ Κτησίῳ καὶ ἐκείνον ὑποδεχόμενος, ὁ δ' ἐκπλεῖν τε μέλλων καὶ παρ' ἀνδρὶ ἐταίρῳ αὐτοῦ δειπνῶν, κ.τ.λ., cp. for the domestic celebration Isai. or. 8. 16 καὶ τὸς ἐορτὰς ἤγομεν παρ' ἐκείνου πάσας· τῷ Διὶ τε θύων τῷ Κτησίῳ, περι ἦν μάλιστ' ἐκείνος θυσίαν ἐσπούδαξε καὶ οὔτε δούλους προσῆγεν οὔτε ἐλευθέρους ὀθνείους, ἀλλ' αὐτὸς δι' ἑαυτοῦ πάντ' ἐποίει, ταύτης ἡμεῖς ἐκωνωνοῦμεν καὶ τὰ ἱερὰ συνεχειροουργοῦμεν καὶ συνεπιτίθεμεν καὶ τᾶλλα συνεποιούμεν, καὶ ἤρχετο ἡμῖν ὑγίειαν διδόναι καὶ κτῆσιν ἀγαθὴν, ὥσπερ εἰκὸς ὄντα πάππον) and Phlyeis (Paus. 1. 31. 4 Φλυεῦσι δέ...ναὸς δὲ ἕτερος ἔχει βωμοὺς Δήμητρος Ἀνησιδώρας < καὶ ins. Siebelis > Διὸς Κτησίου καὶ Τιθρωνῆς (Siebelis cj. Τριτώνης) Ἀθηνᾶς καὶ Κόρης Πρωτογόνης καὶ Σεμνῶν ὀνομαζομένων θεῶν), at Thespiæ (supra p. 1061), at Epidaurus (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 56 no. 121 = Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1288 a limestone slab inscribed Διὶ | Κτησίῳ | Κράτων. | μη'), at Kárien between Mt Pangaion and the sea (P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1894 xviii. 441 ff. no. 1 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 774 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 576 a white marble boundary-stone inscribed in lettering of c. 400 B.C. Διὸς Ἐρκεῖ|ιο Πατρῶ|ιο : καὶ Διὸς Κτησί|ο), in the Kyklades Syros (F. Hiller von Gaertringen in Inscr. Gr. ins. v. 1 no. 670 an altar from Psarríaná inscribed in late lettering Διὸς | Κτησί|ον), Thera (F. Hiller von Gaertringen in Inscr. Gr. ins. iii Suppl. no. 1361 fig. = my

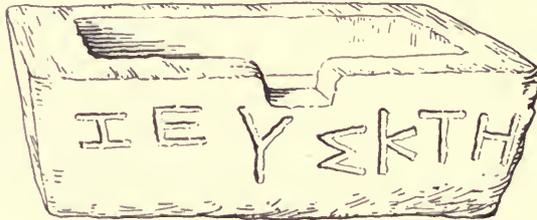

Fig. 917.

fig. 917 a small altar or ἐσχάρα of volcanic stone inscribed Ζεὺς Κτή(σιος), Anaphe (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2477, 17 [Διὸς?] τοῦ Κτησίου, which is corrected ib. p. 1091 to [ὁ]πεῖ δ [βω]μὸς τοῦ Κτησίου καὶ τὸ ξο[άνι]ον and in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 201 ff. no. 3430, 12 to [ὁ]πεῖ δ βωμὸς τοῦ Κτησίου καὶ τὸ ξοάνιον = F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Inscr. Gr. ins. iii no. 248, 13 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 853, 12 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 555, 13 = J. v. Protz and L. Ziehen Leges Graecorum sacrae ii no. 122, 13. This inscription, which can be dated c. 100 B.C., tells how one Timotheos, anxious to erect a temple of Aphrodite, was bidden by an oracle to do so in the precinct of Apollon Asgelátas: the building-operations necessitated the temporary removal of an altar of Ktésios and an adjacent statuette. It is not certain that the statuette belonged to Ktésios, still less that it represented him. L. Ziehen even denies that Ktésios was originally Zeus Ktésios. In this, however, he is over-sceptical, though no doubt Ktésios was a title applicable to other deities besides Zeus (see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1578 f.), at Panamara in Karia (G. Deschamps — G. Cousin 'Inscriptions du temple de Zeus Panamaros' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1888 xii. 269 f. no. 54, 7 ff. a stèle dedicated by Kleoboulos and Strateia to a series of deities καὶ τοῖς ἐνοικιδίῳ θεοῖς Διὶ Κτησίῳ καὶ Τύχη καὶ Ἀσκληπιῷ), at Teos in Ionia (Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 3074 on an altar or base of s. ii B.C. Διὸς Κτησίου, | Διὸς Καπετωλίῳ, | Ῥώμης, | Ἀγαθοῦ δαίμονος = Michel Recueil d'Inscr.

gr. no. 806), in Phrygia (G. Cousin 'Inscription d'Ormelé de Phrygie' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1884 viii. 503 part of an astragalomantic inscription found at Tefeny col. iii, 19 δδδ5α Ϝ ιθ' Ϝ Διὸς Κτη|σίου Ϝ (i.e. the throw 4 + 4 + 4 + 6 + 1 = 19 is that of Zeus Ktésios) followed by the hexameters θαρωῶν ἐν χερεῖ καὶ ἐ[π' ἐ] | λπίδος ἐστὶν ὁ χρῆσμὸς, ὡς.... | μανύει καὶ τὸν νοσεύου[α δὲ σώσει]μ· εἰ δὲ τι | μαντεύη χρ[η]σμὸς...| δ]εῖς ἀπολήψῃ. I should venture to restore and read the lines as follows: θαρωῶν ἐν χερεῖ, καὶ ἐπ' ἐλπίδος ἐστὶν ὁ χρῆσμὸς, | ὡς κατὰ μανύει | καὶ τὸν νοσεύουτα δὲ σώσει· | εἰ δὲ τι μαντεύη, χρῆσμοὺς ἡδεῖς ἀπολήψῃ. See further the clear and helpful observations of W. R. Halliday Greek Divination London 1913 p. 213 ff. A. Wagener 'Inscriptions grecques recueillies en Asie Mineure' in the Mémoires couronnés et mémoires des savants étrangers, publiés par l'Académie Royale des Sciences, des Lettres et des Beaux-Arts de Belgique 1858 —1861 xxx Classe des Lettres 2. 19 f. no. 2 pl. A inscribed on a white marble stèle found at Koloe (Koula) with the prefatory remarks of J. de Witte ib. p. viii Διὰ Κτήσιον Τατία | Παπίαν τὸν ἐαυτῆ[ς] | ἄνδρα, Τειμοκράτη[ς] | τὸν πατέρα, | Καρποφόροσ τὸν θρέψαντα | κατειέρωσαν. | ἔτους σοα' μη(νὸς) | Αἰθναίου η'; from which it appears that in 175 A.D. (=261 of the Sullan era) Tatia definitely consecrated her deceased husband Papias as Zeus Ktésios—a striking vindication of my view that Zeus Ktésios was but the buried ancestor of the clan), at Pergamon in Mysia (H. Hepding in the Ath. Mitth. 1910 xxxv. 452 no. 35 a marble altar inscribed [Διὰ Κτησίωι | [M.] Αὐρήλιος | Μηνογένης | ὁ ἱεροφάντης]), and doubtless elsewhere also. At Amastris in Paphlagonia he was recognised as Zeus Panktésios (G. Hirschfeld 'Inscripfen aus dem Norden Kleinasiens besonders aus Bithynien und Paphlagonien' in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1888 p. 878 no. 31 on a small marble altar at Amastris inscribed Ϝ ΔΙΙ Ϝ | ΠΑΝΚΤΗ|CΙΩ Ϝ). But this was an exceptional flourish. As a rule, Zeus Ktésios was a homely power content with worship in a small way—he never has a temple or a statue, but puts up with a jar or a hearth or at most a trumpery altar. I doubt if he ever received a handsomer offering than that of the white ox mentioned by Demosthenes.

(6) The Jars of Zeus in the Iliad.

One interesting possibility must not be neglected. We have traced Zeus Ktésios back to the days of Aischylos. But the very nature of his cult postulates a hoary antiquity. There is therefore much to be said for an acute suggestion made by Miss Harrison (Proleg. Gk. Rel. 2 p. 642), viz. that we have a reminiscence of the self-same cult in the Homeric description of the jars of Zeus (Il. 24. 527 ff. δοιοὶ γάρ τε πίθοι κατακείαται ἐν Διὸς οὔδει | δῶρων, οἷα δίδωσι, κακῶν, | ἕτερος δὲ εἰῶν· | ᾗ μὲν κ' ἀμμίξας δῶη Ζεὺς τερπικέρυμνος, | ἄλλοτε μὲν τε κακῶ ὃ γε | κύρεται, ἄλλοτε δ' ἐσθλῶ· | ᾗ δὲ κε τῶν λυγρῶν δῶη, λωβητὸν ἔθηκε· | καὶ ἐ κακῆ | βοῦβρωστis ἐπὶ χθόνα διαν ἑλάνουει, | φουτᾶ δ' οὔτε θεοῖσι τετιμένους οὔτε βροτοῖσιν. For full apparatus criticus see A. Ludwig ad loc. The most important variants are the omission of line 528 in cod. T. and the substitution of κηρῶν ἔμπλειοι, ὁ μὲν ἐσθλῶν, αὐτὰρ ὁ δειλῶν in the passage as quoted by Plat. rep. 379 D, Plout. quo modo adolescens poetas audire debeat 6 (but cp. consolat. ad Apollon. 7), Euseb. praep. ev. 13. 3. 12 (from Plat. loc. cit.), Prokl. in Plat. remf. i. 96, 14 f. Kroll. Dr W. Leaf in 1888 printed δοιοὶ γάρ τε πίθοι κατακείαται ἐν Διὸς οὔδει | δῶρων οἷα δίδωσι κακῶν, ἕτερος δὲ εἰῶν· | κ.τ.λ. and supposed that 'Zeus has two jars of evil for one of good' (cp. Pind. Pyth. 3. 143 ff. ἐν παρ' ἐσλὸν πῆματα σύνδυο δαίονται βροτοῖς | ἀθάνατοι). But in 1898, collaborating with Mr M. A. Bayfield, he was more disposed to admit the possibility that 'there are only two jars spoken of, one of ills and one of blessings.' For κακῶν, ἕτερος δὲ εἰών = ἕτερος μὲν κακῶν, ἕτερος δὲ εἰών he cited Il. 7. 417 f. But the idiom is by no means rare: to the examples adduced by R. Kühner—B. Gerth Ausführliche Grammatik der griechischen Sprache Hannover and Leipzig 1904 ii. 266 add Aristot. poet. 1. 1447 b 14 ἐλεγείσσι τοὺς δὲ ἐποποιούς ὀνομάζουσιν, pol. 2. 4. 1262 a 26 f. φόνους ἀκουσίους, τοὺς δὲ ἐκουσίους. Moreover, the existence of the variant κηρῶν ἔμπλειοι, ὁ μὲν ἐσθλῶν, αὐτὰρ ὁ δειλῶν, which is not of course 'more careless than the average of Plato's citations' but good evidence of the pre-Aristarchean text, makes it practically certain that the jars were conceived as two in number):

Two jars lie buried in the floor of Zeus
 Filled with the gifts he gives—evil in this,
 Good in the other. Whensoever Zeus
 The lightning-hurler gives a mingled lot,
 He that receives it falls on evil now
 And now on good. But he to whom Zeus gives
 Of the sorry store is made a very scorn:
 Him evil hunger drives o'er the bright earth,
 Nor gods nor mortals honour him as he goes.

(7) Zeus Ktésios compared with the Di Penates.

Finally, it should be observed that sundry Greek antiquarians described the Roman di Penates as theoi Ktésioi (Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 1. 67 τοὺς δὲ θεοὺς τούτους Ῥωμαῖοι μὲν Πενάτας καλοῦσιν· οἱ δὲ ἐξηρμηνεύοντες εἰς τὴν Ἑλλάδα γλῶσσαν τοῦνομα οἱ μὲν Πατρώους ἀποφαίνουσιν, οἱ δὲ Γενεθλίους, εἰσι δ' οἱ Κτησίους, ἄλλοι δὲ Μυχίους, οἱ δὲ Ἑρκίους, cp. ib. 8. 41 καὶ ἡμεῖς, ὧ θεοὶ Κτήσιοι καὶ ἑστία πατρώα καὶ δαίμονες οἱ κατέχοντες τοῦτον τὸν τόπον, χαίρετε). The description was apposite; for the di Penates, as divinised ancestors (?? see Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 293 ff.) keeping watch over the penus, were in function at least strictly analogous to Zeus Ktésios. Perhaps indeed the likeness extended to the signs and symbols of their presence; for the Penates of Lavinium were represented by 'caducei of iron and bronze together with Trojan pottery' (Timaios frag. 20 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 197 Müller) ap. Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 1. 67 σχήματος δὲ καὶ μορφῆς αὐτῶν πέρι Τίμαιος μὲν ὁ συγγραφεὺς ὧδε ἀποφαίνεται· κηρύκια σιδηρὰ καὶ χαλκὰ καὶ κέραμον Τρωϊκὸν εἶναι τὰ ἐν τοῖς ἀδύτοις τοῖς ἐν Λαουνίῳ κείμενα ἱερά. πυθέσθαι δὲ αὐτὸς ταῦτα παρὰ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων), which presumably implies metal snakes coiled about a staff and an earthenware jar (N.B. The tabula Iliaca in three separate places represents Aeneias and Anchises as carrying the sacra of Troy in a cylindrical jar(?) with a domed lid: see O. Jahn Griechische Bilderchroniken Bonn 1873 p. 35 pl. 1, and cp. Helbig Wandgem. Camp. p. 310 no. 1380, id. in the Bull. d. Inst. 1879 p. 76 f., Preller—Jordan *Röm. Myth.*³ ii. 322 n. 2). The mention of caducei in this connexion sets us thinking. Is it possible that Hermes himself with his chthonian and his phallic traits was of kindred origin? The idea should not be scouted without a careful consideration of the facts brought together by Mr A. L. Frothingham (in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1916 xx. 175—211 and a sequel as yet unpublished). See further supra p. 383 n. 7.

APPENDIX I.

ZEUS AGAMÉMNON.

The evidence for the cult of Zeus Ἀγαμέμνων at Sparta is as follows: Lyk. Al. 335 states that Priamos was killed (supra i. 39 n. 2 and n. 6) ἀμφὶ τύμβῳ τᾶγαμέμνονος, on which Tzetzes remarks Ἀγαμέμνων ὁ Ζεὺς ἐν Λακεδαιμονίᾳ. This is confirmed by Lyk. Al. 1124 Ζεὺς Σπαρτιάταις αἰμύλοις κληθήσεται (sc. ὁ Ἀγαμέμνων) with Tzetz. ad loc. ὅτι Λακεδαιμόνιοι ἰδρύσαντο Ἀγαμέμνονος Διὸς ἱερόν εἰς τιμὴν τοῦ ἥρωος, Staphylos frag. 10 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 506 Müller) ἀφ. Clem. Al. protr. 2. 38. 2 p. 28, 17 f. Stählin Ἀγαμέμνονα γούν τινα Δία ἐν Σπάρτῃ τιμᾶσθαι Στάφυλος ἱστορεῖ, Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis i p. 1 Schwartz ὁ δὲ Λακεδαιμόνιος Ἀγαμέμνονα Δία...σέβει.

For his cult at Athens the evidence is slighter: Lyk. Al. 1369 ff. πρῶτος μὲν ἦξει Ζηνὶ τῷ Λαπερσίῳ | ὁμώνυμος Ζεὺς, ὃς καταβάτης μολῶν | σκηπτῷ πυρώσει πάντα δυσμενῶν σταθμά with Tzetz. ad loc. Λαπέρσαι δῆμος τῆς Ἀττικῆς (U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorff cj. Λακωνικῆς), ἔνθα Ἀγαμέμνονος Διὸς ἱερόν ἐστίν. ὁ ὁμώνυμος οὖν τῷ Λαπερσίῳ Διὶ ὁ Ἀγαμέμνων, κ.τ.λ. The cj. Λακωνικῆς is supported by Soph. frag. 871 Nauck², 957 Jebb, ἀφ. Strab. 364 νῆ τῷ Λαπέρσα (sc. the Dioskouroi), νῆ τὸν Εὐρώταν τρίτον, | νῆ τοὺς ἐν Ἄργει καὶ κατὰ Σπάρτην θεοὺς, Rhian. ἀφ. Steph. Byz. s.v. Λαπέρσα θηλυκῶς, ὄρος Λακωνικῆς, οὐ μέμνηται Ῥιανὸς ἐν Ἡλιακῶν πρώτῳ· ἀπὸ τῶν Λαπερσῶν Διοσκούρων. τὸ ἔθνικόν Λαπερσαῖος. See further W. Pape—G. E. Benseler *Wörterbuch der griechischen Eigennamen*³ Braunschweig 1875 ii. 773.

With regard to the interpretation of this evidence ancient and modern views have differed widely: Metrodoros of Lampsakos, who allegorized Homer (Tatian. or. adv. Graec. 37), took Agamemnon to be the aithér (Hesych. Ἀγαμέμνονα τὸν αἰθέρα Μητροδόωρος ἀλληγορικῶς). Eustath. in Il. p. 168, 11 ff. is hardly more satisfactory: δοκεῖ εὐλόγως παρὰ Λάκωσι Ζεὺς Ἀγαμέμνων ἐπιθετικῶς εἶναι, ὡς ὁ Λυκόφρων λαλεῖ· Ἀγαμέμνων τε γὰρ εὐρυκρείων καὶ Ζεὺς εὐρυμέδων. εἰ δὴ ταῦτῶν εὐρυκρείων καὶ εὐρυμέδων, λέγοιτ' ἂν διὰ τοῦτο διθυραμβικότερον καὶ Ἀγαμέμνων Ζεὺς, καθότι καὶ εὐρυκρείων. Welcker Gr. Götterl. ii. 183 regards Ἀγαμέμνων as a title of Zeus, 'Erzwalter.' Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 157 renders 'Zeus...der "grosse Sinner"' and ib. n. 22 cites the vase inscriptions ΑΛΑΜΕΣΜΟΝ and ΑΛ·ΜΕΣΜΟ· (P. Kretschmer Die Griechischen Vaseninschriften Gütersloh 1894 p. 168 ff.) as implying an original *Ἀγαμέδμων (W. Prellwitz in the Beiträge zur Kunde der indogermanischen sprachen 1891 xvii. 171 f., 1894 xx. 306 f., id. *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 3) with which he compares such names as Ἀγαμήδης, Ἀγαμήτωρ. Wide Lakon. Kulte pp. 12 f., 333 f., following F. Deneken in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 2449 f., holds that a god Ἀγαμέμνων (ἀγα-+μεμ-), 'der viel sinnende, viel Sorge tragende, mächtig schirmende und schützende,' whose partner was originally Ἀλεξάνδρα, came to be identified with Zeus. On the etymology see, however, K. Brugmann—A. Thumb *Griechische Grammatik*⁴ München 1913 p. 89: 'Dass uridg. -nm- auch zu -μν- geworden sei, glauben wir nicht. Man nimmt an, Ἀγα-μέμνων sei aus *-μενμων (zu ai. mānman-) entstanden (DE SAUSSURE, Mém. 4, 432). Wäre das richtig, so könnte die besondere Behandlung der Gruppe -nm- aus der Mitwirkung der anderen Nasale des Wortes oder aus Volksetymologie (vgl. θρασσο-μέμων 'mutig standhaltend') erklärt werden. Aber die attische Nebenform Ἀγαμέσμων (KRETSCHMER, Vas. 168 f.) weist auf *Ἀγα-μέδμων als Grundform (vgl. PRELLWITZ, BB. 17, 171 f.

20, 306 f.). Hieraus ging einerseits durch Anlehnung an Πολυ-φράσμων u. a. (§ 88 Anm. 2) die Form Ἀγαμέσμων hervor; Ἀγαμέμων anderseits zeigt die gleiche Behandlung des δμ wie att. μεσό-μνη neben ion. μεσό-δη (§ 58), ὕμνος aus *ὕδμος (falls zu ὕδω, ἰδέω, s. W. SCHMID, Rhein. Mus. 61, 480; anders, aber unwahrscheinlich EHRlich, Rhein. Mus. 62, 321 ff., vgl. ferner P. MAAS, Philol. 66, 590 ff.), kret. μνῶ neben ion. δμός: in einzelnen griechischen Dialekten wurde also δμ zu νμ (vgl. ἰπτι aus ἡπι § 87, 6) und dieses weiter zu μν (vgl. neur. μεμνη=altir. menne 'mens') zu einer Zeit, wo der Wandel von uridg. -nm- zu -μμ- schon längst vollzogen war¹. (1 Dass dm- schon uridg. zu nm- geworden sei und hierauf unser μν beruhe (so zuletzt JOHANSSON, IF. 3, 227), ist unwahrscheinlich.) Aus diesem Dialektgebiet stammt die Form Ἀγα-μέμων. Anders KRETSCHMER a. a. O., FICK, Gött. gel. Anz. 1894 S. 234. 241 (der in μεσό-μνη ursprüngliches -δμν- vermutet) und SCHULZE, Gött. gel. Anz. 1896 S. 236 (der in μεσόμνη, Ἀγαμέμων "durch eine Art von Metathesis δμ zu βν und weiter zu μν" geworden sein lässt unter Mitwirkung des in den beiden Wörtern vorausgehenden μ); vgl. aber auch STOLZ, Innsbrucker Festschr. zur 50. Philol.-Vers. (1909) 13 ff.² Farnell Cults of Gk. States iv. 50 without venturing upon philological ground assumes that 'the two names [Ζεὺς and Ἀγαμέμων] were originally quite distinct and became conjoined owing to some later fusion of cults.' But A. Furtwängler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 96 'ein chthonischer Zeus' and K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real. Enc. i. 721 'vielleicht ein chthonischer Gott' had already pointed the way to a better solution of the problem. In the Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 277, cp. Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 299, 301, I contended that the hero was a Zeus all along, the local champion or king being as such the embodiment of the god. Even in Homer there are traces of this belief. Agamemnon's stock epithet ἀναξ ἀνδρῶν is suggestive of a divine appellation (cp. Verg. Aen. i. 65 divom pater atque hominum rex, Hes. theog. 923 θεῶν βασιλῆι καὶ ἀνδρῶν), and in Il. 2 478 he is described as ἄμματα καὶ κεφαλῆν (S. A. Naber cj. φθογγῆν) ἱκέλος Διὶ τερπικεραύνῳ. See further supra p. 1060 f.

APPENDIX J.

ZEUS AMPHIARAOS.

The worship of Zeus Ἀμφιάραος at Oropos is attested by Dikaiarch. i. 6 (Geogr. Gr. min. i. 100 Müller) ἐντεύθεν εἰς Ὠρωπὸν δι' Ἀφιδνῶν καὶ τοῦ Ἀμφιάρου Διὸς ἱεροῦ ὁδὸν ἐλευθέρω βαδίζοντι σχεδὸν ἡμέρας προσάντη πάντα. The text is not free from corruption. For the manuscript's διαδαφνιδὸν L. Holstein and others read διὰ Δελφίνιον (cp. Strab. 403), C. Müller in Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 256 διὰ Ψαφιδῶν (cp. Strab. 399); id. in Geogr. Gr. min. i. 100 accepts C. Wordsworth's cj. δι' Ἀφιδνῶν or else δι' Ἀφιδνῶν. For the manuscript's ὁδὸν...πρόσαντα C. Müller, after I. Casaubon, proposes ὁδὸς...προσάντης πᾶσα, but prints ὁδὸν...προσάντη [πάντα]. Casaubon wanted to expunge Διός. But he was certainly wrong. The hero Amphiaros had come to be reckoned as a god: cp. Soph. El. 836 ff. οἶδα γὰρ ἄνακτ' Ἀμφιάρων χρυσοδέτους | ἔρκεισι κρυφθέντα γυναικῶν· καὶ νῦν ὑπὸ γαίης | ... | πάμψυχος ἀνάσσει with Cic. de div. i. 88 Amphiarum autem sic honoravit fama Graeciae, deus ut haberetur, atque ut ab eius solo, in quo est humatus, oracula peterentur, Paus. i. 34. 2 θεὸν δὲ Ἀμφιάρων πρῶτος Ὠρωπίος κατέστη νομίζειν, ὕστερον δὲ καὶ οἱ πάντες Ἕλληνες ἤγηται. That he was under the protection of Zeus appears from Pind. Nem. 9. 58 ff. ὁ δ' Ἀμφιάρῃ σχίσσεν κεραυνῶ παμβία | Ζεὺς τὰν βαθύστερον χθόνα, κρύψεν δ' ἄμ' ἴπποις, | δουρὶ Περικλυμένον πρὶν νῶτα τυπέντα μαχατὰν | θυμὸν αἰσχυρθῆμεν, 10. 13 ff. γαῖα δ' ἐν Θήβαις ὑπέδεκτο κεραυνωθέισα Διὸς βέλεσιν | μάντιν Οἰκλείδαν, πολέμοιο νέφος, Apollod. 3. 6. 8 Ἀμφιαράφ δὲ φεύγοντι παρὰ ποταμὸν Ἴσμηνόν, πρὶν ὑπὸ Περικλυμένον τὰ νῶτα τραθῆ, Ζεὺς κεραυνὸν βαλὼν τὴν γῆν διέστησεν. ὁ δὲ σὺν τῷ ἄρματι καὶ τῷ ἡνίοχῳ Βάτωνι, ὡς δὲ ἔνιοι Ἑλάτωνι (so R. Wagner after Sommer, who suggested Ἑλάτωνι or Ἑλατίφ. L. Dindorf cj. Ἑλάτφ. ἐλάττω R. ἐλάττωνι *R^a. ἐλάττωνον P. R^b. R^c. ἐλάττω V. L. N. T.), ἐκρύφθη, καὶ Ζεὺς ἀθάνατον αὐτὸν ἐποίησεν.

As a parallel to this famous scene H. Usener in the Sitzungsber. d. Kais. Akad. d. Wiss. in Wien Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 cxxxvii. 3. 2, 4, 37 (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 200 ff., 234) cites the belief that Theodoric the Great, king of the Ostrogoths, did not die in 526 A.D., but entered the earth as a living man seated on his black charger. I am, however, inclined to lay more stress on analogies drawn from the classical area, e.g. that of Erechtheus (supra p. 793 f.) or those of Látinus and Aeneas (Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 363, Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 286). Such cases may be taken to imply that the early king, who during his life had been credited with magical powers of making a thunderstorm, was after his death frankly identified with the weather-god. Moreover dead kings, being chthonian powers, can give oracles, send dreams, and bestow health on those that consult them in the right way. Hence at the popular Amphiareion near

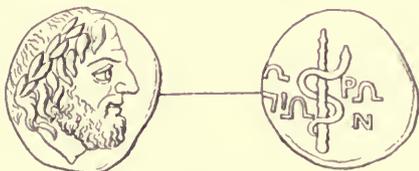

Fig. 918.

Fig. 919.

Oropos (on which see F. Dürrbach De Orope et Amphiarui sacro Paris 1890, E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1893 ff. fig., Frazer Pausanias ii. 466 ff. pl. 9, figs., and for recent finds etc. F. Versace in the Ath. Mitth. 1908 xxxiii. 247—272, H. Lattermann ib. 1910 xxxv. 81—102, B. Leonardos in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1913 p. 237, ib. 1916 pp. 118—121, besides reports in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1903 p. 33 f., 1904 p. 27 f., 1906 p. 83 f., 1913 p. 114) the marble cult-statue of Amphiaraos (Paus. i. 34. 2) appears to have borne a close resemblance to Asklepios. An autonomous copper of the town, dating from s. ii B.C. or later, has for obverse type the head of Amphiaraos bearded and laureate, and for reverse a snake coiled round a staff with the legend Ω Ρ Ω Π Ι Ω Ν (É. de Cadalvène Recueil de médailles grecques inédites Paris 1828 p. 168 no. 1 = Overbeck Gall. her. Bildw. i. 151 Atlas pl. 6, 10 = my fig. 918. Other specimens show obv. a beardless head described as Apollon (A. v. Sallet in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1898 xxi. 208 f. pl. 4, 10) or Amphiaraos (Head *Hist. num.*² p. 392—a bad guess, unless the head is really bearded, as stated by Cadalvène op. cit. p. 168 no. 2, cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Attica etc. p. 115 pl. 20, 5) or even a female (U. Köhler in the Ath. Mitth. 1879 iv. 250 f. fig., 259 ff.), rev. a dolphin coiled round a trident with the legend Ω Ρ Ω Π Ι Ω Ν). Another copper of Oropos, struck by Gallienus, has rev. Ω Ρ Ω Π Ι Ω Ν Amphiaraos enthroned to left, his left hand grasping a sceptre and his right extended over a snake (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Attica etc. p. 115 pl. 20, 6, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. iii. 153 pl. EE, 18

=my fig. 919). Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner justly remark that 'On these coins Amphiaras is represented exactly in the guise of Asclepius, as a god rather than as a hero.' B. I. Leonardos in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1887 p. 62 f. reports the discovery in the Amphiareion at Oropos of a small statue, minius head and extremities, 'παριστὰν δὲ βεβαίως τὸν Ἀμφιάραον ὡς τὸν Ἀσκληπιῖόν, στήριζόμενον ἐπὶ ῥάβδον περὶ ἣν ἐλίσσεται ὄφης,' and of a small relief representing a similar Amphiaras and Hygieia seated on a rock beside him (cp. 'Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1885 p. 102 no. 4, 3 = Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 311, 3, 'Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1885 p. 106 no. 6, 3 = Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 372, 3, ib. i no. 412, 11), while above them appears the head of Pan another partner in their cult (Paus. i. 34. 3).

The hero's name offers a variety of problems. Ἀμφιάραος had a clipped form *Ἀμφίς (Herodian. περὶ παθῶν frag. 104 (ii. 205, 16 ff. Lentz) ap. et. mag. p. 93, 50 ff. = Zonar. lex. s.v. Ἀμφίς, cp. et. mag. p. 159, 31, cites Aisch. frag. 412 Nauck²). A possible doublet is *Ἀμφίος, brother of Adrastos and son of Merops the seer of Perkote who foresaw the doom of his sons at Troy (Il. 2. 830 ff., 11. 328 ff.); and he in turn has been regarded (E. Bethe in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1949) as originally identical with *Ἀμφίος, son of Selagos, who lived at Paisos and was slain at Troy (Il. 5. 612 ff., Tzetz. Hom. 89 f. N.B.: Il. 2. 828 Ἀπαισοῦ = Il. 5. 612 Παισοῦ). See further H. Usener in E. Bethe Thebanische Heldenlieder Leipzig 1891 p. 65, id. Götternamen Bonn 1896 p. 355, id. in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. Akad. d. Wiss. in Wien Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 cxxxvii. 3. 40 ff. (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 237 ff.), who holds that *Ἀμφίος gave rise, on the one hand to Ἀμφίων (cp. et. mag. p. 92, 41 ff.), on the other to Ἀμφιάραος, Ἀμφιύρεως, Ἀμφιάρης. It may, however, be doubted whether Usener has said the last word on the subject; for the etymology of the name Ἀμφιάραος is still far from clear. F. G. Welcker *Der epische Cyclus*² Bonn 1882 p. 322 takes Ἀμφιάραος to mean 'der Beter' (ἀράομαι). P. Kretschmer Die Griechischen Vaseninschriften Gütersloh 1894 pp. 32, 123 argues that Ἀμφιάρης, for *ἈμφιάρηFos, was derived from iareús (stem iarrhF-) and meant ἀρχιρέως, but that Ἀμφιάραος was formed by popular etymologizing from ἀράομαι. A. Fick *Die Griechischen Personennamen*² Göttingen 1894 p. 438 f. connects with *Ἄρης: 'Dasselbe Element ist in ἀμφι-ἄρης Zeus.' Similarly J. Rendel Harris Boanerges Cambridge 1913 p. 225 suggests that at Argos Areios (Ap. Rhod. 1. 118, Orph. Arg. 148, cp. Pherekyd. frag. 75 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 90 Müller) ap. schol. Od. 11. 289) and Amphiaras were twin-brothers. But all these views are risquées. At most we can assert that there is a tendency (satirised in the person of Ἀμφίθεος by Aristoph. Ach. 46 ff.) for divine and heroic names to begin with Ἀμφι-. Such names need not point to the existence of twins (pace J. Rendel Harris op. cit. p. 224 f.), but might on occasion refer to some twofold aspect of Zeus (supra p. 445), who is e.g. ἀμφιθαλής, 'god of both parents,' in Aisch. cho. 394 f. καὶ πότ' ἂν ἀμφιθαλής | Ζεὺς ἐπὶ χεῖρα βάλου; (see a good note by T. G. Tucker ad loc.). Thus H. Usener in the Rhein. Mus. 1898 liiii. 336 f. (= id. Kleine Schriften iv. 266 f.) regards Ἀμφιτρύων (τρύω, τρυπᾶν, κ.τ.λ.) as 'der nach Osten und Westen den Donnerkeil entsendende und damit durchbohrende Gewittergott,' an ancient Sondergott (supra p. 13 n. 1) absorbed into the all-prevailing personality of Zeus. I should myself put the matter somewhat differently. To my thinking Amphitryon, like Amphiaras, was a king who played the part of a human Zeus and was named accordingly.

APPENDIX K.

ZEUS TREPHTÓNIOS OR TROPHÓNIOS.

For the cult of Zeus Τρεφώνιος or Τροφώνιος at Lebadeia Rohde *Psyche*³ i. 125 n. 1 cites the following evidence: Strab. 414 Λεβάδεια δ' ἐστίν, ὅπου Διὸς Τροφωνίου μαντεῖον Ἴδρυται, χάσματος ὑπονόμου κατάβασιν ἔχον, καταβαίνει δ' αὐτὸς ὁ χρηστηριαζόμενος, Liv. 45. 27 Lebadiae quoque templum Iovis Trophonii adit (sc. L. Aimilius Paullus in 167 B.C.): ibi cum vidisset os specus, per quod oraculo utentes sciscitatum deos descendunt, sacrificio Iovi Hercynnaeque facto, quorum ibi templum est, etc., Iul. Obseq. prod. 110 (96 B.C.) Lebadiae Eutychides in templum Iovis Trophonii digressus tabulam aeneam extulit, in qua scripta erant quae ad res Romanas pertinerent, [add Ampel. 8. 3 ibi (sc. Argis in Epiro!— unless we may assume that a mention of Lebadeia has dropped out of the text, or that pictum est is to be supplied from the preceding clause) Iovis templum Trophonii (so D. hyphonis C.), unde est ad inferos descensus ad tollendas sortes: in quo loco dicuntur ii qui descenderunt Iovem ipsum videre], Hesych. s.v. Λεβάδεια· πόλις Βοιωτ[ε]ίας, ἐνθα καὶ μαντεῖον Διὸς τὸ ἱερὸν κατεσκευάστω [? leg. μαντεῖον Διὸς, <Τροφωνίου> τὸ ἱερὸν κατασκευάσαντος], Phot. Iex. (p. 154 Hermann) s.v. Λεβάδία· πόλις Βοιωτίας, ἐν ἧ Διὸς μαντεῖον, Τροφωνίου κατασκευάσαντος, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3090=R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 162 f. no. 423 Ἰππων Ἐπινίκαν Νικίασ | Διὶ Τρεφωνίῳ on a square base formerly supporting a statue of Epinike (on the back of the same base was recorded the manumission of Athanon (Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3080 infra); on its right side, that of Hermaïa (ib. no. 3081 infra): later the base was used for a statue of Drusus Caesar (ib. no. 3103)), ib. no. 3098=L. Stephani Reise durch einige Gegenden des nördlichen Griechenlandes Leipzig 1843 p. 70 f. no. 47 pl. 5 Διονύσῳ Εὐσταφύλῳ | κατὰ χρησμόν Διὸς | Τροφωνίου, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3077, 3 ὁ ἱερεὺς τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Τροφωνίου Τροφωνιανός (the priest being named after his god, as Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 11 f. remarks).

Further, at Lebadeia—as I urged in Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 301—Zeus bore the significant title Βασιλεύς (Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3073, 89 f. and 93=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 589, 89 f. and 93=Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 972, 89 f. and 93 eis τὸν νυὸν τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Βασιλέως in an important inscription of s. ii B.C. dealing with the half-built temple on Mt St. Elias to the W. of Livadia (Paus. 9. 39. 4, supra p. 900 n. ο), Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3080, 1 ff.=R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 165 no. 430, 1 ff. [τὸ F[ῶ]σι[ν] δουλι[κὸν | π]αιδάριον Ἀθάνωνα τῷ Διὶ τεῖ Βασιλεῖ κῆ τεῖ Τροφωνίῳ ἱερὸν εἶμεν τὸν πάν[τα | χ]ρόνον ἀπὸ τῆσδε τὰς ἡμέρας, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3081, 2 f.=R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 164 f. no. 429, 2 f. τὰν *F*διάν δούλαν Ἐρμαίαν τεῖ Διὶ τεῖ Βασιλεῖ κῆ τῷ Τρε[φ]ωνίῳ ἱερὸν εἶμ[ε]ν | τὸν πάντα χρόνον, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3083, 6 ff.=R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 163 no. 425, 6 ff.=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1392, 6 ff. τὸν | *F*ιδιον θεράποντα Ἀνδρικὸν τῷ Διὶ τῷ Βασιλεῖ | κῆ τῷ Τροφωνίῳ ἱερὸν εἶμεν παραμείναντα πᾶρ | τὰν μητέρα Ἀθανοδώραν *F*έτια δέκα, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3085, 2 ff. τὸ ἴδιον δουλικὸν παιδάριον | Σωκράτην, παραμείναντα Ki.....] καὶ Ἀριστοκίδι, τὸν πάντα | χρόνον ἱερὸν κατὰ τὴν | ἀνάθ[ε]σιον τῷ Διὶ τῷ Βασιλεῖ, ib. no. 3091, 1 ff.=R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 162 no. 422, 1 ff.=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1115, 1 ff. Νέων *F*ασκώ[ν]δωσ | ἀγνωσθε[ρ]ε[σ]ας | τὰ Βασιλεια | τὸ ἐλροχρίστ[ιον] | ἀνέθεικε τοῖ [Δι] | τοῖ Βασιλεῖ[ι] κ[ῆ] τῆ] | πόλι in an inscription which can be dated shortly after 250 B.C., cp. Polyb. 20. 5. 5, 8, 14, Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3096, 1 f. Διὶ Βασιλεῖ | καὶ τῇ πόλει Λεβαδέων | κ.τ.λ., ib. no. 4136, 1 ff. = M. Holleaux in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1890 xiv. 19 ff. no. 10, 27 ff. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 635 B, 27 ff. Καλλικλίδας Λοκρὸς ἔσς Ὀπιόντος καταβὰς ἐν Τρεφῶνιον ἀνάγγειλε Λεπάδειαν τοῖ Δι τοῖ Βασιλεῦ ἀνθέμεν | κῆ τοῖ Τρεφώνιοι, κ.τ.λ., 32 f. ὅστις δέ κα τῶ | Διὸς τῶ Βασιλείου ἐπιμελειθεῖει τῶ ναῶ, τὸν στέφανον | ὕσση in the record of an oracle delivered soon after 178 B.C.).

In view of the foregoing passages and inscriptions I would venture to reconstruct the story of the Lebaean cult as follows. Once upon a time there lived in the locality a king of the old magical sort (supra i. 12 ff.), who controlled the weather for his people (supra i. 79) and passed as a human Zeus (supra i. 247 (?), 545 n. 5, 547 (?), 662, 737 (?), ii. 24, 192, 794, 833, 897 n. o, 940 n. o, 944 f. n. o, Append. H (3) and (4), Append. I, Append. J, infra Append. L sub fin., Append. M med.)—one of those who in epic days came to be called Διοτρεφέες βασιλῆες (Il. 1. 176, 2. 98, 196, 445, 14. 27, Od. 3. 480, 4. 44, 63, 7. 49, h. Dion. 11, Hes. theog. 82, 992: see H. Ebeling Lexicon Homericum Lipsiae 1885 i. 311 f.) because it was remembered that they were at least intimately related to the sky-god (either by descent (schol. Il. 1. 176 citing Hes. theog. 96 ἐκ δὲ Διὸς βασιλῆς, Hesych. s.v. Διοτρεφέων), or by special favour (Il. 2. 196 f. with Eustath. in Il. p. 199, 20 ff. ἐνταῦθα δὲ καὶ ἐφερμηνεύει, διὰ τί Διογενεῖς καὶ Διοτρεφεῖς τοὺς βασιλεῖς λέγει, οὐχ ὅτι ἐκ Διὸς τὸ γένος ἔλκουσιν, ἀλλ' ὅτι ἐξ ἐκείνου αὐτοῖς ἡ τιμὴ. φησὶ γάρ· "τιμὴ δ' ἐκ Διὸς ἔστιν," ἢ τῆς βασιλείας δηλαδή. ἀφιδρύματα γὰρ ὡσανεὶ Διὸς ἐδόκουν εἶναι οἱ βασιλεῖς, cp. ib. p. 316, 33 f.): the relation is moralised by Themist. or. 6 p. 79 A—B ἡ δὲ εἰς ἀνθρώπους ἀρετὴ καὶ πραότης καὶ εὐμένεια... μὴ καὶ μᾶλλον ἔστιν ἐγγυτέρα τῷ κοινωνοῦντι τῆς φύσεως; αὕτη ποιεῖ θεοείκελον, αὕτη θεοειδῆ, οὕτω Διοτρεφῆς γίνεται βασιλεὺς, οὕτω Διογενής, οὕτως αὐτῷ τὴν θεϊότητα ἐπιφημίζοντες οὐ ψευσόμεθα). Now Διοτρεφῆς, Διετρεφῆς, and similar names have a shortened form Τρέφων (A. Fick *Die Griechischen Personennamen*² Göttingen 1894 p. 269), and Τρέφων by the addition of a common suffix would become Τρεφώνιος. Hence our local king, when dead and buried, was still consulted as Zeus Τρεφώνιος or—since he was responsible for the crops (supra i. 79)—as Zeus Τροφώνιος (Max. Tyr. 41. 2 τὸν Δία... τὸν καρπῶν τροφέα, cp. Zeus Ὀπωρέυς in Corp. inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 2733 = Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 151 = R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 213, 396 no. 567 an early inscription from Akraiphia Κρίτων καὶ Θεοῖσδοτος τοῖ | Δι τῶπωρεῦ. Other appellatives of Zeus with the same general significance are collected and discussed by H. Usener Götternamen Bonn 1896 p. 243 n. 67, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1109 n. 1). In support of this explanation it should be noted that, when Q. Titius and Salvenius obtained from Trophonios at Lebaeia prophecies concerning Sulla, ἀμφοτέροι... ταῦτα περὶ τῆς ὁμφῆς ἔφραζον· τῷ γὰρ Ὀλυμπίῳ Δι καὶ τὸ κάλλος καὶ τὸ μέγεθος παραπλήσιον ἰδεῖν ἔφασαν (L. Cornelius Sulla rer. gestar. frag. 16 Peter ap. Plout. v. Sull. 17). Further, Paus. 9. 39. 10 compares the oracular building to a κρίβανος or 'baking jar,' i.e. one of the domical earthen ovens still used in the east for baking bread (J. H. Middleton in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1888 ix. 313 f.). It was in fact the ἑόλος-tomb of an old Boeotian king (cp. schol. Loukian. p. 255, 21 ff. Rabe). Those who descended into it to consult the divinised dead took honey-cakes in their hands (Aristoph. nub. 506 ff., Paus. 9. 39. 11, Poll. 6. 76, Loukian. dial. mort. 3. 2, Max. Tyr. 14. 2, Hesych. s.v. μαγίδες) for the reptiles that they might encounter (Philostr. v. Apoll. 8. 19 p. 335 Kayser, schol. Aristoph. nub. 508 = Soud. s.v. Τροφωνίου κατὰ γῆς παίγνια, Eudok. viol. 930) because the man who first penetrated its recesses found there two snakes and appeased them with honey-cakes (schol. Aristoph. nub. 508). It was even said that the oracle was delivered by a snake (schol. Aristoph. nub. 508=Souid. s.v. Τροφωνίου κατὰ γῆς παίγνια) or snakes (Souid. s.v. μελιτοῦτρα), to which the inhabitants threw honey-cakes. Snakes, it would seem, were as sacred to Trophonios as they were to Asklepios (Paus. 9. 39. 3): indeed, in the cave from which flowed the stream Herkyna there stood images of Trophonios and Herkyna with snakes coiled about their staves so that they resembled Asklepios and Hygieia (Paus. ib.). According to the story current in the district, Herkyna (a sort of Demeter, cp. Lyk. Al. 152 f. Ἐρυναία... | Ἐρκυνν' Ἐρινὸς κ.τ.λ. with Tzet. ad loc. Ἐρκυνν' Ἐριννὸς ἐπώνυμα Δήμητρος. κ.τ.λ., Hesych. Ἐρκύνια (so S. Potter for Ἐρκύνια). ἑορτὴ Δήμητρος. Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 353 says: 'wohl eine Fruchtbarkeit spendende Quellgöttin, der arkadischen Demeter ähnlich'), playing with Kore, had lost a goose, which flew into a cave and hid beneath a stone till Kore came in and found it: the stream springing from the spot, whence Kore had lifted the stone, was called Herkyna. And in the temple of Herkyna near the bank of the stream a maiden was still to be seen with a goose in her hands (Paus. 9. 39. 2 f.). The story reminds us that Zeus, to win Nemesis or Leda, transformed himself into a goose (supra i. 279 n. 4, 760 n. 2). It may, I think, be divined that the goose in the hands of the maiden was Zeus himself in animal form. For that Zeus was associated with Herkyna appears from Paullus' sacrifice 'Iovi Hercynnaeque' (supra p. 1073). L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pétr. 1863 p. 94 finds an illustration of the Lebadean tale on a rhytôn, shaped like a bull's head, found at Ruvo and now in the Jatta collection, which shows (a) Zeus seated with thunderbolt and sceptre, and (b) a maiden pursuing a goose (published by T. Avellino in the Bull. Arch. Nap. 1856 Nuova Serie iv. 114 f. pl. 11, 2, 1, 3=Reinach Rép. Vases i. 483, 4, 3, 6): but this is perhaps a mere juxtaposition of the sublime with the ridiculous (Maybaum Der Zeuskult in Boeotien Doberan 1901 p. 19 detects 'eine Genrescene'). Be that as it may, Trophonios was not only a dead man, but also a living god (Loukian. dial. mort. 3. 1 f.), and as such received the rites due to a god (Charax frag. 6 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 637 f. Müller) ap. schol. Aristoph. nub. 508 καὶ θύουσιν αὐτῷ ὡς θεῷ), being, as we have seen, frequently identified with Zeus (in Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 55, Arnob. adv. nat. 4. 14, with a chthonian Hermes: cp. Paus. 9. 39. 7). This, however, does not preclude a certain likeness to Amphiaros; for Trophonios too was swallowed by the earth at a place in Lebadeia, where there was a hole (βόθρος) of Agamedes and a stèle beside it (Paus. 9. 37. 7, cp. 9. 39. 6?). The name Καταβάσιον sometimes given to the oracular building (schol. Aristoph. nub. 508=Souid. s.v. Τροφωνίου κατὰ γῆς παίγνια) bears a superficial resemblance to that of Zeus Καταβάτης, but means presumably the sacred spot 'to which men descend' (cp. Dikaiarchos περὶ τῆς εἰς Τροφωνίου καταβάσεως (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 266 ff. Müller), and a work by Plutarch with the same title—no. 181 in the catalogue of Lamprias (W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*⁶ München 1911 ii. 1. 371 n. 4)). J. Vürtheim 'De Eugammonis Cyrenaei Telegonia' in Mnemosyne 1901 xxix. 27—30 regards both Agamedes and Trophonios as hypostases of Zeus: 'Sed indigetando ex uno hoc love (vel Mercurio) dii tres sunt facti, e quibus unus Clymenus (i.e. Ζεὺς Κλύμενος vel Περικλύμενος) avum repraesentabat, secundus Trophonius antiquo nomine servato vates fiebat, tertius Agamedes (i.e. sagacissimus) indolem prudentem τοῦ χθονίου θεοῦ indicabat; deinde e dis mutati in reges mythicos (ut Amphiarus ille)' etc.... 'Vidimus igitur Iovem τροφώνιον χθόνιον e spelunca sua in lucem quasi protractum in duos heroas abiisse, quemadmodum Amphiarus est natus

e Iove Amphiarao et subterraneus Iuppiter plurimis locis cognominibus variis invocabatur, qualia sunt Zeus Eἰβουλος vel Eὐβουλεύς, Βουλαῖος, Κλύμενος etc. But this explanation leaves unexplained the peculiar character of the Καταβάσιον. I much prefer to suppose that it was the thólos of an ancient Lebadean king, who in his day played the part of Zeus. The worship of Zeus Βασιλεύς, which—as we have seen—flourished at Lebadeia, implies a similar, though not identical, tradition. We may, in fact, conceive of the local cult as having developed along the following divergent lines:

Trophonios is said to have been succeeded at Lebadeia by St Christopher the martyr (schol. Loukian. p. 255, 15 ff. Rabe); but see Frazer Pausanias v. 198 f. and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner on Paus. 9. 39. 4.

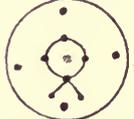

APPENDIX L.

ZEUS ASKLEPIÓS.

The cult of Zeus Ἀσκληπιός at Epidauros, Hermione, and Pergamon is attested by a considerable body of evidence, inscriptional, literary, and monumental.

(1) Zeus Asklepiós in Inscriptions.

M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1000 Epidauros [Γά(?)]ος Ἴο[ύ]λιος Ἀ[σια]τικός, ἱεραπολήσας ἔτους πα', | κελύσα[ν]τι | Διὶ Ἀσκληπιῶ | Σωτήρι. | with the numeral ιθ' and the symbol , which—as C. Blinkenberg in the Nordisk Tidsskrift for Filologi Tredie Række 1894—1895 iii. 175 ff. and in the Ath. Mitth. 1899 xxiv. 384, 391 showed—represents the wreath of Asklepios. P. Kabbadias in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1884 p. 24 no. 65 = id. Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 58 no. 136 inserted a comma between Διὶ and Ἀσκληπιῶ, but E. Thraemer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1661 and M. Fränkel loc. cit. rightly reject it. M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1022 Epidauros ----- ν ----- | ----- os Διογνήτου ἱερέως | Ἀσκληπιῶ Διὶ κατὰ ὄναρ. | with the numeral ος'. Id. ib. i no. 1086 Epidauros Παταῖος --- | πυρο[φορή]σας | Ἀσκληπιῶι | Διὶ Τελείωι. | with the numeral ος' and the symbol , which

C. Blinkenberg in the Nordisk Tidsskrift for Filologi Tredie Række 1894—1895 iii. 175 f. took to be 'le rameau...comme un signe de la soumission et du respect le plus profond' and in the Ath. Mitth. 1899 xxiv. 385, 392 described as 'Zweig (oder Baum?)', 'wahrscheinlich...ein Palmenzweig,' while M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i. 188 calls it 'Ramus olivae s. quercus.' C. Blinkenberg in the Ath. Mitth. 1899 xxiv. 385 n. 2 read the name of the dedicator as ΠΑΙΛΙΟC i.e. Πόπιλος Δίλιος and put a comma between Ἀσκληπιῶι and Δί. M. Fränkel in his note on the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1086 thinks Blinkenberg's reading possible, but demurs to his punctuation. The inventory-symbols, which appear to have been added to the inscriptions c. 306 A.D. (Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i. 186), suffice to prove that at Epidauros Asklepios was then known as Zeus Ἀσκληπιός Σωτήρ and Zeus as Asklepios Ζεὺς Τέλειος. A. Boeckh in the Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1198=M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 692=W. Prellwitz in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 185 no. 3396 Hermione Ξενότιμος Πολυκλέος | Δάματρι Χθονίαι, Δί Ἀ(σκ)λαπιῶι, where K. O. Müller *Die Dorier*² Breslau 1844 i. 403 n. 3 corrected M. Fourmont's reading ΔΙΑΡΓΙΑΠΙΩΙ to ΔΙΑΣΚΛΑΠΙΩΙ. P. Kabbadias Fouilles d'Épidaure i. 58 and W. Prellwitz loc. cit. assume a series of three deities; but A. Boeckh loc. cit. and M. Fränkel loc. cit. treat Δί Ἀσκληπιῶι as one god.

(2) Zeus Asklepiós in Literature.

Their view is supported by E. Thraemer loc. cit., who adds: 'Besonders häufig findet sich Zeus A. bei Aristeides, nicht etwa ein blos rhetorischer Ausdruck für die Hoheit des Gottes, sondern Anlehnung an einen ganz bestimmten Kult der Stadt Pergamos. Dieser hat mit dem schon in hellenistischer Zeit blühenden vorstädtischen Asklepieion freilich nichts zu thun, ist vielmehr eine Neuschöpfung des 2. Jhdts. v. Chr., seine Stätte die grösste Ruine der Unterstadt, die früher Basilika genannte, jetzt in Berlin für Thermen gehaltene Anlage über dem Selinos. Dass wir es hier mit dem Tempel und ἄλσος des Zeus A. zu thun haben, werde ich demnächst an anderem Orte nachweisen.' See further K. Pilling Pergamenische Kulte Naumburg a. S. 1903 p. 23 ff. (cited by Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 271) and Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 295, 1094 n. 19, 1456 n. 4. Cp. Aristeid. or. 6. 37 (i. 64 f. Dindorf) καὶ Διὸς Ἀσκληπιουῦ νεῶν οὐκ ἄλλως οἱ τῆδε ἰδρύσαντο. ἀλλ' εἶπερ ἐμοὶ σαφῆς ὁ διδάσκαλος, εἰκὸς δὲ παντὸς μᾶλλον, ἐν ὧν δὲ ταῦτ' ἐδίδαξε τρόψω καὶ ὅπως ἐν τοῖς ἱεροῖς λόγοις εἴρηται, οὗτός ἐσθ' ὁ τὸ πᾶν ἄγων καὶ νέμων σωτήρ τῶν ὄλων καὶ φύλαξ τῶν ἀθανάτων, εἰ δὲ θέλεις τραγικώτερον εἰπεῖν, ἔφορος οἰάκων, σώζων τὰ τε ὄντα ἀεὶ καὶ τὰ γιγνόμενα. εἰ δ' Ἀπόλλωνος παῖδα καὶ τρίτον ἀπὸ Διὸς νομίζομεν αὐτόν, αὐθις αὐτὸν καὶ συνάπτομεν τοῖς ὀνόμασι, ἐπεὶ τοι καὶ αὐτὸν τὸν Δία γενέσθαι λέγουσί ποτε, πάλιν δὲ αὐτόν ἀποφαίνουσιν ὄντα τῶν ὄντων πατέρα καὶ ποιητήν, or. 23. 283 (i. 456 Dindorf) ὁ δὲ στέφανος ἦν ἐκ τοῦ ἱεροῦ τοῦ Διὸς Ἀσκληπιουῦ (for the wreath of Asklepios C. Blinkenberg in the Nordisk Tidsskrift for Filologi Tredie Række 1894—1895 iii. 176 f. and in the Ath. Mitth. 1899 xxiv. 391 cites, not only the Epidaurian symbol, but also a red-figured kratér from Boiotia, now at Athens (Collignon—Couve Cat. Vases d'Athènes p. 626 f. no. 1926), published by O. Kern in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1890 p. 131 ff. pl. 7=Reinach Rép. Vases i. 515, 1 f., which shows (a) Asklepios on a couch feeding a huge snake from a Boeotian cup in his right hand and holding an egg in his left hand, the wall hung with four garlands, (b) Hygieia seated, grasping a sceptre with her left hand and extending her right towards a girl, who carries a basket of fruits and cakes and an oinochôe, the wall hung with three garlands and votive limbs, and a Messenian copper of Roman date (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 112 pl. 22, 16, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. ii. 66 pl. P, 1 f.), on which Asklepios appears with a large wreath by his side), or. 23. 290 (i. 464 Dindorf) καὶ ἅμα λαμβάνω τιὰ ἐπιστολήν πρὸ ποδῶν κειμένην τοῦ Διὸς Ἀσκληπιοῦ, or. 26. 332 (i. 516 Dindorf) μετὰ δὲ ταῦτα βουλομένοις ἡμῖν κωμῆ περὶ τοῦ ἀναθήματος συνεδόκει καὶ τῷ ἱερεί καὶ τοῖς νεωκόροις ἀναθεῖναι ἐν Διὸς Ἀσκληπιοῦ, ταύτης γὰρ οὐκ εἶναι χάραν καλλίω· καὶ οὕτω δὴ τοῦ ὄνειρατος ἢ φήμη ἐξέβη. καὶ ἔστιν ὁ τρίπους ὑπὸ τῆ δεξιᾷ τοῦ θεοῦ, εἰκόνας χρυσᾶς ἔχων τρεῖς, μίαν καθ' ἕκαστον τὸν πόδα, Ἀσκληπιοῦ, τὴν δὲ Ὑγείας, τὴν δὲ Τελεσφόρου. κ.τ.λ.

(3) Zeus Asklepiós in Art.

In art the type of Asklepios was not uninfluenced by that of Zeus. Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpt. p. 186 ff. regards a whole series of standing Asklepios-statues as copies of a Myronian original representing Zeus (Strab. 637 notes a Zeus by Myron formerly grouped with an Athena and a Herakles by the same sculptor at Samos, but later erected by Augustus in an aedicula on the Capitol at Rome): 'The restful conception that marks the older type of Zeus exactly suited the mild character of Asklepios.' Overbeck *Gr. Plastik*⁴ i. 379 holds that 'das Ideal des Asklepios wesentlich als eine geistreiche Umbildung des von Phidias ausgeprägten Zeusedeales erscheint, eine Umbildung, die unter Beibehaltung der meisten charakteristischen Formen doch vermöge ihrer Herabsetzung auf ein reiner Menschliches die Hoheit des Weltregierers durch die herzliche Milde und Klugheit des hilfreichen Heilgottes zu ersetzen weiss': accordingly he traces the canonical bearded type of Asklepios to the cult-stature of the god by Pheidias' pupil Alkamenes at Mantinea (Paus. 8. 9. 1). E. Reisch in the Eranos Vindobonensis Wien 1893 p. 21 f. assumes that this statue showed the god standing as on imperial coppers of Mantinea (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 187 pl. 35, 9, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. ii. 93 pl. s, 15, Rasche Lex. Num. v. 183 f.), and that the same figure appearing with inverted sides on Athenian silver ((i) ΜΕΝΕΔ ΕΠΙΓΕΝΟ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Attica etc. pp. xlv, 63 pl. 11, 6, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. iii. 150 pl. EE, 2, E. Beulé Les monnaies d'Athènes Paris 1858 p. 331 ff., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 383 accepting J. Sundwall's date, 177 B.C.; (ii) ΔΙΟΚΛΗΣ ΛΕΩΝΙΔΗΣ E. Beulé op. cit. p. 401, Head *op. cit.*² p. 386 dating c. 86 B.C. to time of Augustus) and copper coins (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Attica etc. p. 109 pl. 19, 4, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. iii. 150 pl. EE, 3 f., E. Beulé Les monnaies d'Athènes Paris 1858 p. 331) attests the existence in the Asklepieion at Athens of a similar statue by Alkamenes or one of his pupils. But, after all, the coins adduced by Reisch exhibit common poses of Asklepios (the coppers of Mantinea show schema iii of E. Thraemer's classification in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 636; the silver and copper coins of Athens, schema i ib. i. 634 f.), and it is far from certain that they were intended to portray cult-statues, let alone works by Alkamenes. We are on firmer ground in observing that Kolotes, who helped Pheidias with his Zeus at Olympia (Plin. nat. hist. 34. 87, 35. 54), made a wonderful ivory statue of Asklepios for Kyllene (Strab. 337). If this, like Zeus at Olympia, was a seated figure, Kolotes paved the way for Thrasymedes of Paros, whose chryselephantine Asklepios at Epidaurus (bibliography in Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 148 n. 1) was half the size of the Zeus Ὀλύμπιος at Athens (Paus. 2. 27. 2) and was, by a natural blunder, attributed to Pheidias himself (Athenag. supplicatio pro Christianis 17 p. 19, 15 f. Schwartz). Thrasymedes' cult-stature was decidedly Zeus-like in appearance—witness the silver (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 156 pl. 29, 14, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 43 pl. L, 3, W. Wroth in the Num. Chron. Third Series 1892 xii. 14 f. pl. 1, 17, J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1901 iv. 11 fig. 6 enlarged=id. Ath. Nationalmus. p. 150 fig. 104, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 441) and copper coins of Epidauros (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 159 pl. 29, 22 f., cp. ib. p. 158 pl. 29, 19, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 43 pl. L, 4 f., J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1901 iv. 10 f. figs. 3—5 enlarged=id. Ath. Nationalmus. p. 150 f. figs. 105—107, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 442), and an imperial copper of Kleonai (Imhoof-Blumer Monn. gr. p. 133, id. and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 32, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 441). The god is seated to the left with his left foot advanced, holding a long sceptre high up in his left hand and extending his right hand over the head of a coiled snake. Beneath his seat (silver coins) or behind it (coppers) lies a dog (see H. Gaidoz 'À propos des chiens d'Épidaure' in the Rev. Arch. 1884 ii. 218—222, O. Keller Die antike Tierwelt Leipzig 1909 i. 141, F. Orth in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 2576 f.). The seat itself is sometimes a high-backed throne (silver and copper coins), sometimes a mere stool (silver coins). Other Zeus-like types of Asklepios seated occur on coppers of Argos—perhaps after the group by Xenophilos and Straton (Paus. 2. 23. 4), which followed the main lines of Thrasymedes' work (Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 40 f. pl. κ, 47, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 151 no. 166), Fig. 920.

Fig. 921.

Fig. 922.

Fig. 923.

Rhegion (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Italy p. 381 f., Garrucci Mon. It. ant. p. 165 pl. 115, 12 f., Head *Hist. num.*² p. 111. The shape of the seat varies from throne to high-backed chair), the Magnetes in Thessaly—an adaptation of Thrasymedes' statue (Imhoof-Blumer *Choix de monn. gr.*¹ pl. 1, 26, id. Monn. gr. p. 133 no. 2^a, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 300), Trikke (T. Panofka 'Asklepios und die Asklepiaden' in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1845 Phil.-hist. Classe p. 353 pl. 1, 13, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 52 pl. 11, 13, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 311 'Asklepios seated, feeding serpent with bird, or resting on crooked staff'! Fig. 922, from a well-preserved specimen of mine, shows the god to have a sceptre and the bird to be a goose (cp. Loukian. Alex. 13 f. cited infra), Ainos (Ant. Münz. Nord-Griechenlands ii. 1. i. 199 pl. 5, 28), Anchialos (ib. ii. 1. i. 272 pl. 8, 2), Bizye (Rasche Lex. Num. i. 154, 1548, Suppl. i. 295), Serdike (ib. viii. 673, Suppl. i. 295), Mytilene (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Troas, etc. p. 201 pl. 40, 3=supra p. 260 fig. 172, p. 206 pl. 41, 4), Pergamon—perhaps after the statue of Phryomachos (Polyb. 32. 27. 4, Diod. 31 frag. 46 Bekker (ii. 2. 128 Dindorf), Soud. s.v. Πρωμαχίας bis: diverse possibilities are mooted by P. Smith Dict. Biogr. Myth. iii. 608, W. Wroth in the Num. Chron. Third Series 1882 ii. 14 ff., W. Amelung 'Der Asklepios des Phryomachos zu Pergamon' in the Röm. Mitth. 1903 xviii. 1 ff., H. von Fritze in Nomisma 1908 ii. 19 f. Rasche Lex. Num. i. 154, Mionnet Descr. de méd. ant. ii. 604 no. 595, Suppl. v. 443 no. 1018, T. Panofka 'Asklepios und die Asklepiaden' in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1845 Phil.-hist. Classe p. 352 f.

pl. 1, 8, p. 353 pl. 1, 17, W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1856 Asiatic Greece p. 98, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 121 pl. 25, 9, cp. ib. p. 156 pl. 32, 1, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 534), Herakleia Salbake (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Caria, etc. pp. 116, 120 pl. 20, 9), Neapolis in Samaria (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Palestine p. 65 f. pl. 7, 3): cp. coins of Antoninus Pius (Rasche Lex. Num. i. 154, Suppl. i. 295 f., Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² ii. 381 no. 1138). The same Zeus-like figure appears on gems (Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 111 no. 2356, supra

Fig. 924.

i. 357 n. 4, a small convex 'plasma,' which I reproduce in fig. 923 from T. Panofka 'Asklepios und die Asklepiaden' in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1845 Phil.-hist. Classe p. 289 pl. 1, 10. Asklepios (? Zeus Ἄσκληπιός) is enthroned to the left with serpent-sceptre: on the back of the throne, behind his head, stands a Nike; beneath his left foot lies a ram's-head; in his right hand is a pine-cone, possibly resting on a phiale (?); before his feet is a second pine-cone (cp. Asklepios at Sikyon as described by Paus. 2. 10. 3 ἐσελθοῦσι δὲ ὁ θεός ἐστιν οὐκ ἔχων γένεια, χρυσῷ καὶ ἐλέφαντος, Καλάμιδος δὲ ἔργον· ἔχει δὲ καὶ σκῆπτρον καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς ἐτέρας χειρὸς πίτυος καρπὸν τῆς ἡμέρου with Sir J. G. Frazer's note ad loc.). Furtwängler op. cit. p. 124 no. 2677 pl. 24 a cornelian = Asklepios (?) seated on a stool gazing at a beardless head held in his right hand, a serpent-staff before him, ib. p. 248 no. 6753 pl. 48 a cornelian = Asklepios (?) with portrait features, seated on a stool, plucking fruit and placing it in a basket on an altar (?), a serpent-staff before him). Indeed, Asklepios was commonly conceived as a kindly, human Zeus, conversant with the ways of men and able to cure their ailments. The difference between Zeus and Asklepios may be readily grasped, if we set side by side two reliefs of Pentelic marble found in the precinct at Epidauros (Stais *Marbres et Bronzes: Athènes*² p. 42 f. no. 173 f., P. Kabbadias in the Ἔφ. Ἀρχ. 1885 p. 48 ff. pl. 2, 6 and 1894 p. 11 ff. pl. 1, id. Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 22 pl. 9, 21, A. Defrasse—H. Lechat Épidaure Paris 1895 p. 83 ff. with figs., Brunn—Bruckmann Denkm. der gr. und röm. Sculpt. pl. 3, Collignon Hist. de la Sculpt.

Fig. 925.

gr. ii. 186 f. fig. 88). Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. pp. 148—154 no. 173 f. pl. 31 (cp. my figs. 924, 925) has made out a strong case for supposing that they were metopes from the temple of Asklepios, carved in s. iv B.C. On his showing the one (fig. 924) represents Zeus seated on a throne, the arms of which are supported by winged sphinxes and end in rams' heads. His right hand held a sceptre; his left was extended. An ample himátion, draped over the back of the throne and round the legs of the god, left bare his broad chest. His head wore a metal wreath (holes for attachment remain), and his feet were shod with sandals of strap-work. Altogether he was an august and imposing figure. The other relief (fig. 925) shows Asklepios, very similar in attitude and costume, but curiously diverse in effect. A comfortable man with soft, podgy body, he sits on a cushioned chair with easy back, crosses his feet, and talks with a gesture of his right hand. He might be a Harley Street consultant prescribing for a patient. The same humanity and affability are characteristic of Asklepios, even when an attempt is made to emphasise his Zeus-hood by means of external attributes. For instance, an alliance-copper of Pergamon and Ephesos, struck by Commodus, has Asklepios standing, in his right hand the serpent-staff, in his left a Nike, who offers a wreath to Artemis (Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 888, Suppl. i. 295: but cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 164 pl. 33, 4), while coppers of Caracalla show Asklepios with little Telesphoros to the left and the cosmic globe to the right (Rasche Lex. Num. i. 158, Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 775 f., Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² iv. 178 no. 329 f. P · M · TR · P · XVIII · IMP · III · COS · IIII · P · P · S · C · first brass, cp. ib. iv. 179 no. 331 do. do. without Telesphoros. Fig. 926 is from a second brass in my collection. For other examples of Asklepios with the globe see Rasche Lex. Num. Suppl. i. 298 f.: E. Loewe De Aesculapi figura Strassburg 1887 p. 75 n. 7).

Fig. 926.

globe see Rasche Lex. Num. Suppl. i. 298 f.: E. Loewe De Aesculapi figura Strassburg 1887 p. 75 n. 7).

(4) Asklepiós and the Snake.

Next we must note the constant association of this human Zeus with a snake. Asklepios himself on occasion took that form. He travelled from Epidauros to Sikyon as a snake drawn by mules; and from the roof of his temple in the latter town hung a small figure of Aristodama, the mother of his son Aratos, riding on a snake (Paus. 2. 10. 3): the creature so ridden was presumably none other than the god, who was believed to have consorted with Aristodama in snake-form (Paus. 4. 14. 7 f., cp. Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 866 n. 1). Again, it was as a snake that Asklepios came from Epidauros to Epidauros Limera on the east coast of Lakonike: he slipped out of the ship and dived into the earth not far from the sea at a place where altars, planted about with olive trees, were erected to him (Paus. 3. 23. 7: see F. W. Hasluck in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1907—1908 xiv. 179). At Lebena in Crete there was a famous temple of Asklepios (Paus. 2. 26. 9, Philostr. v. Apoll. 4. 34 p. 152 f. Kayser), where incubation was practised (Kaibel Epiigr. Gr. no. 839, 1 f. = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. i. 303. 1 f.): the divine snake sent by Asklepios to guide his priest the son of Aristonymos to the temple-spring and forty-seven years later sent on a similar errand to show Soarchos, priest in his father's room, how to replenish the failing spring (see the interesting inscription from Lebena (Leda) published by T. Baunack in Philologus 1890 xlix. 578 ff. and R. Meister ib. 1891 l. 570 ff.) should probably be viewed 'als Inkarnation des Gottes selbst' (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel.

p. 1448 n. 7). Whether the snake followed by Antinoe, daughter of Kepheus and granddaughter of Aleos, when she refounded Mantinea on its historical site (Paus. 8. 8. 4 f.), was Asklepios (as Miss Harrison apparently assumes in Themis p. 381 n. 5) is very doubtful. In 293—291 B.C. Asklepios was fetched from Epidaurus to Rome and duly domiciled on the island in the Tiber; he arrived in the guise of a golden snake (Liv. 10. 47. 7, per. 11 Aesculapii signum... anguem... in quo ipsum numen esse constabat, Ov. met. 15. 622 ff. especially 669 f. cristis aureus altis | in serpente deus etc., 737 erigitur serpens, etc., cp. fast. 1. 291 f., Val. Max. 1. 8. 2 anguis, Plout. quaestt. Rom. 94 τοῦ δράκοντος, Plin. nat. hist. 29. 72 anguis, Aur. Vict. de vir. ill. 22. 1—3 anguis, Sidon. epist. 1. 7. 12 serpentis Epidaurii: see further O. Richter *Topographie der Stadt Rom*² München 1901 p. 282 f., H. Jordan—C. Hülsen Topographie der Stadt Rom im Alterthum Berlin 1907 i. 3. 633—635)—a belief commemorated on coppers of the gens Rubria (Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 406 ff. nos. 5 f. and 9 figs., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 312 pl. 38, 5, i. 313 n. 1 fig. under date c. 86 B.C.) and on bronze medallions of Antoninus Pius (Gnechci Medagl. Rom. ii. 9 pl. 43, 1=my fig. 927 and ii. 9 pl. 43, 2, Brit. Mus. Cat. Medallions p. 7 no. 4 pl. 8, 3, cp. p. 7 no. 5, Fröhner Méd. emp. rom. p. 51 ff. figs., Baumeister Denkm. i. 140 fig. 150, Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 20 fig. Father Tiber, reclining amid his waters, rests his left elbow on an urn, holds a reed in his left hand, and extends his right to greet the snake on its arrival. The galley, whose steersman and rowers(?) are visible, passes under the Pons Fabricius and a tree mark the new home of the god). Lastly, Lucian in his Alexandros or the

Fig. 927.

Sham Seer tells how an impostor from Abonou Teichos, a coast-town in Paphlagonia, purchased a large tame snake at Pella in Makedonia (Loukian. Alex. 7), and with the aid of a confederate spread the news that Asklepios and his father Apollon were about to visit the Abonotichians (ib. 10). The rascals had made a snake's head of linen, painted it with a human expression, given it a mouth that could open and shut by means of horse-hairs, and added a black forked tongue that worked in the same way (ib. 12). Thus equipped Alexandros went to Abonou Teichos, where the worthy inhabitants were already digging the foundations of a new temple to greet the advent of the gods, buried a goose's egg containing a young reptile in the mud after dark (ib. 13) and duly discovered 'the new-born Asklepios' next morning to the astonishment of the bystanders (ib. 14). Alexandros now became the exhibitor of the god. He took into his bosom 'the Asklepios from Pella,' twined its body round his neck and let its tail hang down, but kept its head hidden under his armpit and showed the linen mask instead (ib. 15). The people were astounded at the miraculously rapid growth of the snake (ib. 16). Bithynians, Galatians, Thracians came flocking in; pictures, portraits, and images, some of bronze, some of silver, were made; and the god was named Glykon in obedience to an oracle of his own (ib. 18 εἰμι Ἰλγύκων, τρίτον αἶμα Διός, φάος ἀνθρώποισι). From this time onwards Alexandros drove a roaring trade in oracles (ib. 19 ff.). A tube consisting of the windpipes of cranes introduced into the artificial head enabled an assistant outside to make 'the linen Asklepios' answer questions and deliver 'autophone oracles' (ib. 26). The fame of Glykon spread to Italy and made a sensation at Rome (ib. 30 ff.). Mysteries were instituted with hierophants, daidouchoi, and a full ceremonial lasting three days (ib. 38 ff.). Alexandros even petitioned the emperor that new coins might be struck with an obverse design of Glykon and a reverse of himself bearing the stémata of Asklepios and the hárpe of Perseus (ib. 58). The whole narrative is sufficiently amazing. But perhaps more amazing still is the fact that much collateral evidence can be quoted in its support. Copper coins of Abonou Teichos from the reigns of Antoninus Pius, Lucius Verus, Geta, Severus Alexander, Gordianus Pius, and Trebonianus Gallus represent the new-fangled god as a snake with a more or less human face (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 83 pl. 19, 1 = my fig. 928, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 129 ff. pl. 17, 12, 13, 16 (=my fig. 929), 19 with legend ΓΛΥΚΩΝ, cp. pl. 17, 20, 21, 22, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 505). Coppers of Nikomedeia in Bithynia struck by Caracalla and Maximus give the snake a definitely human head (M. Dumersan Description des médailles antiques du cabinet de feu M. Allier de Hauteroche Paris 1829 p. 70 pl. 11, 10, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 187 no. 48, Waddington—Babelon—Reinach Monn. gr. d'As. Min. i. 513, 545 pl. 94, 12 = my fig. 930, pl. 94, 13 f., Fig. 928.

Fig. 929.

Fig. 930.

562 pl. 97, 14). Amulets appear to confuse him with the Khnemu-snake (supra i. 357 n. 4, W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1258 ff., cp. for Egyptian snake-worship in general T. Hopfner Der Tierkult der alten Ägypter nach den griechisch-römischen Berichten und den wichtigeren Denkmälern (Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1913 ii Abh.) Wien 1913 p. 136 ff.). Thus an agate in the Behr collection showed Khnemu as a lion-headed snake, with a radiate crown, accompanied by several inscriptions—XNOVBIC in the field, ΓΛΥΚΩΝΑ in front, ΙΑΩ beneath, and a magical formula on the other side of the stone (F. Lenormant Description des médailles et antiquités composantes le cabinet de M. le baron Behr Paris 1857 p. 228 no. 76, id. in the Gaz. Arch. 1878 iv. 183, E. Babelon in the Rev. Num. iv Série 1900 iv. 28 fig. 6). Again, a red jasper in the Sorlin-Dorigny collection at Constantinople has Asklepios standing with a raven(?) behind his shoulder and a human-headed or lion-headed snake before him (F. Lenormant 'Un monument du culte de Glykon' in the Gaz. Arch. 1878 iv. 179 ff. with fig., E. Babelon in the Rev. Num. iv Série 1900 iv. 27 f. fig. 5). Two inscriptions from Apulum (Carlsburg) prove that the cult of Glykon reached Dacia (Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 1021 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4079 Glyconi | M. Ant. | Onesas | iusso dei | l. p., Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 1022 Gl(y)co | M. Aur. | Theodo|tus ius|so dei p.). A third inscription found at Blatsche between Skoupoi (Uskub) and Stoboi associates the beast with the false prophet (Corp. inscr. Lat. iii Suppl. no. 8238 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no 4080 Iovi et Iuno|n. [et] Dracco|n. et Dracce|nae et Ale|xandro Epi|tynchanus [C. | F]uri Octavi[ani] | c. v.

posuit). See further F. Cumont 'Alexandre d'Abonotichos' in the Mémoires de l'Académie Royale des Sciences de Belgique 1887 xl. 13 ff., 37 ff. and in Pauly-Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1634 f., vii. 1468 f., E. Babelon 'Le faux prophète Alexandre d'Abonotichos' in the Rev. Num. iv Série 1900 iv. 1—30 with 6 figs., W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1692 f., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1487, O. Weinreich 'Alexandros der Lügenprophet und seine Stellung in der Religiosität des II. Jahrhunderts n. Chr.' in the Neue Jahrb. f. klass. Altertum 1921 xlvii. 129—151. The main point to bear in mind—a point commonly missed—is that the populace regarded Asklepios as essentially serpentiform.

(5) The Name Asklepiós.

This leads us to consider the question whether Ἄσκληπιός originally meant 'Snake' and nothing more. The name occurs in a puzzling variety of forms:

Ἄγλαόπης (Hesych. Ἄγλαόπης· ὁ Ἄσκληπιός. Λάκωνες. So Musurus for γλαόπης cod., cp. Bekker anecd. i. 329, 23, Soud. s.v. ἄγμαιοι, Zonar. lex. s.v. ἄγμαιοι).

Ἄγλαπιός (G. Dickins in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1904—1905 xi. 131 f. no. 1 fig. 1 publishes a stèle at Thalamai (Koutiphari) inscribed ΛΑΝΙΚΙΑ | ΑΝΕΘΒΚΕ | ΤΩΙΑΓΛΑΠΙΩΙ in lettering which M. N. Tod ib. assigns to c. 350 B.C. and W. Kolbe in Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 1313 to s. v B.C.).

Ἄσκληπιός in epic, Ionic, Attic. Ἄσκληπιός thrice in Attic inscriptions (K. Meisterhans *Grammatik der attischen Inschriften*³ Berlin 1900 p. 89 n. 770), cp. Ἄσκληπιούδης (id. ib. p. 89 n. 771), Ἄσκληπιούδωρος (id. ib. p. 89 n. 772).

Ἄσκληπιός in non-Ionic dialects. Ἄσκαλιός in a Gortynian inscription (F. Halbherr in the Mon. d. Linc. 1889 i. 38 ff. C, 7 ΑΣΚΑΛΠΙΟΝ). Ἄσκληπιός in a Spartan inscription (Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1444, 10 ΑΣΚΛΕΙΠΙΟΥ) turns out to be a mistaken reading (H. J. W. Tillyard and A. M. Woodward in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1906—1907 xiii. 212 ΑΣΚΛΗΠΙΟΥ, Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. i no. 602, 10).

Ἀσκληπιός in a Boeotian inscription (Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3191 f., 3 ΑΣΧΛΑΠΙΩ, 37 f. [ΑΣΧ]ΛΑΠΙΩ Orchomenos), cp. Ἀσχλάπων (Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 397 no. 571^a, 10 Akraiphia), but Ἀσκαλιχίως (ib. i. 174 no. 476, 40 Orchomenos).

Ἀσκληπιός in the alphabet of Megara or Corinth on the leg of an archaic bronze statuette from Bologna (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 6; 37, 2, Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 549, 2, Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 356. 2, Roberts Gk. Epigr. i. 146 no. 118 (c), 2 ΔΙΣΧΛΑΠΙΩΙ).

Ἀσκαλιός in the oldest Epidaurian inscription (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 37 no. 8 on a bronze phidèle, to be dated at the beginning of s. v B.C., if not earlier still, Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1202 ΤΟΙΑΙΜΚΛΑΠΙΩΙ) and in an inscription from Troizen (E. Legrand in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1893 xvii. 90 ff. no. 4, 3, Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 771, 3 ΤΩΙΑΙΣΚΛΑΠΙΩΙ).

Ἀσκαλιεύς in another early Epidaurian inscription (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 37 no. 10 from the rim of a bronze vessel ΙΙΙΙΜΙΞΙΓΑΛΧΣΙΔΑ—τ' Ἀσκαλιεῖ μ' [ἀνέθηκε—]).

Aisclapius in an inscription painted on an Etruscan cup (H. Jordan in the Ann. d. Inst. 1884 lvi. 357 f. pl. R, Wilmanns Ex. inscr. Lat. no. 2827 b, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 2958 (ΛΙΣCΛΛΠΙ).

Aesclapius in an inscription at Narona (Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 1766 AESCLAPIO, cp. ib. iii no. 1767, 1 [AE]SCLAPIO).

Aiscolapius in an inscription found in the Tiber (Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no. 30846, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 3833).

Aescolapius in a trilingual (Latin, Greek, Phoenician) inscription on the base of a bronze-column at Santuacci in Sardinia (Corp. inscr. Lat. x no. 7856, 1, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 1874, 1, Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 608, 1 AES-COLAPIO) and in two inscriptions from Rome (Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no.
30849, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 3834; Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no. 30847, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 3835).

Aisculapius in an inscription from the Tiber-island (Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no. 12, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 3837).

Aesculapius, the normal form in Latin.

Esculapius on a bronze plate from the ager Praenestinus (Corp. inscr. Lat. xiv no. 2846, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 3838).

In view of Asklepios' early connexion with Thessaly, special importance must be attached to the names Ἀσκαλαπιῶδας at Iolkos (H. G. Lolling in the Ath. Mitth. 1883 viii. 115 no. 9, 1, Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 378 no.
1284, 1 [Ἀσ]καλαπιῶδ[ας]) and Ἀσκαλαπιῶδωρος at Phalanna (H. G. Lolling in the Ath. Mitth. 1883 viii. 109 f. line 3, Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 384
no. 1330, 5 ΑΣΚΑΛΑΠΙΟΔΟΥΡΟΙ), since these point to an original Thessalian *Ἀσκαλαπιος (E. Thraemer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1642): cp. Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 186 no. 3398 b, 21 Hermione ΛΣΚΑΛΛΑ gen. of Ἀσκαλᾶς, J. H. Mordtmann in the Ath. Mitth. 1885 x. 13 no. 1 near Kotiaion Ἀσκλᾶς καὶ Ἀσκληπᾶ[s] | οἱ Ἀσκληπᾶ (A. Fick in the Beiträge zur Kunde der indogermanischen sprachen 1901 xxvi. 319). The ultimate meaning of Ἀσκληπιῶς has been much debated, and is still questionable. The ancients—children in philology—jumped to the conclusion that the second element in the name was ἥπιος, 'mild,' and used this word (Lyk. Al. 1054 with Tzetz. ad loc., et. mag. pp. 154, 45 ff., 434, 15 ff., Tzetz. chil. 6. 991, 10. 712, Eustath. in Il. pp. 463, 34 f., 860, 9 ff., in Od. p. 1447, 48 f., Cornut. theol. 33 p. 70, 5 ff. Lang (?), cp. Corp. inscr.
Att. iii. 1 Add. no. 171 b, 8 and 13 = carm. pop. 47, 6 and 11 Bergk⁴ = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 4. 53. 4 and 9) or its compounds ἥπιωδότης, ἥπιῶδωρος, ἥπιῶφρων (Bruchmann Epith. deor. p. 51, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1441) of the god himself—Demosthenes is even said to have sworn by Ἀσκληπιῶς, not Ἀσ-κληπιῶς (Plout. de vit. decem orat. 8, Herodian. περὶ καθολικῆς προσηφίας 5 (i. 123, 1 ff. Lentz), Eustath. in Il. p. 463, 37 ff., in Od. p. 1447, 64 ff., Favorin. lex. p. 296, 40 f.),—and Ἡπιώνη, Ἡπιῶ of his partner (Cornut. theol. 33 p. 71, 2 ff. Lang: see further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1441 n. 9, E. Thraemer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 186 ff.). But the first element puzzled them. They tried ἀσκέω (schol. Il. 4. 195, Eustath. in Il. p. 463, 35 f., Favorin. lex. p. 296, 43 f.), ἀσκελές (et. mag. p. 154, 43 ff., 47 f., et. Gud. p. 83, 39 ff., Orion p. 9, 14 ff., Tzetz. in Lyk.
Al. 1054, Favorin. lex. p. 296, 38 ff.), Ἀσκλης a supposed king of Epidaurus (Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 1054, Favorin. lex. p. 296, 41 ff., cp. et. mag. p. 154, 45 ff., Eustath. in Il. p. 463, 34 f.), Ἀγλη the mother of Asklepios (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 35 f. no. 7, 50 ff. = Isyll. 19 f. Weir Smyth). Modern scholars have gone from bad to worse, starting with ἄλκω, 'I help,' whence an assumed *Ἀλξηπιος (A. F. Pott in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprach-forschung 1857 vi. 401), and, after numerous blind alleys (see E. Thraemer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 616 and in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1643), ending in the quartier juif with ish-kalbi, 'l'homme-chien' (C. Clermont-Ganneau in the Revue critique 1884 p. 502). Much more attractive is the view first put forward in 1860 by Welcker Gr. Götterl. ii. 736, viz. that Ἄσκληπιός is akin to ἀσκάλαβος, 'lizard,'—a word which may well have had at one time a wider meaning and denoted 'snake.' This idea has commended itself, not only to mythologists (J. Maehly Die Schlange im Mythos und Cultus der classischen Völker Basel 1867 pp. 6, 8 f., M. Mayer Die Giganten und Titanen Berlin 1887 p. 93 n. 105, L. Deubner De incubatione Lipsiae 1900 p. 37, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1443 ff.), but also to philologists. C. Angermann in Studien zur griechischen und lateinischen Grammatik herausgegeben von G. Curtius und K. Brugmann 1876 ix. 247 f. would trace both Ἄσκληπιός and ἀσκάλαβος, ἀσκαλαβώτης (perhaps also the bird-names ἀσκαλώπας, σκολόπαξ, and the insect-name σκολόπενδρα) to a root skalp or skarp, a lengthened form of skar, 'springen, sich hin und her bewegen.' A. Vaniček Griechisch-lateinisches etymologisches Wörterbuch Leipzig 1877 i. 1079 says: '(σκαλ-π, σκλα-π, σκλη-π) Ἄσκληπιός m. (urspr. Schlange).' A. Fick in the Beiträge zur Kunde der indogermanischen Sprachen 1901 xxvi. 313—323 'Asklepios und die heilschlange,' followed by Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 58, holds that Asklepios was originally a snake and explains the Thessalian *Ἄσκαλαπιος and the Cretan Ἄσκαλαπιός by the help of the Hesychian glosses σκαλαπάξει· ῥέμβεται and σκαλαπάξειν· ῥέμβωδῶς βαδίζειν. Thus Ἄσκληπιός would mean 'Creepy-crawly'—a likely enough name for a snake. Ἀσκάλαβος, 'lizard,' and ἀσκάλαφος, a species of 'owl' (Apollod. 2. 5. 12, Ov. met. 5. 538 ff., interp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 4. 462 f.) that haunts holes in the rock (cp. Apollod. 1. 5. 3, 2. 5. 12: see further D'Arcy W. Thompson A Glossary of Greek Birds Oxford 1895 p. 36), are very possibly related forms, if not also σκολόπαξ, ἀσκολόπας, ἀσκαλώπας, 'woodcock' (id. ib. pp. 36, 155).

(6) Thessalian Kings as impersonations of Zeus.

The explanation of Ἄσκληπιός as formerly denoting a snake is perfectly compatible with the belief that the original bearer of the name was a Thessalian king. Drakon of Thebes, Ophis of Salamis, Python of Delphoi, etc. were all recognised as kings by Euhemeristic writers (see W. H. Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1201, O. Höfer ib. iii. 925 f., R. Wagner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1646 f.). But here, as elsewhere (supra i. 662), Euhemerism had a foundation in fact. Greeks and Romans alike regarded the soul of the dead as able to manifest itself in the form of a snake (the evidence is conveniently summarised by E. Küster Die Schlange in der griechischen Kunst und Religion Giessen 1913 p. 62 ff., cp. W. Wundt Völkerpsychologie Leipzig 1906 ii. 2. 72 ff., id. Elements of Folk Psychology trans. E. L. Schaub London—New York 1916 pp. 190 ff., 214, 368, O. Waser 'Über die äussere Erscheinung der Seele' etc. in the Archiv f. Rel. 1913 xvi. 354 ff.). A deceased king might well appear as a great beneficent snake, or at least be accompanied by such. And, when his soul-animal had come to be viewed as a mere attendant or attribute, explanatory myths would arise. Thus Asklepios was said to have reared his snake in an oak growing in a glen of Mt Pelion called Pelethronion (Nik. ther. 438 ff. with schol. and Eutekn. ad loc.: Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 83. Cp. the story told of Melampous by Apollod. 1. 9. 11), or again to have been placed by Zeus in the sky as the constellation Ophiuchus (supra i. 755 n. 9) because he had raised from the dead Hippolytos son of Theseus (pseudo-Eratosth. cat. ast. 6, Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 14) or Glaukos son of Minos (Hyg. poet. astr. 2. 14). Such tales are late and of little value. It is more important to note that the earliest home of Asklepios was in central Thessaly (E. Thraemer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 623 and more fully in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1643 ff., 1662 f.), and that at Trikke he had an underground ádyton (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 34 ff. no. 7, 27 ff. πρώτος Μάλος ἔτευξεν Ἀπόλλωνος Μαλεάτα | βωμὸν καὶ θυσίας ἠγλαΐσεν τέμενος. | οὐδὲ κε Θεσσαλίας ἐν Τρίκκῃ πειραθείης | εἰς ἄδυτον καταβάς Ἀσκληπιῶν, εἰ μὴ ἐφ' ἀγνοῦ | πρώτων Ἀπόλλωνος βωμοῦ θύσας Μαλεάτα. Cp. J. Ziehen 'Über die Lager des Asklepiosheiligtums von Triikka' in the Ath. Mitth. 1892 xvii. 195—197 and especially P. Kastriotes Τὸ ἐν Τρίκκῃ τῆς Θεσσαλίας Ἀσκληπιεῖον Athens 1903, id. 'Τρίκκης Ἀσκληπιεῖον' in the 'Ἐφ. Ἄρχ. 1918 pp. 65—73) comparable with the Καταβάσιον of Trophonios at Lebadeia, which we have already (supra p. 1076) taken to be the thólos of an ancient king (A. J. B. Wace—M. S. Thompson Prehistoric Thessaly Cambridge 1912 p. 272 Index record thólos-tombs at Dhimini, Ghura, Kapakli, Marmariani, Rakhmani (?), Sesklo, Zerelia (?)). Moreover, there is reason to think that in early days Thessalian kings were wont to pose as Zeus. Salmoneus, the very type of a would-be Zeus (supra i. 12, 318), was a king hailing from Thessaly (Apollod. i. 9. 7, schol. Aristoph. ran. argum. 4, Soud. s.v. Σαλμωνεύς. See further J. Ilberg in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 290). Keyx, who declared that his wife was Hera, and Alkyone, who dubbed her husband Zeus (Apollod. i. 7. 4, schol. Il. 9. 562, Eustath. in Il. p. 776, 19 ff., schol. Aristoph. av. 250. K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1580 f. suggests that the story in this form goes back to the Hesiodic Κῆκος γάμος), were commonly described as king and queen of Trachis in south Thessaly (schol. Aristoph. av. 250, Loukian. Alcyon 1, Ov. met. 11. 268 ff., 382 ff., Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 11. 10. See further K. Wernicke loc. cit. and H. W. Stoll in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 249 ff., ii. 1181 f.). Ixion, king of the Thessalian Lapithai, aspired to the hand of Hera, while conversely Zeus was enamoured of Ixion's wife Dia (Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 420, 1906 xx. 378)—a case paralleled by that of Hera in love with the Thessalian Iason and Zeus in love with Medeia (supra i. 248). Now it is a very noteworthy fact that all these names, indeed the great bulk of the personages considered in the present discussion,—Amphiaraios, Trophonios, Asklepios, Askalaphos, Salmoneus, Alkyone, Ixion, Iason—belonged to the family of Aiolos (see the pedigree conveniently set forth by Gerhard Gr. Myth. ii. 223 ff.). The inference is that this custom of regarding the king as Zeus was characteristic of the Aeolians settled in Thessaly and central Greece. Asklepios, like the rest, was ab origine a king (he is ἄναξ in h. Asklep. 5, Aristoph. Plout. 748, Herond. 4. 1 and 18, P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 36 no. 7, 79, Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 2292, 1 (Delos)=Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 803, 1=Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 1. 225, 1 (see R. Wünsch in the Archiv f. Rel. 1904 vii. 95 ff.); βασιλεύς in Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 5974 B, 1 (Rome)=Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 967 b, 1=Kaibel Epigr. Gr. Add. no. 805 a, b tit.=Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 1. 247 β n., Ail. de nat. an. 9. 33, Orph. εὐχή πρὸς Μουσαῖον 37, Cougny op. cit. 6. 180. 2 f. Ἀσκληπιὸς Καῖσαρ in W. R. Paton—E. L. Hicks The Inscriptions of Cos Oxford 1891 p. 130 no. 92, 5 f., ib. p. 153 no. 130, 4 f.=Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 375 f. no. 3672, 5 f. is the deified Claudius, who played the part of Zeus during his life and was worshipped as Zeus after his death (E. Thraemer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 620 and in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1654 f. draws attention to the fact that several Greek localities could point to an alleged grave of Asklepios: Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 57 Aesculapiorum...secundus, secundi Mercurii frater. is, fulmine percussus, dicitur humatus esse Cynosuris, Clem. Al. protr. 2. 30. 3 p. 22, 14 Stählin οὗτος μὲν οὖν κείται κεραυνωθείς ἐν τοῖς Κνωσοσυρίδος ὀρίοις with schol. ad loc. p. 305, 31 Stählin κόμη Δακεδαίμονος, Lyd. de mens. 4. 142 p. 164, 8 ff. Wunsch δεύτερος Ἴσχύος τοῦ Ἐλάτου καὶ Κορωνίδος, <δὲ ἐν τοῖς Κυνοσουρίδος suppl. C. B. Hase> ὀρίους ἐτάφη, cp. Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Octobris ix. 546 ('Passio S. Philippi episc., Severi presb. et Hermæ diac.' 1. 8) ignis ille divinus...et Scolapium medicum in monte Cynozuridos fulminatum consecrationem mereri in gentibus fecit, where cod. Bodecense rightly reads Æsculapium and the Bollandist editors wrongly (?) comment: 'apud Cynozurim Thessaliæ urbem sepultus' (ib. ix. 549). Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 57 tertius, Arsiippi et Arsinoæ,...cuius in Arcadia non longe a Lusio flumine sepulcrum et lucus ostenditur, Lyd. de mens. 4. 142 p. 164, 10 ff. Wunsch τρίτος Ἀρσίππου καὶ Ἀρσινόης τῆς Λευκίππου...καὶ τάφος αὐτῶ ἐν Ἀρκαδίᾳ. Clem. Rom. hom. 6. 21 (ii. 213 Migne) Ἀσκληπιὸς ἐν Ἐπιδαύρῳ (sc. κείται), Rufin. recognit. 10. 24 in Epidauro Aesculapii (sc. sepulcrum demonstratur). Cp. Tert. ad nat. 2. 14 Athenienses...Aesculapio et matri inter mortuos parentant with Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen pp. 217 n. 4, 218, 222 and F. Kutsch Attische Heilgötter und Heilheroen Giessen 1913 p. 16 ff.).

(7) Telesphoros.

Such an one might even be called Zeus Τέλειος (cp. the dedication Ἀσκληπιῶι Διὶ Τελείῳ supra p. 1076). Further, the title τελεσφόρος, 'bringing the end, bringing to maturity' (see Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. vii. 1971 C ff.), appropriate to the divine monarch (h. Zeus 1. f. Ζήνα θεῶν τὸν ἄριστον αἰείομαι ἢ δὲ μέγιστον, | εἰρύοπα, κρείοντα, τελεσφόρον, κ.τ.λ.) and actually found on a Phrygian altar as his appellative (supra p. 838 n. 1), was a likely epithet of his human counterpart. And here it will be remembered that antiquity often associates with Asklepios a subordinate deity Telesphoros, who has been the subject of much speculation (L. Schenck De Telesphoro deo Göttingen 1888, W. Wroth 'Telesphorus' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1882 iii. 283—300, ib. 1883 iv. 161 f., ib. 1884 v. 82 n. 2, Frazer Pausanias iii. 70 f., S. Reinach 'Télesphore' in the Rev. Ét. Gr. 1901 xiv. 343—349=id. Cultes, mythes et religions Paris 1906 ii. 255—261, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1455 n. 1, alib., id. Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 622, Harrison Themis p. 382 f.). We shall not be far wrong, if we regard him as the procreative power of Asklepios, split off from the god, to whom he at first belonged by way of appellative, and endowed with a separate and secondary personality. The existence of Grabphalli (supra i. 53 n. 1) and the birth-myths of Romulus and Servius Tullius (supra p. 1059) lead us to suppose that the buried ancestor in his procreative capacity might take the form of a simple phallós (with this interchange of human and phallic shapes cp. the statue of Nabu at Calah figured in two aspects by C. F. Lehmann-Haupt in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 685 f.). Accordingly we sometimes meet with representations of Telesphoros as a phallós draped to look like a man or a boy. C. M. Grivaud de la Vincelle Recueil de monumens antiques, la plupart inédits, et découverts dans l'ancienne Gaule Paris 1817 i. 86 f., ii. pl. 10, 1—5 (of which 1, 3=my fig. 931) and pl. 11, 5 (Reinach Rép. Stat. ii. 75 no. 1, J. A. Dulaure *Histoire abrégée de différens cultes*² Paris 1825 ii. 242 f.) published a bronze statuette, found some forty years earlier in a tomb near Amiens, which shows a bearded male figure clad in a short tunic, a cape with a peaked hood (bardocucullus), and boots (caligae): the upper part—head, hood, and cape—can be lifted off, revealing a body that consists in an erect phallós. Similarly T. Panofka 'Asklepios und die Asklepiaden' in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1845 Phil.-hist. Classe pp. 324, 357 pl. 6, 5 and 5 a (=my fig. 932, C. O. Müller—F. Wieseler Denkm. d. alt. Kunst Göttingen 1856 ii. 4. 4 pl. 61, 789, Reinach Rép. Stat. ii.

469 no. 8 f.) published a bronze statuette at Copenhagen (L. Müller Description des antiquités du Musée-Thorvaldsen Section i et ii Copenhague 1847 p. 162 f. no. 50 height without the peak 3 Danish inches, with it 4, S. B. Smith Kort Veiledning i Antikkabinetet i Kjøbenhavn Kjöbenhavn 1864 p. 38 no. 123 a), which repeats the type, except that the figure is a beardless youth and wears no sandals. One whose function is to bring to maturity might well be portrayed as either man or boy. Asklepios himself was beardless on occasion (Paus. 2. 10. 3 Sikyon (supra p. 1080), 2. 13. 5 Phlious, 8. 28. 1 Gortys. Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpture pp. 277 n. 5, 300, E. Thraemer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1690 f., 1693 ff.) or even infantile (Paus. 8. 25. 11 Thelpousa; 8. 32. 5 Megalopolis. Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 5974 A, B (Rome)=Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 967

Fig. 931.

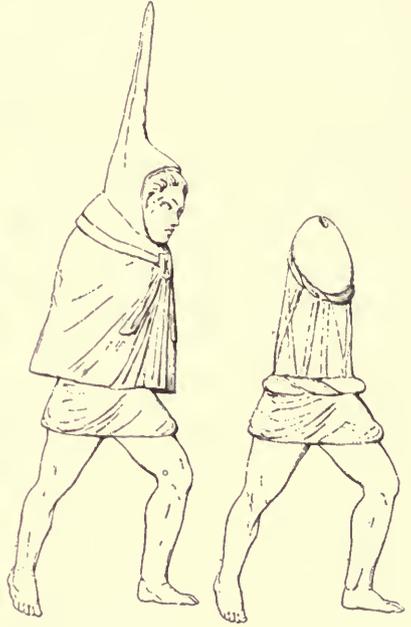

Fig. 932.

a, b = Kaibel Epigr. Gr. Add. no. 805 a, b = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. i. 247 a, b; Overbeck *Gr. Plastik*⁴ ii, 181). The Copenhagen bronze is inscribed OMORION (Panofka loc. cit.), which could be connected with Zeus Ὀμόριος (Steph. Thes. Gr. Ling. v. 1984 A quotes the title from Polyb. 2. 39. 6; but see supra i. 17 n. 4) or Ὀπιος (Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. 2. 74) = Iupiter Terminus or Terminalis (supra i. 53, 520 n. 2. Cp. Aug. de civ. Dei 4. 11 ipse in aethere sit Iuppiter, ... in Iano initiator, in Termino terminator. E. Samter 'Die Entwicklung des Terminus-kultes' in the Archiv f. Rel. 1913 xvi. 137—144 argues that the boundary-stone could not have been originally sacred to Iupiter, because at its erection offerings were placed in the hole prepared for it (Siculus Flaccus in the Grom. vet. i. 141 Lachmann)—a procedure suggestive of a chthonian rather than of a celestial power. But the lord of the property, who had been a celestial Iupiter during his life would be a chthonian Iupiter after his death). B. Borghesi in the Bull. d. Inst.

1831 p. 182 ff. and E. Gerhard in the Ann. d. Inst. 1846 xviii. pl. 5, ib. 1847 xix. 327 ff. drew attention to a white marble Hermaphrodite-term, found near Ravenna, which is inscribed (Orelli—Henzen Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 5648 = Corp. inscr. Lat. xi no. 351) IOV · TER · M | VAL · ANT · | AN · TI · CO · | V · L · S · | & ramus, i.e., according to Borghesi, Iov(i) Ter(minali) M(arcus) Val(erius) Ant(oni)us Antico v(otum) l(ibens) s(olvit), or, as Mommsen suggested, M. Val(erius) Ant(iochus) An(ni) Ti(beriani) co(mes). It should be noted also that a denarius of Augustus, struck

Fig. 933.

Fig. 934.

c. 29—27 B.C., has obv. head of Octavian, rev. IMP | CAESAR an ithyphallic term of Octavian with a bay-wreath on his head and a winged thunderbolt at his feet (Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 64 no. 153 fig., cp. ib. ii. 65 no. 155 fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. ii. 16 no. 4360 f. pl. 60, 5 f., cp. ib. ii. 16 no. 4362 pl. 60, 7 = my fig. 933, Emp. i. pp. cxxiii f., 102 nos. 628—630 pl. 15, 10 f., cp. ib. i. 104 no. 637 pl. 15, 16, A. Boutkowski Dictionnaire numismatique Leipzig 1881 i. 333 f. no. 732, cp. ib. i. 334 no. 733. Fig. 934 is from a specimen in my collection),—an excellent illustration of a mortal monarch aping the sky-god and credited with superhuman propagatory powers. See also Addenda ad loc.

APPENDIX M.

ZEUS MEILÍCHIOS.(1) Zeus Meilichios on the Kephisos.

Zeus was worshipped under the title Meilichios far and wide through the Hellenic world. In primis Athens had long been a centre of his cult. Pausanias, noting the objects of interest along the Sacred Way from Athens to Eleusis, remarks :

‘When you have crossed the Kephisos there is an ancient altar of Zeus Meilichios. At this altar Theseus was purified by the descendants of Phytalos after he had slain various brigands including Sinis, who was related to him through Pittheus¹.’

Plutarch’s account is rather fuller :

‘So Theseus went on and came to the Kephisos. Here he was met by men of the clan Phytalidai, who were the first to salute him. He begged them to purify him. Thereupon they cleansed him with the customary rites, offered Milichian sacrifices, and feasted him in their home, whereas up to that time no man had shown him hospitality by the way. His return is said to have fallen on the eighth day of the month Kronios, Hekatombaion as it is called nowadays².’

Dates of this sort are not invented at random, and we may fairly suppose that the local festival of Zeus Meilichios was celebrated by the Phytalidai in their ancestral house¹ on Hekatombaion 8². Plutarch adds that, in return for their entertainment, Theseus gave them charge over a sacrifice at the Oskophoria³.

¹ Paus. i. 37. 4.

² Plout. v. Thes. 12.

In the old Attic myth two points deserve to be stressed. On the one hand, Zeus Meilichios was a god able to purify a man from the stain of kindred bloodshed: we have already noted that the skins of animals sacrificed to him were used in purificatory rites⁴. On the other hand, the festival of this god was observed 'at home'⁵ by a clan traditionally associated with the fig-tree and its fruit⁶: in fact, the descendants of Phytalos appear to have had special duties in regard to Zeus Meilichios, much as the descendants of Anthos had in regard to Zeus *Lýkaios*⁷.

(2) The Title Meilichios.

We are, therefore, at once confronted with the difficult question: What is the meaning of Meilichios? Does it denote 'the Kindly One' (meilichos, meilichios)⁸, a deity whose wrath could be readily appeased by the quaking man-slayer? Or does it rather signify 'the god of Figs' (mellicha)⁹ with special ¹ Cp. Paus. 1. 37. 2 quoted infra n. 6.

² In the calendar of Mykonos (J. de Protte Leges Graecorum sacrae Lipsiae 1896 Fasti sacri p. 13 ff. no. 4, 29 ff., Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 714, 29 ff., Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 615, 29 ff.) Hekatombaion 7 is marked by the sacrifice of a bull and ten lambs to Apollon Ἐκατόμβαιος and by the sacrifice of a full-grown victim and ten lambs to Acheloios—a god who at Athens was closely connected with Zeus Μειλίχιος (infra p. 1117 f.). It seems possible that this Myconian festival on Hekatombaion 7 was the equivalent of an Athenian festival on Hekatombaion 8. But further evidence is lacking.

³ Plout. v. Thes. 23: see J. Töpffer Attische Genealogie Berlin 1889 p. 251 f., Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen p. 286 n. 2.

⁴ Supra i. 422 ff.

⁵ Plout. v. Thes. 12 καὶ δεομένου καθαρθῆναι τοῖς νενομισμένοις ἀγνίσαντες καὶ Μειλίχια θύσαντες εἰστίσαν οἴκοι.

⁶ Paus. 1. 37. 2 ἐν τούτῳ τῷ χωρίῳ Φύταλόν φασιν οἴκῳ Δήμητρα δέξασθαι, καὶ τὴν θεὸν ἀπὲρ τούτων δοῦναι οἱ τὸ φυτὸν τῆς συκῆς· μαρτυρεῖ δέ μοι τῷ λόγῳ τὸ ἐπίγραμμα (Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 3. 24) τὸ ἐπὶ τῷ Φυτάλου τάφῳ· ἐνθάδ' ἄναξ ἦρος Φύταλός ποτε δέξατο σεμνὴν | Δήμητραν, ὅτε (A. Meineke cj. Δήμητρ' ᾧ τότε L. Dindorf and C. G. Cobet cj. Δήμητρ' ὅποτε) πρῶτον ὀπίωρα καρπὸν ἔφηνεν, | ἦν ἱερὰν συκὴν θνητῶν γένος ἐξονομάζει· | ἐξ οὗ δὴ τιμὰς Φυτάλου γένος ἔσχεν ἀγήρως. Infra p. 1103 n. 3.

⁷ Supra i. 71 ff.

⁸ C. Nutt. theol. 11 p. 12, 2 ff. Lang προσαγορεύουσι δὲ καὶ μελιχίον (F. Osann cj. μελιχίον; but Aristeid. or. 1. 3 (i. 4 Dindorf) has εἰ δέ πη σφαλλόμεθα, ὁ μελιχίος (sc. Zeus) ἡμῖν κεκλήσθω) τὸν Δία, εὐμελικτὸν ὄντα τοῖς ἐξ' ἀδικίας μετατιθεμένοις, οὐ δέοντος ἀδιαλλάκτως ἔχει πρὸς αὐτούς: cp. Liban. or. 57. 12 (iv. 154 Foerster) Ζευῆρος δὲ χρηστός τε ἦν ἐν τοῖς βήμασι καὶ τιμῆσειν ἔλεγε τῇ πράτῳ τὸν Μειλίχιον Δία, κ.τ.λ., Anth. Pal. 9. 581. 4 f. (Leon Philosopher?) μηδὲ νοήσω, | Ζηρὸς Μειλιχίῳ λαχὼν θρόνον, ἀνέρος οἶτον. A highly moral explanation: but high morals are out of place in an early cult-title. Phrynichos the 'Atticist' (on whom see Sir J. E. Sandys *A History of Classical Scholarship*² Cambridge 1906 i. 323 ff.) in Bekker anecd. i. 34, 12 ff. Δικαιοῦνος Ζεὺς· ὁ ἐπὶ τοῖς δίκαιά τε καὶ ἀδίκῃ δρώσι τεταγμένος. ὥσπερ καὶ ὁ ἐπὶ τοῖς μελιχῶ μελιχίος καὶ ὁ ἐπὶ τοῖς φίλῃ φίλιος adduces would-be parallels. But Zeus Δικαιοῦνος is a late divinity (D. M. Robinson in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1905 ix. 302 no. 24 near Gherzeh (Karousa) Δὺ Δικαιοσύνῃ | Μεγάλῃ | Πύθῃ Διονυσίῳ | στρατηγῶν | χαριστήριον, cp. schol. Il. 13. 29, Eustath. in Il. p. 918, 47), and Zeus Φίλιος is probably euphemistic (Append. N). On Zeus Ἄγιος see supra i. 192, 400 n. 6, 565 n. 2.

⁹ Figs were called μελιχῶ, 'sweets,' in Naxos—witness Athen. 78c Νάξιοι δέ, ὡς Ἄνδρσκοσ (frag. 3 in Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 304 Müller) ἐτι δ' Ἀγλαοσθένῃς (frag. 5 in Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 294 Müller) ἱστοροῦσι, Μειλίχιον καλεῖσθαι τὸν Διδόνισον διὰ τὴν τοῦ συκίνου reference to the Phylalidai and their fig-culture? Arguments in support of either interpretation lie near to hand.

In may be urged that Zeus was notoriously sympathetic with the outcast and the vagabond. He was worshipped as Hikésios, 'the Suppliant's god',¹ καρπού παράδοσιν. διὸ καὶ πρόσωπον τοῦ θεοῦ παρὰ τοῖς Ναξίοις τὸ μὲν τοῦ Βακχέως Διονύσου καλουμένου εἶναι ἀμπέλιον, τὸ δὲ τοῦ Μειλίχιου σύκινον. τὰ γὰρ σύκα μελίχα καλεῖσθαι, where T. Reinesius' proposed alteration of Μελίχιον...Μειλίχιου...μέλιχα into Μόρυχον...Μορύχου...μόρυχα (cp. Soud. s.v. Μόρυχος, μωρότερος Μορύχου) is a good example of misplaced ingenuity.

¹ At Athens in s. vi B.C. (Poll. 8. 142 τρεῖς θεοὺς ὁμύναι κελεύει Σόλων, Ἰκέσιον, Καθάρισον, Ἐξακεστήρα, i.e. Zeus under three diverse aspects (cp. Poll. 1. 24), as observed by W. Dindorf ad loc., G. F. Schoemann *Griechische Alterthümer*⁴ Berlin 1902 ii. 145, 276 = id. Antiquités recques trans. C. Galuski Paris 1887 ii. 185, 331, O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 1592. The recognition of Zeus Ἐξακεστήρ (Hesych. Ἐξακεστήριος· ὁ Ζεὺς· καὶ ἡ Ἥρα) is perhaps not unconnected with the fact that Solon's own father was Ἐξηκεστίδης. The oath by this triad of Zeuses was inscribed on the ἄξονες (Hesych. τρεῖς θεοί· παρὰ Σόλωνι ἐν τοῖς ἄξουσιν ὄρκῳ τέτακται <τρεις θεοὺς ἐπιμαρτύρεσθαι?>. ἔνιοι κατὰ τὸ Ὀμηρικόν (sc. Il. 2. 371,

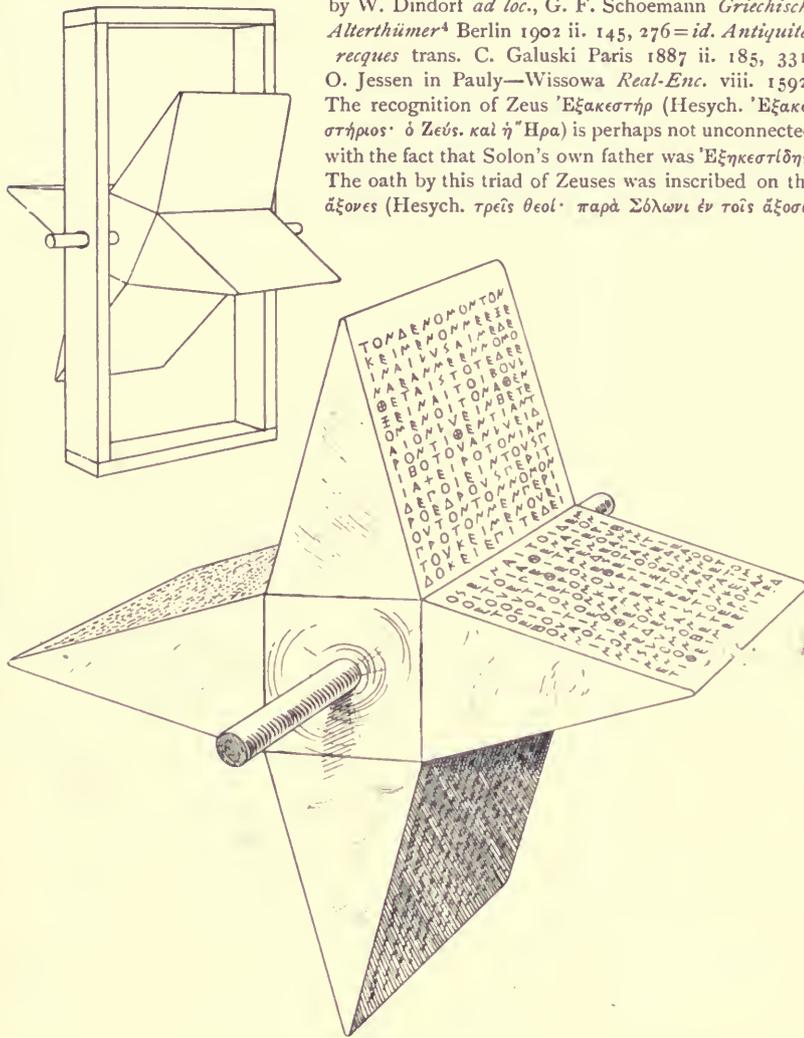

Fig. 935.

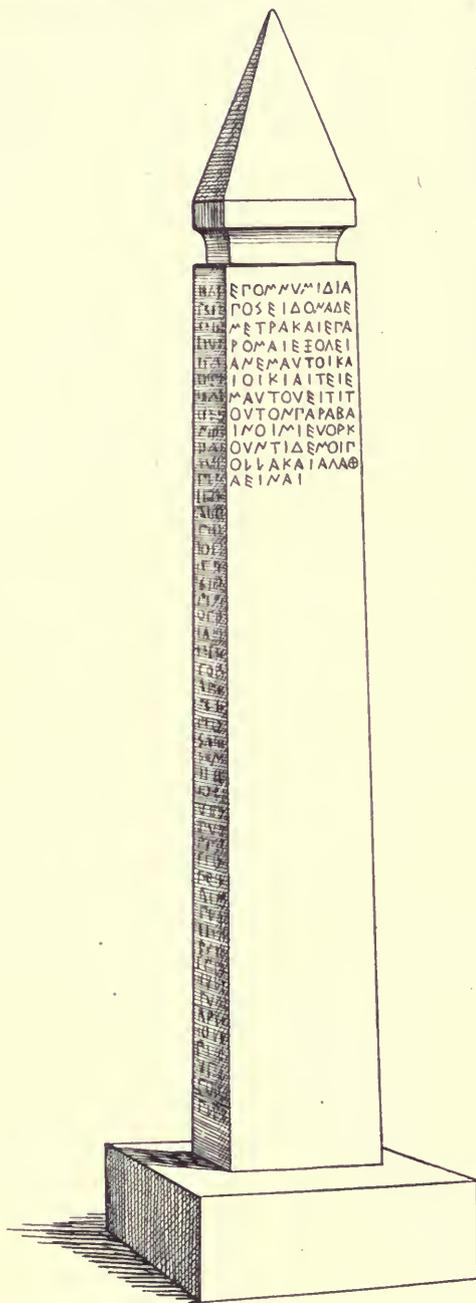

Fig. 936.

4. 288, 7. 132, 16. 97, Od. 4. 341, 7. 311, 17. 132, 18. 235, 24. 376 αἰ γὰρ, Ζεῦ τε πάτερ καὶ Ἀθηναίῃ καὶ Ἀπολλῶνι), which are said to have been wooden axles revolving in oblong frames kept in the Prytaneion (Plout. v. Sol. 25 καὶ κατεγράφησαν εἰς ξυλίνους ἀξονας ἐν πλαισίοις περιέχουσι στρεφομένους, ὧν ἔτι καθ' ἡμᾶς ἐν Πρυτανείῳ λείψανα μικρὰ διεσώζετο). Another account says rather enigmatically that they were square in shape, but that when laid in the direction of their acute angle they produced a triangular appearance (Polemon frag. 48 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 130 Müller) ap. Harpokr. s.v. ἀξονι· οἱ Σόλωνος νόμοι ἐν ξυλίνους ἦσαν ἀξοσι γεγραμμένοι... ἦσαν δέ, ὡς φησι Πολέμων ἐν τοῖς πρὸς Ἐρατοσθένην, τετράγωνοι τὸ σχῆμα. διασώζονται δὲ ἐν τῷ Πρυτανείῳ, γεγραμμένοι κατὰ πάντα τὰ μέρη· ποιοῦσι δ' ἐνιοτε φαντασίαν τρίγωνον, ὅταν ἐπὶ τὸ στενὸν κλιθῶσι τῆς γωνίας). The Solonian laws were also inscribed on kyrbeis set up in the Stoa Basileios (Aristot. resp. Ath. 7. 1 = Aristot. frag. 352 Rose ap. Harpokr. s.v. kyrbeis, Soud. s.v. kyrbeis, Plout. v. Sol. 25, schol. Aristoph. av. 1354, cp. Aristot. de mundo 6. 400 b 30 f.), and these kyrbeis are described as stones standing upright like pillars, surmounted by an apex or cap (Apolod. frag. 26 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 432 f. Müller) ap. Harpokr. s.v. kyrbeis·... kyrbeis φησὶν Ἀπολλόδωρος ἐν τοῖς περὶ θεῶν ἔχειν ἐγγεγραμμένους τοὺς νόμους. εἶναι δ' αὐτοὺς λίθους ὀρθοὺς ἐστῶτας, ὡς ἀπὸ μὲν τῆς στάσεως στήλας, ἀπὸ δὲ τῆς εἰς ὕψος ἀναστάσεως (leg. ἀνατάσεως) διὰ τὸ κεκορυφῶσθαι kyrbeis ἐκάλουν, ὡσπερ καὶ κυρβασίαν τὴν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς τιθεμένην, cp. Soud. s.v. kyrbeis, Phot. lex. s.v. kyrbeis, schol. Aristoph. av. 1354). One ancient grammarian attempts to identify the kyrbeis with the axones, stating that in both cases a large brick-shaped body as long as a man had fitted to it quadrangular pieces of wood, whose sides were flat and covered with lettering, and that pivots at either end enabled readers to move and turn about the text (Aristophanes (of Byzantium) ap. Soud. s.v. κύρβεις: ...'Ἀριστοφάνης δὲ ὁμοίως εἶναι φησὶ τοῖς ἀξοσι... ἀμφοτέρων δὲ τὰ κατασκευάσματα τοιοῦτον· πλινθὸν τι μέγα, ἀνδρόμηκες, ἥρσομένα ἔχον τετράγωνα ξύλα, τὰς πλευρὰς πλατείας ἔχοντα καὶ γραμμάτων πλήρεις· ἑκατέρωθεν δὲ κνώδακος, ὥστε κινεῖσθαι καὶ μεταστρέφεσθαι ὑπὸ τῶν ἀναγινωσκόντων). On the whole it seems clear that the wooden ἀξῶνες of the Prytaneion are to be distinguished from the stone κύρβεις of the Stoa Basileios. The ἀξῶνες were apparently shaped as in fig. 935, the κύρβεις as in fig. 936 (on the former is inscribed frag. 149 (I. B. Télyfύ Συναγωγή τῶν Ἀττικῶν νόμων Corpus iuris Attici Pestini et Lipsiae 1868 p. 39 f.) ap. Dem. c. Timocr. 33; on the latter, frag. 562 (Télyfύ op. cit. p. 137) ap. Dem. c. Timocr. 151). Neither shape was chosen at random. The wheel of Nemesis (supra i. 269 ff.) had a long history behind it and was related (supra i. 267) to that wheel, which in India symbolised ῥτα, the course of nature, the right path, in short, law and order (W. Simpson The Buddhist Praying-wheel London 1896 p. 89 ff., H. Oldenberg La religion du Véda Paris 1903 p. 163 ff., Harrison Themis p. 526 f., F. M. Cornford From Religion to Philosophy London 1912 p. 172 ff.). It seems highly probable that Solon inscribed his laws on wooden ἀξῶνες because he wished to represent them as the σεμνὰ θέμεθλα Δίκης (Solon frag. 2. 14 Hiller—Crusius). At the same time the shape chosen would be convenient for purposes of reference or consultation: my friend Dr P. Giles tells me that in the parish church of Great Yarmouth documents are, or were, arranged à la Solon. Individual enactments appear to have been copied on stones of the characteristic wedge-like form, as may be seen from an extant fragment (Corp. inscr. Att. iv. 1. 2 no. 559 with figs.) first published by S. A. Koumanoudes, to whose brilliant article in the Ἐφ. Ἀρχ. 1885 pp. 215—218 figs. 1—3 I am indebted for the main idea of my restoration in fig. 935 (Koumanoudes fits his wedges on to an axle that is circular, not square, in section). Again, it seems likely that the κύρβεις—as indeed I conjectured in the Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 86—copied the primitive idols of Zeus. Their shape, to judge from Apollodoros' words (supra p. 1094 n. o), was identical with that of Zeus Στροπᾶος, Zeus Πᾶσιος, Zeus Πατρῷος, etc. (supra i. 520 n. 2, ii. 815 fig. 781). If so, the implication is that the laws were the very voice of Zeus (cp. Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 426 n. 1, 1001 n. 5). There was a tradition that Solon had tried to express his laws in hexameter verse and had begun with a couplet invoking Zeus: πρῶτα μὲν εὐχόμεσθα Διὶ Κρονίδῃ βασιλῆϊ | θεσμοῖς τοῖσδε τύχην ἀγαθὴν καὶ κῆδος ὀπάσσαι (Plout. v. Sol. 3). The original form of his famous oath may have been πρὸς Διὸς ἱκεστοῖο καθαριστοῖο ἐξακέσαντος (cp. for the last word Pyth. carn. aur. 66) or the like. Analogous to the κύρβεις as inscribed obelisks were the Egyptian κύρβεις of the Colchians (Ap. Rhod. 4. 279 ff. with schol. ad loc.), not to mention the pillar of Zeus Τριφύλιος (supra i. 662). Cp. also the marble obelisk from Kition, the base of which bears a votive inscription for Esmun (Corp. inscr. Sem. i no. 44 pl. 8 fig. 44, Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art iv. 385 fig. 203, Ohnefalsch—Richter Kypros pp. 173 ff., 416 pl. 80, 5. Seleukos, a grammarian of Alexandria, wrote a whole treatise τῶν Σδλωνος ἀξῶνων (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 500 Müller), and modern writers have devoted much attention to them, e.g. E. Caillemer in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 589, G. Busolt Griechische Geschichte Gotha 1895 ii.² 290 ff., E. Szanto in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 2636, Lübker *Reallex.*⁸ pp. 153, 963 f., and the literature there cited. E. Beulé Les monnaies d'Athènes Paris 1858 p. 399 f. fig. would recognize Solon with one of his ἀξῶνες on a copper coin of Athens: but see K. Lange in the Ath. Mitth. 1881 vi. 68 f. fig., Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. iii. 152 pl. EE, 16 f.).

Similarly at Thera in s. vi B.C. the same appellative occurs without the name of Zeus (supra i. 143 in three rock-cut inscriptions). Elsewhere name and title appear together: so at Kos in s. iv B.C. (A. Hauvette-Besnault and M. Dubois in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1881 v. 224 no. 12 on a slab fixed in the pavement of an ancient chapel of S. John Διὸς ἱκεστοῖο | Σιμωνιδᾶν=W. R. Paton—E. L. Hicks The Inscriptions of Cos Oxford 1891 p. 161 no. 149=Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 376 no. 3674=Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 796=Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 929) and at Delos in s. iii B.C.

and even as Hikétas, himself 'the Suppliant',—a remarkable title dependent, I think², upon the very primitive notion³ that a stranger suddenly appearing in the midst of the community may well be a god on his travels⁴.

(T. Homolle in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 471 f. no. 4 on a square base of white marble Διονύσιος Νίκωνος | Παλληνεύς ἐπιμελητῆς | γενόμενος Δήλου | ὑπὲρ τοῦ δήμου τοῦ | Ἀθηναίων Δὲ Ἴκεστωι). More doubtful is an inscription of s. ii B.C. from Netteia in Rhodes (Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 891, 2 on a slab of blackish marble [ὁ] ἐπιμήνιοι ἀεὶ τοὶ αἰ[ρ]εθε[ν]τες Ἴκε[σ]τωι φθῆ[ι]ς] ἐγ λ - , where F. Hiller von Gaertringen ad loc. supplies Δτ and notes that φθῆ[ι]ς = φθῆ[ι]ας, 'cakes').

¹ Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. Add. nov. no. 49a with fig. = my fig. 937 a rough calcareous

Fig. 937.

boundary-stone (0·35^m long, 0·30^m high, 0·10^m—0·11^m thick), found at Sparta and preserved in the Museum at Teuthis (Dimitziana), bearing the retrograde inscription Διοίκετα, | Διόλευθερ[ω] = Roberts Gk. Epigr. i. 249 no. 244 = R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 6 no. 4407. E. S. Roberts ad loc. remarks: 'The change of the final σ of Διός in l. 1 to the spiritus asper is remarkable; still more so the contraction in Διώλ. of l. 2 after disappearance of the h = σ. Stolz (Wiener Stud. VIII. 1886, p. 160), who summarily rejects this explanation, suggests a genitive Δίω on the analogy of ο-stems, and compares Lat. Iovos, Eph. ep. i. 14 no. 21, Iovo, Herm. XIX. 453. Elsewhere certainly final σ does not disappear in Laconian, even where the next word begins with a vowel.¹ But R. Meister ad loc. is content to assume the change of σ into h; and so is A. Thumb in K. Brugmann *Griechische Grammatik*⁴ München 1913 p. 171, citing Cypriote parallels.

² H. Roehl loc. cit. refers to Eustath. in Od. p. 1807, 9 f. καὶ ὁ ἱκετεύσας καὶ ὁ τὴν ἱκετεῖαν δεξάμενος ἦτοι κατὰ τοὺς παλαιούς εἰπεῖν ἱκετοδόχος ἰκέται εἰσὶν ἀλλήλοις. For the supposed reciprocal sense Eustathios cp. ξένος, προστρόπαιος, χρήστης.

G. Murray *The Rise of the Greek Epic*² Oxford 1911 p. 291 ('this Zeus of Aeschylus is himself the suppliant; the prayer which you reject is his very prayer, and in turning from your door the helpless or the outcast you have turned away the most high God. The belief was immemorially old') comes much nearer the mark, though I cannot accept the explanation which he adds in a footnote ib. p. 291 n. 1 ('Zeus Ἀφικτωρ... is a "projection" of the rite of Supplication').

³ Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild i. 216 ff., 252 f. (the story of Lityerses compared with the harvest customs of Europe, after W. Mannhardt Mythologische Forschungen Strassburg 1884 p. 18 ff.).

⁴ This is definitely stated in Od. 17. 483 ff. Ἀντίνο', οὐ μὲν κάλ' ἔβαλες δύστηνον ἀλήτην· | οὐλόμην, εἰ δὴ πού τις ἐπουράνιος θεός ἐστι, — | καὶ τε θεοὶ ξείνοισιν εὐκότες ἀλλοδαποῖσι, | παντοῖοι τελέθοντες, ἐπιστροφῶσι πόληας, | ἀνθρώπων ὕβρι τε καὶ εὐνομήην ἐφορῶντες (cp. Hes. o.d. 121 ff.), and is implied in the history of Barnabas and Paul (supra i. 193 n. 3. See too Acts 28. 1—6), the myths of Philemon and Baucis (Ov. met. 8. 616 ff., Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 8. 7—9), Pelargus or Pelasgus (Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 81 f.), Lykaon (supra i. 79 n. 6. There is a reminiscence of the Homeric passage in Nikolaos Damask. frag. 43 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 378 Müller) ὅτι Λυκάων ὁ Πελασγοῦ υἱός, βασιλεὺς Ἀρκάδων, ἐφύλαττε τὰ τοῦ πατρὸς εἰσηγήματα ἐν δικαιοσύνη. ἀποστήσαι <δὲ> βουλόμενος καὶ αὐτὸς τῆς ἀδικίας τοὺς ἀρχομένους, ἔφη τὸν Δία ἐκάστοτε φοιτᾶν παρ' αὐτὸν ἀνδρὶ ξένῳ μοιούμενον εἰς ἐποψίαν τῶν δικαίων τε καὶ ἀδίκων = Soud. s.v. Λυκάων), and many others.

Similarly the poets spoke of Zeus, not only as *hiketésios*¹, *hikésios*², and It is reasonable to surmise that the possible divinity of the stranger even helped to establish the law of hospitality (other contributory causes in Schrader Reallex. p. 269 ff., Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Taboo p. 130, W. Wundt Elements of Folk Psychology trans. E. L. Schaub London 1916 p. 340 ff.). 'Ικέτης or ξένος—who could tell?—might turn out to be Zeus himself. 'Some have entertained angels unawares' (Heb. 13. 2).

At a later stage of religious development Zeus is conceived, not as the actual ικέτης or ξένος, but as his unseen attendant. Thus e.g. the Phaeacian Echeneos says to Alkinoos: ἀλλ' ἄγε δὴ ξείνων μὲν ἐπὶ θρόνου ἀργυροῦλου | εἰσον ἀναστήσας, σὺ δὲ κηρύκεσσι κελύουσιν | οἶνον ἐπικρήσαι, ἵνα καὶ Διὶ τερπικεραῖνῳ | σπέισομεν, ὅς θ' ἰκέτην ἄμ' αἰδοίοισιν ὀπηδεῖ· | κ.τ.λ. (Od. 7. 162 ff. with the sequel in line 178 ff.), and Odysseus to Polyphemos: ἀλλ' αἰδέοι, φέριστε, θεοῦς· ἰκέται δὲ τοὶ εἰμεν. | Ζεὺς δ' ἐπιτιμήτωρ ἰκετῶν τε ξείνων τε, | ξείνιος, ὅς ξείνοισιν ἄμ' αἰδοίοισιν ὀπηδεῖ (Od. 9. 269 ff.). Cp. Od. 14. 158 f., a variant of Od. 19. 303 f.

Ultimately Zeus becomes 'Ικέσιος and Ξένιος (cp. Ap. Rhod. 2. 378 Ζηνὸς Ἐυξείνιοι Γενηταῖην ὑπὲρ ἄκρην with schol. ad loc. cited supra p. 617 n. 1), the god who protects suppliants and strangers in general.

¹ Od. 13. 213 f. Ζεὺς σφεας τίσατο (C. G. Cobet cj. Ζεὺς δὲ σφεας τίσαθ') ἰκετήσιος, ὅς τε κατ' ἄλλους | ἀνθρώπων ἐφορᾷ καὶ τίννται ὅς τις ἀμάρτην with schol. ad loc. ἰκέσιος· ἰκετῶν ἐπόπτης and Eustath. in Od. p. 1739, 18 f. ἰκετήσιος δὲ Ζεὺς δοκεῖ πρωτότυπον εἶναι τοῦ ἰκέσιος (id. ib. p. 1576, 14), Tzetz. alleg. Od. 13. 46 ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ ἰκετήσιος, Hesych. s.v. ἰκετήσιος· ὁ ἐπὶ τῶν ἰκετῶν Ζεὺς· ἢ οὗτος ἰκέτας ἐξείων.

² Aisch. suprl. 343 βαρὺς γε μέντοι Ζηνὸς ἰκεσίου κότος, 616 f. ἰκεσίου Ζηνὸς κότον | μέγαν προφωῶν κ.τ.λ., Soph. Phil. 484 πρὸς αὐτοῦ Ζηνὸς ἰκεσίου, Eur. Hec. 345 πέφειγας τὸν ἐμὸν ἰκέσιον Δία, Aristot. de mundo 7. 401 a 23 f. καθάρσιος τε καὶ παλαμναῖος καὶ ἰκέσιος καὶ μειλίχιος, ὡσπερ οἱ ποιηταὶ λέγουσι = Stob. ecl. 1. 1. 36 p. 45, 21 f. Wachsmuth, Ap. Rhod. 2. 215 ff. ἰκεσίου πρὸς Ζηνὸς, ὅτις βίγιστος ἀλιτροῖς | ἀνδράσι, ... | λισσομαι with schol. ad loc., 2. 1131 ff. ἀλλ' ἰκέτας ξείνους Διὸς εἵνεκεν αἰδέσσασθε | ξείνιου ἰκεσίου τε· Διὸς δ' ἄμφω ἰκέται τε | καὶ ξείνοι· ὁ δὲ που καὶ ἐπόψιος ἄμμι τέτυκται, 4. 358 f. ποῦ τοι Διὸς ἰκεσίου | ὄρκια; 4. 700 ff. τῷ καὶ ὀπιζομένη Ζηνὸς θέμιν ἰκεσίου, | ὅς μέγα μὲν κοτῆει, μέγα δ' ἀνδροφόνουσιν ἀρήγει, | βρέξε θηηπολλῆν with the whole context (Iason and Medeia, on reaching the hall of Kirke, sit in silence at her hearth as is the wont of suppliants. Medeia hides her face in both hands; and Iason fixes in the ground the sword with which he has slain Apsyrtos. Kirke understands, and performs the appropriate rites of atonement. She holds above their heads a young pig, slits its throat, and sprinkles their hands with its blood. Then she makes propitiation with drink-offerings, καθάρσιον ἀγκαλέουσα | Ζῆνα, παλαμναίων τιμήρορον ἰκεσιῶν (708 f.). Her attendants carry forth all defilement (cp. Il. 1. 314), while she, standing by the hearth, burns planoi and expiatory offerings without wine as she prays to the Erinyes and Zeus. Finally, she raises Iason and Medeia, and bids them sit on seats to question them), Cornut. theol. 11 f. p. 12, 4 ff. Lang (sequel to passage cited supra p. 1092 n. 8) διὰ τοῦτο γὰρ καὶ ἰκεσίου Διὸς εἰσι βωμοὶ καὶ τὰς λιτὰς ὁ ποιητὴς ἐφη τοῦ Διὸς εἶναι θυγατέρας, κ.τ.λ., Dion Chrys. or. 1 p. 56 f. Reiske (of Zeus) πρὸς δὲ τούτοις Ἰκεσιῶς τε καὶ Φύξιος καὶ Ξένιος... Ἰκέσιος δὲ ὡς ἂν (Reiske suggests ὦν for ἂν) ἐπήκοός τε καὶ ἴλεως τοῖς δεομένοις, Φύξιος δὲ διὰ τὴν τῶν κακῶν ἀπόφειξιν (L. Dindorf restores ἀπόφειξιν), Ξένιος δὲ ὅτι καὶ τοῦτο ἀρχὴ φίλλας μῆδὲ τῶν ξένων ἀμελεῖν μῆδὲ ἀλλότριον ἠγείσθαι μῆδένα ἀνθρώπων = or. 12 p. 413 Reiske (of Zeus) πρὸς δὲ αὐτοῖς Ἰκεσιῶς τε καὶ <Φύξιος καὶ > Ξένιος... Ἰκέσιος δὲ ὡς ἂν ἐπήκοός τε καὶ ἴλεως τοῖς δεομένοις, Φύξιος δὲ διὰ τὴν τῶν κακῶν ἀπόφειξιν, Ξένιος δὲ ὅτι δεῖ μῆδὲ τῶν ξένων ἀμελεῖν μῆδὲ ἀλλότριον ἠγείσθαι ἀνθρώπων μῆδένα, Clem. Al. prot. 2. 37. 1 p. 27, 23 f. Stählin καλὸς γὰρ ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ μαντικός, ὁ ξένιος, ὁ ἰκέσιος, ὁ μειλίχιος, ὁ πανομφαῖος, ὁ προστροπαῖος, Heliod. 2. 22 ὁ δὲ Κνήμων θανάσας, Ἄλλ' ἢ Ξενίου Διὸς, ὡς ἔοικεν, εἰς αὐτὰς ἤκομεν, ὦ πάτερ, οὕτως ἀπροφάσιτος ἢ θεραπεία καὶ πολλὸν τὸ εὐνοῦν τῆς γνώμης ἐμφαίνουσα. Οὐκ εἰς Διὸς, ἐφη, ἀλλ' εἰς ἀνδρὸς Δία τὸν Ξένιον καὶ Ἰκεσίον ἀκριβοῦντος, Anth. Pal. 11. 351. 7 f. (Palladas) ἀλλὰ σε πρὸς πύκτου Πηλυδεύκεος ἤδὲ καὶ αὐτοῦ | Κάστωρος ἰκνοῦμαι καὶ Διὸς ἰκεσίου, Orph. Arg. 107 f. οὐ γὰρ hiktaios (?)¹, 'the god of suppliants,' but also as *hiktér*², and *aphiktór*³, 'the suppliant.' Again, Zeus was known as *alástoros*⁴ or *aldístor*⁵, 'he that brings a curse'; Palamnaíos, 'he of the Violent Hand'; prostrópaios, 'he of the ἄτιμοι | ἱκεσίου Ζητὸς κοῦραι Ἰταί, Nonn. Dion. 18. 18 πρὸς Διὸς ἱκεσίῳ, τεοῦ, Διόνυσε, τοκήος, Tryphiod. exc. II. 278 πεφύλαξο Διὸς σέβας ἱκεσίῳ, Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 (Διός) 49 ἱκεσίῳ, ib. i. 266 (Διός) 44 ἱκεσίῳ.

¹ Aisch. suppl. 385 μένει τοι Ζητὸς ἱκταίου κότος. So U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorf (1914) with cod. M. E. Fraenkel in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1913 xlv. 168 n. 2 accepts Dindorf's cj. ἱκτίου 'das wohl eine Kompromissbildung zwischen ἱκέσιος und ἱκτήριος ist genau wie Lykophrons ἱκτής, ἱκτίδες eine solche zwischen ἱκέτης, -τις und ἱκτήρ; vgl. auch die umgekehrte Beeinflussung, die ἱκετήρια (im Gegensatz zu ἱκτήριος) durch ἱκεσία, ἱκετεία erfahren hat ([E. Fraenkel Griechische Nomina agentis Strassburg 1910] I, S. 52 ff. mit Anm. 2).'

² Aisch. suppl. 478 f. ὄμως δ' ἀνάγκη Ζητὸς αἰδεῖσθαι κότον | ἱκτήρος· ἕψιστος γὰρ ἐν βροτοῖς φόβος. W. Headlam renders 'Zeus Petitionary.'

³ Aisch. suppl. 1 f. Ζεὺς μὲν ἀφίκτωρ ἐπίδοι προφθρόνως | στόλον ἡμέτερον. 'Zeus Petitionary' (W. Headlam).

⁴ Cramer anecd. Oxon. i. 62, 10 ff. παρὰ δὲ τὸ ἀλαστῶ ῥήμα, ἀλάστωρ ὁ Ζεὺς, ἐπὶ τῶν χαλεπῶν τι πρᾶσσόντων· παρηκτική δὲ ἡ εὐθεία παρὰ τὴν ἀλάστορος γενικήν· Ἀἰσχύλος Ἰξίῳ (frag. 92 Nauck²) "πρευμενῆς ἀλάστορος," καὶ Φερεκύδης (frag. 114^a (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 99 Müller)) "ὁ Ζεὺς δὲ Ἰκέσιος καὶ ἀλάστορος καλεῖται." With πρευμενῆς ἀλάστορος A. Nauck ad loc. cp. Aisch. Eum. 236 (Orestes to Athena) δέχου δὲ πρευμενῶς ἀλάστορα | κ.τ.λ. and Bekker anecd. i. 382, 29 f. ἀλάστορον· ἀντὶ τοῦ ἀλάστορα, ἀπὸ εὐθείας τῆς ὁ ἀλάστορος, Ἀισχύλος (frag. 294 Nauck²) "μέγαν ἀλάστορον" ἔπεν. Farnell Cults of Grk. States i. 67 reasonably supposes that Pherekydes spoke of Zeus ἱκέσιος καὶ ἀλάστωρ (sic) in relation to Ixion (supra i. 198 n. 3).

⁵ Orph. h. daem. 73. 2 ff. cited infra Append. M fin., cp. supra i. 504 n. 2. The title provoked much learned discussion: Cornut. theol. 9 p. 10, 20 ff. Lang λέγεται δ' (sc. ὁ Ζεὺς) ὑπὸ τίνων καὶ ἀλάστωρ καὶ παλαμναῖος τῷ τοῦς ἀλάστορας καὶ παλαμναῖους κολάζειν, τῶν μὲν ὠνομασμένων ἀπὸ τοῦ τοιαῦτα ἀμαρτάνειν ἐφ' οἷς ἔστιν ἀλαστήσαι καὶ στενάξει, τῶν δὲ ἀπὸ τοῦ ταῖς παλάμαις μίσματα ἀνέκθυτα (ἀνέκπλυτα codd. N. B. G.) ἀποτελεῖν = Eudok. viol. 414^g, Hesych. s.v. ἀλάστωρ· πικρὸς δαίμων. Ζεὺς, et. Gud. p. 32, 35 ff. ἀλάστωρ· ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ ἐποπτεύων τοὺς ἀλαστὰ καὶ χαλεπὰ ποιούντας. ἡ ὁ ἀσεβῆς, ἡ ὁ κακοποιός. οὕτως Ἡρωδιανός (περὶ καθολικῆς προσφῶδας 2 = i. 49, 13 f. Lentz reading ὑποπτεύων for ἐποπτεύων; cp. ii. 937, 27 n. Lentz), et. mag. p. 57, 25 ff. ἀλάστωρ· ὁ ἀμαρτωλός, ἡ ὁ φονεύς, ἡ ὁ ἐφορῶν τοὺς φόνους Ζεὺς...ἐπὶ δὲ τοῦ Διός, οἷον ἀλάστωρ Ζεὺς, ἀπὸ τοῦ τοῖς τὰ ἀλαστὰ πᾶσχοῦσιν ἐπαμύνει· ἡ ὁ τὰ ἀλαστὰ (τουτέστι τὰ χαλεπὰ) τηρῶν, Eustath. in II. p. 474, 22 f. παρὰ δὲ τοῖς ὕστερον καὶ Ζεὺς ἀλάστωρ, δν ἐλάνθανεν οὐδέν, ἡ ὁ τοῖς ἀλαστα πᾶσχοῦσιν ἐπαμύνων κατὰ τοὺς παλαιούς, ib. p. 763, 36 f. ὅθεν καὶ Ζεὺς ἀλάστωρ καὶ φθόνος καὶ δαίμων ἀλάστωρ ἐπενοήθη λέγεσθαι = Favorin. lex. p. 1692, 43 f. ὅθεν καὶ Ζεὺς ἀλάστωρ καὶ ὁ φθονερὸς δαίμων ἐπενοήθη λέγεσθαι.

⁶ The derivation of the word is doubtful (cjj. in A. Vaniček Griechisch-lateinisches etymologisches Wörterbuch Leipzig 1877 i. 788 f., L. Meyer Handb. d. gr. Etym. i. 293 f., Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 23, Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 41), but its meaning is sufficiently clear (see K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1292 f.).

⁷ Aristot. de mundo 7. 401 a 23 (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2) = Stob. ecl. 1. 1. 36 p. 45, 21 Wachsmuth, Cornut. theol. 9 p. 10, 20 ff. Lang (cited supra p. 1098 n. 5), Orion in F. W. Sturz's ed. of et. Gud. p. 628, 17 ff. παλαμναῖος ὁ τοὺς αὐτοχειρὶ φονεύσαντας τιμωρούμενος καὶ Ζεὺς Παλαμναῖος ἐν Χαλκίδι, et. Gud. p. 448, 28 ff. παλαμναῖος· σημαίνει δὲ δύο, ὁ τοὺς αὐτοχειρὶ φονεύσαντας τιμωρούμενος καὶ ὁ ἐπὶ τινὶ βιάσματι κατεχόμενος, ib. p. 449, 21 f. καὶ Ζεὺς δὲ Παλαμναῖος λέγεται ἐν Χαλκίδι, et. mag. p. 647, 43 f. παλαμναῖος· ὁ τοὺς αὐτοχειρὶ φονεύσαντας τιμωρούμενος, Ζεὺς Παλαμναῖος. λέγεται καὶ ἐν Χαλκίδι Παλαμναῖος (cod. D. omits the last word), Suid. s.v. παλαμναῖος = Phot. lex. s.v. παλαμappeal¹,—titles which applied primarily to the sinner, secondarily to the god concerned with his sin. Less ambiguous and further removed from primitive conceptions are the cult-names Litaios, 'god of Prayers²,' and Kathársios, 'god ναῖος· φονεὺς ἢ μιὰρός· παλαμναῖοι γὰρ λέγονται οἱ διὰ χειρὸς ἀνδροφονοῦντες· παρὰ τὴν παλάμην· καὶ Ζεὺς Παλαμναῖος, ὁ τοὺς τοιοῦτους τιμωρούμενος· καὶ προστροπαῖος ὁ προστρέπων τὸ ἄγος αὐτοῖς, Favorin. lex. p. 221, 54 καὶ Ζεὺς δὲ φασι Παλαμναῖος, ὁ τοὺς φονεῖς καταρρίπτων, Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 265 (Διός) 87 παλαμναίου, id. i. 266 (Διός) 69 παλαμναίου. Cp. Ap. Rhod. 4. 708 f. (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2) and Clem. Al. protr. 2. 39. 2 p. 29, 6 f. Stählin οὐχὶ μέντοι Ζεὺς Φαλακρὸς ἐν Ἀργεῖ, Τιμωρὸς (J. Bernays cj. συνάμωρος) δὲ ἄλλος ἐν Κύπρῳ τετίμησθον;

In a church near Gomphoi (Musdiki) Leake found a plain quadrangular altar inscribed in large deeply-cut letters ΖΗΝΙ | ΠΑΛΑΜΝΙΩ (W. M. Leake Travels in Northern Greece London 1835 iv. 523 f. pl. 44 no. 220, Lebas—Foucart Peloponnèse ii no. 1194, Inscr. Gr. sept. ii no. 291).

¹ Clem. Al. protr. 2. 37. 1 p. 27, 23 f. Stählin (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2), Soud. s.v. παλαμναῖος = Phot. lex. s.v. παλαμναῖος (cited supra p. 1098 n. 7), Eustath. in Od. p. 1807, 11 f. προστρέπαιος τε γὰρ Ζεὺς ἐν ῥητορικῷ λεξικῷ (E. Schwabe Aelia Dionysii et Pausaniae Atticistarum fragmenta Lipsiae 1890 p. 254, 7 ff.: see further Sir J. E. Sandys *A History of Classical Scholarship*² Cambridge 1906 i. 323 and L. Cohn in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 1478 ff.), ᾧ ἂν τις, φασι, προστρέπειτο δέμενος. καὶ προστρέπαιος ὁ ἰκέτης, ὁ πρὸς τινα δηλαδὴ δεητικῶς τρεπόμενος (supra p. 1096 n. 2). It follows that Zeus, who in one respect was προστρέπαιος, in another was ἀποτρόπαιος: cp. Bekker anecd. i. 427, 5 f. ἀποδιοπομπεῖσθαι· ἀποπέμπεσθαι πρὸς τὸν προστρόπαιον Δία καὶ οἰοεῖ καθαίρεσθαι ἢ ἰλδοεσθαι, schol. Plat. Crat. 396 E ἀποδιοπομπεῖσθαι φασι τὸ ἀποτρέπεσθαι τὸν προστρόπαιον Δία καὶ οἰοεῖ καθαίρεσθαι τὰ δεινὰ, schol. Plat. legg. 854 B ἀποδιοπομπήσεις· τὰς ἀποτροφὰς τὰς γιγνομένας ὑπὸ τοῦ ἀποτροπαίου Διός, διὰ τὸ καθαίρεσθαι τὰ δεινὰ· ἢ τὰς ἀποκομπὰς τὰς πρὸς τὸν προστρόπαιον Δία καὶ οἰοεῖ καθάρσεις καὶ ἰλασμοὺς, schol. Aischin. de fals. leg. 323 προστρέπαιος ἐστὶν ὁ εἰς ἑαυτὸν ἐπισπώμενος τὰ κακά, ὅπερ ἐστὶν ἐναντίον τοῦ (so H. Sauppe for τῷ cod. f.) ἀποτρόπαιος, τοῦ ἀποτρέποντος τὰ κακά. διὸ καὶ Διὶ ἀποτροπαίῳ θύομεν, οὐκέτι μέντοι καὶ προστροπαίῳ (on which see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 3154).

The essence of a προστροπή was that the supplicator and the supplicated should both be turned towards each other and thus brought into such immediate connexion that the thing asked must needs be granted. If possible, direct contact was established by the clasping of knees, chin, etc. (C. Sittl Die Gebärden der Griechen und Römer Leipzig 1890 pp. 163 ff., 282 f.). Failing that, quasi-contact was made by means of outstretched arms, etc. (id. ib. pp. 186 ff., 283, 296). But in any case the two parties were face to face.

² Coppers of Nikaia in Bithynia, struck by Nero (M. P. Lambros in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1878 ii. 508 f. pl. 24, 1 = my fig. 938 ΔΙΟΣ | ΛΙΤΑΙΟΥ) and Antoninus Pius (supra i. 37 n. 1 ΔΙ|ΟC || ΛΙΤΑΙΟΥ), show the altar of Zeus Λιταῖος (Head *Hist. num.*² p. 517). O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth.

ii. 2064 explains the title as 'Father of the Litai' with reference to the remarkable passage in Il. 9. 502 ff. καὶ γὰρ τε Λιταὶ εἰσι, Διὸς κούραι μεγάλοιο, | χωλαὶ τε ῥυσαὶ τε παραβλῶπές τ' ὄφθαλμῶ, | αἷ ῥά τε καὶ μετόπισθ' Ἀτης ἀλέγουσι κιοῦσαι. | ἢ δ' Ἀθη σθεναρὴ τε καὶ ἀρτίπος, οὐνεκα πάσας | πολλὸν ὑπεκπροθεί, φθάσει δὲ τε πᾶσαν ἐπ' αἶαν | βλάπτουσ' ἀνθρώπων· αἱ δ' ἐξάκρονται ὀπίσω. | δε μὲν τ' ἀδέσεται κούρας Διὸς ἄσπον ἰούσας, | τὸν δὲ μέγ' ὤνησαν καὶ τ' ἔκλυον εὐχομένοιο· | δε δὲ κ' ἀνήγηται καὶ τε στερεῶς ἀποσιπη, | λισσονται δ' ἄρα ταί γε Δία Κρονίωνα κιοῦσαι | τῷ Ἀθην ἄμ' ἔπεισθαι, ἵνα βλαφθεὶς ἀποσίση (see for variants A. Ludwich ad loc., for imitations Quint. Smyrn. 10. 300 ff. Λιταῖς δ' ἀποθύμια ῥέξεις, | αἷ ῥά καὶ αὐτὰ Ζητὸς ἐριγδοῦποιο θύγατραι | εἰσί, κ.τ.λ., Orph.

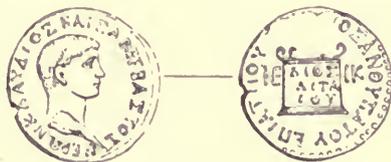

Fig. 938.

of Purification¹. The exact relationship of all these appellatives and the growth of the religious beliefs implied by them are still far from clear. Perhaps we shall come within measurable distance of the truth by assuming that development proceeded on some such lines as follow:

Arg. 107 f. cited supra p. 1097 n. 2, and for a parody Anth. Pal. 11. 361. 1 ff. (Automedon)). How Zeus could have begotten such creatures, 'halt wrinkled squinting,' was a puzzle (Bion Borysthenites frag. 44 Mullach ap. Clem. Al. protr. 4. 56. 1 p. 43, 29 ff. Stählin, Herakleitos quaestt. Hom. 37, Porph. quaestt. Il. 97, 21, Eustath. in Il. p. 768, 28 ff.). But symbolism proved a ready solvent (vide the comments of Herakleitos quaestt. Hom. 37, schol. Il. 9. 502 f., Porph. quaestt. Il. 97, 21, Eustath. in Il. p. 767, 60 ff., Cornut. theol. 12 p. 12, 5 ff. Lang, Eudok. viol. 606, Cramer anecd. Paris. iii. 239, 32 ff., cp. Hesych. s.v. Ατραί (H. Stephanus restored Ατραί)). Dr W. Leaf A Companion to the Iliad London 1892 p. 185 can still write: 'The epithets applied to them indicate the attitude of the penitent: halting, because he comes with hesitating steps; wrinkled, because his face betrays the inward struggle; and of eyes askance, because he dares not look in the face the man he has wronged' (cp. the same scholar's note on Il. 9. 503, repeated in his joint ed. with the Rev. M. A. Bayfield). I am sorry to dissent from Dr Leaf, to whom all lovers of Homer are so deeply indebted. But to me it seems far more probable that the Litai were physically deformed and loathsome like the Erinyes, to whom they were akin. I suppose them to have been essentially the prayers of the injured man taking shape as vengeful sprites. In the last analysis they were simply the soul of the victim issuing from his mouth in visible form, maimed because he was maimed, and clamouring for vengeance. The personification is not unlike that implied in Gen. 4. 10 'the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground' (with Dr J. Skinner's note ad loc.). For the soul as Erinyes see Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 213 ff. No doubt all this belongs to the dim background of Greek religion and has already been half-forgotten by the Homeric writer, who conceives the Litai, not as the wrathful prayers of the injured man, but as the penitential prayers of his injurer. The apologue thus acquires a new moral value. It is, however, largely couched in language appropriate to the earlier conception (Ate, swift of foot, drives many a man to do mad deeds. Then come the Litai and effect the cure. If a man respects them, they help him and hear his prayer. If a man flouts them, they go and pray to Zeus that Ate may fall upon such an one, drive him mad, and make him pay the price), and in particular its description of the Litai as misshapen and hideous is an abiding relic of its former significance. The passage is, in fact, an αἴλιος (like Il. 19. 91 ff. or the oracle in Hdt. 6. 86) misinterpreted and misapplied by a later moralist. But, however understood, it contributes little or nothing to an explanation of Zeus Ατραίος. The altar at Nikaia was surely voted to him as 'Hearer of Prayers' for the restored health of the emperor or for some other benefit vouchsafed to a grateful public.

¹ Zeus was worshipped as Καθάριστος at Athens (Pol. 8. 142 (cp. 1. 24) cited supra p. 1093 n. 1) and at Olympia (Paus. 5. 14. 8 πρὸς αὐτῷ δὲ ἔστιν Ἄγνωστον θεῶν βωμόν, καὶ μετὰ τοῦτον Καθαριστὸν Διὸς καὶ Νίκης, καὶ αἰθῆς Διὸς ἐπινομιλῶν Χθονίου. E. Curtius Die Altäre von Olympia (Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1881 Phil.-hist. Classe) Berlin 1882 p. 39 no. 21 rightly assumes that Zeus Καθάριστος and Nike had here a common altar. So, with some hesitation, does W. Dörpfeld in Olympia i. 83 no. 18. C. Maurer De aris Graecorum pluribus deis in commune positis Darmstadii 1885 p. 17 adopts the same view. But K. Wernicke 'Olympische Beiträge i' in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1894 ix. 96 no. 18 f. thinks otherwise). For literary allusions see Aristot. de mundo 7. 401 a 23 (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2) = Stob. ecl. 1. 1. 36 p. 45, 21 Wachsmuth, Ap. Rhod. 4. 708 f. (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2), Plout. de carn. esu 2. 1 ὦ Ζεῦ καθάρσιε, Orph. h. Zeus 15. 8 f. σεισίχθων, ἀξήγά, καθάρσιε, παντοινάκτα, | ἀστράπιε (so G. Hermann for ἀστραπαίε), βρονταίε, κεραΐνιε, φητάλιε Ζεῦ.

MAN-SLAYER.

- (1) The bloodguilty man, appearing suddenly as a suppliant stranger, is deemed a god (Zeus 'Ikéatas, ἰκτήρ, ἀφίκτωρ, ἀλάστωρ, κ.τ.λ.)¹.
- (2) The suppliant or stranger is not himself mistaken for a god, but is thought to have a divine escort (Zeus ὅς θ' ἰκέτησιν ἅμ' αἰδοίοισιν ὀπηδεῖ, Zeus ὅς ξείνοισιν ἅμ' αἰδοίοισιν ὀπηδεῖ)².
- (3) Suppliants and strangers in general are supposed to be protégés of the god (Zeus 'Ikéσιος, ἰκετήσιος, ἰκταῖος (?), Zeus Ξένιος)³.

VICTIM.

- (1) The soul (κῆρ) of the murdered man becomes a wrathful spirit (ἔρινός). His curses (ἀραί), prayers (λιταί), and penalties (ποιναί) all pursue the guilty.
- (2) Hence arises the whole tribe of avenging deities (*Κῆρες, Ἐρινύες, Ἀραί, Ἀράντιδες*⁴, *Λιταί*⁵, Ποινάι, κ.τ.λ.).
- (3) With the progress of religion deities of this low type are subordinated to a high god⁶, especially to Zeus⁷ (cp. Zeus Τιμωρός)⁸.

The protective and the punitive powers of Zeus are fused (Zeus 'Ikéσιος, Παλαμναῖος, προστρόπαιος).

¹ Supra pp. 1096, 1098.

² Supra p. 1097 n. o.

³ Supra pp. 1093, 1097, 1097 n. o, 1097 n. 2.

A marble statue of Zeus Ξένιος by Papylos, a pupil of Praxiteles, was owned by C. Asinius Pollio (Plin. nat. hist. 36. 34 Iuppiter hospitalis Papyli (praxiphili Gelenius), Praxitelis (K. L. von Ulrichs cj. Pasitelis discipuli). At Sparta—the former home of ξενηλασία—Zeus Ξένιος was grouped with Athena Ξένια (Paus. 3. 11. 11 with H. Hitzig [⁴⁻⁸ For notes 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8, see page 1102.]

Fig. 939.

Zeus Meilichios as an angry god readily appeased by the man-slayer might conveniently be ranged under this joint-category, his title being interpreted as 'the Kindly One.'

and H. Blümner ad loc. Wide Lakon. Kulte p. 9 aptly cites Philostr. v. Apoll. 4. 31 p. 149 Kayser περιστάντες δὲ αὐτὸν οἱ Λακεδαιμόνιοι ξένον τε παρὰ τῷ Διὶ ἐποιούοντο κ.τ.λ.) A broken relief in the Terme Museum (fig. 939) shows Zeus Ξένιος as a traveller sitting with a rumpled himátion over his knees and a knotted stick in his left hand, while he extends his right in welcome to a draped figure before him and offers a seat on his own eagle-decked couch (Matz—Duhn Ant. Bildw. in Rom iii. 146 f. no. 3772, P. Arndt La Glyptothèque Ny-Carlsberg Munich 1896 p. 64 fig. 34, Reinach Reliefs iii. 330 no. 2, R. Paribeni *Le Terme di Diocleziano e Il Museo Nazionale Romano*⁴ Roma 1922 p. 217 no. 546). The lower border of the relief bears an archaizing inscription, which G. Kaibel in Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 990 transcribes [ὁ δὲῖνα ...] πους καθ' ὕπνον ἀνέθηκα Διὲι Ξένιω ... (facsimile in W. Helbig *Führer durch die öffentlichen Sammlungen klassischer Altertümer in Rom*³ Leipzig 1913 ii. 173 ff. no. 1405 fig. 38).

⁴ Hesych. 'Ἀράντισιν (Musurus cj. ἀραντίσω): Ἐρινύσι. Μακεδόνες. See O. Crusius in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 470, ii. 1165, K. Tümpel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 379, O. Hoffmann Die Makedonen, ihre Sprache und ihr Volkstum Göttingen 1906 p. 95 f.

⁵ Supra p. 1099 n. 2.

⁶ A. Rapp in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1328.

⁷ This can be best made out in the case of the Erinyes. The following sequence of extracts attests their increasing subordination to Zeus: Il. 19. 86 ff. ἐγὼ δ' οὐκ αἰτίος εἰμι, | ἀλλὰ Ζεὺς καὶ Μοῖρα καὶ ἡεροφῶτις Ἐρινύς, | οἳ τέ μοι εἰν ἀγορῇ φρεσὶν ἔμβαλον ἀγχιον ἄτην | κ.τ.λ. (see further E. Hedén Homeric Götterstudien Uppsala 1912 p. 134 f.), Aisch. Ag. 55 ff. ὕπατος δ' ἄλων ἢ τις Ἀπόλλων | ἢ Πᾶν ἢ Ζεὺς... | ὕστερόποιον | πέμπει παραβάσιν Ἐρινύν, 744 ff. παρακλίνας' ἐπέκρανεν | δὲ γάμον πικρὰς τελευτάς, | δύσεδος καὶ δυσόμιλος | σμύμενα Πριαμίδασι, | πομπᾷ Διὸς ξένου | νυμφόκλαντος Ἐρινύς (see W. Kausch 'Mythologumena Aeschylea' in the Dissertationes philologicae Halenses Halis Saxonum 1888 ix. 182 f.), Verg. Aen. 12. 849 ff. haec (sc. the three Furies) Iovis ad solium saevique in limine regis | apparent, ac uentque metum mortalibus aegris, | si quando letum horrificum morbosque deum rex | molitur, meritas aut bello territat urbes. | harum unam celerem demisit ab aethere summo | Iupiter, etc., Val. Flacc. 4. 74 f. gravis orantem procul arce Erinys, | respiciens celsi legem Iovis.

⁸ Supra p. 1099 n. 0. Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1116 n. 9 cites as a doubtful analogue Hesych. Ζητήρ: Ζεὺς(ς) ἐν Κύπρῳ = Favorin. lex. p. 828, 36 f. F. Guyet in J. Alberti's note on Hesych. loc. cit. says: 'An Ζητήρ a ζῶν, unde Ζᾶν, Ζῆν, & Ζεὺς, a ζέω.' This derivation would have satisfied the Greeks themselves (supra i. 11 n. 5, 31 n. 3), and in Kyros a Zeus Ζητήρ might have been regarded as a Grecised equivalent of the Semitic θεὸς ζῶν (W. W. Baudissin Adonis und Esmun Leipzig 1911 pp. 450—510 'Jahwe der lebendige Gott'). But it is far more probable that Ζητήρ means 'Avenger' and is related to ζῆ-μα, ζῆ-τρος, κ.τ.λ. (on which see A. Vaniček Griechisch-lateinisches etymologisches Wörterbuch Leipzig 1877 i. 756, Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 168, Boisacq Dict. etym. de la Langue Gr. p. 309). Supra p. 444 n. 7.

His Roman equivalent was Iupiter Ultor. Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 9239 (a dedication found at Clunia in Spain) Iovi Aug. | Ultori sacrum | L. Valerius Paternus | mil. leg. x Gem. | optio 7 Censoris exs | voto perhaps has reference to the death of Nero. Pertinax at the last besought Iupiter Ultor to avenge his assassination (Iul. Capit. v. Pert. 11. 10). Donitian, Septimius Severus, Alexander Sevērus, Papienus, and Gallienus issued coins with the legend IOVI VLTORI (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 902 ff., Suppl. iii. 158 f., Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 486 fig.). I figure a 'first brass' of Alexander Severus in my collection (fig. 940) and a medallion struck in two bronzes by the same emperor, 224 A.D. (F. Gnechchi in the Rivista italiana di numismatica 1888 i. 286 no. 12 pl. 8, 7 (=my fig. 941) rev.: IOVI VLTORI P.M. TR. P. III. and COS. P. Hexastyle temple with triumphal chariot and statues as akrotéria; statuary

Very different is the explanation propounded by Monsieur S. Reinach in an able and persuasive paper already noticed¹. The altar of Zeus Meiltchios, at which the Phthalidai purified Theseus², was not far from the spot called Hierà Syké, the 'Sacred Fig-tree,' where Demeter first revealed to Phyalos the fruit of the fig³. It is, therefore, tempting to surmise that Theseus was purified 'avec du suc des figuiers sacrés (?)'⁴ and that Meiltchios meant originally the 'god of Figs' (meiicha)⁵. Whether we accept Monsieur Reinach's further contention that the word sykophántes meant the hierophant of this fig-cult⁶, or not, we must admit that the contiguity of a place named the 'Sacred Fig-tree' affords strong support to his derivation of Meiltchios. Moreover, Zeus Meiltchios was, according to the myth, a purificatory power, and another purifying Zeus bore the title Sykásios, which presumably denotes the 'god of Fig-gathering' (sykázzein)⁷. The case for a local fig-cult might indeed be made even stronger. When Plouton carried off Kore, he was said to have descended into the earth beside the Eleusinian Kephisos at a point known as Erineós, the 'Wild Fig-tree.'⁸ Again, Sir James Frazer thinks that the site of the ancient altar dedicated also in pediment. Within the temple sits Iupiter Ullor with thunderbolt and sceptre.

Fig. 940.

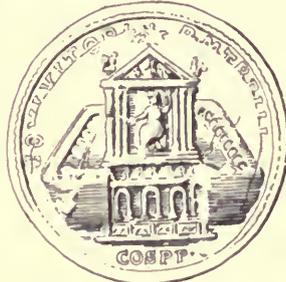

Fig. 941.

Round the temple is a large porticus with eight arches a side, and three arched entrances surmounted by statues).

¹ Supra p. 291 n. 2.

² Supra p. 1091 f.

³ Supra p. 1092 n. 6. Cp. Plout. symp. 7. 4. 4, Athen. 74 D, Philostr. v. soph. 2. 20, Hesych. s.v. λερά, Phot. lex. s.v. λερά συκή, et. mag. p. 469, 17, Eustath. in Od. p. 1964, 12 f.

⁴ On figs as a means of purification see Boetticher Baumkultus p. 437 f., J. Töpffer Attische Genealogie Berlin 1889 pp. 249 f., 252, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 910, F. Olck in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 2148 f.

⁵ Supra p. 1092.

⁶ Supra p. 291 n. 2.

⁷ Eustath. in Od. p. 1572, 58 f. λέγεται δὲ καὶ Συκάσιος Zeus παρὰ τοῖς παλαιοῖς, ὁ Καθάρισιος. τῇ γὰρ συκῇ ἐχρῶντο φασὶν ἐν καθαρμοῖς, Hesych. Διὶ Συκασίῳ (so Musurus for δῖαυκασίῳ cod.): παραπεποιήται παρὰ τὸ συκοφαντεῖν. From these two passages it may be inferred that there was a cult of Zeus Συκάσιος with cathartic rites, and that some comedian had used the phrase Διὶ Συκασίῳ with a sly reference to συκάζειν in the sense of συκοφαντεῖν or worse (Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. vii. 1014 A).

⁸ Paus. i. 38. 5, cp. Plat. Theaet. 143 B.

When Zeus was pursuing a Titan named Sykeas or Sykeus, Ge rescued her son by sending up a fig-tree to shelter him: the scene was laid at Sykea in Kilikia (Athen. 78 A—B *περὶ δὲ τῆς προσηγορίας τῶν σύκων λέγων Τρύφων ἐν δευτέρῳ φυτῶν ἱστορίας Δωριανά φησιν ἐν Γεωργικῷ ἱστορεῖν Συκέαν, ἕνα τινὰ τῶν Τιτάνων, διωκόμενον ὑπὸ Διὸς τὴν μητέρα Γῆν ὑποδέξασθαι καὶ ἀνεῖναι τὸ φυτὸν εἰς διατριβὴν τῷ παιδί, ἀφ' οὗ καὶ Συκέαν πῶδιν εἶναι ἐν Κιλικίᾳ, Steph. Byz. s.v. Συκαί, Eustath. in Od. p. 1764, 13 ff.). Kreuzer in* to Zeus Meilichios may now be covered by the church of Saint Sabas¹. If so², it is a mere coincidence that this Greek martyr, whose festival falls on the first of May, was said to have been hung by his hands upon a fig-tree³?

There is, it would seem, much to be said in favour of both these views—that which regards Zeus Meilichios as a god 'Kindly' towards the fugitive man-slayer and that which takes him to have been originally a 'god of Figs.' Nevertheless I find myself unable to adopt either opinion; for both alike are based on the circumstances of one particular cult-centre without regard to the other localities in which Zeus Meilichios is known to have been worshipped. Our survey must be wider before we can safely venture on an interpretation of the disputed appellative.

(3) Zeus Meilichios on the Attic coast.

Between the harbours of Zea and Mounichia the Attic coastline shows various groups of rock-cut niches⁴. At one point⁵, four hundred metres in a north-westerly direction from the island of Stalida, the foothill displays a grotto and beside it a recess, originally lined with red stucco and still framed by pilasters and an architrave with palmettes above it. The decoration appears to date from the fourth century B.C. Some ninety metres further towards the west other niches of different shapes and sizes are to be seen carved in an old quarry-face⁶. To judge from votive reliefs found in the vicinity, the whole site was once sacred to Zeus Meilichios and to a kindred deity Zeus *Phlios*⁷. Agathe Tyche, regarded Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1617 connects this myth with the belief that the fig-tree was lightning-proof (Plout. symp. 4. 2. 1, 5. 9, Lyd. de mens. 3. 52 p. 49, 22 Bekker = ib. 4. 96 p. 111, 3 f. Bekker = p. 181, 18 f. Wünsch, 4. 4 p. 69, 1 Wünsch, de ostent. 45 p. 98, 15 ff. Wachsmuth, Theophanes Nonnos építome de curatione morborum 259, Geopon. 11. 2. 7, cp. Plin. nat. hist. 15. 77: see Rohde *Psyche*³ ii. 406 f., Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 785 n. 6, F. Olck in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 2145, and especially T. H. Martin La foudre l'électricité et le magnétisme chez les anciens Paris 1866 p. 194 f.).

¹ Frazer Pausanias ii. 493.

² F. Lenormant Monographie de la Voie Sacrée Éleusinienne Paris 1864 p. 312 accepts the view of F. C. H. Kruse Hellas Leipzig 1826 ii. 1. 173 that the site of the altar is marked by the little church of St Blasios (Sir W. Gell The Itinerary of Greece London 1819 p. 31).

³ Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Maii i. 46 (De Sancto Saba, martyre apud Græcos.) Antiqua MSS. Menæa, quæ Divisione apud Petrum Franciscum Societatis Iesu asseruari reperimus anno MDCLXII, referunt hisce Kalendis Maji S. Sabam, in fico digitis suis appensum, & sic gloriosa vita functum, & addunt hoc distichon.

"Ἦνεγκε καρπὸν πρωΐμένης συκῆς

[lege "Ἦνεγκε καρπὸν πρωΐμης συκῆς κλάδος

Κλάδος τὸν χειροδέμοις ἐκκρεμαμένον

Τὸν χειροδέμοις ἐκκρεμαμένον (sic) Σάβαν.]

Σάβαν.

Attulit fructum præmaturæ ficus

Ramus, suspensum è digitis vinctis Saban.

M. and W. Drake Saints and their Emblems London 1916 p. 113 confuse this St Sabas with St Sabas the Gothic martyr (April 12), who suffered under Athanaricus in 372 A.D. (G. T. Stokes in Smith—Wace Dict. Chr. Biogr. iv. 566).

⁴ A. Milchhöfer in E. Curtius—J. A. Kaupert Karten von Attika Berlin 1881 Erläuterender Text Heft 1 p. 60 f., C. Wachsmuth Die Stadt Athen im Alterthum Leipzig 1890 ii. 1. 146 ff., A. Furtwängler in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 p. 406 ff., W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 383.

⁵ E. Curtius and J. A. Kaupert Atlas von Athen Berlin 1878 p. 35 pl. 12, 1.

⁶ E. Curtius and J. A. Kaupert op. cit. p. 35 pl. 12, 2.

⁷ Infra Append. N med.

as consort of the latter¹, had a separate precinct near by², as had also on a larger scale Asklepios³.

Zeus Meilichios was sometimes represented as a kingly figure enthroned. A fourth-century relief of white stone, found near the Tsocha theatre in the Peiraieus and now in the National Museum at Athens, shows him approached by three devotees (fig. 942)⁴. Within an architectural framework the god is seated towards the right on a throne, the arm of which is adorned with the usual sphinx and ram's-head (?)⁵. Clad in a himation only, he holds a sceptre in one hand, a phiale in the other. Before him is a rectangular altar. From the right draws near a simple family-group of man⁶, woman, and child, with gestures of greeting. Above, on the architrave, is the dedication:

'Aristarche, to Zeus *Meilichios*⁷.'

A second relief from the same find-spot adds more to our knowledge of the god (fig. 943)⁸. As before, he is seen within a framework of architecture, which bears the inscription:

'—toboule, to Zeus *Milichios*⁹.'

As before, he is enthroned on the left with a phiale in his right hand¹⁰, while a group of worshippers advances towards him from the right. But this time he grasps a cornu copiae in his left hand, and they bring a pig to sacrifice at his altar. Behind the altar stands a boy with something in a shallow basket: between the man and woman is seen a grown girl supporting a deep basket on her head. The cornu copiae, one of the rarer attributes of Zeus¹¹, marks him as a sort of Plouton, able to dispense abundance. The pig, again, though its bones strewed the altar of Zeus *Lykaios*¹², was an animal commonly sacrificed to Zeus in his chthonian capacity—Zeus Bouleús at Mykonos¹³, Zeus Eubouleús at Delos¹⁴.

¹ Infra Append. N init.

² Ch. D. Tsountas in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1884 p. 169 line 44, W. Judeich op. cit. p. 383 n. 9.

³ W. Judeich op. cit. p. 388 n. 16.

⁴ Stais *Marbres et Bronzes: Athènes*² p. 245 f. no. 1431, Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 436 f. pl. 70, 4, P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 507 ff. pl. 18 (= my fig. 942), Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 117 pl. 2, a, Einzelaufnahmen no. 1246, 2 with Text v. 21 by E. Löwy, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 19 f. fig. 3, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 363 no. 1. Height 0.30^m, breadth 0.40^m.

⁵ Supra i. 407 n. 1.

⁶ Not the priest (Foucart loc. cit.), but the husband (Svoronos loc. cit.) or son (Löwy loc. cit.) of the dedicant Aristarche.

⁷ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1579 'Αριστάρχη Διὸς Μειλιχίωι. Rather: 'Αρι(σ)τάρχη κ.τ.λ.

⁸ I. Ch. Dragatses in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1886 p. 49 f. no. 1, Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 117, A. Furtwängler in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 p. 408, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 21 f. fig. 6. My illustration is from a photograph kindly placed at my disposal by Miss Harrison. Height 0.36^m, breadth 0.24^m. Traces of colouring persist on Zeus and his horn (red, yellow), etc.

⁹ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1579b —τοβούλη Διὸς Μειλιχίωι. Miss Harrison loc. cit. after Dragatses prints [Κριτο]βόλη Διὸς Μειλιχίωι. But this is inexact. The name of the dedicant should be longer, perhaps ['Αρισ]τοβούλη (F. Bechtel Die Attischen Frauennamen Göttingen 1902 pp. 6, 9); and the name of the god has no ε.

¹⁰ I. Ch. Dragatses loc. cit. says τὴν μὲν δεξιὰν ἐπὶ τῶν μηρῶν ἀναπαύοντα—another inexactitude.

¹¹ Supra i. 361, 501 f., 598 n. 1.

¹² Supra i. 82.

¹³ Supra i. 668, 717 n. 3.

¹⁴ Supra i. 669 n. 2, 717 n. 3.

The abundance vouchsafed by Zeus Meilichios and the pig provided by his worshippers are alike illustrated by a passage in Xenophon's *Anabasis*¹:

'Next they sailed across to Lampsakos, where Xenophon was met by a seer

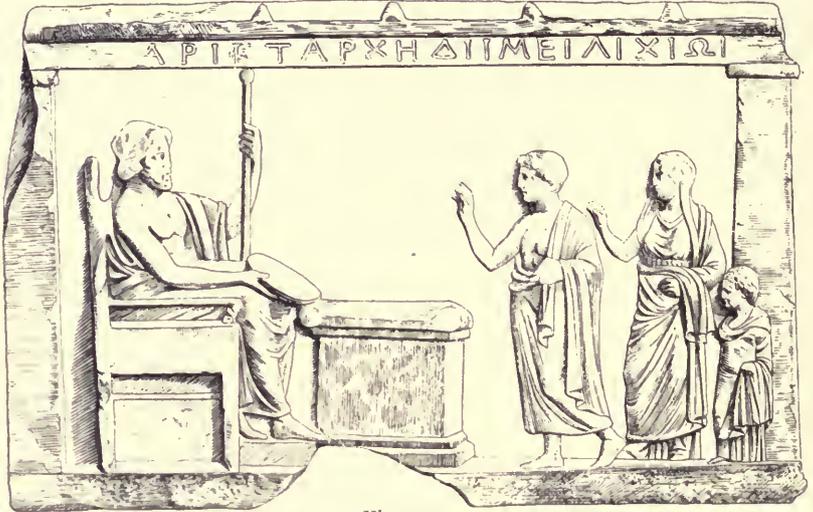

Fig. 942.

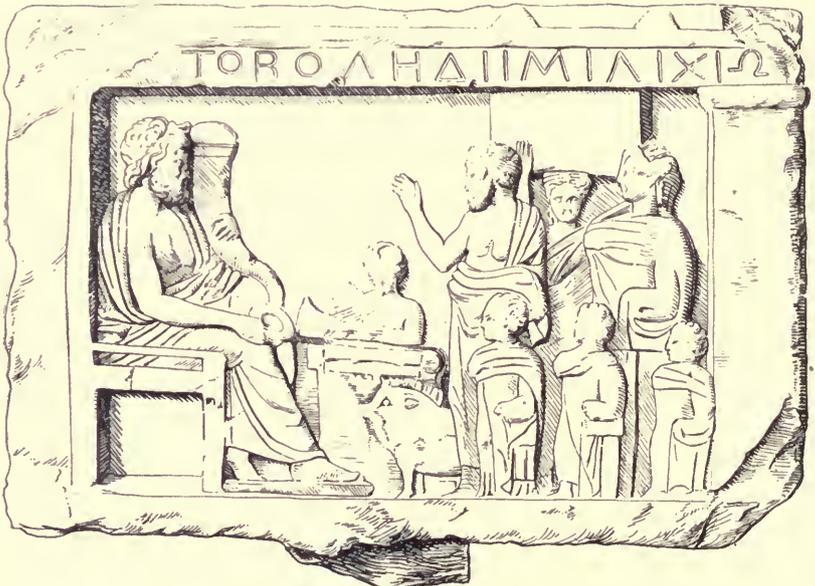

Fig. 943.

from Phlious, Eukleides son of Kleagoras. Kleagoras was the man who painted the frescoes in the Lykeion. This Eukleides congratulated Xenophon on his escape and asked him how much money he had. Xenophon told him on oath that he would not even have enough to take him home, unless he sold his horse and personal belongings. Eukleides did not believe him. But when the men of Lampsakos sent gifts by way of welcome to Xenophon and he offered sacrifice to Apollon, he bade Eukleides stand beside him. And he on seeing the victims said that he believed in Xenophon's lack of funds. "But I know," he added, "that even if funds are ever forthcoming there is some hindrance in your way—yourself, if nothing else." To this Xenophon agreed. "The fact is," said Eukleides, "Zeus Meilichios is hindering you." And he went on to ask if Xenophon had already sacrificed to that deity "as I," said he, "used at home to have sacrifice made and to present whole burnt-offerings on your behalf." Xenophon replied that since leaving home he had not sacrificed to this god. So Eukleides counselled him to have sacrifice made to the god in his usual manner and declared that things would improve. Next day Xenophon advanced to Ophrynon: there he had sacrifice made and presented whole burnt-offerings of pigs in accordance with his ancestral custom, and the omens were favourable¹. That very day Bion and Nausikleides arrived with money for the troops. They were entertained by Xenophon and, as to the horse which he had sold at Lampsakos for fifty darics, hearing that it was a favourite mount and suspecting that he had parted with it through poverty, they bought the animal back again and handed it over to its master, refusing to take the purchase-money from him.¹

¹ Xen. an. 7. 8. 1-6.

That the god who thus sent wealth in return for whole burnt-offerings of pigs was in fact an Underworld power appears further from other votive reliefs, nine or more in number, found in 1878 near the north-east angle of the Munichian Gate². These show the same deity in the guise of a monstrous snake³, usually bearded (figs. 944⁴, 945⁵) and towering above his human worshippers (fig. 946)⁶. P. Foucart, to whom we are indebted for the first collection and discussion of these reliefs, pointed out that in no case is the name of the dedicator accompanied by that of his deme. It follows that the worshippers were strangers, resident

¹ ἐθέτο καὶ ὠλοκαῦτε χοίρους τῷ πατρίῳ (πατρίῳ cod. Eton. etc. followed by Bornemann) νόμῳ, καὶ ἐκαλλιέρι (Xen. an. 7. 8. 5).

² P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 507 ff. draws up the list.

³ On the chthonian character of the snake see supra pp. 1060, 1061.

⁴ Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 270 no. 722 with fig., R. Kekulé von Stradonitz *Die griechische Skulptur*² Berlin 1907 p. 202, P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 509 no. 6, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 17 f. fig. 1 a stèle of Hymettian marble inscribed in lettering of s. iv. B.C. — — Διὶ Μειλιχίῳ (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1581). Height 0.58^m, breadth 0.31^m. I am again indebted to Miss Harrison for the photograph from which my fig. 944 is drawn.

P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 509 no. 7 describes a relief in the Louvre representing a snake reared upright, with the inscription Ἀσκληπιάδης | Ἀσκληπιοδώρου | Διὶ Μειλιχίῳ (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1580).

⁵ Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 438 pl. 70, 3 (= my fig. 945), P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 510 no. 8 with fig., id. in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1700 f. fig. 4892, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 20 fig. 4 a relief inscribed in lettering of s. iv. B.C. Ἡρακλείδης τῷ θεῷ (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1583). Height 0.33^m, breadth 0.19^m. J. N. Svoronos loc. cit. notes that τῷ θεῷ might mean either Διὶ Μειλιχίῳ or Ἀσκληπιῷ (id. in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1901 iv. 503—507).

⁶ Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 271 no. 723 with fig., R. Kekulé von Stradonitz *Die griechische Skulptur*² Berlin 1907 p. 202, P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 509 no. 5, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² pp. 17, 19 fig. 2, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 31 no. 4 a stèle of Hymettian marble without inscription. My fig. 946 is from a transparency in the collection of Newnham College, Cambridge. Height 0.42^m, breadth 0.23^m to 0.25^m. The gigantic snake approached by a woman and two men might, again, be either Zeus Meilichios or Asklepios.

aliens, freedmen, or slaves. And Foucart suggests¹ that they formed a thiasos of Phoenician settlers, who had brought with them to the crowded port of Athens Ba'al Milik or Melek or Molok, their own 'Lord King':² Ba'al they translated as Zeus and Milik they transliterated as Milichios.³ This view has commended

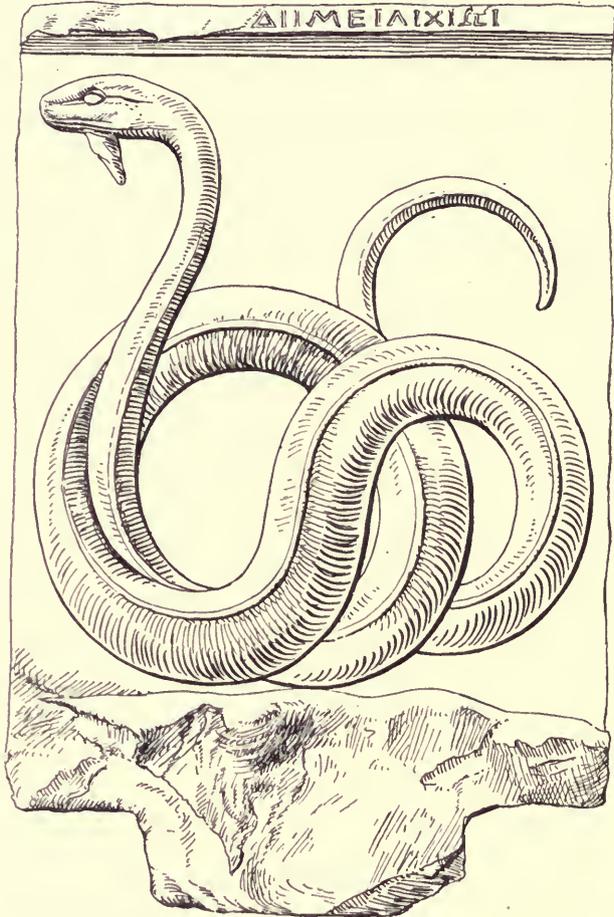

Fig. 944.

¹ P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 511 ff., id. in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1700 f.

² On the problematic Malakba'al- or Melekba'al-stélai see E. Meyer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 2871, ii. 3107, and on Moloch in general E. Meyer and A. Jeremias ib. ii. 3106 ff., F. X. Kortleitner De polytheismo universo Oeniponte 1908 pp. 216—227. My friend and colleague the Rev. Prof. R. H. Kennett has suggested 'that Moloch, to whom first-born children were burnt by their parents in the valley of Hinnom, ... may have been originally the human king regarded as an incarnate deity': for this important hypothesis see Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Adonis Attis Osiris³ ii. 219 ff. ('Moloch the King').

³ Cp. P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1883 vii. 513 n. 4: 'M. Renan avait fait remarquer que la forme la plus vraisemblable est Milik, que la leçon Δία Μιλίχιον se rencontre dans plusieurs des manuscrits d'Eusèbe où est traduit un passage de Sanchoniaton sur le dieu phénicien [Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 12 Δία Μειλχιον. G. H. A. Ewald in W. W. Baudissin Studien zur semitischen Religionsgeschichte Leipzig 1876 i. 15 took Μειλχιος here to be a Grecised form of the Semitic word for 'sailor,' and Baudissin himself ib. p. 36 n. 2 says: 'Insofern der oben S. 15 erwähnte Μειλχιος "der Schiffer" die Bezeichnung Zeus

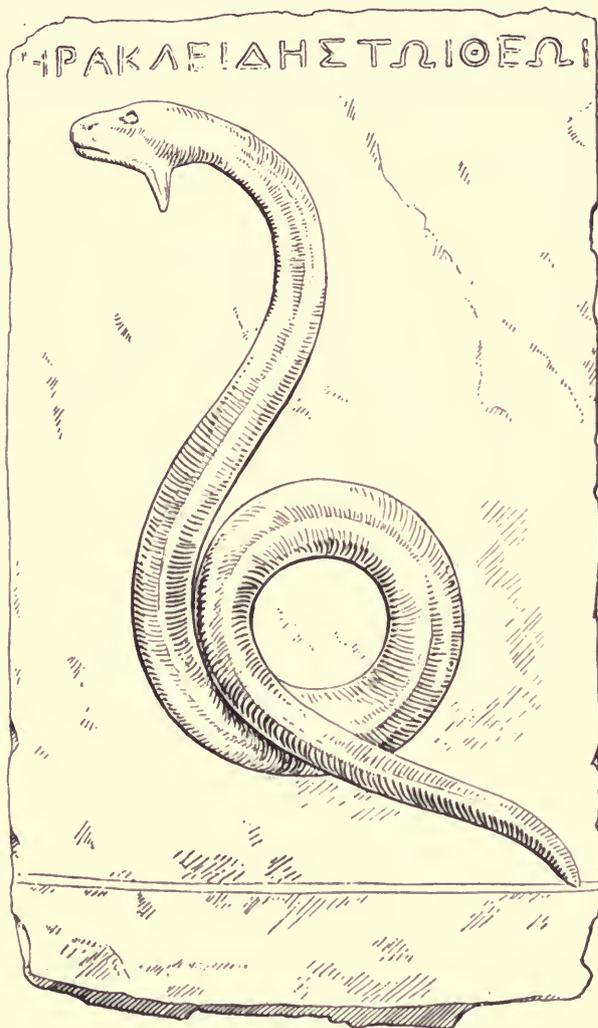

Fig. 945.

erhält, haben wir eine Gottheit in diesem Namen zu suchen, die kaum eine andere als Melkart sein kann (s.m. Jahve et Moloch S. 28 f.). Μελεκέρτης, dessen Name sicher das phöniciſche Melkart ist, gilt bei den Griechen als Meergottheit...’ Cp. Gruppe Cult. Myth. orient. Rel. i. 398, Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 908 n. 3. À propos of the Semitic word for ‘sailor’ my friend Mr N. McLean writes to me (April 10, 1917): ‘The word occurs in the form mallāh in Hebrew, Aramaic, & Arabic. Arabic borrowed it from Aramaic; & it is said to itself to sundry scholars including M. Clerc¹, H. Lewy², M. Mayer³, O. Höfer⁴, W. Prellwitz⁵, and in a modified form to S. Reinach⁶. But Miss Harrison in-

Fig. 946.

have come to Hebrew & Aramaic as a loanword from Assyrian, where the form is Malaḥu.⁷ The last statement is further guaranteed by the Rev. C. H. W. Johns (April 11, 1917)], qu'enfin Silius Italicus (III, 104 [103 ff. lascivo genitus Satyro nymphaque Myrice | Milichus indigenis late regnarat in oris | cornigeram attollens genitoris imagine frontem]) cite Milichus comme un dieu punique (Mémoires de l'Académie des Inscriptions, t. 23, p. 267). L'orthographe constante [?] des bas-reliefs du Pirée vient confirmer cette opinion.⁸ F. C. Movers Die Phönizier Berlin 1841 i. 326 f. had already connected the words Μελιχιος, Milichus, and Melech.

¹ M. Clerc Les métèques athéniens (Bibliothèque des écoles françaises d'Athènes et de Rome lxiv) Paris 1893 p. 127 ff.

² H. Lewy Die semitischen Fremdwörter im Griechischen Berlin 1895 p. 242 f.

³ M. Mayer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1521.

⁴ O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2561 : but cp. ib. p. 2562.

⁵ Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 286.

⁶ S. Reinach Chroniques d'Orient Paris 1891 p. 683 holds that in Zeus Μελιχιος we may see the fusion of an original Greek with an incoming oriental god : 'une forme grecque et une forme orientale, distinctes à l'origine, ont été confondues par le même syncrétisme qui a assimilé Héraklès à l'Hercule latin.' Similarly in the Rev. Ét. Gr. 1906 xix. 348 dicates an obvious difficulty: 'Unfortunately for this interesting theory we have no evidence that "Moloch" was ever worshipped in snake form¹.' And R. Dussaud further contends that in point of fact the Phoenicians recognised no such deity as *Milk*². We must turn a deaf ear to all Semitic Sirens and seek an explanation nearer home.

Miss Harrison herself maintains that the cult of Zeus Meilichios was a case of 'superposition.' The worship of the sky-god Zeus had ousted that of an older earth-demon Meilichios: hence the snake inappropriate to the former, but natural to the latter; hence too the euphemistic title common to many a buried hero. 'Zeus,' we are told, 'is one of the few Greek gods who never appear attended by a snake. Asklepios, Hermes, Apollo, even Demeter and Athene have their snakes, Zeus never³.' 'And the truth is nothing more or less than this. The human-shaped Zeus has slipped himself quietly into the place of the old snake-god.... It is not that Zeus the Olympian has "an underworld aspect"; it is the cruder fact that he of the upper air, of the thunder and lightning, extrudes an ancient serpent-demon of the lower world, Meilichios. Meilichios is no foreign Moloch, he is home-grown, autochthonous before the formulation of Zeus⁴.' 'When we come to the discussion of hero-worship, it will be seen that all over Greece the dead hero was worshipped in snake form and addressed by euphemistic titles akin to that of *Meilichios*⁵.' That Miss Harrison's shaft has hit the target and indeed gone near to piercing the bull's-eye, I shall not deny. The snake-form and euphemistic title of Zeus Meilichios are rightly explained as the appanage of a chthonian power resembling the divinised dead. But why need we make the rather unlikely assumption that a sky-cult has been superposed on an earth-cult? Because—says Miss Harrison—Zeus never has a snake as his attribute. That, surely, is a misleading statement. I have already adduced much evidence connecting both the Thraco-Phrygian Zeus⁶ and the Graeco-Libyan Zeus⁷ with the snake. To recall but a single case: the coinage of Dion in Makedonia shows Zeus standing with a snake at his side⁸. Should we not rather conclude that the (id. Cultes, Mythes et Religions Paris 1908 iii. 104): 'C'est plus tard seulement...qu'on l'identifia, par exemple au Pirée, à quelque baal-melek phénicien.' Cp. Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 18 n. 1: 'The possibility of a contaminatio between the Phœnician Baal and Zeus Meilichios cannot be lightly dismissed. For a discussion of the subject see especially Clermont-Ganneau, Le dieu Satrape, p. 65, on the river Meilichos at Patrae, and Langrange, Études sur les Religions Sémitiques, p. 105.'

¹ Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 18. Not but what there is ample evidence of serpent-worship among the Semites: see e.g. S. Bochart Hierozoicon rec. E. F. C. Rosenmüller Lipsiae 1796 iii. 125—250, F. X. Kortleitner De polytheismo universo Oeniponte 1908 pp. 191 ff., 323 f., J. Skinner on Gen. 3. 1 ff., R. H. Kennett 'Ark' in J. Hastings Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics Edinburgh 1908 i. 791—793. The sanctity of the serpent in Phoinike (Philon Bybl. frag. 9 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 572 f. Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 10. 46 ff.) may in part account for its frequency as a motif in Phœnician art (e.g. Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art iii. 658, with fig. on p. 628, 759 fig. 543, 833 fig. 597, F. Poulsen Der Orient und die frühgriechische Kunst Leipzig—Berlin 1912 p. 193 Index s.vv. 'Schlangen, Schlangenkopf,' E. Küster Die Schlange in der griechischen Kunst und Religion Giessen 1913 p. 48).

² R. Dussaud 'Milk, Moloch, Melqart' in the Revue de l'histoire des religions 1904 xlix. 163—168, Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 643.

³ Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 18 f.

⁴ Ead. op. cit. p. 19.

⁵ Ead. op. cit. p. 20 f.

⁶ Supra i. 392 ff., 428.

⁷ Supra i. 358 ff., 428.

⁸ Supra i. 102 n. 4, 113 fig. 84.

local king, revered during his life-time as Zeus incarnate, was after his death worshipped as an anguiform soul under the euphemistic appellation of Zeus 'the Kindly One'? On this showing Zeus Meilichios falls into line with a whole string of deities already discussed—Zeus *Ktésios*¹, Zeus *Agaménnon*², Zeus *Amphí-áraos*³, Zeus *Trophónios*⁴, Zeus *Asklepiós*⁵. Moreover, from the new standpoint the circumstances of the cult on the Kephisos are readily intelligible. The head of a clan, dead and buried, would be just the personage required on the one hand to purify a man from the stain of kindred bloodshed, on the other to promote the fertility of the fig-trees. His title Meilichios, 'the Kindly One'⁶,—originally a euphemistic name⁷—would lend itself equally well to two false inter-

¹ Append. H.

² Append. I.

³ Append. J.

⁴ Append. K.

⁵ Append. L.

⁶ E. Maass De Aeschylí Supplicibus commentatio Gryphiswaldiae 1890 p. xxxvii n. 4 says: 'Juppiter Μελισσαίος (Hesych. s.v. [Μελισσαίος· ὁ Ζεὺς]) a μέλισσα abstracto (= ἡπίοτης) videtur derivatus, ut sit idem ac μελιχίος.' But Zeus Μελισσαίος presumably means Zeus 'of the Bees' (cp. Nik. ther. 611). Whether the allusion is to the infant Zeus of Crete nurtured by bees (supra i. 150, ii. 928 f. n. 0, 932 f. n. 1) or to Aristaios the bee-keeper worshipped as Zeus in Arkadia (supra i. 372 n. 7) or to some unidentified cult, we cannot say.

Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 908 f.: 'Das gewöhnlichste Mittel, die Geister zu versöhnen, ist die Bewirtung mit Honig; wahrscheinlich nach ihm heisst das Entsühnen μειλισσειν. Nach der besänftigenden Honigspende sind wahrscheinlich Zeus und Dionysos Meilichios genannt worden.' But, as Gruppe himself is aware (op. cit. p. 908 n. 2 f.), the connexion of μειλισσειν with μέλι is very doubtful: see now Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. pp. 620, 624.

⁷ Euphemism is and always has been a vera causa in popular life. I once stayed at Lavancher, a village near the Mer de Glace: the little inn, which had languished under the name L'hôtel du Mauvais Pas, was doing well as L'hôtel Beau-Séjour! Similarly with Greek and Latin place-names: the Ἀξενος became the Εἰξενος (Strab. 298 f., Ov. trist. 4. 4. 55 ff., Mela 1. 102, Plin. nat. hist. 4. 76, 6. 1, Solin. 23. 16, Isid. orig. 13. 16. 7), Maleventum was improved into Beneventum (Liv. 9. 27, Plin. nat. hist. 3. 105, Fest. p. 340 b 7 f. Müller, p. 458, 35 f. Lindsay, Paul. ex Fest. p. 34 Müller, p. 31, 17 ff. Lindsay, Steph. Byz. s.v. Βεβεβεντός, Prokop. de bell. Goth. 1. 15); it was even supposed that Epidamnus had been changed into Dyrrhachium (Mela 2. 56, Plin. nat. hist. 3. 145, Fest. p. 340 b 9 Müller, p. 458, 37 Lindsay) and Egesta into Segesta (Fest. p. 340 b 3 ff. Müller, p. 458, 31 ff. Lindsay) for the sake of avoiding an evil omen. Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Taboo p. 392 ff. collects many examples of euphemistic substitutes for common words, which for one reason or another were taboo. He might have added to his store from Greek usage. When the ancient Greek spoke of his 'left hand' as ἀριστερά or εὐώνυμος, of 'night' as εὐφρόνη, of 'death' as εἰ τι πάθεις, of 'the dead' as οἱ πλεῖστες (see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2560 f.), when the modern Greek calls the small-pox Συγχωρημένη, the 'Gracious One,' or Εὐλογία, the 'Blessing' (G. F. Abbott Macedonian Folklore Cambridge 1903 p. 236), and the Devil himself ὁ καλὸς ἄνθρωπος, 'the Good man,' or ὁ κατάκαλος, 'the Beloved' (B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 176), these complimentary phrases are best explained as due to downright euphemism. Cp. Eustath. in Od. p. 1398, 50 ff., et. mag. p. 144, 20 ff. Further instances are adduced by writers on rhetoric to illustrate the trope antíphrasis: see Anonymos περὶ τρόπων 14 (C. Walz Rhetores Graeci Stuttgartiae et Tubingae 1835 viii. 722, 10 f.), Tryphon περὶ τρόπων 15 (Walz op. cit. viii. 755, 11 ff.), Gregorios of Corinth περὶ τρόπων 18 (Walz op. cit. viii. 773, 20 ff.), Kokondrios περὶ τρόπων 6 (Walz op. cit. viii. 785, 27 ff.), Choïroboskos περὶ τρόπων 13 (Walz op. cit. viii. 812, 11 ff.). An example will serve: Helladios ap. Phot. bibl. p. 535 a 4 ff. Bekker ὅτι τὸ μὴ λέγειν δύσφημα πᾶσι τοῖς παλαιοῖς μὲν φροντὶς ἦν, μάλιστα δὲ τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις. διὸ καὶ τὸ θεσμοπῆριον οἴκημα ἐκάλον, καὶ τὸν δῆμον κοινόν [a euphemism for a euphemism!], τὰς δὲ Ἐρινύας Εὐμενίδας ἢ σεμνὰς θεάς, τὸ δὲ μύσος ἄγος, τὸ δὲ ὄξος μέλι καὶ τὴν χολῆν γλυκείαν, τὸν δὲ βόρβορον ὄχετόν. οἱ δὲ γραμματικοὶ τὰ τοιαῦτα κατὰ ἀντίφρασιν ὀνομάζουσιν. οἶδα δὲ τίνας, φησί, τῶν φιλολόγων καὶ τὸν πῆθρον ὀνομάζοντες καλλίαν.

Confining our attention to the titles of Greek divinities, we note the following cases:—

(1) The Erinyes were known as Ἀβλαβλαί (Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 600, b 67, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 839, B 18 Erythrai in the first half of s. iii B.C.), Εὐμειδῆς, Σεμναί.

(2) Hades was Ἀγήσανδρος (Hesych. s.v., Favorin. lex. p. 18, 22), Ἀγησίλαος (Aisch. frag. 406 Nauck² ap. Athen. 99 B, cp. Hesych. s.v. Ἀγεσίλαος (so Musurus for ἄγες, λαὸς cod.)=Favorin. lex. p. 17, 7 f., Kallim. lavacr. Pall. 130 Ἀγεσίλα cited by et. mag. p. 8, 32 f. as Ἀγεσιλάω, Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 195. 2=Cougny Anth. Append. 2. 551. 2 ἐπ' Ἀγεσίλας for the meaningless inscr. ΕΠΑΓΕΣΙΜΗ, Laeth. div. inst. 1. 11 Plutoni, cui cognomen Agesilao (v.l. Agelasto) fuit. So Nik. frag. 74, 72 ap. Athen. 684 D Ἠγεσιλάου, Anth. Pal. 7. 545. 4 (Hegesippos) ἠγησιλεω...Ἰαίδος, Εὐβουλεύς (supra p. 118 n. 4), Εὐειδῆς (Hesych. s.v. Εὐκλήης cited supra p. 118 n. 3), Εὐκλήης (supra p. 118 n. 3), Εὐχάτης (J. Franz in the Ann. d. Inst. 1842 xiv. 136 ff. no. 1, 24 an oracle of Klaros, s. ii A.D., found at Kallipolis on the Thracian Chersonese: see Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 1034. 23, W. H. Roscher in his Lex. Myth. i. 1397, K. Buresch Klaros Leipzig 1889 p. 81 ff., H. von Prott in the Ath. Mittl. 1899 xxiv. 257 f., O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 880, and C. Picard Épipse et Klaros Paris 1922 pp. 212, 389, 673, 694, 696 (following Buresch)), Ἰσοδαίτης (Hesych. s.v.: see further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 551 f., Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 804 n. 7, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 1430 n. 1, 1432 n. 2, 1557 n. 3, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² pp. 440, 481 n. 1, Themis p. 157), Κλύμενος (C. Scherer in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 1783, R. Engelmann, W. H. Roscher, and W. Drexler ib. ii. 1228 f.), Πασιάναξ (on Megarian (?) imprecatory tablets of lead published by E. Ziebarth 'Neue attische Fluchtafeln' in the Nachr. d. kön. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Göttingen Phil.-hist. Classe 1899 p. 120 no. 21, 1, 3, 7 and p. 121 no. 22, 1. O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1664 cp. the Pythian oracle quoted by Phlegon of Tralleis Olympiades seu chronica frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 603 Müller)=Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 6. 20. 5 f. ἀτιμάζοντες Ὀλύμπια πασιάνακτος | Ζηρός), Περικλύμενος (Hesych. s.v.: so Salmasius and Soping for περικλυμος cod.), Πλούτων (supra i. 503 f.), Πολύαρχος (Cornut. theol. 35 p. 74, 15 Lang), Πολυδαίμων (Orph. h. Plout. 18. 11: see Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 400 n. 2, O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2637), Πολυδέγμων (h. Dem. 17, 31, 430, Cornut. theol. 35 p. 74, 15 Lang: see further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 400 n. 2, 809 n. 1, O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2639 f.), Πολυδέκτης (h. Dem. 9 with the note of E. E. Sikes ad loc., Cornut. theol. 35 p. 74, 14 Lang: see further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 400 n. 2, 867 n. 5, H. W. Stoll and O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2640), Πολύξενος? (Kallim. frag. 478 Schneider ap. et. Flor. p. 189 Κλυμένου...πολυξένοιο. In Soph. O.C. 1569 f. ἐν πύλαισι | ...πολυξέστοις S. Musgrave restored πολυξένοιο. Cp. Aisch. suprl. 157 f. τὸν πολυξενώτατον | Ζῆνα τῶν κεκηκότων, where T. Birt would read Δία for Ζῆνα with the citation in et. Gud. p. 227, 43 διὰ (sic) and in Cramer anecd. Oxon. ii. 443, 13 Δία (sic). Again, in Aisch. frag. 228 Nauck² Ζαγρεῖ τε νῦν με καὶ πολυξένω < > | χαίρειν cited by et. Gud. p. 227, 40 f. and by Cramer anecd. Oxon. ii. 443, 10 f. Hermann supplied πατρί, Schneidewin Δίλ. See further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2561 and 2742), Πυλάοχος (Plout. de Is. et Os. 35), πυλάρης (Il. 8. 367 with schol. ad loc., 13. 415, Od. 11. 277, Mosch. 4. 86, Apollon. lex. Hom. p. 137, 25 ff., Hesych. s.v. πυλάρταο κρατεροῖο, et. mag. p. 696, 48 ff., Eustath. in Il. pp. 718, 20 f., 914, 18 f., 940, 5 f., in Od. p. 1684, 43 f., Favorin. lex. p. 1601, 28 ff.: see further Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 400 n. 1, O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 3326). Infra Append. N med.

(3) Persephone was Μελίβοια? (Lasos frag. 1 Bergk⁴ ap. Athen. 624 E Δάματρα μέλπω κόραν τε Κλυμένοι' ἄλοχον Μελίβοιαν, | ὕμνων ἀναγνῶν Αἰολῆδα | βαρύβρομον ἀρμονίαν: but E. Hiller—O. Crusius read ἄλοχον | μελιβόαν ὕμνων ἀναγνῶν | Αἰολιδ' ἀνά κ.τ.λ.), Μελιτώδης (Theokr. 15. 94 with schol. ad loc., Porph. de antr. nymph. 18. In Kokondrios περὶ τρόπων 6 (Walz op. cit. viii. 786, 8) καὶ Μελιτώνην τὴν Περσεφόνην Boissonade anecd. iii. 292 cj. μελιτώδη), Μελωδία? (Io. Malal. chron. 3 p. 62 Dindorf: Rohde *Psyche*³ i. 206 n. 2 cj. Μελινοια).

pretations. Some, narrowing its range overmuch, would see in it the description of a god specially gracious to the repentant man-slayer. Others, wrongly associating it with mellichia, 'figs,' would point in triumph to the Sacred Fig-tree of the Phytalidai.

(4) Zeus Meilichios on the Hills near Athens.

There must have been another sanctuary of Zeus Meilichios on the northern slope of the Nymphs' Hill, now crowned by the Observatory. For here two dedications to the god have come to light, one inscribed on a round pillar¹, the other on a quadrangular base². The latter associates him with Helios, possibly as being a god of fertility³.

The eastward prolongation of the Nymphs' Hill, on which stands the church of Saint Marina, had in antiquity its own cult of Zeus: a couple of rock-cut inscriptions on the southern slope mark the limits of his precinct⁴. Whether the god here also had fertilising powers, we cannot tell; but at the present day women who come to supplicate Saint Marina for children 'go through the performance of sliding down the great sloping rock in front of the church⁵.'

(4) Hekate was 'Απστη (C. Wessely Griechische Zauberpapyrus von Paris und London Wien 1888 p. 57 pap. Par. 1450 καὶ 'Απστη Χθονία), Εὐκόλνη (Kallim. frag. 82^d Schneider χαῖρ', Εὐκόλνη, ap. et. Sorbon. (cited by T. Gaisford in his note on et. mag. p. 392, 27), et. Ultraiect. (cited by D. Ruhnken epist. crit. ii. 181), et. Flor. p. 133, cp. et. mag. p. 392, 27 f., Cramer anecd. Paris. iv. 182, 23 ff., Suid. s.v. Εὐκόλνη), Καλλίστη (Hesych. s.v.), Κράταις (Ap. Rhod. 4. 829 with schol. ad loc.: see further H. W. Stoll and O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1408 f.).

(5) A daughter of Zeus by Persephone was Μελιῶνη? (so C. A. Lobeck for Μηλιῶνη in Orph. h. Melin. 71. 1).

(6) An Arcadian bear-goddess (?) was Καλλιστώ (Harrison Myth. Mon. Anc. Ath. p. 402 ff. fig. 26, R. Franz 'De Callistus fabula' in the Leipziger Studien zur classischen Philologie 1890 xii. 233—365, id. in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 931—935, Farnell Cults of Gk. States ii. 438, Frazer Pausanias iv. 191, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 194 f., 942 n. 8, alib., O. Keller Die antike Tierwelt Leipzig 1909 i. 176 f.).

(7) The bogus snake-god of Abonou Teichos was Γλυκῶν (supra Append. L p. 1083 ff.).

Such titles have a twofold aspect. Their value is at once negative and positive. On the one hand, they are substitutes for names that were taboo. 'It is especially,' says Dr Farnell (Cults of Gk. States iii. 137), 'in the cults of the powers of the lower world, in the worship of Hades and Persephone, and more especially still in the mysteries, that we discern in many Greek communities a religious dislike to pronounce the proper personal name, either because of its extreme holiness or because of its ominous associations, and to conceal it under allusive, euphemistic, or complimentary titles.' On the other hand, these titles often aim at securing by magical means the blessing that they describe: you call your god what you wish him to be, in order to make him so. See some shrewd remarks by W. R. Halliday Greek Divination London 1913 p. 33 f.: 'Here, in part (there are other elements also) lies the efficacy of Euphemism. You call the Fairies "Kindly Ones"; behind the conscious motive of putting them into a good temper, and the fear of effecting a connection with them by uttering their name, is further the comfort that you derive by persuading yourself to believe that they are kindly: the fact that you call them kindly makes them kindly.' Meilichios is a case in point.

¹ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1584 Δὲ Μελιχίωι | Ξωπρωτων.

² Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1585 Ἑλλωι καὶ Δὲ Μελι[χίωι] | Μαμμλα.

³ Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen pp. 421 n. 4, 424.

⁴ Corp. inscr. Att. i no. 504 ΣΟΙΔ:ΣΟΦΟΗ and a little lower down no. 505 ΗΟΡΟΣ.

⁵ Miss M. Hamilton Greek Saints and their Festivals Edinburgh and London 1910 p. 58 f. Cp. supra i. 563 n. 4.

At Alopeke (Angelokepoi, Ampelokepoi) near Mount Lykabettos¹ Zeus again appears to have borne a chthonian character. A roughly squared block of Pentelic marble, found in an ancient well of this locality, has the upper part of its front face engraved as follows² in lettering of the late fifth century B.C.:

ΗΙ ΕΡΟΝ :	Sanctuary
ΔΙΟΣ:ΜΙ	of Zeus Mi-
ΛΙΧΙΟ:Α	lichios, (G)-
ΗΣ:ΑΘΗΝ	e, Athen-
ΑΙΑΣ	aia.

The grouping of the god with Ge, if not also the discovery of his boundary-stone in a well, is significant of his underground nature.

(5) Zeus Meilichios on the Ilissos.

Yet another Athenian cult seems to have connected Zeus Meilichios as a god of fertility with underground waters. In 1893 A. N. Skias, when exploring ¹ S. Reinach 'Le sanctuaire d'Athéna et de Zeus Meilichios à Athènes' in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1892 xvi. 411—417.

Fig. 947

² S. A. Koumanoudes in the Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1889 pp. 51—54 no. 1 = Corp. inscr. Att. iv. 1. 3 no. 528¹ ἱερὸν | Διὸς Μελιχίου, (Γ)ῆς, Ἀθηναίας. The reading (Γ)ῆς, here adopted by A. Kirchhoff, was suggested independently by Semitelos and Diels (O. Kern in the Ath. Mitth. 1891 xvi. 10 n. 2), and is accepted by O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2558 f., Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen pp. 421 n. 3, 424, W. Larfeld Handbuch der griechischen Epigraphik Leipzig 1898 ii. 1. 69.

the bed of the Ilissos, discovered in the two reservoirs beneath the rocky barrier of the later Kallirrhoe four slabs carved in relief. Of these slabs two were found close together in the basin¹ adjoining the chapel of Saint Photine, and with them a colossal head of Herakles wearing the lion-skin. One of the two reliefs in question (fig. 947)² shows Zeus, with a sceptre in his left hand and a phiale (?) in his right, seated on a rock (?)¹. Before him is an altar of rude stones. Beyond it stand two female worshippers, presumably mother and daughter, conceived on a smaller scale than the god himself. The moulding above bears traces of fifth-century letters, which were read by Skias as a dedication to Zeus *Naios*²: they may equally well, indeed better, be completed as a dedication to Zeus *Meilichios*³. The second relief (fig. 948)⁴ represents Zeus holding a jug in both hands as he sits on a horned and bearded head, which is inscribed in lettering of the Alexandrine age *Achelōios*⁵. Behind Zeus stands a female (?)—perhaps Kallirrhoe, daughter of Achelōios,—fronting us with a cornu copiae in her left hand and a phidie in her right. Before Zeus stand Hermes and Herakles. Hermes has a trefoil oinochōe in his right hand, the caduceus in his left. Herakles, equipped with lion-skin and club, extends his right hand with something in it (another oinochōe?) towards Zeus. To either side of the heads of Zeus and Herakles are two holes of doubtful significance.

Fig. 948.

¹ Marked B in W. Wilberg's plan of the excavations (Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1893 pl. A).

² A. N. Skias in the 'Εφ. 'Αρχ. 1894 p. 133 ff. fig., Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus.

It is not quite certain that either of these reliefs figures Zeus Meilichios. But it is probable that both do so. The former bears a general resemblance to the Meilichios-reliefs of the Peiraieus (figs. 942, 943)⁶, though it shows a more primitive type of altar and dispenses with architectural framework. The latter represents a chthonian Zeus of some sort; for it associates him closely with Achelōios⁷ and Kallirrhoe (?). Now somewhere in the immediate neighbourhood pl. 130, 2 (=my fig. 947). The dimensions of the slab, which is now preserved in the National Museum (no. 1779), are as follows: breadth 0.31^m, height 0.22^m.

¹ Cp. Svoronos op. cit. pl. 130, 3 (no. 1781), infra p. 1119 n. o.

² ΕΥΙΛΕΝΝΑΙ = [ὁ δεῖνα ἀν]έθηκεν Ναῖ[ω Δι]. The lettering is hardly later than c. 450 B.C.

³ Skias himself supposes that the god portrayed is Zeus Μειλχιος, who qua watery chthonian Zeus might—he thinks—bear the title Naios. But it is surely simpler to restore [Δι Μειλιχίωι κατ' εὐχὴν ἀν]έθηκεν Ναῖ[άς] or Nāv[νιον] or the like.

⁴ P. Kabbadias in the 'Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1893 p. 137 n. 1, A. N. Skias ib. 1894 p. 137 ff. pl. 7 (=my fig. 948), Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. pl. 131 (larger, but not so clear), Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 351 no. 3 (summary sketch). The slab, now in the National Museum (no. 1778), measures: greatest height 0.85^m, breadth below 0.53^m, breadth above 0.60^m, thickness of base 0.16^m, thickness of background c. 0.10^m.

⁵ ΑΧΕΛΩΙΟΣ.

⁶ Supra p. 1105 f.

⁷ A votive relief of Pentelic marble (height 0.42^m, breadth 0.49^m, thickness 0.08^m; it had originally a tenon for insertion in a mortise), found at Megara (F. Wieseler 'Ueber ein Votivrelief aus Megara' in the Abh. d. gött. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1875 xx. 6. 1—39) and now in the Berlin Museum (Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 251 f. no. 679 with fig.), is referable to the early part of s. iv. B.C. (Furtwängler Samml. Sabourroff Sculptures pl. 27=my fig. 949). On the back wall of a cavern is carved the head of Achelōios, and immediately beneath it is set a table for offerings. Ranged round the cavern we see a semicircle of divinities. Zeus in the centre is flanked by Pan (horns) and Kore (torches). Next to Pan is Demeter (?); next to Kore, Plouton (?—possibly Agathos Daimon) (phidie, cornu copiae). The reclining youth on the extreme left and the seated female figure on the extreme right are insufficiently characterised as deities (Apollon?? Aphrodite?? cp. Paus. 1. 44. 9) and more probably represent the eponymous hero Megaros and his mother, one of the nymphs called Sīthnides, who was beloved by Zeus (Paus. 1. 40. 1, cp. et. mag. p. 228, 21 ff. where the hero is called Megareus): the fact that they alone occupy the ground-level would not justify the inference that they are merely the dedicators of the ex voto.

The nearest parallel to this relief as a whole is furnished by the rock-carvings at the entrance to the marble-quarries of Paros: see J. Stuart—N. Revett The Antiquities of Athens London 1816 iv pp. ix, 34 f., ch. 6 pl. 5, Müller—Wieseler Denkm. d. alt. Kunst of the reservoirs above-mentioned must be located¹ that sanctuary of the Nymphs and Acheloius, which with its votive statuettes and images still makes a pretty picture in the pages of Platon. It will be remembered how Sokrates and Phaidros one thirsty day stretched themselves on the turf beneath a great plane-tree, cool water bubbling up at their feet, the air ringing with a chorus of cicadas, and blossoms of agnus castus perfuming the whole place². It is reasonable to suppose that the Zeus of our reliefs had a precinct adjoining this sacred spot. And the supposition squares well with sundry further considerations. To the north, and close at hand, lay the vast temple of Zeus Olympios, begun by Peisistratos, continued by Antiochos iv Epiphanes, and ended by Hadrian. Zeus indeed had been established here from time immemorial. 'They say,' writes Pausanias, 'that Deukalion built the old sanctuary of Zeus Olympios, and in proof that Deukalion dwelt at Athens they point to a grave not far from the present temple³.' If early graves were to be seen in the vicinity, we might look to find the cult of a chthonian Zeus⁴, who would be readily brought into connexion with the powers of sub-

ii. 4. 11 pl. 63, 814, A. Michaelis in the Ann. d. Inst. 1863 xxxv. 314 f., 328, Lebas—

Fig. 949.

Reinach Voyage Arch. p. 110 f. pl. 122, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 360 no. 1, Inscr. Gr. ins. v. 1 no. 245.

¹ A. N. Skias Συμβολαί εις την 'Αθηναϊκήν τοπογραφίαν pp. 13—16 (= Εστία 1894 p. 292), id. in the Πρακτ. άρχ. έτ. 1893 p. 123.

² Plat. Phaedr. 230 B—C.

³ Paus. i. 18. 8.

⁴ A. N. Skias in the Πρακτ. άρχ. έτ. 1897 p. 81 ff. suggests that the small Ionic temple terranean springs. Pliny, or his authority, was probably¹ thinking of the site, when he remarked: 'At Athens during a rainy summer Enneakrounos is colder than the well in the garden of Zeus, but in dry seasons the latter is freezing-cold².' More than that. Midway between the Kallirrhoe-bar and the Olympieion are the foundations of a small temple built in Roman times and subsequently transformed into a Christian church³. This little edifice perhaps marks the very ground where Zeus Meilichios was worshipped⁴.

on the Ilissos (J. Stuart—N. Revett The Antiquities of Athens London 1762 i. 7 ff., ch. 2 pls. 1—8, A. N. Skias loc. cit. p. 73 ff. with pl. A' by A. N. Lykakes, W. Dörpfeld in the Ath. Mitth. 1897 xxii. 227 f., J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1901 iv. 243 ff., C. Wachsmuth in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. Suppl. i. 190 f.), which was standing as the church of the Παναγία εἰς τὴν Πέτραν till towards the close of the eighteenth century, had originally some connexion with Zeus Φίλιος, a doublet of Zeus Χθόνιος. He relies on a fragmentary votive relief (Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1897 p. 83 f. pl. A' fig. A', Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. pl. 130, 3 (no. 1781)) of s. iv or iii B.C. found in one of the numerous tombs adjoining the temple: it represents a sceptred god sitting on a rock with an altar before him. But W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 371 f. makes out a strong case for regarding the sanctuary as that of the Μήτηρ ἐν Ἀγρας.

¹ But see W. Judeich op. cit. p. 182 n. 6.

² Plin. nat. hist. 31. 50 Athenis Enneacrunos nimbose aestate frigidior est quam puteus in Iovis horto, at ille siccitatibus riget.

³ A. N. Skias in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1893 p. 130 ff. pl. A with inset (= my fig. 950). The temple was a peripteral building with 6 columns on each short side and 9 on each long side: the nais was amphiprostyle with 4 columns at either end (Skias loc. cit. p. 131 fig.). The order appears to have been Doric (?). When the temple became a church, the πρόναος was transformed into a ἄγιον βῆμα. Beneath the sacred table was a pit (Γ in fig. 950) for relics, which were bestowed in an old Greek sepulchral urn of black stone with four handles. Several tombs of Christian date were found on the site.

⁴ That is my conjecture. A. N. Skias, who has a better right to speak, contends (Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1893 p. 132 f.) that here was the spot known in s. xv A.D. as the 'precinct of Hera' (Anon. Vindob. 7 in C. Wachsmuth Die Stadt Athen im Alterthum Leipzig 1874 i. 735 f. πρὸς δὲ νότον τούτων ἔστιν οἶκος βασιλικὸς πλὴν ὠραῖος, εἰς δὲ κατερχόμενος ὁ δοῦξ κατὰ κράτος εἰς εὐωχίαν ἐκίνεῖτο· ἐκεῖ ἔσθι καὶ ἡ Ἐννεάκρουνος (ναὸς ἀκροῦ) πηγῆ ἢ Καλλιπρόην, εἰς τὴν λουόμενος ἀνήρχετο εἰς τέμενος τὸ τῆς Ἥρας λεγόμενον καὶ πορρηχέου· νῦν δὲ μετεποιήθη εἰς ναὸν τῆς ὑπεραγίας Θεοτόκου ὑπὸ τῶν εὐσεβῶν). But W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 371 n. 12 decides with greater probability that this and other early allusions to a 'temple de Junon' (Wachsmuth op. cit. i. 736 n. 1) referred to the Christian church on the Ilissos-'island' (see R. Rangabé in the Bull. d. Inst. 1850 p. 134 ff.), which had been wrongly identified with Hadrian's temple of Hera and Zeus Πανελλήνιος (Paus. i. 18. 9 Ἀδριανὸς δὲ κατεσκευάσατο μὲν καὶ ἄλλα Ἀθηναίους, ναὸν Ἥρας καὶ Διὸς Πανελληνίου κ.τ.λ., Dion Cass. 69. 16 τὸν τε σηκὸν τὸν ἑαυτοῦ, τὸ Πανελλήνιον ὠρομασμένον, οἰκοδομήσασθαι τοῖς Ἑλλησιν ἐπέτρεψε, καὶ ἀγῶνα ἐπ' αὐτῷ κατεστήσατο (sc. Ἀδριανός), Philostr. v. soph. 2. 1. 7 καὶ μὴν καὶ ἐλειτούργησεν (sc. Πρώδης) Ἀθηναίους τὴν τ' ἐπώνυμον καὶ τὴν τῶν Πανελληνίων, 2. 17. 1. μὲθ' εἰ τὴν τῶν Πανελληνίων Ἀθήνησιν εὐκλεῶς ἤρξεν (sc. Ροῦφος, cp. Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 17) Hieron. chron. ann. Abr. 2148 (Euseb. chron. ii. 167 Schoene) Hadrianus cum insignes et plurimas aedes Athenis fecisset agonem edidit bibliothecamque miri operis instruxit). The real site of the temple of Zeus Πανελλήνιος at Athens is unknown: future excavators will doubtless discover it.

Meantime extant inscriptions confirm the literary sources and add somewhat to our knowledge of the god and of his festival. The name appears to have had a distinctly political origin. In late republican or early imperial times the Achaean League was revived as τὸ τῶν Ἀχαιῶν καὶ Βοιωτῶν καὶ Λοκρῶν καὶ Φωκέων καὶ Εὐβοέων κοινόν, or more briefly τὸ κοινόν τῶν Ἀχαιῶν, ἡ σύνοδος τῶν Πανελληνίων: their council met at Argos under the presidency of a στρατηγὸς τῶν Ἀχαιῶν. But in 131 A.D. Hadrian instituted a new Πανελληνίω on grander lines: it met at Athens and included all the Greek states, not merely those of the Peloponnese. Thenceforward the revived Achaean League naturally dropped its pretension to be Panhellenic (see W. Dittenberger's notes on the Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 18, on *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 842, 2 f., and on Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 504, 1 f., 11). Hadrian not only found a temple of Zeus Πανελλήνιος (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 13, 10 [ναὸν Πανελλήνιον Διὸς ἐφ'ἰδρύσατο (sc. Ἀδριανός)]), but also himself assumed the title Πανελλήνιος (ib. iii. 1 no. 12, 26 ff. [τὰς δωρεὰς ὡς ἕκασται ἐδόθησαν ὑπὸ τοῦ] | μεγίστου αὐτοκράτορος Καίσαρος Τραϊᾶ[νοῦ Ἀδριανοῦ Σεβαστοῦ] | Ὀλυμπί[ου Πανελληνίου], Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 70, 1 f. τὸν δις αὐτοκράτορα Κ[αίσαρα Τραϊανὸν Ἀδριανὸν] | Σεβαστὸν Ὀλύμπιον Π[ύθιον] Πανελλήνιον, ib. i no. 71, 1 f. [τὸν δις αὐτοκράτορα Καίσαρα Τραϊανὸν Ἀδριανὸν Σεβαστὸν Ὀλύμπιον Πύθιον Πανελλήνιον], ib. i no. 72, 1 ff. τὸν δις αὐτοκράτορα Καίσαρα Τραϊανὸν | Ἀδριανὸν Σεβαστὸν Ὀλύμπιον Πύθιον | Πανελλήνιον, ib. i no. 3491, 1 ff. τὸν δις αὐτοκράτορα Καίσαρα [θεοῦ Τραϊανοῦ Παρθικοῦ υἱόν], | θεοῦ Νέρβα υἱόν, Τραϊανὸν Ἀδριανὸν Σεβαστὸν Ὀλύμπιον Πανελλήνιον νέον Πύθιον, G. Radet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1887 xi. 480 no. 60, 1 f. Kirk-Agatsch from Thyateira [αὐτοκράτορα Τραϊανὸν Ἀδριανὸν Καίσαρα Σεβαστόν, | ...καὶ Πανελλήνιον] presumably as being the earthly representative and vicergerent of Zeus (Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 314). After his death the divinised Hadrian had as priest the president of the great Panhellenic council (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 681, 2 ff. τὸν ἀρχο[ντα τῶν] | σεμνο[τάτων Παν]ελλήνω[ν καὶ ἱερέα] | θεοῦ Ἀδ[ριανοῦ Παν]ελλ[ληνίου] καὶ ἀγω[νισ]θ[ῆ]τ[ην τῶν Παν]ελλήνω[ν]...],? cp. ib. iii. 2 no. 3872, 1 ff. θεὸν [Ἀδριανόν?] --- Πανελλήν...], Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 504, 1 f. Aizanoi οἱ ἀρχων τῶν

With his cult on the Ilissos I would connect both a local myth and a local custom.

(6) The Myth of Periphas.

Antoninus Liberalis in his Metamorphoses, a valuable work preserved to us by a single manuscript at Heidelberg, gives the following account of Periphas :

'Periphas was sprung from the soil in Attike before Kekrops the son of Ge appeared. He became king of the ancient population, and was just and rich and holy, a man who offered many sacrifices to Apollon and judged many disputes and was blamed by no one. All men willingly submitted to his rule and, in view of his surpassing deeds, transferred to him the honours due to Zeus and decided that they belonged to Periphas. They offered sacrifices and built temples to him, and called him Zeus Sotér and Ephésios and Meilichios.

Πανελλήνων και Ιερεὺς θεοῦ Ἀδριανοῦ Π[ανελληνίου] † και ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων, ib. no. 507, 1 f. ὁ ἄρχων τῶν Πανελλήνων και Ιερεὺς θεοῦ Ἀδριανοῦ Πανελληνίου | και ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων. It would even seem that at Athens the god Hadrian took over the temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (so W. Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 504 n. 6 understands Dion Cass. 69. 16 cited supra). Cp. Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 1822 (Epeiros) an altar inscribed αὐτοκράτορι Τραϊᾷ νῶϊ Ἀδριανῶϊ Σε]βαστῶϊ, | Ὀλυμπίω, Διὶ Δωδωναίῳ]. The foundation of the Πανελλήνιον in 131 A.D. (P. Canvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 43 no. 35, 1 ff. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 842, 1 ff. ετους γ' τῆς καθιερώσεως τοῦ Διός] | τοῦ Ὀλυμποῦ και τῆς κτίσεως | τοῦ Πανελληνίου) was commemorated (Dion Cass. and Hieron. chron. locc. cit.) by means of an ἀγών (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 10, 13 f. (ἀ)ντ]άρχωντος τοῦ Ιερωτάτου ἀ(γ)[ῶνος τοῦ] (Π)αν(ε)λληνίου, cp. ib. iii. 1 no. 681, 6 ff. [ἀγώ]ν|σ[θ]ῆ|τ[ρη] τῶν Παν|ελλη|ν[ιων]....), ib. iii. 1 no. 682, 1 ff. [ἀγωνοθετή]σαντα --- [? Πανελληνίων, ib. iii. 1 no. 1199, 5 f. ἐπὶ ἀγωνοθέ[του τῶν μεγά]λων Πανελληνίων, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 504, 2 ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων, ib. no. 507, 2 ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων) known as the Πανελλήνια (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 32, 5 τὸ εἰς τὰ Πανελλ[ήνια], ib. iii. 1 no. 127, 3 f. Πανελλήνια | ἐν Ἀθήναις, ib. iii. 1 no. 128, 5 νεικήσας κατὰ τὸ ἐξῆς Πανελλήνια | κ.τ.λ., 10 f. Πανελλ[ήνια] | δις | Ἀθή(νας), Olympia v. 347 ff. no. 237, 8 f. α' Ἀδρειανεία ἐν Ζυμύρῃ και ἐν Ἐφέσῳ και τὰ πρώτως Παν|ελλήνια ἀχθέντα ἐν Ἀθήναις πρώτος κηρύκων, Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1068 i, 1 f. = Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 49, 7 Megara Πανελλήνια | ἐν Ἀθήναις, E. L. Hicks The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum iii. 2. 237 f. Oxford 1890 no. 611, 7 Ephesos Πανελλήνια ἐν Ἀθήναις, στάδιον, ib. iii. 2. 238 f. no. 613, 8 f. Ephesos [Ἀ]θήναις πα[ιδ]ων Παν|ελλήνια γ, ib. iii. 2. 239 f. no. 615, 5 Ephesos Ἀθήνας παίδων Πανελλήνια, J. R. S. Sterrett in Papers of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens Boston 1888 iii. 291 f. no. 413, 15 f. Kara Baulo Πανελλήνε(ι)α | ἐν Ἀθήναις). The name μέγαρα Πανελλήνια (Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 17, 3 [τῶν μεγ]άλων Πανελλ[ηνίων] or [τῶν ἄ]λλων Πανελλ[ήνων], ib. no. 1199, 5 f. ἐπὶ ἀγωνοθέ[του τῶν μεγά]λων Πανελληνίων, Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 504, 2 ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων, ib. no. 507, 2 ἀγωνοθέτης τῶν μεγάλων Πανελληνίων) implies that the contest was organised also as a pentacteris on the analogy of the Παναθηναία (Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen p 168 ff. tries to make out that the Panhellenia at Athens was modelled on the Eleutheria at Plataiai). Few further details of the festival are on record (with Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 1141, 20 f. και ἐκ Παν[ε]λληνίου οὐθέν cp. ib. iii. 1 no. 1184, 20 ff. [με]τ[ρ]ᾶ τὰς Σεβαστοφορικὰς νομάς πάσας τὰς διὰ Πανελληνίων ἐπ' ἴσης ὅ τε ἐφηβοὶ και οἱ πε[ρ]ὶ τὸ Διογενέειον θύσαντες και σπείσαντες ἐν τῷ Διογενεῖω τὰ ἐξιτήρια εὐωχήθησαν, | σ[θ]δ[ε]νὶ δὲ ἄλλω συνετέλεσαν οἱ ἐφηβοὶ ἢ κατὰ τὸ ἀνακαῖον τῷ καψαρίῳ μόνω. Mommsen op. cit. p. 168 f. argues that the ἐφηβοὶ, who began their course in Boedromion, must have ended it in Metageitnion: accordingly, if their concluding feast took place after the Panhellenia, we may refer the Panhellenia also to Metageitnion, i.e. to August or September. The relevance of Corp. inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 85, 1 ff. οἱ Πανελλήνες | ΑΡΙΣΤΑ[N] | | καρποῦ ἀπαρχῆς is doubtful: see W. Dittenberger ad loc.)).

Indignant at this, Zeus wished to consume his whole house with a thunderbolt. But when Apollon, whom Periphas used to honour exceedingly, begged Zeus not to destroy him utterly, Zeus granted the request. He came into the home of Periphas and found him embracing his wife. Grasping them both in his hands, he turned Periphas into an eagle; his wife, who begged him to make her too a bird to bear Periphas company, into a vulture. So upon Periphas he bestowed honours in return for his holy life among men, making him king over all the birds, and granting him to guard the sacred sceptre and to draw near to his own throne; while Periphas' wife he turned into a vulture, and suffered to appear as a good omen to men in all their doings¹.

From what source Antoninus Liberalis, a compiler of the second century A.D. or later², drew this singular narrative is unknown³; nor are its incidents—apart from a casual reference in Ovid⁴—cited elsewhere. Nevertheless the story as it stands is instructive. Certain traits are late and must be suppressed. Thus the writer, or his authority, is inclined to etymologise⁵ and, worse still, to moralise. His tale belongs to a well-defined group, in which an early king (Salmeoneus is typical) poses as Zeus and is consequently punished by the real Zeus. This implies, as I have elsewhere pointed out⁶, that, when the essential divinity of the old-world king had little by little faded into oblivion, posterity treated his claim to be Zeus as sheer impiety calling for the vengeance of the genuine god. Yet the author of our tale, with illuminating inconsistency, makes Zeus himself bestow upon the blasphemer altogether exceptional 'honours in return for his holy life.' I take it, then, that Periphas was an Attic king, who in the dim past had played the rôle of Zeus and made his petty thunder for some unsophisticated folk. It may even be that his name Periphas, 'the Brilliant'⁷, was a recognised epithet of Zeus⁸; for an Orphic hymn salutes Zeus Astrápios, the lightning-god, as *periphantos*⁹. Now we have repeatedly found a human Zeus of this sort figuring among the kings of Thessaly descended from Aiolos¹⁰. It is therefore of interest to observe that Lapithes, the eponymous king of the Thessalian Lapithai, was either father¹¹ or son of a Periphas, who wedded Astygyia

¹ Ant. Lib. 6.

² G. Wentzel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 2573 ('schwerlich vor dem 2. Jhdt. n. Chr.'). W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*³ München 1898 p. 778 ('aus der Zeit der Antonine'). See further E. Oder De Antonino Liberali Bonn 1886 pp. 1—61.

³ H. Usener in the Rhein. Mus. 1868 xxiii. 357 (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 66) says: 'wahrscheinlich von Boios,' and O. Schneider Nicandrea Lipsiae 1856 p. 43 had reached the same conclusion before him. M. Wellmann in Hermes 1891 xxvi. 507 n. 2 thinks otherwise: 'Vermuthlich ist Nikander Quelle.'

⁴ Ov. met. 7. 399 f. Palladas arces: quae te, iustissima Phene, | teque, senex Peripha, pariter videre volantes. Lact. Plac. narr. fab. 7. 20 merely echoes Ovid (M. Schanz *Geschichte der römischen Litteratur*² München 1899 ii. 1. 237 f.): venisse etiam Athenas, ubi Phineum (sic) et Peripham in aves conversos.

⁵ He harps on derivatives of φαίνω, real or supposed: Περίφας...φανήναι...φήνην...ἐπιφαίνεσθαι.

⁶ Class. Rev. 1903 xvii. 277, Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 300.

⁷ Περίφας = περιφανής (Gerhard Auserl. Vasenb. iii. 86), περίφαντος, περιφανής. Cp. Πολύφας, Υπέρφας. For other explanations see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1971 f.

⁸ H. Usener in the Rhein. Mus. 1868 xxiii. 357 (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 66 f.).

⁹ Orph. h. Zeus Astrápios 20. 1 ff. κικλήσκω μέγαν, άγρόν, έρισμάραγον, περίφαντον, | ...άστράπιον Δία, παγγενέτην, βασιλήα μέγιστον, | κ.τ.λ. adduced by O. Höfer loc. cit.

¹⁰ Supra p. 1088.

¹¹ Epaphroditos Homeric frag. 16 Luenzner ap. Steph. Byz. s.v. Λαπίθη.

daughter of Hypseus and became by her the father of Antion and the grandfather of Ixion¹. J. Töpffer in an important article² insisted on the point that Periphas was at once an Attic autochthon and a Thessalian king: he compared other cases of the same bilocation³ and, following up the clue thus afforded, reached the conclusion that in prehistoric times some Thessalian tribe (Lapithai? Dryopes?) migrated southwards through Euboea to north-eastern Attike, and so on by sea to the southern parts of the Argolid. Töpffer's hypothesis has been accepted by P. Weizsäcker⁴ and is, I think, helpful in any attempt to unravel the tangled skein of Attic religion. For, in view of their traditional descent from Aiolos, we shall probably be right in supposing that these immigrants were Aeolians (not Achaeans⁵), who, swarming off from Thessaly in days before the great Athenian synoikismós, settled in Attike and planted the worship of their⁶ Zeus Olympios on the northern bank of the Ilissos. The leader of the settlement, regarded by his subjects as the human representative of the sky-god, would later on be revered in the same neighbourhood as Zeus Sotér and Ephépsios and Meilichios. All these titles, whose connotation was subsequently enlarged in a variety of directions, were from the first applicable to the buried king. To begin with, he was Sotér, because on him depended the preservation and perpetuation of the family line. Custom prescribed that at a banquet libation should be made from the first mixing-bowl to Zeus Olympios and the Olympians, from the second to the Heroës, from the third to Zeus Sotér, otherwise styled *Téleios*⁷. The sequence suggests that this final offering was in its essence simply ¹ Diod. 4. 69, who—according to E. Schwartz (Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 674)—is here excerpting from an earlier mythographical handbook.

² J. Töpffer 'Theseus und Peirithoos' in Aus der Anomia Berlin 1890 pp. 30—46.

³ Theseus, Peirithoos, Boutes, Ixion, Phorbas, Phaleros, Mopsos, etc. Töpffer remarks inter alia that Perithoidai, a deme of the tribe Oineis (A. Milchhöfer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 2195, with map to face p. 2204, places it to the N.W. of Athens on the near side of Mt Aigaleos), was said to have been founded by Peirithoos son of Ixion, and that the Athenian custom of extending a special welcome to Thessalians was motivated by the friendship of Theseus and Peirithoos (Ephoros frag. 37 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 243 Müller) ap. Phot. lex. s.v. Περιθοῖδαι, Soud. s.v. Περιθοῖδαι, Apostol. 14. 19).

⁴ P. Weizsäcker in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1762.

⁵ The commonly received opinion that the Achaeans were an Aeolian people is subjected to shrewd criticism by J. A. K. Thomson Studies in the Odyssey Oxford 1914 p. 117 ff. See further A. Fick 'Aöler und Achäer' in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung auf dem Gebiete der indogermanischen Sprachen 1911 xlvii. 1 ff., eund. 'Älteste griechische Stammverbände' ib. 1914 xlvi. 67 ff., G. Dottin Les anciens peuples de l'Europe Paris 1916 p. 143 ff.

⁶ A. Fick loc. cit. 1914 xlvi. 97.

⁷ Poll. 6. 15 κρατήρες δὲ ὁ μὲν πρῶτος Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου καὶ Ὀλυμπίων θεῶν, ὁ δὲ δεύτερος ἠρώων, ὁ δὲ τρίτος Διὸς Σωτήρος Τελείου, ὅτι καὶ τὰ τρία πρῶτος τέλειος ἀριθμὸς, 6. 100 ὥσπερ καὶ Διὸς Σωτήρος ὁ τρίτος κρατὴρ ἱερὸς ἦν, Schol. Pind. Isthm. 6 (5). 10 τὸν δὲ τρίτον κρατὴρα Διὸς Σωτήρος ἔλεγον, καθὰ καὶ Σοφοκλῆς ἐν Ναυπλίῳ (frag. 392 Nauck², 425 Jebb): 'Ζεῦ πανσίλυπε καὶ Διὸς σωτηρίων | σπονδῆ τρίτον κρατήρος.' τὸν μὲν γὰρ πρῶτον Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου ἐκίρασαν, τὸν δὲ δεύτερον ἠρώων, τὸν δὲ τρίτον Διὸς Σωτήρος, καθὰ καὶ Αἰσχύλος ἐν Ἐπιγόνους (frag. 55 Nauck²): 'λοιβὰς Διὸς μὲν πρῶτον ὠραίου γάμου | Ἴπρας τε.' εἶτα· 'τὴν δευτέραν γε (C. G. Schütz cj. δὲ) κρᾶσιν ἠρωσων νέμω.' εἶτα· 'τρίτον (A. Nauck cj. τρίτην) Διὸς Σωτήρος εὐκταλαν λίβαν.' Διὸς δὲ Σωτήρος ἔλεγον τὸν τρίτον διὰ τὸ τοῦς τοῦτον πίνοντας σταθεροῦς γίνεσθαι, τοῦς δὲ μετὰ τοῦτον εἰς ἄτην καὶ ἀνομίαν καὶ ἀσέλγειαν τρέπεσθαι. ἔλεγον δὲ αὐτὸν καὶ Τέλειον διὰ τὸ τέλειον εἶναι τὸν τρίτον ἀριθμὸν ἀρχὴν ἔχοντα καὶ μέσον καὶ τέλος, schol. Plat. Phileb. 66 D τὸ τρίτον τῷ Σωτήρι: ἐκ μεταφορᾶς εἰρηται τοῦ ἐν ταῖς συνουσίας ἔθους· Σοφοκλῆς ἐν Ναυπλίῳ καταπλέοντι. ἐκινῶντο γὰρ ἐν αὐταῖς κρατῆρες τρεῖς. καὶ τὸν μὲν πρῶτον Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου καὶ θεῶν Ὀλυμπίων ἔλεγον, τὸν δὲ δεύτερον ἠρώων, τὸν δὲ τρίτον Σωτήρος, ὡς ἐνταῦθα τε καὶ δὴ καὶ ἐν Πολιτεία (Plat. rep. 583 B). ἔλεγον δὲ αὐτὸν καὶ Τέλειον, ὡς Εὐριπίδης Ἀνδρομέδα (frag. 148 Nauck²) καὶ Ἀριστοφάνης Ταγηνισταῖς (frag. 33 Meineke), schol. Plat. Charm. 167 A—B τὸ τρίτον τῷ Σωτήρι· ἐπὶ τῶν τελείως τι πρατύντων. τὰς γὰρ τρίτας σπονδὰς καὶ τὸν τρίτον κρατῆρα ἐκίμων τῷ Διὶ τῷ Σωτήρι. τέλειος γὰρ ὁ τρία ἀριθμὸς, ἐπειδὴ καὶ ἀρχὴν καὶ μέσον καὶ τέλος ἔχει, καὶ πρῶτος οὗτος τῶν ἀριθμῶν ἀριοπέριττος. Τέλειος δὲ καὶ ὁ Ζεὺς, ὥστε κατὰ λόγον τρίτον τῷ Διὶ σπένδεται τε καὶ ὁ κρατῆρ τρίτος τίθεται. Σοφοκλῆς Ναυπλίῳ· ‘καὶ Διὸς σωτηρίου | σπονδῆ τρίτου κρατῆρος,’ καὶ Πλάτων Πολιτείας καὶ ἐνταῦθα, Hesyech. s.v. τρίτος κρατῆρ· Σοφοκλῆς Ναυπλίῳ καταπλέοντι. ἐν ταῖς συνουσίαις ἐκινῶντο κρατῆρες τρεῖς. καὶ τὸν μὲν πρῶτον Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου καὶ θεῶν Ὀλυμπίων ἔλεγον· τὸν δὲ δεύτερον ἠρώων· τὸν δὲ τρίτον Σωτήρος, schol. Arat. phaen. 14 τὴν μὲν πρῶτην σπονδὴν εἶναι θεῶν Ὀλυμπίων, δεύτεραν δὲ ἠρώων, καὶ τρίτην Διὸς Σωτήρος, Soud. s.v. τρίτου κρατῆρος· τοῦ Σωτήρος, δν καὶ Τέλειον ἔλεγον. τὸν μὲν γε (G. Bernhardt cj. μὲν γὰρ) πρῶτον Ὀλυμπίων φασί· τὸν δὲ β’ ἠρώων, <τὸν δὲ γ’ Σωτήρος ins. T. Gaisford>. Πλάτων Πολιτεία· τὸν (G. Bernhardt cj. τὸ) δὲ γ’ Ὀλυμπικῶς τῷ Σωτήρι τε καὶ Ὀλυμπίῳ (cp. Plat. rep. 583 B) = Phot. lex. s.v. τρίτου κρατῆρος· τοῦ Σωτήρος, δν καὶ Τέλειον ἔλεγον. τὸν μὲν πρῶτον Ὀλυμπίων φασί, τὸν δὲ δεύτερον ἠρώων, τὸν δὲ τρίτον Ὀλυμπικῶς τῷ Σωτήρι τε καὶ Ὀλυμπίῳ, ib. s.v. τρίτος κρατῆρ· Διὸς Τελείου Σωτήρος· πρῶτος γὰρ τέλειος ἀριθμὸς ὁ τρία, ὅτι ἔχει ἀρχὴν καὶ τέλος καὶ μέσα, ὡς Φιλόχορος ἐν τῷ περὶ Ἡμερῶν (frag. 179 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 414 Müller)), Apostol. 10. 5 α κρατῆρ τρίτος Διὸς Σωτήρος· εἰώθασι γὰρ ἐν συμποσίοις οἱ παλαιοὶ κερνᾶν κρατῆρα πρῶτον Ὀλυμπικῷ Διὶ, δεύτερον τοῖς ἠρωσι, τὸν δὲ τρίτον Διὸς Σωτήρος. Σοφοκλῆς τοῦτο μαρτυρεῖ ἐν Ναυπλίῳ (A. Boeckh corr. Ναυπλίῳ)· ‘Ζεὺ παυσίλυπε (P. Wolters in the Ath. Mitth. 1903 xxxviii. 197 notes a skýrphos at Athens (no. 12351) with incised inscription ΠΑΥΣΙΛΥΠΟΣ) καὶ Διὸς σωτηρίου | σπονδαὶ τρίτου κρατῆρος,’ 10. 77 α ‘λοιβὰς <Διὸς> μὲν πρῶτον ὠραίου γάμου | Ἥρας 1ε.’ εἶτα· ‘τὴν δευτέραν <γε> κῶσιν ἠρωσιν νέμω,’ 17. 28 τρίτου κρατῆρος ἐγένεω (α proverb in ancient dactylic metre: supra i. 444)· ἐπὶ τῶν μεμνημένων τὰ τελεώτατα καὶ σωτηριωδέστερα. τρεῖς δὲ ἦσαν κρατῆρες· καὶ τὸν μὲν πρῶτον ἔλεγον Ὀλυμπίων, τὸν δὲ δεύτερον ἠρώων, <τὸν δὲ τρίτον Σωτήρος ins. T. Gaisford>. Πλάτων ἐν Πολιτεία· τὸν (leg. τὸ) δὲ τρίτον Ὀλυμπικῶς τῷ Σωτήρι τε <καὶ> Ὀλυμπίῳ. S. A. Naber on Phot. lex. s.v. τρίτου κρατῆρος says: ‘Boethi observatio est.’ A. C. Pearson on Soph. frag. 425 Jebb remarks: ‘It is clear that our passage was a stock instance with the grammarians, and that all the quotations given above are derived from a common source: this was in all probability Didymus, from whom they may have passed to Diogenian, and thence to the Platonic scholia.’ Another tradition is evidenced by Soud. s.v. κρατῆρ· τρεῖς κρατῆρας ἴστασαν ἐν τῷ δέπνῳ· α’ Ἐρμῆ, β’ Χαρισίῳ (T. Hemsterhuys cj. Χάρισιν), γ’ Διὶ Σωτήρι.

A kratér or stámnos of Apulian ware from Fasano, now in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Cat. Vases iv. 226 no. F 548, P. Wolters in the Ath. Mitth. 1903 xxxviii. 198 n. 2), has its body decorated with (a) a vine-wreath, from which hang two branches with a comic mask between them and a rosette on either side; (b) an ivy-wreath. On its neck is painted in white ΔΙΟΣ ΣΩΤΗΡΟΣ (Corp. inscr. Gr. iv no. 8470 c).

Literary allusions to the third bowl of Zeus Σωτήρ will be found e.g. in Pind. Isthm. 6 (5). 10 ff., Aisch. suppl. 27 l., Ag. 244 ff., 1385 ff., cho. 577 f. with 1073 f., Eum. 759 f., frag. 55 Nauck², Soph. frag. 392 Nauck², 425 Jebb, Eur. frag. 148 Nauck² (?), Aristoph. tagenistai frag. 33 Meineke (?), Plat. Charm. 167 A—B, rep. 583 B, Phileb. 66 D, legg. 692 A, epist. 7. 334 D, 340 A, Antiphanes ágraikoi frag. 5 Meineke ap. Athen. 692 F, Euboulos kybeutai frag. 1 Meineke ap. Athen. 471 D—E, Alexis tokistés or katapseúddomenos frag. 3 Meineke ap. Athen. 692 F l., frag. fab. inc. 12 Meineke ap. Athen. 466 D—E (a goblet inscribed in golden letters ΔΙΟΣ ΣΩΤΗΡΟΣ), Diphilos Sappho frag. 1 Meineke ap. Athen. 487 A, Philochoros frag. 18 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 387 Müller) ap. Athen. 38 C—D, Diod. 4. 3, Philonides de unguentis et coronis ap. Athen. 675 B—C, Eumath. 1. 14 (τέταρτον (sic) ἐπίνομον Σωτήρι Διὶ).

The chthonian character of the god is well brought out by Aischylos. In suppl. 24 ff. the chorus of Danaïdes prays: ὦν πόλις, ὦν γῆ καὶ λευκὸν ὕδωρ | ὕπατοι τε θεοὶ καὶ βαρῶdrink for the soul of a dead man. As such it was duplicated by the cup of unmixed wine drunk after dinner in the name of the Agathos Daimon¹. Both τιμοι | χθόνιοι θήκας κατέχοντες, | και Ζεὺς Σωτὴρ τρίτος, οἰκοφύλαξ | ὄσιων ἀνδρῶν, κ.τ.λ. In Ag. 1385 ff. Klytaimestra describes the third and fatal blow dealt by her hand: και πεπτωκότι | τρίτην ἐπειδώμι, τοῦ κατὰ χθονός | Διός (so R. Enger for αἰδου codd.) νεκρῶν Σωτῆρος εὐκταλαν χάριν, where W. Kausche 'Mythologumena Aeschylea' in the Dissertationes philologicae Halenses Halis Saxonum 1888 ix. 179 and A. W. Verrall (ed. 1889) adhere to the manuscript reading, but W. Headlam (trans. 1904) and U. von Wilamowitz-Moellendorff (ed. 1914) rightly accept Διός.

¹ With regard to the Agathos Daimon various opinions have been held: see E. Gerhard Über Wesen, Verwandtschaft und Ursprung der Dämonen und Genien Berlin 1852 pp. 12 f., 30 (= Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1852 Phil.-hist. Classe pp. 248 f., 266), K. Lehms *Populäre Aufsätze aus dem Alterthum*² Leipzig 1875 i. 173 ff. ('Dämon und Tyche'), E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 131, K. Wernicke in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 746 f., Preller—Robert Gr. Myth. i. 541 ff., Rohde *Psyche*³ i. 254 n. 2, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1087 n. 2, Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 401 f., Harrison Themis p. 277 ff.

On the whole it seems probable that the Agathos Daimon or 'Good Spirit' was originally the male ancestor of the family addressed by a euphemistic title (supra p. 1112 n. 7). As such, he was a giver of fertility and wealth, a sort of Plouton or chthonian Zeus, equipped with a cornu copiae (Cornut. theol. 27 p. 51, 11 ff. 'Αγαθὸς δὲ Δαίμων... προστάτης... και σωτὴρ τῶν οἰκείων ἐστὶ τῷ σώζειν καλῶς τὸν ἴδιον οἶκον... τὸ δὲ τῆς Ἀμαλθείας κέρως οἰκείον αὐτῷ φέρμα ἐστίν, ἐν ᾧ ἅμα πάντα ἀλδήσκει τὰ κατὰ τοὺς οἰκείους καιροὺς φύμενα, κ.τ.λ.). An Athenian relief shows him as a bearded man carrying his horn and associated with his usual partner, Agathe Tyche (L. Stephani in the Comptendu St. Pét. 1859 p. 111, R. Schöne Griechische Reliefs aus athenischen Sammlungen Leipzig 1872 p. 55 pl. 26, 109. The inscriptions run: ...ι... | ἀνέθηκ... | Ἀγαθὸς Δα[ίμων]ν [Ἀγ]α[θή] Τύχη): cp. Brit. Mus. Marbles xi. 90 ff. pl. 47, Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture iii. 232 no. 2163, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 481 no. 5. A relief from Thespiæ represents a similar figure seated before an altar (?) with a phiale in his right hand, a horn in his left (G. Körte in the Ath. Mitth. 1878 iii. 408 no. 189, O. Kern ib. 1891 xvi. 24 f. fig.). And another relief from Thespiæ completes the likeness to Zeus by the addition of throne, sceptre, and eagle (O. Kern in the Ath. Mitth. 1891 xvi. 24 f. fig. = my fig. 951, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 356 f. fig. 107, infra Append. N inii. Inscr. in: 'Ἀγέστρος[ς], | Τιμοκράτεια, | Πρωλλεία, | Ἐμπεδονίκα | Ἀγαθοὶ Δήμων[ι] (Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 1815)). Hence, although the contention of J. Neuhäuser De Graecorum daemonibus particula prior Berolini 1857 p. 10 ff. that the word δαίμων was in the beginning 'ipsius summi numinis appellatio' is justly dismissed by Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1087 n. 2, we can understand the reasoning of Paus. 8. 36. 5 Μεγαλοκόλραις δὲ διὰ τῶν ἐπὶ τὸ ἔλος ὀνομαζομένων πυλῶν, διὰ τούτων ὀδεύουσιν ἐς Μαίναλον παρὰ τὸν ποταμὸν τὸν Ἐλισσόντα ἐστὶ τῆς ὁδοῦ ἐν ἀριστερᾷ Ἀγαθοῦ Θεοῦ ναός· εἰ δὲ ἀγαθῶν οἱ θεοὶ δοτῆρὲς εἰσὶν ἀνθρώποις, Ζεὺς δὲ ὕπατος θεῶν ἐστίν, ἐπόμενος ἂν τις τῷ λόγῳ τῆν ἐπικλησὼν ταύτην Διὸς τεκμαίροιο εἶναι. Others besides Pausanias took the Agathos Theos to be a sort of Zeus. Tiberius Claudius Xenokles, after serving as fire-bearer, set up an altar at Epidauros in 224 A.D. to the local Agathos Theos, whom he represented as a chthonian Zeus with a sceptre in his right hand, a cornu copiae in his left, and a snake wriggling below (P. Cavvadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 45 no. 44, Harrison Themis p. 285 f. fig. 75, M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1059 with numeral πθ' and circle no. 2 ib. p. 186 possibly meant for a snake emerging from its hole (?); cp. another block erected at Epidauros in 187 A.D. by Tiberius Claudius Pollio, after service as hierarphos, to the Agathos Theos and to Agathe (P. Cavvadias op. cit. i. 44 f. nos. 41—41^a, M. Fränkel loc. cit. i no. 997: Agathos Theos has numeral ξγ' and circle no. 1 ib. p. 186 possibly meant for a snake emerging from its hole (?); Agathe has numeral ξδ'). The same explanation might well be given of the Zeus-like Theos Megas at Odessos in Thrace,

Fig. 951.

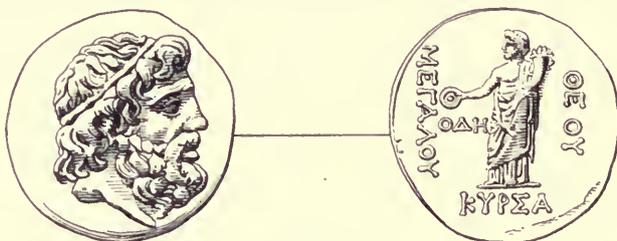

Fig. 952.

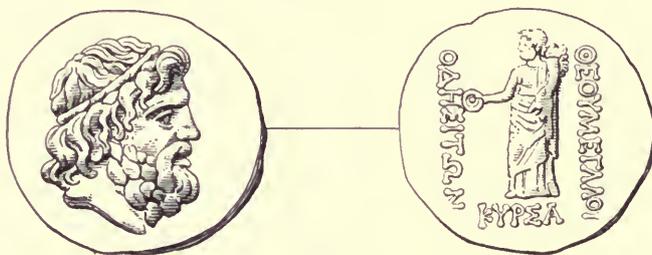

Fig. 953.

where silver tetradrachms were struck in s. ii B.C. with obv. a bearded male head wearing a fillet, rev. the bearded god standing with phidde and cornu copiae (B. Pick in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1898 xiii. 155 f. pl. 10, 20 = my fig. 952, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 276 fig. 167, inscribed ΘΕΟΥ ΜΕΓΑΛΟΥ ΟΔΗ and ΚΥΡΣΑ below. Hunter Cat. Coins i. 418 pl. 28, 4 = my fig. 953 inscribed ΘΕΟΥ ΜΕΓΑΛΟΥ ΟΔΗΣΙΤΩΝ and ΚΥΡΣΑ below. For later variants see Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thrace etc. p. 137 ff. fig., Hunter Cat. Coins i. 418 f. pl. 28, 5, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 276 f., and especially B. Pick in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1898 xiii. 157 ff. pl. 10, 15 ff. and Ant. Münz. Nord-Griechenlands i. 2. 524 ff. pl. 4 f.).

Fig. 954.

Ant. Gemmen i pl. 44, 9 ff., ii. 211 f. illustrated it from gems and coins of Galba etc. (in fig. 954 I add the reverse of an unpublished copper of Antoninus Pius in my collection):

Fourth-century sculptors more suo represented the Agathos Daimon in younger form. Plin. nat. hist. 34. 77 mentions among the bronzes of Euphranor to be seen at Rome 'a statue of Bonus Eventus holding a patera in its right hand, a corn-ear and poppies in its left.' Fröhner Med. emp. rom. p. 35 f. fig. detected the type on a bronze medallion struck by Hadrian (Gnecchi Medagl. Rom. ii. 3 no. 3) and Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpt. p. 349 f. fig. 149 with pl. 6, 37, id.

cp. also a cameo plaque of blue glass now in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Marbles iii Frontisp., F. Robiou in Darenberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 737 fig. 870, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 462 no. 5, C. Davenport Cameos London 1900 p. 24 f. pl. 3, Harrison Themis p. 302 f. fig. 82), which Taylor Combe Brit. Mus. Marbles loc. cit. already recognised as a copy of Euphranor's statue. Plin. nat. hist. 36. 23 in his list of marble works by Praxiteles at Rome includes 'the statues of Bonus Eventus and Bona Fortuna on the Capitol.' W. Klein Praxiteles Leipzig 1898 p. 156, greatly daring, would identify the Praxitelean Bonus Eventus with the bronze original of the Madrid Hypnos and its numerous congeners, e.g. the bronze statuette of a horn-bearing Hypnos at Vienna (id. ib. p. 140 fig. 21). Be that as it may, the common assumption that Pliny's Bonus Eventus and Bona Fortuna are the Latinised forms of Agathōs Daimon and Agathē Týche is probably correct.

Not till Hellenistic times do we get evidence of the Agathos Daimon conceived as a snake. This belief was especially prevalent in Egypt; but it seems to have spread from thence to Delos, and even to Rome. According to the foundation-legend of Alexandria, when the city-walls began to rise, a snake of huge size and majestic bearing attacked the workmen and hindered their work. Alexander the Great bade his men assemble on the following day to slay the monster. This was done on the site of the later Stoa. An elaborate tomb was built for the snake, and Alexander had garland-shops erected near by 'in order that the beast, commonly thought to do service in temples—it is called Agathos Daimon—, might itself be worshipped as a deity' (Iul. Valer. i. 28 p. 37, 15 ff. Kuebler. The concluding words are: 26 ff. ut quod haec bestia famulitium quoddam templis praestare videbatur—daemon <enim> melior appellatur—, ipse quoque divina quadam religione coleretur). When the snake's tomb was finished, certain blocks of the architrave over the columns of the entrance gave way, and from them were seen to issue numerous snakes (cp. supra i. 205 f.). These crept about and entered the penetralia of the newly built houses. Soothsayers declared that they too were presiding Daimones to be worshipped in every house as di Penates. Hence the custom at Alexandria that on definite days wheaten meal is thrown for the snakes to eat and the upper classes, with garlands, go up to the temple of the Heros, who is served by snakes of this sort (Iul. Valer. i. 29 p. 38, 18 ff. Kuebler. Cp. pseudo-Kallisth. i. 32 ἰδρυμένοι δὲ τοῦ πυλῶνος τοῦ ἱεροῦ ἐξαίφνης πλᾶξ μεγίστη ἐξέπεσαν ἀρχαιοτάτη πλήρης γραμμάτων, ἐξ ἧς ἐξήλθον ὄφεις πολλοί, καὶ ἐρπίζοντες εἰσῆλθον εἰς τὰς οὐδοὺς τῶν ἤδη τεθεμελιωμένων οἰκιῶν. [τὴν πόλιν γὰρ ἔτι παρῶν Ἀλέξανδρος καθίδρυσεν τῇ αὐτοῦ δυνάμει ἰανουαρίου πρώτη καὶ αὐτὸ τὸ ἱερὸν.] ὅθεν τοίτους τοὺς ὄφεις σέβονται οἱ θυρωροὶ ὡς Ἄγαθοῦ Δαίμονος εἰσιόντας εἰς τὰς οἰκίας· οὐ γὰρ εἰσὶν ἰοβόλα ζῶα with the addition in cod. A ἐκέλευσε δὲ ὁ Ἀλέξανδρος τοῖς φύλαξι τῶν οἰκῶν σίτον δοθῆναι. οἱ δὲ λαβόντες, ἀλῆσαντες καὶ ἀθηροποιησάμενοι τὴν ἡμέραν (C. Müller cj. ταύτῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ) τοῖς ἐνοικοῦσι θάλλους διδῶσιν· ὅθεν καὶ μέχρι τοῦ δεῦρο τούτου τὸν νόμον φυλάττουσι παρ' Ἀλεξανδρεῦσι, Τύβι (so C. Müller for Τύβη) κέ τὰ μὲν κτήνη στεφανοῦσθαι, θυσιάζεσθαι <δὲ> τοῖς Ἄγαθοῦ Δαίμονος τοῖς προνοουμένοις τῶν οἰκιῶν, καὶ διασώσεις (διαδόσεις? C. Müller) τῶν ἀθρῶν ποιέσθαι). See further Plout. amat. 12 ἐν Αἰγύπτῳ ποτὲ γειτόνας ἑώρων δύο διαμφισβητούντας ὄφεις προσεπέψαντος εἰς τὴν ὁδόν, ἀμφοτέρων μὲν Ἄγαθὸν Δαίμονα καλοῦντων, ἑκατέρου δ' ἔχειν ἀξιούντος ὡς ἴδιον, Lamprid. v. Heliogab. 28. 3 Aegyptios dracunculos Romae habuit, quos illi Agathodaemonas vocant, C. Wessely Griechische Zauberpapyrus von Paris und London Wien 1888 p. 81 pap. Par. 2427 ff. (part of a charm to secure wealth, in which a waxen man begs with his right hand, holds in his left a wallet and a staff with a snake coiled about it, and has a coiled snake on his belt and upon the crown of his head) εἰς δὲ τὸν δράκοντα τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Ἄγαθοῦ Δαίμονος, δ' ἔστιν, | ὡς λέγει Ἐπαφρόδιτος, [δ' ἔστιν] τὸ ὑποκείμενον· | φρη αν ὡφ φωρχω φννν ρορφίς | οροχωῶ, ὡς δὲ ἐν τῷ χάρτη δ (sic) εἴρο(ν), | μετεβλήθη τὸ πραγματικὸν οὕτως· | αρπονκνουφι ὁ, P'ihlon Bybl. frag. 9 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 572 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. i. 10. 48 ff. Φοίνικες δὲ αὐτὸ (sc. the snake) Ἄγαθὸν Δαίμονα καλοῦσιν. ὁμοίως καὶ Αἰγύπτιοι Κνήφ ἐπονομάζουσι· προστιθέασι δὲ αὐτῷ ἱέρακος κεφαλὴν διὰ τὸ πρακτικὸν τοῦ ἱέρακος...ἔτι μὴν οἱ Αἰγύπτιοι ἀπὸ τῆς αὐτῆς ἐννοίας τὸν κόσμον γράφοντες περιφερῆ κύκλον ἀεροειδῆ καὶ πυρωπὸν χαράσσουσι, καὶ μέτα τεταμένον ὄφιν ἱερακόμορφον, καὶ ἔστι τὸ πᾶν σχῆμα ὡς τὸ παρ' ἡμῖν θήτα, τὸν μὲν κύκλον κόσμον μηνύοντες τὸν δὲ μέσον ὄφιν συνεκτικὸν τούτου Ἀγαθὸν Δαίμονα σημαίνοντες. Nero, who in Egypt called himself ὁ Ἀγαθὸς Δαίμων τῆς | οἰκουμένης (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 4699, 3 f. = Dittenberger Orient. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 666, 3 f.), struck billon coins there with the reverse type of a serpent enfolding corn-ears and poppy-heads, inscribed ΝΕΟ·ΑΓΑΘ·ΔΑΙΜ= νέος Ἀγαθὸς Δαίμων (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria p. 20 f. pl. 26, 171 = my fig. 955, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 413, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 863, E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 131 fig. 174, Harrison Themis p. 277 fig. 66). And a remarkable cornorniate medal shows him as the νέος Ἀπόλλων, νέος Διόνυσος (supra pp. 96 n. 3, 254), and νέος Ἀγαθὸς Δαίμων rolled into one (fig. 956 from a specimen in my collection. Obv.: Head of Nero to right, with bow and arrow in front of him, and ivy-leaf behind him. The usual compendium ρ here appears on Nero's face, the P encircling his eye and the E marking his nostril and mouth. Also the muscles of his neck are peculiarly rendered in the form of an ivy-leaf. Rev.: Bearded and crested snake approaching a portable altar with dependent fillets). The antechamber of a Graeco-Egyptian catacomb at Kom el Chougafa has its doorway flanked by two such snakes equipped with thýrsos and winged caduceus (F. W. von Bissing Les bas-reliefs de Kom el Chougafa Munich 1901 pl. 1). Another rock-cut tomb, known locally as 'the grave of

Fig. 955.

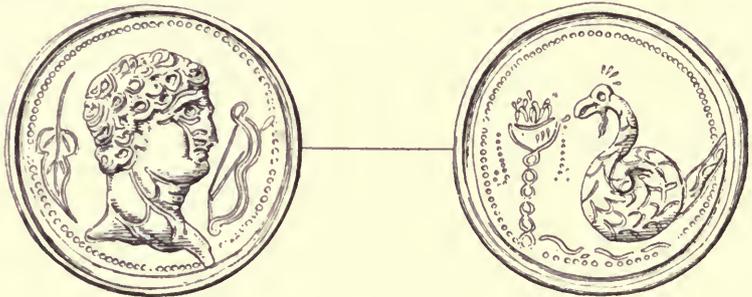

Fig. 956.

Adam and Eve,' in the garden of the late Sir John Antoniadis at Alexandria is its innermost niche occupied by the relief of a large snake coiled on a couch with gay-coloured cushions (H. Thiersch Zwei antike Grabanlagen bei Alexandria Berlin 1904 p. 6 ff. figs. 6 f., p. 16 f. pl. 5 f.). This challenges comparison with a relief from Delos, which shows a large bearded snake similarly installed on a couch between a bearded male figure bearing phidre and cornu copiae to the right and a female figure bearing oinochóe and cornu copiae to the left: these personages, who both have a modius on their heads and are draped alike in chitón and himátion, should be interpreted as Agathos Daimon (hardly Sarapis or Plouton) and Agathe Tyche (M. Bulard in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1907 xxxi. 525 ff. fig. 24, Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 326 no. 2). Agathos Daimon is, in fact, here represented both in his animal and in his human form. Similarly a marble statue at Berlin, which portrays Antinoos as Agathos Daimon, makes him a youthful Dionysiac figure resting his hand on a cornu copiae with a snake twined about it (Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 146 f. no. 361 fig., Clarac Mus. de Sculpt. pl. 947 fig. 2427, E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 131 fig. 173). A small relief of s. iii A.D. in the Palazzo Massimo alle Terme again groups Agathos Daimon with Agathe Tyche (F. von Duhn in Matz—Duhn Ant. Bildw. in Rom iii. 144 no. 3764 says Sarapis (?) with Alexandria (?). F. Grossi Gondi 'Di una singolare rappresentazione mitologica sincretistica del culto romano' in the Bull. Comm. Arch. Comun. di Roma 1910 xxxviii. 150—160 fig. 1 decides for Serapis with Isis (Isityche)). It represents the former as a coiled snake with had their counterpart in another Greek custom. 'Food that fell from the tables,' says Athenaios, 'they used to assign to their dead friends.' And by way of proof he quotes from Euripides the couplet descriptive of the love-sick Sthenobolia, who believes that Bellerophon is dead:

Never a crumb falls from her finger-tips
But she must cry: 'For the Corinthian guest!'

Athenaios might have added the Pythagorean precept not to pick up food from the floor, a precept utilised by Aristophanes in his Heroes and duly recorded by Aristotle *On the Pythagoreans*².

a bearded human head wearing a modius, the latter as a draped goddess likewise wearing a modius and holding a leafy spray (hardly corn-ears) in her right hand, a cornu copiae in her left, while a large jar projects from the ground beside her.

Agathos Daimon was, on this showing, a chthonian power essentially akin to Zeus Sotér. As a fertilising agent he was naturally brought into connexion with Dionysos (see bibliography at the beginning of this note), with whom he is even identified (Philonides de unguentis et coronis ap. Athen. 675 B). The postprandial draught of unmixed wine is referred to Agathos Daimon by Aristoph. eq. 105 ff., vesp. 525, rax 300 with scholl. ad locc., Antiphanes lampás frag. 1 Meineke ap. Athen. 486 F and 487 B, Theophr. ap. Athen. 693 C—D, Aelius Dionysios ap. Eustath. in Od. p. 1471, 32 ff., Ail. var. hist. 1. 20, Hesych. s.v. 'Αγαθοῦ Δαίμονος πόμα = Bekker anecd. i. 209, 14 ff., i. 334, 4 ff. = Apostol. 1. 10. Cp. also the 'Αγαθοδαίμοισταλ (Hesych. s.v.) or 'Αγαθοδαίμονιασταλ (Aristot. eth. Eud. 3. 6. 1233 b 3 f., Inscr. Gr. ins. i no. 161, 5 = Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 1. 478 f. no. 3842, 5 καὶ ὑπὸ [Διοσ]ταβυριαστῶν 'Αγαθοδαίμονιαστῶν Φιλ(ω)νείων κοινῶ κ.τ.λ., with Plout. synp. 3. 7. 1). The toast 'Αγαθοῦ Δαίμονος is distinguished from the toast Διὸς Σωτήρος by Eriphos frag. 3 Meineke ap. Athen. 693 C, Xenarchos didymoi frag. 1 Meineke ap. Athen. 693 B—C, Diod. 4. 3, Poll. 6. 100, Athen. 692 F, Soud. s.v. 'Αγαθοῦ Δαίμονος, schol. Aristoph. rax 300, cp. Philochoros frag. 18 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 387 Müller) ap. Athen. 38 C—D and frag. 19 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 387 Müller) ap. Athen. 693 D—E, and never really confused with it (Diphilos Sappho frag. 1 Meineke ap. Athen. 487 A 'Αρχιλοχε, δέξαι τήνδε τὴν μετανιπτρίδα | μεστὴν Διὸς Σωτήρος, 'Αγαθοῦ Δαίμονος is a case of asyndeton, not of apposition. Cp. e.g. Herond. 2. 67 f.).

A kántharos with knotted handles from Athens (Nicole Cat. Vases d'Athènes Suppl. p. 272 f. no. 1173, C. Watzinger in the Ath. Mitth. 1901 xxvi. 74 no. 17 fig., P. Wolters ib. 1913 xxxviii. 198 n. 2) has round its neck a yellow ivy-wreath, above which is painted in white ΑΓΑΘΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ. A small vase at Kentoripa (Centorbi) is inscribed ΑΓΑΘΟΥ ΔΑΜΟΕ, which is perhaps to be read as 'Αγαθοῦ Δαίμονος rather than as 'Αγαθοδάμου (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 2406, 109, P. Wolters loc. cit.). Cp. a fragment of black ware with relief-decoration and the inscription ΗΣΤΥ+ΗΣ = ['Αγαθ]ῆς Τύχης round its neck, found on the W. slope of the Akropolis at Athens (A. Koerte in the Ath. Mitth. 1896 xxi. 294, P. Wolters loc. cit.).

¹ Athen. 427 E τοῖς δὲ τετελευτηκόσι τῶν φίλων ἀπένεμον τὰ πίπτοντα τῆς τροφῆς ἀπὸ τῶν τραπέζων· διὸ καὶ Εὐριπίδης περὶ τῆς Σθενεβοίας φησὶν, ἐπειδὴ νομίζει τὸν Βελλεροφόντην θετνάναι, 'πεσὸν δὲ νιν λέληθεν οὐδὲν ἐκ χερσός, | ἀλλ' εὐθὺς αὐτῶ "τῷ Κορινθίῳ ξένῳ"' (Eur. frag. 664 Nauck²). The Euripidean passage is parodied by Kratin. fab. inc. frag. 16. 4 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 179 ff. Meineke) ap. Athen. 782 D—E, Aristoph. thesm. 404 f. with schol. ad locc., cp. Hesych. s.v. Κορίνθιος ξένος.

² Aristot. frag. 190 Rose ap. Diog. Laert. 8. 34 φησὶ δ' 'Αριστοτέλης... παραγγέλλειν αὐτὸν (sc. Πυθαγόραν)...τὰ...πεσόντ' ἀπὸ τραπέζης μὴ ἀναεῖσθαι, ὑπὲρ τοῦ ἐθίξασθαι μὴ ἀκολάστως ἐσθλεῖν ἢ ὅτι ἐπὶ τελευτῇ τινος ('sive quod essent mortuo destinata' Ambrosius revised by C. G. Cobet): καὶ 'Αριστοφάνης δὲ τῶν ἠρώων φησὶν εἶναι τὰ πίπτοντα, λέγων ἐν τοῖς 'Ηρωσι (frag. 2 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 1070 f. Meineke)) 'μηδὲ γέυεσθ' ἄτ' ἂν ἐντὸς (I. Casaubon and W. Canter, followed by C. Jacobitz, cij. ἐκτὸς) τῆς τραπέζης καταπέση' = Soud. s.v. Πυθαγόρα τὰ σύμβολα.

Secondly, the buried chieftain was Ephrosios because he kept an eye on his descendants and watched over their interests¹. The title was, however, susceptible of a wider meaning. So Zeus *Ephrosios*² came to be revered as the guardian of suppliants³, the observer of right and wrong⁴, the avenger of impious deeds⁵. Like Zeus *Panórhtes*⁶, he readily took on a solar complexion⁷. And it may be that the story of Zeus transforming himself into a hoopoe (eprops)

¹ Cp. the important passage Hes. o. d. 121 ff. αὐτὰρ ἐπεὶ δὴ τοῦτο γένος κατὰ γαῖ' ἐκάλυψε, | τοὶ μὲν δαίμονες εἰσι Διὸς μεγάλου διὰ βουλὰς | ἐσθλοὶ, ἐπιχθόνιοι, φύλακες θνητῶν ἀνθρώπων, | [οἱ ῥα φυλάσσοσιν τε δίκας καὶ σχέτλια ἔργα | ἤερα ἐσσάμενοι πάντη φοιτῶντες ἐπ' αἶαν,] | πλουτοδοῦται· καὶ τοῦτο γέρας βασιλῆιον ἔσχον. For apparatus criticus see A. Rzach ad loc. Infra Append. M fin.

The adjective eprosios is used in this sense by Soph. Phil. 1040 f. ἀλλ', ὦ πατρώα γῆ θεοὶ τ' ἐπρόσιοι, | τείσασθε κ.τ.λ., the substantive eprosios by Strab. 676 *εἴτ' Ἀμφίλοχον... συμβαλεῖν εἰς μονομαχίαν πρὸς τὸν Μῆσον, πεσόντας δ' ἀμφοτέρους ταφῆναι μὴ ἐν ἐπρόσει ἀλλήλοισ, the verb ἐποπτεύω by Aisch. cho. 489 of the buried Agamemnon ὦ γαῖ', ἄνες μοι πατέρ' ἐποπτεύσαι μάχην, cho. 1 of Hermes Chithónios Ἐρμῆ Χθόνιε πατρῶ' ἐποπτεύων κράτη cited by Aristoph. ran. 1126, 1138 ff., Eum. 220 of the Eumenides τὸ μὴ τίνεσθαι μηδ' ἐποπτεύειν κῆρυ, cho. 984 ff. of Helios ὡς ἴδη πατῆρ, | οὐχ οὐμός, ἀλλ' ὁ πάντ' ἐποπτεύων τάδε | Ἥλιος, ἀναγνα, μητρὸς ἔργα τῆς ἐμῆς, Ag. 1270 of Apollon ἐποπτεύσας δέ με, Eum. 224 of Athena δίκας δὲ Παλλὰς τῶνδ' ἐποπτεύσει θεά, cho. 1064 f. of God καὶ σ' ἐποπτεύων πρόφρων | θεὸς φυλάσσοι κ.τ.λ., Ag. 1578 f. of the gods in general φαίην ἂν ἦδη νῦν βροτῶν τιμαῖρους | θεοὺς ἀνωθεν γῆς ἐποπτεύειν ἀχῆ (see further F. H. M. Blaydes on Aristoph. ran. 1126). Similarly eporān is used of Zeus in Od. 13. 213 f. (cited supra p. 1097 n. 1), Archil. frag. 84 Hiller—Crusius ap. Stob. ecl. 1. 3. 34 p. 58, 11 ff. Wachsmuth (Clem. Al. Strom. 5. 14 p. 412, 3 ff. Stählin, Euseb. praer. ev. 13. 13. 54) ὦ Ζεῦ, πάτερ Ζεῦ, σὸν μὲν οὐρανοῦ κράτος, | σὺ δ' ἔργ' ἐπ' ἀνθρώπων ὄρας | λωργὰ καὶ θεμιστά (so Liebel for κάθεμιστα or the like), sol δὲ θηρίων | ὕβρις τε καὶ δίκη μέλει, Soph. El. 174 f. ἔτι μέγας οὐρανοῦ | Ζεὺς, ὅς ἐφορᾷ πάντα καὶ κρατύνει. For Zeus⁷ Ephoros see supra i. 737 n. 8.*

² Supra i. 737 n. 9.

³ Ap. Rhod. 2. 1123 ἀντόμεθα πρὸς Ζηνὸς Ἐποψίου with schol. Paris. ad loc. Ἐπρόσιος δὲ ὁ ἐποπτος (J. Alberti corr. ἐπόπτῃς), 1131 ff. (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2).

⁴ Kallim. h. Zeus 81 ff. ἴξεο δ' αὐτὸς | ἄκρης ἐν πολίεσσιν, ἐπρόσιος οἱ τε δίκησι | λαὸν ὑπὸ σκολιῆς, οἱ τ' ἔμπαλιν ἰθύνουσιν.

⁵ Orph. Arg. 1035 ἀλλὰ οἱ οὐτι λάθον Δι' ἐπρόσιον οὐδὲ θέμιστας.

⁶ Supra i. 459 ff.

⁷ A stone pillar (height 1·0^m, breadth 0·23^m), found on the site of Itanos (Erimopolis) in E. Crete and now serving as a lintel in a cottage near the lighthouse on Capo Sidero, bears the following inscription in letters of s. iv. b. c. or earlier: Πάτρων Δι' Ἐπ[ο]ψ[ι]ω | ἀνε[θ]ηκε. | τροπα[ι] χει|μερναί. | εἰ τι νι τοῦ|των : ἐπιμε|λές : κατὰ | τὴν : χοι|ράδα : τὴν | μικρὰν | καὶ τὴν στή|λην : ὁ ἥλιος | τρέπεται (F. Halbherr in the Museo Italiano di antichità classica 1890 iii. 585 f. no. 4 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1181 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 1264). The original position of the pillar was such that a line drawn from it to a certain small rock visible at sea, and prolonged thence to the horizon, would mark the precise spot where the sun rose at the winter solstice. Halbherr ad loc. cp. schol. Aristoph. av. 997 φησὶ δὲ Καλλίστρατος ἐν Κολωνῶ ἀνάθημά τι εἶναι αὐτοῦ (sc. Μέτῳς) ἀστρολογικόν and Ail. var. hist. 10. 7 ὅτι Μέτῳς ὁ Λευκονοεὺς ἀστρολόγος ἀνέστησε στήλας καὶ τὰς τοῦ ἡλίου τροπὰς κατεγράψατο. The rosette or star, which figures so frequently on coins of Itanos (J. N. Svoronos Numismatique de la Crète ancienne Mâcon 1890 i. 201 ff. pl. 18, 21 ff., pl. 19, 5, 16, 19, 22 f., 25 ff., id. in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1894 xviii. 115, 117 f., Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins etc. p. 51 f. pl. 12, 6 ff., pl. 13, 4, 7 f., Babelon Monn. gr. rom. ii. 3. 895 ff. pl. 244, 1 ff., 20, pl. 245, 3, 7 ff., Anson Num. Gr. vi. 11 no. 114 pl. 1, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 469 f.), was in all probability a solar symbol. And Zeus on Cretan soil tended to become a sun-god (supra i. 545 ff.).

For Ἐπρόσιος as a title of Apollon see supra i. 737 n. 9.

to win Lamia¹ owes something to popular confusion with the title *Epópsios*². Thirdly, the king was Meilichios—a coaxing or cajoling appellation³, which he shared with various chthonian powers⁴.

Two other points in the narrative of Antoninus Liberalis call for remark. Periphas, transformed into an eagle, was set to guard the sacred sceptre and had leave to approach the very throne of Zeus⁵. Much the same is said of ¹ W. Crönert in the Archiv für Papyrusforschung und verwandte Gebiete 1901 i. 109 n. 1 drew attention to an unnoticed fragment of Philodem. περὶ εὐσεβείας (in the series of photographs issued by the Oxford Philological Society vi. 206) on the amours of Zeus: [ὦν ἦν καὶ Νέμ]εσις, [ἦν | φη]σιν (T) ὁ τὰ Κί[πρια | γ]ράφας ὁμοιωθῆ[ν]α <ι> χηνί, Δία <δὲ> αὐτ[ῆν | δ]ιώκειν καὶ μιγῆν[αι, | τὴν δ]ε ὠόν τεκεῖν, | [έ]ξ[ε] οὐ γενέσθαι τῆ[ν | Ἐλ]ένην. ὥσ[π]ε[ρ] αὐ | Λή]δας ἐρασθῆς [έ]γ[έ]νετο κύκνο[s, | Εὐ]ρώπης δὲ ταῦ[ρος], Λαμίαι δὲ εἰ[πο]ψ (so F. Blass), Δανάης δὲ χ[ρ]υσός. καὶ παρ' Ἀπολ[λων]ίδῃ καὶ παρ' Εὐ[ρο]πίδῃ λέγεται... With this allusion to the hoopoe O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2566 well cp. Clem. Rom. hom. 5. 13 (ii. 184 Migne) Λαμίαι ἐπεμορφώθη ἐποψ, Rufin. recognit. 10. 22 Lamiam (sc. stuprat) mutatus in upupam.

² Aisch. frag. 304, 1 Nauck² ap. Aristot. hist. an. 9. 49 v. 633 a 19 τοῦτον δ' ἐπόπτῃν ἐποπα τῶν αὐτοῦ κακῶν | κ.τ.λ. (F. G. Welcker Die Griechischen Tragödien Bonn 1839 i. 384, followed by many scholars, attributed the fragment to Sophokles' Tereus: see A. C. Pearson on Soph. frag. 581 Jebb). Cp. Hesych. ἐποψ· ἐπόπτῃς. δυνάστης. καὶ εἶδος ὀρέου.

There were, no doubt, other reasons, which made the hoopoe a suitable vehicle for Zeus, especially his fine feathered crest or crown and his widely-recognized magical powers (to the evidence cited by S. Bochart Hierozoicon rec. E. F. C. Rosenmüller Lipsiae 1796 iii. 111 f. add the Kyranides 1. 7. 11 ff. in F. de Mély—C. É. Ruelle Les Lapidaires de l'antiquité et du moyen âge Paris 1898 ii (Les Lapidaires grecs). 20 ff. with 235 f. [ἐποψ] ζῶν ἐστὶν ἐν ἀέρι πτώμενον ὃ καλεῖται ἐποψ, ἐπτάχρωμον βασιλεῖον ἔχον μήκει δακτύλων β', ἀπλούμενον καὶ συσσελλόμενον· αὐτὸ δὲ τετράχρωμον, ὡς εἶπεύ, πρὸς τὰς δ' τροπὰς τοῦ ἐνιαυτοῦ· οὗτος καλεῖται κουκούφας καὶ ποῦπος, ὡς ἐγράφη τὰ περὶ τούτου ἐν τῇ πρώτῃ τῇ βίβλῳ 'ἀρχαίῃ' καλουμένῃ· ἐστὶ δὲ τὸ ζῶν ἱερὸν. λαβῶν οὖν τὴν τούτου καρδίαν ἐτι πταίρουσαν κατάπιε ἀντίκρου τοῦ ἡλίου ὥρας πρώτης ἀρχομένης ἢ ὀγδόης ἀρχομένης· ἐστὼ δὲ ἡμέρα Κρόνου, σελήνης ἀνατολικῆς οὐσῆς· καὶ ἐπίπιε γαλὰ βοῆς μελαίνης μετ' ὀλίγου μέλιτος ἐκ τοῦ συνθέματος αὐθωρόν, ἵνα ἡ καρδία ὑγιῆς καταποθῆ, καὶ ἔση προγινώσκων τὰ ἐν οὐρανῷ καὶ γῆ, καὶ εἰ τις κατὰ ψυχῆν ἔχει· τι καὶ ὅσα κατὰ τὰ κλίματα καὶ κατὰ πόλεις γίνεται καὶ τὰ μέλλοντα ἅπασιν ἀνθρώποις· ...ἐὰν δὲ καὶ ἐτέραν καρδίαν καὶ ἦπαρ ἐποπος βάλῃς ἐν τῷ συνθέματι, κρεῖττον ἔσται καὶ ἐτι μνημονικώτερον ποιεί... The sequel deals with a yet more potent charm, in which, among other ingredients, is καὶ τὸ βασιλεῖον τὸ ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς τοῦ ἐποπος). On his relations to the cuckoo, hawk, woodpecker, and bee-eater see E. Oder 'Der Wiedehopf in der griechischen Sage' in the Rhein. Mus. 1888 xliii. 541—556, D'Arcy W. Thompson A Glossary of Greek Birds Oxford 1895 pp. 54—57, S. Bochart op. cit. iii. 107—115, J. Grimm Teutonic Mythology trans. J. S. Stallybrass London 1883 ii. 681 f., C. Swainson The Folk Lore and Provincial Names of British Birds London 1886 pp. 106—109, O. Keller Die antike Tierwelt Leipzig 1913 ii. 60—63. Horapoll. hierogl. 1. 55 εὐχάριστιαν γράφοντες, κουκούφαν ('hoopoe') ζωγραφοῦσι· διότι τοῦτο μόνον τῶν ἀλόγων ζῶων, ἐπειδὴν ὑπὸ τῶν γονέων ἐκτραφῆ, γηράσασιν αὐτοῖς τὴν αὐτὴν ἀποδίδωσι χάριν· ...ἔθεν καὶ ἐπὶ τῶν θείων σκήπτρων κουκούφα προτιμήσις ἐστὶ (cp. Ail. de nat. an. 10. 16, 16. 5) looks like a parallel to the tale of Periphas, but is perhaps based on a misconception; for the erectile crest of the hoopoe, when laterally compressed (H. Lydekker The Royal Natural History London 1895 iv. 57 ff., col. pl., A. H. Evans The Birds of Britain Cambridge 1916 p. 108 f. fig.), bears a superficial resemblance to the regular sceptre of the gods (see e.g. C. Leemans on Horapoll. loc. cit. with fig. 54).

³ Supra p. 1112 n. 7.

⁴ See O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 2558, 2563.

⁵ Ant. Lib. 6 (supra p. 1121 f.) διδοῦ φυλάσσειν τὸ ἱερὸν σκήπτρον καὶ προσίναει πρὸς τὸν ἑαυτοῦ θρόνον.

Merops an early king of Kos¹. Behind such traditions lie definite beliefs. It was supposed, as I have elsewhere contended², that, when the divine king died, his soul escaped as a bird and in that shape continued to watch over the fortunes of his realm. Further, his divinity was transmitted to his successor in outward and visible form as an eagle-tipped sceptre to be handed down from king to king. Thus the soul of Agamemnon, for instance, became an eagle³; and the sceptre which had descended to him from Zeus⁴, with an eagle perched upon it⁵, was worshipped at Chaironeia as the chief of the gods⁶. The sceptre originally belonged

¹ Schol. Il. 24. 293 οἱ δέ, οἱ Μέρωψ ὁ Κῶπος ἀπαύστως ἐπένθει τὴν γυναῖκα, ξενίας δὲ τὴν Ῥέαν (C. Robert cj. Ἦραν) μετεβλήθη καὶ συμπάρεστιν αἰὲ τῷ Δίῳ, Eustath. in Il. p. 1351, 29 f. φέρεται δὲ μῦθος καὶ οἱ Μέρωψ Κῶπος, ἀπαύστως τὴν γυναῖκα πενθῶν θανοῦσαν, ξενίας Ῥέαν, μετεβλήθη εἰς αἰετὸν, καὶ σύνεστιν αἰὲ τῷ Δίῳ. It may be suspected that originally Merops was metamorphosed, not into an eagle, but into a bee-eater (μέροψ), cp. Ant. Lib. 18 and D'Arcy W. Thompson A Glossary of Greek Birds Oxford 1895 p. 116 f.

² Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 386 ff., cp. ib. 1905 xvi. 312, 1906 xvii. 165 ff., 313 ff.

³ Plat. rep. 620 B τὴν δ' ἐπὶ τούτῳ Ἀγαμέμνονος (sc. ψυχῆν)· ἐχθρὰ δὲ καὶ ταύτην τοῦ ἀνθρωπίνου γένους διὰ τὰ πάθη αἰετοῦ διαλλάξαι βλῶν. It would not be safe to conclude that Agamemnon's choice was due to Platonic fancy: Platon constantly founds on folk-belief (supra i. 310 f., 357 n. 4, ii. 43 ff., 63 n. o).

⁴ Il. 2. 100 ff. (Hephaistos made the sceptre for Zeus, from whom it passed successively to Hermes, Pelops, Atreus, Thyestes, and Agamemnon) with schol. ad loc. and Eustath. in Il. p. 181, 13 ff.

⁵ Aristoph. av. 509 ff. ΠΕ. ἤρχον δ' οὕτω σφόδρα τὴν ἀρχὴν ὥστ' εἰ τις καὶ βασιλεῖοι | ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν τῶν Ἑλλήνων, Ἀγαμέμνων ἢ Μενέλαος, | ἐπὶ τῶν σκῆπτρων ἐκάθητ' ὄρου, μετέχων δ' τι δωροδοκίῃ with schol. ad loc. ἐν γὰρ τοῖς σκῆπτροις τῶν βασιλέων ἦν αἰετός. But see supra i. 406 f.

⁶ Paus. 9. 40. 11 f. θεῶν δὲ μάλιστα Χαιρωνεῖς τιμῶσι τὸ σκῆπτρον ὃ ποιῆσαι Δίῳ φησιν Ὀμηρος Ἡφαιστον, παρὰ δὲ Διὸς λαβόντα Ἐρμῆν δοῦναι Πέλοπι, Πέλοπα δὲ Ἀτρεὶ καταλιπεῖν, τὸν δὲ Ἀτρεὶα Θυέστη, παρὰ Θυέστου δὲ ἔχειν Ἀγαμέμνονα· τοῦτο οὖν τὸ σκῆπτρον ἐσέβουσι, δῶρον ὀνομάζοντες. καὶ εἶναι μὲν τι θεϊότερον οὐχ ἥκιστα δηλοῖ ἐς τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ἐπιφανῆς ἐξ αὐτοῦ· φασὶ δ' ἐπὶ τοῖς ὄροις αὐτῶν καὶ Πανοπῶν τῶν ἐν τῇ Φωκίᾳ εὐρεθῆναι, σὺν δὲ αὐτῷ καὶ χρυσὸν εὔρασθαι τοὺς Φωκεῖς, σφίσι δὲ ἀσιμένους ἀπὸ χρυσοῦ γενέσθαι τὸ σκῆπτρον. κομισθῆναι δὲ αὐτὸ ἐς τὴν Φωκίδα ὑπὸ Ἡλέκτρας τῆς Ἀγαμέμνονος πελθομαι. ναὸς δὲ οὐκ ἔστιν αὐτῷ δημοσίᾳ πεποιημένους, ἀλλὰ κατὰ ἔτος ἕκαστον ὃ (H. C. Schubart, followed by H. Hitzig—H. Blümner, cj. ὃ κατὰ ἔτος ἕκαστον) ἱερόμενος ἐν οἰκίᾳ ἔχει τὸ σκῆπτρον· καὶ οἱ θυοῖαι ἀνὰ πᾶσαν ἡμέραν θύονται, καὶ τράπεζα παράκειται παντοδαπῶν κρεῶν καὶ πεμμάτων πλήρης. The worship of sceptre or spear was characteristic of a primitive age: Iust. 43. 3. 3 per ea tempora adhuc reges hastas pro diademate habebant, quas Graeci sceptra dixere. nam et ab origine rerum pro signis immortalibus veteres hastas coluere, ob cuius religionis memoriam adhuc deorum simulacris hastae adduntur, Philon Bybl. frag. 1. 7 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 564 Müller) ap. Euseb. praep. ev. 1. 9. 29 οἱ παλαιῶτατοι τῶν βαρβάρων ἱερατέρως δὲ Φοῖνικῆς τε καὶ Αἰγύπτου, παρ' ὧν καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ παρέλαβον ἀνθρώποι, θεοῦ ἐνό, μεγίστους τοὺς τὰ πρὸς τὴν βιωτικὴν χρεῖαν εὐρόντας, ἢ καὶ κατὰ τι εὐποιήσαντας τὰ ἔθνη· γέτας τούτους καὶ πολλῶν αἰτίους ἀγαθῶν ἡγούμενοι ὡς θεοῦ προσεκύνουν, καὶ εἰς τὸ χ. ἔν μεταστάνας ναοὺς κατασκευασάμενοι στήλας τε καὶ ῥάβδους ἀφέρουν ἐξ ὄνοματος αὐτῶν, καὶ ταῦτα μεγάλως σεβόμενοι, καὶ ἐορτὰς ἐνεμον αὐτοῖς τὰς μεγίστας Φοῖνικες. Examples of the cult are collected by De Visser De Gr. diis non ref. spec. hum. p. 90 f. § 94 ff. and Frazer Pausanias v. 210 ff., *Golden Bough*³: The Magic Art i. 365. It is possible that the object revered by the Chaeroneans was a sceptre found in the grave of some 'Minoan' chief (cf. C. Schuchhardt Schliemann's Excavations trans. E. Sellers London 1891 p. 250 f., Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art vi. 978 f., W. Dörpfeld Troja und Ilios Athen 1902 i. 385, 398, R. M. Dawkins in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1904—1905 xi. 284, H. R. Hall Aegean Archaeology London 1915 pp. 57, 242). H. C. Schubart in to the king as weather-maker, and the eagle on it was no mere decoration¹

Philologus 1860 xv. 400 thought that it was housed in a portable wooden shrine (ὄκημα!). But F. Thiersch in the Abh. d. bayer. Akad. 1858 Philos.-philol. Classe viii. 445 with far greater probability explained that the priest for the time being used a room (ὄκημα) in his own house as chapel for the chore sacrée. The annual tenure of his office seems to have been a method of ensuring his bodily competence (Folk-Lore 1904 xv. 394 ff.).

¹ K. Sittl Der Adler und die Weltkugel als Attribute des Zeus (Besonderer Abdruck aus dem vierzehnten Supplementbande der Jahrbücher für classische Philologie) Leipzig 1884 pp. 3—42 contains a rich collection of material. Here we are concerned only with the eagle in relation to the sceptre (cp. supra i. 127 fig. 96, 128 f. pl. xii, 200 f. fig. 146, 251 pl. xxii, 501 f. pl. xxxi, 590 fig. 450, 596 fig. 454, ii. 104 fig. 65, 512 fig. 390)—a combination which should be compared with the cuckoo-on-sceptre (supra i. 134 f., 532 fig. 399), the cock-on-column (G. von Brauchitsch Die panathenäischen Preisamphoren Leipzig and Berlin 1910 p. 106 ff. fig. 33 ff., R. Garrucci Storia della Arte Cristiana Prato 1881 iv. 59 pl. 251, 1), the woodpecker-on-post (Dion. Hal. ant. Rom. i. 14: see Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 375, Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i. pl. 24, 10, ii. 119, Harrison Themis p. 101 f. fig. 17, W. R. Halliday Greek Divination London 1913 p. 265. I figure (scale $\frac{2}{3}$) an engraved cornelian at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (J. H. Middleton The Lewis Collection of Gems and Rings London 1892 p. 50 no. 26), which shows a warrior consulting the woodpecker of Mars at Tiora Matiene (Dion. Hal. loc. cit.), the hawk-on-pillar (D. G. Hogarth Excavations at Ephesus London 1908 pp. 157 pl. 22, 1a, 161 f. pl. 25, 1 ff., 198, W. M. Flinders Petrie Tanis London 1888 ii. 2. 9, J. T. Bent *The Ruined Cities of Mashonaland*³ London 1895 p. 180 ff.), the dove-on-sceptre (*Encyclopaedia Britannica*⁹ London 1886 xx. 340 s.v. 'Regalia,' ib. xxi. 385 s.v. 'Sceptre,' Folk-Lore 1906 xvii. 315, The Daily Graphic for Dec. 14, 1907 p. 8 fig.), and the like.

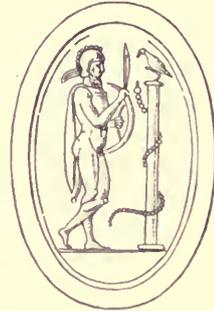

Fig. 957.

The earliest literary allusions (Pind. Pyth. 9 ff. εἶδει δ' ἀνὰ σκάπτῳ Διὸς αλερός, κ. τ. λ. with schol. ad loc. and Soph. frag. 799 Nauck², 884 Jebb, ap. schol. Aristoph. av. 515 ὁ σκηπτορῶν αλερός, κύων Διός) are at least suggestive of vitality. Cp. Append. N med. And classical numismatic art conceived of the bird as alive and active. On an archaic silver obol (?) of Galaria or Galarina in Sicily he is unusually large and prominent (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 64 fig., P. Gardner Types of Gk Coins p. 89 pl. 2, 1 f., G. F. Hill Coins of Ancient Sicily London 1903 p. 90 f. fig. 12, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 139 obv. CAAA, Dionysos standing with kántharos and vine-branch; rev. ΣΟΤΕΡ retrograde, Zeus enthroned with eagle-sceptre). On coppers of Ptolemy vi Philometor (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins The Ptolemies, Kings of Egypt p. 80 pl. 19, 2, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 388 ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ and ΕΥΛ (the regent Eulaios) and of Antiochos viii Grypos (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 90 pl. 24, 4, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 102 f. pl. 70, 1 ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΑΝΤΙΟΧΟΥ ΕΠΙΣΤΑΤΟΥΣ with ΙΕ to left, ΒΡΡ (= 120 B.C.) and ear of corn below, ib. iii. 103 pl. 70,³ the Macedonian eagle appears shouldering a sceptre. On a gold coin struck by K⁹son, king of Thrace (?) under the Romans, c. 42 B.C. the eagle carries a sceptre and a wreath (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thrace p. 208 fig., Hunter Cat. Coins i. 436, Ant. Münz. Berlin Paeonia etc. iii. 2. 23 fig., *Head Hist. num.*² pp. 272, 289). Denarii struck c. 49 B.C. by one Terentius Varro pro quaestore have obv. VARRO·PRO Q; a filleted bust of Iupiter (Terminalis?) to right; rev. MAGN·PRO COS (Magnus pro consule) in exergue, a sceptre upright between an eagle and a dolphin (emblems of earth, air, and sea?) (Babelon Monn. rép. rom. ii. 343, 485 f. fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. ii. 362 nos. 64, 65 pl. 100, 16, 66, 363 nos. 67, 68 pl. 100, 18, 69). An aureus of Q. Caecilius Metellus Pius Scipio, 48—46 B.C., has obv. METEL·PIVS SCIP·IMP, a bust of Iupiter (Terminalis?)

but an actual embodiment of Zeus¹, which conferred upon its holder the powers of the sky-god. This belief has left traces of itself throughout the historical period of Greece and Rome²; indeed, it appears to have lingered on³ well into the middle ages⁴. In a sense it is still with us⁵. But if the mythopoeic mind fitly transformed any ancient king into an eagle⁶, it did so in the case of Periphas with a clear conscience. For Periphas, as son or father of Lapithes⁷, was near akin to the Phlegyai⁸, whose very name marks them as an 'Eagle'-tribe⁹.

In conclusion, the devotion of Periphas to Apollon is adequately explained, either by the fact that in the Lapith genealogy Lapithes and Kentauros were to right, with an eagle's head and sceptre below (Babelon Monn. rép. rom. i. 278 f. fig., Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. ii. 571 fig.: there are denarii with the same type—Babelon op. cit. i. 279, Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. ii. 571 no. 4 pl. 121, 2, no. 5). A first brass of Hadrian has rev. PROVIDENTIAEORVM S.C., an eagle flying with a sceptre towards the emperor, who stands with a roll in his left hand (Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² ii, 208 no. 1207. Fig. 958 is from a specimen in my collection. Cohen ib. no. 1208 fig. shows a second brass with the same design).

Fig. 958.

¹ Supra i. 105 f. fig. 76, 164 n. 4, 532 figs. 395—400, 543 n. 6, and especially ii. 187 n. 8, 751 f.

² Supra p. 1133 n. 1.

³ Cp. R. Garrucci Storia della Arte Cristiana Prato 1881 iv. 76 pl. 226, 5.

⁴ Mrs H. Jenner Christian Symbolism London 1910 p. 41 f.: 'The Eagle is chiefly used to suggest the inspiration of the Holy Spirit to saints of the Old Law, such as David and Elisha, but it is not common.' This is illustrated by a plate from an English ms. of s. xi now in the British Museum (Cotton. Tib. C. vi), which shows David inspired by the eagle on his sceptre (Mrs Jenner by an odd slip says 'dove'): above is the hand of God, holding a horn full of rays. My friend Mr G. F. Hill kindly directs me to a discussion of the inspiration-type by C. R. Morey 'East Christian Paintings in the Freer Collection' in the University of Michigan Studies, Humanistic Series 1914 xii. 35 ff.

⁵ Supra p. 1133 n. 1 the dove-on-sceptre.

⁶ In addition to Periphas (supra p. 1121 f.), and Merops (supra p. 1131 f.), the shape-shifter Periklymenos underwent the same transformation (Hes. frag. 14, 3 f. Rzach ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 1. 156, Ov. met. 12. 556 ff., Hyg. fab. 10). ? Cp. Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 26, 71 and 72, ii. 132, if not also i pl. 25, 42, ii. 128.

⁷ Supra p. 1122.

⁸ See the pedigrees in Gerhard Gr. Myth. p. 227 f. ('Lapithen und Phlegyer').

⁹ Hes. sc. Her. 133 f. (arrows) ἄρισθε | μὲρφνοιο φλεγύαο καλυπτόμενοι περὲρ γέσσων, Hesych. s.v. φλεγύας · ἀετὸς ξανθὸς, ὄξυς, Soud. s.v. φλεγύας · ὁ ἀετὸς, et. mag. p. 795, 57 ff. φλεγύας, ἔστιν ἀετὸς, ἀπὸ τοῦ φλέγειν καὶ λαμπρὸς εἶναι. οἱ δέ, ὄρνεον παραπλήσιον γυπλί. Ἡσίοδος Ἀσπίδι, 'μορφνοῖο φλεγύαο,' τούτέστι μέλανος ἀετοῦ, Eustath. in Il. p. 933, 27 f. ῥήτωρ δέ τις, κατὰ στοιχείον συντάξας ἄπερ ἐπύνησε, λέγει καὶ ὅτι φλεγύας ξανθὸς ἀετὸς, κατὰ γλῶσσάν τινα, ὡς ἔοικεν. A. Fick in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung auf dem Gebiete der indogermanischen Sprachen 1914 xlvi. 77 f. renders φλεγύας 'der Schwarzadler' and adds: 'Das Wort wird soviel als "braun, dunkel" bedeutet haben: wie αἰθων braun, αἰθαλος Russ von αἰθω brennen, so φλεγύας von φλέγω brennen, engl. black zu germ. blek (φλέγειν).' See further my paper on 'Descriptive animal names in Greece' in the Class. Rev. 1894 viii. 381 ff. and, for the bird-tribes of Greece and Italy, an appendix by W. R. Halliday Greek Divination London 1913 p. 277 ff.

The central slab from the Eastern Frieze of the Parthenon, r.
1. The relief as extant in the British Museum.

E. T. T.

...ting the ritual Apotheosis of the King and Queen at Athens :
...e relief with flat coloration and metal accessories restored.

See page 1135 ff.

the sons of Stilbe by Apollon¹, or by the contiguity of the Olympieion to the Pythion². In any case it is noteworthy that at Ardettos, just across the Ilissos, Athenian jurors used to swear by Apollon Patrōios, Demeter, and Zeus *Basileús*³.

The myth of Periphas comes to us from an age that had largely forgotten its own antecedents. Few, if any, citizens even of Periclean Athens would have dared to assert that on the banks of the Ilissos there once lived a line of kings claiming to be Zeus incarnate. Nevertheless that is the real gist of the tale, and I do not see how we are to avoid accepting it as a genuine echo of bygone beliefs. After all, Periclean Athens, democratic to the core, still had its 'king' and still remembered that divinity clung about him⁴. If any doubted, he had but to lift his eyes to the scene carved by Pheidias' direction above the main doorway of the Parthenon. The central slab of the eastern frieze (pl. xlv)⁵ represents a ritual apotheosis⁶. The 'king' and 'queen' of Athens receive from

¹ Diod. 4. 69.

² Frazer Pausanias ii. 189 ff., v. 519 ff., W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 344 f.

³ Poll. 8. 122 ὠμυσαν δὲ ἐν Ἀρδήττω δικαστηρίῳ Ἀπόλλω Πατρῶιον καὶ Δήμητρα καὶ Δία Βασιλέα.

⁴ We must be careful here to rule out invalid evidence. Some statements, which prima facie connect the Athenian king with Zeus, or Zeus with the Athenian king, will not bear closer scrutiny.

The βασιλεύς of republican Athens, during his year of office, sat in the Στοὰ Βασιλείου (Paus. 1. 3. 1 with the notes of Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc., E. A. Gardner Ancient Athens London 1902 pp. 386 f., 518 f., W. Judeich op. cit. p. 295 ff.), which is sometimes said to have been named after Zeus Βασιλεύς (Hesych. s.v. Βασιλείου Στοά· δύο εἰσὶν Ἀθήνησιν Βασιλείου Στοαί, ἣ τε τοῦ λεγομένου Βασιλέως Διὸς καὶ ἣ τοῦ Ἐλευθερίου = Favorin. lex. p. 355, 13 f., Bekker anecd. i. 222, 29 f. Βασιλείου Στοά· Ἀθήνησι δύο εἰσὶ Βασιλείου Στοαί, ἣ τοῦ λεγομένου Βασιλέως Διὸς καὶ ἣ τοῦ Ἐλευθερίου); but this seems to be a misconception due to a transcriber's error (cp. Harpokr. s.v. Βασιλείου Στοά·... δύο εἰσὶ στοαί παρ' ἀλλήλας, ἣ τε τοῦ Ἐλευθερίου Διὸς καὶ ἣ Βασιλείου. ἔστι δὲ καὶ τρίτη τις, ἣ πάλαι μὲν Ἀνάκτιος καλουμένη, Παικίλη δὲ μετονομασθεῖσα, Soud. s.v. Βασιλείου Στοά· δύο εἰσὶ στοαί παρ' ἀλλήλας, ἣ τε τοῦ Ἐλευθερίου Διὸς καὶ ἣ Βασιλείου. ἔστι δὲ καὶ τρίτη, ἣ πάλαι μὲν Πανάκτιος (P. J. de Maussac cj. Πεισιανάκτιος cp. Diog. Laert. 7. 5 and Soud. s.v. Τήνων and Πεισιανάκτιος Στοά, G. Bernhardt cj. Πεισιανάκτιος) ἐκαλεῖτο, νῦν δὲ μετονομάσθη Παικίλη, whence Meursius in Hesych. loc. cit. restored δύο εἰσὶν Ἀθήνησι στοαί ἣ τε Βασιλείου λεγομένη τοῦ βασιλέως καὶ ἣ Διὸς τοῦ Ἐλευθερίου).

Cic. de nat. deor. 3. 53 Διόσκουροι etiam apud Graecos multis modis nominantur. primi tres, qui appellantur Anactes Athenis, ex rege Iove antiquissimo et Proserpina nati, Tritopatrus, Eubuleus, Dionysus. This passage forms part of the Catalogue of the gods, the origin of which has been much disputed. J. B. Mayor ad loc. would trace it back to Kleitomachos, who became head of the New Academy in 129 B.C. W. Michaelis De origine indicis deorum cognominum Berlin 1898 finds its ultimate source in the pseudo-Aristotelian péplas, which he attributes to an unknown Rhodian author of s. ii. B.C. W. Bobeth De indicibus deorum Leipzig 1904 thinks that the Catalogue was first drafted in 100—50 B.C. Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 p. 199 refers it to Aristokles of Rhodes, whose floruit falls in s. i. B.C. In any case the allusion to 'Zeus a very ancient king' betrays the influence of Euhemerus (supra i. 662, 758).

⁵ Pl. xlv, 1 is drawn from the best available photographs of the actual slab, viz. A. H. Smith The Sculptures of the Parthenon London 1910 pls. 34—36, supplemented by the casts of it in the Cambridge collection. Pl. xlv, 2 gives a restoration of the same.

⁶ So at least I ventured to suggest in the Class. Rev. 1904 xviii. 371, cp. Frazer *Golden Bough*³: The Dying God p. 89 n. 5. Other interpretations (which to me, their attendants the sacred péplos and two cushioned diphroi. Of these diphroi one is being handed to the 'queen,' the other with a footstool¹ is reserved for the 'king.' He is a very noteworthy personage. Alone of all the figures on the frieze, he is clad simply in a long chiton with short sleeves and in shoes—doubtless the Cretan garment² and royal footgear³, which we know to have been his distinctive attire. Court etiquette is conservative and these articles of apparel were reminiscent of 'Minoan' predecessors. But, to complete his costume, he needs a himation; and it seems not unreasonable to conjecture that he is about to put on immortality in the shape of Athena's *péplos*⁴. This done, the 'king'

I confess, seem inadequate) regard the scene as (1) the priest receiving the new péplos (most archaeologists); (2) the priest folding up and putting away the old péplos (G. F. Hill 'The east frieze of the Parthenon' in the Class. Rev. 1894 viii. 225 f., E. A. Gardner A Handbook of Greek Sculpture London 1897 ii. 291 f., id. Ancient Athens London 1902 p. 332 ff.); (3) the priest, about to sacrifice, handing his own himation to the boy, cp. the vase shown in the Arch. Zeit. 1879 xxxvii pl. 4 (A. Flasch Zum Parthenon-Fries Würzburg 1877 p. 99 ff., Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 277 f., Sir C. Waldstein 'The Panathenaic festival and the central slab of the Parthenon frieze' in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1885 i. 10 ff., id. Essays on the Art of Pheidias Cambridge 1885 p. 229 ff. ('The central slab of the Parthenon frieze and the Copenhagen plaque') pls. 11 f.); (4) the βασιλεύς, before sacrifice, about to put on his protinion (W. Watkiss Lloyd 'On the Central Groups of the Eastern Frieze of the Parthenon' in Transactions of the Royal Society of Literature Second Series (1892) xvi. 73 ff.); (5) the priest receiving a carpet (στρωμνή, cp. Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 589, 9 and 44 f.) to be spread before the seats of the gods for a theoxeny (E. Curtius in the Jahrb. d. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1894 ix Arch. Anz. p. 181, Miss J. E. Harrison in the Class. Rev. 1895 ix. 91, 427 f. ('The central group of the east frieze of the Parthenon: peplos or στρωμνή?')). See also E. Petersen 'Peplosübergabe' in the Arch. Zeit. 1877 xxxv. 136 f., A. Michaelis 'Peplos und Priestermantel' in the Festschrift für Johannes Overbeck Leipzig 1893 p. 178 ff., A. H. Smith in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture i. 156 ff., id. A Guide to the Sculptures of the Parthenon London 1908 p. 75 ff., id. The Sculptures of the Parthenon London 1910 p. 53, Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpt. p. 427, id. in the Class. Rev. 1895 ix. 274 ff.

¹ E. Petersen Die Kunst des Pheidias am Parthenon und zu Olympia Berlin 1873 p. 247 n. 1. •

² Poll. 7. 77 ἐκαλείτο δὲ τι καὶ Κρητικόν, ᾧ Ἀθήνησιν ὁ βασιλεὺς ἐχρήτο.

³ Poll. 7. 85 ὑποδημάτων δὲ εἶδη βασιλίδες· ἐφόρει δὲ αὐτὰς ὁ βασιλεὺς Ἀθήνησιν.

⁴ If it be objected that the βασιλεύς had no right to masquerade in the costume of Athena, various considerations may be urged in his defence. At the Greater Mystery of Pheneos in Arkadia the priest put on the mask of Demeter Kidaria before smiting the Underground Folk with rods (Paus. 8. 15. 3). The obverse of a gold stater with the name and types of Alexander the Great is believed by C. T. Seltman to exhibit the head of Demetrios Poliorketes wearing the helmet of Athena (Num. Chron. Fourth Series 1909 ix. 267 ff. pl. 20, 3). A Melian copper of imperial date shows a bearded male figure inscribed T|V|[X]|H, with left arm carrying a child and right arm resting on a pillar (Imhoof-Blumer Gr. Münzen p. 23 no. 66 pl. 2, 8), presumably a benefactor of Melos represented as her Tyche holding the infant Ploutos (so Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpt. p. 382 n. 3). The colossal statues of the Nemroud Dagh include Antiochos i of Kommagene, who in the accompanying inscription speaks of himself as Τύχης νέας (supra i. 744 n. 3). Conversely, the gold octadrachms and silver decadrachms etc. of the deified Arsinoe ii give her a horn like that of Zeus Ammon (J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. cited supra p. 773 fig. 739, C. T. Seltman Num. Chron. Fourth Series 1909 ix. 269, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 850). Again, it might be pointed out that a woman's péplos is really the same garment as a man's himation, both being essentially an oblong piece of woollen cloth folded for wear. But the true defence of the βασιλεύς is more and 'queen' will take their places on the diphroi set for them between the deities enthroned on either hand¹. With Zeus and Hera on the one side, Athena and Hephaistos on the other², they will appear with all the credentials of divinity.

But it is time to pass from the local myth of Periphas to the local custom of the Diasia³.

probably to be sought in the fact that on certain ritual occasions men were expected to don women's raiment—a custom on which I have said my say elsewhere (Class. Rev. 1906 xx. 376 f.). Miss Harrison has suggested to me (July 30, 1917) an explanation, which—if sound—would not only meet the objection here noted but also add much to the significance of the whole procedure. The 'king,' on my showing, is about to assume the péplos of Athena. Yes, but the péplos may be simply the 'Weltenmantel,' which Athena had taken over from the early Attic kings. Such a garment could be appropriately worn by the 'king,' who thus came by his own again. R. Eisler Weltenmantel und Himmelszelt München 1910 i. 58 ff., 77 ff., ii. 326 seems (though he is not very clear about it) to regard Athena's péplos as a cosmic robe. I fail to see that he has proved the point. When he states that the 'Praxiergidenpriesterinnen' ἀμφιέννουσιν ἐν ἑορταῖς τὸν πέπλον Διὶ Μοιραγέτει Ἀπόλλωνι (op. cit. i. 59), he is indulging in an ungrammatical (Ἰπραξειργίδαι should be masculine, and ἀμφιέννουσιν is not Greek at all) and highly improbable ('Δι...appellativisch (wie divus)') restoration of the mutilated text Corp. inscr. Att. i no. 93, 11 f. = J. V. Protz and L. Ziehen Leges Graecorum sacrae ii no. 14, 11 f. cited supra p. 231 n. 8.

¹ Similarly Philip of Macedon, immediately before his assassination at Aigai in 336 B.C., εἰδῶλα τῶν δώδεκα θεῶν ἐπόμπευε...σὺν δὲ τοῖσι τοῦτοῦ τοῦ Φιλίππου τρισκαίδεκατον ἐπόμπευε θεοπροπέε εἰδῶλον, σύνθρονον ἑαυτὸν ἀποδεικνύοντος τοῦ βασιλέως τοῖς δώδεκα θεοῖς (Diod. 16. 92).

² It seems likely that Pheidias had already employed the same principles of composition for the trophy erected at Delphoi as a tithe from the spoils of 'Marathon.' The account given by Paus. 10. 10. 1—2 has led to much discussion, which is conveniently summarised by H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc. Personally, I hold that the grouping of this remarkable monument was as follows:

[Three national worthies]		Five ἐπώνυμοι		ATHENA as goddess of Athens	MILTIADES	APOLLON		Five ἐπώνυμοι		[Three later ἐπώνυμοι]
					as god	of Delphoi

Three out of the ten ἐπώνυμοι, viz. Oineus, Hippothoon, and Aias, are not mentioned in the text of Pausanias (probably a clerical error, cp. E. Curtius in the Nachr. d. kön. Gesellsch. d. Wiss. Göttingen Phil.-hist. Classe 1861 p. 369 ff. = id. Gesammelte Abhandlungen Berlin 1894 ii. 365 f.). Later, when the ten tribes were increased to thirteen, the Athenians added at one end of the row three figures of the new ἐπώνυμοι, Antigonos, Demetrios Poliorketes, Ptolemy ii Philadelphos, and balanced them at the other end by three more figures of national worthies, Kodros, Theseus, Phyleus. It will be observed that, on this showing, the arrangement of the Delphic trophy definitely anticipated that of the eastern frieze of the Parthenon (I accept the view of A. S. Arvanitopoulos 'Phylen-Heroen am Parthenonfries' in the Ath. Mitth. 1906 xxxi. 38 ff. pl. 4 f. that the ten standing men of the eastern frieze are the eponymous heroes of the Attic tribes):

Head of Panathenaic procession		Five ἐπώ- νυμοι		Six seated DEITIES	KING and QUEEN of Athens with their attendants	Six seated DEITIES		Five ἐπώ- νυμοι		Head of Panathenaic procession
--------------------------------------	--	-----------------------	--	--------------------------	------------------------------------------------------	--------------------------	--	-----------------------	--	--------------------------------------

In both cases alike Pheidias' design portrays a virtual apotheosis—humanity raised to the rank of surrounding deities.

³ The best collection of sources will be found in O. Band Die Attischen Diasien Berlin 1883 pp. 3—10. The remainder of this excellent monograph suffers from undue compression and is admittedly incomplete.

(7) The Diasia.

Towards the close of the seventh century (636? 632? 628? B.C.) Kylon, an Athenian noble who had married the daughter of Theagenes tyrant of Megara, resolved with Theagenes' help to make himself tyrant of Athens. In answer to an enquiry the Delphic god bade him seize the Akropolis 'at the greatest festival of Zeus.' Kylon, who had been an Olympic victor, naturally took this to be the festival at Olympia. So he waited till it came round and then made his coup, which proved a disastrous failure¹. Thoukydides' comment concerns us:

'Whether the greatest festival spoken of was in Attike or elsewhere, was a point which he did not perceive and the oracle did not reveal. For the Athenians too have what is called the Diasia, a festival of Zeus Meilichios, greatest of any, held outside the city, at which all the people offer sacrifice—many not victims but sacrifices peculiar to the country².'

The difficulties of the Thucydidean style³ and the doubts attaching to the text⁴ have, I think, hindered scholars from asking the obvious question: Why did the oracle regard the Diasia as a suitable day for setting up a tyranny at Athens? The explanation is twofold: partly, no doubt, because the gathering of the populace outside the city would leave the coast clear for Kylon's attempt; but partly also because the Diasia was the festival of Zeus Meilichios, who represented the line of ancient kings. Kylon might in fact have acted under their auspices and been accepted as their successor. His presumptuous error spoiled what was, in reality or pretence, quite a pretty piece of politico-religious plotting⁵.

¹ Thouk. i. 126, Hdt. 5. 71, Aristot. de Athen. rep. frag. 8 p. 110, 14 ff. Blass—Thalheim, Herakleides Pontikos frag. 1. 4 (Frag. hist. Gr. ii. 208 Müller), Cic. de leg. 2. 28, Plout. v. Sol. 12 f., Paus. 1. 28. 1, 1. 40. 1, 7. 25. 3, Hesych. s.v. Κωλών(ε)ιον ἄγος, Soud. s.v. Κυλώνειον ἄγος, schol. Aristoph. eq. 445.

² Thouk. i. 126 εἰ δὲ ἐν τῇ Ἀττικῇ ἢ ἄλλοθι ποῦ ἡ μεγίστη ἐορτὴ εἰρητο, οὔτε ἐκείνος ἐτι κατενόησε τό τε μαντεῖον οὐκ ἐδήλου. ἔστι γὰρ καὶ Ἀθηναίους Διάσια ἃ καλεῖται, Διὸς ἐορτὴ Μειλιχίου μεγίστη, ἕξω τῆς πόλεως, ἐν ᾗ πανδημεὶ θύουσι, πολλοὶ οὐχ ἱερεῖα ἀλλὰ θύματα ἐπιχώρια with schol. ad loc. ἱερεῖα· πρόβατα and θύματα· τινὰ πέμματα εἰς ζῶων μορφὰς τετυπωμένα ἔθνον.

³ B. Jowett ad loc. would punctuate differently, reading either (1) ἔστι γὰρ καὶ Ἀθηναίους, Διάσια ἃ καλεῖται, Διὸς ἐορτὴ Μειλιχίου μεγίστη, κ.τ.λ. 'For the Athenians also have a greatest festival of Zeus, namely, of Zeus Meilichius, the Diasia as it is called'; or (2) ἔστι γὰρ καὶ Ἀθηναίους Διάσια, ἃ καλεῖται Διὸς ἐορτὴ Μειλιχίου μεγίστη, κ.τ.λ. 'For the Athenians also have a festival of Zeus, namely, the Diasia, which is called the greatest festival of Zeus Meilichius.' E. C. Marchant ad loc. translates as in (2).

⁴ E. F. Poppo—J. M. Stahl ad loc. cj. Διάσια ἢ καλεῖται. C. F. Hermann in Philologus 1867 ii. 1 ff. cj. ἐν ᾗ πανδημεὶ θύουσι πολλὰ οὐχ ἱερεῖα, κ.τ.λ. T. Hemsterhuys on Loukian. Tim. 7 cj. ἀλλ' ἄγνὰ θύματα ἐπιχώρια. O. Band op. cit. p. 4 regards the words ἔστι—μεγίστη as a probable and ἕξω—ἐπιχώρια as a certain interpolation.

⁵ In view of Kylon's connexion with Theagenes, note that the cult of Zeus at Megara bore some resemblance to the cult of Zeus on the Ilissos. A relief from Megara, like that from the Kallirrhoe-basin, associates Zeus with Acheloius (supra p. 1117 n. 7). Megara, like the Ilissos-bank, had its myth of the deluge (Paus. 1. 40. 1). And at Megara too there was an Olympieion with a famous statue of Zeus (Paus. 1. 40. 4 μετὰ ταῦτα ἐς τὸ τοῦ Διὸς (τοῦ Διὸς πρὸ cod. Monac.) τέμενος ἐσελθοῦσι καλούμενον Ὀλυμπιεῖον ναὸς ἐστι θεῶς ἄξιος· τὸ δὲ ἀγαλμα οὐκ ἐξεργάσθη τοῦ Διὸς ἐπιλαβόντος τοῦ Πελοποννησίων πολέμου πρὸς Ἀθηναίους, ... τῷ δὲ ἀγάλματι τοῦ Διὸς πρόσωπον ἐλέφαντος καὶ χρυσοῦ, τὰ δὲ λοιπὰ πηλοῦ τέ ἐστι καὶ γύψου· ποιῆσαι δὲ αὐτὸ Θεόκοσμον λέγουσιν ἐπιχώριον, συνεργάσασθαι δὲ οἱ Φειδιάν. ὑπὲρ δὲ τῆς κεφαλῆς τοῦ Διὸς εἰσιν ὦραι καὶ Μοῖραι· δῆλα δὲ πᾶσι τὴν Πεπωμένην μόνω οἱ πείθεσθαι, καὶ τὰς ὥρας τὸν θεὸν τοῦτον νέμειν ἐς (so H. C. Schubart—E. C. Walz for εἰς) τὸ δέον. ὅπισθε δὲ τοῦ ναοῦ κείται ξύλα ἡμίεργα· ταῦτα ἐμειλλεν ὁ Θεόκοσμος ἐλέφαντι καὶ χρυσῷ κοσμήσας τὸ ἄγαλμα ἐπέτέλειεν τοῦ Διὸς, supra i. 2 n. 2). Imperial coppers of Megara show a seated Zeus holding a Nike (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Attica etc. p. 122 pl. 22, 1 = my fig. 959, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 4 f. pl. A, 3, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 394) or an eagle (Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 5), which may be meant for Theokosmos' masterpiece, and a Zeus striding to the right with thunderbolt and eagle (Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 5 pl. A, 4 = my fig. 960, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 394), in which—since the god sometimes has a base—we must recognise another statue (cp. Paus. i. 40. 6 Διὸς Κοῦλου in a context cited supra p. 257 n. 4, Paus. i. 43. 6 καὶ ἐν τῷ ναφ τῷ πλησίον Μούσας καὶ χαλκοῦν Δία ἐποίησε Λύσιππος).

It remains to determine the place, time, and character of the Diasia. O. Band¹ and A. Mommsen² conclude in favour of the Ilissos-site. Not without reason; for here Zeus had been worshipped since the days of Deukalion³, and here, on the north bank of the river, just outside the Themistoclean wall⁴, there was convenient space for the people to assemble⁵. They did so on Anthesterion 22 or 23⁶, which in the time of Plutarch would have corresponded with March 22 or 23⁷. The inference to be drawn from this dating is that the Diasia, like the Lesser Mysteries of Agra (c. Anthesterion 20⁸) or the Pithoigia, Chôes, and Chýtroi (Anthesterion 11—13⁹), had a character at once chthonian and agrarian¹⁰. Zeus Meilichios, the buried king, was the giver of animal and vegetable life.

Fig. 959.

Fig. 960.

¹ O. Band Die Attischen Diasien Berlin 1883 p. 11.

² Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen p. 421 f.

³ Paus. i. 18. 8, supra p. 420.

⁴ Schol. Aristoph. nub. 408 ἐορτὴ Διὸς Ἀθήνησι τὰ Διάσια, ἐν ᾗ πανδημεὶ ἔξω τείχους συνόντες ἐορτάζουσιν (a paraphrase of Thouk. i. 126 cited supra p. 1138 n. 2) = Favorin. lex. p. 492, 36 f.

⁵ See A. N. Skias in the Πρακτ. ἀρχ. ἐτ. 1893 pl. A.

The Ilissos-site is highly probable, but not absolutely certain; for the Kephisos-site (W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 362 n. 5) likewise had claims to high antiquity and convenient proximity. It is not, however, so aptly described by the phrases ἔξω τῆς πόλεως, ἔξω τείχους, and its festal day appears to have been Hekatombaion 8 (supra p. 1091 f.).

⁶ Schol. Aristoph. nub. 408 Διασιόισιν· ἐορτὴ Ἀθήνησι Μειλιχίου Διὸς. ἀγεται δὲ μηνὸς Ἀνθεστηριῶνος ἢ φθινοῦτος. This would be Anthesterion 22 or 23, according as that month was 'full' (30 days) or 'hollow' (29 days): see the discussion and tables in A. Schmidt Handbuch der griechischen Chronologie Jena 1888 p. 200 ff.

⁷ Plout. v. Sull. 14 ἔλειν δὲ τὰς Ἀθήνας αὐτὸς φησιν ἐν τοῖς ὑπομνήμασι (frag. 13 (Hist. Rom. frag. p. 131 Peter)) Μαρτίας καλάνδαις, ἧτις ἡμέρα μάλιστα συμπίπτει τῇ νομηνίᾳ τοῦ Ἀνθεστηριῶνος μηνός, ἐν ᾗ κατὰ τύχην ὑπομνήματα πολλὰ τοῦ διὰ τὴν ἐπομβρίαν ὀλέθρου καὶ τῆς φθορᾶς ἐκείνης δρῶσιν, ὡς τότε καὶ περὶ τὸν χρόνον ἐκείνον μάλιστα τοῦ κατακλισμοῦ συμπεσόντος, infra § 9 (h) ii (ε).

⁸ Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen p. 406, supra i. 692 f.

⁹ Mommsen op. cit. p. 384 ff., supra i. 684.

¹⁰ Supra i. 687.

The ritual of the Diasia is imperfectly known. Thoukydides' statement that many, in lieu of 'victims,' offered 'sacrifices peculiar to the country' is annotated by the scholiast, who remarks (1) that 'victims' means sheep (próbata), and (2) that the 'sacrifices peculiar to the country' were cakes moulded into the forms of animals¹. Both observations are credible. On the one hand, we have seen that the 'fleece of Zeus' was stripped from a victim sacrificed to Zeus Meillichios or to Zeus *Ktésios*². On the other hand, we hear³ of a cult of Artemis at Syracuse, in which rustic singers were decked with a loaf that had wild beasts moulded upon it⁴, a wallet full of mingled grain, and wine in a goat-skin for distribution to all and sundry. They wore garlands, had stag-horns on their foreheads, and carried a crook in their hands. Thus equipped they vied with each other in song: the victor received the loaf of the vanquished and stopped in Syracuse; the vanquished went about the neighbouring villages collecting food for themselves. Their songs were full of mirth and merriment, and ended with the stanza:

Here's wealth for you!
Here's health for you!
We bring you what the goddess sends,
A boon and blessing to her friends!

It would seem that at Athens the god, and at Syracuse the votary, accepted the cake or loaf moulded with animal forms as a surrogate for the animals themselves in accordance with a well-known principle of ancient ritual⁵.

¹ Supra p. 1138 n. 2.

² Supra i. 422 ff. O. Band Die Attischen Diasien Berlin 1883 p. 4 (following E. F. Poppo on Thouk. 1. 126) à propos of the scholion τερεῖα· πρόβατα says curtly 'Immo χοίρους.'

³ Schol. Theokr. proleg. Β εἰρεσις τῶν βουκολικῶν b p. 3, 2 ff. Wendel (cp. anecd. Estense 3. 1 p. 7, 11 ff. Wendel, Prob. in Verg. ecl. p. 347 f. Lion, Diomed. ars gramm. 3 p. 486, 27 ff. Keil: Probus and Diomedes connect the custom with the cult of Diana Lyaea ἄδειν δὲ φασιν αὐτοὺς ἄρτον ἐξηρημένους θηρίων ἐν ἑαυτῷ πλέονας τύπους ἔχοντα καὶ πήραν πανσπερμίας ἀνάπλων καὶ οἶνον ἐν αἰγείῳ ἀσκή, σπονδὴν νέμοντας τοῖς ὑπαντῶσι, στέφανόν τε περικεῖσθαι καὶ κέρατα ἐλάφων προκεῖσθαι καὶ μετὰ χεῖρας ἔχειν λαγωβόλον. τὸν δὲ νικῆσαντα λαμβάνειν τὸν τοῦ νενικημένου ἄρτον· κάκεινον μὲν ἐπὶ τῆς τῶν Συρακουσίων μένειν πόλεως, τοὺς δὲ νενικημένους εἰς τὰς περιοικίδας χωρεῖν ἀγείροντας ἑαυτοῖς τὰς τροφάς· ἄδειν (so H. Schaefer for διδοῖναι codd.) δὲ ἄλλα τινὰ παιδιᾶς καὶ γέλωτος ἐχόμενα καὶ εὐφημοῦντας ἐπιλέγειν· 'δέξαι τὰν ἀγαθὰν τήχαν, | δέξαι τὰν ὑγίειαν, | ἂν φέρομες παρὰ τᾶς (so F. G. Schneidewin for τῆς E^b. A. T. τοῦ K.) θεοῦ, | ἂν ἐκαλέσσατο (ἐκλελάσκετο K. A. H. Ahrens cj. ᾗ 'κελήσατο C. Wendel cj. ἐκλάσκετο or ἐλακήσατο) τήνα (carm. ror. 42 Bergk⁴, 45 Hiller—Crusius).

⁴ ? cp. Athen. 64 E ελαφος πλακοῦς ὁ τοῖς Ἐλαφηβολοῖς ἀναπλασσομένους διὰ σπαιτῶς καὶ μέλιτος καὶ σσημόν.

⁵ Serv. in Verg. Aen. 2. 116 et sciendum in sacris simulata pro veris accipi. unde, cum de animalibus quae difficile inveniuntur est sacrificandum, de pane vel cera fiunt et pro veris accipiuntur. Lobeck Aglaophamus ii. 1079 ff. and Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild ii. 95 u. 2 have made full collections of the literary evidence. Countless archaeological finds illustrate the same principle: see W. H. D. Rouse Greek Votive Offerings Cambridge 1902 p. 295 ff. To take a single case, the pig for sacrifice might be replaced by a dog dressed in a pig-skin (so on a red-figured kylix at Vienna (Masner Samml. ant. Vasen u. Terracotten Wien p. 40 f. no. 321 fig. 24, F. Studniczka 'Ein Opferbetrug des Hermes' in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1891 vi. 258 ff. fig., J. E. Harrison—D. S. MacColl Greek Vase Paintings London 1894 p. 25 pl. 33, 1)), or by a terra-cotta pig (so with those from the precinct of Demeter and Kore at Tegea (Brit. Mus. Cat. Terracottas pp. xxxviii f., 78 no. B 46, A. Milchhöfer in the Ath.

Kylon's mistake suggests that already in the seventh century the Diasia was past its zenith. But popular rites die hard. Two hundred years later old-fashioned folk still thought of the family feast and the public fair. Aristophanes makes Strepsiades tell with gusto how once at the Diasia he roasted a haggis for his kinsmen¹, and how on a like occasion he spent an obol on a toy-cart for his little son². This is the last that we hear of the festival for more than half a millennium. Then came Lucian with his marvellous talent for galvanizing the past into a semblance of life. In the Ikaromenippos Zeus asks 'why the Athenians had dropped the Diasia all those years³.' In the Timon Hermes jogs the memory of Zeus himself:

'What, Father! Don't you know Timon—son of Echekratides, of Kollytos? Many's the time he's entertained us on perfect sacrifices, the wealthy parvenu of the whole hecatombs, with whom we used to feast like lords at the Diasia⁴.'

In the Charidemos there is a reference to literary competitions at the same festival⁵.

A stage more remote from the original facts was Eumathios Makrembolites, the Byzantine novelist (second half of s. xii A.D.) who penned the Romance of Hysmine and Hysminias. He laid its scene in the imaginary towns of Eurykomis and Aulikomis and dealt largely with the circumstances of the Diasia. The hero, Hysminias, wearing a bay-wreath, a long chiton, and sacred shoes⁶, went as herald of Zeus from the former to the latter town, where he was received as a god⁷ and entertained in the name of Zeus⁸, but proved himself to be very human by falling in love with Hysmine the daughter of his host. She, however, was betrothed to another; and her parents, who had escorted the herald back to Eurykomis, offered there at the altar of Zeus a sacrifice for the future happiness of their daughter. Thereupon an eagle swooped down and carried off the sacrifice. The parents were much upset at this evil omen⁹. But some of the bystanders took it to be a most auspicious sign¹⁰. And a friend of Hysminias pointed out to him that he might be the eagle, and carry off the bride¹¹—which he proceeded to do. We need not trace at greater length his rather banal escapades and adventures. But we should note that the god, whom he served so unworthily, is throughout spoken of as Zeus or Zeus *Patrios*¹² or Zeus *Phlios*¹³ or Zeus *Sotér*¹⁴ Mith. 1879 iv. 171, 174, C. A. Hutton Greek Terracotta Statuettes London 1899 p. 3 f.) or from that of Persephone at Tarentum (Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1886 vii. 24, W. H. D. Rouse op. cit. p. 301), or even by a ham-shaped coin (so with the curious coppers from the fountain at Nîmes (L. de la Saussaye Numismatique de la Gaule Narbonnaise Blois 1842 p. 159 pl. 20, 36, G. Long in Smith Dict. Geogr. ii. 414 f. fig., A. Boutkowski Dictionnaire Numismatique Leipzig 1884 ii. 1. 1738 f. no. 2833 fig., E. Muret—M. A. Chabouillet Catalogue des monnaies gauloises de la Bibliothèque Nationale Paris 1889 p. 61 no. 2839, H. de la Tour Atlas de monnaies gauloises Paris 1892 no. 2839 pl. 7, G. F. Hill A Handbook of Greek and Roman Coins London 1899 p. 3 f. fig. 2, Babelon Monn. gr. rom. i. 1. 675 f.)).

¹ Aristoph. nub. 408 ff.

² Id. ib. 861 ff.

³ Loukian. Ikaromen. 24.

⁴ Loukian. Tim. 7.

⁵ Loukian. Charid. 1, cp. 3.

⁶ Eumath. 1. 1 f., 1. 7, 4. 3, 4. 24, 5. 3, 8. 10, 8. 13, cp. 8. 19, 8. 21.

⁷ Id. 1. 3 δέχομαι παρ' αὐτοῖς οὐχ ὡς κήρυξ, ἀλλ' ὡς θεός.

⁸ Id. 1. 10 Διασίως καιρὸς, κατατροφήσωμεν τὰ Διάσια· ὅλοι γενώμεθα τῆς ἐορτῆς, ὅλοι τῆς πανηγύρεως. Ζεὺς παρὰ τῆς τραπέζης, καὶ Διὸς τράπεζα, ὅτι καὶ ὁ κήρυξ οὗτος Διὸς: cp. 6. 2.

⁹ Id. 6. 10.

¹⁰ Id. 6. 11.

¹¹ Id. 6. 13.

¹² Id. 6. 10.

¹³ Id. 3. 9, 5. 18.

¹⁴ Id. 4. 2, 5. 15, 6. 2, 6. 15, cp. 1. 14.

or Zeus *Xénios*¹, but never as Zeus Meilichios—a sufficient proof that the author, though he works up his material with some care, has not preserved to us a trustworthy record of Athenian cult.

The scholiast on Lucian, who here and there makes valuable remarks, tells us more than once that the Diasia was kept at Athens 'with gloomy looks,' such as befitted the worship of the dead². This agrees well with other indications concerning the ritual of Zeus Meilichios. An old Attic calendar, the lettering of which has been referred to the early part of s. v B.C., mentions 'sober' offerings to Milichios side by side with offerings to Meter at some date before the end of Gamelion³. Now 'sober' offerings consisted in the main of honey⁴, and were specially, though not exclusively, given to chthonian powers (Gaia⁵, the *Bona Dea*⁶, Dis⁷, Hekate⁸, the Eumenides⁹, Kerberos¹⁰) and the souls of the dead¹¹. The same might be said of the pigs sacrificed to Zeus Meilichios at the Peiraeus¹² and by Xenophon 'in accordance with his ancestral custom'¹³. In short, we have every reason to conclude that at Athens the cult of Zeus Meilichios was essentially chthonian—the worship of a buried king, who during his life-time had been hailed as the sky-god incarnate and still was present to bless his people with increase of field and flock and family.

¹ Eumath. 5. 8 f., 5. 14 f., 6. 1 f., 6. 9, 11. 3.

At the altar of this deity, who is called indifferently Zeus Σωτήρ or Zeus Ξένιος, the parents sacrifice about the third watch of the night (id. 5. 15, 6. 5, 6. 14, 6. 16, cp. 10. 9).

² Schol. Loukian. Icaromen. 24 p. 107, 15 f. Rabe Διάσια· έορτή 'Αθήνησιν, ήν έπετέλουν μετά τινωσ στυγνότητος θύοντες έν αύτή Δά Μειλιχίω, Tim. 7 p. 110, 27 f. Rabe Διάσια· έορτή 'Αθήνησιν ούτω καλουμένη, ήν είώθεσαν μετά στυγνότητος τινωσ έπιτελείν θύοντες Δά τώ Μειλιχίω, Tim. 43 p. 117, 14 ff. Rabe άποφράς·... έτελείτο δέ ταυτα κατά τόν Φεβρουάριον μήνα, ότε και τοίς καταχθονίοις ένήγιζον. και πάσ ούτος ό ήν άρείτο τοίς κατοικομένοις μετά στυγνότητος πάντων προΐόντων † έτερον † τρώπον, δν και τά Διάσια στυγνάζοντες ήγον 'Αθηναίοι. M. du Soul marked έτερον as corrupt. T. Hemsterhusius cj. έτέρων. Graeven cj. ούχ έτερον. O. Band Die Attischen Diasien Berlin 1883 p. 6 regards έτερον as euphemistic. If alteration is needed, perhaps we should read σκυθρωπότερον. Cp. Hesych. Διάσια· έορτή 'Αθήνησι. και σκυθρωπούς άπό τής έορτής ήν έπετέλουν μετά τινωσ στυγνότητος θύοντες, on which M. Schmidt acutely observes: 'Fortasse comicus dixerat βλέποντας Διάσια.'

³ Corp. inscr. Att. i no. 4 A, 3 ff., J. de Prot Leges Graecorum sacrae Lipsiae 1896 Fasti sacri p. 1 ff. no. 1 A, 3 ff. θάρ[γελοι? --- Δά Μ][ε]λιχίοι: ε[-----νεφ]δα: Μετρί: [έν'Αγρας---][.]σπυριχεια----- . Mommsen Feste d. Stadt Athen p. 421 infers that Zeus Milichios and Meter (= Demeter) were worshipped in or near Agra on the Ilissos: cp. supra p. 1118 n. 4.

⁴ W. H. Roscher Nektar und Ambrosia Leipzig 1883 p. 64 n. 167, id. Über Selene und Verwandtes Leipzig 1890 p. 49 n. 199, W. Robert-Tornow De apium mellisque apud veteres significatione et symbolica et mythologica Berolini 1893 p. 144, Journ. Hell. Stud. 1895 xv. 20 f. ⁵ Ap. Rhod. 2. 1271 ff. ⁶ Macrobian. Sat. 1. 12. 25.

⁷ Sil. It. 13. 415 f. For bees and honey in relation to Demeter and Persephone see supra i. 443 n. 6 f., ii. 1113 n. 0 no. (3).

⁸ Ap. Rhod. 3. 1035 f.

⁹ Aisch. Eum. 106 f., Soph. O.C. 98 ff., 480 ff. with schol. ad loc., Paus. 2. 11. 4.

¹⁰ Verg. Aen. 6. 417 ff., Soud. s.v. μελιτοῦτρα = schol. Aristoph. Lys. 601.

¹¹ Il. 23. 170 f., Od. 10. 518 ff., 11. 26 ff., 24. 67 f., Aisch. Pers. 607 ff., Eur. Or. 114 f. with schol. ad loc., I.T. 159 ff., 633 ff., Ap. Rhod. 2. 1271 ff., Soud. s.v. μελιτοῦτρα = schol. Aristoph. Lys. 601. See further H. Usener 'Milch und Honig' in the Rhein. Mus. 1902 lvii. 177—195 (= id. Kleine Schriften Leipzig—Berlin 1913 iv. 398—417) and S. Eitrem Opferritus und Voropfer der Griechen und Römer (Videnskapsselskaps Skrifter. 11. Hist.-Filos. Klasse. 1914. No. i) Kristiania 1915 pp. 102—105.

¹² Supra p. 1105.

¹³ Supra p. 1107.

(8) Zeus Meilichios at Argos.

Outside Athens the cult of Zeus Meilichios seems to have borne a similar character. Thus at Argos there was a seated statue of Zeus Meilichios, made of white marble by Polykleitos (so it was said) to purify the people from the stain of kindred bloodshed¹. Argive coppers of imperial date show several types of Zeus. Coins of Hadrian (fig. 961) and Lucius Verus give his head alone². Others, struck by Antoninus Pius, Marcus Aurelius, and Lucius Verus (fig. 962), represent

Fig. 961.

Fig. 962.

Fig. 963.

Fig. 964.

him enthroned with a phidyle in his right hand and a sceptre in his left³. Others of Septimius Severus and Plautilla (fig. 963) make him hold an eagle or a Nike in place of the *phidyle*⁴. On others, again, struck by Hadrian, Marcus Aurelius (fig. 964), Septimius Severus, Iulia Domna, Plautilla, and Valerianus Senior, he stands, naked, with a sceptre in his right hand and an eagle at his feet⁵; while yet another, by Plautilla, figures him striding, naked, with eagle and thunderbolt in his hands⁶. F. Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner suggest that the Zeus enthroned with phidyle and sceptre (fig. 962) may be Zeus Meilichios, and add that the head ¹ Paus. 2. 20. 1 f. with Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc. The statue has been attributed to the elder Polykleitos by Overbeck Schriftquellen p. 168 no. 941 and Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 50 f. (but see infra), G. Löschke in the Arch. Zeit. 1878 xxxvi. 11 n. 12, Collignon Hist. de la Sculpt. gr. i. 486, to the younger Polykleitos by H. Brunn Geschichte der griechischen Künstler Stuttgart 1857 i. 280 f. and in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1880 p. 469, Overbeck *Gr. Plastik*⁴ i. 508 f. (but see supra). Both attributions are called in question by C. Robert Archaeologische Maerchen aus alter und neuer Zeit Berlin 1886 p. 102, Furtwängler Masterpieces of Gk. Sculpt. p. 224, E. A. Gardner A Handbook of Greek Sculpture London 1897 ii. 332 n. 1. To me it seems clear (1) that Pausanias meant the elder and more famous Polykleitos, but (2) that marble was an improbable material for such a statue by him, and (3) that an obvious ground for the false ascription of the seated Zeus to him lay in the fact that he was the sculptor of the seated Hera (supra i. 134 f.).

² Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 36 pl. K, 27 = my fig. 961, Rasche Lex. Num. i. 1082.

³ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 36 pl. K, 25 = my fig. 962.

⁴ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 36 pl. K, 26 = my fig. 963.

⁵ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 36 pl. K, 28 = my fig. 964, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 148 pl. 28, 10 Hadrian, p. 150 Septimius Severus (with wrong reference to pl. 28, 21), Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 154 pl. 39, 13 Valerianus Senior, Rasche Lex. Num. i. 1083 Iulia Domna, Suppl. i. 1033 Septimius Severus, cp. 1034 Plautilla. Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner loc. cit., id. in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 148 n. * cp. Paus. 2. 20. 3 τούτων δὲ ἀπαντικρὺ Νεμείου Διὸς ἐστὶν ἱερόν, ἀγαλμα ὀρθὸν χαλκοῦν, τέχνη Λυσίππου (where H. C. Schubart cj. <τὸ> ἀγαλμα, but H. C. Schubart—E. C. Walz and Kayser omit ἱερόν with cod. Leid. a).

⁶ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 36, Rasche Lex. Num. Suppl. i. 1034.

of Zeus (fig. 961) being 'decidedly fine and early' is perhaps 'a reminiscence of the head of Polycleitus' statue¹. But, in view of the large number of Argive Zeuses², these conjectures are admittedly uncertain.

(9) Zeus Meilichios at Sikyon.

From Argos to Sikyon³, as the crow flies, is less than five-and-twenty miles. But in their representation of Zeus Meilichios Argives and Sicyonians differed to to caelo. The former could boast a masterpiece shown to visitors as the work of Antykleitos himself; the latter were content with an artless pyramid, not even anthropomorphic⁴. Why Zeus was given this peculiar shape, we are not told.

¹ Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 36.

² In addition to references already given (supra i. 117 Zeus 'Αφέσιος, 122 f. Zeus Λαρισαῖος, 134 f. Zeus as a cuckoo, 320 and 462 Zeus with three eyes, 448 and 456 Zeus Νέμειος, 461 Zeus Πανόπτης, ii. 704 ff. Zeus as a cuckoo, 712 ff. Zeus as partner of Hera, 875 n. 2 Zeus Φαλακρός, 892 n. 5 Zeus Λαρισαῖος, Λαρισσεύς) see Paus. 2. 19. 7 Δαναὸς δὲ ταῦτά τε ἀνέθηκε καὶ πλησίον κίονας ἐκ < > Διὸς καὶ Ἀρτέμιδος ξόανον (so most MSS. and H. C. Schubart, who indicated the lacuna: he is followed by Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner. Some of the older editors read ἐς Διὸς with cod. Paris c. H. C. Schubart—E. C. Walz, L. Dindorf, and F. Spiro print καὶ Διὸς after cod. Vindob. a. Clavier c. ὡς Διὸς. A. Kuhn c. ξόανα) where we should perhaps correct ἐκ Διὸς < κελείσματος > (cp. supra i. 371 n. 1) and suppose a pillar-cult of some sort, 2. 19. 8 βωμὸς Ἰερίου Διὸς (infra § 9 (h)), 2. 20. 6 καὶ Διὸς ἐστὶν ἐν ταῦθα ἱερὸν Σωτήρος, 2. 21. 2 πρὸ δὲ αὐτοῦ πεποιήται Διὸς Φυξίου βωμὸς, 2. 22. 2 πέραν δὲ τοῦ τάφου (sc. of Pelasgos) χαλκείον ἐστὶν οὐ μέγα, ἀνέχει δὲ αὐτὸ ἀγάλματα ἀρχαῖα Ἀρτέμιδος καὶ Διὸς καὶ Ἀθηῶν. Λυκίας μὲν οὖν ἐν τοῖς ἔκπεσιν ἐποίησε Μηχανεύς τὸ ἄγαλμα εἶναι Διὸς, καὶ Ἀργείων ἔφη τοὺς ἐπὶ Ἴλιον στρατεύσαντας ἐν ταῦθα ὁμοίαι παραμενεῖν (so H. C. Schubart—E. C. Walz for παραμενεῖν codd.) πολεμοῦντας, ἔστ' ἂν ἢ τὸ Ἴλιον ἔλωσιν ἢ μαχομένους τελευτῆ σφῶς ἐπιλάβῃ· ἑτέροις δὲ ἐστὶν εἰρημένον ὅσα ἐν τῷ χαλκείῳ κείσθαι Ταυτάλου. The word χαλκείον, which has been much misunderstood (see H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc.), presumably means a bronze cista. On the lid of it stood three archaic figures—an arrangement familiar to us from extant specimens (e.g. the 'Ficoronian'-cista, on which see Gerhard Etr. Spiegel ii. 14 ff. pl. 2, P. O. Brøndsted den Ficoroniske Cista Kjöbenhavn 1847, E. Braun Die Ficoronische Cista des collegio Romano Leipzig 1849, O. Jahn Die Ficoronische Cista Leipzig 1852, Baumeister Denkm. i. 453 f. fig. 500, Forrer Reallex. p. 148 f. fig. 146; the handle of another cista from Paestrina in Brit. Mus. Cat. Bronzes p. 106 no. 643). Lykeas, as an Argive poet (Paus. 1. 13. 8 f., 2. 19. 5, 2. 23. 8), followed local tradition. And it is possible that the bones in the cista really were those of some early chieftain worshipped after his death as Zeus Μηχανεύς (for whom see infra § 9 (h) i). Argive inscriptions further allude to the cult of Zeus Νέμειος (Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 602, 14 ff. καὶ θύσαντα τῷ Διὶ τῷ Νεμείῳ ἐκατόμβην, ib. no. 606, 11 f. = Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1123, 12 f. = W. Prellwitz in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. ii. 1. 131 f. no. 3293, 12 f. θύσαντά τε καὶ τῷ Διὶ τῷ Νεμείῳ ἐκατόμβαν πρῶτον καὶ μόνον) and Zeus Ἰψίστος (Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 620, 4 = Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 465. 8 = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 2. 286. 8 cited supra p. 878 n. 0 no. (4)).

³ I pass by Epidauros, because the evidence for a cult of Zeus Meilichios in that town is small—in fact depends on the suggested interpretation of a single letter. See J. Bannack 'Zu den Inschriften aus Epidauros' in Philologus 1895 liv. 37: 'Nr. 125 h. bei K. [= P. Kabbadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 p. 57] nur Ἀφροδίτας μελιχίας. Bl. (Ask. S. 123) [= C. Blinkenberg Asklepios og hans fraender i Hieron ved Epidauros Kobenhavn 1893 p. 123 no. 7] merkt darauf einen Zwischenraum von etwa 2 Zeichen an und hierauf ein Δ, was er ansprechend als den Anfang einer zweiten Inschrift Δ[ιὸς μελιχίου] erklärt,' Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1272 in letters of s. iii b.c. ΑΦΡΟΔΙΤΑΣΜΙΛΙΧΙΑΣ | ΔΤ = Ἀφροδίτας Μελιχίας. Δ[ιὸς Μελιχίου].

⁴ Paus. 2. 9. 6 cited supra i. 520 n. 2.

I do not, of course, mean to imply that the Sicyonians were averse from the Zeus-types

It is tempting to conjecture that his pyramid betokened a buried king. For tombs of pyramidal form occur sporadically from Egypt to Italy¹; and, if Eumelos of later art. A 'third brass' of Geta shows Zeus seated with a phiale in his right hand, a sceptre in his left (Rasche Lex. Num. viii. 912, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. i. 29). A copper of Caracalla (2) has CI KVV N Zeus standing to the left, naked, with thunderbolt in right hand, sceptre in left (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 55, Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner op. cit. i. 29 pl. H, 10=my fig. 965): cp. the obverse type of a quasi-autonomous coin in Numismata antiqua in tres partes divisa, collegit Thomas Pembrochiæ et Montis Gomerici comes Londinii 1746 ii pl. 28, 11, Rasche Lex. Num. viii. 910 Zeus standing, naked, with Nike in his right hand and a sceptre in his left. Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner loc. cit. rightly see in the British Museum coin an illustration of Paus. 2. 9. 6 τῆς δὲ ἀγορᾶς ἔστιν ἐν τῷ ὑπαίθρῳ Ζεὺς χαλκοῦς, τέχνη Λυσίππου (cp. Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 151 f.).

Fig. 965.

¹ A good collection of evidence is got together by R. Rochette 'Sur la pyra, comme type de monument funéraire' in the Mémoires de l'Institut National de France Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres 1848 xvii. 388—401, who derives pyramidal tombs from pyramidal pyres. Without necessarily subscribing to this view, we may admit that pyres and similar structures of funerary import must be taken into account along with actual tombs. A rough classification of the relevant monuments according to form would include (a) stepped pyramids, (b) smooth-sided pyramids, (c) stepped pyramids on plinths, (d) smooth-sided pyramids on plinths. Examples are:—

(a) The stepped pyramid at Saqqâra built by Zosiri of the third dynasty (G. Maspero *The Dawn of Civilization*⁴ London 1901 p. 359, E. A. Wallis Budge A History of Egypt London 1902 i. 193, 218 f. fig., J. H. Breasted A History of Egypt New York 1911 p. 113 f. fig. 63, E. Bell The Architecture of Ancient Egypt London 1915 p. 23 ff. fig.), or that at Riqqeh, whose occupant is unknown (G. Maspero *op. cit.*⁴ p. 359 n. 3), or again that at Médûm built by Snofrûi the last king of the third dynasty, though this at least was probably meant to be cased with polished stone (G. Maspero *op. cit.*⁴ p. 359 f. fig., E. A. Wallis Budge op. cit. ii. 24 f. fig., J. H. Breasted op. cit. p. 115 fig. 64, E. Bell op. cit. p. 25 f. fig.). The form has traceable antecedents, viz. the four-sided tumulus → the brick-built mastaba → the stone-built mastaba → a series of stone-built mastaba superposed = a stepped pyramid.

(b) The fully developed pyramids of Egypt, those of Kenchreai (A. Blouet etc. Expédition scientifique de Morée Paris 1833 ii. 92 pl. 55, 1—3, Frazer Pausanias iii. 212—214, v. 565 f.) and Ligouria near Epidaurus (A. Blouet etc. op. cit. ii. 164 pl. 76, 2 f., Frazer Pausanias iii. 233, v. 570), that at Astros in Kynouria (W. Vischer Erinnerungen und Eindrücke aus Griechenland Basel 1857 p. 327), that of Cestius on the via Ostiensis (A. Schneider Das alte Rom Leipzig 1896 pl. 4, 15, O. Richter *Topographie der Stadt Rom*² München 1901 p. 355, H. Jordan—C. Huelsen Topographie der Stadt Rom im Alterthum Berlin 1907 i. 3. 179 f.), if not also the one formerly existing near the Mausoleum of Hadrian and known to the middle ages, or earlier (Acron in Hor. epod. 9. 25), as the sepulcrum Scipionis or Romuli (O. Richter *op. cit.*² p. 280, H. Jordan—C. Huelsen op. cit. i. 3. 659 f., H. Jordan ib. Berlin 1871 ii. 405 f.). A pyramid of the sort is grouped with a warrior or gladiator (bustnarius?) in two different gem-types (E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 755 fig. 898, Reinach Pierres Gravées p. 65 no. 73, 5 pl. 65; Reinach op. cit. p. 83 no. 90 pl. 80).

(c) The stepped tomb of 'Kyros' on the site of Pasargadaï (C. F. M. Texier Description de l'Arménie, la Perse et la Mésopotamie Paris 1852 ii. 152 ff. pls. 81—83, Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art v. 597 ff. figs. 375—377, J. Fergusson *A History of Architecture in all Countries*³ London 1893 i. 196 ff. figs. 84—86) can hardly be said to have a plinth, but forms the starting-point for such edifices as the lion-tomb at Knidos (Sir C. T. Newton A is to be trusted, the eponymous king Sikyon, son of Marathon son of Epopeus, came of a family in which we have already seen reason to suspect successive incarnations of Zeus¹. To be sure, there were rival traditions with regard to Sikyon. Hesiod made him the son of Erechtheus². Asios the Samian genealogist³ took him to be the son of Metion son of Erechtheus, and this view was preferred by the Sicyonians themselves⁴. Finally, Ibykos deemed him the son of Pelops⁵. But the variants each and all suggest close connexion with Zeus. Erechtheus, the 'Cleaver,' was a cult-title of Zeus the lightning-god⁶. Metion is History of Discoveries at Halicarnassus, Cnidus, and Branchide London 1862—1863 i pls. 61—66, ii. 480—511, id. Travels & Discoveries in the Levant London 1865 ii. 214 ff., Brit. Mus. Cat. Sculpture ii. 214 ff. no. 1350, J. Fergusson *op. cit.*³ i. 284 f. fig. 164, P. Gardner Sculptured Tombs of Hellas London 1896 p. 224 ff. fig. 77), the Mausoleion of Halicarnassos, the stepped tomb at Mylasa (M. G. F. A. Comte de Choiseul-Gouffier Voyage pittoresque de la Grèce Paris 1782 i. 144 ff. pls. 85—89, Antiquities of Ionia published by the Society of Dilettanti London 1797 ii. 26 pls. 24—26, C. Fellows An Account of Discoveries in Lycia London 1841 p. 75 f. with pl.), and that near Delphoi (E. Dodwell Views and Descriptions of Cyclopiæ, or, Pelasgic Remains, in Greece and Italy London 1834 p. 20 pl. 36 f.).

(d) A good specimen of the smooth-sided pyramid on plinth is the tomb of 'Zechariah' in the Valley of Jehoshaphat near Jerusalem (T. H. Horne Landscape Illustrations of the Bible London 1836 i pl. 93 with text). See also supra i. 515 n. 5 fig. 388, ii. 814 f. fig. 781, cp. i. 600 ff. figs. 465—468.

Further cp. the pyramids built above the rock-cut tombs of the Maccabees at Modin (Macc. 1. 13. 25—30, Ioseph. ant. Iud. 13. 6. 5, Euseb. onomasticon de locis Hebraicis s.v. Modelm p. 290, 4 ff. F. Larsow—G. Parthey = Hieron. de situ et nominibus locorum Hebraicorum s.v. 'Modeim' p. 291, 6 ff. F. Larsow—G. Parthey: see V. Guérin Description géographique, historique et archéologique de la Palestine Paris 1868—1880 Seconde partie—Samarie ii. 55 ff. with two pls., Troisième partie—Galilée i. 47 ff., Perrot—Chipiez Hist. de l'Art iv. 361), the three pyramids built near Jerusalem by Helene, sister and wife of Monobazos Bazaïos king of Adiabene (Ioseph. ant. Iud. 20. 4. 3, bell. Iud. 5. 2. 2, 5. 3. 3, 5. 4. 2, Paus. 8. 16. 5, Euseb. hist. eccl. 2. 12. 3, Hieron. epist. 108. 9 (xxii. 883 Migne): see W. Otto in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vii. 2836 f.), the pyramid, decorated with Argive shields, beneath which the followers of Proitos and Akrisios were buried (Paus. 2. 25. 7), the pyramidal tombs built by Hieron ii at Agyrion in Sicily (Diod. 16. 83), those made for horses at Agrigentum (Plin. nat. hist. 8. 155), the rock-cut 'Sepolcro Consolare' at Palazzola (Palazzuolo) above the Alban Lake (A. Nibby Viaggio antiquario ne' contorni di Roma Roma 1819 ii. 125 f.), the 'Sepolcro di Pompeo' or, as the folk of the district call it, 'di Ascanio' on the via Appia near Albano (A. Nibby op. cit. ii. 110—112), and another tomb near Capua (J. C. Richard de Saint-Non Voyage pittoresque ou description des royaumes de Naples et de Sicile Paris 1781—1786 ii. 249).

All these and other related types (cones etc.) ought to be made the subject of a thoroughgoing investigation. It would, no doubt, be found that the structures in question were produced by a combination of factors, some of practical exigency, some of symbolic significance. I shall content myself with suggesting that one root-idea was that of a mountain reaching up to heaven—an idea comparable with those of the sky-pillar (supra p. 44 ff.), the soul-ladder (supra p. 121 ff.), the stepped or spiral tower (supra p. 128 f.).

¹ Supra i. 245 ff.

² Hes. frag. 229 Flach, 102 Rzach ap. Paus. 2. 6. 5.

³ E. Bethé in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 1606, W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*⁵ München 1908 i. 125.

⁴ Asios frag. 11 Kinkel ap. Paus. 2. 6. 5.

⁵ Ibyk. frag. 48 Bergk⁴ ap. Paus. 2. 6. 5.

⁶ Supra p. 793.

but another form of metteta, metiōeis, Zeus the 'Magician'¹. And Pelops too we have regarded as in some sense a human Zeus². Nevertheless I should not insist on the Sicyonian pyramid as sepulchral in character; for it must not be forgotten that at Tegea the pyramid-on-pillar was a favourite type for the representation of deities in general³.

(10) Zeus Melichios at Tegea.

From Tegea comes a dedication, of s. ii B.C. or earlier, to Zeus *Melichios*⁴. W. Immerwahr holds that the cult was of recent introduction⁵. But Tegea was an ancient Arcadian town⁶, and there is some ground for thinking that the Tegeates, like the Athenians, recognised the divinity of their early kings. At Athens—it will be remembered—the dead king seems to have been known as Zeus Sotér or *Téleios*⁷; and at Tegea Zeus Téleios had an altar and a square image (presumably a pyramid-on-pillar) of the usual Arcadian type⁸. Moreover, there are scattered indications that something rather like the Erechtheion and its royal worship existed at one time in Tegea. Aleos, the founder of the town⁹, was, like Erechtheus¹⁰, a quasi-divine king, whose head as shown on autonomous coppers closely resembles that of Zeus (fig. 966)¹¹. His house, like the house of Erechtheus, was still to be seen in Pausanias' time¹². Again, Aleos instituted the cult of Athena *Aléa*¹³ and established his kingdom in connexion with her sanctuary¹⁴. This suggests that he stood to her in the same sort of relation as Erechtheus to Athena Poliás. Further hints help to fill in the picture: Athena Aléa had a sacred couch in her temple¹⁵, was served by a boy-priest¹⁶, and on occasion received the

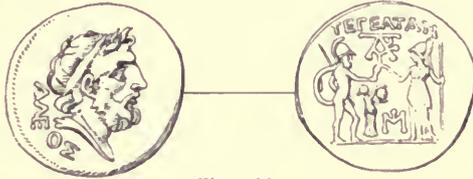

Fig. 966.

¹ Supra i. 14 n. 1.

² Supra i. 139.

³ Supra i. 520 n. 1, ii. 814 f.

⁴ O. Hoffmann Die Griechischen Dialekte Göttingen 1891 i. 33 no. 49, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1092, Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. ii no. 90 Διὸς Μελιχίωι Μεκύλο's ἀνέθηκε where F. Hiller von Gaertringen notes: 'Forma Δ et dativus in -ωi alterius, sed Μελ- pro Μειλ quarti potius saeculi a. Chr. esse videtur.'

⁵ Immerwahr Kult. Myth. Arkad. p. 30.

⁶ There was another Tegea in Crete, founded by Talthybios (Steph. Byz. s.v. Τέγεια) or Agamemnon (Vell. Pat. 1. 1. 2). Conversely, Tegea in Arkadia had its ὄρος...Κρήσιον (Paus. 8. 44. 7).

⁷ Supra p. 1123.

⁸ Paus. 8. 48. 6 πεποίηται δὲ καὶ Διὸς Τελείου βωμὸς καὶ ἄγαλμα τετράγωνον· περισσῶς γὰρ δὴ τι τῷ σχήματι τούτῳ φαίνονται μοι χαίρειν οἱ Ἀρκάδες.

⁹ Paus. 8. 45. 1.

¹⁰ Supra p. 793 f.

¹¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 202 pl. 37, 19 (=my fig. 966), Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 163, W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1856 European Greece p. 98, F. Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Com. Paus. ii. 108 f. pl. V, 23, Head Hist. num. 2 p. 455: autonomous copper struck after c. 146 B.C. obv. ΑΛΕΟΣ Bearded head of Aleos to right, wearing fillet; rev. ΤΕΓΕΑΤΑΝ Athena handing to Kepheus the hair of the Gorgon, while Sterope holds up a vase to receive it. In the field are two monograms.

¹² Paus. 8. 53. 10.

¹³ Paus. 8. 4. 8, 8. 45. 4.

¹⁴ Paus. 8. 4. 8.

¹⁵ Paus. 8. 47. 2.

¹⁶ Paus. 8. 47. 3 ἱεράται δὲ τῇ Ἀθηνᾷ παῖς χρόνον οὐκ οἶδα ὅσον τινά, πρὶν δὲ ἡβάσκειν καὶ οὐ πρόσω, τὴν ἱερωσύνην with Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc.

gift of a *péplos*¹. Notice too that, just as the safety of Athens depended on the snake kept in the Erechtheion², so the safety of Tegea depended on a lock of Medousa's hair which Athena had given to Kepheus son of Aleos³. The coins represent Kepheus' daughter Sterope receiving it in a jar (fig. 966)⁴. And it is permissible to conjecture that both at Athens and at Tegea the original talisman⁵ was the soul of the ancestral king living on as a snake⁶ in his burial jar⁷. The comparison will even take us a step further. The perpetual lamp of the Erechtheion⁸ was but a civilised form of the perpetual fire burning on the common hearth of a primitive folk⁹. Now Pausanias says: 'The Tegeates have also what they call the common hearth of the Arcadians.... The high place on which stand most of the altars of the Tegeates is called after Zeus *Klárrios*¹⁰: plainly the god got his surname from the lot (kléros) cast on behalf of the sons of Arkas. The Tegeates celebrate a festival here every year¹¹. Zeus Klárrios gave his name to the first of the four Tegeate tribes Klareótis, Hippochoítis, Apolloniádis, *Athaneátis*¹². But the legend of the lot is probably due to a mis-

¹ Paus. 8. 5. 3.

² Frazer Pausanias ii. 168—170 collects the evidence. The precise position of the snake's hole is doubtful (W. Judeich Topographie von Athen München 1905 p. 250 f., M. L. D'Ooge The Acropolis of Athens New York 1908 p. 209). H. N. Fowler in the Papers of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens 1882—1883 Boston 1885 would seek it somewhere under the N. porch of the Erechtheion, a view approved by M. P. Nilsson in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1901 xxi. 329. Not improbably it is covered by the small round cistern of Turkish (?) origin still to be seen in the N.W. corner of the crypt beneath the N. porch (Πρακτικὰ τῆς ἐπι τοῦ Ἐρεχθείου ἐπιτροπῆς Athens 1853 pl. 3 = F. Thiersch in the Abh. d. bayer. Akad. 1857 Philos.-philol. Classe viii pl. 3 will provide a coloured plan and section. See also P. Cavvadias—G. Kawerau Die Ausgrabung der Akropolis Athens 1907 pl. F', and the remarks of E. M. Beulé L'Acropole d'Athènes Paris 1854 ii. 251 f., D'Ooge op. cit. p. 207).

³ Paus. 8. 47. 5, cp. Apollod. 2. 7. 3, Phot. lex. s.v. πλόκιον Γοργάδος, Soud. s.v. πλόκιον Γοργάδος, Apostol. 14. 38.

⁴ Cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Peloponnesus p. 203 pl. 37, 20, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 163, W. M. Leake Numismata Hellenica London 1856 European Greece p. 98, F. Imhoof-Blumer and P. Gardner Num. Comm. Paus. ii. 108 pl. V, 22, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 455: obv. Head of Eileithyia (?) with torch at her shoulder; rev. [T]ΕΓΕΑΤΑΝ and type as above described. In the field are two monograms.

⁵ For other classical examples see Frazer Pausanias iv. 433 f. and *Golden Bough*³: Taboo p. 317, *ib.*³: Balder the Beautiful i. 83 n. 1.

⁶ K. Tümpel in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 1108 says 'βαστραχος; ob vielmehr Schlange?'—an acute suggestion.

⁷ Supra Append. H.

⁸ Strab. 396, Plout. v. Num. 9, v. Sull. 13, Paus. 1. 26. 6 f., schol. Od. 19. 34.

⁹ Sir J. G. Frazer 'The Prytaneum, the Temple of Vesta, the Vestals, Perpetual Fires' in the Journal of Philology 1885 xiv. 145 ff., id. Pausanias iv. 441 f., *id. Golden Bough*³: The Magic Art ii. 253 ff., *ib.*³: Adonis Attis Osiris³ ii. 174, id. Totemism and Exogamy London 1910 ii. 491, iii. 239.

¹⁰ The high place in question (684^m above sea-level) lies to the N. of the town and is now occupied by the modern village of Mertzauouzi. Another height (706^m) to the N.W. of the town, the ancient citadel, is crowned by the village of Hagios Sostis (V. Bérard in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1892 xvi. 541 with pl. 13).

¹¹ Paus. 8. 53. 9 f. cited supra p. 874 n. 2.

¹² Paus. 8. 53. 6, supra p. 164 n. 6. G. Gilbert Handbuch der griechischen Staatsalterthümer Leipzig 1885 ii. 127 notes that, according to inscriptional evidence (Corp.

taken attempt to explain the title Klários, which has been better interpreted by F. Solmsen as 'god of the High Place' (Klários for Krários*)¹. Be that as it may², Zeus Klários was not improbably the old divine king buried under the common hearth of his people. If such were really the beliefs of the Tegeates, the cult of Zeus Meilichios, whether imported or not, would flourish in their midst.

(11) Zeus Meilichos or Milichos in Boiotia.

At Orchomenos in Boiotia, the great stronghold of the Aeolian Minyai³, Zeus was worshipped under the title Meilichos. Towards the close of the third century B.C. a certain Anticharidas, priest of the god, brought forward a decree for the construction of a fountain in or near his sanctuary, the Meilichion, in order that persons sacrificing there might have a convenient supply of drinkable water⁴. The connexion with water recalls the Meilichios-cults of Athens⁵ and prepares us to find that here too Zeus was a chthonian god with fertilising powers. Now Orchomenos the eponym of the town is said to have been the son inscr. Gr. i nos. 1513, 1514 = F. Bechtel in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 351 ff. no. 1231 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 888 = Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. ii. no. 36 and F. Bechtel loc. cit. i. 357 ff. no. 1246 = Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. ii no. 38. Add Inscr. Gr. Arc. Lac. Mess. ii no. 6, 83 and 89, ii nos. 39, 40, 41, 173, 174), the names of the tribes were ἐπ' Ἀθαναίαν, Κραριῶται, Ἰπποβοῦται, Ἀπολλωνιάται. On their topographical distribution see V. Bérard in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1892 xvi. 549 with pl. 13.

¹ Supra p. 874 n. 2.

² Alii aliter. (1) M. Schmidt on Hesych. κλάρες: αἱ ἐπὶ ἐδάφους (so M. Musurus for ἐδάφου) ἐσχάραι suggests that Zeus Klários of Tegea drew his title hence.

If Zeus Klários was a god 'of Hearths,' his annual festival was presumably for the purpose of furnishing the people with new fire (Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Index p. 271 f.). This adds significance to a curious incident in the history of the town. According to Paus. 8. 53. 10, the Lacedaemonians once marched against the Tegeates at the time of the festival: 'It was snowing, and the Lacedaemonians were cold and weary with the weight of their weapons. But the Tegeates unbeknown to them kindled a fire and, not being incommoded by the chill, got under arms, marched out against the Lacedaemonians, and beat them in the action.' According to Polyain. 1. 8, when the Lacedaemonians were attacking Tegea, Elnes (?) king of the Arcadians bade the men of military age to charge downhill against the enemy at midnight, but the old men and children to kindle a huge fire outside the town at the same hour. The Lacedaemonians turned in astonishment towards the glare, and so fell a prey to the onslaught from the height. Both accounts presuppose the fire-festival of Zeus Klários.

(2) Immerwahr Kult. Myth. Arkad. p. 29 takes Zeus Klários to be 'god of Branches,' i.e. of suppliant-boughs, cp. Hesych. †κλάριοι (Immerwahr rightly adopts M. Schmidt's cj. κλάροι): κλάδοι and Aisch. supra p. 354 ff. ΠΕΛ. ὀρῶ κλάδοισι νεοδρόποις κατάσκιον | νεύονθ' ἔμιλον τόνδ' (so J. G. J. Hermann for τῶνδ') ἀγωνίων θεῶν followed by 359 f. cited supra p. 874 n. 2.

³ On the Minyai as Aeolians see A. Fick in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung auf dem Gebiete der indogermanischen Sprachen 1911 xlvii. 2 f., 5, ib. 1914 xlvii. 70, 76 f., 85 ff., 93, 102 ff.

⁴ Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1568, R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 191 no. 495 with i. 394, Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3169, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 701, Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 994 Δαμορθίδαο ἀρχοντος, | ιαρείადδοντος | Ἀντιχαρίδαο Ἀ[θ]αναοῖδῶρω, (ἀ π)όλις Δι Μειλί[χ]υ. | Ἀντιχαρίδαο Ἀθανοδῶρω ἐλ[ε]ξ[ε]· δεδόχθη τῷ δάμν, σπω[ς] ἐχ(υ)θι τῶν πολιτῶν τῷ (θ)ύ(ο)ν(τ)ες ἐ[ν] | (τ)ῷ Μειλιχίῳ ο(ῦ)ατι χρεεῖσθη [πο]τῖμν, κατασκευάτη κ(ρ)ά[δαν] | ἐν τῷ ιαροῦ εἰ παρ τὸ (ι)αρ[όν, εἰ κα] | δοκί ἐ[ν] καλλιστο[ι εἰμν].

⁵ Supra p. 1115 ff.

of Zeus¹ by the Danaid Hesione² or by Hermippe daughter of Boiotos³. Alleged descent from Zeus presupposes a line of kings believed to incarnate Zeus. Was one of them that Minyas, of Aeolian ancestry⁴, whose name was attached by the Orchomenians to their famous prehistoric thólos? It would seem so; for among the relics of funerary cult discovered by Schliemann within the thólos, relics ranging from 'Minoan' to Roman times⁶, was a slab of white marble inscribed with a late dedication to Zeus Téleios and Hera *Teleía*⁷. The old pre-Greek king, whose underground cupola with its rosettes of glittering bronze mimicked the midnight sky⁸, was indeed aptly succeeded by an Aeolian dynast revered as a nether Zeus⁹. With all the prestige of immemorial tradition behind him such an one would watch over the fortunes of his people. For instance, in or about the year 329 B.C., as we know from an inscription formerly (1868) to be seen in the court of the neighbouring monastery¹⁰, Orchomenian troopers, who

¹ Eustath. in Il. p. 272, 31 ὁ Βοιώτιος δὲ τῷ τοῦ Διὸς Ὀρχομενῶ ἐπωνόμασται.

² Schol. Ap. Rhod. 1. 230 Ἡσιώνης (Ἰσιώνης cod. Paris.) δὲ τῆς Δαναοῦ καὶ Διὸς γίνεται Ὀρχομενός, ἀφ' οὗ καὶ ἡ πόλις Ὀρχομενός καλεῖται (ἐκλήθη cod. Paris.). Rufin. recognit. 10. 21 Hippodamiam et Isonen Danai filias (sc. vitiat Iupiter), quarum unam Hippodamiam <matrem (inseui)> Olenus, Isonen vero Orchomenus sive Chryses habuit. O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 939 f. conjectures that the mother's name was Ἰσονόη: but see G. Weicker in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. viii. 1240.

³ Schol. D. Il. 2. 511 τὸν ἐν τῇ Βοιωτίᾳ λέγει Ὀρχομενόν, τὸν ὑπὸ Μιννοῦ βασιλευθέντα, τὸν ὀνομασθέντα ἀπὸ Ὀρχομενοῦ τοῦ Διὸς υἱοῦ καὶ Ἑρμιππῆς τῆς Βοιωτοῦ.

⁴ Ap. Rhod. 3. 1094 Αἰολίδην Μινύην with schol. ad loc. (cod. Paris.) Αἰολίδην δὲ τὸν Μινύαν λέγει, οὐχ ὡς θῦτα υἱὸν τοῦ Αἰόλου, ἀλλ' ὡς μητρῶθεν ἀπ' ἐκείνου καταγόμενον. Σισύφου γὰρ τοῦ Αἰόλου παῖδες Ἄλμος καὶ Πορφυρίων, Χρυσόγυνος δὲ τῆς Ἄλμου καὶ Ποσειδῶνος Μινύας. ὥστε ἐκ μητρὸς μὲν Αἰολίδης ὁ Μινύας, πατὴρ δὲ Ποσειδῶνος.

⁵ The genealogy of Minyas is very variously given: see in primis schol. Pind. Isthm. 1. 80 τοῦτον δὲ τὸν Μινύαν οἱ μὲν Ὀρχομενοῦ γενεαλογουσιν, ὡς Φερεκίδης (frag. 84 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 92 Müller)), ἔνιοι δὲ ἔμπαλι τὸν Ὀρχομενὸν Μινύον, ἔνιοι δὲ ἀμφοτέρους Ἐπεοκλῆος γενεαλογουσι, Διονύσιος (quis? Perhaps the Rhodian, cp. schol. Pind. Pyth. 1. 109, Nem. 3. 104) δὲ τὸν Μινύαν Ἄρεος ἀναγράφει, Ἀριστόδημος (sc. ὁ Ἀλεξανδρεὺς, cp. schol. Pind. Isthm. 1. 11) δὲ Ἄλεοῦ τὸν Μινύαν, καὶ τοὺς Ἀργοναύτας δὲ Μινύας ἐντεῦθεν γράφει προσηγορεῖσθαι with K. Tümpel's article in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 3016 ff.

⁶ H. Schliemann Orchomenos Leipzig 1881 p. 56 ff. = id. 'Exploration of the Boeotian Orchomenus' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1881 ii. 137 ff., Perrot—Chippiez Hist. de l'Art vi. 439 f., Frazer Pausanias v. 189, 191.

⁷ H. Schliemann Orchomenos p. 58 = id. in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1881 ii. 139 ('a slab of marble broken on the left side, with the inscription:— ... ΕΙΩΗΡΑΤΕΛΕΙΑ which Professor Sayce [May he be forgiven! A.B.C.] holds to be the end of an hexameter'), Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3217 [..... Δι Τελείει, Ἡρα Τελεία.

⁸ Supra i. 751 f.

⁹ Notice Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3218 Orchomenos [..... τὸν] ἐαυτῶν γυμνασι-αρχον | ἰον Ἑρμῆ καὶ Μινύα, which proves a definite cult of Minyas. In 1889 a herm of white marble was found near the church of Haghios Charalambos on a small hill to the W. of Thespiæ: beneath the phallós was inscribed τοὶ ἱεράρχαι ἀνέθεν | τοὶ ἐφ' Ἰππῶνος ἀρχοντος | τοῖς Δαιμόνεσσι | κ.τ.λ. (P. Jamot in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1895 xix. 375 ff. no. 28, Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 752, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1102). This inscription (c. 300 B.C.) associates Hermes with certain Δαίμονες. May we venture to conclude that they were the souls of bygone Thespian kings?

¹⁰ The monastery named after the Κοίμησις τῆς Θεοσόκου, the 'Falling Asleep of the Mother of God,' is believed to occupy the site of the ancient temple of the Charites (Frazer Pausanias v. 186, H. Hitzig—H. Blümmer on Paus. 9. 38. 1, K. Baedeker Greece Leipzig 1889 p. 188, J. Murray *Handbook for Travellers in Greece*⁷ London 1900 p. 562).

had served with Alexander the Great in Asia, returned home and testified their gratitude by a votive offering to Zeus *Sotér*¹.

At Thespiai, another ancient city of Boiotia, Zeus Milichos had a consort *Miliche*². Since Thespios, the eponymous hero of the place, was said to have been an Athenian and the son of Erechtheus³, or Teuthrás son of Pandion⁴, we may legitimately compare the cult with that of Zeus Meilichios at Athens. Accordingly, we are not surprised to learn that Thespiai made much of Zeus Sabtes, the local equivalent of Zeus Sotér. Pausanias heard all about him:

'The Thespians have in their town a bronze image of Zeus Sabtes. The story they tell of it is this. Once upon a time, when a snake (drákon) was ravaging the town, the god commanded that every year a youth, chosen by lot, should be given to the monster. They do not, they say, remember the names of the victims who thus perished. But they add that, when the lot fell on Kleostratos, his lover Menestratos resorted to the following expedient. He had a bronze breastplate made with a fish-hook on each of its plates, pointing upwards. This breastplate he put on, and offered himself willingly to the snake; for he meant by his offering to kill the monster, though he died for it. Hence Zeus got the name of Sabtes (the "Saviour")⁵.

So the Greeks had their own version of Slingsby and the Snapping Turtle! Indeed, the episode is but one variety of a world-wide myth, that of the dragon-slayer⁶. We must not, therefore, too hastily assume that the snake in question was the animal form of a divinised ancestor. Not improbably, however, the Boeotian Zeus Sabtes, like the Elean *Sosipolis*⁷, appeared on occasion as a snake, so that the old snake-myth, which originated elsewhere in a different connexion, would in Boiotia readily attach itself to the ancestral theriomorphic Zeus.

A relic of his cult has survived in a votive relief of white marble found at Sialesi and now in the Berlin collection (fig. 967)⁸. This monument, which might be good Attic work of the fourth century B.C., shows a bearded man and a boy approaching a cave in a rocky hill-side. The man holds an egg-shaped object, perhaps a honey-cake⁹, in his raised right hand. And a large snake writhes out of the cave to get it. If Sialesi is rightly identified with the site of the ancient Eteonos¹⁰ (later Skarphé), the cave may well represent the burying-

¹ P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1879 iii. 452 ff., R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. i. 170 f. no. 470, Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 3206, Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 1112 [τοῖσι πρῶτῳ τῷ ἐν τὰν Ἀσία[ν] στρατευόμενοι βασιλεῖς Ἀλεξάνδρω στραταγίοντος, | . ὀδῶρτω φιλαρχίοντος, Διὶ Σωτείρι ἀνέθιαν · κ.τ.λ.].

² P. Foucart in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1885 ix. 404 no. 15, Inscr. Gr. sept. i no. 1814 Θυνοκλῆδας Διονουσίω Διὶ Μελίχῳ κῆ Μελίχῃ (an inscription of s. ii or iii B.C.).

³ Diod. 4. 29, Paus. 9. 26. 6 (with Thespia daughter of Asopos as alternative eponym).

⁴ Steph. Byz. s.v. Θέσπεια, Eustath. in Il. p. 266, 6 f.

⁵ Paus. 9. 26. 7 f.

⁶ See Sir J. G. Frazer on Paus. 9. 26. 7 and the authorities cited supra i. 178 n., 782.

⁷ Paus. 6. 20. 5. See further C. Robert 'Sosipolis in Olympia' in the Att. Mith. 1893 xviii. 37—45 and the excellent article of L. Weniger in Roscher Lex. Myth. iv. 1222 ff.

⁸ Ant. Skulpt. Berlin p. 271 no. 724 fig., C. O. Müller—A. Schöll Archaeologische Mittheilungen aus Griechenland Frankfurt a/M. 1843 p. 97 no. 103 ('Opfer an die (Asklepios-) Schlange für einen (kranken) Knaben'), R. Kekulé von Stradonitz *Die griechische Skulptur*² Berlin 1907 p. 202 fig. ('Weihrelief an Zeus Meilichios'), Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 14 no. 1 ('Hommage au serpent d'Asklépios'), Harrison *Proleg. Gr. Rel.*² p. 20 f. fig. 5 and Themis p. 282 f. fig. 73. I am indebted to Miss Harrison for the photograph, from which my fig. 967 was drawn. Height 0.265^m, breadth 0.495^m to 0.505^m.

⁹ So Harrison Themis p. 282.

¹⁰ C. O. Müller—A. Schöll loc. cit., Ant. Skulpt. Berlin loc. cit.

place of Oidipous in the sanctuary of Demeter. Lysimachos of Alexandria¹ in his work on Theban Marvels wrote as follows²:

‘When Oidipous died, his friends thought to bury him in Thebes. But the Thebans, holding that he was an impious person on account of the misfortunes which had befallen him in earlier times, prevented them from so doing. They carried him therefore to a certain place in Boiotia called Keos and buried him there. But the inhabitants of the village, being visited with sundry misfortunes, attributed them to the burying of Oidipous and bade his friends remove him from their land. The friends, perplexed by these occurrences, took him up and brought him to Eteonos. Wishing to bury him secretly, they interred him by night in the sanctuary of Demeter—for they did not know the locality. When the facts transpired, the inhabitants of Eteonos asked the god what they should do. The god bade them not to move the suppliant of the goddess. So Oidipous is buried there, and³—adds Lysimachos—‘the sanctuary is called the Oidípodeion.’

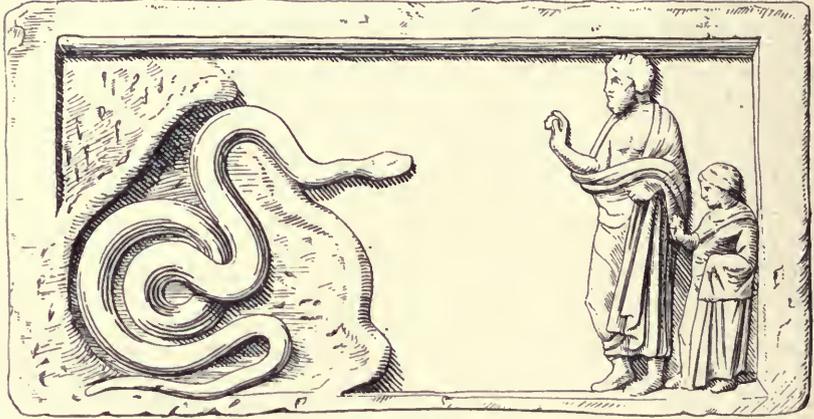

Fig. 967.

Demeter at Eteonos bore the surname *Euryódeia*³ and was certainly an earth-goddess⁴. Oidipous, buried in her precinct with the honours due to a suppliant⁵, would naturally be viewed as a beneficent chthonian power. In this capacity he would almost certainly be anguiform. Indeed, P. Kretschmer has argued that the name Oidípous, ‘Swell-foot,’ actually denoted a snake, being a euphemistic

¹ W. Christ *Geschichte der griechischen Litteratur*⁶ München 1911 ii. i. 184.

² Lysimachos frag. 6 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 336 f. Müller) ap. schol. Soph. O.C. 91, citing Arizelos, of whom nothing further is known (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 340 Müller).

³ Hesych. Εὐρύδεια · μεγαλάμοδος (so Musurus for μεγαλάμοφεδα cod.). καὶ ἡ Δημήτηρ οὕτως ἐν Σκαρφέα (so M. Schmidt for Σκαρφέα cod.). καὶ ἡ γῆ.

⁴ Et. mag. p. 396, 24 ff. εὐρυοδεία... ‘ἀπὸ χθονὸς εὐρυοδείης’ (Il. 16. 635, Od. 3. 453, 10. 149, cp. 11. 52), μέγα τὸ ἔδος ἐχούσης, ὃ ἐστὶν ἔδρασμα. ἔστι δὲ ἐπίθετον τῆς γῆς.

⁵ Cp. schol. Od. 16. 118 ‘Ἀρκείσιος Εὐρυοδείας (W. Dindorf cj. Εὐρυοδείας) καὶ Διὸς Eustath. in Od. p. 1796, 34 ιστέον δὲ ὅτι γενεαλογούσι Διὸς μὲν καὶ Εὐρυοδείας Ἀρκείσιον, which presupposes a union of Zeus with the earth-goddess.

⁶ Similarly in the Attic version Oidipous at Kolonos ἰκέτευσεν ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τῶν θεῶν Δήμητρος καὶ Πολιούχου Ἀθηνᾶς (Androtion frag. 31 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 374 Müller) ap. schol. Od. 16. 271. The passage continues καὶ Διὸς. ἀγόμενος < δὲ > ὑπὸ Κρέοντος κ.τ.λ. But W. Dindorf, following J. T. Struve, corr. καὶ βία ἀγόμενος ὑπὸ Κρέοντος κ.τ.λ.) appellation for the swollen coils of the creature appropriate to a chthonian hero¹.

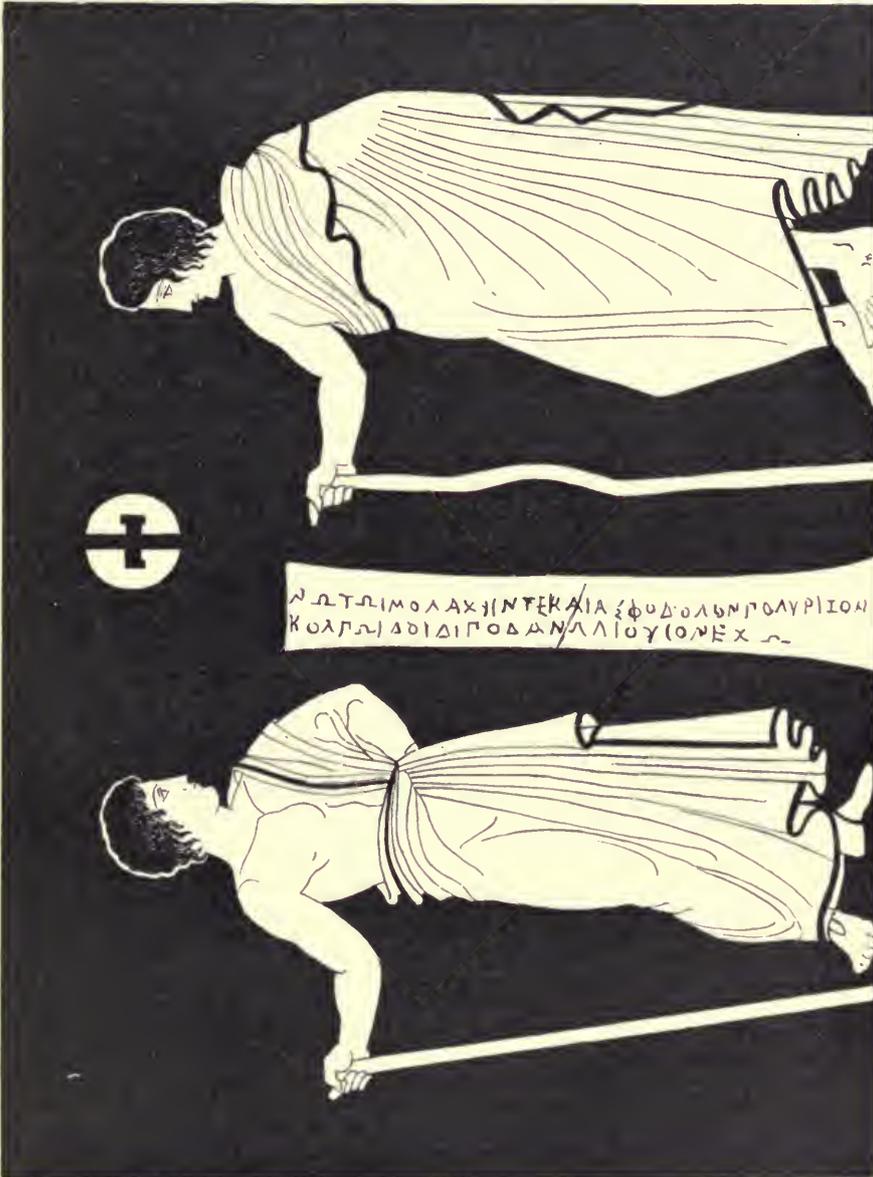

Fig. 968.

¹ P. Kretschmer Die Griechischen Vaseninschriften Gütersloh 1894 p. 191 n. 3
 'Οιδίπους erinnert an einen anderen rätselhaften mythischen Namen, den des frommen Sehers Μελάμπος: beides sind chthonische Heroen... Chthonische Wesen haben einen Schlangenleib statt der Füße Sollten nicht "Schwellfuss" und "Schwarzfuss" euphemis-

Again, the buried hero would be responsible for the growth of all living things. The Sialesi relief shows the snake propitiated by a grown man and a growing boy—a sufficiently suggestive picture. Moreover, a red-figured amphora from Basilicata, now in the Naples collection (fig. 968)¹, represents two youths, with himátia and sticks, standing to right and left of a stèle, which marks the grave of Oidipous. In the background hangs a pair of *haltères*², the sign of their devotion. But the most interesting feature of the design is the inscription on the stèle, a metrical couplet in which the grave apparently (though the speaker is not named) announces:

Mallows and rooty asphodel upon my back I bear,
And in my bosom Oidipodas, Laios' son and heir³.

Now mallows and asphodel were the common vegetable food of the Boeotian peasant, as we learn from a famous passage of Hesiod⁴. We may therefore reasonably regard this vase-painting as an illustration of the Boeotian Oidípodeion. And the more so, if—as seems probable—the dialect of the inscription contains sundry would-be Boeotisms⁵.

It appears, then, that Oidipous in his grave played a part not easily distinguishable from that of Zeus *Meilichios*⁶. There is, I think, that much of truth in a venturesome view advanced by O. Höfer, who after an exhaustive study of the hero's myth and monuments comes to the tentative conclusion that Oidipous after all may be but a hypostasis of the chthonian Zeus⁷. Sophokles knew what he was about in making the old king summoned hence by the tische Bezeichnungen des schwarzen geschwollenen Schlangenleibes sein, welcher diesen Heroen natürlich genommen wurde, als sie zu Helden der Dichtung wurden?⁷

¹ Heydemann Vasensamml. Neapel p. 415 f. no. 2868 pl. 7, B. Quaranta in the Real Museo Borbonico Napoli 1833 ix pl. 28, J. Millingen Ancient Unedited Monuments Series ii London 1826 p. 86 ff. pl. 36, Inghirami Vas. fitt. iv. 18 ff. pl. 315. Fig. 968 is copied from Millingen's coloured plate and Heydemann's facsimile of the inscription.

² Heydemann loc. cit. says 'ein Ball.'

³ $\nu\acute{\omega}\tau\omega\iota <\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu> \mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu \tau\epsilon \kappa\alpha\iota \acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\omicron\lambda\omicron\nu \mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\upsilon}\rho\iota\zeta\omicron\nu \mid \kappa\acute{\omicron}\lambda\pi\omega\iota \delta' \text{Ο}ιδ\acute{\iota}\pi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\alpha\nu \text{Λα\acute{\iota}\omicron\upsilon} <\nu> \acute{\iota}\delta\omicron\nu \xi\chi\omega$ (Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 2. 120). A. Boeckh in the Corp. inscr. Gr. iv no. 8429 quotes Eustath. in Od. p. 1698, 25 ff. $\acute{\epsilon}\phi\upsilon\tau\epsilon\upsilon\epsilon\tau\omicron \acute{\epsilon}\nu \tau\omicron\iota\varsigma \tau\acute{\alpha}\phi\omicron\upsilon\varsigma \tau\acute{\omicron} \tau\omicron\iota\omicron\upsilon\tau\omicron\nu \phi\upsilon\tau\acute{\omicron}\nu$ (sc. $\acute{\omicron} \acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\epsilon\lambda\omicron\varsigma$), $\acute{\omega}\varsigma \delta\eta\lambda\omicron\iota \kappa\alpha\iota \tau\iota \tau\acute{\omega}\nu \mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu \kappa\alpha\iota \acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\epsilon\lambda\omicron\nu \mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\upsilon}\rho\iota\zeta\omicron\nu, \kappa\acute{\omicron}\lambda\pi\omega \delta\acute{\epsilon} \tau\omicron\nu \delta\acute{\epsilon}\iota\nu\alpha \xi\chi\omega$ and surmises that Porphyrios found the epigram in the Aristotelian péplos (see Eustath. in Il. p. 285, 24 f.)—a view already put forward by Jaln Vasensamml. München p. cxxiv n. 914. Boeckh loc. cit. further cp. Auson. epitaph. 21. 1 f. (p. 79 Peiper) Hippothoum Pyleumque tenet gremio infima tellus: | caulibus et malvis terga superna virent, whence E. Curtius would read 'Ἰππόθοου τ' ἠδὲ Πύλαιον for τὸν δείνα in Eustath. loc. cit.

⁴ Hes. o.d. 41 with K. W. Goettling—J. Flach ad loc., and H. G. Evelyn White in the Class. Quart. 1920 xiv. 128 f.

⁵ $\mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu$ for $\mu\alpha\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu$, $\acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\omicron\lambda\omicron\nu$ for $\acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\epsilon\lambda\omicron\nu$, $\text{Ο}ιδ\acute{\iota}\pi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\alpha\nu$ for $\text{Ο}ιδ\acute{\iota}\pi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\eta\nu$, if not also (as Dr P. Giles suggests to me), $\text{Λα\acute{\iota}\omicron}\omega = \text{Λα\acute{\iota}\omicron}\omega$ for $\text{Λα\acute{\iota}\omicron}\omega$. J. Millingen loc. cit. p. 87 n. 5 says 'according to the Æolic dialect'; P. Kretschmer op. cit. p. 224 f., 'in attischem Dialekt,' regarding $\mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu$ as a blend of $\mu\alpha\lambda\acute{\alpha}\chi\eta\nu$ and $\mu\omicron\lambda\acute{\omicron}\chi\eta\nu$ (Athen. 58 D), $\acute{\alpha}\sigma\phi\acute{\omicron}\delta\delta\omicron\lambda\omicron\nu$ as a case of vulgar assimilation. Decernant peritiores.

⁶ Cp. Inscr. Gr. sept. ii no. 1329 an inscription in lettering of s. ii B.C. found at Akkesti near Thebes $\text{Α}\nu\sigma\iota\mu\alpha\chi\omicron\varsigma \mid \text{Με}\iota\lambda\iota\chi\iota\omicron\varsigma$.

⁷ O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 743 'Ist Oidipus vielleicht eine Hypostase des Zeus $\chi\theta\omicron\nu\nu\iota\omicron\varsigma$?' This suggestion should not be tossed on one side till the evidence adduced ib. p. 741 ff. has been carefully weighed.

thunders of Zeus *Chthónios*¹. When the moment of departure comes and Theseus remains 'holding his hand before his face to screen his eyes, as if some dread sight had been seen, and such as none might endure to behold²; the poet with consummate tact leaves the secret untold. But the mythologist may be forgiven, if he hazards the conjecture that Oidipous was then and there transformed into a snake.

(12) Zeus Meilichios in Thessaly.

The demolition of a mosque at Larissa in Thessaly brought to light two fragments of an Ionic architrave inscribed as follows³:

Makon, son of Omphalion, (dedicated) the temple to Zeus Meilichios and to *Enhodta*⁴ and to the City⁵.

The cult of the chthonian Zeus here had civic importance, and may fairly be connected with the founder of the state, Akrisios⁶, who—struck on the foot and slain by the diskos of Perseus—was buried in a heróion outside the town⁷ or else in the temple of Athena on the akropolis⁸. Akrisios was represented by Attic vase-painters of s. v B.C. as a bearded king, twice with a long sceptre⁹, once with a long staff and a wreath of olive¹⁰. He had a divine doublet in Akrisias, the

¹ Soph. O. C. 1606 κτύπησε μὲν Ζεὺς Χθόνιος κ.τ.λ. Supra p. 805 n. 6.

² Soph. O. C. 1650 ff.

³ Ath. Mith. 1886 xi. 336, S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1887 ii. 79, id. Chroniques d'Orient Paris 1891 p. 346, G. Fougères in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1889 xiii. 392 no. 9, Inscr. Gr. sept. ii no. 578 Μάκων Ὀμφαλιῶνος τὸν να[ὸν] | Διὶ Μειλιχίῳ καὶ Ἐνοδία καὶ Ἠόλῃ.

⁴ For this appellation of Hekate at Larissa cp. Inscr. Gr. sept. ii no. 575, 2 f. εἴξατο: δ' Ἀγέ[τ]ορ | φαστικῶι: Ἐνοδία.

⁵ Cp. Inscr. Gr. sept. ii no. 31, 2 (Hypata) Ἐρμῶι καὶ τῶι πόλει[τ], no. 94, 5 (Larissa Kremaste) Ἐρμῶι καὶ τῶι πόλει.

⁶ Hellanic frag. 29 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 49 Müller) ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. i. 40 = Favorin. lex. p. 1156, 25 f., Steph. Byz. s.v. Λάρισσα.

⁷ Pherekyd. frag. 26 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 77 Müller) ap. schol. Ap. Rhod. 4. 1091 = Eudok. viol. 40 = Favorin. lex. p. 99, 16 ff., Apollod. 2. 4. 4, cp. Paus. 2. 16. 2. Hyg. fab. 63 lays the scene in Seriphos and makes Akrisios struck on the head, cp. fab. 273. Further confusion in Lact. Plac. in Stat. Theb. i. 255 = Myth. Vat. 2. 111 (Perseus hurls the Gorgon's head at Akrisios and turns him into stone!).

⁸ Antiochos frag. 15 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 184 Müller) ap. Clem. Al. protr. 3. 45. 1 p. 34, 9 f. Stählin.

⁹ (1) On a red-figured kratér from Caere, now at Petrograd (Stephani Vasensamm. St. Petersburg ii. 281 ff. no. 1723, E. Gerhard Danae, ein griechisches Vasenbild (Winkelmanns-fest-Progr. Berlin xiv) Berlin 1854 with col. pl., Welcker Alt. Denkm. v. 275 ff. pl. 17, 1, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 406 f., 411 f. Atlas pl. 6, 2 f., Baumeister Denkm. i. 405 f. fig. 447 f., P. Hartwig Die griechischen Meisterschalen der Blüthezeit des strengen rothfigurigen Stiles Stuttgart—Berlin 1893 p. 396 f., J. D. Beazley Attic red-figured Vases in American Museums Cambridge Mass. 1918 p. 94 ('The Foundry Painter'), Hoppin Red-fig. Vases i. 458 f. no. 17).

(2) On another red-figured kratér from Caere, now at Petrograd (Stephani op. cit. ii. 139 ff. no. 1357, F. T. Welcker in the Mon. ed. Ann. d. Inst. 1856 p. 37 f. pl. 8, Welcker Alt. Denkm. v. 283 ff. pl. 17, 2, Overbeck op. cit. Zeus p. 412 f. Atlas pl. 6, 4, Reinach Rép. Vases i. 244, 1, J. D. Beazley in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1911-1912 xviii. 226 no. 16 and op. cit. p. 46 f. fig. 28 ('The Eucharides Painter'), Hoppin Red-fig. Vases i. 359 no. 20).

¹⁰ On a red-figured hydria at Boston (P. Hartwig 'Danaé dans le coffre' in the Mon.

Phrygian Kronos¹. It seems probable, therefore, that Akrisios was the royal embodiment of a sky-god². And the story of his death from the diskos of Perseus, like that of Hyakinthos' death from the diskos of Apollon³, is best explained as a genuine solar myth⁴. Whether Akrisios or Akrisias, as O. Gruppe supposes⁵, was originally a mountain-god, is doubtful⁶. Still more so is Gruppe's attempt⁷ to equate him with Arkésios or Arkelsios, a clipped form of *Arkesillaos*⁸, god of the underworld⁹. Ruling out such questionable possibilities, we must yet concede that Akrisios was likely enough to live on in the popular memory as a buried beneficent Zeus.

(13) Zeus Meilichios in the Archipelago, Asia Minor, etc.

The cult of Zeus Meilichios was wide-spread in the islands of the Archipelago. Rock-cut inscriptions at Thera show that Zeus Melichios was adored by the intimates of a certain Polyxenos¹⁰ and that Melichios received the offering of a 'singed' victim¹¹. Boundary-stones inscribed 'Of Zeus Meilichios' have been found at Palaiopolis in Andros¹², at Arkesine in Amorgos¹³, and in the district of Piot 1903 x. 55—59 pl. 8, J. D. Beazley op. cit. p. 51 f. fig. 32 ('The Painter of the Diogenes Amphora'), Hoppin Red-fig. Vases i. 206 no. 1).

¹ Hesych. Ἀκρισίας· Κρόνος, παρὰ Φρυξίβν.

² On Kronos as a sky-god see supra p. 548 ff.

³ Greve in Roscher Lex. Myth. i. 2760, G. Fougères in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 305, S. Eitrem in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ix. 9 f.

⁴ Pace S. Eitrem loc. cit. p. 16.

⁵ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 182 n. 2, 1105 n. 1 starting from ἄκρις = ocris derives Ἀκρίσιος from the former, Ocrisia from the latter and cp. Hesych. Ἀκρία· ἡ Ἀθηναῖα ἐν Ἀργεῖ, ἐπὶ τίνος ἄκρις ἰδρυμένη, ἀφ' ἧς καὶ Ἀκρίσιος (so Musurus for ὀκρίσιος. M. Schmidt suggests ὁ Ἀκρίσιος ὠνομάσθη. ἔστι δὲ καὶ ἡ Ἡρα καὶ Ἀρτεμις καὶ Ἀφροδίτη προσαγορευομένη ἐν Ἀργεῖ, κατὰ τὸ ὅμοιον ἐπ' ἄκρω ἰδρυμένην, cp. Methodios ap. et. mag. p. 52, 40 f. Ἀκρίσιος· ὁ ἦρας, ἀπὸ τῆς ἐν τῷ Ἀργεῖ ἄκρις. οὕτως Μεθόδιος.

⁶ A. Fick Die ehemalige Spracheinheit der Indogermanen Europas Göttingen 1873 p. 411 proposed to connect the Phrygian Ἀκρισίας with Hesych. ἄκριστων· κλέπτριαν (C. A. Lobeck cj. πέπτριαν). ἀλετριδα. Φρύγες. This, though groping in the dark, is better than et. mag. p. 52, 41 f. ὁ δὲ Ὀρος ἀπὸ τοῦ ἀκρίζω Ἀκρίσιος, ὡς παρὰ τὸ θαυμάζω θαυμάσιος. ἢ παρὰ τὸ κρίσις κρίσιος, καὶ ἀκρίσιος, ὁ ἄκριτος καὶ ὠμός. [ἀκρίζω δὲ σημαίνει τὸ ἄκριος ποσὶ πορεύεσθαι· κ.τ.λ.]

⁷ Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. pp. 253, 778, 1105 n. 1.

⁸ A. Fick in the Beiträge zur Kunde der indogermanischen sprachen 1906 xxx. 279: Ἀρκεῖσιος [Od. 14. 182, 16. 118, alib.] würde richtig Ἀρκεῖσιος = Ἀρκεῖσιλαος heissen; den anlass zu der entstehung gab der schreibung mit einem σ.

⁹ Cp. et. mag. p. 144, 33 ff. cited supra p. 549 n. 1.

¹⁰ With Inscr. Gr. ins. iii Suppl. no. 1316 Ζεὺς Μηλιχίος τῶν | περὶ Πολύξενον (fig.) cp. the other rock-cut inscriptions from the same locality ib. no. 1317 Ζε(ὶ)ς | τ[ῶ]ν περ[ὶ] Ἀ]άκιον and ib. no. 1318 Ζεὺς | τῶν περὶ Ὀλ[υμ]πίδωρον. Supra i. 144 n. 2 with i. 143 n. 13.

¹¹ Inscr. Gr. ins. iii no. 406 (supra i. 144 n. 1).

¹² E. Pernice in the Ath. Mitth. 1893 xviii. 9 f. no. 4 = Inscr. Gr. ins. v. i no. 727 on a large unworked stone ΔΙΟΞ | ΜΕΛΙΧΙΟ (fig.) = Διός | Με(ι)λιχί(ο). E. Pernice and F. Hiller von Gaertringen loc. cit. regard the line after O as a mere crack.

¹³ Inscr. Gr. ins. vii no. 89 on a rough stone in letters of s. iii or iv B.C. [Δι]ὸς Μειλιχίου, ib. no. 90 on a fragmentary slab of marble with lower moulding [Διός Μει]λιχίου. Note also ib. no. 92 on a small white marble base of Roman date Διός Σωτήρος, ib. no. 93 on a broken block of bluish marble in letters of s. iii B.C. Διός | Σωτήρο[ς], ib. no. 94 on a fragment of rough bluish marble Διὲ Τελ[εω], ib. no. 91 on a large marble slab

Saint Anna beyond Bouniki at Chios¹. A dedication to the same god has been recorded at Chalkis in Euboea². Nisyros had its sect of Diosmilichiaistai³, and Crete a joint-cult of Zeus Meilichios and Hera *Melichta*⁴.

Our search might be extended eastwards into Asia Minor and Egypt, westwards into Sicily and Italy. An altar 'Of Zeus Meil[ichios],' discovered at Knidos by Sir Charles Newton, is now in the British Museum⁵. Xenophon sacrificed pigs to Zeus Meilichios at Ophrynon⁶: but we have no reason to think that there was a local cult of this deity. Achilleus Tatios (? s. vi. A.D.⁷) brings Kleitophon and Leukippe, the hero and heroine of his novel, to Alexandria, his own native town.

ΔΙΟΣΑΝΑΛΩΙΟΥ = Διὸς Ἀνα(δ)ώ(τ)ου, 'of Zeus who sendeth up his Gifts from Below'—an obviously chthonian god (cp. supra p. 321 n. 1).

Other Zeus-cults of the same town: ib. no. 88 on a rough altar of bluish marble in letters of s. iv B.C. [Δ]ιὸς Ἀποτροπαίου (cp. P. Kabbadias Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 56 no. 119 = Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1285 Epidaurus, not later than s. iii B.C. Διὸς Ἀποτροπαίου, O. Rayet in the Rev. Arch. 1887 i. 107 ff. = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 839 B, 19 f., C, 2 ff. = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 1014 b, 69 f., c, 114 ff. Erythrai, a sale of priestships dating from the first half of s. iii B.C. Διὸς | Ἀποτροπαίου καὶ Ἀθηνᾶς Ἀποτροπαίας [Δ] [Ε] [Ε], ἐπιώνιον. [Ε] [Ε] and Διὸς | [Ἀπο]τροπαίου καὶ Ἀθηνᾶς Ἀπο[ρο]-[παί]ας [Η] [Α], ἐπιώνιον [Ε]), ib. no. 95 a metrical inscription on a marble slab Μνημοσύνης καὶ Ζηνὸς Ὀλυμπίου ἀγαθὰ τέκνα cp. Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 4. 33. 1, | κ.τ.λ., supra i. 194 f.

¹ A. G. Paspates Τὸ Χιακὸν γλωσσάριον Athens 1888 p. 421 f. no. 58 on Chian marble ΔΙΟΣ | ΜΙΛΙΧΙ [. .] = Διὸς | Μελιχί[ου].

At Mestá, six kilometers S.E. of the capital, is a place still called Olympi, where was a cult of Zeus Olympios and Herakles (Paspates op. cit. p. 410 no. 24 Διὸς Ὀλυμπίου) | καὶ Ἡρακλεῦς).

² Corp. inscr. Gr. ii no. 2150 ΕΡΜΙΩΝ ΜΕΛΙΧΙΟΥ ΔΙΔΙΟΝΙ which A. Boeckh ad loc. would read as Ἐρμιῶν Μελιχί(ω) Δι(ι ἀν(έ)[θηκεν].

³ A. E. Kontoleon in the Ath. Mitth. 1890 xv. 134, S. Reinach Chroniques d'Orient Paris 1891 p. 702, Inscr. Gr. ins. iii no. 104 a cylindrical base of white marble now serving as pedestal for an eikón in the church at Mandráki 1 ff. Γνωμαγόραν Δωροθέου | Νεισύριον | κ.τ.λ., ib. 13 ff. καὶ στεφανωθέντα ὑπὸ Ἐρμαῖζόντων χερσέοις στεφάνοις πλεονάκις, καὶ ὑπὸ Ἀφροδισιαστᾶν Σύρων καὶ ὑπὸ Διὸς Μελιχιαστᾶν, | [καὶ] τεμαθέντα ὑπὸ αὐτῶν καὶ στεφανωθέν[τα ὑπὸ Διον]υσιαστᾶν Εὐ[ρουθεμιδ]ίων τῶν σὺν | [τῷ δέινι - - -]. I should prefer to read (with Kontoleon and Reinach) Διοσμυλχιαστᾶν, cp. Διοσαταβυριαστᾶν (supra p. 924 f. n. 0).

⁴ F. Halbherr in the Museo Italiano di antichità classica 1890 iii. 621 f. no. 39 Hierapytna = J. Baunack in Philologus 1889 xlviii. 399 f. no. 3 Herakleion, a small altar inscribed ΖΗΝΙΜΗΛΙ | ΧΙΩΚΑΗΡΑ | ΜΗΛΙΧΙΑ | ΩΤΑΥΠΤΕ | ΡΤΑΡΔΑΛΑ | ΕΥΧΗΝ = Ζηνί Μηλιχίω κα(ι) Ἡρα | Μηλιχίω. | Σώτας ὑπέρ| Παρδάλα | εὐχῆν.

⁵ Sir C. T. Newton A History of Discoveries at Halicarnassus, Cnidus, and Branchidae London 1862—1863 i pl. 92 no. 40, ii. 755 (cp. 470) no. 40, R. Schoell in the Rhein. Mus. 1887 xlii. 478 ff., E. L. Hicks The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum iv. i. 24 f. Oxford 1893 no. 817. Newton, followed by Schoell, read ΔΙΟΣ ΜΕΙ as Διὸς Μεγ[ίστου]. But Hicks gives ΔΙΟΣ ΜΕΙ/ with Φ below ΔΙΟΣ and interprets as Διὸς Μελιχίου with inventory number. In addition to this mark of ownership the altar bears a second inscription, which Schoell took to be a modified hexameter [ἀθα]νάτοις | [θυ]θέντα | [δα]μιουργὸς Ἀρ[πο]κρά(ς) ἰδρύσατο | βωμόν. Hicks reads [ἀθα]νάτοις | [θυ]θέντα | [δα]μιουργὸς Ἀρ[πο]κρά(ς) ἰδρύσατο | βωμόν, and suggests with hesitation that ζ may be a numeral. He thinks that the name, Harpokras or the like, was substituted for that of an earlier dedicator. Non liquet.

⁶ Supra p. 1107.

⁷ W. Schmid in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 245.

'By a stroke of luck,' says Kleitophon¹, 'we happened upon a sacred month of the great god, whom the Greeks call Zeus and the Egyptians Serapis². The festivities included a torch-lighting; and I saw that remarkable sight. It was evening and the sun sank. Yet night was nowhere to be seen. Another sun made its appearance, or rather the small change of that gold piece. There before my eyes was the city rivalling the sky in beauty. On the one hand I saw Zeus Meilichios, on the other the temple of Zeus *Oouránios*³. So, after breathing a prayer to the great god and beseeching him that our troubles might at last come to a standstill, we reached the lodging hired for us by Menelaos.⁴

It may be inferred from this passage, not only that the Alexandrines had a statue of Zeus Meilichios and a temple of Zeus *Oouránios*⁴, but also that the former was a god of the underworld, the latter a god of the upperworld. Both are appropriately mentioned at a moment when the twinkling lamps below seemed to reflect the twinkling stars above. At Alaisa or Halaesa (Castel Tusa), founded or re-founded in 403 B.C. by the Sikel king Archonides ii⁶ on the north coast of Sicily, an inscription records among other topographical features 'the road past the *Meilichieion*⁶.' And, finally, an Oscan road-makers' tablet of c. 200 B.C. from Pompeii states that the aediles M. Suttius and N. Pontius laid out the Via Pompeiana, now known as the Strada Stabiana, with a breadth of three perches as far as the temple or precinct of Iupiter *Milichius*⁷.

Further indications of the cult might be sought in theophoric names⁸ such as Meilichios, a magistrate of Hierapolis in Phrygia⁹, or Meilichion, a woman of Elateia in Phokis¹⁰.

¹ Ach. Tat. 5. 2.

² Supra i. 188 ff.

³ θεασάμενη δὲ καὶ τὸν Μειλχιον Δία, καὶ τὸν Διὸς Οὐρανίου (so C. B. Hase, W. A. Hirschig, and S. Gaselee for οὐράνιον codd.) νεών.

⁴ Supra i. 8, 565 n. 2, 647 n. 7.

⁵ B. Niese in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 565.

⁶ Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 5594 col. dextra, 15 f. = Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 352 i, 15 f. κατὰ τὰς ὁδοὺ τὰς παρὰ τὸ | Μειλχιεῖον ἐς τὸν ῥοσκοῦν κ.τ.λ.

Coppers of Alaisa, struck during Timoleon's war with the Carthaginians (340 B.C.), have obv. ΞΕΥΣ ΕΛΕΥΘΕΡΙΟΣ head of Zeus; rev. ΑΛΑΙΣΙΝΩΝ ΣΥΜΜΑΧΙΚΟΝ torch between two ears of corn (G. F. Hill Coins of Ancient Sicily London 1903 p. 175, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 126). Coppers of the same town, struck after c. 241 B.C., have obv. a head of Zeus, usually to left, wearing a bay-wreath; rev. an eagle to left, standing with open wings (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Sicily p. 27, Hunter Cat. Coins i. 166 pl. 12, 6, Rasche Lex. Num. i. 269 f., Suppl. i. 425, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 126).

⁷ H. Grassmann in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1867 xvi. 103, J. Zvetaieff Sylloge inscriptionum Oskarum Petropoli 1878 i. 41 ff. no. 62, 5 ff., ii pls. 10, no. 5, and 10^a, R. S. Conway The Italic Dialects Cambridge 1897 i. 58 f. no. 39, 5 ff., C. D. Buck A Grammar of Oscan and Umbrian Boston 1904 p. 239 f. no. 3, 5 ff. lussu vĩa Pũmpaiiana ter|emnatens perek. 111 ant ka|lla Iũvels Meelfkiielis (= iidem vĩa Pompeianam terminaverunt perticis 111 usque ad aedem (cp. caeli templa in De Vit Lat. Lex. s.v. 'templum' § 2) Iovis Milichii).

⁸ E. Sittig De Graecorum nominibus theophoricis Halis Saxonum 1911 p. 15.

⁹ Imhoof-Blumer Kleinas. Münzen i. 238 f. no. 21, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phrygia p. lxxvii ... ΙΑΛΟ[Σ] | ΜΕΙΛΙΧΙΟΣ on the reverse of a copper struck by Augustus.

¹⁰ Inscr. Gr. sept. iii. 1 no. 174 a cone of grey limestone found near the E. foundation-wall of the temple of Athena Kranata at Elateia and now preserved in the local museum at Drachmani: the cone has a hole in its truncated top and is inscribed on the side ΜΕΙΛΙΧΙΟΝ | ΔΑΜΟΣΤΡΑΤΑ | ΜΙΚΑ | ΧΟΙΡΙΝΑ = Μειλχιος[ν], | Δαμοστράτα, | Μίκα, | Χοίρινα. P. Paris in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1887 xi. 345 f. no. 15 at first read Μειλχιος[ς], but concluded in favour of Μειλχιος[ν].

(14) Conclusions with regard to Zeus Meilichios.

It remains to gather up the results of our enquiry. Early Greek kings, especially such as could claim descent from Aiolos, were held to be embodiments of the sky-god Zeus, and as weather-makers for the community bore a sceptre tipped with the lightning-bird. Even when dead and buried the king continued to help his people. He preserved and perpetuated the tribe (Zeus Sotér). He brought its young folk to his own state of maturity (Zeus Téleios). He watched over its interests (Zeus Epópsios). Hence, like other chthonian powers, he was fitly addressed by a coaxing appellation—'the Kindly One' (Zeus Meilichios). Regents of this sort, at once human and divine, were, strictly speaking, datmones rather than theoi; and there is much to be said for O. Schrader's brilliant suggestion that in name, as in nature, they were the equivalent of the Latin *Lares*¹. They are best described in two passages of poetry which, though separated by a thousand years, yet derive mutual support and illustration from each other, and serve to assure us that the belief common to both was latent, if not patent, throughout the whole course of Greek history. Hesiod, looking ¹ Schrader Reallex. p. 29: 'Es steht daher nichts im Wege, für δαμων ein Grundform δασι-μων* anzusetzen, und den ersten Bestandteil dieses Wortes δασι-* unter Annahme eines bekannten Lautwandels (δακρυμα: lacrima) dem lat. lasi-* (lāres, lārium) "Geist eines Verstorbenen" zu vergleichen.' The context rightly maintains that previous derivations (from δαήμων, 'knowing,' or from δαλομαι, 'I divide,' or from the Sanskrit root div, 'to shine') are all unsatisfactory. I regret to see that Prellwitz *Etym. Wörterb. d. Gr. Spr.*² p. 103 and Boisacq Dict. étym. de la Langue Gr. p. 162 still cling to δαλομαι.

The word δασι-μων* is perhaps related to the name Δάσιμος or Δάξιμος. Δάσιμος Πύρρον is engraved on a bronze helmet from Anxia (Anzi) now in the British Museum (Brit. Mus. Cat. Bronzes p. 48 no. 317, Roehl Inscr. Gr. ant. no. 547, Roberts Gk. Epigr. i. 272 no. 269, Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 655); and Δάξιμος Πύρρον, presumably a descendant of the same family, is mentioned in the bronze tabulae Heracleenses (Inscr. Gr. Sic. It. no. 645 i, 5, 9, ii, 1, 5, 8, R. Meister in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 88 no. 4629 i, 5, 9, ii, 1, 5, 8, F. Solmsen Inscriptiones Graecae ad inustrandam dialectos selectae Lipsiae 1905 no. 18 i, 5, 9, ii, 1, 5, 8). The l-form of this name occurs in ΛΑΣΙΜΟΣ ΕΓΡΑΨΕ, an inscription on an Apulian amphora from Canusium (Canosa) now in the Louvre (Corp. inscr. Gr. iv no. 8486, Wien. Vorlegebl. 1889 pl. 11, 3, Reinach Vases Ant. p. 64 ff. Millin ii pl. 37 ff. with bibliography, P. Kretschmer Die Griechischen Vasenschriften Gütersloh 1894 p. 217 f.). The foregoing can hardly be separated from the definitely Messapian name ΔΑΣΙΜΑ (J. P. Droop in Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1905—1906 xii. 139 f. fig. 1, 2 Ceglie Messapica) and the Grecised or Latinised Δάσιος (Appian. Hannib. 31 and 45), Δάσιος (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Thessaly etc. p. 68 no. 52 ΔΑΖΙΟΣ on a coin of Dyrhachion, cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Italy p. 130 no. 1 f. ΔΑΙΟΥ on coins of Arpi, ib. p. 144 no. 4 ΔΑΙΕΝΙ and no. 6 ΔΑΙΥ on coins of Salapia, Hunter Cat. Coins i. 53 no. 1 pl. 4, 10 ΔΑΙΟΥ on a coin of Arpi), Dasius, Dasunius, etc. (De Vit Onomasticon ii. 568 f., R. S. Conway The Italic Dialects Cambridge 1897 ii. Index iii p. 566, F. Münzer, Stein and Groag in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 2218 f., 2222 ff.).

A. Zimmermann in the Zeitschrift für vergleichende Sprachforschung 1915 xlvii. 192 holds that the -da of Larunda is identical with the Δα- of Δαμάτηρ and regards Larunda δαιμόνων μήτηρ (G. Goetz—G. Gundermann in the Corpus glossariorum Latinorum Lipsiae 1888 ii. 121, 17) as a literal translation (cp. eid. ib. ii. 265, 62 δαίμονες ἦροι θεοὶ κατοικίδιοι: lares dicitur et lar).

For a useful vindication of the view that the Lares were originally the souls of deified ancestors see Miss M. C. Waites 'The nature of the Lares and their representation in Roman art' in the Ann. Journ. Arch. 1920 xxiv. 241—261.

backward to the Golden Age when men lived 'as gods' and the soil was fruitful to the uttermost, says:

But since the earth hath covered o'er this race
They are daimones by the will of mighty Zeus,
Good spirits that tread the ground and guard mankind,
Givers of wealth—a guerdon meet for kings¹.

The late writer of an Orphic hymn strikes the self-same note:

I bid the daimon to draw near, dread chief,
The Kindly Zeus, begetter and life-giver,
Great Zen, much-roaming², curse-bringer³, king of all,
Wealth-giving where he enters house full-force,
Or now again chilling the poor man's blood.
The keys of grief and gladness both are thine⁴.

The daimon, in short, was the theos incarnate⁵. And the Agathos Daimon par excellence was Zeus Meilichios.

APPENDIX N.

ZEUS PHÍLIOS.

It was pointed out by H. Usener⁶ that every important conception of a god tends to express itself verbally in more ways than one. The result is a succession of divine appellatives, practical synonyms which vary from time to time and from place to place. In accordance with this principle we find the Greeks worshipping, not only Zeus Meilichios or Meilichios, 'the Kindly One,' but also Zeus Phílios, 'the Friendly One.' The former title gradually became old-fashioned and wore out. The latter, with its appeal to the language of daily life, seemed more up-to-date, promised a business-like return, and consequently acquired a vogue of its own. Of course old centres remained more or less faithful to the old name, the connotation of which was enlarged in various directions. But new centres accepted, fixed, and popularised the novel epithet, which in its turn was filled with fresh meaning and expanded into an ever widening circle of applicability. Nevertheless Zeus Phílios was from the outset essentially akin to Zeus Meilichios, as may be seen from a brief survey of the relevant monuments and literary allusions⁷.

¹ Hes. o.d. 121 ff. cited supra p. 1130 n. 1.

² Supra p. 1096 n. 4.

³ Supra p. 1098 n. 5.

⁴ Orph. h. daem. 73. 1 ff. (ΔΑΙΜΟΝΟΣ, θυμίαμα λιβανον) δαίμονα κικλήσκω πελάσαι ἡγήτορα φρικτῶν, | μειλίχιον Δία, παγγενέτην, βιοδώτορα θνητῶν, | Ζῆνα μέγαν, πολύπλαγκτον, ἀλάστορα, παμβασιλῆα, | πλουτοδότην, ὅπστ' ἄν γε βρνάζων οἶκον ἐσέλθῃ, | ξμπαλι δὲ ψύχοντα βλον θνητῶν πολυμύχθων. | ἐν σοὶ γὰρ κλήδεις λύπης τε χαρᾶς τ' ὄχέονται. Supra i. 504 n. 2, ii. 1098 n. 5.

⁵ The relation of δαίμων to θεός is a thorny topic, which cannot be dismissed in a sentence, but must not here be pursued. See further J. A. Hild in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 9 ff., O. Waser in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iv. 2010f., Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² pp. 587, 624, 657, ead. Themis pp. 307, 386.

⁶ H. Usener Götternamen Bonn 1896 p. 56 ff. ('Erneuerung des Begriffs').

⁷ The evidence is well presented in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 2305—2308 by that excellent enquirer O. Höfer, to whose article I am much indebted.

(1) Zeus Phlios at Athens.

We begin with Athens. The priest of Zeus Phlios was a personage of importance, who in the time of Augustus had a reserved seat at the theatre¹. On the northern slope of the Nymphs' Hill, where—as we have already seen²—Zeus Meilichios was worshipped, Zeus Phlios too had obtained a footing as far back as s. iv B.C. For here in the archonship of Hegesias (324—323 B.C.) certain e-feanistal or club-feasters dedicated to him a stèle of Pentelic marble bearing a relief (fig. 969)³, which closely resembles the offering of [? Aris]toboule to Zeus Meilichios (fig. 943)⁴. The club-feasters too represent Zeus enthroned on the left with a phiale in his right hand, while a pig is brought to the altar before him. The pig is proof enough that Zeus Phlios, despite the eagle at his side, was a chthonian god⁵—a god much like the Agathos Daimon, as Miss Harrison adroitly shows by figuring together this relief and another from Thespiiai (fig. 951)⁶. But what—it will be asked—had feasters to do with a chthonian god

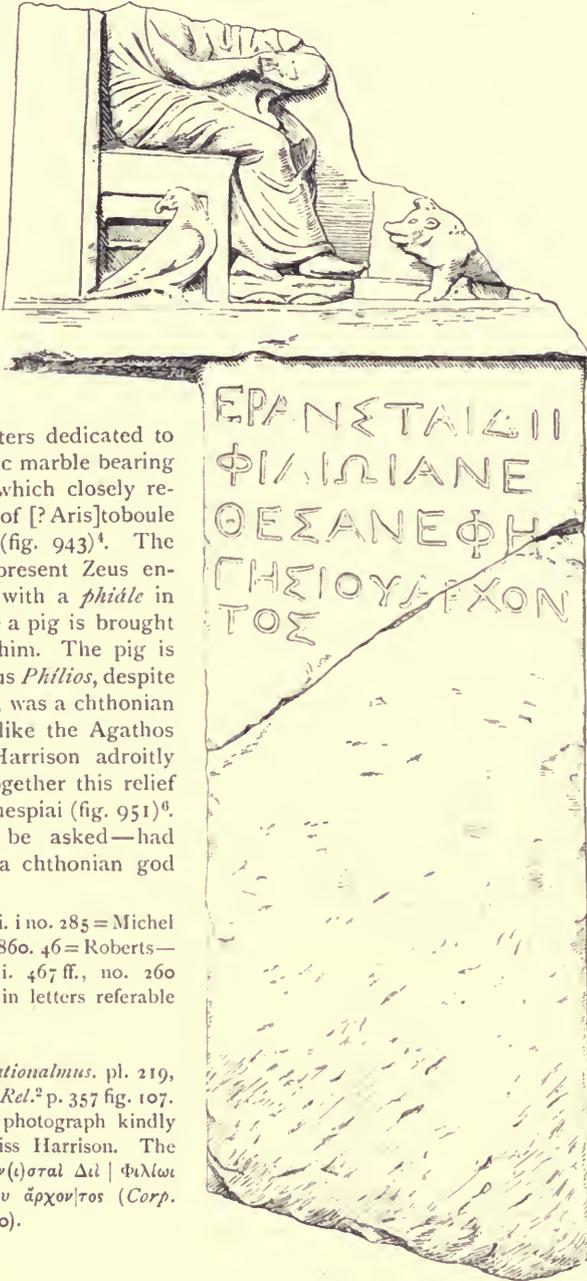

Fig. 969.

¹ Corp. inscr. Att. iii. i no. 285 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 860. 46 = Roberts—Gardner Gk. Epigr. ii. 467 ff., no. 260 ΙΕΡΕΩΣΔΙΟΣΦΙΛΙΟΥΤ in letters referable to the Augustan age.

² Supra p. 1114.

³ Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. pl. 219, 1, Harrison Proleg. Gk. Rel. 2 p. 357 fig. 107. My fig. 969 is from a photograph kindly supplied to me by Miss Harrison. The stèle is inscribed: $\epsilon\rho\alpha\nu(\epsilon)\sigma\tau\alpha\iota \Delta\iota\iota | \Phi\iota\lambda\iota\omega\iota \delta\alpha\epsilon\lambda\theta\epsilon\sigma\alpha\nu \epsilon\phi' \text{'Η}\gamma\eta\sigma\tau\omicron\upsilon \alpha\rho\chi\omicron\nu\tau\omicron\varsigma$ (Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1330).

⁴ Supra p. 1105 f.

⁵ Supra p. 1105.

⁶ Supra p. 1125 n. 1.

akin to a divinised ancestor? In view of our discovery¹ that at an ordinary banquet food was assigned 'to dead friends' and drink offered to the father of the clan under the titles of Zeus Sotér and Zeus Téleios, we may well suppose that a dinner-club would reverence its deceased founder as Zeus Phlios and think of him as still a sharer in the common festivity. His presence would transform the meal into a communion² and safeguard the participants against the intrusion of evil³ without in any way diminishing their social merriment.

In the other world too Zeus Phlios was a feaster, as appears from an Attic relief of fourth-century style, now in the Jacobsen collection at Ny Carlsberg (fig. 970)⁴. Within an architectural framework we see the man-turned-god recumbent on a couch, with a cornu copiae in his left hand, a phiale in his right, and a table bearing flat and pointed cakes (pyramides made of wheat and honey⁵) at his side. On the foot of the couch sits a goddess holding in both hands a fillet or perhaps rather a garland for the neck (*hypothymis*⁶), the carving

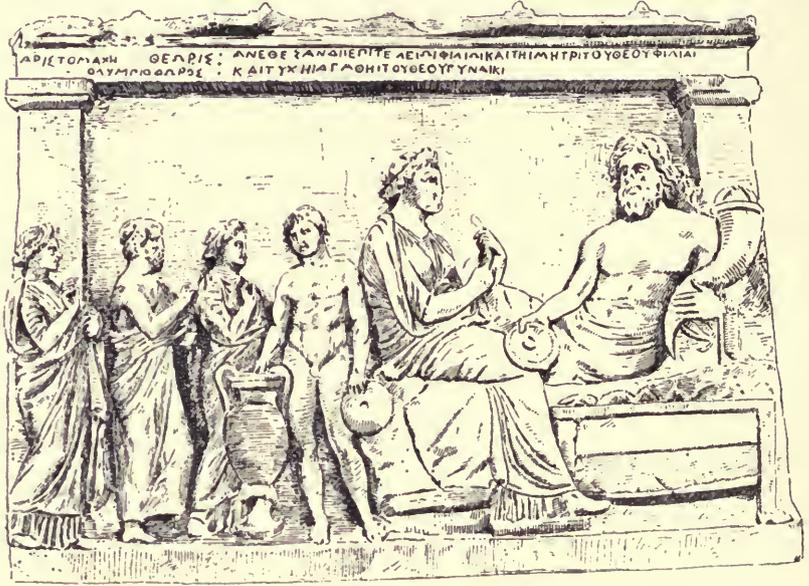

Fig. 970.

¹ Supra p. 1129.

² On communion with the dead by means of food see e.g. Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild ii. 154. Infra p. 1170 ff.

³ An important consideration during a repast, when the mouth must be opened and bad spirits as well as good food might gain a ready entrance. In the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1902 xxii. 22 ff. I have argued that the common kottabos-stand was originally a feasters' gong intended to keep evil at a distance.

⁴ Ny Carlsberg Glyptotek: Billedtavler til Kataloget over Antike Kunstvaerker Kjøbenhavn 1908 no. 95, A. Furtwängler 'Sogenanntes "Todtenmahl"-Relief mit Inschrift' in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 i. 401—414 with fig. (=my fig. 970), Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 354 ff. fig. 106, ead. Themis p. 312 f. fig. 90.

⁵ Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. vi. 2250 D.

⁶ Id. ib. viii. 338 D ff.

of which would be eked out by means of colour. Behind the goddess stands a naked cup-bearer, dipping his right hand into the kratér so as to fill the phidèle in his left. Then, on a smaller scale, we have two women and a man approaching from the left with hands raised in adoration. The architrave above carries an inscription, which throws a good deal of light (together with some darkness) on the scene represented :

'Aristomache, Olympiodoros, Theoris dedicated (this) to Zeus Epitéleios Phllios and to Philla the mother of the god and to Tyche Agathé the god's wife!'

We gather that the dedicators are worshipping their kinsman transformed into a chthonian Zeus—Epitéleios because he has himself come 'to maturity',² Phllios because he will be 'friendly' to his friends. The goddess associated with him is in all probability his wife, Tyche Agathé as the inscription calls her. An Agathe Tyche makes an appropriate partner for one who is essentially an Agathos Daimon. This being so, we should have expected Philla, the feminine form of Phllios, to be a second title attached to Tyche. Instead of that, it is treated as the name of a third deity, who is described as the mother of the god. Possibly the curious distribution of divine names was motived by the fact that the dedicators too were three in number—a man, his wife, and his mother³. Possibly also an effigy of Philla was added in paint on the smooth background between Zeus Epitéleios Phllios and Tyche Agathé.

But this does not exhaust the interest of our relief. The artist has, somewhat unexpectedly but quite justifiably, used for his Zeus Phllios the familiar type of a Totenmahl or hero-feast⁴. Now Mr J. C. Lawson⁵ in a chapter marked by equal insight and eloquence has gone far towards proving, partly from ancient literature⁶,

¹ 'Αριστομάχη, | 'Ολυμπιόδωρος, | Θεωρίς | ἀνέθεσαν Διὶ Ἐπιτελεῖω Φιλίῳ καὶ τῇ μητρὶ τοῦ θεοῦ Φιλίᾳ | καὶ Τύχηι Ἀγαθῇ τοῦ θεοῦ γυναίκα. Since the names of the three dedicators are inscribed above their respective figures, and Theoris heads the procession, it seems that the order of precedence should be Θεωρίς, 'Ολυμπιόδωρος, Ἀριστομάχη.

² Cp. Plat. legg. 784 D μήτε γὰρ εἰς γάμους ἴτω μήτε εἰς τὰς τῶν παίδων ἐπιτελεῖώσεις with Hesych. s.v. ἐπιτελεῖωσις· ἀξήσις. Zeus Ἐπιτελεῖος would thus be only another form of Zeus Τέλειος, whose priest at Athens was drawn from the ancient clan of the Bouzygai and occupied a special seat in the theatre (Corp. Inscr. Att. iii. 1 no. 294 = Michel Recueil d'Inscr. gr. no. 860. 55 = Roberts—Gardner Gk. Epigr. ii. 467 ff. no. 251 τερῶς | Διὸς Τελεῖου βουζύγου in lettering (fig. 971) not earlier than s. ii A.D.).

³ So Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² p. 356.

⁴ Lübker *Realex.*⁸ p. 1052 gives a brief bibliography, to which should be added Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1049 n. 1, Harrison *Proleg. Gk. Rel.*² pp. 349—362, 614, ead. Themis pp. 307—316.

⁵ J. C. Lawson Modern Greek Folklore and Ancient Greek Religion Cambridge 1910 pp. 543—606 ('The union of gods and men'). The statement 'that Easter falls in the same period of the year as did the great Eleusinian festival' (ib. p. 572) is a slip, which has hindered the critics from appreciating the real merits of this important chapter.

⁶ Soph. Ant. 574 f., [653 f.,] 804 f., 810 ff., 891 ff., 1203 ff., 1240 f., [Eur. Trō. 445, Or. 1109, I. A. 460 f.,] Artemid. oneirocr. i. 80 θεῶ δὲ ἢ θεῶ μίγναι ἢ ὑπὸ θεοῦ περανθῆναι νοσοῦντι μὲν θάνατον σημαίνει (θάνατον σημείον cod. B.)· τότε γὰρ ἢ ψυχὴ τὰς τῶν θεῶν συνόδους τε καὶ μίξεις μαντεύεται, ὅταν ἐγγὺς ἢ τοῦ καταλιπεῖν τὸ σῶμα ᾧ ἐνοικεῖ· κ.τ.λ., 2. 49 ἀποθανεῖν δοκεῖν καὶ ἐκκομισθῆναι καὶ κατορυγῆναι...ἀνδρὶ...ἀγάμῳ γάμον προαγορεύει· τέλη μὲν γὰρ ἀμφοτέρα τοῖς ἀνθρώποις εἶναι νενομίσματα καὶ ὁ γάμος καὶ ὁ θάνατος. αἰεὶ δὲ

ΙΕΡΕΩΣ
ΔΙΟΣΤΕΛΕΙ
ΟΥΒΟΥΙΥΓΘ
Fig. 971.

partly from modern folk-song¹, that the Greeks of old aspired to an actual marriage-union with the deities of the underworld, a union to be fore-shadowed here in mystic rites and consummated hereafter in very truth. Every man would one day enter the bridal chamber of Persephone, every woman that of Hades². If this daring belief is rightly credited to them—and the evidence for it is strong—, then we may, I think, venture to interpret the popular scheme of the hero-feast as a naïve representation of the dead man's marriage-banquet. Wedded at last to the queen of the nether world, he is actually feasting in her company. His garland and cakes recall

‘the white sesame-grains

And myrtle-berries and poppy-head and water-mint³’ appropriate to any bridegroom. Were they not the magic means by which he δείκνυνται ὑπ’ ἀλλήλων. ὄθεν καὶ τοῖς νοσοῦσι τὸ γαμῆν θάνατον προαγορεύει· καὶ γὰρ τὰ αὐτὰ ἀμφοτέροις συμβαίνει τῷ τε γαμοῦντι καὶ τῷ ἀποθανόντι, οἷον παραπομπὴ φίλων ἀνδρῶν τε καὶ γυναικῶν καὶ στέφανοι καὶ ἀρώματα καὶ μύρα καὶ συγγραφή κτημάτων, 2. 65 ἐπειδὴ καὶ ὁ γάμος εἰκοε θανάτῳ καὶ (ἐπειδὴ καὶ cod. B.) ὑπὸ θανάτου σημαίνεται, ἐνταῦθα καλῶς ἔχειν ἡγήσαμην ἐπιμνησθῆναι (ὑπομνησθῆναι cod. B.) αὐτοῦ. γαμῆν παρθένον τῷ νοσοῦντι θάνατον σημαίνει· ὅσα γὰρ τῷ γαμοῦντι συμβαίνει, τὰ αὐτὰ καὶ τῷ ἀποθανόντι.

Mr Lawson might have found further support for his theory in the rich storehouse of ancient Greek epitaphs. Turning over the leaves of the Anthology I lit upon the following: Anth. Pal. 7. 13. 2 f. (Leonidas or Meleagros) “Ἡρῆναν... | “Αἶδας εἰς ὑμέναιον ἀνάρπασεν, 7. 183. 2 (Parmenion) “Αἰδὸς τὴν Κροκάλῃς ἔφθασε παρθένην, 7. 401. 9 (Krinagoras) χθῶν ᾧ δυσνόμφευτε, 7. 492. 6 (? Anyte of Mitylene) νυμφίον ἀλλ’ Αἰδὸν κηδεμόν’ εἰρήρμεθα, 7. 507^b (? Simonides = frag. 124 B Bergk⁴, 105 Hiller—Crusius) οὐκ ἐπίδων νύμφεια λέχη κατέβην τὸν ἀφικτον | Γόργιππος ξανθῆς Φερσεφόνης θάλαμον, 7. 547. 3 f. (Leonidas of Alexandria) κατέστεινε δ’ οὐχ’ Ὑμεναίω, | ἀλλ’ Αἶδα νύμφαν δωδεκῆτιν κατὰγων, cp. 7. 221. 5 f. “Αἰδὴ δυσκίνητε, τί τὴν ἐπέραστον ἐταίρην | ἦρπασας; ἦ καὶ σὴν Κύπρις ἔμυνε φρένα; Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 2. 43 = Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 50 ἐνθάδε τὴν πάσης ἀρετῆς ἐπὶ τέρμα μολούσαν | Φαναγόραν κατέχει Φερσεφόνης θάλαμος, Cougny 2. 122 a. 3 f. = Kaibel no. 35 a. 3 f. ἔθανες, Διονύσειε, καὶ τὸν ἀνάγκης | κοῦρον Φερσεφόνης πᾶσιν ἔχεις θάλαμον, Cougny 2. 127. 3 f. Ἰλαυκιάδης... | ἦλθ’ ἐπὶ πάνδεκτον Φερσεφόνης θάλαμον, 2. 214. 3 f. = Kaibel no. 201. 3 f. συγκέχυνται γενέτας δὲ Ἰσοεῖδιππος κλυτὸν ἔρνος | ξαλωτὸν πέμψας Περσεφόνας θάλαμοις, Cougny 2. 268. 1 f. = Kaibel no. 570. 1 f. οὐχ’ ὁσίως ἦρπασας ὑπὸ [χθόνα], κοίρανε Ἰλιουτεῦ, | πενταετὴ νύμφην κ.τ.λ.

See also R. Foerster Der Raub und die Rückkehr der Persephone Stuttgart 1874 p. 73 n. 3, E. Maass Orpheus München 1895 p. 219, Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 865 n. 1.

¹ E.g. A. Passow Popularia carmina Graeciae recentioris Lipsiae 1860 no. 364. 6 ff. Κ’ ἐγὼ πάγω νὰ παντρεφτῶ νὰ πάρω μιὰ γυναῖκα, | Πῆρα τὴν πλάκα πεθερὰ, τὴ μαύρη γῆ γυναῖκα | Κι’ αὐτὰ τὰ λιανολίθαρα ὅλα γυναικαδέρφια (‘For I must go to marry me, to take a wife unto me; | The black earth for my wife I take, the tombstone as her mother | And yonder little pebbles all her brethren and her sisters’—from the dirge of an old man: Bostitsa), ib. no. 374. 8 f. Ἐψὲς ἐγὼ παντρεύθηκα, ἐψὲς ἀργὰ τὸ βράδι. | Ὁ ἄδης εἴν’ ὁ ἄντρας μου, ἢ πλάκ’ ἢ πεθερὰ μου (‘Yesterday was my marriage-day, late yestere’en my wedding, | Hades I for my husband have, the tomb for my new mother’—from the dirge of a young girl). Cp. ib. nos. 38, 65, 152, 180, 370, 380, 381, G. F. Abbott Macedonian Folklore Cambridge 1903 p. 256 n. 1.

² This had been remarked by E. Maass Orpheus München 1895 p. 219: ‘Jedes Weib, das stirbt, vermählt sich nach alter Anschauung dem Hades; die Männer und Jünglinge betreten ihrerseits den Thalamos der Persephone.’ B. Schmidt Das Volksleben der Neugriechen Leipzig 1871 i. 232 f. had already drawn attention to this group of ideas, citing ancient and modern illustrations. See further O. Schrader Totenhochzeit Jena 1904 pp. 1—38 and S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1921 ii. 141—143.

³ Aristoph. av. 159 f. τὰ λευκὰ σῆσάμα | καὶ μύρα καὶ μήκωνα καὶ σισύμβρια.

was empowered to impregnate his bride¹? Raised from mortal to immortal

¹ Schol. Aristoph. rax 869 πλακοῦς γαμικὸς ἀπὸ σησάμων πεποιημένος, διὰ τὸ πολύγονον, ὡς φησι Μένανδρος (frag. 435 (Frag. con. Gr. iv. 318 Meineke)). A. de Gubernatis La mythologie des plantes Paris 1882 ii. 347 refers to L. G. Gyraldus Operum que extant omnium Tomus Secundus Basileae 1580 p. 485, 24 ff. Quale est illud, quod de nubentibus dici vulgo solebat, Sesamum aut hordeum sere, aut projice: cum foecunditatem, & multiplicem generationem ac foetum significare volebant. Sunt enim huiusmodi semina multae foecunditatis, & vt Graeci dicunt, πολύγονα. Sed quod de sesamo dicimus, aliqui ex eo placentam fieri solitam in nuptiis, eadem ratione tradunt.

Boetticher Baumkultus pp. 445—455 begins his article on the myrtle by distinguishing a lucky aspect of the plant as sacred to Aphrodite from a sepulchral aspect of it as sacred to chthonian deities. He finds a connecting link in the cult of Venus Libitina, Aphrodite Epitymbia, etc. I should rather suppose that both aspects are referable to the quickening qualities of the evergreen. When a long journey was to be taken afoot, the mere carrying of myrtle-twigs prevented fatigue. Twisted into rings without the use of iron, they cured swelling of the groin (Plin. nat. hist. 15. 124). To dream of a myrtle-wreath meant marriage with a free-born woman and a prospect of long-lived children (Artemid. oneirocr. 1. 77). Etc., etc. A shrub of such vivifying or revivifying potency was well fitted to be a life-token. Accordingly we hear of two sacred myrtles, which grew before the temple of Quirinus and by their fertility or barrenness portended the fortunes of the patricians and plebeians respectively (Plin. nat. hist. 15. 120 f.). See further A. de Gubernatis op. cit. ii. 233—236, H. Friend Flowers and Flower Lore London 1883 ii. 688 Index s.v. 'Myrtle,' R. Folkard Plant Lore, Legends, and Lyrics London 1884 pp. 454—457. These authors by no means exhaust the topic, which deserves fuller investigation. It might, for example, be discovered that the myrtle-wreath worn by the initiate at Eleusis (Aristoph. ran. 156, 328 ff. with schol. ad loc., Istros frag. 25 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 421 Müller) ap. schol. Soph. O. C. 681: illustrated supra i. 220 f. fig. 163, E. Lübbert in the Ann. d. Inst. 1865 xxxvii. 82 ff. pl. F=L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pé. 1868 p. 160=F. Lenormant in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. ii. 570 fig. 2637=Reinach Rép. Vases i. 313, 1 f.) or by the Orphic devotee (supra p. 555) marked him as the prospective consort of a chthonian deity. The botanical fact underlying these beliefs is the polyspermous nature of the myrtle: 'The fruit is a purplish berry, consisting of the receptacle and the ovary blended into one succulent investment enclosing very numerous minute seeds' (*The Encyclopædia Britannica*¹¹ Cambridge 1911 xix. 115).

The poppy has an even greater wealth of tiny seeds. Hence it made for fertility, and became the attribute of various mother-goddesses. A. de Gubernatis op. cit. ii. 284 quotes from L. G. Gyraldus op. cit. ii. 468, 39 f. the dictum 'papauer fertilitatis & vrbis symbolum fuit' [where, however, we should restore orbis, cp. Cornut. theol. 28 p. 56, 8 ff. Lang ἀνατιθέασι δ' αὐτῇ (sc. τῇ Δήμητρι) καὶ τὰς μήκωνας κατὰ λόγον· τὸ τε γὰρ στρογγύλον καὶ περιφερὲς αὐτῶν παρίστησι τὸ σχῆμα τῆς γῆς σφαιροειδοῦς ὄψεως, ἣ τε ἀνωμαλία τὰς κοιλότητας καὶ τὰς ἐξοχὰς τῶν ὀρῶν, τὰ δ' ἐντὸς τοῖς ἀντρώδεσι καὶ ὑπονόμοις ἔοικε, σπέρματά τε ἀναριθμητὰ γεννώσιν ὡσπερ ἡ γῆ]. The poppy of Demeter (Gruppe Gr. Myth. Rel. p. 1179 n. 2) was passed on to Rhea (id. ib. p. 1542 n. 1) and to Isis (W. Drexler in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 450 ff. fig.). Kanachos made for the Sicyonians a chryselephantine Aphrodite with a poppy in one hand, an apple in the other (Paus. 2. 10. 5): and here again the influence of Demeter may be suspected; for certain persons derived the old name of Sikyon, Μηκώνη, from the 'poppy,' μήκων, which Demeter there first discovered (et. mag. p. 583, 56 f.: but cp. Ov. fast. 4. 531 ff., Serv. and interp. Serv. in Verg. georg. i. 212). Poppy-heads, as well as myrtle-wreaths, played their part in the Eleusinian initiation (supra i. 425 f. fig. 307 f.).

Lastly, σισύμβριον or 'bergamot-mint' (mentha aquatica) was used for the bridegroom's garland (schol. Aristoph. av. 160), not merely because its branches, leaves, etc. were sweet-scented (Theophr. hist. pl. 6. 6. 2 and frag. 4, 27 ap. Athen. 689 D, Nik. georg. frag. 2. 57 ap. Athen. 684 B), but on account of its aphrodisiac properties. If the rank, henceforward he can read a deeper meaning in the old-world wedding-chant :

‘I have fled the bad, I have found the better¹.’

It looks as though the primitive mind conceived of death itself as simply due to the fact that the chthonian deity (whether goddess or god) had claimed another consort². The summons has been sent. The call must be obeyed. But—

‘Who knows if life be death and death be life³?’

In the embrace of Persephone the dead man becomes the chthonian king. Borne off by Hades the dead woman becomes the chthonian queen. We can understand now the familiar saying and find a further significance in the representation of Death as Love⁵.

‘Whom the gods love dies young⁴,’

wearing of a wreath made from it betokened disease (Artemid. oneirocr. 1. 77), that was due to the fact that the plant in question was recognised as a cure for diseases (Nik. ther. 896). Greeks called it the garland of Aphrodite, Romans the herb of Venus (Dioskor. 2. 154 (155) p. 271 Sprengel); and the medical writers enable us to guess the reason, cp. Dioskor. 2. 154 (155) p. 272 Sprengel δύναμιν δὲ ἔχει θερμαντικὴν· ἀρμύζει δὲ πρὸς στραγγουρίας καὶ λιθιάσεις τὸ σπέρμα σὺν ὄνῳ πινόμενον, id. 2. 155 (156) p. 272 Sprengel of another variety ἔστι δὲ θερμαντικόν, οὐρητικόν, Galen. de simplicium medicamentorum temperamentis ac facultatibus 8. 18. 20 (xii. 124 Kühn) θερμανούσης καὶ ξηρανούσης κατὰ τὴν τρίτην τάξιν ἐστὶ δυνάμεώς τε καὶ κράσεως. καὶ τὸ σπέρμα δ’ αὐτοῦ λεπτομερές τε καὶ θερμὸν ἐστίν, ὅθεν σὺν ὄνῳ τινὲς αὐτὴν δίδουσι κ.τ.λ., id. ib. 8. 18. 21 (xii. 124 Kühn) of the other variety ὅταν μὲν ξηρὸν ᾖ, τῆς τρίτης ἐστὶ τάξεως τῶν ξηρανότων τε ἅμα καὶ θερμανότων, κ.τ.λ. On mint in general see A. de Gubernatis op. cit. ii. 226—228, H. Friend op. cit. ii. 687 Index s.v. ‘Mint,’ R. Folkard op. cit. p. 439 f. Supra i. 257 n. 5.

¹ ἔφυγον κακόν, εὖρον ἀμεινον (carm. pop. 20 a Hiller—Crusius)—an early dactylic line (cp. supra i. 444) first found in Dem. de cor. 259 (cited supra i. 392 n. 4) as a formula used by initiates in the rites of Sabázios, and from him apparently quoted by Hesych. s.v. It is given as a marriage-rubric by Pausanias the Atticist ap. Eustath. in Od. p. 1726, 19 ff. καὶ παροιμία δηλοῖ παρὰ Παιουσανία λέγουσα ‘ἔφυγον κακόν, εὖρον ἀμεινον,’ ἦν ἐλεγέ, φησιν, ἀμφιθαλῆς παῖς Ἀθήνησιν, ἐστεμμένος ἀκάνθαις μετὰ δρυῖνων καρπῶν, Ἴκκον βασιτάζων πλήρες ἄρτων, ἀνισσόμενος τὴν ἐκ τοῦ παλαιοῦ βίου ἐπὶ τὸ κρείττον μεταβολήν = Zenob. 3. 98, Diogeneian. 4. 74, Plout. 1. 16, Apostol. 8. 16, Phot. lex. and Soud. s.v., cp. Porph. de abst. 1. 1. Probably the so-called proverb was a very ancient charm employed in the mysteries to facilitate the transition from the lower to the higher life, a transition culminating in the divine marriage (see Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 646 ff.). Subsequently it was transferred, with some loss of meaning, to ordinary human marriages.

² Cp. the Celtic tales of the Otherworld-visit, which I have summarised in Folk-Lore 1906 xvii. 143 ff. (supra i. 239).

³ Eur. Polyeidos frag. 638 Nauck² (supra p. 868), cp. Eur. Phrixus frag. 833 Nauck². In Aristoph. ran. 1477 f. τίς οἶδεν εἰ τὸ ζῆν μὲν ἐστὶ κατθανεῖν, | τὸ πνεῖν δὲ δειπνεῖν, τὸ δὲ καθεῖδεν κώδιον; the attempts of the editors to extract sense from the latter line are far from convincing. I fancy Aristophanes is poking fun at the prospect held out to every pious believer, the hero-feast (δειπνεῖν) and the poppy-head (for κώδιον read κώδον, cp. Theophr. hist. pl. 6. 8. 1 and ap. Athen. 680 E, or κώδια, cp. Aristoph. frag. 166 Dindorf ap. Harpokr. s.v. κώδια). Life hereafter was to be one perpetual banquet in the bridal chamber of Persephone: if the new immortal tired of it, he had at least the poppy-capsule to lull him to sleep and to renew his generative powers. Those who retain κώδιον in the text should still interpret the word of the initiate’s equipment, the ‘fleece of Zeus’ (supra i. 422 ff.).

⁴ Menand. disexapaton frag. 4 (Frag. com. Gr. iv. 105 Meineke). Cp. Kaibel Epigr. Gr. no. 340. 8 = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 2. 585. 8.

⁵ Supra pp. 309, 1045.

Nor was this union one of merely physical fruition. The Greek was capable of rising to greater heights, and the title Phílios had from the first a moral connotation. True, Aristotle denied the possibility of love (phília) between man and God:

‘For love, we maintain, exists only where there can be a return of love. But love towards God does not admit of love being returned, nor at all of loving. For it would be strange if one were to say that he loved Zeus!’

But popular usage was against him². Whether parched with drought³, or drenched with rain⁴, the man in the street cried out upon ‘loved Zeus.’ And the like intimacy is attested by half-a-dozen poets from Theognis to Antipatros of Thessalonike⁵. On a red-figured kýlix by the potter Sosias Herakles, when admitted to Olympos, makes the same naïve ejaculation⁶. Moreover, the name Díphilos, ‘loved by Zeus,’ was of common occurrence⁷. No doubt this mutual love did not amount to much. But the root of the matter was there, and its growth was fostered by mystic teaching. On the grandest page of extant Greek literature⁸ the Platonic Sokrates tells how Diotima of Mantinea (supposed to be a priestess of Zeus *Lýkaios*⁹ and in any case, as her name shows, ‘honoured of Zeus’) once made plain to him the mysteries of Eros. The initiate, she said, must mount by successive grades from desire of a single beautiful body to desire of all beautiful bodies, and from beauty of body to beauty of soul involving the beauty of customs and laws. Thence he will launch out boldly into the beauty of knowledge until, crossing its wide sea and nearing his journey’s end, on a sudden he catches sight

¹ Aristot. mag. mor. 2. 11. 1208 b 28 ff. τὴν γὰρ φιλιαν ἐνταυθα φαμεν εἶναι οὐ ἐστὶ τὸ ἀντιφιλεῖσθαι, ἢ δὲ πρὸς τὸν θεὸν φίλα οὐτε ἀντιφιλεῖσθαι δέχεται οὐθ’ ἄλλως τὸ φιλεῖν ἄπορον γὰρ ἂν εἴη εἰ τις φαλὴ φιλεῖν τὸν Δία.

² Indeed, he was against himself—witness his brief but pregnant utterance with regard to the Final Cause in met. 12. 7. 1072 b 3 f. κινεῖ δὲ ὡς ἐρώμενον, κινούμενον δὲ πᾶλλα κινεῖ. He is groping his way towards the stupendous discovery that ‘God is love.’

³ Marc. Ant. comment. 5. 7 ὦ φίλε Ζεῦ (infra § 9 (b)).

⁴ Anth. Pal. 5. 166. 6 (Asklepiades) Ζεῦ φίλε (infra § 9 (b)).

⁵ Theogn. 373 Hiller—Crusius Ζεῦ φίλε, θανμάζω σε· κ.τ.λ., Eupol. χρυσοῦν γένος frag. 13 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 541 f. Meineke) ἀρ. Poll. 10. 63 ἄλλ’, ὦ φίλε Ζεῦ, κατάχυτον τὴν βῖν’ ἔχεις, Aristoph. ecc. 378 f. καὶ δῆτα πολλὸν ἢ μίλτος, ὦ Ζεῦ φίλτατε, | γέλω παρέρσχεν, κ.τ.λ., Philem. Pyrrhos frag. 1. 7 f. (Frag. com. Gr. iv. 22 Meineke) ἀρ. Stob. flor. 55. 5 εἰρήνη’ στήν· ὦ Ζεῦ φίλτατε, | τῆς ἐπαφροδίτου καὶ φιλανθρώπου θεοῦ, Kallim. ep. 7. 4 Schneider, 6. 4 Wilamowitz Κρεωφύλω, Ζεῦ φίλε, τοῦτο μέγα, Anth. Pal. 5. 108. 4 (Antipatros) ἦ ῥα μάτην, Ζεῦ φίλε, βοῦς ἐγένον. It is obvious that the phrases Ζεῦ φίλε, ὦ φίλε Ζεῦ, ὦ Ζεῦ φίλτατε expressed a variety of moods—indignation, astonishment, delight, etc. But the point is that all alike are colloquial, herein differing somewhat from such usages as Il. 1. 578 πατρὶ φίλω ἐπιήρα φέρειν Δία, Pind. Nem. 10. 104 ff. ἀμέραν τὰν μὲν παρὰ πατρὶ φίλω | Δι νέμονται, τὰν δ’ ὑπὸ κεύθεσι γάλας κ.τ.λ.

⁶ Furtwängler Vasensamml. Berlin ii. 549 ff. no. 2278, C. Lenormant in the Ann. d. Inst. 1830 ii. 232 ff., Mon. d. Inst. i pl. 24 = Reinach Rép. Vases i. 70, 2, Furtwängler—Reichhold—Hauser Gr. Vasenmalerei iii. 13 ff. pl. 123, Perrot—Chippiez Hist. de l’Art x. 503 ff. fig. 285, Pfuhl Malerei u. Zeichnung d. Gr. i. 457 ff., iii. 137 fig. 418. Further bibliography in Hopppin Red-fig. Vases ii. 421 ff. no. 1. Corp. inscr. Gr. iv no. 8291, a $\Xi\text{N}\text{I}\text{O}\text{V}\text{E}\text{I}$.

⁷ Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1152—1156 record twenty-two bearers of the name. See also K. Meisterhans *Grammatik der attischen Inschriften*³ Berlin 1900 p. 74 n. 644 a.

⁸ I am weighing my words: that is my deliberate opinion.

⁹ Schol. Aristeid. p. 468, 15 f. Dindorf.

of Absolute Beauty, timeless, changeless, formless,—the beatific vision which shall make amends

For all our toil while on the road.

Embracing this, he will at last beget no phantom forms of virtue, for it is no phantom that he clasps, but virtues true to type, for he has the very truth. And here he will live for ever as one that is indeed 'loved of God' and a sharer in immortality. That is the hope of which Sokrates, persuaded himself, is fain to persuade others also¹. To summarise or paraphrase such a passage is, of course, to ruin its effect, and is little short of blasphemy to boot. I can but call attention to the one word theophilés, 'loved of God².' Platon had it from the mystics. And Theon of Smyrna (s. ii. A.D.) informs us that the initiate passed upwards through five stages, viz. purification, the tradition of the rite, the eyewitnessing of it, the binding and putting on of the garlands in order to communicate it to others, and finally the resultant felicity of dwelling in the 'love of God' (theophilés) and sharing in the life divine³.

These beliefs formed a point of contact between paganism and Christianity. The hero-feast is an antecedent of the celestial banquet, a favourite theme in the art of the catacombs⁴. And if the Greeks looked forward to 'the good fare of the blest⁵' in the bridal chamber of Hades or Persephone, John can say 'Blessed are they which are bidden to the marriage supper of the Lamb⁶.' The conception, cherished by the Church⁷, has inspired not a few modern mystics :

¹ Plat. symp. 209 E—212 B. Faith, Hope, and Charity unite in this triumphant climax.

² The relevant words are: τεκνυτι δὲ ἀρετὴν ἀληθῆ καὶ θρηψαμένω ὑπάρχει θεοφιλεῖ γενέσθαι καὶ ἐπερ τῷ ἄλλω ἀνθρώπων, ἀθανάτω καὶ ἐκείνω. On the later Platonic conception of ἀθανασία I have said my say in The Metaphysical Basis of Plato's Ethics Cambridge 1895 p. 96 ff. See also R. K. Gaye The Platonic Conception of Immortality and its Connexion with the Theory of Ideas (Hare Prize Essay 1903) London 1904.

³ Theon Smyrn. mathem. p. 14, 18 ff. Hiller καὶ γὰρ αὐτὴν φιλοσοφίαν μύησιν φαίη τις αὐτὴν ἀληθοῦς τελετῆς καὶ τῶν ἑνῶν ὡς ἀληθῶς μυστηρίων παράδοσιν. μύησεως δὲ μέρη πέντε. τὸ μὲν προηγούμενον καθαρισμός· οὕτε γὰρ ἅπασιν τοῖς βουλομένοις μετουσία μυστηρίων ἔστιν, ἀλλ' εἰσὶν οὓς αὐτῶν εἰργεσθαι προαγορευεται, οἷον τοὺς χεῖρας μὴ καθαρὰς καὶ φωνῆν ἀξύνετον ἔχοντας, καὶ αὐτοὺς δὲ τοὺς μὴ εἰργόμενους ἀνάγκη καθαρισμοῦ τινοῦ πρότερον τυχεῖν. μετὰ δὲ τὴν κάθαρσιν δευτέρα ἔστιν ἡ τῆς τελετῆς παράδοσις· τρίτη δὲ < ἡ ins. C. A. Lobeck > ἐπονομαζομένη ἐποπτεία· τετάρτη δὲ, ἡ δὲ καὶ τέλος τῆς ἐποπτείας, ἀνάδεσις καὶ στεμμάτων ἐπιθέσις, ὥστε καὶ ἑτέροις, ἃς τις παρέλαβε τελετάς, παραδοῦναι δύνασθαι, δαδουχίας τυχεῖντα ἢ ἱεροφαντίας ἢ τινοῦ ἄλλης ἱερωσύνης· πέμπτη δὲ ἡ ἐξ αὐτῶν περιγενομένη κατὰ τὸ θεοφιλεῖς καὶ θεοῖς συνδιδαιτον εὐδαιμονία (so I. Bouillaud for εὐδαιμονίαν cod. A.). See Lobeck Aglaophamus i. 38 ff.

⁴ W. Lowrie Christian Art and Archaeology New York 1901 pp. 221—223, L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1906 i. 181—209 (the best account), C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 pp. 269—274, 358.

⁵ Aristoph. ran. 85 ἐς μακάρων εὐωχίαν, cp. Plat. Phaid. 115 D. Notice the schol. Aristoph. loc. cit. ἢ ὡς περὶ τετελευτηκότος λέγει, ὥσαυτε εἶπε τὰς μακάρων νήσους· ἢ ὅτι Ἀρχελάω τῷ βασιλεῖ μέχρι τῆς τελευτῆς μετὰ ἄλλων πολλῶν συνῆν ἐν Μακεδονίᾳ, καὶ μακάρων εὐωχίαν ἔφη τὴν ἐν τοῖς βασιλείοις διατριβῆν. If Hades was known as Ἀγησίλαος, Πολύαρχος, and the like (supra p. 1113 n. o no. (2)), it is at least possible that he bore the title Ἀρχέλαος. Aristophanes' sous-entendu would thus gain in point.

⁶ Rev. 19. 9 with the context.

⁷ A. Dieterich *Eine Mithrasliturgie*² Leipzig and Berlin 1910 pp. 129—134.

He lifts me to the golden doors ;
 The flashes come and go ;
 All heaven bursts her starry floors,
 And strows her lights below,
 And deepens on and up ! the gates
 Roll back, and far within
 For me the Heavenly Bridegroom waits,
 To make me pure of sin.
 The sabbaths of Eternity,
 One sabbath deep and wide—
 A light upon the shining sea—
 The Bridegroom with his bride !¹

How much, or how little, of all this is to be found in our relief, it is not easy to say. The title Epitēleios suggests the mystic marriage, and the stress laid on Phlios and Philia tends to confirm the suggestion. We must leave it at that.

The matter-of-fact spectator, who cared little for mysteries or mystical symbolism, saw in Zeus Phlios a god of good company, given to feasting in both this world and the next. Accordingly, Diodoros of Sinope, a poet of the new comedy, who flourished early in s. iii B.C.², makes him the discoverer of the parasite and his ways:

'Twas Zeus the Friendly, greatest of the gods
 Beyond all doubt, that first invented parasites.
 For he it is who comes into our houses,
 Nor cares a rap whether we're rich or poor.
 Wherever he espies a well-strown couch
 With a well-appointed table set beside it,
 Joining us straightway like a gentleman
 He asks himself to breakfast, eats and drinks,
 And then goes home again, nor pays his share.
 Just what I do myself ! When I see couches
 Strown and the tables ready, door ajar,
 In I come quietly, all in order due—
 I don't disturb, not I, my fellow-drinker.
 Everything set before me I enjoy,
 Drink, and go home again, like Zeus the Friendly³.

The inference to be drawn from the fourth-century reliefs and the third-century comedy is that at Athens Zeus Phlios, like Zeus *Sotēr*⁴, Zeus *Xénios*⁵, and other

¹ Tennyson St. Agnes' Eve 25 ff.

² J. Kirchner in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 660, Lübker *Reallex.*⁸ p. 293.

³ Diod. Sinop. ἐπικληρος frag. 1. 5 ff. (Frag. com. Gr. iii. 543 ff. Meineke) ap. Athen. 239 A ff.

⁴ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 1 no. 305, 10 ff. = Inscr. Gr. ed. min. ii—iii. 1 no. 676, 10 ff. ἐπειδὴ οἱ ἐπιμεληταὶ πάσας] ἐθ[υόν τε τὰς θ[υ]σίας τῶ[ι Διὶ τῶι Σωτήρι καὶ τ]εῖ Ἀθη[ναί] τεῖ | Σω]τείρ[αι καὶ τῶν ἄλλων ἐπεμε]λήθησα[ν μετὰ | το]ῦ λερ[έως καλῶς καὶ φιλοτιμω]ς, ἐπεμελήθη[σα]ν δὲ [καὶ τῆς στρώσεως τῆς κλι]νης καὶ τῆς κ[οσ]μῆ[σεως τῆς τραπέζης· κ.τ.λ.] in a decree of 277/6 B.C.

⁵ Pyrgion Κρητικά νόμιμα frag. 1 (Frag. hist. Gr. iv. 486 f. Müller) ap. Athen. 143 E—F ἦσαν δὲ καὶ ξενικοὶ θάκοι καὶ τράπεζα τρίτη δεξιᾶς (I. Casaubon cj. ἐκ δεξιᾶς ἢ ἐν δεξιᾷ) εἰσιόντων εἰς τὰ ἀνδρεία· ἦν Ξένιου τε Διὸς ξενίαν τε προσηγόρευον.

chthonian powers¹, had a couch set for him and a table spread. The rite was private rather than public, belonging essentially to family worship² and being in effect a communion between the dead and the living³. A. Furtwängler⁴ justly compares the lectisternia, which are commonly held to have been a Roman adaptation of the Greek *Theoxenia*⁵. Be that as it may, the comparison is of interest. For it is possible, perhaps even probable, that at the Greek feast, as at its Roman equivalent, the god was represented in visible shape. But in what shape? Our only clue is the Roman custom. Livy mentions 'heads of gods' placed on the couches⁶. Pompeius Festus (s. ii A.D.)—an excellent authority, since he abridged the important dictionary of Verrius Flaccus (c. 10 B.C.)⁷—states that these 'heads of gods' were properly termed struppi and consisted in bundles of verbenae or 'sacred plants'⁸. Elsewhere Festus, à propos of stroppus in the sense of a priestly head-dress or wreath, informs us that at Tusculum an

¹ Furtwängler Samml. Sabouroff Sculptures p. 28 f., A. Milchhöfer in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1887 ii. 31 (with list of deities).

² The épavostal (supra p. 1161 f.) formed a quasi-family, worshipping—we have conjectured—its deceased founder as its ancestor.

³ Supra p. 1162 n. 2. See also Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 419.

⁴ A. Furtwängler in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1897 i. 405.

⁵ F. Robiou 'Recherches sur l'origine des lectisternes' in the Rev. Arch. 1867 i. 403—415, F. Deneken De Theoxeniis Berolini 1881, (G.) Wackermann Ueber das Lectisternium Hanau 1888 pp. 1—28, G. E. Marindin in Smith—Wayte—Marindin Dict. Ant. ii. 15—17, C. Pascal 'De lectisterniis apud Romanos' in the Rivista di filologia 1894 xxii. 272—280, id. Studi di antichità e mitologia Milano 1896 p. 19 ff., W. Warde Fowler The Roman Festivals London 1899 pp. 200, 218, 273, id. The Religious Experience of the Roman People London 1911 pp. 263 ff., 268, 318 f., A. Bouché-Leclercq in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1006—1012, Nilsson Gr. Feste p. 161 f., Wissowa *Rel. Kull. Röm.*² pp. 61, 269 f., 311, 315, 421 ff.

⁶ Liv. 40. 59 terra movit: in foris (K. A. Duker cj. fanis) publicis, ubi lectisternium erat, deorum capita, quae (K. A. Duker and J. N. Madvig cjj. qui) in lectis erant, avertunt se, lanaque (J. Scheffer cj. laenague, G. Cuypers and J. Marquardt cjj. lanxque) cum integumentis (F. van Oudendorp cj. intrimentis), quae Iovi opposita (C. Sigone and J. Scheffer cjj. apposita) fuit, decidit=Iul. Obseq. 61 in lectisternio Iovis terrae motu deorum capita se converterunt. lana cum integumentis, quae Iovi erant apposita, decidit.

⁷ M. Schanz *Geschichte der römischen Litteratur*² München 1899 ii. 1. 319 ff., Sir J. E. Sandys *A History of Classical Scholarship*² Cambridge 1906 i. 200.

⁸ Fest. p. 347, 34 f. Müller, p. 472, 15 f. Lindsay struppi vocantur in pulvinaribus <fasciculi de verbenis facti, qui pro de>orum capitibus ponuntur=Paul. ex Fest. p. 346, 3 Müller, p. 473, 4 f. Lindsay struppi vocabantur in pulvinaribus fasciculi de verbenis facti, qui pro deorum capitibus ponebantur. Cp. Paul. ex Fest. p. 64, 5 Müller, p. 56, 12 Lindsay capita deorum appellabantur fasciculi facti ex verbenis.

Serv. in Verg. Aen. 12. 120 verberna proprie est herba sacra sumpta de loco sacro Capitolii, quae coronabantur fetiales et paterpatratu foedera facturi vel bella indicturi. abusive tamen verbenas iam vocamus omnes frondes sacratas, ut est laurus, oliva vel myrtus. etc. Cp. Plin. nat. hist. 22. 5, 25. 105 ff., interp. Serv. in Verg. eccl. 8. 65, Donat. in Ter. Andr. 4. 3. 11.

S. Eitrem in the Class. Rev. 1921 xxxv. 20 finds an illustration of these struppi in a painting of s. v B.C. in the Tomba del Letto funebre at Corneto (F. Poulsen Fra Ny Carlsberg Glyptotek Samlinger Copenhagen 1920 i fig. 34, F. Weege Etruskische Malerei Halle (Saale) 1921 pls. 23, 24): 'on a mighty lectus you see on the torus not two recumbent defuncts, but two green crowns, surmounted by the Etruscan (and Roman) pointed head-dress, the tutulus.'

object known as struppus was placed on the couch of Castor¹. We gather, then, that at the lectisternia Jupiter and the gods in general were originally represented by twisted bundles of herbs. These bundles seem to have been padded and clothed as puppets; for in 179 B.C., shaken by an earthquake, the wool and wrappings attached to Iupiter slipped off revealing his true inwards to the confusion of all present². Later, if we may trust the evidence of a Roman lamp (fig. 972)³ and certain Roman coins (figs. 973, 974, 975)⁴, the puppets of the

Fig. 972.

Fig. 973.

Fig. 974.

Fig. 975.

¹ Fest. p. 313 a 12 ff. Müller, p. 410, 6 ff. Lindsay stroppus est, ut Ateius Philologus (L. Ateius Praetextatus frag. 7 Funaioli) existimat, quod Graece στροβφιον vocatur, et quod sacerdotes pro insigni habent in capite. quidam coronam esse dicunt, aut quod pro corona insignie in caput inponatur, quale sit strophium. itaque apud Faliscos diem (so Antonius Augustinus for idem codd.) festum esse, qui vocetur Struppearia, quia coronati ambulent; et a Tusculanis, quod in pulvinari inponatur Castoris, struppum vocari = Paul. ex Fest. p. 312, 1 Müller, p. 411, 1 ff. Lindsay stroppus, quod Graece στροβφιον dicitur, pro insigni habebatur in capitibus sacerdotum; alii id coronam esse dixerunt. Cp. Plin. nat. hist. 21. 3.

² Liv. 40. 59 and Iul. Obseq. 61 cited supra p. 1170 n. 6.

Cp. the woollen effigies of the Lares hung up at the cross-roads during the Compitalia (Paul. ex Fest. p. 121, 17 ff. Müller, p. 108, 27 ff. Lindsay; Fest. p. 237 b 34 ff. Müller, p. 272, 15 ff. Lindsay = Paul. ex Fest. p. 239, 1 ff. Müller, p. 273, 7 ff. Lindsay. See further Frazer *Golden Bough*³: Spirits of Corn and Wild ii. 94 ff., 107 f.), if not also the saying that the gods had woollen feet (Apollod. frag. 41 (Frag. hist. Gr. i. 435 Müller) ap. Macrob. Sat. 1. 8. 5, Petron. sat. 44. 18, Porph. in Hor. od. 3. 2. 31 f.).

³ Fig. 972 shows the relief on the handle of a terra-cotta lamp first published by P. S. Bartoli—G. P. Bellori Le antiche lucerne sepolcrali Roma 1691 ii pl. 34 (A. Bouché-Leclercq in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. iii. 1011 fig. 4381, H. B. Walters History of Ancient Pottery London 1905 ii. 412). Sarapis and Isis, Selene and Helios, are here represented by half-length busts set on the couch. A similar bust of white marble, obtained in the Levant by Mr W. Simpson and now in my possession (height 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches: kálathos broken off: traces of paint (?) on face, chest, etc.: eye-holes and breast-jewel once filled in with glass or other glittering substance), was very possibly used at some lectisternium of Sarapis (cp. e.g. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Pontus, etc. p. 101 no. 57 a copper of Sinope struck by Caracalla: rev. Zeus Sarapis on couch to left, with eagle on right hand, sceptre in left, Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 507).

Another lamp-handle with a similar design, found at Pesaro, is suspect as being derived from the Lucernae fictiles Musei Passerii Pisauri 1739—1751 iii pl. 51 (A. Bouché-Leclercq loc. cit. iii. 1011 fig. 4382): see the exposure by H. Dressel in the Röm. Mitth. 1892 vii. 144 ff. (150 'una solenne impostura'), H. B. Walters History of Ancient Pottery ii. 408.

⁴ Denarii of the gens Coelia, struck c. 61 B.C., have for reverse type a lectisternium

lectisternia appear to have developed into half-length busts. Indeed, on one occasion, when Seleukos was sending back to Athens the statues of Harmodios and Aristogeiton carried off by Xerxes, the Rhodians invited the venerable bronzes to a public banquet and installed them bodily on the sacred couches¹. So much for progressive anthropomorphism. The vegetable bundles, which formed the primitive effigies², may be taken to imply that the souls of the dead were conceived as animating the yearly vegetation³. And the same belief may underlie the rites of Iupiter *Dapalis*⁴ and Iupiter *Farreus*⁵, in which Mr Warde surmounted by a half-figure and flanked by two trophies. The front is inscribed L·CALDVS | VII·R·EPV (= Lucius Calvus septemvir epulo). To left and right is the legend, read downwards, C·CALDVS | IMP·A (or A')·X (= Gaius Calvus imperator augur decemvir sacris faciundis). Below is CΔVS·III·VIR (= Caldus triumvir monetalis). See Morell. Thes. Num. Fam. Rom. i. 100 ff., ii pl. Coelia 1, 1A, 1B, Babelon Monn. rép. rom. i. 373 ff. with six figs., G. F. Hill Historical Roman Coins London 1909 p. 76 ff. pl. 10, 44, Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 475 pl. 47, 23 f., pl. 48, 1. Figs. 973—975 are from specimens in my collection. The identification of the personage seen above the couch has long been disputed. He is either the moneyer's father, L. Coelius Calvus, as septemvir epulo preparing the feast for Iupiter (Rasche Lex. Num. ii. 659 f., T. Mommsen Histoire de la monnaie romaine Paris 1870 ii. 506, Babelon loc. cit., G. F. Hill op. cit. p. 78), or—more probably—the effigy of Iupiter himself eating the sacrificial meal (see the remarks of S. Haverkamp in Morell. op. cit. i. 102, Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 507, H. A. Grueber in Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Rep. i. 474 n. 2).

The two epula Iovis, which took place on Sept. 13, the foundation-day of the Capitoline temple, and on Nov. 13, were in relation to the ludi Romani and ludi plebei respectively (Wissowa *Rel. Kult. Röm.*² pp. 127, 423, 453 ff.). Iupiter had a lectulus, Iuno and Minerva each a sella (Val. Max. 2. 1. 2), while the magistrates and senate took the meal before them in Capitolio (Liv. 38. 57, 45. 39, Gell. 12. 8. 2 f., Dion Cass. 39. 30, 48. 52). See further E. Aust in Roscher Lex. Myth. ii. 732, 734 f., W. Warde Fowler The Roman Festivals London 1899 p. 215 ff., id. The Religious Experience of the Roman People London 1911 pp. 172 f., 336, 338, 353. Hence the title of Iupiter Epulo (Corp. inser. Lat. vi no. 3696 found in the Forum at Rome = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 4964, with the criticisms of G. Wissowa in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 265, who prefers T. Mommsen's reading (Bull. d. Inst. 1873 p. 51 f.) [magistri] quinq[ue]miales | [collegi] teib[icinum] Rom[anorum], qui | [s[acris] p[ublicis] p[raesto] s[unt]], Iov[is] Epul[oni] sac[rum] | etc. to that of E. Bormann and H. Dessau qui | . . . Iov[is] epul[is], sac[ris] | [p[ublicis] p[raesto] s[unt]] : | etc.).

¹ Val. Max. 2. 10. 1 ext.

² Masurius Sabinus ap. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 2. 225 Masurius Sabinus delubrum, effigies, a delibatione corticis; nam antiqui felicium arborum ramos cortice detracto in effigies deorum formabant, unde Graeci ξβανον dicunt. Cp. Serv. in Verg. Aen. 4. 56, Paul. ex Fest. p. 73, 1 Müller, p. 64, 6 f. Lindsay, pseudo-Ascon. in Cic. div. in Caec. p. 101, 16 f. Baiter (in J. C. Orelli's ed. of Cicero Turici 1833 v. 2. 101). But a closer parallel may be found in the Corn-maiden (supra i. 397 n. 4 pl. xxviii).

³ Supra i. 687.

⁴ Cato de agr. 132 dapem hoc modo fieri oportet: Iovi Dapali culignam vini quantum vis polluceto. eo die feriae bubus et bubulcis et qui dapem facient. cum pollucere oportebit, sic facies: 'Iuppiter Dapalis, quod tibi fieri oportet in domo familia mea culignam vini dapi, ei <us> rei ergo macte hac illace dape pollucenda esto.' manus interluito, postea vinum sumito: 'Iuppiter Dapalis, macte istace dape pollucenda esto, macte vino inferio esto.' Vestae, si voles, dato. daps Iovi assaria pecuina (pecuina v.) urna vini. Iovi caste profanato sua contagione. postea dape facta serito milium, panicum, alium, lentim.

The adjective dapalis, 'sumptuous,' is most frequently found as an epithet of cena (Thes. Ling. Lat. v. 35, 29 ff.).

⁵ Gaius inst. 1. 112 farreo in manus (Göschel, followed by P. Krüger—W. Studemund, Fowler conjectures that Jupiter himself was originally identified with the flesh, the wine, and the bread consumed by his worshippers¹.

It is possible, then, that the communion-feast of Zeus Phlios approximated to, and paved the way for, the agápe or 'love-supper' of the early Christian Church². Nevertheless the evidence is indirect and by no means conclusive. We shall be on surer, if lower, ground in returning to the cult-monuments of Attike.

(2) Zeus Phlios on the Attic coast, etc.

To the west of the Asklepieion near the strand of Zea there appears to have been a common sanctuary of Zeus Meilichios and Zeus *Phlios*³. Votive reliefs from the site show the latter god in the same types (anthropomorphic and theriomorphic) as the former.

On the one hand, a slab of Pentelic marble, found on the eastern slope of Mounichia at a point two hundred paces from the sea, represents him (fig. 976)⁴ as a kingly personage enthroned towards the right with a sceptre (painted) in his hand. He is approached by a woman and a girl—Mynnion and her daughter, as we infer from the inscription added above in lettering of s. iv B.C.:

[M]ynnion dedicated (this) to Zeus *Phlios*⁵.

A fragmentary relief of white marble, found later in the same locality, was clearly of similar type⁶. On the left are seen the head of Zeus, his left shoulder, and his left hand holding a sceptre. On the right a bearded man and a youthful figure draw near with right hand raised in the attitude of adoration: behind them there cj. manum) conveniunt per quoddam genus sacrificii, quod Iovi Farreo fit, in quo farreus panis adhibetur; unde etiam confarreatio dicitur; etc.

¹ W. Warde Fowler The Religious Experience of the Roman People London 1911 p. 141 'The cult-title [Farreus] should indicate that the god was believed to be immanent in the cake of far, rather than that it was offered to him (so I should also take I. Dapalis, though in later times the idea had passed into that of sacrifice, Cato, R. R. 132), and if so, the use of the cake was sacramental.' A shrewd and scholarly verdict. Wissowa *Rel. Kult. Röm.*² p. 119 'die heilige Handlung gilt dem Juppiter, welcher von dem zur Anwendung kommenden farreum libum den Beinamen Farreus erhält' is inadequate. B. J. Polenaar on Gaius inst. 1. 112 cp. Adorea as goddess of martial glory (Hor. od. 4. 4. 41) a farris honore (Plin. nat. hist. 18. 14): but the derivation of the word from ador, though assumed by the ancients, is doubtful or worse (see F. Stolz in the Indogermanische Forschungen 1899 x. 74 f., Walde *Lat. etym. Wörterb.*² p. 13 s.v. 'adōria').

² On the Christian ἀγάπη consult A. Kestner Die Agape oder der geheime Weltbund der Christen Jena 1819, E. H. Plumptre in Smith—Cheetham Dict. Chr. Ant. i. 39 ff., R. St. J. Tyrwhitt ib. i. 625 ff., H. Leclercq in F. Cabrol Dictionnaire d'archéologie chrétienne et de liturgie Paris 1907 i. 775—848, A. J. Maclean in J. Hastings Encyclopaedia of Religion and Ethics Edinburgh 1908 i. 166—175.

³ Supra p. 1104.

⁴ R. Schöne Griechische Reliefs Leipzig 1872 p. 53 f. no. 105 pl. 25, Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 370 no. 1128, Einzelabnahmen no. 1247, 2 with Text v. 22 by E. Löwy, Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 354 f. no. 1405 pl. 59 (= my fig. 976), Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 362, 7 (wrongly described ib. p. 363 as 'Hommage à Zeus Meilichios'). Height 0.22^m, breadth 0.21^m.

⁵ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 no. 1572 [M]YNNIONΔΙΙΦΙΛΙΩΙΑΝΕΘ[HKEN]= [M]ύννιον Δι Φιλίωι ἀνέθ[ηκεν].

⁶ I. C. Dragatsis in the Έφ. Ἀρχ. 1885 p. 89 f. no. B', Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 355. Height 0.16^m, breadth 0.30^m.

are traces of a third head. The whole is enclosed by an architectural framework, which bears the inscription:

‘Hermaios (dedicated this) to Zeus *Phllios*¹.’

On the other hand, the same site yielded two reliefs representing a snake accompanied by the words:

‘—— dedicated (this) to Zeus *Phllios*².’

Fig. 976.

As before³, we must suppose that the snake figures the soul of the divinised dead, here conciliated by the euphemistic title Zeus ‘the Friendly One.’ Phllios is virtually a synonym of *Meilichios*⁴.

Other reliefs, which probably derive from the same cult-centre in the Peiraeus,

¹ Corp. inscr. Att. ii. 3 Add. no. 1572δ ΕΡΜΑΙΟΣ ΔΙΙΦΙΛΙΩΝΙ = ‘Ερμῆος Διὶ Φιλίωι.

² (1) I. C. Dragatsis in the Δελτ. Ἀρχ. 1888 p. 135, Corp. inscr. Att. iv. 2 no. 1572c a fragmentary marble slab inscribed ΔΙΙΛΙ and ΞΝ = [--- Διὶ Φιλίωι] | [ἀνέθηκ]εν above the relief of a snake. (2) I. C. Dragatsis in the Δελτ. Ἀρχ. 1888 p. 135 no. 3, Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 355 the relief of a snake with the inscription Διὶ Φιλίωι [ἀνέθηκ]εν.

³ Supra p. 1111.

⁴ This explains the otherwise inexplicable gloss of Hesych. φίλιός (Soping corr. φίλιος, M. Schmidt ej. ἀφάδιος?) ‘ὁ ἀποτρόπαιος, κατ’ εὐφημοσμ[έν]ον.

repeat the types in question but, having no inscribed dedication, cannot be assigned with assurance to either god. Two examples will suffice. A fourth-century relief in Pentelic marble (fig. 977)¹ shows, within an architectural border, Zeus enthroned towards the right, holding a phiale in his right hand and a sceptre (painted) in his left. Before him kneels a woman, who with a well-known gesture of supplication stretches out both hands to clasp his knees². Behind her stands a second woman, with right hand uplifted. They are accompanied by a couple of children. The scene is closed by two hieródouloi—a boy carrying a ram with his left, and a girl supporting a large round basket on her head. The fact that in reliefs of this sort the father is so often escorted by his son, the mother by her daughter, suggests that the god, whether Meilichios or Phlios, was in any case worshipped as Téleios.

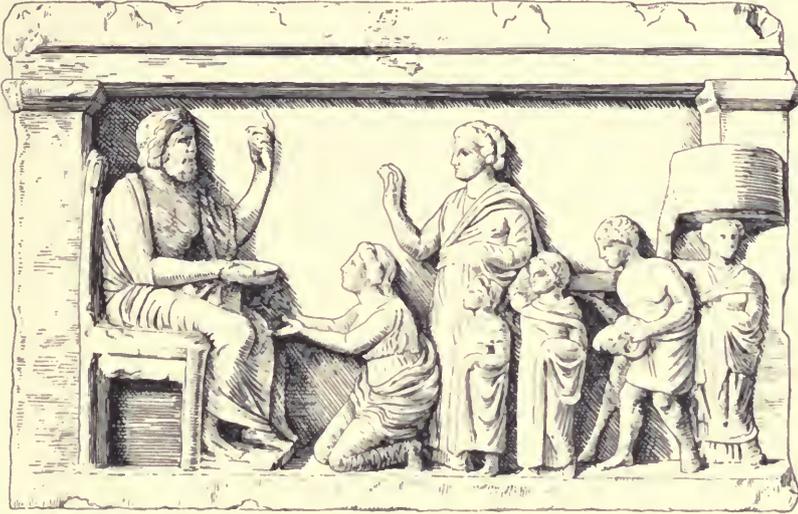

Fig. 977.

More difficult to interpret is another fourth-century relief (fig. 978)³ representing a cylindrical altar with a snake coiled about it and a pair of snakes, both bearded, in heraldic pose to right and left. Have we here a votive tablet honouring the same god under all three aspects?

The chthonian character of Zeus Phlios is borne out by his ability to witness oaths and to send dreams. Greek dialogues, letters, and speeches abound in such phrases as 'by Zeus the Friendly⁴,' 'by the Friendly Zeus⁵,' 'by the Friendly

¹ Friederichs—Wolters Gipsabgüsse p. 375 no. 1139, Einzelauftnahmen no. 1245, 3 with Text v. 20 by E. Löwy, *Stais Marbres et Bronzes: Athènes*² p. 242 no. 1408, Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. p. 357 f. no. 1408 pl. 65 (=my fig. 977), Reinach Rép. Reliefs ii. 363 no. 2. Height 0.25^m, breadth 0.40^m.

² C. Sittl Die Gebärdn der Griechen und Römer Leipzig 1890 pp. 163 ff., 282 f., Svoronos op. cit. p. 358.

³ Svoronos op. cit. p. 441 no. 1441 pl. 71 (=my fig. 978). Height 0.15^m, breadth 0.24^m.

⁴ πρὸς Διὸς Φιλίου Plat. Phaedr. 234 E, Minos 321 C, Ioul. epist. 3. 2. Cp. πρὸς Διὸς Φιλίου τε καὶ Ἐταίρου Sokrat. epist. 27. 1 p. 627 Hercher.

⁵ πρὸς Φιλίου Διὸς Ioul. or. 2 p. 123, 9 Hertlein, or. 3 p. 165, 23 Hertlein, Aineias of Gaza epist. 1.

One¹, 'yes, by the Friendly One², 'no, by your Friendly One and mine³.

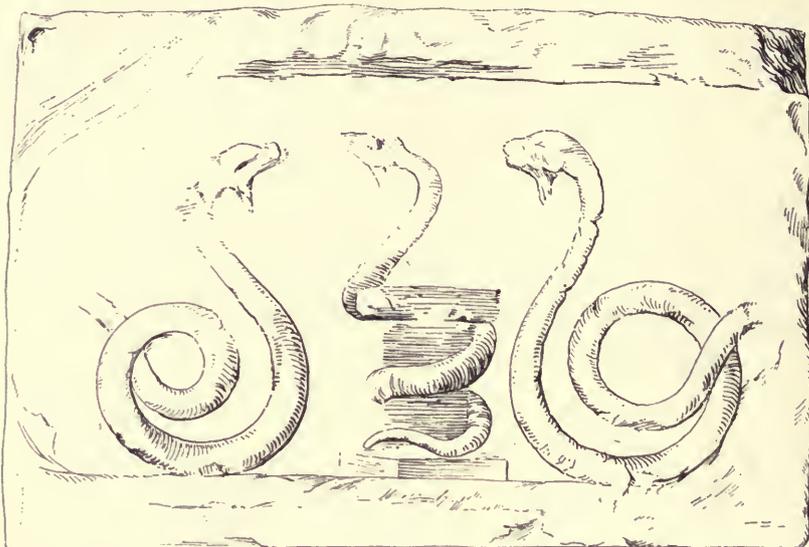

Fig. 978.

Friends in general swore by Zeus *Phllios*⁴, who came to be looked upon as the overseer and guardian of friendship⁵, or ultimately as a god of love who would

¹ πρὸς Φιλίου Plat. Euthyphr. 6 B, Gorg. 500 B, 519 E, Loukian. Herod. 7, rhet. praecept. 4, de dipsad. 9, Themist. or. 1. 17 A p. 19, 6 Dindorf, Prokop. epist. 75, 103, 116, 132.

² καὶ τὸν Φίλιον Aristoph. Ach. 730 with schol. ad loc. νῆ τὸν Φίλιον Pherekrat. κραπάταλοι frag. 16. 4 (Frag. com. Gr. ii. 293 Meineke) ap. Phot. lex. s.v. Φίλιος Ζεύς = Soud. s.v. Φίλιος.

³ μὰ τὸν Φίλιον τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν Plat. Alcib. 1 109 D, imitated by Aristain. epist. 2. 14 μὰ τὸν Φίλιον Ἔρωτα (D. Wytténbach om. Ἔρωτα as a gloss) τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν and Synes. epist. 49 p. 660 Hercher and 59 p. 672 καὶ μὰ τὸν Φίλιον τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν, 103 p. 700 οὐ μὰ τὸν Φίλιον τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν, 129 p. 716 νῆ τὸν Φίλιον τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν, 95 p. 694 οὐ μὰ τὸν Ὀμόγγιον τὸν ἐμόν τε καὶ σὸν. We have a similar usage of the possessive pronoun (one of those little touches, which show that on occasion Greek religion could be personal as well as civic) in Eur. Andr. 602 f. ἦτις ἐκ δόμων | τὸν σὸν λιποῦσα Φίλιον (sc. Δία) ἐξεκώμασε | κ.τ.λ., Hec. 345 (cited supra p. 1097 n. 2).

⁴ Menand. ἀνδρόγυνοσ frag. 6 (Frag. com. Gr. iv. 85 Meineke) ap. Phot. lex. s.v. Φίλιος Ζεύς = Soud. s.v. Φίλιος... μαρτύρομαι τὸν Φίλιον, ὦ Κράτων, Δία, Loukian. Τοχαρ. 11 f. ΜΝΗΣ. ὁμοίμεθα, εἰ τι καὶ ὄρκου δεῖν νομίζεις. τίς δέ σοι τῶν ἡμετέρων θεῶν—ἄρ' ἱκανὸς ὁ Φίλιος; ΤΟΞ. καὶ μάλα... ΜΝΗΣ. ἴστω τοίνυν ὁ Ζεὺς ὁ Φίλιος, ἦ μὴν κ.τ.λ., schol. rec. Soph. Αἰ. 492 p. 211, 6 ff. ἐφέστιον Διὸς· τοῦ τιμωμένου ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ καὶ ἐφορῶντος τὴν συνόκλησιν ἡμῶν. Ἐφέστιον Δία προτείνουσι οἱ συνοικοῦντες· οἱ δὲ φίλοι Φίλιον· οἱ δὲ ἐν μῆϊ τάξει καταλεγόμενοι καὶ μᾶ συμμορία, Ἐταιρεῖον· οἱ δὲ ξένοι, Ξένιον· οἱ δὲ ἐν ὄρκοις συμφωνίας ποιοῦντες, Ὀρκιον· οἱ δὲ δεόμενοι, Ἰκέσιον· οἱ δὲ ἀδελφοί, Ὀμόγγιον = schol. Eur. Hec. 345.

⁵ Phrynichos the 'Atticist' (c. 180 A.D.) in Bekker anecd. i. 34, 14 (cited supra p. 1092 n. 8), ib. i. 71, 7 Φίλιος· ὁ φίλιασ ἐφοροσ θεός, Phot. lex. s.v. Φίλιος Ζεύς = Soud. s.v. Φίλιος· ὁ τὰ περὶ τὰσ φίλιασ ἐπισκοπῶν, et. mag. p. 793, 43 Φίλιος Ζεύς· ὁ τὰ περὶ τῆσ φίλιασ (F. Sylburg cj. τὴν φίλιαν) ἐπισκοπῶν, Olympiod. in Plat. Gorg. 500 B (published by have all men dwell together in amity¹. A title with such claims to popularity was naturally included among the stock epithets of Zeus².

An oblong slab of limestone found in the precinct of Asklepios at Epidauros bears a dedication to Zeus Phílios 'in accordance with a dream' and adds, as symbol of the god, a branch of olive or oak enclosed in a circle³. It must not be

A. Jahn in the Neue Jahrbücher für Philologie und Pädagogik Suppl. 1848 xiv. 364 f.) ἐπὶ τῶν ἐφορον τῆς φίλιας φέρει αὐτὸν, ἵνα εἰδῶς ὅτι θεὸς ἐστὶν ὁ τῆς φίλιας προστάτης μὴ πάλιν παῖξῃ· ὁ γὰρ παῖξων εἰς φίλον τὸν προστάτην ταύτης θεὸν παῖζει, schol. Plat. Gorg. 500 B Διὸς ἦν ἐπώνυμον παρ' Ἀθηναίους ὁ Φίλιος, ἐκ τοῦ εἶναι τῶν φιλικῶν καθηκόντων αὐτὸν ἐφορον, Thom. Mag. eccl. voc. Att. p. 382 Ritschl Φίλιος ὁ τῆς φίλιας ἐφορος θεός, Favorin. lex. p. 1188, 57 Φίλιος, ὁ φίλιας ἐφορος, p. 1832, 62 f. Φίλιος Ζεὺς, ὁ τὰ περὶ τῆς φίλιας ἐπισκοπῶν. With these scholastic definitions 'cp. such passages as Liban. epist. 19 καὶ ταύτην τίνομεν τῷ Φιλίῳ τὴν δίκην ὅτι δὴ φίλων ἡμῶν ἐφάνη τι τιμώτερον, 1204 ὑπέμνησα Φίλιου Διὸς and context.

¹ Dion Chrys. or. 1 p. 56 f. Reiske Ζεὺς γὰρ...ἐπονομάζεται...καὶ Φιλίος τε καὶ Ἐταιρείος... Φίλιος δὲ καὶ Ἐταιρείος ὅτι πάντας ἀνθρώπους ξυνάγει καὶ βούλεται εἶναι ἀλλήλους φίλους, ἐχθρὸν δὲ ἢ πολέμιον μηδένα = or. 12 p. 412 f. Reiske Ζεὺς γὰρ...ὀνομάζεται...καὶ Φίλιος καὶ Ἐταιρείος... Φίλιος δὲ καὶ Ἐταιρείος ὅτι πάντας ἀνθρώπους ξυνάγει καὶ βούλεται φίλους εἶναι ἀλλήλους, ἐχθρὸν δὲ ἢ πολέμιον οὐδένα οὐδενός, Eustath. in magnam quadragessimam orationem graecaratorum 44 (= Eustath. opusc. p. 86 Tafel) πονηροὶ οἱ μὴ ἀγαπῶντες· πονηροὶ δὲ ὁ Φίλιος οὐ προσίεται.

² Aristot. de mund. 7. 401 a 22 ἑταιρείος τε καὶ φίλιος καὶ ξένιος = Stob. eccl. 1. 1. 36 p. 45, 19 f. Wachsmuth (translated by Apul. de mund. 37 alii Hospitalem Amicalemque), Loukian. Tim. 1 TIM. ὦ Ζεῦ φίλιε καὶ ξένιε καὶ ἑταιρείε καὶ ἐφέστιε καὶ ἀστεροπητῆ καὶ ὄρκιε καὶ νεφεληγερέτα καὶ ἐρίγδονπε καὶ εἰ τί σε ἄλλο οἱ ἐμβρόντητοι ποιηταὶ καλοῦσι, καὶ μάλιστα θῆαν ἀπορῶσι πρὸς τὰ μέτρα, Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 288 Φύξιος δὲ ὁ Ζεὺς καὶ Φίλιος καὶ Ἐταιρείος καὶ Ἐφέστιος καὶ Ὀμόγνιος καὶ ἄλλα μυρία καλεῖται πρὸς τὰ συμβαίνοντα καὶ γινόμενα καὶ μετονομαζόμενος· κ.τ.λ., Achilles (Tatios) comment. frag. in Arat. phaen. 2 f. p. 84, 16 ff. Maass λέγεται γὰρ καὶ βουλαῖος Ζεὺς καὶ ξένιος καὶ ἑταιρείος (leg. ἑταιρείος) φίλιος φυτάλμιος ἐπικάρπιος, schol. Arat. p. 332, 10 f. Maass ὡς εἰσι (φασί) γενέτωρ φράτριος ὁμόγνιος ἑταιρείος φίλιος ἰκέσιος ξένιος ἀγοραῖος βουλαῖος βρονταῖος καὶ τὰ ὅμοια (sc. ἐπίθετα Διὸς), Schöll—Studemund anecd. i. 267 no. 100 φίλιου (sc. Διὸς), 274 φίλιος (sc. Ζεὺς), 282 φίλιος (sc. Ζεὺς).

In particular the epithets Ξένιος καὶ Φίλιος are often combined: Plout. v. Arat. 54 δίκας γε μὴν ὁ Φίλιππος οὐ μεμπτὰς Διὶ Ξενίῳ καὶ Φιλίῳ τῆς ἀνοσιουργίας ταύτης τίνων διετέλεσε, Himer. or. 6. 3 φέρε οὖν κἀνταῦθα Φιλίῳ Διὶ κρατῆρα στήσωμεν καὶ τὸν Ξενίου βωμὸν λόγων ξενίας ἀμείψωμεν, Ioul. or. 8 p. 327, 8 ff. Hertlein ἀγοι μὲν θεὸς ἐυμένης, ὅποι ποτ' ἂν δέη πορεύεσθαι, Ξένιος δὲ ὑποδέχοιτο καὶ Φίλιος εἵνους, Heliod. Aeth. 6. 2 πρὸς Ξενίων καὶ Φιλίων θεῶν, schol. Eur. Hec. 791 χθονίους μὲν (sc. οὐ δείσας) διὰ τὸ ἀταφον εἶσαι φοιροῦσαντα, οὐρανίους δὲ διὰ τὸν Ξένιον καὶ Φίλιον Δία (here actually contrasted with the chthonian powers!), schol. Eur. Andr. 603 Φίλιον... ἢ λείπει τὸ Δία, ἴν' ἢ Φίλιον Δία, ὡς Ξένιον Δία, schol. Aristoph. cp. 500 Ζεὺς Ἀγοραῖος· ὡς Ζεὺς Ξένιος ἢ Μειλίχιος ἢ Φίλιος, οὕτω καὶ Ἀγοραῖος.

See also Aineias of Gaza epist. 8, Prokop. epist. 15, Eumath. 3. 9, 5. 18 (supra p. 114 i n. 13). And cp. Loukian. Prom. s. Caucas. 6 πᾶν φιλανθρώπων τοῦ Διὸς πεπειραμένους.

³ P. Kabbadias in the 'Εφ. Ἀρχ. 1883 p. 31 no. 12, id. Fouilles d'Épidaure Athènes 1893 i. 60 no. 161, M. Fränkel in the Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 1296 [Δ]ι Φιλίῳ | Πύροιοι | κατ' ὄναρ with the numeral νθ' and the symbol ☉ in circle, on which see supra p. 1076 f. The garland of Zeus Phílios is mentioned in an inscription from Kyrene (Corp. inscr. Gr. iii no. 5173, 3 ff. = Kaibel Épigr. Gr. no. 873, 1 ff. = Cougny Anth. Pal. Append. 1. 280. 1 ff. ἀ[γ]ρεῖ δ' Ἀρτεμῖς ἀ[γ]ροστέ[ρη], καλοῖς ἐνὶ [πέπλ]οις, | Μαρκιανὴν ἱερῷ δερκομένη (θ)[αλῶμω] | οὐ[δ] Δ[ι]ὸς ἀρητῆρ [ἡρᾶ]το, πατῆρ ἱερῶν, | [ἀρ]τ[ι] π[υ]κ[νὸν] Φιλί(ο) [σ]τέμ[μα] ἀ[να]θησάμενος· | κ.τ.λ. The restoration is doubtful: see G. Kaibel and E. Cougny ad loc.).

hastily assumed that Zeus Phillios was only another name for Asklepios¹, though the two deities were certainly of similar origin and somewhat similar character.

But we have yet to notice three remarkable cults of Zeus Phillios at Megalopolis in Arkadia, at Pergamon in Mysia, and at Antiocheia on the Orontes, respectively.

(3) Zeus Phillios at Megalopolis.

Pausanias in describing the enclosure sacred to the Greek Goddesses at Megalopolis says:

‘Within the precinct is a temple of Zeus Phillios. The image is by Polykleitos the Argive and resembles Dionysos; for its feet are shod with buskins and it has a cup in one hand, a thýrsos in the other. On the thýrsos is perched an eagle, though this does not agree with what is told of Dionysos. Behind the said temple is a small grove of trees surrounded by a wall. People are not allowed to enter it, but before it are images of Demeter and Kore some three feet in height. Within the precinct of the Great Goddesses there is also a sanctuary of Aphrodite².’

So the temple of Zeus Phillios had a grove of awful sanctity behind it, over which Demeter and Kore mounted guard. I take this to mean that Zeus Phillios, himself a chthonian god, was reckoned as the consort of these chthonian goddesses, and was held to be jointly responsible with them for the yearly yield of corn and wine. Hence his approximation to the type of Dionysos. The singular Dionysiac Zeus is attributed by J. Overbeck³ to Polykleitos the younger on the ground that his more famous namesake was dead and buried years before the foundation of Megalopolis (371—368 B.C.). But H. Brunn⁴ suggested that the statue was a work of Polykleitos the elder, brought from some other Arcadian town to grace the new federal centre. Two arguments incline me towards Brunn’s view. In the first place, Pausanias is elsewhere careful to distinguish the younger sculptor from his more illustrious predecessor⁵, so that, rightly or wrongly, our author must have meant the elder Polykleitos. In the second place, Polykleitos the elder, bowing to the authority of local tradition, represented Hera with a highly peculiar sceptre⁶: he may well have done the same for this cult-statue of Zeus. It is not, however, necessary to suppose with Brunn that the statue was brought from another town: cult-statues are not easily transplanted. I should rather conceive of the situation as follows. Megalopolis had a quarter or, as Stephanos the geographer says, a ‘half’ called Orestía after Orestes⁷, who had spent a year of exile in the *Orésteion*⁸. Now in the only other Orésteion known

¹ Cp. supra p. 1076 ff.

² Paus. 8. 31. 4 f. (supra i. 112 n. 2) τοῦ περιβόλου δὲ ἐστὶν ἐντὸς Φιλίου Διὸς ναὸς, Πολυκλείτου μὲν τοῦ Ἀργείου τὸ ἄγαλμα, Διονύσω δὲ ἐμπερές· κόθοροί τε γὰρ τὰ ὑποδήματά ἐστιν αὐτῷ, καὶ ἔχει τῇ χειρὶ ἔκπωμα, τῇ δὲ ἑτέρα θύρσον, κάθηται δὲ ἀετὸς ἐπὶ τῷ θύρσῳ· καίτοι γε τοῖς (R. Porson cj. τοῖς γε) ἐς Διόνυσον λεγομένοις τοῦτο οὐχ ὁμολογοῦν ἐστί. τούτου δὲ ὀπισθεν τοῦ ναοῦ δένδρων ἐστὶν ἄλσος οὐ μέγα, θρηγκῶ περιεχόμενον. ἐς μὲν δὴ τὸ ἐντὸς ἔσοδος οὐκ ἐστὶν ἀνθρώποις· πρὸ δὲ αὐτοῦ Δῆμητρος καὶ Κόρης ὅσον τε ποδῶν τριῶν εἰσιν (Siebelis cj. ἐστὶν) ἀγάλματα. ἔστι δὲ ἐντὸς τοῦ περιβόλου τῶν Μεγάλων Θεῶν καὶ Ἀφροδίτης ἱερόν.

³ Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 51 f., 228 ff., 563, *Gr. Plastik*⁴ i. 533, 537.

⁴ H. Brunn in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1880 p. 468 f.

⁵ Paus. 6. 6. 2.

⁶ Supra i. 134 f., ii. 893 n. 2.

⁷ Steph. Byz. s.v. Μεγάλη πόλις.

⁸ Eur. Or. 1643 ff. with schol. See N. Wedd ad loc. and Frazer Pausanias iv. 413.

to us Orestes and Pylades were revered by the Scythians as *Phílioi Daímones*¹. Not impossibly, therefore, the Arcadian Orestes likewise was a Phílios Daímon worshipped after his death as Zeus Phílios. Orestes was the son of Agamemnon; and it is probable enough that he, like his father², was remembered as a human Zeus. His name Oréstes, whatever its origin³, would pass muster as a title of Zeus the mountain-god⁴. In any case there was good reason for the retention of this pre-Megalopolitan cult: the appellative Phílios was a most desirable omen for a town which combined the inhabitants of some forty Arcadian villages⁵.

(4) Zeus Phílios at Pergamon.

From Arkadia we pass to Pergamon. 'The Pergamenes themselves,' says Pausanias, 'claim to be Arcadians of the band which crossed into Asia with Telephos⁶.' It is not, therefore, surprising to find that Pergamon too had its cult of Zeus Phílios. An inscribed block from the wall of the Traianeum speaks of that splendid structure (fig. 979)⁷ as the temple of Iupiter Amicalis and the emperor Trajan. The inscription is probably of 113—114 A.D. and intimates that, thanks to the liberality of one Iulius Quadratus, the joint cult is to be honoured with a penteteric festival, which shall take rank with the existing Pergamene festival of Roma and Augustus⁸. The competitions thus established ¹ In Loukian. Toxar. 7 the Scythian states that his compatriots honour Orestes and Pylades on account of their mutual loyalty and devotion, adding καὶ τοῦνομα ἐπὶ τοῦτοις αὐτῶν ἐθέμεθα Κοράκουσ καλεῖσθαι. τοῦτο δὲ ἐστὶν ἐν τῇ ἡμετέρᾳ φωνῇ ὥσπερ ἂν εἰ τις λέγοι 'Φίλιοι Δαίμονες.' He also mentions a bronze tablet in the Orésteion inscribed with the tale of their sufferings, which Scythian children had to get by heart, and ancient paintings on the temple-wall illustrating the record. Possibly Κόρακοι = (Διόσ)κοροὶ.

² Supra Append. I.

³ Recent discussion of Orestes and his myth is conveniently summarised by Gruppe Myth. Lit. 1908 pp. 576 ff., 620 ff.

⁴ Supra i. 100 ff., 117 ff., ii. Append. B.

⁵ Diod. 15. 72, Paus. 8. 27. 3 ff. Prof. J. B. Bury in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1898 xviii. 19 says of the temples enumerated by Pausanias at Megalopolis: 'Those which he saw on the north side [of the river Helisson] suggest no federal association.' Is not this to ignore the obvious connotation of the title Phílios?

⁶ Paus. 1. 4. 6. See further W. Ridgeway The Early Age of Greece Cambridge 1901 i. 180 f. and A. C. Pearson on Soph. Muscol frag. 409 ff. Jebb.

Orestes enters into the myth of Telephos (O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 958—961) and is figured on the small inner frieze of the grand altar of Zeus (H. Winnefeld in Pergamon iii. 2. 191 f., 219, 223, 228, Beilage 6, D, 7, 42, pl. 33, 4; Overbeck *Gr. Plastik*⁴ ii. 285 fig. 201 c, C. Robert in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1887 ii. 245 ff. fig. D, id. ib. 1888 iii. 104, A. Trendelenburg in Baumeister Denkm. ii. 1271 f. fig. 1429, O. Höfer loc. cit. p. 960).

⁷ Pergamon v. 2. 1—54 with numerous illustrations and an Atlas of plates (my fig. 979 is after pl. 34 the restored view) forms a monograph on the Traianeum by H. Stiller. See also E. Pontremoli and M. Collignon Pergame, restauration et description des monuments de l'acropole Paris 1900 pp. 153—160 with figs. and pls. 11 f.

⁸ T. Mommsen in the Corp. Inscr. Lat. iii Suppl. no. 7086, 18 ff. = M. Fränkel Die Inschriften von Pergamon (= Pergamon viii. 2) Berlin 1895 ii. 203 ff. no. 269, 9 ff. with facsimile [placere ut certamen illud,] quod in honorem templi Iovis Amicalis et | [Imp. Caes. divi Nervae f. Ner]vae Traiani Augusti Germanici Dacici | [pontif. max. est const]titutum εισελαστικὸν in civitate | [Pergamenorum, eiusdem cond]ditionis sit, cuius est, quod in honorem Romae | [et divi Aug. ibi agitur, it]a ut ea impendia, quae propter id certamen | [fieri oportebit, cedant in] onus Iuli Quadrati clarissimi viri | [eorumque a]d quos ea res pertinebit. The official description ib. 13 = 5 [ἀγῶν δεῦτ]ερος παρ' ὑμῶν ἐπερὶ are called in another inscription the Traianeia Deiphleia¹. From the double nomenclature and from the absence of earlier foundations beneath the temple M. Fränkel justly infers that the cult of Trajan was superposed on a previously existing cult of Zeus Phlios (Latinised as Iupiter Amicalis), who formerly had no temple but only an open-air altar²—presumably that detected by J. Schrammen on the highest point of the hill³. When it was decided to institute the cult of Trajan, who himself had some pretensions to the name of Zeus⁴, the best is borne out by Dion Cass. 51. 20 καὶ ἔλαβον καὶ οἱ Περγαμηνοὶ τῶν ἀγῶνα τὸν ἱερὸν ὀνομασμένον ἐπὶ τῇ τοῦ ναοῦ αὐτοῦ (sc. Αὐγούστου) τιμῇ ποιεῖν.

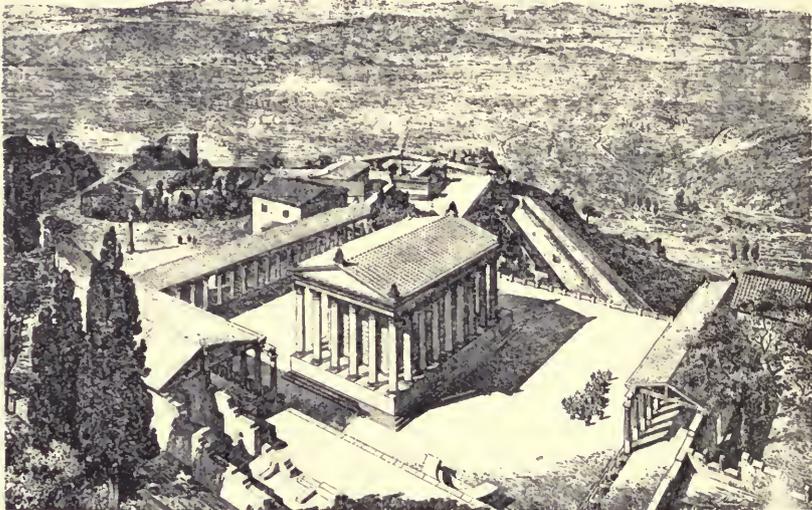

Fig. 979.

¹ E. L. Hicks The Collection of Ancient Greek Inscriptions in the British Museum iii. 2. 233 f. Oxford 1890 no. 605, 9 Τραϊάνεια Δειφίλεια ἐν Περγάμῳ ἀνδρῶν πυγμαίων*, where Hicks wrongly supposes that the games ‘may have been endowed by one Δειφίλος (sic)’. Δειφίλεια, as M. Fränkel loc. cit. saw, are the games of Zeus Φίλιος.

² M. Fränkel Die Inschriften von Pergamon (= Pergamon viii. 2) Berlin 1895 ii. 206.

³ Supra i. 120 f. fig. 89.

⁴ A fragmentary inscription from Hermione speaks of Trajan as Zeus Embatérios (Corp. inscr. Gr. i no. 1213 = Inscr. Gr. Pelop. i no. 701 ----- | [K]αίσαρα θεὸν θεο[ῦ] | Σεβαστὸν Γερμανικὸν | Δακικόν, Δία Ἐμβατήριον, (ἡ πόλις). L. Dindorf in Stephanus Thes. Gr. Ling. iii. 810 A cp. Apollon Ἐμβάσιος (O. Jessen in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 2485) and Ἐπιβατήριος (id. ib. vi. 28). We can contrast Apollon Ἐκβάσιος (id. ib. v. 2155), Artemis Ἐκβατήρια (id. ib. v. 2158). Such epithets denote a deity invoked by the voyager before he embarks or after he disembarks, as the case may be. The deity in question might chance to be of mortal stock : on the quay at Alexandria was τὸ λεγόμενον Σεβάσιον, Ἐπιβατηρίου Καίσαρος νεῶς (Philon leg. ad Gai. 22 : see further O. Puchstein in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. i. 1385, O. Jessen ib. vi. 28). Hesych. Ἐπιβήμιος : Ζεὺς ἐν Σίφῳ has been wrongly added to this group of travel-titles (O. Jessen ib. vi. 28), or altered to Ἐπιδήμιος (R. Förster in the Ath. Mitth. 1894 xix. 372 f., citing a marble block at Karadjadagh-Köi on the Ulutshar in Bithynia, which is inscribed Διὶ Ἐπιδημίῳ | Κλαύδιου(ς) Σεήρου | Ὀφελίων οἰκονόμος κ(αὶ) Ἥλιος | ὑπὲρ τέκνων | κ(αὶ) τῶν βοῶν | εὐχῆς χάρις | ἀνεστήσα(μεν) : Zeus ‘on the Step’ is better explained as a god standing beside the course seemed to be to maintain the old altar of ashes on the hill-top and to erect a new temple, which should be shared on equal terms by Zeus Phllios and the divinised emperor. Copper coins of Pergamon, struck by Trajan, illustrate the inscription from the Traianeum in two ways. On the one hand, they put

Fig. 980.

Fig. 981.

Fig. 982.

Trajan himself more or less on a par with Zeus Phllios. Thus the emperor's head occupies the obverse, the god's head the reverse, of a coin (fig. 980)¹. Or, the emperor's head on the obverse is balanced by a seated figure of the god on the reverse (fig. 982)². Or, the emperor in military costume stands beside the orator on his platform and inspiring his utterance (cp. Welcker Gr. Götterl. ii. 207, Farnell Cults of Gk. States i. 162). Supra p. 897 n. 3.

The southern or townward face of Trajan's Arch at Beneventum, which like the Pergamene temple dates from the year 113—114, represents in the two panels of its attic (a) the Capitoline triad awaiting the arrival of Trajan: Iuno is escorted by Mercurius and Ceres, Minerva by Liber and Hercules; (b) Trajan approaching the area Capitolina: accompanied by Hadrian as emperor designate and followed by two lictors, he has reached the temple of Iupiter Custos, on the left of which, before the entrance-arch, are seen Roma, the Penates Publici Populi Romani, and the consuls. These two panels, separated only by the dedicatory inscription (Corp. inscr. Lat. ix no. 1558 = Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 296 imp. Caesari divi Nervae filio | Nervae Traiano Optimo Aug. | Germanico Dacico, pontif. max., trib. | potest. XVIII, imp. VII, cos. VI, p. p., | fortissimo principi, senatus p. q. R.), form a single composition—Iupiter handing his own thunderbolt to Trajan, who is thereby recognised as his vice-gerent (figs. 983, 984 are from photographs by R. Moscioni (nos. 15308, 15309)). See further E. Petersen 'L'arco di Traiano a Benevento' in the Röm. Mitth. 1892 vii. 239—264 with cut, especially p. 251 f., A. L. Frothingham in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1897 p. 379 f., A. von Domaszewski 'Die politische Bedeutung des Traiansbogens in Benevent' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1899 ii. 173—192 with figs., especially p. 175 ff., F. Wickhoff Roman Art trans. Mrs. S. A. Strong London 1900 pp. 105—110 with figs., ead. Roman Sculpture London 1907 pp. 214—227 with pls. 63—66, especially p. 215 f., ead. Apotheosis and the After Life London 1915 pp. 85—87 pl. 10, Reinach Rép. Reliefs i. 58—66, especially p. 64 no. 1 f. For the title Optimus see supra p. 100 n. 6.

The significance of the imperial figure on the summit of Trajan's Column at Rome has been already considered (supra p. 100 ff.).

¹ Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 228 Münztaf. 3, 23, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 141 pl. 28, 12, H. Stiller in Pergamon v. 2. 53 fig. 2, H. von Fritze in the Abh. d. berl. Akad. 1910 Phil.-hist. Classe Anhang i. 55 pl. 4, 5. I figure a specimen from my collection: obv. ΑΥΤΤΡΙΑ ΝΟCCCBΛ, rev. ΣΕΥC ΦΙΛΙΟC (= obv. Αὐτοκράτωρ Τραϊανὸς Σεβαστὸς, rev. Ζεὺς Φίλιος).

² Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 872, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 141 no. 259, H. Stiller in Pergamon v. 2. 53 fig. 1 = my fig. 982, H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 55 pl. 4, 4: obv. ΑΥΤΤΡΙΑ ΝΟCCCBACT, rev. ΦΙΛΙΟCΣΕΥC ΠΕΡΓΑ (= obv. Αὐτοκράτωρ seated god within the same temple (fig. 981)¹. On the other hand, the coins equate the cult of Zeus Philius and Trajan with the cult of Roma and Augustus. The obverse shows Zeus Philius and Trajan in their temple, the reverse Roma and Augustus in theirs². Or, the obverse has Trajan, the reverse Augustus, as sole occupants of their respective fances³.

Fig. 983.

Τραϊανὸς Σεβαστός, rev. Φίλιος Ζεὸς Περγαμηνῶν). A copper of Lucius Verus gives the reverse type on a larger scale (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 148 no. 293, II. Fritze loc. cit. p. 55 pl. 4, 6) with the legend: ΕΠΙΣΤΡΑΑΤΥΛ... ΚΡΑ ΤΙΠΠΟΥΠΕΡΓΑΜΗΝΩΝΒ ΝΕΟΚΟΡ (= ἐπὶ στρατηγῶ Ἀτυλλίου Κρατίππου, Περγαμηνῶν β' νεωκέρων).

¹ Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 872, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 142 no. 262, H. Stiller in Pergamon v. 2. 53 fig. 3 = my fig. 981: rev. ΦΙΛΙΟΣ ΖΕΥΣ ΤΡΑΙΑ ΝΟΣΠΕΡΓ ΑΜΗΝΩΝ. Cp. a copper of Traianus Decius (H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 55 pl. 8, 18).

² Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 872 ff., Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 142 pl. 28, 10, H. Stiller in Pergamon v. 2. 53 fig. 5, H. von Fritze loc. cit. pp. 55, 83 ff. pl. 8, 12: obv. ΦΙΛΙΟΣ ΣΕΥΣ ΑΥΤ ΤΡΑΙΑΝΟ ΣΕΒΠΕ[Ρ] or ΠΕΡΓΑΜΗ, rev. ΘΕΛ ΡΩΜΗ [Κ]Λ[ΙΘ]Ε[Ω] ΣΕΒΑΣ ΤΩ.

³ Rasche Lex. Num. vi. 873, Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 142 pl. 28, 11, Hunter

The cult of Zeus Phlios on the mountain at Pergamon was, if I am right in my conjecture¹, derived from the cult of Zeus Phlios the 'Mountaineer'² of Megalopolis. But the original connexion with Oréstes had long since been forgotten, or at best left a mere trace of itself in the traditional link between Orestes and *Telephos*³. It was, however, remembered that Zeus Phlios somehow stood for the founder of the state. This may be inferred from the fact that, when Cat. Coins ii. 282 no. 57, H. Stiller in Pergamon v. 2. 53 fig. 4, H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 84 pl. 8, 17: obv. ΣΤ ΡΡΩ ΛΙΩΝΟΣ ΤΡΑΙΑ ΝΟ C or ΣΤΡΡΩΛΛΙ ΩΝΟCΤΡΑΙΑ ΝΟCΕΠΙ, rev. ΑΥΓ Ο V CΤΟC ΠΕΡΓΑ (= obv. ἐπὶ στρατηγού Πωλλωνος· Τραϊάνος, rev. Αὔγουστος· Περγαμηνῶν).

Fig. 984.

¹ Supra p. 1179.

² Supra p. 1178 f.

³ Supra p. 1179 n. 6. Note that Τήλεφος, a clipped form of Τηλεφάνης (F. Bechtel—A. Fick *Die Griechischen Personennamen*² Göttingen 1894 p. 374) was, like 'Ορέστης (supra p. 1179), a name which would fitly describe a mountain-god (cp. Od. 24. 83, Aristoph. nub. 281, Menand. Λευκαδία frag. 1, 4 (Frag. com. Gr. iv. 158 f. Meineke) ap. Strab. 452, and the like).

the Pergamenes invented an eponymous hero Pergamos¹, they portrayed him (fig. 985)² with the features of Zeus Phlios.

Whether Zeus Phlios at Pergamon was in any sense Dionysiac, we can hardly determine. A phidie in his hand (figs. 981, 982) is no proof. Nor can we lay stress on the curious association of Telephos with the vine³. The most we can say is that a buskined Zeus of the Arcadian type⁴ would not be out of place in a town which recognised Zeus *Subázios*⁵ and Zeus *Bákchos*⁶.

Fig. 985.

Fig. 986.

Popular enthusiasm, or policy, having thus raised the emperor to the level of Zeus Phlios, went a step further and identified the two. An alliance-coin of Thyateira and Pergamon (fig. 986)⁷ surrounds the laureate bust of Trajan with

¹ H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 69 n. 1 points out that Pergamos is first mentioned as founder of the state in two mutually complementary inscriptions of c. 50 B.C. published together by H. Hepding in the Ath. Mitth. 1909 xxxiv. 329 ff.: *ὁ δῆμος ἐτίμησεν | Μιθραδάτην Μηροδότην τὸν διὰ γένους ἀρχιερέ[α] | καὶ ἱερέα τοῦ Καθηγεμόνου Διονύσου διὰ γένου[ς,] | ἀπο[κα]ταστήσαντα τοῖς πατρίοις θεοῖς τ[ὴν τε πόλιν] | καὶ τ[ὴν] χώραν καὶ γενόμενον τῆς πατρίδος μ[ε]τὰ Πέργαμον | καὶ Φιλέταιρον νέον κτίστην and ὁ δῆμος ἐτίμησεν | [Μιθραδάτην] Μηροδότην διὰ γένου[ς] ἀρχιερέα | καὶ ἱερέα τοῦ Καθηγεμόνου Διονύσου, ἀποκαταστήσαντα | τοῖς πατρίοις θεοῖς τῆν τε πόλιν καὶ τὴν χώραν καὶ γενόμενον | τῆς πατρίδος μ[ε]τὰ Π[ε]ργαμόν καὶ Φιλέταιρον νέον κτίστην. On the hero Pergamos and his cult see further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 1958 f.*

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 136 pl. 28, 1, H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 67 pl. 3, 14 and 19=my fig. 985, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 536: quasi-autonomous coppers inscribed ΠΕΡΓΑΜΟΣ and ΠΕΡΓΑΜΟΣ ΚΤΙΣΤΗΣ.

³ When the Greeks sailed against Troy, they lost their way and attacked Mysia by mistake. Telephos, king of the Mysians, went out against the invaders and slew many of them, but fled before Achilles and, tripping over a vine, was wounded in the thigh by that hero's spear (Apollod. epit. 3. 17). This occurred because Dionysos was angry with Telephos for depriving him of his due honours (schol. Il. 1. 59 f., cp. Eustath. in Il. p. 46, 35 ff. (Telephos' horse stumbles over a vine by the design of Dionysos), Tzetz. in Lyk. Al. 211 (Dionysos repays Achilles' sacrifices by causing to spring up a vine-shoot, which entangles Telephos), Dictys Cretensis 2. 3 (Telephus, pursued by Ulysses among the vineyards, trips over a vine-stem and is speared by Achilles in the left thigh)). The story is given without detail by Pind. Isthm. 8. 109 f. δ καὶ Μύσιον ἀμπελόεν | αἰμαξε Τηλέφου μέλαν ῥαίνων φόνω πεδίον. On the golden vine presented to Telephos' wife Astyoche by Prianos see supra p. 281 n. 4.

⁴ Supra p. 1178.

⁵ Supra p. 287 n. 2.

⁶ Supra pp. 287 n. 2, 954 n. o.

⁷ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Lydia p. 320 pl. 41, 5 (my fig. 986 is from a cast of the coin), H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 100: ΑΥΓΟΥΣΤΟΥ ΚΑΙ ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟΥ ΠΕΡΓΑΜΟΥ ΚΤΙΣΤΟΥ Ν[ΩΝ]ΑΝ ΤΕΙ ΤΕΙ ΘΗΟΝΟΙΑ ΔΑΚΙΦΙΛΙΟΝ ΔΙΑ (=αὐτοκράτορα Νέρουαν Τραϊανὸν Σεβαστὸν Γερμανικὸν Δακικὸν Φίλιον Δία).

the cunningly-worded legend: 'The emperor Nerva Traianus [Augustus] Germanicus Dacicus Zeus Phlios.' The mind of the reader passes upward from names of human import through titles recording hard blows struck and magnificent triumphs won to the final claim of supreme beneficent godhead. Moreover, the whole is thrown into the accusative case with a subtle suggestion of some verb denoting honour, if not worship¹. Adulation of the man has reached its limit. And, after all, a god who starts as a buried king ends not unfittingly as a divinised emperor.

Pergamon, in common with other cities of Asia Minor, frankly regarded the reigning sovereign as lord of heaven and earth, and did not hesitate to portray him in this capacity as a cosmic Zeus. A wonderful copper piece from the Pergamene mint (fig. 987)² exhibits Commodus in the form of a youthful Zeus with short hair and slight beard, naked and erect, a thunderbolt in his right hand, a sceptre in his left. He has an eagle with spread wings at his feet, and is flanked by two recumbent figures—Gaia on the right with a turreted crown and a cornu copiae, Thalassa on the left with a head-dress of crab's-claws and a steering paddle. In the field are busts of Helios and Selene. A unique coin, struck at Pergamon and now in the cabinet of T. Prowe at Moscow (fig. 988)³, repeats the theme with variations.

Thalassa and Gaia stand side by side, the former with bare breast, crab's-claws on her head, and a steering paddle in her uplifted hand, the latter with covered

Fig. 987.

Fig. 988.

Fig. 989.

¹ G. F. Hill A Handbook of Greek and Roman Coins London 1899 p. 186, G. Macdonald Coin Types Glasgow 1905 pp. 161, 170, H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 78 ff.

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Mysia p. 151 pl. 30, 4 = my fig. 987: rev. [ΕΠΙ]ΣΤΡΜΑΙΓ Λ ΥΚΩΝΙΑΝ[ΟΥ] ΠΕΡΓΑΜΗΝΩ ΝΝΕΟΚΟΡΩ Ν·Β (=ἐπὶ στρατηγῶν Μ. Αἰλίου Γλυκωνιανοῦ, Περγαμηνῶν νεωκῶρων β'). H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 56 f. pl. 4, 7 publishes another specimen from the Gotha collection.

³ H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 56 f. pl. 4, 11: rev. ΕΠΙΣΤΡ ΜΗΝΟ Γ ΕΝΟΥΣ·Β· ΝΕΩ[ΚΟ] ΡΩΝ ΠΕΡΓΑΜΗΝ ΩΝ (=ἐπὶ στρατηγῶν Μηνογένους, β' νεωκῶρων Περγαμηνῶν).

breast, wheat-ears on her head, and a cornu copiae on her arm. Both join hands to support a nude, youthful Zeus with the features of Geta, who holds a sceptre in his left hand and brandishes a thunderbolt in his right. Below him is his eagle with spread wings, grasping a wreath in his talons. Further variations are found on another unique copper, struck by Caracalla at Laodikeia in Phrygia and now in our national collection (fig. 989)¹. Gaia and Thalassa have changed places: behind the one corn-ears spring from the ground; behind the other a dolphin plunges into the sea. On their joined hands, instead of Zeus, stands Caracalla with a radiate crown on his head holding phiale and sceptre, while beneath him hovers his eagle bearing a wreath.

(5) Zeus Phlios at Antiocheia.

Lastly, we turn to Antiocheia on the Orontes, where the worship of Zeus Phlios was established by Theoteknos, governor of the city under Maximinus ii and an apostate from the Christian faith². Eusebios in his *Ecclesiastical History*³ pens an ugly portrait of this persecutor⁴:

‘The root of all the mischief grew in Antiocheia itself⁵—Theoteknos, a horror, a humbug, and a villain, whose character belied his name; he was supposed to keep the town in order. He set all his forces against us. He threw himself with zest into the task of hunting our people out of their holes and corners in every possible way, as though they had been a gang of thieves and malefactors. He went all lengths in slandering and accusing us. And, after causing tens of thousands to be put to death, he finally set up an idol of Zeus Phlios with a deal of quackery and imposture. He invented foul rites for it, initiations of an irreligious sort, and abominable modes of purification. He even exhibited before the emperor the portentous signs by means of which it was supposed to produce oracles⁶.’

Theoteknos may well have augured a great success for his new cult, partly on general and partly on special grounds.

On the one hand, the Antiochenes had always been devoted to the worship of Zeus. Long before their city was built, Triptolemos—so they said—had founded Ione on the slope of Mount Silpion and had constructed there a sanctuary of Zeus Némeios, later renamed Zeus *Epikdrprios*⁷. Subsequently Perseus

¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phrygia p. 316 pl. 37, 12 (= my fig. 989), H. von Fritze loc. cit. p. 57: rev. ΕΠΙ·Π·ΑΙΛ ΠΙΓΡΗ ΤΟC ΑCΙΑΡΓ ΛΑΟΔΙΚΕΩΝΝ ΕΩΚΟΡΩΝ· (ἐπὶ Π. Αἰλίου Πιγρητος Ἀσιάρχου γ', Λαοδικέων νεωκέρων).

² G. T. Stokes in Smith—Wace Dict. Chr. Biogr. iv. 1011.

³ Euseb. hist. eccl. 9. 2 f.

⁴ In 304 A.D. he did to death S. Theodotos and the Seven Virgins of Ankyra (Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Maii iv. 147—165, T. Ruinart *Acta primorum martyrum sincera & selecta*² Amstelædami 1713 pp. 336—352, A. Gallandius Bibliotheca veterum patrum antiquorumque scriptorum ecclesiasticorum Venetiis 1768 iv. 114—130).

⁵ We have here a buried hexameter: ὦν πάντων ἀρχηγὸς ἐπ' αὐτῆς Ἀντιοχείας.

⁶ Euseb. hist. eccl. 9. 3 τελευτῶν εἰδωλὸν τι Διὸς Φιλίου μαργαρελαῖς τισὶ καὶ γοητελαῖς ἰδρύεται, τελετὰς τε ἀνάγνους αὐτῶ καὶ μνήσεις ἀκαλλιερέτους ἐξαγίστους τε καθαρμῶς ἐπινοήσας, μέχρι καὶ βασιλέως τὴν τερατεῖαν δι' ὧν ἐδόκει χρησμῶν (leg. χρησμοῦς) ἐκτελεῖν ἐπεδείκνυτο. Cp. the loose translation of Rufin. hist. eccl. 9. 3 apud Antiochiam simulacrum quoddam Iovis Amicalis nuper consecratum artibus quibusdam magicis et impuris consecrationibus ita compositum erat, ut falleret oculos intuentium et portenta quaedam ostentare videretur ac responsa proferre. C. F. Crusé renders τελετὰς τε ἀνάγνους κ.τ.λ. ‘after reciting forms of initiation’ etc., clearly taking ἀνάγνους to be ἀναγρούς—an ingenious error.

⁷ Liban. or. 11. 51 (i. 2. 453, 1 ff. Foerster), supra i. 236 n. 10. Cp. Chron. Paschale visited Ione and, when a storm burst so that the river Orontes, then called Drakon, overflowed its banks, bade the inhabitants pray for deliverance. Thereupon a ball of lightning fell from the sky and stopped at once the downpour and the flood. Perseus kindled a fire from the blaze, took it to his own palace in Persia, and taught the Persians to reverence it as divine. He also established for the men of Ione a sanctuary of Immortal Fire¹. In the Hellenistic age this sanctuary on Mount Silpion was known as that of Zeus *Keraúnios*². Again, the foundation of Antiocheia itself was directly associated with the cult of Zeus. Libanios in his panegyric of the town says³:

'The settlement began with Zeus *Bottiaios*⁴, erected by Alexander, and the hill called Emathia after Alexander's home.'

i. 76 Dindorf ἐκτίσων οὖν ἐκεῖ οἱ ἀπτοῖ Ἰωνῆται ἱερὸν Κρονίωνος (but see supra i. 237 n. 1) εἰς τὸ Σιλπίων ὄρος and perhaps Liban. legat. ad Iulian. 79 (ii. 152, 10 ff. Foerster) cited supra p. 869 n. 1.

Zeus Némeios appears on a billon coin of Alexandria with selinon (?)-wreath, aigis, and star (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Alexandria p. 17 no. 130 pl. 1 (=my fig. 990), Head *Hist. num.*² p. 862, Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus pp. 218, 248, O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. iii. 116). These coins were struck by Nero in 67—68 A.D. to commemorate his triumphant tour through Greece in 67 A.D. (*Eckhel Doctr. num. vet.*² iv. 53).

As to the title Ἐπικάρπιος, my friend Mr G. F. Hill in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1915 xxxv. 150 kindly draws my attention to Methodios ap. et. mag. p. 58, 20 ff. Ἀλδήμιος ἢ Ἄλδος, ὁ Ζεὺς, ὃς (codd. D. Vb. omit ὃς) ἐν Γάζῃ τῆς Συρίας τιμᾶται· παρὰ τὸ ἀλδαῖων, τὸ αὐξάνων· ὁ ἐπὶ τῆς αὐξήσεως τῶν καρπῶν. Μεθόδιος (οὕτως Μεθόδιος cod. Vb.). Cp. S. Bochart *Geographia sacra, seu Phaleg et Canaan*⁴ Lugduni Batavorum 1707 lib. ii cap. 14 p. 748 'Ego Jovem illum Phoenices linguâ suâ vocasse puto בַּעַל הַחַלְדַּי baal-halda dominum sæculi, vel בַּעַל הַחַלְדִּים baal-aldim dominum sæculorum'—a most ingenious explanation of the alternatives Ἄλδος and Ἀλδήμιος.

¹ Pausanias the chronographer (cp. Io. Tzetz. schol. in exeges. Iliad. in L. Bachmann Scholia in Homeri Iliadem Lipsiae 1835 p. 833, 28 f. Πανσανίας δὲ ὁ ἱστορικὸς ἐν τῷ περὶ Ἄντιοχείας κτίσεως γράφει παλιότερον. κ.τ.λ.) ap. Io. Malal. chron. 2 p. 37 f. Dindorf = Chron. Paschale i. 72 f. Dindorf ὁ δὲ αὐτὸς Περσεὺς ἐκτίσεν τοῖς Ἰωνῆταις ἱερὸν, ὃ ἐπωνόμασε πῦρὸς ἀθανάτου.

² Io. Malal. chron. 8 p. 199 Dindorf says of Seleukos i Nikator after the foundation of Seleukeia καὶ εὐχαριστῶν ἀνήλθεν εἰς Ἰώπολιν καὶ μετὰ τρεῖς ἡμέρας ἐπετέλεσεν ἑορτὴν ἐκεῖ τῷ Κεραυνίῳ Διὶ ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τῷ κτισθέντι ὑπὸ Περσέως τοῦ υἱοῦ Πίκων καὶ Δανάης, τῷ ὄντι εἰς τὸ Σιλπίων ὄρος, ἐνθα κεῖται ἡ Ἰώπολις, ποιήσας τὴν θυσίαν τῇ πρώτῃ τοῦ Ἄρτεμιεῖος μηνός.

³ Liban. or. 11. 76 (i. 2. 461, 18 ff. Foerster).

⁴ With Zeus Bottiaios cp. Zeus Bórtios of Bortia, a village on the Orontes (Io. Malal. chron. 8 p. 200 Dindorf cited infra p. 1188), which doubtless claimed connexion with Bortia, Bortiala, Bortialis, the district round Pella in Makedonia (E. Oberhammer in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. iii. 794 f.). Since the Bottiaeans of Makedonia were said to have been brought by one Botton from Crete (Aristot. frag. 443 Rose ap. Plout. v. Thes. 16 and quaestt. Gr. 35, Strab. 279, 282, 329 frag. 11, Konon narr. 25, et. mag. p. 206, 1 ff.), it is possible that Zeus Bottiaios was ultimately of Cretan origin. The story of the clay loaves etc. told by Konon loc. cit. probably has some basis in Bottiaeian ritual. Coppers struck at Pella, under Philippos v and later (Head *Hist. num.*² p. 243), with the monogram Β (for Bortraiw) have obv. head of Zeus wreathed with bay (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Macedonia, etc. p. 13, Hunter Cat. Coins i. 352) or oak (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Macedonia, etc. p. 13 fig., Hunter Cat. Coins i. 352 (?)), rev. winged thunderbolt.

Fig. 990.

Further on he adds¹:

'The whole thing was ordained of God. Forty furlongs from this city of ours there was a city bearing the name of Antigonos and built by Antigonos. Here Seleukos was sacrificing after his victory². The bull had been slaughtered, the altars had received their customary portion, the fire was already licking up the sacrifice and burning fiercely, when, lo, Zeus moved from his sceptre³ his own companion and favourite bird and despatched him to the altar. He flew down into the midst of the flame, caught up the thigh-pieces all ablaze, and bore them off⁴. As the event attracted the looks and thoughts of all and was manifestly due to divine interposition, Seleukos bade his son⁵ mount a horse, pursue the flight from the ground, and guide his horse by the bridle according to the route taken by the bird; for he wished to know what it would do with its booty. Seleukos' son riding his horse, with upturned eyes, was led by the flight to Emathia. There the eagle stooped and deposited his burden on the altar of Zeus Bottiaios, erected by Alexander when he was cheered by the sight of the spring⁶. So all men, even without special powers of interpretation, could see that Zeus meant them to build a city on the spot. And thus it came about that the settlement intended and commenced by Alexander was carried to completion, while the chief of the gods⁷ by means of his own omen became our founder.'

Similar tales were current with regard to Alexander's foundation of Alexandria⁸ and Seleukos' foundation of Seleukeia Pieria⁹. Ioannes Malalas, of whose sixth-century chronicle a Greek abridgment (not to mention the fuller Slavonic version¹⁰) is extant, gives the Antiochene story¹¹, adding a touch or two of his own to heighten the interest. Thus, instead of connecting Zeus Bottiaios with the hill Emathia, he harrows our feelings by the assertion that at Bottia, a village over against Iopolis, Seleukos, when founding Antiocheia, sacrificed a maiden named Aimathe (sic) by the hand of the chief priest and initiator Amphon, between the city and the river, on Artemisios, i.e. May, 22, at daybreak, as the sun rose—a most circumstantial narrative. He goes on to say that Seleukos founded also the sanctuary of Zeus *Bóttios*¹². Again, Antiochos iv Epiphanes built for the Antiochenes, presumably on Mount Silpion, a magnificent temple of Iupiter Capitolinus, of which we are told, not only that its roof had gilded coffers, but that its walls were overlaid with beaten gold¹³. Tiberius either completed or restored the structure¹⁴. Antiochos Epiphanes also erected in the temple, which he had built, or more probably beautified, for Apollon at Daphne, a copy of the Olympian Zeus, said to have been as large as the original¹⁵. This statue was perhaps in-

¹ Liban. or. 11. 85—88 (i. 2. 464, 10 ff. Foerster).

² Seleukos i Nikator, after vanquishing Antigonos in Phrygia (301 B.C.).

³ Supra p. 1132 ff.

⁴ Infra fig. 1001.

⁵ Antiochos i Soter.

⁶ See Io. Malal. chron. 10 p. 234 Dindorf.

⁷ (ὁ Ζεὺς) ὁ τῶν θεῶν κορυφαῖος.

⁸ Iul. Valer. 1. 30 p. 39, 9 ff. Kuebler, pseudo-Kallisth. 1. 32 (context supra p. 1127 n. o).

⁹ Supra p. 981 n. 1.

¹⁰ Prof. J. B. Bury informs me that such a version exists, but is not yet published in accessible shape. On Malalas see further K. Krumbacher *Geschichte der byzantinischen Litteratur von Justinian bis zum Ende des Oströmischen Reiches*² München 1897 p. 325 ff., Sir J. E. Sandys *A History of Classical Scholarship*² Cambridge 1906 i. 390 f.

¹¹ Io. Malal. chron. 8 p. 199 ff. Dindorf.

¹² Id. ib. 8 p. 200 Dindorf.

¹³ Liv. 41. 20. Cp. Gran. Licin. 28 p. 6, 5 f. Flemisch duos colossos duodenum cubitorum ex aere unum Olympio, alterum Capitolino Iovi dedicaverat.

¹⁴ Io. Malal. chron. 10 p. 234 Dindorf ὁ δὲ Τιθέριος Καῖσαρ ἐκτίσεν ἐν τῇ αὐτῇ Ἀντιοχείᾳ πῶλει ἱερὸν μέγα Διὸς Καπετωλίου. The word ἐκτίσεν must not be pressed.

¹⁵ Amm. Marc. 22. 13. 1 eodem tempore die xi Kalend. Novembrium amplissimum tended to represent Antiochos himself¹; for it seems to have been part of that ruler's policy always to foster the cult, and on occasion to assume the rôle, of Zeus². Thus he struck handsome silver pieces showing on the obverse side an idealised portrait-head of himself, sometimes with twin stars at the ends of his diadem³, and on the reverse Zeus enthroned with a Nike in his hand. The Nike extends a wreath towards the god. And the accompanying legend reads 'Of King Antiochos, the God Made Manifest' (fig. 991)⁴, or 'Of King Antiochos, the God Made Manifest, Bearer of Victory' (fig. 992)⁵. Another imposing type has on the obverse the head of the monarch, wreathed with wild-olive and bearded as if he were indeed Zeus Olympios, on the reverse Zeus enthroned with Nike in the act of crowning him (fig. 993)⁶ or his pompous inscription (fig. 994)⁷. It is very possible that this coin commemorates the erection of the Olympian Zeus at Daphne. Be that as it may, the statue was probably made of gold and ivory, like its original at Olympia.

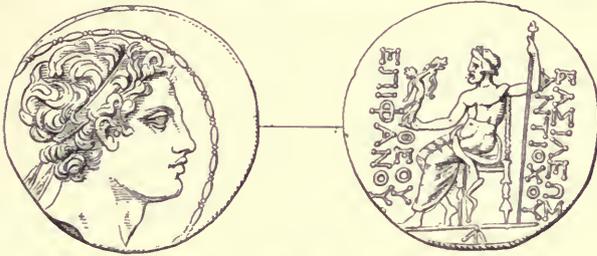

Fig. 991.

Fig. 992.

Daphnaei Apollinis fanum, quod Epiphanes Antiochus rex ille condidit iracundus et saevus, et simulacrum in eo Olympiaci Iovis imitamenti aequiparans magnitudinem, subita vi flammaram exustum est. But Liban. or. 11. 94 ff. (i. 2. 467, 1 ff. Foerster) and Sozom. hist. eccl. 5. 19 agree that the sanctuary of Apollon Δαφναῖος was the work of Seleukos i Nikator. Presumably Antiochos Epiphanes added to its attractions. Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 58 by an odd blunder takes Ammianus to mean that Antiochos dedicated at Daphne a statue of Apollon in the guise of Olympian Zeus!

¹ We may fairly suspect that the same intention prompted Antiochos' sacrilegious treatment of the temples at Jerusalem and on Mt Gerizim (supra i. 233, ii. 887 n. o no. (31)).

² See E. R. Bevan 'A note on Antiochos Epiphanes' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1900 xx. 26—30, id. The House of Seleucus London 1902 ii. 154 ff., G. F. Hill Historical Greek Coins London 1906 p. 144.

³ Tetradrachms with rev. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΥΣ ΑΝΤΙΟΧΟΥ or ΑΝ ΤΙΟΧΟΥ Apollon seated on the omphalos have obv. head of Antiochos with diadem surmounted by a star (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 34 pl. 11, 1) or with diadem ending in two eight-rayed stars (Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 41 pl. 66, 9). They bear witness to the early deification of the king.

⁴ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 35 pl. 11, 8, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 44 pl. 66, 13, Head *Hist. num.*² p. 762. I figure a specimen from my collection.

⁵ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 35 pl. 11, 7 = my fig. 992, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 47 f. pl. 66, 17 (cp. 18), Head *Hist. num.*² p. 762, Bunbury Sale Catalogue 1896 ii. 65 no. 494.

⁶ E. Babelon Les rois de Syrie Paris 1890 pp. xciv f., 71 pl. 12, 11 (= my fig. 993).

⁷ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 36 pl. 11, 9 = my fig. 994, Hunter

Alexander ii Zabinas, when beaten by Antiochos viii Grypos in 123—122 B.C., retired to Antiocheia and, in order to pay his troops, bade men enter the temple of Zeus and remove from the god's hand the Nike of solid gold, remarking that

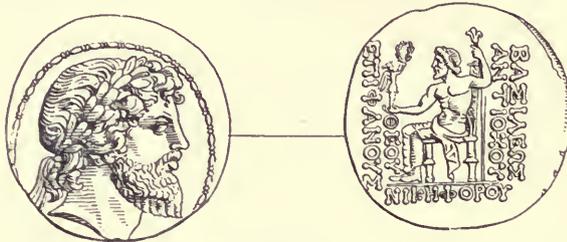

Fig. 993.

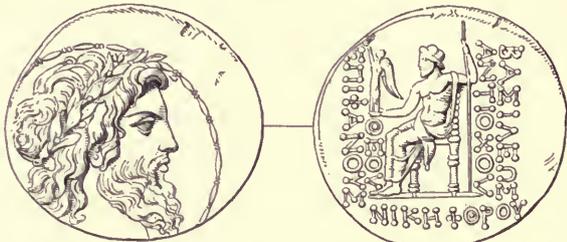

Fig. 994.

Zeus had lent him victory!¹ A unique statér of gold, formerly in the Montagu collection (fig. 995)², was doubtless struck by Zabinas from this stolen Nike³. A few days later he attempted to carry off the whole statue of Zeus with its vast weight of gold, but was caught in the act and forced by popular outcry to flee from the city⁴.

The statue, however, did not escape for long the cupidity of the Syrian kings' Antiochos ix Kyzikenos, son of Antiochos vii Sidetes, being in need of money, gave orders that the golden Zeus, fifteen cubits high, should be melted down and replaced by a copy in inferior material with gilded sheathing⁵. It was presumably in connexion with the cult of Zeus Olympios that Antiochos Epiphanes held games

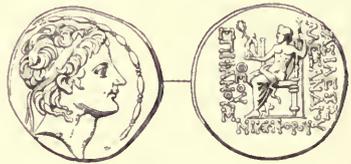

Fig. 995.

Cat. Coins iii. 48 no. 50, E. Babelon Les rois de Syrie Paris 1890 p. xciv f., *Head Hist. num.*² p. 762 f. The head is usually described as laureate.

¹ Iust. 39. 2. 5.

² Montagu Sale Catalogue 1896 i. 92 no. 716 pl. 9 = my fig. 995.

³ E. Babelon Les rois de Syrie Paris 1890 p. cxlix f.

⁴ Iust. 39. 2. 6, Diod. excerpta de virt. et vit. 35 p. 145, 42 ff. Dindorf.

⁵ Clem. Al. protr. 4. 52. 3 p. 40, 22 ff. Stählin 'Antiochos δὲ ὁ Κυζικηνὸς ἀπορούμενος χρημάτων τοῦ Διὸς τὸ ἄγαλμα τὸ χρυσοῦν, πεντεκαίδεκα πηχῶν τὸ μέγεθος ὄν, προσέταξε χωνεῦσαι καὶ (J. Markland cj. κάκ) τῆς ἀλλῆς τῆς ἀτιμοτέρας ὕλης ἄγαλμα παραπλήσιον ἐκείνῳ πετάλοις κεχρυσωμένον ἀναθεῖναι πάλιν. Cp. Arnob. adv. nat. 6. 21 Antiochum Cyzicenum ferunt decem (F. Orsini cj. quindecim) cubitorum Iovem ex delubro aureum sustulisse et ex aere bracteolis substituisse fucatum.

of unusual significance at Daphne¹, not to mention the high jinks² which earned him the sobriquet of Epimandês. Antiochos Grypos followed suit³. And in later times the Olympic contests of Daphne obtained a wide celebrity⁴. Diocletian is said to have built a sanctuary of Zeus Olympios in the Stádion at Daphne—a statement of uncertain value⁵. Meantime in Antiocheia itself Commodus had built a temple of Zeus Olympios with an adjoining portico known as the *Xystón*⁶. Didius Iulianus had added a *Pléthron*⁷, which was later doubled in size by Argyrios and Phasganius⁸, and still further enlarged by Proklos⁹. The whole complex of buildings was evidently modelled on its counterpart at Elis and was meant to accommodate athletes preparing for the Olympia, which were actually held at Daphne. At Daphne too there was a temple of Zeus Sotér, built to commemorate a crisis in the history of the city. For at dawn on Apellaios, i.e. December, 13 in the year 115 Antiocheia was shaken by a great earthquake with most disastrous results. The survivors founded this temple and inscribed upon it the words:

‘The saved set up (this edifice) for Zeus the Saviour¹⁰.’

The earthquake was preceded by many thunderbolts and unusual winds¹¹; and so severe was it that the tops of Mount Kasion were broken off and threatened destruction to the town below¹². Finally, there was the ancient cult of Zeus

¹ Polyb. 31 ap. Athen. 194 C—195 F and 439 B—D.

² E.g. Polyb. 31 ap. Athen. 195 F (= 439 D) ὑπὸ τῶν μίμων ὁ βασιλεὺς εἰσεφέρετο ὄλος κεκαλυμμένος καὶ εἰς τὴν γῆν ἐτίθετο, ὡς εἰς ὧν δῆτα τῶν μίμων· καὶ τῆς συμφωνίας προκαλουμένης ἀναπηδήσας ὠρχεῖτο καὶ ὑπεκρίνετο μετὰ τῶν γελωτοποιῶν. Was this sheer foolery, or the take-off of some resurrection-rite?

³ Poseidonios of Apameia 28 frag. 31 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 263 Müller) ap. Athen. 210 D—E and 540 A—B.

⁴ Liban. or. 60. 6 f. (iv. 315, 5 ff. Foerster)=Io. Chrys. de Babyla c. Iul. 19 (ii. 568 A Montfaucon), Liban. epist. 763 Wolf, Io. Malal. chron. 9 p. 224 f. Dindorf (see P. Perdrizet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1900 xxiv. 290 f.), 12 pp. 289 f., 307 Dindorf, 16 p. 396 Dindorf. Cp. Liban. or. 10. 30 (i. 2. 409, 15 ff. Foerster).

⁵ Io. Malal. chron. 12 p. 307 Dindorf ἐκτίσσε δὲ ἐν αὐτῷ τῷ σταδίῳ Δάφνης ἱερὸν Ὀλυμπίου Διός, καὶ ἐν τῇ σφενδόνη τοῦ αὐτοῦ σταδίου ἐκτίσεν ἱερὸν τῇ Νεμέσει. C. O. Müller Antiquitates Antiochenae Gottingae 1839 p. 62 f. thinks it far more likely that the temple of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος at Daphne was founded by Antiochos Epiphanes. Overbeck Gr. Kunstmyth. Zeus p. 59 dismisses the claims of Diocletian (‘wohl ohne allen Zweifel verkehrt’) and attributes to Antiochos Epiphanes merely a redecoration of the temple (‘nur eine neue Ausschmückung des Zeusheiligthums von Daphne, nicht dessen Gründung’). But is it certain that Malalas is referring to the big temple of Zeus? A small shrine in the Stádion would be appropriate enough.

⁶ Io. Malal. chron. 12 p. 283 Dindorf καὶ εἰς τὴν ἀρχὴν δὲ τὴν κάτω τοῦ Ξυστοῦ ἐκτίσεν ἱερὸν τῷ Ὀλυμπίῳ Δι.

⁷ Io. Malal. chron. 12 p. 290 Dindorf Πλεθρίν.

⁸ Liban. or. 10. 9 ff. (i. 2. 403, 22 ff. Foerster).

⁹ Liban. or. 10. 1 ff. (i. 2. 401, 2 ff. Foerster).

¹⁰ Io. Malal. chron. 11 p. 275 Dindorf οἱ σωθέντες ἀνέστησαν Δι Σωτήρι. Eustath. in Dionys. per. 916 quotes the dedication as οἱ ζήσαντες (ζητήσαντες cod. γ.) ἀνέστησαν θεῷ (ἐν θεῷ cod. γ. H. S. Reiner cj. ἀνεστήσαμεν) Σωτήρι, which amounts to much the same thing.

¹¹ Dion. Cass. 68. 24.

¹² Dion. Cass. 68. 25. See further Iuv. 6. 411, Aur. Vict. de Caes. 13. 10, cp. epit. 13. 12, Oros. hist. adv. pag. 7. 12. 5, Euagrius hist. eccl. 2. 12, Synkell. chron. 348 A (i. 657 Dindorf), Euseb. vers. Armen. in ann. Abr. 2130 (= 116 A.D.), Hieron. in Euseb. ann. Abr. 2130 (= 116 A.D.), Zonar. 11. 22 (iii. 68 f. Dindorf).

Kásios on Mount Kasion, where Julian offered a belated hecatomb¹. The devotion of the Antiochenes to Zeus—a devotion grafted perhaps upon the Ba'al-worship of their predecessors—might further be inferred from their coin-types. Antiochos iv Epiphanes (175—164 B.C.) inaugurated a system of municipal coinage and struck coppers at 'Antiocheia near Daphne,' which had as reverse design Zeus wrapped in a himátion with a wreath in his outstretched hand (fig. 996)²—sign and symbol of the Olympic sports that he held at Daphne³. Alexandros i Bala (150—145 B.C.), who claimed to be the son of Antiochos iv, repeated his father's type of a wreath-bearing Zeus⁴. Other Seleucid kings in all probability issued coins with Zeus-types at Antiocheia, e.g. Demetrios ii

Fig. 996.

Fig. 997.

Nikator in his first reign (146—140 B.C.)⁵ and Antiochos viii Grypos (121—96 B.C.)⁶. Passing from the regal to the autonomous coinage of the town, we have coins struck for the *tetrápolis*⁷ of Antiocheia by Daphne, Seleukeia in Pieria, Apameia, and Laodikeia (149—147 B.C.) with a head of Zeus as obverse and a thunderbolt as reverse type⁸, or with two Zeus-like heads—probably meant for the Demoi of Antiocheia and Seleukeia—as obverse and Zeus enthroned, Nike in one hand, a sceptre in the other, as reverse type (fig. 997)⁹. The autonomous issues of 'the metropolis of the Antiochenes' (s. i B.C.) show the head of Zeus wearing bays and Zeus enthroned as before but enclosed in a

¹ Supra p. 981 n. 1.

² Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 40 pl. 13, 1, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 50 f. pl. 66, 20, E. Babelon Les rois de Syrie Paris 1890 p. 79 pl. 14, 6 (= my fig. 996), *Head Hist. num.*² p. 763.

³ Supra p. 1188 ff.

⁴ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 56 pl. 17, 1, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 66 no. 65 f., *Head Hist. num.*² p. 765 f.

⁵ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Seleucid Kings of Syria p. 61 no. 29 obv. head of Zeus to right, laureate; rev. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΔΗΜΗΤΡΙΟΥ ΘΕΟΥ ΦΙΛΑΔΕΛΦΟΥ ΝΙΚΑΤΟΡΟΣ, with $\text{M} \text{M}$ in exergue, Apollon seated on the omphalos, holding arrow and bow.

⁶ Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 100 pl. 69, 20 obv. Head of Antiochos viii to right, diademed; rev. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΑΝΤΙΟΧΟΥ ΕΠΙΦΑΝΟΥΣ, with Φ and A , Zeus enthroned to left, holding Nike with a wreath on his right hand and a long sceptre in his left.

⁷ Strab. 749.

⁸ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 151 no. 1, p. 152 pl. 18, 7, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 142 nos. 2—4, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 778.

⁹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 152 pl. 18, 6 (= my fig. 997), cp. pl. 18, 8, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 141 no. 1, cp. p. 142 no. 8, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 778. G. Macdonald in the Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 141, followed by B. V. Head loc. cit., supposes that the mint was Seleukeia, not Antiocheia. The usual interpretation of the two bearded heads is borne out by the reverse legend ΑΔΕΛΦΩΝ ΔΗΜΩΝ.

large bay-wreath (fig. 998)¹. In imperial times the head of Zeus sometimes occupies the obverse (fig. 999)², while his eagle in one guise or another very commonly fills the reverse³. We see the great bird grasping a thunderbolt⁴, or holding a wreath in his beak and a bay-branch in his talons⁵, or gripping a caduceus with his jaws and a palm-branch with his right claw as he rests

Fig. 998.

Fig. 999.

Fig. 1000.

Fig. 1001.

Fig. 1002.

Fig. 1003.

on a garlanded altar (fig. 1000)⁶, or again perched with wreath in beak on the thigh of an animal-victim (fig. 1001)⁷—altar and thigh alike recall the city's foundation-myth—⁸, or bestriding a bay-wreath with the three Charites in it (fig. 1002)⁹, or soaring beneath the imperial head (fig. 1003)¹⁰. Here and there

¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 153 ff. pl. 18, 9, 11, 12, pl. 19, 1 (cp. my fig. 998 from a specimen of mine, which likewise shows Nike wreathing the city's title), Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 143 ff. pl. 71, 28, 30, 34, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 778.

² From a specimen in my collection. Cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 162 f. pl. 19, 11 and pl. 20, 3. The reverse shows Boule (?), in chiton and himation, dropping a pebble into the voting-urn.

³ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 158 ff., Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 148 ff., *Head Hist. num.*² p. 779 f.

⁴ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 175 pl. 21, 9 Nero: ΕΤΟΥΣ ΒΙΡ·Ι (year 112 of the Caesarian era, reckoned from 49 B.C.: see B. Pick in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1887 xiv. 312 n. 3).

⁵ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 177 pl. 22, 2 Otho: ΕΤΟΥΣΑ (year 1 of the emperor's reign!).

⁶ Ib. p. 179 pl. 22, 5 Vespasian: ΕΤΟΥΣΝΕΟΝ ΙΕΡΟΝ Ε (new sacred year 5 = 73—74 A.D., reckoned from Sept. 2 to Sept. 1, the Syrian year of Augustus: see B. Pick loc. cit. p. 331 ff.).

⁷ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 192 pl. 23, 5 Marcus Aurelius: ΓΕΡΣΑΡΔΗ ΜΕΞΑΙ ΒΠΑ ΤΓ (=Γερμανικός Σαρματικός, δημαρχικής έξουσίας α', ύπατος γ').

⁸ Supra p. 1188.

⁹ Ib. p. 196 pl. 23, 11 Caracalla: ΔΗΜΑΡ Χ·ΕΞ·ΒΠΑ·Τ·Δ (=δημαρχικής έξουσίας, ύπατος τὸ δ').

¹⁰ Ib. p. 196 pl. 23, 12 Caracalla: ΔΗΜΑΡΧΕ ΕΒΠΑΤΟCTO Δ (=δημαρχικής έξουσίας, ύπατος τὸ δ'). See F. Imhoof-Blumer 'Zur griechischen Münzkunde' in the Revue Suisse de Numismatique 1898 p. 45 f.

a little touch implies that the emperor, whose bust appears on the obverse, is posing as the very Zeus. Thus Nero¹, Domitian², and Nerva³ are all invested with the aigis. It is clear, then, that for centuries the inhabitants of Antiocheia had been familiar with the Hellenic Zeus and had known emperors who claimed to be his visible vicegerents.

On the other hand Maximinus ii, like Diocletian⁴ and Galerius⁵ before him,

¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Galatia, etc. p. 175 pl. 21, 9: ΝΕΡΩΝΚΑΙΣΑΡ ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟΣ.

² Ib. p. 182 pl. 22, 8: ΑΥΤΚΑΙΣΑΡΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣΣΕΒΓΕΡΜ.

³ Ib. p. 183 pl. 22, 9: ΑΥΤΝΕΡΟΝΑΣ ΚΑΙΣΣΕΒ. On these coins of Domitian and Nerva the aigis is reduced to a mere fringe of snakes passing over the further shoulder. It is, however, there and ought to have been noticed in the British Museum catalogue.

⁴ Eumenius panegy. Constantio Caesari 4, pro restaur. schol. 10, 16, Lact. de mortibus persecut. 52, Aur. Vict. de Caes. 39. 18, 39. 33, 40. 1, 40. 8, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 621 Rome (= Corp. inscr. Lat. vi no. 254 = Orelli Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 1047) Genio Iovii Aug., | Iovia porticu eius a fundamentis absoluta | excultaque, | etc., no. 623 Sirmium (= Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 3231 = Orelli—Henzen Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 5560a = Wilmanns Ex. inscr. Lat. no. 1059) I. O. M. et | G. h. l. (= Genio huius loci) pro | salute dd. | nn. Iovio | et Herculo Augg. nn. (= dominorum nostrorum, Iovio et Herculo Augustis nostris), no. 634 Thessalonike Herculi Augusto | Iovius (the words et Herculus have been erased) Augg. (et | Herculus et Iovius nobb. Caess., no. 8930 Alexandria (S. de Ricci in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1908 p. 793) Iovi Auguste, vincas, cp. no. 659 Carnuntum (Corp. Inscr. Lat. iii no. 4413 = Orelli Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 1051) D. S. I. M. (= Deo Soli Invicto Mithrae), | fautori imperii sui, | Iovii et Herculli | religiosissimi Augusti et Caesares | sacrarium restituerunt.

A gold medallion of Diocletian and Maximianus, formerly in the Cabinet de France, had rev. IOVIO ET HERCVLIO The two emperors pouring a libation over a tripod: in the field above, nude statues of Iupiter, with thunderbolt, and Hercules, with club, set on a garlanded altar. In exergue S M V R or S M T (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 917 f., 932, Suppl. iii. 162, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vi. 480 no. 7, Stevenson—Smith—Madden Dict. Rom. Coins p. 487, Gnechi Medagl. Rom. i. 12 no. 3). A bronze medallion of Diocletian, at Paris, has obv. IOVIO DIOCLETIANO AVG Half-length bust of Diocletian, with bay-wreath, sceptre, and himdtion only—in imitation of Iupiter (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 917, Suppl. iii. 162, Fröhner Méd. emp. rom. p. 256 f. fig., Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vi. 429 f. no. 142 fig., Gnechi Medagl. Rom. ii. 124 no. 3 pl. 124, 1, cp. ii. 124 no. 4). A smaller bronze medallion, in the Vatican, has obv. IOVI DIOCLETIANO AVG A similar bust of Diocletian, with radiate crown (id. ib. iii. 78 no. 40 pl. 158, 11): this medallion, if IOVI is not a mere blunder for IOVIO, baldly identifies the god with the emperor. Another at Paris has rev. IOVI CONSERVATORI AVG A hexastyle temple, with wreath in pediment and architrave inscribed IOVIVS AVG, containing emperor as Iupiter enthroned with thunderbolt and sceptre (Fröhner Méd. emp. rom. p. 255, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vi. 443 no. 275 fig., Gnechi Medagl. Rom. ii. 124 no. 7 pl. 124, 3 corroded and retouched, cp. id. ib. ii. 124 no. 8 at Florence): similar medallions at Paris, struck by Maximianus, repeat the reverse type, but show the emperor as Iupiter standing with thunderbolt, sceptre, and eagle (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 931 f., Fröhner Méd. emp. rom. p. 255 fig., Gnechi Medagl. Rom. ii. 128 nos. 6 f. pl. 126, 6 and 7). A gold piece, formerly in the Cabinet de France, had rev. PRIMI XX IOVI AVGVSTI Iupiter seated, with thunderbolt and sceptre. In exergue TR (Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vi. 458 no. 393 with n. 1 'IOVI est sans doute mis pour IOVII, et encore dans ce cas la légende n'est-elle pas trop compréhensible').

The title Iovius was, no doubt, suggested by the name Diocletianus, the origin of which is uncertain. W. Ramsay in Smith Dict. Biogr. Myth. i. 1011 says of Diocletian:

or Licinius¹ and Licinius Iunior² after him, had assumed the title *Iovius*³—

'From his mother, Doclea, or Dioclea, who received her designation from the village where she dwelt, he inherited the appellation of Docles or Diocles, which, after his assumption of the purple, was Latinized and expanded into the more majestic and sonorous Diocletianus' [Aur. Vict. epit. 39. 1]. But T. Mommsen in the Corp. inscr. Lat. iii. 283 argues that the home of Diocletian was Salona, not Doclea. And Patsch in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. v. 1251 notes that Doclea came to be called Dioclea (Aur. Vict. epit. 39. 1), Διόκλεια (Constantinus Porphyrogenitus de administrando imperio 29 (iii. 126 Bekker)), Διόκλεια (id. ib. 35 (iii. 162 Bekker)) in consequence of the conjecture that Diocletian was born there.

¹ Chronicon Paschale (i. 512 Dindorf) 275 Β Μαξιμιανὸς Ἰόβιος ἐπιφανέστατος Καῖσαρ, 275 C Μαξιμιανοῦ Ἰοβίου Καίσαρος, 275 D Μαξιμιανοῦ Ἰοβίου bis, Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 634 cited supra p. 1194 n. 4, no. 658 Aquincum (= Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 3522) pro salute dd. | nn. | [M]aximiano | Iovo invic. | Aug. et Maximino | Caes. (=dominorum nostrorum Maximiani Iovii invicti Augusti et Maximini Caesaris) | Iulius Valeria[n]us et Aurel. Maxim[us] ddvv. col. | Aq. (=duoviri coloniae Aquinci), cp. no. 659 cited supra p. 1194 n. 4, no. 661 Solva near Leibnitz in Stiria (= Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 5325) divo | Iovio | Maximiano | ordo Sol., no. 8931 Alexandria (S. de Ricci in the Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1909 p. 146) Iovi Caes[ar]ar, vincas.

² Dessau Inscr. Lat. sel. no. 676 Canusium (= Corp. inscr. Lat. ix no. 6026) d. n. Iovio Licinio invicto semper Aug.

Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 932, Suppl. iii. 163, cites from A. Banduri Numismata imperatorum a Trajano Decio ad Palaologos Augustos Lutetiae Parisiorum 1718 ii. 195 and other sources a coin showing the head of Licinius with the legend IOVIVS LICINIVS AVG. On this Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² viii. 67 remarks: 'Iovius. Hujus appellationis auctor Diocletianus, quam is transmisit in Gal. Maximianum, hic in Maximinum, mox Licinium, scilicet lege adoptionis, Licinius denique in filium. Haec confirmata numis vidimus, tum iis, quae supra de hereditariis his nominibus in numis Constantii Chlorig expositi. Atque hujus cum Iove cognationis causa tot Licinius numos cum ejus dei effigie feriri jussit, quot ante eum nemo, neque ingratus is adversus nepotem fuit. Nam ut Hercules olim filio Maximiano leoninum capitis integumentum, ita Iuppiter Licinio fulmen impertivit, quod ille, ut in aciem nonnullorum ejus numorum videre est [ib. p. 64], manu terrificam vibrat, sed cujus aciem Constantinus Enceladus apud Hadrianopolin obtundet.' Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vii. 198 f. nos. 98—100 with fig. gives examples, in small bronze and in bad billon or potin, of the type described by Eckhel.

I add a few specimens from my collection which illustrate the relation of Licinius (figs. 1004—1006) and Licinius Iunior (fig. 1007) to Iupiter Conservator. It is amusing to see the thunderbolt in the hand of the emperor (figs. 1004, 1005) replaced by a mere mapra (figs. 1006, 1007).

³ Copper coins struck by Licinius and his son have obv. DD. NN. IOVII LICINII INVICT. AVG. ET CAES. Laureate busts of the two Licinii supporting between them a figure of Fortuna (or Victoria, or a trophy); rev. I. O. M. ET FORT. CONSER. (or VICT. CONSER., or VIRTVTI) DD. NN. AVG. ET CAES. Iupiter and Fortuna (or Victoria, or a trophy). In exergue SMKA or SMKB or SMNA (or SMKA. SMKΓ or SMKΔ, or SMNTA or SMATE) (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 932, 1740, 1746, Cohen *Monn. emp. rom.*² vii. 210 f. nos. 1—3 with fig. of no. 2).

³ Euseb. hist. eccl. 9. 9. 1 bis Ἰόβιος Μαξιμίνος Σεβαστὸς Σαβίνω, Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*² no. 420, 22 ff. (=G. Deschamps and G. Cousin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1888 xii. 101 ff. no. 22, 22 ff.) an inscription from the precinct of Zeus Pandamros (supra i. 18 ff.) honouring a certain priest and priestess ἐφ' ὧν ἱερωμένων καὶ ἡ θεϊότης τοῦ δεσπότητος | ἡμῶν, τοῦ ἀπότητου Σεβαστοῦ | Ἰοβίου Μαξιμίνου ἐν τῇ πα[τρ]ίδι | ἐπέλαμψεν καὶ τὰ ληστήρια | ἐξέκοψεν.

A bronze medallion of Maximinus, now at Paris, has obv. IOVIVS MAXIMINVS NOB CAES A bust of the emperor, laureate and armed, holding sceptre and mapra (Cohen struck perhaps by the fact that, so far as names were concerned, Iovius Maximinus was a tolerable imitation of Jupiter Optimus Maximus. Theoteknos in importing the novel cult very probably designed to win the favour of his imperial master. Quasi-Dionysiac rites practised in the name of Zeus would be quite in the line of the profligate Iovius.

Alas for his calculations. A few pages further on Eusebios¹ tells us what happened:

‘Theoteknos too was summoned by Justice, who had no intention of forgetting the harm he did to Christians. On the strength of the *xóanon*² that he had set up at Antiocheia he expected to take life easily, and was in fact already promoted by Maximinus to the post of governor. But Licinius had no sooner set foot in the city of the Antiochenes than he ordered all impostors to be brought in, and put the prophets and priests of the new-fangled xóanon to the torture, asking them how they came to play such a lying part. Hard pressed by the tortures, they could conceal the facts no longer, but explained that the whole mystery was a fraud contrived by the wily Theoteknos. Thereupon Licinius punished them all according to their deserts. He first condemned Theoteknos, and then the partners of his imposture, to death, after inflicting upon them the greatest possible torments.’

For all that, the cult of Zeus Phllios once started was not easily suppressed. Fifty years later Julian wintered at Antiocheia (362—363 A.D.) and, as we gather from his own Misopogon, was diligent in visiting the temple of *Zeus Phllios*³.

Fig. 1004.

Fig. 1005.

Fig. 1006.

Fig. 1007.

*Monn. emp. rom.*² vii. 155 no. 134 fig., Gnechi Medagl. Rom. ii. 132 no. 1 pl. 129, 5 roughly retouched). Another, with the same legend, had for the bare head of Maximinus (Rasche Lex. Num. iv. 932, Suppl. iii. 163, *Cohen Monn. emp. rom.*² vii. 155 no. 135, Gnechi Medagl. Rom. ii. 132 no. 2). One of his coppers, struck at Antiocheia, ventures on a new title: rev. IOVIO PROPAGAT. ORBIS TERRARVM Maximinus, with bay-wreath and toga, stands holding Victoria on a globe: to the right is a burning altar; on either side of him, the letter A and a star; in the exergue, ANT (*Cohen Monn. emp. rom.*² vii. 153 no. 130 fig.).

¹ Euseb. hist. eccl. 9. 11. 5 f.

² For the implications of this term see now an excellent paper by Miss F. M. Bennett ‘A study of the word ΞOANON ’ in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 8—21.

³ Ioul. misopog. p. 446, 10 ff. Hertlein ἡ Σύρων ἦκει ρουμηνία, καὶ ὁ καίσαρ αὐθις εἰς Φιλίου Διὸς· εἶτα ἡ πάγκοιτος ἐορτή, καὶ ὁ καίσαρ εἰς τὸ τῆς Τύχης ἐρχεται τέμενος. ἐπισχῶν δὲ τὴν ἀποφράδα πάλιν ἐς Φιλίου Διὸς τὰς εὐχὰς ἀναλαμβάνει κατὰ τὰ πάτρια. καὶ τίς ἀνέξεται τοσαυτάκις εἰς ἱερὰ φοιτῶντος καίσαρος, ἐξὸν ἀπαξ ἢ δις ἐνοχλεῖν τοῖς θεοῖς, κ.τ.λ. Cp. Liban. or. 1. 122 (i. 1. 141, 19 ff. Foerster) ἦκε δὲ ποτε εἰς Διὸς Φιλίου θύσων κ.τ.λ.

Again, Libanios the Antiochene, when petitioning Theodosios to protect the pagan temples against the depredations of the Christian monks (384¹ A.D.), expressly notes that certain temples—those of Tyche, Zeus, Athena, and Dionysos—are still untouched².

Antiocheia was a city where Christians and pagans jostled each other in the street³; and it is possible that, as the former found their centre in the great Constantinian church, so the latter had a nucleus and rallying-point in the temple of Zeus Philius. Indeed, between the two rival cults there was a certain superficial resemblance. On the one hand, Zeus Philius was a god of love, who brought even enemies together⁴, encouraged love-feasts among the faithful here, and held out hopes of a celestial banquet hereafter⁵. If his initiations and purifications⁶ savoured somewhat of Sabázios, it must be remembered that the Hebrew Godhead was by successive pagan blunderers confused with Jupiter Sabázios, Bacchus, Liber Pater, and Dionysos⁷. On the other hand, the Christians themselves—as I shall hope to prove in a third volume—had not scrupled to employ the art-types of Zeus and Dionysos for the representation of Christ, and that on objects of the most solemn and sacred character.

The strongest support for this assertion, so far as Antiocheia was concerned, is to be derived from the famous chalice recently published by Dr G. A. Eisen. It appears that early in the year 1910 certain Arabs, who were digging a cellar or a well at Antakieh (Antiocheia), lit upon underground chambers partially choked with débris. In the débris were embedded various objects of value. In addition to the chalice of carved silver that is here in question, there was a second chalice of plain silver with inscriptions of the sixth or seventh century A.D.; there were also three silver book-covers decorated with saints and referable to the fourth or fifth century; and there was a large ceremonial cross inscribed on front and back, not to mention a sackful of crumbled silver fragments. A smaller cross, likewise of silver, supposed to be from the same find, passed into the possession of Monsieur W. Froehner. Since the spot where these objects were discovered was, according to local tradition, the site of an ancient cathedral⁸, it is clear that we have to do with a church-treasure

¹ Libanios ed. R. Foerster iii. 80 n. 3.

² Liban. or. 30. 51 (iii. 116, 1 ff. Foerster) επέ μοι, διὰ τί τὸ τῆς Τύχης τοῦτο σὼν ἐστὶν ἱερὸν καὶ τὸ τοῦ Διὸς καὶ τὸ τῆς Ἀθηνᾶς καὶ τὸ τοῦ Διονύσου; ἄρ' ὅτι βούλοισθ' ἂν αὐτὰ μένειν; οὐ, ἀλλ' ὅτι μηδεὶς τὴν ἐπ' αὐτὰ δέδωκεν ὑμῖν ἐξουσίαν.

³ The most careful and thorough-going monograph on Antiocheia in general is still C. O. Müller Antiquitates Antiochenae Gottingae 1839 pp. viii, 134 with map and pl. of coins etc. Other works of importance in particular directions are J. M. Neale A History of the Holy Eastern Church. The Patriarchate of Antioch London 1873 pp. lx, 229, R. Förster 'Antiochia am Orontes' in the Jahrb. d. kais. deutsch. arch. Inst. 1897 xii. 103—149 with twelve figs. and pl. 6, id. 'Skulpturen von Antiocheia' ib. 1898 xiii. 177—191 with figs. and pl. 11, S. Krauss 'Antioche' in the Revue des Études Juives 1902 xlv. 27—49 (classical records largely supplemented from Rabbinic sources), K. Bauer Antiochia in der ältesten Kirchengeschichte Tübingen 1919 pp. 1—47, H. Dieckmann Antiochien, ein Mittelpunkt urchristlicher Missionstätigkeit Aachen 1920 pp. 1—56.

⁴ Supra p. 1176 f.

⁵ Supra p. 1161 ff.

⁶ Supra p. 1186.

⁷ Supra i. 234 n. 4.

⁸ Mr C. L. Woolley in The Times Literary Supplement for July 10, 1924 p. 436 tells a very different tale. He says of the chalice: 'I believe myself to be fully justified buried either accidentally by earthquake or intentionally to escape some threatened danger. The treasure trove, at first divided among the finders and widely dispersed (two pieces were carried off to Mesopotamia), was recovered piecemeal by Messieurs S. and C. Kouchakji and forwarded to Monsieur G. Kouchakji in Paris. Here the principal chalice, coated with oxide to a thickness of several millimetres, was skilfully deoxidised by Monsieur A. André. He found the silver matrix already crystalline in texture and so brittle that he dared not rectify a compression of the cup caused by a blow received in ancient times¹. In 1914 the chalice, for safety's sake, was sent over to Messieurs H. and F. Kouchakji in New York, where since 1915 it has been exhaustively studied by Dr Eisen², formerly Curator of the California University Academy of Sciences.

The chalice stands 0·19^m in height and measured originally about 0·15^m in diameter. It consists of three parts—an inner bowl rudely hammered out of a in stating that it was found in a small mound close to Ma'arit il Na'aman, a village situated south of Aleppo, on the Aleppo-Homs railway, about a hundred miles from Antioch. It was discovered, together with a silver cup or bowl and a silver crucifix, by a peasant, who sold it for £3 to a man in Ma'arit il Na'aman, who sold it for £70 to a group of three antiquity dealers at Aleppo.... I derive my information from the dealers concerned, who had no motive for telling me an untruth and were able to give me a very fair description of the object before any photographs of it had been published.'

This account is detailed and circumstantial. But, in reply to enquiries, Messrs Kouchakji have informed me by cable (Nov. 9, 1924) that they confirm Dr Eisen's statement. They say: 'Arabs found chalice in Antioch.... Woolley's information absolutely incorrect.'

¹ In 341 A.D., when the 'Golden' Basilica of Antioch, begun by Constantine the Great and finished by his son Constantius ii, was consecrated, the chalice must have been one of its most cherished possessions. Some twenty years later, in 362, Julian, uncle of Julian the Apostate, came to Antioch, closed the churches, and plundered their valuables (Io. Monach. Rhod. vit. S. Artemii 23 (xcvi. 1272 c—D Migne)). It is said that after a futile attempt to intimidate Theodoros, the 'guardian of the treasures' in the great church, he condemned him to torture and death, and that flinging the sacred vessels on the ground he treated them to the grossest indignities (Sozom. hist. eccl. 5. 8, Theodoret. eccl. hist. 3. 12, cp. Ruinart *acta prim. mart.*² p. 588 ff.)—a story of very doubtful historicity (Seeck in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. x. 94). Dr Eisen, however, accepts the tale, and even suggests that the compression of the chalice may be the result of its sacrilegious mishandling by Julian. In that case the chalice must have been concealed again either during the invasion of Chosroes i, who in 538 burned Antioch but spared the Cathedral, or more probably during the conquests of Chosroes ii, who captured Syria in 611. The later date would account for the association of the chalice with the objects of early Byzantine art enumerated above.

² G. A. Eisen 'Preliminary Report on the Great Chalice of Antioch containing the Earliest Portraits of Christ and the Apostles' in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1916 xx. 426—437 with pl. 19 and four figs., id. 'The Plate with seven Loaves and two Fishes on the Great Chalice of Antioch' ib. 1917 xxi. 77—79 with fig., id. 'The Date of the Great Chalice of Antioch' ib. 1917 xxi. 169—186 with five figs., id. 'Chalice of Antioch and Its Portraits of Christ, Apostles and Evangelists' in the New Era Magazine for January 1920 pp. 12—15 with four figs., id. 'Identification of Seated Figures on Great Chalice of Antioch' ib. for June and July 1920 pp. 414—417, 526—528 with six figs., id. The Great Chalice of Antioch New York 1923 pp. 1—194 with two diagrams and an atlas of sixty photogravures and etchings. The last-mentioned publication is a monograph de luxe, the plates of which include three whole-page photographs—life-size, enlarged, and larger still—of every figure on the chalice together with an attempted drawing of each head. The accompanying text is less satisfactory, being verbose, over-credulous, and disfigured by unnecessary slips. The book as a whole is obviously meant for wealthy art-lovers a

The Chal

b

Antioch.

See page 1197 ff. with fig. 1008.

thick sheet of silver, the rim of which has been bent outwards over itself and left with uneven edge; an outer shell or container of carved open-work, for which the inner bowl now serves as a background; and a support, comprising knop and foot, turned on the lathe out of a solid block of silver. The inner bowl is wholly unadorned and was, when found, quite distinct and separable from the outer shell: the two have since been cemented together for fear of breakage. The base exhibits simple but good decorative work; the knop, surrounded by a wreath of lozenge-shaped leaves, parts lotus-petals above from lotus-petals below. The shell or container is carved à jour with an intricate design. Six vines with double stems rise from the ground-line and cover the whole available surface with a complicated growth of branches. Amid the profusion of tendrils, leaves, and grape-bunches many living creatures can be made out—doves and other birds, a couple of snails, a rabbit, a butterfly, a grasshopper, etc. Moreover, twelve spaces are reserved in the foliage for as many seated persons, arranged in two horizontal alternating rows. These twelve persons fall into two distinct groups, of which one occupies the front, the other the back of the chalice. On the obverse side (pl. xlvii, a) Christ appears as a beardless man, enthroned, with a lamb standing at his right hand. Above his head flies one of the birds, perhaps a dove¹. His right arm is extended²; his left, which is missing, may have held a roll³. Beneath his footstool an eagle with spread wings rests upon a basket of fruit⁴. And round him are ranged five of his followers, who turn towards him raising the right arm with a gesture of salutation. On the reverse side (pl. xlvii, b) Christ is represented as a boy, sitting on a round-backed throne, with his right hand held out and a roll in his left. He is again surrounded by five of his followers, who raise their arms as before. Most of the ten, if not all⁵, hold rather than scholars, and it is to be hoped that it will be followed at no distant date by a better documented students' edition.

I am indebted to Dr Eisen for sending me his three articles in the New Era Magazine (now out of print) and to Messrs Kouchakji Frères for presenting me, not only with a copy of the big monograph, but also with the special silver-prints from which pl. xlvii and fig. 1008 were made.

¹ G. A. Eisen The Great Chalice of Antioch p. 7: 'over his head soars the Holy Ghost in the form of a dove.'

² Id. ib. p. 7: 'at his right hand is a plate with loaves and fishes.' Id. ib. p. 27: 'The objects on the plate are: seven loaves of bread, two fishes, an oval object with minute spheres and a bunch of pointed leaves.' Dr Eisen gives an enlarged drawing ($\frac{1}{4}$) of the plate in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 78 fig. 1. I confess that, on the photographs, it looks to me like an ordinary bunch of grapes, partly hidden by over-lying tendrils (the supposed fish) and partly resting on a round piece of background (the supposed plate) left to connect it with the sheep below. But I suspect that the artist originally intended to represent a bird's nest with eggs and later modified his design.

³ As on the reverse side of the chalice.

⁴ G. A. Eisen The Great Chalice of Antioch p. 7: 'a basket with bread.' Id. ib. p. 180: 'The Eagle, perched on one of the Baskets, can only symbolize the Roman Empire, now partaking of the Christian religion as administered by St. Peter and St. Paul.' I see nothing but a basket of fruit, such as might be expected in any vintage scene, and an eagle which is in relation to the figure above, not to the basket below.

⁵ Dr Eisen in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 180 f. fig. 4 and in The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 31 ff., 41 describes the object in the left hand of no. 2 as possibly the handle of a sword and that in the left hand of no. 5 as resembling a bag or purse. Neither description is free from doubt, and it is more probable that in every case a roll was intended.

rolls in their hands. Two (nos. 12 and 9 on fig. 1008) show the right arm wound with phylactery-bands (?)¹. Finally, the upper part of the shell is encircled by a narrow strip of thin silver, to which are attached fifty-eight rosettes².

It should be noticed that the chalice, long after it was made, came to be gilded, and that at two different dates—at first with pale whitish gold, and later with deep reddish gold. The first gilding affected the whole outer surface of the shell; the second did not extend to its lower part, and was carried out in much thicker gold leaf. Both layers of gold are largely worn away by the fingering of reverent hands, especially in the case of persons and objects that would be deemed most sacred. There are no inscriptions on the chalice. But, between the first and second gildings, upon many of the chairs (perhaps upon all) were added poorly scratched graffiti representing a variety of emblems³, which—if they can be deciphered—may help to show how the seated figures were interpreted⁴ at some doubtful date before the final gilding.

¹ See Dr Eisen in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 182 ff. fig. 5 and e contra Prof. F. C. Burkitt in The Cambridge Review 1923—1924 xlv. 254 (long tight sleeves, not phylacteries).

² G. A. Eisen The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 7, 19 f., 125 claims that the rosette above the hand of Christ on the obverse side of the chalice is in reality a six-pointed star, the Star of the Nativity.

³ Dr Eisen in the New Era Magazine for June 1920 p. 415 figures four of the graffiti from the chairs of nos. 2 (two crossed bars or keys), 6 (tree? or ankh? [amulet A. B. C.]), 7 (water jug), 9 (arch with circle [coin C. Renz] above it). The rest are less distinct and as yet undeciphered. See further The Great Chalice of Antioch p. 20 f.

⁴ In his initial publication of the chalice Dr Eisen held that its twelve figures portray Christ in older and younger form together with ten of his Apostles. He noted also the suggestion that they are the Baptist with the Lamb at his side, and Christ with ten Apostles. But the number ten was hard to justify; and careful study of the features of each portrait led to the conviction that figures 1 and 8 are related, that figures 2 and 5 possess much in common, and that the heads of figures 10 and 11 are quite different in formation from the rest. Satisfied that the two central figures 1 and 8 are indeed Christ as a man and Christ as a youth, Dr Eisen next observed that 2 closely resembles St Peter as portrayed in the Catacombs (J. Wilpert Die Malereien der Katakomben Roms Freiburg 1903 pl. 94) and in the Viale Manzoni Hypogeum at Rome (Not. Scavi 1920 p. 123 ff.)—an identification seemingly confirmed by the discovery on seat 2 of the graffito representing two crossed bars or keys. The identity of the other figures remained doubtful till it was remarked that no. 6, unlike the rest, has a band round his head but no side-lock of hair. This suggested a Greek as distinct from a Jew, and in that case he must necessarily be St Luke. But, if so, the figures are not all Apostles. Those grouped with St Luke may then be St Matthew (9), St Mark (7), and St John (10). At this point again graffiti were helpful. Tradition said that St Mark had been a water-carrier (Alexandros Monachos (s. vi A.D.) laudatio S. Barnabae Apost. i. 13 in the Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Antverpiæ 1698 Junius ii. 440D λόγος γὰρ ἦλθεν εἰς ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ γερόντων οὗτι ὁ τὸ κεράμιον βαστάζων τοῦ ὕδατος, ᾧ κατακοιουθῆσαι προσέταξεν ὁ Κύριος τοῖς μαθηταῖς, Μάρκος ἦν ὁ υἱὸς τῆς μακαρίας Μαρίας, Severus Bishop of El-Eschmounein in Upper Egypt History of the Patriarchs of the Coptic Church of Alexandria trans. B. T. A. Evetts Paris 1907 i. 1 p. 17 in the Patrologia Orientalis i. 139 'And he (sc. Mark) was among the servants who poured out the water which our Lord turned into wine, at the marriage of Cana in Galilee. And it was he who carried the jar of water into the house of Simon the Cyrenian, at the time of the sacramental Supper'; and on his chair is scratched a water-jar. St Matthew sat at the receipt of custom; his graffito is an archway with a circle above it, presumably the city-gate with a coin in evidence. St Luke, as a physician, has for his emblem an obvious

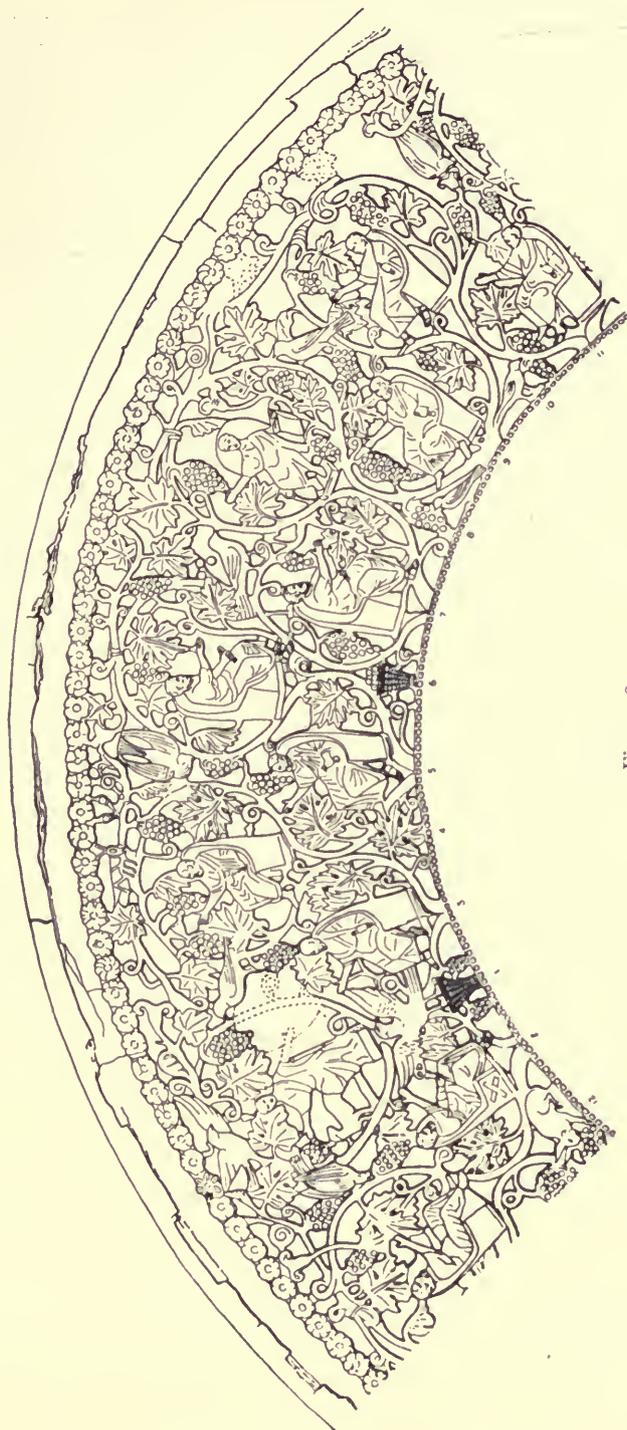

Fig. 1008.

To determine the date of the chalice is a task of primary importance. Sound criticism will rely, not on any à priori notions as to what the early Church could or could not have done, but on definite considerations of shape, technique, style, and subject.

Now the outer shell or container is essentially an ovoid bowl, without handles, supported on a round knob with a low and narrow foot-stand. A cup so constructed suffers from one obvious defect. It is top-heavy and would be easily upset. Such a shape could hardly have been popular for long together. Nor was it. Bronze coins of uncertain denomination struck by Simon Maccabaeus in 136/5 B.C. have for reverse type a closely similar chalice with knob, short stem, and small foot¹. But silver shekels and half-shekels dating from the First Revolt of the Jews in 66/7—70 A.D. have for obverse type a chalice with smaller knob, longer stem, and broader foot². Coins of the Second Revolt in 132—135 A.D. substitute either a one-handed jug³ or a two-handed *amphora*⁴, and do not enable us to trace further the evolution of the chalice. But this at least is clear, that on Palestinian soil the old top-heavy chalice was passing out of use as early as 66 A.D. Elsewhere too the same holds good. Two silver cups of similar shape belonging to the Pierpont Morgan collection, exhibited in the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Arts, are justly regarded as excellent samples of Hellenistic work⁵. And silver cups of a like pattern depicted in frescoes from Herculaneum⁶ amulet. Again, if 10 is St John, the other beardless figure (11) must be his brother, St James the son of Zebedee. Moreover, St Peter (2) would naturally be balanced by St Paul (3). And the resemblance of the older man 5 to figure 2 suggested St Peter's brother, St Andrew. Lastly, it was surmised that figures 12 and 4, seated respectively on the right and left hand of Christ are St James the Lord's brother and St Jude, his nearest relatives on earth. It is claimed that figure 12 alone is clad in linen, which would suit the tradition that St James despised woollen clothes even in winter and habitually wore thin linen garments (Euseb. hist. eccl. 2. 23. 6 οὐδὲ γὰρ ἐρεοῦν ἐφόρει ἀλλὰ συνδόνας). These are the main arguments advanced by Dr Eisen, whose proposed identifications may be conveniently shown in tabular form :

Front	{	(12) James the Brother of the Lord	(1) CHRIST as Man	(4) Jude		(6) Luke	(8) CHRIST as Boy	(10) John	}	Back
		(2) Peter	(3) Paul	(5) Andrew		(7) Mark	(9) Matthew	(11) James the Son of Zebedee

Dr G. H. Rendall in a letter to me (Feb. 16, 1924) very pertinently suggests that 5 may be, not St Andrew, but St Barnabas, whose association with Antioch was most intimate. Accepting the attribution of the Epistle to the Hebrews to St Barnabas, Dr Rendall points out that we should thus have represented on the chalice the whole canon of the New Testament [plus James, son of Zebedee]. His shrewd conjecture of course postulates a date at which the canon was complete. But I see no difficulty in supposing that, at the time when the graffiti were added, those who added them believed the ten seated figures to include portraits of all the New-Testament writers.

¹ Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Palestine p. 185 ff. pl. 20, 11—14.

² Ib. p. 269 ff. pl. 30, 1—9.

³ Ib. p. 288 ff. pl. 33, 5 f., 9 f., 14 f., pl. 34, 4—10, 20.

⁴ Ib. p. 303 f. pl. 35, 14, pl. 36, 1—3, p. 306 pl. 36, 10.

⁵ Miss G. M. A. Richter in Art in America 1918 vi. 171 ff. with pl., Am. Journ. Arch. 1918 xxii. 349 f. fig. 1.

⁶ Antichità di Ercolano Napoli 1760 ii (Pittura ii) p. 287 (= Roux—Barré Herc. et Pomp. iv Peintures 3^e Série p. 219 pl. 115) preparations for a festival, including a silver jug, a silver cup, three wreaths, a palm-branch, etc., cp. ib. ii pp. 118, 157 a similar but deeper vessel, standing on a square plinth, with a couple of wreaths in it.

must be dated before the fatal year 79 A.D. Plate was naturally imitated in less costly materials ; and here again the evidence is in favour of an early date. Very similar to the chalice of Antioch, though without its knob, is a glass vessel in another painting from Herculaneum¹. Precisely parallel to the chalice in contour and proportions is a small glass cup from Syria, now in a private collection in New York : this, on account of its shallow spiral fluting, has been assigned to the first century A.D.² The main point is that after the first century the chalice-shape is entirely superseded. Dr Eisen is, so far as I know, justified in concluding : ' Not one single specimen of this form and with such proportions has been found of a date later than the first century A.D.'³

The technique of the chalice is compatible with the same early date. Knob, stem, and foot are chased in solid silver—a procedure somewhat uncommon, but known to occur in Graeco-Roman times⁴. The rest of the container is of carved open-work, the so-called opus interrasile, which is more than once mentioned by the elder Pliny and seems to have been fashionable at Rome in the seventies⁵. Dr Eisen supposes that this shell of open silver was from the first meant to cover the bowl of plain silver within it. But here I demur. Open-work was regularly used with an eye to colour-contrast, and no toreutic artist worthy of the name would have cased a silver bowl in a silver holder⁶. Dr Eisen further maintains that the inner bowl, which is of crude and unfinished appearance, was more ancient than the outer shell and, when that shell was made, must have been already regarded as a venerable relic, too sacred to alter or amend⁷. But many months ago Dr Minns suggested to me that very likely the inner bowl

¹ Ib. ii p. 111 a glass goblet full of eggs.

² G. A. Eisen in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 170 fig. 1, 1, 172, id. The Great Chalice of Antioch p. 143.

³ G. A. Eisen in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 171. Note, however, that Dr Eisen himself in the New Era Magazine 1920 p. 12 and in The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 136, 180 has figured a pottery lamp from a fourth-century grave at Gezer, on which a very similar cup is seen flanked by a pair of doves. Dr Eisen holds that this is a pious representation of the Antiochene chalice with two dove-like souls gazing upon it! I see in it merely a traditional motif, which could, if necessary, be traced back to the days of Nestor. It might, I think, reasonably be urged that the old-fashioned cup has become stereotyped as a decorative detail and should not be taken to imply that cups of this pattern were still in common use. After all, heraldic shields do not portray the equipment of the modern soldier.

The force of the argument from shape is—I concede—to some extent lessened by the possibility that, for ritual purposes, an archaic form might be deliberately preferred. But are we really prepared to maintain that the chalice is the product of an archaising art?

⁴ E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 801. A good example is the vase from Herculaneum, now at Naples, representing the apotheosis of Homer (J. Millingen Ancient Unedited Monuments Series ii London 1826 p. 25 f. pl. 13, J. Overbeck *Pompeji*⁴ Leipzig 1884 p. 624 f. figs. b, c, Guida del Mus. Napoli p. 411 no. 25301 fig. 93).

⁵ Plin. nat. hist. 12. 94 interrasili auro, 33. 140 interradimus alia.

⁶ We can hardly escape from this improbability by urging that the silver holder was richly gilt and so provided the requisite contrast in colour. For even the first of its gildings appears to have been added when the chalice had been in use for years (The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 17 f., 139).

⁷ He points out that in form it resembles the mysterious cup taken from Jerusalem by the Romans and figured, along with the holy vessels of Herod's temple, on the Arch of Titus at Rome (Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 170 fig. 1, 4). Since Vespasian is said to have erected before the city-gate of Antioch the bronze Cherubim, which Titus his son had was later, not earlier, than the shell. He argued that the inner bowl appropriate to the shell would be of glass; and this, when broken, might well have been replaced by a silver substitute of later and clumsier make¹. If so, the shell cannot be earlier than the introduction of open-work over glass. And when did that take place? We think first, no doubt, of the finest extant example, the silver-gilt kántharos found in 1871 in a tomb to the north of Tiflis and now preserved in the Hermitage at Petrograd². Here a vessel of dark violet glass was actually blown into shape within the holder and still bears in places the impress of the silver upon it. Stephani, who published this splendid cup—it is six inches high,—assigns it on account of its hunting-scene to a date c. 200 A.D.; and we note in passing that the rosettes round its rim recall those of the Antioch chalice. But other examples of the art are of much earlier date. To the period of Augustus or Tiberius belongs a skyphos of open-work lead formerly in the Slade collection and now in the British Museum³. This curious work, perhaps a goldsmith's model, has blown within it a cup of azure glass, which shows through oval openings in a band about its waist. Above are Bacchic scenes in relief with incised inscriptions⁴. Below is another relief of vine-tendrils and grape-bunches. The two handles also are decorated with masks. Earlier still may be placed the skyphos found in 1876 at Varpelev in Zealand and now in the Museum at Copenhagen⁵. It is a bowl of deep blue glass, the upper part of which is covered with a decorative design of vine-leaves, ivy-leaves, etc. in open-work silver. It was found with coins of Probus (276—282 A.D.), but is itself Greek work⁶ of the early found in the temple of Solomon (Io. Malal. chron. 10 p. 260 f. Dindorf), it is just thinkable that this silver cup of special sanctity was presented on the same occasion to the Antiochenes. Dr Eisen, however, does not press the point (Am. Journ. Arch. 1917 xxi. 171 f.) and obviously inclines to a different and a more heroic hypothesis. With the fall of Jerusalem Antioch became the main centre of Christianity in the east. May not the inner bowl of the chalice have been brought thither from Jerusalem? May it not even have been the very vessel used in Apostolic times by the infant Church? Nay more, might it not conceivably have been the actual Cup of the Last Supper? No wonder that in the great Syrian capital, where the disciples were first called Christians, those who obtained possession of a relic so precious lavished all the resources of early imperial art upon its external embellishment.

¹ E. H. Minns in The Cambridge Review of Feb. 15, 1924 (xlv. 216). Sir Martin Conway in The Burlington Magazine for Sept. 1924 (xlv. 109) independently makes the same conjecture: 'I suggest,' he says, 'that this original was of coloured glass.' Mr F. Kouchakji in a letter to me (March 4, 1924) replies by anticipation: 'So far all the open-work over glass cups that have come down to us from antiquity are very small. None of them possessed a glass cup of the size of the inner cup. Then, if a fine glass cup had been broken, it would have been replaced by a finished cup and not by a crudely made one, never finished.'

² L. Stephani in the Compte-rendu St. Pétr. 1872 p. 143 ff. Atlas pl. 2, 1 and 2 (in colours), E. Saglio in Daremberg—Saglio Dict. Ant. i. 808 fig. 981, H. Blümmer Technologie und Terminologie der Gewerbe und Künste bei Griechen und Römern Leipzig 1887 iv. 405 n. 1, A. Kisa Das Glas im Altertume Leipzig 1908 ii. 602 ff. with figs. 208, 208a.

³ Gerhard Ant. Bildw. p. 327 pl. 87, 1—4, A. Kisa op. cit. ii. 602 with figs. 335, 335 a, 335 b.

⁴ (a) DOMITILLAE | STATILIO CONIVGI, (b) SALVS | GEN · HVM. Below the foot is an inscription in relief: (c) · FM · AVG · ꝛꝛ. Clearly (a) and (b) are later than (c).

⁵ C. Engelhardt in the Aarbøger for nordisk Oldkyndighed og Historie 1877 p. 354 with col. pl. 1, A. Kisa op. cit. ii. 604 f. with fig. 209.

⁶ Witness the wave-pattern round its rim, broken by the single word ΕΥΤΥΧΩC.

first century, or earlier¹. Kisa goes further and claims that already in Ptolemaic times craftsmen had begun to cover glass cups with gold and silver². How else are we to understand Athenaios' statement that 'two glass vessels of open-work gold' were carried in the pageant of Ptolémy ii Philadelphos³? After this it may be conceded that the technique of the Antioch chalice is no bar to accepting the first-century date suggested by its shape.

A third criterion may be sought in the style of the chalice-decoration. Mr T. Davies Pryce in a recent letter to me (Nov. 12, 1924) says: 'Apart from the Christian figures, the decorative elements are undoubtedly similar to those used by the first and second century sigillata potters.'⁴ The vines, though not so purely naturalistic as those of the Augustan age⁵, are as yet untouched by the incipient stylisation of the third century⁶ and show little, if any, trace of that formality which as time went on became more and more marked⁷ till it culminated in the Coptic art of the sixth century⁸. Mr W. A. Watkins draws my attention (Nov. 15, 1924) to the fact that the vines on the chalice resemble, on the one hand, the vine in the Catacomb of Domitilla, which likewise springs from the ground with a double stem and has birds and Cupids among its ¹ A. Kisa op. cit. ii. 604 notes that its handles, inlaid with gold, resemble those of Alexandrine silver cups found e.g. at Bosco Reale.

² Id. ib. ii. 600.

³ Kallixenos of Rhodes περὶ Ἀλεξανδρείας 4 (Frag. hist. Gr. iii. 62 Müller) ap. Athen. 199 F ἄλλα διαχρυσά δύο.

⁴ Mr Pryce's arguments include the following: (a) The vine-scroll is comparable with that on a sherd from Wroxeter dated 90—110 or 120 A.D. (J. P. Bushe-Fox Excavations on the Site of the Roman Town at Wroxeter Shropshire, in 1912 (Reports of the Research Committee of the Society of Antiquaries of London No. 1) Oxford 1913 p. 38 f. no. 23 fig. 12). (b) The eagle with outspread wings and head turned to right or left was a common stock-type with the potters of s. i and ii A.D. (F. Oswald—T. Davies Pryce An Introduction to the study of Terra Sigillata London 1920 pls. 6, 4; 7, 2; 9, 4). (c) The rabbit eating grapes appears in the period Domitian—Trajan (eid. ib. pl. 19, 5). (d) The basket with outspread rim and externally concave sides occurs often on pottery of 100—150 A.D. (eid. ib. pl. 17, 4 in a vintage scene with birds, J. Déchelette Les vases céramiques ornés de la Gaule Romaine Paris 1904 ii. 154 f. types 1082 and 1087). (e) The repeated rosette frequently forms an upper bordering in Italian sigillata designs and is sometimes copied by the later or first-century Gaulish sigillata potters.

⁵ A silver bowl of this period, formerly in the Blacas collection and now in the British Museum, is covered with exquisitely natural vine-leaves and tendrils in gilded repoussé-work (Brit. Mus. Cat. Silver Plate p. 22 no. 82 pl. 11).

⁶ A circular mirror of about s. iii A.D., found in a woman's grave near Sofia and now in the British Museum, has a frame of silver-gilt bronze with a somewhat schematised vine-scroll and peacocks worked à jour on a backing of wood (ib. p. 28 no. 106 pl. 15).

⁷ E.g. L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1909 ii figs. 45 (sarcophagus in the Lateran Museum at Rome), 46 (sarcophagus in San Lorenzo at Rome), 74 (ivory throne at Ravenna)=R. Garracci Storia della arte cristiana nei primi otto secoli della chiesa Prato 1881 v pl. 302, 2f., v pl. 306, 1—4, vi pl. 414 f.

⁸ Sir Martin Conway in The Burlington Magazine for Sept. 1924 (xlv. 106 ff.) compares the chalice with the sculptured semidome of a Coptic niche now in the Cairo Museum (s. vi), with the back and front of a carved ivory fragment in the same collection (s. v—vi), with a panel of the ivory throne at Ravenna (c. 550 A.D.), etc. Accordingly he would date the chalice c. 550 A.D. (ib. p. 110). But on all the monuments cited by him the vines are far advanced in stylisation.

branches¹, on the other hand, the vine-scroll in the Catacomb of Praetextatus, where again birds are seen among the vine-leaves². The cemetery of Domitilla on the Via Ardeatina is believed to go back to Apostolic times³, while that of Praetextatus on the Via Appia is referred to the second century⁴. The two representations of Christ as a young man and as a boy are imperfectly preserved, but appear to be idealistic rather than realistic figures. The head of the latter at any rate is, as Dr Eisen duly notes⁵, reminiscent of a well-known Scopaic type. The other seated persons are at least to some extent individualised⁶ and were almost certainly interpreted as portraits at the time when the graffiti were added. We know so little at present about the history of Greek portrait-sculpture in the east during the first few centuries of the Christian era that it is peculiarly difficult to date a given work, especially when executed on a small scale⁶. But if we might assume (a somewhat doubtful assumption) that the development of later Greek portraiture followed the same lines as that of Roman portraiture, we should have little hesitation in referring these life-like but not over-realistic heads to the Flavian period (69—96 A.D.). The preceding Augustan and Julio-Claudian art (31 B.C.—68 A.D.) had been more idealistic and aristocratic. Trajanic portraits (98—117 A.D.), though still life-like, are harder and less sympathetic. In the Hadrianic age (117—138 A.D.) we get a marked loss of individualism owing to the revival of old Hellenic ideals. Antonine and Aurelian carving (138—180 A.D.) is pictorial in effect: loose locks contrast with polished faces and there is a glint of light on plastic eyes. Realism returns with the third century, but is accompanied by various tell-tale innovations, e.g. very short hair shown by pick-marks on a roughened surface. Had the work been later than this, we should have looked to find standing figures frontally arranged with formal hair and eyes monotonously drilled. On the whole it may be contended that the style of the seated persons suits best the end of the first or, possibly, the beginning of the second century A.D. But, I repeat, the scarceness of strictly comparable work and above all the smallness of the scale—each head is only three-eighths of an inch in height—make certainty unattainable.

It remains to speak of the subject represented on the chalice. The nearest parallels were pointed out by Prof. F. C. Burkitt⁷ and Sir Martin Conway⁸, who both aptly cite a gilded glass or fondo d'oro published by Garrucci (fig. 1009)⁹.

¹ G. B. de Rossi Roma sotterranea edd.¹ J. S. Northcote—W. R. Brownlow London 1869 p. 73 with fig. 10 (ed.² 1879 ii. 120 ff. fig. 26), R. Garrucci op. cit. Prato 1881 ii. 23 pl. 19, 1. The vine spreads over the vaulted roof in the oldest portion of the catacomb.

² G. B. de Rossi op. cit. ed.¹ p. 78 with fig. 12 (ed.² ii. 148 ff. fig. 37), R. Garrucci op. cit. ii. 43 f. pl. 37, 1. The vine occupies the third (autumnal) zone of decoration on the Crypt of St Januarius, who was martyred in 162 A.D.

³ W. Lowrie Christian Art and Archaeology New York 1901 p. 65 f., C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 p. 127.

⁴ C. M. Kaufmann op. cit. p. 127 f.

⁵ G. A. Eisen in the New Era Magazine for June 1920 p. 416, id. The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 63 ff., 74.

⁶ Whether this individualisation was in any degree due to tooling or retouching of the original figures before the first gilding of the shell is a point that calls for careful investigation.

⁷ In The Cambridge Review 1923—1924 xlv. 253 f.

⁸ In The Burlington Magazine for Sept. 1924 (xlv. 109).

⁹ R. Garrucci Vetri ornati di figure in oro trovati nei cimiteri dei cristiani primitivi di Roma Roma 1858 p. 40 f. pl. 18, 4 (not 3, as both Prof. Burkitt and Sir M. Conway cite

This shows a youthful Christ (CRISTVS) seated with a group of eight or more¹ Saints to right and left of him. As on the chalice, they occupy high chairs with a rounded back, most of them holding rolls, two extending their right hands. The highest pair is inscribed PETRVS and [PA]V[LVS]. The lowest four are TIMOTEVS, SVSTVS, SIMON, FLORVS—Roman Christians of the third or fourth century². The glass itself is assigned to the age of Pope Damasus (366—384 A.D.)³.

Fig. 1009.

But the makers of these gilded glasses often gave new names to old designs, and Prof. Burkitt⁴ rightly traces the type back to a ceiling in the Catacomb of Petrus and Marcellinus. J. Wilpert holds that the ceiling in question dates from the middle of s. iii and depicts the Judgment with the Saints as assessors⁵.

It is clear that we have here one element in the design of the Antioch chalice. But that is not all. Prof. Burkitt⁶ very justly observes that the left arm of the it), id. Storia della arte cristiana nei primi otto secoli della chiesa Prato 1881 iii. 159 f. pl. 187, 4 (more complete)=my fig. 1009, C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 p. 623 fig. 253, 7. On the vestments lettered I and J see Garrucci Storia iii. 160.

¹ Originally, perhaps, ten: the glass is broken away to right and left.

² Timotheus was martyred in 301 (?), Sustus i.e. Xystus (Sixtus ii) in 258 A.D.

³ H. Vopel Die altchristlichen Goldgläser Freiburg i. B. 1899 p. 58.

⁴ Cp. Vopel op. cit. p. 58 n. 1.

⁵ J. Wilpert Ein Cyclus christologischer Gemälde aus der Katakomben der heiligen Petrus und Marcellinus Freiburg im Breisgau 1891 p. 17 pl. 1—2, 1, pl. 3—4, 1

⁶ In The Cambridge Review 1923—1924 xlv. 254.

Christ above the eagle (no. 1) and much of the adjoining space are due (vide the key-plan) to a restoration by Monsieur André. He suggests that the disturbing blank was originally filled with a second lamb, the figure being conceived as that of the Good Shepherd. And, if it be objected that the Good Shepherd should be standing not seated, the unusual position is defended by a fifth-century mosaic in the mausoleum of Galla Placidia at Ravenna¹. It might have been defended by a second-century painting in the cemetery of Callistus at Rome, which shows Christ seated, lyre in hand, between two sheep—the type of the Good Shepherd being definitely influenced by that of Orpheus². I incline therefore to think that Prof. Burkitt's acute divination of the original design is right and that Christ was represented on the chalice in the Orphic or seated type of the Good Shepherd with a sheep on either hand³. In this connexion it is interesting to recall that Tertullian, writing between 217 and 222 A.D., mentions chalices of the anti-Montanist party as decorated with representations of the Good Shepherd⁴. It is possible that he had in view cheap imitations of such a masterpiece as the chalice of Antioch.

The combination of the Judge and the Shepherd accounts for much, but not quite for everything. We have yet to explain the eagle beneath his feet. An eagle commonly suggests Zeus, and not least at Antioch where his cult was so familiar⁵. But what exactly is the link between the Shepherd-Judge and Zeus? It is, I think, to be found in the conception of the Divine Ruler, which would easily attach itself either to the figure of the Judge on his judgment-seat or to the seated type of the Shepherd⁶. Dr Eisen⁷ remarks that the central figure

¹ R. Garrucci Storia della arte cristiana nei primi otto secoli della chiesa Prato 1881 iv. 41 pl. 233, 2, W. Lowrie Christian Art and Archaeology New York 1901 p. 330 f. fig. 141, C. M. Kaufmann Handbuch der christlichen Archäologie Paderborn 1913 p. 456.

² G. B. de Rossi Roma sotterranea edd.¹ J. S. Northcote—W. R. Brownlow London 1869 p. 373 col. pl. 11, 2 (ed.² 1879 i. 455, ii col. pl. 18, 2), R. Garrucci op. cit. ii. 10 pl. 4, 1, L. von Sybel Christliche Antike Marburg 1906 i. 245 f. fig., 1909 ii. 106, C. M. Kaufmann op. cit. p. 275 f. fig. 102.

It is a curious coincidence, if nothing more, that the Phoenician Ba'al-hammân is represented by a Cypriote terra cotta as sitting on a throne with a ram standing on either side of him (supra i. 354 pl. xxvi, 1).

³ Dr Eisen in a letter to Dr F. J. Foakes Jackson, of which a copy was sent to me by Messrs Kouchakji (March 15, 1924), says: 'An original photograph taken before the cleaning shows that there was no lamb on the other side, and that the design was probably one: branches, leaves, tendrils and bunches of grapes. There is a total absence of symmetry in any part of the Chalice design.' [1]

⁴ Tertull. de pud. 7 a parabolis licebit incipias, ubi est ovis perdita a domino requisita et humeris eius revecta. procedant ipsae picturae calicum vestrorum, si vel in illis perlucebit interpretatio pecudis illius, utrumne Christiano an ethnico peccatori de restitutione conlineet, ib. 10 sed cederem tibi, si scriptura Pastoris, quae sola moechos amat, divino instrumento meruisset incidi, si non ab omni concilio ecclesiarum etiam vestrarum inter apocrypha et falsa iudicaretur, adultera et ipsa et inde patrona sociorum, a qua et alias initiaris, cui ille, si forte, patrociniabitur pastor quem in calice depingis, prostitutorem et ipsum Christiani sacramenti, merito et ebrietatis idolum et moechiae asylum post calicem subsecuturæ, de quo nihil libentius libas quam ovem paenitentiae secundae (cp. ib. 13).

⁵ Supra p. 1186 ff.

⁶ The seated Shepherd in the mausoleum of Galla Placidia 'is clothed in imperial purple' (W. Lowrie op. cit. p. 331).

⁷ G. A. Eisen in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1916 xx. 432, 434, id. ib. 1917 xxi. 172, 174 fig. 2, 10 ff., 179, id. The Great Chalice of Antioch pp. 31, 34, 143, 147, 179.

enthroned with a footstool bears a strong resemblance in costume, pose, and general effect to the figure of Augustus on a silver skyphos from Bosco Reale¹. He notes also that on this tereotic triumph, as on the chalice of Antioch, the central figure appears twice—once seated to receive the submission of the barbaric Germans, once enthroned amid the gods as master of the universe. I submit that the artist of the chalice has given to Christ the aspect and position of a divinised emperor². Now Roman emperors were often acclaimed by Greek adulation as Zeus incarnate³; and a bust of Zeus, referred to the first or second century A.D., is supported on an eagle with spread wings⁴. We are not, therefore, surprised to find that the head of Caracalla on a coin of Antioch struck between 213 and 217 A.D. has a similar eagle beneath it⁵. In view of these facts it becomes a legitimate conjecture that the eagle beneath the seated Christ marks him as at once human and divine, the true claimant to the throne of Zeus⁶.

So, then, the Shepherd-Judge is also the Divine Ruler. And, if it be argued that this multiple rôle is not likely to go back to the first century, I should answer that it is already implied by a great passage in the Gospel⁷: 'But when the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the angels with him, then shall he sit on the throne of his glory: and before him shall be gathered all the nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats.'

It amounts to this. For the Christian artist—trained, it may be, in a pagan school—Christ has dispossessed all rivals and has taken his seat on the very throne of Zeus. But the chalice has a reverse as well as an obverse design, and we have still to ask Why this duplication of Christ in younger form? and Wherein lies the special appropriateness of the vine-symbolism? The problem, so put, suggests its own solution. The boyish figure seated on the divine throne

¹ A. Héron de Villefosse in the Mon. Piot 1899 v. 133 ff. pls. 31—33 = Reinach Répl. Reliefs i. 92 no. 2 f., 93 no. 1 f., 94 no. 1 f.

² For a later variation on the same theme see the well-known ivory pyxys at Berlin (R. Garrucci op. cit. vi. 60 pl. 440, 1, L. von Sybel op. cit. ii. 253 fig. 77, C. M. Kaufmann op. cit. pp. 366, 552 fig. 142), which likewise has Christ seated en face on a round-backed throne, with a roll in his hand and a footstool at his feet. He is flanked by two seated Apostles (St Peter and St Paul), who raise their hands in salutation. The other ten stand to right and left of him.

The position assigned to the two foremost Apostles suits their 'Dioscuric' character (supra p. 606). Zeus is supported by the Dioskouroi (supra i. 35 fig. 8, ii. 1230 tail-piece); Christ, by St Peter and St Paul (supra i. 51 fig. 24, ii. 1207 fig. 1009).

³ See e.g. the examples that I collected in Folk-Lore 1905 xvi. 308 ff.

⁴ Supra p. 951 n. o with fig. 844.

⁵ Supra p. 1193 fig. 1003. The head of Trajan on silver coins struck at Tyre is often supported by an eagle with closed wings (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Phoenicia p. 300 f. pl. 36, 1, 3—6, Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 268 f. pl. 77, 5). Some specimens, which have the same obverse type, but for reverse Tyche seated with the Orontes at her feet, are assigned doubtfully by G. F. Hill to Tyre (Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins pp. cxxxvii f., 302 pl. 36, 9), by G. Macdonald to Antioch (Hunter Cat. Coins iii. 163 f. pl. 72, 19).

⁶ I do not deny that the eagle here may have had a further significance. C. M. Kaufmann op. cit. p. 286 discusses its appearance in Christian art 'als...Symbol der Auferstehung...und zwar der in Christo gebotenen felix reparatio temporum (vgl. Ps. 103, 5) im Jenseits.'

⁷ Matthew 25. 31 f. Aischylos long since had made Agamemnon, his divine ruler, an ἀγαθὸς προβατογνώμων (Ag. 795).

in the midst of his trusty followers is, to those at least who have in mind the coinage of Lydia and Kilikia¹, reminiscent of the child Zeus or Dionysos seated on his throne with the Kouretes grouped about him; and the framework of grape-vines adds point to the analogy.

On the whole, piecing together the evidence of shape, technique, style, and subject, I conclude that the chalice of Antioch was made at some date not far removed from the year 100 A.D.²; that it was then adorned with figures of Christ sitting in Judgment with the Saints³, ten in number merely because ten was a typical plurality⁴; and that these assessors were later, by means of graffiti, identified with individual Apostles and canonical authors, including perhaps all the recognised writers of the New Testament⁵. Further, I hold that the decoration of the chalice, though essentially Christian, owes certain of its features to pagan antecedents, in particular to Anatolian representations of Zeus and Dionysos⁶. Here, as elsewhere, the art-types of the Greek Father and Son were both taken into the service of the conquering creed and alike used to portray the form of Him who said: 'I and the Father are one.'⁷

¹ Supra i. 152 f. figs. 125—128, i. 646 f.

² Prof. Strzygowski, after personal inspection of the chalice and prolonged study of its detail, refers it to the first century A.D. (J. Strzygowski 'Der "Silberkelch von Antiochia"' in the Jahrbuch der asiatischen Kunst 1924 pp. 53—61 pl. 28 f., especially p. 61). But when he attributes the Berlin pyxys also to the first century (ib. p. 59), we part company.

³ Supra p. 1207.

⁴ M. H. Farbridge Studies in Biblical and Semitic Symbolism London 1923 p. 140 ff. (citing E. W. Bullinger Number in Scripture Bromley 1894 p. 243).

⁵ Supra p. 1200 n. 4.

⁶ Supra p. 1209 f.

⁷ John 10. 30.

ADDENDA

ii. 2 n. 4. The painted marble tablet from Tarragona, though accepted as genuine by more than one archaeologist of repute (F. Ladelci in the Atti dell' Accademia pontificia de' nuovi Lincei 1885 xxxviii. 4. 122 ff. pl. 1, Milani Stud. e mat. di arch. e num. 1899—1901 i. 36 ff. fig. 4, A. L. Frothingham in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1916 xx. 209—211 fig. 41), has recently been denounced as a forgery by the eminent connoisseur of Iberian antiquities P. Paris 'Le faux sarcophage égyptien de Tarragone' in the Rev. Arch. 1921 ii. 146—157 with figs. 1—6. I have not myself seen the tablet; but Mr T. W. I. Bullock of Queens' College, Cambridge, who has kindly interviewed on my behalf J. R. Mélida y Alinari, director of the Museo Arqueológico Nacional at Madrid, and F. A. Ossorio, keeper of the Greek and Roman antiquities, reports (Sept. 21, 1923) that both these authorities regard, and always have regarded, the fragment as a mere fabrication.

ii. 7 n. 1. Add Eunap. v. Aedesii 37 (p. 20 Boissonade) τὸ τῶν ὀμηγητῶν ἀριστον πρὸς μυστηριώδη τινὰ σωπῆν καὶ ιεροφαντικὴν ἐχεμυθίαν ἐπιρρηπὲς ἦν καὶ συνεκέκλιτο.

ii. 31 n. 7. So also Loukian. somn. 2 ὦ Ζεῦ τεράστιε, cp. Aristoph. rax 41 f. οὐκ ἔσθ' ὄπως | τοῦτ' ἐστὶ τὸ τέρας οὐ Διὸς σκαταιβότου (supra p. 15 n. 1) and Eustath. in Od. p. 1885, 8 f. Διὸς δὲ τέρας ἀλληγορικῶς μὲν τὸ ἐξ ἀέρος· τοιοῦτον γὰρ ἦ, ὡς ἐρρήθη, δίχα νέφους βροντῆ. ἄλλως δὲ διὰ τὸ πᾶν τέρας ἀνάγεσθαι εἰς ἐκείνον, καθὰ καὶ πᾶσαν ὁμήν· διὸ καὶ πανομαχίος ἐλέγετο Ζεὺς. See further O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. v. 369.

ii. 32. The relief of Zeus Κραταιβάρης is now figured by Svoronos Ath. Nationalmus. pl. 219, 8 (=my fig. 1010).

Fig. 1010.

ii. 38 n. 5. Mr A. D. Nock points out to me (Oct. 4, 1921) that Paulin. Nolan. carm. 5. 37 ff. is transplanted from Auson. ephem. 3. 37 ff. See M. Schanz Geschichte der römischen Litteratur München 1904 iv. 1. 33, 238 f.

ii. 44. Platon's comparison of the Galaxy with 'the undergirders of triremes' perhaps rests on another folk-belief. W. Gundel Sterne und Sternbilder im Glauben des Altertums und der Neuzeit Bonn—Leipzig 1922 p. 46 says that the Milky Way is sometimes conceived as 'ein gewaltiges Seil.' This would explain, not only the Platonic cable, but also the yet more famous σειρῆν χρυσείην of Il. 8. 19 ff. A golden rope hung from heaven to earth may well have been a popular conception of the Galaxy. And, if Zeus bound it περὶ βίον Οὐλύμποιο (ib. 25), we recall that 'the stars came down at night on Olympus' (supra p. 905 n. 0).

ii. 44 n. 4. The late Mr H. G. Evelyn White kindly supplied me (Sept. 23, 1921) with a Coptic parallel to the Manichaean 'pillar of light.' It occurs in an apocalyptic Gospel from Dêr Abû Makâr in the Wady'n Natrûn (New Texts from Dêr Abû Makâr no. 3, folio 117^{recto}): 'There shall be a pillar (στῦλος=στῦλος) of light, like unto silver, in Amenti (Hades): all mankind that is shall come to the place of judgment. But ye upon your thrones within the wall shall order the judgment. But the rest of the just—they who shall not be able to attain to the measure of the judgment—shall sit (or rest, remain) upon a pillar (στῦλος) of light, that they may behold them who do judgment and them who have judgment done upon them.' Mr Evelyn White further noted (Oct. 24, 1921), after Dr M. R. James, a 'great pillar' in the judgment-scene of oracl. Sib. 2. 238 ff. Geffcken ἦνικα δ' ἀνοστήσῃ νέκρας μοῖραν καταλύσας | καὶ καθίσῃ Σαβαώθ Ἀδωναῖος ὑψικέρανος | ἐς θρόνον οὐράνιον [τε] μέγαν δέ τε κίονα πῆξῃ, | ἥξει δ' ἐν νεφέλῃ πρὸς ἀφθιτον ἀφθιτος αὐτός | ἐν δόξῃ Χριστός κ.τ.λ.

ii. 45 n. 1. After repeated inspection of the marble (in the spring of 1922) and examination of a good photograph I incline to think that the arch is intentional, that the pillar is topped by an abacus, and that the inscription should be read as $\Gamma\text{EY}\Sigma$.

ii. 50 ff. F. Haug 'Die Irminsul' in Germania 1918 ii. 68—72 contends that there was but one Irminsul, that of Eresburg, probably a huge oak-tree lopped of its boughs but still rooted in the ground, till it was destroyed by Charles the Great in 772 A.D. Haug makes light of Widukind's evidence for a second Irminsul at Scheidungen, and gives short shrift to the view of Müllenhoff and Mogk that there were several or even many such pillars. He regards the first element in the name as either adjectival ('mächtige, starke, erhabene Säule') or substantival ('für Irmin(essul), d. h. Säule des Gottes oder Halbgottes Irmin').

ii. 50 n. 2. C. Petersen 'Zioter (Zeter) oder Tiodute (Jodute), der Gott des Kriegs und des Rechts bei den Deutschen' in Forschungen zur Deutschen Geschichte 1866 vi. 223—342 must be read with caution.

ii. 51 n. 5. Mr B. Dickens has sent me the following notes in criticism (Oct. 8, 1920) of the view advocated by J. Grimm, K. Simrock, and others:—

'The evidence on which this view is based appears to be as follows:

(a) Stephens, No. 5, taken from Hickeys' edition of the A.S. Runic Poem, which glosses Υ as both ear and tir: this poem was however derived from the burnt Cott. Otho B. 10, which seems to have had the characters but no names, the latter being added by Hickeys from

(b) Stephens, No. 9, taken from Cott. Dom. A. 9, the writer or copyist of which was an ignorant person who confused Υ and \uparrow as he had previously failed to distinguish between the names of \mathfrak{M} and \mathfrak{M} .

(c) Stephens, No. 10, taken from St Gall, 4to, No. 270, p. 52; which gives the value and name of Υ as z and aer respectively. This is a pretty faithful copy of the A.S. 2nd letter futhorc only partially assimilated to the phonology of O.H.G.; e.g. β is still preserved, though its name has become dorn, and \uparrow retains the name ti and the value t, though the name and value of \mathfrak{M} have become tag and t.

Later a more drastic attempt is made to harmonize the Latin alphabet, the English futhorc and the sounds of O.H.G. β disappears, though its name horn in the form dorn is attached to \mathfrak{M} ; the A.S. name of \mathfrak{M} (dæg) is changed to tac and attached to \uparrow , while Υ , for which O.H.G. had no use in its proper value ea, is baptised ziu, which corresponds with A.S. tiv (found also in the alphabets as ti and tir).

However the equation of Bavarian Er and A.S. ear is etymologically unsound, and the association of Υ with the god Ziu is quite fortuitous, for the following reasons:—

(1) The use of Υ to represent the sound of z [ts] is by no means universal; cf. e.g. Stephens Nos. 13 and 18 where varieties of the Latin z are used and No. 20, where the last letter of the Northumbrian futhorc \mathfrak{Z} (gaar) is similarly thrust into the gap.

(2) Υ is a specifically English letter invented to represent the zā which arose from Gmc. au: it is not found in inscriptions outside the English area, and where it occurs in O.H.G. futhorcs and alphabets it is legitimate to assume that it has been borrowed from England.

(3) The sound z [z], which existed in the parent Gmc. and was represented by Ψ in the old futhark, disappeared both in English and German, though the letter kept its place in the series and was sometimes used in the later Runic alphabets to fill the vacant place of the Latin x. When, therefore, by the Fourth Sound-Shifting a new z [ts] developed in O.H.G. it was necessary to find a fresh symbol. Now Υ was the last letter of the 28 letter English futhorc found, for instance, on the Thames scramasax [the characters for guttural c and g seem to have been confined to Northumbria]; moreover O.H.G. had no use for an ea character.

Put shortly, the association of the character Υ with the name of the god Ziu appears to be due to the following causes:

By a sound-change peculiar to O.H.G. (the Fourth Sound-Shifting) the dentals experienced a general shift round, $\beta > d > t > z$, the effect of which was the loss of β and the appearance of a new sound z [ts]. The disappearance of β was welcomed rather than otherwise, since it was an alien which could not be found a place in the Latin alphabet, but it was necessary to find a symbol for z. Υ happened not to be needed in its proper A.S. value of ea, and moreover to be the last letter of the non-Northumbrian futhorc. It was therefore taken over, but its original name ear discarded in order to avoid the confusion which would arise if the initial of the name of a letter were other than the letter itself. Naturally it inherited the name ziu which in its shifted form was no longer appropriate to its original possessor \uparrow .

ii. 57 n. 4. Recent articles on 'Jupiter-columns' are listed by W. Deonna in the Rev. Ét. Gr. 1917 xxx. 348, ib. 1918 xxxi. 434. Add F. Hertlein 'Zu älteren Funden des Juppitergigantenkreises' in Germania 1917 i. 101—105 with 2 figs., id. 'Der Zusammenhang der Juppitergigantengruppen' ib. 1917 i. 136—143 with 9 figs. R. Forrer 'Zur Frage der Juppitergigantensäulen' in the Römisch-germanisches Korrespondenzblatt 1912 v. 60 f. questions Hertlein's Germanic interpretation of the columns on two grounds ((1) 'dass an vielen Orten, so z. B. in Zabern, die neben Juppitergigantenresten auf Inschriften gefundenen Personennamen nicht germanische sondern keltische sind'; (2) 'dass schon auf vorrömisch gallischen Münzen eine verwandte Darstellung Platz gegriffen hat').

ii. 86. On the group from Luxeuil see now É. Espérandieu in the Rev. Arch. 1917 i. 72—86 with two figs. (summarised in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1918 xxii. 220). Espérandieu argues that the rider was Jupiter with an astral wheel, that the horse should be restored in a rearing or galloping posture, and that the human head supporting its foot was part of a giant with snaky legs.

ii. 90. Mr C. D. Bicknell notes a second example—British Museum: A Guide to the Antiquities of Roman Britain London 1922 p. 20 f. fig. 10 'Half of a stone octagon, with reliefs in niches of the deities presiding over the days of the week, was found by Horsley in the mill at Chesterford, Essex, where it had been used by the local blacksmith as a water-trough for cooling his iron.'

ii. 90. The 'Jupiter-column' had a long history in front of it as well as behind it—witness the sacred pillars revered by thousands today in France and Spain. Miss J. E. Harrison 'The Pillar and the Maiden' in the Proceedings of the Classical Association 1907 v. 65—77 has drawn attention to the cult of La Vierge du Pilier at Chartres and to the multiplied pillar-shrines of her Cathedral (bibliography by U. Chevalier Répertoire des sources historiques du moyen âge Montbéliard 1895 p. 661 ff.). Similarly at Zaragoza the Apostle James (Santiago) built a chapel on the spot where he had seen a vision of the Virgin poised on a pillar of jasper and attended by angels (A. F. Calvert Valladolid, Oviedo, Segovia, Zamora, Avila, & Zaragoza London 1908 p. 158 ff. with pls. 348 and 349 Our Lady del Pilar).

ii. 93 ff. The Column of Mayence continues to provoke discussion. To the bibliography (ii. 93 n. 3) add F. Quilling 'Zur grossen Jupitersäule von Mainz' in the Römisch-germanisches Korrespondenzblatt 1913 vi. 49—53, K. Körber Die grosse Jupitersäule im Altertums-museum der Stadt Mainz Mainz 1915 pp. 1—28 with 10 pls. and 9 figs. (reviewed by K. Wigand in the Römisch-germanisches Korrespondenzblatt 1915 viii. 47 f.), F. Drexel 'Zur Mainzer Jupitersäule' in the Römisch-germanisches Korrespondenzblatt 1915 viii. 67—69, F. Quilling 'Zur grossen Jupitersäule in Mainz' in Germania 1917 i. 43—45, id. Die Jupiter-Säule des Samus und Severus Leipzig 1918 pp. 1—236 with many figs. (reviewed by F. Drexel in Germania 1919 iii. 28—32, J. P. Waltzing in Le Musée Belge 1921 xxv. 221—226, cp. Class. Rev. 1922 xxxvi. 141), F. Quilling Die Nerosäule des Samus und Severus Leipzig 1919 pp. 1—32 with 2 figs. ('Nachtrag' to the 1918 volume by the same author), id. Die Jupiter-Votivsäule der Mainzer Canabarii. Eine neue Erklärung ihres Bildschmuckes Frankfurt 1919 pp. 1—16 with figs. and 2 pls. (reviewed by F. Drexel in Germania 1919 iii. 127 f.).

Of points made since my section on the subject (supra p. 93 ff.) was written the most important is the discovery by P. T. Kessler, assistant of the Mayence Museum, that two drums of the column have hitherto been incorrectly placed. Kessler observed that in its first, fourth, and fifth drums the run-holes for lead ('Gussrinnen') were contrived at the back of the shaft. If the same rule was followed for the second and third drums, we must suppose that their front figures were Volcanus and the goddess with the scales. This supposition is confirmed by the fact that a lance-tip carved beneath Ceres' altar on the lower edge of the second drum is now seen to be the point of Neptunus' staff on the first drum—an adjustment further certified by an incised mark ('Versatzmarke') on the two adjacent edges. Another mark above the helmet of Virtus on the second drum is likewise found to fit on to its prolongation below the figure of Pax on the third drum. The whole rearrangement may be set out as follows:

SHAFT OF THE COLUMN	IVNO Regina	Luna		Sol
	Genius Neronis	Lar	Bacchus	Lar
	VENVS	Pax	Iuno Sancta	VESTA
	VOLCANVS	Virtus	CERES	Honos
	Victoria	MARS	DIANA	NEPTVNVS
	UPPER PLINTH	Inscription	Castor	APOLLO
LOWER PLINTH		IVPPITER	MERCVRIVS and Maia (?)	Hercules
	FRONT	LEFT SIDE	BACK	RIGHT SIDE

Quilling now maintains that the entire monument refers to its dedicators, the Canabarii. Virtus and Honos are (as Maass suggested) personifications of Mayence and Castel. Victoria between Mars and Neptunus denotes the success of the fourteenth legion, formerly stationed at Mayence, over the British Boudicca in 61 A.D. Volcanus is there to avert the risk of fire from the corn-ears of Ceres, who represents the harbour-quarter. The goddess with the scales is the patron of Mayence market. She that sets foot on the cow's head and she that has the horse (?) stand for cattle-breeding. Pax is for petty trade. The Genius Neronis becomes the Genius Canabensium. Apollo hails from the Vicus Apollinensis. Etc., etc. But Quilling's views succeed one another at such a pace that the foregoing identifications are, for aught I know, already superannuated.

ii. 97 n. o. H. Mattingly in the Journ. Rom. Stud. 1920 x. 38 described an aureus of Nero, which has rev. IVPPITER LIBERATOR Iupiter enthroned to left with a thunderbolt in his right hand and a sceptre in his left—a thin disguise for the emperor himself. Mr Mattingly supposed that this coin was struck at Corinth (?) in 67 A.D. (Brit. Mus. Cat. Rom. Coins Emp. i pp. clxxxiii f., 214 no. 110 pl. 40, 15), but he is careful to state that its authenticity has been very seriously questioned (ib. p. clxxxiv n. 1). Coppers of Patrai, issued under Nero, show rev. IVPPITER LIBERATOR Iupiter, nude, standing to left with an eagle on his right hand and a sceptre in his left (Eckhel *Doctr. num. vet.*² ii. 243, 256, B. Pick in the Zeitschr. f. Num. 1890 xvii. 180 ff.).

ii. 98 n. 3. On the statuette from Woodchester see also Farnell Cults of Gk. States ii. 529 pl. 31, a ('must be a fragment of a statue of Artemis Tauropolos, standing on the bull and carrying a torch'), and S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1913 i. 29 fig. 3 ('Cérés'), i. 422 ('Déméter-Cérés').

ii. 106 n. 2. Add R. Traquair and A. J. B. Wace 'The Base of the Obelisk of Theodosius' in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1909 xxix. 60—69 with 7 figs.

ii. 121 ff. on Thracian tattooing. P. Wolters in Hermes 1903 xxxviii. 265—273 explains the name 'Ελαφστικτος (Lys. or. 13. 19 Θεάκριτον τὸν τοῦ Ἐλαφστικτοῦ καλούμενον) as appropriate to a Thracian painted or tattooed. See further O. Crusius in Philologus 1903 lxii. 125—132 (reported in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1903 vii. 477 f.).

At Dikili-Tasch near Philippoi have been found terra-cotta figures of prehistoric (neolithic?) date, which show male heads tattooed, with pointed beards (Bull. Corr. Hell. 1921 xlv. 543 fig. 15).

ii. 131 n. 1. W. B. McDaniel 'The Holiness of the Dischi Sacri' in the Am. Journ. Arch. 1924 xxviii. 24—46 figures and discusses eleven such disks; he sees in them (p. 44) 'a sort of compound seal, a composite of signets, peculiar in its design to Tarentum, used for commercial purposes'... 'Pressed in the wax of Tarentum or upon a seal of clay or gypsum.'

ii. 136 ff. Anent the 'Ladder of Salvation' Mr G. G. Coulton kindly refers me to a passage in the vita fratris Leonis (Analecta Franciscana Ad Claras Aquas (Quaracchi) 1897 iii. 71, 19 ff.) semel etiam frater Leo vidit in somnis, quod divinum iudicium parabatur, et in prato quodam Angelis tubicinantibus congregabatur gentium innumerabilis multitudo. et ecce duae scalae, quarum una erat alba, altera rubea, fuerunt positae, una ab una parte illius prati, altera ab alia, quarum proceritas usque ad coelos a terra tendebatur. apparuit autem Christus in summitate scalae rubeae quasi offensus graviter et iratus; et beatus Franciscus erat aliquantulum inferius prope ipsum. qui amplius descendens, fratres suos fortissime clamando vocabat dicens: 'venite, fratres, venite, accedite ad Dominum, qui vos vocat. confidite, ne timeatis.' fratres autem multi currebant ex admonitione Patris et incipiebant ascendere scalam rubeam confidenter. cum autem sic ascenderent, unus cadebat de tertio gradu, alius de quarto, alius de decimo, alii de medio, alii de summo. beatus autem Franciscus ad tantam fratrum ruinam motus compassione, pro filiis iudicem precabatur. Christus vero ostendebat manus et latus, in quibus plagae eius renovari videbantur; et inde sanguis recentissime distillabat, et dicebat: 'ista fecerunt mihi fratres tui.' et dum beatus Franciscus perseveraret misericordiam pro filiis postulando, post brevem morulam aliquantulum per scalam rubeam descendebat et clamabat dicens: 'confidite, fratres, ne desperetis, currite ad scalam albam et ascendite, quia ibi suscipiemini et per eam intrabitis coelum.' currentibus autem fratribus ad scalam albam ex admonitione paterna, ecce beata Virgo apparuit in summitate scalae et recipiebat eos; et ingrediebantur regnum sine labore. Cp. Bartholomaeus de Pisis de conformitate vitae beati Francisci ad vitam Domini Iesu Redemptoris nostri 8. 2 de fratre Leone (Analecta Franciscana Ad Claras Aquas (Quaracchi) 1906 iv. 191, 18 ff.), S. Alfonso de' Liguori Glories of Mary (extr. from The Christian Remembrancer Oct. 1855) London 1856 p. 25 f., The Church Quarterly Review 1902—1903 lv. 55.

ii. 146. A similar sacred trunk adorned with the spoils of the chase was to be seen at Autessiodurum (Auxerre), a town of the Senones in Gallia Lugudunensis, as late as the beginning of s. v A.D. (Acta Sanctorum edd. Bolland. Maius i. 57 C—E (Stephanus Africanus Presbyter vita S. Amatoris Episcopi Autessiodorensis 4. 24) Eo autem tempore quo haec gesta sunt, Germanus quidam nomine, nobili germine procreatus, territorium Autessiodorensis visitatione propria gubernabat: cui mos erat tiruncolorum potius industriis indulgere, quam Christianae religionis operam dare. Is ergo assiduo venatui invigilans, ferarum copiam insidiis atque artis strenuitate frequentissime capiebat. Erat autem arbor pyrus in urbe media, amoenitate gratissima, ad cuius ramusculos ferarum ab eo deprehensurarum capita pro admiratione venationis nimiae dependebant. Quem celebris vir ejusdem civitatis Amator Episcopus, his frequens compellabat eloquiis: Desine, quaeso, vir bonorum splendidissime, haec jocularia, quae Christianis offensae, Paganis vero imitanda sunt, exercere. Hoc opus idololatricae culturae est, non Christianae elegantissimae disciplinae. Et licet hoc vir Deo dignus indesinenter perageret, ille tamen nullo modo admonenti se acquiescere voluit aut obedire. Vir autem Domini iterum atque iterum eum hortabatur, ut non solum à consuetudine male arrepta discederet, verum & ipsam arborem, ne Christianis offencilum esset, radicibus extirparet. Sed ille nullatenus aures placidam applicare voluit admonenti. In hujus ergo persuasionis tempore, quadam die praefatus Germanus ex urbe in praedia sui juris secessit. Tunc B. Amator, opportunitatem operiens, sacrilegam arborem cum radicibus abscidit; & ne aliqua ejus incredulis esset memoria, igni concremandam illico deputavit: oscilla vero, quae tamquam trophæi cujusdam certaminis umbrâ dependentia ostentabant, longius à civitatis terminis projici præcepit. Protinus autem [aliquis], gressus suos ad aures saepedicti Germani retorquens, dictis animum incendit; atque iram suis suasionibus exaggerans, ferocem effecit: ita ut oblitus sanctae religionis, cujus fuerat ritu atque munere consecratus, mortem viro beatissimo minitaret: & ne ei aliquo modo quorundam Christianorum conventus furenti resisteret, turbam secum agrestem coadunans civitati improvisus advenit. The upshot was unexpected. Amator, to escape the wrath of Germanus, fled the town, made his way to Augustodunum (Autun), and besought Julius, governor of the province, to sanction the nomination and consecration of Germanus to the episcopal throne of Auxerre in the room of himself. 'For,' said the saint, 'God has revealed to me that my life draweth to a close.' A few days later Amator died, while Germanus became bishop in his stead and ruled the see well (S. Baring-Gould *The Lives of the Saints*² Edinburgh 1914 v. 13 f.). Amator's festival falls on May 1).

There are points about this curious narrative which suggest that we have here in an attenuated, Christianised, form a Gallic parallel to the cult of Diana Nemorensis.

ii. 157 n. o. F. Courby Les vases grecs à reliefs Paris 1922 pp. 509—513 ('Oenochoés à portraits de reines') enumerates four examples and sundry fragments, which commemorate Arsinoë ii, Berenike ii, and Ptolemy iv Philopator. With unimportant variations, all repeat the same type, derived—according to Courby—from a statue of Arsinoë ii with the attributes of Tyche set up by Ptolemy ii Philadelphos (Athen. 497 B—C) in her temple at Alexandria (Plin. nat. hist. 37. 108) together with an obelisk eighty cubits high (id. ib. 36. 67 f.).

ii. 174. In the Rev. Arch. 1920 i. 172 C. Picard attempts to discredit the omphalos found by F. Courby within the temple of Apollon. He suggests that it is perhaps a mere weight and that its inscription may not after all be archaic. But Mr C. T. Seltman, who at my request has made a careful examination of the original stone, sends me (Jan. 11, 1923) the following report: 'After our trip to Delphi, from which we returned four days ago, I must write and tell you what I think about the Omphalos, which is now placed in the Museum there. It seems to me that the suggestion of its being a forgery can only be born of madness or malice! The thing is smaller than one expected it to be, but it is to my thinking impossible that it should be a fake. The \square upon it is clear as are \wedge \wedge ; but the sigma of \wedge \wedge Σ is so mutilated by a large fracture in the stone that it might be almost any letter.'

ii. 176 n. 1. On Themis at Delphoi see also F. Courby in the Fouilles de Delphes ii. 1. 81, who notes the inscription restored by G. Colin in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1903 xxvii. 107 no. 684 B, 14 f. ἐπιφοροῦντι δὲ [Θέμης] καὶ Ἀπόλλων Πύθιος καὶ Λατῶ καὶ Ἀρτεμίδος καὶ Ἑστία καὶ πῦρ ἀθάνατον καὶ θεοὶ πάντες καὶ πᾶσαι κακίστωι ὀλέθρῳ τὴν | σωτηρίαν μοι [ἀφέλωσι]ν, κ.τ.λ.

In the hymn composed by Aristonoös of Corinth and inscribed on the Athenian Treasury at Delphoi we read how Apollon first occupied the oracular seat πέλας Γαίαν ἀνοτροβρόν | Θέμιν τ' εὐπλόκαμον θεάν (G. Colin in the Fouilles de Delphes iii. 2. 213 ff. no. 191, 18 f.).

ii. 176 n. 2. W. H. Roscher 'Die Bedeutung des E zu Delphi und die übrigen γράμματα Δελφικά' in Philologus 1900 lix. 21—41 labours to prove that the mystic εἶ is for πρόσει, εἶσει, "'komm her" oder "Willkommen." This, to my mind, is quite impossible Greek.

ii. 190 n. o. Further references for the history of rhytd are given by F. W. von Bissing in the Jahrb. d. Deutsch. Arch. Inst. 1923/24 xxxviii/ix Arch. Anz. pp. 106—109.

ii. 193. On the evolution of the tripod see now K. Schwendemann 'Der Dreifuss' in the Jahrb. d. Deutsch. Arch. Inst. 1921 xxxvi. 98—185 with figs. 1—30. Id. ib. p. 183 f. discusses the relation of the tripod to Zeus on vases and coins.

ii. 193 n. 2. Cp. the twelfth-century fonts at Winchester etc. (C. H. Eden Black Tournaï Fonts in England London 1909 pp. 1—32 with good plates), which in appearance at least perpetuate this ancient form of libation-table.

ii. 195 n. 1. A. Furtwängler 'Zum plattäischen Weihgeschenk in Delphi' in the Sitzungsber. d. kais. bayr. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1904 pp. 413—417 (Am. Journ. Arch. 1905 ix. 477) figures the upper surface of the highest extant step of the Plataean tripod, and explains three symmetrically arranged slots in it as due to tenons which passed through the top step of the base and thus tethered the tripod-feet to the second step. If so, we must suppose that the legs of the tripod were drawn somewhat closer together than I have placed them (supra p. 194 fig. 134). Furtwängler's inference, however, is not quite secure, since the serpent-coil, which he too takes to have been the central support of the caldron, has left no trace whatever on the second step. It may be that the three slots in question served merely for dowels fastening this step to the one above it, in which serpent-coil and legs were alike embedded.

Re the Plataean tripod see now R. M. Dawkins in Folk-Lore 1924 xxxv. 234 f., 380.

ii. 208 f. In this connexion Miss H. Richardson of Newnham College drew my attention (Oct. 24, 1924) to Plout. de sera num. vind. 22 566 D ἅμα δ' ἐπειρᾶτο προσάγων ἐπιδεικνύειν αὐτῷ τὸ φῶς ἐκ τοῦ τρίποδος, ὡς ἔλεγε, διὰ τῶν κόλπων τῆς Θέμιδος ἀπειριδδ- μενον εις τον Παρνασον· και προθυμουμενος ιδειν ουκ ειδεν υπο λαμπροτητος, αλλ ηκουε παριων φωνην δεξιαν γυναικος εν μετρω φραζουσαν αλλα τε τινα και χρονον, ως ειουκε, της εκεινου τελευτης. We have here, apparently, Themis on the Delphic tripod impregnated by the central pillar of light (= Apollon: cp. supra p. 178).

ii. 222 n. 2. On Iason swallowed by the snake see further P. Ducati 'Giasone e il serpente' in the Rendiconti d. Lincei 1920 xxix. 52—64 (p. 53 fig. 1 kýlix from Cervetri, p. 61 fig. 3 bronze kýathos from Felsina).

ii. 229 n. 7. Zeus as Artemis wooing Kallisto is the subject of a painting by F. Boucher (1703—1770 A.D.) (W. Hausenstein Der nackte Mensch in der Kunst aller Zeiten München 1918 p. 122 fig. 84).

ii. 281 n. 4. For the golden vine overhanging the entrance to Herod's temple Mr G. C. Armstrong quotes also Ioseph. de bell. Iud. 5. 5. 4.

ii. 282. Mr B. F. C. Atkinson has kindly supplied me (Apr. 28, 1922) with a Note on the Name Sabazios:—

'I suggest the following etymology for Sabazios. The second part I believe to be Zios, Dios, the Phrygian Zeus. The change of d to a sound represented by zeta in Thracian is frequent and seems regular, whether it be, as Kretschmer suggests (Einleitung p. 196), due to "Assibilation des d vor i," or whether, as is perhaps more probable, a change of d to the voiced dental spirant ḍ took place over the whole Illyrian—Thracian—Phrygian language area. The disappearance of intervocalic digamma may be due to conscious assimilation by Greek transcribers to Gk. Δια, Διός, etc., although it is well to remember in this connection that there is a form of the stem that contains no μ (Skt. dyām, Gk. Ζῆρ, Lat. diem).

The first part of the compound adapts itself with surprising regularity to the root given by Brugmann as keuā*, which appears with varying ablaut in Skt. śvīṣṭhas, śvātrās, śvdyati, śhras, Gk. κύος, κύρος and Boeotian πάματα. The root has the general meaning of "swell," "be important," "be master," "possess." Sabazios would thus mean originally "Lord Zeus."

There seems to be another possible etymology for the first part of the compound. The root occurring in Skt. kṛviṣ, Gk. κοίω, Lat. caueo, Goth. us-skāius* may be in evidence here. If this is the case, the initial s can be explained in two ways. It may represent an s-sound and illustrate the Thracian treatment of the I.-E. combination sq-. More probably we have in Thracian that form of the stem that shows no initial sibilant (as in the examples cited from Skt., Gk., and Lat.), in which case concealed beneath sigma is the sound ts (final in Eng. thatch). The Messapian and Lycian inscriptions, if correctly interpreted by Deecke, throw light on this view. There we find sigma or zeta used for a sound that represents the I.-E. velar (Messap. zis for quis*, a proper name Plaxtas with genitive Plaxtas; Lyc. sättäre, "four," etc.: vd. Deecke in Bezz. Beit. Vols. xii, xiii, xiv), though it is true that it is the labialised velar that in these cases undergoes palatalisation. In this case Sabazios would mean "Zeus the wise one" with a hint at prophetic power (cf. caueo), somewhat resembling "augur Apollo." Then we could regard the Sauadai or Saboi, whose connection with the god seems obvious, as his "wise ones" or "seers."

The former of these two etymologies is perhaps the more straightforward; but there is no real barrier to the second (though it would scarcely have been possible apart from the evidence of the Messapian and Lycian inscriptions). In either case the beta represents a z-sound, as the alternative forms (Sauuzios, Sauazios, Sauuzios, Savuzios, Sabadius) make clear, and this derives almost certainly from an earlier u. The a of the first syllable, whether it represent older e or o, is assimilated to the following a, a practice which seems regular in Illyrian and Thracian (cf., for example, Delminium but Dalmatae, -poris but -para). Thus the former etymology would give us Savaḍios, the latter Ἰζαυαḍios.

ii. 282 n. 2. P. Roussel—J. Hatzfeld in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1909 xxxiii. 511 no. 29 publish a marble slab, from a house N.W. of the agorá of Theophrastos in Delos, inscribed in late lettering Δειελ Σαβαζιω(ι) --- | καρ' εὐχῆν Μο --- | του γεγονότος --- | ἐν Δῆλω Αἰ[ῖου?] ---. See also P. Roussel Délos Colonie athénienne Paris 1916 p. 276 n. 7.

ii. 285 n. o no. (3). The relief from Philadelphieia (Ala-Sehir) in Lydia, hitherto incorrectly described, is figured from a photograph (= my fig. 1011) by J. Keil—A. von Premerstein 'Bericht über eine zweite Reise in Lydien' in the Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1911 ii Abh. p. 84 no. 2. A bearded man standing erect, in chiton and himation, holds his garment with his left hand. With his right hand he pours a libation from a phidle into a kratér, set on the ground, about which two snakes are twined, apparently drinking out of it. Behind the kratér is seen a tree (oak ??), from which a snake lowers itself towards the phidle.

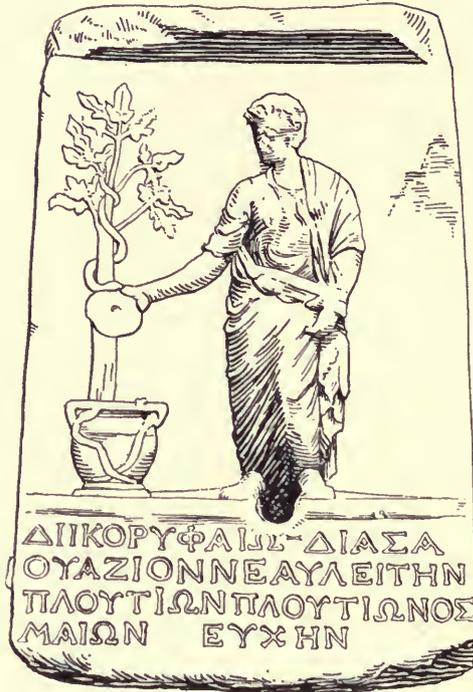

Fig. 1011.

ii. 290 n. o. Sir W. M. Flinders Petrie 'Funereal Figures in Egypt' in Ancient Egypt 1916 pp. 151—162 draws attention to the existing African custom of treasuring in the family the head of the deceased father and uses it to elucidate certain sepulchral practices of the ancient Egyptians. He shows that in many burials of prehistoric times the head was removed and later replaced in the grave, if not lost or buried elsewhere; that in tomb-shafts of the fourth dynasty a stone image of the head was provided in case the actual head should be lost or injured; that at the break-up of the Old Kingdom a stone image of the mummy came into vogue; and that the addition of hands, arms, etc. led on to the fully developed ushabti figures of the seventeenth and following dynasties.

P. D. Chantepie de la Saussaye The Religion of the Teutons Boston and London 1902 p. 303 notes relevant facts in the Scandinavian area.

ii. 295 n. 1. On Ἄδαμα = Ἄττις see now W. Vollgraaf 'De voce thracia ἄδαπαις' in Mnemosyne 1921 xlix. 286—294 (summarised by S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1921 ii. 406 f.).

ii. 322 n. 6. In the Hesychian gloss on the word κρυακίας J. Alberti rightly conjectured διδόμενοι for διδόμενον. He is followed by Wide Lakon. Kulte p. 68.

ii. 326. See now Miss M. A. Murray The Witch-Cult in Western Europe Oxford 1921.

ii. 345. The formula of the Cretan mystics (βοῦς μέγας) may help to clear up an obscure epigram of Kallimachos—'οὗτος ἐμὸς λόγος ὕμνων ἀληθινός· εἰ δὲ τὸν ἥδὼν | βούλει, Πελλαίου βοῦς μέγας εἰν' Αἰδῶν' (Kallim. ep. 15. 5 f. with A. W. Mair's note ad loc.).

ii. 345 n. 6. On the survival of this formula into the middle ages see some interesting remarks by W. Deonna in the Rev. Arch. 1921 ii. 412.

ii. 386. The petasos as a sky-symbol possibly meets us again on the tomb of Porsenna at Clusium as described by Varro ap. Plin. nat. hist. 36. 91—93 (92 pyramides stant quinque...ita fastigatae ut in summo orbis aeneus et petasus unus omnibus sit inpositus, ex quo pendent exapta catenis tintinabula, etc.). For discussion and attempted restorations see Quatremère de Quincy and the Duc de Luynes in the Ann. d. Inst. 1829 i. 304—309, Mon. d. Inst. i pl. 13, G. Dennis *The Cities and Cemeteries of Etruria*² London 1883 ii. 345—358, J. Martha L'Art Étrusque Paris 1889 p. 206 ff., Durm *Baukunst d. Etrusk.*² p. 140 ff. fig. 165.

ii. 388 n. 4. Janiform busts of Zeus and Hermes are implied by the word Διέρμαι (Prokl. in Plat. Alcib. i. 68 f. Creuzer καὶ περὶ ἕκαστον τῶν θεῶν πλήθος ἐστὶ δαιμόνων ἀμύθητον καὶ ταῖς αὐταῖς ἐπωνυμίαις ἀποσεμνυνόμενον τῶν ἡγουμένων θεῶν· Ἀπόλλωνες γὰρ καὶ Δες καὶ Διέρμαι καλοῦμενοι χαίρουσιν, αἵ τε δὲ καὶ τὴν ἰδιότητα τῶν οἰκείων θεῶν ἀποτυπώμενοι).

ii. 397 n. o. R. B. Onians in the Class. Rev. 1924 xxxviii. 5 takes Zeus 'Ἡρακλεῖος to mean Zeus 'of the Spindle,' who spins the thread of fate (cp. Od. 4. 207 f. βεία δ' ἀργυροῦτος γόβος ἀνέρος ᾧ τε Κρονίων | ὄλβον ἐπικλώσῃ γαμέοντι τε γεινομένῳ τε).

ii. 465. For horned female deer see L. P. Hatch 'A Doe with Horns' in The American Naturalist 1870 iii. 279, W. J. Hays 'Does with Horns.' ib. 1870 iii. 548—550 and in The Academy 1870 i. 103.

ii. 479 n. 8. J. Kohler 'Bräuche und Mythen der Arandas' [=the Arunta] in the Zeitschrift des Vereins für Volkskunde 1916 xxvi. 283 'hier bildet die Milchstrasse einen grossen Fluss: sie ist mit hohen Bäumen besetzt und von Wasserquellen umgeben, wo Beerenfrüchte in Hülle und Fülle wachsen.'

ii. 479 n. 10. See also D. A. Mackenzie in Folk-Lore 1922 xxxiii. 159.

ii. 482. For the Milky Way conceived as a tree cp. W. Gundel Sterne und Sternbilder im Glauben des Altertums und der Neuzeit Bonn—Leipzig 1922 p. 46: 'Für sich steht die Auffassung der Bakaïri die einen gewaltigen Trommelbaum darin erblicken' (citing K. von den Steinen Unter den Naturvölkern Zentral-Brasiliens Berlin 1894 pp. 360, 436).

ii. 483. Mr R. Campbell Thompson, in a letter passed on to me by Mr Sidney Smith, says: 'The kiskauū is not a common plant, and is rarely, if ever, used in the medical texts. Yet there are three kinds of it—šalmu, pišu, and samu—black, white, and red? (or yellow). I doubt it being the astragalus now. I looked about always in Mesopot for anything which would coincide and I confess I am baffled. There is nothing at Eridu now—which is as flat and bare, save for low scrub growth in parts, as one's hand. It can hardly be a very special tree, since it is to be found at the mouth of the rivers.'

ii. 484. A. Nehring in the Mitteilungen der Schlesischen Gesellschaft für Volkskunde 1916 xviii. 23 argues that the original form of the name was the vocative Ἀπελλων, because only in the vocative is the ε unaccented, and only unaccented ε becomes ο under the influence of a following ω (ο). This argument was cited by A. H. Krappe in a letter to J. Rendel Harris, who comments: 'He should have added that, with the second syllable unstressed, it was easy to explain the Thessalian Ἀπλων' (F. Bechtel Die griechischen Dialekte Berlin 1921 i. 172).

ii. 486. The ultimate acceptance of the bay as the tree par excellence of Apollon can be well illustrated from a unique statēr of s. iv B.C., struck by some uncertain town in Crete and now preserved in the Hunterian collection at Glasgow (P. Gardner Types of Gk. Coins p. 165 pl. 9, 15 and 16, J. N. Svoronos Nismatique de la Crète ancienne Mâcon 1890 i. 331 pl. 31, 8, Hunter Cat. Coins ii. 200 pl. 43, 7, *Head Hist. num.*² p. 479). Obv. Apollon, seated to right on the trunk of a bay-tree, holding a wreath in his left hand. Rev. Apollon, seated to right on the trunk of a bay-tree, holding a lyre in his left hand. Fig. 1012 is drawn from a cast kindly supplied to me by Mr G. Macdonald.

Fig. 1012.

ii. 493. I am indebted to Mr B. F. C. Atkinson for the following important communication (Feb. 25, 1922):—'Note on Apollo and the Apple. It seems to me that the philological obstacles to this connection are not insurmountable. Professor E. H. Sturtevant (Pronunciation of Greek and Latin, Chicago 1920 pp. 91 ff.) has shown that, while in Greek the unvoiced stops were lenes, that is, pronounced without force, and the voiced stops were fortes, the reverse was true in Latin. This is the reason why in certain cases of transliteration from one language into the other $g(\gamma)$ and $k(\kappa)$, $d(\delta)$ and $t(\tau)$, $b(\beta)$ and $p(\pi)$ are interchangeable: for references and examples see my article on "Apollo and the Apple" in the Bulletin of the John Rylands Library, Manchester, 1922 vii. 138—140. I have in this article tried to show that in respect of the sets of stops which are fortes or lenes there is a probability of the Illyrian dialects agreeing with Latin rather than Greek. If then, as I have ventured to surmise, the god's name were borrowed by the Greeks from an Illyrian dialect, in which the form had a voiced stop and was connected with the stem meaning "apple," which runs through the northern languages and appears probably in the name of Abella in Campania, the unvoicing of the stop in transmission, that is to say, the change from b to p , need cause us no surprise. The suggestion is somewhat strengthened by the occurrence of the proper names Abellio (dat. Abellioni) in an inscription from Salona on the Dalmatian coast (Corp. inscr. Lat. iii no. 2169, 3) and Abello (gen. Abellonis) in another from Mursa in Pannonia Inferior (ib. iii no. 10271, 3).'

ii. 496 n. o. On Zeus Περφερέτας or Φερφερέτας as worshipped by the Phrouroi (originally conservators of a particular stretch of the Sacred Way?) see now F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 p. 90 n. 7.

ii. 498 n. 2: 'Has it been noticed etc.?' The answer is, Yes. See Campbell Bonner in the Am. Journ. Philol. 1900 xxi. 433—437.

ii. 500 f. I have doubted, and still doubt, Artemis' northern provenance. But see, on the other side, an interesting paper by Mr J. Whatmough 'Inscribed fragments of stags-horn from North Italy' in the Journ. Rom. Stud. 1921 xi. 245—253. He would equate Artemis, not only with Βριτόμαρτις (= Φριτόμαρτις), but also with Rehtia at Este and Rit- in Magrè.

ii. 542. W: Gaerte 'Die Bedeutung der kretisch-minoischen Horns of Consecration' in the Archiv f. Rel. 1922 xxi. 91 n. 2 interprets the problematic object between the horns of my fig. 415 f. as the sun between the peaks of an 'Erdsymbol' (mountains).

ii. 575 n. 4. The coin of Euromos that shows the local Zeus with a stag (cp. ii. 575 n. 1) suggests that Zeus has here replaced Artemis Ἐφεσία. Note that the similar Zeus on coins of Mylasa was, like Artemis at Ephesos (ii. 408 n. o), linked to the ground with fillets (ii. 574), and that the Zeus of Euromos is covered with dots, which may represent breasts (ii. 592 ff.).

ii. 578 n. 4. Add A. Rehm in Milet iii. 330 ff. no. 146, A 17 ff. ἵνα δὲ καὶ διαμνημονεύηται τὸν ἀεὶ χρόνον καὶ τηρήηται τὰ δεδομένα, συνέταξαν τὰ περὶ τούτων ἐψηφισμένα ἀναγράψαι ἐν τοῖς ἐαντῶν ἱεροῖς πῶι τε τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ὄσογῶ καὶ τοῦ Διὸς | τοῦ Λαβραῦνδου· συνετέλεσαν δὲ καὶ εὐχὰς καὶ θυσίας | τοῖς τε προσημνομένοις θεοῖς καὶ τῇ Ἔστια καὶ Ἀπόλλωνι Διδυμεί, B 71 ff. ὅπως δὲ τὰ ἐψηφισμένα ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου | τίμια μνημονεύηται εἰς τὸν ἀεὶ χρόνον, ἀναγράψαι τὸδε τὸ ψήφισμα ἐ[ν] | τοῖς ἱεροῖς πῶι τε τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ὄσογῶ καὶ τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαβραῦνδου. ἵνα ᾗ[ε] | ἕκαστα γίνηται μετὰ τῆς τῶν θεῶν εὐμενείας, τὸμ μὲν στεφανηφόρον | μετὰ τοῦ ἱέρου τῇ Ἔστια θῦσαι καὶ τὸν ἱερέα τοῦ Ἀπόλλωνος τοῦ Διδυμείως καὶ τοὺς ἱερεῖς τὸν τε τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Ὄσογῶ καὶ τὸν τοῦ Διὸς τοῦ Λαβραῦνδου προσαγαγέωθαι θυσίαν τοῖς θεοῖς καὶ εὐχὰς ποιήσασθαι συνενεργεῖν | τοῖς πόλεσιν ἀμφοτέραις τὰ ἐψηφισμένα (in a treaty between Miletos and Mylasa, 209/8 B.C.).

ii. 583. E. W. Fay in the Class. Quart. 1917 xi. 215 derives Που-ειδᾶζω from *ποι-, 'lord,' and EID, 'to swell.'

ii. 587. Unexpected confirmation of O. Höfer's conjectural Zeus Σπάλαξος has recently come to hand. The British Museum has acquired an imperial bronze coin of Aphrodisias in Karia, on which he actually appears. Mr G. F. Hill kindly allows me to illustrate it here for the first time (fig. 1013). Obv. ΚΡΙCΠΕΙΝΑ ΑΥΓΟΥCΤΑ Bust of Crispina to right. Rev. CΕΥCCTΠ ΑΛ[Α]ΞΕΟC ΑΦΡΟΔΕΙCΙ [Ε]ΩΝ Zeus Σπάλαξος (less probably Σπάλωξος) enthroned to left with Nike in right hand and long sceptre in left.

Fig. 1013.

ii. 596 fig. 499. In J. G. C. Anderson—F. Cumont—H. Grégoire Recueil des inscriptions grecques et latines du Pont et de l'Arménie (Studia Pontica iii) Bruxelles 1910 i. 161 f. no. 146 H. Grégoire gives a photographic cut of the whole relief, a facsimile of its inscription (which he transcribes as Ζῶβη (or Ζιῶβη) | θεᾶ (or θεαῖς) | σι though various other letters are visible in lines 4, 5, 6), and a commentary.

ii. 619 n. 4. On the Mithraeum of Allmendingen, excavated 1824—1825, see further Lohner in Der Schweizerische Geschichtsforscher 1834 viii (wrongly numbered ix). 430 ff. pl. 5, F. Cumont Textes et monuments figurés relatifs aux mystères de Mithra Bruxelles 1896 ii. 505 figs. 450—455. Seven little hatchets of bronze were found, inscribed IOVI, MIIERVAE, etc.

ii. 625 n. 3. Mr A. J. B. Wace, lecturing to the Classical Society at Cambridge on Nov. 27, 1922, described how in the last season's 'dig' at Mykenai the British School had excavated various tombs outside the town. In the entrance to tomb no. 515 were found two seal-stones, dating from s. xv B.C., with an almost identical device. Above a stepped base stands a 'Minoan' goddess, flanked by a pair of lions erect upon their hind legs. On her head she supports a double axe, which rises from the centre of a couple of two-headed snakes connected by cross-bars—apparently a serpentine substitute for the more usual 'horns of consecration' (cp. Brit. Mus. Cat. Jewellery p. 54 f. no. 762 pls. 6 and 7). Fig. 1014 is enlarged $\frac{2}{3}$ from a cast supplied to me by the British Museum. The main difference between the two stones is that on this one the lions' tails curl upwards, on the other downwards. Mr Wace aptly drew attention to Hesych. s. vv. κύβηλις· μάχαιρα. ἀμεινον δὲ πέλεκυν, ὃ τὰς βοῦς καταβάλλονσι, κυβηλίσαι· πελεκίσαι· κύβηλις γὰρ ὁ πέλεκυς, and accordingly proposed to call the goddess Kybele (id. in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1921 xli. 264 'Kybele or Rhea').

Fig. 1014.

ii. 632 n. 6. Add an axe of dark brown schist, decorated with zigzags and spirals and ending in the forepart of a lioness, found in a 'Middle Minoan iii' vase at Mallia (Comptes rendus de l'Acad. des inscr. et belles-lettres 1925 p. 23 f. fig.).

ii. 633 ff. The axes borne by Roman lictors may be illustrated from a fragmentary marble relief now affixed to a wall of the Cryptoporticus on the Palatine. Fig. 1015 is from a photograph taken by my friend and colleague Mr A. Munro, Fellow of Queens' College, Cambridge. It will be observed that the haft of every axe is surmounted by a head (lion, man, ram).

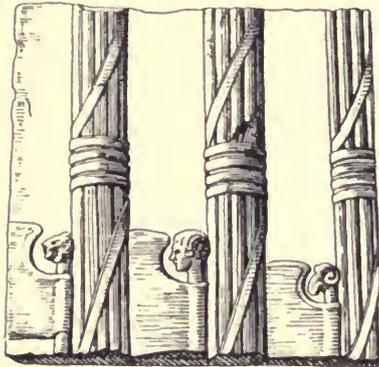

Fig. 1015.

The 'Tomb of the Lictor' at Vetulonia takes its name from an iron double axe (0.27^m long) hafted on to an iron rod surrounded by eight hollow rods of iron (last published by D. Randall-MacIver Villanovans and Early Etruscans Oxford 1924 p. 145 fig. 56 after O. Montelius La civilisation primitive en Italie depuis l'introduction des métaux Stockholm 1904 Série B pl. 194, 5). Cp. Sil. It. 8. 483 ff.

ii. 637. Four fine examples of carving in amber (Eros v. Anteros, Bacchant, female bust, 'Tiergruppe') are figured by H. Maionica in the Führer durch das K. K. Staatsmuseum in Aquileia Wien 1910 p. 71 ff. Finer still (c. 0.40^m high) is the archaic kotlos of Fiumicino (S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1924 ii. 237).

Fig. 1016.

ii. 645 n. 4. See now Sir A. J. Evans in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1925 xlv. 53 ff.

ii. 660. A small double axe of ivory (fig. 1016: scale $\frac{1}{4}$), now in my possession, is said to have come from Pharsalos, but was more probably found at Pherai. With it were an ivory fibula of 'spectacle'-type and two bronze pendants of the Hallstatt period.

ii. 667. Cp. Furtwängler Geschnitt. Steine Berlin p. 312 no. 8514 pl. 71 a red jasper of imperial date showing a crab with a comic mask as its carapace.

ii. 693 n. 4. See now an interesting study by W. R. Halliday 'Picus-who-is-also-Zeus' in the Class. Rev. 1922 xxxvi. 110—112.

ii. 716. F. J. M. De Waele 'ΧΡΥΣΑΩΡ' in Le Musée Belge 1924 xxviii No. 1 (January) holds that ωρ in this compound retains its original sense, 'arrow.' See Class. Rev. 1924 xxxviii. 92.

ii. 725 figs. 660, 661. A. della Seta Italia antica Bergamo 1922 p. 252 fig. 281 shows this statue as it stands in the Galleria dei Candelabri of the Vatican, with a bow restored in its right hand and an eagle in its left!

ii. 739. On statuettes of Zeus the thunderer see now S. Casson in the Journ. Hell. Stud. 1922 xlii. 211 f. figs. 4—6. He claims that a crude example of the type from Dodona (C. Carapanos Dodone et ses ruines Paris 1878 p. 32 no. 16 pl. 13, 4, S. Casson loc. cit. p. 211 f. fig. 4 (b) = my fig. 1017) is 'of the Geometric period.' If so, this would be the earliest known representation of Zeus in the round. Unfortunately it is not quite certain that Zeus was intended. The subject may be a fighting man, not a thundering god. The holes in his hands would suit spear and shield at least as well as they would suit thunderbolt and eagle. The absence of a helmet, however, tells in favour of Zeus.

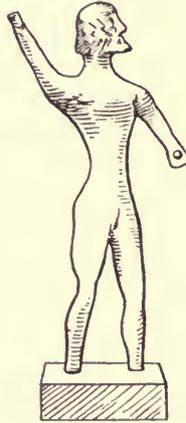

Fig. 1017.

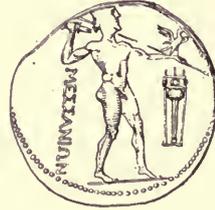

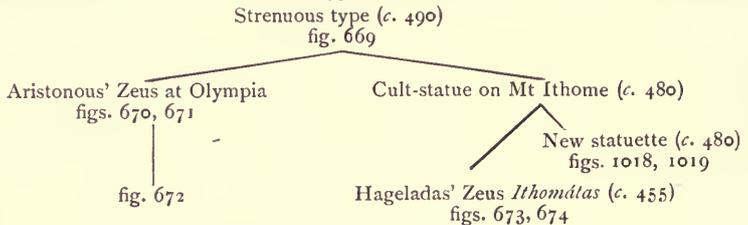

Fig. 1020.

ii. 741 f. K. A. Rhomaios in the Arch. Δελτ. 1920—21 vi. 169—171 figs. 3—6 (of which figs. 5 and 6 = my figs. 1018 and 1019) publishes an archaic bronze statuette of Zeus, found in a wonderful state of preservation at Ambrakia in Aitolia and now installed in the National Museum at Athens (no. 14984. Height 0.165^m; with base, 0.188^m. Patina, blackish green). The god advances brandishing a bolt in his raised right hand and supporting an eagle on his outstretched left. Yet the action of his legs and arms is by no means strenuous. It agrees rather with the pose of Hageladas' Zeus on the coins of Messene (ii. 742 fig. 673 f.). Accordingly Rhomaios regards the new statuette as made under the influence of Hageladas' work, which he dates c. 480 B.C. (cp. C. Robert Archaeologische Maerchen aus alter und neuer Zeit Berlin 1886 p. 92 ff. and Collignon Hist. de la Sculpt. gr. i. 318). But that is definitely to reject the testimony of Paus. 4. 33, 2 (see Sir J. G. Frazer and H. Hitzig—H. Blümner ad loc.). It is safer to conclude that the new statuette was an early faithful copy (c. 480 B.C.), Hageladas' masterpiece a later improved copy (c. 455 B.C.), of the same cult-stature on Mt Ithome, which itself was a modification of the ancient strenuous type (c. 490 B.C.). We thus obtain the stemma:

ii. 741 f. fig. 674. A rare variety of this Messenian tetradrachm shows Zeus holding, not only an eagle, but also a long sceptre in his left hand. Fig. 1020 is from a well-preserved specimen formerly in the Mavrocordato collection (J. N. Svoronos in the Journ. Intern. d'Arch. Num. 1912 xiv. 29 no. 2052 pl. Z', 8) and now in mine. A second example from the same dies, as I am informed by Mr C. T. Seltman, was in the collection of E. F. Weber (Sammlung Consul Eduard Friedrich Weber† Hamburg München 1908 i. 136 no. 1983 pl. 25). The variation of type is presumably due to the die-sinker and does not reproduce the original aspect of Hageladas' work.

Fig. 1018.

Fig. 1019.

ii. 743 n. 5. More complete is a later example now in my collection (fig. 1021). Zeus, with abundant hair and wreath of large bay-leaves, advances brandishing a three-spiked thunderbolt (one end broken) in his right hand and supporting an eagle erect on his left wrist. Height $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches. Careful work of the Hellenistic age.

ii. 744 n. 3. The Pourtalès amphora is now in the Louvre (G 204): see E. Pottier Vases antiques du Louvre 3^{me} Série Paris 1922 p. 204 f. pl. 129, J. D. Beazley Attic red-figured Vases in American Museums Cambridge Mass. 1918 p. 38 ('in the style of the Berlin painter'), Hoppin Red-fig. Vases i. 65 no. 45.

ii. 757 fig. 700. A second and better preserved specimen of this important coin has lately come to light. I am indebted to Mr C. T. Seltman for the casts from which my illustration of it (fig. 1022) is drawn. The obverse is from the same die as that of fig. 701; the reverse, from the same die as that of fig. 700.

Fig. 1021.

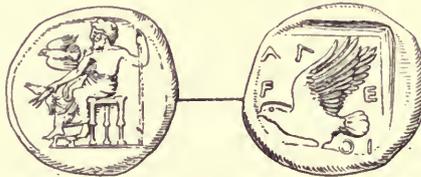

Fig. 1022.

ii. 771 fig. 735. For Zeus enthroned with a lotos in his hand cp. an Arabian imitation of a tetradrachm of Alexander, showing a beardless god enthroned to left with a flower instead of an eagle in his right hand (B. V. Head in the Num. Chron. New Series 1880 xx. 303 ff. pl. 15, 3, G. F. Hill in the Brit. Mus. Cat. Coins Arabia etc. p. lxxxii pl. 50, 5).

ii. 774 n. 4. Miss M. E. H. Lloyd tells me (Oct. 7, 1922) that at Pitigliano in Grosseto during May and June the leaves of the giglio (iris florentina) are hung up outside the windows as a charm against lightning. The plant in leaf, before being hung up, is taken to the church to be blessed by the priest.

ii. 798. Mrs A. Strong 'Treasure from Vatican Rubbish' in The Illustrated London News 1922 clxi. 380 fig. 1 (=my fig. 1023) publishes, among other fragments of sculpture found by W. Amelung in magazzini of the Vatican, a neo-Attic relief of s. i A.D., which shows 'a composite divinity, carrying the thunderbolt of Zeus, the trident of Poseidon, and the sword of Ares, while behind him an eagle perches upon a large cornucopia.' See also S. Reinach in the Rev. Arch. 1923 i. 176.

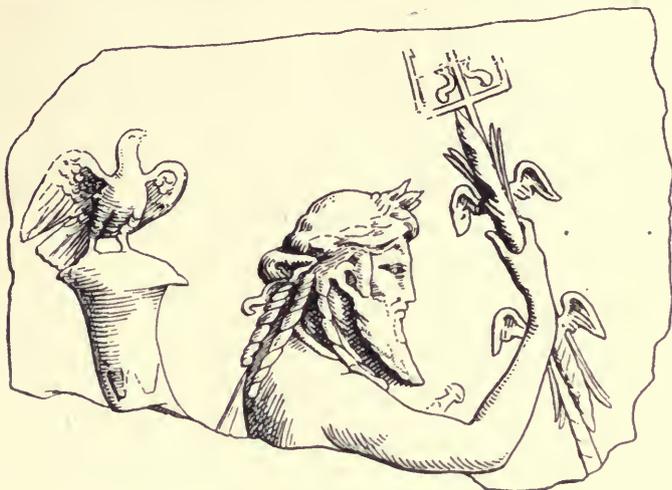

Fig. 1023.

ii. 799 n. 2. A fine bronze trident, which can be converted at will into a bident, was found in the Tomba del Tridente at Vetulonia and is figured by Milani Stud. e mat. di arch. e num. 1905 iii. 85 fig. 415 a, b.

ii. 800 n. 1. A photograph of this vase with the restorations removed is now published by H. Schaal Griechische Vasen aus frankfurter Sammlungen Frankfurt am Main 1923 pl. 30, a.

ii. 802. Mr E. J. Seltman kindly informs me (Aug. 24, 1923) that he has recently seen a terra cotta of the same questionable sort on sale at Naples. He describes it as being 'About 6 inches high, and 4 broad. Hollow. On the back, in the centre, a round boss with T. AΛ. On the front appear at the top, from left to right, the heads of Poseidon, Zeus, and Hades. Below [Zeus] is the thunderbolt, the trident below Poseidon, and below Hades his bidens. Underneath, an inscription of three short lines beginning DIS—.'

ii. 805 n. 6. For recent discussion of the three-bodied monster see A. Brückner in the Jahrb. d. Deutsch. Arch. Inst. 1923/24 xxxviii/ix Arch. Anz. pp. 113—115.

ii. 807 n. 5 no. (3). V. Chapot in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1902 xxvi. 168 no. 8 publishes the following inscription from a marble block, hollowed out to serve as a trough, in the village of el-qābiisije (Seleukeia Pieria): ὁ δῆμος καὶ ἡ προβουλὴ (perhaps a misreading of [ε]ρ[α] βουλῆ) Δ | Γ[ρ]άδιον Πομπήιον Ίήγωνα, τὸν διὰ β[ε]λον νεωκόρον τοῦ Νεικηφόρου Κεραυ[ρ]οῦ καὶ πατέρα τῆς πόλεως, κ.τ.λ. with date ἔτους 85^ο = 95 or 155 A.D.

ii. 818. G. Kazarow 'Nouvelles inscriptions relatives au Dieu Thrace Zbelsourdos' in the Rev. Arch. 1913 i. 340 ff. adds two from the village Goldno-Selo in the district Dupnitza: (1) Κυρίω | θεῷ προγονικῶ Ζβελ|σοῦρδω Φλ. Ἄ μάτοκος Φλ. Ἄ[μ]ατόκου υἱὸς | εὐξά[μ]ενος ἀνέθηκεν. (2) Τῶ κυρίω | Διὶ Ζβελ|σοῦρδω | ἀνέθηκεν | Τ. Φλα. Ἄμὰ το[κ]ος Τ. | Φ[λ]. Ἄματόκου υἱός].

C. F. Lehmann-Haupt 'Der thrakische Gott Zbelsurdos' in Klio 1921 xvii. 283—285 notes also V. Dobrusky Archäol. Bericht des bulgar. Nationalmuseums 1907 i. 152 no. 203 an inscription from the village Chatrono in the district Dupnitza Διὶ Ζβε[λ]|σοῦρδω | τῶ κυρίω Βελβαβριηνοὶ κωμήται | ἀνέθηκαν.

ii. 822 n. 13. C. F. Lehmann-Haupt loc. cit. proposes Cic. in Pis. 85 a te Iovis Zbelsurdi fanum etc.

ii. 823. *J. Whatmough 'The Iovilae-dedications from S. Maria di Capua' in the Class. Quart. 1922 xvi. 181—189 would connect them with the cult of Iuno Lucina as goddess of motherhood and procreation.

ii. 826 n. 3. With the gong at Dodona cp. those discussed by J. Jüthner 'Die Schelle im Thiasos' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1904 vii. 146—150.

ii. 837 n. 1. The Phrygian Zeus ἐξ ἀλῆς is hardly to be connected with Plat. Axioch. 371 A—B εἰ δὲ καὶ ἕτερον βούλει λόγον, ὃν ἐμοὶ ἤγγειλε Γωβρύης, ἀνὴρ μάγος· ἔφη κατὰ τὴν Ζῆρον διάβασιον τὸν πάππον αὐτοῦ καὶ ὁμώνυμον, πεμφθέντα εἰς Δῆλον, ... ἐκ τινῶν χαλκῶν δέλτων, ἃς ἐξ Ἑπερβορέων ἐκόμισαν Ὀπίς τε καὶ Ἐκαέργη, ἐκμεμαθηκέναι μετὰ τὴν τοῦ σώματος λύσιν τὴν ψυχὴν εἰς τὸν ἀθλον χωρεῖν τόπον, κατὰ τὴν ὑπέγειον οἰκησιν, ἐν ἣ βασιλεια Πλούτωνος οὐχ ἦν τῶ τῆς τοῦ Διὸς ἀλῆς, ἅτε τῆς μὲν γῆς ἐχοῦσης τὰ μέσα τοῦ κόσμου, τοῦ δὲ πλόου ὄντος σφαιροειδοῦς, οὗ τὸ μὲν ἕτερον ἡμισφαίριον θεοὶ ἔλαχον οἱ οὐράνιοι, τὸ δὲ ἕτερον οἱ ὑπέερεβεν, οἱ μὲν ἀδελφοὶ ὄντες, οἱ δὲ ἀδελφῶν παῖδες.

ii. 869 n. 2. For Mt Pelion and its cults see now F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 pp. 41—43.

ii. 873 n. 2. Cp. Zeus Karabós of Akarnania (K. A. Rhomaios in the Ἀρχ. Δελτ. 1918 iv. 117 ff. = Suppl. Epigr. Gr. i. no. 213 (near Astakos) ἱεραπόλοι Διὸς Καραοῦ | κ.τ.λ. of s. ii B.C.).

ii. 874 n. 2 (on p. 875). Φάλακρον in Epeiros is not to be distinguished from Φάλακρον in Korkyra.

Schrader *Realex.*² ii. 245 compares Zeus Φαλακρός with the ancient Roman Divus Pater Falacer (Varr. de ling. Lat. 5. 84, cp. 7. 45), on whom see G. Wissowa in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. vi. 1967 f. or in his *Rel. Kult. Röm.*² p. 240 n. 4.

ii. 892 n. 4 line 9. The word ἔθυσεν is well corrected by A. Meineke to ἔθυσεν, i.e. ran in the Nemean games (K. Tümpel in Pauly—Wissowa Real-Enc. ii. 622).

ii. 897 n. 5. Mr C. W. Blegen has kindly furnished me (Aug. 16, 1924) with the following note:—'Trial excavations conducted by the American School in 1923 and 1924 brought to light near the summit of Mt. Hymettus a large deposit of ancient pottery. It seems to have been deliberately placed in a great heap and carefully covered with earth and ashes, and is probably, therefore, formed of votive offerings discarded from a small shrine or altar. These vases, of many different shapes and sizes, date almost exclusively from the Geometric Period; and some of them bear incised inscriptions. The material is sadly fragmentary, only one inscription being sufficiently preserved to give an idea of its content. It is of a coarsely vituperative nature, recalling the archaic inscriptions of Thera, and unfortunately gives no clue to the character of the shrine. A slight scattering of sherds of classical pottery and a few fragments of Roman lamps were also found.'

The small mountain sanctuary which once occupied this lofty position accordingly appears to have flourished chiefly during the Geometric Age, though it continued to be visited in a small way till Roman times.

Since no trace of a building has yet been discovered, it is possible that the cult possessed merely an open altar.

Until further evidence is forthcoming there can be no certainty in identifying definitely this cult; but it is tempting to conjecture that we have here the site of the worship of Zeus Ombrios, which, according to Pausanias, was somewhere on Mt. Hymettus.⁷

See now Am. Journ. Arch. 1924 xxviii. 337 (citing Art and Archaeology 1924 xvii. 285 f. and Archaeological Institute of America: 42d Annual Report of the Managing Committee of the American School at Athens, 1922—1923 p. 16 f.) and Journ. Hell. Stud. 1924 xlv. 255 f.

ii. 903 n. 2. For Mt Oite see now F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 p. 192 ff.

ii. 904 n. 1. W. Vollgraff in the Ann. Brit. Sch. Ath. 1907—1908 xiv. 225: 'Two hours south-east of Almyró, near Paralia, are the insignificant ruins of a large building of the classical period, within a rectangular temenos. It seems to me that these can only be the remains of a temple belonging to the neighbouring city of Halos. Mr. [N. I.] Giannopoulos' view that this is the sanctuary of Zeus Laphystios may perhaps be correct, though no proof can at present be adduced. In the small trial excavation which I made here, a few fragments of black-glazed pottery were found, but nothing of the prehistoric age.'

ii. 904 n. 3. For Mt Ossa and its cults (no sign of Zeus) see F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 p. 40f.

ii. 904 n. 4. F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 p. 46f. describes Homolion and states that on its akrópolis (233^m above sea-level), beneath the unroofed chapel of St Elias, remains of a temple have come to light together with glazed sherds of the fifth and fourth centuries B.C. Close by was found the foot of a colossal statue (c. 5^m high) with a thunderbolt represented on its sandal. This is now preserved in the Museum at Voló, and may fairly be taken as implying the local cult of Zeus [Ἰουλιώσις?].

ii. 904 n. 6. H. Scheffel 'Eine antike Opferstätte auf dem Olymp' in the Ath. Mitth. 1922 (published 1924) xlvii. 129f. reports that in the summer of 1923 he climbed the highest peak of Mt Olympos and found there no trace of ancient cult, but that on one of the neighbouring summits (c. 2900^m high, i.e. c. 100^m below the true top) he recognised remains of an altar and, strewn among the stones of the peak, some hundreds of sherds, badly weathered and broken. Perhaps one half of their number showed traces of ancient black glaze, and the fragments collected must have come from several dozen vessels—small cups, jugs, bowls, etc., mostly of late classical times. Scheffel justly identifies this with the altar of Zeus mentioned by Solin. 8. 6 (supra i. 103 n. 1).

F. Stählin Das hellenische Thessalien Stuttgart 1924 pp. 5—11 gives a good description of the mountain with concise geological, topographical, and historical notes.

But by far the most important source for exact knowledge of Olympos is now M. Kurz Le Mont Olympe (Thessalie) Paris—Neuchâtel 1923. This well-written and brilliantly illustrated monograph contains a historical introduction (pp. 7—35), a full record of successive explorations (pp. 37—157), chapters on cartography (pp. 159—186) and toponomy (pp. 187—207), with sundry appendixes (pp. 209—232). Its illustrations include 3 photographic panoramas, 14 plates, and 2 coloured maps, one of which (scale 1 : 20,000) is a special survey made by the author (supra p. 906 n. o).

ii. 910 n. 1. B. Pace 'Il tempio di Giove Olimpico in Agrigento' in the Mon. d. Linc. 1922 xxviii. 173—252 with pls. 1—3 and figs. 1—31 gives a historical account of the temple and of the attempts hitherto made to recover its arrangements (pp. 175—198), a fresh discussion of its plan, elevation, roof, doors, Atlantes, and sculpture (pp. 199—236), and an Appendix on ancient buildings with façades involving an uneven number of columns (pp. 237—252). The main conclusions reached by the author are as follows. The temple had a central nave and two side aisles (κρητοὶ περιπατοὶ, cp. Athen. 206A). The cross-wall at the western end of the nave marked the beginning of an adyton, which could be entered also from the aisles. The building was hypaethral, the central nave being left open like an atrium, though the adyton and the side aisles were roofed over. Whether it had pediments is doubtful (R. Pierce on p. 208 ff. is clear that it had not, and on pl. 3 restores it without them). The metopes at either end were carved; those of the long sides were plain. The Atlantes and Caryatids were not placed in the external intercolumniations (supra p. 914 fig. 827), but engaged in the internal pilasters of the hypaethral nave (N. Maggiore 'Nota sulla collocazione dei così detti giganti nell' Olimpico agrigentino' in Due opuscoli archeologici Palermo 1834 p. 21). No ramps are assumed.

ii. 920 n. o. C. Picard in 1923 reconstructed from remains of sculpture in the Artemision at Delos two lionesses with heads raised in attendance on the goddess. He supposes that this group was set up near the Keraton or altar of horns (G. Glotz La civilisation égéenne Paris 1923 p. 476).

ii. 922 n. o. See now Rubensohn 'Das Delion von Paros' in the Jahrb. d. Deutsch. Arch. Inst. 1923/24 xxxviii/ix Arch. Anz. pp. 118—121.

ii. 929 n. o. W. Aly Der kretische Apollonkult Leipzig 1908 p. 47 n. 4 regards the hound of Praisos (Theophr. περὶ ἔρωτος frag. 113 Wimmer ap. Strab. 478, cp. Ant. Lib. 36 (supra i. 720 n. 4), schol. Od. 19. 518, schol. Pind. Ol. 1. 91 a) as a sort of Kerberos, guardian of the Dictaeon Zeus.

ii. 933 n. o. See now M. M. Gillies 'The Ball of Eros (Ap. Rhod. iii. 135 ff.)' in the Class. Rev. 1924 xxxviii. 50f.

ii. 957 n. 2 on Zeus at Sardeis. E. Littmann in Sardis vi. 1. 13 (cp. ib. pp. 42, 70) quotes from two Lydian inscriptions the four following phrases:

no. 4 (inv. 1), b 4f. fakmūt Hūdāns | Artēmuk vqbahēnt, 'then him may Hūdāns and Artemis destroy.'

no. 23 (inv. 7), 1 Hūdān. Artīmūū daquwe.st, 'is sacred to Hūdāns and Artemis' (?).

no. 23 (inv. 7), 3f. Hūdāns Tavśās | Artimuk Ibdimsis katsarlokid, 'Hūdāns Tavśās and Artemis of Ephesos will punish.'

no. 23 (inv. 7), 10 Hūdānk Artimuk katsarlokid, 'Hūdāns as well as Artemis will punish.'

W. H. Buckler ib. p. 13 very acutely suggests that Hūdāns Tavśās is Zeus Ἰδηνός. He observes: 'Hyde is the ancient, or one of the ancient names, of Sardis (TRAB. XI, 4. 6), and as in the third century B.C. one could speak of the Carian god Komyros without also calling him Zeus (LYKORH. Al. 459: καταίθων θύσθλα Κωμύρω, and TZETZES ad loc.), so one could probably have mentioned Hūdāns without the additional name Tavśās. The Old-Indian god Dyaus (Dyāuś) is the same as Zeus, and since ι in Lydian often takes the place of δ, Tavśās might represent D(y)avś-as, and this would be very similar to Dyaus. In the big stele (No. [23]) sacred to Hūdāns and Artemis, the god mentioned before Artemis must be an important one. We know that Zeus' temple shared the precinct of Artemis at Sardis, that Tmolos disputed with Crete the honor of Zeus' birthplace, that Zeus was very important in Lydia, being mentioned and depicted on coins of Sardis and many other towns, in short that next to Artemis he was by far the most important local deity.... The termination of Hūdāns does not seem to be found in any other Lydian adjective denoting origin, but we cannot be sure that it is not a possible form, and it certainly suggests the Greek termination Σαρδι-ανός, or -ηνός. Or perhaps Hūdāns is no adjective, but the original name of the Lydian Zeus.'

Id. ib. vi. 2. 11 and 44 retains Tavśās=Zeosis (Hesych. s.v. Μηδιεύς cited supra p. 312 n. 5), but now transliterates PNāns (not Hūdāns) and refers to O. A. Danielsson 'Zu den lydischen Inschriften' in the Skrifter utgifna af Kungl. Humanistiska Vetenskaps-Samfundet i Uppsala 1917 xx. 2. 24 f., who compares Tavśās with the man's name Tavśās*, gen. Tavśādos (Dittenberger Syll. inscr. Gr.³ no. 46 a 64 = F. Bechtel in Collitz—Bechtel Gr. Dial.-Inscr. iii. 2. 743 ff. no. 5727 a 64 from Halikarnassos), and equates PNāns with Ἀπόλλων (-λδ- = -λλ-, cp. Carian Ἰσσωλδος = Ἰσσωλλος in the last-mentioned inscription).

Mr Buckler informs me (May 19, 1924) that his identification of Tavśās with Zeus has been accepted by Professors A. H. Sayce and J. Fraser. Dr P. Giles, whom I consulted on the point (Dec. 27, 1924), sees no objection.

The Zeus-cults of Lydia in general are listed by J. Keil 'Die Kulte Lydiens' in Anatolian Studies presented to Sir William Mitchell Ramsay edd. W. H. Buckler—W. M. Calder Manchester 1923 pp. 259—261. The list includes no fewer than twenty-five appellatives, eight of which are epithets in -ηνός.

ii. 962 n. 0 on the Zeus-cults of Miletos. Add A. Rehm in Milet i. 7. 290 ff. no. 203 b 12 f. (cult-regulation of c. 130 B.C.) the priest τοῦ Δήμου τοῦ Ῥωμαίων καὶ τῆς Ῥώμης must have been τελεσθεὶς Δύ | Τελεσουργῶ, ib. i. 7. 299 ff. no. 204 a 13 f. (cult-regulation of s. i A.D.) the priest of Asklepios must have been τελεσθεὶς Δύ Τελεσ[ι]ουργῶ with remarks on p. 297 f., ib. i. 7. 347 nos. 275 ('in der zweischiffigen Halle') small altar of white marble decorated with a double axe, to left and right of which is inscribed in late Hellenistic lettering Δεῖδς Λαβραῦν|δελω|ς, 276 ('in der zweischiffigen Halle') small altar decorated with a double axe, beneath which in late Hellenistic letters is Δὸς Λαβραῦνδου, 277 ('in der zweischiffigen Halle') small altar of grey-blue marble decorated with a double axe, to left of which is Λέων | Ἰεροκλείους | Δύ | Λαβραῦνδω, 278 ('in der Füllung der Justiniansmauer') small altar of white-grey marble decorated with a double axe, round which is inscribed Δεῖδς | Κεραῦνλου.

ii. 970 n. 0. Other inscriptions relating to Agdistis are as follows: (1) P. Jouguet in the Bull. Corr. Hell. 1896 xx. 398 f. = Dittenberger Oriental. Gr. inscr. sel. no. 28 small slab of white marble, on sale at Gizeh in 1896 but possibly brought from the Fayum, in lettering of reign of Ptolemy ii Philadelphos ὑπὲρ βασιλείως Πτολεμαίου τοῦ Πτολεμαίου καὶ βασιλίσσης Ἀρσινόης Μόσχος ὁ ἱερεὺς | τὸν ναὸν καὶ τὸ τέμενος | Ἀγδίστει ἐπηκῶν | ἰδρύσατο.

(2) J. Keil—A. v. Premerstein 'Bericht über eine dritte Reise in Lydien' in the Denkschr. d. Akad. Wien 1914 i. Abh. p. 18 ff. no. 18 = O. Weinreich 'Stiftung und Kultsatzungen eines Privatheiligtums in Philadelpheia in Lydien' in the Sitzungsber. d. Heidelb. Akad. d. Wiss. Phil.-hist. Classe 1919 Abh. xvi. 1—68 = Dittenberger *Syll. inscr. Gr.*³ no. 985 a stèle of whitish marble, found at Philadelpheia in Lydia and containing in late Hellenistic script (s. i or ii (?) B.C.) the regulations of an oikos, or private sanctuary, of Agdistis established by one Dionysios in accordance with a dream vouchsafed to him by Zeus. The inscription enumerates the deities who have altars in the 'house' (vv. 1—11), gives a long list of ritual and moral prescriptions (vv. 12—50), mentions Agdistis as the guardian and mistress of the 'house' (vv. 50—60), and ends with a solemn prayer to Zeus Σωτήρ (vv. 60—64). The first and last portions are as follows: 1 ff. ἀγαθῆι τ[ύχηι]. | ἀνεγράφησαν ἐφ' ἕγχειαι κα[ὶ κοινῆι σωτηρίαι] | καὶ δόξῃ τῆι ἀρίστηι τὰ δοθέ[ντα παραγγέλλμα]τα Διονυσίω καθ' ἕπνον π[ρόσοδον διδόν] | τ' εἰς τὸν ἑαυτοῦ οἶκον ἀνδρά[σι καὶ γυναιξίν] | ἐλευθέρους καὶ οἰκέταις· Διὸς [γὰρ ἐν τούτῳι] | τοῦ Εὐμένους (supra p. 960 n. ο) καὶ 'Εστίας τ[ῆς παρέδρου αὐ] | τοῦ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων θεῶν Σωτ[ήρων καὶ Εὐδαί]-μοσίας καὶ Πλούτου καὶ Ἀρετῆς [καὶ Ἑγχείας] | καὶ Τύχης Ἀγαθῆς καὶ Ἀγαθοῦ [Δαίμονος καὶ Μνή]μης καὶ Χαρίτων καὶ Νίκης εἰσὼν ἰδ[ρυμένοι βωμοί]. | τοῦτ[ω] δέδωκεν ὁ Ζεὺς παραγγέλλ[μα]τα τοὺς τε ἀ[γνισμοὺς καὶ τοὺς καθαρμούς καὶ] | τὰς θυσίας ἐπι[τελεῖν κατὰ τε τὰ πάτρια καὶ ὡς νῦν [εἰδισταί]· κ.τ.λ. 50 ff. [τὰ παραγγέλλμα]τα ταῦτα ἐτέθησαν παρὰ Ἀγαθίστην [τὴν ἀγυωτάτην] | φύλακα καὶ οἰκοδόσπουαν τοῦδε τοῦ οἴκου, ἥτις ἀγαθὰς | διανοίας ποιείτω ἀνδράσι καὶ γυναιξίν [ἐλευθέρους καὶ] | δούλοις, ἵνα κατακολουθῶσι τοῖς ὡδε γεγραμμένοις, καὶ ἐν | ταῖς θυσίαις ταῖς τε ἐμμήνοις καὶ ταῖς κατὰ ἐνιαυτὸν ἀ[ππέσθωσαν, ὅσοι πιστεύουσιν ἐα[ντοῖς ἄνδρες τε καὶ] | [γυν]ναῖκες, τῆς γραφῆς ταύτης, ἐν [ἧι τὰ τοῦ θεοῦ παραγγέλλ[μα]τὰ εἰσὼν γεγραμμένα, ἵνα φαῖεροὶ γίνωνται οἱ κατα][καλοῦ]θού[ν]τες τοῖς παραγγέλλ[μασιν καὶ οἱ μὴ κατακοῦ]θού[ν]τες. [Ζεὺς] Σωτή[ρ], τὴν ἀφή[γησιν ταύτην ἰλέως καὶ] | [εὐμεν]ῶς προσδέχων καὶ προσ[space for c. 18 letters] | [πάρε]χε ἀγαθὰς ἀμοιβὰς, [ὑγίειαν, σωτηρίαν, εἰρήνην, ἀσφάλειαν] ἐπὶ γῆς καὶ ἐπὶ θα[λάσσης ἐμοὶ τε καὶ τοῖς] | [εἰσπορευο]μένοις ὁμοίω[ς].

(3) J. Keil 'Denkmäler des Meter-Kultes' in the Jahresh. d. oest. arch. Inst. 1915 xviii. 73 f. fig. 45 republishes (cp. A. Conze in the Arch. Zeit. 1880 xxxviii. 4 pl. 3, 3) a fragmentary votive relief of grey-blue marble, now in the Estense collection at Vicenza, which represents a goddess (Agdistis) standing, with a kálathos on her head, a phiale in her right hand, and a large tympanon in her left, between two lions. To her right stands a youthful god (Attis) in short chiton and chlamys. To her left (now missing) stood an elderly god (Zeus), whose hand held a sceptre. On the left margin of the relief is a small torch-bearing maiden. Below, in lettering of s. iii B.C., is inscribed Ἀναξίπολη [- -] [Ἀ]γδίστη[ι ἀνέθηκεν]. I am indebted to Mr B. F. C. Atkinson for a notice of this inscription.

ii. 1059 for burial in the house. See further H. J. Rose The Roman Questions (supra Plutarch Oxford 1924 p. 202 (note on quaestt. Rom. 79).

ii. 1065 n. ο. H. Bolkestein 'The Exposure of Children at Athens and the ἐγχυτρίστραι' in Classical Philology 1922 xvii. 222—239 (summarised in the Class. Quart. 1923 xvii. 206), arguing 'that the current idea as to the normality of expositio is totally unfounded,' interprets ἐγχυτρίσειν 'to throw into a pit (χύτρος = βόθρος), to sacrifice in a pit to the dead' and so 'to burn up, to destroy,' ἐγχυτρίστραι 'women who sacrificed to the dead.'

ii. 1089. G. Seure 'ΤΕΛΕΣΦΟΡΟΣ-ΤΙΛΕΣΠΟΡΟΣ' in the Rev. Ét. Gr. 1918 xxxi. 389—398, following up a suggestion of S. Reinach 'Télesphore' ib. 1901 xiv. 343—349 = id. Cultes, Mythes et Religions Paris 1906 ii. 255—261, contends that Telesphoros, though Greek in appearance, was Thracian in origin. He points out that a Thracian name *Τιλε-σφόρις, *Τιλε-σφόρος, of legitimate formation but of unknown significance, might well have been Hellenised into Τελεσφόρος.

ii. 1101 n. 3. F. Hiller von Gaertringen in the Sitzungsber. d. Akad. d. Wiss. Berlin 1921 p. 442 publishes an inscription from the western slope of the Akrópolis at Athens, where it was built into the wall of a later Lésche: ἑπερὸν | Διὸς Ζην[ε]ο Θουμα[ι]δος φρα[γ]τρίας. He infers that the phratry Thymaitis had a sanctuary of Zeus Ζένιος near the Lésche.

ii. 1102 n. ο. On the relief in the Terme Museum (fig. 939) see further P. Perdrizet 'D'une certaine espèce de reliefs archaïsants' in the Rev. Arch. 1903 ii. 211—218 with pl. 13.

ii. 1118. G. Welter 'Das Olympieion in Athen' in the Ath. Mitth. 1922 (published 1924) xlvii. 61—71 with pls. 7—10 marks an important advance in our knowledge of the Olympieion.

(1) Within the eastern portion of its foundations there has come to light the lowest course of a pre-Peisistratic peristasis, of which the N. wall was uncovered by F. C. Penrose, the W. by Welter. The wall was 2.50^m thick, and the peristasis measured 30.50^m broad by c. 60^m long. This was τὸ ἀρχαῖον ἱερόν built by Deukalion (Paus. 1. 18. 8).

(2) The temple of the Peisistratidai, begun c. 515 B.C., was a more ambitious structure, having the same proportions, size, and plan as its Hellenistic—Hadrianic successor. It was designed as an Ionic dipteral building with eight columns on the short side and twenty on the long side. Its length and breadth (107.70^m × 42.90^m) make it comparable with the great Ionic temples of eastern Greece—the Artemision at Ephesos ($109.20^m \times 55.10^m$) and the second Heraion at Samos ($108.73^m \times 52.41^m$). The foundations, continuous for the outermost columns, separate for the inner rows, are laid in neat polygonal courses of Akropolis-limestone and Kara-stone with a euthynteria of hard póros. The stylobate had three steps of póros. No column-bases have been found. But unfluted drums of póros show a lower diameter of 2.42^m and enable us to conclude that the height of the shafts was c. 16^m .

Welter suggests that the Peisistratidai, as a counterbast to the Delphic activities of the Alkmaionidai, not only rebuilt the Telesterion at Eleusis (520—515 B.C.), but also tried to establish a panHellenic Zeus-cult at Athens. He thinks that these two enterprises were not unconnected. Hippias dealt in oracles (Hdt. 5. 93, cp. 90), Hipparchos in dreams (Hdt. 5. 36); and Hipparchos was at one time under the influence of Onomakritos (Hdt. 7. 6). Such men might well honour Zeus as the supreme god of the Orphic cosmogony. But, with the fall of the mystically-minded Peisistratidai, the vast temple was left unfinished, and the democracy reverted to the worship of Athena.

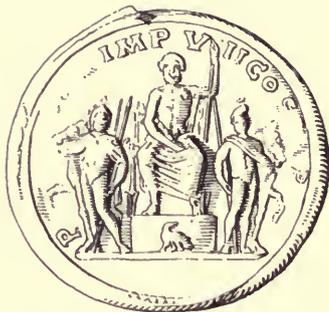

Fig. 1024.

ii. 1133 n. 1. With fig. 957 cp. the Roman mural relief of Mars and Apollo with an oracular bird on a pillar in a cage (G. P. Campana Antiche opere in plastica Roma 1842—1851 pl. 19, Brit. Mus. Cat. Terracottas p. 381 no. D 507, Von Rohden—Winnefeld Ant. Terrakotten iv. 1. 20 f. figs. 29—32).

ii. 1143 fig. 964. A specimen in the British Museum (fig. 1024 from a cast) shows the type somewhat more clearly.

CORRIGENDA

- ii. 19 line 2. For 'Kynados' read 'Kounados.'
- ii. 67 n. 3. For 'p. 377^t' read 'p. 57.'
- ii. 115 n. 2 line 4. For 'οπερ' read 'δπερ.'
- ii. 120 n. 1 last quotation. For 'Ομηρος' read "Ομηρος."
- ii. 133 n. ο. For 'Gaulminus' read 'Gualminus' bis.
- ii. 182 n. 1 line 5. For 'Nationalmus.' read 'Nationalmus.'
- ii. 209 n. 2 line 10. For 'Ολμων' read "Ολμων."
- ii. 241 n. 4 line 6 from bottom of page. For 'Pherekyde' read 'Pherekydes.'
- ii. 298 n. 2. For 'Modius' read 'Modius!.'
- ii. 423 n. 3 sub fin. For 'Riðbenhavn' read 'Kiðbenhavn.'
- ii. 436 n. 7. For '376 f.' read '22 ff.'
- ii. 547 n. '2' should be numbered n. '4,' and n. '3' should be numbered n. '5.'
- ii. 565 n. 2 line 5. For 'η' read 'η.'
- ii. 664 n. 1 line 10. For 'syrinx' read 'sφrinx.'
- ii. 714 n. 2 line 2. For 'Εκάτης' read 'Εκάτης.'
- ii. 729 n. ο line 15 from bottom of page. For 'ii 208 f.' read 'ii. 208 f.'
- ii. 774 n. 1 line 7. For 'Vishna' read 'Vishnu.'
- ii. 784 n. 7. For 'Kentoripai' read 'Kentouripai.'
- ii. 806 n. 8. For 'άστεροπητής' read 'άστεροπητής.'
- ii. 808 n. ο line 11. For 'δ' read 'δ.'
- ii. 829 line 23. For 'they delay' read 'thy delay.'
- ii. 868 n. 6 line 4. For 'pud' read 'apud.'
- ii. 874 n. 2 last line. For '874' read '873.'
- ii. 916 n. ο line 15. For 'Ολύμπιος' read 'Ολύμπιος.'
- ii. 960 n. ο line 13 from bottom of page. For 'Hadrianas' read 'Hadrian as.'
- ii. 968 n. ο line 2. For 'νεωκόρ[ος]' read 'νεωκόρ[ος].'
- ii. 975 n. ο line 7 from bottom of page. For 'Πεπειτλου β' read 'Πεπειτλου ιβ'.'
- ii. 977 n. ο line 14. For 'historica' read 'historical.'
- ii. 1088 line 14 from bottom of page. For 'inscr. Gr. i' read 'inscr. Gr. ii.'
- ii. 1093 n. 1 line 5. For 'recques' read 'grecques.'
- ii. 1128 n. ο line 1. For 'Αγαθόν' read 'Αγαθόν.'
- ii. 1140 n. 3 line 4. For 'Lyaea' read 'Lyaea).'
- ii. 1178 line 7. For 'Greek' read 'Great.'

Bronze medallion of Commodus, struck 185 A.D. (Gnechi Medagl.
Rom. ii. 59 f. no. 74 pl. 83, 2).
Supra p. 1209 n. 2.

INDEX I

PERSONS PLACES FESTIVALS

The contents of each item are arranged, as far as possible, under the following heads: Cults Epithets Festivals Oracles Rites Priests Personations Myths Metamorphoses Genealogy Functions Etymology Attributes Types Identifications Assimilations Associations Comparisons Relations Supersedure.

In the Genealogies f. = father, m. = mother, s. = son, d. = daughter, b. = brother, st. = sister, gf. = grandfather, gm. = grandmother, gs. = grandson, h. = husband, w. = wife.

The larger numerals refer to pages, the smaller numerals to foot-notes.

- Aalen
Cult: Iuno Sancta 99₀
- Aaron 386₅
- Abbaïtis, coins of 565
- Abban, St 214₀
- Abdera, coins of 271₃ 411
- Abédât in Phoinike
Cult: Zeus Οὐράνιος "Ἐψιστος Σααρραῖος
Ἐπήκοος 886₀₍₃₀₎ 983₄
- Abella 1220
- Abellio 1220
- Abello 1220
- Abirenes 64₀
- Abirkios, tombstone of 288 ff.
- Ablabiai
Cult: Erythrai in Ionia 1113₀₍₁₎
- Abouon Teichos
Cult: Glykon 1083 ff. 1114₀₍₇₎
 — coins of 1084
- Aborigines 404₀
- Abraham 887₀₍₃₁₎
- Abruzzo, Kyklops in folk-tale from the 1001
- Acca Larentia (Laurentia) 402₀ 1016
- Achaean League, revival of 1119₄ 1120₀
- Achaeneans
Cults: Apollon (?) 458 Athena (?) 458
Zeus 458
In relation to Acolians 1123₅
 — oath of 730₀ (i. 16)
- Acharnai
Cults: Apollon Ἀγυεύς 163 Herakles
 163₃
- Acheloius
Cults: Athens 183 f. 1092₂ 1117 1118
Megara 1117₇ 1138₅ Mykonos 1092₂
Sicily 667₃
Festival: 667₃
Rites: sacrifice of a full-grown victim and ten lambs 1092₂
- Acheloius (cont.)
Type: horned and bearded head 1117
 1117₇
Associated with Kallirrhoe (?) and Zeus
Μελίχιος (?) 1117 Nymphs 1118
Zeus 1138₅ Zeus Μελίχιος 1092₂
- Acheron 14 348 467 ff.
- Acherusian Lake 347 f.
- Achilles
Cult: Skythia 925₀
Epithet: 'Lord of the Island' (sc.
Leuke) 925₀
Myths: Apollon 459 Polyxene 117 psychostasia 733 shield 972₁ Tele- phos 1184₃ Tennes 669 f.
Genealogy: f. of Pyrrhos 915₂ 916₀ — double-pointed spear of 799
- Achna
Cult: Artemis 157₁
- Actaeon 144
- Adad
Cult: Babylon 769₁
Attributes: axe 546₀ double lightning- fork 769₀ lightning-fork 767₁ 769₀
 769₁ ox 769₁ 770₀
Types: seated with lightning-fork in his hand 767₁ standing with light- ning-fork in either hand 769₁ stand- ing on ox with double lightning-fork in his hand 769₀
Identified with Marduk 769₁ Theos
Hypsistos 886₀₍₃₀₎ Zeus 983₇
 — seal of 769₁
- Adalbert, St 214₀
- Adam 138₀
- Adamna
Cult: Samothrace 295
Etymology: 295₁
Identified with Attis 295 1218
- Adicunios Tauros 349

- Aditi 1035
 Aditya 1035
 Admetos 240 241₄ 493
 Adonaios (Adonai) 889₀₍₀₎
 Epithet: ὑψικέρανος 1212
 Identified with Iao 889₀₍₀₎ Theos Hyp-sistos 889₀₍₀₎ Sabaoth 1212 Zeus
 293₀
 Adonis
 Cults: Assyrioi (= Syrioi) 296₄ Bethlehem 984₁
 Myths: killed by boar 886₀₍₃₀₎ Myrrha
 680
 Genealogy: h. of Aphrodite 694₀ s. of Kinyras 694₀
 Function: crops 557₁
 Identified with Attis 294 f. 298 Kronos (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎
 Associated with Aphrodite (Venus) 984₁
 Compared with Attis 293 Tammuz and
 Zeus 345
 In relation to Aphrodite 293 552₁
 Adorea
 Etymology: 1173₁
 Adranos See Hadran
 Adrasteia
 Genealogy: m. of Aither, Chaos, and Erebos by Chronos or Herakles 1022
 Type: androgynous 1022
 Identified with Ananke 1022
 Adrasteia, a Cretan nymph
 Myths: makes golden ball for infant
 Zeus 933₀ puts infant Zeus to sleep in golden liknon 933₀
 Genealogy: d. of Melissos by Amaltheia 933₀
 Function: protectress of laws 933₀
 Adrasteiai (Adresteiai)
 Epithet: ἀμόμους 954₀
 Adrastos
 Genealogy: b. of Amphios 1072 s. of Merops 1072
 Adrastos (Adrestos), s. of Gordios (Gordies)
 311₈
 Adriana or Adriania See Hadrianea
 Adrianoi in Mysia
 Cult: Zeus 127
 Aëdon
 Myth: Polytechnos 693
 Aedui
 Rites: burial within the house 1059
 Aeneas 472 1071 See also Aineias
 Aenona
 Cult: Ianus Augustus 325
 Aeolians
 Cult: Zeus' Ὀμολόιος 901₀
 In relation to Achaeans 1123₅ Minyai
 1149₃ — in Thessaly and Central Greece regard king as Zeus 1088
 Aequi 404₄
 Aequitas 99₁
 Aer
 Genealogy: f. of Mot by Chaos 1038
 Aer (cont.)
 f. of Motos (?) by Aura 1036 1038
 m. of Oulomos by Aither 1037 f. s. of Pothos and Omichle 1036 1038
 Aescclapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1086
 Aescolapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1086
 Aesculapius
 Cults: Etruria 1085 f. Narona 1086
 Praeneste 1086 Rome 1080 1083
 1086 Sardinia 1086 Tiber-island
 1083 1086
 Epithets: Deus Bonus 724₀ secundus
 — 1088 tertius 1089
 Genealogy: b. of Mercurius secundus 1088
 Aesernia, coins of 831₁₍₂₎
 Aeternus
 Cult: Taurini 306₄
 Aëtios, king of Troizen 414₂
 Aetna, Mt See Aitne, Mt
 Aetna
 Genealogy: m. of Palicus by Volcanus
 909₀
 See also Aitne, nymph
 Aetos
 Myths: serves Zeus in Idaean Cave
 933₀ transformed by Hera into eagle
 933₀
 Genealogy: s. of Ge 933₀
 Africa, Roman
 Cult: Ba'al-hammân 554₃
 Agamedes
 Function: hypostasis of Zeus (?) 1075
 — bóthros of, at Lebadeia 1075 sleep of, at Delphoi 232₄
 Agamemnon
 Epithets: ἀγαθὸς προβατογνώμων 1209₇
 ἀναξ ἀνδρῶν 1070 εὐρυκρείων 1069 Myths: Briseis 726 dedicates ship of stone to Artemis Βολοσία 906₃ sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ f. Tegea in Crete 1147₆
 Genealogy: f. of Elektra 1132₆ f. of Orestes 1179 s. of Atreus 957₀
 Functions: aithér 1069 buried king
 1130₁ human Zeus 1179
 Etymology: 1069 f.
 Compared with Zeus 1069 f.
 In relation to Menelaos 447₅ — sceptre of 1132₄ 1132₆ soul of, becomes eagle 1132
 Agamemnon, the god (?) 1069
 Agasthenes 712
 Agatha, St, of Catania 347₀
 Agathe
 Cult: Epidauros 1126₀
 Associated with Agathos Theos 1126₀
 Agathe Tyche
 Cults: Athens 1125₁ 1129₀ Delos 1128₀
 Peiraieus 1104 f.
 Genealogy: w. of Zeus Φιλίος 1104 f.
 Attributes: cornu copiae 1128₀ oinochóe
 1128₀
 Types: Euphranor 1127₀ Praxiteles
 1127₀

Agathe Tyche (cont.)

Associated with Agathos Daimon 1125₁
1128₀ ep. 1228

See also Tyche 'Αγαθή

Agathodaemones 1127₀

Agathodaimoniastai 925₀ 1129₀

Agathodaimonistai 1129₀

Agathoi Daimones

Cult: Alexandria 1127₀

Type: snakes 1127₀

Agathos Angelos

Cult: Stratonikeia 880₀₍₀₎

See also Theios Angelos

Agathos Daimon

Cults: Alexandria 1127₀ 1128₀ Athens

1125₁ Delos 1128₀ Eumeneia in Phrygia 970₀ Kentoripa (?) 1129₀

Philadelphieia in Lydia 1229 Phoinike 1127₀ Rhodes the town 925₀

Teos 1066 Thespiiai 1125₁ 1161

Epithet: Νέος 98₀

Rite: cup of unmixed wine drunk

after dinner 1125 1129₀

Personated by Antinoos 1128₀ Nero 98₀

1128₀ Philippus I of Rome 970₀

Functions: chthonian 1129₀ fertility

1125₁ 1129₀ male ancestor 1125₁

wealth 1125₁

Attributes: corn-ears 98₀ cornu copiae

1117₇ (?) 1125₁ 1128₀ eagle 1125₁ phiale 1125₁ 1128₀ poppy-heads 98₀ sceptre 1125₁ skhent 98₀

Types: animal and human 1128₀ bearded 1125₁ beardless 1126₀ Euphranor

1126₀ 1127₀ Praxiteles 1127₀

snake 98₀ 1127₀ 1128₀

Identified with Dionysos 1129₀ Kneph

1127₀ 1128₀

Assimilated to Zeus 1125₁

Associated with Agathe Tyche 1125₁

1128₀ ep. 1228 Zeus 'Αραβύριος 925₀

Compared with Zeus 'Επιτέλειος Φίλιος

1163 Zeus Φίλιος 1161

In relation to Dionysos 1129₀

— toast of 1129₀

Agathos Deos (sic)

Cult: Athens 985₀

Agathos Theos

Cults: Athens 1129₀ Epidauros 1126₀

Megalopolis 1125₁

Function: a sort of Zeus 1126₀

Attributes: cornu copiae 1126₀ sceptre

1126₀ snake 1126₀

Associated with Agathe 1126₀

Agathyrsi tattooed 123₀

Agae 347₀ (?)

Agdestis (?) 970₀

Agdistios (?) 970₀

Agdistis

Cults: Egypt 1228 Ikonion 970₀ Pantikapaion 970₀ Pessimous 970₀ Phila-delpheia in Lydia 1229 Phrygia 970₀

Epithets: 'Επήκοος 1228 [τῆν ἀγρωτάτην]

φύλακα καὶ οἰκοδόσποιαν τοῦδε τοῦ

[ἱκον] 1228

Agdistis (cont.)

Myths: 969₁ 970₀ castrated by himself

969₁ castrated by the gods 969₁

Liber 969₁

Attributes: kálathos 1229 phiale 1229

tympanon 1229

Type: standing between two lions with kálathos on head, phiale in right hand and tympanon in left, flanked by Attis and Zeus 1229

Identified with Kybele 970₀ Mother of the gods 970₀ Rhea 970₀

Associated with Attis and Zeus 1229

Agdos, Mt

Myths: Agdistis 969₁ 970₀ Deukalion

970₀ 971₀ Zeus and the Magna

Mater 969₁

Agedincum

Cults: Mars 99₃ Vesta 99₃ Vulcanus

99₃

Agesandros (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎

Agesilaos (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎ 1168₅

Agesipolis 7

Agis 7

Agis, f. of Amphikles 421

Aglaopes (sc. Asklepios) 1085

Aglaophamos 1024

Aglapios (sc. Asklepios) 1035

Aglibolos

Cult: Emesa 814₃

Agnes, St 1050

Agnostoi Theoi

Cult: Olympia 1100₁

Agnostos Theos

Cult: Athens 942₀

Agon

Cult: Kaulonia (?) 1042

Agonium 19₀

Agra

Cults: Meter 554₂ Meter ἐν Ἄγρας

1142₃ (?) Zeus Μελίχιος 1142₃ (?)

Rites: Lesser Mysteries (c. Anthesterion 20) 1139

Agreus 715₄ 1037

Agrigentum

Cults: Athena 910₁ Zeus 'Αραβύριος

910₁ Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 911₀ ff. 1227

Zeus 'Ιολιεύς 910₁

— coins of 667 667₃ Olympion at 911₀ ff. Porta Aurea at 910₁ tombs for horses at 1146₀

Agrionia 164₀ 924₀

Agryeus See Apollon Epithets 'Αγριεύς

and Zeus Epithets 'Αγριεύς

Agryeus, the Hyperborean 169

Agryion 1146₀

Ahriman

Attributes: key 1054 sceptre 1053

thunderbolt 1053

Types: lion-headed 664₁ 1053 with wings on shoulders and haunches, snake coiled about him, key in right hand, sceptre in left, and thunderbolt on breast or at side

1053 f.

- Ahura Mazdāh
Myth: cosmic egg 1036
Function: creator 1036
Identified with Zeus Στράπιος 976₀
- Aia 904₁
 Aiakidai 894₃
 Aiakos
Myth: drought 894₃ 895₁
Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Aigina d. of Asopos 894₃
- Aias 1137₂
 Aietes 108
 Aigai in Aiolis
Cults: Apollon Χρηστήριος 954₀ Istia Βολλαία (? Βόλλαία) 259₀ Zeus Βόλλαιος 259₀
- Aigai in Makedonia
Cult: Zeus "Υψιστος 878₀₍₉₎ 906₂
- Aigaion, Mt
Cults: Aphrodite (?) 927₀ Ariadne (?) 927₀ Zeus 925₁ 926₀ 927₀
Myth: birth of Zeus 925₁
 — cave on, identified with Psychro Cave 925, cave on, wrongly identified with Dictaeon Cave 926₀
- Aigeirotomoi 497₅
 Aigesthios (?) 970₀
 Aigeus consults Themis 206 sword of 627₆
 Aigialos, katabásion at 14
 Aigina
Cults: Apollon 184 Poseidon 184₀ Zeus 'Ελλάνιος 894₃ Zeus Πανελλήνιος 894₃ 895₀ 895₁
- Aigina, d. of Asopos 187₃ 189₀ 894₃
 Aigion
Cults: Hera 210₀ Herakles 742₃ Zeus Ηαΐς 742 f. 749 826₃
- Aigipan
Myth: sinews of Zeus 449₀
In relation to Aigokeros 932₁ 933₀
- Aigle (Aigla), m. of Asklepios 488₀₍₁₀₎ 1086
 Aigokeros
Myths: foster-brother of Zeus on Mt Ide in Crete 932₁ 933₀ 938₀ helps Zeus against Titans 933₀ invents shell-trumpet 933₀ 938₀ transformed into constellation by Zeus 933₀
Genealogy: s. of Aix 933₀
Associated with Zeus 938₀
In relation to Aigipan 932₁ 933₀
 — derived from Mesopotamia 938₀ reaches Crete by same route as Zagreus 938₀
- Aigolios, a Cretan 929₀
 Aigyptos See Egypt
 Aigyptos, the river Nile
Epithet: Διπετής 481
- Aineias
Myth: sacra of Troy 1068
Etymology: 334₀
 See also Aeneas
- Ainians
Cult: Zeus 'Ορομπίτας 869₀
 — coins of 869₀
- Ainos in Thrace
Cults: Asklepios 1079 Hermes Περφεραϊός 496₀
 — coins of 1079
- Ainos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Αλνήσιος 907₂
Myth: Boreadai pursue Harpyiai 907₂
 — ascent of 907₂ 908₀
- Aiolos
Genealogy: 1088 b. of Boiotos 317 f. of Athamas 904₁ f. of Sisypchos 1150₄
 — kings descended from, pose as human Zeus 1088 1122 1159
- Aion
Epithets: ἄμβροτος 830₇ καμπύλος 831₀
Festival: Jan. 5 337₂
Genealogy: 981₁ s. of Ianus 337
Type: lion-headed (See Ahriman)
Identified with Ianus 337
- Aischlabios (sc. Asklepios) 1085
 Aisclapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1085 f.
 Aiscolapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1086
 Aisculapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1086
 Aisklapius (sc. Asklepios) 1085
 Aisklapios (sc. Asklepios) 1085
- Aison 211
 Aison, the vase-painter 206₁ (?)
- Aither
Epithets: νοερός (Lobeck cj. νοτερός) 1022
Genealogy: f. of Eros by Nyx 315₄ 1051 f. of Oulomos by Aer 1037 f. f. of Zeus 941₀ s. of Chronos 1024 s. of Chronos or Herakles by Ananke orAdrasteia 1022 s. of Erebus and Nyx 315₄
- Aithiopes tattooed 123₀
 Aithra, d. of Pittheus 800 (?)
- Aitnaia 908₁
 Aitne (formerly Inessa)
Cult: Zeus Αιτναϊός (?) 908₁
- Aitne (formerly Katane)
Cults: Silenos 908₁ 909₀ Zeus Αιτναϊός 908₁ 909₀
Festival: Aitnaia 908₁
 — coins of 908₁ 909₀
- Aitne, Mt
Cults: Hadran 630 Hephaistos 630 Zeus Αιτναϊός 908₁ 909₀ 910₀
Myths: Polyphemos 909₀ Silenos 909₀ Typhon 449₀
- Aitne, nymph
Genealogy: m. of Palikoi by Zeus 909₀
- Aix
Myth: transformed into constellation by Zeus 933₀
Genealogy: m. of Aigokeros 933₀
- Aix, s. of Python 217₂
- Aixone
Cults: Demeter 730₀ Poseidon 730₀ Zeus 730₀
- Aizanis (?) 964₃
 Aizanitis 964₃
 Aizanoi 964₃
Cults: Dioskouroi 313 Hadrian 1120₀

- Aizanoi (cont.)
 1121₀ Iupiter Aezanensis 968₀ Iupiter Aezaniticus 968₀ Theos Ἱψίστος 882₀₍₂₃₎ 968₀ Zeus 965₀ ff. Zeus (?) Ἱψίστος 882₀₍₂₃₎
Festival: Megala Panhellenia 1121₀
Priest: νεωκόρος 967₀
Rite: sacrifice of fox and hedgehog 964₃
Myths: Aizen, s. of Tantalos 964₃ Azan, s. of Arkas 964₃ Euphorbos 964₃ — coins of 313 964₃ f. 968₀ named Exouanoun 964₃ priestly kings at 964₃ f.
- Aizen, s. of Tantalos 964₃
 Akakallis 218₀
 Akakesion
Cult: Despoina 231₈
 — reliefs in precinct near 231₈
- Akamas (?) 280₁
 Akarnania
Cults: Artemis 412 Zeus 743₇ Zeus Καραός 1226
 — coins of 412 743₇ 'one-eyed' monsters of 993₂
- Ake See Ptolemais in Phoinike
 Akmon, founder of Akmoneia 312₅
 Akmoneia
Cults: Dioskouroi 313 Μάνης Δάος (or Δάης) Ἡλιοδρόμος Zeus 312₅ Theos Ἱψίστος 882₀₍₂₃₎ 968₁
Myths: founded by Akmon 312₅ Zeus nursed by Rhea under protection of Kouretes 968₁
 — coins of 313
- Akragas See Agrigentum
 Akrai in Sicily
Cults: Zeus [Ἄγρο]ραῖος (?) 873₀₍₁₁₎ Zeus [Ἄκ]ραῖος 873₀₍₁₁₎ Zeus Ἄκραῖος 915₁
- Akraiphia
Cults: Apollon Ἡρώϊος 238₀ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος (= Nero) 97₀ Zeus Ὀπωρεύς 1074
- Akrisias
Cult: Phrygia 1155 f.
Functions: doublet of Akrisios 1155 mountain (?) 1156 Phrygian Kronos 1155 f.
Etymology: 1156₆
Identified with Arkesios (?) or Arkesios (?) 1156
- Akrisios
Cult: Larissa in Thessaly 1155
Myths: Proitos 1146₀ slain by Perseus 1155
Functions: doublet of Akrisias 1155 king personating sky-god 1156 mountain (?) 1156
Etymology: 1156₆ 1156₆
Type: bearded king 1155
Identified with Arkesios (?) or Arkesios (?) 1156
- Ak Tash in Lydia
Cult: Hypsistos 881₀₍₂₀₎
 See also Temenothyrai
- Aktor, reputed f. of Kteatos and Eurytos 1015₈
- Alabanda
Cults: Apollon Ἐλευθέριος Σεβαστός (= Augustus) 97₀ Apollon Κισαῖος (less probably Κισσέος) 247₀ 248₀
 — coins of 247₀ 248₀
 See also Antiotheia in Chrysaoris
- Alaisa (Halaesa)
Cult: Zeus Ἐλευθέριος 1158₆
 — coins of 1158₆ Meilichieion at 1158
- Alaisiagae
Cult: Boreovicium 51₁
- Alalkomeneus 893₀
- Alani
Cult: sword of Mars 548₀
- Alba Longa, kings of, crowned with oak 417₅
- Alban Mt
Cults: Iupiter Latiaris 46₃ Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₁₆₎
- Albania, Kyklopes in folk-tale from 999 f.
- Albano 1146₀
 Albanon 694₀
- Alektrona See Elektryone
- Aleos
Genealogy: f. of Kepheus 1083 1148 f. of Minyas 1150₅ gf. of Antinoe 1083
In relation to Athena Ἄλεα 1147
- Alexander (sc. Alexandros of Abonon Teiehios)
Cult: Blatsche 1084
- Alexander the Great adopted by Zeus Ἄμμων 986₀ coins of 760 f. lily grows on statue of 773₀ receives Celts of the Adriatic 55 reverts to pre-Pheidiae type of Zeus 760 f.
- Alexandra, the goddess 1069
- Alexandreia
Cults: Agathoi Daimones 1127₀ Agathos Daimon 1127₀ 1128₀ Arsinoe ii 1216 Caesar Ἐπιβατήριος 1180₄ Helios 889₀₍₃₃₎ Heros 1127₀ Nemeseis 889₀₍₃₃₎ Nemesis 864₀ Nero 1128₀ Sarapis 1158 Theos Ἱψίστος καὶ πάντων Ἐπόπτης 889₀₍₃₃₎ 984₂ Zeus Μελιχίος 1158 Zeus Νέμειος 1187₀ Zeus Ὀδρανίος 1158
Rites: torch-lighting 1158 whenthen meal offered to snakes 1127₀
Myth: foundation 1127₀ 1183
 — coins of 102₀ 773₀ 986₀ 1128₀ 1133₁ 1136₄ 1187₀ Sebastion at 1180₄ personified 1128₀ (?)
- Alexandreia in Troas, coins of 485
- Alexandros
Myth: judgment of Paris 949₅
 Alexandros of Abonon Teiehios 225 1083 ff.
- Alexis, St 134
- Algidus, Mt
Cult: Diana 404
- Alinda, coins of 572
- Aliphera
Cults: Athena (?) 782 Myiagros 782

- Alkamenes 1078
 Alkmaionidai 1229
 Alkyone
Myth: claims that her h. Keyx is Zeus 1088
Genealogy: d. of Aiolos 1088 d. of Atlas 414₂ m. of Hyperes and Anthas by Poseidon 414₂
 Alkyoneus 463₁
 Allmendingen
Cults: Iupiter 619 1221 Matres 619
 Matronae 619 Mercurius 619
 Minerva 619 1221 Neptunus 619
 — Mithraeum at 1220
 Allobroges
Cults: Baginatiae 570 Baginus 570
 Iupiter Baginas 570
 Almedha, St 325₃
 Alopeke
Cults: Athena (Athenaia) 1115 Ge 1115 Zeus Μολχίος 1115
 Alopekos 421
 Althaimenes
Cult: Rhodes 923₀
Myths: Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes 923₀
 Rhodes 922₃ 923₀
 Altheos 414₂
 Altyntash in Phrygia
Cult: Zeus Βένιος 883₀₍₀₎
 — tombstones from 836
 Alysis, Mt (?)
Cult: Zeus "Αλσειος (?) 945₁ Zeus "Αλύσειος (?) 945₁
 Amadokos 452
 Amaltheia
Myth: nurses Zeus 928₀ 932₁
Genealogy: m. of the nymphs Adrasteia and Eide (Ide) by Melissos 933₀
Functions: goat 932₁ Naiad 932₁
Types: carrying infant Zeus 363₁ (?) goat 746₂ (?)
 Amaseia
Cult: Zeus Στράτιος 975₀ f.
 — coins of 975₀ f.
 Amasis, the vase-painter 794₀
 Amastris
Cults: Hera 707 Zeus Πανκλήσιος 1067
 Zeus Στρατηγός 707 848 918₀
 — coins of 707 918₀
 Amathous
Cults: Theos "Υψιστος 879₀₍₁₆₎ 980₃
 Zeus Λαβράνιος 598 f. Zeus "Ορομπάρας 869₀
 Amazons
Myth: Ephesos 405
Attributes: battle-axe (σάγαρις, securis) 560 double axe (λάβρυς, πέλεκυς, ἀμφιπέλεκκον (?), bipennis) 560
In relation to Hittites 560
 Ambrakia
Cult: Zeus 1222
 — bronze statuette of Zeus from 1222 coins of 162 f. 499
 Ameirake, former name of Penelope 691
 Amen
Cult: Thebes in Egypt 774₀
 See also Amen-Râ, Ammon, Amon, Amoun
 Amen-Râ
Attributes: plumes 926₀ solar disk 492₀₍₀₎
Type: ithyphallic 772₁
Identified with Zeus 926₀
 See also Amen, Ammon, Amon, Amoun
 Amenti 1212
 Ammon
Cult: Egypt 767₂
 — horn of 773₀ masks of 808₀₍₁₇₎
 See also Amen, Amen-Râ, Amon, Amoun
 Amnisos 942₀
 Amon 767₂
 See also Amen, Amen-Râ, Ammon, Amoun
 Amor 862₁₀
 Amorgos
Cult: Zeus Εύβουλεύς 258₃
 — head from 122₀
 Amoun
Cult: Egypt 293₀ 889₀₍₀₎
 See also Amen, Amen-Râ, Ammon, Amoun
 Amphiaraos
Cults: Hellenes 1070 Oropos 1070 ff.
Epithet: ἀναξ 1070
Myth: 1070 f.
Genealogy: descended from Aiolos 1088 f. of Amphilochos 489₀₍₄₎ s. of Oikles 1071
Function: chthonian 1070
Etymology: 1072
Attributes: snake 1071 snake coiled round staff 1071
Types: bearded 1071 beardless (?) 1071 enthroned 1071 laureate 1071
Assimilated to Asklepios 1072
Associated with Hygieia and Pan 1072
Compared with Aeneas 1071 Erechtheus 1071 Latinus 1071 Theodoros the Great 1071 Trophonios (Trophonios) 1075
 — chariot of 815₇
 Amphiareion near Oropos 1071 f.
 Amphictionic πύλαια 903₂
 Amphikles 421 673₃
 Amphilochos
Myths: fights Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎ 490₀₍₀₎ 1130₁ founds Mallos in Kilikia 489₀₍₄₎
Genealogy: s. of Alkmaion 489₀₍₄₎ s. of Amphiaraos 489₀₍₄₎
 Amphion
Cult: Antiocheia on the Orontes 428
Myths: Dirke 1013 1015 1019 Lykos 1019₂
Genealogy: b. of Zethos 317 s. of Zeus by Antiope 1013 s. of Zeus or Epopeus 445

- Amphion (cont.)
Functions: harp-player 1013 one of the Theban Dioskouroi 317 1014
Etymology: 445 673₃ 1072
Attribute: lyre 1013
- Amphios, s. of Merops 1072
 Amphios, s. of Selagos 1072
 Amphiss, clipped form of Amphiaraios 1072
 Amphissos 486
 Amphisthenes 421 673₃
 Amphithea 673
 Amphithea (?) 353₃
 Amphitrite
Type: with head-dress of crab's-claws 665₃
- Amphitryon
Function: human Zeus 1072
Etymology: 1072
- Ampsactus (Amsactus) 328₄
 Amulius 1016
 Amyklai
Cult: Apollon 458 894₀
- Amymone 800 (?)
 Anagnia
Rites: priests wear fleece as head-dress 377 procession of Salii 375 — marble relief from 375
- Anakeion 1063 f.
 Anaktes
Cult: Athens 1135₄
- Ananke
Genealogy: m. of Aither, Chaos, and Erebus by Chronos or Herakles 1022 st. of Dike 316₀
Function: cosmic 316₀
Type: androgynous 1022
Identified with Adrasteia 1022
 — spindle of 45 66₀ throne of 129₁ way (Milky Way) of 42 (?)
- Anaphe
Cults: Aphrodite 1066 Apollon Αἰγλήτης 816₄ Apollon Ἀσγέλατας 1066 (Zeus) Κτήσιος 1066
Myth: Apollon 816₄
- Anat 807₃₍₁₎ (?)
- Anatolian association of Mother-goddess with youthful páredros, at once her consort and her child 294
- Anaxagoras 11 1024
 Anaximandros 1024 1033
 Anaximenes 386
 Anazarbos
Cults: Phcrsephone 14₃ θεὸς Καταβάτης 14₃ Zeus Ὀλύβριος or Ὀλύβρις 980₁
- Anchesmos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἀγχέσμος 897₄
- Anchiale, m. of Idaean Daktyloi 929₀
 Anchialos in Thrace
Cults: Asklepios 1079 Zeus Ἐπίστος Ἐπόπτης (?) 878₀₍₁₀₎ 949₂
 — coins of 1079
- Anchises
Myth: sacra of Troy 1068
- Andraimon 486
- Andrew, St
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1202₀ (?)
 Andromeda, picture of 986₀
- Andros
Cult: Zeus Μειλίχιος 1156
- Anemoi
Cult: Orphists 141, 827
- Anemos in Phoenician cosmogony 1037 f.
- Angdistis See Agdistis
- Angela, St 135 f.
- Angelion 232₀
 Angeloi Theou 880₀₍₁₉₎
 Angelos See Agathos Angelos, Theios Angelos
- Angistis See Agdistis
- Ani (= Ianus)
Cult: Etruria 338₃
- Anien, the river-god 1016
- Anigemius
Cult: Noricum 338₃
- Anios 670 f.
- Ankya in Galatia
Cults: Zeus 971₁ Zeus Βροντῶν 835₅ Zeus Ταουανός 754₁
 — coins of 491₀₍₀₎
- Ankya in Phrygia
Cult: youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe 566
 — coins of 566
- Anna, St 1157
- Anogea 935₀
 Antaios 134₁
- Antandros
Cult: Zeus Ἀστραπαῖος 815
- Antauges
Identified with Phanes 1026 1051
- Anteros
Type: with Eros 1221
- Anthas, king of Troizen 414₂
- Anthesteria 1139
- Antho 1016
- Anthos of Arkadia 414₂ 1092
- Anthos, s. of Autonooos and Hippodameia 414₂
- Antigonia on the Orontes
Cult: Zeus 1188
- Antilibanos, Mt 981₁
- Antinoe, d. of Kepheus 1083
- Antinoos
Personates Agathos Daimon 1128₀
Types: with lotos-flower on head 773₀ with lotos-wreath 773₀
- Antiocheia in Chrysaoris (= Alabanda)
Cults: Apollon Ἰσότιμος 714₂ Zeus Χρυσασορεύς 714₂
- Antiocheia on the Maiandros
Cult: Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀
 — coins of 259₀ f.
- Antiocheia on the Orontes
Cults: Amphion and Zethos 428 Apollon (?) 1192₅ Athena 1197 Boule (?) 1193₂ Demos (?) 1192 Dionysos 428 1197 Iupiter Capitolinus 1188 Triptolemos 981₁ Tyche 1196₃ 1197 Zeus 1197 Zeus Bor-

- Antiocheia on the Orontes (cont.)
τιὰς 1187 f. Zeus Βώττιος 1188
 Zeus Καπερώλιος (=Iupiter Capitolinus) 1188₄ Zeus Κεραύνιος 428
 Zeus Φίλιος 1178 1186 1196 f.
Myths: founded by Alexander the Great 1187 founded by Kasos and Belos 981, founded by Seleukos i Nikator 1188
 — chalice from 1197 ff. coins of 1192 ff. 1196₀ 1209 1209₅ (?)
 'Golden' Basilica of 1198₁
- Antiochos i of Kommagene
Personates Tyche 1136₄
- Antiochos iv Epiphanes
Epithets: Θεός 'Επιφανής 1189 Θεός 'Επιφανής Νικηφόρος 1189
Personates Zeus 1188 f.
- Antion 1123
- Antiope
Myth: 1013 1015
Genealogy: d. of Nyktens 1013 m. of Zethos and Amphion by Zeus 1013 cp. 428₄ w. of Epopeus 1013
 — Dionysiac character of 1019₂
- Antoninus Pius
Personates Zeus 101, 343₀
 — house of, struck by lightning 10
- Anxia, helmet from 1159₁
- Arameia in Phrygia
Cults: Artemis 'Εφεσία 408₀ Dioskouroi 313
Myth: Zeus nursed by Rhea under protection of Kouretes 968₂
 — coins of 313 408₀ 610
- Arameia on the Orontes
Cult: Zeus 1192
 — coins of 1192
- Apatē
Epithets: ἄλλοπρόσαλλος ὀρεστίας... δαίμων 942₀
Myth: birth of the first Aphrodite 1029
Type: Fury 854
- Apelles 828
- Apellon See Apollon
- Apmosyne
Myth: Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes 923₀ 924₀
- Apesas, Mt
Cults: Zeus 'Απεσάντιος 892₄ Zeus 'Απέσας 892₄ Zeus 'Αφέσιος 892₄
Myths: Deukalion 892₄ Nemean Lion 892₄ Perseus 892₄
Etymology: 892₄
- Aphareus 437
- Apharidai 438₂
- Aphesas 892₄
- Aphrodisias in Karia
Cults: Aphrodite 573₇ Eros 572₁₀ Zeus Λαβράινδος 585₃ Zeus Μέγιστος 585₃ Zeus Σπάλαξος (less probably Σπάλωξος) 1220
Rite: tree threatened 681 f.
Myth: Myrrha (?) 681 f.
 — coins of 572 f. 681 1220
- Aphrodisiastai Syroi 1157₃
- Aphrodite
Cults: Mt Aigaion (?) 927₀ Anaphe 1066
 Aphrodisias in Karia 573₇ Argos 1156₃ Athens 985₀ 1043 Delos 922₀ Dorylaeion 281 Elis 68₁ Epidauros 1144₃ Gortyna 723₀ Halikarnassos 872₀₍₅₎ Hierapytna 723₀ Jerusalem 984₁ Kition in Kypros 807₅₍₄₎ Kypros 424 Libye 987₀ Lyttos 723₀ Megalopolis 1178 Megara 257₄ Nisyros 1157₃ Paphos 783₃ 944₀ Paros 875₁₍₅₎ Pergamon 424 Philadelpheia in Lydia 363 Priansos 723₀ Sardeis 424 Sikyon 1165₁ Skythia 292₄ Smyrna 729₀ Troizen 872₀₍₅₎ 944₀
Epithets: 'Αγνή 922₀ 'Ακραία 872₀₍₅₎ 'Ακρία 1156₅ 'Αρτιμήσασα 293₀ ἀφρογενής 1029 ἐγεροίγελος 1029 'Επιτροφία 257₄ 'Επιτυμβία 1165₁ Κατασκοπία 944₀ Μιλχία 1144₃ Ούρανία 68, 292, 854 985₀ Πάφια 424 Στρατονικίς 729₀ Σώζουσα 987₀ Ψίθυρος 1043
Rites: emergence from sea 132₂ taboo on garlic among priests of Aphrodite in Libye 987₀
Worshippers: 'Αφροδισιασταί Σύροι 1157₃
Myths: reared amid aphrōs arising from genitals of Ouranos 448₀ cp. 448₁ sprung from seed of Ouranos falling into sea 1029 sprung from seed of Zeus falling into sea 1029
Genealogy: d. of Aphros by Astynome 693₄ 694₀ d. of Ouranos 1029 d. of Zeus 1029 w. of Adonis 694₀
Functions: cosmic 316₀ summer 557₁
Attributes: apple 491₀₍₆₎ 1165₁ doves 710 myrtle 1165₁ poppy 1165₁ rose 1043 water-mint 1166₀ wreath 573₇
Types: with Eros standing on her arm 1043 with Eros stepping down from behind her shoulder 1044 face with flower in hair 710 with foot on tortoise 68₁ holding apple 491₀₍₆₎ holding poppy and apple 1165₁ Kanachos 1165₁ on ladder 124₂ (?) Pheidias 68₁ terminal goddess 854 under arch 363
Identified with Artimpasa (Artimeasa, Argimpasa, Arippasa) 293₀
Associated with Hermes 146₂ 872₀₍₅₎ 1043 Peitho 261 1044 (fig. 893) Tammuz (Adonis) 984₁
In relation to Adonis 293 552₁
- Aphrodite, as ship's name 987₀
- Aphroi (Africans) 693₄
- Aphros, forefather of Aphroi
Genealogy: f. of Aphrodite by Astynome 693₄ 694₀ s. of Kronos by Philyra 695₀
- Apia (Api), the Scythian Ge 293₀
- Apidanos, river in Thessaly 1025
- Apis
Cult: Egypt 942₀
Type: double bust (with Isis) 392

Apollo

Epithet: Delphicus 927,*Associated with Hercules and Diana*59₀*In relation to Castor and Pollux* 95 f.

Diana 99 f.

Apollon

Cults: Achaeans (?) 458 Acharnai 163 Aigai in Aiolis 95₄ Aigina 184 Akraiphia 238₀ Alabanda 97₀ 247₀ 248₀ 714₂ Amyklai 458 89₄ Anaphe 816₄ 1066 Antiocheia in Chrysaoris (= Alabanda) 714₂ Antiocheia on the Orontes (?) 1192₅ Ardettos 1135 Argos 163 173₄ Athens 163 163₄ 184 255 730₀ 875₁₍₂₎ 985₀ 1121 Aulai 249₂ Axos 816₄ Babylonia (?) 456 Badinlar, in Phrygia 567 f. Bassai 405₃ Bilkon 948₀ Branchidai 920₀ Byzantium 167 f. Corinth 210₀ 915₂ (?) 916₀ Crete 457 948₀ Daldeia 250 f. Daphne near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1188 Delos 223₃ 249₂ 452 ff. 854 Delphoi 457 839 1216 Didyma near Miletos 317 f. 317₂ Dorylaeion 281 Eleuthernai (Eleutherna) 456₇ 491₀₍₆₎ 492₀₍₁₀₎ Epidaurus 487₃₍₁₁₎ Erythrai in Ionia 730₀ Eumeneia in Phrygia 571 970₀ Gortyna 723₀ 731₀ Gryneia 489₀₍₄₎ Halikarnassos 163 Hiern in Lesbos 488₀₍₂₎ Hierapolis in Phrygia 567 Hierapytna 723₀ Mt Hymettos 897₅ Hyperboreoi 501 844 Illyria 458 Itanos 929₀ Kalymna 808₀₍₁₁₎ Karia 573₁₀ 574₁ 574₂ 574₃ Katane 486₅ Kaulonia 1042 f. Keratia in Attike 237₀ Klaros 489₀₍₄₎ Knidos 729₀ Koloe 568 f. Korkyra 730₀ Kroton 237₀ Kypros 246₁ Lakonike 322 322₀ Larisa on the Caystrian Plain 958₀ Lebadeia 899₂ Mt Lepetymnos 832 Leukas 782 Lopta 971₂ Lykia 453 458 f. Lykoreia 901₂ 902₀ Lyttos 723₀ 934₀ Magnesia ad Maeandrum 249₂ 948₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀ Magnesia in Thessaly 730₀ Macedonia 458 Cape Malea (Maleai) 488₀₍₁₀₎ Megalopolis 160₅ 163 Megara 165₃ 185 Messene 458 Miletos 237₀ 250 255 457 486₅ 1220 Mykonos 1092₂ Myrrhinous 730₀ Mytilene 488₀₍₂₎ Neapolis in Campania 486₅ Olbia 493₀₍₇₎ Olymos 586₂ Orchia (?) in Lakonike 439 Oropos (?) 1071 Panormos near Kyzikos 882₀₍₁₀₎ Patara 210 921₀ Peiraneus 487₃₍₁₎ Pergamon 729₀ Phlyeis 251 Praisos 731₀ Prasiai in Lakonike 487₃₍₁₎ Priansos 723₀ Mt Ptoion 455 Rhegion 680 Rhithymna 492₀₍₁₀₎ Samos 223₃ Selinous 489₀₍₁₀₎ Skias in Arkadia (?) 439 Skythia 292₄ Sparta 255 246₁ 487₃₍₁₎ Stelai in Crete 731₀ Sybrita 731₀ Tarentum

Apollon (cont.)

1064 Tarsos 570 Tegea 163 Thera 920₀ 921₀ Mt Thornax in Lakonike 893₂ Thrace 458 Thyateira 562 Tilphossa 439 Tralleis 958₀ Trikke 487₃₍₁₎ 1088 Troy 453 Tyana (?) 570

Epithets: ἀγριος 971₂ Ἀγριεύς 163 f. 456₇ Ἀγριεύς Ἀλεξικακος 163₄ Ἀγριεύς Προστατήριος Πατρῶος Πύθιος Κλάριος Πανιώνιος 163₄ Αἰγλήτης 816₄ Ἀκτιος 255 782 Ἀμάδοκος (?) 452 Ἀμυκλαίος 255 ἀναξ 252₁ Ἀρχηγέτης 237₀ 567 Ἀσγελάτας 1066 Ἀσκραίος 255 486₅ ἀστρων ἡγεμῶν 255₃ Αὐλαεῖτης (Αὐλαίτης, Αὐλάτης, Αὐλαήτης) 249₀ ἀφήτωρ 180 841 βακχεύς (?) 253₂ Βάχκος 253₃ Βιλκωνίος 948₀ βοδῶτης 252₀ Βοζηνός 568 ff. Βραγχιάτης 255 Γενέτωρ 223₃ Γοιτόσυρος 293₀ Γρύνειος 954₀ Δαφωναῖος 265₀ 1189₀ Δαφνηφόρος 265₀ Δαφνίτας 265₀ Δεραβιεύτης 173₄ 210₀ Δελφίνιος 189₀ 205₁ 230 237₀ 456₇ Δήλιος 255 Διόναυος 317 f. Διδυμεύς 317₂ 1220 Διδύμων γενάρχης 317₂ Διονυσόδότης (less probably Διονυσόδωτος) 251₂ Δονάκτας (?) 249₃ Δουαστάς (?) 249₃ Δουητής (?) 249₃ Δρομαῖος 456₇ Δρύμαιοι 486₅ Δρύμας 486₅ Ἐβδομαγενής 237₀ ἔβδομαγέτης 237₀ Ἐβδομείος 237₀ 238₀ Εἰκάδιος 456 Ἐκάεργος 1042 ἑκατηβελέτης 1042 ἑκατηβόλος 1042 Ἐκατόμβαιος 1092₂ Ἐκατος 1042 Ἐκβάσιος 1180₄ ἐκηβόλος 1042 Ἐλευθέριος 97₀ ἐπιδοδάτης 252₀ Ἐμβάσιος 1180₄ ἐνόλμιος, ἐνόλμης, ἐνόλμος 209₂ ἐν Πιάνδοις 729₀ Ἐπιβατήριος 1180₄ Ἐπικουρίος 405₃ Ἐπόπιος 1130₇ Ἐρεθίμιος 630 εὐλυρος 253₃ ζάθεος 204₁ ζηλοδοτήρ (?) 204₁ 252₀ ζηροδοτήρ 204₁ 252₀ ζηρόφρων 204₁ ζωφρόνος 204₁ Θορακίος 893₂ Οἰῶς 250 ἴλιος 246₁ Ἰσότιμος 714₂ Καρινός 167 f. Κάρνειος 456₇ 458 κισσοχαλῆτης 246₁ κισσεύς 253₂ Κισσίος (less probably Κισσεός) 247₀ 248₀ Κλάριος 489₀₍₄₎ 954₀ Κοροπαῖος 730₀ 871₃₍₁₎ Κόρινθος 458 Κουρίδιος 322₀ Κτιστής 98₀ κυναγέτης 237₀ Λαιμηνός (Λαρημηνός, Λαρθηνός, Λειμηνός, Λυρημηνός) 567 f. Λαδόκοκος (?) 452 Λαρισηνός 958₀ Λάφριος 599 Λητοῖδης (Λητοῖδας) 455 490₀₍₅₎ Λοξίλας 204₁ Λύκειος 255 453 458 λυκηγενής 455₀ Λυκηγενής (?) 453 Λύκιος 453 729₀ 902₀ Λυκωρεῖς 901₂ Μαλεάτας (Μαλεάτης) 487₃₍₁₎ 1088 Μαλεάτας Σωτήρ 487₃₍₁₎ Μαλόεις 488₀₍₂₎ μάντις (?) 253₂ Μοιραγέτης 237₀ 231 1137₀ (?) Μουσηγέτης 237₀ Μύλας or Μυλάντιος 260₀ Μύστης 250 f. Νόμιος 252 Νομήμιος 456 Νυμφηγέτης 237₀ ξυνοδοτήρ 252₀ ὁ ἐκ Ἀσπιδῶν 971₂ ὁ προπάτωρ θεῶς Ἥλιος Πύθιος... Τυρμιμαῖος 562 Ὀρχεῖς 439

Apollon (cont.)

Παιών 253₃ Παιών 223 Πατρώος 255
 730₀ 1135 πλουτοδοστήρ 252₀ Προηγέτής 237₀ Προόπιος 897₅ Προσατήριος
 163₄ Πτώσιος 238₀ Πυθαεΐος 458 893₂
 Πύθιος 183 184₆ 185 f. 223 223₃ 233
 240 255 457 731₀ 816₄ 929₀ 1216
 Πύσιος (= Πύθιος) 723₀ 934₀ Σκισστής
 439 Σμινθεΐος 250₂ Σμίνθιος 255
 Στυρακίτης 492₀₍₀₎ Σωτήρ 875₁₍₂₎
 Ταρσεΐος 569 f. 571 Τετράχειρ or Τετράχειρος 322₆ Τετράωτος 322 Τιλφοΐσιος 439 Τύριμος 562 Ἐπερβόρειος
 223 Ἐπέροχος (?) 452 φιλόδαφνος
 253₃ Φοΐβος 234 Φύξιος 902₀ Χρηστη-ριος 954₀ χρυσάορος 716 χρυσάωρ 716 ψυχοδοστήρ 252₀ ὤρεσιδώτης 252₀ Festivals: birthday (Bysios) 7) 236
 Boedromia 237₀ Daphnephoria 455₈
 Ebdomaia 237₀ first day of month 456 frequent in Asia Minor and islands, rare on Greek mainland
 455 Hyakinthia 246₁ 455₈ Karneia
 237₀ 455₈ Pyanopsia or Pyanepsia 237₀ seventh day of month 456 commemoration of Skephros 164₆ 455₈ Thargelia 237₀ 455₈ twentieth day of month 456
Rites: bay brought from Tempe to Delphoi 249₂ ἐβδομαίων at Athens on seventh day of some month 237₀ first-fruits sent to Apollon Πύθιος every eight years 240 Hyperborean offerings brought to Delos 249₂ 249₃ 497 ff. paeon 234 f. passes night in temple with prophetess 210 perpherees 495₀ προφορήσας
 487₃₍₁₎ sacrifice of asses 463 f. 843 sacrifice of a bull and ten lambs to Apollon Ἐκατόμβαιος 1092₂ sacrifices at Kroton on seventh day of month 237₀ sacrifices by thiasoi in Kypros 246₁ Spartan kings sacrifice on first and seventh days of every month 237₀ straps from hide of ox sacrificed to Apollon Τετράχειρ given as prizes 322₆ sword washed in water from the Kydnos 570 f. worshippers turn towards ground 256
Priests: λεπείς 562₂ λεπείς 322₆ νεωκόρος
 199₂
Priestess: the Pythia 203 ff. 238 322₇
 441 841 the Pythia as bride of Apollon 207 ff. thyiads 199₂ virgin
 210₀ Worshippers: ἀρχίχορος καὶ λεποκάρυξ τῶν λεπείων 488₀₍₂₎
Personated by boy 241₃ Nero 98₀ 254
 1128₀ Pythagoras 221 ff.
Myths: Anaphe 816₄ Anios 670 Ari-staios 1042 (?) arranges the limbs of Dionysos or Zagreus 1031 arrival at Delphoi 262 ff. boiled in a caldron and pieced together again

Apollon (cont.)

225 born at Araxa 455 born in Arkadia 252 buries Dionysos at Delphoi 218 ff. carries off Kyrene 460₂ chases Hermes 1042 (?)
consorts with Aigle (Koronis)
 488₀₍₀₎ Akakallis 218₀ Pythais 222
 Themis 1217
 contest with Marsyas 248₀ 249₀
 Cygnus 477, Daphne 265₀ 460₂ 486
 Daphnis 1042 (?) destroys mice in Rhodes 250₂ Dryope 485 f. 486₅ exiled by Zeus to land of Hyper-boreoi 484 493 Hyakinthos 491₀₍₀₎ 1042 (?) Hyperboreoi 459 ff. invents the art of playing flute and kithára
 249₂ Kleinis 463₁ Koronis 210₀
 Kyknos 477 Kyparissos 981₁ Makro-bioi 500₁ Marpessa 439₁₄ Molpadia
 671 nursed by Leto 252 Orestes
 453 1042 (?) Parthenos 671 Periphas
 1121 f. purified by Chrysothemis
 190₀ purified by Karmanor 190₀
 Pylades 453 restores Dionysos 251₂
 Rhoio 670 sends raven to get water 832₇ serves Admetos 240 a seven-months' child 237₀ sheds tears of amber 484 slain by Python and buried in Delphic tripod 221 ff. slays
 Hyakinthos with diskos 1156 slays
 Kyklopes or their sons 241₄ slays
 Python 217₂ 239₀ taught by Athena to flute 249₂ Telephos 671 Trojan
 War 459 winters in Lykia 455
Metamorphosed into snake 486 tortoise
 486
Genealogy: f. of Amphissos by Dryope
 486 f. of Anios by Rhoio 670 f. of Asklepios 1077 1083 f. of Asklepios by Aigle (Koronis) 488₀₍₀₎ f. of Dryops 486₅ f. of Idmon 471 f. of Kentauros by Stilbe 1134 f. f. of Lapithes by Stilbe 684₂ 1134 f. f. of Lykoros by Korykia 901₂ f. of Phylakides and Philandros by Akakallis 218₀ f. of Platon 237₀ f. of Pythagoras by Pythais 222 not ab initio the twin b. of Artemis 501
 s. of Dionysos by Demeter 252 s. of Leto (Lato) 237₀ 456 484 s. of Leto
 (Lato) by Zeus 453 s. of Silenos
 221 252
Functions: ancestral god of Attic nobility 730 destiny 231 fire 234 flocks and herds 457 heaven, earth, underworld 256 f. lighting 816₄ lustration 1042 (?) mills 260₀ oracles 457 prophétes of Zeus 203₀ 204₁ 841 song 244₄ sun 338₄ 457 495 1156 sun and moon (?) 318 tela (bow and arrows) 244₄ transition from sky-god (?) to sun-god 500
Etymology: 234₂ (α + πολλός) 484 500 (ἀπελλόν) 487 ff. 1219 f. ('apple'- god)

Apollon (cont.)

Attributes: agonistic urn 562 apple (?) 487 ff. 844 three apples 490₍₅₎ five apples 490₍₅₎ 491₍₀₎ arrow 1192₅ arrows 257 ball of resin (?) 492₍₀₎ bay 244₄ 264₂ 841 1219 bay-branch 186 203₀ 207₀ 562 bay-tree 486 844 bay-wreath 388 black-poplar 486 black-poplars 500 844 bow 202₁ 1192₅ bow-case and quiver 160₀ car drawn by four winged horses 453₃ car drawn by swans 459 f. Charites 249₂ crow 490₍₅₎ diskos 1156 double axe 562 571 eagle 246₁ 247₀ 248₀ flutes 246 golden mitra 459 griffin 160₀ 257 ivy-leaves 246 kálathos 493₍₇₎ kithára 882₍₀₎ lion 920₀ 921₀ lyre 160₀ 256 459 1219 Nike 246₁ oak-wreath 486₅ 486 oil-flask 493₍₇₎ omphalós 1189₃ omphalós twined with snake 882₍₀₎ palm-branch 246₁ palms 262₅ pan-pipes 246 pomegranate (?) 493₍₇₎ poplar-trees (?) 485 ram 247₀ 248₀ raven 160₀ 571 scroll (?) 246₁ stone (?) 491₍₆₎ sword 570 f. 716 trident 570 f. tripod 160₀ 193 ff. wreath 1219

Types: archaic 169₂ archaic 'Apollon'-torso from Dyrhachion 499₀ archaic statuette from Naxos 493₍₇₎ archer 459 with attributes of Zeus 246₁ Bryaxis (?) 921₀ in car drawn by swans 460₂ with Charites in left hand 249₂ with Charites in right hand 232₀ Dionysiac 244 246 ff. double bust (with Silenos) 388 erect with double axe and agonistic urn 562 erect with double axe and bay-branch 562 erect with double axe and raven 571 four-armed 322 322₀ four-handed 322₀ Gigantomachia 973₁ grasping deer 264₃ head in radiate circle 491₍₆₎ with himátion wrapped about his legs 203₀ Pheidias (?) 921₀ pillar 163 ff. 167 ff. pillar of light 1217 playing lyre 163₄ 165₀ 181 184 f. pyramid 168₁ radiate 562 riding on swan 460₂ seated on bay-trunk holding wreath or lyre 1219 seated on omphalós 207₀ 1189₃ 1192₅ seated on tripod 201 ff. 921₀ slaying Niobids 475₇ in solar chariot 562 square 160₅ 164₇ standing by omphalós 882₍₀₎ standing by tripod 196 205₀ standing on throne 894₀ standing with phiale in right hand and kithára in left 882₍₀₎ standing with three Charites on his right hand 232₀ youthful 234 Identified with Asklepios 241₄ Chrysaor (?) 457 Dionysos 252 ff. Helios 164₁ 562 568 Helios and Dionysos 253 f. Horos 252 255 Ianus 339₀ Lairbenos 566 ff. Lairmenos 566 ff.

Apollon (cont.)

Liber 244₄ Mithras 250 Oitiosyros (Goitiosyros, Gongosyros) 293₀ Sol and Liber Pater 256 f. Tyrimnos 561 f. Velehanos 948₀

Assimilated to Dionysos 244 246 ff. Zeus 246₁

Associated with Artemis 164₀ 181 f. 488₍₂₎ 586₂ Artemis and Leto (see Leto and Artemis) Asklepios 487₍₃₎ Asklepios Σωτήρ 487₍₃₎ Azosioi Theoi 487₍₃₎ Dionysos 164 233 ff. Herakles 241₁ Leto 567 Leto and Artemis 202₁ 203₀ 317₂ Maenads 461₀ Maleates 487₍₃₎ Satyroi 461₀ Zeus 317 317₂ Zeus and Athena 458 1094₀ Zeus, Athena, Herakles 875₍₂₎ Zeus and Themis 730₀

Compared with Dionysos 252 Zeus 201 ff.

In relation to Artemis 452 ff. Dionysos 267 Erinys 1102₇ Pythagoras 223₁ Zeus 267 730₀

Supersedes Dionysos 243 ff. 839 841 Rhea 921₀ Zeus 816 902₀

Superseded by Helios 730₀

— ἀποδημαί and ἐπιδημαί of 233 ff. 238₂ as migratory god 459 cave of, at Aulai near Magnesia ad Maecandrum 249₂ epiphanies of 455 f. epithets of, often derived from place-names 455 five Apollons 252 gold statue of 220 in the plural 252₃ 1219 provenance of 453 ff. 843 soul of 1042 tomb of 221 225 wrath of 1042 (?)

Apollonia in Aitolia 499

Apollonia in Akarnania 499

Apollonia in Illyria

Cults: Apollon (?) 499₀ Helios 485 Nymphs (?) (Heliades) 485

— coins of 161 ff. 485 499 Nymphaion at 485

Apollonia in Makedonia 500

Apollonia in Thrace 500

Apollonia, later name of Eleuthernai 492₍₀₎

Apollonia on Mt Athos 500

Apollonia (Tripolis) in Lydia

Cult: youthful hero (?) on horseback bearing double axe 563

— coins of 563

Apolloniatis, a Tegeate tribe 1148 1149₀

Apollonios of Tyana 569₄

Aprosopatheia 867

Apsinthos

Cult: Dionysos Πλεστωπος (?) 270

Apsyrtos 1097₂

Apteroei 190₀

Apulia, persistence of 'Minoan' motifs in 541 ff.

Apulum

Cults: Glykon 1084 Iupiter O(ptimus)

M(aximus) Tavianus 754₁

Aquarius 43₄ 430₀ (?) 430_(?) 664₁ (?)

- Aquila 477, 933, 938₀
 Aquileia in Venetia
Cults: Jupiter Ambisagrus 842 Jupiter
Dianus 328 842 Jupiter Optimus
Maximus Co(nservator) et Am-bisagrus 328
- Aquincum
Cult: Iuno Caelestis 68₂
- Aquitania
Cult: Fagus 402₁
- Aquites 471
- Ara 664₁
- Arabia
Cults: Azizos and Monimos 428 f.
 Zeus (?) 1224
 — coins of 1224
- Arachnaion, Mt
Cults: Hera 894₁ Zeus 894₁
- Arachova 505₆ 993₂
- Arai 1101
- Arantides 1101 1102₄
- Aratos, s. of Asklepios (not Kleinias) by Aristodama 1082
- Araxa 455
- Arbios, Mt 945₂
- Arbios, Mt
Cult: Zeus ^{Ἄρβιος} 945₂ 946₀
Etymology: 946₀
- Arbor intrat 303₂
- Arcadians, common hearth of, at Tegea
 1148 See also Arkadia
- Archelaos (= Hades) 1168₅ (?)
- Archemoros 245₅ 490₀₍₆₅₎
- Archonides, head of, consulted by Kleomenes 290₀
- Ardettos
Cults: Apollon Παρρῶς 1135 Demeter
 1135 Zeus Βασίλειός 1135
Rite: oath of dikastai 730₀
- Areimanios or Areimanes See Ahriman
- Areion 892₄
- Areios the Argonaut 1072
- Ares
Cults: Athens 729₀ Gortyna 723₀ Hierapytna 723₀ Karmania 464 Kyaneai
 101₁ Lyttos 723₀ Magnesia ad Sipy-lum 729₀ Olympia (?) 706₅ Pergamon
 729₀ 955₀ Priansos 723₀ Skythia
 292₄ 547₃ Smyrna 729₀ Sparta
 729₀
Epithets: Θούρος 876₀₍₈₎ κλειωναρχής
 438 Μέγας 101₁
Rites: human sacrifice 548₀ sacrifice of asses 464 yearly sacrifice of sheep and horses 548₀
Myth: Kaldene 973₁
Genealogy: f. of Minyas 1150₅ f. of Solymos by Kaldene d. of Pisias
 (Pisides?) 973₁
Attributes: chariot 436₁ sword 1225
Type: iron scimitar 548₀
Identified with Azizos 428 430 Zeus and Poseidon 1225 Ziu 50
In relation to Dionysos 565₂
 — horses of 436₁
- Ares, the planet
Myth: slays the giant Kaukasos 694₀
Identified with Thourous and Baal or Bel 694₀
- Arete
Cult: Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229
Identified with Athena 1029
- Argaios, Mt 977, ff.
Cults: Dioskouroi 980₀ emperor (?)
 978₀ 980₀ Sarapis (?) 978₀ Zeus 980₀
Etymology: 977₁
 — eagle on 978₀ 980₀ flanked by radiate pillars 980₀ held by Sarapis 978₀ hound chasing goat or stag on 978₀ image of, on altar 978₀ image of, as head-dress 978₀ image of,
 within temple 978₀ oath by 978₀ radiate figure on 978₀ 980₀ rock-cut habitations on 978₀ snake guards plant on 977₁ 980₀ surmounted by Egyptian symbol (lotos?) 978₀
 See also Kaisareia in Kappadokia
- Argarizon, Mt See Gerizim, Mt
- Arge See Hekaerge
- Argenidas, relief of 1062 ff.
- Arges 828 1023
- Argimpassa See Artimpassa
- Argo, the constellation 477₈
- Argonauts
Epithet: Μωβαί 1150₅
Myths: Eridanos 484 Heliades 484
 Idmon 471
- Argos
Cults: Aphrodite ^{Ἀρκία} 1156₅ Apollon
^{Ἄγυειός} 163 Apollon Δειραδιώτης
 173₄ Artemis 1144₂ Artemis ^{Ἀρκία}
 1156₅ Athena 892₅ 893₀ 1144₂
 Athena ^{Ἀρκία} 1156₅ Athena ^{Ὀξυδερ-}
^{κής} or ^{Ὀξυδερκός} 502₂ Epidotas 321₁
 Hera 290₀ 515 1144₂ Hera ^{Ἀρκία}
 1156₅ Leto (Lato) ^{Ἀσιᾶτις} 455 pillars set up by Danaos (?) 1144₂
 Zeus 1230 Zeus ^{Ἀφέσιος} 179 1144₂
 Zeus ^{Κεραύνιος} 808₀₍₁₄₎ Zeus
^{Λαρισσαῖος} 892₅ 893₀ 1144₂ Zeus
^{Λαρισσεύς} 1144₂ Zeus ^{Μελίχιος}
 1143 f. Zeus ^{Μηχανεύς} 1144₂ Zeus
^{Νέμειος} 1143₅ Zeus ^{Σωτήρ} 1144₂
 Zeus ^{Υτίος} 164₅ 164₆ 1144₂ Zeus
^{Ἵψιστος} 878₀₍₄₎ 1144₂ Zeus ^{Φαλακ-}
^{ρός} 874₂ 893₁ 1099₀ 1144₂ Zeus
^{Φύξιος} 1144₂ Zeus with three eyes
 892₅ 1144₂
Myths: Amphilochos 489₀₍₄₎ Areios
 1072 Danaos 1144₂ Pelasgos 1144₂
 Pelopidai 956₂ 957₀
 — coins of 1079 1143 omphalós at 173
- Argos, watcher of Io
Myths: Nemea 892₄ slain by Hermes
 379 f.
Function: sky 379
Attributes: club 380 lion-skin (?) 380 panther-skin 380 pétasos 380 386
Types: bifrontal 341₀ 379 f. Janiform

Argos, watcher of Io (cont.)
(bearded + beardless) 387 with numerous eyes 380

Compared with Zeus 379

Aradne

Cult.: Mt Aigaion (?) 927₀

Myth.: Daidalos 600 f.

Attributes.: ivy-wreath 390 (?) sceptre 788₀ (?)

Type.: double bust (with Dionysos) 390 (?) 391 392₁ (?)

Associated with Dionysos 245₀ 245₅ 261 390 (?) 391 661 (?)

Aricia

Cults.: Diana 420₁ Diana Nemorensis 147

Aries 16₁ 103₀ 664₁

Arignote 1024

Arima

Myth.: Typhon (Typhoeus) 826 909₀

Arimian Cave 449₀

Arippasa See Artimpasa

Aristaios

Cult.: Arkadia 1112₀

Myth.: Apollon 1042 (?)

In relation to Zeus 1112₀

Ariste Chthonia (= Hekate) 1114₀₍₄₎

Aristodama, m. of Aratos by Asklepios (not Kleinias) 1082

Aristodemos 436

Aristogeiton 1172

Aristomenes sacrifices 300 persons to Zeus
ἱθωμάτας 891₀

Aristonous of Aigina 740 1222

Aristophanes on Zeus 2

Aristophanes, the painter 902₂ (?)

Aristotle 805₆

Arkadia

Cults.: Aristaios 1112₀ Artemis 412
Kallisto 1114₀₍₆₎ Zeus Ἐρεχθεύς 793
Zeus Λύκαος 760 f. 849

Myths.: Arkas 228₅ birth of Apollon Νόμος 252

— coins of 757 760 849

Arkas 212 228₅ 964₃ 1148

Arkeisios

Genealogy.: s. of Zeus by Euryodeia
(Euryodia) 1152₄

Arkesilaos (?) 1156

Arkesine

Cults.: Dionysos κισσοκόμος 246₁ Muses 1157₀ Zeus Ἀναδότης 1157₀ Zeus Ἀποτρόπαιος 1157₀ Zeus Μελιχίος 1156 Zeus Σωτήρ 1156₁₃ Zeus Τέλειος 1156₁₃

Arkesine, a cave on Mt Ide in Crete

Myth.: Kouretes hide from Kronos 549₁ 939₀

Etymology.: 939₀

— to be identified with the Idaean Cave, not with the Kamares grotto 939₀

Arkesios (?) or Arkeisios (?) 1156

Armenios 54 114

Arnaia, former name of Penelope 691 f.

Arnakia, former name of Penelope 691 f.

Arne in Boiotia, apsidal temple of 900₀

Arne, a spring near Mantinea 692

Arnea (?) See Arnaia

Arnepolis (?) in Mesopotamia)

Cult.: Herakles 469₁

Arpi, coins of 1159₁

Arsalos 972₀

Arsinoe, d. of Leukippos 1089

Arsinoe ii

Cult.: Alexandria 1216

— personates Tyche 1216 wears horn of Zeus Ἀμμων 773₀ 1136₄

Arsippos 1089

Arslan Apa, in Phrygia

Cult.: Theos Ἐψίστος (= Zeus Βέννιος or Βεννείος) 883₀₍₁₀₎ 969₃

Artemiche, d. of Kleinis 463₁

Artemis

Cults.: Achna 157₁ Akarnania 412

Apameia in Phrygia 408₀ Argos

1144₂ 1156₅ Arkadia 412 Athens

115₂ 163₄ 410, Delos 452 ff. 501

1227 Delphoi 1216 Divlit near Koloë

975₀ Eleuthernai 492₀₍₁₀₎ Ephesos

405 ff. 962₂ 1082 Epidaurus 413₇

Geraistos 906₃ Gortyna 723₀ Hili-karnassos 164₈ Heleia 931₀ Hiera

in Lesbos 488₀₍₂₎ Hierapytna 723₀

Hittites (?) 410, Hyperborcoi (?) 501

Kadoi 408₀ Korkyra 457 Mt Koryphon (Koryphaion) 869₁ Kyrene

1177₃ Lousoi 646 Lykia 681₁ Lyttos

934₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀

Magnesia in Thessaly 730₀ Miletos

410₁ Mounychia 115 Myra (?) 681₁

Olymos 586₂ Pagai, port of Meggara (?) 488₀₍₃₎ Paionia 500 Panormos near Kyzikos 881₀₍₂₁₎ Pergamon

729₀ 955₀ Pogle (?) 363 Priansos

723₀ Rhegion 680 Sardeis 1227 f.

Smyrna 729₀ Sparta 421 f. 457 640₀

647 Stymphalos 692 Syracuse 1140

Thebes in Boiotia 412 Thrace 411

500 f. Troizen 413 ff. Troy 453

Epithets.: Ἀγροτέρα 1177₃ Ἄκρια 1156₅

Ἀναεΐτις (Ἀναεΐτις?) 975₀ Ἄργη (?)

452 Βασίλεια 495 500 f. Βολοσία

906₃ Βούσβατος (See Bousbatos)

Βρανρώνια 228₄ Δικτυνα 414₀ δρυ- μονή 412₄ Ἐκαέργη 452 Ἐκβατηρία

1180₄ Ἐλευθέρα 681₁ ἐν ὄρεισι δρυογό- νοισι κόβραν... ἀγροτέραν 412₅ Ἐύκλεια

118₃ Ἐφεσία 405 ff. 962₂ 1220 ἢ

κατέχεις ὄρειων δρυμῶσι 412₄ ιοχέαира

405₃ Ἰπποσόα 465 501 Ἴωλκία 730₀

871₃₍₁₁₎ Καλλίστη 228₄ Λαφρία 599

Λοχία 183 Λυαία 1140₃ Λυγοδέσμα

421₅ μεγάλη 963₀ Ὀρθία 421 f.

501 (?) 640₀ 647 Ὀρθωσία 422₁

Περγαία 363 (?) Πηνελόπη (?) 691 f.

Σαρωνία 413₇ 414₀ Σαρωνίς 413 417

Στυμφαλία 692 Σώτειρα 488₀₍₃₎ Ταν- ροπόλος 729₀ 955₀ 1214 (?) Φακελίτις

or Φακελίνη 680 Φωσφόρος 115

Artemis (cont.)

- Χιτώνη 409 410₁ Χιτώνια 410₁
 χρυσόοπος 716[°]Ωπιδ 452 Festivals: Marathon (Boedromion) 6)
 854 Saronia 413₇
Rites: βωμονίκαι 421₃ contest of rustic singers wearing stag-horns 1140 διαμαστίλωσις 421₃ wheaten straw used in sacrifice by women of Thrace and Paionia 500 f.
Priestess: Kallisto 228₁ pursues a man as Artemis pursued Leimon 164₀ virgin 210₀
Worshippers: ἀρχιχορος καὶ ἱεροκάρυξ τῶν ἱερῶν 488₀₍₂₎
Myths: Astrabakos and Alopekos 421
 Atalante 412 born at Araxa 455 born at Ortygia near Ephesos 962₂
 Bouthagos 894₀ Hippolytos 393
 Hyperboreoi (?) 501₅ Kallisto 228₅
 Kleinis 463₁ Orestes 421₃ 680 Saron
 413 f. wooed by Otos 130
Metamorphosed into doe (?) 413₃
Genealogy: d. of Demeter 1032 d. of Dionysos by Demeter 252 d. of Leto
 (Lato) 456 465 501 d. of Zeus 164₃
 342₀ d. of Zeus by Leto (Lato) 453 not ab initio the twin sister of Apollon 501
Functions: fertility 457 growth 421 f.
 moon 854 motherhood 410₀ nature
 457 vegetation 411 younger form of Anatolian mother-goddess 501 844
Etymology: 1220
Attributes: bee 407₀ birds (?) 457 bow 202₁ 453₃ bull 1214 (?) crab 407₀ crown 147₁ doves (?) 457 fawn 152₀ griffin 406₀ f. horned doe 854 lion
 406₀ f. lions (?) 457 two lionesses 1227 mountains (?) 457 necklace of acorns 405 407₀ 410₀ ox 407₀ phiale 882₀₍₀₎ quiver 453₃ ram (?) 488₀₍₃₎ rosette 407₀ Skylla 407₀ snakes (?)
 457 Sphinx 407₀ 409₀ (?) stag 406₀ ff.
 453₃ sword 716 torch 412 882₀₍₀₎
 1214 (?) torches 488₀₍₃₎ (?) Victories
 407₀ 409₀ wreath of flowers 405 407₀
Types: archaistic 152₀ Διοπερές 963₀
 Ἐφεσία not descended from πότνια θηρῶν 410₀ with fillets hanging from hands 409₀ f. with fillets tethering hands 408₀ f. filling phiale of Apol-lon 181 fire 115₂ holding torches 187₄ (?) many-breasted 406₀ ff.
multimamma 410₀ πολύμαστος 410₀ riding horned doe 854 shooting arrow 473 492₀₍₀₎ slaying Niobids 475₇ standing with phiale in right hand and torch in left 882₀₍₀₎ with temple on head 406₀ ff.
Identified with Bendis 501 Boubastis
 252 Bousbatos 501₃ Hekate 1029
 1032
Associated with Apollon 164₆ 181 f.
 488₀₍₂₎ 586₂ Apollon and Leto 317₂

Artemis (cont.)

- Asklepios 1082 Hippolytos 149 Zeus and Athena 1144₂
In relation to Apollon 452 ff. bear 680
 Hippolytos 414 417 Leto 501 Saron
 413 f.
Superseded by Zeus 1220
 — effigy of, carved on trees near Thebes 412 elm-tree of 405₃ image of, made from fruitful oak-tree 409 f. image of, set up beneath oak-tree 405 oak-tree of 405 ff. pro- venance of 453 ff. sacred grove of 975₀
 Artemision in Euboeia 854
 Artimeasa See Artimpasa Artimpasa (Artimeasa, Argimpasa, Arip-pasa), the Scythian Aphrodite Οὐραρία 293₀
 Artimuk (= Artemis)
Cult: Sardeis 1227 f.
Epithet: Ibšimsis (= Ἐφεσία?) 1227
 Arvi, 'Minoan' settlement at 945₂ 946₀
 Arvi, the cleft at 945₂
 Aschlapios (sc. Asklepios) 1085
 Ashur, the god
Attributes: flowers (?) 771₀ lightnings (?)
 770₂
 Asia personified 854
 Askalaphos
Genealogy: descended from Aiolos
 1088
 Askalpios (sc. Asklepios) 1085
 Asklapios (sc. Asklepios) 1085 1088
 Asklepicion at Trikke 1088
 Asklepios
Cults: Ainos 1079 Anchialos 1079
 Athens 1065 1078 Bizye 1079 Bon-onia 1085 Delos 1088 Epidaurios
 413₇ 1076 ff. 1085 1177 f. Epidaurios
 Limera 1082 Gortyna 1085 Gortys
 1090 Herakleia Salbake 1080 Kos
 1088 Kyllene 1078 Lakonike 1085
 Lebena 1082 Mantinea 1078 Megalopolis 1090 Miletos 1228 Mytilene
 259₀ 1079 Neapolis in Samaria 1080
 Orchomenos in Boiotia 1085 Panamarea 1066 Peiraieus 487₃₍₁₎ 1105
 1107₅ (?) 1107₀ (?) 1173 Pergamon
 954₀ 956₀ 1077 1079 f. Phlous 1090
 Rome 1088 1090 Serdike 1079 Sikyon 1080 f. 1082 1090 Sparta 1085
 Thalamai 1085 Thelpousa 1090
 Trikke 1079 1088 Troizen 1085
Epithets: ἀναξ 1088 βασιλεύς 1088 δεύτερος 1089 Ζεὺς Τέλειος 1076 f. 1089 ἠπιόδωρος 1086 ἠπιόδωτης 1086 ἠπιος 1086 ἠπιόφρων 1086 ἰητήρ θεῶν...
 κλειτός 954₀ ἰητήρ νόσων... λυγρῶν
 954₀ Καίσαρ (= Claudius) 1088 Παίῥων 954₀ Σωτήρ 487₃₍₁₎ 956₀ 1076 f.
 Τελεσφόρος (?) 1089 τρίτος 1089
Oracles: 1083 f.
Rites: incubation 1082 preliminary sacrifice to Apollon Μαλέατας 1088

Asklepios (cont.)

πυροφορέιν 413₇ 1076 sacrifice of three-year-old ox 287₂ 954₀

Priest: Alexandros of Abonou Teichos 1083 ff.

Personated by Claudius 1088

Myths: buried in Arkadia 1089 buried in Epidauros 1089 buried at Kynosoura in Lakonike 1088 f. Ophiuchus 1087 raises dead at Delphoi 241₄ raises Glaukos from dead 1087 raises Hippolytos from dead 394₂ 1087 rears his snake on Mt Pelion 1087 slain by Zeus at Delphoi 241₄ struck by thunderbolt 23 f.

Metamorphosed into snake 1082 ff.

Genealogy: descended from Aiolos 1088 f. of Aratos by Aristodama (w. of Kleinias) 1082 h. of Epione (Epio) 1086 s. of Aigle 1086 s. of Apollon 1077 1083 s. of Apollon by Aigla (Koronis) 488₀₍₁₀₎ s. of Arsippos by Arsinoe d. of Leukippos 1089 s. of Ischys by Koronis 1089 s. of Koronis 833₀

Function: healing 127 954₀

Etymology: 1085 ff.

Attributes: dog 1079 globe 1082 goose 1079 human-headed or lion-headed snake (Glykon or Khneimu) 1084 Nike 1080 pine-cone 1080 f. ram's-head 1080 raven (?) 1084 sceptre 1079 snake 1077 1079 1111 snake coiled round sceptre 1080 snake coiled round staff 1075 1082 wreath 1076 ff.

Types: Alkamenes 1078 bearded 1078 beardless 1080 1090 infant 1090 on couch, feeding snake 1077 Kalamis 1080 f. Phylomachos 1079 seated 1078 ff. seated with goose in right hand and sceptre in left 1079 seated with pine-cone in right hand and snake round sceptre in left 1080 standing 1078 1084 standing with serpent-staff in right hand and Nike in left 1082 Thrasymedes of Paros 1078 f. with sceptre and pine-cone 1081 Xenophilos and Straton 1079

Identified with Apollon 241₄ Ophiuchos 241₄ Zeus 1076 ff.

Assimilated to Zeus 1078 ff.

Associated with Apollon Μαλέφτας 487₃₍₁₁₎ Artemis 1082 Herakles 241₄ Hygieia and Telesphoros 1078 Telesphoros 1082

Compared with Herakles 241₄ Trophonios 1075

Contrasted with Zeus 1081 f.

In relation to Zeus Φίλιος 1178 — grave of 1088 f. underground ádyton of 1088 variant forms of the name 1085 f.

Askles 1086

Asopos, the river 898₀

Asopos, the river-god 898₀ 1151₃

Assklepios (sc. Asklepios) 1085

Assos

Cults: (Athena) Παρθένος 728₀ Octavianus 728₀ Zeus Ὅμωνῶος 857₀ Zeus Σωτήρ 728₀

Assyria

Cult: Baal or Bel 694₀

Assyrioi (= Syrioi)

Cult: Adonis 296₄

— tattooed 123₀

Astakos, s. of Poseidon 665₃

Astakos in Akarnania 666₀

Astakos in Bithynia, coins of 665₃

Astarte

Cult: Chytroi 157₁

Type: riding lion (?) 869₀

Asterioi 663

Asterion 663

Astrabakos 421

Astraios 230

Astrapai

Cult: Bathos 827

Astrape, personification of lightning 828 851

Astros 1145₁₍₅₎

Astyagia 1122

Astynome, m. of Aphrodite 693₄ 694₀

Astyoche, w. of Telephos 231₄ 1184₃

Ataburus 588₁

Atabyrion, Mt, in Rhodes

Cults: Athena (?) 923₀ Zeus Ἀραβύριος 922₆ 923₀ 924₀ 925₀

Myths: Althaimenes 923₀ Apemosyne 923₀ Katreus 923₀

Atabyrion, Mt, in Sicily See Agrigentum

Atabyris (Tabyris) See Atabyrion, Mt, in Rhodes

Atalante

Myth: dedicates oak to Artemis in Arkadia 412

Ate 1099₂ 1100₀

Atella, coins of 831₁₍₂₎

Athamas

Myths: founds Halos 904₁ golden ram 899₁ plots death of Phrixos 904₁

Genealogy: h. of Ino 904₁ s. of Aiolos and f. of Phrixos 904₁ — eldest descendant of, must never enter Prytaneion 904₁

Athanaïstai 925₀

Atheneatis, a Tegeate tribe 1148 cp. 1149₀

Athens

Cults: Achaeans (?) 458 Agrigentum 910₁ Aliphera (?) 782 Alopeke 1115 Antiocheia on the Orontes 1197 Argos 502₂ 892₅ 893₀ 1144₂ 1156₅ Assos 728₀ Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes (?) 923₀ Athens 259₀ 729₀ 730₀ 757 875₁₍₂₎ 922₀ 944₀ 1147 1169₄ 1230 Boiotia 731₀ Chersonesos Taurike 729₀ Delos 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Delphoi 231 Eilena 625

Athena (cont.)

Elateia in Phokis 1158₁₀ Elis 291₀
 Emesa 814₃ Epidaurous 502₂ Erythrai in Ionia 1157₀ Gonnoi 870₀
 Gortyna 723₀ 731₀ Heleia 931₀
 Hierapytna 723₀ Ilios 950₀ Itanos 929₀
 Kolonos 1152₅ Mt Kynthos 919₀
 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Larisa at Argos 892₅
 893₅ Larissa in Thessaly 1155
 Lindos 346₀ 923₀ 925₀ Lyttos 723₀
 Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀ Megalopolis
 164₇ Olympos in Lykia 972₁ Ouxenton
 (?) 386₁ Oxyrhynchite nome 625
 Paros 922₀ Pergamon 287₃ 729₀
 882₀₍₀₎ 954₀ 955₀ Phlyeis 1066
 Phokis 731₀ Praisos 731₀ Priansos
 723₀ Rhodes(?) 923₀ Selinous 489₀₍₀₎
 Skythia 925₀ Smyrna 729₀ Sparta
 261₀ 502₂ 729₀ 739₁ 1101₃ Stelai in Crete 731₀ Sybrita 731₀ Tegea
 593 f. 1147 Tralleis 958₀ Troizen
 416₃

Epithets: ἀγνή 728₀ Ἀκρία 1156₅ Ἀλέα
 593 f. 1147 Ἀμβουλλα 261₀ Ἀποτροπαία
 1157₀ Ἀρετα 723₀ 955₀ ἀρτυρώνη
 954₀ Βαλενίκη 833₇ Βελενίκη 833₇
 Βελονίκη 833₇ Βουλαία 259₀ caesia
 503₀ γλαυκῶπις 502₂ 954₀ γοργῶπις
 502₂ Ἐργάνη 164₇ ἡγεμῶν τῶν Κουρήτων 1029 Ἰλιάς 950₀ Κραναία 1158₁₀
 Κτησία 1065 Κυνθία 919₀ 920₀ 921₀
 922₀ Λινδία 925₀ Νικηφόρος 287₂ 955₀
 Ξενία 1101₃ ὀβριμοδερκής 502₂ Ὀμολωίς 901₀ Ὄξυδερκα 502₂ Ὄξυδερκής or Ὄξυδερκῶ 502₂ Ὀπλοσμία 290₀
 291₀ Ὀπτιλέτις or Ὀπτιλία 502₂
 Ὀφθαλμίτις 502₂ Παλλάς 1031 1130₁
 Παρθένος 728₀ 729₀ 757 πάτριος 728₀
 πολεμηδῶκος 954₀ Πολιάς 723₀ 870₀
 923₀ 929₀ 1147 Πολιούχος 731₀ 1152₅
 Προναία 231 Πιτλλία (See Ὀπτιλία) quarta 869₁ Σαλμωνία 723₀ Σθενιάς 416₃ Σῶπειρα 1169₄ τετάρτη (See quarta) Τιβρωνή 1066 Τριστογένεια
 954₀ Τριτώνη (?) 1066 Ὑπάτη 875₁₍₂₎
 Φρατρία 730₀ Χαλκίκοις 739₁ Ὠλερία
 723₀

Festival: Panathenaia 1121₀

Rites: πέπλος at Athens 1136 πέπλος at Tegea 1148 sacrifice of cow 902₂ sacrifice of two-year-old heifer 287₂
 954₀

Priests: boy at Tegea 1147 ζακῶρος 921₀
 ιερεὺς 921₀ κλειδοῦχος 921₀

Priestess: virgin 210₀

Personated by Demetrios Poliorketes(?)
 1136₄ Helene, consort of Simon
 Magus 726₀

Myths: Aleos 1147 birth from head of Zeus 709 721₂ 753₃ 785 1029 Epeios
 625 Kepheus s. of Aleos 1148 Medousa 1148 Orestes 1098₄ puts on chiton of Zeus 744₄ rescues the heart of Dionysos or Zagreus 1031
 Sterope, d. of Kepheus 1147₁₁

Athena (cont.)

teaches Apollon to flute 249₂ teaches Kouretes to dance 1029

Genealogy: d. of Brontaios 833₇ d. of Bronteos 833₇ d. of Zeus by Koryphe
 869₁ (cp. i. 155)

Functions: dancing 1029 second self of Zeus 502₂ spinning 66₀ 1029 virtue of the leading gods 1029 weaving 66₀ 1029 wisdom of the creator 1029

Attributes: aigis 903₀ chariot 721₂ couch 1147 double axe 625 f. 847 helmet 90₃ lance 794₀ owl 955₀ snakes 1111 spear 903₀ sword 713 716

Types: bearing Nike and double axe
 625 birth from head of Zeus 709
 753₃ 785 in crested Corinthian helmet 162₁ Διοπερὲς Παλλάδιον 963₀ with double axe 625 f. Gigantomachy 713 introduction of Herakles to Olympos 735 ff. Janiform (?)
 386₁ Myron 1078 spears Enkelados
 777₂ square 164₇

Identified with Arete 1029 Tefēnē 626₀
Associated with Hephaistos 1137 Zeus 259₀ 920₀ 923₀ 955₀ 1101₃ Zeus and Apollon 458 1094₀ Zeus and Artemis 1144₂ Zeus and Hera (= Capitoline triad) 319₇ Zeus and Herakles 1078
 Zeus, Herakles, Apollon 875₁₍₂₎
 Zeus Ἀραβῆριος and Dionysos 925₀
 Zeus Μελχίσιος and Ge 1115 Zeus
 Σαβάσιος 287₂ Zeus Σωτήρ 1169₄

In relation to Cretan mother-goddess
 625 Erikerpaïos (Erikapaïos) 1032
 Gorgon 502₂

Supersedes 'Minoan' goddess (?) 922₀

Superseded by St Maria de' Greci 910₁

Athens

Cults: Acheloios 1092₂ 1117 1118
 Agathe Tyche 1125₁ 1129₀ Agathos
 Daimon 1125₁ Agathos Deos (sic)
 985₀ Agathos Theos 1129₀ Agnostos
 Theos 942₀ Anaktes 1135₄ Aphrodite
 Οὐρανία 985₀ Aphrodite Ψιθυρος 1043
 Apollon 730₀ 985₀ 1121 Apollon
 Ἀγυειὺς 163 Apollon Ἀγυειὺς Ἀλεξικακος 163₄ Apollon Ἀγυειὺς Πρω-στατήριος Πατρῶος Πόβιος Κλάριος
 Πανώνιος 163₄ Apollon Πατρῶος
 255 730₀ Apollon Προστατήριος 163₄
 Apollon Σωτήρ 875₁₍₂₎ Ares 729₀
 Artemis 163₄ Artemis Φωσφόρος 115₂ Artemis Χιτώνη (?) 410₁ As-klepios 1065 1078 Athena 729₀ 730₀
 922₀ 944₀ 1230 Athena Ἀρεία 729₀
 Athena Βουλαία 259₀ Athena Παρ-θένος 757 Athena Πολιάς 1147
 Athena Σῶπειρα 1169₄ Athena Φρα-τρία 730₀ Athena Ὑπάτη 875₁₍₂₎
 Bendis 1032 f. Demeter 729₀ 730₀
 Dionysos 985₀ Dionysos Μελπόμενος
 245₀ Dioskouroi 1135₄ Erechtheus

Athens (cont.)

793 f. Eros Ψιδυρος 1043 Ge 729₀
 Hadrian 1120₀ 1121₀ Harpokrates
 985₀ Helios 729₀ 1114 Hera 1119₄
 Herakles 163₄ 875₁₍₂₎ 1116 f. Hermes
 1117 Hermes Καταιβάτης 14 Hermes
Χθόνιος 14 Hermes Ψιδυριστής 1043
 Heroës 1123 Hestia Βουλαία 259₀
 Horos 985₀ Isis Ταποσειριάς 985₀
 Kallirrhoe, d. of Acheloius 1117 (?)
 Kronos 554₂ Leto 163₄ St Marina
 1114 Meter ἐν Ἄγρας 1119₀ 1142₃ (?)
 Moirai 231₃ Mother of the gods
 985₀ Nymphs 1118 Παναγία εἰς τὴν
Πέτραν 1119₀ Philia 1163 St Photeine 1116 Poseidon 729₀ 730₀ Psithyros the hero 1044 (Sarapis) ἐν
Κανώπῳ 985₀ ἡ ὑπεραγία Θεοσόκος
 1119₄ Tyche Ἀγαθή 1163 Zeus 729₀
 730₀ 817 1229 Zeus Ἀγαμέμνων (?)
 1061 Zeus Ἀστραπαῖος 815 Zeus
Βασιλεύς 730₀ Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀
 Zeus Ἐλευθέριος 1135₁ Zeus Ἐλευ- θέριος (= Domitian) 97₀ Zeus Ἐλευ- θέριος (= Hadrian) 98₀ Zeus Ἐλευ- θέριος Ἀντονίνου Σωτήρ Ὀλύμπιος (?)
 (= Antoninus Pius) 101₁ Zeus
Ἐξακροστήρ 1093₁ Zeus Ἐπιτέλειος
Φίλιος 1163 Zeus Ἐπόψιος 1121
 1123 Zeus Ἐρεχθεύς 793 Zeus
Ἐρκεῖος 730₀ Zeus Ἰκέσιος 1093₁
 Zeus Καθάριος 1093₁ 1100₁ Zeus
Κάσιος 985₀ Zeus Καταιβάτης 20 f.
 Zeus Κήναιος (Κηνάιος) 903₀ Zeus
Κτήσιος 1065 Zeus Μειλιχίος 1091 f.
 1103 1114 ff. 1121 1123 1149 1151
 1161 Zeus Μοιραγέτης 231₃ Zeus
Μόριος 20 Zeus Νάιος 1117 (?) Zeus
Ξένιος 1229 Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 20 1078
 1118 1123 Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (= Hadrian)
 (?) 959₀ Zeus Πανελληνίος
 1119₄ 1120₀ Zeus Πατρῶος 111₀
 Zeus Πολιεύς 897₂ Zeus Στράτιος
 976₀ Zeus Σωτήρ 1121 1123 1147
 1169 Zeus Τέλειος 1123 1147 1163₂
 Zeus Τροπαῖος 111₀ Zeus Ἰπάτος
 163₄ 875₁₍₂₎ 897₂ Zeus Ἰψιστος
 876₁₍₁₎ 897₃ Zeus Φίλιος 1161 ff.
 Zeus Φράτριος 730₀

Festivals: Anthesteria (Anthesterion
 11—13) 1139 City Dionysia 244₂
 Diasia (Anthesterion 22 or 23)
 1137 ff. Lenaia 244₂ Megala Panhellenia 1121₀ Panathenaii 1121₀
 Panhellenia 1119₄ 1121₀ Pyanopsia or Pyanepsia 237₀ Thargelia 237₀

Rites: Bacchantes cover their breasts with iron bowls 346₀ burial within the house 1060 1065 ἐγχυρλοστριαί
 1065 ἐφυγον κακόν, εὔρον ἀμεινον
 1166₁ first-fruits taken to Delphoi
 816 f. need-fire brought from Delphoi 816 f. πιθογία (Anthesterion 11) 1139 procession to Delphoi headed by axe-bearers 628 817 847

Athens (cont.)

sacred tripod fetched from Delphoi
 816 f. sacrifice of pig to Zeus Φίλιος
 1161 sacrifice of white ox to Zeus
Κτήσιος 1065 1067 χόδες (Anthesterion
 12—13) 1139 χύτροι (Anthesterion
 13) 1139 wearing of white-poplar
 470 women slide down rock to obtain children 1114

Priestess: πυρφόρος 817₀

Myths: Akropolis struck with trident by Poseidon 793 Deukalion 1118
 1139 1229 Erichthonios 944₀
 Kekrops 875₁₍₂₎ Periphas 1121 ff.
 sea-water on Akropolis 581

— Asklepieion at 1078 coins of 232₀
 674₁ 675₁ 1078 Erechtheion at 24
 789₇ 792 965₀ 1148 Kyklops in folk-tale from 990 ff. old Hekatompedon at 757₁ Olympieion at 1118 ff. 1135
 1229 f. Parthenon at (See Parthenon) Prytaneion at 1094₀ 1095₀ Python at 201₁ 202₁ 1135 Stoa Basileios at 1094₀ 1095₀ 1135₄ Stoa Poikile at 1135₄ Stoa of Zeus Ἐλευθέριος at 1135₄ talisman of 1148

Athos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἀθῶος 906₁
 — altars on 906₁ Macrobian on 500 monasteries on 906₁

Athribis
Cult: Theos Ἰψιστος 889₀₍₃₃₎ 984₃

Athtar 430₄

Atlas
Cult: Heleia 931₀
Genealogy: f. of Alkyone 414₂
 See also Index II Atlantes

Atlas, Mt
Myths: garden of Hera 1021 Hesperides 1021

Atreus
Myth: sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ 1132₄
 1132₆ Genealogy: s. of Pelops and f. of Agamemnon 957₀
Etymology: 569₂

Atropos 1023

Attabokaoi 310₂

Attaleia in Pamphylia
Cult: Zeus Τροπαιούχος 111₀

Attalos
Etymology: 569₂

Attes 292₃ 296₄ 297₀
 See also Attis

Attes, s. of Kalaos 444

Attike
Cults: Zeus Ἀγαμέμνων (?) 1069 Zeus
Μειλιχίος 291₂
Myth: Theseus purified by Phytalidai at altar of Zeus Μειλιχίος 291₂

Attis
Cults: Hierapolis in Phrygia 306₁
 Ostia 297 ff. 303₂ Pessinous 970₀
 Phrygia 313 Rome 303₃ 306₅
Epithets: Aeternus (?) 306₄ αἰπῶλος

Attis (cont.)

296₁ 307₁ ἀκαρπος 296₄ βασιλεύς 303₂ βουκόλος 307₁ bubuleus 307₁ Chris- tianus (!) 307 formosus adolescens
 307₃ Invictus 303₂ Μηνοτύραννος
 303₂ Menotyranus (Menoturannus, Minoturannus) 303₂ νέκυσ 296₄ Πάπας or Παπᾶς 292 ff. pastor 307₁ Pileatus 307 ποιμὴν 307₁ ποιμὴν λευκῶν ἄστρον 296₄ 297₀ Sanctus 303₂ συρικτάς 296₄ Ἰγῆς 292₃ χλοερὸς
στάχυς ἀμυθελίς 296₄

Festivals: arbor intrat 303₂ Hilaria
 306₁

Rites: those polluted with wine may not enter his sanctuary 969₄ criobolium 306 effigy affixed to pine-tree 303 effigy worn by votaries 299 ff. formula of exhortation 306 illumination 306 lamentation over prostrate body 303 taurobolium 306 unction 306₁

Myths: betrothed to Ia 970₀ conceived by Nana after putting fruit in her bosom 969₄ loved by Agdistis 969₄ loved by Mother of the gods 969₄
 Lydian version (Attis killed by boar) 969₄ mutilates himself under pine-tree 970₀ nurtured on goat's milk 969₄ Phrygian version (Attis mutilated under pine-tree) 969₄ 970₀ tended by he-goat 969₄

Genealogy: s. of almond-tree 295 s. of Kronos 294 s. of Nana, d. of Sangarios 969₄ s. of Rhea 294 296
 s. of Zeus 294

Functions: divine king 303₂ emblem of resurrection 309 rain 292 rebirth of Πάπας (Παπᾶς) 294 ripe corn 295₂ shepherd of his devotees 306 f. spring flowers 295₂ tree-spirit (?)
 303₂ young corn 295₂

Etymology: 293 969₄

Attributes: almonds 298 corn-ears
 297 ff. flowers 297 f. fruit 297 lagobólon 300 moon 298 Phrygian cap 298 pileum 307₃ pine-cones 298 pine-tree 951₀ pomegranates 298 poppy-heads 298 starry pilos 386

Types: duplicated 300 f. 308 ff. effeminate youth reclining on rock 297 f.
 goatherd 295 green ear of corn 295 half-length figure 301 piper 295 radiate 298 recumbent 300 shepherd 296

Identified with Adamna 295 1218
Adonis 294 f. 298 Dionysos 294
 296 298 Korybas 295 Men 295 298
 Osiris 294 f. Pan 296 Zeus 292

Assimilated to Cautes and Cautopates
 309

Associated with Agdistis and Zeus 1229
 Kybele 301₁ Mater deum 306₅

Compared with Adonis 293

In relation to Christianity 303 ff.

Attis (cont.)

Dioskouroi 307 ff. Kybele 293 842
 Papas 317

— formula of devotion to 278₂

Attis, priest of the Mother of the gods
 310 f.

Attoua

Cult: Zeus 743₇

— coins of 743₇

Atys, s. of Kroisos 311

Atys, s. of Manes 311 f. with Kotys as Dioskouroi (?) 312

Augeias

*Etymology: 384*₀

Augustine, St 140

Augustus

Cults: Assos 728₀ Dorylaeion 281 Pa-phlagonia 729₀ Pergamon 1179 1182
 Termessos (Termessus Maior) 973₁

Priest: ἀρχιερεύς 973₁

Personates Iupiter 1091 Zeus 97₀ 260₀

— birthday of 419₁ house of 147 statue of, struck by lightning 10 tree at Nemi planted by 418 419₂
 419₃

Aulai

Cult: Apollon 249₂

Aule

Cult: Pan 249₂

Aulikomis 1141

Aura

Genealogy: d. of Pothos and Omichle
 1036 1038 m. of Motos (?) by Aer
 1036 1038

Aurelii 321

Auriga 477 477₈

Autessiodurum, sacred pear-tree at 1215 f.

Autochthon Ὀυρανός See Epigeios Ὀυρανός

Autonoe 347₀ (?)

Autonoos, a Delphic hero 452

Autonoos, f. of Anthos 414₂

Auxesia

Cults: Bryseai 890₂ Epidauros 487₃₍₁₎
 Sparta 890₂

Axenos See Euxeinos

Axieros

Cult: Thrace 314 f.

Function: rebirth of Axiokersos 314 f.

Etymology: 315 664

Identified with Demeter (?) 314₂

Axiokersa

Cult: Thrace 314 f.

Function: earth 315

Etymology: 314 664

Identified with Persephone (?) 314₂

Axiokersos

Cult: Thrace 314 f.

Function: sky 315

Etymology: 314 f. 664

Identified with Hades (?) 314₂

Axios, f. of Pelegon 588₀

Axos

Cults: Apollon 816₁ Zeus 816₄

— coins of 816₄

Azan, s. of Arkas 964₃

- Azizos
Cults: Arabia 428 f. Baitokaike 431
 Edessa 428
Etymology: 428
Type: male figure on column 429 f.
Identified with Ares 428 430
- Azasioi Theoi
Cult: Epidauros 487₃(1)
- Ba'al (Baal, Bel)
Cults: Assyria 694₀ Berytos 886₀(30)
Function: solar 886₀(30)
Identified with Kronos 558₀ Thouros and the planet Ares 694₀ Zeus
 "Ορειος 869₀
Superseded by Zeus 1192(?)
 — axe dedicated to 510₅ distinguished from Belos 694₀
- Ba'al-hammān
Cults: Kypros 1208₂ Roman Africa
 554₃
Type: enthroned between two rams
 1208₂
Identified with Kronos 554₃ Saturnus
 554₃
- Ba'al Milik (Melek, Molok)
Cults: Peiraiens (?) 1108 Phoinike 1108
Identified with Milichus (?) 1110₀ Zeus
 Μειλίχιος (Μιλίχιος) (?) 1108
- Ba'al Qarnain 554₃
- Ba'al-Samin
Identified with Zeus "Τψιστος 886₀(10) 889
- Ba'al-tars
Cult: Tarsos 761 f.
Type: seated with eagle in right hand and sceptre in left 762
- Babylon
Cults: Adad 769₁ god with dagger and double axe 714₁ Marduk 128₂ 769₁
 Zeus Βήλος 128₄ 675
Rites: sacrifice of asses 463₁ sacrifice of goats, sheep, and oxen 463₁
Myth: Kleinis 463₁
 — Hittite relief from 766₁ pillars of Herakles beyond 422
- Babylonia
Cults: Apollon (?) 456 fire 34₁
- Bacchus
Identified with Jehovah 1197
 — on the column of Mayence 96
- Badinlar, in Phrygia
Cults: Apollon Λαιρμηνός (Λαρμηνός, Λαρβηνός, Λειμηνός, Λυρμηνός) 567 f.
 Helios Apollon Λερμηνός (Λερμηνός)
 568 Lairmenos 567 Μητηρ Leto 567
 568₀
- Baganda 450₁
- Baginatiae
Cult: Allobroges 570₀
- Baginus
Cult: Allobroges 570₀
- Bagis 570
- Baitokaike
Cult: Azizos and Monimos 431
- Bakchappollon (?) 253₃
- Bakchoi See Zeus Worshippers
- Bakchos
Etymology: 268₄
Identified with Zeus 287 1184
- Balder See Baldr
- Baldr
Myth: stabbed by Hqdhhr with lance of mistletoe 305₀
Genealogy: h. of Nanna 305₀ s. of Odhin 305₀
Identified with Apollo (?) 110₅ 844
 Phol (?) 110₅ 844
- Ballenaion, Mt 270₅ 271₀
- Ballenaion, a Phrygian festival 270₅
- Ballenaïos, s. of Ganymedes 270₅
- Barbillea 962₂
- Bargasa 958₀
- Bargylia 721₂
- Baris
Cult: double Herakles 446 f.
 — coins of 446 f.
- Barnabas, St 1096₄
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1202₀ (?)
- Baronga 434
- Basil the Great, St 116 891₀
- Basileia See Queen of the Underworld
- Basileia, festival of Zeus Βασιλεύς 900₀
- Bassai
Cult: Apollon Ἐπικούριος 405₃
- Bastarnae 55
- Batavi
Cults: Haeva 64₀ Hercules Magusanus
 64₀
- Bathild, St 135
- Bathos
Cults: Astrapai 827 Brontai 827 Thy-ellai 827
Myth: Gigantomachia 827
- Bathykolpos
Cult: Saron 414₁
- Baton, charioteer of Amphiaraios 1071
- Battakes, priest of the Mother of the gods 310 f.
- Baubo
Cult: Paros 131
Genealogy: m. of Protogone and Misa
 131 w. of Dysaules 131
Function: Underworld 132
Attribute: ladder 131
Type: seated on pig 131
Associated with Zeus, Hera, Demeter
 Θεσμοφόρος, Kore 259₀
- Baucis 1096₄
- Bavian, rock-carving at 769₀
- Bazis 569
- Beda, a goddess of the Frisii
Cult: Borcovicium 51₁
- Bejad in Phrygia
Cult: (Zeus) Παπας or Παπās 292₄
- Bel See Ba'al
- Belchania 948₀(4)
- Belchanos (?) = Velchanos
Cult: Lyttos (?) 948₀(4)

- Bellerophon (Bellerophontes) 720 f. 1129₁
Myth: Pegasus 721₂ 1018
Type: on horseback 717₂
- Belos
Cult: Emesa (?) 814₃
Genealogy: s. of Inachos and b. of Kasos 981₁ s. of Nebrod (Nimrod) Orion Kronos by Semiramis Rhea 693₄ 694₀ s. of Pikos who is also Zeus by Hera 694₀ 695₀ — distinguished from Ba'al (Baal, Bel) 694₀
- Bendis
Cults: Athens 1032 f. Imbros 314₀ Lemnos 314₀ Mounychia 115 Paionia 500 f. Samothrace 314₀ Thasos 314₀ Thrace 303₂ 314₀ 411 501 Rite: oak-wreath 411 f.
Etymology: 303₂
Identified with Artemis Βασιλεια 501 Hekate 314₀ Kabeiro 314₀
Associated with Maenads 314₀
- Beneventum by euphemism for Maleventum 1112, Trajan's Arch at 1181₀
- Beneitai 883₀₍₆₎
- Bennis See Zeus Epithets Βεννεύς
- Berekyndai 587₇
- Berekyntes 587₇ 970₀
- Berekynthos
Etymology: 587₆
- Bernard Ptolemy, St 135
- Beroe, nurse of Semele 1031
- Berouth, w. of Elioun "Τψιστος 886₀₍₃₀₎
- Berytos
Cults: Ba'al 886₀₍₃₀₎ Theos "Τψιστος 983₅
- Bes
Cults: Egypt 457 Gaza 674
Types: facing 674 mask 674
Supersedes Zeus 675
- Bessoi, oracle of Dionysos among 269
- Bethel 127 f.
- Bethlehem
Cult: Tammuz (Adonis) 984₁
- Beuyuk Evlia near Amaseia
Cults: St Elias 975₀ Zeus Στράτιος 974₁ ff.
Rite: dramatic shows 976₀
- Biaros, Mt See Viarus, Mt
- Bibracte 1059
- Bilkon
Cult: Apollon Βιλκόνιος 948₀
- Bios
Attributes: knife 866 868 scales 865 f.
Type: naked or half-naked runner with wheels beneath his feet 865 ff.
Identified with Kairos 864
- Bithynia
Cults: Phyllisthe river-god 904₁ Theos "Τψιστος (?) 883₀₍₂₄₎ Zeus' Αστραπαίος 815 Zeus Βάλληος 271₀ Zeus Βροντών 835₅ Zeus 'Επιδήμιος 1180₄ Zeus Πάπας or Παπᾶς 292₄
Myth: Bormos 295₂
 — coins of 296₀
- Bituriges
Cult: sword (?) 548₀
 — coins of 548₀
- Bizye 282₁
Cult: Asklepios 1079
 — coins of 1079
- Blasios, St 1104₂
- Blatsche, between Skoupoi and Stoboi
Cults: Alexander (sc. Alexandros of Abonou Teichos) 1084 Draccena (= Δράκαινα) 1084 Dracco (= Δράκων, i.e. Glykon) 1084 Iuno 1084 Iupiter 1084
- Blandos in Mysia
Cult: Zeus Σαδξιος (for Σαδξιος= Σαβᾶξιος) 284₀
- Blaundos
Cult: youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe 563
 — coins of 563
- Boaz 426 f.
- Boedromia 237₀
- Boegia 318₀
- Boghaz-Keui
Cult: youthful god standing on lioness (?) 560
 — Hittite rock-carvings at 550 ff. 599₂
- Boibe 500₈
- Boibeis, Lake 500₈
- Boiotia
Cults: Athena 731₀ Dan 342₀ Demeter 716₅ Dionysos 'Ενδενδρος 946₀ Hera Βασίλεια 731₀ Poseidon 583₃ 731₀ Zeus Βασιλεύς 731₀ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος 238₀ Zeus Καραύς 873₂ Zeus Κάριος 873₂ Zeus 'Ομολῶιος 900₁ Zeus "Τραπος 875₁₍₁₎
 — terra cotta from 123₀
- Boiotos 317 1150
- Bologna, gongs from 649 ff.
 See also Bononia
- Bombos (Bombros) 214₃
- Bona Dea
Rite: wine not brought into her temple except under name of milk in a vessel called the honey-pot 1142₀
Superseded by St Agatha of Catania 347₀
- Bona Fortuna
Type: Praxiteles 1127₀
- Bononia
Cult: Asklepios 1085
 See also Bologna
- Bonus Eventus
Attributes: corn-ear 1126₀ patera 1126₀ poppies 1126₀
Types: Euphranor 1126₀ 1127₀ Praxiteles 1127₀
Associated with week-days 71
- Bora, Mt 494 ff.
- Borcovicium
Cults: Alaisiagae 51₁ Beda 51₁ Fim-milena 51₁ Mars Thingsus 51₁ Mithras 1053 numina Augustorum 51₁

- Boreadai
Myth: pursue Harpyiai 907₂
- Boreas
Cult: Thrace 380
Myth: pursues Oreithyia 380
Genealogy: f. of Zetes and Kalais by Oreithyia, d. of Erechtheus 444
Etymology: 494 ff.
Types: bifrontal 341₀ 380 444 horse 830₇ Janiform (dark + light) 387 winged man 380
Compared with Zeus 444
 — land beyond blast of 465
 See also Hyperborean Maidens, Hyperboreoi
- Bormos 295₂
- Bosco Reale, skýphos from 1209
- Bosporos
Cult: Zeus Οθριος 707
- Bosporos Kimmerios
Cults: Ge 729₀ Helios 729₀ Theos "Τψιστος 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 885₀₍₀₎ Zeus 729₀
- Böttia (Böttiaia, Böttiaais), district in Makedonia
Rite: clay loaves etc. (?) 1187₄
Myth: Botton 1187₄
- Böttia, village on the Orontes
Cult: Zeus Βώρριος 1187₄ — maiden sacrificed at 1188
- Botton 1187₄
- Boubastis
Identified with Artemis 252
- Boubastos 671
- Boucheta (Bouchetos, Boucheton, Bouchetion)
Myth: Themis riding on ox comes thither during Deukalion's flood 267₅ 348₅
- Boukatia 233
- Boule
Cult: Antiocheia on the Orontes (?) 1193₂
- Bousbatos
Cult: Thrace 501₃
Identified with Artemis 501₃
- Boutes
Genealogy: s. of Poseidon 793₁₂
- Bouthroton (Bouthrotos) 348
Cult: Zeus 348
Myth: founded by Helenos on spot where escaped sacrificial ox fell 348₆
- Bouzygai 1163₂
- Bouzyge 217₂
- Bovianum Undecimanorum
Cult: Venus Caelestis 68₂
- Brachmanes 7₂
- Brahma 1035
Myth: birth 1036
- Brahmā
Cult: India 367 774₁
Myth: Vishnu 774₁
Genealogy: h. of Sarasvati 774₁
Function: solar (?) 774₁
- Brahmā (cont.)
Attribute: lotos 774₁
Types: four-faced 367 seated on lotos 774₁
Identified with Hiranyagarbha 1035
- Brahman 1035
- Branchidai
Cult: Apollon 920₀
 — as centre of earth 167 omphalos (?) at 180 oracular centre at 170₁ votive lions at 920₀
- Brasiai
Myth: Semele and Dionysos 671
- Brathy, Mt 981₁
- Brauronia 228₄
- Bria
Cult: Dioskouroi 313
 — coins of 313
- Briareos 1023
 — pillars of 422
- Bricia See Brixia
- Bridget, St 116
- Brilettos, Mt 898₀
- Brioc, St 116
- Briseis 726
- Britanni tattooed 123₀
- Britomartis
Cult: Lyttos 934₀
Myth: pursued by Minos 939₁
Etymology: 1220
- Brittany, two sons with gold star and daughter with silver star in folk-tale from 1010 f. 1013₁
- Brixia, a goddess at Luxovium 86 86₃
- Brixia in Cisalpine Gaul
Cult: Iupiter Iurarius 726₀
- Brontai
Cults: Bathos 827 Orphists 141₁ 827
- Brontaios 833₇
- Bronte, horse of Helios 828 851
- Bronte, personification of thunder 28 828 851
- Bronteos 833₇
- Brontes 784 828 851 1023
- Brundisium
Etymology: 30₃
- Bruttii
Cult: Zeus 709
 — coins of 709 831₁₍₂₎
- Bryaxis 921₀
- Brygos 245₅ 777₂ 800
- Bryseai
Cult: Auxesia and Damoia 890₂
- Buddha, ladder of 129₃
- Bunarbashi in Phrygia
Cult: Zeus Βουρρῶν 835₄
- Burdigala
Rite: natalici viribus 306₄
- Byblis 413₁
- Byblos in Phoinike
Cults: Adonis (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎ Kronos (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎ 887₀₍₀₎ Moloch 887₀₍₀₎ Zeus "Τψιστος 887₀₍₀₎ 983₆ Myths: Berouth 886₀₍₃₀₎ Elioum "Τψιστος 886₀₍₃₀₎ Epigeios (Autochthon)

- Byblos in Phoinike (cont.)
 Οὐρανός 886₀₍₃₀₎ head of Osiris 290₀
 — coins of 552 845
- Byzantion
Cults: Apollon Καρινός (?) 167 f.
 Poseidon 798
Rite: axe-bearers 635
 — coins of 162 f. 167 f. 798 omphalós at 167 ff.
- Cadenet
Cults: Dextiva 619 Mars 619
- Caeculus
Myth: birth 1059
- Caelus
Genealogy: f. of Ianus by Hecate 368₃ f. of Iupiter 941₀
- Caesar
Cult: Alexandria 1180₄
Epithet: Ἐπιβατήριος 1180₄
- Caesus See Koios
- Caligula slays rex Nemorensis 147
- Callistus, Cemetery of 1208
- Cameses, an Italian king 330₀
- Campus Martius, personified 103₀
- Camulodunum
Cult: Janiform god 324
 — coins of 324
- Canabarii 93 1214
- Canabenses 93₄
- Cancer 41 42 43₄
- Candlemas 325₈ 326₄
- Canens
Genealogy: d. of Ianus 394₃
- Canna intrat 299₃
- Cannophori
Festival: canna intrat 299₃
- Capricornus 16₁ 41 42 558₀ 932₁ 933₀ 938₀
- Capua, coins of 370 831₍₂₎ cp. 331 tomb near 1146₀
- Caracalla
Cult: Laodikeia on the Lykos 1186
Personates Zeus 1186
- Carian place-names in -yna, -ymos 318
- Carnuntum
Cult: Mithras Deus Sol Invictus 1194₄
- Carthage
Cults: Saturnus Balcaranensis (Balcaranensis, Balcharanensis, Balkharanensis) 554₃ 555₀ Tanit 69₀
 — bronze bull (of Phalaris?) at 910₁ razor from 630₃
- Carthago Nova, in Spain 557₀
- Castor
Cult: Tusculum 1170 f.
 — couch of 1171 on column of Mayence 96
- Cautes 309
- Cautopatēs 309
- Celsus on syncretism 889₀₍₀₎
- Celts
Cults: Dextia 619₃ Dextiva 619 Dis 326 Iupiter 86 f. Iupiter Tanarus 32
- Celts (cont.)
 Iupiter Taranucus 32 Janiform god 323 ff. 842 Ilyr 326 Sucaelus 620 Taranis 32 Taranucus 32 Zeus 111₀
Myths: Otherworld-visit 1166₂
 — coins of 323 ff. fear lest sky should fall 55 folk-tales of 224₁ 682 f. 848
- Centaurus
Attributes: branch 615 tree 615
Types: attacked by Theseus 628 fighting Herakles 615₂ (?) fighting Lapiths 615₂ (?) fighting Zeus (?) 614 f.
- Centaurus, the constellation 477₈
- Ceraunobolia 828
- Ceres
Epithet: Eleusinia 928₀
Festival: Ludi Cereri 19₀
Functions: one of the Penates 1059 plenty 99
Etymology: 549₀
Attribute: corn-topped sceptre 99
Identified with Luna, Diana, Iuno, Proserpina 256 Virgo 734₃
Associated with Iuno and Mercurius 1181₀
 — on column of Mayence 96 98
- Chaironeia
Cult: sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 1132
Rite: daily oblation to sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 1132₀
- Chalcea, m. of Olympus (?) 973₁
- Chaldaioi 255
- Chaldene, m. of Solymos 973₁
- Chalkis near Beroia 981₀ (?)
- Chalkis in Euboea
Cults: Hera 981₀ Zeus Μελιχίος 1157 Zeus Παλαμναῖος 1098₇
 — coins of 870₀ 981₀
- Chalkis sub Libano
Cult: Zeus 981₀
 — coins of 980₇ 981₀
- Chalon-sur-Saône, bronze statuette from 747₁
- Chalybes 472 617 715
- Cham See Ham
- Chaos
Epithet: ἀπειρον 1022
Genealogy: child of Chronos 1024 child of Chronos or Herakles by Ananke or Adrasteia 1022 m. of Mot by Aer 1038
Function: primeval power 315
Etymology: 1039 1051
Identified with Ianus 335₀
- Charalambos, St 1150₀
- Chares 254₅
- Charila 240 242
- Charites
Cults: Orchomenos in Boiotia 238₀ 1150₀ Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229
Rite: libation from second kratēr (?) 1124₀
Attributes: lyre, flutes, pan-pipes 249₂ 249₃

Charites (cont.)

Types: in bay-wreath 1193 three small females on hand of Apollon 232₀ three small females on hand of Zeus 232₀

Superseded by ἡ Θεοτόκος 1150₁₀

Charon

Cult: Etruria 627₃ 803

Functions: ferryman of the dead 641₂ Underworld 641

Etymology: 641

Attributes: fork (?) 803 hammer 627₃ 641

Contrasted with Zeus 641₂

— eyes of 642₀

Charos 641₂ See also Charon

Chartres

Cult: La Vierge du Pilier 1213

Charun 641₂ See also Charon

Chedworth, Roman villa at 604 f.

Cheiron

Cult: Mt Pelion 869₂ 871₀

Myth: teaches Peleus to use double spear 799

Genealogy: s. of Kronos by Philyra 695₀ 871₀

Cheleidon, eponym of the Chelidoniai Islands 971₂

Chelidoniai

Myth: Polytechnos 693

Chersonesos Taurike

Cults: (Athens) Ἡραθίνος 729₀ Ge 729₀ Helios 729₀ heroes 729₀ Zeus 729₀

Cherubim 1203₇

Chiliokomon 596

Chimaira, Mt, fire springing from ground on 972₁

China 66₀ 479 495

Chios

Cults: St Anna 1157 Dionysos Ὁμάδιος 667 f. Herakles 1157₁ Zeus Μελιχίος 1157₁ Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 1157₁ Zeus Ἡελωναῖος 922₄

Rite: human sacrifice 667 f.

Type: under winged arch 362

Choes 1139

Chonai, cleft of 115

Chons (Cush) 693₄ 694₀

Chousor (?) 1037

Chousoros

Genealogy: s. of Oulomos 1037 f.

Function: opener of cosmic egg 1037

Christ

Epithet: Ἀθέρης 945₀

Types: bearded man 1050 beardless man 1050 1199 1200₄ 1202₀ 1206 1207 boy 1199 1200₄ 1202₀ 1206 on the cross 305₀ descent into Hell 305₀ Dionysos 1197 Good Shepherd seated 1208 Good Shepherd standing 1050 1208 half-length figure flanked by sun and moon 138₀ harrowing of Hell 138₀ Orphic 1208 Scopaic 1206 seated between two lambs (sheep) 1208 seated with a lamb (sheep) beside him 1199 shepherd 305₀ youth raising right hand to bless 288 f. Zeus 1197

Christ (cont.)

Attributes: eagle 1199 1209 lamb 1199

lyre 1208 roll 1199 vines 1199 1210

Associated with St Peter and St Paul 1209₂

Compared with Phanes 1026

Supersedes: Dionysos 1209 f. Theos

Hypsistos 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus 1209

— resurrection of 941₀

Christopher, St 1076

Chronos

Epithets: ἀγῆραος 1022 1024 τετραπόπος 831₀

Myth: makes cosmic egg 1026 1051

Genealogy: f. of Aither and Chaos 1024

f. of Aither, Chaos, and Erebos by

Ananke or Adrasteia 1022

Attribute: knife 864

Types: globe beneath foot 864 Lyssippos (?) 864 snake with heads of god, snake, lion 1023 winged snake with heads of god, bull, lion 1022

Identified with Herakles 1022 Kairos

861 864 Kronos 374 861

Associated with Zas and Chthonia (Chthonie) 351₁

— chariot of 831₀ in Phoenician cosmogony 1036 1038

Chrysaor, the Carian hero 714 f. 720

Chrysaor, twin-b. of Pegasus

Epithet: μέγας 716

Myth: birth from neck of Medousa 716 ff.

Genealogy: b. of Pegasos 317 1018

f. of Geryoneus by Kallirrhoe, d.

of Okeanos 716 s. of Medousa 457

Function: lightning (?) 721 f.

Etymology: 715 f. 1222

Attribute: sword 716

Chryses, s. of Zeus by Hesione d. of Danaos 1150₂

Chrysippos 855₂

Chrysogone, d. of Halmos 1150₄

Chrysor, the Phoenician Hephaistos

Identified with Zeus Μελιχίος 715 1037

Chrysaoreis 714

Chrysaoris 714

Chrysothemis, s. of Karmanor 190₀

Chrysothemis, w. of Staphylos 670

Chthonia (Chthonie)

Function: primeval power 316

Identified with Ge 351₁

Chytroi

Cult: Astarte 157₁

Chytroi, the festival 1139

Cimbri 799₅

City Dionysia 244₂

Çiva

Cult: India 790 f.

Attributes: bull 791₂ trident 790 f. wreath 791₂

Type: three-faced 791₂

- Clunia in Spain
Cult: Iupiter Augustus Ultor 1102₃
 Clusium, tomb of Porsenna at 1219
 Collorgues, carved slabs from 690
 Commodus
Cult: Pergamon 1185
Personates Zeus 1185
 Compitalia 1171₂
 Coralli 108 111₀
 Cordeilla See Cordelia (Cordalia)
 Cordelia (Cordalia) 325 f.
 Corinium in Dalmatia
Cult: Ianus Pater 325
 Corinth
Cults: Apollon 915₂ (?) 916₀ Apollon
Δειραδιώτης 210₀ Iupiter Liberator
 (Nero) (?) 1214 Zenoposeidon (?)
 878₀₍₃₎ Zeus 878₀₍₃₎ Zeus Καπετώλιος
 (= Κορυφαίος) 869₁ Zeus Ὀλύμπιος
 916₀ Zeus Ὑψίστος 878₀₍₃₎ 892₃ Zeus
 Χθόνιος 878₀₍₃₎
 Corne, Mt
Cult: Diana 403
 Corneto, Tomba del Letto funebre at 1170₃
 Corvus 664₁
 Corycian Cave 449₀
 Crater 664₁
 Crete
Cults: Apollon Βελκώνιος 948₀ Apollon
 Ἰθύβιος 457 Diktyinna 986₀ Kronos
 548 f. Pikos who is also Zeus (?)
 697₀ Talos 890₂ 948₁ Tan 342₀
 Zagreus 352 667 Zan 344 f. Zeus
 344 f. 352 354 727 743₇ Zeus Ἀστέριος 230₀ Zeus Βορτιαῖος (?) 1187₄
 Zeus Ἐλαφρός 599 Zeus Ἐπιρυνίτιος
 946₀ Zeus Ἰδαῖος 932₁ ff. Zeus Ξένιος
 1169₅
Rites: bovine omophagy 539 Kouretes sacrifice children to Kronos 548 Myths: Adionunios Tauros 349 birth of Zeus 1228 cp. 925₁ 927₁ 932₁ Botton
 1187₄ nurses of Zeus 228 reign of Kronos and Rhea 548 Talos 645₀
 Zeus a prince slain by wild boar and buried in Crete 522 727
In relation to Delphoi 189₈ Rhodes
 923₀ — coins of 743₇ 933₀ tomb of Zeus in 219 940₀ ff.
 Culsán's 378 See also Ianus
 Cuprius, Vicus 401
 Curiatii 363 f.
 Cuthbert, St 116
 Cygnus 477₇ See also Olor
 Cynthianum 419₃ See also Genzano
- Daai (Daai, Dahae), a Scythian tribe
 312₅ Daci 114₀
 — tattooed 123₀
 Daeira 312₅
 Daes (?), consort of Daeira 312₅
 Dahae See Daai
 Daidala Megala 898₆ 977₀
- Daidala Mikra 898₆
 Daidale 898₆
 Daidalos
Myths: makes dancing-ground for Ariadne 600 f.
Genealogy: f. of Iapyx 30
Function: sculptor 322₇ 739₁
- Daimon
Epithets: ἡγήτορα φρικτόν, | μείλιχιον
 Δία, παγγενέτην, βιοδώτορα θνητῶν, |
 Ζῆνα μέγαν, πολύπλαγκτον, ἀλάστορα, παμβασιλῆα, | πλουτοδότην,
 κ.τ.λ. 1160₄
Identified with Zeus 1160₄ Zeus Μειλχιος 1160₄
 — Orphic hymn to 1160
- Daimones
Cult: Thespiai 1150₀
Epithets: ἐσθλοί, ἐπιχθόνιοι, φύλακες
 θνητῶν ἀνθρώπων, |...| πλουτοδότα
 1130₁ 1160
Function: buried kings (?) 1150₀
Etymology: 1159₁
Associated with Hermes 1150₀
- Daiso See Daita or Daito
 Daita or Daito (Daiso), m. of Enorches 1021
- Daktyloi
Cult: Mt Ide in Crete 232₀ 929₀
Epithets: πολέων μοιρηγέται ἠδὲ πάρεδροι | μητέρος Ἰδαίης 232₀
Rites: head wrapped in fleece of black ram 934₀ lying prone beside sea and river 934₀ purification with thunder-stone (belemnite?) 934₀
Myths: born in Dictaeon Cave 929₀ born on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ discover iron 949₅ learn iron-working from Mother of the gods 949₅ Genealogy: sons of Aigesthios (Ag-destis?) by Ide 970₀ sons of Anchiale
 929₀
 See also Index II Stones, thumb-shaped
- Daldea
Cult: Apollon Μύσσης 250 f.
 — coin of 251₁
- Dalmatia 440₂
 Damaskos
Cults: Zeus Κεραῖνιος 807₅₍₂₎ Zeus
 Μέγιστος Ὑψίστος 886₀₍₀₎
- Damastes 626 f.
 Damoia
Cults: Bryseai 890₂ Sparta 890₂
 Damokles 703
- Dan
Cult: Boiotia 342₀ 344₆ cp. 583₀
 See also Zeus
- Danaë
Myths: consorts with Zeus 1131₁ sent to sea in coffer 671 1018
Genealogy: m. of Perseus 464 m. of Perseus by Pikos 1187₂
 Danaïdes: Hesione 1150 Hippodameia
 1150₂ Isonoe (?) 1150₂ Polydora 486
 Danaoi 961₀

Danaos

Myth: Argos 1144₂

Genealogy: f. of Hesione 1150₂ f. of Hippodameia 1150₂ f. of Isonoe (?) 1150₂

Daoi, the nomad Persians 312₅

Daoi, a Scythian tribe See Daai

Daos, 'the Wolf' (?) 312₅

Daphne

Myth: Apollon 265₀ 460₂ 486

Daphne, near Antiocheia on the Orontes

Cults: Apollon Δαφναῖος 1188 Nemesis 1191₅ Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 1188 f. (?) 1191 Zeus Σωτήρ 1191

Festival: Olympia 1191 f.

Rite: resurrection (?) 1191₂

Daphnephoria 158₁ 242₁ 455₈

Daphnis

Myth: Apollon 1042 (?)

Daphnis the mountain-nymph 176₁

Dardanos

Genealogy: b. of Iasos 317 s. of Zeus 8

Dasimos (Dazimos) 1159₁

Dasios (Dazios) 1159₁

Datcha, relief-ware from 615

Dazimas 1159₁

Dazimos See Dasimos

Dazios See Dasios

Dea Augusta Vocontiorum

Rite: loco vires conditae 306₁

Dea Roma See Roma, the personification of Rome

Dea Syria

Identified with Virgo 734₃

Deana 339₅ See Diana

Death

Functions: mower 868 reaper 868

Attributes: hour-glass 868 scythe 868

Type: straw puppet 868

— dance of 868₄

See also Thanatos

Deia, a tribe at Dorylaeion 281

Deia, the festival 320₀

Deia Sebasta Oikoumenika 320₀

Deipatyros 277₃

Delos

Cults: Agathe Tyche 1128₀ Agathos Daimon 1128₀ Aphrodite Ἀγνή 922₀ Apollon 249₂ 452 ff. 854 Apollon Γενέτωρ 223₃ Artemis 452 ff. 501 1227 Asklepios 1038 Athena Κινθία 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Isis 922₀ Kronos (?) 920₀ Rhea (?) 920₀ 921₀ Sarapis 922₀ Tachnepsis 985₀ Theos Μέγας 985₀ Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 259₀ 1105 Zeus Ἰκέσιος 1095₀ 1096₀ Zeus Κάσιος 907₀ (?) 985₀ Zeus Κύνθιος 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Zeus Σαβάσιος 1217

Rite: Hyperborean offerings sent to Apollon 497 ff. περφερέες 495₀

Priests: ζακόρος 921₀ 922₀ ἱερεὺς 921₀ 922₀ ἱεροποιοὶ 921₀ κλειδοῦχος 921₀ 922₀

Delos (cont.)

Myths: Hyperborean maidens 452 466

Hyperoche and Laodike 452 f. 501

Opis and Hekaerge (Arge) 452 501

1226 Opis and Hekaergos 452 f.

— Artemision at 1227 as centre of earth 167 confederacy of 854 Keraton at 1227 temple-inventory of 346₀ votive lions in 920₀ 921₀

Delphoi

Cults: Apollon 457 839 Apollon Μοιραγέτης 231 Apollon Πύθιος 1216 Artemis 1216 Athena Προναία 231 Autonooēs 452 Dionysos 218 ff. 233 ff. 839 841 (Dionysos) Βρόμιος 219 Dionysos Ἰατρός 250 Dionysos Νυκτέλιος 257₄ (Dionysos) Παῖδν 250 Gaia 500 1216 Ge Θέμυς (?) 841 Hestia 1216 Leto (Lato) 1216 Moirai 231 Orphic Dionysos 218 ff. Phoibe 500 Phoibos 839 Phylakos 452 Poseidon 176₁ 177₀ Themis 176₁ 500 1216 Zeus 231 ff. 816 817 902₀ Zeus Ἀφέσιος (?) 179 f. 841 Zeus Εδυπνος 231 f. Zeus Λυκάργειος 901₂ 902₀ Zeus Μοιραγέτης 231 Zeus Πατρός 233 244 Zeus Πολλεύς 231 Zeus Σωτήρ 232 f.

Festivals: birthday of Apollon (Bysios 7) 236 Boukatia 235 brumal rites of Dionysos 235 Charila 240 242 Herois 240 242 Pythian games 240 Soteria 232 f. Steperion 240 242 vernal rites of Dionysos (Theoxenia?) 235 244₂

Rites: caldron of apotheosis 210 ff. 241₄ dance of young men round tripod 460 incubation 231 f. paean 460 procession from Athens headed by axo-bearers 628 817 847 πῦρ ἀθάνατον 1216 sacrifice sent by Pythaiatai 815 ff. tent with cosmic roof 178₇

Priestesses: Thyiads 242

Myths: Asklepios raises dead 241₄ Asklepios slain by Zeus 241₄ death and burial of the Orphic Dionysos 218 ff. 841 Dionysos gives oracles from tripod 239₀ Dionysos torn in pieces and boiled in caldron 239 foundation of oracle 169 Hyperboreans 452 Hyperochos and Amadokos 452 Hyperochos and Laodokos 452 Neoptolemos 170₂ Nyx 238₁ Pagasos and Agycius 169 177 499 Phylakos and Autonooēs 452 Python 1087 Python slain by Apollon 239₀ Themis gives oracles 239₀ Themis on tripod impregnated by pillar of light (= Apollon) 1217 Theseus 628 Trophonios and Agamedes 232₄

In relation to Crete 189₃

— as centre of earth 167 as vital centre of Greek religion 841 calendar at 235 f. Cnidian Lésche at 122₀

Delphoi (cont.)

coins of 176₂ 218₀ 267₁ 490₀₍₅₎ E at 176₂ 178 1216 eagles at 179 ff. frieze of Siphnian Treasury at 831₁₍₄₎ inhabitants of, called Lykoreis 901₂ inner chapel in temple of Apollon at 239 inscribed axe from 628 omphalos at 169 ff. 841 1216 pediments of temple at 267₁ Plataean tripod at 170₂ 193 ff. 1216 precinct of, represented in archaistic reliefs 199 ff. stepped pyramid on plinth near 1140₀₍₁₀₎ succession of cults at 231 239 266 f. trophy from spoils of 'Marathon' at 1137₂ votive double axes from 629 669₃

Delphos 176₁Delphyne 449₀Demaratos, oath of 728₀

Demeter

Cults: Aixone 730₀ Ardettos 1135 Athens 729₀ 730₀ Boiotia 716₅ Dotion 497₅ 683 f. Eleusis 314₀ 314₂ 730₀ Erythrai in Ionia 730₀ Eteonos 1152 Hermione 1077 Kios 815₅ Kolonos 1152₅ Korkyra 730₀ Megalopolis 1178 Mostene (?) 564 Myrrhinous 730₀ Nisaia, port of Megara 488₀₍₃₎ Pagai, port of Megara (?) 488₀₍₃₎ Paros 131 Pergamon 729₀ 955₀ Pheneos 1136₄ Phlyeis 1066 Prostanna (?) 973₀ Samothrace 314₀ 314₂ Selinous 489₀₍₁₀₎ Sparta 729₀ Tegea 1140₅ Thebes in Boiotia 900₀ 901₀

Epithets: 'Ανησιδώρα 1066 'Ενναία 1075 'Ερινύς ('Εριννύς) 1075 'Ερκυννα 1075 (See also Herkyna) Εὐρύδεια 1152 Θεσμοθέτις 268₂ Θεσμοφόρος 131 259₀ Καρποφόρος 815₅ Κιδαρία 1136₄ Μαλοφόρος 488₀₍₃₎ 489₀₍₁₀₎ Μηλοφόρος 489₀₍₁₀₎ ξιφηφόρος 716₅ 'Ομολόα 900₁ cp. 901₀ Χθονία 1077 Χλόη 413₂ χρυσόδορος 716

Festivals: Herkynia 1075 τελετή μείζων at Pheneos 1136₄

Myths: boiling of Pelops 212₅ consorts with Zeus 1029 Erysichthon 497₅ 683 f. Iambe 821 851 reveals fig to Phytalos 291₂ 1092₀ 1103

Metamorphosed into snake 1029

Genealogy: m. of Artemis 252 m. of Artemis or Hekate 1032 m. by Zeus of Phersephone or Kore 1029 w. of Poseidon 584₀

Functions: Corn-mother 295₂ earth 584₁ 585₁ 1152

Etymology: 584₀ 584₁ 585₁ 1159₁

Attributes: corn-ears 564 (?) double axe 564 (?) drépanon 448₀ hárpe 448₀ kálathos 564 (?) oak-tree 683 f. pig 1140₅ poplar-tree 683 poppies 1165₁ ram (?) 488₀₍₃₎ snake 1111 sword 716 716₅ torches 488₀₍₃₎ (?)

Type: with kálathos, corn-ears, and double axe (?) 564

Demeter (cont.)

Identified with Axieros (?) 314₂ Isis 252 Rhea 1029 1032

Associated with Kore 1113₀₍₃₎ 1178 Kore and Zeus 258₃ 259₀ Zeus, Hera, Kore, Baubo 259₀

In relation to bees and honey 1142₇ Persephone 501

Demetrios Poliorketes

Personates Athena (?) 1136₄

Demoi of Antiocheia on the Orontes (?) and Seleukeia Pieria (?) 1192

Demokritos of Abdera 701₀

Demos

Cults: Antiocheia on the Orontes (?) 1192 Kaulonia (?) 1042 Seleukeia Pieria (?) 1192

— in Aristophanes 212

Demos of Rome

Cult: Miletos 1228

Demotionidai, oath of 728₀

Deu 344₀ 583₀ 583₃

See also Zeus

Denderah

Cults: Horos 773₀ Osiris 773₀ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος Σεβαστός (= Augustus) 97₀

Deo

Myth: Zeus 132₂

Rite: union with Zeus 132₂ 345₆₍₂₎

See also Demeter

Deonysos 271

See also Dionysos

Deos (Dios), the Phrygian Zeus 278 ff.

Function: sky 279 f.

Associated with Semele 279 f.

— tribe Deia named after (?) 281

Despoina

Cult: Akakesion 231₈

Deukalidai 892₄

Deukalion

Myths: takes stones from Mt Agdos to people the world 971₀ Athens 1118 1139 1229 builds altar of Zeus 'Αφείσιος 892₄ Lykoreia 901₂ Mt Par-nassos 902₀

Genealogy: h. of Pyrrha 971₀ s. of Minos, s. of Zeus 793₇

Etymology: 892₄

— grave of 1118

Deunysos 272₀

See also Dionysos

Deus 344₀

See also Zeus

Deus Altissimus

Cult: Hadrumetum 889₀₍₃₄₎

Epithets: Pelagicus Aeriis 889₀₍₃₄₎

Identified with Iao 889₀₍₃₄₎

Deus Casius

Cult: Heddernheim 983₀

See also Zeus Epithets Κάσιος (Κάσιος)

Deus Magnus Pantheus

Associated with Vires 306₄

Deverra 643₈

- Deviana 339₀
 See Diana
- Dexia 619₃
 Dexasiva
Cult: Cadenet 619
- Dia, d. of Lykaon 486₁
 Dia, old name of Tralleis 587₂ 958₀
 Dia, w. of Ixion
Myth: wooed by Zeus 1088
- Dian (?), consort of Diane (?) 351₀
 Diana
Cults: Mt Algidus 404 Aricia 420₁
 Mt Corne 403 Kolchoi 411 Nemi
 149 393 399 f. 403₁ 842 f. Nemus
 417 ff. Rome 400 f. 421 Mt Tifata
 404 Tusculum 403
Epithets: Facelitis 421₃ Latonia 412₇
Lyaea 1140₃ nemoralis Delia 412₀
Nemorensis 146 411₃ (?) 414 417 841
 1216 Trivia 412₆ virgo potens nemorum
 412₀
Rites: liknon 149 puppies wreathed 149 oak decked with weapons and spoils of chase 412₀ weapons laid aside 149
Priests: Caligula 403₁ rex Nemorensis
 146 f. 394 f. 399 f. 403₁ 417₅ 418
Myths: Actaeon 144 Virbius 393
Genealogy: consort of Dianus (Ianus)
 363 394 399 405
Functions: birth 339₀ chase 69 moon
 338₃ 339₆
Etymology: 338 ff.
Attributes: crown 147₁ hound 69
 hounds 144 modius 148 oak 400 ff.
 sceptre 148
Types: club-like pillar 147 149 841 herm 149 huntress 144 log 146 three-faced 411 triune 412₇ (?) with modius 149
Identified with Egeria (?) 418₀ Luna, Ceres, Iuno, Proserpina 256 Vesta
 417₅
Associated with Apollo and Hercules
 59₀ Dianus (Ianus) 363 394 399 405
 Mercurius 67 (?)
In relation to Virbius 414 417 842
Survives as country demon 339₁ — oak-tree of 400 ff. on column of Mayence 96 99 f. pillars of 143 ff.
 tree of, at Nemi 417 ff.
- Dianus
Etymology: 339₁ 352
Type: archway 363 405
Associated with Diana 363 394 399 405
 See also Ianus
- Dias, a form of Zeus 352
 See also Zeus
- Dias, one of the Pelopidai 352₂
 Dias, one of the Titans 352
 Diasia 1138 ff.
 Di certi 13₁
 Dictaeon Cave, votive double axes from 639₂
 See also Dikte, Mt
- Dido 1059
 Didyma near Miletos
Cults: Apollon Διδυμαίος 317 f. Apollon
 · Διδυμείς 317₂ Zeus Διδυμαίος 317
 Zeus Σωτήρ 317₂ Zeus Υτίος 318₀
Rite: βογγία 318₀
- Diermai 1219
 Dies 3₀
 Diespiter
Function: thunder 830₀
Etymology: 277₂ 341₀
 See also Iupiter
- Diias See Dias, one of the Titans
- Dike
Epithets: πάσιω ἀρωγός 1033₁ πολύπαινος
 1033₁
Genealogy: st. of Ananke 316₀
Functions: cosmic 316₀ gate-opener
 316₀ justice 931₀ laws 1095₀
Attribute: Διὸς μάκελλα 806₁
Associated with Zeus 1029 1033₁ Zeus and Themis 897₃
- Dikte, headland on south coast of Crete
 928₀
 Dikte, Mt
Cult: Iupiter Dictaeus 927₁ Zeus Δικταίος
 927₁ 928₀ 929₀
Epithet: Κορυθαυρίδος...πέτρης 942₀
Myths: Anchiale bears Idaean Daktyloi 929₀ birth of Zeus 928₀ 986₀
 Britomartis 939₁ city founded by Zeus 928₀ 929₀ Epimenides sleeps in Dictaeon Cave 929₀ infancy of Zeus 928₀ 929₀ Kouretes rear Zeus
 928₀ Meliai 933₀ Minos descends into Dictaeon Cave and returns with laws of Zeus 929₀ Zeus consorts with Europe 929₀
Etymology: 928₀
 — identified with mountain-range south-west of Praisos 929₀ identified wrongly with Mt Lasithi 929₀ Dictaeon Cave on, identified wrongly with Psycho Cave 929₀ Dictaeon
 Cave on, not yet discovered 929₀
 Dictaeon Cave on 928₀ 929₀
- Diktou, cape near Mt Ido in Crete 945₁
 Diktynna
Cult: Crete 986₀
 Diktys
Myths: drowned in river while reaching for onions 986₀ nursed by Isis 986₀
Etymology: 986₀
 Dindymene 970₀
 Dings
Identified with Ziu (?) 50 f.
- Dinos 2₄
 Diobessi, a Thracian tribe 276₇
 Diocletian
Personates Iupiter 1194
 Diogenes of Apollonia 1024
 Diod, a Thracian tribe 276₇
 Diokaisarcia in Kilikia
Cults: thunderbolt 810 Zeus (?) 810
 — coins of 810 851

- Dion, an early Laconian king
Myth: entertains Apollo and Liber Pater 353
- Dion (?), consort of Dione
 • Cult: Dodona 350₆
Function: sky 350₆
Superseded by Zeus 353
- Dion in Makedonia
Cult: Zeus 1111
 — coins of 1111
- Dione
Cults: Dodona 350 350₆ 353 Termessos (Termessus Maior) 974₀
Myth: consorts with Zeus 1029
Function: sky 350₆
Etymology: 341₄ 350
Type: laureate and veiled 162₁
Associated with Zeus 974₀ 1029
- Dionysos 272
 See also Dionysos
- Dionysalexandros 253₃ 277₃
- Dionysiastai 925₀
- Dionysiastai Eurythemidioi 1157₃
- Dionysopolis in Phrygia
Cults: youthful hero (? Lairmenos) on horseback bearing double axe 566
 Zeus Πορνης (accent unknown) 285
 — coins of 285₁ 566
- Dionysos
Cults: Antiocheia on the Orontes 428
 1197 Apsinthos 270 Arkesine 246₁
 Athens 245₃ 985₀ Bessoi 269 Boiotia 946₀ Chios 667 f. Delphoi 218 ff. 233 ff. 250 257₄ 839 841 Dorylaeion 280₁ Elis 823₁ 932₀ Euromos 575₁
 Hagia Triada (?) 522 524 Hierokaisarea in Lydia 1025 Imbros 314₀
 Karia 565₂ Kaulonia (?) 1041 Kras-tonia 114 f. Kypros 599₂ (?) Mt Laphystion in Boiotia 899₁ Lemnos 314₀ Lerne 599₃ Lesbos 1021 Lindos 925₀ Maidike 270 Megara 257₄
 Mytilene 238₀ 1022 Naxos 250 1092₀
 1093₀ Nisyros 1157₃ Nuserat in Mysia 882₀₍₀₎ Odrysai 269₁ Odrysai (?) 661 f. Orchomenos in Boiotia 899₁ Pagasai 660 Paionia 250₁ 270
 Panormos near Kyzikos (?) 882₀₍₀₎
 Pergamon 287₂ 288₀ 954₀ 1184₁
 Phigaleia 244₁ Rhodes 250 Saboi 270
 Samos 1021 Samothrace 314₀
 Satrai 269₁ Synnada (?) 362 f. Tenedos 522 658 ff. (?) 662 667 f. Thasos 314₀
 Thespiai (?) 599₂ Thrace 269 ff. 314₀ 821 851 Thraco-Phrygians 268 ff. Tralleis 960₀ Troizen 599₂
Epithets: άγριος 661₁ Άγνιεύς 164 Άκρατοφόρος 244₁ άναξ 243₃ (?) 246₁ 659
 Άνθρωπορραστής 243₃ 522 662 άρρητος 661₁ Άσδούλης 270 Αύαλος 251₀
 270 Βακχεύς 1093₀ Βάκχος 243₃ 250₄
 957₂ 1030 Βάλιν or Βάλην 270₅ 271₀
 Βαλιός (?) 271₀ βοτρυκόσμος 250₄
 Βότρυσ 413₂ βραϊτάς (?) 243₃ Βρόμιος 219 243₃ 838 852 882₀₍₀₎ δεύτερος
- Dionysos (cont.)
 άλλος...ύέτιος Ζεύς 276₁ Delius 250₄
 Διθύραμπος 243₃ δίκερως 661₁ δίμορφος 661
 Διός φώς 273 Dryalos (?) 250₄
 Δύαλος 250₄ 270 Έβδομεύς 238₀
 Egyptian 29 εραφιώτης 957₂ Έλευθεριεύς 97₀ Ένδένδρος 946₀ Ένύρχης 1021
 1022 έρίβρομος 957₂ Έδαιος (leg. Εδιος) 275₃ Εύβουλεύς (?) 119₀
 Euhios 250₄ εΐιος 234₅ 243₃ (?) 246₁
 Εύρυβάλινδος 270₅ 271₀ ζείδωρος 275
 Έρικεπαίος 1025 Έρωσ 823₁
 θυρεογής (?) 250₄ θυροσήρης (?) 243₃
 Ίαμβαδούλης 820₃ 821 851 Ίατρος 250
 Ίσοδαίτης 234 Καθηγεμών 287₂
 288₀ (?) 1184₁ κισσοκόμης (κισσοκόμος) 246₁ Κισσός 413₂ κισσοχαίτης 243₃ (?) 246₁ κρύφιος 661₁ λαθικηδής 954₀ Λαφύστιος 899₁ μαυρομέναις άνθέοντα τιμαίσι 234₅
 Μάσαρις 565₂ Μειλίχιος 1092₀ 1093₀ 1112₆
 Μελπόμενος 245₅ μαιφόνος 275 Μουσαγέτης 250
 Νέος 96 Νυκτέλιος 234 257₄ νυκτέριος 257₄ νυκτίπολος 257₄ νυκτιφαής 257₄ όρσιγύναικα (acc.) 234₅
 Παιών 250 Παιώνιος 250₄ Πέλεκυς (not Πελεκέας or Πελεκίνος, nor Πελάγιος) 660
 Πιλείστιωρος (?) 270 πολύνυμος 1022
 Πολύνυμος (?) 1022 Σαβάτιος 270 Σάβτος 270
 Σάωτης 599₃ Σμύνθιος (?) 250 Συκεάτης 488₀₍₀₎
 Ύγιάτης 250₃ Ύγης 275 ύποκάλπιος 250₄
 Φαλλήν 522₀ φσιζφος 954₀ χυρεογής 250₄ Ωμάδιος 667 f.
- Festivals*: brumal rites 235 discussed by Pherekydes of Leros 275
 Lenaia 236 Phallagogia 1022
 Rural Dionysia 236 vernal rites (Theoxenia?) 235
- Rites*: advent in spring 243 f. awakened from annual sleep by axe striking caldron (?) 660₀
 Bacchants put bowls of bronze or iron over their breasts 346₀ βουφόνον...θεράποντα 659₁ death and resurrection 234 dithyramb 234 f. human sacrifice at Apsinthos 270₁ human sacrifice in Chios 667 f.
 human sacrifice in Lesbos 1022 human sacrifice at Orchomenos in Boiotia 899₁ human sacrifice in Tenedos 667 f. human sacrifice in Thrace 1022 mysteries 1030 nocturnal 257₄
 sacrifice by Labyadaí 235 243 f.
 wearing of white-poplar 471
- Priests*: Euneidai 245₅ έπειός διά γένους 1184₁ ιεροφάντης 1025 Vologaisos 269₁
- Priestess*: πρόμαντις 269₁
- Worshippers*: Διονυσιασταί 925₀
 Διονυσιασται Εύρυθεμιδιοί 1157₃
 θιαΐδες 1022 θυστάδες 1022
- Personated by* Antinoos 97₀
 Antiochos 97₀
 M. Antonius 97₀
 Caligula 97₀

Dionysos (cont.)

Cretan prince (?) 522 Demetrios Poliorketes 97₀ Hadrian (?) 97₀ kings of Thrace 271₀ Mithradates vi Eupator 96₃ 245₀ Nero 96₃ (?) 97₀ 254 (?) 1128₀ Ptolemy xiii Auletes 96₃ various scions of the imperial house 97₀

Myths: Brasiai 671 brings Semele up from spring at Lerna 1022 buried by Apollon at Delphoi 218 ff. cut up, boiled, roasted, and eaten by Titans 218 f. 239 1030 f. Delphoi 239₀ descent to Hades 1022 destroys mice in Rhodes 250₂ guarded by Apollon and Kouretes 1030 his heart placed in a gypsum image by Zeus 1031 his heart rescued by Athena 1031 his limbs arranged by Apollon 1031 instructed and equipped by Mystis 346₀ invades India 7₂ invents wine 250₃ nursed by Dryades 276 nursed by Hyades 274 f. nursed by Ma 565₂ nursed by Maenads 347₀ nursed by Nymphs 1030 nursed by Polyhymno 1022 Polyhymnos 1022 put together again by Rhea 1032 reborn as Thyonians (?) 393₀ restored by Apollon 251₂ resurrection 1032 a seven-months' child 237₀ sits on throne of Zeus 1030 slain in bovine form 1030 Telephos 1184₃ Titans 199₂ 218 ff. 251₂ 841 1030 f.

Metamorphosed into bull 932₀ ep. 1030 jay (?) 524 Zeus, Kronos, babe, youth, lion, horse, horned snake, tiger, bull 1030

Genealogy: s. of Semele 220 s. of Zeus 317 1098₀ s. of Zeus by Persephone 1135₄ s. of Zeus by Phersephone or Kore 1029

Functions: chthonian 471 1029 figs 1092₀ 1093₀ health 250₃ rain 274 ff. rebirth of Zeus 381 823₁ snow 275 thunder 852 wine 557₁

Etymology: 271 ff.

Attributes: ass 464 bay-wreath 244 390 (?) double axe 661 drinking-horn 661 grape-bunch 960₀ ivy-wreath 388 jay 275₃ 524 kántharos 661 960₀ 1133₁ lyre 244 838 nebris 270₃ nightingale (?) 275₃ panther 261 270₃ φρυγίλος (?) 275₃ swallow (?) 275₈ thýrsos 261 ff. tripod 841 vine-branch 1133₁

Types: Apolline 244 ff. 838 bearded 388 661 in car drawn by panthers 245₀ double bust (with Ariadne) 390 (?) 391 392₁ (?) ep. 661 double bust (with Hermes) 388 double bust (with Satyr) 388 double bust (with Zeus) 388 fire 114 f. horned 244₄ horned babe 1029 on horseback 270₃ 821 infant nursed by Nymph

Dionysos (cont.)

245₀ Janiform (bearded + beardless) 387 light 114 f. with lyre in art, but not in literature 246₀ pillar 164 riding on bull 661 seated as child amid Kouretes 1210 seated as lyre-player 245₃ standing with grape-bunch in raised right hand and kántharos in lowered left 960₀ two bearded masks hung back to back on pillar 381 with wings on head 388 youthful head 575₁ Zeus-like 662 f. 847

Identified with Agathos Daimon 1129₀ Apollon 252 ff. Apollon and Helios 253 f. Attis 294 296 298 Esmun 314₀ Hittite god bearing grape-bunches and corn-ears 565 Jehovah 1197 younger Kabeiros 664₁ Liber 1031 Liber Pater 220₀ Osiris 252 Phanes 1026 1051 Sabazios 275 Zagreus 234 1029 Zeus 282 287 f. 288₀

Assimilated to Apollon 244 ff. Thracian rider-god 821 823

Associated with Apollon 164 233 ff. Ariadne 245₀ 245₅ 261 390 (?) 391 661 (?) Athena and Zeus 'Αραβύριος 925₀ the Egyptian Herakles 7₂ Kore 120₁ Maenads 115 246₀ 262 f. 265 Nero 97₀ Oistros (?) 1041 Satyrs 245₅ 246₀ 262 f. 265 314₀ Silenoi 661 Zeus and Themis 261 f.

Compared with Apollon 252

In relation to Agathos Daimon 1129₀ Apollon 267 Ares 565₂ mankind 1032 Semele 663 Zeus 267 ff. 522 1210

Superseded by Apollon 243 ff. 839 841 Christ 1209 f.

— as one of the first three Dioskouroi 1135₄ attendants of, boiled by Medeia 212 ephry of, dedicated to Zeus 958₀ epitaph of 220 mystics of 124₄ mysteries of 882₀₍₀₎ nurses of 347₀ pillars of 423 in the plural 252₃ sceptre of 1026 tomb of 219 231 289 toys of 1030 tripod of 231

Dionysos 272

See also Dionysos

Diopetes See Artemis Types Διοπέτης
Dios, island off coast of Kephallenia 908₀
Dios, the Thracian Zeus

Cults: Thrace 277 ff. 288 313 821 Thracio-Phrygians 277 ff. 313 842

Epithets: Νῦσος (hence the Hellenic Δῶνυσος) 277 288 313 842 Πάπας 277 Functions: sky 277 842 twofold, as Father and Son 288 842

Etymology: 824

Superseded by Zeus Διός 280 f.

Diosatabyriastai 924₀ 925₀ 1129₀ 1157₃

Dios Bous 318₀

Dios Elpides

Cult: Miletos 962₀

- Dios Gonai in Boiotia 961₀
 Dios Gonai in Lydia 961₀
 Dioskouroi
Cults: Aizanoi 313 Akmonēia 313
 Apameia 313 Mt Argaios 980₀
 Athens 1135₄ Bria 313 Etruria 431 f.
 1064 Euromos 574 f. Sparta 261₀
 436 ff. 1062 Synnada 313 Tarentum
 1064 Tauion 1064 Temenothyrai
 313 Themisonion (?) 313 Therapne
 1064 Tusculum (?) 368₂ Tyndaris
 918₀
Epithets: Ἀμβούλιοι 261₀ Ἀνακτες 311
 1135₄ Λαπέρρα 1069
Festival: Theoxenia 443 1064
Rites: lectisternium 443 sacrifice of oxen 606₃
Personated by Aristomenes and friend
 436₀ Atys and Kotys (?) 312 L.
 Aurelius Commodus and Antoninus
 443 Epiphanes and Kallinikos 442 f.
 kings of Sparta 436 440 Nero Caesar and Drusus Caesar 442 Tiberius and Germanicus 441 f.
Myths: alive and dead on alternate days 433 their descendants found temple on Mt Kasion in Egypt 984₄ feud with sons of Aphareus 437 Gigantomachy 435 in Iliad 436 in Kypria 438 f. in Lykophron 439 in Odyssey 437 in Pindar 437 f. life underground 1064
Genealogy: sons of Tyndareos 918₀
Functions: anthropomorphic sky-pillars 980₀ both mortal men 436 one mortal, the other immortal
 437 f. 440 halves of the sky 432 ff.
 843 ἡ συμφωνία τῶν ἀπάντων 434₃ incarnate in kings of Sparta (?) 436 440 living and dead on alternate days 437 ff.
Attributes: amphorae 1062 ff. black and white piloi 435 caps with stars 313₂ 313₄ 313₀ 433 574 f. 1062
 dagger 432₃ dōkana 160 f. 436₈ 841
 1063 f. horses 313₂ 313₅ 313₃ knife 432₃ Phrygian caps 432₂ (See also caps with stars) piloi 307 1063 (See also caps with stars) semicircles 434 sepulchral jars 436₈ 1062 ff.
 stars 980₀ (See also caps with stars) Types: aniconic pillars crowned with rays 980₀ bearded and beardless 451 on short column or altar 606₃ driving two-horse chariot 1064 Etruscan 160 with heads connected by forked bar 432₃ with heads connected by pediment 431 432₂ on horseback 442 479 1064 male and female 451 with one arm apiece 432 with one wing apiece 432 radiate 432₃ reclining in cave 1064 reclining at least 1064 standing with horses 1064 standing without horses 1062 1063 1064
- Dioskouroi (cont.)
Associated with Helene 1003 ff. Zeus
 1209₂
Compared with children in 'Expulsion' tales 1014
In relation to Attis 307 ff.
Superseded by St Peter and St Paul 606
 — in folk-tales 1003 ff. jars of 1062 ff.
- Diosmilichiaistai 1157
 Diosphoros (?) 970₀
 Diotima 130₇ 1167
 Diphilos 1167
 Dipoinos 739
 Dipsakos 904₁
 Dirke, the spring 1013
 Dirke
Myths: Antiope 1013 1015 Zethos and Amphion 1013 1015 1019
Type: dragged by bull 1019
- Dis (Δίς) 344₀
 See also Zeus
- Dis
Cult: Celts 326
Rite: drink-offering of honey and pure wine 1142₇
- Dius
Cults: Rome 724₀ ff. Tiber-island 726₀
Epithets: Fidius 724₀ ff. 849 Sancus
 724₀ Sancus Sanctus Semo 724₀
Semo Sancus 724₀ Semo Sancus
Sanctus 724₀ 725₀
Rites: aenei orbes 724₀ 725₀ (?) oath under open sky 724₀
Functions: lightning 726₀ 849 sky 724₀
 725₀
Type: archaic 'Apollon' 725₀ cp. 1222
Identified with Herakles (?) 724₀ Simon
 Magus 726₀
- Diviana 338₄
 See also Diana
- Divitia
Cults: Mercurius 64₀ Victoria 64₀
- Divlit near Koloë
Cults: Artemis Ἀναίτις (Ἀναίτις?)
 975₀ Zeus Σαβάτιος 975₀
 — sacred trees at 975₀
- Dodona
Cults: Dione 350 350₀ 353 Ge (Gaia)
 350₁ Zeus 350 353 693₃ 855₂ 960₀
 Zeus Δωδωναίος (= Hadrian) 959₀
 Zeus Νάιος 350₀ 763₁ 826
Epithet: δυσχέλμερος 960₀
Rites: caldron of hot water 214 ff.
 Hyperborean offerings 497 oracular caldron 214 priests go with unwashen feet 960₀ priests sleep on ground 960₀
Priests: Ἕλλοί 677 f. Σελλοί 960₀ τόμαροι (τόμοιροι) 693₃
Priestesses: 'Fly' 215₁ πελειάδες 350
 693₃
Myth: Hellos 677 f. 848
 — bronze statuettes of Zeus from 739 1222 (?) Coreyraean whip at 826 851 double axe of iron from 678

Dodona (cont.)

gong at 133₀ 214₁ 826 1226 oak at 413₂ 677 692 848 painting of 677 small votive axes from 648 677

Dogs-heads 679

Dokimeion, coin of 756₂

Doliche

Cult: Zeus Δολιχαῖος 745₁

Domitian

Personates Zeus 97₀ 1194 cp. 811₅

Domitilla, Catacomb of 1205 f.

Donar

Functions: autumn 62 f. fertility 63₁ thunder 63₁

Etymology: 63₁

Attributes: hammer 64₀ 609 birch (?)
642₃

Identified with Hercules 62 f. 63₁ 64₀
94₁ Iupiter 64₀ 95₂ Vulcanus 63₁

Donatus as author of the scholia P.

Danielis on the commentaries of Servius 1059 cp. 468₁

Donuca, Mt 55

Dorians, Agyieús-pillars of 165 f. originally an Illyrian tribe 341

Dorylaeion

Cults: Aphrodite 281 Apollon 281
Augustus 281 Dionysos 280₁ Homonoia Σεβαστή 280₁ Mother of the gods 281 Poseidon 281 Sarapis
281 Zeus Βροντῶν 280₁ 833₄ 836
Zeus Δίος (rather than Δίος) 280 f.
Zeus Μεληρός 280₁ Zeus Παπίας
Σωτήρ 292₄ Zeus Πατρώος 280₁ Zeus
Σημαντικός 280₁
— bust of Zeus Βροντῶν from 836 coins of 280₁ seven tribes at 281

Dorylaos (?) 280₁

Dotion

Cult: Demeter 497₅ 683 f.

Myth: Erysichthon 497₅ 683 f. 848

Douris 122₀

Draccena (= Δράκαινα)

Cult: Blatsche 1084

Dracco (= Δράκων, i.e. Glykon)

Cult: Blatsche 1084

Drakon, king of Thebes in Boiotia 1087

Drakon, the river See Orontes

Drepanon in Achaia

Myth: so called after the δρέπανον of Kronos 448₀

Drepanon (Drepane) in Bithynia

Myth: so called after the δρέπανον of Zeus 448₀

Drepanon (Drepane) = Phaiakia or Korkyra 448₀

Drepanon = Zankle in Sicily 448₀

Dreros

Cult: Zeus Ταλλαῖος 948₁

— oath of 730₀

Drios, Mt, in Naxos

Cult: Zeus Μηλώσιος 918₁

Droiophoroi 411₀

Druids regarded oak-mistletoe as fallen from heaven 643

Dryades 276 683 f.

Dryope

Myth: loved by Apollon 485 f. 486₅

Metamorphosed into black-poplar 486 lotus-tree 486₂

Genealogy: m. of Amphissos by Apollon
486 w. of Andraimon, s. of Oxylos
486 Superseded by Daphne 486

Dryopes

Cult: πόποι 293₀

— migration of 458 (?) 1123 (?)

Dryops

Genealogy: s. of Apollon by Dia, d. of Lykaon 486₁ 486₅ s. of Spercheios by the Danaïd Polydora 486

Dryos 972₀

Duana 339₀ See Diana

Durocortorum 359₃

Dyauš 1228

Dyrrhachion by euphemism for Epidamnos (?) 1112₇ coins of 1159₁

Dysaules (= Hades?) 131 f.

Genealogy: f. of Eubouleus and Triptolemos 132 f. of Protogone and Misa by Baubo 131

Ebal, Mt, and Mt Gerizim as two-peaked cosmic mountain (?) 888₀₍₀₎

Ebdomaia 237₀

Ebimi near Amaseia

Cult: Zeus Στράτιος 976₀

Echekrates 209₃

Edessa

Cults: Helios 428 Monimos and Azizos
428 Tyche 429 f.

— coins of 429 f. columns of 428 ff.

Eëtion 317

Egeria

Etymology: 418₀ (?)

Identified with Diana (?) 418₀

Egesta See Segesta

Egypt

Cults: Agdistis Επήκοος 1228 Ammon
767₂ Amoun 293₀ 889₀₍₀₎ ape 987₀
Apis 942₀ baboon 987₀ benefactors of society 1132₀ Bes 457 cat 987₀ crocodile 987₀ double axe 545₀ fire
34₁ HA of the Double Axe 545₀
Hermes 382₂ Horos 255 ibis 987₀
Kneph 1127₀ Min 767₂ Mouth
(= Isis) 1038 Tefcnet 626₀ Zeus
1023

Rite: head buried separately from body and replaced by stone image 1218

Myths: anthropogony 1023 cosmic egg 1035 flight of the gods from Typhoeus 449₀ zoögonny 1023

— Homer indebted to 481₀ pyramids of 1145_{1(a)} 1145_{1(b)}

Eide (Ide), a Cretan Nymph

Genealogy: d. of Melissa by Amaltheia and st. of Adrasteia 933₀

Function: protectress of laws 933₀

- Eikthyrnir 305₀
 Eileithya
Cults: Gortyna 723₀ Hierapytna 723₀
 Megara 168₁ Phaleron 183 Priansos
 723₀ Tegea (?) 1148₄
Epithets: Βενάρια 723₀ ἤπια 184₂ λυσίζωος 184₂
Function: child-birth 709
Attributes: girdle 184 torch (?) 1148₄
- Eilenaia
Cult: Athena 625
 — Epeios' axe in temple at 625
- Eirene
Cult: Eumeneia in Phrygia 970₀
Epithets: εὐσεβειστάτη Σεβαστή 970₀
 Λιπαρή 954₀ φιλόλογος 931₀
Personated by Marcia Otacilia Severa,
 w. of Philippus i 970₀
- Eisenlaci 224₁
- Ekbatana, axe-head from 632₀ Ktesias on 832
- Ektenes 824₀
- El
Identified with Kronos 558₀
- Elagabalos
Cult: Emesa (?) 814₃
- Elaiia in Aiolis
Cults: Theos Βασιλεὺς Εὐμένης Σωτήρ
 (= Eumenes ii) 960₀ Zeus Σωτήρ
 955₀
- Elakataion, Mt. in Thessaly
Cult: Zeus Ἡλακαταῖος or Ἡλακατεὺς
 397₀
- Elaphebolia 1140₄
- Elasson in Thessaly
Cult: Zeus Κεραῖνιος 808₀ (13)
- Elateia in Phokis
Cult: Athena Κραναία 1158₁₀
- Elaton, charioteer of Amphiaraios 1071
- Elatos, f. of Ischys 1089
- Elatos, Lapith chief 471
- Elchanos (?) = Velchanos
Cult: Knossos 948₀ (3)
- Elektror
Etymology: 397₀ 947₀
 See also Helios Epithets ἠλέκτωρ
- Elektra, d. of Agamemnon 1132₀
Etymology: 397₀ 947₀
- Elektryon
Etymology: 397₀
- Elektryone (Alektroina)
Cult: Ialysos 499
Rite: precinct must not be entered by horse, ass, mule, etc., nor by any one with sandals or articles made of pig-skin 499₅
- Eleos
In relation to Zeus 875₁ (2)
 — altar of 875₁ (2)
- Eleusis
Cults: Demeter 314₀ 314₂ 730₀ Hades
 314₀ 314₂ Kore 314₀ 314₂ Persephone
 132₂
Rites: burial within the house 1060 exhibition of corn-ear 291₂ 292₀
- Eleusis (cont.)
 295₂ myrtle-wreaths 1165₁ mysteries
 132₂ poppy-heads 1165₁
Priest: Ιεροφάντης 291₂ 292₀
 — katabasion at 14 Telesterion at 1229
- Eleuther 190₀
- Eleutherai
Myth: Antiope 1013
- Eleutheria
Cult: Kyaneai 101₁
Epithets: Ἀρχηγέτις Ἐπιφανής 101₁
- Eleutheria, the festival 974₀ (?) 1121₀
- Eleuthernai (Eleutherna)
Cults: Apollon 456₇ Apollon Στυρακίτης
 491₀ (6) 492₀ (10) Artemis 492₀ (10)
Myth: Eleuther (?) 190₀
 — coins of 491₀ (6)
- 'El 'Ōlām
Identified with Jehovah 1037
- Elias, St
Cults: Beuyuk Evlia near Amaseia
 975₀ Mt Helikon 898₅ Homolion
 1227 Mt Hymettos 897₅ Lebadeia
 899₂ Paros 875₁ (5)
Epithets: Dry 251₀ Wet 251₀
Attribute: chariot 820
Supersedes Zeus 875₁ (5) 894₁ 894₃ 897₅
 898₅ 899₂ 902₁ 906₀ 922₄ 1073
 1227
 — ascends to heaven by the Milky Way 38₅
- Elijah 138₀
- Elioun
Cult: Byblos 886₀ (30)
Epithet: Ἐψιστος 886₀ (30)
Genealogy: f. of Epigeios (Autochthon)
 Οὐρανός and Ge by Berouth 886₀ (30)
- Elis
Cults: Aphrodite Οὐρανία 68₁ Athena
 Ὀπλοσμία 291₀ Dionysos 932₀
 Dionysos Ἡρώς 823₁ Hera Ὀπλοσ-μία 291₀ Myiacoeres 783 Sosipolis
 1151 Zeus Ἀπόμυιος 783 Zeus
 Ὀλύμπιος 728₀
Myth: Salmoncus 825
- Elisha 1134₄
- Elmo, St, fires of 980₀
- Elnes (?) 1149₂ (1)
- Elpides See Dios Elpides
- Elysian Plain (Fields) 224₁ 117 465 469
- Elysian Way 36 ff. 117 840
- Elysium 22 133 840
- Emathia, hill at Antiocheia on the Orontes
Cult: Zeus Βορτιαῖος 1187 f.
- Emesa
Cults: Aglibolos 814₃ Athena 814₃
 Belos (?) 814₃ Elagabalos (?) 814₃
 Iarebolos 814₃ Keraunos 814₃ Mala-chbelos (?) 814₃ Seimia (?) 814₃
 Semiramis (?) 814₃
 — relief from 814₃
- Emmeram, St 135
- Emona
Cult: Laburus 609₃

Empedokles 358₆ 432 (?) 505₁ 852 1024
1033

Emporia 94₃ (?)

Emporion

Cults: Eros 1040 Persephone 1040
— coins of 1039 f.

Endoios 410₀

Enhodia

Cult: Larissa in Thessaly 1155
Epithet: Φαστικά (? from Thracian tribe 'Ασταλ) 1155₄
Associated with Zeus Μειλίχιος and Polis 1155

Eniautos (?) 1029 (in Prokl. in Plat. Cratyl.
p. 110, 20 Pasquali ἐνιαυτός Kern would read 'Ενιαυτός)

Enipeus 460

Enkelados

Myths: Athena 713 777₂ 909₀ Zeus
909₀
— in town-arms of Girgenti 915₀

Enneakrounos 1119 1119₄

Ennius, the twelve deities of 100

Enoch 38₅ 138₀

Enorches

Myths: born from egg laid by Daita or Daito (Daiso) w. of Thyestes 1021 founds temple of Dionysos 'Ενὸρχης 1021

Etymology: 1021

Enycus, f. of Homoloia 900₁

Eos See Heos

Ephaphos

Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Io 961₀

Epeios

Myth: wooden horse 625

Attribute: axe 613 625

Epeiros

Cult: Hadrian 1121₀
— coins of 763₁ folk-song from 828 f.
folk-tales from 671 f. 1006 f.

Ephesos

Cults: Artemis 1082 Artemis 'Εφεσία
405 ff. 962₂ Nyx 1021 Zeus 728₀
743₇ 962₂ Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 962₂

Festivals: Barbillea 962₂ Hadrianeia 1121₀ Hadrianeia (Adriana, Adriania) Olympia 962₂

Rites: oath by Zeus taken over boar 728₀ thigh-pieces of oxen sacrificed to Zeus 962₂

Myths: Amazons 405 Hippo 405₃
— Artemision at 580₇ 637 f. 1230 coins of 408₀ 409₀ 743₇ 962₂ 963₀ columns dedicated by Kroisos etc.
at 580₇ oak-tree at 405 Olympieion at 962₂

Ephesos, personification of the town 319₅

Ephialtes, b. of Otos 129 f. 130₄ 317 712

Ephka, sacred spring at Palmyra 885₍₂₀₎

Ephraem the Syrian, St 116

Epidamnus See Dyrrhachion

Epidauros

Cults: Agathe 1126₀ Agathos Theos
1126₀ Aphrodite Μιλίχια 1144₃

Epidauros (cont.)

Apollon Μαλεάτας (Μαλεάτης) 487₃₍₁₎

Apollon Μαλεάτας Σωτήρ 487₃₍₁₎

Artemis Σαρανία 413₇ Asklepios

413₇ 1085 1177 f. Asklepios Zeus

Τέλειος 1076 f. Athena 'Οξυδέρκα

502₂ Auxesia 487₃₍₁₎ Azosioi Theoi

487₃₍₁₎ Ourania, the Carthaginian goddess 487₃₍₁₎ Tychai 487₃₍₁₎ Zeus

'Αποτρόπαιος 1157₀ Zeus 'Ασκληπιός

1061 1076 f. Zeus 'Ασκληπιός Σωτήρ

1076 f. Zeus Κάσιος 894₂ Zeus

Κτήσιος 1066 Zeus Μιλίχιος (?) 1144₃

Zeus Φίλιος 1177 f.

Rite: πυροφορήσας 1126₀

Priest: ιεραπολήσας 1126₀

Myth: Askles 1086

— coins of 1078 f. metopes (?) from temple of Asklepios at 1081 f.

Epidauros Limeria

Cult: Asklepios 1082

Myth: Asklepios arrives as snake on shipboard 1082

Epidotai

Cult: Pagasai 321₁

Epidotas

Cult: Argos 321₁

Epigeios (Autochthon) Ούρανός, s. of Eliouan

ΤΨιστος by Berouth 886₀₍₃₀₎

Epigonos 955₀

Epikouros, portrait-herm of (with Metro-doros) 390

Epimenides 191 222 451 929₀ 933₀ 934₀

940₀ (?) 941₀ 942₀

Epio, short form of Epione 1086

Epione, w. of Asklepios 1086

Epona 99₄ (?)

Epopous

Personates Zeus (?) 1146

Myth: 1013

Genealogy: f. of Marathon f. of Sikyon 1146

Identified with Zeus 445

Epula Iovis (Sept. 13 and Nov. 13) 1172₀

Er, ancestor of Joseph 54₁

Er, s. of Armenios 54 114

Er, the Germanic sky-god

Cult: Bavaria 51 1212

Identified with Ziu 50 f. 114

Erato, w. of Malos 488₀₍₁₀₎

Erebos

Epithet: ὀμιχλωῶδες 1022

Genealogy: child of Chronos or Herakles by Ananke or Adrasteia 1022
f. by Nyx of Aither, Eros, Metis 315₄ ep. 1050 f.

Erechtheion at Athens 24 789₇ 792 965₀
1148

Erechtheus

Cult: Athens 793 f.

Myths: slain by Poseidon 794 slain by Zeus 794 struck by thunderbolt 24

Genealogy: f. of Metion f. of Sikyon
1146 f. of Oreithyia 444 f. of Sikyon
1146 f. of Thespios 1151

- Erechthens (cont.)
Functions: king regarded as lightning-god 794 1071 lightning 793
Etymology: 793 1146
Identified with Poseidon 793 Zeus 793
Compared with Aleos 1147 Amphiaraios, Latinus, Aeneas 1071
- Eresos
Cults: Helios 729₀ Zeus 729₀
- Eretria
Cult: Zeus Ὀμολώιος 901₀
 — coin of 903₀
- Erichthonios
Myth: buried in precinct of Athena at Athens 944₀
- Eridanos
Myths: Phaethon and Heliades 472 ff. set in sky as constellation Eridanus or Flumen 476
Etymology: 481 483 (?) 1025
Attributes: branch 479 poplar 468 snake 479
Identified with Padus 476 Rhodanus 476
 — at first none other than Milky Way 481
- Eridanos, as original name of Phaethon 476₅
- Eridanus, the constellation 476 481 483₂
Identified with Neilos 481 1025 Okeanos 481 1025
- Eridu 482 f.
- Erikepaios (Erikapaios)
Cult: Thrace (?) 1025
Myth: swallowed by Zeus 1027
Functions: ἐτέρας ἐφορος δυνάμειος 1025 ζῶή 1024 ζωοδοτήρ 1024
Etymology: 1025
Identified with Eros 1039 Metis (masc.) 1024 1039 Phanes 1024 1039 Protonogon 1027 1039
In relation to Athena 1032
 — sceptre of 1026
- Erineos 1103
- Erinyes
Epithets: Ἀβλαβίαι 1113₀₍₁₎ Εἰμενίδες 1112₇ 1113₀₍₁₎ Σεμναί 1112₇ 1113₀₍₁₎
Rites: offerings without wine 1097₂
Myth: sprung from blood of Ouranos falling on Gaia 447₈
Type: deformed 1100₀
Associated with Zeus, Ge, and Helios 728₀ f.
 — euphemistic titles of 1112₇ 1113₀₍₁₎ increasingly subordinated to Zeus 1102₇
- Erinyes
Epithets: ἡεροφούτις 1102₇ νυμφόκλαυτος 1102₇ ὄρπα 315₃ ὑπερόποιος 1102₇
Functions: angry ghost 207₀ soul of murdered man 1100₀ 1101
Associated with Zeus and Moira 1102₇
In relation to Apollon 1102₇ Eros 315₃ Jupiter 1102₇ Pan 1102₇ Zeus 1102₇
- Eriza, coins of 565
- Ermine Street 91
- Eros
Cults: Aphrodisias 572₁₀ Athens 1043 Emporion 1040 Plarasa 572₁₀
Epithets: Ἄρπυς 315₃ Βακχεύς 316₀ θεῶν πάτερ ἤδὲ καὶ υἱὲ 316₀ πολυτελής 316₅ 1028 στίλβων νῶτον περὶ γοῦν χρυσαῖν 1020 1050 Φίλιος (?) 1176₃ Ψίδυρος 1043
Rite: mysteries 1167 f.
Myths: judgment of Eros 949₅ springs from egg laid by Nyx 1039 Typhoeus 449₀ Zeus transforms himself into Eros when about to create the world 316
Genealogy: a bone of contention 316₀ s. of Aphrodite (?) and Ouranos 316₀ s. of Aphrodite and Zeus 316₀ s. of Ge and Ouranos 315₄ s. of Nyx 1020 s. of Nyx and Aither 315₄ 1051 s. of Nyx and Erebus 315₄ 1050 f. (?)
Functions: cosmogonic 316 1019 ff. 1038 ff. funerary 309 male Erinyes 315₃ male Harpy 315₃ primeval power 315 f. soul 1039 ff. 1050 soul of the sky-god 315₃ specialised form of Ker 315₃
Etymology: 315₃
Attributes: χλαμῆς 1045 club 1046 globe 1047 lion-skin 1046 thunderbolt 1045 f. torch 309
Types: with Anteros 1221 with attributes of Herakles 1046 with attributes of Herakles and Zeus 1046 f. with attributes of Zeus 1045 ff. babe 1045 with bird-wings 1050 boy 1044 breaking thunderbolt 1045 bust 572₁₀ Byzantine 1050 carrying globe 1047 chasing butterfly 1047 child 1045 clinging to swan 1045 in cosmic egg 1048 with crossed legs and torch reversed (= Thanatos) 1045 embracing Psyche 1050 emerging from head of Pegasos 1040 genre 1045 ff. Graeco-Roman 1045 Hellenistic 860 1044 f. holding thunderbolt 1045 hovering youth 124₂ 261 737 on ladder 124₃ Lysippos (?) 1046 modern 1050 nursed by Hermaphroditos 152₀ pantheistic 1047 planting foot on globe 1047 psychostasia 734₃ Renaissance 1050 riding horse 1040 riding Psyche round race-course 1047 sailing on wine-jar 1047 schoolboy 1048 schoolmaster 1048 sitting on globe 1047 soul 315₃ standing on Aphrodite's arm 1043 steering murex-shell 1047 stepping down from behind shoulder of Aphrodite 1044 stripping Herakles of his weapons (?) 1046 torch-bearing 309 vintage 1050 winged mannikin 1039 ff. wingless (?) 1050

- Eros (cont.)
 as Zeus with thunderbolt and sceptre (?) 1045
Identified with Erikepaïos 1039 Metis (masc.) 1039 Phanes 1026 1039 Protoponos 1039 Zeus 1028 Assimilated to Herakles 1046 Zeus 1045 ff.
Associated with Psyche 1045
In relation to Ker 315₃ Psyche 315₃ Wind 1039 Zeus 316₃ 316₅
Survives as early Renaissance putto 1050
- Erotos
Types: coining money (?) 1047 f. fulling clothes 1048 genre 1047 f. making oil 1047 in nest 1049 selling wine 1048 twining garlands 1047 winged 1050 wingless 1050
Associated with Psychai 1047 f.
Erymne, old name of Tralleis 587₂
Erysichthon
Myths: Dotion 497₅ 683 f. 848 Prasinaï 497 — hunger of 683 f.
Erysichthon the Giant 684₄
Erythrai in Ionia
Cults: Ablabiai 1113₀₍₁₎ Apollon 730₀ Athena Ἀποροπαία 1157₀ Demeter 730₀ Zeus 730₀ Zeus Ἀποτρόπαιος 1157₀
- Esculapius (sc. Aesculapius) 1086
Esmun
Cults: Kition 1095₀ Phoinike 314₀
Type: obelisk 1095₀
Identified with Dionysos Σαβάτιος 314₀ Kadmilos 314₀
- Esquilinus, Mons 401
Essir-keui in Bithynia
Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₅
- Este
Cult: Rehtia 1220
- Esus
Cults: Gallia Belgica 547₀ Gallia Lugudunensis 547₀ 619
Attribute: axe 619
Associated with Iovis and Voleanus 547₀ 619 Mercurius and Rosmerta (?) 547₀
- Eteo-Cretans at Praisos 930₀
Eteokles
Genealogy: f. of Orchomenos and Minyas 1150₅ s. and b. of Oidipous 825₂
- Eteonos
Cults: Demeter Εὐρύοδεα 1152 Oidipous 1151 ff.
Myth: Oidipous 1152
- Etruria
Cults: Aesculapius 1085 f. Ani (= Ianus) 338₃ Charon 627₃ 803 Culśanś 378 Dioskouroi 431 f. 1064 god of the Underworld 805 f. 850 Tina (= Iupiter) 338₃ Tiv 339₀ Uni (= Iuno) 338₃ Usil 339₀
 — gold necklace from 528
- Etrusci, lightning-lore of 5₅ 805 mirrors of 160
EuBoia, three golden children in folk-tale from 1007 f.
Eubouleus (= Hades) 118₄ 1113₀₍₂₎
Functions: one of the first three Dioskouroi 1135₄ s. of the nether Zeus (?) 119₀
Identified with Phanes 1026
Euboulos 190₀
Euchaites (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
Eudaimonia
Cult: Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229
Eudoxos 222
Euicides (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
Euhemerios 342₀ 554₃ 588 927₁ 928₀ 981₁ 1087 1135₄ cp. 940₀
Eukleia, the goddess 118₃
Eukleia, the festival 118₃
Eukleides, s. of Kleagoras 1106 f.
Eukles (= Hades) 118₃ 1113₀₍₂₎
 See also Euklos
Euklos (= Hades) 118₃
 See also Eukles
Eukoline (= Hekate) 1114₀₍₄₎
Eumeneia in Phrygia
Cults: Agathos Daimon (= the emperor Philippus i) 970₀ Apollon 571 970₀ εὐμεβαστῆρη Σεβαστῆ Ειρήνη (= Marcia Otacilia Severa, w. of Philippus i) 970₀ Men Ἀσκαρνός 970₀ Meter Theon Ἀνγδιστις (= Ἄγγδιστις) 970₀ Zeus Σωτήρ 970₀
 — coins of 565 f. 571
Eumenes i divinised as Zeus Εὐμένης 960₀ 1228 f.
Eumenes ii divinised as Theos Βασιλεὺς Εὐμένης Σωτήρ 960₀
Eumenides
Rites: libation of μελκκρατον (water and honey) 1142₀ νηφάλια 1142
Genealogy: daughters of Nyx 825₁
Function: avenge bloodshed 1130₁
 — euphemistic names of 1113₀₍₁₎
Eumolpos, a flute-player 670
Euneidai 245₅
Euneos 245₅
Eunomia 954₀
Euphorbos, priestly ruler of Aizanoi 964₃
Euphranor 1126₀ 1127₀
Euphronios 121₃
Euripides, portrait herm of (with Sophokles) 389 tomb of, struck by lightning 9
Euromos
Cults: Dionysos 575₁ Dioskouroi 574 f. Zeus 572₇ 573₄ 574 f. 1220 Zeus Εὐρωμεὺς (?) 589₀ Priests: dedicate temple-columns 580
 — coins of 572 ff. 1220 site of 588₇
- Europe
Myth: Zeus 348 929₀ 1131₁
Compared with Themis 267₅
Euros
Type: horse 830₇

- Euryale 718
 Eurydike
 Myth: Orpheus 211₂ 1022
 Eurykomis 1141
 Eurymede, m. of Bellerophon 721₂
 Euryodeia (Euryodia)
 Genealogy: m. of Arkeisios by Zeus 1152₄
 Function: earth 1152₄
 Eurypylos 281₄
 Eurytos
 Genealogy: b. of Kteatos 317 s. of Molione, nominally by Aktor, really by Poseidon 1015₈
 Eusebeia, former name of Kaisareia in Kappadokia 978₀
 Eustasia 954₀
 Euthymos, statues of, struck by lightning 9
 Euxeinos by euphemism for Axenos 1112₇
 Exouanoun, old name of Aizanoi 964₃
 Eyuk, Hittite sculptures at 620 f.
- Fagus
 Cult: Aquitania 402₁
 Fagutal 401 403₀
 Falacer
 Cult: Rome 1226
 Epithet: Divus Pater 1226
 Falerii
 Cult: Ianus 373
 Festival: Struppearia 1171₁
 Fama 915₀ (?)
 Faolan 683
 Fata
 Attributes: baskets 862₁₀ scales 862₁₀
 Types: spinning 862₁₀ weighing 862₁₀
 Fauna
 Epithet: Bona Dea 724₀
 Faunus
 Associated with Picus 400
 Faunus, king of Aborigines 404₀
 Faustulus 1016
 Felicitas 71 (?) 98₁
 Fenians 682
 Fenrir (Fenris-wolf) 62₁ 305₀
 Feralia 19₀
 Fimmilena
 Cult: Eorcovicium 51₁
 Fin 682 f.
 Fintra 682
 Fisos (Fisovios)
 Cult: Umbria 724₀
 Epithet: Saucios 724₀
 Fiumicino, koïros of 1221
 Florianus, M. Annius, statue of, struck by lightning 10
 Flumen, the constellation 476
 Fons
 Cults: Ianiculum 368₃ Lambaesis 369₀
 Associated with (Aqua) Ventina and Vires 306₄
 See also Fontus
 Fonteii 368₂
- Fontes
 Cult: Rome 369₀ 401₀
 Associated with Iupiter Optimus Maximus Caelestinus 369₀ Iupiter Optimus Maximus Caelestinus and Minerva 401₀
- Fontus
 Cult: Tusculum (?) 368₂
 Genealogy: s. of Ianus 368 394₃
 Type: bifrontal 368
 See also Fons
- Fortinae See Nymphs
- Fortuna
 Cult: Rome 1195₂
 Function: one of the Penates 1059
 Attributes: cornu copiae 95₁ globe beneath foot 862₁₀ steering-paddle 95₁ wheel 57₆
 Associated with Iupiter 1195₂ Minerva 95₁ 96
 In relation to Minerva 95
 — on Iupiter-column (?) 71
 Frampton, Roman villa at 604
 Freyia 682
 Frijia
 Attribute: necklace 61₀
 Identified with Iuno 59 94₁
 Differentiated into Iuno and Venus 67
- Furiae 808₀₍₁₇₎ 1102₇
 Furi 368₂
 Furor 862₁₀
 Furrina
 Cult: Rome 808₀₍₁₇₎
- Gabriel 793₄
 Gadeira
 Cult: Herakles 423
- Gaia
 Cults: Delphoi 500 1216 Dodona 350₁ Laodikeia on the Lykos 1186 Pergamon 1185
 Epithets: ἀνθοτρόφος 1216 εὐρύστερνος 176₁ Μήτηρ 350₁
 Rite: drink-offering of honey and pure wine 1142₅
 Myth: birth of Zeus 925₁
 Genealogy: d. of Phanes by Nyx 1026 m. of Kronos 447₈ w. of Ouranos 447₈
 Function: primeval power 315
 Attributes: corn-ears 1186 cornu copiae 1185 1186 turreted crown 1185
 Types: recumbent 1885 standing 1185 f.
 See also Ge
- Gala 40₃ 43₄
 See also Galaxias, Milky Way
- Galaria or Galarina
 Cults: Dionysos 1133₁ Zeus Σωτήρ 1133₁
 — coins of 1133₁
- Galatia
 Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₅
- Galaxias 42₃ 42₄ 43₄
 See also Gala, Milky Way
- Galba 7

Galerius

Personates Iupiter 1194

Galla Placidia, Mausoleum of 1208 1208₀

Galli

Rite: use vervain for casting lots and chanting oracles 395₂

Gallia Aquitanica, coins of 1040

Gallia Belgica

Cults: Esus 547₀ Mercurius 547₀

Rosmerta (?) 547₀

Gallia Lugdunensis

Cults: Esus 547₀ 619 Iovis 547₀ 619

pear-tree 1215 f. Volcanus 547₀ 619

— burial within the house in 1059
tombstones dedicated sub ascia in 547₀

Gallos, king of Pessinon (?) 970₀

Ganymedes

Myths: buried on Mt Olympos in

Mysia 953₂ Mt Gargaron (Gargara)

950₀ golden vine 281₄ Tantalos

212₅ 953₂ Zeus 188₀ 281₄ 933₀

Genealogy: f. of Balleaios by Medesigiste 270₅

Types: with eagle 188₀ 189₀ with eagle and golden vine (?) 281₄

Gargaris, the district 949₅

Gargaron (Gargara), Mt 949₅ ff.

Cult: Zeus 950₀ ff.

Myths: Ganymedes 950₀ Paris 950₀

Zeus consorts with Hera 950₀

Gargaros, the town 950₀ 951₀ f.

Gargaros, s. of Zeus at (by?) Larissa in Thessaly 950₀

Gaza

Cults: Bes 674 Janiform god and goddess 673 f. Kronos (?) 675 Mar-nas 675 Rhea (?) 675 Satyric god

674 Zeus Ἀλδήμιος or Ἄλδος 675

1187₀ Zeus Κρηταγενής 675

— coins of 673 ff. cosmic picture at 828

Gazaka

Cult: fire 34₁

Ge

Cults: Alopeke 1115 Athens 729₀

Bosporos Kimmeris 729₀ Chersonesos Taurike 729₀ Delphoi 176₁

841 Dodona 350₁ Karia 729₀ Knidos

729₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀

Paphlagonia 729₀ Pergamon 729₀

955₀ Phaselis 729₀ Smyrna 729₀

Sparta 487₃₍₁₎ 729₀ Thermos in

Aitolia 729₀

Epithets: Εὐρυστέρνα 176₁ Εὐρύστερνος

176₁ Θεμέλη (= Σεμέλη) 279₃ Θέμις

176₁ 266 f. (?) 268₀ 841 (?) Θνώνη

279₃ Καρποφόρος 21₄ μᾶ 294₀ μέλαινα

176₁ μήτηρ 1023

Rite: οὐλαί, οὐλόχνηαι 18₀

Myths: golden apples 1020 f. Palikoi

909₀ sends up fig-tree to shelter

Sykeas or Sykeus 1103₅

Genealogy: d. of Eliou Ἰψιστος by

Ge (cont.)

Berouth 886₀₍₃₀₎ d. of Phanes by

Nyx 1026 m. by Ouranos of Klotho,

Lachesis, Atropos, the Hekatoncheires Kottos, Gyges, Briareos, and the Kyklopes Brontes, Steropes,

Arges 1023 m. of Aetos 933₀ m. of

Eros by Ouranos 315₄ m. of Kekrops

1121 m. of Manes by Zeus 312 m.

of Okeanos and Tethys by Ouranos

1020 m. of Titanes by Ouranos 1023

m. of Typhon by Tartaros 448₂ m.

of Zeus 294₀ w. of Zeus 292₄

Functions: fertility 267 crops 350₁

Attributes: κτεῖς 268₀ lamp mar-joram 268₀ omphalós 231 239 841

sword 268₀

Type: praying Zeus to rain 21₄

Identified with Apia (Api) 293₀ Chthonie

351₁ Semele 279₃ Themis 176₁

Associated with Poseidon 176₁ Zeus

266 f. 292₄ Zeus and Helios 729₀

884₀₍₀₎ Zeus, Helios, and Erinyes

728₀ f. Zeus Μολιχίος and Athenaia

1115 — omphalós of 231 239 1216

See also Gaia

Gebelēizis

Cult: Getai 227 805 822

Etymology: 227₁ 805 822 f.

Identified with Salmoxis (Zalmoxis)

227 822

See also Zibeleizis

Gela

Myth: Entimos and Antiphemos are bidden to beware of τὸν Τετράωνον

322₀ 322₇

Gelas, the river in Sicily

Type: bull 910₁

Geloni tattooed 123₀

Gemini 430 477₈

— Didyma named after (?) 318

Genes, river in Pontos 617

Genctaeon headland

Cults: Zeus Γενηταῖος 616 Zeus Εὐξείνος 617 1097₀ Zeus Ζένιος 617

Genii

In relation to Manes, Lemures, Larvae,

Lares familiares 1059

Genius

Cult: Mogontiacum 96₂

Epithet: generis nostri parens 1059

Genealogy: f. of Tages 1060 s. of

Iupiter 1060

Attributes: acerra 1060 patera 1060

Types: anthropomorphic 1060 snake

1060

Identified with Iupiter 1060 Lar

1059

Assimilated to Nero 1060

— of a man corresponds with Iuno of a woman 1059 on Iupiter-columns (?) 71

Genius Caeli Montis

Cult: Rome 400₁₁

- Genius Canabensium (?) 1214
 Genius Fontis
Cult: Lambaesis 369₀
Associated with Inpiter Propagator
Conservator 369₀
- Genius huius loci
Cult: Sirmium 1194₁
Associated with Inpiter Optimus Maximus 1194₁
 See also Genius loci
- Genius Iovialis
Function: one of the Penates 1059
- Genius Iovii Augusti
Cult: Rome 1194₁
- Genius Iovis 1060
- Genius loci
Cults: Divitia 64₀ Mogontiacum 620₂
 See also Genius huius loci
- Genius Neronis 96 98 cp. 1060
- Genzano 419 f. 420₁
- George, St 925₀
- Geraistos
Cult: Artemis Βολοσία 906₃
- Geraistos, Cape
Cult: Zeus (?) 903
- Geraistos, eponym of Cape Geraistos
Genealogy: s. of Zeus and b. of Tainaros 903₁
- Gerania, Mt
Cult: Zeus (?) 897₁
Myth: Megaros (Megareus) 897₁
- Gerizim, Mt
Cults: Iupiter Peregrinus 887₀₍₃₁₎
 Iupiter Sarapis (?) 888₀₍₀₎ 983₀
 Jehovah 887₀₍₃₁₎ mountain-top 888₀₍₀₎ the Virgin 888₀₍₀₎ Zeus Ἐλλήμιος 887₀₍₃₁₎ 983₀ Zeus Ξένιος 887₀₍₃₁₎ 983₀ Zeus Ἰψιστος 887₀₍₃₁₎ 888₀₍₀₎ 983₀
 — Antiochos iv Epiphanes and 1189₁ and Mt Ebal as two-peaked cosmic mountain (?) 888₀₍₀₎ ruins on 888₀₍₀₎
- Gerlando, St
Supersedes Zeus Ἀταβύριος or Πολλεύς 910₁
- Germanicus Caesar
Personates Zeus 260₀
 — house of 147
- Germans, divination of 635
- Germanus, St 214₀
- Geryones or Geryoneus
Myth: Milky Way 37₂
Epithet: τρικέφαλος 716
- Geta
Cult: Pergamon 1186
Personates Zeus 1186
- Getai
Cults: Gebeleizis 227 805 822 (See also Zibeizis) Salmoxis (Zalmoxis) 227 822 851 Zibeizis 822 851 (See also Gebeleizis)
 — spoils of 982₀ tattooed 123₀
- Ghel-Ghiraz near Amaseia
Cult: Zeus Σπράτιος 976₀
- Giant
Attributes: club 80 82 pair of clubs 80
Types: bovine 953₃ with snaky legs 76₀ 82
- Gigantes
Myths: attempt to reach heaven in folk-tale from Zakynthos 505 f. Gigantomachia 82 712 f. 752₄ 830₇ 831₁ 911₀ 953₃ 973₁ men made from their blood 1032 sprung from blood of Ouranos falling on Gaia 447₈
Types: hoplites 712 with horns 399₁ with leaf-shaped ear 399₁ with snaky legs 399₁ 973₁ 1213
 — as arms of Girgenti 911₀ 915₀
- Girgenti, arms of 911₀ 915₀ See also Agrigentum
- Gjölde in Lydia
Cult: Thea Ἰψιστη 881₀₍₂₀₎
- Glanum 359₂
- Glaukos of Anhedon 414₁
- Glaukos, s. of Minos
Myths: Iapyges 30 raised from dead by Asklepios 1087
- Glaukos, s. of Sisyphos 720 721₂
- Glykon
Cults: Abonou Teichos 1083 ff. 1114₀₍₇₎ Apulum 1084 Nikomedeia 1084
Epithets: βασιλεύς 225 Dracco (= Δράκων) 1084
Oracles: 225 1083 f.
Rite: mysteries 1084
Priests: δαδοῦχοι 1084 λεροφάνται 1084
Types: snake with human head 1084 snake with more or less human face 1084
Identified with Khnemu-snake 1084
- Gnathia, terra-cotta group from 831₁
- Gnossus See Knossos
- Gnostics, amulets of 625 f. 938₀ (?) 1084 double axe survives in teaching of 611 ff. formulae of 1084 tattooed 123₀
- Goitosyros See Oitosyros
- Golgoi
Cults: Theos Ἰψιστος 879₀₍₁₅₎ 980₃ Valc(h)anos (?) = Velchanos 948₀₍₅₎ Zeus Φαλκάνος (?) or Φαλχάνος (?) = Φελχάνος 948₀₍₅₎ — sarcophagus from 717 f.
- Gomphoi
Cults: Zeus Ἀκραίος 871₃₍₂₎ Zeus Παλάμιος 1099₀
- Gonai Dios Hyetion (later Deusion?), on Mt Tmolos 957₂
 See also Dios Gonai
- Gongosyros See Oitosyros
- Gongyle (?) 824₇
- Gonnoi
Cult: Athena Πολλάς 870₀
- Gordios (Gordies), s. of Midas 311₈
- Gorgippia
Cult: Theos Ἰψιστος 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 948₂

Gorgon

Type: with two snakes rising from shoulders and two others held in hands 930₀

Compared with 'Minoan' snake-goddess 930₀

In relation to Athena 502₂

See also Gorgoneion, Gorgones, Medousa

Gorgoneion 123₀ 375 377 457 717 757₆
808₀₍₁₇₎ 930₀ 1155₇

See also Gorgon, Gorgones, Medousa

Gorgones 718

Gortyna

Cults: Aphrodite 723₀ Apollon Ἰήθιος 731₀ Apollon Ἰήτιος (= Ἰήθιος) 723₀ Ares 723₀ Artemis 723₀ Asklepios 1085 Athena Πολιοῦχος 731₀ Athena ᾽Ωλερία 723₀ Eileithyia Βινάρια 723₀ Europe 946₀ 947₀ Hera 723₀ Hermes 723₀ Hestia 723₀ Korybantes (Kyrbantes) 723₀ Kouretes (Koretēs) 723₀ Leto (Lato) 723₀ Nymphs 723₀ 731₀ Velchanos (?) 947₀₍₂₎ Zeus 947₀ Zeus Βυδάτας 723₀ Zeus Δικταίος (?) 723₀ (Zeus) Φελχάνιος (?) 947₀₍₂₎ Zeus Κρηταγενής 731₀ Zeus ᾽Οράτριος 723₀ Zeus Σκύλιος 723₀

Festival: Velchania (?) 947₀₍₂₎

Myths: Zeus and Europe 947₀

— coins of 946₀ Pythion at 948₀ treaties of 934₀

Gortynia, district of the Morea, Kyklops in folk-tale from 993

Gortys

Cult: Asklepios 1090

Gosforth, the sculptured cross at 305₀

Gothia

Cult: Iupiter (Thor) 620

Goths 107₃

Gournia, 'Minoan' shrine at 538

Graeco-Libyans

Cult: Zeus 1111

Graeco-Scythian kings, coins of 607 f. 613

Greece, burial within the house in 1060 f. Sun, Moon, and Star in folk-tale from 1003 f.

Greuthungi 107₀Gryneion (Gryneia)

Cult: Apollon 489₀₍₄₎

Myth: contest of Kalchas with Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎

— omphalós at 167

Gümbet in Phrygia

Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄

— altar from 836

Günjarik in Phrygia

Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄

Gunther 447₆

Gwydion 52

Gyges 559 561 1023

Gythion

Cults: Helios 259₀ Selene 259₀ Zeus Βουλαίος 259₀ Zeus Τεράστιος 31

HA of the Double Axe

Cult: Egypt 545₀

Type: a mountain with two or more crests 545₀

Hades

Cults: Eleusis 314₀ 314₂ Samothrace 314₀ 314₂

Epithets: Ἄγασίλαος 1113₀₍₂₎ Ἄγῆσανδρος 1113₀₍₂₎ Ἄγῆσίλαος 1113₀₍₂₎ 1168₅ Ἄρκεσίλαος (?) 1156 Ἀρχέλαος (?) 1168₅ Δυσσάλης (?) 131 δυσκίνητος 1164₀ Εὐβουλεύς 118₃ 1113₀₍₂₎ Εὐειδής 118₃ 1113₀₍₂₎ Εὐκλειής (?) 118₃ Εὐκλής (?) 118₃ Εὐκλής 118₃ 1113₀₍₂₎ Εὐκλος 118₃ Εὐκόλος (?) 118₃ Εὐχάιτης 118₃ 1113₀₍₂₎ Ἡγεσίλαος 1113₀₍₂₎ Ἡγησίλαος 1113₀₍₂₎ Ἰσοδαίτης 1113₀₍₂₎ Κλύμενος 1113₀₍₂₎ 1113₀₍₃₎ κρατερὸς 1113₀₍₂₎ μέγας 666₂ Πασίαναξ 1113₀₍₂₎ Περικλύμενος 1113₀₍₂₎ Πλοῦτων 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολύαρχος 1113₀₍₂₎ 1168₅ Πολυθαίμων 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολυδέγμων 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολυδέκτης 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολύξενος (?) 1113₀₍₂₎ πολυξενώτων Ζήνα (v. l. Δία) τῶν κεκμηκότων 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολυπήμων (?) 627₃ Πυλόχοος 1113₀₍₂₎ πυλάρτης 1113₀₍₂₎ πυλάρτης κρατερὸς 1113₀₍₂₎ τοῦ κατὰ χθονὸς | Διὸς (αἶδου cold.) νεκρῶν Σωτήρος 1125₀

Attributes: fork (?) 227₄ 798 ff. 850 1225 horn (?) 785 rod 166₄ trident 800₀ two-pronged spear (?) 798 ff. white-poplar 471

Identified with Axiokersos (?) 314₂ Milky Way 42 43 Zeus 1058 Zeus καταχθόνιος 582₄

Associated with Zeus and Poseidon 785

— in Greek epitaphs 1164₀ marriage with 1164 ff. name of, taboo 1114₀

Hadran

Cults: Mt Aitne 630 Syria 910₀

Genealogy: f. of Palikoi 910₀

Identified with Hephaistos 630

Hadrian

Cults: Aizanoi 1120₀ 1121₀ Athens

1120₀ 1121₀ Epeiros 1121₀

Epithets: νέος Ἰήθιος 1120₀ Ὀλύμπιος

1120₀ 1121₀ Ἰανελλήγιος 1120₀ 1121₀

Ἰήθιος 1120₀ Ζεὺς Δωδωναῖος 1121₀

Festivals: Hadrianeia 1121₀ Hadrianeia (Adriana, Adriania) Olympia 962₂

Priest: president of Panhellenic council 1120₀ 1121₀

Personates Zeus 260₀ 280₁ 343₀ 956₀ 959₀ f. 962₂ 1120₀ 1121₀

— as favourite of Zeus Κάσιος 986₀

Hadrianeia 1121₀

Hadrianeia (Adriana, Adriania) Olympia 962₂

Hadrumetum

Cult: Deus Pelagicus Aeriis Altissimus Ἴδω 889₀₍₃₄₎

- Haeva
Cult: Batavi 64₀
Hageladas 741 ff. 749 890₆ 1222 1223
Hageladas, the younger (?) 742₃ 742₄
Hagia Triada
Cults: Dionysos (?) 522 524 double axe
 522 Velchanos 947₀₍₁₎ Zagreus (?)
 522 (Zeus) Φευχάρως 947₀₍₁₎
Rite: sacrifice of bull 517 522
 — sarcophagus of painted limestone from 516 ff. 652 657 677 692 845
Hagios Onuphrios, spear-head from 799
Haimonioi
Cult: Korybas 295
Haimos, Mt 108
Myth: Zeus fights Typhon 449₀
Halaea See Alaisa
Halieus 715₄ 1037
Halikarnassos
Cults: Aphrodite (Ἀκράτα?) 872₀₍₅₎
 Apollon Ἀγυιεύς 163 Artemis 164₃
 Hermes 872₀₍₅₎ Zeus Ἀκραίος 872₀₍₅₎
 ep. 872₀₍₆₎ 963₃ Zeus Ἀσκραίος
 872₀₍₆₎ Zeus Κώμυρος 1228 Zeus
Λαβράνδος 585₃
Myth: Pegasus 721₂
 — coins of 721₂ 872₀₍₅₎ the Mausoleion at 1146₀₍₀₎
Hallowmas 326₄
Hallstatt, axe-heads from 618 632₆ 635
Halmos, s. of Sisyphos and f. of Chrysgone 1150₄
Halos
Cult: Zeus Λαφύστιος 904₁ 1226
 — coins of 904₁
Ham 35
Hamar (Hamer) 660₁
Hapi Kema 772₁
Hapi Mehit 772₁
Hariasa 57₃
Harii tattooed 123₀
Harma near Mykalessos 815₇ 816₀
Harma near Phyle 815 831₀ 898₀
Harmodios 1172
Harpasa 958₀
Harpasos, s. of Kleinis 463₁
Harpe = Phaiakia or Korkyra 448₀
Harpe, w. of Kleinis 463₁
Harpokrates
Cults: Athens 985₀ Pelousion 986₀
Function: youthful Horos 986₀
Attributes: hem-hem crown 986₀ pomegranate 986₀ sceptre 986₀
Associated with Pan 986₀
Harpolykos 713 (?)
Harpy
In relation to Eros 315₃
Harpyiai
Myth: pursued by Boreadaï 907₂
Hathor 409₀
Hati 305₀
Hebe
Epithet: πότηρια 584₀
Type: introduction of Herakles to Olympos 737
Hebrews 115₂
Hecate
Cult: Rome 835₆
Genealogy: m. of Ianus by Caelus 368₃
 See also Hekate
Heddernheim
Cult: Deus Casius 983₀
Hegesilaos (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
Heimdallr 305₀
Hekaerge (Arge) 452 452₁₁ 501 1226
Hekaergos 452 f.
Hekate
Cults: Lagina 714₂ Panamara 879₀₍₁₇₎
 Panormos near Kyzikos (?) 882₀₍₀₎
 Rome 307₀ Stratoniikeia 714₂ 714₃
Epithets: Ἀρστη Χθονία 1114₀₍₄₎
Δαδοφόρος 714₃ Εὐκολλητή 1114₀₍₄₎ θεῶν μήτηρ 328₇ καλλιγένηθλος 328₇
Καλλίστη 1114₀₍₄₎ Κράταις 1114₀₍₄₎ μεγασθενής 328₇ πολυώνυμος 328₇ προθυραία (προθύραει?) 328₇ Σώτειρα
 879₀₍₁₇₎ Χθονία 1114₀₍₄₎ Σθονική (sic)
 695₀
Festival: πανηγύρεις 714₂
Rite: libation of honey 1142₈
Priest: hierofanta 307₀
Genealogy: d. of Demeter 1032
Attributes: kálathos with crescent 714₂ torch 714₂
Types: Hecatae 307₀ holding torches 187₄ (?)
Identified with Artemis 1029 1032
 Bendis 314₀ Kabeiro 314₀ Semiramis 695₀
Associated with Zeus 714₂ 714₃ (Zeus) Βροντῶν 835₀ 838
 See also Hecate
Hekatoncheires
Genealogy: sons of Ouranos by Ge 1023
Hektor
Cult: Thebes in Boiotia 961₀
Myths: Apollon 459 buried at Ophrynon 961₀ sacrifices to Zeus 950₀ ep. 8
In relation to Paris 447₅ Zeus 8
Heleia 930₀
Cults: Artemis 931₀ Athena 931₀ Atlas 931₀ Hera 931₀ Leto (?) 931₀ Nike 931₀ Poseidon (?) 931₀ Zeus 931₀ Zeus Δικραίος 930₀ 931₀ 932₀
 See also Palaikastro
Helene
Cult: Tyndaris 918₀
Myths: brought up as d. of Leda 1015 dedicates electrum cup, modelled on her own breast, in temple of Athena at Lindos 346₀ Menelaos 1044
Genealogy: d. of Tyndareos 918₀ d. of Zeus by Leda and st. of Klytaimestra 1015₇ d. of Zeus by Nemesis 1131₁
Type: radiate 432₂ (?)

Helene (cont.)

Associated with Dioskouroi 432₂ (?)
1003 ff.
— in folk-tales 1003 ff.

Helenos

Myth: founds Bouthroton (Bouthrotos) in Epeiros 348₆

Heliadai 479

Heliades

Myths: escort Parmenides up Milky Way 42 f. 476 shed tears of amber
484 499₄

Metamorphosed into alders 472 blackpoplars 472 484 f. larches (?) 402₀
472₀ oaks 472₁₀ poplars 472 483 495

Types: mourning 479 transformation into trees 473 ff.

Helikon, Mt

Cults: St Elias 898₅ Zeus 'Ελικώνιος
898₅

Myths: Muses dance round Hippo-krene and altar of Zeus 898₅ singing-match with Mt Kithairon 899₀

Heliopolis in Syria

Cults: Iupiter 886₀₍₃₀₎ Iupiter Heliopo- litanus 745₁ Zeus 886₀₍₃₀₎

Helios

Cults: Alexandria 889₀₍₃₃₎ Apollonia in Illyria 485 Athens 729₀ 1114
Badinlar, in Phrygia 568 Bosporos Kimmerios 729₀ Chersonesos Taurike 729₀ Edessa 428 Eresos 729₀
Gythion 259₀ Karia 729₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀ Paphlagonia 729₀
Pergamon 729₀ 955₀ 1185 Phaselis
729₀ Rhodes 469 Sahin in Phoinike (?) 880₀₍₃₀₎ Smyrna 729₀ Sparta 729₀ Mt Taleton 890₂ Thermos in Aitolia 729₀

Epithets: 'Ανέκτρος (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎ ἡλέκτωρ
499₂ 499₃ 499₄ Νέος 98₀ ὁ προσπάτωρ
θεός... Πύθιος 'Απόλλων Τυρμναίος 562 ὁς πάντ' ἐφορᾷς καὶ πάντ' ἐπακούεις 728₀ πατήρ 1130₁

See also Elektor, Hyperion

Festival: Tlapolemcia 469

Rite: sacrifice of horses on Mt Taleton
890₂

Priest: ιερεὺς 562₂

Personated by Nero 98₀ 254 254₅

Myths: Auriga 477₇ Cygnus 477₇
Eridannus 477₇ Hyades 477₇ Phae-thon 473 ff.

Genealogy: f. of Elektryone (Alek-trona) 499 f. of Pasiphae 947₀ f. of Phaethon by Klymene 473₃ f. of Triopas by Rhodos 684₂ forefather of Idomeneus 947₀

Attributes: cock 947₀ torch 478 wreath of white-poplar 469

Types: bust 1185 bust on couch 1171₃
colossal 254₅ in four-horse chariot 975₀ on horseback 473 475 475₀ 478 radiate bust with crescent (!) 664₁ radiate head, facing 469; seated 479

Helios (cont.)

Identified with Antoninus Pius 321 f.
Apollon 164₁ 562 568 Apollon and Dionysos 253 f. Lairmenos 568
Mithras 886₀₍₃₀₎ (?) Phanes 1051
Theos Hypsistos 882₀₍₁₎ Tyrinnos
562

Associated with Monimos and Azizos
428 Selene 1171₃ Zeus and Ge 729₀
884₀₍₁₀₎ Zeus, Ge, and Erinyes 728₀ f.
Zeus, rivers, earth, and chthonian powers 728₀ Zeus Μετλίχιος 1114

Supersedes Apollon 730₀

Superseded by Phoibos 'Απόλλων 500

— connected with Aurelii 321 gates of 41 horses of 828 851

Hell

Types: gaping monster 138₀ harrowing of Hell 138₀

Hellanikos 1023

Hellas personified 853

Helle

Myth: golden ram 899₁

Hellenes, the Thessalian tribe 894₃

Helloi 677

Hellos 677 f. 848

Hemitheia

Cults: Kastabos 670 f. Tenedos 670 f.
847

Myths: sent to sea in a coffer 669 ff.
swallowed by earth 670

Functions: childbirth 671 cures 671 earth 670 f. 673

Henny-penny 54₃

Heos (Eos)

Myths: psychostasia 734 supplicates
Zeus 753₃

Genealogy: m. of Memnon by Tithonos
281₄ cp. 734

Hephaestia in Lemnos

Cult: 'Επήκοος Theos Τψιατος 878₀₍₇₎

Hephaestion (Hephaestia) in Lykia 972₁

Hephaistos

Cults: Mt Aitne 630 Olympia 706₅
Olympos in Lykia 972₁ Siderous
972₁

Epithet: 'Ολύμπιος in Lykia 972₁

Myths: presents Polytechnos with double axe 693 sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ 1132₄ 1132₀ shield of Achilles 972₁

Genealogy: f. of crabs 665 667 f. of Palikoi 910₀ f. of Thaleia and gf.
of Palikoi 909₀

Attributes: blue pilos 386₅ dogs 630 double axe 709 f. perpetual fire 630

Identified with Chrysor 715 Hadran
630 Ptaḥ 34₁ Zeus Μετλίχιος 715

Associated with Athena 1137 Zeus 972₁ — road-making sons of (= Athenians) 817 cp. 628₄

Hephaistos, Mts of, in Lykia 972₁

Hera

Cults: Aigion 210₀ Amastris 707 Mt
Aracinaion 894₁ Argos 290₀ 515

Hera (cont.)

- 1144₂ 1156₅ Athens 1119₄ Boiotia 731₀ Chalkis in Euboia 981₀ Elis 291₀ Gortyna 723₀ Heleia 931₀ Hierapytna 342₀ 723₀ 1157₄ Itanos 929₀ Kebrenioi 130 Mt Kithairon 898₆ 899₀ Mt Kokkygion 893₂ Kroton 1021 Lebaeia 899₂ Lyttos 723₀ Messene 728₀ Mykenai 515 Mylasa 592 Olympia 706₅ Orchomenos in Boiotia 1150 Panionion 259₀ Paros 131 Phokis 731₀ Plataiai 899₀ Priansos 723₀ Mt Pron 893₂ Sparta 515 Sykaiboai 130 Tenedos (?) 662 Thebes in Boiotia 899₀ Thespiiai 899₀ Triphylia 291₀
- Epithets:* Ἀκρία 1156₅ Βασιλεία 731₀ Βασιλις 900₆ Ἐξακροστηρία 1093₁ Ζυγία 60₀ 695₀ 723₀ 954₀ Ἰσοτελής 1029 Κιθαίρωνία 899₀ Λακωνία 291₀ 1021 λευκώλωνος 343₀ Μηλιχία (= Μειλιχία) 1157₄ Ὀπλοσμία 290₀ 291₀ πότνια 583 584₀ Τελεία 893₂ 1150
- Rite:* libation from first kratēr to Zeus and Hera 1123₇ 1124₀
- Priests:* among Kebrenioi 130 among Sykaiboai 130
- Priestess:* virgin 210₆
- Personated by* Alkyone 1088
- Myths:* consorts with Zeus on Mt Gargaron 950₀ consorts with Zeus on Mt Oche 902₁ consorts with Zeus in Rhapsodic theogony 1029 golden apples 1021 Iason 1088 Kallisto 228₆ Merops (?) 1132₁ reconciled to Zeus on Mt Kithairon 898₆ retires to Euboia 898₆ rouses Titans to attack Zagreus 1030 sends crab to attack Herakles 665₃ taken by Rhea to Okeanos and Tethys 1020 transforms Aetos into eagle 933₀ wooed by Ephialtes 130 wooed by Ixion 1088 wooed by Zeus clandestinely 1020 wooed by Zeus on Mt Kokkygion 893₂
- Genealogy:* d. of Phanes by Nyx 1026 w. of Zeus 584₁ 954₀
- Attributes:* cuckoo-sceptre 893₂ lilies 515 lion-skin 515 sceptre 707 1178 (See also cuckoo-sceptre) sword 713 716 vervain 395₂ vine-wreath 515
- Types:* branch of tree 899₀ enthroned 706₆ Gigantomachy 713 introduction of Herakles to Olympos 771 Janiform head (with Zeus) (?) 662 lopped tree-trunk 899₀ Polykleitos 893₂ 1143₁ 1178 with vine-wreath and lion-skin 515
- Identified with* Semiramis 695₀
- Associated with* Zeus 259₀ 592 707 776₃ 893₂ 894₁ 900₀ 1137 1144₂ 1150 1157 Zeus and Athena (=Capitoline triad) 319₇ Zeus, Demeter Θεσμοφόρος, Kore, Baubo 259₀

Hera (cont.)

- In relation to* Zeus 693
- Supersedes* Rhea 515
- Superseded by* ἡ ὑπεραγία Θεοτόκος 1119₄
- garden of 1021 meadow of 1021 tear of (vervain) 395₂
- Heraia 757
- Herakleia ad Latmum
- Cult:* Zeus Λαβράνδος 585₃
- treaty of, with Miletos 318₀
- Herakleia Pontike
- Cult:* Zeus Σπράτιος 976₀
- Myth:* Herakles plants two oaks 976₀
- coins of 560₃
- Herakleia Salbake
- Cult:* Asklepios 1080
- coins of 1080
- Herakleitos 12 13₁ 130₇ 805₆ 852 855₂ 856₆ 858₆ 1024 (?) 1033
- Herakles
- Cults:* Acharnai 163₃ Aigion 742₅ Arnepolis (? in Mesopotamia) 469₁ Athens 163₄ 875₁₍₂₎ 1116 f. Baris in Pisidia 446 f. Chios 1157₁ Gadeira 423 Kaulonia (?) 1041 f. Mt Laphysation in Boiotia 899₀ Mt Oite 903₂ Rhodes 469 Rome 783 Selge 492₀₍₀₎ Selinous 489₀₍₀₎ Senones (?) 445 f. Skythia 292₄ Tarsos 560 Tyre 423 f.
- Epithets:* Αἰγύπτιος 7₂ ἀνίκητος 292₄ Ἀπόμμιος 783 Διὸς παῖς 273 Χάρουψ 899₁
- Personated by* Nero 98₀
- Myths:* Antaios 134₁ apples of Hesperides 134₁ brings white-poplar from banks of Acheron 469 brings wild-olive from land of Hyperboreoi to Olympia 466 brings wild-olive from Istrian land 501 Cerynean hind 465 f. 843 cuts club from wild-olive on Saronic Gulf 466 Geryones 37₂ Hesperides 1017 Hippolyte 559 f. Hydra 665₃ Hyperboreoi 1041 (?) Kerberos 469 899₁ Kerkopes 1041 f. (?) Kyknos 274₀ makes wild-olive spring up at Troizen 466 Omphale 559 560₅ pillars 422 f. plants two oaks beside altar of Zeus Σπράτιος at Herakleia Pontike 976₀ pyre 23 903₂ rape of Delphic tripod 199₂ sacks Oichalia 902₂ sacrifices to Zeus on Mt Kenaion 902₂ sacrifices to Zeus at Olympia 467 slays Kalchas, of Siris in Lucania 490₀₍₀₎ Tarsos 570₄ worried by flies at Olympia 783
- Genealogy:* b. of Iphikles 317 1017 f. of Telepolemos 469
- Functions:* ἡ δύναμις τῆς φύσεως 434₃ time 469, world-creating 1023
- Attributes:* apple (?) 445 bow and club 446 knife (?) 445 lion-skin 1116 sword, bow, and club 446 wreath of poplar 388₈ wreath of white-poplar 469

Herakles (cont.)

Types: beardless 742₅ dicephalous 445 ff. double bust (with Hermes) 388 fighting Centaur 615₂ (?) four-armed 446 Gigantomachia 777₂ Hageladas 742₅ introduction to Olympus 735 ff. 771 1167 Janiform (bearded + beardless) (?) 388₈ Lysippos 1046 Myron 1078 snake with heads of god, snake, lion 1023 stripped of weapons by Eros 1046 winged snake with heads of god, bull, lion 1022 with club and bow (?) 903₂ with Theseus and Peirithoos 211₂ wreathed with white-poplar 469

Identified with Dius Fidius (?) 724₀ Ophiouchos 241₄ Sandas 560

Associated with Apollon 241₁ Asklepios 241₄ Zeus 492₀₍₀₎ Zeus and Athena 1078 Zeus, Athena, Apollon 875₁₍₂₎ Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 1157₁ Zeus Παπίας Σωτήρ 292₄

Compared with Asklepios 241₄

In relation to Iphikles 445 447₅

— hunger of 683 pillars of 422 f. pyre of, on Mt Oite 903₂

See also Hercules

Herculeaneum, paintings from 143 f. 1202 f.

Hercules

Cults: Batavi 64₀ Rome 400₁₁ 469 783 Thessalonike 1194₄ Tibur 328₃

Epithets: Augustus 65₀ 1194₄ Barbatus 64₀ Deuonienensis 57₃ Iulianus 400₁₁ Magusanus 57₃ 64₀ Maliator 64₀

Personated by Commodus 255₀ 400₁₁ (?) 903₂ Maximian (Herculius) 903₂

Myth: Myiagrus 783

Function: autumn 62 f. 94₁

Attribute: club 62 f.

Types: bearded 62 64₀ colossal 254₅

Identified with Donar 62 f. 63₁ 64₀ 94₁

Associated with Apollo and Diana 59₀ Iuno, Mercurius, Minerva 57 ff. Iupiter 1194₄ Minerva and Iuno 89

In relation to Iupiter 95₂

— on column of Mayence 96

See also Herakles

Hercynian Forest 466

Herkyna

Cult: Lebadeia 1073 1075

Myth: Kore 1075

Function: stream-goddess 1075

Attributes: goose 1075 snake coiled round staff 1075

Associated with Zeus 1073 1075

Compared with Demeter 1075 Hygieia 1075

Herkynia 1075

Hermaizontes 1157₃

Hermaon See Hermes

Hermaphroditos

Myth: reared by Naiades on Mt Ide in Crete 933₀

Types: herm 1091 nursing Eros 152₀

Hermeias See Hermes

Hermeracrae 388

Hermes

Cults: Ainos in Thrace 496₀ Athens 1043 1117 Egypt 382₂ Gortyna 723₀ Halikarnassos 872₀₍₅₎ Hierapytna 723₀ Kaulonia (?) 1042 Kyzikos 834 Magnesia ad Sipylum (?) 957₀ Metapontum 118₃ Mostene 563 Nisyros 1157₃ Olympia 231₈ 859 878₀₍₅₎ Orchomenos in Boiotia 1150₀ Peiraiens 487₃₍₁₎ Polyrrhenion 1042 Priansos 723₀ Tallaiia range 948₁ Thespiai 1150₀ Troizen 466 Volaterrae (?) 383

Epithets: Αγώνιος 1042 (?) 'Αργειφόντης 385₀ ἀργειφόντης 384₀ 956₂ διάκτορος 384₀ 954₀ 956₂ διπρόσωπος 382₂ Δρόμιος 1042 δῶτορ ἑδων (ἑδων) 385₀ 'Εραγώνιος 859 Εὐκόλος 118₃ θέσιμος 876₀₍₈₎ θυραῖος 955₀ Καταιβάτης 14 κερδῶος 31₇ Κτάρος 384₀ οἰνῖος (?) 1042 Περφεραῖος 496₀ Πιλόγιος 466 Τρισμέγιστος 611 943₀ χαριδῶτα 385₀ Χθόνιος 14 1130₁ Ψιδυριστής 1043 ψυχσομοπῆς 563

Rite: libation from first kratēr 1124₀

Worshippers: 'Ερμαῖζοντες 1157₃

Myths: Amphion 1013 conducts goddesses to judgment of Paris 266 conducts Io to Zeus 961₀ consorts with Apemosyne 923₀ 924₀ Lykos 1013 sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ sinews of Zeus 449₀ slays Argos 379 f. steals oxen of Apollon 1042 (?) uses Typhon's sinews as lyre-strings 450₀ Zethos and Amphion 1019₂

Genealogy: f. of Pan by Penelope 691 s. of Pikos who is also Zeus 942₀ s. of Polyktor 384₀ s. of Zeus 385₀

Functions: bearer of oblations to the dead 384₀ chthonian 385₀ 1068 1075 dispenser of treasures 385₀ divinised ancestor (?) 1068 messenger 479 phallic 1068 pillar 383 slayer of Argos (?) 385₀ slayer with lightning-flash (?) 385₀

Etymology: 383₇

Attributes: caduceus 1117 endromides 713 lance 713 oinochoē 1117 pétasos 383 386 388 713 snakes 1111 vervain 395₂ winged caduceus 718 winged cap 718 winged hat 388 winged sandals 718

Types: bifrontal 341₀ 382 f. column or pillar of stone 384₀ double bust (with Dionysos) 388 double bust (with Herakles) 388 double bust (with Hestia) 392 double bust (with Zeus) 388 (?) Gigantomachy 713 heap of stones 383₇ 384₀ herm 152₀ 384₀ 834 955₀ Janiform head (with Zeus) 1219 Lysippos (?) 859₈ phallic post 384₀ Pheidias 479₀ psychostasia 733 resting 859₈ seated 751₁

- Hermes (cont.)
Identified with Kasmilos 314₂ Monimos 428 Phaunos 694₀ 943₀ Thoth 611 Trophonios (Trepthonios) 1075
Associated with Aphrodite 146₂ 872₀₍₅₎ 1043 Daimones 1150₀ Polis 1155₅ Zeus 957₀ (?)
Compared with Plouton 385₀ Zeus 385₀ Zeus Κτήσιος 384₀ Zeus Κτήσιος and Penates 1068 Zeus Πλουτοδότης 385₀ — blood of (vervain) 395₂ sceptre of 1132₄ 1132₆
- Hermes, the planet
Function: λόγος 558₀
- Hermione
Cults: Demeter Χθονία 1077 Trajan 1180₄ Zeus Ἀσκληπιός 1077 Zeus Ἀσκληπιός 1061 Zeus Ἐμβατήριος (= Trajan) 1006 1180₄
- Hermippe, d. of Boiotos 1150
- Hermopolis
Cults: ogdoad 701₀ Ostanes 701₀
- Herodotos, portrait-herm of (with Thoukydides) 389 f.
- Heroës
Cult: Athens 1123
Rites: food fallen on floor reserved for them 1129₂ libation from second kratér 1123
- Heroïs 240 242
- Heros
Cults: Alexandria 1127₀ Megara 896₀ 897₀ Olympia 897₀
- Hesiod, portrait-herm of (with Homer) 389
- Hesione, d. of Danaos 1150
- Hesperides
Epithet: λεγύφωνοι 1030
Myth: golden apples 1017 1021
- Hesperos 261 430₄ 430₅
- Hestia
Cults: Aigai in Aioliis 259₀ Athens 259₀ Delphoi 1216 Gortyna 723₀ Hierapytna 342₀ 723₀ Kos 19₀ 238₀ Lyttos 723₀ 934₀ Miletos 317₂ 1220 Paros 875₁₍₅₎ Pergamon 259₀ Phaleron 183 f. Philadelpheia in Lydia 960₀ 1229 Priansos 723₀ Skythia 292₄ Sparta 259₀ Syracuse 916₀
Epithets: Βολλαία (? Βόλλαία) 259₀ Βουλαία 259₀ 317₂ Δημήτη 875₁₍₅₎ Ταμία 19₀ 238₀
Rite: meal burnt 19₀
Personated by Agrippina, w. of Germanicus Caesar 260₀
Function: cosmic 43 316₀
Types: double bust (with Hermes) 392
Identified with Tabiti 293₀
Associated with Zeus 259₀ 317₂ 960₀ Zeus Εὐμένης 1223
- Heudonos 587
- Hiera in Lesbos
Cults: Apollon Μαλδεῖς 488₀₍₂₎ Artemis 488₀₍₂₎
- Hierapolis in Phrygia
Cults: Apolline hero 571 Apollon Ἀρχηγέτης 567 Attis 306₁ emperor 571 Lairbenos 566 Mother of the gods 306₁ youthful hero (?) (Lairbenos) on horseback bearing double axe 566 Zeus Βοῖτος (Βωῖτος) 570 Zeus Τρώιος 571₆
Festival: Hilaria 306₁ — coins of 565 f. 571 1158₀ katabasion at 14
- Hierapytna
Cults: Aphrodite 723₀ Apollon Πύτιος (= Πύθιος) 723₀ Ares 723₀ Artemis 723₀ Athena Πολιάς 723₀ Athena Σαλαμωνία 723₀ Athena Ὀλερία 723₀ Eileithyia Βυαρία 723₀ Hera 342₀ 723₀ Hera Μηλιχία 1157₄ Hermes 723₀ Hestia 342₀ 723₀ Korybantēs (Kyrbantēs) 723₀ Kouretēs (Koretēs) 723₀ Leto (Lato) 723₀ Nymphs 723₀ Zeus Βιδάτας 723₀ 934₀ Zeus Δικταῖος 342₀ 723₀ 929₀ cp. 930₀ Zeus Μηλιχίος 1157₄ Zeus Μοννύτιος 723₀ Zeus Ὀράτριος (= Φράτριος) 342₀ 723₀ Zeus Σκόθλιος 723₀ — coins of 342₀ oath of 723₀ 731₀ 929₀
- Hiera Syke 1103
Rite: exhibition of fig (?) 291₂ cp. 292₀ 1103
Myth: Demeter reveals fig to Phytalos 291₂ 1092₀ 1103
- Hierokaisareia in Lydia
Cults: Dionysos Ἱεροκραιῖος 1025 Theos "Ἐψιστος 881₀₍₂₀₎
Priest: ιεροφάντης 1025
- Hieron Oros in Crete 945₂
- Hieron, the potter 777
- Hieronimos 1023
- Hiketesia 1040
- Hilaeira
Cult: Sparta 1015₇
Associated with Phoibe 1015₇
- Hilaria 306₁
- Himera, coin of 558₁
- Hippa See Hipta
- Hippodameia, d. of Danaos 1150₂
- Hippodameia, d. of Oinomaos 706₅
- Hippodameia, w. of Autonooos 414₂
- Hippokrene 893₅
- Hippolyte, queen of the Amazons
Myth: Herakles 559 f.
- Hippolytos
Myths: Artemis 393 buried beside temple of Aphrodite Κατασκοπία at Troizen 944₀ death 414 f. Nemi 149 Phaidra and Theseus 1043 raised from dead by Asklepios 394₂ 1087
Genealogy: s. of Theseus 1087
Functions: mythical prototype of rex Nemorensis 399
Type: Janiform (with Virbins) 392 f.
In relation to Artemis 149 414 417

- Hippochoitis, a Tegeate tribe 1148 1149₀
 Hippochoon 1137₂
 Hippochoos, s. of Lethos 1154₃
 Hipta 347₀ (?) 957₂ (?)
 Hiram 425
 Hiranyagarbha 1035
Identified with Brahmā 1035 Prajāpati 1035
 Histie See Hestia
 Hittites
Cults: Artemis (?) 410₁ bull of bronze or iron or silver 910₁ dagger-god (akin to Kronos?) 550 ff. 845 god with grape-bunches and corn-ears 564 f. lion-god (akin to Kronos?) 550 ff. Sutekh 621 f. 623 Tešub 766₁ 767₀ 910, winged deities 457 youthful god bearing double axe 599₂ youthful god on lioness (?) 552
In relation to Amazons 560 Artemis Χιτώνη (?) 410₁ Iupiter Dolichennus 615 Tenedos 662 Zeus 'Αραβύριος in Rhodes 615 — axes of 560 double eagle of 779₂ reliefs of, from Babylon 766₁ 767₀ reliefs of, at Eyuk 620 f. reliefs of, from Sinjerli 767₀ rock-carvings of, at Boghaz-Keui 550 ff. 845 thunder-weapon of 790
 Hlōðyn 66₀
 Hludana 65₁ See also Hludena
 Hludena 65₁ See also Hludana
 Hōdhr
Myth: stabs Baldr with lance of mistletoe 305₀
 Holda 66₀
Functions: snow 66₀ spinning 65 66₀ winter 65 66₀
Identified with Minerva 65 66₀ 94₁
In relation to Milky Way 66₀
 Holden 66₀
 Holl 66₀
 Holle 66₀
 Holmos (?) 209₂
 Holy Cross Day 326₄
 Homer, apotheosis of 1203₄ indebted to early Orphic theogony 1020 omits mere magic 989 portrait-herm of (with Hesiod) 389
 Homole (Homolos), Mt
Cult: Zeus 'Ομολώιος (?) 904₄
 Homolion
Cults: St Elias 1227 Zeus 'Ομολώιος (?) 1227
 — bronze rings from 166₂
 Homoloia, d. of Enyeus 900₁
 Homoloia, festival of Zeus 'Ομολώιος 900₁
 Homoloion, Mt, near Thebes in Boiotia
Cult: Zeus 'Ομολώιος (?) 900₁
 Homonoia
Cult: Dorylaeion 280₁
Epithet: Σεβαστή 280₁
 Homoroka 558₀
 Honos
Type: with sheathed sword and captured armour 99
 — on column of Mayence 96 100
 Hopladamos (Hoplodamos?) 291₀
 Horaes
Associated with Ianus 336₀
 Horai
Genealogy: daughters of Zeus by Themis 37₁ 94₂
Functions: attendants of Zeus 94₂ seasons 479 year 94₂
Etymology: 94₂
Types: four Seasons pass over starry globe beside Tellus reclining under vine 373 four Seasons sent forth from the orbis annuus held by Iupiter 372 f.
Associated with Apollon and Pan (?) 165₀ Zeus 94₂
 — as attribute of Zeus 1138₅ symbols of 1054
 Horatii 363 f.
 Horatius Cocles, statue of, struck by lightning 9
 Horkos
Genealogy: s. of Eris 723₀ s. of Zeus 723₀
 Horomazes See Ahura Mazda
 Horos
Cults: Athens 985₀ Denderah 773₀ Egypt 255 Koptos 450₀
Myths: eye swallowed by Typhon 450₀ nursed by Isis 986₀
Genealogy: s. of Isis 126
Etymology: 255
Types: child seated on lotos 773₀ hawk on lotos 774₀ holding genitals of Typhon 450₀
Identified with Apollon 252 255
 — ladder of 126 soul of, identified with Orion 450₀
 Hortensii 117
 Hrinnir 682
 Hūdānś (= 'Υδηνός?)
Cult: Sardeis 1227 f.
 But see Παδάνς
 Hulda 66₀
 Hulle 66₀
 Hungary, prince with golden sun and princess with golden moon in folk-tale from 1012₁
 Hunni
Myth: sword of Mars 548₀
 Hyades 274 f.
 Hyades, the constellation 477
 Hyakinthia 246₁
 Hyakinthos
Myth: slain by diskos of Apollon 1156
In relation to Apollon 491₀₍₆₎ (?) 1042 (?)
 Dioskouroi 435 (?)
 Hyde, old name of Sardeis 1228
 Hydisos
Cult: Zeus 'Απειος 705 f. 848
 — coins of 705 f.

- Hydra
Myth: Herakles 665₃
- Hygieia
Cults: Oropos 1072 Philadelpheia in Lydia (?) 1229
Epithet: θεσπεσιή 954₀
Attributes: sceptre 1077 snake 1075
Type: seated 1072 1077
Identified with Salus 94₃
Associated with Amphiaraios and Pan 1072 Asklepios and Telesphoros 1078 Compared with Herkyna 1075
- Hyllos 902₂ (?)
- Hymenaios 1164₀
- Hymettos, Mt
Cults: Apollon Πρόβριος 897₅ Zeus 873₁ Zeus Ὀμβριος 897₅, 1226 Zeus Τμήτριος 897₅
- Hynnaron, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἰνναρείς 987₁
Etymology: 987₁
- Hypaipa
Cult: youthful hero with double axe and bay-branch in guise of Apollon Τέρμνος 564
- Hypata
Cults: Hermes 1155₅ Polis 1155₅
- Hypatios, St 32 f.
- Hypatos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἰπτατος 875₁₍₁₎ 898₂
- Hyperbios 712
- Hyperborean Land 465
- Hyperborean Maidens, arrival of, in Delos 453₃ bring bronze tablets to Delos 1226 grave of, in Delos 466 names of 452 f.
- Hyperboreoi 493 ff.
Cults: Apollon 501 844 Artemis Ὀρθία (?) 501
Epithets: δάμων... Ἀπόλλωνος θεράποντα 465 χιλιερείς 465 500₁
Rites: offerings sent to Apollon at Delos 497 ff. with pl. xxvi περφερέες 495₆ sacred things wrapped in wheat straw 497 498₂ 500 f. sacrifice of asses to Apollon 463 f. 843
Myths: Apollon 459 ff. 484 493 843 Delos 452 f. Delphoi 169 452 499 844 Herakles 466 1041 (?) Kroisos 465
Etymology: 494 ff. 495₆
In relation to Agyieüs-pillars 169 499 f. amber-routes 493 f. 497 ff. China (?) 495
- Hyperes, king of Troizen 414₂
- Hyperion
Epithet: ἠλέκτωρ 499₂ 947₀
Function: sun 947₀
- Hyperoche 452 f. 466 501
- Hyperochos 452
- Hyperphas 1122₇
- Hypnos
Cult: Sikyon 321₁
Epithet: Ἐπιδώτης 321₁
- Hypnos (cont.)
Genealogy: b. of Thanatos 317
Attribute: horn 1127₀
Types: 1127₀
- Hypseus 1123
- Hypsistarioi 885₀₍₂₈₎
- Hypsistianoi 885₀₍₂₈₎
- Hypsistos
Cults: Ak Tash (Temenothyrai?) in Lydia 881₀₍₂₀₎ Ioudaia 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₀₎ Kappadokia 885₀₍₂₈₎ Sari-Tsam in Lydia 881₀₍₂₀₎
Epithet: Παντοκράτωρ 885₀₍₂₈₎
Rite: lamp-lighting 881₀₍₂₀₎
Worshippers: Ἰψιστάριοι or Ἰψιστιανοί 885₀₍₂₈₎
 See also Eliou, Theos Hypsistos
- Hypsouranios 715₄ 981₁ 1037
- Hyria 30
- Hysmine 1141
- Hysminias 1141
- Ia, betrothed to Attis 970₀
- Iakchos
Epithet: Νέος 97₀
Personated by Antinoos 97₀
- Ialysos
Cult: Elektryone (Alektрона) 499
- Iambe
Myth: Demeter 821 851
- Ian
Identified with Zan 341 344 353 842
 — in the Salian hymn 330₀ 331₀ 341
 See also Ianus
- Iana
Epithet: Arquis 339₆
Functions: arches 339₆ moon 339₆
Etymology: 338₀ 340₂
 See also Diana
- Ianiculum 368₃
- Ianos See Ianus
- Ianus
Cults: Aenona 325 Corinium in Dalmatia 325 Etruria 378 Falerii 373 Iulia Apta 325 Lambaesis 369₀ Noricum 324 Ouxenton (?) 386₁ Philadelpheia in Lydia 374 Rome 364 ff. Salonae (?) 325 Tusculum (?) 368₂ Volaterrae (?) 383
Epithets: anni origo 336₁₀ annorum nitidique sator pulcherrime mundi 336₁₀ antiquissimus divom 335₁ Augustus 325 biceps 336₁₀ Cameses or Camises (?) 330₀ 331₀ Conseruator (?) 327 327₁₁ Culsanés 378 Curiatius 364 deorum deus 337₄ divom deus 337 duonus (duenos?) 330₀ 331₀ duonus Cerus (duenos Ceros?) 330₀ 331₀ 724₀ εφόρος πάσης πράξεως 338₃ εφόρος του παντός χρόνου 336₈ Geminus 324 337₄ 338₃ 358 360 365 lucifer annorum 336₁₀ Iunonius 336₈ Matutinus 338 Pater 325 335₁ 336₅ 337₄ 338 369₀ 377₁ Pater Augustus 325 Ποπάνων 338₃

Ianus (cont.)

προπάτωρ 328₇ πρώτος τῶν ἀρχαίων θεῶν 335₃ quadrifrons 360₃ Quirinus 364₁ 377₂ temporis auctor 336₆ θεὸς ἀρχαίτατος τῆς Ἰταλίας 335₂ ἕπατος Ζεὺς 328₇ (See also Ζεὺς ἀφθίτος) Vaeosus 325 veterum promerios recum (vetesom promesios recon?) 330₀ 331₀ Zeu Loidorie (Ieu Loidosie?) 330₀ 331₀ Ζεὺς ἀφθίτος 328₇ (See also ἕπατος Ζεὺς)

Festivals: Kalendae Ianuariae 336₀
Kalendae Octobres 364

Rites: archway at entrance of Roman Forum closed in peace, opened in war 341₀ 358₅ cakes (κόπανα) offered on the Kalendae 338₃ Ianuli chanted by Salii 375 f. passing under the yoke (?) 359₆ twelve altars to suit twelve months 336₃

Personated by Caracalla 371 Commodus 370 Cn. Pompeius Magnus 371 Salii (?) 375 f.

Myths: drives Sabines out of Rome by flood of water 394₃ first king of Italy 368₃ founds Ianiculum 368₃

Genealogy: f. of Aion 337 f. of Canens 394₃ f. of Fontus 368 394₃ f. of Tiber 394₃ h. of Iuturna 368₃ 394₃ s. of Caelus and Hecate 368₃

Functions: air 335 archway 330₀ bright sky combined with dark sky (?) 378 chaos 335 cosmic power 336 day 336 doorway 340₂ eternity 336 initiator 1090 Kalendae 336₈ king 330₀ months 336 an older Iupiter 335 ff. oldest god of Italy 335 seasons 336 sky 335 337 ff. 338₀ 354 f. 842 sun 336 time 336 universe 335 year 336

Etymology: 335₀ 338 ff. 340₂

Attributes: p̄ctasos 383 (?) 386 staff 385

Types: archway 354 ff. 405 842 bearded bifrontal head 326 ff. 331 ff. bearded and beardless bifrontal head 387 (?) cp. 842 beardless bifrontal head 331 334 368 ff. bifrontal god 341₀ 367 ff. 378 bifrontal god standing beneath arch 365 f. 842 face of Alexander combined with face of Antoninus 371 face of Commodus combined with face of Iupiter (?) 370 quadruple 373 triple (?) 373₅ vault (See archway)

Identified with Aion 337 Apollon 339₀ Celtic Janiform god 324 ff. Chaos 335₀ Iupiter 328 365 Kronos 374 Llyr 326 Saturnus 374 Zeus 328₇

Associated with Horae 336₀

In relation to Iupiter 328₆ 331 335 ff. 353 842 Penates 335 Zan 842

Superseded by January 373 f.

— and Iupiter on coins 331 ff. and Iupiter in the Salian hymn 328 ff. archway of, at entrance of Roman

Ianus (cont.)

Forum 341₀ 355 ff. in the plural (=anni) 336₁₀ significance of the double face of 378 ff. transformed into Persephone 370

See also Ani, Anigemius, Ian

Ianus, an Italian king 330₀

Iao

Identified with Adonai 889₀₍₁₀₎ Deus Altissimus 889₀₍₃₄₎ Theos Hypsistos 889₀₍₁₀₎

Iaon, river in Peloponnesos 413₁

Iapetos 894₀

Iapheth (Japheth) 694₀

Iapodes tattooed 123₀

Iapyges 29 ff. 559

Iapygia 29 f. 559

Iapyx

Genealogy: s. of Daidalos 30

Iardanos, river in Crete 1025

Iardanos, river in Elis, 1025

Iardanos, river in Lydia 1025

Iarebolos

Cult: Emesa 814₃

See also Iaribolos

Iaribolos

Cult: Palmyra 885₀₍₂₉₎

See also Iarebolos

Iason

Myths: caldron of apotheosis 211 Hera 1088 Kirke 1097₂

Genealogy: descended from Aiolos 1088

Type: swallowed by snake 222₂ 1217

Iasos

Cults: Zeus 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus Ἰψιστος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 963₅

Iasos, b. of Dardanos 317

Iberians 340₃

Idaeon Cave, excavation of 935₀ ff. in relation to Hagia Triada 522₁ rock crystal from 927₀ tympana from 697₀ 770₂

See also Ide, Mt, in Crete

Idaeon Daktyloi See Daktyloi

Idaia, as name of Crete 940₀

Idaia, w. of Zeus 940₀

Idalion, silver bowl from 553

Idas

Myths: Leukippides 438₂ Marpessa 439₁₄ Tyndaridai 437 ff.

Genealogy: b. of Lynkeus 317

Ide, Mt, in Crete 932₁

Cults: Daktyloi 232₀ 929₀ Holy Cross (Timios Stauros) 935₀ Zagreus 838 934₀ Zan 934₀ Zeus 941₀ Zeus B-daras 934₀ Zeus Ἰδαίος 549 838 932₁ ff. 980₅

Festival: trieteric 934₀

Rites: annual dance of modern Cretans on summit 939₀ funeral offering to Zeus 934₀ 942₀ thrice nine days spent in Idaeon Cave 934₀ 942₀ throne thrown annually for the god 934₀ 942₀ cp. 940₀ wearing of black wool 934₀ 942₀

Ide, Mt. in Crete (cont.)

Myths: Hermaphroditos reared by Naiades 933₀ Kouretes 549 Kronos 549 Telchines 933₀ Zeus 230 932₁ 933₀

Etymology: 932₁

— Arkesion, a cave on 549 939₀ ascent of 939₀ fruitful poplar (or willow) in mouth of Idaean Cave on 932₁ Idaean Cave on 230 933₀ ff. 935₀ ff. Idaean Cave on, visited by Epimenides 933₀ 934₀ Idaean Cave on, visited by Pythagoras 933₀ 934₀ plateau of Nida on 935₀ 937₀ summit of called Psiloriti 935₀

See also Daktyloi, Idaean Cave

Ide, Mt. in Phrygia 949₅ ff.

Cults: Kybele 950₀ Mater Idaea 950₀ Meter Idaia 950₀ Zeus 855₂ Zeus Idaios 297₅ (?) 950₀ ff. Zeus Πατρώος 950₀

Epithets: μητέρα θηρών 950₀ πολυπίδαξ 949₅ 950₀ πολύπτυχος 950₀ σκολο-πενδρώδης 949₅

Myths: birth of Daktyloi 949₅ Daktyloi sons of Aigesthios (Agdestis?) by Ide 970₀ Διὸς ἀράτη 1021 Ide, d. of Melisseus 949₅ judgment of Eros 949₅ judgment of Paris 949₅

Etymology: 932₁ 949₅

— in relation to Hyperboreoi (?) 453 solar phenomenon on 949₅

Ide, personification of Mt Ide in Phrygia

Type: wreathed with fir 949₅

Ide, d. of Melisseus 949₅

Ide, m. of Idaean Daktyloi 970₀

Idmon 471

Idomenus

Myth: Phaistos 947₀

Genealogy: descended from Helios 947₀ s. of Deukalion, s. of Minos, s. of Zeus 793₇

Idrieus 715

Iguvium

Cult: Iupater Sancius 724₀ f.

Iki kilisse in Galatia

Cult: Zeus Βροντών 835₅

Ikonion

Cults: Agdistis (Angdistis) 970₀ Meter Βοηθηγή 970₀ Meter Theon 970₀ Theoi Σωτήρες 970₀

— stéle from 799

Iliia 1016

Ilion

Cults: Athena Ἰλιάς 950₀ Zeus Ἰδαίος 950₀ f.

— coins of 950₀

Iliisos 1115 ff. 1123 1135 1138₅ 1139

— small Ionic temple on 1118₄ 1119₀

Iliisos-‘island’ 1119₄

Illyrioi

Cults: Apollon 458 sky-god (Ianus, Zan) 349 (?) 353 (?) 842 (?)

In relation to Dorians 341 Leleges 354₀ Ligures 340₃

Illyrioi (cont.)

— Agytēis-pillars of 165 f. eight-year cycle of 440₂ tattooed 123₀

Ilos

Myths: foundation of Troy 349 Pal-ladion 8

Genealogy: gf. of Priamos 8

Imbros

Cults: Bendis 314₀ Dionysos 314₀ Zeus Ἰψίστος 878_{0(s)} 922₁

Inachos

Myth: drives Io from home 503

Genealogy: f. of Kasos and Belos 981₁

India

Cults: Brahmā 774₁ Çiva 790 f. iron tridents and stone axes 790 792 850 Kāma 774₁ Krishna 774₁ Lakshmi 774₁ Rudra 791 Sarasvatī 774₁ Vishnu 774₁

Myths: cosmic egg 1035 f. Egyptian Herakles and Dionysos 7₂ — pillars of Herakles and Dionysos in 423

Inessa 908₁

Inhissar in Phrygia

Cult: Zeus Βροντών 835₄

Ino

Myths: lashes Mænads with ivy-sprays 1041 plots death of Phrixos 904₁

Type: Bacchant milking herself 347₀ (?)

Inōnū in Phrygia

Cults: Zeus Βροντών 835₄ Zeus ἐξ Ἀλλῆς 249₂ Zeus ἐξ Ἀλλῆς Ἐπήκοος Θεός 836 ff. 1226 Zeus Τελεσφόρος 838 1089 — altars from 836 ff.

Intercidona 643₃

Invidia 505₂

Io

Myths: bride of Zeus 961₀ driven from home by Inachos 503 pursued by Zeus as fly (?) 782₁

Genealogy: m. of Epaphos by Zeus 961₀

Types: heifer 379 horned maiden 379

Ione

Cults: fire (πῦρ ἀθάνατον) 1187 Zeus Ἐπικάρπιος 1186 Zeus Κεραύνιος 1187 Zeus Νέμειος 1186

Myths: Perseus 1186 f. Triptolemos 1186

Iopolis 1187₂ 1188

Ioudaia

Cults: Hypsistos 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₀₎ Jehovah 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₀₎ Theos Ἰψίστος 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₀₎

— coins of 1202

Iovilae See Iūvilas

Iovis

Cult: Gallia Luguduncensis 547₀ 619 Associated with Esus and Volcanus 619

Iphikles

Genealogy: b. of Herakles 317 1017

- Iphikles (cont.)
In relation to Herakles 445 447₅
 See also Iphiklos (=Iphikles)
- Iphiklos (=Iphikles) 451 f.
 See also Iphikles
- Iphiklos, s. of Phylakos
Myth: cured by Melampous 452 684 f.
- Iphithea (?) 353₃
- Iphitos, king of Elis 466 f.
- Ipsara See Psara
- Irbo (=Virbius?) 421
- Iring
Identified with Ziu (?) 51 f.
 — road of 52
- Iris
Type: with spread wings and out-stretched arms 473
- Irmin
Etymology: 52₀ 1212
Identified with Ziu 52 114
In relation to Armenios (?) 54 114
- Irminsúl 50 ff.
 — as effigy of sky-god 57 as link between earth and heaven 82 as prototype of column at Mayence 109 as support of sky 56 as vehicle of sky-god 56 f. as wooden trunk 74 1212 compared with Agyieús-pillar 166 178 compared with Diana-pillar 157 166
- Isauroi 973₁
- Ischys, s. of Elatos 1089
- Isinoe (?), d. of Danaos 1150₂
- Isis
Cults: Athens 985₀ Delos 922₀
Epithets: Pharia 928₀ Τανροειπιάς 985₀
Rites: effigy of Osiris buried in pine-tree 303₂ libation of milk from golden bowl shaped like female breast 347₀
Myths: founds Pelousion 986₀ nurses Diktys 986₀ nurses Horos 986₀ nurses Pelousios 986₀
Function: earth 557₁
Attributes: leafy spray (?) 1129₀ modius (?) 1129₀ poppy 1165₁
Types: bust on couch 1171₃ double bust (with Apis) 392 enthroned under arch 362
Identified with Demeter 252 Tethys 481₀
Associated with Sarapis (Serapis) 1128₀ (?) 1171₃ Zeus Κίνθιος and Sarapis 922₀ — soul of, identified with Kyon by Greeks, with Sothis by Egyptians 450₀
- Isityche 1128₀ (?)
- Islands of the Blest 36 117 465
- Isodaites (=Plouton) 1113₀₍₂₎
- Isopata, gold ring from 49₁
- Ištar
Attribute: axe (i.e. woodpecker?) 696₀
Associated with Sin and Sibitti 545₀
 Isthmia, the festival 490₀₍₁₅₎ 951₀
- Istia See Hestia
- Istros, springs of 465 494
- Italy
Cults: Lares 1059 Penates 1059 Picus 696₀
Rite: burial within the house 1059
 — coins of 1063
- Itanos
Cults: Apollon Ίθθιος 929₀ Athena Πολιάς 929₀ Hera 929₀ Zeus Ἀγοραῖος 929₀ Zeus Δικραῖος 929₀ ep. 930₀ Zeus Ἐπὸψιος 1130₇
 — coins of 1130; oath of 929₀
- Ithake, coins of 706₅ the cave in 42
- Ithomaiä (Ithomaiä, Ithomais) 741₃ 890₆
- Ithome, Mt
Cult: Zeus Ἰθωμάρας 741 ff. 890₆ 1222
Festival: Ithomaiä (Ithomaiä, Ithomais) 741₃ 890₆
Rites: human sacrifice 890₆ water from Klepsydra brought daily to sanctuary of Zeus 890₆
Myth: Zeus brought up by nymphs Ithome and Neda 890₆
- Ithome, the nymph 890₆
- Iulia Apta
Cult: Ianus Vaeosus 325
- Inno
Cults: Aquincum 68₂ Blatsche 1084 Mogontiacum 96₁ 96₂ Rome 364 Thibursicum Bure 68₂ Urbs Salvia (?) 803
Epithets: Augusta 61₀ Caelestis 68₂ Cinxia 899₀ Lucetia 61₀ Lucina 59₃ 60₆ 61₀ 1226 Promuba 61₀ Regina 59₃ 87₃ 95₁ 96 96₁ 96₂ 98 Sancta 96 98 Sororia 364
Festivals: Kalendae Martiae 61₀ Kalendae Octobres 364
Rite: brandishing torches 61₀
Metamorphosed into Berce 1031
Functions: Kalendae 336₈ light 61₀ marriage 61₀ motherhood 1226 procreation 1226 spring 59 61₀ 94₁
Attributes: flower 61₀ girdle (?) 61₀ iris (?) 61₀ lily 61₀ peacock 60₆ 67 sceptre 98 f. torch or torches 59 61₀ two snakes (?) 61₀
Types: bearing babe and flower 61₀ bearing babe and lily or iris (?) 61₀ bearing babe and torch 60₆ bearing patra and sceptre 60₆ bearing torch or torches 59 clad in goat-skin (?) 60₆ grouped with children 60₆ 61₀ standing on cow 99₀ veiled 60₆ with foot on head of cow 98 f. with foot on head of ox 98₃
Identified with Frija 59 94₁ Luna, Diana, Ceres, Proserpina 256
Associated with Hercules and Minerva 89 Iupiter Optimus Maximus 96₁ 96₂ Mercurius and Ceres 1181₀ Mercurius, Hercules, Minerva 57 ff. Mercurius and Minerva 89

Iuno (cont.)

In relation to Fria 67

— breasts of 37₂ of a woman corresponds with Genius of a man 1059

Iupiter

Cults: Iguvium 724₀ f. Umbria 724₀

Epithet: Sancius 724₀

Rite: calf offered by man holding wheel 724₀ f.

See also Diespiter, Iupiter

Iupiter

Cults: Aizanoi 968₀ Alban Mt 46₃ Allmendingen 619 1221 Allobroges 570₀ Antiocheia on the Orontes 1188 Apulum 754₁ Aquileia in Venetia 328 842 Blatsche 1084 Brixia in Cisalpine Gaul 726₀ Clunia in Spain 1102₈ Corinth (?) 1214 Mt Dikte 927₁ 928₀ Mt Gerizim 887₀(31) 888₀(0) 983₀(?) Gothia 620 Heliopolis in Syria 745₁ Jerusalem 984₁ Kassiope 906₃ Mt Ladicus in Galacia 320₀ Lambaesis 369₀ Luxovium in Germania Superior (?) 1213 Matilica 401₀ Mogontiacum 96₁ 96₂ Naissos 948₁ Napoca 754₁ Pannonia 823₁(2) Patrai 1214 Pergamon 1179 f. Pompeii 1158 Ravenna 1091 Rome 45 46 46₀ 111₀ 369₀ 400₁₁ 401₀ 403₀ 546₀ 601 708 708₅ 835₆ 838 f. 1102₈ 1103₀ 1172₀ 1181₀ 1195₁ Salonae 69₀ 401₀ Mt Silpion (?) 1188 Sirmium 1194₄ Spolegium 803₂ Tiber-island 726₀ Tomoi 823₁(1) Urbs Salvia 803 ff. Venafrum 69₀ 401₀ Vichy 285₀

Epithets: Aepilofius (= Ἐπιλόφιος) 948₄ Aezanensis 968₀ Aezaniticus 968₀ Ambisagrus (= Ambisacerus rather than Ambisager) 328 421₀ 673₃ 842 Amicalis (= Zeus Φιλίος) 1177₂ 1179 f. 1186₀ Ataburius 588₁ auctor bonarum Tempestatum 94₂ Augustus Ultor 1102₈ Buginas 570₀ Bronton 835₆ Caelestinus 369₀ 401₀ Caelestis 69₀ 400₁₁ 401₀ caelipotens 401₀ Caelius 400₁₁ Caelus (?) 400₁₁ Capitolinus 601 1188 Casius 588₁ Casius (Cassius) in Korkyra 906₃ Cenaeus 902₂ Conservator 88₁ 327 328 369₀ 1195₁ Custos 367₁ (?) 1181₀ Dapalis 1172 Deus 958₀ deus unus et idem (?) 1060 Dianus 328 842 Dictaeus 927₁ 928₀ Dictaeus rex 928₀ divom pater atque hominum rex 1070 Dolichenus 99₀ 609 614 f. Epulo 1172₀ Fagutalis 403₀ Farreus 1172 Feretrius 111₀ 546₀ 601 613 Fulgur 46₀ fulgurator 815₄ Genetaeus 616₅ Heliopolitanus 745₁ Heros 823₁(1) 823₁(2) Hospitalis (= Zeus Ἐπίσιος) 1101₃ 1177₂ Idaeus 950₀ Imperator 708 848 917₀ Iurarius 726₀ Iutor 803 ff. 850 Labryandius 588₁ Ladicus 320₀ Lapis 260₀ 546₀ Laprius 588₁ 599 Lattaris 46₃ Liberator (Nero) 1214 mativinus

Iupiter (cont.)

338₁ Milichius 1158 Militaris 706 848 Molio 588₁ omnipotens rerum regumque repertor (?) 1060 Optimus Maximus 10 87₂ 87₃ 88₁ 88₂ 89₀ 89₈ 90 f. 91₁ 93 95₁ 96 96₁ 96₂ 328 361 620 1194₄ 1196 Optimus Maximus Caelestinus 401₀ Optimus Maximus Celestis Patronus 401₀ Optimus Maximus Conservator 88₁ Optimus Maximus Heros 823₁(1) 823₁(2) Optimus Maximus Paternus Aepilofius 948₄ Optimus Maximus Tavianus 754₁ Paternus Aepilofius (= Zeus Πατρῶος Ἐπιλόφιος) 948₄ Patronus 401₀ Peregrinus 887₀(31) Pistor 260₀ prodigialis 19₀ progenitor geneticusque deum 1060 Propagator 369₀ 706₈ (?) Propugnator 707₀ Ruminus 365₄ Sabasius (= Subazius) 285₀ Sabazius 1197 Sanctus Bronton 835₆ 836 838 Sarapis 888₀(0) (?) 983₀(?) Stator 46₀ 422₁ 708₅ Summanus (?) 319 725₀ Summus (?) 319 Svelsurdus (?) 822₁₃ Tanarius 32 Tarnicus 32 Tavianus 754₁ Tempestativum divinarum potens 94₂ Terminalis 1090 f. 1133₁(?) Terninus 1090 tertius 940₀ Tigillus 110₅ 363 365 Tonans 39₁ 60₀ 111₀ 505₂ 811 835₆ 1041 (?) Triumphator 706₈ Tropaeophorus 706₈ Ultr 1102₈ 1103₀ Urius (?) 822₁₃ Velsurus (?) 822₁₃ Victor 708 848 Zbelsurdus (?) 1226

Festivals: Epula Iovis (Sept. 13 and Nov. 13) 1172₀ May 94₂ Quinquennialia 601

Rites: feast of roast flesh and wine 1172₄ lectisternia 1170₀ 1171 oath by Iupiter Lapis with flint in hand 546₀ ox as piaculum 803₂ spolia opima 601 summanalia 725₀ table swept with vervain 395₂ 397₀ treaty struck with flint of Iupiter Feretrius 546₀

Priest: flamen Dialis 341₀ 828

Personated by Antoninus Pius 811 Augustus 1091 Diocletian (Iovius) 903₂ 1194₄ Domitian 338₁ 811 emperor 100 ff. forefather of family 1059 Galerius 1194 king 633 847 1059 Licinius 1195 Licinius Iunior 1195 Maximinus ii 1194 f. Nero 1214 Romulus Silvius 24₁ Titus (?) 810 Trajan 810 f. triumphing general 361 Vespasian (?) 810

Myths: consorts with Semele 1031 drives Saturnus from his kingdom 448₁ mutilates Saturnus 448₁ Pallicus 909₀

Genealogy: f. of Genius 1060 f. of Liber by Proserpina 1031 f. of Olympus (?) by the nymph Chalcea 973₁ gf. of Tages 1060 s. of Caelus 941₀ s. of Saturnus 940₀ 941₀

Iupiter (cont.)

Functions: aether 1090 celestial 1090 (See also sky) chthonian 1090 container and sustainer of the world 110₅ earth 803 father and mother of the gods 1060 flesh, wine, and bread 1173(?) good weather 94₂ holder of scales 734₃ lightning by night 725₀ nocturnal sky 725₀ nurture 365₄ oak-tree 570₀ sea 803 sky 337 340 f. 373 803 (See also celestial) thunder 830₀ Thursday 70 treaties 725₀ universe 335₅ a younger Ianus 335 f.

Attributes: bay-wreath 751₂ dog(?) 367₁ dolphin 803 f. double axe 609 eagle 400₁₁ 751₂ 812 eagle on globe 95₂ feretrum 601 f. 613 fork 850 mallet 620 sceptre 400₁₁ 812 spear 711 f. 848 thunderbolt 803 f. 810 ff. 850 trident 803 f. 850 trophy 1195₂ two-pronged fork 803 ff. violet mantle 803 wheel 57₀ 1213

Types: advancing with thunderbolt, trident, and fork 803 f. bearded head 331 334 bundle of herbs clothed as puppet 1171 bust 1133₁ bust with thunderbolt in right hand and spear in left 712 on column 46 eating sacrificial meal(?) 1172₀ enthroned on a pillar 47 flint (unhafted neolithic celt?) 546₀ grasping or hurling thunderbolt in chariot 82 831₁ ep. 76₀ handing thunderbolt to Trajan 1181₀ on horseback with uplifted bolt 82 Janiform 326 ff. protecting emperor 104₁ seated with thunderbolt in right hand and sceptre in left 1103₀ 1194₁ 1214 seated with Victory in right hand and sceptre in left 1103₀ (fig. 940) sending forth the four Seasons from the orbis annuus 372 f. standing with eagle on right hand and sceptre in left 1214 standing with sceptre in raised right hand and thunderbolt in lowered left 751 standing with spear (sceptre?) in raised right hand and thunderbolt in lowered left 708₅ standing with thunderbolt in lowered right hand and sceptre in raised left 70₁ standing with thunderbolt(?) in outstretched right hand and spear in raised left 711 f. standing with thunderbolt, sceptre, and eagle 285₀ 1194₄ standing with thunderbolt and sceptre under arch 367 standing with thunderbolt and sceptre in four-horse chariot driven by Victory 331 334 831₁₍₂₎ tree-trunk 109

Identified with Donar 64₀ 95₂ Genius 1060 Ianus 328 365 Jehovah 1197 Suaeclus 620 Theos Hysistos

Iupiter (cont.)

886₀₍₃₀₎ Thor 620 Vediovis(?) 726₀
Assimilated to Hercules 95₂
Associated with Fontes 369₀ Fontes and Minerva 401₀ Fortuna 1195₂ Genius Fontis 369₀ Genius huius loci 1194₄ Hercules 1194₄ Iuno Regina 96₁ 96₂ Lares 751 Mater Phrygia 950₀ Victoria 1195₂
In relation to emperor 708 Erinys 1102₇ Furiae 1102₇ Hercules 95₂ Ianus 323₀ 331 335 ff. 353 842 — acorn of (walnut) 775₀ beard of (silver-bush) 775₀ chariot of 76₀ 82 331 334 830₀ 831₁ flame of (a flower) 775₀ footprints of 37₂ statuas Iovis 35₀ regalia of 811 f. statue of, made of armour 46₃ throne of 1102₇ and Ianus on coins 331 ff. and Ianus in the Salian hymn 328 ff.

See also Diespiter, Iupater

Iupiter, the planet 480₅

Iustitia 99₁

Iuturna

Genealogy: w. of Ianus 368₃ 394₃

Iūvilas 823 1226

Ivrtz 564 f.

Ixion

Myths: Hera 1088 Zeus 1098₄

Genealogy: descended from Aiolos 1088 s. of Antion s. of Periphas s. (or f.) of Lapithes 1122 f.

Jachin 426 f.

Jacob and Esau 451₁ ladder of 127 f. 129₁ 136

Jains, sacred column of 150₂

James, St, b. of the Lord

Type: on chalice of Antioch 1202₀

James, St, s. of Zebedee

Type: on chalice of Antioch 1200₄ 1202₀

Janina

Etymology: 350

— folk-tale from 678 f.

Jehovah

Cults: Mt Gerizim 887₀₍₃₁₎ Ioudaia 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₁₎

Epithets: Κύριος Ἰψίστος 888₀₍₃₂₎ Theos Ἰῶν 1102₈ Theos Ἰψίστος 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₁₎ Ἰψίστος 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₁₎

Rite: θυσία ἐντελεῖς ὀδκαιοι... καθ' ἐκάστην ἡμέραν 888₀₍₃₂₎

Priest: ἀρχιερεὺς 889₀₍₁₎

Function: hills 887₀₍₃₁₎

Identified with Bacchus 1197 Dionysos 1197 'El 'Olām 1037 Iupiter Sabazius 1197 Liber Pater 1197 Zeus Ἰψίστος 889

Jerusalem

Cults: Aphrodite (Venus) 984₁ Liber Pater (supposed) 282₀ Zeus (Iupiter) 984₁

— Antiochos iv Epiphanes and 1189₁ 'cup-marks' at 793₄ golden vine

- Jerusalem (cont.)
 at 281₄ pyramids built by Helene of Adiabene near 1146₀ tomb of 'Zechariah' near 1146_{0(d)}
- Jews
Cult: Theos "Ἰψιστος 884₀₍₀₎ — of the Dispersion propagate the cult of Theos Hypsistos 889 f. use gentile formula ὑπὸ Δία, Γῆν, "Ἡλιον
 884₀₍₀₎
- Jodute See Tiodute
- John, St
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1200₄
 1202₀
Supersedes Zeus Ἀραβύριος in Rhodes
 923₀ — on the marriage supper of the Lamb 1168
- John Klimax, St 134 f.
- Jordan, as name of Milky Way 480
- Jude, St
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1202₀
- Juktas, Mt
Cults: Authentēs Christos 945₀ Panagia 945₀ Rhea (?) 944₀
Festival: Transfiguration (Aug. 6) 945₀ Rite: annual pilgrimage to church on summit 945₀
Myths: Britomartis pursued by Minos
 939₁ burial of Minos (?) 944₀
Etymology: 939₁
 — profile of Zeus (originally Minos?) on 939₁ 940₀ remains on summit of 943₀ 944₀ tomb of Zeus on 940₀ ff.
- Kabeirion, apsidal temple of Theban 900₀
- Kabeiro
Identified with Bendis 314₀ Hekate
 314₀
- Kabeiroi
Cults: Lemnos 663 ff. Pergamon 953₃ f.
 Phoinike 314₀ Samothrace 313 842
 Thrace 313 ff.
Epithet: Μεγάλοι Θεοί 313 f. 954₀
Rite: mysteries 314₂ 953₃ f.
Myth: witness birth of Zeus 954₀
Genealogy: sons of Ouranos 954₀
Functions: control storms 953₃ Father and Son 317 Mother (Axiokersa), Father (Axiokersos), and Son (Axieros) conceived as rebirth of the Father 314
Etymology: 313₁₁ 313₁₂
Attributes: double axe 953₃ ram's head
 954₀ sword 953₃
Types: two youthful males 953₃ two youthful warriors 953₃
Identified with crabs 664 f. Zeus and Dionysos 664₁
Associated with Zeus Σαβάζιος (?) 664₁
- Kabeiros, a Pergamene prytanis 953₃
- Kadmilos
Cults: Phoinike 314₀ Samothrace 314₀
Identified with Ešmun 314₀
 See also Kasmilos
- Kadmos
Myths: helps Zeus against Typhoeus 449₀ seeks Europe 449₀ takes charge of Semele's child 28 f.
- Kadoi
Cult: Artemis Ἐφεστὰ 408₀
 — coins of 408₀
- Ka-Hegal 483
- Kaikias 488₀₍₂₎
- Kaineus
Myth: sets up his spear as a god 547₂
- Kairos 859 ff.
Cult: Olympia 859
Genealogy: youngest s. of Zeus 859
 861
Etymology: 860 f.
Attributes: butterfly 860 globe 860 mirror (?) 863₁ razor 859 f. 861 f. rudder 862 wheel 863 863₁ whip
 863₁ Types: bearded runner 860 f. female figure (Occasio) on little wheel 863
 Lysippos 859 f. 864 Pheidias (?)
 862 f. winged runner in military dress (?) 863₁ youthful runner 859 f.
 861 f.
Identified with Bios 864 Chronos 861 864 Assimilated to Kronos 861
- Kaisareia in Kappadokia
Cults: Mt Argaios 977₁ ff. Sarapis 978₀
 Tyche (Tranquillina) 978₀ — coins of 978₀ ff. 983₀ earlier names of 978₀
- Kalaïs
Genealogy: s. of Boreas by Oreithyia,
 d. of Erechtheus 444
Etymology: 444
- Kalaos, f. of Attes 444
- Kalaureia
Cult: Zeus Σωτήρ 728₀
- Kalchas, of Siris in Lucania
Myth: slain by Herakles 490₀₍₀₎
- Kalchas, s. of Thestor
Myth: contest with Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎
- Kalchedon
Cult: Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀
 — coins of 461₀
- Kalchedonia, m. of Solymos 973₁
- Kalchos, king of Daunia 490₀₍₀₎
- Kaldene, d. of Pisias (Pisides?) 973₁
- Kalikantzaraioi See Kallikantzaroi
- Kallikantzaroi
Myth: attack the tree or column or columns supporting the earth or sky 56₂
- Kalliope
Genealogy: m. of Orpheus 1024
- Kallirrhoe, spring adjoining Ilissos 1116
 1119 1119₄
- Kallirrhoe (Kalliroe), d. of Acheloius
Cults: Athens 1117 (?) Phaleron 183
Attributes: cornu copiae and phiale 1117 (?)
Type: Caryatid 184

- Kallirrhoe (Kalliroe), d. of Acheloios (cont.)
Associated with Acheloios and Zeus
 Μειλίχιος (?) 1117 Hestia, Kephisos, Apollon Ἰὺθῖος, Leto, Artemis Λοχία, Eileithyia, Acheloios, the Geraistian birth-nymphs, Rhapsod 183
- Kallirrhoe, d. of Okeanos 716
- Kalliste (= Hekate) 1114₍₄₎
- Kallisto
Cult: Arkadia 1114₍₆₎
Myth: Zeus 228₃, 228₇, 1217
Metamorphosed into bear 228 f.
Function: bear-goddess (?) 1114₍₆₎
- Kalydon
Myth: Kalydonian boar 799
- Kalymna
Cults: Apollon 808₍₁₁₎ Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₍₁₁₎
- Kāma
Cult: India 774₁
Function: love 774₁
- Kamares, Mt
Cults: Rhea (?) 934₀ Zeus Ἰδαῖος (?) 935₀
 — Maurospeiaion on 934₀ 935₀
 Kameiros, relief-ware from 614 f.
- Kamikos 30
- Kamise, st. and w. of Iauos 330₀
- Kanachos 1165₁
- Kanai (Kane)
Cult: Zeus Καναῖος 902₂
- Kanake 684₂
- Kandaules 559
- Kane See Kanai
- Kanobos (Kanopos)
Cult: Sarapis 985₀
Myth: Io, touched by Zeus, becomes m. of Epaphos 961₀
- Kapaneus
Myth: struck by lightning 23 824 f.
Genealogy: f. of Sthenelos 824₅ 892₅
- Kappadokia
Cults: Mt Argaios 977₁ ff. Hypsistos 885₍₂₈₎ Zeus Δακηνός 616 Zeus Στράτιος 594₃ 595₀ — coins of 296₀ Kyklops in folk-tale from 992 f.
- Kar, s. of Phoroneus 168₁ 257₄
- Karbina 29
- Karia
Cults: Apollon 573₁₀ 574₁ 574₂ 574₃ Dionysos Μάσαρις 565₂ Ge 729₀ Helios 729₀ Zeus 573 f. 705 729₀ 745₁ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος 763₁ Zeus Κάριος 577 Zeus Λαβραδεύς 559 f. 572
 — coins of 573 f.
- Karia, akropolis of Megara 168₁ 257₄
- Karia, personification of the district 320₀
- Karien, near Mt Pangaion
Cults: Zeus Ἐρκείος Πατρῶος 1066 Zeus Κρήσιος 1066
- Karkinar 666₂
- Karko 666₂
- Karmania
Cult: Ares 464
- Karmanor 190₀
- Karme 190₀
- Karneades 237₀
- Karneia 237₀
- Karousa
Cult: Zeus Δικαίουσνος Μέγας 1092₈
- Karyanda
Festival: bull-sports 582₅
- Karystos
Rite: Hyperborean offerings 497
- Kasion, Mt, in Egypt 984₁ f.
Cult: Zeus Κάσιος 907₀ 984₁ f.
Myth: temple founded by descendants of Dioskouroi 984₁
Etymology: 981₁
- Kasion, Mt, in Syria 981₁
Cults: Triptolemos 981₁ Zeus Κάσιος 907₀ 981₁ ff. 1191 f.
Rites: hecatomb 982₀ incubation 982₀ (?)
Myths: Kyparissos 981₁ Seleucides aves 981₁ Zeus fights Typhon 449₀ 981₁
Etymology: 981₁
 — injured by earthquake 1191
- Kasion, town in Egypt 984₁ f.
- Kasios, eponym of Mt Kasion in Egypt
Cult: Pelousion 986₀ 987₀
Epithet: ὁ ναύκληρος 987₀
- Kasios, eponym of Mt Kasion in Syria 981₁
- Kasiu, an Aramaean god 983₀
- Kasmilos
Identified with Hermes 314₂
 See also Kadmilos
- Kasos, f. of Kleomachos 981₁
- Kasos, one of the Kyklades 981₁
- Kasos, s. of Inachos 981₁
- Kassiope
Cults: Inpiter Casius (Cassius) 906₃ Zeus (?) 907₀ Zeus Κάσιος (Κάσσιος) 906₃ 907₀
- Kastabos
Cult: Hemithea 670
Myth: Staphylos and his daughters Molpadia, Rhoio, Parthenos 670 f.
- Kastalia 460
- Kastalios 190₀
- Kastor
Epithet: ἰππόδαμος 436
Genealogy: b. of Polydeukes 317 1015₇ ep. 1097₂ s. of Zeus by Leda 1015₇
Type: fights Calydonian boar 799
 See also Dioskouroi
- Katabasion of Trophonios at Lebadeia 1075 f. 1088
- Katane 908₁
Cult: Apollon 486₅
 — coins of 486₅
 See also Aitne
- Kato Zakro, clay seal-impression from 623 652
- Katreus
Myth: 923₀ 924₀
Genealogy: s. of Minos and f. of Althaimenes and Apemosyne 923₀

- Kaukasos, the giant 694₀
 Kaulon or Kaulos 1042 (?)
 Kaulonia
Cults: Agon (?) 1042 Apollon 1042 f.
 Demos (?) 1042 Dionysos 1041 (?)
 Herakles 1041 f. (?) Hermes Ἑρμῆς
 Ἰωνίου (?) 1042 Hermes Διόμυθος (?) 1042 wind-god (?) 1042 Zephyros (?) 1042
Festival: Hiketesia 1040
Myth: Kaulon or Kaulos 1042 (?)
 — coins of 1040 ff.
- Kebrenioi 130
 Kekrops
Myth: founds altar of Zeus Ἰσθμίου
 875₁₍₂₎
Genealogy: s. of Ge 1121
 Kelaino 176₁
 Keleos, a Cretan 929₀
 Keltoi
Cult: Zeus 570₀
Myths: Apollon sheds tears of amber 484 843 Kyknos 477
In relation to Sabines 340₃
 — poplar in land of 468
- Kenaion, Mt
Cults: Zeus Κηναῖος (Κηναῖος) 902₂
 Zeus Πατρῴος 902₂
Myth: Herakles 902₂
- Kenchreai 1145₁₍₆₎
 Kenelm, St 116 f.
- Kentauros
Genealogy: s. of Apollon by Stilbe
 1134 f.
Type: marine, with head-dress of crab's-claws 665₃
 See also Centaurs, Centaurus
- Kentoripa (Kentouripai)
Cult: Agathos Daimon (?) 1129₀
 — coins of 784₇
- Keos
Myth: Oidipous 1152
- Kephallenia
Cult: Zeus Αβηθῆσιος 907₂
- Kepheus, s. of Aleos 1083 1148
- Kephisos, river in Attike near Athens
 1091 1139₅
- Kephisos, river in Attike near Eleusis 1103
- Kephisos, the river-god
Cult: Phaleron 183 f.
Type: horned (?) 184
- Kephissos, river in Phokis 460
- Ker
In relation to Eros 315₃
- Keramos in Karia
Cults: long-haired god (Zeus?) with double axe and sceptre or spear
 575 f. Zeus 575 f. Zeus Ααβράνδος (?)
 599₂ — coins of 575 f. 599₂
- Keraunia 807₃₍₁₎
 Keraunios
Cult: Kition 807₃₍₁₎ Mytilene 807₃₍₃₎
 Syria 807₃₍₂₎
Epithet: Ἰσθμίου 807₃₍₃₎
 See also Zeus Epithets Κεραύνιος
- Keraunos
Cult: Emeša 814₃
Epithet: ἀστρεοβλήτης (?) 119₁
Types: god in oriental military costume 814₃ small male figure embodying thunderbolt (?) 784
Identified with Zeus 12 f. 119₁
 See also Index II s. v. 'Thunderbolt'
- Kerberos
Myths: Dionysos 256 Herakles 469
 899₁
Rite: offering of honey-cake 1142₁₀
Type: three-headed 802
Compared with golden hound 1227
- Kerberos, a Cretan 929₀
- Kerdylion
Cults: Theos Ἰψιστος 878₀₍₉₎ Zeus
 Ἰψιστος 906₂
- Keres
Functions: avenging deities 1101 souls
 1101
- Kerkidas 290₀
- Kerkopes
Myth: Herakles 1041 f. (?)
- Kerkops, the Pythagorean 1024
- Keteus 228₅
- Keyx, St 117
- Keyx
Myth: claims that his w. Alkyone is Hera 1088
- Khem
Type: ithyphallic 772₁
- Khnemu
Attribute: snake 1084
Type: lion-headed snake with radiate crown 1084
- Khonsu 126
- Kibuka 450₁
- Kibyra
Cult: Zeus 771
 — coins of 771
- Kierion
Cult: Zeus 743₇
 — coins of 743₇
- Kilikia
Cult: Zeus Βόρειος 380
 — coins of 1210
- Kinyras
Myths: buried in sanctuary of Aphrodite at Paphos 944₀ Myrrha and Adonis 680 848
Genealogy: f. of Adonis 694₀ f. of Myrrha 680
- Kios
Cults: Demeter Καρποφόρος 815₅ Zeus
 Ὀλύμπιος καὶ Ἀστραπαῖος 815₅
- Kirke
Myths: Jason 1097₂ Medeia 1097₂
 Odysseus 18₆
- Kithairon, Mt
Cults: Hera Κιθαιρώνια 898₆ 899₀ Pan
 899₀ Sphragitides 899₀ Zeus 581
 Zeus Κιθαιρώνιος 898₆
Festival: Daidala Megala 977₀
Rites: burning of oaken images (δαλ-

Kithairon, Mt (cont.)

δαλα) on altar of wood piled with brushwood 898₆ 977₀ sacrifice of bulls to Zeus and cows to Hera, these victims being filled with wine and incense 898₆

Myths: singing-match with Mt Helikon 899₀ Zeus pretends marriage with Plataia, d. of Asopos 898₆

Kithairon, king of Plataiai 898₆

Kition in Kypros

Cults: Aphrodite 807₅₍₄₎ Esmun 1095₀ Keraunios and Keraunia 807₃₍₁₎ Theos "Τψιστος 879₀₍₁₅₎ 980₃ Zeus Κεραύνιος 807₅₍₄₎ (Zeus?) Κεραύνιος and (?) Κεραυνία 807₃₍₁₎

Klareotis, a Tegeate tribe 1148 cp. 1149₀

Klaros

Cults: Apollon Κλάριος 489₀₍₄₎ Zeus Κλάριος 873₂

Myth: contest of Kalchas with Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎

Klazomenai, sarcophagi of 521₅

Kleagoras 1106

Kleanthes' Hymn to Zeus 854 ff.Klearchos of Rhegion 739 875₁₍₄₎Kleinis 463₁ 501

Kleite, m. of Kaulon or Kaulos 1042

Kleomachos, s. of Kasos 981₁Kleonai, coins of 892₄ 1079Kleophrasma, w. of Phlegyas 488₀₍₆₎

Kleophrades 733

Kleostratos 1151

Klepsydra, spring on Mt Ithome 890₀Klodonos 133₀Klotho 212₅ 1023Klymene, m. of Phaethon 473₃ 479 (?)Klymenos (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎

Klymenos, f. of Erginos

Function: hypostasis of Zeus (?) 1075

Klytaimestra

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Leda and st. of Helene 1015₇ — ghost of, seen in mirror 206₂

Kneph

Cult: Egypt 1127₀

Type: hawk-headed snake 1127₀

Identified with Agathos Daimon 1127₀ 1128₀

Knidos

Cults: Apollon Λύκιος 729₀ Ge 729₀ Zeus 729₀ Zeus Μέγιστος (?) 1157₅ Zeus Μελίχιος 1157

— Triopion at 684₂

Knossos

Cults: Elchanos (?) = Velchanos 948₀₍₃₎ Rhea 520₅ 548 Theos "Τψιστος 879₀₍₁₄₎ two double axes 537 Zeus Έλχάδος (?) = Φελχάδος 948₀₍₃₎

Myths: founded by Hestia 940₀ founds Brundisium 30₃ — ancient grove of cypresses at 520₅ clay seal-impressions from 552₁ 652 coins of 491₀₍₆₎ gold ring from 49 f. incised gem from 623 oath of 731₀

Knossos (cont.)

road from, to Idaean Cave 933₀ — tomb of Zeus at 695₀ wall-painting from 528 f.

Kodros

Myth: dressed as woodman with double axe or bill-hook 627₆

— on trophy at Delphoi 1137₂

Koios 915₀ (?)

Kokkygion, Mt

Cults: Hera Τελέια 893₂ Zeus 893₂

Myth: Zeus married to Hera 893₂
— formerly called Thronax (Thronax?), later Kokkyx 893₂

Kokynthos, headland of Brutti 1042 (?)

Kolchis

Cult: Phasis 471

Myth: Phrixos 904₁

Kolchoi

Cult: Diana 411

Myth: Orestes 421₃

— Egyptian khrbeis of 1095₀

Kolikantzaroi See Kallikantzaroi

Koloë

Cults: Apollon Βοζηνός 568 Apollon Ταρσεύς 568 f. Theos "Τψιστος 881₀₍₂₀₎ Zeus Κτήσιος 1067 Zeus Σαβάγιος 285₀

Kolonai

Myth: Kyknos, s. of Poseidon 669

Kolonos

Cults: Athena Πολιούχος 1152₅ Demeter 1152₅ Zeus (?) 1152₅ Zeus Χθόνιος 1154 f.

Myth: Oidipous 1152₅

Kolophon

Myth: Polytechnos 693

Kolotes 1078

Komana in Kappadokia

Cult: Ma 616

— priestly kings at 965₀

Komana in Pontos, priestly kings at 965₀

Koptos

Cult: Horos 450₀

Korakoi (= Philioi Daimones)

Cult: Skythia 1179₁

Etymology: 1179₁ (?)

Kore

Cults: Eleusis 314₀ 314₂ Megalopolis 1178 Megara 1117₇ Nysa in Lydia (?) 564 Paros 131 Phlyeis 1066 Samothrace 314₀ 314₂ Selinous 489₀₍₆₎ Tegea 1140₅

Epithets: Μελίβοια (?) 1113₀₍₃₎ Πασικράτεια 489₀₍₆₎ Πρωτογόνη 1066

Rite: bridal hymn 132₂

Myths: carried off by Plouton 345₀₍₂₎ consorts with Zeus 1029 Herkyna 1075 Plouton 1103

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Rhea or Demeter 1029 m. by Zeus of the chthonian Dionysos or Zagreus 1029 w. of Klymenos (= Hades) 1113₀₍₃₎

Function: Corn-maiden 295₂

- Kore (cont.)
Attributes: double axe (?) 564 pig 1140₅
 snake (?) 564 torches 1117₇
Type: horned, four-eyed, two-faced 1029
Identified with Persephone 1029
Associated with Demeter 1113₀₍₃₎ 1178
 Dionysos 120₁ Zeus and Demeter 258₃ 259₀ Zeus, Hera, Demeter
 Θεσμοφόρος, Baubo 259₀
 — Κόρης θήρα (?) near Lebadeia 899₂
 See also Persephone, Phersephone, Proserpina
- Koressos, Mt
Cult: Zeus 962₂
 — rock-cut throne on 962₂
- Koretas 190₀
- Korkyra
Cults: Apollon 730₀ Artemis 457 Demeter 730₀ Zeus 675 f. 730₀ Zeus
 "Τυσιρος 879₀₍₁₂₎ 907₁
 — coins of 906₃ 907₀ coins struck in 675 f. 'Corcyraean whip' at Dodona 826 851
- Koronis
Myths: bears Asklepios to Apollon at Lakereia 484 bears the second Asklepios to Ischys s. of Elatos 1089 cp. 210₀
Genealogy: d. of Phlegyas 463₁ m. of Asklepios 833₀
- Korybantes (Kyrbantes)
Cults: Gortyna 723₀ Hierapytna 723₀ Priansos 723₀
Myths: drown cries of infant Zeus 928₀ hide Zeus from Kronos 940₀
- Korybas
Cult: Haimonioi 295
Rite: Eleusinia 133₀
Identified with Attis 295
- Korykia 901₂
- Koryphon (Koryphaion), Mt
Cult: Artemis Κορυφαία 869₁
- Kos
Cults: Asklepios Καῖσαρ (= Claudius) 1088 Hestia (Histie) Ταμία 19₀ 238₀ Theos Τυσιτος 880₀₍₁₈₎ 964₁ Zeus Ἰκέσιος 1095₀ Zeus Πολιεύς 238₀
Rite: wearing of white-poplar 470
Myth: Merops 1132₁
- Kosingas 130 505₅
- Kosmos
Cult: Orphists 141₁ 827
Type: four-pillared 141₁ 827
- Kotiaieion
Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄
- Kottos 1023
- Kotys, s. of Manes 311 f. with Atys as Dioskouroi (?) 312
- Koujounlou in Bithynia
Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₅
- Koula See Koloe
- Kounados, Mt, in Paros
Cults: Aphrodite 875₁₍₅₎ Histie Δημητή
- Kounados, Mt, in Paros (cont.)
 875₁₍₅₎ Zeus Καραβάτης 20₁ (Zeus) "Τπατος 875₁₍₅₎ 918₂
- Koures
Rite: Eleusinia 133₀
 — Epimenides as 191 934₀
- Kouretes (Koretēs)
Cults: Gortyna 723₀ Hierapytna 723₀ Lyttos 723₀ Mylasa 586 f. Priansos 723₀
Epithet: Ἰδαῖοι 296₄
Rites: personate Zagreus 549 sacrifice children to Kronos 548
Myths: clash shields about infant Zeus 961₀ clash weapons to aid Leto against Hera on Mt Solmissos 962₂ drown cries of infant Zeus 928₀ flee from Kronos 549 Labrandonos, Panamoros, and Palaxos or Spalaxos 587 rear Zeus on Mt Dikte 929₀ receive infant Zeus from Rhea 931₀ taught to dance by Athena 1029 Mt Sipylos 956₂ wreathed with olive 1029
Genealogy: sons of Zeus 940₀
Function: δαίμονας ἢ προπόλους θεῶν 931₀
Types: Assyrian 938₀ grouped about the child Zeus or Dionysos 1210
Associated with Zeus 938₀ Zeus Κρηταγενής 587
- Kourion in Kypros, silver-gilt bowl from 553
- Kragaleus 163₀
- Kragasos 669
- Kragos, Mt 971₂
Cults: Kragos 971₂ Theoi "Αγριοι 971₂
- Kragos, eponym of Mt Kragos
Cults: Mt Kragos 971₂ Lykia 972₀
Epithet: ἀστεργής 972₀
Genealogy: f. of Cheleidon 971₂ s. of Tremilos (Tremiles?) by the nymph Praxidike, b. of Tloos and Pinalos 971₂ Identified with one of the Theoi "Αγριοι 971₂ f. Zeus 972₀ 974₀
- Krannon
Cult: Zeus 833
Rite: rain-charm 831 ff.
Myth: two ravens 832
 — coins of 832 f.
- Krariotai See Klareotis
- Krastonia
Cult: Dionysos 114 f.
 Krataiis (= Hekate) 1114₀₍₄₎
- Krateuas, herbal of 395₂
- Kres, eponym of Crete, hides Zeus on Mt Dikte 928₀
- Kresion, Mt 1147₆
- Kretenia 922₅ 923₀
- Krishna
Cult: India 774₁
Function: solar (?) 774₁
Attribute: lotos 774₁
- Kroisos 311₈ 465

Kronia, island in Ionian Gulf 555₀
 Kronia, later called Hierapolis 554₃
 Kronion, in Sicily 555₀
 Kronion, Mt, at Olympia 554₂
 Kronion, Mt, in Lakonike 554₂
 Kronos

Cults: Athens 554₂ Byblos 887₀₍₀₎
 Crete 548 f. Delos (?) 920₀ Gaza (?)
 675 Mt Kynthos (?) 920₀ Lebadeia
 899₂ Olympia 554₂ Phrygia 1155 f.
 Sicily 910₀ Solymoi 972₀

Epithets: ἀγκυλομήτης 549 845 Ἀκρι-σίας 1156₁ ἀστράπτων καὶ βροντῶν (?) 558₀ 558₁ βροντοκερανοπάτωρ 558₁ ἡερόεις 557₁ Πέας πόσι, σερμὲ Προ-μηθεῦ 549₇ ὑψίπολος 557₁ ὑψίπορος (?)
 557₁

Rites: human omophagy (?) 549 sacrifice of children by Kouretes 548 sacrifice at spring equinox by Baσίλαι 554₂

Priests: Βασίλαι at Olympia 554₂
 Personated by magician (?) 558₀

Myths: bound beneath oak-trees by Zeus 1027 buried in Sicily 555₀ consulted by Zeus 1027 devours his children 549 928₀ 933₀ driven out by Zeus 941₀ 942₀ driven out of Assyria by Zeus, reigns over Italy
 693₄ 694₀ 943₀ founds Byblos in Phoinike 552 founds Kronia (= Hie-rapolis) 554₃ made drunk on honey by Zeus 1027 mutilated by Zeus
 448₁ 685 1027 mutilates Ouranos 447₃ pursues Kouretes 549 receives from Rhea stone instead of Zeus 793₃ 901₁ reigns over Italy, Sicily, most of Libye, and the west 554₃ reigns over the west 695₀ seeks to destroy Zeus 928₀ slays Arsalos, Dryos, and Tosobis 972₀ swallows stone in place of Zeus 191₁₀ thrust down by Zeus below earth and sea 1020 yields the kingship of Italy to Zeus 694₀

Genealogy: f. of Aphros and Cheiron by Philyra 695₀ f. of Attis 294 f. of Cheiron by Philyra 871₀ f. of Zan 940 f. of Zeus 943₀ f. of Zeus by Rhea 941₀ f. of Zeus, Poseidon, Hades 785 forefather of Pikos who is also Zeus 695₀ h. of Rhea 548
 673 845 s. of Okeanos by Tethys 1020 s. of Ouranos by Gaia 447₃
 s. of Phanes by Nyx 1026

Functions: dark air 557₁ lightning 558 mountain 554 pole 557₁ rain 557 557₁ 558₀ rain, hail, wind, and thunderstorms 558₀ sea 557₁ 558₀ sky 601 1156₂ solar (?) 552 thunder and lightning 558₁ water 557₁ winter
 557₁

Etymology: 549 557₁ 660₁ 845 861
Attributes: bulls 553 f. corn-grains (?) 558₁ disk 552 double axe 553 f.

Kronos (cont.)

601 ἀρέπανον 448₀ ἡάρπε 447₀ 549 f.
 550 553 f. 845 861 head-dress of feathers 552 f. sceptre 552 thunderbolt (?) 558₁

Types: aged 861₅ 1030 bald-headed 861 four-winged 552 f. Janiform 552 lion-headed (See Ahriman) sixwinged 552 stabbing lion 553 standing with double axe and ἡάρπε between two bulls 553 f.

Identified with Adonis (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎ Ba'al-hammân 554₃ Bel 558₀ Chronos 861
 El 558₀ Ianus 374 Prometheus 549;
 Saturnus 555₀ Tholathes (?) 558₀

Compared with Zeus 554 f.

Confused with Chronos 374

Superseded by Saturnus 550 Zeus 554
 601 845

— imitated by Marcus Aurelius 105₀ laws of 933₀ pillars of 422 sceptre of 1026 sweat of 558₀ tear of 557₁ tomb of 555₀ 556₀ tower of 36 52

Kronos, the planet

Functions: δάκρυ 558₀ rain, hail, wind, and thunderstorms 558₀ 558₁

Identified with Nebrod (Nimrod) and Orion 693₄ 694₀

Kroton

Cults: Hera Λακωία 1021 Muses 1021
 Pythagoras as Apollon Ὑπερβόρειος
 223

Rite: sacrifices to Apollon on seventh day of month 237₀

Myth: Pythagoras' eagle 222₄

In relation to Pythagoreans 45

— coins of 225 f. garden of Hera
 Λακωία at 1021

Kteatos

Genealogy: b. of Eurytos 317 s. of Molione, nominally by Aktor, really by Poseidon 1015₈

Ktesios (?) 1066

Kurshumlu in Phrygia

Cults: Phoibos 839 Zeus Βροντῶν 839

Kurtkõi in Phrygia

Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄

Kyaneai

Cults: Ares Μέγας 101₁ Eleutheria
 Ἀρχηγέτις Ἐπιφανής 101₁ Zeus
 Αὐτοκράτωρ Καίσαρ Τίτος Αἰλιος
 Ἀδριανὸς Ἀντωνεῖνος Σεβαστὸς Εὐ-σεβής (= Antoninus Pius) 101₁

Kybele

Cults: Mt Ide in Phrygia 950₀ Mykenai (?) 1221

Rites: effigy worn by votaries 299 f.
 tat'ooing 123₀

Priests: Archigallus 299 ff. Gallus
 298 f.

Priestesses: chief priestess 301 f.

Genealogy: w. of Zeus 298

Function: mountain-mother 298

Attributes: lion 299 lions 970₀ 1221 (?)

- Kybele (cont.)
 mural crown 300 pine-tree 951₀
 timbrel 300
Types: seated in aedicula with two lions 970₀ standing between two lions with double axe and ritual horns (serpentine?) on her head 1221 (?)
Identified with Agdistis 970₀ Meter Theon 970₀ Rhea 970₀
Associated with Attis 301₁
In relation to Attis 293 842
- Kyklopes
Myth: slain by Apollon 241₄
Genealogy: sons of Ouranos by Ge 1023
Function: underground smiths 784 805₆
Attribute: lightning 805₆
Types: one-eyed 828 four-eyed 999 monstrous giants 851
 — two, in Albanian folk-tale 999 f.
- Kyklops
Myth: Odysseus 990 997
Functions: sky (?) 989 f. sun (?) 989 f.
Compared with Zeus 990
 — in folk-tales 988 ff.
- Kyknos, king of Liguria 477 ff.
 Kyknos, s. of Ares
Myth: Herakles 274₀
- Kyknos, s. of Poseidon
Myth: Hemithea (Leukothea) and Tennes (Tenes) 669 ff.
Genealogy: h. of Philonome 669 h. of Prokleia 669
- Kylikranes tattooed 123₀
- Kyllene
Cult: Asklepios 1078
- Kylon 1138
- Kymak in Phrygia
Cult: Zeus Βροντων 835₄
- Kynados, Mt See Kounados, Mt
- Kynon (leg. Κυνων, sc. πόλις)
Cult: dog 987₀
- Kynortion, Mt 487₃₍₁₎
- Kynosoura in Lakonike 1088 f.
- Kynosouris in Thessaly (?) 1089
- Kynthos, Mt
Cults: Athena Κυνθία 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Kronos (?) 920₀ Rhea (?) 920₀ 921₀ Zeus Κύνθιος 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀
 — cistern-mosaic on 919₀ 920₀ 922₀
- Kyparissos
Myth: 981₁
- Kypris
Epithet: Διωνάλα (Διανάλα) 351₀
Function: maddens the lover 1164₀
- Kypros
Cults: Aphrodite Παφία 424 Apollon 246, Ba'al-ḥammán 1208₂ Dionysos Σαώτης (?) 599₂ Janiform god and goddess 673 tree 157₁ Zeus Ζητήρη 444₇ 1102₃ Zeus Σαώτης (?) 599₂ Zeus Τιμωρός 874₂ 1099₀
- Kypros (cont.)
 — coins of 424 three-eyed ogre in folk-tale from 995 f.
- Kypselos, chest of 451 739₀ golden Zeus dedicated at Olympia by 737 vow of 737₆
- Kyrene
Cults: Artemis 'Αγροτέρα 1177₃ Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 259₀ (Zeus) Φίλιος 1177₃ Festival: Karneia 237₀
 — coins of 708₂ leaden anchor from 876₀
- Kyrene, eponym of the town
Myth: carried off by Apollon 460₂
- Kyrios Sabaoth 884₀₍₀₎
- Kyrrhos
Cult: Zeus Καταιβάτης 15 f. 745₁ 983₁
- Kys
Cult: Zeus 'Ελευθέριος (= Augustus) 97₀
- Kytissoros 904₁
- Kyzikos
Cults: Hermes 834 Theos "Υψιστος 953₁ Zeus 743₇ Zeus Βρονταίος 833 ff. 852 Zeus "Υψιστος 881₀₍₂₁₎ 953₁ Zeus "Υψιστος Βρονταίος 833 ff. 882₀₍₀₎
Myth: nurses of Zeus 227 f.
 — coins of 180 319₅ 460₂ 743₇
- Kyzikos, personification of the town 319₅
- Labaro (?)
Cult: Norba in Lusitania 609₃
- Labranda
Cults: Zeus Λαβράνδος (Λαμβράνδος, Λαβράνδος, Λαβραίνδος (?), Λαβραίνδος (?), Λαβραίνδος (?), Λαβράενδος, Λάβρενδος, Λάβρανδος (?), Λαβραν-δεύς, Λαβραεύς, Λαβρανδηνός) 576 f. 585 ff. 597 846 Zeus Στρατίος 576 ff. 585 591 594 713 722 846 976₀ Priests: distinguished citizens priests for life 576 f.
Etymology: 586 600
 — remains of temple at 588 ff. sacred plane-trees at 590 976₀
- Labrandos, the Koures 587
- Labrantidai 881₀₍₂₀₎
- Labrayndos, god of Mylasa 586 ff.
 See also Zeus Epithets Λαβράνδος
- Labryandos, the king 588
- Laburus
Cult: Emona 609₃
- Labyadai
Etymology: 629
 — oaths of 233 233₇ 730₀ sacrifice of 243 f.
- Labyrinth
Myth: Daidalos 600 f.
Etymology: 600 846
In relation to double axe 600 f.
 — as circular maze-like structure 943₀ as mediaeval maze 601
- Labys 629

- Lachesis
Genealogy: d. of Ouranos by Ge 1023
Function: cosmic 316₀
- Lactora in Aquitania Rites: vires escepit 306₄ vires tauri
consacravit 306₄
- Ladicus, Mt, in Gallacia
Cult: Iupiter Ladicus 320₀
- Ladon, the dragon 1017
- Lagina
Cults: Hekate 714₂ Zeus "Υψιστος 963₆
 Zeus "Υψιστος και Θεός ο βασιλικός 879₀₍₁₇₎
- Laïos, a Cretan 929₀
- Laïos, f. of Oidipous
Myth: Oidipous 923₀ 1154₃
- Lairbenos
Cult: Hierapolis in Phrygia 566
Types: radiate bust 566 youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe (?) 566
Identified with Apollon 566 ff. 845
- Lairmenos
Cults: Badinlar, in Phrygia 567 Dionysopolis in Phrygia (?) 566
Type: youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe (?) 566
Identified with Apollon 566 ff. 845
 Helios 568 845
- Lakereia 484
- Lakonike
Cults: Apollon Κουρβιδίος 322₆ Apollon
 Τερράχειρ or Τερράχειρος 322₆ Apollon
 Τερράωρος 322 Asklepios 1085
- Lakshmi
Cult: India 774₁
Genealogy: w. of Vishnu 774₁
Attribute: lotos 774₁
- Lambaesis
Cults: Fons 369₀ Genius Fontis 369₀
 Ianus Pater 369₀ Iupiter Propagator
 Conservator 369₀
- Lamia 666₂ 828 f. 994₂ 1131
- Lamis 694₀
- Lammas 325₃ 326₄
- Lamponeia 951₀ f.
- Lampsakos
Cults: Meter Theon Τηπέη 697 Priapos
 464 — coins of 674₁ Xenophon at 1106 f.
- Laodike 452 f. 466 501
- Laodikeia Katakekaumene
Cult: Zeus Βροντών και 'Αστράπτων 817
- Laodikeia on the Lykos
Cults: Caracalla 1186 Gaia 1186 Thalassa
 1186 Theos "Υψιστος (sic)
 882₀₍₂₃₎ Theos "Υψιστος 968₃ Zeus
 319 f. 319; 745₁ Zeus (= Caracalla)
 1186 Zeus 'Ασείς 321₀
Festivals: Deia 320₀ Deia Sebasta Oikoumenika
 320₀ Myth: Zeus nursed by Rhea under protection of Kouretes 968₃
 — coins of 319; 571 f. 933₀ 1186
- Laodikeia, personification of the city on the Lykos
Types: seated with statuette of Zeus in right hand and cornu copiae in left 320₀ seated with statuette of Zeus in right hand and sceptre in left 319; standing with phiale in right hand and statuette of Zeus in left 320₀
- Laodikeia on the sea
Cult: Zeus 1192
Myth: shepherd struck by lightning
 886₀₍₃₀₅₎
 — coins of 1192 formerly called Leuke Akte, and before that Ramitha
 886₀₍₃₀₎
- Laodokos 452
- Laomedon 892₅
- Laonoë See Laonome
- Laonome (Laonoë) 472
- Lapersai
Cult: Zeus 'Αγαμέμνων 1069
- Laphystion, Mt, in Boiotia
Cults: Dionysos Λαφύστιος 899₁ Herakles Χάρωψ 899₁ Zeus Λαφύστιος 899₁
- Lapithai
Myths: Ixion 1088 Periphas 1122 f.
Type: fighting Centaurs 615₂ (?)
 — migration of (?) 1123
- Lapithes, eponym of the Lapithai
Genealogy: f. (or s.) of Periphas 1122
 1134 s. of Apollon by Stilbe 684₂
 1134 f.
- Lapps
Cult: Thor (?) 423₃ 533₂
Rites: erection of beam pierced by iron nail 423₃ 533₂ sacrifice of bare bones 423₃ world-pillars 57₁
- Lar
Epithet: familiaī...pater 1059
Rite: meal 19₀
Genealogy: Larunda progenitus 1059
Identified with Genius 1059
- Larasa in Media 958₀
- Lares
Cults: Italy 1059 Rome 401
Epithets: familiares 1059 Querquetulani
 401
Festival: Compitalia 1171₂
Rite: corn-ears 19₀
Function: souls of deified ancestors
 1159₁
Etymology: 1159₁
Attributes: goat-rhyton 1060 cp. 751₁
 pail 1060 cp. 751₁
Types: dancing 1060 seated 751₁ standing 751₁ woollen effigies 1171₂
Assimilated to Attis 308₁
Associated with Genius Neronis 96 98
 Iupiter 751
In relation to Manes, Genii, Lemures,
 Larvae 1059
- Larisa at Argos
Cults: Athena 892₅ 893₀ three-eyed
 Zeus 892₅ Zeus Λαρισάιος 892₅ 893₀

- Larisa, old name of Tralleis 587₂
 Larisa on the Caystrian Plain
Cult: Apollon Λαρισηνός 958₀
 Larisa on Mt Messogis
Cult: Zeus Λαράσιος 958₀ ff. Zeus Λαρισάιος 958₀ Zeus Λαρίσιος 957₃ f.
 Larissa in Thessaly
Cults: Akrisios 1155 Athena 1155 Enhodia 1155 Enhodia Φαστικά 1155₁ Polis 1155 Zeus Μετρίχιος 1155 f.
Myths: Akrisios slain by Perseus 1155 Gargaros, s. of Zeus 950₀
 Larissa Kremaste
Cults: Hermes 1155₅ Polis 1155₅
 — compared with Larisa on Mt Messogis 957₃
 Larunda
Genealogy: m. of Lar 1059
Etymology: 1159₁
 Larvae
In relation to Manes, Genii, Lemures, Lares familiares 1059
 Lasimos 1159₁
 Latinus 1071
 Latinus Silvius 40₄
 Latmos, Mt 589
 Lato See Leto
 Latos, oath of 730₀
 Lavinium
Cult: Penates 1068
 — caducei of iron and bronze together with Trojan pottery preserved at 1068
 Lear 325 f. See also Llyr
 Lebadeia
Cults: Apollon 899₂ St Christopher 1076 chthonian Zeus (or Hermes) 233₀ St Elias 899₂ Hera 899₂ Herkyna 1073 1075 Kronos 899₂ Trophonios (Trephonios) 899₂ 1073 ff. Zeus 899₂ Zeus Βασιλεύς 899₂ 900₀ 1073 f. 1076 Zeus Τρεφώνιος or Τροφώνιος 1061 1073 ff.
Festival: Basileia 900₀
Rite: honey-cakes offered to snakes 1074 f.
Myth: Trophonios (Trephonios) swallowed by earth 1075
 — bóthros of Agamedes at 1075 contract for building temple of Zeus Βασιλεύς at 900₀ Katabásion at 14 1075 f. 1088 Κόρης θήρα (?) near 899₂
 Lebedos 662
 Lebena
Cult: Asklepios 1082
Rite: incubation 1082
 — temple-spring at 1082
 Lebuinus, St 117
 Lectisternia See Index II
 Leda
Myths: consorts with Zeus 1015₇ 1131₁ ep. 941₀ keeps egg of Nemesis in chest 1015 lays two eggs containing Castor and Pollux, Clytemnestra and Helena 1015₇
 Leda (cont.)
Attribute: Phrygian cap 432₂ (?)
 — egg of (?) 1062
 Leibethra (Libethra)
Rite: mysteries 1024
 Leicester
Cult: Janiform god 325 f.
Rite: workmen begin the year's work in underground chamber sacred to Janiform god 325 f.
Myth: Cordelia buries King Lear in underground chamber beneath the Soar 325 f.
 Leimon 164₆
 Leis 414₂
 Leleges 354₀ 458₁ 666₀ 949₅ 951₀
 Lemnos
Cults: Bendis 314₀ crabs 664 f. Dionysos 314₀ Kabeiroi 663 ff.
 Lemures
In relation to Manes, Genii, Larvae, Lares familiares 1059
 Lenaia 236 244₂
 Leo 43₁ 734₃
 Leochares 281₄
 Leon (leg. Λεόντων, sc. πόλις)
Cult: lion 987₀
 Leonard, St 134
 Leonidas 6
 Lepetymnos
Cult: Mt Lepetymnos 832
 Lepetymnos, Mt
Cults: Apollon 832 Lepetymnos 832
Myth: two ravens 832
 Lerne (Lerna)
Cult: Dionysos Σαώρης 599₂
 — spring at 1022
 Lesbos
Cult: Dionysos Ἐνδόρης 1021
Festival: Theodaisia 1021
Rite: cannibalism 1021
Myths: Enorches 1021 head of Orpheus 290₀ — name-trick in folk-tale from 999
 Leto (Lato)
Cults: Argos 455 Athens 163₄ Badinlar, in Phrygia 567 568₀ Delphoi 1216 Gortyna 723₀ Heleia (?) 931₀ Hierapytna 723₀ Lyttos 723₀ 934₀ Phaleron 183 Priansos 723₀
Epithets: Ἀσιάρτις 455 Μήτηρ 567 568₀
Myths: aided by Kouretes on Mt Solmissos 962₂ bears Apollon and Artemis to Zeus in Lykia 455₂ Kleinis 463₁
Genealogy: m. of Apollon 237₀ 484 m. of Apollon and Artemis by Zeus 453 m. of Apollon and Artemis 456 m. of Artemis 465 501
Etymology: 455
Associated with Apollon 567 Apollon and Artemis 183 202₁ 203₀ 317₂
In relation to Artemis 501

- Leukas
Cult: Apollon Ἄκτιος 782
Rite: ox sacrificed to flies 782
- Leuke, d. of Okeanos 468
Leuke, island in Euxine sea 925₀
Leuke Akte 886₀₍₃₀₎
Leukippides 438₂
Leukippos, b. of Aphareus 438₂ 1089
Leukophrys, old name of Tenedos 669
Leukothea 211
Leukothea, st. of Tenes 670
Leuktron or Lenkra in Lakonike
Cult: Zeus Ἰθωμάρας 891₀
- Libanos, Mt
Cult: Zeus (Abad) 983₇
Myth: Libanos 981₁
- Liber
Cults: Jerusalem (supposed) 282₀
 Rome 307₀
Epithets: Bimater 1031 bis genitus 1031 Pater 220₀ 244₄ 256 282₀ 1031 1197
Festival: Magna Corona 244₄
Priest: archibuocolus 307₀
Myths: Agdistis 969₄ born in India 1031 descent to the dead 256 reared by Nysus 1031 slain by Titans 1031
Genealogy: s. of Jupiter by Proserpina 1031
Function: triumphs 244₄
Attributes: bay 244₄ ivy 244₄
Identified with Apollo and Sol 256 f. Apollo 244₄ Dionysos 220₀ 1031 Jehovah 1197 Osiris 244₄
Associated with Minerva and Hercules 1181₀
- Libera (?) 98₁
Libethra See Leibethra
Libye, the country
Cult: Aphrodite 987₀
Rite: taboo on garlic among priests of Aphrodite 987₀
- Libye
Type: double bust (with Triton) 392
- Lichades 903₀
Lichas 902₂ 903₀
Licinius
Personates Iupiter 1195
Licinius Iunior
Personates Iupiter 1195
- Ligourio 1145₁₍₆₎
Liguria
Myth: Kyknos 477
- Ligurians
In relation to Illyrians and Iberians 340₃
 — rock-engravings of 688₀
- Lindos
Cults: Athena 346₀ 925₀ Athena Ἰολιάς 923₀ Dionysos 925₀ Psithyros the god 1044 Zeus Ἀραβύριος 925₀ Zeus Ἰολιεύς 923₀
Festival: Sminthia 250₂
Myth: Helene dedicates electrum cup to Athena 346₀
- Linos 164₅ 164₆
Lips in Phoenician cosmogony 1037 f.
- Litai 1097₂ 1098₀ 1099₂ 1100₀ 1101
Functions: avenging deities 1101 prayers of injured man 1100₀ 1101 prayers of injurer 1100₀
Type: halt, wrinkled, squinting 1099₂ 1100₀
- Liternum
Cult: Mater deum 306₄
Rite: (vires) condidit 306₄
- Lithuanians
Cults: Sondergötter 13, wind-god (Wejopatits) 445₁
Myth: Road of the Birds 38 462 — star-lore of 158₁
- Lityerses 295₂ 1096₃
Livia, fresco from house of 145 ff.
- Livinus, St 117
- Ljod 682
- Llyr
Cult: Celts 326
Identified with Ianus 326
- Loki 305₀
Longinus, the blind soldier 305₀
Lopta, near Sidyma
Cult: Apollon 971₂
- Lotis
Metamorphosed into lotus-tree 486₂
- Lousoi
Cult: Artemis 646
- Loxo 452₁₁
- Lucania
Cult: Zeus 709 — coins of 709
- Ludi Plebei 1172₀
Ludi Romani 1172₀
- Lugdunum
Cults: Mars 99₃ Vesta 99₃ Vulcanus 99₃
Rite: vires exceptit et a Vaticano transtulit 306₄
- Lugdunum Convenarum
Cult: Fagus 402₁
- Luke, St
Attribute: amulet 1200₃ 1200₄
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1200₄ 1202₀
- Luna
Function: Monday 70
Attribute: torch 1050
Types: bust with crescent on head 555₀ colossal 254₂ driving chariot 96
Identified with Diana, Ceres, Iuno, Proserpina 256
Associated with Sol 59₀ 96 98 555₀ 1050
- Lupercalia 20₀
Lussoius See Luxovius
Luxovium in Germania Superior
Cults: Brixia (Bricia) 86₃ Iupiter (?) 1213 Luxovius (Lussoius) 86₃
- Luxovius (Lussoius) 86 86₃
- Lydia
Cults: Zeus 1228 Zeus Ἀσκραῖος 872₀₍₆₎ Zeus Κάριος 577 Zeus Κεραύνιος 807₅₍₆₎ Zeus Μηδεύς (Μηδινεύς) 312₅

- Lydia (cont.)
 Myth: Sandon Herakles 560 — coins of 296₀ 1210 religious prostitution in 959₀ f.
 Lyk(abas?)
 Cult: Themisonion 312₅ 313₈
 Epithet: Σώτων 312₅ 313₈
 Lykabettos, Mt 1115
 Lykaion, Mt
 Cult: Zeus 423 Zeus Λύκαιος 761 891₃
 Rite: human sacrifice 891₀
 Myth: Kallisto 228₅
 — bronze statuettes of Zeus from 737 745₀
 Lykaon
 Myth: 228₅
 Genealogy: f. of Dia 486₁ f. of Kallisto
 228₅ s. of Pelasgos 1096₄
 Lykaonia
 Cult: Zeus Βροντών και Ἀστράπτωv
 817₂ 835₅
 Lykia
 Cults: Apollon 453 Apollon Λύκειος 458
 Artemis Ἐλευθέρα 681₁ Theoi Σκληροί 972₀ Zeus Κράγος 972₀
 Rite: imprecations by the Theoi Σκληροί 972₀
 Myth: Apollon winters there 455
 Etymology: 453
 — solar symbol of 698
 Lykios, s. of Kleinis 463₁
 Lykokatzaraioi See Kallikantzaroi
 Lykon (Λύκων, sc. πόλις)
 Cult: wolf 987₀
 Lykoreia
 Cults: Apollon Λυκωρεύς 901₂ 902₀
 Phoibos Λυκώρειος or Λυκωρεύς 901₂
 902₀ Zeus Λυκώρειος 901₂
 Myth: Deukalion 901₂
 Etymology: 901₂
 Lykoreion, Mt
 Cult: Zeus Λυκώρειος 901₂ 902₀
 Lykoreus See Lykoros
 Lykoros (Lykoreus), s. of Apollon by Korykia 901₂
 Lykos, Boeotian hero
 Myths: Antiope 1013 Zethos and Amphion 1013 1015 1019₂
 Lykos, god of light (?) 902₀ 1013
 Lykos, river in Phrygia 572₂
 Lykourgos, tomb of, struck by lightning 9
 Lyktos 925₁
 See also Lyttos
 Lymphae
 Associated with Vires 306₄
 Lynkeus 317 437 ff.
 Lyons, marble statuette of Zeus at 759 f.
 Lysippos 45 746₂ 748₀ 749 762 859 f. 864
 1046 1139₀ 1143₅ 1145₀
 Lyttos
 Cults: Aphrodite 723₀ Apollon Πύθιος
 (Πύθιος) 723₀ 934₀ Ares 723₀ Artemis
 934₀ Athena Πολιάς 723₀ Athena Ἵλπερα 723₀ Belchanos (?) = Vel-chanos 948₀₍₄₎ Britomartis 934₀
 Lyttos (cont.)
 Hera 723₀ Hestia 723₀ 934₀ Kou-retes (Koretas) 723₀ Leto (Iato)
 723₀ 934₀ Nymphs 723₀ Zeus 934₀
 Zeus Βελχάδος (?) = Φελχάδος 948₀₍₄₎
 Zeus Βιδάτας 934₀ Zeus Μοννίτιος
 723₀ Zeus Ὀπάριος 723₀
 Festivals: Belchania (May 1?) 948₀₍₄₎
 Theodaisia 948₀₍₄₎
 — oath of 723₀ 731₀
 See also Lyktos
 Ma
 Cults: Asia Minor 294₀ Komana 616
 Mastaura 565₂
 Rite: sacrifice of bull 565₂
 Priest: διὰ βίον 616₁
 Myths: follows Rhea 565₂ nurses Dio-nyos 565₂
 Identified with Rhea 565₂
 Ma as equivalent of Μητηρ 293₄
 Machaireus 170₂
 Machaon
 Genealogy: b. of Podaleirios 317
 Function: surgeon 451₁
 Etymology: 451₁
 Mâcon, silver statuettes from 746₂ 755
 Macrobi of Apollonia on Mt Athos 500
 Maenads
 Epithet: Λαφύστιαι 899₁
 Myth: lashed with ivy-sprays by Ino 1041
 Attribute: θήρσος 461₀
 Types: dancing 476 double bust (with Pan) 392 double bust (with Priapos)
 392 double bust (with Satyr) 392 milking her breast into goat-rhyton
 347₀ neo-Attic 165₀ Skopas 476₃
 Associated with Apollon 461₀ Dionysos
 115 245₀ 246₀ 262 f. 265 Satyrs 929₀
 — in amber 1221 on votive tablet
 903₀
 Magi 33 395₂ 507 546₀ 701 977₀
 Magna Corona 244₁
 Magna Mater See Mater
 Magnes, a herdsman of Mt Ide in Phrygia, discovers loadstone 949₅
 Magnesia ad Maeandrum
 Cults: Apollon Αἰλαίτης (Αἰλαίτης, Ἀλλίτης, Ἀλληγής) 249₂ Apollon Βιλκάνιος 948₀ Zeus Ἀκραῖος 873₀₍₇₎ 963₁
 — coins of 249₂
 Magnesia ad Sipylum
 Cults: Apollon ἐν Πάνδοις 729₀ Ares
 729₀ (Artemis) Ταυροπόλος 729₀
 Athena Ἄρεια 729₀ Ge 729₀ Helios
 729₀ Hermes (?) 957₀ Meter Σιτυ-ληνή 729₀ ἡ τοῦ βασιλέως Σελεύκου Τύχη 729₀ Zeus 729₀ 957₀
 — coins of 957₀
 Magnesia in Thessaly
 Cults: Apollon Κοροπαῖος 730₀ Artemis
 Ἴωκλία 730₀ Asklepios 1079 Zeus
 Ἀκραῖος 730₀ 871₃₍₁₎
 — coins of 1079

- Magni, s. of Thor 64₀
 Magoi See Magi
 Magrè
Cult.: Rit- 1220
 Mahalinæ 64₀
 Maia
Identified with Rosmerta 94₃
Associated with Mercurius 96 (?)
 Maiandros, river-god 408₀
 Maidike
Cult.: Dionysos Ἄσδοῦλης 270
 Maionia
Cult.: Zeus 745₁
 Maira 164₆
 Makedonia
Cults.: Apollon 458 Arantides 1102₄
 Muses 255₃ Zeus Ἰψιστος 878₀₍₀₎ — coins of 323 412 548₀ 1136₄ folklore in 36
 Malachbelos
Cult.: Emesa (?) 814₃
 See also Malakba'al
 Malakba'al (Melekba'al) 1108₂
 See also Malachbelos
 Malea (Maleai), Cape
Cults.: Apollon Μαλεάτης (?) 488₀₍₀₎
 Zeus Μαλεαίος 488₀₍₀₎ 890₄
 Malea, headland in Lesbos 488₀₍₂₎
 Maleates
Cult.: Peiraiæus 487₃₍₁₎
Associated with Apollon 487₃₍₁₎
 Maleventum See Beneventum
 Malkandros, f. of Palaistinos or Pelousios 986₀
 Mallos in Kilikia
Myth.: founded by Amphilochos and Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎
 — coins of 552 845 983₀ (?)
 Maloeis in Lesbos 488₀₍₂₎
 Malophoros See Demeter Epithets Μαλοφώρας
 Malos, s. of Zeus 488₀₍₀₎
 Malthayah, rock-cut relief at 769₂
 Mandaites 1024
 Mandas, bronze shrines from 141 ff. 154
 Manes
In relation to Genii, Lemures, Larvae, Lares familiares 1059
 Manes, forefather of the Lydians 311 f.
Genealogy.: f. of Akmon 312₅ s. of Zeus by Ge 312
Identified with Zeus 312
 Manichæans 44 1211
 Manthea (?) 229₁
 Mantinea
Cults.: (Artemis) Ἰηνηλόπη (?) 691 f. Asklepios 1078 Poseidon Ἴππιος 581 (Zeus) Ἐπιδώτης (Ἐπιδότης) 321₁ Zeus Εὐβωλεύς 259₀ Zeus Κεραννός 12 f. 807 Zeus Σωτήρ 321₁
Myths.: refounded by Antinoe 1083 sea-water in sanctuary of Poseidon Ἴππιος 581
 — coins of 1078
 Manto, d. of Teiresias 488₀₍₂₎ 489₀₍₄₎
- Mantua, relief at 811 f.
 Marathon
Cult.: Zeus Ἰππᾶρος 875₁₍₃₎ 898₁ — battle of 854 tetrapolis of 875₁₍₃₎
 Marathon, the hero
Personates Zeus (?) 1146
Genealogy.: f. of Sikyon 1146 s. of Epopeus 1146
 Marcellinus See Petrus
 Marduk
Cult.: Babylon 128₂ 769₁
Epithet.: Bēl 128₂
Function.: storm 769₀
Attribute.: dragon 769₁ 770₀
Type.: advancing with double lightning-fork in either hand (?) 769₀ Identified with Adad 769₁
 Maria de' Greci, St
Supersedes Athena 910₁
 Marina, St 1114
 Mark, St
Attribute.: water-jar 1200₃ 1200₄
Type.: on chalice of Antioch 1200₁ 1202₀
 Marnas
Cult.: Gaza 675
Identified with Zeus 675
 Maroneia, coins of 271₃
 Marpessa 439
 Mars
Cults.: Agedincum 99₃ Alani 548₀ Borcovicium 51₁ Cadenet 619 Lugdunum 99₃ Rome 547₂ Tiora Martiene 1133₁ 1230
Epithets.: Thingsus 51 Ultor 114₀
Myth.: herdsman finds sword of Mars 548₀
Functions.: oracular 1133₁ 1230 Tuesday 70
Attributes.: goose (?) 51₁ spear 547₂ swan (?) 51₁ wheel 57₀ woodpecker on pillar 1133₁
Type.: spear (?) 547₂
Identified with Zin 50
Associated with Vesta and Volcanus 99₃
 — head of, as shield-sign of Salii 376₂ on the column of Mayence 96 99 sword of 548₀ 682₀
- Marsyas
Myth.: contest with Apollon 248₀ 249₀
Etymology.: 569₂
 Marsyas, river in Karia 590
 Marsyas, river-god 408₀
 Märtända 1035
 Martinmas 325₈
 Mary Magdalene 305₀
 Marys, the three 138₀
 Masnes 312
 See also Manes, forefather of the Lydians
 Mastaura
Cults.: Ma 565₂ Rhea 565₂ youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe 563 Zeus Σπάλωξος 587
 — coins of 563

- Mater
Cults: Mt Ide in Phrygia 950, Pessinous 969₄, Rome 969₄
Epithets: Idaea 950₀, Magna 969₄, 971₀, Phrygia 950₀
Myths: Mt Agdos 969₄, Attis 969₄, 970₀, made of stone from Mt Agdos flung by Deukalion 971₀
Associated with Iupiter Idaeus 950₀
 See also Mater deum, Meter, Mother of the gods
- Mater deum
Cults: Liternum 306₄, Rome 301 f. 306₅
Epithets: Idaea 302₁, Magna 302₁
Priest: sacerdos 306₄
Priestess: sacerdos maxima 302₁
Associated with Attis 306₅
- Mater divum
Identified with Virgo 734₃
- Matilica
Cult: Iupiter Caelestis 401₀
- Matres
Cult: Allmendingen 619
- Matronae
Cult: Allmendingen 619
- Matthew, St
Attribute: city-gate with coin above it (?) 1200₃, 1200₄
Type: on chalice of Antioch 1200₄, 1202₀
- Matutinus 74
- Maximinus I, lance of, struck by lightning 10
- Maximinus II
Personates Iupiter 1194 f.
- Mayence, column of 93 f. 1213 f.
- Mazaka, old name of Kaisareia in Kappadokia 978₀
- Medeia
Epithet: ἑψάνδρα 211₂
Myths: Kirke 1097₂, wooed by Zeus 1088
- Medesigiste 270₅
- Mediomatrici
Cult: Janiform god 324
 — coins of 324
- Medousa
Epithet: Γοργάς 1148₃
Myth: Perseus 716 f. 1018
Genealogy: m. of Chrysaor 457
Type: winged 457
Identified with Artemis, Rhea, Kybele, Demeter, etc. as a form of the Great Mother (?) 457 Compared with Tzitzinaina 1018
 — hair of 191₁₀, 1148
- Médum 1145_{1(a)}
- Megala Dionysia 250₁
- Megala Panhellenia 1120₀
- Megalai Theai
Cult: Megalopolis 1178
- Megaloi Theoi See Kabeiroi
- Megalopolis
Cults: Agathos Theos 1125₁, Aphrodite 1178, Apollon Ἀγυεύς 160₅, 163 As-
- Megalopolis (cont.)
 klepios 1090, Athena Ἐργάνη 164₇, Demeter 1178, Ἐργάται 164₇, Kore 1178, Megalai Theai 1178, Zeus Φίλιος 1178 f. 1183
- Megara
Cults: Acheloius 1117₇, 1138₅, Agathos Daimon (?) 1117₇, Aphrodite Ἐπι-στροφία 257₄, Apollon Καρῶς 165₃, 168₁, Demeter (?) 1117₇, Dionysos Νυκτέλιος 257₄, Eileithyiai 168₁, Heros 896₀, 897₀, Kore 1117₇, Megaros (?) 1117₇, Muses 1139₀, Nyx 257₄, Pan 1117₇, Plouton (?) 1117₇, Saron (?) 414₁, Sithnides 1117₇ (?) Zeus 257₄, 1138₅, Zeus Ἀφείσιος 895₁, 896₀, 897₀, Zeus Κρόνιος (not Κρόνιος, nor Κώνιος, nor Σκόδιος, nor Χθόνιος) 257₄, 1139₀
Festivals: Πυθάρεια 185₂, Πυθάρεια Σε-βαστάρεια 185₂
Myth: deluge 1138₅
 — coins of 163, 168₁, 185 f. 1139₀, votive relief from 1117₇
- Megareus See Megaros
- Megaros
Cult: Zeus Ἀφείσιος 179
- Megaros (Megareus), s. of Zeus by one of the Sithnides 897₁, 1117₇ (?)
- Meidias, the potter 244₄
- Meilichia 1091 f. 1092₅
- Meilichieion at Alaisa (Halaesa) 1158
- Meilichioi
Cult: Thebes in Boiotia 1154₆
- Meilichion at Orchomenos in Boiotia 1149
- Meilinoe (?) 1114₀₍₅₎
- Mekone
Etymology: 1165₁
- Melaina 176₁
- Melampous
Myths: cures Iphiklos, s. of Phylakos 452, 684 f. rears snakes in oak before his house 1087
Etymology: 1153₁
Type: anguiform (?) 1153₁
Compared with Oidipous 1153₁
- Melanis 176₁
- Melantheia 176₁
- Melantho 176₁
- Meleagrides 497
- Meleagros
Myth: meleagrides 497
- Meles, river near Smyrna 998₂
- Meliai, nymphs of Mt Dikte 933₀
- Meliboia (?) (= Kore) 1113₀₍₃₎
- Melichios See Zeus Μηλίχιος
- Melikertes
Myth: caldron of apotheosis 212
Identified with Melqart or Melgarth 1109₀
- Melindia (?) (= Persephone) 1113₀₍₃₎
- Melindia, m. of Persephone by Aides king of the Molossoi 1113₀₍₃₎
- Melinoe (?) 1114₀₍₅₎
- Melinoia (?) (= Persephone) 1113₀₍₃₎

Melissa

Metamorphosed into bee 928₀

Melissens 928₀ 949₅

Melissos

Genealogy: f. of the nymphs Adrasteia and Eide (Ide) by Amaltheia 933₀ ep. 928₀

Melitodes (= Persephone) 1113₀₍₃₎

Melitone (?) (= Persephone) 1113₀₍₃₎

Melos

Cults: Theoi Ouranioi 808₀₍₁₂₎ Tyche 1136₄ Zeus Kαραϊβάτας 16 f. Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₁₂₎ — coins of 788₀ 1136₄ incised gem from 544 622 terra-cotta relief from 717

Melqart or Melqarth

Identified with Herakles 762 Melikertes 1109₀ Zeus Μελίχιος (?) 1109₀

Memnon, s. of Heos

Myths: golden vine 281₄ psychostasia 733 f.

Memphis

Cults: Nefer-Tem 774₀ ox 987₀

Priest: Ostanes 701₀

Men

Cult: Eumeneia in Phrygia 970₀

Epithet: Ἀσκαρνός 970₀

Function: lunar 285₀

Attributes: moon 285₀ starry pilos 386 winged caduceus 285₀

Identified with Attis 295 298

Associated with Zeus Σαβάζιος 285₀

Menelaos

Myth: Helene 1044

In relation to Agamemnon 447₅

— sceptre of 1132₅

Menestratos 1151

Mercurius

Cults: Allmendingen 619 Divitia 64₀

Gallia Belgica 547₀ Praeneste 397₀

Epithet: secundus 1088

Genealogy: b. of Aesculapius secundus 1088

Functions: summer 62 94₁ Wednesday 70

Attributes: caduceus 70₁ cock 94₃ goat 70₁ purse 70₁ 94₃ winged cap 70₁ (?)

Types: running 69₃ running on pillar 69

Identified with Wodan 59 63₀ 69 94₁ 386₀

Associated with Diana 67 (?) Iuno and Ceres 1181₀ Iuno, Hercules, Minerva 57 ff. Maia (?) 94 96 Minerva and Iuno 89 ep. 57 ff. Rosmerta 94₃ 547₀ (?) Venus 67

Meridies 74

Merops, king of Kos

Myths: Hera (?) 1132₁ Rhea (?) 1132₁

Zeus 1132₁

Metamorphosed into bee-eater (?) 1132₁ eagle 1132₁ 1134₀

Merops, seer of Perkote 1072

Mesraim See Mizraim

Messana

Cult: Poseidon 795

— coins of 794

See also Zankle

Messapians 30 31₁ 1159₁

Messene

Cults: Apollon Κόρυδος 458 Hera 728₀

Zeus 1223 Zeus Ἰθωμάτας 728₀ 741 ff.

Festival: Ithomaia 741₄

— coins of 741 f. 1222 1223

Messenians of Naupaktos 741

Messogis, Mt

Cult: Meter Ἰσοδρόμη 957₃

Metaneira 821₃

Metanoia 862 f. 863₁

Metapontum

Cult: Hermes Εἰκόλος 118₃

In relation to Pythagoreans 45

— coins of 667₃

Meter

Cults: Agra 554₂ 1142₃ (?) Athens 1119₀

1142₃ Mt Ide in Phrygia 950₀ Ikonion

970₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀ Mt

Messogis 957₃ Mt Sipylos 956₂

Smyrna 729₀

Epithets: Βοθημένη 970₀ Δνδυμήνη 970₀

ἐν Ἄγρας 1119₀ 1142₃ (?) Ἰδαία 950₀

970₀ Ἰσοδρόμη 957₃ Πλαστήνη 956₂

Σιπυληνή 729₀ 970₀

Associated with youthful páredros, at once her consort and her child 294

Zeus 950₀ Zeus Μελίχιος 1142₃

See also Mater, Mater deum, Meter

Theon, Mother of the gods

Meter Theon

Cults: Eumeneia in Phrygia 970₀

Ikonion 970₀

Epithets: Ἀγγιστις (= Ἀγδιστις) 970₀

Ἀνγδιστις (= Ἀγδιστις) 970₀

Identified with Kybele 970₀

See also Mater, Mater deum, Meter,

Mother of the gods

Methydrion

Cult: Zeus Ὀπλόσμιος 290₀

Myth: Hopladamos (Hoplodamos?)

protects Rhea against Kronos 291₀

Metion 1146

Metis

Myth: swallowed by Zeus 12 348₂

Genealogy: d. (?) of Erebus and Nyx

315₄

Metis (masc.)

Epithet: πρώτος γενέτωρ 1028

Function: βουλή 1024

Etymology: 1025

Identified with Erikepaios 1024 1039

Eros 1039 Phanes 1024 1026

1032 1039 Protogonos 1039 Zeus

1028

In relation to Protogonos (?) 1025 Zeus

1025

Meton, the astronomer 1130;

Metrodoros, portrait-herm of (with Epi-kouros) 390

- Michael, St
Epithets: "Άγιος Άσώματος 894₃
Myth: cleft of Chonai 115
Types: pillar of fire 115 weighing souls 138₀
Supersedes Zeus 894₃ 895₀
 — well of 115
- Midas
Myth: Attis 969, 970₀
Etymology: 312₅
 Midgardh-serpent 305₀
 Mid-Lent, folk-celebrations of 863
 Miletos
Cults: Apollon 457 Apollon Βραχιάτης 255 Apollon Δελφίνιος 237₀
 Apollon Διδυμείς 1220 Apollon
 Δρύμας 486₅ Apollon Θύσιος 250
 Artemis Χιτώνη 410₁ Asklepios 1228
 Demos of Rome 1228 Διός Έλπίδες
 962₀ Άγιώτατος Theos "Τψιστος
 Σωτήρ 879₀₍₁₇₎ Hestia 1220 Hestia
 Βουλαία 317₂ Roma 1228 Zeus
 Βουλαίος 317₂ Zeus Δουσάρης
 Σωτήρ (?) 317₂ Zeus Καταιβάτης
 962₀ Zeus Κεραίνιος 1228 Zeus
 Κεραίνιος Σωτήρ 962₀ Zeus Λαβραϊν-δείς 1228 Zeus Λαβραϊνίδιος 962₀
 Zeus Λαβραϊνίδος 1228 Zeus Λαβρένιδος 962₀ Zeus Λαράσιος 962₀ Zeus
 Λέψυνος 962₀ Zeus Νόσιος 317₂ Zeus
 Όλύμπιος Πεισαίος 962₀ Zeus Όμοβούλιος 962₀ Zeus Σωτήρ 317₂ Zeus
 Τελεσιουργός 1228 Zeus Τερμινθεύς
 962₀ Zeus "Τψιστος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 963₂
Festivals: Διός βούς 318₀ Ebdomaiā
 237₀
Myth: Neleus, s. of Kodros 405 ff.
 See also Didyma near Miletos
 Miletos in Crete, lárnaξ from 49 f.
 Miliche
Cult: Thespiāi 1151
 Milichus
Genealogy: s. of a Satyr by the nymph
 Myrice 1110₀
Type: horned 1110₀
Identified with Ba'al Milik (Melek, Molok) (?) 1110₀
- Milky Way 37 ff.
Myths: Furious Host 62₁ golden rope
 1211 Gwydion 52 Iring 52 Kyknos
 477 ff. milk-white lily 49₁ Phaethon
 476 ff.
Types: hoop 39₀ starry circle 39₀ wavy band 48 f.
Identified with Hades 42 43
In relation to sky-ladder 476 sky-pillar 476 sun 40₃
 — conceived as celestial counterpart of terrestrial road 497 844 conceived as celestial river 479 ff.
 516 1219 conceived as celestial road
 36 ff. 476 f. 1028 conceived as celestial tree 482 f. 1219 conceived as crown 119 f. conceived as original course of sun 40 conceived as path for
- Milky Way (cont.) gods 117 conceived as path for souls 37 ff. 840 conceived as reflection of solar rays 40 conceived as road of the birds 38 462 conceived as rope 44 1211 conceived as source of all rivers 481 conceived as track made by falling star 40 40₁ 43₁ 476 conceived as two golden bull's-horns 117 1028 constellations traversed by 477₈ names of 37 f. 52 62₁
 66₀ 119 f. 464 479 ff. 480₀ 482 482₂
 484 497₁
- Milon, the physicist 11
 Miltiades
Associated with Athena and Apollon
 1137₂
 Mimallones 133₀
 Mimir 305₀
 Min
Cult: Egypt 767₂
Functions: heaven 767₂ thunder 767₂
 Minerva
Cults: Allmendingen 619 1221 Rome
 369₀ 401₀ Urbs Salvia 803
Personated by Saliī (?) 376₁
Assimilated to Athena 66₀
Associated with Fortuna 95₁ 96 Hercules and Iuno 89 Iuno, Mercurius,
 Hercules 57 ff. cp. 89 Iupiter
Optimus Maximus Caelestius and Fontes 401₀ Liber and Hercules
 1181₀ Mercurius and Iuno 89 cp.
 57 ff.
Functions: spinning 65 66₀ weaving
 66₀ winter 65 94₁
Identified with Holda 65 66₀ 94₁
In relation to Fortuna 95
 — helmet of 95₁
 'Minoans' in Iapygia 30 f. snake-goddess of, compared with Gorgon 930₀ thalassocracy of 830₁
- Minorca 541
 Minos
Epithet: Διός μεγάλου δαριστής 940₀
Myths: buried in precinct of Rhea on Mt Juktas (?) 94₀ dedicates cup to Athena Πολιάς and Zeus Πολιεύς at Lindos 923₀ descends into Dictaeān
 Cave and returns with laws of Zeus
 929₀ killed at Kamikos 30 prays Zeus for an omen 8 pursues Brito-martis 939₁
Metamorphosed into Mt Juktas 939₁
Genealogy: f. of Glaukos 1087 f. of Katreus and gf. of Althaimenes and Apemosyne 923₀ s. of Zeus 8 793₇
 s. of Zeus by Europe 342₀ 929₀
Functions: human Zan (?) 945₀ human
 Zeus (?) 940₀ 944₀ lawgiver 929₀
 940₀ priestly king of Knossos 944₀
Superseded by Zeus 940₀
 — tomb of 940₀ 945₀
- Minotaur
Type: stone-throwing 491₀₍₆₎

Minyans as Aeolians 1149₂ at Orchomenos in Boiotia 924₀

Minyas

Cult: Orchomenos in Boiotia 1150₀
Personates Zeus (?) 1150
Myth: Orchomenos in Boiotia 1150
Genealogy: f. of Orchomenos 1150₅ s. of Aleos 1150₅ s. of Ares 1150₅ s. of Eteokles and b. of Orchomenos 1150₅ s. of Orchomenos 1150₅ s. of Poseidon by Chryso gone d. of Halmos 1150₄

— thēlos-tomb of 1150

Misa 131

Mithras

Cults: Borcovicium 1053 Carnuntum 1194₄ Persai 255 Rome 307₀ 835₆ 838 f. Sahin in Phoinike 886₀₍₃₀₎
Epithets: Deus Sol Invictus 835₆ 1194₄
Rites: ladder 129₁ women excluded 1053
Worshippers: heliodromus 312₅ pater 312₅ pater patrum 307₀ Perses 312₅
Attribute: starry pilos (?) 386
Types: emerging from rock with egg-shell above him, knife in right hand, torch in left, all within oval zodiac 1053 slaying bull 511 (fig. 390)
Identified with Apollon 255 Helios (?) Ἀνίκητος (?) 886₀₍₃₀₎ Sol Invictus 307₀ 1194₄

Mizraim 35

Mneme

Cult: Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229

Mnemon 670

Mnemosyne

Genealogy: m. of Muses by Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 1157₀

Mochua, St 214₀

Modena, Orphic relief at 1051

Modin 1146₀

Moesia

Cult: Theos Ἐψιστος 878₀₍₁₁₎ 949₁

Mogontiacum 93

Cults: Genius 96₂ Genius loci 620₂ Iuno Regina 96₁ 96₂ Iupiter Optimus Maximus 96₁ 96₂ Suceaelus 620

Moirā

Function: cosmic 316₀
Attribute: roll 479
Type: reading roll 479
Associated with Keraunos 119₁ Zeus and Erinys 1102₇

Moirai

Cults: Athens 231₈ Delphoi 231 Olympia 231₈ 878₀₍₅₎
Myths: Dictaeān Cave (?) 929₀ Themis 37₁
Genealogy: daughters of Ouranos by Ge 1023
Type: two standing figures 231
Associated with Apollon 231 Themis 37₁ 929₀ Zeus 231
 — as attribute of Zeus 1138₅

Molione

Genealogy: d. of Molos 1015₈ m. of Kteatos and Eurytos, nominally by Aktor, really by Poseidon 1015₈

Moliones

Epithets: λευκίππους κόβρους... ἄλικας ἰσοκεφάλους (A. Meineke cj. ἰσοφάλους J. M. Edmonds cj. ἰσοκαρπῆας), ἐνιγυίους 1015

Myth: born in silver egg 1015

Genealogy: sons of Molione, nominally by Aktor, really by Poseidon 1015₈

Type: with two heads, four hands, four feet, one body 1015₈

Moloch

Cult: Byblos 887₀₍₀₎
Rite: sacrifice of first-born 1108₂
Functions: human king regarded as divine (?) 1108₂

Molos, f. of Molione 1015₈

Molpadia

Myth: Kastabos 670 f.

Molpos 670

Moneta 99₁

Monimos

Cults: Arabia 428 f. Baitokaike 431 Edessa 428

Etymology: 428

Identified with Hermes 428

Mopsion (?) in Pelasgiotis

Cult: Zeus Περφερέτας or Φερφερέτας 496₀

Mopsos

Myths: contest with Kalchas 489₀₍₄₎ fights Amphilochos 489₀₍₄₎ 490₀₍₀₎ 1130₁ founds Mallos in Kilikia 489₀₍₄₎

Morges 934₀

Morsynos 260₀

Morychos 1093₀

Mosa See Mousa

Moses 889₀₍₀₎ 972₁

Mossynoikoi tattooed 123₀

Mostene

Cults: Demeter (?) 564 Hermes ψυχοπομπός (?) 563 f. youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe, with cypress-tree before him, sometimes radiate, or flanked by sun and moon, or escorted by Hermes 563 f.
 — coins of 563 f. 657₅

Mot

Genealogy: child of Acr and Chaos 1038 parent of Zophasemin 1038

Etymology: 1023 1038

Mother of the gods

Cults: Athens 985₀ Dorylaeion 281 Hierapolis in Phrygia 306₁ Pessinous 310 f. 310₂ Phrygia 697 970₀
Epithets: Διὸς σύνδωκος 298₂ μεγάλη 298₂ παρθένος ἀμήτωρ 298₂ Πεσσυνουρίς 970₀ Ἐρηβή 697
Festivals: arbor intrat 303₂ Hilaria 306₁
Priests: ἀρχιερεῖς 311₃ Attis and Baktakes 310 f. ιερεῖς 311₃

- Mother of the gods (cont.)
Worshippers: Ἄραβοκαοί 310₂
Myth: instructs Idaean Daktyloi in iron-working 949₅
Genealogy: m. and w. of Zeus 298₂ Identified with Agdistis 970₀ Rhea 970₀
 — mysteries of 310₂
 See also Mater, Mater deum, Meter, Meter Theon
- Motos (?)
Genealogy: child of Aer and Aura 1036 1038
- Mounychia
Cults: Artemis 115 Bendis 115
- Mousa
Cult: Thespiai 238₀
 See also Muses
- Mouth
Cult: Egypt 1038
Etymology: 1038
- Muhammed 793₄
- Mukasa 450₁
- Muses
Cults: Arkesine 1157₀ Kroton 1021 Makedonia 255₃ Megara 1139₀ Mt Pelion (?) 870₀
Genealogy: daughters of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος by Mnemosyne 1157₀
Type: Lysippe 1139₀
Associated with Zeus 898₅
 See also Mousa
- Myiacoires
Cult: Elis 783
- Myiagros
Cult: Aliphera 782
Myth: Hercules 783
- Myiagrus See Myiagros
- Myiodes
Cult: Olympia 783
- Mykale See Panionion
- Mykenai
Cults: Hera 515 Kybele (?) 1221 Rhea (?) 515 525 1221
Rite: cannibalism 1021
 — gold bucrania from 538 652 654 gold rings from 47 ff. 49₁ 652 head from 123₀
- Mykonos
Cults: Acheloius 1092₂ Apollon Ἐκατόμβαιος 1092₂ Zeus Βουλεύς 258₃ 1105
- Mylanteioi Theoi 260₀
- Mylasa
Cults: Hera 592 Kouretes 586 f. Tyche Ἀγαθή 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zenoposeidon (Zanopoteidan) 578₄₍₁₁₎ 582 663 846 963₇ Zeus 574 1220 Zeus Ἀρσηλῆς (?) 559₆ Zeus Κάριος 577 Zeus Κρηταγενής 586 f. Zeus Λαβράνδος 663 848 963₇ 1220 (See also Labranda Cults) Zeus Ὀσογῶα 576 ff. 578₄₍₃₎ 579₀₍₈₎ (10–12) (14–16) (1–5) 580₀₍₇₎ 663 846 963₇ 1220 Zeus Ὀσογῶα Ζηνοποσειδῶν (Ζανποσειδῶν) 578₄₍₂₎ (4) Zeus Ὀσογῶα Zeus Ζηνοποσειδῶν
- Mylasa (cont.)
 578₄₍₃₎ (5–7) 579₀₍₉₎ Zeus Ὀσογῶα Σωτήρ καὶ Εὐεργέτης τῆς πόλεως 579₀₍₁₃₎ (?) Zeus Ὀσογῶος (?) or Ὀσογῶου (?) 579₀₍₁₁₎ (1) Zeus Ὀσωρονδέων 579₀₍₂₎ 580 f. 580₁₀₍₁₁₎ 581₀₍₅₎ (1–5) Zeus Στράτιος (Στρατεῖος) 591₂ 963₇ (See also Labranda Cults) Zeus Ὀψιστος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 963₇
Festival: Taurophonía 582
Priests: dedicate temple-columns 580 νεωκόρος 582
Myth: sea-water appears inland 581 — as Carian place-name 958₀ coins of 572 ff. 577 f. 592₄ 597₃ 1220 head of Zeus from 597 f. relief at 592 stepped tomb at 1146₀₍₆₎
- Mylasos 715 720₄
- Mylitta 960₀
- Myndos
Cult: Zeus Ἀκραῖος 872₀₍₆₎ 963₄
- Myra
Cult: Artemis Ἐλευθέρα (?) 681₁
Rite: tree threatened 680 ff.
Myth: Myrrha (?) 681 f.
 — coin of 680 f.
- Myrice, m. of Milichus 1110₀
- Myrike, d. of Kinyras 681₁
- Myrmidones
Cult: Zeus Ἐλλάδιος 894₃
- Myron 742 1078
- Myrrha
Myth: Kinyras 680
- Myrrhinous
Cults: Apollon 730₀ Demeter 730₀ Zeus 730₀
- Mysia
Cults: Phanakes 1025 Zeus Κάριος 577
- Mystis 346₀
- Mytilene
Cults: Apollon Μαλόεις 488₀₍₂₎ Asklepios 259₀ 1079 Dionysos 1022 Dionysos Ἐβδομεύς 238₀ Theoi Akraioi (?) 873₀₍₁₀₎ Theos Κεράνιος "Ὀψιστος 807₃₍₃₎ 882₀₍₂₂₎ Theos Ὀψιστος 882₀₍₂₂₎ Zeus 882₀₍₂₂₎ Zeus Ἀκραῖος 922₃ Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀ 873₀₍₁₀₎ (?) Zeus Ἐλευθέριος Φιλόπατρος (= Theophanes) 97₀
Rite: human sacrifice 1022
 — coins of 259₀ 1079 votive ladders at 130
- Naassene hymns 294 ff.
- Nabu, statue of, at Calah 1089
- Naiades See Nymphs: Naiades
- Naiisos
Cults: Iupiter Optimus Maximus Pater-nus Aepilofius 948₄ Zeus Ἐπιλόφιος 875₀ Zeus Πατρόφος Ἐπιλόφιος (?) 948₄
- Nakoleia
Cults: Theos Ὀψιστος 882₀₍₂₂₎ 969₁ Zeus Ἀβοζήρνος 570 Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄ Zeus Βροντῶν καὶ Πατῆρ Θεός

Nakoleia (cont.)

836₂ Zeus Βροντῶν Νευήτωρ Πατήρ
836₃ Zeus Πάπας or Παπᾶς 292₄

Nana, d. of Sangarios 969₄

Nandi 791₂

Nanna, w. of Baldr 305₀

Napoca

Cult: Jupiter O(ptimus) M(aximus)
Tavianus 754₁

Narce in the Faliscan district, celt from 509

Narona

Cult: Aesculapius 1086

Násatia 313

Nástrand 305₀

Nauplia

Cult: Zeus Κραταιβάτης 32 1211

Nauplios 691

Naxos

Cults: Dionysos Βακχεύς 1093₀ Dio-nyos Μελίχιος 1092₀ 1093₀ Dio-nyos Μουσαγέτης 250 Zeus Μηλώ-σιος 918₁

Festival: Megala Dionysia 250₁

Neapolis in Campania

Cults: Apollon 486₅ Virbius 421

— coins of 486₅

Neapolis in Karia

Cult: Zeus 260₀

— coin of 260₀

Neapolis in Samaria

Cults: Artemis' Ἐφεσία 408₀ f. Asklepios 1080 — coins of 408₀ f. 887₀(31) 1080

Neapolis in Skythia (?) 925₀

Neaule (= Nea Aule)

Cult: Zeus Σαονάξιος (= Σαβάξιος) Νεαυλείτης 285₀

Nebrod See Nimrod

Neda, the nymph 890₅

Nefer-Tem

Cult: Memphis 774₀

Function: rising sun 774₀

Attribute: lotos 773₀ 774₀

Type: with lotos-flower on head 774₀

Nehemäuit 409₀

Neilos

Epithet: πολύγονος 1023

Identified with Eridanus the constellation 1025 Okeanos 1025

— as seed of Osiris 482₀

Nekhen, spirits of 126

Neleus, b. of Pelias 317

Neleus, s. of Kodros

Myth: Miletos 405 ff.

Nemausus, ham-shaped coins from fountain at 1141₀

Nemea

Etymology: 892₄

Nemea, the festival 490₀(5) 1226

Nemeseis

Cults: Alexandria 889₀(33) Smyrna
524 864₀

Type: drawn by griffins 524 two draped females touching bosom of dress

Nemeseis (cont.)

with right hand and holding short rod in left 863₁ 864₀

Nemesis

Cults: Alexandria 864₀ Daphne, near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1191₅
Sinope 363

Epithets: multiformis 695₀ ὑπέρδικος
464

Metamorphosed into goose 1015 1131₁

Genealogy: m. of Helene by Zeus
1131₁

Function: stádion 1191₅

Attributes: crown with stags 146 griffin 146₇ knife 863₁ scales 860 f. 863₁

stag 146₇ wheel 863₁ 1095₀

Types: trampling on Hybris 863₁ under arch 363

Identified with Semiramis 695₀

Assimilated to Kairos 863₁

Compared with Spes, Amor, Furor, Occasio, Fortuna, Fata 862₁₀

Nemi

Cults: Diana 393 399 f. 403₁ Diana Nemorensis 149 417 ff. 842 f. Virbius
392 ff.

Rite: rule of succession to office of king-priest 394 f.

Priest: rex Nemorensis 394 f. 399 f.
Ξιφήρης 680₃

— Diana's tree at 417 ff.

Nemroud Dagh

Cults: Tyche Νέα 1136₄ Zeus 'Ωρο-μάσδης 930₀

Neo-Platonists 41 f. 256 f. 557₁

Neoptolemos

Myth: Delphoi 170₂

Neo-Pythagoreans 1032 f.

Neptunus

Cult: Allmendingen 619

Associated with Vires 306₄

— on column of Mayence 96 99

Nereus

Attribute: trident 788₀

Nero

Cult: Alexandria 1128₀

Epithets: 'Απόλλων 98₀ 'Απόλλων Κρι-στης 98₀ 'Ιρακλής 98₀ νέος 'Αγαθός
Δαίμων 98₀ 1128₀ νέος 'Ηλιος 98₀
δ' 'Αγαθός Δαίμων τῆς οἰκουμένης 98₀
1128₀

Personates Agathos Daimon 98₀ 1128₀

Apollon 98₀ 254 1128₀ Dionysos 96₃

97₀ 254 1128₀ Zeus 97₀ 1194

— contorniate medal of 1128₀

Nerthus 82

Nerva

Personates Zeus 1194

Nestor 1203₃

Netteia

Cults: Zeus 'Αταβύριος 925₀ (Zeus)
[Ικέ]σιος (?) 1096₀

New Year's Day, pagan rites of, denounced by Christians 374₂

Nida See Ide, Mt, in Crete

- Nikaia in Bithynia
Cults: Pan 349 Zeus Ἄσ(σ)τραπαῖος 815₅ Zeus Αἰταῖος 1099₂ 1100₀ Zeus Μῆλιος 918₁
 — coins of 349 918₁ 1099₂
- Nike
Cults: Heleia 931₀ Olympia 1100₁ Philadelphieia in Lydia 1229
Attributes: palm 866 wreath 866 1082
Types: bearing wreath 964₂ fastening helmet to trophy 110₆ flying with fillet 197₁ hovering 261 multiplied for decorative purposes 309 on globe 860₃ 964₂ on ship's prow 254₁ Paionios 86 Pheidias 758 849 wreathing city's title 1193₁
Associated with Zeus 853 1100₁
In relation to Zeus 982₀
 — of gold 1190
- Nikolaos, St
Cult: Palaikastro 931₀
Function: sea-faring 997
- Nikomedeia
Cult: Glykon 1084
 — coins of 1084
- Nikopolis in Moesia
Cults: Souras (?) 818₂₍₂₎ 822₁₂ Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₉₎
- Nile See Nilos, Nilus
- Nilus, the constellation 481
- Nimrod (Nebrod)
Myth: Zoroastres 33 f.
Identified with Orion and the planet Kronos 693₁ 694₀
- Nineui (Nineveh) 693₁
- Ninos
Genealogy: h. of Semiramis Rhea 693₄ 694₀
Identified with Pikos who is also Zeus 695₀
- Niobids 475 475₇
- Nisaia, port of Megara
Cult: Demeter Μαλοφόρος 488₀₍₃₎
- Nisyros
Cults: Aphrodite 1157₃ Dionysos 1157₃ Hermes 1157₃ Zeus Μιλίχιος 1157₃
Worshippers: Ἀφροδισιασταὶ Σύροι 1157₃ Διονυσιασταὶ Εὐρυθεμίδιοι 1157₃ Διοσμυλιχιασταὶ 1157 1157₃ Ἐρμαῖζοντες 1157₃
Myth: Poseidon 713
- Noah, axe of 609 f.
- Nomos
Associated with Zeus 1029
- Norba in Latium, celt from 509
- Norba in Lusitania
Cult: Labaro (?) 609₃
- Noricum
Cult: Anigemius 338₃ Ianus Geminus 324
- Norsemen 57₁
- Notion 958₀
- Notos
Type: horse 830₇
 — in Phoenician cosmogony 1037 f.
- Nox 74
- Nuada Argat-lám 224₁ 450₀
- Numa Pompilius 23₂
- Numina Angustorum
Cult: Borcovicium 51₁
- Nuserat in Mysia
Cult: (Dionysos) Βρόμιος 882_{0(w)}
- Nut 1035
- Nykteus
Genealogy: f. of Antiope 1013 f. of Kallisto 228₃
- Nymphs
Cults: Athens 1118 Gortyna 723₀ 731₀ Hierapytna 723₀ Lyttos 723₀ Priansos 723₀ Sybrita 731₀
Associated with Acheloius 1118 Vires 306₄
 — Dodonides: Polyhymno 1022 Dryades 276 683 f. Epimelides 31₁ Forrinae 808₀₍₁₇₎ Geraistian 183 f. Hamadryades 486 Heliades 42 485 (?) Hesperides 134₁ 1017 1021 1030 Hyades 274 f. Ithome and Neda 890₀ Meliai 447₃ 933₀ Naiades 124₁ 394₃ 933₀ Naiades: Amaltheia 932₁ Nysai 272 f. Okeanides 473₃ Phryxonides 928₀ Querquetulanae Virae 402₀ Sithnides 897₁ 1117₇ Sphragitides 899₀ Thourides 255₃ Tritonides 898₀ as nurses of Dionysos 1030 as nurses of Zagreus 1030 transform two maidens into fir-trees 486
- Nymphs' Hill at Athens 1114
- Nysa, Mt 449₀ cp. 272
- Nysa in Lydia
Cult: Kore (?) with snake (?) and double axe 564
 — coins of 564 801
- Nysa, the nymph 272
- Nysai 272 f.
- Nysaia 273
- Nyseia 273
- Nysus
Myth: rears Liber 1031
- Nyx
Cults: Ephesos 1021 Megara 257₄
Epithet: μελανόπτερος 1020 1050
Myths: consulted by Zeus 448₁ 1027 1029 cosmic egg 1039 1050 Delphoi 238₁ Kronos 448₁
Genealogy: d. and w. of Phanes 1026 m. by Erebos of Aither, Eros, Metis 315₄ m. of Eros 1020 m. of Eros by Aither 1051 m. of Eros by Erebos (?) 1050 f. m. of Furies 825 m. by Phanes of Ge or Gaia and Ouranos, Rhea and Kronos, Hera and Zeus 1026
Functions: prophecy 257₄ 448₁ 1027 1029 queen 1026
Type: archaic 1021
 — oracle of 257₄ sceptre of 1026
- Oaxes, 929₀

- Oaxos 929₀ See also Axos
 Occasio 862 f.
 Oceanus, the constellation 481
 Oche, Mt
Cult: Zeus superseded by St Elias 902₁
Myth: union of Zeus with Hera 902₁
- Ocerisia
Etymology: 1156₅
- Octavianus See Augustus
- Odessos in Thrace
Cult: Theos Megas 1126₀
 — coins of 1126₀
- Odhin
Myths: fights the fire-demon Surtr 305₀ hangs on the tree as a sacrifice to Odhin 305₀ overcome by Fenrir 305₀ rides down to Mimir's well 305₀ rides through the hall of serpents on Nastrand 305₀
Genealogy: f. of Vidharr 305₀
Attribute: broad hat 386
Type: one-eyed 682
- Odrysi
Cult: Dionysos 269₁ 661 f. (?)
 — coin of 661 f.
- Odyseus
Myths: axes as marriage-test 690 Kyklops 990 997 offers meal to dead 18₀ prays Zeus for omen 8 Telegonos 676 923₀ Telephos 1184₃ tree-bed 690
Functions: fire-god (?) 697 hero 698 sun-god (?) 697
 — raft of 906₃
- Oea in Tripolitana 360₂
- Ogur (Ogut) in Galatia
Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₅
- Ogygos 824₀
- Oichalia 902₂
- Oidipodeion at Eteonos 1152 1154
- Oidipodes (= Oidipous) 1154₃ 1154₅
- Oidipous
Cult: Eteonos 1151 ff.
Myths: as explained by S. Freud 451₀ Eteonos 1152 Keos 1152 Kolonos 1152₅ Laïos 923₀ summoned by Zeus Χθόνιος 829 Thebes 1152
Metamorphosed into snake (?) 1155
Genealogy: f. and b. of Eteokles and Polyneikes 825₅ s. of Laïos 1154₃
Function: hypostasis of Zeus Χθόνιος (?) 1154
Etymology: 1152 f.
Type: anguiform 1152 ff.
Compared with Melampous 1153₁ Zeus Μειλίχιος 1154
 — grave of 1154
- Oineus 1137₂
- Oinoanda
Cult: Theos Ὀψιστος 879₀₍₁₆₎
- Oinomaos, house of, at Olympia 706 808₀₍₁₅₎ sacrifice of 706
- Oistros (?) 1041
- Oite, Mt 903₂ 1226
Cults: Herakles 903₂ Zeus 903₂
Myths: Dryope 486 pyre of Herakles 941₀ (?) (T. Faber ej. Αἴτνης)
 — meadows that might not be mown on 903₂ pyre of Herakles on 903₂
- Oitosyros (Goitosyros, Gongosyros), the Scythian Apollon 293₀
- Okeanos
Epithets: ἀθανάτων τε θεῶν γένεσιν θνητῶν ἢ ἀνθρώπων 481₀ ἀψόρροος 481₀ θεῶν γένεσις 481₀ καλλιρροος 1020 μέγας 1027 δὲ περ γένεσις πάντεσσι τέτυκται 481₀ πατήρ 1021
Myths: Hera 343₀ Themis 37₁
Genealogy: f. of Leuke 468 f. of Phorkys, Kronos, Rhea, etc. by Tethys 1020 h. of Tethys 473 cp. 343₀ s. of Ouranos by Ge 1020
Functions: celestial river 516 seed of sky-god (?) 481₀
Types: recumbent with head-dress of crab's-claws 665₃
Identified with Eridanus the constellation 1025 Neilos 1025 Osiris 481₀ — at first none other than Milky Way 481 garden of 1021 woods of Persephone beyond 472
- Olaf, St 135
- Olbia
Cult: Apollon 493₀₍₇₎
 — coins of 493₀₍₇₎ leaden bucrania and double axes from 540
- Olbia, m. of Astakos 665₃
- Oleiai 924₀
- Olen 455
- Olenos in Aitolia
Cult: Zeus 933₀
Myth: Zeus nurtured by goat Amaltheia 933₀
- Olenos, s. of Zeus by Hippodameia d. of Danaos 1150₂
- Olor, the constellation 477 477₈
- Olonus
Cult: Zeus Ταλλαῖος 948₁
 — oath of 730₀ treaty of 934₀
- Olymos
Cults: Apollon 586₂ Artemis 586₂
- Olympe, coins of 161 ff. 499
- Olympia
Cults: Agnostoi Theoi 1100₁ Ares (?) 706₅ Hephaistos 706₅ Hera 706₅ Hermes 231₈ 878₀₍₅₎ Hermes Ἐναγώνιος 859 Heros 897₀ Kairos 859 Kronos 554₂ Moirai 231₈ 878₀₍₅₎ Myiodes 783 Nike 1100₁ Pelops 471 Zan 349 Zeus 349 757 ff. 849 916₀ 947₀ 955₀ 1078 1222 1224 Zeus Ἀρῆμιος 783 Zeus Ἀρειος 706 Zeus Ἐρκεῖος 808₀₍₁₅₎ Zeus Καθάρσιος 1100₁ Zeus Καταιβάτης 21 Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₁₅₎ (Zeus) Μοιραγέτας 231₈ Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 758₀ 761 Zeus Ὀρκίος 722 726 f. Zeus Ὀψιστος 231₈ 878₀₍₅₎ 891₂ Zeus Χθόνιος 1100₁

Olympia (cont.)

- Rites*: altar of Zeus made of ashes from thighs of victims 955₀ at first no victor received wreath 466 bull sacrificed to Myiodes 783 oath on cut pieces of boar 726 f. ox sacrificed to flies 782 victor receives wreath of wild-olive 467
- Priests*: μάντεις 466₀ ξυλεύς of Zeus 471
- Myths*: Herakles and the flies 783 Herakles brings wild-olive from land of Hyperboreoi 466 Pythagoras' eagle 222₄ Pythagoras' golden thigh 224₀
— altar of Zeus at 21 Áltis at 915₂ coins of 741 757 ff. 780 f. 849 1224 house of Oinomaos at 706 808₀₍₁₅₎ Zâves at 349
- Olympia, the festival at Daphne, near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1191 f.
- Olympia, the festival at Olympia 490₀₍₆₎
- Olympia, the festival at Prousa ad Olympum 964₂
- Olympieion at Athens 1118 ff. 1135 1229 f.
- Olympieion at Megara 1138₅
- Olympieion at Polichna near Syracuse 916₀ 917₀
- Olympion at Agrigentum 911₀ ff.
- Olympos, Mt, in Arkadia 761
- Olympos, Mt, in Elis
Cult: Zeus (?) 758 891₁
- Olympos, Mt, in Kilikia 980₂
- Olympos; Mt, in Kypros 980₄
- Olympos, Mt, in Lykia, fire springing from ground on 972₁
- Olympos, Mt, in Makedonia 904₆ 905₀ 906₀ 1227
Cults: St Elias 906₀ Zeus 904₆ 1227 cp. 760
Epithet: μακρός 1026
Myths: heaven and earth once met on its summit 905₀ Otos and Ephialtes 129 stars come down at night upon it 905₀ 1211 Zeus binds golden rope to it 1211
— gods on summit of 853 remains of altar on 1227
- Olympos, Mt, in Mysia
Cult: Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 953₂
Myth: boar 311₈
- Olympos, town in Lykia
Cults: Athena 972₁ Hephaistos 972₁ Zeus 972₁
— coins of 972₁
- Olympus (?), s. of Iupiter by the nymph Chalcea 973₁
- Omichle
Genealogy: m. of Aer and Aura by Pothos 1036 1038
- Omphale
Myth: Herakles 559 560₈
- Omphalian Plain 190
- Omphalos in Crete 190
- Onatas 947₀
- Onetor 950₀
- Onnes 569₂
- Onomakritos 1229
- Onoskelis 666₂
- Ophiouchos See Ophiuchus
- Ophis, king of Salamis 1087
- Ophites 307₂ 558₀ 653
— double axe in diagram of 610 f.
- Ophiuchus 241₄ 1087
- Ophrynon
Myth: Hektor's bones 961₀
— Xenophon at 1107 1157
- Opis (fem.) 452 501 1226
- Opis (masc.) 452 f.
- Orchia (?) in Lakonike
Cult: Apollon 'Ορχιεύς 439
- Orchomenos in Arkadia, coins of 228₅
- Orchomenos in Boiotia
Cults: Asklepios 1085 Charites 238₀ 1150₁₀ Dionysos 899₁ Hera Τελεία 1150 Hermes 1150₀ Minyas 1150₀ Zeus Καραύς 873₂ 898₄ Zeus Μείλιχος 1149 Zeus Σωτήρ 1151 Zeus Τέλειος 1150
Festival: Agrionia 164₀ 924₀
Rite: burial within the house 1060
Myth: Minyas 1150
- Orchomenos, eponym of Orchomenos in Boiotia
Genealogy: f. of Minyas 1150₅ s. of Eteokles and b. of Minyas 1150₅ s. of Minyas 1150₅
- Orchomenos, s. of Zeus by Hesione or Hermippe 1149 f.
- Ordion 1015
- Oreithya
Myth: Boreas 380
Genealogy: d. of Erechtheus 444 m. of Zetes and Kalais by Boreas 444
- Oresteia near Megalopolis 1178 in Skythia 1178 f.
- Orestes
Epithet: ξιφήρης (?) 680₃
Myths: Apollon 206₂ 1042 (?) Artemis 680 Athena 1098₄ Delphoi 206₂ exile in Oresteia near Megalopolis 1178 Kolchoi 421₃ pursued by Furies 206₂ Rhegion 680 848 Telephos 1179₀ 1183
Genealogy: s. of Agamemnon 1179
Functions: human Zeus (?) 1179 hypostasis of Apollon (?) 453
Etymology: 453 1179
Associated with Pylades 1179
- Orestia, a division of Megalopolis 1178
- Orgas, river-god 408₀
- Orikos, coins of 161 ff. 499
- Orion
Cult: Persia 35
Epithet: ξιφήρης 680₃
Identified with Nebrod (Nimrod) and the planet Kronos 693₄ 694₀
- Orion, the constellation 430 483₂ called Σκεπαρνέα 547₀

- Ornelle
Cult: Zeus Κτήσιος 1067
 — astragalomantic inscription from 807₅₍₅₎ 1067
- Orontes, personification of the river 1209₅
- Orontes, the river in Syria
Myth: Kyparissos 981,
 — formerly called Drakon 1187
- Oropos
Cults: Amphiaraios 1070 ff. Apollon (?) 1071 Hygieia 1072 Pan 1072 Zeus Ἀμφιάραος 232 1061 1070 ff.
Rite: incubation 232
 — Amphiareion near 1071 f. coins of 1071 f. temple-inventory of 346₀
- Oros, king of Troizen 414₂
- Orpheus
Epithet: χρυσόωπ 716
Myths: Eurydike 1022 head floats to Lesbos 290₀ slain by Thracian women 121
Genealogy: s. of Kalliope 1024 s. of Polymnia 1022
Attribute: sword 716
Types: death 121₃ head 290₀ in Christian art 1208 Polygnotos 122₀ with Eurydike and Hermes 211₂
- Orphic Dionysos See Dionysos
- Orphic Eros See Eros
- Orphic Herakles See Herakles
- Orphic Zeus See Zeus
- Orphists 117 ff. 131 ff.
Cults: Anemoi 141, 827 Brontai 141₁ 827 Kosmos 141, 827
 (See also Aither, Chronos, Demeter, Dionysos, Erikepaios (Erikapaios), Herakles, Kouretes, Nyx, Ouranos, Pan, Phanes, Phersephone, Protogonos, Rhea, Titans, Zagreus, Zeus, Zeus ἀστυάριος, Zeus Κεραυνός, etc.)
Myth: Zagreus 838
Rites: ladder 124 ff. seething in milk 217
 — gold tablets of 118 ff. numerical speculation of 236₅ soul-path of 114 117 ff. theogonies of, shown in conspectus 1033 f.
- Orthosia, coins of 572 572₂
- Ortygia near Ephesos
Myth: birth of Artemis 962₂
- Ortygios, s. of Kleinis 463₁
- Oscan road-makers' tablet 1158
- Oschophoria 1092
- Osiris
Cults: Denderah 773₀ Philai 773₀
Rite: effigy buried in pine-tree 303₂
Myths: attacked by Titans 1030 cut up by Typhon 1030 head floats to Byblos 290₀ ladder of Râ 126 wooden phallós 224₁
Genealogy: s. of Râ 126
Function: moisture 557₁
Attribute: lotos 773₀
- Osiris (cont.)
Type: mummy 773₀
Identified with Attis 294 f. Dionysos 252 Liber 244₄ Nu 126 Okeanos 481₉ Ptah 34₁
 — seed of 482₀
- Ossa the messenger of Zeus 904₃
- Ossa, Mt 1227
Cult: Zeus Ὀσσαίος (?) 904₃
Myth: Otos and Ephialtes 129
- Ostanes 699₇
Cult: Hermopolis 701₀
- Osthanes See Ostanes
- Ostia
Cults: Attis 297 ff. Attis Μηνοτύαννος 303₂ — hall of Dendrophori at 297 Metroion at 297 298
- Othin See Odhin
- Othryades 111₀
- Otorkondeis 581
- Otos 129 f. 130₄ 317
- Otos (?) See Motos (?)
- Ouiaros, Mt See Viarus, Mt
- Oulomos
Genealogy: f. of Chousoros 1037 f. s. of Aither and Aer 1037 f.
Etymology: 1037
- Oupis = Opis (fem.) 452₁₁
- Ourania, the Carthaginian goddess
Cult: Epidauros 487₃₍₁₎
- Ouranos 889₀₍₆₎
- Ouranos
Epithets: ἀστυάριος 1023 μέγας 1023
Myths: flings his sons into Tartaros 1023 mutilated by Kronos 447₈ Titans 1023
Genealogy: b. of Zeus 940₀ f. of Aphrodite 1029 f. of Eros by Ge 315₄ f. by Ge of Klotho, Lachesis, Atropos, the Hekatoncheires Kottos, Gyges, Briareos, and the Kyklopes Brontes, Steropes, Arges 1023 f. of Kabeiroi 954₀ f. of Kronos 447₈ f. of Okeanos and Tethys by Ge 1020 f. of Titans by Ge 1023 h. of Gaia 447₃ s. of Phanes by Nyx 1026 Function: ἐκπύρωσις 557₁
 — sceptre of 1026
- Ousoös 981₁ (?)
- Ouxentou
Cults: Ianus (?) 386₁ Janiform Athena (?) 386₁ Janiform Roma (?) 386₁
 — coins of 386
- Oxylos 486
- Oxyrhynchite nome
Cult: Athena 625
- Padus 476
- Paenitentia 863
- Pagai, port of Megara
Cults: Artemis Σώτειρα (?) 488₀₍₃₎
 Demeter (?) 488₀₍₃₎
 — coin of 488₀₍₃₎

- Pagasai
Cults: Dionysos Πέλεκυς (not Πελεκῆς or Πελεκῆνος, nor Πελάγιος) 660 Epidotai 321₁
- Pagasos the Hyperborean 169
- Paiones
Cults: Dionysos Αἰαλός (?) and Δύαλος 270
- Paionia
Cults: Artemis Βασίλεια 500 Bendis 500f. Dionysos Δύαλος 250₄
- Paionios 86
- Palaia Gargaros 951₀ f.
- Palaikastró
Cult: St Nikolaos 931₀
 — excavations at 930₀ 931₀ 932₀
 hymn to Zeus Δικταῖος from 931₀
 932₀ lárnaξ of painted earthenware from 524 529 845 stone moulds from 623 ff. 654
- Palaimon 490₀₍₅₎
- Palaistinos, s. of Malkandros 986₀
- Palamedes 691 902₀
- Palaxos or Spalaxos, the Koures 587
- Palazzola (Palazzuolo) 1146₀
- Pales (masc.)
Function: one of the Penates 1059
- Palestine
Rite: burial within the house 1059
- Palicus
Metamorphosed into eagle 909₀
Genealogy: s. of Volcanus by Aetna 909₀
- Palikoi
Cult: Sicily 909₀
Rite: human sacrifice 909₀
Myth: 909₀
Genealogy: sons of Adranos (the Syrian Hadran) 910₀ sons of Hephaistos 910₀ sons of Zeus by Aitne 909₀ sons of Zeus by Thaleia, d. of Hephaistos 909₀
Functions: nautici dei 909₀ volcanic springs 909₀
Etymology: 909₀
 See also Palicus
- Palladion 963₀ 1044
- Palmyra
Cults: Iaribolos 885₀₍₂₉₎ Theos Μέγας Σαλλοντος (? J. H. Mordtmann cj. 'Αμμουδάτω: see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. v. 290) 'Ενεούαρης (?) 885₀₍₂₉₎ Zeus Μέγιστος Κεραίνιος 807₅₍₁₎ Zeus Μέγιστος "Υψιστος 983₂ Zeus "Υψιστος 885₀₍₂₉₎ 983₂ Zeus "Υψιστος καὶ 'Επήκοος 885₀₍₂₉₎ 886₀₍₁₎ 983₂ Zeus "Υψιστος Μέγιστος 'Επήκοος 885₀₍₂₉₎ 983₂
- Palodes 348
- Pan
Cults: Aule 249₂ Mt Kithairon 899₀ Megara 1117₇ Nikaia in Bithynia 349 Pelousion 986₀
Epithets: Μέγας 347 ὀρειβάτης 869₀ death of Pan 347 ff.
- Pan (cont.)
Genealogy: s. of Hermes by Penelope 691
Types: androgynous with golden wings and heads of bulls and snake 1022 f. double bust (boy-Pan with girl-Pan) 392 double bust (with Maenad) 392 goat-footed 270₃ with goat's legs and horns 124₂ horned 1117₇ playing lyre 157₀
Identified with Attis 296 Phanes 1051 Protopogon 1023 1039 Zeus 349 1023 1024 1039
Associated with Amphiaraios and Hygieia 1072 Harpokrates 986₀
In relation to Erinys 1102₇
Supersedes Zan (?) 347 ff.
 — cave of, at Aule in Arkadia 249₂
- Panakra 933₀
- Panamara
Cults: Asklepios 1066 Hekate Σώτειρα 879₀₍₁₇₎ Tyche 1066 Tyche of Antoninus Pius 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus Καπετώλιος 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus Κτήσιος 1066 Zeus Πανάμαρος 587 963₈ Zeus Πανήμερος 963₈ Zeus Πανήμερος 963₈ Zeus "Υψιστος 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus "Υψιστος 963₈
- Panamoros, the Koures 587
- Panathenaia 1121₀ 1135 ff.
- Pandion
Genealogy: f. of Teuthras 1151
- Pangaion, Mt
Myth: Orpheus taught by Kalliope 1024
 — oaks on 411₆
- Panhellena 1119₄ See also Megala Panhellena
- Panionion
Cults: Hera 259₀ Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀
- Pannonia
Cult: Iupiter Optimus Maximus Heros 823₁₍₂₎ — coin of 323₂ (?)
- Panope in Phokis 1132₆
- Panormos near Kyzikos
Cults: Apollon 882₀₍₁₀₎ Artemis 881₀₍₂₁₎ Dionysos (?) 882₀₍₁₀₎ Hekate (?) 882₀₍₁₀₎ Persephone (?) 881₀₍₂₁₎ Zeus "Υψιστος 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₁₀₎
- Pantikapaion
Cult: Angistis (= Agdistis) 970₀
Etymology: 1025
 — leaden bucrania and double axes (?) from 540
- Pantikapes, river in Sarmatia 1025
- Pantokrator, Mt
Cult: Zeus (?) 907₀
- Papaïos
Cult: Skythia 889₀₍₁₀₎
 See also Zeus Epithets Παπαῖος, Πάπας or Παπᾶς, Παπᾶς, Παπᾶως
- Papanios, a Scythian river 293₀
- Papas
Cult: Phrygia 292 ff. 313 836

- Papas (cont.)
Identified with Zeus Βροντῶν 836 883₀₍₁₀₎
In relation to Attis 317 Kybele 842
 See also Zeus Epithets Παπαῖος, Πάπας or Παπᾶς, Παπίας, Παπῶος
- Paphlagonia
Cults: Augustus 729₀ Ge 729₀ Helios
 729₀ Zeus 729₀
- Paphos
Cult: Aphrodite 783₃ 944₀
Myth: Kinyras 944₀
- Pappas 296₄
 See also Papas
- Papylos 1101₃
- Paramythia, bronze statuettes from 503₀
 746₂ 752 f.
- Parašu-rāma 660₁
- Paris
Myths: judgment 262 266 Mt Gargaron
 (Gargara) 950₀
In relation to Hektor 447₅
Parmenides 120₂ 315₁ 316₀ 432 — journey of 42 f. 43₁ 476
- Parnassos, Mt
Cults: Apollon 257 453 Dionysos 257
 Zeus Λυκῶρειος 901₂ 902₀ Zeus
 Φύξιος 902₀
Myths: Deukalion 902₀ Semnai 19₀
 — view from summit of 901₂
- Parnes, Mt
Cults: Zeus 'Απήμιος 897₆ 898₀ Zeus
 Ὀμβριος 897₆ 898₀ Zeus Παρνήθιος
 897₆ Zeus Σημαλέος 4 897₆
 — Harma on 831₀
- Paros
Cults: Aphrodite 875₁₍₅₎ Athena Κυβθία 922₀ cp. 1227 Baubo 131 Demeter
 Θεσμοφόρος 131 St Elias 875₁₍₅₎
 Hera 131 Histic Δημήτη 875₁₍₅₎ Kore
 131 Zeus Εύβουλεύς 131 259₀ Zeus
 Καταβάτης 19 f. (Zeus) Ἵππαρος
 875₁₍₅₎ 918₂
Rite: uninitiated persons and women may not enter precinct of Zeus Ἵππαρος 875₁₍₅₎
 — Delion at 1227 rock-carvings at 1117₇
- Parthenon, east frieze of 1135 ff. east pediment of 261 710₁ 753 f. metope from north side of 1044
- Parthenopaios
Myth: swears by his spear 13₁ 547₂
- Parthenos = Virgo, the constellation 399₁
- Parthenos, d. of Staphylos
Myths: Boubastos 671 Kastabos 670
- Pas (Pa?) as equivalent of Πατήρ, Pater
 293₄
- Pasargadaī 974₁ 1145_{1(c)}
- Pasianax (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
- Pasikrateia See Kore Epithets Πασικράτεια
- Pasiphae (Pasiphaa)
Cult: Thalamei 31
Genealogy: d. of Helios 947₀
- Pasiteltes 1101₃ (?)
- Passaron
Cult: Zeus Ἄπειρος 706
- Passienus Crispus 403₁
- Patara
Cults: Apollon 210 921₀ Zeus 921₀ — coin of 186 omphalos at 167 votive lions at 921₀
- Patrai
Cult: Iupiter Liberator (Nero) 1214
 — coins of 1214
- Paul, St
Types: 'Dioseuric' 606 1209₂ on chalice of Antioch 1202₀ on gilded glass 1207
Associated with St Peter 606 1207 1209₂ — alludes to Sandas (?) 571₂ is taken for Hermes 1096₄
- Pautalia
Cult: Zeus 743₇
 — coins of 743₇ 821
- Pax
Attributes: caduceus 98 olive-branch 98
Identified with Virgo 734₂
 — on column of Mayence 96 98
- Paxoi 347
- Pe, spirits of 126
- Pedasa 958₀
- Pegasos, the horse
Myths: Bellerophon (Bellerophontes)
 721₂ 1018 birth from neck of Medousa 716 ff. flight upward to Zeus 716 718
Genealogy: b. of Chrysaor 317 716 ff.
 1018 Functions: bearer of thunder and lightning for Zeus 716 721 828 830-1017 rain 721₅ thundercloud (?) 721₆
Types: winged horse 1040 winged horse approaching constellation 1017₄ winged horse with Eros emerging from its head 1040 wingless horse 717₂
- Pegasus, the constellation 1017₄ 1018₀
- Peion, Mt 962₂
- Peiraieus
Cults: Agathe Tyche 1104 f. Apollon
 487₃₍₁₎ Asklepios 487₃₍₁₎ 1105
 1107₅ (?) 1107₆ (?) 1173 Hermes
 487₃₍₁₎ Maleates 487₃₍₁₎ Zeus Κρή-σιος 1065 f. Zeus Λαβράωνδος 585₃
 Zeus Μειλιχίος 1104 ff. 1117 1142
 1173 ff. Zeus Φίλιος 1104 1173 ff.
- Peirene 1018
- Peisistratidai 1229 f.
- Peitho
Associated with Aphrodite 261 1044
 (fig. 893)
- Pelagones 588₀
- Pelargus or Pelargus
Myth: 1096₄
- Pelasgians
Cult: Zeus Ἐρεχθεύς (?) 793₈
Etymology: 588₀
 — at Dotion 683 at Knidos 683 in Thessaly 683 681₂

- Pelagos
Myth: buried at Argos 114₂
Genealogy: f. of Lykaon 109₆₄
- Pelagus See Pelargus
- Peleg 588₀
- Pelegon, s. of Axios 588₀
- Pelethronion 1087
- Peleus
Myths: fights Calydonian boar 799 teaches Achilles to use double spear 799 Thetis tests his sons in caldron of apotheosis 212
- Pelias
Myth: caldron of apotheosis 211
Genealogy: b. of Neleus 317
- Pelinnaion, Mt
Cult: Zeus Πεlinnaίος 922₄
- Pelion, Mt 869₂ 869₃ 1226
Cults: Cheiron 869₂ 871₀ Muses (?)
 870₀ Zeus Ἀκραίος 869₃₍₁₎ (on p.
 871) 904₂ Zeus Ἀκραίος 869₂ 870₀
 904₂
Rite: procession of men clad in fleeces to sanctuary of Zeus Ἀκραίος 870₀
Myths: Asklepios 1087 Otos and Ephialtes 129 — remains on summit of 870₀ 871₀
- Pella in Makedonia
Cult: Zeus 1187₄
 — Alexandros of Abonou Teichos at 1083 coins of 1187₄
- Pelops
Cult: Olympia 471
Rite: wood of white-poplar used for sacrifices at Olympia 471
Personates Zeus (?) 1147
Myths: caldron of apotheosis 211 ivory shoulder 224 224₁ sceptre of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ f. Mt Sipylos 956₂
Genealogy: f. of Atreus 957₀ f. of Sikyon 1146 f. of Thyestes 1021 f.
 of Troizen and Pittheus 414₂ s. of Tantalos 438 957₀
 — sceptre of 956₂ 1132₄ 1132₆ throne of 956₂
- Pelousion
Cults: Harpokrates 986₀ Kasios 986₀
 987₀ onion 987₀ Pan 986₀ Zeus
 Κάσιος 985₁ ff. Zeus Κάσιος Μέγιστος
 (?) 985₁
Rite: taboo on onions 986₀ f.
Myth: founded by Isis 986₀
 — coins of 986₀
- Pelousios, eponym of Pelousion
Myth: nurtured by Isis 986₀
Genealogy: s. of Malkandros 986₀
- Penates
Cults: Italy 1059 Lavinium 1068 Rome
 1181₀
Epithet: Publici Populi Romani 1181₀
Rite: meal 19₀
Function: divinised ancestors (?) protecting the penus 1068
Type: caducei of iron and bronze together with Trojan pottery 1068
- Penates (cont.)
Identified with Fortuna, Ceres, Genius
 Iovialis, and Pales (masc.) 1059
Compared with Agathos Daimon 1127₀
 Hermes 1068 Zeus Κτήσιος 1068
In relation to Ianus 335
 — rendered by θεοὶ Πατρώοι or Γενέθλιοι or Κτήσιοι or Μύχιοι or Ἐρκιοὶ (leg. Ἐρκείοι) 1068
- Penaios, f. of Stilbe 684₂
- Penelope (Penelopeia)
Cult: Mantinea (?) 691 f.
Myths: axes as marriage-test 690 848 rescued from sea by wild ducks 691
Genealogy: m. of Pan by Hermes 691 Functions: a divinised duck 691 f. 697 a form of Artemis (?) 691 heroine 698
Etymology: 691
Identified with Artemis (?) 691 f.
- Penelope (Penelopeia), a nymph 691₆
- Penteskuphia, votive pinakes from 786
- Penthesileia 303₂
- Pentheus
Function: divine king 303₂
Etymology: 303₂
- Penthilos 303₂
- Pepomene 1138₅
- Peratai 558₀
- Perephonia See Persephone
- Pergamon
Cults: Aphrodite Παφία 424 Apollon
 729₀ Ares 729₀ 955₀ (Artemis) Ταυροπύλος
 729₀ 955₀ Asklepios 954₀ 956₀
 1077 1079 f. Asklepios Σωτήρ 956₀
 Athena 882₀₍₀₎ 954₀ 955₀ Athena Ἀρεία
 729₀ 955₀ Athena Νικηφόρος 287₂
 955₀ Augustus 1179 1182 Commodus
 1185 Demeter 729₀ 955₀ Dionysos
 954₀ Dionysos Καθηγεμῶν 287₂
 288₀ (?) 1184₁ Gaia 1185 Ge 729₀
 955₀ Geta 1186 Helios 729₀ 955₀
 1185 Hestia Βουλάτα 259₀ Iupiter
Amicalis (= Zeus Φίλιος) 1179 f. Kabeiroi
 953₂ f. Poseidon 729₀ 955₀ Roma
 1179 1182 Selene 1185 Thalassa
 1185 Theos Ἐψιστος (= Zeus?) 882₀₍₀₎
 956₀ Trajan 1179 ff. Zeus 729₀
 882₀₍₀₎ (?) 954₀ ff. Zeus (= Commodus)
 1185 Zeus (= Geta) 1186 Zeus Ἀσκληπιός
 1061 1077 f. Zeus Βάκχος (= Zeus Σαβάξιος) 287 287₂ 288₀ 954₀
 1184 Zeus Βουλαίος 259₀ Zeus
 Εὐαγγέλιος 956₀ Zeus Κεραύνιος
 808₀₍₈₎ 956₀ Zeus Κτήσιος 1067 Zeus
 Μέγιστος 956₀ Zeus Μέγιστος Σωτήρ
 956₀ Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 956₀ Zeus Σαβάξιος 287₂ 954₀ 1184 (See also Zeus Βάκχος) Zeus Σωτήρ 955₀ Zeus
 Τροπαῖος 110₀ 956₀ Zeus Φίλιος
 956₀ 1178 1179 ff.
Festival: Traianeia Deiphileia 1180
Rites: altar of Zeus made of ashes from thighs of victims 955₀ sacrifice of two-year-old heifer to Athena,

Pergamon (cont.)

three-year-old ox to Zeus, to Zeus Βάκχος, and to Asklepios, and feast of bull's flesh 287₂ 954₀

Priest: ιεροφάντης 1067

Myths: birth of Zeus 954₀ Pergamos 1184 Telephos 1179

— aqueducts of 956₀ art of 862 Asklepieion at 1077 coins of 260₀ 424 633₂ 953₃ 955₀ 956₀ 1079 f. 1082 1181 f. 1184 ff. great altar at 399₁ 684 831₁₍₄₎ 953₃ 1179₆ open-air altar of Zeus Φίλιος at 1180 paraphernalia of diviner from 512 riddance of plague at 954₀ temple of Zeus' Δσκληπιός at 1077 Traianum at 1179 ff.

Pergamos, eponym of Pergamon 1184

Perikles

Personates Zeus 816₁

Periklymenos (= Plouton) 1113₀₍₂₎

Periklymenos, f. of Erginos

Metamorphosed into eagle 1134₀

Function: hypostasis of Zeus (?) 1075

Periklymenos, s. of Poseidon 1071

Perillos 924₀

Perinthos

Cults: Zeus Λοφέιτης 874₁ 949₃ Zeus Σάραπης 773₀

— coins of 560₃ 665₃ 773₀

Periphas

Personates Zeus 1121 ff.

Myth: 24₁ 1061 1121 ff.

Metamorphosed into eagle 1122 1131 1134₀

Etymology: 1122 1122₅ 1122₇

— both Attic autochthon and Thesalian king (?) 1123

Periphas, s. or f. of Lapithes 1122 f. 1134

Perkúnas

Cult: Romové 93

Perpetua, St 133 f.

Persephassa See Persephone

Persephatta 132₂

See also Persephone, Phersephone, Proserpina

Persophone

Cults: Eleusis 132₂ Emporion 1040

Panormos near Kyzikos (?) 881₀₍₂₁₎

Sicily 1040 Tarentum 1141₀

Epithets: ελαρινή 295₃ έπανή 893₀ Μελυνδία (?) 1113₀₍₃₎ Μελίνια (?) 1113₀₍₃₎

Μελιτώδης 1113₀₍₃₎ Μελιτώνη (?)

1113₀₍₃₎ ξανθή 1164₀

Rites: tree decked as maiden, brought into town, mourned forty nights, and then burnt 303₂ union with Zeus 132₂

Myth: consorts with Zeus 132₂ 1029

Genealogy: d. of Zeus by Rhea or Demeter 1029 m. by Zeus of Meilinoe (?) or Melinoe (?) 1114₀₍₆₎ m.

by Zeus of the chthonian Dionysos or Zagreus 1029 m. by Zeus of the first three Dioskouroi (Tritopatreus, Enbouleus, Dionysos) 1135₄

Persephone (cont.)

Functions: chthonian queen 132₂ spring 557₁

Etymology: 295₂

Attributes: corn-wreath 370 pig 1141₀ vervain 395₂

Types: bifrontal 370 head with flowing hair 110₆ rape by Plouton 801

Identified with Axiokersa (?) 314₂

Associated with Zeus καταχθόνιος 893₀

In relation to bees and honey 1142₇

Demeter 501

— marriage with 1164 ff. name of, taboo 1114₀ plant of (vervain) 395₂

woods of 472

See also Persephatta, Phersephone,

Proserpina

Perses 108

Perseus

Myths: Akrisios 1155 1155₇ Danaë

671 1018 Hyperboreoi 463 f. Ione

1186 f. Medousa 716 ff. 1018 sacrifices to Zeus 'Απεσώντιος 892₄ Tarsos 570₁ teaches Persians to worship

fire 1187

Genealogy: s. of Danaë 464 s. of Pikos by Danaë 1187₂ s. of Pikos who is also Zeus 694₀ s. of Zeus 665₁ s. of Zeus by Danaë 694₀

Function: solar 1156

Attributes: disks 1155 f. hárpe 721-

1084 kíbisis 718 lobster 665₁ sickle

721; sword 721; winged caduceus 718 winged cap 718 winged sandals 718

Assimilated to Hermes 718

Perseus, the constellation 464 477₈

Persia

Cults: fire 33 ff. Mithras 255 sky 354 Zeus 33

Rite: sacrifice of horses 890₂

Myth: cosmic egg 1036

— kings of, regarded as divine 853

r for l in 588₀

Perun

Attribute: iris 774₄

Pessinous

Cults: Agdistis 970₀ Attis 970₀ Magna

Mater 969₄ Mother of the gods 310 f.

310₂

Myths: Agdistis 969₄ 970₀ Attis 969₄

970₀ — priestly kings at 965₀

Petelia

Cult: Zeus 708 f.

— coins of 708 f.

Peter, St

Attribute: keys 1200₃ 1200₄

Types: 'Dioscuric' 606 1209₂ in Cata-combs 1200₄ on chalice of Antioch

1200₄ 1202₀ on gilded glass 1207

Associated with St Paul 606 1207 1209₂

Petrachos, Mt

Cult: Zeus 901₁

Petrachos, Mt (cont.)

Myth: Kronos receives from Rhea stone instead of Zeus 901₁

Petrus and Marcellinus, Catacomb of 1207
Phaethon

Myths: fall from chariot of Helios 40 43₁ 484 Milky Way 40 43₁ 476 ff. parallel from Pomerania 483 f. sisters turned into larches 402₀

Genealogy: s. of Helios by Klymene 473₃

Type: fall from chariot of Helios 473 478 479

Identified with Phanes 1026 1051

In relation to Milky Way 40 43₁ 483

Phaiakia

Myths: called Δρεπάρη, Δρέπανον, "Άρπη" after the δρέπανον of Kronos or Zeus, or after the δρέπανον or Άρπη of Demeter 448₀, peopled from blood of Ouranos 448₀

Identified with Korkyra 448₀

— river in 481₆

Phaidra

Myth: Theseus and Hippolytos 1043

Phaistos

Cults: Velchanos 946₀ 947₀ Zeus Φελ-χάριος 946₀ 947₀

Myth: Idomeneus 947₀

— celt from 509 coins of 491₀₍₆₎ 946₀ 947₀ double axe at 600₃

Phalakrai, a promontory in Euboeia 874₂ (on p. 875)

Phalakron, a mountain near Argos (?) 874₂ (on p. 875) 893₁

Phalakron, a promontory in Korkyra 874₂ (on p. 875) 1226

Phalakron (Phalakra, Phalakrai), the summit of Mt Ide in Phrygia 874₂ (on p. 875)

Phalaris, bull of bronze made for 910₁ 924₀

Phalces, the Corallian 108 f.

Phalces, s. of Temenos 110₄

Phalces, the Trojan 110₄

Phaleron

Cults: Acheloios 183 f. Apollon Ψύθιος 183 Artemis Λοχία 183 Eileithyia 183 f. Geraistia birth-nymphs 183 f. Hestia 183 f. Kallirhoe (Kalirroe), d. of Acheloios 183 Kephisos 183 f. Leto 183 Rhapsos 183 f.

Phallagogia 1022

Phanakes

Cult: Mysia 1025

Phanes

Cult: Thracο-Phrygians (?) 1025

Epithets: αὐρόγονος 1026 μονογενής 1026 πρωτόγονος 1026 (See also Protogonos)

Myths: sprung from cosmic egg 1023 f. swallowed by Zeus 1027

Genealogy: f. by Nyx of Ge or Gaia and Ouranos, Rhea and Kronos, Hera and Zeus 1026 f. of Zeus 1051 parent and h. of Nyx 1026

Phanes (cont.)

Functions: creator 1026 1033 εφόρος τῆς ζωογένου δυνάμεως 1025 light 1024 1026 light or daylight or sunlight 1025

Etymology: 1025

Attributes: sceptre 1051 thunderbolt 1051

Types: αἰδοῖαν ἔχων ὀπίσω περὶ τὴν πύγην 1024 f. androgynous 1026 nude youth standing in oval zodiac with egg-shell above and below him, wings on his shoulders, crescent on his back, heads of lion, goat, ram attached to his body, cloven hoofs, and snake coiled about him, bearing thunderbolt and sceptre 1051

Identified with Antauges 1026 1051 Dionysos 1026 1051 Erikepaïos 1024 1039 Eros 1026 1039 Eubouleus 1026 Helios 1051 Metis (masc.) 1024 1026 1032 1039 Pan 1051 Phaethon 1026 1051 Priapos 1026 Protogonos 1026 1039 1051

Assimilated to Dionysos (?) 1051 Helios 1051 Pan (?) 1051 Zeus 1051

Compared with Christ 1026

In relation to Zeus 1051

— sceptre of 1026

Phanotos 217₂

Phaselis

Cults: Ge 729₀ Helios 729₀ Zeus 729₀

Phata in Lydia

Cult: Theos "Υψίστος 881₀₍₂₀₎

Phaunos

Genealogy: s. of Zeus 694₀ 943₀

Identified with Hermes 694₀ 943₀

Pheidias 475₇ 479₀ 598 737 746₀ 753 757 ff. 760 f. 849 862 f. (?) 916₀ 921₀ 1078 1135 1137₂ 1138₅ 1188 f.

— career of 757₈

Phe-monoe 350₁

Phene

Metamorphosed into vulture 1122 1122₄

Etymology: 1122₅

Pheneos

Cult: Demeter Κίδαρρα 1136₄

Festival: τελετή μελζων 1136₄

Rite: beating of Underground Folk with rods 1136₄

Pherekydes of Syros 315 f. 344₀ 351 852

Phersephone

Cult: Anazarbos 14₃

Type: horned, four-eyed, two-faced 1029

Identified with Kore 1029

— bridal chamber of 1164₀ 1164₂

See also Persephatta, Persephone, Proserpina

Phigaleia

Cult: Dionysos Άκρατοφόρος 244₄

Philadelpheia in Lydia

Cults: Agathos Daimon 1229 Agdistis (Angdistis) 1228 f. Aphrodite 363 Arete 1229 Charites 1229 Eudai-

Philadelphëia in Lydia (cont.)

monia 1229 Hestia 960₀ 1229
Hygieia (?) 1229 Ianus 374 Mneme
1229 Nike 1229 Ploutos 1229 Theoi
Σωτήρες 960₀ 1229 Theos "Υψιστος
881₀₍₂₀₎ Tyche 'Αγαθή 1229 Zeus
Εὐμένης (= Eumenes i) 960₀ 1229
Zeus Κορυφαῖος 285₀ 869₁ 957₁
1217 f. Zeus Σωτήρ 1228 f.

Rite: procession of Ianus on Kalendae Ianuariae 374
— coins of 363 869₁

Philai

Cults: Osiris 773₀ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος
(= Augustus) 97₀

Philandros, s. of Apollon 218₀

Philemon

Myth: 1096₄

Philia

Cult: Athens 1163

Genealogy: m. of Zeus 'Επιτέλειος
Φίλιος 1163 1169

Associated with Zeus 'Επιτέλειος Φίλιος and Tyche 'Αγαθή 1163

Philioi Daimones (Orestes and Pylades)

Cult: Skythia 1179

Philioi Theoi 1177₂

Philip of Macedon

Associated with the twelve gods 1137₁

Philippopolis in Thessaly See Gomphoi

Philippopolis in Thrace, coins of 490₀₍₅₎Philoktetes 903₀

Philomela

Metamorphosed into swallow 693

Philonome 669

Philyra

Genealogy: m. of Aphros and Cheiron by Kronos 695₀ m. of Cheiron by Kronos 871₀

Phlegyai

Etymology: 1134

Phlegyas 463₁ 488₀₍₀₎

Phlious

Cults: Asklepios 1090 Zeus Μειλιχίος
1106 f.

Phlox 981₁

Phlyeis

Cults: Apollon Διονυσιοδότης (less probably Διονυσόδωτος) 251₂ Athena
Τιβρωνή 1066 Demeter 'Ανησιδώρα
1066 Kore Πρωτογόνη 1066 Semnai
1066 Zeus Κτήσιος 1066

Phobos

Cult: Selinous 489₀₍₀₎

Phoenicians

In relation to 'Minoan' culture 662 — sacred pillars of 423 425

See also Phoinike

Phoibe

Cults: Delphoi 500 Sparta 1015₇

Function: earth 500

Type: Gigantomachia 399₁

Associated with Hilarëia 1015₇

In relation to Gaia and Themis 500

Phoibe, one of the Heliades 500₁₁

Phoibos

Cults: Delphoi 839 Kurshumlu in Phrygia 839 Lykoreia 901₂

Epithets: 'Απόλλων 500 844 Λυκώρειος or Λυκωρέως 901₂ 902₀

Functions: interpreter of Zeus 500 sky 500

Etymology: 500 500₁₂

In relation to Zeus 500 844 Zeus Βρον-τῶν 839

Supersedes Helios 500

Phoinike

Cults: Agathos Daimon 1127₀ Ba'al

Milik (Melek, Molok) 1108 benefactors of society 1132₀ Esmun

314₀ Kabeiroi 314₀ Kadmilos 314₀

Rešef (Rešup) 630 Theos "Υψιστος

886₀₍₃₀₎ Zeus "Ορειος 868₈

Myth: cosmic egg 1036 ff.

— snake sacred in 1111₁

Phoinike, old name of Tenedos 662

Phoinikous, a name of Mt Olympus in Lykia 972₁

Phokis

Cults: Athena 731₀ Hera Βασιλεια 731₀

Poseidon 731₀ Zeus Βασιλεύς 731₀

Phol 844₀

Etymology: 110₅

Identified with Apollo (?) 110₅ 844

Balder (?) 110₅ 844 St Paul (?) 110₅

Pholoe, Mt 894₀

Phorkys

Genealogy: s. of Okeanos by Tethys 1020

Phoroneus 168₁ 257₄Phos 981₁Phosphoros 430₄ 430₅ 478₂ (?) 609₁

Proteine, St 1116

Phrixos

Myths: golden ram 890₁ 904₁ received by Dipsakos 904₁ Zeus Λαφύστιος

904₁ Zeus Φύξιος 902₀

Genealogy: s. of Athamas and f. of Kytissoros 904₁

— tomb 471

Phrygia

Cults: Agdistis 970₀ Akrisias 1155 f.

Attis 313 Deos (Dios) 278 ff. Kronos

1156 Mother of the gods 970₀

Mother of the gods Τηρείη 697

Papas 292 ff. 313 836 Rhea 970₀

Semele 279 Zeus Βαγαῖος 294₀ (?)

295₂ 569 Zeus Βέννιος or Βεννέως

883₀₍₀₎ 969₃ Zeus Βροντῶν 835 f.

838 f. 852 Zeus Δίος 836 Zeus

Κεραύνιος 807₅₍₅₎ Zeus Ηάπας or

Ηαπᾶς 292₄ Zeus Σαβάξιος 252

Zeus Τετράωτος 322 842

Festivals: arbor intrat 303₂ Ballenaion

270₅

Rite: man bound in sheaf 498₂

Priests: Βενεΐται 883₀₍₀₎

Myth: Lityerses 295₂

— coins of 296₀

Phrygia, Mt, pyre of Herakles on 903₂

- Phrygia, personification of the district 320₀
- Phrygians conceive of the Father as re-born in the Son 294
- Phrynos, the potter 785 788₀
- Phryxonides 928₀
- Phthonos (?) 1098₅
- Phylake in Phthiotis
Myth: Melampous cures Iphiklos 684 f. 848
- Phylakides, s. of Apollon 218₀
- Phylakos, f. of Iphiklos 452 684 f. 848
- Phyle 815 897₆ 898₀
- Phyleus 1137₂
- Phyllis, the river-god
Cult: Bithynia 904₁
Myth: receives Phrixos 904₁
Genealogy: f. of Dipsakos 904₁
- Phyromachos 1079
- Phytalidai 291₂ 1091 f. 1103 1114
- Phytalos
Myth: Demeter 291₂ 1092₀ 1103
- Picti tattooed 123₀
- Pictones, coins of 1040
- Picus
Cult: Italy 696₀
Myth: Canens 394₃
Types: king 696₀ woodpecker 696₀
Associated with Faunus 400
Compared with Benhadad (?) 697₀
- Pikos who is also Zeus 693₁ 694₀ 695₀ 696₀ 697₀ 1222
Cult: Crete (?) 697₀
Myths: buried in Crete 696₀ 697₀ 943₀ king of Assyria 694₀ 695₀ king of Italy 694₀ 695₀ reigns over the west 695₀ 696₀ 942₀ 943₀
Genealogy: b. of Belos, Ninos, Hera, and Aphros 693₁ 694₀ f. of Belos by Hera 695₀ f. of Hermes 942₀ f. of Perseus by Danaë 1187₂ great-gs. of Kronos 695₀ s. of Nebrod (Nimrod) Orion Kronos by Semiramis Rhea 693₁ 694₀
Functions: deceiver 694₀ 695₀ magician 694₀ 695₀ tie between east and west 696₀
Identified with Ninos 695₀ Plouteus 'Αἰδώνιος 695₀ Poseidon Χθόνιος 695₀ 'Seraphin' (Serapis?) 695₀ Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 695₀
Compared with Hadadrimmon (?) 697₀ — tomb of 220₆ 342₀
- Pikùlas
Cult: Romove 93
- Pilumnus 643₈
- Pinalos, eponym of the Lycian town Pinara 971₂
- Pindos, Mt
Cult: Zeus 'Ακραῖος 871₃₍₂₎ 904₅
- Pirot
Cult: Theos 'Επήκοος "Γψιστος 878₀₍₁₁₎ 948₅
- Pisces 43₁ 103₀ 664₁
- Pisias (Pisides?), eponym of Pisidai 973₁
- Pisidai 973₁
- Pisidia
Cults: Zeus Ποσειεύς (or Πόστης or Πότις) 285 287₁ Zeus Σολυμεύς 973₁ f.
- Pithoigia 1139
- Pittakos 130
- Pittheus 414₂ 1091
- Plain of Zeus 1021
- Plakia
Cult: Theos "Τψιστος 882₀₍₀₎
Etymology: 588₀
- Plakiane 588₀
- Plarasa
Cults: Eros 572₁₀ Zeus 573
— coins of 572 f.
- Plastene 956₂
- Plataia, d. of Asopos 898₆
- Plataiai
Cults: Hera Κιθαιρωνία 899₀ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος 238₀ 763₁
Festivals: Daidala Megala 898₆ Daidala Mikra 898₆ Eleutheria 1121₀
- Platon 505₁ 672₁ 840 852 1015₈ 1033 1033₁ 1060 1065 1118 1132₃ 1167 f. 1168₂
— as s. of Apollon 237₀ portrait-herm of (with Sokrates) 390 (?)
- Παδᾶνς (= Apollon?)
Cult: Sardeis 1228
- Plouteus
Epithets: 'Αἰδώνιος 695₀ κόρανος 1164₀
Identified with Pikos who is also Zeus 695₀
See also Plouton
- Plouton
Cult: Delos (?) 1128₀
Epithets: 'Αγέλαστος (?) 1113₀₍₂₎ 'Αγγελίασος or 'Αγγελίασος 1113₀₍₂₎ Εὐβουλεύς 259₀ 'Ισοδαίτης 1113₀₍₂₎ Κλυμένιος 233₀ Περκλύμενος 233₀ 1113₀₍₂₎ Πολυδαίμων 1113₀₍₂₎
Myths: Kore 345₀₍₂₎ 1103 Leuke 468 f.
Attributes: cornu copiae 1117_{7(?)} fork (?) 801 f. four-horse chariot 801 modius with oak-leaves and acorns 802 sceptre 801
Types: rape of Persephone 801 seated with Kerberos beside him 802
Associated with Zeus and Poseidon 802 (?)
Compared with Hermes 385₀ Zeus 1105 Zeus Πλουτοδότης 385₀ — palace of 1226 tomb of 348
- Ploutos
Cult: Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229
- Pnyx 876₁₍₁₎
- Podaleia 451₁
- Podaleirios
Genealogy: b. of Machaon 317
Function: physician 451₁
Etymology: 451₁
- Pogla
Cult: Artemis Περγαία (?) 363
— coins of 363

- Poinai 1101
 Pola
Cult: Venus Caelestis 68₂
 Polichna 916₀ 917₀
 Poliss
Cults: Larissa in Thessaly 1155 Skiathos 878₀₍₆₎
Associated with Hermes 1155₅ Zeus Μελαγχίσιος and Enhodia 1155 Zeus "Τψιστος 878₀₍₆₎
 Pollux 96
 See also Polydeukes, Dioskouroi
 Polyarchos 317
 Polyarchos (=Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎ 1168₅
 Polybios, the Giant 713
 Polyboia 670
 Polybotes 713
 Polydaimon (=Plouton) 1113₀₍₂₎
 Polydegmon (=Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
 Polydektes (=Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
 Polydeukes
Epithets: ἀεθλοφόρος 439₁ ἕως Ἄρηος 438₃ πύκτης 1097₂ πύξ ἀγαθός 436
Genealogy: b. of Kastor 317 1015₇ s. of Zeus by Leda 1015₇
 See also Pollux, Dioskouroi
 Polydora 486
 Polygnotos, the painter 122₀
 Polygnotos, the vase-painter 197₁
 Polyhymno 1022
 Polyhymnos
Myth: 1022
 Polykleitos 389₂ 711₃ (?) 742 749 749₁ 893₂ 1143 f. 1178
 Polykleitos, the younger 1143₁ (?) 1178 (?)
 Polyktor 384₀
 Polymnia 1022
 Polyneikes
Genealogy: s. and b. of Oidipous 825₂
 Polypemon 627
 Polyphas 1122₇
 Polyphemos
Myth: Mt Aitne 909₀
Functions: sky (?) 989 f. sun (?) 989 f. — in folk-tales 988 ff.
 Polyphemos, s. of Elatos 471
 Polyrrhenion
Cult: Hermes Δρόμιος 1042
 — coins of 342₀
 Polytechnos
Myths: presented with double axe by Hephaistos 693 pursues Aëdon and Chelidonis 693
 — Metamorphosed into woodpecker 693
 Polyxene 117
 Polyxenos (?) (=Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
 Pompeii
Cult: Iupiter Milichius 1158
 Pontos
Cults: Poseidon 975₀ Zeus Σπράτιος 974₁ ff.
Rite: sacrifices to Zeus Σπράτιος on mountain-tops 974₁ ff.
 — pillars of Herakles in 422
 Popoi
Cults: Dryopes 293₀ Skythai 293₀
Type: underground effigies 293₀
 Poros
Myth: drunk on nectar sleeps in garden of Zeus 1027
 Porphyriion, s. of Sisypchos 1150₄
 Porsenna, tomb of 1219
 Poseidon
Cults: Aigina 184₀ Aixone 730₀ Athens 729₀ 730₀ Boiotia 583₃ 731₀ Delphoi 176₁ 177₀ Dorylaeion 281 Heleia (?) 931₀ Mantinea 581 Messana 795 Pergamon 729₀ 955₀ Phokis 731₀ Pontos 975₀ Praisos 731₀ Selinous 489₀₍₁₀₎ Skythia 292₄ Sparta 729₀ Stelai in Crete 731₀ Syracuse 916₀ Cape Tainaros 890₅ Tralleis 959₀ Zankle 795
Epithets: ἀπότροπος 959₀ ἀργής 959₀ ἀσφάλιος 959₀ εἰνάλιος...Κρονίδης 959₀ ἐνοσίχθων 789₃ Ἴππιος 581 Ἴππιος 959₀ Ἴππιος πόντομέδων ἀναξ 786₁ κορυφαῖος ἐπ' Οὐλύμπιοι καρήνων 869₁ ναυμέδων 793₀ Σεισίχθων 959₀ τεμενοῦχος 959₀ Χθόνιος 695₀
Rites: chariot with white horses plunged into sea 975₀ sacrifice of two bulls 902₂ sacrifice of wheat and crops 959₀
Myths: Aithra (?) 800 Amymone (?) 800 Erechthens 794 Kleinis 463₁ strikes with trident the Akropolis at Athens 793
Genealogy: f. of Althepos by Leis, d. of Oros 414₂ f. of Astakos by the nymph Olbia 665₃ f. of Boutes 793₁₂ f. of Hyperes and Anthas by Alkyone, d. of Atlas 414₂ f. of Kteatos and Eurytos 1015₈ f. of Kyknos 669 f. of Minyas by Chryso-gone d. of Halmos 1150₄ f. of Triopas by Kanake 684₂ h. of Demeter 584₀
Functions: earthquakes 959₀ lightning 794 ff. 850 originally a specialised form of Zeus 31₈ 582 786 846 850 893₀
Etymology: 582 ff. 1220
Attributes: bident 806₀ eagle 798 Nike 798 rock 713 sealed cuirass 713 sea-monster 798 sword 789 thunderbolt 794 ff. 798 trident 713 785 786 ff. 850 tunny 786
Types: advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and left outstretched 794 f. 850 advancing with trident in raised right hand and left outstretched 795₃ Gigantomachy 713 syncretistic 850 with attributes of Zeus 796 ff.
Identified with Erechthens 793 Pikos who is also Zeus 695₀ Thammasadas (Thagimasada) 293₀ Zeus 582 ff. Zeus and Ares 1225

- Poseidon (cont.)
Associated with Ge 176, Zeus 959, Zeus and Hades 785 Zeus and
 Plouton 802 (?)
In relation to Zeus 582 ff. 850
 — crabs sacred to 665₂ 'sea' of, on Akropolis at Athens 793 trident-mark of, on Akropolis at Athens
 789 792 ff.
 Poseidonia, coins of 795₃
 Poseidonios 805₆
 Pothos
Genealogy: f. of Aer and Aura by Omichle 1036 1038
 — in Phoenician cosmogony 1038
 1039 Potrympus
Cult: Romove 93
 Praeneste
Cults: Aesculapius 1086 Mercurius
 (Mircurios, Mirquorios) 397₆
 Praetextatus, Catacomb of 1206
 Praisos
Cults: Apollon Πῦθιος 731₀ Athena
 731₀ pig 782₅ Poseidon 731₀ Zeus
 Ἀκραῖος 871₃₍₄₎ Zeus Δικραῖος 731₀
 871₃₍₄₎ 930₆
Myth: golden hound 1227
 — coins of 871₃₍₄₎
- Prajāpati
Myth: birth 1035 f.
Identified with Hiranyagarbha 1035
 Prasiai in Attike
Rite: Hyperborean offerings 497
Myth: Erysichthon 497
 Prasiai in Lakonike
Cult: (Apollon) Μαλέατας 487₃₍₁₎
 Praxidike, w. of Tremilos (Tremiles?) 971₂
 Praxiergidai 1137₀
 Praxiteles 196 598 599₂ 749 1018 1101₃
 1127₀
 Priamidai 1102₇
 Priamos
Myths: death 1069 golden vine 281₄
 1184₃ prays to Zeus Ἰδαῖος 8 950₆ three-eyed Zeus 892₅
Genealogy: gs. of Ilios 8
 Priansos
Cults: Aphrodite 723₀ Apollon Πῦθιος
 (Πύθιος) 723₀ Ares 723₀ Artemis 723₀
 Athena Ὠλεῖρα 723₀ Eileithyia
 Βαράρα 723₀ Hera 723₀ Hermes 723₀ Hestia 723₀ Korybantēs (Kyrbantes) 723₀ Kouretēs (Koretēs)
 723₀ Leto (Lato) 723₀ Nymphs 723₀
 Zeus Βιδάτας 723₀ 934₀ Zeus Δικ-ραῖος (?) 723₀ Zeus Ὀράριος 723₀
 Zeus Σκύλιος 723₀
- Priapos
Cult: Lampsakos 464
Epithet: ἀνάξ 1026
Rite: sacrifice of asses 464
Type: double bust (with Maenad) 392
Identified with Phanes 1026
 — shrine of 154₀
- Priene
Cult: Zeus Κεραῖνιος 808₀₍₇₎
 Prinophoroi 411₆
 Prinophoros
Cult: Thessalonike 411₆
Priestesses: ἐβέλα 411₆ θύσα 411₆
Worshippers: πρηνόφοροι 411₆
 Proculus Iulius 24
 Procyon 477₈
 Prognaos (?) 353₃
 Proitos
Myth: Akrisios 1146₀
 Prokleia 669
 Prokne
Metamorphosed into nightingale 693
 Prokoptes 626 f.
 Prokroustes 626 f.
 Prometheus
Epithet: ἀγκυλομήτης 549₇
Myths: receives ring from Zeus 990 thrusts torch into solar wheel 990 Identified with Kronos 549₇
 — in folk-tale from Zakynthos (?) 505₅ picture of 986₀
- Pron, Mt
Cult: Hera 893₂
 Pronnoi
Cult: Zeus Αἰνήσιος 907₂
 — coins of 907₂
- Pronoia 863₃ (?)
 Proserpina
Genealogy: m. of Liber by Iupiter 1031
Identified with Luna, Diana, Ceres,
 Iuno 256
 See also Persephatta, Persephone, Phersephone
 Prostanna
Cults: Demeter (?) 973₀ Mt Viarus (?)
 972₂ f. Zeus 973₀
 — coins of 972₂ f.
 Proteus, pillars of 422
 Protogonē 131
 Protogonos
Epithets: πολύμηγος 1025 ταυροβόας
 1023
Myth: swallowed by Zeus 1027
Type: androgynous with golden wings and heads of bulls and snake 1022 f.
Identified with Erikepaios (Erikapaios)
 1027 1039 Eros 1039 Metis (masc.)
 1039 Pan 1039 Phanes 1026 1039
 1051 Zeus 1039 1051 Zeus or Pan
 1023
In relation to Metis (masc.) (?) 1025
 Protogonos in Phoenician cosmogony 981₁
 Prousa ad Olympum
Cults: Zeus Ὀλύμπιος 964₂ Zeus Παπ-πῶος 292₄
Festivals: Olympia 964₂ Pythia 964₂
 Prousius, eponym of Prousa ad Olympum
 964₂ Prymnessos
Cult: Zeus Βροντῶν 835₄
 Psara, blind Kyklops in folk-tale from 996 ff.

- Pseira, vases from 526 f. 654
 Psiloriti See Ide, Mt, in Crete
 Psithyros, the god
Cult: Lindos 1044
 Psithyros, the hero
Cult: Athens 1044
 Psoloeis 924₀
 Psychai
Types: coining money (?) 1047 f. furling clothes 1048 genre 1047 f. making oil 1047 twining garlands 1047
Associated with Eros 1047 f.
 Psyche
Types: embraced by Eros 1050 Hellenistic 860 ridden by Eros round race-course 1047 vintage 1050 with butterfly-wings 1050
Associated with Eros 1045
In relation to Eros 315₃
 Psychro Cave on Mt Lasithi 925₁ 926₀ 927₀
 — bronze votive tablet from 927₀
 Ptah
Function: fire 34₁
Type: potter 1035
Identified with Hephaistos 34₁ Osiris 34₁
 Ptelea 405₃
 Pteris 190₀
 Ptoion, Mt
Cult: Apollon 455
 — apsidal temple of 900₀
 Ptolemais in Phoinike
Cult: Kronos 553 f.
 — coins of 553 f. 845
 Purgatory 138₀
 Puteoli
Cult: Venus Caelestis 68₂
 Pyanopsia or Pyanepsia 237₀
 Pylades
Etymology: 453
Associated with Orestes 207₀ 1179
 — as hypostasis of Apollon (?) 453
 Pylaios (Pyleos), s. of Lethos 1154₃
 Pylaochos (= Hades) 1113₀₍₂₎
 Pyr 981₁
 Pyrakmon 784
 Pyrkon 176₁
 Pyrrha, w. of Denkalion 971₀
 Pyrrhos, s. of Achilles 452₁₂ 915₂
 Pythaeus 173₄
 Pythagoras
Myths: brought up with Astraios 230 eagle at Kroton 222₄ eagle at Olympia 222₄ exhibits golden thigh at Kroton 223 purified with thunderstone 835 934₀ visits Idaean Cave 933₀ 934₀ 942₀
Metamorphosed into cock 223₁
Functions: as rebirth of Apollon 221 ff. as son of Apollon 222 as specially related to Apollon 223₁ 225 as Apollon Hyperboreos or Hyperboreios 223 as Apollon Paion 223 as Apollon Pythios 223 as emanation from mind of Zeus 225 distinguished from god and man 223₅
Etymology: 223₃
 — on cycle of life's changes 120₁ on food fallen from table 1129₂ on sound of beaten bronze 649 on tomb of Apollon 221 cp. 252 on tomb of Zeus 345₁ 354 934₀ 942₀
 Pythagoreans
 — at Kroton 225 burial rites of 472 earliest traditions of 223 λεροί λόγοι of 1024 imbued with Orphism 131 1024 numerical speculation of 236₅ on averting thunderstorms 827₇ on Delphic E 177₀ 178₁ on Delphic tripod 178₁ on Delphoi 177 f. on Milky Way 40 ff. 476 840 on sea 557₁ on semicircles of Dioskouroi 434 on spherical earth 432 on tower of Zan 354 primitive lore of 222₁ 223 silence of 7₁ use of meal by 13₀ use of symbol Y by 227₄
 Pythaištai 815
 Pythia, the festival at Ankyra 491₀₍₆₎ at Delphoi 490₀₍₅₎ at Philippopolis in Thrace 490₀₍₅₎ at Prousa ad Olympum 964₂ at Thyateira 562 at Tralleis 491₀₍₆₎ 959₀ — oak-wreath precedes bay-wreath at 486 originally celebrated once in eight years 240
 Pythia, the priestess
Rite: caldron of apotheosis 210 ff.
Type: seated on tripod 213 841
 — impregnated by mantic πνεύμα at Delphoi and elsewhere 208₁ 208₂ 209₁
 Pytho 816
 See also Delphoi
 Python
Myths: slain by Apollon 217₂ 239₀ slays Apollon 221 ff.
Functions: king 1087 oracular daimónion 210₁
Type: snake 196 239₀
 — bones and teeth of, kept in Delphic tripod 221 changes from holy snake to unholy dragon 241₃
 Queen of the Underworld 118 119₀ 119₂ 132
Rite: human consort 132 f. cp. 1164 ff.
 Quinquennalia 601
 Quirinus
Cult: Rome 1165₁
Identified with Romulus 24
 Râ
Myth: ladder 126
Types: hawk-headed 774₀ phoenix 1035
 — nostrils of 773₀ 774₀
 Râma-čandra 660₁

- Ramah 1059
 Ramitha 886₀₍₃₀₎
 Ramman
Etymology: 886₀₍₃₀₎
Types: seated with lightning-fork 765₁ standing on bull with lightning-fork 766₁ standing on bull with lightning-fork and scimitar (?) 765₁ standing on bull with two lightning-forks 765₁
Identified with Theos Hypsistos 886₀₍₃₀₎
- Ravenna
Cult: Iupiter Ter(minalis) 1091
- Rehtia
Cult: Este 1220
Etymology: 1220
- Remus
Myths: infancy 1016 nursed by she-wolf 46 443 1016 reigns with Romulus 440 thrown into Tiber 671 1016
Function: one of the Roman Dioskouroi 1014
Attributes: star 443 f. wolf 46 443
 See also Romulus
- Rerir 682
- Rešef (Rešup)
Cults: Kition in Kypros 807₃₍₁₁₎ (?) Phoinike 630
- Rešef Heš See Rešef (Rešup)
- Rhapsō
Cult: Phaleron 183 f.
- Rhea
Cults: Delos 920₀ 921₀ Gaza (?) 675 Mt Juktas (?) 944₀ Mt Kamares (?) 934₀ Knossos 520₅ 548 Mt Kynthos (?) 920₀ 921₀ Mastaura 565₂ Mykenai (?) 515 525 1221 Phrygia 970₀
Epithets: Ma 565₂ μεγάλη 296₄ Φρυγία θεός μεγάλη 970₀
Rites: human consort in Crete (?) 522 524 mysteries of Zeus 'Ιδαίος 932₁ sacrifice of bull 565₂ torches carried over mountain 934₀
Myths: bears Zeus in Dictaeon Cave 928₀ consorts with Zeus 1029 entrusts infant Zeus to Kouretes 931₀ gives Kronos stone instead of Zeus 793₈ 901₁ hides infant Zeus in cave on Mt Aigaion 925₁ Merops (?) 1132₁ protected by Hopladamos (Hoplodamos?) against Kronos 291₀ puts Dionysos or Zagreus together again 1032 rescues Zeus from Kronos 928₀ takes Hera to Okeanos and Tethys 1020
Metamorphosed into snake 1029
Genealogy: d. of Okeanos by Tethys 1020 d. of Ouranos by Gaia 925₁ d. of Phanes by Nyx 1026 m. of Attis 294 296 m. of Phersephone or Kore by Zeus 1029 m. of Zeus 830 925₁ 1029 m. of Zeus by Kronos 941₀ w. of Kronos 548 673
Function: earth 515 548 557₁
- Rhea (cont.)
Etymology: 557₁
Attributes: cypress 932₁ double axe (?) 601 griffins (?) 524 lilies (?) 525 lion 920₀ 921₀ poppies 1165₁ poppy-head 515₅
Types: drawn by griffins (?) 524 f. with plumed head-dress (?) 524 standing between two lions with double axe and ritual horns (serpentine?) on her head 1221 (?) Identified with Agdistis 970₀ Demeter 1029 1032 Kybele 970₀ Ma 565₂ Mother of the gods 970₀ Semiramis 693₄ 694₀ 695₀ Tyche 675 (?)
In relation to Zeus 552₁
Superseded by Apollon 921₀ Hera 515 — thickets of, in Crete 941₀
- Rhegion
Cults: Apollon 680 Artemis Φακελίτης or Φακελήνη 680
Myth: Orestes 680 848
- Rheneia
Cult: Theos Ἐψιστος 880₀₍₁₉₎
- Rhipai 495
- Rhithymna
Cult: Apollon (Στρακίτης?) 492₀₍₀₎
 — coins of 492₀₍₀₎
- Rhizenia 934₀
- Rhodanus 476
- Rhode, in Spain
Cult: axe-bearing god (?) 547₀
 — coins of 547₀
- Rhodes
Cults: Althaimenes 923₀ Athena (?) 923₀ Dionysos Σμίνθιος (?) 250 Elektryone (Elektrona) 499 Helios 469 Herakles 469 Hermes Καταιβάτης 14 Hermes Χθόνιος 14 Tlepolemos 469 Zeus 615 Zeus Ἀταβύριος 922₅ 923₀ 924₀ 925₀ Zeus Ἐνδεδρόπος 946₀
Festival: Tlepolemeia 469
Rites: human sacrifice to Zeus Ἀταβύριος (?) 924₀ statues of Harmodios and Aristogeiton invited to banquet 1172
Myths: Althaimenes 922₅ 923₀ Apollon and Dionysos destroy mice 250₂
In relation to 'Minoan' Crete 923₀ — coins of 253 f. 469₇ 924₀ colossus of 254₅
- Rhodes, the town
Cults: Agathos Daimon 925₀ Zeus Ἀταβύριος 924₀ 925₀
Worshippers: Διοσαραβυριαστὰι 924₀ Διοσαραβυριαστὰι Ἀγαθοδαιμονιαστὰι 925₀
- Rhodos, w. of Helios 684₂
- Rhoikos 1021
- Rhoio, d. of Staphylos
Myth: Kastabos 670
- Riqqeh 1145_{1(a)}
- Rit-
Cult: Magrè 1220
Etymology: 1220

Robigus 630

Roma, the personification of Rome

Cults: Miletos 1238 Ouxenton (?) 386₁
Pergamon 1179 1182 Teos 1066

Types: Janiform (?) 386₁ seated 103₀ standing 361₅, 1181₀

*Associated with Penates Publici Populi
Romani* 1181₀

Rome

Cults: Aesculapius 1080 1083 1086

Asklepios 1088 1090 Attis 306₅
Attis Menotyranus (Menoturanus, Minoturanus) 303₂ Attis Meno-

tyranus Invictus 303₂ Attis Sanctus
Menotyranus 303₂ Diana 400 f.

421 Dius Fidius 724₀ ff. Divus Pater
Falacer 1226 Falacer (See Divus

Pater Falacer) Fontes 369₀ 401₀

Fortuna 1195₂ Furrina 808₀₍₁₇₎

Genius Caeli Montis 400₁₁ Genius
Iovii Augusti 1194₄ Hecatae 307₀

Hecate 835₀ Herakles Ἡράκλειος 783

Hercules 469 783 Hercules Iulianus

400₁₁ Ianus Curvatus 364 Iuno

Sororia 364 Iupiter 45 46 Iupiter

Caelius 400₁₁ Iupiter Capitolinus

601 Iupiter Conservator 1195₁ Iupiter Custos 1181₀ (Iupiter) Deus

Bronton 835₀ Iupiter Epulo 1172₀

Iupiter Fagutalis 403₀ Iupiter Fer- etrius 111₀ 546₀ 601 Iupiter Fulgur

46₀ Iupiter Lapis 546₀ Iupiter

Optimus Maximus Caelestinus 369₀

401₀ Iupiter Sanctus Bronton 835₀

836 838 f. Iupiter Stator 46₀ 708₅

Iupiter Tonans 111₀ 835₀ Iupiter

Ultor 1102₃ 1103₀ Iupiter Victor

708 Lares Querquetulani 401 Liber

307₀ Magna Mater 969₄ Mater deum

301 f. 306₅ Minerva 369₀ 401₀ Mithras 307₀ 838 f. Mithras Deus Sol

Invictus 835₀ Penates Publici

Populi Romani 1181₀ Quirinus 1165₁

Seno Sancus Sanctus Deus Fidius

725₀ spear of Mars 547₂ Theos

Ἐπισητος 879₀₍₁₃₎ tigillum sororium

363 ff. Venus Caelestis 68₂ Vesta

1148₀ 1172₄ Victoria 1195₂ (Zeus)

Θεός Ἐπισητος Βροντων 835₀ 836

(Zeus) Θεός Μέγας Βροντων 835₀

836 Zeus Κεραυνος 808₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus

Ἠλιος (= Dius Fidius) 724₀ Zeus

Ἰπταρος 876₀₍₉₎

Festivals: Epula Iovis 1172₀ Ludi

Plebei 1172₀ Ludi Romani 1172₀

Rite: sacrifice to tigillum sororium

364

Myths: Asklepios arrives as golden snake on shipboard 1083 Horatii and Curvati 363 f.

— bronze plaque from 664₁ coins of 105 f. 110₈ 331 ff. 336₈ 357 f. 360 f.

362 366 ff. 631 ff. 707₀ 708 708₅

810 f. 850 f. 903₂ 1080 1082 1083

1091 1102₈ 1103₀ 1126₀ 1133₁ 1134₀

Rome (cont.)

1171 1194₄ 1195₁₋₃ 1214 Columna

Rostrata at 9 Dianium on Aventine at 400 Dianium on Caeliolus (Mons Querquetulanus) at 400 Dianium on Clivus Virbii at 400 f. Kyklops in folk-tale from 1001 f. Mons

Caelius at 400₁₁ Mons Querquetulanus at 400₁₁ pyramids of 1145₁₍₁₀₎

Tigillum Sororium at 363 ff.

Romove

Cults: Perkuanas 93 Pikulas 93 Potrympus 93

— oak of 92 f.

Romuald, St 135

Romulus

Myths: birth 1059 1089 caught up to heaven 24 dedicates spoils to Iupiter

Feretrius 111₀ infancy 1016 nursed by she-wolf 46 443 1016 reigns with

Remus 440 reigns with Titus Tatius

441 thrown into Tiber 671 1016

Function: one of the Roman Dioskouroi 1014

Attributes: star 443 f. wolf 46 443

Identified with Quirinus 24

See also Remus

Romulus Silvius 24

Roodmas 325₃ 326₄

Rosarno, pinax of terra cotta from 1043

Rosmerta

Cult: Gallia Belgica 547₀ (?)

Identified with Maia 94₃

Associated with Mercurius 94₃

Rudra

Cult: India 791

Rugiwit 386

Rural Dionysia 236

Russia

Festival: Feast of the Golden-reindeer-horn 465

Sabaoth 889₀₍₁₀₎

Epithet: ὑψικεραυνος 1212

Identified with Adonaïos 1212

Sabas, St, founder of monastery near Jerusalem 116

Sabas, St, the Gothic martyr 1104₃

Sabas, St, the Greek martyr 1104

Sabazios

Epithets: Ἰσας 275₈ Ἰεύς 275₀ Ἰης 275₇

Rites: ἐφηνγον κακόν, εὐρον ἀμεινον 1166₁ mysteries 133₀

Function: dreams 283₀

Etymology: 1217

Type: on horseback 283₀

Identified with Dionysos 275₀ Zeus

275₅ 1184

— as link between Zeus and Kyrios

Sabaoth 884₀₍₁₀₎

Sabians 129₂Sabines 340₃

Saboi

Cult: Dionysos Σάβος or Σαβάσιος 270

Sabus, s. of Sancus 724₀

- Sadoth, St 134
 Saeculum Aureum 373₂
 Sæhrimnir 214₀
 Sagittarius 477₈
 Sahin in Phoinike
Cults: Helios (?) Ἡλῖος (?) Mithras 886₀₍₃₀₎ Theos Ἡψίστος Οὐράνιος Ἡρώτος 886₀₍₃₀₎ 983₈
- Sahsnot
Cult: Saxons 51
Identified with Ziu 50 f.
- Salamis
Cult: Zeus Τροπᾶιος 110₀
Myth: Ophis 1087
 — full moon at battle of 854
- Salapia, coins of 1159₁
 Salia, m. of Salios 338₃
 Salii 375 ff. 470
Rites: azamenta 376₁ lunonii 376₁ Minervii 376₁
 — hymn of 294₀ 328 ff. 337
- Salios, eponym of Salii 338₃
 Salmakis 872₀₍₅₎
 Salmones
Personates Zeus 24₁ 1122
Myths: comes from Thessaly to Elis 825 1088 imitates thunders of Zeus 8 833
Genealogy: s. of Aiolos 1088
- Salmoxis (Zalmoxis)
Cult: Getai 227 822 851
Rite: messenger sent once in four years 227
Myth: underground retreat in Thrace 226
Etymology: 227
Identified with Gebeleizis (Zibeleizis) 227 822
- Salonae
Cults: Ianus Pater Augustus (?) 325
 Iupiter Caelestis 69₀ 401₀ Iupiter Optimus Maximus Celestis Patronus 401₀
- Salus 94₃
 See also Hygieia
- Samaritans
Cult: summit of Mt Gerizim 888₀₍₁₀₎
- Šamarra, spiral tower of 128
 Šamaš 49₃ 483
 Same or Samos in Kephallenia 354₀
 Samenroumos 981₁
 See also Hypsouranios
- Samos
Cults: Apollon Ἰσθῖος 223₃ Dionysos Ἐνὸρχης 1021 Zan (?) 354₀
Etymology: 354₀
 — second Heraion at 1230
- Samos or Samothrace 354₀
 See also Samothrace
- Samos in Karia 354₀
 Samos (Samia, Samikon) in Triphylia 354₀
- Samothrace
Cults: Adamna 295 Bendis 314₀ Demeter 314₀ 314₂ Dionysos 314₀
- Samothrace (cont.)
 Hades 314₀ 314₂ Kabeiroi 313 842
 Kadmilos 314₀ Kore 314₀ 314₂
- Samuel 1059
 Samus 93
 Sanchouniathon 553 715 886₀₍₃₀₎ 981₁ 984₄ 1021 1023 1037 f. 1109₀
- Sancus See Dius
- Sandas
Cult: Tarsos 560
Attributes: bow-case 571 double axe 571 sword 571
Identified with Herakles 560
 — pyramid of 983₀
- Sandon 560 See Sandas
- Sangarios, river-god in Galatia 969₄
- Sappho 8
 Saqqāra 1145_{1(a)}
- Sarapis
Cults: Alexandria 1158 Mt Argaios (?) 978₀ Athens 985₀ Delos 922₀ Dorylaeion 281 Kaisareia in Kappadokia 978₀ Kanobos (Kanopos) 985₀
Epithet: ἐν Κανόπω 985₀
Rite: lectisternium 1171₃
Function: healing 127
Attribute: kálathos 1171₃
Types: bearded god 1128₀ (?) bust on couch 1171₃ double bust (with Zeus) 388 (?) holding Mt Argaios 978₀ snake with bearded human head 1128₀ (?)
Identified with Pikos who is also Zeus (?) 695₀ Zeus 714₃ (?) 745₁ 773₀ 1158
Associated with Isis 1171₃ Zeus Κύνθιος and Isis 922₀
- Sarasvati
Cult: India 774₁
Genealogy: w. of Brahmā 774₁ w. of Vishnu 774₁
Types: in lotos-wreath 774₁ seated on lotos 774₁
- Sardanapalos 694₀
- Sarveis
Cults: Aphrodite Ἰαφία 424 Artimuk (= Artemis) 1227 f. Artimuk Ἰβσίμσις (= Artemis Ἐφεσία?) 1227 Hūdāns (= Ἰδηνός?) 1227 f. Πλδᾶνός (= Ἀπόλλων?) 1228 Τανῶσός (= Zeus?) 1227 f.
 — coins of 424 957₂ formerly called Hyde 1228
- Sardinia
Cults: Aesculapius 1086 Sardopator or Sardus Pater 143
 — bronze statuettes from 446₁ 805 coins of 143
- Sardopator See Sardus Pater
- Sardus Pater (Sardopator)
Cult: Sardinia 143
Functions: rain 143 sky 143
Type: in feathered head-dress 143
- Sari-Tsam in Lydia
Cults: Hypsistos 881₀₍₂₀₎ Theos Ἡψίστος 881₀₍₂₀₎

- Sarmatai, 'Jupiter-columns' among 108
tattooed 123₀
- Saron, the hunter 413 f.
Cults: Bathkolpos 414₁ Megara (?)
414₁
Function: sea 414₁
In relation to Artemis 413 f.
- Saron, the place-name or river-name 414₀
- Saronia 413₇
- Saronic Gulf 412
- Satan
Type: harrowing of Hell 138₀
— euhemistic names of 1112₇ throne of 955₀
- Satrai
Cult: Dionysos 269₁
- Saturn, the planet 139
- Saturnus
Cult: Carthage 554₃ 555₀
Epithets: Augustus 555₀ Augustus
Balcaranensis 555₀ Balcaranensis
Augustus 555₀ Balcaranensis (Balcaranensis, Balcharanensis, Balk-haranensis) 554₃ deus magnus Balcaranensis 555₀ Dominus 555₀ Dominus Balcaranensis Augustus 555₀
Sanctus 555₀
Priest: sacerdos 555₀
Myths: driven out by Iupiter 448₁ 941₀ mutilated by Iupiter 448₁
Genealogy: f. of Iupiter 940₀ 941₀
Functions: cold 557₁ moisture 557₁
Saturday 70
Attributes: bill-hook 550 555₀ bull's head 70₁ hárpe 70₁ 550 845 patera
555₀ sickle 550
Type: bust in pediment 555₀
Identified with Ba'al-hammán 554₃
Ianus 374 Kronos 555₀
Supersedes: Kronos 550
- Satyroi
Myths: a satyr caught asleep and brought to Sulla 485₃ Milichus s. of a Satyr by the nymph Myrice
1110₀
Attributes: ass 464 ivy-wreath 388
Types: ἀποσκοπέων 461₀ dancing 476 double bust (with Dionysos) 388 double bust (with Maenad) 392 double bust (with Zeus) 388 Janiform 388₀ playing áyrinc 165₀ with pointed ears 95
Associated with Dionysos 245₅ 246₀
262 f. 265 Maenads 929₀
— on votive tablet 903₀
- Scandinavia, rock-carvings of 687 the Volsung saga of 682 848
- Scironian Rocks 895₁
- Scorpio (Scorpius) 43₄ 477₃ 483₂ 558₀
- Scoti tattooed 123₀
- Scythia See Skythia
- Scythians See Skythai
- Sdan (?) 342₀
- Seasons See Horai
- Seb 1035
- Sebastion at Alexandria 1180₄
- Sebastopolis
Cult: Theos (?) "Τψιστος 883₀₍₂₀₎
- Sebeda 662
- Segesta by euphemism for Egesta (?) 1112₇
- Seimia
Cult: Emeza (?) 814₃
- Seirios, rising of 949₅
- Sekhem, the Great 774₀
- Sekhet-Hetep 126
- Selagos 1072
- Selene
Cults: Gythion 259₀ Pergamon 1185
Myth: Nemean Lion 892₄
Types: bust 1185 bust on couch 1171₃ bust with crescent 664₁ on horseback 261
Associated with Helios 1171₃
— on vase 777₂
- Selenukeia, a later name of Tralleis 958₀
960₀
- Selenukeia Pieria
Cults: Demos (?) 1192 Theoi Soteres
869₁ thunderbolt 809 Zeus 1192
Zeus Κάσιος 810₀ (?) 981₁ f. Zeus
Κεραύνιος 807₅₍₃₎ 809 Zeus Κορυφαίος 869₁ 983₃ (Zeus) Νικηφόρος
(Νεικηφόρος) Κεραύνιος 1225 Zeus
"Ολύμπιος 869₁
Priests: κεραυνοφόροι 809
Myth: eagle guides Selucos i Nikator to site 981₁ f. 1188
— coins of 809 f. 850 982₀ f. 1192
- Selge
Cults: Herakles 492₀₍₁₀₎ Zeus 492₀₍₁₀₎ — coins of 492₀₍₁₀₎
- Selinous
Cults: Apollon 489₀₍₁₀₎ Athena 489₀₍₁₀₎
(Demeter) Μαλοφόρος 489₀₍₁₀₎ Herakles 489₀₍₁₀₎ (Kore) Πασικράτεια
489₀₍₁₀₎ Phobos 489₀₍₁₀₎ Poseidon
489₀₍₁₀₎ Tyndaridai 489₀₍₁₀₎ Zeus
489₀₍₁₀₎
- Selinous in Kilikia, coins of 101₀
- Selloi 960₀
- Selymbria
Cult: Theos "Άγιος "Τψιστος 878₀₍₁₁₀₎
949₄
- Sem (Shem) 693₄ 694₀
- Semea 814₃
- Semele
Cults: Synnada (?) 362 f. Thraco-
Phrygians 842
Epithets: Θυώνη 251₀ "Τη 274 Myths: Brasiai 671 brought up from spring at Lerna by Dionysos 1022 drinks potion containing heart of Zagreus and thereby conceives
Dionysos 1031 Iupiter 1031 struck by lightning 24 ff. 1031 Zeus 187₈
189₀ 731 ff. (?) 956₂
Genealogy: m. of Dionysos 220
Function: earth 279₃
Etymology: 279₃

- Semele (cont.)
Type: carrying Dionysos (?) with goat at her feet 363
Identified with Ge 279₃
Associated with Deos (Dios) 279 f.
In relation to Dionysos 663 Zeus 663
 — ascent of 242 nurse of 1031 picture of 828
- Semiramel 666₂
- Semiramis
Cult: Emesa (?) 814₃
Identified with Hekate Χθονική (sic) 695₀ Hera Ζωγία 695₀ Nemesis 695₀ Rhea 693₄ 694₀ 695₀ — and Stabrobates 7
- Semiramis Rhea
Genealogy: w. of Nebrod (Nimrod) Orion Kronos 693₄ 694₀ w. of Ninus 693₄ 694₀
- Semites
Cult: snake 1111₁
- Semnai
Cult: Phlyeis 1066
 — as euphemistic title of Erinyes 1112₇ 1113₉₍₁₁₎
- Semnai of Parnassos, the three mantic 19₀
- Semo Sancus See Dius
- Seneca, portrait-herm of (with Sokrates) 390
- Senones
Cult: dicephalous Herakles (?) 445 f.
- Sept 126
- Serapis See Sarapis
- Serdike
Cults: Asklepios 1079 Zeus 744₀
 — coins of 744₀ 821 1079
- Serea in Phrygia
Cult: Zeus Βροντων και Βεννης Σερεανός 883₀₍₁₀₎
- Seriphos
Rite: burial of lobster 665₁
Myth: Akrisios slain by Perseus 1155₇ — idol from 122₀ lobster held sacred in 665
- Servius Tullius
Myth: birth 1059 1089
- Set, ladder of 126
- Sethlans
Etymology: 709₀
- Severus, s. of Venicarus 93
- Shi-Dugal 483
- Sibitti
Associated with Ištar and Sin 545₀
- Sicily
Cults: Acheloius 667₃ Kronos 910₀ Palikoi 909₀ Persephone 1040 Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₁₈₎ 812 ff.
Myths: burial of Kronos 555₀ burial of Kronos' sickle 448₀ 555₀ — Kyklops in folk-tale from 1000 two sons with apples and daughter with star in folk-tale from 1008 ff.
- Siculo-Punic coins 1040
- Siderons, harbour in Lykia
Cult: Hephaistos 972₁
- Sidon
Cult: Astarte 869₀(?)
 — coins of 869₀
- Sidyra
Myth: founded by Sidymos, s. of Tloos by Cheleidon d. of Kragos 971₂ — speech on mythology and ritual of 455₂
- Sidymos, eponym of Sidyma 971₂
- Siegfried 447₅
- Siggeir 682
- Sigmund 682
- Signy 682
- Signyn 305₀
- Sikanoi
Cult: Tetraotos (?) 322
- Sikeloi 795 908₁
- Sikyon
Cults: Aphrodite 1165₁ Asklepios 1080 f. 1082 1090 Hypnos 'Επιδώτης 321₁ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος (= Nero) 97₀ Zeus Μειλιχιος 1144 ff.
Myths: Antiope 1013 Asklepios arrives as snake drawn by mules 1082 Asklepios becomes f. of Aratos by Aristodama (w. of Kleinias) 1082 Demeter discovers poppy 1165₁ Epopeus 1013
 — coins of 1145₀ formerly called Mekone 1165₁
- Sikyon, the eponymous hero
Genealogy: s. of Erechtheus 1146 s. of Marathon s. of Epopeus 1146 s. of Metion s. of Erechtheus 1146 s. of Pelops 1146
- Silandos
Cult: Theos "Γψωτος 881₀₍₂₀₎
- Silchester, diminutive bronze axes from 699
- Silenoii
Types: kneeling 190₂ with wreaths of ivy and vine 95
Associated with Dionysos 661
- Silenos
Cult: Aitne (formerly Katane) 908₁ 909₀
Myth: Polyphemos 909₀
Genealogy: f. of Apollon 221 252
Attributes: ass 464 ivy-wreath 388 909₀
Types: double bust (with Apollon) 388 Janiform (archaistic + Hellenistic) 387 vintager 270₃
- Sillyon
Cult: Zeus 572₁₁(?)
 — coins of 572(?)
- Sillyos, in Pamphylia 573₀
- Silpion, Mt
Cults: fire (πῦρ ἀθανάτων) 1187 Iupiter Capitolinus (?) 1188 Zeus 'Επικάρπιος 1186 Zeus Καπετώλιος (= Iupiter Capitolinus) (?) 1188₁₄ Zeus Κεραύνιος 428 1187 Zeus Νέμειος 1186
- Silvanus 64₀
- Silvii 417₅

- Sima 814₃
 Simon Magus
Personates Zeus 726₀
Associated with Helene as Zeus and Athena 726₀
Confused with Semo Sancus 726₀
- Sin
Associated with Istar and Sibitti 545₀
- Sinis
Myth: Theseus 627₀ 1091
- Sinjerli, Hittite relief from 767₀ stèle of Esar-haddon from 769₀
- Sinope
Cults: Nemesis 363 Theos Μέγας "Τψιστος 883₀₍₂₅₎ Theos "Τψιστος 883₀₍₂₅₎ Zeus Σάραπις 1171₃
 — coins of 363 493₀₍₇₎ 1171₃
- Siphnos
Cult: Zeus Ἐπιβήμιος 897₃ 1180₄
- Sipyrene 970₀
- Sipylos, Mt
Cults: Meter Πλαστήνη 956₂ Zeus Ἰταρος (?) 876_{0(s)} 956₂
Myths: Kouretes 956₂ Pelops 956₂ Tantalos 956₂ Zeus born 956₂ Zeus consorts with Semele 956₂
 — throne of Pelops on 956₂
- Sipylos, personification of the mountain 957₀
- Sirens 178₁
- Siris, town in Lucania
Myth: Herakles and Kalchas 490₀₍₀₎
- Sirmium
Cults: Genius huius loci 1194₁ Iupiter Optimus Maximus 1194₁
- Siscia, coins struck at 604
- Sisyphos
Genealogy: f. of Halmos and Porphyryon 1150₁ s. of Aiolos 1150₄
- Sithnides 897₁
- Skamandria, coins of 949₅
- Skamandros 481₀
- Skarphe See Eteonos
- Skephros 164₀ 455₃
- Skepsis
Cult: Zeus Ἰδαῖος (Εἰδαῖος) 951₀
 — coins of 949₅ 951₀
- Skias in Arkadia (?)
Cult: Apollon Σκιαστής 439
- Skiathos
Cults: Polis 878₀₍₀₎ Zeus Ἰψιστος 878₀₍₀₎ 922₂
- Skiron
Myths: Theseus 627₀ tortoise 895₁
- Skirtos 430₁
- Skoll 305₀
- Skopas 405₃ 469 476₃ 594 1206
- Skopeloi Kronioi 554₂
- Skylla 407₀
- Skyllis 739
- Skythai, deities worshipped by, with their Greek equivalents 292₁ 293₀ divination of 635 driven out of Thrace 107₀ underground effigies of the gods called πόποι 293₀
- Skythia
Cults: Achilles 'Lord of the Island' (sc. Leuke) 925₀ Aphrodite Οὐρανία 292₄ Apollon 292₄ Ares 292₄ 547₃ Athena Λωδία 925₀ Herakles 292₄ Hestia 292₄ iron scimitar 547₃ 680 Korakoi (= Philioi Daimones) 1179₁ Papias 889₀₍₀₎ Philioi Daimones (Orestes and Pylades) 1179 Poseidon 292₄ Zeus Ἀραβύριος 925₀ Zeus Παπαῖος 292₄
Rite: Hyperborean offerings 497
Myth: Erysichthon 684
 — axe-heads from 632₀
- Sleipnir 305₀
- Slingsby and the Snapping Turtle 1151
- Sminthe 250₂
- Sminthia 250₂
- Smyrna
Cults: Aphrodite Στρατονικής 729₀ Ares 729₀ (Artemis) Ταυροπόλος 729₀ Athena Ἀρεία 729₀ Ge 729₀ Helios 729₀ Meter Σειπυληνή 729₀ Nemeseis 524 864₀ Zeus 729₀ Zeus Ἀκραῖος 319 873_{0(s)} 962₁ Zeus Πατρῶος 280₁
Festival: Hadrianeia 1121₀
 — bronze medallion from 629 f. coins of 319 873_{0(s)} in folk-tale from Psara 997 f.
- Smyrna, old name of Ephesos 962₂
- Smyrnaioi, old name of Ephesians 962₂
- Soa
Cult: (Zeus) Βενεύς 883₀₍₀₎
- Sokrates and Phaidros 1118 and Strep-siades 2 portrait-herm of (with Platon ?) 390 portrait-herm of (with Seneca) 390
- Sol
Epithet: Invictus 307₀ 1194₄
Function: Sunday 70
Types: colossal 254₅ driving chariot 96 radiate bust 555₀
Identified with Apollo and Liber Pater 256 f. Mithras 307₀ 1194₄
Associated with Luna 59₀ 98 1050
 — in hymn of Sallii (?) 329₀₍₁₎₍₃₎₍₅₎₍₀₎
- Solmissos, Mt
Myth: Kouretes aid Leto against Hera 962₂
- Solomon sends golden pillar to Souron 424₀
 — temple of 425 ff. 888₀₍₀₎ 1204₀
- Solon, oath of, by (Zeus) Ἰκέσιος, Καθάριστος, and Ἐξακεστήρ 1093₁
- Solyma See Solymos, Mt
- Solymoi
Cults: Kronos 972₀ Zeus Σολυμείς 973₁ f.
- Solymos, Mt
Cult: Zeus Σολυμείς 973₁ f.
- Solymos, eponym of Solymoi 973₁
Genealogy: s. of Ares by Kaldene d. of Pisias (Pisides?) 973₁ s. of Zeus by Chaldene 973₁ s. of Zeus by Kalchedonia 973₁
Identified with Zeus (?) 974₀

- Sophokles, portrait-herm of (with Euripides) 389
 Sosias, the potter 1167
 Sosipolis
Cult: Elis 1151
 Sotades, the potter 346₀ (?)
 Soteria 232 f.
 Souras (?)
Cult: Nikopolis in Moesia 818₂₍₂₎ 822₁₂
 Sousa
Cult: god with bovine horns, axe, and double lightning-fork 769₀
 Spain, celts from 509
 Spalaxos or Palaxos, the Koures 587
 Sparta
Cults: Apollon 246₁ Apollon Ἀκρότας 487₃₍₁₎ Apollon Ἀμυκλαίος 255 Apollon Μαλεάτης 487₃₍₁₎ Ares 729₀ Artemis 457 Artemis Αυγοδέσμα 421₅ Artemis Ὀρθία 421 f. 640₀ 647 Asclepius 1085 Athena Ἀμβουλία 261₀ Athena Ἀρεία 729₀ Athena Ξενία 1101₃ Athena Ὀπτιλέτις or Ὀπτιλία 502₂ Athena Ὀφθαλμίτις 502₂ Athena Χαλκίους 739₁ Auxesia and Damoia 890₂ Demeter 729₀ Dioskouroi 1062 Dioskouroi Ἀμβούλιοι 261₀ Ge 487₃₍₁₎ 729₀ Helios 729₀ Hera 515 Hestia [Βουλαία] 259₀ Hilaieira and Phoibe 1015₇ Poseidon 729₀ Zeus 729₀ Zeus Ἀγαμέμνων 1061 1069 Zeus Ἀμβούλιος 261₀ Zeus Βουλαίος 259₀ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος 1096₁ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος (= Antoninus Pius) 98₀ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος Ἀντωνείνος Σωτήρ (= Antoninus Pius) 101₁ 343₀ Zeus Ἐλευθέριος καὶ Ὀλύμπιος Ἀντωνείνος Σωτήρ (= Antoninus Pius) 101₁ Zeus Ἐπιδάτας 321₁ (Zeus) Ἐπιδάτης (Ἐπιδότης) 321₁ Zeus Ἐρκείος 728₀ (Zeus?) Ἰκέσιος 321₁ Zeus Ἰκέτας 1096₁ Zeus Λακεδαιμῶν 436 Zeus Ξένιος 1101₃ Zeus Οὐράνιος 436 Zeus Ταλειτράς 890₂ 948₁ Zeus Τροπαίος 110₀ Zeus Ἰππατος 739₁ 875₁₍₄₎ 890₃
Festival: Hyacinthia 246₁
Rites: kings sacrifice to Apollon 237₀ octennial probation of kings 440₂ Myths: Astrabakos and Alopekoi 421 Dioskouroi 436 ff.
 — idol from 122₀
 Spercheios 481₆ 486
 Spes 862₁₀
 Sphinx 407₀ 409₀ (?) 718 1082
 Sphragitides
Cult: Mt Kithairon 899₀
 Spoletium
Cult: Iupiter 803₂
 Stabrobates 7
 Staphylos 670
 Stektorion, coins of 566
 Stelai in Crete
Cults: Apollon Πύθιος 731₀ Athena 731₀ Poseidon 731₀ Zeus Δακταίος 731₀
 Stephen, St 924₀
 Stepterion 240 242
 Sterope, d. of Kepheus 1147₁₁
 Sterope, horse of Helios 828 851
 Sterope, personification of lightning 828 851
 Steropes 784 828 851 1023
 Sthenelos 824₂ 892₅
 Stheno 718
 Sthenoboiia 1129
 Stilbe, d. of Peneios
Genealogy: m. of Kentauros by Apollon 1134 f. m. of Lapithes by Apollon 684₂ 1134 f.
 Stoics 256 432 852 854 ff.
 Straton, the sculptor 1079
 Stratonikeia
Cults: Agathos Angelos 880₀₍₀₎ Hekate 714₂ Hekate Δαδοφόρος 714₃ Theios Angelos 880₀₍₀₎ Zeus Λαβράνυδος 585₃ (cp. 586₃) Zeus Νάκρασος (?) 714₃ Zeus Παναμαρος 714₃ Zeus Ῥεμβήνοδος (?) 714₃ Zeus Σέραπις (?) 714₃ Zeus Ὑψιστος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 880₀₍₀₎ 963₀ Zeus Ὑψιστος καὶ Θεῖος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 880₀₍₀₎ Zeus Χρυσαιορέις or Χρυσάριος 714 ff. 848
 — coins of 573 714₂
 Strepsindes 2
 Strongyle 824₇
 Struppearia 1171₁
 Stymphalos
Cult: Artemis Στυμφαλία 692
 Styrakion, Mt 492₀₍₀₎
 Suceelus
Cult: Mogontiacum 620
Attribute: mallet 620
Identified with Iupiter Optimus Maximus 620
 Šurdh, St 822
 Surtr 305₀
 Surus (?) 822 823₀
 Sutekh
Cult: Hittites 621 f. 623
 Suwasa, in Kappadokia
Cult: Zeus Σπράτιος (?) 594 f. 846
 Svayambhû 1036
 Sybrita
Cults: Apollon Πύθιος 731₀ Athena Πολιοῦχος 731₀ Nymphs 731₀ Zeus Κρηταγενής 731₀
 Sykaiboi 130
 Sykea
Myth: Sykeas or Sykeus 1103₈
 Sykeas or Sykeus 1103₈
 Syllion, in Kibyratia 573₀
 Symaitchos, eponym of the river Symaitchos 909₀
 Symaitchos, the river in Sicily 909₀
 Synaos, coins of 566
 Synesios, hymn of 307₂
 Synnada
Cults: Dionysos (?) 362 f. Dioskouroi 313 Semele (?) 362 f.
Myth: Zeus nursed by Rhea 969₂
 — coins of 313 362 f.

Syracuse

Cults: Artemis Αναία 1140₃ Hestia 916₀ Poseidon 916₀ Zeus 'Ελευθέριος 763, Zeus 'Ολύμπιος 915₂ 916₀ 917₀ Zeus Οὔριος 708 917₀ 918₀

Rite: contest of rustic singers wearing stag-horns 1140

Priest: ἀμφίπολος of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος as eponymous magistrate 916₀

— celt from 509 coins of 110₀ 708 918₀

Syria

Cults: Hadran 910₀ Kerannios 807₃₍₂₎

Zeus 745₁ Zeus Καταιβάτης 15 f.

(Zeus ?) Κεραύνιος 807₃₍₂₎ Zeus

"Υψιστος 880₀₍₀₎

— coins of 761 816₄ 1189 f. Sun, Moon, and Morning-Star in folk-tale from 1004 f.

Syrna 451₁

Sytos

Cult: Zeus Κτήσιος 1066

Taanotos See Thoth

Tabai

Cult: Zeus 743₇

— coins of 743₇

Tabala

Cult: youthful hero, radiate, on horse-back bearing double axe 564

Tabiti, the Scythian Hestia 293₀

Tabyris See Atabyris

Tachnepsis

Cult: Delos 985₀

Tacitus, M. Claudius, statue of, struck by lightning 10

Tages

Genealogy: s. of Genius and gs. of Jupiter 1060

Tainaros, Cape

Cults: Poseidon 890₅ Zeus (?) 890₅

Tainaros, s. of Zeus 890₅

Taleton, Mt 890

Cult: Helios 890₂

Rite: sacrifice of horses to Helios 890₂

Tallala range

Cults: Hermes 948₁ Zeus Ταλλαῖος (?) 948₁

Talos

Cult: Crete 890₂ 948₁

Myth: nail and vein 645₀

Function: sun 890₂ 948₁

Type: stone-throwing 491₀₍₀₎

Compared with Zeus 948₁

Talthybios

Myths: Agamemnon and Briseis 726

Tegea in Crete 1147₀

Tammuz

Cults: Bethlehem 984₁ Eridu 483

Associated with Aphrodite (Venus) 984₁

Samaš 483

Compared with Adonis and Zeus 345

Zeus 347

Tan

Cults: Crete 662 Hierapytna 342₀ Polyrrhenion 342₀

Tan (cont.)

— tomb of 342₀

See also Zeus

Tanagra, vases from 123₀

Tanais

Cults: Theos "Υψιστος 884₀₍₀₎ 948₃

Theos "Υψιστος 'Επήκοος 884₀₍₀₎

Tanit

Cult: Carthage 69₀

Identified with Iuno Caelestis 68₂ Venus Caelestis 68₂

Tantalos

Myths: Ganymedes 953₂ golden hound

212₅ Pelops 212₅ perpetual thirst

134₁ Mt Sipylus 956₂

Genealogy: f. of Aizen 964₃ f. of Pelops

438 957₀ s. of Zeus 957₀

Taoioun See Tauiou

Taranis 32

Tarantos in Bithynia

Cult: Zeus Ταρανταῖος 32₃

Taranucus 32

Taras

Etymology: 31 f.

Tarentum 31

Cults: Apollon 1064 Dioskouroi 1064

Persephone 1141₀ pillar 29 45 131

161 166 Venti 464 Zeus 762 ff. 1064

Zeus 'Ελευθέριος 763₁ Zeus Καταιβάτης 29 ff. 45 131 161 559 845

Festival: Theoxenia 1064

Rite: sacrifice of asses to the Winds 464 — cake-moulds (?) from 131 802 1064

1215 coins of 763₁ 1064 compound seals (?) from 1215 Dioscuric reliefs from 1064 disk from 462₀ gold sceptre from 763₁ persistence of

'Minoan' cult at 543

Tarentum in the Campus Martius 32

Tarraco (Tarragona), coins struck at 604 painted tablet from 2₄ 481₀ 1039 1211

Tarragona See Tarraco

Tarsos

Cults: Apollon Ταρσεύς 570 Ba'al-tars

761 f. Herakles (Sandas) 560 845

Sandas (Herakles) 560

Rite: sword of Apollon washed in water from the Kydnos 570 f.

Myths: Herakles 570₄ Persens 570₄

Titanes 570₄

— coins of 101₁ 550₃ 571 761 f.

Tartaros (Tartara) 827; 1023 1032

Epithet: εὐρώετρα 1028

Tartaros

Genealogy: f. of Typhon by Ge 448₂

Tat (= Thoth)

Genealogy: s. of Hermes Τρισμέγιστος 943₀

Taoioun

Cults: Dioskouroi 1064 Zeus 754₁

— coins of 754₁ 789₀ 1064

Taurini

Cult: Aeternus 306₄

Rite: viribus Aeterni taurobolio 306₄

- Taurophonia 582
 Tauros, Mt 449₀
 Taurus, the constellation 103₀ 664₁
 Tavium See Tauion
 Tavrásá (= Zeus?)
Cult: Sardeis 1227 f.
Epithet: Hūdānḥ (= 'Υδηνός?) 1227 f.
 Taygeton, Mt 890₂
Myth: Lynkeus 437 f.
 Tchatal Tepe in Lydia
Cult: Theos 'Υψιστος 881₀(20)
 Tefēnet
Cult: Egypt 626₀
Identified with Athena 626₀
 Tegea
Cults: Apollon 'Αγυειός 163 Athena 'Αλέα 593 f. 1147 Demeter 1140₅ Eileithyia (?) 1148₃ Kore 1140₅ Zeus Κεραυνοβόλος 807 Zeus Κλάριος 807₂ 873₂ 892₁ 1148 f. Zeus Μέγιστος 807₂ Zeus Μελλάχιος (= Μελλάχιος) 1147 1149 Zeus Στορπάας 815 850 Zeus Τέλειος 1147
Festivals: ἀγῶνες 'Ολυμπιακοί 807₂ of Apollon 'Αγυειός 164₀ of Skephros 164₀ 455₃
Myths: Aelos 1147 Skephros and Leimon 164₀ Sterope, d. of Kepheus 1147₁₁ — coins of 1147 common hearth of Arcadians at 1148 four tribes at 1148 pyramid-on-pillar as form of deity at 1147 relief from 593 talisman of 1148
 Tegea in Crete 1147₆
 Tegeates, f. of Skephros 164₀
 Teiresias 488₀(2) 489₀(4)
 Tektaios 232₀
 Telamon in Etruria, coins of 383
 Telauges 1024
 Telchines
Myth: work 'in Idaean caves' 933₀
 Telegonos
Myth: slays Odysseus 676 923₀
 — a parallel to the story of, from the Torres Straits 676₄
 Telephidai (= Pergamenes) 954₀
 Telephos
Myths: Achilles 1184₃ Auge 671 Dionysos 1184₃ Odysseus 1184₃ Orestes 1179₆ 1183 Pergamon 1179
Genealogy: h. of Astyoche 281₄
Etymology: 1183₃
 Telesphoros
Function: procreative power of Asklepios 1089
Etymology: 1229
Types: child 1082 phallós draped as man or boy 1089
Associated with Asklepios 1082 Asklepios and Hygieia 1078
 Telete Meizon at Pheneos 1136₄
 Tellus
Epithet: stabil(ita) 373₃
Type: reclining beneath vine, while Tellus (cont.)
 four Seasons pass over starry globe 373
 Tembrogios or Tembrios, river in Phrygia 969₃
 Temenothyrai
Cult: Dioskouroi 313
 — coins of 313 566
 See also Ak Tash
 Temnos
Cult: Zeus 'Ακράϊος 873₀(19) 956₁
 — coins of 873₀(19)
 Tempe 457₁₃ 458
 Tempestates 94₂
 Tempus 862
 Tenedos
Cults: Dionysos (?) 658 ff. Dionysos 'Αρθρωποραλίστης 522 662 Dionysos ('Ωμάδιος?) 667 f. double axe 522 Hemitheia 670 f. 847 Hera (?) 662 sky-god passing from older (Dionysiac Zeus) to younger (Zeus-like Dionysos) form 663 Tennes (Tenes) 673 847 two axes 668 Zeus (?) 662
Rites: human sacrifice 667 f. sacrifice of bull-calf 522
Myths: Hemitheia 669 ff. Tennes (Tenes) 669 ff.
Etymology: 662
 — coins of 654 ff. 668 673 847 double axes of 654 ff. formerly named Leukophrys 669 formerly named Phoinike 662 proverbs Τενέδιος ἀρθρωπος, Τενέδιος ξυνήγορος, Τενέδιος πέλεκυς 668 f. seal-stone from 663 weights of 658
 Tenedos, on borders of Lykia and Pamphylia 662
 Tenes 662
 See also Tennes (Tenes)
 Tennes (Tenes)
Cult: Tenedos 673 847
Myths: Achilles 669 f. Tenedos 669 ff.
Function: sky 673
Etymology: 662
Types: handsome statue 673 Janiform head (with Hemitheia) 673
 Tennes, king of Sidon 662
 Tenos
Rite: Hyperborean offerings 497
 Teos
Cults: Agathos Daimon 1066 Roma 1066 Zeus Καπετώλιος 1066 Zeus Κτήσιος 1066
 Terentium in the Campus Martius 32
 Tereus
Myth: pursues Prokne and Philomela 692 f.
Metamorphosed into hoopoe 693
Attributes: shield and lance 693₁ spears 693₁ sword 693₁
 Termessos (Termessus Maior)
Cults: Augustus 973₁ Dione 974₀ Theos 'Επήκοος 'Υψιστος (?) 879₀(16) Zeus Δωτήρ (?) 'Ιδαίος (?) 321₁ Zeus 'Ελευ-

- Termessos (Termessus Maior) (cont.)
θέριος 974₀ Zeus Σολυμεύς 973₁ f.
 Zeus Σόλυμος 974₀
Festival: Eleutheria (?) 974₀
 — coins of 973₁ 974₀
- Terminus
Rite: offerings placed in hole 1090
Function: terminator 1090
- Terra
Myth: Palici 909₀
- Tesub
Cults: Hittites 766₁ 767₀ 910₁ list of 910₁
Attributes: axe 767₀ lightning-fork 767₀
Type: standing with axe and lightning-fork 766₁ 767₀
- Tethys
Myth: nurses Hera 343₀
Genealogy: d. of Ouranos by Ge 1020 m. of Phorkys, Kronos, Rhea, etc. by Okeanos 1020 w. of Okeanos 473
Identified with Isis 481₀
- Tetraotos, a god
Cult: Sikanoi (?) 322
 See also Apollon Τετράωτος, Zeus Τετράωτος
- Tetraotos, a Phoenician freebooter 322₆ 323₀
- Teukros 472
- Teuthras
Genealogy: f. of Thespios 1151 s. of Pandion 1151
- Thagimasada See Thamimasadas
- Thalamai
Cults: Asklepios 1085 Pasiphaa 31 Zeus Καβάρας 17. f. 31
- Thalassa
Cults: Laodikeia on the Lykos 1186 Pergamon 1185
Attributes: crab's-claws 665₃ 1185 dolphin 1186 steering-paddle 1185
Types: androgynous 558₀ recumbent 1185 standing 1185 f. with head-dress of crab's-claws 665₃ 1185
- Thalath 558₀
- Thaleia, d. of Hephaistos
Genealogy: m. of Palikoi by Zeus 909₀
- Thales 1021
- Thalna 709 f.
- Thamimasadas (Thagimasada), the Scythian Poseidon 293₀
- Thanatos
Genealogy: b. of Hypnos 317
Type: Eros with crossed legs and torch reversed 309 1045 1166
- Thanr 709 f.
- Thargelia 237₀
- Thasos
Cults: Bendis 314₀ Dionysos 314₀ Zeus Κεραύνιος 808₀₍₁₀₎
 — antefix from 123₀ coins of 388₀ relief from 863₁
- Thea Hypsiste
Cult: Gjöle in Lydia 881₀₍₂₀₎
- Theai Megalai See Megalai Theai
- Theanor 1024
- Thebarma
Cult: fire 34₁
- Thebes in Boiotia
Cults: Artemis 412 Demeter 'Ομολώφα 900₁ ep. 901₀ Hektor 961₀ Hera Κιθαιρωνία 899₀ Meilichioi 1154₆ Zeus 'Ομολώιος 900₁ Zeus "Υψιστος 878₀₍₂₎ 898₃
Festivals: Daphnephoria 455₈ Homoloia 900₁
Myths: Drakon 1087 Ogygos 824₆ Oidipous 1152
 — coins of 110₇ 'Ομολώιδες πύλαι at 900₁ 901₀ 904₄ "Υψισται πύλαι at 878₀₍₂₎
- Thebes in Egypt
Cults: Amen 774₀ Zeus Θηβαιεύς 960₀
Rite: παλλακίδες of Zeus Θηβαιεύς 960₀ — relief from 863₁
- Theios Angelos
Cult: Stratonikeia 880₀₍₀₎
 See also Agathos Angelos
- Thelpousa
Cult: Asklepios 1090
- Themele (= Semele) 279₃
- Themis
Cult: Delphoi 176₁ 500 1216
Epithets: ἀρχέγονος 954₀ Βουλαία 258₃ εὐβουλος 37₁ 258₃ εὐκταία 723₀ εὐπλάκαμος θεά 1216 Ικεσία 873₂ καλή (?) 931₀ ὀρθόβουλος 258₃ ὀρκία 723₀ οὐρανία 37₁ πινυτή 258₃ προφήτης καρτερόβουλος 954₀
Rite: leap 931₀
Myths: Boucheta 267₅ 348₃ consorts with Zeus 37₁ Delphoi 230₀ Deukalion 267₅ 348₅ 971₀ gives oracle to Kronos 928₀ impregnated by pillar of light (= Apollon) 1217
Genealogy: m. of Horni by Zeus 37₁ 94₂
Function: supports orator 893₃
Etymology: 268₁
Types: riding on ox 348₅ seated on tripod 206₁ 1217
Identified with Ge 176₁
Associated with Moirai 929₀ Zeus 258 723₀ Zeus and Apollon 730₀ Zeus and Dike 897₃ Zeus and Dionysos 261 f.
Compared with Europe 267₅
In relation to Zeus 873₂
 — a possible doublet of Thetis 268
- Themisonion
Cults: Dioskouroi (?) 313 Lyk(abas?) Σώζων 312₅ 313₈
 — coins of 312₅ 313
- Theodaisia 948₀₍₄₎ 1021
- Theodoric the Great 1071
- Theodoros, sculptor of tabula Iliaca 45₁
- Theodotos, St 1186₁
- Theognetos, the Thessalian 1024
- Theoi Agnostoi See Agnostoi Theoi

- Theoi Agrioi
Cult: Mt Kragos 971₂
Identified with Kragos and his kin 971₂ f. Titanes 971₂
- Theoi Akraioi
Cult: Mytilene (?) 873₀₍₁₁₀₎
- Theoi Ktesioi 1068
- Theoi Ouranioi
Cult: Melos 808₀₍₁₂₎
- Theoi Skirroï See Theoi Skleroi
- Theoi Skleroi
Cult: Lykia 972₀
- Theoi Soteres
Cults: Ikonion 970₀ Philadelpheia in Lydia 960₀ 1229 Seleukeia Pieria
 869₁
- Theophanes
Personates Zeus 97₀
- Theos
Etymology: 234₁
- Theos Agnostos See Agnostos Theos
- Theos Basileus Eumenes Soter (= Eumenes ii)
Cult: Elaia in Aiolis 960₀
- Theos Epekoös See Theos Hypsistos
Epithets 'Επήκοος
- Theos Hagios See Theos Hypsistos
Epithets 'Αγιος
- Theos Hypsistos
Cults: Aizanoi 882₀₍₂₃₎ 968₀ Akmonia
 882₀₍₂₃₎ 968₁ Alexandria 889₀₍₃₃₎
 984₂ Amathous 879₀₍₁₅₎ 980₃ Arslan
 Apa in Phrygia 883₀₍₀₎ 969₃
 Athribis 889₀₍₃₃₎ 984₃ Berytos 983₅
 Bithynia (?) 883₀₍₂₄₎ Bosphoros Kimmerios 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 885₀₍₀₎ Gol-goi 879₀₍₁₅₎ 980₃ Gorgippia 883₀₍₂₇₎
 884₀₍₀₎ 948₂ Hephaistia in Lemnos
 878₀₍₇₎ Hierokaisareia in Lydia
 881₀₍₂₀₎ Ioudaia 888₀₍₃₂₎ 889₀₍₀₎
 Kerdyllion 878₀₍₉₎ Kition 879₀₍₁₅₎
 980₃ Knossos 879₀₍₁₄₎ Koloe 881₀₍₂₀₎
 Kos 880₀₍₁₈₎ 964₁ Kyzikos 953₁
 Laodikeia on the Lykos 882₀₍₂₃₎
 968₃ Miletos 879₀₍₁₇₎ Moesia 878₀₍₁₁₎
 949₁ Mytilene 882₀₍₂₂₎ Nakoleia 882₀₍₂₃₎ 969₁ Oinoanda 879₀₍₁₆₎ Pergamon 882₀₍₀₎ 956₀ Phata in Lydia
 881₀₍₂₀₎ Philadelpheia in Lydia
 881₀₍₂₀₎ Phoinike 886₀₍₃₀₎ Pirot
 878₀₍₁₁₎ 948₅ Plakia 882₀₍₀₎ Rheneia
 880₀₍₁₀₎ Rome 879₀₍₁₃₎ Sahin in Phoinike 886₀₍₃₀₎ 983₃ Sari-Tsam in Lydia 881₀₍₂₀₎ Sebastopolis (?) 883₀₍₂₆₎ Selymbria 878₀₍₁₀₎ 949₄
 Silandos 881₀₍₂₀₎ Sinope 883₀₍₂₅₎
 Tanais 884₀₍₀₎ 948₃ Tchatal Tepe in Lydia 881₀₍₂₀₎ Termessos (?)
 879₀₍₁₆₎ Thyateira 881₀₍₂₀₎ Tralleis
 880₀₍₀₎ 962₀
Epithets: 'Αγιος 878₀₍₁₀₎ 949₄ 'Αγιώτας 879₀₍₁₇₎ 'Επήκοος 878₀₍₇₎ 878₀₍₁₁₎
 879₀₍₁₆₎ (?) 884₀₍₀₎ 948₅ Εύλογητός
 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 'Ιάω 'Αδωναί 889₀₍₀₎
 Κεραυνίος 807₃₍₃₎ 882₀₍₂₂₎ κύριε ὁ
- Theos Hypsistos (cont.)
πάντα ἐφορῶν 880₀₍₁₀₎ κύριον τῶν πνεύματων καὶ πάσης σαρκός 880₀₍₁₀₎
Μέγας 883₀₍₂₅₎ Οὐράνιος 886₀₍₃₀₎ Οὐράνιος 'Τπατος 983₃ Παντοκράτωρ
 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎ πάντων 'Επόπτης
 889₀₍₃₃₎ 984₂ Σωτήρ 879₀₍₁₇₎ 'Τπατος
 886₀₍₃₀₎
Rite: lamp 879₀₍₁₆₎
Priests: ἱερεὺς 879₀₍₁₇₎ προφήτης 879₀₍₁₇₎ Worshippers: ἀδελφοί 883₀₍₂₅₎ θιασοί or σύνοδοι, comprising πρεσβύτεροι and εἰσπονητοὶ ἀδελφοί, under control of ἱερεὺς, πατήρ συνόδου, συναγωγός, φιλάγαθος, παραφιλάγαθος, γυμνασιάρχης, νεανισκάρης, γραμματεὺς
 883₀₍₀₎
Attribute: eagle 884₀₍₀₎ 889
Identified with Adad or Ramman, the Zeus or Iupiter of Heliopolis
 886₀₍₃₀₎ Adonai 889₀₍₀₎ Helios 882₀₍₀₎
 Iao 889₀₍₀₎ Zeus 882₀₍₂₂₎ 883₀₍₀₎
 884₀₍₀₎ Zeus Βέννιος or Βεννεύς 969₃
Superseded by Christ 879₀₍₁₇₎ — cult of, propagated by Jews of the Dispersion 889 f. sacred light
 (φῶς) of 889₀₍₀₎
 See also Hypsistos, Zeus Epithets
 'Τψιστος
- Theos Kataibates 14₃
- Theos Megas
Cults: Delos 985₀ Odessos in Thrace
 1126₀ Palmyra 885₀₍₂₀₎
Epithets: Σαλλυντος (? J. H. Mordtmann cf. 'Αμμονῶταρ see O. Höfer in Roscher Lex. Myth. v. 290)
 'Ενεοάρης (?) 885₀₍₂₀₎
Attributes: cornu copiae 1126₀ phiale
 1126₀
- Theos Zon 1102₃
- Theoteknos introduces cult of Zeus Φίλιος at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1186 1196
- Theoxenia 243₂ 244₂ 1064 1136₀ (?) 1170
- Thera
Cults: Apollon 920₀ 921₀ Melichios
 (See Zeus Μηλιχίος) Zeus Βροντῶν
 καὶ 'Αστράπτων 817 (Zeus) 'Ικέτιος
 1095₀ Zeus Καταιβάτας 17 Zeus
 Κτήσιος 1066 Zeus Μηλιχίος τῶν περὶ Πολύξενον 1156₁₀ Zeus τῶν περὶ
Λάκιον 1156₁₀ Zeus τῶν περὶ 'Ολυμπίδωρον 1156₁₀
 — archaic inscriptions of 1226 votive lions in 920₀ 921₀
- Therapia 996 998 f.
- Therapne
Cult: Dioskouroi 1064
Myth: Dioskouroi 437
- Therma (s? -ios?), river-god 408₀
- Thermos in Aitolia
Cults: Ge 72₀ Helios 729₀ Zeus 729₀
- Theseus
Festivals: Melichia 1091 f. Oschophoria 1092

Theseus (cont.)

Myths: clears road to Delphoi 628
 Damastes 626 f. Phaidra and Hippolytos 1043 Phyalidai 291₂ 1091
 1103 Prokoptes 626 f. Prokroustes
 626 f. Sinis 627₆ 1091 Skiron 627₆

Genealogy: f. of Hippolytos 1087 gs. of Pittheus 1091

Attributes: double axe 626 ff. 847 sword 627₆

Type: attacking Centaur 628

Associated with Kodros and Phyleus
 1137₂ Peirithoos and Herakles 211₂

Thespia, d. of Asopos 1151₃

Thespiain

Cults: Agathos Daimon (Demon)
 1125₁ 1161 St Charalambos 1150₀
 Daimones 1150₀ Dionysos Σαώτης(?)
 599₂ Hera Κιθαίρωνα 899₀ Hermes
 1150₀ Miliche 1151 Mousa (Mosa)
 238₀ Zeus Κρήσιος 1061 1066 Zeus
 Μιλίχος 1151 Zeus Σαώτης 599₂
 1151

Myth: snake slain by Menestratos 1151

— apsidal temple of 900₀

Thespios, eponym of Thespiain

Genealogy: s. of Erechtheus 1151 s. of Teuthras s. of Pandion 1151

Thesprotia, caldron of 133₀

Thessalonike

Cults: Hercules Augustus 1194₁ Prino-phoros 411₆

— coins of 411₆

Thessaly

Cults: pillar 166₂ (?) Zeus Κάριος 873₂
 Zeus Αφύσσιος 899₁ Zeus Όμολώσιος
 900₁ Zeus Τραπος (?) 876₀₍₇₎ Zeus
 Φύσιος 902₀

Rites: burial within the house 1061
 φοιβονομείσθαι 500₁₂

Myth: Salmoneus 825 833 1088

— kings of, personate Zeus 1087 ff.

Thetis

Myths: Mnemon 670 supplicates Zeus
 45₁ 753₃

Etymology: 268₂

Type: with head-dress of crab's-claws
 665₃

Compared with Metis 12

Thibursicum Bure

Cult: Iuno Caeclestis 68₂

Thimouis

Cult: he-goat 987₀

Thoas 421₃

Tholathes (?) 558₀

Thor

Cults: Gothia 620 Lapps (?) 423₃ 533₂
Rite: erection of beam pierced by iron nail (?) 533₂

Myths: brings to life his goats when cooked in caldron 63₁ 213₀ leads Thorolfr Mostrarskegg to Iceland
 533₂

Genealogy: f. of Magni 64₀ s. of Hlódyn 66₀

Thor (cont.)

Functions: fertility 63₁ thunder 547₀

Etymology: 32

Attributes: club 64₀ hammer 547₀ mallet 620 sword 305₀ thistle 775₀

Type: bearded 64₀

Identified with Jupiter 620 — carved on high-seat pillar 533₂ temple of 533₂

Thorikos

Rite: burial within the house 1060

Thornax, Mt, in Lakonike

Cult: Apollon Θορνάκιος or Πυθαεύς
 893₂

Thornax, w. of Iapetos 894₀

Thoth

Epithet: Astennu 700₀

Myth: gives wings etc. to the gods
 553

Identified with Hermes Τρισμέγιστος
 611

See also Tat

Thoukydides, portrait-herm of (with Herodotos) 389 f.

Thourioi 118₂ 119

Thouros

Identified with the planet Ares and Baal or Bel 694₀

Thrace

Cults: Apollon 458 Artemis 411
 Artemis Βασίλεια 500 f. Axieros
 314 f. Axiokersa 314 f. Axiokersos
 314 f. Bendis 303₂ 314₀ 411 501
 Boreas 380 Bousbatos 501₃ Dionysos 269 ff. Dionysos Βάλων 270 (Dionysos) Ταμβαδούλης 820₃ 821 851
 Dionysos Σαβάξιος 314₀ Dios 277 ff.
 288 313 824 842 Dios Νύσος 313
 Erikepaïos (Erikapaïos) (?) 1025
 Kabeïroi 313 ff. Κύριος Θεός Προγονκός Ζηβελσοῦρδος 1225 Κύριος Zeus
 Ζηβελσοῦρδος 1225 rider-god 821 823
 Zeus Δόννοςος 282 (Zeus) Ζάλλμο-ξις (?) 230 822 Zeus Ζηβελσοῦρδος
 817 ff. 833 851 Zeus Ζηβελσοῦρδος ó
 Κύριος 1225 (Zeus) Ζηβελείζις (?) 822
 (Zeus) *Ζηβελσοῦρδος (?) 822

Rite: human omophagy 1022

Myths: Kosingas 130 Salmoxis 226

Tereus 692 f.

— as link between Germany and Greece 114 coins of 1133₁ (?) kings
 of 271₀

See also Thracians, Thraco-Phrygians

Thracians tattooed 121 123₀

Thraco-Phrygians

Cults: Dionysos 268 ff. 663 673 Dios
 277 ff. 663 842 Dios Νύσος 842
 Erikepaïos (Erikapaïos) (?) 1025
 Father and Son 313 Phanes (?)
 1025 Semele 673 842 Zeus 1111

Myth: death and burial of Dionysos at Delphoi 218 ff.

— prepared to accept Christianity 288

- Thrakidai 231 268
 Thrasyllos, monument of 245₅
 Thrasymedes of Paros 1078 f.
 Thronax (Thornax?), Mt, in Argolis 893₂
 Thunders See Brontai
 Thunor 32
 Thyateira
Cults: Apollon Τύριμνος 562 Theos
 "Τυσισρος 881₀₍₂₀₎ Tyrimnos 561 f.
 Zeus 'Αέριος 808₀₍₀₎ Zeus Κεραύνιος
 808₀₍₀₎ Zeus Φίλιος (= Trajan) 1184 f.
 — coins of 561 f. 845 coin of, in alliance with Pergamon 1184 f.
- Thyellai
Cult: Bathos 827
 Thyestes, a storm-god (?) 1022
 Thyestes, f. of Enorches
Myth: 1021
Etymology: 1022
 Thyestes, s. of Pelops
Myths: banquet 1021 sceptre of Zeus
 547₂ 956₂
Etymology: 1022
 — sceptre of 1132₄ 1132₆
- Thyiad, the principal 242
 Thyiads 242
 Thymaitis, an Athenian phratry 1229
 Thyone 29 279₃ 1022
 Thyonianus as rebirth of Dionysos (?) 893₀
 Tiamat 1038
Type: lion-headed monster (?) 769₀
- Tiberis, the river-god
Genealogy: h. of Ilia 1016 s. of Ianus
 394₃
Attributes: reed 1083 urn 1083
Type: reclining 1083
- Tiber-island
Cults: Aesculapius 1083 1086 Dios
 Fidius 726₀ Iupiter Iurarius 726₀
 Simon Magus 726₀
- Tibur
Cult: Hercules 328₃
- Tifata, Mt
Cult: Diana 404
Etymology: 404
- Tifis, kántharos found near 1204
 Tigillum Sororium See Rome
 Tilphossa
Cult: Apollon Τιλφούσιος 439
- Time
Attributes: hour-glass 867 f. scythe
 867 f.
Types: ancient, medieval, and modern
 868₁
- Tina (Tinia)
Cult: Etruria 338₃ 662
Identified with Iupiter 338₃ Zeus 709
 Tina See Tina
 Tiodute (Jodute) 1212
 Tiora Matiene
Cult: Mars 1133₁ 1230
- Titanes
Myths: attack Dionysos or Zagreus
 218 f. 251₂ 549 1030 f. attack Liber 1031 attack Osiris 1030 flung into
- Titanes (cont.)
 Tartaros by Zeus 1032 men made from their ashes 1032 reduced to powder (τρῆραρος) 1032 smear their faces with gypsum 1030 struck with thunderbolt by Zeus 1031
 Sykeas or Sykeus pursued by Zeus
 1103₈ Tarsos 570₁ Titanomachia
 827₇
Genealogy: sons of Ouranos by Ge
 1023 cp. 1103₈
Function: chieftains or kings 971₂
Etymology: 1023
Identified with Theoi Agrioi 971₂
In relation to the Cretan Zeus or Zagreus 352
- Tithonos 281₄
 Tiu See Ziu
 Tiv
Cult: Etruria 339₀
Function: moon 339₀
- Tiw See Ziu
 Tlapolemeia 469
 Tlepolemos 469
- Tloos, eponym of the Lycian town Tlos
Genealogy: f. of Sidymos by Cheleidon
 d. of Kragos 971₂ s. of Tremilos (Tremiles?) by the nymph Praxi-dike, b. of Kragos and Pinalos 971₂
- Tmolos, Mt
Cults: Zeus Δεῖσιος (?) 957₂ Zeus Κορυφαῖος (See Philadelphieia in Lydia) Zeus 'Υέτιος 957₂
Myths: birth of Zeus 957₂ 1228 Zeus
 Σαβάξιος brings the babe Dionysos thither 957₂
 — place called Γοβαί Διὸς 'Υερίου, later Δεῖσιον (? Δεωσίον) on 957₂
- Tomaris in Lydia
Cult: youthful hero on horseback bearing double axe 563
 — coins of 563
- Tomis (Tomoi)
Cult: Iupiter Optimus Maximus Heros
 823₁₍₁₎
 — coins of 114₀
- Torcello, relief at 865 f.
 Tosobis 972₀
 Tottes 569₂
- Trachis
Myths: Alkyone 1088 Keyx 1088
 Traianeia Deiphileia 1180
 Traianeum at Pergamon 1179 ff.
 Traianopolis in Kilikia, coins of 101₀
 Traianopolis in Phrygia, coins of 566
 Trajan
Cults: Hermione 1180₄ Pergamon
 1179 ff.
Epithet: Optimus 1181₀
Festival: Traianeia Deiphileia 1180
Personates Zeus 100₆ 1180 1180₄
 — Arch of, at Beneventum 1181₀
- Tralleis 957₃ ff.
Cults: Apollon 958₀ Athena 958₀
 Dionysos 960₀ Poseidon 959₀ Theos

Tralleis (cont.)

"Τύστος 880₍₀₎ 962₀ Zeus 958₀ Zeus Εὐμένης (= Eumenes i) 960₀ Zeus Λαράσιος 958₀ ff. Zeus Λαράσιος Σεβαστὸς Εὐμένης (= Hadrian) 959₀ f.

Festival: Pythia 959₀
Rites: ἀμπτόποδες 959₀ f. παλλακίδες 959₀ f.

Priests etc.: θεοκῶλοι 958₀ ἱεροί 958₀ ἱερομνήμονες 958₀ priest of Zeus Λαράσιος (?) has brick palace 958₀
— coins of 491₀₍₀₎ 957₃ 960₀ 961₀ f. jewelry from 638 f. reliefs or frescoes at 961₀

Tralleus, eponymous founder of Tralleis 957₃

Tralioi, a Thracian tribe 957₃

Tranquillina as Tyche of Kaisareia in Kappadokia 978₀

Transfiguration (Aug. 6) 945₀

Trapezous in Arkadia

Cult: Zeus Ἀκραῖος 871₃₍₃₎ 892₂

Tremilos (Tremiles ?), eponym of Tremile (= Lykia) 971₂

Trephon (?) 1074 1076

Trikke

Cults: Apollon Μαλεάτας 487₃₍₁₎ 1088

Asklepios 1079 1088

Myths: Asklepios 833₀ Koronis 833₀
— coins of 1079 underground ἀδυτον at 1088

Triopas (Triops), f. of Erysichthon 683

Genealogy: s. of Helios by Rhodos 684₂ s. of Lapithes, s. of Apollon by Stilbe, d. of Pencios 684₂ s. of Poseidon by Kanake 684₂

Triopidai 683

Triops See Triopas, f. of Erysichthon

Triphyllia

Cult: Hera Ὀπλοσμία 291₀

Tripolis in Lydia See Apollonia (Tripolis)

Triptolemos

Cults: Antiocheia on the Orontes 981₁
Mt Kasion in Syria 981₁

Myth: Ione 1186

Genealogy: s. of Polymnia 1022

Triton

Types: double bust (with Libye) 392 with head-dress of lobster's or crab's claws 665₃

Tritonides 898₀

Tritopatrens as one of the first three Dioskouroi 1135₄

Troilos 475

Troizen

Cults: Aphrodite Ἀκραία 872₀₍₅₎ Aphrodite Κατασκοπία 944₀ Artemis Σαρωνία 413₇ Artemis Σαρωνίς 413 ff. Asklepios 1085 Athena Σθενιάς 416₃ Dionysos Σαώτης 599₂ Hermes Πολύγυος 466

Myths: Hippolytos 414 ff. 944₀ Saron 413 f.

— coins of 416 797 kings of 414

Troizen, s. of Pelops 414₂

Trokmoi 754₁

Tropaeum Traiani 114₀

Trophonios (Trophonios)

Cult: Lebadeia 232₄ 899₂ 1073 ff.

Rite: incubation 232₄

Myths: sleep at Delphoi 232₄ swallowed by earth 1075

Genealogy: descended from Aiolos 1088

Function: hypostasis of Zeus (?) 1075

Attribute: snake coiled round staff 1075

Identified with a chthonian Hermes 1075 Zeus 1075

Associated with Agamedes 232₄ Zeus Βασιλεύς 1073 f.

Compared with Amphiaraios 1075 Asklepios 1075

In relation to Zeus 900₀

Superseded by St Christopher 1076

Troy

Cults: Apollon 453 Artemis 453 Zeus 8 950₀

Myths: birth of Zeus 951₀ capture 911₀ Ilos founds the city where cow lies down 349 wooden horse 625 — axe-hammers from 635 f.

Trygaios 909₀

Turin, relief at 861 f.

Tusculum

Cults: Castor 1170 f. Diana 403 Dioskouroi (?) 368₂ Fontus (?) 368₂ Ianus (?) 368₂

Tyana

Cults: Apollon Βοζήνιος (?) 570 Zeus Ἀσβαμαῖος 569 Zeus Ὀρκιος (?) 569₄ 722₅

Tychai

Cult: Epidauros 487₃₍₁₎

Tyche

Cults: Antiocheia on the Orontes 1196₂ 1197 Athens 1163 Edessa 429 f. Kaisareia in Kappadokia 978₀ Magnesia ad Sipylum 729₀ Melos 1136₄ Mylasa 879₀₍₁₇₎ Nemroud Dagh 1136₄ Panamara 879₀₍₁₇₎ 1066 Peiraieus 1104 f. Philadelpheia in Lydia 1228

Epithets: Ἀγαθή 879₀₍₁₇₎ 1104 f. 1163 1229 (See also Agathe Tyche) Νέα 1136₄

Personated by Antiochos i of Kommagene 1136₄ Arsinoe ii 1216 benefactor of Melos 1136₄ Tranquillina 978₀

Attribute: pillar 1136₄

Types: holding infant (Ploutos?) 1136₄ seated with Orontes at her feet 1209₅

Identified with Rhea 675 (?)

Associated with Zeus 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zeus Ἐπιτέλειος Φίλιος and Philia 1163 — of Antoninus Pius 879₀₍₁₇₎ of Seleukos ii Kallinikos 729₀

Tyndareos

Genealogy: f. of Dioskouroi and Helene 918₀

- Tyndaridai
Cults: Selinous 489₀₍₆₎ Sparta 436
Myths: buried at Therapne 437 feued with Idas and Lynkeus 437
Genealogy: affiliated to Zeus 918₀
Type: supporters of sky 432
- Tyndaris
Cults: Dioskouroi (Tyndaridai) 918₀
 Helene (Tyndaris) 918₀ Zeus 917₁ 918₀
 — coins of 917₁ 918₀
- Tynnichos 906₃
- Typhoeus 826 839₆
 See also Typhon
- Typhon
Myths: Arima 826 909₀ crushed by Zeus under Mt Aitne 909₀ cuts out sinews of Zeus 228 448₂ cuts up body of Osiris 1030 fight with Zeus 448₂ 722₂ 731 826 839₆ Hermes uses his sinews as lyre-strings 450₀ pursued by Zeus to Mt Kasion in Syria 981₁ swallows eye of Horos 450₀ tastes mortal fruit 449₀
Genealogy: s. of Ge by Tartaros 448₂
Functions: chthonian 805₆ warmth 557₁
Attribute: thunderbolt (?) 805₆
Types: three-bodied 805₆ winged 448₂ with serpent-legs 448₂ with two wings and snake tails 731₁ Identified with Arktos 450₀
- Tyr
Myth: Fenrir 450₀
 See also Ziu
- Tyre
Cults: Herakles 423 f. Zeus 424₀
 — coins of 665₃ 1036 f. 1209₅
- Tyrimneia 561
- Tyrimnos
Cult: Thyateira 561 f. 845
Epithets: ὁ προπάτωρ 561₇ ὁ προπάτωρ θεός 561₈
Festivals: Tyrimneia 561 τῶν μεγάλων Σεβαστῶν Τυριμνήων ἀγῶνων 561₉
Priest: ἱερεὺς 561₈
Type: youthful rider with double axe 561
Identified with Apollon 561 f. 845
 Helios 562 845
- Umbria
Cults: Fisos (or Fisovios) Sancios 724₀
 Iupater Sancius 724₀
- Underworld See Index II
- Uni (= Iuno)
Cult: Etruria 338₃
- Urbs Salvia
Cults: Iuno(?) 803 Iupiter Iutor 803 ff.
 Minerva 803 Victoria 803
 — painted tiles from 803 ff.
- Ursa Maior 336 928₀ 1017₄
- Ursa Minor 336 928₀
- Usil
Cult: Etruria 339₀
Function: sun 339₀
- Valc(h)anos (?) (= Velchanos)
Cult: Golgoi 948₀₍₅₎
 See also Velchanos
- Van, axe-head from 632₆
- Vaphio, incised gem from 621
- Varpelev, skýphos from 1204 f.
- Vediovis
Identified with Iupiter Iurarius (?) 726₀
- Velchania (?) 947₀₍₂₎
- Velchanos
Cults: Gortyna (?) 947₀₍₂₎ Hagia Triada 947₀₍₁₎ Phaistos 946₀ 947₀
Etymology: 947₀
Identified with Apollon 948₀ Volcanus (?) 947₀ Zeus 946₀ ff.
- Venafrum
Cult: Iupiter Caelestis 69₀ 401₀
- Venasa
Cult: Zeus 616
- Venti
Cults: Kaulonia (?) 1042 Lithuania 445₁ Tarentum 464
Epithet: bonarum Tempestatium potentes 94₂
Attributes: cock 445₁ fish 445₁ small cask 445₁
Types: four winged heads 1051 Janiform 445₁
- Ventina (sc. Aqua)
Associated with Fons and Vires 306₄
- Venus
Cults: Bovianum Undecimanorum 68₂
 Jerusalem 984₁ Pola 68₂ Puteoli 68₂
 Rome 68₂
Epithets: Caelestis 68₂ Libitina 1165₁ Verticordia 98 f.
Myth: sprung from blood of Saturnus and foam of sea 448₁ cp. 448₀
Function: Friday 70
Attributes: mirror 70₁ scales 98 f. 100 tortoise 68₁ water-mint 1166₀
Types: standing with foot on footstool 67 f. with apple in hand 491₀₍₆₎ with apple, sceptre, star, and child 68₂
Associated with Mercurius 67 Tammuz (Adonis) 984₁
In relation to Frija 67
 — mirror of 609₁ on column of Mayence 96
- Venus, the planet, symbol of 608 f.
- Verbio (= Virbicus) in folk-tale of the Romagnoli 420
- Verelde 66₀
- Vespera 74
- Vesta
Cults: Agedincum 99₃ Lugdunum 99₃
 Rome 1148₀ 1172₄
Festival: Vestalia 20₀
Rites: feast of roast flesh and wine 1172₄ meal 19₀ perpetual fire of oak-wood 417₅
Priestesses: virgines Vestales 1148₀
Attribute: ass 99₄
Identified with Diana Nemorensis 417₅

Vesta (cont.)

Associated with Mars and Volcanus
99₃ Volcanus 99
— on column of Mayence 96 99 100
Vestalia 20₀
Vettiersfelde, celt from 509 f.
Vettii, frescoes from house of 1047 f.
Vetulonia, 'Tomb of the Lictor' at 1221
'Tomb of the Trident' at 1225
Via Egnatia 495
Viarus, Mt.
Cult: Zeus (?) 973₀
— on coins of Prostanta 972₅ f.

Vichy

Cult: Iupiter Sabasius (= Sabazius)
285₀ — silver bratteae from 285₀

Victoria

Cults: Divitia 64₀ Rome 1195₂ Urbs
Salvia 803
Attributes: palm-branch 99 811₅ wreath
811₅ Types: on globe 1196₀ writing on shield 57₀ (fig. 22, 3b)
Associated with Iupiter 1195₂
— on column of Mayence 96 98 on Iupiter-columns 57₀ 59₀ 71

Vidharr 305₀

Virae

Epithet: Querquetulanæ 402₀

Virbius

Cults: Neapolis in Campania 421 Nemi
392 ff.
Priest: flamen Virbialis 421₁
Myth: Diana 393
Functions: consort of Diana 392 ff.
842 growth 421 f. mythical prototype of rex Nemorensis 399
Etymology: 397₀ 398₀ 399 399₅ 421 f.
Type: Janiform (with Hippolytos)
392 ff. 420 f. 842
In relation to Diana 414 417 842
Irbos (?) 421

Virbius, Clivus, at Rome 400 f. 421

Virbius, river in Lakonike (?) 394₂ 421

Vires

Function: testicles personified 306₄
Associated with Deus Magnus Pantheus
306₄ Fons and (Aqua) Ventina 306₄
Lymphæ 306₄ Neptunus 306₄ Nymphae 306₄

Virgin, the

Cults: Athens 1119₀ 1119₃ Chartres
1213 Mt Gerizim 888₀₍₀₎ Mt Juktas
945₀ Zaragoza 1213
Epithets: δειπάθροσ 888₀₍₀₎ del Pilar
1213 du Pilièr 1213 ἡ ὑπεργία
Θεοκόκος 1119₄ Θεοκόκος 888₀₍₀₎
1150₁₀ Παργία 891₀ 945₀ Παργία eis τὴν ἱέρπην 1119₀
Festival: Aug. 15 891₀
Supersedes Charites 1150₁₀

Virgins, the Seven, of Ankyra 1186₄

Virgo

Epithets: spicifera, iusti inventrix,

Virgo (cont.)

— urbium conditrix, ... lance vitam et iura pensitans 734₃
Identified with Mater divum, Pax, Virtus, Ceres, dea Syria 734₃

Virtus

Type: with banner 99
Identified with Virgo 734₃
— on column of Mayence 96 100

Virvinus, spring in Lakonike (?) 394₂

Vishnu

Cults: India 367 774₁
Myths: Brahṇā 774₁ in bubble as Brahma 1036 Paraśu-rāma 660₁
Rāma-āndra 660₁
Genealogy: h. of Lakshmī 774₁ h. of Sarasvatī 774₁
Function: solar (?) 774₁
Attribute: lotos 367 774₁
Types: four-handed 774₁ seated beneath starry arch 367
— sixth incarnation of 660₁ seventh incarnation of 660₁

Vitellia, goddess 404₀

Vitellia, town in Latium 404₀

Vitellii 404₀

Volaterrae

Cults: Hermes (?) 383 Ianus (?) 383
— coins of 382 f.

Volcanus

Cults: Agedineum 99₃ Gallia Lugdun-ensis 547₀ 619 Lugdunum 99₃
Genealogy: f. of Palicus by Aetna 909₀
Function: elemental fire 100
Etymology: 947₀
Identified with Donar 63₁ Velchanos (?)
947₀
Associated with Esus and Iovis 619
Mars and Vesta 99₇ Vesta 99
— on column of Mayence 96 100 on Jupiter-columns 57₀ 59₀ smithy of 784

Volsung 682

Vulci, tomb-painting at 641

Vulturinus 368₃

Weaving Damsel 66₀

Wind-gods See Venti

Winds See Anemoi

Wodan

Rite: sacrifice at beginning of summer
62₁

Myth: contest with Fenris-wolf 62₁

Functions: leader of Wild Hunt or Furious Host 62₁ sky-god 62₁

Attributes: chariot or coach 62₁ gold helmet 62₁ gold ring 62₁ 990 throne
62₁

Type: one-eyed 62₁

Identified with Mercurius 59 63₀ 69 94₁
386₀

In relation to Ziu 62₁

Woodchester, statuette from 98₃ 1214

Xenioi Theoi 1177₂

- Xenokles, the potter 785 789₀
 Xenokrateia, dedication of 182 ff. (pl. x)
 Xenokrates 222
 Xenophilos, the sculptor 1079
 Xerxes
 Personates Zeus 853₁
- Yahwe See Jehovah
 Yggdrasil 305₀
 Yorkshire, Kyklops in folk-tale from 1002 f.
- Zagreus
 Cults: Crete 352 667 Hagia Triada (?)
 522 Mt Ide in Crete 838 934₀ 938₀
 Mt Zagros (?) 980₅
 Rites: 932₁ devoured by Thracian kings 271₀ 667 omophagy 934₀ thunder-making 934₀ cp. 838 f. 852 torches carried over mountain 934₀
 Worshippers: Bakchoi 934₀ Kouretes
 934₀
 Personated by Cretan prince (?) 522
 Kouretes 549
 Myths: 1030 ff. attacked by Titans
 549 1030 f. guarded by Apollon and Kouretes 1030 his heart placed in gypsum image by Zeus 1031 his heart rescued by Athena 1031 his limbs arranged by Apollon 1031 nursed by Nymphs 1030 put together again by Rhea 1032 reborn as Dionysos 1031 resurrection 1032 sits on throne of Zeus 838 1030 slain in bovine form 1030
 Metamorphosed into Zeus, Kronos, babe, youth, lion, horse, horned snake, tiger, bull 1030 cp. 861₅
 Genealogy: s. of Zeus by Phersephone or Kore 1029
 Function: annual rebirth of Zeus 934₀
 938₀
 Etymology: 268₁
 Types: Assyrian 697₀ horned babe
 1029
 Identified with Dionysos 234 1029
 Associated with Zeus 1113₀₍₂₎ (?)
 Compared with Zeus Βροντῶν 852
 In relation to Titans 352 Zeus 522 980₅ — derived from Mesopotamia (Mt Zagros) 938₀ reaches Crete by same route as Aigokeros 938₀ toys of 1030
- Zagros, Mt
 Cult: Zagreus (?) 980₅
- Zakynthos, Gigantes in folk-tale from 505 f. golden crab in folk-tale from 666₃ Kyklops in folk-tale from 994 f.
- Zalmoxis See Salmoxis
 Zalmoxis See Salmoxis
 Zamama 938₀
 Zamis, b. of Rhea 694₀
 Zan 344₀ 353 f.
 Cults: Crete 344 f. Mt Ide in Crete
 934₀ 942₀ Olympia 349 Samos (?)
 354₀
- Zan (cont.)
 Epithet: Μέγας 341₆ 344 f. 842
 Rite: eaten annually by his worshippers in form of a divine bull 354
 Myth: buried in Crete 345
 Genealogy: f. of Minos by Europe 344
 s. of Kronos 940₀
 Functions: an older Zeus 340 ff. sky
 353 f. 842 thunder 341₆ 344
 Type: Ζᾶνες at Olympia 343₀ 349 354
 Identified with Great Ox 354 Jan 341
 344 353 Zeus 220₆ 341₆ 342₀ 345
 942₀
 In relation to Ianus (Ian) 842 Zeus 353
 Superseded by Pan (?) 347 ff. Zeus
 349 f. 842
 Survives as Zanos (Ζᾶνες) in modern
 Crete 353
 — in the plural (Ζᾶνες) 343₀ 349 354 tomb of 341₆ 354 934₀ tower of 178
 354 watch-tower of 354
 See also Zeus
 Zanes, consecrated men despatched to the gods 343₀
 Zanes, plural of Zan 343₀ 349 354
 See also Zan, Zeus
 Zanides, Roman empresses (?) so called 343₀
 Zankle
 Cult: Poseidon 794 f. 850
 Myth: called Δρέπανον after δρέπανον of Kronos 448₀
 — coin of 794 f. 850
 See also Messana
 Zanos 353
 Zaragoza
 Cult: Our Lady del Pilar 1213
 Zas 344₀ 351 f. 353
 See also Zeus
 Zbelsourdos
 Etymology: 822 ff. 824₁ 851
 See also Zeus Epithets Ζβελσοῦρδος
 Zelos 1029
 Zemela See Semele
 Zen 259₀ 293₀ 341 344₀ 582₁ 855₂ See also Zeus
 Zenoposeidon
 Cults: Corinth (?) 878₀₍₃₎ Mylasa 582
 663 846 963₇
 Festival: Tauriphonia (?) 582
 Priest: νεωκόρος 582
 Zephyros
 Cult: Kaulonia (?) 1042
 Myth: Kyparissos 981₁
 Type: horse 830₇
 Zes 344₀ 352₁ See also Zeus
 Zeter See Zioter
 Zetes
 Genealogy: s. of Boreas by Oreithyia,
 d. of Erechtheus 444
 Etymology: 444
 In relation to Zethos 445
 Zethos
 Cult: Antiocheia on the Orontes 428

Zethos (cont.)

Myths: Dirke 1013 1015 1019 Lykos 1019₂

Genealogy: b. of Amphion 317 s. of Zeus by Antiope 1013 s. of Zeus or Epopeus 445

Functions: herdsman 1013 one of the Theban Dioskouroi 1014

Etymology: 445₂

Type: on column 428

In relation to Zetes 445

Zeus

Cults: Abédan in Phoinike 886₍₃₀₎ 983₄ Achaeans 458 Adrianoi in Mysia 127 Aeolians 901₀ Azra 1142₃ (?) Agrigentum 911₀ ff. 1227 Aigai in Aiolis 259₀ Aigai in Makedonia 878₀₍₉₎ 906₂ Aigina 894₃ 895₀ 895₁ Aigion 742 f. 749 826₀ Ainianes 869₀ Mt Ainos 907₂ Mt Aitne 908₁ 909₀ 910₀ Aitne (formerly Katane) 908₁ 909₀ Aixone 730₀ Aizanoi 882₀₍₂₃₎ (?) 965₀ ff. Akarnania 743₇ 1226 Akmoncia 312₅ Akrai in Sicily 915₁ Akraiphia 97₀ 1074 Alaisa (Halaesa) 1158₀ Alban Mt 808₀₍₁₀₎ Alexandria 1158 1187₀ Alopeke 1115 Altyntash in Phrygia 883₀₍₆₎ Mt Alysis (?) 945₁ Amaseia 975₀ f. Amastris 707 848 918₀ 1067 Amathous 598 f. 869₀ Ambrakia 1222 Amorgos 258₃ Anaphe 1066 Anazarbos 980₁ Mt Anchesmos 897₁ Anchialos in Thrace 878₀₍₁₀₎ 949₂ Andros 1156 Ankyra in Galatia 754₁ 835₅ 971₁ Antandros 815 Antigoneia on the Orontes 1188 Antiocheia in Chrysaoris (= Alabanda) 714₂ Antiocheia on the Maiandros 259₀ Antiocheia on the Orontes 428 1178 1186 ff. 1188₁₄ 1196 f. Apameia on the Orontes 1192 Mt Apesas 892₄ Aphrodisias in Karia 585₃ 1220 Arabia (?) 1224 Mt Arachnaion 894₁ Mt Arbios 945₂ 946₀ Ardetos 1135 Mt Argaios 980₀ Mt Argarizon (See Mt Gerizim) Argos 164₅ 164₀ 179 808₀₍₁₄₎ 874₂ 878₀₍₄₎ 892₅ 893₀ 893₁ 1099₀ 1143 f. 1143₅ 1144₂ 1230 Arkadia 760 f. 793 849 Arkesine 1156 1156₁₃ 1157₀ Arslan Apa in Phrygia (?) 883₀₍₆₎ Assos 728₀ 857₀ Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes 922₅ 923₀ 924₀ 925₀ Mt Atabyrion in Sicily 910₁ Athens 20 f. 97₀ 98₀ 111₀ 231₈ 259₀ 729₀ 730₀ 793 815 875₁₍₂₎ 876₁₍₁₎ 897₂ 897₃ 903₀ 976₀ 985₀ 1061 (?) 1065 1078 1091 f. 1100₁ 1103 f. 1114 ff. 1121 ff. 1135₄ 1147 1149 1151 1161 ff. 1169 1229 Mt Athos 906₁ Attaleia in Pamphylia 111₀ Attike 291₂ 1069 (?) Attouda 743₇ Axos 816₄ Babylon 128₄ 675 714₁ Bejad in Phrygia 292₄ Benyuk Evlia near Amascia 974₁ ff. Bithy nia 271₀ 292₄ 815 835₅ 1180₁ Blaudos in Mysia 284₀ Boiotia 238₀ 731₀ 873₂ 875₁₍₁₎ 900₁ Bosporos 707 Bosporos Kimmerios 729₀ Böttia on the Orontes 1187₄ Bouthroton (Bouthrotos) 348 Bruttii 709 Bunarbashi in Phrygia 835₄ Byblos 887₀₍₆₎ 983₆ Celts (See Keltioi) Chaironeia (sceptre of Zeus) 547₂ Chalkis 1098₇ Chalkis in Euboia 1157 Chalkis sub Libano 981₀ Chersonesos Taurike 729₀ Chios 922₄ 1157₁ Corinth 869₁ 878₀₍₃₎ 892₃ 916₀ Crete 230 344 f. 352 354 599 697₀ 727 743₇ 925 ff. 1169₅ 1187₄ (?) Damaskos 807₅₍₂₎ 886₀₍₆₎ Daphne, near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1191 Delos 259₀ 907₀ (?) 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ 985₀ 1095₀ 1096₀ 1105 1217 Delphoi 179 f. 231 ff. 244 816 841 901₂ 902₀ Demotionidai 728₀ Denderah 97₀ Didyma near Miletos 317 317₂ 318₀ Mt Dikte 927₁ 928₀ 929₀ Diokaisareia in Kilikia (?) 810 Dion in Makedonia 1111 Dionysopolis in Phrygia 285 Divlit near Koloë 975₀ Dodona 214 350 350₀ 353 693₃ 763₁ 826 855₂ 960₀ Doliche 745₁ Dorylaeion 280 f. 280₁ 292₄ 835₁ 836 Dreros 948₁ Mt Drios 918₁ Ebimi near Amaseia 976₀ Egypt 1023 Elaia in Aiolis 955₀ Mt Elakataion in Thessaly 397₀ Elasson in Thessaly 808₀₍₁₃₎ Elis 728₀ 783 Emathia, hill at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1187 f. Ephesos 728₀ 743₇ 962₂ Epidauros 894₂ 1061 1066 1076 f. 1144₃ (?) 1157₀ 1177 f. Eresos 729₀ Eretria 901₀ Erythrai in Ionia 730₀ 1157₀ Essir-keui in Bithynia 835₃ Eumeneia in Phrygia 970₀ Euromos 572₇ 573₄ 574 f. 589₀ (?) 1220 Galaria or Galarina 1131₁ Galatia 835₅ Mt Gargaron (Gargara) 950₀ ff. Gaza 675 1187₀ Genetaean headland 616 f. 1097₀ Cape Gerastos (?) 903 Mt Gerizim 887₀₍₃₀₎ 888₀₍₆₎ 983₀ Ghel-Ghiraz near Amaseia 976₀ Golgoi (?) 948₀₍₆₎ Gomphei 871₃₍₂₎ 1099₀ Gortyna 723₀ 731₀ 947₀₍₂₎ (?) Graeco-Libyans 1111 Gūmbet in Phrygia 835₄ Günjarik in Phrygia 835₄ Gythion 31 259₀ Hagia Triada 947₀₍₁₎ Halikarnassos 585₃ 872₀₍₅₎ 963₃ 1228 Halos 904₁ 1226 Heleia 930₀ 931₀ 932₀ Mt Helikon 898₅ Hephaestia in Lemnos 878₀₍₇₎ (?) Herakleia ad Latnum 585₃ Herakleia Pontike 976₀ Hermione 100₀ 1061 1077 Hierapolis in Phrygia 570 571₀ Hierapytna 342₀ 723₀ 929₀ cp. 930₀ 1157₄ Mt Homole (Homolos) (?) 904₄ Homolion 1227 Mt Homoloion near Thebes in Boiotia (?) 900, Hydissos 705 f. Mt Hymettos 873, 897, 1226 Mt Hynnaron 987, Mt Hypatos 875₍₁₎ 898, Iasos 879₍₁₇₎ 963, Mt Ide in Crete 549 838 932, ff. 941, 980, Mt Ide in Phrygia 855, 950 ff. Iki kilisse in Galatia 835, Ilion 950, f. Imbros 878₍₈₎ 922, Inessa (?) 908, Inhissar in Phrygia 835, Inönü in Phrygia 249, 835, 836 ff. 1226 Ione 1186 f. Itanos 929, ep. 930, 1130, Mt Ithome 741 ff. 890, 1222 Jerusalem 984, Kalaureia 728, Kalchedon 259, Kalymna 808₍₁₁₎ Mt Kamares (?) 935, Kanai (Kane) 902, Kappadokia 594, 595, 616 Karia 559 f. 572 ff. 705 729, 745, 763, Karien near Mt Pangaion 1066 Karousa 1092, Mt Kasion in Egypt 907, 984, f. Mt Kasion in Syria 907, 981, ff. 1191 f. Kassiope 906, 907, Katane (See Aitne) Keltioi 111, 570, Mt Kenaion 902, Kephallenia 907, Keramos 599, Kerdylion 878₍₉₎ (?) 906, Kibyra 771 Kierion 743, Kilikia 380 Kios 815, Mt Kithairon 581 898, Kition in Kypros 807₍₁₎ (?) 807₍₄₎ Klaros 873, Knidos 729, 1157 Knossos (?) 948₍₃₎, Mt Kokkygion 893, Koloë in Lydia 285, 1067 Kolonos 1152, (?) 1154 f. Korkyra 675 f. 730, 879₍₁₂₎ 907, Kos 238, 1095, Kotiaëion 835, Koujounlou in Bithynia 835, Mt Kounados 918, Krannon 833 Kurshumlu in Phrygia 839 Kurtköi in Phrygia 835, Kyaneai 101, Kymak in Phrygia 835, Mt Kynthos 919, 920, 921, 922, Kypros 444, 599, (?) 874, 1099, 1102, Kyrene 259, 1177, Kyrros 15 f. 745, 983, Kys 97, Kyzikos 743, 833 ff. 852 881₍₂₁₎ 882₍₀₎ 953, Labranda 576 f. 585 ff. 594 597 713 722 976, Lagina 879₍₁₇₎ 963, Laodikeia Katakekoumene 817 Laodikeia on the Lykos 319 f. 319, 745, 1186 Laodikeia on the sea 1192 Lapersai 1069 Mt Laphystion in Boiotia 899, Larisa at Argos 892, 893, Larisa on Mt Messogis 957, f. Larissa in Thessaly 1155 f. Lebadeia 233, 899, 900, 1061 1073 ff. Leuktron or Leuktra in Lakonike 891, Mt Libanos 983, Lindos 923, 925, Lucania 709 Lydia 312, 577 807₍₆₎ 872₍₅₎ 1228 Mt Lykaion 423 761 891, Lykaonia 835, Lykia 972, Lykoreia 901, Mt Lykoreion 901, 902, Lyttos 723, 934, 948₍₄₎ (?) Magnesia ad Maeandrum 873₍₇₎ 963, Magnesia ad Sipyllum 729, 957, Magnesia in Thessaly 730, 871₍₁₎ Maionia 745, Makedonia 878₍₀₎ Cape Malea (Maleai) 488₍₀₎ 890, Mantinea 12 f. 259, 321, 807 Marathon 875₍₁₃₎ 898, Mastaura 587 Megalopolis 1178 f. 1183 Megara 179 257, 895, 896, 897, 1138, 1139, Melos 16 f. 808₍₁₂₎ Messene 728, 741 ff. 1223 Methydrion 290, Miletos 317, 879₍₁₇₎ 962, 963, 1228 Mopsion (?) in Pelasgiotis 496, mountains 868 ff. Mykonos 253, 1105 Mylasa 559, 574 576 ff. 663 879₍₁₇₎ 963, 1220 Myndos 872₍₀₎ 963, Myrmidones 894, Myrrhinous 730, Mysia 577 Mytilene 97, 259, 873₍₁₀₎ (?) 882₍₂₂₎ 922, Naïssos 875, 948, (?) Nakoleia 292, 570 835, 836, 836, Nauplia 32 Naxos 918, Neapolis in Karia 260, Neaule (= Nea Aule) 285, Nemroud Dagh 980, Netteia 925, 1096, (?) Nicopolis on the Danube 808₍₀₎ Nikaia in Bithynia 815, 918, 1099, 1100, Nisyros 1157, Mt Oche 902, Ogur (Ogut) in Galatia 835, Mt Oite 903, Olenos in Aitolia 933, Olous 948, Olympia 21 231, 349 706 722 726 f. 757 ff. 758, 761 783 808₍₁₅₎ 849 878₍₆₎ 891, 916, 947, 955, 1078 1100, 1222 1224 Mt Olympos in Elis (?) 891, Olympos in Lykia 972, Mt Olympos in Makedonia 904, 1227 Mt Olympos in Mysia 953, Orchemenos in Boiotia 873, 898, 1149 1150 1151 Ormelle 1067 Oropos 232 1061 1070 ff. Mt Ossa (?) 904, Palmyra 807₍₁₎ 885₍₂₉₎ 886₍₀₎ 983, Panamara 587 879₍₁₇₎ 963, 1066 Panionion 259, Panormos near Kyzikos 881₍₂₁₎ 882₍₀₎ Mt Pantokrator (?) 907, Paphlagonia 729, Mt Parnassos 901, 902, Mt Parnes 4 873, 897, 898, Paros 19 f. 131 259, 875₍₅₎ 918, Passaron 706 Patara 921, Pautalia 743, Peiraiëus 585, 1065 f. 1104 ff. 1117 1142 1173 ff. Mt Pelinnaion 922, Mt Pelion 869, 870, 871, 871₍₁₎ 904, Pella in Makedonia 1187, Pelousion 985, ff. Pergamon 110, 259, 287 287, 729, 808₍₈₎ 882₍₀₎ (?) 954, ff. 1061 1067 1077 f. 1178 1179 ff. 1184 Perinthos 773, 874, 949, Persia 33 Petelia 708 f. Phaistos 946, 947, Phaselis 729, Philadelpheia in Lydia 285, 869, 957, 960, 1217 f. 1228 f. Philai 97, Phlious 1106 f. Phlyeis 1066 Phoinike 868, Phokis 731, Phrygia 282 ff. 292, 295, 322 569 807₍₅₎ 835 ff. 842 852 883₍₀₎ 964 ff. Mt Pindos 871₍₃₎ 904, Pisidia 287 Parasa 573 Plataiai 238, 763, Pontos 974, ff. Praisos 731, 871₍₃₎ 930, Priansos 723, 934, Priene 808₍₇₎ Pronnoi 907, Prostanta

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

973₀ Prousa ad Olympum 292₄ 964₂
 Prynnessos 835₄ Rhodes 615 922₅ 923₀ 924₀ 925₀ 946₀ Rhodes the town 924₀ 925₀ Rome 724₀ 808₀₍₁₇₎
 835₆ 876₀₍₆₎ Salamis 110₉ Sardeis
 1227 f. Seleukeia Pieria 807₅₍₃₎ 809
 869₁ 981₁ f. 983₃ 1192 1225 Selge
 492₀₍₁₀₎ Selinous 489₀₍₁₀₎ Selymbria 878₀₍₁₀₎ (?) Serdike 744₀ Serea in Phrygia 883₀₍₁₀₎ Sicily 808₀₍₁₈₎ 812 ff.
 Sikyon 97₀ 1144 ff. Sillyon 572₁₁ (?)
 Mt Silpion 1186 f. 1188₁₄ (?) Sinope
 1171₃ Siphnos 897₃ 1180₄ Mt Sipylos 876₀₍₈₎ 956₂ (?) Skepsis 951₀
 Skiathos 878₀₍₆₎ 922₂ Skythia 292₄
 925₀ Smyrna 280₁ 319 729₀ 873₀₍₈₎
 962₁ Mt Solymos 973₁ f. Sparta 98₀
 110₀ 259₀ 261₀ 321₁ 436 728₀ 729₀
 739₁ 875₁₍₄₎ 890₂ 890₃ 948₁ 1061
 1069 1096₁ 1101₃ Stelai in Crete
 731₀ Stratonikeia 585₂ (cp. 586₃)
 714 ff. 714₃ 963₉ Suwasa in Kappa-dokia 594 f. Sybrita 731₀ Syracuse
 708 763₁ 915₂ 916₀ 917₀ 918₀ Syria
 745₁ 807₃₍₂₎ (?) 886₀₍₁₀₎ Syros 1066
 Tabai 743₇ Cape Tainaros (?) 890₅
 Tallala in Rhodē (?) 948₁ Tarantos in Bithynia 32₃ Tarentum 29 ff. 45 131
 161 559 762 ff. 763₁ 1064 Tavium
 754₁ Tegea 807 815 850 873₂ 892₁
 1147 ff. Temnos 873₀₍₉₎ 956₁ Tene-dos (?) 662 Teos 1066 Thermessos (Thermessus Maior) 321₁ 973₁ f. the tetrapolis of Marathon (See Marathon) Thalamai 17 f. 31 Thasos
 808₀₍₁₀₎ Thebes in Boiotia 878₀₍₂₎
 898₃ 900₁ Thebes in Egypt 960₀
 Thera 17 817 1066 1095₀ 1156 Thermos in Aitolia 729₀ Thespia 599₂
 1061 1066 1151 Thessaly 873₂
 876₀₍₇₎ (?) 899₁ 900₁ 902₀ Thrace
 230 (?) 282 817 ff. 833 851 1225
 Thracio-Phrygians 1111 Thyateira
 808₀₍₁₀₎ 1184 f. Mt Tmolos 957₂
 Tralleis 958₀ ff. Trapezous in Ark-kadia 871₃₍₃₎ 892₂ Troy 8 950₀
 Tyana 569 722₅ Tyndaris 917₁ 918₀
 Tyre 424₀ Venasa 616 Mt Viarus (?)
 973₀

Epithets: 'Αβοξήνρος 570 'Αγαμέμνων
 1061 1069 f. 1112 'Αγαμήδης (?) 233₀
 1075 'Αγιος 1092₈ ἀγκυλομήτης 549₇
 ἀγρός 1122₉ 'Αγοραῖος 51₁ 260₀ 929₀
 1177₂ 'Αγνιεύς 165 'Αγχεύμιος 897₄
 'Αέριος 808₀₍₁₀₎ 'Αθῶς 906₁ αἰγολοχος
 830₇ Αθέριος 727₃₍₃₎ Αίνηςιος 907₂
 Αἰτιαῖος 908₁ 909₀ ἀκαμάτου πυρός ὀρχή 1027 ἀκοντιστήρ κερανού 705₃
 'Ακραῖος 319 730₀ 869 871₃ 872₀ 873₀
 892₂ 904₂ 904₅ 915₁ 922₃ 956₁ 962₁ 963₁ 963₃ 963₄ ἀκρολοφίτας (See also Λοφέλιτης, 'Επιλόφιος) 343₀ 'Ακταῖος
 899 904₂ ἀλάστωρος 1098 ἀλάστωρ
 1098 1101 'Αλδήμιος or 'Αλδος 675

Zeus (cont.)

1187₀ ἀληθής Ζεὺς ὁ κεράστης (= Pan)
 1023 'Αλσειος (?) 945₁ 'Αλύσιος (?)
 945₁ 'Αμβούλιος 261₀ ἀμβροτος (ἀφθιτος) νύμφη 1027 f. 'Αμυρος 388 986₀
 1136₄ 'Αμφιάρως 232 794 1061
 1070 ff. 1076 1112 ἀμφιθαλής 1072 ἀναδωδωναῖος (sic) 855₂ 'Αναδῶτης 321₁ 1157₀ ἀναξ 855₂ 950₀ 956₂ 960₀ ἀναξ ἀνάκτων 337₄ 'Απεσάντιος 892₄
 'Απέσας 892₄ 'Απήμιος 897₆ 898₀
 'Απόμνιος 781 ff. 850 'Αποτρόπαιος
 1157₀ ἀποτρόπαιος 1099₁ 'Αρβιος 945₂
 946₀ 'Αργαῖος (?) 980₀ ἀργής 980₀ ἀργικέρανος 806₈ 858 1027 f. 'Αρειος 705 ff. 848 ἀριστοτέχνης 693₃ 'Αρειος 918₁ 'Αρσηλῆς (?) 559₆ ἄρσην 1027 f. ἀρχή 1033₁ ἀρχὸς ἀπάντων ἀργικέ-ραννος 1027 'Ασβαμαῖος 569 'Αρεῖς
 321₀ ἀσελγής 348₂ 'Ασκληπιός 1077
 'Ασκληπιός 794 1061 1076 ff. 1112
 'Ασκληπιός Σωτήρ 1076 f. 'Ασκραῖος
 872₀₍₅₎ 'Αστέριος 230 ἀστεροπητής
 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 806₈ 954₀ 1177₂ 'Αστρα-παῖος 815 850 'Αστράπιος 1122
 ἀστράπιος 806₈ 815₄ 1100₁ 'Αστράπ-των 817₂ 817₃ 850 ἀστράπτων 817₃
 'Αταβύριος in Rhodes 922₅ 923₀
 924₀ 925₀ Ataburius 588₁ αἰζητής
 1100₁ αὐτὸς ἀπάντων ἀρχιγένηθος
 1028 'Αφείσιος 179 266 f. (?) 841 892₄
 895₁ 896₀ 897₀ 1144₂ ἀφίκτωρ 1096₂
 1098 1101 Βαγαῖος 294₀ (?) 295₂ 569
 Βάκχος 287 954₀ 1184 Βάληος 271₀
 βαρύγδουπος 204₁ Βασιλεύς 727₃₍₁₁₎
 730₀ 731₀ 869₁ 899₂ 900₀ 1073 f.
 1076 1135 1135₄ (?) βασιλεύς 954₀
 1027 f. 1095₉ βασιλεύς μέγιστος (= Ψε-βασιλικός 879₀₍₁₇₎ Βελγάνος (?) 1122₉
 βελγάνος 948₀₍₄₎ Βεννεῖος 883₀₍₁₀₎ 969₃
 Βέννιος 883₀₍₁₀₎ 969₃ Βῆλος 128₄ 210₂
 675 Βιδάτας 723₀ 934₀ Βοζῖος (Βωζῖος)
 570 Βόλλαιος 259₀ Βόρειος 380 Βορτιαῖος 1187 f. Βουλαῖος 259₀ 260₀
 317₂ 824₄ 824₈ 873₀₍₁₀₎ 897₃ 1076
 1177₂ Βουλεύς 258₃ 1105 Βρονταῖος
 833 ff. 852 882₀₍₁₀₎ 1100₁ 1177₂ Βρον-τήσιος (= Iupiter Tonans) 111₀ 835₈
 βροντοποιός 807₂ Βροντῶν 280₁ 805₈
 835 f. 838 f. 852 883₀₍₁₀₎ Βροντῶν
 (= Iupiter Tonans) 835₈ Βροντῶν καὶ
 'Αστράπτων 817 Βροντῶν καὶ Πατῆρ
 Θεός 836₂ Βροντῶν Νεικήτωρ Πατῆρ
 836₂ Βωζῖος (Βοζῖος) 570 Βώττιος
 1187₄ 1188 Γαιβόλος (?) 18₃ Casius
 588₁ γενέτης (sc. Διονύσου) 616₄ γενέτωρ 1177₂ Γενηταῖος 616 Γεγαντοφόδος 449₀ Γογγυλάτης 260₀ 824₄
 824₇ Γοναῖος (?) 961₀ Δάης (?) 312₅ δαίμων 856 Δακηνός 616 Δακῆς (?) 616₁ Δάκιος (?) 616₁ Δρος 312₅ Δει-πάτωρος (See Δειπάτωρ) Δειδυμαῖος 317 Δειδύμων γενάρχης 317₂ Δικαιόσσνος 1092₃ Δικαιοσύνος Μέγας 1092₃ δικηφόρος 806₁ Δικταῖος 342₀ 723₀

Zeus (cont.)

731₀ 871₃₍₄₎ 927₁ 929₀ 930₀ 931₀
 1227 Δινδυμαῖος (?) 317₁ (See Διδυμαῖος) Διόνυσος 282 Δίος (rather than Διός) 280 f. 836 842 Δελιχαῖος 614-745₁ Δουσάρης 317₂ Δωδωναῖος 693₃ 855₂ 960₀ 1121₀ Δωδωναῖος (=Hadrian) 959₀ Δωτήρ (?) 321₁ δῶτορ ἀπημονίης 321₁ δῶτορ ἑάων 321₁ ἐγχειέρανος 704 Εἰδαῖος (See Ἰδαῖος) εἰς δαίμων 1028 Ἐκτωρ 8₇ ἐλασιβρόντης 830₂ ἐλατήρ ὑπερτατε βροντᾶς ἀκαμαντόποδος 94₂ 830₄ Ἐλάφριος 599₇ Ἐλαφρός 599 Ἐλευθέριος 97₀ 118₁ 238₀ 343₀ 344₀ 763₁ 974₀ 1096₁ 1135₄ 1158₆ Ἐλικάνος 898₅ Ἐλλάμιος 984₃ Ἐλλήμιος 887₀₍₃₁₎ 895₀ 983₉ Ἐλχάνος (?) = Φελχάνος 948₀₍₃₎ Ἐμβατήριος (=Trajan) 100₆ 1180₄ ἐνάλιος 878₀₍₃₎ (?) 893₀ ἐν δέμας βασιλείων 1028 Ἐνδένδρος 946₀ ἐν κράτος 1028 ἐξακέσας (?) 1095₄ Ἐξακεστήρ 1093₁ Ἐξακεστήριος 1093₁ ἐξ Αὐλῆς 249₂ 836 f. 1226 ἐξ Αὐλῆς Ἐπήκοος Θεός 837₁ Ἐπάκριος 873 Ἐπερνύτιος (See Ἐπιρνύτιος) Ἐπήκοος 249₂ 837₁ 885₀₍₂₉₎ 886₀₍₁₀₎ 880₀₍₃₀₎ 983₂ 983₄ Ἐπήκοος Βροντῶν 835₆ 836 Ἐπιβήμιος 897₃ 1180₄ Ἐπιδήμιος 1180₄ Ἐπιδότης (?) 321 Ἐπιδῶτας 321₁ Ἐπιδῶτης (Ἐπιδότης) 321₁ Ἐπικάρπιος 260₀ 1065 1177₂ 1186 Ἐπιλόφιος (?) 875₀ 948₄ Ἐπιρνύτιος 946₀ Ἐπιστάσιος (=Jupiter Stator) 708₅ Ἐπίστιος 311₈ (See also Ἐφέστιος) Ἐπιτέλειος Φίλιος 1163 1169 ἐπιτιμήτωρ ἱκετῶν τε ξέλων τε 1097₀ Ἐπόπτης 878₀₍₁₀₎ (?) cp. 889₀₍₁₃₎ 949₂ (?) Ἐπόπιος 697 1121 1123 1130 f. 1130₃ 1130₇ 1159 ἐπόπιος 1130₄ 1130₅ Ἐρεχθεύς 793 1146 ἐρίγδουπος 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 1099₂ 1177₂ ἐρίγδουπος πόσις Ἥρης 584₁ 728₀ ἐρισμάρατος 954₀ 1122₀ Ἐρκείος 723₀ 728₀ 730₀ 808₀₍₁₅₎ 893₀ Ἐρκείος Πατρῶος 1066 Ἐταιρείος (Ἐταιρείος) 1175₄ 1176₄ 1177₁ ἔταιρείος (ἔταιρείος) 260₀ 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 1177₂ Ἐταιρήσιος 311₈ (See also Ἐταιρείος) Εὐαγγέλιος 956₀ Εὐβουλεύς 119₀ 131 258₃ 259₀ 1076 1105 Εὐβουλος (?) 1076 Εὐβουλεύς 259₀ Εὐεργέτης τῆς πόλεως 579₀₍₁₃₎ (?) Εὐκλείος 118₃ Εὐμένης (=Eumenes i) 960₀ 1229 Εὐμένης (=Hadrian) 959₀ f. Εὐξείνος 617 1097₀ εὐρύ ἀνάσσω 271₀ εὐρυνέδων 1069 εὐρυνεφής 902₂ εὐρύοπα 1089 Εὐρωμέυς (?) 589₀ Εὐνυπτος 231 f. Ἐφέστιος 1176₄ ἐφέστιος 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 1177₂ Ἐφόρκιος 723₀ Ἐφόρος 1130₁ Φαλκάνος (?) or Φαλχάνος (?) = Φελχάνος 948₀₍₁₅₎ Φελχάνος (?) 947₀₍₁₂₎ Φελχάνος or Φελχάνος 599₇ 947₀ Φενχάνος 947₀₍₁₎ Ζάλμοξις (?) 230 822 Ζηλοθύριος 819 Ζηλοθύριος 817 ff.

Zeus (cont.)

822₂ 833 851 Ζηλοθύριος ὁ Κύριος 1225 (See also Κύριος Ζηλοθύριος and Κύριος Θεός Προγονικός Ζηλοθύριος) Ζηλοθύριος (?) 818₂₍₁₎ Ζηροθύριος 820₃ 821 Zberturdus 822₄ Ζητήρ 444₇ 1102₃ Ζηβελείτις (?) 822 *Ζηβελειοθύριος (?) 822 Ζηβελειοθύριος 822₂ Ζηλοθύριος 822₃ ζῶων ἐκ ζῶων 1028 f. Ἥλακαταῖος 397₀ Ἥλακατεὺς 397₀ 1219 Ἥλιοδρόμος 312₅ ἥλιος ἠδὲ σελήνη 1027 Θεῖος 879₀₍₁₇₎ Θεός 958₀ θεός ἐκ θεῶν 1028 f. Θεός Ἐπήκοος Βροντῶν 835₆ 836 Θεός Μέγας Βροντῶν 835₆ 836 θεὸν βασιλῆα καὶ ἀνδρῶν 1070 Θεῶν τὸν ἄριστον... ἠδὲ μέγιστον 1089 Θωβαίετις 210₂ Θουέστης (?) 1022 Ἰδαῖος 321₁ (?) Ἰδαῖος in Crete 549 838 932₁ ff. 980₅ Ἰδαῖος in Phrygia 950₀ ff. Ἰδηθεν μέδων 728₀ 855₂ 950₀ Ἰθωμάτας 728₀ 741 743 890₆ 1222 Ἰκέσιος 321₁ (?) 1093 1093₁ 1095₀ 1096₀ (?) 1097₀ 1098₄ 1101 1176₄ 1177₁ ἱκέσιος 1097 1097₁ Ἰκέτας 1096 1101 ἱκετήσιος 1040 f. 1097 1101 ἱκεταῖος (?) 1098 1101 ἱκτήρ 1098 1101 ἱκτιος (?) 1098₁ Καβάτας 17 f. 31 Καθάρσιος 311₈ 1093₁ 1095₀ 1097₂ 1099 f. 1103₇ Καναῖος 902₂ Καπετώλιος 879₀₍₁₇₎ 941₀ 1066 1188₁₄ Καπετώλιος (=Κορυφαῖος) 869₁ Καραῖς 873 893₄ Καραῖς 1226 Κάρσιος 577 591₁ 598₁ 873₂ καρπῶν τροφεὺς 1074 Κάσιος 941₀ Κάσιος in Egypt 984₄ ff. Κάσιος at Epidaurus 894₂ Κάσιος (Κάσιος) in Korkyra 906₃ 907₀ (See also Iupiter Casius (Cassius)) Κάσιος (Κάσιος) in Syria 810₀ (?) 982₀ 983₀ 1191 f. Κάσι(ο)s Σῶξ[ων] 987₀ Κάσις (See Κάσι(ο)s) Καταιβάτας 16 f. Καταιβάτης 13 ff. 45 131 161 502₂ 559 745₁ 793 840 845 869₁ 962₀ 983₁ 1075 καταχθόνιος 582₄ 893₀ Κατεβάτης (=Καταιβάτης) 16₁ κελαινεφής 858 950₀ 982₀ κεράστης (=Pan) 1023 κεραινεγχής 704 κεραινέιος 9₅ 806₈ 807₄ Κεραινέιος 428 807 ff. 850 941₀ 956₀ 983₀ 1100₁ 1187 1225 1228 Κεραινέιος Σωτήρ 962₀ Κεραινοβόλος 807₅ 805 κεραινοβόλος 807₂ κεραινοβρόντης 806₃ Κεραινός 11 ff. 807 814 840 850 κεφαλή 1027 f. Κήριος (Κηραιός) 902₂ 903₀ Κιθαιρώνιος 898₆ Κλάριος 807₂ 873₂ 892₁ 1148 f. Κλάριος 873₂ Κλύμενος (?) 1075 κοίρανος ἀθανάτων 982₀ Κόνιος (not Κρόνιος, nor Κώνιος, nor Σκότιος, nor Χρόνιος) 257₄ 1139₀ Κορυφαῖος 285₀ 868 f. 869₁ 957₁ 983₃ 1218 f. (See also Καπετώλιος) κορυφαῖος τῆς τῶν ἄστρον περιφορᾶς καὶ διηγήσεως καὶ χορείας καὶ δρόμων 869₁ κουρίζων 928₀ κοῖρος 928₀ (See also Μέγιστε Κούρε...Κρόνιε) Κράγιος 972₀ Κραταιβάτης 32 1211 κρείων 1089 Κρατα-

Zeus (cont.)

γενής 238_c 587 675 731₀ Κρονίδης 204₁ 321₁ 954₀ 1095₀ Κρόνιος (See Μέγιστε Κοῦρε... Κρόνιε) Κρονίων 734₃ 831₀ 950₀ 956₂ 1028 1099₂ 1219 Κρόνου παῖς 908₁ Κρόνου υἱός 957₂ Κρεβάτης (= Καταβάτης) 16₁ Κτήσιος 3₀ 321 384₀ 1054 ff. 1112 1140 κύδιμε δαῖμον 957₂ κύδιστ' ἀθανάτων 855 κύδιστος 728₀ 950₀ Κύνθιος 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ Κύριος Ζβελσοῦρδος 1225 Κύριος Θεός Προγονικός Ζβελσοῦρδος 1225 Κώμνος 1228 Λαβραδεύς 559 f. 572 Λαβράνιος 598 f. Λαβραῦνδῆς 1228 Λαβραῦνδιος 962₀ Λαβράνδος (Λαμβράνδος, Λαβραῦνδος, Λαβραῦνδος (?), Λαβραῖνδος, Λαβραῖνδος (?), Λαβρανδῆς, Λαβρανδῆς, Λαβρανδῆς) 576 f. 585 ff. 585₃ 597 ff. 598₁ 614 663 846 848 884_{0(a)} 963₇ 1220 1228 Λαβρένδιος 962₀ Labrios (?) 599₅ Labryandius 588₁ Λακεδαίμων 436 Laodicensis (?) 320₀ Laodicenus (?) 320₀ Λαοδικεύς (?) 320₀ Λαοδικηνός (?) 320₀ Λαπέρσιος 599 Larpius 588₁ 599 Λαράσιος 958₀ ff. 962₀ Λαράσιος Σεβαστός Εὐμενής (= Hadriani) 959₀ f. Λαριασίος 892₅ 958₀ 1144₂ Λαρίσιος 957₃ f. Λαρισσεύς 893₀ 1144₂ Λατάρσιος 941₀ Λάφριος (?) 599 Λαφύστιος in Boiotia 899₁ Λαφύστιος in Thessaly 904₁ 1226 Λέψινος 962₀ Λῆθος (= Iupiter Laris) 546₀ Λιμενοσκόπος 343₀ Λιταῖος 1099 1100₀ Λοφέτης 873 f. 949₃ Λύκαιος 187 761 849 891₃ 927₁ 1013 1092 1105 1167 Λυκάρσιος 901₂ 902₀ Μαζεύς (?) 294₀ 570₀ μάκαρα 954₀ 955₀ μακάρων μακάρτατε 337₄ Μαλειαῖος 488_{0(a)} 890₄ Μάνης 312 312₅ μαντικός 1097₂ μεγαβρόντης 727₃₍₁₁₎ Μέγας 344 f. 350₁ μέγας 295₂ 298₂ 321₁ 342₀ 569₇ 727₃₍₃₎ 925₁ 940₀ 1099₂ 1122₀ 1130₁ 1160 1160₄ μέγας ἀρχός ἀπάντων 1028 μέγας βοῦς 345₄ Μέγας Βροντῶν 835₈ 836 μεγασθενής 693₃ Μέγιστος 585₃ Μέγιστε Κοῦρε... Κρόνιε 931₀ Μέγιστος 807₂ 885₀₍₂₉₎ 956₀ 983₂ 985₁ (?) 1157₅ (?) (See also Μέγιστε Κοῦρε... Κρόνιε) μέγιστος 728₀ 950₀ Μέγιστος Κεραύνιος 807₅₍₁₁₎ Μέγιστος Σωτήρ 956₀ Μέγιστος Ἐψίστος 886_{0(a)} 983₂ Μελίχιος 291₂ 321 (?) 715 1037 1061 1091 ff. 1154 1155 1156 ff. 1159 f. 1161 1173 ff. 1177₂ Μελίχιος 1149 1160 μείλιχος 1092₃ Μεληνός 280₁ Μεμισαῖος 928₀ 1112₆ Μελῆχιος (= Μελίχιος) 1147 1149 μέσσα 1027 f. 1033₁ Μηθεύς (Μηθινεύς) 312₅ Μήλιος 918₁ Μηλῆχιος (= Μελίχιος) 1156 1157₄ Μηλώσιος 918₁ μητίετα 1025 1147 μητιέτης 259₀ μητιέεις 716 721₃ 1017 1147 Μητιῶν (?) 1146 Μηχανεύς 1144₂

Zeus (cont.)

Μελίχιος (= Μελίχιος) 1105 1108 1115 1142 1144₂ (?) 1157₁ Μελίχιος (= Μελίχιος) 1151 Μοιραγέτας 231₅ Μοιραγέτης 187₁ 231 1137₀ Molio 588₁ Μοννίτιος 723₀ Μόριος 20₄ 502₂ Μυλεύς 260₀ 824₄ 824₉ Νάσιος 350₆ 763₁ 826 869₀ 1117 (?) Νάκρασος (?) 714₃ Νεανλείτης 285₀ 1217 f. Νεικήτωρ 836₃ Νέμειος 259₀ 1143₅ 1186 1187₀ νεφεληγερέτα 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 950₀ 1177₂ Νικηφόρος (Νεικηφόρος) Κεραύνιος 1225 νόμιος μέτα πάντα κυβερνῶν 855 Νόσιος 317₂ Νωδαῖος (?) 932₁ ξένιος 1097₂ ξένιος, ὅς ξένιος ἐν αἰ' αἰδοῖσιον ὀπηδεῖ 1097₀ 1101 Ξένιος 260₀ 617 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 887₀₍₃₁₎ 983₉ 1097₂ 1101 1102₀ 1102₇ 1142 1169₅ 1176₄ 1177₂ 1229 Ξένιος καὶ Φίλιος 1177₂ οἰκοφύλαξ ὄσων ἀνδρῶν 1125₀ δλβιος 337₄ 955₀ ὀλοπίσιος 1030 Ὀλύβριος οἱ Ὀλύβρις 980₁ Ὀλύμπιος 343₀ 695₀ 723₀ 727₃₍₂₎ 941₀ 1074 1157₀ Ὀλύμπιος at Akragas 911₀ Ὀλύμπιος at Athens 1078 1118 1121₀ 1123 Ὀλύμπιος in Bithynia 815₅ Ὀλύμπιος in Chios 1157₁ Ὀλύμπιος at Corinth 916₀ Ὀλύμπιος at Daphne, near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1191 Ὀλύμπιος at Elis 728₀ Ὀλύμπιος at Ephesos 962₂ Ὀλύμπιος in Lykia 972₁ Ὀλύμπιος in Mysia 953₂ Ὀλύμπιος at Olympia 18 758₀ 761 1188 Ὀλύμπιος at Pergamon 956₀ Ὀλύμπιος at Prousa ad Olympum 964₂ Ὀλύμπιος at Seleukeia Pieria 869₁ Ὀλύμπιος at Syracuse 915₂ 916₀ 917₀ Ὀλύμπιος (= Hadrian) 959₀ Ὀλύμπιος Πεισαῖος 962₀ Ὀμβριος 897₅ 897₈ 898₀ 1226 Ὀμοβοῦλιος 962₀ Ὀμόγριος 1176₃ 1176₄ 1177₂ ὀμόγριος 723₀ 1177₂ Ὀμολώσιος 857₆ 900₁ 901₀ 904₄ 1227 Ὀμολώσιος 857₆ Ὀμονώσιος 857₆ Ὀμόριος (?) 1090 ὁ πᾶς κόσμος 1028 f. Ὀπλόσιος 290₀ Ὀπωρεῖος 1074 Ὀράτριος (= Φράτριος) 342₀ 723₀ Ὀρειος 868 Ὀρέστης (?) 1179 1183₃ Ὀρθώσιος (= Iupiter Stator) 422₁ 708₅ Ὀριος (= Iupiter Terminus or Terminalis) 1090 Ὀρkiος 569₄ 722 722₅ 726 f. 727₃₍₁₎ 1176₄ 1177₂ ὄρkiος 723₀ Ὀρομπάτας 869₀ Ὀσογῶα 578₄₍₃₎ 579₀₍₃₎ (10-12(14-16)(1-5) 580₀₍₇₎ 598₁ 616₁ 663 715 790₀ 846 963₇ 1220 Ὀσογῶα Ζηνοποσειδῶν (Ζανοποσειδῶν) 578₄₍₂₎₍₄₎ Ὀσογῶα Σωτήρ καὶ Ἐνεργέτης τῆς πόλεως 579₀₍₁₃₎ (?) Ὀσογῶα Zeus Ζηνοποσειδῶν 578₄₍₃₎₍₅₋₇₎ 579₀₍₉₎ Ὀσογῶσιος (?) οἱ Ὀσογῶσιος (?) 579₀₍₁₁₎₍₁₎ Ὀσσαῖος 904₃ ὁ τὰ περὶ τῆς φιλίας ἐπισκοπῶν 1176₅ 1177₀ ὁ (τῆς) φιλίας ἐφορος 1176₅ 1177₀ ὁ τῆς φιλίας προστάτης 1177₀ ὁ τῶν θεῶν κορυφαῖος 1188₇ ὁ τῶν θεῶν ἵπατός τε καὶ ὑπέρατος 891₀ Ὀτωρkonδῶν

Zeus (cont.)

579₍₂₎ 580 580₍₁₀₎ 581₍₅₎(1-5) Ουδαίος (=Plouton) 343₀ Ουράνιος 436 869₁ 1065 1158 Ουράνιος Ὑψιστος Σααρναίος Ἐπήκοος 886₍₃₀₎ 983₄ Ουρίριος 707 f. 917₀ 918₀ πᾶ (?) 294₀ 570₀ παγγενέτης 1122₉ παγκρατῆς ἀλεῖ 855 παγκρατῆς γάνος 931₀ Παγχαίος 342₀ (?) Παῖς 742 f. 749 826₆ Παλαμναίος 260₀ 1097₂ 1098 1098₅ 1099₁ 1101 παλαμναίων τιμήρον ἱεσιδίων 1097₂ Παλάμιος 1099₀ πόμεγας 349₂₀ Πανάμαρος 587 714₃ 963₈ 1195₃ (See also Πανήμεριος, Πανήμερος) πάνωρος 858 Πανελλήνιος 894₃ 895₀ 895₁ 1119₄ 1120₀ Πανήμεριος 963₈ Πανήμερος 963₈ (See also Πανάμαρος) Πανκτησίος 1067 Παννύχιος 941₀ Πανομφαῖος 1097₂ 1211 Πανόπτης 1130 παντοτινάκης 1100₁ πάντων διατάκτωρ καὶ ἔδου τοῦ κόσμου 1023 1051 πανπέρτατος 321₁ Παπαῖος 292₄ Πάπας or Παπᾶς 292 Παπίας 292₄ Παππῶς 292₄ Παρηθῖος 897₆ πασι-ἀναξ 1113₍₂₎ Πίσσιος 1095₀ πάτερ (voc.) 271₀ 584₁ 693₃ 728₀ 855₂ 858 922₅ 950₀ 957₂ 1094₀ 1130₁ πάτερ εἰρήνης βαθυκά[ρομα] 875₍₂₎ Πατήρ 836₂ 836₃ πατήρ 1023 1030 πατραλοῖας 942₀ Πάτριος 1141 Πατρώος 233 244 280₁ 723₀ 902₂ 950₀ 1066 1095₀ Πατρώος Ἐπιλόφιος (?) 948₄ παυσίλυπος 1123₃ 1124₀ Πεισαῖος 962₀ Πελασγικός 960₀ Πελινναῖος 922₄ Περικλύμενος (?) 1075 Περιφάντος 1122 Περιφας (?) 1122 Περιφρέτας 496₀ 1220 Πίκος 697₀ (See further Pikos who is also Zeus) Πίσσιος (= Fidius) 724₀ Πλουτοδότης 251₂ 385₀ πνοιή πάντων 1027 Πολιεύς 260₀ 869₁ Πολιεύς at Athens 897₂ 897₃ Πολιεύς at Delphoi 231 Πολιεύς in Kos 238₀ Πολιεύς at Lindos 923₀ Πολιοῦχος 941₀ πολύξενος (?) 1113₍₂₎ πολυξενώτατος 1113₍₂₎ πολύσταυρος 295₂ 569₇ Πολύτεχος (?) 693 πολυώνυμος 855 πόντου βίβα 1027 Ποσειεύς (or Πότης or Πότις) 285 287₁ Ποτηος (accent unknown) 285 πρευμενής 1098₄ Προγονικός 1225 Προπάτωρ 941₀ προστρόπαιος (προστροπαῖος) 1097₂ 1098 f. 1099₀ 1101 πρώτος 1027 f. πυθμῆν γαίης τε καὶ οὐρανοῦ ἀστερβεντος 1027 f. Ῥεμβήνοδος (?) 714₃ Σαάξιος (for Σαάξιος = Σαβάξιος) 284₀ Σααρναῖος 886₍₃₀₎ 983₄ Σαβάξιος 282 285₀ 287₂ 664₁ (?) 745₁ 954₀ 957₂ 975₀ 1184 1217 Σαονάξιος (= Σαβάξιος) 285₀ 1217 f. Σάραπτις 1171₃ sp. 773₀ (See also Σέραπτις) Σαώτης 599₂ 1151 Σεβαστός (= Hadrian) 959₀ f. σείσιχθων 1100₁ Σέραπτις 714₃ (?) (See also Σάραπτις) Σεραναῖος 883₍₁₀₎ Σημαλέος 4 897₆ Σημαντικός 280₁ σκαταβότης (?) 15₁ 1211 Σκύλιος 723₀

Zeus (cont.)

Σκυλοφόρος (= Iupiter Feretrius) 111₀ Σολυμεύς 973₁ f. Σόλυμος 974₀ Σπάλαξος (less probably Σπάλωξος) 1220 Σπάλωξος 587 Σπάτωρ (= Iupiter Stator) 708₅ στεροσηγερέτα 806₃ Στήσιος (= Iupiter Stator) 708₅ Στορπάσιος 815 850 1099₀ Στρατιεύς 591₂ Στρατηγός 707 f. 848 918₀ Στράτιος 111₀ 585 591 591₂ 594 594₈ 595 (?) 595₀ 598₁ 705 713 715 722 846 848 884₍₁₀₎ 963₇ 974₁ ff. Συκάσιος 1103 σχέλσιος 727₃₍₁₎ Σώζων 987₀ Σωσιπόλις (?) 1151 (cp. i. 58) Σωτήρ 233 292₄ 317₂ 321₁ 343₀ 434₃ 727₃₍₃₎ 728₀ 763₁ 884₍₁₀₎ 955₀ 962₀ 970₀ 1121 1123 1129₀ 1133₁ 1141 1142₁ 1144₂ 1147 1151 1156₃₍₃₎ 1159 1162 1169 1191 1228 f. [Σωτήρ ἀπαντος ἀνθρώπων γένους] 280₁ [Σωτήρ] τοῦ συμπαντος ἀνθρώπειου γένους] 280₁ Σωτήρ Τέλειος 1123₇ σωτήριος 1123₇ 1124₀ Ταλαῖος 948₁ Ταλειτίας 890₂ 948₁ Ταλλαῖος 948₁ ταυρίας πολέμοιο 734₃ Ταουανός 751 Ταρανταῖος 32₂ Τέλειος 1076 f. 1089 1123₇ 1124₀ 1147 1150 1156₁₃ 1159 1162 1163₂ 1175 Τέλειος Σωτήρ 1124₀ Τελεσιουργός 1228 Τελεσφόρος 838 1089 τέλεσφόρος 1089 τέλειος τελεῖστατον κράτος 337₄ Τεράστιος 31 1211 Τερμυνθεύς 962₀ τερπικέραντος 502₂ 779 ff. 806₃ 822 1067 1070 1097₀ Τετράτωρος 322 842 Τηρεύς (?) 693 697 Τιμωρός 874₂ 1099₀ 1101 τοῦ κατὰ χθονός | Διός νεκρῶν Σωτήρος 1125₀ Τρεφάνιος or Τροφάσιος 233₀ 794 1061 1073 ff. 1112 Τριφύλιος 1095₀ Τροπαῖος 110₀ 111₀ 956₀ Τροπαιοῦχος 111₀ Τροπαιοῦχος (= Iupiter Feretrius) 111₀ Τροπαιοφόρος (= Iupiter Feretrius) 111₀ Τροφάσιος (See Τρεφάσιος) Τρώσιος 571₆ τῶν περὶ Λάκων 1156₁₀ τῶν περὶ Ὀλυμπιόδωρον 1156₁₀ τῶν περὶ Πολιξενον 1156₁₀ τῶν φιλικῶν καθηκόντων ἔφορος 1177₀ Ὑδρῆος (?) 1227 f. Ὑτέτιος 164₅ 164₈ 318₀ 869₁ 1144₂ ὕετιος 276₁ Ὑμήτιος 897₅ Ὑνναρεύς (Ὑνναρεῖος;) 987₁ Ὑπατος 163₄ 737 875 890₃ 897₂ 898₁ 898₂ 956₂ (?) ὕπατος 271₀ ὕπατος βασιλεύς διὰ παντός 856 ὕπατος θεῶν 1125₁ *Ὑπερβερέτας 496₀ ὕπερμενής 1028 Ὑπερφερέτης (= Iupiter Feretrius) 111₀ 496₀ ὕστατος 1027 f. ὕψιβρεμέτης 830₁ 838 ὕψιδρομον (Pierson ej. ὕψιδρομον) πυριανγία κόσμον ἐλαάνων 830₁ ὕψιζυγος 830₁ ὕψιμέδων 875₍₂₎ 907₂ Ὑψιστος 231₈ 293₀ 876 876₁ ff. 891₂ 892₃ 897₃ 898₃ 906₂ 907₁ 922₁ 922₂ 953₁ 956_(?) 963₂ 963₅₋₉ 983₂ 983₄ 983₆ 983₉ 1144₂ ὕψιστος 890₁ Ὑψιστος Βρονταῖος 834 f. Ὑψιστος καὶ Ἐπήκοος 885₍₂₀₎ 886₍₁₀₎ 983₂ Ὑψιστος Ἐπόπτης (?) 949₂ Ὑψιστος Μέγιστος

Zeus (cont.)

Ἐπήκοος 885₀₍₂₂₎ 983₂ Φαλακρός 874₂ 893₁ 1099₀ 1144₂ 1226 Φερέτριος (= Iupiter Feretrius) 111₀ Φερέτρας 496₀ 1220 Φηγός (?) 413₂ φιλάνθρωπος 1177₂ Φίλιος 260₀ 723₀ 727₃₍₁₎ 727₃₍₂₎ 728₀ 956₀ 1061 1092₅ 1119₀ 1141 1160 ff. 1173 ff. 1186 1196 f. φίλος 1167 φιλτατος 1167₅ φουικοσπερόρας 806₃ Φράτριος 723₀ 728₀ 730₀ 1177₂ Φύξιος 902₀ 1097₂ 1144₂ 1177₂ φύσεως ἀρχηγέ 855 φουτάλιος 1100₁ φυτάλιμος 260₀ 1177₂ Χαριδότης 1065 Χθόνιος 829 878₀₍₃₎ 1100₁ 1119₀ 1155 Χρυσασαρεύς or Χρυσασάριος 714 ff. 722 848 Χρυσασαρεύς 884₀₍₀₎ ὠδαίος (?) 932₁ Ὠρομάσσης 386 980₃

Festivals: Aitnaia 908₁ Basileia 900₀ Boukatia 235 Daidala Megala 977₀ Deia 320₀ Deia Sebasta Oikoumenika 320₀ Diasia 1138 ff. Διὸς βοῦς (See Rites) Eleutheria (?) 974₀ Homoloia 900₁ Ithomaia (Ithomaiis) 890₆ Megala Panhellenia 1121₀ Meilichia 1091 f. 1092₅ New Year's Day 931₀ Olympia 964₂ Panhellenia 1119₄ pentacteteris 1179 Traianeia Deiphileia 1180 trieteteris 934₀ Xanthikos 23 981₁ f. yearly sacrifice and panegyris 576₂

Rites: altars at Olympia and Pergamon made of ashes from thighs of victims 955₀ ἀνιπτόποδες at Tralleis 959₀ f. banquet for all present at sacrifice to Zeus Στράτιος 974₁ bovine omophagy 539 cp. 934₀ burial of bull 345 539 ceremonial purity 934₀ communion-feast 1173 daily oblation to sceptre of Zeus at Chaironeia 547₂ Διὸς βοῦς 318₀ Διὸς κώδιον 1065 effigy worn by votaries 299 ff. first-fruits 872₀₍₅₎ funeral offering in Idaean Cave 934₀ 942₀ god killed and eaten in form of bull 345 hecatomb sacrificed to Zeus Κάσιος on Mt Kasion in Syria 982₀ 1192 hecatomb sacrificed to Zeus Νέμειος at Argos 1144₂ human consort 128₄ 210₂ (See also infra παλλακίδες) human sacrifice to Zeus Ἀταβύριος in Rhodes (?) 924₀ human sacrifice to Zeus Ἰθωμάτας 890₆ human sacrifice to Zeus Λαφύστιος at Halos 904₁ (?) human sacrifice to Zeus Λαφύστιος on Mt Laphystion 899₁ human sacrifice to Zeus-like deity Θυέστης at Mykenai (?) 1022 incubation 232 982₀ (?) initiation 1186 jars of Zeus Κτήσιος 1054 ff. libation from first kratér to Zeus and Hera 1123₇ 1124₀ libation from first kratér to Zeus Ὀλύμπιος and the Olympians 1123 libation from third kratér to

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus Σωτήρ 1123₇ 1124₀ 1125₀ libation from third kratér to (Zeus) Σωτήρ and Ὀλύμπιος 1124₀ libation from third kratér to Zeus Σωτήρ or Τέλειος 1123 libation from third kratér to Zeus Σωτήρ Τέλειος 1123₇ libation to Zeus Διδυμαίος with ivy-leaves 317₁ libation and prayer to Zeus Ἰδαίος 950₀ libation to Zeus Κτήσιος 1058 libation to Zeus περπικέρανος 1097₀ love-feast 1197 lying prone 835 mysteries at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1186₃ mysteries in Crete 345 mysteries at Pergamon 288₀ new fire (?) 1149₂₍₁₎ νηφάλια 1142₃ no wine- or animal-offerings on altar of Zeus Ἰπτατος at Athens 875₁₍₂₎ oak-brides burnt on Mt Kithairon 977₀ oath taken over boar 726 f. 728₀ offering of meal (?) 18 omophagy 934₀ cp. 539 παγκάρπεια 1058 παλλακίδες at Thebes in Egypt 960₀ παλλακίδες at Tralleis 959₀ f. (See also supra human consort) πέλανος 1058 procession up Mt Pelion 870₀ processions at Pergamon 288₀ purification by figs (?) 1103₄ 1103₇ purification in cult of Zeus Φίλιος 1186 sacrifice by Labyadai (Boukatia) 235 sacrifice of bull to Zeus Βρονταίος 835 sacrifice of bull to Zeus Στράτιος 975₀ sacrifice of nine bulls to Zeus Κήραιος 902₂ sacrifice of cakes moulded into forms of animals 1138₂ 1140 sacrifice of seven cakes to Zeus Πολιεύς 238₀ sacrifice of goat to Zeus Ἀσκραίος 872₀₍₅₎ sacrifice of humped bull to Zeus Σολυμείς 973₁ sacrifice of milk, honey, wine, oil, incense to Zeus Στράτιος 974₁ 977₀ sacrifice of ox to Zeus Ἐρκείος 728₀ sacrifice of three-year-old ox to Zeus 287₂ 954₀ sacrifice of three-year-old ox to Zeus Βάκχος 287₂ 954₀ sacrifice of pig to Zeus Βουλεύς 1105 sacrifice of pig to Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 1105 sacrifice of pig to Zeus Λύκαιος 1105 sacrifice of pig to Zeus Μειλίχιος 1105 ff. 1140₂ (?) 1142 1157 sacrifice of pig to Zeus Φίλιος 1161 sacrifice of ram to Zeus Λαφύστιος 904₁ sacrifice of ram to Zeus (?) Μειλίχιος ? Φίλιος 1175 sacrifice of sheep to Zeus Μειλίχιος 1138₂ 1140 sacrifice of white ox to Zeus Κτήσιος 1065 1067 (See also white victims) sacrifice of singled victim to (Zeus) Μηλίχιος 1156 sacrifice to Zeus at Olympia on logs of white-poplar 467 sacrifices to Zeus Στράτιος on mountain-tops 974₁ ff. taboo on onions among devotees of Zeus Κάσιος at Pelou-

Zeus (cont.)

sion 987₀ thigh-pieces of oxen burnt for Zeus at Ephesos 962₂ thigh-pieces of oxen burnt for Zeus on Mt Ide in Phrygia 950₀ thigh-pieces of oxen burnt for Zeus at Troy 950₀ throne strown annually in Idaean Cave 934₀ 942₀ cp. 940₀ thunder-making 838 f. 852 934₀ θησια ἄνυρος παγκαρπείας 1058 torch-lighting 1158 uninitiated persons and women may not enter precinct of Zeus "Ἰπταος in Paros 875₁₍₅₎ union with Deo and Persephatta at Eleusis 132₂ water from Klepsydra brought daily to sanctuary of Zeus 'Ιθωμάτας 890₆ white victims sacrificed to Zeus 'Ακραίος 871₃₍₁₁₎ (See also sacrifice of white ox)

Priests: ἀμφίπολος of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος as eponymous magistrate of Syracuse 916₀ ἀρχιερεύς 579₀₍₁₆₎ 973₁ at Adrianoi in Mysia 127 at Dodona go with unwashen feet and sleep on ground 960₀ at Mylasa dedicate temple-columns 580 at Mylasa distinguished citizens priests for life 576 f. Βεννεῖται 883₀₍₁₀₎ ζακῆρος 921₀ 922₀ head of priest of Zeus 'Οπλόσμος denounces murderer 290₀ τερεῖς 578₄ 921₀ 922₀ τερεῖς διὰ βίου 111₀ 616₁ 973₁ 976₀ cp. 576 f. ιεροποιοί 921₀ κλειδοῦχος 921₀ 922₀ νεωκόρος 967₀ 976₀ νεωκόρος διὰ βίου 967₀ cp. 1225 ξυλεύς at Olympia 471 of Zeus 'Ακραίος as eponymous magistrate of Magnetes 871₃₍₁₁₎ of Zeus Βῆλος 128₄ of Zeus 'Ιθωμάτας 743 890₆ of Zeus Ηλαῖς 743 of Zeus Τροπαιούχος 111₀ Onetor 950₀ ὀμικῶν κάλλει 742₅ πατήρ ιερέων 1177₃ Σελλοί 960₀ Spartan kings 353 τόμαροι (τόμουροι) 693₃ ὑποφῆται 960₀

Priestesses: buried near temple of Zeus "Ἰψιστος 878₀₍₁₄₎ Diotima 1167 'Fly' at Dodona 215₁ κανηφόρος 900₀ πελειάδες 350 693₃ προφήτης 214 ff.

Worshippers: akin to Zeus 950₀ Βάκχοι 934₀ Διοσαταβυριασταί 1157₃ Διοσμυλιχιασταί 1157₃ ἑρανισταί 1161 θιασῶται 585₃ ἱερῶδουλοι 616₁ Κουρήτες 934₀ Salií (?) 328 ff. συμύσται 282₁

Personated by Agamemnon 1069 f. Aleos (?) 1147 Amphiaros 1070 ff. Amphitryon 1072 Antiochos iv Epiphanes 1188 f. Antoninus Pius 101₁ 343₀ Athenian kings 1135 1142 Augustus 97₀ 260₀ Caracalla 1186 1209 Commodus 1185 Cretan prince (?) 522 Domitian 97₀ 1194 cp. 811₅ (fig. 777 = Furtwängler Ant. Gemmen i pl. 48, 4, ii. 229) Epepeus (?) 1146 Eumenes i 960₀

Zeus (cont.)

1228 forefather of family 1061 Germanicus Caesar 260₀ Geta 1186 Hadrian 260₀ 280₀ 343₀ 956₀ 959₀ f. 962₂ 1120₀ 1121₀ Ixion (?) 1088 Keyx 1088 king 24 192 192₅ 794 833 897₀ 940₀ 944₀ 945₀ 1061 1065 1069 f. 1070 ff. 1073 f. 1076 1088 ff. 1121 ff. 1159 f. 1185 f. kings descended from Aiolos 1159 kings of Delphoi (?) 192₅ kings of Orchomenos in Boiotia (?) 1150 kings of Sparta (?) 353 kings of Thessaly 1087 ff. kings struck by lightning 24 local champion 1070 Marathon (?) 1146 Minos (?) 940₀ 944₀ 945₀ Minyas (?) 1150 Nero 97₀ 1194 Nerva 1194 Pelops (?) 1147 Perikles 816₁ Periphas 24₄ 1121 ff. Roman emperors 100 ff. 320₀ (?) 1209 Salmoneus 24₄ 1088 1122 Simon Magus 726₀ Theophanes 97₀ Trajan 100₆ 1180 1180₄ 1209₅ Xerxes 853₄

Myths: Aetos 933₀ Amphiaros 1071 Asklepios 23 Auriga 477, bids Apollon to serve Admetos 241₄ binds Kronos beneath oak-trees 448, 1027 birth of Athena 721₂ 1029 born in a cave of Mt Aigaion 925₁ 932₁ born in a cave of Mt Dikte 928₀ 932₁ 986₀ born in a cave of Mt Ide in Crete (?) 230₆ 932₁ 951₀ born in a cave of Mt Ide in Phrygia 951₀ born at Dios Gonai in Boiotia 961₀ born at Dios Gonai in Lydia 961₀ born on Mt Sipylos 956₂ born on Mt Tmolos 957₂ brings the babe Dionysos to Mt Tmolos 957₂ brought by Kouretes to Idaean Cave 932₁ cp. 928₀ buried in Crete 219 345 556₀ 694₀ 943₀ causes Trojan war 261₁ his chariot followed by procession of souls 63₀ childhood 899₀ chooses the eagle 752₄ comes from Crete to Naxos 187₈ consorts with Aigina d. of Asopos 187₈ 894₃ Aitne 909₀ Amaltheia 229₁ Chaldene 973₁ Danaë 694₀ 1131₁ Demeter 1029 Deo (= Demeter) 132₂ 345₈₍₂₎ Dia 1088 Dione 1029 Europe 187₈ 348 929₀ 947₀ 1131₁ Euryodeia (Euryodia) 1152₄ Hera 343₀ 893₂ 902₁ 950₀ 1020 1029 Hermippe d. of Boiotos 1150 Hesion d. of Danaos 1150 Hippodameia d. of Danaos 1150₂ Idaia 940₀ Io 961₀ Kalchedonia 973₁ Kallisto 228₄ 228₅ 1217 Lamia 1130 f. Leda 1015₇ 1131₁ Magna Mater 969₄ Manthea (?) 229₁ Medeia 1088 Nemesis 1015 1131₁ Persephatta (= Kore) 132₂ Persephone 1114₀₍₅₎ Phersephone or Kore 1029 Pluto 449₀ Rhea 1029 Semele 187₈ 956₂ one of the Sithnides 897₁ Thaleia

Zeus (cont.)

909₀ Themis 37₁ willow-goddess (?)
947₀ consults Nyx 1029 consults Nyx and Kronos 1027 creates the world anew inside himself 1027 deposited by Typhon in Corycian Cave 449₀ Deukalion builds altar of Zeus 'Αφείσιος 892₄ Deukalion sacrifices to Zeus Φύξιος 902₀ Dionysos sewn up in thigh of Zeus 957₂ Διὸς ἀπάρη 1020 f. Dirke 1019 drives out Kronos 933₀ 941₀ 942₀ drives Kronos out of Assyria 693₄ 694₀ Erechtheus 24 794 exiles Apollon to land of Hyperboreoi 484 493 Flumen 477₇ founds city on Mt Dikte 928₀ 929₀ Ganymedes 188₀ 189₀ 281₄ 933₀ Gigantomachia 752₄ 830₇ gives Dionysos to Ma to nurse 565₂ gives golden vine to Tros 281₄ gives ring to Prometheus 990 golden hound 1227 golden ram 899₁ golden rope 1029 1211 golden vine 281₄ has Aigokeros or Capricornus for foster-brother 932₁ 933₀ has sinews of his hands and feet cut out by Typhon and hidden in a bear-skin under the care of Delphyne 228 449₀ Hektor 950₀ helped by Aigokeros or Capricornus against Titans 933₀ hidden from Kronos by Korybantēs 940₀ hidden from Kronos by Kres 928₀ infancy in Dictæan Cave 928₀ 929₀ infancy on Mt Ide in Crete 932₁ infancy on a Phrygian mountain 968₁₋₃ 969₂ Io 782₁ Ixion 1098₄ jars of good and evil 1067 f. Kapaneus 23 824 f. Kasios 981₁ Kekrops founds altar of Zeus "Υπαρος 875₁₍₂₎ Korybantēs drown cries of infant Zeus 928₀ Kouretēs drown cries of infant Zeus 928₀ 961₀ 968₁₋₃ leaps upon Phanes and swallows him 1027 Leda 941₀ lets fall drops of blood, from which men arise 1032 lets fly eagles from west and east 179 makes cosmic mantle 351₁ makes Kronos drunk on honey 448₁ 1027 Melissa 928₀ Merops 1132₁ mutilated by Typhon 448₂ mutilates Kronos 448₁ 685 1027 nurses transformed into bears 227 f.

nursed by Adrasteia 933₀ Amaltheia 928₀ Ithome and Neda 890₀ Nymphs on Mt Ide in Crete 932₁ Ithea 961₀ 968₁₋₃ 969₂ nurtured by bears 928₀ 939₀ bees 928₀ 929₀ 1112₂ doves 928₀ eagle 928₀ goat 928₀ 961₀ 968₀ goat Amaltheia 932₁ 933₀ pig 928₀

Oidipous 829 Omphalian Plain 190 Ophiuchus 1087 Periphas 1121 ff. Perseus sacrifices to Zeus 'Απεσάντιος 892₄ piles Mt Aitnè on

Zeus (cont.)

Enkelados 909₀ piles Mt Aitne on Typhon 909₀ places heart of Dionysos or Zagreus in gypsum image 1031 Polytechnos 693 pounds heart of Zagreus into potion and gives it to Semele to drink 1031 prince slain by wild boar and buried in Crete 522 cp. 727 psychostasia 733 ff. quitting Assyria follows Kronos and becomes king of Italy 694₀ 943₀ reared by Kouretēs on Mt Dikte 928₀ 929₀ refitted with his sinews by Hermes and Aigipan 449₀ Rhea gives Kronos stone instead of him 793₈ 901₁ Rhea, pregnant with him, is protected against Kronos by Hopladamōs (Hoplodamos?) 291₀ Rhea rescues him from Kronos 928₀ Salmoneus 833 1122 Seleucides aves 981₁ Semele 24 ff. 731 ff. (?) succeeds Kronos as king of Italy 694₀ swallows Metis 12 348₂ Sykeas or Sykeus 1103₂ Thetis 45₁ thrusts Kronos down below earth and sea 1020 Titanēs 218 1031 f. 1103₂ transforms Aigokeros or Capricornus and his mother Aix into stars 953₀ transforms Aigolios into owl 929₀ transforms himself into Eros when about to create the world 316 transforms Kallisto into bear 228₇ transforms Keleos the Cretan into green woodpecker 929₀ transforms Kerberos the Cretan into bird 929₀ transforms Laŷos the Cretan into blue thrush 929₀ Typhon (Typhoeus) 228 448₂ 722₂ 731 826 839₆ 981₁ Ursa Maior 928₀ Ursa Minor 928₀ visits Hera clandestinely 1020 wraps aithēr round the world and ties up the bundle with golden cord 1029

Metamorphosed into Apollon 228₇ Artemis 228₇ 1217 bear 229 bull 348 449₀ 929₀ 1131₁ 1167₅ cuckoo 893₂ 1144₂ eagle 187₈ 228₇ 752 909₀ (?) 941₀ 1133 f. Eros 316 fly 782₁ gold 1131₁ hoopoe 697 1130 f. human lover 941₀ snake 941₀ 1029 1061 1151 stranger 1096₄ swan 941₀ 1015 1015₇ 1131₁ vulture 909₀ woodpecker 524 693 (?) 693₄

Genealogy: b. of Ouranos 940₀ f. of Aiakos by Aigina d. of Asopos 894₃ f. of Aphrodite 1029 f. of Apollon and Artemis by Leto 453 f. of Apollonios of Tyana 569₄ f. of Arkas by Kallisto 228₅ f. of Arkeisios by Euryodeia (Euryodia) 1152₄ f. of Artemis 164₂ 342₀ 453 f. of Athena by Koryphe 869₁ cp. i. 155 f. of Attis 294 f. of Atys and Kotys (?) 312 f. of Chryseus by Hesione d. of Danaos 1150₂ f. of Dardanos 8 f.

Zeus (cont.)

of Dionysos 317 1098₀ f. of the chthonian Dionysos or Zagreus by Phersephone or Kore 1029 f. of the first three Dioskouroi (Tritopatreus, Eubouleus, Dionysos) by Persephone 1135₄ f. of Epaphos by Io 961₀ f. of Eros by Aphrodite 316₀ f. of Gargaros at (by?) Larissa in Thessaly 950₀ f. of Geraistos and Tainaros 903₁ f. of Helene 343₀ f. of Helene by Leda 1015₇ f. of Helene by Nemesis 1131₁ f. of Herakles 343₀ f. of Hermes 385₀ f. of Horai by Themis 37₁ 94₂ f. of Kairos 859 861 f. of Kastor 437 f. f. of Kastor and Polydeukes, Klytaimestra and Helene, by Leda 1015₇ f. of Kouretes 940₀ f. of Litai 1097₂ 1098₀ 1099₂ 1100₀ f. of Malos 488₀₍₁₀₎ f. of Manes by Ge 312 f. of Megaros (Megareus) by one of the Sithnides 897₁ 1117₇ f. of Meilinoe(?) or Melinoe(?) by Persephone 1114₀₍₅₎ f. of Metis 348₂ f. of Minos by Europe 8 342₀ 344 929₀ f. of Minos, f. of Deukalion, f. of Idomeneus 793₇ f. of Muses by Mnemosyne 1157₀ f. of Olenos by Hippodameia, d. of Danaos 1150₂ f. of Orchomenos by Hesione, d. of Danaos, or by Hermippe, d. of Boiotos 1149 f. f. of Palikoi by Thaleia, d. of Hephaistos 909₀ f. of Perseus 665₁ f. of Perseus by Danaë 694₀ f. of Phaunos 694₀ 943₀ f. of Phersephone or Kore by Rhea or Demeter 1029 f. of Polydeukes 437 f. f. of Solymos by Chaldene 973₁ f. of Solymos by Kalchedonia 973₁ f. of Tainaros 890₅ f. of Tantalos 957₀ f. of Zethos and Amphion 445 f. of Zethos and Amphion by Antiope 1013 gf. of Eros 316₀ h. of Ge 292₄ h. of Hera 584₁ h. of Hera Zwyla 954₀ h. of Idaia 940₀ h. of Kybele 298 h. of Tyche Αγαθή 1104 f. s. of Aither 941₀ s. of Ge 294₀ s. of Kronos 943₀ s. of Kronos by Rhea 941₀ s. and h. of the Mother of the gods 298₂ s. of Phanes 1051 s. of Phanes by Nyx 1026 s. of Rhea 830 1029 youngest child of Rhea 925₁

Functions: aēr 351₀ aithēr 557₁ allotments 873₂ all-seeing 258₂ ancestral god of Attic nobility 730₀ ancient king 1135₄ author of days and years 94₂ avenger of impious deeds 1130 bees 1112₆ bright sky 1 840 bringer of a curse 1098 bringer of young folk to maturity 1159 buried king 1139 1142 1159 celestial lights 840 chthonian 18(?) 31(?) 119₀ 233₀ 258₃ 836 893₀ 1058 1105 1107 1113₀₍₂₎ 1117 1118 1124₀ 1125₀ 1125₁ 1126₀

Zeus (cont.)

1131 1142 1149 1150 1155 f. 1157₀ 1159 1161 1169 f. 1175 1178 chthonian (Zeus Οὐδαίος = Plouton) 343₀ clear air 557₁ clouds 3 corn and wine(?) 1178 cosmic 117 855₂ 1028 f. 1185 cosmic law 855₂ cosmogonic 1230 counsel 317₂ creator of the world 316 1027 crops 1065 1074 1187₀ daylight 436 1013 day-light sky 840 deceased founder of club 1162 deceased kinsman 1163 deceiver 694₀ 695₀ destiny 231 Dionysiac 281 ff. 836 847 852 dispenser of good and evil 1067 f. divinised ancestor 1068 dreams 283₀ 1175 1228 dust 257₄ earth 823 father 292 ff. father of mankind 855 fertility 591 1142 1149 fighter 590 f. figs 291₂(?) 1092 f. 1103 f. 1112 1114 food and drink 754₂ food-supply 434₃ forefather 258₃ forefather of clan 1162 generous giver 321₁ giver of animal and vegetable life 1139 giver of wealth 1065 good tidings 956₀ government 855 ff. guardian of friendship 1176 guardian of harbour 343₀ hail 1 healing 877₀₍₁₀₎ 1061 hearth 873₂(?) 1149₂₍₁₎(?) holder of scales 734₃ inspirer of orator 1181₀ justice 852 justice and injustice among men and animals 1130, law-giver 1095₀ life 352₁ 352₄ 1023 lightning 1 4 385₀ 502 ff. 722 ff. 815 ff. 840 850 f. 954₀ 1146 lot 1148 f. (?) love 1176 magician 258₃ 694₀ 695₀ 1147 mills(?) 260₀ mind 258₃ 1028 f. moisture 351₀ 352₄ moon 840 mountains 554 868 ff. 1149 1179 1183 nourishment 594 oak 570₀ 872₀₍₅₎ oaths 233 569₄ 706 722 ff. 727₃ 849 955₀ 1175 f. observer of right and wrong 1130 1130₁ old corn(?) 295₂ omniscience 763 the one God, of whom all other Gods are but parts and manifestations 855₂ oracular 1061 1073 ff. pantheistic 1027 ff. 1051 πνεῦμα 1023 prayers 1099 preserver of the tribe 1159 primeval power 315 f. protector of the bloodguilty 1098 f. protector of descendants 1130 protector of his people 1159 protector of laws and treaties 723₀ protector of suppliants 1093 1097 f. 1130 protector of suppliants and strangers 1097₀ 1101 providence 764 849 purification 1099 f. 1103 purifier of the bloodguilty 1092 ff. 1104 1112 1114 1143 rain 1 3 4 179(?) 274(?) 275 f. 318₀ 351₀ 591 833 894₁ 897₅ 897₆ 898₀ 941₀ 957₂ re-creator of the world 1033 ruler 731 848 ruler of gods 266 ruler of sky, sea, and earth 893₀ rumour 904₃ sea 663 893₀ sea-

Zeus (cont.)

faring 987₀ sender up of souls 1058 sky 298 344 353 458 601 663 823 sleep 231 f. snow 1 343₀ solar 285₀ 840 948₁ 1130 1130, specialised into Poseidon 786 850 spinner of fate 1219 starry sky 436 stars 840 869₁ storm 267 591 705 848 streams
869₀ sun (See solar) suppliant 1096
1098 1101 suppliant-boughs 1149₂₍₂₎ thunder 1 4 344 833 ff. 851 f. 941₀
945₂ 1155 thunder and lightning
280₁ 817 thunderbolt 179 722 ff.
850 f. trees 946₀ trophy 110₀ 111₀ turnips (?) 260₀ underworld 1158 (See also chthonian?) universe (See cosmic) upper world 1158 victor 758 victory 489₀₍₀₎ 812₁ 813₂ violence 1098 war 705 ff. 848 water 1117₃ (?) weather 1 ff. 840 894₃ wind 444₇ (?) witness 728₀ f. world (See cosmic)
a younger Zan 340 ff.

Etymology: 259₀ 855₂ 928₀ 1102₃ 1228

Attributes: agrenón 574 592 agis 781
1187₀ apple (?) 831₁ bay-wreath 266
597₃ 714₂ 756₁ 924₀ 1187₄ 1192 f.
1223 bronze bulls 924₀ bronze oxen 924₀ buskins 1178 1184 car
(benna) (?) 883₀₍₀₎ chariot 436₁ 851
Charites (Moirai? Horai?) 232₀
chitón 597 f. 744 744₄ chlamýs 731₁
744 ff. cock 946₀ 947₀ corn-ears 754₁ cornu copiae 1105 1162 crab 577 f.
cup 1178 cypress 932₁ dagger 714₁
722 diadem 597₃ double axe 283₀
559 ff. 601 614 615 (?) 664₁ (?) 705
714₁ drépanon 448₀ eagle 283₀ 575 f.
577 f. 707 751 f. 808₀₍₀₎ 833 836 838
956₀ 961₀ 968₀ 1133₁ 1143 1161 1185 f.
1188 1208 eagles 231 239 841
Egyptian head-dress (?) 987₀ female breasts 592 ff. flower 1224 (?) goat 987₁ (?) globe 980₀ golden ball 933₀ golden calf 354 golden líknon 933₀ golden vine (?) 281₄ grapes 281 287₁ 883₀₍₀₎ hammer 945₂ hárpe 449₀ helmet 705 f. himátion 1082 himátion of gold 916₀ himátion of wool 916₀
Horai 1138₅ jar 1054 ff. jug 1117 kálathos 577 592 f. 593 (?) 597 597₃
598 kratér 283₀ leaf-shaped lance 709 líknon 933₀ lily-wreath 740 lion (?) 575 f. lioness (?) 575 599₂ lion-skin (?) 947₀ lotos 771 1224 mattock 806₁ Moirai 1138₅ moon
980₀ necklace 593 Nike 873₀₍₀₎ 1143
1145₀ 1190 1192 1193₁ oak-branch
1177 (?) oak-wreath 348 388 763₁ 1187₄ olive-branch 1177 (?) olive-wreath 323₁ palm (?) -tree 284₀ panther (?) 575 599₂ pectoral 574 phiale 881₀₍₂₁₎ 906₃ 1105 1116 (?) 1143 1145₀ 1161 f. 1175 1184 pillar
818 pine-wreath 951₀ plane-trees
590 976₀ plough 281 836 pome-

Zeus (cont.)

granate 986₀ radiate crown 980₀ scales 734₃ sceptre 258 266 547₂
709 731 ff. 763 788₀ 1105 1116 1143
1145₀ 1188 sélinon (?) -wreath 1187₀ shield 578 705 712 silver knife 354 skýphos 754₁ snake 283₀ 284₀ 285₀
819 820 823 1111 spear 577 f. 704 ff.
722 848 957₀ stag 575 1220 star
980₀ 1187₀ stars 980₀ stick 1102₀ sun 980₀ sword 591 615 (?) 705
712 ff. 722 848 tall head-dress 980₀
(See also tiara) thunderbolt 283₀
722 ff. 785 848 ff. 1145₀ thýrsos surmounted by eagle 1178 tiara 386
(See also tall head-dress) tortoise
895₁ trident 577 798 two doves (?)
872₀₍₅₎ two eagles 179 f. two oaks 872₀₍₅₎ two ravens (?) 872₀₍₅₎ two spears 283₀ two thunderbolts 722
726 f. vervain 396₀ 397₀ vine 836
838 vine-staff 909₀ whip 851 willow 946₀ 947₀ winged chariot 43 321₁ woodpecker 518₃ (See further Pikos who is also Zeus)

Types: advancing with thunderbolt in lowered right hand and eagle on outstretched left 745 advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand 26₀ 795₃ advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and eagle on outstretched left 739 ff.
818 f. 963₀ 1139₀ 1143 1222 f. advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand, eagle on outstretched left, and snake at his feet 851 advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and sceptre as well as eagle in outstretched left 1223 advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and sceptre in outstretched left 25₀ 26₀ 27₀ 709 733 advancing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and spear (?) in left 708 f.
amours with Leda, Semele, Kallisto, and Ganymedes 228₇ androgynous (?) 292₄ 594 androgynous with golden wings and heads of bulls and snake 1022 f. archaistic 744₁ Aristonous 1222 Assyrian 697₀ 938₀ bearded head as pendant 302 bearded head at either end of whip-handle 301 beardless 285₀ 742 748 946₀ f.
1224 (?) birth of Athena 709 f. 753₃
785 boy with whip (?) 826₆ bronze statuette of 'Geometric' age representing Zeus fulminant (?) 1222 bronze statuettes inlaid with silver eyes 503₀ Bryaxis (?) 921₀ bull (?)
924₀ bust as medallion on wreath
301 bust as support for arm of Attis
297 bust between horns of crescent 712₃ bust facing, with thunderbolt and sceptre to his right and left 887₀₍₀₎ bust supported on eagle with spread wings 1209 in chariot drawn by two eagles 462₀ in chariot drawn by one horse 830 in chariot drawn by two horses 820 823 cp. 285₀ in chariot drawn by four horses 436₁ 825 830₆ 831₁ (See also driving) in chiton and chlamys 283₀ in chiton and himation 574 577 597 f. 745₀ 745₁ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 887₀₍₀₎ 957₀ colossal 754₁ conical stone 981₀ Dionysiac 1178 double 316 ff. with double axe and sceptre 573 ff. with double axe and spear 574 ff. double bust (with Dionysos) 388 double bust (with Hermes?) 388 double bust (with Sarapis?) 388 double bust (with Satyr) 388 driving chariot 950₀ (See also in chariot) driving two-horsed vehicle 285₀ driving winged chariot 321₁ duplicated on coin (standing and seated) 319 duplicated on gem (both seated) 318 ff. with female breasts 592 ff. 846 1220 (?) fighting Centaur (?) 614 f. four-armed 322 842 fulminant in two-horse chariot 820 851 fulminant in four-horse chariot 825 831₁ fulminant on pillar 45 Gigantomachia 712 f. 777₂ 820 825 831₁ 973₁ gilded eagle 423 with golden bay-wreath 258 with golden bull's-horns 1028 grasping or hurling thunderbolt in (sometimes beside) chariot 831₁ grasping thunderbolt in each hand 722 726 f. Hageladas 741 ff. 749 890₆ 1222 f. hero-feast 1163 holding cult-image in his hand 950₀ 962₂ holding eagle and thunderbolt 741₃ (See also advancing) on horseback 664₁ (?) infant asleep on mountain 961₀ infant carried by Amaltheia (?) 363₁ infant seated on ground 957₂ instructing Apollon 265 introduction of Herakles to Olympos 735 ff. 771 Janiform 322 ff. 326 ff. Janiform head (with Hera) (?) 662 Janiform head (with Hermes) 1219 with kálathos 597 f. 597₃ with kálathos, double axe, and sceptre 592 with kálathos, double axe, and spear 577 593 (?) linked to ground by means of fillets 574 long-haired 573 575 f. (?) Lysippos 45 762 1139₀ 1143₅ 1145₀ Myron 1078 oak-tree 111₀ 570₀ with olive-wreath 323₁ Papylos 1101₃ Pheidias 475₇ 598 757 ff. 849 921₀ (?) 1078 1138₅ pillar capped by pyramid (See pyramid-on-pillar) Polykleitos 1143 f. 1178 Polykleitos the younger (?) 1178 pot 3₀ pouring rain from right hand and holding thunderbolt in left 962₂ psychostasia 734₀ 734₃ pursuit of

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

Semele 731 ff. 735₃ pyramid 1144 ff. pyramid-on-pillar 814 f. 1095₀ 1147 (?) radiate 872₀₍₅₎ raising hand in attitude of benedictio Latina 291 recumbent on couch 1162 1171₃ recumbent on eagle 102₀ rushing forward with thunderbolt in raised right hand 731 sacred stone 982₀ f. (?) seated as child amid Kouretes 1210 seated on eagle 102₀ 462₀ (See also upborne on eagle) seated on mountain 853 962₂ 982₀ seated on rock 983₁ seated on rock with eagle flying from right hand and sceptre leaning against right shoulder 758 seated on tree 946₀ f. seated to hurl thunderbolt 473 475 seated to pour rain 962₂ seated with Artemis 'Eφesia in right hand and sceptre in left 962₂ seated with three Charites (Moirai? Horai?) in right hand 232₀ seated with eagle flying from him 757 758 seated with eagle flying to him 757 seated with eagle in hand 1139₀ 1143 seated with eagle in right hand and sceptre in left 871₃₍₄₎ seated with flower in right hand and sceptre in left 1224 (?) seated with jug in both hands above head of Acheloius 1117 seated with Nike in right hand and sceptre in left 319₄ 758 760 (?) 873₀₍₁₈₎ 956₀ 961₀ 1139₀ 1143 1189 1192 1192₆ 1220 seated with phiale in right hand 1161 seated with phiale in right hand and cornu copiae in left 1105 seated with phiale in right hand and sceptre in left 1105 1116 f. (?) 1143 1145₀ 1175 seated with phiale in right hand, sceptre in left, and eagle behind 280₁ seated with right hand raised to head 762 849 seated with sceptre in left hand 737 1173 seated with sceptre in left hand and phiale in right 736 seated with sceptre in right hand 755 f. (?) seated with sceptre in right hand and Athena 'Ιλιάς in left 950₀ seated with sceptre in right hand and Nike in left 964₂ seated with sceptre in right hand and sometimes phiale in left 906₃ seated with sceptre in right hand and thunderbolt in left 756 seated with thunderbolt in right hand and sceptre in left 280₁ 318 753 ff. 757 f. seated with thunderbolt in right hand, sceptre in left, and eagle flying before him 1224 seated with thunderbolt and sceptre in right hand and phiale in left 735 seated with vine-staff in right hand and thunderbolt in left 909₀ shouldering axe 621 (?) snake

Zeus (cont.)

1061 1107 ff. 1174 soldier 705 f. standing with Artemis Ἐφεστία in right hand 962, standing with eagle in left hand 751₅ standing with eagle in right hand 751₅ standing with eagle in right hand and sceptre in left 319₄ 951₀ 957₀ 968₀ standing with Nike in right hand and sceptre in left 1145₀ standing with phiale in right hand and sceptre in left 280₁ 881₀₍₂₂₎ standing with sceptre (?) in raised right hand and phiale (?) in left 752 f. standing with sceptre in raised right hand and thunderbolt in lowered left 749₁ 820 f. standing with sceptre in right hand and eagle beside him 1143 1230 standing with spear or sceptre in raised right hand and left covered by himation 918₀ standing with spear in right hand and eagle at his feet 707 standing with spear in right hand and thunderbolt in left 957₀ standing with thunderbolt in lowered right hand 280₁ standing with thunderbolt in lowered right hand and sceptre in left 734 f. 745 ff. 1145₀ standing with thunderbolt in outstretched right hand and sceptre in left 917₁ standing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and eagle on outstretched left 737 739 819₀₍₅₎ standing with thunderbolt in raised right hand and sceptre in lowered left 833 standing with wreath in outstretched right hand 1192 statuette held by Laodikeia 319₇ 320₀ with supported foot 266₁ surrounded by seven stars 238₀ syncretistic 850 τετράγωνος 1147₈ Theokosmos 1138₅ theriomorphic 1151 three-eyed 892₅ 1144₂ traveller 1102₀ with trident, eagle, and crab 577₂ with trident, thunderbolt, and eagle 798 with trident, thunderbolt, and sea-monster 798 trophy 111₀ upborne on eagle 951₀ (See also seated on eagle) upborne on eagle between horns of crescent 712₃ winged 1028 xóanon 1196 youthful 861₅ 1030 1185 youthful figure holding pomegranate 986₀ Zâves at Olympia 349

Identified with Adad 933₇ Adonaios 293₀ Agamemnon, the god (?) 1069 Ahura Mazda 976₀ Amen-Râ 926₀ Amoun 293₀ Asklepios 1076 ff. Attis 292 Baal 869₀ Ba'al Milik (Melek, Molok) (?) 1108 Ba'al-šamin 886₀₍₀₎ 889 Bakchos 287 1184 Celtic Janiform god 323 Chryisor, the Phoenician Hephaistos 715 1037 Daimon 1160₄ Dionysos 282 287 f. 288₀ Epopeus 445 Erechthos 793 Eros

Zeus (cont.)

1028 Great Ox 354 Hades 582₄ 1058 Hephaistos 715 Ianus 328₇ Jehovah 889 elder Kabeiros 664₁ Kasiu 983₀ (?) Keraunos 12 f. 119₁ Kragos 972₀ 974₀ Mars 50 Melqart or Melgarth (?) 1109₀ Metis (masc.) 1028 Pan 349 1023 1024 1039 Papas 836 Pikos 220₆ 342₀ 693₄ 694₀ 695₀ 696₀ 697₀ Poseidon 582 ff. Poseidon and Ares 1225 Protogonos 1023 1039 1051 Roman emperors (See Personated by) Sabaoth 293₀ Sabazios 275 1184 Sarapis 714₃ (?) 745₁ 773₀ 1158 Solymos (?) 974₀ Theos Hypsistos 882₀₍₂₂₎ 883₀₍₀₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 886₀₍₃₀₎ 969₃ Trophonios (Trophonios) 1075 Velchanos 946₀ ff. the world 1028 f. (See also Functions cosmic) Zan 220₆ 341₆ 342₀ 345 942₀

Assimilated to Apollon 986₀ Chaos 1051 Dionysos 1178 Poseidon 327₂ (?) (See also Identified with) Zagreus 980₅

Associated with Acheloios 1092₂ 1138₅ Acheloios and Kallirrhoe (?) 1117 Agathos Daimon 925₀ Agdistis and Attis 1229 Aigokeros 938₀ Apollon 317 317₂ Apollon and Themis 730₀ Artemis and Athena 1144₂ Athena 259₀ 920₀ 923₀ 955₀ 1101₃ Athena Νικηφόρος 287₂ Athena Σώτεια 1169₄ Athena and Apollon 458 1094₀ Athena and Herakles 1078 Athena, Herakles, Apollon 875₁₍₂₎ Boule (?) 260₀ daimones 931₀ Demeter and Kore 258₃ 259₀ Dike 1029 1033₁ Dione 974₀ 1029 Dionysos and Athena 925₀ Dioskouroi 1209₂ Enhodia and Polis 1155 Ge 266 f. 292₄ Ge and Athenaia 1115 Ge and Helios 729₀ 884₀₍₀₎ Ge, Helios, and Erinyes 728₀ f. goddess bearing wheat-ears (cornu copiae?) and torch (sceptre?) 820 hearth 728₀ Hekate 714₂ 714₃ 835₆ 838 Helios 1114 Helios, rivers, earth, and chthonian powers 728₀ Helios, Selene, Asklepios, Hygieia, etc. 259₀ Hephaistos 972₁ Hera 259₀ 592 707 776₃ 893₂ 894₁ 900₀ 1137 1144₂ 1150 1157 Hera and Athena (= Capitoline triad) 319₇ Hera, Demeter Θεσμοφόρος, Kore, Baubo 259₀ Herakles 492₀₍₀₎ 1157₁ Herakles Ἄνικηρος 292₄ Herkyna 1073 1075 Hermes (?) 957₀ Hestia 259₀ 317₂ 960₀ 1228 Horai 94₂ Kabeiroi 664₁ (?) Kouretes 587 938₀ Men 285₀ Meter 950₀ Meter ἐν Ἄργας (?) 1142₃ Moira and Erinyes 1102₇ Muses 898₅ Nike 853 1100₁ Nomos 1029 οἱ Σεβαστοὶ 951₀ Persephone 893₀ Philia and Tyche Ἄγαθή 1163 Polis 878₀₍₀₎

Zeus (cont.)

Poseidon 959₀ Poseidon and Hades 785 Poseidon and Plouton 802 (?) Sarapis and Isis 922₀ table 728₀ Themis 258 723₀ Themis and Dike 897₃ Themis and Dionysos 261 f. Trophonios (Trephonios) 1073 f. Tyche 'Αγαθή 879₀₍₁₇₎ Zagreus 1113₀₍₂₎

Compared with Adonis and Tammuz
345 Agathos Daimon 1161 1163 Apollon 201 ff. Argos 379 Boreas 444 Hermes 384₀ 385₀ 1068 Kronos 554 ff. Kyklops 990 Oidipous 1154 Penates 1068 Plouton 385₀ 1105 Talos 948₁ Tammuz 347 Thyestes, a storm-god (?) 1022

Contrasted with Asklepios 1081 f. Charon 641₂

In relation to Apollon 267 730₀ Aristaios 1112₆ Asklepios 1178 Dionysos 267 ff. 522 1210 Eleos 875₁₍₂₎ Erinys 1102; Hera 693 kings 1074 Kyrios Sabaoth 884₀₍₉₎ men 855 Metis (masc.) 1025 Nike 982₀ Oidipous 1154 f. Orphic Eros 316₅ Pepromene 1138₅ Phanes 1051 Phoibos 500 839 Poseidon 582 ff. 846 850 Pythagoras 225 Rhea 552₁ 'Schwanfrauen' 51 Semele 663 table 1141₅ Themis 873₂ thunder 827 ff. 851 f. Trajan 1179 ff. tripod 1216 Trophonios (Trephonios) 900₀ 1073 ff. twins 422 ff. 843 Zagreus 522 980₅ Zan 353

Supersedes Anatolian mother-goddess or her consort 810 Artemis Εφεστια 1220 Ba'al 1192 (?) Dion (?), consort of Dione 353 Dios, the Thraco-Phrygian sky-god 280 f. earth-mother 592 (?) 595 846 hero in snake form (?) 1111 Hittite bull-god 910₁ Kronos 554 601 845 Lykos 1013 Minos 940₀ Zan 349 f. 353 f. 842

Superseded by Apollon 180 816 902₀ Authentēs Christos 945₀ Bes 675 Christ 945₀ 1209 St Elias 875₁₍₅₎ 894₁ 894₃ 897₅ 898₅ 899₂ 902₁ 906₀ 922₄ 1073 1227 St Gerlando 910₁ God 506 Holy Cross (Timios Staurōs) 935₀ 939₀ St John 923₀ St Michael 894₃ 895₀

Survives as Zanos (Zānos) or Zonos (Zānos) in modern Crete 353

— absent from original Orphic cosmogony (?) 1051 acorn of (chestnut or other species of nut) 775₀ all things created anew in belly of 1027 altars of 15 ff. 187 231₈ 259₀ 291₂ 873₁ 875₁₍₂₎ 892₄ 937₀ 950₀ ff. 952₀ f. 975₀ f. 1099₂ 1100₀ 1105 1141 1144₂ 1147 1180 f. 1228 annually reborn as Zagreus 934₀ 938₀ 'appellativisch' 1137₀ (?) back of, aēr 1028 belly of, the earth 1028 blood from birth of 928₀ 929₀ body of, the various parts of the world 1028 f. breast of, aēr 1028 bull as theanthropic animal of, in Crete 539 cave of, at Inönü in Phrygia 249₂ chariot of 27 33 43 63₀ 820 830 ff. 851 950₀ cherry of 775₀ consecrated men called Zāves by the Greeks 343₀ dead husband consecrated as Zeus Κτήσιος 1067 decrees of, confirmed by Dionysos 1030 dedication of Zeus Σαουάξιος (= Σαβάξιος) to Zeus Κορυφαίος 285₀ Dionysiac traits in cult of 909₀ Dionysos called Διὸς φῶς 273 distaff of (vervain) 775₀ eagle as messenger of 950₀ ear of 1028 Elpides of 962₀ epiphany of 982₀ epitaph of 220₆ (See also tomb of) eye-brows of (ox-eye) 775₀ eyes of 950₀ eyes of, emit lightning 502 ff. eyes of, the sun and moon 117 1028 feet of, the Underworld 1028 fleece of 1065 1140 1166₃ (?) flower of (carnation?) 775₀ garden of 1017 1021 1027 girdle of, the sea 1028 of gold 1190 golden (?) mattock of 806, grave-stones dedicated to 292₄ hair of, the stars 1028 head and face of, the sky 1028 hearth of 815 Herakles called Διὸς παῖς 273 herald of 1141 Hittite traits in cult of 615 f. horn of Zeus 'Αμμων worn by Arsinoe ii 773₀ 1136₄ horns of, the Milky Way 1028 horse of 830 horses of 436₁ 830; (See also Typhes in chariot) house of 44₁ 342₀ 344₀ hymn to, by Kleantes 854 ff. hymn to Orphic 1027 1028 images fallen from 963₀ immoralities of, attacked by Christian apologists 942₀ inherits double axe from 'Minoan' sky-god 559 installation of 285₀ invents parasites 1169 jars of 1054 ff. laws of 929₀ 933₀ love towards, denied by Aristotle 1167 men the offspring of 855 mind of 321₁ mind of, aithēr 1028 f. miraculous spring of, at Tyana 569₄ mysteries of (See Rites mysteries) a name common to the three brothers Zeus, Poseidon, and Hades 582₄ navel of 190 ff. 191₁₀ oldest surviving temple of 915₂ in the Orphic theogonies 1051 palace of 1226 pillars of 423 plain of 1021 in the plural (Διες) 1219 in the plural (Διες Κτήσιοι) 321 in the plural (Διτοί) 252₃ in the plural (Zāves) 343₀ 349 profile of, on Mt Juktas 940₀ rays of 876₀ rebirth of 230 381 522 852 road of 36 f. 52 464 840 843 Rumour the messenger of 904₃ sacred eels of 590₃ sacred grove of 975₀ sacred lands of 930₀ sacred meadows of

Zeus (cont.)

Zeus (cont.)

933₀ sacred stone of 982₀ f. in the Salian hymn (?) 328 ff. salt pool of 616₁ scales of 734₃ sceptre of 956₂ 1026 1030 1058 1131 1132 shoulders of, aér 1028 sinews of 228 449₀ 450₀ spear of 15₀ 547₂ 704 ff. spring of 569₄ 590₃ 890₆ 1118 f. staff of (vervain) 396₀ 397₀ swathing-bands of 929₀ sword of 591 705 712 ff. 848 threatens to cut men in halves 672₁ three gods of the name Zeus (Iupiter) distinguished 941₀ throne of 343₀ 475₇ 838 1082 1131 toast of Zeus Σωτήρ 1129₀ tomb of 219 341₆ 348 354 556₀ 694₀ 695₀ 696₀ 934₀ 940₀ ff. touch of 961₀ tower of 343₀ 354 travestied 1033 treasury of 23 triad of Zeuses 1093₁ watch-tower of 343₀ 354 whip of 260₀ 824 ff. 851 will of 14₁ 261₀ winds as horses of 830₇ wings of 1028 wisdom of 258₃ wrath of 1097₂ 1098₁ 1098₂

Zeus, as name of a ship 987₀

Zeus Hýpatos, as name of a ship 876₀

Zeus, king of Crete 940₀ 941₀ 942₀

Zeus, the planet

Function: γένεσις 558₀

Zibeleŷis

Cult: Getai 822 851

Etymology: 823

Zio See Ziu

Ziobe See Zougo

Zioter (Zeter) 1212

Ziu 50 ff.

Functions: sky 50 81 storm 81 sun 81 warrior 50

Identified with Ares 50

Attributes: spear 76 swan (?) 51₁ sword 77 thunderbolt 75₁ 76 thunder-drum (?) 83 wheel 77₂ 78₁ 78₂

Types: bearded 74 ff. beardless 74 f. driver of two-horse chariot 75 rider on horse supported by male giant 74 ff.

Identified with Dings (?) 50 f. Er 50 f.

114 Iring (?) 51 f. Irmin 52 114

Sahsnot 50 f.

Assimilated to Iupiter 74 ff. 78₂ 80₂

In relation to Wodan 62₁

— name of, attached to Runic letter 1212 f.

Zobe See Zougo

Zogui See Zougo

Zonos 353

Zophasemin

Genealogy: children of Mot 1038

Etymology: 1038

Zoroastres 33 ff.

Genealogy: descendant of Ninos and Semiramis Rhea 694₀

Etymology: 33 ff.

Identified with Er, s. of Armenios 54₁

— perpetual fire on mountain of 33 97₀

Zougo (Zogui)

Cult: bearded and breasted goddess (? Zobe ? Ziobe) 595 f. 846 1220

INDEX II

SUBJECTS AUTHORITIES

The larger numerals refer to pages, the smaller numerals to foot-notes.

- Ábata* of Zeus on Mt Oite 903₂ of Zeus
Δικραῖος 928₀ of Zeus Καταιβάτης 21 f. of Zeus Φίλιος 1178
- Abbott, G. F. 3 36₃ 480₇ 1112₇ 1164₁
- Abeken, W. 708 918₀
- Abel, E. 12₃ 1019 1029
- Abrahams, Miss E. B. 515₂
- Acclamation of imperial house 980₀
- Acieris* 630
- Acorn of Iupiter (walnut) 775₀ of Zeus
(chestnut or other species of nut) 775₀
- Acorns 405 407₀ 410₀ 523 802 965₀ 1166₁
- Actors, Etruscan 378
- Acy, E. d' 690₁
- Adam, J. 44₃ 44₄ 54₁
- Adamant 447₈ 449₀
- Adelphoi* in cult of Theos Hypsistos 883₀₍₂₅₎ 885₀₍₀₎
- Adler, E. N. 888₀₍₀₎
- Adler, Frau 807₃₍₃₎ 873₂ 907₀ 981₁ 982₀ 983₀
987₀
- Adulterers in Tenedos slain with two sacred axes 668 f.
- Ádya* of Asklepios at Trikke 1088 of Zeus
Ὀλύμπιος at Agrigentum 915₀ 1227
- Adze held by statuette 387₄(?) in Egypt
545₀ tombstones of Gallia Lugu-dunensis dedicated sub ascia 547₀
- Adze-worship of Gaul 547₀
- Aér* 611₂ 949₅
- conceived as shoulders, breast, and back of Zeus 1028
- Aeraki, G. 935₀
- Aerolite 983₀(?)
- Agápe*, the 'love-supper' of the early Christians 1173
- Agnus castus* 517₃(?) 972₁ 1118
- Agonistic amphorae (?) 1064 tables 490₀₍₅₎ 491₀₍₀₎ urns 490₀₍₅₎ 491₀₍₀₎ 562
- Agrenón* 167 170₂ 181₁ 187₄ 192 574 592
- Agyiús*-pillar 160 ff. 499 676 841 f. 844
- compared with Diana-pillar 160 confused with herm 160₅
- Ahlwardt, C. W. 855₁
- Ahrens, H. L. 294₀ 344 463₁ 495₆ 582
- Aigis* Salian shield as 377 worn by em-perors 1194 worn by Zeus (See Index I Zeus Attributes)
- Aithér* 611₂ 840 949₅ 950₀ 1026 1029
- conceived as ear(?) of Zeus 1028₈ conceived as mind of Zeus 1028 f.
- Akropóleis* sacred to Zeus 873₀
- Akrotéria* 16₁ 1102₈
- Alábastron* 305₀
- Albers, C. 868₆
- Alberti, J. 665₀ 1218
- Alders 472 949₅
- Allegorical (?) figure of Kairos by Lysippos
859 f.
- Allen, J. Romilly 604
- Allen, T. W. 353₁
- Allène, H. 118₂
- Almonds 154₀ 298 300
- Almond-tree 295 969₄ 970₀
- Altar, 'baetyllic' 193₂
- bearing image of Mt Argaios 978₀ before sacred tree 285₀ blood poured over 517₁ decorated with double axe 1228 entwined with snake and flanked by snakes 1175 garlanded 1193 1194₄ holed 1056 1058 in two stages 975₀ of Apollon 163₄ of ashes at Olympia 21
955₀ of ashes at Pergamon 955₀ 1181 of brushwood in Skythia 547₃ of Chians at Delphoi 170₂ of horns in Delos 1227 of roughly squared stones in Crete 926₀ of rude stones at Athens 1117 of rude stones on vase 903₀ of silver in Persia
34₁ of wooden blocks on Mt Kithairon 898₆ of Zeus 1141 of Zeus 'Αφέσιος 892₄ of Zeus Βουλαῖος 259₀ of Zeus 'Ιδαῖος in Crete 937₀ of Zeus 'Ιδαῖος in Phrygia 950₀ ff. of Zeus Καταιβάτης 15 ff. of Zeus Κεραῖνιος 1228 of Zeus Λαβραῖνδος
1228 of Zeus Λαβραῖνδος 1228 of Zeus
Λιταῖος 1099₂ 1100₀ of Zeus Λύκαιος
187 1105 of Zeus Στράτιος 975₀ f. of Zeus Τέλειος 1147 of Zeus 'Τέτιος 1144₂ of Zeus 'Τπαρος 875₁₍₂₎ of Zeus Φίλιος
1180 of Zeus Φύγιος 1144₂ portable 1128₀ rock-cut 937₀ 952₀ f. stepped 263 surmounted by ritual horns 517 with boar in relief 1063 with festoon-bearing eagle 302 with four legs and central stem 193₂ pl. xi with hollow for libations 983₀ See also Pillar-altars, Table-altar
- Altars, bilingual, from Palmyra 885₀₍₂₉₎ 886₀₍₀₎ dedicated to Zeus on mountaintops 873₁ fire-altars(?) 426 of Zeus 231₈ twelve dedicated to Janus as god of months 336₈

- Aly, W. 456 925₁ 926₀ 1227
- Amber as Hyperborean offering (?) 498 as juice or sweat of solar rays 499 as tears of Apollon 484 843 as tears of Heliades 484 cp. 477 as tears of meleagrídes 497 associated with sun-god (?) 498 637 beads of 498 636 f. called élektron 397₀ 499 carvings in 938₀ 1221 collected from trees (?) 473, compared with gum tragacanth 483 compared with resin from storax-trees 492₀₍₀₎ double axes of 636 f. studs of 618 with neolithic borings and cup-marks 498
- Amber routes 493₂ 814
— correspond with routes of Hyperborean offerings to Apollon at Delos 497 f. from Baltic to Adriatic viâ Elbe, Moldau, Danube, etc. 494 497 f. from Baltic to Black Sea viâ Vistula and Dniester 494 498
- Ambrosch, J. A. 641₂ 803
- Ambrosia* 275 928₀
- Ambrosia*, a mixture of water, oil, and seeds 1058
- Ambrosia*, lily called 773₀
- Amelung, W. 103₀ 407₀ 409₀ 515₂ 1079 1225
- Amnion* 517₁
- Amphora*, water spilt from, as rain-charm 832 f.
- Amulets 125 f. 141₂ 387₄ 410₀ 528 540 f. 625 f. 699 802 1084 1200₃ 1200₄
- Anagnórisis* 1013₁
- Ancestor, buried, represented as phallós 1089
- Anchor as symbol of Okeanos 479
— leaden, inscribed Aphrodite Σάφουσα 987₀ inscribed Zeus Κάσι(ο)ς Σάψ[ων] 987₀ inscribed Zeus "Ἰπάρως 876₀
- Anderson, J. G. C. 883₀₍₀₎
- Anderson, W. J. 965₀
- André, A. 1198 1208
- Andre, F. 195₁
- Andree, R. 479₅ 480₂ 482₂
- Andrian, F. von 236₅ 868₆
- Androgynous deities at Babylon 675 at Rome 1060 in Egypt 772₁ in Galatia 969₄ of Orphists: Ananke or Adrasteia 1022 of Orphists: Phanes 1026
- Angermann, C. T. 350₄ 1087
- Animal names given to priests and priestesses 215₁
- Animals made of bread or wax as surrogates 1140₅
- Ankh* 1200₃ (?)
- Anrich, G. 116₀ 123₀
- Ansa lunata* 542
- Anson, L. 491₀₍₀₎ 810₀
- Ansted, D. T. 907₂
- Anthropogony, Egyptian 1023 Orphic 1032 of Sanchouniathon 1037
- Anthropomorphic conception of the sky I of thunderbolt 783 f. 810 850 of thunder and lightning 828 of Zeus Μεταχίτος and Zeus Φίλιος 1173
- Anthropomorphism, progressive (bundle of herbs, puppet, bust, statue) 1172
- Antiphraasis* 1112₇
- Antonesco, T. 113₀
- Anz, W. 129₁
- Ape 649₄ (?) 987₀
- Apodiopómpesis* 1099₁
- Apotheosis, caldron of 210 ff. 841 1031 f. of Getai 227 of Homer 1203₄ of 'king' and 'queen' at Athens 1137₂ of Miltiades at Delphoi (?) 1137₂ of Orphic votary 121₁ of Salmoxis 226 f. on eastern frieze of Parthenon 1135 ff.
- Apotrópaia* 217₀ 291₂ 367₁ 506 ff. 642 f. 645 ff. 654 667₄ 702 ff. 712 827 1058 1162₃ 1224
- Appellative of deity becomes separate personality 1152₄ (Euryodeia) 1089 (Telesphora) varies from time to time and place to place 1160
- Apples 187₄ (?) 672 as prize in athletic contest 467 490₀₍₅₎ 964₂ (?) golden 134₁ 488₀₍₂₎ 1003 1014 1016 f. 1020 f. 1030 golden, surmounted by cross 609 of Hesperides 134₁ of Manto 488₀₍₂₎ of Venus Caelestis 68₂ on sceptres 763₁ singing 1009 ff. 1016 sons born with 1008 f.
- Apple-branch 134₁ 1011
- Apple-tree as lucky tree 403₀ at Gryneia 489₀₍₄₎ 490₀₍₀₎ in folk-tales 1011 1016 of Diana Nemorensis (?) 420₁ of king Volsung 682
- Apsidal temples at Arne in Boiotia, Mt Ptoion, the Theban Kabeirion, Thespiai 900₀ of Athena Πολλάς at Gonnoi 870₀ of Cheiron (?) on Mt Pelion 870₀ of Kabeiroi at Pergamon (?) 953₃
- Aqueducts of Mylasa 591₄ of Pergamon 956₀ of Urbs Salvia 803
- Arbois de Jubainville, H. d' 476₁₂ 989
- Arch above Aphrodite 363 above Artemis Περγαλα (?) 363 above Chippa 362 above Isis 362 above Nemesis 363 above Semele (?) carrying Dionysos (?) 362 f. as type of Ianus 354 ff. 842 at Oea 360₂ at Rheims 359₃ at Saint Remy 359₂ in Forum Boarium at Rome 360₃ of Constantine 361₅ of Ianus at entrance of Roman Forum 355 ff. of Titus 360₁ 1203₇ of Trajan at Beneventum 1181₀ of Trajan at Rome 361₅ over gods 365 ff. over goddesses 362 f. starry, in Hindu art 367 triumphal, its original character and purpose 359 ff. winged 362
- Archaistic reliefs 199 ff. 1203₃ 1229
- Arfert, P. 994₁
- Arm, golden, in English tale 224₁
- Armlets of silver 998
- Armstrong, G. C. 1217
- Arndt, P. 393₃ 598
- Arneth, J. 699₄
- Arnim, J. von 854₀ 855₁ 856₁ 856₂ 856₄ 856 858₁ 858₄

Arnold, E. 71₅
 Arrows of Kāma 774₁
 Arrow-head, neolithic, regarded as thunderbolt 528 767₂ set in gold, silver, or bronze 528₅ set in golden lily 528
 Arranitopoulos, A. S. 272₅ 815₂ 870₀ 871₀
Ascia See Adze
 Ashby, T. 142₂
 Ashes buried in amphorae 870₀ holy 791₀ of Titans made into men 1032
 Ash-trees 949₅
 Asphodel 1154
 Asses connected with Dionysos 464 connected with Satyroi 464 connected with Silenos 464 connected with Vesta 99₄ cult of 464₆ milk of 463₁ must not enter precinct of Elektryone 499₅ sacrificed to Apollon 463 f. 463₁ sacrificed to Ares 464 sacrificed to Priapos 464 sacrificed to Winds 464
 Assmann, E. 580₃ 600₃
 Astragalomantic inscription 807₅₍₅₎ 1067
Astragalos 1030
Astrapé 11
Astropelékia 506
 — called also astrapopelékia and astrapó-boula 506 844
Asyia 578₄₍₁₎
Athanasia in later Platonism 1168₂
 Atkinson, B. F. C. 823 824₁ 851 947₀ 1217 1219 f. 1229
 Atlantes 915₀ 1227
 Atonement, rite of 1097₂
 Attribute as intermediate phase between fetish and symbol 617 814
 Audollent, A. 889₀₍₁₀₎ 889₀₍₃₄₎ Augenblicksgötter 13₁ 827 851
 aus'm Weerth, E. 74₄
 Aust, E. 46₀ 724₀ 1172₀
 Austen, G. E. V. 699
 Avellino, F. M. 1041
 Axe as currency unit 618 (?) 655₁ 656₀ as father of she-bear's son 679 as visible token of sky-god 698 as weapon of sky-god 677 bronze, regarded as thunderbolt 559₂ bronze, survives for sacrificial purposes 630 carried by priests and priestesses 620 ff. 847 ceremonial 620 ff. 635 ff. 646 ceremonial, adorned with gold and amber 618 ceremonial, of bronze over clay core 618 ceremonial, of copper 617 combined with animal's head 110₂ combined with bull 622₃ 633 combined with forepart of horse 633 f. combined with horse or rider 618 635 combined with lion's head 631 f. combined with stag and hounds 639 combined with tree or column or pillar implies union of sky-god with earth-goddess 533 combined with wolf's head 632 decorated with swastika 647₄ decorated with zigzags and spirals 1221 hafted, symbolises union of sky-father with earth-mother

Axe (cont.)

677 imbedded in stalactite pillar 530 ff. 677 imbedded in tree 677 683 f. 692 imbedded in wooden column 528 f. 677 in connexion with bird and tree 692 in rites of Intercidona 643₃ inscribed, from Delphoi 628 miniature 637 f. miniature, becomes quasi-anthropomorphic pendant 647 ff. miniature, inscribed 619 1221 of iron set up as preservative against lightning and hail 704 of stone or bronze arranged for solar cult (?) 618 of stone engraved with Mithraic subjects 510 f. of stone inscribed 507 510 ff. of stone kept as preservative against fire 506₈ of stone kept as preservative against lightning 506 f. of stone kept as preservative against thunder 703 f. of stone regarded as thunderbolt 505 ff. of stone set in gold 506 510 of stone set in iron 509 of stone worn as apotropaion 506 509 f. of stone ('thunderstone') worshipped in India 790 792 of Noah 609 f. of Roman licitor 633 ff. 680 847 1221 of Sir Hywel-y-Vwyall 703₂ poised on pole 702 sacred, distinguished by colour, size, or decoration 635 ff. 847 sacred, modified into gong 649 ff. sacred, set upright on throne 545₀ sacred, with green haft 544₃ superstitious practices with 698 ff. 848 suspended by cord 702 f. symbolic 635 f. thrown from boat on river Stour 703₂ two-handled 620 f. used for divination 701 ff. used to kill off aged and infirm (?) 703₂ votive 646 f. 668 f. with crescentic perforated blade 620 f. 622 623₂
 — double, affixed to wooden column 533 845 as heirloom of Lydian kings 572 as unit of currency 655₁ as weapon of sky-god 513 516 518 552 676 845 848 associated with sacred tree 643 at Tenedos 654 ff. belongs primarily to sky-god, secondarily to earth-goddess associated with him 533 625 846 between corn-ears and grape-bunch 564 between horns of bucrania 539 between horns of bull's head 527 538 between ritual horns 539 845 borne by kings of Lydia 559 561 borne by youthful Hittite god 552 bound with fillet 565 573 brought by Arselis from Lydia into Karia 559 572 845 called λάβρυς by Lydians 560 combined with crab 663 combined with lily 774 combined with trident 532₁ 577 connected by means of fillet with amphora 657 connected by means of fillet with Nike 657 f. decorated with concentric circles 646 f. decorated with diagonals and zigzags 639 ff. decorated with swastika 647₄ decoration of 635 ff. deity of 543 ff. descending from sky 516 525 845 duplicated to denote god and goddess (?)

Axe (cont.)

537 653 duplication of 652 ff. 668 essentially the weapon of a god, not a goddess 601 flanked by pair of pillars 524 f. from Delphoi 190₀ hafted in leafy stem 528 653 845 hafted in tree-trunk 517 f. 520 f. 533 845 head of, with panther (?) 599₂ held by winged sky-god (?) 544 845 hidden meaning of, in Gnostic teaching 613 imbedded in wooden columns 528 f. 532 845 implies anthropomorphic sky-god 543 ff. in Crete, primarily the attribute of Kronos, secondarily that of Rhea 601 in Egypt 545₀ in Karia 559 f. 561 572 ff. 586 601 601₃ 845 f. in Lydia 559 ff. 638 845 in mid air 514 ff. 623₂ (?) in 'Minoan' cult 513 ff. 844 1221 in pairs 308₁ in Phrygia 565 ff. 610 845 in relation to columns or pillars 528 ff. in relation to descending warrior-deity 543 in relation to horns 535 ff. cp. 1221 in relation to labarum 601 ff. 846 in relation to Labyrinth 600 f. 846 in relation to tree- or plant-forms 516 ff. in relief on pitthoi 926₀ in western Europe 617 ff. in western and northern Europe gives place to single axe and hammer 620 incised on 'Minoan' pillars 532 f. incised on 'Minoan' wall 532₁ inserted in stalactite pillars 530 ff. 845 of amber 636 f. of bronze 637 of bronze decorated with moth 643 ff. of bronze plated with gold 637 of copper for exchange or ceremony 617 of electrum 637 f. of gold 518 520 538 637 f. of iron in bundle of iron rods 1221 of ivory 640₀ 1221 of lead 540 of steatite 535 of Athena 625 f. 847 of Constantine the Great (?) 609 of Epeios 613 of Hellos 677 f. of Hephaistos 709 f. of Hippolyte 559 of Kabeiros 953₃ of Thracian woman 122₀ of Zeus Λαβράνδος 559 ff. 845 f. of Zeus Σαβάριος (?) 283₀ on head of 'Minoan' goddess 1221 on stepped base between two pillars 524 f. 656 passes through successive phases of fetish, attribute, and symbol 617 pictograph of, passes into linear forms, and thence into syllabic and alphabetic characters 613 613₂ scenes from worship of 517 f. 519 ff. shouldered by panther (?) 572 simulating lily-forms 524 527 soul of, represented as butterfly (moth) 315₃ cp. 643 ff. 847 surmounted by raven (?) 518 520 survives in Gnostic teaching 611 f. 846 survives in Ophite belief 610 f. 846 symbolises union of sky-father with earth-mother 653 657 673 677 twined with snake 565 twined with snake and surmounted by radiate head 565 votive 629 669₃ with duplicated blades 516 518 520 535 538 847 with eagle standing on it

Axe (cont.)

573 with multiple blades 624 654 847 with palm-branches 573 within bay-wreath 565 573
 Axe-bearing god 535 543 ff.
 — of 'Minoans' identified with Kronos 548 ff.
 Axe-blades and axe-hafts in megalithic art of western Europe 685 ff.
 Axe-cult See Axe-worship
 Axe-haft, golden 989 silver 989 See also Axe-blades
 Axe-hammer 627₅ 635 f.
 Axe-head adorned with figure of horse or rider 618 combined with animal-head 632₆ combined with lion 632₆ combined with lion and hounds 632₆ combined with two lions and prey 635₃ combined with lioness 1221 of semi-precious stone 635 f. symbolic or model 633
 Axe-shaped pendants 647 ff. 698 847
 Axe-worship 544₃ ff. development of 609 in Assyria 545₀ in Crete 513 ff. 535 ff. 623 ff. in Crete and Tenedos compared 522 537 668 in Egypt 544₃ 545₀ 685 in Gaul 547₀ 685 ff. in Karia 572 ff. 685 in Lydia 559 ff. 572 587 in Mesopotamia 545₀ 546₀ in northern islands of Aegean 314 at Pagasai 660 685 in Persia 546₀ in Phrygia 565 ff. in Rome 546₀ in Tenedos 522 654 ff. 685 847
Axinomanteia 546₀ (?) 701 ff.
 Axis of universe 44₃ 169 170₁ 840
Axones of Solon 1093₁ 1094₀ 1095₀
 B., G. Ch. 1003₂
 Babelon, E. 382₃ 429₅ 430₁ 592₄ 635₂ 656₄ 658₂ 674₁ 674₃ 674₅ 675₅ 675₇ 676₅ 707₂₋₅ 741 741₂ 747₁ 755₄ 762₀ 796₀ 975₀ 983₀ 1085 1172₀ 1189₆ 1192₂
 Baboon worshipped in Egypt 987₀
 Bachmann, L. 260₀
 Bachmeyer, L. 76₁
 Bachofen, J. J. 230₁ 680₁
 Back, F. 164₆
 Bährens, E. 329₀₍₄₎ 337₄
 Bahrfeldt, M. 676₁ 676₂
 Bailey, C. 2₃
Baitylos, anthropomorphised 555₀
Bákchos 199₂
 Ball as agonistic type 964₂ (?) as toy of Zagreus 1030 cosmic significance of 933₀ golden, of infant Zeus 933₀ cp. 1227
 Band, O. 1137₃ 1138₄ 1139 1140₂
 Banduri, A. 106₂ 107₃
 Bangert, A. 476₁₂
 Banner of Constantine the Great 603
 Banquet at sacrifice of Persian kings 974₁ at sacrifice to Zeus Σεράριος 974₁ celestial 1197 in cult of St Elias 975₀ of Thyestes 1021
 Banqueting-hall of Nero, circular 254₅
 Baptism, Christian 123₀ in blood of bull and ram 306

- Bardocucullus* 1089
 Baring-Gould, S. 671₄ 1002
 Barley offered to Apollon Γερέτωρ 223₃
 Barley-grains 18₆
 Bartels, M. 960₀
 Barth, H. 905₀
 Base, the Chigi 199₂ pl. xii
Basileüs on eastern frieze of Parthenon 1135 ff.
Basilides worn by basileüs at Athens 1136
Basilissa (Basilinna) on eastern frieze of Parthenon 1135 ff.
 Basket 1175 1199 1205₄ Cabiric 299
 Basons, golden 1009
 Bassi, D. 641₂
 Bate, Miss D. M. A. 939₀
 Bates, W. N. 466₂
 Bather, A. G. 303₂ 827₂
 Battle-axe borne by rider-god 312₅
 Baud-Bovy, D. 905₀ 906₀
 Baudissin, Count W. W. 553₂ 675₄ 886₀₍₃₀₎
 887₀₍₀₎ 970₀ 981₁ 983₀ 987₀ 1037 1038 1109₀
 Bauer, K. 1197₃
 Baumeister, A. 154₀ 479₂ 853₅ 854₅ 861₇
 865₂ 874₁ 1044
 Baumstark, A. 128₄
 Baunack, T. 1082
 Baur, P. V. C. 615 615₂ 615₃
 Bay-branch 203₀ 207₀ 262 ff. 461₀ 565₃ 630 1170₃ 1193
 Bayfield, M. A. 502₂ 1067 1100₀
 Bay-leaves chewed by the Pythia and others for mantic, prophylactic, cathartic, or hygienic reasons 264₂ garland of 302
 Bayley, H. 139₃
 Bay-tree 308₁ 400₁₁ 486 710 844 949₅ called tripos 196 highly charged with divinity, but not a vegetable form of Apollon 264₂ not struck by lightning 751₂
 Bay-trunk 196
 Bay-wreath 244 258 262 ff. 388 390 470 490₀₍₅₎ 573 577 597₃ 714₂ 756₁ 902₂(?) 924₀ 946₀ 1091 1158₀ 1187₄ 1192 f. 1223 embroidered 244₄ enclosing Charites 1193 of gilt bronze 301₁ of gold 301(?) 464 preceded by oak-wreath as prize at Pythian games 486
 Beads, amber 498 636 f. button 647₆ eye 647₆
 Beam worshipped at Rome as sort of ianus 364 f.
 Beanstalk, Jack and the 88₃
 Bear in ancient religion 680₁ in folk-tales from Pyrenees 402₁ in relation to Artemis 680 in relation to Zeus 227 ff. mates with wood-cutting priest 678 f. metamorphosis into 227 ff. priestess of Artemis conceived as 228₄(?)
 Bear's Hole(?) as name of Idaean Cave 939₀
 Bears as nurses of Zeus 227 f. 928₀ 939₀ sinews of 449₀
 'Bears,' worshippers of Artemis Βραρυπρία called 228₄
 Bear-goddess (Kallisto) 1114₀₍₆₎
 Bear-skin 227 228 449₀ 450₀
 Beard of Jupiter (silver-bush) 775₀
 Beast-bridgroom 666₃
 Beasts substituted for new-born children 1012
 Beating with sacred rods 635
 Beausobre, I. de 44₄
 Beauty of the Laud 1007 1016
 Beazley, J. D. 212₀ 731₂ 733 733₁ 735 777₂ 902₂ 1223
 Bechtel, F. 384₀ 444₀ 481₄ 779₀ 815₃ 901₀
 Becker, J. 88₀
 Bed of Prokroustes 627
 Beech-tree as ritual equivalent of oak 402 f. not struck by lightning 403₀ of C. Passienus Crispus 403₀ of Diana on Mt Corne 403₁ of Diana Nemorensis(?) 420₁ of Iupiter Fagutalis 403₀ on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ sacred in Aquitania 402₁
 Bees in relation to Demeter and Persephone 1142; in relation to Zeus 1112₆ Kronos drunk on honey of 1027 nurture Zeus 928₀ 929₀ 1112₆ on statue of Artemis Ἐφεστία 407₀ recompensed by Zeus 933₀ sprung from wasps and sun 928₀
 Bee-eater in myth of Merops king of Kos 1132₁ in relation to hoopoe 1131₂
 Beer, R. 868₆
 Beetle, Aetnaean 909₀ wings of 1047
 Belemnites regarded as thunderbolts 767₂ 932₁
 Bell 652
 Bellori, G. P. 406₀
 Beloch, K. J. 925₁ 926₀ 929₀
 Belt-hooks 432₃
Benedictio Latina derived from attitude of Phrygian Zeus 291
 Benefactors of society worshipped in Phoinike and Egypt 1132₆
Benna 883₀₍₀₎
 Benndorf, O. 111₁ 112₁ 265₄ 375₁ 406₀ 455₁ 599₂ 759₂ 859₂ 878₀₍₁₀₎ 962₂ 971₂
 Bennett, Miss F. M. 560₄ 1196₂
 Bennett, S. A. 92₁
 Benseler, G. E. 350₄ 414₀ 451₁ 873₂
 Bent, J. T. 691₀
 Benzinger, I. 888₀₍₀₎
 Bérard, V. 1148₁₀ 1149₀
 Berger, E. H. 482
 Berger, P. 613₂
 Bergk, T. 37₂ 251₂ 329₀₍₃₎ 337₄ 812₁ 855₁ 872₀₍₅₎
 Bernays, J. 343₀
 Berneker, E. 487₂
 Bernhardt, G. 22₃
 Bernoulli, J. J. 389 f.
 Bertrand, A. 87₁ 285₀
 Besnier, M. 726₀
 Beth, K. 1025
 Bethe, E. 290₀ 435 437₆ 1019₂ 1044 1064 1071 1072

- Beulé, E. 157₀ 1095₀ 1148₂
 Bevan, E. R. 1189₂
 Biblical tale influences Greek myth 240₇
 Bicknell, C. 688₀ 690₀
 Bicknell, C. D. 1213
Bidens, 'forked lightning,' 'lightning-fork'
 805 f.
Bidens, 'sheep' 806
 Bident convertible into trident 1225
Bidental 789 792 805 f.
 Bieber, Fräulein M. 917₀
 Bifrontal deity as local variety of the divine Sky 383 ff. the two faces of, differentiated 387 ff. various types of 341₀ 365 ff.
 Bill-hook 475 550 627₆
 Bingham, C. W. 604₆
 Biot, J. B. 1017₄
 Birch, S. 1042
 Birch-tree 642₃
 Bird as numen of sacred tree 692 golden 1012₁ in connexion with axe and tree
 692 of Truth 1010 f. 1016 speaking 1009 f. 1012₁ 1016 turning men into stone 1005 understanding all languages
 (Dikjeretto) 1005 1016
 Bird's head 833₁
 Bird's nest 1199₂ (?)
 Birds, language of 1004 1016 not worshipped by Babylonians and Assyrians 696₀ Periphas as king of 1122 Road of the 38 462
 Bird-names borne by Greek and Italian tribes 1134₉
 Bird-transformations 463₁ 928₀
 Birks, E. B. 855₁
 Birt, T. 328₅ 329₀₍₇₎ 1059 1060
 Birthday of Apollon 236
 Bischoff, E. 118₃
 Bissing, F. W. von 538₅ 1216
 Black ram 471₁₀ 934₀ wool 934₀ 942₀
 Blackbird 1011 1016
 Black-poplar in myth of Dryope 486 of Demeter felled by Erysichthon 497₅
 Black-poplars as Otherworld trees 472 843 in relation to Apollon 484 ff. 500 in the Ustrinum Augusti 472 in woods of Persephone 472 on banks of Eridanos
 484 f. 843
 Black-poplar-leaves 472
 Blanchet, A. 618
 Blanchet, J. A. 382₃ 658₂ 747₁ 755₄
 Blass, F. 728₀
 Blaydes, F. H. M. 253₃ 277₃ 345₅ 452₁₄
 868₅ 1130₁
 Blegen, C. W. 1226
 Blinkenberg, C. 122₀ 346₀ 413₇ 505 506₇
 509₁₋₃ 510₂ 512₂ 528₅ 559₂ 642 790 923₀
 932₁ 1076 f.
 Bloch, G. 34₁
 Bloch, L. 132₀ 295₂ 315₁ 663₆
 Blood from birth of Zeus 928₀ 929₀ let fall by Zeus gives rise to men 1032 of Agdistis 969₄ of animal victims offered to dead (?) 1056 of bull and ram as Blood (cont.)
 means of baptism 306 of Giants made into men 1032 of Hermes (vervain) 395₂ of human victims poured over scimitar of Ares 548₀ of Ouranos 447₃ 448₀ of Typhon 449₀ 450₀ of young pig in rite of atonement 1097₂ poured over altar 517₁ used for inscription on trophy 111₀
 Blue hair of Zetes and Kalais 445₀ colour in Ophite diagram 611₂
 Blümner, H. 494₀ 878₀₍₂₎ 892₁ 899₁ 901₁
 1076 1137₂ 1147₁₆ 1222
 Boar as badge or standard 108 109₁ as relief on altar 1063 at foot of altar (?)
 964₂ Calydonian 799 in myth of Adonis 886₀₍₃₀₎ in myth of Attis 969₄ in myth of Saron 413 in relation to Cretan Zeus 727 leaps towards altar 964₂ oath on cut pieces of 726 f. oath taken over 728₀ on Mysian Mt Olympos 311₅
 Sæhrimnr 214₀
 Boar's head 146
 Boat, model of 521 solar 648₂ with bull's head as prow 142₁
 Boats made by descendants of Dioskouroi
 984₄
 Bobeth, W. 1135₄
 Boblaye, É. Puillon 892₄
 Bochart, S. 230₁ 465₁₁ 569₄ 675₄ 751₂ 1111₁
 1131₂ 1187₀
 Boeckh, A. 233₃ 723₀ 857₆ 954₀ 1077 1154₃
 Boehlau, J. 123₀
 Boehm 368₃
 Boehmer, W. 885₀₍₂₈₎
 Bölte 961₀
 Boëthius, A. 628₆ 817₀
 Boetticher, C. 110₉ 150₃ 152₀ 154₀ 160₀
 186 f. 199₂ 199₃ 207₀ 282₀ 1103₄ 1165₁
 Boiling, ritual 210 ff.
 Boisacq, É. 268₁ 291₂ 383₇ 421₈ 444₇ 484₅
 600₄ 723₀ 779₉ 921₀ 932₁ 1098₆ 1159₁
 Boissardus, J. J. 702₂
 Boissonnas, F. 905₀
 Bolkestein, H. 1229
 Boll, F. 237₀ 666₂
 Bolte, J. 663₃ 988₅ 988₁₁ 995₂
 Bone as fetish (?) 544₃
 Bones, human, ground for bread 1002 of birds 555₀ of Hektor 961₀ of mammoth 827₂ preserved to ensure sovereignty
 35 f. sacrificed by Lapps 423₃
 Bonfires on top of Mt Kithairon 898₀ 977₀ on tops of mountains in Pontos 974₁ f.
 977₀
 Bonhote, J. L. 523₅
 Bonner, C. 538₅ 1220
 Bonnet, M. 115₄
 Bordeaux, P. 604
 Borghesi, B. 402₀ 1090
 Bormann, E. 1172₀
 Borradaile, L. A. 663₃ 667₃
 Bosanquet, R. C. 342₀ 418₃ 520₄ 524₉ 524₁₂
 525₁ 624₀ 625 930₉ 931₀
 Bôthros 471₁₀ 1075 1229

- Bouché-Leclercq, A. 9₆ 318₃ 666₁ 702₄
1170₅ 1171₃
- Bough, golden, on which all birds sing
1003 f. 1016
- Boundary-stones 423₁ 1090
- Bousset, W. 129₁
- Bow of Apollon 202₁ 1192₅ of Artemis 202₁
453₃ of Eros 1047 (fig. 902) of Herakles
446 903₂ (?)
- Bow-case 160₀ 571
- Bowls of bronze or iron used by Bacchants to cover their breasts 346₀ of terra cotta or metal made to resemble breasts
346₀ 347₀
- Boyd, Miss H. A. (Mrs Boyd-Hawes) 538
- Boyd-Dawkins, W. 926₀
- Branch making music 1005 1016
- Brand, H. G. 480₁
- Brand, J. 374₂
- Brandenburg, C. 142₂
- Brandt, A. J. H. W. 1024
- Braun, E. 326 f. 528₂ 641₂ 709₇ 709₈ 711₁
752 801
- Breast, golden, in West Highland tale 224₁ of prince with golden sun 1012₁ of princess with golden moon 1012₁
- Breasts bared as last appeal 206₂ beaten in mourning for Attis 970₀ copied in bowls of terra cotta or metal 346₀ 347₀ cut off by the d. of Gallos' concubine 970₀ of St Agatha 347₀ of Artemis
'Ἐφέστια 406₀ ff. 410₀ of Bacchants covered with bowls of bronze or iron 346₀ of Helene 346₀ of Isis 347₀ of Iuno 37₂ of 'Minoan' females 515 515₂ of Zeus in Kappadokia 594 f. of Zeus in Karia 592 ff. 1220 (?) of Zeus in Pontos 595 f. reliefs representing 877₀₍₁₀₎ 879₀₍₁₅₎
- Breccia, E. 157₀
- Bremer, O. 50₁
- Breuil, H. 792₃
- Bridge of spikes 138₀
- Bridge, J. 504₆
- Briquet, C. M. 130₃
- Britten, J. 396₀ 471₁ 775₀
- Brizio, E. 355₅ 356
- Bronteia* 507₂
- Bronze altar 193₂ car 832 palm-tree 170₂ 262₅ pillars 423 425 ff. plaque from Rome 664₁ sheathing of the archway of Ianus 358 sky 358 virtue of beaten 649
- Bronze-age remains 31 47 ff. 122₀ 123₀
141 f. 154 157 193 509 513 ff. 617 f.
620 ff. 628 635 ff. 643 ff. 926₀ f. 938₀
- Bronzes from Delphoi 628 f. Dodona 739
cp. 746₂ 752 826 1222 Etruria 377 f.
382 432₂ 432₃ Gaul 445 f. (?) 747₁ 1089
Idaeon Cave 937₀ f. Psychro Cave
530 f. 926₀ f. Sardinia 141 ff. 446₁
Sicily (?) 374 ff.
- Broom, folk-lore of 642₃ in rites of Deverra 643₉
- Brown, R. 481₂ 1025
- Brückner, A. 1225
- Brüning, A. 45₁
- Brugmann, K. 50₁ 277₃ 413₁ 570₀ 583
1069 f.
- Brunck, R. F. P. 855₁ 856₁ 856₅ 857₃
- Brunk, A. 484₁
- Brunn, H. 211₂ 641₁ 740 1143₁ 1178
- Buck, C. D. 118₃ 723₀
- Buckland, Miss A. W. 635₇
- Buckler, W. H. 282₂ 1228
- Buckman, J. 605₁
- Bucrania* 146 157₀ 195₂ 287₁ 808₀₍₁₇₎ 838 920₀ 938₀ affixed to coffin (?) 540 and double axe 539 and double axe, decadence of 540 ff. garlanded, on me-tope 112₀ of lead as amulets 540 f. rows of 926₀ cp. 539
- Budge, Sir E. A. Wallis 125 126₇ 141₂ 409₀
544₃
- Bücheler, F. 91₁ 118₃ 119₁ 124₄ 404₂
- Bürchner, L. 318₄ 714₆ 939₀ 945₂
- Bugge, S. 305₀
- Building-inscription for temple of Zeus
Βασιλεύς at Lebadeia 900₀
- Bulard, M. 1128₀
- Bull, Adiounian, in Crete 349 Antiope dragged by 1015 as centre of procreative power 306 as effigy of river Gelas 910₁ as embodiment of Dionysos 932₀ cp.
1030 as theanthropic animal of Cretan
Zeus 539 Dirke dragged by 1013 eaten annually by worshippers of Zan 354 humped 573₅ 765₁ 766₁ 960₀ f. 973₁ in bronze 910₁ 924₀ 938₀ in iron 910₁ in ivory 938₀ in silver 910₁ in terra cotta 938₀ made for Phalaris 910₁ 924₀ of Civa 791₂ of Europe 348 of Zeus in Rhodes utters human voice (shares in human reason?) 924₀ on symbolio or model axe-head 633 ridden by Dionysos 661 sacrificed by Melampous 684 sacrificed on table-altar 517 sacrificed to Zeus Σολυμείς 973₁ sacrificed to Zeus
Στράτιος 975₀ signifies Idas 439 signifies Lynkeus 439 votive 924₀ 926₀ 938₀ white, sacrificed to Zeus 10 with gadfly on its back 946₀ with tail formed of corn-ears 299₁ Zagreus as 1030
- Bulla* 699₄
- Bull-cult See Bull-worship
- Bulle, H. 158₂ 748₀ 753₁ 1060
- Bullinger, E. W. 1210₄
- Bullock, T. W. I. 1211
- Bull's head as prow of boat 142₁ in hand of Saturnus 70₁ on gold labrys 639 on snake 1022 with double axe between horns 527 538 637
- Bull's hide made into glue 934₀ made into timbrels 345₆
- Bull's horns connected with double axe 538 f. golden, in the sky 117 1028 supporting dove 142
- Bull-slaying at Mylasa 582₅
- Bull-sports at Karyanda 582₅
- Bull-worship of Hittites 910₁
- Bunbury, E. H. 404₁ 404₃ 476₅

- Bunsen, C. C. J. von 1038
 Burchett, B. R. 355₁ 366₁ 373₄
 Buresch, K. 957₂
 Burgess, J. 150₂
 Burial, crouched 1060 f. in *pit*hos 1060
 1064 f. of head separately 290₀ of infants in subgrundarium 1059 of twin or twin's placenta 1064 within the house in Gallia Lugudunensis 1059 within the house in Greece 1060 f. 1065 within the house in Italy 1059 1229 within the house in Palestine 1059
 Burkitt, F. C. 428₆ 1200₁ 1206 1206₉ 1207
 Burkitt, M. C. 643₇ 792₃
 Burmannus, P., the elder 13 f.
 Burne, Miss C. S. 88₃
 Burnet, J. 42₅ 316₉
 Burrows, R. M. 30₃ 30₈ 600₄
 Bursian, C. 394₂ 414₀ 897₆ 898₅ 899₁ 901₁
 901₂ 903₀
 Burton, Sir R. 1012₁
 Bury, J. B. 384₀ 437₇ 607₄ 693₄ 695₀ 1179₅
 1188₁₀
 Buschmann, J. C. E. 293₁
 Buskins 1178
 Buslepp 31₈ 164₆
 Busolt, G. 910₁ 1095₀
 Butler, S. 294
 Butterfly as soul 315₃ 645₄ on chalice of Antioch 1199 on hand of Chronos 860 on pillar 1047 pursued by Eros 1047
 Butterfly-wings 645₃
 Buttman, P. 397₀ 899₁
- Cabbages 646₀
 Cades, T. 478₁ 1046 f.
Caduceus held by eagle 1193 of Agathos
 Daimon 1128₀ of Ahriman 1054 of Mercurius 70₁ of Pax 98 originates as lightning-fork (?) 385₀ represents Pe-mates 1068 winged 285₀ 441 718 1128
 Cahen, E. 1062
 Caillemer, E. 1095₀
 Cake-moulds (?) 131 802 1215
 Cakes called ἐλαφος 1140₄ in shape of wheel (summanalia) 725₀ in shapes of animals 1138₀ 1140 of wheat and honey
 1162 offered to Apollon Ἐνέτωρ 223₃
 Calder, W. M. 277 278₂ 279 429₁
 Calderini, G. 106₁
 Caldron as gong 826 at Delphoi 210 ff. at Dodona 214 826 compared with sky 204₂ in which Dionysos or Zagreus is cooked 1030 f. of apotheosis 210 ff. 841 1031 f. of apotheosis identified with Delphic tripod 219 841 of boiling oil
 1010 1019 of flames 138₀ Thesprotian
 133₀ 214₁ Titanic, identified with Delphic tripod 1031
 Caldron-chariots decorated with birds or birds' heads 833₁
 Calendar, Attie 236 Coan 238₀ Delphic
 235 f. 841 fourfold division of Julian 59 lunisolar 456 threefold division of Germanic 59
- Calf, golden 354 model of 521 of St Abban
 214₀ of St Germanus 214₀
Caligae 1089
 Calverley, W. S. 305₀
 Calvet, S. C. F. 619₃
 Cameron, J. 396₀
 Campbell, J. F. 722₁ 1012₁
Candelabra 424
 Cannibalism, ritual 1021 See also Omo-phagy
 Cap, Phrygian 285₀ 298 299₆ 300 306₄ 306₅
 308₁ 681 surmounted by star 313₂ 313₄
 313₆ 1062 winged 718
 Capelle, P. 38₅ 41₁ 43₄
 Capelle, W. 906₁
 Car, bronze, shaken in time of drought
 831 ff. votive, drawn by ox and ram
 926₀ See also Chariot
 Carapanos, C. 648₃ 677₈ 678₁ 1222
 Cardinali, G. 958₀
 Carnoy, A. 549₈
 Carolidis, P. 271₀ 312₅ 569₄ 616 f. 616₁ 715
 Cartailhac, E. 510₄ 511₁ 528₂ 541 690₂
 Carter, J. B. 440₄ 696₀
 Caryatids, archaistic 402₀ at Agrigentum 915₀ 1227 origin of 535 Phaethon's sisters as 402₀ 473
 Casaubon, I. 699
 Cassel, J. P. 109₁
 Casson, S. 495 1222
 Castanets 245₅
 Castration by knife 299₆ 684 f. by noose of bristles 969₄ of Archigallus in cult of Kybele 299 of Gallus in cult of Kybele 299₆ of Kombabos 299₇ of Kronos by Zeus 448₁ 450₁ 1027 of Ouranos by Kronos 447₈ 450₁ of Zeus by Typhon
 448₂ ff. 450₁ See also Emasculation
 Cat worshipped in Egypt 987₀
 Catalogue of the gods 1135₄
 Cattaneo, R. 865₂ 866₀
Causimomantia (?) 701₄
 Cavallari, F. S. 917₀
 Cavedoni, C. 975₀ 1042 1051
 Cave-gods, syncretism of 839
 Cave-sanctuaries called katabásia 14 of Apollon 249₀ 971₂ of Cheiron 869₂
 870₆ of Dioskouroi 1063 f. of Oidipous
 1151 ff. of Pan 249₂ of Theoi Agrioi
 971₂ of Zeus Βροντών 836 ff. 852 of Zeus Δικρατος 927₁ 928₀ 929₀ of Zeus ἐξ
Αἰλῆς 249₂ 836 f. of Zeus Ἰδαίος in Crete 838 933₀ ff. on Mt Dikte 920₀ on Mt Ide in Crete 920₀ on Mt Kamareos
 934₀ 935₀ on Mt Kynthos 920₀
 Caylus, A. C. P. de Tubières Comte de 86₁
 86₂
 Ceccaldi, G. Colonna 718₁
 Cedar-tree 412 949₅
 Celery, taboo on 987₀
 Celestial deities, worshippers of, look up 256
 Celt, neolithic, held to be thunderbolt 643 767₂ neolithic, with incised Don- nerbesen (?) 642 See also Axe of stone

- Cenotaph 1059
Ceraunia or Ceraunius lapis 507₂
 Cerquand, J. F. 989
 Cesnola, A. P. di 424₆
 Cesnola, L. P. di 424₆ 553 598 f. 718₁
 Chadwick, H. M. 32₅ 50₁ 52₆ 303₂ 500₈ 682₄
 Chain, golden 1009
 Chalices of anti-Montanists 1203 of Antioch 1197 ff.
 Chamberlain, B. H. 480₁
 Chambers, R. 150₁
 Chamonard, J. 288₅
 Champion, local, as embodiment of Zeus 1070
 Chandler, R. 535₃ 588₇
 Chantepie de la Saussaye, P. D. 50 ff. 53₂ 88₃ 110₅ 450₀ 844₆ 1218
 Chantre, E. 616₁
 Chapot, V. 107₄ 1225
 Chariot drawn by eagles 462₀ drawn by griffins 523 drawn by panthers 245₀ drawn by swans 459 f. drawn by winged horses 453₃ in cast bronze 938₀ of Amphiarao 815₇ 1071 of Ares 436₁ of Jupiter 830₆ of Luna 96 of Sol 96 of Zeus 27 33 43 63₀ 436₁ 830 ff. 851 883₀₍₀₎ (?) 950₀ solar 96 562 traversing arch of heaven 43 f. two-wheeled and hooded 961₀ with white horses plunged into sea as sacrifice to Poseidon 975₀
 See also Car
 Charles, R. H. 955₀
 Charm to secure wealth 1127₀
Chásma in Orphic cosmogony 1033
 Cherry 775₀
 Chess 682
 Chest of Kypselos 451 739₀
 Chestnuts 775₀
 Chevalier, U. 1213
 Child as amulet 387₄
 Children, golden 1007
 Chipiez, C. 49₁ 108₂ 515₁ 550₅ 551₁ 620₅ 621 621₀ 621₂ 622₂ 638₆ 805₃ 915₀
 Choisy, A. 900₀ 915₀
 Christ, W. 5₂ 36₇ 395₂ 625₅ 1021 1122₂
 Christianity, appeal of, to Thracio-Phrygians 288 842 soil prepared for, by cult of Attis 303 306 f. soil prepared for, by cult of Theos Hypsistos 889 f. soil prepared for, by cult of Zeus and Dionysos 288
 Chryselephantine statues of Aphrodite at Sikyon 1165, of Aphrodite Oύρανία at Elis 68₁ of Asklepios at Epidaurus 1078 f. of Asklepios at Sikyon 1080 f. of Hera at Argos 893₂ of Zeus at Daphne near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1188 f. of Zeus at Megara 1138₅ of Zeus at Olympia 758 916₀ 1189 of Zeus at Syracuse (?) 916₀
 Chthonian deities, worshippers of, look down 256 lightning 805₆ thunder 805₆
 Chwolsohn, D. 129₂
 Ciaceri, E. 915₂ 916₀ 917₀
 Cicalas 460 1118
 Cichorius, C. 105₇ 113₀ 567₃ 940₀
 Circle of fires or torches in Orphic ritual (?) 120₃
Circ perdue 644 644₁
Cistae, bronze 1144₂
 Cistern, curative, on rock-cut altar of Zeus Ίδαίος in Phrygia 953₀ of Zeus Κύνθιος and Athena Κυνθία 919₀ 920₀ 922₀
 Clarke, J. Thacher 876₁₍₁₎ 951₀ f.
 Clédat, J. 985₀ 985₁
 Clerc, M. 561₇ 1110
 Clermont-Ganneau, C. 888₀₍₀₎ 1087 1111₀
 Clothes of women worn by men 1137₀
 Cloud, fragrant, on Mt Gargaron 950₀
 — on mountain of Zeus Ἐλλάδιος a sign of rain 89₄₃
 Clouds on Mt Athos portend rain 906₁ on Mt Hymettos portend rain, wind, and storm 897₅ on Mt Pelion portend rain or wind 904₂ over Mt Parnes and Phyle portend storm 898₀ Zeus seated on 709 cp. 950₀
 Club 383 cut from wild-olive 466 for killing aged and infirm 703₂ of Argos 380 of giant 75₀ 80 82 of Hercules 62 f. of Thor 64₀ on back of bull 633₂ symbolism of 469₁ See also Mallet
 Cluverius, P. 917₀
 Cock as shield-sign of Idomeneus 947₀ of Ahriman 1054 of Helios 947₀ of Mercurius 94₃ on head of Lithuanian wind-god 445₁ on knee of Zeus Φελαχάδος 946₀ 947₀ on pillar 1133₁ on relief of Argenidas 1063 once Pythagoras 223₁ with tail formed of corn-ears 298 f.
 Cock's head 698₂
 Cockerell, C. R. 914₀ 915₀
 Cockerell, S. C. 760₂
 Codrington, T. 91₂
 Coffe, floating 1018 670 ff. cp. 1006 1010 golden 935
 Cohen, H. 361₅ 371₀ 373₁ 373₅ 1194₄ 1195₁
 Cohn, L. 1099₁
 Coins belonging to Zeus Κάσιος 907₀ belonging to Zeus Κήναιος 903₀ See also Index I under names of various states and towns
 Colebrooke, H. T. 150₂
 Colin, G. 817₀ 1216
 Collignon, M. 49₁ 123₀ 158₂ 287₁ 408₀ 515₁ 805₆ 859₈ 1019₂ 1045 f. 1143₁ 1179₇ 1222
 Colossal statues of Herakles at Athens 1116 of Zeus at Olympia dedicated by Kypselos 737₆ of Zeus at Olympia dedicated by Leontines 741₃ of Zeus at Tarentum by Lysippos 762 of Zeus at Tavium 754₁ of Zeus at Tyndaris 918₀ of Zeus Καπετώλιος (=Jupiter Capitolinus) at Antiocheia (Mt Sillion?) on the Orontes 1188₁₃ of Zeus Κύνθιος in Delos (?) 920₀ of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος at Athens 1078 of Zeus Ὀλύμπιος (?) at Daphne near Antiocheia on the Orontes 1188 1188₁₃ 1189₀ of Zeus Ὀμολάϊος (?) at Homolion 1227

- Colour, variation in, for aesthetic reasons 435 f. See also separate colours
- Columba, G. M. 925₁
- Column, monolithic 915₂ 965₀ of Antoninus Pius 103₀ 105 of Arkadios 106₃ of Constantine the Great 609 f. of Marcus Aurelius 106₁ of Mayence 93 ff. 840 1213 f. of Theodosios 106₂ 1214 of Trajan 105₇ 108 1181₀ spiral 107₄ 475 substituted for sacred tree (?) 405₃ surmounted by image of goddess 903₀ tapering downwards 196₈
- Columns believed to be full of gold 966₀ dedicated by Kroisos at Ephesos 580₇ in relation to double axe 528 ff. of Rome and Constantinople 840 supporting earth 56₂ 130₄ (?) 141₃ with acanthus-band beneath Ionic volutes 965₀ with dedicatory inscriptions by priests of Zeus 580
- Columna cochlis* 107 128
- Combe, T. 1127₀
- Communion with the dead by means of food 1162₂ 1170 ff.
- Comparetti, D. 118₃ 119₁ 328₃ 999₅ 1001₂
- Conception by almond or pomegranate 969₄ by apple 682 by eye of God 671₁₀ by potion 1031 by touch of Zeus 961₀
- Cone of limestone, inscribed 1158₁₀
- Confarreatio* 1173₀
- Consecratio*-types 101₁ 102₀ 103₀ 951₀ 1209
- Conspectus of Orphic theogonies 1033 f.
- Consulship, double, as successor of dual kingship 441
- Contact and quasi-contact between supplicator and supplicated 1099₁ with Mother Earth necessary to priests of Zeus at Dodona 960₀ with Zeus impregnates Io 961₀
- Continence, ceremonial 222₀ ceremonial, due to two causes 210₀
- Contopoulos, N. 1006₂
- Contorniate medals 299₈ 1128₀
- Conway, Sir M. 1204₁ 1206 1206₃
- Conway, R. S. 118₃ 342₀ 600₄ 600₅ 823
- Conybeare, E. 607 f. 846
- Conze, A. 284₀ 512₂ 568₇ 569₁ 779 878₀ (S) 1056 1058 1229
- Cook, Mrs A. B. 111₀ 523₅
- Cook, Miss P. M. 54₃ 214₀ 1047
- Cooke, Miss P. B. Mudie (Mrs E. M. W. Tillyard) 206₁
- Copper Age 617
- Cord, golden 1029
- Cork-tree 403₀
- Corn-ear, ceremonial 295₂ 296₀ 1172₂ green, as form of Attis 295
- Corn-ears 98₀ 297 ff. 313₅ 564 571 634 657₅ 754₁ 820 (?) 1054 1126₀ 1133₁ 1158₈ 1186
- Cornfield 832₇
- Cornford, F. M. 2₄ 43₁ 224 316₀ 1042 1095₀
- Corn-maiden 295₂ 1172₂
- Corn-mother 295₂
- Corn-wreath 370
- Cornel-tree 403₀
- Cornu copiae* as symbol of earth 1050
- between corn-ears 573₀ of Agathe Tyche 1129₀ of Agathos Daimon 1117₇ (?) 1125₁ 1128₀ of Agathos Theos 1126₀ of Gaia 1185 f. of Kallirrhoe (?) 1117 of Laodikeia 320₀ of Mt Peion 962₃ of Plouton (?) 1117₇ of Theos Megas 1126₀ of Thracian goddess 820 (?) of Zeus 'Επιτάλειος Φίλιος 1162 of Zeus Μιλίχιος 1105 with busts of two boys emergent 441 f. with snake twined about it 1128₀
- Cosmic egg 1033 ff. robe 1137₀
- Cosmogonic Eros 1019 ff.
- Cosmogony, Egyptian 1035 Indian 1035 f. Orphic 1019 ff. 1230 Persian 1036 Phoenician 1036 ff.
- Cosquin, E. 671₄
- Costantin 1033
- Coteler, J. B. 35₀
- Cotteau, G. 651₁
- Conches at Theoxenia, lectisternia, etc. 1169 ff. in precinct of Zeus Κύνθιος 921₀ of Athena at Tegea 1147
- Coulton, G. G. 1215
- Courby, F. 173₁ 174 ff. 191 221₂ 239₂ 841 1216
- Cousin, G. 581₁ 973₁ f.
- Couve, L. 816₅ 817₀
- Cow of Ilos 349
- Cow, wooden, Cretan queen enclosed in (?) 924₀
- Cow's head beneath foot of Iuno Sancta 98 f.
- Cow-dung 791₀
- Crab attacks Herakles 665₂ combined with double axe 577 ep. 660₀ 663 golden, prince changed into 666₃ in riddle 659₁ of Zeus 'Οσογῶα 577 f. on chest of Artemis 'Εφέα 407₀ with comic mask as carapace 1221
- Crabs called children of Hephaistos 665 667 identified with Kabeiroi 664 f. in astrology 666₁ in demonology 666₂ in folk-lore 666₃ in mythology 665₃ in religion 665₂ marked with bull's head (?) 667 marked with double axe 663 marked with Gorgóneion 667 sacred to Poseidon 665₂ worshipped in Lemnos 665
- Crab's claws as head-dress of Amphitrite 665₃ of marine Centaur 665₃ of Okeanos 665₃ of Thalassa 665₃ 1185 of Thetis 665₃ of Triton (?) 665₃
- Crane, T. F. 671 995₂ 1008₁ 1012₁
- Cranes 1083
- Crawley, A. E. 290₀ 294₁ 1039
- Crescent, lunar 624 (?) 983₀ 1051 on kálathos 714₂
- Cretan garment worn by basileús at Athens 1136
- Creuzer, F. 346₀ 1037 f.
- Criobolium* 306₅ 954₀
- Crocodile worshipped in Egypt 987₀
- Crönert, W. 1131₁
- Croiset, M. 1013₁

- Crook, R. F. 779
 Crooke, W. 690₅
 Cross at Gosforth 305₀ carved to look like a tree 305₀ described as ladder 139, stellar (?) 624 with wheel-head 305₀
 Cross-quarter days 326
 Crow as prophet of storm 519₀ followed by Plataeans 898₆ in Volsung saga 682 on double axe (?) 518₃
 Crow, J. M. 876₍₁₁₎
 Crown, green 1170₈ hem-hem 986₀ in Orphic ritual 119 ff. mural 300 970₀ 1185 of Artemis 147₁ of Diana 147₁ of rex Nemorensis 146 f. radiate 255₀ 978₀ 980₀ 1186 1194₄ set on curule seat for Remus 440 set on sepulchral couch at Corneto 440₆ 1170₃ turreted (See mural)
 Crucifixion, Hadrian erects statue of Aphrodite (Venus) on site of 984₁ the sacrifice of Odhin on the tree as pagan parallel to 305₀ 306₀
 Crusius, O. 99₁ 315₂ 459₃ 496₀ 498₂ 501 684₃ 1102₄
 Crypt under temple at Aizanoi 965₀
 Cuckoo as form of Zeus 893₂ 1144₂ in relation to hoopoe 1131₂ in Salian hymn (?) 330₀₍₈₎ on double axe (?) 518₃ on sceptre 893₂ 1133₁
 Cucumber 154₀
 Cuirass, miniature 930₀
 Cumont, E. 595₀ 596₂ 975₀
 Cumont, F. 67₈ 67₉ 69₁ 71₇ 73₀ 102₀ 129₁ 131₁ 270₃ 280₁ 288₃ 288₅ 297₂ 309 408₀ 429₁ 430 555₀ 594₃ 595₀ 596 666₁ 814₃ 836₄ 836₁₁ 876₁ 879₀₍₁₈₎ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎ 884₀₍₀₎ 886₀₍₀₎ 889₀₍₃₄₎ 960₀ 975₀ ff. 1051 1054 1085 1221
 Cumulative expressions (ἀναξ ἀνάκτων, etc.) 337₄
 Cunningham, A. 129₃
 Cup on Arch of Titus 1203₇
 Cups, votive, in Psychro Cave 926₀
 Cup-bearer 882₀₍₀₎
 Cuperus (Cuypers), G. 873₀₍₀₎
 'Cup-marks,' neolithic, in France 792 f. in Greece (?) 792 in Palestine 793₄
 Curse-tablets 889₀₍₃₄₎ 1113₀₍₂₎
 Cursing, formulae of, on Phrygian tombs 278₂
 Curtin, J. 682₇ 1012₁
 Curtis, C. D. 359₁
 Curtis, E. L. 426₄
 Curtius, E. 628₅ 861₇ 862₀ 862₃ 865₂ 877₀₍₀₎ 892₄ 1100₁ 1136₀ 1154₃
 Cycle of life in Orphic ritual 119 f.
 Cymbals from which mystics drink 346₀ 347₀ in cult of Attis 300
 Cynocephalous deities 701₀
 Cypress-leaves 520₅
 Cypress-tree as handle of double axe (?) 528 Kyparissos transformed into 981₁ on coin of Troizen (?) 416 with altar before it 563 f.
 Cypress-trees, artificial 520₅ Cretan 528 (?) 932₁ 981₁ grove of 520₅ in Crete called Cypress-trees (cont.)
δρυῖται 932₁ in relation to Rhea or Zeus 932₁
 Cypress-wood, roof of 932₁ 934₀
 Daebritz 459₃ 494 496₀ 500₄
 Dähnhardt, O. 665₃
 Dagger of Babylonian Zeus 714₁ sticking if owner is dead 1011
 Dagger-god of Hittites 550 ff.
Daidouchia 1168₃
Daidoichos 1084
Daimon, significance of the term 1125₁ 1159₁ See also Index I Daimones distinguished from theoi 1159 f. 1160₅ See also Index I Dalechamps, J. 701
 Dalton, O. M. 106₂ 107₃ 138₁ 606₁ 606₃ 863₁ 865₂
 Dance, Athena teaches Kouretes their 1029 lunar 336 Messapian 31₁ mimetic 600 'Minoan' 31₁ of Death 868₄ of Kouretes 1030 of naked girl at banquet of Zeus Ἰψιστος 882₀₍₀₎ round altar of Zeus Δικταῖος 931₀ round churchyard on Lammass Day 325₈
 Daniell, E. T. 974₀
Danse Macabre See Dance of Death
 Dart, double-headed 767₂
 Dattari, G. 626₀
 Daumet, H. 124₄
 David 1134₄
 David, T. W. 426₄
 Davis, Miss G. M. N. 268₄
 Dawkins, R. M. 506₃ 511₁ 538₁ 543 f. 640₀ 647 672₀ 934₀ 992₁ 1061
 Day, divisions of the 74 87 89
 Dead fed by living 1058 Hellenic offerings to 977₀ make food for living 1058 marriage-banquet of 1164 souls of, animate the year's vegetation 1172
 Death conceived as marriage with god or goddess of the Underworld 1164 ff. represented as Love 309 1045 1166 See also Dance of Death
 Déchelette, J. 109₁ 122₀ 476₄ 494₁ 494₂ 617₆ 618 618₂ 647 647₄ 647₆ 648₂ 649₁ 656₀ 685 f. 686₂ 686₃ 687₁ 688₀ 690₁ 792₂ 833₁ 1059
 Deecke, W. 338₃ 339₀ 355 383
 Deer in relation to Diana 154₀ nurses children 1008 white 264
 Deer-heads (?) 146 f.
 Deer-skin 1022
 Deification See Apothéosis
 Deissmann, A. 881₀₍₀₎
 Deities, dicephalous, of Baris in Pisidia 446 f. dicephalous, of Senones 445 f. Egyptising 626 identified with plants 413₂
 Delatte, A. 118₂ 223₂ 434₃ 1024
 Delattre, A. L. 630₃
 Delbet, J. 550₅ 620₅
 Delrio, M. 701₃ 702₄
Delubrum 1172₂

- Deluge 892₄ 897₁ 901₂ 902₀ 1139₇
 Demargne, J. 926₀ 927₀
 Deneken, F. 1069 1170₅
 Dennis, G. 1219
 Dennison, W. 124₀ 135₁
 Deonna, W. 594₇ 643₇ 1213 1218
 Desire in primitive psychology 1039
 Dessau, H. 1172₀
 Dethier, P. A. 195₁
 Deubner, L. 14₃ 102₀ 232₂ 232₄ 504₄ 1087
 Devil conceived as black man with six or eight horns 326₃ conceived as goat with four horns 326₃ Janiform 326
 De-Vit, V. 402₀ 631₁
 Dew on cabbages 646₀
 Diadem ending in two stars 1189 of Zeus Ααβράυδος 597₃ priestly 301 301₁ surmounted by star 1189₃
 Diagram, Ophite, of supramundane region 610 f.
 Diana-pillars 143 ff. 405₂ 412₆ 841 compared with Agyieús-pillar 160 compared with Irminsül 157 compared with Jain stambha or lât 150₂ compared with May-pole 149 f.
 Dickins, B. 52₀ 1212 f.
 Dickins, G. 757₁ 805₆
 Dickins, Mrs G. See Hamilton, Miss M.
 Dieckmann, H. 1197₃
 Diehl, C. 581₁
 Diels, H. 43₁ 131₅ 132₂ 236₅ 1115₂
 Dieterich, A. 12₃ 118₂ 119₁ 120₂ 131₅ 131₇ 267₂ 307₁ 451₅ 1168₇
 Dieterich, K. 993₂
 Dieulafoy, M. 128₂
Diipetés 481₄ 481₆ cp. 481₅
 Dikjeretto See Bird
 Dilthey, K. 1019₂
 Dindorf, K. W. 350₄ 599₇ 728₀ 1093₁ 1152₅
 Dindorf, L. 249₂ 1180₃
Dioblés, Dióbletos 22 ff. 436 840
Diopetés 963₀
Diosemia 4 ff. 809 840
 Diptych 853
 Discovery of fire 981₁ of fishing 715₄ 1037 of hunting 715₄ 1037 of iron 715₄ 949₅ 1037 of loadstone 949₅ of poppy 1165₁ of rafts and boats 984₄
 Disk held by Janiform god at Mallos in Kilikia 552 on pitthos from Gournia 538 solar, radiate, on coins of Rhodes 924₀ starry, on Lydian jewelry 639 with crescent and cross (moon and star?) 624 with rayed edge and four spokes (sun?) 624
 Disks of bronze dedicated to Semo Sancus (Sangus) 724₀ of gold, with dots or rays, from Idaean Cave 938₀ of gold, with moths, from Mykenai 645
Diskos of Apollon 1156 of Perseus 1155 f.
Diskos-thrower 490₀₍₅₎
 Disney, J. 388₁₂
 Distaff of Zeus (vervain) 775₀
 Dithyramb 659₁
 Dittenberger, W. 118₃ 233₇ 599₇ 714₆ 817₀ 873₂ 880₀₍₁₉₎ 924₀ 1120₀ 1121₀
 Divination by appearance of Milky Way 482 by axe 701 f. by barley 19₀ by birds 440₅ by entrails of ox 891₀ by inscribed slices of celts 512 by knuckle-bones 807₅₍₅₎ by liver 338₃ 339₀ by meal 19₀ by pebbles 221 by phidæ 206 by rods 635 by sacrifice of pigs 1107 by severed head 290₀ by sieve 702₂ 702₄ by weight 734₃
 Diviner, paraphernalia of, from Pergamon 512
 Divining-glass See Lekanomanteta
 Divining-rod 227₄
 Dobrusky, V. 1225
 Doe, horned 465 f. 854 1219 in myth of Saron 413
 Doehle 31₃
 Dörfeld, W. 21₃ 789₇ 896₀ 916₀ 1061 1100₁
 Dog as ornament on lamps 367₁ biting arm of lady 138₀ in myth of Katreus 923₀ in pig-skin as surrogate for pig 1140₅ of Asklepios at Epidaurus 1079 of Lares in guise of Attis 308₁ worshipped at Kynon polis 987₀
 Dogs of Hephaistos (Hadran) on Mt Aitne 630 will not enter temple of Hercules at Rome 783
 Dog's skin 1003
 Dog-star, rising of 949₅
Dókana 160 f. 436₃ 841 1063 f.
 Dolphin 205₁ 218₀ 383 524 (?) 659₁ 795 795₃ on either side of obelisk 163₂ round trident 981₀ 1071 with sceptre and eagle as emblems of sea, earth, and air (?) 1133₁
 Domaszewski, A. von 93₃ 93₄ 93₆ 93₇ 94₃ 93₁₋₃ 99₁ 99₄ 100₃ 106₁ 109₁ 1181₀
Donnerbesen 642 775₀ 847
 Donner-von Richter, O. 71₆ 74 89₆
 D'Ooge, M. L. 789₄ 789₇ 1148₂
 Doorway associated with sacred tree or pillar 178₅ in relation to Ianus 330₀ 340₂ cp. 354 ff.
 Dottin, G. 341₁ 440₂ 455₁ 688₀
 Double axe See Axe, double
 Double busts of a single deity 365 ff. of a single deity under diverse aspects 387 of a single man 371 389 of a single man under diverse aspects 371 392 ff. of deities regarded as manifestations of the same power 388 of god and goddess 390 ff. of men likely to be associated in memory 389 f.
 Doublet, G. 1042
 Douce, F. 868₄
 Douglas, Miss E. M. (Mrs Van Buren) 419 420₁
 Dove as oblation 535 of marble 896₀ (?) on bronze tablet from Psychro Cave 927₀ on bull's horns 142 142₁ on head of Cnossian goddess 536 on myrtle-tree (?) 710₃ on roof 142 f. on sceptre

- Dove (cont.)
 1133, 1134₄ (?) 1134₅ on wing of Ahriman 1054
- Doves, bones of, in jar (?) 555₀ in relation to Artemis 457 nurture Zeus in Cretan Cave 928₀ of bronze from Idaean Cave 938₀ of clay in shrine at Gournia 538 on chalice of Antioch 1199 on double axe (?) 518₃ on lamp from Gezer 1203₃ on oak-trees (?) 872₀(5)
- Dove-goddess in Cnossian shrine 536
- Dragatses, I. Ch. 1105₃₋₁₀ 1173₆ 1174₂
- Dragon in Greek folk-song 828 in Greek folk-tales 990 ff. 1005 1016 f. of Marduk 769₁ pursued by St Elias 820
- Drake, M. and W. 1104₃
- Drákos* or Drákontas 990₈
- Dreams, dedication in accordance with 282₂ 1177 1228 of Achilles' son 41₄ of Constantine the Great 602 f. of cosmic ladders 127 portending death 1163₆ portending marriage 1163₆ 1165₁ sent by dead kings 1071 sent by Sabazios 283₀ sent by Zeus 282₂ 1228 the folk of 41
- Dressel, A. R. M. 34₁
- Dressel, H. 1171₃
- Drexel, F. 1213
- Drexler, W. 167 f. 254 267₂ 294₀ 307₁ 347₀ 566₀ 567₃ 578₂ 578₃ 580₃ 610₀ 626₀ 665₃ 807₃(1) 899₁ 928₀ 982₀ 987₀ 1038 1085
- Drinking-horn 661
- Droop, J. P. 647₁
- Drosinos 514
- Drought 894₁ 894₃ 895₁ 897₅ See also Rain-charm
- Dubois, M. 580₄ 586₁
- Du Cange, C. d. F. 339₁
- Ducati, P. 737 1217
- Du Chaillu, P. B. 637₁
- Duchesne, L. 307₁
- Duck's head 648 698
- Ducks as solar symbol (?) 698 in Roman fresco 146
- Ducks, wild 691
- Dümmler, F. 615₃ 615₄
- Dürnbach, F. See Durrbach, F.
- Duhn, F. von 516₆ 517₃ 518₃ 519₀ 520₅ 521₄ 521₆ 524₆ 838₈ 966₀ 1128₀
- Dulaure, J. A. 1089
- Dulcimer 124₁
- Dumont, A. 511₁ 638₆
- Duncker, M. 559₈
- Duplication of Attis 308 ff. of Augustus 1209 of Christ 1209 of double axe 537 652 ff. 668 847 of eagles 189 of Kyklops 999 f. of lotos 769 776 780 of name of Zeus 727₃(1) of spear-head 799 of thunderbolt 727 of trident-head 797 of Zeus 318 ff. 842
- Durand, P. 138₁
- Durm, J. 71₅ 73₁ 359₁ 360₅ 915₀ 1219
- Durrbach (Dürnbach), F. 388₆ 423₃ 583₀ 862₀ 865₂ 1071
- Dussaud, R. 430 431₁ 431₂ 600₄ 814₃ 886₀(0) 886₀(30) 1111
- Dust, a nuisance in Greece 257₄
- of corpse causes sound sleep 996
- Dyer, T. F. Thiselton 396₀
- Dýnamis* of Zeus 808₀(0)
- E at Delphoi 176₂ 178 1216
- as head of Poseidon's trident 177₀ as image of scales 177₀ as image of sky resting on pillars 178 as numeral 177₀ as question or prayer 177₀ as symbol of dialectic 177₀ as symbol of five sages 176₂ as symbol of sun 176₂ as three Charites 177₀ as window 177₀
- Eagle as animal counterpart of Zeus 752 as embodiment of Zeus 187 752 941₀ as lightning-bearer 751₂ 777 779 849 933₀ 1159 as messenger of Zeus 950₀ as shield-boss (?) 938₀ as symbol of resurrection 1209₆ as symbol of sun (See solar) as telephany of sky-god 187 at Olympia 222₄ bearing divinised emperor 101₁ bearing festoon on altar 302 bearing Zeus 102₀ 462₀ beneath emperor's head 1193 beneath Mt Gerizim 887₀(31) bestriding bay-wreath with Charites 1193 black 8 933₀ carrying off asp 283₀ carrying off sacrifice to Zeus 1141 carrying sceptre and wreath 1133₁ double, of Hittites 779₂ flight of 752₂ flying with sceptre towards emperor 1134₀ gilded 423 guides Seleukos i Nikator to site of Seleukeia Pieria 981₁ f. holding caduceus and palm-branch 1193 holding thunderbolt (See on thunderbolt) holding wreath 1186 1193 holding wreath and bay-branch 1193 hovering above altar 280₁ in fig(?)-tree 964₂ in myth (?) of Agamemnon 1132₃ in myth of Kleinis (ὀψυαλερος) 463₁ in myth of Merops 1132₁ in myth of Periklymenos 1134₆ in myth of Periphas 1122 in pediment 961₀ not struck by lightning 751₂ nurtures Zeus in Cretan cave 928₀ of Agathos Demon 1125₁ of Iupiter 400₁₁ 811₅ 812 of Zeus 502₂ (?) 575 ff. 751 f. 808₀(0) 836 1122 1131 ff. 1185 f. 1208 f. on altar 892₄ 1193 on Mt Argaios 978₀ 980₀ on chalice of Antioch 1208 f. on column 968₀ on double axe 518₃ (?) 573 on globe 95₂ 578 (?) on Ionic capital 878₀(0) on Irmínsúl 53 178 f. on pine-tree 909₀ on roof of shrine or temple 982₀ on sceptre 1132 f. 1133₁ 1134₄ on sceptre of Zeus conceived as alive 1133₁ on stone 186 on terra sigillata 1205₄ on thigh of animal-victim 1193 on thunderbolt 763₁ 968₀ 1064 1193 on thýrsos 1178 prince changed into 666₃ Roman 978₀ 980₀ shouldering sceptre 1133₁ side by side with snake 283₀ solar 186 431 white, at Kroton 222₄ with sceptre and dolphin as emblems of

- Eagle (cont.)
 air, earth, and sea (?) 1133₁ See also Index I Aetos, Aquila
- Eagle's head 1134₀
- Eagles at Delphoi 179₁ chariot drawn by 462₀ look at sun 230₃ of Zeus 231 239 on Delphic omphalós 179 ff. tamed by Pythagoras 222₄ two, on altar 808₀₍₁₇₎ votive, at Tralleis 958₀
- Earrings 620
- Ears, leaf-shaped 399 399₁
- Earth conceived as belly of Zeus 1028 conceived as flat disk with central omphalós 167 conceived as flat disk with sky resting on side-props 432 843 conceived as globe enclosed in sphere half light, half dark 432 843 conceived as half of cosmic egg 1020 1023 invoked 728₀ symbolised by cornu copiae 1050
- Earth-mother in relation to sky-father 677
- Earthquakes 827₂ 959₀ 994₂ 1170₆ 1171
 1191
- Ebeling, H. 481₅
- Ebersolt, J. 610₁ 610₃ 610₅₋₇
- Echesamía* 6 f.
- Eckhel, J. 249₂ 372₄ 373₂ 402₀ 429₅ 673
 1041 f. 1195₁
- Eclipse, solar 450₀ 1017₄ (?)
- Edmonds, J. M. 699
- Eels decked with gold 590
- Egbert, J. C. 613₂
- Egg as offering to dead 1060 birth of Enorches from 1021 birth of Helene from 1015 birth of Kastor and Poly-deukes from 1015 birth of Moliones from 1015 cosmic 422₅ 1020 f. 1022 f.
 1026 1033 ff. 1051 cosmic, called 'the brilliant chiton' or 'the cloud' 1024 cosmic, containing seated Eros 1048 cosmic, in Egypt 1035 cosmic, in India 1035 f. cosmic, in Orphic theogonies 1050 f. cosmic, in Persia 1036 cosmic, in Phoinike 1036 ff. cosmic, splits into heaven and earth 1035 f.
 1037 f. 1048 cosmic, with gold and silver halves 1035 fallen from moon
 1015₇ flanked by snakes 1062 golden 1035 f. 1039 halved to form caps of Dioskouroi 1015 hung from roof at Sparta 1015₇ in hand of Asklepios 1077 kept in chest by Leda 1015 laid by Daita or Daito (Daiso) 1021 laid by Nemesis 1015 laid by Nyx 1020 silver 1015 symbolising moon (?) 1015₇
- Eggs in bird's nest 1199₂ (?) in glass goblet
 1203₁
- Eggeling, J. 1035 f.
- Egyptism in Aischylos 252
- Eight years' distribution of land in Dalmatia 440₂ period in cult and myth 239 ff. tenure of Spartan kings 440₂
- Eiresiōne* 13₁
- Eiselastikós agón* 959₀ 1179₈
- Eisele, T. 284₀ 285₀ 288₃ 307₂
- Eisen, G. A. 647₆ 1197 ff.
- Eisler, R. 88₃ 177₀ 224₁ 386 426 426₄ 427₃
 545₀ 547₀ 587₇ 588₀ 1017₄ 1036 1038
 1051 1053 1137₀
- Eitrem, S. 237₀ 267₂ 382₃ 388₆ 388₉ 451₁
 477₀ 488₀₍₀₎ 1042 1042₁₁ 1156₄ 1170₃
- Elderkin, G. W. 282₀
- Electrum, cup of, modelled on the breast of Helene 346₀ double axes of 637 f. earrings of 638
- Elegiacs 222₀
- Elektron*, 'amber' 499
- Ellendt, F. 806₁
- Elm-tree at Ephesos 405₃ of Artemis 405₃ turns its leaves at solstice 470₀ venerated in France 403₀
- Elýsia* 22 789 840
- Elysion* 36
- Emasculatation of Agdistis 969₄ of Attis
 970₀ of Gallos, king of Pessinous (?)
 970₀ of Kronos by Zeus 447 f. of Ou-ranos by Kronos 447 of sky-god 447 of Zeus by Typhon 448 See also Castration
- Emerald 423
- Emperor identified with sun-god 321 f.
- Enchytristria* 1065 1229
- Endt, J. 123₀
- Enelýsia* 21 f. 789 840
- Engelhardt, C. 1204₅
- Engelhardt, C. M. 136₃
- Engelmann, R. 739₃ 764₂ 1044
- Enkoimesis* See Incubation
- Enneeteris* 240₃
- Enthronement, ritual, in cave of Zeus
 Βροντῶν 838 852
- Entrails, divination by 891₀
- Epheboi* 1121₀
- Ephesia grámmata* 410₀
- Epiphany of Hector 961₀ of Hemithea 671 of Zeus Κάστος 982₀
- Epitaph of Apollon 221 of Dionysos 220 of Pikos ὁ καὶ Ζεὺς 220₆ 943₀ of Pikos ὁ καὶ Ζεὺς, δὴ καὶ Δία καλοῦσι 943₀ of Zan
 354 of Zan Κρόνον 940₀ 945₀ of Zan δὴ
 Δία κκλησκουσιν 220₆ 942₀ 945₀ of Zeus
 940₀
- Epitaphs, Phrygian, end with a curse on violator of tomb 277 ff.
- Epónymoi* in trophy from spoils of 'Marathon' at Delphoi 1137₂ on eastern frieze of Parthenon 1137₂
- Epropteia* 1168₃
- Eranistai* 1161 1170₂
- Erman, A. 99₁ 127₀
- Ernout, A. 404₂
- Eschenbach, A. C. 34₁
- Escher-Bürkli, J. 476₅
- Espérandieu, É. 61₀ 71₅ 75₀ 75₁ 78₁ 79₁ 1213
- Etymology, popular, serves religion 401₀
- Euhemerism 241₄ 696₀
- Euphemism 1112₇ 1113₀ 1114₀
- Euphemistic titles of ancestor 1125₁ bear-goddess (?) 228₄ 1114₀₍₆₎ d. of Zeus by Persephone (?) 1114₀₍₅₎ the Devil 1112₇
 Erinyes 1113₀₍₁₎ genitals 450₀ Hades

- Euphemistic titles of (cont.)
 1113₍₂₎ Hekate 1114₍₄₎ Persephone
 1113₍₃₎ snake 1152f. snake-god 1114₍₇₎
 Zeus 1092₃ 1111 f. 1131 1159 1174
- Evans, Sir A. J. 30₇ 30₈ 31₁ 47₂ 49₁₋₄ 131₁
 143₂ 157₀ 160₃ 161₆ 193 514₂ 518₃ 520₄
 527 528₁ 528₆ 532 f. 535 538₁ 538₄ 539₁
 543 552₁ 600₄ 613 613₂ 623₁ 624₀ 625
 628₇ 637₉ 639 645₃ 652₁₀ 653 654 656₀
 662₁₂ 688₀ 794₅ 795 799₄ 925₁ 927₀ 929₀
 939₁ 940₀ 943₀ 944₀ 1221
- Evans, Sir J. 505 506₅ 506₉ 511₁ 512₁ 528₄ 618₁ 643₁₀
- Evil eye See Eye, evil
- Ewald, G. H. A. 1109₀
- Ewald, H. 1037 f.
- Exposure of children at Athens 1229 in 'Expulsion' tales 1014 ff.
- Expurgation in Euripides 1012 f. in Homer 989 in Sophokles 1012
- Eye as seat and doorway of soul 504 evil 502 504 f. 844 evil, personified as In-vidia 505₂ giants with one 988 ff. good 504 f. 844 of Apollon good 504₆ of Arkesilas good 504₈ of Athena evil (?)
 503₀ of Athena piercing 502₂ of God
 671₁₀ of Horos 450₀ of Muses good 504₆ of Zeus darts lightning 502 ff. 844 of Zeus evil 504 844 of Zeus flashing 502₂ of Zeus inlaid with silver 503₀ of Zeus jealous 503 f. of Zeus witness of right and wrong 502₂
- Eyes, four, of Kronos 553 four, of Kyklopes 999 of Zeus 'Ἰδαίος fixed on Iliion 950₀ three, of Zeus 1144₂
- Eye-brows of Zeus (ox-eye) 775₀
- Eye-sight explained by Empedokles 505₁ explained by Platon 505₁
- Fabricius, E. 195₁ 196₇ 197₂ 197₃ 935₀ 952₀
- Facius, J. F. 895₁
- Falk, H. 533₂
- Farbridge, M. H. 1210₄
- Farnell, L. R. 13₁ 115₂ 118₂ 160₃ 166₃ 238₃
 245₅ 262₃ 267₂ 267₅ 268₃ 291₂ 303₂ 313
 410₁ 450₁ 453 457 f. 495₆ 583₃ 692₃ 868₈
 873₂ 1032 1070 1098₄ 1114₍₆₎ 1114₀
 1214
- Farquhar, E. P. 905₀
- Fasces of Roman lictors 635 1221
- Father and Son as forms of the same deity in Phrygia 287 f. and Son, Greek types of, in Christian art 1210
- Father, Son as rebirth of 294 314 ff. 611₂
- Fawn of Artemis 152₀
- Fay, E. W. 1220
- Fazellus, T. 917₀ 918₀
- Fear that sky may fall 54 ff.
- Feathered head-dress 143 143₂ 552 f.
- Feet of Hephaistos 451₁ of Podaleirios 451₁ unwashen 959₀ f.
- Fehrenbach, E. 291₂
- Fehrle, E. 210₀
- Feist, S. 464₁₀ 715₈ 1039
- Fellows, Sir C. 588 591 591₄ 974₀
- Ferguson, W. S. 817₀
- Fergusson, J. 150₂
- Fetish as Egyptian term for 'god' (?) 544₃ becomes first attribute and then symbol 617 814
- Fick, A. 277₄ 293₂ 295₁ 354₉ 384₀ 414₀ 451₁
 496₀ 569 600₅ 662 666₀ 932₁ 947₀ 1025
 1072 1087 1134₉ 1149₃ 1156₆ 1156₈
- Ficker, G. 307₁
- 'Fig,' a prophylactic gesture known as the 291₂
- Figs as means of purification 1103₄ called μείλιχα in Naxos 1092₉ in folk-tales 671₈ 672 on altar-top 154₀
- Fig-juice, purification by 291₂ (?) 1103 (?)
- Fig-tree at Prousa ad Olympum (?) 964₂ at Sykea in Kilikia 1103₈ in myth of Apollon and raven 832₇ in myth of Sykeas or Sykeus 1103₈ lightning-proof
 1104₀ of Dionysos Συκέατης 488₍₀₎ of Zeus Μείλιχος (?) 1092 f. 1103 f. 1112 1114 of Zeus Συκάσιος 1103 parable of barren 682₂ St Sabas hung on 1104 white 403₀ wild, at Klaros 489₍₄₎ 490₍₀₎ wild, at Siris in Lucania 490₍₀₎ wild, beside the Eleusinian Kephisos 1103 with eagle on it (?) 964₂
- Fig-trees in Crete 946₀ on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅
- Fig-wood 1022 1093₀
- Filbert-trees 949₅
- Fillets linking amphora etc. to double axe 657 f. linking cult-image to ground
 408₀ 409₀ 574 1220 on oak at Dodona
 677 radiate 461₀ round sacred stone
 981₀ 982₀ round thunderbolt 809
- Fimmen, D. 890₆
- Finamore, G. 1001₁ 1001₂ 1012₁
- Fines payable to Zeus and Hephaistos 972₁ payable to Zeus Σολυμείος 973₁ f.
- Finger, golden, in Epirote tale 224₁ of St Adalbert 214₀ of Attis endowed with perpetual movement 970₀
- Fiorelli, G. 118₂ 392₉ 393
- Fir-cone 300 907₂ 949₅
- Fire carried before Asiatic kings 34₁ carried before Roman emperors 34₁ carried in rites of Asklepios Ζεὺς Τέλειος 1076 descends on Zoroastres 33 ff. discovery of 981₁ in Dictaeon Cave 928₀ kindled from lightning by Perseus 1187 new 816 f. 1149₍₁₎ perpetual, on Mt Aitne
 630 perpetual, at Apollonia in Illyria 485 perpetual, at Athens 1148 perpetual, on Mt Chimaira 972₁ perpetual, on common hearth of primitive folk 1148 perpetual, at Delphoi 1216 perpetual, at Ione, 1187 perpetual, at Nemi (?) 417₅ perpetual, on Mt Olym-pos in Lykia 972₁ perpetual, at Rome 417₅ perpetual, on mountain of Zoroastres 33 977₀ regarded as divine in Babylonia 34₁ regarded as divine in Egypt 34₁ regarded as divine in Persia
 33 ff. 1187 regarded as flower 771 royal

- Fire (cont.)
 34 sanctuary of, at Ione 1187 springing from ground on Mt Chimaira 972₁ springing from ground on Mt Olympos in Lykia 972₁ worshipped by Hypsistarioi 885₀₍₂₈₎
- Fires of St Elmo 980₀
- First-fruits sent to Apollon Δῆλιος 497 sent to Apollon Πόθιος 240 816 f. sent to Zeus Ἀσκραίος 872₀₍₅₎ wrapped in wheaten straw 497 498₂
- Fir-trees in myth of Dryope 486 on Mt Ainos 907₂ silver, on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ silver, reaching through aēr to aithēr 949₅
- Fischbach, F. 606₂
- Fish 205₁ 414₁ called πομπίλιος 448₀ golden, in folk-tale from Hungary 1012₁ in folk-tale from Epeiros 672 in hand of Lithuanian wind-god 445₁ incised on celt 643₇ of Aigokeros or Capricornus 933₀ on chalice of Antioch (?) 1199₂ on lárnax from Palaikastro 524 (?) on vase from Knossos 527 f. tame, at Labranda 590₃
- Fish-goat 938₀
- Fish-hooks 1151
- Fishing in folk-tale from Sicily 1000 inventor of 715₄ 1037
- Flach, J. 1154₄
- Flag 545₀
- Flasch, A. 739₀ 1136₀
- Flather, J. H. 339₁
- Fleece as head-dress of priests at Anagnia 377 golden 899, in rites of Dionysos or Zagreus 1030 of Zeus 1065 1140 1166₃ (?) worn by procession up Mt Pelion 870₀
- Fleming, R. B. 122₀
- Flies as emissaries of a god, if not the god himself 782 as sign of storm 782 avoid Mt Carina in Crete 783₃ avoid temple of Aphrodite at Paphos 783₃ avoid temple of Hercules at Rome 783 placated by sacrifice of ox 782
- Flint of Iupiter Feretrius 546₀ of Iupiter Lapis 546₀
- Flogging of Eros by Silenos 1048 of Maenads with ivy-sprays 1041 of schoolboy by Eros 1048 of Underground Folk at Pheneos 1136₄ of the Vestal Ilia 1016 of young men at altar of Artemis Ὀφθία 421₃
- Flood of Deukalion 348₅ 892₄ 901₂ 902₀
- Flower of Zeus (carnation) ? 775₀
- Flowers 95 298 407₀ 515 624 710 771₀ (?) 949₅ 977₁ 980₀ associated with thunder and lightning 774₄ 775₀ 776₀
- Flower-fays 527
- Flute of Archigallus 299 (?) 300
- Flute-players 407₀ 670
- Flutes of Apollon 246 249₂ of Athena 249₂ of Boeotians 898₆ of one of the Charites 249₂ of Hyperboreans 249₂ of Marsyas 249₂ of Satyr 262 on pine-tree 306₅
- 'Fly,' priestess at Dodona called 215₁
- Foal 987₁
- Förster, R. 103₀ 1164₀ 1180₄ 1197₃
- Folkard, R. 396₀ 772₁ 1165₁ 1166₀
- Folk-tales, types of: 'Bluebeard' 995₂ 'Danaë' 671 'Dragon-slayer' 1151 'Expulsion' 1003 ff. 1012 ff. 'Floating Coffin' 671₄ 1018 'Otherworld-visit' 1166₂ 'Polyphemos' 988 ff. 'Strong Hans' 679
- Fonts 1216
- Food falling from tables is devoted to dead friends 1129 1162 must not be picked up from floor 1129
- Forbes, E. 971₂
- Forcellini, Ae. 599₇
- Forchhammer, P. W. 327
- Forefather appears as snake 1060 1061 buried in the house 1059 1060 f. called Lar or Genius 1059 conceived as Iupiter 1059 f. conceived as Zeus 1061
- Fork in relation to thunderbolt of Zeus 793 ff. 850 of demon 138₀ of Etruscan god of the Underworld (?) 850 of Hades (?) 227₄ 798 ff. of Iupiter Iutor 850
- Formigé, J. C. (C. J.) 111₁
- Formulae* at weddings 1166₁ in rites of Sabazios 1166₁ magical 889₀₍₀₎ 1127₀ mystic 1218
- Forrer, R. 80₂ 100₁ 517₀ 606₁ 617₆ 622₃ 632₆ 690₃ 1040 1213
- Forster, E. S. 182₋₄
- Forty 303₂
- Foucart, P. 12 263₄ 562₃ 586₇ 592₄ 593₁ 594 596₃ 1105₄ 1105₆ 1107 f.
- Fougères, G. 779 813₂ 814₀
- Foundation-deposit 609 f.
- Foundation-myths of Alexandraia 1127₀ 1183 of Antiocheia on the Orontes 1183 1193 of Boucheta 348 of Bouthroton 348 of Crete 349 of Ephesos 405 of Mt Kasion in Egypt 984₄ of Mantinea 1083 of Miletos 405 ff. of Pelousion 986₀ of Seleukeia Pieria 931₁ f. 1188 of Troy 349
- Foundation-sacrifice 1188
- Fountain at Orchomenos in Bœiotia 1149 in myth of Apollon and raven 833₀ See also Spring
- Four-eared See Index I Tetraktos
- Four-eyed Phersephone or Kore 1029 warrior from Sardinia 446₁ See also Janiform
- Four-handed Apollon 322₆
- Foville, J. de 491₀₍₆₎
- Fowler, H. N. 211₂ 597₂ 1148₂
- Fowler, W. Warde 100₀ 337₄ 353₆ 354 f. 359₆ 363₆ 518₃ 519₀ 546₀ 1059 1170₅ 1172 f. 1172₀
- Fox sacrificed at Aizanoi 964₃
- Fox, C. R. 578₁ 578₂
- Fränkel, M. 268₁ 413₇ 894₂ 954₀ 1076 f. 1098₁ 1180 1180₁
- Frankincense 485

- Franz, R. 228₄ 1114₀₍₆₎
 Fraser, J. 1228
 Frazer, Sir J. G. 92₃ 93₁ 164₆ 224₁ 242₁
 294₁ 295₂ 299 303₂ 306₂ 311₉ 328₅ 378
 392₈ 392₉ 394 f. 397₀ 398₀ 400 400₆ 403₁
 417 f. 420 421₁ 434 436₈ 440₂ 450₁ 455₀
 465 471₁₀ 498₂ 538₅ 550₅ 551₁ 552 559₄
 627₃ 635₉ 643 645₄ 672₀ 680₁₀ 681 f.
 685₂ 692 817₀ 826 833 868₃ 892₁ 894₃
 895₁ 896₀ 898₅ 899₁ 901₁ 904₁ 924₀ 960₀
 976₀ 988 999₅ 1059 1071 1076 1081
 1089 1096₃ 1103 f. 1108₂ 1112₇ 1114₀₍₆₎
 1132₆ 1135₆ 1140₅ 1147₁₆ 1148₂ 1148₅
 1148₉ 1149₂₍₁₎ 1151₆ 1162₂ 1222
 Freshfield, D. W. 905₀
 Freud, S. 450₁
 Frickenhaus, A. 173₅ 231₇ 381₁ 742₃ 742₄
 758₀ 864₃
 Friederichs, C. 393₂ 862₀ 865₂
 Friedländer, J. 446 f. 575₅ 576₁
 Friedländer, P. 670₈ 828₁₀
 Friend, H. 396₀ 774₄ 775₀ 1165₁ 1166₀
 Fries, C. 791
 Fritze, H. von 18₆ 954₀ 956₀ 1079 1184₁
 Fritzsche, H. 806₁
 Frobenius, L. 1033
 Fröhner, W. 102₀ 105₅ 296₄ 371₀ 372₁ 373₁
 373₂ 638₆ 1126₀ 1197
 Frontality 739 1206
 Frothingham, A. L. 359 f. 457 937₀ 1068
 1181₀ 1211
 Fruit 297 300 517
 Fuchs, A. 76₁
 Furious Host See Wild Hunt
 Furnace, victims cast into 1011 1019
 Furneaux, H. 441₃ 442₂
 Furtwängler, A. 49₁ 111₀ 112₁ 124₁ 124₂
 265₁ 265₂ 265₄ 309₃ 315₃ 475₇ 478₂ 510₁
 510₂ 514₂ 515₁ 515₃ 597 621 621₂ 638₇
 641₂ 641₄ 645₄ 646₁₋₃ 673₆ 718₃ 731₁
 737₄ 749₁ 757₁ 798₂ 798₃ 831₁₍₁₎ 832 f.
 852₁₁ 853₅ 854₇ 854₈ 863₁ 895₀ 1043
 1045 ff. 1064 1070 1078 1090 1117₇
 1126₀ 1136₀ 1136₄ 1143₁ 1162₄ 1170
 1170₁ 1216
 Fyfe, T. 935₀
 Gad-fly on back of bull 946₀
 Gaebler, H. 412₂
 Gaerte, W. 1220
 Gaertringen, F. Hiller von 1147₄
 Gaidoz, H. 37 52₄ 87₁ 479₉ 480₄₋₆ 1079
 Garden of the gods 1021 of Hera 1021 of Okeanos 1021 of Zeus 1017 1021 1027
 1119
 Gardner, E. A. 240₃ 758₀ 867 1136₀
 1143₁
 Gardner, P. 162₁ 193₅ 370₂ 504₆ 758 784₁
 1042 1072 1095₀ 1143 1145₀
 Gardthausen, V. 635₀
 Garland, golden, in Bacchic procession
 120₃ in Orphic ritual (?) 120₃ cp. 1168
 Garlic 1172₄ taboo on 987₀
 Garnett, Miss L. M. J. 990₇
 Garnett, R. 418₃
 Garrucci, R. 369₁ 606₂ 709₁ 709₃₋₅ 795₂
 831₂₍₂₎ 1042 1050 1206₉ 1207₀
 Garstang, J. 550₅ 551₁ 552 560₄ 620₅
 Gassies, G. 78₁ 78₂ 108₄
 Gastinel, G. 1064
 Gates of Day 42 of the gods 42 of men 42 of Night 42 of the sun 41
 Gatti, G. 400₁₁
 Gauckler, P. 808₀₍₁₇₎
 Gaye, R. K. 1168₂
 Gedike, F. 855₁
 Geffcken, J. 31₃
 Geffroy, A. 107₃
 Gelder, H. van 923₀
 Geldner, K. F. 1036
 Gelzer, H. 696₀
 Genitals in fig-wood 1022 kept as relics
 450₁ of Attis 970₀ of Jacob 451₁ of Kronos 448₁ of Ouranos 447₈ of Saturnus 448₁ of Typhon 450₀ of Zeus
 450₀ 1029
 Genthe, H. 493₂
 Georgiades, A. S. 897₄
 Gerhard, E. 125₂ 154₀ 168₁ 250₄ 263₂ 287₀
 315₂ 320 f. 327 371 384₀ 387₄ 432₁ 432₂
 594 709₇ 710₂₋₄ 718₂ 800₁ 805₂ 838₈
 946₀ 980₀ 1061 1062 1064 1088 1091
 1125₁ 1134₈ 1204₃
 Gerhard, G. A. 349₂₀
 Gerth, B. 3₇ 1068
 Gestures of salutation 1199 1209₂ of supplication 1099₁ 1175 prophylactic 291₂ sexual 291₂
 Gherkin 154₀
 Ghirardini, G. 736₁
 Giannopoulos, N. I. 166₂ 1226
 Giant, one-eyed, blinded by hero 988 ff.
 See also Index I Giant, Gigantes
 Gibbon, E. 607
 Gifford, S. K. 133₃
 Gigantensäulen See Jupiter-columns
 Gigantomachy 82 435₅ 436₁ 684₄ 712 f.
 752₄ 820 825 830₇ 831₁ 911₀ 953₃ 973₁
 Gilbert, G. 1148₁₂
 Gilbert, O. 11₁₋₃ 43₁ 120₂ 363₆ 365₁ 432₅
 582₃ 722₃ 789 805₆
 Gilded chalice 1200 glasses (See Glasses, gilded) statues of Iupiter 45 46
 Giles, H. A. 479₁₀ 495₅
 Giles, P. 340₂ 397₀ 421₇ 549₆ 583 588₀ 860₄
 1095₀ 1154₅ 1228
 Gillies, M. M. 1227
 Ginzel, F. K. 242₃ 243₁
 Girard, P. 292₀
 Giraudon, A. 731₂
 Giroux, L. 643₇
 Girdle 515₂
 Glass cups covered with open-work in gold, silver, or lead 1204 f. mountain
 1012₁
 Glasses, gilded 606 1206 f.
 Globe as seat of Eros 1047 beneath feet of Ahriman 1054 (?) beneath foot of Chronos 864 cp. 860 beneath foot of Eros 1047 beneath foot of Fortuna

Globe (cont.)

862₁₀ beneath foot of Kairos 860 860₅ beneath feet of Victoria 1196₀ beside Jupiter 95₂ carried by Eros 1047 cosmic
491₀₍₆₎ 1082 held by deified emperor
978₀(?) held by Zeus 980₀(?) solar 491₀₍₆₎ 492₀₍₆₎ starry 373 surmounted by eagle 95₂ 578(?) surmounted by phoenix 373₂

Glutz, G. 727₃

Glue of bull's hide 934₀

Gneecchi, F. 371₀ 372₁ 1083 1102₃

Goat Amaltheia(?) 746₂ as tattoo-mark 121 122₀ beside long-haired god at Keramos 575₆(?) beside Semele(?)
carrying Dionysos(?) 363 in riddle 659₁ nurtures Attis 969₄ nurtures Phy-lakides and Philandros 218₀ nurtures
Zeus 928₀ 961₀ 968₀ of Mercurius 70₁ of Zeus 'Υρραπέυς(?) 987₁ on Mt Ar-gaios 978₀ 980₀ on shield 375(?) 377(?)
sacrificed at Babylon 463₁ sacrificed at Delphoi 217 sacrificed to Zeus 'Αρκραίος at Halikarnassos 872₀₍₅₎ wild 987₁ with four horns 326₃ worshipped at Thmouis
987₀

Goat's head 146 154₀ 405₂(?) 978₀ 980₀ 1051

Goat's horn as cornu copiae 95₁

Goats discover oracle at Delphoi 217₂ of Apollon 217₂ of Thor 63₁ 213₀ votive
988₀ 943₀ 944₀

Goat-rhytón of Bacchant 347₀ of Lares 1060

Goat-skin 989

Goddess, bearded 596

Godley, A. D. 2₃

Goettling, K. W. 1025 1154₄

Goez, H. 473₁ 475 f. 475₀

Gold aigis 261 amides 1065 apple 488₀₍₂₎
1003 1016 f. apples 763₁ 1014 1017 1020 f. 1030 apple surmounted by cross 609 arm 224₁ axe-haft 989 ball
933₀ basons 1009 bay 459 bay-wreath 258 301(?) believed to be hidden in columns 966₀ bird 1012₁ borders 1065 bough identified with branch plucked by would-be rex Nemorensis 417₅ bough on an evergreen oak near Lake Avernus
417₅ bough on which all birds sing
1003 f. 1016 bowls 853 breast 224₁ brick 853 bucrania 538 652 654 bullæ 699₄ bull's head with double axe between horns 538 bull's horns in the sky 117 1028 busts of Romulus and Remus 441 calf 354 chain 1009 chest
671₁₀ child 1035 children 1007 coffer 995 cord 1029 crab 666₃ crowns 1157₃ disks 938₀ double axe 518 520 eagles of Zeus at Delphoi 179 eagles of Zeus on Mt Lykaion 423 egg 1035 f. 1039 embryo 1035 equestrian statue of At-talos iii 955₀ finger 224₁ fish 1012₁ fleece 899₁ garlands in Bacchic procession 120₃ glasses 606 Greek name of, a Semitic loan-word 715 hair 1028 helmet

Gold (cont.)

62₁ 261 himation 916₀ horn of reindeer
465 horns of Cerynean hind 465 hound 212₅ 1227 house of Nero 254₅ key 991 leg 224₁ liknon 933₀ lily-work of Etruscan necklace 528 lyre 520 mattock(?)
806₁ mitra 459 moon 1012₁ Nike 290₀
1190 olive-wreath 261 open-work 1205 ox-horn 982₀ pigeon 677 pillar 422₁₂
423 plane-tree given by Pythios to Dareios 281₄ plane-tree of Persian kings 281₄ plaque in relief 938₀ plinth 853 ram 899₁ ring from Isopata 49₁ rings from Knossos 49 f. 516₃ 543 944₀ rings from Mykenai 47 f. 49₁ 514 f.
525 543 652 ring of Wodan 62₁ 990 rope 1211 scales held by Zeus 734₃ sceptre 763₁ seat 1011 1016 snake 1083 spear 261 staff 989 star 1010 f. stars 1014 statue of Apollon 220 220₀ statue of Colchian Diana 411 statue of Zeus dedicated at Daphne by Antiochos iv Epiphanes 1188 ff. statue of Zeus dedicated at Olympia by Kypselos 737 sun 1012₁ tablets of Orphists 118 ff.
thigh of Pythagoras 223 ff. throne 1016 thunderbolt 809 810 tripod 201₂ vine at Jerusalem 281₄ 1217 vine given by Priamos to Astyoche 281₄ 1184₃ vine given (by Priamos) to Tithonos 281₄ vine given by Pythios to Dareios 281₄ vine given by Zeus to Tros 281₄ vine in Delos 282₀ vine of Persian kings 281₄ wand 990 992 994₄ wings 1020 womb 1035 wreath 603

Golden Age 1160

Golden bough See Gold bough

Golther, W. 52₇

Gomme, Sir G. L. 703₂

Gondi, F. Grossi 1128₀

Gong at Dodona 133₀ 214₁ 826 1226 axe-pendant modified into 649 ff. 847 in relation to kóttabos-stand 1162₃

Genzenbach, L. 1012₁

Good eye. See Eye, good

Goodwin, C. W. 700₀

Goodyear, W. H. 529₁ 772₁ 788₁

Goose as form of Zeus 1075 in relation to Penelope 691 of Asklepios 1079 cp.
1083 of Herkyna 1075 of Mars(?) 51₁ presented to Rá 774₀

Goose's egg 1083

Gordon, G. B. 527₂

Gorgoneion See Index I

Gossen 519₀ 612₀

Gozzadini, Count G. 650₁ 651 652₁

Grabphalli 1089

Gräber, F. 956₀

Graef, B. 195₁ 469₂

Graef, P. 359

Graefe, C. F. 410₀

Grævius, J. G. 13

Graffiti 1200 1206 1210

Graillet, H. 293₃ 299₃ 299₇ 300₃ 306₂ 306₄
592₂ 950₀

- Granger, F. 392, 394 f. 400 701₀ 1059
 Grape-bunches 154₀ 281 287₁ 540 564 657₅
 658 883₀₍₀₎ 960₀ f. 1204
 Grapes 95 1054
 Grape-vines 285₀
 Grasberger, L. 414₀
 Grasshopper 1199
 Grassmann, H. 344₃
 Graux, C. 611₇
 Grave of 'Ascanius' 1146₀ of Asklepios
 1088 f. of Cestius 1145_{1(b)} of Deukalion
 1118 of followers of Proitos and Akrisios
 1146₀ of Ganymedes 953₂ of giant
 1002 of Hadrian 1145_{1(b)} of Hektor
 961₀ of Kronos 555₀ 556₀ of 'Kyros'
 1145_{1(c)} of the Maccabees 1146₀ of Minos 940₀ 945₀ of Oidipous 1154 of Pelagos 1144₂ of Penelope 691 of Phytalos 1092₆ of Cn. Pompeius Magnus 984₄ of 'Pompey' 1146₀ of 'Romulus'
 1145_{1(b)} of 'Scipio' 1145_{1(b)} of snake
 (Agathos Daimon) 1127₀ of Zeus 556₀
 694₀ 695₀ 696₀ 934₀ 940₀ ff. omphaloid 1057 regarded as shrine of Zeus 883₀₍₀₎ surmounted by 'Dipylon' amphora 1056 surmounted by loutrophoros 1058 surmounted by próthesis-vase 1056 ff.
 Green winged horse lightens and thunders
 1003
 Greenwell, Canon W. 632₆ 656 f.
 Grégoire, H. 596₃ 1220
 Gregorio, A. de 374
 Grenfell, B. P. 696₀
 Grienberger, T. von 330₀₍₉₎
 Griffin as support of Minerva's helmet 55₁ eagle-headed 407₀ foreparts of 407₀ lion-headed 407₀ of Apollon 160₀ of Artemis 'Εφεστια 407₀ of Nemesis 146₇ relief of 896₀
 Griffin's head 146₂ (?) 146₄ (?) 146₇ (?) 639
 698₂
 Griffins, chariot drawn by 523
 Griffith, F. Ll. 544₃
 Grimm, J. 37₆ 53₃ 88₃ 109₁ 158₁ 230₁
 774₄ 782₁ 844₆ 868₂ 868₃ 1033 1131₂
 1212
 Grimm, W. 988 f.
 Grivaud de la Vincelle, C. M. 1089
 Grotefend 337₄
 Grueber, H. A. 331₇ 371₀ 372₄ 402₀ 635₂
 1172₀
 Grünwedel, A. 774₁
 Grunau, S. 92
 Gruppe, O. 14 94₂ 99₁ 115₂ 118₂ 119₁ 122₀
 129₁ 131₅ 160₃ 176₁ 232₂ 236₅ 242₃₋₅
 249₂ 267₅ 268₂₋₄ 276₂ 294₀ 295₂ 302₂
 315₃ 348₂ 352₁ 410₁ 422₁ 444₆ 444₇ 455₂
 456 458₂ 459₃ 464₆ 467₂ 477₀ 486₅ 492₀₍₀₎
 496₀ 504₃ 515₅ 549₅ 549₆ 553₂ 554 558₀
 583 600₃ 626 627₃ 641₂ 675₄ 680₁ 697₂
 721 722 791 798₆ 806₅ 848 857₆ 868₆
 874₂ 878₀₍₃₎ 892₄ 923₀ 925₁ 933₀ 957₂
 960₀ 963₀ 970₀ 981₁ 987₀ 1020 f. 1023
 1025 1026 1029 1032 1033 1036 1037
 1045 1069 1074 1085 1087 1089 1102₆
- Gruppe, O. (cont.)
 1103₄ 1112₆ 1114₀₍₆₎ 1125₁ 1135₄ 1156
 1164₀ 1165₁ 1179₃
 Gsell, S. 73₀
 Guadet, J. 359₁
 Gubernatis, A. de 88₃ 396₀ 402₁ 665₃ 772₁
 1165₁ 1166₀
 Gudeman, A. 1023
 Günther, R. 494
 Guhl, E. 406₀
 Guillaume, E. 550₅ 620₅
 Guimet, E. 547₀
 Guinea-fowl 497
 Gum tragacanth 483
 Gundel, W. 1211 1219
 Gusman, P. 392₇
 Gypsum, image of, containing heart of Dionysos or Zagreus 1031 Titans smeared with 1030
 Haakh 308 ff.
 Hackman, O. 988 ff. 999₆ 1001₃
 Haddon, A. C. 189₃ 642 676₄
 Haebler, C. 613₄ 625₅
 Haebler 666₁
 Hahn, J. G. von 671 678 f. 683 995₂ 1003
 1004₁ 1006₁ 1006₂ 1007₁ 1012 f. 1016
 Haines, C. R. 939₁
 Hair, blue 445₀ crimped or waved by Romans 318₈ dedicated at puberty
 859 f. false 30 light and dark, in Janiform head of Boreas 380 'Minoan' fore-lock 519 f. of Attis always grows 970₀ of hermit 1004 of Iupiter 711₃ of Medousa 191₁₀ 1148 of Zeus golden 1028 of Zeus Στρατηγός 707 votive, in clay 944₀
 Halbherr, F. 770₂ 925₁ 935₀
 Halévy, J. 1038
 Half-man, folk-tale of, from Epeiros 671 f.
 Hall, Edith H. 538₂
 Hall, H. R. 143₂ 313₁ 409₀ 410₁ 517₃ 518₃
 538₃ 600₄ 601₃
 Hall, I. H. 598 f.
 Hall, R. W. 605₁
 Halliday, W. R. 693₄ 734₃ 988 990₈ 1019₀
 1067 1114₀ 1134₀ 1222
 Haltères 1154
 Hamaker, H. A. 558₀
 Hamilton, Miss M. (Mrs G. Dickins) 232₄
 891₀ 1114₅
 Hamilton, W. J. 923₀ 966₀ 977₁ 980₀
 Hammer of Charles Martel 660₀ of Charon
 641 of Donar 64₀ 609 of Hercules (?) 64₀ of Thor 547₀ of Zeus 945₂ on base of Ahriman 1054 thrown to ratify acquisition of property 703₂
 Hammers of Iupiter (Thor) 620
 Hammeran, A. 74₄
 Ham-shaped coins from fountain at Nemausus 1141₀
 Hand of God holding horn full of rays
 1134₄ silver, of Nuada 224₁
 Hands of goddess curved up over her breasts 535 of goddess raised, one palm

- Hands (cont.)
 outwards, the other in profile 536 suppliant 881₀₍₀₎ 889₀₍₃₃₎ 944₀ votive, in bronze 886₀₍₃₀₎
- Hanging 1104
- Hannig, F. 720 1018₃
- Harding, P. J. 419
- Hardouin, J. 1041
- Hare 152₀
- Harnack, A. 307₁
- Hárpe a sickle-knife invented by Thra-cians 550₁ found among many peoples of Asia Minor 550 of Demeter 448₀ of Kronos 447₅ 549 f. of Perseus 718 721₀
 721, 1084 of Saturn 70₁ 550 on taurobolic altar 306₄
- Harris, J. Rendel 133₃ 248₀ 291₂ 318 428
 429₃ 430₁ 434 442₄ 44₆ 451 452 487 ff.
 487₃ 488₀₍₀₎ 692₉ 693₄ 697₀ 824 844 851
 1014 1064 1072 1219
- Harrison, E. 412₇
- Harrison, Miss J. E. 49₁ 118₂ 120₂ 120₃
 121₃ 131₅ 152₀ 160₃ 165₀ 170₃ 177₀ 207₀
 243₃ 258₁ 262₇ 280₀ 313 f. 315₃ 375₁ 432₄
 450₁ 458₁ 458₅ 495 511₁ 516₈ 517₃ 520₅
 692₆ 693₄ 791 931₀ 932₀ 1022 1030 1039
 1056 1058 1062 1067 1083 1089 1095₀
 1105₃ 1105₉ 1107₄ 1110 f. 1111₀ 1114₀₍₆₎
 1125₁ 1136₀ 1137₀ 1151₈ 1151₉ 1160₅
 1161 1161₃ 1163₃ 1213
- Harry, J. E. 805₈
- Hartland, E. S. 291₀ 294₁ 451₁ 960₀ 1018
- Hartung, J. A. 365₄
- Hartwig, P. 460₂ 473₁ 473₃₋₅ 473₇ 475 479₁
- Harvest-rites 498₂ 1096₃
- Hasluck, F. W. 835₂ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 943₀ 1082
- Hat of bifrontal sky-god 385 f. of Odhin 386 winged 388
- Hatch, L. P. 1219
- Hatchet See Axe
- Hatzfeld, J. 1217
- Hauck, A. 604₄
- Haug, F. 57₃ 57₅ 70₀ 70₁ 71₁₋₃ 71₆ 71₇ 74₄
 75₁ 76₀ 77₂ 87₂ 87₃ 88₁ 88₂ 1212
- Hauser, F. 473₃ 475₇ 902₂
- Haussonllier, B. 318₀
- Hauvette-Besnault, A. 580₄ 586₁
- Havercamp, S. 1172₀
- Haverfield, F. 91₁
- Havet, L. 329₀₍₂₎
- Hawes, C. H. 166₁ 341₃ 538₃
- Hawes, H. 538₃
- Hawk as embodiment of Horos 774₀ as shield-boss (?) 938₀ Egyptising 553 in relation to hoopoe 1131₂ on lotos 774₀ on pillar 1133₁
- Hawk-headed god (Râ) 774₀ snake (Kneph)
 1127₀
- Hays, W. J. 1219
- Hazel-tree 403₀
- Hazzidakis, J. 925₁ 935₀
- Head as means of divination 290₀ as seat of the soul 290₀ 291₀ buried separately 290₀ 1218 of Archonides preserved in honey 290₀ of deceased treasured in
- Head (cont.)
 family (Africa), or buried separately from body and replaced by stone image (ancient Egypt) 1218 of priest of Zeus Ὀρλόδαμιος denounces murderer 290₀ of Publius prophesies 290₀
- Heads of gods (struppi) placed on sacred couches 1170 ff.
- Head, B. V. 162₁ 225₆ 254 313₈ 363₁ 429₅
 430₀ 447 491₀₍₀₎ 563₁ 570₁ 572₂ 575₅
 660 660₃ 662 705₉ 794₅ 810₀ 909₀ 961₀
 1042 1192₉ 1224
- Head-dress, Egyptian 987₀ of crab's claws
 1185 Oriental 980₀
- Headlam, W. 345₅ 1098₂ 1098₃
- Healing gods: Asklepios, Hygieia, Teles-phoros See Index I. Dionysos Ἰατρός
 250₃ Zeus Ἱψιάστος 877₀₍₀₎
- Health bestowed by dead kings 1071
- Heart of Dionysos or Zagres 1031 of Liber 1031
- Hearth, common, of the Arcadians 1148 invoked 728₀ of Zeus Ἀστραπαῖος 815
- Heberdey, R. 728₀ 757₁ 972₁
- Hecatomb sacrificed to Zeus Κάσιος on Mt Kasion in Syria 982₀ 1192 sacrificed to Zeus Νέμεϊος at Argos 1144₂
- Hecatombs sacrificed to Zeus Μελέχιος at Athens 1141
- Hedén, E. 1102₇
- Hedgehog 964₃
- Hedysmos, taboo on 987₀ See also Mint
- Heeren, A. H. L. 858₁
- Hehn, V. 279₃ 466₄
- Heim, R. 410₀
- Heiss, A. 1040
- Helbig, W. 103₀ 144₁ 154₀ 158₂ 160₀ 165₀
 392₉ 393 f. 398₁ 400 473₇ 641₁ 652₃
- Hellebore, white 903₂
- Helm, K. 50₁
- Helmet, horned 110₈ miniature 930₀ of Wodan 62₁ of Zeus Ἄρειος 705 f. plumed 376₁ 376₂
- Hempl, G. 330₀₍₈₎
- Henderson, W. 1002
- Henzen, W. 804₀
- Hepding, H. 124₀ 292₄ 293₃ 306₄ 307₁
 969₄ f.
- Herald of Zeus 1141
- Heraldic device 189₁
- Herbig, G. 378₂
- Herm, double, of Dionysos 381 f. ithyphallic 645₄ 1091 of Augustus personating Iupiter 1091 of Diana 149 of Hermaphroditos 1091 of Hermes 152₀
 384₀ 834 955₀ of Homer with Hesiod
 389 of Octavian 1091 phallic 384₀ 1150₀
- Hermann, G. 296₄
- Hermann, K. F. 327
- Hermet, F. 690₂
- Hero appears as snake 1064 1151 ff. blinds one-eyed giant 988 ff. buried in precinct of god 953₂ buried in sanctuary of goddess 944₀ 1152 1155 engulfed in chasm 923₀ escapes by clinging under

- Hero (cont.)
 sheep, goat, ox, etc. 989 escapes by giving false name 989 999 escapes by putting on sheep-skin, goat-skin, ox-hide, etc. 989 fated to be slain by his own son 923₀
 Hero-feast an antecedent of the celestial banquet 1168 as marriage-banquet of the dead 1163 f. satirised by Aristophanes 1166₃
 Héron de Villefosse, A. 445 f. 647₄
 Herrmann, P. 94₂ 1019₂
 Hertlein, F. 53₂ 57₂ 58 ff. 59₁ 59₃ 61₀ 70₀ 71 ff. 71₁ 71₄ 71₅ 71₇ 74 74₁ 74₅ 75₀ 75₁ 76₀ 76₁ 77₀ 77₁ 77₂ 78₁ 78₂ 79₁₋₃ 80₁ 80₂ 81 f. 81₁ 81₂ 81₄ 81₇ 88 88₀ 88₅ 89₁₋₈ 90₂ 93₃ 95₁ 108₆ 109₁ 1213
 Herwerden, H. van 261₀ 271₀
 Herzfeld, E. 128₃
 Hesseling, D. C. 641₂
Hetaírai in service of temples 959 f.
 Hettner, F. 70₀ 74₆ 75₁ 77₂ 88₅ 89₈ 95₂
 Heuzey, L. 124₄ 905₀ 993₂
 Hewitt, J. W. 899₁
 Hexameters, buried 1186₅ would-be 101₁ 183₃ 220₆ 278₂ 344₀ 410₀ 612₁(?) 739₀ 875₁(2) 900₁ 911₀ 1067 1095₀ 1150₇(?) 1154₃ 1157₅(?)
 Heydemann, H. 207₀ 212₄ 265₄ 853₅ 854₄ 854₅ 861₇ 1154₁
 Hicks, E. L. 580₇ 1157₅ 1180₁
 Hides, freshly-flayed, strewn on road 923₀ 924₀
Hieródouloi 616₁ 1175
Hieroi 958₀
Hierophántes 291₂ 292₀ 1025 1067 1084 1168₃
Hērōs gámos of Zeus and Hera 1020
 High-seat pillars 57₁ 533₂
 Hild, J. A. 94₂ 267₂ 1060 1160₅
 Hildburgh, W. L. 642₃
 Hill, G. F. 105₅ 323₂ 331₇ 349₂ 369₁ 370₂ 372₁ 376₂ 409₀ 412₂ 425₁ 446₃ 447 552₇ 553 657₃ 657₆ 610₉ 674₁ 675₄ 681₁ 794₅ 869₀ 887₀(31) 895₀ 909₀ 950₀ 972₁ 973₁ 974₀ 1042 1134₄ 1136₀ 1172₀ 1187₀ 1189₂ 1209₅ 1220 1224
 Hiller von Gaertringen, F. 236₁ 874₁ 1066 1229
 Hind, Cerynean, on 'geometric' fibula 466 with golden horns 465 f. 843 with horns in Greek, Latin, and Hebrew writers 465 f. cp. 854 1219
 Hinke, W. J. 765₂ 766₀
 Hirsch, Baron L. de 909₀
 Hirschfeld, G. 973₁
 Hirschfeld, O. 547₀
 Hirschfelder, W. 472₄
 Hirt, H. 293₀ 455₃
 Hirzel, R. 727₃
 Hitzig, H. 878₀(2) 892₁ 899₁ 901₁ 1076 1137₂ 1147₁₆ 1222
 Hoek, K. 190 f. 723₀
 Höfer, O. 32₁ 115₂ 143₂ 246₁ 260₀ 270₄ 271₀ 284₀ 287₁ 293₀ 413₆ 414₁ 416₃ 422₁
 Höfer, O. (cont.)
 455₀ 560₃ 578₃ 587 599 627₁ 627₃ 692₁ 693₁ 807₃(1) 814₃ 828₆ 873₂ 1026 1036 1044 1066 1099₁ 1099₂ 1110 1112₇ 1114₀(4) 1122₂ 1122₉ 1131₁ 1131₄ 1150₂ 1154 1160₇ 1184₁ 1211 1220
 Höpken, J. 477₀
 Hoernes, M. 637 648₁ 648₂ 649₁₋₃ 686₂ 687₁ 690₁ 1059
 Hoffmann, E. 549₈
 Hoffmann, O. 115₀ 118₂ 119₁ 162₉ 452₁₄ 471₁ 496₀ 583 901₀ 948₀(5) 1102₄
 Hoffmann, O. A. 71₅
 Hoffmann, S. F. W. 31₃
 Hofmann, G. 729₀
 Hogarth, D. G. 405₃ 410₀ 516 530 ff. 530₂ 567 569₄ 569₅ 623₂ 637 926₀ 927₀
 Holder, A. 32₁ 32₅ 86₃
 Holed vases convey liquid offerings to the dead 1056
 Holland, R. 99₁ 396₀ 471₁ 497₂ 775₀
 Holleaux, M. 198₁
 Holm, A. 914₀ 917₀
 Holmes, T. Rice 792₂
 Holm-oak as lucky tree 403₀ gigantic 403₁ on Mt Algidus 404 on Mt Corne 403₁ on Mt Tifata 404 See also Oak-tree
 Holstenius, L. 406₀
 Holthenus, E. 13
 Holwerda, A. E. J. 947₀ 1020
 Homolle, T. 535₂
 Honey as ingredient of cake 1140₁ (ἐλαφος) 1162 (πυραμίσ) as intoxicant 448₁ 1027 as preservative 290₀ in relation to Demeter and Persephone 1142₂ offered to Bona Dea 1142 offered to dead 977₀ 1056 1142 offered to Dionysos Μετλιχίος(?) 1112₆ offered to Dis 1142 offered to Eumenides 1142 offered to Gaia 1142 offered to Hekate 1142 offered to Kerberos 1142 offered to snake(?) 1151 offered to Zeus Μετλιχίος (Μετλιχίος) 1112₆(?) 1142 offered to Zeus Στράτιος 974₁ ep. 977₀
 Honey-cake 1074 1151(?) cp. 1140₄ 1162
 Hoopoe as form of Zeus 1130 f. compared with woodpecker 692 in relation to cuckoo, hawk, woodpecker, and bee-eater 1131₂ on Cretan sarcophagus(?) 523 used in charms 1131₂
 Hoops, J. 487₁
 Hopf, L. 665₃
 Hopkins, E. W. 1035 f.
 Hoppin, J. C. 734₀ 737 777₂ 1167₆ 1223
 Horn dedicated to Zeus Σωτήρ 317₂(Gjallarhorn) held by Heimdallr 305₀ of Zeus Ἄμμων worn by Arsinoe ii 773₀ 1136₄ Horns, altar of 1227 charged with vital force of divine beast 540 connected with double axe are probably bovine 538 f. in relation to double axe 535 ff. ep. 1221 of devil, four, six, or eight in number 326₃ phalloid, on lamp 367₁ ritual 517 525 528 535 538 ff. 624 ritual, formed of two-headed snakes(?)

- Horns (cont.)
 1221 ritual, originally bovine 555₀ ritual, originate in mountain-symbol(?) 1220 ritual, originate in shrine of buried bull 539 f. ritual, with sprays rising from them 927₀
- Horse, fore-part of, on lictor's axe 633 f.
 green winged, that lightens and thunders 1003 1017 in bronze 938₀ marked with double axe 660 must not enter precinct of Elektryone 499₅ of the Plain, winged 1006 f. 1016 1018 red 435 ridden by Eros 1040 white 435 white-faced black 722₁ winged 1003 1006 f. 1016 ff.
 1040 (See also Horses and Index I Pegasus) with Eros emerging from its head 1040
- Horses, heroes destroyed by 414₂ of Apollon
 453₃ of children in 'Expulsion' tales
 1014₂ of Dioskouroi 313₂ 313₅ 313₃ of Helios 851 sacrificed in Persia 890₂ sacrificed to Ares 548₀ sacrificed to Helios 890₂ sacrificed to Poseidon 975₀ tombs for, at Agrigentum 1146₀ victims torn asunder by 1004 1019 white 975₀ winged 453₃ 785
- Hospitality 1097₀
- Houel, J. 917₀
- Hound chasing goat or stag on Mt Argaios
 978₀ golden 1227 of Diana 69 of Perseus
 718 of Tantalos 212₅
- Hounds in bronze 938₀ of Diana 144 cp.
 149 on axe-head 632₈
- Hour-glass of Death 868 of Time 867 f.
- Housman, A. E. 264₂
- How, W. W. 311₀ 436₈
- Hrozny, F. 910₁
- Hübner, E. 91 91₁ 604₆
- Hülsen, C. 46₀ 106₀ 106₁ 147₂ 147₅ 355₅
 359₁ 361₅ 363₈ 400₁₁ 403₀ 404₃ 472₇ 726₀
 1083
- Huish, M. B. 717₁
- Human sacrifice at foundation of Antiocheia on the Orontes 1188 to Ares in Skythia 548₀ to Dionysos in Mytilene
 1022 to Dionysos at Orchomenos in Boiotia 899₁ to (Dionysos) Πιλεστωρος at Apsinthos 270₄ to Dionysos Ὠμάδιος in Chios and Tenedos 667 f. to Palikoi in Sicily 909₀ to Zeus Ἀταβύριος in Rhodes (?) 924₀ to Zeus Ἀταβύριος in Sicily (?) 924₀ to Zeus Ἰθωμάτας 890₆
 891₀ to Zeus Λαφύστιος in Boiotia 899₁ to Zeus Λαφύστιος in Thessaly 904₁ (?) to a Zeus-like deity Θνέστρης at Mykenai (?) 1022 (Zāves) 343₀
- Human victim wrapped in skin of sacred animal 924₀
- Hunger of Erysiythion 683 f. of Herakles 683 of she-bear's son 679 683
- Hunt, A. S. 696₀
- Hunting, inventor of 715₄ 1037
- Husband, dead, becomes Zeus Κτήσιος 1067
- Hutton, Miss C. A. 743₅
- Hyde, W. W. 466₃
- Hymn to Asklepios at Pergamon 954₀ to Athena at Pergamon 954₀ to Dionysos at Pergamon 954₀ to Zeus at Pergamon 954₀ f. to Zeus by Kleantes 854 ff. to Zeus Δικραῖος in Crete 931₀ 932₀ to Zeus Ἐλευθέριος at Termessos (Termessus Maior) (?) 974₀ to Orphic Zeus 1027 1028
- Hypaethral lightning-shrines of Rome 850 roof of Erechtheion 789, roof of Olym-pion at Agrigentum 1227 trident-mark at Athens 850
- Hypothymis* 1162
- Ianus* as parent of the triumphal arch 359 f. as simulacrum of the sky 354 f. at entrance of Roman Forum 355 ff.
- Ibex 939₀
- Ibis worshipped in Egypt 987₀
- Ihm, M. 86₃ 94₃ 328₂ 547₀ 619₂ 619₄ 1059
- Ilberg, J. 627₃ 1088
- Ilex-trees 399 f. 403₁ 946₀
- Image hidden in bundle of wood 421₃ of Mt Argaios 978₀ 983₀ of Mt Kasion in Syria (?) 983₀ See also Statue, Χόανον
- Imhoof-Blumer, F. 320₀ 363₁ 492₀₍₁₀₎ 563₁
 566₀ 572₂ 572₅ 656 667₄ 676₃ 681 706₂
 981₀ 983₀ 1072 1095₀ 1143 1145₀ 1193₁₀
- Immerwahr, W. 164₆ 1147 1149₂₍₁₂₎
- Immisch, O. 928₀
- Imprecations by the Theoi Skleroi 972₀
- Incense 974₁
- Incense-burner 921₀
- Incense-gathering 124
- Incest 680₁₀
- Incubation 232 929₀ 982₀ (?) 1082
- Indigitamenta* 13₁
- Inghirami, F. 265₄ 709₇
- Initiates of Demeter and Kore 132₂ of Dionysos and Kore 120₁ of Eros 1167 of Sabazios 133₀ of Zeus Κάσιος in Egypt 987₀ of Zeus Τελεσιουργός 1228 of Zeus Φίλιος 1186 sprinkled with meal 19₀ tattooed 124₄ See also Mysteries
- Initiation, five stages of 1168 of Demo-kritos 701₀ of Pythagoras 1024 to Zeus Τελεσιουργός required of priests at Miletos 1228
- Inspiration by eagle on sceptre 1134₄
- Iris 774₄ 1224
- Iron, discovery of 715₄ 949₅ 1037
- 'Island-stones' 544 621 ff. 663₁
- Ithyphallic Amen-Râ 772, Dionysos Ἀκρατοφόρος 244₄ (?) Dionysos Φαλλήν 522₀ (?) Hermes 384₀ 645₄ 1068 cp. 1091 1150₀
 Khem 772₁ Telesphoros 1089
- Ivory bull etc. from Idaean Cave 938₀ double axe from Pherai (?) 1221 double axe from Sparta 640₀ fibula from Pherai (?) 1221 ornaments for swordhilts 926 γυγίς at Berlin 1209₂ 1210₂ shoulder of Pelops 224 throne at Ravenna 1205₇ 1205₈

- Ivy as antidote to wine 250₃
 Ivy-berries 270₃
 Ivy-leaves 218₀ 263 540 1041 1128₀ 1204 as tattoo-mark 122₀ (?) of Apollon 246 used in libation 317₁
 Ivy-sprays 244₄ 1041
 Ivy-wreath 199₂ 246₁ 247₀ 262 f. 265 388
 390 909₀ 1124₀ 1129₀
- Jackdaw as prophet of storm 519₀
 Jacobi, H. 1036
 Jacobs, J. 671₄
 Jacobsthal, P. 615₂ 711₁ 713 764 771 779
 781₁ 784
 Jacoby, F. 695₀ 758₀
 Jahn, O. 46₁ 125₂ 131₁ 154₀ 212₃ 265₄ 273₃
 346₀ 379₃ 460₂ 504₁ 645₄ 699₃ 712₄ 713
 793₁₂ 802 854₈ 865₂ 1154₃
 James, M. R. 325₇ 1212
 Jameson, R. 788₀
 Jan, L. 343₀
 Janiform amulets 387₄ Argos 379 f. Boreas
 380 devil worshipped by witches 326
 Kronos 552 statues of the Slave Coast
 378 statues representing twins (?) 378
 Janiform deities of Celts 323 ff. 842 of Gaza
 673 ff. of Illyrians (?) 340 f. of Kypros
 673 of Lakedaimonioi 322 of Lithuanians 445₁ of Phrygians 322 of Romans 326 ff. of Sikanoi (?) 322 of Tenedos 654 ff. 673 significance of 378 f.
- Jars of Dioskouroi 436₈ 1062 ff. of Zeus in Iliad 1067 f. of Zeus Κτήσιος 1054 ff.
 1062 ff.
- Jastrow, M. 128₅ 769₁
 Jay 248₀ (?) 523 f. 697₀ 1016
 Jealousy, divine 503 1093₅
 Jebb, Sir R. C. 3 6 465 699 699₅ 723₀
 Jeep, L. 608
 Jenner, Mrs H. 1134₄
 Jeremias, A. 99₁ 127₀ 128₂ 480₃ 483 666₁
 1025 1108₂
 Jessen, O. 118₃ 119₀ 260₀ 406₀ 410₁ 567₂
 579₀₍₁₃₎ 706₇ 838₇ 857₆ 895₀ 900₁ 918₁
 947₀ 1018₃ 1041 1093₁ 1180₄
 Jet 701 f. 701₂
 Jewelry often originates in magic 637
 Jöst, W. 124₀
 Johns, C. H. W. 483 1110₀
 Johnston, J. B. 326₁
 Jolles 94₂
 Jones, H. Stuart 45₁ 382₁ 387₄ 392₀ 393₂
 398₁ 406₀
 Jonke, A. S. 487₂
 Jordan, H. 46₀ 106₁ 147₂ 147₅ 329₀₍₁₎ 337₄
 355 355₅ 356₂ 358 363₆ 373₄ 400₁₁ 403₀
 472₇ 725₀ 726₀ 1083
 Jouguet, P. 1228
 Jowett, B. 1138₃
 Judas, A. 553₀
 Judeich, W. 21₄ 115₃ 567₂ 579₀₍₁₎ 586₂ 586₅
 789₄ 789₉ 952₀ 1119₀ 1119₁ 1119₄ 1148₂
 Judgment of Eros 949₅ of Paris 949₅
 Jüthner, J. 1226
- Jullian, C. 108 108₆
 Jupiter-columns 57 ff. 840 1213 as Romanised Irmínsúl 91 influence the commemorative columns of Rome and Constantinople 100 ff. surmounted by driving figure 75 surmounted by riding figure 74 ff. surmounted by sitting or standing figure 89 ff.
Jupitersäulen See Jupiter-columns
- Kabbadias, P. 1076 f. 1117₄ 1148₂
 Kahrstedt, U. 594₄
 Kaibel, G. 118₂ 119₁ 1054 1056
Kátharos of Agdistis 1229 of Apollon
 493₀₍₇₎ of Demeter (?) 564 of Hekate
 714 of Zeus at Mylasa 577 597₃ surmounted by crescent 714₂ See also Modius
- Kalinka, E. 874₁ 972₁
 Kalkmann, A. 265₄ 416₆ 460₂ 969₄ 970₀
Kanephóroi 19₀
Kántharos 661 960₀ 1133₁
Kárnyx 110₈
 Karo, G. 172₀ 173₁ 173₅ 516 518₃ 524₉
 527₁ 599₃ 623 623₂ 624₀ 624₁ 625 654₅
 Kastner, J. G. 868₄
 Kastriotes, P. 1088
Katabáσιou 14 1075 f. 1088
Katabóthra 998
 Kaufmann, C. M. 73₀ 307₁ 603 606₁ 906₁
 1168₄ 1209₆
 Kausche, W. 1102₇
 Kawerau, G. 1148₂
 Kayser, C. L. 895₁
 Kazarow, G. 1225
 Keil, B. 948₀₍₅₎
 Keil, J. 1025 1217 1228 1229
 Keil, K. (or C.) 807₅₍₆₎ 872₀₍₅₎ 970₀ 1058
 Kekulé von Stradonitz, R. 739₃ 739₄
 1151₈
 Keller, G. 127₆ 136₃
 Keller, J. 89₈
 Keller, O. 230₁ 302₂ 413₃ 447₇ 464₈ 466₃
 519₀ 645₄ 665₂ 665₃ 667₃ 667₄ 676₃ 680₁
 691₂ 751₂ 998₁ 1079 1114₀₍₆₎ 1131₂
 Kennett, R. H. 703₂ 1108₂ 1111₁
 Kerameus, A. Papadopoulos 138₁
 Keramopoulos, A. D. 231₇
Keraunós 11 See also Thunderbolt
 Kern, O. 131₅ 238₃ 268₃ 663₆ 664₃ 666₂
 684₃ 957₂ 958₀ 959₀ 1019 f. 1023 1032
 1077 1125₁
 Kershaw, Miss N. (Mrs H. M. Chadwick)
 533₂
Kesselwagen See Caldron-chariots
 Kessler, P. T. 1213 f.
 Kestner, A. 1173₂
 Key as lightning-sign (?) 643₇ golden 991 incised on oelt 643₇
 Keys of Ahriman 1054 of grief and gladness 1160 of St Peter 1200₃
 Khell, J. 327₁₀
Kibisis 718
 Kid on altar-top 154₀ Orphic votary as 121 217

- Kiepert, H. 46₀ 106₀ 106₁ 361₅ 494₄
 Kiessling 494 f.
 King as human Dionysos 271₀ as human Iupiter 633 847 1059 as human Kronos (?) 1156 as human Zeus 24 192
 794 833 897₀ 940₀ 942₀ 944₀ 945₀ 1061
 1065 1069 f. 1070 ff. 1073 f. 1076 1088 ff.
 1121 ff. 1159 f. 1185 f. 1189 as weather-maker 1159 bears name denoting Snake
 1087 buried, appears as snake 1061 1087 buried, appears with snake in attendance 1087 buried, gives oracles, sends dreams, bestows health 1071 descended from Aiolos personates Zeus 1159 descended from Zeus 1074 divinity of, among Semites 1108₂ divinity of, transmitted to successor by means of eagle-tipped sceptre 1132 ff. of Athens reckoned divine 1121 ff. 1147 of Orchomenos in Boiotia reckoned divine 1149 f. of Persia reckoned divine 853 of Persia sacrifices at Pasargadai 974₁ of Pontos carries wood for sacrifice to Zeus Στράτιος 941₁ of Pontos resides at Amaseia 975₀ of Sparta accompanied by one of the Tyndaridai 436 of Sparta as incarnation of one of the Dioskouroi (?)
 436 440 of Sparta as priest of Zeus Λακεδαιμών or Zeus Οὐράνιος 436 of Sparta undergoes octennial probation 440₂ of Tegea reckoned divine (?) 1147 of Thespiæ reckoned divine (?) 1150₀ of Thessaly personates Zeus 1087 ff. 1122 priestly, at Aizanoi 964₃ f. priestly, at Knossos 944₀ 945₀ priestly, at Komana in Kappadokia 965₀ priestly, at Komana in Pontos 965₀ priestly, at Nemi 394 ff. 403₁ priestly, at Pessinous 965₀ priestly, at Sparta 436 priestly, buried in sanctuary of goddess 944₀ priestly, contest for position of 394 f. 489₀₍₄₎ 490₀₍₀₎ priestly, sacrificed for the community 303₂ specially favoured by Zeus 1074
 King, C. W. 512₁
 King, J. E. 1059
 King, L. W. 765₂ 766₀
 Kingship, dual, at Carthage 444 dual, at Rome 440 ff. dual, at Sparta 436 440
 Kinkel, G. 957₂
 Kircher, A. 419
 Kirchhoff, A. 1115₂
 Kirchner, G. 627₃
 Kisa, A. 606₁ 1204₂ 1204₃ 1204₅ 1205
 1205₁
 Kiskanû-tree 482 f. 1219
 Kiste for severed genitals in cult of Kybele
 298 f. 300 f.
 Kithára 249₂ 449₀
 Kittel, R. 793₄ 833₁
 Klebs, E. 143₂ 321₄
 Kleidouchos 921₀ 922₀
 Klein, W. 261₁ 1127₀
 Knaack, G. 5₂ 472₈ 473₁ 473₃ 473₅ 475₀
 476₁₂ 479₅ 501₂ 970₀ 1033
 Knife for gelding rams kept in sacred oak 684 f. 848 hidden meaning of, in Gnostic teaching 613 of Bios 866 868 sacrificial (?) 633₂ silver 354
 Knight, Miss E. C. 418 420
 Knots as protective amulets 192₆ 538₅ 538₆
 Knuckle-bones 1030
 Köhler, H. K. E. 783₇
 Köhler, R. 346₀ 994₁ 1012₁
 Köpp, F. 80₂
 Körber, K. 88₀ 89₃ 93₃ 94₃ 98₂ 99₁ 99₄ 1213
 Körte, A. 280 280₁ 281 322₅ 836 882₀₍₂₃₎
 965₀
 Kohler, J. 1219
 Kolbe, W. 18₂ 18₃ 897₅
 Koldewey, R. 128₄ 766₁ 910₁ 914₀ 915₀ 915₂
 917₀
 Kondakof, N. 639₁
 Kónos 1030
 Konstantinides, A. 138₁
 Kophiniotis, I. 32₇
 Κορβ 158₁
 Kopp, J. 1037
 Kopp, U. F. 480₅
 Kortleitner, F. X. 424₀ 1108₂ 1111₁
 Koskinomanteia 702₄
 Kóttabos 1162₃
 Kouchakji, C. 1198
 Kouchakji, F. 1198 1204₁
 Kouchakji Frères 1198₀ 1199₀
 Kouchakji, G. 1198
 Kouchakji, H. 1198
 Kouchakji, S. 1198
 Koumanoudes, S. A. 1058 1095₀ 1115₂
 Kramer, G. 616₁
 Krappe, A. H. 1219
 Kraus, F. X. 74₄
 Krause, J. H. 94₂
 Krauss, S. 1197₃
 Krek, G. 988 f.
 Kretschmer, P. 268₁ 271 ff. 279 279₀ 279₃
 291₀ 292₄ 293₁ 293₂ 351 f. 385₀ 440₄
 570₀ 570₂ 583 ff. 585 f. 588₀ 600 600₅
 713 853₂ 946₀ 1072 1152 f. 1153₁ 1154₅
 Kreuzer 1103₈
 Kriobálion See Criobolium
 Kroll, W. 129₁ 611₄ 696₀ 1020
 Krueger, G. 641₂
 Krumbacher, K. 135₁ 138₁ 695₀ 696₀ 1188₁₀
 Kruse, F. C. H. 1104₂
 Kteis 133₀ 268₀ 291₂ 302₂ 772₁
 Kubitschek, J. W. 696₀
 Kubitschek, W. 371₀ 587 950₀
 Kudurru 765₂ 766₀ 766₁
 Küentzle 430₂
 Kühner, R. 1068
 Küster, E. 1060 1087 1111₁
 Kuhn, A. 37₀ 40₃ 344₃ 383₇ 482₄ 643
 Kuhnert, E. 410₀ 593₁ 595₀ 718₁ 718₂ 718₄
 719₁ 721₇
 Kumanudis, S. A. See Koumanoudes
 Kunz, G. F. 508₀ 510₄ 512₁ 701₂
 Kunze, F. 642₃
 Kurz, M. 905₀ 906₀ 1227
 Kutsch, F. 1089

- Kyranides* 611
Kýrbeis of Colchias 1095₀ of Solon 815₁
 1094₀ 1095₀
- Labarum*, derivation of 606 ff. 613 f. 846 in relation to double axe 601 ff.
- Lábrys* See Axe, double
- Labus, D. G. 811₁₀
- Labyrinth See Index I
- Labyrinth-pattern on gem in Psychro Cave 926₀
- Ladder as amulet 131 as emblem of various saints 134 ff. as tattoo-mark 121 122₀ as trade-mark 139 f. associated with pillar 127 f. Mithraic 129 of St August-tine 140 of bronze 133 of Buddha 129₃ of Jacob 127 f. 136 of Kosingas 130 of Otos and Ephialtes 130 of soul's salvation and road to heaven 136 ff. 1215 of Trygaios 909₀ of virtues 136 Orphic 121 124 f. 134 red 1215 Sabian 129 set against spiral column 475 f. white 1215
 See also Soul-ladder
- Ladenci, F. 1211
- Lagobolon* 157₀ 165₀ 297 299 f. 405₂ 1140₃
- Lagrange, F. M. J. 516₈ 517₃ 518₃ 519₁ 521₄ 523₄ 1111₀
- Laistner, L. 268₂ 988
- Laistner, M. L. W. 934₀
- Lajard, F. 492₀₍₀₎
- La Marmora, Count A. de 540 f. 805₂
- Lamb on chalice of Antioch 1199 1208 on Christian sarcophagus 1050 sacrificed to Ianus 377
- Lambropoulos, A. 741₂
- Lamer 859₅ 859₈ 863₁ 864 866₀
- Lámniissa* 994₂
- Lamp-lighting in cult of Hypsistos 881₀₍₂₀₎
- Lamps, Christian 895₁ Cretan 930₀ 935₀
 938₀ Delian 921₀ of Ge Θέμυς 268₀ of Hypsistarioi 885₀₍₂₈₎ of Hypsistos
 881₀₍₂₀₎ of Theos Hypsistos 879₀₍₁₆₎
 889 perpetual 1148 Roman 712 903₂
 926₀ Thessalian 903₂
- Lance of mistletoe 305₀
- Lanciani, R. 147 361₅ 403₁ 820₃
- Lanckoroński, K. 879₀₍₁₆₎ 973₁ f.
- Lands, sacred, at Aizanoi 968₀
- Lang, A. 450₁ 548₁
- Langdon, S. 696₀
- Lange, K. 1095₀
- Langenhau, A. 392₃
- Langlois, E. H. 868₄
- Lanzone, R. 1035
- Lapis lazuli*, axe of 510₅ cylindrical bar of 769₁ in Sumerian text 482 f.
- Lararium* 751₁
- Larch-trees on bank of Padus, etc. 402₀ on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ Phaethon's sisters as 402₀ (?) 472₉ (?)
- Larfeld, W. 236₁₋₃
- Lark 463₁ (?)
- Lárnax* from Miletos in Crete 49 f. 543 from Palaikastro 524 f. 529
- Larophorum* 751₁
- Lasaulx, E. von 727₃
- Lassen, C. 150₂ 559₆ 569₄
- Lât* 150₂
- Latham, R. G. 1033
- Lattermann, H. 1071
- Látyshev, V. V. 884₀₍₀₎
- Laws as voice of Zeus 1095₀ of Solon
 1093₁ 1094₀ 1095₀
- Lawson, J. C. 4 56₂ 505₅ 506₀ 506₁ 641₂ 642₀ 829 990₃ 1163 f.
- Layard, A. H. 766₀ 769₀ 770₀
- Lead, imprecatory tablets of 1113₀₍₂₎ statuette of 926₀
- Leaf, W. 470₅ 502₂ 1067 1100₀
- Leake, W. M. 110₇ 350₃ 589₀ 901₂ 981₀
- Leaping as magical means of securing fertility, prosperity, and established Right 931₀ 932₀
- Leather, Mrs E. M. 703₂
- Le Bas, P. 580₄ 582 588 833₃ 966₀
- Lebègue, J. A. 919₀ 920₀ 921₀ 922₀
- Lebensbaum* 53₂
- Lechat, H. 211₂ 597₂ 711₂ 711₄ 758₀
 881₀₍₂₁₎
- Leclercq, H. 604₄ 1173₂
- Lectisternium* 443 1170 ff.
- Lecmans, C. 1131₂
- Leeuwen, J. van 676₃
- Lefroy, Sir H. 512₁
- Leg, golden, in English tale 224₁
- Legs of couches 760₂ of thrones 760₂
- Legerlotz, G. 344
- Legge, F. 307₂ 544₃ 610 611₁ 1053
- Legrand, A. 383₇
- Legrand, É. 288₅ 480₈ 480₉ 995₂ 1003₂
- Lehmann, H. 481₄
- Lehmann-Haupt, C. F. 1089 1225 1226
- Lehrs, K. 1125₁
- Lejay, P. 328₄
- Lekanomanteia* 206 666₂
- Leland, C. G. 420
- Lenormant, C. 287₀ 319 372₄ 592₄ 662
 785₂
- Lenormant, F. 131₅ 157₀ 238₃ 245₅ 510₄
 658 804₀ 983₀ 1084 1104₂
- Lenses (?) 938₀
- Lentils 1172₄
- Leonardos, B. I. 1071 f.
- Leonhard, W. 560₄ 560₅
- Lersch, L. 69₅
- Lessing, J. 158₂
- Lethaby, W. K. 405₃
- Letters, Anglo-Saxon 51 cruciform, effaced by Mohammedans 976₀ English 613
 Etruscan 613₂ Faliscan 613₂ Greek 176
 609₁ 613 853₁ 976₀ 1127₀ 1128₀ 1216
 Latin 613 on vestments 1207₀ Phoenician 613 Runic 1212 f. Sabaeen 613
 Sabellian 613₂ Sicyonian 613₂ Venetic
 613₂
- Lewy, H. 251₀ 587₇ 715₈ 1110
- Libation as drink for soul of dead man 1123 1125 from first, second, and third kratér at banquet 1123₇ 1124₀ poured into holed vessel over grave 1056 1064

Libation (cont.)

poured on sacred pillar 193 poured on sacred stone 983₀ to Charites (?) 1124₀ to Dioskouroi 1063 to Hermes 1124₀ to Heroës 1123 to Zeus and Hera 1123₇ 1124₀ to Zeus 'Ιδαῖος in Phrygia 950₀ to Zeus 'Ολύμπιος and the Olympians 1123 to Zeus Σωτήρ 1124₀ to Zeus Σωτήρ or Τέλειος 1123 to (Zeus) Σωτήρ and 'Ολύμπιος 1124₀ to Zeus Σωτήρ, Herakles, and Dioskouroi 434₃ to Zeus περικέρανος 1097₀

Libation-table 920₀(?) 926₀ 927₀ 945₂ 1216
Libri lintei 377₄

Lictors, Roman 1181₀ axes of 633 ff. 680
847 1221

Liebrecht, F. 343₀

Light, glaive of 722₁ pillar of 44 54 66₀
100 114 ff. 840 1211 f. 1217

Lightfoot, J. B. 307₁

Lightning as an axe 505 ff. 685 as the dynamis of Zeus 808₀(0) as a flame from the aithēr 11 as a flash carried by nude male winged figure 84 ff. as a flash from the eye of a deity 501 ff. 642₀ as a flash from the eyes of Impiter 505₂ as a flash from the jealous eye of Zeus 502 ff. 844 as a golden mattock (?) 806₁ as a lance 81 as the spear of Zeus 704 f. 848 as a sword 721 f. 848 as a weapon 505 ff. 600 844 as a whip 824 ff. as the whip of Zeus 851 averted by iris 1224 averted by smacking sounds 827 ball of 1187 caused by green winged horse 1003 1017 chases snakes 820 828₁₂ chthonian 641 805 805₀ death by, a kind of euthanasia 23 ff. 29 33 ff. death by, amounts to apotheosis 9 diurnal and nocturnal 11 granted to epic heroes 8 made of same substance as sun 774 men struck by, buried on the spot 23 men struck by, honoured 9 men struck by, imperishable 22 f. men struck by, not to be lifted 23₂ men struck by, not to have funeral rites 23₂ men struck by, treated as divine 23 (See also Lightning, death by) over Mts Parnes, Brilettos, and Hymettos portends storm 898₀ personified 28 828 851 produces mistletoe etc. 642 f. represented by zigzags (?) 639 ff. son of 829 spiral 779 Zeus conceived as 28

Lightning and Thunder, daughter of 828

Lightnings worshipped at Bathos 827

Lightning-fork 764 ff. bipartite 385₀ 764 f. 849 f. duplicated 767 769 in Etruria 805 f. in Ionian art 769 f. 849 in Mesopotamian art 764 ff. 849 f. lotiform 769 ff. 849 on bull 767₁ on ox 766₀ on shrine 766₀ tripartite 764 ff. 849 f.

Lightning-lotos, Greek modifications of 776 ff. with central spike like dagger or arrow 784 f. with central spike spirally twisted 779 ff. with flame-lines 780 with petals stylised into rays 776

Lightning-lotos (cont.)

with petals transformed into flames 777 with sepals forming serpent-heads 781 with sepals transformed into fly 781 with sepals transformed into wings 777 with side spikes barbed 784 f. with tendrils 781

Liknon, golden, as cradle of Zeus 933₀ in rites of Diana Nemorensis (?) 149 154₀ 405₂ with fruit and phalloid gherkin 154₀ with loaves 1166₁ with phallos 405₂

Lilies combined with double axes 524 f. 527 774 dance in field of 49₁ loved by Hera 515 offered to 'Minoan' goddess (Rhea?) 515 species of, called ambrosia 773₀ worn in hair 49₁ 515 525

Lily-wreath 740

Limbs, votive 943₀ 1077

Lime-tree See Linden-tree

Linde, S. 337₄ 355

Linden-tree turns its leaves at solstice 470₀ venerated in France 403₀

Lindsay, W. M. 3₂ 330₀

Linen 1202₀

Linforth, I. M. 227₂

Link, W. 836₁ 958₀

Lion as amulet 387₄ as form of Dionysos or Zagreus 1030 holding down sphinxes 930₀ in bronze from Idaean Cave 938₀ in folk-tale from Kypros 996 lunar 892₄ of axe-bearing god at Keramos 575 f. of 'Minoan' goddess 552₁ 1221 ridden by Astarte (?) 869₀ signifies Kastor 439 stabbed by four-winged Kronos 553 worshipped at Leonton polis 987₀

Lions as gargoyles 114₀ cp. 930₀ flanking 'tree-of-life' 930₀ in folk-tale from Sicily 1008 f. 1016 of Apollon 920₀ 921₀ of Artemis 457 of Artemis 'Εφεσια 406₀ f. of axe-bearing god at Keramos 575 (?) 599₂ (?) of Hittite god at Boghaz-Keui 599₂ (?) of Kybele 299 552₁ (?) 970₀ 1221 (?) of 'Minoan' god 552₁ (?) of Rhea 552₁ (?) 920₀ 921₀ 1221 (?) of Zeus 'Ορειος 869₀ on axe-heads 632₀ on foreposts of throne 810 votive, at Branchidai 920₀ votive, at Patara 921₀ votive, in Delos 920₀ 921₀ votive, in Phoinike 868₃ votive, in Thera 920₀ 921₀

Lionesses, two, attend Artemis at Delos 1227

Lion-god of Hittites 550 ff.

Lion-goddesses, three, as support of tripod 193

Lion-headed monster (Tiamat?) 769₀

Lion-heads as gargoyles 930₀ cp. 114₀ on gold ring from Mykenai 515

Lion's head as rhytôn 190₀ as shield-boss 938₀ on axles of chariot-wheels 831₁ on body of Phanes 1051 on coins of Gaza 674 f. on coins of Pherai 660 on licitor's axe 1221 on sacrificial axe 631 f. on snake 1022 over Zeus Σαβάτος (?) 664₁

- Lion-skin beneath feet of Hera at Argos 515 on throne of Zeus Alrvaïos 909₀ on tree of Zeus Feλχάνας at Phaistos 947₀ (?) worn by Argos, watcher of Io 380 (?) worn by Herakles 1116 worn by two-headed Herakles (?) of Baris 446
- Lion-skins, two, on coin of Gaza 674
- Lion-tomb at Knidos 1145_{1(c)}
- Lippert, P. D. 319
- Lippold, G. 478₄ 479₁ 479₅ 1046
- Lissauer, A. 617
- Littmann, E. 1227
- Liver, bronze, from Piacenza 338₃ 339₀
- Lizard in folk-tale from Zakynthos 994 f. in relation to Asklepios 1087
- Lloyd, Miss M. E. H. 641₂ 1224
- Lloyd, W. Watkiss 435 1042 1136₀
- Loadstone, discovery of 949₅
- Loaf with wild beasts moulded upon it 1140
- Loaves, clay 1187₄ in Iknon 1166₁ on chalice of Antioch 1199₂ (?) 1199₄ (?)
- Lobeck, C. A. 129₁ 294₀ 350₄ 971₂ f. 1019 1030 1140₅ 1166₁ 1168₃
- Lobster held sacred in Seriphos 665 on coins of Astakos 665₃
- Lobster's claws as head-dress of Triton (?) 665₃
- Locusts on Mt Kasion in Syria 981₁
- Löbbecke, A. 446₂ 681 975₀
- Loeschcke, G. 789 1143₁
- Loewe, E. 1082
- Löwy, E. 1105₄ 1105₆
- Lohner 1221
- Lolling, A. 21₄
- Lolling, H. G. 895₁ 896₀
- Longevity, Hyperborean 465 500
- Longfellow, H. W. 140
- Longpérier, A. de 545₀ 548₀ 685
- Lorentz, R. 31₃
- Lorini, A. 377₅
- Loth, J. 237₀
- Lotos as symbol of reproduction, resurrection, and rebirth 772₁ associated with sun in Egypt 772 773₀ associated with sun in India 774 (?) 774₁ (?) blue 772₁ 774₁ rose 772₁ 774₁ surmounting Mt Argaios (?) 978₀ symbolism of 771 ff. 850 white 772₁ See also Lightning-lotos
- Lotos-flower beneath seated Vishnu 367 surmounting the head of divinity or divinised mortal 772₁ 773₀ 774₀
- Lotos-flowers offered to Egyptian deities 774₀ offered to 'Minoan' goddess (Rhea?) 515 rise from the mummy Osiris 773₀
- Lotos-petals on chalice of Antioch 1199
- Lotos-seeds as rosary of Vishnu-devotee 774₁
- Lotos-tree as lucky tree 403₀ in myth 486₂
- Lotos-wreath of Antinoos 773₀ of Sarasvati 774₁
- Lots 206₁ (?)
- Love as representation of Death 309 1045₁ 1166 between man and God denied by Aristotle 1167 in relation to God 1167 1167₂ 1168 in relation to Zeus 1167 1176 f. 1197 of God as final stage of initiation 1168
- Love-feasts of early Christians 1173₂ of Zeus Φίλος 1173 1197
- Lowrie, W. 604₄ 1168₄
- Lübker, F. 1045 1163₄
- Lüdtke, W. 307₁
- Lukas, F. 1020 1033
- Luschan, F. von 767₀ 769₀ 972₁
- Lustration at Kaulonia 1042 (?) 'Minoan' 628 (?)
- Luynes, Honoré d'Albert duc de 1042 1219
- Luzel, F. M. 1010 1012₁
- Lydekker, R. 413₃ 413₄ 465₅ 523₆ 524₅ 692 692₇
- Lyell, A. H. 604₆ 605₁
- Lynch, R. I. 395
- Lynx 572₂ (?)
- Lyre in cult of Zeus Βροντων 838 f. 852 of Amphion 1013 of Apollon 160₀ 256 263 453₃ 459 838₈ (?) 1219 of Christ (as Orpheus) 1208 of Dionysos 244 838 of Satyr 262 f. tortoise-shell 245₅ 263 with seven strings 453₃ 520
- Lysons, S. 604₆
- Maass, E. 70₀ 93₃ 94₂ 94₃ 96₂ 100₃ 251₂ 252₁ 346₀ 660₁ 1112₆ 1164₀ 1164₂ 1214
- Macalister, R. A. S. 844₆
- Macchiario, V. 199₂
- Macdonald, G. 320₀ 430₀ 430₁ 491₀₍₀₎ 491₀₍₆₎ 592₄ 610₉ 635₀ 656₀ 794₅ 909₀ 951₀ 1126₀ 1192₉ 1209₅ 1219
- Macdonell, A. A. 1035
- MacGregor, J. M. 169₁
- Mackail, J. W. 1045
- Mackenzie, D. 535₄ 601₃ 639₂ 923₀ 940₀
- Mackenzie, D. A. 519₀ 538₃ 1219
- Macleay, A. J. 1173₃
- Macurdy, Miss G. H. 459₃ 495
- Madden, F. W. 603 610₉ 1172₀
- Maddox, H. E. 660₁
- Madsen, A. A. 426₄
- Maeander-pattern 960₀ 965₀
- Maehly, J. 1087
- Maggiore, N. 1227
- Magic as origin of jewelry 637 in cult of Zeus Δικταϊος 932₀ in relation to will-power 1042 f. omitted by Homer 989 traces of, in will of Zeus 261₀
- Magical castle 672 dance 932₀ herbs 211₂ 949₅ ring 989 f. 1001 f. rites for revival of dead 522 rites for revival of vegetation 521 rod 1043 spell learnt from fish 672 use of divine titles 1114₀
- Magician controls lightning, thunder, and rain 558₀ identifies himself with Kronos (?) 558₀ Zeus as 1147
- Magnus, L. A. 1012₁
- Magpies 518₃ (?)
- Mahaffy, J. P. 805₆

- Maier, A. 485₅
 Maionica, H. 1221
 Mair, A. W. 1218
 Maize 154₀
 Mallet, iron, in myth of Prokroustes 627 used to kill off aged and infirm 703₂
 Mallets of Iupiter (Thor) 620 of Sucaelus 620
 Mallows 1154
 Malten, L. 460₂ 788₁ 791
 Manatt, J. I. 49₁ 539₂
 Mannhardt, W. 53₂ 210₃ 224₁ 268₂ 303₂
 496₀ 498₂ 868₃ 1096₃
 Mantle, cosmic 351₁
 Manumission of slaves 883₀₍₂₇₎ 884₀₍₀₎
 Maple-trees 949₅
Mappa 1195₁ 1195₃
 Maraghiannis, G. 535₃ 536₃ 654₅
 Marcellus, Count de 450₀
 Marchant, E. C. 1138₃
 Mariani, L. 211₂
 Marindin, G. E. 238₃ 1170₅
 Marjoram 268₀
 Marriage first celebrated by Okeanos and Tethys 1020 sacred (See Hierôs gámos) with god or goddess of the Underworld
 1164 ff.
 Marriage-banquet of the dead 1164 1168
 Marriage-test of Penelope 690 ff. 848
 Marshall, F. H. 638₇ 763₁ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎
 Marshall, J. H. 524
 Martha, J. 1219
 Martin, A. 728₀
 Martin, T. H. 434 640₃ 641₃ 722₃ 779 1104₀ Mask, comic 1124₀ comic, as carapace of crab 1221 Janiform 326 374 f. (?) 378 of Bes 674 of Demeter Kidapla 1136₄ tragic 375
 Masks of Ammon 808₀₍₁₇₎ on handles of skýphos 1204 tragic and comic, combined 388 f. tragic and satyric, combined with mask of Pan 389₁ two bearded, hung back to back on pillar 381
 Masner, K. 543₁
 Maspero, Sir G. 99₁ 127₀ 141₂ 158₁ 426₄
 510₄ 700₀ 1035 1038
Massebhoth 127₇
 Massmann, H. F. 868₄
Mastaba 1145_{1(a)}
Mastós, a breast-shaped cup used in Kyros, Delos, Boiotia, Attike, etc.
 346₀
 Matter, J. 626₁
 Mattingly, H. 1214
 Mattock of Zeus 806₁
 Matz, F. 478₄ 838₈
 Mau, A. 145₁ 147₇ 158₂ 161₃ 547₀ 798
 Maurenbrecher, B. 329₀₍₆₎ 337₄
 Maurer, C. 1100₁
 Maurice, J. 604
 Maybaum 873₂ 875₁₍₁₁₎ 898₅ 899₁ 1073 1075
 May-day 285₀ 948₀₍₄₎ (?)
 Mayer, M. 350 374₃ 450₀ 459₃ 476₁₂ 495₅
 515₄ 542₁ 543₁ 543₂ 549₅ 549₇ 550₂ 553₂
- Mayer, M. (cont.)
 554₂ 555₀ 599 600 697₅ 712₅ 713 831₀
 846 1033 1087 1110
 May-king 303₂
 Mayor, J. B. 1135₄
 Mayor, J. E. B. 158₂ 450₀ 986₀
 May-pole compared with Diana-pillar 149 f.
 May-queen 303₂
 May-tree 303₂
 Maze 601
 Mazzocchi, A. S. 1041
 McClean, J. R. 110₆ 667₃
 McDaniel, W. B. 1215
 McDowall, Miss K. A. 199₂
 McLean, N. 696₆ 1037 1038 1109₀
 Meade, C. F. 905₀
 Meadows of Hera 1021 of Zeus 933₀
 Meal, ritual use of 18₆ 19₀ 20₀ 1127₀
 Meat, abstinence from 922₀
 Megalithic art, axes in 685 ff. 848
 Meineke, A. 816₆ 855₁ 856₄ 858₁ 858₂ 1226
 Meinhardt, P. 727₃
 Meister, R. 18₃ 278₂ 341 350 350₄ 350₆
 723₀ 1082 1096₁
 Meisterhans, K. 1167₇
 Melber, J. 6₆
 Mélida y Ainari, J. R. 1211
Melikraton 671 See also Nephália
 Mély, F. de 611-611₅ 611₆ 612₀ 612₁
 Ménant, J. 546₀
 Mendel, G. 836₁₀
 Menestrius, C. F. 107₀
 Menetretius, C. 406₀ 410₀
 Mengarelli, R. 509₂
 Meringer, R. 110₅
 Merkel, R. 40
 Merry, W. W. 988₁
 Messerschmidt, L. 635₃
 Mestorf, Fräulein J. 642₄
Metae 423₁
 Meurer, M. 73₁ 521₅ 529₃ 594
 Meursius (J. de Meurs) 940₀
 Meyer, E. 311₃ 311₁₀ 313₁ 456 f. 550₅ 552₀
 560₄ 620₅ 620₆ 691 789 1108₂
 Meyer, E. H. 37₆ 230₁ 615₂ 643₇ 721₆ 722₁
 789 844₆
 Meyer, G. 404₂ 484₅ 779₀
 Meyer, L. 22₄ 1098₆
 Meyer, R. M. 52₇ 88₃ 844₆
 Micali, G. 378₁
 Mice called σμίνοι 250₂
 Michaelis, A. 103₀ 107₃ 625₅ 792₁ 793₁₂
 802₆ 802₉ 802₁₀ 1136₀
 Michaelis, W. 1135₄
 Michon, E. 647₄ 658₃
 Middleton, J. H. 389₁ 1074
 Migeon, G. 606₃
 Milani, L. A. 49₁ 141₄ 142₁ 142₂ 538₇ 621 f.
 622₃ 623₄ 653 1225
 Milchhöfer, A. 515₄ 539₂ 615₂ 897₅ 1170₁
 Milk as diet of newborn soul 41 f. 134 as drink-offering to dead 1056 in Orphic rites 121 217 in rites of Magoi 977₀ in rites of Zeus Στράτιος 974 977₀ of asēs 463₁ of sheep, taboo on 987₀

- Miller, Eliza B. 137₀
 Miller, J. 222₃
 Millet 1172₄
 Milliet, P. 731₂
 Millingen, J. 131 162₉ 273₄ 717₁ 717₂ 1154₁
 1154₅
 Mime-performer 882₀₍₁₀₎
 Minervini, G. 131₁ 273₃ 379₄
 Minns, E. H. 293₀ 493₀₍₇₎ 495₅ 510₁₋₃ 540₄
 632₆ 884₀₍₁₀₎ 925₀ 1203 1204₁
 Mint 1166₀ aphrodisiac 1165₁ taboo on 987₀ See also Hedysmos, Water-mint
 Mirabella, V. 917₀
 Mirror, as toy of Dionysos 251₂ face of Klytaimestra seen in 206₂ made by Hephaistos 1030 of Kairos (?) 863₁ of Venus 70₁ 609₁ showing whole world
 1005 1016
 Mirrors, Etruscan 160 f. 258₁ 431 f. 432₂
 560₃ 708 ff. 713 848 Roman 1205₆
 Mistletoe, Baldr stabbed with lance of 305₀ called Donnerbesen 642 on apple-trees 420₁ on oak-tree 643
 Mitre of high priest symbolises sky 386₅
 Models offered to gods and heroes 539₂
 Modius dedicated by M. Modius Maximus
 299 of Agathe Tyche 1128₀ of Agathos
 Daimon 1128₀ of Diana Nemorensis
 149 of god from Idaean Cave 938₀ of Isis (Isityche) 1129₀ of Pluto 802 of Sarapis 1129₀ with oak-leaves and acorns 802 See also Kálathos
 Mogk, E. 110₅ 533₂ 844₆
 Mohl, J. 611₆
 Mohnike, G. C. F. 854₉
 Molinet, C. du 626₁
 Mommsen, A. 233 240₂ 486₃ 1089 1092₃
 1121₀ 1139
 Mommsen, Th. 328₃ 364 440₄ 440₅ 619₄
 803₂ 1172₀ 1195₀
 Monier-Williams, Sir M. 660₁
 Monogram, Christian, at Chedworth 604 f.
 Christian, at Frampton 604 Christian, in relation to trophy-cross and double axe 613 f. 846 Christian, on coins of Constantine the Great 604 Christian, on shields 602 Christian, on top of pillar 606 Christian, within wreath as standard of Constantine the Great 603
Monúmmatoi (Monúmatoi, Monomátai) 993₂
 Monotheism, general trend towards 889
 Monseur, E. 504₄
 Monster, headless 305₀ three-bodied 805₆
 1225 wolf-headed 305₀
 Montelius, O. 529₁ 618₁ 636 637₁ 647₄
 687₂ 788₁ 1221
 Montfaucon, B. de 319 626₁
 Montgomery, J. A. 888₀₍₁₀₎
 Month, sidereal or lunar, division of 236₅ synodial, division of 236₅
 Months: 'Αγρίανιος 924₀ 948₀₍₃₎ (?) 'Ανθεστηριών 1139 'Ανθεστηριών 1 equated with kalendae Martiae 1139? 'Απελλαῖος 982₀
 Βοηδρομιών 1121₀ Βακίνθιος 948₀₍₃₎ 'Α-
- Months (cont.)
 μηλιών 1142 Διονύσιος 930₀ 'Εκατομβαιών
 1091 f. 1139₅ 'Ελάφιος 554₂ 'Ελάφριος
 599₇ 'Ελχάνιος 948₀₍₃₎ 'Φελχάνιος (?)
 947₀₍₂₎ Κρόνιος 1091 Λώιος 901₀ Μαλοφόριος 489₀₍₁₀₎ Μεταγειτινιών 1121₀ Ξανθικός 982₀ 'Ομολόιος 901₀ 'Ομολώιος,
 'Ομολώος, 'Ομολούσιος 900₁ Τύβι (leg. Τυβί vel Τύβι) 1127₀ 'Τπερβερταῖος 495₆ 496₀
 'Τπερβέρετος 496₀ Φεβρουάριος 1142₂
 Moon as egg 1015₇ (?) 1035 as eye of Zeus
 117 1028 golden, on breast of princess
 1012₁
 Mooney, G. W. 824₄
 Moor, E. 150₂
 Mordtmann, A. D. 195₁
 Mordtmann, J. H. 270₃
 Morell, A. 357₁ 358₀
 Morey, C. R. 135₁ 1134₄
 Morey, P. 79₁
 Morgan, M. J. de 766₁
 Morgan, T. 604
 Morpurgo, Miss L. 392₃ 392₀ 393₁ 393₂
 398 ff. 398₀ 420₁
 Mortillet, A. de 686₃ 687₁
 Mosaic of sacred cistern on Mt Kynthos
 919₀ 920₀ 922₀
 Mosso, A. 520₁ 544₃ 643 646
 Moth as soul 645₄ on bronze double axe from Phaistos 643 ff. 847 on golden disks and plaques from Mykenai 645
 Moulds, stone, from Palaikastro 623 ff.
 Moulton, J. H. 33₄ 50₁ 313₁ 1036
 Mountain climbed by children in 'Expulsion' tales 1008 f. 1011 1016 cosmic, two-peaked 888₀₍₁₀₎ cults of Zeus on 354 868 ff. glass 1012₁ opening at midday 1005
 Mountain-god, recumbent 962₂
 Mountain-top worshipped by Samaritans
 888₀₍₁₀₎
 Mourning-women 1065
 Mouth, bad spirits may enter through
 1162₃
 Movers, F. C. 675₄ 715₄ 1038 1110₀
 Mowat, R. 373₅
 Much, R. 52₇
 Müllenhoff, K. 52₇ 53₃ 844₆
 Müller, C. 22₃ 132₀ 270₄ 696₀ 945₂ 1023
 Müller, C. O. See Müller, K. O.
 Müller, F. Max 383₇ 1035
 Müller, G. A. 80₂ 109₁
 Müller, H. D. 549₆ 1021 f.
 Müller, K. O. 16₁ 102₀ 130 199₂ 228₄ 241₃
 327 384₀ 457 491₀₍₆₎ 744₃ 1042 1045
 1048 1151₈ 1151₁₀ 1191₅ 1197₃
 Müntz, E. 106₂
 Mulberry-trees 946₀
 Mule, hind foot of 757₆ must not enter precinct of Elektryone 499₅
 Mules, victims torn asunder by 1008 1019
 Multiple blades of double axe 624 654 breasts 410 ears 322 eyes 446₁ 892₅
 893₀ types of deities 322₄ 341₀ 367 893₀
 Muñoz, A. 863₁ 865₂ 866₀ 867₀ 867₂ 867₃

- Munro, A. 1221
Murex 1047
 Murr, J. 772₁ 775₀
 Murray, A. S. 405₃ 746₂ 753₁ 881₀₍₂₂₎ 882₀₍₁₀₎
 Murray, G. 118₂ 119₁ 133₂ 458 931₀ 1019 1096₂
 Murray, J. 901₂
 Murray, Miss M. A. 326 1218
 Musician 882₀₍₁₀₎
 Myers, F. W. H. 482
 Myres, J. L. 598₄ 599₃ 718₁ 925₁ 944₀
 Myrtle, quickening qualities of 1165₁ sacred to Aphrodite 710₃ 1165₁
 Myrtle-berries at marriage-banquet 1164
 Myrtle-branch called verbena 1170₈
 Myrtle-leaves, Pythagoreans buried on 472
 Myrtle-trees 710₂ (?) 946₀
 Myrtle-wreath, possible significance of 1165₁
 Mysteries at Agra 1139 at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1186 at Eleusis 132₂ 295₂ at Leibethra 1024 at Memphis 701₀ at Pelousion 987₀ at Pergamon 288₀ 953₃ f. at Pheneos 1136₄ in Crete 345 838 934₀ 987₀ in Samothrace 314₂ of Demeter Κιδάρια 1136₄ of Demeter and Kore 132₂ 295₂ 345₆ of Dionysos 124₄ 1030 of (Dionysos) Βρόμιος 882₀₍₁₀₎ of Dionysos and Kore 120₁ of Eros 1167 f. of Glykon 1084 of Io (?) 961₀ of the Kabeiroi 314₂ 953₃ f. of Morges 934₀ of the Mother of the gods 310₂ of Sabazios 133₀ of the Vine 613 of Zeus in Crete 345 987₀ of Zeus Ίδαίος in Crete 838 934₀ of Zeus Κάσιος in Egypt 987₀ of Zeus Σαβάγιος 288₀ of Zeus Φιλίος 1186 personal names taboo in 1114₀ use of meal in 19₀ See also Initiates, Initiation Mystic formulae: βοῦς ἐπὶ γλώσση μέγας βέβηκεν 345 ἐκ τυμπάνου βέβρωκα, ἐκ κυμβάλου πέπωκα, γέγονα μύστης Ἀττεύω 345₆₍₁₎ ἐκ τυμπάνου ἔφαγον, ἐκ κυμβάλου ἔπιον, ἐκερνοφόρησα, ὑπὸ τὸν παστὸν ὑπέδυν 345₆₍₂₎
 Naber, S. A. 1124₀
 Nail of Talos 645₀ sacred 57₁ 423₃ 533₂
Natskoi 1064
 Names, assonance of, characteristic of divine twins 310 312 avoidance of 17 1114₀ beginning with Ἄμφι- 1072 descriptive, of animals in Greece 1134₀ false, given by hero 989 999 of bird-tribes in Greece and Italy 1134₀ of children in 'Expulsion' tales are stellar 1014 of early kings denoting Snake 1087 of god borne by worshipper 839 of sacred animals given to towns in Egypt 987₀ taboo, concealed under allusive or euphemistic titles 1114₀ theophoric 953₃ 1158 well-omened, borne by priests 921₀ See also Appellative, Nursery-names, Place-names
 Nativity, site of, occupied by grove of Tammuz (Adonis) 984₁
 Natorp, P. 33₃ 352₂
 Nauck, A. 253₃ 806₁ 1013₂
 Navel of Earth 187₅ of Vishnu 774₁ of Zeus 190 ff. 191₁₀ 841
 Neale, J. M. 140 1197₃
Nebriis 270₃
 Necklace 593
 Nectar as drink of infant Zeus 928₀ as intoxicant of Kronos 1027
 Neeb, E. 93₃ 98₂
 Need-fire 816 f.
 Neergaard, C. 637₁
 Nehring, A. 1219
 Neo-Attic reliefs 165₀ 1225
Neokóros 629 967₀ 968₀ 1078 1225
Nephália 1142₃
Neter 544₃
 Nettles 395
 Neuhauser, J. 1125₁
 Neumann, K. J. 441₂
 Neustadt, E. 928₀
 Newberry, P. E. 545₀ 555₀ 767₂
 Newell, E. T. 761₄ 762₂
 Newman, W. L. 854₉ 855₁
 Newton, Sir C. T. 589 f. 598₁ 1157₅
 New Year's Day 931₀
 Nicole, G. 124₁ 315₃ 737
 Nicole, J. 757₈
 Niemann, G. 112₁ 455₁ 879₀₍₁₆₎ 971₂
 Niese, B. 436₈ 816₀
 Nightingale 693 460
 Nikitsky, A. 816₅
 Nilsson, M. P. 17 18₂₋₅ 118₃ 158₁ 164₆ 237₀ 242₄ 250₂ 410₁ 413₃ 413₇ 453₃ 455 f. 469₅ 789₇ 807₂ 904₄ 960₀ 1033 1054 1060 1061 1064 1075 1125₁ 1148₂ 1170₃ 1170₅
 Nino, A. de 1001₁
 Nipples inlaid with red copper 747₁ large 319₁
 Nissen, T. 307₁
 Noack, F. 900₀
 Nock, A. D. 124₄ 806₁ 881₀₍₂₀₎ 1211
 Nome, divisions of the Pythian 239₀
 Nopcsa, Baron 822
Notia 507₂
Noumenia 1196₃
 Nudity necessary in capture of the bird Dikjeretto 1005
Nuraghi-civilisation 142₀
 Nursery-names applied to gods and goddesses 292 f. 294₀ 295₁ (?)
 Nurses of Dionysos 274 f. 276 347₀ 1022 1030 of Semele 1031 of Zagreus 1030 of Zeus 227 f.
 Nuts 775₀
 Nyrop, C. 988 989₅ 1001₃
 Oak-branch 1077 (?) 1177 (?)
 Oak-brides of Zeus burnt on Mt Kithairon 977₀ Oak-deities of Akarnania 412 of Mt Algidus 404 of Allobroges 570₀ of Arkadia 412 of Ephesos 405 of Greece 405 ff. of

Oak-deities (cont.)

- Italy 400 ff. of Keltoi 570₀ of Macedonia (?) 412 of Miletos 409 f. of Nemi 417 ff. 842 f. of Phrygia (?) 570₀ of Rome 400 ff. of Thebes in Boiotia 412 of Thrace 411 f. of Mt Tifata 404 of Troizen 413 ff.
- Oak-leaves 110₃ 394 f. 398 ff. 417₅ 420 763₁ 802 843 965₀ compared with vervain 395₂ 396₀
- Oak-tree as effigy of Celtic Zeus 111₀ as headquarters of Aequian commander 404₄ as trophy-stand 109 at Dodona 677 693₃ at Eresburg (?) 1212 cp. 53 at Gortyna 946₀ (?) at Nemi 417 ff. at Phylake in Pthiotis 685 848 at Rome 92 f. called barnstokk ('child-tree') and apaldr ('apple-tree') 682 called λεύκη 467₄ clothes hung on 414₂ cut down, decked as bride of Zeus, and called Δαιδάλη 898₆ decked with fillets and tablets 683 decked with weapons and spoils of chase 412₆ displaced by beech 402 f. displaced by olive (?) 415 ff. evergreen 92 f. 403₀ 404 411 411₆ 417₅ 591 923₀ gelding knife kept in 685 not personified by priest of Nemi 400 of Apollon 486₅ of Artemis 405 ff. of Aryan thunder-god 417₅ of Asklepios 1087 of Bendis 411 f. of Diana 400 ff. of Iupiter Caelius 400₁₁ of Phylakos 685 of Tyndaridai 437 439 of Volsung 682 of Zeus Baryaios 570₀ of Zeus Φελχάριος (?) 946₀ of Zeus Κορυβαίος 1218 (?) of Zeus Náios 413₂ snake reared in 1087 snake twined round 1218 (?) with sacred pillar 152₀ 154₀ with sow 324 (?)
- Oak-trees, Heliades transformed into 472₁₀ in Crete 946₀ Kronos mutilated beneath 448₁ 1027 of Querquetulanae Virae 402₀ of Zeus Ἀσκραίος 872₀₍₅₎ of Zeus Στράτιος 976₀ on the Esquiline 401 on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ on sarcophagus showing death of Hippolytos 417₃ on simpulum showing amours of Zeus 228; stag-beetle lives in 782₂ venerated in Oise 403₀ within Porta Querquetularia 402₀ See also Holm-oak
- Oak windows, king of 722₁
- Oak-wreath, jewelled 809₃ of Artemis (?) 412 of Bendis 411 f. of Sex. Pompeius 371₁ of Silvii 417₅ of Zeus 348 388 1187₄ of Zeus Náios 763₁ on coins of Rhodes 470₀ (?) on coins of Skepsis 951₀ on coins of Thessalonike 411₆ precedes bay-wreath as prize at Pythian games 486
- Oath by Apollon, Demeter, Zeus 730₀ by Apollon Παρφός, Demeter, Zeus Βασιλεύς 1135 by Apollon, Poseidon, Zeus 233₇ 730₀ by Mt Argaios 978₀ by Asklepios 1086 by Dionysos under open sky 724₀ by Dios Fidius under open sky 724₀ by Herakles under open sky 724₀ by Hestia, Zeus,...Poseidon 916₀

Oath (cont.)

- by sceptre 723₀ by Zeus colloquially clipped (νή Δι, νηδι) 727₃₍₃₎ by Zeus in affirmations of private life 727₃ 728₀ 849 by Zeus in affirmations of public life 728₀ ff. 849 by Zeus sometimes elliptical (νή τὸν —, μὰ τὸν —) 728₀ by Zeus taken over boar 728₀ by (Zeus) Ἰκέσιος, Καθάριος, Ἐξακαστήρ 1093₁ cp. 1095₀ by Zeus Ἵρκιος taken over cut pieces of boar 726 f. by Zeus Σωτήρ 955₀ by Zeus, Apollon, Artemis 730₀ 871₃₍₁₎ by Zeus, Apollon, Demeter 729₀ 730₀ by Zeus, Apollon, Themis 730₀ by Zeus, Athena, Aphrodite 730₀ (i. 16) by Zeus, Athena, Apollon 730₀ cp. 458₄ by Zeus, Demeter, Helios 730₀ by Zeus, Ge, Helios 729₀ cp. 884₀₍₀₎ by Zeus, Poseidon, Demeter 730₀ of Demaratos 728₀ of Demosthenes by Ἀσκληπίος (not Ἀσκληπιός) 1086 of dikastai at Ardettos 730₀ of kings and people of Epeiros before Zeus Ἄπειος 706 of Gortyna 723₀ of heliastai at Athens 730₀ of Hierapytna 723₀ 929₀ of Itanos 929₀ of Lyttos 723₀ 934₀ of Priansos 723₀ of Solon 1093₁ 1095₀ of Winged Horse of the Plain 1006 1016 1018 taken over boar 726₀ taken over cut pieces of boar 726 f. taken καθ' ἑρῶν νεοκαύτων 929₀
- Oaths in relation to Zeus 727₃ ff.
- Oberhammer, E. 270₀ 495₂ 609₅ 610₄ 901₁ 906₁
- Oberlin, J. J. 394₂
- Occhiaro 1001 f.
- Octopus 205₁
- Odelberg, P. 878₀₍₃₎
- Oder, E. 693₁ 697₂ 697₃ 697₅ 751₂ 1122₂ 1131₂
- Ogre, one-eyed 988 ff. three-eyed 995 f.
- Ohnefalsch-Richter, M. 157₁ 246₁ 539₂ 598₃
- Oil 974₁ 977₀ 1056 1058
- Oktaeteris* 241 ff. Apollinè 241 ff. Delphic 239 ff. Dionysiac 242 posterior to trietris 242 f.
- Olck, F. 464₆ 464₉ 775₀ 1103₄
- Oldenbergh, H. 774₁ 1035 1095₀
- Oldfather 1041
- Oleander 891₀
- Olive-branch 98 211₂ 527 1042 (?) 1077 (?) 1170₅ 1177 (?)
- Olive-leaves, Pythagoreans buried on 472
- Olive-tree called Writhen Olive at Troizen 415 decked with votive tablets 903₀ Dionysos or Zagreus compared with 1030 displaces oak (?) 415 ff. on gold ring from Mykenai 515₁ (?) on sarcophagus from Hagia Triada 517 (?) resembles evergreen oak (?) 415₂ turns its leaves at solstice 470₀ See also Wild-olive
- Olive-trees at Epidaurus Limera 1082 on Greek sarcophagus 417₃

- Olive-wreath 165₀ 261 323₁ 902₂ 1029 1155
 See also Wild-olive
- Olrik, A. 57₁
- Olshausen, O. 493₂
- Ombria* 507₂
- Omophagy 934₀ bovine 539 human 549 (?)
 667 f. 1022 See also Cannibalism
- Omphaloid stone with snake coiled round it 94₃ 186 cp. 882₀₍₀₎
- Omphalos* as centre of disk-shaped earth 167 189 as mound of earth 187 as mound under which the navel-string of Zeus lay buried 191 841 as seat of Apollon 207₀ 1189₃ 1192₅ as tomb of Dionysos 219₄ associated with pillar 166 ff. 187 841 in Aigina (?) 186 at Argos 173 at Athens (?) 184 at Branch-idai (?) 180 at Byzantion 167 ff. 841 at Delphoi 169 ff. 841 1216 at Megara (?) 186 of Ge 231 239 1216 on coins of Antiocheia on the Orontes 1192₅ on coins of Seleukeia Pieria 983₀ replica of Delphic 170₃ twined with snake 882₀₍₀₎ cp. 94₃ 186
- Onians, R. B. 1219
- Onions cause death of Diktys 986₀ grow with waning, wither with waxing moon 986₀ f. in relation to Iupiter 260₀ taboo on 986₀ worshipped at Pelousion 987₀
- Opus interrabile* 1203 ff.
- Oracle delivered by dead king 1071 delivered by snake or snakes 1075 of Apollon 238₀ of Apollon at Delphoi 163₄ 164₆ 322₇ 959₀ 1113₀₍₂₎ of Apollon at Gryneia 489₀₍₄₎ of Apollon Κλάριος at Klaros 489₀₍₄₎ 954₀ cp. 1113₀₍₂₎ of Apollon Κοροπαίος in Thessaly 871₃₍₁₎ of Dionysos in Thrace 269 of Glykon at Abonou Teichos 1083 f. of Mars at Tiora Matiene 1133₁ 1230 of Nyx at Megara 257₄ of Pasiphaea at Thalamai
 31 of Zeus at Dodona 163₄ 214 ff. of Zeus at Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229 (?) of Zeus Κλάριος at Klaros 873₂ of Zeus
 Τροφώνιος or Τροφώνιος at Lebadeia 1061 1073 ff. of Zeus Φάιος at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1186
- Orientation of Ianus' statue 358₅ of Iupiter's statue 46
- Ornithogonia* 463₁ 928₀
- Orsi, P. 509₄ 770₂ 917₀ 925₁ 935₀ 937₀
- Orth, F. 1079
- Osborne, W. 635
- Ossorio, F. A. 1211
- Oswald, F. 473₁
- Ott, L. 727₃
- Otto, W. F. 363₈ 365₁ 1060
- Ouvré, H. 570₂
- Overbeck, J. 16₁ 102₀ 125₂ 160₃ 207₀ 327
 413₂ 460₂ 592₄ 598₁ 625₅ 705₈ 708₈ 713
 713₁ 717₂ 740 746₁ 752 760 918₀ 1044
 1078 1143₁ 1178 1189₀ 1191₅
- Owl called ἀσκάλαφος 1087 called ὄτρος 130₄ horned 130₄ 1036 f. of Minerva 95₁ on coins of Gaza 674₁ on coins of Per-
- Owl (cont.)
 gamon 955₀ on coins of Tyre 1036 f. on thunderbolt 955₀ torments Otos and Ephialtes 130₄
- Ox as form of Zeus ('Great Ox') in Crete 342₀ 345 354 bears lightning-fork 766₀ bears shrine with lightning-fork 766₀ in formula of Cretan mystics ('a Great Ox hath come upon my tongue') 345 ridden by Themis 348₅ sacrificed to flies 782 sacrificed to Zeus 728₀ cp.
 950₀ tomb of, in Crete 342₀ 345 354 worshipped at Memphis 987₀ See also Bull, Calf, Cow
- Oxen of bronze on Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes portend disaster by bellowing 924₀ on statuette of Artemis 'Ἐφέσια 407₀ sacrificed to Apollon 463₁ thigh-pieces of, burnt for Zeus 950₀ votive 930₀ 943₀
 944₀
- Oxé, A. 93₃ 94₃ 98₁ 98₃ 99₄
- Ox-head, filleted, on altar-top 154₀
- Ox-hides 923₀ 924₀ 989
- Ox-horn, golden, dedicated to Zeus Κάριος
 982₀
- Pace, B. 915₀ 1227
- Pagenstecher, R. 499₀
- Pail 1060
- Pais, E. 365₄
- Palace as name of temple 311 of brick at Tralleis 95
- Palládion* 8
- Palm-branch 99 163 246₁ 490₀₍₅₎ 491₀₍₀₎
 1047 1077 (?) 1193 1202₆
- Palm-branches 101₁ 573 cp. 964₂
- Palm-tree at Delos 461₀ (?) at Delphoi 461₀ in bronze at Delphoi 170₂ 262₅ of Zeus Σαάξιος (= Σαβάξιος) 284₀ (?)
 sacred, in Italy 159₀
- Palm-trees on Christian sarcophagus 1050 on sarcophagus of Hagia Triada 520₅ (?)
 521₄ (?) on wing of Ahirman 1054
- Panbabylonism* 938₀
- Panic grass 1172₄
- Pankarpia* 1058
- Panofka, T. 165₀ 435 451₁ 706₅ 895₁ 947₀
 1042 1080 1089
- Pan-pipes of Apollon 246 249₂ 249₃ of Attis 295 296₄ 299 cp. 664₁ of Charis held by Apollon 249₂ 249₃ of Pan 157₀
- Panspermia* 1140₃
- Pantheistic Zeus 1027 ff.
- Panther of Dionysos 261 270₃ 599₂ (?) of god with double axe at Keramos 575 (?)
 599₂ (?) of Zeus Λαβράϊνδος 599₂ (?) of Zeus Σαώτης 599₂ (?) with filleted double axe 572 (?) with head of double axe 599₂ (?)
- Panthers draw car of Dionysos 245₀ on either side of kratér 699₄
- Pantheress 572₂ 838
- Panther-skin 380 854 1019₂
- Pape, W. 350₄ 414₀ 451₁ 873₂
- Pappadakis, N. 903₂ 904₀

- Paradise, various forms of Greek 465
 Parasites invented by Zeus Φίλος 1169
*Parádro*s of mother-goddess, at once her husband and her child 294 ff. 842
 Pareti, L. 758₀
 Paribeni, R. 509₂ 516₆ 517₃ 518₁ 518₃ 520₂₋₅ 521 521₃ 521₄ 522 523₃ 524₆ 637
 Paris, P. 404₁ 404₃ 686₂ 1158₁₀ 1211
 Parker, C. A. 305₀
 Parrot 146
 Parsnip 1042
 Parsons, J. D. 607₄
 Pascal, C. 1170₅
 Pashley, R. 945₂
 Pasqui, A. 509₃ 636
 Passow, A. 4 1164₁
 Paton, W. R. 234₁ 238₀ 291₂ 307₁ 872₀₍₆₎
 Patsch, G. 485₅ 1195₀
 Pauli, C. 709₇ 709₉
 Peacock of Iuno 60₀ 67 with herm and butterfly 645₄
 Peacocks on Roman mirror 1205₆
 Pearson, A. C. 161₂ 466₁ 497₂ 676₃ 697₂ 799₃ 806₁ 854₉ 855₁ 856₂₋₄ 856₈ 856₁₀ 858₃ 858₄ 923₀ 1124₀ 1131₂ 1179₆
 Pearson, H. H. W. 482₈
 Pear-tree as lucky tree 403₀ sacred, at Autessiodurum 1215 f. wild, in folk-tale from Janina 678
 Pectoral 594
 Pedersen, H. 494
 Pediment, crescent and star in 983₀ star in 980₀
 Pediments of Olympion at Agrigentum 911₀ of Parthenon at Athens 753 of fourth-century temple at Delphoi 267₁ of sixth-century temple at Delphoi 267₁
 Pedrusi, P. 327
Pedum 308₁
 Peet, T. E. 142₀ 559₂
Pélanos 1097₂
Pélekys, a much-travelled word 587
 Pennéll, E. R. 421₀
 Penrose, F. C. 1229
Pentaeterís 227 1121₀ 1179
Péplos of Athena in eastern frieze of Parthenon 1136₀ 1136₄ 1137₀ of Athena worn by basileús at Athens (?) 1136
 Perdrizet, P. 270₃ 411₆ 628₇ 629 819₀₍₅₎ 820₃ 863₁ 864₀ 866₀ 878₀₍₉₎ 879₀₍₁₅₎ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎ 1229
 Pernier, L. 520₄
 Perrot, G. 49₁ 515₁ 550₅ 551₁ 620₅ 620₆ 621 621₂ 622₂ 638₆ 805₃ 915₀
Perséa-tree 468
Persönliche Götter 13₁ 851
 Persson, P. 860₄
 Pervanoglu, P. 199₂ 1057
 Pestle in rites of Pilumnus 643₈
Pétasos 383 386 388 713
 Peter, R. 57₃ 470₆ 620₁ 620₂
 Petersen, C. 236₁ 344 642₃ 854₉ 855₁ 858₃ 1212
 Petersen, E. 106₀ 106₁ 361₅ 516₆ 518₃ 520 f. 520₅ 522₀ 523₁ 524₈ 784₂ 793 f.
 Petersen, E. (cont.)
 794₀ 799₁₀ 879₀₍₁₆₎ 972₁ 973₁ 1064 1136₀ 1181₀
 Petrie, Sir W. M. Flinders 141₂ 290₀ 325₇ 545₀ 617 622₃ 632₆ 799₃ 1218
 Pettazzoni, R. 143₂ 143₃ 313 314₂ 315₁
 Peucerus, C. 702₄
 Pfister, F. 414₁ 414₂ 897₀
 Pfuhl, E. 741₅ 743₄ 817₀
Phallós affixed to column (?) 530₀ anthropomorphic 1089 f. covered with bay and ivy 244₄ dedicated to Theos "Τψι-στος" (?) 879₀₍₁₅₎ horns ending in 367₁ in Uknon 405₂ in relation to butterfly 645₄ in relation to snail 645₄ kept as relic 450₁ made of deer-skin 1022 made of wood 224₁ of Agdistis 969₄ of Attis 970₀ of Dionysos 'Ακρατοφόρος 244₄ (?) of Dionysos Φαλλήν 522₀ of Gallos, king of Pessinous (?) 970₀ of herm 645₄ 1150₉ of Hermes 384₀ 1068 of Kibuka 450₁ of Kronos 450₁ of Osiris 224₁ of Ouranos 450₁ of Phanes 1024 f. of Telesphoros 1089 f. of Zeus 450₁ on graves 1089 represented by pillar (?) 426₄ represented by thumb (?) 291₂ represented by trident (?) 791₃ swathed (?) 522₀ weighed 734₃ See also Genitals, Ithyphallic
Pharmakoi 291₂ 924₀
 Philios, D. 895₁ 896₀
 Philpot, Mrs J. H. 88₃
 Phoenix as form of Râ 1035 on globe 373₂ on palm-tree 1050
 Phoutrides, A. E. 905₀
 Phylactery-bands 1200 (?)
Piaculum 803₂
 Picard, C. 954₀ 962₂ 1216 1227
 Pick, B. 491₀₍₆₎ 493₀₍₇₎ 1126₀ 1193₄ 1214
 Pickard, J. 211₂
 Pictograph of double axe 613
 Pierce, R. 1227
 Piette, E. 189
 Pig in parody of mystic formula 345₅ in rite of atonement 1097₂ nurtures Zeus on Mt Dikte 928₀ replaced by dog in pig-skin 1140₅ replaced by ham-shaped coin 1141₀ replaced by terra-cotta pig 1140₅ sacrificed to Iuno Lucina (?) 60₀ sacrificed to Zeus Βουλεύς 1105 sacrificed to Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 1105 sacrificed to Zeus Μελέχτιος 1105 ff. 1140₂ (?) 1157 snout of, in clay 896₀ worshipped at Praisos 782₅
 Pigeon, golden, on oak-tree at Dodona 677 on bronze tablet from Psychro Cave 927₀
 Pigeons on sarcophagus from Hagia Triada 518₃ (?)
 Pighius (S. W. Pigne) 46₀
 Pigorini, L. 651₁ 652 652₁ 652₃
 Pig-skin, articles made of, must not be brought into precinct of Elektryone 499₅ dog dressed in 1140₅
Pilion (pileum) 307₃ 386 See also Cap, Phrygian

- Pillar as aniconic image of Arcadian god or goddess 814 f. of Esmun 1095₀ of 'Minoan' god 532 of 'Minoan' goddess 533 of Zeus Πάσιος 1095₀ of Zeus Παρρῶος 1095₀ of Zeus Στροπῆος 815 1095₀ of Zeus Τριφύλιος 1095₀ as axis of spherical world 169 f. associated with ladder 127 f. 141 associated with omphalós 166 ff. marked with double axe 532 f. marking sunrise at winter solstice 1130, of early Germanic sky-god (Irmingsúl) 52 ff. of early Germanic sky-god Romanised as Jupiter-column 57 ff. of fire 115 115₂ of fire or light in legends of saints 115 ff. of glory 44 of light 44 54 66₀ 100 114 ff. 840 1211 f. 1217 sacred, belongs primarily to earth-goddess, secondarily to sky-god associated with her 533 surmounted by cock 1133₁ surmounted by hawk 1133₁ surmounted by horns 142₁ surmounted by pyramid 814 f. 1095₀ 1147 surmounted by woodpecker 1133₁ with two bearded masks hung back to back 381
- Pillars as divine effigies (?) 423₃ 843 in relation to double axe 528 ff. of Briareos 422 of Danaos 1144₂ of Dionysos 423 of Herakles 422 f. of Kronos 422 of Proteus 422 rayed, flanking Mt Argaios 980₀ supporting sky 56₂ 126 169 426 431 843 See also Diana-pillars, High-seat pillars, Sky-pillar
- Pillar-altars 161₆ 193
- Pillar-cult at Argos (?) 1144₂ at Delphoi 169 178 in France 1213 in Spain 1213 at Tarentum 29 45 131 161 166 559 at Tegea 814 f. in Thessaly 166₂ (?)
- Pillar-shrines 152₀ 153₀ 1213
- Pillet, A. 133₃
- Πίλος*, black 435 blue 386₅ covered with stars 386 of Attis 386 of Dioskouroi 313₂ 313₄ 313₆ 433 435 574 f. 1062 of Hephaistos 386₅ cp. 630 of Men 386 of Mithras 386 surmounted by star 433 white 435 worn by priest 386₅ 630
- Pinder, M. 577₂
- Pine-cone 154₀ 298 951₀ 1054 1080 f.
- Pine-tree, eagle on 909₁ in grove of Diana Nemorensis (?) 146 147 ff. cp. 412 of Attis 303₂ 951₀ 969₄ 970₀ cp. 306₅ of Kybele 951₀ cp. 306₅ on gold ring from Mykenai 515₁ (?) on Mt Viarus 972₂ with effigy of Attis attached to it 303₂ with effigy of Osiris buried in it 303₂ with flutes and Phrygian cap 306₅ with timbrel and pipe 306₅
- Pine-trees on Mt Aitne 909₀ on Mt Arbios 946₀ on Mt Atabyrion in Rhodes 923₀ on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ in Kolchis 411 sacred, near Amaseia 975₀ sacred, near Thebes in Boiotia 412
- Pine-wreath as prize at Isthmian games 490₀₍₅₎ 951₀ worn by Zeus 951₀
- Pinks 775₀
- Pinza, G. 147₂
- Pipe 300 306₅
- Piper, F. 868₁ 1049 f.
- Pithos*, burial in 1148
- Pithoi* in Psychro Cave 926₀
- Pitrè, G. 1000 1008₁ 1012₁
- Place-names in -edos, -eda 662 in -nd- 586 in -yma, -ymos 318 of 'Twin'-localities 318₅
- Plague, ritual to avert 287₂ 954₀
- Plane-tree at Athens 1118 at Delphoi 200₀₍₃₎ 201₁ at Magnesia ad Maeandrum 891₀ figure of Dionysos found in 891₀ in folk-tale from Janina 679
- Plane-trees, sacred, at Labranda 590 976₀
- Planets, ladder of the seven (Sabian) 129 seven (Babylonian) 128₅
- Platner, S. B. 46₀
- Platt, A. 264₂
- Plew, E. 660₁
- Ploss, H. 960₀
- Plough on altars of Zeus Βροντῶν 836 on altar of Zeus Δίος 231 on tombstones from Altıntash 836
- Plough-share 987₁
- Plumptre, E. H. 1173₂
- Plum-tree as lucky-tree 403₀
- Plum-trees on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅
- Plurality See Multiple
- Poerner, J. 928₀
- Poirée, E. 612₁
- Poland, F. 881₀₍₂₁₎ 925₀
- Polenaar, B. J. 1173₁
- Polites, N. G. 4 56₂ 192₃ 480₇ 641₂ 642₀ 828₁₁ 829₁ 988 990₈ 993₂
- Polívka, G. 666₃ 988.995₂
- Pomegranate held by priest of Attis 300 held by Zeus Κάριος at Pelousion 986₀ impregnates d. of Sangarios 969₄
- Pomegranates, d. of Sangarios fed on 969₄ in garland of Attis 298
- Pomegranate-trec, eagle on 710 springs from severed member of Argdistis 969₄ the Malum Punicum at Rome 400₁₁
- Pomegranate-trees near Arvi in Crete 946₀
- Pomegranate-twigs held by priest of Attis 300 (?)
- Pomjalóvskij, I. V. 884₀₍₀₎
- Pompilos* 448₀
- Pomtow, H. 173 f. 231₇ 233₃ 243₃
- Pontremoli, E. 1179₇
- Ρόπανα* 487₃₍₁₎
- Poplar-tree, fruit-bearing, in mouth of Idaeian Cave 230₅ 932₁
- Poplar-trees beside Eridanos in land of Keltioi 468 on Mt Arbios 946₀ sisters of Phaethon transformed into 495 See also Black-poplar, White-poplar
- Poplar-wreath 469 ff. of athletes 470 of Helios 469 of Herakles 388₃ 469 of Hermes (?) 388₈ of Salií 470 of Teukros 472 of Trojan crews 472
- Poppo, E. F. 1140₂
- Poppy held by emperor 571 (?)

- Poppies of Aphrodite 1165₁ of Bonus Eventus 1126₀ of Demeter 1165₁ of Isis 1165₁ of Rhea 515₅ 1165₁
- Poppy-head in marriage rites 1164 cp. 1166₃(?) of Dioskouroi 313₆
- Poppy-heads in garland of Attis 298 in rites at Eleusis 1165₁ of Agathos Daimon 98₀ cp. 1126₀ of Rhea 515
- Poppy-stalks(?) held by female figure on 'Minoan' mould 624
- Poppysmós* 827₄₋₆
- Poralla, P. 353₃ 436₅
- Portraiture in Roman art of various periods 1206
- Posnansky, H. 933₀
- Postgate, J. P. 40₅ 862₅
- Postolakkas, A. 1058
- Pott, A. F. 344 1086
- Potter, J. 702₃
- Pottier, E. 123₀ 713 1223
- Poulsen, F. 770₂ 1056 1058 1111₁
- Powell, B. 916₀
- Powell, F. York 533₂
- Pradel, F. 666₂
- Prætorius, J. 702₄
- Praschniker, C. 499₉
- Prayer whispered 1044
- Prayers personified (Litai) 1099₂ 1100₀ 1101₁
- 'Prayer-pellets' 944₀
- Preller, L. 94₂ 164₆ 355 383₇ 660₁ 721₆ 868₆ 1125₁
- Prellwitz, W. 268₂ 494 570₀ 600₄ 779₉ 1077 1087 1098₆ 1110 1159₁
- Premenstein, A. von 1025 1217 1228
- Preuss, K. T. 504₃
- Price, I. M. 510₄
- Priest assimilated to deity 630 honoured as a god 950₀ keeps in his house the statue of his god 741₄ 742₅ 743
- Priests dedicate temple-columns in Asia Minor 580 named after their god 1073 wear stróphion or stroppus 1171₁
- Priests and priestesses as axe-carriers 620 ff. with animal names 228₄ 693₃
- Priesthood, annual tenure of 741₄ 743 916₀ 921₀ 1132₆ 1133₀ life-tenure of 959₀ 967₀ 973₁ 976₀ 1225 of Athena 'Aléa held by boy 1147
- Priestly king at Tralleis dwells in brick palace 958₀ buried in precinct of deity 413 944₀ 945₀
- Prince, Cretan, plays the part of Dionysos or Zagreus, the reborn Zeus(?) 522 Cretan, regarded as consort of Rhea(?) 522 524 Cretan, Zeus in the form of, slain by wild boar 522
- Prinz, H. 625₃ 630₃
- Projection of Kouretes(?) 932₀ of rite of supplication(?) 1096₂
- Prokesh-Osten, A. 590₁
- Promiscuity, primitive 981₁
- Prophylactics See Apotrópaia
- Prost, A. 71₅
- Prostitution, religious 959₀ f.
- Prostropé* 1099₁
- Prott, H. von 18₆ 890₂
- Proverbs : βοὸς ἐπὶ γλώσση μέγας | βέβηκεν 345 1218 ἐπὶ ξυροῦ ἴσταται ἀκμῆς 862 ἔφηνον κακόν, εἶρον ἄμεινον 1166₁ Κρήτες ἀεὶ ψεύσται 940₀ ff. Κρήτες ἀεὶ ψεύσται, κακὰ θηρία, γαστέρες ἀργαί 942₀ μωρότερος Μοῦρχου 1093₀ πλόκιον Γοργάδος 1148₃ Τενέδιος ἀνθρώπος, Τενέδιος ξυνήγορος, Τενέδιος πέλεκυς 668 f. τρεῖς θεοὶ 1093₁ 1094₀
- Pryce, T. Davies 473₁ 1205
- Prytanéion* 904₁ 1148₉
- Psychostasia* 99₁ 734₃ by St Michael 138₀ in Babylonia 734₃ in Egypt 99₁ 734₃ in Greece 734₃ in Italy 99₁ 734₃ of Achilles and Hektor 734₀ 734₃ of Achilles and Memnon 733 ff. 734₃ of Eros 734₃ of phalloi 734₃
- Puberty-rites 859 f.
- Puchstein, O. 359₁ 910₁ 914₀ 915₀ 915₂ 917₀ 1180₄
- Pughe, W. Owen 52₄
- Pullan, R. F. 392₅
- Punishment of mother in 'Expulsion' tales 1014 ff. 1019
- Puppets representing Death 868 representing Jupiter and other deities 1171 f.
- Puppies in rites of Diana Nemorensis 149
- Purification as first stage of initiation 1168 by figs 1103₄ by skin of animal sacrificed to Zeus Μελιχίος 1092 by thunder-stone 835 enjoined by Zeus at Philadelpheia in Lydia 1229 in rites of Zeus Φίλιος 1186 1197
- Purity, ceremonial 922₀ 934₀
- Purse always full 1008 of Mercurius 70₁ 94₃ on chalice of Antioch 1199₅(?)
- Purses on agonistic table 491₀(0)
- Pursuit, ritual, at Tegea 164₆
- Putto* as survival of Eros 1060
- Pyramid as form of deity 1144 as form of tomb 1145 as representation of mountain (?) 983₀ of Sandas 983₀ of Zeus at Sikyon 1144 ff. of Zeus Πάσιος 1095₀ of Zeus Πατρώος 1095₀ of Zeus Στορπάος 815 1095₀ on pillar as form of deity 814 f. 1094₀ 1095₀ 1147
- Pyramides*, pointed cakes 1162
- Pyramids on tomb of Porsenna 1219 smooth-sided 1145₁(b) smooth-sided, on plinths 1146₀(d) stepped 1145₁(a) stepped, on plinths 1145₁(c)
- Pyre as type of sepulchral monument(?) 1145₁ of Herakles 23 903₃ of Kapaneus 23 of oaken images (δαίδαλα) 898₆ 977₀ of Zeus Στράτιος 974₁ 976₀ f. priestess at Dodona burnt on 217
- Quadriennial festival of Zeus Βασιλεύς and Hera Βασίλις 900₀ See also Pentaeteris
- Quandt, W. 238₀ 280₁ 565₂ 957₂
- Quaranta, Com. 853₅
- Quatremère de Quincy, A. C. 1219

- Queen of Athens receives diphros 1135 f.
of Crete enclosed in wooden cow (?)
924₀ of Egypt has horn of Ammon 773₀
Quests of children in 'Expulsion' tales
1016 ff.
- Quilling, F. 98₁₋₃ 99₁ 99₂ 99₄ 1213 f.
Quince on sceptre 763₁
- Rabbit 1199 1205₄
Radeliffe, W. 676₃
Radermacher, L. 118₂ 119₁ 290₀
Radet, G. 280 559₀ 561₄ 561₅ 562₁ 562₂
570₂ 881₀₍₂₁₎
Radin, M. 121₁
Rafts 984₄
Rain as sweat of Kronos 558₀ as water through a sieve 2 at begetting of Dio-nyisos 275 blood-red 4 of ambrosia 275 portended by spiders' webs 467 sent by Attis 292 sent by Dionysos 275 sent by Zeus 274 (?) 275 f. 894₁
- Rain-charm at Krannon 831 ff.
Raisins 671₀
Ram as akrotérion (?) 16₁ as centre of procreative power 306 685 black 471₁₀ golden 899₁ 904₁ on coin of Pagai 488₀₍₃₎ sacrificed to Ianus 377 sacrificed to Pelops 471₁₀ sacrificed to Zeus 1175 signifies Idas 439 solar (?) 16₁
- Ram's head beneath foot of Asklepios (? Zeus 'Ασκληπιός) 1080 on bronze plaque from Rome 664₁ on licter's axe 1221 on throne-arms of Zeus 1082 on waist of Phanes 1051
- Ram's skin in folk-tale from Albania 999 f.
in folk-tale from Peara 997
- Rams of Ba'al-hammán 1208₂
Rams' heads on altar of Erikepaios 1025 on Lydian pendant 639
- Ramsay, W. 1194₄
Ramsay, Sir W. M. 277 278₃ 280 287₀
287₁ 288 288₃ 288₅ 307₁ 320₀ 408₀ 455₁
566₃ 567 567₂ 568₇ 569 569₁ 817₂ 835
836₂₋₄ 836₁₁ 838₈ 883₀₍₀₎ 959₀ 961₀
- Rand, E. K. 1059
Randall-MacIver, D. 1221
Rangabé, R. 1119₄
Rapp, A. 94₂ 268₃ 548₃ 1033 1102₈
Rapp, E. 607 f.
Rapson, E. J. 608₄ 791₂
Rasche, J. C. 444₁ 572₂ 635 1172₀ 1195₁
Raspberry-bushes 949₅
Rathbun, Miss M. J. 663₃
Ratti, N. 419 f.
Ravaisson, F. F. 435
- Raven as bringer of rain 832 as prophet of fine weather 519₀ as prophet of storm 518₄ as prophet of weather 833₀ as telephany of sky-god (?) 519₀ of Apollon 160₀ 248 (?) 571 of Asklepios
1084 (?) on hand of Apollon 248₀ (?)
571 originally white 463₁ perched on double axe 518 (?) 520 (?) perched on wheel of car 832 turned black by Apollon 833₀
- Ravens at Delphoi 180 at Krannon 832
- garrulous 524 of Zeus 'Αρκαίος 872₀₍₅₎ (?)
on Mt Lepetymnos 832 on oak-trees 872₀₍₅₎ (?) on omphalós 186₁ (?) on wheels of car 832
- Rawlinson, Sir H. C. 482₆
Ray-fish 676
Razor 630₃ 859 f. 861 f.
Rebirth by means of taurobolium and criobolium 306 of Dionysos 234 of infants in Italy 1059 of Zeus 230 381
823₁ 839
- Red bands binding bull on table-altar 517 in funeral rites 522 522₂ ladder 1215 leather strap round fasces 635 River 480₀ scarves 522
- Reduplication in language and art 654
Reed with urn betokens water 285₁ 1050 1083
- Reeds in Asopos 468 in folk-tale from Zakynthos 505 on basket of Archigallus
299 on wing of Ahriman 1054
- Regalia of folk-tale heroes 1016 of Persia 281₄ of Troy 281₄
- Rehm, A. 1220 1228
Reichel, W. 587 646₄
Reichhold, K. 436₁ 731₁ 737₄ 852₁₁
- Reimar, H. S. 34₁
Reinach, A. J. 110₀ 111₀ 516₆ 517₃ 518₃
520₅ 521₄ 523₂ 524₆ 560₄ 617₆ 620₆ 622₂
622₃ 947₀
- Reinach, S. 70₀ 90₁ 93₃ 94₃ 98₁₋₃ 99₄ 100
105₇ 106₁ 107₀ 109₁ 118₁ 136₂ 152₀ 160₀
165₀ 230₁ 261₁ 265₄ 291₂ 307₁ 349₂₀
355₅ 361₅ 445 f. 547₀ 550₂ 620₁ 636 639₁
680₁ 685 690₁ 726₀ 734₀ 739₃ 799₁₀
819₀₍₅₎ 833₀ 865₂ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎ 966₀
1089 1103 1110 1115₁ 1151₈ 1164₂
1173₄ 1181₀ 1214 1225 1229
- Reinach, T. 106₂ 107₃ 707₂₋₅ 882₀₍₀₎ 975₀
- Reindeer hardly to be identified with Cerynean hind 465 f. in Herynyian
Forest 466
- Reisch, E. 160₃ 161₂ 211₂ 1078
- Relics 190 ff. (δμφαλός of Zeus, etc.) 221 (bones and teeth of Python) 1015₇ (egg of Leda) 1203 (inner bowl of Antio-chene chalice)
- Religion, personal as well as civic 1176₃
- Renan, E. 675₄ 868₃
Rendall, G. H. 1202₀
Rending of Dionysos or Zagreus 218 f.
234 239 1030 ff.
- Renz, C. 1200₃
Resurrection, Attis as emblem of 309 eagle as emblem of 1209₆ Hadrian erects image of Zeus (Iupiter) on site of 984₁ of Christ 941₀ of dead ensured by magic rites of revival 522 of Dio-nyisos or Zagreus 234 1032 of Zeus as Zagreus 934₀ 938₀
- Resurrection-rite (?) 1191₂
Reusch 32₅
Reuvsens, C. J. C. 141₂
Rey, E. G. 431₁

- Rhodus, J. 123₀
 Rhomaios, K. A. 815₂ 1222
Rhombos 1030
 Rhŷs, Sir J. 326 450₀
Rhytŷn See Vases
 Richards, G. C. 628₆
 Richardson, Miss H. 1216
 Richardson, R. B. 916₀
 Richmond, O. L. 147₂
 Richter, E. 905₀
 Richter, Miss G. M. A. 748₀ 754 f. 754₃
 754₄ 1202₅
 Richter, O. 147₂ 356₁ 363₆ 365₁ 373₄ 472₇
 1083
 Ridder, A. de 734₀ 745₂ 900₀
 Riddle by Simonides of Keos 659₁
 Rider-god 312₅ cp. 270₅ 561 ff. 664₁
 Ridgeway, Sir W. 164₅ 166₁ 193₁ 340₃ 341
 450₁ 465 466 498₁ 637₄ 655₁ 656₀ 1179₆
 Riegl, A. 529₁ 788₁
 Riegler, R. 692₀
 Riese, A. 57₃ 71₆ 82 89₆ 394₂
 Riess, E. 667₄ 702₃ 827₇
 Riffer, V. 291₂
 Righetti, P. 382₁
 Ring changing colour at misfortune 1008 given by Zeus to Prometheus 990 magical, in folk-tales of Kyklops 989 f.
 1001 f. of Attis 297 of Wodan 62₁ 990
Rites de passage 359₆
 River-god as boar 320₀ (Kapros) as wolf 320₀ (Lykos) recumbent 285₁ (Maiandros) 319₇ 320₀ (Kapros, Lykos) 408₀ (Maiandros, Marsyas) 1083 (Tiber) seated (?) 408₀ (Orgas, Therna(s?-ios?)) standing 260₀ (Morsynos)
 Rivers invoked 728₀
 Road of Apollon 499 f. of the Birds 38 462 497 of Zeus 36 f. 52 464 840 843 See also Amber routes and Index I Milky Way
 Robbins, F. E. 206₁
 Robert, C. 45₁ 94₂ 164₆ 261₁ 262₀ 384₀ 476₁₂
 591₁ 626₃ 627₀ 706₅ 721₆ 789 868₆ 923₀
 1045 1125₁ 1143₁ 1151₇ 1222
 Roberts, E. S. 240₃ 1096₇
 Robert-Tornow, W. 1142₄
 Robinson, E. 473₁ 473₃₋₅ 473₇ 475₅
 Robinson, E. S. G. 470₀
 Robinson, J. Armitage 133₃ 133₄
 Robiou, F. 1170₅
 Rocco, S. 641₂
 Rochette, R. 207₀ 265₄ 287₀ 1042 1145₁
 Rock, women slide down, to obtain children 1114
 Rock-cut habitations on Mt Argaios 978₀
 Rod of Hades 166₄
 Rods of Roman licitor charged with virtue of sacred axe 635 847 used for divination 635
 Rodenwaldt, G. 145₁ 147₇ 836₁₀ 836₁₁
 Roeder, G. 626₀
 Roehl, H. 1096₁ 1096₂
 Rohde, E. 23₄ 43₄ 117₆ 118₃ 222₃ 223₄ 232₂
 238₃ 271₂ 348₂ 1020 1125₁
 Rohden, P. von 442₁
 Rolland, E. 37 52₄ 479₉ 480₄₋₆
 Rolls on chalice of Antioch 1199 f.
 Ronzevalle, S. 814₃ 887₀₍₀₎
 Roof of Iupiter Capitolinus with hole above Terminus 724₀
 Rope, golden 1211
 Rosa, P. 356
 Rosary, beads of, sticking if owner is dead
 1011
 Roscher, W. H. 37₂ 70₀ 167 172₀ 173₁ 173₅
 180 191₁₀ 236₅ 238₀ 238₂ 242₃ 322₃ 327
 349₁₈ 353₆ 365₁ 371 373₄ 377₂ 383 394₃
 502₁ 691₉ 691₁₀ 721₆ 1039 1142₄ 1216
 Roscoe, J. 450₁
 Rose held by Aphrodite 1043 on coins of Rhodes 469, 924₆ surmounted by radiate solar disk 924₀
 Rose, H. J. 1229
 Rosenberg 440₄
 Rosette on Mt Argaios 980₀
 Rosettes on chalice of Antioch 1200 1204 on fresco from Knossos 529 on kán- tharos from Tiflis 1204 on sheath of Artemis 'Εφεστία 407₀ on terra sigillata
 1205₄
 Ross, L. 877₀₍₀₎ 923₀ 996₁
 Ross, M. 242₆
 Rossbach, O. 46₁ 392₈ 392₉ 393₆ 514₂ 863₁
 978₀
 Rossi, G. B. de 426₂ 427₂ 546₀
 Rossignol, C. 285₀
 Rostovtzeff, M. See Rostowzew, M.
 Rostowzew, M. 143₁ 146₀ 146₁₋₄ 146₇ 152₀
 157₀ 158₂ 160₀ 187₄ 925₀
 Rott, H. 594
 Rougé, J. de 625₇
 Rouse, W. H. D. 111₀ 513₁ 530₂ 600₃ 646₂
 999₁ 1140₅
 Roussel, P. 920₀ 921₀ 922₀ 985₀ 1217
 Royds, T. F. 519₀
Rta 1095₀
 Rubensohn, O. 922₀ 1227
 Ruelle, C. E. 612₁
 Ruge, W. 617₃ 971₂ 972₁
 Ruggiero, E. de 86₃ 725₀
 Sabbath 456
 Sacken, E. von 618₃ 647₃ 751₁ 751₅
 Sacrifice, human (See Human sacrifice) of bull to Zeus Στρατίος 975₀ of chariot with white horses to Poseidon 975₀ of deer 926₀ of dogs 926₀ of first-born to Moloch 1108₂ of fox and hedgehog
 964₃ of goat to Zeus 'Ασκραίος at Halikarnassos 872₀₍₁₅₎ of ox to plateate flies
 782 of oxen 926₀ of pig to Zeus Βουλεύς 1105 of pig to Zeus Εὐβουλεύς 1105 of pig to Zeus Μελίχιος 1105 ff. of sheep 926₀ of singled victim to (Zeus) Μηλι-χιος 1156 of swine 926₀ of white ox to Zeus Κτήσιος 1065 1067 of white victims to Zeus 'Ακραίος 871₃₍₁₁₎ of wild goats 926₀ to Zeus Στρατίος on mountaintops 974₁ ff.

- Sadowski, J. N. von 493₂
 Saglio, E. 154₀ 160₃ 1125₁ 1203₄
 Sailing, inventor of 715₄ 1037
 Saintyves, P. 963₀
 Sakellarios, A. 995₂
 Salač, A. 907₀ 983₀ 985₀ 986₀ 987₀
 Salinas, A. 812₁
 Sallet, A. von 493₀₍₇₎
 Salmasius, C. 701
 Salzmann, A. 615₁ 615₂
 Samter, E. 642₃ 643₈ 1090
 Sanctis, G. de 600₃
 Sandal with thunderbolt 1227
 Sandals, winged 718
 Sandys, Sir J. E. 328₃ 471₇ 547₀ 782₈ 1092₈
 1099₁ 1170₇ 1188₁₀
 Sarasin, P. 779
Sarcophagi, Christian 1050 Cretan 516 ff.
 524 f. Cypriote 717 f. Greek 417 521₅
 Roman 417 478 1205₇, from Golgoi
 717 f. from Hagia Triada 516 ff. from Klazomenai 521₅ from Ostia 478 f.
 Sarnow, E. 627₄
 Sartorius von Waltershausen, W. 908₁
 Sauer, B. 615₂ 865₂
 Sauley, F. de 887₀₍₃₁₎
 Sauppe, H. 857₁ 857₅
 Saussure, F. de 616₁
 Savelsberg, J. 273₂
 Savignoni, L. 509₁ 799₁ 799₂ 799₄
 Savin-tree 981₁
 Sayce, A. H. 278₂ 779₂ 1150₇ 1228
 Scale-pattern 71
 Scales held by Aequitas 99₁ by Aphrodite
 734₃ by Bios 865 f. by Eris 734₃ by Eros 734₃ by Fata 862₁₀ by Hermes
 733 734₀ 734₃ by Iupiter 734₃ by Iustitia
 99₁ by Kairos 860 ff. by Moneta 99₁ by Nemesis 860 f. by Venus Verticordia
 98 f. 99₁ 100 by Virgo 734₃ by Zeus
 734₃
 Scaliger, J. J. 855₁ 858₃
 Scallop-shell, symbol of Mother-goddess
 302 symbol of Poseidon 795
 Scape-goat, human 904₁
 Sceptre as conventionalised branch with golden apples 763₁ carried by eagle towards emperor 1134₀ carried by eagle with wreath 1133₁ eagle-tipped, transmits divinity of king to successor 1132 ff. filleted 144 gold, from Tarentum 763₁ knobbed, set upright on throne 545₀ lotiform 786 ff. oath by 723₀ of Agamemnon 1132 1132₄ 1132₆ of Ahriman 1053 of Asklepios 1079 of Atreus 1132₄ 1132₆ of Diana Nemor-ensis 148 of Dionysos 1026 of Egyptian gods 1131₂ of Erikepaios 1026 of Hera
 1178 of Hermes 1132₄ 1132₆ of Iupiter
 812 of Kronos 1026 of Nyx 1026 of Ou-ranos 1026 of Pelops 956₂ 1132₄ 1132₆ of Phanes 1026 1051 of Thracian goddess 820 (?) of Thyestes 1132₄ 1132₆ of woodpecker 697₀ of Zeus 547₂ 956₂ 1026 1030 1058 1122 1131 1132 1188
- Sceptre (cont.)
 originally belonged to king as weather-maker 1132 ff. shouldered by eagle 1133₁ surmounted by corn-ears 99 surmounted by cuckoo 893₂ 1133₁ surmounted by dove 490₀ 1133₁ 1134₄ (?) 1134₅ surmounted by eagle 318 1132 ff. 1133₁ 1134₄ 1159 with eagle and dolphin as emblems of earth, air, and sea (?)
 1133₁ with snake coiled about it 1080 worshipped at Chaironeia 547₂ 1132
 Schaal, H. 1225
 Schaefer, J. O. 290₀ 578₃ 578₄ 579₀ 580₁₀
 581₀ 581₁ 586 592₂ 599₃ 958₀ 959₀ 960₀
 Schanz, M. 335₆ 336₃ 336₄ 1122₄ 1170₇
 1211 Scheffel, H. 1227
 Scheffer, J. 46₀
 Scheffelowitz, I. 538₅
 Scheil, F. V. 128₂
 Schenck, L. 1089
 Scherer, W. 844₆
 Schlemm, Fräulein J. 635₁₂ 792₂ 833₁
 Schliemann, H. 515₁ 538₅ 538₈ 645₁ 645₂
 1150
 Schmid, W. 33₅ 127₂ 127₄ 1157₇
 Schmidt, A. 241 242₃ 242₄
 Schmidt, B. 4 504₃ 506 506₀ 642₀ 666₃ 705₅
 990₆ 993₃ 994₁ 994₂ 1112₇ 1164₂
 Schmidt, H. 222₂
 Schmidt, J. 613₂ 691₅ 803
 Schmidt, M. 118₃ 271₀ 413₁ 665₀ 1142₂
 1149₂₍₁₎
 Schmidt, M. C. P. 775₀
 Schmitt-Blank 32₇
 Schneider, O. 1122₃
 Schneider, R. von 866₀
 Schneider, S. 268₄
 Schneidewin, F. W. 130₄ 296₄ 723₀
 Schnittger, B. 636₂ 637
 Schober, A. 499₀
 Schöffler, V. von 817₀
 Schöll, A. 1151₈ 1151₁₀
 Schöll, R. 757₈ 1157₅
 Schoemann, G. F. 242₁ 316 1093₁
 Schrader, O. 50₁ 123₀ 396₀ 464₁₀ 466₃ 466₄
 494 494₀ 635₇ 637₄ 727₃ 932₁ 1159 1164₂
 1226
 Schrammen, J. 1180
 Schreiber, T. 145₁ 150₃ 152₀ 157₀ 410₁
 578₂ Schremmer, B. 602₁ 608 ff.
 Schroeder, B. 954₀
 Schroeder, O. 444₆ 459₃ 494
 Schubart, H. C. 1132₆
 Schubert, R. 559₆
 Schubring, J. 873₀₍₁₁₎ 910₁
 Schuchhardt, C. 49₁ 515₁ 515₄
 Schürer, E. 876₁ 884₀₍₀₎ 888₀₍₃₂₎
 Schulten, A. 554₃
 Schultz, A. 131₅
 Schultz, H. 612₀
 Schultz, W. 659₁
 Schulze, W. 481₅ 724₀
 Schuster, P. R. 1020

- Schwabe, E. 1099₁
 Schwabe, J. F. H. 854₀
 Schwartz, E. 28₈ 33₂ 238₁ 1054 1123₁
 Schwartz, F. L. W. 447 451 501 f. 502₁
 505₂ 722₁
 Schweitzer 629 f.
 Schwenck, K. 168₁ 346₀
 Schwendemann, K. 1216
 Schwenn 928₀
 Scimitar worshipped by Scythians as form of Ares 547₃ 680
 Scott, J. A. 697₇
 Scourge See Whip
 Scythe of Death 868 of Time 867 f.
 Sea as androgynous primeval power 558₀ as girdle of Zeus 1028 as name of Milky Way 482₂ as tear of Kronos 557₁
 Crimson 1012₁
 'Sea' of Poseidon on Akropolis at Athens 793 cp. 581
 Seager, R. B. 526 f. 538₂ 654₅
 Sea-monster 798
 Seasons, three 59 four 59 on Jupiter-columns 58 ff. 87 89 94 (?) See also Index I Horae, Horai Seat, golden, in folk-tale from Brittany 1011 1016
 Sébillot, P. 88₃ 396₀ 703 f. 793 988
 Secchi, G. 947₀
Secespita 630 f.
 Séchan, L. 627₄
 Seeck, O. 611₇
 Seed as food for dead 1058 of Osiris 482₀ of Ouranos 1029 of Zeus 969₄ 1029
Seleucides aves 981₁
 Seligmann, S. 125₂ 291₂ 302₂ 396₀ 504₃
 504₆ 667₄ 702₁
 Sélingsohn, M. 888₀₍₁₀₎
Sélinon-wreath as prize at Nemean games 490₀₍₅₎
 Seltman, C. T. 366₃ 657₂ 657₃ 709₂ 741
 757 761 f. 780 f. 830₁ 871₃₍₄₎ 1136₄
 1216 1223 1224
 Seltman, E. J. 275₈ 432₃ 667₃ 1225
 Semicircles sacred to Dioskouroi 434
 Semitelos 1115₂
 Serradifalco, D. lo Faso Pietrasanta Duca di 910₁ 914₀ 915₀ 917₀
 Service-tree as lucky tree 403₀
 Sesame 1140₄ 1164
 Sestini, D. 446 572₂
 Seta, A. della 129₃ 1222
 Settegast, F. 988
 Seure, G. 817 f. 818₂ 819₂ 821 821₂ 822
 851 1229
 Seven as a number connected with Apollon 236₅ as a number connected with Zeus 238₀ days, sacrifices lasting 287₂ Muses 237₀ stars surrounding Zeus Κρηταγενής 238₀
 Seven-months' child, Apollon a 237₀
 Dionysos a 237₀
 Seventh day of the month, sacrifices to Apollon on 237₀
- Shape-shifting of Dionysos 1030 of Periklymenos 1134₆ of prince in folk-tale from Zakynthos 666₃ of Zagreus 861₅
 1030
 Sharpley, H. 15₁
 Shaving 30 See also Razor
 Sheaf, animal bound in 498₂ ceremonial, on coins 296₀ (?) egg and bread bound in 498₂ man bound in 498₂ cp. 1220
 Sheep cooked in its skin 1001 sacrificed to Apollon 463₁ sacrificed to Zeus Μετλιχίος 1138₂ 1140 slung over cow's back 152₀
 Sheep's head on altar-top 154₀
 Sheep's milk, taboo on 987₀
 Sheep-skin 374 (?) 989 1000 1002
 Shell-trumpet invented by Aigokeros 933₀
 938₀
 Shield borne by Zeus 712 descending from sky 516 fringed with snakes 712
 Shields, Amazonian 308₁ 309₀ Argive 1146₀ bronze, from Idaean Cave 938₀ miniature, from Palaikastro 930₀
 Shield-boss 930₀
 Shield-signs 947₀
 Ship, cosmic 44₂ in bronze, from Idaean Cave 938₀ of marble dedicated to Zeus Κάσιος 906₃ of stone dedicated to Artemis Βολοσία 906₃
 Ship's name 876₀ 987₀
 Shirts turning black at failure of owners 1005
 Shoulder, ivory, of Pelops 224
 Shrines at Gournia 538 at Knossos 535 ff. of buried bull 539 f. See also Temple Sickle made by Gaia of grey adamant 447₈ of cursing (τὸ ἀράς δρέπανον) 882₀₍₂₃₎ of Demeter 448₀ of Kronos 447₈ 448₀ 555₀ of Perseus 721₇ of Saturnus 550 of Zeus 448₀ See also Hárpe
 Sickle-sword See Hárpe
 Sidgwick, A. 345₅
 Sieve used for divination 702₂ 702₄
 Sieveking, J. 361₅
 Sikes, E. E. 19₀ 353₁ 499₂ 503₂ 716₅
 1113₀₍₂₎
 Silence of Eleusinian mystics 295₂ of Pythagoreans 7₁ 1211
 Silver alabastron 272₅ appropriate to Zeus 503₀ armlets 998 axe-haft 989 book-covers 1197 bowl from Idalion 553 bowl of Augustan age 1205₅ bowls dedicated to Zeus Κάσιος 982₀ bratteae from Stony Stratford 285₀ bratteae from Vichy 285₀ bull of Tešub 910₁ chalices 1197 crosses 926₀ 1197 cup dedicated by Minos 923₀ egg containing twin Moliones 1015 hand of Nuada 224₁ images of Glykon 1083 incense-burner 921₀ knife of Zeus 354 mastoi and mastia 346₀ open-work 1203 ff. pillar beyond Babylon 422₁₂ River (= Milky Way) 480₀ 'shrines of Diana' made at Ephesos 285₀ skýphos from

Silver (cont.)

- Bosco Reale 1209 star in folk-tale from Brittany 1010 f. 1014 statuette from Vichy 285₀ statuettes from Mâcon 746₂ 755
- Silver-gilt bowl from Kourion in Kypros 553 statuettes of Zeus 755 ff.
- Simpson, W. 1095₀ 1171₃
- Simrock, K. 396₀ 868₂ 1212
- Sinews of bears 450₀ of Hippolytos 416 of Jacob 451₁ of Zeus 449₀ 450₀
- Single combat 489₀₍₄₎
- Sinker, R. 291₂
- Siret, L. 509₅ 649₂
- Sittig, E. 716₇ 869₀ 873₂ 875₁₍₁₎ 901₀ 1158₅
- Sittl, C. (or K.) 102₀ 291₂ 504₆ 751₃ 752₅ 827₅ 933₀ 1099₁ 1133₁
- Six, J. 161₃
- Six, J. P. 674₁ 675
- Sixt, G. 75₂
- Skenomorphic conception of thunderbolt 784 f. 850
- Skhent* 98₀
- Skias, A. N. 1060 1115 ff. 1116₂ 1117₃ 1117₄ 1118₄ 1119₃ 1119₄ 1139₅
- Skin of sacred animal wrapped round human victim 924₀
- Skins of victims sacrificed to Zeus 'Ακραιός sold 871₃₍₁₎
- Skinner, J. 128₁ 451, 1037 1100₀ 1111₁
- Sky as arch 160 422 as caldron 204₂ as flat disk resting on pillar (?) 157 f. as gateway 160 178 as half of cosmic egg 1020 1023 as hat 386 1219 as head and face of Zeus 1028 as Janiform god 422 as wavy line (?) 49₁ composed of light and dark hemispheres 432 divine, develops into sky-god 840 images fallen from 963₀ imitated by thólos-tomb 1150 made of bronze (copper) 358 463 made of frozen air 358₆ made of glass 358₆ made of iron 126 needing visible support 54 ff. of a twin character (Night and Day, Sun and Moon, Morning- and Evening-Star) 435 producing Twins of different aspect 435 f. resting on pillar 45 ff. 47 ff. 50 ff. 57 ff. 166 ff. 840 resting on two pillars 426 431 resting on four pillars 126 141 f. 141₁ 354 358 827 842 resting on side-supports 160 178 178₇ 432 resting on tree 56 88 166 split into Twins 422 supports of, personified 422 ff. 843 symbolised by Hephaistos' cap 386₅ symbolised by high priest's mitre 386₅ talismans and relics fallen from 963₀ twins as children of 434 f. 843
- Sky-father in relation to earth-mother 677
- Sky-ladder in relation to Milky Way 476
- Sky-pillar in Egypt 126 141 in Germanic area 50 ff. 88 in Greece 166 ff. in Italy 45 ff. 166 ff. in 'Minoan' area 47 ff. in Sardinia 140 ff. 154 157 in relation to Milky Way 476 in relation to pyramids etc. 1146₀

- Sky-pillars, Dioskouroi as 160 431 f. 980₀
- Slaves, emancipation of 729₀
- Sleep, annual, of Dionysos (?) 660₀ on tripod confers oracular powers 209₂ with eyes open, in Albanian folk-tale 999 See also Incubation
- Slime as primal element 1022 1023
- Sling-bullets as thunderbolts 812 ff. 850
- Smith, A. H. 177₀ 469₂ 475₇ 593₁ 594 598₁ 860₅ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎ 903₀ 1135₅ 1136₀
- Smith, C. Roach 1172₀
- Smith, Sir C. H. 17 435₅ 633₂
- Smith, G. Elliot 504₄
- Smith, P. 1079
- Smith, R. M. 589
- Smith, S. 483 510₅ 1219
- Smith, V. A. 608₄
- Smith, W. Robertson 161₆ 426 426₄ 569₄ 1038
- Snail with phallos and butterfly 645₄
- Snails on chalice of Antioch 1199
- Snake as soul of buried hero 1060 1063 1087 1111 f. 1148 1151 ff. 1174 attacks the hart Eikthyrnir 305₀ attacks the solar wheel 305₀ bearded and crested 1060 1061 1128₀ beside Eridanos 479 chthonian 1107 1107₃ coiled on couch 1128₀ coiled round Ahriman 1053 coiled round bay-trunk 196 coiled round cornu copiae 1128₀ coiled round omphaloid stone 94₃ coiled round omphalos 882₀₍₀₎ coiled round Phanes 1051 coiled round sceptre 1080 coiled round staff 1071 f. 1082 drawn by mules 1082 euphemistic names of 1153₁ golden 1083 grave of, at Alexandria 1127₀ guards plant on Mt Argaios 977₁ 980₀ guides Antinoe 1083 hawk-headed (Kneph) 1127₀ horned 1030 human-headed (Glykon) 1084 in goose's egg 1083 in oak-tree 1087 1218 (?) in tomb 1057 in tree of life 138₀ kept in Erechtheion at Athens 1148 lion-headed (Khnemu) 1084 of Agathos Daimon 98₀ 1127₀ 1128₀ of Amphiaraios 1071 f. of Asklepios 1075 1077 1079 1082 ff. 1111 f. of Demeter 1111 of Dioskouroi 1063 of Erechtheus 1148 of Graeco-Libyan Zeus 1111 of Hesperides 1021 of Oidipous 1151 ff. of Thraco-Phrygian Zeus 1111 of Zeus at Dion in Macedonia 1111 of Zeus Ζηλοσούροδος 819 820 of Zeus Κρήσιος 1061 1112 of Zeus Μελιχίος 1107 ff. of Zeus Σαβάζιος 283₀ 284₀ 285₀ of Zeus Φάλιος 1174 on ship 1082 1083 oracle delivered by 1075 pattern derived from 1058 ridden by Aristodama 1082 slain by Menestratos 1151 swallows Iason 222₂ 1217 with heads of god, bull, lion 1022 Zeus transformed into 941₀
- Snakes as fringe of shield 712 beneath feet of Nanna 305₀ chased by lightning 820 828₁₂ coiled round kratér 1218 flanking egg 1062 forming arch, on

Snakes (cont.)

- bronze plaque from Rome 664₁ in bronze from Idaean Cave 938₀ in willow-tree 829 of Apate 854 of Artemis 457 of Athena 1111 of caducei 1068 of Dioskouroi 1062 of Gorgon 930₀ of Hermes 1111 of Iuno (?) 61₀ of 'Minoan' goddess 538 930₀ 1221 of Trophonios (Trephonios) 1074 f. oracle delivered by 1075 reared by Melampous 1087 three, as support of Plataean tripod 193 ff. three, on Attic relief 1175 four, on 'Dipylon' amphora 1056 two-headed (?), on gem from Mykenai 1221
- Snake-goddess in shrine at Gournia 538 in shrine at Knossos 930₀ on gem from Mykenai 1221
- Snake-heads of terra cotta in shrine at Gournia 538
- Snake-worship among Semites 1111₁
- Snow conceived as feathers 66₀ sent by Dionysos 275
- Sobernheim, M. 886₀₍₀₎
- Sogliano, A. 160₀
- 'Soldiers,' Mithraic, tattooed 123₀
- Solmsen, F. 18₁₋₄ 279₀ 339₀ 340₁ 384₀ 481₄ 570₀ 691 873₂ 918₁ 932₁ 1149
- Solstice, certain trees turn their leaves at 470₀ studied by Meton 1130₁ winter, observed at Itanos 1130₁
- Soltau, W. 440₄
- Son conceived as rebirth of his own father 294 611₂ See also Father
- Sondergötter* 13₁ 807₃₍₁₎ 828 f. 851 1072
- Sonne, W. 582
- Sonny, A. 522₂
- Sorb-trees on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅ See also Service-tree
- Sorlin-Dorigny, A. 763₁
- Soul as bird 1132 (See also Soul-bird) as butterfly 645₄ 1047 as Eros 1039 ff. as moth 645 645₄ as quasi-bird (Eros) 1045 as quasi-butterfly (Psyche) 1045 as small winged figure 1039 1045 1057 as snake 1087 1111 f. 1148 (?) 1174 as wind 1039 issues from the mouth 1039 resides in the head 290₀ 291₀
- Soul-bird 524 524₈ (?) 697₀
- Soul-ladder 124 ff. 133 1146₀
- Soul-path 36 ff. 114 117 ff. 124 166 840
- Sow beneath oak (?) -tree 324 in contest of Kalchas and Mopsos 489₀₍₄₎
- Spano, G. 359
- Sparrow-hawk 523 (?)
- Spear, oath by 13₁ 547₂ of Achilles 799 1184₃ of Hera 705₁ of Jupiter 711 f. of Kaineus 547₂ of Kastor 799 of Mars 547₂ of Parthenopaios 13₁ 547₂ of Zeus 15₀ 547₂ 704 ff. of Ziu 76 two-pronged 798 ff. worshipped (See Spear-worship)
- Spear-butt, forked 799
- Spear-head, double-pointed 799 on coin of Tarentum 763₁
- Spear-worship in early times 1132₆ in Greece 547₂ 1132₆ in Italy 547₂
- Speleum* 835₆ 838 f.
- Sphinxes as decoration on footstools in temple of Zeus Δικρατος 931₀ held down by lion, on shield from Palaikastro 930₀ in bronze, from Idaean Cave 938₀
- Spiders' webs on wild olive at Olympia 467 portend rain 467
- Spiers, R. Phené 150₂ 965₀
- Spinning 65 66₀ 1029
- Spiral relief of columna cochlis 107
- Spits 423₃ 1030
- 'Split' quadrupeds and birds 189₃
- Spoon, speaking, in folk-tale from Epeiros 672
- Spratt, T. A. B. 945₂ 971₂
- Sprengel, C. 896₀
- Spring, boiling, at Tyana 569₄ Dirke flung into, at Thebes in Boiotia 1013 intermittent, at Bathos 827₂ sacred, on Mt Ithome 890₆ sacred, at Lebena 1082 sacred, at Palmyra 885₀₍₂₉₎ Semele brought up from, at Lerna 1022
- Springs, subterranean, at Athens 1118 f. volcanic (Palikoi) 909₀ See also Fountain, Water, Well
- Spring, the, marriage of sky-god with earth-goddess in 521
- Squirrels 95
- Stade, B. 115₂
- Stählin, F. 438₂ 1220 1226 1227
- Staes, B. 183₁₋₄ 184₁ 511₁ 515₁ 1060
- Staff, golden 989 iron 995
- Stag as tattoo-mark 122₀ in fresco from Pompeii 149 of Artemis 411 453₃ of Zeus 575 cp. 575₁ 575₆ (?) 1220 on Mt Argaios 978₀ (?) on coins of Abdera 411 on coins of Euromos 575 575₁ 1220 on coins of Kaulonia 1040 1042
- Stag's head attached to Diana-pillar 146 cp. 154₀
- Stag's horn inscribed 1220
- Stags, foreparts of, on sheath of Artemis 'Eφesia 406₀ f. of Artemis 'Eφesia 406₀ ff. of St Mochua 214₀ on crown of Nemesis 146
- Stag-beetle 782₂
- Stag-horns attached to Diana-pillar 154₀ cp. 146 worn by rustic singers at Syracuse 1140
- Stalactite pillars of Psycho Cave full of votive bronzes 530 ff. 926₀ 927₀
- Stamatakes, P. 514
- Stambha* 150₂
- Standard, boar as 108 wheel as 108
- Star above Mt Argaios 980₀ as tattoo-mark 122₀ daughter born with 1008 f. 1010 f. 1014 in pediment 980₀ cp. 983₀ of the Nativity 1200₂ (?) of Venus Caelestis 68₂ on coin of Maximinus 1196₀ on coins of Seleukeia Pieria 982₀ 983₀ pours out lightning 34 silver 1010 f. 1014 with eight rays 630 with six rays 1200₂ (?)
- Stars above Mt Argaios 980₀ above deities at Malthayiah 770₀ above Dioscuric

Stars (cont.)

- amphorae* 1064 above Dioscuric caps 313₂ 313₄ 313₆ 574 f. 1062 above Dioskouroi 442 above imperial twins 443 above Romulus and Remus 443 f. 1014 above wolf 443 444₁ as golden tresses of Zeus 1028 as lamps hung by cords 158₁ at ends of diadem 1189 come down at night on Mt Olympos in Makedonia 905₀ congenital 1013₁ golden 1010 f. 1014 morning- and evening-, worshipped in Arabia 428 f. of children in 'Expulsion' tales 1014 of Zethos and Amphion 1014 on bronze plaque from Rome 664₁ shepherded by Attis 296 sons born with 1010 f. 1014
- 'Star,' stone called 270₅
- Stark, J. B. 80₁
- Stark, K. B. 380₄ 380₅ 445₂ 675₄
- Statue, evolution of 149 fallen from Zeus 963₀ first, set up by Assyrians 694₀ linked to ground by means of fillets 408₀ 409₀ 574 of Attalos iii, equestrian, in gold 955₀ of Dionysos discovered in a broken plane-tree 891₀ of Hera Kithaiovla a lopped tree-trunk or bough 899₀ of one god dedicated to another 958₀ of the Virgin discovered on a tree 891₀ of the Virgin miraculously transported 891₀ of Zeus 'Ithomaras discovered in a burnt wood 891₀ on column 45 ff. 57 ff. 93 ff. 100 ff. 428 f. 955₀ struck by lightning 9 f.
- Steering-paddle 1185
- Stein, H. 227, 311₉
- Stengel, P. 18₆ 977₀ 1058
- Step, E. 470₅
- Stéphane* 654₁₀
- Stephani, L. 147₁ 201₁ 232₀ 252₁ 261₁ 262₅ 262₈ 265₄ 302₂ 315₃ 380₅ 410₀ 460₂ 462₀ 464₆ 540 645₄ 658 660₁ 884₀₍₀₎ 951₀ 1045 1075 1204
- Stephanus, H. 664₃ 862₂ 1039
- Stephens, G. 305₀
- Sterrett, J. R. S. 857₆
- Stevens, E. T. 511₁ 512₁
- Stevens, G. P. 597₂
- Stevenson, S. W. 443₂ 1172₀
- Stillier, H. 1179₇
- Stokes, G. T. 885₀₍₂₈₎ 1186₂
- Stokes, J. L. 615₂
- Stoll, H. W. 115₂ 118₄ 164₆ 260₀ 352₂ 445₅ 445₆ 1018₃ 1044 1088 1114₀₍₄₎
- Stolz, F. 1096₁ 1173₁
- Stone, persons turned into 1004 1005 1007 1009 1011 1016 1018 sacred, as altar with hollow for libations 983₀ sacred, in distyle temple 981₀ sacred, in shrine 982₀ sacred, in tetrastyle temple 983₀ white 989
- Stones, precious 281₄ 603 thumb-shaped, found in Crete known as Idaci dactyli 932₁
- Storax as substitute for white-incense 492₀₍₀₎
- Storax-trees at Eleuthernai 492₀₍₀₎ compared with poplar-trees 492₀₍₀₎ surmounted by birds 493₀₍₀₎ worshipped at Selge 492₀₍₀₎
- Storax-wreath 492₀₍₀₎
- Storks, land of 998 men transformed into 998 transformed into men 998 998₁
- Storms portended by ravens, crows, and jackdaws 518₄ 519₀ worshipped at Bathos 827
- Strack, H. 195₁
- Stranger viewed as a god on his travels 1096
- Straub, A. 127₆ 136₃
- Streber, F. 706₅ 1042
- Stróbilos* 1030
- Strong, Mrs A. 93₃ 94₃ 96₃ 98₁₋₃ 99₄ 103₀ 106₀ 106₁ 355₅ 361₅ 1181₀ 1225
- Stróphion* as priestly head-band 1171₁
- Stroppus* 1170
- Strube, C. 261₁ 315₂
- Struppi* 1170 f.
- Struve, J. T. 1152₅
- Strzygowski, J. 107₃ 863₁ 1210₂
- Stuart-Glennie, J. S. 990₇
- Studniczka, F. 99₁ 113₀ 201₁ 515₂
- Subgrundarium* 1059
- Sudhaus, S. 1044
- Sulphur 23
- Sun as disk 724₀ (?) as disk hung by cords 158₁ as egg 1035 as eye of Wodan 62₁ (?) as eye of Zeus 117 1028 as golden child 1035 as golden ring 990 as radiate crown 81 as wheel 81 109₁ 624 (?) 724₀ (?) 725₀ (?) 990 associated with lotos in Egypt 772 associated with lotos in India 774 golden, on breast of prince 1012₁ in diurnal hemisphere is called Apollon, in nocturnal hemisphere is called Dionysos 257 in relation to Milky Way 40₃ made of same substance as lightning 774 seen before sunrise 949₅
- Sun-dial 920₀
- Sun-god identified with emperor 321 f.
- Sun-worship 618 (?) See also Index I Apollon, Helios, Sol
- Supka, G. 712₃
- Supplication, gesture of 1175
- Surrogates for animal sacrifice 1140
- Susemihl, F. 1020 1023
- Svoronos, J. N. 45₁ 56₂ 167₄ 182 183₁ 490₀₍₀₎ 491₀₍₀₎ 550₃ 656₀ 946₀ 1078 1082 1105₄ 1105₆ 1107₅ 1116₂ 1136₄ 1173₁ 1211 1223
- Swainson, C. 523₆ 1131₂
- Swallow, Philomela transformed into 693 thunderbolt with wings of 781
- Swallows sing of Apollon 460
- Swan, Eros clings to 1045 Kyknos, king of Liguria, transformed into 477 ff. of Mars (?) 51₁ on wing of Ahriman 1054 ridden by Apollon 460₂ Zeus transformed into 941₀

- Swans at Delphoi 180 bring Apollon to (from) land of Hyperboreans 459 ff. 477 chariot drawn by 459 f. 460₂ on the Eridanos 477 solar 648₂ 698
- Swans' heads on axe-pendants 648 f. on helmet of Zeus 713 on Lycian coins 698
- Swathing-bands of Zeus 929₀
- Sweat of Herakles 469₁ of Kronos 558₀ of solar rays 499 of Solomon's pillars 428
- Swindler, Miss M. H. 160₃ 458₁ 459
- Swine of Molpadia and Parthenos 670 f. See also Pig, Sow
- Sword left in tree 680 682 f. of Aigeus 627₆ of Apollon 570 f. of Ares 1225 of Attila 548₀ of Damokles 703 of Demeter 716₅ of Fin 683 of Ge Θέμις 268₀ of Kabeiros 953₃ of Kinyras 680 848 of light 722₁ of Mars 548₀ 682₀ of Orestes 680 848 of Perseus 721, of St Peter 1199₅ (?) of Poseidon 789 of Sandas 571 of Zeus 591 705 712 ff. 848 of Ziu 77
- Sword-worship of Alani 548₀ of Bituriges 548₀ (?) of Scythians 547₃ 548₀
- Sybel, L. von 1050 1168₄
- Sykophántes*, discussion as to origin of the term 291₂ 1103
- Symbol drawn from ritual usage lives long 868 evolved from fetish through attribute 617 814
- Symbolism applied to Litai 1100₀
- Syncretism as conceived by Celsus 889₀₍₀₎ of Attis with Adonis, Osiris, Dionysos, etc. 294 ff. of cave-gods 839 of Greek and oriental elements in Zeus Μελαχίος 1110₆ 1111₀ of Jewish and Greek cults 884₀₍₀₎ of Jewish and Persian beliefs 885₀₍₂₈₎ of Pontic, Greek, and Iranian elements in Zeus Στρατίος 976₀ f. of Zeus with Poseidon 796 ff. 850 of Zeus with Poseidon and Ares 1225 solar 252 ff.
- Synoikismós* 1123
- Sýrinx* See Pan-pipes
- Szanto, E. 1095₀
- Table, agonistic, at Ankyra 491₀₍₀₎ agonistic, at Delphoi 490₀₍₅₎ agonistic, at Philippopolis in Thrace 490₀₍₅₎ agonistic, at Tralleis 491₀₍₀₎ as altar (See Table-altar) invoked 728₀ of Zeus 1141₃ of Zeus Ξένιος 1169₅ of Zeus Σωτήρ 1169₄ of Zeus Φίλιος 1169 f. placed above sacred pillar 193₂ 1216 sacred, of Greek church 1119₃
- Tables of bronze 921₀ of marble 921₀
- Table-altar at Chaironeia 547₂ in relief from Megara 1117₀ on Roman tombstone 60₀ on sarcophagus from Hagia Triada 517
- Table-altars in Psychro Cave 926₀
- Taboo on celery 987₀ on flute-playing 670 on food fallen upon floor 1129 on garlic 987₀ on hedýsμος 987₀ on iron 1165₁ on mint 987₀ on onions 986₀ on
- Taboo (cont.) personal names 1114₀ on sheep's milk 987₀ on swine 671 on thunder 827 f. on twins and their mother 1014 on women 985₀ on woollen clothing 985₀
- Tabula Iliaca* 45₁ 1068 1212
- Talbot, H. Fox 480₃
- Talisman, snake (soul of ancestral king) as 1148
- Talismans and relics fallen from sky 963₀
- Tamarisk compared with herba Sabina (βράθου) 981₁ flourishes on the Maian-dros 467 f.
- Tannery, P. 1020
- Taramelli, A. 141₄ 142 142₂ 925₁ 934₀ 935₀ 943₀
- Tascher, R. de 251₂
- Tattooing as military mark 123₀ as ritual sign 123₀ in bronze age 122₀ in iron age 123₀ in neolithic times 122₀ 1215 (?) in palaeolithic times 122₀ of Thracians 121 123₀ 1214 f. of various other races (Agathyrsi, Aithiopes, Assyrioi, Britanni, Geloni, Getai, Harii, Iapodes, Illyrioi, Kylikranes, Mossynoikoi, Picti, Sarmatai, Scoti) 123₀
- Taurobolium* (tauropotium) 306₄ 306₅
- Tchihatcheff, P. de 977₁
- Tears of Apollon (amber) 484 of Heliades (amber) 484 499₄ of Hera (vervain) 395₂ of Kronos (sea) 557₁ of meleagrídes (amber) 497
- Teeth of sheep 806
- Temme, J. D. H. 93₁
- Temple called palace (ἀνάκτορον) 311 dipteral, of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος at Athens 1229 double, of Zeus and Athena at Pergamon 955₀ (?) elliptical, of Zeus Λαβράνιος at Amathous 598 f. heptastyle, of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος at Agrigentum 911₀ cp. 1227 hypaethral, of Erechtheus at Athens 789₇ 850 hypaethral, of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος at Agrigentum 1227 octostyle, of Zeus at Aizanoi 965₀ octostyle, (of Zeus?) at Tralleis 961₀ octostyle, of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος at Athens 1229 pseudo-dipteral, of Zeus at Aizanoi 965₀ pseudo-peripteral, of Zeus 'Ολύμπιος at Agrigentum 911₀ round, at Prousa ad Olympum 964₂ the oldest surviving, of Zeus (the Olympieion at Syracuse) 915₂
- Temple-estates at Aizanoi 968₀
- Ten as a typical plurality 1210
- Tent with cosmic roof 178₇
- Tepekozis* 992₂
- Téras* 31
- Terebinth-trees on Mt Ide in Phrygia 949₅
- Testicles of bull in taurobolium 306₄ of Dionysos 1021 of goat 133₀ of Kibuka 450₁ of Zeus 133₀ personified as Vires 306₄
- Tet-pillar* 141₂
- Tetraktys* 178₁

- Tettau, W. J. A. von 93₁
 Texier, C. 966₀
 Thalheim, T. 579₀₍₁₆₎
 Theogonies of Akousilaos 315₄ of Hesiod 315 1039 of Pherekydes of Syros 315 f. Orphic 1019 ff. Orphic (earliest) 316 422₅ 1020 ff. 1039 1050 f. Orphic (Hieronymos and Hellanikos) 349 422₅ 1022 ff. 1039 1051 Orphic (Rhapsodies) 316 448₁ 933₀ 1024 ff. 1039 1051
Theogoeion 734₃
Theophilés 1168
 Theriomorphic conceptions of Arcadian goddesses 691 f. (?) of Asklepios 1082 ff. of Oidipous 1151 ff. of soul 645 1047 1087 1111 f. 1132 1174 of thunder and lightning 828 of Zeus Κτήσιος 1061 of Zeus Μειλχιος 1107 1112 1173 of Zeus Σάωτης 1151 (?) of Zeus Φίλιος 1173
Thiasos of Agathos Daimon 925₀ 1129₀ of Aphrodite 1157₃ of Athena 925₀ of Dionysos 925₀ 1157₃ of δροιφόροι 411₆ of Hermes 1157₃ τῶν Κισίων 246₁ of πρωτόφοροι 411₆ Σεβαζιανός 879₀₍₀₎ 884₀₍₀₎ of Theos Hypsistos 885₀₍₀₎ of Zeus Ἀραβύριος 1157₃ of Zeus Λαβράνδος 585₀ of Zeus Μειλχιος (Μιλχιος) 1108 1157₃ of Zeus Ἐψιστος 882₀₍₀₎ See also Index I Agathodaimonistai, Agathodaimonistai, Aphrodisiastai Syroi, Athanaistai, Dionysiastai, Dionysiastai Eurythemidioi, Diosatabyriastai, Diosmilichiasai, Hermaizontes
 Thiele, G. 430₂ 862 1025
 Thiersch, F. 1133₀ 1148₂
 Thiersch, H. 895₀ 937₀
 Thigh, golden, of Pythagoras 223 ff.
 Thigh-pieces 950₀ 1188
 Thistle 775₀
Tholos-tombs of Asklepios at Trikke (?) 1088 of Minyas at Orchomenos in Boiotia 1150 of Trophonios at Lebadeia (?) 1074 1076 1088
 Thomopoulos, I. 404₂ 560₁
 Thompson, D'Arcy W. 275₃ 519₀ 524₃ 676₃ 691₂ 692 751₂ 781₁ 998₁ 1087 1131₂ 1132₁
 Thompson, H. B. 791₃
 Thompson, M. S. 494₂ 1088
 Thompson, R. Campbell 482 f. 1219
 Thoms, W. J. 703₂
 Thomson, J. A. K. 458₅ 691 f.
 Thorns 1166₁ (?)
 Thorn-trees venerated in Oise 403₀
 Thraemer, E. 199₂ 954₀ 955₀ 1076 f. 1078 1086 f. 1088 1090 Threatening of barren tree 681 f.
 Three as a perfect number 1123₇ 1124₀ as a typical plurality 893₀ gods of the name Zeus (Iupiter) distinguished 941₀ sacred trees on 'Minoan' gem 938₀
 Three-bodied monster 805₆ 1225
 Three-eyed xóanon of Zeus at Argos 892₅ 1144₂
 Throne, golden 1016 of Agathos Daimon 1125₁ of Ananke 129₁ of Asklepios 1079 of Pelops 956₂ of Satan 955₀ of Wodan 62₁ of Zeus 94₂ 735 737 838 1082 1122 1131 of Zeus Μειλχιος (= emperor) 1092₃ rock-cut 838 956₂ 962₂ with kneeling Giants on foreposts 812 with lions on foreposts 810 with sphinxes and rams' heads on arms 1082 1105
 Throne-cult 893₂
 Throne-legs 760₂
Thronismós (Thrónos) 120₃ 940₀ cp. 838
 Thulin, C. O. 338₃ 339₀ 641₃ 725₀ 805 827₆
 Thumb, A. 413₁ 723₀ 1069 f. 1096₁
 Thunder as chariot of Zeus 830 as horse of Zeus 830 as inarticulate sound proceeding from Zeus 851 as music 839₆ as sound caused by chariot of Zeus 830 ff. 851 as sound uttered by Zeus 829 as voice of God 829 chthonian 641 805₆ 829 838 common on Phrygian uplands 835 granted to epic heroes 8 in relation to Zeus 827 ff. made by green winged horse 1003 1017 made by heavy bronze hammers (mallei Ioviales) 620 mimetic 838 f. 852 934₀ 938₀ personified 28 828 851
 Thunders worshipped at Bathos 827 worshipped by Orphists 141₁ 827
 Thunderbolt as boy with torch (?) 784₂ as lotos-bud plus lotos-bud 776 ep. 746₂ as lotos-flower 771 ep. 774 as lotos-flower plus lotos-bud 776 as lotos-flower plus lotos-flower 776 as scourge 824 ff. as small male figure 784 bound with fillet and resting on stool 809 850 ep. 810 from the blue 6₂ from the eyes of Zeus 503 gradual elimination of 722 ff. 848 held by Zeus Ὀρκιος in either hand 722 726 f. 848 f. made of gold 809 810 modifications in shape of 764 ff. 849 f. of Zeus 722 ff. of Zeus in relation to fork (?) of Hades 798 ff. 850 of Zeus in relation to trident of Poseidon 786 ff. 850 of Ziu 75₁ (?) 76 on coins of Olympia 780 f. on sandal 1227 resting on stool 809 810 850 resting on tripod 816₄ serpentineform 781 set upright on throne 810 851 shaped like fly 781 spiral 751 849 'star-flung' 119₁ tridentiform 789 twisted 819₀₍₅₎ winged 777 779 1187₄ winged, with human bust attached 1054 with barbed prongs 784 f. with wings furled 781 with wings half-closed 781 with wings spread 780 f. worshipped at Diokaisareia in Kilikia 810 worshipped at Selenkeia Pieria 809
 Thunder-drum (?) of Ziu 83
 Thunder-flowers 774₄ 775₀ 850
 Thunder-stone used in purification 835
 Thunderstorm as repetition of Titanomachy 827 evoked by divine king 8 Thunder-truffles 775₀
hymniatérion 407₀ 630

- Thýrsos* 154₀ 261 ff. 461₀ 1128₀ surmounted by eagle 1178
- Tiara 386
- Tiger as form of Dionysos or Zagreus 1030 in folk-tale from Kypros 996
- Tigers, kratér flanked by 699₄ (?)
- Tillyard, E. M. W. 299₅
- Tillyard, H. J. W. 322₄
- Timbrel 262 299 300 306₅ 852 eating food from, significance of 345₆ made of bull's hide 345₆ made of wolf's skin 345₆ See also Týmpanon
- Titanomachy 827₇
- Titmouse 463₁
- Tocilescu, G. G. 112₁
- Tod, M. N. 101₁
- Toelken, E. H. 321
- Töpffer, J. 130₂ 251₀ 730₀ 817₀ 1092₃ 1103₄ 1123
- Toeppen, M. 92₃
- Tolstoi, J. 639₁
- Tomaschek, W. 251₀ 270₄ 276₇ 276₉ 276₁₀ 277₁ 458₁ 822
- Tomassetti, G. 419 f. 420₁
- Tomb of Apollon 221 225 of Dionysos 218 ff. 231 239 841 of the Great Ox called Zeus 342₀ 345 354 of Pikos δ kai Zeus 342₀ 694₀ 695₀ 697₀ 943₀ of Zan 341₆ 345 354 940₀ 942₀ 945₀ of Zeus 219 341₆ 354 940₀ ff.
- Tomb-chapel 521
- Tombstones, Danish, marked with Thor's hammer 547₀ Gallic, dedicated sub ascia 547₀ Phrygian, dedicated to Zeus Βροντῶν 836 Roman, with duplicated Attis 308 Terressian, protected by Zeus Σολυμεύς 973₁
- Tongs 660₀ 667 1054
- Tops 1030
- Torch between corn-ears 1158₆ bound to Diana-pillar 153₀ 154₀ ep. 152₀ bound to horns of wild bull 1015 of Artemis 412 882₀₍₀₎ 1214 (?) of Dionysos 882₀₍₀₎ (?) of Eros 309 of Etruscan demon 803 of Hekate 714₂ 882₀₍₀₎ (?) of Helios 478 of Iuno 59 of Persephone 882₀₍₀₎ (?) of Thracian goddess 820 (?) thrust into solar wheel 990
- Torches bound to Diana-pillar 152₀ in rites of Mountain-mother 934₀ in rites of Sarapis 1158 of Apaté 854 of Artemis 187₄ (?) 488₀₍₃₎ (?) of Demeter 488₀₍₃₎ (?) of Hekate 146₃ (?) 187₄ (?) of Kore 1117₇ of Maenad 265 on altar of Mater deum and Attis 306₅
- Torch-bearing females 146 maiden 187₄ 1229
- Torch-holders 930₀
- Torii 431₃
- Torp, A. 279₀ 570₀
- Torques 377
- Torr, C. 923₀
- Tortoise beneath foot of Aphrodite Ὀδρῶνία 68₁ beneath foot of Venus 68₁ in hand of Zeus 895₁
- Totenmahl* See Hero-feast
- Tournaire, A. 195₁
- Toutain, J. 371 554₃ 555₀ 712₁ 925₁ 926₀ 929₀
- Tower of Kronos 36 52 of Zan 178 spiral 128 1146₀ stepped 128 1146₀
- Toy, C. H. 1039
- Toys of Dionysos or Zagreus 1030
- Tozer, H. F. 905₀ 923₀ 977₁ f.
- Traquair, R. 1214
- 'Travelling clairvoyance' 206₀ (?)
- Tree as grafito on chalice of Antioch (?) 1200₃ as token of earth-goddess 677 848 barren, threatened 681 f. belongs primarily to earth-goddess, secondarily to sky-god associated with her 533 conventionalised into pillar 157₁ decked as maiden, mourned, and burnt in rites of Persephone 303₂ identified with goddess (Diana) 403₁ loved by C. Pasiensius Crispus 403₁ Music- 1012₁ sacred, associated with double axe 643 sacred, associated with double axe and bird 692 sacred, at Austa, felled by St Walericus 92₂ sacred, at Divlit near Koloë 975₀ sacred, at Romove 92₃ sacred, attacked by men with double axes 680 f. sacred, on bronze tablet from Psycho Cave 927₀ sacred, sheds blood 684 sacred, with female image in branches 680 f. Singing- 1012₁ supporting earth 56₂ supporting sky 56 166 three brothers spend night in 997
- Trees as life-tokens 1165₁ list of lucky 403₀ sacred, beside altar of Zeus Στρατίος 975₀ f. sacred, three on gem from Idaean Cave 938₀
- 'Tree-of-life' flanked by lions 930₀ with serpent in it 138₀
- Tree-spirit regularly female, as being a vegetable form of the earth-mother 303₂ with male consort to represent the sky-father 303₂
- Tree-trunk as effigy of Iupiter 109 as handle of double axe 517 f. 520 f. 528
- Tree-worship in Oise 403₀
- Tresp, A. 1056
- Trevor-Battye, A. 939₀ 939₁ 945₂ 946₀
- Triad of sacred trees 927₀ (?) 938₀ of Zeuses 878₀₍₃₎ (?) 1093₁
- Trident assimilated to thunderbolt 797 combined with double axe 577 ep. 532₁ convertible into bident 1225 four-pronged 788₀ lotiform 786 ff. of Apollon 570 f. of Çiva 790 f. of Iupiter Iutor 850 of Nereus 788₀ of Poseidon as fish-spear 786 790 f. 850 of Poseidon as lightning-fork 31₅ 789 ff. 850 of Poseidon as symbol of rule over third part of world (?) 786 of Poseidon in relation to thunderbolt of Zeus 786 ff. 850 of Zeus 577 with dolphin coiled about it 981₀ 1071
- Tridents, iron, worshipped in India 790 792

- Trident-mark of Poseidon on Akropolis at Athens 789 792 ff.
- Trieber, C. 696₀
- Trieteris*, Cretan (?) 934₀ Delphic 242 Dionysiac 242 f. prior to oktaeteris 242 f.
- Trinmotos* 995₂ 996
- Triplication of Greek oaths 730₀
- Tripod as celestial seat 204 as seat of Apollon 201 ff. as seat of the Pythia 206₂ 209₂ 213 841 as seat of Themis 205 f. 1217 as tomb of Apollon 221 225 Cirrhaean 214₁ composed of three lyres 660₀ dance round, at Delphoi 460 dedicated on pillar 199 Delphic 193 ff. 841 Delphic, containing divinatory pebbles 221 Delphic, containing Python's bones and teeth 221 Delphic, covered with Python's skin 221 Delphic, identified with Titanic caldron 1031 evolution of columnar 193 ff. 1216 in relation to Zeus 1216 made of plaster in shrine at Knossos 535 made of plastered earthenware in shrine at Gournia 538 of Dionysos 231 oracular, at Delphoi 677 Plataean 170₂ 193 ff. 1216 sacred, brought from Delphoi to Athens 816 f. stolen, wrapped in cloaks, and sent yearly by Boeotians to Delphoi 216 surmounted by thunderbolt 816₄ winged 205₁ with central stem 193 ff. with golden effigies of Asklepios, Hygieia, Telesphoros 1078
- Tripods, votive, from Palaiakastro 930₀
- Tripod-carrying 216₄ 816 f.
- Trisula* 790 790₂ 790₃
- Triton-shells 528 See also Shell-trumpet
- Triumphal arch See Arch, triumphal
- Triumphing general as embodiment of sky-god 361
- Trophy 108 ff. as image of Zeus 109 111₀ as prototype of La Turbie 109 ff. as prototype of the monument at Adamklissi 109 ff. from spoils of 'Marathon' at Delphoi 1137₂ of Gallic arms 110₃ 112₀ on coins of Licinius and his son 1195₂
- Trophy-cross See Trophy-stand
- Trophy-stand 572₁₀ 601 f. 613
- Tsountas, Ch. 49₁ 123₀ 539₂ 621₂ 622₂ 1061
- Tuchmann, J. 702₃
- Tucker, T. G. 1072
- Tümpel, K. 260₀ 691₅ 892₄ 957₂ 1102₄ 1148₆ 1150₅
- Türk 451₁ 500₉ 500₁₁
- Tunny in relation to Poseidon 786
- Turnips in relation to Zeus (?) 260₀
- Turtle, the Snapping, and Slingsby 1151
- Tutulus* 1170₈
- Twins as children of the sky 434 f. at Delos 452 bearded and beardless 451 in Africa 378 434 f. 1064 in relation to Zeus 422 ff. 843 in Roman historical tradition 440 ff. list of mythical 317 843 male and female 451 843 names of 1072 (?) produced from twofold sky 422
- Twins (cont.)
- 843 represented by Janiform statues (?)
- 378 strong and weak, in Indo-European saga 447 451 f. 843
- Tylor, E. B. 37 f. 88₃ 293₁ 546₀ 702₂ 829₃
- Týmpanon* in bronze from Idaean Cave 938₀ 939₀ of Agdistis 1229 See also Timbrel
- Tyrwhitt, R. St J. 1173₂
- Tzitzinaina* 1003 f. 1016 1018
- Ullmann, C. 885₀₍₂₈₎
- Ulrichs, H. N. 875₁₍₁₎ 876₁₍₁₎ 898₅ 901₂ 902₀
- Umbilical cord buried in modern Greece etc. 191 f. See also Omphalós
- Underworld conceived as feet of Zeus 1028 entrance to, at Eridu 483 exit from, on Mt Laphystion in Boiotia 899₁ exit from, at Lerna 1022 Lenke carried off to 468 f. Parmenides' visit to 43₁(?) Timarchos' visit to 1024 white-poplar on border of 471
- Unger, F. W. 106₂ 107₃
- Unger, G. F. 242₄ 315₂
- Unger, R. 970₀
- Unshod feet 922₀
- Ure, P. N. 699₅
- Ulrichs, K. L. von 405₃ 598₁
- Urn, agonistic 490₀₍₅₎ 491₀₍₀₎ 562 964₂ of river-god 478 1083 upset 478 with reed symbolises water 1050 1083
- Urquhart, D. 905₀
- Ursinus, Fulvius 856₃ 857₅
- Usener, H. 12₃ 13₁ 23 31 32₇ 92₃ 93₂ 189 280 314 363₆ 397₀ 445 445₁ 451₁ 488₀₍₀₎ 729₀ 730₀ 751₂ 779 789 793 793₁₀ 805 807₃₍₁₎ 807₅₍₆₎ 810 827₁ 851 855₁ 858₁ 892₄ 1013 1071 f. 1074 1122₃ 1122₅ 1142₁₁ 1160
- Ushabti* 1218
- Vaillant, J. F. 429₅
- Valckenaer, L. C. 294₀ 895₁
- Vaniček, A. 1037 1098₆
- Vases: amphorae of Dioskouroi 1062 ff. anthropoid 1056 'Apulian' 45 203₀ 244₄ 245₅ 246₀ 416 f. 777 780₁ 852 ff. 1019₂ 1124₀ 1159₁ 'Arretine' mould 473 ff. Attico-Ionian 712 f. 716 black-figured 123₀ 212₃ 379 381 435 627₆ 645₄ 661 710₁ 745₀ 753₃ 776 776₃ 785 788₀ 794₀ 799 896₀ 903₂ 929₀ black ware with reliefs 720 1129₀ 'Caeretan' hydriai 770 'Campanian' 45 734₃ 'Chalcidian' 731 771 Corinthian 896₀ 'Dareios'-vase 852 ff. 'Dipylon' 1056 1064 Early 'Minoan' 934₀ 'François'-vase 451₁ 831₁₍₃₎ 'Geometric' with incised inscriptions 1226 Ionian 123₀ 770 f. 788₀ 849 'Kamares'-ware 926₀ (See also Middle 'Minoan' ii) Late 'Minoan' 190₀ Late 'Minoan' i 527 637₆ 654₅ 934₀(?) 'Laconian' iv 745₀ 757 loutrophoroi 1056 1058 'Lucanian' 203₀ 721₇ 'Megarian' 903₂ Melian 453₃

Vases (cont.)

- Middle 'Minoan' i 934₀ 943₀ Middle 'Minoan' ii 926₀ 934₀ 943₀ Middle 'Minoan' iii 934₀ 943₀ 'Mycenaean' from Kypros 538 f. native ware from Apulia 541 ff. neolithic 934₀ of bronze 921₀ pitthoi 1056 próthesis-vases 1056 ff. Ptolemaic (blue porcelain) 157₀ 1216 red-figured 122₀ 197₁ 202₁ 205₁ 206₁ 206₂ 212₀ 212₄ 244₄ 245₀ 245₅ 246₀ 248₀ 258 261 ff. 379 f. 435 460₂ 627 627₆ 661 718 731 ff. 745₀ 753₃ 776₃ 777 777₂ 785₃ 800 804₀ 831₁₍₃₎ 896₀ 902₂ 1017₄ 1044 1077 1140₅ 1154 1155₉ 1155₁₀ 1167 1223 1225 relation between obverse and reverse designs 261₃ relief-ware from Athens 1129₀ relief-ware from Capua 720 relief-ware from Egypt 157₀ 1216 relief-ware from Karia 615 relief-ware from Nola 718 ff. relief-ware from Pergamon 157₀ relief-ware from Rhodes 614 f. rhytá 1216 rhytón 190₀ (lioness) 347₀ (goat) 1060 (goat) 1075 (bull) Tanagra-ware 123₀ terra sigillata 718 ff. 720 1205 Trojan 1056 with white ground 121₃
- Vegetation animated by souls of the dead 1172 vernal rites to revive 521
- Veils over face of giant 994
- Venables, E. 602₁ 604₄ 607
- Verbena*, 'vervain' 397₀ 398₀
- Verbenae*, 'sacred plants' 1170
- Verrall, A. W. 237₀ 345₅
- Versace, F. 1071
- Vervain 395₂ called Διός ἡλακάρη 396₀ 397₀ 775₀ compared with oak 395₂ 396₀ described by Dioskorides 395₂ described by Pliny 395₂ used to sweep Jupiter's table 395₂ 397₀
- Viergötterstein* 57 ff. 89 93 ff.
- Vigfusson, G. 533₂
- Vigouroux, F. 426₅ 427₂
- Vine, golden 281₄ 1184₃ 1217 in myth of Ganymedes 281₄ in myth of Priamos 281₄ in myth of Telephos 281₄ 1184₃ in myth of Tithonos 281₄ in relief of Asdoules 270₃ lucky 403₀ of Rhea (?) 515 on altars of Zeus Βροντῶν 836 on gold ring from Mykenai 515 (?) on tombstones from Altyntash 836 white 612 with double stem 1199 1205
- Vines gradually stylised 1205 on Christian sarcophagi 1050
- Vine-branch of Dionysos 1133₁
- Vine-leaves on columns as Syrian motif 73₀ on Jupiter-columns 71 on skíphos of open-work silver 1204
- Vine-scroll in Catacomb of Praetextatus 1206 on Roman mirror 1205₆ on terra sigillata 1205₄
- Vine-staff of Zeus Αἰτναῖος 909₀
- Vine-tendrils on skíphos of open-work lead 1204
- Vine-wood used for face of Dionysos Βακχέος 1093₀
- Vine-wreath of Hera at Argos 515 on 'Apulian' vase 1124₀ on Rhodian coins (?) 470₀
- Vinet, E. 868₄
- Vintage in relief of Asdoules 270₃ of Erotes 1050 on 'Arretine' ware 476₁
- Violets in myth of Attis 970₀ in rites of Attis 303₂
- Virginity of Pythia 209₃ pleasing to Artemis 1029
- Vischer, W. 814₀
- Visconti, C. L. 147₅ 297₁ 297₃ 297₅ 298₃ 299₂ 400₁₁
- Visconti, E. Q. 301₂ 388₈ 802
- Visick, C. H. C. 648₁
- Visser, M. W. de 147₁ 160₃ 981₀ 1132₆
- Vitet, E. 379₃ 380₀ 380₁ 380₂
- Vogüé, C. J. M. de 885₀₍₂₉₎ 886₀₍₁₀₎
- Voigt, F. A. 238₃ 268₃
- Voigt, J. 93₁
- Vollgraff, C. W. 173₄ 243₃ 455₆ 477₀ 599 1218 1226
- Vopel, H. 606₁
- Voretzsch, H. 723₀ 946₀
- Voss, I. 665₀
- Votive offerings affixed to pillar 143 146 149 152₀ 153₀ 154₀ 157₀ hung from bough 157₁ hung on wall 1077 lying on altar 154₀ magnify the god 46₂ repeat the pattern of local chose sacrée 198 f.
- Vowels used in incantation 612₁
- Vürtheim, J. 232₄ 1075
- Vulture in myth of Melampous 684 in myth of Periphas 1122
- Vultures in myth of Romulus and Remus 440₅
- Wace, A. J. B. 101₁ 142₁ 494₂ 758₀ 1088 1214 1221
- Wachsmuth, C. 855₁ 856₂ 857₅ 858₄
- Wackermann, G. 1170₅
- Wada, T. 431₃
- Waddington, W. H. 580₄ 707₂₋₅ 975₀
- Waele, F. J. M. de 1222
- Wagener, A. 285₀
- Wagler, P. 93₁ 110₀ 411₁
- Wagner, E. 77₀ 79₂ 80₂
- Wagner, J. M. 152₀
- Wagner, R. 272₅
- Waites, Miss M. C. 1159₁
- Walde, A. 340₂ 341₀ 404₂ 421₈ 631₀ 631₁ 724₀ 947₀ 1173₁
- Waldmann, F. 493₂
- Waldstein, Sir C. See Walston, Sir C.
- Waller, J. G. 136₄
- Wallis, G. H. 392₈ 392₉ 393₄
- Walnut called 'acorn of Iupiter' (iuglans) 775₀
- Walnut-trees venerated in Oise 403₀
- Walston (Waldstein), Sir C. 893₂ 1136₀
- Walters, H. B. 157₀ 367₁ 461₀ 473₁ 475₅ 476₁ 542₂ 543₁ 649₄ 712₂ 713₁ 746₂ 752₆ 753₁ 786 f. 831₁₍₃₎ 831₁
- Wand, golden, in folk-tales 990 992 994₄
- Ward, W. H. 161₆ 546₀ 765₁ 767₁

- Waser, O. 99, 309₃ 315₃ 504₁ 641₂ 642₀
645₄ 803 1025 1045 f. 1050 1087 1160₅
- Water as gift to the dead 977₀ 1056 1058 as primal element 1021 1022 as seminal fluid of deity 306₄ Dancing 1008 f.
1101 f. 1016 healing 115 in Indian cosmogony 1035 f. 1039 of immortality 1004 of life 1005 1012₁ salt, appears far inland at Athens, Mantinea, and Mylasa 581 salt, changes its nature 581 salt, in relation to Zeus 581 ff. 616₁ symbolised by reed and urn 1050 1083
- Water-divinities 393 f. (?) 399 (?) See also River-god
- Waterhouse, C. O. 124₂
- Water-mint, aphrodisiac properties of 1165₁ 1166₀ at Greek weddings 1164
- Water-snake 833₀ See also Index I Hydra
- Watkins, W. A. 1205
- Waxen man in charm to secure wealth
1127₀
- Weapon-worship 544 ff. 548₁ 1132₀
- Weather in relation to Zeus 1 ff. 840
- Weather-forecasts 482
- Weaving in Chinese myth 66₀ 479₁₀ in relation to Athena 66₀ 1029 in relation to Minerva 66₀
- Weber, Sir H. 657
- Weber, O. 482₇
- Weber, S. 1050
- Weber, W. 986₀
- Wedd, N. 1178₃
- Week, days of the 69 ff.
- Weicker, G. 721, 782₁ 1150₂
- Weil, H. 12 243₃
- Weil, R. 759₁
- Weinreich, O. 1085 1228
- Weizsäcker, P. 437₀ 625₅ 1123
- Welcker, F. G. 160₃ 164₀ 315₁ 315₂ 350₄
385₇ 498 693₁ 697₂ 706₅ 786 800 802
802₇ 868₀ 877₀₍₁₀₎ 878₀₍₃₎ 954₀ 1069 1072
1087 1131₂
- Well, holy, associated with holy tree 88 in garden of Zeus 1119 of St Michael 115 See also Fountain, Spring, Water
- Wellmann, M. 230₁ 447₇ 782₁ 1122₃
- Wells, J. 311₀ 436₃ 455₁
- Weltenmantel 1137₀
- Welter, G. 1229 f.
- Wending, E. 76₁
- Weniger, L. 238₁ 242₀ 262₃ 466 928₀ 1151₇
- Wentzel, G. 160₃ 872₀₍₅₎ 1122₂
- Were-wolves 414₂
- Wernicke, K. 102₀ 115₂ 160₃ 212₃ 241₃ 264₂
264₃ 380₂ 410₁ 453 484₂ 486₃ 501 630₂
692₁ 744₃ 752 753₂ 786₀ 878₀₍₅₎ 1070
1088 1098₀ 1100₁ 1125₁
- Wessely, C. 410₀
- West, E. W. 1036
- Whatmough, J. 331₀ 342₀ 444₀ 1220
1226
- Wheat mixed with honey to make pyra- mides 1162 mixed with honey and sesame to make élapkos 1140₄ offered to Apollon Ἐλέρωπ 223₃
- Wheaten flour 1140₄ See also Meal
- Wheaten straw used in sacrifice by women of Thrace and Paionia 500 f. wrapped round Hyperborean offerings 497 498₂
- Wheel as Corallian standard 108 as solar emblem in bronze and iron ages 109₁ magical 1030 of Fortuna 57₀ of Iupiter 57₀ of Kairos 863₁ of Mars 57₀ of Nemesis 1095₀ of personification of the Course 479 of Phaethon's car 473 of Ziu 77 f. solar 109₁ 473 624 (?) 990
- Wheels of bronze dedicated to Semo Sancus (Sangus) 724₀ winged 866
- Wheeler, J. R. 597₂
- Whip, Corcyraean, at Dodona 826 of Archigallus 300 f. of Eros 1048 of Kairos 863₁ of Zeus 260₀ 824 ff. 851 strung with knuckle-bones 300
- Whisper of worshipper heroified or deified as Psithyros 1044
- White garments worn in precinct on Mt Kynthos 922₀ ladder in dream of Brother Leo 1215 ox sacrificed to Zeus
Κτήσιος 1065 1067 stone in folk-tale of Kyklops 989 victims sacrificed to Zeus
Ἀκραιός 871₃₍₁₎
- White, H. G. Evelyn 1154₄ 1211 f.
- Whitehouse, O. C. 426₅
- White-poplar as substitute for storax
492₀₍₁₀₎ brought by Herakles from Acheron 469 brought by Herakles from Thesprotia 467 843 grows beside Acheron 467 ff. in land of Chalybes 472 in Elysian fields 469 in story of Astraios 230 names of, in Greek, Latin, and English 471₁ sacred to Hades 471 sacred to Helios 469 470₀ sacred to Herakles 469 symbolism of 469₁ 471 the finest tree in modern Greece 470 turns its leaves at solstice 470₀ used at Olympia for sacrifice to Pelops 471 used at Olympia for sacrifice to Zeus 467 cp. 471 wreath of, in rites of chthonian Dionysos 471 wreath of, worn by victors at Athens and in Kos 470 wreath of, worn by victors in Rhodes 469
- Whittaker, E. T. 1017₄
- Wick, F. C. 124₄
- Wickhoff, F. 1050 1181₀
- Wide, S. 123₀ 413₃ 692 693₃ 891₀ 1069
1102₀ 1218
- Wiedemann, A. 544₃
- Wiedemann, O. 570₀
- Wiegand, T. 757₁
- Wiener, L. 79₁
- Wieseler, F. 23₇ 102₀ 124₁ 161₂ 195₁ 197₁
221₅ 372₃ 372₄ 476₁₂ 478₃ 478₄ 491₀₍₆₎
717₂ 744₃ 802₃ 802₁₀
- Wieten, J. H. 118₂ 118₃ 119₀ 119₁ 120₃
- Wilamowitz-Moellendorf, U. von 249₂
296₄ 385₀ 451₁ 453 455 ff. 476₁₂ 496₀
627, 641₂ 854₀ 856₂ 856₃ 857₁ 857₂ 857₄
857₅ 858₁₋₃ 873₀₍₁₁₎ 878₀₍₈₎ 899₁
- Willeken, U. 987₀

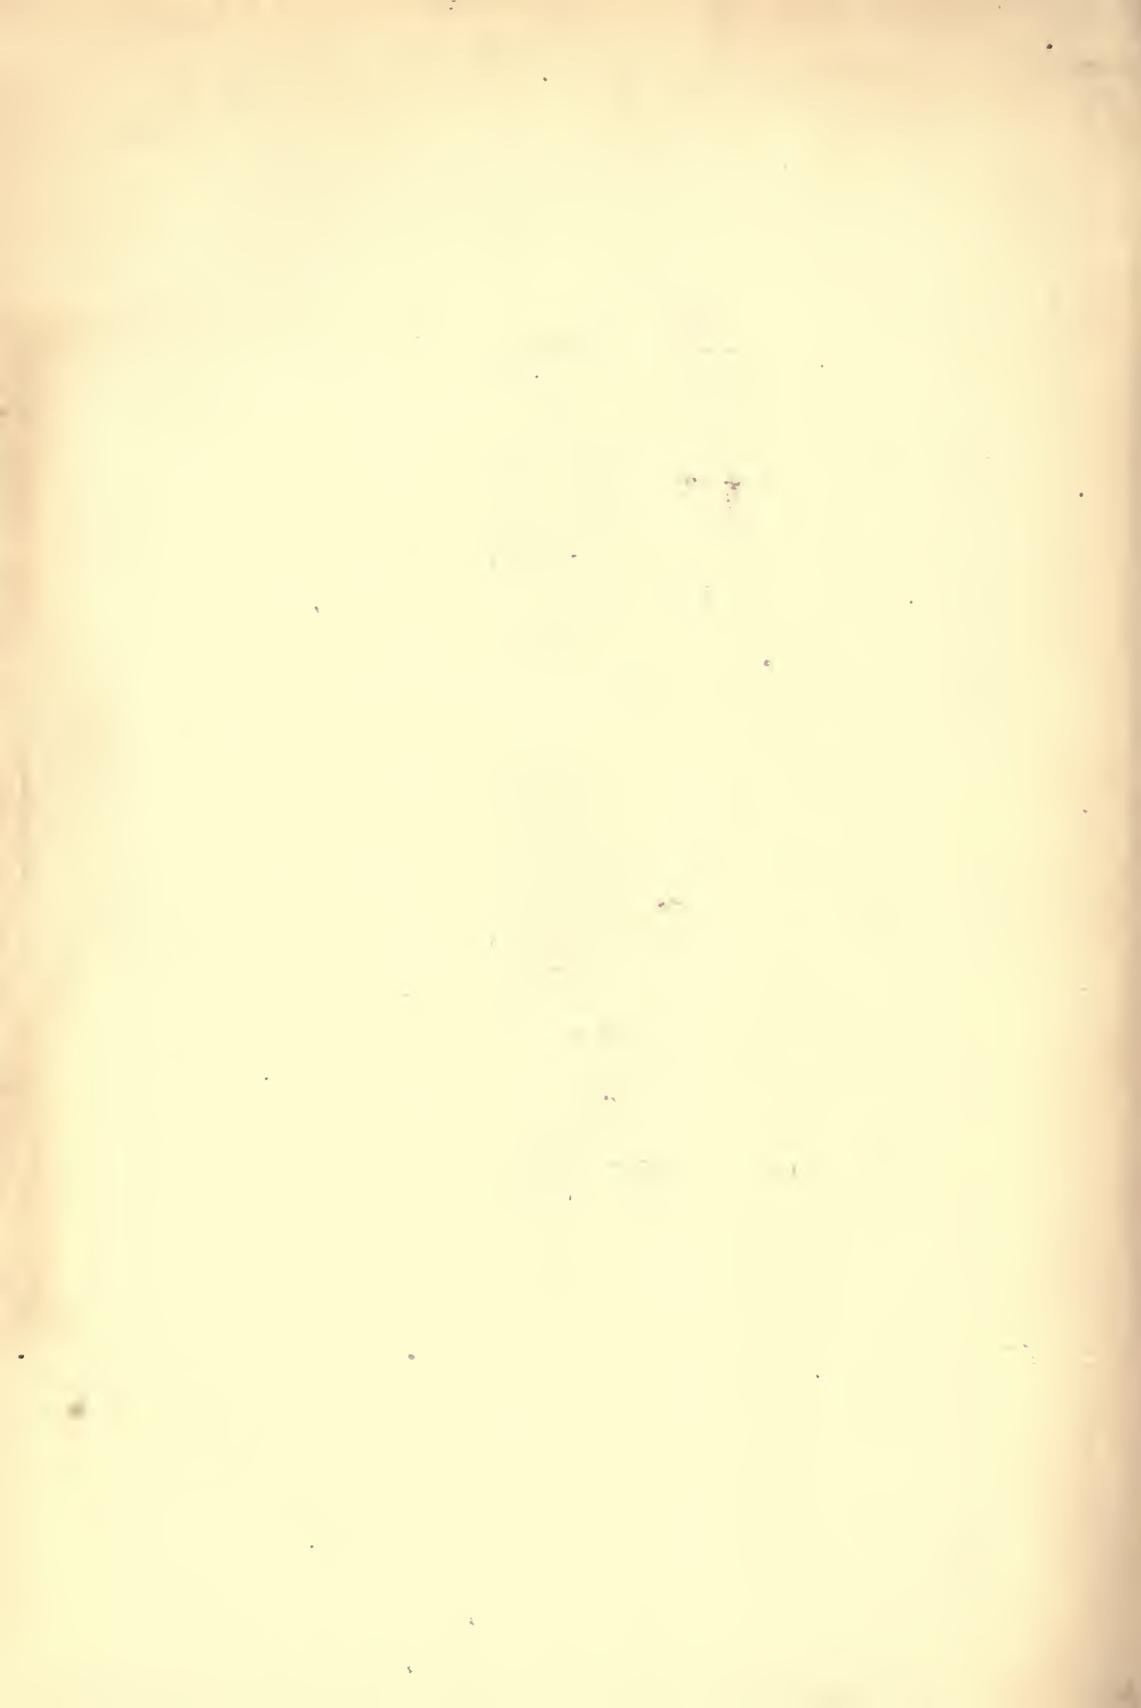

- Wild Hunt compared with myth of Phaethon 483 f. compared with Platonic myth 63₀ led by Wodan 62₁ 69
- Wild-olive a southern plant 466 501 in land of Hyperboreoi (?) 466 at Olympia 466 f. on the Saronic Gulf 466 at Troizen 466 in myth of Herakles 466 f. 501 in myth of Hippolytos 415 f. wreath of, worn by Antiochos iv Epiphanes 1189 wreath of, worn by victors at Olympia 490₍₅₎
- Wilhelm, A. 115₃ 411 561₉ 646₄ 880₍₁₉₎ 900₀
- Wilisch, E. 721₁
- Wilkinson, Sir J. G. 622₃
- Williams, Blanche E. 538₂
- Willow-tree at Gortyna 946₀ at Phaistos 946₀ 947₀ fruit-bearing, in mouth of Idaean Cave 932₁ in folk-song from Epeiros 829 turns its leaves at solstice 470₀
- Willow-trees in woods of Persephone 472
- Will-power in relation to magic 1042 f.
- Willson, St J. B. Wynne 503₂
- Wilpert, J. 1207
- Wilson, C. T. R. 779
- Wilson, Sir C. W. 888₍₀₀₎
- Winckelmann, J. J. 319 405₃ 798₂ 838₈
- Wind, primeval 1039
- Winds worshipped by Orphists 141₁ 827
See also Index I Venti
- Wind-egg laid by Nyx 1039
- Window in eastern sky 62₁
- Windows in temple of Zeus at Labranda 590
- Wine as offering to the dead 1056 as offering to Jupiter Dapalis 1172₄ as recent invention 670 offerings without 1097₂ poured on pyre of Zeus Σεράριος 974₁ 977₀ unmixed, drunk in name of Agathos Daimon 1125 1129₀
- Wine-jar as boat of Eros 1047
- Winged cap of Hermes 388 718 of Mercurius 70₁ (?) of Perseus 718
- Wings, archaistic 862 black 1020 1050 deities with four 544 552 f. deities with six 552 golden 1020 1050 hung up like weapons 719 of Ahriman 1053 f. of Boreas 380 of Chronos 1022 of Dionysos 388 of Eros 1020 1039 ff. of Kairos 859 ff. 863₁ (?) of Kalais 444 of Kronos 552 f. of Nyx 1020 1050 of Phanes 1051 of Psyche 1050 of words 1039 of Zetes 444 of Zeus 1028 on cap or hat 70₁ (?) 388 718 on head 388 on shoulders and heels of axe-bearing sky-god (?) 544
See also Caduceus, Sandals, Thunderbolt, Wheels and Index I Gorgones, Harpyiai, Iris, Nike, Pegasos, etc.
- Winnefeld, H. 739₃ 739₄
- Wissowa, G. 13₁ 30₂ 46₀ 99₃ 99₄ 100₁ 328₅ 339₆ 339₆ 352₂ 353₆ 365₁ 404₁ 554₃ 555₀ 643₃ 724₀ 726₀ 805₈ 808₍₀₁₇₎ 1059 1170₅ 1172₀ 1173₁ 1226
- Witches cause death of two Jewish maidens (?) 880₍₁₉₎ hold 'Sabbaths' on the four cross-quarter days 326 of southern France worship Janiform devil 326 organisation of, in western Europe 326₂ 1218
- Witte, J. de 69₅ 287₀ 733₃ 734₀ 785₂ 1042
- Wochengötterstein* 69 ff. 89 1213
- Wölflin, H. 359₁
- Woeste, F. 643₇
- Wolf as emblem of river Lykos 572₂ (?) bites feet of dancers 138₀ called δαός in Phrygia 312₅ statue of, at Rome 46 suckles Romulus and Remus 46 443 f. 1016 worshipped as Δαός (?) 312₅ worshipped as Λυκ(ά)βας (?) Σώζων 312₅ worshipped at Lykon polis 987₀
- Wolves on Mt Parnassos 901₂ 902₀ on Mt Pelion 870₀ See also Were-wolves
- Wolf, F. A. 353₁
- Wolf, J. W. 482₅
- Wolf's head on belt-hooks 432₃ on sacrificial axe 632
- Wolf-serpents Hati and Sköll 305₀
- Wolters, P. 122₀ 199₂ 212₀ 393₂ 469₂ 538₅ 862₀ 865₂
- Women excluded from cult of Theos Megas, Zeus Kάσιος, and Tachnepsis 985₀ excluded from Mithraic rites 1053 excluded from race founded by Amphisso in honour of Dryope 486 slide down rock to obtain children 1114
- Wood for sacrifice to Pelops obtained from 'woodman' of Zeus 471 for sacrifice to Zeus Σεράριος carried by kings of Pontos 974₁
- Wood, J. T. 592 594
- Woodcock 1087
- Woodpecker as form of Cretan Zeus 524 as god in Italy 696₀ as king in Italy 696₀ black 518₃ (?) compared with hoopoe 692 1131₂ compared with jay 523 f. in Mesopotamia 696₀ in north Africa 697₀ names of 692₀ 693₃ 696₀ 697₀ on pillar 1133₁ 1230 tends Romulus and Remus 1016 See further Index I Picus, Pikos who is also Zeus
- Woodward, A. M. 496₀
- Woodwork from Kasion in Egypt 984₄
- Wool, bosom of Attis covered with 970₀ white, prophylactic wreathing with 1056 1058
- Woolen clothing, taboo on 985₀ effigies of Lares 1171₂ feet of the gods 1171₂
- Woolley, C. L. 1197₈ 1198₀
- Words conceived as having wings 1039
- World conceived as Zeus 1028 f. created by Phanes and re-created by Zeus 1033 egg-shaped and originally an egg 1033 1035 figured by Egyptians as circle of air and fire with hawk-headed snake (Kneph) across it 1127₀ worshipped by Orphists 141₁ 827
- World-empires, relation of four 696₀
- World-pillar See Sky-pillar

- World-tree in Eridu 483 (?) in France, Germany, etc. 88₃ at Rome 365₄ (?)
- Worsaae, J. J. A. 618₁
- Worshippers akin to their god (Zeus Πατρώος) 950₀
- Wreath of bay 244 266 388 390 597₃ 714₂ 751₂ 756₁ 924₀ 1187₄ 1192 f. 1223 of corn 370 of fir 949₅ of flowers 405 407₀ of ivy 388 390 909₀ of lilies 740 of oak 348 388 411₆ 412 417₅ 763₁ 951₀ 1187₄ of olive 323₁ 1029 of pine 951₀ of poplar 388₈ of selinon (?) 1187₀ of thorns (?) and acorns 1166₁ of vine-shoots 515 of white-poplar 469 ff. of wild-olive 490₀₍₅₎
- Wroth, W. 16₁ 491₀₍₀₎ 491₀₍₆₎ 572₅ 662 706₁ 742₇ 809₇ 961₀ 978₀ 983₀ 1042 1079 1089
- Wünsch, R. 504₃ 512 512₂ 540
- Wulff, O. 627₃ 627₄
- Wundt, W. 504 f. 1039 1087
- Xanthoudides, S. A. 623₄ 637 931₀
- Xenelasia* 1101₃
- Xóanon* 1196₂ made of lucky tree stripped of its bark 1172₂ of Zeus Φολίος at Antiocheia on the Orontes 1196
- Year, Celtic, from May to November 326₄ (éniavros) formerly of eight years' (ετη) duration 241₂ Zeus nurtured in Dicaetan Cave for a 928₀ See also Priest-
- Year (cont.)
- hood, annual tenure of and Index I New Year's Day
- Yellow in Ophite diagram 611₂ stuff (?), prophylactic wreathing with 1056 1058
- Yoke as symbol of Janus Quirinus (?) 364₁ rite of passing under 359₆ 364
- Yorke, V. W. 827₂
- Zakóros* 921₀ 922₀
- Zander, C. M. 329₀₍₅₎ 337₄
- Zangemeister, C. 813₂
- Zeller, E. 855₂ 1023 1024
- Ziebarth, E. 727₃ 729₀ 730₀ 881₀₍₂₁₎ 882₀₍₀₎
- Ziehen, J. 1088
- Ziehen, L. 18₄ 1066
- Zielinski, T. 453
- Zigzags 639 641 847
- Zikkurat* 128 142₂
- Zimmermann, A. 1159₁
- Zimmern, H. 510₅
- Zingerle, J. 94₃
- Zinzow, A. 1045
- Zodiac 1051 1053
- Zoeckler, O. 607₄
- Zoega, G. 160₀ 164₂
- Zoistic conception of burning sky 11 f. of day-light sky 840 of sky I of thunder-bolt 11 ff. 807 814
- Zoögonny, Egyptian 1023 See also Anthropogony, Cosmogony, Theogonies
- Zvetaieff, J. 118₃

PRINTED IN GREAT BRITAIN
BY W. LEWIS AT THE
CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

26 University of Toronto

Library

DO NOT REMOVE
THE CARD FROM THIS POCKET

Acme Library
Under Pat "R"
Made by LIBR

BL
820
J8C66 1914
V.2PT.2
C.1
ROBA

